In 1957, the late Alfred G. and Matilda R. Wilson donated $2 million and their 1,500-acre Meadow Brook Farms estate, 30 miles north of Detroit, to Michigan State University to establish a college in Oakland County. Classes began in 1959 with 570 first-year students. In 1970, Oakland University became an independent public university, and its formal association with Michigan State ended.

Today, with some 27,000 graduates, Oakland University enrolls 12,000 students in its bachelor's, master's and doctoral degree programs. The 24-member charter faculty has grown to more than 400, 90 percent of whom hold earned doctorates.

With distinct instructional programs (College of Arts and Sciences, School of Economics and Management, School of Engineering and Computer Science, School of Human and Educational Services, School of Nursing, Center for Health Sciences), the institution offers a diverse curriculum of general education and specific career fields. Virtually all courses are taught by faculty members, not teaching assistants.

Academic support facilities include such notable entities as the Institute of Biological Sciences (which includes the V. Everett Kinsey Memorial Laboratory, the only major eye research center in the United States not connected with a medical school), the exercise physiology laboratory and the Center for Robotics and Advanced Automation. The Honors College was established to meet the educational needs of highly motivated students.

MEN'S BASKETBALL COACHING STAFF

GREG KAMPE Head Coach

Greg Kampe, charged with making Oakland University's men's basketball program one of the finest in Michigan, brings a winning tradition to the university.

Kampe, 28 years old, spent six years as an assistant coach at the University of Toledo in Toledo, Ohio, before replacing Lee Frederick as head basketball coach last March.

Toledo's basketball program ranks third at the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) level, with 25 consecutive winning seasons. Only two schools, the University of California-Los Angeles (UCLA) and Louisville, have had more consecutive winning seasons.

Kampe's Toledo program stressed academics as well as athletics. In the past 18 years, 91 percent of Toledo's basketball athletes have received degrees, with 33 percent earning graduate degrees. The Toledo Rockets have produced four Academic All-Americans and twelve Academic All-League players.

During Kampe's six years at Toledo, the Rockets captured three Mid-American Conference (MAC) basketball championships and compiled a 117-57 overall record. They participated in two NCAA tournaments and one National Invitational Tournament (NIT).

Kampe believes in strong defense and his offensive approach is a patient one that plays for high-percentage shots. His offense works hard at freeing players for good percentage shots with screens and precise passing.

A 1978 graduate of Ohio's Bowling Green State University (BGSU) with a bachelor's degree in business and journalism, Kampe started his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Toledo before accepting a full-time assistant coach position in 1979. He later acquired a Master's of Arts degree in physical education from the University of Toledo.

Kampe is the only athlete in MAC history to be named first-team All-Academic in both football and basketball. Besides being on the dean's list at BGSU with an overall cumulative 3.4 grade point average, he received the President's Award as an outstanding student.

Kampe's father, Kurt, was a starting right guard on the University of Michigan's 1947 Rose Bowl championship team, which was undefeated in ten games. His brother, Kurt Jr., was a two-year letter winner in 1974-75 for the University of Michigan Wolverines.

JAY LEHMAN Assistant Coach

Jay Lehman, a four-year starter at point guard for the University of Toledo, recently joined the Oakland University men's basketball coaching staff as a full-time assistant coach under head coach Greg Kampe.

Toledo posted an 86-30 record, won three Mid-American Conference (MAC) championships and appeared in two NCAA Division I basketball championship tournaments and one National Invitational Tournament (NIT) with Lehman directing the offense.

The 25-year-old Lehman earned a bachelor's degree in education and coached for two years at Toledo Catholic Central. His duties at Oakland will involve scouting, recruiting and on-floor assignments.

WALT STUDINGER Assistant Coach

Walt Studinger enters his second season as an assistant coach for men's basketball. A full-time teacher at Lake Orion High School, Studinger will scout opponents and handle some recruiting areas in Detroit.

Studinger played college basketball at Wayne State University.

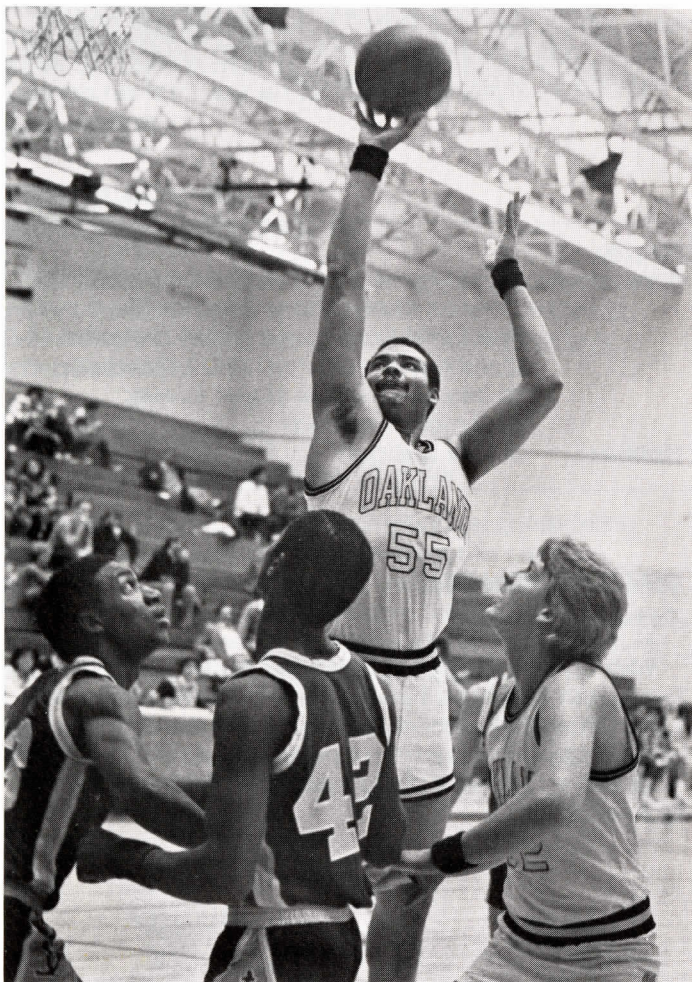

Oakland University's men's basketball program underwent a major overhaul last spring when new coach Greg Kampe, a former assistant coach at the University of Toledo in Toledo, Ohio, assumed control of its program.

Major changes in the offensive and defensive approach to the game and more aggressive rebounding should make the Oakland University Pioneers an exciting team to watch in 1984-85. Kampe, only the fifth coach in Oakland's basketball history, replaced Lee Frederick last March.

The Pioneers were 13-14 under Frederick last year. Four players graduated from the squad, including the nation's 34th best scorer, Mike Mohn, who averaged 20.1 points per game and finished his career as the third best all-time scorer in Pioneer history.

Kampe will have plenty of work to do this fall. He wants to implement a new offense and change the Pioneers' defensive approach to the game. Putting together a new game plan will be a bit easier because a full-time assistant coach for men's basketball, Jay Lehman—a player for Kampe at Toledo—will help insert the Pioneer game plan.

Walt Dixon (55)

Offensively, Chris Howze, who ranks among the top all-time scorers in the school's history after just two years with 832 points, should provide consistent offense. Three other players who started last year, point guard Rob Skinner, shooting guard Craig Mitchell and center Jenny Vrij, also return to provide Kampe with a good foundation.

Historically, the Pioneer offense has scored on just about every team in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC), but the problem has been a lack of solid defense. The shift to a more defensive-oriented program should help the Pioneers. Kampe also figures to slow down the offense and attack opposing defenses with a patterned offense.

An outstanding recruiting class that includes two All-State players should help Kampe continue implementing his system in the next several years. Scott Bittinger, a point guard who made just 41 turnovers and averaged 16 points per game for Toledo St. Francis' Ohio state champions, will push Skinner for playing time.

Classmate Pete Schihl, a 6-7 forward from Dryden High School, averaged 29 points and 18 rebounds per game to earn class "D" All-State honors. He will fight for a starting forward position opposite Howze. All-Oakland County swingman Rob Alvin could see playing time at either forward or guard. He averaged 21 points per game for Birmingham Groves.

In order for the Pioneers to remain competitive, they must receive some improvement at power forward and center. Former University of Detroit transfer Walt Dixon and reserve Randy Strunk should be improved this year. Strunk started eight games as a freshman, but missed the first part of the season last year and never was a factor for the Pioneers. Dixon played behind Vrij and will be counted on to provide scoring and rebounding from his center post. Vrij will be used defensively and his rebounding should improve with more experience. He was a member of the Surinam National Team in 1982.

In Howze, the Pioneers have one of the top players in the GLIAC. Howze averaged 16.4 points per game and posted a season high of 35 against Indiana University-Purdue (Fort Wayne). He should score even more with the loss of Mohn and appears confident enough to assume the scoring and leadership role.

Kampe does have some question marks, but the Pioneers should be improved with an experienced cast headed by Howze and a small, but quality, recruiting class adding depth.

This year's schedule may be difficult for the Pioneers. They face 16 games on the road and only 12 at home. Their schedule also includes a 16-game GLIAC slate.

The Pioneers open the season November 25 against Western Michigan, a National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division I school in the Mid-American Conference (MAC). The season opener with the Broncos will mark the first televised (PASS) Pioneer basketball game.

What do you believe makes this university a solid institution?

Oakland is a school founded on 25 years of academic excellence. A degree from Oakland means something in the real world. Any time you limit the entry qualifications to an accumulated grade point average of 2.5, a competitive academic atmosphere is developed. We have a spacious, beautiful campus with 12,000 students. Also, student life is good in a metropolitan area with many social events to attend.

What kind of athlete would make the ideal player in your system at Oakland?

That's a tough question! I need good basketball players. I like smart, tough-minded kids who are willing to bust their tails. But, I also realize it takes all types of players to be successful. I suppose a guy 7 feet 9 inches who shoots 80 percent from the field could make my team even though it takes him four minutes to run the 100-yard dash.

How large is your coaching staff and what kind of individuals were you looking for to assist you in rebuilding this program?

I have two assistants, Jay Lehman and Walt Studinger. They are good people who work hard and understand what I would like to get done at Oakland.

Are you a self-made coach with your own ideas or someone who has borrowed ideas from a lot of different coaches?

I really don't believe any coach is self-made. I am not smart enough to invent new offenses, defenses or trick plays. My job is to teach what I believe and mold my players around the ideas that I feel are essential to winning. Many different philosophies have won many games. I believe you must model your philosophies to the type of talent you have available.

How tough are the recruiting wars in this area with so many Division I schools?

Recruiting is tough anywhere. This area is a hotbed for basketball, and we plan on recruiting most of our players from a 50-mile radius. We feel our school is a great academic institution where a young man can touch all aspects of college life and also play a good brand of basketball.

What type of team will Oakland be seeing the next few years?

Hopefully a successful one. As I have stated many times, I want my teams to play as if this is the most enjoyable moment they have ever had. Basketball has to be played fiercely, with unmatched desire. Yet, in the same right, it also has to be fun.

What is the major difference in recruiting for a Division II program?

The main problem is convincing young men that the only difference between Division I and II is 15 scholarships versus 12 scholarships. Most young men perceive Division II as inferior to Division I. Well, I'll take the Division II national champion and win probably 60 percent of the Division I conference championships. It is important to convince athletes that, with the exception of the top Division I schools as far as talent, publicity and money are concerned, Division II can play a very good brand of basketball. Oakland is not a small school. We must convince people that Division II does not mean small and inferior.

Coaching is an interesting and pressure-filled profession. What is your goal at Oakland?

Our goal cannot really be measured in terms of wins and losses. We want to reconstruct this program. If, in the near future, our opponents begin pointing toward Oakland and saying, "That team plays harder and smarter than any team we play," then we'll be headed in the right direction.

Will having the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association (NBA) nearby help your basketball program?

What a positive influence they are on our players! Our kids get a chance to play against some of the best players in the world on a daily basis. That can do nothing but help. Plus, it's nice to be only a mile away from the Pontiac Silverdome. This should be a banner season for the Pistons. They practice in our building, so we get to see a lot of great basketball.

What is it going to take to turn this program into a league power?

The key to any program is the players. We have to recruit great players who are great people. If we can do that, everything else will fall into place. Our program is now committed to excellence — it's just a matter of getting players to match.

Are you planning a lot of changes and what would you consider a success in your first season?

I am planning on running a program that revolves around the belief that you win with defense and good people. This may be a big change from the past. I really haven't spent much time looking behind, we have so much in front of us. We will work very hard and hope for the best.
