Birmingham Commission Sends Revised Off-Street Parking Plans to Board

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — A slightly revised off-street parking ordinance was discussed briefly by the City Commission last night, but no action was taken.

The ordinance, which would require all buildings constructed after the passage date to provide off-street parking, was returned by the Planning Board, after minor changes.

The lawmakers generally expressed unwillingness to pass the ordinance without definite minimum exemptions for smaller areas, and without spelling out the financing methods.

City Manager Donald C. Egbert said a report was forthcoming on parking progress in the southwest quadrant of the city.

White Lake Township Hall was broken into and $840 taken from a vault safe, according to reports received yesterday by Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Township personnel said the hall was entered by thieves over the weekend through an east-side door.

They drove the combination of the vault safe out with a hammer, and then scattered records around the room in their search for money.

Missing were $800 in bills and $40 in change.

SEIZED IN HOUSE—One of the men seized in the House, identified as Rafael Miranda, is shown being rushed from the Capitol by police, soon after the shooting Monday afternoon.

Storm Keeps 15,000 Pupils From Schools

weather has closed down this many schools," he said.

The second storm hit Pontiac at the afternoon rush hour, coating streets with ice and snarling traffic throughout the city and county at intersections and hills.

By about 6 p.m., drivers found they couldn't reach Rochester over several main roads because of drifting snow.

The County Road Commission, working around the clock since Sunday night, had very crews keep 45 snowplows going Monday night. Oscar D. Loomis, road commission chief superintendent, said some side roads are still blocked by four and five-foot drifts today.

Joseph B. Jewell, superintendent of the Department of Public Works, said heavy drifts are clogging traffic on some city streets, although most streets are passable. The DPW put four salt trucks on city streets and worked in the downtown area during the night.

One Sheriff's Department car, stuck in snowdrifts on Sashabaw road about midnight, called three wreckers—all of which got stuck.

A snowplow finally came along at about 5 a.m. and gave all four a tow.

The road commission sent a snowplow to help clear John R. from 12 to 14 Mile roads—but the plow itself got stuck at 13-Mile road.

A double oil tank truck stalled halfway up Bald Mountain about 5 a.m., and was finally pulled out about three hours later by a county truck.

Albert Lamberti, 37, died in Detroit of a heart attack while shoveling snow. Robert Potts, 53, a State Highway Department employee of Harrisonville, was killed by a car as he sanded a hill. In Chatham, Ont., William Friebe, 51, died of a heart attack after battling drifts and ice while driving.

Chatham got nine inches of snow and sleet, while Windsor had eight inches. Detroit got a total of eight inches from the double-barreled storm.

A mother and three children, feared lost in a bitter overnight storm near Emmett, were found safe today at a home outside Port Huron. Mrs. Irma Jonhya, 57, and her children abandoned their car when it became stuck and made their way to shelter.

Practically all schools in Huron county were closed. So were those at Vassar, Caro, Reese, Cass City, Sebawaing, and dozens in the Port Huron district and elsewhere in the state.

During Ontario's savage snowstorm, upward of 1,000 vehicles became stuck along the 125 miles of highway between London and Windsor.

Puerto Rico's Governor Sends His Sympathy

LANSING (UP) — Gov. Luis Muñoz-Marin of Puerto Rico telephoned Gov. G. Mennen Williams Monday night to express the sympathy of his people for the attack on Michigan Rep. Alvin M. Bentley by three Puerto Rican terrorists.

The Puerto Rican Governor reached Williams at the Alpena State Police Post.

The governor sent a telegram to Congressman Bentley, whose home is in Owosso, today wishing him speedy recovery. It said: "All of us are shocked by the news and on behalf of the people of Michigan I express our deepest concern and earnest wish for a quick recovery."

As she half ran and was half dragged from the gallery, she tossed into the air the flag of Puerto Rico, and shouted again.

Police, doorkeepers and others rushed for the gallery and the door leading from it. Quickly they grabbed three of the assailants and either held them firmly or pinned them to the marble floor in a general scuffle.

U. E. Baughman, chief of the Secret Service, said last night his agency "got information several months ago" that the same Nationalist group might try to harm President Eisenhower. He declined to discuss details. In Hartford, to discuss details.

Bentley's Condition Slightly Improved

tried in 1950 to assassinate the then President Harry Truman.

The party is only a small minority in the island commonwealth.

Most Puerto Ricans have expressed preference to remain under U.S. authority, although they have been offered independence any time they want it.

Anti-independence forces have contended the islanders would lose heavily in American aid if separated from this country, and that the islanders are not yet capable of complete self government.

The woman and two men were disarmed and taken into custody in a riotous scene just outside the House visitors' gallery. The third man was arrested later at a bus terminal.

Stunned congressional leaders took immediate steps to tighten security regulations and prevent a recurrence of such a tragedy—the first known instance of bloodshed during an actual session of the House or Senate.

That more lawmakers and spectators weren't hurt appeared nothing short of miraculous.

An estimated 20 to 30 heavy caliber bullets fired from Luger-type pistols blazed into the House chamber, nicking seats and walls, piercing the new ceiling, chipping plaster and causing everyone to duck for cover.

Several bullets crashed into the wall just a few inches above the seats in the rear of the chamber occupied by page boys. The boys scrambled under seats or darted out the nearest doors.

Two pellets burrowed into the heavy table at which Republican leaders sit. Seated there at the time were Majority Leader Hallett of Indiana and his assistant, Rep. Arends of Illinois. Neither was hurt, although Arends was nicked by flying splinters. So was Rep. Holmes (R-Wash.), who was standing nearby.

About 250 House members were on hand at the time, about 2:30 p.m., having been summoned to the chamber only a short time earlier to debate a bill dealing with importation of Mexican farm workers. The visitors' galleries were less than half filled. About a dozen newsmen sat in the press seats in the same general section, but 50 feet or more away from where the Puerto Ricans sat.

Speaker Martin (R-Mass) addressed the House in short order while doctors and police took over. The shooting lasted only about a minute.

Martin was counting a standing vote when it started. He never finished.

From a corner of the public gallery to his extreme left and behind him, a volley of shots rang out. Almost everyone at first thought pranksters had tossed a string of firecrackers. Even Rep. Roberts said he thought it was firecrackers "until I saw blood on my leg."

The grim seriousness of the situation became apparent when the Puerto Ricans were spotted firmly gripped between both hands.

One of the gunmen had time to reload his weapon with a 10-bullet clip before being subdued.

Mrs. LeBron appeared to be having difficulty controlling her pistol. It spouted flame and bullets toward the ceiling, punctuating the woman's cries of "My country is not free; free Puerto Rico!"

As she half ran and was half dragged from the gallery, she tossed into the air the flag of Puerto Rico, and shouted again.

Police, doorkeepers and others rushed for the gallery and the door leading from it. Quickly they grabbed three of the assailants and either held them firmly or pinned them to the marble floor in a general scuffle.

ROBERT D. LONG

Pontiac Attorney Succeeds Hartick

Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem Monday announced the appointment of Pontiac attorney Robert D. Long as First Assistant Prosecutor.

Long, 43, of 171 N. Johnson, was named to succeed James G. Hartick who resigned to enter private law practice. Long has been practicing law here since 1947 and served as assistant prosecutor for a short time after his discharge from the Army in 1946.

He graduated in 1936 from the Detroit College of Law and was stationed in Washington, D. C. during World War II as a captain with the military government. A county resident most of his life, Long is married and the father of two children.

Johnson was appointed recently to fill the vacancy created by the death of Judge Charles P. Webster.

The returns are being re-checked today by City Clerk Ada R. Evans. Shortly after results were known last night, one of Hallenbeck's campaign managers indicated that he may seek a recount in District 5.

Hallenbeck was knocked out of the running by only 18 votes.

Mrs. Evans said the city clerk's office will accept registrations for the general election on April 5. Persons qualified to vote in Pontiac and not yet registered have through March 8 to register.

Heavy snow and treacherous driving conditions slowed voting yesterday, but election officials said the turnout lived up to their predictions of a "medium-sized" vote.

Percentage wise, only 15 per cent of the city's 38,101 registered voters cast ballots.

Jury May Get Land Suit Today

Condemnation Hearing Nears End as Defense Sums Case

Defense Attorney William J. Beer said that one parking lot wouldn't solve downtown traffic congestion when Pontiac's condemnation suit for land at 11-49 Parke St. resumed today before Oakland County Circuit Judge George B. Hartick.

The suit, for establishment of a municipal parking lot, was interrupted Friday when one of the jurors became ill, during Beer's final argument.

Beer asked today why the former City-County market building was not being used for short-term parking instead of long-term parking.

He also pointed out that Royal Oak and Ferndale have municipal lots, but still have traffic jams.

The three-week-old suit is expected to go to the jury today following a final rebuttal by City Attorney William A. Ewart.

Broomfield to Push for Fast Judge Vote

Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) will push for a quick vote when the bill to give Oakland County a fourth circuit judge comes before Michigan House of Representatives Wednesday.

"The bill's just up for debate tomorrow," Broomfield said. "I'll try to get it scheduled for a final vote Thursday or Friday — and push it through despite the opposition."

Broomfield's opposition includes three county representatives: Democrats LeRoy Harlow of Pontiac and Walter T. McMahon, Hazel Park, and Republican Fred G. Beardsley of Oxford.

U.S. Airmen in Indochina Are There Only to Teach Plane Repairs to French

DO SON, RED RIVER DELTA (INS)—Two hundred fifty U.S. Air Force technicians in Indochina are wondering why their arrival in Do Son has become a matter for grave international discussion.

"I hear they've been talking about us in Congress," one burly sergeant said. "And Peiping Radio has been saying we are part of American intervention in Indochina. But we don't understand it."

"We're doing no fighting. We're just helping the French keep in order the equipment that the U.S. sends them. The Chinese Communists are sending equipment to the Vietnamese, aren't they?"

Communist charges that they are intervening in the Indochina war, or charges in Washington that the U.S. government is getting involved in the war, just fly over these men's heads.

"We're here to do a job," they say, "and we're getting on with it." The uniformed airmen here, all from the logistics branch of the Far East Airforce, are helping the French maintain and repair their fleets of Dakota (DC3) transport planes, hard used in the recent war here.

They are also teaching French repair crews latest American techniques in handling complicated new equipment.

They take no part in fighting of any kind.

The American technicians are split into two groups 350 miles apart—one at this seaside bathing resort at the mouth of the Red River 60 miles from southern China, the other near the French Naval Base at Tourane in middle Vietnam.

At Do Son the Americans can hear the noise of battle every night along nearby mudflats and rice paddies of the Red River delta.

They are in the heart of the Indochina war. Only two days before they arrived a Communist-led rebel Commando raid landed at Do Son and blew up a gasoline dump.

At Tourane the American camp is in a more peaceful area about four miles inland from the China Sea. But there, too, fighting often can be heard in the mountains surrounding the camp on three sides.

Camp Commander Maj. Kenneth Knox at Do Son said the French airforce gave his men a fine reception and went to great trouble to make them feel at home.

In the first 10 days the Americans delivered three aircraft to the French.

What was equally important, the Americans had supplies of vital spare parts flown here. This amazed and delighted the French, whose work had sometimes been held up for months for lack of parts.

Knox, whose wife Ellene lives in San Bernardino, Calif., said: "We are here for 90 days and then the equipment is turned over to the French. By that time we hope to have had sufficient time to instruct them in our methods of maintenance."

American technicians, all hand-picked for this job, shake their heads sadly when they look at the condition of some Dakotas just back from the war in the hill jungles of Laos. But most of them sympathize with the French mechanics who have kept their fleet in the air despite a crucial lack of spare parts.

At first the Americans found it difficult to get any local Vietnamese to work for them because of the Communist propaganda against them of the Vietnamese rebels.

But when it was discovered the Americans treated their workers well there were plenty of applications.

There was one grumble in the camp—letters from home were not arriving fast enough. T/Sgt. John Fajt, of Chicago, said: "It takes the mail four days coming from Clark Field (Philippines) and the men feel pretty sore about that."

French wine is allowed but the Americans eat no local food. All food is flown in.

Many of these airmen have been paying a great deal of attention to the complicated problems of this Indochina war.

S/Sgt. Jack E. MacDonald of Clearwater, Fla., was impressed by the Vietnamese soldiers he had met. He thought the French should hand over responsibility to the Vietnamese army as soon as they were ready to fight the Vietnamese.

"A man fights hard when he's fighting for his own country. It would be a good thing for the French to hand over as soon as possible, for the Vietnamese do seem nationalistic," he added.

The French opinion of the Americans was best voiced by pretty 27-year old Mademoiselle Fernande Perceval, a French WAAC who interprets for them.

"They are very, very nice boys," she said. "We can see they are here to help us and are doing the best they can. There is no friction between our boys and theirs. They don't speak the same language, but the French use their hands and the Americans understand."

Royal Oak Man Confesses Taking Part in Embezzlement From Detroit Firms

DETROIT — The strange suicide of a supposedly prosperous auditor has led to the revelation of a suppressed embezzlement suit.

The suit names the dead man and two others. One of the latter is held, the other is sought.

Robert Hutchinson, of Royal Oak, one of the three men named in the suit, was held today for investigation of embezzlement. Chief Assistant Prosecutor Ralph Garber said Hutchinson told in a formal statement that he embezzled $7,500.

The suit named Hutchinson, parts manager for an auto agency; Moritz Cunha, head of a firm which subcontracts the packaging of government munitions, and Edwin D. Smith, the auditor.

Smith, 37, was found shot to death in an abandoned gatehouse on the Detroit riverfront Sunday, in what police said was a suicide.

Police Lt. Raymond Miller, a county prosecutor's investigator, said shortages at the Bill Brown Auto Sales agency and a companion auto rental firm may reach $400,000.

The charges claim that Smith took money from the agency to buy materials so that Cunha, president of the Martello Co., the packaging firm, and Hutchinson, a Brown employee, could fulfill contract obligations.

William A. Brown, president of the auto agency and employer of Hutchinson and Smith, said he thought that he had a balance of $100,000 at the time. Independent auditors found shortages amounting to several thousand dollars, Brown said.

It was then that he said he notified Smith, vacationing in Florida with his family, that he wanted him to return to explain.

Mrs. Smith said that her husband had flown back to Detroit on Feb. 22. Shortly thereafter, she said, she received a letter from him asking that his body be cremated.

Alarmed, she notified Oakland County Sheriff's men, Brown said that he had not seen Smith.

Brown said invoices in his possession show that monies from his agency had paid for supplies for the Martello Co. and were approved by Hutchinson and paid for by checks made out by Smith.

Brown said that he had received a letter from Smith with a Detroit postmark which admitted the discrepancies.

Shots Sounded Like Fireworks

Noise in House Gallery Makes Listener Expect Expulsion for Offenders

Editor's Note: United Press reporter Vincent J. Burke was sitting in the House press gallery when three Puerto Ricans opened fire on Congressmen on the floor below. His eyewitness account follows:

By VINCENT J. BURKE
WASHINGTON (UP)—There was a pop, crack, pop. Like a bunch of firecrackers going off.

I thought the sergeant-at-arms will put a stop to that. Demonstrations by spectators aren't allowed in the gallery.

Then, I turned and saw her. She was standing in the corner of the House chamber.

She was holding a pistol by two hands and blazing away at the members on the House floor. She was shouting something, but I couldn't make out what it was because of her accent.

At first I believed she must be shooting blanks. I couldn't believe anyone would be firing real bullets.

Many of the members couldn't believe it either. A few dived for cover. But others stood up to see what was going on. Still others who had been standing got down very, very slowly and hid behind their chairs. Some stood up all through the shooting.

I saw the big bullet hole in the ceiling and I realized they weren't blanks.

I looked back and I could see a man holding a gun and several other men grappling with him. I learned later the woman had given one of the men a gun to re-load.

I grabbed the telephone which connects directly with the downtown office and yelled "BULLETIN!"

Congressmen started getting up off the floor. There were several who didn't get up. Other members crowded around them. It was impossible to tell immediately who had been hit.

Elizabeth Wharton and Milton Magruder of the U.P. staff were also in the press gallery. Both scrambled toward the assailants and saw them disarmed.

Milt came back to me and gave the details. I relayed the news to the office. Liz ran to another telephone and soon was dictating additional details. Rex Chaney, down on the House floor, shouted up the first word that five members had been wounded.

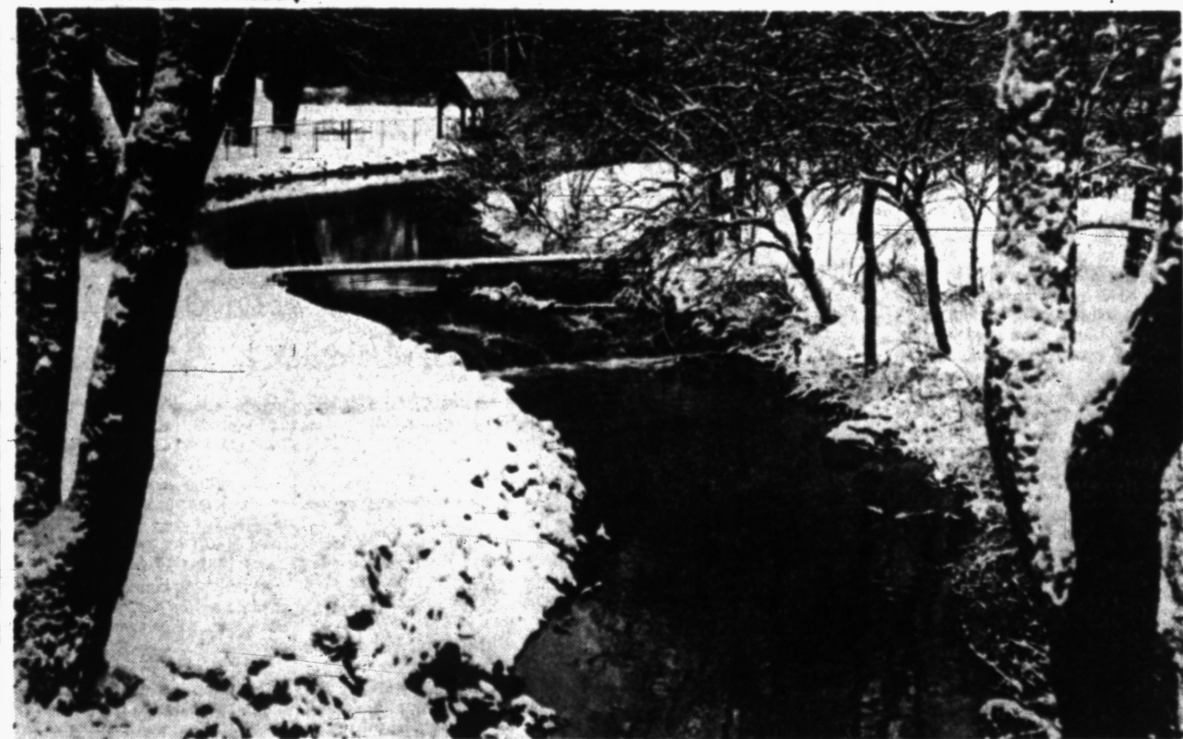

Stretchers were wheeled out. A nurse appeared and began bandaging the right leg of Rep. Clifford Davis (D-Tenn.) who had been hit as he sat in a chair near the aisle.

PICTURESQUE SCENE—Typical of many scenes in and around Pontiac yesterday is this photographer. The above fence and winding road is located near Cranbrook on Goodhue road.

WINTER BEAUTY—Although the owner of this driveway on Lone Pine road might not agree, Old Man Winter turned artist yesterday and transformed the drive into a beautiful winter landscape. Heavy snowfall last night and yesterday formed many scenes similar to this.

CHRISTMAS CARD—Like a life-sized Christmas card is this stream winding between snow-covered banks and trees. The scene was recorded yesterday at Cranbrook and Lone Pine Rds. following heavy snows in this area.

Congressman Tells of Shooting

Congressman James E. "Jimmy" Van Zandt, of Altoona, Pa., is credited with playing a heroic role in disarming the three Puerto Rican fanatics as they sought to renew their deadly attack upon House members Monday afternoon. Van Zandt fought in World Wars I and II, and received many decorations for bravery. He is now a captain in the U. S. Naval Reserve and is a past national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. In the following article he tells of his experience in being shot at from the gallery and rushing to help subdue the fanatics.

By REP. JAMES E. VAN ZANDT
(Written for International News Service)

WASHINGTON — It happened suddenly!

The speaker of the House was counting the noses on what we call a standing vote. Within a second or so after he started to count, what appeared to be a firecracker exploded in the gallery.

I looked up. There appeared to be a half-dozen people with their hands in the air and with revolvers and they started to shoot in the direction of the membership of the House.

I shouted "hit the deck," which I did. Then I crawled on my hands and knees for about 15 feet and ran through the Republican cloakroom and up the steps to the gallery floor.

I passed two or three people running in the opposite direction. Who they were I do not know. I saw a girl come out of the swinging doors and several people grabbed her, pinning arms behind her. She showed no resistance.

A six-foot Puerto Rican followed her out and six people grabbed him and took his gun. He did not resist. I helped pin his arms behind his back.

Then the third Puerto Rican, a short fellow, came through the doors dragging some spectator who had his arm around his neck. The spectator shouted "Look out! this fellow has a revolver."

I don't know how many pounced on him, but they jumped on him and he went down to the floor. Several people kicked him.

One gentleman tried to get the gun out of his hand, but couldn't manage it. Someone stepped on his wrist and we had to pry his fingers open before we could get the gun. Then this gentleman who picked up the gun took the magazine out.

I turned around and asked the six-foot Puerto Rican where he was from. He replied "Puerto Rico." The girl screamed something about "give my country independence." Her eyes literally popped out of her head. Then the uniformed policeman arrived and took the three into an elevator and away.

Many of the spectators had an awful lot of guts.

Scott Lucas (former Illinois senator and Democratic majority leader) helped us pry the gun from the little Puerto Rican's hand.

As he did so, he pointed at him and said: "I know that fellow. He appeared once before our committee when I was a member."

Bob Sikes (Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla.) was also among those who helped subdue the trio in the gallery.
