Reds and West Set for Wrangle as U. N. Meets

Korean Peace, Seating of Commie China Are Stand-out Issues

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Russia and the Western powers squared off for 12 weeks of bitter fighting today as the U. N. General Assembly gathered again to debate such issues as Korea and the seating of Red China in the world organization.

As the diplomats assembled for the opening of their eighth annual session, Western delegates were confident the 60-nation body would sidetrack the Chinese question for the remainder of this year at least.

They also believed the Assembly would stand pat on its previous recommendation that the Korean peace conference be a two-sided negotiation rather than a round-table of belligerents and neutrals.

There was no indication just when Soviet Delegates Andrei Y. Vishinsky would bring up these two issues, but he was expected to raise them within the first few days of the session.

This afternoon's meeting was scheduled to be devoted to the election of an Assembly president, seven vice presidents and seven committee chairmen, who will constitute the powerful steering committee.

The colorful sister of India's Prime Minister Nehru, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, was reported to have enough support for election as president, but Prince Wan Walthayakon of Thailand still was in the race.

Mrs. Pandit had the support of both the Soviet bloc and the leading Western powers, including the United States.

The first fight over the China representation question may come in the credentials committee, which probably will meet Wednesday. That body would report back to the assembly itself, opening the way for a decision.

The United States and Britain already have agreed to back a move to postpone all consideration of the China representation question during 1953. They believe that most countries outside the Soviet bloc will support this.

300 Added This Week

School Enrollment Jumps More Than 1,000 in Pontiac

Over 300 more students showed up at Pontiac Public Schools Monday to boost total enrollment to 16,203—a record increase of 1,122 students over last May's total.

"That's the biggest single spring-to-fall increase I can remember," J. C. Cox, assistant superintendent of schools, said today.

"But we've found rooms and teachers for all of them."

Cox said enrollment counts Friday, the second day of the 1953-54 school year, showed 15,874 students — 793 over last May's total of 15,081. Another 329 students came in Monday.

Final checks showed 10,479 youngsters in elementary school, as against last year's 9,771.

Junior high school class totals stood at 3,435, up some 200 from last spring's 3,250. Pontiac High School counted 2,271 students — some 200 over the 2,060 in school last May.

Cox said enrollment probably would keep increasing slightly until Christmas.

Permit Truman to Spread Tax

Rule Levy on Sale of Memoirs May Be Paid Over 6-Year Period

NEW YORK (AP)—Attorney Samuel Rosenman says former President Truman will be allowed to spread over a six-year period income tax payments on the sale of his memoirs.

Rosenman adds that he had never figured out how much money this would save Truman. He said the saving would depend on several factors now unknown.

The attorney, representing Truman, said yesterday he was informed of the ruling about a week ago. Rosenman had sought the time spread under a tax law provision permitting sale of personal property on the installment plan.

Published reports, which the Internal Revenue Service had refused to confirm or deny, previously had said the ruling would save Truman about $165,000.

The former President sold his memoirs some time ago to Life Magazine for a reported $600,000.

Tax men say a straight one-year tax on this should be $502,488.

If, however, Truman received the money in six annual payments of $100,000 and, with no other income, took the normal exemptions for himself and Mrs. Truman, tax experts figure he would pay a tax of $55,432 a year. Over the six years this would amount to $332,592, and leave Truman $267,408.

President Eisenhower, a five star general and President of Columbia University when he wrote his book "Crusade in Europe," paid a 25 per cent capital gains tax, under a Treasury ruling he was not a professional writer, on the $635,000 he received for it. Eisenhower netted $476,250, after taxes.

8 Testify Here in Rape-Slaying

Called in Examination of Donald O'Brian in Hallie Perkins Killing

Eight witnesses testified before Pontiac Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan this morning during the examination of Donald V. O'Brian, 27, of 4 Liberty St., in the slaying of Mrs. Hallie O. Perkins, 55.

O'Brian, who admitted the rape-attack on Mrs. Perkins in a signed confession after his arrest last Wednesday, faces arraignment in Oakland County Circuit Court at 1:30 p. m. Friday. He was returned to the County jail.

The 27-year-old father of two children was captured while attempting to attack a Pontiac woman.

Under continued questioning he admitted to officers the rape-slaying of Mrs. Perkins about Aug. 3, the attack on a 16-year-old girl Aug. 15, and attempted attacks on four other women.

The body of Mrs. Perkins, reported missing from the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Perkins of 76 W. Longfellow Ave. on Aug. 10, was discovered in a vacant field near Baldwin and Beverly Aves. Aug. 15.

Detroit detectives, scheduled to question O'Brian yesterday on the Jan. 2 rape-slaying of JoAnn Gillespie in Detroit, postponed the questioning until after today's examination.

Low of 50 Degrees Predicted Tonight

Slightly warmer weather is forecast for the Pontiac area after the mercury matched an all-time low for this date when it dropped to 40 degrees between 5 and 6 a.m. today.

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicts a low of 50 degrees tonight and a high of from 70 to 75 degrees tomorrow. Temperatures rose to 42 at 8 a. m. and climbed to 64 degrees at 2 p. m. in downtown Pontiac.

Cooler weather will return Thursday. Friday will be somewhat warmer and cooler weather will come back over the weekend, according to the Weather Bureau's long-range forecast. Showers are expected Friday or Saturday.

Today's 40 degrees matched the record low for this date established in 1873. In the past two days, chilly 39 degrees Sunday set a new low for Sept. 13, and a 39-degree low Monday equalled the record low for that Sept. 14.

Two Top Aides Would Slow Up on Foreign Help

Humphrey and Weeks Question Way U. S. Is Building Competition

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two cabinet members today indicated the time has come to put the brakes on foreign aid and look for other methods of promoting world economic health.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey said there is a serious question whether the United States should continue to spend public money abroad to build up "competitive enterprise."

And Secretary of Commerce Weeks said it was high time to halt "international handouts and global boondoggling."

Both men spoke at a meeting of the Senate Banking Committee and a 100-man advisory group on methods of stimulating world trade.

The advisory group included leaders of business, labor and agriculture.

Among those attending were John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, Eric Johnston, former economic stabilizer; AFL President George Meany; Paul G. Hoffman, former foreign aid director, and many other notables.

Weeks said the 55-nation World Bank, and the U.S. Export-Import Bank should be made more useful in building up weak economies of friendly foreign nations, rather than aid grants voted by Congress.

He criticized what he called "politics mixed with economics" in some foreign nations but named no names. Politics, he said, has no place in strictly economic considerations.

Humphrey said he was not trying to prejudge the conclusions of the business-labor-agriculture advisory group of the banking committee.

But he said bluntly "the gov-

Ex-Labor Mediator Admits Attending Commie Parleys

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal labor mediator who resigned last week testified today that he attended Communist Party meetings and "probably" paid party dues "once or twice" during 1938, 1939 and 1940.

James McNamara of Cincinnati, who joined the conciliation service in 1940, told a House un-American activities subcommittee:

"I suppose I would say I was a (Communist Party) member. If I can belong to a church and not believe what they teach, then I was a member of the Communist Party."

He said he did not have Communist Party membership card and did not consider himself "ideologically" as a member of the party.

But, he said, he associated with Communists to help him in his organizing work as an official of the AFL Hotel and Restaurant Employes Union.

The House subcommittee, headed by Rep. Scherer (R-Ohio), is investigating Communist infiltration into labor unions. Rep. Walter (D-Pa) also sat in on the session.

Think Reaction Will Cost GOP Congress in '54

Williams Leads Panel Criticizing Republican Agriculture Policies

CHICAGO—(AP) — Democrats accused President Eisenhower today of breaking his 1952 campaign pledges to the farmers and predicted the reaction will cost Republicans control of Congress next year.

Three former secretaries of agriculture—Sen. Anderson (D-NM), Charles F. Brannan and Claude Wickard — spearheaded an assault on GOP farm policies as the Democratic conference here rolled toward a climactic televised report to the nation tonight by Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 party presidential nominee.

The Democratic barrage against GOP farm policies was fired at a panel discussion captained by Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

Williams cited Eisenhower's campaign promises last year, saying the GOP promise was not only to sustain the 90 per cent parity price support program but to work toward helping the farmer obtain full 100 per cent parity.

Parity is a standard calculated to give farmers a fair return on their products in relation to the cost of things they buy.

The Michigan governor said Secretary of Agriculture Benson had stalled federal help in drought areas to the point "where the rains came before Benson."

Anderson told about 300 applauding delegates that in the years since 1910 when the Democrats were in power the farmers had received 77 billion dollars more than parity in income.

In contrast, he said, during the period of Republican control of the government the farmers' income was 12 billion dollars less than parity.

"If they want full parity, the farmers know that the only place to get it is when the Democrats are in office," Anderson declared.

Asserting that "it's terrible what has happened to the farm markets," Anderson said he believes

Season's Fifth Hurricane Developing East of Miami

MIAMI (AP) — A full-grown hurricane developed quickly in the Atlantic today 930 miles southeast of Miami and the southeastern Bahamas were warned to expect squalls and possible gales tonight.

The tropical storm, fifth of the season and named Edna for the fifth letter of the alphabet, contained winds of 115 miles per hour in squalls.

An 11 a. m. (EST) advisory said it should pass north of Turks Island in the southeastern Bahamas as it whirled along on a west-northwest course at 17 miles per hour.

The hurricane was centered about 240 miles northwest of San Juan, Puerto Rico, near latitude 21.3 north, longitude 67.6 west.

Grady Norton, chief storm forecaster at the Miami Weather Bureau, said the storm "was in a position which seems rather favorable for a more northward curve later on."

This would swing it away from land areas and out into the open Atlantic.

"It is winding up pretty fast and increasing in intensity," Norton said, "and will have to be watched closely."

The 115-mile-per-hour winds were found in squalls by a Navy hurricane hunting plane which went into the large and well-defined eye and on through to the northern side.

The advisory said gales extended outward 150 miles in the northeast and 60 miles in other quadrants and warned there was a "good possibility of further intensification."

Hurricane Edna developed rapidly in a squall area which had been under observation the past 24 hours. A 5 a.m. advisory from San Juan said a small center was forming and was expected to develop hurricane force (75 miles per hour or more) in a few hours.

Wabeek-Jacobson Parking Plan Delay in Birmingham Due to Misunderstanding

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM—One reason for the long delay on the submission of the Wabeek-Jacobson parking plan for the northwest section of the city came to light at the City Commission meeting last night.

Commissioner Dean Beier reported that in a brief conversation with Nathan Rosenfeld, president of Jacobson's Inc. and developer of the parking plan for that area, Rosenfeld indicated a belief that the city did not wish to make any capital expenditure in a parking project.

"Since his plans to date, which were near completion, included city participation, he started working on a plan that would exclude city financial aid," Beier said.

Mayor Ralph Main said he understood Rosenfeld had mailed him a letter asking for another month, until Oct. 15, to work on the plans and explaining why this was necessary.

Several commissioners pointed out that, although they previously had said city financial aid would be limited to parking meter revenues and perhaps a $250,000 bond issue which would not go far if the city had to purchase land with it, they did not mean the city would not help back the project.

Beier suggested an "informational meeting" on parking plans for both the northwest and southwest quadrants of the city, but no action was taken on this.

Mayor Ralph Main said he would "talk to" proponents of parking plans for the two areas of the city.

Profit of $60,000 Netted by State Fair

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan closed the books on perhaps its most successful State Fair since World War II today.

The 10-day exposition netted a profit of $60,000 as compared to a loss of $54,050 last year, according to General Manager James M. Hare.

Attendance, despite the cold snap that hit the last weekend, was 760,000, or 130,000 larger than the 1952 fair.

Cass J. Wasung, assistant manager and controller of the fair, estimated that perhaps $10,000,000 worth of effort went into the myriads of exhibits by commercial concerns, the shows, the agriculture arenas and the running of the fair.

Stevenson Attacks Ike Foreign Policy

Former President Harry Truman applauded Stevenson's sharp attack on Eisenhower foreign policies and beamed when the 1952 nominee praised the "undaunted courage and strong will" he said Truman had displayed in foreign affairs.

Asserting that the Democrats in Congress had "functioned with great intelligence, courage and restraint" since the Republicans took over, Stevenson told the audience at the swank fund raising dinner:

"The greatest beneficiary of the Democratic party in these past few months has been President Eisenhower. I only hope that he realizes that."

But if the Democrats were somewhat reluctant to tee off on the GOP President personally, whoops and hollers from the party faithful encouraged a list of speakers to take the gloves off in criticizing Republican domestic programs.

Stevenson convulsed his audience by dubbing as "government by postponement" what he called the Eisenhower administration's resort to the naming of commissions to study all the controversial problems passed up by this year's Congress.

He said that last year's GOP campaign theme that it's "time for a change" had brought only a change in the attitude of the Republicans toward legislation passed by Democratic Congresses.

"They now seem to be doing their very best to persuade the American people that they are not going to touch a single one of these advances of the past 20 years," he said.

* * *

He poked fun at recent claims by House Speaker Joseph Martin (R-Mass) that the Republicans had wrought significant changes in foreign policy.

"I concluded that it must have been only delicacy that restrained him from revealing, for the first time, that it was the Republicans who scared Stalin to death," Stevenson quipped.

In a more serious vein, however, he said it is the job of the Democrats to help every way they can in the "fateful decisions" he said lie ahead in momentous negotiations in Asia and Europe.

"We Democrats will have all the greater need of our resources of imagination, maturity and political courage in these years ahead," he said.

Stevenson noted that earlier in the day the conference had avoided a showdown over the troublesome party convention "loyalty" rule by moving to have it studied by a committee appointed by National Chairman Stephen Mitchell.

Observing that intraparty conflicts are "not altogether unwholesome," Stevenson added with a grin:

"I suppose now that the hoped for misfortunes have not overtaken us in Chicago, that the Republicans will charge us with creeping harmony."

Two Pontiac Men Make Formal Statements in Chaney Death

Two men who admitted to Pontiac Police the Aug. 9 shooting at the El Chico Bar, 374 Franklin Rd., in which a parttime bartender was killed, made formal statements to Oakland County authorities late yesterday.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor said Charles A. Cunningham, 22, of 265 Rockwell St., and Melvin Hardiman, 21, of 423 Highland Ave., would be charged either late today or tomorrow, pending further study of the statements.

Silas Chaney, 45, of 105 Center St., the bartender, was killed in the gun battle as he and three others were leaving the tavern at 3 a. m.

In his statement to Taylor, Cunningham said he threw a .32 automatic in the Clinton River following the shooting. Chaney was struck in the chest with a .32 bullet, according to a ballistics test.

Pontiac Detectives John DePauw and John Williams, assigned to the shooting, said they would drag the river Wednesday for the weapon.

Top Aides Question Huge Foreign Aid

ernment must question both its right and its financial ability to continue to use taxpayers' money to finance investments abroad on a large scale in the development of competitive enterprise."

He did not elaborate on this. There have been some complaints from American businessmen that U.S. foreign aid funds have been used to build plants abroad which compete with them.

"Our scale of taxation is already too high, and to maintain a sound and honest dollar we must bring our own expeditures and revenues into balance," Humphrey said.

"We must continue to examine most carefully every proposal to spend money whether it is a proposal for spending at home or abroad.

"The maintenance of our credit and of a sound dollar is most important for foreign countries as well as it is for us here at home.

"Prosperity in the United States is essential for prosperity in the rest of the world, and it is not only our duty but it is for the best interest of everyone concerned that we keep that fact always uppermost in our minds."

The secretary said that since World War II many foreign countries have looked to U.S. government funds to finance their economic development.

400-Pound Bear Kills Three Deer Bound for Texas

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (AP)—A rancher trucking reindeer from Alaska lost three of the animals in a midnight battle with a 400-pound bear.

Grady Carothers of Goldthwaite, Tex., shot the bear after it had slashed three of the reindeer. He reported the incident yesterday after reaching this town on the Alaska Highway.

Carothers and his son Jack, 13, had staked out the deer in a roadside pasture and were asleep when the bear attacked. Carothers said he fought his way through the milling reindeer and killed the bear.

Then they loaded the 10 remaining animals into their trailer and continued the trip south.

Carothers keeps reindeer at his Texas ranch and rents them to department stores for Christmas projects.

Alamo Will Remember Resourceful Motorist

ALAMO, Mich. (AP) — A motorist who ran out of gasoline a mile east of this southwest Michigan community hit on a novel plan when he found all the service stations closed at 3 a.m. Monday.

He punched a buzzer at the fire station, and explained later to a sputtering fire chief Ray Zantello that he hoped it would "get somebody up."

It roused Chief Zantello, his 10 volunteer firemen and most of the community—but the motorist got his gasoline. And in the excitement no one remembered to get his name.

Detroit Studies Sales of "Continental" Studebaker

By a WALL STREET JOURNAL Staff Reporter

DETROIT—Studebaker, which was a big factor in setting early-postwar auto styles, may now be setting the pattern for the next few years.

Its 1946 model, designed with lavish use of glass by Raymond Loewy, was the first completely redesigned postwar car. The South Bend, Ind., concern made no further major change until its current 1953's; with these it introduced low, rakish "Continental" styling. Also designed by Loewy, the new model cost $27 million to introduce, double the 1946 cost.

A top Detroit stylist, employed by a rival manufacturer, says that the current Studebaker will affect the future looks of more competitive makes than the industry would like to admit. Most frequently [illegible]

Modern Way to Control Roaches, Ants

Scientists Discover New, Easy Way to Kill Crawling Insects

ROACHES and ants, pests that they are, are usually found near food and cooking utensils where you should not use bombs or sprays. And no need to either, when you can brush Johnston's NO-ROACH just where you want it, around cabinets and sink or wherever these bugs are found, without having to move dishes or pots and pans.

Effective for Months

Johnston's NO-ROACH is colorless, odorless, and stainless. Insects that walk across the invisible coating become paralyzed and die within three hours. Then the coating remains effective for months to prevent re-infestation and to keep your home free of crawling insects all season long.

Contains Chlordane

If you brush Johnston's NO-ROACH across window sills and door sills, ants will not cross the invisible coating. You may also control silverfish, waterbugs, household spiders and any other crawling insects with NO-ROACH.

One important point to remember: NO-ROACH is a unique formula, made only by Johnston. It cannot be duplicated. For truly effective control, use genuine Johnston's NO-ROACH. 8 oz. 89¢; pt. $1.69; qt. $2.98.

Reds Centralize Czech Regime

Three-Man Committee Replaces Soviet-Style Presidium

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Prague radio announced a sweeping reorganization of Czechoslovakia's Communist government today. The emphasis seemed to be on streamlining and centralizing operations rather than on purging disgraced officials.

* * *

Premier Vilem Siroky remained head of the government under President Antonin Zapotocky, but the "Soviet-style" presidium of premier and numerous vice premier and numerous vice premiers set up last February to control the government apparently was replaced by a three-man committee.

This new "high command," Prague Radio said, is composed of Siroky and two former presidium members, State Planning Chief Jaromir Dolansky and Defense Minister Alexei Cepicka, who become the new Cabinet's only vice premiers.

* * *

Along with Siroky and his two deputy premiers, Communist party Boss Antonin Novotny continued a major figure in the Czech setup. He remained first secretary of the party's central committee and thus retained control of the powerful party organization.

The reorganization was the first major shakeup in the Czech government since Zapotocky stepped up from the premiership on the death of President Klement Gottwald last March and Siroky moved into the premiership.

The shakeup follows months of widespread unrest in Czechoslovakia, including riots over food shortages and a drastic currency revaluation in May.

Oklahoma City Lakes Hexed by Irate Indians

CANTON, Okla. (AP)—Drum-beating Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indians, claiming the Great White Father has reneged on an old treaty, put an old-fashioned curse on Oklahoma City's lakes yesterday.

Chief Bennie Spotted Wolf, 70, led the ancient hexing ceremony. He said the curse was to keep fish from biting and ducks from landing on the surface of the lakes.

The Indians were protesting the draining of water from Canton Lake, their hunting and fishing grounds. Water from the big dam has been released twice this year to travel downstream 100 miles and help Oklahoma City out of its drought-bred water crisis.

* * *

"We were promised the right to hunt and fish free as long as water flowed and grass grew," Chief Spotted Wolf recalled. "Fishing here is free, but you pay to fish and hunt in Oklahoma City's lake. They spoil our hunting and fishing grounds to make theirs better."

In a colorful ceremony at the dam, the Indians broke a peace pipe. Then, as tom-toms beat out an age-old rhythm, Spotted Wolf invoked the solemn hex.

The Indians contend the water's release has brought the lake down to disastrously low levels.

* * *

The ceremony was another in a series of outbursts against the Oklahoma capital. Earlier, resort owners and others in the Canton area organized a "Hate Oklahoma City" association. The Oklahoma City water superintendent, Morrison B. Cunningham, was hanged in effigy on Canton streets.

But Cunningham points out the capital has rights, upheld in court, to a certain amount of water each year from the dam. He said the city hasn't received nearly all its quota.

Discover $307,000 in Recluse's Home

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Stocks and bonds worth $240,000 were found yesterday in the refuse-strewn home of an aged woman recluse about whom an Evanston legend had grown.

Mrs. Therese Stoody Porter, 80, died Saturday in a friend's home where she was taken after becoming ill two weeks ago. State officials found the treasure today, plus $67,000 cash in a safe deposit box.

* * *

This was the principal legend which revolved around Mrs. Porter, her large and silent house and a 1922 automobile which had stood for years in her driveway.

Many years ago, the story went, a couple—presumably the Porters—climbed into the new 1922 car to start their honeymoon trip. The husband went back into the house for a last look around and fell downstairs, killing himself. In grief his bride left the grounds and car untended throughout the years, while she remained a recluse.

She never told why she became a recluse.

3-Foot Rattlesnake Found in Bale of Hay

GRANITE FALLS, N. C. (AP)—Curtis Helton, a farmer near here, had just finished harvesting his hay and baling it.

He stooped to load a bale on a truck when he heard a strange hissing. A snake's head protruded about eight inches from the bale of hay.

Helton quickly killed the snake, a 3-foot rattler. It had gone through the baling machine without injury.

It is estimated that when white men first came to the United States there were about eight trillion board feet of timber in the forests of the country.

News of the Men in Service

A Pontiac man, James Hagon, son of the Samuel Hagons of 1130 Garden Ct., has won the praise of his comrades for his bravery while fighting in Korea.

Sgt. Edward Crawford, platoon sergeant of "H" Co., 3rd Battalion, 1st Marine Regt., wrote to the Pontiac Press explaining how Pfc. Hagon conducted himself under fire.

HAGON

When two men were wounded in the fighting, Hagon voluntarily stayed behind to care for their wounds and led them to safety. He then proceeded to join his company on foot and alone. Refusing to take cover, Pfc. Hagon engaged the enemy in hand-to-hand combat, and later, while in the trenches, destroyed an enemy assault team that was trying to overthrow the platoon, wrote Sgt. Crawford.

On the following day, Pfc. Hagon again volunteered to carry the wounded to safety under enemy fire.

In the words of Sgt. Crawford, "Pfc. Hagon is a credit to the Marines and the people of his home town."

Infant Boy Drowns in Bucket of Water

SALOME, Ariz. (AP)—The infant son of a California couple rolled off the front seat of a parked car and drowned in a bucket of water, Deputy Sheriff W. D. Davis reported yesterday.

The victim was Jack Gabberry of Bell Flower.

Davis said that the Gabberrys had stopped for a cup of coffee at Bonanza, Ariz., 22 miles west of Salome. Their baby was asleep on the front seat and a bucket of water they had brought along to use on an ailing radiator was on the floor boards below. When they returned about 10 minutes later the baby was found, head down, in the bucket, Davis said.

Mamie to Give First Reception During Vacation

DENVER (AP) — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower meets today with a group of Republican women at the first reception she has held since coming to Colorado for a vacation nearly six weeks ago.

The first lady arranged to receive a group of GOP leaders from the Denver area.

Since arriving in Denver Aug. 8 Mrs. Eisenhower has turned down dozens of invitations to attend social affairs and she has been seeing only personal friends at her mother's residence.

* * *

The first three weeks of her stay she didn't venture out of the house. Friends said she was exhausted from the Washington social season, and that she also was troubled by Denver's mile-high altitude.

Lately she has been downtown to the hairdresser and last week she got out to Cherry Hills Country Club a couple of times while her son, Maj. John Eisenhower, and his wife were in town.

And Sunday evening the First Lady and the President were honor guests at a private dinner.

GIs in Korea Receive Winter Combat Gear

SEOUL (AP)—Troops of the U. S. 8th Army are drawing winter equipment and Army spokesmen say all gear is for "a combat army rather than garrison troops."

Lt. Col. Thomas H. Scott, Quartermaster Corps supply chief, said new olive-green wool field shirts and trousers are being issued to all soldiers, along with heavy underwear, gloves, mufflers and mountain sleeping bags.

Next month, equipment for extremely cold weather will be issued.

The average per-head value of United States hogs Jan. 1, 1953 was $25.90, compared with $30 a year earlier.

Two Cases Solved

Pontiac police announce admissions by two men that they took part in the gun battle which resulted in the death of SILAS CHANEY Aug. 9. Thus within a week two slaying cases apparently have been solved which have involved extensive and detailed investigation.

The earlier arrest of DONALD V. O'BRIAN, charged with the killing of Mrs. HALLIE O. PERKINS, resulted directly from the prompt and brave action of two private citizens, JAMES BROWN and JACK SEEBALD. For their act in capturing O'BRIAN they have been praised and thanked by Mayor LAW and Chief of Police STRALEY.

However, the police had conducted an exhaustive investigation into the PERKINS slaying, and this advance work aided materially in bringing a confession from O'BRIAN after his capture as he was about to attack another Pontiac woman.

The work done in both these cases reflects credit upon Pontiac's Police Department. Woefully lacking in manpower, the department has come successfully through these two cases in which identity of the fugitives proved a baffling problem.

While the accused still await trial, the police have done their work. Their successful action is sufficient answer to those who have been hasty in their criticism, and slow to give credit where credit is due.

Mr. Durkin's Resignation

It is regrettable that first reactions distort rather than clarify the differences which led to the first break in the EISENHOWER cabinet.

Labor leaders point to Secretary DURKIN'S resignation as proof of an Administration runout on campaign commitments to back Taft-Hartley law revisions. Democrats gleefully hail the break as a sign of GOP failure to end AFL-CIO support of Democratic candidates.

While his letter of resignation carefully avoided any criticism of the President, Mr. Durkin told a press conference he quit "because the Administration still has no labor policy."

The facts seem to be that a misunderstanding and a leak precipitated the resignation. Mr. DURKIN apparently believed that the 19 proposed amendments agreed upon in conference between him and the White House staff represented Administration policy.

Then came the leak. This revealed that of the amendments proposed in the memorandum to be sent Congress, all but three were highly favorable to labor. Included were virtual restoration of the closed shop, modification of the secondary boycott and lessening of union financial responsibility for acts of its members.

When GOP criticism indicated the revisions would have little chance in Congress, the memorandum was withdrawn and Mr. DURKIN rejected the President's plea to remain in the cabinet.

More Work for GMT

There is good news for Pontiac in the Army's announcement that General Motors Truck and Coach Division has another $85,000,000 contract.

This contract for two and a half ton trucks was revealed with a similar $61,000,000 truck order given Reo Motors Corporation of Lansing. A $200,000,000 contract also was awarded Fisher Body Division for M48 Patton tanks to be built at Grand Blanc.

★ ★ ★

In view of the fact that Reo's unit price for the trucks was slightly higher than GMT's, it is important to note the Army's reasons for dividing this business. According to Army Secretary STEVENS it was decided to keep both plants operating to maintain a broader production base and reduce delivery time.

Also worth noting is that General Motors tank bid was about 12 per cent lower than that submitted by another corporation.

A spokesman for Truck and Coach Division made it clear that the new truck contract will have no immediate effect on the local labor situation. The division has been producing the military trucks for three years without interruption except for one shutdown caused by the Livonia fire.

Nonetheless the community will share the satisfaction expressed by PHILIP J. MONAGHAN, GM vice president and general manager of Truck & Coach:

"We are very happy to be able to continue our military truck production through 1954," Mr. Monaghan told the Press. "To the citizens of Pontiac it will mean a continuing level of employment in this end of our business."

Wool: What women pulled over men's eyes in the days before nylon.

The close of the Man About Town football contest is near at hand. If you want that $300 in bonds you must get busy. Can you spare a minute? Make a check mark on the team that you think will win each of the following games, or if you think it will be a tie game do not check either team:

Sept. 19—Texas A. & M. vs. Kentucky.
Sept. 26—Notre Dame vs. Oklahoma.
Oct. 2—Fordham vs. Detroit.
Oct. 9—Pontiac High vs. Flint Central.
Oct. 17—Minnesota vs. Illinois.
Oct. 25—Detroit Lions vs. Forty-niners.
Oct. 31—Pennsylvania vs. Michigan.
Nov. 7—Michigan State vs. Ohio State.
Nov. 14—Colorado vs. Nebraska.
Nov. 21—U.C.L.A. vs. Southern California.
Nov. 28—Army vs. Navy.

Then fasten this list to a piece of paper bearing your name and address, and mail or bring it to the Pontiac Press office so it will be received by next Saturday noon, Sept. 19. Or you can copy the list on a piece of paper and indicate your choices. The $300 in U. S. Savings Bonds goes to the person making the best prediction. Every member of your family is eligible to compete, but each entry must be on a separate sheet. No publicity outside of this column is being given the contest. NOW is the best time to make entries. Or don't you need $300?

Over at Flint they are getting around it by playing free bingo—no charge and no prizes. But you can make donations to the cause.

He Believes 1952 Convention Was Rigged So One World Group Could Control U. S.

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature).

Of late we have been reading considerable about Eisenhower having to "rely on the opposition party."

It is true that without Democratic support some of his measures might have been turned down, but I'm wondering if this Democratic support came from the "opposition party," I think not.

I believe quite a few million Americans agree with me and more will agree in the future. What actually happened is that the One-Worlders, UNers, England and Europe Firsters and Communist Appeasers so rigged the convention in Chicago that regardless of who won the election they would still have their man in the White House.

The remedy lies in sending men to Congress who actually are Republicans, not men such as Cain who merely wear the Republican label while following the New-Fair-Deal policies and others who were defeated last election.

Then let Ike depend upon the Leftists for support of his program. At least we would afford an honest choice for the people in the next presidential election, in that we would have candidates running under their true colors.

Reader Claims Thoughts of Men Are Not All Evil

Those who maintain that all the thoughts of men not united to Christ are evil must maintain man is totally depraved, for if he were not, some of his thoughts or actions would be good.

The philosophers of ancient Greece and China, the legists of ancient Rome, the ethicians and poets of the Arabic world all, according to such a theory, thought nothing but evil.

Were all non-Christians monsters of total depravity there would have been no Enoch and no Noah. The pagan world would have known no genuine heroism, no real virtues, no genuine love of parent and child.

To maintain no non-Christian ever has a good thought is as absurd as to maintain no Christian ever has a wicked thought.

Our nation has had its unbelievers, among them Paine, Jefferson and Franklin. Was their every thought and action vicious?

God gives to every man endowed with the use of reason the grace to live right, to see Him in some measure according to the light that shines in darkness, the "darkness that was not able to master it."

Lawrence Shows McCarthy the Way to Justify Securing, Using Information

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Sometimes, in the hurry and pressure under which news is distributed nowadays, there isn't time to look up basic law or constitutional precedents, and an entirely erroneous impression is unintentionally created.

Thus, from one end of the country to the other a few days ago went dispatches implying that Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin, Republican, had violated some law when he gave to reporters a document which had been marked "restricted" or "classified information" by the Army.

One editorial in an eastern newspaper went so far as to cry out that the Wisconsin senator had "ignored" the law, that he was not "above the law," and so on.

Actually, if the Wisconsin senator violated any law by publishing the documents which the Army had distributed to 100 officers so that they might study the meaning of Communist philosophy, so did the newspapers and press associations which printed what he gave them.

The truth is no law was violated in either case. For there is no statute which forbids disclosure or publication of a government document just because somebody in the Army or the Navy or the Air Force happens to mark it as "classified."

A thousand executive orders may be issued by a President ordering government personnel to keep things secret, and government employes can be punished for violating them, but this cannot affect any citizen outside the government who is the recipient of the information.

It so happens that in this case the Army officers were told to study certain phases of communism as an orientation course, and most of the material was taken from published books.

The army also could have taken a translation of the Koran, the Mohammedan bible, distributed copies of it and marked it "classified."

No such arbitrary marking of information, however, can in any way restrain a newspaper or periodical from publishing the contents of such documents as are labeled "classified" if they can get hold of them.

The existing law says a crime is committed if anyone in the government "knowingly and willfully communicates, furnishes, transmits, or otherwise makes available to an unauthorized person, or publishes any classified information" about the code or cipher system of the United States.

When the foregoing law was up for passage, members of the press pointed out the dangers of a peacetime censorship law and succeeded in narrowing the language to code communication.

It may be questioned whether a peacetime censorship law would be held constitutional. It is interesting also to note that, even in the case of "classified information" relating to codes, there is a paragraph which says that "nothing in this section shall prohibit the furnishing, upon lawful demand, of information to any regularly constituted committee of the Senate or the House of Representatives of the United States of America, or joint committee thereof."

Perhaps the most significant case that got to the courts occurred when Hugo Black, then a Democratic senator from Alabama, conducted his famous committee investigation in 1935 on the subject of "lobbying."

Private messages between an editor and his associates were unlawfully seized from a telegraph office and disclosed by the Federal Communications Commission to an investigator for the committee.

But the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals held — and the case was never reversed by the Supreme Court — that, even though the information was obtained improperly, the data could be used by the committee.

The court said that "the universal rule, so far as we know it, is that the legislative discretion in the discharge of its constitutional functions, whether rightfully or wrongfully exercised, is not a subject for judicial interference."

Senator Black evidently didn't suffer for his action because, two years later, he was elevated to the Supreme Court.

Now this correspondent isn't advocating that Sen. McCarthy be given a place on the federal bench, as was once facetiously mentioned in these dispatches, but merely points out that the Wisconsin senator may look upon the 1935 precedent as his justification in parallel circumstances for using whatever information he gathers.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Wives Should Make Sure Mates Are Happy at Home

Clifford says he'd much rather have an "affair" with his own wife than with the siren at his office. So why don't you wives take a lesson from this Case Record and prevent such a tragedy in your own home? Just because you are completely satisfied is no sure sign your husband is!

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Clifford J., aged 43, has been married for 20 years.

"Dr. Crane, I'd like to offer a different view of an old problem," he began.

"I am infatuated with a girl who works in my office. She is only 28, and exceptionally attractive.

"But I'd prefer to be infatuated with my wife, for we have three dandy sons in grammar and high school.

"Besides, I am a prominent businessman in my town, and our family is held in high esteem.

"But I can't seem to resist this girl. She intoxicates me. I resolve never to go out with her again, but I keep breaking my resolutions.

"I seem to have no more capacity to leave her alone than a chronic drunk has to ignore whisky.

"So what can my wife do to help me break my infatuation?"

Tersely, such wives should fight fire with fire. For most husbands who stray, will frankly admit they'd prefer to have an "affair" with their wife, but she seems disinterested.

So you wives should throw off your normal passive attitude. Your home and your children's happiness is at stake, even if you personally are comparatively frigid regarding physical affection.

Even your economic future hangs in the balance, too. So don't meekly let any other woman poach on your domain.

It is pretty late to be starting your campaign after your husband is madly infatuated, but the odds still favor you wives if you will wage an ardent campaign.

For men grow panicky as they pass 40, and fear they are losing their sexual vigor. This terror drives them into a mad desire to regain their youth.

You wives should anticipate this period in your husband's life and lock the barn before the stallion is stolen.

"Oh, nothing like that could ever affect me!" many wives in their 30's have confidently stated.

Yet at that very moment I happened to know that their husbands already had paramours. It is surprising how blind some of you complacent wives can be.

"But we are ideally happy," such women may protest.

"Says you!" I'd like to retort. "Madame, you may be speaking for yourself, but what makes you so sure your husband is ideally happy?"

Just remember that the normal male has far more passion than his wife. Though she may be fully satisfied, that doesn't necessarily indicate that he is.

You wives must thus feign an ardor that isn't always your natural feeling at the moment, in order to be sure your mate is happy.

Men seldom become infatuated outside their homes if they are happy at home.

If you wives are good cooks, you need not fear downtown chefs. And if you satiate your husband's desire he can pass up a dozen movie stars with no more than an appreciative look or a whistle.

Men are naturally polygamous, but our modern society limits them to one wife. So that one wife must act wisely if she expects to keep her husband from falling into Clifford's type of problem.

Send for my bulletin "How to Prevent Impotence in Men," enclosing a stamped, return envelope. For that fear is what drives husbands elsewhere.

I Did Not Mail It

You asked me why I did not write . . . To tell the truth, I wrote . . . And it was quite a lengthy piece . . . Not just a little note . . . It told a hundred things or more . . . I could not ever say . . . In person, when I penned it or . . . On any other day . . . It said how much you meant to me . . . It even called you "dear" . . . And offered you my heart and soul . . . And all my love sincere . . . But when I went to mail it I . . . Was bashful and afraid . . . I felt I was presumptuous and . . . I could not make the grade . . . And so I tore the letter up . . . Although the words were true . . . Not for the life of me would I . . . Impose myself on you.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(International News Service)

The embattled spectators of the political scene conclave in Chicago to consider waits and means.

They have been de-officed eight months which is even a long time for the governors of the Carolinas.

It's Sept. 15th which is no holiday for strings on purses. For the first time since 1932 a Republican is collecting the taxes.

We are living in a scientific age of snorkels in beaver ponds and safety-valves on hot water bottles. The national debt is piling up like sawdust in a chair leg factory. Anybody with a small business can get federal swag by taking the pauper's oath on a mail order catalogue. Patronage is dripping from the trees like Spanish moss. The scepter of office is a finger in a dial phone.

But the deserving Democrats have been unloaded like cattle cars going west.

They are out of it like bones in a museum. This survivors' meeting in Chicago has no marque and no reprisal. It can suggest without endorsing, it can recommend without traction and it can criticize without hatching.

Naturally, the meeting will be conducted on the same theory of all political economy. In order to get the right slant on things you have to put yourself in the other fellow's place.

That will take some doing. The incubented Republicans have no more intention of moving over than a fat boy on a soda fountain stool.

Only the Democrats are meeting in Chicago today. The last time the Republicans met there it worked.

Dr. Brady Stresses High Calcium Diet for Persons Forced to Take Bed Rest

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The other day I quoted from one of the outstanding medical textbooks of the 20th century, Boas's The Patient Past Fifty (not available to the laity) some pertinent facts about the calcium metabolism of persons long confined to bed or rest, particularly the following:

"Bed rest induces . . . a remarkable loss of calcium from the skeleton. The calcium excretion may increase by as much as 400 per cent. The resulting calciuria "may be sufficient to cause renal calculi" (kidney stones, stones in bladder, gravel).

May I venture to suggest to the so-and-so who warns you against supplementing your regular diet with Ca and D or against high calcium diet lest you get "deposits" of calcium in your bones, joints, kidneys, etc.,—that he buy or borrow a few modern textbooks on physiology, nutrition, metabolism and therapeutics and find out what has happened in the past 50 years.

And you folks who suffer the multifarious manifestations of calcium deficiency, please, please, read again what Dr. Ernst P. Boas, from whose book I quote, says about the loss of calcium from the skeleton (the storehouse of calcium).

Then try to reconcile the occurrence of kidney stones under such circumstances with the deposits of calcium in arteries, liver, kidneys, etc., conjured up by some far away medical savant to discourage you from trying to correct your calcium deficiency.

The 19th century doctors who fear "deposits" of calcium in the joints, arteries, kidneys, etc., if one supplements the ordinary diet with the calcium and vitamin D the ordinary refined American diet fails to provide, just don't know what every physician should know—every dentist, too—about physiology, nutrition and pathology.

As a young doctor I shared some of these same views about calcium deposits. Take hardening of the arteries, for instance.

In an advanced stage the walls of some of the affected vessels may be calcified and as brittle as pipestems. So it seemed logical enough to assume that "deposit" of calcium in the artery wall had caused the arteriosclerosis.

That had been the general medical theory and in a vague way it still prevails, although I am unable to find in antique medical books a direct statement of this theory.

However, no medical authority today ascribes hardening of the arteries to "too much calcium" or to "deposit" of calcium in the artery wall.

Some other time we'll tell what physicians do consider causes of arteriosclerosis. Suffice to say here that pathologists now recognize that the change in the arteries is a process of degeneration in which functioning muscle cells which wear out are replaced, not with new muscle cells but makeshift repair material such as fibrous tissue, fat or calcareous patches.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Apartments' Top Floors May Be Playgrounds

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—The top floors of new apartment buildings erected in Rio de Janeiro soon may all be children's playgrounds.

Mayor Dulcidio Cardoso has appointed a four-member commission to consider such a project.

The measure is prompted by a shortage of parks in the more densely-populated parts of Rio.

New York Checking Upon 150 Teachers

NEW YORK (AP)—A city official investigating subversive influences in the schools says 150 teachers are being checked for suspected Communist party membership.

Saul Moskoff, assistant corporation counsel, also reported yesterday that 23 other teachers have admitted past party membership and have been allowed to retain their jobs after proving they eft the party in good faith.

Moskoff said another 15 are under suspension and awaiting departmental trial for refusing to answer inquiry questions and that 110 more have been dismissed or resigned or retired since the probe started, two years ago.

Cosmic Timer Counts Billionths of Seconds

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Physicists at the University of California at Los Angeles have come up with a cosmic stopwatch.

The university said today the device will be used to measure the lifetimes of certain heavy mesons, particles from atomic nuclei, and are thought to exist for only billionths of a second. (One-billionth of a second is to a second as one second is to a hundred years.)

2 Jailbreaking Youths Just Try, Try Again

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A couple of unsuccessful jailbreakers heard the judge sentence them to additional time for attempting to flee from the El Reno Federal Reformatory yesterday.

Moments later, they staged a second dash for freedom on the courthouse steps.

The pair, Chester Eley, 19, and 18 year-old Billy Pamplin slugged a U. S. marshal with their handcuffs and ran. But they tripped over an auto bumper and were rearrested.

Job Influences Court

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—After pleading guilty to a drunk charge, a man asked Judge S. Burr Leikind if he could address the court. The judge said "make it short." "I have a job to go to," the man replied. "Okay," said the judge. "Sentence suspended."

William Oatis Tells of Shadowing, Arrest by Red Secret Police

(Editors note: William N. Oatis, the Associated Press correspondent who was jailed by Communists in Czechoslovakia for more than two years, relates his experiences in this second article.)

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

One night in February of 1951 the Prague radio broadcast that a policeman had been shot to death near Charles Square in downtown Prague. The killers had escaped. The public was asked to tell the police anything known about them.

In that killing, I saw only one item in the day-by-day grist of news that passed through the office. Actually, it was an event that was to wield an enormous influence in my own life.

William Oatis

About a month later Mrs. Hana Svoboda came into the office. She was the wife of Thomas Svoboda, one of my translators, and the mother of his baby daughter. She was looking for her husband, and she was weeping.

He was off that day, and nobody in the office had seen him.

His wife, who had a clerical job and had worked herself during the day, would say only that he had left the apartment where they live with her parents, and had not come back.

Svoboda never came back to work, either. I reported his disappearance to the Ministry of Information which had approved his employment by the AP, and to the police.

But neither was any help in tracing him. And as I learned more about what had happened that day his wife had come looking for him, I was pretty sure I knew why.

While Svoboda was in the apartment with his mother-in-law, a strange man had come asking for him. Svoboda had talked with the man briefly in an undertone, and then both had left.

As they walked down the street below, another man had fallen in behind them, and the three had vanished around a corner. That night, plainclothesmen had searched the apartment.

It seemed safe to guess that Svoboda was in the hands of the secret police. But, by virtue of the very nature of the secret police, it did not seem safe to say so—not out loud, anyway.

* * *

A few days after that, Paul Woydinek of my Czech staff said he had learned the trouble was "that boy who's out of the country" had been connected with "some people that had something to do with the murder of that policeman."

I had never met "that boy who's out of the country." But I had heard a lot about him.

He was a chum of Svoboda's from college days, a young Czech refugee who lived in Paris and was in and out of Czechoslovakia from time to time.

It was fairly clear to me that he crossed the border illegally. But I was unaware of whatever else he might be doing. In fact I did not even know his name.

I had heard of him first from Nathan Polowetzky, my predecessor in charge of the Prague AP bureau.

Polowetzky was expelled from Czechoslovakia on grounds of "unobjective reporting" and came back to London in April, 1950, while I was waiting there for a visa to go into that country.

In talking with me about his work in Prague, he spoke of "a little guy"—he did not mention any name—that had given him news, a man that came from Paris but seemed well informed on doings in Czechoslovakia.

* * *

After I got to Prague I heard from Czech employes that this man had given Polowetzky a story the Ministry of Information had cited as an example of "unobjective reporting"—a factual story on a coal mine strike in the Bohemian town of Kladno.

Woydinek did not show up for work April 2. I went to his room with an interpreter and found it sealed with paper tape. A neighbor told us what had happened.

About 6:30, as Woydinek was getting ready to go to the office, six plainclothesmen had walked in. Three had led him away. The other three had stayed, searched the place and sealed it.

On Friday morning, April 20, I awoke about 8:30 in my room at the Ambassador Hotel and telephoned the office to see if there had been any news worth picking up on Prague's morning newscast.

Our old watchman who spoke only Czech and German, answered the telephone. I asked for Peter Muntz, the translator who had been due on the job an hour and a half earlier. The old man said "Nein, nein"—"No, No."

I called Muntz's apartment. His wife said, "Mr. Oatis, my husband is at office." I waited awhile and then called the office again.

Again the watchman answered, but a moment later somebody else was on the wire, telling me in broken English that Muntz was not there.

It was a man whose voice I did not recognize. And I thought, "This is a cop. Muntz has been arrested, and if I go to the office I will be arrested too."

I asked the man what he was doing there. He said he was fixing the teletype machines.

I drove to the U. S. Embassy. I told the counselor, Tyler Thompson, I was afraid police were in my office. On his advice, I had Miss Mary Horak, an embassy secretary, telephone the office and speak Czech with the alleged teletype repairman.

He told her exactly what he was doing with the machines and we decided he was no imposter—and no policeman.

Richard G. Johnson, the vice consul, went with me to my office. The night watchman was still there.

The printer repairman—whom I recognized immediately when I saw him, though I had not recognized his voice—was just leaving. Muntz was nowhere in sight.

Johnson said he could do nothing for him because he was a Czechoslovak citizen. "Now if you were to get arrested," he added — and I gathered that in that case he could take a hand.

That afternoon I went to Dr. Rudolf Popper, head of the press section of the Ministry of Information.

"Three of my employes are missing and I think they've been arrested," I said. "Am I going to get arrested?"

The swarthy, black-haired little man, who looked something like a thin Pierre Laval, asked me if I had a guilty conscience. I said, "No."

He leaned back in his chair in the tired way he had, looked down his face at me and said, "Why should you worry? You have semi-diplomatic status."

It was true that my official accreditation gave me something like diplomats' extra rations. But it was not true that it granted me diplomatic immunity from arrest.

That was Friday. On Sunday at about 10 a.m., I drove out of the public garage where I kept the office car and turned a corner on my way back to the hotel. In my rear view mirror, I saw another car pull away from the curb behind me.

It was a big, black streamline Tatraplan, a Czech model commonly used by the secret police. It kept a half block behind me. Was it following me? I would see.

Instead of going straight to the hotel, I made a detour around a block. The Tatraplan followed me all the way. When I parked in front of the hotel, it parked about a block behind.

I hurried inside, picked up my key at the desk and dashed upstairs, two steps at a time, to my room on the third floor.

I bolted the door and stood there with cold terror stabbing into my stomach.

I decided to go to the embassy That was U. S. territory, and Czech police could not reach me there. Without thinking to pick up even pajamas and shaving kit, I set out.

There were two ways from stairway to street — one through the front entrance, the other out a side door and down a passageway. I chose the second as the safer.

It was not necessary. Nobody recognizable as a detective was either in the lobby or out front. I slammed the car door and drove off. Down the street the Tatraplan also pulled away from the curb.

* * *

Once I was in National Avenue I had a straight stretch of almost a mile down past the National Theater and across the Vltava River.

Then a turn to the right and another mile's drive would bring me to the hilly side street on which the embassy fronted.

My shadows—there were two men in the car behind—kept a discreet distance till after the turn. Then they started gaining on me.

I speeded up, trying to steer clear of the car tracks in the narrow brick street and wondering how it would be to blow a tire just then.

They speeded up, too, despite heavy traffic. At length, the Tatraplan was the third car behind me. But a few seconds later I turned up the hill and parked opposite the embassy.

I looked back. The black automobile had not followed me into the side street. I ran across to the embassy gate. And for the first time in many minutes I felt safe.

Sgt. Harry Morrissey of the military attache's office was on guard duty in the front office. I asked if the counselor, Thompson, was in. He said everybody had gone on a picnic except Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs, who was ill at home.

"Do you want to talk to the ambassador?" he asked.

"No," I said, "I won't bother him."

I returned to the office. Another black Tatraplan picked up my trail and followed me all the way, parking up the street from the office.

I walked back and looked at the two men seated in it — a little bald fellow with a fringe of gray hair and a thin, swarthy youth who looked Italian—both of them in shirtsleeves.

I said, "StB?" (That is the Czech abbreviation for the official name of the secret police — the Statni Bezpecnost (State Security). ity).)

The dark young man rotated an index finger beside his right ear. It was a gesture that means, in any language, "You have wheels in your head."

That evening I was lying on my bed at the hotel when Thompson telephoned, back from the picnic and anxious to know if I was all right. I told him I would see him the next day.

But I did not. Because the next day—Monday, April 23, 1951—six men walked into my office and arrested me.

Rail Rate Hike May Boost Truck Mail Shipments

NEW YORK — More mail soon may be hauled by trucks because the railrads have asked for a 45 per cent boost in their price for this service, Fleet Owner magazine reports.

The need for paring costs may force the post office to turn more and more to highway haulers and there is some indication that steps already have been taken toward this end.

The request for a boost for the railroads comes on top of a move by Postmaster General Summerfield to cut down the $600 million annual deficit of the department. A boost in parcel post rates, already okayed by the ICC, and a request for rasises in first, second and third class mail, would bring the department within shouting distance of that goal.

An increase in the railroad rates, however, would kill any hope Summerfield has of eliminating the deficit, the magazine explains.

There seems to be a generaly awakened interest in re-evaluating the Post Office Department's methods of operation in hauling mail, judging from a statement made by Summerfield.

He said, "The time is long overdue for a complete study of the methods used to transport the mail. The development of our highway system offers, potentially, many improvements in mail service through the more intelligent utilization of motor trucks and buses."

Columbus Paper to Help Couple Wed in France

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A story which appeared in a Columbus newspaper this morning will enable a 24-year-old couple to marry on the other side of the world.

Bernard McCabe, a Columbus-born machinist now living in Dunkerque, France, wrote Columbus Mayor Robert T. Oestreicher that French tradition poses a problem for him and his fiancee, Alberta Gibon.

He said the mayor of Dunkerque told him they could not be married unless notice of the engagement were carried in the home town newspapers of both the prospective bride and groom. That's the custom in France, the mayor explained.

In today's paper, the Ohio State Journal takes care of the details. A copy of the story will be sent to Dunkerque.

McCabe made sure of a fast response. He enclosed two 15-cent airmail stamps in his letter to the Columbus mayor.

Says Clergy Fell for Red Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — J. B. Matthews says "thousands of clergymen adopted the Communist slogan 'bring the boys home,'" and so helped speed U. S. demobilization after World War II.

* * *

Matthews contended, in a Dumont television program last night that the rapid dissipation of military strength came about largely "as a result of one of the most comprehensive, intensive and extensive campaigns the Communist party ever put on in the united states."

Matthews was named executive director of the Senate investigating subcommittee several months ago, but Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis) accepted his resignation after a furore over a magazine article matthews wrote.

In it Matthews said, "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestant clergymen

$100-a-Plate Dinner Cuts Deficit in Half

CHICAGO (AP) — The $100-a-plate fund raising dinner apparently has cut in half the Democratic National Committee's reported $250,000 deficit. The committee did announce the amount but some 1,600 Democrats at $100 a plate would bring in $160,000 to the committee.

My Rheumatism Is Gone! I Give O-Jib-Wa Bitters FULL CREDIT

"The intense shooting pains that I suffered during the last three years made work very difficult," says Mr. Earl V. Williams, 320 W. Elm St., Reading, Michigan.

"It was my lucky day when I read about O-JIB-WA BITTERS in the paper and decided to try it. For three years I suffered from rheumatism and arthritis pains in my knees, back and arms. The intense shooting pains made work difficult and kept me awake nights. I was sure miserable. Other medicines I tried failed to help me, but from the very start, O-JIB-WA went right to work and showed me results in about a week. I have taken it for some time now and my rheumatism is gone and I can honestly say that I am better in everyway. Although I am in good shape now, I'll always keep a bottle of O-JIB-WA BITTERS handy. It is really a great medicine and I would recommend that if you suffer from rheumatism or arthritis, that you give it a fair trial, and let it help you too. I give O-JIB-WA BITTERS full credit for my recovery."

MUSKEGON (AP) — Voters will decide at a special election today whether to support a city commission proposal to issue $800,000 in revenue bonds to provide municipal offstreet parking facilities.

The controversial issue is expected to attract anywhere from 5,000 to 10,000 to the polls. It will be the first referendum vote involving a commission decision in the city's history.

Opponents of the proposal circulated petitions and forced the referendum after the commission had authorized the bond issue last May.

May Reduce Charge in Child-Death Case

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Municipal Judge Thaddeus B. Taylor had under advisement today a motion to reduce the first degree murder charge against Arthur J. Wiltse, 29, in the fatal beating of his 3-year-old stepson.

Wiltse pleaded innocent to the charge yesterday and asked that it be reduced to manslaughter on the grounds that the prosecution had not shown "forethought or premeditation."

The stepfather was arrested last month after the child, Thomas B. Rozell, died following a beating. Physicians said death was due to internal bleeding.

Judge Taylor did not set a date for a new hearing. Wiltse is being held without bond.

County Costs Paid 35 Pct. by State

LANSING (AP)—The state treasury paid more than 35 per cent of the cost of county government in Michigan in 1952, Aud. Gen. John B. Martin reported today.

Martin reported that in 47 of the 83 counties, more than 50 per cent of their governmemtal expenses went for highways, while in seven counties the cost of health, welfare and medical assistance amounted to more than 40 per cent of total county government costs, exclusive of debt retirement and capital outlay.

Stops 2 Bad Cases of Bleeding Piles In Just a Few Days

"I suffered for several years with bleeding piles," writes a Mt. Clemens contractor, "and tried about all kinds of pile ointments, suppositories, etc. with little or no relief. Then my druggist told me of the amazing results his customers had gotten with the new miracle drug called RECTORAL. So I tried a bottle and to by utter surprise the bleeding and accomanying soreness and irritation began to disappear in a few days and in a few days more all trouble was gone. Then my mother-in-law who had also suffered with bleeding for years tried a bottle and in less than a week all her trouble disappeared. It is now nearly two years since we took this wonderful medicine and neither one of us have had a bit of trouble since."
The same experience could be told by thousands of other former sufferers. And it is all so simple and easy. Throw away your messy, disagreeable-to-use ointments, suppositories, etc. Just take a tablespoonful of pleasant, harmless RECTORAL after meals and at bedtime. Usually in a few days bleeding with its soreness and irritation begins to disappear and in a few days more be entirely gone, if directions are followed. So why suffer any longer? Heart Patients Get 3rd Artery

Canadian Doctor Finds Way to Supply Blood to Damaged Organ

NEW YORK (AP) — Sick human hearts are made well and strong again by giving them an extra third artery, a Canadian surgeon said today.

Men crippled by heart attack, scarcely able to work, now are back at full-time work as oil well drillers, machinists, railroad workers and physicians, Dr. Arthur M. Vineberg, of Montreal, told an International College of Surgeons meeting.

* * *

The third artery brings life-saving blood to hearts starving because of blockage of one or both of the coronary arteries which normally feed the heart.

Heart attacks come because the coronary arteries harden and narrow, or are blocked by clots.

* * *

The dramatic operation takes an artery running through the chest and thrusts one end into a tunnel opened inside the heart muscles. The new supply of blood brings a new lease on life.

Vineberg is a lecturer in surgery at McGill University Medical School.

The third artery has been given successfully to eight out of nine men in the last three years, he said.

* * *

It can be done safely for any heart victim "who can walk 100 feet or more," he added.

It is not recommended for persons so ill that they have heart pains even when resting.

For the spare artery Vineberg uses the internal mammary artery which nourishes tissues in the chest. One end of this artery is permanently closed off.

* * *

The free end is placed inside a funnel created by separating heart muscle tissue. The muscles are not cut. They close back, holding the spare artery in place.

Tests on animals show that the spare artery begins to grow within a week, sending out new branches. These apparently join up with smaller arteries in the heart muscle, and the blood coursing in from the spare artery is carried away in normal fashion.

Rita's Children Fly to Her in Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Rita Hayworth's two small daughters have joined her here for safeguarding while two anonymous letters threatening death are investigated.

Accompanied by a nurse, Yasmin, 3½, the actress' daughter by her divorced husband, Moslem Prince Aly Khan, and Rebecca, 8, a daughter by her former husband, Orson Welles, arrived by plane from Los Angeles last night.

Their mother met them at the airport.

* * *

Miss Hayworth has been waiting until crooner Dick Haymes obtains a Nevada divorce from Nora Eddington Flynn Haymes. The decree is expected next week. Then the actress and singer plan to be wed.

The children were placed under guard after Miss Hayworth's attorney told the FBI she had received two letters threatening death to herself and Yasmin unless they returned to Aly. The FBI is investigating the letters, postmarked New Rochelle, N.Y.

Flood of Mail Was Life Saver for 11-Year Boy

MADISONVILLE, Ky. (AP) — An 11-year-old boy is in school for the first time in his life because "too many people love me for me to die."

And little Odell Leon Hall has about 300,000 pieces of mail to prove his theory.

A little more than a year ago—in July, 1952—when it was feared the youngster was near death from several ailments, including hardening of the arteries and heart disease, he sent out this plea:

"Won't somebody please write me?"

His request, picked up from the Associated Press, brought letters of encouragement and gifts from all parts of the world.

After that, says his mother, Mrs. C. R. Hall of Nortonville, Odell began to show gradual improvement and to walk again with the aid of a cane.

Last week, he hobbled into White Plains School, eager to learn to read so he can preach someday.

"I'm going to work for the lord", he says.

Section Foreman Killed as Train Hits Handcar

JACKSON (AP) — Norman Ross, 61, of Jackson, Grand Trunk Western Railroad section foreman, was killed yesterday when a Michigan Central Grand Rapids-bound train struck his handcar, throwing it on top of him after he had jumped to apparent safety. The accident occurred two miles north of here where the Michigan Central's Grand Rapids tracks cross the Grand Trunk tracks.

Stepped-Up Training Slate Faces Wings

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — A stepped-up training schedule was in prospect today for the Detroit Red Wings, defending champions of the National Hockey League.

The Wings reported to camp in such good trim yesterday that general manager Jack Adams and coach Tommy Ivan planned to give them some shooting and rushing drills.

Ordinarily, the first few days of practice are limited to skating.

No member of the five-time NHL champion team was more than 10 pounds overweight, Adams said, and yesterday's 90-minute workout took three to seven pounds off most of the players.

Come in and see . . . value check . . . and test drive a Ford today!

No doubt about it...

Ford's the one fine car in the low-price field!

Feature after feature . . . part after part . . . Ford is as fine as the finest . . . yet it's priced with the lowest.

No car ever built has won such enthusiastic and growing preference as the '53 Ford . . . and no wonder. For no other car with such a wealth of fine-car features costs so little as Ford.

Yes, Ford, with all its fine-car quality, is offered at a price that's easy to pay.

You can have a Ford with a V-8 engine—the same type of engine that powers America's most expensive cars—for hundreds less than many Six-cylinder cars. And a Ford powered with the high-compression Mileage Maker Six costs even less.

Then, too, Ford's body is built like the best, with steel body panels of the same quality and thickness as in the most expensive cars.

Ford also proves that a car doesn't need to carry gas-thirsty extra weight to "gentle" you over the bumpiest roads! For Ford's smooth, level ride blots out the bumps . . . cuts front end road shock alone up to 80%!

Also, you can have your Ford V-8 with Master-Guide, the last word in power steering. Ford Master-Guide cuts up to 75% of turning effort yet it leaves you with the natural "feel" of steering on the straightaway.

There are many other fine-car features, too! Ford Full-Circle Visibility . . . foam-rubber cushioned seats front and rear on all models . . . finishes that are baked on over a complete rust-proofing treatment . . . to mention a few.

It takes all these features to make a fine car truly fine . . . worth more when you buy it . . . and in resale, too! A survey of used car lots proves that people are willing to pay a larger percentage of the original cost for year-old Fords than for any other used cars. No doubt about it, Ford's your best buy!

Worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it!

New York Voters to End Bitter Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City's Democratic voters will give their decision today in their party's bitterest mayoral primary contest in 16 years—a contest with national implications.

The Democratic battle pits Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, seeking reelection and backed by the party's so-called conservative faction, against Manhattan Borough President Robert F. Wagner Jr., supported by the so-called liberal or New Deal wing.

Republican and Liberal party mayoral candidates are unopposed in the primary to choose candidates for city and borough offices.

An estimated half million to a record million persons are expected to vote in the Democratic primary, in which 2,135,000 enrolled Democrats are eligible to participate.

Rescuers Rush to Answer Cry, but Get the Bird

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Shrieks of "Help, Velma" brought sheriff's deputies on the run to the countryside along Nine Mile Creek yesterday.

They found a crow perched in a tree—and two boys who explained that the bird had been trained to squawk for aid. The lads dashed up as one of the deputies was about to shoot the pet of Walter Pope, proprietor of a gasoline station. The officer held his fire.

Mrs. Bridget Gawarski, who lives near the creek reported the cries to the sheriff's office.

Spokesman Denies Fatemi Is in Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—A spokesman for Egypt's governing revolutionary council today denied reports that Hossein Fatemi, righthand man of Iran's ousted Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, is in Egypt or is expected here.

An informed source said here yesterday that Iran's former foreign minister, a fugitive from an Iranian police dragnet since Gen. Fazollah Zahedi overthrew the Mossadegh regime nearly a month ago, either had arrived or would arrive shortly in the Egyptian capital.

The source indicated that Egyptian government air facilities were being used to bring Fatemi to Cairo.

The government's denial was announced by Capt. Amin Shaker, personal aide to Vice Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Anti-Reds Will Try to Convert Agents

INDIAN VILLAGE, Korea (AP)—anti-Communist Korean prisoners in Indian custody today opened a campaign to convert the Communist agents who will try to talk them into returning to Red rule.

For 90 days starting about Sept. 25 the Communist representatives will try to change the minds of Korean and Chinese prisoners who refuse to go home.

But today the Koreans hoisted over their stockade banners reading:

"Red explainers, now is the time for you to turn out as anti-Communists if you want freedom."

Reds Seek Cure to Farm Crises

Soviet Decree, Pravda Editorial Admit Critical Food Situation

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet government has finally recognized that it has on its hands a major farm crisis and is taking drastic measures to cure it.

That is the meaning of agricultural measures announced by Premier Georgi Malenkov's government which have now been climaed with a complex four-page farm decree published in Pravda As a resul ,(,(" yesterday and sicussed in the Moscow paper's lead editorial today.

The collective farmers of the U. S. S. R. have been getting the dirty end of the stick for many years and are quite conscious of this fact. They have not been very happy about this situation.

As a result they have not been increasing their production rapidly enough to meet satisfactorily the growing needs of the increasing Soviet population for food and of Soviet industry for farm-produced raw materials.

Lagging agricultural production has become an important bottleneck in general Soviet economic development.

But Prime Minister Stalin while he lived was never will to admit this situation and do something about it. Now the situation cannot be ignored any longer. Malenkov and his chief farm adviser have been forced for cogent economic and political reasons to take sweeping measures and more may be in store.

Yesterday's decree in some details exposes how Communist propaganda on farm prosperity has been in part at least a fake facade to conceal ominous developments.

For instance the decree revealed that at the present time in Russia there are 8,900,000 fewer cows than there were in 1928—25 years ago before the vaunted collectivization took place. It is obvious there is far less milk per person today than there was before Russian farmers were forced to collectivize.

Soviet farm policy since the arrest of former Minister of Internal Affairs Lavrenty P. Beria in late June appears to be largely in the hand of Premier Georgi Malenkov and first secretary of the central committee of the Communist Party Nikita Khrushchev.

Khrushchev, who had long experience with Soviet agriculture during his many years as boss of the argriculturally rich Ukraine, delivered the recent report to the central committee on agricultural measures which resulted in yesterday's decree.

June Recalls (With Horror) Dick's Illness

By JIM BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's an old Hollywood belief that the plum roles always go to the producer's girl friend or wife.

June Allyson asserts it's not so. And she's got a husband who is both producer and director. So far hubby Dick Powell has thrown no work her way.

"And don't think I haven't tried," she comments. "I read every script Richard brings home. Some of them have had wonderful parts for me. And I hint broadly that I'm available and willing. But he always gives me the same answer: 'We have Jane Russell in mind'."

Someday June believes she will work for her husband. Right now she meets him only as a spouse, not a business contact.

Since she left Metro, the lot that made her a star, she has had her pick of some of the best parts in town.

In the "The Glenn Miller Story" she plays Mrs. Miller to Jimmy Stewart's portrayal of the famous band leader. The two were re-teamed apparently because of their success in "The Stratton Story." That was one of the few baseball pictures in Hollywood history that ever made money.

One of the reasons that June is happy to have Powell as husband only is because of his near death some months back from a burst appendix.

It is not generally known how close to death Powell actually was. June calls the ordeal "the most horrible week of my life."

Powell at first thought he had an attack of indigestion.

"I thought this strange," June discloses. "Richard never had had any stomach trouble.

"He got sicker and sicker. I urged him to call his doctor, but like all men he thought it just something that would pass quickly. He made the usual mistake of taking bicarbonate of soda. It worried me and I decided I'd try to keep awake and propped myself up in my bed.

"I must have dozed off for a minute or two and was awakened by a thud. There was Richard at the foot of my bed with perspiration running off him like water. He was moaning 'Help me, help me.' Then he collapsed.

"It seemed like the doctor and ambulance would never come. I was afraid they had got lost (the Powells live in a remote section of Mandeville Canyon)."

Powell underwent an emergency appendectomy and still another operation to clear up an intestinal obstruction. His appendix had burst and gangrene had set in.

"You should have seen him," June added. "It just seemed like he had dozens of tubes draining him. Once they called me in and warned me that it might be the last time that I would see Richard alive.

"Now I want him to quit working so hard. He was busy enough as an actor. Since his illness he has become both producer and director. But Richard is the greatest planner I have ever known.

"He can tell you what his plans are for the next five years. I am sure his close call convinced him that he still has many uncompleted projects that he wants to hurry up and finish."

It seems everybody has been hoping Clark Gable would get a good picture. King Gable actually hasn't had one good movie since his return from World War II service.

He's got it now in "Mocambo," even though it's a remake of "Red Dust" one of his greatest hits of the 30s.

Gable is virile as ever and makes lusty love to Ava Gardner as well as he did to Jean Harlow when he was a much younger man.

Gardner is not Harlow, but she does one of her best jobs with Gable. The picture was filmed entirely in Africa.

Ex-Movie Star Has Run Gamut

Experiences Vary From Dishwashing, Selling to Radio Announcing

NEW YORK—Mark Stevens the new "Martin Kane" on the Thursday TV series, has run the gamut of jobs from dishwasher to haberdashery salesman and from truck driver to commercial artist.

Born in Cleveland, Dec. 13, 1922, Stevens spent his boyhood moving from state to state. His actual start in showbusiness probably began while working in tent shows—cleaning up, painting scenery and selling popcorn.

Stevens played stock and later worked as a radio announcer but in between took jobs in a steel mill, a rubber factory, a gas station and a department store, among others.

In 1944 Stevens' travels brought him to California. He broke into movies on the Warner lot and six months later was fired. At that point he had no alternative but to go back to his job as a gas station attendant.

But he still pounded the pavement in front of the studios and his break came when 20th Century-Fox signed him to a seven-year contract.

While with Fox, he made such top box-office hits as "Snake Pit" with Olivia de Havilland, "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," with June Haver, "Street With No Name," with Richard Widmark and "Dancing in the Dark," with William Powell and Betsy Drake.

After he finished his Fox contract, he made three pictures at Universal, one for Columbia and one for M-G-M.

Broadway theater-goers saw Stevens in the lead role of "Mid-Summer," last season.

Stevens is married to the lovely Annelle Hayes, who was "Miss Texas" of 1944. They have two children, Mark Richard, six-and-a-half and Annelle, 18 months.

He and Mrs. Stevens live a very quiet life, and avoid crowds. Stevens' hobbies include tennis, golf, swimming, boxing, polo and painting.

A slim six-footer he has brown hair and brown eyes.

MARK HIM WELL—Personable young star Mark Stevens, has taken over the role of private detective Martin Kane on TV, which has brought fame to other performers, including actor Lloyd Nolan. Striking a menacing pose, Stevens gets into the fast paced mood of this exciting mystery-drama.

Soldier Pals Attack British Pro-Red PWs

SINGAPORE (AP) — Another British ex-prisoner of war from Korea, alleged by his mates to have been pro-Communist, was taken off the troopship Dunera here today after being beaten up by other repatraits.

Twelve other POW's accused of being so-called "progressives" were removed under protective custody in Hong Kong after similar attacks or threats on the voyage from Japan.

The 13 men will be returned to Britain in other ships.

Soldiers aboard the Dunera, all members of the famous Gloucestershire regiment taken prisoner during the Imjim River battle in 1951, said the men who were beaten up or threatened did jobs in their prison camp for the Chinese Communists, and in consequence got better treatment and food from their guards.

Anti-Communist ex-prisoners singled them out soon after the ship left Japan, the soldiers said. Two of those attacked had to be placed in the ship's hospital.

Husband Killed in Gun Battle

Exchanges Shots With Police After Threatening Wife With Gun

DETROIT (UP)—A gun fight in a west side home sent a policeman to Receiving Hospital and an irate husband to the morgue Monday night.

Patrolmen Carl Bangert and Leo Bazman were ordered to the house to investigate a report that a man was threatening his wife with a gun.

The gunman, Rubin Floyd, 29, ducked behind a wall when he saw the policemen and fired three shots at them. Bangert, who was nicked in the side and arm, and his partner each fired five shots in return.

Floyd, hit five times, fell dead. Bangert, 37, was not wounded seriously.

Floyd's wife, Augusta, 22, said she and her two-year-old daughter, Eloise, had left home because Floyd demanded that she stay in the house.

She said she moved to the home of her cousin, Nrs. Pauline Walker, 24, where the shooting occurred.

Mrs. Floyd said her husband called at the Walker home and threatened her with the gun in an attempt to force her to leave with him.

Traffic through the Suez Canal is about twice that through the Panama Canal.

Navy Head Praises Atomic Submarine

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Navy Secretary Robert P. Anderson today hailed the atomic-powered submarine as "a marvelous new weapon" which can bottle up enemy warships half a world away from American shores.

Anderson's talk was prepared for keel-laying ceremonies for the nation's second nuclear-powered undersea craft, the USS Seawolf. The first, the USS Nautilus, also is under construction here, and Anderson said she will have her builder's trials "soon—very soon."

The cabinet officer, addressing an audience in the yards of the electric boat division of general Dynamics Corp. near the mouth of the Thames River, said "our enemy may at any day enter the war with six times the number of submarines possessed by Germany at the outset of World War II, most of them better, harder to find and harder to sink."

Men Kiss and Make Up, Judge Dismisses Case

BALTIMORE (AP)—In Southern Police Court yesterday, Elmer Greenwald, 33-year-old tavern operator, was charged with assault and striking Jasper Mills.

It was alleged Mills, 29, spent four weeks in a hospital as a result of the assault.

In turn, Mills was charged with assault and striking Greenwald and with disorderly conduct.

Magistrate Simon Schonfield dismissed all charges when Greenwald's attorney said the two men had agreed to "kiss and make up."

The Black Hole of Calcutta was only 20 feet square.

Gas Company Finds No Leak, Deduces Skunk

BALTIMORE (AP) — Last Thursday Mrs. Lorna Sakeman noticed a strange smell near the front door of her house in heavily populated southwest Baltimore.

She put in a call for the gas company. Workmen came to sniff and checl. the gas meter. They told her nothing was wrong.

The odor remained, so a second appeal was made to the company. This time Mrs. Sakeman and the company representative decided a skunk might be in the vicinity.

Last night Arthur R. Watson, Baltimore zoo director, captured a young skunk "in full command of all his persuasive powers."

Pleads Not Guilty to Robbery Charge

James Gilliand, 17, of 1976 Theodore St., Detroit, pleaded innocent to armed robbery yesterday in Pontiac Municipal Court. Judge Maurice E. Finnegan set trial for Sept. 16 and ordered Gilliand returned to Oakland County Jail when $2,500 bond was not furnished.

Accused of holding up William R. Taylor of 1859 Maddy Lane, Keego Harbor, Aug. 22, Gilliand was arrested by Pontiac Detective John Williams in a local factory.

Taylor told police he picked up Gilliand who was hitchhiking at 1 a.m., and was held up at Hess and Grant Sts. Taylor later was treated in Pontiac General Hospital for a knife wound in the right shoulder.

Polish Escapee Stays With U. N.

Gen. Clark Won't Reply to Red Kidnap Charge, Will Give Asylum

MUNSAN (AP) — The U.N. Command told the Communists today that Polish interpreter Jan Hajdukiewicz would not be returned, and branded as "completely false" Red charges that he was kidnaped.

Hajdukiewicz, 28, a civilian interpreter, bolted from a neutral United Nations inspection team, was given political asylum last Wednesday at Kangnung Air Base in South Korea.

The Polish delegation at Panmunjom protested and charged that Hajdukiewicz was kidnaped. They demanded his imediate return.

The U.N. advised the Polish delegation Tuesday that Gen. Mark not reply to the protest and that Hajdukiewicz would not be returned.

Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, senior allied member of the Military Armistice Commission, rejected the protest in a letter to Maj. Gen. M. Wagrowski, Polish delegate on the neutral nations supervisory commission.

Bryan wrote:

"It is clear from statements made by Jan Hajdukiewicz in the presence of witnesses at the time he sought asylum and at a public press interview that he voluntarily sought asylum with the United Nations forces and that he had planned this action before leaving Poland . . .

"Jan Hajdukiewicz will not be returned and the matter is considered closed."

Report Bulgarian Reds Releasing Prisoners

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Communist Bulgaria reportedly has freed an estimated 25,000 prisoners in a wholesale emptying of its concentration camps. The move apparently did not affect regular prisons where another 75,000 persons are believed held.

Usually reliable sources who reported the release yesterday said none of the camp prisoners had ever been tried or convicted in court. The releases were said to have begun Aug. 1.

Blueprint for Tomorrow

3-Stage Rockets to Soar on First Lap of Mars Trip

This is the second of six articles by International News Service Science Writer John Geiger on the United States' plans for space travel—within our generation.

By JOHN GEIGER

NEW YORK (INS) — A piggy-back rocket-ride right out of this world is the first, thousand-mile step to Mars.

And though it's 50 million miles from here to Earth's brother planet, it's that first thousand miles that's the hardest.

This is the phase of "the Mars Project"—rocket scientist Wernher von Braun's blueprint for an interplanetary voyage—in which man must lift himself off the Earth.

To do it, he will ride "conventional" three-stage rockets up — against the tremendous pull of earthly gravity—to a point 1,075 miles above the surface.

There, his rocket's tremendous speed—15,840 miles an hour—will exactly balance the gravitational pull, and so he will go free-wheeling endlessly around the earth on his own orbit, circling the globe once every two hours like a tiny, racing moon.

And there, on a previously constructed "space station" or artificial satellite, he will assemble the ten big space-ships that will—with an additional burst of speed—carry him from this round-the-earth orbit to Mars.

Lack of Atmosphere Kills Feel of Motion

Because there is no atmosphere a thousand miles up, there will be no whistling wind or other sensation of motion, and no friction to slow your speed.

Gravity is balanced, there will be no weight, and men and objects alike will drift effortlessly.

Given space-suits and an oxygen supply, then, it won't be too difficult to assemble space-ships from pre-fabricated sections carried up in the cargo holds of the three-stage "ferry" rockets.

Why won't the earth-to-Mars space-ships leave from the surface of earth itself? Because the pull of gravity is strongest closest to the earth, Von Braun explains. To lift a big space-ship, fully-loaded, would require enormous rocket engines and immense amounts of fuel, if it could be done at all.

Instead, he plans a huge fleet—50 in all—of the "ferry" rockets to serve as cargo ships, shuttling between earth and the circling space station.

Ferry Rockets to Hold Supplies for 2 Years

In their holds they will carry the pre-fabricated space-ship sections; the chemical fuels for the planet-to-planet flight; the tons of oxygen, food, water, and other equipment that will be required, "landing-boat" rockets for the actual descent on Mars; radio equipment, trucks — everything the space pioneers will need for the two years and eight months-long round trip to Mars.

Impossible? No, says Von Braun, but it will take 950 separate ferry-rocket flights — and eight months of hauling — to do the job.

Your ferry-boat rocket really will be three rockets, one mounted atop the other, the scientist says, and —if you're a crewman, your ride will be something like this:

You'll climb into the topmost section, shaped like "a stubby artillery shell," and strap yourself in. There'll be a mighty roar as the lowest rocket motors ignite—and then a tremendous upward rush. For 84 seconds, a huge acceleration force will press against you as you jump from zero to 5,256 miles an hour.

Voyagers Can Expect Jolt as Rockets Drop

If you're still conscious, you'll feel a jolt as the first rocket section—its work done—falls off with its empty fuel tanks and plummets back toward earth, some 25 miles down.

Then the second-section rocket motors will ignite—and for another two minutes and four seconds there will be another gigantic upward push, boosting your speed to 14,400 miles an hour and your altitude to 40 miles.

This section, too, will drop off and the rocket motors of your own, inhabited shell will roar into action. They'll burn for 73 seconds. When they cut off, you'll be 63 miles upward traveling 18,360 miles an hour.

For a few minutes more, you'll coast at this tremendous speed—until you reach a height of 1,075 miles. You've followed a long, gently curving course — the first rocket "blasting off" at an angle of 20 degrees, the second and third turning you more and more parallel to the earth's surface.

Outside, the sky will have turned blue—a deep, intense blue—and finally an inky black, pierced by starlight. The earth will be spread out below like some gigantic map. Somewhere, down below, parachutes have opened to lower the discarded first and second rocket sections to the ground.

Ships Will Slow Down to Match Earth's Pull

Searching crews will soon be out to salvage them, re-load them in another "piggy-back" ferry.

Your own third-stage cabin will be pressurized, of course, and supplied with oxygen.

But now you're 1,075 miles up, and the rocket motor come on again briefly—in reverse—to decelerate and lower your speed to 15,840 miles an hour.

At this speed, and at this distance, your circular acceleration will match earth's pull and keep you balanced on your round-the-earth orbit. If navigational computations have been correct, you'll arrive at or close to the circling space-station in the same orbit. If not, there'll be reserve fuel for special "adaptive maneuvers."

You're there—one long step closer to Mars. It's taken less than an hour.

Now all you have to do is travel 49 million, 900,000 miles more—and by the calculations of "The Mars Project," that relatively easy.

Bomb Detroit Barber Shop

Owner Blames Attack on Labor Dissension Over 85 Cent Haircuts

DETROIT (UP)—A bomb blew out the interior of a cut-rate barber shop on Detroit's east side early today.

Police said they belived the bomb was a dynamite charge. Samples of the debris were sent to the police laboratory for analysis.

Julian Skowron, 31, owner of the barber shop, blamed the bombing on "labor trouble" which he said resulted from his charging only 85 cents for haircuts. He did not elaborate.

No one was injured in the blast, which rocked the neighborhood shortly after midnight. A police patrol car cruising in the area heard the explosion and rushed to the scene. Officers said the charge had been placed in the shop's doorway.

It blew out the front door, wrecked the interior of the shop, broke windows in two adjoining stores and knocked out several window panes in a tavern across the street.

Police said they received many "frantic" telephone calls from frightened neighbors. They said they were investigating Skowron's "labor trouble" charges.

The 2,600-mile flight was sponsored by a national committee formed to observe the 50th anniversary of powered flights.

Rubber Union to Hear Reuther

CIO Chieftain Expected to Comment on GOP, Labor Program

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — CIO President Walter P. Reuther will be the principal speaker today at the 18th annual national convention of the CIO United Rubber Workers Union.

Reuther is expected to comment on the Eisenhower administration stand on labor, and review the overall program of the CIO.

L. S. Buckmaster, president of the 200,000 member rubber workers union, will be up for re-election to his ninth two-year term Thursday. It was expected that an opposition slate would be submitted but Buckmaster appeared assured of another term.

His "full protection" hospitalization and insurance plan has met popular appeal with various locals.

At present the United Rubber workers have contracts whereby five big companies involving 110,000 rubber workers — Firestone, Goodrich, Goodyear, United States and General—pay the full costs for hospital insurance up to 120 days of hospitalization in semi-private accommodations, complete payment of miscellaneous hospital services, in-hospital medical payments of $3 a day and surgical benefits up to $250 at no cost to the worker.

Find Rare Fern in State

Cranbrook scientists chalked up another "first" this year by discovering one of America's rarest plants, the Hart's-Tongue fern, in Michigan.

Although botanists have speculated for years that the fern could exist in the state, its discovery near Trout Lake in Chippewa County was the first conclusive proof that it actually grows in Michigan.

Dr. Marion T. Hall, Cranbrook Institute of Science botanist, and Dale J. Hagenah of the institute's research association, discovered eight plants growing on a ledge of dolomitic rock.

The fern, which derives its name from its similarity to a deer's tongue, is found only in widely scattered areas of the United States, but is quite common in parts of England and Ireland.

County Is 55th in Size in U. S.

Family Incomes Average $4,031 Yearly, Federal Survey Indicates

WASHINGTON—The long-awaited statistical report on farm valuations, family income, housing, and standard of living for Oakland County based on the 1950 census interviewers with every family in the county, has now been made public by the United States Bureau of the Census.

On the basis of its first-hand information, the Census Bureau reported the average value of land and buildings for all farms in the county as $17,267 per farm. The tabulation shows a total of 3,107 farms in the county.

Out of 3,070 counties in the U.S. Oakland ranks 55th in population.

The housing census showed 120,096 dwelling units in the county as of April 1950, with 77.8 per cent occupied by the owners.

For the county as a unit 98.9 per cent of all dwelling reported radios in operation.

One-half of all the families in the county reported incomes in excess of $4,031 for the year, this figure being reported as the "median" family income for the county. Only 12.2 per cent of the families reported incomes of less than $2,000, while 33.6 per cent reported incomes of more than $5,000 a year.

Total retail trade in the county for 1949 was $315,043,000, through 3,441 stores.

The land area of the county is 677 square miles, and the average density of population is 452 per square mile, compared to a Michigan average of 112, and a nationwide average of 50.7 per square mile. The total population of the county as of April 1950 was 396,001.

Between 1940 and 1950 the county showed an increase of 55.9 per cent in total population. For the entire state of Michigan the increase for the decade was 21.3 per cent, and for the nation, 14.5 per cent.

Total value of farm products sold by Oakland County farms in 1949 was reported as $9,338,000, including these principal items: All crops, $3,256,000; livestock and products, other than dairy and poultry, $2,197,000; dairy products, $2,881,000; poultry and poultry products, $978,000.

Land in farms in the county totaled 285,000 acres, according to the census report, while crops were actually harvested in 1949 from 116,000 farm land acres.

During 1950, 10.1 per cent of the farms were tenant-operated. For the state as a whole 9 per cent of the farms were managed by tenants.

The report revealed that 2,965 of the county's farms were served by central station electricity: and telephones were reported on 2,271 farms.

There were 3,662 automobiles on farms in the county, and motor trucks on farms numbered 1,477. Tractors, on the other hand, were counted at 3,304.

Only 607 of the farms were reported to be without tractors, horses, or mules.

The cattle population of the county was 27,320, including calves.

Farm expenditures in the county in 1949 for feed for livestock and poultry amounted to $1,554,000, while the amount expended for hired farm labor was $1,961,000.

Only 4.6 per cent of Oakland County's population was tabulated as non-white. The state figure is 7.1 per cent, and for the nation as a whole the non-white population is 10.3 per cent.

The county's urban population was 286,928, the rural non-farm population 95,795, and the rural farm population 13,278.

The total number of families in the county was placed at 101,305. The "median" age of all persons in the county was 28.4 years, against a statewide "median" age of 30.4 years.

Oakland County residents purchased $8,450,000 worth of Tresury Savings Bonds during 1950.

Total bank deposits in the county as of Dec. 30, 1950, were $168,863,000.

Of the 120,096 dwellings, 115,776 were classified as non-farm units, with a "median" value of $8,282 per single family unit.

The number of residents gainfully employed in the county was reported as 146,981, with 2.1 per cent in agriculture and 46.4 per cent in manufacturing. The balance of the employed were in transportation, construction, trade, finance, service industries (laundries, garages, beauty parlors, etc.), and in the professions.

Allies Hope for Red Reply Tonight on 3,000 Missing

MUNSAN, Korea (UP)—The Communists may answer tomorrow Allied demands for an accounting of more than 3,000 U. N. military personnel, including 944 Americans, believed still in Red captivity.

The Joint Military Armistice Commission scheduled a meeting for 11 a. m. tomorrow (9 p. m. EST tonight), its first since the names of the missing men were turned over with the demand for a prompt accounting.

* * *

A U.N. spokesman said there was no way of knowing whether a reply was forthcoming. The Communists, at the last commission meeting, said they would comment later.

In sharp contrast to previous displays of violence, 2,000 anti-Communist North Korean and Chinese prisoners were turned over to Indian custody in the Panmunjom neutral zone without incident.

* * *

The delivery went off smoothly as the Indian troops—who for six days have checked disturbances by the prisoners—took extra precautions to avoid outbreaks.

They moved Allied and Communist observers farther away from compounds housing the POWs and removed them from stations at some processing centers. The number of newsmen from each side allowed to watch the transfers was cut from 25 to 5 for each side.

* * *

They also broke out banners reading, "all anti - Communist youth! killing all Reds is the road to freedom and peace of the world."

* * *

Other banners, taunting Red agents on hand to attempt to convince the POWs to return, read: "Red explainers, now is the time for you to turn out as anti-Communists if you want freedom."

* * *

The prisoners were part of 8,000 North Korean and 14,700 Chinese POWs who refused repatriation.

Nine North Koreans who had a change of heart after delivery to the Indians were turned over to the Communists for return to Red-run North Korea.

Engineering Field Offers Real Career for Women

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (UP) — College girls everywhere are trooping back to school these days, and Katharine Stinson hopes many of them plan to study engineering.

For Miss Stinson is president of the society of women engineers, a nationwide organization of ladies who will fight at the drop of a monkey wrench any idea that girls can't be as good engineers as men.

"Better in some jobs," Miss Stinson said firmly.

The society has around 400 members, and this year it's trying to encourage girls to enter such professions as electrical, mechanical or civil engineering.

Miss Stinson thinks there are two reasons why so many girls never even think of engineering as a possible career.

To many, she thinks, an engineer is a tough guy wearing boots, bossing a construction job. Yet many an engineering position calls for a steady diet of desk work, at which, Miss Stinson feels, a girl may shine.

Secondly, she feels too many people are convinced an engineer has to be a mathematical genius. Miss S. thinks that angle is overstressed. What's important, she says, is a real love of things scientific.

Oddly, there's a demand for women engineers, yet the number of sweet young girl engineering graduates is decreasing steadily.

All women engineers are occupational descendants of Edith Julia Griswold, electrical engineer, New York City Normal, 1886.

After Edith Julia, the supply of girl engineers remained steady, but few. Not until World War II was there a pronounced change in the pattern. Then the demand for engineers became so great that some companies even paid the tuition for girls of promise.

The peak came in 1948, with 191 girl engineering graduates. That number has fallen off until last spring only 60 girls were graduated in engineering.

Miss Stinson, who has a boyish grin that recalls the late Amelia Earhart, is proof enough that a girl can do all right in the business.

Accent Garb With Bold Ornaments

Striking designs by jewelers herald the fall trend toward elegance in accessories. With the forecasted slim silhouette of subdued colors, the role of the ornament is one of heightened importance.

As a complement to softened fashions, jewelry becomes more forceful in its display of gleaming polished surfaces, in its contrast of textures, in its boldness of sculptured links.

Yet there is present a feeling of nice agreement between the strong designs and the reserved couture slated for fall. For the quiet dress lines there is subtle abstraction in the fine tooled jewel motifs; for the growing interest in fabric treatment there is a harmonizing interest in surface textures of links and chains; for the restraint in clothing colors there is a corresponding softness and depth in the jewelry finish.

As necklines curve outward in gradeful bateaus and rolled collars, the role of the well-chosen accessory gains importance.

Now needed more than ever is the glint of gold at the throat—perhaps an exquisite jewelers' chain which meets at center front in a faint hint of a bow-knot, or a series of molded links which fall like tendrils in flattering nonchalance about the neck, or the ever-gorgeous chain with its variety of etched, stippled and twisted links that prove its constant popularity.

The largest percentage of employed women in the United States are engaged in clerical or kindred work.

Girl Moons Over Fellow at Newsstand but Gets Too Tongue-Tied to Chatter

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I've just come back from a very discouraging trip to buy the evening paper. You see, every night I go to the same newsstand because of the fellow who sells the papers. I like him very much.

"But the thing that's discouraging is that I don't know how to start a conversation with him, at least find out his name. He doesn't help matters any either by making cracks like 'Oh, here you are again.'

"I'm really disgusted that I don't have the nerve to talk to him — or to any other fellow for that matter. I'm fed up with being tongue-tied. Can you help me out?"

Of course, you're tongue-tied. You have yourself in knots because you're quivering with crush over a guy you know nothing about. He looks nice, but you've only seen him in his working clothes — his working manners — dealing out his working chatter.

He probably considers you just one more customer — or he'd make some effort to get out from behind the cash register to start you talking. So far he's made nothing but gentle, teasing cracks.

I can think of a dozen comebacks for you like, "Yes, here I am again — I like your papers better than anybody else's!" Which would draw forth more words from him.

Or how 'bout breezing in gaily with a "I'd like one of your high-type, fresh-off-the-press evening papers—and would you mind wrapping it as a gift?"

Or another attention getter: Romp cheerfully into the place, call out "Hey, Mr. Grinkelfutch, catch," then execute your best nickel toss. The next night amble in slowly and absent-mindedly, pick up the paper, open it to a back page, stand there reading it, then walk out without paying for it.

Give him time to realize said fact and then gallop back noisily apologetic—"Gee, I forgot to pay pay for my paper. Your records would be all out of whack, wouldn't they? Why you'd go broke if everybody did what I just did—I'm so sorry."

The next night (if none of these openers has worked), walk straight up to him all excited with "Did you see what it says on the front page of the paper?" He'll be puzzled and answer "No." Then you can smile right up at him, "I didn't either!"

All of this kind of smart talk is very un-tongue-tied. One can't be churning with nervousness inside when such a game gets under way. It takes a quick wit and an on-the-toes imagination to start such stuff and follow it up with more of the same.

But you can do it if you'll convince yourself that he's nobody to be scared of. As things are, you're teasing, torturing, tormenting yourself over him. Things could be changed by realizing you're not as shy as you think you are.

My free booklet "Why Be Shy?" is just what you need for self-convincing purposes. It will show you how brave you really are and how much braver you could be.

So write me for it, in care of the Pontiac Press, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Youngsters Not Wanted at Reception

Bride-to-Be Upset by Several Replies Including Children

By EMILY POST

A bride-to-be writes me: "I sent out my wedding invitations about 10 days ago and enclosed reply cards for guests to answer. The invitations were addressed to Mr. and Mrs. alone with no mention whatever of the children.

"Replies are starting to come in and to my dismay several of them included their children (so far there are seven).

"This is the one thing I wanted to avoid as I am having a sit-down reception at a hotel where the charge is so much per person. Will you please tell me what I can do about this without causing hurt feelings?"

Answer: The only thing you can do is write and say, "We are very sorry but the reception is to be a sit-down breakfast to which unhappily the number is limited; and as much as we would like to include Mary and John, if we do, all the other children will be hurt if they aren't invited."

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going be married soon at a late afternoon wedding. My fiancee would like me to wear a tuxedo.

She thinks that striped trousers are much too formal for the simple wedding we are having and a plain dark business suit not "dressy" enough with her bridal clothes.

I do not think a tuxedo is proper before 6 o'clock, but she thinks that since the wedding is so near 6 (the wedding will take place at 5) it will be permissible. What do you think?

Answer: I agree with you that a tuxedo at 5 o'clock would be completely wrong. Your most correct clothes would be the striped trousers and a black coat, but a dark blue suit is quite proper and worn by many bridegrooms.

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know the proper thing to say to a couple who have just announced their engagement.

I have been told that it is not proper to offer congratulations. Will you please tell me if this is true, and if so, what does one say?

Answer: It is entirely proper to congratulate the man (on having won the girl) but you wish the girl happiness.

YWCA Ladies Day Out Offers Weekly Holiday for Area Homemakers

Fall Session Will Begin Wednesday

Nursery Provided to Care for Small Youngsters

Beginning Wednesday, the YWCA is giving the homemaker a chance for a weekly holiday, a chance to enjoy new hobbies, new interests and new friends.

The Y's Ladies Day Out is a 10-week session offering classes in sewing and knitting, painting crafts, peasant designing, copper tooling, textile painting, sketching, bridge, and for the more active, rhythmic exercises and dance.

The day starts with a friendly half hour over coffee at 9:30. Classes follow until noon when the homemaker may eat the lunch she brought from home with beverages served by the Y.

After lunch the program varies from music and book reviews to current events and family relations.

Ladies Day Out can be a real holiday for mothers with small children. They may leave their youngsters 2½ to 5 years old in the nursery, where they will be checked in by Mrs. Mary Burrell, supervising nurse, Pontiac Health Department.

From there they will be turned over to the care of Mrs. Leslie Pickup and Mrs. Choren Manukian for supervised play and a nose-bag lunch.

Mrs. Kenneth Zemke is chairman of the program assisted by Mrs. Myron L. Buck, and instructors include Mrs. William Herrmann, Mrs. Raymond D. Ellsworth, Mrs. Elcray Thomas, Mrs. Arthur J. MacFadyen, Mrs. Marvin M. Alward, Mrs. D. C. Milbourne and Mrs John Houston.

Ladies Day Out is open to all women of the Pontiac area, and the fee for the whole program comes to less than a dollar a week for mother and child.

Blow Out Some Dust

Dust that balls up around radiator pipes is a chore to remove. Sometimes it's easier to reverse the vacuum cleaner attachment to blow air through the narrow slots between pipes. Put slightly damp newspaper under and behind radiator to catch the dust that's blown loose.

Fragrant Bathing

If you prefer to shower and wish it could be fragrant as a bath, try this: Rub bath oil on your body just before stepping under the water. The fragrance will fill the room and the oil itself will feel luxurious on your skin.

Eaton V. Kelly and Bride to Make Home in Detroit

Before an altar banked with candles and white gladioli, Margaret Elizabeth MacRae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacRae of Cass City, became the bride of Eaton Vale Kelly Saturday in the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold V. Kelly of Judson street.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white satin and net with a sweetheart neckline and elbow-length sleeves. The bodice of heavy satin was styled along princess lines and throughout the skirt were tiny satin bows.

Family Works Out Unusual and Successful Plan for Living Together

Home-Loving Widow Is Housekeeper for Her Married Children and Mates

By ANNE HEYWOOD

As Pearl Buck and Margaret Meade pointed out, our present family life in America is undergoing some changes.

Instead of large family groups with maiden aunts and older people all sharing the same roof and having a spirit of comradeship, our present-day pattern is more apt to be just a young couple or a young couple with children.

But the other day I was lucky enough to meet a family which had worked out a pattern all their own, and one which is useful and happy too. Here is the story.

Mrs. R. E. lost her husband when she was 44. She was a born homemaker and had never had a job outside the home.

She had a son and a daughter, each of whom was working at a first job.

"I didn't know what to do at first," Mrs. R. E. told me. "There wasn't very much money, but I did have the old house.

"I could sell it for what little it would bring. Then with my small nest egg, I could take a business course of some sort and pray that I could get a job.

"But I hate business and I love homemaking, and at my age I was sure that I couldn't make enough to support myself.

"Nor could I think of letting the children divert any of their small salaries toward supporting me. They would want to get married, and they had the right.

"We have always gotten along well as a family, largely because our interests are so different.

"One evening my son came to me and announced that he wanted to get married. Like so many young women, his bride-to-be is a career girl.

"We had a long discussion on ways and means so that he could swing it on his very low starting salary. It looked impossible for him.

"It wasn't very many months later when my daughter fell in love, and this was in a way even worse, since her beau was a young interne in a hospital. Even by pooling both their salaries they couldn't afford to live."

The long and short of it is that this remarkable family worked out a system. The son and his wife have a bedroom and sitting room in the old house, decorated by them and entirely their own.

The daughter and her husband have the same. The mother keeps house and serves a family dinner Monday through Thursday.

Friday night the dining room, kitchen and living room belong to the son and his wife, who do their entertaining then.

Saturday night belongs to the daughter and her husband. Sunday night is mother's — and she has small supper parties for her friends.

"Each of the kids chips in $15 toward expenses," Mrs. R. E. told me, "and $10 a week toward my salary. It gives all of us a decent life, the necessary privacy, a certain nice companionship, and enabled the kids to get married early."

'Umbrella Cut' Is a Cool Style

As versatile and appealing as modern umbrellas carried by chic women, the exciting new "umbrella cut" is perfect for light-hearted summer and early fall days: It has the dash, the simplicity, and the attractiveness which makes it adaptable for either sports or social events.

The "umbrella cut" has many possibilities for different coiffures. One feature style has a band effect and soft wispy curls from the side of the face to the back of the head. Another style is a slight par down from the crown of the head and soft counter-clockwise curls from the nape of the neck.

Soft curls and waves near the face give face-framing loveliness and make an enchanting foundation for floral creations, perky small hats, and intriguing hair ornaments. Another feature is that this short hair style is casual enough for golf, archery, sailing, a day at the races, and just fo rrelaxing at the beach.

Variations of the "umbrella cut" make it adaptable to your face, figure, and personality. Ask your hairdresser which would be most becoming to you.

Apply your lipstick with the stick itself or a brush, but blot it with a sponge. Fibers of tissues, lint from hankies, all kinds of foreign bodies attach themselves to the lips as we try to blot them, but with a sponge, a smooth even sponge, blotting is the work of a second and it leaves your lips smooth and free from everything but the true stain of your lipstick.

Creosote Oil May Bleed Into Paint

Aluminum Coating Will Form Barrier Between Finishes

By HUBBARD COBB

A good inexpensive way to preserve wood is to give it a coat of creosote and this is exactly what a lot of people do especially to sidewall wood shingles.

Trouble starts when these same people decide at some future date that they would like to give the shingles a coat of paint.

The oil in creosote has a nasty way of bleeding through paint and this makes a pretty fair size mess.

If you are thinking about painting over wood treated with creosote you want to move very slowly to avoid trouble. First you want to consider the age of the creosote and how much exposure it has had.

If the creosote has been on for a good many years and has been directly exposed to the weather (not protected by a porch or roof eaves it may have lost most of its fight. In this case it would be worth applying some paint to a small area to see what happens.

If, after a few weeks or so, nothing has happened, you are probably safe to go ahead with the repainting project.

Should the creosote be on the fresh side or if it bleeds through the paint sample it must be kept away from the paint. One way to do this is to give the entire wall a coat of aluminum paint.

When this is dry, the finish coat is applied over it. Aluminum paint is composed of small pieces of aluminum and when they are applied to a surface they produce a metal shield which will keep the oils in the creosote away from the paint.

Pick Design of Fireplace While Planning

The fireplace can no longer be taken for granted.

Not too long ago, one simply gave an order to the architect, "we want a fireplace in the living room," and that was that. Nowadays, however, the hearth is so varied in both design and location that families would do well to have a conference on the subject while the new or remodeled house is in the discussion stage. Here are some ideas to take with you:

1. A fireplace is a housekeeping luxury if it is difficult to keep clean. Modern designs call for materials like clay tile that are easily washed and are smudge-resistant.

2. You don't have to locate the fireplace midway on one wall. Your hearth may be in a corner, at one end of a wall, between two rooms, or in the middle of the room.

3. Fireplaces are not restricted to the living room. Many families prefer them in the recreation space or in the master bedroom, and others think that a kitchen fireplace is a perfect idea. A lot depends upon whether the fireplace is to serve as auxiliary heating or as extra cooking facilities.

4. Look carefully into the matter of fuel storage. This is ideally situated if it is a well-built niche, lined in washable material, set into the wall immediately adjacent to the fireplace itself.

Teach Good Grooming

Kiddies' Toiletries Boom

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Children's cosmetics are a $2,000,000-a-year-business now.

One man who foresaw the possibilities of kiddies' toiletries as recently as eight years ago now has a thriving business and a new $300,000 factory.

These impressive figures immediately suggested painted faces on little girls. But the products are for the most part colorless, made to satisfy a child's desire to imitate mother's grooming steps without the same visible results.

"We don't try to make children more beautiful," explained Arnold Perlman, the man with the brand new factory exclusively for such items as kiddies' bubble bath, cologne and lipstick. "We try to teach them good grooming.

"We don't have items like rouge or cold cream in our line. These would be hypocritical. Besides, girls start using these things on their skins soon enough. We don't encourage children to use them."

Perlman is a Romanian architect who came to this country in 1940, happened to meet a cosmetician named Helen Pessl, and suggested to her that children's toiletries would be a good business. He now is president of the company.

"Don't call them cosmetics," he warned. "They are toiletries. Our first item was bubble bath."

First he put the bubble bath out in liquid form. Then one of his four young sons suggested that individual packages of granules would be better, since a 5-year-old might well pour a whole bottle in one tub.

The lipstick for "little lady" customers looks pink in the tube but is completely colorless when applied. Girls from 10 to 14 get a lipstick that looks pale pink when applied. Kiddies' nail polish is colorless too, though it looks slightly pink in the bottle.

Only one item is listed for boys by Perlman's company. It's a bottle of hair trainer. Nothing make believe about it, either.

Fake Snow Useful

Light blocks of composition "snow," used by professional florists for flower arrangements, will help the amateur make a showy display of fall flowers. The white crumbly material soaks up water to keep flowers fresh, and stems are held in place securely. The material can also be dried out and reused.

Yanks Rated Series Choice After Clinching Flag

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

The record-breaking New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers will meet in the World Series starting two weeks from tomorrow with the Yanks slightly favored to make it five straight two ways—five over the Dodgers in five meetings, five in a row over the National League.

Cagey Casey Stengel, who rewrote the record book by managing the Yankees to five consecutive pennants, says he thinks he has a good chance of continued success in the fall classic.

"This is a real good club with real good players," Casey said as he relaxed after yesterday's flag clinching 8-5 victory over Cleveland.

* * *

Casey said the Yanks will have to get good pitching to win but he implied that he was not awed by Brooklyn's tremendous hitting. He allowed as how his club could hit home runs in Yankee stadium and they probably could hit them in smaller Ebbets Field, too.

Except for the players and a few diehard fans there really wasn't much tension in the American League flag chase this season. The Yankees held first place all but nine days.

* * *

The Dodgers didn't start quite so early in the National League but they grabbed first place for keeps on June 28 and nailed down their flag 48 hours before the Yankees.

Both clubs clinched with 12 games left to play. Brooklyn played 142 games to win its flag, the Yankees played 140.

Charlie Dressen, who set a Brooklyn record by winning two successive pennants, has assigned himself to scout the Yankees this week.

* * *

What the Dodger scouts saw in yesterday's Yankee game was nothing to give them a feeling of security, with the exception of pitcher Whitey Ford's poor showing.

The Indians got five runs off Ford in the first three innings on five hits, four walks and a hit batter. But against the relief efforts of Tom Gorman, Bob Kuzava and Johnny Sain the Indians got a hit and run total of zero.

* * *

Meanwhile, the Yankees solved Early Wynn with a vengeance in the fourth inning, scoring four runs, and then caught up and sealed the decision against Bill Wight in the sixth and seventh. Yogi Berra broke the tie in the seventh with a two run homer.

Brooklyn continued to suffer from a pennant winning letdown, losing its second in a row to the red hot Chicago Cubs who ran their winning streak to 10.

Lopez Predicts 5th Victory in Classic for NY

Cleveland Pilot Calls Bombers Better Than Last Year's Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Take it from a man who knows from bitter experiences, the New York Yankees are a "good ball club" and will win the World Series but only after a tough battle with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"I don't think their pitching is as good as last year," said Cleveland manager Al Lopez, whose Indians finished second to the Yanks in 1951 and '52 and were on the short end of an 8-5 count yesterday as the New Yorkers wrapped up their unprecedented fifth straight American League pennant.

"But the club is a better one than 1952," he added. "It has more experience, doesn't make as many mistakes and boy, how it can run. Everybody can run. And let me tell you, you don't dare make a mistake yourself. They'll go right through and slam it down your throat."

The Cleveland pilot also called the Dodgers a good ball club and forecast a tight series. While admitting he might be a little prejudiced, he predicted a fifth straight Yankee world series triumph—probably in seven games.

Yankees themselves took their fifth successive triumph under grizzled 63-year-old Casey Stengel in stride. It wasn't anything out of the ordinary from the way they reacted in their dressing room yesterday.

A slap on the back here, a broad grin there. That about constituted the celebration until the cameramen called for a show of enthusiasm. Then, led by Stengel, they indulged in horse play expected of players who are headed for probably the richest World Series payoff in history.

Nine of the players have been in all five World series. They are Yogi Berra, Charley Silvera, Lopat, Reynolds, Raschi, Johnny Mize, Phil Rizzuto, Bauer and Woodling.

It was even older stuff for coach Frankie Crosetti. He has been involved in every Yankee pennant—14 of them—since 1953 either as a coach or player.

TV Darling Through?

Upset by Andrews May Finish Davey's Career

By JOE FALLS

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Al Andrews, a national nobody from Superior Wis., may have ended the fistic career of Chuck Davey, the nation's television darling only seven months ago.

Andrews, a busy bee but with little sting, buzzed to a unanimous 10 round decision last night over Davey, who looked for all the world like a fighter going nowhere fast.

The surprising result even overshadowed the amazing turnout of 11,089 fans, who poured $42,066.50 into the till.

It was only Davey's second loss as a pro—but it could have been the one to convince him that boxing isn't his business.

When welterweight champion Kid Gavilan trounced him in 10 rounds last February, assorted reasons were offered for Davey's failure. The consensus, however, was that the 29-year-old southpaw from East Lansing, Mich., was in over his head against Gavilan.

But what about Andrews? Davey was supposed to use the crew-cut newcomer as another stepping stone back into the welterweight title picture. It was supposed to be a warmup. Nothing more.

But the 23-year-old Andrews, 152, handled Davey, 147, with ease. "I knew I had him as early as the first round," he said.

Davey bounced around like he always does but it was Andrews who bounced the leather off Davey's chin. He caught Davey by surprise in the second round and floored him for a mandatory eight-count.

In the seventh, Andrews cut Davey about the eyes. Then, with 10 seconds to go in the final round, he jolted Davey with a sharp upper-cut.

The officials were convinced. Referee Clarence Rosen gave Andrews 52 points and Davey 48. Judge Harold Otto had it 53-47 for Andrews while the other judge, Ed Haley, saw it 58-42.

Davey didn't go away poor. His share of the purse was a juicy $9,685.25. Andrews picked up $4,035.54.

Wolverine 11's Passing Attack Being Stressed

Aerial Game Improved Over Poor Showing in Saturday Drills

By JOHN F. MAYHEW

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Another injury hit the Michigan football camp today. It was discovered that a hand injury suffered by Jim Bates, Farmington junior who is being groomed as a center, involved three broken bones.

Bates complained of the hurt which was believed to have been incurred when he made a hard tackle yesterday.

Coach Bennie Oosterbaan's regulars did some passing against the reserves in the big game-type scrimmage, but it was a wobbly, ineffectual thing and a source of concern to the Michigan coach.

Yesterday, aerials were flying all over the place. Louis Baldacci and Ted Kress, Michigan's top passers and the boys who will make or break the Wolverine passing game this fall, did most of the throwing.

Baldacci, Oosterbaan's sophomore quarterbak who had some trouble with his timing Saturday, appeared in better form, as did Kress, who is also Michigan's star running halfback.

Both got off long and short tosses by the dozen, with a flock of ends doing the receiving. Gene Knutson, making the adjustment of adding offensive play to his 1952 role, came through with several good catches, as did Jerry Williams, the Flint sophomore who is understudying him.

Michigan's second-string throwers, Dan Kline and Tom Hendricks, also got off a number of passes. Kline rates behind Baldacci at quarterback, while Hendricks holds down the No. 2 position behind Kress.

Oosterbaan had all available ends in action, catching the throws.

Michigan's fullbacks and wingbacks, who are also capable of throwing the ball, had their chance too. Halfback Tony Branoff, a southpaw from Flint, came through with several good shots along with fullback Bob Hurley.

Chiefs Holding Last Scrimmage

Today's Practice Final Rough Work Before '53 Opener Friday

Pontiac High's football squad, rounding into shape after two weeks of intensive drills, will hold its final scrimmage this afternoon in preparation for the Friday night opener at Wyandotte.

Wednesday will be devoted to polishing offensive and defensive maneuvers, and a final workout will be held Thursday night under Wisner Stadium's lights.

Coach Ed Graybiel expects to make final decisions on his starting lineup after this afternoon's scrimmage. He termed Saturday's scrimmage "encouraging" and singled out several players for particular praise. Tackle George Thrasher, defensive halfback Harold Rush, who broke a leg and missed most of last season while on the junior varsity, and ends Leroy Moore and Jim Wiscombe were outstanding.

Jamie Sweeps Both Ends of Wolverine Oval Trot

DETROIT (AP) — Jamie, Charles McKinley's 3-year-old, won both ends of the $10,000 Victory Song trot at the Wolverine Raceway last night.

Driven by his Ft. Wayne, Ind., owner, Jamie boosted his earnings for the season over the $14,000 mark. The colt won the first dash run as the fifth race and then came back in the eighth to wind up the victory.

Kuenn Goes Hitless

Tigers Lose Ground to A's as Senators Take 6-1 Decision Over Ralph Branca

WASHINGTON (AP) — Detroit Tigers said goodbye to the nation's capital today after the season's smallest crowd last night saw them drop a 6-1 decision to the Washington Senators.

Only 1,257 saw the game.

It was a disheartening evening for all the Tigers, particularly hurler Ralph Branca and shortstop Harvey Kuenn.

Branca, giving up 10 Senator hits, lost his sixth game of the season in 10 decisions.

Kuenn, who needed just two safe blows to bring his total to 209, couldn't do anything with the offerings of Chuck Stobbs and went hitless in five trips to the plate.

Tigers, who lost a bit of ground to idle seventh-place Philadelphia, now lead the Athletics by just two games. They take a day off today and move to Boston for contests Wednesday and Thursday, winding up their eastern play for 1953.

Bob Nieman's 15th home run of the year was the only score the Bengals managed to make. It came in the fourth inning with one out.

Wayne Terwilliger got three singles and a double off Branca, and Mickey Vernon picked up a pair of singles in three times up to boost his American League pace-setting batting average to .339.

Senators got to Branca for two runs and four hits in the third inning and added another in the seventh when Ed Fitzgerald and Stobbs executed a double steal.

Final three Washington scores came in the eighth on a walk, Gil Coan's single, Jim Busby's triple and Terwilliger's double.

Tiger protests over plate umpire John Stevens' call on the double steal in the seventh delayed the game briefly. Before the rhubarb was over, Stevens had chased Detroit hurler Ted Gray to the showers.

NHL Opening Dates Earliest in History

MONTREAL (AP) — The 1953-54 National Hockey League season gets under way Oct. 8—earliest opening in NHL history—with the Stanley Cup champions, Montreal Canadiens, playing hosts to the Chicago Black Hawks and the New York Rangers visiting the Detroit Red Wings.

Schedule again calls for each of the six teams to play 70 games and features a number of three-game series and an increase in the number of doubleheaders — games on successive nights. The season winds up March 21.

Michigan Teams Meet

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—A battle between two Michigan squads, only ones still undefeated in the eastern playoff of the American Baseball Congress tournament, topped today's ABC schedule.

Kalamazoo, which won the competition three years from 1949 to 1951, takes on host Battle creek in an arc-light game.

The former champs kept their record clear in the third round yesterday by beating Birmingham, Ala., 3-1, and Battle Creek trampled San German, Cuba, 17-5 in a night contest. It was the first defeat for both Birmingham and San German.

Two Elevens Tech's Answer to New Ruling

By MERCER BAILEY

ATLANTA (AP)—Two-team football will replace two-platoon football at Georgia Tech this year.

Coach Bobby Dodd said today he believes that is the best answer, for Tech, anyway, to the rules change which ended the era of free substitution and defensive and offensive specialists.

Tech, defending champion in the southeastern conference and the second-ranked team in the nation last year, has the talent to make it work. In fact, after Dodd settles on his first and second teams, he will have enough good boys left for a third unit or for plenty of spot reserve strength.

Dodd has picked for his first string line six players who were defensive experts last year. The line, which averages 197 pounds per man, has Henry Hair and Sam Hensley at end, Roger Frey and Bob Sherman at tackle, Franklin Brooks and Orville Vereen at guard and Larry Morris at center. Only Hair has offensive experience.

Larry Morris, a sensational linebacker, and Leon Hardeman, halfback, whose tremendous power and shiftiness belie his squat frame, are Tech's prime All-America hopefuls this year.

Hope, Hillsdale Prospects Good for MIAA Campaign

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hope has hope and Hillsdale has Charley Bachman for the coming football season. This could make them contenders for the MIAA title.

Last season Hope had a 4-1 record and finished second in the MIAA race behind Albion. Coach Al Vanderbush has 16 lettermen back and hopes to take the championship this time.

Hillsdale finished on the bottom last season with a 1-4 record but the Dales will have a new look this year.

They'll be getting their football lessons from one of the most astute tacticians of the game, 60-year-old Bachman.

Bachman, who served as head coach at Michigan State for 16 years resigning in 1946, came out of retirement because "I still have football in my blood."

Meanwhile at Hope, coach Vanderbush is molding a team of fleet-footed backs. A freshman quarterback Harry Voss may take the position away from Don York and Bob Hoeksema.

Hope opens its season in Holland Saturday meeting Michigan State Normal in a night game. Hillsdale opens Friday night at Manchester, Ind.

Soph Talent Could Make Irish Great Eleven in 1954

By CHARLES CHAMBERLIAN

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame could have a great football team in 1954. This fall, with reserve strength geared to sophomores, it will have a good one.

Coach Frank Leahy has veterans for every position and backing them up are some of the finest sophomore prospects since the war.

None of the newcomers is likely to win starting assignments by the time Notre Dame opens its 10-game schedule at Oklahoma Sept. 26. But there is enough pressure from them to keep the lettermen constantly on their toes.

One of the rookie prizes is quarterback Don Schaefer, 5-11, 185, from Pittsburgh—a good long and short passer, breakaway runner and fine defensive man.

'Veteran' Soph Pushes Slonac

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING (AP)—Speak of a sophomore and you think of a downy-faced youngster just learning the football facts of life.

Planutis, 23, is one of the oldest candidates on the MSC squad. He had seven years of football experience in high school and the army before reporting for college duty.

On the strength of the showing he made in Saturday's inter-squad game, Planutis is pushing Evan Slonac, regular fullback, for a starting position.

This development makes MSC much stronger at fullback than could have been predicted before fall practice started.

* * *

Slonac, a senior, is 22 years old and so is actually a year the junior of his sophomore rival. Planutis broke through to block a kick Saturday and set up one score in the struggle that ended 21-13 in favor of the reserves.

* * *

He carried for a second touchdown against the No. 1 outfit and was a standout on defense.

The five-foot-10-inch, 180-pounder from West Hazelton, Pa., won regional honors as a high school quarterback. He also was awarded letters in boxing and basketball as a high school student.

* * *

Entering the service from high school, he won army "all star" honors while playing with the Trieste Army champions as a halfback. He captained the Trieste team in 1950 and 1951. Brig. Gen. John Whitelaw, former MSC ROTC commandant, spotted Planutis as the type of talent that could be used at Michigan State. He wound up with the Spartans on the urging of the general.

The squad also has good depth at the position behind Slonac and Planutis.

Among the sophomores, Ed Zalar, an All-Ohio prep selection from Barberton, O., also looks promising.

PHS Gridders, Parents Meet Coach, Aides

Hold 'Get-Acquainted' Session Monday Night in School Auditorium

Parents of Pontiac High School football players had an opportunity Monday night to meet and talk with new headcoach Ed Graybiel and his 4-man staff. Most of the players' parents were in attendance. The company totalled about 140.

The "get-acquainted" session, which is expected to become an annual event, was held in the PHS auditorium. Pontiac High Principal John Thors Jr. introduced varsity aides Dean Wilson and Arnold Wilson and jayvee mentors Ed Heikkinen and Tony Pizza.

Graybiel spoke briefly on the organization and purpose of football in the education system. Movies of the 1953 Sugar Bowl sports carnival were shown, after which refreshments were served in the cafeteria.

TODAY A YEAR AGO — Yankees crushed Indians, 7-1, before 73,609 and increased league lead to two and one half games.

Redskins Get Doll for Draft Choices

WASHINGTON (UP) — Washington Redskins, smarting from four defeats in five exhibition games, have acquired defensive star Don Doll from the Detroit Lions in exchange for two draft choices in 1954 and 1955.

Doll, who came to the National Football League champions from Southern California, will fill in for the injured Harry Gilmer, who will be out of the Washington lineup at least three more weeks.

Redskins also asked waivers Monday on four players—ends Ed Berrang, John Yonakor and Jack Selznick and guard John Steber.

Royal Oak, Detroit Win

YOUNGSTOWN, O. (UP) — Royal Oak defeated Dearborn 4-1 Monday night in an inter-Michigan clash in the second round of the National Amateur Baseball Federation tournament.

Defending champion Detroit downed Cleveland 7-1 while Flint, Mich., bowed to Lorain, O., 6-2. It was the first loss for Flint and Dearborn in the double-elimination tourney. Detroit and Royal Oak are undefeated.

Detroit, outhit 5-4, was aided by six Cleveland errors for an easy victory.

Dislike of Walter Camp Brought Crushing Defeat to Navy as Yost 'Poured It On' Late Jack Owsley

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—Jack Owsley died a few days back. Jack was a fine Yale back in the good old days when most college rivals ranked beneath the folds of Yale's triumphant Blue. He was also a good, forthright coach at both Yale and Navy. He had strong opinions which he expressed quite vehemently.

• • •

One of these opinions brought disaster in a certain game. He was coaching Navy that year — a good Navy team. But it seems in the past Owsley didn't care for Walter Camp. They always violently disagreed.

• • •

This game was played in Ann Arbor in 1925 against one of Fielding Yost's finest Michigan squads. Yost had a terrific team that fall. Navy had Hamilton, Wickhorst and others as I remember it.

• • •

I know Navy was expecting a close tough game. Yost had the famous Benny Friedman to Bennie Oosterbaan passing combination. He had a good line. He had about everything. Hurry-Up wasn't worrying.

Then at breakfast the morning of the game Yost spoke quite favorably of Walter Camp. Owsley spoke quite unfavorably of the great Yale man, who was a close friend of Yost's.

The argument over Camp grew hot. Finally Yost dashed out of the room and called up Benny Friedman. "Pour it on today," he said. "Pour it on and over." Whenever he came near Benny before the game, he always called out, "On and over." Which meant not to keep his passes short, Always over.

• • •

That day a good Navy team was wrecked. As I recall it, Michigan won 54-0. It was Friedman to Oosterbaan all afternoon long. Ordinarily Yost would have been content with a score like 14-0.

• • •

In this connection, I'd like to again nominate Benny Friedman and Bennie Oosterbaan as one of the greatest combinations of all time. Both were great all-around football players. Friedman could pass, run, kick, block and tackle. Oosterbaan was the perfect end, as fine as anyone I've ever seen.

• • •

Howell to Hutson of Alabama was a great pair. Frank to Kelley of Yale was another. There have been great combinations, but none better than Friedman and Oosterbaan.

Joe Carr in Amateur Spotlight

Witty Irishman Steals Show at Oklahoma City

Tennessee's Person Is First Day's Leader on Upset Win

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A tall, graying automobile dealer from Memphis, Tenn., Curtis Person, stood as the one-day sensation of the National Amateur Golf champion today. But the man who had caught the fancy of Oklahoma fans was a long, lean, wisecracking Irishman from Dublin, Joe Carr.

Person, a weekend golfer playing in his second national championship, provided the inevitable first-round upset — and the only one among 70 completed matches. He knocked out Don Cherry, the crooning Walker Cup player from Wichita Fall, Tex., 4 and 3.

Two first round matches weren't completed.

After beating Cherry, the Tennessean chuckled that he rather like meeting Walker Cup players, pointing out that he had beaten Bobby Knowles, a member of the 1951 team, in the North and South Amateur last spring.

He'll get plenty of chances if he goes far enough in the tough bottom quarter of the draw. In addition to Carr, the British Amateur champion and a member of Britain's international team, that quarter includes U. S. Walker Cupper Jim Jackson of St. Louis and ex-champion Ted Bishop and Frank Stranahan, who have played on previous cup teams.

Carr, the 32-year-old clothing manufacturer who beat Atlanta's Harvie Ward for the British title last June, put on one of the day's showiest performances to win his first match from Harold Foreman of Glencoe, Ill., three-time Illinois state champion, 7 and 6.

Right now Carr is just one of a dozen or so players who might have a chance to win the title. Ward won his first round match — after some difficulty with young Ernest (Pete) Arend Jr., of Deal, N. J. So did the home club ace, Charley Coe, who won the title in 1949, and such solid players as Ken Venturi, Gene Littler, Bill Campbell, Jimmy McHale, Bobby Knowles and Joe Gagliardi.

A lot of other good ones, including defending champion Jack Westland, and 1950 winner Sam Urzetta, drew first round byes and were due to make their first appearances today.

VETERAN — A former Pontiac boy is one of the veteran backs with the big Mooseheart (Ill.) football team again this year. Walter Cohrs piled up an average of 3.6 yards per carry in 44 tries, for a total yardage of 160 in the 1952 campaign. Mooseheart's club this year will be the heaviest in its history. Cohrs is a 145-pounder. The "M" eleven plays one Michigan prep team this fall, meeting Muskegon High at Muskegon Nov. 6.

Coast Should Uphold 'Dignity'

UCLA, Southern Cal, California Appear Best in PCC

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Blessed with plenty of experienced help, if not an overflow of all-American candidates, leading teams in the Pacific Coast Conference should uphold the newly regained dignity of the loop in national football circles this season.

The leaders, as generally picked by the critics, are UCLA, Southern California and California, in that order, with Stanford, Washington and possibly Oregon next in line, but not necessarily in order.

Rounding out the lineup are Washington State, Oregon State and Idaho, which will have ample opportunity to improve their rating as the season progresses.

The new found dignity, it may be explained, stems from the conference's good record against intersectional foes last year, aided by the USC victory in the Rose Bowl by a 7-0 score over Big Ten's Wisconsin.

The Rose Bowl success helped immeasurably, particularly after the Coast warriors had lost six straight before to the Big Ten at Pasadena.

Yanks Boast Three Pitchers Near Top in ERA Division

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees, pennant winners once again, today boasted three pitchers among the first six in the competition for American League earned run honors.

Figures compiled by the Associated Press show that southpaw Eddie Lopat leads the circuit with a 2.52 ERA. The 35-year-old veteran has given up 47 earned runs in 168 innings. He has won 15 games and lost only three.

Whitey Ford, another Yankee lefty, is second with a 2.61 average. He has permitted 5 earned tallies in 190 frames while racking up a sparkling 17-5 record.

Johnny Sain, who yesterday was credited with the Yankees' clincher, is sixth with a 3.05 mark.

In the National League, Warren Spahn, premier lefthander of the Milwaukee Braves, is on top with a brilliant .22 percentage. Spahn, The ERA leader in 1947 with 2.33, has allowed only 59 earned runs in 239 innings. He has 20 victories against seven setbacks.

Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies is the runnerup in the National League. The hard-working righthander shows 94 earned runs in 314 frames for 2.69. His won-lost record is 21.14.

New Entries Top-Rated in Inter-Lakes

(Ed. note: This is the first in a series discussing the football outlook in the Oakland County area's various leagues.)

By JACK SAYLOR

For several seasons, the Inter-Lakes Conference has been in a state of transition. This year, there are six full-fledged members and much better football competition is anticipated.

Farmington won the title under the four-team setup last year, but the Falcons were riddled by graduation. Likewise suffering heavy losses were Walled Lake and Berkley. The fourth team, Keego Harbor, has joined the Wayne-Oakland League.

Championship scrap may well center primarily about the loop's three new gridiron members, Waterford, Southfield and Van Dyke. Skippers and Van Dyke appear to have a slight pre-season edge.

ASHLEY

Waterford prospects probably are the brightest of Coach Walt Ashley's three-year tenure. He has a host of fine backs along with promising replacements for rebuilding his line.

Speedy Kerry Keating at left half was one of the county's best a year ago and his swift running mate, Ray Campbell, also returns. Quarterback Larry Wigner is a veteran and Pat O'Neill has fullback experience.

Max Evans at Van Dyke has much the same picture. John Malone (a standout), Bob Akers, Ralph Fisher and Ralph Jaszcz are all vets, but tackle Jim Grogis is the only starter returning in the line.

Southfield has its first senior class this fall and Monte Charles has his entire squad intact. Tackles Phil Lehner and Jim Simmons spearhead a husky line and halfback Bill Long was an all-league pick last year.

Three of the starters returning to Tom Evans at Walled Lake are linemen — end Mike Ryan, tackle Bill Burmeister and center Bob Andrews. Bob Alfen at end, Jerry Tremper at tackle, and guards Charlie Scheib and Dick Hartle likely will complete the forward wall.

EVANS

Top backs to go with regular fullback Dick Bachman are junior signal callers Ed Westergard and Gil Wilkinson and halfbacks Dick Smelser, Tom Menard, Joe Burke and Dick Woodworth.

Farmington's only returning regulars are co-captains Roger Goers at tackle and Tim Thomas at end. New Coach Earl Bye also lost quarterback John Faucett for at least one game with a rib injury. End Jerry Rice has shifted to quarter.

Lloyd Houden at Berkley, the other new coach in the I-L, doesn't look for the Bears to be a strong factor in the race this year, but he has a potentially good backfield with Dave Gibson, Don Bodenback, Ray Gibson and Harry Berman on hand.

All teams open Friday. Waterford is at home to Keego Harbor and Farmington, Berkley and Van Dyke entertain Clarenceville, Ferndale and East Detroit, respectively. Walled Lake is at Redford Union and Southfield at Harper-Woods.

Eisenhauer Seen as '53 Season's Star Lineman

Poll of Newspapermen, Announcers Gives Nod to Navy Guard

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Eisenhauer's name, mates, and unless sportwriters and broadcasters miss their guess Navy's "Ike" will be 1953's lineman-of-the-year come December.

In an Associated Press scribes-'casters ballot the Middie guard, lone holdover from 1st year's All-America line selections, captured 42 pre-season nominations to 30 each for Oklahoma's J. D. Roberts and Duke tackle Ed Meadows. Florida guard Joe D'Agostino was next with 15.

Eisenhauer, one of the major reasons for Navy's high rating, rose to fame as the middle man of the "5" in coach Eddie Erdelatz' 5-3-2-1 defense at Annapolis last year. That sailor unit ranked second nationally in rushing defense and sixth in total defense.

A combination of a combative spirit and a natural intuition on the field makes "Ike" an awesome force. Erdelatz is sure he'll be just as good on defense now that the rules call for double duty players. Steve is slated to be a guard on offense and middle linebacker on defense.

Pitt's Eldred Kraemer, a tackle converted to guard, Georgia Tech's Larry Morris, switched from defensive fullback to center, and Tom Nickoloff, USC's 6-3 end, tied at nine votes each among the other nominees.

Mickey Vernon Nears Batting Crown in AL

Nats' Infielder Eyeing Title He Last Won in 1946 Season

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ

NEW YORK (AP) — Washington's Mickey Vernon again is being fitted for the American League batting crown he wore seven years ago in 1946.

The slender first baseman led the league in hitting that season with a .353 average and until this season it was the only time that Vernon had hit over .300 in his major career.

Now in his 11th season, the 35-year-old Vernon tops the American League with .339 and holds a 10-point bulge over Al Rosen of the Indians. The Senators' stalwart gained eight points during the week by going 13-for-25.

Rosen, in second with a .329 mark, went 8-for-22 and increased his average one point. Minnie Minoso of the White Sox and Billy Goodman of the Red Sox are tied for third at .313 each and Dave Philley of the A's is fifth with .308.

In the National League hitting parade idle Carl Furillo of the Dodgers continues to set the tempo with a .344 average. The Brooklyn outfielder is sidelined for the remainder of the season with a bone fracture in his left hand.

Rosen leads the American League in both home runs with 40 and runs batted in with 135. Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews is the National loops' home run pacesetter with 45 and Roy Campanella heads the RBI department with 139.

City 'A' League Player Signed to Minor Pact

Fletcher Davis, a veteran City Baseball League player at 22, recently was signed to a minor league contract by the St. Louis Browns. Tony Stiel, Birmingham policeman and part-time Brownie scout, handled the arrangements.

Davis, a 5-foot 7-inch 165-pound 2nd-baseman, hit .344 for the city champion Ortonville team this year. He started playing in Pontiac's Class A circuit in 1947, with the Wilson Foundry team.

He played with the post team at Camp Atterbury, Ind., last summer while stationed there with the Army. Davis will report to Anderson, N.C., for spring training.

Draper Earns 'Deuce' Nickname in Tourney

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Tom Draper, veteran Detroit amateur golfer, acquired a new nickname, "deuce," in the first round of the National Amateur championship yesterday.

Draper, a 39-year-old resin salesman, shot an eagle two on the first hole and another on the 14th, and last, of the match to beat 1952 Canadian Amateur champion Larry Bouchey of Inglewood, Calif., 5 and 4.

But that wasn't what pleased Draper the most. Instead he chuckled: "It's my tenth National Amateur and the first match I ever won."

The hog-nosed skunk uses its nose exactly as a pig does — for rooting.

Wheat Futures Move Upward

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures recovered slightly from yesterday's downturn at the start of the Board of Trade today. The nearby contracts of soybeans were firm but distant deliveries were weak.

Traders have been expecting an early movement of corn to market because of the premium of cash prices over the futures market. However, receipts were light today at 78 cars.

Wheat opened unchanged to ¾ cent higher, September $1.88¼-⅜; corn was ¼ higher to ⅜ lower, September $1.55⅜-½, and oats were unchanged to ½ off. September 72½-¼. Soybeans were 1¼ higher to one cent lower, September $2.56½-2.57.

Stocks Perk Up One-Two Points

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a rally today to bring prices up sharply from the lows reached in yesterday's severe decline.

Such major divisions as railroads, steels, motors and oils made vigorous advances extending to between 1 and 2 points in many instances and even beyond that in a few instances.

Marching up right along with those groups were the coppers, chemicals, aircrafts, rubbers and radio- televisions.

Pictured Lakes Share Many Like Features

The airplane picture on page 15 today shows two of Oakland County's 400 lakes. There names are somewhat similar.

The larger is wholly located in a township that has a name that suggests lakes. The smaller is partly in the same township, but extends into another. It also is partly within the limits of a city.

Their total area is about 225 acres. A paved road runs between them, and the larger lies between a super highway and paved road.

No river runs through them. They are connected with each other by a short creek. The larger has an opening into another lake through which a river flows. This is their principal source of water supply, although they are generously fed by springs.

Their shores are quite uniform, with very few bays or indentations. There are several other lakes in their immediate vicinity.

On the banks of the larger lake are many substantial year around homes, but the smaller has had but little development. Its shores are quite marshy.

The shores of the larger one were first settled by the white man over 120 years ago. History tells of the heavy forest on their banks, most of which has been removed. They long have been favored by fishermen.

Early landowners on the shores of these lakes included the Windiate, Sly, Seeley, Leroy, Earl, Hart, Williams, Stockwell, Wyckoff, McCarty, Smith, Green, Fancher, Creger and Chapman families.

If you have not already determined the names of these two lakes, they are Big Silver, located wholly in Waterford Township, and Little Silver, in both Pontiac and Waterford Townships, also partly within the Pontiac city limits.

Hal Boyle Says:

New Day Is Coming Up: Send Out Distress Signal

NEW YORK (AP)—How do you start the day?

Each day is handed to us with a fresh cellophane wrapper around it, and you have to tear open the wrapper to get at the new 24-hour candy bar it encloses.

Have you ever noticed at the beginning of some days how you have to make up your mind whether the cellophane is getting stronger or you are getting weaker? But somehow the package of the day is harder to rip open?

There are so many of us who don't like to let go of today at midnight, just when we get to know it as a friend, and therefore are reluctant to greet tomorrow because it is a fresh stranger, and we have a lazy-like wish not to have to start life all over again.

We all have this problem together—soldiers, salesmen, housewives, business executives, scientists and dreamers. By the time most days have ended we have solved them somehow, and we would like to postpone for a pause the impossible solution of tomorrow.

There should be a day between each day, a longer magical night anyway in which to postpone the rushing dawn while a fellow utilizes the night to realize what he learned in the sunlight he has just been through.

We are bosses in our minds too much by the old, uneasy copybook dictum, "What you are to be you are now becoming."

Anyway you look at this phrase it is rather depressing. It raises a dismal prospect of a seedy, disgruntled, bald-headed future. Yes, a future in which you face old age with paunch thrust bravely forward, one chin up, one chin down—and one chin saved to meet any other directional emergency. It is a rather flabby vista.

They say (The people who write books on how to live life better) that it is childish to hate to go to sleep and hate to wake up. But for the average person it is such a normal thing! What's wrong with going to bed laughing and waking up with a yawn? Could anything be more normal?

When you have finally teased open the wrapper of one day, finally got the nourishment inside, is there a law that requires you to arise early to attack the fresh cellophane wrapper around tomorrow? Perhaps you aren't hungry yet.

The way I like to look at a day is gradually, half an eye at a time. Some people like to leap up and take a brisk cold shower and think of all the golden deeds they are going to accomplish before the day burns out to black.

But so many mornings we awake to meet the same old dragons we never can altogether quell. Such as the crabgrass on our face, we shaved by the previous dawn's early night. Overnight it has sprung up again.

And there are other daily problems. But who can blame one who on some days would rather lie there and wait a while and see if maybe he couldn't grow a dandelion upon his chin, watch it turn into a white puff and blow the seeds of dream around the room?

It may never happen, but it is a wonderful way to start a day.

You never know at dawn what will flourish by nightfall. To me the best moments of all are those in which you cheat between the time the alarm clock rings and the time you finally reach out a shuddering warm toe and brace it against the cold floor of responsibility.

Emily Dickinson said it best when she wrote in the last century:

"A day. A day. Help, Help! Another day!"

It is probably the most honest line in the English language. Everyone has felt that way, one time or another, and then got up and felt grateful for the sun.

Says Criticism 'Just Sound'

Hagerty Comments on Stevenson's Blasts at GOP Administration

DENVER (AP) — The Summer White House today labeled Adlai E. Stevenson's ciriticism of the Eisenhower Administration as "just sound and fury."

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made the comment after telling newsmen that President Eisenhower and Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, will confer in Washington some time soon.

Stevenson will report to Eisenhower on the round-the-world tour which he recently completed. Eisenhower invited Stevenson to come in and see hime some time ago and Hagerty said the President renewed the invitation when the former Illinois governor returned to this country recently.

Hagerty said Stevenson had accepted the invitation but that no date for the conference has been set. The President plans to end his Colorado vacation Friday or Saturday and fly back to Washington. Hagerty said the Eisenhower-Stevenson get-together will take place at the White House in Washington.

Meanwhile, Hagerty was asked for comment on Stevenson's Chicago speech last night. The Democratic leader said, among other things, that the Eisenhower Administration amounted to "government by postponement."

"That is just sound and fury," Hagerty said. "And the rest of the quote is 'signifying nothing' from Shakespeare's 'As You Like It.'"

Camp Horrors Leave Numbing Impression

Ex-Prisoner Returns to Help Father Celebrate His 78th Birthday at Lum

By SHERRY RINN
Lapeer Correspondent

LAPEER—The family of William Irons was celebrating his 78th birthday when this correspondent visited their home in Lum Saturday.

Most of the family, which includes 10 children, were seated at a birthday dinner for the father.

But 22-year-old Lee James Irons, just returned home after more than a year in a Communist prison camp in Korea and his father's biggest birthday present, was sitting in the living room watching television.

"Jim," as he is called, hadn't been able to eat very much. He had only been able to down a small piece of steak and a cup of coffee. After a year's diet of only a cup of rice and soybeans twice a day his stomach muscles had shrunk from inactivity.

When he talked it seemed easy at first. But then you watched closer and realized the enforced silence of a Red prison camp doesn't help one's conversational abilities.

When Jim was captured he and two buddies, one from Indiana and one from Wisconsin, were started on a 300-mile march with other prisoners. They marched 19 hours a day with five guards to each prisoner.

They were fed boiled grasshoppers and grass, and weren't allowed to carry on conversations. The march lasted about four months.

In the prison camp, Jim said, they lived in mud huts which in the winter had several inches of frost covering the inside walls.

LEE JAMES IRONS

They could build a fire, he said, but the flames were too small to help much.

But worst of all, according to Jim, was the fear of solitary confinement which could last for months without much food—and without any explanation.

The only news he received while a prisoner was Communist propaganda and this "you couldn't believe."

His hair and beard had grown almost to his elbows. Only when the Reds came to give him a trim did he believe any of the rumors that an armistice might be coming.

It wasn't until he was finally taken to Freedom Village and across the 38th parallel again that he believed he was really free.

While sitting and talking with Jim, however, you couldn't help but feel that it would be a long time before the prison camp horror would erase itself from his mind.

Now that he is home again, his mother and father—along with Jim himself—feel that it was in answer to prayers that he returned safely.

State Lagging in Child Care, Judge Warns

He said that public morality, key factor in aiding such children, just hasn't kept up with scientific and economic progress.

"Our prison population is increasing, our insane hospitals are overflowing, our care of the spastic, the feebleminded and the mentally retarded is on a losing basis," he declared.

"Delinquency needs parents," he went on. "It needs home, affection and security, not punishment. It needs understanding of child care and developmeint, not deep theories. It needs love and affection and a Christian desire to help children long before they get into trouble."

The judge spoke recently at a committee meeting for Starr Commonwealth, a home for boys near Albion which he described as "the greatest asset to the underprivileged children of Michigan."
