Request Murder Warrant for Douglas Godfrey

Administration to Give Its Side on Cuba Crisis

Nation to Get Briefing by McNamara Today on Alleged Build-Up

WASHINGTON — The Kennedy administration abruptly decided today to lay before the Nation this afternoon its case in the alleged new Soviet military build-up in Cuba.

At the same time, the White House moved to cut down on merchant shipping to Castro.

It issued a long-expected order barring U.S. government shipments on any foreign flag vessel that trades with Cuba.

Foreign shippers would be forgiven for past shipments if they promised not to make any more trips to Cuba.

The White House said the briefing by Secretary of Defense

Admits Killing of His Mother

A warrant charging a 15-year-old boy with the murder of his mother was requested today by Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor.

At the same time, Taylor said his office was preparing to ask the release of Douglas Godfrey from the custody of juvenile authorities.

The youth, a 10th grader at the Bloomfield Hills High School, admitted yesterday that he shot and killed his mother Jan. 25.

A waiver would make it possible to try the teen-ager as an adult on the first-degree murder charge in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Officials were meeting this afternoon with Probate Judge Donald E. Adams to schedule a date for a waiver examination. The examination was expected to be next week.

Judge Adams said earlier today he would appoint investigators to gather information to determine if a psychiatric examination is needed.

Taylor said he would recommend the psychiatric examination to court officials.

If the examination is scheduled, the hearing on the waiver would be delayed.

“OUT TOO OFTEN”
The teen-ager admitted yesterday that he wanted his mother dead because “she criticized him for going out too often,” according to Taylor.

Mrs. Mary Godfrey, 38, was shot in the head while standing in the kitchen of her home at 883 Dursley Road.

Since then, fear of a “phantom sniper” has spread over Oakland County.

“People all over the county have been scared to death the last week and a half,” said Taylor. “I think we have gotten rid of this fear.”

The youth also has admitted firing into two other homes in the vicinity of his home near the Eastover School, Taylor said. Douglas, who is reported to

Snow Flurries, Cold Weather Due to Blow In

Northerly winds forecast for tonight will usher in snow flurries and colder temperatures. The low will be about 20.

Fairly cloudy and continued cold, the mercury reaching a high of 28, is the prediction for tomorrow in the Pontiac area.

South to southwest morning winds at 2 miles per hour will become 15 to 25 m.p.h. tonight. Twenty-eight was the low reading prior to 8 a.m. The thermometer recorded 39 at 2 p.m.

‘We Argued,’ Son Declares

of County Prosecutor

Here are excerpts from the statement Douglas Godfrey made to Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor:

Q. Suppose you just tell us in your own words?

A. I went out — I went by the garage door and I went up there to the kitchen window and shot her.

Q. Was there some reason for shooting your mother? Was that the day you had a little argument with your mother about shoveling the snow?

A. No.

Q. What trouble did you have? Any disagreements —

A. We were always arguing.

Q. Did you have any reason for stealing the gun?

A. No.

Q. Had you thought about shooting your mother before?

A. Yeah.

Q. When did you decide or think about shooting your mother?

A. Couple weeks before.

Q. Had she been kind of strict with you? Is that what you thought?

A. Yes.

Q. What in particular had she done —

A. She tried to — like find excuses to keep me home.

Q. How did you know that your mother had gone in the kitchen? You had been down in the basement?

A. I heard her.

Q. How far were you from the window when you used the gun?

A. Not too far. I just — probably to the edge of the little porch like, but it was closer.

Q. Did you know that you had struck your mother when you fired the gun?

A. Well, I heard a fall. I thought it was her.

Q. Then what did you do?

A. I took off as soon as I shot it. I wasn't waiting to see or anything.

Q. Where did you go?

A. I went to my room.

Conservative Party Backs Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (UP)—Conservative party members of the House of Commons, together with the cabinet, decided today to stand by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker as their leader in the coming election campaign.

After a two-hour caucus, Finance Minister George Nowlan said Diefenbaker “will be prime minister” after the April elections made necessary by no-confidence votes administered the regime in the house of commons last night.

Nowlan had been mentioned as a possible new leader of the party. Some elements of the Conservatives were dissatisfied with minister without portfolio, described the cabinet as united. He sought to defuse rumors of a move on foot to oust Diefenbaker.

A leading member of the cabinet, Douglas Harkness, resigned Sunday and told Diefenbaker that their differences were irreconcilable.

George Hees, trade minister, called today's caucus “the best we've ever had.” He added: “We're on the road and we're going to knock hell out of the grits.”

This is a nickname for the Liberal party.

While other elements of the party outside parliament remained to be heard from, the sentiment expressed in the caucus seemed to assure him of keeping the leadership.

How Do You Explain to the Boy's Father?

By JIM DYGERT

How do you tell a man that his 15-year-old son may be the murderer of the man's wife, the boy's own mother?

That the killer who injected fear into a thousand daily routines, the “deranged” gunman sought by hundreds of worried police, may be his own little boy?

That the “sniper” who shot the boy's mother through a kitchen window 11 days before, apparently was the boy himself?

The bitter task of telling Donald H. Godfrey that police had frightened evidence against his quiet, withdrawn son, Douglas, fell yesterday upon Thomas G. Kavanagh, a Birmingham attorney.

When it was all over, Godfrey cried.

The boy cried. Godfrey had never suspected, Kavanagh said later.

To call it shock was only to begin describing it.

STOLEN PISTOL

It all began—weeks ago, really, when a 22-caliber pistol was stolen from a Royal Oak sporting goods store.

But, yesterday—the final day—it all began at 11 a.m. when Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor telephoned Godfrey and asked him to come with Douglas to the Pontiac State Police post at 1 p.m.

Taylor wanted to discuss further the shooting of Godfrey's 38-year-old wife, Mary.

A “sniper” had fired a 22-caliber bullet into Mrs. Godfrey's head from outside the Godfrey home at 883 Dursley Road, Bloomfield Township, shortly after 9 p.m. Jan. 25.

Godfrey agreed. He and Douglas arrived at the appointed time. Although Taylor says he gave no indication the boy was under suspicion, attorney Kavanagh was with them.

There to greet them were Taylor, county Sheriff Frank Irons, Bloomfield Township Police Chief Norman Dehnke and Michigan State Police officers.

Taylor asked that Douglas submit to a lie detector test.

Kavanagh replied that an explanation was in order. He could not approve of a lie detector test as a fishing expedition. There would have to be good reason for it.

Taylor took the attorney aside and told him what police had learned the day before and had told him at 10:30 a.m. yesterday.

Neighbors Relieved— but Sorry

Somewhere between stunned silence and a sigh of relief, there lies a sort of peace.

That kind of quiet descended on Dursley Road today.

The phantom sniper is no more. The shooting of Mrs. Mary Godfrey, 883 Dursley, has been solved.

Residents of the Bloomfield Township neighborhood greeted the news with mixed emotions.

FEEL RELIEF

The initial reaction was one of relief. The tension of recent weeks was gone.

Once again, a car backfiring is just a noisy automobile, not a gunshot. A barking dog is a pest, not an alarm.

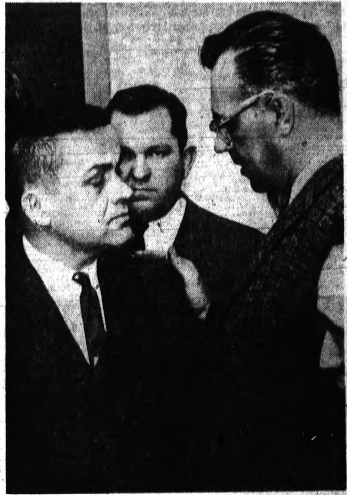

Many residents were shocked into silence. The end was hard to comprehend. They quietly asked themselves: “Why?”

Refusing to comment on the matter, a housewife said, “The Godfreys already have suffered enough.”

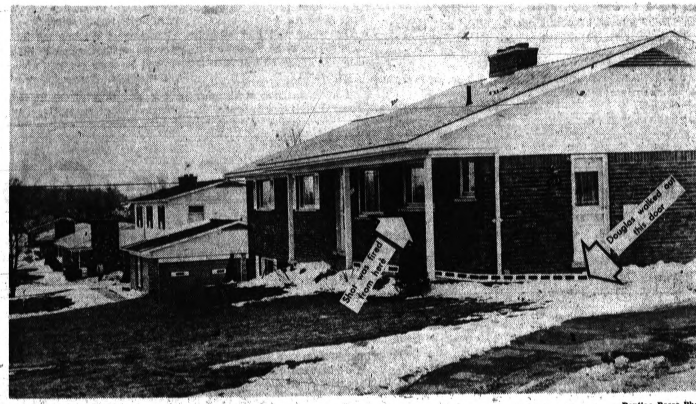

This feeling was especially strong among neighbors close to the Godfreys.

They felt sorry. They were relieved that it was all over, but wished it could have ended another way.

Fresh Blizzards Hit W. Europe

Motorists Stranded in England, Scotland

LONDON (AP)—Fresh blizzards swept across much of Western Europe during the night, disrupting communications still more and isolating communities from Britain to the Balkans.

The storms hit Britain with renewed force, stranding hundreds of motorists and truck drivers. Many were helped by snowed-out emergency beds in village halls and schools.

Motoring organizations said road conditions in Scotland were the worst since the arctic weather spell struck six weeks ago. On one stretch near Lanark 150 trucks were marooned.

In Wales, two busloads of children were trapped in the storm. Villagers carried the children through the snow and put them up for the night.

Western Europe's death toll from the weather rose to 566.

France remained in the grip of winter, with severe cold in the east and storms battering the Atlantic coastline. Most French rivers were frozen.

Heat from power plants on the Seine near Paris prevented the river from freezing through the capital, but the Seine was solid a few miles away.

There was no sign of a thaw in West Germany, where temperatures averaged 14 degrees.

More snow piled up in Austria. Fresh falls in Vienna halted attempts to clear the streets.

Rochester President Claims Distortion of Facts

ROCHESTER — Village President Roy Rewold today charged opponents of cityhood for Rochester with "distorting the facts" in their campaign to defeat the issue Feb. 18.

"It's time to clear the air," he said, pointing out that residents of the village and an adjacent portion of Avon Township have less than two weeks before they go to the polls.

"The opposition is conducting an intensive space advertising and direct mail campaign," Rewold said, "but not only distort the facts but is plainly careless with the truth."

"In the first place," he pointed out, "the Rochester Village Council looked into the proposition because of the great number of village and surrounding area residents who expressed an interest in incorporation."

"Secondly, current village governmental departments were already serving the proposed area efficiently and inexpensively anyway."

"And third, when a village councilman is elected, it is his job to be constantly concerned with the planned, organized growth of his municipality that continues to be in the best interest of all residents."

Rewold was elected village president last spring. He lives at 312 Glendale St.

"When incorporation was brought before the council, all members, including Councilmen Jay Eldred and John Roebuck, who have since changed their minds, approved the establishment of a steering committee," he said.

"Following the selection of committee members, all phases of incorporation were investigated."

Rewold said Parke, Davis officials indicated that they would not fight the proposition, at a meeting attended by himself, Councilman Neil Russo and Village Manager Paul York.

"The three spokesmen for Parke, Davis said in front of witnesses that they had no serious objections to city incorporation plans which included their property."

"Now, they too seem to have had a change of mind when the time gets close," Rewold added.

"Since the organizing of the so-called 'Rochester Fact Finding Committee' to defeat the planned proposal, careless statements have been released regarding motives of the Village Council, the City Incorporation Steering Committee and others who support the issue," charged the village president.

NEWS OF THE AREA

"Not only that, but complete untruths are being expressed concerning taxes, services and manpower," he contended.

"To clear the air of motives," he explained, "it should be stated that present councilmen will not automatically govern the new city. The new government will be run by the people voted for by the residents of the new municipality."

"And while on the subject of motives," he continued, "consider the fact that the chairman of the so-called 'Fact Finding Committee,' Charles Martell, draws a salary from Avon Township as Civil Defense Director and that opposition supporter Wayne Holman has his eyes on the richly endowed Avon Township supervisor's seat."

"The supervisor's seat is worth $10,000 a year," Rewold said.

"It is a position that would be worth a great deal less than the $10,000 if incorporation were to become a reality," he continued.

"Another member of the committee, Mrs. Doris Ungler, also draws a salary from Avon Township," he said.

"To my way of thinking, those are real motives for killing the natural progress of Rochester and the surrounding area."

"As to increased taxes, services and manpower, Holman, the candidate for the $10,000-per-year township job, is completely uninformed," Rewold contended.

"The steering committee has never made a claim that the new area could be serviced with the same number of employees and equipment as is in use now, as Holman has said."

"We have said that the increased revenues to be achieved would cover the cost of the additional services without adding additional burdens to village taxpayers or the taxpayers of the new area."

"Another person," continued Rewold, "one who should know better, has been widely quoted as saying that the current Rochester tax of 17 mills was 'high enough.'"

"That person is the same Councilman Roebuck who voted just last year to raise the base to 18 1/2 mills."

"If he doesn't know what the tax base of Rochester is and he helped fix it, how could he possibly know the tax situation of incorporation?" Rewold asked.

"The village president said that the reasons given were but a few of those necessary to 'clear the air' on the city incorporation statements being issued by the opposition."

TAXES, SERVICES

"On the taxes," he said, "the village has continued to offer a great number of services to its residents and to extensive areas of the township with only a 9 per cent tax increase during the past 11 years."

"On the other hand," he added, "Avon Township government has raised their taxes some 30 per cent in the past four years and given few, if any, services to village residents."

"I sincerely believe," Rewold continued, "that the majority of the residents in the area concerned will join with the steering committee and the majority of the council in presenting an informed 'yes' vote on Feb. 18."

"When the air is cleared with the straight facts and the ungarbled truth," he concluded, "the informed electorate will then make the right decision."

To Honor VIPs, Set Public Hearing on Firing; Saginaw Girl, 2nd Civil Employee Charged

Briggs, Ford, Kresge, Nisbet to Get Awards

DETROIT (AP)—A pretty Saginaw teen-ager and four prominent Michigan businessmen will be honored by Michigan Week officials at an awards luncheon at the Economic Club of Detroit next Monday.

Mary Ann Kinyry, a freshman student at Nazareth College, Nazareth, Mich., will be presenting a National Young Frontiersman Award for her efforts in promoting Michigan.

Also scheduled to receive awards are Robert P. Briggs, Henry Ford II, Sebastian S. Kresge and Stephan Nisbet, Michigan constitution convention president.

Mary Ann already has received a National Young Frontiersman Award and a citation from President Kennedy for her efforts in civic affairs.

The attractive coed has been prominent in state and national Red Cross work and in her school work.

While attending Saginaw St. Peter and Paul High School, Mary Ann won a blue ribbon at the Saginaw City Science Fair.

Her exhibit featured chemistry and its possibilities for the future.

Colleen Kehrer Wed

WALLED LAKE — Colleen Janice Kehrer and Kenneth Dale Van Gordon exchanged nuptial vows before Rev. L. A. Kinne Saturday evening in St. Matthews Lutheran Church.

WALLED LAKE — The City Council set a public hearing on the recent firing of Building Inspector Ernest Campion and heard charges leveled against another city employee last night.

City Manager E. V. Mercer, who fired Campion last month, told councilmen that City Clerk Mrs. Shirley J. Ryden was "taking too many coffee breaks" while on duty.

Mrs. Ryden replied that she resented the city manager "questioning her intelligence and integrity."

The clerk said today that she thought any further statement of her position should be made only at an executive session of the council.

Mercer said at a Jan. 15 council meeting that he was not getting cooperation from the office staff at City Hall. Mercer claimed the lack of cooperation was due to the staff's disappointment over his being appointed city manager Dec. 17.

He said the staff wanted a city manager candidate from Illinois to be named to Wallied Lake's top administrative position.

The staff then included Campion, Mrs. Ryden and former Deputy Clerk - Treasurer Joanne Burke, who resigned at the Jan. 15 meeting.

NAME REPLACEMENT

Councilmen last night appointed Mrs. Marjorie Young, 2016 Loon Lake Road, Wixom, to replace Mrs. Burke.

The council also confirmed the appointment of Franklin E. Hamilton as police chief at a starting salary of $5,000 per year.

Hamilton, formerly a lieutenant in the Wallied Lake Fire Department, replaces Joseph Nephew, who resigned as chief to join the Oakland County Sheriff's Department last month.

The public hearing requested by Campion was set for 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

The firing followed a dispute between Mercer and Campion. Mercer wanted Campion to become dispatcher for the police and fire departments in addition to his combined post as building, electrical, plumbing and heating inspector and head of the city's three-man road crew.

In other business, the council named Dr. Irving School, 404 N. Pontiac Trail, to a three-year term on the City Planning Commission.

Karl Henke and Clements Phillipski were reappointed to three-year planning-commission positions. Two local insurance agents, G. Ivan Cox and Dan McVeety, were named agents of record for the city.

Study Group Discusses Heating and Language

ROCHESTER — The Citizen's School Study Group here today made public facts on heating costs and language courses discovered in its current examination of district schools.

"Heating costs for the entire school district average 12.7 cents per square foot of usable floor space," the study revealed.

This compared with the average home cost of 12.1 cents per square foot.

In answer to a question regarding the purpose and cost of language laboratories, the group found that educators agree "if used properly, language laboratories are the most effective tool available for teaching foreign languages."

The total cost of the district's three laboratories was $19,277.67, of which $9,082.97 was paid by the federal government, the study committee revealed.

Questioned about the high school honors class, the committee found that the class was formed to offer additional challenge to bright students in the field.

The study revealed that 16 students attend the classes. Special remedial classes in English are also available at the high school.

The school study group issued an invitation to all community members to attend its regular 7:30 p.m. Tuesday meetings at the high school.

Results of the committee's investigation will be offered to the school board for use in formulation of a possible special election proposal.

Plan Program for Teachers

Teachers who have taught in Avondale schools for 10 to 25 years will be honored on a PTA Founders Day program Feb. 14 at Avondale High School.

Sponsored by the Avondale Area PTA, the 1 p.m. meeting also will feature a talk by Otto Vnetma, state PTA president.

Mrs. William U. Porter, president of the Avondale Area PTA Council, will give the welcoming address and introduce the guest speaker.

Pins will be presented to the teachers, being honored by Schools Supt. George E. Shackelford.

Church Planning Celebration for 5th Anniversary

AVON TOWNSHIP — Members of the University Presbyterian Church here will celebrate the church's fifth anniversary Sunday with gala "Hawaiian Night" festivities.

Commencing at 6:30 p.m. in the Meadowbrook Elementary School 2350 Munster St., the program will feature a color film on Hawaii.

Primary and junior age children will be offered their own special movie entertainment in the school's music room. Baby sitter service for preschool children also will be available.

Following the movie, a potluck dessert will be served.

Have No Plan for New Levy

Willing to Work Out Ability-to-Pay Plan

LANSING (AP)—House Democrats, championing at the bit for state tax reform, prepared today to reveal new strategy with a sweeping tax repeal and reduction package that would wipe out some $488 million in revenues without a penny of new income.

The eight-bill package, according to its principal sponsor, Rep. E. D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, is designed to show that Michigan's present tax structure — leaning heavily on so-called nuisance taxes — is "unworkable, reprehensible and obnoxious."

Absence of proposed new taxes to take up the slack, said O'Brien, is a new Democratic maneuver "which demonstrates our willingness to sit down with the Republicans and work out a new tax system based on ability to pay."

Marked for total elimination under the Democratic package are all the "nuisance" taxes imposed by the GOP-controlled legislature over the past few years.

AFFECTED TAXES

Wiped out by the proposal would be the business activities tax ($73 million), cigarette tax ($70 million), beer tax ($34 million), intangibles tax ($33 million), liquor tax ($14 million), and the tax on telephone and telegraph use ($8 million).

The program also calls for reduction of the state sales tax from four to three per cent, exempting food and prescription drugs from all sales tax, and reduction of the corporation franchise tax to two mills.

If totally approved, which O'Brien conceded was unlikely, the last-out program would leave the state with only $59 million with which to meet Gov. George Romney's proposed budget of $547 million for 1963-64.

WELCOMES NEW MANAGER — Oxford Village President Allen E. Valentine (left) congratulates the village's new manager, Michael M. Kilgore, shortly after he was sworn in at last night's council meeting. The 29-year-old former assistant manager at Santa Cruz, Calif., begins his duties today.

Rochester to Study Teacher Pay Hike

ROCHESTER — A proposed teachers' pay hike will be considered at a joint meeting Monday of the board of education and the salary committees of the Rochester Education Association (REA) and the Citizen's School Study Group.

The board decided to call the special session after receiving the teachers' salary requests at Monday's regular board meeting.

The REA's salary schedule is based on a 12-step pay increase.

Presently teachers, with four-year degrees receive a beginning annual wage of $4,600. A $200 pay hike is offered for each of the six years after the first. This is boosted to a $220 increase for each of the next six years, reaching a maximum of $7,120.

Annual salary for those with master's degrees is based on the same increases, but starts at $4,850 and climbs to $7,370 after 12 years.

Under the proposed salary schedule, four-year-degree teachers would begin at $4,900 and receive a $220.50 raise for each of two years.

The next hike would be to $245 for four years, $269.50 the following four and a $294 increase for each of the last two years in the 12-step plan.

This phase would result in a $7,987 maximum.

Teachers with master's degrees would earn $5,200 their first year of teaching. This figure would jump $234 each of the next two years, $260 the following four, $286 for four years after that and $302 in the final two years of pay raise. This group's top pay would reach $8,476.

The proposed salary schedule would cost the district approximately $130,000 more for the 1963-64 school year, according to the REA salary committee report.

The Citizen's School Study Committee has pointed out that 19 of 29 Oakland County school districts offer higher starting salaries than Rochester.

Set to Discuss Constitution

FARMINGTON — A constitutional convention delegate who is opposed to adoption of the state's proposed constitution will speak at a Farmington Democratic Club meeting tonight.

Democrat Harold Norris, who served as vice chairman of the con-con committee on rights, elections and suffrage, will be speaker at the 8 p.m. meeting.

It will be held in the City National Bank building, 10-Mile and Orchard Lake roads.

Norris, an attorney, said the document contains "a number of provisions which are backward steps from the present charter."

The meeting is open to the public.

Farmer's Price Index 225 Pct. of Base Period

LANSING (AP)—The index of prices received by Michigan farmers on Jan. 15 was 225 per cent of the 100 per cent for the 1910-14 base period, unchanged from a month previous.

Price increases for poultry and feed crops were offset by decreases for dairy products, hogs and wheat.

Pontiac Must Set Area Policy on Water, Sewer Services

Pontiac must decide on and stick to a policy concerning water and sewer services to areas outside the city. If we are to become a "core city," furnishing these vital necessities to our growing neighbors, they must know this.

If we are going to require annexation as a condition to extension of facilities, this must be known.

We realize that one city commission cannot bind future ones. But we do not throw out all policies when we elect new commissioners every two years.

Several years ago, the City was asked to extend sewage and water service to the planned Miracle Mile Shopping Center. It was the City's position at that time that areas requesting such services must join the City. Subsequently the center developed as part of Bloomfield Township.

The same problems faced the proposed shopping center at the northwest corner of Telegraph Road and Elizabeth Lake Road, what is now the Pontiac Mall. Development of that corner, in addition to the original supermarket, hinged for several years on tapping Pontiac sewers.

Pontiac already had been serving a portion of the area west of Telegraph and south of Elizabeth Lake Road, Huron Gardens, for a number of years.

Mail developers decided to proceed with their center and install their own sewage treatment plant. Just before the shopping area was completed, the City changed its position, and the center was allowed city facilities, at nearly double the normal rate, plus a $35,000 fee.

Proponents of the "core city" idea claim that by selling the services to outside areas, taxes of city residents can be kept lower.

In many cases, paying twice the rate the City charges its own residents, is still cheaper for outsiders than building, staffing and maintaining treatment facilities.

Currently, Pontiac is facing a pollution problem caused by residential usage in Pontiac Township.

In the past, one of the major factors in delaying development of suburban communities around Pontiac has been roads. This problem is disappearing rapidly, thanks to the good works of JOHN MACKIE and county road officials.

Sewage treatment is the next major stumbling block, with water a close third.

If annexation is the answer, in the interest of efficiency it should be considered only for sizable areas, not on the basis of each new subdivision or individual plant.

The immediate future of Greater Pontiac depends on these services. It must plan ahead, and be prepared to follow a reasonable course.

The Man About Town

Cites 3-to-1 Odds Distrust by Camera Man Posed by GM Auto Man

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND
Our Junior Jaycees can take many curtain calls for the excellence of their 40th Annual Banquet and Rosies Night last week. The turnout was the largest ever, the awards met the approval of everyone and the entire program was of professional caliber. A column salute to President William J. (Bill) Dean Jr. and Chamber Director Richard (Dick) Templeton in over-all credit of the evening.

No better speaker nor a more stimulating message has ever been heard by the young business men. It was delivered by Pontiac Motor Division's General Manager

Elford M. (Pete) Estes who at the outset, after having stood for a picture of the program's honored, locally observed that photographers seem to suffer from an appalling lack of confidence in the production of their product!

"They always take three shots to be sure of one good one," laughed the auto man. "We'd be in pretty bad shape if we had to build three Pontiacs to come up with one acceptable one," he finished in fun-poking vein.

Came the dawn (as they used to subtitle in the silent movies a hundred or so years ago) and with it our own leasman

Edward T. (Eddie) Vanderworp of 100 Strathmore, president of the M.P.P.A. (Maligned Photographers Protective Association) to report developments... that the three pictures he took the previous evening all — repeat all — turned out to be masterpieces!

Seems to the MAT that this pretty well exposed the fallacy re the negative angle of photography touched-up at the banquet.

A warm note from Harold V. Harcourt of 1865 Wellington, who adds his congratulations to the column on the 45th service milestone of a member of Pontiac's Michigan Bell's force.

My friend adds that he himself is not "exactly a beginner in the stick-to-it-or-surrender" but he is a beginner in the line-up as a tailor before retiring after 61 years and three months... modestly questions whether it is a record.

Well, the MAT never heard of one to beat it — and hopes that Mr. H. is finding lots of good health and enjoyment in his well-earned leisure.

David Lawrence Says:

World Picture Looks Pretty Dark

WASHINGTON — Will the sunshine ever come back? This isn't just a plaintive reference to the weather. It is the metaphorical query of millions of people today as they survey the growing gloom in world affairs.

There's trouble everywhere. Here are some but not all of the perplexities:

1. Fifty-seven American boys have given their lives in South Viet Nam to a cause vaguely described as checking communism's military advance in Southeast Asia.

2. The Soviets have established a military base in Cuba with somewhere between 20,000 and 30,000 troops and "technicians." But what do the "technicians" do, and how many missiles and planes are there in Cuba for them to operate?

Why does the United States government sacrifice American lives in South Viet Nam, 3,000 miles away, and yet hesitate to take risks to assure the safety of its citizens residing in the southeastern part of this country who could be attacked by "defensive" weapons now accumulated on an island 90 miles away from our shores?

3. The Western alliance is wobbling. Quarrels over economic security and particularly trade have disrupted plans for a "Common Market" of low tariffs. Bitter denunciations of the French fill the press in Britain, and in other parts of the world. Nationalism is blamed, but internationalism affords little prospect of a solution, either.

All the world's ills will not be cured by consolidating small states into big empires.

4. Latin America is in trouble, too. The "Alliance for Progress" hasn't really made progress. Grants by our government will not buy friendship. The way must be opened for private enterprise, but this cannot happen till governments take full responsibility for the protection of the lives and property of foreigners.

The U.S. Government has abandoned this policy in relation to Cuba, and there is no assurance that it will not be forsaken everywhere else in Latin America, too.

5. Troubles in Africa, multiply. Whites kill blacks and blacks kill whites. The United Nations enters the killing, too, as it sends its armies to "preserve order" and force factions to unite.

But this assumes a basic ability and a readiness of the backward peoples to govern themselves. To have applied the trusteeship idea and to have depended on gradual evolution would have been a better formula.

6. Moscow is fishing in troubled waters everywhere. Its agents are stirring up violence in the "demonstrations" in various countries. Students and trained leaders are paid to foment friction. This is something that needs exposure.

7. Berlin's "wall" remains as a symbol of Soviet trouble making in the supposedly postwar world.

8. The Soviets furnished arms and ammunition to the North Koreans and Red Chinese to start a big war in Korea, but they have never been compelled by world opinion to repent their violation of the charter of the United Nations.

Even in our own internal affairs there is little sunshine, as costly strikes shut down newspapers and inflict hardships on millions of innocent bystanders.

Yet we don't hear the words "public interest" used as a reason for breaking up labor monopolies, though this phrase was used by the President not so long ago to crack down on some big companies.

Is there an answer? Only in enlightening public opinion steadily and persistently. For, in our own country, policies never from flabbiness to firmness and then back again.

Bob Considine Says:

Gen. Lemay A Big Help As Canadian Diplomat

NEW YORK — Into that surprisingly bitter exchange of heat between U.S. and Canadian officials, which must have been regarded by Khrushchev as additional "proof" that the Western Alliance is falling apart rapidly, there was injected a note of diplomacy from an unusual source.

It was the blunt voice of Gen. Curtis LeMay that spoke up. He said, in CONSIDINE a major address that should have gained more attention than it did, there is a relationship and coordination between the U.S. Air Force and the Royal Canadian Air Force that transcends just about everything else.

It is bound up with the defense of the peoples and properties of North America from Soviet attack over the North Pole.

It is in being, and the thing that keeps it in being is the magnificent teamwork developed by the military of the only two English-speaking nations on this side of the world.

Gen. Lemay's point was that the team was solid and was not in any peril of breaking up. He brought up a much-needed "plus" in the angry face of "minus."

There were those in Washington and Ottawa last week who made only "minus" sounds. Their focus was trained on whether the short-ranged Bohner anti-aircraft missile with which we have equipped Canadian forces for the common defense against Soviet manned-bomber attack (if any) should or should not be fitted with nuclear warheads to be supplied by the U.S.

There could be no defense of the U.S. without Canada, and vice versa. The military and science geniuses of the two powers have worked out the most remarkable patterns of alert systems.

One of these actually can spot Soviet missiles if they ever rise

Political expediency rules the day. A humiliating subservience to pressure groups prevails, and powerful blocs still buy elections for the political demagogues.

Last but not least, America sends its Peace Corps to other lands but needs a Peace Corps approach in its national capital. Here discipline in the integrated public schools has broken down — according to the superintendent of schools — and crime is rampant, as even congressmen are held up and robbed within a few blocks of the Capitol Building itself.

The sunshine will come some day — but only when facts are faced squarely.

Newspaper Strike

The Arizona Republic

"The only thing that counts is muscle. If disputes were settled by reason or justice, there wouldn't be unions."

Thus, according to Time, spoke Bertrand A. Powers, obdurate president of New York Local 6 of the International Typographical Union. And, as though to fix that muscle, Powers remains steadfast in his demand that New York newspapers pay $38 more a week to each of his members — a demand which has halted publication of nine New York dailies, idled 20,000 workers, deprived 5.7 million readers of their daily habit, and has taken severe financial toll of untold numbers of businesses.

The newspaper blackout is a national disgrace. And Bertrand Powers, whose eye is fixed firmly on taking over the reins of the international union, has shown that, by muzzling New York's free press, he is powerful enough to do what not even Congress or the President ever have felt themselves powerful enough to do.

But the disgraceful newspaper blackout and other labor excursions have not passed unnoticed, even among many of those voices generally ready to condone whatever excesses organized labor sees fit to perpetrate. Columnists Murray Kempton and Eric Sevareid called the typographical union leadership for its recklessness. David Susskind recently direct-

Now when any dance is over... And the music fades away... I can feel a sadness near...

When the closing of the day... In my lonely mind I long... Memories of long ago linger...

When such happy songs and music... In my youth I used to know... And I shall recall the faces...

Of the friends I used to see... And the places we would visit... When their smiles were just for me...

And the times of old-time waltzes... I shall once more clearly hear... And the vision of a sweetheart...

In the silence will appear... Oh, these days I dream the moment... When I hear the music die...

And the ballroom lights are lowered... And my heart begins to sigh... (Copyright 1963)

The Country Parson

"Maybe a fellow ought to have a few bad habits, that way they might keep folks from looking for his secret vices."

Adolph Hitler

In 1933, a Nazi decree issued in Berlin called for criticism of Adolph Hitler.

In 1943, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower was appointed commander-in-chief of the Allied Expeditionary Forces in North Africa.

A thought for the day — American statesman Henry Clay said: "If you wish to avoid foreign collision, you had better abandon the ocean."

It was largely this unity that encouraged hopes in the Labor Party of being able to capture the next general election in Britain. The London Economist estimated early this month that the Laborites would have 42 per cent of the votes, the Conservatives 40 per cent and the Liberals 18 per cent if an election were run off now.

Gaitskill's death undoubtedly will alter these figures, probably to the Conservatives' advantage. Gaitskill would have been prime minister if he had lived and the Laborites had won the election.

No one else in the Labor Party commands his following. Labor simply has no outstanding leader with the middle-of-the-road approach that was Gaitskill's big appeal.

Fate, it would seem, has played a crucial role in shaping British politics for the next four or five years.

Defer Award, Appointments

Action Postponed in 30-Minute Meeting

City commissioners last night deferred action for one week on the appointment of members to the city's board of tax review and the awarding of a demolition contract in the R44 urban renewal area.

It was one of the city's briefest meetings, lasting only about 30 minutes.

Three citizen-at-large posts must be filled on the board before it can meet in March to determine the city's 1963 total assessed valuation.

Bids on the wrecking contract were opened last week and a complete tabulation presented

N. Y. Seeking Purchaser for Alcohol Still

ALBANY, N.Y. (U)—The state of New York is eager to sell for the highest "reasonable" offer a still capable of making 200-proof alcohol.

Nobody has entered a bid for the 12-foot-high still, built for the state health department laboratory in the early 1900s for research purposes.

A spokesman for the office of general services declined to say what would be considered a reasonable bid.

He pointed out, however, that the general rule was to accept no offer under $200. A federal license is required to use the still.

Street to Be Closed for Main Installation

City officials today warned motorists that South Jessie Street will be closed tomorrow between Elm and Osborn streets.

The street is being closed to allow laying of a 48-inch water main, part of the city's water system improvement project preparatory to receiving Detroit water this summer.

The section of Jessie Street should be reopened by early next week.

U.S. Relations With Canada to Stay Strained Awhile

(Editor's Note: Seldom have U.S.-Canadian relations been more strained, mainly because of a State Department statement in Washington in which the U.S. government said it was not interested in a bombshell nor in a debate during the election period and in the new Parliament to follow.)

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The political crisis in Canada threatens to maintain for several months the severe strains on U.S.-Canadian relations.

There was no immediate comment here from the White House or State Department on the fall of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Conservative government Tuesday night. But U.S. leaders are sensitively aware that a HIGHTOWER State Department statement just a week ago sparked the tumult which now forces the Canadians into new elections.

Since Diefenbaker had made a major issue of what he called U.S. intrusion into Canadian affairs there is no doubt that Canadian-U.S. defense activities, nuclear weapons for Canada's armed forces, and probably the whole range of political and economic relations between Ottawa and Washington will be hotly debated during the election period and in the new Parliament to follow.

NOT FROM TOP

So far as can be determined, neither President Kennedy nor Secretary of State Dean Rusk had a hand in producing the State Department statement which burst like a bomb in the middle of Canadian politics.

Indeed the statement evidently was not supposed to be such a bombshell at all, although its authors reportedly foresaw the possibility of angry Canadian government criticism.

Kennedy is understood to have been upset the day after the statement came out by the apparent failure of State and Defense Department authorities to judge its impact. It was understood to have been cleared by McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President for national security affairs.

The statement was designed to clear up for the record U.S. government views on issues involving Canada's acceptance or rejection of U.S. nuclear warheads for U.S. weapons systems already in Canadian hands.

IDEA'S ORIGIN

The idea of issuing a statement, informed officials say, originated in the U.S. Embassy in Ottawa and in the State Department here after a debate on nuclear weapons in the Canadian Parliament. The embassy is under direction of Ambassador W. Walton Butterworth and the State Department policy control is understood to have been delegated by Rusk to Undersecretary George W. Ball.

The issue essentially was simple. Diefenbaker had long been reluctant to equip Canadian forces with U.S. nuclear weapons under joint U.S.-Canadian control. Kennedy and his advisers believed, however, that the weapons are essential for Canada's role in the defense of North American and Western Europe. Canadian units are part of the European NATO force.

SOURCE OF FRICTION

The issue has been a source of friction for at least a year. A year ago, Diefenbaker told the Canadian Parliament that joint control of nuclear weapons could not be arranged under existing U.S. law. Four days later, on March 1, Rusk told a news conference here that such arrangements could be worked out. He softened this by adding that the decision, of course, was up to Canada.

Following the Cuban crisis last October, Diefenbaker initiated secret talks with U.S. representatives on the possibility of obtaining nuclear warheads. The talks failed and the statement issued last week said bluntly that Canada had failed to produce any kind of practical plan to solve the problem.

U.S. CONVINCED

U.S. officials obviously were convinced that regardless of the negotiations Diefenbaker in fact did not want Canada to have U.S. nuclear weapons, at least not for some time.

On Jan. 25, during a full-dress parliamentary debate, Diefenbaker stated his position in a speech which in the U.S. view obscured the realities of the problem.

It was to those arguments that the United States objected on the ground that for the most part they blurred the facts.

The statement was bare of the usual diplomatic language employed to prevent offense if possible to a foreign government.

U.S. ACCUSED

It was issued Wednesday of last week. On Thursday Diefenbaker accused the United States of unwarranted intrusion in a Canadian debate on foreign policy. On Friday Rusk apologized at a news conference for the harsh tone of the statement, but defended its release on the ground that the U.S. position on the issues debated in Canada had to be made clear.

The prevailing view in the State Department now still is that the U.S. action was fully justified because of the gravity of defense requirements and the United States still wants Canada to get nuclear warheads as soon as possible.

Sen. Keating Willing to Give Cuba Data to Kennedy

crisis in Congress. Sen. Humphrey has suggested open hearings.

Would you favor such hearings and would you be willing to appear before some investigating committee?

A. I would certainly favor open hearings but I think it should be left to the discretion of the Senate committee.

Q. Would you give such a committee any information you have as well as the sources of that information if the sources were held confidential?

A. They will call as witnesses, I am told, officials in the Defense Department and the CIA (Central Intelligence Agency) and I have and a good deal more. I would be glad to confer with the members of that committee any time they wanted me to but I don't think it would be in the interest of anyone to have me as a witness because what I know is comparatively little compared to what they can get from these other witnesses.

Q. Sen. Humphrey said that any senator or, any House member who had information about the Cuban situation ought to give it first to the CIA and then make a speech about it. Have you done that?

A. All of the information which I have had come from government officials or if it's someone from other sources, it has been cleared by government officials before I have spoken.

Q. What kind of government officials?

A. Not the top. Lower level officials.

Q. Are you suggesting what may be known at a lower level may not be known at a higher level? And, if this is known at a higher level, are you suggesting there is some dereliction in the government in not acting on that information?

A. Well, first I don't know to what level particular information is known. I am not charging dereliction against anyone. I have every reason to think that those who have the information I have are just as good patriotic Americans as I am. I think probably the same may be true which was apparently true last October. They place a different interpretation on the information than I do. I don't charge them with any insincerity or anything else, but I think that the situation in Cuba is very serious.

Q. There are some direct conflicts between a number of critical points in a speech you made last week and the Defense Department position, for example, on the status of the medium range and the intermediate missile sites. The Defense Department contends that those sites, those bases were dismantled and broken up in the case of the ICBMs, that the missile erectors and the oxidizers and all the equipment needed to activate the missiles had been removed and had been seen on outgoing ships.

A. I never mentioned ICBMs at any time. There are three kinds of missiles and three kinds of missile bases that should be differentiated in this connection. One are what are called the ground-to-air missile bases; one intermediate range bases; one intermediate range missile bases. The intermediate range missile bases have a concrete base. I was at time talking about that, no reference to that whatever. When the Defense Department replied, they got that into the picture. Now a great many of those have been built and broken up and perhaps all of them have, as far as I know. The anti-aircraft missile sites are there and there is no dispute about that. What I was talking about was the intermediate range missile sites, which do not have a concrete base at all. They are gravel or hard-top in character. The hard-top and gravel has not been ripped up, has not been removed, and is in the same condition and is being kept there right today ready for use if they so desired to use it.

Q. Is that significant really, unless there is evidence, and you may have evidence, that the missile erectors, the oxidizing equipment, the preparation buildings are also there?

A. As far as I know, the buildings and the so-called launchers are not on those sites. We don't know where they are. I don't know anyone knows.

Q. Let's get this straight. Is this a base which could be used offensively against us?

A. Yes. It could be.

Q. About how long range a missile is it?

A. Oh, people differ on that but in the neighborhood of 1,000 miles.

Q. Your sources have no reports of very important missile equipment like the erectors and the oxidizers still being in Cuba?

A. No, I have no knowledge either that they still are in Cuba or that they are not. They can easily be transported and hidden but I have no positive evidence that they are.

Q. Do you have any suggestive evidence, put it that way?

A. I have been very careful not to make statements—until I felt I had the confirmed knowledge, and I do not have that as to these.

Q. How would you say that this knowledge has been confirmed?

A. It has been confirmed by government officials in all cases where I have made a statement.

Q. You said that before the October quarantine action was taken you thought the administration of the United States had been misled because they didn't know what to do. Do you suggest that they now have information similar to yours but are concealing it for the same reason?

A. Well, I don't like your use of the word conceal, because that implies something sinister. I did not mean it then as sinister, and I do not now.

Q. I have used the word "conceal."

A. Perhaps I did. I did not think I did, but if I did I stand on my feet, but I want to preface it by saying that I do not consider there is anything sinister in that. It is difficult to know what to do. I think very possibly that may account for the reluctance on the part of the officials to give Americans all of the facts with regard to the Russian build-up there.

Q. If we concede there is the build-up which you are talking about, and it's dangerous, what is your suggestion on what we ought to do about it?

A. First, I think the American people should be given all of the facts, regarding this build-up. I can see no problem of security involved. Second, we should put into effect this executive order to prevent free world ships carrying ing goods to Cuba for their economic buildup then coming to American ports and picking up goods here to go back across the Atlantic. Going beyond that, I have some ideas as to what should be done but I think the responsible way to handle that is to present the ideas, and I would be delighted to do it if I'm invited, either to the President or to those in authority.

WHAT DO THEY MEAN

Q. On the question of the threat which you have referred to, are you suggesting that this is a military threat to the U.S. in the absence of weapons of the nature of the medium range missiles or the bombers?

A. I think that tanks and trucks and missiles and torpedo boats and amphibious craft and MIG fighters and items of that kind present a threat when they are in great numbers, together with 20,000 Russian soldiers. I think that they present a serious threat to the security of the Western Hemisphere. Number one, I think there is a danger that they are building this base in order to form the base of operations in other Latin American countries.

A. Well, I think it's possible to get personnel from Cuba to other Latin American countries. In Latin American numbers, not in great numbers, that's not the way they operate. But, it is possible to get personnel from Cuba to other Latin American countries without our knowledge.

Q. You said recently that the time will come when the U.S. would have to get rid of the Communist arsenal "no matter how." What is the hard choice? What do you mean?

A. The hard choice is either to get rid of it or let it stay there. I think it's intolerable to have a force of this kind there because Cuba is fast becoming a super power. It is not already arrived at it, the second strongest military power in the Western Hemisphere.

Q. Is it intolerable enough for us to take military action against Cuba?

A. I am not at this moment advocating a specific course of action. When I said, however, that we must get rid of it, I meant exactly that, with whatever method is determined by those in authority to be the proper and most effective method. There are many alternatives to military action—military action would ever become necessary.

Q. You said a moment ago that you would be glad to talk with the President about what you thought ought to be done in Cuba. Would you also be willing, to clear up this dispute over what is actually there, to face the President himself with all the information that you have and the sources of the information so that the President could undertake to check this against the CIA and other sources?

A. I think I should protect my sources. Just as the newspaperman would. But I would welcome the opportunity to tell the President of the information I have, to tell him also as I would, to clear up this dispute which I do not consider confirmed but which might be true.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—An wiring problem has forced an indefinite delay in the space flight of astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr.

Officials of the manned spacecraft center here said yesterday

Cooper, 35, an Air Force major, is slated to make the longest orbital flight by an American, a mission that could last up to 34 hours.

Originally the flight was scheduled for early April.

Central Park Zoo Supervisor Tries in Vain to Cut Budget

NEW YORK (AP)—For the past 13 years John Galm has attempted to reduce his family budget. But try as he may the food bills average more than $3,500 a month.

"Just this month," paid $240 for fish alone," Galm said with a sigh, "and the mother of our newly born requires vitamins that cost $1.50 daily."

Galm's family consists of 250 birds and 130 mammals, all with tremendous appetites. He is supervisor of the Central Park Zoo.

'REWARDING JOB'

"It's a very rewarding job," Galm said. "It's just like taking care of a large family—and has all of the same problems."

Galm has worked for the zoo for 17 years, the last 13 as supervisor.

With an annual budget of $250,000, Galm keeps the zoo open seven days a week with the assistance of 24 keepers. He estimates that more than two million persons visit the zoo yearly.

"Even with my huge food budget," Galm said, "my job is an easy one. We have neither weather nor traffic problems and with our fine assortment of animals this makes the zoo a year-round attraction."

7-ACRE TRIANGLE

The zoo is located in a seven-acre triangle in Central Park, in the heart of Manhattan.

"One of the most cherished blessings," Galm said, "is the fact we don't charge admission to the zoo. The city pays our bills."

Most of the animals seem to get as much pleasure from looking at the people, as the people do from looking at them.

"After 27 years," Galm confided, "I still don't know whether the toddlers given the animals by visitors help fill them or merely serve as appetizers."

Bill Would Up Library Funds

LANSING—State Rep. Henry M. Hogan Jr., R-Bloomfield Hills, is among several cosponsors of a bill to authorize voluntary library systems and give them increased state aid.

If passed, the new law would provide grants of 10 to 30 cents per capita to library systems compared to present state aid of five cents per capita to individual libraries.

A library system is defined as "one or more public libraries, maintained by one or more governmental units, serving a population of at least 100,000 or an area of 4,000 square miles."

Incentive grants would be made to systems extending service to unserved areas under the bill's provisions.

Libraries not affiliated with a system would not get a cut in the state aid they receive under present law.

Formation of the library systems would be voluntary.

Which libraries affiliate and what patterns of cooperation they choose would be decided at the local level.

ment are worthy of attention and also some consternation.

At the moment, the Republic of South Korea, more popularly known as South Korea, is ruled by a military regime which seized power in a predawn coup on May 16, 1961.

It is headed by Gen. Park Chung-hee who has promised presidential elections and a return to civilian rule by Aug. 15 of this year.

A dangerous rift among Korean military men with opposing ideas about Korea's political future came into the open in late January and was patched over only by the personal intervention of General Park.

But the patchwork was thin and held out the prospect of more difficulties to come.

Center of the most recent controversy was a retired brigadier general named Kim Chong-pil, who left the army early in January to become chairman of the new Democratic Republican behind nearly all of the regime's major programs.

Rousing the ire of opponents both inside and outside the armed forces was the charge that Chong-pil had used the secret police to set up his own political machine and had placed his own men in party posts.

Chong-pil pleaded he had been "misunderstood," and when the chips were down, General Park came to his rescue.

Still Important Differences

New York News Strike Drains $70 Million

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York newspaper blackout, in its first day, had drained an estimated $70 million from the economy since it started, a survey showed today.

The personal impact has been offset in part by $6,000,000 in strike benefits reported paid out to date by nine unions.

The cost breaks down this way, for the eight weeks for which figures are available: Loss in advertising revenue, $28,000,000; loss in circulation revenue, $12,000,000; loss in wages and fringe benefits, $24,000,000; loss to news-dealers and other sales outlets, $6,500,000, for a total of $70,500,000.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner recessed meetings at City Hall at 1:30 a.m. today. The sessions started at 5 p.m. Tuesday. Another meeting was set for tonight.

DECLINES COMMENT

The mayor declined to tell newsmen, whether progress was made in efforts to settle the strike by 3,000 members of Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union which led to the shutdown of the city's nine major daily newspapers.

Wagner said "there are still important differences" between the two sides and said "we are going to keep right at it."

The ITU holds a nationwide referendum today on a special election to support the strike here and the printers' strike in Cleveland, where the city's two newspapers—the Plain Dealer and the Press and News—have been shut down for 69 days.

EXPECTS A WIN

Bertram A. Powers, president of Local 6, predicted that the proposal to authorize a 3 per cent assessment on earnings of all active working members for one year would be approved in the vote among 75,000 members. He said he expected the vote here to be 3-to-1 in favor.

The Newspaper Reporters Association of New York urged Wagner to keep both sides negotiating in the contract dispute between them.

In addition to the 3,000 striking printers, about 17,000 other newspaper employees have been thrown out of work in New York City.

The blackout started Dec. 6 when Louis B. Seltzer, of the Times, Daily News, Journal-American and World-Telegram and Sun. The other five major newspapers then shut down voluntarily.

In Cleveland, the Cleveland Newspaper Guild has named Noel Wick to debate the Guild strike issues tonight with Louis B. Seltzer, of the Press and News. Wick, a striking editorial employee of the Press and News, was president of the Cleveland Guild when the strike began.

All seven Cleveland radio stations will carry the debate live. The city's three television stations will air it on a delayed basis.

Only Weather Stalls Road Improvements

The proposed grading and graveling of an extension of Sarasota Avenue will proceed as soon as weather permits, according to city officials.

No objections were voiced at last night's City Commission meeting during a public hearing on the special assessment to finance the project.

Sarasota Avenue is being extended from Tallahassee Avenue to Kennel Road. The extension will provide better access to Alcott Elementary School for residents living south of the school.

Predicts New Christian Cooperation

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A new era in Christian relations between America is foreseen in a report to the National Lutheran Council meeting here today.

The annual report said tension between Protestants and Roman Catholics has noticeably relaxed as a result of the Second Vatican Council.

In the United States, "current dialogues between the groups over a variety of subjects and issues continue to increase in number and scope," the report said.

"The climate of such contacts, which had been thawing steadily over recent years, warmed up suddenly in 1962, opening up the way for further advances," it said.

The report was compiled by the Rev. Dr. Paul C. Empe, executive director of the council, cooperative agency representing two major Lutheran denominations with more than 5 1/2 million members in America.

FORECAST NEW ERA

Conclusions of Protestant observers at the Vatican Council, which held its first session late last year, indicate that "the climate and directions which characterize these initial deliberations in Rome forecast the arrival of a new era in Christian relations," the report said.

It said immediate constructive results are likely to be limited, but that further contacts are increasingly invited into Catholic settings in this country to share views.

"Since reciprocity usually follows in such matters, this sort of two-way process of 'getting-to-know-you' is certain to effect favorably the climate of interdenominational cooperation," Dr. Empe said.

church and community relationships," Dr. Empe said.

In the report, at the start Tuesday of the three-day 45th annual meeting of the Lutheran cooperative agency, Dr. Empe also hailed recent mergers which have brought much of Lutheranism into united bodies.

The mergers have reduced the council's constituent membership from eight denominations to two in the last two years.

They are the Lutheran Church in America, with about 3.2 million members, formed last year, in a merger of four groups, and the American Lutheran Church, formed two years ago in a merger of four other groups.

They are now holding talks with a third major body, the 2,555,000-member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, on the possibilities of forming a new inter-Lutheran agency including all three denominations.

REPLACEMENT PARTY?

This is the party by which Gen. Park and other members of the military government hope to replace their military uniforms with civilian attire and enter the new government as civilians.

Opposition came from two powerful voices. One was retired Marine Corp. Lt. Gen. Kim Dong-ha. Another was the regime's former prime minister, retired Lt. Gen. Song Yeh-chang.

Both denounced Kim Chong-pil as having a personal lust for power, and General Song also demanded that Gen. Park give up his own plans to seek the presidency.

Chong-pil, while never a member of the ruling junta, nevertheless was one of the closest men to Park, and through control of Korea's secret police, was rated the No. 2 man in the military regime.

He is also married to Park's niece.

Voice Louder for Freedom

GREENVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The Voice of America is getting louder. On Friday it dedicated with fanfare a $20-million installation whose massive transmitters are said to be 96 times as powerful as the strongest American commercial radio station.

The 400-foot steel antennas tower over a 6,000-acre site in the heart of North Carolina's tobacco land. Tests of its power have brought reports of strong signals from such widespread points as Buenos Aires, Leopoldville and Belgrade.

Berber Chief Dies Suddenly

CAIRO (AP)—Abd El Krim, the Berber chieftain who astonished the world with his victories against Spain and France in the bloody Rif Revolt of the 1920s, died suddenly early today.

The legendary warrior, whose exploits inspired such light operas as "The Desert Song," was 78 and had not set foot in his native Morocco since he was exiled in 1926.

Although age had mellowed him, he continued to be violently anti-French and warned the United States in 1957 that it should not rely on France to help defend Europe.

Declaring that the Germans swept the French aside in 20 days in World War II, Abd El Krim told an interviewer:

"The United States should not forget that now and not rely on France in any defense of Europe. The French broke faith with the British in the last war."

"I don't know why the world doesn't get on to those French, they're stupid, weak, stubborn and selfish," he declared.

Russ Expose Fake Doctor

MOSCOW (AP)—A doctor who headed a hospital near Moscow has been exposed as a fake, an official newspaper reported Tuesday.

Meditskaya Gazeta said Ivan Romanov got the job by using documents of a doctor who had died.

Romanov was described as a drunkard who drank so much of the hospital medicinal alcohol that none was left for treatment of patients. Then he substituted ether, the newspaper said.

Votes Against Death for Murders in Iowa

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—The Iowa House voted yesterday to abolish the gallows for first-degree murder but retained the death penalty for "the most terrifying of crimes"—kidnaping for ransom.

Rep. Mrs. Katherine Falvey had introduced the bill to abolish the death penalty and insisted a prison term ranging from 50 years to life be substituted for murder and 40 years to life for kidnaping.

The House adopted an amendment by Rep. Howard C. Repert Jr., son of a former sheriff, to retain the gallows for persons convicted of kidnapping. He called it "the most terrifying and frightening of crimes."

Soviet Mars Space Shot

33 Million Miles Away

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet space probe Mars-1 was reported by the news agency Tass today to be about 33 million miles from the earth.

The vehicle, launched Nov. 1, is expected to reach the vicinity of Mars at the end of May.

Office Romance Is Posing Problem of Eternal Triangle

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My best friend had a few dates with a young man who recently came to work in our office. She flipped for him. He then stopped dating her and started to date me.

I tried to fight it, but I couldn't help falling for him. Now he says he is in love with me and wants to marry me! I love him, too, Abby. We have been sneaking around like two thieves so my girl friend's feelings won't be hurt. He swears he never told her he loved her, and I believe him.

I hate to lose this girl's friendship and don't know how to break the news to her. Can you help me?

HAPPY BUT SAD
DEAR HAPPY: Attempting to cover up an office romance is like trying to smuggle down past a rooster. You and your young man should tell "Miss Also Ran" the facts as soon as possible. But be kind!

***
DEAR ABBY: When dining in a first-class restaurant, have you ever asked the waiter to wrap up the left-over steak for you to take home to the dog?

BOSTONIAN
DEAR BOSTONIAN: Certainly. And it was delicious!

DEAR ABBY: We have been married 27 years and have 4 grown children. Please tell me, how long does a wife have to wait to get hot water? He got me the bathroom set six years ago, brand new. Also the hot water tank.

All he has to do is haul it upstairs and connect it up. He tells me to be patient. He isn't working. All he does is watch TV and work crossword puzzles.

COLD WATER WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Say the magic words, "Either do it today or I'll hire someone to do it." This works.

***
DEAR ABBY: I just came from a dentist who told me it would cost me $90 for a complete set of dentures. He is considered a very good dentist and my friends tell me the price is right.

He does not do anything "on time," which means I will have to scure up the cash. Does a bank finance things like that?

NEEDS DENTURES
DEAR NEEDS: Call your local bank and find out. It sounds like a legitimate reason for a loan. (Then the bite is on YOU every month.)

What to Do Till the Auto Mechanic Comes

By JEANMARIE ELKINS
We women have been having more than our share of cold-weather car trouble for the past few weeks. Pity the helpless female with car trouble and absolutely no idea of what is the matter.

Men, tickle creatures that they are, have designed that women are fragile, delicate, feminine and not supposed to bother themselves with such dirty things as fixing cars.

And yet on the other hand they persist in making fun of the rather pathetic looking female who doesn't know a spark plug from a cylinder head.

Joy Fair, owner and operator of Joy Fair's Autocraft in Pontiac, and builder and driver of race cars, gives our women readers a few basic ideas on how a car runs and why it doesn't run.

"Women think if a car won't start it's ALWAYS flooded," Mr. Fair claims.

As a prime example of this, he says his wife called last summer asking him to come home and start the car because it was flooded.

Jeanmarie Elkins, staff writer in the Women's Department, wonders if a blow with her shoe will fix that "funny black thing" that's making a noise in her car. In the accompanying article she offers advice to feminine drivers.

choke is not working properly or you have a frozen gas line.

If your car will start but coughs while you are driving, perhaps there is too little gas and too much air in the carburetor.

To insure your car is starting on cold mornings, Mr. Fair recommends keeping a full load of fuel to eliminate water condensation in the gas tank.

Water does not belong there and does nothing to "clean it out."

Use premium rather than regular gas during the winter to assure the right mixture.

BATTERY DATA
Check your battery to make sure it is the right one, electrically, for your car.

Some major repairs are necessarily expensive. Do some checking and comparing before you yell, "foul." You may be hurting a good reputation for no reason.

A mechanic may not always be able to tell you exactly how much repairs will cost or what is wrong with your motor without looking it over.

Now that you have a little knowledge about how a car works, we don't want to overhear any of you saying, "That big black thing is making funny noises again."

Joy Fair feels that before a woman can know why a car does not run properly, she has to know a little about how it does run, says Jeanmarie Elkins.

The carburetor sits on top of your motor. It mixes air with gas. The manifold carries this mixture to each individual cylinder in the motor. Inside the cylinders there are rods, pistons and valves.

When the intake valve for the cylinder opens, the gas-and-air mixture pours or is sucked into the cylinder.

The opening then closes and the piston, inside the cylinder, comes up to compress the mixture.

The spark plug ignites the compressed mixture which expands and forces the piston down. The expanded fuel is pushed out and as the piston goes down to the bottom of the cylinder, a new fuel mixture comes in and the process begins again.

If you have too much gas and not enough air in your mixture, flooding will result. The automatic choke on a car has no "brain" but the temperature. Pushing the gas pedal to the floor will overcome flooding.

Wilmot-Smith Vows Spoken

Rev. Robert Winne officiated at the marriage of Nibla Magine Smith and Jerry V. Wilmot in the Waterford Community Church.

The Bernard Smiths of De-land Drive are parents of the bride. The bridegroom's parents, the Vassie Wilmots are of Clarkston.

Eula Smith attended her sister as maid of honor at the Jan. 25 ceremony which was followed by a church reception.

Gary Wilmot assisted his cousin as best man, Duane Schram and the bride's brother, Everett Smith seated guests. The couple will live in Pontiac.

Areme Chapter Has Memorial Rites at Temple

Areme Chapter No. 503, Order of the Eastern Star, met at the Roosevelt Temple Monday evening.

Memorial service was held for Mrs. Hans Michikelsen.

Mrs. William Vogel was given a life membership in the chapter.

Announcement was made of the completion of plans for the annual Cup and Saucer Card Party to be held Feb. 20 at 8 p.m.

Refreshments were served during a social hour, by Mrs. Harold Schingel, Mrs. Albert Kugler and Mrs. Robert Wasson.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice: What type of stiffening should I use in an elbow-length caplet so it will stand away from the body? Also, please tell me how to apply it?—Mrs. E. M. C.

Dear Mrs. E. M. C.: For this type of stiffening, you could use a heavy woven or nonwoven type of interfacing. I would suggest cutting the interfacing the same as your garment and basting the two layers of fabric together. Now proceed as if you are working with one single thickness of fabric.

Dear Eunice Farmer: I don't know how I ever got along without your column. You give me the sewing confidence I've never had. When a buttonhole appears in a seam, how is it made?—Mrs. J. E. A.

Dear Mrs. J. E. A.: As you are stitching the seamline, you must back stitch or double-stitch each end of the space on the seamline for the buttonhole. The space for the buttonhole is not stitched.

If the entire seam is not pressed open, you must clip to the seamline at each end of the buttonhole and press this part of the seam open.

If desired, you may machine stitch 1/4 inch on each side of the fold to make it correspond in appearance to the rest of your buttonholes.

Mrs. V. R. says: To prevent angora sweaters from shedding so badly, place them in a plastic bag and keep in the refrigerator before wearing.
Sounds silly doesn't it, but according to several readers, it really works! I wish I had known this when I was young enough to wear angora sweaters.

Dear Eunice: Maybe you can tell me how to transform a full-pleated skirt into a plain one?—Mrs. A. F. S.

Dear Mrs. A. F. S.: Rip the seams of your pleated skirt and carefully press flat so the grainline will not be disturbed.

Examine the threads of the fabric to determine the lengthwise grain and mark this with a long arrow and white chalk. Lay your new skirt pattern on your fabric, matching the grainline so it will hang correctly. After it has been cut, proceed with the usual construction.

This week's Tailor Tris winner is Mrs. W. N. Clinton, 727 Ragin Lane, Rock Hill, South Carolina. She wins a Tallor Tris pressing board for the following suggestion:

"My biggest problem seems to be the points on collars. I discovered that if I trim the interfacing diagonally behind the seam line at the point, the bulk is eliminated. The collars look more tailored and are much easier to turn."

Dear Eunice: I have a lightweight, pure silk shirt waist dress. I don't enjoy wearing it because it blows up in the air with the slightest breeze. Is there anything I can put inside the hem to keep the skirt hanging in place?—Mrs. A. K. A.

Dear Mrs. A. K. A.: The only suggestion I can give you is one that is often used in the hems of jackets and over-blouses. This is a very fine metal chain that is placed in the hem for added weight.

You would probably have to loosely catch it by hand at the fold line for the hem and possibly it wouldn't be necessary to use it in the entire hem.

If any of you readers have found other satisfactory ways of solving this problem, please let us know.

Please send your questions and sewing tips to Sew Simple, in care of this newspaper. If you would like my booklet "All About Sleeves," send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for it to Eunice Farmer, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Mats Add Note of Color Interest

A novel idea for entertaining, or for adding decorative interest to family meals, is to use a set of place mats consisting of four round and four oblong shapes.

Designed with color - fast sunflowers or oyster Belgian linen, these can also be used - equally washable, either way.

Church Unit Meets

Members of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Church of God on East Boulevard met at the Royal Oak home of Mrs. Harry Morgan Monday evening.

MOMS Unit Meets for Luncheon

MOMS of America, Unit II, gathered Tuesday for a school-girl dessert luncheon in the home of the president, Mrs. S. Edgar Thomas on Center Street. Mrs. David Edwards gave the devotion. Mrs. Duane McVean and the hostess reported on the Michigan State Board regional meeting held Monday evening in the First Methodist Church of Hazel Park.

The unit will assist a veteran and his family whose furniture was stolen while in storage. A donation was sent to the Detroit U.S.O. milk fund.

Mrs. Arno Hulet will be hostess on March 5.

Follow Improvement Plan

Don't Lull Yourself on Fat

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

First experiences carry a terrific wallop! Remember your first kiss, the first time you fell in love or the first time you baked a cake? This works in reverse, also. Remember how you felt when you noticed the first little bulge at the thighline, the first grey hair, that little roll over the girdle or that small pad of fat on your tummy? You probably felt horrified and said to yourself, "I will certainly do something about that!"

But the eye becomes accustomed to what it sees day after day. After a while, the roll over the girdle and the bulge at the thighline and the fat over the abdomen did not seem quite so shocking to you as they did at first. You may have lulled your mind with thoughts such as, "Well, after all, I cannot expect to keep my girlish figure. My size isn't really bad for one my age."

Pounds and life may have piled up on you until, somehow in the scuffle, you have lost sight of your most attractive self and you find yourself a bit or more overweight, a little bored, a little tired, a little dull and a little self-conscious. In fact, you may feel sunk in a rut which you never meant to dig for yourself.

This is really a congratulatory message to those thousands of women who are following my eight-week Beauty Improvement Plan — my BIP plan. I call it. You not only decided to do something about you but ARE doing it!

Those of you who have been following my plan for two or three weeks are now over the hump. In that length of time you have seen the first improvement or signs of lovely things to come.

Once you can see for yourself what is going to happen you will continue. I know, for just a few weeks longer. If you procrastinate and have not yet begun, then start in not later than tomorrow — the NEXT tomorrow.

If any of you have missed the first part of this series or would like to have my BIP KIT (which gives you a booklet full of the detailed information you need and also brings you my BIP Weight Chart on which you can watch your beauty line rise as your weight line drops), send 25 cents and your printed name and address to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

New Tax Rule to Affect Savings Account

By MARY FEELEY

Consultant in Money Management

It looks as if this year's income tax regulations are going to make honest citizens of us yet.

* * *

Not even those modest savings accounts people hoped to tuck away in the bank and forget to remember are going to be safe from prying eyes. New regulations now require a bank to report any and all saving deposits that earned $10 or more in interest in one year. This, of course, comes under the head of embarrassing moments to the husband or wife who has been keeping a savings account on the Q-T and never mentioned it when the joint tax returns were filled out.

CAN CAUSE PROBLEMS

As long ago as last June questions involving this dilemma began coming my way. One woman stated her case like this:

"How can I avoid my husband's learning that I have a savings account of $7,000, which I saved the hard way over many years? My husband is an alcoholic who is more interested in spending what we have than in putting anything away."

"I always kept what records were necessary, so he never knew about my savings. I never reported them on our joint tax returns because I was afraid for him to find out. Now what do I do?"

What she does, of course, is report these savings this year and pay up. Furthermore, according to the Internal Revenue Service, she's supposed to go at once to her local IRS office and declare those savings and explain her reasons for having failed to report them in the past years.

Since her situation is an unusual one she will be given every consideration. The new law requiring banks to report savings account interest earned has been put into effect because too many people got absent-minded.

TAX FREE SOLUTION

It's true, of course, that this woman could continue to keep her husband in the dark about the money she has saved. She could remove it from the savings bank to buy nontaxable municipal bonds, which are debt obligations incurred by states, cities, counties, districts and other public agencies to pay for needed public improvements. Income from municipal bonds is free from Federal income tax and need not be reported on the joint tax return.

These bonds might not yield as high an interest rate as she would receive by letting the money remain in the bank, especially if her taxable income is in the lower bracket.

Since her prime object is not avoiding payment of the tax, but protecting her hard-earned savings' tax situation. Maximizing savings from a profligate husband; you can write her about your own it might be a thought to consider. budget problem, enclosing (On Friday, Miss Feeley will stamped and self-addressed envelope about more variables in this hope.)

Fear of Child's Mentality Brings Anguish

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Dear Mrs. Lawrence: In kindergarten, my girl was called a "slow learner." Now 8, she still puts up a mental barrier against learning. We've tried pressure and the "hands off" policy but nothing we do seems to stimulate her. She is always slipping back in school.

Now her brother, 5, is showing the same slowness and inattention. We are so afraid that they will be placed in a class for the retarded.

ANSWER: You're afraid that the children are mentally retarded, aren't you? Then have them examined by a reliable psychologist who can tell you whether your fear is real.

If it is, you will be able to do something about your problem. If it isn't real, you'll know the children's resistance to learning is due to some other cause — and can do something about that.

But if you don't test your fear against the truth, you are condemning yourself to torment. Your untested fear will diffuse itself, infecting all your responses to the children.

If your little boy shows restlessness when you're reading to him, apprehension will take you by the throat, insisting that his inattention is mental retardation.

If your daughter's eyes wander when you're showing her how to fold her bed blanket, it won't let you see her boredom as normal but force you to ascribe it to a retarded child's inability to sustain interest.

The lens of your frightening suspicion will be destructive to all of you.

A parent who faces the fact that his child is mentally retarded suffers agony. But when he has moved through the agony to acceptance of the fact, he is no longer helpless. He finds people who understand his special problems and are eager to help him.

ANGUISH TO FEAR
But the kind of agony we involve when we fear to test the possibility that our child may be mentally handicapped is unending anguish.

It is to shrink in shame from any evidence that seems to support our suspicion. It is to hate ourselves for the shrinking — and to secretly resent the child who makes us feel so ashamed.

So I'm not talking here about the children's right to a responsible diagnosis of their mental capacities. I'm talking to you about responsibility to yourselves and your own mental wholeness. Have the children examined by a psychologist.

Return Gifts if Wedding Called Off

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I was engaged six months ago and at that time received many lovely presents. Last week my engagement was broken and I know that the presents should be returned.

However, quite a few of these presents were sent by my fiancé's relatives whom I had just met and I can't return them for the life of me remember who gave what.

Consider this fact, and also the length of time that has elapsed, would it be proper to keep them? If not, will you please tell me how I can return them?

A: I think in this case you will have to send your fiancé a list of the things sent by his relatives and ask them to please find out who sent what so that you can return the presents.

If he writes back and says they do not want them returned, then of course you may keep them.

Q: Three single people, all friends of each other, living at separate addresses, were invited to spend the weekend at the house of a couple they met while traveling.

They arrived and departed together. Should each of the three write a separate thank-you note to the hostess or may they elect one to write and express the appreciation of all three?

A: Most correctly, each should write a separate broad-and-butter letter to the hostess.

Q: My employer and his wife will soon celebrate their silver wedding anniversary and I would like to send them some flowers on this occasion.

In signing the card to enclose with them, should my wife's name be included or should they be sent from me alone? My wife has never met them.

A: As your wife has never met them, her name should not be included.

Mess? It's in the Bag
By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY — A plastic bag placed over the bottom of a food chopper or grinder, secured with a rubber band, is my handiest gadget. Catches crumbs or juice from moist foods. MRS. G. W. M.
DEAR POLLY — Here is a tip for mothers with little ones who want to play with the telephone. Place a large rubber band over the phone cradle to insure a free line even when the phone itself has been taken off the cradle hooks. The band is not too much trouble to remove when you answer the phone. MRS. E. H.
DEAR POLLY — The letter about the discarded bunk ladder gave me this idea for using one I had. I painted it black to match my living room tables and hung it horizontally on the wall to use for a knickknack shelf.
On each end, I nailed a brass planter. Between rungs I hung small wall plaques. My living room now has a new look and my husband thinks I am a genius. MRS. R. N.
DEAR POLLY — You start out rearing children and in a few years you find you are also raising turtles, birds, cats, dogs and even a horse. Feed the turtles and birds mashed hard-boiled eggs. When raising puppies, keep several pieces of old fur in the box and when the puppies leave for a new home, give the owner a piece of the fur with each pup and he will be happy in his new home. The fur smells just like his mother.
When kitty needs to be doctored and refuses, spill the medicine liberally over her fur. She will lick it off and improve.
When the horse tangles with barbed wire, don't panic; just get an oil can, fill with medicine for the cuts and aim in the right direction. MRS. G. F.
Share your favorite homemaking ideas... send them to Polly in care of The Pontiac Press. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

Mrs. Crisenbery enjoys sewing.
PEACH COBBLER
By Mrs. James Crisenbery
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup sifted flour
1/2 cup milk
Mix all ingredients together and pour into greased 8-inch round pan. 1 can (1 lb. 3 oz.) canned sliced peaches
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup boiling water
Mix peaches and sugar and pour over top of batter. Pour boiling water very gently over peaches. Bake 20 - 35 minutes at 375 degrees. Batter will come to top of pan.
Serve warm or cold with cream, whipped cream or ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

Former Official of County Dies

Mrs. Edward Whitfield Was Register of Deeds

Mrs. Edward A. (Lucille) Whitfield, who served Oakland County as register of deeds from 1929 to 1935, died Monday in the University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor, after a brief illness.

Mrs. Whitfield, 78, of 811 Hutchins St., Ann Arbor, was a former Pontiac and Waterford Township resident.

Her body will be at the F. J. Muehlberg Funeral Chapel, 403 S. Fourth Ave., Ann Arbor, until Friday, when it will be taken to St. Michael's Chapel of St. Andrew Church for service at 10:30 a.m. in Ann Arbor.

She will lie in state from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Friday at the Donelson-Johns Funeral Home with graveside prayers at 4 p.m. in Oak Hill Cemetery.

The family said friends may make any memorials to their favorite charity.

BIRTHDAY—Mrs. Harriet Isaacs, 105-year-old former Michigan resident, has lived in Santa Rosa, Calif., since 1885. She has outlived all but one child; has 14 grandchildren, 30 great-grandchildren, and two sixth-generation descendants.

Policemen's Lodge Elects President

Pontiac patrolman Gerald A. Navarre has been elected president of the Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge 132, for 1963.

Navarre, 39, is a charter member of the organization and has held the offices of secretary and vice president. He has been with the police department for 10 years.

Other officers elected were Lt. William Nesbitt, vice president; patrolman James Laine, secretary; patrolman Freeman Stalions, treasurer; patrolman Parke I. Nique, conductor; Lt. Charles Gale, sergeant at arms; and Sgt. Lawrence LaBair, trustee.

Want 45 in County for March Induction

Oakland County will provide 45 of the 491 Michigan men for the March draft call. It was announced today by Col. Arthur Holmes, state selective service director.

All March inductees, except for volunteers, will be at least 22 years of age.

The number of draftees from each of the local boards is: No. 65, 8; No. 66, 5; No. 67, 8; No. 68, 2; and No. 331, 7.

OK Bond Issues for Streets, Sewers

Proposed bond issues to finance construction in Bloomfield Township and $93,000 in special assessment and general obligation bonds for street and sewer construction in Madison Heights.

The city is planning to advertise and sale of the respective bond issues.

Teen Injured in Area Crash

Joseph F. Francis, 18, of Utica is in satisfactory condition today in Avon Center Hospital after suffering a knee injury in an auto accident at 10 p.m. yesterday in Avon Township.

Francis was a passenger in a car driven by Gerald LeCureux, 17, of Utica. LeCureux told sheriff's deputies the car went into a ditch while heading east on Parkdale Street and struck a tree.

LeCureux was treated at the hospital and released.

2 Dems Lose State Posts

Gov. George W. Romney has two Republicans to replace Democrats from Pontiac and Royal Oak on state boards.

Henry McLaughlin of 122 Lincoln St. has been replaced on the board of registered architects, professional engineers and land surveyors by Edwin Young of Ann Arbor, a University of Michigan professor.

McLaughlin's term expired Jan. 1.

Named to the international bridge authority was Herbert Corey, a Stephenson bank president. He replaces Leonard Wilcox Jr. of Royal Oak for the balance of a four-year term which expires June 30.

Wilcox's appointment to the bipartisan body had never been confirmed by the Senate.

Fear Americans Die in Viet Nam Crash

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A fighter-bomber piloted by two U.S. Air Force officers crashed and exploded today on a raiding mission in Communist guerrilla territory.

The twin-engine Vietnamese air force warplane plunged into jungle-covered mountains northeast of Saigon. Little hope was held that the two Americans—a major and a first lieutenant—and their Vietnamese observer survived. One parachute was spotted hanging in trees nearby, but the chute was reported burned.

Editor Invites Debate Over Strike Issues

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Editor Louis Seltzer of the strikebound Cleveland Press yesterday challenged officials of the Newspaper Guild to a public debate on the issues of the 68-day walkout and his bid was promptly accepted.

Seltzer offered to debate with "no holds barred, no subject ruled out, no time limit imposed, and the discussion totally wide open."

The guild suggested a pooling arrangement among radio and television stations to assure the largest possible audience.

Meanwhile, a former guild negotiator and president of the Cleveland local charged that settlement of the strike was being held up by an international representative.

Forrest Allen, a reporter on the Press, said, "The strike will end only when Mr. William Blatz of the American Newspaper Guild gets out of town and Cleveland newspapermen take over negotiations."

Local-Level Mental Aid Sought by Roberts' Bill

LANSING—State Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland County, yesterday introduced to the Senate his bill to overhaul Michigan's approach to the mental health problem.

The legislation would enable Oakland County and other local governments to establish community-based programs, proclaimed as the answer to overcrowded state mental hospitals.

Roberts' community mental health bill would authorize the county to establish its own mental director, and care for county mental health patients through contracts with hospitals.

The county would receive state matching funds to help pay for the program.

The new community approach will bring quicker attention to shots and shotgun pellets from subdivisions, Roberts said.

Roberts also introduced yesterday a bill that would permit Avon Township to outlaw hunting in the township by a vote of the residents.

The legislation was requested by the township's board of trustees after it received complaints of shots and shotgun pellets from subdivisions, Roberts said.

Roberts' community mental health bill would authorize the county to establish its own mental director, and care for county mental health patients through contracts with hospitals.

The county would receive state matching funds to help pay for the program.

The new community approach will bring quicker attention to shots and shotgun pellets from subdivisions, Roberts said.

Roberts also introduced yesterday a bill that would permit Avon Township to outlaw hunting in the township by a vote of the residents.

The legislation was requested by the township's board of trustees after it received complaints of shots and shotgun pellets from subdivisions, Roberts said.

U.S. Seeks Faster Communication With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—When ever Dean Rusk, the secretary of state, has something urgent to tell to David Bruce, the U.S. ambassador to Britain, he can pick up the telephone and talk to the diplomat in London in seconds.

When the White House or the State Department has a message, coded or uncoded, for the embassy in London, it can send it by direct teletype.

This is what the Kennedy administration wants to achieve in its communications with the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

Presently Rusk can do two things if he wants to send word to Foy D. Kohler, ambassador to Moscow. He may put through a long distance call just as anyone else does who has some business in the Soviet capital, or he can send a coded cable through commercial channels. Once in Moscow, it may or may not be delivered promptly.

The problem of better communications with U.S. diplomatic missions around the world, and especially with Moscow, became an urgent issue during last fall's Cuban crisis when so much depended on fast and accurate exchanges with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

President Kennedy said at a recent news conference "speed is very desirable, so we are hoping we can get instantaneous communication" with Moscow.

SPECULATION

There was immediate speculation that Kennedy had in mind a special telephone, a direct line between the White House and the Kremlin.

Nothing as dramatic was considered. Khrushchev does not speaking English, and Kennedy does not speak Russian.

What Kennedy had in mind was much simpler: to send a message to Khrushchev—or, for that matter, to any other head of government—through normal diplomatic channels, but with a speed worthy of the nuclear age.

After the Cuban crisis, Kennedy and Rusk gave orders that the other agencies study what should be done to improve the situation.

The study—a hush-hush operation—is still going on. William H. Orrick Jr., deputy undersecretary of state for administration, is in charge. A group of communications experts from government agencies and private industry meets regularly behind doors guarded by Marines.

TECHNICAL PROBLEMS

There are intricate technical problems, such as the use of automatic coding and decoding devices attached to direct teletype lines.

Last year, Congress amended the 1934 Communications Act, and this enabled the administration to plan swifter contact with the embassies abroad.

Previously the law prohibited foreign governments from operating radio-transmitters in the United States—and these governments retaliated by refusing to let the United States broadcast from their countries. The amendment authorized the administration to negotiate broadcasting privileges with other countries.

The United States made two suggestions to the Soviet Union. It proposed that the State Department be permitted to have a direct commercial leased wire to its Moscow embassy, and secondly, that the embassy be permitted to operate a radio transmitter.

Moscow has given no answer yet. The administration already has negotiated agreements in principle with more than a score of foreign governments to operate radio transmitters abroad.

The request to the Soviet Union for a leased commercial line would add Moscow to about 60 capitals where U.S. embassies already are connected with Washington.

How do the '63 cars compare for all-round performance?

Here are the results of their first public test in the Pure Oil Performance Trials at Daytona Beach

For over a week, the '63s were put through their paces—in a series of competitive tests measuring gasoline economy, acceleration, and braking. Deliberately designed to duplicate the toughest driving conditions, using professional drivers, the 1963 Pure Oil Performance Trials proved the most realistic and meaningful ever staged.

The Trials proved, too, that the '63s can really deliver—in economy and all-round performance—especially when powered by PURE Firebird Gasoline. Now there is a difference in gasolines that's worth changing brands to get. For top performance in your car, fire up with Firebird at your Pure Oil dealer's.

BRAKING TEST

Designed to demonstrate the car's ability to stop under emergency conditions. Following a series of 21 stops induced "brake fade," each car was subjected to one final stop after a true speed of 60 mph. The "brake fade" was to be a complete stop of this speed was measured in feet and fractions thereof.

Yeast Breads to Tempt Family

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor
Last week we promised you some more yeast dough recipes. We hope you tried some from the first article and liked them. Please don't be afraid of work-

Are
watcher?

Whether you're working to keep your figure, or striving to improve it, you'll find Sealtest Fortified Skimmed Milk a great help in cutting calories. Best of all, you'll love that delicious fresh-milk taste, glass after glass.

IMPORTANT! WHOLE MILK VALUES WITHOUT THE EXTRA CALORIES
Pure wholesome Sealtest Fortified Skimmed Milk gives you the important vitamins of whole milk, the minerals and the protein—without the fat. Only 88 calories in an 8-ounce glass!

HIGHEST POSSIBLE QUALITY
Sealtest Fortified Skimmed Milk is specially tested... and re-tested... by trained men and women in ultramodern Sealtest plants. It is milk of the highest possible quality.

DELICIOUS FRESH FLAVOR
Trust Sealtest to give you that satisfying fresh-milk flavor. In the pure fresh goodness of Sealtest Fortified Skimmed Milk!

ing with yeast. It's not difficult and is truly a worthwhile experience. Just remember to use very warm (not hot) water to dissolve the dry yeast most of us use. For compressed yeast the water should be lukewarm.

The other thing to remember is that dough rises best at a temperature of 70-80 degrees, without drafts.

Be brave. Be daring. Try a yeast dough recipe today.

BATTER BREAD

Batter breads are good for the inexperienced bread baker. Instead of kneading the dough, you beat it. Kneading or beating develops the gluten in the flour which retains the gas in the dough.

Sounds complicated, doesn't it? All I'm trying to say is that developing the gluten gives you a light loaf of bread.

Homemade rye bread is a treat too seldom seen. Most supermarkets carry rye flour, but if yours doesn't, try a health food store. Then make some rye casserole bread.

Rye Casserole Bread

1 cup milk
¼ cup dark brown sugar, packed
2½ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons margarine
1 cup warm water
2 packages dry yeast
3 cups sifted white flour
½ cup rye flour

Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt and margarine; cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture and flour. Stir until well blended, about 2 minutes. Cover; let rise in warm place.

Stuffed Wieners Are Broiled

For still another idea for frankfurter serving fun, prepare Bacon-Cheese Frankfurters. The bacon and cheese are "stuffed" for the frank.

To prepare the stuffing, cook strips of bacon until crisp and drain on absorbent paper. Then break the bacon into bite-sized pieces and combine with grated sharp cheese.

Next, cut frankfurters lengthwise, but not quite through—just enough so they may be opened. Then generously top each frankfurter with the stuffing.

Arrange the stuffed frankfurters on your broiler rack and broil them at a moderate temperature until the cheese is bubbly. This takes only 5 or 6 minutes. Serve them with buns if you wish.

Poach pared and quartered apples in a sugar syrup and serve cold with fresh orange segments.

And let me tell you macaroni is a staple I just love to eat. I mean Creamettes macaroni. For any dish: casseroles, salads, or with pour-over sauces—it's the tops! And it cooks up in only seven minutes!

free from drafts, until more than doubled in bulk, about 50 minutes. Stir down; beat vigorously ½ minute.

Turn into greased 1½-quart casserole; brush with milk. Bake at once, uncovered, in 400-degree oven, about 50 minutes, or until done. Remove from casserole; cool on wire rack. Makes 1 loaf.

The second recipe we're giving you today is another refrigerator roll recipe. This one, made with some whole wheat flour, may be used in a variety of ways. Do try the English Muffins, especially if you have an electric skillet for baking them.

Refrigerator Whole Wheat Rolls

1 cup hot water
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
½ cup (½ stick) margarine
1 cup very warm water
2 packages or cakes yeast, active dry or compressed
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup whole wheat flour
6 cups sifted white flour (about)

Combine hot water with sugar, salt and margarine; cool to lukewarm. Measure very warm water into large bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved.

Stir in lukewarm mixture, eggs, whole wheat flour and 3 cups of the white flour; beat until smooth. Stir in remaining white flour to make soft dough; mix well.

Place in greased large bowl, turning to grease all sides. Cover closely with waxed paper or aluminum foil. Store in refrigerator until doubled in bulk, or until needed.

To use, punch down and cut off amount needed. May be kept 4 days in refrigerator.

Pan Sticks: Use ¼ of dough. Roll out on floured board to make 10x5-inch oblong. Let rest 5 minutes. Meanwhile, melt 2 tablespoons margarine; turn into 10x5-inch pan. Cut dough into 8 strips 5 inches long. Dip each strip into melted margarine, coating all sides.

Arrange strips in baking pan. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 20 minutes, or until done. Makes 4.

Pan Ring: Use ¼ of dough. On floured board, roll out under palms of hands to make 12-inch long roll. Cut into 12 equal pieces. Shape each piece into ball; roll in melted margarine (use about 2 tablespoons). Place in 9-inch ring mold, spacing evenly.

Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 30 minutes, or until done. Makes 12.

Figure 8's: Use ¼ of dough. Roll out ¼ inch thick. Cut with doughnut cutter. Twist once to make figure 8. Place on greased baking sheet about 2 inches apart.

Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) about 15 minutes or until done. Makes about 10.

Whole Wheat English Muffins: Roll ¼ of dough out ¼ inch thick. Cut into 3-inch squares or rounds. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake on ungreased griddle over low heat about 10 minutes; turn and bake 10 minutes longer. To serve, split and toast under broiler. Makes about 10.

Note: If using electric skillet, have temperature control at 325 degrees.

Does Iodin Ration Restore Hair Color?

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY
"There's no doubt about the iodine ration bringing the color back and giving new life to my hair." (Mrs. R. M. S.)

"Taking Iodin ration for over two years... my husband says that instead of my hair getting grayer, it seems to be getting back some of its natural color and I'm 74." (Mrs. R. E. L.)

"Iodin ration for about four years, off and on. My friends and blackness of my hair, while most of them have gray hair and scanty growth..." (Mrs. D. D. C.)

"Wife and I have been taking your iodine ration for about a year... rapid growth and thickening of our hair and rapid growth of our fingernails. Wife's hair was quite thin prior to this, but you ought to see it now..." (D. J.)

"A year ago my hair was turning gray. My friend's hair was turning gray, too. We are both about fifty, dumpy or a bit too stout, sometimes taken for sisters. I began taking Iodin ration. She pooh-poohed it.

"At the present time my hair has regained its old dark brown color—I can part it on either side or in the middle.

"Of course I do have some gray hairs, but the effect is brown at the temples. I noticed yesterday as my friend walked up the street that she now wears an iron gray mop, decidedly gray at the temples..." (D. O. H.)

In the pamphlet of instructions—"The Iodin Ration"—ask for it and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope—I merely mention premature graying of the hair as one sign of Iodin deficiency.

As for restoring the original color to hair that has turned gray, I'm still skeptical. I know human nature. Have to see it happen. One good look is worth a thousand testimonials. If you're in low spirits, you notice all the gray hairs. Melancholy is a common sign of Iodin deficiency.

Please bear in mind that I do not advise the use of medicinal forms of Iodine or Iodide without medical supervision. The Iodin I recommend in the Iodin ration pamphlet is only that which you should but probably do not get in food and water.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not diseases, diagnosis, treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Copyright, 1963)

House Chairman Treated in Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, is being treated at Georgetown Hospital for a respiratory ailment.

Dr. Darryll C. Crain said Walter, 68, entered the hospital a week ago for a checkup on a "weakness in his respiratory system" and has been undergoing diagnostic tests.

"He is considerably improved and is up and about in his room," Crain told a reporter. "He should be back at his duties in a week but we may try to limit his activities for a time."

53 Years in America

'Happy Birthday' to 36-Million Boy Scouts, Leaders

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"On my honor, I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country," begins one of the world's most famous oaths.

"To help other people at all times," it concludes, "to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

That pledge—and the motto "Be Prepared"—have helped guide the lives of 36-million Boy Scouts and their leaders since the founding of the famous youth organization in this country 53 years ago.

This is National Boy Scout Week, and it is being celebrated by an active membership of around 5,200,000 scouts and their adult leaders.

Here are some items of interest about the movement:

Nine members of President Kennedy's Cabinet were Boy Scouts, and so was Kennedy. So were 21 of the 27 Rhodes Scholars named in 1962, 75 per cent of the freshman class at West Point, and every one of the new crop of U.S. astronauts selected last year.

Scouting is carried on in 141 countries, colonies and protectorates throughout the world. One out of every four American men has been associated with the program either as a scout or as a leader.

In America today, there are 135,000 troops sponsored by PTA's, American Legion posts, Red Cross chapters, churches, and civic organizations. There are more than 1½ million adult volunteers, and the biggest problem of the movement is to find enough qualified men to lead the growing number of troops.

Scouting takes time, experience, dedication and an understanding of and sympathy for youth.

MANY ARE EAGLES

Nearly 1.5 per cent of all Boy Scouts go on to become Eagle Scouts, who must win 21 Merit Badges.

Of more than 100 Merit Badges available, the second most popular—surprisingly—is cooking, an indication that the average scout is going to make some future wife a helpful husband. But how good are these embryo chefs?

Well, last year a 12-year-old scout, competing against hundreds of women, took first prize in a national baking contest.

Other favorite merit badges—

UNIQUE TROOP

A unique group is Troop 30 of Hondo, Cal. Its 26 boys have no canoes or camping equipment. They can't swim, camp or hike. They memorize the information they need to win Merit Badges. They learn knot-tying yet don't see the knots they tie.

The boys of Troop 30 rarely get outdoors, and when they do many people have to accompany them. Just ordinary Boy Scouts in a naughty world, and his at a teen-age boy to live up to, but tempt to be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent.

Prison officials say comparatively few Boy Scouts ever get in those are mighty big aims for serious trouble with the law.

Comedians sometimes poke affectionate fun at the Boy Scout's goal to do a good deed every day.

Scholar Maintains Labor Peace in Burgeoning Israel

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
JERUSALEM, Israel — One of the most dynamic governments of the Middle East is Yigal Alon, Israel's 44-year-old minister of labor, who was a founder of the youth underground forces during the time of the British mandate of Palestine.

Alon, born of Russian parents in Biblical Galilee, lives in a kibbutz (community) near Capernaum, the now-forsaken city from which Jesus of Nazareth once called Peter, Andrew, James and John to become "fishers of men."

A nonpracticing Jew, Alon has — a government — provided flat in New Jerusalem, but when the cabinet minister returns to his beloved kibbutz on weekends, he must wait on tables as his share of the work in the communal village which has lent him to the government.

A brilliant scholar, Alon was working on his Ph.D. in England, financed by his kibbutz, when President David Ben-Gurion drafted him as labor minister.

Two strikes were in progress at the time: a walkout by engineers, and a lock-out by the diamond industry. Alon successfully mediated both, and during the subsequent 14 months only a few wildcat strikes have occurred.

Labor peace is vital in a young country like Israel, which is conducting the most unique governmental experiment of modern times. The basic law of Israel gives any Jew in the world the right to come here without a visa as a full-fledged citizen.

The government provides attractive modern housing, vocational training if necessary, and Aw... go on!

I'll bet you tell that to all the girls who use Creamettes in their casseroles or salad dishes. You can't miss it if you use Creamettes! It always adds real flavor to any macaroni dish.

a job, Israel has full employment, and a shortage of skilled labor, particularly industrial engineers.

The current housing boom is incredible. The government is erecting thousands of pastel-trimmed apartment houses in such out-of-the-way places as Ender (where Saul consulted the witch) and the Negev Desert.

FILL BORDER AREAS
The official policy of the government, Alon explained, is to settle the newcomers "in strategic and political" locations.

This means filling up as quickly as possible the previously uninhabited border areas, to lessen the chance of invasion.

Israel is an "island" in an ocean of our own Founding Fathers, who carved a flourishing land out of a desert, "without the strategic advantages of a real island."

The embattled Jewish homeland shares common borders with Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and Egypt, all of whom are fiercely dedicated to its eventual destruction.

Without going into the merits of the Arab-Israeli friction, it is a pity that hate provides such an impenetrable barrier, because the miracle that the Israelis have wrought in their half of the Holy Land is comparable to the genius of our own Founding Fathers, who carved a flourishing land out of a desert, "without the strategic advantages of a real island."

***
Their know-how could be of inestimable value to their Moslem neighbors, if peace could be achieved.

The Jews of Israel are inspired by a dream, just as were our own settlers.

With unquenchable energy they have removed the boulders which for thousands of years had paved the barren brown mountains.

By back-breaking toil they have reforested the denuded hills of Judea, set out orange groves, and plowed fields in the Galilee Valley which now yield three verdant crops a year.

SPEAK HEBREW

Israel is the only country in the world to successfully revive a dead language. Needing a common tongue for its two-million Jewish emigrants from Central Europe, Yemen, America, India and every other corner of the globe, the government made ancient Hebrew compulsory.

All schools are taught in that language, to which new words are being daily added, and im-

New Freeway Across UP Not Being Planned

LANSING (U-P) — Michigan is not considering an interstate freeway across the Upper Peninsula at this time, Highway Commissioner John Mackie reports.

Wisconsin is asking the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads for additional interstate mileage to build a freeway from Milwaukee to Green Bay to the Hurley, Wis.-Ironwood, Mich., area and then on to Duluth, Minn.

Chairman Harvey Grasse of the Wisconsin Highway Commission wrote Mackie asking if Michigan would consider asking for additional interstate mileage to build a freeway from Sault Ste. Marie toward Ironwood. Such a freeway, he said, could link with the Wisconsin project.

Mackie replied that the present time there is greater need for additions to the interstate system in other sections of the state.

migrants must study it in night courses.

The newcomers are free to join communal kibbutzim, where everything is jointly owned, or purchase flats and pursue free enterprise.

Installation buying of appliances is catching on, but Alon frowns on it because it encourages Jews to live beyond their incomes and reduces goods for most-needed export.

The labor minister also regularly votes against the introduction of television, fearing that it might soften our kids, and we want them tough," but an experiment in educational TV is likely to begin in two or three years.

Discussing his unique problems, Alon said "it is difficult to plan ahead for housing, schools and jobs, because we have no way of knowing how many Jews will want to move here.

"We don't complain, however, because the very purpose of our country is to give Jews a national homeland, and we can take three million more."

WHO IS JEWISH

This raised the question of "what is a Jew?" Recalling that Father Daniel, a Carmelite monk from Poland had recently been denied full Israeli citizenship although he was born a Jew, this correspondent asked Alon to explain.

"Israel is a state," he said. "A Jew can be an atheist, or one who does not practice the Jewish religion. I myself am nonpracticing. He can be nothing, but he cannot be something else. If he joins another religion, he is no longer a Jew."

I asked Alon about Arab complaints that Israel neither compensates Arab refugees for their seized property, nor permits them to return to their homes.

"We say 'no compensation without negotiation,'" he shrugged. "How can we work out a plan for compensation when they refuse to talk to us, even through a third party?"

"We are ready to negotiate, but the Arab countries are deliberately keeping the refugees in camps for political purposes, to arouse world sympathy."

***
Instead of "hello," Israelis traditionally greet each other with the Hebrew word "shalom," meaning "peace." It is obvious, however, that true peace is remote in the Holy Land.

During my brief stay here, Jordanian guards shot and wounded two Jewish boys who were scavenging for pottery at the Jerusalem border near Mt. Zion. Syrian guards opened fire on trespassers in no-man's land near Israel's northern sector.

***
A modern Solomon is needed to solve the harassing problems besetting the Moslem and Jewish states, whose borders are now anxiously guarded by the United Nations. None is in sight.

Junior Editors Quiz on WIND

QUESTION: Where and why do the trade winds blow?

ANSWER: It's so hot at the equator that warm air is always rising up. As it does so, cold air blows down from the north to replace it. Wouldn't you think, then, that above the equator the prevailing winds would be from north to south, and below, from south to north?

They would be, if it were not for the rotation of the earth, which (with north up) turns from west to east. The closer to the equator a point on earth is, the faster it spins around, a point on the equator itself moving eastward at more than 1000 miles an hour. Now look at the world 1. bottom.

A wind starts to blow from north to south (arrow). But the earth is spinning so fast that by the time the wind gets to the equator it has blown in a path which starts from the northeast (world 2). Below the equator the effect is reversed; the wind's path is from the southeast. Now look at top map.

The winds blow from these northeast and southeast directions to about 30 degrees north and south of the equator.

Once the word "trade" meant track, or course. Early explorers called winds shown on the map "trade winds" because they blew so steadily in one direction. Trade winds were a great help to sailing ships.

FOR YOU TO DO: This would be an especially interesting picture to color, bringing out the effect of warm late afternoon sunlight on the ship's sails (famous "Flying Cloud"). Use yellow orange on sails, touches of blue in water and rich blue over the trade wind map.

Democrat Won, Lost, Now Wonders

Anyone's Guess Who Won Minnesota Governorship

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—In one of the wonders of the electoral process, Minnesota residents have gone three months without learning who they elected governor last Nov. 6.

When will they find out? Perhaps next month, or maybe not until June—whenever a panel of three district judges or the State Supreme Court makes the decision.

"It's been a long election night," quipped Karl Roivaag, the Democratic challenger who initiated a recount after being declared the loser by 152 votes. The only outward change in state government has been the furnishing of a 7 by 15-foot office in the Capitol basement for Roivaag.

Some see a touch of humor in its location, almost directly below the crately paneled office of Republican Gov. Elmer L. Andersen.

Although the 1962 election outcome was unparalleled in 106 years of statehood, framers of the Minnesota constitution might have foreseen it by providing that the former governor stays in office until a contest is settled.

MAJORITY, ANYWAY

The same election that left Andersen in doubt as to his new term blessed him with conservative majorities in both houses of the legislature, which began its biennial session last month.

Officially, the legislature is non-partisan. But most conservatives are allied with Republican causes while legislative liberals usually are elected with Democratic backing. House liberals call themselves the DFL caucus—the abbreviation standing for Minnesota's hyphenated Democratic party name—Democratic-Farmer-Labor.

Nearly 1½ million votes were cast Nov. 6, some 800,000 on paper ballots, all of them laboriously handled in the recount that began in December and isn't over yet.

A raw audit of the recounted votes this week turned up a margin of 138 for Roivaag. That's far from the end of the story.

JFK to Give Special Word on Health Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will send Congress a special message tomorrow outlining his proposals for legislation to promote the nation's health programs.

This was reported yesterday by Democratic congressional leaders after their weekly breakfast with Kennedy.

The general health message will aim at alleviating the growing shortage of doctors, dentists and nurses and increasing hospital and nursing home facilities. It presumably will deal also with a plan to help increase the capacity of medical and dental schools.

The congressional leaders reported that another special message on a youth opportunities program will be submitted by Kennedy next week.

Last year, Kennedy lumped his controversial proposals for medical insurance for the aged under the Social Security system with his general health program. This time, the plan will be submitted separately in a special message later on dealing with problems of the aged.

Westside 5 Dropped;
T&C Nabs First Win

Two upsets marked play in the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's recreational basketball leagues last night.

Local No. 653 surprised Westside Recreation, 72-66, in a Class A game; and Town & Country grabbed its first win by rallying to defeat Columbia Avenue Baptist, 45-44, in Class C play.

Local 504 remained atop the Class C division by taking a 66-52 contest from the Pontiac Police team. Victor Paint was awarded a forfeit victory over New Hope Baptist in a Class D game.

Charence Douglas and Jimmy Gardner were the big guns for local 653 against Westside. Trailing 50-49 after three quarters, the union broke loose for 23 last quarter points to gain the nod.

Douglas and Gardner had 18 of the 23 and 45 points in all for the winners. Gardner scored 24 but relinquished game honors to Steve Thompson of Westside who hit 26. It was the loser's second reversal in eight starts.

WHEATLEY HOT
James Wheatley has 10 of his 16 points in the first quarter as Columbia Avenue Baptist jumped into a 19-3 margin over Town & Country but the longhairs fought back behind the 13-point efforts of Bruce and Roger Reynolds, to win its first in eight tries.

Local 504 had four of its five players in two figures to win No. 6 in seven tries. Sam Cole's 10 markers was tops; but teammates Ron Woodhill and Bill Russell helped with 16 apiece.

Tonight's recreation league activity will have Town & Country opposing the Police at 7 o'clock in Pontiac Northern's gymnasium, followed by an 8:30 clash between Southwest Community Club and the Bachelors' Club.

BOWLING

Lorraine Cloutier's good bowling in the Clarkson Women's League benefited more than just her team recently.

She bowled a 215-230-405 actual series that brought more enjoyment, perhaps, to her hospitalized husband than to anyone.

A 177-average keeper, Mrs. Cloutier set the loop's high single game mark for the season with her 235 at Howe's Lanes. Previously, she had bowled a 633 actual series for the high mark in that category.

Her 605 performance did enable Alma-Vue to creep up on league leading Beattie Motel Sales by two points but the pace-setters took three of four last week to maintain a comfortable lead.

GM TOURNEY
At Airway Lanes, the General Motors Engineers scored 47,433 pins to 45,757 for the GM Proving Ground crew to win their challenge tournament last Saturday. High actual performance were by Jim Rennell (244 game) and Jim Rauski (588 series). A total of 188 keepers participated.

A 223 was bowled by John Beckman and Charlotte Tiltman had a 209 in the Lutheran Men's League at Airway. The Thursday Nine Ladies loop reported a 221 by Evelyn Davidson and 213 by Celestine Coffey.

The Monsignor Sharpe Knights of Columbus League will have 15 of its teams bowling in the annual state tournament at Lansing this weekend, hoping for a repeat of the fine bowling last week.

Charlie Rihrbach had 235-230-225-682, Bill Books 209-225-672, Cass Tarchalski 203-212-608, and Adam Kravetz had a 245 game and William Palmer a 236 on the Airway Lanes.

The Airway Rockettes recorded a 227-585 for Cele Smith while Pontiac Transmission Service continues to dominate the standings.

Wonderland Lanes' scores recently include a 540 for Olive McCarty in the Wondergirls League; Paul Horie's 230-614, Larry Sevigny 233-604; and Len Papke's 239 in the 850 House loop; and Mike Duge's 209 in the Plaza Mixed circuit.

A 231-233-650 was posted by Les Harden, Floyd Vickory had a 255-620 and Bill Bowen scored 246-611 in the Monday Men's League; while Senior House loop saw Merle Tullibee bowl 233-620, Gene Mergiewski 245-606 and Frank Tull 229-600.

Marge Kidd bowled 206 for the Cooleyettes League recently at Cooley Lanes. The Multi-Lakes Ladies circuit had a 209-541 by Janet Pooley; and there was a 210-565 by Rubenia Rocque in the Country Dames League.

Frank Dunkel was in good form recently at Cooley Lanes with 216-232-218 and 225-210-198 on successive nights in league play.

The Lakeside Market team had games of 830-817-866-2513 last Wednesday at Maple Lanes in the Women's Midweek circuit.

Westside Lanes' GMTCC Nine Owls League had scores of 614 by Halls Stephenson, 606 by Donald Nelson and 247 by James Heithman last week. The Westside Ladies Classic last week had 600 or better with Margaret Young's 651 tops.

CLASSIC UPSET
A top score that went unnoticed in last week's report on the Westside Classic was Ed Gibbs' 232-233-226-611 that helped Airway Ladies drop Colonial Lounge out of the league lead.

The house team in the Ladies All-Star League at 300 Bowl set a new season high last week by posting games of 848-856-908 for a 2,612 team series. Virginia Branchman's 212 was high game and Katherine Burton's 571 was the top series last week.

The 300 Bowl Twilight League had a 235 by Bill Knight.

Wiggs Colonial Shop continues to pace the Elks Lodge Thursday Night League. Ottilie Dobski had a 224-607 combination last week.

The out-of-state women had a good head-on on the lanes at the local Elks Temple Lodge over the weekend. While the team event and all events leaders did not change, there were new leaders in the doubles and singles events.

The Fort Wayne, Ind., duo of Marge France and Bonnie Spurr hit 1,289 which was three pins better than the Nelma Belaskas and Greta Shiplett entry from Calumet City, Ill., as these two pairs assumed the one-two slots in the doubles event.

A Kalamazoo woman, Crystal Clark, has the top handicap singles mark with a 682 total Saturday while the new runner-up is Pearl Babb of Hammond, Ind., with 657.

Michigan Men Plan Tracks for Greyhounds

Two Birmingham Men Involved in Attempt to Legalize Sport

LANSING (AP) — An indoor winter greyhound racing track in Detroit and a summer track in the Upper Peninsula is proposed by a group seeking to legalize dog racing in Michigan.

The new organization, headed by former Detroit police commissioner Herbert Hart, filed incorporation papers Tuesday with the State Corporation and Securities Commission under the name of Michigan Greyhound Sports, Inc.

Hart is slated to become president and William McCoy Sr., Detroit insurance executive and former director and treasurer of the Detroit Tigers, is scheduled to become treasurer.

Two Birmingham men are involved in the venture.

They are William M. Brecht, an implement dealer; and Edward E. Wilson, a car dealer and son of the late C. E. Wilson, General Motors president and Secretary of Defense.

Hart said if the legislature legalizes greyhound racing the group plans to build an indoor track for winter greyhound racing in Detroit and a summer track in the Upper Peninsula, both multi-million-dollar projects.

INDOOR TRACK
The indoor track in Detroit, he said, would be the first of its kind in the nation. Seven other states have legal greyhound racing.

No site was mentioned for the Upper Peninsula track but Ironwood has been mentioned as a possibility because a track there could also draw from Wisconsin.

Hart said the group investigated greyhound racing in other states and found it a very clean sport which does not inspire off-track betting and gambling elements.

Greyhound racing is now legal in Arkansas, Arizona, Colorado, Florida, Massachusetts, Oregon and South Dakota.

Questioned as to his views on the proposal, George Romney told newsmen that he didn't know enough about the specific proposal to comment on the matter.

Asked about his views on gambling, Romney said one of the problems involved is keeping horse race betting dissociated from organized crime.

"There's a constant problem to keep the wrong elements of racing," Romney said. "But on the other hand, there are many legitimate people in raising thoroughbreds. The question of morality is up to the individual."

WILL RETIRE
Frick, who reached his 60th birthday last Oct. 19, will be nearing 71 when his term expires in September of 1965. He already has stated emphatically he will not stand for re-election. Despite his protestations, major league magnates have started giving some thought to his successor.

The names most frequently mentioned for the role of the next baseball commissioner are the American League president, J. V. (Buz) Bascasi, vice president of the Los Angeles Dodgers, and Judge Robert Cannon, legal advisor to the major league players. Others with a medium of support include Leo MacPhail, president of the Baltimore Orioles and Joe L. Brown, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

A majority of the major league club owners, whose power it is to hire and fire commissioners, believe the next head man should be chosen from the ranks. Some, however, feel it might be wise to name a man not officially connected with the game. They prefer a man with a political or judicial background, someone like former Vice President Richard Nixon, or a Judge Cannon, for example.

TOO CLOSE
"Everyone in baseball is too close to someone or some club to be able to fill the role," says Gabe Paul, president of the Cleveland Indians. "What we need is a man with a judicial mind—a man of great stature. He should have sufficient means so that he doesn't need the job. This will increase his independence. It's a case where the job should seek the man—not the man seek the job."

At the recent major league meetings, a club official said, "Keep an eye on the Frick situation. It's getting hot. While he hasn't advanced his plans to any degree as far as I know, I cannot help but be convinced, from the little asides he's made at meetings I've sat in on, that he intends soon to retire to his farm in Colorado. I know for a fact that he recently purchased some property in Colorado Springs."

The rumors of his impending retirement have traced back to Frick himself. "I am fully aware of the reports that have me walking out of here," Frick said, "but the truth is I have no immediate plans to retire. There is still a lot of unfinished work to be done. If and when I decide to retire, I will announce it to everybody."

DISTANCE MARKS — Swimmers Skip Ervin of Pontiac Northern (upper photo) and Bob Wolf (left) of Birmingham Seaholm scored impressive victories in 400 freestyle events last night. Ervin set a school record at PNH with a 4:28.8 time, while Wolf, the versatile Seaholm swimmer going in the event for the first time went 4:12.1 as the Maples defeated Dundore. Wolf was Oakland County's "Outstanding Swimmer" last season as chosen by The Press by the vote of the coaches.

Pontiac Central's swimming team enjoyed sweet revenge last night in whipping Flint Central, 60-45, but for Pontiac Northern it was a bitter 50-46 defeat at the hands of Birmingham Groves.

The Chiefs, who lost 58-47 to the Flint team earlier this season, pushed their record to 6-3 in the Valley having won five straight meets.

"Double victory was turned in for PCH by Bob Lorenz in the 100 yard medley and the 100 free style, with Jim Howard winning the 40 freestyle and swimming a leg on the winning freestyle relay team."

Howard's 19.0 in the sprint tries the varsity record held by Ben Donaldson.

The Chiefs won both first relay events and received team points for the 400 freestyle in 4:42.4.

SEAHOLM 10-0
Undefeated Birmingham Seaholm won its 10th straight dual meet of the season in routing Royal Oak Dundore, 78-27 with the state's top butterfly ace Don Spencer setting a pool record in 2:5.8. He held the old mark in 2:5.8.

The Maples won every event except the opening medley relay and in the process, Bob Wolf, voted the outstanding swimmer in the county last year, won the 400 freestyle in 4:12.1.

It was his first attempt in the event and the time is a school, pool and Oakland County mark for the regular season.

Ex-PCH swimmer Ben Donaldson holds the county mark in 4:11.3 in the state meet in 1961.

PNH POOL RECORDS
Three pool and varsity records were turned in at Northern with Groves winning the 200 medley relay in 1:54.2 and the 200 free style relay in 1:39.5.

Skip Ervin took the 200 free style in 2:05.1 and then posted a pool and varsity record by winning the 400 freestyle in 4:25.8.

There were three key events which were big factors in the defeat of Dundore. In the 200 individual medley, Carl Cascadden missed the turn on the backstroke and fell behind Groves' Jim Krogsrud.

He then pushed ahead in the breaststroke portion and held the lead until the freestyle turn when he missed again.

Krogsrud's time was 2:23.7 and Cascadden, despite the two bad turns, came in at 2:23.3.

Another setback came in the 400 freestyle relay—Dundore (Zaka Ziegler, Jim Hoffmann, Kevin Thomas, Ted Weidner). Time: 1:52.2 (pool record).

200 freestyle—Bob Wolf (PCH), 4:12.1; Ben Parsons (PCH), 4:12.2; Don Spencer (PCH), 4:12.3; Jim Raydon (PCH), 4:12.4.

100 freestyle—Bob Wolf (PCH), 1:52.1; Ben Parsons (PCH), 1:52.2; Don Spencer (PCH), 1:52.3; Jim Raydon (PCH), 1:52.4.

200 freestyle—Bob Wolf (PCH), 4:12.1; Ben Parsons (PCH), 4:12.2; Don Spencer (PCH), 4:12.3; Jim Raydon (PCH), 4:12.4.

400 freestyle—Bob Wolf (PCH), 4:25.8; Ben Parsons (PCH), 4:25.9; Don Spencer (PCH), 4:26.0; Jim Raydon (PCH), 4:26.1.

100 medley—Bob Lorenz (PCH), 1:52.1; Ben Parsons (PCH), 1:52.2; Don Spencer (PCH), 1:52.3; Jim Raydon (PCH), 1:52.4.

200 medley—Jim Howard (PCH), 1:54.2; Ben Parsons (PCH), 1:54.3; Don Spencer (PCH), 1:54.4; Jim Raydon (PCH), 1:54.5.

400 medley—Bob Lorenz (PCH), 4:42.4; Ben Parsons (PCH), 4:42.5; Don Spencer (PCH), 4:42.6; Jim Raydon (PCH), 4:42.7.

800 medley—Bob Lorenz (PCH), 9:24.8; Ben Parsons (PCH), 9:24.9; Don Spencer (PCH), 9:25.0; Jim Raydon (PCH), 9:25.1.

1600 medley—Bob Lorenz (PCH), 18:49.6; Ben Parsons (PCH), 18:49.7; Don Spencer (PCH), 18:49.8; Jim Raydon (PCH), 18:49.9.

3200 medley—Bob Lorenz (PCH), 37:39.2; Ben Parsons (PCH), 37:39.3; Don Spencer (PCH), 37:39.4; Jim Raydon (PCH), 37:39.5.

Firearms Registration Proposal Faces Stiff Battle

By DON VOGEL.

Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor is treading where few politicians have dared since the Declaration of Independence. He is advocating a firearms registration law for Michigan that would include rifles and shotguns. The state requires that pistols and revolvers be registered.

In the past, whenever such a proposal has been put forth to cover rifles and shotguns, the originator has been quickly cold-shouldered by his contemporaries in Congress or state houses. Any such measure is a hot political potato.

If the proposed law wasn't retrieved from the hopper, it was usually left to die in legislative committees.

Taylor decided to take the bull by the horns just before the conclusion of the investigation into the slaying of a Bloomfield Township mother of five.

At first it was believed a sniper shot the woman as she stood in a window in the kitchen of her home. Police now say her 15-year-old son has admitted the slaying.

During the course of the investigation police ran 22 caliber rifles and pistols through ballistics tests. The weapons were found in homes in the neighborhood of the shooting.

The prosecutor's contention is that if the police had a list of who owned rifles, this phase of the investigation could have been speeded up.

SPORTSMEN OPPOSED

His measure can expect opposition from sportsmen's clubs, firearms manufacturers and owners. Unaffiliated weapons owners. Nationally circulated outdoor and gun magazines have recently been campaigning against firearms registration.

The National Rifle Association (NRA) has long been a leader opposing such legislation. Advocates of a registration statute say it would:

1. Reduce crime by making it more difficult for undesirable to obtain weapons.
2. Assist in solving crimes by making it possible to trace fire weapons used.
3. Aid in the apprehension of criminals by making it possible to arrest persons found in possession of unregistered weapons.
4. Keep guns out of the hands of minors, mental incompetents, drug addicts, habitual drunkards, and so forth.

5. Help return lost or stolen weapons to their lawful owners. Taylor uses point No. 2 as the basis for his request for a Michigan firearms registration law.

Eighteen of 20 Oakland County people contacted after Taylor made his statement agreed with the prosecutor. Nine of those checked were hunters and two others said there were rifles in their homes.

All of those in favor said a registration law would help law enforcement officers solve shooting crimes by knowing who had weapons.

'WRONG HANDS'
Three commented that such a measure would keep firearms out of "the wrong hands."

Opponents, both locally and across the nation, are quick to point out that such legislation would, in their opinion, be in violation of the U.S. Constitution.

Then they start in on the five points listed above. The NRA summarizes the opposing views in its booklet on firearms registration. The bulletin states:

1. A firearms registration law does not disarm the criminal, and its honest proponents do not claim that it will.

2. Such a law does discourage the ownership of firearms by reputable citizens by imposing inconveniences, extra taxes and contacts with the police which the average person prefers to avoid.

3. By drying up the market, such a law forces reputable firearms manufacturers into other businesses, thereby accelerating the disarmament cycle.

4. Regardless of the good intentions of some advocates, the only practical effect of (such a law) is to play into the hands of unscrupulous seekers for political power; to encourage bootlegging (firearms); to disarm citizens and thereby encourage the depredations of the criminal element, thus adding to the work of the police.

5. No dictatorship has ever been imposed on a nation of free men who have not been first required to register their privately owned weapons.

Others argue that the high number of arrests for carrying "concealed and unregistered weapons" involving handguns prove the affirmative people are wrong in this respect.

They also claim that the point for returning lost and stolen guns would be accomplished just as effectively today if owners would record the make and serial numbers of their weapons.

Opponents of a firearms registration law have held the upper hand when it comes to rifles and shotguns. But the tide may slowly be turning in favor of such a statute's backers.

Surviving Winter So Far

Deer Face Crucial Period

LANSING (U)—Michigan's deer herd is surviving the winter well so far this season.

This is despite temperatures dipping at times to 30 and 35 below and snow accumulations of up to two feet in the northern deep snow belt.

"This isn't necessarily bad for the deer unless combined with other adverse factors," said Dave Jenkins, deer specialist with the State Conservation Department.

The deer are still able to move out of their yards to find browse. There have been no starvation reports as yet.

The crucial period for the herd will come in late February or early March.

Most of the browse will be cropped off by that time. Wet, cold weather could lead to pneumonia among the weakened deer, just as in humans.

A sudden, freezing rain could leave an icy crust on the snow, making it difficult for the deer to move about.

Such adverse weather conditions force the deer to burn up the last of their energy. The weakest deer fall first and every extra day of unfavorable conditions takes its toll.

The department estimates the winter kill of deer last year was about 30,000. This was bad—but the starvation kill has been up to 50,000, the game specialists estimate.

TIMBER CUTTINGS
Winter timber cuttings are being carried out in state parks and forest lands as an assist to the deer. The whitetails soon find out where the cuttings are being carried on and flock in to feed on the tender tips of the trees.

"It seems they can hear the buzz of a chain saw or the 'chuck' of an axe for half a mile or more and come right in to feed," Jenkins said.

Some artificial feeding also is being carried off by operators of private shooting reserves in Michigan's club country.

Michigan also has a new ace in the hole to help out the deer in the event of an emergency.

The government now has authorized the feeding of surplus corn when a deer famine threatens. Last year, with the program just getting started, 126 feeding permits were issued and more than 17,000 bushels of surplus corn were released to feed the deer herd.

Once an emergency situation is declared, district game supervisors approve the feeding permits and the surplus corn can be released from Commodity Credit Corporation stores at Saginaw and Newaygo.

A check is made to see that the corn actually goes to the deer and is not fed to chickens or put to some other use. The surplus corn also cannot be used in place of feed that otherwise might be purchased through normal channels.

Although there is no serious threat to the deer herd yet despite the snow and siege of bitter cold, game men have their fingers crossed.

Pugleys near Kingsley are cutting trees in some deer yards near Kalkaska County and deer were eating the tops.

Kellum said boys from Camp

The area's bird population completely depleted the Audubon Society's supply of 1,000 pounds of sunflower seed and many still are hungry.

Dr. Ted Black of the state's Rose Lake area said pheasants are flying regularly to corn patches but that before the winter is over they may have trouble finding enough food. He said deer cleaned out some of the patches before winter arrived.

In other Kalamazoo area spots, inspection showed that rabbits hopped up by the deep snow and sharp cold, were venturing out for short distances to nibble on a bit of bark or marsh grass. Then they hustled back to tight shelter.

Squirrels also had to hustle for their meals in Western Michigan. Snow was too deep for them to dig down to their fall caches of nuts and acorns. So they had to draw on smaller supplies stashed away in holes and crannies in trees.

The possum even found life more difficult, with less fat to rely on, and conservation officials say it's a good bet that next spring will find a lot of wandering 'round with what's left of frostbitten ears and tails.

Deep Snow in W. Michigan Means 'Dog's Life' for Game

By United Press International
Reports from Western Michigan and the Grand Traverse Bay region indicate that most wildlife led a "dog's life" during the state's recent sub-zero cold wave.

About the only creatures immune to the fickle thermometer were the hibernators with built-in underwear—woodchucks, chipmunks, raccoons and bear. They were snoozing comfortably and probably didn't even know it snowed.

Other forms of wildlife, like people, found the conditions far from desirable.

Grand Traverse Bay froze up on Jan. 24, a week earlier than in 1962. Ford Kellum, district game supervisor for the Conservation Department, said a flock of 170 mute swans on the ice were so cold they didn't bother to scatter when a bald eagle flew near them to pick up a sick duck.

Because of the extreme cold, Kellum said, most of the area's rivers, streams and lakes from solid and waterfowl are pressed for places to feed or rest. Some of them fly around until they get tired and drop most any place.

Some have been found and turned in to conservation officials, to be released again to open water when the temperatures rise.

Land Matters Top Commission Agenda

Action on several land matters will headline the Conservation Commission's meeting in Lansing Thursday and Friday.

Among them is a proposal to buy 140 acres at Shawansee River state game area in Saginaw County, to advance development plans for a 1,000-acre water control unit within a large-scale goose management project.

Carrying high interest among anglers is the Conservation Department's recommendation that a 12-acre parcel be leased from the Consumers Power Company to provide a public fishing site on the Au Sable river about two and one-half miles west of Mio. The proposed access site, located at Camp Ten Bridge, may be leased for an annual $1 fee.

Commission approval will be sought for the sale, by auction, of tax-reverted land units in 30 northern Michigan counties. To total minimum bid for these lands, which include several, small water-frontage parcels, has been set at approximately $155,000.

Good News for Fishermen, Hunters

Move Toward Lakes, Fields in 'Heat Wave'

Stayed Home During Cold January; Some Perch Caught

Ice fishermen received good news yesterday. So did rabbit hunters.

It wasn't that the fish are biting or that bunnies can be found under every brush pile.

A "heat wave" has moved into Southern Michigan and is supposed to last through this weekend according to the weatherman. The state's fickle weather could change his mind before Saturday. It's better to look at the bright side.

January's frigid blasts kept all but the die-hards off the ice. Even those with shanties stayed away in droves.

The first break came last Saturday and about 10,000 anglers piled onto the ice of Anchor Bay. For the majority of them, it was a case of getting plenty of fresh air and new fish.

Oakland County lakes have received little pressure from anglers in the last month. An exception is Square Lake where good catches of perch have been taken off and on.

PERCH HAUL

Bill Windsor and Kenneth Davison, both of Union Lake, tried for perch on Cedar Lake last Sunday and, according to Windsor, "Took a good mess of better than average ones."

One of Windsor's perch was 14½ inches long and weighed a pound and a quarter.

Because of the light action, little can be said about "where they are biting best." This should be remedied with more fishermen out this weekend.

The cold weather has kept rabbits from venturing far from their holes. When jumped by hunters or dogs the bunnies would quickly scold to safety.

The warm weather will give cottontails a chance to range in wider areas for food and they will also give the bunnies a good run.

Fox hunting is slowing. It is the mating season. Foxes are running in pairs and are more prone to den-up in a hurry.

Mineral Rights Offer

Copper exploration and mining rights on a 400-acre block of state-owned mineral lands in Keweenaw County will be offered for leasing Feb. 13 by the Conservation Department.

WINTER HUNT—Bobcat hunting in Northern Michigan is a winter pastime of many nimrods. Snowshoes are a "must" for getting through the hip deep snow in the swamps.

Michigan's Wild Turkeys 'Tested' During Winter

West Michigan residents are brought into contact with chickens and other domestic fowl.

Blackhead is considered one of the greatest threats to the continued survival and establishment of turkeys in the wild because it can spread without warning and wipe out entire flocks.

The department explains that the goal of its turkey-stocking program has been to establish wild flocks capable of living off the land without artificial aids.

To date, this management formula has worked successfully in Allegan state forest, stronghold of Michigan's wild turkey population.

In more northern areas where the birds have been released, it is not entirely certain whether established flocks can make it through hard winters on their own, but they should be given every chance to do so, according to the department.

Game men point out that unless wild turkeys can prosper on their own, these birds are not likely ever to become hunting targets. The wilder turkeys remain, the better their chances of ultimate survival.

SERIOUS THREAT
There is particular concern over the possibility of wild turkeys picking up blackhead and other poultry diseases if they are

Rabbit Hunter Returns Home With 3 Bears

SARANAC, N. Y. (U)—Michel Adams of Dannemora, entered the woods to hunt rabbits. He left with three bears whose weight totaled less than three pounds.

Adams, a 27-year-old plumber, told the State Conservation Department he came upon a thicket near this northern New York community and found a 250-pound bear that had just given birth to three cubs.

Adams was on snow shoes, and when the mother bear growled and charged, he knew he couldn't outrun her.

He fired nine rounds from his .22-caliber rifle, and the bear dropped dead at his feet.

He said he then picked up the three cubs, each weighing less than a pound, drove to Plattsburgh and gave them to a conservation officer.

Robert Jarvis, district game protector, fed the cubs and placed them under a warm lamp. He said he thought their chances for survival were fairly good.

Termed 'Day of Infamy'

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—A bill to legalize killing mourning doves was introduced yesterday in the State House.

Rep. Lawrin Bagley called it "a day of infamy for the birdlovers of Indiana."

Millions Spent on Remedies

No Medicine Can Cure a Cold

(Editor's Note: The following dispatch, the last in a three-part series on the common cold, reports the latest information on what can and can't be done about a cold.)

By BARNEY SEIBERT
CHICAGO (UPI)—There's an old saying among physicians: "Treat a cold and you'll be over it in seven days. Leave it alone and it will last a week."

Despite the $350 million a year spent by Americans on nostrums and remedies to cure the common cold, that old rule still applies, the American Medical Association (AMA) says.

In an age of "wonder drugs," man is no more able to cure the common cold than the ancient Chinese, who inhaled vapors from a brownstraw plant; the Indian medicine man who shook rattles and chanted incantations; or the medieval physician, who drained off a pint or so of the victim's blood.

Patent cold remedies sometimes ease cold symptoms. They generally consist of pain killers, fever reducers, antihistamines, decongestants, vitamins, cough medicines, rubs, gargles, antibiotics.

REMEDIES RAPED

In the January 1961 issue of its magazine, "Today's Health," the AMA made these comments about ingredients in cold remedies:

—Pain killers: Make you feel better but do nothing for the cold.

May cause nausea, dizziness or more dangerous side effects. —Fever reducers: Fever hardly ever accompanies a cold; may bring on ills even worse than the cold.

—Antihistamines: Helpful for allergies but useless for colds; can impair judgment, cause dizziness, drowsiness, headache.

—Decongestants: May temporarily stimulate freer breathing but boomerang congestion may occur, starting a cycle of pill congestion-pill; may cause sinus infection; nose drop form can allow oil to slip into lungs, causing pneumonia.

—Vitamins: Supplementary vitamins—in or out of cold remedies—can neither keep you from getting a cold or help you get rid of one.

—Antibiotics: Worthless against virus-caused disease; may cause allergy; may create bacterial immunity, making them worthless against germ-caused disease.

—Cough medicines: You can get the same effect by sucking a lemon drop; other ingredi-

—Gargles: Worthless against a cold because the infection is deep inside the body.

—Rubs: "Application of ointment to the chest is foolishness." Misuse of cold remedies can mask serious illness, the AMA said. Measles, polio, influenza, parrot fever, Q-fever and streptococcal infections begin with cold symptoms.

CAN'T CURE

Mass-produced cold remedies use the "shotgun approach"—a variety of ingredients for all possible cold discomforts. Dr. George Jackson of the University of Illinois said "it is better to treat a specific symptom rather than to treat all humanity with a single pill."

Getting back to the AMA: "No cold remedy can do anything more than provide temporary relief of certain symptoms. Many do not even relieve symptoms. Hence, they do little more than subtract from your pocketbook and add to the feeling that you've done something."

Of course, the feeling of having "done something" may be important. The University of Minnesota's Dr. Harold Diehl found that cold sufferers given harmless and worthless sugar pills reported themselves cured. Britain's Dr. Thomas Parkinson said, "In the treatment of an illness which naturally lasts only three or four days it is easy to attribute curative powers to any drug."

What to do if you are among the 85 per cent of the population which gets colds each year?

The AMA advises: Take a hot bath, drink a glass of hot milk or lemonade, go to bed, use steam as a vaporizer, avoid spreading your cold to others.

A cold remedy popular in Elizabethan England was sipping wine while soaking the feet in hot water. It may have had some merit.

Dr. Noah D. Fabricant, writing in the March 1958 Journal of Otolaryngology, reported that alcohol re-establishes circulation in nasal membranes, provides comfort, induces drowsiness and minimized nor dismissed," he said.

"Although... alcohol is obviously not a cure... its beneficial role can neither be belittled, a shot of whisky, and bed.

Preliminary Oscar Balloting Begins

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Ballots for Academy Award voting went out to some 2,500 members this week in the first round of the big Oscar race which reaches a climax April 8 with the presentation of awards.

In the preliminary voting five finalists will be selected for announcement Feb. 25.

So, during the next three weeks politicking in Hollywood will be as pressurized and cut throat as can be found in a Chicago ward.

As usual, the acting categories are the most dramatic and exciting—and unpredictable.

But due to fewer movies being made, the list of probable nominees for best picture of 1962 is considerably narrowed down from previous years.

Best bets to emerge from the balloting as the five finalists are "The Longest Day," "Lawrence of Arabia," "To Kill a Mockingbird," "Long Day's Journey Into Night" and "Mutiny on the Bounty." The original "Mutiny on the Bounty" (with Charles Laughton and Clark Gable) won the award in 1934, and the makers of the new version may be dejected to learn that no remake of a movie has ever measured up to the original with the academy (e.g. "All Quiet on the Western Front").

PROSPECTS

Here are some other good prospects to paste in your hat: Best Actress: Katherine Hepburn (Long Day's Journey), Anne Bancroft (The Miracle Worker), Lee Remick (Days of Wine and Roses), Geraldine Page (Sweet Bird of Youth), Shelley Winters (Lolita).

Best Actor: Gregory Peck (To Kill a Mockingbird), Peter O'Toole (Lawrence of Arabia), Burt Lancaster (Birdman of Alcatraz), Jack Lemmon (Days of Wine and Roses), Robert Preston (Music Man).

Of the finalists the morning line favors "To Kill a Mockingbird." Miss Hepburn (a previous winner) and Peck to cop the Oscars in April. A dark horse for best movie is "The Music Man."

This, the 35th annual Oscar derby, will see more than 20 awards handed out to winners—a fairly simple operation compared to times 't.

Back in the 30s and 40s as many as ten nominees were crowded onto the final ballot instead of the current five. One time the academy has enforced from the beginning is that no winner should be of the domestic variety as compared to 1962's foreign sweep by Sophia Loren and Maximilian Schell, One other prediction. This who won the best acting awards.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandsadt Says:

February Is Appropriate for Heart Month

February is Heart Month. But to a person with heart disease, every month is heart month.

February was chosen because of Valentine's Day, and this ties in with the old idea that the heart is the center of the emotions, but it is violently affected by them.

It is not hard to see how the old idea got its start. Any strong emotion will set the heart to racing and pounding.

It may not be the center of the emotions, but it is violently affected by them.

The normal heart rate of a person at rest is between 72 and 80 beats per minute. This pumps about five quarts of blood through the body every minute.

Since the heart continues to beat whether we are asleep or awake, it might be asked why this amazing muscle doesn't get tired and quit.

The answer is that after each contraction (lasting about a third of a second), the muscle rests for about a quarter of a second.

Even when we are doing strenuous physical exercise, with both the heart rate and volume of blood increased, there is a short pause after each beat.

WHAT DOCTOR HEARS

A reader has asked what the doctor hears when he listens to your heart through his stethoscope.

If the heart is normal he hears a rhythmic double sound with each beat; the sound of the closing of the heart valves and the sound of the powerful contraction of the ventricles.

If there is a roughening of the valve surface due to scar tissue following rheumatic fever, or if the valves do not close completely, thus allowing some backflow, he will hear a characteristic murmur.

In children and young adults he may hear a slight murmur (really a blurring of the normally sharp heart sounds) that is not caused by any structural change in the heart.

Such a murmur is called a "functional murmur" and has no significance.

It is best recognized by the fact that it disappears when the person who has it hops up and down a few times, thus increasing the heart action.

He suggested public subscription to finance removal of the Missouri from Bremerton, Wash., to Pearl Harbor.

Wants to Keep USS Missouri as a Museum

DECATUR, Ga. (AP)—A World War I soldier wants the USS Missouri preserved on an island in Pearl Harbor as a museum instead of being scrapped.

James Cauton Turner of Decatur, a private in the field artillery in 1914-1917, wrote President Kennedy Tuesday that he feels the battleship on which the Japanese surrender was signed in 1945 should be preserved because of its historical value.

He suggested public subscription to finance removal of the Missouri from Bremerton, Wash., to Pearl Harbor.

Roddy Cancels Liz Photos—Not Subtle, 'Too Revealing'

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — Roddy McDowall, actor who's becoming equally celebrated as a photographer, has killed a series of negligee photos he took of Elizabeth Taylor — because he felt the printed photos were too revealing and made her appear less beautiful than she is.

"I'd hoped for subtlety but I thought the printed pictures — some were published in Playboy — were too blatant. If the pictures can be printed this way, I don't want them printed."

"So I killed the rest of them. I explained it all to Elizabeth," he understood.

"I phoned her," he added, "from Page, Ariz. It took three days to get her."

Roddy — who's been filming "The Greatest Story Ever Told" in Arizona and Utah — is off to Madrid for added scenes in "Cleopatra" with Richard Burton and Rex Harrison. Liz, while not in the new scenes, is expected to be in Spain — with Burton.

Roddy says looking at photographs he's taken — even when they're not of Liz Taylor — is more pleasing than looking at himself on the screen.

"I don't enjoy myself in the movies," he says, "because that hideous thing you see up there is not the real beautiful me that I know and love!"

"The President's favorite producer," Richard Adler, denies there's any "freedom" between JFK and Frank Sinatra. "How could the President feel like child toward a man who did so much to help pay off the Democratic party deficit?" asks Adler.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL
Beautiful Jill St. John's been having secret dates here with heartthrob Goli Goulet — in fact, studio execs say they can't find her hideout, and that she's playing hooky from working on promotion for "Come Blow Your Horn." ... Juliet Prowse doesn't know what to do: NY critics blasted part of her act as being too suggestive. In Las Vegas, the audiences demand she put that material back!

Twenty years after the tragic plane crash involving herself and Jane Fonda, Gypsy Markoff will be opening at the Sünhope Tuesday. She's had 30 operations since but still plays the accordion magically. ... Danny Thomas, very rich now, keeps threatening to "semi-retire" from TV, but the happy word at CBS is that he's going to work again in '64.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Mr. Smith's secretary answered the phone "I'm sorry, Mr. Smith's out to lunch," she said. "But he won't be out long. Nobody took him." (London Tid-Bits).

WISN — I'D SAID THAT: "It pays to advertise. Since they put those 'Smoke the Bear' ads in the N.Y. subway, there hasn't been one forest fire in all of New York City."

EARL'S PEARLS: Tommy Manville knows all about women — and has 10 divorces to prove it.

REMEMBERED QUOTES: "To me, old age is always 15 years older than I am." (Bernard Baruch).

President Kennedy's physical fitness program is working a marvel! Twenty-five years ago it took a big strong man to carry 400 worth of groceries. Now even a child can do it. ... That's earl, brother.

Infectious diseases may cause another kind of change, a roughening of the outer surface of the heart. This will cause it to grate against the chest wall with each beat and produce what is known as a "friction rub."

Since the heart is a large muscle it needs nourishment just as does any other muscle.

As the blood is forced from the heart into the large arterial trunk, the aorta, a small part of it is forced into the small arteries that supply the heart's own muscle. These are the coronary arteries.

As the hardening of the arteries that starts at birth gradually progresses, the arteries slowly become narrower and carry less blood.

When the narrowing reaches the point where the amount of blood carried is insufficient for the heart's needs, coronary heart disease becomes manifest.

If this is gradual, the heart is embarrassed only if there is an increased physical or emotional demand on it. The resulting protest is the pain of angina pectoris.

If there is a sudden plugging of a coronary artery by a blood clot, there is an acute heart attack which may or may not prove fatal, depending on the size of the clot and hence the size of the blood suddenly deprived of blood.

Scrubbing Up Westminster Abbey

By MILTON MARMOR
LONDON (AP)—Centuries of grime have disappeared in Westminster Abbey's first face-lifting in 900 years.

A great change has come over the interior of the Church of England edifice where Britain's kings and queens are crowned.

Stephen Dykes-Bower, architect who holds the title of surveyor of the fabric, is in charge of maintaining the abbey.

"We'd love to clean the outside, but we just haven't got the money," said Dykes-Bower. The inside cleaning, over a period of 12 years, is costing about a million dollars.

He says: "The view of the abbey on entering the west door is no longer one of somber gloom.

but of lightness and radiance—a symphony of white stone, gray marble, gilding and color."

The newly cleaned ceiling of the nave is one of the most delightful surprises for a visitor.

The major portion of the abbey dates to 1245 and some sections go back to 1065. All the inside stones are the original ones.

People seeing the walls today are seeing them as they must have looked more than 700 years ago.

The walls are reigate 'white sandstone which through the years have acquired a black aspect. The reigate stone on the outside couldn't withstand the elements and has been replaced through the centuries.

DAZZLING CEILING

The interior has scaffolding and dust cloths strewn about. Already the great carved ceiling dazzles, the ribs of vaults are outlined with gold leaf, and marble piers gleam.

Scrubbing, gold-leafing and painting will go on until the 900th anniversary celebration Dec. 28, 1965.

"The trouble with chaps with dusters," said the treasurer of the

"When people complain we are spoiling the abbey, I tell them they don't keep their own houses dirty so why should the house of God be dirty?"

Washing is done with soap and water. Three powerful suction machines collect dust.

The next royal event scheduled in the abbey is the wedding of Princess Alexandra, cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, and Angus Ogilvy on April 24.

'21' Contestant Reinstated as a N. Y. Lawyer

NEW YORK (AP)—Vivienne W. Nearing, 36, one of a number of contestants who took part in rigged television quiz shows six years ago, has won reinstatement as a lawyer.

She received a six-month suspension from the practice of law last June 29, after she drew a suspended sentence for falsely denying to a grand jury that she was coached in advance of her appearance on the now defunct "Twenty-One" show. She won $5,500 on the program in 1957.

The appellate division of the State Supreme Court announced her reinstatement Tuesday.

Gets Battery of Charges

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—All Mary Nelson wanted was a car battery charge. The total charge: $600.

A mechanic returned the auto to her home Monday and left the motor running.

Police said engine vibrations apparently caused the gear-shift to slip into drive position. The car lurched driverless across the street and slammed into a house.

Cuban Report on TV Tonight

McNamara to Answer Build-Up Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today barred shipment of U. S. government-financed cargoes on any ship which has been to Cuba since Jan. 1.

From Our News Wires
WASHINGTON — The White House arranged today for Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and other top military officials to go on live television at 5 p.m. this evening to reply to GOP charges that the Soviet missile build-up is continuing in Cuba.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger announced the plan. Preparations had been under way since Tuesday evening to conduct a meeting for reporters at 1 p.m. on a background basis.

This is a procedure under which newsmen may report what they are told but not attribute it.

Salinger said, however, that "there has been so much interest manifested in the background by Secretary McNamara and other defense officials that it has now been scheduled for 5 p.m. . . . It will be immediately available and open to television."

CRITICS' NUMEROUS
In recent days, some Republican members of Congress have challenged the administration's estimates of the Soviet arsenal in the Caribbean, contending that Soviet strength there is greater than the Pentagon and State Department have reported.

Snow Flurries, Cold Weather Due to Blow In

Northerly winds forecast for tonight will usher in snow flurries and colder temperatures. The low will be about 20.
Partly cloudy and continued cold, the mercury reaching a high of 23, is the prediction for tomorrow in the Pontiac area.
South to southwest morning winds at 2 miles per hour will become 15 to 25 m.p.h. tonight. Twenty-eight was the low reading prior to 3 a.m. The thermometer recorded 40 at 1 p.m.

SEARCH FOR MURDER WEAPON — Police, headed by Bloomfield Township Chief Norman Dehnke (foreground), probe the snow in Orion Township for the gun that Douglas Godfrey used to kill his mother. In center background is Joseph Campbell, 17, of Royal Oak. Police said Campbell drove Godfrey to the area but did not know that Godfrey threw away the gun.

Son Confesses

How Do You Tell His Father—

By JIM DYGERT

How do you tell a man that his 15-year-old son may be a murderer?

That the killer who injected fear into a thousand daily routines, the "deranged" gunman sought by hundreds of worried police, may be his own little boy?

That the "sniper" who shot the boy's mother through a kitchen window 11 days before, apparently was not a stranger at all, but maybe someone very close—the boy himself?

The bitter task—of telling Don Douglas Godfrey that police had frightening evidence against his quiet, withdrawn son, Douglas—fell yesterday upon Thomas G. Kavanagh, a Birmingham attorney.

When it was all over, Godfrey cried.

The boy cried.

Godfrey had never suspected, Kavanagh said later.

To call it shock was only to be generous.

STOLEN PISTOL
It all began—weeks ago, really, when a 22-caliber pistol was stolen from a Royal Oak sporting goods store.

But, yesterday—the final day—it all began at 11 a.m. when Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor telephoned Godfrey and asked him to come with Douglas to the Pontiac State Police post at 1 p.m.

To discuss further, Taylor explained, the shooting of Godfrey's 28-year-old wife, Mary, a "sniper" had fired a 22-caliber bullet into Mrs. Godfrey's head from outside the Godfrey home at 983 Dursley Road, Bloomfield Township, shortly after 9 p.m. Jan. 25.

Godfrey agreed. He and Douglas arrived at the appointed time.

Although Taylor says he gave no indication the boy was under suspicion, attorney Kavanagh was with them.

There to greet them were Taylor, county Sheriff Frank Irons, Bloomfield Township Police Chief Norman Dehnke and Michigan State Police officers.

LIE DETECTOR TEST
Taylor asked that Douglas submit to a lie detector test.

Kavanagh replied that an explanation was in order. He could not approve of a lie detector test as a fishing expedient. There would have to be good reason for it.

Taylor took the attorney aside and told him what police had learned the day before and had told him at 10:30 a.m. yesterday.

That they knew Douglas had

Youth Admits He Shot Mother in Area Home

By JIM LONG

A hearing will be scheduled for next week to determine if a 15-year-old boy who has admitted killing his mother will stand trial as an adult.

The date for the hearing on a waiver to Circuit Court was to have been decided at a preliminary hearing 2 p.m. today.

Douglas Godfrey, a 10th grader at Bloomfield Hills High School, admitted yesterday that he shot and killed his mother Jan. 25.

Meeting today to decide what steps are to be taken were Probate Judge Donald E. Adams, Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor, the boy's father Donald Godfrey, Birmingham attorney Thomas Kavanagh and the minister from the Godfreys' church, L. C. Tucker.

Earlier today, Judge Adams said he would appoint investigators to gather information to determine if a psychiatric examination is needed.

If a psychiatric examination is indicated, a hearing on the waiver would be delayed.

Prosecutor Taylor said he would prepare papers on the waiver today and added if the boy is waived, he would request a sanity commission hearing.

OUT TOO OFTEN
The teen-ager admitted yesterday that he wanted his mother dead because "she criticized him for going out too often," according to Taylor.

Mrs. Mary Godfrey, 28, was shot in the head Jan. 25 while standing in the kitchen of her home at 983 Dursley Road.

Since then, fear of a "phantom sniper" has spread over Oakland County.

"People all over the county have been scared to death that he had a 22-caliber pistol he had stolen from a sporting goods shop."

Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor said at noon today that he was preparing an order for a warrant charging Douglas Godfrey, 15, with first degree murder "as required by statute." Whether the youth will be tried as an adult remains undetermined.

last week and a half," said Taylor, "I think we have gotten rid of this fear."

The youth also has admitted firing into two other houses in the vicinity of his home near the Eastover School. Taylor said Douglas, who is reported to have an IQ of 140, said he shot his mother with a 22-caliber pistol he stole from the Silverwolf sporting goods store in Royal Oak about Dec. 18.

He said he plotted to kill his mother two weeks in advance.

Officers from the Bloomfield Township Police Department, sheriff's department and the state police worked in cooperation to solve the case since the shooting occurred 11 days ago.

Police today were searching for the gun in the southeast corner of Orion Township.

Douglas told Taylor he tossed the gun alongside a back road in the area last Monday, the day before his mother's funeral.

He said a 17-year-old friend, Joseph Campbell of Royal Oak, drove him to the lonely area but did not have any knowledge that Douglas was going to throw away a pistol.

Joseph was to be questioned today by police.

Douglas is being held in the Oakland County Children's Home. He broke down and admitted the shooting at the Pontiac state police post yesterday afternoon.

The youth had been brought there by his father, Donald H., a lay preacher and partner in (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Classmate Provided Clue Leading to Apprehension

Douglas Godfrey, the admitted killer of his mother, was a suspect almost from the day of the department's Crime slaying. But it was not until Prevention Bureau which deals Monday that police received information that pointed directly at him.

A classmate provided the evidence that led police to press their investigation of him.

Gary Rocamora, 15, of 23176 Fourteen Mile Road, Bloomfield Township, told Oakland County Sheriff's Detective Harry Jones that Douglas had told him that he had a 22-caliber pistol he had stolen from a sporting goods shop.

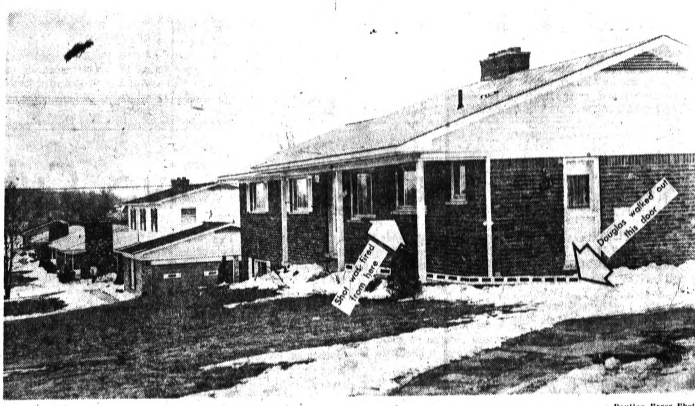

Rocamora said that young Godfrey had tried to sell him the gun. The offer was made before the sniper incidents occurred.

Police said the pistol was stolen from the Silverwolf, a sports shop at 4100 Woodward Ave., Royal Oak, in December when Douglas ran away from home after quarreling with his younger brothers.

TURNED SELF IN
He turned himself over to Pontiac police just before Christmas. The officer who met the boy

"His father didn't pick him up for more than three hours and since it was a slow day I had time to talk to him. The conversation was pretty much one-sided, however."

NOT TALKATIVE
"He was reluctant to talk and usually only gave yes and no (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

MEMORABLE HIKE — Britons won't soon forget this bleak winter. One of the chilliest scenes was this mid-January helicopter view on the wind-swept, snow-covered Yorkshire moors. ## Weigh Future of Diefenbaker OTTAWA (AP)—With Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's government voted out of office, Canada's conservative party today faced a decision on whether to retain him as political leader.

Diefenbaker was under fire from some elements of his party even before the U.S.-Canadian dispute over nuclear weapons blew up and resulted in the split which toppled the Conservative government last night.

Now the conservatives must decide whether to go into an election campaign with Diefenbaker in spearhead position, or whether they would be better off with someone else.

George Nowlan, finance minister in the Diefenbaker cabinet, has been mentioned as one possibility.

Conservative members of parliament met in caucus today with both Diefenbaker and Nowlan present.

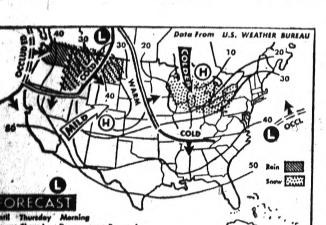

One politician in a position to know the background said backbenchers—the ordinary members of the House of Commons—were inclined in the idea of replacing Diefenbaker.

Some members of the cabinet were reported pushing for a new leader, however.

Fresh Blizzards Hit W. Europe

Motorists Stranded in England, Scotland

LONDON (AP)—Fresh blizzards swept across much of Western Europe during the night, disrupting communications still more and isolating communities from Britain to the Balkans.

The storms hit Britain with renewed force, stranding hundreds of motorists and truck drivers.

Many were helped through the snow by rescue teams and given emergency beds in village halls and schools.

Motorists organizations said road conditions in Scotland were the worst since the arctic weather spell started six weeks ago. One stretch near Lanark 150 trucks were marooned.

In Wales, two busloads of children were trapped in the storm. Villagers carried the children through the snow and put them into the night.

The nationwide referendum was called on a proposal to assess each working U.K. member 3 per cent of his gross weekly wage to bolster the funds.

They have been depleted by the long newspaper strikes in New York City and Cleveland.

More than 80,000 printers are eligible to vote.

Bertram A. Powers, president of striking New York ITU Local 6, predicted approval of the assessment by the international membership.

Result of the over-all vote will be available at Colorado Springs, Colo., the ITU's headquarters city.

Cuban Report on TV Tonight

Rep. Peter Freylichyng Jr., R-N.J., the ranking Republican on the committee, said he will demand the presence of a quorum—15 of the 29 members—before the hearings proceed. A quorum has not been present either of the first two days.

Acting Chairman Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., said he will let the full committee decide what action to take starting today.

That could mean an abrupt halt to consideration of the administration program in one big bill. Most members would prefer study by several subcommittees.

In another move understood to have White House blessing, John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, agreed today to present a detailed report on the Soviet arms status in Cuba to a Senate subcommittee.

Informal senators said McCone was expected to testify at a closed afternoon session of the Senate Armed Services preparedness subcommittee.

"The boy told me that he had been sleeping in cars and garages and had money to buy food."

"When I asked him about his parents, he shrugged and said 'They're alright.'"

He told me that he did not like the neighborhood he was living in and would rather be back in Clawson where the family had lived before moving to Bloomfield Township.

Douglas also told Colando that he did not like Bloomfield Hills High School.

"We talked about everything and the conversation got around to lie detectors."

Since it was located in the next room, Colando said he took the boy and showed him how it operates.

The boy's interest in the Polygraph appeared again last Thursday when he called George Caronis, Pontiac's Youth assistance worker.

REMEMBERED NAME

Douglas had never met Caronis, but apparently had remembered his name when Colando mentioned it during the long interview.

Douglas spoke on the phone to Caronis for about a half hour and his main concern was the accuracy of the lie detector tests.

Police had indicated earlier in the investigation they wanted to have the boy take lie detector tests.

Caronis told the police of the boy's conversation.

Bloomfield Township Police Chief Norman Dehnke said the boy "had been a suspect all right from the start."

Police had been unable to find footprints leading from the window of the Godfrey home across the lawn or to the road. Snow covered the ground.

Douglas said police he came out of the house, went to the kitchen window and fired one shot at his mother.

Powder burns were found on the window sill.

Prospect Dim for School Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The prospects for President Kennedy's omnibus education bill, never bright, were fading fast today as leading disrupted the House Education and Labor Committee.

Republicans opposing the $5.3 billion, 24-point measure hope to force a halt in the hearings, which Chairman Adam C. Powell, D-N.Y., launched Monday. He then left for two weeks in Puerto Rico.

Powell had scheduled 10 days of hearings running through next week.

That could mean an abrupt halt to consideration of the administration program in one big bill. Most members would prefer study by several subcommittees.

In another move understood to have White House blessing, John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, agreed today to present a detailed report on the Soviet arms status in Cuba to a Senate subcommittee.

Informal senators said McCone was expected to testify at a closed afternoon session of the Senate Armed Services preparedness subcommittee.

The father, the son and the attorney went into a room to talk.

The father and the attorney urged the son to tell the truth.

Three hours after they entered the room, they asked for Taylor to come in.

As Taylor answered the summons, he saw tears in the eyes of father and son.

SON CONFESSES

"He wants to tell everything," Godfrey said.

And the boy did. In a statement to Taylor, Douglas admitted shooting his mother because "she tried to find excuses to keep me home."

Douglas admitted he had fired into other homes to "build up a reputation there was a sniper."

He admitted stealing the 22-caliber pistol from the sporting goods store about Dec. 18 or 19. He hadn't planned to kill his mother then, he said, but decided to kill her "a couple of weeks before" he did kill her.

When the statement was given, the father and son cried again.

The boy later was whisked to the county's Children Home.

POSSIBLE SANITY HEARING

The case could not have been solved, Taylor said, without Godfrey's and Kavanagh's cooperation.

Announcing plans to discuss a possible sanity hearing for the boy, Taylor said, "I have reason to believe this boy may be mentally ill."

Crafty, too, according to Taylor's theory of the crime—that Douglas set out to create an image of a sniper as part of a plot to murder his mother without drawing suspicion toward himself.

A "couple of weeks" before the slaying was about the time the mysterious shootings in Bloomfield Township began, less than a month before a horrified man heard his son admit to murder.

Surviving are his wife Betty; a daughter, Susan, at home; his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. W. of Columbus, Ohio; and a brother, Rev. Howard J. Wiant of Youngstown, Ohio.

At the time of his death he was serving his second term as president of the Birmingham Community House. He also was a ruling elder of the Kirk in the Hills Presbyterian Church, Bloomfield Hills.

Requiem Mass for Murray D. Jones, 79, of 2832 Colonial Way, Bloomfield Hills, will be sung in a.m. Friday at the St. Hugo of the Hills Catholic Church. Burial will follow in Mount Hope Cemetery, Pontiac.

Mr. Jones died Monday after a lengthy illness. The rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home, Birmingham.

Mr. Jones was a retired employee of Pontiac Motor Division. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Pinter of Bloomfield Hills; three sons, John and Gerald, both of Birmingham, and Phillip of Pontiac; and 17 grandchildren.

Decides Against Vote on Tax Hike for Building

CHEBOYGAN (AP)—The county board of supervisors has given up plans for an April 1 vote on a tax increase for construction of a new combined courthouse and city hall.

Formation of a building corporation is planned instead. It would issue bonds, and rent payments would be made to retire the bonds.

U.S. Relations With Canada to Stay Strained Awhile

(Editor's Note: Seldom have U.S.-Canadian relations been more strained, mainly because of a State Department statement. Washington considers say wasn't intended as a bombshell nor read in advance by President Kennedy.)

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The political crisis in Canada threatens to maintain for several months the severe strains on U.S.-Canadian relations.

There was no immediate comment here from the White House or State Department on the fall of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Conservative government Tuesday night. But U.S. leaders are sensitive aware that a HIGHTOWER State Department statement just a week ago sparked the tumult which now forces the Canadians into new elections.

Since Diefenbaker had made a major issue of what he called U.S. intrusion into Canadian affairs there is no doubt joint

Canadian-U.S. defense activities, nuclear weapons for Canada's armed forces, and probably the whole range of political and economic relations between Ottawa and Washington will be hotly debated during the election period and in the new Parliament to follow.

NOT FROM TOP
So far as can be determined, neither President Kennedy nor Secretary of State Dean Rusk had a hand in producing the State

News Analysis

Department statement which burst like a bomb in the middle of Canadian politics.

Indeed the statement evidently was not supposed to be such a bombshell at all, although its authors reportedly foresaw the possibility of angry Canadian government criticism.

Kennedy is understood to have been upset the day after the statement came out by the apparent failure of State and Defense Department authorities to judge its impact. It was understood to have been cleared by McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President for national security affairs.

The statement was designed to clear up for the record U.S. government views on issues involving Canada's acceptance or rejection of U.S. nuclear warheads for U.S. weapons systems already in Canadian hands.

IDEA'S ORIGIN

The idea of issuing a statement, informed officials say, originated in the U.S. Embassy in Ottawa and in the State Department here after a debate on nuclear weapons in the Canadian Parliament. The embassy is under direction of Ambassador W. Walton Butterworth and the State Department policy control is understood to have been delegated by Rusk to Undersecretary George W. Ball.

The issue essentially was simple. Diefenbaker had long been reluctant to equip Canadian forces with U.S. nuclear weapons under joint U.S.-Canadian control. Kennedy and his advisers believed, however, that the weapons are essential for Canada's role in the defense of North American and Western Europe. Canadian units are part of the European NATO force.

SOURCE OF FRICTION

The issue has been a source of friction for at least a year. A year ago, Diefenbaker told the Canadian Parliament that joint control of nuclear weapons could not be arranged under existing U.S. law. Four days later, on March 1 Rusk told a news conference here that such arrangements could be worked out. He softened this by adding that the decision, of course was up to Canada.

Following the Cuban crisis last October, Diefenbaker initiated secret talks with U.S. representatives on the possibility of obtaining nuclear warheads. The talks failed, and the statement issued here last week said bluntly that Canada had failed to produce any kind of practical plan to solve the problem.

U.S. CONVINCED

U.S. officials obviously were convinced that regardless of the negotiations Diefenbaker in fact did not want Canada to have U.S. nuclear weapons, at least not for some time.

On Jan. 25, during a full-dress parliamentary debate, Diefenbaker stated his position in a speech which in the U.S. view obscured the realities of the problem.

It was to those arguments that the United States objected on the ground that for the most part they blurred the facts.

The statement was bare of the usual diplomatic language employed to prevent offense if possible to a foreign government.

U.S. ACCUSED

It was issued Wednesday of last week. On Thursday Diefenbaker accused the United States of unwarranted intrusion in a Canadian debate on foreign policy.

On Friday Rusk apologized at a news conference for the harsh tone of the statement, but defended its release on the ground that the U.S. position on the issues debated in Canada had to be made clear.

The prevailing view in the State Department now still is that the U.S. action was fully justified because of the gravity of defense requirements and the United States still wants Canada to get nuclear warheads as soon as possible.

Fear of Child's Mentality Brings Anguish

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Dear Mrs. Lawrence: In kindergarten our girl was called a "slow learner." Now 8, she still puts up a mental barrier against learning. We've tried pressure and the "hands off" policy but nothing we do seems to stimulate her. She is always slipping back in school.

Now her brother, 5, is showing the same slowness and inattention. We are so afraid that they will be placed in a class for the retarded.

ANSWER: You're afraid that the children are mentally retarded, aren't you? Then have them examined by a reliable psychologist who can tell you whether your fear is real.

If it is, you will be able to do something about your problem. If it isn't real, you'll know the children's resistance to learning is due to some other cause — and can do something about that.

But if you don't test your fear against the truth, you are condemning yourself to torment. Your untested fear will diffuse itself, infecting all your responses to the children.

If your little boy shows restlessness when you're reading to him, apprehension will take you by the throat, insisting that his inattention is mental retardation.

The lens of your frightening suspicion will be destructive to all of you.

A parent who faces the fact that his child is mentally retarded suffers agony. But when he has moved through the agony to acceptance of the fact, he is no longer helpless. He finds people who understand his special problems and are eager to help him.

ANGUSH TO FEAR
But the kind of agony we invite when we fear to test the possibility that our child may be mentally handicapped is unending anguish.

It is to shrink in shame from any evidence that seems to support our suspicion. It is to hate ourselves for the shrinking — and to secretly resent the child who makes us feel so ashamed.

So I'm not talking here about the children's right to a responsible diagnosis of their mental capacities. I'm talking to you about responsibility to yourselves and your own mental wholeness. Have the children examined by a psychologist.

Return Gifts if Wedding Called Off

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I was engaged six months ago and at that time received many lovely presents. Last week my engagement was broken and I know that the presents should be returned.

However, quite a few of these presents were sent by my fiancé's relatives whom I had just met and I can't for the life of me remember who gave what.

Considering this fact, and also the length of time that has elapsed, would it be proper to keep them? If not, will you please tell me how I can return them?

A: I think in this case you will have to send your fiancé a list of the things sent by his relatives and ask them to please find out who sent what so that you can return the presents.

If he writes back and says they do not want them returned, then of course you may keep them.

Q: Three single people, all friends of each other, living at separate addresses, were invited to spend the weekend at the house of a couple they met while traveling.

They arrived and departed together. Should each of the three write a separate thank-you note to the hostess or may they elect one to write and express the appreciation of all three?

A: Most correctly, each should write a separate bread-and-butter letter to the hostess.

Q: My employer and his wife will soon celebrate their silver wedding anniversary and I would like to send them some flowers on this occasion.

In signing the card to enclose with them, should my wife's name be included or should they be sent from me alone? My wife has never met them.

A: As your wife has never met them, her name should not be included.

Millions Spent on Remedies

No Medicine Can Cure a Cold

(Editor's Note: The following dispatch, the last in a three-part series on the common cold, reports the latest information on what can—and can't—be done about a cold.)

By BARNEY SEIBERT
CHICAGO (UPI)—There's an old saying among physicians: "Treat a cold and you'll be over it in seven days. Leave it alone and it will last a week."

Despite the $350 million a year spent by Americans on nostrums and remedies to cure the common cold, that old rule still applies, the American Medical Association (AMA) says.

In an age of "wonder drugs," man is no more able to cure the common cold than were the ancient Chinese, who inhaled vapors from a broomstraw plant; the Indian medicine man who shook rattles and chanted incantations; or the medieval physician, who drained off a pint or so of the victim's blood.

Patent cold remedies sometimes ease cold symptoms. They generally consist of pain killers, fever reducers, antihistamines, decongestants, vitamins, cough medicines, rubs, gargles, antibiotics.

REMEDIES RAPPED

In the January 1961 issue of its magazine, "Today's Health," the AMA made these comments about ingredients in cold remedies:

—Pain killers: Make you feel better but do nothing for the cold.

May cause nausea, dizziness or more dangerous side effects.

—Fever reducers: Fever hardly ever accompanies a cold; may bring on ill effects even worse than the cold.

—Antihistamines: Helpful for allergies but useless for colds; can impair judgment, cause dizziness, drowsiness, headache.

—Decongestants: May temporarily stimulate free breathing but boomerang congestion may occur, starting a cycle of pill-congestion-pill; may cause sinus infection; nose drop form can allow oil to slip into lungs, causing pneumonia.

—Vitamins: Supplementary vitamins—in or out of cold remedies—can neither keep you from getting a cold or help you get rid of one.

—Antibiotics: Worthless against virus-caused disease; may cause allergy; may create bacterial immunity, making them worthless against germ-caused disease.

—Cough medicines: You can get the same effect by sucking a lemon drop; other ingredients may cause stomach irritation, lung infection.

—Gargles: Worthless against a cold because the infection is deep inside the body.

—Rubs: "Application of ointment to the chest is foolishness." Misuse of cold remedies can mask serious illness, the AMA said. Measles, polio, influenza, parrot fever, Q-fever and streptococcal infections begin with cold symptoms.

Mass-produced cold remedies use the "shotgun approach"—a variety of ingredients for all probable cold discomforts. Dr. George Jackson of the University of Illinois said "it is better to treat a specific symptom rather than to treat all humanity with a single pill."

Getting back to the AMA: "No cold remedy can do anything more than provide temporary relief of certain symptoms. Many do not even relieve symptoms. Hence, they do little more than subtract from your pocketbook and add to the feeling that you've done something."

Of course, the feeling of having "done something" may be important. The University of Minnesota's Dr. Harold Diehl found that cold sufferers given harmless and worthless sugar pills reported themselves cured.

Britain's Dr. Thomas Parkinson said, "In the treatment of an illness which naturally lasts only three or four days it is easy to attribute curative powers to any drug."

What to do if you are among the 85 per cent of the population which gets colds each year? —

The AMA advises: Take a hot bath, drink a glass of hot milk or lemonade, go to bed, use steam as a vaporizer, avoid spreading your cold to others.

A cold remedy popular in Elizabethan England was sipping wine while soaking the feet in hot water. It may have had some merit.

Dr. Noah D. Fabricant, writing in the March 1958 Journal of Otolaryngology, reported that alcohol re-establishes circulation in nasal membranes, provides comfort, induces drowsiness and minimizes 'nor dismissed,' he promotes a desire for rest.

"Although . . . alcohol is obviously not a cure . . . its bene- In any case, many a physician's ficial role . . . can neither be tablet, a shot of whisky, and bed.

Preliminary Oscar Balloting Begins

By VERNON SCOTT

UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — Ballots for Academy Award voting went out to some 2,500 members this week in the first round of the big Oscar race which reaches a climax April 8 with the presentation of awards.

In the preliminary voting five finalists will be selected for announcement Feb. 25.

So, during the next three weeks politicking in Hollywood will be as pressurized and cut throat as can be found in a Chicago ward.

Stars, directors and musicians are busy buying ads in the movie town trade papers (Daily Variety and the Reporter) reminding readers of their outstanding performances during 1962. Producers get into the act, too, plugging their pictures for awards.

Naturally, speculation is rampant.

As usual, the acting categories are the most dramatic and exciting—and unpredictable.

But due to fewer movies being made, the list of probable nominees for best picture of 1962 is considerably narrowed down from previous years.

Best bets to emerge from the balloting as the five finalists are "The Longest Day," "Lawrence of Arabia," "To Kill a Mockingbird," "Long Day's Journey Into Night" and "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Bounty" (with Charles Laughton and Clark Gable) won the award in 1934, and the makers of the new vision may be dejected to learn that no remake of a movie has ever measured up to the original with the academy (e.g. "All Quiet on the Western Front").

PROSPECTS

Here are some other good prospects to paste in your hat:

Best Actress: Katherine Hepburn (Long Day's Journey), Anne Bancroft (The Miracle Worker), Lee Remick (Days of Wine and Roses), Geraldine Page (Sweet Bird of Youth), Shelley Winters (Lolita).

Best Actor: Gregory Peck (To Kill a Mockingbird), Peter O'Toole (Lawrence of Arabia), Burt Lancaster (Birdman of Alcatraz), Jack Lemmon (Days of Wine and Roses), Robert Preston (Music Man).

Of the finalists the morning line favors "To Kill a Mockingbird," Miss Hepburn (a previous winner) and Peck to cop the Oscars in April. A dark horse for best movie is "The Music Man."

This, the 35th annual Oscar derby, will see more than 20 awards handed out to winners—a fairly simple operation compared to times past.

Back in the 30s and 40s as many as ten nominees were crowded onto the final ballot instead of the current five. One rule the academy has enforced from the beginning is that no performer may compete against himself in the same category by 1962's foreign sweep by Sophia Loren and Maximilian Schell. One other prediction. This year's winners should be of the domestic variety as compared to 1962's foreign sweep by Sophia Loren and Maximilian Schell.
