Crowds Cram Banks of River as She Arrives

Stop-Watch Visit Lasts 140 Minutes, Followed by Upriver Trip

The big Motor City, which towers across the Detroit River from much smaller Windsor, was not an official part of the reception for the Queen.

However, that distinction was only on the surface.

Thousands of Detroiters were expected to cram the river banks for a look at her majesty as she sails upriver on the blue-hulled royal yacht Brittania to Sarnia, Ont. Other thousands were expected to cross over to Windsor to see her.

Queen Elizabeth was due at Windsor by train at 1 p.m. for a stop-watch visit of exactly 140 minutes.

After quick visits by car cavalcade to Windsor's Jackson Park and Dieppe Gardens, the Queen and her entourage were scheduled to board the Brittania at 2:44 for the upriver trip under escort by Canadian Navy destroyers.

Queen Elizabeth's visit coincided with the pomp of the Detroit and Windsor celebration of their "International Freedom Festival."

The two cities timed the high point of the celebration for the Queen's appearance.

On the river tonight 2½ tons of fireworks will be set off. Downtown Detroit, just off the riverfront, will have an Armed Forces Dinner and a consular ball.

COAST GUARD ESCORT

She sailed in regally, escorted by a brightly scrubbed U.S. Coast Guard cutter Mackinaw as other boats of the Coast Guard and the Canadian Mounted Police kept curious small craft at their proper distance.

Also escorting the Brittania were the Canadian destroyers Kootnay and Gatineau, largest ships of war of Canada ever to cruise the Detroit River.

Four U.S. Navy destroyers, originally due yesterday but held up by a traffic delay on the Welland Canal, were expected today to swell the international force of men-of-war.

The Queen and Prince Philip attended a command performance of "As You Like It", Thursday night in Stratford, Ontario.

The Queen and her party are touring Windsor today after arriving by train. They will leave later in the day aboard the Brittania for Sarnia and Chicago. Detroit's skyline is in the background.

Police Mobilize to Keep Americans Alive in Traffic

Kozlov Starts 10-Day Trip Through Six U. S. Cities

WASHINGTON (AP)—Frol R. Kozlov shed his diplomatic role today for a sightseeing mission which will carry him across the United States.

The Soviet deputy premier, after a 2½-day Washington visit, planned a hop to Sacramento, Calif., to start a 10-day swing through a half dozen American cities.

Lunch with Gov. Edmund G. Brown highlighted his scheduled stop at the California capital. Then it was on to San Francisco, for more meetings.

Kozlov's diplomatic pursuits wound up Thursday night with a big reception at the Soviet embassy. The sum total: Neither Americans nor Soviets budged an inch on the Berlin crisis.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon had one more 15-minute private chat with the Communist visitor. "He is a master at being friendly," Nixon reported afterwards, "but that doesn't mean that there was progress."

★ ★ ★

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter gave a similar account of his hour-long meeting with Kozlov before flying to his Manchester, Mass., home for a holiday weekend.

"Certainly there was nothing too profitable in the conversation we had yesterday; nothing new in it," Herter said.

And from the reports he had received of Kozlov's nationwide telecast Thursday, Herter said there seemed to be nothing in it that he hadn't heard from the Soviets in six fruitless weeks at Geneva.

Kozlov's coast-to-coast telecast —a speech to Washington newsmen plus answers to six questions carefully screened by the Soviets—shaped up as his main public address in this country. He spoke in Russian, which an interpreter translated into English.

U.S. officials said the public utterance matched what Kozlov said in private conversations to President Eisenhower and others the past two days.

Kozlov renewed the Kremlin's declaration that "if a war is reached" over Berlin, "if force is resorted to, then force will be met with force."

New Flag to Be Official 1 Minute Past 12 Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's new 49-star flag comes officially into existence at one minute past midnight tonight. It will take the place of the 48-star banner that has symbolized America for 47 years.

Designed for inclusion of Alaska as the 49th state, the new red, white and blue standard will be raised in colorful ceremonies at Ft. McHenry in Baltimore and at Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

Many other government buildings will continue to fly the old 48-star flag because hundreds are still on hand. It will be legal, both for the government and for private citizens, to fly the old-style banners until they wear out.

★ ★ ★

Alaska became the 49th state last January, but under the law a new flag's birthday must await July 4. Hawaii is expected to become the 50th state soon, but a new 50-star flag will not become official until July 4, 1960.

Special Patrols, Planes, Radar Await Holiday

By The Associated Press

Traffic safety officials across the nation mustered all their strength and ingenuity today to keep motorists from killing themselves and others over the Fourth of July holiday weekend.

The National Safety Council predicted that 350 persons will die in traffic accidents during the 54-hour holiday period from 6 p.m. local time tonight to midnight Sunday.

The traffic death toll for the three-day July 4 weekend last year was 370.

State patrols prepared for a crushing volume of traffic.

In addition to swarms of patrol cars, plans called for the use of planes, electronic speed detection devices, "ghost" patrol cars strung along highways, roadblocks to watch out for tired or otherwise incapacitated drivers, and, in many instances, arrests instead of warnings for traffic law violations.

ALL JOIN IN

Civic and business organizations joined in to help stop the slaughter.

★ ★ ★

The Alabama Trucking Assn. planned to operate a 20-vehicle courtesy patrol on major highways during the weekend. The cars will carry signs reading "Safety Patrol, Courtesy, Alabama Council of Safety Supervisors." The council is a division of the trucking association.

★ ★ ★

American Legionnaires at 43 points of entry into Iowa will hand out "Slow down and live" pamphlets to motorists. The Iowa Outdoor Advertising Assn. posted 150 billboards listing speed limits and warning of patrol planes and radar enforcement.

PLANS COFFEE BREAKS

★ ★ ★

Connecticut, which boasts the nation's safest highways, adopted a new safety slogan and it's applicable all the time, not just this weekend. The slogan is "Drive safely—the car behind you may be a police car."

★ ★ ★

"Ghost" (unmanned) police cars will be waiting for the unwary driver on the New York State Thruway. Authorities feel the mere sight of a police car will cause speeders to slow down.

★ ★ ★

Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania called out all state police to operate in 900 marked and unmarked cars.

No Weather Worries for 4th

Warm Holiday Predicted

It's going to be pleasant and warm, ideal for the family's holiday picnic or that swim at the beach.

The weatherman predicts tonight will be fair and warm with a low of 64 degrees. Partly cloudy and warmer is Saturday's forecast with the high rising to near 90.

For the next five days temperatures will average four degrees above the normal high of 83 and normal low of 62. Tomorrow will be warm but temperatures will be cooler Sunday and Monday with a warming trend again Tuesday and Wednesday.

Rainfall will total about one-half to one inch as scattered showers and thundershowers tomorrow night or Sunday morning and again around Wednesday.

Sixty was the lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The reading at 2 p.m. was 86.

Pentagon Shaken Up by $30 Million Blaze

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pentagon officials investigating a 30-million-dollar fire blamed on an electrical spark considered today what even a small bomb might do to the nation's supposedly fire-proof military nerve-center.

Studies on how to prevent another similar fire in the Pentagon, the world's largest office building, were under way.

Three hundred firemen battled the fire, and 40 were felled by the dense acrid smoke given off by the burning of 7,000 rolls of taped Air Force data, some of it stamped "secret."

The breakdown of the water system caused Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy to dismiss the entire Pentagon working force of some 29,000 military and civilian employes, giving them an early start on a three-day Fourth of July weekend.

Many, working in unaffected sections of the massive five-sided concrete building, had been unaware of the fire.

The blaze was confined to a small section — 20,000 square feet — of the Pentagon's total area, although smoke poured through an area equal to about four city blocks.

Structural damage was estimated at from $200,000 to $5,000,000, depending on who was guessing. This was on top of the the $30,000,000 loss of computers, tapes and equipment in the Air Force's hush-hush statistical center.

By 4:15 p.m., about five hours after the blaze started, the Pentagon announced the fire was "extinguished" for all practical purposes.

Must Be Learned and Practiced

Water Safety Rules Are Life Savers

(Editor's Note: "It is better to be safe than sorry." This is the advice of Pontiac YMCA swimming instructors who have co-operated with the Pontiac Press in preparing a three-part series—"Swim for Safety." Parts 2 and 3 will follow.)

Summer means swimming time to most young Americans and to a good many older ones, too.

Judging by past swimming seasons, the summer will also mean the end of a thousand or more American lives — mostly young lives.

Last year 19 persons in Oakland County met death by drowning in local lakes. These were tragic deaths, and particularly sad is the fact that most of them need not have happened if simple rules of water safety had been learned and practiced.

The first step toward water safety? It is learning to swim—and to swim well—according to John Moreau, Pontiac YMCA swimming instructor.

'DEADLY COMBINATION'

"Those who can't swim well should not only stay out of deep water, but should also stay out of canoes and other small craft that are likely to capsize," he said.

If you can't swim and—despite reading these rules—go out in a small boat, try to cling to it, should it capsize.

★ ★ ★

"Most rowboats or canoes will remain afloat," Moreau said. "If nonswimmers would hang on to them instead of frantically striking out for shore, not nearly as many would drown."

As children are victims in a majority of water accidents, much of the responsibility for drownings lies with parents.

CAN SLIP OFF

They should be encouraged—but not forced to learn to swim, and they should learn in well-guarded pools under competent adult instruction.

The safe places to go swimming are areas that are reserved and maintained for that purpose and adequately protected—the well-marked, supervised and guarded bathing beaches and swimming pools.

Swimming, cautions Moreau, is a means of safety and fun, not an excuse for venturing into danger.

"People who wouldn't think of crossing a street against a red light, or going out in a rain without their rubbers, will not give a second thought to plunging into any body of water, just as long as it appears wet and cool," Moreau complained.

'MAY BE TRAP'

"They seem completely oblivious of the fact that the bottom of the pond or lake may be a veritable death trap."

Perhaps the most dangerous waters are those still ponds or streams which look so safe.

Flooded and swollen streams should be avoided, not only because of swift current, but also because of the danger from wholly or partly submerged logs or other debris.

The "old swimming hole" is a nostalgic memory to many adults, but the well-guarded bathing beach or swimming pool is far safer.

Sewage Fund $90,000 Short

DPW Asks County for Loan to Start MSUO Treatment Plant

The Oakland County Board of Public Works is asking the county for a $90,000 loan to get the Michigan State University Oakland sewage treatment plant constructed by the time classes begin this fall.

R. J. Alexander, deputy director of the Department of Public Works, explained that private sources have fallen $90,000 short of the amount of money they promised to raise to pay for the project.

Alexander said the county would be repaid as soon as the money is raised.

"But we need to have funds on hand now to cover the full, $610,000 cost to get started on construction this month, as planned," he explained.

The request for an advance was made to the Ways and Means Committee of the Board of Supervisors, which took it favorably under consideration.

The public works board at the same time was able to return to the county $161,000 from other advances for planning of the Evergreen and Farmington Sewage Systems.

Also returned was all but $7,000 of last year's budget appropriation. The DPW is designed to be self-sufficient, with the cost of its operations going into the price tag on the projects it plans.

The MSUO disposal system is to serve the university and surrounding residential areas which have not been developed yet.

The university is paying $90,000; private developers $220,000 and the company which manufactures the treatment plant $290,000.

It's expected that initial costs will be offset in five years through sewage connection charges on the new homes anticipated in the MSUO area.

Ike Starts Holiday Golfing With Son

The President was to motor the 25 miles from his Catoctin Mountain retreat to the Gettysburg, Pa., Country Club, weather permitting, to play golf with his son, Maj. John Eisenhower.

Tonight he and Mrs. Eisenhower will entertain a group of close friends at a house party celebrating their wedding anniversary.

Civil Defense Funds Approved

Initial County Control Center Appropriation Gets Supervisors' OK

A $2,500 appropriation to get plans started for an Oakland County civil defense control center has been approved by the Ways and Means Committee of the Board of Supervisors.

The appropriation must be approved by the full Board before the money is released to the Board's Civil Defense Committee, headed by Charles A. Cardon of Oak Park.

The committee wants to have plans and specifications drawn up by the staff of the Department of Public Works, according to Norman R. Barnard, corporation counsel.

Under consideration is an underground structure similar to the one built by Detroit recently in Palmer Park.

It would house a vast array of communications equipment, plus other facilities making it a self-sufficient post where top civil defense officials could operate in time of military or natural disaster, said Barnard.

The Civil Defense Committee is considering the Oakland County Service Center as a site for the communications post, said Barnard. It's tentatively estimated the cost would range around $250,000.

Control centers are eligible for federal aid. Action to construct a control center here follows on the heels of a statewide survival plan recently published by the Michigan Office of Civil Defense.

City Girls Given to Grandparents

Ends Custody Battle of Father, Stepfather After Mother's Death

Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams made a ruling yesterday that removed two Pontiac girls from a legal battle between their father and stepfather.

Judge Adams awarded custody of Mary Patricia Callender, 11, and Karen Ann Callender, 8, to their maternal grandparents.

The girls' mother died March 3, only 10 days after she had married Clarence D. Bergeron, 48, of 2772 Leach Rd., Avon Township.

The girl's father, Frank Callender, 36, of 1242 Meadowlawn Dr., then brought habeas corpus action against Bergeron in an effort to regain custody of the girls.

Judge Adams ruled that the grandparents would be able to provide a better home for the girls than either man.

Expect National Weather to Be Fair for Weekend

Fairly pleasant summer weather was in prospect for most of the country today, with the usual threat of possible showers in some areas.

That's also the outlook for the Independence Day weekend.

Showers dampened wide areas during the night from Virginia southward into Florida and were reported in scattered sections westward through the Gulf Coast states and into Texas.

Heaviest rainfall was in southern Louisiana, with about 1½ inches in a six-hour period. Earlier downpours drenched sections of Mississippi, with between 7 and 10 inches in the Jackson area. Fairly heavy rain also fell in areas from Florida into Virginia.

Anderson to Propose Revised Tax Plan

Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson (R-Waterford Township) intends to introduce Oakland County's property transfer tax proposal in the Legislature in slightly altered form.

Anderson is having a bill prepared that may be ready for submission to the House in Lansing next week.

It would allow counties to levy a one per cent tax on the purchase price of land at the time of any sale, transfer or lease running one year or more.

Last week, Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, urged the Legislature to consider a similar proposal that would allow counties a new source of taxes outside the existing 15 mill property tax.

SUGGESTS 2 PER CENT

Hamlin suggested a 2 per cent tax levied by counties on the assessed valuation of properties involved in sale or transfer.

"Assessed valuations are sometimes a year old. The value of property can change considerably during a period of one year. Purchase price is a more accurate basis for determining value."

Anderson believed another difference between the two proposals would make his more attractive to the Legislature.

Whereas Hamlin had proposed a statewide tax, Anderson would let each county decide whether it wanted to levy a new tax.

"This feature should make the proposal more attractive to out-state areas which generally feel they don't need a new source of taxation," Anderson explained.

SAME OBJECTION

The same objection to Hamlin's proposal was raised last week by Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (R-Drayton Plains), who has it under consideration for introduction into the Senate.

★ ★ ★

Hamlin and other county officials have long pointed out the need for a new source of revenue in Oakland County.

Detroit Will Salute Queen Elizabeth

"We loved the play," Elizabeth said to a group of actors, property men, and wardrobe people.

The theater was sold out and the audience stood when the Queen and Philip came down the aisle to a box on the right front side of the stage.

Backstage, the members of the cast, musicians, and the opera company, along with the theater workmen, stood by while Elizabeth and Philip spoke to the players.

Irene Worth, American-born star of the British Old Vic company who played the feminine lead, was presented first.

When Douglas Campbell, playing the fool, appeared, his face still dripping with perspiration, Philip laughed and said, "You look warm." The Queen joined in the laughter.

Philip made a similar remark to a group of supporting players wearing heavy 16th century costumes.

The Queen went whistle-stopping Thursday. Huge crowds thronged the streets of half a dozen small towns in western Ontario. Many others stood at crossroads and country lanes. Elizabeth went out to the rear platform to acknowledge the applause.

Pentagon Shaken Up by $30 Million Blaze

police moved in. They formed a cordon around the damaged area and kept an overnight watch.

Pentagon authorities said the blaze apparently started from an electrical failure, possibly a short-circuit. There was no evidence of sabotage.

All but a small portion of the Pentagon should be back in business as usual by Monday when employes return from the holiday weekend.

The 400 employes of the statistical branch were relocated temporarily at quarters in nearby Alexandria, Va.

Although the taped Air Force data destroyed was important, it can be replaced within six months by digging at the sources, officials said. The statistical branch deals with records more than active files.

The Defense Department said that all of the records on which the joint chiefs of staff rely are duplicated elsewhere.

Alternate records include those at the elaborate "Underground Pentagon" near Ft. Ritchie, Md., on the Pennsylvania border. This is a super-secret cave tunneled under a mountain.

It is reported jammed with communications equipment that would enable the military chiefs to carry on global war operations.

The Pentagon building is regarded as basically fire-proof, but the fire and smoke spread through false ceilings and partitions. Firemen complained that two fire walls bottled up the fire and built up tremendous heat.

Boater Pays $65 for Wild Actions

Justice Warns Against Recklessness on Water During Holiday

Gerald W. McQuaid, 25, pleaded guilty to reckless operation of a motor boat and was fined $50 plus $15 costs.

Dieterle also ordered a one-year probation period in which McQuaid will not be permitted to operate a motorboat on Michigan waters.

In view of the heavy traffic expected on area lakes this weekend Dieterle said: "If boaters don't take it easy and they fail to heed warnings, there will be some jail sentences handed out in my courtroom."

★ ★ ★

McQuaid was charged Tuesday. Witnesses at a Walled Lake swimming beach Sunday said he drove between and among swimmers and washed one girl off a raft. They also told police passengers in the craft were throwing beer bottles into the lake.

Reveal Deeds Office Transaction Totals

A total 7,373 transactions amounting to $14,250 were made last month by the deeds office of the Oakland County Clerk-Register of Deeds.

Last month's total business breaks down into 6,987 chattel mortgages, $6,987; 1,440 mortgages, $5,031; 2976 deeds, $4,881; 855 photographs, $858; and 2,123 miscellaneous transactions $3,507.

ANOTHER YANKUS? — No, since farming isn't his chief occupation, the man above probably won't sell his land and head for Australia. But State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie faced a $372 fine because he has six-tenths of an acre of wheat too much on his farm near Holt. He decided today to plow under the excess wheat to escape the fine.

Mackie to Plow Under Wheat

By BOB VOGES

LANSING (AP) — State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie has decided to plow under his disputed six-tenths of an acre of wheat rather than to pay a fine or protest.

★ ★ ★

Mackie planned to get up early today to dig under the excess wheat that a federal agency said might cost him as much as $372.

Uncle Sam's spokesmen claim Mackie is a fraction of an acre over the wheat acreage allowed without marketing quotas or penalties.

'WANTS TO FIGHT IT'

Mackie said early last night that he was ready to turn the wheat under although six tenths of an acre should produce better than 25 bushels selling at around $1.40 a bushel.

★ ★ ★

"Then I got a call from an attorney who told me not to do it," he said. "He wants to fight it. I've got to find out if it will cost some thousands of dollars and extend for several years."

The state road boss said he had no plans to decamp to Australia as did Stanley Yankus, Michigan's rebel wheat farmer.

★ ★ ★

"I took an oath of office," he said. "But one thing — I'm sure going to talk to Phil Hart (Michigan Democratic senator) about the system of measuring acreage. There must be a lot of poor farmers in the same spot who can't fight this thing."

Mackie claimed the aerial photo method used by the U. S. Stabilization and Conservation Service was not accurate within 10 per cent, although he said it was useful for measuring rough areas.

He explained he planted just 15 acres of wheat — beautiful wheat to sell on the open market rather than accept federal price supports.

NO CORN PROBLEM

Mackie also has 55 acres of corn on his tidy 80-acre farm in Holt, Ingham County, and reports no problem there.

★ ★ ★

Mackie, who deals in hundreds of millions of dollars in federal money given for Michigan highway support will be in Portland today to open a new stretch of expressway built with the help of U. S. funds.

Today was his deadline, according to the federal agency.

"If I do plow it under," he said, "it will be under protest."

Oh, That Latin Humor

LONDON (UPI)—The wife of the archbishop of Canterbury admitted yesterday that she often laughs at parts of her husband's speeches that she doesn't understand. "My husband often puts Latin tags into his speeches," Mrs. Rosamond Fisher said at a school opening. "Everyone laughs and I laugh, too, but only to be polite, because I cannot understand Latin."

Boy's Life Lonely in Wheel Chair

Who Stole Bobby's Puppy?

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

A 5-year-old Waterford Township boy, who will probably spend the rest of his life in a wheel chair, came home today and learned someone had stolen his dog.

Bobby Swayne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Swayne of 6335 Cleveland St., are convinced the boy's pedigreed Weimaraner puppy, "Barron," was picked up and taken away from their home in the Williams Lake-Airport road area after 4 p.m. yesterday.

Neighbors joined Bobby's parents and five brothers and sisters in an intensive search for the pet until nearly midnight. But there was no sign of the little dog.

Bobby suffered his first big misfortune one week before he was stricken with crippling polio last September. A car ran over his beloved German shepherd dog "Pal."

He was just recovering after having lost that friend, but after just two weeks in school contracted the disease that left him completely paralyzed from the neck down.

Bobby lay in an oxygen tank for weeks, hovering between life and death, before he finally was taken out and given the grueling exercises which follow the oxygen lung operation.

It has been a long time since Bobby has seen his brothers and sisters, Linda Lee, 13; Richard, 9; Lanna, 3; Laura Lynn, 1, and he has never seen his six-week-old brother, Rickie.

Because of Bobby's condition, the Swayne family decided that "not just any dog would do." They got him Barron.

The missing dog has dark gray short hair and blue eyes. He stands about 15 inches from the floor, his tail is cut and "he loves everybody," Mrs. Swayne says.

LEARNS THERAPY

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Swayne is learning therapy treatments to administer to her son, and despite the wheel chair and necessary braces, is hoping and praying for him to walk again.

In the meantime, Bobby's family and neighbors are confident that whoever picked up the puppy will certainly return him as soon as possible after reading this.

SKIPPY IS HOMELESS — He wasn't around when this car smashed into his home, but Skippy, a 5-year-old Brittany Spaniel, learned shortly after that he'd have to look for a new home. Mrs. Lavina Mae Bell, 33, of 80 W. Fairmont St., told Pontiac Police she was driving east on Fairmont and her car wouldn't stop. The auto went through a fence and into the dog house which Skippy shares with another spaniel. Mrs. Bell and her 5-month-old daughter, Cynthia, were treated for minor injuries at Pontiac General Hospital and released. The accident at 4:45 p. m. yesterday was on the property of George Burklow, 22 E. Strathmore Ave.

Long Undergoes Heart Checkup

Determined to Launch Re-Election Campaign Saturday

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Gov. Earl K. Long clung today to his plan to launch a re-election campaign Saturday. His final decision apparently rested on an electrocardiograph damage check on his ailing heart.

"He's in bad shape," said Dr. Paul Pratt, a psychiatrist assigned to Long.

The 63-year-old Long—one week out of a mental hospital—suddenly abandoned his temporary capital in a pine-shaded Covington motel Thursday night and was driven about 40 miles south to New Orleans. He ate a hearty dinner, heart tests were started immediately, and he retired early.

In the turbulent week since he won release from a mental hospital, Long's capital has been wherever he happened to hang his wide-brimmed hat — Covington Thursday, New Orleans today and by nightfall, according to the schedule, Baton Rouge, the state's regular capital.

Long was in a fighting mood when he swept into the Roosevelt Hotel in downtown New Orleans half a block off Canal Street. He told reporters: "I'm not answering any questions. I'm not telling you anything. Get away."

Ensconced in a third-floor suite, he summoned a couple of haberdashers who displayed a number of new suits and hats.

Medical supplies and equipment including a portable electrocardiograph were brought into the rooms. The machine is intended to indicate the extent of any past damage to the human heart.

A close friend said Long will undergo extensive heart tests to determine if he can stand the strain of tomorrow's scheduled campaign kickoff. The latter includes four speeches in the Southern part of the state and then a flight to a beauty contest in northern Louisiana.

Doctors examined Long Thursday to confirm a prior diagnosis that he suffered on Wednesday a slight slowing down or failure of the heart. They described this as less serious than a heart attack, which Long suffered in 1950.

The doctors announced afterwards: "The governor needs a complete rest and avoidance of strain. The governor agreed to cooperate to the best of his ability."

But agreement or not, Long gave every appearance of a politician chafing to hit the campaign trail. He had his pride and joy, a new red station wagon with four loudspeakers atop it, brought to Covington for his inspection. "Uncle Earl for Governor," proclaimed lettering on the sound track.

Hunt Muscular Killer as Knifer of Girl

Lorraine, 20, a supermarket cashier, was battered and slashed to death on a residential street a few steps from her home Wednesday night as she returned alone from a date.

Police judged that from the depth and force of the cuts — Lorraine was slashed 16 times — the killer was a man of strength.

★ ★ ★

Detective Inspector Richard Miller, head of the police homicide squad, called the slaying the "most savage and brutal in my memory."

During the day yesterday 11 men were picked up and questioned. All, however, proved alibis, police said.

Lorraine's coin purse, containing a nickel and eight pennies, was found in weeds at the rear of a home in the vicinity.

Extra police were assigned to patrol the district.

Each High School Grad Costs $4,942

LANSING (AP)—It cost Michigan taxpayers an average of $4,942 for the public school education of each June 1959 high school graduate, a researcher said yesterday.

This was assuming the youth entered kindergarten in the fall of 1946 and continued in the public school system without interruption.

Thomas J. Northey, who made a study for the Michigan Education Assn., said $3,629 was chargeable to school operating expenses and $1,312 to building, site and debt retirement expenses.

Safety Council Hopes It's Wrong

Predict 350 Deaths This Weekend

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council is one group of experts which hopes its predictions are 100 per cent wrong.

Among its tasks in the field of safety, the 47-year-old organization includes estimating the nation's traffic death toll on major holidays.

For the July 4 weekend the council estimates 350 persons will die in traffic accidents and 13,000 others will suffer disabling injuries.

"But our goal is no accidents at all," says an NSC spokesman.

"All we are doing is telling people there is extra traffic, extra danger and therefore, extra accidents, and we are asking them to be extra careful."

Using mass communication media—newspapers, radio, television—the council pounds at the populace urging them to be careful.

Has it been successful?

The council spokesman said definitely yes. "Who can say what the toll would be if this were not done?" he asked.

Still, the final tolls usually come close to NSC estimates.

Holiday estimates are based on a complicated formula applied to previous records for these holidays, current traffic volume trends, current toll trends, nature and length of the holiday and finally, the weather.

The council was formed in Milwaukee in 1912 at a safety session of a steel industry convention. Now its Chicago headquarters has a staff of 350 statisticians, writers, artists and traffic and industrial engineers. More than 300 other councils are affiliated in some way.

Actually, the traffic safety problem accounts for no more than a third of the council function of gathering and distributing information about the causes and ways to prevent accidents.

The NSC divides its work into four principal classes: work, home, motor vehicle and public accidents, the latter including accidents at play, such as drownings.

The council operates on a 5¼-million-dollar budget, nine-tenths of it supplied from membership fees paid by industrial concerns and from the sale of its posters, films data sheets and technical information.

The council also publishes 13 national magazines with a circulation totaling more than 1¼ million.

The rest of its money comes from contributions.

Jury Says Chair for Mrs. Klumpp

3½-Week Trial Ends for Woman Who Shot Lover's Wife

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Unless higher courts or the governor intervene, Edythe Margaret Klumpp, 41, must die in Ohio's electric chair for the slaying of Louise Bergen.

Mrs. Klumpp stared stony-faced as the jury of six men and six women filed in Thursday night. She never changed expression as, four minutes later, the clerk read the verdict of guilty of first-degree murder.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Klumpp continued to stare downward as the jurors were polled. Two or three women members of the jury appeared to be near tears as they confirmed their decision. The jury had had the case since Wednesday afternoon and had deliberated approximately 13 hours.

When the 3½-week trial was adjourned, Mrs. Klumpp told Bailiff William Wiggeringloh, "Let's get out of here." She was hustled off to her cell.

Mrs. Klumpp, twice divorced and mother of four, was convicted of shooting and beating Mrs. Bergen, 32, to death last Oct. 30. She and Mrs. Bergen's estranged husband William, 30, had been living together for several months. Mrs. Klumpp admitted burning Mrs. Bergen's body at Lake Cowan the following day.

The state claimed Mrs. Klumpp feared Bergen intended to return to his wife and that Mrs. Klumpp needed his financial aid to get a loan on her home to prevent it from behind sold at public auction.

Mrs. Klumpp contended the shooting in her car on a secluded park street was accidental. She testified Mrs. Bergen was pointing the gun at her and that it discharged as they fought for it.

Thirty-eight witnesses testified—Mrs. Klumpp herself for nine hours spread over three days. Mrs. Klumpp's divorced husband Robert Klump and Bergen were state witnesses.

Bob Considine Reports:

'Porgy and Bess' Film Costs $16 Million

NEW YORK — About the easiest thing a reporter can do around New York these days is get Sam Goldwyn to talk about "Porgy and Bess."

The opera spawned in Catfish Row has taken hold of this remarkable man as no other picture he ever made. It has stopped his talking about "Best Years," though that will always occupy a central position in his heart.

Porgy is regarded by Goldwyn as a kind of accolade, a decoration bestowed upon him comparable in his business to the Congressional Medal of Honor. He deems it the greatest tribute of his life in film work that the complex of owners of this American opera chose to accept less than half as much from him, as an advance against royalties, as was offered by major studios.

We found the great man wounded but chipper when we called on him the other day in his eyrie atop the Sherry Netherland. He was suffering from one of the rarest injuries in sports history. "Wrenched my knee playing croquet," he reported.

Any man with such a dramatic trauma could be forgiven a dissertation, but Sam brushed the topic aside and jumped solidly into Porgy, sore knee and all.

He bought the rights for $650,000, after other studios had offered up to $1,500,000. So many interests were involved, personalities and estates, that it took eight months and 18 lawyers to produce a suitable contract. "The first print," as he put it, speaking of the finished picture, "cost me 7½ million."

Each successive copy of the original, in the Todd-Ao process, will cost $9,500. He will have about 200 of them made, for two-a-day hard ticket showings in as many Todd-Ao theaters in the world. After that will come the less complicated (and somewhat less glorious) Cinemascope version for showings at regular theaters.

With this, and advertising, distribution and other costs, Goldwyn won't get his money back until the picture does $16,000,000. And, even there, he won't profit.

"Everything after the breakeven goes into my foundation," Sam said, nursing a Scotch as weak as his knee. "Fellowships . . . hospitals . . . you know. But there are some things in life that haven't got anything to do with money. This picture is that thing, in my life.

"Do you know how old I am? I'm 76. Maybe I shouldn't be doing this, but I'm going to spend the next year, year and a half, traveling around the world with this picture, seeing it open here and there, before I start my new picture—the one about the Middle East.

"It's such an honor to have been chosen to do Porgy! The people who controlled the property waited for years before letting anybody make it. Porgy is their shrine to George Gershwin. George—who was working for me when he died—lives in these people's minds all the time. They insisted that everything be right, just right, and I agree.

"That's why I'm not going to show it in Moscow until they let me show it there in Todd-Ao. They and the State Department asked me to show the Cinemascope version starting July 25—the day our fair opens. They're equipped for that. But when I show it there I want it to be as right as it can be.

"I could get the right equipment for them, if they'd let me, from Holland, but they're working on their own Russian Todd-Ao. I guess they want to be first with it."

Goldwyn now is convinced, he says, that Sidney Poitier is "the finest actor who has come along in my time—white, black, brown, any color." He is delighted by such news-breaks as the front page laudatory review of the New York opening by Thomas R. Waring, editor of the Charleston (S.C.) News and Courier. And he is naturally charmed by a letter from Dorothy Hayward, who wrote the original with her late husband, Dubose.

"Thank you for a splendid production," Mrs. Hayward wrote Sam. "Porgy and Bess is so much a part of my life that an inferior picture would have been a heartache. But now I can rejoice . . ."

Top Crime Boss Starts Jail Term

Sought for Tax Evasion, Paul Ricca Surrendered in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — A dapper, gum-chewing Paul (The Waiter) Ricca, one of the crime syndicate's top bosses, surrendered Wednesday to begin a three-year term in federal prison for income tax evasion.

Wearing a straw hat, brown pants and sports jacket, the 62-year-old Ricca walked into the U.S. marshal's office

He had no comment for reporters as he was removed to a federal tier in the jail.

There he was fingerprinted, photographed and placed in a cell.

He is to be transferred to the federal penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind.

Ricca was convicted by a jury of evading $128,346 in taxes on income in 1948, 1949 and 1950. U.S. Dist. Judge Julius H. Miner sentenced him to nine years in jail and fined him $15,000.

An appeal court reversed two of the convictions, cutting the sentence by a third. Ricca lost an appeal of the third conviction. He will be eligible for parole in a year.

Ricca claimed his money in the three years involved came from a $300,000 cache he had hidden away in his lavish suburban River Forest home.

Ricca has been in jail before. In 1944 he and several others were convicted of extorting more than a million dollars from Hollywood movie magnates and was sentenced to 10 years in jail. He served a third of his time and was paroled.

★ ★ ★

When Ricca is freed, he will have another fight to face. A federal judge revoked Ricca's citizenship two years ago and ordered his deportation to Italy, his native country, on grounds Ricca concealed two murder convictions there. Ricca, who came to the United States in 1920, has appealed to the Board of Immigration Appeals.

Gibraltar has belonged to the British since 1704.

Congress Is to Blame for Wheat Surpluses

At a recent press conference President Eisenhower made some pointed remarks about the wheat bill, which he later vetoed. He declared what must be done is to remove the incentive which causes huge surpluses year after year.

"Contrary to the recommendation I made," he said, "this bill prescribes for a sick patient another dose of what caused his illness. The proposed return to the discredited high rigid price supports would hasten the complete collapse of the entire wheat program."

★ ★ ★

The present glut has reached such proportions that it is costing taxpayers $500 million annually for storage of $3 billion worth of wheat. Support prices cost another $700 million a year. Yet the vetoed bill would have made the situation worse by boosting parity payments from the present 75 to 90 per cent of parity, that is from $1.81 to $2.13 a bushel, and cutting acreage allotment by 25 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Past performance shows that growers simply would use more fertilizer and harvest more grain from the reduced acreage. Rigid price supports have made it possible for big producers (who receive the major portion of the payments) to grow wheat for one-third the government guaranteed price.

★ ★ ★

The Administration has urged flexible supports related to an average market price. Congress has refused to pass such legislation and prefers to blame Secretary Benson who rightly points out that he "is required by law to continue discredited measures which will lead the wheat program one step closer to disaster." The result is that the producer is dependent on government rather than on markets.

U.S. Business Needs Its Foreign Branches

More than 3,000 American companies, including 99 of the nation's 100 largest industrial corporations, have opened branches in foreign countries. Also represented are a growing number of American management and consultant firms, engineering and contracting concerns and U.S. banks and insurance companies.

★ ★ ★

From these operations American business makes a profit of well over $3 billion a year, says Editorial Research Reports. Of the $25 billion invested abroad over $8 billion is in manufacturing, double the amount of 10 years ago. Latest available figures show that $3.5 billion is invested in Canada, $2 billion in Western Europe, $1.7 in Latin America and small amounts elsewhere.

Only 10 years ago non-military U.S. exports were equal in value to the $12 billion worth of goods produced abroad by American companies. By 1958 foreign sales had reached $30 billion while exports were only $16 billion.

Opportunities to increase profits are inducing businessmen to establish these firms. Lower labor costs and special factors abroad have persuaded American manufacturers to produce there instead of exporting U.S. made goods.

There is another reason now. The European Common Market (ECM) has created a preferential tariff among its six member countries with a total population of 165 million. Eventually they will have free trade with one another behind a common tariff wall on imports from the outside.

The obvious advantage is that American firms having production facilities in any of these countries will have tariff-free access to all ECM members. Plans are developing to extend the free trade area in Europe and to establish similar regional markets in Latin America.

In self-defense American business is compelled to open more and more foreign branches.

BY FAR the greatest cause of "that tired feeling" is working. People should avoid work whenever possible —in some cases, oftener than that.

The Man About Town

Help Bulldozers

Pontiac Product Is Tops in Assisting Earth Movers

Fourth: When you should drive as if you didn't have an appointment in a hotter place.

The GMC trucks manufactured in Pontiac are a major factor in building the St. Lawrence Seaway. In conversation with the superintendent of a big fleet of bulldozers working on the Eisenhower dam, I learned that the Seaway never could have been developed had it not been for the great improvement in earth moving machinery during very recent years.

The present day bulldozer can move mountains and has practically done so on the Eisenhower dam which is claimed to require more earth moving than any other project in America, except the Grand Coulee dam.

A necessary adjunct and follow up to the bulldozers are the trucks, and this superintendent said they now use only those made by GMC. All other makes have been discarded for not being equal to the task. Many hundreds of them are plugging away on the Seaway.

So, here's another Pontiac first. Congratulations to General Manager and his thousands of workers at Pontiac's own GMC Truck and Coach Division.

Philip J. Monaghan

Writing me from Nome, Alaska,

Fred Fulsom,

formerly of Pontiac, says: "Gaze at the northwest horizon on the night of July 4, and you should see our fireworks in celebrating the big event when Alaska becomes a state. Fred also states that the town's slogan is of Waterford. He phones that if "Knee high by the Fourth of July" is applied to his corn, the knee would be that of a giant 18 feet tall, as the corn tops seven feet.

"There's no place like Nome."

Evidently a man for figures, who also knows how to grow corn, is

Here's my personal congratulations to Pontiac, as consents to lead our centennial celebration. First suggested by this column nearly five years ago, it now is assured of success, as Stu. doesn't have anything else in his makeup.

Food For Thought

David Lawrence Says:

Ike's Political Stand a Wise One

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower may want to see Vice President Nixon nominated to succeed him, but he will never say so.

Careful reading of the President's remarks at his Wednesday press conference reveals that he did not really take a neutral stand, as has been widely reported. He did refuse to be put in the position of dictating to the Republican National Convention as to the "procedures," but this is in keeping with his concept that Presidents must not attempt to control a national convention. Eisenhower's exact words were as follows:

LAWRENCE

"Well, I think it would be too much to think that a man's sentiments and ideas were completely neutral. I have said time and again that the Republican Party, in my opinion, has brought forward a group of able, capable men of vigorous years and that any could be selected with honor to himself and to the party.

"But I certainly shall never, so far as I am able, indicate publicly, to anyone, or privately, the details of the procedures, well, that will bring about some nominee, because I don't think it is correct or right."

Eisenhower is following tradition. No President likes to be accused of dictating the choice of his successor, though President Theodore Roosevelt did it in 1908, and the accusation was widely proclaimed that William Howard Taft was a hand-picked nominee and that the convention itself was a "steamroller" affair.

★ ★ ★

Nowadays, especially since presidential-preference primaries have been introduced in several states, each national convention likes to feel that is is free and unbossed. Eisenhower's remarks will help to give the impression that the 1960 Republican convention is to be of that kind.

HAS PREFERENCE

But when the President said that "it would be too much to think that a man's sentiments and ideas were completely neutral," he was doubtless thinking in a very natural, human way about the policies of his own administration.

Could he favor a candidate who has only a lukewarm feeling about the policies of the Eisenhower regime? Wouldn't he naturally feel closer to the candidate who has been and is willing to go down the line in 100 per cent, or almost that high a percentage, approval of what the Republican administration has accomplished in eight years?

In the campaign last year for the governorship of New York State, Nelson Rockefeller was advised by some of his supporters to avoid endorsement of the national administration or any campaigning on its record. At that time such a course was deemed politically wise. Since the 1958 elections, however, there is believed to have been a change in public opinion and the national administration undoubtedly has gained in popularity.

Certainly anybody who expects to get the Republican presidential nomination in 1960 cannot afford to be lukewarm now about the Eisenhower administration's record. He must either be strongly for it or risk defeat.

RACE COULD AID GOP

Gov. Rockefeller has not yet announced whether he will be a candidate for the presidential nomination, but a race between Vice President Nixon and the New York governor might actually benefit the party at the polls. For it would be a wide-open contest, without presidential dictation, and, if Nixon were finally chosen, he would benefit immesurably from the support that probably would be given him by Rockefeller in the election campaign.

Also, whatever Rockefeller did to help the ticket would build up his own standing with the rank and file of the party for the future. Thus, if Nixon lost in 1960, Rockefeller could expect in the 1964 contest support from the Nixon people.

Eisenhower is, of course, a close friend of both Nixon and Rockefeller. But, while he cannot say so, it is natural for the President to want to see the vice president chosen.

The Country Parson

"We're so used to putting coins in slots to get things we sort of expect the Lord to give us something for each coin we drop in the plate."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Give Infant Lots of Love, Less Smoke and Confusion

"Let me assure you, Dr. Brady, that you have one reader who believes what you say. Especially about babies and older children.

"I am thirty. We have six children ranging in age from 6 months to 11 years. Our last little girl had colic for about three weeks — my first experience with that and I was very alarmed.

DR. BRADY

"Now I wish your readers could know how much good a little more attention—more quiet, less smoking in the room where baby sleeps, a proper bath, powdering of baby's back and gentle play before putting on the baby's nighty and tucking her in her crib for the night — will do in such cases. All of this on regular schedule, so that the baby is off for Land of Nod by 5 or 5:15 p.m. at the latest.

"Your teachings have been of tremendous help in the raising of our family. Every time I tend my chubby, healthy, cuddly, happy baby I thank you—(Mrs. L.G.)"

★ ★ ★

In the new BETTER BRADY BABY BOOK (35c and a stamped, self - addressed envelope) I repeat what I have said in a dozen earlier editions.

Old - fashioned kids uniformly had colic,

While up - to - date babies just chortle and frolic.

That nineteenth century authority on the care and feeding of infants, Doctor Holt, appeased the neighborhood busybodies by ascribing the imaginary infantile "colic" to "irritation by undigested food in the intestine."

Certainly there is undigested food in the intestine. If not, the baby is not long for this world.

ANOTHER 'AUTHORITY'

Another authority, a generation after Holt, by the name of Griffith, magisterially asserted that "colic is usually due to distension by gas." This is as preposterous as Holt's notion was. The truth is that, whether in infant or adult, most of the "gas" is air that has been swallowed, a little at a time, until stomach or intestine is appreciably distended.

We'll explain why the air is swallowed in a piece to follow. Here, suffice to say that any pain or discomfort associated with "gas" is certainly not due to the accumulation of air or gas.

There's a wholesome lesson for a million, poorly educated mothers in Mrs. L. G.'s description of her care of the baby.

What Mrs. L.G. says about smoking in the house where there's a baby should interest a good many young parents whose schooling did not cover such a homely subject as "Care of the Baby."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Crane Promotes Church Camps

Billy's father should be glad Billy wants to attend this Church camp, for it will pay rich dividends all through Billy's later life. Our five Crane children spent six years apiece at church summer camps. They are the best recruiting spots in modern times for moral leaders, so back them 100 per cent.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE B-477: Billy J., aged 15, lives on a farm.

"Dr. Crane, I want to attend our church summer camp," he began

DR. CRANE

"A dozen or more of the other kids in our Young People's Society are going, and they want me to join them.

"We are to take classes on various church subjects in the morning and then have the afternoons off for sports, etc.

"But my dad thinks I shouldn't spend the $20. Besides, he says he needs me on the farm. Can't you help me persuade him?"

CHURCH SUMMER CAMPS

Parents, by all means send your children to a church camp for a week each season.

Let them work extra hours during the other weeks in the summer to make up for this lost time, if you are hard pressed for manpower, as Billy's father indicates.

But send the kids to a church camp. Here's why:

(1) It will probably offer them more religious inspiration than they will obtain during all the other 51 weeks of the year they are at home.

For the leaders at church camps are specially trained. And they have a homogeneous group (all of about the same age and interests).

So they can produce mountain top emotional experiences that the teenagers may never experience at home.

Teenagers will never forget those high moments of religious idealism. At such times they may then make their vocational choices of some altruistic career, as in teaching, nursing, medicine, YMCA or CYO, or the pulpit.

Mrs. Crane and I sent all of our five children to church summer camps, beginning when they were seventh graders and continuing all the way through senior high school (six years apiece).

And we are so certain of the lasting religious values of such summer church camp experiences, that, ever since then Mrs. Crane has offered to pay half the costs for any or all other youngsters in our church who wish to attend.

RELIGIOUS IDEALISM

(2) A second value of church camps is the fact they catch youngsters in the teens, when youth are naturally most idealistic.

That is a time when their altruism and religious enthusiasm are at the highest peak. If caught at this crest, they can be buoyed up all throughout later life as surefire religious sparkplugs of their local churches.

(3) The week away from home helps prepare them for the psychological shock they will obtain when they leave for the university.

Thousands of 18-year-olds flunk out of college the first term largely because of homesickness (nostalgia).

They haven't been weaned away from mamma's apron strings. So this week at summer church camp during their early teens is admirable insurance for a more successful college career.

(4) The young folks meet others from all over their state and thus obtain a more cosmopolitan outlook. Racial bias is lessened and greater understanding of foreign peoples is encouraged.

(5) Those who attend the church camps return as more enthusiastic

And they help sparkplug church activities; make surveys and act as more enlightened aids to their local priest or pastor.

So urge all children to attend church camps. You oldsters might imitate Mrs. Crane's policy and offer to help "grubstake" deserving kids by furnishing half of their expenses during their week at camp.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a 10c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Reader Moved by Story of Child Stricken by Polio

The story of little Theresa Parker was heart-breaking. When a child is stricken with polio, every second counts before treatment is started. It's truly too bad the doctor who refused treatment because of a $31 past due bill can't be named.

★ ★ ★

I worked for two Keego Harbor doctors a couple of years ago and it would shock the public to know how much money both these men had outstanding. Yet neither one ever looked at the chart to see if a patient were "paid up" before seeing him.

★ ★ ★

We're now in the polio season. The public should be told what to look for and where to take a child if stricken. My own son was stricken five years ago and I believe he can walk today only because of the fast action given him by the Kenny Center. I'm grateful.

'Yet They Pan Women Drivers'

And they pan women drivers! Let me tell you the bit of masterful masculine artistry at the wheel I witnessed today. A long line of cars were advancing about 60 miles an hour in a designated 35 mile zone (I, too, guilty).

Everyone was rushing to work, when, with a roar and rush of wind, a big station wagon whipped around everyone else, not only exceeding the limit like others, but doubling it.

A traffic light delayed him long enough for the queue of cars to catch up. As the light changed, he cut off the motorist at his left and zoomed straight down Walton, entirely heedless that he had caused his brother motorist to stall and delay the line of traffic. This is good driving?

Ike Presents New Flag

WASHINGTON, (AP) — President Eisenhower announced that the first 49-star flag will be raised over Independence Hall in Philadelphia, tomorrow, July 4, and then taken to the state capitol in Alaska.

Eisenhower presented the flag Thursday morning to Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa) at the White House at a ceremony attended by Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton.

The flag, made in Philadelphia at the Army Quartermaster's Depot, was used in the White House ceremony on Jan. 3 when Eisenhower signed the proclamation admitting Alaska into the union at the 49th state.

The White House made public a letter sent by Eisenhower to Alaska's governor, William A. Egan. He said:

"Sen. Scott will present this flag to the mayor of Philadelphia on July fourth for display over Independence Hall on that day.

"From there I understand it will be carried to you to be flown over your state capitol, after which it will be deposited in the Alaskan state museum.

"I would like to express my great pleasure at being able to convey through you to the people of Alaska the first flag of new design in 47 years."

The first official raising of a 49-star flag will be held July 4 at Ft. McHenry in Baltimore, where Francis Scott Key wrote the Star Spangled Banner. It will be flown there at 12:01 a.m.

TV, Musicians Don't Jive, Says Kenton

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — An all-music show, unbroken by dog acts and unspiced with jokes and funny sayings, will never make it on television. Not even if it's great symphony. Certainly not if it's pure jazz.

"Music is for in-person and for phonograph records," said the expert glumly. "It does not go along with sitting like blobs with a can of beer in the parlor."

The expert is long and thin and sad of eye, and his name is Stan Kenton. Today's jazz lovers, aged 30 to 50, sharpened their dancing heels on his music beginning in 1941. There have been lean years for bands, even of the excellence of Kenton's, with TV and records keeping the people lazing in living rooms. Television, we presumed, could return them to eminence.

"Nope," he said flatly, "musicians have no place on TV except in the background. And they never will. I've been asked, if you could have any kind of music show on TV, what would you pick? I'd pick nothin'.

"It is suicide to hold an audience with a picture that goes with music. The picture destroys the imagination that goes with listening to classical records, and the home environment destroys the action — or dancing — instinct of people who want pop music or jazz.

"The only successful band on TV has been Lawrence Welk, and I don't think it's 'music' that made the show. I don't know what it is. But it can't be just music or why would Guy Lombardo have flopped so thoroughly?"

In spite of his attitude ("it's realistic," he claims, "not pessimistic") Kenton continues his long-term fight to encourage talented kids to take up an instrument and try to blast their way to a decent income in the modern music field.

"Money and security aren't everything. In fact they're nothing, if you're a musician. You can't miss what you've never even observed. But happiness is important—and show me the good musician who's given up the racket, and settled down for money, who's got it."

God takes care of musicians anyway, Kenton thinks. Or, in other words, "If you can really swing, somehow you're never real broke."

In honor of this philosophy, he is opening the first "Stan Kenton Music Clinic" at the University of Indiana July 26. He's gathered some of the most prominent, and active, jazz and classic men he knows to share their knowledge with 200 musicians from 14 through college age.

"It's the wildest," he says. "None of these great bandmen wants a cent—and none of them is getting it." That, of course, includes himself.

★ ★ ★

The clinic will coach on every aspect of today's music picture, including rock and roll, which Kenton calls "the kindergarten of jazz."

"Rock and roll is the pre-16 kids' training for jazz. After 16 your nerves get edgy with rock and roll, and you turn to better stuff . . ."

They are taking in only "grade a talent" apprentice musicians, and Kenton probably will advise them of the facts of money. Like, "There's always a lot of talk about bringing back 'big bands' to America, but it will be a long pull, if ever. But I guarantee, jazz is always very stable and very consistent, and talented people always are very scarce.

"So if you become a professional musician, and you're good, your wife won't be weighted down with minks—but there'll always be a place for you somewhere."

GOP Senator Is Upset at Ike

Aiken Says President Invites Heavy Cuts in Foreign Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican senator said today that President Eisenhower has invited heavy cuts in his foreign aid program by "pulling the rug from under its strongest supporters."

The comment came from Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a supporter of foreign aid. Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark), another backer of the program, also expressed disappointment.

Aiken told an interviewer Eisenhower "won a costly victory" by blocking Senate efforts to shift financing for the development loan program from congressional appropriations committees to borrowings from the Treasury.

The Senate took a holiday recess Thursday night after a day of debate in which it adopted, by voice vote, an Eisenhower-backed two-year, two-billion-dollar program of foreign economic development loans to be financed by congressional appropriations.

It was a compromise offered by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), the Senate majority leader, and Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill). The Foreign Relations Committee had proposed a five-year, five-billion-dollar Treasury-financed program.

Guests Will Not Linger if Crowded

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is to be married soon. There will be about 80 guests invited to the reception which we would like to have at home. We could accommodate about 40 people quite comfortably, but more than this would be impossible at one time.

"I was wondering if the guests could be split into two groups. In other words, have the hours one to three put on some invitations and three to five put on others. Will you please give your opinion?

Answer: I don't see how you can divide the group in two because the guests in the first group are not likely to leave until the bride and groom leave. The only thing to do is to remove as much of the furniture as possible and invite them all for the same time. Those who find it too crowded will probably leave soon after greeting the bride and groom —thus making room for others.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My fiance and I are having a disagreement about the following: We are to be married in about a month and we are going to have a small wedding with just the immediate families in attendance.

"I feel that because we are having a small wedding we should sent out announcements of our marriage to friends and relatives who will not be at the wedding. My fiance feels that we should not because it will seem as if we are asking for wedding gifts. We would appreciate your advice on this matter."

Answer: Your fiance is mistaken. A wedding announcement requires no gift or acknowledgment and is sent to all your friends and relatives who are not invited to the wedding.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the proper way to eat watermelon when served at the table?"

Answer: Watermelon is cut into large size pieces and usually eaten with a knife and fork. Or if with fork alone, then cut it piece by piece with the side of fork, remove seeds with tines, and eat it.

"Dear Mrs. Post: In this morning's mail I received an invitation to a "Silver Tea." Never having been to a Silver Tea before, I would like to know how this differs from an ordinary tea and just what is expected of me?"

Answer: A "Silver Tea" is always given to raise money—usually for a charity, and you will probably be expected to pay silver for admission as well as for whatever you eat with your tea.

Dear Abby:

Wise to Discuss Terms of Will Before the Wedding Ceremony

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a widower who is marrying a widow as soon as we can agree on a date. I have enough money to live very comfortably and I know she has, too. We each have children and grandchildren by our former mates. My lawyer suggested I have her sign papers stating that if I die first I will provide generously for her — but my own children will inherit my money. I am willing to sign a statement stating if she dies first, she can leave everything she has to her own children. Will I insult her if I make this request?

SECOND MARRIAGE

ABBY

DEAR SECOND: Your lawyer's suggestion is sensible and I advise you to follow through. If the lady objects, she is no lady.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: A couple in town invited two other couples to dinner and the theater on a Dutch-treat basis. He is an executive with a very large and well-known business firm. The "host" and "hostess" charged all the dinners to his company (as a "business expense" I presume) and we learned later from a reliable source that they got the theater tickets the same way. Then they collected from their "guests" in full. This trick was performed by people who want to assume leadership in our community. How do we show our disapproval and how cheap is cheap? TAKEN

DEAR TAKEN: If you feel you have been "taken" you can show your disapproval by having nothing more to do with these people. Nobody knows how cheap cheap is, but sometimes it's pretty expensive.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: What has become of the machine permanent wave? I have paid all sorts of high prices for permanent waves and they are no good — any of them — for fine hair. After one shampoo, the wave is gone. Could you advise me, please?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Occasionally an old-fashioned permanent wave machine can be seen gathering dust in the back room of a modern beauty parlor. Ask the manager if there is anyone who is old enough to remember how to operate it.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am 11 years old. I am a boy. Our whole class took pictures at school. Mine came out terrible. I look like there is a fly on my lip. Anyway that is not my problem as the pictures didn't cost but 50 cents.

There is this silly girl who goes around telling everybody she is my girl. She is always kissing on my picture. I didn't give her my picture. She traded a boy for it and gave him a dime. How can I stop this silly girl from kissing on my picture? JULIUS

DEAR JULIUS: You can't stop her from kissing on your picture but pretend you don't notice it and she might stop. Girls can be awfully silly the first 11 years. Pretty soon it will be your turn.

Some Boys Insist on Going Steady

By RUTH MILLETT

"It's not always the girl who is the one that's anxious to go steady as you implied in your columns," writes a 17-year-old miss.

"I've been going with a boy for a year, going steady because it was his idea in the first place. We both just graduated from high school and both of us plan to go to the state university this fall.

"I told him I would not go steady with him in college. I'm in love with him right now, but I would like to be able to have dates with others in college.

"But he not only insists that if I don't go steady with him he won't date me at all, but says he wants to give me an engagement ring so that nobody will even ask me for a date.

★ ★ ★

"What can I do but take his ring? I certainly don't want to break up with him completely."

You can stick by your wise decision, of course. Tell him that you don't want anyone's engagement ring until you are ready to set the date for a wedding.

And tell him, too, that much as you think of him you intend to date other boys.

If he won't accept those conditions and insists he would rather have some other girl who is willing to give him all her time, then he can't be very seriously in love with you. All you will have lost is a steady date you don't want to go steady with.

If he is in love with you he'll continue to date you on your terms.

★ ★ ★

So you don't have much to lose by sticking to your decision not to start college already engaged. But you might have a lot to lose by getting engaged and missing the chance to know a lot of young men, just because one young man tells you, "It's either my terms or nothing.

'What Young People Think'

Boredom Breeds Trouble for Teenagers

BY EUGENE GILBERT

The juvenile delinquent who wields a knife in a gang rumble probably has something in common with the youngster who does nothing more criminal than snitch a few apples from a neighbor's orchard.

★ ★ ★

Both may be seeking only thrills.

The search for kicks is an important part of the teenager's way of life, although fortunately few go the lengths of viciousness to find them.

For those who deal with young people it's something to keep in mind, especially when time is apt to hang heavy, as during a vacation season.

DELIBERATELY SOUGHT

Four out of five of the young people who took part in our latest poll admitted they deliberately seek thrills to give a lift to what they think are otherwise humdrum lives.

"What else is there to live for if you don't seek thrills?" asked 14-year-old Dick Fagan of Dallas.

"This mechanized age is a drag," complained Scott Bradford, 17, of Exeter, N. H.

"We are a minority group and everybody lets us know it." is his view of why the young folks kick over the traces.

The average juvenile delinquent, seven out of eight youngsters told us, is also a thrill-seeker but somehow his search has taken a wrong turn.

'TROUBLE A THRILL'

"They think getting into trouble is a thrill," said Steve Gavaghan, 13, of Denver.

"It's dangerous and appealing to showoffs," said Sue Hallgren, 16, of Detroit, but still she said she regards speeding in a car as a thrill.

On the opposite side of the fence stood Ronald Fournier, a Hartford, Conn., 15-year-old, who looks upon hot rodding merely as "a means of getting killed."

Next to a speeding automobile, the young folks get their biggest kicks out of going to parties (22 per cent), friends of the opposite sex), (19 per cent), dancing (15 per cent) and new experiences (14 per cent).

Boy friends, parties and dancing rate 2-3-4 with the girls while with the boys it was parties, new experiences and girl friends in that order.

Do the young folks of today seek thrills harder than their mothers and fathers did when they were young?

The teenagers themselves don't think so. Nearly three out of four said they don't feel thrill-seeking has changed very much.

★ ★ ★

"The only thing that changes from age to age is the method of thrill-seeking," Gregg Wilson, 16, of Jackson, Mich., told us.

"Teenagers are basically the same no matter what the generation," said 18-year-old Nancy Jordan of New Rochelle, N. Y.

On the other hand, about one in five think there is more thrill-seeking among the young people of today.

"They (today's youngsters) are bored because they have more leisure time," said Guy Darst, 18, of Harlan, Ky.

But, the teenagers agreed, there'll come a day when they will no longer seek thrills. More than four out of five told us they think people grow out of it.

"They become older, duller, more obese and inactive," said A. P. Delacorte, 16, of Hartford, Conn.

Bending Will Reduce Waist

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The Question Box

Q. "What type exercises should I take for reducing the waist but not the hips? I do not want my hips any smaller."

A. The bending exercises are waist-slimming and most of these have little or no effect on the hips.

Q. "I am 11 years old and am 4 feet 9 inches tall. I weigh 84 pounds. Am I too fat?"

A. No. You are just about right.

Q. "I have a problem. My friends think I am plump or just plain fat. I am 5 feet 5½ inches tall and weigh 136 pounds. My bust measures 36 inches, waist 25 and hips 37. I am 14 years old and have a small frame."

A. Your measurements are in very good proportion but you are a little overweight. Cut out in-between meal snacks and candy bars and desserts until you lose five or six pounds.

Q. "Can you tell me what to do about small veins in my face? They are ruining my complexion and look awful. Please answer in your column since I am most anxious to know what causes them and what to do about them."

A. No one seems to know just what causes this condition. There have been many different theories. However, you can have them removed by a dermatologist. You also can cover them up fairly well. If you would like to know the name of the product, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to me in care of this newspaper.

Q. "My husband thinks I am overweight. I believe that I weigh just what I should. I am 18 years of age, am 5 feet 5½ inches tall, have a medium frame and weigh 120 pounds. My bust measures 41 inches, waist 25 and hips 37. Please give us your opinion."

The bending exercises are waist-slimming and most of these have little or no effect on the hips.

A. Your husband must be hard to please. By no possible calculation are you overweight.

Q. "I am 18 years old and I have a problem. I am very shy and awkward when I am on a date. I would like to overcome it. Please tell me how I can break away from being so shy."

A. Make an effort to get your date to talk about himself. Find out what he expects to do career wise, what hobbies he has and what sports he likes. If you are a good listener, you will be a success. By concentrating on someone else you will find that you forget yourself and are no longer shy.

Marshmallows Hold Pie Filling Together

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Here's a pie that takes little cooking and is a cool smooth treat. It's chocolate which is the favorite flavor throughout the country.

Mrs. Richard Miles, today's cook, has a job that keeps her busy part of each day. She likes to read and to garden. She is making a braided rug. She has two young children. She belongs to the American Association of University Women.

CHOCOLATE MARSHMALLOW PIE
By Mrs. Richard Miles

Crust:
1 cup graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons powdered sugar

Mix and line an 8-inch pie tin. Chill one hour to set. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes.

Filling:
20 large marshmallows
½ cup milk
2 ounces grated bitter chocolate
1 cup heavy cream whipped

Melt marshmallows with milk in double boiler until they are not quite liquid. Let cool, but do not let mixture get cold. Add to grated chocolate. Fold in whipped cream and fill baked and cooled pie shell. Sprinkle a few cracker crumbs on top of filling. Chill. Serves 6.

Lesson Learned From Misplaced Trust

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

An aunt has upset Mrs. J.'s little girl by telling her what her parents were withholding until she was older—the news that her older brother is her mother's child by a previous husband.

★ ★ ★

Writes Mrs. J.: "This woman has never liked me and has accused me of marrying her brother to get a home for my boy. But I never dreamed she'd deliberately try to injure me in the eyes of my little girl . . ."

Why didn't you dream of it, Mrs. J.? Why are you so shocked by this new activity of a malice that's been active before?

If we've had several experiences with another person's unreliability, we can't be angry with anyone but ourselves when he lets us down again. Instead of wailing, "Oh, I didn't know anyone could be so mean!" we need to think, "Why did I invite this betrayal?"

Usually we'll find that our misplaced trust is actually our childish belief in our magical power. The reality is, we can no more change a person's dislike of us into affection that we could change the baby tooth under our pillow into a dime.

The change has to be made by the disliking person himself. Yet many of us, though we think we've outgrown our baby faith in magical power, go right on believing we can change him into a liking person if we are just sweet and patient enough. And we feel angry shock when our virtue fails to reverse the psychological laws that control the resentful person, and he strikes out at us again instead of clasping us to his bosom.

If we're not willing to look at our secret belief in our magical charm, those who watch us get kicked in the teeth can only conclude that we enjoy it.

I am not going to conclude that about you, Mrs. J. So please examine yourself for belief in some superhuman power to make your sister-in-law love you when she can't. When you've located it, your feeling of helplessness should disappear.

You may, like others of us in similar situations, suddenly realize that your real relief lies not in altering this woman at all, but in altering what you can expect of yourself.

You've been disappointed, not by her exposure of the truth to your little girl, but by the exposure of your own misplaced trust of her. Which is fine. Now maybe you won't misplace it again.

Hal Boyle Says:

Desperate Man on a Diet Knows No Shame

NEW YORK (AP) — My 6-year-old daughter, Tracy, and I were down on the floor struggling for an object she held in her hands.

"Let go, kid," I told her. "I'll give you 50 cents for it."

"No, daddy, no," she cried.

"No, daddy, no! It's mine!"

Just then my wife, Frances, entered.

★ ★ ★

"What are you two fighting over?" she asked absent - mindedly.

"I was just teaching the kid a new judo hold," I said, rising.

"He was not, Mommy," said Tracy. "He was trying to take my cookie away from me."

"I wasn't trying to steal it all," I answered. "I was only trying to steal half of it."

★ ★ ★

Actually, that was a fib. I had meant to steal the whole cookie. And I didn't even feel ashamed.

Yep, I'm back on a diet again.

That's been my life for 22 years —three months on the chow wagon, three months off. Three months of building myself up, three months of tearing myself down. Three months of addition, three months of subtraction. Three months of living, three months of dietary dying.

★ ★ ★

This is my 88th diet. This time I went on it for a different reason. I thought I was getting hard of hearing.

"It's my ears, Doc," I told the physician. "I can't seem to hear what people are saying."

"Your ears are okay," he replied, after an examination. "The trouble with you is that you should weigh 170 pounds and you weigh 215. The extra 45 pounds are all on your stomach. It sticks out so far peope can't get close enough to make you hear them unless they shout."

★ ★ ★

"You heard me!" he shouted, cupping his hands. "Go on a diet!"

And so I have.

Everything reminds you of food. I catch myself stopping outside delicatessen stores just to read the names of the sandwiches in the window.

Twice a day I go out in the kitchen and watch the cat gorge itself. I'm hungry enough to eat a buffalo. That's why I don't dare go to the zoo anymore. They have a buffalo there.

"It isn't normal for anyone to be so interested in food after the age of 40," remarked my wife one day.

"Who is really normal over 40 anyway?" I asked her. "It isn't even normal to be 40."

Well, by starving all day and staying awake half the night counting calories instead of sheep, I have taken off 15 of those excess 45 pounds.

My stomach is shrinking. I am beginning to hear people better again. And you know what? Nobody has said one darned thing I haven't heard a million times before in my life.

By A. F. MAHAN JR.

DETROIT (AP)—A front-engine vs. rear-engine war has broken out among the big three of the auto industry.

It revolves around the smaller, compact cars General Motors, Ford and Chrysler plan to introduce this fall. None has indicated it plans to switch power ends on any current models.

GM's Chevrolet plans to introduce in October a rear-engined Corvair, and it held a news conference yesterday to emphasize what it termed stability, safety, handling and braking superior to that of conventional front-engined little cars.

Ford television commercials of late have featured the shooting of an arrow, and point out it goes straight to the target when principal weight is on the front end, but wobbles when weight is applied on the rear. Of course, it doesn't mention the Corvair, expected to beat Ford's small Falcon to the showrooms.

When he announced Chrysler's forthcoming Valiant, President L. L. Colbert said the engine would be up front, "where it belongs." And Chrysler will open an advertising campaign Monday for its French-built Simca on "the advantages of front-engine cars over rear-engine cars."

Chrysler's Simca campaign will assert that rear-heavy cars are harder to control when driving on an open highway; tend to "jack up" dangerously when taking fast curves, and generally have less luggage space.

To fend off zig-zagging arrows and an opening double-page blast, Chevrolet called from retirement its one-time chief of research and development, Maurice Olley, to point out what it terms superiority of the rear-power Corvair. Olley now is a consulting engineer.

He disclosed, in effect, that the Corvair will have both an aluminum engine and an aluminum transmission, with the engine a flat, air-cooled six-cylinder one with cast iron cylinder sleeves the only parts not of aluminum.

This lightweight metal, he said, will give the Corvair a weight ratio of 40 per cent on front wheels and 60 per cent on rear wheels, loaded or empty.

Conventional size cars, he said, generally have a 55-45 ratio empty and a 50-50 one loaded, while station wagons fully loaded frequently have 40-60 ratios and sometime trucks go up to 84 per cent on rear wheels.

He said the conventional vehicles get along smoothly and so will the Corvair — on 13-inch wheels fitted with long-cord, low profile tires mounted on wide rims and inflated to 16 pounds pressure in front and 26 pounds in rear.

He rated the forthcoming car's stability excellent and said its lightweight engine and transmission would give it good balance. There will be plenty of luggage room up front, he predicted.

Chrysler-Simca ads will offer a booklet with pages titled: cars with front-mounted engines usually have better balance; cars with front-mounted engines have greater driving stability; cornering is better with front-engine cars, and cars with front-mounted engines steer truer courses.

But Olley said none of these statements is necessarily so, and added that the Corvair will be safer and roomier than most its size. It will have a so-called unitized body with frame members an integral part of the body. Generally American bodies and frames are built separately and bolted together.

War Would Destroy Victors, Too

Pope Urges Nations Try Every Approach to Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII has appealed to the leaders of rival nations to "try every approach" for peace because a war with nuclear weapons would destroy victor and vanquished alike.

The Pope also appealed for Christians to unite. He urged the press, movies and television to counteract what he called a spreading tendency toward falsehood and immorality.

"Truth, unity and peace" were the subjects of his first encyclical letter to the bishops since his coronation eight months ago.

The encyclical began with the words "Ad Petri cathedram" — "Near Peter's chair." It was dated June 29, feast day of St. Peter, and was released for publication today.

The pontiff warned that if nations do not aim at "fraternal unity which must rest on the precepts of justice and be nourished by charity, conditions of gravest crisis remain.

"As a result, all prudent men complain and grieve that it seems to be uncertain whether the same events are moving toward the establishing of a solid, true and genuine pace, or are slipping in complete blindness toward a new and frightful warlike conflagration.

"We say in complete blindness: For if — God prevent — a new war breaks out, nothing else will await or confront all peoples, such are the dreadful armaments which our age brings into play but appalling destruction and ruin; and this, whether they are victor or vanquished.

"We therefore ask all, and statesmen in particular, that they ponder these matters prudently and earnestly before God the Judge; and, as a result, with genuine good will, be ready to try every approach which may lead to the essential unity. This harmony and unity, by which alone, we say, the joint prosperity of nations will undoubtedly be increased, will be able to be restored only when minds are at peace and the rights of all recognized, and due freedom shine forth for the church, for peoples, and for the individual citizen."

The Pope urged the leaders of nations to remember that "God created men not as enemies but as brothers."

He warned repeatedly and in plain language of the ruin which will result "if the fires of discord are set ablaze" again in a world which he said already has seen too much of war.

★ ★ ★

"Why prepare death dealing weapons against our brother?" he asked. "Already there has been enough strife among men. Already too many cemeteries of those fallen in war cover the earth's surface and solemnly warn that all should be, at long last, brought back to harmony, unity and a just peace."

Brando's 'Ugly American' Role Comes as a Surprise

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD—This morning, I am eating my words of a few weeks ago, "The only reason I can see for Marlon Brando being in 'The Ugly American' is that he is producer George Englund's best friend.'

Well, dear readers, Marlon Brando is set, sealed and signed to star in the William J. Lederer-Eugene Burdick best seller in a deal just completed among Ed Muhl, Englund and Marlon at Universal-International.

Brando's role is that of the too-trusting American diplomat who can't believe that his native servants in the embassy are secret commie agents. "The Ugly American" is a blast at many mistakes made by our representatives in a "legendary" East Asian country. It will be filmed in East Asia by Englund, who directs as well as produces, as one of U-I's biggest features of 1960.

Surprised to hear Laurence Harvey's voice on the phone. He's in town for just a week. He has the male role in "No Bail for the Judge," and while he's here he's doing "Arthur," for Hitchy's "Alfred Hitchcock Theater" TV series. Laurence says it's typically Hitchcock.

The plot of one of Hitchy's TV series gives me the creeps. It's a story of a man who grinds his wife up and serves her as chicken feed, but Hitchcock, you can be sure, will add a comedy touch to it. Comedy??????

"I work in Hollywood all week and then I'm off to London again on Saturday for the motion picture 'Expresso Bongo,' based on the well known play," said Laurence. His wife, Margaret Leighton, is due in New York for the Shakespearean season at Cambridge. She plays with Sir John Gielgud.

From Boston where Sam Goldwyn went to attend the premiere of "Porgy and Bess," he sends word that "Porgy and Bess" will be the first mature premiere. What Sam means by that is that there will be no lights, no starlets speaking on TV to say how great the picture is, no interviews with arriving celebrities.

In other words, Sam is patterning it after the Broadway premiers. One thing he won't be sorry about—every big star who is in Los Angeles will be present when "P & B" premieres here—they all bought their own tickets at $100 apiece.

I dont' know whether Sam's idea is good or not. It's a bit startling and a bit disappointing to the fans.

That oldie, "Joseph and His Brethren" again looms as a bright prospect for Tony Curtis—at least it's been under discussion for Tony after he finishes "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With," also for Columbia.

Tony's been looking over the footage shot for "Joseph and His Brethren" in the Holy Land made some years ago. He'd like very much to do it, and Sam Briskin would like to have him. If the boys get together the project will be under way early this autumn. Tony should be quintuplets to fulfill all the movie offers.

Ike Won't Censor U.S. Art to Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The brickbat-and-bouquet tossing over U.S. art to be exhibited in the Soviet Union has lost none of its steam.

President Eisenhower figured in the foray Thursday on a couple of fronts.

The President had indicated earlier that he wasn't exactly overjoyed about some of the works selected. He said he thought an American exhibit should display "what America likes."

★ ★ ★

But he added he wasn't going to censor the exhibit because of allegations that some of the artists represented have backgrounds of Communist affiliations.

★ ★ ★

The no-censorship stand got the full backing of the committee of four which had selected the art in the first place.

The committee told Eisenhower in a telegram that the collection is "not communistic, negative, or un-American." In its considered judgment, the group said, the exhibit presents the best and the most vital aspects of American art of our time.

Atoms are so small that two billion of them would fit on the point of a pin.

Newspaper Reveals Blackballing

Warren Banned Nixon

CHICAGO (AP) — The Tribune said today that Chief Justice Earl Warren blackballed an invitation to Vice President Richard M. Nixon to join in the American Bar Assn. meeting in London in 1957.

The Tribune, in a dispatch from Washington by Walter Trohan said it learned that Warren told the ABA president: "If you let that fellow in, count me out."

The paper said the ABA Board of Governors debated the matter but finally bowed to Warren's threat because the association had formally invited the chief justice and received his acceptance.

★ ★ ★

The Tribune said the story of Warren's political feuding with Nixon was detailed and confirmed by a former president of the ABA, who told the paper: "I do not want my name used, but if Warren sues I'll be a witness in court for you."

Nixon had no comment on the disclosure of the blackballing, the dispatch said.

The Tribune said: "The latest evidence of the deep split between the two Californians was uncovered as the capital continues to echo amazement over Warren's action in unbraiding the author of a Nixon biography at a Sunday night cocktail party here."

"Warren accused Earl Mazo, author of 'Richard Nixon,' of stepping 'over my body' in an effort 'to make Nixon president.' He called Mazo 'a damned liar' when the author denied intent to step on Warren."

The Tribune quoted the chief justice as saying he was handcuffed by his high office from engaging in public controversy or in politics. It said it had learned he had been successful in a behind-the-scenes effort to keep Nixson out of the political limelight by barring him from the London legal meeting in 1957 where about 5,000 American lawyers joined British lawyers in exploration of the common roots of their legal systems.

Warren has since dropped his membership in the ABA.

Moms Halt Bulldozers

IRONDEQUOIT, N. Y. (AP) — Twenty-five mothers staged a sit-down strike around two bulldozers Thursday to protest construction of a playground near their homes in this Buffalo suburb. After several hours, the bulldozer operators were sent home and the problem referred to the Board of Supervisors. The mother said the park would attract automobile traffic and the construction work would fill their homes with dust.

CHAPTER XXXII

Kathie had a hunch he would not want to show his face, and so she trained her flashlight on the dinghy.

None of her neighbors in the basin had made any response to her screams, and she could see now that there were no boats in her immediate vicinity showing lights.

But apparently the intruder had been afraid screaming would attract attention. Kathie would scream like a banshee if she heard him near the boat again.

She sat holding the flashlight for what seemed hours. Her whole body ached with inaction and the tension of concentration with which she had been listening for any sound that would tell her where the intruder was.

And still he made no sound, and still his dinghy remained where it was, tied up alongside the Wikiwiki.

★ ★ ★

Just when she felt she had reached the end of her endurance, a new sound caught her attention. It was the now familiar plop! plop! of oars. Then she gathered her courage and flashed her light in the direction of the sound.

Her ears caught the increased tempo of the oars, even as her light found the lone rower. She drew a deep incredulous breath. "Alex!" she cried. "Oh, Alex!"

Never had the sight of him been dearer. "Turn off your light!" he called. "You're blinding me!"

She turned her flash downward, spotlighting the dinghy tied alongside. That would tell him everything. He pulled out the flashlight he had carried with him then, and swept the waters around him. Apparently seeing nothing, he came swiftly on.

"Kathie!" he said, holding her tightly. "Don't tremble so, darling. Can you tell me what happened?" He led her below, and in the cabin she told him.

PAID NO ATTENTION

"And no one heard you scream?" Alex said, amazed.

"If they did, they paid no attention," she said.

For the first time, she heard Alex swear, softly but fervently. "The Merrills must be ashore. They're usually next door here, with two children and a cat."

"I wonder where my caller is?" Kathie said, shuddering.

"It's an easy swim to shore," Alex said, looking thoughtfully. "On the other hand, he might have swum to one of the sailing sloops moored around here and be hiding out."

★ ★ ★

Alex left the cabin, and Kathie followed him up on deck, where she watched him go all around the boat's rail, shining his light down into the black water.

"If he's still in the basin, he's lying low," he reported when he came back.

"Alex, how did you know I needed you so desperately? You must have heard my prayers!"

"Let's go below," he said.

She went ahead of him down into the cabin. She sat on the edge of her bunk, and Alex sat across the narrow space from her on the opposite bunk.

"You got the deed?" she asked him.

"Yes, Kathie. It was in my post-office box. I was right about it, too. I think I know who murdered Phineas Redd 40 years ago."

"It wasn't Uncle Job?"

STRONGEST FEELING

He hesitated, a peculiar expression on his face, and she had the strangest feeling. In a flash of intuition, or of divining his thoughts, she knew he had returned to the Wikiwiki because the knowledge he had gained made him fear for her safety. She sensed his reluctance to tell her that.

"Who, Alex?"

Suddenly she realized he had not even heard her. He was listening, his head bent forward. "Do you hear that?" he whispered, and she held her breath, listening.

★ ★ ★

There were stealthy sounds, but she could not at once identify them—not until there came the soft plop! plop! of quiet oars.

"He's come back for the dinghy!" Alex cried, jumping up. "Here!" he said, thrusting something into her hands. She looked down, dumbfounded, at a revolver.

"Don't let anybody aboard."

"But, Alex, where are you going?" she said miserably.

"I want that man." He was throwing the sharp whisper back over his shoulder as he moved on silent feet toward the stern of the boat.

"I want to take him to the police so they can make him tell who hired him. It may be the only way I can prove—" The rest of his whisper was lost as he lowered himself over the rail. Kathie stood holding the gun, listening to the heavy beat of her heart and the sound of the oars, gradually receding.

She was alone again.

It was like re-living a nightmare. She went back into the cabin and sat down on her bunk. She listened to all the sounds she had heard before, sorting them out in her mind with the same fearful apprehension: the slap of the buoy rope, the creak of some sailing sloop's mast, the soft scrape of two distant hulls as the current floated them alongside. And even the same star was shining faintly through the porthole.

It was all terribly familiar. The only difference was the gun she held in her nerveless fingers. And she knew, frightened, that she could never fire it.

Then a new terror came to her mind: Alex! Alex was chasing a thief, a desperate man, perhaps even a murderer! And he was unarmed. He had left his gun with her.

Not Too Early to Think About Autumn Chores

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — The chrysanthemums, the white clematis, called Virgin's Bower, and a second blooming of the hybrid tea roses are still ahead of us, yet this is the time when most gardeners start thinking ahead toward next spring and summer.

The calendar, the weather and the drowsy sounds of midsummer are all around us, yet it's not a minute too early to at least jot down on paper necessary autumn work.

How about, for instance, the lawn? Does it need patching up? Or is it such a mess of weeds, rocks and bumps that the best plan is to start all over again?

If major digging is in order, the best way to proceed is to get the digging, feeding and de-rocking over a month before new seed is sown.

That gives the earth a chance to settle. And for every lawn-keeper who doesn't live in the south, autumn remains the best time to start grass seed when there isn't competition from the sturdy annual weeds, when there's likely to be more rainfall, when the weather is growing progressively cooler.

But that's just the beginning of fall work. How about the spring perennials? Any of them need division and transplanting? That work must be done in the autumn if you would give them time to become established in new positions so that they are strong enough to provide their welcome early bloom.

DON'T FORGET BULBS

Don't forget the spring flowering bulbs, either, even if they have completely disappeared as their foliage has withered and blown away.

If there is transplanting to be done, it must be done in the fall—and it's certainly best to get transplanting jobs out of the way before you are confronted with the job of planting newly purchased daffodils and tulips, which can be done late in the fall.

And fall, of course, is the very best time to put in needed evergreens, shrubs, deciduous trees and perennial vines, and always with the idea of giving them time to put out roots before cold weather brings most growth to a halt.

Fall, which is not to far away, is really the most important time of the year for gardening, and unfortunately for most of us it comes on the heels of so much activity that we're pretty well worked out.

That's why, as far as I'm concerned, spring each year finds me annoyed with myself, for each year I neglect to do things which really need to be done, or I overlook a job which will make a difference to my garden many months hence — when its too late for the season at hand.

And, as if that weren't enough, there remains still plenty of current-season work to be done. Dormant Oriental poppies may be safely transplanted and divided as long as they are still resting.

GIVEN TIME

Peonies, which have been given several years in which to bloom and stubbornly refuse, may be transplanted into, hopefully, a happier location (and if they are happy and blooming, for goodness sake don't disturb them wherever they are).

The broadleaved evergreens should have special attention during dry spells—they are shallow rooted and need plenty of moisture.

Annuals now going into flower for the first time will benefit by a quick-acting feeding, carefully trenched beside the rows so the roots aren't burned.

Come to think of it, the best gardens are made in January—on paper.

Testing Your Garden Sense

A — A lawn may be cut out of existence with cutting which is too close. Too-close cutting leaves a plant so short that not enough remains to carry on the life processes and any adverse condition such as drought wipes out what is left. The proper cutting leaves grass one and one-half to two inches high.

Q — The foliage of our lily of the valley is browning. A friend says to pull it off and burn it.

A — When lily of the valley foliage turns brown it has no doubt completed its mission of supplying food for its continued existence. Any removal before it is dead will interfere with the flower crop next year. So do not remove the foliage until you clean up the garden in autumn. Spread fertilizer on the ground about the plants, then cultivate and water it in.

Q — The lower leaves of our hollyhocks are completely yellow and the blooms are not up to par. What is wrong?

A — Hollyhocks are subject to a disease called "rust." Severe infection causes the yellowed foliage and sickly-looking plants. Control by carefully dusting underneath the leaves with fine sulfur beginning very early in spring. Keep the new growth produced in autumn. Remove and burn all dead leaves and plants as soon as they finish blooming.

Trees Showing Evidence of Drought in Dry Climate

By WAYNE B. SIEFERT
County Horticultural Agent

Hot, dry weather is our deadliest enemy if we are trying to start a young tree. Usually more than half of the roots are lost when a tree is transplanted. This means half of its water supply is gone also.

The first symptoms of drought is small leaves and browning around the edges. Usually leaves begin to roll up also. If you see these signs, your young tree is going down for the third time.

Begin a regular watering program of the surrounding area. We want to encourage root spread, so we have to have a large moist area. Apply enough water to get at least 12 inches of soak in.

Pruning out a few branches helps lighten the load of the roots. If you see any weak inside branches, trim all of them out, leaving only strong, healthy branches.

FERTILIZE YOUR CLOVER

Did you know a regular lawn fertilized will discourage clover? High Nitrogen fertilizers like 10-6-4 or 10-3-7 will make blue grass grow vigorously, but clover is stunted.

If you want to develop a clover lawn, make your June fertilizer application 5-20-20 at the rate of 20 pounds per 1,000 square feet, and begin to give the clover a real break.

Squash Vine Borer is a fatal pest in home gardens. It's a sickening sight to look over the squash patch some late July morning and find most of the vines wilted and dying. At this stage, you are simply out of business.

If you have ever had this happen to you, let's make it the last. Right at this time a black and orange moth begins to lay eggs on the vines. When the eggs hatch, the grub begins to bore into the vine near the soil line.

Sprays or dust, using Methoxychlor or Rotenone will destroy the young grubs and many of the adult moths. Begin applications immediately and continue at 10-day intervals for three treatments. Concentrate especially on vines around the hill.

Parisians Less Hungry?

PARIS (AP) — Parisians are ready to forego their traditional two-hour midday meal break, according to a recent Chamber of Commerce survey. Half the people questioned said 45 minutes were all they needed.

Chlordane Controls Ants

Ants can still be easily controlled with chlordane. Either dust or spray the chemical on the mound or over the area where they are often seen. If the manufacturer's directions are followed, one application should give a year's control.

Snails Are Fine for Dining Table, but Not Garden

The garden snail dates back many centuries to Western Europe, where it was cultivated as a protein food. Today, snails—and their shell-less cousins, the slugs — attack flowers and vegetables in gardens across this country.

Snails and slugs thrive in moist climates. They resemble one another, except that slugs lack the external shells that cover snails. When the humidity drops to a point where the air is too dry for them, snails draw their bodies into their shells, seal off the opening and wait until the climate is right before they'll come out.

The most effective killer is a metaldehyde-arsenical bait such as Snarol, which comes in meal or pellet form for easy application. Follow the directions on the label, spreading the pellets or piles of meal in garden beds where the pests give you the most trouble. Or spread it along the property line.

Early Treatment

Use Spray Before Bloom

EAST LANSING — Spray or dust your flowers until they bloom, recommends Julius Hoffman, entomologist at Michigan State University. Early treatment helps prevent insect damage in late summer and fall. Also, many pesticides may injure open blooms.

Outguessing pests makes gardening fun, remarks the entomologist. He recommends spraying or dusting once a week until blooming time. And be sure that you cover the underside of each leaf.

Spider mites like hot weather. Malathion will control these tiny red mites for a few days after application. But kelthane, aramite, or dimite remain effective longer.

Aphids thrive on cool, moist days. Lindane effectively controls these pests. So do nicotine sprays where they are available.

Rose chafers appeared around June 1 this year, and they will stay through the first week in July, Hoffman explains. This long-legged, tan beetle has a reddish-brown head, a black undersurface, and a black stripe down his back.

DUST AGAINST CHAFERS

Dust against chafers with five per cent or 10 per cent DDT. Or you may spray with the equivalent of three tablespoons of 50 per cent DDT wettable powder per gallon of water.

Chafers fly many miles, so complete control is almost impossible, Hoffman says. The creatures may move in soon after you have sprayed. You can cover prize roses with a protective net.

Don't use DDT on delphiniums, privet or honeysuckles, the entomologist warns. Also, never apply malathion to petunias or members of the Juniperus Virginian family.

Lecanium scale eggs are now in small, brown blisters on the leaves of oak, arborvitae and other plants, according to Hoffman. The eggs form a white or pink dust if you break the blister. In a week or two, these eggs will hatch into crawling, sap-sucking insects. Malathion or sevin controls lecnium scale effectively.

Several all-purpose sprays are effective. One type has DDT plus a miticide like chlorobenzilate, aramite, or malathion. A second type includes lindane plus either chlorobenzilate or aramite.

Hoffman believes you can get good commercial all-purpose sprays. Check ingredients on the label. If you have a large garden, you may profit by mixing the ingredients at home. Your county extension office has detailed instructions.

Iris Season Is Lengthened by Growing Varities

Many gardeners grow and count the tall bearded iris as one of their favorite flowers. These beautiful specimens are prized treasures, but the shortness of the growing season is lamented by gardeners when only this one species of iris is grown.

The iris season in home gardens may be lengthened into six to ten months of glorious color by growing different varieties.

Iris reticulata offers fragrant snippets of purple even on snowy February mornings. Next to flower are the dwarf bearded types from March to May.

Pumila hybrids bloom faithfully in early spring, and later are the intermediates and the pretty newcomer known as Lilliput. Oncos and regelias bloom early and later, blending into the height of the season when so many irises overlap in bloom. The stately queens of the garden, the tall bearded types, flower for a five or six week season.

OPEN IN JULY

Iris dichotoma offers a different kind of entrancing spectacle start late in July when exotic little blossoms burst open like bubbles into flat-petaled wonders in late afternoon. It is aptly named the vesper iris.

Vines Are a Boon to Gardener in a Hurry

Fast-growing vines, flowering or foliage seem to be particularly designed for the gardener who is in a hurry. A few well-placed vines can give a new garden a look of maturity in just two seasons, says the June issue of Better Homes & Gardens magazine.

Versatile vines can be used for screening, either to give privacy or to block out views. Many, such as clematis and trumpet honeysuckle, provide superb flowers.

Except for a few vigorous types, vines are usually grown and sold in containers. This reduces the shock of transplanting and practically insures their success. Remove the vine, soil and all, from the container and set it at the same depth it grew originally. Backfill with fertile, well-pulverized soil—no sod.

Leave a watering basin, and water again every three or four days, advises the magazine. Shade the soil from hot sun with a mulch.

Put a permanent vine support in place as soon as possible after planting, for the vine to climb. Some vines will grow as much as 20 to 30 feet a year.

Epiphyllums Rival Orchids in Beauty

Epiphyllums, often called orchids of the cactus world are interesting house plants to grow and to propagate.

The flowers of this plant, says the current issue of Flower & Garden magazine, have beautiful coloring that often rivals and even excels that of the orchid.

Because the epophyllum is a native of the tropics, it must be grown in the home. Today, many hybrid varieties are obtainable, and the bushlike plants produce spectacular flowers in riotous colors.

They should be grown in clay pots in a light porous soil with only moderate applications of water.

May and June are the best months for flowers, and transplanting should follow these two months. Roots need to be somewhat bound in the pot for best flowering conditions.

PLANTS NEED REST

The plants need to rest during December and January. They go through this dormant period with very little water in a dark place. Buds will appear in March when watering, spraying and feeding should be resumed.

Surface Pond With Tile

If you're considering a fish pond to decorate a spot in your garden, give careful consideration to the materials you use in its construction. Many materials will discolor quickly under this kind of use and wil become more of an eyesore than an asset.

If you surface the pond with a material like ceramic tile, however, you can be sure that it can be easily cleaned and will stay lovely forever.

Steel Not the Only Hotbed of Industrial Bargaining

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The spotlight on steel is keeping much of the rest of this year's labor-management bargaining in comparative shadow.

But some important contracts already have been made—averaging under 10 cents an hour in wage and fringe benefits but running as high as 14 cents on average in the building trades.

Coming up for negotiations are new contracts in copper, aluminum, rubber and meat packing. A number of unions apparently are waiting to see what the steelworkers settle for before making their own demands public. About one million workers are getting pay hikes automatically due to contracts previously negotiated.

The importance of steel as a pattern-setter is stressed in the July letter of the First National City Bank of New York, which holds that "if wage-price spiraling is to be arrested, a major industry must set the example."

While many corporation presidents are stressing stiff resistance to increasing operation costs, most who are polled feel that labor costs in general will rise about four per cent this year.

This eventually will be spelled out in consumer terms by an average price rise of two per cent, top management estimates.

Pressure from Washington concentrates largely on making the big issue—in the eye of the public—inflation. The administration warns that wages and prices keep chasing each other—a rise in either one leading to a compensating rise in the other—with no end in sight.

Tied in with this has been the pressure for more mechanization —seeking to cut labor costs by turning more of the work over to machines.

To see what presidents of leading corporations think will come out of all of the bargaining and all the threats, the business management magazine, Dun's Review & Modern Industry, polled 125—seven out of 10 of them heading companies listed among the 500 largest industrial firms in the United States.

Four in 10 rate the top men in the union they deal with as excellent or good. And many of the others join in expressing respect for the union chief's capability, realism, toughness, honesty, maturity, conscientiousness or understanding of business.

But about a third doubt that union leadership is improving—in the sense that management uses the word. They cite cases of what they call growing union arrogance, corruption and strong-arm tactics.

The survey shows the prexies increasingly resisting demands for more fringe benefits, but more than half of the presidents expect this year's contracts to show fringe increases of from one to three cents an hour.

Most of the top men stress that industry can't control or create markets and demand and therefore can't guarantee employment. Four out of 10 believe management should make every possible effort to provide steady employment.

The tools usually mentioned are: "better production planning, use of overtime to meet production bulges, and building inventories during slacker periods."

Seven out of 10 think it's wiser for them to keep to the sidelines during actual bargaining sessions with labor. Many big companies have teams of trained negotiators. Usually the presidents keep silent during the contract talks.

Two out of 10 think the top man should speak out freely on the principles and policies behind the company contract offer.

'Russia Has 12 to 15 Big TU114 Airliners'

NEW YORK (AP) — The designer of Russia's huge TU114 airliner says 12 to 15 of the planes have already been built and "serial production" will begin shortly.

This report was given by Andrei N. Tupolev, the 70-year-old designer, who came here Sunday on a TU114 bringing Soviet officials for a Russian trade exhibition at the Coliseum.

Tupolev told newsmen the plane was the largest airliner in the world, the most economical and the fastest of turbine driven propeller craft. He said it can carry 170 passengers.

He said its speed of more than 500 miles an hour made it almost as fast as a pure jet.

Tupolev said the TU114 would be put into regular airliner service within three months.

He said Russia would be willing to sell the TU114 to other countries "but only in wholesale lots of 50 to 100." He declined to quote a price.

Yankee Doodle to Share Limelight

Huge 'Spectacular' Marks Lake Orion's 100th Year

By LEE WINBORN

LAKE ORION — Yankee Doodle's birthday is a dandy to shout about, but that's only half of it here.

Sharing honors with the nation's Founding Fathers are the first settlers in Lake Orion who are being remembered this weekend as the village celebrates its 100th birthday.

Today marks the official opening of the three-day "Centennial Spectacular" which will continue through Sunday and feature such varied activities as coronation of a queen, a water carnival, dedication of the new post office and contests for the best beard and for the best old-fashioned costume.

A much-anticipated feature of the opening day program will be announcement of the winner of the "Miss Orion" contest.

Intermission acts will include the Beatniks, the Teen-Tones, a pantomime by Marilyn McKenzie and a dance by the Christopher sisters.

A centennial tea and style show with hostesses in old-fashioned dress was scheduled for 2 p. m. today at the Methodist Church House on E. Flint street. Sponsor is the Senior Citizens Club.

Saturday's activities will start at 10 a. m. with the centennial parade which will form on N. Broadway at Lapeer street, continue down N. Broadway to Atwater street by the reviewing stand at the post office.

At 11 a. m., immediately following the parade, the new post office will be officially dedicated. Speaker will be Kenneth Rabidoux, chief of Post Office Quarters, Real Estate Division, Washington, D. C. An open house will follow.

WATER HOSE FIGHT

Beginning at noon there will be a water hose fight for children between 8 and 18 years of age. Youngsters also will have the added thrill of riding on the town's fire engines between Flint and Front streets.

Other afternoon activities, which will start at 1 p. m., will include pony rides, Walt Disney movies, rides and games, a tug o' war, an old timers' softball game and an archery exhibition. Helicopter rides also will be offered.

All these events will take place at Orion Community Center, which will be the scene of a barbecue roast all afternoon.

Its completion will mark fulfillment of a long-awaited dream for area residents, according to Centennial cochairmen Charles B. Starrs and William Kopp.

A centennial street dance is scheduled for 8:30 p. m. on N. Broadway between Flint and Shadboldt streets.

At 10:30 p. m. the beard and costume judging will take place with prizes to be awarded in both contests.

WATER CARNIVAL

The water carnival at 1 p. m. will feature a trick water skiing demonstration, swimming and rowboat races and log rolling.

Local churches will take part in a united church service at 7:15 p. m. at the junior high school athletic field.

Amusement rides will be open all three days, and the "Keystone Cops" and paddy wagon will be picking up bearded men without shaving permits, women wearing lipstick without a permit and others committing "offenses" contrary to centennial rules.

The "guilty" will be lodged in the old Orion jail set up in the center of town for the occasion.

Organizations sponsoring centennial events include the Community Center, Women's Club, Rotary Club, high school junior class, the American Legion, Lions Club, Fire Department, Saddle Club and Child Guidance committee.

Others are the Recreation Program Committee, Archery Club, National Guard, East Orion 4-H Club, Boat Club and Merry Makers Club.

PAYS FINE WILLINGLY — Among the jobs that keep Lake Orion Centennial Magistrate Paul R. Bryant busy is fining local citizens who fail to follow Centennial laws. Here Henry Vanitvelt of 3590 Indianwood Rd., Orion Township, pays a dollar for shaving off his beard before the weekend celebration begins.

'WANT A RIDE, KIDS?' — "Judge" Bryant helps two youngsters up on the fire engine to show them what they can expect for a thrill during the "Centennial Spectacular" this weekend. The children are Tommy McGee, 10, of 927 Long Lake Blvd. and Jeanine Ramalia, 6, of 555 Shady Lane. In the cab is Fire Chief Jack Caylor.

'DON'T TAKE HIM AWAY!' — Mrs. Jack Caylor pleads with "Judge" Bryant not to take her husband off to jail when he was found improperly garbed for the centennial. Her efforts were to no avail, however, and the fire chief was remanded to jail to await sentence.

'OK, I'LL RELEASE HIM' — After hearing an eloquent plea from the fire chief's wife for the release of her husband, the town's jurist bangs his mammoth-sized gavel, levies a "fine" and agrees to let Caylor out of the hoosegow. Besides, the chief was needed back at the fire hall where more children were waiting for rides on the fire engine.

Oxford to Talk Zoning, Mining

Proposed Price Hike for Mining Permits May Discourage Small Pits

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Rezoning of two parcels of land and a proposed increase in the charge for gravel and sand mining permits are the issues to be discussed at a public Zoning Board hearing at 8 p.m. today in the Township Hall, 18 W. Burdick St.

Zoning Board Chairman Roger D. Oberg said that the proposed change in mining permit charges would raise the initial fee from $50 to $2,000 and would establish a yearly renewal rate at $50.

This move, Oberg said would make it "unprofitable for fly-by-night operators to try and establish small pits in the township."

The Zoning Board wants approval to rezone two lots in the Berns and Olive subdivision on the east side of M24 from residential to commercial.

Those attending the hearing also will be asked to air their views on the rezoning of a 37-acre parcel on land located on Thomas road, east of M24, from agriculture to residential classification.

Leonard Man Faces Car Theft Charge

ROCHESTER — A 29-year-old Leonard man is in Oakland County jail today awaiting arraignment Monday in Circuit Court on a charge of stealing a car here earlier this week, Police Chief Samuel Howlett reported today.

Ronald F. St. Croix, of 4260 Baza St., waived examination before Rochester Justice Luther C. Green, who set bond at $1,500 which St. Croix could not raise.

St. Croix was seen by Rochester Patrolman Robert Cannon driving the car in question before it was reported stolen, Howlett said. It belong to Jack Jentzen of Second St., and was parked in front of his house before it was taken, the chief stated.

The day after the theft was reported, Cannon said he saw St. Croix again in Rochester and picked him up. The car was recovered.

Newly-elected officers will be installed Aug. 8 at the Royal Oak Legion Home. The next 18th District meeting is scheduled for 8:30 p.m., July 10, at the Milford Legion Home.

Southfield Has Enough Money

Will Buy Land for Civic Center

SOUTHFIELD — We have the money available to meet the down payment, reported Mayor Don Swanson yesterday.

He was referring to the $100,000 down payment to be made by July 30 for the 106-acre civic center site on Evergreen road.

The choice land, between 10 and 11-Mile roads, practically went for a song to the City of Southfield when the estimated $8,000 per acre price tag attached to it is considered.

The owners, James and Mary Thompson, have agreed to sell it to Southfield for $477,000 or $4,500 an acre. Real estate experts agree that the land easily will be worth $12,000 an acre in a few years.

"It's about the finest gesture I've ever seen," said Swanson. "The Thompsons are very fine people. They have gone through some awfully rough years. I think their intent to sell the land to Southfield was obvious, if we could just raise the money."

According to the Southfield Treasurer's Office, the city already has made a big step toward meeting the total payment. Taxes will help out, of course, along with Park and Recreation Budget Funds which total about $22,000 a year.

There was a $25,000 surplus left over from the 1958-59 budget which also made provisions for a $30,000 garage to be built. The building was never constructed, so the $30,000 and the money from a three mill levy for capital improvement for a total of $123,000 will go to the Thompsons.

Under the agreement with the Thompsons, the city cannot use the land for anything but civic purposes. A master plan has not been developed as yet, but the civic center will probably call for a new city hall, plus police and fire departments.

"The Civic Center Site Committee spent considerable time investigating other possibilities, but we had always hoped that this site would be available," said the Mayor.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Haahr, of 41920 Ryan Rd., Utica, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carla Joan, to Ronald R. Schell, son of Mrs. Neil Adams, of 451 Maple Hill Rd., Rochester, and the late Ben Schell. An Oct. 23 wedding is planned.

BONNIE JEAN SHERWOOD

Announcing the engagement of their daughter, Bonnie Jean, to David Kengerski, are Mr. and Mrs. Dean Sherwood of 596 John R, Rochester. David is the son of Mrs. Latney Mefford of 5451 Elmer, Center Line, and Stanley Kengerski of Belleview, Fla. The couple is planning a September wedding.

Baptist Church in Holly Scene of Nuptial Rites

HOLLY — Following a honeymoon in northern Michigan, newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bell will reside in Chicago. The couple was wed at First Baptist Church here with the Rev. Clyde Lee of Stanton, grandfather of the bride, officiating at the ceremony.

The bride, the former Esther Lucille Brown, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Clare Brown of 307 North St., here. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Forest E. Bell of La Grange, Ind.

A floor-length gown of summer satin featuring a pleated lace inset, ending in a chapel sweep in back and with a portrait neckline trimmed in sequins and pearls was chosen by the bride. A matching tiara secured her fingertip veil. Her bouquet of white roses was centered with a corsage of pink roses.

Alice Brown attended her sister as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Helen Bell, sister of the bridegroom, and Nancy Sisson, of Washington, a classmate of the bride. Karen Sue Cline, niece of the bridegroom, served as flower girl.

Claude Cline of LaGrange, Ind., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, attended as best man while Arvin Brown, brother of the bride, and Donald LeMaster, an uncle of the bridegroom, ushered.

GOODRICH—A 59-year-old bachelor school teacher from here is entertaining 39 girls as his guests in Chicago. They are former students of his at Gladwin.

Everything is on the up and up, however. The entertainment he's providing them is nothing in the lavish playboy style. Rather, it is an educational trip, well-chaperoned by three of the girls' mothers.

The girls, all high school sophomores, are spending five days in the big city, observing life in the slums among other things.

Their former teacher, Jay Ostrander who now instructs pupils in English and social studies at the Goodrich Junior High School, is picking up the girls' tab, including hotel and meal expenses, as well as for touring Chicago. It is estimated to mount up to $2,000.

★ ★ ★

This is the 23rd year Ostrander has brought a group of students to Chicago at his own expense. The present group arrived by chartered bus.

EXPLAINS WHY

Asked why he does it, Ostrander explained as he ushered his flock through the Museum of Science and Industry, "I'm a bachelor. I've been making something over $5,000 a year for some time. I have no car. I spend $10 a week on a room. I do my own cooking—what else would I do with my money?"

Ostrander said he got the idea of the trip years ago when he was driving through Louisville, Ky., got lost and ended up in a slum district.

He decided it would be a good idea for his young pupils to see city slums so that they would never end up there.

KEEPS HIS PROMISE

The girls he brought to Chicago are from the agricultural school at Gladwin where he taught until a year ago. He promised them the trip before making his transfer and he kept his promise.

★ ★ ★

He said with this group of girls he has brought a total of 1,000 pupils, 600 girls and 400 boys, to Chicago. For most of them it was their first visit to a big city.

Ostrander, who lives at 3340 S. State Rd., started teaching in Goodrich last September.

Rochester Teacher Studying Science

ROCHESTER — A Rochester Junior High School teacher is attending an intensive eight-week science refresher course at the Allegheny College — National Science Foundation Summer Science Institute, Meadville, Pa.

Ronald C. Stocker, of 301 Reitman Ct., Avon Township, was one of 60 teachers, selected from nearly 600 applicants, permitted to do graduate work and independent study in the natural sciences.

The program, now in its third year under a grant from the National Science Foundation, is designed to improve the teaching of science in secondary schools.

Maxwell Gives Tigers 9-7 Victory

Sisler Halts Chicago After 5-Run Ninth; Injuries Mount

DETROIT (UPI)—Charley Maxwell's fourth grand slam home run of his Major League career seemed inconsequential at the time, but it proved to be the game-winning hit.

Maxwell connected with the bases full in the bottom of the eighth inning last night to give the Detroit Tigers a 9-2 lead over the Chicago White Sox.

But Chicago scored five times in the ninth, with Al Smith contributing a grand slam homer, and the Tigers settled for a 9-7 victory.

"That's three I've hit for the Tigers with the bases full," Maxwell said. "I also had a grand slam homer with Boston before I came here."

The victory, Detroit's third straight and fifth in its last six starts, was tempered by another injury. This time Ted Lepcio was sidelined when he pulled a leg muscle while rounding second base.

He was the sixth Detroit player to be sidelined in a week. Frank Bolling went out with a cracked ankle bone, Al Kaline entered the hospital for corrective surgery on his cheekbone which was injured earlier; Lou Berberet was sidelined when a foul tip struck the middle finger on his throwing hand; Jim Bunning was knocked out when struck on the wrist of his pitching hand, and John Groth was sidelined with a pulled leg muscle.

Manager Jimmie Dykes used to say he had a weak bench.

"I haven't got hardly any bench now," he said after Lepcio departed for at least a week.

Bunning has recovered and will face the White Sox today in the finale of the two-game series. He has won seven and lost six. Early Wynn (11-5) will oppose him.

Detroit grabbed an early 3-0 lead in the third on a triple by Harvey Kuenn, a walk to Maxwell, a sacrifice fly and a homer by Neil Chrisley, his second in two days.

The Tigers made it 4-0 in the fifth on a single by Red Wilson, an infield out and a base hit by Rocky Bridges. But Chicago got two runs off Don Mossi in the sixth on singles by Nellie Fox, Sherm Lollar, Smith and Bubba Phillips.

A single by Gus Zernial, a walk and a throwing error by Luis Aparicio produced Detroit's fifth run in the seventh and Maxwell hit his homer after a single by Mossi and two walks in the eighth.

Mossi gave way to Dave Sisler in the ninth after two walks, singles by Fox and Jim Landis and Smith's homer had cut the tap to two runs. Sisler retired pinch-hitter Earl Torgeson and Earl Battey to end the game.

Mossi gained his seventh win against three losses while Chicago starter Bob Shaw dropped his third decision against six wins. Two of Shaw's losses have been administered by Detroit.

Hebert Brothers Join Bradley in Lead With 68's

Race Very Wide Open as Field Prepares to Be Cut Today

By BILL CORNWELL

GRAND BLANC — They're not hitting them from the back tees yet, but breaking par at monstrous Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club seems to be getting a bit easier for the touring professionals.

On opening day of the 1958 Buick Open Golf Championship, only seven pros managed to better par over the sprawling 36-36—72 layout which measures 7,280 yards at its fullest extent.

Sixteen circuit riders succeeded in shooting below regulation figures Thursday as the 2nd annual Buick Open tournament began its four-day 72-hole run with $52,000 in total prize money at stake.

Heading the race for the $9,000 first place purse with four-under-par 68s were the two Hebert brothers, Jay and Lionel, and a virtually unknown tourist named Monte Bradley.

Bradley, 28-year-old professional from Hillsboro, Tex., was undoubtedly the biggest surprise in yesterday's starting field of 152 golfers.

Playing his first year on the four after a two-year hitch in the Army, Bradley collected three birdies on the front nine and posted two more coming home for a 33-35 scorecard. He putted just 29 times.

An early starter, Bradley had seven one-putt greens and holed birdie putts of 30, 20, 15, 3 and 15 feet. His lone bogey came on the par three 222-yard 17th hole where he paid his only visit to a sand trap.

The Hebert clan from the Louisiana Bayou country, the strongest brother combination to hit the pro trail in a long time, has not won a golf tourney since early last year.

Lionel's last victory was at Tucson in February of 1958. Jay, who's 36 years old, captured the Lafayette Open the following April for his last win, although he has been steadily in the cash ever since.

Jay was the first to report and he turned in a 36-32 card. His incoming 32 tied the back nine's competitive course mark, which was set by Bob Rosburg in last year's 3rd round and equalled by Lionel on the final day. A four-way share of the record developed late yesterday when Bob Goalby matched it.

A 60-foot pitch shot over a trap that rolled into the cup for a birdie three on the 458-yard 15th was the highlight of Jay's round, which saw him sink "bird" putts of 15, 15, 2 and 8 feet. He picked up four birdies on the back side.

Lionel, Jay's junior by five years and a former National PGA champ, birdied six holes on his way to a 35-33 effort. Both Heberts had 30-putt rounds with Lionel one-putting six greens and Jay five.

★ ★ ★

Five pros were deadlocked at 70, including Goalby and Mike Souchak, one of the big pre-tourney favorites. Casper, the reigning National Open king who failed to survive the cut in last weekend's Chicago Open at Gleneagles and Slammin' Sam Snead, another tournament favorite, were part of an eight-way tie at 71.

Thirteen other players were even with par after Thursday's opening 18-hole round, among them Palmer and Gene Littler, popular betting choices.

It was a dark day beneath sunny skies for Pontiac's Gene Bone, the host pro at Warwick. Bone soared to an 80, taking 40 blows on each side, and 38 of those knocks were made by his putter.

A wide-open race was still in prospect as firing resumed this morning. The field will be cut to the low 100 pros plus six amateurs tonight, then reduced again tomorrow evening to the best 60 pros and six amateurs for Sunday's finale.

11-Hit Blast Trips Tribe; Birds Push Yanks to 5th

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Paced by Joe DeMaestri and Bill Tuttle, the Kansas City Athletics defeated Cleveland 6-4 Thursday night with an 11-hit attack and the help of shoddy Indian fielding.

The victory went to Ray Herbert, who gave up all of Cleveland's runs and 10 hits before Johnny Kucks rescued him from a jam in the eighth inning. The victory was herbert's fifth against eight defeats.

Cleveland used four pitchers in an attempt to quell Kansas City's bats, but only Jim Grant, who pitched the eighth inning, was successful.

DeMaestri hit a bases-empty home run, his fifth of the year, and a single. Tuttle collected three hits, including a 410-foot triple, and drove in two runs.

The Orioles beat Don Larsen (6-3) for the first time in 12 decisions since September 5, 1955, although they managed only five hits. They scored all their runs on three hits in the first two innings.

Bob Nieman followed Gene Woodling's two-out single with his ninth home run in the first, and winning pitcher Jerry Walker (6-3) drove in the other with a two-out bloop single in the second. Walker gave up six hits, losing his shutout in the fifth on Hec Lopez' homer. But he struck out 10, getting Mickey Mantle three times in a row.

Jim Lemon doubled home the tying run in the eighth for Washington, then broke it up with a three-run homer in the 10th off reliever Leo Kiely 2-2. It was Lemon's 19th homer and gave reliever Dick Hyde his first victory. Rookie Bob Allison hit his 21st homer for the Nats, who swept the three-game set. Marty Keough and Jackie Jensen homered for the Red Sox.

DEJECTION — It is pretty obvious to note how Boston Red Sox manager Mike Higgins feels in this picture. The dejected manager has denied reports he will resign even though the Red Sox are in the American League cellar.

No American Golfers Left in British Open

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)—The British Open golf championship went into the last 36 holes today without an American in the field — the first time that has happened for at least 30 years.

"Top Americans didn't come over this year," Charles Roe, secretary of the British Professional Golfers' Assn., said.

"And they won't come until the championship is changed from mid-summer to September. The Americans have too many valuable tournaments at home at this time of the year."

Fred Bullock, 40-year-old British professional who plays only occasionally in big-time golf, led the field at the 36-hole mark with 68-70—138. That was two strokes better than the total of Flory Van Donck of Belgium, and three better than the totals of Arnold Stickley, Reg Knight and Michael Bonallack of England, defending champion Peter Thomson trailed Bullock by 10 strokes.

The four Americans eliminated yesterday when the field was cut to the maximum of the 50 low scorers for the final day were Bob Sweeny, the amateur from Palm Beach, Fla.; Willie Goggin of San Jose, Calif.; Bob Watson of Ardsley-on-Hudson, N.Y., and John Garrett, an amateur from Houston, Tex.

Sweeny came the closest to making the last day. The 1937 British amateur champion missed the qualifying score of 148 by three strokes. He had had 78-73—151. Watson took 82-71—153, Garrett 76-80—156, and Goggin, world senior titleholder 78-80—158.

That's why the arrival at Muirfield yesterday of American Fred Corcoran, who helps in staging the Canada Cup world tournament brought a lot of speculation.

Corcoran was due to meet British officials today to discuss possible venues for the 1960 Canada Cup. Possibly it will be played in the British Isles, with Ireland the big tip for the tournament.

"In any case I'm hoping we shall get some of our leading Americans over for the Centenary of the British Open next year," Corcoran said.

A BOLT PUTT — Temperamental Tommy Bolt was having his putting troubles in the Buick Open yesterday. The former Open champ finished with a 77 for the first round. Here he sends the ball toward the cup on the second green.

Knights, PBI Easy Winners

Terry Hoy gave up three hits —two in the same inning — in hurling the KC tossers to a 11-1 conquest of Shaw's. A four-run 4th broke up a 1-1 contest.

The Rev. John Rakoczy paced the victors by getting on base everytime up on two singles, a walk and an error in the Class A game.

Ez Charles Fights Tonight

Charles, who as a challenger and as a champion participated in three of the largest money bouts in fight history, will meet Dave Ashley. Ashley was a preliminary boy when Charles was starting on his way to fame, and now is a cop in suburban Lockland, Ohio.

They will box 10 rounds or less in a high school gymnasium in Lincoln Heights, another suburb of Cincinnati, Charles will get a few hundred bucks. Ashley will get a bit and what is left will go to the Lincoln Heights Recreation Commission.

The Cincinnati Boxing Commission has no jurisdiction in the suburb.

Charles, now 37, says this will be the start of another comeback. He believes he is in fine physical condition.

Area Driver Burned at Metro Speedway

2 More Boats Seek Detroit Race Spots

DETROIT (UPI)—Two Detroit boats will try to raise the number of qualifiers for the Detroit memorial race to an even dozen before the race begins tomorrow.

The only two entries in the race that still had not qualified were Miss Detroit and Miss Buffalo.

Two other Detroit boats, Gale V and Such Crust III, raised the number of qualifiers to 10 yesterday as they sped around the course at 108 and 100 miles an hour, respectively.

Lightweights on TV

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Lightweight contender Johnny Gonsalves, who was fighting pro when Lennie Matthews was in grade school, tests the young Philadelphia slugger in a 10-round television fight tonight.

Doctoring Your Golf

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

Patient's Complaint: "Just can't putt a lick!"

Diagnosis: Timing is essential here, too!

TREATMENT: If you fiddle around too long lining up a putt and then stand over it so long that your muscles get tensed or cramped, you have just about lost any chance of making it.

Also, if you pay no particular attention to getting the proper line and then hit the putt too quickly—whether from anxiety or carelessness — you pretty much defeat yourself.

Here again we are seeking another of golf's many happy mediums. Get the line! Stay over the ball long enough to insure proper aiming. Make the stroke smooth, but solid.

Because of varying temperaments, some golfers putt more effectively by taking a good bit of time. Others do better if they take prompt action.

Jake Martz, Ex-Pro, Bags His 3rd Ace

Jake Martz, former area golf professional still hits 'em pretty good. Yesterday Jake, playing with two well-known area golfers, aced Silver Lake's No. 5 hole (200 yards), a par-3 shot, for his 3rd hole-in-one. His 2-iron hit the carpet, hopped in. After that Jake ran into three bogies and a double bogey, but finished with 77. Carl Rose had 81, Lyle Wiscombe (former resident here, on vacation from Pittsburgh) had 71, with Martz.

Pat Dobson, 17, of Depew, N. Y., has been signed by the Tigers for a bonus of more than $30,000. The big righthander won 19 of 20 starts in high school with no-hitters.

Olmedo Wins Wimbledon Title

Miss Hard Plays Finals Against Sandy Reynolds

British Press Does Not Regard U.S. Davis Cup Champ as American

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Alex Olmedo, Peruvian star of the U.S. Davis cup team, established himself as the world's No. 1 amateur tennis player today by smashing Australia's Rod Laver 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 for the Wimbledon championship.

Before a capacity crowd, including the Duchess of Kent and Princess Margaret, Olmedo cracked Laver's service in the opening game and never trailed, although he suffered mild lapses during the swiftly-paced match.

Thus the copper-skinned latin crushed the little lefthander's hopes of becoming the first unseeded player in history to win this most prized of court crowns.

The United States has at least one participant in every event today including Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., who is trying to score a "triple" — victory in the women's singles, women's doubles and mixed doubles. Miss Hard smashed her way into the singles finals yesterday with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Sandra Reynolds of South Africa.

Miss Hard, a one-time waitress who has been knocking at the door of tennis greatness for several years, teams with Jeanne Arth of St. Paul, Minn., against Miss Reynolds and Renee Schuurman in women's doubles and with Laver against Billy Knight of Great Britain and Yola Ramirez of Mexico in mixed doubles.

Olmedo, hero of the United States' Davis Cup victory over Australia last December, knocked off eighth-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia, 6-4, 6-0, 6-4, Wednesday to reach the finals while Laver upset Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, 11-13, 11-9, 10-8, 7-9, 6-3, in a three-hour and 45-minute match.

★ ★ ★

Tony Trabert was the last United States player to win the men's singles cup — in 1955 — and British papers already have made it plain he will still be regarded as the last "American." Olmedo is regarded as representing Peru — not the United States — by Englishment.

'Big Fish Derby' Still Wide Open

Although current leaders in The Pontiac Press 1959 "big fish derby" are close to the size of last year's winning fish, the big race is still wide open. And the best fishing is yet to come.

Latest leader to move in is the one-pound, 10½-inch bluegill taken by Butch Doyen, 2528 Elizabeth Lake Rd. Butch was a contender in the 1957 event, figures there are even bigger gills where he took this one, while fishing with Glenn Hartman. The pair creeled 18 fish between them.

Contest offers $50 U.S. Bond each for winners of black bass, bluegill and northern pike divisions. Only Oakland County full-time residents are eligible and fish must be taken from Oakland County waters. Contest closes Sept. 7.

Orchard Lake is producing some nice rainbow trout, as witness the string of six taken by Frank Jean of Bay City and Morris Heck, 3850 Orchard Lake Rd. manager of the OL boat livery off which the fish were caught.

Pontiac Press Photo

BLUEGILL LEADER — The annual "big fish derby" is moving along. Today there was a new leader for the bluegill division, to go along with the 6-pounder in the bass section. Butch Doyen, 2528 Elizabeth Lake Rd., frequent entrant in The Press contest, took the 1-pound, 10½-inch 'gill from Elizabeth Lake. The new leader is exactly the size of winning fish in last year's derby. A 'crawler harness with a spin rig produced the big one.

Teeing Off

By BILL CORNWELL

Thursday's sudden and unexpected giggling by a galleryite amid the stillness surrounding the 18th green may have cost Lionel Hebert the first round lead in the Buick Open golf tournament at Warwick Hills Country Club.

Lionel, who recorded a four-under-par 68 yesterday to share the pace-setting role with his older brother Jay and newcomer Monte Bradley, could have owned the top position all alone by sinking a seven-foot putt for a birdie three on No. 18.

As Lionel drew back his putter for the stroke that was intended to produce a "bird" and a 67, a nearby spectator went on a laughing jag and the ball never touched the cup.

Chatting with newsmen later, Lionel politely and modestly refused to admit that the thoughtless onlooker was at all responsible for the missed putt. "I probably would have missed it anyway," he shrugged.

★ ★ ★

Putting, like every other phase of the game of golf, involves intense concentration. Silence obviously aids the individual golfer's power of concentration for the shot and the titter from the gallery is certainly a regrettable incident.

MORE BUICK NOTES

Three eagles were fired yesterday at Warwick. Wes Ellis Jr. posted an eagle deuce on the 335-yard 14th hole by canning a wedge shot. Ned Johnson fired an eagle three on the 507-yard 13th where he reached the green in two strokes. Chandler Harper on the same hole chipped over a bunker and dropped it for a beautiful eagle-3.

Three pros, two of them from Michigan, are going to draw $100 fines from the PGA for withdrawing without officially declaring their reasons.

Larry Pentiuk of Ypsilanti and Detroit's Lou Powers had unexplained "no cards" after making the turn in 46 and 40 respectively. Joe Longo, Harrison, N. Y., abruptly picked up his ball in front of the 18th green and walked off the course following a front-nine 39.

Powers reportedly dropped out from sheer "disgust" with his game. Pentiuk wound up with a nine on the 1st hole after belting two out of bounds and this also seems like an excellent way to become disgusted.

Amateur Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, 17 years old, is the youngest player in the Buick tourney. He may be the youngest golfer who has ever played in a PGA-sponsored event.

SHORT PUTTS

A low net score of 31 gave Mrs. Lester Dallas top honors in the Women's Silver Lake Golf League. Mrs. Garry Looney was runnerup with 35. Mrs. Elbert Looney won the blind hole event with a five on No. 6 and divided low putt laurels with Mrs. Aubyn Coops at 16.

Pontiac's Charley Barker, the 1st alternate in the National Public Links golf qualifiers at Orchard Lake and Tam O'Shanter, is going to the national event July 8-12 at Denver, Colo. One of the nine regular qualifiers, Sunnybrook's Al Krol, is unable to leave his job for the trip.

Current Elks leaders at Pontiac Country Club are: 1st division — Glenn Harding and Maison; 2nd division—Bob Isgrigg and Rube Wideman; 3rd division—Al McClellan and Jones. Truman and Del Hammett are pacing the American Forging and Socket Co. loop with 17½ points.

The Women's Fairway League at Pontiac CC held a "husband's day" recently and Mr. and Mrs. Charley Barker won the nine-hole scotch foursome event with a 39.

Lose on Errors to Bucs

Braves' Lead Fading Away Fast

By the Associated Press

No Red Schoendienst, no Johnny Logan, no payoff power of late and almost no lead. That's the tale of Milwaukee's bid for a third straight National League pennant.

The Braves had it tough enough at second base when they lost Schoendienst, battling TB. Now they've got a bigger hole in the middle with Logan, injured Sunday, missing at short.

The champs, who have gotten only three home runs from big guys Ed Mathews and Wes Covington in the past three weeks, have won only two of their last six games, all but blowing a two-game lead. They've made 10 errors in those half-dozen games — eight of them at second and short.

Felix Mantilla and Casey Wise, both filling in at short, and Johnny O'Brien produced three of four Milwaukee errors last night that first gave Pittsburgh enough for a tie, then booted the Bucs into a 4-3, 10-inning victory.

★ ★ ★

That left the Braves with only a half game edge over San Francisco and Los Angeles, virtually tied for second place. The Giants blew a chance to get chummier with the lead by losing 10-4 to the Chicago Cubs. The Dodgers closed within one percentage point of second by beating St. Louis 4-0.

Cincinnati split a twi-night pair at Philadelphia, losing 7-6, but taking the second game 8-4 as Don Newcombe won his eighth in a row.

The Pirates, four games behind in fourth, handed the Braves their second straight loss on boots by Wise and losing reliever Don McMahon (2-1) in the 10th. Bill Virdon's bunt single loaded the bases and Dick Groat broke it up with a single.

Warren Spahn started for the Braves and allowed only three hits in his seven innings — yet trailed 3-1. Two walks, errors by Mantilla and O'Brien and singles by Ramon Mejias and winning pitcher Vern Law gave the Pirates three runs in the second.

Southpaw Danny McDevitt (8-6) won his fifth in a row for the Dodgers and gained his second shutout although tagged for 10 hits, all singles. The Dodgers backed him with four double-plays. Rookie Dick Ricketts (1-4) lost it, giving up consecutive triples by Junior Gilliam and Charlie Neal in the third. He was nicked for two more runs in the seventh on McDevitt's single, a walk, Neal's bunt, an error and Wally Moon's sngle.

Ernie Banks' 21st homer was good for three Cub runs and Al Dark and Dale Long each hit two-run homers.

Two Tied for Ladies' Lead

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (AP) — Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., and Milwaukees Joyce Ziske shared the lead today going into the second round of the 72-hole Ladies PGA Championship tournament — and Miss Ziske got there the hard way.

The Wisconsin girl, No. 4 money winner on the women's pro circuit, potted an eagle 3 on the 18th hole yesterday. She hit a three-iron second shot to within two feet of the pin on the 419-yard par 5 hole.

Both girls finished with one-under-par 73s on the hilly Sheraton Country Club course.

Even par cards were turned in by defending champion Mickey Wright of San Diego, who won her second straight women's open last week; Jo Ann Prentice, Birmingham, Ala.; Peggy Kirk Bell, Southern Pines, N.C., and Bonnie Randolph, Columbus, Ohio.

★ ★ ★

Louise Suggs of Cincinnati, a former LPGA champion and winner of the French Lick Open here last year, made the opening day's best nine-hole score after a shaky start. She went out in 41, four over par, but fired a 34 on the back nine.

Shutout by Jones, Vasquez' Defeat Junior Features

Dave Jones fired a three-hitter and Jim Hoke homered in an 8-0 Lytell-Colegrove win over Union Lake in another big day for city junior baseball yesterday.

Clarkston, with Larry Croley banging three bingles, tripped the Allen of Auburn Heights Boys Tel-Huron Tigers 9-6 and Dennis Club scattered six hits in a 2-0 whitewashing of Pontiac Boys Club in Class E. Auburn got just three off Pete Vasquez but combined them with four errors. PBC was a "D" victor nipping Ritter's Market 4-3 after being down 3-1.

★ ★ ★

In Class F, Dennis Mills and Darrell Uhan batted in four runs apiece and Ron Turner allowed only two hits as Uhan Variety routed Pontiac Firefighters, 22-5. Dan Hill had a homer as Westside Kiwanis bombed the Falcons, 11-5. Chuck Owen and Kerry Rogers combined for a no-hitter and fanned 18 of 21 batters in an easy 15-0 romp for State Farm over Dixie Dairy. The Tigers whipped the Little Eagles 23-4 with Dave Phelps allowing four hits and getting three himself. Ed Hoffmaster socked two triples and Dave Drass gave up two hits as Baldwin drubbed the Warriors 24-2.

It took Auburn Heights Boys Club only three frames to blast Atlas 20-0. The Moose edged East Side 4-2 sparked by Jim Rich's clutch triple.

Pankey's Grill was not only scored on for the first time but also beaten 8-0 by the Boys Club C team in the Waterford Junior Baseball League Thursday. The King Smith Printers blanked Kruchkows Plumbing 10-0 in the other game.

City Hurlers Post 2 Shutouts in Softball

Ray Conley of Butter Cup Drive-In spun a three-hitter in blanking Autos of Europe 3-0. He gave up two of them in the 7th. Conley had two bingles himself and Jerry Sudeth homered in the National League win. Huron Bowl nipped Big Bear Construction 5-4 in the other loop tilt although out-hit and behind early in play.

The five-hit twirling of Verl Sheldon and big bats of Maurice Stack and Ray White produced a 6-0 Stadium Inn American triumph over Casa Mia. White broke up a scoreless duel when he singled in a run in the 6th off Roger Reynolds. Stack belted a three-run homer in the same frame and White swatted a solo blast in the 7th.

Six different players had two safeties in a 11-5 win for Drive-In Cleaners over Rogers Electric in the International.

Wrong Field Double Spoils No-Hit Bid

Jim Cuthrell, Drayton Drugs hurler, had a great game going last night in the Waterford Recreation Softball loop, up to the 7th frame. Up to that time he had retired 18 batsmen from Lakeland Pharmacy, in a row.

Verne Keebaugh, former PCH athlete, blasted a "wrong field" double to open the 7th. He was the first Lakeland runner. Walks and an infield error sent Verne home with his team's only tally, as Drugs won 9-1.

In the night's 2nd game Spencer Floors dumped Eagles 14-4, with the contest ending in the 5th under the 10-run rule. Spencer got 4 runs in the 5th to add to the previous 10-4 count. Arlo Flecher allowed two hits as the winner Two Eagle hurlers were touched for 14. Grant St. Amour hit a homer and 2-run triple for winners.

But Have Little Time to Themselves

Teachers Overcoming Restrictions

By G. K. BODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)— Public school teachers can smoke, drop into the local bar, or spend a weekend in the big city. But most of them have too many pupils, too many chores, and no time to call their own.

This composite picture of the classroom teacher was drawn Wednesday by Dr. Kenneth R. Brown, director of a six-month investigation into the working conditions of teachers and school administrators.

"School people have made tremendous gains in personal freedom over the past 20 years," Brown said. "This is especially true in the big cities. In some small communities and rural areas they still find restrictions on their personal lives."

Brown will present his findings to the annual convention of the National Education Assn. Thursday. They came from 2,200 replies to questionnaires sent last January to 6,500 school people.

"Almost 70 per cent of the grade school and junior high teachers and 60 per cent of the high school teachers thought they could do their best work with 25 students in a class," Brown told a news conference. The national average is a bit over 30.

After class size, the teachers said their biggest problem was the pupil who won't or can't learn, for whatever reason.

"They want to know how to get these pupils out of their classes without stigmatizing them," he said. "They want to find some way of providing special education for the slow learners and disciplinary problems who hold back the rest of the class."

The teachers also said they had too many housekeeping and secretarial jobs, Brown said, and too many after-school chores like directing clubs and meeting parents.

"They feel the solution may be to lighten their teaching load and give them a free period in which they can prepare their lessons, grade papers, make up examinations, etc.," Brown said.

Brown said the survey didn't touch on such things as teacher salaries, retirement and tenure because these subjects are under constant study.

The teachers were asked to list any other problems that worried them. Their answers covered a lot of ground, including discipline.

★ ★ ★

Said one: "The school profession started that silly notion of 'Never say don't, you might frustrate Johnny.' Now I think it would be well to own up to a mistake and turn about."

Said another: "The teacher must be permitted to discipline the unruly children, even to the extent of paddling their behinds."

State Solons Gallivant Off

Rush From Lansing for Five-Day Holiday Leaving Jobs Undone

LANSING (AP) — Michigan lawmakers bolted from the Capitol yesterday noon like carefree school kids at vacation time, putting over vexing tax and budget headaches until next week.

They scattered to home, farm and north country cottages for a 5-day respite. The Senate met a scant 30 minutes and the House for just over an hour on the 112th working day of the 1959 Legislature.

Momentarily, at least, they felt the pressure was off after hustling another 150 million dollars in spending measures toward Gov. Williams' desk.

The biggest of three allocations cleared yesterday was $101,280,832 for higher education, an increase of about $14,500,000 over the fiscal year ended Tuesday and only five millions less than Williams urged.

At one time, GOP senators talked of a 394-million-dollar budget.

To the 361 millions in spending bills so far approved, Sen. Frank D. Beadle of St. Clair, Republican majority leader, was adding 15 million dollars for capital outlay and a 35-million-dollar general fund supplement for state school aid.

★ ★ ★

Both items are tied up in the Senate Appropriations Committee. No action on them was expected until after lawmakers return from their five-day Fourth of July weekend holiday.

The tax front likewise was expected to remain quiet.

Greek Sailors Will Fly Home

Lodging Costs Factor in Immigration Unit's Hasty Plans

DETROIT (AP)—The U.S. Immigration Department arranged today to fly 27 Greek seamen of the sunken freighter Monrovia home to Greece with the least possible delay.

Presumably the seamen's expense of lodging was a factor in the department's haste.

The 27, along with Capt. Stefanos Svokos and first mate Stefanos Livanos, were rescued when the Monrovia sank in Lake Huron June 25 after colliding in fog with the Canadian grain carrier Royalton.

Svokos and Livanos, both also Greeks, already have flown home on their own, immigration officials said.

As a result of the collision, the U.S. Coast Guard has been conducting an inquiry and more than a million dollars in damage suits have been filed against owners of the two vessels.

The damage suits are by the 27 seamen, who allege personal injury.

Commander Charles E. Leising of Cleveland, in charge of the investigation, said recommendations will be made to Washington. He said a final determination of the cause of the collision will be made at Washington.

English Reward 'Doc' Blanchard for His Bravery

WETHERSFIELD, England (AP)—Maj. Felix (Doc) Blanchard, a great power runner on a football field, has won a citation for bravery for piloting a burning plane away from an English village.

The incident that saved the town was two weeks ago and came to light Thursday with the presentation of the decoration to the former West Point grid star, who is operations officer for the 78th Tactical Fighter Squadron of the U.S. Air Force.

Blanchard was approaching the Air Force base here in a Super Sabre F100D jet fighter when the fire warning light flashed.

Normal procedure would have been to parachute out of the plane, the Air Force said, but Blanchard saw below a Sussex village with children playing in the streets and mothers pushing baby carriages.

★ ★ ★

The Air Force said Blanchard realized an abandoned plane could plunge into the village, decided to stay with the blazing craft and made a perfect landing. Firemen extinguished the fire. Blanchard escaped unhurt.

Couple Cancels Plans for Shelter Honeymoon

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A prospective bridal couple has called off the bomb-shelter honeymoon that was to follow their wedding Sunday.

Kelly Geiger, 25, and Nancy Bellmyre, 23, said Thursday that they were dismayed at the publicity resulting from their original announcement.

Philippines Chief Sends July 4 Message to Ike

MANILA (AP) — Phillippines President Carlos Garcia in a July 4 message to President Eisenhower said it is "quite meaningful that we have a common independence day because we share the same ideals of freedom and democracy for which our gallant soldiers have fought and died.

"It is my fervent hope that the special relationship between our two countries will be further strengthened as we dedicate ourselves to continuing defense of dignity and liberty of man."

Ex-Teamster Counsel Sentenced to Jail

DETROIT (AP)—Former Teamsters Union public relations counsel Henry Lower has been sentenced to 60 days in jail on a narcotics charge.

The former $20,000-a-year Teamster aide pleaded guilty in Recorder's Court yesterday to a charge of obtaining narcotics on a forged prescription.

Lower, 57, asked to withdraw his plea after sentencing by Judge Frank C. Schemanske. The judge rejected the appeal and imposed the sentence as part of one year's probation.

Police said Lower forged 40 prescriptions for a narcotic which he said he used following a severe gall bladder attack.

Boy Can Hear Because Auto Smashed Him

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (AP) —Two months ago 4-year-old J. Byron Patterson dashed into the street, was hit by a car and dragged 44 feet.

A leg and ribs were broken. He underwent four-hour brain surgery for multiple head injuries.

Yet his mother says: "For his sake, it's the best thing that has ever happened."

Since the accident the boy, almost deaf since birth, has begun to hear.

Now the tinkle of the ice cream vendor's bell, the slam of the car door when his father returns from work, his mother's voice all have become part of his small world

J. Byron—the J doesn't stand for for anything, and he's called "J.B."—is a handsome, healthy-looking youngster who gets his kicks these days out of trying to understand the words family members speak to him.

He wore a hearing aid before the accident. But it didn't help much. He couldn't hear well enough to learn to talk.

"It was in the hospital that we first noticed he was regaining his hearing," says his mother Dorothy. "I took him a picture of the family to keep him company. I started to point out his brothers and sisters and he began to pull at his ear.

★ ★ ★

"Since he came home he has started making sounds. Right now he sounds like a baby, but then he has a lot of time to make up for."

J.B. is enjoying life as never before with his four brothers and a sister. His father Floyd is a tool engineer.

Doctors think the head injury may have alleviated a blood deficiency. Soon the boy will undergo extensive tests to determine exactly how much hearing he has gained.

Says his mother, happily: "We had planned to enter him in a school for the deaf in September. But now we may not have to."

Minister Emancipates Men From Coats, Ties

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The men of Christ Episcopal Church have been invited to keep cool.

The Rev. Gordon S. Price says they can disregard tradition and wear anything they want, including loud sports shirts.

"The heat at church has been sweltering," the minister said in asking male members to take off their coats and ties.

"We men are such creatures of habit. The coat and tie are examples of it.

"After all, God doesn't care what we have on at church."

Yankus Settles in 'Nice' Home

But Former Michigan Farmer Still Without Job in Australia

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Michigan's rebel wheat farmer Stanley Yankus and his family have moved into a six-room home at Kirkcoldy, near Adelaide, Australia.

"Mrs. Mildred Yankus, sitting at the kitchen table for tea, was not very talkative about her thoughts of migrating to a strange country but agreed the house was very nice.

"Yankus will start next week to find a job in Adelaide for at least the next 12 months.

The consul quoted the Michigan farmer as saying "I would like a job involving some reesponsibility, and I would be willing to learn something new."

Thus far Yankus has been offered a job as an auto salesman and as a TV set salesman. He said he would consider the offers next week.

Selfridge Jet Wreck Found in Tennessee

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The wreckage of an F102 Air Force jet piloted by a Selfridge Field Air Force Base flier was found yesterday in the Great Smoky Mountains some 30 miles south of Knoxville.

Court May Check Lapse by Hoffa

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal court may be asked to check on whether Teamster President James R. Hoffa knew that two Tennessee local union officials had not been suspended as he said he had ordered.

Hoffa expressed surprise last Friday when the Senate Rackets Committee contended that neither had been suspended.

But Martin F. O'Donoghe, chairman of a court-appointed Board of Monitors policing the union, recalled today that the matter had been brought up in a court proceeding last April.

"It is rather startling," to learn of Hoffa's professed surprise, O'Donoghe said in a letter to Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) of the rackets committee. McClellan made the letter public without comment.

O'Donoghe said the monitors undoubtedly will present the whole matter to the United States District Court here for scrutiny.

Issue Over 50 Building Permits for $700,000

More than 50 Waterford Township building permits for construction of houses costing a total of $700,000 helped boost construction project figures to near the $1 million mark for the month of June, according to township Building Department reports.

Seven permits were issued for two new office buildings, a medical clinic, a dental office, and two gasoline stations, which, along with a $4,000 bank sign, accounted for some $94,000 in commercial construction.

Building permits for all construction work in the township added up to $925,000 for June. This is slightly under the previous month's total that included construction of seven larger commercial permits totaling $200,000.

Better Put Your Affairs in Order

By FAYE HENLE

It's vacation time!

Yet before you start off for a happy holiday, why not make certain that all of your financial affairs are in order? My attention has been called to the fact that each year more and more members of a family are the victims of accidents in which both husband and wife are killed. What happens to their property—bank accounts, insurance, real estate, securities?

To date most states have passed a law known as the Uniform Simultaneous Death Act. Under this law there is no attempt made to determine who died first, no presumption of survivorship and as a result the property left by each person is disposed of as if he had survived.

My legal consultants point out that this might or might not be advantageous. Instead, they advise, that you provide in your will specifically for death due to common disaster.

One of the reasons for this is that the tax load, say in the husband's estate, might be considerably lightened if he could be certain of taking advantage of the marital deduction. Were his wife's estate in a lower tax bracket the taxes might be no burden or a smaller burden. The net effect would be a larger inheritance for the heirs.

In cases of common disaster, too, it is pointed out that death need not be simultaneous. One partner might survive the other by a matter of months.

In such an event were a time limit not specifically designated in a will, one partner might inherit the other's estate and a third party disposition be made that was not in keeping with the original intent of the first to die.'

The life insurance industry has given considerable thought to the common disaster problem and urges that a common disaster clause be added as a policy rider unless such a clause already has been written into the policy and forms an integral part of the contract. The extended time limit to cover the subsequent death of the wife varies considerably with the more common about 30 days.

A widely used provision is the arrangement holding the policy proceeds at interest with title reverting to the policyholder until claimed by the widow and paid to her. This is done on the presumption that if she dies, as a result of the same accident, she would not be able to claim the funds and they would then be paid under alternate arrangements.

The advice offered by the insurance industry is advice that might well hold for other property, too, and includes:

Naming contingent beneficiaries even beyond second beneficiaries since it is noted that more and more accidents in recent years have wiped out whole families.

Allowing adequate time for delayed death so that the problem will not be merely postponed.

Finally, where dependents are concerned, like provisions should be included in the wills of both parties so that there will be no confusion in the handling of the arrangements.

Two Pontiac Groups Going Slate Tour of Destroyers

Chief Boatswain's Mate John Korak, commander of the Pontiac Naval Recruiting Station, and Boiler Tender 1.C. Charles Jackson will conduct the tours.

One group will consist of 25 members of the Pontiac Boys' Club. The second group, presently made up of 12 persons, has room for another dozen applicants, according to Korak.

Anyone in the Pontiac area interested in making the tour Monday morning may call the local recruiting station for details.

The ships, comprising Navy Task Unit 47.2 were scheduled to reach Detroit Thursday but will dock today after being delayed in the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Dearborn Youth Held in Slaying

Shot Mother's Suitor for Breaking Up Home, Boy, 16, Tells Police

DETROIT (AP)—A 16-year-old suburban Dearborn high school student was held for investigation in the fatal shooting yesterday of a man said by police to have been his mother's suitor.

James Godre, a Fordson High School sophomore, was arrested in Clare, 150 miles from the scene of the fatal shooting of William Labair, 38. Police said the youth admitted shooting Labair, an employe of a Dearborn trucking company, "because he was breaking up our home."

Relatives said Godre's mother, Juanita, 45, had been keeping company with Labair for several months. Police said the father, Gazy, told them he thought his wife had broken off with Labair.

Witnesses told police a boy entered a bar and walked up to Labair, saying "You're wanted outside." Labair walked outside with the youth. A passing motorist told police he heard a shot and saw Labair fall in the middle of the street. He said he saw the Godre boy escape in a car.

The motorist took the car's license plate and gave it to police. The Godre boy was then traced to an aunt's house. The aunt told authorities James had left home. State Police were notified and the youth was arrested at Clare.

Labair was shot once in the chest. Police said a 22 caliber rifle was found in the youth's car.

Jury Expected to Receive Case Against Prosecutor

LELAND (AP)— An all-male jury was expected to receive the morals case against Leelanau County Prosecutor Glenn Alysworth today following closing arguments.

Detroit Mayor to Give Kozlov Cold Shoulder

DETROIT (AP) — Mayor Louis J. Miriani declared today a visit here by Russian Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov "is not in the public interest" and said he would give no official recognition to Kozlov, due here Monday.

Anastas I. Mikoyan, another Soviet deputy premier, was splattered with eggs thrown by a howling mob, when he visited Detroit last Jan. 8. Mikoyan was not injured.

"We humbly reiterate and advise that the Russian delegation's visit to our city is not in the public interest. We trust you will inform Mr. Kozlov and his Russian delegation of this."

Miriani said he had been asked by the State Department to meet Kozlov, adding that since the delegation was given no official status in Washington he felt "there is no need for the mayor of Detroit to give official recognition."

Army Awards Ford Contract for Trucks

DETROIT (AP) — The Army has awarded Ford Motor Co. a $1,650,000 contract to design and develop a series of medium size tactical trucks.

The series will include cargo capacities of two, three and a half, and five tons. Ford said it will be a new family of military trucks in which many parts will be interchangeable.

Last week Ford was awarded a $15,070,000 contract to build 4,050 quarter-ton passenger and cargo carrying vehicles nicknamed "mutt" from the initials of their official designation of "military utility tactical truck."

Mrs. Myrtle Helen Dalby, 57, of 2766 Genes Dr., Pontiac Township, was found dead in her bedroom of a gunshot wound at 11 a.m. yesterday morning. A revolver was found next to her body.

She was pronounced dead by Oakland County Deputy Coroner Isaac C. Prevette.

Toll of State Forests Burned Below 1958

LANSING (UPI) — About 2,730 acres of Michigan forest land have burned this year, the Conservation Department said today, but the toll is well below the comparative burned area for 1958.

More than 9,000 acres were burned over a year ago, the department said. However, the seasonal influx of vacationers was expected to increase the burning.

Close Children's Home on Franklin Boulevard

The home, 52 Franklin Blvd., closed a week ago because of what Judge Moore described as "a slack summer period."

"We had only a few children on hand and some of these went to live with parents or relatives during the summer while others — about three or four — were placed in cottages at the Oakland County Children's Center," Judge Moore said.

To economize, he said, the Franklin boulevard staff of house mothers and cooks is being employed during the summer at the Oakland County Girl's Ranch at Camp Oakland, which is operated by county juvenile authorities.

Judge Moore said the home would open again this fall "if there is a need for it, and there probably will be."

The Franklin boulevard home is a large, 50-year-old dwelling which Judge Moore persuaded the Board of Supervisors to buy two years ago for $20,000. It was remodeled at a cost of another $10,000.

Juvenile authorities said a place with a home-like atmosphere was needed to house youngsters who became dependent upon the county through no fault of their own.

For the last 20 months, the Franklin boulevard home has been accommodating up to 20 dependent children, many of them brothers and sisters who have been deprived of their own homes through such domestic tragedies as divorce and death.

By living at the Franklin boulevard home, school age children can attend normal classes at Crofoot School, instead of the retarded classes at the Juvenile Home.

Natural Fluoride Found in Water in Oakland Area

A Michigan Health Department study shows that at least 50 communities in the state have a sufficient quantity of the chemical in their water resources so that they don't have to add supplements to prevent tooth decay.

Those in Oakland County area are Royal Oak, Troy, Marlette, Columbiaville, Elizabeth Lake Estates and Capac.

The 50 communities with a natural preventive in the supply have at least seven-tenths of one part of fluoride for every million parts of water, department scientists said.

New Revolution Shaping in Cuba

Castro Police Seize Arms, Arrest Plotters as Troops Move

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Widespread troop movements were reported today in Cuba with Fidel Castro's government showing concern over mounting counterrevolutionary activity.

Secret police seized an arms cache in a Havana suburb Thursday. They arrested eight men in a case they described as having "the most important counterrevolutionary implications."

Troop reinforcements are reportedly moving into eastern Cuba, where 41 persons have been arrested for acts of sabotage, and into western Cuba, where guerrilla bands are operating in the mountains.

Among the eight men seized in the Havana raid were six police described as "former military men." The implication was they served in the forces under former dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Behind the plot, police said, were ex-Sen. Rolando Masferrer, now in Miami, Fla., and Jose Pedraza, a former general who now shares Batista's exile in the Dominican Republic.

The upsurge of anti-Castro activity during the past month, with a rash of minor explosions and acts of sabotage, has brought a government order decreeing the death sentence for counterrevolutionary acts.

The unrest shook the revolutionary armed forces when Air Force commander Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz resigned, charging Communist infiltration of both the armed forces and the government.

Prime Minister Castro told a television audience that Diaz's resignation was a "traitorous act," timed to coincide with a period of difficult international relations for Cuba.

Fireworks Explosion Kills 2 Montana Boys

KALISPELL, Mont. (AP)—Two youngsters left by their parents to tend a fireworks stand were killed Thursday when a fire and explosion demolished the wooden structure.

The bodies of inda Helseth, about 10, and Richard Street, about 13, were found inside the charred wreckage.

They were the nation's second and third victims of pre-Independence Day fireworks accidents. A 4-year-old Everett, Wash., girl died Monday of burns suffered when a sparkler set fire to her dress.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF RENA Parks Drake, who passed away 2 yrs. ago today.
Time speeds on, two years have passed
Since death its gloom, its shadows cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will,
Her vacant place there's none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain;

Satchmo Home; 'Never Better,' Trumpeter Rasps

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong, back home after a bout with pneumonia in Italy, says he "never felt better."

Satchmo said he might make an appearance Saturday at Lewisohn Stadium on his 59th birthday. He has been going to the stadium to make a birthday appearance in recent years.

Asked if he felt he might have been dying during his recent illness in Spoleto, Armstrong said with a grin: "Bix (the late trumpeter Bix Beiderbeck) tried to get me up there to play his first horn."

Cary Grant Is Sued for $500,000 Damage

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — Actor Cary Grant is being sued for $500,000 damages by movie columnist Joe Hyams.

Hyams wrote a series of articles Thursday, alleged that Grant slandered him by saying that Hyams' claim of interviewing the actor was false.

Hyams wrote a series of articles for the New York Herald Tribune syndicate in which he quoted Grant as saying he had undergone psychiatric treatment.

The complaint said Grant stated that he hadn't seen Hyams in two years before the articles were published.

Plan Gala Homecoming for Billy Graham, Wife

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A gala homecoming was planned here today for evangelist Billy Graham, returned from Australia and the Soviet Union.

Drive-In Manager Finds Two Chinese Headstones

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP) —Anybody lose two Chinese headstones?

One was stuck in cement in a washbasin in the men's room of the restaurant; the other was hanging from a nearby telephone pole. Each weighed more than 100 pounds and was 2½ feet high.

Actor Keenan Wynn Kicks, Beats Up Wife

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Actor Keenan Wynn, nude, punched and kicked his wife and tossed her mother to the floor three times, the women have told sheriff's officers.

The actor was quoted by the deputies: "Every woman should be struck regularly. All I wanted was to get some rest because I had to get to work in the morning."

Sheriff's Sgt. Harold E. Waring and Deputy Oscar G. Lowry said daughter, I stepped in and he Sharley Jean Hudson, 26, related: Wynn, 42, 6-foot, 189-pound son of veteran comedian Ed Wynn, was in the bedroom talking by telephone to "one of his ex-wives."

After the conversation the actor, wearing only a heavy mustache, emerged from the bedroom, struck her, dragged her into the bedroom and continued to hit and kick her.

Her mother, Mrs. Blanche Hudson, said Mrs. Wynn is expecting a child.

"I tried to stop the fight," she said. "When he attacked my daughter, I stepped in and he knocked me to the floor three times. I had to do something."

Mrs. Hudson drove to the Malibu sheriff's substation and returned to the Wynn house with the two deputies.

The officers stood by while Mrs. Wynn bundled the couple's two children, Hilda, 4, and Winnie, 2, into a car along with a maid and her mother and drove to the Wynn's town house in Brentwood. Wynn stayed at the beach.

The officers made no arrests. They said Mrs. Wynn told them she intended to prosecute her husband, but she took no steps in that direction Thursday.

Mrs. Wynn told reporters the actor's telephone conversation was with his first wife, Eve, who divorced him in 1947 and later married actor Van Johnson.

Wynn's second marriage was to model Betty Jane Butler, in Tijuana, Mexico, in 1949. They were divorced in 1953. Wynn and his present wife were married in 1954 in Puerto Rico while he was touring military camps.

Reds to Break Power of Lamas

Tibet Puppet Ruler Says Priests to Be Stripped of Rights, Monasteries

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's puppet ruler of Tibet, the Panchen Lama, says the big estates of Tibet's lamas will be broken up and the holy men stripped of ancient privileges.

The announcement came in a Peiping radio report today of a speech made by the Panchen Lama in Lhasa June 28.

At the same time, he admitted that the anti-Communist rebels are still resisting Red Chinese troops.

In an oblique warning to neighboring India, he said that putting down the revolt and anything else that takes place in Tibet are "China's domestic affairs." Foreign intervention will not be tolerated, he said.

India has protested the Chinese suppression of the Tibetan independence movement and Prime Minister Nehru has said that Tibet should have autonomy.

The blow at the lamaist monasteries appeared aimed at wiping out the power of the Buddhist holy men who have held sway over the superstition-filled country for hundreds of years.

Peiping made it clear it intends to go even farther and turn Tibet into a full-fledged Communist satellite, even though it may take years.

Rule Obscenity Law Is Unconstitutional

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania's 20-year-old obscenity law has been declared unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court, thus leaving authorities weaponless to combat movies and live performances they believe objectionable.

In a controversial 5-2 decision Thursday, the high court voided the provision of the penal code which bans exhibitions "of a lascivious, sacrilegious,, obscene, indecent or immoral nature."

Teacher Admits Forging $7,650 in Payroll Checks

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — After thinking it over, Mrs. Berteene M. Moura, 43, surrendered to police Thursday and admitted forging $7,650 in teachers' payroll checks during the last two years.

Mrs. Moura, payroll clerk for the Oakland Unified School District, was booked on six counts of foregery.

The district attorney's office was called in when some of the teachers finally realized they were entitled to checks during their vacations.

Mrs. Moura said she spent most of the money on a whirlwind fling in Reno, which included a sudden marriage, quickly annulled.

Trash Catches Fire, Burns Front of House

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP — Trash swept out the door of a ranch-type house under construction caught fire yesterday and did about $100 damage to the front of the house, Rochester Fire Chief George Ross reported today.

The vacant house is located at 5822 Little Pine Lane, just off Mead road. The Rochester fire department brought the blaze under control in a matter of minutes, the chief said.

Grease Fire in Home Causes $550 Damage

Township firemen said grease was in the deep well of the electric stove and became so hot it burned the bottom out of the pan, setting fire to the liquid.

Republic Steel Plant Reopens

But Many Steelworkers Defy Return Order of Union Leaders

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The strike-crippled Republic Steel Corp. has reopened parts of its plant here but many steelworkers defiantly stayed off the job today.

They continued to ignore orders from local union leaders and a plea from David J. McDonald, United Steelworkers president, who is trying to negotiate a new contract with 12 major steel companies in New York.

Another USW wildcat strike halted about 30 ore boats on the Great Lakes and resulted in a shutdown of U.S. Steel Corp.'s Mesabi iron range mines Thursday night. Some 4,300 workers are employed at the mines.

U.S. Steel said no matter how fast Joseph Chroback, president of USW Local 5000, gets the crews back on the ships, it will be early next week before the mines can be reopened.

Chroback, acting after McDonald ordered him to "get the boats going," told union ship chairman on more than 100 boats that no more men were to walk off. He said it will take a few days to round up crews of the 30 boats that were stopped.

Republic called workers back to its strip mill late Thursday night after members of local 2265 voted to return to work.

Hal March Is Smash in 'Two for Seesaw'

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Hal March was a smash hit when he and his mended nose took over the Henry Fonda-Dana Andrews role in "Two for the Seesaw" opposite Lee Grant. Customers even screamed "Bravo" for the reformed quizmaster. It was his first appearance before a legit theater audience—although he was on B'way once 11 years ago, in an act with Jack Carson at the Strand. Folks are congratulating him on "going from the isolation booth to the Booth Theater."

What about Bardot's latest headline? "Eet might help her at home," she said. "Bardot is not too popular in France, you know."

"Thursday nights on NBC from 9:30 to 11," Ace answered.

"What! I'm on CBS at 10 o'clock Thursday nights!" Groucho said.

No one in my family ever has and no one in my family is financially able to send me to school full time. Maybe you know of someone who might want to help me. 'Who Pays' Is Remarkable in a Negative Kind of Way

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UPI)—Who pays? A half-hour show which bowed in last night on NBC-TV, is in many way a remarkable show—remarkably sluggish, remarkably dull, remarkably insane.

★ ★ ★

Emceed by Mike Wallace, who should know better, Who Pays? is one of those things called a game show which means you have to be pretty game to stay with it.

This one offers a panel—Cedric Hardwicke, Celeste Holm, Gene Klavan—as interrogators of people who work for celebrities.

The idea is to guess the identity of the celebrity who is installed behind and over the panel like a giant gouda cheese.

Last night the mystery celebrities were Red Buttons and Carol Channing. I must confess I didn't keep too much track of the questions tossed at Buttons' slaveys—a clothier and Buttons' nightclub straight man—because I was too stupefied by the whole business.

However, when two of Miss Channing's vassals (a jeweler and an erran boy) were ferried onstage, I had recovered sufficiently to take notes on some of the information thrown at the panel:

The celebrity was a lovely lady, she wore big hats, she had a big heart, she twitched her fingers a lot, she liked big pieces of jewelry, she looked like a giant panda.

Frankly, to me it sounded like a combination of Carrie Jacobs Bond, Zsa Zsa Gabor and Gabby Hayes enmeshed in some sort of joint spastic condition, but the panel pulled it out with fair ease, a feat that I suppose could be labeled a tour de farce.

Who pays? Why, the viewer, of course.

Last night NBC-TV also unboxed a new private eye series, 21 Beacon Street, a kind of Peter Gunn with test tubes.

★ ★ ★

Like all of TV's private shows, this one is full of moose-call jazz and come-hither woman talk—a kind of musky mixture of baritone sax and soprano sex.

The series, however, has two distinctions. One is Joanna Barnes, an appetizing slice of pastry.

The other is a curious script oddity: Dennis Morgan plays a character named "Dennis," Miss Barnes plays a "Joanna," Jim Maloney plays a "Jim" and Brian Kelly plays a "Brian." I found this last bit more mystifying than the plot.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: ABC-TV will launch a new Sunday afternoon half-hour show, Championship Bridge, on Oct. 18—Charles Goren will do the analysis and Alex Dreier will call the play-by-play . . . Negotiations are under way to slot Jan Murray's Dollar a Second quiz in the Thursday night NBC-TV spot following Groucho Marx.

Jonathan Winters will guest on Canadian TV's Long Shot program July 19.

On the occasion of the first federal census taken in 1790, only about 5 per cent of the population of the United States lived in cities or towns.

From millions of voices raised in song have come these haunting words. The sweet song, "America, the Beautiful," spins into music our homeland --- the farms, the mountains, the prairies that stretch from the rugged coast of Maine to the warm sands of California.

It will be difficult for us to enlarge that image to include the new dimensions to which we have grown. But we must try. On this July 4, "America, the Beautiful" passes a milestone in extending its limits to encompass regions which could never have appeared in the wildest imaginings of the founding fathers.

As they put pen to the Declaration of Independence 183 years ago in Philadelphia on July 4, 1776, they had only vague hearsay about the lands west of the Mississippi. It took the Lewis and Clark expedition, dispatched by Thomas Jefferson years later, to get the first solid facts about this part of the continent.

Alaska and Hawaii?

They were as remote as are the moon and Mars during our modern period of reaching out into space.

Now, however, these new landscapes are becoming a part of America the Beautiful, as symbolized in the new flag and illustration above. We may now sing of the rolling surf that bathes the sands at Waikiki and the stately forests of the northland under whose shadows lie untold ---and as yet untapped---stores of Nature's treasures.

America! America!
God shed His grace on thee,
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining sea.

Hospitals Ready for Weekend, Perhaps for You

By HARVEY ZUCKERBERG

More than 500 suffering people will be admitted to the emergency rooms of Pontiac General and St. Joseph's Mercy hospitals over the Independence Day weekend.

It is likely the majority of them will be Pontiac area residents.

Some will be treated and released.

Many will have to be admitted for further treatment.

The 500 are the approximate number of cases handled by the emergency rooms of both hospitals over the same period last year. It is about the same every Fourth of July holiday.

★ ★ ★

The seven people on emergency duty at Pontiac General include two nurses, a clerk, an X-ray technician, an intern, a chief resident physician and an attending staff physician on call. A similar operation is in preparation at St. Joseph's.

The seven tried to get as much sleep as possible yesterday because they knew from experience that there would be little or no opportunity until the sun shone again the next morning.

185 NORMAL

They usually can expect an average of 185 patients over a normal weekend. A holiday weekend increases the list to about 250.

Mrs. Vera Kreiner, a registered nurse, says there will be more of everything this weekend.

At the beginning of a recent weekend it started with a five-year-old boy who was struck in the eye with a baseball. He was followed by a housewife whose hand was deeply cut when a dish snapped as she was washing dishes.

An argument was the cause of the third and fourth visitors, a stroke the fifth. A factory worker got his hand caught in a machine.

The 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th were a result of a two-car head-on collision. The pace picked up momentum as the evening wore on.

★ ★ ★

The pace will be swift tonight through early Monday.

Other hospital staff members outside of the emergency will be called when the influx of patients becomes too heavy for those assigned to that duty.

There is an attending physician on call for each of 11 different specialties, such as pediatrics, thoracic surgery, internal medicine, etc.

On a bad night as many as 10 doctors may be working on emergency patients.

"We expect all kinds," says Helen Harper, director of nursing service at Pontiac General. "There will be victims of park and beach accidents, home mishaps, automobile wrecks aid others."

"There also will be victims of snake bites, insect bites, sunburn, strokes, asthmatic and coronary cases if the weather is particularly humid," she said.

People will eat too much, babies will swallow furniture polish, cars will be driven too fast, an expectant mother may stray too far causing the delivery of her baby in a car or taxicab just at the entrance of the hospital emergency room.

Dr. Robert Buslepp, chief resident physician, says that working in the emergency room leaves no time for emotional involvment with the injured.

"A mangled body might provoke one of us to say 'Why in h-- didn't you drive slower,' but there isn't time for that," he says. "It hurts to look at kids suffering from a foolish accident."

The emergency staff waits for the first siren that will break the silence and the waiting tonight as it does every night. They will look for the blinking red light of the ambulance and greet the first one. From then on there will be little let up.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The Wait Ended With a Siren's Shriek . . .

Toledo Hospital Building Apartments

Wealthy Oldsters Can Live in Luxury

By MARIE DAERR

If you are 65 or over, have plenty of dollars in your pocket and taste for luxury living, you will be interested in an open house tentatively scheduled for mid-July or early August.

★ ★ ★

The event is first public showing of the Crestview Club Apartments at Sylvania, Ohio, 10 miles from Toledo. This is a project whose first unit is costing $2,500,000 and which may grow into a $30,000,000 proposition.

Crestview is the realization of a dream of the trustees of Toledo's Flower Hospital. It is being financed through the hospital and local banks, with FHA help.

"Crestview is neither a hospital nor an old folks' home," said John W. Ehrle, Crestview's assistant director. "It offers independent living, freedom from responsibilities and a worry-free future with certainty of care in case of illness.

'We have 85 acres of ground and eventually we hope to accommodate 2,000 people. We expect the first unit of 171 apartments to be ready for occupancy Jan. 1.

★ ★ ★

"Within a year and a half, we hope to have ready a health center; a general hospital and other hospital facilities for the convalescent and chronically ill; a rehabilitation center and a physical therapy unit."

How much will this cost a Crestview resident?

"Lifetime leases range from $9,250 to $19,500," Ehrle said. "Six penthouses will cost $36,000 and $38,500.

"In addition, there will be a cost-of-living fee of $150 a month. This will include dining room service, utilities, weekly maid service, linens, health checkups, sickness care for any extended period and round-the-clock nursing service."

For a person who occupies alone an apartment for two, this fee will be $175 a month. If a person should die before he has occupied an apartment nine years, his estate will be reimbursed.

Ehrle said he had had inquires about Crestview from 28 states. Twenty-three inquiries came from Florida.

"Some of these people who moved from the North to the South when they retired now say they miss their relatives, old friends and the change of seasons," Ehrle reported.

You may have more information about this project by writing Ehrle at Crestview Club Apartments, 3350 Collingwood, Toledo.

Select Local Girl to Go to Girls Nation Gathering

BIRMINGHAM — Christy Schad, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Schad, 623 Bloomfield Ct., has been named a Michigan delegate to the forthcoming Girls Nation in Washington, D. C.

Christy, a student of Birmingham High School, was elected state treasurer at the recent Girls State at Ann Arbor. She was one of two Michigan girls selected to make the Washington trip.

Girls Nation, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, will convene on July 25 and is scheduled to continue through the month.

Two girls from each state will attend, according to Mrs. Richard Dewey, Birmingham chairman of Girls State.

Find Prosecutor Not Guilty

15-Year-Old Accuser Wasn't in Court to Hear Verdict Returned

LELAND, Mich (AP) — Leelanau County Prosecutor Glenn Alysworth, father of four children, was found innocent yesterday of charges of statutory rape and taking indecent liberties with a 15-year-old girl.

"I'm very happy about it and fell fine," Alysworth said when an all-male jury returned the verdict to circuit court Judge John C. Shaffner after deliberating about 35 minutes.

The girl was not present when the verdict was returned.

35-year-old Aylsworth had denied the charges since they first were made by the girl to state police. The girl had lived in the Aylsworth home for several months as a ward of the Grand Traverse County Probate Court.

Aylsworth contended the girl made the accusations in an effort to retaliate against him and his wife for restricting her dating of a 17-year-old boy.

Asst. State Atty. Gen. Perry Maynard prosecuted the case. Maynard called it "the most distasteful assignment" he ever had and contended Aylsworth's conscience "wasn't working all the while he was insulting this girl."

Aylsworth's attorney's countered by claiming the attorney general's office was "out to get Aylsworth." They also claimed the girl was a pathological liar.

Hold Teenager for Investigation

Charged With Stabbing of Night Watchman and Burglary

A 17-year-old Pontiac youth was sitting behind bars today in the Oakland County Jail, held for investigation in the stabbing of a night watchman and the burglary of a moving firm.

He denied any knowledge of the break-in and stabbing. He was booked for investigation of breaking and entering.

Urban Renewal Report Readied

Complete Study on How Project Will Dovetail With Civic Improvement

Nearing completion at City Hall is a voluminous study showing how Pontiac city officials expect the upcoming urban renewal project will dovetail with overall plans for civic improvement.

★ ★ ★

The study should be finished next week for delivery to regional urban renewal officials in Chicago, said Robert A. Stierer, assistant city manager.

Urban renewal officials want to study Pontiac's future plans before releasing $1,700,000 in federal funds reserved for the $4,000,000 blight control project on Pontiac's east side.

"The federal government doesn't want to spend money helping us in one improvement if we appear unprepared to tackle other improvements ourselves," explained Stierer.

The study — titled Project Workability Report — is part of the city's final application for federal funds, which is expected to be submitted in full early this fall.

Stierer said that details of the study would be disclosed when it is complete.

Alaskans Celebrate 1st Independence Day

By United Press International

Independence Day has a double meaning in the sprawling new state. The new flag with its 49 stars on a field of blue commemorates not only the nation's independence, but Alaska's independence from territorial status as well.

The principal celebration will be at Juneau, the state capital, where Gov. William A. Egan will preside overe ceremonies marking the raising of the flag for the first time.

Radio commentator Lowell Thomas will be the master of ceremonies. Earlier in the day, the governor was to take part in another ceremony at Sitka, the first territorial capital.

Hundreds of visitors drawn to Alaska's capital for the festivities are being housed in private homes and in a 100-bed government hospital which was closed last February. Hotels are filled to overflowing.

In Ketchikan, a 49-star fireworks flag will be exploded over Tongass Narrows because the city does not have an official flagpole.

'BIGGEST IN HISTORY'

In Anchorage, the American Legion Post plans the "biggest parade in the history of Alaska" with scores of floats portraying the colorful history of the vast new state to pass before what are expected to be record crowds.

Absent from the flag-raising ceremonies will be Alaska's Sens. E. L. Bartlett and Ernest Gruening.

Bartlett cancelled plans to fly to Juneau because of uncertainty when the Senate would adjourn for the holiday weekend. Gruening previously had made a speaking engagement elsewhere.

Aslaska's Fourth of July celebration will reach as far away as Texas, where a 49-star flag is to be presented to 116-year-old Walter Williams, the last survivor of the Civil War, on behalf of the Fairbanks post of the American Legion.

"Many years ago . . . you fought for your ideals," legionnaires said in a letter to Williams.

"When the struggle ended, you laid down your arms and there was born a new nation, more tightly bound by the spilling of blood.

"On this Fourth of July, 1959, you are able to witness, through statehood, new strengthening of this nation of ours."

Church to Mark Anniversary

St. Andrew Episcopal to Dedicate New Bible Sunday Morning

St. Andrew Episcopal Church, Drayton Plains, will hold special anniversary services marking its ninth year as an organized church.

During the 8 a.m. service of Holy Communion a new red lectern Bible, a gift of the Altar Guild, will be dedicated. The first Bible was a family size book given in memory of Mrs. Harriett K. Casterlin.

The new Bible, which is the Revised Standard Version, will continue as a memorial to Mrs. Casterlin.

The combined choirs of St. Andrew under the direction of Ivan F. Rouse Jr., choir master, will sing "The Heaven Are Telling His Glory Eternal" by Beethovan at the 10 a.m. service.

At both services pledges will be received in response to the recent appeal from the "burn the mortgage" committee.

During the summer months the present schedule of services at 8 and 10 a.m. will continue with a worship and story hour for children from three to seven years of age at the second service.

Mackie Digs Wheat, Not Government

LANSING (AP)—Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie finished his job of plowing under wheat under protest late last evening.

For Mackie, it was a matter of plow, pay a fine of $372 or fight the federal government.

He worked about an hour in the morning on his plow, then had to leave the job half finished to snip a ribbon at a new expressway opening near Portland.

"There was a lot of straw so it was hard going," Mackie explained "And I dug a little bit over the six tenths just to make sure."

Slice Pentagon Fire Damage Estimates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unofficial estimates of damage caused by Thursday's Pentagon fire have been sliced down to about six million dollars.

The big bulk of the fire loss will be charged off to three electronic computer systems in the Air Force Statistical Center.

Col. Marshall R. Gray, director of the Air Force's Statistical Service Division, said Friday the purchase price of the burned equipment which the Air Force leased from International Business Machies Corp. does not exceed six million dollars.

First estimates had set the damage as high as 30 million dollars.

Officials said they did not think damage to the building would exceed $200,000.

Nighttime thunderstorms that plagued the plains sector were expected during the day over the upper reaches of the Great Lakes and Nebraska and Kansas.

The Weather Bureau also forecast scattered thundershowers near the Gulf coastal areas and over the Rockies.

Authorities at Lisbon in southeastern North Dakota reported a funnel touched down on an open field. No injuries were reported in the storm that packed heavy rain and winds estimated at 50 miles an hour.

A 40-minute hail storm pounded Holdrege, a south-central Nebraska community. Virtually every store window on the south side of the city's main street was shattered by hail stones, some of which measured 5 inches.
