

For Political Trends

California State to Watch

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—The fast-growing Far West, mainly California, gains 10 seats in the House of Representatives this year and political experts predict most of them will go to the Democrats in the November elections.

UPI correspondents in 13 Western states talked to governors, chairmen of both parties and to many of the candidates themselves to assess the political outlook in the area.

The consensus: Prospects are good for Democratic gains, mainly because of a reapportionment by a Democratic legislature in California.

President Kennedy, who visited California last week, clearly has high hopes in the West. In a recent news conference, he expressed belief that the outlook for his legislative program would improve if the Democrats would gain between five and 10 House seats in November.

"There is not a measure before us that I don't think we could pass with a change of five seats," he said.

Bid for Estate of Billie Sol

$12 Million Offered for Holdings by Texas Businessman, Group

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—The estate of bankrupt Billie Sol Estes brought a bid yesterday of $12 million.

Texas businessman Morris D. Jaffe and a group of associates made the offer.

Jaffe said tentative agreement between his group and creditors of the estate call for an original payment of $7 million in cash and notes and $5 million in valid liens.

Estes owes $13.5 million and if the sale goes through it would mean that creditors would get back about 89 cents per dollar.

Jaffe, 40, is president of Fed Mart, Inc., a chain of discount houses with stores in Texas, Arizona and California. He also heads a large San Antonio construction firm.

BETTER THAN EXPECTED
If Estes' creditors actually do get 89 cents on the dollar, it would be about two times as much as what was first expected. The top offer for the estate previously was reported $6.5 million.

Jaffe said his group will not assume responsibility for non-existent fertilizer storage tanks. Estes, who was indicted on state and federal charges, allegedly used nonexistent tanks in mortgage dealings.

Jaffe, who would not identify other members of the group, said if the deal is terminated all the assets except the grain storage elevators will be sold. The group will operate the elevators through leases.

"We are in this to make a profit," he said. "Why else would we be in the deal?"

The survey of Western states showed the Democrats have a good chance of winning 8 of the 10 new seats in the West, while Republicans were favored for the other two.

California, soon to become the first state in the nation in population, is the key state for both parties in the congressional fight.

Political leaders in the Golden State said they feel the gubernatorial contest between Republican Richard M. Nixon and Democratic incumbent Edmund G. Brown will have little influence in the 28 congressional races. The Brown-Nixon contest is rated so close it is not expected to be a factor.

At the present time, the 13 Western states have 59 congressmen—30 of them representing California where Democrats presently have a 16-14 edge.

As a result of population surges during the past decade, the Western states will have 69 representatives in the House next January, 38 of them coming from California.

The party split in the West now is 33-26 Democratic. The political experts surveyed by UPI foresee a 41-28 margin in favor of the Democrats after the November 6 election.

THE LINEUP
The present lineup in the House is 262 Democrats, 174 Republicans.

and one vacancy. The survey of this from a partisan standpoint: Western politicians showed the Democrats had a good chance of winning 8 of the 10 new seats in the West, while Republicans were favored for the other two.

Economists Hit Administration

Panel Raps 'Failure to Move Firmly on Business Monopoly'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A panel of economists took the Kennedy administration to task yesterday for what they called its failure to press antitrust actions against business monopoly with either vigor or imagination.

"Looking back over the last year and a half, one finds an extremely unsatisfactory performance," declared Richard J. Barber, law professor at Southern Methodist University.

Barber and other witnesses criticized what they considered a lack-luster antitrust performance by the Kennedy administration during testimony before the House-Senate economic committee.

Barber said the administration had paid only lip service to effective enforcement of the antitrust laws against monopoly control in industry.

"The fact is," he asserted, "that the antitrust laws have been and are being enforced with neither vigor nor imagination."

Dr. Walter Adams, economics professor at Michigan State University, said: "I submit that concentrated economic power is a fact of American life."

"It exists; it is pervasive; it is dangerous. It poses what I consider the number one domestic problem of our time—the prevalence of private socialism in what we like to think of as a free enterprise economy."

Barber said the actions taken by Leo Loewinger, head of the Justice Department's antitrust division, were minor housekeeping efforts that had little "significant impact on reducing the level of prevailing concentration."

Federal regulatory agencies charged with controlling monopolistic trends, he said, also have instituted few important cases.

Barber also contended that government buying policies, particularly the $25 to $25 billion a year in contract awards let by the Defense Department, actually contributed to business bigness.

'Dead and Buried' Ex-Senator Alive and Kicking

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gerald P. Nye, one-time senator from North Dakota, arose from the grave in which a magazine article prematurely buried him and gave notice today that:

1. He is alive and kicking.

2. He knows where a certain body is buried, or rather where a treasured ex-senator's ashes were strewn in the long ago. In fact, Nye strewed them himself under a tree on the Capitol grounds.

What brought Nye back from "the Great Beyond," was an article in the September issue of Pageant magazine entitled: "The Only Man Buried on Capitol Hill."

It's a heart-tugging tale about Henry Clay Hansbrough, a publisher-politician who helped name the West, a pen in one hand and a sixgun in the other. When North Dakota entered the Union, he became its first representative in Congress and from 1891 to 1900, writes the author of the article, Edward Hymoff, but:

"Sen. Nye himself carried the secret to the grave with him. To-day, no one—barring possible survivors of the burial ceremony—knows which elm tree the senator is buried under."

Nye, who is now 69 and a Federal Housing Administration specialist on housing for the elderly, got off a 1,500-word letter Tuesday to Howard Cohn, executive editor of Pageant. It wasn't rough a letter as Nye might have written back in the days when he was a fire-eating isolationist whose Senate career (1925-1944) stirred many a controversy.

In fact it was a mellow epistle datelined "Over here in the Great Beyond." Death must have been painless, he said, for he never stirred it. It could have been caused him a while back in his garden, by those three wasps that stung him a while back in his garden.

But he wanted to set the record straight; he did not bury the box with Sen. Hansbrough's ashes; with his own hand he strewed them out of the box — "a plain everyday shoebox."

For years thereafter, he wrote, "the ground covered by the scattering produced the greenest grass on Capitol Hill and, at the time of my last observation, be feeding upon the ashes of Henry Clay Hansbrough, was the healthiest looking of all the neighboring trees."

Like life there? In conclusion, Nye gave Pageant a description of life taxes.

Editor Cohn told a newsmen he was deeply embarrassed. "I'm glad to hear Sen. Nye is alive," he said, "and if he's kicking it's with good reason."

Author Hymoff said he thought he had checked his article thoroughly but guessed he had checked some of it "in the wrong places."

OK 3 Water System Contracts

Three remaining contracts for construction of Pontiac water system improvements were awarded at last night's City Commission meeting.

Commissioners awarded a $1,312,057 contract for transmission lines and a $230,970 contract for water line in Orchard Lake Avenue and Mount Clemens Street to Clark Nelson & Son, Inc., of Royal Oak.

General American Transportation Co. of East Chicago, Ill., got the final contract — $361,500 to build two, 5-million-gallon, ground-level storage tanks on the site of the new water plant on Opdyke Road near South Boulevard.

Both firms were the lowest qualified bidders on their respective contracts. The water system improvement project includes five contracts.

The other two were let last week. All five total $2,953,529. The original engineers' estimate for contract construction costs was $47,840 higher than the actual contracts totaled.

Total cost of the project, including legal and financial advisory fees, a contingency fund and interest, should run about $3.9 million.

Improvements are to be financed by revenue bonds. The system must be revamped by next July when Detroit water will start being used here.

TO BILL CONSUMERS The bonds, maintenance of the system and charges for Detroit water will all be paid from water billings to consumers. Water rates, however, will not increase until after July 1, 1963.

In other business last night, commissioners accepted acting City Engineer Joseph E. Neplung's cost estimate for construction of a sidewalk on the north side of Alton Street, Motor to Bagley.

Neplung's estimate was for a total cost of $2,519 with $1,280 coming through special assessments and the city paying the remaining $1,239.

A public hearing on the proposed project was slated for Sept. 4.

Special assessment rolls were ordered prepared for a curb and gutter project on a portion of Stanley Avenue after no objections to the plans were voiced at a public hearing.

Scheduled for public hearings at the Sept. 4 meeting were rolls for curb and gutter construction on portions of Chicago, Scottwood and Second avenues.

Also slated for a Sept. 4 public hearing was the roll for a project including curbs and gutters, repaving and reconstruction of a sidewalk on a portion of Western Street. Work will begin on sidewalk construction on parts of Florence Avenue. No objections were voiced at a hearing on the roll for this project.

Amy Vanderbilt to Help Out

Better Manners Sought on NYC Buses

NEW YORK (AP) — Overheard on a New York City bus, sometime in the future:

"No, my dear lady, this bus does not stop at Times Square. It is going to the Bronx. Perhaps at other time we may serve you."

"Oh, Mr. Driver. You have caught my thumb in the door. Won't you please release it."

"FAY ME LATER!"
"Sir, I would be more than happy to change your $100 bill, but unfortunately I find myself just a bit short. It's all right, though. You can pay me next time."

The preceding scenes may seem a bit fanciful to veterans of the city bus wars, but the Transit Authority hopes to introduce better manners in motion among both bus drivers and passengers.

The authority is serious enough to have engaged etiquette writer Amy Vanderbilt to help in the campaign.

TO DO RESEARCH
For the next four weeks, Miss Vanderbilt—working without fee—will ride the buses to discover for herself any signs of incompatibility or ill humor. She will use what she learns to draw up a code of conduct which the Transit Authority will display on buses.

"Courtesy breeds courtesy," Miss Vanderbilt announced Tuesday at a news conference in the rear of a parked bus.

To show the etiquette expert what she's up against, the Transit Authority put on several skits to illustrate the kind of behavior it is trying to eliminate.

Some of the little dramas were about unmannerly drivers — the autocrat, the would-be comic, the kaffeekake driver and the driver "who acts as if there were a passenger conspiracy to make his life miserable."

PASSENGERS HIT
Among the objectionable passengers portrayed were Bottleneck Bertha, the man who hands

the driver a $10 bill to change, and a passenger described as "the artful dodger, who knowingly presents a transfer that is not valid."

Miss Vanderbilt, who seemed not at all shocked by such boorish behavior, said part of the modern breakdown in manners is due to the fact that so many working women have learned "to behave as men do."

Miss Vanderbilt vowed she would do what she could to correct the situation. Then she left traveling in a chauffeur-driven limousine.

Caution Urged in Vaccine Use

State Health Dept.
Reports Polio Cases After Inoculation

LANSING (AP) — Caution in the use of oral polio vaccine was urged by state health officials yesterday after statistics turned up two cases of type 3 paralytic polio in persons who had taken the vaccine.

Dr. Albert Heustis, state health commissioner, emphasized that no direct causative link had been established between the disease and the type 3 vaccine made by the Pfizer Co.

But he said extreme caution in use of the oral vaccine should be used until more information can be obtained.

One of the cases involved a Midland resident who developed polio three weeks after inoculation at a clinic. The other showed up in Coldwater, two weeks after the victim had taken the oral vaccine. The two victims were among an estimated 100,000 persons receiving the vaccine in Michigan.

The State Health Department and the Michigan Medical Society have recommended continued use of Salk vaccine for inoculation of Michigan residents against polio.

Pontiac Motor's Record for 1962 Is Impressive

Industrial statistics can be pretty boring, but no one in this area is yawning at Pontiac Motor Division's record for the 1962 model year.

When the clank and rumble stopped at our own local plant and the other Pontiac sites around the Nation, a whopping number of Pontiacs and Tempests had been assembled.

The final count was 521,933 of the gleaming beauties that the public has come to find so desirable. This was third place in the industry for the '62 models.

There were 378,740 Pontiacs, which accounted for 5.7 per cent of the industry's production in the '62 model year. Pontiacs were 4.4 per cent in 1961's model run.

The Tempest also stepped up a notch, with 143,193 units, or 2.1 per cent of the industry. The previous Tempest model run was 100,783, or 1.9 per cent of the industry.

Increasing product acceptance is built on many things, not the least of which is the care and workmanship of our fellow townsmen. Craftsmen and high standards of production are paying big dividends.

Pontiac and Tempest have supplanted a number of other makes which couldn't match appearance, zip and reliability. Our local product has moved steadily up the ladder, passing other competitors each year.

Soon the 1963 family of Pontiacs and Tempests will be revealed, the lines will hum into action, and another chase for top honors will be under way.

There's still lots of room at the top.

Ambassador Finishes Service in Moscow

The return of U.S. Ambassador to Russia LLEWELLYN E. THOMPSON for State Department high-level assignment, brings to an end five years of distinguished service in Moscow.

His tenure, the longest ever held by an ambassadorial representative in the volcanic Soviet capital, can only be described as brilliant. Methodically imperturbable, he was ideally constituted to match diplomatic wits with Khrushchev, and enjoyed an unusual rapport with the Premier.

One of THOMPSON's top achievements was the development of the U.S.-Soviet cultural exchange program. Along with it, however, was the exacting and exasperating job of protecting the Allied position in West Berlin. This he has done with consummate skill, measurably lessening the tension in that critical area since the Russian ultimatum in 1958 ordered allied forces out of the city. At that time, the ambassador spent hours on end explaining to KHRUSHCHEV — and convincing him — that the West would not be bluffed out.

As an unexpected and rare mark of friendship, the Soviet boss invited Thompson and his wife to a farewell dinner at the former's private dacha. Capsulizing their relations, the departing ambassador said, "We have a very free and easy friendship. We both scold each other."

No more fitting summation of Ambassador THOMPSON's able and devoted service to his country could be offered than the ingenious, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Big Change in Hospitals in Last Fifty Years

One of the most significant changes in American life in the last 50 years has taken place in the field of hospitals. Many of us can remember the days when a trip to one of the few medical facilities that existed was a sure sign that the patient's case was considered hopeless.

Hospitals present a far different picture today. In some communities, a great deal of the time there are waiting lists. This is true right here in the Pontiac area.

Better facilities, hospitalization plans and a host of other innovations account for this.

The changing role is reflected in costs, too. Again last year bills hit a new high, according to the American Hospital Association. The average reached $33.91 per day. With a stay of seven and a half days, the total cost per patient was $254.37.

All this is due to the wide acceptance of the hospital as the pivot in the movement toward better public health.

The Man About Town

Club Dubs Award Husband's Golf Honor Saved by Belated Ace

By HOWARD V. HELDENBRAND

A truth-is-stranger-than-fiction golf hole-in-one story is relayed by Mrs. Clare (Eleanor) Scriven of 78 Oriole Road. It seems that several years ago she shot an ace on No. 5 hole at Inverness Country Club, near Gregory. In time, the club sent her a customary memento of the occasion but, due to a previous error in attributing the feat to husband Clare, the souvenir turned out to be a man's silver belt buckle inscribed CLARE SCRIVEN HOLE-IN-ONE August 17, 1957.

Since it was then nearing Christmas, the lady gift-wrapped it and facetiously presented it to the head of the family as a present. Knowing a good thing when he saw it, he at once put the buckle into service, even though he was wearing it under false pretenses! ... tek-tek-tek.

The Currier will be lowered to denote passage of five years. Now to end on an all-well-that-ends-well finish and make an honest man out of the male Scriven. What do you think? Yep, you hit it right on the pin. Because on August 10, 1962 he shot a hole-in-one — and believe it or not, the same No. 5 hole at the same club!

Mrs. Elton H. Dufay of 2278 East Walton, a lover of birds, phones in a precautionary note for those who might purchase parakeets. Young ones, she says, will not always find the side dishes of food and water mid-height of the small cage they have not been used to, and will starve before acclimated.

At first, a dish of food and a jar top of water should be kept on bottom of cage easy for fledglings to find.

Our informant says that recently a local store sold a quantity of five-to-six week old parakeets without giving such warning and she's pretty sure many would have starved in their helplessness.

David Lawrence Asks:

Government Take-Over Ahead?

WASHINGTON—Shall the Government own everything, regulate everything—including prices and wages—and control the whole national economy? For many decades the answer to such a question would have been emphatic negative, but today the Democratic party has a substantial number of members in Congress who openly favor government ownership as a public policy.

The recent filibuster on the bill covering ownership of the space-satellite communications system—known as "Telstar"—revealed several Democratic senators of the so-called "liberal" group, near Gregory, in time, the club sent her a customary memento of the occasion but, due to a previous error in attributing the feat to husband Clare, the souvenir turned out to be a man's silver belt buckle inscribed CLARE SCRIVEN HOLE-IN-ONE August 17, 1957.

Also, some Democratic members of the Senate Antitrust Committee now are demanding that the steel companies disclose data on their internal operations, which means that all competitors would see this information. Apparently the drive is on to increase government control over the making of prices. This is a short step away from wage setting.

Proposed mergers, moreover, of railroads and consolidations of airlines are before government bodies today for approval or disapproval. The prospect is that many workers will lose their jobs because of such mergers, though the companies predict that the gain in efficiency will result in improved service and eventually in more jobs.

The labor union leaders would be the last to admit it, but they must assume some responsibility for the plight of those transportation companies which are not able to get high enough rates to absorb increased wage costs and to meet the expense of "featherbedding"—payment for work not being done. This constitutes a form of subsidy devised by labor unions to benefit their own members.

SOUND APPROACH? Companies nowadays have to decide whether to seek an alternative or to try to get along with fewer employees and be content with the sale of a relatively high price to those who must have such goods no matter what the cost. The alternative policy is usually to endeavor to get a larger sales volume at lower prices.

This is theoretically a sound approach, but it depends on the use of automatic equipment and on the development of greater efficiency. This is something which labor union policy customarily refuses to give cooperation.

The Country Parson

And it is equally possible for the stomach and intestines to be sluggish or overactive. They may develop spasms every so often without showing detectable evidence of organic disease at the time of examination.

And while the "functional" disturbance may be increased by emotional stress, its presence does not necessarily indicate that the complaint is a "neurasthenia," "hypochondria" or a "nervousness."

If the "functional" disturbance persists although there is no evidence of organic disease and despite efforts to "lighten the fun belt" or "adjust the timing" re-examination is required. Underlying organic disease might have been overlooked at previous examinations.

And just as the diagnosis of a functional disorder is no reflection on the patient's nerves or mental make-up, so the later detection of underlying organic disease does not necessarily mean there was carelessness or incompetence on the part of the examining physician who dealt with the disturbance in its earliest phases.

Many people are understandably confused about the common medical terms "functional" and "organic." For example, a young mother of five children, having been told she has "functional heart disease," writes to inquire how that is possible when she has a normal electrocardiogram, normal heart sounds and normal blood pressure.

Also, to build and modernize plants requires more capital. Investors do not like to lend or invest money in enterprises that are in trouble. So it's a vicious circle. Unless there are satisfactory earnings, the funds cannot be obtained to build better plants to promote greater efficiency and to increase earnings. Yet unless labor costs and work rules can be held in line, employers will soon find their earnings steadily diminished.

The whole system of free enterprise is one of risk capital and hazards, but it nevertheless has managed to build America into the most powerful economic factor in the world today.

Feels Homework Is OK—if Given Out Moderately

I have been reading the article "Should Children Have Homework?" I agree with Robert S. Fox, director of the Michigan University School that a child should not be assigned homework until in the sixth grade. But then comes junior high school and instead of one teacher there are three or four assigning homework.

I have seen my granddaughter who is in the 9th grade stay up until 12:30 doing homework. My granddaughter who is in high school has practically ruined her eyes from reading one book after another for English.

Homework should be given in mild doses. If there are enough study periods during the day there shouldn't be so much homework.

'Kanteen Employee Entitled to Reward'

I understand the young man at the Keg Kanteen robbery was able to give an exact description of the car used in the holdup... even up to a broken tail light and that within one and one-half hours the bandit was being questioned.

'Kanteen Employee Entitled to Reward'

Apparently the leads the police had before were insufficient for arrest or they would not have allowed the "stealing bandits" to continue jeopardizing lives.

I feel that the Keg Kanteen employee is entitled to the reward.

Avondale Issue Still Controversial

It takes courage to join a minority group. Many Avondale people have been misled. The new association represents every part of the school district and the recall action started before the appointment of Mr. Shuckford. Thus the issue is whether the four officers were guided by their sense of responsibility to their children.

I have been an Avondale School Board member for 15 years. I had no complaints as far as school board members are concerned. Not everyone that worked on the Citizens Committee has the same opinion as the purpose of the committee. I was under the impression it was for the good of our schools and not to push the millage and save a job for a man.

Member, Citizens Study Committee

Congratulations to the Avondale Board of Education on George Shackelford for superintendent. It could have come up with a more difficult job. He has devoted all his life to education and he knows the needs. Reuniting a community that has become divided is not an easy task. We have a good board and an excellent superintendent and the millage and the bond issue will be used to further our educational system.

Mrs. Max N. Beamish

There is no school controversy over Avondale Schools. My sympathy is extended to all the trustees because it requires a Christian

Foreign Service

The Adrian Daily Telegram

The test of a really good man in the U.S. foreign service is presumed to be his capability, his performance of tasks and his ability to promote understanding and agreement with the people. The Kennedy administration has expressed the need to attract such personalities.

One trouble appears to be that the Kennedy administration imposes another test—the party affiliation—and it puts this test above all the others. No matter how capable an administrator, how devoted to his work, how well he promotes understanding, and how well he performs his job, if he is not a Democrat, he is not to be considered.

All this is brought out in the article appearing in The Brazil Herald, an English language newspaper published in Rio de Janeiro.

Some of the arrivals and departures are important news in the field of Brazilian-American relations. United States interests are to lose Minister-Director of AID and Mrs. Leonard J. Sacco and their two sons. They are returning to Washington for reassignment, but for unknown reasons so common to a political machine that bites off its nose to spite its face.

In view of his remarkable record and performance in Brazil we can only conjecture that the bipartisan foreign policy of Washington has gone up the Rio and that Republicans, no matter how effective and successful are persons not great at the present time.

4 Steel Firms Get 2nd Chance

Antitrust Group Votes to Issue New Orders for Them to Comply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate antitrust investigators have voted to issue "second chance" subpoenas to four steel companies that refused to land in reports on their pricing practices.

The action came Tuesday, at a closed-door session of the Senate antitrust subcommittee. Chairman Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., said the vote was 5 to 3.

Before the session, Kefauver said he would ask the subcommittee to approve contempt of Congress citations against the National, Republic, Bethlehem and Armco steel corporations.

Instead, the senators decided to issue new subpoenas, giving the steel producers a second chance to comply, Kefauver said. He said the subpoenas will go out immediately, not only to the companies but to their chief officers as well, and will be returnable in 10 to 12 days.

DEM'S IN FAVOR

The subcommittee's five Democrats voted to issue them, with the three Republican members opposed, Kefauver said.

The original subpoenas were issued last April after the steel industry's short-lived price increase. The $6-a-ton boost was announced and then rescinded under White House pressure.

Kefauver said at that time detailed information on production costs was essential for "an intelligent evaluation of the need for price increases."

He said last week that eight steel companies, including U.S. Steel Corp., had indicated they would comply with the subpoenas, although they strongly objected to submitting cost figures.

Kefauver said he advised the eight they need not produce the data until the question of complicity by the noncomplying companies has been finally determined.

Urge Law to Up the School Age

State Bar Unit Says
Forced Attendance
Would Cut Dropouts

LANSING (UPI) — Students should be forced to remain in school two years longer to help ease the dropout problem, the State Bar of Michigan said yesterday in a special report.

A special committee of the group researched juvenile problems and brought forth six recommendations in its report, including one that called for legalization of smoking for youths at 17 instead of the current age of 21.

Probate Judge Mary S. Coleman, Calhoun County, headed the committee that also recommended:

Loss of jurisdiction of probate courts under the Crippled and Afflicted Children's act.

That the State Corrections Department provide ample facility to which children can be committed by probate judges under the Wayward Minor Act.

URGES LEGISLATION

That probate courts be given jurisdiction to youths to the age of 18 instead of 17.

That the state bar support legislation to provide "urgently needed funds" for regional detention facilities, youth camp facilities, additional institutional facilities for mentally retarded children and 600 beds at the boys training school at Whitmore Lake.

The committee recommendations will be taken up at the annual state bar meeting here Monday.

Dropouts were described as "one of the major basic problems facing our society."

The committee report said the young, untrained persons will make up a "large part of the roster of unemployed."

"Many of them," the report said, "will drift into delinquency and graduate to our prisons."

Under the recommendation on extension of the school age, students would be required to attend school until they are 18 instead of 16, or until graduation from high school.

Pastor Elected Third Time to Head Pythians

The Rev. J. Allen Parker, pastor of Newman AME Church, has been re-elected for the third time to the highest post of the Knights of Pythias of Michigan.

As chancellor-commander, the Rev. Parker will hold another two-year term. Locally, he is a member of Pontiac's Success Lodge No. 10.

Mr. Parker also is vice president of the Pontiac Board of Education. He was elected to the Pythian post at the 40th biannual state convention in Detroit over the weekend.

AFL-CIO Supports Drug Act Changes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The AFL-CIO urged the House Commerce Committee today to give quick approval to President Kennedy's proposals for strengthening government controls over drugs.

The labor organization presented its views as the House group began its third day of public hearings on legislation strongly opposed by the drug industry.

The pharmaceutical firms have told Congress they favor the objectives of the bill, but they said it goes too far and might even hamper medical progress.

The AFL-CIO said the changes in the Federal Drug Act were necessary to give greater protection to the nation's health.

Kansas had the highest acceptance rate for men called to military service with 74.4 per cent approved according to World War II draft records.

Study Weight Loss as Sign of Stress in Astronauts

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Conflicting information about the medical performance of their astronauts, Little is known of the physiological reaction of Soviet astronauts to the rigors of space flight. One critical sign of stress can be associated with weight loss, more specifically loss of large amounts of water. Indications of this came from Tuesday's conference reviewing the technical details of Malcolm Scott Carpenter's flight May 24. It was the second orbital flight in a U.S. spacecraft.

Carpenter, a 154-pounder at flight time, dropped six pounds by the time he weighed in aboard the recovery ships 15 hours later. Most people lose some weight in the course of a strenuous day. But there are indications weight loss can be caused by hormonal activity—more specifically activity of adrenal gland hormones, believed to be indicators of stress. The adrenal gland produces a variety of hormones, and some of them have been shown to be aid in the body's reaction to stress. Meeting a sudden challenge, adrenalin is released into the bloodstream and keeps alert every muscle. Other adrenal hormones regulate other body systems, including the release or retention of water, perhaps in response to other kinds of stress. U.S. space doctors are concerned with how much water to permit astronauts to drink before and during spaceflight. The problem is keeping a proper water balance in the body. John H. Glenn Jr., on the first U.S. orbital flight, became slightly dehydrated. His water intake was limited, but his water loss was termed normal.

Carpenter lost about three times as much water as Glenn lost during a similar experience, indicating there may be broad personal differences. This is what flight physicians want to explore more fully. It could bear strongly on flights of long duration.

Dr. R. Robert Gilruth, director of the manned space center here, said the Soviet flight should not be underestimated nor overestimated.

'My Turn Next,' First Says Nikita, Then Uncle Sam

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—American and Russian, in their proposals to each other about banning nuclear tests, are like two men with an endless supply of balloons in a shooting gallery. When one gets shot down, they're not surprised. They send up another. They've been doing it for years. The United States is about to send up another.

ITLL POP
This time, an authoritative source here said Tuesday, the United States is ready to propose a ban on nuclear tests in the atmosphere. This ought to pop fast, since the Russians have already decided such an idea.

All the maneuvering between the two powers is based on what each side says it wants and doesn't want. This has been repeated so often it sounds scratchy.

The United States says it wants disarmament—including a ban on nuclear tests—but they're even more distrustful than the United States. They say inspection is just an American spy trick. They want none of it.

This sums up years of talking between the two giants. Back in 1958, without any formal agreement, the United States, Russia and Britain voluntarily agreed to suspend nuclear tests.

That lasted three years but it very thought of it.

Premier Khrushchev got out the Soviet record and played it over again—a demand for a ban on all kinds of tests everywhere—and suggested that under the American proposals it wouldn't be all right to test less than 31 miles up but would be all right to blast off at 50.

He said no. Then suddenly last Aug. 21—although American authorities had thought something was cooking—Khrushchev called off that voluntary ban which started in 1958 and announced Russia would begin testing. It did, right away.

The Russians' ability to resume tests so fast meant they had been preparing for months. Khrushchev's excuse was that Russia couldn't let the United States develop nuclear superiority. Immediately President Kennedy and British Prime Minister, Harold Macmillan made him a proposition: Let's ban all tests which "take place in the atmosphere and cause radioactive fallout."

Then this country, in the spring of 1962, began its tests over the Pacific—firing one at a high altitude on July 8. Not to be outdone, Khrushchev announced Russia would have some more tests, and tested again.

Then recently the United States, while still insisting on some kind of inspection inside Russia, offered a new nuclear test ban plan. This time with fewer inspectors. Russia said no on that one. Now the United States is about to propose an atmospheric test ban, although Khrushchev has already said no on that one.

Science at Work

Foresee Increasing Use of Electricity for Heat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Scientists cite progress in conversion of heat and wheat, and they work on a nuclear reactor monitor for use in space.

Scientists say the thermionic generator, which converts heat directly into electricity, will become increasingly important on earth as well as in space.

Dr. Robert W. Fidd of General Atomics Division, General Dynamics Corp., predicts the first important use of the generator will come from teaming thermionic cells with nuclear-powered plants generating electricity. They will produce current from temperatures ranging from 3,000 to 6,000 degrees Fahrenheit and boost plant efficiency by as much as one-third.

A drawback with experimental units has been a discouragingly short life, often less than 100 hours. But scientists and engineers at an energy conversion conference in San Francisco last week heard reports of three still going strong after 433 hours, 3,324 hours and 3,668 hours, respectively.

Thermionic converters work much like the familiar radio tube. Electrons boil off a heated element in a vacuum or in ionized vapor, are caught by a colder electrode and emerge as electric current.

When the United States rockets its first nuclear reactor into outer space, close tabs will be kept on the reactor operation. A monitoring system is being designed and built at General Electric plant in San Jose, Calif.

Readings on radiation from the reactor—now being developed to provide 500 watts of electric power for satellite instrumentation—will be transmitted to ground stations. The information will be used for further development of nuclear power systems for space.

Neutron and gamma ray detectors and other components of the monitoring system are designed to operate in temperatures up to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

Institute scientists say they've developed a chemical treatment for wheat that makes it a practical substitute for rice in various dishes.

JFK Writes Adenauer About Berlin Issue

BONN, Germany (AP)—Diplomatic sources say differences between the U.S. and West German governments probably have not been resolved by a personal letter from President Kennedy to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on West Berlin and other issues.

"There has never been such distrust between the United States and the West German government as is being experienced at this time," one diplomat said.

U. S. Ambassador Walter C. Dowling delivered the letter to Adenauer Monday night.

A West German spokesman said it dealt with the U.S. position on the current international political situation, especially the Berlin and other German problems. He declined to give further details except to say Adenauer found the letter "very satisfactory."

"All misunderstandings which have arisen in the past weeks have been ironed out," a Bonn government source said.

However, other knowledgeable West German official said differences between Bonn and Washington are too deep to be patched up by a letter.

RETURNS TO POST
Dowling returned from consultations and leave in the United States last week and had a long conference with the chancellor Monday night.

Adenauer reportedly fears the United States is shifting its defense policy in Europe to give prime importance to conventional forces at the expense of nuclear protection for the continent.

FBI Finds Little 'Lost' Girls Trapped in Bathroom

ONLY LOCKED IN — Rita Ohlgren (left) and Maria Teresa Morley are both 7 years old. The FBI freed them from a locked bathroom in a vacant apartment building, near their Alexandria, Va., home, where they had been trapped for 48 hours. They were hungry, but unharmed by their ordeal. Kidnaping had been suspected.

Two FBI agents, making one more routine check of nearby buildings, found the youngsters Tuesday.

Hungry, but unharmed by their ordeal, pigtailed Maria Teresa Morley and her pal, black-haired Rita Ohlgren, came home to joyous welcomes from families and neighbors.

They had been missing since Sunday afternoon and had spent two nights locked in a bathroom of the untenanted second-floor apartment.

The girls said they had gone in to use the bathroom as they had often done while playing nearby. This time, the defective lock trapped them in the small windowless room.

SLEPT IN TUB

At first, they banged and yelled. When no one heard and the hours ticked by, they settled down to wait. They tried to open the lock with the hook end of a two-bed spring Maria Teresa had with her. They spent some time drawing with crayons.

Finally, they huddled together to sleep in the lavender bathtub. "It was cold," Maria Teresa said, and they became hungry.

The girls were dressed in shorts and sleeveless blouses and they shivered in the air conditioning which was operating in the empty apartment. They had nothing to eat since noon Sunday, but there was plenty of water.

Their sudden disappearance from the garden apartment development area touched off a frantic search by some 600 volunteers, police, soldiers, Marines and neighbors.

Marine helicopters and police dogs joined in the widespread hunt that fanned out into metropolitan Washington.

To the frantic mothers, put to bed with sedatives, and the haggard fathers, who had searched in fear, their return was incredible relief.

LIKE BAD DREAM

"God gave us another chance," said Rita's mother, Mrs. Arthur S. Ohlgren. Her husband, a Marine major, had been called back on emergency leave as he was en route to a new military assignment in Japan.

"It was just like a bad dream," she said.

The fathers told how the FBI agents—U. Leroy Sweeney and Lansing P. (Pete) Logan—had burst into their apartments shortly after 4 p.m. Tuesday with the good news that the girls were found safe.

"Wonderful," was the way Maria Teresa's father, William Morley, summed it up. A commercial artist employed by the Inter-American Development Bank in Washington, he was unharmed and his face was red from sunburn he got in two days of exhausting search.

His wife, Magdalena, a native of Guatemala, said she had been "quite a wreck" during the ordeal.

The scene was something of a festa though, when the good news spread through the apartment development.

The two girls happily told their story over and over. But first they had a repeat of their favorite foods. For Rita, it was spaghetti and meat balls and a glass of milk. For Maria Teresa, beef noodle soup, peanut butter sandwiches and a strawberry-flavored soft drink.

MSU Economist Blasts Power of Corporations

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Michigan State University economist told the Senate-House Economic Committee yesterday that "the number one domestic problem of our time" is economic power concentrated in huge corporations.

Dr. Walter G. Adams said the decision by the auto industry's big three to stay out of an expanding world auto market after World War II penalized American workers, consumers and investors.

He called it an example of a corporate decision working against the national good. Adams said the big three assigned the foreign market to their overseas subsidiaries.

Referring to "the hapless American public," Adams said only the dramatic rise of auto imports in the late 1950s forced development of domestic compact cars.

Dr. Robert F. LaSalle, MSU Economics Department chairman, scored the pricing policies of many big companies, saying they are geared to profit making without use of full plant capacity or labor supply. He said this will lead to inflation even during recessions.

"How can Americans hope for full employment and full economic growth if big business gears its operations to levels short of that?" he asked.

Adams said corporate decisions can have effects reaching far beyond the apparent limits of the corporation.

Extradition Hearing for Guido Postponed

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The Washington Circuit Court has postponed until Sept. 11 an extradition hearing for Nick Guido, 41, alleged leader of a Chicago terrorist-hold-up gang.

A sheriff's deputy said the postponement resulted from the granting by Michigan Gov. John B. Swainson of a hearing on the sufficiency of the Illinois extradition warrant. The special hearing was set for Sept. 7.

Guido was arrested near Ypsilanti with Frank Yonder, 23, who has been returned to Illinois and identified by victims as a gang member.

To Give Algeria Food

TOKYO (AP) — Food-short Red China says it will give Algeria 9,000 tons of wheat, 3,000 tons of rolled steel and 21 tons of medicine. The gift was announced Tuesday by Peiping radio.

Beaches Get New Menace—Politicians

By DICK WERT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A weekend at the beach, is under the best of conditions, rather perilous recreation.

If you are lucky enough to avoid sunburn, shark bites and drowning, the chances are good that one of those mountebank nuts who insist on exercising will flatten you with a beach ball.

To this formidable array of natural hazards has just been added an artificial menace: politicians.

Almost everywhere that you looked last weekend, what was left of serenity at the shore was being shattered by office-seekers who have suddenly discovered that a sand spit usually contains a ready-made, precocked audience.

President Kennedy's trip to the West Coast was killed as non-political and he is not up for reelection this year. But his dip in the Pacific was typical of what this type of campaigning can lead to.

Bathers who were peacefully enjoying the sea air at Santa Monica found themselves being swarmed over by a tidal wave of President watchers, some of whom followed Kennedy into the surf fully clothed.

They must have thought they were at one of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's poolside parties.

One reporter described the scene at Santa Monica as "reminiscent of Coney Island," perhaps not knowing how right he was.

Coney Island happened to be one of the four New York beaches that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller chose to stump last Sunday.

Descending on the half-baked hordes by helicopter, Rockefeller went around eating hot dogs, shaking hands and kissing babies. There is no telling how many votes he lost by slipping babies that already had absorbed too much sun.

In Maryland, three Republican candidates made a helicopter tour of six beaches on the bay shore while a Democratic congressional candidate worked the ocean front.

The Republicans set up loudspeakers, which a beach needs like it needs a hurricane.

The Democrat walked about introducing himself to sunbathers, who previously had only sand fleas to disturb them.

The way things are going, America's beaches will soon have more candidates than sand and crabs. I personally view the situation with alarm, but there is one small consolation.

At least the candidates won't be handing out campaign buttons. Swim suits being what they are today, there is no place to pin them.

Manager in Dublin Hounded by 'Ike'

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Ike tangled with John Fitzgerald Kennedy today in the crowded lobby of Dublin's Gresham Hotel.

Ike and John Fitzgerald Kennedy are a pair of black French poodles belonging to Teddy O'Sullivan, the manager of the hotel.

"It would have to happen when we have Gen. Eisenhower as our distinguished guest," said the embarrassed O'Sullivan.

The former U.S. President, who arrived yesterday for the windup of his European sight-seeing tour, was in his first floor suite when his namesake snarped briefly in the lobby with the canine Kennedy.

The dogs' owner explained that when he named them, he had not the faintest idea that the original Ike would be staying at his hostelry. The poodles also live at the Gresham, in the manager's pent-house suite.

O'Sullivan said he bought his first poodle in the United States during the 1956 Eisenhower-Stevenson presidential campaign.

"I decided to name the dog after the winner," he said, "and when Gen. Eisenhower won, I had the dog properly registered with the kennel club as Ike."

Four years later the dog fathered a litter of pups.

"Once more it was American election time," said the hotel man, "and once more I decided to name my dog after the winner. When Mr. Kennedy won, I called the dog what I did."

Four Plead Guilty to Federal Charges

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Four respondents pleaded guilty yesterday in three separate arrangements before U.S. District Court Judge Raymond Starr. Three were jailed to await sentence.

Ronald B. Higgins, 38, of Mount Clemens, and Patrick E. Feney, 38, of Detroit, admitted transporting a stolen car Aug. 8 from South Bend, Ind., to Colwater.

Thomas N. Milne, 22, of Cheboygan, pleaded guilty of taking a stolen car July 23 from Ponca City, Okla., to Traverse City.

Harry G. Western, 21, of Crystal, pleaded guilty of altering postal money orders and was released on personal bond pending sentence Sept. 14.

He was charged with changing the amount of one money order from $17 to $27 and another from $25 to $32.50. The offenses took place in Crystal last April 23 and on July 26, 1961.

Congress in Fever to Quit but Bills Keep Piling Up

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders apparently are going to have to choose between abandoning some major elements of President Kennedy's program

First Night at Home

Winnie Well, Happy

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill awakened refreshed and happy in his Hyde Park Gate home today following his return from Middlesex Hospital.

"He had a good night," said a spokesman. "He seems well and happy this morning."

The old warrior spent 54 days in Middlesex Hospital after he fractured his left thigh in a fall in a Monte Carlo hotel while on vacation.

The 87-year-old statesman was in good spirits when an ambulance took him from the hospital to his London home adjacent to Hyde Park yesterday.

Puffing the inevitable cigar, the former wartime leader smiled and waved his hat at the crowds which cheered him.

He is convalescing in a specially prepared ground floor suite at his home.

or keeping Congress in session until October.

The betting on Capitol Hill is that several of the administration's pet measures are going to fall victim of the adjournment fever building up among candidates anxious to campaign in an election in which 39 Senate and all House seats will be filled.

Some of these candidates already are calling for action on a minimum of necessary legislation and an early quitting date. Almost nobody thinks there will be a post-election session.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana has laid down a program for Senate consideration of six bills. All concerned agreed the measures will keep the Senate busy until Sept. 15.

BILLS INCLUDE

The six bills included a compromise farm measure which was expected to win Senate approval today. Behind this Mansfield listed measures dealing with drug controls, expanded compensation for disabled veterans, Philippine war damage claims, tax revision and international trade.

He decided to take up the controversial tax revision bill when it became apparent that the Finance Committee won't complete action on the trade measure until early September.

In the tax bill an administration provision for a 7 per cent credit on business plant investment is under heavy fire. There will be the usual futile efforts made to reduce the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. Some senator may come up with an amendment for the immediate tax reduction Kennedy decided not to request.

The trade bill is certain to attract a mountain of amendments and produce a hurricane of talk.

Mansfield's schedule did not cover such House-passed bills as those dealing with postal rate increase and pay raises for postal and other federal employees. Nor did it include measures the House is expected to pass for extending federal unemployment compensation payments and to provide money for the foreign aid program.

$500 MILLION SUBSIDY

The Democratic leader offered no timetable for possible action on an administration bill to provide a $500-million federal subsidy for mass transportation operations.

He said the Senate won't move until the House does on a measure Kennedy consistently has plugged to set up a youth conservation corps.

A bill to provide aid for higher education—about the only measure of its kind given any chance for passage in this Congress—still is tied up tightly in Senate-House disagreement over its terms.

The House has yet to act on a bill which would authorize Kennedy to initiate $300 million in public works of all kinds if an economic recession threatens.

It still has coming up its annual battle over foreign aid funds.

There also will be noisy argument over a Senate-passed measure to authorize the purchase of U.N. bonds. It still must dispose of measures such as those covering drug controls and unemployment compensation.

Also pending is a Senate-passed proposal for a constitutional amendment to abolish state poll taxes.

WINNIE GOES HOME — Sir Winston Churchill is lifted by attendants to a waiting ambulance as he leaves the London hospital yesterday where he spent 54 days recuperating from a broken thigh. The 87-year-old statesman was taken to his London home to complete convalescence from the injury suffered in a fall while vacationing on the French Riviera.

Alaskans Laud Professor's Hike in the Arctic

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Hardy Alaskans are acclaiming the feat of a Swedish professor who hiked 300 miles alone above the Arctic Circle in a successful challenge of the wilderness.

The hiker, Dr. Rune Lindgren, 42, reached at the community of Arctic Village, 125 miles north of Ft. Yukon, after walking from his demarcation point on the Arctic Ocean.

Lindgren, visiting professor from Sweden at Johns Hopkins University, started the trip July 13 and made it through the rugged country in four weeks. Word of his safe arrival at Arctic Village was relayed Monday from Ft. Yukon.

Teacher Union Prepared to Pick Leader

DETROIT (AP)—The American Federation of Teachers (AFT-CIO) prepared today to choose between incumbent president Carl J. Megel and Dr. Myron Lieberman for its leader for two years. Megel, 52, president for 10 years, faced a challenge from a rank-and-filer who made his reputation in part in the union's successful New York City organizing effort last year.

The AFT's 46th annual convention scheduled its election for late today, Megel and Lieberman were expected to be the only presidential nominees. A 16-member executive council also will be chosen. Lieberman, 43, University of Illinois summer school faculty member, based his election fight on a pledge to do a better job of organizing new AFT members than the present union leadership has provided.

The AFT claims slightly more than 70,000 members. Megel said 10,000 were gained within the past year partly as a result of the New York City drive. The nation has an estimated 1.5 million public school teachers. The AFT's parent body—the AFL-CIO—has indicated a desire to organize them all into the AFT.

The AFL-CIO's chief of organization for its industrial union department, Nicholas A. Zonavarich, told the convention's 750 delegates Tuesday that "a million and a half of you are a great potential possibility."

"You perhaps could be the most effective organized group in America," Zonavarich said. Lieberman won the nomination to oppose Megel in a convention caucus contest with Herrick Roth of Denver. The vote was reported as 378 to 329 for Lieberman.

Both Lieberman and Megel support school teachers' right to strike. "There are many in-stances," Lieberman said in an interview, "in which a teacher should not only be permitted to go on strike but should be re-quired to go on strike."

Megel took this position Tuesday in his denunciation of the National Education Association. The NEA rejects strikes as a means to enforce demands for teachers. Only teachers "who themselves are free" are fit to "teach freedom to the young," Dr. Henry Hermann, professor of human-ities at Wayne State University, told the convention in a prepared address.

In apparent reference to the NEA, Dr. Hermann said "a teacher who is enslaved by reason of being a member of an administrator-dominated union must first break the bonds of his own government if he is to teach the young what it means to be free."

The NEA membership includes school administrators. An administrator who has the power to hire and fire is not eligible to AFT membership.

Pershing Missile Passes Short Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Pershing artillery missile testing a quicker, explosive nose cone separation device has been fired successfully on a short range flight.

The two-stage, solid-fuel rocket hit a target about 200 miles down range Tuesday night in its first test flight in more than two months. Since the last shot in June technicians worked to correct problems which plagued the missile in three of the five previous launchings.

Full Production Halted at Tobin Iron Ore Mine

CRYSTAL FALLS, Minn. (AP)—A temporary halt in production at Republic Steel Corp.'s Tobin Mine will begin Friday because of declining iron ore markets, less than three months after resumption of full production.

Company officials said salaried employees and maintenance crews would stay on duty while 100 workers will be paid off.

'Glances' Go From Barney Ross to Tokyo Olympics

By BOB CONSIDINE
NEW YORK — Some daring glances in all directions: In Helsinki last Friday night, Barney Ross tells me, the temperature fell to the low 40s just before the featherweight title fight between Davey Moore and Olli Maki.

Barney, the referee, felt chilled to the bone. While the fighters were getting their last instructions from their handlers, the former lightweight and welterweight king went into a vigorous stage of shadow-boxing to loosen and warm up.

As he punched away at his imaginary foe, Ross became aware that the 25,000 fans in the Olympic Stadium were setting up a tremendous cheer. He looked from Moore's corner to Maki's, wondering what caused the commotion.

Then he realized the mob was applauding him, Ross.

"I still can't get over it," he told us. "It's like giving an ovation to an umpire."

Piece of fiction I inflicted on Exquire for its current edition has raised an eyebrow or two. Including mine.

It has to do, in part, with Russia putting not one but two men in orbit. They fly close together in space, converse, and do a few other things which cosmonauts Mikolayev and Popovich actually did out there last week.

Started the story a year ago in Berlin and finished it three or four months ago. It was in type and ready for release in the August issue of the magazine since two months before the Soviets stunned us with their back-to-back space-men.

There's just no way to explain a coincidence of this kind.

The results of the 1964 Tokyo Olympics will be handled by an IBM computer. It is felt that only an electric brain will be capable of keeping straight the outcome of endless heats, preliminaries and finals in such sports as track and field, swimming, diving, rowing, fencing, gymnastics, equestrian events, judo, women's volleyball and a women's pentathlon.

In 30 seconds the machine can digest events taking place in a host of arenas spread around Tokyo, compare times and distances with memory-stored records, announce new records, identify the winners of the 200 gold medals to be presented, and cook a full eight-course satypaki dinner.

More than 8,000 athletes from 103 nations will compete. Russia will be favored. The only event where in the U.S. at the moment seems certain to win a first place is in Stuffed Fish. No other nation can touch our Olympic officials in that grueling competition.

A justified complaint from a Detroit reader, Josephine M. Tasnowski:

"You write from Paris about the contribution the French made toward the release of atomic energy, and especially mentioned Marie Curie as if she were a French scientist."

"She was, of course, Polish. Marie Curie-Skłodowska. She was married to Pierre Curie, the French physicist, in 1895. It is a sorrow to me to have to stay forever in Paris," Marie wrote to her Polish friend Kazia.

"But what am I to do? Fate has made us deeply attached to each other and we cannot endure the idea of separating."

"France has no claim on Marie Curie. She belongs to Poland! Why does France claim the honor? Because she married a Frenchman?"

"One does not change her nationality with marriage. Because she is buried in France? So are hundreds of our GIs. Does that make them French?"

"Poland has been robbed of her freedom and her land repeatedly. Is she to be robbed of her most famous scientist? Never!"

Tells Teachers to Be Leaders

Prof at Wayne State Would Have Profession Preach Liberty

DETROIT (UPI) — A Wayne State University professor said today a teacher who works in an "atmosphere of coercion and oppression, and accepts it, is therefore unfit to transmit the blessings of liberty to the new generation of Americans."

Dr. Henry Herrman, professor of humanities, spoke to the delegates attending the 46th annual convention of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers (AFT).

"A teacher who is enslaved by reason of being a member of an administrator-dominated union must first break the bonds of his own government if he is to teach the young what it means to be free," Herrman said.

Herrman said teaching is not a profession.

"Teachers are workers," he said. "When members of the medical profession want something badly enough, as they did in Canada recently, they go on strike in the same way that mine workers or factory workers or teachers do."

LET TEACHERS LEAD

He said he would rather see the "prestige" professions emulate the teachers than have the teachers imitate the professions.

"Teachers have a more genuine sense of public service, are more responsive to the needs of people, have a far greater social sensitivity than any other group of the so-called professions," he said.

Herrman said that in the drive to organize the nation's school teachers, "We shall not always claim brilliant victories," but he said, "It is the struggle that strengthens."

CONCEPT TEAM

He called for creation of a "concept team" on the national level to "shape the basic ideas that become the guiding principles of a self-renewing federation of teachers."

"The concept team that I envisioned would forge the concepts, write the pamphlets, plan the course of action that, with the president and his staff, will ultimately give the federation of teachers the authority and the voice that speaks for all the teachers of America," he said.

Kelley Warns of Fraudulent Aspirin Ads

LANSING (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley has issued a warning against advertisements offering profitable sales territory for Bayer Aspirin through the Pac-Aid Co., St. Louis, Mo. Kelley said that the consumer protection division of attorney general's office had determined that the advertisements were not authorized by the Sterling Drug Co., makers of the aspirin.

He asked that any Michigan residents who have had contact with Pac-Aid or its owner, Doyle Rattis, or the Continental Industries of St. Louis, contact his office or the Better Business Bureau in their locality.

Rattis is awaiting trial on mail fraud charges and is under investigation for other illegal activities, said Kelley.

A U.S. court for the eastern district of Missouri recently issued a permanent injunction against Rattis' use of the Bayer name in his advertising at the request of Sterling Drug.

Favor Indonesia in N. Guinea Vote

Editor's Note — Hal McClure made frequent trips to West New Guinea on assignment during the long dispute between Indonesia and the Netherlands.

By HAL MCCLURE

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Indonesia stands an excellent chance of coming out on top in any Papuan plebiscite on self-determination held in once-disputed West New Guinea.

Time, first of all, is in its favor. Secondly, the U.N. agreement between Indonesia and the Netherlands favors the Indonesians. The Dutch are the first to admit it.

The U.N. accord provides for the transfer of the California-sized territory the United Nations about Oct. 1.

The fate of the island's 700,000 Papuans presumably will be decided in an election to be held some time before the end of 1963. Of the agreement, Dutch Foreign Minister Joseph Luns told his people, "it was not an ideal plan, because the administration was given to Indonesia before the Papuans exercise their right of self-determination."

The original Bunker proposal—named for U.S. diplomat Ellisworth Bunker, who led the discussions under U.N. auspices—called for a two-year transition period. What has disappointed the Hague—and Papuan leaders—was the fact that for several years the Netherlands has pushed decolonization and self-determination for the Papuans. They received little support in the United Nations.

Self-determination has been the rallying cry of the so-called Papuan "intellectual" as well as the Dutch-sponsored New Guinea Council, made up largely of Papuans.

Some of these Papuan leaders have said angrily that the adoption of the Bunker plan would mean abandonment by Holland.

As for the plebiscite itself, the wording in the U.N. agreement is not too clear. The agreement says a U.N. representative and a staff of experts will advise, assist and participate in arrangements, which are the responsibility of Indonesia for the act of free choice.

This free choice will permit the inhabitants to decide: (A) Whether they wish to remain with Indonesia, or (B) whether they wish to sever their ties with Indonesia. The setting up of an independent Papuan nation presumably would come under choice B. Who will be permitted to vote in the plebiscite?

All adults who are not foreign nationals and who are residents at the signing of the present agreement (Aug. 15, 1962), or "at the time of the act of self-determination" in 1963.

The agreement permits the freedom of movement in and out of the territory by both Dutch and Indonesian civilians while it is under U.N. administration. It also permits those residents who departed New Guinea after 1945 to return and be eligible for the election.

Many see this as an open door in Indonesia's favor.

Venus Will Draw 'Near' Large Star on Aug. 30

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Sky-watchers will get an opportunity to witness a rare event in about a week if they keep their eyes on the planet Venus.

University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh said at 10 p.m. on Aug. 30, Venus will perform a feat "it has waited eight years to present."

"It will pass just south of Spica, a first-magnitude star in the constellation of Virgo, and will form a 'beautiful close pair' in the western sky."

Prof. Losh said Venus will look her best during August.

"This planet, the most brilliant of all, sets in the west about two hours after the sun," she said.

"Bright as it is, it will grow steadily brighter throughout the month, as it comes closer to the earth in distance."

She said the conjunction of Venus and Spica will occur on Thursday "is a remarkable one, the angular distance between the planet and the star decreasing to about 75 seconds."

Close conjunction of these two bodies occurs every eight years or so. In 1954, the planet passed six minutes of arc north of the star and in 1970 it will be about nine minutes south.

But you might have a long wait if you expect to see Venus eclipse Spica. That event occurs every 2,000 years.

ADDED ATTRACTION — Visitors to New York City are seeing a new detail on the famous skyline. This new twin-jet helicopter carries passengers among three airports.

Architect Denies Capitol Houses Cocktail Lounge

WASHINGTON (AP)—If there's a cocktail lounge in the Capitol, it's being hidden from J. George Stewart, the big building's architect and custodian.

Somewhat or other, he told a reporter, a rumor got around that a fancy cocktail lounge was hidden away in the rear front. Members of Congress have been relaying to Stewart the indignant letters from constituents asking for an explanation.

"You have my personal assurance," Stewart said, "that there is no cocktail lounge in the extended east front of the Capitol or in any other part of the building. No consideration was given to the installation of a cocktail lounge."

Truck Driver Dies in Crash With Car

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP) — Barney H. Brant, Jr., 40, Joseph H. H. Brant, was killed last night when his semitrailer truck overturned after colliding with an auto on a U.S. 31 bypass at the east edge of the city.

The car driver, Stanley Le Lewandowski of Toledo, told police he had just pulled onto the highway from a side road when the collision occurred.

Lewandowski was injured and taken to St. Joseph's Hospital here.

Brant's son, Ronald, 11, was asleep in the rear of the truck cab but was only bruised.

Muslims Linked to Girl's Death

Illinois Coroner Says Two Members of Cult Admitted Threats

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—Deputy Coroner Norvall Hickman says his office has enough circumstantial evidence to implicate two members of the Black Muslim Negro supremacy cult in the slaying of a teenage Centerville, Ill., Negro girl.

Held without bond in the county jail are Tommy Gladner, 34, and Canary Terry, 41, both of Centerville.

ADMIT THREATS

Hickman said both men admitted threatening to kill the victim, Jennie Exum, 17, and her sister. They accused the girls of associating with white men. Hickman said the men denied killing Jennie but told him Jennie's sister, Dora, 18, "should have been killed like Jennie was."

Jennie was beaten to death. Her body was found in a vacant lot near her home Saturday morning.

Hickman said Gladner and Terry displayed fanatical devotion to the Black Muslim cult and admitted to "be in control of their area as watchdogs," with the right to kill any Negro who "goes wrong."

Two Detroit Men Die When Trucks Collide

DETROIT (AP)—Two Detroit men died Tuesday in a truck collision at an intersection here.

Nathan Craig, 58, and Clarence Lockwood, 64, were riding in a truck driven by 31-year-old Raymond G. McMurry when the two trucks collided.

Police reported McMurry said he struck to observe a stop sign and struck the second vehicle. McMurry was held.

Lawyers Feud in Crash Probe

Tiff Over Witnesses Sparked at Hearing Into Train Wreck

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — A dispute over witnesses yesterday touched off the first open clash between lawyers at federal-state hearings into the causes of the July 28 train wreck at Steelton, Pa., which killed 19 persons.

Major participants in the verbal battle were Joseph I. Lewis, counsel for the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission (PUC), and Adelbert S. Schroeder, general counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The battle stemmed from railroad testimony on an exhibit describing by blueprint the layout of the tracks in the wreck area. Lewis said he would require additional witnesses from the PRR to explain various symbols and legends on the layout. Schroeder said he had not been asked previously for such witnesses and did not think they should be summoned.

"I am not speaking for the Interstate Commerce Commission," Lewis said. "I am speaking for the Public Utility Commission. I don't feel I am going to be hamstrung by the failure to produce witnesses or exhibits."

Donald P. McPherson, ICC Commissioner heading the joint proceedings, mediated the dispute and Schroeder promised to call the desired witnesses later.

Prior to the dispute, Schroeder summoned seven railroad employees who had inspected the railroad special cars prior to its disastrous run. They testified inspections were made on the morning of the wreck and a follow-up check was made on the air brakes between 5 and 15 minutes before the train left the Harrisburg station.

All inspectors said everything was normal except that one car required lubrication which was performed.

Both agencies have been investigating the wreck in which the last three cars of a Pennsylvania Railroad run from Harrisburg to Philadelphia derailed killing 19 persons and injuring more than 300.

Chess Tourney Sees Student Tie for First

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Stephen Jones, a University of Texas student, surprised the United States Open Chess tournament last night when he moved into a tie for first place.

Jones and Byrne have seven points each.

Swainson Airs New CD Net

Tells Advantages of System; Duties of Local Heads 'Won't Change'

FLINT (AP)—Gov. Swainson yesterday discussed the advantages of the state's new civil defense system and told local civil defense directors their responsibilities would not be changed under the new system.

Speaking to a meeting of civil defense directors, Swainson tried to silence reported fears that uniformed police officers would be manning all civil defense posts as a result of the recent civil defense-state police merger.

He said "Police Commissioner Childs has all he can do to keep the state police crisis managed in view of the slash in the state police budget."

Swainson said the civil defense directors will be called upon for greater responsibilities at the local level under the new system.

He said the merger gives the civil defense operation a secure relationship with an experienced statewide agency that would provide economy of administration and allow for more detailed inspection and supervision of civil defense equipment.

The governor called civil defense "as vital as a missile base" in assuring America's survival, and he cited a need for action to increase the interest in fallout shelters.

'Lobby Report Pure Politics'

GOP Senator Labels Kelley's Study on Tax Fight as 'Misleading'

CLARE (AP)—A Republican senator has branded Attorney General Frank Kelley's report on lobbying as "purely political, entirely misleading, and, in parts, dishonest."

Sen. Harold B. Hughes of Clare said yesterday he has been "constantly amazed at the viciousness by which Democrats play at politics."

Kelley's report, which was requested by Gov. Swainson, detailed lobbying activities during the income tax battle in the legislature and made recommendations for new legislation to regulate the activities of lobbyists.

Hughes also said he learned that lobbyists bought Swainson meals and paid for his entertainment on numerous occasions while he was a senator.

"Today Swainson — through his attorney general — sent me a letter asking me to accept the same gratuities," Hughes said, referring to Kelley's recommendation that lobbyists should be licensed and activities should be provided grounds for revocation or suspension of a lobbyist's license.

"If the attorney general intends to be thoroughly honest about this investigation, he is duty bound to question the department of Swainson and his staff during the investigation," the senator said.

Atty. General Kelley replied: "Hughes obviously did not read the report and is fighting phantoms which do not exist."

Kelley said "Contrary to the misinformed Sen. Hughes, the report clearly refers to Gov. Swainson's presence in the lieutenant governor's office and points out that the governor, elected by the people, had the right to be there as specified by Senate rules."

"Lobbyists," Kelley added, "who are paid by special interests, were doing their work in areas forbidden by Senate rules."

LEAVES FRISCO—This boat pulls away from Martin County. In the background is the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

But a Far Cry From Olden Days

Ferry's Back in San Francisco Bay

TIBURON, Calif. (AP)—A ferryboat revival is under way in San Francisco Bay.

It began with two competing boats March 20. Six weeks later one boat was withdrawn because of financial problems.

The other chartered boat continued in service and may be supplanted later by a common carrier ferry service between Tiburon, a suburban area of expensive homes, and San Francisco.

The Tiburon-San Francisco service probably won't bring back the big ferries of yore. Once Southern Pacific's 45 ferries transported more than 40 million passengers annually.

But the ferries were doomed by the Golden Gate and San Francisco-Oakland bridges.

The last ferry, the Berkeley, went out of service in July 1958. The new service, on the Harbor Queen, is sponsored by the Belvedere-Tiburon Commute Club. The Marine Marine Commute Club sponsored the rival Blue Horizon, a 65-foot craft now withdrawn from the service. Many Blue Horizon commuters later switched to the Harbor Queen.

I made the 12-mile, 30-minute trip to San Francisco on the red and white Harbor Queen, one of a fleet of bay sightseeing craft operated by Harbor Tug and Barge Co.

The 65-foot Harbor Queen can carry 400 passengers. The 279-foot Berkeley had 1,900 seats.

"I've been praying for this ferry service for a year," said Cecil C. Lloyd, 55, a native of Scot City, Ky.

LOLLS IN SUN

Lloyd, now a San Francisco insurance executive, lollied in the early morning sunshine as the Harbor Queen headed toward her dock at the San Francisco's famed Ferry Building at the foot of Market Street.

"This trip is beautiful," exclaimed black-haired Mrs. Joan Brown, 31, a San Francisco bookkeeper from Chapala, a small town in Mexico.

The day was like dimpled glass as the Harbor Queen slid past Alcatraz Island Federal Prison.

To the west, wisps of fog still clung to the Golden Gate Bridge. "These early commute runs really make you feel like living," said the Harbor Queen's pilot, Capt. Stanley Peratrovich, 42, a native of Klawock, Alaska.

The Queen's deckhands—Ben Hunter, 65, a native of Duluth, Minn., and Leroy (Red) Parsons Jr., 19, of Randleman, N.C., said they liked their jobs.

The Harbor Queen leaves its Main Street dock in Tiburon at 7:10 and 7:40 a.m. daily, and departs San Francisco's Ferry Building at 5:15 and 5:45 p.m.

Commute boats, to club members only, are $30 for 40 one-way trips. If the tug company obtains permission, the general public may ride the boats, and one-way tickets will be sold.

"The ferry service is fabulous," commented Mrs. Arthur A. Wayne, formerly of San Bernardino, Calif. "Nothing could be more relaxing."

Blonde Margo Kneass, 22, said she liked the ferryboat "much better than the bus."

"I'm sure glad to get away from the auto-manics on the Golden Gate Bridge," said brown-eyed Jean Schumaker, 25, a native of Pittsburgh, now a San Francisco secretary.

"This boat trip is very relaxing after driving through that garbage (traffic) in San Francisco," said lanky Gerald Frelson, 49.

Frelson, a native San Franciscan, has been a taxicab-driver in that busy city for 25 years.

'Radiation Belt Won't Affect U. of M. Work'

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Radio astronomy at the University of Michigan can proceed unaffected by a new man-made radiation belt in the ionosphere, a U. of M. professor said yesterday.

The belt, created by a high-altitude U.S. nuclear test July 9, would affect only low-frequency operations—particularly those near the equator, said Fred T. Haddock, director of the university observatory.

"There should be no effect whatsoever above 50 to 100 megacycles," Haddock said. The university observatory tests operate at about 80 megacycles.

A space sounding device, designed and built by the university to measure low-frequency galactic noise 1,200 miles out, still will be launched at Wallops Island Va., Sept. 18, he said. The effects of the new belt would have little appreciable effect on the test, Haddock added.

Symington Action Brings Soul-Searching

Attack on Humphrey Stirs Legislators

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON—The inexplicable behavior of Sen. Stuart Symington toward a distinguished former secretary of the Treasury is prompting some of the more thoughtful legislators to do a little soul-searching about the conduct of congressional hearings.

Nearly a decade has passed since the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy shocked the nation with his contemptuous attitude toward any witnesses who happened to disagree with him. Both before and since the so-called McCarthy era, the manners of many other senators and representatives have let much to be desired.

It is difficult to legislate courtesy, or even to establish a code of etiquette for men who let power go to their head, but something obviously needs to be done to protect cooperative witnesses from gratuitous insults.

At numerous social gatherings within the past few days, the conversation of legislators has turned toward the manner in which Symington abruptly terminated the stamping hearings, and to other examples of rudeness by senators who are filled with their own importance.

The Missouri senator had known for some time that he would recess the hearings last Friday in order to enter the hospital for a hernia operation. Former Treasury Secretary George Humphrey at his own request was testifying the day before to explain the M. A. Hanna Company's position in a nickel transaction with the government ten years before.

FRIENDLY TERMS

Symington was the soul of courtesy, after the hearing the two men amicably called each other "George" and "Stu" while agreeing to meet again Friday.

As all newspaper readers now know, Symington suddenly opened the hearing the next morning with a ten-page tirade against Humphrey and his company; then gave the meeting to close while the startled industrialist was vainly trying to be heard.

The object of the senator's ire was allegedly a newspaper story quoting Humphrey as saying that "they don't dare attack me, but they are attacking me," but actually Symington knew of the reported quote the previous day, before it appeared in print.

The Republican members of the committee, it therefore seemed obvious that the Democratic chairman was trying to make political capital out of the incident, by having it appear that Humphrey rather than his own health problem was to blame for the recess in the stockpile probe.

The rudeness was unfortunately not unique. That same week the House Agriculture Committee invited a group of distinguished witnesses to testify about a plan advanced by the nongovernmental committee for economic development to cure some of our agricultural ills.

The witnesses were two experts on farm economy from Midwestern universities, the chairman of the Farm Motor Company's finance committee, a top Iowa banker, and the board chairman of the Anderson-Clayton cotton brokerage firm.

"MONOPOLIZES QUESTIONING" Throughout most of the two days of hearings, the questioning was monopolized by Chairman Harold Cooley and the next ranking Democrat, Rep. W. George Page. Both are extremely likable gentlemen with charming party manners, but on this occasion each seemingly tried to outdo the other in battling the witnesses, asking questions and then constantly interrupting before they could answer.

Another member of the committee confided: "I suffered for those poor guys who were supposed to be our guests." Harold and Bob are two of my best friends, but their whole attitude was that the witnesses couldn't know anything about farm problems because they weren't dirt farmers—as if Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman is a dirt farmer."

Neither house of Congress, and neither political party has a monopoly on bad manners. It is a sin that most often afflicts committee or subcommittee chairmen, who feel a heady sense of power.

If permitted to flourish uncurbed, however, the time may come when honorable citizens who would sincerely like to help their government will refuse to testify on Capitol Hill, unless subpoenaed by force to do so.

Liberals Upset About Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic Liberals in the Senate are making threatening noises hinting that their filibuster against the communication satellite bill was just a beginning.

They are not happy about what they see in Congress or about the Kennedy administration's attitude on some issues.

Their next big effort may come on the administration's tax reform bill which was put on a chopping block in the Senate Finance Committee.

Here they will be with the administration in fighting to restrict future provisions dealing with withholding taxes on dividends and interest.

ALREADY WORRIED

But already they are worrying that the administration's promised 1963 tax bill will offer too much tax relief to business and upper-bracket individuals and too little to the low bracket taxpayers.

It is not clear what the liberals would accomplish by taking a more belligerent stance except to air their protests in noisier fashion.

They have no place to hang their hats outside the Democratic party. They cannot hope to build a working coalition with like-minded Republicans that would represent a majority of the Senate.

About half of those who opposed the satellite bill are regarded by fellow Democrats as mavericks, too independent and uncompromising to play on the team.

"...Our senatorial party is loaded against us," Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., complained last week. "We are in a sense liberals. However, when election time comes around, they want our help because they know that the Democratic party cannot elect a president because without the great industrial states..."

"The national party comes around and asks for our help and they put clauses in the platform pledging themselves to progressive steps, such as civil rights."

"The bipartisan oligarchy will, however, sit back and say, 'oh, yes, that is only a party pledge. Wait until we get them in the Senate. Then we will cut their throats.'"

In the same speech, Douglas said the Senate is really composed of four parties—Liberals

Note Resemblance to Gang in Bank Holdup

Link Mail Bandits With Earlier Robbery

BOSTON (AP)—A machine gun gang which held up a Lynn bank last spring and shot it out with police while escaping was linked today with the highwaymen who grabbed a record $1.5 million from a U.S. mail truck last week.

State police Capt. Michael J. Cullane said Tuesday night he noticed a strong facial resemblance between composite pictures of two mail robbery suspects and descriptions of two of three men who fled the Essex Trust Co. branch in West Lynn last March 30 with $250,000.

In the West Lynn holdup, two masked bandits held 14 customers and 10 clerks at bay with a machine gun and a pistol and escaped in a car driven by a third man.

Patrolman Henry Steadman, 37, was shot in the shoulder during a bullet-trading police chase. The gang later commandeered a laundry truck and brazenly passed through a road block, hiding in the rear while the kidnaped driver was waved on—a machine gun held at his neck.

The composites of the two mail robber suspects are known as "Buster" and "Tunc." Their faces were pieced together from information supplied by the driver and guard in the hijacked mail van.

The Boston Herald said today that a former contract driver for the Post Office was picked up on Cape Cod Tuesday night, brought to Boston and questioned for several hours by the FBI and postal authorities.

Under a former arrangement, the Post Office hired trucks and drivers to haul mail—and sometimes money. State police cruisers escorted these contract carriers until a month ago. The Post Office then began using its own vans, with armed drivers and guards.

A special assistant to Postmaster General J. Edward Day said the mail robbers had planned the hijacking while assuming that the state police escort would be without shooting distance.

James S. Kelleher, in charge of the department's public relations, said "It was just luck that no state police cruiser was escorting the mail truck."

Kelleher returned today to Den-

Leaders accompanying the group who stay at the campus will be Mr. and Mrs. Keith Middleton of the East Orion.

REV. C. FRANK MILLS

Church Names New Pastor

Rev. C. Frank Mills to Fill First Baptist Pulpit at Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — Rev. C. Frank Mills of Detroit will take over the pastorate of the First Baptist Church here Nov. 11, the congregation announced today.

He will occupy the pulpit left vacant by the resignation of Rev. Walter C. Ballagh, who moved to Farmington.

Currently serving the Springwells Baptist church, Detroit, Rev. Mills was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Van Wert, Ohio, for 10 years before coming to Detroit in 1955.

A native of Dows, Iowa, he completed work at the Moody Bible Institute, received his bachelor of philosophy degree from Loyola University and his bachelor of divinity degree from the Baptist Seminary, all in Chicago.

The new pastor is state treasurer of the Conservative Baptist Association, a nationwide fellowship.

He and his wife, Naomi, and younger son, David, will be moving to Lake Orion the latter part of October.

An older son, Larry, who is married, will be entering Eastern Michigan University this fall. Both he and his wife are graduates of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

Volunteers Beef Up Hunt for 2 in Plane

SAGINAW, Mich. (UPI) — The search for a missing light plane was beefed up today by residents of Capac, the city where the two passengers of the plane lived.

The plane, which disappeared shortly after noon last Thursday, will be sought on the waters of Saginaw Bay and the surrounding land area, a spokesman for the volunteer group said.

Edward Mindak of the Capac State Savings Bank issued the call for volunteers and money yesterday. He said the citizens of the community would join in the search today.

State police said no new information concerning the plane was uncovered in the search yesterday.

Final Vote on Farm Bill Today

Money Woes May Keep H2-O From Shelby Twp.

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Water, the most pressing problem facing township officials here, is so near and yet so far.

A truckline to carry Detroit water through the township to the City of Utica is scheduled for completion next spring.

But the township may not be able to take advantage of it. It has no money to build a water system to tap into the main and distribute the water throughout the township. And it has no immediate means of getting the money.

One of the directions in which they are looking, according to Evans, is toward state and federal agencies that may advance funds for such a purpose. He has found some encouragement along this line, he reports.

The charter township proposal, Township officials had hoped to use the greater bonding authority to finance the badly needed water system to spur industrial growth in the township.

As a result, Township Supervisor Lorin E. Evans and township trustees are looking about for another way to finance water line construction.

Area Luncheon Set to Form Unit for Aid to Needy

SOUTHFIELD — Letters have been sent out to 100 prominent local men inviting them to a luncheon at noon tomorrow for the purpose of forming an organization to give financial aid to anyone in need of it on an emergency basis.

The movement, started by one of Southfield's well-known councilmen who wants to remain anonymous, was prompted by the recent death of a Southfield patrolman and the injury of another.

Patrolman Donald Harding was killed two weeks ago in an automobile accident while on duty and his fellow officer, Patrolman James Kirkpatrick, seriously injured.

The fund will be used primarily for the widows and orphans of police and firemen, the councilman said, but will be open to anyone at the group's discretion.

The luncheon will be held at the Sportsman's Club, on Northwestern Highway just south of 12-Mile Road.

Snareys Exchange Vows

Judith Ann Rose Wed

ORION TOWNSHIP — Judith Ann Rose and William Jeffrey Snarey spoke wedding vows before Rev. Walter C. Ballagh, of the First Baptist Church, Farmington, Saturday evening at the First Baptist Church in Lake Orion.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rose, 632 Commerce Road. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Snarey, 832 Lake Ave., Lake Orion.

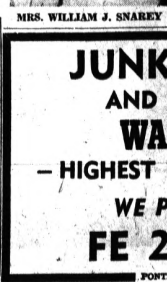

A floor-length gown of silk or tulle was chosen by the bride for her wedding. It featured appliques of lace around the neck and sleeves, and a bouffant skirt with bustle back that extended into a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was fastened to a flower and crystal crown. She carried a cascade arrangement of white butterfly roses accented with Stephanotis and lily.

Mrs. Frank Porter of Pontiac was matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Janet Bushman of Lake Orion, Mrs. Jack Logan of Lapeer, sister of the bridegroom, and Charlotte Rutherford of Pontiac.

Flower girl was Cheryl Ann Logan of Lapeer, niece of the bridegroom.

Michael R. Snarey assisted his brother as best man while Robert Troesch of Bloomington, Michael Foster of Allegan and Jack Logan of Lapeer, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, seated the guests. A reception in the church parlors followed the nuptials after dark.

MRS. WILLIAM J. SNAREY

may be placed before voters again, too, he says.

Meanwhile, the committee established by Evans to study his proposal for three area-wide authorities to develop and control public services — water, sewers, police and fire protection and a public works program — has been disbanded.

The reason, says Evans, was Sterling Township's refusal to participate in the study. "If it doesn't include the whole area, there's no use pursuing it," he said.

His proposal pertained to Shelby and Sterling townships and the City of Utica.

School Probe Is Threatened

Member Says He May Ask Investigation of Rochester Board

ROCHESTER — After failing to dent the composure of fellow school board members with charges of an illegal executive session, Rochester Board of Education member John Patterson has threatened to go higher.

Patterson said he might request an investigation of the school district by the governor or state attorney general. He also talked about a citizens' committee probe.

He charged that board members were incapable of or not interested in discharging their duties because they were being dictated to by the superintendent.

School board president Henry Purdy said today the board has nothing to hide and would have no reason to be worried about any investigation by qualified judges of the administration of an educational program.

Patterson threatened the investigation after school board members rejected his protest that an executive session was illegal because Super. Donald C. Baldwin and two assistant superintendents were present.

The session preceded the Aug. 6 appointment of Fred Huggar as principal of the Woodward and Goodson elementary schools.

Board members say it's customary to have school administrators present at executive sessions, which are for discussion only.

Community Hospital Is Accredited

ALMONT — The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals has officially notified Community Hospital that it has been accredited as a result of a survey conducted by the commission June 28, hospital officials announced today.

The joint commission is an agency created by the American Medical Association, the American College of Surgeons, the American College of Physicians and the American Hospital Association to raise standards of hospital care.

This agency sets high minimum standards in all aspects of hospital care. It is then the voluntary obligation of any hospital to meet or exceed these standards. When any hospital feels that its care meets these basic requirements it can then invite the commission to conduct a survey to determine if it should be accredited.

"Speaking for the entire Community Hospital Foundation, we are very proud and happy that Community Hospital has achieved this outstanding recognition in just 3½ years. We hope to continue and improve the hospital care for all our patients both now and in the future," Thomas K. Richards, hospital board chairman, said today.

GINGER'S A PEACH — The huckster captured a reserve grand championship at the Oakland County 4-H Fair. Pam Olson, 12, 4190 13-Mile Road, Walled Lake, will show her charm in the Michigan State Fair at Detroit Aug. 24 through Sept. 3. State Fair officials say horse entries are running strong, with records or near-records expected in some classes.

Things Buzzing as State Fair Gets Set for Friday Opening

The fairgrounds is humming with activity. State Fair officials are bustling around, workers are swinging paintbrushes, and all over the state exhibitors are grooming their animals and performers are polishing their routines.

The big reason? The 15th annual Michigan State Fair opens Friday. It will run through Labor Day, Sept. 3.

Gates will open at 6 p.m. at the Fairgrounds at Eight Mile and Woodward. Meanwhile, in downtown Detroit, the grand opening parade will get under way with a flourish of trumpets and the roll of drums at 8 p.m. Friday. The parade, some three miles long, will start at Jefferson and Woodward, going up Woodward to Vernor.

Week earlier, the opening weekend of the State Fair — it's a week earlier than usual this year to allow the school kids to enjoy it more — will be a big one, with an array of special events.

Saturday will be Veterans Day, with exhibits by drume and bugle corps and drill-team units, a flight overhead by jet fighters, an address by U.S. Sen. Philip A. Hart, and honors for Michigan's "Veteran of the Year."

All veterans and members of veterans groups and auxiliaries will be admitted free to the Fairgrounds until 3 p.m.

Sunday will be Religion Day, with the annual sunrise service scheduled for 8 a.m. in the Music Shell. Guest speaker this year will be Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College in Atlanta, Ga.

In the Coliseum, the show the first weekend of the fair will feature TV and radio personality Jimmy Dean. The Coliseum show will take the stage Friday evening, and Saturday and Sunday afternoons and evenings.

There'll be shows featuring TV personalities such as B'wana Dor and Johnny Gingers in the Grandstand; concerts by the Honors Band, composed of the best school boy musicians in the state, and also by other bands, musical releases in the Music Shell; industrial, agricultural, and home art exhibits; and fun on the Gay Midway and elsewhere.

In this, his first full year as general manager of the State Fair, Walter A. Goodman has spruced up the Fairgrounds, added various attractions to the fair including a big increase in musical performers and streamlined and modernized the operations in general.

1-496 Project Begins

LANSING — Work has begun on the first I-496 freeway project, the State Highway Department reports. Canonic Construction Co. of South Haven is building three bridges which will form the 1.96 and 1-42 interchange two miles southeast of Lansing.

Walter A. Goodman, general manager of the State Fair, announced a record $141,000 in prizes will be awarded this year.

Visitors to the 1962 Michigan State Fair, to be held at the Detroit Fairgrounds Aug. 24 through Sept. 3, will see more Michigan livestock and farm products than have ever been shown at the State Fair in its entire 112-year history.

Some Supports Could Be Killed

If Measure Is Passed in Senate It Might Face Conference Row

WASHINGTON — Democratic leaders scheduled a final Senate vote today on a farm bill that could wipe out price supports for 1964 crops of corn and other livestock feed grains.

The measure also includes stiff production controls on wheat beginning with the 1964 crop, but is minus several other crop reducing controls asked by the Kennedy administration in an attempt to reduce grain surpluses.

If passed by the Senate, the bill will go to a Senate-House conference committee to work out a compromise. For one thing the House earlier this year rejected a wheat control program similar to the one in the Senate bill.

Assistant Democratic leader Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota has said the House leadership has given assurances both the wheat control and feed grain price support proposals will be acceptable to the House.

EASY VICTORY

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., guided the feed grain price support proposal to a surprisingly easy victory yesterday.

Adopted by a 53-23 roll call over the protests of Midwestern Republicans, the proposal amends the 1958 law which is the basic authority for high level supports on corn, sorghum grains and barley.

It would permit the secretary of agriculture to reduce price supports on 1964 crop feed grains to zero if it appeared the crop would add to the already large surplus. He is required by present law to support feed grains at $1.05 a bushel.

The House had voted to reduce 1964 price supports, but not nearly as sharply as the Senate version would permit.

The Senate approved the House version of extending the current voluntary acreage reduction program for another year, through the 1963 crop.

Under this program, feed grain producers who voluntarily reduce their acreage by a certain amount can get a price support of $1.20 a bushel.

Add Parts for Fall Silhouette

(UPI)—Addition and subtraction play a big part in fall college and career fashions, the National Cotton Council reports. Designers add one, two and three pieces to create the academic silhouette. Blouses contrast with skirts and jerkins. Sweaters top blouses and skirts. Skirts with flare mate with blazers. More often than not the dickey understates a shirt or cotton knit V-necked sweater.

Sleep bras, off to a successful sales start, have cleared the way for the sleep bra gown, Mrs. Ida Rosenthal, chairman of a foundation corporation, reports. "What we are in the midst of is the creation of a new line of comfortable, casual going to revolutionize the foundation products that are sleepwear business," she said.

Fall capes, mated with a dress of matching fabric, include some laminated foam for warmth. The addition of water repellent treatment makes the capes all-weather.

Exit: stiff and rigid hairdos. Enter: the dancing wave hair fashion. The style, designed as the trend setter by the official hair fashion committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, features a small head silhouette designed into either a vertical or horizontal oval. The vertical oval is gently accented with close head-hugging sides, which waves at the back and sides.

Ski Bunnies, Achtung!

For after skiing, this stunning pull-over in snow white is designed by Pantino for the brisk fall and winter weather. The bulky side-fringed and buttoned sweater is a handknit import from Italy. This combination of wool and mohair makes for a warm as toast look with a very light weight and caressable texture.

Relaxed and casual with a perfectly plain V-neck for what-ever-you-have in your trinket case is this bulky handknit Italian import as designed by Pantino. The tweedy appearance of the knit make this sweater appropriate for stretch or knit slacks. Sleeves are full in long length or for push up.

New Chaplain of Vets Unit

Mrs. Richard Adams of Union Lake is the newly elected chaplain of Barracks No. 49, Post and Auxiliary of World War I Veterans. The group met Sunday and elected Mrs. Adams to the office. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Edward McMillan of East Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Boelter of Port Charlotte, Fla., and Mrs. Leroy Small.

This chin-touching turtleneck collar rises from a deep yoke highlighted with novelty stitching. From Princess Galatine's striking collection of ski fashion, this bulky knit pullover is made in a new soft Orlon acrylic fiber and mohair. The sweater is platinum-gray, one of the new pale shades favored for the ski scene.

Tell Ushers to Invite the Guests

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: My daughter is going to be married next month and after the ceremony we would like our many friends to go down into the social hall of the church for a piece of wedding cake and a glass of punch. However, I do not want to make any mention of a reception on the invitations because some people might come expecting a good deal, and also I don't want them to feel they have to bring a present because they are invited downstairs for the punch and wedding cake. Have you any suggestions as to how this can be handled?

A: It could be handled by the ushers stationed at the back of the church. They would announce to all the guests as they leave, "The bride and bridegroom are receiving in the 'Social Hall' downstairs."

A friend of mine disagrees and says that it would be misleading. I would appreciate hearing from you on this matter.

A: I agree with you. It is much simpler to say, "My brother and sister." To say half a brother and half-sister would be both conspicuous and very unkind.

Q: I am going to be a bridesmaid at a friend's wedding. There will be a receiving line at the reception and I am told that the bridesmaids and maid of honor are to stand in the receiving line with the bride and bridegroom. I would like to know if I should shake hands with the guests as they pass down the line.

A: "The bridesmaids and maid of honor do not usually shake hands. If, however, a guest offers his (or her) hand to you, you of course take it."

Q: My husband recently received his master's degree. He worked very hard to earn this and is very proud of it. He would like to have it framed and hung in our entrance hall. I think displaying a diploma in one's house is in very bad taste and that our friends and relatives will think we are bragging. May I please have your opinion on this?

A: To hang it in the entrance hall would be in bad taste, but if your husband has a den or study, it would be quite all right to hang his framed diploma there.

Details for announcing the engagement are described in the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Announcing the Engagement." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, care of The Pontiac Press.

Abby Says: Forget It

He's Just a Sophomore

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: How long does it take for a grown man to forget where he went to college? A friend of mine is almost 50, and two minutes after he meets someone he manages to get into the conversation that he went to Harvard.

Now I know lots of men who went to Harvard but they don't mention it 25 times a day.

It so happens I never went to college and my income is easily double that of my Harvard friend — which proves you don't have to go to Harvard to be a success.

What can I say to this Harvard grad to let him know he sounds ridiculous? Woodrow Wilson High, 1933

DEAR W.W.'33: Persuading a 50-year-old man that he "sounds ridiculous" is a hopeless task. It's just another case where the boy got through college but college never got through the boy. Forget it.

DEAR ABBY: Please help settle a family fight: I have two sisters. They got into a real battle and are not speaking to each other. I stood clear of the fight and am friendly with both of them.

One sister says that if I continue to be friendly with the one she isn't speaking to, our friendship will have to come to an end. I don't think this is right. What do you think?

THE SISTER IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR SISTER: It's your sister's privilege to fight with whomever she chooses, but she has no right to force you to unspeaking terms with her enemies.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is the world's dullest man. Whenever we go to a friend's home he goes off by himself and listens to the radio. Or else he just sits and talks to the dog! He never has a thing to say.

I try to draw him into the conversation and he answers with a yes or a no. What does a wife do when she is married to a moron like this?

BORED AND EMBARRASSED

DEAR B AND E: Who picked this moron? And why?

CONFIDENTIAL TO HIGH POCKETS: The guy who always winds up with the check is not necessarily a "good kid." He is more of a goat.

Fancy Hairdos Don't Do

Grooming Situations Vary

ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
These women aren't between shopping at their supermarket and going to a ball. Yet, in the opinion of New York hair stylist Victor Vito, women seem to have lost their sense of fitness in this year 1962.

He observes that our supermarkets are filled with women wearing large, elaborate hairdos that might look right at a party but are all wrong for pushing a shopping cart. These women aren't between shopping at their supermarket and going to a ball. Yet, in the opinion of New York hair stylist Victor Vito, women seem to have lost their sense of fitness in this year 1962.

For women who are confused about what's right when Mr. Vito suggests they watch the hair styles worn by leaders in their community or in public places. These women are most likely to be attuned to their surroundings. Whatever their activities, they dress correctly.

Similarly, their hairdos are casual on occasions that call for informality. Trying to make a carefully constructed, one-direction hairdo last past that occasion is to appear ludicrous, Mr. Vito thinks.

Any woman who drives a car will find the experience of stepping into the car dressed for an appointment only to arrive with a run in one stocking and hair standing almost on end.

Good grooming can be kept in the glove compartment along with other necessities. Use one of those small zippered cases you find at the five-and-ten and in it, put a small brush and a comb. Add a fold-up metal tube of hair dressing.

An emery board for chips or breaks in fingernails is essential. A small bottle of colorless nail polish is handy for stopping runs in your stockings. A pocket-size container of cleansing tissues and a pocket-size shoe brush also would help greatly. For emergencies, use a miniature sewing kit from the five-and-ten.

Nothing is as damaging to a woman's morale when she wants to look her best as a drooping hem or a ripped seam. When you step from your car, you want to be secure in the knowledge that you are perfectly groomed from head to toe.

U.S. Women Leave for Russia

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ten American women leave by plane today for Russia where they will spend three weeks as guests of the Soviet Women's Committee.

During their visit, the U.S. women will discuss with their Soviet counterparts everything from family life and child-rearing in the two nations to education and nuclear disarmament.

The visiting committee is comprised of women from California, Kansas, Maryland and New York who opened their homes to groups of Russian professional women when they visited the United States in 1961 and last April.

The invitation to visit Russia was made by Mrs. Nina Pogova, president of the Soviet Women's Committee and a member of the Soviet parliament.

LEADER OF GROUP
The leader of the American group is Mrs.

Henry Mayer of San Francisco, a mechanical engineer and educator. She founded the committee for friendly international visits, which is sponsoring the trip.

Interpreter for the group, which leaves by jet from Idlewild Airport, is Mrs. Charles K. McClatchy, daughter of George Kennan, former U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union.

Others making the journey are Mrs. Marjorie Hemus Crane, Topeka, Kan., wife of an attorney; Mrs. Morris G. Robinson, Bethesda, Md., wife of a clergyman; Rose Wood and Dr. Rita Morgan, two Quakers from New York; Mrs. A. Russell Galloway, Sacramento, Calif., civic leader; Mrs. Samuel Hahnberg, Berkeley, Calif., director of the Berkeley Community Center; Mrs. Albert Gallatin Powers, member of the Monterey, Calif., Chamber of Commerce; and Mrs. Alex Skolnick, a director of the San Mateo, Calif., Child Guidance Center.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Roberts of Major Street, Drayton Plains.

Kneeling before an altar banked with white gladioli and chrysanthemums, she wore white silk organza with Alcon lace, styled with chapel train. Fingertip veiling of silk illusion fell from a jeweled tiara and a white orchid centered her bouquet of white roses and Stephanotis.

ATTENDED BRIDE

Mrs. Alan LeBarge of Flint, matron of honor, Mrs. John Pilkinton and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Glen Vermilye Jr. were bridesmaids and appeared in Madonna blue tissue taffeta. They carried white and yellow carnations.

Glen Vermilye Jr. and Bernard Hubner, Royal Oak, seated the guests.

Returning from a Canadian honeymoon, the couple will be at home on Thorpe Street.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Roberts chose a beige linen sheath dress and Mrs. Phipps appeared in Alice blue silk. Both wore pink roses.

Mrs. Edward Brown of Clarkson attended her granddaughter's wedding.

Grant Child's Wish to Share Excitement

BY MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Our 5-year-old girl won't stay in bed when we have company. She comes downstairs in her pajamas and tries to join in the conversation. If we try to carry her back upstairs, there are screams.

My mother says that the child knows we are afraid of these scenes before guests and is using this to get her own way.

If you have any ideas for breaking her of this stubborn habit, we would be grateful if you would discuss them.

Answer: Do you prepare her for sleep on nights when you are expecting company?

She needs preparation, you know. Home becomes a pretty exciting place for little children when their parents plan to entertain. Its familiar, everyday rhythms change.

Your small daughter sees you rushing through routines you usually take more slowly. She is stimulated by your expectations of an unusually pleasant evening.

It is stubborn of her, but the most natural thing in the world to want to share the experience toward which you are looking forward.

ward. So she resists dismissal to the loneliness of sleep.

The problem is that you do see this wish as "stubbornness"—and so have to treat it resentfully.

Were you to see it as natural, you could deal with it naturally. Instead of trying to shove her away from your pleasure in the name of "discipline," you would take steps to give her some of the pleasure.

When she comes downstairs in her pajamas, you would not order her back to bed but ask one of her favorite guests to accompany you both upstairs. The guest might be asked to spend some time talking or reading to her.

Or you might decide not to dismiss her at all but take her on your lap in welcome, saying, "All right, if you want to see what we're up to down here, stay around with us for a little while."

As your grown-up doings will sooner or later begin to bore your little daughter, she won't want to stay around very long.

Of course all these suggestions require some parental self-assurance. We can't offer these indulgences if they represent a child's conquest of us. For then we see him as an enemy who will use any indulgence as a sign of weakness—and exploit it to further embarrass us before our company.

Perceiving that we are indulging him, not because we have chosen to share our pleasure with him, but because we dare not deny it to him, he will resist all attempts to withhold pleasure from him.

Secretaries: True?

Bosses: You'll Be Jolted

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I had a letter from a reader the other day which will jolt some bosses and be balm for some secretaries. Let me say first, though, that I think the secretary who wrote this letter had had luck. I have a much better opinion of men than she seems to have. However, I have never been a secretary and I am sure there are all kinds of bosses.

The following letter was written to me in reply to a column I wrote suggesting that a secretary who is poised and calm is invaluable in that she inspires confidence and smooths out any office friction.

I also said that she is more capable of being this way, and meeting any crisis, if she feels that she is at her best, and if she is well groomed. Then I gave a few hints for those secretaries who work in offices which are not yet air-conditioned.

Here is the letter, in part: "Dear Mrs. Lowman: Every time I read an article about the attributes of a good secretary I get the hives!"

"These articles suggest that the perfect secretary must be gentle, able to work under pressure, be even-tempered, well groomed, charming, a mind reader, and be able to rise with competence when unexpected crisis develop."

"(I must interrupt here to say that those qualities are pretty good insurance for success in any job and in life in general.)"

"Your article was very idealistic and lovely and clearly written for those who glorify the office secretary's position as being similar to a well-known movie star's comfortable position on her own TV show."

YELLED AT AND CHASED

"I have been a secretary for quite a few years in various companies, all reputable, successful businesses, and I have had only one boss who was a gentleman. I have been yelled at and chased. I have mothered one hopeless alcoholic by covering up for him and played nursemaid to one hypochondriac."

"I have given sympathy, encouragement and admiration to these grown-up brats, all without receiving any thanks in return. A private secretary is taken for granted."

"I have noticed that no such personal touch is required of men in their jobs. Their duties are clearly defined."

"If you would like to have my leaflet, 'Memoranda for Secretaries,' send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 46 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press."

Nancy Kay Fowler, daughter of the D. T. Fowlers of Crooks Road, Avon Township, became Mrs. Maurice L. Lackey Saturday in St. Michael's Church. His parents are the Alton Lackeys of Cedar Street.

MRS. MAURICE L. LACKEY

Lackey-Fowler Rites

On Honeymoon

A breakfast at Devon Gables followed the nuptial vows of Nancy Kay Fowler to Maurice L. Lackey, pledged to Rev. Francis O'Donnell, Saturday morning in St. Michael's Church.

Alton Lackey stood as best man for his brother. They are the sons of the Alton Lackeys of Cedar Street. Earl Brown ushered.

Leaving for a northern honeymoon, the new Mrs. Lackey wore a dark floral print jacket dress and her husband's pearl pendant gift necklace. The bride wore a white Cymindian orchids accented a periwinkle blue chiffon dress for Mrs. Fowler and pink chiffon for the bridegroom's mother.

Check Knee Crease

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice:

"My husband has lost a lot of weight recently and I would like to save money by taking in his trousers myself. I have to take them in about 5 inches in the waist, but don't know how to go about it. Help!" Mrs. V. E. G.

I'm afraid that 5 inches is almost too much of an alteration to be called "easy." Any change in the waist measurement is usually taken in at the center back seam. A change of 5 inches would bring the two back pockets too close together.

Probably the only thing to do is to take out 2 or 3 inches in the waistline and then take the balance in at the side seams, which would necessitate re-making the pockets. Actually, this is a job for a tailor unless you have a world of patience and knowledge.

IDEA FOR TRIM

The best idea from the mail each week is awarded a Tailor Trux pressing board. This week the award goes to Mrs. Earl Lahman, Ypsilanti, who says,

"When the reverse side of printed material is plain, it lends itself nicely for trimming. You can use it for bias bindings, corded piping and also for covered buttons and belts. This solves many a color problem, especially those hard to match colors. It also saves money because you can make your own trim."

VINEGAR OR WATER

"Dear Eunice:

"The other day as I was doing some finishing pressing on a new wool suit, the fabric had a definite shine, even though I carefully used a press cloth. I thought your readers would like to know that I rubbed this spot with a little 'white vinegar' and the shine disappeared. I was telling my neighbor about this and she said that carbonated water would have had the same results." Mrs. E. S.

FORM IS DIFFICULT

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"I would like to know how to use a dress form for dresses that do not button up the front. Once the form is the correct measurements, it is not flexible as the human form is flexible, so as a result, I cannot get dresses over the shoulders." Miss C. S.

I have had many inquiries about the advantage of a dress form. I feel that they are unnecessary if you make the correct pattern changes according to measurements. You have discovered the handicap, namely the fact that they are not flexible.

In order to use the underarm, so that the dress can open all the way to the underarm, so that the dress can be slipped over the form. Actually, forms are much more of an aid when used in fitting jackets and coats where the collars, sleeves and length are so hard to check on yourself.

Suzanne Ott, Barry Campbell Married in Evening Ceremony

The Barry D. Campbells departed for a Cape Cod honeymoon after their dinner reception Saturday in the German Club, Auburn Heights.

Vows were spoken before Rev. Richard C. Stuckmeyer in an evening ceremony in the Grace Lutheran Church.

Parents of the newlyweds are the Harold P. Ott of Edgely Drive, Waterford Township, and Mrs. Larry Campbell of Louella Drive, Drayton Plains, and the late Mr. Campbell.

WORE MOTHER'S GOWN

The bride, the former Suzanne Virginia Ott wore her mother's wedding gown of ivory slipper satin style with a nosegay of pale pink roses and white carnations. The bride's cousin Chantilly lace train extending from a lace cummerbund. Her fingertip veil was of ivory nylon net and she carried white rosebuds and Stephanotis.

Marilynn Ott attended her sister as matron of honor, carrying a nosegay of pale pink roses and white carnations.

Bridemaids were the bridegroom's sister Kay Campbell, Catherine Lohb, Drayton Plains and the bride's cousin Pamela Hill. They wore Beauty rose nylon chiffon over tulle and carried deep pink roses and white carnations.

SEATED GUESTS

John Herrington of Waterford was best man. Guests were seated by Alfred Patterson, Lansing; James Smith and Frank Brown, Drayton Plains. John M. Hill III served as acolyte.

Mrs. Ott chose a coffee lace over beige tulle sheath dress and matching satin petal hat. The mother of the bridegroom wore aquamarine lace over matching taffeta. Their flowers were yellow rosebuds.

The bride's grandparents, the Alfred Forsters of Mt. Clemens and the John Ott of Lewiston attended the wedding.

After Sept. 10 the newlyweds will be at home on campus at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, where both are students.

Speyer Cathedral, the largest Romanesque church in Germany, has been restored after 4 1/2 years' labor. More than $500,000 was spent to complete the work this year in time for its 900th anniversary. Eight emperors are buried there.

For Bowlers

(UPI)—A strike for haute couture in bowling lanes: 11 European and Latin American designers commissioned by a maker of bowling equipment (AMEF) have come up with costumes for bowlers. The tops include designs by Pucci of Florence, Fabbiani and Princess Irene Callitree of Rome, Chanel of Paris, and Henry de Chailion of Mexico City.

A United States development loan of $400,000 put with $500,000 raised by Texas and Guatemalan investors has built a new industry in Guatemala: the manufacture of a juteline fiber from kenaf, a wild plant.

Don't Be Silly About Love

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE N-403: Elaine G., aged 25, is a college coed.

"Dr. Crane," she said, "when my mother was in college she used some of your psychological rating scales to pick my Daddy."

"And they have been so happy and well suited to each other that I would like to do the same."

"What should I stress in choosing a husband?"

HUSBAND TEST

Well, in our Scientific Marriage Foundation we stress similar religious background, educational outlook, economic status, ideals, hobbies, race, color, etc.

The more of these basic habits and attitudes you can share with your mate, the less will be the chance of divorce.

Beware, too, for about 50 per cent of modern marriages are failures!

Not all of them show up as divorces, however, for the national divorce rate is about 25 per cent.

But another 25 per cent of marriages are unhappy. However, the participants stick together because there are young children.

Or else the feuding parents are Roman Catholics and thus feel they dare not get a divorce.

50-50 CHANCE

So the average young couple nowadays has only a 50-50 chance of a permanently happy marriage.

You can increase your batting average, however, by using your brain more than your heart.

Any relatively attractive and compatible couple can soon fall in love just by going through the proper motions. For we have an axiom in psychology that if you go through the proper motions, you will soon begin to experience the corresponding emotions!

So don't let your heart rule your head! Instead, let your head rule your heart.

Then you will be able to avoid mere sexual infatuation and pick wisely for permanent happiness.

"But, Dr. Crane," many a girl protests, "I feel butterflies in my stomach and tremble all over when Jack kisses me. Isn't that a sign of true love?"

FALSE LOVE

No, that can be false love, which is what we call mere sexual magnetism.

In true love as well as sexual infatuation, you will experience the butterflies and trembling and delight in each other's company.

But true love endures while the other can disappear in one night!

If you disbelieve me, go to your Bible and read Chapter 12 in 11 Samuel, where King

David's son Amnon fell in love with Tamar.

APPEARED TRUE

To all external eyes, it looked as if Amnon was truly in love with the Princess Tamar. But it was purely sexual attraction, for he literally had her thrown out of the house after he had assaulted her.

And this sudden revulsion occurs in thousands of marriages.

So you girls, as well as boys, better be on guard or you may fall into the 50 per cent of marriage failures.

Girls, when you pick a husband, be sure he is financially an adult, which means he should have a good trade or profession or he will be launched in school for such a job.

Also, pick a man who is active in church, for it is almost impossible to find a divorced couple where both were active in the same church.

Send for my "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a stamped, return envelope and 20 cents. Use it to avoid mere sexual infatuation.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a large 4-cent stamp, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets. (Copyright, 1962)

Danger Age 50-55

NEW YORK (UPI)—The years from 50 to 55 are the danger-age of emotional and mental tensions for business men, according to Dr. R. H. Felix of the National Institute of Mental Health. During this period a man's destiny is pretty well settled. The question is—can he accept it if his ambitions haven't been satisfied?

HERE SESAME TWISTS — You can have your own brown 'n' serve sesame rolls with very little effort. Think how good they will taste with a salad luncheon or for a summer breakfast. There's another interesting flavor note in these rolls too — dill and savory.

Baking Powder Rolls Herb Flavored

The hottest summer day will seem degrees cooler when you serve a hearty salad and these dill-and-summer savory accented Herb Sesame Twists. And you'll stay cool, too, for your salad meal can be prepared ahead of time—even the little biscuit twists can be partially pre-baked as brown 'n' serve rolls to be reheated shortly before serving.

To prepare brown 'n' serve Herb Sesame Twists, bake the twists for 8 to 10 minutes or until the edges just begin to brown. Cool, wrap carefully and store in your refrigerator or freezer until ready to use. Then unwrap the twists, place

Wary Eye on Bargains Tells You True Story

Are you a "special" watcher? The Marketing Agent for Josephine Lawry, A recent study would suggest that you can save $200 or more on food in a year, if you know when a special is a bargain.

Eggs Plentiful for Long While

The poor little hen just can't help laying eggs at this time of year. So go right on eating all you want, fried, boiled, scrambled, poached, omelets or any other way you like. The supply won't run out, or even slow down for a while. That's the assurance from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Eggs are the most important single ingredient to be found in your kitchen. They're delightful served "as is" as the focal point of any meal or snack, or as a hidden ingredient.

For example, when breaded foods are served, the egg holds the coating to the cutlets, fish, seafood or vegetables. Clear soups and consommés are given their crystal-like appearance by adding an egg just before serving. It settles to the bottom all the unwanted particles.

Frozen mixtures have the desired texture when eggs are added. Battered eggs wrap themselves around each particle in the ice crystal form uniformly and not large "icy" palate-shocking, tasteless bits.

For pudding, pie filling, salad dressing, sauce, soup and even stuffing smoothness, there is nothing like an egg. Eggs mixed with other ingredients and gently heated will firm and hold the "making" together in a creamy smooth medium that has a full-bodied consistency.

on baking sheets and allow to thaw to room temperature. Bake in a very hot oven another 6 to 8 minutes or until the biscuit twists are golden brown.

Herb Sesame Twists and all hot breads help you maintain nutritionally balanced meals, too, especially important during activity-filled summer days. Enriched flour in the twists gives you essential food iron and three B-vitamins—niacin, riboflavin and thiamine.

Herb Sesame Twists
2 cups enriched flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon finely chopped dill weed
½ teaspoon summer savory, crumbled
¼ cup shortening
2 3 to 1 cup milk
1 egg white, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons sesame seed, toasted

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Stir in dill weed and summer savory. Cut or rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Add enough milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently 30 seconds. Divide dough in half.

Roll first half under palms of hands to form a roll 1-inch in diameter and about 10 inches long. Cut into 18 equal slices (about ½ inch each). Roll each slice under palms of hands to form a pencil-like strip 10 inches long. Fold strip in half and twist twice from each direction.

Place on ungreased baking sheet and press down lightly. Brush with egg white and sprinkle with toasted sesame seeds. Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes. Repeat with remaining dough. Makes 3 dozen small twists or 18 servings, 2 per serving. If self-rising flour is used, omit baking powder and salt. To toast sesame seeds, place in hot skillet. Cook, stirring occasionally, until golden brown (about 5 minutes).

Shoulder Butt Is Meaty Pork Cut

The Daisy, a boneless cured and smoked pork shoulder butt, is a meaty piece easily cooked to slice and serve hot or cold. Weights on the vacuum sealed packages will vary from 1½ to 4 pounds and no please families both small and large. The Daisy adds complete meat protein to the fine fresh vegetables of spring.

In this recipe it is combined with peas and mushrooms.

Daisy With Peas, Mushrooms
4 slices (½ inch thick) Daisy, cooked
2 slices bread, cut diagonally into quarters
Butter or margarine
10½ ounce can condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk
1 cup cooked peas
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped celery
2 teaspoons chopped pimiento

Overlap meat slices shingle fashion in an 8 by 8 inch baking dish. Spread bread triangles with butter or margarine. Arrange bread, points up, around the edge of the dish. Blend together soup and milk. Add remaining ingredients and pour mixture around slices of meat. Heat uncovered in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Wheat Germ Pancakes

For real good pancakes supercharged with nutrition, mix one cup of flour, a teaspoon of baking powder, and ½ teaspoon of salt; mix in ¼ cup wheat germ, and stir in two beaten eggs and 2 cups of milk. Stir only to break up lumps.

Barbecued Franks Can Be Frozen

The next time you barbecue franks out doors cook a few extras for future use. While they are still hot, wrap them in aluminum foil 2 or 3 in one piece of foil and pop into the freezer. Hold them this way. When ready to use, remove from freezer and place in hot oven.

This will give the kiddies a real barbecued lunch. Your oven should be around 425 degrees and they should be in the oven at least 10 minutes. Franks, cooked this way have the real barbecue flavor and you will find the franks will be as puffy and good as ever.

Cool Fizzy Milk Drink Has Honey of a Taste

A "Beantopia Fizzer" is a make-it-yourself high-protein snack—more protein than a glass of regular milk and delicious with chocolate-honey flavor. To prepare: Pour one-half cup cold water into a tall glass. Stir in one-third cup non-fat dry milk. Add one teaspoon of honey and two heaping teaspoons quick chocolate-flavored drink mix; blend well. Fill the glass with chilled sparkling water. Stir until mixture becomes foamy. Serve at once. For 200 calories for one satisfying serving.

Cold Turkey Facts

As of May 1, U.S. cold storage stocks of turkey were 155 million pounds—44 per cent higher than a year ago. July turkey marketings were forecast to be roughly 40 per cent below the exceptionally large quantities marketed last July.

You Spend Less Today for Food

Food is a bigger bargain than ever and it should continue to be a bargain right through 1962.

According to Curt Kornblau, research director of Super Market Institute, the proportion of disposable income (income after taxes) spent for food in 1961 was 19.7 per cent—a new all-time low.

Food prices went up in 1961, but the increase was less than one per cent. The average disposable income increased more than that, Mr. Kornblau reported.

Ten years ago consumers spent 23.5 per cent of their disposable income for food.

The polar bear is an excellent swimmer and is sometimes found 15 to 20 miles from the nearest land or ice pack.

Golden Gelatin Mold Crisp With Carrots

A sunny salad to brighten summer menus is this Orange-Pineapple Mold. To prepare: measure liquid drained from a 9-ounce can of crushed pineapple and add water to make 1 cup; bring to a boil. Pour boiling liquid over one 3-ounce package orange flavored gelatin, stirring until gelatin is dissolved. Cool, then stir in 1 cup evaporated milk and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Chill until mixture begins to set, then fold in the drained pineapple and 1 cup shredded carrot. Ladle into six 1/2-cup individual molds and chill until set, about 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Unmold on fresh crisp greens and serve.

There has been a 20 per cent drop in the use of fresh fruit in canned and frozen fruit has doubled. Fewer dried fruits are consumed now than 25 years ago.

For Delicious Mushrooms: Saute Properly in Dry Heat

WHAT YOU MEAN SAUTE?

This is a question asked more often than you think. And, it is not always answered correctly, or maybe details are insufficient, since these details are so very important.

You might try an experiment just for fun—Ask the next three women you talk with what they mean saute. You'll almost guarantee they will all answer, "Well it is to fry a certain way..." Ask the real French cook and sudden shudders will go through them at the word fry, because saute is not to fry.

To saute is to cook on heavy griddle or skillet with plenty of surface, using only enough butter or other fat or both together, to prevent sticking. Food must not be wet, or damp, or moisture will form steam and prevent browning.

Portions should not touch each other for the same reason.

Food must not be stacked. Never. Skillet or griddle must be hot when food is added or the food will not begin to brown immediately, which is important. Now, there are 30 words which define saute completely.

HOW TO SAUTE MUSHROOMS

Use Fresh and Canned. Heat a large surface griddle or skillet. Add enough butter, or butter and oil, to coat surface generously. When very hot, but not browned, place mushroom slices all over the surface. Test for heat. They should begin to sizzle immediately. Watch carefully.

As soon as edges begin to brown and centers take on that clear quality, turn each one. Lightly brown on other side. It requires 4 minutes to do perfect slices ready to serve. Lift out onto soft paper toweling. Spear with picks, dust lightly with salt and sprinkle a tiny pinch of ginger over all. Serve right now.

To Saute Whole Caps. Wipe dry, remove stems and place round side down in same way as directed for slices. Follow exact directions, turning to let cup side brown and serve hot.

To Saute Canned Mushrooms

Drain liquid from caps or slices. Turn mushrooms onto soft paper toweling. They will not be perfectly dry, but will not have excess moisture clinging to them.

Now follow exact directions to saute.

Do this with canned mushrooms when adding them to almost all foods. The flavor is delicious and far more distinctive. Save liquid to use as you like. (No this is not too much trouble. Nothing is trouble if flavor is enhanced.)

H-A City Titlist, Falcons Take State

Two area baseball teams won big games and Rochester's Mc-Battle Creek, 4-3.

Down 2-1, H-A won with three in the 5th when Bob Babaja got two-out, home-headed triple on a misplayed fly after singles by Stu Dett and Chuck Johnson and a walk to winner Larry Demerick.

Huron-Airway won the Pontiac "A" baseball playoff crown by rallying to take the R. T. Cippers 6-3. The Rochester Falcons took the state Class F championship by Don Picmann came on to stop straight time. An error after two outs started a rally. Lou Seay's double, his 2nd hit, batted in a run and Terry Anderson singled bringing the tying run to the plate. Picmann took over and struck out Boyd Thomason to end the game.

FLIESER STARS

John Fleser paced an eight-hit attack off loser Tom Zink with two doubles. Bookler had two hits. Demerick retired 11 straight batters in one stretch.

Huron-Airway will host the Ann Arbor winner in district play starting tomorrow night at 7:45 at Jaycee Park.

Clutch pitching and hitting did the trick for the Falcons. Tom Nance flipped a one-hitter in the shutout and then won the final in relief. Tony DeLaRosa scored the only run against Ann Arbor. Randy Hinds batted in the clincher against Battle Creek.

Gibby Wesolowski continued his great pitching for McVell firing a double one-hitter. He allowed the 2nd game safety in the 7th. Ewolski fanned 25 in 14 innings.

Two-run 3rd innings featured the wins over Bad Axe 3-0 and Flint by 2-0. Duane Larson's single, an error and a sacrifice fly by Ralph LaFari clinched the opener. Phil Hakin singled in one tally and scored the other.

McVell could wrap up the crown at Port Huron tonight at 8:30 meeting the Bad Axe-Flint victor in an earlier tilt.

McVell Collision of Rochester did not fare so well at Port Huron bowing to the host team 2-0 on a no-hitter by Ed Urban. Chuck Wilbeck allowed just three hits but two came in the 5th when the damage was done. The locals meet Flint tonight at 7.

CHAMPS LOSE

Both regular season champs lost as Waterford softball playoffs opened last night. Spencer downed Stroh's 1-0 in Class B and Haskins Chevrolet upset Bob & Larry's Bar 4-3 in a "C" game.

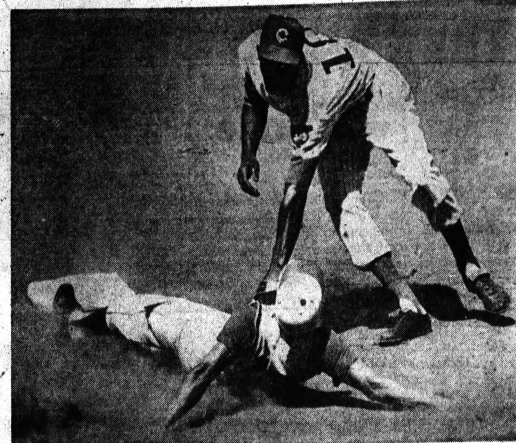

John Herrington spun a neat three-hitter for Spencer. He fanned 12 and walked four. The game's lone run was scored in the fourth inning when Dean Farmerer singled, reached third on a passed ball and ground out, and scored on Jim Wheatley's infield single.

The three Stroh's hits, all singles, were the only balls hit out of the infield off Herrington. Farmerer collected two singles and a double, half the hits off loser Ed Miller.

Mike Rooney singled home the winning run for Haskins with two out in the last of the seventh. Max Jarrett won it with a five inning relief stint. He allowed two hits and fanned six.

Two Class C games are scheduled tonight at Drayton Park in the double elimination Waterford playoffs. Lakeland Pharmacy plays Hault Pontiac at 7:00 and Rockcote meets Dixie Bar at 8:30.

'OH, NO YOU DON'T' — Attempting to steal second base in the first inning of the Cincinnati-Redlegs game yesterday, Leo Cardenas of the Redlegs is tagged out by Cubs shortstop Andre Rodgers. The Redlegs won, 2-0.

World Series Gets Rolling in Little League

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—It there is a spinach grower's association—which seems most likely—there is bad news for it today from the home of the Little League Baseball World Series.

But they are rough on roast beef and mashed potatoes, fruit, ice cream and cake.

Eight teams are gathered here for play in the Little League World Series, which got underway Tuesday.

Pittman, N.J., eliminated Del Rio, Tex., 2-1, in the opener, and Kankakee Ill. one of the favorites sent Stony Brook, Ont., Canada into the elimination bracket.

Pittman meets Kankakee in the second round Thursday.

In today's games, San Jose, Calif., meets a team of American boys whose parents are stationed in France and Monterey, Mexico, plays Kuntachi, Japan.

Bunning Fifth to Hit Century

List Includes 2 Other Active Tigers; Tribe Boss' Job Shaky

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Bunning had only one comment after becoming the fifth active American League pitcher with 100 victories last night.

"May the next 100 be easier," said the Tiger right hander moments after he brooded to an easy 10-1, four-hit triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

Bunning joined Early Wynn (298) Whitey Ford (171) and teammates Frank Lary (119) and Sam Jones (100) at the century milestone. Jones won 86 of his 100 in the National League.

MAY GET AXE

Reports persist wherever the tallspinning Indians travel that Mel McGaha will be tomahawked as manager—perhaps before the end of his rookie season.

General manager Gabe Paul, here with the Cleveland club, has said no decision will be made on McGaha before the season ends.

But the Indians have fallen from first to seventh place since July 8. Ninth place isn't very far away for the club that's lost 32 of its last 44 games.

Similar plunges have forced many general managers to change their minds before—Paul included a few years back at Cincinnati.

Wing Gadsby Signs 17th NHL Contract

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Red Wings yesterday announced the signing of veteran defenseman Bill Gadsby for his 17th campaign in the National Hockey League.

Gadsby was the second player to come to terms with the Wings. Ace Gordie Howe signed last month.

Vets Cut as AFL Teams Pare to 43

By The Associated Press

The American Football League's maturity is beginning to show, and it is costing some of its once-esteemed veterans their jobs.

All AFL teams had to pare down to 43 players Tuesday and the league's coaches, four of whom are new in their jobs, discarded a player's experience as a prime requisite for keeping a job.

Such hasn't been the case the past two years when the AFL at most desperately sought any player who had pro experience. With some good luck in the last college player draft, and in signing free agents, the talent quotient in the new loop is beginning to rise.

VETERANS GO

Oakland, which won only two games a year ago, cut 2-year veteran Tom Londerback, a line backer, Willie Smith, a starting guard a year ago, and tackle Al Bannavage, a reserve linebacker last year.

The Raiders also placed End Bob Coolbaugh and rookie line-backer Joel Walenta on the injured reserve list. Coolbaugh has a broken leg and Walenta a cracked rib.

TALENT RICH

The New York Titans, another of the AFL's weaker clubs, cut line-backer Ted Greene, defensive end Paul Miller and defensive halfback Johnny Bookman. Greene and Miller were obtained from Dallas in a trade and all three had seen service last year.

IN THE NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE

The Los Angeles Rams also round themselves talent-rich in linemen, something they've been needing for the past five years. Four of their first five draft choices were linemen in the past college draft, and they signed all four.

With a marked improvement in the offensive and defensive lines in two exhibition victories, Los Angeles dealt John Cornett, their No. 3 draft choice from Rice, to the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft choice.

THE SAN FRANCISCO 49ERS ALSO dealt rookie offensive ends John Burrell of Rice and Dan Coffey of Memphis State to Pittsburgh, also for an undisclosed draft choice.

What's missing to make the one Tom Collins that pleases the hard-to-please?

What's missing, of course, is Seagram's Gin. Does wonders for any Tom Collins. For this gin is put through an extra (and costly) process that gives nature a chance to absorb sweetness and perfume. Result: a deliciously dry gin. Brilliant. Crisp. You can tell by the color—a touch of light amber. Looks good. Tastes better.

Antlerless Deer Permits Ready by Mid-September

Application cards for antlerless deer hunting permits should be available at Michigan's hunting and fishing license dealers in mid-September.

Copies of the 1962 Deer Hunting Guide will be mailed with the cards, showing special season areas, kill quotas, and the step-by-step procedure for filling out applications.

The deadline for postmarking applications will be Oct. 10. In answer to recent inquiries, the Conservation Department points out that permits will not be issued on a "first come, first served" basis.

As in the past, a drawing will be held in late October to determine successful applicants for those areas in which applications outnumber permit quotas.

The Conservation Commission has approved a 37,000-kill antlerless season.

32 AREAS SET

The special season will run concurrent with the regular season in 32 designated areas of browse shortage.

About 85,000 permits are to be issued with about 19,000 in the Upper Peninsula and the remaining 66,000 in the Northern Lower Peninsula.

About 200,000 applications are expected.

Department experts expect a kill of about 60,000 bucks in the regular season with about 17,000 in the Upper Peninsula, 36,500 in the Northern Lower Peninsula and 4,000 in the Southern Lower Peninsula.

Archers were expected to harvest about 2,000 whitetails as they did last year.

Legislation passed earlier this year has changed the dates of the regular season in the western Upper Peninsula west of Michigan T1 and U.S. 2 from the traditional Nov. 15-30 to Nov. 10-25. The old season dates, Nov. 15-30, remain in effect for the rest of the state.

Numerous Good Spots

ST. PAUL—The Minnesota conservation department survey shows there are 14,210 lakes of 10 acres in the state.

Spawning Ground Work Completed

Work was completed early this month on a community conservation project which may set the stage for natural lake trout reproduction in Higgins lake, the Conservation Department reports.

The project is a spawning reef for lake trout located about one mile out from the lake's west shore. It measures about half the length and twice the width of the football field in area where the fish are known to concentrate during the fall spawning season.

Selection of the project site was also pinpointed by department studies which showed this area is free of siltation and has suitable water temperatures and currents for egg hatching.

Some 200 yards of broken concrete were hauled on barges and dumped in the area by department fisheries workers to create the artificial spawning bar. Material for the project was stockpiled at the lake shore earlier this year by District 14 of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

County Dogs Win at PKC

Several county dog owners carried home awards from Sunday's Pontiac Kennel Club bench and obedience matches. The local dogs were among 569 entered. There were 71 different breeds.

County breed winners were Ch. Mistie's Son Mickle, a golden retriever owned by Charles Barnes of Pontiac; a black cocker spaniel, Ch. Lardie's Leading Lassie, owned by Robert C. Lake, Farmington; also third in the sporting group; Ch. Jubilo Final Addition, an acoch owned by Hartley and Frank Bay of Royal Oak.

Ch. Sally's Crown Royal, an English cocker, owned by Mrs. F. H. Gasow, Troy, second in sporting group; an Irish Terrier, Medharr's Buccaneer, owned by Charles I. Kiley, Milford; Ceech's Petit Pickie, a papillon, owned by Arlene A. Czech of Birmingham; May-Will's Son Phog, a pug, owned by Marilyn G. Ball, Clawson.

A silky terrier, Wilhaven's Wee Daisy, owned by Bill Williams, Clawson.

Rockwood vom Schwalk, a German Shepherd, owned by Fred Schwalk of Royal Oak, won Open B obedience with 195½ points.

Schwalk also had highest scoring obedience dog, El Touraie, II, of vom Schwalk, captured Novice B with 189½.

Jay Vinton, 12, of Birmingham won Novice (8-12 years old) junior showmanship honors. Heidi Hayes was second in the same class.

Winners of the 1962 PKC County Dog Show were announced Sunday at the Pontiac Kennel Club.

The show was held at the Pontiac Kennel Club.

The show was held at the Pontiac Kennel Club.

Hunters Help Pay

LANSING (AP) — Whether they know it or not, Michigan hunters have paid for nearly $10 million worth of wildlife restoration projects throughout the state in the last quarter century.

What they have meant to wildlife and to the people of Michigan, those living and those yet to come, is incalculable.

This is the 25th anniversary of the now well-known Pittman-Robertson act, passed by Congress at a time when severe droughts posed a serious threat to waterfowl population across the country.

The federal government launched a crash program to purchase several million acres of land for waterfowl refuges, but the state, too, saw a need to take a hand in providing for the project. Wildlife areas for resident wildlife. The problem was lack of funds.

A federal excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition was about to expire. Instead, the Pittman-Robertson act continued it, with proceeds going back to the state, with the amount determined on a basis of the number of hunting licenses sold and the area of the state.

Since then, Congress has enacted the Dingell-Johnson act for fish restoration projects, financed by taxes on fishing equipment.

In 25 years, the 11 per cent excise tax on arms and ammunition has brought in more than $225 million. Michigan has received more "P-R" funds than any state except Texas.

CHECK PROJECTS

Under the act, projects costs are borne initially by the state conservation departments. After completion, federal authorities investigate before certifying the projects for reimbursement of 75 per cent of the cost by the government.

The list of P-R projects is long and varied. Nationally, more than half of the money has been spent for development of wildlife habitat. In Michigan, that includes such projects as

Hits Concessionaires in National Parks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., said today concessionaires in national parks are given virtually self-perpetuating, monopolistic rights to gorge the millions of visitors.

He said the concessionaires are not charged even a minimum franchise fee and their profits range as high as 82.1 per cent. Brooks issued the statement as Government activities subcommittee resumed hearings on ways of preventing waste of taxpayers' money.

Pravda Knocks U.S. in Space

Soviet Paper Applauds 'Twins,' Says America Has Evil Intent

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet commentators Maj. Andrei Nikolayev and Lt. Col. Pavel Popovich blasted "the road to the future" while the United States was trying "to re-vert mankind to the jungles of the past," the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda said today.

Pravda correspondent V. Mayevsky said the Soviet space program was peaceful, but "unfortunately this will to peace is lacking in those bellicose circles of the United States and other Western powers which are trying in every way to carry the armaments race also into outer space."

"There is the aggressive nature of U.S. experiments with 'spy in the sky' satellites, 'satellite raiders,' and 'satellite saboteurs' as well as of the U.S. high altitude nuclear explosions," he said.

Pravda, in reporting the two cosmonauts' first open news conference yesterday, said the success of their group space flight "shattered the road to the conquest of space."

It said the flight showed areas of the cosmos where radiation may be dangerous can be mapped the way ocean reefs can be mapped, and that the danger of collisions between space ships and meteorites was minimal.

The news conference in the skyscraper main building of Moscow University also cleared up a number of questions about the flights themselves.

Among them was how the cosmonauts and their space ships returned to earth. Nikolayev said he had separated from his capsule and completed the final leg of his descent by parachute.

World War I Vet Dies

SCOTCH PLAINS, N.J. (AP)—Austin B. Crehore, 89, a member of the famed Lafayette Escadrille Flying Corps of World War I, died Monday. Crehore retired last year as president of Crehore & Richardson, Inc., of New York City when the insurance firm merged with Elbert, French & Co., Inc. He was born in Hackensack, N.J.

A-Powered Savannah Sails (for Pay) on Tuesday

ABOARD SAVANNAH (AP) — The Savannah, world's first atom-powered merchant ship, will go into the sail-for-pay business on Tuesday, Aug. 28, carrying 32 passengers from Savannah, Ga., to Norfolk, Va., at a minimum of $125 a head.

This was related today as the Savannah neared her namesake city and an anticipated big welcome at the end of her maiden voyage to a commercial port.

THIS TRIP FREE

The 20,000-ton, $33-million ship is carrying 20 passengers, including Gov. Ernest Vandiver of Georgia, on the present trip from Yorktown, Va., but this ceremonial trip is free.

Officials of the States Marine Lines, Inc., New York, which operates the Savannah for the government, told newsmen some 400 persons have applied for the 32 berths available on the initial commercial voyage that will formally usher in the atomic age of merchant shipping. The ship will also carry some commercial cargo.

The Savannah's second commercial trip will come late next month when she heads for the Seattle, Wash., World's Fair via the Panama Canal, with passengers paying $700 and up, depending on their accommodations.

Uncle Sam will get the revenue, but he won't be making any profit, government officials say. The Savannah, being the first ship of her kind with high development costs, is not expected to operate economically.

SHIPPING LIMITED

The ship was jointly developed by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Commerce Department Maritime Administration. It is not expected to enter full-scale commercial shipping, on a worldwide basis, for at least another year.

As the ship neared Savannah today, Commodore Gaston Degroot of Huntington, Long Island, N.Y., her skipper, had everything in readiness to strut his ship's stuff before a welcoming crowd expected to reach at least 10,000.

The day will mark another maritime epoch for Savannah, which was the departure port in 1819 for the first steamship to make a transatlantic crossing, the converted clipper ship Savannah.

The nuclear-powered Savannah, which could cruise for 3 1/2 years on her present initial fueling of 17,000 pounds of uranium oxide, is to dock about 2 p.m. after cruising up the Savannah River and sailing past the heart of the city.

Swainson, Romney Busy Assailing Other's Politics

By the Associated Press

Gov. John B. Swainson assailed the Republican party as "the puppet of big business" yesterday and accused the GOP-dominated legislature of taxing small business at a stiffer rate than it did big business.

The statement came at a meeting in Detroit at which about 400 businessmen from the Detroit area said they would establish a group that will tell the state's business community that Swainson is sympathetic to their needs.

The remarks were countered on the other side of the state where George Romney, campaigning in St. Joseph, criticized union influence in the Democratic party.

The GOP gubernatorial candidate called for lower taxes on industry in a speech before a largely conservative audience of some 300 service club members.

NEED REFORMS

Romney said the state must be rebuilt as the American Motors Corp., when he was its president. "We must have spending reform," he said.

Swainson's address was at a meeting of the Business for Swainson Committee.

The governor said that small businessmen looking at the record can see that taxes passed in the last 10 years were aimed at them.

Swainson said GOP lawmakers had rejected this year his tax reform program which he claimed would have cut business taxes by more than $100 million annually.

Ivan Ledington, president of a seaway-magazine publishing group, is co-chairman of the businessmen committee and Bert L. Smekler, Detroit builder and real estate developer, is treasurer.

Romney, who made appearances throughout Cass and Berrien counties, said state taxes on industry and on the poor were too high. He said the Michigan economy has not expanded as population increased.

Scoring what he called "special interest government," Romney said "we must straighten out the financial mess in Michigan."

"The way to do this is not by more taxes but more jobs—and I am just as opposed to an income tax as any one else."

Candidate Picked by Delaware GOP

DOVER, Del. (AP)—Wilmer F. (Rudy) Williams, former state senator and operator of two gasoline stations, has won the Republican nomination for Delaware's seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

The state convention picked him on the third ballot Tuesday night. There were two other major candidates.

Williams will oppose incumbent Democrat Harris B. McDowell

Jr. in November. McDowell was re-elected in 1960 by less than the one per cent of the total vote.

Counselor Available on Problems of Aging

LANSING (AP)—A representative of the Michigan Commission on Aging, Floyd D. Wallace, is available in six Michigan counties for consultation on problems and opportunities concerning the aging.

The consultations are part of a pilot study involving Eaton, Saginaw, Clinton, Midland, Bay and Lake counties.

Ex-Governor Opposes Solon

Former Gov. Simpson Wins GOP Nomination in Wyoming Race

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Former Gov. Milward L. Simpson apparently has won the Republican nomination to oppose Sen. Joe Hickey for the U.S. Senate in the November general election.

Simpson, 55, ex-Kentucky Sallars, 41-year-old rancher and former professional basketball star, 8,479 votes to 5,589 on returns from 318 of 602 precincts in Wyoming's primary election Tuesday.

Hickey was unopposed for the Democratic nomination, but polled 17,216 votes in returns from 442 precincts.

APPOINTED SELF

At stake will be the four years remaining in the term of the late Senator-elect Keith Thomson, Republican, who died a month after the 1960 election.

Hickey was governor when Thomson died. He appointed himself to the Senate.

Acting Gov. Jack Gage, 63, was leading for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Returns from 333 precincts gave Gage 6,304 and William (Scotty) Jack, a member of the State Public Service Commission, 5,076.

WINS GOP RACE

Clifford P. Hansen, 49, a Jackson rancher, won the Republican nomination for governor. Returns from 429 precincts gave Hansen 18,827; Charles Crowell, Cheever attorney, 7,749, and R.E. Cheever, former Cheyenne mayor, 2,260.

Rep.-William Henry Harrison won GOP nomination to a fourth term in Congress. Returns from 318 precincts gave Harrison 9,070 and G.L. Spence, Riverton attorney, 5,023.

The Democratic race for nomination to Wyoming's only House seat ended. Returns from 429 precincts gave Lou Mankus, 39-year-old Cheyenne attorney, 4,397 votes; Stephen Moyle, former Laramie mayor, 3,995, and George W. K. Povear, bearded artist model from Casper, 1,511.

Identical Bids Report Given

Bob Kennedy Sees 'Significant Problem' in 10 Categories

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said today identical bidding on federal, state and local government contracts appeared to be a "significant problem" in at least 10 product categories.

But he noted that identical bids apparently were involved in only 1 per cent of contracts awarded through bidding procedures—surprisingly below most advance estimates.

Kennedy made the findings in the first identical bid report submitted to the President and Congress to discourage collusion in seeking government work.

He said federal, state and local agencies reported 599 cases of identical bidding on contracts for items ranging from asphalt to zinc oxide during a seven-month period ending last February.

'WARNING SIGNALS'

This information does not prove any illegal activity, but provides "warning signals" for government and business that may deter such conduct in the future, he said.

The bulky, 434-page report listed the names of 915 companies who quoted exactly the same prices on supplies or services that a government agency wanted to buy.

"The listing of the names of firms which have submitted identical bids... does not imply that they have engaged in collusive bidding," Kennedy said in a statement.

"Indeed, as the report states, identical bidding may even be encouraged by unanticipated procurement procedures and policies of public agencies which advertise for bids."

Kennedy said there were indications the new bid-reporting program already had helped to increase competition among suppliers and cut the cost of government operation.

His report said information furnished so far has triggered antitrust investigations into 15 product categories, even though no cases have been brought to court yet.

The attorney general said the biggest problems were confined to 10 product areas, with procurement of road-building materials topping the list.

But Public Learns From Them

Pentagon Fights GI Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—Movies about the American fighting forces, a Hollywood staple since the first days of World War II, are in danger of extinction by Pentagon directives.

So says Sy Bartlett, an expert in the service picture. An Air Force reserve colonel himself, he is now filming a saga of the Strategic Air Command, "A Gathering of Eagles," with Rock Hudson and Rod Taylor.

The movie almost didn't get made, Bartlett remarked.

THOMAS

"It took the recommendation of Gen. Curtis LeMay and President Kennedy himself to get it past the Pentagon brass," the producer said.

There was a time when the services were falling over each other to extend cooperation to film makers on films extolling the glories of the particular branches. What happened?

It was the second coming of D-Day that did it. Darryl Zanuck borrowed American troops and equipment to help stage "The Longest Day." Congressmen got wind of this and started a barrage against such use of American fighting men.

"It's ridiculous," complained Bartlett. "The only thing they want to know now is: How will the movie benefit the taxpayers? So we had to explain how it would show the taxpayers what they are getting for their money."

"It would also demonstrate the system of positive control to those who fear that a war can be started through error. And it would show in a very graphic way to the Russians why they would be foolish to start anything."

NO CONCESSIONS

Even after such arguments, Bartlett received no concessions to filming of his picture. He was told he could proceed—but personnel and equipment could not be used for anything beside their regular duties.

"That kind of ruling would eliminate almost every kind of service picture," the producer declared.

"Fortunately, we were able to go ahead because SAC is in daily maneuvers which we could photograph."

Bartlett is a champion of the service film not merely because he makes many of them. He thinks they do a good selling job for the United States at home and abroad.

"Pork Chop Hill," which he made with Gregory Peck, was a realistic saga of the Korean War that showed American fighting men could have human failings. But, the producer claimed, "it also demonstrated to the world that the American soldier is still a formidable opponent."

Bartlett also produced "The Outsider" with Tony Curtis as the ill-fated two Jima flag raiser, Ira Hayes. The film "got the Marine Corps off the hook" for any blame in Hayes' sad end, the producer said, and did a good public relations job in depicting Marine training.

"And of course '12 O'Clock High' is a classic," said Bartlett, who co-wrote the Air Force film. "It is now shown to all air recruits and even at Harvard Business School to demonstrate the qualities of leadership."

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada has agreed to sell up to 18.75 million bushels of wheat to Communist Poland for about $42 million.

The agreement was signed here Tuesday by Polish Deputy Foreign Trade Minister Franciszek Modrzewski and Deputy Trade Minister James A. Roberts of Canada.

Poland agreed to take 11.25 million bushels and took an option to accept or reject another 7.5 million bushels by the end of January. Poland will pay 10 per cent down and the balance within three years.

Opposition Platform Backed Constitution — An opposition platform that failed to gain the floor of the Oakland County Republican state convention Aug. 15 included support for the proposed new state constitution.

It was inadvertently reported the next day that the platform, prepared by a group headed by Huntington Woods attorney Larry S. Newland, made no mention of the proposed constitution.

Thalidomide Baby Died Within Year — CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati maker of thalidomide says a baby was born here severely deformed in spring of 1961, and there was reason to suspect the mother took the drug during pregnancy.

Frank N. Getman, president of the William S. Merrell Co., reported yesterday the baby died about 11 months after birth.

He said in a statement that investigation of the case was conducted in accordance with the conclusive evidence of what part thalidomide may have played in this sad case.

Getman said the mother's doctor had been testing Merrell's thalidomide, and at the time there was no reason to link the drug with birth defects.

Laoian Releases Viet Minh Soldiers — VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Right-wing Gen. Phoumi Nongvong released today six shabbily dressed Viet Minh soldiers from Communist North Viet Nam captured during the Laoian civil war.

Phoumi released the prisoners in accordance with the Geneva accord on Laos which specified that all foreigners captured during the war would be freed by day.

But informed sources said the rightist leader also wanted to prove that Viet Minh troops had been fighting alongside the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces.

Finishing Bridge Over St. Mary's River at Soo — The $20-million bridge will be the fourth link between Michigan and Ontario and will be the only such connection between the United States and Canada from Port Huron, Mich., to the lakehead of Lake Superior near Minnesota and Ontario loach.

The bridge is scheduled to open late in October, according to David Ripley, secretary of the International Bridge Authority.

The bridge will be the northern terminal of I-75 and will link northern Michigan with Canadian I-70, the trans-Canada highway around the north shore of Lake Superior.

Teamster Pension Fund Target of a New Probe

CHICAGO (UPI) — Five Justice Department attorneys have begun presenting evidence to a federal grand jury in the latest investigation of the Teamsters Union's $100-million pension fund.

The grand jury which began its session here yesterday was one of a series of probes at New Orleans, La., Washington, Los Angeles and a dozen other cities.

Federal officials have indicated that Teamster Union pension monies may have been invested in Las Vegas, Nev., gambling casinos, resort hotels, and other "unusual" properties.

The first days of the investigation were devoted to acquainting the jury with its duties and presenting reports and documents. It was thought that the first witnesses will testify next week.

Subpoenas have been served on an underlined number of persons. U.S. Atty. James P. O'Brien declined to reveal the names of those subpoenaed.

All other county salaries would remain unchanged except for increased payments previously approved by the board of supervisors.

Drain Commissioner Daniel Barcy was the only other county official to ask for specific salary increases beyond what the committee recommended.

ASKS $17,500 — He said he should be paid the same salary as the director of public works, whose annual earnings are $17,500.

Barcy also asked that his deputy Robert Evans' pay be hiked from $10,000 to $13,000.

County Treasurer Charles Sparks and Clerk-Register Daniel Murphy both said they thought they should be paid considerably more because of increased responsibilities and work loads.

Only the county's welfare director, John MacDonald, who is appointed, said he was completely satisfied with the committee's recommendations.

The hearing was followed by an executive session, after which Salter said that the board of supervisors had decided not to change its recommendations for fear of "further rocking the boat" as far as other county personnel are concerned.

Taylor said he intended to ask the ways and means committee for a hearing on his demand. He said he expected to appear before the committee within the next two weeks.

Ways and means has yet to consider the recommended pay increases before making its final budget recommendation to the board of supervisors Sept. 10.

The committee was prompted by the board's ways and means committee to learn to the officials' gripes to propose a final county budget for next year.

The prompting followed complaints by Prosecuting Attorney George Taylor that he was being shortchanged by the salaries committee and denied any hearing on the subject.

MIKE RECOMMENDED — Taylor's annual salary was one of those which the salaries committee recommended to be raised in 1963 by an additional $10,000. The prosecutor's current salary is $14,000.

Taylor said he should get $18,000 because of increasing duties and responsibilities. He also asked that his chief assistant Robert Long's salary be raised from $11,075 to $12,500 for the same reason.

Other salary increases previously recommended by the salaries committee for next year were: Clerk-Register, from $12,500 to $13,500; treasurer, from $12,500 to $13,500; sheriff from $11,250 to $12,250; drain commissioner, from $12,500 to $13,500.

Other officials: auditor, from $12,000 to $13,400 next year and to $14,000 starting in 1964; welfare commissioner from $10,500 to $11,500; and road commissioner from $7,500 to $10,000.

All other county salaries would remain unchanged except for increased payments previously approved by the board of supervisors.

Drain Commissioner Daniel Barcy was the only other county official to ask for specific salary increases beyond what the committee recommended.

ASKS $17,500 — He said he should be paid the same salary as the director of public works, whose annual earnings are $17,500.

Barcy also asked that his deputy Robert Evans' pay be hiked from $10,000 to $13,000.

County Treasurer Charles Sparks and Clerk-Register Daniel Murphy both said they thought they should be paid considerably more because of increased responsibilities and work loads.

Only the county's welfare director, John MacDonald, who is appointed, said he was completely satisfied with the committee's recommendations.

The hearing was followed by an executive session, after which Salter said that the board of supervisors had decided not to change its recommendations for fear of "further rocking the boat" as far as other county personnel are concerned.

Taylor said he intended to ask the ways and means committee for a hearing on his demand. He said he expected to appear before the committee within the next two weeks.

Officials of the Central States, Southwest and Southeast Conferences of Teamsters declined to say whether their pension fund records have been subpoenaed.

Charles Z. Smith, Negro attorney who heads the five-man team of special assistant attorneys general, said the probe would cover possible mail fraud, fraud by wire and conspiracy with various persons.

O'Brien said the investigation also will cover "certain labor-management problems" involving companies and other unions. He declined to identify either the companies or unions.

The pension fund is financed by contributions from members and trucking company payments of $5 for each loaded trailer shipped by the railroad "piggy-back" method.

The fund is administered by a 16-member board of trustees, eight from management and eight from the union. Among the union members on the board is Teamsters President James Hoffa.

Federal probes believe that Hoffa dominates the board. Hoffa has been involved in scandals with the federal government since he was first summoned to testify before the Senate Racke Committee five years ago. Robert Kennedy, now attorney general, was chief counsel for the committee.

The travels of the boy and his missionary family from Brazil to New York to Toronto were traced in detail and thousands of other persons were immunized.

They included airmail and train personnel, 400 Royal Canadian Air Force cadets who were on the same train, 70 of 74 passengers on the Argentine Airlines flight which brought the Ors to New York, and persons in the nine New York state cities where the Ors' Toronto-bound train stopped.

Construction is now in the final stages and workmen are placing a 174-inch asphalt surface over the 28-foot concrete roadway.

The bridge is scheduled to open late in October, according to David Ripley, secretary of the International Bridge Authority.

The bridge will be the northern terminal of I-75 and will link northern Michigan with Canadian I-70, the trans-Canada highway around the north shore of Lake Superior.

Officials Seek 5 More in Vaccination Drive — The newspaper quoted a leader in this country's space program who asked to remain anonymous as saying: "We'll use him (Slayton) for sure when we get to Gemini."

Slayton was dropped from a Mercury program assignment four months ago because doctors detected a heart murmur.

He was remained with the team of seven astronauts but has been told he will draw no official job, the News said. Gemini capsules will carry two men.

The hangar was being built by Flite Line Inc. under a lease agreement with the city when that company went out of business.

Richwing also proposed to assume the original lease when the hangar is completed. The proposal is being studied by City Attorney William A. Ewart and proper legal forms will be prepared for formal approval at a future commission meeting.

Opposition Platform Backed Constitution — An opposition platform that failed to gain the floor of the Oakland County Republican state convention Aug. 15 included support for the proposed new state constitution.

It was inadvertently reported the next day that the platform, prepared by a group headed by Huntington Woods attorney Larry S. Newland, made no mention of the proposed constitution.

Thalidomide Baby Died Within Year — CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati maker of thalidomide says a baby was born here severely deformed in spring of 1961, and there was reason to suspect the mother took the drug during pregnancy.

Frank N. Getman, president of the William S. Merrell Co., reported yesterday the baby died about 11 months after birth.

He said in a statement that investigation of the case was conducted in accordance with the conclusive evidence of what part thalidomide may have played in this sad case.

Getman said the mother's doctor had been testing Merrell's thalidomide, and at the time there was no reason to link the drug with birth defects.

Officials Fail to Change Pay

County officials were given a chance to gripe about their salaries yesterday, but it didn't change anything.

The salaries committee of the County Board of Supervisors refused to change its earlier recommendations to grant pay hikes, ranging from $1,000 to $3,500 annually, for five elected and three appointed officials.

The committee was prompted by the board's ways and means committee to learn to the officials' gripes to propose a final county budget for next year.

The prompting followed complaints by Prosecuting Attorney George Taylor that he was being shortchanged by the salaries committee and denied any hearing on the subject.

Will Air Bids on Athletic Site

Waterford Board to Hear Suggestions From Architect

Recommendations on bids submitted for the proposed athletic site at Waterford Kettering High School will be presented to the Waterford Township Board of Education tomorrow night by landscape architect Robert J. Fedosky.

The special board meeting was called so that most work on the project could be completed before winter if the board should see fit to accept bids. Bids were project at last week's regular meeting and referred to Fedosky for study.

Kettering presently has no outdoor athletic site. Teams at the year-old school have been sharing the facilities of other schools.

Fedosky was retained by the school board last April to prepare a topographical map of the site in addition to a proposed athletic facility.

The plan includes a baseball diamond, softball fields, an unlighted football field, outdoor track, two tennis courts and an area for girls' soccer and field hockey.

School board members concurred in initial discussion of the project that a lighted gridiron would not be necessary because Kettering's team could use the lighted field at Waterford Township High School.

The proposed track at Kettering would be superior to that at WTHS and it could be shared by both schools, board members agreed.

CAI Directors OK Addition to Building — A 20x26-foot addition to be used as a storage area and workshop was approved last night by the Community Activities Inc., board of directors.

Work on the project is slated to begin Sept. 1 with completion scheduled by the end of the month. The addition will be located on the west side of the CAI building and will cost $3,424.80.

"Lack of storage space in the building at 5640 Williams Lake Road, Waterford Township has been a problem for years," CAI Director Robert Bauer commented. "The addition should provide ample space and still leave room for a workshop," he added.

Increase Seen in Unfit Drivers and Vehicles — BOWLING GREEN, Ohio — With the steady increase in number of drivers and vehicles on the nation's roads, the National Student Traffic Safety Conference has been held, has come an increase in unfit drivers and vehicles.

Speaker yesterday at the conference being held at Bowling Green State University was Amos E. Neyhart, director of Penn State University's Institute of Public Safety.

Some shortcomings of American traffic safety programs, Neyhart said, include failure of drivers to accept responsibility for safety, a poor job of informing the public of the problem and a lag in basic research on fundamental causes of accidents.

He said 38,000 traffic deaths and 1,400,000 injuries in 1961 have not aroused sufficient action.

GETTING THE NEWS—Mrs. Gilbert Reuter of Jackson and her daughter Gladys, 12, get good news Tuesday. Mrs. Reuter's mother, Mrs. Helena Gruenman, is on her way to the United States as the third person permitted to leave East Germany.

Ambulance Near Wall May Soothe Tempers

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. authorities hope stationing of an American ambulance near the Berlin wall will soothe West Berlin tempers without inflaming the East-West border situation.

Informed sources said today instructions on when and how to use the ambulance stress a humanitarian purpose.

READY TO AID
Thus, the U.S. Army ambulance is not to enter Communist East Berlin to aid an escapee hit by Red bullets until it appears the Communists themselves will not go to his aid.

The vehicle will be unarmed. If the U.S. ambulance does pick up the injured person, it is supposed to take him to an East Berlin medical center if practical — not complete his escape by carrying him into West Berlin.

The announcement of the ambulance plan and a talk with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin by Secretary of State Dean Rusk were two high points Tuesday in intensified Allied discussions on the future over last Friday's death of a young East German.

The youth was shot by Communist police as he attempted to flee to West Berlin and left to bleed to death on the Communist side of the wall.

The incident set off three nights of violent anti-Russian riots—and some outbursts against Americans—by angry West Berliners.

The demonstrations caused sharp concern in Washington. One U.S. official described the Berlin situation as dangerous and said the U.S. government sympathizes with the outrage of the West Berliners but also needs their help in solving Berlin wall problems in an orderly manner.

Rusk called in Dobrynin for a 20-minute conference and proposed again that the big power commanders in Berlin meet to work out ways to reduce dangerous incidents.

If the diplomatic move is successful, U.S. officials hope there will be no occasion to dispatch the ambulance through the wall. On the other hand, U.S. officials are considering countermeasures if the Communists prevent the ambulance from entering East Berlin.

Red Cars Stopped at W. Berlin Gate; Say 'No' on Escort

BERLIN (AP)—U.S. Military Police held up three Soviet armored cars for 45 minutes today at the border on the sixth day of rising tension in this front line city of the cold war.

A U.S. spokesman on the spot said they were refused entry but went through anyhow. Informants said the Russians were barred because of Soviet rejection of an escort.

When the Soviets first arrived at the checkpoint, an American jeep pulled out in front of them, blocked their way. When an American Army sedan got into position to escort the armored cars, the jeep pulled back into a courtyard.

At first, the Russians refused to get out of their olive drab cars, marked with the red star. Then two Soviet officers emerged and talked with a U.S. major.

A U.S. Army sedan trailed the Soviet convoy to the Soviet war memorial in the British sector. The Russians returned about 45 minutes later and were quickly waved through the checkpoint into East Berlin.

The Russians have, repeatedly rejected escorts while traveling in West Berlin despite the stoning by West Berlin demonstrators. They switched from buses to armored cars.

POLITICAL TUP
A U.S. Army spokesman said the tieup at Checkpoint Charlie appeared to have political implications.

This apparently was a reference to rising U.S. irritation at the Soviet refusal to meet with Western commanders in Berlin to check the dangerous march of events in recent days.

Earlier, East German border guards and West Berlin police fought with rocks and tear gas grenades across the Communist wall.

West police said the new clash erupted when the Red guards opened up with a rock barrage. They were driven back with tear gas grenades. No injuries were reported on either side.

The flareup came near Bernauer Strasse, scene of many daring escapes since the Communists built the barrier dividing the city.

During the night, West police rounded up 126 persons for identity checks in a hunt for Communist agents. The Western commanders have charged Red agents were fanning the demonstrations in West Berlin.

At least four women were among those picked up loitering near Checkpoint Charlie, the U.S. border crossing point that has been the scene of most of the trouble. All 126 persons were released.

The Soviet Communist paper Pravda seized on the demonstrations in West Berlin to press for a German peace treaty.

RAINS HEAVY
"If the world public needs any other proof of the necessity for drawing up a peace treaty with Germany and the normalization of Berlin on that basis, this proof is given abundantly these days by West Berlin provocateurs themselves," Pravda said.

Heavy rains cleared the streets of West Berlin demonstrators during the night.

The Soviet war memorial sentries—fired for three nights in a row—went to their posts in armored cars Tuesday night.

Temperatures will remain warm, the high averaging near the normal 80.

Evening recordings of 60 will be the best tonight for sleeping. The high tomorrow will be warmer, near 80.

Morning northeasterly winds at miles per hour will be 5 to 10 m.p.h. tonight and southerly Thursday.

Fifty-seven was the low recording before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. The reading at 1 p.m. was 81.

Italy Panics to New Shocks

Once Scene of Gaiety

FLAMES SWEEP LANDMARK—Firemen from four departments battled flames this morning that destroyed the Roll-Orion skating rink on Lapeer Road, just south of Lake Orion. Heat from the blaze would not allow firemen to enter the building. The building, valued at $70,000, had burned to the ground by 10:30 a.m.

Battle Lasts Over an Hour

A spectacular fire, so intense that it kept firemen at bay for more than an hour, burned down the Roll-Orion roller skating rink south of Lake Orion this morning. Firemen from four departments fought a successful battle, however, to keep the fire from spreading to a nearby gasoline station.

Although no one was injured, the building was leveled within an hour after the blaze was first reported shortly before 8 a.m. At that time, telephone lines were put out of service, a power transformer caught fire and the oil in a tank at the gas station was boiling.

The building, which was moved from its former location on the lake across Lapeer Road a few years ago and remodeled, was valued at $70,000 by its owner, Frederick Ritchie, 8386 Goldside Drive, Union Lake.

A popular spot for area roller skating enthusiasts, the building was also the site of the rink's coronation during Lake Orion's centennial celebration in 1959.

The fire was so intense that only a few firemen with asbestos suits were permitted by their chiefs to go near the fire.

Two Orion Township fire departments — from Lake Orion and Gingiville — were joined by the Oxford and Addison Township departments.

Water was pumped from the lake across the road to fight the fire, so both north and southbound traffic on M24 was halted as far as the eye could see for about an hour.

C. J. Brundell of Michigan Bell Telephone Co. reported that 45 telephones in the area were put out of service by damage to a cable behind the building. He said service was expected to be resumed by noon.

A power transformer behind the rink caught fire but it was doused immediately by firemen.

Less than a half hour after the fire was first reported, only parts of two walls were still standing. The 156 by 65-foot building was constructed of wood with asphalt siding.

Cause of the blaze had not been determined, Ritchie said it was insured for only $40,000.

Pontiac residents can resume their lawn sprinkling.

City Manager Robert A. Storer reported last night's City Commission meeting that recent rains have resulted in a rise in the ground water table and better water pressure.

Thus, the city is lifting enforcement of an ordinance which prohibited lawn sprinkling in July and August between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. daily except Sundays.

"No further pressure problems are anticipated," Storer noted. "Good cooperation was received from citizens during the voluntary restriction period and is much appreciated."

Follow Quake That Killed 15, Injured 100

No Foreigners Listed as Casualties in South, Jackie's Villa Safe

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—New earth tremors spread panic in southern Italy early today after a severe earthquake Tuesday night that took about 15 lives and injured at least 100.

No foreigners were reported among the dead and injured.

The earth shocks left a trail of damage from this port city to the Adriatic coast. Some of the deaths were attributed to heart attacks from fright. Many of the injured were hurt in panicky flights from searing homes and buildings.

Jackie Kennedy's cliffside vacation villa at Ravello is only 5 miles southwest of the epicenter of the worst quake. Only slight tremors were felt there and Mrs. Kennedy's 4-year-old daughter Caroline and the rest of the household remained calm, servants said.

The American First Lady was visiting in the garden of another villa across town. Only a slight tremor was felt there.

Premier Amintore Fanfani flew here today to help officials speed relief.

Thousands of frightened Italians spent the night in the open. New shocks at 4:10 a.m. and 7:15 a.m. followed Tuesday night's major quake at 7:30 p.m.

This Neapolitan city kept its public parks open for citizens. Police estimated a third of the 1.5 million residents spent the night in the open.

A hospital at Ariano Irpino moved its patients to tents set up in a field. More than 100 homes were damaged in that Apulian mountain town. Huge cracks were opened in the 16th Century cathedral bell tower.

Convicts at Avellino were granted permission to remain in the prison courtyard.

Road and transport in southern Italy was disrupted.

Several bridges were wrecked, telephone lines knocked down, water and power systems in many communities cut off. Police patrolled glass-rioted streets of stricken towns against looters.

Geologic hazards—earthquakes and volcanic eruptions—are not new in this area around Vesuvius, the volcano that buried the city of Pompeii 1,900 years ago.

The worst shocks struck in an area between two cities that have felt disastrous quakes in the 20th Century—Avellino, where 20,000 persons were killed in 1935, and Messina where 75,000 perished in 1908.

KILLED BY STONE

Knudsen Predicting Another Good Year

DETROIT—General Motors, well on its way to an all-time profit record this year, said today it expects 1963 to be every bit as good for the auto industry. Other companies have predicted lower sales.

Simon E. (Bunky) Knudsen, a GM vice president and general manager of the huge Chevrolet Division, in remarks prepared for a national press review of new car models, declared:

"With continued consumer confidence and a growing economy, we see no reason why the current sales level for the industry should not be maintained in 1963, or about seven million passenger cars including between 300,000 and 400,000 imports. Truck sales will be in excess of one million units."

Knudsen said further that Chevrolet expects to sell a record two million plus cars this year and confidently anticipates selling at least that many next year.

The forecasts are far and away higher than anything else heard in Detroit automotive circles.

FORD PREDICTION
Ford Motor Co. has suggested total sales possibly as high as 6.6 million, although Ben Mills, general manager of Ford's Lincoln-Mercury Division, refused yesterday to be pinned down more specifically than "over one million."

Chrysler President Lynn A. Townsend privately predicted about six million.

Even six million sales next year would be considered excellent and seven million, a figure so far achieved only in 1955, would be regarded in most quarters as fantastic.

The auto industry has a long history of failing to put two extra good years together. Only in 1950 and 1960 has it succeeded in having consecutive six million plus sales years.

CHEVROLET PREDICTION
Chevrolet's sales so far this year have been running 20.5 per cent ahead of the division's previous record set in 1960. And that record was tops for any car in the industry. Chevrolet has sold 1,349,307 cars and 228,895 trucks through the first 10 days of August, Knudsen said.

For 1963 Chevrolet will be playing a fairly flat hand. Two models have been discontinued—the two-door Bel-Air hardtop and the two-door Chevy II Nova Sedan. One new Corvette fast-back coupe has been added.

Styling changes are modest except for the Corvair, which has been radically changed. The Corvair will use a 98-horse wheelbase, a new perimeter frame and improved fuel injection.

State Woman's Mother Arrives Today After Leaving East Berlin

DETROIT (AP)—A family whose efforts to reunite found a passage through Berlin's wall expects to meet here today after 25 years of anguished separation.

Margaret Reuter's dream — one she thought could never be — is scheduled to come true at 6:15 p.m. when her mother steps down from a plane at Metropolitan Airport.

Helena Gruebau, 77, who hasn't seen her daughter in 25 years and never has met her five grandchildren, passed through a Berlin checkpoint into the West Tuesday.

She was one of the very few allowed to cross to West Berlin by East German authorities since they built the wall a year ago.

'ANSWER TO PRAYERS'
"I tell you, it's the answer to our prayers," said Mrs. Reuter, whose home is in Grass Lake, a Jackson suburb.

"We've been hoping and praying for this and now it's really happened."

The release climaxed years of effort, helped in recent months by G. Vernon Leopold, a Detroit attorney who was once a refugee himself.

Leopold entered the case last May after the death of Mrs. Gruebau's husband, Jacob, in Mount Clemens. In Berlin to settle the estate, Leopold suggested he seek Mrs. Gruebau's release.

Leopold told his wife here by phone Tuesday that Mrs. Gruebau is "very relieved" to have made the passage.

Strike Expected to Halt Work on Saturn Today

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI)—Work on the giant rocket booster for America's manned flight to the moon was expected to stop today unless striking electricians returned to their jobs.

Paul Styles, industrial relations director at the Marshall Space Flight Center, said yesterday that construction of the $30 million Saturn C5 test stand was in the "critical" stage.

"If we don't have electricians by tomorrow (Wednesday) that work will just come to a halt," he said.

Styles read a statement by Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg at a meeting yesterday with officials of Local 58 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW).

Goldberg said it was imperative that electricians and other unions "instruct all members who have remained away from their jobs (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Minister Held in Break-In

Rev. J. Allen Parker Is Apprehended by Police After Chase

The Rev. J. Allen Parker, vice president of the Pontiac Board of Education and pastor of the Newman A. M. E. Church, was being held by police today for investigation of breaking and entering.

When stopped by police today in the southeast section of the city, officers said the 31-year-old Methodist minister was bleeding from a head wound. He was later treated and released at Pontiac General Hospital.

Only minutes earlier, Bernard I. Stickney, 35, told police he had shot someone who attempted to break into his home at 23 S. Francis St.

Rev. Parker, who gave his address as 155 Judson St., denied taking part in the break-in in his statement to Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor today.

The minister said he was simply driving by the Stickney home on his way to a restaurant when he was wounded early this morning. He agreed to take a lie detector test, Taylor said.

Stickney said he and his 15-year-old son Gregory had been keeping watch on their home all night but were asleep when the break-in occurred. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Estimate of Receipts Raised Budget Balanced by Supervisors

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors' ways and means committee apparently balanced the county budget for next year yesterday by increasing the estimate of receipts.

In balancing the budget again, the ways and means committee raised the auditors' estimate receipts for next year.

The County Board of Auditors has been instructed by the committee to check its figures by Friday to know exactly where it stands before making its final budget recommendation to the board of supervisors Sept. 10.

Earlier, the auditors had balanced a budget within the $15.4 million they said could be anticipated through taxes and receipts.

They accomplished this mostly by slashing $50,725 from estimated welfare costs next year. Ways and Means Chairman David Lovinson termed the welfare budget cut "unrealistic," and $278,571 was restored. This gives the welfare department $4,896,091 in the budget. The department had requested $5,169,239.

It also raised projected receipts for this year by $150,000. The committee based its estimate on projections collected to date, projected this over the remaining five months of the year.

The result indicates that the county will have something like $15.8 million to finance next year's budget instead of $15.4 million.

The difference is expected to cover the committee's recommended budget increases over what the board of auditors recommended.

Both committee members and the auditors agreed that the revised approach to next year's budget was "very optimistic" and based on economic conditions remaining the same as this year.

The budget at this time cannot be made public.

S. Vietnamese Report 166 Reds Dead, 25 Taken

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—South Vietnamese troops today claimed 166 Red guerrillas were killed and 25 captured in their offensive to break the back of the Communist force in the Mekong River delta.

A communique claimed a major victory in what appeared the biggest battle of the civil war so far. A Viet Cong company commander was reported killed and Red battalion dispersed in the fighting 125 miles southwest of Saigon.

Military sources said the government's 1st Airborne Battalion encountered a large concentration of Viet Cong guerrillas Tuesday night a few miles south of the operation's command post at Bae Lue, in southern Ba Xuyen Province.

An estimated 300 guerrillas ambushed the government battalions after U.S. Marine helicopters had ferried the South Vietnamese troops into the area. The paratroopers fought their way out of the ambush and chased the fleeing guerrillas through the flooded rice fields.

Government troops counted 54 dead guerrillas. The Vietnamese reported they followed up the air force attacks on the fleeing guerrillas killed 80 more Red's. American sources could not confirm the government claims.

Government casualties totaled 54 killed and 14 wounded.

GENEVA (AP)—The 17-nation disarmament conference agreed today to recess from Sept. 8 to Nov. 12 while their deadlock is referred back to the U.N. General Assembly.

Register New Red N-Blast

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP)—A new Soviet nuclear test explosion in the atmosphere was registered today by Uppsala University's astronomical observatory.

Uppsala scientists put the strength of the explosion at about nine megatons—equivalent to nine million tons of TNT. That would make it the No. 3 blast in size of the five explosions set off in the current Soviet series.

RECORD WAVE
The explosion took place at 4 a.m. and the first shock wave was registered at 4:04 a.m.

The Swedish scientists said the blast took place about 1,600 miles from Uppsala.

Broad Sections of Nation Get More Showers

By The Associated Press
More showers sprinkled broad areas of the nation today in the wake of thunderstorms and other day of hot and humid weather in many sections.

Showers covered areas across the north central upper Mississippi Valley west, southwestward to the western high plains and from the central plains west and south-west through the central and southern Rocky Mountains region into the southern plateau.

Another belt of showers extended through the central and southern states, with heaviest amounts along the immediate coast. A thunderstorm hit Miami late Tuesday night.

NATIONAL WEATHER—Showers and thunderstorms are expected tonight in northern Rockies, central Plains and upper and mid-Mississippi Valley. Scattered showers are due in Virginia and Florida. It will be warmer in Pacific Northwest and Great Lakes region and cooler in northeastern states, the Rockies, northern Great Plains and upper Mississippi Valley.

ter Vasily V. Kuznetsov to consult during the recess about another date for resumption of the talks.

The recess date was a compromise between the recommendation of the cochairmen and desires of Sweden, India and Canada.

Dean and Kuznetsov suggested Sept. 1 as the most convenient date for interrupting the talks. Sweden's C. H. von Platen proposed mid-September. India's Arthur Lal favored Sept. 20. Gen. E.L.M. Burns of Canada opposed any recess.

PROPOSED BY BRAZILIAN

The Sept. 8 recess was proposed by Brazil's Augusto de Araujo Castro, who suggested the three nuclear powers use the time to review their text ban discussions in the subcommittee which stopped meeting two weeks ago.

Dean pointed out to the conference that East-West differences on substantial matters of disarmament and the nuclear test ban were too great to be overcome before the U.N. General Assembly meets Sept. 18.

The Geneva conference is to report back to that meeting. It will report no progress has been made. Dean reiterated today that the United States cannot accept a Soviet proposal for the destruction of all means of delivering nuclear weapons and the elimination of foreign bases in the first stage of disarmament.

He called the proposal "a thinly disguised effort to bring about the complete dismantling of the Western defense system, the reasons for the existence of which are so well-known."

DEAN'S VIEW

Dean said if the Soviet plan were to be implemented the world would look something like this at the end of the first stage: All means of delivering nuclear weapons—ships, planes, missiles, rockets and others—would have been eliminated completely, along with facilities to produce them.

All joint military installations of the United States and its Allies would have been destroyed, and all forces of the United States and its Allies would have been withdrawn to their own territories.

"On the other hand, the Soviet Union would be left in an obviously advantageous position," he said.

"Her large remaining forces—centrally located in the heartland of Europe and Asia, with secure internal lines of communication and under single command—could still be deployed effectively against the rest of the Eurasian land mass."

"They would represent the overwhelming national conventional force in Europe."

"For the free world this would mean defeat. For the Soviet Union it would mean victory."

The Soviet announcement said the Westerners "are trying to pretend that there allegedly exists some kind of a long-party commandants' office in Berlin, although it is known that it ceased to exist as far back as 1948."

Durant Stands Behind Society

But He Can't Recall Last Night's Statement on Political Moves

DETROIT (AP)—Richard Durant, Republican conservative leader of Michigan's 14th Congressional District, said today he still stands behind the philosophy and aims of the John Birch Society.

But Durant said he didn't remember saying at a meeting in suburban Dearborn last night that "my resignation (from the society) was a political move." The Detroit News reported today that he said.

Durant, after announcing his resignation from the Birch Society Aug. 12, was re-elected as vice chairman of the 14th District Republican organization over the opposition of George Romney (Gov. nominee for governor).

And his assertion that he still believes in principles of the society was tantamount to a challenge for a new test of strength with Romney, possibly this time before the Republican State Convention here Saturday.

Romney said last weekend that he did not resign as a Birch Society member in spirit as well as letter but because he disagreed with Durant's removal from leadership.

Durant runs the 14th District organization from the post of vice chairman and son over Romney opposition, although defeated as a percent delegate to the organization. Stanley J. Baldwin, a Durant ally, was re-elected chairman.

The News said Durant was asked by a member of the audience when addressing the Conservative Club of Dearborn last night whether he repudiated the Birch Society's principles, and that Durant replied.

"I would represent the overwhelming national conventional force in Europe."

"For the free world this would mean defeat. For the Soviet Union it would mean victory."

The Soviet announcement said the Westerners "are trying to pretend that there allegedly exists some kind of a long-party commandants' office in Berlin, although it is known that it ceased to exist as far back as 1948."

New Shocks Panic Quake-Struck Italy and Avellino. Naples hospitals admitted 60 injured.

The top floor of a hospital collapsed at Passo Eclano, 40 miles east of Naples and near the quake's center. Several patients were reported injured.

Homes and buildings collapsed in at least half a dozen communities, east of Naples. Windows were shattered in Naples and walls cracked. A railroad bridge collapsed at Bari, on the Adriatic Coast.

Avellino, a town of 37,000, 20 miles east of Naples, was especially hard hit. The quake knocked out the town's water supply and communications. Buildings lay in ruins.

Church bells chimed wildly throughout the countryside as the ground rocked across the peninsula to the Adriatic.

A mild quake preceded the main half-moon quake by 11 minutes and drove many of Naples' 1.5 million residents into the streets. When the heavy quake came, tens of thousands fled to the hills outside the city.

POLICE PATROL
Police patrolled stricken areas to prevent looting. Firemen searched glass-littered streets for weakened buildings.

The Italian Red Cross and the government ordered emergency supplies to the area. Pope John XXIII sent a message of sympathy and told the pontifical assistance office to provide money and goods for those in dire need.

ISLIP, N.Y. (AP)—Three-year-old boy who disappeared in a long Island State Park Sunday was found today—whimpering and soiled and able to smile.

The sound of crying led searchers to the boy but he managed the smile before being whisked off to Southside Hospital in Bay Shore.

The hospital reported he had suffered scratches and insect bites but that his condition was fairly good.

The hungry youngster ate heartily—a peanut butter sandwich and a glass of milk. He was so sleepy he dozed while talking with his parents.

HIT BY STORMS
Police had considered the possibility that the boy was kidnapped by a childless, love-starved woman, but Police Capt. Frank McConnin said there was nothing to indicate the boy had been anywhere but in the park.

Since the boy disappeared in 1,600-acre overgrown and brushy Becker's Park, the area had been hit by two electrical storms and the heaviest rainfall of any three-day period this summer.

The boy was found in bushes by parking lot No. 3, near the point where he disappeared, by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Finger of Islip Terrace.

Finger, a sergeant in the Islip Auxiliary Police, and his wife were among hundreds of persons searching for the boy.

The bond issue and improvements won't affect taxes.

The entire project is to be paid for with revenues from water and sewage charges to consumers.

'Cop Killer' Fails to Sway Kerner

CHICAGO (UPI)—Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, who three weeks ago set a legal precedent in sparing the life of condemned slayer Paul Crump, refused today to save "cop killer" James Duke from death in the electric chair Friday.

In a terse, 6-word statement released simultaneously in Chicago and Springfield, Kerner ruled that Dukes had exhausted his legal pleas and was not deserving of executive clemency.

It was the second time in a year that Kerner, as avowed foe of capital punishment, had refused to stop an execution in the death chamber of the Cook County Jail in Chicago.

But exactly three weeks ago to day, Kerner granted an 11th hour commutation of sentence to Crump, a convicted slayer man and killer who pleaded he had become a completely rehabilitated man during his nine years in prison.

It was the first time in modern legal history that a man had escaped the electric chair on a plea of rehabilitation.

Dukes, a black Negro from Chicago's South Side slums, was condemned to die for shooting a Chicago detective in a street fight in 1956.

He, too, said he had been rehabilitated. He also pleaded that he killed in a drunken rage and without premeditation.

The Day in Birmingham Art Appreciation Plan Outlined to School Unit

BIRMINGHAM — Details of a new art appreciation program scheduled to start in the 10th through 12th grade were outlined to Birmingham Board of Education members last night by Howard Matwiz, coordinator of art and continuing education.

Entitled "Understanding the Visual Arts," the course was one of the recommendations of the citizens' advisory committee prior to the passage of a five-mill operating tax increase proposal last November.

The course features a new approach to the study of art, starting with the present and tracing art development back through history instead of the traditional method of beginning in ancient times and moving forward through history.

A number of color slides and prints have been obtained for use with the course, which will include several field trips by students.

GIVES REPORT
Also at the school board meeting, Donald Martin, Birmingham recreation director, reported a successful summer recreation program conducted in cooperation with Birmingham schools.

A contract of $97,548 for black-topping work was awarded to Julian Wilson and Sons, the low bidder.

The work will include play areas, parking areas and drives at Bloomfield, Franklin, Harlan and Pembroke elementary schools; a service drive at Seaholm High School; a driver training range and a building to house driver training cars at Seaholm.

A $3,800 contract for water and sewer connection construction was awarded to Brady Plumbing and Heating. The two projects involved connection to the Troy water School and a sewer tap in the Valley Woods Elementary School.

In other action, school board members approved a revised professional growth policy and a revised corporal punishment policy.

Testifies About Estes Checks

Texas Orr Tells of Writing Two to Help With Scheme

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold E. Orr of Texas testified today he wrote checks for $25,000 and $50,000 last February to help Bill Sol Estes engineer a "subterfuge" to obtain cotton acreage allotments from the government.

Orr, president of the Superior Manufacturing Co., told the story at a hearing before the Senate investigations subcommittee.

Orr is awaiting sentence in Texas now on charges of interstate transportation of fraudulent securities. Estes, indicted with Orr and others in that case, has pleaded innocent.

The Senate subcommittee is concerned primarily with determining whether anyone in government aided Estes' high-flying operations under federal farm programs.

PICTURES DEALS
Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Donald P. O'Donnell, R-Miss., subcommittee chief counsel, pictured the deals described by Orr as desperate efforts by Estes to wrap a phony cloak of legality around his disputed juggling of cotton acreage planting allotments.

Orr swore he could not recall whether anyone in the Estes camp had told him the check-writing deal—in which the $25,000 check disappeared with no cost to him—was designed as a test case for a scheme to bring "third parties" into Estes' allotment deals and thus force federal investigators off the track.

Orr testified that as a favor to Estes he wrote the two checks—both payable to Conway Majors, one of the farmers whose cotton planting allotments Estes is alleged to have illegally purchased through a phony land sale, and lease-back arrangements.

Fingerprints found on the broken basement window in the Stickey home were being compared with Rev. Parker's today.

For Political Trends

California State to Watch

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The fast-growing Far West, mainly California, gains 10 seats in the House of Representatives this year, and political experts predict most of them will go to the Democrats in the November elections.

UPI correspondents in 13 Western states talked to governors, chairmen of both parties and many of the candidates themselves to assess the political outlook in the area.

The consensus: Prospects are good for Democratic gains, mainly because of a reapportionment by a Democratic legislature in California.

President Kennedy, who visited California last week, clearly has high hopes in the West. In a recent news conference, he expressed belief that the outlook for his legislative program would improve if the Democrats would gain between five and 10 House seats in November.

"There is not a measure before us that I don't think we could pass with a change of five seats," he said.

The survey of Western states showed that almost all Democratic candidates are supporters of the President.

GOP leaders such as national chairman William E. Miller predict the Republicans will win the 44 seats they need to control the House. The consensus of political professionals in the West is that the Republicans will have to turn to other localities to score major increases.

THE LINEUP
The present lineup in the House is 262 Democrats, 174 Republicans and one vacancy. The survey of this from a partisan standpoint: Democrats say: It will be at least 25-13, a gain of nine seats, and may go as high as 27-11 in their favor. Incumbent Republicans—John H. Roussetot and Edgar W. Hiestand, both members of the John Birch Society, will most likely be defeated as well as Rep. Gordon L. McDonough.

Republican William S. Mallard of San Francisco could be in trouble.

Republicans say: All 14 incumbent Republicans will be re-elected including Roussetot, Hiestand and McDonough. Democrat D. S. Saund, sitting in a Washington hospital, could be beaten if he is unable to conduct a full-fledged campaign.

Main targets among other Democratic incumbents are Clem Miller, J. B. P. Sisk, 18th, and Barham Hagan, 18th. The new lineup could be 30-18 Democratic but the Republicans may get a 19-19 standoff.

CONSENSUS
23-15 Democratic, a gain of seven for Democrats, one for Republicans. Republicans McDonough, Roussetot and Hiestand face tough contests.

Sound could be in difficulty if he doesn't campaign. All other incumbents in both parties are expected to win. But because Democrats drew district lines to favor their own party, they are expected to pick up seven more of the eight new seats.

Bid for Estate of Billie Sol

$12 Million Offered for Holdings by Texas
Businessman, Group

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — The estate of bankrupt Billie Sol Estes brought a bid yesterday of $12 million.

Texas businessman Morris D. Jaffe and a group of associates made the offer.

Jaffe said tentative agreement between his group and creditors of the estate call for an original payment of $7 million in cash and notes and $5 million in valid liens.

Estes owes $12.5 million and if the sale goes through it would mean that creditors would get back about 89 cents per dollar.

Jaffe, 40, is president of Fed Mart, Inc., a chain of discount houses with stores in Texas, Arizona and California. He also leads a large San Antonio construction firm.

BETTER THAN EXPECTED
If Estes' creditors actually do get 89 cents on the dollar, it would be about two times as much as what was first expected. The top offer for the estate previously was reported $6.5 million.

Jaffe said his group will not assume responsibility for non-exempt fertilizer storage tanks. Estes, who was indicted on state and federal charges, allegedly used nonexistent tanks in mortgage dealings.

Jaffe, who would not identify other members of the group, said if the deal is terminated all the assets except the grain storage elevators will be sold. The group will operate the elevators through leases.

"We are in this to make a profit," he said. "Why else would we be in the deal?"

Amy Vanderbilt to Help Out

Better Manners Sought on NYC Buses

NEW YORK (AP) — Overheard on a New York City bus, "some time in the future."

"No, my dear lady, this bus does not stop at Times Square. It is going to the Bronx. Perhaps another time we may serve you."

"Oh, Mr. Driver. You have caught my thumb in the door. Won't you please release it?"

PAY ME LATER

"Sir, I would be more than happy to change your $100 bill, but unfortunately I find myself just a bit short. It's all right, though. You can pay me next time."

The preceding scenes may seem a bit fanciful to veterans of the city bus wars, but the Transit Authority hopes to introduce better manners in motion among both bus drivers and passengers.

The authority is serious enough to have engaged etiquette writer Amy Vanderbilt to help in the campaign.

TO DO RESEARCH

For the next four weeks, Miss Vanderbilt—working without fee—will ride the buses to discover for herself any signs of incompatibility or ill-humor. She will use what she learns to draw up a code of conduct which the Transit Authority will display on buses.

"Courtesy breeds courtesy," Miss Vanderbilt announced Tuesday at a news conference in the rear of a parked bus.

To show the etiquette expert what she's up against, the Transit Authority put on several skits to illustrate the kind of behavior it is trying to eliminate.

Some of the little dramas were about unmannerly drivers — the autocrat, the would-be comic, the kamikaze driver and the driver who acts as if there were a passenger conspiracy to make his life miserable.

PASSENGERS HIT

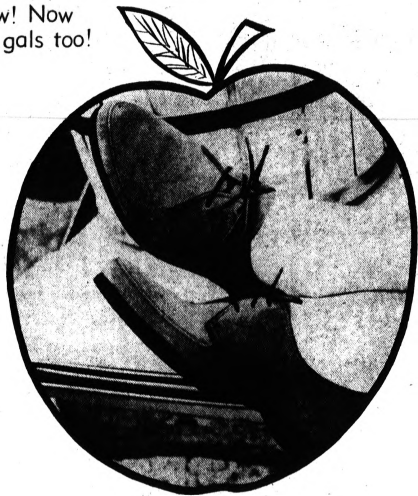

Among the objectionable passengers portrayed were Bottle-neck Bertha, the man who hands

the driver a $10 bill to change and a passenger described as "the artful dodger, who knowingly presents a transfer that is not valid."

Miss Vanderbilt, who seemed not at all shocked by such boorish behavior, said part of the modern breakdown in manners is due to the fact that so many working women have learned "to behave as men do."

Miss Vanderbilt vowed she would do what she could to correct the situation. Then she left—traveling in a chauffeur-driven limousine.

State Health Dept. Reports Polio Cases After Inoculation

LANSING (AP) — Caution in the use of oral polio vaccine was urged by state health officials yesterday after statistics turned up two cases of type 3 paralytic polio in persons who had taken the vaccine.

Dr. Albert Heintz, state health commissioner, emphasized that no direct causative link had been established between the disease and the type 3 vaccine made by the Pfizer Co.

But he said extreme caution in use of the oral vaccine should be used until more information can be obtained.

One of the cases involved a Midland resident who developed polio three weeks after inoculation at a clinic. The other showed up in Coldwater, two weeks after the victim had taken the oral vaccine.

The two victims were among an estimated 100,000 persons receiving the vaccine in Michigan.

The State Health Department and the Michigan Medical Society have recommended continued use of Salk vaccine for inoculation of Michigan residents against polio.

Couple Marries

A reception in the Knights of Pythias Hall followed the Saturday nuptials of Ruth Marie Roberts to Charles W. Phipps Jr. in St. Vincent de Paul Church. Rev. Thompson Marcero officiated at the noon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Roberts of Major Street, Drayton Plains.

Kneeling before an altar banked with white gladioli and chrysanthemums, she wore white silk organza with Alencon lace, styled with chapel train. Fingertip veiling of silk illusion fell from a jeweled tiara and a white orchid centered her bouquet of white roses and Stephanotis.

ATTENDED BRIDE

Mrs. Alan LeBarge of Flint, maid of honor, Mrs. John Pilkington and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Glen Vermilye Jr. were bridesmaids and appeared in Madonna blue tissue taffeta. They carried white and yellow carnations.

Thomas Phipps stood as best man for his brother. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Phipps of Center Street.

Glen Vermilye Jr. and Bernard Huebner, Royal Oak, acted as groomsmen.

Returning from a Canadian honeymoon, the couple will be at home on Thorpe Street.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Roberts chose a beige linen sheath dress and Mrs. Phipps appeared in Alice blue silk. Both wore pink roses.

Mrs. Edward Brown of Clarkston attended her granddaughter's wedding.

Grant Child's Wish to Share Excitement

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Our 5-year-old girl won't stay in bed when we have company. She comes downstairs in her pajamas and tries to join in the conversation. If we try to carry her back upstairs, there are screams.

My mother says that the child knows we are afraid of these scenes before guests and is using this to get her own way.

If you have any ideas for breaking her of this stubborn habit, we would be grateful if you would discuss them.

Answer: Do you prepare her

for sleep on nights when you are expecting company?

She needs preparation, you know. Home becomes a pretty exciting place for little children when their parents plan to entertain. Its familiar, everyday rhythms change.

Your small daughter sees you rushing through routines you usually take more slowly. She is stimulated by your expectations of an unusually pleasant evening.

It is stubborn of her, but the most natural thing in the world to want to share the experience toward which you are looking forward.

So she resists dismissal to the loneliness of sleep.

The problem is that you do see this wish as "stubbornness"—and so have to treat it resentfully. Instead of trying to shove her away from you pleasure in the name of "discipline," you would take steps to give her some of the pleasure.

When she comes downstairs in her pajamas, she won't order her back to bed but ask one of her favorite guests to accompany you both upstairs. The guest might be asked to spend some time talking or reading to her.

Or you might decide not to dismiss her at all but take her on your lap in welcome, saying, "All right, if you want to see what we're up to down here, stay around with us for a little while."

As your grown-up doings will sooner or later begin to bore your little daughter, she won't want to stay around very long.

Of course all these suggestions require some parental self-assurance. We can't offer these indulgences if they represent a child's conquest of us. For then we see him as an enemy who will use any indulgence as a sign of weakness—and exploit it to further embarrass us before our company.

Perceiving that we are indulging him, not because we have chosen to share our pleasure with him, but because we dare not deny it to him, he will resist all attempts to withhold pleasure from him.

Easy to Fix Sloppy Joes Made With Cream Soup

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

If you were to define "Sloppy Joes," you might say it consists of a hamburger mixture in sauce served on buns. Today's recipe for Sloppy Joes makes that sauce a creamy one.

Mrs. John Wiley of Francesca Drive, Waterford Township, is our cook. From Sept. to June she functions as both school teacher and homemaker. Music is both her profession and her hobby. She also enjoys sewing.
