ALFRED G. WILSON

Alfred G. Wilson Succumbs at 79 in Arizona City

He, Wife Made MSUO Possible by Donating Estate to College

A man who helped make Michigan State University Oakland possible, Alfred G. Wilson died at his winter residence in Scottsdale, Ariz. last night. He was 79, and had been in failing health for three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson donated their 1400 acre estate, Meadow Brook, and $2 million in January 1957 to create the university.

Wilson had suffered a heart attack three weeks ago while spending the winter in Scottsdale with Mrs. Wilson. Although hospitalized his condition had improved, and Mrs. Wilson had returned here to prepare for his arrival May 1 when he died.

She returned immediately to Phoenix.

Since the gift to the university the Wilsons had not lived in the Tudor mansion Meadow Brook, which was completed in 1929 at a cost of $3 million. Meadow Brook and its countless antiques and art treasures had been opened for several University functions, but the Wilsons preferred to live in a small home near the campus.

A wealthy Detroit lumber executive active in community affairs, Wilson married Mrs. Matilda Dodge, widow of auto industrialist John Dodge 37 years ago this June.

Wilson showed a life-long interest in young people. A graduate of Beloit College in Wisconsin, he served on the board of trustees of that college for many years.

ACTIVE IN BOYS CLUB

He was also active in the Boys Club of America, serving on the national board, and also participating on the local level in Pontiac and Auburn Heights.

During World War II he was county chairman of the national war fund campaign, which raised funds for agencies engaged in war relief work.

News of his death spread quickly to the few students attending classes today on the campus he helped create.

Chancellor D. B. Varner said: "Mr. Wilson's death is a great shock and loss to me personally, and to all of us involved in development of Michigan State University Oakland. Students and faculty alike have acquired a keen sense of attachment, of affection and respect for him.

"One of his continual interests has been the development of the finest qualities of young men and women — through his work with MSUO, the Boys Clubs, Beloit College, and many other activities.

"His own life personified these very qualities. We shall miss him and we join Mrs. Wilson and the family in their sorrow."

In 1959, Mr. Wilson was presented with a life membership in the Michigan State Alumni Association for his part in establishing MSUO.

SON OF MINISTER

Born in Lawrenceburg, Ind., he was the son of Rev. and Mrs. Samuel N. Wilson, a Presbyterian minister. He was graduated from Beloit in 1906.

With his brother Donald, he built a multimillion-dollar lumber business, primarily in Florida. They disbanded their business operations in 1942, and Donald subsequently died.

Surviving besides Mrs. Wilson are three children; Richard S. Wilson of 482 Henley St. and Mrs. Thomas S. Eccles, of 1409 Highmoor Way, both of Bloomfield Township, and Mrs. Wilson's daughter, Mrs. Frederick L. Van Lennep, of Lexington, Ky.

Russ Cosmos II Sends Back Data

Relays Information to Help in Soviet-Manned Flight to Moon

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union's second sputnik launched in three weeks rode an elliptical orbit through space today, sending back data that could be helpful for a manned flight to the moon.

The new satellite — named Cosmos II — was launched last night. Its weight was not announced, but the Soviet news agency Tass said its purpose—like that of Cosmos I, launched March 16 — was to gather data on cosmic ray radiation and other dangers man might encounter in space.

Moscow radio said the satellite is functioning normally.

Last night's announcement said the sputnik also was part of a program to study the construction of space vehicles. This led Western observers here to speculate that the satellite was launched as part of the research necessary before a manned flight to the moon or the planets can be attempted.

(This theory was supported by Heinz Kaminski, director of West Germany's Bochum Observatory. Kaminski, who said he heard the satellite's signals "loud and clear," said the sputnik was a prelude to the launching of a manned spaceship that could circle the earth for days.)

The sputnik's wide-swinging oval orbit took it 969 miles out from earth at its farthest point and brought it to within 132 miles of the earth at its nearest point.

Just Can't Wait for Summer

RUSHING THE SEASON — One of the Pontiac area's first wave of early season swimmers are shown as they hit the chill waters of Cass Lake yesterday. Ice around the dock melted only a few days ago. Temperatures were in the low 50s as this group took a cold dunking. Going in off the dock are (from left) John Peck, 1295 Lockhaven St., Union Lake; Bob Stephens, 4010 Arcadia Park; William Boyd, 5501 Pleasant Drive, and Douglas Hull, 6429 Maceday Drive, all of Waterford Township.

Captain Phones Wife; Reports Group Cleared

Says Treasure Hunters Have Been Given Red Carpet Treatment

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Seven American treasure hunters under arrest in Cuba expect to leave there tomorrow, the captain of the expedition telephoned his wife today. "The Cuban government has cleared us," Gordon S. Patton reported. Mrs. Patton said her husband also told her: "We have been getting the red carpet treatment. We expect to leave by plane, possibly tomorrow."

Patton, skipper of the treasure hunt vessel Pisces, said, "We are now awaiting clearance from the Swiss Embassy. If we don't leave tomorrow, we will leave Monday."

The Swiss embassy is handling American matters in Cuba since the United States and Cuba do not have diplomatic relations.

Mrs. Patton received the call at their home in nearby Pompano Beach, Fla.

"We have been treated as real guests," she quoted her husband as saying.

Mrs. Patton said her husband told her his boat had been sunk, but did not explain how it happened. She said he told her to notify his insurance company.

"I didn't want him to talk too much," she said.

"I did ask him when I could meet him at Miami International Airport, and he said, 'I don't know yet. I'll let you know. It may be tomorrow or Monday'."

★ ★ ★

Earlier, the State Department said in Washington that it was working through the Swiss government to obtain release of the seven skin divers.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Friday night he anticipated no difficulty in gaining freedom for the men, believed to be the same ones for whom the U. S. Coast Guard has been searching.

The seven men were identified in Miami as: Patton, 62, Ocean City, Md., charter boat and maritime museum operator; Fred Dickson Jr., 32, formerly of Ocean City, Md., assistant cruise director; Mike Freeman, 37, Washington, D. C., underwater photographer; John Sterry, 28, Brewster, N. Y.; John E. Johnson, 21, and Joe Campbell, 20, Washington, D. C., and Bernie Nistad, Brooklyn, N. Y.

VICTORY TEAM — Mobil gas run driver Mickey Thompson (left) here inspects sealed engine of Pontiac Star Chief which his wife, Judy, drove to mileage win in Mobil Economy Run. At right is John DeLorean, chief engineer for Pontiac Motor Division, who congratulated the two winners. Thompson also was a first-place winner in a Pontiac Tempest.

Driving Duo Divulges Secrets of Success

It takes teamwork, a steady foot and a good body wiggle to win a Mobil Economy Run, a California husband-wife combination said yesterday after driving a Pontiac Star Chief and a Tempest to mileage victories.

The teamwork is between driver and the codriver who acts as navigator.

The steady foot is to keep the gas pedal motionless across even bumpiest roads.

The wiggle is to keep the body from falling asleep even if the foot does.

That's partly how Mickey and Judith Thompson of Rolling Hills, Calif., coaxed their cars over sticks and stones, country roads and freeways in the grueling 2,497.9-mile run from Los Angeles to Detroit which ended Thursday.

A four-cylinder Tempest driven by Mickey, 33, not only beat out six competitors in this large-engine-compact class but also had mileage superior to all three entrants in the small-engine-compact class.

Thompson's mileage in the six-day Los Angeles to Detroit run: 27.30 miles per gallon. Next highest was Rambler-American with 27.09. Thompson was assisted by navigator-codriver Bob Newill, 36, of 2876 Woodbine Drive, Waterford Township, who is project engineer at Pontiac Motor Division.

Thompson's wife, Judy, 33, scored in a Pontiac Star Chief with a first-place mileage of 19.48 miles per gallon, competing

Little Rain May Fall in Local Area Sunday

A few showers may accompany tomorrow's partly cloudy skies says the weatherman.

It'll be partly cloudy and cool tonight. A low of 36 is predicted. Tomorrow's mercury is expected to reach 54. Monday's outlook is partly cloudy and cool with a few showers expected.

Variable winds at 8 to 15 miles per hour blew over the area today. The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 38. At 2 p.m. the reading was 51.

Steps Up Pace

Con-Con OKs 3 Issues

LANSING (AP) — Constitutional convention delegates, stepping up their pace momentarily, whipped through a rapid-fire series of votes yesterday on several important issues.

When the balloting was over, the convention had decided tentatively to:

—Create a bipartisan civil rights commission to investigate cases of alleged discrimination because of race, religion, color or national origin.

—Convert the present elective offices of highway commissioner, auditor general, state treasurer and superintendent of public instruction to appointive status.

—Keep the minimum voting age in Michigan at 21 years, rather than reducing it to 19.

The action came less than 24 hours after the adoption of a plan for reapportionment of the state legislature.

During debate, John Martin, R-Grand Rapids, the presiding chairman, told the convention that it had set some kind of record in introducing a total of 74 amendments to one executive branch proposal. Most of them were rejected.

ANOTHER RECORD

Another record was believed chalked up in debate on the proposal to lower the voting age, with 31 speakers taking part.

There was action off the floor, too.

George Romney, R-Bloomfield Hills, probable Republican candidate for governor, exchanged heated words in a corridor argument with William Marshall, D-Taylor, vice president of the Michigan state AFL-CIO.

The flareup came over introduction of an amendment calling for appointment by the governor of the complete administrative board, without the advise and consent of the Senate.

Romney accused Marshall of seeking to embarrass him politically by forcing a record roll call vote on the appointment question.

In preconvention statements, Romney had supported the idea of having the ad board — known as the governor's "cabinet" — completely appointive.

★ ★ ★

Under the terms of a compromise package agreement reached with leaders of the conservative-rural GOP bloc, however, Romney settled for a combination of elective and appointive posts. Still to be elected were the secretary of state and the attorney general.

CHARGE SELLOUT

Democrats charged a "sellout." Romney told newsmen that Marshall and others were responsible for blocking passage originally of a plan to make all the ad board offices appointive.

"After opposing and defeating the appointment of some of these officials and fighting for the election of all of them," he said, "These amendments were then offered for the apparent purpose of creating the appearance that those of us who originally favored the appointment of all of these officials were now opposed to this action."

Declaring that he did not want to get into a name-calling contest with Romney, Marshall said he could accuse the GOP leader of being politically motivated in his voting in view of his preconvention statements and later compromise.

Wheel Picks 2 Beauties to Rule Festival

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two pretty young girls have learned, as any gambler knows, that the wheel of fortune has some strange habits.

This time it turned up two winners, so Miss Rhode Island and Miss Colorado reign jointly today as queen of Washington's 50th annual Cherry Blossom Festival.

Japanese Ambassador Koichiro Asakai gave the big wheel of states a healthy spin Friday night to pick a winner. Round and round it went, and it finally stopped at the notch labeled Colorado.

Kathleen Knous, 19, stepped forward to be wrapped in the queen's robe and don a $100,000 pearl crown. The pink, pearl-embroidered robe was already around her shoulders when, it seemed, Lady Luck got other ideas.

SLIPS BACKWARD

The wheel suddenly began to slip backward. A quick click and it was in the Rhode Island notch. "This wheel does funny things, ladies and gentlemen," said John A. Logan, chairman of the festival ball. Frances Elizabeth Pastore of Rhode Island was called forward to don the queenly regalia.

Miss Pastore, 18-year-old daughter of Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., was amazed. "I just can't believe it," she said. Soon both girls were in tears.

"We realized this Colorado child was going to be terribly hurt," Logan said afterward. So the festival queen committee, headed by Logan and Perle Mesta, huddled to seek a way out. They talked about it for nearly an hour.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, along with many others among the 1,200 at the ball, was for coqueens. He called out the suggestion in the confusion that followed the wheel switch.

Miss Pastore was all for coqueens, too.

And coqueens it is, for the first time in festival history.

ARNIE IN ACTION — Arnold Palmer, shooting for a birdie, strokes a long putt on the 18th green in the second round of the Masters golf tournament in Augusta yesterday. Palmer whipped around when the putt missed but he dropped the next one for a par and a 66 for the round to take the lead at 136.

Skies Gray for 3rd Day of Masters

From Our News Wires

For the third straight day, overcast skies greeted players in the Masters Golf Tournament today.

★ ★ ★

The weather man predicted occasional rain during the morning, with slow clearing and mild temperatures during the afternoon. A high of 74 was expected.

Some rain has fallen during each of the first two rounds but not enough to handicap the players.

At the end of the second round yesterday Arnold Palmer, who can win 'em by coming from behind or running in front, led the field by two strokes and went out to prove that playing golf still is his primary business.

They've been saying that his game has been suffering because he has too many outside interests, but Palmer denied that when he came here, declaring that the only thing on his mind was the Masters and "I'm here solely to play golf, nothing else."

And play it he did yesterday when he shot a six under par 66 to overtake defending champion Gary Player and forge into the lead with a 36-hole total of 136, eight strokes under par for 36 holes over the testing 6,980-yard par 36-36—72 Masters course.

ALFRED G. WILSON

Alfred G. Wilson Succumbs at 79 in Arizona City

He, Wife Made MSUO Possible by Donating Estate to College

A man who helped make Michigan State University Oakland possible, Alfred G. Wilson died at his winter residence in Scottsdale, Ariz. last night. He was 79, and had been in failing health for three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson donated their 1400 acre estate, Meadow Brook, and $2 million in January 1957 to create the university.

Wilson had suffered a heart attack three weeks ago while spending the winter in Scottsdale with Mrs. Wilson. Although hospitalized his condition had improved, and Mrs. Wilson had returned here to prepare for his arrival May 1 when he died.

She returned immediately to Phoenix.

Since the gift to the university the Wilsons had not lived in the Tudor mansion Meadow Brook, which was completed in 1929 at a cost of $3 million. Meadow Brook and its countless antiques and art treasures had been opened for several University functions, but the Wilsons preferred to live in a small home near the campus.

A wealthy Detroit lumber executive active in community affairs, Wilson married Mrs. Matilda Dodge, widow of auto industrialist John Dodge 37 years ago this June.

★ ★ ★

Wilson showed a life-long interest in young people. A graduate of Beloit College in Wisconsin, he served on the board of trustees of that college for many years.

ACTIVE IN BOYS CLUB

He was also active in the Boys Club of America, serving on the national board, and also participating on the local level in Pontiac and Auburn Heights.

During World War II he was county chairman of the national war fund campaign, which raised funds for agencies engaged in war relief work.

News of his death spread quickly to the few students attending classes today on the campus he helped create.

Chancellor D. B. Varner said: "Mr. Wilson's death is a great shock and loss to me personally, and to all of us involved in development of Michigan State University Oakland. Students and faculty alike have acquired a keen sense of attachment, of affection and respect for him.

"One of his continual interests has been the development of the finest qualities of young men and women — through his work with MSUO, the Boys Clubs, Beloit College, and many other activities.

"His own life personified these very qualities. We shall miss him and we join Mrs. Wilson and the family in their sorrow."

In 1959, Mr. Wilson was presented with a life membership in the Michigan State Alumni Association for his part in establishing MSUO.

SON OF MINISTER

Born in Lawrenceburg, Ind., he was the son of Rev. and Mrs. Samuel N. Wilson, a Presbyterian minister. He was graduated from Beloit in 1906.

With his brother Donald, he built a multimillion-dollar lumber business, primarily in Florida. They disbanded their business operations in 1942, and Donald subsequently died.

Surviving besides Mrs. Wilson are three children; Richard S. Wilson of 482 Henley St. and Mrs. Thomas S. Eccles, of 1409 Highmoor Way, both of Bloomfield Township, and Mrs. Wilson's daughter, Mrs. Frederick L. Van Lennep, of Lexington, Ky.

Russ Cosmos II Sends Back Data

Relays Information to Help in Soviet-Manned Flight to Moon

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union's second sputnik launched in three weeks rode an elliptical orbit through space today, sending back data that could be helpful for a manned flight to the moon.

The new satellite — named Cosmos II — was launched last night. Its weight was not announced, but the Soviet news agency Tass said its purpose— like that of Cosmos I, launched March 16 — was to gather data on cosmic ray radiation and other dangers man might encounter in space.

Moscow radio said the satellite is functioning normally.

Last night's announcement said the sputnik also was part of a program to study the construction of space vehicles. This led Western observers here to speculate that the satellite was launched as part of the research necessary before a manned flight to the moon or the planets can be attempted.

(This theory was supported by Heinz Kaminski, director of West Germany's Bochum Observatory. Kaminski, who said he heard the satellite's signals "loud and clear," said the sputnik was a prelude to the launching of a manned spaceship that could circle the earth for days.)

The sputnik's wide-swinging oval orbit took it 969 miles out from earth at its farthest point and brought it to within 132 miles of the earth at its nearest point.

Annual City Report in Today's Press

Included in the editions of The Pontiac Press today is the City of Pontiac annual report.

The sixteen-page section outlines the progress made in city departments during the past year, and takes a peek at future projects and goals.

Reports of the various departments are included, with pictures showing their activities.

Just Can't Wait for Summer

RUSHING THE SEASON — One of the Pontiac area's first wave of early season swimmers are shown as they hit the chill waters of Cass Lake yesterday. Ice around the dock melted only a few days ago. Temperatures were in the low 50s as this group took a cold dunking. Going in off the dock are (from left) John Peck, 1295 Lockhaven St., Union Lake; Bob Stephens, 4010 Arcadia Park; William Boyd, 5501 Pleasant Drive, and Douglas Hull, 6429 Maceday Drive, all of Waterford Township.

Captain Phones Wife; Reports Group Cleared

Says Treasure Hunters Have Been Given Red Carpet Treatment

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Seven American treasure hunters under arrest in Cuba expect to leave there tomorrow, the captain of the expedition telephoned his wife today. "The Cuban government has cleared us," Gordon S. Patton reported. Mrs. Patton said her husband also told her: "We have been getting the red carpet treatment. We expect to leave by plane, possibly tomorrow."

Patton, skipper of the treasure hunt vessel Pisces, said, "We are now awaiting clearance from the Swiss Embassy. If we don't leave tomorrow, we will leave Monday."

The Swiss embassy is handling American matters in Cuba since the United States and Cuba do not have diplomatic relations.

Mrs. Patton received the call at their home in nearby Pompano Beach, Fla.

"We have been treated as real guests," she quoted her husband as saying.

Mrs. Patton said her husband told her his boat had been sunk, but did not explain how it happened. She said he told her to notify his insurance company.

"I didn't want him to talk too much," she said.

"I did ask him when I could meet him at Miami International Airport, and he said, 'I don't know yet. I'll let you know. It may be tomorrow or Monday.'"

★ ★ ★

Earlier, the State Department said in Washington that it was working through the Swiss government to obtain release of the seven skin divers.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Friday night he anticipated no difficulty in gaining freedom for the men, believed to be the same ones for whom the U. S. Coast Guard has been searching.

The seven men were identified in Miami as: Patton, 62, Ocean City, Md., charter boat and maritime museum operator; Fred Dickson Jr., 32, formerly of Ocean City, Md., assistant cruise director; Mike Freeman, 37, Washington, D. C., underwater photographer; John Sterry, 28, Brewster, N. Y.; John E. Johnson, 21, and Joe Campbell, 20, Washington, D. C., and Bernie Nistad, Brooklyn, N. Y.

VICTORY TEAM — Mobil gas run driver Mickey Thompson (left) here inspects sealed engine of Pontiac Star Chief which his wife, Judy, drove to mileage win in Mobil Economy Run. At right is John DeLorean, chief engineer for Pontiac Motor Division, who congratulated the two winners. Thompson also was a first-place winner in a Pontiac Tempest.

Driving Duo Divulges Secrets of Success

It takes teamwork, a steady foot and a good body wiggle to win a Mobil Economy Run, a California husband-wife combination said yesterday after driving a Pontiac Star Chief and a Tempest to mileage victories.

The teamwork is between driver and the codriver who acts as navigator.

The steady foot is to keep the gas pedal motionless across even bumpiest roads.

The wiggle is to keep the body from falling asleep even if the foot does.

That's partly how Mickey and Judith Thompson of Rolling Hills, Calif., coaxed their cars over sticks and stones, country roads and freeways in the grueling 2,497.9-mile run from Los Angeles to Detroit which ended Thursday.

A four-cylinder Tempest driven by Mickey, 33, not only beat out six competitors in this large-engine-compact class but also had mileage superior to all three entrants in the small-engine-compact class.

Thompson's mileage in the six-day Los Angeles to Detroit run: 27.30 miles per gallon. Next highest was Rambler-American with 27.09. Thompson was assisted by navigator-codriver Bob Newill, 36, of 2876 Woodbine Drive, Waterford Township, who is project engineer at Pontiac Motor Division.

Steps Up Pace

Con-Con OKs 3 Issues

LANSING (AP) — Constitutional convention delegates, stepping up their pace momentarily, whipped through a rapid-fire series of votes yesterday on several important issues.

When the balloting was over, the convention had decided tentatively to:

—Create a bipartisan civil rights commission to investigate cases of alleged discrimination because of race, religion, color or national origin.

—Convert the present elective offices of highway commissioner, auditor general, state treasurer and superintendent of public instruction to appointive status.

—Keep the minimum voting age in Michigan at 21 years, rather than reducing it to 19.

The action came less than 24 hours after the adoption of a plan for reapportionment of the state legislature.

During debate, John Martin, R-Grand Rapids, the presiding chairman, told the convention that it had set some kind of record in introducing a total of 74 amendments to one executive branch proposal. Most of them were rejected.

ANOTHER RECORD

Another record was believed chalked up in debate on the proposal to lower the voting age, with 31 speakers taking part.

There was action off the floor, too.

George Romney, R-Bloomfield Hills, probable Republican candidate for governor, exchanged heated words in a corridor argument with William Marshall, D-Taylor, vice president of the Michigan state AFL-CIO.

The flareup came over introduction of an amendment calling for appointment by the governor of the complete administrative board, without the advise and consent of the Senate.

Romney accused Marshall of seeking to embarrass him politically by forcing a record roll call vote on the appointment question.

In preconvention statements, Romney had supported the idea of having the ad board — known as the governor's "cabinet" — completely appointive.

★ ★ ★

Under the terms of a compromise package agreement reached with leaders of the conservative-rural GOP bloc, however, Romney settled for a combination of elective and appointive posts. Still to be elected were the secretary of state and the attorney general.

CHARGE SELLOUT

Democrats charged a "sellout."

Romney told newsmen that Marshall and others were responsible for blocking passage originally of a plan to make all the ad board offices appointive.

"After opposing and defeating the appointment of some of these officials and fighting for the election of all of them," he said, "These amendments were then offered for the apparent purpose of creating the appearance that those of us who originally favored the appointment of all of these officials were now opposed to this action."

Declaring that he did not want to get into a name-calling contest with Romney, Marshall said he could accuse the GOP leader of being politically motivated in his voting in view of his preconvention statements and later compromise.

Wheel Picks 2 Beauties to Rule Festival

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two pretty young girls have learned, as any gambler knows, that the wheel of fortune has some strange habits.

This time it turned up two winners, so Miss Rhode Island and Miss Colorado reign jointly today as queen of Washington's 50th annual Cherry Blossom Festival.

Japanese Ambassador Koichiro Asakai gave the big wheel of states a healthy spin Friday night to pick a winner. Round and round it went, and it finally stopped at the notch labeled Colorado.

Kathleen Knous, 19, stepped forward to be wrapped in the queen's robe and don a $100,000 pearl crown. The pink, pearl-embroidered robe was already around her shoulders when, it seemed, Lady Luck got other ideas.

SLIPS BACKWARD

The wheel suddenly began to slip backward. A quick click and it was in the Rhode Island notch. "This wheel does funny things, ladies and gentlemen," said John A. Logan, chairman of the festival ball. Frances Elizabeth Pastore of Rhode Island was called forward to don the queenly regalia.

Miss Pastore, 18-year-old daughter of Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., was amazed. "I just can't believe it," she said. Soon both girls were in tears.

"We realized this Colorado child was going to be terribly hurt," Logan said afterward. So the festival queen committee, headed by Logan and Perle Mesta, huddled to seek a way out. They talked about it for nearly an hour.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, along with many others among the 1,200 at the ball, was for coqueens. He called out the suggestion in the confusion that followed the wheel switch.

Miss Pastore was all for coqueens, too.

And coqueens it is, for the first time in festival history.

ARNIE IN ACTION — Arnold Palmer, shooting for a birdie, strokes a long putt on the 18th green in the second round of the Masters golf tournament in Augusta yesterday. Palmer whipped around when the putt missed but he dropped the next one for a par and a 66 for the round to take the lead at 136.

Skies Gray for 3rd Day of Masters

From Our News Wires

For the third straight day, overcast skies greeted players in the Masters Golf Tournament today.

★ ★ ★

The weather man predicted occasional rain during the morning, with slow clearing and mild temperatures during the afternoon. A high of 74 was expected.

Some rain has fallen during each of the first two rounds but not enough to handicap the players.

At the end of the second round yesterday Arnold Palmer, who can win 'em by coming from behind or running in front, led the field by two strokes and went out to prove that playing golf still is his primary business.

They've been saying that his game has been suffering because he has too many outside interests, but Palmer denied that when he came here, declaring that the only thing on his mind was the Masters and "I'm here solely to play golf, nothing else."

And play it he did yesterday when he shot a six under par 66 to overtake defending champion Gary Player and forge into the lead with a 36-hole total of 136, eight strokes under par for 36 holes over the testing 6,980-yard par 36-36—72 Masters course.

Yugoslavs Visit City Post Office

Officials Study Window Service in Town About Size of Theirs

Three high Yugoslav postal and communications officials yesterday looked to Pontiac for hints about improving their operations in similar-sized cities in their home country.

The visitors, received here by Postmaster William W. Donaldson, were the chief of the telephone department of Belgrade, Yugoslavia's capital, Fredrag Antic; the chief of the postal telegraph communications section at Belgrade, Ivan Javornik, and the chief of the postal service in the city of Novi Sad, Djurica Stelkic, who was born in Detroit in 1911.

" The Yugoslavs are visiting the United States under U.S. State Department auspices to study the postal and communications system. They toured Detroit's automated new post office, but came to Pontiac specifically to study window service.

Pontiac's size makes its post office more comparable to offices in most larger Yugoslavian cities, they explained.

★ ★ ★

Honored at a reception at the main post office in the morning, the guests were presented keys to the city by Mayor Philip Rowston. They then also inspected the branch office in Pontiac's Federal Building to see how a branch operates.

An afternoon session was scheduled for the officials in Royal Oak's Post Office.

The Day in Birmingham

Slate Ground Breaking for New Church of Christ

BIRMINGHAM — Groundbreaking ceremonies will be held 3 p.m. tomorrow for the new $140,000 Birmingham Church of Christ to be constructed on a 9-acre site on Big Beaver Road.

The building will be located just west of Adams Road on the western edge of Troy.

The structure will be built in three stages, the first to be completed by early fall and the others as the need arises.

The first unit will contain an auditorium with a seating capacity of 350, 15 classrooms, two offices, a kitchen and a nursery.

When all sections of the building are completed it will have a seating capacity of more than 1,000.

The church was established seven years ago and has been meeting since that time at 1152 Bennaville St. It has a 130-member congregation.

The regular evangelist at this time is Morris M. Womack, professor of Bible and Greek at Michigan Christian Junior College, Rochester.

Due to the popularity of the first series of programs to introduce youngsters 6 through 9 years of age to an appreciation of nature, the Cranbrook Institute of Science has rescheduled three of the four classes, on April 24, 25 and 26, at 11 a.m.

Classes are free to junior members. A junior membership is $2 or $1.50 if a parent is a member.

The April '24 class deals with birds to be followed by animals, then plants.

Information on classes and memberships can be obtained by telephoning extension 71 at the Institute.

The Congregational Church of Birmingham will hold Maundy Thursday Tenebrae Services 8 p.m. April 19. During the service new members will be received into the fellowship of the church.

Paintings and drawings by Clifton McChesney and bronze sculpture by Morris Brose will be exhibited at the Little Gallery, 915 E. Maple Road, beginning tomorrow and continuing through May 5.

Both artists have been associated with the Cranbrook Art Academy. McChesney received a master's degree in art there, and Brose was an instructor.

McChesney is now teaching at Michigan State University, and Brose at Detroit Society of Arts.

JFK Eyes Use of Taft-Hartley

President Considering Invoking Law to End 3-Week Shipping Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is reported to be considering invoking the Taft-Hartley law to end the three-week West Coast shipping strike.

Reliable sources said the action may come later today.

There is a question, however, whether the law's emergency provisions, permitting application for an 80-day court injunction to end the strike, would be applied to the entire stoppage or simply to require a resumption of shipping service to hard-hit Hawaii.

Hawaii Gov. William F. Quinn has voiced repeated appeals to the White House for help, saying that the strike has cut Hawaii off from vital food and other supplies.

RETURNS TO REPORT

Undersecretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz returned here from the West Coast negotiations to report on the situation to Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg who, in turn, was to report to the President.

It was understood that Wirtz and Robert Moore, deputy director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, will report they left the negotiations Friday night in a complete deadlock.

★ ★ ★

Both the Pacific Maritime Association and the three labor unions involved have been opposed to invoking the Taft-Hartley law emergency provisions. The shippers association issued a statement Friday to that effect.

★ ★ ★

The unions involved are the Sailors Union of the Pacific, the Marine Firemen, and the Marine Cooks and Stewards.

The shippers association has withdrawn an offer reported to give the unions an 11.5 per cent increase in pay rates and benefits. The unions were holding out for a 17.5 per cent increase.

Local Teamsters Testifying Before U.S. Grand Jury

DETROIT (AP)—Thirteen members of Detroit area Teamsters union locals testified before the U. S. grand jury here yesterday.

William Hoffa, a brother of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa; Leaun Harrelson, president of Pontiac Local 614, and Floyd P. Harmon, secretary-treasurer of the Pontiac local, were among those testifying behind closed doors.

William Hoffa is a business agent of the Pontiac local.

The government recently obtained on court order the books and financial records of Teamster locals 614 and 299.

Hoffa Lectures to MSUO Class

Says Union Recovered 2,000 Driving Jobs Lost to Piggybacking

Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa yesterday was the first guest lecturer on competitive problems of railroads and truckers being studied by an economics class at Michigan State University Oakland.

★ ★ ★

The railroads' views will be presented by a legal counsel for Grand Trunk Western Railroad next week to the class conducted by Associate Professor John E. Maher.

Hoffa said 4,000 Teamsters drivers had lost jobs after railroads "piggybacked" autos on spur tracks built directly to factories. He said the union countered by changing its method of pay and by keeping previously empty trucks loaded on return trips. A total of 2,000 jobs were recovered, he added.

The Teamster chief also described the current $5 pension fund contribution asked of piggybacking truck lines as one originally accepted by employers to make up for contribution losses due to cuts in the number of employers. The pension plan is employer funded.

★ ★ ★

He predicted owners would agree to reopen negotiations on pension fund contributions before the National Labor Relations Board holds a meeting next week to determine why bargaining should not be reopened. Owners, he said, had refused new bargaining after five state legislatures declared the $5 agreement illegal.

Injunction Prevents Filling for Causeway

Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Louis Coash yesterday issued a temporary injunction preventing filling a section of White Lake to create a 1,000-foot causeway to Dawson Island.

The island is owned by Mrs. Estelle Dawson of Davisburg who wanted the causeway for access to a proposed housing development.

The move was opposed by the White Lake Citizen's committee which petitioned the State Conservation Department to prevent the construction because it would reduce the water surface of the lake. The group also claimed it would stagnate the water in front of some lakeshore residents' homes.

against five other makes in the Class G medium-priced field. Closest competitor was an Olds Dynamic 88 with 19.05. Judy's co-driver was Annette Swanson, 29, of California.

★ ★ ★

Grinning from ear to ear, the Thompsons yesterday morning braved a last discomfort standing in a bitter wind at Pontiac Motor Division's plant and posing for cameramen.

USED TO DISCOMFORT

They'd become somewhat used to discomfort: during the entire run no driver dares turn on his radio or heater (the temperature at one time was at 22) for fear of using horsepower to regenerate "juice." Lights are not turned on until the last bit of daylight fades — for the same reason.

Tension builds up in the driver, the two reported, as he tries to keep his foot as steady as possible.

"Sometimes you don't know whether your foot's just fallen asleep or whether it's dead," says Mrs. Thompson, "and you don't dare try to find out which."

So much concentration is given by the driver to driving that the codriver (or navigator) does most of his thinking for him.

★ ★ ★

Not only does the navigator point out road signs, speed-limit changes and tell the "pilot" where to turn, but he also constantly calculates an average speed which will come close to the prescribed total average of 42.39 miles an hour.

Thompson notes, that, "The navigator is a good 50 per cent of the success."

Adds Mrs. Thompson about her codriver:

"She was my right arm, my left leg, my head . . . all except my right leg, the one on the gas pedal."

BIGGEST JOB

The navigator's big job, says Annette Swanson is that "You have to keep figuring all the time. If you exceed the average speed, you're penalized."

★ ★ ★

Since gas gauges can't be relied on and since the only indication of fuel consumption is how much is taken in at one of the two daily stops, drivers and navigators usually pre-test a car similar to the Run's car for mileage at different speeds.

The team's work is not finished at the end of the driving day — which at first was 12 hours long, then tapered off to 6½.

There is only one lunchbreak during the day. At night, there's dinner and then the job of reading the instructions handed them about the next day's route and plotting the best way to take it.

★ ★ ★

What really makes a car win?

Mickey Thompson answers: "You win because the car you drive is just a better car."

His wife nodded assent.

Second in Series . . . District Two

Harmon and Patton Hats in Ring

(Editor's Note — This is the second in a series of brief articles about candidates in the Pontiac municipal election April 16. Only the six districts in which there are contests will be presented.)

Only one prediction is being made about the outcome of the city's general election April 16, and only because it's a sure thing.

There will be a new face on the City Commission and it will come from District 2, where incumbent Mayor Philip E. Rowston is not running for re-election.

The District 2 candidates are Charles H. Harmon, 61, a local tax consultant and municipal adviser, and Curtis E. Patton, 50, a local insurance agent.

Harmon, of 336 W. Iroquois Road, is running for the first time. He came to Pontiac in 1936. He is a former Pontiac city assessor, deputy county treasurer and has been on the City Retirement Board of Trustees for seven years.

Harmon was also a member of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors for five years and on the county Tax Allocation Board six years. During World War II he served the RFC as an adviser and property manager of defense plants.

More recently he prepared the cost allocation formula on the 12-Town Drain Project for the county. A member of the Elks Lodge, Harmon is married and has one son.

Patton, of 314 S. Tilden St., is making his first bid for public office. Active in the Downtown Kiwanis Club, YMCA and Chamber of Commerce, he is married and has two daughters.

Patton has been a Republican Party precinct delegate since 1960. A native of Illinois, he is a graduate of Oxford High School and Michigan State University.

He holds a business administration degree, majoring in economics.

Patton has also been active in the Pontiac Area United Fund and is on the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra board of directors. He is a member of All Saints Episcopal Church.

★ ★ ★

Statements of candidates are below their pictures.

CHARLES H. HARMON

CURTIS E. PATTON

"I believe more attention should be given to improving the main highways coming into downtown Pontiac with more off-street parking made available.

"I also favor free parking as soon as the present bonds are retired. The city should continue its pay-as-you-go policy on public improvements and run water and sewer trunk lines into the several square miles within the city limits to the east and north.

"This large area can bring more housing and industry to the city, which would ultimately increase our tax base. My qualifications to serve as District 2 commissioner speak for themselves.

"I have lived in Pontiac for 34 years. As city assessor in 1930, I reassessed the entire city and installed a modern system of assessment. From 1934 to 1940 as deputy county treasurer, I installed a new system of collecting taxes and supervised the rewriting of all tax descriptions in Oakland County outside the existing cities.

"For the past 21 years, I have been engaged in private business as municipal advisor and tax consultant to towns and cities regarding sewers, water, taxes and budgets.

"Experience has taught me the importance of keeping costs down. I believe in planned progress without waste."

"Having started my business career here in 1932, I have witnessed great changes in our city and I am now most encouraged with our progressive development and plans for the future.

★ ★ ★

"As a life insurance man I have served as president of the Pontiac Life Underwriters Association, The Life Insurance Leaders of Michigan and the Michigan State Association of Life Underwriters.

"Being active in many civic organizations, I know what the citizens of Pontiac expect from their city government.

"I believe that my education, professional background and close contact with the citizens of Pontiac can be well utilized as a city commissioner.

"In the decade just past, Pontiac made remarkable progress in many areas of civil planning and development. Many new municipal buildings, many miles of pavement, sidewalks and sewage systems are just a few of these developments. These accomplishments made us all proud of Pontiac.

"As outstanding as these achievements are, it is most heartening to realize that these improvements have been made largely on a pay-as-you-go basis. This, I believe, is as it should be.

★ ★ ★

"I have great faith in the future of our city. If elected, I will always back a program of capital improvements to be developed as the needs appear and as the funds are available.

★ ★ ★

"Essentially my responsibility is to follow fiscal policies that will keep Pontiac progressive, yet sound and solvent!"

Local Man Loses Appeal in Assault of Police Officer

A Pontiac man convicted last October of assaulting a Waterford Township policeman lost his appeal in Circuit Court yesterday.

After less than 30 minutes deliberation, a jury found J. Alan Brown, of 250 Briscoe, guilty of assault and battery against Sgt. Merrille Finkle.

Brown originally was convicted by a Waterford Justice Court jury and appealed the decision to Circuit Court.

Asst. Prosecutor Robert Templin Jr. charged that Brown assaulted Finkle during questioning following a barroom fight last June in which Brown is alleged to have taken part.

Brown denied the charge and testified he thinks Finkle shot him during questioning. Finkle said his gun went off accidentally while he tried to restrain Brown but the bullet did not strike Brown.

During the trial, the jury was taken to view a bullet hole in the roof of Brown's car made by Finkle's shot.

Detroit Man Convicted of Rape; Now in Jail

A Detroit man was convicted by a circuit court jury yesterday of the statutory rape of a 14-year-old Southfield girl last December.

Michael Griffin, 28, of 8549 Alpine, is being held in the Oakland County Jail awaiting in lieu of $10,000 bond. He will be sentenced April 20.

Richard Burton Flies to Paris to Join Wife

PARIS (UPI) — British actor Richard Burton flew into Paris for a reunion with his wife today and shrugged off the question when asked if he would marry actress Elizabeth Taylor.

"I'm already married," the husky Briton said.

Burton's wife, former actress Sybil Williams, flew into Paris' Le Bourget Airport from London a half hour before Burton's plane arrived at Orly Airport from Rome—where earlier today he had gone night clubbing into the wee hours with Miss Taylor.

"Sounds like a summit meeting," muttered a British newsman who was part of the small army of reporters and photographers who greeted Burton at Orly.

Fighter Is Given '50-50 Chance' to Live After KO

BLUEFIELD, W.Va. (UPI) — Heavyweight boxer Tunney Hunsaker was given a "50-50" chance to live today by a doctor who performed brain surgery after the fighter was knocked out in the final round of a 10-round bout last night at Beckley, W.Va.

The knockout by Joe (Shotgun Sheldon of Cleveland, Ohio, came only three days after former Welterweight Champion Benny (Kid) Peret died of a similar injury. Paret lost his title March 24 when he was kayoed by Emile Griffith in New York's Madison Square Garden.

The "kid" was to be buried today in Miami, Fla.

Dr. E. L. Gage was the physician who performed a two-hour operation early today on Hunsaker. The operation, in the Bluefield Sanitarium, was to relieve pressure on the brain caused by a subdual hemotoma—an accumulation of blood under a membrane covering the brain.

Nab Pro-Castroites in Ecuador Revolt

QUITO, Ecuador (UP)—The defense ministry, moving quickly to smash outbreaks of pro-Castro guerrilla activity in two separate areas following Ecuador's diplomatic break with Cuba, has arrested 30 men on charges of plotting to overthrow the government.

A communique issued by the ministry last night said there was no need to proclaim a state of emergency because army troops were in full control of the situation in both sectors.

All guerrillas were believed to be Ecuadorians sympathetic to the regime of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Rockefeller to Address Economic Club of Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York will address the Economic Club of Detroit a week from Monday, and Republicans have lined up a series of conferences with him for the day.

A 4 p. m. reception is scheduled at the Detroit-Leland Hotel for rank-and-file party members.

O Eternal Spirit, our God and Father, bless us, we pray, with the vision of Thy being and Thy beauty, that in the strength and joy of it we may do our work without weariness and without haste. Deepen and quicken in us the sense of Thy presence with us in bright and shadowed hours alike, and daily refresh us with Thy power.

Quiet our restlessness, and give ease to our hearts by bringing us close to things infinite and eternal. Humble us by laying bare in our sight our littleness and our sin; then exalt us by revealing Thyself to us as our Counselor, our Father, and our everlasting Friend.

Grant us the dignity that becomes us as Thy sons and daughters, by taking us into Thy service. May we be springs of refreshment of spirit to those to whom Thou dost send us to minister in Thy name.

Wilt thou hear this our prayer, O God, and answer it according to our deserving and Thy mercy, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Seek Aid for Israel Censure

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The United States and Britain sought Security Council support today for a demand to censure Israel for her recent attack on Syria and to warn Israelis against making future revenge raids.

The 11-nation body votes Monday on the U.S.-British resolution, which would brand the Israeli attack March 16-17 as a flagrant violation of a long-standing council directive against reprisal assaults across the Arab-Israeli frontier.

★ ★ ★

"There can be no justification for retaliation," said U.S. Delegate Charles W. Yost in introducing the resolution Friday.

It deplores the hostile exchanges between Syria and Israel that began March 8 and urges both sides to refrain from the threat as well as the use of force.

REAFFIRMS RESOLUTION

But it also reaffirms a council resolution of Jan. 19, 1956, which condemned Israel for following a reprisal policy against her Arab neighbors.

Israel has accused Syria of provoking last month's attack on a Syrian post by shooting at Israeli boats on the Sea of Galilee.

The United States and Britain hoped to muster enough support in weekend consultations to get the seven votes needed for council approval. But the outcome hung in doubt, with the chance that Russia, France, Romania, The United Arab Republic and Ghana might abstain. That would mean only six yes votes.

★ ★ ★

The Israelis have made no secret of their displeasure over the resolution, approval of which would represent a victory for the Arab states in the running Israeli-Arab dispute.

Ghana Delegate Alex Quaison-Sackey helped Israel stave off a decision Friday night and so gain time to marshal her resources against the proposal.

Israeli Delegate Michael S. Comay may had told the council he had just sent the new resolution to his government and could not state Israel's position before Monday.

Mohamed H. El-zayyat of the U.A.R. and Platon D. Morozov of the Soviet Union said there was no reason to postpone the voting, but they raised no objection when Quaison-Sackey pleaded with the council to grant Comay a delay.

Morozov said the council should approve a Syrian resolution calling for condemnation of Israel. He termed some parts of the Western resolution "quite unacceptable," saying they implied Syria and Israel were equally guilty.

Privately, the Syrians were happy with the British-U.S. resolution. Diplomatic sources said that, before submitting it, the sponsors had added a derogatory mention of Israel to satisfy Syria and refused a French request that they soften other wording against the Israelis.

'Farmers Protesting Administration Plan'

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. —Midwestern Farm Bureau leaders say many farmers are protesting against the Kennedy administration's proposed farm program.

In a statement signed by Michigan Farm Bureau President Walter Whitman and 10 other Midwest Farm Bureau officials, the bureau said "Farmers have written letters and sent telegrams to congressmen in record numbers voicing disapproval of the government regimentation which the administration bill would establish."

"Farmers know," the statement added, "that claims that the administration's bill will raise farm income and lower farm program costs are absurd."

President Kennedy has proposed a farm program that would, among other things, give farmers a choice between increased government controls over surplus crops or no price supports.

Cliburn Plays Encore Requested by Truman

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Van Cliburn, the young Texas pianist, responded to storms of applause with 35 minutes of encores Friday night. One of the encores was Chopin's waltz in C sharp minor, requested by Harry S. Truman.

The former president was in a capacity crowd of 2,572 at the Music Hall. He went backstage and chatted a few moments with Cliburn at the intermission.

It Seems to Me . . . .

These Accurate Evaluations of Happenings Are Intriguing

Here are five accurate evaluations of conditions which everyone should read and ponder. Please don't erroneously conclude you "understand perfectly" and so you can skip the list.

Do you consider these matters grave national threats?

★ ★ ★

Here they are:

1—The rapid increase of divorce undermining the sanctity of the home—the basis of existence;

2—Higher and higher taxes and free spending of public money;

3—The mad craze for pleasure;

4—The building of gigantic armaments when the real enemy is within: the decadence of the people;

5—The decay of religion with true faith fading into lip service.

★ ★ ★

OK.

Do you buy these?

If you do, you'll be interested to know they're the reasons given in 1788 by that great historian, EDWARD GIBBON, for the collapse of ancient power and grandeur in his monumental: "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

★ ★ ★

Costs Are Hurting . . . .

These are tremendously competitive days.

The Curtis Publishing Company is slightly reducing the annual publication schedule of "The Saturday Evening Post" and "The Ladies Home Journal" because of steadily mounting costs. Curtis is operating at a loss. Over the past half century, this has probably ranked as the greatest magazine publishing company in the world.

★ ★ ★

A few years ago the Crowell Publishing Company discontinued "Collier's," "The Woman's Home Companion" and "American Magazine" because of an uninterrupted period of steady financial reverses. These were three of the best known and most widely read magazines that existed. There's a lot of money circulating these days, but no one guarantees success to any individual or any firm, anywhere.

★ ★ ★

Several daily newspapers have been discontinued over the past few years, including one in nearby Detroit. The Times had a daily circulation of 380,000 when it closed its doors for good. In addition, there are others—large and small—that are hanging on by their toenails.

★ ★ ★

Most of the airlines in America are losing money. The same holds for the railroads including our own Grand Trunk, right here in Pontiac.

Costs are too often out of hand. This brings extinction.

★ ★ ★

That means those payrolls are permanently ended. Steel authorities assert that over 40,000 steel jobs have been lost to Japan's lower-priced product which is manufactured thousands of miles away and then shipped across the huge intervening ocean and laid down at a lesser price than we produce it ourselves.

★ ★ ★

Firms that are operating at a steady financial loss represent an unhealthy state of a nation's economy. When they close, the jobs are gone. It isn't a case of reduction.

It's complete elimination.

And that's tragic.

Jobs with firms that are faltering remain precarious at all times. Our national economy needs the operation of businesses that are paying their way and remaining reasonably solvent, and today that's rougher than it ever was before.

No Protests . . . .

Comrade SUVOROV was convicted of counterfeiting in Russia. The jerk was tried, convicted and perhaps you can guess what happened.

It was very simple.

A firing squad shot him.

Khrushchev doesn't compromise with those who oppose his iron rule. He doesn't turn the other cheek; in fact, he isn't even aware of the Biblical pronouncement.

And yet, something about the incident puzzles me. Our own extreme liberals, our opponents of the Un-American Activities Committee and our five-and-ten cent eggheads never said a word. If the same thing happened here, they would have burst across the horizon with cries about "man's brutality to man" and "inhuman conduct" and "the rights of the private individual."

★ ★ ★

But when it happens in the idealism of that "wonderful Russian state," they accept it without protest. They're a messy aggregation—and a lot of them sound like pseudo Americans, at best.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Insiders scoff at the idea the PATTERSON-LISTON fight will be called off because of the PARET incident. . . . . For a time, California gamblers were giving odds BROWN would beat NIXON in the fall. Then they eased back to even money; and now NIXON's a slight favorite. . . . . A returning professor says Russian children, year for year, could easily outstrip our own in math, science, vocabulary, history and one foreign language. . . . . Imperial Magazine asks: "What product was advertised on the 'Twenty-One' TV quiz show at its peak?" Probably not one person in 10,000 remembers—or cares.

MARY

★ ★ ★

I can't prove it but I'll bet a sugar cookie the soft, feminine giggle you hear in the distance comes from Debbie Reynolds when she recalls how Fisher dumped her summarily for Elizabeth Taylor. Taylor's a caution. She jeopardizes "Cleopatra" after 20th Century Fox has spent $20 million because of her illnesses, sickness, indisposition, absence and insufficiency. A movie man tells me they'll have to gross $75 million to break even. No film ever did it. Burton would be Liz's fifth husband and she's only 30. Some of these Hollywood movie monkeys aren't very far removed from the jungle. I'd a thousand times rather deal with Friday and April — my Lillian and Pat. They're better looking, anyway.

★ ★ ★

Trusted scouts advise me that MARY MILNE deserves mention as one of the area's most attractive girls. MARY, you're "in." . . . . President KENNEDY observes his own constant admonition to the Nation: "Drink more milk." . . . . BUD COLLYER, with 20 years of broadcasting and TV, teaches a Sunday school class of 80. . . . . The leaning Tower of Pisa has "been leaning" for some eight centuries, but engineers now predict that it will topple in about 125 years. . . . . Hostesses on some of our biggest airlines have overdone their personal makeup to the point the public has squawked and their bosses have interceded. . . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's—settling the steel situation without a strike; the J's—those that start grass fires without notifying the fire department.

The POWER of FAITH

THE EASTER STORY—II

Days of All Faiths:

Buddha Is Deity to Half of World

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

April 8 in 563 or 566 or perhaps 568 B.C. was the birthday of one of the greatest men who ever lived, Siddhartha Gautama, whom the world knows as the Buddha, the Enlightened One. Twenty-five centuries after his 80-year span on earth he is still influencing the thoughts and lives of half the world's population.

★ ★ ★

People who say all the great religions are alike will find a certain support in the fact that some of the stories told about Buddha greatly resemble some that are told about Jesus. For example, Buddha fasted seven times seven days after his "enlightenment," which is comparable to Jesus' forty-day fast after His baptism. Again, Buddha was harassed by Mara (the devil) as he sat under the tree of knowledge, working out the content of his doctrine and the details of his ministry. This is much like what happened to Jesus when Satan tried to corrupt his plans with the three great temptations in the wilderness. Matthew, chapter 4, Verses 1 to 11.

NOT AT ALL ALIKE

But the resemblances are entirely superficial. Buddhism and Christianity are not at all alike basically.

★ ★ ★

Buddhism teaches man how to withdraw from life; Christianity teaches him to live in the midst of it as God's ambassador.

Buddhism's goal is nirvana—complete oblivion, "forgetfulness;" Christianity's goal is a conscious relationship with God.

Buddhism believes that Siddhartha Gautama was a man who became a deity and that all men can become buddhas. Christianity believes that Jesus was God from the beginning, different from other men in His essential being.

These beliefs are in direct opposition to one another. Let no one persuade you that all religions are "pretty much the same."

Gautama was of royal birth, the son of a rajah in the country north of Benares, India. Apparently he grew up even more sheltered than most young princes, for it is said that his father never let him see sickness, old age or death.

Says Painful Night Cramps Could Mean Case of Tetany

I have never been able to persuade my husband to take either calcium or cod liver oil. He has never drunk milk, even in childhood. Now he has frequent night cramps in his leg, for which the doctor gave him arch supports. Maybe when he reads your pamphlet he'll be willing to take milk and calcium.

(Mrs. J. H. E.)

Ans.—Not in every instance but in most instances, painful night cramps are the manisfestation of tetany. Send me a stamped self-addressed envelope, care of this newspaper, for free Pamphlet 34, "Adult Tetany and Growing Pains."

However, I'm not buying the book, as I have a scrapbook full of clippings of Dr. Brady's column, some of them now yellowed with age . . . (A. B. D.)

Ans.—Yah, but think of all the time it will take to find the thing you want in the scrapbook, whereas you might find it in a jiffy in the index of the book.

★ ★ ★

I find that a certain tissue gives me an immediate attack of hay fever. Tissue of another make does not do so. Another thing, please push cod liver oil—it cured me of shoulder pain and stiffening of my arm — "arthritis," the doctors called it. (Mrs. L. H. L.)

Ans.—Thank you, Ma'am. I do push cod liver oil in Little Lesson No. 12, "Chronic Joint Disability" (35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope. For free pamphlet, "Relief for Allergy," send me a stamped envelope bearing your address.)

Dermatologist prescribed 35 cents worth of paste for my eczema. His fee was $20. No good. May I have a copy of your eczema pamphlet? (Mrs. H. D.)

Ans.—Yes. My fee is a stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of The Pontiac Press.

Peter Edson Says:

Alliance for Progress Attacked

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Attacking the Latin-American Alliance for Progress is currently a leading indoor international sport. Most of the criticism comes from those who do not like what it is trying to do and so try to block methods of doing it.

The alliance is being criticized in the United States as another boondoggle — more billions down the foreign aid drain. There also are doubts that the Latin Americans themselves will put in necessary reforms or contribute to their own development.

EDSON

In Latin America, says Dr. Jorge Sol Castellanos of El Salvadore, Director of the Organization of American States Department of Social Affairs, the alliance is being attacked politically by both the extreme right and left.

Dr. Sol, 46, has a master's degree in public administration from Harvard and has served as minister of economy for El Salvador and as executive director of the International Monetary Fund for Central America and the Caribbean. He was one of the organizers of the so-called Central American Common Market and was in charge of technical preparation of the Alliance for Progress Charter. So he should know the whole situation.

Communists and ultraconservatives have been strange political bedfellows before. Dr. Sol declares. But today the Communists are charging that the Alliance for Progress Charter is just a lot of lies — Yankee imperialist promises which conceal the continued efforts of American capitalists to exploit Latin America and its people for U.S. enrichment.

The extreme rightists in Latin America attack the alliance for other reasons, principally selfish. The Latin-American economy is still 60 to 70 per cent agricultural. The 10 per cent who own 90 per cent of the land don't want land reform. They don't want tax reform. So they attack the alliance which seeks to diversify the Latin-American economy by industrialization and raising the standard of living.

One of the most serious problems facing the new alliance, says Dr. Sol, is its public relations. Most of the newspapers are conservative, controlled by the landowning class. So the press has criticized the alliance ever since it was conceived and busies itself printing attacks on the alliance made by its critics and detractors in the United States.

Radio and television stations, started on newer, shoestring capital, are more progressive. Helped by the Voice of America and U.S. Information Services, Latin-American broadcasters are offering much free time to tell the alliance story.

Dr. Raul Preibsch of the Argentine presents the situation from another angle. He has been director general of the United Nations Commission for Latin America — ECLA — since 1948.

Economic development in Latin America is nothing new to him. He was founder and director of the Argentine Central Bank from 1935 to 1943, giving up his job under Peron. He is rated one of the best economists in all Latin America.

His job in the Alliance for Progress is to coordinate the work of the "Nine Wise Men," the committee of experts who will assist the Latin-American countries in their economic planning.

Admitting that information about the alliance is inadequate in both North and South America, Dr. Prebisch declares that one of the great mistakes has been to try to sell this as something made in U.S.A. and delivered to Latin America only on condition that its governments make many needed reforms.

These reforms cannot be made overnight, Dr. Prebisch points out. When a friend recently told him, "I am now completely disenchanted with the Alliance for Progress," Dr. Prebisch replied, "I have never been enchanted with it. There is nothing magic about it. It cannot be created by waving a wand. It will take patience and persistence to get the Latin countries to make their own economic plans, mobilize their resources and pool them with the outside help now being made available through the Alliance as an incentive."

It took four years for the Marshall Plan to show results in the reconstruction of Europe after the war. Dr. Prebisch believes that Latin America, which does not have the resources nor the skilled manpower, should begin to show results in less than five years.

Eventually, predicts Teodoor Moscoso of Puerto Rico, now U.S. AID administrator for the alliance, the same forces that operated in Europe will operate even more powerfully in Latin America, unleashing the dynamic new forces now seen in the Common Market after 14 years of unity. That is the long view.

Voice of the People:

'Divorced Men Should Think of Their Children'

I have read in the Voice of the People about divorces, remarriages and how the men are always misused. Don't you men ever stop and think of your children? They are the ones who suffer in divorces.

★ ★ ★

It takes two to bring children in the world and fathers should be made to help support them. My ex-husband complains that he can't pay child support for our two children. He is remarried, has a new home, drives a new car and supports children who don't belong to him. Yet, he can't help support his own.

★ ★ ★

How about you poor abused men thinking more of your children and stop thinking so much of yourself?

'Rescue Breathing' Film Is Available

Few people realize that even though Oakland County has one of the finest life saving units in the country, that too often the average 17 minutes it takes for the rescue unit to arrive on the accident scene are too long unless emergency measures have already begun. The film "Rescue Breathing" is so clear that anyone can understand it.

I urge all adult groups to contact Sgt. Kratt for a showing of this film. Public awareness and an interest in being prepared to save the life of someone dear to us should prompt us all.

Feels Doctors' Fees Vary Too Much

One of my children had measles. The doctor's nurse informed me globulin would cost $8. I went to the health department and got it free. Another time, a different doctor charged $2 for an injection. How can each doctor charge different fees? Several doctors I called said they got it free and it is, therefore, given to the family who needs it.

Misled

Says Proposed Tax Would Be Disastrous

The President's budget message of Jan. 18 proposed a new tax that could have a disastrous effect on every community close to our inland waterways.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Kennedy recommended a tax on fuel used on inland waterways. The most immediate effect of this proposal would be to increase carrier costs. The long-range effect, however, is the most important . . . for even a slight cost increase in waterways transportation would remove the advantage that industry and business have found in building plants served by water.

The end result would be to cripple communities and entire areas which have grown because of their location on or close to the waterways, and which are so dependent on the continuation of water transportation for growth and progress. The economic disturbance this could cause to your community is far more extensive than the size of the tax would cause you to believe.

Many Disadvantages to Such a Move

State Likely to Elect Congressman at Large

By LOIS BLACKBURN

LANSING — The disadvantages of electing a congressman at large in Michigan are obvious but are not expected to provoke the legislature to reach agreement of a redistricting plan to avoid the statewide election this fall.

The first legislative attempt to add the 19th seat gained under the 1960 census was vetoed on the governor's desk. Gov. John B. Swainson wants a general redistricting but the vetoed plan left most of the districts as they are now.

Another plan which reportedly has tentative approval by Swainson is still alive in the legislature but indications were it would not be passed.

If no redistricting is accomplished Michigan's 19th congressman must conduct a statewide campaign, the same as U.S. senators do.

Only one Republican, State Rep. Gilbert E. Bursley of Ann Arbor, has indicated an interest in running for an at-large seat. No Democrats have come forth to volunteer for the campaign.

★ ★ ★

A report by the Library of Congress points out the advantages and disadvantages of a congressman-at-large post. Only one advantage is evident — the prestige of victory.

The disadvantages, however, are many.

In the current Congress, 11 members are elected on a statewide basis. Six of these are from states which have only one member in the U.S. House and another four are in two states which elect only two members, both on an at-large basis.

Connecticut, with six members, is the only state which elects a part of its delegation at-large.

POINTS OUT DEMANDS

The Library of Congress report points out that the demands of mail and personal requests, visiting constituents and staff limitations are nearly impossible in a state of any size. Michigan is one of several listed which face the possibility of a statewide congressional election this fall.

In effect, the report shows that an at-large congressman is subject to the same quantity of demands from his constituents as a U.S. senator. "But the senator's difficulties are somewhat alleviated by the time factor—he has six years in which to cover the ground." House members are elected for two-year terms.

Campaigns are especially difficult, the report said. While other congressional candidates in Michigan must seek favor from several hundred thousand persons, an at-large candidate would be appealing for votes from among the nearly eight million state residents.

"The consequences of this quantitative imbalance are frequently onerous," the report said.

Michigan's particular problems on a statewide election of a congressman seem to hinge around the single advantage.

Bursley, first-term member of the State House, appears to have the ambition for future political activity that a victory in a statewide race might boost.

His chairmanship of a legislative committee on economic growth gave him some measure of statewide recognition during hearings held in most major cities.

★ ★ ★

Secretary of State James M. Hare, the only Democrat ever seriously mentioned as a possible candidate, has ruled himself out. His vote-getting power is well established, so the "prestige" advantage would do little.

Some legislators indicated the only way a redistricting plan might be approved this year would be a change in the governor's position.

"He might decide even something less than general reshuffling of the districts would be better than trying to find a Democrat to run on a statewide basis," one lawmaker said.

'Disorderly Law' to Get Board Vote in Waterford Twp.

Final action on the proposed disorderly persons ordinance for Waterford Township is slated for Monday's meeting of the Township Board.

The much-discussed proposal was formally introduced last Monday by action of the board.

As drawn up by Township Attorney Paul Mandel, the ordinance provides that warrants be secured within the township from either of the two justices of the peace rather than through the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office.

Other business to be considered at the meeting includes requests for an expenditure of $376 for installation of eight new artificial light fixtures at the Drayton ball park and appropriation of funds for additional civil defense police officer uniforms.

Also on the agenda are requests for the transfer of a beer and wine license (SDM) and a package liquor license (SDD).

N-Ship Rests Up After Speed Trials

YORKTOWN, Va. (AP) — The nuclear-powered ship Savannah rested here today after a clean sweep in her first full-power speed trials.

★ ★ ★

The world's first nuclear merchant ship came home Friday with brooms flying from her mast after a four-day performance that more than lived up to her designed capabilities.

★ ★ ★

Among her accomplishments were an attained speed of 24 knots and a high of 22,314-shaft horsepower. She was designed for a little better than 20 knots and a top of 22,000-shaft horsepower.

★ ★ ★

Atomic Energy Commission officials termed the ship's performance highly satisfactory. They said the shield around the reactor gave adequate protection against radiation hazards at full power and the reactor responded rapidly to changes in load.

★ ★ ★

In her four days at sea, the Savannah logged between 1,300 and 1,400 miles.

GOP Counterbriefing on Economy Not Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A corporal's guard of Republicans threw a counteroffensive against what they had expected to be an administration barrage on the economic front.

But the barrage never came—only a few pot shots from Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The sniping occurred Friday and centered around an administration briefing for newsmen on labor relations and economic situations. It was billed as nonpolitical.

Johnson, however, did inject a partisan note, saying the new frontier had opened "new dimensions in the field of labor policy." One of these, he said, was "the wise and effective use of official candor."

OWN BRIEFING

Seven Republican congressmen, having figured they would need equal time to express the GOP position, set up their own briefing to follow the administration's.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg went along with them by announcing that the rival session would be held.

★ ★ ★

One of the spokesmen for the Republicans, Rep. Thomas B. Curtis of Missouri, tipped his hat to the administration's briefing, saying, "We expected a propaganda barrage and were pleasantly surprised. It was a gracious gesture of Secretary Goldberg to announce we were holding this meeting."

★ ★ ★

He went on to say, however, that the federal government's deficit will probably approach $4 billion, and he charged that the administration had no business running a budget deficit in a year when the nation was enjoying the "highest prosperity ever."

Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., contended the administration was obsessed by massive spending programs and asked: "Why do the administration leaders occupy themselves with these largely discredited weapons of the old frontier?"

HIT ON THEME

The Republicans hit on the theme that the current recovery is more sluggish than those that followed other dips in the economy since World War II and that the Kennedy administration has shown little ability to stimulate it.

At the administration briefing, Goldberg announced that the job situation improved again in March but that unemployment was still far too high.

Walter W. Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, told the newsmen there was considerable unemployment not reflected in the official figures. He said some workers simply despair of entering the job market and that many are able to find only part-time jobs.

Heller added that the administration was having second thoughts on whether its programs were sufficient to absorb unemployment in the face of rapidly rising displacement through automation.

Johnson suggested that before the new frontier there was a "head-in-the-sand attitude" about automation. But as a demonstration of the "new dimension" of candor, he said, Kennedy had brought out the fact that technological changes cost jobs.

Hefty American Forces Change in Boat Size

LONDON (AP)—H. Boyce Budd, a hefty American history student, goes into the traditional English university boat race today hoping to help Cambridge University to its 60th victory over Oxford.

★ ★ ★

"I'll be pulling just as hard as I can," said the 6-foot-3, 210-pound oarsman from Morristown, N.J.

★ ★ ★

Budd, the heaviest man ever to take part in the 133-year-old race, is No. 6 in the Cambridge crew. The university had a specially wide boat built at a cost of $1,000 to take his large frame.

★ ★ ★

Budd is handy with a guitar too. If Cambridge wins, he will be leading a sing-song at the celebration which the crew has planned for this evening.

★ ★ ★

The race is over the traditional 4¼-mile course from Putney to Mortlake on the River Thames.

SAC Readies Display for Goulart of Brazil

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—The Strategic Air Command readied a cross-section of its nuclear age weaponry today to display before President Joao Goulart of Brazil.

★ ★ ★

Goulart was due at Offutt Air Force Base at 11:45 a.m. from New York in President Kennedy's four-engine jet.

★ ★ ★

Gen. Thomas S. Power, SAC's commander and SAC's elite guard, six-foot-plus huskies in berets and boots, stood ready for a spit-and-polish reception.

★ ★ ★

By the end of the day, SAC hopes to give Goulart an insight into its planning, a look at its famous underground control center and a thrilling low level fly-by of three types of jet bombers including the supersonic B58 Hustler.

Acting Law Chief Locks Himself Up by Mistake

The chief law enforcement officer of Oakland County for the past four weeks was locked up in the courthouse detention room yesterday.

No crime, no charge . . . and, alas, no key.

Chief Asst. Prosecutor Robert D. Long accidentally locked himself in and couldn't get out.

Long, in charge of the prosecutor's office during the vacation of Prosecuting Atty. George F. Taylor, said he was supposed to meet Det. Sgt. Harry Maur, of the sheriff's department, in the detention room.

When Long arrived, he found the door ajar and walked in. An automatic closing device slammed the door behind him and locked it tight.

"I never knew that door locked," Long lamented afterward.

Minutes later, Maur drove up outside. Long opened a small window and called to him for assistance.

Maur simply shrugged . . . no key.

A building maintenance man, who does have one, finally rescued Long after about 10 minutes. Long called him on a phone in the room.

★ ★ ★

After four weeks at the helm of the prosecutor's office, Long has at least one recommendation to offer when his boss returns:

"I think we should have a key for that room."

Salary Cutoff Causes Worry in Con-Con

LANSING (AP)—Some delegates to the constitutional convention are beginning to wonder — and worry—whether they are headed for real trouble as they approach the May 15th cutoff date for their $1,000-a-month salaries.

"We're either going to have night sessions or else run well beyond May 15th," said George Romney, R-Bloomfield Hills, who is expected to be the Republican nominee for governor.

"It's practically impossible for us to meet the May 15th deadline—and our only solution is to get more money," said Melvin Nord, D-Detroit, articulate spokesman for the convention's Democratic minority.

Legislative leaders have indicated, however, that although they may appropriate $125,000 for printing bills and administrative housekeeping—they never will approve an extension of delegate salaries.

Accepting this fact, some delegates are openly concerned over how many of their colleagues would stay away from sessions once the paycheck disappears.

★ ★ ★

At least one delegate has announced on the floor that he will stop attending sessions when the pay stops coming.

'CAN'T AFFORD TRIP'

"A good many delegates simply cannot afford to travel to Lansing at their own expense over an extended period of time," said Stephen Nisbet, R-Fremont, president of the convention.

Nisbet still hopes the delegates can wind up their work by May 15th, or possibly a week later.

"How fast we move in second reading is still the key," he observed. "If we don't get bogged down in debate which covers the same ground we've gone over in first reading, we can make it."

But with only 27 more session days to go, the convention is still in the first-reading argument stage. Much of the debate is repetitious and seemingly far removed from the subject under discussion.

After second reading debate, delegates will still be faced with a third and final reading in which they will consider the proposed new constitution as a single package.

The fear expressed by some delegates as the adjournment deadline approaches is that the entire seven and one-half months' work of the convention could go down the drain—along with more than $2 million in taxpayers' money.

'COULD BE DISASTER'

"It could be a catastrophe, a political disaster," said one delegate.

★ ★ ★

If enough delegates stay home after the pay runs out, the convention may not be able to muster a quorum, it was pointed out. Or even if 100 of the 144 delegates stay on, it might be impossible to get the necessary 73 votes required for second reading passage of proposals.

Many vital provisions tentatively approved in first reading have failed to gain the support of 73 delegates because of abstainers.

In addition to the problem facing the convention as a whole, Romney has the forthcoming political battle to think about.

Romney at first declared that he would not campaign for office as long as the convention was in session. But later he said:

"I won't campaign—unless the convention is extended unreasonably."

Beat Off Red Attack on Viet Nam Outpost

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist guerrillas in battalion strength attacked the government outpost of Tra Bong in central Viet Nam and were beaten off in fierce fighting.

★ ★ ★

Government sources said at least 37 rebels, including two artillery company commanders, were killed and many wounded.

★ ★ ★

Reports reaching here said the battle flared at Tra Bong, about 330 miles from Saigon, late Thursday night with the Communists making repeated attacks on the outpost defended by a company of army troops. The defenders reportedly suffered three dead and five wounded.

Grandmas of U.S. Head Back to Work

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —American grandmas are going back to work.

By 1970, more than 4 out of every 10 women over 55 years of age will be holding down paid jobs in the United States.

The statistics given the U.N. Commission on the Status of Women also told of the increasing challenge to men in the labor market all along the line.

In 1950, there were 18-million women in the U.S. labor force. They represented 29 per cent of the total. In 1962, there were 23,616,000 or 34 per cent of the total. More than half are married.

By 1970, the entire U.S. labor force is expected to increase by 12-million workers, half of whom will be women.

It was estimated there will be a 25 per cent increase among women workers as compared to a 15 per cent increase for men.

Rachel Nason, adviser to the U.S. delegation on the commission, reported the figures at a recent session of the group, which approved a study by the International Labor Organization of vocational training being given women throughout the world.

Improvement of educational standards ranked right along with the commission's quest of equal pay for equal work in the battle of men vs. women.

Mrs. Nason told the commission American women were employed in more than 400 types of work with the largest number in the clerical fimeld.

★ ★ ★

"In the United States," she said, "there is a continuing trend toward the employment of older women."

"In 1960, close to half of all women in the population between 45 and 54 years of age were in the labor force, as compared with only one-third 10 years before," she said.

"By 1970, we expect that more than half of all women in the 45-54 age bracket will be in the labor force.

"The number of working women 55 and over also is steadily increasing, she went on. We expect 43 per cent of women over 55 to be working by 1970."

To Marry Son of George Burns, and Gracie Allen

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Love in this town is a many-splintered thing.

Helen de Maree Crane, fourth wife of restaurateur Stephen Crane, who was the second husband of actress Lana Turner (who has had three since), says she will divorce Crane and marry actor Ronnie Burns, who is the son of comedians George Burns and Gracie Allen and has no previous marital experience.

Mrs. Crane, 26, a lighting designer, married Crane last April 28.

Burns said she will marry him July 9, on his 27th birthday.

Dow Board Chairman Hits Tariff-Cut Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carl A. Gerstacker, board chairman of Dow Chemical Co., says an administration-sponsored bill to cut tariffs would "set off a destructive chain reaction."

★ ★ ★

Gerstacker testified before the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday. He voiced objections similar to those given by Robert Semple, president of Wyandotte Chemical Corp.

Gerstacker said tariff cuts on imported chemical products would have "serious repercussions" on a whole series of domestic chemical products.

Begin Loading Freighter Despite Union Pickets

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Members of the International Longshoremen's Association, Local 158, began loading coal aboard the Canadian freighter Red Wing last night despite picketing by the Seafarers International Union at the dock entrance.

The freighter docked here at 8:40 p.m. and loading began at 11 p.m. The Red Wing is expected to be fully loaded with 26,000 tons of coal by today for the trip to Hamilton, Ont.

'Have Nice Vacation, Tiger Baseball Wife'

By NANCY GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer's Wife

LAKELAND, Fla. — Ah, a nice restful vacation in Florida away from the chills of winter. A nice swimming pool, golf, life in a luxury motel for six weeks.

It's wonderful to be the wife of a ballplayer at spring training. Nothing but leisure under the sun, far from the cares of housework.

I'm sure my friends envied me that freezing day I left Michigan with my sports writer husband for the Detroit Tigers' Training Camp.

"Have a nice vacation," they said. "AND don't forget to use a lot of suntan oil the first day. That Florida sun is hot."

The other girls—the Tiger wives—heard the same good wishes as they packed up to leave with their husbands for spring training in Florida.

"Boy, I'm lucky," I thought.

★ ★ ★

And I found out here, I was. The weather is nicer than Detroit—and there have been some days when I could sit and sun myself by the pool.

But let's face it, spring training for the Tiger wives isn't a glamorous vacation.

They still have to take care of their children—and most of the couples have more than one. And a mother's worries increase when there's a swimming pool around for the kids to fall into when she's looking the other way.

LIKE MOM'S COOKING

Housework? Well, most of the motels have cooking facilities—and ballplayers like the way mother prepares the steak best.

Maid service gets pretty expensive, so the wives decide it's a good idea to clean their motel units themselves.

Some vacation, changing linens for hubby and three kids every week.

Security? The wives have to worry if hubby's sore arm will heal in time to forestall pulling up stakes and heading back to the minor leagues.

★ ★ ★

And the girls often wonder what kind of jobs their husbands will find when they're a little older and they can't make the annual trip to Florida and spring training.

★ ★ ★

But it is fun, too. The Tiger families get together often at night—and they can pool baby sitting resources by having one sitter watch all the kids staying at the same motel.

We—my husband, Jerry, who is Michigan sports editor of the Associated Press, and I—have played cards several times with Carmen and Rocky Colavito, Dotty and Ronnie Kline and Barbara and Hank Aguirre.

On other nights, Myrta and Norm Cash, Louise and Al Kaline and Eunice and Don Mossi come over from their motels down the road.

Dotty Kline and Louise Kaline are expecting, so one night the Tiger families got together in the Elks Club—the hub of Lakeland night life—for a shower.

But mostly spring training for the wives is taking care of the kids and the temporary home at the motel and waiting for hubby to get home from the ball park.

The players usually leave for the park at 9:30 each morning and if there is an exhibition game away, they don't get home until dinner time.

Then near the end of training, there's a new problem.

A NEW PROBLEM

Daddy can't go home with the wife and kids. If the family came down by car, it means mother has to pile the kids into the auto and drive them to Detroit or back home. If they came down by plane, it means mother has to take her toddlers home by air.

The fathers have to stay and return north with the team.

But this, my husband tells me, is baseball—separations of family and then reunions . . . sending the kids to as many as three schools in one year . . . finding a temporary home in Detroit . . . the fear of trades and a return to the minors.

A sports writer's wife knows at least her husband won't be traded. When he leaves you sitting by the pool when he leaves for the ball park in the morning, you know he'll be home for dinner. Unless some player is traded and he has to dash out to cover the story.

AP Photofax

Relaxing at the poolside are batting champion Norman Cash of the Detroit Tigers and his wife Myrta at their motel near the Tigers' spring training camp in Lakeland, Fla. But it's not all fun for the players' wives and their families for as the players train, the wives — well, they worry about the children falling into the pool, fuss over cooking arrangements and worry about injuries.

Mrs. Verles Roberson arranges a pert pillbox for Mrs. Harold Oertel (seated) before Tuesday's spring hat showing. Sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Trinity Methodist Church in Waterford, the affair will include a luncheon and bake sale at the old Clarkston Methodist Church. Observing the fitting procedure are two other WSCS models, Mrs. Tim Amos (left) and Mrs. John Foggiano (right).

Cancer Publicity Being Pushed by Foundation

Michigan Cancer Foundation

While scientists the world over are fighting cancer with test tubes, drugs and microscopes, the Michigan Cancer Foundation teams up with local businesses, industry and publicity media to "Fight Cancer With Knowledge."

The foundation's target this year is breast cancer — number one killer of women in the United States.

With the month of April dedicated nationally to the fight against cancer, the MCF has recruited the help of business and industry to distribute its lifesaving literature to people where they work; the moving picture industry in the promotion of a film on the technique of breast self-examination which has saved thousands of lives — and of all publicity media to make the public aware of the importance of early detection, prompt treatment and regular physical examinations in the control of this disease.

Just as this community is pledged to the principle of united giving in the support of health and welfare agencies, so have the commercial interests evidenced their faith — both in the will of the people and the services performed by the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Shower Fetes Mrs. Harmon

Mrs. Charles Harmon Jr. of Thorpe Street was feted at a pink and blue luncheon shower this afternoon in Devon Gables. Hostess for the occasion was Mrs. John H. Ostrander.

Guests were Mrs. Earl Billingsley, Mrs. Charles Harmon, Mrs. George Wasserberger and Mrs. Donald McCandless.

Trinity Women

Plan Bake Sale

Women's Society of Christian Service of the Trinity Methodist Church, Waterford, is sponsoring a luncheon, bake sale and spring-hat showing Tuesday at the old Clarkston Methodist Church at 12:30 p.m.

Hats for the fashion show are provided by Waite's Department store and models are members of the WSCS. Tickets may be purchased from members of the society. A baby sitter will serve mothers attending the show with small children.

★ ★ ★

Chairmen of the event are: Mrs. William Mercer, luncheon; Mrs. Harold Oertel, programs; Mrs. Tim Amos, publicity; Mrs. Gerald Otzman, decorations; and Mrs. Charles Harrison, tables.

Chapeau models are: Mrs. Kuga Kojima, Mrs. Herbert Amos, Mrs. John Foggiano and Mrs. Arthur Burleson.

★ ★ ★

Also Mrs. William Ladanyi, Mrs. William Mercer, Mrs. Oertel, Mrs. Gordon Brown, Mrs. Walter Beyette and Mrs. Clarence Ball.

★ ★ ★

Trinity Methodist Church was organized last May and the WSCS was organized in October. Meetings are held the third Thursday of the month in the members' homes. The current membership numbers 27.

Before the Waterford church organized, many of the women belonged to the Clarkston Methodist Church, which sponsors the Waterford Mission Church and is the scene of Tuesday's event.

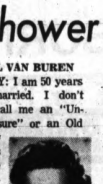
Unclaimed Treasure Asks Shower on 'Old Maids Day'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 50 years old and unmarried. I don't care if you call me an "Unclaimed Treasure" or an Old Maid. My complaint is that I have bought countless gifts for bridal showers and baby showers with no hope of getting anything back.



ABBY

Why doesn't the government declare OLD MAID'S DAY so girls like me can get even?

GIFT GIVER

DEAR GIVER: A beautiful idea. Write to your congressman!

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a family of 5 girls and 3 boys (all married with nice homes) who stick one brother with their 80-year-old father? He has made his home with us for 12 years. I am the "good" daughter-in-law ("Sap" would be more like it.)

He used to work part time, but now he is unable to work and is under my feet all day and all night. We asked if some of the others would take him for a few weeks and they flatly refused.

I never have a free moment. He is in the living room 14 hours a day. He takes several naps every day but always on the living room sofa. I am ready for a nervous breakdown. Can you blame me?

HAD MY FILL

DEAR HAD: (And you were.) Since the father is your husband's, the problem should be handled by him. Your husband should gather his brothers and sisters together and ANNOUNCE that they are just as responsible for the care of their father as he is. There are enough of them to pitch in and give him all the comforts of a nice rest home, if they refuse to take him into their homes.

DEAR ABBY: If you are at a restaurant and someone stops by your table to say hello, but stands there and talks while your food is on the table, are you supposed to (1) go right on eating? (2) stop and let your food get cold?

VICTIM

DEAR VICTIM: If the person says more than hello and it looks like a long siege, invite him to sit down and say, "My food was just served and I would like to eat it while it's hot—I hope you won't mind." If this doesn't make him disappear, nothing will.

Stop worrying. Let Abby help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50c to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press.

Former Pontiac Man Marries in Texas Rites

The Bowles Memorial Baptist Church, Grand Prairie, Tex., was the setting for the marriage of Shirley Mayhew Crowder and Neil K. Schaeffer.

★ ★ ★

A reception in the Dallas home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer T. Mayhew, followed the double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. James Bo nan on March 29.

★ ★ ★

ATTENDS BRIDE

Christine Schaeffer, sister of the bridegroom, attended the bride, wearing lime green silk organza. She carried a nosegay of white carnations. Joan Schaeffer was flower girl.

★ ★ ★

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Leo Bowler of Joslyn Avenue, and the late Joseph L. Schaeffer, had the bride's nephew, Carl Hughes, of Mesquite, Tex. for his best man.

★ ★ ★

After a brief honeymoon along the Gulf of Mexico, the couple will be at home in Texas.

Mrs. Bowler attended her son's wedding with his aunt, Mrs. Marvin Fauss of North Joslyn Avenue.

Hairdressers Will Assemble

Pontiac National Hairdressers Association meeting will be held at the Hotel Waldron, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to appoint a committee for election of officers.

Following the meeting Edmund Papineau of Detroit will serve as the guest artist presenting the latest trend in hair styling.

Judith Whitlock Weds in Vows at Lake Orion

Judith Ann Whitlock exchanged wedding vows with Marine Lance Cpl. Charles F. Hancock Jr., in St. Mary's-in-the-Hills Episcopal Church, Lake Orion. Rev. Wilbur Schutze performed the candlelight ceremony at an altar banked with white snapdragons and gladioli.

Receiving guests with the newlyweds in the church parlors, following the March 31 ceremony were their parents, the Robert Whitlocks of Fourth Avenue and the senior Hancocks of Louisville, Ky.

The bride's floor-length gown of white silk organza over taffeta featured a basque bodice and wrist-point sleeves of Chantilly-type lace. Seed pearls accented the bateau neckline. She wore a fingertip veil of silk illusion held by a pearl crown and carried white cymbidium orchids on a white prayer book.

IS HONOR MAID

Maid of honor Francine Purfield, Ann Arbor, appeared in pale tangerine tissue taffeta and matching veiled headpiece. Mary Jo roses centered her colonial bouquet of white carnations.

On the esquire side were best man, Joseph Gardiner, Clarkston, and ushers Jack Harkin, Waterford and T. J. Shedlowsky.

After a honeymoon trip to Louisville Ky. the bridegroom returned to base at Camp LeJeune, N.C. His bride will join him there on his return from three months' service in Puerto Rico.

Mrs. A. J. Partin of Thomasville, Ga. was a guest at her niece's wedding.

For Frilly Things

(UPI) — Prints, color and sporty styles in lingerie will take second place this spring to old-fashioned frilly things.

Real Swiss batistes and gossamer cotton blends are treated to the hand-fashioned look smacks of the long-ago-and-far-away.

Churches Help Needy

Always a Welcome at Rescue Mission

For several years the Pontiac Rescue mission located at 10 S. Saginaw St. has had a service every night with churches of Pontiac area having charge.

The message in music, testimony, and sermon are all centered around the main theme of the Holy Bible — "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

* * *

The Pontiac Rescue Mission was incorporated as a non-profit interdenominational organization of Christian laymen for the express purpose of helping the poor and unfortunate, who because of some mistake that they made in their life, perhaps think there is no help for them.

"Many people who attend the services of Rescue Mission are lonely, depressed and discouraged," Charles A. Herrand, superintendent, explained. "They do not feel they are dressed properly to go to church to obtain either material or spiritual help. They know there is always a welcome at the mission.

"Many would like to pour their hearts out to someone who would understand so they come to the Mission seeking a friend who will share their burdens."

Some 26 churches of approximately 10 denominations have regular scheduled nights when the laymen speak, sing, play the piano and have charge of the service.

A few of these groups also bring food prepared before hand, to be used in meals which follow the worship. Service is at 8 p. m. and the dinner about 9 p. m.

Good warm clothing is also given to those not presentable to apply for work the following day.

Lodging is furnished at a nearby hotel for the transient man who, otherwise, would have no place to spend the night without going to the Police Station or box car.

CELEBRATE HOLIDAYS

Christmas and Thanksgiving Days are celebrated by a noon service and dinner with no cost to the person helped.

Where does the money come from?

"The Rescue Mission is run on faith and it operates on a free will basis. All gifts are deductible from income tax and a written receipt is furnished to all who contribute," Herrand explained.

"We who have our homes, families and jobs," he said, "seldom realize the number of people who are unhappy. For many of those coming to the Rescue Mission are homeless, with no family life and many do not even have a companion or friend.

"Unemployment is responsible for many men being on the road. If there are no places for them to be housed and fed, they will find it in other ways. For the protection of the individual, the community and nation, there must be a place where these men can be reached with the message of the Gospel."

* * *

These men in hard luck are pretty much like the rest of us. Many have had college educations and have held good positions.

But often bad investments, wanderlust, false pride, gambling and bankruptcy hit them at a weak moment. Then often they turned to hard drink. Then really — "A fellow needs a friend."

The Rescue Mission must soon find a new home to carry on its work as the whole block of buildings is scheduled for demolition this year under the urban renewal program.

Rabbis See Dangers From Right-Wing Groups

NEW YORK (AP) — The Central Conference of American Rabbis says that right-wing groups such as the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade and the John Birch Society are "inimical and dangerous to the American democratic way of life."

The executive board of the conference, representing the rabbis of the reform wing of Judaism, said such rightist groups are trying to "turn back the course of social progress" in their opposition to the graduated income tax, social security, unemployment insurance, racial integration, slum clearance and civil liberties.

The soul of man is immortal and imperishable. — Plato.

Pastor's Sermon at Oakland Ave. on 'Prayer'

"Prayer, In Its Deeper Dimensions" will be the sermon theme at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church. Rev. Theodore R. Allebach will preach.

On Wednesday night the prayer meeting will be held. Studies will continue in the book of Proverbs.

At 6:30 p.m. Friday the annual Father and Son Banquet will be held. This dinner is sponsored by the Berean Fellowship Class of the church. Reservations may be made until Wednesday by calling Herman Reeder, William Bray or Orval Robb.

Musical Baumans at United Missionary

The Musical Baumans will appear at First United Missionary Church, 149 N. East Blvd. for Family Sunday tomorrow. They will be featured in both the Sunday School and morning worship for the day.

The Baumans consist of father, mother and seven children, ranging in age from one in elementary school to three in college. Stanley Bauman is director of music for the Elkton Public Schools.

Happiness is the adjustment of our inner to our outer world. — Howard Munford Jones.

Dramatic Readers Sponsored by Guild

The Nurses' guild of New Bethel Baptist Church will sponsor a contest between three dramatic readers at 7 p.m. Sunday in the church, 175 Branch St.

Those participating will be Mrs. Gloria Passmore of Macedonia Baptist Church, Mrs. Fannie Potter of St. John Methodist Church and Mrs. Jewell Willie of New Bethel.

Lobster Fishermen Give Church Tenth of Catch

MILBRIDGE, Maine (AP) — Tithing — a method of church financing common among our forefathers persists among 14 lobster fishermen in this eastern Maine port.

* * *

For eight years, each of the fishermen has given one tenth — a tithe — of the harvest from their traps to the Methodist Church. The lobsters, trapped in the waters of Narraguagus Bay, have meant more than $1,000 to the church.

Report Gains in Britain

NEW YORK (AP) — Roman Catholics make up about 10 per cent of the population of England, says the Catholic Digest. It says conversions to the church total about 15,000 per year in that country.

Prayer Breakfast Every Tuesday at Bloomfield Hills

A special year round program at the new Bloomfield Hills Baptist Church, 3600 Telegraph Road is the weekly men's prayer breakfast. Men of the church meet each Tuesday at 6:30 a.m. in fellowship hall for a brief time of Scripture reading and prayer.

Breakfast prepared by Jack Veneman and Clare Cooke follows. The breakfast is open to any man in the community who wishes to attend.

"The prayer breakfast is a vital part of the total church program. It provides a closer tie among the men of the congregation and helps keep the church at a high spiritual level," said Rev. Harold W. Gieske, pastor.

The Bloomfield Hills Church has been at its present location, just north of West Long Lake Road since Jan. 7. On April 1 the church set a record of 136 in Church School and 130 in the morning worship service.

Missionary Speaks at Central

"The Light That Shines" will be the topic of Mrs. Donald M'Timkulu when she speaks at both the 9:25 and 10:45 Sunday morning services at Central Methodist Church. Services are currently held in the Isaac Crary School.

The Chancel Choir will sing "Lamb of God." Mrs. George Putnam will be soloist.

Christian missionary and social worker at the Mindola Centern in Northern Rhodesia, Mrs. M'Timkulu has been studying at the Merrill Palmer School in Detroit for the past year.

Following her appearance at Central Church tomorow she will fly to Northern Rhodesia to resume her work. She also will join her husband in his work as secretary of the All Africa Church Conference.

As part of her message she will bring greetings from Bengt and Marta Simonsson, Central Methodists's missionaries. She is the next door neighbor of the Simonssons in Mindola Center.

FINAL SESSION

A full report of the Simonssons will be given at the final session of the School of Christian Living dinner at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. Russell W. Vessells will preside. Robert Stoner will be soloist for the devotional period.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Simonsson work on the ecumencial staff of the Africa Literacy and Writing Center in Kitwe.

They are training literacy workers, conducting seminars for African writers and journalists, and training them to produce Christian literature.

For the Wednesday evening program, Central's vital work in Kitwe will be displayed in large black and white pictures placed about the dining room. Colored slides will relate the mission strategy of the church in preparing Christian literature.

★ ★ ★

Taped recordings will bring greetings and a description of the work from the Simonssons. Interviews with students and songs from the Woman's Training Center also will be heard. The public is invited to see and hear reports of thes missionaries, Dr. Milton H. Bank said.

Trinity Church Sponsors Coffee After Worship

A reception and coffee hour will follow the 10:30 a.m. service at Trinity Methodist Church, Waterford Township Sunday. Church and Sunday School are held temporarily in Schoolcraft Elementary School on Maceday Drive.

Rev. Ronald Thompson has chosen for his morning sermon, "In the Garden." Linde and Becky Byers will sing a duet entitled "Why Not I?"

Hostesses for the coffee hour will be Mrs. Richard Falls, Mrs. Odin Olsen and Mrs. James A. Matteson.

The youth group will meet at the parsonage from 6 to 8 p.m. for worship and a social hour Sunday.

The Women's Society for Christian Service will sponsor a luncheon, followed by a fashion and hat show at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday in the old Methodist Church in Clarkston. Mrs. William Mercer, president of the society, heads the committee making arrangements. The public is invited.

St. John Methodist Marks Men's Day

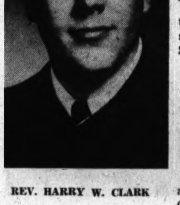
St. John Methodist Church will observe Men's Day at both the morning and evening services tomorrow. The Senior Choir and the Men's Chorus directed by Rafael Hooks will furnish music for both hours.

Rev. Martin Bellinger, pastor, will deliver a message entitled "Love Never Faileth."

Three choirs composed of 90 voices from the New Light Baptist and the Dexter Avenue Baptist Churches of Detroit, will present a musical program at the afternoon service. Lindsay Bellinger is choir director.

Throughout the week ministers of other local churches will conduct services each night at the St. John Church.

Pine Hill Congregational Calls Rev. Harry W. Clark



REV. HARRY W. CLARK

The Rev. Harry W. Clark, 1408 Northwood, Royal Oak, has been called as pastor of the Pine Hill Congregational Church, West Long Lake Road to fill the vacancy due to the retirement of Rev. Dr. Alfred D. Grey on Dec. 31.

Church services are currently being held in the Pine Lake Elementary School on West Long Lake Road in West Bloomfield Township.

At a special meeting of the congregation, with church moderator Frederick L. Cark, 1905 N. Hammond Lake Drive, presiding, the recommendation of the pulpit committee, presented by chairman Jack C. Marshall, to call Rev. Mr. Clark was unanimously approved.

Associate pastor and minister to the youth of the First Congregational Church in Royal Oak since 1956, he was previously associate pastor and minister of education of the First Baptist Church of Jackson.

WALL TUMBLES DOWN—West Berlin workers pull stone slabs from where they have fallen as the wall, built by East Germans to divide Berlin, begins to fall apart. Behind the wall is a roll of barbed wire. The three men standing in the center background are East German Vopos. They are standing next to trench which parallels the wall at this point in the French sector of Berlin.

Abandon Efforts to Settle Ship Strike by Mediation

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Efforts to settle the West Coast maritime strike by mediation have been abandoned.

President Kennedy's three-man special mediation panel Friday night gave up efforts to settle the three-week-old strike after two days of separate talks with both sides. The panel flew to Washington to report no progress to Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg.

Goldberg and other Cabinet members will confer with the President who will then decide whether to interrupt the strike by using his power under the Taft-Hartley Act which would restore shipping for at least 80 days.

Hawaii Gov. William F. Quinn disclosed in Honolulu that an affidavit outlining effects of the strike has been mailed to the Justice Department in Washington. Quinn said the department wanted the affidavit by Monday for the President's consideration.

Willard Wirtz, chairman of the mediation panel and also undersecretary of labor, said after the meeting here: "We find the parties too far apart to offer any settlement through mediation. We will report to the secretary (Goldberg) there is no forseeable prospect of our settling this dispute."

Wirtz told newsmen the difference was substantial and the only issue was money.

He said total cost of union demands was far above the $5.5 million in wages and benefits the employers offered in a three-year contract.

Officials of the striking unions —Sailors Union of the Pacific, the Marine Firemen and the Marine Cooks and Stewards—said, "Mr. Wirtz' statement is accurate" and would make no further comment.

Presidents of 12 struck ship lines in the Pacific Maritime Association issued a statement saying, "There are limits beyond which the maritime industry cannot go."

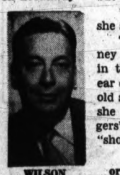
The strike had idled some 60 ships on the West Coast and in Hawaii, East Coast-based and foreign vessels are not involved.

Only 14 of Greece's 50 Dodecanese islands in the southeastern Aegian Set are permanently settled.

This Broadway Actress Helps as a Stagehand

By EARL WILSON

Charlie Chaplin's daughter-in-law, Noelle Adam, is just about the shapeliest, most vivacious, most charming actress on Broadway — but she tells it much more colorfully.



WILSON

"I sink I'm a stagehand who act a little," she says.

The "Beautiful Wife" of handsome Sydney Chaplin explained the other day, sitting in their Central Pk. W. apartment with an ear cocked for messages from their 19-month-old son Stephan a couple of rooms away, that she had many "problems" in Richard Rodgers' hot, "No Strings," learning how to "shonjay" (change) the scenery.

In this show, the actors frequently lug or push the scenery around; learning the lines was for Noelle not so hard as learning where to move the furniture.

"I fell a 'undred times because I couldn't find the marks to put," she told me. "In Cleveland, I push a screen too much. It all come down. I theenk 'Wot have I done?' "

But the only complaint against Noelle now is that she isn't seen often enough. Bravo to the genius who thought that a photographer's assistant (that's what she plays) should mostly wear black tights and run around with her chest thrust forward.

★ ★ ★

Sydney was just rushing out to pick up the latest new Jaguar the other day when I was there. Noelle was kind enough to ask "Would you like a leetle port?"—I would—and, as she sipped hers, she spoke fondly about the car.

"We can't put de baby in!"

The baby Stephan "lewk like" his grandfather—"he has zat curly hair . . . blue eyes . . ." and Grandfather Charlie has seen him several times, though new babies of course are no novelty to Grandfather Charlie.

★ ★ ★

EARL'S PEARLS: An air raid shelter, it has been noted, is a Khrush-proof box.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Some girls never grow up. They think every man they meet is Santa Claus.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's almost income tax time, which recalls Goodman Ace's line: "Who says you can't be wounded by a blank?"

ALAN KING SAYS at the Waldorf that many women who are dieting sneak a few candles while watching TV: "They figure that if it's dark, and nobody is watching them, they won't gain any weight." That's earl, brother.

Maryland Okays Prayers in School

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Maryland's court of appeals, in a 4-3 split decision, ruled yesterday that religious exercises in the Baltimore city schools do not violate the Federal Constitution.

The case involved a school board regulation calling for a daily opening exercise of Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer. Any child may be excused from the exercise on the written request of his parent or guardian.

Swainson Names Three to Saginaw Jury Body

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Swainson announced three appointments to the Saginaw County Jury Commission yesterday.

★ ★ ★

They are Edward H. Muehlenbeck of Birch Run, Robert C. Lawton of Chesaning and Mrs. Minnie Ham of Saginaw, who was reappointed. Leaving the commission are Frank Paszkiewicz and Mrs. Phyllis M. Neilson, both of Saginaw.

The appointments are for terms expiring March 31, 1966.

Car Moves Up on Popularity List

New Look at Buick Cheers Flint Economy

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

FLINT—One of the brightest notes in the Flint economy is that the big Buick plants out on East Hamilton Avenue are running steadily and have been right through the winter.

Long, mass layoffs, commonplace in recent years, have been replaced by occasional overtime shifts. Enthusiasm is obvious and prospects are bright.

For Flint, and Buick, it's a pleasant change.

From 1954 through 1956 Buick was the third best-selling car in the United States, trailing only Chevrolet and Ford. In 1955 one of every 10 cars sold was a Buick.

But problems arose and grew worse. By 1959 only one of every 25 cars sold was a Buick. The division actually sold fewer cars in 1959 than in the recession period of 1958 and total output was barely one-third of the 1955 production.

"Somewhere in 1960 we turned the corner," says Edward D. Rollert, Buick's general manager. "You don't realize it at the time, but you can look back and spot it."

From a lowly eighth in the sales race standings in 1960, Buick moved up to fifth in January of this year and after three months stands a close sixth in unofficial figures behind Chevrolet, Ford, Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Rambler.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN

Rollert took over at Buick on May 1, 1959. Things have improved ever since, although he firmly disclaims personal credit. "To use an overworked word, we don't have, and don't want, any one-man image," Rollert declared. "This is a team effort. It has to be."

Because of the years which elapse between final planning and actual production in the automobile industry, the 1962 Buicks now on the market are the first on which Rollert had the final say-so. "Even then," he recalled, "we could only make exterior styling changes. The passenger compartment and body size were already locked in."

On the day of the interview Rollert spent the morning at the General Motors styling laboratories. "We were looking at the '64s and the '65s. The '64s are all set." (These are the models which won't go on sale until October or November of 1963.)

★ ★ ★

During its downward slide, the question was "What's wrong at Buick?" There were many answers.

Although not officially credited by the company, one major problem was that in the rush to build so many cars in 1955 and early 1956, many bad cars were built. Buick had brake trouble in 1956, styling trouble in 1957 and suffered extensively in the small car revolution of 1958. And in hot intra-company competition it slipped far behind Oldsmobile and Pontiac.

One observer called the Buick "overweight, overpriced and undersexed."

Astrological Forecast

By SIDNEY OMARR
For Sunday

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Good day to be with friends. To attend church. To listen and learn. To strive for wisdom. To read, exchange ideas. Later, aim for meeting friends at home.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Open purse strings when it comes to taxes, in community or church projects. Receive interest in life, in what is going on about you by joining in local activities.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Cycle up. Today you can afford to be generous with time, money, efforts and emotions. Your judgment apt to be "on the target." Move forward with confidence.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Behind-the-scenes activity very necessary. Volunteer if your help requested. Offer benefit of experience and you gain more than you might imagine.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 21): Recent problem comes to fore. If personal, you can solve it. May involve older individual who eventually turns friendly. You will gain by allowing Leo sense of fair play to shine.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): A phone call to shut-in friend could do wonders for your morale. Express true feelings. Be sympathetic. Visit those confined to hospital. Volunteer for church, community activity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Favorable lunar aspect to your sociosex sign today means a new attitude could work in your favor. Sticking with "worn-out" ideas could find you out in the cold.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Your emotions run deep. Today you make a decision which can have great bearing on immediate future involving someone loved one, career activity. Listen to one with experience, who's interested in your welfare.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Cycle not high but you can use this time to sum up, to satisfy emotional vacuum. Try, now that on right track. Re-evaluate recent efforts, make plans for future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): If you can admit a past error, you might regain a friendship, even a way of life. You will live more than repaid for just a little humility.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Good for club meeting, for catching up with friends and family. Stress is on OBTAINING INFORMATION and inspiration. Ask questions, attend church of choice.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Everything needn't be black or white. Observe the subtle shades like gray, brown. Look for knowledge beyond the surface. Permit Pisces sensitivity to reign and you will be happier.

★ ★ ★

IF SUNDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are a positive person . . . you take sides, form definite opinions. You can be determined to the point of exasperating friends. But with it all, you are warm, sympathetic and quite sentimental.

★ ★ ★

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Much hustle, bustle. Transportation, modes of travel in the news. Cycle up for TAURUS, GEMINI, CANCER. Best for SAGITTARIUS to "take it easy."

For Monday

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Gain through publishing, writing, sales and most of all through a DYNAMIC APPROACH. Day to travel or contact persons who are far away. DON'T just wait.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Kind of day in which many transactions are made, reports, rumors fly. Most beneficial action is created by STRADDLING. Keep purse strings under control.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Your word today is CLASS. Be above gossip. If you can't say anything good, be quiet. Much in your favor if you set good example. Be independent, helpful. Have faith in yourself.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Absorb knowledge through reading. Cycle today encourages research, which promises gain if you take the time to LOOK and then act on knowledge gained.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): You may find yourself in the limelight. Act accordingly. Improve manner of dressing. Be neat, for later there may be so much activity you won't have time to freshen up.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Stress is on need to break away from restricting influences. Seek NEW avenues of expression. Meet new persons, make off situations which weigh you down.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): You could perceive truth today without at first recognizing how right you are. Be TRUST HUNCHES, especially in connection with fantastic claims. However, be practical and demand COMPLETE proof.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): If you expect to sit back and take it easy today, you are in for a surprise. Plenty of activity indicated, which may include romance. Stifling emotions may lead to regret.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Get the "feel" of recent project. Study details. If already sure, you can eventually gain. Pay attention to professional counsel. He is NOT attempting to mislead you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Be willing to change your opinion and course of action. If you are not progressing, destroy "creation." Fine to be determined, but not downright stubborn. Conserve energy. Rest tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Favorable lunar aspect emphasizes long-range view. Look for answers within realm of probability—discard pie-in-the-sky schemes. Be practical. And keep mind open.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Allow romantic side of nature to shine. Trust others. You are practical today, by being a bit impractical. This is a paradox, but likely to WORK.

IF MONDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are apt to be impatient for results. You give your best and demand the same of others. You may think of yourself as "tough," but you're really quite warm in nature. OCTOBER could be month which sees you receiving "break" you have been seeking.

★ ★ ★

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Day of extremes. Nothing halfway. People tend to "confess," to tell the world what they really think and desire. All ends beneath the study of today's SCORPIO interpretation.

Trial of 4 Men Halted in Egypt

French Diplomats Held for Espionage Allowed to Leave for Paris

CAIRO (AP)—The United Arab Republic today halted the espionage trial of four French diplomats and said they would be permitted to leave on the first plane to Paris.

A high government source said the decision was meant as a sign of support from President Nasser's regime for the "spirit" in which French President Charles de Gaulle was carrying out the French cease-fire accord with the Algerian nationalists.

U.A.R. sources said that contacts had been undertaken by the French some time ago to obtain release of the diplomats. These sources said that France promised to stop the operations of a Marseilles radio station beamed at Egypt in return for release of the diplomats.

The announcement ending the three-month-old trial took the courtroom by surprise. Defendants, their attorneys, prosecutors and spectators burst into applause.

The four French diplomats—Henri Mouton, Andrei Maitel, Jean-Paul Bellivier and Andre Miquel—were members of a special diplomatic mission sent to Cairo to liquidate claims for French property seized by the U.A.R. government after the Suez invasion. Regular French-U.A.R. ties were severed after the 1956 British-French invasion of Suez.

Twelve persons in all went on trial on charges of participating in an alleged spy conspiracy. One, French diplomat Christian O'Aumale, had returned to France and was being tried in absentia. The others were Egyptians.

★ ★ ★

The government had charged that reports sent to Paris by the diplomats exceeded the limits of their mission and consisted of espionage.

Plans are being made to standardize computers so that they can communicate with each other.

ANTIQUE CRUETS — Devotees of antique shows will recognize some old favorites in this window sill full of antique cruets in the Hoard dining room. From left to right the patterns are Pillow Encircled; Hobnail; Etched Grape; Silver Resist; Cut Glass (Fan and Diamond); Zippered Block.

SILHOUETTED — This graceful set of swan dishes makes interesting silhouettes against the window glass. Collected over a period of years, this glassware and the other antiques have been acquired in many parts of the country as the Hoards have traveled.

Mayon Hoards Rescue Old House for Background for LIVING

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Last year we did a number of old homes for Centennial stories. Now, a year later, we're still finding interesting old homes that have been remodeled.

The Mayon Hoards of Milford live in one of them. He is township supervisor and has been a resident for years and years.

The dilapidated old frame house was once a farm home. It's about 95 years old. Then the family that owned it started coming out only in the summer. When they no longer came, the house really went down hill. But there was a nice lot left—132 feet on each street since this is a corner house.

In July, 1955 Hoard bought the ancient house, rather to the dismay of his wife. He did all the work of remodeling except the wiring, heating and plastering.

There was no furnace to tear out of the old basement, just two chimneys to take down — and a cistern to fill in.

* * *

Now that they have made their home in this place for several years, the Hoards wouldn't live anywhere else. They do miss a fireplace, but they love their home. Since our visit they have purchased a Franklin stove. They occupy the first floor while renting out an apartment upstairs.

* * *

You step right into the living room. Here a sandalwood sofa is placed with its back to the door to make an entryway. In front of it is a marble table cut down to coffee table size. Near the bay window which is three-sided is an antique loveseat with tapestry upholstery. On the other side is a modern platform rocker and matching hassock.

* * *

The Hoards told us that much of their furniture has come from pioneer Milford families.

* * *

Living room walls are papered in a gray material resembling grass cloth. It has pink and aqua lines in it. Curtains are sheer white flocked ones.

* * *

There's a handsome pier glass opposite the front door. It's framed in walnut and sets upon a marble shelf.

The Hoards bought an old secretary that was filled with books of a bygone day. They still use part of it as a bookcase, but display china and glass on some of the shelves.

LIBRARY

The second room at the front of the house is the library. While the carpeting in the living room is pewter beige (according to Mrs. Hoard), that in the library is sculptured sandalwood.

Two walls are papered in pink and gold on white. The other two are paneled in pine with an antique finish. At each side of the double windows on the west there are built-in shelves. A shelf above this window holds antique crockery.

The Hoards have two organs and a piano. The antique organ has a beautiful tone, but is much harder to play than the new electric one in the living room. The old one still has the original carpeting on the foot pedals.

An old platform rocker that was in the house when the Hoards bought it has been reupholstered in red. There are other antique chairs in this room.

What is now a hallway and the bathroom was once a narrow bedroom. The pink and gray bath is attractively modern. In the hallway there is a folding hatrack on one wall; here Mrs. Hoard hangs her purses.

Their bedroom used to be the kitchen. Sheer white curtains and flowered wallpaper make it a pleasant room. Some of the furniture is modern; other pieces, like the two washstands, are old.

COACH CEILING

The ceiling in the dining room is gently bowed and is known as a coach ceiling. The living room carpeting extends in here. Curtains are white ruffled ones. The wallpaper is white with pink flowers. Woodwork here and throughout the house is white.

Did you think that pull-down fixtures above dining room tables were new? Guess again. The Hoards have an antique one with crystal drops and a painted shade that goes up and down smoothly on a pulley.

* * *

The Hoards added a back entryway and a little breakfast room at one side of the room they made into their kitchen. The floor has gray and yellow tiles in a squared pattern. Walls in the kitchen are antiqued pine; in the breakfast room there is a pine dado with yellow and white wallpaper above.

Cupboards and counter tops are white. The ceiling light was once a kerosene lamp. At one side of the room is the laundry equipment.

Narrow bamboo pull shades take the place of curtains. An old pair of ice tongs, an antique lock and sleigh bells are used as wall decoration next to the range. Copper molds are hung on another wall.

* * *

Near the breakfast room is an open corner cupboard. In the breakfast room is an oak drop leaf table. The Hoards enjoy sitting here in the winter and watching the birds at the feeder just outside.

This house has a kitchen bedroom with an attached bath. Three walls are paneled in pine. The fourth wall and the ceiling have paper in a gold and sandalwood geometric flowered print. The floor is beige tile.

One huge walnut chest belonged to Mayon Hoard's grandfather. He remembers when he was so small that he had to reach up to the drawer in which horehound candy was kept. There are two other walnut chests in the room and a white painted bed. One of the chests has a secret drawer.

HAS CHARM — Owners who cared, plus lots of hard work and gallons of paint wrought this change in the old frame house the Mayon Hoards of Milford bought and remodeled. Now a delightful two-family home on Summit Street, it is spic and span. The Hoards added the glassed in porch at the rear. Their corner lot is 132x132 feet.

TUMBLE-DOWN — Looking like a candidate for a ghost story, the house bought by the Mayon Hoards had little to offer at that time. The neglect of years is apparent in this photo. But the basic structure was sound and hard work made the difference between this picture and the one at the right.

REFLECTIONS — The beautiful pier glass in its walnut frame stands next to the archway to the dining room. In it you see reflected the mammoth secretary with the upper shelves devoted to knickknacks. You can also see just one edge of the front door. The door at the left leads through a hall into the bedroom and bathroom.

Give Dealer Facts for Best Conditioner

"Btu's" now describe the cooling capacities of today's room air conditioners. Manufacturers have abandoned old "horsepower" and "ton" designations in favor of this more accurate method of measuring the heat a cooling unit can handle.

* * *

A family intent on buying a room air conditioner may find it helpful to have some idea what the term "Btu"—British thermal unit—means. Roughly, one Btu per hour is the heat that would be generated by a kitchen match if it were to burn for an hour.

* * *

An air conditioner with a 12,000 Btu cooling capacity, for example, would remove the heat of 12,000 matches from the room.

The easiest and surest way of obtaining the right size air conditioner for a room is to provide an appliance dealer with enough information to permit him to prescribe the Btu capacity needed for maximum comfort. Basically, here's what he'll require:

1. Size of room and what it's used for, such as living room, bedroom, dining room, or family room, and the number of people who normally use it.

2. The exposure of its outside walls—south, north, east or west—and the number of windows facing south or west.

3. Its location in relation to other areas of the house: Under roof, uninsulated attic or occupied room.

4. Electric circuits available: 115, 230 or 208 volts.

Room air conditioners in a wide range of cooling capacities and styles now are available. These include window units, models that can be installed permanently through a wall, and units that provide year-around comfort—heat in winter and cool, dehumidified air in summer.

Standards of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association now provide that a room air conditioner's cooling capacity in Btu's per hour be imprinted on the data-plate.

Club Activities Go on in Fallout Shelter

Recognizing the need for space-saving built-ins in a fallout shelter, Masonite Corporation has designed a free plan containing details for building a folding, wall-hung storage bunk, floor-based storage bunk, Peg-Board framework suspended from the rafters, and a Tempered Presdwood floor for protection against cold concrete.

A copy of "Atomic Fall-Out Shelter" may be obtained by sending a postal to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill.

While designed primarily for the rigors of enforced confinement, the built-ins have peace-time uses too in a shelter doubling as a Cub Scout or Boy Scout headquarters, a dark room, or a study. The wall-hung and floor-based bunks can serve unexpected guests.

Ceramic Tile Takes Work Out of Kitchen

Nothing can discolor kitchen walls more quickly than grease and moisture. It takes a thorough cleaning job to prepare soiled walls for repainting or new wallpaper. The homemaker can't be expected to tackle this chore with enthusiasm, for she knows that before long she will face all over again the problem of stained walls.

The way to get around this for all time is to install ceramic tile splashbacks in your kitchen work areas. Real tile won't stain — and it's also burnproof and scratch-proof. It's easily cleaned, too.

COACH CEILING — Note the gentle curve of the ceiling in the dining room. Mrs. Hoard says it is known as a "coach" ceiling. The pink and white wallpaper is appropriate in this old house. The cherry hutch is one the Hoards refinished. The ceiling light still goes up and down smoothly. On the table is a large covered compote in the Westward Ho pattern.

Pontiac Press Photos by Ed Noble

Winter GARDEN NOTES

A pine or maple dry sink, lined with aluminum or copper and paved with a one-inch layer of gravel or vermiculite, will make an excellent planter for your collection of clay-potted house plants. Try filling the sink portion with ivy, philodendron, dieffenbachia and other foliage or flowing plants in porous red clay pots to keep them healthy. You can change the individual pot plants to suit the seasons. And you can make your dry sink planter portable by fastening casters to the legs.

With the rapid growth of scientific development in all phases of horticulture and agriculture, it is not at all surprising that the home lawn owner is bewildered. Technical terms and recommendations often are difficult for the layman to translate into solutions to his lawn problems. The confusion is intensified for the legion of new owners who suddenly become exposed to such mysteries as soil pH, nitrogen fertilization, and pre-emergent crab grass control.

But the home gardener need not feel abandoned in these days of rapid progress. A wealth of research information on lawn planting and care, especially designed for the home owner, is available at both state and Federal levels.

It seems particularly appropriate that he should take advantage of this unbiased research during this centennial of the establishment of land grant colleges and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The new products and techniques recently developed for pre-emergence control of crab grass is a good example. The concept that the crab grass problem can be solved by a single application of a chemical is new, but it has been thoroughly tested both by industry which conceived it and by government research groups throughout the region where crab grass is a serious problem.

Zytron, one of the pre-emergence crab grass killers on the market, was subjected to four years of rigorous testing by its manufacturer before being offered for sale. These tests included laboratory and field studies on its effectiveness and safety under all conceivable conditions.

Besides these industry tests, samples were submitted to 40 experiment stations of land grant colleges and Federal experiment station to provide unbiased testing. Research was conducted on various carriers for the chemical, different rates of application, and toxicity of the material.

Zytron was also tested in conjunction with fertilizers and insecticides. Results of these studies, which include comparative studies on many types of crab grass killers, are published in bulletins, releases for radio and TV, and in other forms available to the public.

A combination planter-bench makes a comfortable relaxing spot as well as a neat divider between the terrace and children's play or service area, says a recent issue of Better Homes and Gardens magazine. Set plants directly into well-drained soil in planters, or use potted specimens plunged into moist peat moss.

* * *

You may determine whether your landscape plans were damaged by the severe winter cold by browned foliage or fewer buds on trees and shrubs in the spring. Don't prune shrubs or trees until new green growth shows. In that way you can spot damaged branches.

* * *

The booklet "The Good Earth Can Do You Dirt" offers a wealth of information on soil. How to get the best results is described, whether growing flowers, fruits, vegetables or lawns. It tells the "pH preferences" of different plants from "alfalfa to zinnia." It explains the importance of soil testing and covers many more fascinating topics. This easy-to-read booklet will be sent free on request. Write Sudbury Laboratory, Sudbury, Mass., Dept. 321.

Organization Is the Watchword

Don't put it off any longer—clean the garage now!

* * *

Most homeowners prefer to start the gardening season with a neat and clean garage, so it's just about time to take care of the chore. Many have neglected the job for several years, so the task will be more difficult.

* * *

Don't keep anything that has outlived its usefulness. Specify areas for children's toys, gardening equipment and other items. Then keep everything in its place.

If you have a workbench, keep it clean. Wood shavings, oily rags and waste paper only serve as fire hazards. Keep all equipment in good working order.

One storage system used by many families is a simple rack with several galvanized steel refuse cans. Various types of seed and other gardening materials can be kept in these containers.

* * *

Once the garage is in good order, keep it that way. Sweep it out at least once a week and put everything in its place. Regular attention will make the annual spring housecleaning job an easy one.

Here's the Answer

AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: I made some outdoor furniture two years ago. It now is starting to come apart at the glue joints. I used water-resistant glue. Why are the joints separating?

ANSWER: Water resistant glue is satisfactory for nearly all projects, even where there is considerable humidity, but it is not perfect for outdoor use. You should have used waterproof glue. This will withstand outdoor conditions of all kinds, including rainy weather, whereas joints bonded with water resistant glue would not hold up under such conditions.

You'll have to scrape off as much of the old glue as possible and reglue the joints with the waterproof variety.

QUESTION: Every time I have ever done any painting in our house, I have always had a problem with the windows, which are of the regular double-hung variety. I never seem to know which part to paint first. Can you tell me the standard way of painting windows, if there is such a thing?

ANSWER: Yes, professional painters have a regular way of painting windows. Raise the bottom sash and lower the top sash, leaving a few inches clearance at both ends.

Begin on the raised bottom sash. Paint its top horizontal. If the glazing consists of small panes, as most do, paint the strips which support the panes, then do the verticals. Now switch your attention to the upper sash, which is still lowered. Paint the strips between the panes as high as you can reach without going between the two sashes. Then paint the bottom horizontal.

Now lower the bottom sash to its normal position, which can be done by taking hold of the unpainted bottom horizontal. Raise the upper sash to its normal position by pushing its top, which has not yet been painted. Leave a slight gap between it and the top of the window opening.

Paint the upper horizontal of the top sash and then those parts of the strips which you couldn't reach before. Finish the unpainted verticals of the top sash and the bottom horizontal of the lower sash.

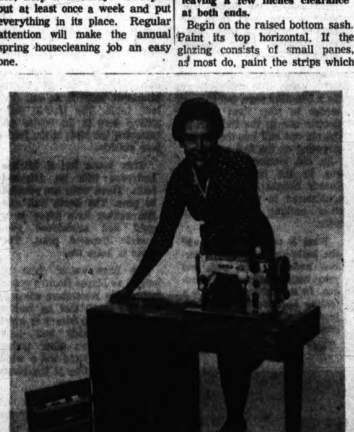
This sounds complicated, but if you keep these directions before you as you paint, and follow each step, it will be a lot easier than you think. Incidentally, your paint store can sell you a cheap thin metal shield to hold against the edges of the wood to keep surplus paint from getting on the glass.

QUESTION: I recently had a patio built at the rear of the house. I now find that I should have had some kind of concrete step built from the patio into the backyard. The drop isn't much, just a few inches, but it is annoying and, under certain conditions, could be dangerous. I had to get a permit to have the patio built. Will I need one for the step, which I instead to build myself?

ANSWER: The chances are that no permit will be necessary, but regulations vary so much from community to community that you had better check with local authorities.

However, there is something else you should consider. If the present drop, from the concrete patio to the earth, is annoying and dangerous, the addition of a step won't help. The drop will be the same, which means everybody will have to be just as careful—one reason, by the way, that single steps are never recommended. People simply don't see a single step as quickly as they do two or three.

Have you considered the possibility of an incline rather than a step? One advantage of this, aside from safety, is that any object with wheels can be rolled from the patio to the backyard rather than lifted.



SEWING CABINET — Here is a cabinet that was designed to hold your portable sewing machine and all of your other sewing supplies. It has three drawers for miscellaneous items and one door on the lower left hand side for your machine. When you are not sewing, you place the machine in this space and the cabinet becomes a handy writing desk. If you do have lots of space then drawers may be built on the right side the same as shown on the left. The pattern tells you how. To obtain the full size sewing cabinet pattern No. 272 pictured here, send $1.00 by currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

How's Your Wiring?

The signs of poor wiring are all around you, says the April issue of Better Homes & Gardens. Start looking on the outside of the house first. If there are only two wires leading to the house, wiring is inadequate for today's line-up of electrical servants.

Remodeling Can Pay Dividends

The big remodeling and home improvement season of the year is approaching and all over the country homeowners are asking themselves this question:

"Does it pay to invest any more money in my home?"

Yes it does, says Arthur Pearson, a home improvement specialist for the Flexalum division of Bridgeport Brass Company, if in doing so:

1. You add considerably to your family's living enjoyment or comfort.
2. You increase the resale value of your home.
3. You cut future repair and maintenance costs.

There are many improvement projects which fall into one or more of these categories, the Flexalum specialist says. Aluminum window awnings, for example, keep the house cooler in the summer, protect furnishings from fading and improve the home's appearance.

A patio or carport awning provides outdoor living space that homebuyers are seeking in both new and used homes.

* * *

Other worthwhile improvements include modernizing a kitchen, adding a second bathroom, finishing an attic or basement or adding more ceiling insulation to cut heating bills.

Financing for remodeling projects is readily available, Pearson reports. The FHA is now empowered to insure modernization loans up to $10,000 over a 20-year period.

New Electric Range Achieves Glamor

Today's built-in electric range has become the belle of the kitchen planner's ball. Sleek to look at and efficient to cook with, new electric ranges lend themselves perfectly to contemporary kitchen design.

Built-in electric ovens, either single or double, can be placed at exactly the right height and in the right spot to be most useful. Surface units can be built into a counter near the oven, if that's most convenient, or installed in a separate cooking center.

If the kitchen is used by two family members—a teen-ager and her mother, for instance—electric surface units may be installed in two separate cooking areas, too.

Today's electric ranges come in a variety of finishes to match any kitchen decor. There's also a wide choice of automatic controls conveniently placed for easy use.

Vary Height of Floors Surface With Tile

For warmth and intimacy, a sunken living room is hard to beat. If you're planning to build a home, you might keep this in mind. It's relatively simple to plan a living room that is six inches below your entry way.

For further effect, consider an L-shaped entry that extends to form a raised hearth for your fireplace. Then cover the entry and hearth with a durable and attractive material such as quarry tile. It comes in a variety of colors and is easy to clean.

Masonite Board Used Often in Kitchen Work

An all-purpose board in the kitchen is a wonderful aid.

Recommended by the Home Service Bureau is a cutting board of Masonite ¼" Tempered Presdwood, a splinter-free hardboard which can be wiped clean with a damp cloth and which does not retain odors because it is so nonporous.

Use this board for preparing salads and sandwiches, pounding and cutting meat, rolling dough and as a "surface protector."

One homemaker said she used an 8"x13" piece of "Masonite" on her drainboard. During the new hours she put it in the sink to set pots and pans on, and especially pressure cookers. She said this use of the board prevented black marks on the enamel.

The usual size for the all-purpose hardboard is 12"x12", but if it is to be used for rolling dough, it should be larger. Just round corners lightly with a file or sandblock. It will last for years, says the Bureau.

Money for Remodeling Can Be Foolishly Spent

To sign or not to sign? That is the question most homeowners will be asking themselves this spring as they decide which contractor or dealer to use for home improvement work.

★ ★ ★

The reputation and workmanship of your local contractor plus the quality of the materials he uses when installing aluminum patio or window awnings or does any other home improvement makes all the difference in the world, reports Aldo Martin, home improvement specialist for the Flexalum division of Bridgeport Brass Company.

Take Off the Doors

You'll find it easier to paint wall-hung cabinets if you remove the doors and paint them separately. Place the doors on a pair of saw horses or two boxes of equal height or on a table. The job will be speedier if you remove the hardware before applying the enamel. Paint the interior of the cabinets first, then the trim.

Most home improvement dealers are hard working professionals who are in business to stay, the Flexalum specialist points out. Thousands of homeowners, however, have fallen for the pitches of fast-talking fly-by-night operators who foist inferior materials and workmanship on them.

Martin has prepared a list of questions which should be answered to your satisfaction before proceeding with your project:

1. How long has the salesman's firm been in business locally?
2. What does the Better Business Bureau say about him?

3. Does he offer nationally known building materials
4. Does the dealer or contractor carry both liability and workman's compensation insurance?

5. What kind of a guarantee does he offer? Is it in writing Have you read the guarantee carefully If the salesman's firm goes out of business, who will make good the guarantee?

6. Does the home improvement firm spell out what you are getting for your money?

If these questions are not answered satisfactorily, keep looking, Martin advises. Beware, he adds, of such favorite fly-by-night gimmicks as "lifetime" guarantees on paint finishes, using your house as a "model home" to attract other customers, giving you a blank form to sign or asking you to sign a certificate of completion before the work is done as promised.

FLOOR PLAN — Room to spare but none to waste could well be the motto for this three-bedroom home. Note its abundance of closets — six in the master bedroom alone. House contains 1,370 square feet of living area not counting garage and utility room, in dimensions of 33'4" by 73'.

LASTING STYLE — This lovely three-bedroom ranch was designed with an eye to the future. Its uncluttered exterior and well-ordered floor plan assure ease of maintenance and lasting popularity—which adds up to good resale value. The house contains 1,370 square feet of living area in dimensions of 73' by 33'.

Check Over Your Supply of Water

None of us like to think of dire emergencies when safe water and other essentials may be cut off because of possible nuclear attack or even hurricanes and floods. But it's always best to know what to do in any event.

★ ★ ★

The National LP-Gas Council points out that a cautious family can get along for weeks on the normal supply of water in the home, most of which is constantly stored in water heaters and water softeners.

★ ★ ★

Emergency procedure to use water from the water heater is quite simple. No matter where you live — city or country — shut off the natural gas, LP-gas, or electricity used for water heating. Then turn off the water heater inlet valve to prevent possible contaminated water from entering the tank.

Next, open a hot water faucet to relieve any vacuum in the water tank. Don't worry about the small amount coming from the faucet. Now you can draw water, as you need it, from the drain valve of the water heater. You can even attach a length of garden hose from the water heater drain valve to a fallout shelter.

The water softener will also provide several gallons of safe water, and laundry tubs can be filled with water for washing. These tubs should be filled in the event of an emergency alert and then covered tightly. Emergency water can be stored in five-gallon cans, and large bottles. For drinking purposes, fruit and vegetable juices and soft drinks can be consumed during emergencies.

Ceramic Tile Underfoot Makes Swinging Fun

Aporch swing can make a hot day seem cooler — and also bring back fond memories for older folks. If you don't have a porch, look for another area where you can install a family swing. It's bound to be a hit with everyone.

★ ★ ★

A word of caution, however. The foot work needed to put the swing in motion will badly scuff or wear out most surfaces. The way to get around this is to surface the area under the swing with a durable material such as quarry tile. It's slip-proof, can't be scratched and is easily cleaned.

Popularly Styled Ranch Has Good Resale Value

By JULES LOH

At the fifth National Congress for Better Living held recently in Washington the unprecedented mobility of American society came in for lengthy discussion because of the equally unprecedented problems it creates for homeowners.

Not too surprising was the fact that one-third of the delegates to the Congress had moved during the past year, nor even that the majority expected to move at least every five years.

What it all adds up to was best summed up in this comment taken from the Congress report:

"Delegates feel strongly about the resale value (of their homes) because they don't really expect to stay in the same house for many years."

How do you tell whether a house has good resale value?

Aside from considerations of neighborhood, zoning laws, availability of schools, service facilities and so forth, there are two basic questions you should ask about the house itself:

1. Will it require excessive maintenance?
2. Will its design retain its popularity?

This attractive one-story home, designed by architect Lester Cohen as J-14 in the House of the Week series, answers both questions affirmatively and without hesitation. Cohen planned it that way.

To begin with, it is the category which year after year is in greatest demand throughout the nation — a three-bedroom ranch of moderate size (and price) with two bathrooms, attached garage, separate dining room, large kitchen, and plenty of closet, cabinet and storage space.

Moreover, the house is completely devoid of frills or fancy ornamentation that add much to price but little to resale value and usually are costly to maintain. This house instead has a quiet, uncluttered exterior with a charming covered porch, and a neat and well-ordered interior with no wasted space.

It contains 1,370 square feet of living area, not counting the garage and utility room, in dimensions of 73 feet wide by 33'4" feet deep, and has a full basement plus storage space in the attic which is reached from the bedroom hall.

The house is an extremely livable one, a fact that adds to its resale value as well as assuring lasting comfort for the family that might choose to remain in it indefinitely. The two, in fact, go together.

For example, the kitchen area — with utility-laundry room and basement steps handy, direct access to the garage, and even a rear coat closet for rainy day gear — not only is a well planned housekeeping zone but at the same time offers the space and charm for informal family snacks and icebox raids.

BARBECUE

The big central chimney that serves the living room fireplace also provides for an indoor barbecue in the kitchen, attractively set in a brick wall.

The fireplace, of course, is the main eye-catcher in the living room, and is complemented by a large bow window on the opposite wall. This broad glass area, incidentally, not only is shaded by the porch but also by a large roof overhang.

Another advantage of the living room is that it is dead-end. That is, the only reason for entering it is to stay there — it doesn't double as a nuisance passage to another room.

A broad roof overhang in the rear also shades the glass wall in the dining room. The rear terrace could easily be closed in to make a sunroom if the owner should want it.

The bedroom wing, well isolated from the entertaining area by foyer, center hall and dining room, contains a master bedroom of the type usually reserved for more pretentious homes.

In addition to two sets of double closets, it has a dressing alcove with a vanity and another closet, a full bath, and fine wall space.

J-14 STATISTICS

Do First Class Job on 'Second' Home

The approach of the spring building season finds many families looking into the prospects for vacation homes.

Chances are, the necessary real estate can be acquired at a modest price in sparsely populated lakeshore, seashore or rural areas. As for the house itself, there's a wide range of styles, applications and materials to choose from. If a simple plan is adopted, the home can be built at reasonable cost without sacrifice of quality. Here are some specific ideas from the Southern Pine Association:

★ ★ ★

A-Frame—In this dramatic system, walls and roof are one and the same. This simplifies framing; also provides a unique vaulted interior decorated by exposed wood structural members. Main framing members are solid lumber beams fixed diagonally and converging at the roof apex.

Simple structure is completed by applying wood roof decking to beams. Location of large window areas at both ends of "A" gives open plan. Exposed wood members can be beautifully finished for natural blending with exterior view.

"Ship" Design—Nothing is more compatible with a lake or seashore setting than a home designed in the shape of a ship, with the nautical theme also carried out in the interior decoration. For a heavy timbered ceiling look, the Association suggests a roof structure of wood plank-and-beam.

The exterior employs horizontal wood siding with port-hole windows. On the interior, ship lanterns and polished copper appliances lend additional nautical effects; blend well with the natural golden color of Southern Pine paneling.

Wood Pole-Frame — This is a system which many farmers employ as "do-it-yourself" projects with ordinary tools. It's also effective for beachside bungalows. Main elements are treated wood poles imbedded in ground or sand. Structure is completed by applying wood framing, sheathing, siding and other items of finish to the poles. When base of building is elevated above earth, there's greater safety against hurricanes, since tidal waves can pass beneath the house.

Materials and Construction—The above systems utilize lumber as a structural and decorative device in a natural setting. For security, only the stronger species, such as Southern Pine, should be used. All lumber should be "pre-shrunk" by proper seasoning. This assures maximum strength and permanence of the structure. It also provides longer retention of paint and other forms of finish.

★ ★ ★

When lumber is used close to the ground or under conditions of severe weather exposure, it should have the additional protection of pressure treatment with chemical preservatives. Such chemicals are toxic to termites and many impart distinctive colors.

You Can Get Along Without Furniture

NEW YORK (UPI)—Furnishing a house or apartment? A word of advice comes from Robert Feldman, interior designer.

★ ★ ★

"If you get your window and floor coverings done first," said Feldman, "the room looks warm and furnished even if it contains nothing but a piano."

Feldman is an official of Feldman Brothers, Inc., which for 35 years has served as consultant on interior design to home owners, decorators and stores.

"Don't hurry the furnishings job," said Feldman. "Good decorating may take years to accomplish."

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Early in the football campaign of 1955, a season after the Detroit Lions took the 56-10 lacing from the Cleveland Browns in the NFL championship game, the coaches of the Detroit club sat huddled around a TV in a Baltimore hotel watching the powerful Ohio State Buckeyes roll over an opponent in the NCAA game of the week.

One of the most heralded players ever to come out of collegiate football, Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, was running wild on the grid scene.

★ ★ ★

He was a lot smaller than the gun slinging Hopalong of Western fame but he was a lot tougher. Little did Buddy Parker and his staff realize at the time that the Lions would go from the top of the league to the basement that season, and the little Buckeye would be the bonus choice of the Detroit team.

BROWNS HIS FAVORITE

When the draft choices of the NFL were made there was some disappointment in Cassady's heart. The team he wanted to play for all his football minded days didn't have a chance to get him. The Browns won the title and had last choice in the draft.

★ ★ ★

"I felt disappointed but Detroit sure has been good to me during my football days," Cassady noted after his trade to the Browns, seven years later.

★ ★ ★

"This is my home now, I don't plan on leaving. In fact I've been looking at some homes in the lake areas around Pontiac," he noted.

Hoppy wouldn't commit himself as to which team got the best of the deal. "I think both teams got what they wanted," he said, "and I'm happy to go to the Browns, I wasn't real surprised."

★ ★ ★

Since 1956 when he made his first appearance in a Lions' uniform, Hoppy has been popular choice of the fans at Briggs Stadium. Everytime there was a pileup of monstrous linemen with Hoppy at the bottom, it seemed that every fan in the stadium was holding his breath when the unpiling took place.

★ ★ ★

Then up came Hoppy and out came a thunderous roar from the stands. Fans in stadia throughout the NFL cheered the little Buckeye. They remembered him as the Heisman winner, Maxwell winner and the athlete of the year in 1955.

★ ★ ★

It won't be the same without jersey number 40 at Tiger Stadium next fall, but you can be sure that on the night of August 11th when the Browns come into town for the first exhibition game, the biggest cheer of the night will take place when he comes out in a brown and orange uniform instead of the blue and gray.

DITTOS FROM THE PRESS BOX

Would it be a shock if the Detroit Lions traded Joe Schmidt? The Los Angeles Rams have a big asking price for Jon Arnett and the Lions have to talk terms with the best they have defensively. It could happen.

OFF ON A SPIN — Arnold Palmer grimaces and starts a quick spin as he misses a long putt on the 18th green near the end of his 2nd round Friday in the Masters golf classic at Augusta, Ga. Palmer surged into the midway lead with a six-under-par 66 for a 36-hole score of 136.

Former Champs Leading Field After 2 Rounds

Arnie Showing Way With Gary in Second, Littler Third

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—The 1962 Masters Golf Tournament looked today like a rerun of an old movie thriller on television—Arnold Palmer vs. Gary Player going into the final rounds.

Last year at the midway point, these two kings of golf were tied for the lead at 137. This time Palmer is 136 after a sensational 66 in Friday's second round; Player at 138 after a conservative 71.

Although anything can happen in golf, this Masters is viewed at this point as a two-man battle between Palmer and Player, and let the rest of the competitor's fall where they may.

DOMINATE TOURNEY

So thoroughly have Palmer and Player dominated this tournament the last two years that it is almost as though it were a match-play event with only two participants.

Their closest challengers going into the third round today were U.S. Open champion Gene Littler, who rode a sterling 68 to a 139 total, and little Gardern Dickinson Jr., whose 71 gave him 141. But they were forgotten pursuers.

All the attention was on the Palmer-Player duel.

Player seemed not the least disheartened that he lost his first round lead and fell two shots behind Palmer. In fact, the opposite seemed true.

The small but sinewy South African star, hoping to become the first man ever to win the Masters back-to-back, said he pretered to be two shots behind Palmer because that forces him to abandon his usual conservative style.

ALWAYS ATTACKING

"You can't afford to play conservatively on this course against a man like Palmer. He is always attacking."

And he paid Palmer this high compliment: "When I'm behind Palmer, I know I'm behind the greatest golfer in the world."

Palmer, whose 66 was his best ever in the Masters, was happy with the situation, too.

"I like it just where I am," he said.

Palmer strung together four straight birdies Friday on the back nine, closing with a 31—just one shot over the back nine record set by Jimmy Demaret in 1940.

The only excitement on Player's round was an eagle-3 he picked up on the par-5 15th with a screaming drive, a 4-iron to the green and a 30-foot putt. If a few more putts had found the cup, he probably would still be out front.

"I putted beautifully," he said, "although several stopped just short of the hole. Two putts stopped on the very edge and six others within about three inches of the cup."

TIED FOR FIFTH

Mike Souchak, Dow Finsterwald and Julius Boros were tied for fifth place at 142. Boros, U.S. Open winner a decade ago, was second with a 69 after the opening round but slipped to a 73. Finsterwald rallied stoutly with a second round 68. Dave Ragan and Al Balding were tied at 143. No one else was under par.

Par over the 6,900-yard Augusta National course is 36-36—72.

A 149 or better was necessary to quality for the final 36 holes. Fifty-two players made it. Some of the major casualties were former Open champion Tommy Bolt, former Masters champion Art Wall and Billy Joe Patton, the erratic amateur from Morganton, N.C. who now is a member of the Augusta National.

Both Sam Snead and Ben Hogan made the cutoff, but neither was a contender. Snead was at 147, Hogan at 149 after a fine second round 71.

DeBusschere Gets 14, but All-Stars Suffer

DETROIT (AP) — Dave Debusschere, former University of Detroit basketball star, made 14 points as a pro Friday night but the Harlem Globetrotters overwhelmed the U.S. All Stars 86-66.

Clarence Wilson of the Globetrotters scored 22 points. He made six three-pointers. The game was played under American Basketball League rules and a field goal from 25 feet out was worth three points. The Globetrotters made 11 three-pointers and the All Stars none.

The Trotters led all the way, holding a 44-25 edge at the half.

Graves, Shorter Win, Stewart in PV Tie

PCH 3rd in Relays

MT. PLEASANT—Pontiac Central thinclads won two first places and tied for another as the Chiefs finished third in Central Michigan Invitational Relays here last night.

★ ★ ★

Charles Graves in the broad jump, and Elick Shorter in the shot put won for PCH. John Stewart tied for first in the pole vault for the second straight year.

Flint Northern, with Delton Kimble leading the way, won for the second straight year.

The Vikings rolled up 41 points, Flint Central 29, Pontiac Central 27½, Muskegon 25, Arthur Hill 16, Lansing Eastern 12½, Mt. Pleasant 8½, Saginaw 7, Bay City Central 6, Bay City Handy 6, Midland 1 and Traverse 0.

★ ★ ★

Graves, a sophomore, jumped 21 feet 2½ inches to beat out Muskegon's Sam Moore who leaped 21 feet 11 inches. Ed Williams of PCH was fourth with a jump of 20 feet 8¼ inches.

Shorter pushed the 12-pound shot 51 feet 8 inches. Rich Czao of Bay City Central was second with a toss of 50 feet 4½ inches.

TIED FOR FIRST

Stewart and Bill Clark of Mt. Pleasant both cleared 12 feet. Mickey Pickel of Muskegon, who tied Stewart for honors at the same height in 1961, went over the bar at 11-½ before missing three times.

PCH's chances for gaining the runnerup spot received a setback when hurdler Willie McDaniels injured a leg in the preliminaries.

Charles Humphrey finnshed third for the Chiefs in both the 65-yard high and low hurdles. Had McDaniels' who won his preliminary heat, been able to compete in the finals, the Chiefs probably would have picked up enough points to pass Flint Central.

Kimble won the 60 yard dash in a record time of 6.2 seconds, breaking the old record of 6.3. He also won the 65-yard low hurdles and ran on a four-lap relay team which won its event.

Ernest Long of Flint Central took the 65-yard high hurdles in 8.4 seconds. Tom Jacob of Saginaw Arthur Hill won the 440-yard dash with a time of 55.2.

A Flint Central team of Bosie Mathis, Bob Barnett, Connie Conners and Pete Sinclair won the medley relay. Al Washington of Flint Northern captured the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, one inch.

Vaughn Goodenow of Saginaw Arthur Hill ran the mile in 4:49.3 for first place. Connors won the 80-yard run in 2:89.6.

Downes, Pender Fight Tonight

BOSTON (AP)—Britain's Terry Downes, co-holder of the world middleweight championship, feels he has Paul Pender's number and will knock out the American in their third title fight tonight.

"I'll get him after the eighth round," predicted the cocky Cockney, who is recognized as king of the 160-pound set by Massachusetts, New York and Europe. Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, is considered the champion by the National Boxing Association.

Despite the 25-year-old Londoner's supreme confidence, the oddsmakers here had the 31-year-old ex-fireman from Brookline, Mass., an 8-5 favorite in the 15-round television (ABC-TV, 10 p.m. EST) bout at the Boston Garden. A crowd of 10,000 and a gross gate of about $70,000 is likely.

Winner of his last three—all on knockouts—Downes has a 28-7 record, including 24 knockouts. He has been stopped five times on cuts. Pender's record is 39-6-2, including 20 knockouts. He has been stopped three times.

Extra-Inning Defeat Suffered by Michigan

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona defeated Michigan 2-1 last night in the 10-inning opener of their three-game baseball series in Tucson.

The nationally ranked teams (Arizona No.11, Michigan No. 6) were blanked for five innings in the pitching duel between the Wolverines' Fritz Fisher and the Wildcats' Bill Reynolds.

Specifications Lacking, Car Loses Points

SEBRING, Fla. (UPI)—The Ferrari that won the 12-hour Sebring sports car endurance race March 24 flunked specifications and received no points toward the major world sports car award.

★

Race officials said yesterday they had withdrawn the 10 points awarded to the Ferrari prototype driven by Jo Bonnier of Sweden and Lucien Bianchi of Belgium.

Reason: Some of its measurements didn't fit the rules laid down by the organizers of the four international races contributing points toward the Challenge Donald De Vitesse Et D' Endurance, the ultimate in international sports car competition.

★ ★ ★

But the Ferrari factory still got the 10 points since the second place car, a grand touring model driven by world champion Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., and Olivier Gendebien of Belgium, was also a Ferrari.

Nomellini Signs Pact, Sets Sights on Record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Leo Nomellini, just 11 games away from the National Football League consecutive games played record, signed with the San Francisco 49ers today.

Nomellini, 37 and ready to begin his 13th pro campaign, has played in 146 straight regular season games. Emlen Tunnell of New York and Green Bay had his 157-game streak cracked last year.

WHAT RAIN? — Arnold Palmer steps from under an umbrella at the 2nd tee, remarks that the rain has stopped, then proceeds with the 2nd round of the Masters golf tournament at Augusta, Ga. Palmer's partner in the background is amateur Charlie Coe. Palmer went on to card a six-under-par 66 Friday for a two-stroke lead.

AN EAGLE — Gary Player spraddles out and doffs his cap on the 15th green after he sank a long putt for an eagle in the 2nd round of the Masters golf tourney yesterday at Augusta, Ga. Player finished the day with a 71, putting him in 2nd place at the halfway mark with a 36-hole total of 138.

Double Duty for Player at Augusta Golf Course

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — After Gary Player shoots his round in the Masters Golf Tournament, showers and returns to his hotel, his work is just half done.

Then he must sit down and interview himself for the newspapers.

★ ★ ★

The enterprising little South African is playing a double role here at the Augusta National Club. He is defending his Masters championship, (and today is two strokes off Arnold Palmer's pace heading into the third round) and he is covering the event for a group of foreign newspapers.

DUTIES COMPLEX

When Player shoots into the lead, as he did on Thursday's opening day with his 67, his duties become doubly complex.

"I don't like to write about myself," Gary explained today, "but when I have a round as I did Thursday, my bosses demand that I not be too modest. They want me to tell how I did it.

"It is difficult, but I attempt to oblige."

Player writes for a syndicate in his native South Africa. He files for a newspaper in Holland. In the past, he has written for a group of papers in Australia, where he has played often and is extremely popular.

★ ★ ★

In effect, the scene might go something like this back in Player's room:

Player, the correspondent: "Well, Gary, that was a nice round today. What was the outstanding feature of it?"

"Player, the golfer: "I felt great, Gary. My putting was particularly good. Now on the first hole. . ."

COLLECTS THOUGHTS

Gary says he sometimes assembles his thoughts in long hand and sends his story by cable. Other times, he will jot down notes and dictate directly to a secretary in New York — like a real professional journalist.

"Some fellows have writers to ghost their material," Player said. "Not I. I like to write it myself. Maybe the realt isn't as polished as it could be, but the comments are my own."

Player says he enjoys his venture into journalism, but often finds it a torturous assignment.

"The pencil and pad give me worse jitters than a 30-foot putt," the pleasant, dark-eyed South African said. "They aren't my tools, but I try to do my best."

Gary's biggest problem is being honest and maintaining a degree of modesty.

"Even when I'm playing exceptionally well," he said, "I can't bring myself around to starting off an article with: 'I was terrific today.' "

Muskegon Goes 3-Up

ST. PAUL (AP)—Muskegon took a 3-0 lead over St. Paul in the International Hockey League final playoffs last night, pinning a 5-2 defeat on the Saints before 6,250 fans.

★ ★ ★

The fourth game of the final series, and the last if Muskegon wins, will be played here tomorrow night.

Lakers Have Baylor for Playoff Games

BOSTON (AP) — Pvt. Elgin Baylor carries the hopes of the Los Angeles Lakers against defending champion Boston today in the opener of the National Basketball Association playoff finals.

Baylor, basketball's best cornerman, is the central figure for the Lakers in their bid to snap a Celtics' string of three straight world titles. He has Army leave to play the nationally televised NBC-TV, 2:30 p.m., EST, game today and the second Sunday afternoon, also in Boston.

The best-of-seven series then moves to Los Angeles Tuesday and Wednesday with additional game, if necessary, here April 14, Los Angeles April 16 and here again April 18.

Los Angeles Coach Fred Schaus is uncertain about Baylor's availability beyond this weekend.

Mets Farm Out Pair

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Right-handers Evans Kileen and Marc Hoy were assigned today to Syracuse of the International League by the New York Mets. Metcher was on the Mets' spring training roster, which remains at 28—one over the limit that must be reached by Monday.

Cousy Planning to Coach After 1962-'63 Campaign

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Bob Cousy, stellar playmaker of the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association signed a three-year contract Friday to coach basketball at Boston College.

The contract becomes effective at the end of the 1962-63 season, college authorities announced.

Cousy, 33, has been an outstanding player in the NBA for the past 12 years after a brilliant career at Holy Cross.

Only a few weeks ago, he agreed to play one more year with the current NBA champion Celtics. However, at the time he said he might not stay beyond another season in professional basketball.

Cousy has an off-season insurance business with headquarters in Worcester. In addition, he operates a boys' camp during summer months.

EVE OF PLAYOFF

The Boston College announcement came on the eve of the championship playoff series opener between the Celtics and the Los Angeles Lakers. The two teams meet Saturday afternoon in Boston Garden in the first game of the best-of-7 series.

Cousy was a strategic playmaker in the Celts' successful defense of their Eastern Division title against Philadelphia in the best-of-7 series which ended Thursday night.

Cousy succeeds Dino Martin who resigned his coaching post to enter business.

Injured 'M' Gymnast Shows Improvement

ALBURQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A University of Michigan gymnast hurt in a fall during NCAA competition last week showed some improvement today but was still considered in critical condition.

Lewis Hyman, 18, a sophomore who was among the finalists in the NCAA gymnastic event, was operated on for a brain injury suffered in a trampoline accident. He had been unconscious since the fall, but hospital officials said he appeared to be coming out of the coma.

They said he followed visitors with his eyes and has moved his head. The officials said they were encouraged by these signs.

Chicago Eyes Cup Finals

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's inspired Black Hawks and the great Montreal Canadiens resume the Stanley Cup playoffs Sunday night with the Hawks hoping to wind up the semifinal round with a victory.

★ ★ ★

The Hawks, victorious over Montreal last year when they went on to capture the coveted cup, hold a 3-2 lead over the Canadiens in their best-of-seven series.

The Canadiens won the first two games in Montreal but the Hawks came back and captured the next three.

Should the Hawks fail to lock up the series on their home ice tomorrow night, then they'll have to meet the Canadiens in Montreal Tuesday in the deciding game.

★ ★ ★

TORONTO (AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs, needing only one more victory to nail down a spot in the Stanley Cup final playoff, face the New York Rangers tonight in the sixth of their best-of-7 semi-final series.

The prospects are dismal, indeed, for the Rangers. They haven't won a game here since Oct. 6, 1960.) In the interim, they have lost 15 and tied one.

If a seventh game is required, it will be played in Madison Square Garden, New York.

CATCHING UP — Tom Stock (foreground) of Bloomington, Ind., begins his spurt to catch Jed Graef of Princeton University in the 220-yard backstroke of the men's National AAU swimming meet Friday at Bartlesville, Okla. Stock's time of 2:09 set a new meet record and a new American mark. He was clocked at 1:56.6 in the 200-yard event, which also bettered the existing record.

Teenagers Break Old Standards

Five Records Set in AAU Swimming

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP)—Three teen-agers and a 21-year-old veteran counted five new swimming records among them today and set their sights on more new marks in the 1962 AAU swimming meet here — and the 1964 Olympics.

★ ★ ★

"I've always wanted a gold medal," said 17 - year old Roy Saari, El Segundo, Calif., schoolboy who set an American indoor 1500-meter record Thursday night and came back Friday night to win the 220-yard freestyle in a record 1 minute 58.6.

Casting a similar eye toward 1964 were Tom Stock, 19, who set a 220-yard backstroke record of 2:09.0, Lary Schulhof, 19, who posted a 220-yard butterfly mark of 2:10.7 and Chet Jastremski, 21, whose 2:25.3 time in the 220-yard breaststroke set two records.

Stock and Schulhof are sophomores and Jastremski is a junior at Indiana University. Saari is a high school junior. All said they will be in training for the 1964 Olympic Games.

SEEK NEW MARKS

They go after new marks today. Saari in the 440-yard free style, and the others in 100-yard races.

In the 220-yard freestyle three men beat the 2-minute record set last year by Steve Clark, then a 17-year old Santa Clara, Calif., schoolboy. Clark failed to qualify for the 220-yard finals this year, but hoped to come back today to defend his 100-yard crown.

Don Schollander, 15, Santa Clara, set a torrid early pace Friday night, then fell behind at the close to finish third in 1:59.3, behind Ed Townsend, also Santa Clara, whose time was 1:59.0.

Saari, the first man ever to swim 1500 meters in less than 17 minutes, and the first man to break 1:59.0 in the 220 was hopeful for today's 440-yard race.

"I should be right in there," he said.

Schulhof beat a record of 2:10.9 set last year by a fellow Indianan Mike Troy, who finished second in 2:11.19.

Stock won the title captured last year by Charles Bittick of Southern California in the former record of 2:09.7.

BEATS OWN RECORD

Jastremski, the defending breaststroke titlist, beat his own mark of 2:26.7 in the 220-yard event and was clocked in 2:11.3 for 200 yards to better the mark of 2:13.4 for that distance set last year by Ron Clark of Michigan.

All the records set Friday night are both American and AAU meet marks. They do not count, however, for world records.

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Summaries of final events in Friday AAU swimming and Diving Championships:

Lary's Arm All Right but Mossi Gets Call

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Frank Lary's ailing arm is better, but it will be Don Mossi on the mound for the Detroit Tigers when they face Washington in the American League opener Monday.

"I felt better and threw better than I have all spring," Lary said after hurling six innings in a farm club game yesterday. He said the shoulder "still felt a little tight, but I think I'm going to be all right now."

But manager Bob Scheffing and pitching coach Tom Ferrick agreed that Lary shouldn't start Monday.

"He threw freely and cut loose when he had to," Scheffing said. "But I don't think he's ready to pitch nine innings yet, so we'll go with Mossi Monday."

NOT READY

Ferrick agreed, saying Lary is "not equipped to go nine innings."

So Mossi, who won 15 games last year, draws the opening assignment instead of Lary, a 23-game winner.

Lary hurled six innings for the Tigers' Knoxville, Tenn., farm club in an exhibition game with the New York Yankees' farm team from Amarillo, Tex.

Lary allowed six hits, three of them bloopers, struck out four and walked one. He left the game with Knoxville leading 5-1. The Tiger farm hands won it, 9-1.

The manager said he may use Lary in relief against Washington and will probably start him next Friday. That's the day when the Tigers open the home season against the Yankees.

The Tigers met the Yankees in an exhibition game at Fort Lauderdale today.

Young Keglers in Spotlight

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Two youngsters competing for the first time in the American Bowling Congress Tournament stole the show from the established stars in their debuts.

Chuck Sisk, 20, a student at Sacramento, Calif., City College until he dropped out this semester, took second place in the Classic Division singles with a 728 series Friday.

The 5-foot-4, 130-pounder had games of 248, 228 and 252 and was only 16 pins short of the leader.

Doug Sabby, 16, a high school junior, rolled a 679 series to lead Minnesota door of Spring Lake, Minn., to the best regular division score Friday, 2998.

Bob Korn and Ray Pety of Detroit's John F. Ivory team tied for third in the Classic doubles with 1333. Korn also took sixth place in both the singles and all-events with totals of 683 in the singles and 1946 in the all-events.

Catalano Enterprizes of Downey Calif., shot a 2992 in its first Classic Division block. Durox of California from Los Angeles rolled a 2920 in its Classic debut.

Baseball's New Look Goes on Display

Colts, Mets Set for NL Debuts; 3 Parks Ready

Tigers, Senators Open American Loop Season in D.C. Stadium

By The Associated Press

Major league baseball opens another season Monday and Tuesday with a different—if not a new—look.

There will be two new clubs—the Houston Colts and the New York Mets of the National league.

There will be four new managers—Casey Stengel of the Mets, back after a year's retirement, Harry Craft of the Colts, Mel McGaha of Cleveland and Billy Hitchcock of Baltimore.

And there will be three new parks—four if you want to count the return to New York's Polo Grounds, unoccupied since the Giants pulled up stakes and went to San Francisco after the 1957 season.

INHABIT RAVINE

The Dodgers (and Los Angeles) will inhabit Walter O'Malley's dream park at Chavez Ravine. The Washington Senators have the new D.C. Stadium. And Houston has a 33,000-seat park ready to go while work continues on the domed stadium the Colts hope to have ready for 1964.

As usual, Washington and Cincinnati will get the jump on the others in their home openers.

The Senators have their presidential opener Monday against Detroit, with Don Mossi of the Tigers scheduled to oppose the Senators' Bennie Daniels after President Kennedy completes his "first pitch" duties. The NL champion Reds also start on Monday at home—with either Bob Purkey or Joey Jay scheduled to pitch against the Phils' Art Mahaffey.

NINE GAMES TUESDAY

Nine games are scheduled Tuesday, with Baltimore at the world champion New York Yankees, Los Angeles at Chicago, Cleveland at Boston and Minnesota at Kansas City in the American League, and Cincinnati at Los Angeles, New York at St. Louis, Chicago at Houston, Milwaukee at San Francisco and Philadelphia at Pittsburgh in the NL. All are afternoon games except the New York-St. Louis clash.

With the help of the new parks, some 340,000 are expected for the two days—Monday and Tuesday, with the top crowds anticipated at the Dodger Stadium debut Tuesday, 56,000, and the Presidential opener in Washington Monday, 47,000.

In a pre-season balloting conducted by the Associated Press, members of the baseball writers association picked the Yankees to repeat easily in the American League, and the Dodgers to win a close race with San Francisco, Milwaukee, St. Louis and Cincinnati in the National League.

Pick Tigers' Lary for Top '62 Honors

By The Associated Press

Mickey Mantle, Willie Mays, Frank Lary and Sandy Koufax are picked for top individual honors this year in the annual pre-season poll of the Baseball Writers Association by The Associated Press.

Mantle, the New York Yankees' switch-hitting slugger, was a runaway choice for the 1962 Most Valuable Player prize in the San Francisco Giants dazzling American League and Mays, the center fielder, edged teammate Orlando Cepeda for MVP pick in the National League.

Right-hander Lary of the Detroit Tigers and left-hander Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers were named as the probably top winning pitchers in the majors.

In the predicted order of finishes in the pennant races, the Yankees were selected to repeat as American League champions in a landslide and the Dodgers got the nod in a tight NL scramble.

MICKEY MVP CHOICE

Mantle, already winner of two MVP awards and a close second to Roger Maris of the Yanks last year, was the pre-season choice for this season's MVP in the AL by 88 of the 109 writers who voted. Maris was not named on a single ballot. Al Kaline of the Tigers received 10 votes, Jim Gentile of the Orioles 4, Harmon Killebrew of the Twins and Elston Howard of the Yankees 2, and Rocky Colavito of the Tigers, Norm Cash of the Tigers and Brooks Robinson of the Orioles 1.

Mays barely won out as the likely MPV choice in the NL, with 34 votes to 32 for Cepeda. Ken Boyer of the Cards placed third with 14. Hank Aaron of the Braves received 10, and Roberto Clemente of the Pirates 6. Last year's MVP, Frank Robinson of the Reds, tied with Vada Pinson of the Reds and Bill White of the Cards at four votes, and Maury Wills of the Dodgers got one.

LARY LEADS FORD

Lary, whose record was 23-9 last year, had a comfortable lead over southpaw Whitey Ford of the Yankees in the voting for top winner among AL pitchers. Lary collected 41 votes and Ford, winner of 25 of 29 decisions in 1961, receiver 23. Others named were Jim Bunning of the Tigers (11), Bill Stafford of the Yankees (10), Dick Donovan of the Indians (7), Don Schwall of the Red Sox (4), Juan Pizarro of the White Sox (4), Milt Pappas of the Orioles (3), Chuck Estrada of the Orioles (3), Roland Sheldon of the Yankees (2) and Steve Barber of the Orioles (1).

Koufax, 18-13 last season, paced the voting in the NL pitching prospects with 19 to 14 for Milwaukee's perennial ace, Warren Spahn. Larry Jackson of the cards was next (13), followed by Don Drysdale of the Dodgers (12), Jim O'Toole of the Reds (11), Johnny Podres of the Dodgers (1), Mike McCormick of the Giants (7), Joey Jay of the Reds (7), Ernie Broglio of the Cards (6), Juan Marichal of the Giants (6), Don Cardwell of the Cubs (3) and Ray Sadecki of the Cards (1).

INJURED BOXER — Pictured above is heavyweight boxer Tunney Hunsaker, who was rushed to a hospital last night after he failed to recover from a knockout blow in a bout at Beckley, W. Va. He underwent a two-hour brain operation and his condition is critical.

Knocked Out Heavyweight Now Battling for Life

BLUEFIELD, W.Va. (AP)—Veteran heavyweight Tunney Hunsaker, 32, was in critical condition today from the effects of a knockout punch delivered in the 10th and final round of a fight Friday night.

He was afflicted with the same type of brain injury that caused the death of former welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret in New York this week. Doctors said he had a 50-50 chance for recovery.

★ ★ ★

Paret, who was to be buried in Miami today, never regained consciousness from the beating he suffered at the hands of Emile Griffith March 24. In contrast, Hunsaker walked to his corner after taking the 10-count and collapsed while being examined by the ring physician at nearby Beckley, where the fight was held. His opponent was Joe Sheldon of Cleveland, Ohio.

TWO-HOUR SURGERY

Hunsaker, a former police chief of Fayetteville, W.Va., was rushed to the Bluefield Sanatarium, a distance of nearly 45 miles, and underwent an emergency 2-hour operation by Dr. E. L. Gage, a brain specialist.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Gage said Hunsaker underwent surgery for a sub-dural hematoma hemorrhage on the right side of the brain, which caused paralysis to the boxer's right side.

Paret suffered a similar injury after his 12th round beating from Griffith.

Mrs. Hunsaker, who collapsed when she first entered the ambulance at Beckley to be at her husband's side, said Dr. Gage told her after the operation there were signs of movement on Tunney's right side.

"But we are not encouraged too quickly," the doctor told her.

"As soon as I realized he was unconscious, I thought of Paret and how similar it seemed," she replied. Mrs. Hunsaker said that only a few days ago a sportscaster had asked her husband for his views on the Paret case, and he replied: "You can get killed in a traffic accident just as easily."

MIXED IT FREELY

Spectators said Hunsaker and Sheldon had mixed it freely. Hunsaker was stunned in the third and took an eight-count in the next round. He made a strong comeback.

Then, late in the 10th round, Hunsaker caught a vicious right cross that floored him. He got up after the 10-count and wobbled to his corner.

A professional since 1958, Hunsaker had won six, lost 11 and fought one no contest in 18 fights before last night.

A native of Princeton, Ky., he was the heavyweight Golden Gloves champion in Texas in 1952 while serving in the Air Force.

Piston Owner Likes Financial Outcome

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit Piston owner Fred Zollner said yesterday he was "highly pleased" with the financial results of the season just completed.

"We were head and shoulders over any previous season in Detroit," Zollner said. "We won't make any money but the deficit will be so small as to be negligible."

In previous years since moving from Ft. Wayne, Ind., the Pistons have operated deeply in red ink.

The Pistons dropped 21,148 in home attendance, but raked in more revenue than last year. The club estimates its game expenses were down about $17,000 since moving to Convention Arena from Olympia.

Record Cutoff Score

Salvino Leads PBA Meet

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Carmen Salvino of Chicago, with a torrid 4494 total for 20 games, led a field of 32 qualifiers Friday night into the final day of action of the Professional Bowling Association's Tournament here.

Salvino, making a strong bid to win his first tournament of the current tour, opened up in the final block of five games to stretch his average through the qualifying rounds to more than 224 per game.

A total score of 4182, representing an average of 209, was necessary to qualify for Saturday's final round of action. The cutoff mark was a record for the PBA tour. The former mark was 4146 set at Akron, Ohio.

The 32 survivors will bowl a block of five games Saturday morning, with the six team high scorers going into match play of three games each.

The semifinals and finals will be televised nationally (ABC).

Behind Salvino in second place was Tom Hennessey, St. Ann, Mo. with 4452, and in third place was Dick Hoover, Hazelwood, Mo., 4397. Others near the top were Bob Chase, Kansas City, 4359; Milt Molhusen, Dallas, 4348; Al Savas, St. Louis 4335; Jack Aydelotte, Minneapolis, 4329; and Buzz Fazio, Detroit 4289.

LITTLE THINGS

J. L. VOORHEES

My father was a wonderful person; he held us spellbound with simple explanations about trees, their roots, and their crowns; the honor of every insect in a colony of ants; how bees navigate, as reporters of a new source of pollen and their vital importance to farmers; massive turbulence in thunderheads, as generators of static and lightning; why cold squeezes moisture from clouds and we have rain, illustrating this phenomenon with ice in a glass of water. These are a few of the Little Things that brought exciting interest to living.

The ultimate of living can be found in the Little Things around us; we plant a mustard seed and experience a thrill of creation as it becomes a plant; we laugh at a flock of sparrows squabbling over crumbs; humming birds dipping their bills into blossoms of trumpet vines holds our undivided attention; the affection of a nondescript dog sends ripples of joy up and down our spine; happiness explodes as we hear the voice of a friend over our telephone; our whole being expands with aesthetic appreciation at the beauty of a snowflake on our sleeve.

Treasure the Little Things.

P.S. Our Funeral Services are many Little Things woven into a beautiful tribute.

Pre-JFK Setup for RS70 Is Blasted by McNamara

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert C. McNamara has said the preadministration program to build the controversial 2,000-m.p.h. RS70 bomber was "one of the worst-managed" he ever saw.

But the Air Force is confident that McNamara is overestimating the problems remaining to be solved in the construction of the hypersonic reconnaissance and missile-firing plane, once called the B70. Air experts contend that steady progress toward their solution has been made for several years.

Congressional testimony highlighting this sharp clash of views was released today, and posed a billion-dollar question: whether the money invested so far in the plane has been well spent.

Dr. Harold Brown, 34-year-old Defense Department director of research and engineering, gave McNamara's views of the management problem in an appearance before the House subcommittee on Defense Appropriations last March 20.

After testifying that a billion of the $1.3 billion appropriated for the plane so far has been spent, Brown said the program had been plagued with management problems.

ASKS ABOUT WASTE

"The secretary of defense, a much better management expert than I, said it was one of the worst-managed programs he ever saw until he reoriented it last March," Brown continued. Rep. Phil Weaver, R-Neb., asked whether there had been "considerable waste."

★ ★ ★

"I think there has been, yes," Brown replied. "I wouldn't say there has been any waste since the beginning of last year—at least there was not as much.

"What is left—$300 million—is well managed. There now is a single project officer at Wright Field who knows what is going on."

Brig. Gen. Fred J. Oscani has been the project officer at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, since mid-1961.

Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, chief of the Air Force systems command, and Brockway McMillan, Air Force assistant secretary for research, led the assault on McNamara's frequently expressed views.

Schriever referred obliquely to a statement by the Pentagon chief that radar for a plane traveling three times the speed of sound "may well lie beyond what can be done on the best basis of present scientific knowledge."

"When I was in the Pentagon in 1950 to 1954 and was head of the development planning, we initiated work in the reconnaissance strike area, which included side-looking radars, processors, etc.," Schriever said.

Freakish Storm Drops Snow on Middle of UP

ESCANABA (UPI) — A freakish spring storm rolled across the middle of Michigan's Upper Peninsula today and dropped up to 7 inches of heavy, soggy snow in some areas.

Menominee, Delta and Schoolcraft counties were hardest hit by the storm, in which rain turned to snow about 2 a.m.

The heavy snow clung to and broke down many telephone and power lines. Some poles were snapped and tree branches pulled off. Electricity was cut off from 400 homes here and telephone service was disrupted to 50 homes.

Delta County road crews were stymied when they reported to garages to take out snow plows. There was no electricity to raise the big garage doors, but crews later were able to remove the equipment.

Escanaba, in Delta County, had 7 inches of snow on the ground at 10 a.m. and it still was snowing. The new fall brought Delta County's fall for the season to 82.7 inches, a 23-year record.

Pontiac Man Is Hurt as Car Strikes Pole

A 23-year-old Pontiac man, injured when a car in which he was riding struck a utility pole at Sanford Street and Chandler Avenue last night, is in satisfactory condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

Owen O'Berry, 199 S. East Blvd., suffered a fractured left leg in the accident. He was a passenger in a car driven by Carl E. Foster, 25, 863 Stanley St.

Foster told police he was turning from Sanford onto Chandler when his attention was diverted by a car which passed his at high speed. Foster's car went over a curb and hit the pole when he failed to make a complete turn, police said. Foster was unhurt.

Expect French to Back Peace

Massive OK Expected in Balloting to Ratify Algerian Accord

PARIS (AP) — French voters are expected to give the massive approval President Charles de Gaulle seeks when they ballot in Sunday's referendum ratifying peace accords paving the way for Algerian independence.

Some observers predicted up to 90 per cent of the voters would favor the cease-fire.

But several big political parties have refused to accept De Gaulle's contention that approval of the accord would mean endorsement of his past actions and a mandate to go ahead as he sees fit.

WON'T OK POLICIES

The Communists and socialists have strongly favored peace in Algeria, but they insist their votes cannot be considered approval of De Gaulle's policies in other fields.

De Gaulle closed his campaign for the referendum with a radio-television broadcast Friday night. He repeated his plea for a big turnout and said he would find "the testimony of your confidence" in a yes vote.

★ ★ ★

The two-week campaign for the accords has stirred little interest in France, mainly because few political leaders or groups have dared come out against the appealing prospect of peace.

Elderly Man Injured When Struck by Auto

An elderly Lake Orion man was in serious condition this morning after he was struck by a car which swerved in the same direction he had taken to run from it.

Suffering broken legs and pelvis and a skull fracture is John Jaje of 203 W. Flint St. The car, driven by Nancy Schaar, 19, of 140 Church St., Lake Orion, was about to cross Flint Street on M24 when Jaje was struck.

Miss Schaar said she had the green light and swerved to avoid the man who had started to cross M24. She said he started running in the same direction she had taken to avoid him, according to Lake Orion police. Jaje was not able to make a statement.

Man Threatened in Bias Battle

New Orleans Catholic Warned He'll Be Killed After TV Appearance

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Roman Catholic layman says his life was threatened after he appeared on television to announce formation of a committee supporting desegregation of parochial schools.

★ ★ ★

The layman, Harold F. Dittmann, said he had received telephone threats "to blow my brains out" after he was interviewed on a news program. He asked for police protection.

MIDNIGHT CONFAB

Five other men who joined Dittman in forming "Catholic laymen supporting school integration" had a midnight conference with Coadjutor-Archbishop John Patrick Cody. There were no announcements following the meeting.

In another development in the 11-day-old dispute over a decision to desegregate parochial schools in the archdiocese, Mrs. J. J. Gaillot Jr., disclosed contents of a letter from Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel threatening her with excommunication.

Dittmann was interviewed on a television news program concerning the new organization, the first in New Orleans to endorse Archbishop Rummel's desegregation decision.

Exploding Tank Burns Pontiac Man on Job

A worker at the new Pontiac Sewage Treatment Plant was severely burned yesterday afternoon when the tank of a small liquid sprayer blew up.

In fair condition today at Pontiac General Hospital with burns on his hands and face is Floyd Frisch, 44, 581 Peacock Ave.

Firemen said the sprayer tank was filled with a flammable concrete sealer. The cause of the accident, which occurred about 12:30 p. m., was undetermined. The plant is located near Opdyke road and Auburn Avenue.

White Lake Girl Is Injured in Auto Accident

A 5-year-old White Lake Township girl, injured in an auto accident yesterday evening in front of her home, is reported in fair condition today at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Teresa Gilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gilbert of 9655 Cooley Lake Road, suffered a possible head concussion and broken leg, according to Pontiac state police.

Witnesses told police she ran into the side of an auto driven by Richard J. Wagner, 42, Union Lake. The impact threw her into the path of another car in another lane of traffic, they said.

Police said the second car, driven by Dorothy Murray, 9556 Round Lake Road, Milford Township, apparently straddled the injured girl as she lay in the road. The car wheels apparently did not run over her, according to police.

Rescued by Helicopter

CHEBOYGAN (UPI) — Robert A. Kline, 54, of Petoskey was rescued by helicopter from the ice on Burt Lake yesterday. The ice began to break up near shore and two other ice fishermen who reached safety called for help for Kline and the Coast Guard sent the helicopter from Traverse City. Kline said the fish were biting well when the aircraft arrived.

The Duchess of Windsor designs a delightful new costume plan for summer with a charming bare-shouldered dress escorted by a chic little back-buttoned cape as a light cover for sleevelessness.

Long princess seams, accented by topstitching, outline the flaring front panel that glides smoothly from neck to swirling hem. The wide scooped neckline is framed by narrow straps set almost at the shoulder-tip.

At the sides, attention is focused on the nippy waistline, with tapered darts gently rounding the hip. Poised and self-confident in urban or suburban surroundings, this graceful ensemble sets the mood for a fashionable summer in linen, shantung, silks, rayons or novelty cottons.

Later, in dressy fabrics, it makes its first appearance at cocktail time. From these corresponding body measurements, select the size best for you. Our sizing is comparable to that used for better ready-to-wear.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips	*Length
10	34	26	36	17½"
12	36	28	38	17½"
14	38½	29½	39½	17½"
16	40	31	41	17½"
18	42	32½	42½	17½"

*From nape of neck to waist

Size 12 requires 3¾ yards of 36 inch fabric for dress and cape. To order Pattern No. 28, state size, send $2. First-class mailing is paid by us. Available Pattern Books are: No. 17 and No. 19 at $1 each. No. 20 and Duchess of Windsor at 50 cents each OR all four books for $2.50.

Address PATTERN SERVICE, Box 535, GPO, Dept. P-6 DW, New York 1, N.Y.

3rd Dem Enters Massachusetts Senate Primary

BOSTON (AP)—William E. Higham (pronounced Hy'-am), 30, who describes himself as a man "who has no relatives in high places, who has no magic name," has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

To win the nomination, Higham would have to defeat Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, youngest brother of the President, and Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr., nephew of U.S. House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.

The seat at stake was held by President Kennedy before he went to the White House.

Higham, an insurance company contract analyst, was graduated from Boston College in 1953 and was president of his graduating class at Portia Law School. He is a veteran of the Korean conflict.

He has never ran for public office before.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average person earning $4,000 a year pays a total of $990 in taxes each year, the Tax Foundation Inc. reports.

Building at Soo Tech Destroyed by Blaze

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — A spectacular fire destroyed the forestry building at the Sault Ste. Marie branch of Michigan Tech last night.

★ ★ ★

No one was injured.

The building contained classrooms, offices, radio and publications rooms, laboratories, a museum and the Osborne bird collection, donated by the late Gov. Chase Osborne.

Students helped rush equipment from the burning building.

There was no immediate damage estimate.

★ ★ ★

The school is on a hill and the fire was visible over much of Sault Ste. Marie.

Fire Chief Edwin Peterson said the fire apparently started in a vacant attic, but that he didn't know what caused it.

TOKYO (AP) — North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung apparently is not attending the Supreme Peoples Congress that opened April 5 in Pyongyang, the New Asian news agency reported today. He was not mentioned among the dignitaries attending the opening of the parliament.

Liz Taylor Wants to Keep Adopted German Infant

MUNICH (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor's German lawyer said yesterday the actress wants very much to keep her adopted German baby girl after her divorce from singer Eddie Fisher.

Lawyer Walter Hass, who assisted the star in the adoption, added, however, there may be difficulties over little Maria's future in case of a divorce.

Hass said the American star told him only recently that under no circumstances does she want to give up 15-month-old Maria, who suffers from a congenital dislocation of the right hip.

Miss Taylor told him, the attorney added, that she loves Maria and wants the girl to grow up with her three other children "like a sister."

A Message From Your City Government

Mayor Philip E. Rowston

1961 was one of the most productive years in the history of Pontiac. It was a year of big celebrations, big activities and big decisions. Many services were expanded and improved during the year and the ground work was laid for further improvement.

Our goal is a better community, greater civic pride and the development of additional cultural and recreational opportunities for all age groups. We are proud of our industries, businesses and citizens who provide the tools to achieve a future for Pontiac dictated by common sense, which should tend to develop plans and projects indicated by need and the ability to pay.

It is with great pleasure that the City Commission presents this report to you, the Citizens who made such a year possible.

Philip E. Rowston, Mayor

City Manager Robert A. Stierer

The services and public improvement programs which are reviewed in this Annual Report have been made possible by the support of the City Commission and our citizens. These fine programs of public service—including the new Sewage Treatment Plant, new Central Fire Station, forthcoming water supply from Detroit, Urban Renewal projects and neighborhood improvements and services testify to the strong civic spirit of this community.

I am proud to be Pontiac's new City Manager, succeeding one of America's most distinguished City Managers, W. K. Willman. The City Administration will endeavor to serve our citizens in such a way as to merit the continuing endorsement of Pontiac's City Commission and our citizens.

Meet Your City Commission

The Commission-Manager form of government has been the basis of the City of Pontiac's Administration since 1920.

On a non-partisan basis from each of seven districts, City Commissioners are elected. Their term is two years. The Commissioners elect from their membership a Mayor and a Mayor Pro-Tem.

The Commissioners appoint the City Manager, the chief executive officer of the city.

Together this body meets weekly, considering official resolutions and ordinances that set forth the basic policies of the city government. The Tuesday evening meetings in the Commission Chamber of the City Hall are open to the public.

In 1961 the City Commission held 51 meetings, adopting 17 ordinances.

In a year of "doing" there was also a great deal of "planning" for the future. Plans developed in 1961 included the General Development Plan, the CBD Plan and the Overall Economic Development Program.

A dynamic, growing Pontiac having blown out the candles celebrating its first 100 years, is planning ahead for its second century.

Highlights of 1961

City Manager W. K. Willman retired in December.

New 1,000 gallon pumper on GMC chassis for Fire Department ready for Fall delivery.

Installation of Emergency Power Generator in City Hall to provide power for emergency Civil Defense operations.

Marking and stocking of Public Fallout Shelters in cooperation with the Federal Government.

City Attorney William A. Ewart supervises the work of the Legal Department.

City Attorney

Three important cases were concluded in favor of the city by the Legal Department including testing of the validity of the City's Charter Amendment removing the Chief of Police from the jurisdiction of the Trial Board and giving authority to the City Manager to remove the Chief from office.

A second important case involved the City's Parking Lot program. Private parking lot interests claimed that tax payers of the City were subsidizing the maintenance and operation of the Municipal Parking Lots. The Michigan Supreme Court sustained a decree in favor of the city recognizing the efforts of the City Commission to provide better parking lots for the central business district.

The third major case was Charles Eilender vs. the City of Pontiac. A Circuit Court jury returned a verdict of no cause for action, giving the city the decision in this case. The suit involved the recovery of special assessments for widening Perry Street.

In addition, the City Attorney's Office worked on the acquisition of land for Parking Lots, the Hospital, the Airport and the new Sewage Disposal Plant; prepared cases for the Police Trial Board and prepared ordinances for the City Commission to consider. Seventeen of these were adopted.

City Clerk Olga Barkeley examines voter registration file.

City Clerk

The City Clerk is custodian of all official city records. She supervises all regular and special elections and in this capacity, her office registers all voters. (Total number of registered voters, 36,634). This was a busy year election-wise with the Biennial Spring Election and the Primary and General Elections for Constitutional Convention Delegates.

In addition to keeping all the records on activities of the City Commission, the City Clerk's office records all contracts, agreements, deeds and city ordinances. Of the 17 ordinances recorded in 1961, 11 had to do with rezoning.

A major activity is issuing licenses and collecting fees. In 1961 this office handled 4,981 deeds and licenses, collecting fees totaling $39,065.58. The City Clerk also serves as secretary to the Firemen's Civil Service Commission.

Court Clerk Martin J. Keller, Judge Cecil McCallum and Judge Maurice E. Finnegan expedite the affairs of the Municipal Court.

Municipal Court

Showing one of the heaviest Civil case loads in Michigan, Municipal Court processed 41,156 cases in 1961. Revenue totaling $188,512.70 included $110,482.30 from Traffic Violations. A total of $266,611.09 was paid to creditors through the Personal Receivership Function of the court—a debtor-receiver arrangement designed to avoid debtor bankruptcy.

Two full-time judges preside. Pontiac's Charter provides that these judges are elected to office at the regular municipal election. Their term of office is for six years. This court has jurisdiction in all civil actions where damages do not exceed $100. Court fees are determined by City ordinance or resolution of the City Commission. All provisions of the general laws of the State of Michigan prevail.

City Assessor Edward C. Bloe checks tax rolls for Jury List.

City Assessor

Taxes on the assessed value of Pontiac's real property worth $146,647,750, and personal property valued at $143,545,600 provide the main source of income to operate our city. They furnish many vital services and improvements. Pontiac's heavy concentration of business and industry provides the giant share of real and personal property taxes collected.

When Pontiac's tax rate was increased 33 cents (the first increase in 11 years) to $13.60 per $1,000 valuation, the City Assessor's office showed that only 22% of the city's total tax burden is carried by the residential establishment. The $290,193,350 tax base includes 2,000 commercial and industrial properties paying Personal Tax amounting to 49.46% of the total value of the assessment rolls.

Each year the City Assessor's office field checks and appraises each of the 35,000 pieces of real estate in the City of Pontiac as well as the 2,000 commercial and industrial properties. In 1961, 5,000 deeds were collected from the Register of Deeds and filed by this office. 1,216 building permits were transferred to field cards and sketches were made of all new dwellings. Property splits numbering 471 were made by this office and transferred to field cards.

The 5-man Board of Review was in session from March 7 until March 31 in 1961 and took action on nearly 600 appeals.

Engineer

Public improvements totaling $4,638,393 were in progress or completed in 1961. Of this total, $820,343 were neighborhood improvements. Concrete paving and bituminous recap, combined sewers, storm sewers and sanitary sewers, curbs, gutters and drainage were projects carried out all over the city. More than five miles of streets were surfaced with asphalt on gravel; sidewalks were built and repaired. In addition, this department was involved in park and airport improvements and bridge repair. Urban renewal—development and administration of demolition contracts and design for required improvements—received considerable attention this year from the Engineering Department.

City Engineer James N. Carlisle supervises the work necessary to meet the city's street, sewer and sidewalk needs.

Sewage Treatment

Pontiac, like other growing communities, faces the problem of providing adequate sewage treatment facilities to an expanding community. In 1961, more than 4000 feet of pipe was laid linking the existing East Boulevard plant to the new sewage treatment plant site at Opdyke and Auburn Roads. The connecting sewer is part of the $3.2-million sewage treatment program which includes building a new plant and improving the present facility. The addition of this 5.5-million gallon treatment capacity is estimated to be adequate for 25 years at Pontiac's normal rate of growth.

Industrial waste sampling and testing is a major department operation. Treatment plant operations amounted to $206,272.60 in 1961. This averaged out to $2.58 per capita—or $44.70 per million gallons treated.

The new connecting sewer in Pontiac's Sewage Treatment Program is the first step in a $3-million facility expansion.

Hospital

Pontiac General Hospital expanded its facilities and service to the community in 1961. A 23-bed Mental Health Unit—first of its kind in Oakland County—was inaugurated, pioneering in preventive treatment. An Occupational Therapy Unit and an Obstetrical Post-Anaethesia Recovery Room were new services completed this year. The hospital added the Kenny Physical Therapy Unit with facilities unique in Michigan and Cobalt 60 radiation therapy. For the third successive year the 381 bed hospital has operated with income and expenses approximately even.

Hydrotherapy treatment in a Hubbard tank is one of the added features of the Kenny Physical Therapy Unit at Pontiac General Hospital.

Libraries

A total of 299,942 books, records and pictures circulated in 1961 in Pontiac's library system. The new Main Library, dedicated during Centennial Week accounted for 157,561 of these; 39,986 were circulated from the Bookmobile; Adah Shelly Branch accounted for 38,902; the North Oakland County Cooperative (serving six township libraries) circulated 38,461; school branch stations accounted for 18,740 and the East Side Branch circulated 6,292.

The library's collection includes 72,048 books, 689 records and 49 framed prints. Print rental was a new service instituted in 1961. Pictures ranging from Peruvian prints, primitives and impressionists through still-lifes to Rembrandts may be rented for four weeks by card-holders for a modest $1.50.

Pontiac libraries serve 35,973 card-holders.

Prints ranging from Rembrandt to Rivera may be rented by Pontiac Library card-holders.

Water Supply

Constant service and maintenance by the Department of Water Supply of wells and pumping equipment is required to supply the 3,530,939,000 gallons of water pumped for city use in 1961. The installation of new water mains, service calls and the flushing of hydrants were routine activities of this department.

Hydrant flushing to remedy "red" water will no longer be necessary when Pontiac ties in with Detroit water supply.

Parking lot construction is just one area of activity for the city's largest department.

Prompt and regular schedules of waste collection are maintained.

Department of Public Works

Vital maintenance and operating services are rendered the city by the Department of Public Works. Construction projects as well as "housekeeping" duties engaged this department to which sixteen cents of every tax dollar was allocated in 1961.

Construction projects included 3 paved parking lots for public use and two gravelled lots for city employees. Pontiac now has provided more off-street metered parking facilities than any other Michigan city except Dearborn, a significant part of its downtown development program.

In a city of bridges—maintenance and repair is constant. The Public Works Department has been replacing many of the existing guardrails with aluminum rails which require less maintenance.

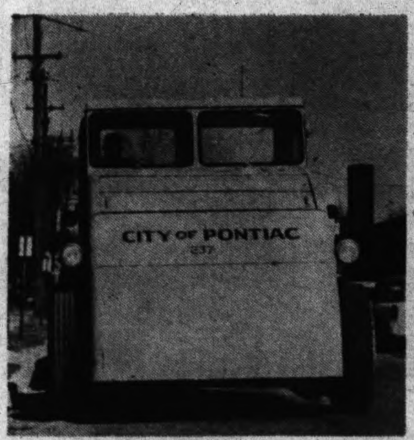
Street maintenance is a calendar-round process. In 1961, 2,250 tons of salt were required for snow control, while graders and trucks chalked up 155 hours in actual snow plowing and removal. At other seasons a regular schedule of street sweeping is maintained. Curbs and gutters are repaired and constructed. A total of 4.01 miles of roadway was constructed in 1961.

This department found itself in the demolition business in 1961, too. The demolition of buildings on property destined to become parking lots and the demolition of six homes by force account for the Urban Renewal Department kept crews busy.

All gravel roads in the City of Pontiac were graded and floated 10 to 12 times during 1961.

One of the most important of this department's duties is the collection of garbage and rubbish, a service too often taken for granted. Waste collection and disposal costs amount to almost a third of the department's total expenditures. In 1961 this amounted to $301,700 roughly $3.64 per capita. Included in this figure is the cost of maintaining a dump and operating the city's program of sanitary landfill.

Charged with keeping our city clean and attractive! the Public Works Department functions in some areas around the clock and in most areas, around the calendar.



A regular program of street sweeping is city-wide.

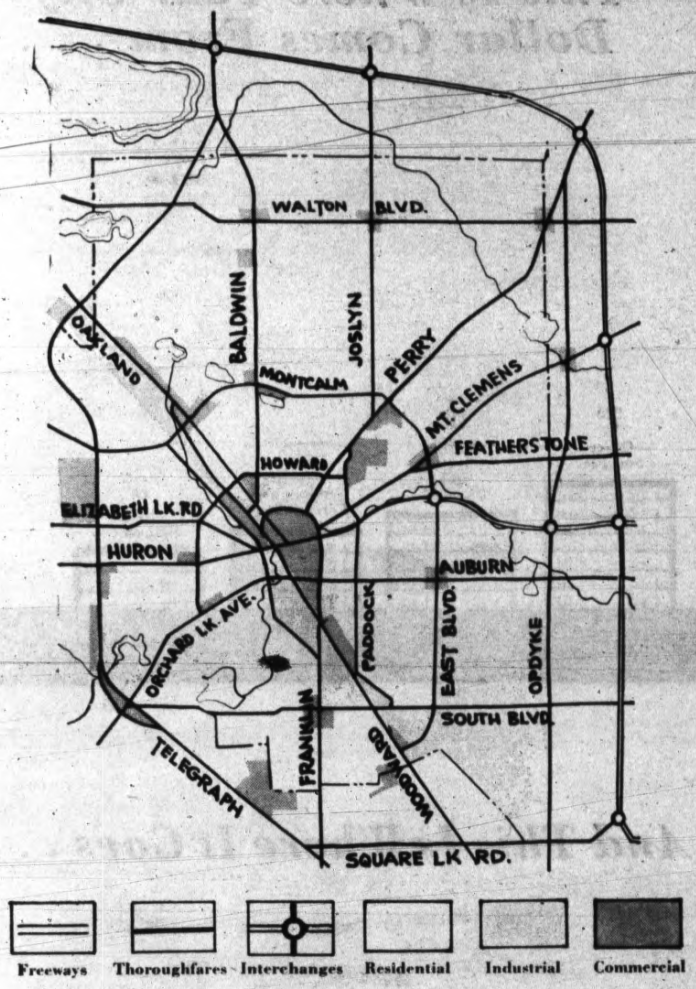
PONTIAC ADOPTS A MASTER PLAN



Planning for a Growing City

In December 1961 Pontiac's City Commission approved a master plan — a guide to future planning and development of the city. Called "the best and most comprehensive Pontiac has ever had" by civic leaders, the General Development Plan spells out the recommended pattern for land use, schools, parks, public facilities and services and traffic circulation. The plan gathers together and states in an orderly and inter-related fashion the ideas and adopted public policies that can make Pontiac a better place in which to invest, live and work. These are not only the ideas of the planners but of all the citizens of Pontiac as expressed through public hearings, zoning requests and other citizen contacts with the planning apparatus. The plan through publication and public review will gain the understanding and acquaintance of an ever-larger number of citizens.

Traffic Circulation

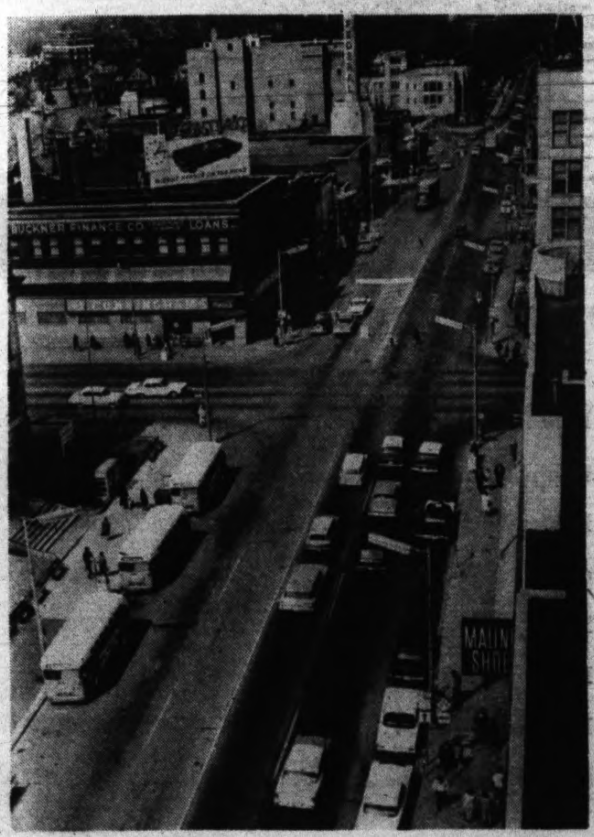
The city must have a well-balanced traffic circulation system. It considers railroads, air transportation, pedestrian traffic and street traffic.

Though total reliance upon railroads is decreasing, additional development and densities in the Pontiac area will make passenger travel more feasible, especially in regards to commuter travel to and from Detroit.

The city has engaged in a comprehensive program of airport expansion. Improvements include the new tower and terminal facilities, additional entrances and service roads as well as additional parking facilities, runways and taxiways.

Adjustments have been made to the "Highway Transportation Plan" adopted in 1958. A freeway has been proposed as part of the Interstate System, by-passing Pontiac on the east and north. Five access opportunities are planned for the city—three of these will link the perimeter road with the freeway. An extension of M-59 will provide a limited access major thoroughfare that can be developed into a parkway.

The basic system will facilitate four types of movement: thoroughfare flow to and from the Central Business District, a perimeter road on the periphery of the Central Business District, crosstown movement of traffic and the movement of local traffic to protect residential areas from heavy traffic while allowing convenient access.



Plans for commercial development center around the Downtown Business District

Land Use

Land use provisions in the plan provide for residential, industrial and commercial areas.

Residential land use is not expected to change greatly. Goals in the General Development Plan are three-fold: providing housing opportunities for all of Pontiac's residents of various ages and incomes, developing residential areas with stable property values—free of blight and conflicting land use and providing sufficient neighborhood facilities (elementary schools, parks, shops and access) for each family

Pontiac's economy is geared to industry. Through land use controls, the city can offer tailor-made industrial packages for warehousing and other light industries. Industrial diversification will be encouraged. The plan calls for industrial environment that will benefit existing industries. Light and heavy industry will be separated and adequate buffers are planned between industry and other land uses.

Commercial land use plans recognize the importance of the Central Business District. Redevelopment plans for this area include a more efficient traffic pattern, sufficient parking facilities and more concentrated businesses for customer convenience. Comparison shopping centers that exist or are in the process of construction are considered fixed for the future. Each can serve on a sub-community level while the central business district continues to operate as Pontiac's regional center.

Local shopping districts in outlying areas are also included in the plan, reflecting in many instances, neighborhood shopping centers already in existence.

Urban Renewal and Planning

Urban renewal in Pontiac's first project, Michigan R-20 continued through 1961. The plan, initiated in August 1960 is financed jointly by federal and city funds. In this project, the city provides one-third of the cost and the federal government absorbs two-thirds of the cost. During the year, property acquisition was a major activity along with the relocation of owners and tenants. By the end of the year 216 properties were optioned at a gross cost of $2,394,580. The cleared land will be redeveloped in keeping with the city's General Development Plan.

At year's end, 35% of the houses scheduled for removal had been demolished. Thirty-six businesses and 116 families had been relocated.

Private funds amounting to $200,000 had been invested in rehabilitating homes by the end of the year. Twenty-five of these projects were completed and 277 had received initial inspection.

The replacement of sidewalks in the urban renewal area as part of the city's share of project costs amounted to 35,740 sq. ft. costing $18,728.99.

Fifteen rezoning requests were received and acted upon and 7 street or alley vacations were handled by the planning commission.

Major studies undertaken by the planning staff included the Perimeter Road, Urban Renewal Project Michigan R-44, completion of the General Development Plan, the Central Business District Study, initial studies on revision of zoning ordinances, completion of the State Highway Trunkline System study and studies for subdivision ordinance.

Planned housing and play areas such as these at Lakeside Homes serve citizens' needs in a growing metropolitan Pontiac.

Areas of blight such as this . . .

. . . yield to demolition crews as Project R-20 gets under way.

Housing

Lakeside Homes, Pontiac's 400 family housing development, is also a Federal Project. In lieu of taxes and based on current income, the Housing Commission at the end of its fiscal year this March will have paid $1800 to the City, County and Board of Education. This brings total tax payments over a 9 year period to $134,450.

Turnover at Lakeside shows 18.75% move-outs. Transfers within the project numbered 6.5%—representing changes to different sized units.

Improvements included black topping the areas between sidewalks and curbs on one side of all streets at a cost of $9,795 and the installation on certain boundary lines of six foot chain link fencing at a cost of $4,045.

New meter-motor scooters are additions to this department.

Police Department

Intensified enforcement efforts by the Police Department brought about a reduction in serious crime as well as traffic accidents in 1961. The number of serious crimes was reduced from 3,350 in 1960 to 3,303 in 1961, a total of 1.3%. Accidents were reduced 9% from 2,878 in 1960 to 2,605 in 1961.

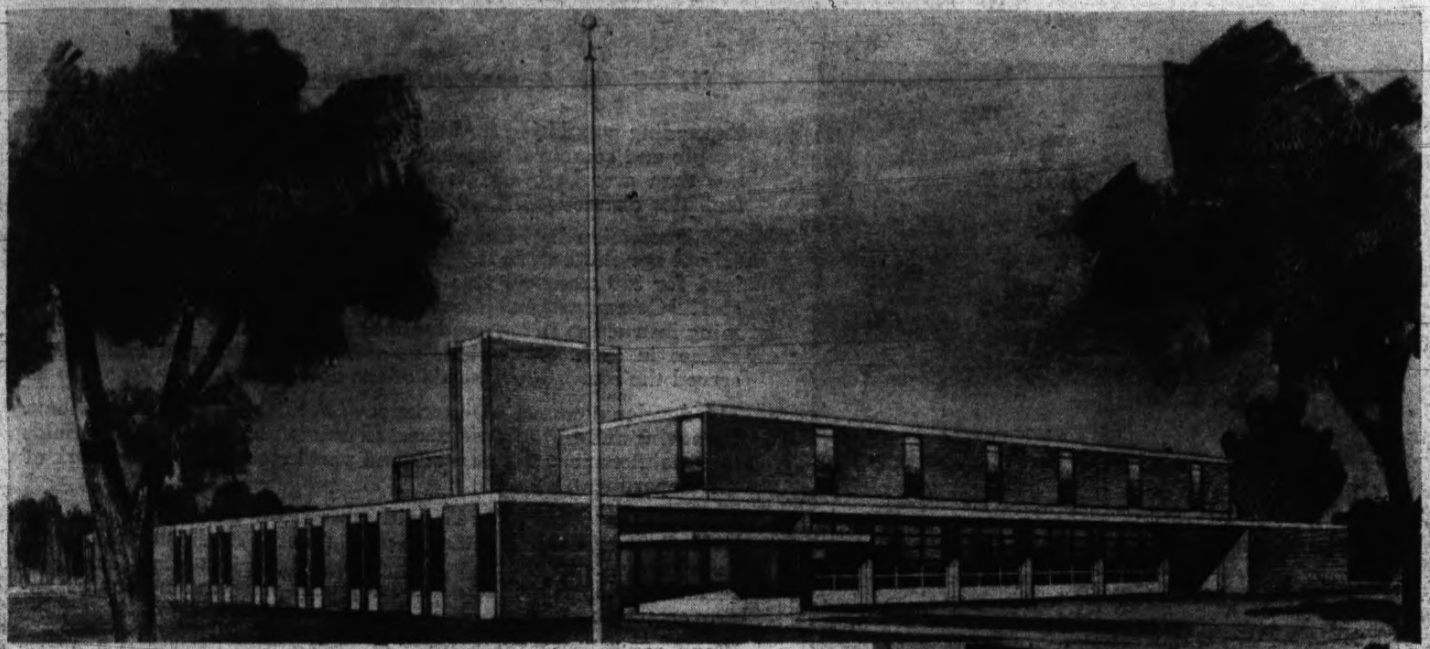
Clearance of serious offenses was increased from 27% in 1960 to 30% in 1961. This is slightly above the national average.

Toward the end of the year, an auxiliary police force of 32 men was recruited and trained. This force augments the 107 men in the regular department. The auxiliary force assisted in handling crowds at football and basketball games and assisted with heavy holiday traffic. The volunteer auxiliary is an essential part of the city's Civil Defense Plan.

Juvenile Protection

A new full-time city program was inaugurated in August when Pontiac's Juvenile Protection Service moved from an experimental program to its present dimension in deterring and curbing juvenile delinquency. The service represents an integrated approach in handling the problem of the pre-delinquent and the first offender. The primary purpose of the program is to enlist, coordinate and unite all available community resources to help combat pre-delinquent and delinquent problems.

Representatives from community agencies work with the Juvenile Protection Bureau.



From dream to reality . . . Pontiac's pay-as-you-go new Central Fire Hall moves from the artist's conception on the drafting board (above) to the skeletal framework it presented in July 1961 (inset) to what it is today (cover).

Fire Department

Pontiac's new Central Fire Station was 80% complete at the end of 1961 following cornerstone ceremonies during the city's Centennial Celebration. Adoption of a new emergency calling system will bring added safety to the people of Pontiac. Bright red emergency call boxes in handy locations will assure prompt municipal assistance in such emergencies as fire, traffic accidents, broken water mains, gas leaks and other situations requiring fast help from Pontiac's municipal agencies. Simple to operate, the phone-type instrument connects instantly with a specially-trained dispatcher at the new Central Fire Station.

A new radio frequency was assigned Pontiac's Fire Department in 1961. Better radio communication is expected since the old frequency was utilized by so many neighboring townships and cities. Fire loss was down in 1961 from $637,327.50 to $324,565— a total of $312,762.50. There were 1981 alarms answered. The Fire Prevention Bureau made 2990 inspections.

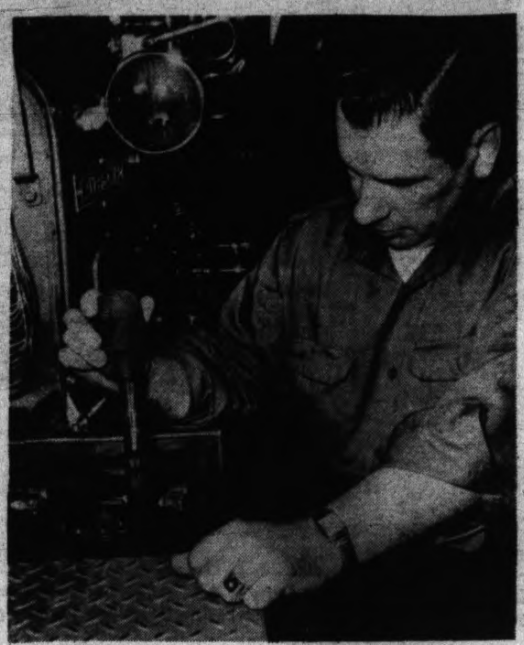
The two largest fires occured at the West Side Recreation and the Boys' Club.

In November the department added a new rescue truck to its equipment. Designed to carry four patients, the truck also carries power and hand tools for emergency use.

A five month Target Hazard Inspection program was again executed with company inspection of bulk oil stations, lumber yards, schools, institutions and other likely sites of fire hazard.

Thirty-two men took a cooperative course at MSUO in Supervisory Methods of Municipal Administration. In-service training was continued with a training officer scheduled weekly at each station.

A Fire Prevention Parade and Field Day was held in conjunction with Fire Prevention Week.



Maintenance of the city's fire equipment is an important task of Pontiac's fire fighters. All fire trucks are checked three times weekly. This battery will not fail at a vital moment.

Grass fires number one-fourth of the total fires Pontiac firemen contend with.

Fire Chief James R. White demonstrates the ease with which the city's new emergency reporting system operates.

Recreational needs for a city with expanding leisure time are provided by Parks and Recreation Department Programs.

Parks and Recreation

Expanding population and the growth of leisure time finds more people and community agencies using the city's recreational facilities than ever before. The support and development of these facilities claimed $518,879.30 of tax income in 1961.

The Recreation Division has met the needs of the 41% increase in school age children in the past decade. Programs have been organized for 320 teams in five major sports. Thirty-three playgrounds and 29 Community Centers are operated. A 7-week Day Camp, swimming instruction in area and school pools, summer teen dances and classes in such sports skills as archery, fencing and tennis have served the recreational needs of the community.

The development and maintenance of Pontiac's 12 parks is constant. Removing undesirable and diseased trees, construction of playfields and maintenance of park roads and parking facilities is the work of this department.

Area golfers played 49,785 paid rounds on Pontiac's Municipal Golf Course, breaking the 15-year record established in 1960. Improvements in drainage, tee enlargement, installing fence and reclaiming land for future development were among course improvements in 1961.

Weed control and the control of Dutch Elm disease is a never-ending function of the Forestry Division. In 1961 this division trimmed 3,000 street trees, removed 300 trees and planted 5,000 pine seedlings at the city's 110 acre Crooks Road Farm.

The Forestry Division removes diseased and unsightly trees to keep Pontiac "a city of green."

Public Health

The Department of Public Health coordinates and cooperates with all community agencies interested in the health field. It provides the services necessary for the protection and promotion of health on a community-wide scale. Activities of this department include communicable disease control, tuberculosis control, venereal disease control, Public Health nursing, supervision of the city's general sanitary conditions and Public Health education. In fulfilling these obligations, the department operates immunization clinics, X-ray and skin testing programs, school and family health service and maternal and child health services.

Other program areas conducted are diabetic classes, food-handler classes, expectant parent instruction, and Alcoholism Information Center and various information and referral services.

Charged with the enforcement of laws, ordinances and regulations necessary for the preservation of the public health, this department also collects and tabulates data on births and deaths for the city.

Pontiac's Public Health nurses made 5,891 home and school visits in 1961.

Purchasing

Supplies and equipment purchased for city needs in 1961 ranged from automotive equipment through uniforms, road salt to furniture. Stationery supplies alone amounted to $14,409.98. The postage bill for the City of Pontiac amounted to $8,997.54 according to metered figures.

Specifications were prepared and bids received for the purchase of furniture for the new Central Fire Station for automotive equipment and for many other items.

(Right) Purchase orders for every city department's needs pass through the Purchasing Department.

Airport

An increase in sales and air traffic movements at Pontiac's Municipal Airport in 1961 paralleled the expansion of the airport's facilities and services.

The control tower using Federal Aviation Agency remote-control radios, antennas and electronic equipment was put into operation. The Federal Aviation Agency provided the funds for these, including personnel. The City provided 2.58 acres of land and advisory radio equipment operated by City Airport employees. This equipment includes four mobile units installed in maintenance vehicles, giving these units direct contact with the control tower to receive permission to proceed to landing areas for maintenance and safety checks.

The East Terminal Entrance Road from M-59 to the parking lot was paved and mercury vapor lights installed.

Flight operations numbered 118,484 in 1961, an increase of 11,226. Transient aircraft numbering 22,377 registered at the airport in 1961, an increase of 12,935 over the previous year. An increase of 2,436 gallons of aviation gasoline was sold over 1960. Total gasoline sales in 1961 were 367,377 gallons. Aircraft based at the airport in 1961 was up 184. Eighty-five per cent of these aircraft are business or corporation owned and operated.

Municipal Cemeteries

In addition to a continuous program of maintenance and development, the staff at Pontiac's Municipal Cemeteries conducted grave-side or chapel services for 276 interments, made excavations and poured concrete footings for 145 new monuments and markers and sold 205 various sized family plots.

At Oak Hill Cemetery five manhole catch basins were constructed and connected to the drainage system to solve surface drainage problems in the new area drives. The improvement program was continued with realignment of memorials in the old areas, removal of tree stumps, and the rebuilding of stone retaining wall areas.

At Ottawa Park, the new entrance was landscaped and a new drive was installed. The first step in a water supply station was completed.

Revenues from all sources totaled $57,520.73.

City employees work throughout the year to maintain and beautify Pontiac's two municipal cemeteries.

Retirement Recognition Dinner

Long service employees of the city were honored at the City Employees Retirement and Service Award Dinner on December 4th at the Elks Temple. A crowd of 700 which included husbands, wives, guests and city commissioners extended good wishes to 230 long service employees, 57 graduates of Michigan State University Oakland courses and 28 retirees.

The 1960 and 1961 retirees totaled 646 years, 5 months of service to the city. Topping the list was former City Clerk, Ada Evans with 42 years, 2 months service before retiring in May. Retiring City Manager Walter K. Willman was toastmaster as well as guest of honor.

Service awards were presented to employees with from 10 to 42 years service to Pontiac. At the top, with 42 years service was Paul L. Hoskins, superintendent of the water collection department.

Employees winning long service awards accounted for 4,235 years service to the city.

Citizens' Service Bureau

All requests for service and complaints involving municipal departments are handled through a single desk in Pontiac called the Citizens' Service Bureau. A simple telephone call to a single department assures prompt handling of a problem. Requests and complaints are channeled quickly and courteously to the proper source. In 1961 Citizens' Service Bureau handled 8,050 calls. Of these, 1,759 involved refuse and were referred to the Waste Collection Department. These requests were down 292 from 1960. There were 3,323 requests to turn water on or off compared to 2,661 in 1960. Water complaints dropped from 1,104 in 1960 to 1,074 in 1961.

Residents are urged to call Citizens' Service Bureau directly at City Hall rather than the individual department.

Personnel Manager Harold E. Marshall checks the handling of requests and complaints at the Citizens' Service Bureau desk.

Personnel

The City of Pontiac employed 740 in 1961 compared to 723 in 1960. Labor turnover averaged .82%.

Twenty-five examinations were given, nine of them promotionals, with thirty-four appointed from eligible lists. Appointed were two in each of these classifications: clerk-stenographer II, clerk-typist I, library aide and police patrolman. One in each of these categories was appointed: account clerk II, clerical aide, clerk I, clerk-stenographer I, clerk-typist II, dog warden, deputy city treasurer, fire assistant chief, fire captain, fire lieutenant, laboratory assistant II, librarian II, library aide II, meter reader, parts clerk, police sergeant and radio technician aide.

The third annual Christmas party for employees' children was given in December at Pontiac Central High School Auditorium.

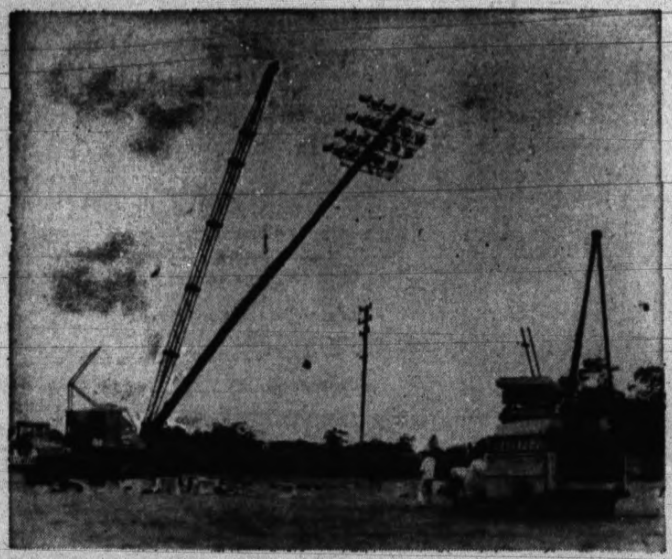
Electrical Department

When the Electrical Department made plans, estimates and installed a complete lighting job at Jaycee Park in May their efforts resulted in Pontiac's first lighted baseball diamond. The lighting consists of 240 floodlights in groups of 24, mounted on 10 field poles, each 90 feet high.

This department installed 132 new parking meters in three new city lots in addition to regular maintenance of all street and parking lot meters.

Traffic and pedestrian signals were installed at seven intersections in the city. In addition signals along four main traffic arteries were painted and reconditioned.

Electrical permits issued totaled 1724. Work was begun on an interconnecting master traffic signal control in the new Fire Hall and on the conversion of city-owned fire alarm equipment to Michigan Bell equipment.



Electrical Department crews installed 24 of these batteries of floodlights at Jaycee Field, giving Pontiac its first lighted baseball field.

ALFRED G. WILSON

MSUO Donor Dies in Arizona

Alfred G. Wilson, 79, Dead; He, Wife Gave Estate for College Site

A man who helped make Michigan State University Oakland possible, Alfred G. Wilson died at his winter residence in Scottsdale, Ariz. last night. He was 79, and had been in failing health for three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson donated their 1400 acre estate, Meadow Brook, and $2 million in January 1957 to create the university.

Wilson had suffered a heart attack three weeks ago while spending the winter in Phoenix with Mrs. Wilson although hospitalized his condition had improved, and Mrs. Wilson had returned here to prepare for his arrival May 1 when he died.

She returned immediately to Phoenix.

Since the gift to the University, the Wilsons had not lived in the Tudor mansion Meadow Brook, which was completed in 1929 at a cost of $3 million. Meadow Brook and its countless antiques and art treasures had been open to the public for several University functions, but the Wilsons preferred to live in a small home near the campus.

A wealthy Detroit lumber executive active in community affairs, Wilson married Mrs. (Matilda) Dodge, widow of auto industrialist John Dodge 37 years ago this June.

★ ★ ★

Wilson showed a life-long interest in young people. A graduate of Beloit College in Wisconsin, he served on the board of trustees of that college for many years.

ACTIVE IN BOYS CLUB

He was also active in the Boys Club of America, serving on the national board, and also participating on the local level in Pontiac and Auburn Heights.

★ ★ ★

During World War II he was county chairman of the national war fund campaign, which raised funds for agencies engaged in war relief work.

News of his death spread quickly to the few students attending classes today on the campus he helped create.

Chancellor D. B. Varner said: "Mr. Wilson's death is a great shock and loss to me personally, and to all of us involved in development of Michigan State University Oakland. Students and faculty alike have acquired a keen sense of attachment, of affection and respect for him.

★ ★ ★

"One of his continual interests has been the development of the finest qualities of young men and women — through his work with MSUO, the Boys Clubs, Beloit College, and many other activities.

"His own life personified these very qualities. We shall miss him and we join Mrs. Wilson and the family in their sorrow."

★ ★ ★

SON OF MINISTER

Born in Lawrenceburg, Ind., he was the son of Rev. and Mrs. Samuel N. Wilson, a Presbyterian minister. He was graduated from Beloit in 1906.

With his brother Donald, he built a multimillion-dollar lumber business, primarily in Florida. They disbanded their business operations in 1942, and Donald subsequently died.

Surviving besides Mrs. Wilson are three children; Richard S. Wilson of 482 Henley St. and Mrs. Thomas S. Eccles, of 1409 Highmoor Way, both of Bloomfield Township, and Mrs. Wilson's daughter, Mrs. Frederick L. Van Lennep, of Lexington, Ky.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Wilson was a member of Bloomfield Hills Country Club, the Detroit Club, and Paradise Valley Country Club, near Scottsdale. He was a member of the board of di-

Russ Cosmos II Sends Back Data

Relays Information to Help in Soviet-Manned Flight to Moon

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union's second sputnik launched in three weeks rode an elliptical orbit through space today, sending back data that could be helpful for a manned flight to the moon.

The new satellite — named Cosmos II — was launched last night. Its weight was not announced, but the Soviet news agency Tass said its purpose — like that of Cosmos I, launched March 16 — was to gather data on cosmic ray radiation and other dangers man might encounter in space.

Moscow radio said the satellite is functioning normally.

Last night's announcement said the sputnik also was part of a program to study the construction of space vehicles. This led Western observers here to speculate that the satellite was launched as part of the research necessary before a manned flight to the moon or the planets can be attempted.

(This theory was supported by Helis Kaminski, director of West Germany's bochum observatory. Kaminski, who said he heard the satellite's signals "loud and clear," said the sputnik was prelude to the launching of a manned spaceship that could circle the earth for days.)

The sputnik's wide-swinging oval orbit took it 989 miles out from earth at its farthest point and brought it to within 132 miles of the earth at its nearest point.

Captain Phones Wife; Reports Group Cleared

Says Treasure Hunters Have Been Given Red Carpet Treatment

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Seven American treasure hunters under arrest in Cuba expect to leave there tomorrow, the captain of the expedition telephoned his wife today. "The Cuban government has cleared us," Gordon S. Patton reported. Mrs. Patton said her husband also told her: "We have been getting the red carpet treatment. We expect to leave by plane, possibly tomorrow.

Patton, skipper of the treasure hunt vessel Pisces, said "we are now awaiting clearance from the Swiss Embassy. If we don't leave tomorrow, we will leave Monday."

The Swiss embassy is handling American matters in Cuba since the United States and Cuba do not have diplomatic relations.

Mrs. Patton received the call at their home in nearby Pompano Beach, Fla.

"We have been treated as real guests," she quoted her husband as saying.

Mrs. Patton said her husband told her his boat had been sunk, but did not explain how it happened. She said he told her to notify his insurance company.

"I didn't want him to talk too much," she said.

"I did ask him when I could meet him at Miami International Airport, and he said, 'I don't know yet. I'll let you know. It may be tomorrow or Monday.'"

★ ★ ★

Earlier, the State Department said in Washington that it was working through the Swiss government to obtain release of the seven skin divers.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Friday night he anticipated no difficulty in gaining freedom for the men, believed to be the same ones for whom the U. S. Coast Guard has been searching.

The seven men were identified in Miami as: Patton, 62, Ocean City, Md., charter boat and maritime museum operator; Fred Dickson Jr., 32, formerly of Ocean City, Md., assistant cruise director; Mike Freeman, 37, Washington, D. C., underwater photographer; John Sterry, 28, Brewster, N. Y.; John E. Johnson, 21, and Joe Campbell, 20, Washington, D. C., and Bernie Nistad, Brooklyn, N. Y.

VICTORY TEAM — Mobil gas run driver Mickey Thompson (left) here inspects sealed engine of Pontiac Star Chief which his wife, Judy, drove to mileage win in Mobil Economy Run. At right is John DeLorean, chief engineer for Pontiac Motor Division, who congratulated the two winners. Thompson also was a first-place winner in a Pontiac Tempest.

Driving Duo Divulges Secrets of Success

It takes teamwork, a steady foot and a good body wiggle to win a Mobil Economy Run, a California husband-wife combination said yesterday after driving a Pontiac Star Chief and a Tempest to mileage victories.

The teamwork is between driver and the codriver who acts as navigator.

The steady foot is to keep the gas pedal motionless across even dumpiest roads.

The wiggle is to keep the body from falling asleep even if the foot does.

That's partly how Mickey and Judith Thompson of Rolling Hills, Calif., coaxed their cars over sticks and stones, country roads and freeways in the grueling 2,409.3-mile run from Los Angeles to Detroit which ended Thursday.

A four-cylinder Tempest driven by Mickey, 33, not only beat out six competitors in this large-engine-compact class but also had mileage superior to all three entrants in the small-engine-compact class.

Thompson's mileage in the six-day Los Angeles to Detroit run: 27.30 miles per gallon. Next highest was Rambler-American with 27.09. Thompson was assisted by navigator-codriver Bob Newill, 36, of 2276 Woodbine Drive, Waterford Township, who is project engineer at Pontiac Motor Division.

News Flash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy is reported to be seriously considering invoking the Taft-Hartley Law to end the three-week West Coast dockers strike. Reliable sources said the action may come later today.

Steps Up Pace

Con-Con OKs 3 Issues

LANSING (UPI) — Constitutional convention delegates, stepping up their pace momentarily, whipped through a rapid-fire series of votes yesterday on several important issues.

When the balloting was over, the convention had decided tentatively to:

—Create a bipartisan civil rights commission to investigate cases of alleged discrimination because of race, religion, color or national origin.

—Convert the present elective offices of highway commissioner, auditor general, state treasurer and superintendent of public instruction to appointive status.

—Keep the minimum voting age in Michigan at 21, years, rather than reducing it to 19.

The action came less than 24 hours after the adoption of a plan for reapportionment of the state legislature.

During debate, John Martin, R-Grand Rapids, the presiding chairman, told the convention that it had set some kind of record in introducing a total of 74 amendments to one executive branch proposal. Most of them were rejected.

ANOTHER RECORD

Another record was believed chalked up in debate on the proposal to lower the voting age, with 31 speakers taking part.

There was action off the floor, too.

George Romney, R-Bloomfield Hills, probable Republican candidate for governor, exchanged heated words in a corridor argument with William Marshall, D-Taylor, vice president of the Michigan state AFL-CIO.

The flareup came over introduction of an amendment calling for appointment by the governor of the complete administrative board, without the advise and consent of the Senate.

Romney accused Marshall of seeking to embarrass him politically by forcing a record roll call vote on the appointment question.

In preconvention statements, Romney had supported the idea of having the adboard — known as the governor's "cabinet" — completely appointive.

★ ★ ★

Under the terms of a compromise package agreement reached with leaders of the conservative-rural GOP bloc, however, Romney settled for a combination of elective and appointive posts. Still to be elected were the secretary of state and the attorney general.

CHARGE SELLOUT

Democrats charged a "selloff." Romney told newsmen that Marshall and others were responsible for blocking passage originally of a plan to make all the ad board offices appointive.

"After opposing and defeating the appointment of some of these officials and fighting for the election of all of them," he said, "These amendments were then offered for the apparent purpose of creating the appearance that those of us who originally favored the appointment of all of these officials were now opposed to this action."

Declaring that he did not want to get into a name-calling contest with Romney, Marshall said he could accuse the GOP leader of being politically motivated in his voting in view of his preconvention statements and later compromise.

Wheel Picks 2 Beauties to Rule Festival

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two pretty young girls have learned, as any gambler knows, that the wheel of fortune has some strange habits.

This time it turned up two winners, so Miss Rhode Island and Miss Colorado reign jointly today as queen of Washington's 50th annual Cherry Blossom Festival.

Japanese Ambassador Koichiro Asakai gave the big wheel of states a healthy spin Friday night to pick a winner. Round and round it went, and it finally stopped at the notch labeled Colorado.

Kathleen Knous, 19, stepped forward to be wrapped in the queen's robe and don a $100,000 pearl crown. The pink, pearl-bordered robe was already around her shoulders when, it seemed, Lady Luck got other ideas.

SLIPS BACKWARD

The wheel suddenly began to slip backward. A quick click and it was in the Rhode Island notch. "This wheel does funny things, ladies and gentlemen," said John A. Logan, chairman of the festival ball. Frances Elizabeth Pastore of Rhode Island was called forward to don the queenly regalia.

Miss Pastore, 19-year-old daughter of Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., was amazed. "I just can't believe it," she said. Soon she, too, was near tears.

"We realized this Colorado child was going to be terribly hurt," Logan said afterward. So the festival queen committee, headed by Logan and Perle Mesta, huddled to seek a way out. They talked about it for nearly an hour.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, along with many others among the 1,200 at the ball, was for coqueens. He called out the suggestion in the confusion that followed the wheel switch.

Miss Pastore was all for coqueens, too.

And coqueens it is, for the first time in festival history.

ARNIE IN ACTION — Arnold Palmer, shooting for a birdie, strokes a long putt on the 18th green in the second round of the Masters golf tournament in Augusta yesterday. Palmer whipped around when the putt missed but he dropped the next one for a par and a 66 for the round to take the lead at 136.

Skies Gray for 3rd Day of Masters

From Our News Wires

For the third straight day, overcast skies greeted players in the Masters Golf Tournament today.

★ ★ ★

The weather man predicted occasional rain during the morning, with slow clearing and mild temperatures during the afternoon. A high of 74 was expected.

Some rain has fallen during each of the first two rounds but not enough to handicap the players.

At the end of the second round yesterday Arnold Palmer, who can win 'em by coming from behind or running in front, led the field by two strokes and went out to prove that playing golf still is his primary business.

They've been saying that his game has been suffering because he has too many outside interests, but Palmer denied that when he came here, declaring that the only thing on his mind was the Masters and "I'm here solely to play golf, nothing else."

And play it he did yesterday when he shot a six under par 66 to overtake defending champion Gary Player and forge into the lead with a 36-hole total of 136, eight strokes under par for 36 holes over the testing 6,980-yard par 36-36—72 Masters course.

Hoffa Lectures to MSUO Class

Says Union Recovered 2,000 Driving Jobs Lost to Piggybacking

Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa yesterday was the first guest lecturer on competitive problems of railroads and truckers being studied by an economics class at Michigan State University, Oakland.

★ ★ ★

The railroads' views will be presented by a legal counsel for Grand Trunk Western Railroad next week to the class conducted by Associate Professor John E. Maher.

Hoffa said 4,000 Teamsters drivers had lost jobs after railroads "piggybacked" autos on flat cars on their tracks built directly to factories. He said the union countered by changing its method of pay and by keeping previously empty trucks loaded on return trips. A total of 2,000 jobs were recovered, he added.

The Teamster chief also described the current $5 pension fund contribution asked of piggyback, using truck lines as one originally accepted by employers to make up for contribution losses due to cuts in the number of employers. The pension plan is employer funded.

★ ★ ★

He predicted owners would agree to reopen negotiations on pension fund contributions before the National Labor Relations Board holds a meeting next week to determine why bargaining should not be reopened. Owners, he said, had refused new bargaining after five state legislatures declared the $5 agreement illegal.

Local Teamsters Testifying Before U.S. Grand Jury

DETROIT (AP)—Thirteen members of Detroit area Teamsters union locals testified before the U. S. grand jury here yesterday.

William Hoffa, a brother of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa; Leam Harrelson, president of Pontiac Local 614, and Floyd P. Harmon, secretary-treasurer of the Pontiac local, were among those testifying behind closed doors.

William Hoffa is a business agent of the Pontiac local.

The government recently obtained on court order the books and financial records of Teamster Locals 614 and 299, the latter James Hoffa's home local in Detroit.

Hunt Guerillas Inside Ecuador

State of Emergency Is Proclaimed by Army as Pro-Red Men Sought

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — The army clamped a state of emergency on north central Ecuador today and hunted Castro-armed, pro-Communist guerrillas rebelling against the government of President Julio Carlos Arosemena.

★ ★ ★

Army reinforcements were rushed into the jungle-covered Andean foothills less than 50 miles from this South American mountain capital. Press reports said at least one soldier was killed and several persons were wounded in clashes. The army announced it had captured 30 insurgents.

DETAILS HELD UP

Government officials refused to disclose details of the operation or comment on unconfirmed reports of similar uprisings in the Quevedo area of west central Ecuador.

The rebels were described as members of the pro-Castro Revolutionary Union of Ecuadorean Youth, some of whom had received military and guerrilla warfare training in Cuba. Informed sources said the insurgents were armed with Czech-made arms smuggled in from Cuba.

★ ★ ★

The uprising followed within 48 hours Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's public denunciation of Arosemena for breaking diplomatic relations with Havana. Castro also predicted that Arosemena would be overthrown.

UNDER PRESSURE

Arosemena reluctantly severed Ecuador's ties with Cuba, Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia last week under pressure of the military. Ecuador's armed forces chiefs also forced Arosemena to reshuffle his Cabinet to exclude leftists and to swing his policies to the right.

★ ★ ★

Defense Minister Francisco Tamariz said the leader of a pro-Castro faction, identified as Jorge Rivandeneira, was among the 30 insurgents seized with large stores of arms near Santo Domingo de los Colorados, 45 miles west of Quito.

Communist agitators have long been active in the hinterlands of Ecuador, a country of 4 million on the northwest coast of South America with severe economic and political problems.

Pre-JFK Setup for RS70 Is Blasted by McNamara

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert C. McNamara has said the preadministration program to build the controversial 2,000-m.p.h. RS70 bomber was "one of the worst-managed" he ever saw.

But the Air Force is confident that McNamara is overestimating the problems remaining to be solved in the construction of the hypersonic reconnaissance and missile-firing plane, once called the B70. Air experts contend that steady progress toward their solution has been made for several years.

Congressional testimony highlighting this sharp clash of views was released today, and posed a billion-dollar question: whether the money invested so far in the plane has been well spent.

Dr. Harold Brown, 34-year-old Defense Department director of research and engineering, gave McNamara's views of the management problem in an appearance before the House subcommittee on Defense Appropriations last March 20.

After testifying that a billion of the $1.3 billion appropriated for the plane so far has been spent, Brown said the program had been plagued with management problems.

ASKS ABOUT WASTE

"The secretary of defense, a much better management expert than I, said it was one of the worst-managed programs he ever saw until he reorlented it last March," Brown continued. Rep. Phil Weaver, R-Neb., asked whether there had been "considerable waste."

"I think there has been, yes," Brown replied. "I wouldn't say there has been any waste since the beginning of last year—at least there was not as much.

"What is left—$300 million—is well managed. There now is a single project officer at Wright Field who knows what is going on."

Brig. Gen. Fred J. Oscani has been the project officer at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, since mid-1961.

Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, chief of the Air Force systems command, and Brockway McMillan, Air Force assistant secretary for research, led the assault on McNamara's frequently expressed views.

Schriever referred obliquely to a statement by the Pentagon chief that radar for a plane traveling three times the speed of sound "may well lie beyond what can be done on the best basis of present scientific knowledge."

"When I was in the Pentagon in 1950 to 1954 and was head of the development planning, we initiated work in the reconnaissance strike area, which included side-looking radars, processors, etc.," Schriever said.

Second in Series . . . District Two

Harmon and Patton Hats in Ring

(Editor's Note — This is the second in a series of brief articles about candidates in the Pontiac municipal election April 16. Only the six districts in which there are contests will be presented.)

Only one prediction is being made about the outcome of the city's general election April 16, and only because it's a sure thing.

There will be a new face on the City Commission and it will come from District 2, where incumbent Mayor Philip E. Rowston is not running for re-election.

★ ★ ★

The District 2 candidates are Charles H. Harmon, 61, a local tax consultant and municipal adviser, and Curtis E. Patton, 50, a local insurance agent.

Harmon, of 336 W. Iroquois Road, is running for the first time. He came to Pontiac in 1926. He is a former Pontiac city assessor, deputy county treasurer and has been on the City Retirement Board of Trustees for seven years.

Harmon was also a member of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors for five years and on the county Tax Allocation Board six years. During World War II he served the RFC as an adviser and property manager of defense plants.

More recently he prepared the cost allocation formula on the 12-Town Drain Project for the county. A member of the Elks Lodge, Harmon is married and has one son.

★ ★ ★

Patton, of 314 S. Tilden St., is making his first bid for public office. Active in the Downtown Kiwanis Club, YMCA and Chamber of Commerce, he is married and has two daughters.

Patton has been a Republican Party precinct delegate since 1960. A native of Illinois, he is a graduate of Oxford High School and Michigan State University.

He holds a business administration degree, majoring in economics.

Patton has also been active in the Pontiac Area United Fund and is on the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra board of directors. He is a member of All Saints Episcopal Church.

★ ★ ★

Statements of candidates are below their pictures.

CHARLES H. HARMON

"I believe more attention should be given to improving the main highways coming into downtown Pontiac with more off-street parking made available.

"I also favor free parking as soon as the present bonds are retired. The city should continue its pay-as-you-go policy on public improvements and run water and sewer trunk lines into the several square miles within the city limits to the east and north.

"This large area can bring more housing and industry to the city, which would ultimately increase our tax base. My qualifications to serve as District 2 commissioner speak for themselves.

★ ★ ★

"I have lived in Pontiac for 34 years. As city assessor in 1930, I reassessed the entire city and installed a modern system of assessment. From 1934 to 1940 as deputy county treasurer, I installed a new system of collecting taxes and supervised the rewriting of all tax descriptions in Oakland County outside the existing cities.

"For the past 21 years, I have been engaged in private business as municipal advisor and tax consultant to towns and cities regarding sewers, water ,taxes and budgets.

"Experience has taught me the importance of keeping costs down. I believe in planned progress without waste."

CURTIS E. PATTON

"Having started my business career here in 1932, I have witnessed great changes in our city and I am now most encouraged with our progressive development and plans for the future.

★ ★ ★

"As a life insurance man I have served as president of the Pontiac Life Underwriters Association, The Life Insurance Leaders of Michigan and the Michigan State Association of Life Underwriters.

"Being active in many civic organizations, I know what the citizens of Pontiac expect from their city government.

"I believe that my education, professional background and close contact with the citizens of Pontiac can be well utilized as a city commissioner.

"In the decade just past, Pontiac made remarkable progress in many areas of civil planning and development. Many new municipal buildings, many miles of pavement, sidewalks and sewage systems are just a few of these developments. These accomplishments made us all proud of Pontiac.

"As outstanding as these achievements are, it is most heartening to realize that these improvements have been made largely on a pay-as-you-go basis. This, I believe, is as it should be.

★ ★ ★

"I have great faith in the future of our city. If elected, I will always back a program of capital improvements to be developed as the needs appear and as the funds are available.

★ ★ ★

"Essentially my responsibility is to follow fiscal policies that will keep Pontiac progressive, yet sound and solvent!"

Yugoslavs Visit City Post Office

Officials Study Window Service in Town About Size of Theirs

Three high Yugoslav postal and communications officials yesterday looked to Pontiac for hints about improving their operations in similar-sized cities in their homecountry.

★ ★ ★

The visitors, received here by Postmaster William W. Donaldson, were the chief of the telephone department of Belgrade, Yugoslavia's capital, Fredrag Antic; the chief of the postal telegraph communications section at Belgrade, Ivan Javornik, and the chief of the postal service in the city of Novi Sad, Djurica Stelkic, who was born in Detroit in 1911.

The Yugoslavs are visiting the United States under U.S. State Department auspices to study the postal and communications system. They toured Detroit's automated new post office, but came to Pontiac specifically to study window service.

Pontiac's size makes its post office more comparable to offices in most larger Yugoslavian cities, they explained.

★ ★ ★

Honored at a reception at the main post office in the morning, the guests were presented keys to the city by Mayor Philip Rowston. They then also inspected the branch office in Pontiac's Federal Building to see how a branch operates.

An afternoon session was scheduled for the officials in Royal Oak's Post Office.

Injunction Prevents Filling for Causeway

Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Louis Coash yesterday issued a temporary injunction preventing filling a section of White Lake to create a 1,000-foot causeway to Dawson Island.

The island is owned by Mrs. Estelle Dawson of Davisburg who wanted the causeway for access to a proposed housing development.

The move was opposed by the White Lake Citizen's committee which petitioned the State Conservation Department to prevent the construction because it would reduce the water surface of the lake. The group also claimed it would stagnate the water in front of some lakeshore residents' homes.

The Day in Birmingham

Slate Ground Breaking for New Church of Christ

BIRMINGHAM — Ground-breaking ceremonies will be held 3 p.m. tomorrow for the new $140,000 Birmingham Church of Christ to be constructed on a 9-acre site on Big Beaver Road.

The building will be located just west of Adams Road on the western edge of Troy.

The structure will be built in three stages, the first to be completed by early fall and the others as the need arises.

★ ★ ★

The first unit will contain an auditorium with a seating capacity of 350, 15 classrooms, two offices, a kitchen and a nursery.

When all sections of the building are completed it will have a seating capacity of more than 1,000.

The church was established seven years ago and has been meeting since that time at 1152 Bennaville St. It has a 130-member congregation.

The regular evangelist at this time is Morris M. Womack, professor of Bible and Greek at Michigan Christian Junior College, Rochester.

Due to the popularity of the first series of programs to introduce youngsters 6 through 9 years of age to an appreciation of nature, the Cranbrook Institute of Science has rescheduled three of the four classes, on April 24, 25 and 26, at 11 a.m.

Classes are free to junior members. A junior membership is $2 or $1.50 if a parent is a member.

The April 24 class deals with birds to be followed by animals, then plants.

Information on classes and memberships can be obtained by telephoning extension 71 at the Institute.

The Congregational Church of Birmingham will hold Maundy Thursday Tenebrae Services 8 p.m. April 19. During the service new members will be received into the fellowship of the church.

Paintings and drawings by Clifton McChesney and bronze sculpture by Morris Brose will be exhibited at the Little Gallery, 915 E. Maple Road, beginning tomorrow and continuing through May 5.

Both artists have been associated with the Cranbrook Art Academy. McChesney received a master's degree in art there, and Brose was an instructor.

McChesney is now teaching at Michigan State University, and Brose at Detroit Society of Arts.

Victorious Drivers Tell How Its Done

against five other makes in the Class G medium-priced field. Closest competitor was an Olds Dynamic 88 with 19.05. Judy's co-driver was Annette Swanson, 29, of California.

Grinning from ear to ear, the Thompsons yesterday morning braved a last discomfort standing in a bitter wind at Pontiac Motor Division's plant and posing for cameramen.

USED TO DISCOMFORT

They'd become somewhat used to discomfort: during the entire run no driver dares turn on his radio or heater (the temperature at one time was at 22) for fear of using horsepower to regenerate "juice." Lights are not turned on until the last bit of daylight fades — for the same reason.

Tension builds up in the driver, the two reported, as he tries to keep his foot as steady as possible.

"Sometimes you don't know whether your foot's just fallen asleep or whether it's dead," says Mrs. Thompson, "and you don't dare try to find out which."

So much concentration is given by the driver to driving that the codriver (or navigator) does most of his thinking for him.

★ ★ ★

Not only does the navigator point out road signs, speed-limit changes and tell the "pilot" where to turn, but he also constantly calculates an average speed which will come close to the prescribed total average of 42.39 miles an hour.

Thompson notes, that, "The navigator is a good 50 per cent of the success."

Adds Mrs. Thompson about her codriver:

"She was my right arm, my left leg, my head . . . all except my right leg, the one on the gas pedal."

BIGGEST JOB

The navigator's big job, says Annette Swanson is that "You have to keep figuring all the time. If you exceed the average speed, you're penalized."

Since gas gauges can't be relied on and since the only indication of fuel consumption is how much is taken in at one of the two daily stops, drivers and navigators usually pre-test a car similar to the Run's car for mileage at different speeds.

The team's work is not finished at the end of the driving day — which at first was 12 hours long, then tapered off to 6½.

There is only one lunchbreak during the day. At night, there's dinner and then the job of reading the instructions handed them about the next day's route and plotting the best way to take it.

★ ★ ★

What really makes a car win?

Mickey Thompson answers: "You win because the car you drive is just a better car."

His wife nodded assent.

Man Threatened in Bias Battle

New Orleans Catholic Warned He'll Be Killed After TV Appearance

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Roman Catholic layman says his life was threatened after he appeared on television to announce formation of a committee supporting desegregation of parochial schools.

The layman, Harold F. Dittmann, said he had received telephone threats "to blow my brains out" after he was interviewed on a news program. He asked for police protection.

MIDNIGHT CONFAB

Five other men who joined Dittman in forming "Catholic laymen supporting school integration" had a midnight conference with Coadjutor-Archbishop John Patrick Cody. There were no announcements following the meeting.

O Eternal Spirit, our God and Father, bless us, we pray, with the vision of Thy being and Thy beauty, that in the strength and joy of it we may do our work without weariness and without haste. Deepen and quicken in us the sense of Thy presence with us in bright and shadowed hours alike, and daily refresh us with Thy power.

Quiet our restlessness, and give ease to our hearts by bringing us close to things infinite and eternal. Humble us by laying bare in our sight our littleness and our sin; then exalt us by revealing Thyself to us as our Counselor, our Father, and our everlasting Friend.

Grant us the dignity that becomes us as Thy sons and daughters, by taking us into Thy service. May we be springs of refreshment of spirit to those to whom Thou dost send us to minister in Thy name.

Will then hear this our prayer, O God, and answer it according to our deserving and Thy mercy, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

SILHOUETTED — This graceful set of swan dishes makes interesting silhouettes against the window glass. Collected over a period of years, this glassware and the other antiques have been acquired in many parts of the country as the Hoards have traveled.

Mayon Hoards Rescue Old House

background for LIVING

By JANET GRELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Last year we did a number of old homes for Centennial stories. Now, a year later, we're still finding interesting old homes that have been remodeled.

The Mayon Hoards of Milford live in one of them. He is township supervisor and has been a resident for years and years.

The dilapidated old frame house was once a farm home. It's about 95 years old. Then the family that owned it started coming out only in the summer. When they no longer came, the house really went down hill. But there was a nice lot left—80 feet on each street since this is a corner house.

In July, 1955 Hoard bought the ancient house, rather to the dismay of his wife. He did all the work of remodeling except the wiring, heating and plastering.

There was no furnace to tear out of the old basement, just two chimneys to take down — and a cistern to fill in.

★ ★ ★

Now that they have made their home in this place for several years, the Hoards wouldn't live anywhere else. They do miss a fireplace, but they love their home. Since our visit they have purchased a Franklin stove. They occupy the first floor while renting out an apartment upstairs.

★ ★ ★

You step right into the living room. Here a sandalwood sofa is placed with its back to the door to make an entryway. In front of it is a marble table cut down to coffee table size. Near the bay window which is three-sided is an antique loveseat with tapestry upholstery. On the other side is a modern platform rocker and matching hassock.

★ ★ ★

The Hoards told us that much of their furniture has come from pioneer Milford families.

★ ★ ★

Living room walls are papered in a gray material resembling grass cloth. It has pink and aqua lines in it. Curtains are sheer white flocked ones.

★ ★ ★

There's a handsome pier glass opposite the front door. It's framed in walnut and sets upon a marble shelf.

The Hoards bought an old secretary that was filled with books of a bygone day. They still use part of it as a bookcase, but display china and glass on some of the shelves.

LIBRARY

The second room at the front of the house is the library. While the carpeting in the living room is pewter beige (according to Mrs. Hoard), that in the library is sculptured sandalwood.

Two walls are papered in pink and gold on white. The other two are paneled in pine with an antique finish. At each side of the double windows on the west there are built-in shelves. A shelf above this window holds antique crockery.

The Hoards have two organs and a piano. The antique organ has a beautiful tone, but is much harder to play than the new electric one in the living room. The old one still has the original carpeting on the foot pedals.

An old platform rocker that was in the house when the Hoards bought it has been reupholstered in red. There are other antique chairs in this room.

What is now a hallway and the bathroom was once a narrow bedroom. The pink and gray bath is attractively modern. In the hallway there is a folding hatrack on one wall; here Mrs. Hoard hangs her purses.

Their bedroom used to be the kitchen. Sheer white curtains and flowered wallpaper make it a pleasant room. Some of the furniture is modern; other pieces, like the two washstands, are old.

COACH CEILING

The ceiling in the dining room is gently bowed and is known as a coach ceiling. The living room carpeting extends in here. Curtains are white ruffled ones. The wallpaper is white with pink flowers. Woodwork here and throughout the house is white.

Did you think that pull-down fixtures above dining room tables were new? Guess again. The Hoards have an antique one with crystal drops and a painted shade that goes up and down smoothly on a pulley.

★ ★ ★

The Hoards added a back entryway and a little breakfast room at one side of the room they made into their kitchen. The floor has gray and yellow tiles in a squared pattern. Walls in the kitchen are antiqued pine; in the breakfast room there is a pine dado with yellow and white wallpaper above.

Cupboards and counter tops are white. The ceiling light was once a kerosene lamp. At one side of the room is the laundry equipment.

Narrow bamboo pull shades take the place of curtains. An old pair of ice tongs, an antique lock and sleigh bells are used as wall decoration next to the range. Copper molds are hung on another wall.

★ ★ ★

Near the breakfast room is an open corner cupboard. In the breakfast room is an oak drop leaf table. The Hoards enjoy sitting here in the winter and watching the birds at the feeder just outside.

This house has a kitchen bedroom with an attached bath. Three walls are paneled in pine. The fourth wall and the ceiling have paper in a gold and sandalwood geometric flowered print. The floor is beige tile.

One huge walnut chest belonged to Mayon Hoard's grandfather. He remembers when he was so small that he had to reach up to the drawer in which horehound candy was kept. There are two other walnut chests in the room and a white painted bed. One of the chests has a secret drawer.

HAS CHARM — Owners who cared, plus lots of hard work and gallons of paint wrought this change in the old frame house the Mayon Hoards of Milford bought and remodeled. Now a delightful two-family home on Summit Street, it is spic and span. The Hoards added the glassed in porch at the rear. Their corner lot is 132x132 feet.

REFLECTIONS — The beautiful pier glass in its walnut frame stands next to the archway to the dining room. In it you see reflected the mammoth secretary with the upper shelves devoted to knickknacks. You can also see just one edge of the front door. The door at the left leads through a hall into the bedroom and bathroom.

TUMBLE-DOWN — Looking like a candidate for a ghost story, the house bought by the Mayon Hoards had little to offer at that time. The neglect of years is apparent in this photo. But the basic structure was sound and hard work made the difference between this picture and the one at the right.

Give Dealer Facts for Best Conditioner

"Btu's" now describe the cooling capacities of today's room air conditioners. Manufacturers have abandoned old "horsepower" and "ton" designations in favor of this more accurate method of measuring the heat a cooling unit can handle.

★ ★ ★

A family intent on buying a room air conditioner may find it helpful to have some idea what the term "Btu"—British thermal unit—means. Roughly, one Btu per hour is the heat that would be generated by a kitchen match if it were to burn for an hour.

★ ★ ★

An air conditioner with a 12,000 Btu cooling capacity, for example, would remove the heat of 12,000 matches from the room.

The easiest and surest way of obtaining the right size air conditioner for a room is to provide an appliance dealer with enough information to permit him to prescribe the Btu capacity needed for maximum comfort. Basically, here's what he'll require:

1. Size of room and what it's used for, such as living room, bedroom, dining room, or family room, and the number of people who normally use it.

2. The exposure of its outside walls—south, north, east or west—and the number of windows facing south or west.

3. Its location in relation to other areas of the house: Under roof, uninsulated attic or occupied room.

4. Electric circuits available: 115, 230 or 208 volts.

Room air conditioners in a wide range of cooling capacities and styles now are available. These include window units, models that can be installed permanently through a wall, and units that provide year-around comfort—heat in winter and cool, dehumidified air in summer.

Standards of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association now provide that a room air conditioner's cooling capacity in Btu's per hour be imprinted on the data-plate.

Club Activities Go on in Fallout Shelter

Recognizing the need for space-saving built-ins in a fallout shelter, Masonite Corporation has designed a free plan containing details for building a folding, wall-hung storage bunk, floor-based storage bunk, PegBoard framework suspended from the rafters, and a Tempered Presdwood floor for protection against cold concrete.

A copy of "Atomic Fall-Out Shelter" may be obtained by sending a postcard to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill.

While designed primarily for the rigors of enforced confinement, the built-ins have peace-time uses too in a shelter doubling as a Cub Scout or Boy Scout headquarters, a dark room, or a study. The wall-hung and floor-based bunks can serve unexpected guests.

Ceramic Tile Takes Work Out of Kitchen

Nothing can discolor kitchen walls more quickly than grease and moisture. It takes a thorough cleaning job to prepare soiled walls for repainting or new wallpaper. The homemaker can't be expected to tackle this chore with enthusiasm, for she knows that before long she will face all over again the problem of stained walls.

The way to get around this for all time is to install ceramic tile splashbacks in your kitchen work areas. Real tile won't stain — and it's also burnproof and scratch-proof. It's easily cleaned, too.

COACH CEILING — Note the gentle curve of the ceiling in the dining room. Mrs. Hoard says it is known as a "coach" ceiling. The pink and white wallpaper is appropriate in this old house. The cherry hutch is one the Hoards refinished. The ceiling light still goes up and down smoothly. On the table is a large covered compote in the Westward Ho pattern.

Pontiac Press Photos by Ed Noble

Filipino Pulls Big Bluff; Only Lands in Jail

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — He just wanted to use the washroom, Tomas Barcas explained, but police suspect he was trying to steal a $2 million United Air Lines DC7.

Barcas, a 25-year-old laundry worker, came to America three years ago from his native Philippines.

★ ★ ★

He put on his best suit yesterday, packed at attache case with clothes and souvenirs, and bluffed his way past an airport guard by identifying himself as a Philippines ambassador.

★ ★ ★

Maintenance men found him looking at the controls of the aircraft. He said he was flying home to Manila.

When he refused to leave the plane, he was led away and booked.

He might have had a little trouble getting the plane aloft, however. He said he had never before been on a plane.

Ex-VP of Yugoslavia Taken Into Custody

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Milovan Djilas, former vice president of Yugoslavia and critic of the Communist system he helped build, was arrested today.

A spokesman for the Ministry of Information said Djilas had been taken into custody but did not give the reason for his arrest.

★ ★ ★

The 51-year-old Djilas was first arrested in 1957 for his book "The New Class" expounding on the shortcomings of communism. He was released in 1961 after serving four years in prison.

Djilas, once a close associate of Marshal Tito and mentioned as his possible successor, refused to recant his theory that communism on overthrowing the old order, inevitably develops a new class of exploiters.

Rules Bernard Goldfine to Be Legally Insolvent

BOSTON (AP) — Bernard Goldfine, the industrialist noted for his lavish gifts to political personages, has been legally ruled to be insolvent.

The ruling was handed down Friday by federal Judge George C. Sweeney. He reappointed three receivers to assume control of all Goldfine's properties in Massachusetts.

JFK Picks State Woman

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has appointed Mrs. Margaret C. Goebel of Grand Rapids, Mich., to the Civil Defense Advisory Council. Mrs. Goebel, a former columnist and book reviewer for the Grand Rapids Herald, is director of the women's services division in a bank. She replaces Katherine G. Howard on the council. Her term expires Jan. 12, 1965.

Justice Critical of Co-Workers

Black Blames Adams and Souris for Failing to Support Kavanagh

LANSING (AP)—Justice Eugene F. Black of the State Supreme Court struck out at two fellow Democrats on the high court today for backing the election of Republican Leland W. Carr as chief justice this week.

Black, tart-tongued former Republican, sharply criticized Justices Paul L. Adams and Theodore Souris for failing to support Democrat Thomas M. Kavanagh for the job.

"Of all members of the court," he said, "Kavanagh would have been the best chief justice."

Black's attack pushed into the public spotlight once more a boiling feul among the Democratic majority on the high court.

In opposing Kavanagh, he said, Souris was carrying out a command from former Justice George Edwards, who resigned earlier this year to become Detroit's police commissioner.

★ ★ ★

Edwards, he said, madly wanted the chief justiceship as a springboard to election to the U.S. Senate and fought the election of Kavanagh when he couldn't get it himself.

★ ★ ★

Black assailed Adams, newest member of the court, for "ill-advised and unfortunate" entry into the dispute with little knowledge of the situation.

Adams, he said, "knows nothing about our 1958-59 struggle to organize the court administratively and of Justice Kavanagh's leading part in the attainment of whatever progress we have made."

Adams answered that he did not vote against Kavanagh, but "voted for Justice Carr because of my conviction that he is the best man to hold the chief justiceship at this time."

He said he has indicated to fellow justices a "desire to maintain the best and friendliest relations." He hoped he said, "that in a modest way I might be a peacemaker in putting to rest some of the feuds that have existed in the court in the past."

Detroit Man Convicted of Rape; Now in Jail

A Detroit man was convicted by a circuit court jury yesterday of the statutory rape of a 14-year-old Southfield girl last December.

Michael Griffin, 28, of 8549 Alpine, is being held in the Oakland County Jail awaiting in lieu of $10,000 bond. He will be sentenced April 20.

Local Man Loses Appeal in Assault of Police Officer

A Pontiac man convicted last October of assaulting a Waterford Township policeman lost his appeal in Circuit Court yesterday.

★ ★ ★

After less than 30 minutes deliberation, a jury found J. Alan Brown, of 250 Briscoe, guilty of assault and battery against Sgt. Merrille Finkle.

Brown originally was convicted by a Waterford Justice Court jury and appealed the decision to Circuit Court.

Asst. Prosecutor Robert Templin Jr. charged that Brown assaulted Finkle during questioning following a barroom fight last June in which Brown is alleged to have taken part.

★ ★ ★

Brown denied the charge and testified he thinks Finkle shot him during questioning. Finkle said his gun went off accidentally while he tried to restrain Brown but the bullet did not strike Brown.

★ ★ ★

During the trial, the jury was taken to view a bullet hole in the roof of Brown's car made by Finkle's shot.

$1.7 Million Loaned to Housing Project

LANSING (AP)—A senior citizens housing project in Ann Arbor has received a $1.7-million loan from the Federal Community Facilities Administration, Gov. Swainson announced.

The loan was made to Senior Citizens Housing of Ann Arbor, Inc., a nonprofit organization of Ann Arbor residents, Swainson said.

The two buildings planned by the organization will provide 141 housekeeping units. Swainson said:

"Positive concepts, such as the Ann Arbor housing facilities . . . offer significant means toward planning and providing for the needs of our citizens."

Claim Ships Buzzed

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass claimed today that U.S. planes have buzzed two Soviet survey ships in the Atlantic.

Exploding Tank Burns Pontiac Man on Job

A worker at the new Pontiac Sewage Treatment Plant was severely burned yesterday afternoon when the tank of a small liquid sprayer blew up.

In fair condition today at Pontiac General Hospital with burns on his hands and face is Floyd Frisch, 44, 581 Peacock Ave.

Firemen said the sprayer tank was filled with a flammable concrete sealer. The cause of the accident, which occurred about 12:30 p. m., was undetermined. The plant is located near Opdyke road and Auburn avenue.

White Lake Girl Is Injured in Auto Accident

A 5-year-old White Lake Township girl, injured in an auto accident yesterday evening in front of her home, is reported in fair condition today at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Teresa Gilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gilbert of 9035 Cooley Lake Road, suffered a possible head concussion and broken leg, according to Pontiac state police.

Witnesses told police she ran into the side of an auto driven by Richard J. Wagner, 42, Union Lake. The impact threw her into the path of another car in another lane of traffic, they said.

Police said the second car, driven by Dorothy Murray, 9556 Round Lake Road, Milford Township, apparently straddled the injured girl as she lay in the road. The car wheels apparently did not run over her, according to police.

Pontiac Man Is Hurt as Car Strikes Pole

A 23-year-old Pontiac man, injured when a car in which he was riding struck a utility pole at Sanford Street and Chandler Avenue last night, is in satisfactory condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Owen O'Berry, 199 S. East Blvd., suffered a fractured left leg in the accident. He was a passenger in a car driven by Carl E. Foster, 25, 863 Stanley St.

★ ★ ★

Foster told police he was turning from Sanford onto Chandler when his attention was diverted by a car which passed his at high speed. Foster's car went over a curb and hit the pole when he failed to make a complete turn, police said. Foster was unhurt.

Elderly Man Injured When Struck by Auto

An elderly Lake Orion man was in serious condition this morning after he was struck by a car which swerved in the same direction he had taken to run from it.

Suffering broken legs and pelvis and a skull fracture is John Jaje of 203 W. Flint St. The car, driven by Nancy Schaar, 19, of 140 Church St., Lake Orion, was about to cross Flint Street on M24 when Jaje was struck.

Miss Schaar said she had the green light and swerved to avoid the man who had started to cross M24. She said he started running in the same direction she had taken to avoid him, according to Lake Orion police. Jaje was not able to make a statement.

Find Body of City Man Hanging in Building

The body of a 56-year-old Pontiac man was found hanging from a rope in the attic of an apartment building at 253 N. Saginaw St. yesterday afternoon. Police listed the death as a suicide.

The victim, Daniel C. R. E. McCarrel, had died sometime Tuesday afternoon, according to Deputy Coroner Dr. Isaac C. Prevette. A suicide note was found in his apartment, police said. McCarrel's family lives in Indiana.

Rescued by Helicopter

CHEBOYGAN (AP) — Robert A. Kline, 34, of Petoskey was rescued by helicopter from the ice on Burt Lake yesterday. The ice began to break up near shore and two other ice fishermen who reached safety called for help for Kline and the Coast Guard sent the helicopter from Traverse City. Kline said the fish were biting well when the aircraft arrived.

Reflections

LITTLE THINGS

My father was a wonderful person; he held us spellbound with simple explanations about trees, their roots, and their crowns; the honor of every insect in a colony of ants; how bees navigate, as reporters of a new source of pollen and their vital importance to farmers; massive turbulence in thunderheads, as generators of static and lightning; why cold squeezes moisture from clouds and we have rain, illustrating this phenomenon with ice in a glass of water. These are a few of the Little Things that brought exciting interest to living.

J. L. VOORHEES

The ultimate of living can be found in the Little Things around us: we plant a mustard seed and experience a thrill of creation as it becomes a plant; we laugh at a flock of sparrows squabbling over crumbs; humming birds dipping their bills into blossoms of trumpet vines holds our undivided attention; the affection of a nondescript dog and ripples of joy up and down our spine; happiness explodes as we hear the voice of a friend over our telephone; our whole being expands with aesthetic appreciation at the beauty of a snowflake on our sleeve.

Treasure the Little Things.

P.S. Our Funeral Services are many Little Things woven into a beautiful tribute.
