World-State News in Brief

LANSING (AP) — The Senate yesterday rejected a compromise $874.4-million school aid package and ordered it returned to a joint House-Senate conference committee for further deliberation.

Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, spearheaded the drive to return the bill to the conference committee. The vote was 16-13.

Protest Fatal to Student

NEW YORK (AP) — A 20-year-old Columbia University student died today at Bellevue Hospital about nine hours after he set fire to himself on the lawn of the United Nations to protest "genocide" in Biafra.

The student, Bruce Mayrock of Old Westbury, N.Y., a community on Long Island, had been admitted to the hospital in "very critical condition" with second- and third-degree burns.

Argentina Hit by Strike

BUENOS AIRES (AP) Argentine workers walked off their jobs at midnight, in a 24-hour general strike to protest alleged police brutality. The government alerted the armed forces to prepare for violence.

The nationwide walkout followed a day of violence yesterday in the industrial city of Cordoba that threatened the three-year-old regime of President Juan Carlos Onganía.

Paratroopers took over the city to quell riots after a majority of the city's industrial workers walked off their jobs 12 hours before the general strike was scheduled to begin.

'Foe Contained in Viet'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew declared today that "the enemy's thrust has been contained" in Vietnam.

And he said U.S. forces in Southeast Asia are defending not only South Vietnam but the integrity of the United States as well.

Agnew spoke out in a Memorial Day address prepared for delivery at Arlington National Cemetery, where he placed a presidential wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Kidnaper Pleads Guilty

DECATUR, Ga. (AP) — Ruth Eisemann-Schier, who said she took part in the kidnaping of Emory University student Barbara Jane Mackle for love and to protect Miss Mackle, faces a seven-year prison term and deportation to her native Honduras.

She pleaded guilty yesterday in a surprise move in the same courtroom where Gary Steven Krist, 24, was convicted by a jury Monday. Krist received a life sentence for the kidnaping of Miss Mackle who was buried alive in a coffin-like box for four days.

Memorial Day, 1969: Protests, Parades, Play

By The Associated Press

Americans today mark their 102nd annual observance of Memorial Day with the traditional tributes to those who have died in the nation's wars and with vigils protesting the war in Vietnam.

It is a day of parades and picnics, beach outings and baseball and the 53rd running of the Indianapolis 500. It is also the start of a three-day weekend, and millions left the cities yesterday evening to enjoy a minivacation.

The National Safety Council predicted between 550 and 650 persons would die in traffic accidents during the weekend, which began at 6 p.m. yesterday and lasts until midnight Sunday.

In many communities across the country, antiwar groups plan to read the names of the more than 35,000 Americans who have given their lives in the Vietnam war.

TRADITIONAL OBSERVANCES

Traditional observances include parades organized by veterans and other groups to honor those who fell fighting for the country. Some were aimed specifically at counterpointing the antiwar protests.

The President and his entire family were spending a quiet weekend at their waterfront home in Key Biscayne, Fla.

At Torrington, Conn., two Pulitzer Prize winners, author William Styron and playwright Arthur Miller, were among those reading from the list of Vietnam war dead during a 24-hour vigil.

In Michigan, memorial services, parades and other events are scheduled this weekend as a tribute to America's war dead.

SPEC. 5 LARRY H. BRINKLEY

Dead Troy Soldier Symbolizes Day

Today, Memorial Day, the memory of soldiers past is observed. Army Spec. 5 Larry H. Brinkley of Troy serves as the tragic portrait of the slain soldier.

He died May 6 in an Army hospital of Vietnam combat wounds and was buried May 14 in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield.

"Brink," as his friends called him, can perhaps stand as today's illustration of why Memorial Day is observed. His attitude and views are detailed in his letters from the battlefield.

The story of Larry Brinkley is on page A-4.

Baker Denied Retrial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U.S. District Court judge has turned down former Senate aide Robert G. (Bobby) Baker's bid for a new trial.

Baker, a former secretary to Senate Democrats, was convicted in 1966 on income tax and larceny charges. He had contended that testimony in a later trial involving a witness in his case had damaged his original plea.

23 Enemy Die, 2 Yanks Killed in 18 Incidents

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military headquarters accused the Communist command today of 34 violations in the first eight hours of a 24-hour cease-fire the South Vietnamese government declared to mark the observance of Buddha's birthday.

U.S. headquarters said 23 enemy soldiers and two Americans were killed and 17 Americans were wounded in 18 incidents which were considered "significant" because they resulted in casualties.

South Vietnamese headquarters said there were 25 "enemy initiated" incidents against the South Vietnamese military units and civilians since the start of a 48-hour truce the Vietcong declared for the holiday.

Of those enemy initiated incidents, 14 inflicted casualties on four civilians and three village or hamlet officials killed, one hamlet chief abducted and 16 soldiers and 18 civilians wounded," South Vietnamese headquarters said.

VIETCONG TRUCE

The U.S. Command did not begin recording incidents until the start of the 24-hour cease-fire since it maintained it was ignoring the Vietcong truce.

The Vietcong truce began at 7 a.m. yesterday and ends at 7 a.m. Saturday Saigon time, one hour after the allied cease-fire ends.

The U.S. rules were that American offensive operations would be halted for 24 hours, but that reconnaissance flights and patrols would continue "to keep our guard up," as an American spokesman put it. The Americans would fire back if fired on first.

But the Vietcong ground rules announced in a broadcast implied the Vietcong would consider reconnaissance flights and patrols as provocative acts and would attack them.

PATROLS ATTACKED

Five U.S. reconnaissance patrols came under attack after the allied cease-fire began at points 30 to 35 miles northwest and northeast of Saigon and farther north along the central coastal plain. One American was reported killed and 13 wounded. Enemy losses were put at 10 killed and three captured.

One American reconnaissance helicopter was shot down and destroyed and three others damaged in flights ranging from 29 to 61 miles northwest of Saigon. One American was killed and four wounded.

Skies to Cloud in Area Tonight

Memorial Day marchers and picnickers were slated for pleasant weather today as temperatures were headed for the high 70s.

Sunny skies will become increasingly cloudy toward evening with lows in the 52 to 58 range, but precipitation probabilities are near zero.

TOMORROW — The forecast predicts clouds and warmer weather, with a chance of showers late in the day.

SUNDAY — Outlook is partly cloudy with a chance of showers in the afternoon or evening.

The low temperature in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 55 degrees at 8 a.m. but climbed to 72 degrees by 9 a.m.

It's a Bit Queer Here, Engineer

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —

Engineers surveyed the new Autometrics Corp. plant under construction here and admitted there had been a slight oversight.

Erected in the new four walls of the million square foot building was a seven story crane.

Project engineer Dwayne Freburg said yesterday the crane would be left inside the structure and used until the building is nearly completed in November.

A wall will be removed, and a smaller crane will be brought in to remove the large one, piece by piece.

Thousands Driving as Holiday Begins

By The Associated Press

Thousands of motorists were on the road today, out to enjoy the first warm-weather holiday of the year. Traffic accidents had claimed 46 lives as of 8 a.m. (Pontiac times).

The National Safety Council has estimated that 550 to 650 persons will be killed on the highways between 6 p.m. yesterday and midnight Sunday.

This was in contrast to a death toll of 481 during a recent nonholiday period of the same 78-hour duration. The Associated Press made a survey of traffic deaths from 6 p.m. Thursday, May 15, to midnight Sunday, May 18, to provide a basis for comparison during the holiday period.

RECORD LAST YEAR

The record number of persons killed over a Memorial Day holiday was 629 during the four-day observance last year.

The highest traffic toll during a three-day observance was 542 in 1966.

The lowest toll for a three-day Memorial Day period since World War II was 204 in 1948.

The record traffic toll for any holiday period was 764 during the four-day Thanksgiving observance last year.

So far this holiday, one life has been

Britons Cross Frozen Ocean

LONDON — Four British explorers, beset by polar bears and blizzards, reached land today after man's first crossing of the frozen Arctic Ocean. The expedition trekked 3,620 miles across jagged ice and drifting floes and scrambled to shore about 150 miles north of Spitsbergen, the group's London headquarters reported.

The explorers set out 476 days ago from Point Barrow, Alaska.

A spokesman said a radio message from Wally Herbert, leader of the expedition, reported they had made land at a rocky islet.

In the last miles of the historic crossing, the four men had to leap from floe to floe as the ice melted and drifted away. Polar bears followed them, and one was shot about three days ago.

The expedition set out with dog sleds from Point Barrow, Feb. 8, 1968. The actual distance to Spitsbergen as the crew flies is 1,800 miles. But moving packs of ice forced the explorers to divert from their route, and the trek doubled the distance.

Ecuador Student Mobs Not Blamed by Rocky

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — After the most disruptive outbreak of his Latin American tour, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says he doesn't blame Ecuadorian students for using his visit as "an outlet for a demonstration."

The New York governor, who has been trying to play down the violence which has plagued his fact-finding mission for President Nixon, called it a tragedy that "a very small minority . . . could block our countries from having normal relations with each other."

But he added, "These students have got their own convictions; they want to express them. They use this official visit as an outlet for a demonstration. I don't blame them."

Student mobs protesting Rockefeller's visit yesterday hurled gasoline bombs at the U.S. Information Service center and dynamited the entrance to the U.S.-Ecuadorian Binational Center in Quito.

A 60-year-old man was reported to have suffocated from tear gas police used to disperse demonstrators who twice halted the governor's motorcade as it moved through the capital.

Three American newsmen were injured slightly by rock-throwing students, and a taxi carrying three Rockefeller aides and an American newswoman was stoned when it halted in a traffic jam. A policeman was reported wounded by a gunshot.

A heavy guard surrounded the governor's motorcade, and Rockefeller never saw the disorders. He waved to bystanders not involved in the protests.

Rockefeller attended a luncheon at the presidential palace and conferred with President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra and ranking Ecuadorian officials. The Rockefeller party then boarded a bus and was escorted to a hotel by two trucks loaded with paratroopers.

Rockefeller told newsmen Velasco and his Cabinet were critical of restrictions attached to U.S. aid and the red tape involved in pursuing aid projects.

U.S. Officials Enter Doctor Bill Probe

DETROIT (UPI) — Federal authorities have moved into the investigation of three Detroit osteopaths who allegedly received more than $800,000 in claims from Michigan Blue Shield in little more than three years.

The U.S. Post Office Department, which took on the case because the mails were used in filing the claims, has said the trio "apparently defrauded Blue Shield and probably other carriers of hundreds of thousands of dollars, by billing for services not rendered the patient."

A Blue Shield spokesman, however, said it would be impossible to determine just what proportion of the claims were legitimate and what were not.

In a "review" of the situation released yesterday, Blue Shield said one of the osteopaths collected $489,527 from 1965 through early 1968.

Blue Shield quit honoring his claims in March of last year when he billed the service for more than $100,000 for 1,800 claims in less than a month. At the same time, checks totaling another $17,261 were being processed for him but were held up when Blue Shield launched its investigation.

The accounts of two other osteopaths in the same practice are also under investigation. Another doctor, once associated with them is now in military service, Blue Shield said, and a fifth made no Blue Shield claims.

The two doctors, being investigated received $220,955 and $97,934, respectively, in the three-year period and had payments of $1,979 and $2,254 pending when the probe began.

One of the doctors, however, has settled with Blue Shield for $19,000, which the company said was a "reasonable agreement" on how much of his nearly $100,000 in fees represented possibly inaccurate claims.

DOCTOR 'COOPERATING'

The company also said this doctor is now "cooperating with the authorities."

Though it was believed federal indictments were under consideration, the U.S. attorney's office in Detroit had no comment. Nor was it immediately known if the doctors in question still had their licenses to practice.

The Blue Shield investigation showed that two of the doctors made claims for particular services and procedures far out of proportion to the total number of times such services were rendered by all osteopaths in the state.

For example, one buritis treatment was claimed to have been performed by the doctors 18,300 times in 1967, compared with a statewide report of that procedure of 22,104 performed that year. They also claimed to have repeated the procedure on the same patients 14,159 times, out of 17,747 reported.

IRISH FIGURE DIES — Robert Briscoe, 74, the only Jew ever elected lord mayor of Dublin, died at his home in the Irish capital today. Known as "the fabulous Irishman," Briscoe became lord mayor of the Roman Catholic capital when his name was drawn from a hat in 1956.

Berkeley Park Protest Today

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Thousands of protesters massed today for a march on a disputed three acres of University of California property which they call the "people's park."

Amid predictions that the crowd could number up to 50,000, Alameda County Sheriff Frank Madigan said yesterday the law forces he commands would be armed with shotguns and would use all the force needed to maintain order.

Organizers of the march said they wanted to walk nonviolently to the park, recently fenced by the university and now guarded by 200 National Guard troops, and demand that it be "returned to the people."

They also have said "the fence will come down," but have not said how.

CHAIN-LINK FENCE

The university put up a chain-link fence May 15 around the vacant lot where young people had planted grass and flowers and installed playground equipment. The university said the lot would be used as an intramural soccer field.

Disturbances broke out that day as the young people tried to reoccupy the field.

Madigan told a news conference yesterday that his men used double-O buckshot in their guns to quell the disturbance after they ran out of lightweight birdshot.

Doctors have said that James Rector, 25, who was among 130 wounded that day, died four days later of buckshot wounds.

DEFENDED SHOTGUN USE

Madigan, defending his men's use of shotguns, displayed a table loaded with bricks, stones and metal fragments and said "a deadly force was being used against us" and that it was a case of using shotguns or "give the city of Berkeley to the dissidents."

He said he could produce witnesses to testify that Rector was among those throwing things at the police.

Doctors to Implant Tubes

Her Tears May Stop Flowing

APOLLO, Pa. (AP) — Life has been a steady stream of tears for 3-year-old Becky Rowley but her tears may soon stop.

Doctors plan to implant tiny steel tubes, an idea of her father, George Rowley, around Becky's eyes in the hope they'll form a channel to take the place of her tear ducts.

Since birth, Becky's eyes have continually filled with tears—especially when she was outdoors. Doctors surmised she had blocked tear ducts. So they tried to stop her tears by clearing the ducts. For a year they had no success.

Finally, a specialist in childhood eye disorders at Pittsburgh's Children's Hospital discovered she had been born with no tear ducts—and doctors devised another tactic.

PLAN FAILS

They tried to stimulate the formation of scar tissue channels by inserting various appendages into Becky's face.

Nylon threads were looped through the girl's nostrils and out the corners of her eyes. The loops were removed each day so that they wouldn't grow in. This plan failed.

Next, doctors inserted one-half inch metal pins to hold a channel open until scar tissue formed. No success.

Then it was discovered that there was no opening in the bone between Becky's eyes and nose. Surgeons drilled a minute hole on either side of her nose and inserted a tube to catch the tears. But they had to watch what type of material was used because the body rejects foreign substances. Polyethylene was tried temporarily, but doctors knew the body would reject it.

Then Becky's father, a metallurgist at Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp's Brackenridge research center machine shop made the tubes to order for Becky and soon they'll be implanted.

Doctors say the tubes will remain in place for two years, then they'll be removed. It's hoped that nature will form a channel around the tubes and the channel will drain away Becky's tears.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Judge Carl F. Ingraham of the 48th Judicial District of Michigan will attend the 23rd annual Atlantic Regional Traffic Court Conference at Fordham University Law School June 9-13.

The conference is being held under joint auspices of the American Bar Association Traffic Court program and the Traffic Institute of Northwestern University.

Robert H. Reeder, general counsel for the traffic institute, said the regional traffic court conferences are designed to help traffic court officials and others learn more about improved court procedures.

Other major conference goals include fostering citizens' desire for better traffic courts in accordance with national standards.

Certificates of participation will be awarded to conferees on June 13 by William H. Mulligan, dean of Fordham University Law School.

8 U.S. Warships Kept Off Coast of Korea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department said yesterday it is keeping a fleet of eight warships off the Korean coast to protect U.S. intelligence flights in the area.

The carrier Kitty Hawk has replaced the nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise to lead the force of seven destroyers, the spokesman said.

Appeal on Estate Dismissed

An Oakland County Circuit judge yesterday dismissed an appeal by three children of the late millionaire philanthropist Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson to claim her $15-million estate which is now held in a charitable trust fund.

Mrs. Wilson was the benefactress of Oakland University. She died in September 1967 during a trip to Brussels, Belgium.

The appeal by Mrs. Frances Dodge Van Lennep, Mrs. Thomas Eccles and Richard Wilson charged that Frederick K. Nash, Mrs. Wilson's attorney at the time the will was drawn up in March 1967, exercised undue influence on her to give the money to the Matilda R. Wilson Fund. He was also a director of the fund. In dismissing the appeal, Circuit Judge William R. Beasley upheld an earlier decision of Probate Judge Donald E. Adams.

NO RIGHT

Judge Adams ruled in February that the children had no right to the fund since Mrs. Wilson's will clearly stated how she wanted it distributed.

While noting in her will that financial provisions had already been made for the children, she left a number of personal items to Mrs. Van Lennep and $10,000 each to the other children.

Royalty's Purses Subjected to Pinch

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Plenty of pomp and ceremony, but little pocket money, seems to be the plight of Europe's monarchs. The taxpayers are willing to pick up the costs, but most of the royal families would be feeling the pinch if they didn't have their private fortunes.)

By THOMAS A. REEDY
LONDON (AP)—The royal families of the seven remaining monarchies in Europe are costing their countries upward of $10 million a year support money.

Their subjects generally appear satisfied they've got a bargain. Whether the sovereigns feel the same way is something else. Some of them have been feeling the pinch with rising costs in every field. Without private fortunes, they clearly would be pleading poverty.

The subject of whether a king or a queen is worth the expense is coming up again here and there. Britain's Queen Elizabeth II hasn't had a raise since she was crowned 16 years ago. Members of Parliament have started to talk about an adjustment.

The queen's "privy purse" still is at its 1952 level of 475,000 pounds. With her husband Prince Philip, her son Prince Charles, the Queen Mother, the Duke of Gloucester and Princess Margaret, the family's take-home pay comes to 725,000 pounds or $17.4 million.

SPECIAL TAX

They run half a dozen palaces and even have to pay special tax on each employee out of these sums, but much of the daily running expense can be dealt with through government channels.

The queen is reputed to have a private fortune of about $150 million plus such valuables as 500 Leonardo da Vinci cartoons, paintings of gems, and fantastic art objects—but clearly none ever could be offered for sale in the public market.

Proponents of a pay hike for the royal family argue that the queen is making ends meet only by dipping into her private purse.

Income of about $7 million from crown property is distributed by the government for royal occasions. None of this money ever finds its way to the queen's pocketbook.

LAND-DEAL HISTORY

The crown land deal goes back 250 years when the Hanoverian monarchs were constantly in hock. The crown property was surrendered to Parliament in a deal which established the "privy purse" system.

Other monarchs in Europe have had pay increases over recent years.

King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola of Belgium are paid $1.46 million in Belgian francs. Holland sets aside $1.44 million worth of Dutch Guilders for Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard even though Juliana is rated one of the richest persons in the world.

Other outlays, some of them recently raised, amount to: Sweden $1.52 million; Norway, $786,000; Denmark, $900,000; Greece, $580,000.

CONSTANTINE'S NEED

Constantine of Greece, even though in exile in Rome, still is paid his annual stipend. He probably needs it. The Greek royal family never has had any genuine wealth. The Duke of Edinburgh's father, Prince Andrew of Greece, left him on his death one suit and one ivory shaving brush.

The military junta in Athens had made no move to cut off

Constantine's pay check. Recently though, the Greek press attacked the king for living in Italy where the newspapers have been harsh on the Greek regime. The Greek editors urged the king either to return home or live somewhere else more in sympathy with the facts of life in Athens.

The Scandinavian kings have a tidy purse of their own, but all of them have as well a reputation for avoiding elaborate expenses. They are close to the people, and Frederick of Denmark can be found often in a simple shopping center. Frederick, Olav of Norway and Gustav VI Adolf of Sweden are so much a part of the daily scene they are almost faceless on a busy street.

Apart from the "down with everything" crowd which exists everywhere, there are no serious movements—except possibly in Greece—to do away with the remaining monarchies.

QUEEN 'BEST BUY'

The hard headed British Cockney will tell you that the queen is the best buy the country ever had. Some computer-minded types contend she earns her wage a hundredfold in tourist money alone, and her husband's constant travel has been a continuing benefit in British export-import trade.

The European monarchies

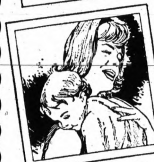

generally appear to enjoy the same appraisal of their value to their people.

There are Germans who contend that the abdication of the Kaiser in 1918 was the worst thing that could have happened to their country politically. There are Austrians nostalgic over the Vienna of the Hapsburgs.

No serious monarchy moves are under way in the German-speaking world, however, nor in Italy. Victor Emmanuel killed that dream by his conduct under Mussolini.

The mystery monarchy is Spain. The Spaniards talk about it all the time. Francisco Franco has always promised to restore it. He seems to have passed over Don Juan, the son of Alfonso XIII, in favor of the grandson—Don Juan Carlos.

But Franco continues to reserve his decision. There are not enough grass roots to push the monarchy movement up through the aging dictator's safeguards, so the issue hangs suspended.

Troy Soldier's Life, Death Symbolize Memorial Day

One boy's life—and death—seems appropriate to mark today—Memorial Day. Army Spec. 5 Larry H. Brinkney was a staunch Catholic. He grew up with the 10 Commandments, among them "Thou Shalt Not Kill."

America sent 20-year-old Larry Brinkney to war. He died in a military hospital in Japan. He lived six days after the land mine explosion April 29 that ripped his body apart.

He was a high school dropout from the 10th grade at Troy High School.

COMPLETED SCHOOLING

"Mama, I haven't made anything of myself so far, so I'm going to make something of myself in the service," he wrote.

He completed high school in the Army.

"He gave up a 15-day leave between basic training and assignment to enroll in Army high school.

The Army training would have allowed "Brink," as he was called, to become a specialist in heavy mechanics, after he left the service.

Brink eagerly awaited the day he would work for the federal government in a military or civilian capacity as a mechanic. His job was guaranteed.

WORKED ON CARS

"He was always working on cars as a kid," said his mother, Mrs. Edward A. Brinkney, 6364 Atkins, Troy.

A sister recalled that he once was determined to buy a hot rod with his savings from work, despite objections from his parents.

The hot rod was never purchased, although Brink did make a deal for a '62 Chevrolet. The purchase was to be made when he left the Army.

He wanted the car badly. He counted the days left in the service. He had already served a year in Vietnam, but signed on for another six months to shorten his total service time.

'SHOULD BE THERE'

"That's what he told us," his mother said. "He signed on again because he believed he should be there . . . He felt so sorry for those little Vietnamese children.

"Mama, those little kids run around with no clothing, no parents," he wrote me," Mrs. Brinkney said.

Brink would tear off his shirt and tie it around the bodies of street children with no means of support. He tore many shirts.

Young Brinkney carried a deeply rooted morality with him wherever he went. His moral standards led to his dislike of high school.

FACED TEMPTATION

Brink was tempted by his conformity-minded high school peers with glue-sniffing, beer and other forbidden items. He finally quit, never conforming.

He would much rather hunt and fish and work, all of which he did. Then he enlisted in the Army in June 1967.

There he found his niche. "Every time they said school, Larry said he would volunteer," Mrs. Brinkney said.

And then came Vietnam.

BEGGED HIM

"We worried night and day when he was there, even though our other son Jimmy, 22, fought in Vietnam and came back home," Mrs. Brinkney related.

"We begged him . . . I got down on my knees and begged him not to sign on for another Vietnam tour," Mrs. Brinkney sobbed.

"We couldn't sleep. I would be walking the floor all night long . . . I never slept," his mother said.

The worry was replaced with grief. Today, Brink is among the Memorial Day revered rather than the observers.

"If I did not have a reason for going back, I would not go," Brink had told his family.

Brink was sincere. He believed he was fighting in Vietnam to protect his brothers and sisters, his nieces and nephews.

He regarded the military policy as a "cat and mouse game," his mother said. If the military commanders could be allowed to call the shots, the war could soon be over, Brink believed.

Nevertheless, Brink was his unit's spark plug. He urged his fellows on and was rewarded for it. Among his decorations was the Army's Service Commendation Medal, awarded him for his "encouragement and outstanding performance."

BRAGS IN LETTER

"You should have seen, Mama. I led a platoon of us over a footbridge in enemy territory. We all made it," he bragged in a letter home.

On April 29, Brink was driving a two-man artillery tank back to encampment after a patrol. In the path were several land mines. A boy from Texas was aboard.

The Texan died before Brink did. Brink's sergeant, a constant hospital visitor, never told Brink of the other boy's death.

"He (Brink) would have thought it his fault," the sergeant wrote Mr. and Mrs. Brinkney.

JOKED WITH OTHERS

While in sick bay, Brink joked with the others that he would "be home before all the rest of you." Always the spark plug . . .

Prophetic, a Feb. 15 letter home read:

"I realized I must have been an ass when I extended (my tour), but you never know about things until it's too late anyway."

Brink leaves his parents, two sisters and four brothers.

Educators' Problem

Report Cards Hit

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.
University of Southern California

Principals attending the Department of Elementary School Principals convention in Las Vegas, Nev., felt that traditional report cards should be abandoned.

Some type of report is essential, since parents wish to know how well their children are succeeding in school.

A conscientious teacher must spend hours making out report cards if he wishes to inform the student and parent in detail regarding the child's progress or lack of it.

This has one good effect. Teachers are forced to give attention and thought to each individual child. He becomes a person in their class.

TEACHER FAILURE

If the grades reported are determined on a competitive basis, so that only a few children receive As and some receive Fs, we have report cards at their worse. Since it is the responsibility of the teachers to teach the children and encourage them to learn, the Fs represent teacher failure as well as pupil failure.

Certain national tests are not designed to measure the progress of individual students. In fact, no student receives a grade. The whole purpose of the program is to find out how well the nation is educating its children.

That we are not doing well enough is evident from the tests themselves.

In all areas, except when the level of reading achievement is being probed, exercises are being read to some of the participants to reduce the effects of under-developed reading skills. To avoid the same kind of confusion from poor writing skills, some responses are taped — as well as written.

This is an admission of inadequate teaching of reading and writing.

The summer Head Start programs for disadvantaged children improved their reading readiness. However, the performance of these children one or two years later indicates

Speeders Face New Weapons

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan State Police will use a new weapon in their battle against speeders over the Memorial Day weekend.

Squad cars patrolling the Lansing, Brighton, Ionia and Ithaca areas will be fitted with VASCAR, an electronic device that is extremely accurate in measuring the speed of vehicles.

VASCAR — for Visual Average Speed Computer and Recorder — operates on the principle that speed equals distance divided by time. It can measure the time it takes to cover a certain distance, and from these measurements, automatically compute the average speed.

VASCAR is said to cost less than radar units. Its big advantage is that it can be used to clock a car whether it's traveling in the same or opposite direction.

Grocer Helps Teach Reading

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A cigar box on grocer Ben Mott's cluttered counter is the most obvious clue that he's not selling it like it is when he says he's not a do-gooder.

Mott, who for more than 20 years has been teaching slum neighborhood school kids to read from the labels of goods in his store, puts coins from the box into a project which was named for him — the Ben Mott Reading Center.

For years, many of them filled with frustration, the grocer has worked for such a center. It was opened last fall, on the same block as his store.

Many of these little boys and girls are very intelligent and learn to read and write they want to learn. The home environment offers no encouragement.

Material Gain Challenges America's Fine Traditions

(EDITOR'S NOTE — In keeping with our policy of running guest editorials from time to time, our Memorial Day message has been written by William K. Hanger, Pontiac Chief of Police.)

By WILLIAM K. HANGER

Americans used to be respected the world over. Our country's greatness was there for all to see and it served as an inspiration to each of its citizens to do even greater things.

We knew what we stood for, and we accepted our obligations. We knew where we were going and we didn't let anyone confuse the issues. We were strong because we were united and we were united because we were right.

We recognized that our system of government wasn't perfect but we knew that no other country had anything that could even come close to it. We expressed our preferences on election day and, in between, we gave full support and cooperation to our elected and appointed officials. The spirit of patriotism and personal pride was strong in each of us. In fact, we were willing to sacrifice our lives and our possessions in defense of these ideals.

There was never any question that God and country came before profit and pleasure. We recognized that Communists and criminals had to be dealt with effectively and we had the intelligence and courage to face these issues squarely.

We gave a day's work for a day's pay and those who wanted to get ahead were willing to give a little extra. We acknowledged that our employer had the right to be the boss and we accepted his supervision as a constructive principle of progress.

The counsel and wisdom of our senior citizens were sought after and honored because we recognized the value of their wisdom and intellectual maturity.

Our children were taught to be respectful to adults and to obey their teachers and school administrators. There was never any question in their minds as to what was right or wrong. The rules were easily understood and accepted.

Parents knew that the future of their children depended upon the wise use of discipline and they were not reluctant to invoke it on appropriate occasions. Love and understanding clearly existed in this relationship and there was no such thing as a communications gap.

American authors and artists were acclaimed for their talent and the beauty of their creations, and obscenity and raw sex were not a requisite for commercial success. Our women commanded and received respect because they symbolized modesty and motherhood. The sanctity of marriage and the family unit was a possession that was prized and protected.

Even though we have more material luxury than ever before, I wonder how many of us would be willing to part with it to regain the things that really made life worthwhile. Such things as pride, self respect, and security are the true foundations for lasting satisfaction and happiness. Prosperity is empty, indeed, when we can't face the world and shout, "I'm proud to be an American" and really mean it.

'Unsafe People' Road Risks

We can design safer cars and safer highways, but until we learn how to design safer people, we cannot hope to make more than a dent in highway accident statistics.

A study of 25 recent driver fatalities in the Houston area, conducted by the Baylor University College of Medicine, showed that "80 per cent of the fatalities were maladjusted in that they were either alcoholics or had personality disorders, or both."

According to the Institute for Highway Safety, the Houston study found that 72 per cent of the drivers had significant alcohol content in their blood. Psychiatric stress, growing out of marital, financial, occupational or other factors within a 24-hour period before the crash, was present in 80 per cent of the fatalities.

The Houston study is only one of a number which have found emotional-personality factors present in an exceptionally high percentage of fatal traffic accidents.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

Bees ...

The Wall Street Journal

Britain's bee population has decreased sharply this spring, so more bees are being brought in from other countries. And who do you suppose is calling for tighter governmental restriction on bee imports?

You guessed it — Britain's bee breeders, the people who presumably stand to benefit if controls curb the imports.

Some businessmen always figure the best way to compete is to persuade the government to make it unnecessary.

The bee breeders' plea, of course, is not couched in terms of self-interest. Instead the breeders warned that the U.S. and European bees undermine British bee strains and spoke darkly of "foreign blood stoked from warmer countries."

Importers naturally have rushed to defend their bees. One of them argued that U.S. bees are up to the highest British standards, whatever those are, and bear no resemblance to "notoriously savage" bees raised in some European countries. We always thought any bee could be pretty savage when aroused.

In any case, we profess to no expertise in this area and there may be something to what the British breeders say. Almost anywhere, though, the best way to compete is not by getting controls but by getting busy as, well, a bee.

Texas Tale

The Christian Science Monitor

This newspaper's recent article on Texas' $10 billion master water plan is one of the most exciting tales we have read in some time. The idea of bringing water from the Mississippi River and western eastern sections of the state to dry western areas is the kind of mammoth-scale thinking and planning which thought for the future demands.

It is but saying the obvious to point out that many of the pleasantest places to live in the United States are on the high, wide, handsome, open, but parched plains of the great West.

Were there water enough, these areas would have an unimaginably thrilling future. Now that air-conditioning is coming within the reach of more and more persons, the major hurdle remaining before such Western living is water lack. And a plan such as Texas' attacks this need on the scale required.

A 500-mile concrete-lined water-lead would stretch across the northern part of the state, while a 418-mile coastal canal system would do the same in the South.

As much of this water would be running uphill a good part of the time, a vast amount of pumping power would be needed, with consideration being given to the possibility of nuclear power plants.

The happy fact is that there is room enough, water enough, good soil enough and know-how enough on earth to meet men's essential present needs.

Japan Economic Spurt Incredible

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The image many Americans have of present-day Japan is most likely the one television screen often shows — violent leftists armed with assorted weapons battling police wearing helmets and bearing shields on the streets of Tokyo.

But this flickering "portrait" is largely irrelevant. Behind the distraction of these periodic ugly charades, Japan is soaring to such incredible economic heights that it is beginning to threaten the Soviet Union's No. 2 world position.

Japan's gross national product eclipsed that of Great Britain and France in 1967 and then surpassed the industrial West Germans in 1968. Overall Japanese industrial output has more than tripled in a decade.

The 100 million Japanese people today produce more goods than all the rest of Asia's 1.7 billion combined.

Japan builds more than half of the world's merchant ships. It is the leading world producer of cameras, radios, motorcycles, watches, cotton yarn. It runs second to the United States in output of automobiles, chemicals, television sets and manmade fibers. Only America and the Soviet Union have greater steel production.

REMARKABLE

The performance in steel is remarkable. Japan has no sizable deposits of iron ore and the necessary coking coal. Yet last year it turned out 74 million tons to this country's 131 million tons.

The whole story is like that. The island nation imports most of its industrial raw materials, including oil, wheat, cotton and timber. It simply is not blessed with natural wealth.

HUMAN TRIUMPH

This sensational economic surge is a human triumph for a driving, disciplined, highly educated people. Elementary school attendance in Japan is nearly 100 per cent, and high schools enroll about 90 of that high total. Around a third make it to college, where scientific and technical studies bulk large.

The Japanese not only discipline themselves to learn and to work, but to save. The average Japanese saves 20 per cent of his income.

Carefully hoarded, these savings provide an immense amount of capital accumulation. The country's investment rate, as a consequence, is the highest of any industrial power.

A third of its gross national product finds its way into new plants and equipment — against a mere 17 per cent in the United States.

GREAT CONSUMERS

Notwithstanding this huge plow-back into industry, the Japanese have become great consumers. More than 95 per cent of their households own television sets, and almost as many have refrigerators and washing machines. Family cars are becoming common.

Author Peter Drucker, in his book "The Age of Discontinuity," offers a strong accolade:

"The model of development today has to be Japan rather than the United States or Russia or, indeed, any of the white countries."

Bob Considine Says:

Another Viet Tragedy — the Captive American

NEW YORK — What could be more dispiriting than being a prisoner of the Orientals in my efforts to try to track down U.S. military services, the Department of State, and the American Red Cross.

The Casualty Branch of the man's military service contacts his next-of-kin, All available information is given to the families. The amount of information is seldom sufficient, of course.

I've come to comprehend the tragedy of all this recently in my efforts to try to track down U.S. military services, the Department of State, and the American Red Cross.

REMARKABLE

He was shot down Aug. 27, 1966, carrying out a mission from the deck of the U.S.S. Constellation. His parents, like so many others, have lived through hell since then.

The Navy doesn't know whether he was killed; the International Committee of the Red Cross has been brushed aside in its noble efforts to find the Cokers know the score.

There seems little confidence even among Moslems' partisans that the meeting will produce worthwhile results, let alone Communist unity.

Mao Tse-tung has already denounced it as a "revisionist provocation" designed to promote Russia's imperialist aims.

To emphasize that Red China is a world power not to be ignored and that Communist unity is a myth, he is escalating military skirmishes in the strategic III Valley in Sinkiang, which commands the approaches to the heart of Soviet Central Asia.

According to reports from Moscow which are probably based on officially inspired leaks, Chinese troops have even crossed the Russian border near Sinkiang and are now occupying nearly 15 square miles of the Soviet Republic of Kazakhstan.

It is obviously in Moscow's whose planes inadvertently came down in Chinese territory; the other four are American civilians who lived in China for many years.

"The efforts to establish a liaison between the free and the closed powers are impeded by maddening red tape."

Meeting Long-Sought by Soviet

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Foreign News Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. On June 5 the Soviet leaders will finally achieve their long-sought ambition with the opening of the world Communist conference in Moscow.

There seems little confidence even among Moslems' partisans that the meeting will produce worthwhile results, let alone Communist unity.

Mao Tse-tung has already denounced it as a "revisionist provocation" designed to promote Russia's imperialist aims.

Pontiac Press Lists Rules for Writing VOP Letters

Here again are the simple rules covering letters to the Voice of the People. This feature has very high readership as residents are anxious to know what their neighbors are thinking. Every letter must have a name and address. When the communication is not sharply critical of a private individual or firm, writers can use a pen name if they wish. However, if you want to assail someone, it isn't fair to your victim to hide behind an anonymous name.

Many letters contain statements which would subject the writers (and The Press) to libel suits. We recognize most of these but when we are in doubt we refer them to our attorneys and are guided accordingly.

We can't run letters that are purely personal matters between an individual and his favorite enemy or an individual and a firm at which he's "mad." Try and keep your letters within 200 words or less. Even then, to conserve space letters will be edited.

We cannot publish letters of personal thanks or poetry, due to space limitations. Matters concerning race and religion must be signed. All subjects must be of genuine, communitywide interest.

Send in your thoughts. They're welcomed.

Serviceman Relates Experiences in Army

It is a shame when a young man enlists in the Army for three years, spends two years in the United States then goes to Vietnam and after he is in the country for four months his company decides they are overstrengthened and they transfer him out. When he gets to this new unit he finds that they don't have any use for him so they put him on the line. They justify this by saying that he went through basic combat training so that qualifies him for infantry duty. I can see why they have Infantry Advanced Individual Training? I can see why nobody wants to enlist. I understood when I enlisted that I would not go into the infantry.

SPEC. C. J. A. B.

Question and Answer

I have a friend who disagrees. He claims all states require a physical examination and a waiting period before issuing a marriage license. I maintain this isn't true.

REPLY

We assume he means blood test, not physical exam. But either way, you win. Several states don't require a waiting period, and Nevada requires neither.

Question and Answer

We bought a new home before the inside was finished, and were told it would be finished just like the model next door. Many things still must be done, and the builder's representative has told us for five months they'd do it, but all we've had is the run-around. Who can do something about it?

MRS. K.

REPLY

The workmen, if you'll let them in to do the work. The builder's representative says the furnace has been replaced, and he intends to do the rest. However, he's sent workmen out but you wouldn't let them in because they didn't call first. They have to come when they can be spared from other jobs, and it isn't customary to make appointments. The builder has a very good reputation, with only one complaint in the last five years of extensive building. However, you can report any structural complaints to the Waterford Township building department. They will investigate and take appropriate action if it is indicated.

interest to depict the Chinese as trigger-happy barbarians. The Russians hope that the Red conclave will reassert their dominant position among faithful Leninists and "excommunicate" Mao's "Peking clique" from the world Communist movement. A similar international meeting Soviet efforts to subvert China's regime.

But it is doubtful whether the Kremlin's uneasy leaders can achieve their aim. It is not even certain how many Communist parties will take part in the conference. A similar international meeting that was held in Russia in 1960 counted 81 parties. Now there is talk of 68, including the minuscule organizations of the United States and the nations of Latin America.

Like the Chinese and the Albanians, the Yugoslavs have also castigated the conference as a Russian conspiracy. Yugoslavia's President Tito is reported to be organizing a rival conference of nonaligned nations.

Romania, though officially a member of the Soviet-dominated Warsaw Pact Military Organization, is seeking the support of Western Communists to thwart Moscow's imperialist ambitions.

Romania, like China and Yugoslavia, fears the Kremlin's policy of "limited sovereignty" which, the Russians claim, gives them the right to use armed force against any Communist country where "socialism is threatened."

Then there is the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia and the reaction it provoked and still provokes among Western Communists.

The Italian and other Western Reds have made it clear that they will oppose any move in Moscow to legitimize Russia's act of aggression. Nor are they likely to agree to excommunication.

However, it is for North Vietnam and North Korea that the Soviet-sponsored conference is a grave challenge. As Asian nations and China's neighbors they need Mao Tse-tung's friendship. But, like Cuba, their very existence depends on Soviet military and economic aid.

Milliken Defends Kelley on Charges

LANSING (UPI)—Republican Gov. William G. Milliken yesterday defended Democratic Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley against a charge of bribery allegations involving a state appeals court judge. Milliken said.

Kuhn contends that Lazaros' Bronson, Oakland County moneyman, alleges that high-ranking elected officials in Detroit-area to his election to the bench last fall. Milliken said that Lazaros' Bronson to sit on the appellate court on Lazaros' allegations or counties accepted bribes from court and that Kelley should Kuhn's latest statements.

Milliken told State Sen. George W. Kuhn, R-West Bloomfield Township, that his criticism of Kelley's handling of allegations by Mafia tipster Peter Lazaros against Judge S. Jerome Bronson was not justified.

"For the past several months I have been aware of a continuing and thorough investigation through the cooperative efforts of the State Police and the attorney general's office into various allegations by Peter Lazaros," the governor wrote Kuhn.

"To the best of my knowledge there have been no unreasonable delays in the progress of these investigations. For that reason I am not aware of any 'dilatory tactics' by the attorney general's office nor by the State Police."

NO AUTHORITY
Milliken said he had no constitutional authority to grant Kuhn's request that the governor recommend Bronson be suspended from the bench until the allegations were cleared up. Milliken said that was a matter for the judge himself or the State Judicial Tenure Commission to decide.

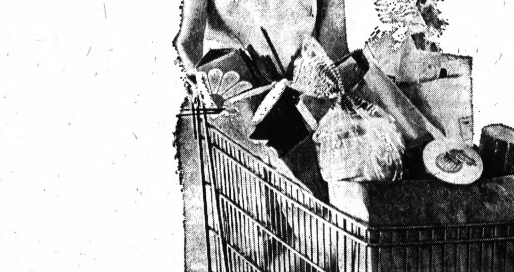

The governor agreed with Kuhn that it is costing the state a lot of money to protect Lazaros as a possible witness against the Mafia but he said such an outlay is necessary.

"To protect Mr. Lazaros, both during the course of the investigation and for the period of time until the reasonable apprehension of the threat to his life as a result of his disclosures ceases, is the only reasonable

10 Wounded at Factory, Then Police Kill Gunman

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—The factory guard looked at the plant, had been fired about two weeks ago for insubordination and striking a foreman. He had been in the process of appealing the dismissal.

Moments later, barages of shotgun pellets tore through the assembly line area of the Wisconsin Motors Corp. military engine plant.

"Call police — we've got a crazy man with a gun!" shouted a frantic worker who rushed from the building. Others took cover in the work area. Some fled by other exits and tore their hands trying to scale a 10-foot barbed wire fence to safety.

It was over in five minutes: Nine employees and a policeman were wounded by an estimated 15 to 18 shotgun blasts, and James N. Flippin, 28, fell wounded in a gun battle with police. He died about six hours later.

Flippin, a Negro who had expressed "resentment against white authority" during his three years of employment at the plant, had been fired about two weeks ago for insubordination and striking a foreman. He had been in the process of appealing the dismissal.

Anthony Wiza, 43, a supervisor who suffered chest wounds, remained in critical condition today at Columbia Hospital. Listed in fair condition were Anthony D'Amato, 51, another supervisor; Thomas Wolslager, 21, a stock room clerk; and Raymond Stock, 49, a worker.

The other wounded employees, along with police Sgt. Jerome Matusinec, 49, who suffered face and hand wounds, were released after treatment. Two other employees were injured but not shot as they fled the building, and another was treated for shock.

SHOTGUN AND RIFLE

Police said Flippin was hit by shotgun and rifle shots fired by Thomas Barth, 37, a plainclothes detective, and John Bernhardt, a uniformed policeman.

Flippin, who apparently had no relatives in the area, filed separate charges of racial discrimination last month against the company and United Auto Workers Local 283.

Officials refused to give details of the charges, which have been under investigation by the National Labor Relations Board.

Edward Buck, an assembly line employee, estimated 40 to 50 persons were near the assembly line area when Flippin entered. About 500 persons were in the two-story building, where small air-cooled military engines are manufactured.

South Africans Moon for TV

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Trips to the moon by American astronauts have sparked new demands for television in South Africa.

"Perhaps the amazing flight to the moon will at long last make South Africans realize how they are being robbed by the government's perverse objection to TV," Editor Joel Mervis wrote in the Sunday-Times at the time of Apollo 9.

Fresh grumbling was heard as Apollo 10 blasted off, and more complaints are likely when Apollo 11 attempts the moon landing.

This is probably the only large industrial nation to prohibit television. It is almost certainly coming, but when and in what form remains a mystery.

Some think it will be announced in 1971 to woo votes just before the general election. Most informed guesswork envisions public television about 1973 or 1974.

Closed-circuit television is used in schools and industry, but only under strict government controls.

Dr. Albert Hertzog, former minister of posts and telegraphs with control over broadcasting, criticized television as "evil, wicked and dangerous."

Matthys C.G.J. Van Rensburg replaced Hertzog in the Cabinet. "We do not believe television is a thing from the devil," he has said. "It has many advantages and disadvantages."

If and when it does come, it will be carefully controlled by the government, he said.

However, Van Rensburg denied there are plans afoot to introduce television.

This country in effect exports the product it bans. The government-franchised South African Broadcasting Corp. has supplied film of sports and other events to television stations overseas. It shipped footage of Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard, after his first heart transplant, to some 300 U.S. television stations.

Some opponents contend that the money needed to launch television would be better spent elsewhere, on education or roads or hospitals for example.

The world's largest aluminum rolling mill will be built at Davenport, Iowa, to be operational in 1971.

NOT SEEN IN S. AFRICA—This Apollo 10 moon picture, like many others transmitted on U.S. television, was not seen in South Africa. The reason? No television.

The U. S. trips to the moon have sparked new demands for television in South Africa, which is probably the only large industrial nation to prohibit the medium.

India True to Elephant Memory Tale

NEW DELHI (UPI) — An elephant never forgets.

No one is sure how the saying originated but tales of the elephantine memories of elephants are widely circulated — and believed — in India.

One such story is about Gopalan and Ramachandran, two elephants owned by a palace in Kerala, who were chained side by side in a compound after they had performed duty at a temple festival.

Ramachandran, the younger one, suddenly jerked himself free of his chains and attacked Gopalan, the older fellow, and almost tusked him to death.

"Ramachandran had never forgiven Gopalan for helping humans to take him into captivity," a mahout said later. "An elephant never forgets."

Another popular story known to most lovers of wildlife in India is about an elephant at the Madras Forest Department.

His mahout, so the story goes, habitually visited the village pub every evening where he would drink himself into a stupor, and fall asleep at the doorstep. Without fail, the elephant went to the pub at a specific hour and carried the mahout home with his trunk and put him to bed.

An elephant never forgets — even if he isn't pink.

His Dieting Wife Harder to Find

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Sgt. Cleamon Faulkner came home from a year's Air Force duty in Thailand Thursday and rushed right past that shapely little wife, Betty, he was looking for.

Mrs. Faulkner and a companion had to run the sergeant down, and even after they captured him, he was a little skeptical.

His bewilderment was understandable. Mrs. Faulkner, 32 years old Tuesday, now a svelte 160 pounds, weighed 340 last time Faulkner saw her. Then her measurements were 54-44-48, and she wore a 32 dress. Today her figure is 38-30-32, and her goal is to shed another final 20 pounds. The sergeant never had seen her smaller than 240 pounds, her wedding day.

IN DISGUISE

He didn't get much help from his excited mate as he stepped from the plane. She was wearing sun glasses and standing with Miss Jacque Stringer, a reporter for the Wichita Beacon, wearing a matching pair of sun glasses. The sergeant didn't give either a second glance, and they had to move pretty fast to nab him as he rushed into the terminal.

He had been forewarned that she wasn't the big girl she used to be, but even so — 160 pounds? Unbelievable?

After the introductions, the dazed comment was simply:

"I can't believe it! I can't believe it!"

LOOKS LIKE SISTER

"She looks like her sister Doris. I always liked her sister better, anyway," he quipped.

After her wedding Mrs. Faulkner climbed to 340 pounds when she saw her husband off to the Far East last year. She wore a raincoat trying to hide her figure and decided she had to do something.

Simply cutting down on eating didn't seem to help, as her friends told her it would. He doctor found she had a thyroid problem and began a treatment that brought her weight down to its present level.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a marriage license signed by two witnesses, so I must be married, although there are times when I'm not so sure. My husband has not come near me in I don't know how long. When I go near him for a little affection, he says, "Don't bother me. I'm tired." Or, "I'm sleepy." Or, "It's too late."

I am not a slob, Abby. I am neat and clean and have kept my figure. I am 32 and he is 34 but we both may as well be 90.

If I weren't able to support myself, the Salvation Army could keep me from starving. And I could look at television till my eyeballs fell out, but is that all there is to life? In other words, is it possible to live without love? NO LOVE.

DEAR NO: Yes, it's possible to live without "love" — and a lot of other things, if one must. But something is wrong with your picture. A normal, healthy 34-year-old man doesn't behave this way.

Get your man to a doctor for an examination from the neck both ways.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were recently invited to have dinner with some friends of ours. We looked forward to a very lovely evening as we really enjoy their company. They offered to pick us up, and I assumed they would come in and have a cocktail as usual, but they pulled up in front of our house, tooted the horn, and signaled for us to come out, which we did.

We got to the restaurant and hardly had time to take our coats off when they summoned a waiter to take our orders. We were rushed through the meal, plates removed before I had time to finish eating, and before we knew it we were in their car again being driven home. They didn't even shut off their motor, said goodbye, and that was our evening.

Apparently they had another engagement. My feelings were so hurt. Why can't people be more honest with each other? We could have made it another night.

DEAR HURT: That's a good question, but don't be so quick to judge. You never know the battle the other fellow may be fighting.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 years old and I've been married for five months. My husband is 23, and he is my problem.

He has had a mustache ever since the day we came home from our honeymoon. It's a Fu Man Chu mustache and it looks awful. In the four years we went together he was always clean shaven, and I liked him that way.

When I kiss him it feels like I'm kissing a barbed wire fence. He knows how I hate it, but he refuses to shave it off. I don't even feel like kissing him anymore.

Nobody likes it. Everyone tells him how terrible he looks, but it doesn't help. I could just bowl. What should I do?

DEAR NEWLYWED: There is more between you and your husband than a Fu Man Chu mustache. He is using it as a "weapon" to assert his masculinity, and show you (and others who have been telling him how "terrible" he looks) that he is his own boss.

Say no more about it, but let him know you're not crazy about lip-to-lip combat with a cactus.

DEAR ABBY: Now that the summer season is soon upon us how about some help from you for us poor souls who have summer cottages?

We've had our cottage 10 years and

Pair Tempted to Drink More Than Is Good

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to the writer.

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to add a post-script to your letter from Margaret, whose husband is a beer drinker. You replied that for moral or religious reasons, many people object to serving liquor.

May I suggest another possibility? My husband and I could have drinking problems if alcoholic beverages were easily obtained at all times. Rather than "tempting fate," I refuse to buy it.

Perhaps this is only a cheap and cowardly way out of a situation, but I prefer being a sober, cheery coward to being a gracious, thoughtful, and inebriated host and hostess. — "Tempted but Teetotal"

Dear "Tempted but Teetotal": 'I'm with you! And there is nothing cowardly about keeping liquor out of reach if it is apt to be too much of a temptation. Your good friends understand the situation, I'm sure, but when you ask new acquaintances over, it may seem a little odd to them.

Explain as best you can, or have just enough liquor on hand so that you would be depriving them if you shared it with them. This may be as much of a "prop" as the reluctance to accept a drink of their own liquor.

Get Husband to Doctor; His Behavior Not Normal

each summer we are more popular than the summer before. Friends and relatives come in droves to enjoy themselves in the sun over our food and drink. They stay anywhere from a weekend to a full week. Of course, they always come empty-handed.

We have even written notes in advance saying "We are sorry, but we can't have you this year," but they come anyway. Why are some folks so thick? We bought this place to get away from these people.

We don't want to seem cranky, but we'd like to entertain the guests we really WANT, without all these others "surprising" us. We're tired of running a free hotel, and are thinking of selling. Can you help us?

FED UP IN PITTSBURGH

DEAR FED UP: If you're actually written to say can't have them — and they come anyway — your only salvation is to develop a thicker hide than they have. Greet the unwelcome ones at the door with, "You may stay for a few hours, but when the sun disappears, please do likewise."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TONY IN PROVIDENCE": If you want to give her money, that's YOUR business. But if she asks you for it, face it, friend, that could be her BUSINESS.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P. O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P. O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Wedding Information

Planning your wedding? We want to help you.

Beginning June 9, we must have information about your wedding in our office five days in advance of the ceremony. Information blanks are available in the women's department, or the material may be printed clearly on any large sheet of paper.

Pictures will still be accepted up to three days after the ceremony, but the information must be in our hands ahead of time.

Couples Repeat Vows in Recent Ceremonies

St. Vincent De Paul Catholic Church was the setting Saturday for vows uniting Maria Del Rosario Hernandez and Jose Ybarra.

Attired in a traditionally fashioned gown of Chantilly lace over silk organza, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcello Hernandez of Henderson Street carried a bouquet of white carnations with ivy.

The bridegroom, who lives on Elizabeth Lake Road, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cayetano Ybarra.

Local Teacher Views War Firsthand

RUTH

(EDITOR'S NOTE: — Ruth Maury Scribner, a teacher at Pontiac Central High School, is currently on a trip around the world. Following are excerpts from an article she sent to The Pontiac Press.

By RUTH MAURY SCRIBNER

Saigon was not on my original itinerary for this seven months trip around the world. But one day, while enjoying one of Penang's lovely untouched beaches, discussing the war with a retired army colonel, suddenly knew I had to try and go to Vietnam.

Arriving at Tan Son Nhut airport is some sort of an adventure in itself. For total confusion and chaos, it had most airports backed off the map. You go out and look for a driver (taxi) to bargain with and they are very good at separating you from a goodly share of your life's savings. A kind hearted U.S. Airman saw me standing in total confusion and kindly offered me a lift into town.

HOTEL

My hotel is far from what would consider deluxe, but it was quite adequate. It was an interesting place to be since it had a restaurant and lounge which were about the highest places in the city and one could see, if there were artillery fire at night, flashes.

The first morning of my stay was quite an initiation as I was virtually rocked out of my bed about 6:20 a.m. by a nearby explosion. In my groggy, half awake state I stumbled to the window of the balcony — the worst thing you can do — to see what had happened. I saw only the nearly empty square below. All was quiet. I was later informed that someone had thrown a bomb on the steps of the city hall some four or five blocks away.

Establishing contacts in order to be able to get outside of Saigon was my first order of business. In Saigon, establishing contact is not much of a problem at all if you are a "round eyed" woman (GI for Western girl). However, this only assures you of social contacts and not necessarily the kind I needed at the moment.

I was told to be at the press mission center the next morning at 8 a.m. and to dress "schroungy." I did appear at the appointed hour, clutching two corisants and as of 613 first-married newlyweds. It concluded that the bride was a night not calculated to market, accounted for $1.9 raise troop morale, but properly billion alone in home attire for a day where I was furnishings and appliance product from electric broiler, blender, dishwasher and furniture to wall to wall, worn, olive green fatigues did carpeting and electric blanket. Not exactly flatter my figure.

I was generously supplied with a pair of size 7 1/2 field boots (I wear size 5) taken from some unsuspecting GI. I was also given a very large pair of wool socks to wear tucked under my toes.

I still think olive drab is depressing color. Isn't there some other that would be just as unobtrusive, but more attractive?

CORDON

Our destination was the central screening area for a cordoning off action called "Strangler III" — an apt designation. A certain area is selected for this cordon and as the perimeter is moved, the people in the area are sent in from their villages to be interrogated.

The area is combed thoroughly for VC and booby traps and mines. The people brought in have their IDs checked, are counted for census purposes and interrogated in order to discover any VC or VC sympathizers.

A pretty terrifying thing happened before we reached the preliminary tent. As we were about to cross a small bridge spanning a canal, we suddenly felt our eyes, noses and faces burning. The driver screamed "tear gas," and jammed the jeep into reverse and raced backwards. We all sat there weeping and wiping for about half an hour. It was later determined that the cause was probably the powder which is sometimes distributed around an area and which acts like tear gas when stirred up by vehicle traffic. Whatever it was, it was murder and I made a mental note to stay away from riots.

The villagers squatted on their mats and waited for trucks to transport them. They all looked poor, dirty, resigned. One had the very distinct impression that this was not the first time this had occurred to them. At first they seemed very suspicious of me and not a little curious. The interpreter told them who I was and they warmed up and talked through him. The women were interested in knowing how old I was. I could not help being touched by the pathetic looking children; so many were thin and so many had very poor teeth.

One of the things that struck me was the miserable countryside. It was flat, dusty, littered with cans and HOT.

I was struck by the boredom displayed by military men when not in the middle of a dried up dusty paddy.

It's a tedious war too and all the men I talked to had it figured out practically to the hour how much time they had left to do.

The people here are very surprised that Americans who are "all so rich" don't have felt our eyes, noses and faces burning. The driver screamed "tear gas," and jammed the jeep into reverse and raced backwards. We all sat there weeping and wiping for about half an hour. It was later determined that the cause was probably the powder which is sometimes distributed around an area and which acts like tear gas when stirred up by vehicle traffic. Whatever it was, it was murder and I made a mental note to stay away from riots.

WASH ON ROCKS

I was fascinated by the washing methods used by the "mam-sans." It was the same is used for hundreds of years — the pounding of clothes on a rock. The only innovation was the addition of Duz, acquired from the PX.

Everywhere were the sandbag structures presided over by armed guards stripped to the waist and sweating in the blaz. But it isn't so bad in Saigon, waiting, just really is it? No, it may not be if waiting for something to happen you're attached to some and hoping it won't and boy! government service. But Saigon what he wouldn't give for an ice is bad for those people who are cold beer and even a day off in refugees there, who are poor, sick, filthy tired.

"Don't worry, man, only six months and five hours before we're off to Bangkok or R and R."

"R and R? Look, man, I only got two months, four days and but it has learned through some 20 years of war to rock with the punches and be quite casual about it all.

Norman Ray, Pfc, a black GI from Detroit, expressed the opinion that there was "no color out in the field" nor, for that matter, in the army within his experience. He had a good relationship with the guys in his unit. Interestingly, I saw only one black GI, but one Negro general, two majors, a captain and a lieutenant who were all Negroes.

At the end of the day I had to give up my GI field boots of which I had grown most fond. At this point it was necessary for the first time to really test the tact and hospitality of these great guys. My question "Is there a — uh — a ladies' room some where?"

Well, m'am, not exactly, but we'll see what we can find." The "what we can find" was an outhouse resplendent with a crescent on the door and a sign that proclaimed this place was "For Majors and above." Naturally, I asked what was the difference between this one and any other. "Well, m'am, these have seats."

Today's news (May 18) says several bomb attacks took place in Saigon. It wasn't in your section of town so you don't worry that day.

- Where is the reception tonight?
- What government head has arrived to confer with whom?
- You can't buy hair spray?
- The artillery fire kept you awake last night?
- Isn't it dreary to have to

Dance Troupe Head Surveys U. S. Vistas

NEW YORK (AP) — The choreographed by modern dancers now and we may do anything from a triple pirouette to something primitive. "Choreographers use anything they find expressive today and dancers have to be very well rounded to make it all."

But Alley, who thinks that the troupe has much to give here, hopes, and believes, that it soon will be known in America as well.

The company had its first one-week season in a Broadway theater this winter and, with Merce Cunningham and Dance Company and Toots Thelma's American Ballet Players, has just become "in residence" at the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

After making extensive foreign tours during each of the last five years, Alley hopes that the company soon can tour in the United States.

GROWING IN U.S. "Modern dance is growing here," Alley says. "West Side Story" was the turning point to a lot of people's outlook about dance. They realized it had expressive possibilities.

"For a long time it had been a part of our whole cultural hand-out. Ballet had always been more popular, I think because it was foreign. Americans always seem to accept foreign things quicker."

"Modern dance was a marvelous American invention. But it had the stigma of being esoteric, incomprehensible, not for the common man. And that's not true. I believe that the best works of art, of painting, for example, may be complex but they're understandable."

One critical review of Alley's Broadway opening said, "Although at one level the Alley troupe can hold its own with the most uncompromising dancing in the country, at another level its use of jazz music and popular dance idioms naturally afford it a wider acceptance."

"ORIGINALITY LACKING" Alley says, "I don't think anything wildly original is going on at the moment in modern dance. We're all feeding on a few new ideas originated by Martha Graham."

"The major influence in modern dance in this century is Martha. She, the great mother, opened our eyes to using certain kinds of themes and costumes. The most important companies are offshoots of her, making variations of her ideas."

"I've seen young people working with mixed media and nudity. But I haven't seen anything, I think is wildly original."

Where does Alley think dance will go?

MORE SOCIAL. "I'm hoping toward a more social kind of dance, a return to the people, away from the high and mighty concert halls. I think all great art is social."

"Dance should tell more about our lives, what is happening to us now, explore our problems, our sensitivity. That's why I want to get the kids in."

This summer, although it doesn't have the money for it yet, the Alley company plans to perform for underprivileged children in Brooklyn, to introduce them to dance and perhaps to motivate some of them to achievement.

"I think we're capable of so much. I'd like to explore more and more the interior of man as he relates to society. I'd like to look for freedom in our heads and explore our potential as human beings and open people up to their own possibilities."

ON STAGE. "I wouldn't mind at all if people got up and came up on the stage with us."

Alley says, "There's a real wedding going on too. Ballet companies do dances

Slav Caught in Paris Case

PARIS (AP) — A Yugoslav sought for months as a key witness to the killing of actor Alain Delon's stand-in was arrested Wednesday night while trying to break into a parked car, police reported.

Delon's Yugoslav stand-in, Stefan Markovic, disappeared last Sept. 22, and his body was found nine days later on a garbage dump west of Paris. Delon and his estranged wife have been questioned several times about their relationship with Markovic.

Other witnesses in the investigation said that Misha Milosevic, a friend of the slain man, knew why and how Markovic was killed. Milosevic was picked up in Paris Wednesday, but police say they have determined he was not in Paris at the time of the killing.

"We're also a repertory company. I believe too many companies are too much involved with one person's ideas. In order for contemporary dance to survive we have to become repertory companies."

"We do the works of six or seven choreographers, much to our success. It's important for the dancers; their psyches become enlarged."

"And when I first came to New York I saw so many incredible ballets at the Y that had only one performance. I decided if I ever had a company I would try to revive some of those, so people could see them."

Alley's biggest problem is, of course, money.

He can only get enough bookings to keep a dance company together for about five months of the year. So the following year, depending on what — other teaching or performing — job his dancers have, part of his troupe always is newly hired.

Texan Says U.S. Taxes Depleting Oilmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Monopoly subcommittee, which Texas petroleum leader said is investigating oil imports and today the United States is the limitation of production by "running out of oilmen" — not domestic wells in Texas and oil.

He asked Congress to give the Oil-well drilling in Texas has declined, Steed said.

"By October 1972, the state of Texas will be required to utilize total capacity to meet nonemergency demand for its oil," he said. "The primary reason for these conditions in oil allowance and other government programs are not decline in oil well drilling, not encouraging enough exploration in the proposition that we are running out of oil."

Steed said the problem was a "lack of adequate incentives to the exploration and drilling for oil in this country."

"We are, quite frankly, running out of oilmen," he said.

Central Upset by Groves in Tourney, 2-0

NO RUNNING ROOM FOR LION—South Lyon's Dave Brandon (11) plows into pitcher Bob Muter of Southfield at first base in the fourth inning Thursday evening as the Pontiac Invitational High School Baseball Tournament commenced at Jaycee Park. The Lions' left fielder grounded the ball to Southfield first sacker

Lance Korthals (left) who elected to tag Brandon rather than toss the ball to his teammate who covered the base on the play. Second baseman Chuck Petrillo also yelled something to him as he went to first base. Southfield posted a 3-1 victory in the contest.

Southfield Southpaw Tops South Lyon in Opener, 3-1

By JERE CRAIG
Birmingham Groves fast-baller Don Ward was too tough for Pontiac Central's hitters Thursday night and the Falcons made their Pontiac Invitational Tournament debut a startling one by ousting the favored Chiefs, 2-0.
Southfield's Bob Muter confounded South Lyon with his curve balls and pickoff moves as the three-time tourney champion eliminated the Southeastern Conference titlist, 3-1, in the opening game.
The games marked the first appearance by either Groves or South Lyon in the eight tourneys sponsored by The Press and The Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department at Jaycee Park.
Play resumes at noon today with a twin bill, and two more opening round contests are slated for 2:30 p.m. before single games at 5 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. conclude the round of 16.
Rochester (15-2) plays Birmingham Brother Rice (9-4) and Waterford Kettering (13-8) meets Oak Park (14-2) in the noon games. Those two winners will collide at noon tomorrow.
Waterford's four new representatives both play at 2:30 p.m. Township (22-3) goes against Novi (10-5) and Mott (13-5) encounters Hazel Park (8-6). The two survivors have a 2:30 p.m. date Saturday.
Southfield (8-8) qualified to meet today's Milford-Clawson 5 p.m. victor.

The Redskins are 16-2 and Clawson has a 12-7 mark. The quarter-final game is at 5 p.m. tomorrow.
Groves (19-6) will return 7 p.m. Saturday to meet the Royal Oak Kimball-Pontiac Northern winner of tonight's final game. ROK boasts a 7-7 log while PNH's defending champion Huskies are 11-5.
LONE SAFETY
Groves' Falcons advanced as ace right-hander Ward limed the hard-hitting PCH squad (16-4) to only a solitary double by Phil Shaw in the fourth inning.
They escaped from a dangerous jam in the sixth with alert defensive work after Ward weakened and walked the bases loaded on 13 pitches.
Substitute catcher Dan Schreck, who entered the game when starter Scott Roller suffered a knee injury batting in the second, made the big play.
When Central's Shaw grounded to second baseman Clint Meyer, Schreck took the throw just in time to force Clyde Duncan at the plate, then gunned a perfect throw to third baseman Jeff Holmes to pick off Rich Hurst who rounded the bag too far.
Holmes fielded Andy Trevino's grounder for an inning-ending force out.
DEFENSE YIELDS
Groves then put pressure on Central's usually reliable infield and it yielded the two runs that settled the outcome.
An error at third base was followed by two well-placed bunts that went for hits when the Chiefs didn't react promptly. With the bases loaded and the infield drawn in, Groves' Kevin Burke looped a routine pop just to the edge of the outfield grass for a single that broke the scoreless deadlock.
After a strikeout, Tom Glesser's ground ball eluded the PCH second sacker and the final run scored.
Ward fanned eight in registering the shutout. All-County candidate Vic Quince was a tough-luck loser, striking out five and allowing just two bunt singles in three innings of relief work.
Though eliminated from the tournament, PCH still has a shot at the Saginaw Valley Conference crown in its makeup game most likely next week at Midland.
SEASON ENDS
The season is over, though, for South Lyon (12-5). The Lions managed only two singles off Southfield's junior pitcher Muter. The lean southpaw struck out eight and was hurt only by his own fielding deficiencies off the hill.
After stranding South Lyon runners on second base in the first and third, he yielded the losers' lone run in the fifth by throwing away two balls hit to him.
Meanwhile, the Blue Jays managed runs in the first two innings off Larry Roper. Lance Korthals' infield single in the opening frame was followed by a solid drive to left center by Chuck Petrillo that escaped the lunging grab of Dave Brandon and went for a run-scoring triple.
A walk, passed ball and long fly ball put Muter on third base, and he scampered home when Mike Byrd's pickoff throw sailed into left field in the second.
Doug Digue singled, stole second and came home with the winners' last run in the fifth when Korthals singled.

Mayo Predicts 30 for McLain

Daryl Patterson Bolsters Tiger Pitching Staff

Bengals Turn on Power to Down Oakland, 8-4

DETROIT (AP) — Pitcher Daryl Patterson, who has been on active Army duty with his reserve unit, will be placed on the active list in time for today's game at Seattle, the Detroit Tigers announced Thursday.
***
To make room for Patterson, the Tigers are sending pitcher Fred Scherman to their International League farm club at Toledo, Ohio.
***
Mickey Lolich, left-handed ace of the Tigers' pitching staff, is returning to Detroit to undergo examination of his swollen pitching arm at Henry Ford Hospital.
***
Lolich was struck on the left forearm by a line-drive off the bat of Danny Cater in a game at Oakland Tuesday night.
***
X rays disclosed no broken bones, but physicians said he apparently had suffered a severe bruise and his arm swelled.
***
Manager Mayo Smith said Lolich, 6-1 for the season, will miss his next pitching turn because of the injury.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Manager Mayo Smith of the world champion Detroit Tigers predicts his ace pitcher Denny McLain, will win 30 games again this season.
McLain won his eighth of the year as he beat the Oakland Athletics 8-4, Thursday.
***
"He's been pitching well all year and should have won a couple more," Smith said. "I know the percentage is against McLain winning 30 again, but I wouldn't discount his chances."
***
McLain is exactly on the timetable that brought him 31 victories in 1968. He won his eighth game last year on May 29.
BALK CALLED
McLain is mum about how many he will win this season. In fact, he was more concerned about two unusual incidents during Thursday's game—a balk and an argument.
***
"Who's the organist in the Oakland ballpark?" Denny demanded of newsmen.
***
"You want to know why I balked in the ninth inning?" The organist started to play just as I was winding up. I'm all for having organists in ballparks, but they should know when to play and when not to."

McLain plays the organ professionally during the off-season.
McLain hit Bert Campaneris on the left arm with a pitch and Campaneris yelled something to him as he went to first base.
***
"I don't know what he said," McLain explained. "I can't understand Spanish. I told him to get on first base and be quiet."
***
SEASON HIGH
Denny struck out 11 batters—his high for the season.
***
"That's unusual against Oakland. They have some good hitters, and there are only two free swingers, Jackson and Monday," he said.
***
McLain struck out Jackson twice and fanned Monday and Dick Green three times each.
***
Jim Hunter the losing pitcher, gave up three of Detroit's five homers. Norm Cash had two of the homers while rookie Ron Woods, Willie Horton and Jim Northrup each hit one.

HOLDS OFF 'CHALLENGE'—Mel Reeves of Pontiac Northern held off a stretch challenge by Central's Rolly Garcia yesterday to give the Huskies a victory in the 600-yard relay. However, Garcia won the two short dashes and long jump to pace PCH's 60-48 victory. (Pictures and story on Page B-4.)

Smith Adds Punch to Bosox Attack

Reggie Sparks Win Over KC

Slugger Hot After Switch in Lineup

KANSAS CITY (AP) — For a non-home run hitter, Reggie Smith is exhibiting some kind of power.

The fleet center fielder whacked two home runs, a double and a single in Boston's 8-6 victory over the Kansas City Royals Thursday.

That gave him six homers, 29 runs batted in and a .287 batting average this season, and it made a genius of Red Sox Manager Dick Williams.

Smith batted leadoff for much of this season, but 10 games ago Williams inserted him in the cleanup spot. The move has helped to perfection.

BEST RATIO

Since going to cleanup, Smith has driven in 14 runs and his 29 RBI in the 33 games he's played is the best ratio on the Red Sox. He missed 10 games with an injury.

Despite this power display, Smith insists he's no home run hitter.

"I'm not going to hit a lot of home runs because I'm not a home run hitter," he said after hitting up 11 total bases in Thursday's slugfest and going 8 for 12 in the three-game series.

"I'm a line drive hitter," added Smith. "And that's what I'm going to do—hit line drives and let the home runs come, like they did today."

Smith has no elaborate explanation why he's suddenly whacking the ball like one of baseball's premier sluggers.

BEHIND YAZ

"It just makes it a lot easier when you're hitting behind Carl Yastrzemski," said Smith. "I know they don't fear like they do Carl, but because he's there, they usually have to pitch to me."

Smith started the season batting leadoff, then sat out a while with an injury. When he got back into the lineup, he hit in the No. 5 position, then word back to leadoff and then to the present cleanup spot.

Why the moving around? "Bench Williams knew I was unhappy batting in the leadoff spot," Smith said. "but he wanted some speed up there. Then he decided he had to shake up the batting order, so he moved me down. It's just what I wanted."

RECOVERS IN TIME — Pontiac Central first baseman Phil Crawford (12) has to leave the bag to take a teammate's wide throw but he managed to tag Birmingham Groves' Jeff Holmes for the first out in the bottom of the first inning last night at Jaycee Park. Holmes grounded the ball to shortstop Andy Trevino to start the play.

Lake Orion handed Clawson a berth in the Pontiac Invitational Baseball Tournament this afternoon by knocking Madison's Eagles out of second place in the Oakland A League with an 11-5 triumph in the 11th inning.

The second-place duel between Madison and Clawson's Trojans went right down to the final game. Clawson (7-4) blanked Avondale, 2-0, then received the help it needed when the Eagles (7-5) stumbled in the 12th inning.

A two-run error, after two singles and a walk loaded the bases, opened the flood gates for Lake Orion who tied for fourth place by virtue of its victory.

Jerrel Hollens doubled home two more runs. Gary Roberts' triple drove in the fifth run out.

Winless Softball Ranks Lose Team; One Remains

Miracle Lounge escaped from the ranks of the winless last night by downing still winless Designers Cabinet, 11-5, in Class A Pontiac slowpitch softball.

In other Class A action, M.G.M. (3-1) whipped Huron Gulf (1-3), 10-7, and Tim-berlaine (2-2) rolled past Johnson & Anderson (3-2), 11-3.

'Too Polite' Says Russian of U.S. Netters

PARIS (AP) — "The trouble with Americans," said Evald Kree, coach of the Russian national tennis team, "is that they're so nice and polite."

"I don't think we'll get to the Challenge Round of the Davis Cup for a few years yet, even though they might want us to. But I hope we'll make the final of the European Zone, Section A, this year."

The Davis Cup has been thrown wide open by the upset defeat of Australia by Mexico. Donald Dell, captain of the U.S. Team, has said it would be a fine thing for tennis if the Russians were to go through to the Challenge Round and meet the United States.

The French championships went into their fifth day at the Roland Garros Stadium today, with two intriguing duels still to be finished.

Thursday night heavy rain cut play short with Cliff Richey, U.S. Davis cupper from San Angelo, Tex., still trying to get the better of 36-year-old Luis Ayala of Chile after some three hours of cut and thrust.

Richey led 6-4, 6-3, 8-10, 6-6. But two hours before the storm broke, he had a match point at 5-4 in the third set.

In another unfinished match, Rod Laver, top favorite for the first prize of $7,000, edged a tough task to save his reputation against fellow Australian Dick Crealy.

Crealy thrilled the center court crowd by taking the first two sets. He led 6-3, 9-7, 2-6 when the rain came.

Nancy Rickey, Cliff's sister, the ladies' defending champion, and Julie Heidman of New York won in their division and joined Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco in the round of 16.

Kathy Favorite at Winchester

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth, leading money winner on the Ladies' PGA tour, will be the favorite Friday when the 54-hole, $12,500 O'Sullivan Open golf tournament opens at the Winchester Country Club.

Top prize in the three-day tournament is $2,250 and besides Miss Whitworth, top name LPGA golfers in the field include Sandra Haynie, Carol Mann, Mickey Wright and Shirley Englehorn.

A total of 41 women professionals is entered. The top amateurs include 19-year-old Jackie Evans of Arlington, Va., and 18-year-old Jo Ann Dost of Sterling, Va.

S.T. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Ron Yary, second-year lineman with the Minnesota Vikings who was the team's No. 1 draft choice in 1968, will be lost to military duty at least until October.

HIGHSTEPPERS — Jerry Calo (right) of Pontiac Central and Northern's Mel Reeves go over the high hurdles together in yesterday's city meet. Reeves won in

Chiefs Top Northern

An extra 20 yards couldn't keep Pontiac Northern from leading to Pontiac Central for the 10th straight time yesterday in city track competition.

Rolly Garcia won three events to pace the Chiefs to a 69-48 victory. Strength in the middle distances turned the tide for Central which has never lost to Northern in track.

Garcia was pegged with the extra 20 yards — added to the 100 when the high hurdles finish line was used — but it didn't make any difference. He won in 12.1 and also took the 220 in 22.9 and the long jump in 21-11 1/4.

Despite intermittent showers that dampened the action, three track and one field record were set.

MIDLAND (AP) — Defending champion Monroe puts its 8-5 record on the line against Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills today in the opening round of the Woodward-Midland Class A Invitational baseball tournament.

After the first round of play and the quarter-finals today the sixteen teams entered will be reduced to four for the semi-finals and finals Saturday.

Managing Head of Dolphins Adds Four New Ones

MIAMI (AP) — Managing partner Joseph Robbie — who only two weeks ago added five partners in ownership of the Miami Dolphins — announced Thursday he had selected four more for a total of 10, including himself.

Takes Athletic Post

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — The Patriots announced Denis E. Lambert, 39, was Thursday the signing of Garron named today assistant athletic and rookie linebacker Joe Leach director and varsity ski coach, a 14th-round draft choice at the University of Vermont.

Honor for Leafs' Captain

TORONTO (AP) — George Armstrong, captain of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, Thursday night was named the first winner of the Charlie Conacher Memorial Trophy.

The award recognizes an NHL player who has made a humanitarian contribution — not necessarily connected with hockey — in the preceding year.

The Montreal Canadiens also received an award, the Charlie Conacher Team Trophy. This will be presented each year to the team winning the most games in meetings between the Leafs and Canadiens.

Jean Beliveau, captain of the Canadiens, accepted the trophy from Mrs. Conacher.

Armstrong was chosen specifically for his role in a floor hockey tournament for retarded children in Chicago. He and Stan Mikita of the Chicago Black Hawks each coached a team in the tournament.

Armstrong, whose work in community and charitable projects were also noted, received the trophy at dinner from the widow of Conacher. The former NHL star died in December, 1967, from throat cancer.

O. J. Talking Horse Race Results Trade to Bills

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — O. J. Simpson, Southern California's Heisman Trophy winner, said Thursday he wants to be traded by the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League so he can get a salary he feels he is worth.

Simpson, in Indianapolis for the 500-mile auto race, told a news conference he wants to play pro football, but "would not play if I don't get my price."

The college football all-American has met three times with Buffalo owner Ralph Wilson in Detroit, and each meeting has ended in a stalemate. Wilson in Buffalo Thursday said his offer of $50,000 a year for five years would stand.

But he did offer Simpson $5,000 if he is selected rookie of the year. Simpson, meanwhile, withdrew his request for a $500,000 loan for investment purposes but hiked his salary demands by $50,000 to $650,000.

Track Hopefuls Include EMU

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Defending champion Prairie View A&M of Texas, Eastern Michigan, Emporia State of Kansas and Texas A&M appear to be the top teams who will battle for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics track and field championship next week.

The final NAIA statistical report before the meet next Friday and Saturday at Billings, Mont., lists those four schools as having the most leaders in the 21 events.

Prairie View athletes have the top seasonal marks in five events. Thurman Bogges has run the 440-yard dash in 46 seconds flat. Felix Johnson has done 1:46.5 in the 880, Jesse Ball has turned in :51.5 in the 440 hurdles, James Bagby has thrown the shot 59 feet, 6 inches and Prairie View's mile relay team has the best time of 3:08.1.

Eastern Michigan's NAIA leaders heading into the final showdown are Dave Ellis with times of 13:40.8 in the 3-mile run and 28:19.3 in the 6-mile and Dave Campbell at 9:05.0 in the 3,000-meter steeplechase.

Vet Pro Sizzles in Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Bob McCallister, a tour regular but long-time also-ran, held a one-stroke lead going into today's second round of the Memphis Open Golf Tournament after shooting the best 18 holes of his 10-year pro career.

He surged over the steaming little Colonial Country Club course in a course-record matching 63 in the first round Thursday, but his seven under par effort left him far from secure.

In fact, 19 players were within three shots of him as the field of 144 battered par on the 6,485-yard layout, one of the smallest courses the tourists play.

All, there were 69 subpar rounds, and it appeared that it would take par or better to make the cut when the field is trimmed to the low 70 and ties after today's round.

Just behind McCallister, crew-cut, 6-foot Californian, at 64 were Bert Yancey, winner of last week's Atlanta Classic, and a trio looking for their first victory—Lee Elder, Ronnie Reif and John Lutz.

MacLendon shot a 65 despite a triple bogey 7 on the 14th hole, where he hit his tee shot into an unplayable lie, took a drop, missed the green, then three-putted. But he also had eight birdies.

Also at 65 were grinning Lee Trevino, the reigning U.S. Open champion, leading money winner Gene Littler and Lou Graham.

"The course played very, very short," Littler said. "Really, it's about a par 68."

Eleven others were tied at 66, including pre-tourney favorite Gary Player of South Africa, Dan Sikes and youngsters Jim Grant and Bobby Cole.

McCallister, 35, who hasn't won in this country since taking the 1964 Sunset-Camellia Open, was as hot as the 90 plus degree that he could be traded if a heat that baked the course.

He had eight birdies, an eagle and three bogeys. The latter came when he twice missed the green and once when he three-putted.

The eagle came on No. 13, a 490-yard par 5. He was on in two and rammed home a 25-foot putt. He had other big birdie putts of 45, 10, 15 and 10 feet plus a 55-footer on his last hole that gave him the lead.

Medical Society Reaffirms Opposition to Osteopath College

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan State Medical Society yesterday reaffirmed its stand against creation of a new college of osteopathic medicine and instead called for increased aid to existing medical colleges.

Dr. Ross Taylor of Jackson, chairman of the society board of directors, said two bills before the Legislature call for creation of state-supported colleges of osteopathic medicine with an independent board of control.

One proposes assigning the osteopathic college to Wayne State University as an autonomous, independent college. The other calls for assignment of the college to an unspecified new school.

A new osteopathic college, he said, would have to start from scratch and would wind up costing more than $100 million.

Neither make good sense and would be fiscally irresponsible, Taylor said.

Doctors of osteopathic medicine have started construction of a college near Pontiac and out an intern for at least four years, he said.

Taylor said the osteopathic college proposes a class of 64 in the Legislature appropriate $10 million over a period of three years.

He said the appropriation for the first year could start out at $3 million.

This, he said, would allow the training of 75 new medical students each year.

Army Private Seeks French Presidency

PARIS (AP) — Alain Krivine, a 27-year-old who is too revolutionary for France's Communist party, is the only army private ever to run for the French presidency.

The army gave the draftee a month's leave to campaign, and Krivine has used his immunity from army discipline to blast the "military establishment" which he claims was the backbone of President Charles de Gaulle's rule.

One commentator jibed that he wanted to "jump straight from private to commander-in-chief."

The dark-eyed firebrand says he can't win the election Sunday because all democratic processes are "rigged by the bourgeoisie," and that includes the French Communist party.

PREELECTION POLLS

Preelection polls give him barely 2 per cent of the vote.

A former history student, Krivine was expelled from the Communist party three years ago and is running as the candidate of the Trotskyite Communist League.

He admits he is not out to win votes so much as to preach violence.

"Our campaign is mainly educational," he says. "We want to carry our message to the working class and remind people that there are ways other than elections to overthrow capitalism."

LEADER OF REVOLT

Krivine was one of the leaders of the 1968 students' revolt. The star of the revolt, "Danny the Red" Cohn-Bendit, offered his support for Krivine's presidential campaign if the candidate would promise to make him premier.

"I cannot promise that," Krivine replied, "because if I'm elected I plan to abolish the post of premier."

Krivine, the intellectual son of a prominent French physician, is an effective off-the-cuff speaker. He hurls revolutionary scorn and invective at all other candidates, especially Communist party candidate Jacques Duclos whom he calls "a representative of the Kremlin bureaucracy."

Krivine enrolled in the Communist party while still in high school, but quarreled with the leadership over Stalinism, the invasion of Hungary and the dispute with Red China. When the party finally expelled him as a "leftist deviationist" in 1966, he founded a Trotskyite movement called "Revolutionary Communist Youth."

He was arrested a few weeks later and charged with keeping the movement alive.

De Gaulle's education movement was banned.

After the student riots, the government banned Krivine's ter, Edgar Faure, intervened and got the charges dropped. But the government withdrew Krivine's student deferment, and he was drafted into the infantry.

Surrounded at his election meetings by red flags and fists clenched in Communist salute, he denounces the persecution of liberals in Russia and the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

But his main message is that the workers of the world can achieve their ends only by violence, "a violence of legitimate defense against the permanent violence of the bourgeoisie."

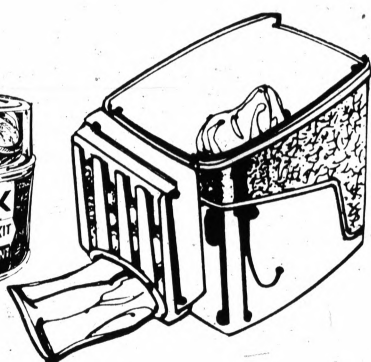

"We are not waging an election campaign," he says, "but a revolutionary campaign for a new upsurge of violence."

Bloody Fighting Reported in Red Chinese Power Struggles

HONG KONG (AP) — Artillery, mortars and machine guns have been used in factional power struggles that erupted in Communist China's Chekiang province three weeks ago, it was reported yesterday.

Professional observers of the Chinese scene said the reports first came from Chinese returning to Hong Kong from the mainland and have been corroborated by other trustworthy sources.

The reports said bloody fighting broke out in Chekiang, on the coast just south of Shanghai. Official provincial radio stations also have reported arson, riots and sabotage in Shensi province and bitter factional strife in Hunan province.

In Chekiang, the reports said, followers of ex-President Liu Shao-chi attacked supporters of Mao Tse-tung and his political heir, Defense Minister Lin Biao.

Artillery pieces, mortars and machine guns apparently were brought into action when militia units, and some regular army troops joined the fighting.

SPLIT INDICATED

Official Western sources here said there were "strong and apparently well-founded indications" that Chekiang's military leaders had split, some rebelling against Lin and others standing aside without trying to suppress the fighting.

In Shensi and Honan, the war-torn factions reportedly are trying to establish themselves as provincial leaders for Mao trends of the class struggle by the ninth Communist Party Congress in naming Lin to succeed Mao.

Shensi's official radio, located in the provincial capital of Sian, revealed the strife there in a broadcast Wednesday night.

"It is of utmost importance that close attention is paid to enemies apparently referred to it" of the followers of Mao and who oppose the action of Lin.

It said the "class enemies are spearheading their attacks against the new-born revolutionary committee." This lent support to recent reports that the revolutionary committees named by the Maoists are having difficulty keeping control.

Hunan's provincial radio at Changsha accused "class enemies of concentrating their sabotage efforts on splitting the unity of the followers of Mao and who oppose the action of Lin.

It said the "class enemies are spearheading their attacks against the new-born revolutionary committee." This lent support to recent reports that the revolutionary committees named by the Maoists are having difficulty keeping control.

Books Banned From Schools

NAPOLÉON (AP) — Four books have been banned at least temporarily from the shelves of school libraries in this small town reportedly because the school superintendent read one, found its language "objectionable" and said he assumed the others were similar.

Banned were John Griffith's "Black Like Me," Alan Paton's "Cry the Beloved Country," Dick Gregory's "nigger" and Ralph Ellison's "Invisible Man."

Supl. Edward J. Hungerford said he first banned the books on recommendation from a citizens advisory committee. He said he had read "nigger" and assumed the others to be similar.

The books will be kept off the schools' shelves at least until a committee of English teachers and administrators studies them and makes a recommendation to the school board, he said.

Put In Long Day at Work? Here's What Time Paid For

By CARLTON SMITH and RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT
Newspaper Enterprise
Association

If your working day begins at 9 o'clock, by 9:56 you have put in enough time to pay for your consumption of food, tobacco and alcoholic beverages for the day.

One hour later, you've earned enough to pay the cost of keeping a roof over your head, including household expenses. By 11:21 you have taken care of clothing costs for the day, and can begin working on paying your transportation expenses. They're taken care of by 12:01. Now, while you're out to lunch until 1 o'clock, you might want to mull over what you'll be doing the rest of the afternoon. (And in case you want to brace yourself, there's some bad news coming.)

This breakdown of Americans' working day has been figured out by the Tax Foundation, a nonprofit organization devoted to research and public education.

A GOOD GUESS
From that, you might make a good guess at what you're going to be working to pay for when you get back from lunch. OK, back to the salt mine.

From 1 to 1:21, your earnings pay for the cost of medical care; by 1:39 you've got your recreation taken care of; by 3:25, all the leftover miscellaneous items in the cost of living, along with whatever you're managing to save, if anything.

All except for one little item, we hasten to add, before you get your coat on. Taxes. Federal taxes from 3:25 to 5:12, and state and local taxes from then until 5:59. Makes for sort of a long day, doesn't it?

As the Tax Foundation figures the way an eight-hour working day divides up into hours and minutes, it goes like this:

Recreation, 18 minutes;

medical, 21; clothing, 25; transportation, 40; food, tobacco and alcoholic beverages, 56; housing and household expenses, 1 hour; all other, 1 hour and 46 minutes; taxes, 2 hours and 34 minutes.

117 WORKING DAYS
If you'd prefer to get your tax bills out of the way all at once, leaving the rest of the year for undiluted, selfish attention to your own material needs, you can do it in 117 working days—by around June 17, say, if you start on Jan. 2.

In view of the fact that you work harder to pay taxes than any of your other bills, you might like to know how your money's being spent—your federal taxes, at least, which the foundation finds come to $2,834 per family this year.

On the basis of the way the federal budget divvies up the revenue, here's the way your family's $2,834 will be spent this year:

|                                                |         |
|------------------------------------------------|---------|
| National defense                               | $1,250 |
| Health and welfare, including social insurance | 754     |
| Interest, and otherwise                        | 201     |
| Unclassified                                   | 201     |
| Commerce and transportation                    | 124     |
| Veterans benefits and services                 | 119     |
| Education                                      | 111     |
| Agriculture and agricultural resources         | 84      |
| Space research and technology                  | 65      |
| International affairs and finance              | 61      |
| Community development and housing              | 36      |
| Natural resources                              | 29      |

And that's why you didn't get away from work until 6 o'clock last night, in case you have to explain it to someone.

Status Is Maintained for Tiny Tax Haven

LONDON (AP) — One of the world's smallest tax havens, a two-square-mile granite island with a population of 16, has a new owner who doesn't bother about taxes in any case.

Dozens of wealthy bidders had been trying to buy Lundy Island for a tax-free home, but they lost out to Britain's National Trust, a nonprofit foundation that protects historic lands and buildings.

To purchase Lundy the trust paid $360,000 it obtained as a gift from a wealthy Briton who now lives in the Bahamas — also a favorite tax haven.

The purchase means that Lundy, in the Bristol Channel between southwest England and Wales, will remain open to tourists. A trust official says it also means Lundy's 16 residents — five married couples and six lighthouse keepers — can continue to live in the tax haven without fear of eviction.

No figures are made public on how many Britons leave England for summer tax climates, but the number is growing. "A lot of people have been thinking about it since the capital gains tax went into effect in 1965," says one London accountant. "If the government doesn't do anything to alleviate the tax burden, it could become a serious thing."

Many of the island dwellers go to Malta, an inexpensive, picturesque island between Sicily and North Africa. This former British colony has an income tax of a mere 2½ percent. The most famous Briton there is zoologist Desmond Morris, whose book "The Naked Ape" is banned on the heavily Roman Catholic island.

The Englishman who wants to cut his tax bill doesn't have to go far from home. Surrounding Britain are dozens of small islands and two large ones, the Channel Islands of Jersey and Guernsey, that have special relationships to the crown allowing them to legislate their own internal affairs. And taxes are definitely internal, they insist.

NEAR FRANCE
Jersey, near France, boasts lots of sunshine, fine beaches, beautiful homes — and no sales tax, no capital gains tax, no estate tax. Its income tax is a flat 20 per cent, compared to Britain's top rate of 91 per cent. "It's a very pleasant place to live," says Hugh McDougall, a director of several Jersey trust funds. "It's very quiet, except when the tourists come in the summer. I've lived here 21 years and I wouldn't want to go back to England."

Islanders need not sever their ties with London completely. Britain generally allows them to visit as often as they like, just so the time doesn't total more than three months a year.

The Channel Islands became a part of Britain in 1066, when William the Conqueror took over England and combined it with Normandy, but not the nearby islands.

ULTIMATE POWER
While the islands have their own legislatures, Queen

Elizabeth II is still the ultimate power. Britain also provides some services, such as postal deliveries and telephones. Thus Britain could legally impose taxes on the islands, but centuries of tradition and even financial reasons dictate non-interference.

In 1870 the owner of Lundy was arrested for minting his own coins. A British court decided that the island was in every respect a part of England. But the government bowed to tradition and never started collecting taxes.

Residents of the islands offer a number of arguments that in their view makes their status safe.

"Britain may be losing the tax revenue," says one Jersey banker, "but the sterling is staying in the country."

"Let's face it. If people don't like the fact that they have to pay 75 per cent of their income to Inland Revenue, then they'll move. If they can't go to Jersey, they'll take their sterling and move to Spain or Switzerland."

The Jersey financier McDougall maintains that the Channel Islands could declare themselves independent. This would mean, he says, that residents' money would be withdrawn from British banks and exchanged into another currency. Moreover, Britain could lose the money netted from services to the Channel Islands' 700,000 tourists a year.

Actor Curtis Is Glad Film Taboos Gone

By DICK KLEINER

NEA Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — For Tony Curtis, the end of taboos has been the beginning of better things.

We sat in his dressing room between shots on his new film, "Suppose They Gave a War and Nobody Came." And Tony, who is one of Hollywood's best talkers, talked about the way the film business has been changing lately.

"There are better parts around now," he said, "and that's because of the change in the philosophy of film making. Motion pictures always used to reflect Christian morality. That was the basis of what you could do and what you couldn't do. But that's all changed now. They don't adhere to Christian morality any more."

'NO MORE TABOOS'
"Now there are no more taboos."

Curtis says that anything goes today. "In our talk, he wasn't discussing the right and wrong of this change, but simply that it exists, and what it means to him, as an actor."

"Today," he said, "when I get a script, there is usually an interesting character to start with. That's essential to an actor, an interesting character."

"I have an interesting character to play in this movie, and I have one in my next, 'The Dubious Patriot,' which will be shot in Turkey."

OLD ARMY MAN

In "Suppose They Gave a War and Nobody Came," he's playing an old Army man. Brian Keith and Ivan Dixon are his buddies.

It's a story — obviously, from the title, an antiwar story — about three old soldiers and their conflict with the new Army.

The set was a working bar and grill somewhere in the South.

It was called The Hula Hut, and the waitresses, in keeping with the name of the joint, were in modified muumus, mini-skirted version.

NO MENTION

The script doesn't mention the location of The Hula Hut. Don McGuire, who wrote it, had specified Mississippi, but Fred Engel, the producer, dropped that reference.

"If it was my picture," McGuire growled, "I'd damn well call Mississippi."

He went over to a display behind the bar and ripped off a package of peppermint and began gnawing on a strip of the stuff.

"A writer should never be on the set," he said. "It's too traumatic."

Between takes, the extras — soldiers, girls, civilians — hung around the bar as though it were Saturday night in East Gingersnap.

Tony Curtis

They played the pinball machine and the juke box and there was much laughter and conversation, until the assistant director quoted them down.

That gave director Hy Averback a chance to tell me his conception of the story.

"This," he said, "is a story of men out of time — middle-aged men who are still in the Army. It's a comedy, but it has something to say."

FROM BUMPER STICKER

Fred Engel, a cherubic-faced man, said that the title was taken from the bumper sticker of the same name.

It is probably the most popular bumper sticker on the West Coast, but Engel says isn't as well-known around the country.

Engel says he put his own money into developing the story and McGuire's script.

The original story, he said, he bought from a "strange man" who had some of it written on the back of restaurant menus."

Now, maybe he can buy his own restaurant.

Deaths Stir New Furor on S. African Law

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — There is regret over the deaths, and they were being detained too far from the court, political uproar in South Africa over the nation's strict "pass" laws, which cover the movement and activities of Africans.

The latest furor was touched off by the suffocation of three Africans in an overcrowded police van last month. The victims were awaiting trial for failure to carry valid identification booklets, as required by the pass laws.

Primary intent of the laws, part of South Africa's official apartheid separation of the races apparatus, is to control the movement of Africans into the cities.

As a result of the new controversy and heated debate in parliament, Police Minister Lourens Muller has ordered an inquiry into the police van deaths, although he accused the opposition of raising the matter for political rather than humanitarian reasons.

HARM FEARED

"The more the incident is blown up, the more harm it will do South Africa," Muller told the House.

The police minister expressed his regret over the deaths, and they were being detained too far from the court. Many of South Africa's most influential papers have discussed the case editorially. The anti-government Rand Daily Mail estimated some 2,500 African men, women and teenagers are arrested "for purely technical offenses" every day.

TRAGIC RESULTS

This, it said, was leading to "broken families, unemployment, poverty, bewilderment and racial bitterness."

The pro-government Vonderland did not link the deaths with the pass laws, but it said: "An injustice towards our non-whites is a double evil because out of it only hate against whites is born. The overseas propaganda which has flown from this sorrowful affair we do not even wish to consider."

The pass laws compel every African over 16 to carry identification stamped with the areas where the bearer may live and work.

off his four clubs. The suit would break and West would have to discard on the fourth club. He clearly could not afford to let a diamond or spade go so would chuck a heart. Now would come the Vienna Coup. South would cash his ace of spades in order to establish West's king.

This name is now applied to all plays of this sort whenever they come up and is made every day by some expert. In fact we believe that almost all of today's good players know the play and make it on occasion.

Once the ace of spades is cashed South simply runs off dummy's five hearts and discards down to the ace-queen-small of diamonds. On the last heart poor West has to throw away a diamond in order to hang on to that good king of spades. Then the diamond finesse gives South the rest of the tricks.

We have tried to put the hand in contract form. South arrives at a rather unsound grand slam in no-trump but North's jump to four hearts undoubtedly made South optimistic. The 10 of hearts lead beats the grand slam but West opens the jack of

For Saturday

TEEN DATING HINTS: Full moon tonight on Sagittarius. For those who are active, this is a good night for dating and romance. SCORPIO picks up the check. ARIES gets a kick out of foreign food. ARIES finds theater date fulfilling. Many split up tonight and find new interests. Sensitive areas come up for discussion. LIBRA is not to be instigated.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Full moon accounts for change in correspondence and communications. Think ahead. Realize that preparation for future is essential. Don't be deceived by one who sweet-talks.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Avoid immaturity in money transactions. Be sure of facts, but wise to take things for granted. Financial dispute seems high. Lighten up. Be sure you know what you are doing.

GEORGINA (May 21-June 20): You may finish a project or an association. Lunch date on break. Spills. The opportunity of the end. You also have opportunity to change prospects for future endeavor. Be alert!

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Avoid excess at special party or gathering. Member health resolutions. Don't over-indulge. You know what is right - but temptation is to do otherwise.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): You may find that disputes arise with children, others. Social affair tonight gives you opportunity for expressing love. Do so in diplomatic manner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A friendly quarrel to dominate. Be sensitive. Don't magnify differences. If factual and calm, you succeed in ending a major point. Some restrictions will be lifted.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Try to avoid excess tonight of wine, food, or other pleasures. Your principles may not apply to others. Realize this and extend sympathy. Short, quick journey is on agenda.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be wary in avoiding discussions. There is opportunity for gain. But you should consult one who speaks from experience. Men don't take chances on losing something for nothing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You tend to act first, think later. Best advice

Many Small Colleges Are Reportedly 'Hungry' for Students

By ROGER DOUGHTY

NEW YORK (NEA) — When the college of your choice lets you know you're not one of the students of its choice — and your second and third picks do the same — what do you take to relieve the unpleasant pain of rejection?

That's a question a lot of high school graduates will be trying to answer during the next few weeks as they pick up their diplomas and turn in their caps and gowns.

The answer, according to college admissions directors, is to take stock of yourself — maybe you've been aiming too high. It's still not too late to find a school that wants you — if you know where to look.

"Most high school students are conditioned over the years to believe that all colleges are full," says William Winger, head admissions man at John J. Pershing College, a 550-student school in Beatrice, Neb. "They're also told that there isn't room for anyone who failed to place in the upper 20 per cent of the class. All of which is incorrect."

"Of course, in large metropolitan centers, there are far more high school seniors graduating each year than the colleges and universities in the immediate vicinity can possibly admit."

"But there are plenty of excellent small liberal arts colleges around that would be delighted to take in the overflow. A lot of the smaller schools are only partially full and each year a few more have to close up because they don't have enough students to keep them going."

Or, as Dr. John Howard, president of Rockford College, of Rockford, Ill., notes: "If you're going to set your sights on the Ivy League and the other top schools in the East, the competition is going to be savage. But if you look around, you may be surprised by what you find. There were 17,500 vacant spots in colleges in Illinois last fall and many schools in the Midwest were just begging for students."

One reason for this situation, claims Howard, is that easterners have always looked down on state universities as the colleges you went to if you couldn't get into a private school.

OTHER WAY AROUND

"Things have always been the other way around in the Midwest," says the Rockford president. "Out our way students have traditionally thought of schools like Ohio State or Michigan State or the University of Illinois first."

"If they couldn't get into the state university they headed for the private schools as a second thought. Because of this, private schools in the Midwest are a far cry from many of the 'closed institutions' in the east."

"The Midwestern schools are hard-pressed to prove themselves worthy to the students who apply."

All of which means, according to Pershing's Winger, that graduation day is no time to feel rejected and neglected. It's time to take action.

"Believe it or not," he says, in a tone convincing enough to make almost anyone believe it, "right now there's a 'buyer's market' when it comes to getting into small private colleges. We're even in direct competition with the community colleges when it comes to signing up students the 'in' schools don't want. We're hungry, and so are a lot of other colleges."

The advantages of going to a small college, besides being able to get in, are pretty obvious — small classes, personalized attention and a close teacher-student relationship.

"We don't have any hippies," says Pershing student organization president Bob Anderson, "because you don't have to be a hippie to get noticed around here."

"In fact," says Winger, "it appears to me that a lot of the people who are causing the most trouble at the major universities never should have gone there in the first place. They might have found happiness and recognition on a small college campus."

Nebraska may never be the same.

"Sometimes I wonder why I dropped out of college—I had just as much anonymity there as I do here!"

Mongolia Is Buffer Zone Between 2 Red Giants

WASHINGTON — Outer, receives generous loans and grants from the Soviet Union. Latest arenas of political conflict, occupies an uncomfortable position.

The landlocked Mongolian yak, yurt and yogurt to leap into People's Republic — roughly equal in size to Great Britain, Germany, France, Italy and Portugal combined — spans rugged mountains, lonely prairies, and vast desertland.

Earthquakes are common and violent. Winters are long and cold.

Most of Mongolia's discomfort, however, comes from other factors — her neighbors. Vulnerable to the winds of fortune, 12 million Mongols inhabit a sparsely settled buffer zone between two giants of world communism, the Soviet Union and Red China.

SHARES ALL BORDERS

The Soviet Union shares Mongolia's 1,600-mile northern frontier, while Red China shares the 2,500-mile western, southern, and eastern borders. The National Geographic Society says.

A pawn in the communist struggle, Mongolia regularly

enables the long-isolated land of the 20th century.

Until recently, Mongolia enjoyed few educational facilities and little industry or agriculture.

The transformation has been startling.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION

In a land where illiteracy was universal a generation ago, elementary education now is compulsory.

New industries grow up almost overnight. Darkhan, a town of only 2,000 people as recently as 1962, has a giant thermal power station, a brick factory, a cement plant, a building material factory, and more than 25,000 residents.

The capital city of Ulan Bator, a huddle of one-story shacks 20 years ago, is now a bustling Europeanized city.

Trucks and motorcycles roar past new five-story apartment buildings.

Ray of Hope Still Glimmers That Pyramid Search Will Pay Off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you believe Dr. Luis Alvarez, the distinguished American physicist and Nobel laureate, it was one of the saddest days of his life when he was proved wrong. He still dearly hopes eventually to be proved right.

If you believe Dr. Ahmed Fakhry, the distinguished Egyptian archaeologist, it was one of the saddest days of his life when he was proved right. He dearly hopes eventually to be proved wrong.

You can believe both of them. Whatever betides, each will rejoice in the skill and brilliance of the other.

Alvarez of the University of California at Berkeley and Fakhry, famous Egyptologist of Ein Shams University, Cairo, were partners with others in an "X-ray" search of the Pyramid of Chephren at Giza for possible secret chambers which somehow might have escaped the notice of grave robbers in the 4,600 years since the massive burial pile was built.

The pyramid of Chephren, guarded by the Sphinx, rises from the Egyptian sands not far from the somewhat larger Great Pyramid of Cheops, Chephren's father.

The Great Pyramid, though pillaged by robbers, turned out to contain two hidden chambers, the "King's" and the "Queen's," plus a long Grand Gallery which escaped discovery for 3,500 years.

Chephren's pyramid appears to have only one chamber, situated beneath the base, and Alvarez could not believe this ancient pharaoh had not built secret chambers like those his father had introduced into the Great Pyramid next door.

Alvarez conceived the idea of putting cosmic ray counters into Chephren's only known chamber and seeing what happened. Cosmic rays, darting at high energies from space, presumably would travel with greater intensity through empty spaces, such as secret chambers, than through solid rock.

The experiment was carried out. Last month computers in Cairo and Berkeley reported there were no such empty spaces in the one-third of the pyramid "X-rayed" by the cosmic ray counters.

Fakhry, who has been studying Egypt's 70 pyramids all of his life, could have said "I told you so."

For historical reasons, he had arrived at the conclusion that Chephren's architects would see no reason to repeat the secrecy dodges of Cheops. He didn't believe in Alvarez's hidden chambers, but he was delighted to have modern science helping ancient archaeology.

The Egyptian and American scientists have spent about a third of a million dollars examining the part of Chephren thus far studied and found wanting in secrets. They need only about $20,000 more to X-ray the remaining two-thirds of the pyramid.

Alvarez and Fakhry reported their hopes for the project's future at a recent meeting of the American Physical Society in Washington.

"It would be a tragedy if we came this far and didn't complete the job," the physicist said. "If we pull out now, Chephren will win."

The Egyptologist still does not believe cosmic ray examination of the rest of the pyramid will reveal any secret chambers. But if it should, it would be a marvelous archaeological discovery.

"I still have hope that I am going to be proved wrong when the rest of the pyramid is examined," Fakhry said.

Young 'Asthmanaut' Gets Aid at Unusual Facility in Colorado

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The helps determine just how youngster with the mod haircut climbed into the bright orange capsule and grinned through the sealed window as the heavy door swung shut — airtight — behind him.

Like other youngsters under treatment for asthma at an unusual facility here, Peter Ewing, 6, calls himself an "asthmanaut."

The chamber he entered is known technically as a "plethysmograph." But the young asthma patients, carrying out their play on space program lingo, call it "Asthma 13." Doctors and technicians call it "the body box."

The chamber is used to measure the amount of lung damage caused by asthma.

Peter Ewing is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne A. Ewing of Springfield, Ohio. His father is a doctor of theology and a teaching missionary for the Lutheran Church in America.

Peter's worsening asthma caused the family to return to the United States from Singapore in 1968. Dr. Ewing now is a visiting professor at the Hamma School of Theology in Springfield. Peter's near-fatal attacks of asthma resulted in his coming to Denver early this month as a patient in a new section of Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital (CARIH), the largest such facility in the Western Hemisphere.

The airtight plethysmograph severely lung function has been impaired, said Dr. Hyman Chai, director of hospital services. Confined in the chamber with its fixed volume of air, the youngsters breathe through a device that feeds measurements of pressure and volume outside to a console, where readings permit quick calculation of lung function.

The device also is used by physicians to measure the effectiveness of therapy. "I can see whether what I'm doing is really working," said Dr. Chai. "We can't rely on the subjective reporting by the child."

"If they're planning to go bowling, they may be wheezing and still say they feel fine," he said.

CARIH, with 165 beds, provides free treatment and care for children from throughout the United States who suffer from chronic and unmanageable asthma. Researchers here also are looking for the cause of asthma and other allergic diseases.

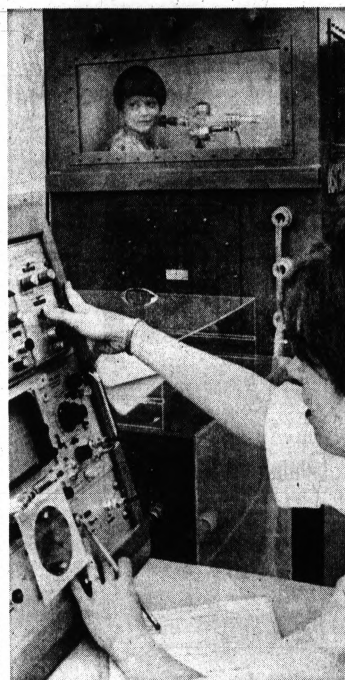

While nine of 10 children improve under medical supervision, it is estimated there are 300,000 children with severe constrictions of airways. CARIH estimates 80 per cent of the severely affected patients it treats either improve so that little medication is required or become asthma-free. Virtually all the others improve enough to attend school regularly and participate in most normal childhood activities.

READY FOR TESTING — A foot-thick door is about to close on 6-year-old Peter Ewing, a patient at Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital in Denver.

Peter is undergoing tests in a unit called a Plethysmograph that measures breathing. After a time in the plethysmograph, Peter will become a full-fledged "asthmanaut."

CHECKING THE DATA—Peter Ewing peers through the window of a plethysmograph while undergoing breathing exercises. The plethysmograph is a 4-by-6-foot airtight unit used to measure lung functions.

Poison Killing More in Nation

'75 Pct. of Victims — Preschool Children'

ANN ARBOR — The head of the Poison Control Center at the University of Michigan Hospital says the nation is witnessing a steady increase in accidental poisoning in spite of efforts to prevent it.

Dr. George H. Lowrey, professor of pediatrics, says national figures "indicate a 15 per cent increase in fatal poisonings during the past eight to 10 years."

In a report to the fourth annual U. of M. conference on "The Initial Management of the Acutely Ill or Injured Patient," Dr. Lowrey noted that 2,400 persons died in one year from poisoning. The figure does not include those killed by gases and vapors, but it may include some suicides, the U-M doctor said.

He told the audience of ambulance drivers, rescue workers, police and fire officers that 75 per cent of the poison fatalities occurred in preschool-age children.

SELDOM ANTIDOTES

Half the fatalities result from ingesting drugs and medications, and specific antidotes are seldom available.

The most dangerous areas of the home for accidental poisoning are the kitchen, bathroom, and bedroom, he said.

He presented a review of the common emergency measures that can be taken to aid a poison victim.

Have Films Reached Ultimate?

By NORMAN GOLDSTEIN

NEW YORK (AP) — In the decade of the '60s, movies have followed the public path of permissiveness; as old rules of sex morality disappeared, movie taboos vanished along with them; as skirts got shorter and blouses bared, movies too bared more, dared more.

Uninhibited language. Nudity. The "ultimate" in sex. All have spread from the roots of society to the movie screen, where the anything-goes attitude is reflected, to the satisfaction of some, the chagrin of many.

In retrospect, it is difficult to imagine the heated debate over Clark Gable's use of the word "damn" — speaking to Vivien Leigh, no less — in "Gone With the Wind," or the furor over Jane Russell's cleavage in "The Outlaw."

Even the "sensational" backside nudity of "Cleopatra" just six years ago or the cause celebre created by the bared breasts in "The Pawnbroker" only four years ago are "tame," compared to what has been seen on American screens of late — particularly in foreign imports.

JUST A PHASE?

Have the movies, then, reached the "ultimate"? Has the new flood of candid cinema crested? Where are the "new freedoms" leading?

Generally, moviemakers feel this, too, will pass; it is but a phase in the maturation of a young art. Most object more to the emphasis on advertising and exploitation of the "sensational" scenes than to the over-all trend.

Here are some comments from film makers on the increasing sexuality of movies:

John Boulting, British film producer-director and partner in his own film company with brother Roy:

"The creator is now liberated vis-a-vis 10 years ago. There's been a gradual ending of inhibitions. The youngsters took over after the war. They didn't GOING TOO FAR?—"We've come far in four years," says John Schlesinger, director of "Darling." "Darling" too far." Six years ago, Elizabeth Taylor (below) in "Cleopatra" caused a sensation. More recently, in "Candy," Eva Aulin (above) appeared to be flinging away the last inhibitions against the direct representation on the movie screen of nudity and lovemaking.

buy the values of our world, the father helped write the original sham, the hypocrites. This had movie production code, in an immediate consequences in literal in Motion Picture Daily: cinema, which is acutely sensitive to changes of audiences, its tain shock effect and has been attitudes—more liberal, more rewarded with a great deal of publicity. However, repetition of nudity is bound to reduce both shock effects and publicity. Soon nudity may be greeted with a yawn . . .

BECOMES A BORE

"Now everything goes—far too much. It becomes a first-class—or is it third-class—bore."

Albert (Cubby) Broccoli, co-producer of the James Bond series of films and currently producer of the family film "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang":

"Chitty Chitty Bang Bang": pornography and violence. "We've gone too far afield in making our pictures. Once the ban was lifted, everyone rushed dragged into pictures. Making in, to one side of the boat—and the wrong kind of pictures and dirty entertainment means you

Martin Quigley Jr., movie trade paper publisher, whose audience and the whole industry. You do not have to lower your sights to entertain."

Larry Peerce, director of "Goodbye, Columbia," from Philip Roth's novella concerning a summer love affair between a young boy and girl:

"There is nothing wrong with nudity. If it is 'right,' honest, there's nothing wrong with it. I made the love scenes so my 11-year-old son can see it. And there's less of it than in other films. It is not offensive. I want young people to believe sex is a healthy thing. Sex is fun."

DISADVANTAGES

Lindsay Anderson, director of "If . . ." which has brief scenes of male and female frontal nudity and which received an X rating here, barring children from seeing it:

" . . . all the fuss made about 'Candy' and 'The Killing of Sister George,' compared to the serious film efforts. The exploitation of the 'new freedoms' have grave disadvantages for artistic film making . . . Boys 14, 15, 16 are perfectly capable of enjoying 'If . . .' This is a serious film." Is the nudity in it necessary? "Absolutely!"

Joseph Strick, director of "Ulysses," currently filming "Tropic of Cancer" in France: "The language will be from the book, without avoiding any responsibility. I'll not vandalize the work by taking the title and cheating the public. It will say, 'That's what the guy had in mind. It's true.'"

HAS HONESTY?

"Tropic" has "honesty about the way people talk, feel, think. It's hypocritical not to be represented that way in cinema."

John Schlesinger, British director of "Darling" and currently, in his first film made in America, "Midnight Cowboy":

"Four years ago, in 'Darling,' the Legion of Decency made me cut out a long shot of the (nude) rear view of Julie (Christie) . . . and a funny scene of a sexual exhibition where the male partner is late because of a parking problem, which he explains as he hurriedly undresses. They don't realize it's possible to treat sex with some wit and charm."

"We've come far, now it's all being treated as sort of a gimmick."

Hope Grows on Stopping Beach Erosion

By the National Geographic Society
WASHINGTON — Some people going to their favorite beach this summer may be surprised to find it has vanished. The ocean may have carried the sand away, leaving behind a mud flat, a strip of rubble, or a bluff shored up with concrete or sandbags by desperate residents. But hope is growing that more beaches can be saved. Engineers are learning more about the natural forces that destroy beaches; the same knowledge can be used to create beaches. To study how sand my leave a beach, investigators have tagged grains with radiation or fluorescent paint.

SAND IS FICKLE
A beach may seem motionless to vacationers, but the sand is almost constantly shifting. The grains tend to drift steadily in one direction. A beach can survive only if it receives a constant supply of new sand. Curiously, most of this sand comes from the land, not the sea. Erosion and rain grinds mountain boulders into tiny chips of quartz and feldspar. Streams and rivers wash the bits to the sea. The smallest pieces, known as silt, settle at river mouths to form deltas. Ocean currents carry larger pieces — sand — along the coasts and deposit them on the shoreline.

Gamble Brings Alaskan Druggist a Fortune in Black Gold

By TOM TIEDE

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (NEA) — All of a sudden Tom Miklausch, the proverbial friendly pharmacist, has become the hero of The America Dream.

He has gambled small and won big.

The story is as old as man's ability to drool. Miklausch moved here from Oregon 15 years ago. He was $3,000 in debt, recently divorced and looking for a new life. Today he's one of the richest, luckiest men in the state.

And wouldn't you know it, he hasn't changed a bit.

SECRET OF SUCCESS

Corny as it is, clipped straight from an old gold rush movie, it is nonetheless true. Tom Miklausch, old Tom the pill pusher, has made it huge.

In a way, pushing pills is the secret of Miklausch's success. He worked hard, saved his money and bought a pharmacy store. It prospered and so did he. Then, in 1967, he invested some earnings — in oil speculation.

Rumors of fabulous new oil finds were starting to grow and Miklausch wanted in on the action. So did everybody else, of course. In Fairbanks alone (population 40,000) more than 3,000 people now own oil lease land.

But Miklausch has something most of his peers did not — incredible luck.

PURCHASED LAND

During competitive biddings, and because nobody else particularly wanted them, he purchased two plots of land in a place called Prudhoe Bay, on the state's north slope, where even polar bears get lonely.

The land only cost Miklausch $4,800 (about $1 an acre). But, true to script, it turned out to be at ground zero of what many people are now calling one of the most spectacular oil discoveries in history.

When word got out, Miklausch was immediately invaded by corporations, individuals and propositions.

Thousands were offered, then hundreds of thousands. But the friendly pharmacist held out for more.

FINALLY SUCCUMBS

Finally, early this year, Miklausch succumbed to temptation and good sense.

In what may be the largest oil land lease a private citizen has transacted, he signed on with General American Oil Co. for a down-payment of $2 million (in stock) and a cut of 25 per cent of every barrel to be drawn.

The deal, of course, made him an overnight Midas. Not even he knows how much it may eventually earn him. If the promise holds, and big oil is drawn, he'll grow richer with each drop. And, too, as the company pumps, its stock will also, and Miklausch will collect from that end as well.

Says Miklausch himself: "Well, it does look pretty good for me."

ALWAYS SOBER MAN

This statement, dry and terse, is characteristic of Tom Miklausch, before and after. Always the sober man behind the counter, he has remained the calmest of anyone over his sudden strike.

His mail has increased a hundredfold, his phone seldom stops ringing, oil men around the nation ask his interest, shirt collars are wrinkled, his speculators around the world shoes unshined and he still goes ask his advice — yet he re-down to his store, when possible, to make up prescriptions.

"And why not?" he says, scratching the top of his hand. "I enjoy going down to my store. It relaxes me. I like to talk to the people and help out wherever I can. That's me — I can't change it with money.

BETTER THINGS

"Besides, what am I supposed to do now that I'm rich — go it, certainly, and I want to make even more. But I have no intentions of ever dying a rich old man."

There are better things to do with money.

"To be honest about it, I think I'm just going to give the money away. I enjoy making money. The big strikers usually hope to do good with their loot. Miklausch is no different. He looks at the world as a 'liberal

To followers of classic success stories, Miklausch's humanitarian instincts are very familiar. It's the same way it always happens in the gold rush movies. The big strikers usually hope to do good with their loot. Miklausch is no different. He looks at the world as a 'liberal Republican." He sees misery and he wants to help. He doesn't believe in "selfishness," or "lavish living" or "spending money for nothing."

TO GIVE IT AWAY

So, he says, he'll give it away to help others.

This is his plan anyway. And how could it be otherwise? Tom Miklausch admits he has seen those old gold rush movies, too. And as he remembers, the hero usually loses his fortune in the end, one way or the other, and walks slowly into the sunset, a poorer but happier man.

Conservative Collegian Forms Group to Protest Protesters

By United Press International
The typical picture is that of some long-haired student radicals taking over a building and then serving on the college administration a set of "non-negotiable demands."

Now comes a short-cropped conservative political activist who organized a building seizure to protest the protesters.

Ralph Paladino, 25, an Air Force veteran and a paid Nixon for President staff member during the 1968 campaign, organized at Queens College in New York a group called the "Student Coalition" with the single-minded purpose of combating radical demonstrators.

"In the streets, if necessary," Paladino's supporters counter-attacked one building where the radicals were sitting in and temporarily occupied another building.

"Our objective is to put counterpressure on the administration so that it will act out of conscience rather than fear. Up until now," he said,

"the other side using force had without facing charges of violence beyond that acceptable extreme," although they did demonstrate, have shown impact of groups like the Student Coalition at Queens are not great because they offer no positive program with which of campus turmoil.

Paladino said students on several other campuses, appeared on a number of campuses during the year.

On the other hand, they possess the potential for considerable short-range escalation of campus turmoil.

Smithsonian Enlivens U.S. 'Front Yard'

By The National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — A whirling carrousel, a tent theater, and Uncle Beazley the dinosaur have turned the nation's "front yard" into a colorful happening.

Once one of the loneliest places in Washington, D.C., the historic Mall now draws throngs of people.

The merry-go-round, plexiglas dinosaur and theater are among the innovations introduced by the Smithsonian Institution to enliven the milelong stretch of lawn between the Washington Monument grounds and the Capitol.

An annual spring kite-flying competition sends thousands of kites soaring against the familiar Capital skyline.

One memorable weekend, a gaily striped hot-air balloon lifted adventurous visitors above the greensward as antique automobiles and radically designed cars of the future paraded below.

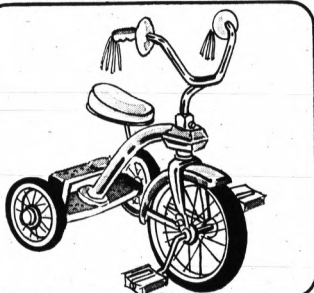

The Smithsonian's biggest single Mall show, the annual Festival of American Folklife, will be held July 1-6.

Craftsmen and musicians from 20 states are expected to attract more than a half-million visitors. Lumberjacks will stage log-rolling contests, women will demonstrate the art of egg decoration, and banjos and fiddles will twang lively country music.

After July 4, speeches and fireworks at the Washington Monument, a fife and drum corps will march through the crowd and lead a parade back to the Mall for a mass square dance.

Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant, a French engineer, saw the Mall as a vital part of his overall plan for the new Federal City in 1791.

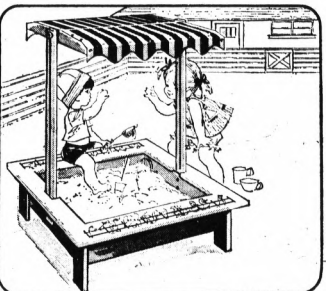

The War of 1812 set back his scheme, and the vast expanse fell on hard times. Early travelers described it as a desolate forest broken only by marshy, meandering Tiber Creek.

No Billboards, Tourists, Traffic on Uzhgorod-Moscow Route

MOSCOW (UPI) — It isn't the Pennsylvania Turnpike, but the road from Uzhgorod to Moscow has its advantages.

There is no tipping, no billboards and no tourists. And if you get lost, you'll find it faster than just about any place in the world.

In our plain brown Volkswagen my wife and I attracted more stares in the Soviet Ukraine than did the rare miniskirts which have made their appearance in some of the larger towns. Many Ukrainians had never before seen such a car.

"What kind of automobile is this?" marveled a youth outside the hotel in Lvov.

"German," I said.

EAST OR WEST?

"East German or West German?" he wanted to know.

Police noticed it too, and with police firmness, they made sure we did not wander from the authorized routes to Moscow during the 900-mile drive to my new post in the Moscow bureau of UPI.

The journey began with the menacing sound of machine-gun bursts, fired by frontier guards at a practice range near the dusty Uzhgorod border station leading from Czechoslovakia, my old UPI post.

Soviet people, from the border officials to truck drivers along the road, proved friendly.

In the hotels the waiters and bellboys conformed to the Communist ban on the "servile" practice of tipping, and we kept our kopeks in our pockets.

Giant collective farms planted in wheat and potatoes stretched away from the road for miles. No fences separated the fields, and old men or little children tended grazing milk cows to keep them away from the wheat and the highway.

The landscape was unblemished by billboard advertising, but in the town, hundreds of signs advertised the only brand of politics sold in the Soviet Union: communism.

Every town had its splash of red bunting and red-tinted portraits of Lenin, already placed there for the celebration of his 100th birthday in April of next year.

NO FOREIGN LICENSE

Not once on the entire trip did we spot a foreign license plate, and only rarely did we see other cars.

We asked a clerk at the only hotel on the route why there were so few cars and so many trucks.

"It only seems strange to you because America is standing by bus, still, and we are growing," he said.

That night, we had the distinction of being the only drivers in the "motel," which had no parking lot.

Black Panther Gives Warning

Organization Defined and Goals Outlined

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — "The only power we have," says Shermon Banks, president of the Los Angeles chapter of the Black Panthers, "is the power of destruction. America has given us no alternative but to relate to that."

That may be a chilling thought for most Americans, but it's one that must be faced. Because the Panthers, small in numbers but intense in purpose, are very much a part of the violent world of America.

In a special interview arranged for NEA, Banks spells out what the Panthers are, what they want and what they'll do to get it.

"The Panthers are an all-black party and we say that all black people should belong to the party. But we realize that there are other people who are not black who are sincere and concerned about working with us."

END TO ROBBERY

"The party is revolutionary-nationalist. We're saying that the people should be in power. We want an end to the robbery of the black community by the white businessman."

"We want education that exposes racist American Society, education that teaches the true history of our role in present-day society."

RETRIALS SOUGHT

"We want all black men released from federal, state and county jails and prisons because they never received a fair trial. They should be retried by a jury of their peers."

"A greater number of black people are becoming aware of the fact that they're being oppressed and they're starting to resist the power structure. We have to educate these people on the methods of liberation."

"Naturally, the people who move to enlighten and liberate the people, like Huey Newton (the author of the Panthers' 10-point program for liberation who is now in jail on a murder charge), are looked upon as subversive elements to be destroyed by the system."

"We will protect ourselves from the forces of violence of the racist police and the racist military by whatever means is necessary. Coming into the streets with guns is a way of getting across the message to stop police brutality toward the black people."

"We're talking about a struggle that might go on for 10, 15 or 20 years. We're only laying the groundwork, the foundation."

"Everything centers around controlling our own destiny and our own community."

Schizophrenia has been linked with a little understood chromosome abnormality called mosaicism by scientists on the basis of evidence which is still inconclusive.

Actor Still Cuts Dashing Figure

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The face is more deeply lined and the wavy hair is white, but otherwise Douglas Fairbanks Jr. presents the same romantic figure as when he followed his father in films. He has returned from his London headquarters, not to renew his film career but to play 15 weeks in Los Angeles and San Francisco as Prof. Higgins in the Civic Light Opera's revival of "My Fair Lady."

"It's rather a lark," he commented at his rented Beverly Hills home. "I wanted to see if I could get a fresh approach to the character, and I went back to George Bernard Shaw's notes when he was rehearsing the original play 'Pygmalion.'"

"Last summer I experimented with the role in brief engagements in St. Louis, Dallas and Atlanta, preparing for the appearance here. It took almost a year to arrange my affairs so I could conduct my business from here and San Francisco while I'm doing the show."

One of the few actors to have his own cable address (Douglas), he has devoted his recent years to public affairs and business enterprises ranging from Scripto Pens (director) to Fairbanks International Business Developments (chairman). Except for occasional ventures like "My Fair Lady," acting does not appear on his agenda.

He explained why he gave up the family profession: "In 1957, my television series was coming up for renewal, and the sponsors offered to triple the budget. But I had run dry on ideas, and I knew that another season will be a struggle. Now I like property as well as anyone, but I've never been the acquisitive type. I said to myself, 'Why burn yourself up?'

"I had set aside a fair amount of money, and I'd had 37 years as an actor. Why not quit while I was ahead?"

"I guess I always had that fear of not quitting soon enough. I remember the pain I experienced when I had my own production company at Universal and old-timers pleaded with me for a day's extra work. People like Herbert Brenon, who had directed 'Peter Pan' and had been a kind of DeMille-like tyrant in films. And Andrew Charlot, who had produced the revues that introduced Ben Lile and Gertrude Lawrence to America."

Fairbanks, who will always be called Young Doug though he'll be 60 in December, made his first film here in 1923 and flourished in the 1930s ("Little Caesar," "The Prisoner of Zenda," "Gunga Din") and after the war ("Sinbad the Sailor," "The Exile," "That Lady in Ermine"). As scion of Hollywood's First Family — Mary Pickford was his stepmother — he was witness to the glorious past. But he refuses to become alarmed about recent changes in Hollywood.

"It seems to me that people have always deplored the changes here," he observed.

CATV Dispute Near Accord?

Association Announces Proposed Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Association of Broadcasters NAB announced yesterday a proposed agreement to end the 20 years of dissension between broadcasters and cable television systems.

Vincent T. Wasilewski, president of NAB, said representatives of each industry hammered out the proposals, which still must be considered by the two industries.

Some points would have to be incorporated into the laws and into the regulations of the Federal Communications Commission.

The agreement was reported by Wasilewski in an address prepared for the Federal Communications Bar Association. It includes proposals that:

1. CATV systems be liable as determined by Congress for payment of copyright fees on TV programs they retransmit to their subscribers.
2. CATV systems be permitted to originate sponsored programs on a single channel.
3. Interconnection of CATV systems to distribute mass appeal programming be prohibited.

Wasilewski said that the executive committees of the NAB and the National Cable Television Association have decided that the proposed agreement deserves consideration and that the boards of the two groups must "determine whether such a document is workable and consistent with the interest of their members."

Cable TV, originally set up to provide television service where there are no stations or where reception is difficult, takes TV signals from the air by a master antenna and sends them by cable to subscribers' sets for a fee, usually $4 or $5 a month. But in many cases it now competes with operating stations. Disputes arose over CATV payments for copyrighted programs it distributed, how many stations it could carry, whether CATV could originate programs and advertising on CATV.

Sneak Movie Previews Reach New Status

(EDITOR'S NOTE — It's called a "sneak" because no one but the movie people are supposed to know what film it is. It becomes a mysterious second feature in the movie house for one night — one nervous night for studio executives who watch the audience or its reaction.)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A flickering neon movie marquee announces: "Major Studio Preview Tonight!"

Because they're curious — or maybe they're not — American moviegoers buy tickets and settle down to watch two movie goers buy tickets and "sneak preview."

They sit in darkness, chuckling, weeping or laughing aloud. Little do they realize that these elemental responses may decide the fate of that film. In seats nearby, important men of the movie industry watch and listen — not to the picture.

If Mr. Average Moviegoer has an attack of coughing, a producer develops an ulcer. And if, during a major love scene on screen, Mrs. Moviegoer leaves to visit the powder room, as a studio chief could be moved to tears.

NEW STATUS
The sneak preview, an institution almost as old as movies themselves, is climbing to new status in this day of multimillion-dollar epics when a major flop could destroy a studio.

Some theaters, catering to the eagle-eyed studio bosses, have installed "preview review lounges" where a moviemaker can watch the audience through a one-way glass window and view the comment cards filled out by patrons on a large movie screen.

A preview is the same as a Broadway opening, says Bill Golden, publicity man at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer who has been arranging sneak previews since legendary studio head Irving Thalberg introduced the system there.

It's a difficult test we put a picture to," says Golden. "The audience didn't come to see this picture. . . . Worse, sometimes we can't get people into the theater."

Are sneak previews valuable? Producer Ernest LeMay, whose "Hello Dolly!" is still awaiting release, says he's not sure.

"We did not preview 'Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?'" he says of one of his major hits. "It opened cold." However, he previewed "The Sound of Music" in Minneapolis, made Cohn claim it wasn't the same changes and came up same picture. It won several with one of the movies' biggest moneymakers. Later other producers dubbed the twin city "lucky preview town." LeMay says there's no such thing, but he admits he might preview "Dolly" there.

"Most film makers fall in love with their pictures and most pictures are too long," says Elmo Williams, now producing a monumental epic of the Pearl Harbor attack, "Tora! Tora! Tora!" "Preview give you a sense of perspective."

The laughs, the sighs, the coughs, the fidgeting decide whether a film will be cut and where. But it's the total audience response which often dictates the fate of the film is released. Will it be a major road show attraction with tickets priced as high as $7? Or will it be consigned to neighborhood theaters and drive-ins as a double feature?

SURGERY NEEDED
At the sneak preview the audience has its pulse taken and the diagnosis is needed before the film can stand on its own.

Veteran film producer Robert Arthur, whose recently released "Sweet Charity" needed only 1½ minutes cut from the original, recalls the travails involved in editing some classic movies.

"High Noon" was dull when previewed," says Arthur. When the uncensored version was offered to Columbia studio boss Harry Cohn, he turned it down. Later, when the cut product was released by United Artists, Cohn claimed it wasn't the same changes and came up same picture. It won several with one of the movies' biggest moneymakers. Later other producers dubbed the twin city "lucky preview town." LeMay says there's no such thing, but he admits he might preview "Dolly" there.

"Most film makers fall in love with their pictures and most pictures are too long," says Elmo Williams, now producing a monumental epic of the Pearl Harbor attack, "Tora! Tora! Tora!" "Preview give you a sense of perspective."

embarrassed giggles, loud whispers, coughs and fidgeting. . . . At all worked great. . . . In Dallas, the reaction cards told the story — 236 excellent, 19 goods, five fair and one poor. But the fellow who marked it poor said he'd like to see the movie again.

NEW APPROACH
Producer Ray Stark introduced a new approach to previews with "Funny Girl" by about what film they were going to see. Advertisements in the preview towns of Milwaukee and Dallas said: "Come See Barbara!"

Stark had been willing to open the $9-million musical without previews, but director William Wyler insisted on testing it.

All right, said Stark, but we're not going to preview it in southern California. Like other film makers, he feels movie colony previews are useless.

"What happens is that some guy takes his film over to Westwood, packs the house with people from the business and goes away thinking he knows how the typical audience will react," says Stark.

TOUGH TOWNS
"We didn't pick Long Island or Westwood. We chose two tough movie towns, Milwaukee and Dallas, where the ethnic background was not similar to the film story, which is out."

In Milwaukee, Stark hid tape recorders throughout the theater. "I wanted to hear any away for lack of love and affection. . . . It still isn't too late to save them, to reverse the trend toward obsolescence, if only we go about it in the right way. Little toes must be made to feel that they are a part of you. You've got to make them feel wanted. Otherwise, they will continue to atrophy."

STRETCH THE POINT
If necessary, stretch the point a bit and pretend that you couldn't get along without them. At first, you may think your little toes are hopelessly retarded. But they are only in a state of quiescence caused by inattention and neglect. A little toe must be stimulated in order to develop.

Try giving them an affectionate wiggle every time you are barefooted. You will find that they will soon be responding to your overtures. Almost before you know it, they will be as perky and as adorable as your other toes.

Young Shun the Ministry as Faith Is in Upsurge

By DAVID POLING
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Law, medicine, and the ministry are the three classic professions that have endured for centuries. We are now watching the collapse of the clergy, the break-up of a historic profession.

This may sound unbelievably shocking to some readers but then they may be totally disconnected from the upheaval that has jarred, shaken and scattered the church.

As I have written in "The Last Years of the Church," these conditions did not happen overnight. Seminary enrollment did not start to drop yesterday but a decade ago. And the disenchantment of seminaries and young clergymen with the ecclesiastical arrangements was not diminishing but growing in leaps and bounds.

Young men and women have simply run out of patience. The velocity and intensity of social issues is part of their daily routine.

LARGE DOUBTS
When the church ignores the arts, combats the advances of science and endorses the weary routine of nonpoverty projects, you hardly have a smashing case for institutional growth.

Fortunately, or unfortunately, the young generation that might be the most likely candidates for the ministry have large doubts about the authority, discipline and piety of the church.

Too many of these youngsters have read the Bible and compared the performance of the church to the scripture text: "They are not impressed with the implementation of the Gospel. Nor are they willing to submit to the iron authority of elderly bishops or cardinals or conferences or popes who seem to disdain the question of youth and despise their music, wardrobes and dating habits."

Those who are presently enrolled in the seminaries and divinity schools continue to pursue the Christian outreach on the "frontier."

LOOK ELSEWHERE
Rather than seek an appointment to a traditional parish experience, these candidates for the ministry are looking into mass communications, theater, poverty programs and other highly flexible assignments.

The problem, of course, is to find the resources to pay the costs of such new outposts of the faith. Currently, much of this is paid for by the local parish through national boards and agencies.

Many ordained clergymen are quietly looking for secular employment, reaching for freedom and independence beyond the confines and restrictions of their denominations. As this mood expands, it will not be uncommon to discover clergymen active in business, government and education positions — and also eager to teach a Bible class, visit the hospitals and be available for supply preaching.

NOT NEW
Is this really so new or shocking? Thirty years ago Hitler's victim, Dietrich Bonhoeffer, put it on the line when he wrote: "The church is her true self when she exists for humanity. As a fresh start she should give away all her endowments to the poor and needy."

"The clergy should live solely on the free will offerings of their congregations or possibly engage in some secular calling."

She must take part in the social life of the world, not lord it over men, but helping and serving them. She must tell men whatever their calling what it means to live in Christ, to exist for others."

Loving Little Toes Is Feat to Tickle Your Fancy

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—As we travel along life's highway, being careful not to cross the median strip, it's easy to bump into many eternal verities, one of them being that we often don't appreciate something until we lose it.

This is the way I feel about my little toes.

I have two of the finest little toes in the world, cute as bugs and just bubbling over with personality. The way they tug and pull to the next town is utterly charming.

Yet I would be better than candid if I said that I have truly appreciated their many virtues. The plain fact is that I have largely ignored them.

HARDLY A THOUGHT
Except for a couple of times when I had a case of athlete's foot, I have hardly given my little toes a second thought. I trimmed their nails once a week, and that's about it.

But that's all changed now. I have become determined to enjoy my little toes while I can. Every night when I take my shoes off we have a rollicking game of "This little piggy went to market" before we go to bed.

The thing that caused this change of heart, and made me suddenly become little-toe conscious, was a recent news item in which a foot specialist reported that little toes are gradually disappearing.

He predicted that in 10,000 years man will have only four toes on each foot.

IMPENDING EXTINCTION
The specialist, Dr. R. S. Bob, planned the impending extinction of the little toe on tight shoes. But I'm convinced there is more to it than that.

Tight shoes are only hastening the process. The real truth is that little toes are pining owned Cadillac.

'Scarborough Fair' Is Theme

Northern Prom to Swing

By ROSIE L. HILLIE JR.
Are you going to Scarborough Fair? A large number of Pontiac Northern seniors will next week.

The popular song, "Scarborough Fair," has been chosen as the theme for this year's senior prom which will take place next Friday at Detroit's Veterans Memorial Building.

The "Intrigues" will supply music at the formal affair. This will be the first time a senior prom has been held outside of the school cafeteria.

John Kienert, a faculty member, is giving a farewell party this weekend for Tony Chiarilli.

TAKES COLLEGE POST
Chiarilli, one of three instructors in Northern's Western Thought program, has accepted a position at an out-of-state college.

His position will be filled by Leonard Griffin in the fall.

Rehearsal for the June 11 Baccalaureate exercises will begin next Wednesday. The program, scheduled for June 8, will be run entirely by students.

Jack Felt will give the opening prayer followed by Cindy Keils and Bruce Shorter, who will speak on the lives and works of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy and the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. The closing prayer will be given by Robin McIntroy.

CAPS AND GOWNS

Northern seniors will receive their caps and gowns next Wednesday.

Tuesday, at the annual Honors Assembly, the class of '69 valedictorian and salutatorian were named. They are Patrick Griffin and Charlene Depner. Both Pat and Charlene will attend Oakland University this fall.

The yearbook, Avalanche, was distributed yesterday morning.

Yesterday, an assembly was held to dedicate Northern's War Memorial which is on display near the front of the auditorium. Parents and relatives of those appearing on the memorial plaque were present along with several city officials.

Holly Students Given a Break

By MARCIA CLARK

Students at Holly High school went home early on Monday.

The school day was cut short because a broken water main caused a water shortage in the village of Holly.

The school operated on half its normal water supply until 1 p.m. when a fire broke out in the village limits. Because of the amount of water needed to fight the fire the school had to be closed for sanitary and practical reasons.

School resumed normally Tuesday after the water main had been repaired.

FLORA AND FAUNA

Tuesday, students of the third-hour advanced biology class journeyed to a twelve-acre plot of land on Rattlesnake Lake Road.

The students identified the flora and fauna of the area and made suggestions as to where the temporary Title II buildings should be placed.

This plot of land was recently purchased by the school system to be used for biology hikes and for a permanent location for the summer Title II camp.

The students were accompanied by Ronald Hosner, their advanced-biology teacher.

ATTENDED PLAY

Thursday, students in the junior and senior advanced English classes attended a production of "Saint Joan" at Meadow Brook Theatre at Oakland University.

The students were accompanied by Duane Raffin and Lorraine Rolandson, their advanced English teachers.

The PTA cadet teachers and the supervising teachers were honored at a dinner held in the student center last Thursday.

The annual spring sports banquet was held Monday.

At the All-Sports Banquet, Monday, Mitch Vogeli and Bruce Walton were named captains for wrestling and Fatty Andrus was named captain of the cheerleaders.

The R. Grant Graham Award, a trophy presented to a senior boy or girl who has displayed outstanding achievements in sports was awarded to Dwight McLaughlin and Dan Souleaver.

The three football captains for next year are Harry Ramsey, Gary Price and Mitch Vogeli.

Head of Council at Oxford Eyes Student Power

BY CAROL PRINCE

The new leader of the Oxford High School student body for 1969-70 will be Bill Biebuyck, a junior. Bill promised his backers that major changes would be made so the students would have more governing power.

Other Student Council officers are Diane Scott, vice president; Jeanie Nance, secretary; and Pam Scott, treasurer.

"Happiness Is Springtime," submitted by Chris Kozachik, is the theme of this year's prom. The event will take place tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at the high school.

Awards were presented to band students Thursday evening after the Band Banquet. Martha Ricketts received the John Philip Sousa award and Lee Ann Laurence received the most-improved player award.

The liberal dress code which limits students only to what is "in good taste" at Oxford High now includes culottes.

A committee including Student Council, faculty and parents agreed that the new feminine pants styles which look like skirts should be accepted, subject to the restrictions of "good taste."

The annual Junior-Senior Banquet was held last week.

Precommencement Activity to Keep Groves Seniors Busy

By KIM SEROTA

"Pompu and Circumstance" plays, and nearly 600 seniors march down the aisles for graduation. The scene, to be enacted June 11, is the culmination of several weeks of senior activities at Wylie E. Groves High School.

The pregraduation activities which included rehearsals, skip day and several programs were started as seniors received their caps and gowns this past week.

This year's yearbook, the Talon, also arrived. Signing books and recalling the events pictured disrupted classes and made for even more fun.

SWIMMING, SOFTBALL

Groves' annual senior outing included swimming, softball and a picnic lunch. The senior group had exclusive use of the facilities for the event.

The recreation area is owned and operated by the City of Dearborn and has been the subject of concern for senior classes during the past several years.

Many seniors felt the class should hold its skip day elsewhere. Despite petitions, discussions, and a Scrip (school newspaper) editorial on Groves' students' money going to support the racial segregation policies of Dearborn, the event followed the traditional plan.

Wednesday, the first of many rehearsals for the senior assembly and commencement was held. Seniors will practice for the ceremonies much of next week.

AWARD PRESENTATIONS

Following the formal presentations there will be a show featuring skits on the class history, music and other entertainment.

Along with rehearsals and the senior program next week, graduating students will have three days of final exams. Juniors and sophomores will have regular classes during that time with their exams scheduled for June 9-11.

FINAL EXEMPTIONS

This year, a new Birmingham school board policy will affect senior exams. Any 12th grader with a B average or better in a particular class is not required to take a final for that course.

Graduation exercises and the senior dinner will be held the following week.

The traditional baccalaureate service will be at 7:30 p.m. June 8. Addressing the group will be Rev. Richard Stephan of the Congregational Church of Birmingham and Rev. Harold Ford of the Franklin Community Church.

Senior dinner will be June 9 at the Raleigh House in Southfield. Presentations by Eduardo Columbo and Jeurg Straub, Groves' AFS exchange students, and class mock election announcement will be made during the occasion.

Final Examinations Loom at WTH

By JANICE CRISP

The school year is coming to an end for Waterford Township High School seniors. June 2 and 3 will be final exam day, with Tuesday the last full day of school for seniors.

The Foreign Exchange Club will host a Bermuda Day Tuesday. Tickets will be 25 cents and can be bought from club members.

Wednesday will be senior book check, which will begin at 7:40 a.m. in the gym. No shorts or sloppy attire will be permitted, and those who do not follow the dress policy will be sent home to change before they may check in their books.

Wednesday evening the Faculty Reception for seniors and their parents will also be held. It will be from 8:30 p.m. in the gym. "Dress-up" clothes are suggested.

COMMENCEMENT REHEARSAL

Commencement rehearsal will start promptly at 7:40 a.m. June 5. It is mandatory that all seniors be present and on time. Any not present at the rehearsal will not be allowed to participate in the commencement ceremony. Instructions for baccalaureate as well as commencement will be covered.

All-Night Party Planned for Walled Lake Seniors

By JOANNE SANDERSON

"Sayonara," the Japanese word for goodbye, will be the theme of this year's senior all-night party at Walled Lake Central. The senior party is a tradition at WLC.

The party is put on completely by the parents of seniors. The money used for the party is dependent upon donations from parents of the senior class. It is only open to members of the 1969 graduating class. To assure this, special tickets will be given to the seniors.

This year's party will follow a Japanese theme with the chaperones in oriental costumes. The seniors will spend the evening surrounded by oriental incense from the tea houses and a cherry blossom background.

The party will be held the second week of June. The 551 seniors will be kept busy throughout the night by two bands and WXYZ disc jockey Dick Puritan as master of ceremonies. Door prizes also will be part of the evening.

The party will end with a breakfast served by the parents. It is the official farewell to the seniors by their parents. It is also the last event for the seniors and ends their high school years.

Another tradition will be upheld next week. The tradition is Swing-Out in which the classes of 1969 and 1970 participate.

Swing-Out is the time when the juniors turn their rings around, the 1970 facing out and officially become seniors. The ceremonies are watched by the sophomore class.

During Swing-Out awards are given to the outstanding seniors in different areas by the department heads.

The reading of the class history is also part of the ceremony. This is read by the secretary of the class. This history reviews the projects and events the senior class has done during the three years of high school.

Seniors wear their caps and gowns to Swing-Out. Members of the senior class who are members of the National Honor Society will wear gold cords around the shoulders of the gowns. This day marks the seniors' last day in-school.

Mott Students Pick Government System

By GEORGIA ROSEWALL

Students at Waterford Mott High School recently chose a new structure for student government.

Dividing the government into three branches, judicial, executive and legislative, the structure is similar to the national, state and local governments.

The legislative branch is in charge of formulating and passing all legislation brought before it. It consists of the Student Congress, made up of homeroom and club representatives and members-at-large, and three departments school activities, curriculum, and communication.

Executive branch contains the five officers of the school government, president, vice president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary and treasurer.

JUDICIAL BRANCH

Six students, six faculty members and one administrator make up the judicial branch. Its main purpose is to interpret and rule on laws passed by the legislature and to act as a court of appeals for students.

"It is hoped that this new constitution which provides for involvement of students by division of interest will serve to unite and represent the students, faculty and administration of the school," said Bruce Annett, who proposed the plan.

Primary elections for the officers of the school government were held Monday to limit the number of candidates to two per office.

Final elections were held yesterday.

NOMINEES LISTED

Nominees are Bruce Annett and Bob Kahn, president; Rick Chase and Doug Dubrish, vice president; Sue Kelly and Georgia Rosewall, recording secretary; Kendra Solberg and Andrea Stader, corresponding secretary; Joe Kahn and Steve Vidakovich, treasurer.

RALLY IN!

An English Lea Francis—imaginatively equipped for rally conditions.

A very sporting movie, indeed, it turned out to be. Highly appropriate, since the plot of "Those Daring Young Men in Their Jaunty Jalopies" is constructed round the famous, annual Monte Carlo Rally endurance contest for cars. With true team spirit, babies, small dogs, veteran motorists, even producers and designers pitched in. The result is that the sense of fun about the whole enterprise is not just due to a good job of professional acting. It's an authentic spoof.

The Rally in the film takes place in the late 1920s. Today, the Rally is highly professional, but in the early years gentleman (and lady) amateurs went into the competition to test their competence, endurance—and guile.

Twenty priceless vintage cars were used to make the film, shot on locations all over Europe. The Rally starts simultaneously from five points, in Scotland, Sweden, Portugal, Greece and Salerno, Sicily; all the cars aim to converge, eventually, on Monte Carlo. It is always run in January, so there are usually plenty of natural winter hazards on the way, as well as those of ordinary roads under normal traffic conditions—which can, of course, be highly unpredictable.

The movie is produced and directed by Ken Annakin. The associate producer is Basil Keys, and screenplay is by Jack Davies and Ken Annakin. The "stars" (in alphabetical order) are Bourvil, Lando Buzzanca, Walter Chiari, Peter Cook, Tony Curtis, Mireille Darc, Marie Dubois, Gert Frobe, Susan Hampshire, Jack Hawkins, Nicoletta Machiavelli, Dudley Moore, Peer Schmidt, Eric Sykes and Terry-Thomas.

The "non-stars" put up a very fine show, too. It wouldn't be altogether accurate to call them scene-stealers, since they didn't really take anything away. Just the reverse, in fact. Perhaps a more graceful tribute to them would be "They also contributed."

Picko Troberg, popular Swedish racing driver, works as a bit player, here with Elizabeth Ortenheim.

Deborah, 2-year-old daughter of producer-director Ken Annakin, has a pint-sized role.

Costume designer John Furniss (left) checks Peter Cook's costume; Furniss also has a small acting role.

The rally start: six fearless crews are lined up with their cars ready for the gruelling challenge.

In our lonely hours of thinking
Of the dear old You we miss
Said missed by Children, Grandchildren and Grand Downs

As I miss the memory of Cecil J. Downs who passed away on March 20, 1963, I miss the memory of Ours a lonely heartache,
And a wife, who was dear
But always a beautiful memory.
Of the One we loved so dear.
Said missed by wife, Leon, son and grandchildren.

In loving memory of John M. Fogarty who passed away May 9, 1963.
We cannot see and hear Father.
Your face we cannot see;
But let this little poem
Remind you of the love
Said missed by wife, Leon, son and
grandchildren.

There's a sad but sweet remembrance
Of the dear old You we miss
There is a memory fond and true
And a heartache still for you.
Said missed by Mrs. and Mrs.
Augustine, children and grandchildren.

In loving memory of Sarah Green, who passed away January 10, 1963.
Said missed by a loving son,
With which will never part
And a heartache still for you.

Tips on Hawaii R&R Offered Servicemen

By JERRY BAULCH
Associated Press Newsfeature

WASHINGTON — Planning to join a serviceman in Hawaii for his week of rest and recreation from Vietnam? Well, here's what it's like and some tips on avoiding mix-ups, such as not being able to locate one another.

It's estimated that 110,000 servicemen will choose the magic islands this year for their R&R and that 90 per cent will be joined by wives, children, parents or fiancées. Sydney, Australia, and Hong Kong are other favorite rendezvous points.

There'll be lots of marriages in Hawaii by the R&Rs, an average of about four a day. Hawaii makes it easier by waiving the normal three-day waiting period.

Most of the mix-ups can be avoided by checking with the R&R center at Ft. DeRussy on Waikiki Beach and letting the center know where you can be reached. That goes for both servicemen and their greeters.

Sometimes, those flying from the mainland arrive days before their servicemen, due to misunderstanding, battlefield activity, bad weather or illness. The center's staff helps family members get settled and checks on any delay.

But it's sometimes the other way around. The man on R&R arrives to discover he's planned to meet his fiancée. When this happens, the center works with the Red Cross to help locate the missing wife, parents or fiancée. And if necessary it tries to get them rushed to Hawaii so there will be as little wasted time as possible.

Plan and Save

The first step in arranging the "togetherness vacation" is for the serviceman to send his wife a DD-Form 1580 certifying their plans; this gets her a 25 per cent cut in the air fare between the west coast and Hawaii, both ways. But it's a good idea to arrange the air tickets soon enough to avoid running into a delaying jam.

There are regular cut-rate fares for children under 12. And if the serviceman is not married he can make the same 25 per cent rate arrangement for his parents.

One problem is planning your baggage, since the airlines limit it to around 60 pounds plus hand luggage that you can fit under your seat. The exact weight varies with the airlines so it's best to check.

The serviceman can arrange hotel reservations in advance or his wife and family may do so. Write OIG, R&R Center, APO San Francisco, Calif. 96358. (Give your hotel preference, type of accommodation you want, number of people, etc.—with your date of arrival and date of departure.

NOT BINDING

You'll be notified if your choice is open and if not you'll probably get a recommended second choice. The suggested choice is not binding unless you send an okay. Requests are on a first-come, first-served basis, regardless of rank.

In case you don't reserve in advance, the R&R center at Ft. DeRussy has a hotel reservation office which is open 24 hours a day.

There are discount prices ranging from $9 to $25 a night for double accommodations. If you can't afford that there are limited accommodations at Ft. DeRussy—$4 for enlisted men's doubles or $5 for officers'. Also beach cabins at Bellows AFB ranging $30 to $7 a day.

When you arrive at Honolulu airport, a man in uniform with an R&R armband is usually on hand to help guide you to a bus that will take you on the 30-minute ride to Ft. DeRussy.

FLIGHT TEAM

The servicemen from Vietnam or Thailand are greeted by a flight team and since the men are arriving back in the United States they have to go through Public Health for a check on their shots and through customs. This usually takes 15 to 20 minutes.

It is strongly recommended that wives or others don't try to meet servicemen at the airport but wait at Ft. DeRussy or make other arrangements for meeting.

In the first place you can't talk to the serviceman, or even shout, through the thick glass window that separates you.

And it sometimes distracts the husband and slows the process, especially if a wife or relative gets carried away with excitement.

A Look at TV

A Game Show Formula

AP Television-Radio Writer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK—A good game show, by Ralph Andrews' standards, is one that gives the television audience a sense of participation and one that makes each viewer do some thinking.

Andrew, a veteran of the television wars, is an expert.

He has produced several of game shows, including NBC's "You Don't Say," which has been a daytime feature for seven years and still is going strong, plus a number that had their moments and then passed on. He also produces a syndicated game show, "Liars Club," seen in a number of cities around the country.

Andrew says that game shows fall roughly into two categories, although some shows combine elements of both.

"There are the spectator sport shows, in which the audience just sits back and watches the action," Andrews said. "They include 'Let's Make a Deal,' 'The Dating Game' and 'The Newlywed Game,' and are mostly for amusement."

PLAYS ALONG

"Then there are the hard game shows, in which the audience plays along with the contestants. 'Concentration' and 'Eye Guess' would fall into that category."

"Combinations of the two would include 'Password,' 'Hollywood Squares' and 'You Don't Say.' The audience enjoys watching the celebrities, and it also plays the game along with them."

Not all the memory games fall into the participation group. Andrews says that most of those old, big-money quiz shows, now in disrepute, were spectator games. The questions were so specialized that few in the audience were able to tackle them—"The $64,000 Question" and "Twenty-One."

Andrews, who is constantly working out ideas for game shows, realizes the limitations for the producer who becomes known as a specialist. Over the years he has taken flyers at other types of programs—a soap opera which quietly disappeared and a summer replacement series, "Mickey Finn," which was a sort of jolly gay '60s variety show. Currently he is producing an off-beat motion picture, "The Silent Treatment."

"It keeps you stimulated," he said.

When the "Mission: Impossible" task force returns in September, it is probable that two team members will be missing, Martin Landau, who specializes in elaborate disguises, is engaged in a money hassle with the producers and he has formally announced that Leonard Nimoy, the late of "Star Trek" will be a regular on the show.

In press releases concerning the show, the name of Barbara Baine is missing too. Since Baine is in private life Landau's wife, there is a presumption that if Landau goes, his wife will, too. Dina Merrill has been signed for a two-partner in the series, so there is speculation that she might take over the single woman's role.

Bond Set for Three in Pontiac Break-In

Bond was set at $10,000 each for three burglary suspects by Judge Cecil B. McCallum in Pontiac District Court yesterday.

Charged with breaking into the Pontiac Landcomet, 691 Orchard Lane, are Paul Smith, 31, of Louisville, Ky., and two Pontiac men, Gerald P. Strandell, 23, of 59 Williams and Charles W. Kester, 25, of 89 Oakhill.

The men demanded examination at their arraignment yesterday, and it was set for 9 a.m. Thursday.

As the long-haired couple arrived outside the court in an open yellow sports car, about 100 police officers and admirers surrounded them. Jagger, wearing a purple suit with a violet shirt, walked up the steps arm-in-arm with Miss Faithfull, who was wearing a fawn suede suit.

Jagger, the lead singer with the Rolling Stones, had a three-year prison sentence for illegally possessing pill bottles turned out by an appeals court last summer.

Police said Shelton was shot with a 22-caliber pistol after he expected a baby but did not reportedly threaten or attack other persons in the home.

In St. Joseph Mercy Hospital this morning is Van Shelton, 39, of 230 Elm. He was expected to undergo surgery.

Being held in Oakland County Jail on a charge of assault is Marvin Bridges, 31, of the South Jessie address.

Police said Shelton was shot with a 22-caliber pistol after he expected a baby but did not reportedly threaten or attack other persons in the home.

Gl Dies Without Kin, Is 'Adopted' by Alabama Family

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Memorial Day flowers placed on the grave of Sgt. Richard F. Campos will be paid for by part of the allowances of young Mark and David Huey, who never heard of the soldier until 1966.

Each week for two years, Mark, 11, and David, 12, have "put some of their money in a little jar we call 'Richard's Flower Money,'" their mother, Mrs. Lucian C. Huey, said.

Mr. and Mrs. Huey unof- ficially adopted Campos in 1967 Army at age 17. His body family," Mrs. Huey said. They after reading that his body lay finally was claimed by an uncle unclaimed for two weeks in who had not seen him in 15 so "he would have a family to remember him." But they found this was legally impossible.

ENTRIES IN BIBLE

Campos was reared as an orphan and was a ward of the "My family was touched when we read that all his life he one else wants him, he can be a member of our family."

Huey, a machine company superintendent, and his wife have made entries in the family Bible making Campos a member of their family. They sponsor a flag in his honor in the Avenue of Flags in nearby Irondale.

Mrs. Huey said: "Both of our sons are adopted, and they know what it means to belong and to be loved."

When accounts of the Hueys plan for flowers appeared in West Coast newspapers, she said, several people in San Francisco sent pictures of the Leandro, Calif., whose husband grave to her and wrote that he is in the Canal Zone with the Army, places flowers at the grave and sent her maps periodically and the cemetery responds with the Hueys.

Then early in the morning of each Memorial Day, Veterans Day, the soldier's birthday anniversary and the anniversary of his death in Vietnam, a floral company in San Bruno, Calif., puts a wreath on the grave in Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Francisco.

UNOFFICIAL ADOPTION

The bill goes to Mr. and Mrs. Huey of Birmingham. "I usually have to add something to the boys' money to pay the bill," Mrs. Huey said.

Hog Cholera Hits Indiana; State Wary

LANSING (AP) — A "critical" outbreak of hog cholera in Indiana today had federal and state authorities patrolling Michigan's southern borders to protect the state's own swine herds and cholera-free status.

Michigan was the first major hog producing state to become certified as hog cholera free.

"There is no cause for alarm," said B. Dale Ball, director of the State Agriculture Department.

"However, all swine feeders and breeders in Michigan are urged to exercise precautions against introduction of the disease," he said. "Because of the location of most of our state's swine production in southern Michigan, adjacent to the Indiana border, this is a serious threat," he added.

Dr. Charles Cole, assistant state veterinarian, said all hog shipments from Indiana, as well as those which have traveled through northern Indiana from other states, would be turned back at the border.

Patrolling inspectors will check all incoming vehicles that are capable of transporting hogs, the department said.

Ball added that hog receivers have been asked to contact the animal health division immediately if they learn of any questionable shipments which might have escaped surveillance.

World-State News in Brief

LANSING (AP) — The Senate yesterday rejected a compromise $874.4-million school aid package and ordered it returned to a joint House-Senate conference committee for further deliberation.

Protest Fatal to Student

NEW YORK (AP) — A 20-year-old Columbia University student died today at Bellevue Hospital about nine hours after he set fire to himself on the lawn of the United Nations to protest "genocide" in Biafra.

The student, Bruce Mayrock of Old Westbury, N.Y., a community on Long Island, had been admitted to the hospital in "very critical condition" with second and third-degree burns.

Argentina Hit by Strike

BUENOS AIRES (AP) Argentine workers walked off their jobs at midnight, in a 24-hour general strike to protest alleged police brutality. The government alerted the armed forces to prepare for violence.

The nationwide walkout followed a day of violence yesterday in the industrial city of Cordoba that threatened the three-year-old regime of President Juan Carlos Onganía.

Paratroopers took over the city to quell riots after a majority of the city's industrial workers walked off their jobs 12 hours before the general strike was scheduled to begin.

'Foe Contained in Viet'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew declared today that "the enemy's thrust has been contained" in Vietnam.

And he said U.S. forces in Southeast Asia are defending not only South Vietnam but the integrity of the United States as well.

Kidnaper Pleads Guilty

DECATUR, Ga. (AP) — Ruth Eisemann-Schier, who said she took part in the kidnaping of Emory University coed Barbara Jane Mackle for love and to protect Miss Mackle, faces a seven-year prison term and deportation to her native Honduras.

She pleaded guilty yesterday in a surprise move in the same courtroom where Gary Steven Krist, 24, was convicted by a jury Monday. Krist received a life sentence for the kidnaping of Miss Mackle who was buried alive in a coffin-like box for four days.

Memorial Day, 1969: Protests, Parades, Play

By The Associated Press
Americans today mark their 102nd annual observance of Memorial Day with the traditional tributes to those who have died in the nation's wars and with vigils protesting the war in Vietnam.

It is a day of parades and picnics, beach outings and baseball and the 53rd running of the Indianapolis 500. It is also the start of a three-day weekend, and millions left the cities yesterday evening to enjoy a minivacation.

The National Safety Council predicted between 550 and 650 persons would die in traffic accidents during the weekend, which began at 6 p.m. yesterday and lasts until midnight Sunday.

In many communities across the country, antiwar groups plan to read the names of the more than 35,000 Americans who have given their lives in the Vietnam war.

TRADITIONAL OBSERVANCES
Traditional observances include parades organized by veterans and other groups to honor those who fell fighting for the country. Some were aimed specifically at counterpointing the antiwar protests.

The President and his entire family were spending a quiet weekend at their waterfront home in Key Biscayne, Fla.

At Torrington, Conn., two Pulitzer Prize winners, author William Styron and playwright Arthur Miller, were among those reading from the list of Vietnam war dead during a 24-hour vigil.

In Michigan, memorial services, parades and other events are scheduled this weekend as a tribute to America's war dead.

Dead Troy Soldier Symbolizes Day

Today, Memorial Day, the memory of Soldiers past is observed. Army Spec. 5 Larry H. Brinkey of Troy serves as the tragic portrait of the slain soldier. He died May 6 in an Army hospital of Vietnam combat wounds and was buried May 14 in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield.

"Brink," as his friends called him, can perhaps stand as today's illustration of why Memorial Day is observed. His attitude and views are detailed in his letters from the battlefield.

Baker Denied Retrial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U.S. District Court judge has turned down former Senate aide Robert G. (Robby) Baker's bid for a new trial.

Baker, a former secretary to Senate Democrats, was convicted in 1966 on income tax and larceny charges. He had contended that testimony in a later trial involving a witness in his case had damaged his original plea.

23 Enemy Die, 2 Yanks Killed in 18 Incidents

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military headquarters accused the Communist command today of 34 violations in the first eight hours of a 24-hour cease-fire the South Vietnamese government declared to mark the observance of Buddha's birthday.

U.S. headquarters said 23 enemy soldiers and two Americans were killed, and 17 Americans were wounded in 18 incidents which were considered "significant" because they resulted in casualties.

South Vietnamese headquarters said there were 25 "enemy initiated" incidents against the South Vietnamese military units and civilians since the start of a 48-hour truce the Vietcong declared for the holiday.

"Of those enemy initiated incidents, 14 inflicted casualties on four civilians and three village or hamlet officials killed, one hamlet chief abducted and 16 soldiers and 18 civilians wounded," South Vietnamese headquarters said.

VIETCONG TRUCE

The U.S. Command did not begin recording incidents until the start of the 24-hour cease-fire since it maintained it was ignoring the Vietcong truce.

The Vietcong truce began at 7 a.m. yesterday and ends at 7 a.m. Saturday Saigon time, one hour after the allied cease-fire ends.

The U.S. rules were that American offensive operations would be halted for 24 hours, but that reconnaissance flights and patrols would continue "to keep our guard up," as an American spokesman put it. The Americans would fire back if fired on first.

But the Vietcong ground rules announced in a broadcast implied the Vietcong would consider reconnaissance flights and patrols as provocative acts and would attack them.

PATROLS ATTACKED

Five U.S. reconnaissance patrols came under attack after the allied cease-fire began at points 30 to 35 miles northwest and northeast of Saigon and farther north along the central coastal plain. One American was reported killed and 13 wounded. Enemy losses were put at 10 killed and three captured.

One American reconnaissance helicopter was shot down and destroyed and three others damaged in areas ranging from 29 to 61 miles northwest of Saigon. One American was killed and four wounded.

Skies to Cloud in Area Tonight

Memorial Day marchers and picnickers were slated for pleasant weather today as temperatures were headed for the high 70s.

Sunny skies will become increasingly cloudy toward evening with lows in the 52 to 58 range, but precipitation probabilities are near zero.

TOMORROW — The forecast predicts clouds and warmer weather, with a chance of showers late in the day.

SUNDAY — Outlook is partly cloudy with a chance of showers in the afternoon or evening.

The low temperature in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 55 degrees at 6 a.m. but climbed to 72 degrees by 9 a.m.

It's a Bit Queer Here, Engineer

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Engineers surveyed the new Auto-metec Corp. plant under construction here and admitted there had been a slight oversight.

Encased in the new four walls of the million square foot building was a seven story crane.

Project engineer Dwayne Freburg said yesterday the crane would be left inside the structure and used until the building is nearly completed in November.

A wall will be removed, and a smaller crane will be brought in to remove the large one, piece by piece.
