Dem Wins Wisconsin Election for Senate Seat in Major Upset

MILWAUKEE (U-P) — William Proxmire's special election for the U.S. Senate, a 41-year-old liberal Democrat, scored a smashing up-set victory yesterday in Wisconsin.

Consumers Power to Get More Gas for Heating

There was a prospect today that some Pontiac area homeowners may have their applications for gas for heating purposes filled, as the State Public Service Commission approved a Consumers Power Co. proposal to add 20,000 new customers.

The new service would be extended on the basis of prorating the new permits to the existing backlog of demand.

The bulk of the allocation will go to the Southeast Division of the company which includes Oakland, Macomb, Wayne and Washtenaw Counties. Of the 20,000 new customers, this division would receive 11,602 connections.

Exactly how many area homeowners would be served was not immediately known as Edward L. Karkau, district manager, was unavailable for comment.

Earlier this month he said there were 35,211 applicants in the Pontiac area awaiting gas for heating purposes. The company says it has 179,000 applications on file.

The commission order specified that one half of attachments in each division be reserved for reversion customers, that is those with other sources of fuel wishing to switch to gas.

The company has made further openings for customers possible by the purchase of 38 gas wells located near Holland.

Proxmire became the first Democrat elected to the Senate by this state in 25 years.

He scored his victory over Republican three-time governor Walter J. Kohler, a staunch supporter of President Eisenhower and twice a victor over Proxmire in races for the governor's post.

The election is for the 16 months remaining of McCarthy's term. Proxmire will take office, as soon as he is accredited by the State Canvass Board. That probably will be within 10 days.

The victory will give Senate Democrats 50 seats compared with 46 for the Republicans.

The stormy 10-year Senate career of McCarthy never became a potent factor in the campaign.

The issues that decided the election were diverse and hard to explain because the state usually is firmly Republican in its choice of top officers.

Proxmire's victory was made more impressive by the margin he rolled up—more than 121,000 votes. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Loot Mail Car on Daylight Run in Ontario

Passengers Unaware as Gunmen Swing Aboard, Lock Up 8 Clerks

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (U-P) — Three gunmen dressed as railroaders staged one of the most daring robberies in years when they boarded a moving Canadian National passenger train at Woodstock early today and looted the mail car.

Two of the bandits brandished automatics and the third waved a pistol when they confronted the eight clerks in the mail car as the train left Woodstock station.

They locked the eight men in a washroom and closet and set about ripping open mailbags during the eight-mile run to Ingersoll where they presumably got off.

Official investigators said they had no idea of how much was stolen. One report, however, said the gunmen seized cash currency which was part of a bank transfer aboard the train.

It was not until the train was about two minutes out of Ingersoll that the eight clerks were able to get out of the locked washroom and closet. They stopped the train at Dorchester and reported the robbery.

Roadblocks were quickly established at widely scattered points between Brantford and London.

The robbery scene is about 170 miles northeast of Detroit.

The train continued on its way to London, arriving 46 minutes late.

Investigators from the London division of the Canadian Postal Service and from the railroad met the train on its arrival. Postal investigator Ben Baker released a brief account of the event, but otherwise an official blackout was put on the case.

Investigator Baker gave this account:

WORE MASKS

"The train was just moving out of Woodstock when the clerks suddenly saw the men at the front of the car. They were dressed in railroader's caps and denims and their faces were masked.

"They herded the clerks to the washroom and closet in the center of the car. A couple of the clerks were pushed. The others were moved at gunpoint.

"After locking them in the washroom and closet, the bandits began ransacking the mailbags. Several were ripped open. Until we checked (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Reception Honors Pontiac Division

A host of General Motors and Pontiac Motor Division officials will be honored by Pontiac citizens at a reception today which will conclude the citywide observance of Pontiac Motor Division's 50th anniversary.

Tickets, at $3 each, are still available at the chamber's office. The affair is open to the public.

A special shuttle-bus service will be provided from downtown Pontiac to the Elks Temple and back. Passengers will be picked up on the Huron street side of the Oakland County court house and at the southwest corner of Pike and Perry streets, beginning at 4:30 p.m.

Colorado Prison Rioters Cause 1 Death, Injury to 4

BUENA VISTA, Colo. (U-P) — An inmate of the Colorado State Reformatory was shot to death and four others were wounded last night in a wild, 45-minute riot by 125 prisoners.

They were locked inside a cell block with three guards but soon 60 officers, armed and shooting, broke it up. Warden S. Thomas opened fire first.

"It was going really bad by the time I arrived," Thomas said later. "I saw what had to be done, and I set the example. I started firing."

In the turmoil of flying chairs, swinging fists, bunk fires and passing bullets, Evaristo Gomez, 23, was killed.

Three other inmates in the thick of the fight were shot in the leg and a bullet hit another in his finger.

Two guards were beaten unconscious.

One of them, Robert Allinger, 47, threw the lock that prevented any of the youths from fleeing. He and guard Sam Montgomery, 45, were then badly beaten.

They were marching more than 200 of the camp's nearly 400 inmates into the cell block after dinner and recreation. Many were still outside the cell block when those inside suddenly grabbed chairs and began plummeting the two guards with their fists and clubs.

Teamsters Talk About Future

Heated Discussion Held on AFL-CIO Relations and Charges Made

LOS ANGELES (U-P) — Two days of heated discussion may produce a decision by Teamster leaders today that could determine the future of the big union's relationship to the AFL-CIO.

Being thrashed out in a Teamster executive board, in a secret meeting is the union's answer to charges by the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee that the union is dominated by corrupt influences.

Key figure in the executive board sessions is James R. Hoffa, Midwest boss of the Teamsters and the odds-on choice to be the next president of the union.

The Ethical Practices Committee yesterday included charges against Hoffa in its report on the allegedly improper Teamster activities.

Hoffa and retiring President Dave Beck came out of yesterday's session refusing to divulge any information about the course of the discussions, during which loud and angry voices were heard by reporters waiting outside.

Both men showed little concern for the new action by the Ethical Practices Committee. The attitude of the entire board, for that matter, was aptly summed up by Thomas L. Hickey, a vice president from New York.

50th Anniversary Event Salutes Local Division

Awarding of Gift Car, Music, Dancing Acts Draw Applause

By DICK SAUNDERS

Pontiac Motor Division's 50th anniversary show at Wisner Stadium last night was a booming success, with music, dancing and plenty of laughs for the 9,000 area residents that packed the stands and seats to see the star-studded entertainment.

The swinging Johnny Long band serenaded spectators with an array of song hits for almost 45 minutes before the big show began.

After ending the pre-show concert with a rousing "One O'clock Jump," Monroe Osmun of the Downtown Merchants Assn. took the spotlight, paying tribute to Pontiac Motor, and formally introducing the show.

Following band vocalist Debbie Brown's selections, Long introduced jazz trombonist Mickey Gravine with "The Cotton Pickers," a Dixieland combo made up of band members.

They romped through a stimulating five-minute version of "The Saints Go Marching In."

Osmun then introduced S. E. Knudsen, Pontiac Motor general manager, Mayor William Donaldson, A. C. Girard, president of the Downtown Pontiac Association, and Howard Powers, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Knudsen presented Mrs. Wayne Lidgard of Auburn Heights with the keys to the special golden Pontiac which she won as part of the 50th anniversary.

Mrs. and Mr. Lidgard came to the stand with their entire family to receive the award. As Mrs. Lidgard thanked everyone and happily managed to say, "It's wonderful," her son Bruce, 15 months burst into tears, much to the crowd's delight.

Next on the program was an acrobatic dance trio — the Terry Sisters. After they amazed the crowd with their rope-skipping act, the noted harpist, Robert Maxwell took the spotlight.

Alter Production at Fisher Body

Local Division's Work to Be Concentrated on Pontiac Body Assembly

Production at Pontiac's Fisher Body Division plant is going to be concentrated wholly on assembly of Pontiac automobile bodies, James E. Goodman, vice president of General Motors and division general manager announced today.

Change over to eliminate some fabricating operations formerly assigned the plant already has begun, Goodman announced. Reassignment of production duties will be completed gradually over a period of several months, a division spokesman added.

The number of workers to be affected has not been estimated, the spokesman said.

However, Fisher Body announced that under an agreement with the United Auto Workers Union, displaced fabricating workers will be given the opportunity to transfer to jobs in Mansfield, Ohio or Marion, Indiana.

Behind the production change, Goodman said, lies the need for greater assembly manufacturing space in the Pontiac plant. Increased sales of Pontiac automobiles indicate that more car assemblies should be produced, Goodman said.

or less," he said. Although he is opposing Hoffa for the Teamster presidency, Hickey said he thought the Ethical Practices Committee action would have no effect on the race.

The answer reached by the board today will be presented to the Ethical Practices Committee in Washington at a hearing next Thursday and Friday. On Sept. 24-25 the AFL-CIO Executive Council is scheduled to decide whether the Teamsters have purged themselves of the corruption charges or are to be ousted from the merged labor movement.

Why isn't the earth bombarded with space fragments, with meteors etc? Since it is known that such objects fly constantly through space, and frequently strike the moon, why is it they don't strike the earth?

Fortunately, the earth's weather problems do not include the problem of a fragment storm, or a heavy fall of such matter. Yet it is true that such metallic fragments crash into the moon by the thousands.

The earth's layer of gases (which is also our weather) saves us from the bombardment. The bombardment actually exists and meteors and space fragments are hurled toward us, into the atmosphere, constantly.

But as they reach our atmosphere, the friction caused by their exceedingly fast passage through the layer of gases surrounding the earth creates intense heat. The heat reaches such a degree that the fragments and meteors burn up and disintegrate.

Confidential Trial Nearing End; Mexico Ousts Actress de Scaffa

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The long trial of Confidential magazine on criminal libel charges starts down the home stretch today.

Defense Attorney Arthur J. Crowley said he will wind up his case today or Friday. The trial is in recess tomorrow.

Dep. Dist. Atty. William L.

Ritali said his rebuttal testimony will be completed next week. The case will be in recess Monday for Labor Day.

Meanwhile, in Mexico City Interior Ministry officials said that actress Francesca de Scaffa, who figured in testimony in the Confidential trial, has been found in a suburban hideout. She was given 12 hours to leave Mexico.

Miss de Scaffa dropped from sight earlier this month. At first officials believed she had left the country.

The defense case moved toward an end yesterday with an attorney's testimony that he stopped a proposed war between Confidential and the movie industry.

Albert De Stefano, attorney for Confidential magazine, said he rejected a editorial written by former Confidential editor Howard Rushmore about a reported "movie industry war chest to fight Confidential."

De Stefano said the editorial was entitled "Hollywood Against Confidential."

"I told Robert Harrison (publisher of Confidential) and Rushmore I didn't think we should tackle the movie colony because it's too big," De Stefano testified.

"I said as big as you are in the publishing business, you are not big enough to fight Hollywood. They'll run you out of business."

The editorial was never published, he said.

He said he refused to give approval for stories Rushmore wanted to publish about Marilyn Monroe and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. He said neither of the stories was authenticated.

The balance of yesterday's defense testimony was aimed at refuting producer Paul Gregory's charge that Mrs. Marjorie Meade, one of the defendants, tried to blackmail him.

Gregory, testifying for the prosecution earlier in the trial, said Mrs. Meade summoned him to a Hollywood bar the afternoon of Sept. 16, 1955, to discuss a "scandalously injurious" story about himself, Charles Laughton, Elsa Lanchester and Robert Mitchum.

Gregory said Mrs. Meade told him the story would not be published if he "bought off the writer's commitment for between $300 and $1,000." He said he did not pay her and the story was not published.

perity of the few and the squeeze for the many."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) declared that the people of Wisconsin "had the first opportunity to go on record as repudiating the George Humphrey-Ezra Taft Benton-Dwight D. Eisenhower policies since the 1956 elections."

Proxmire is the first Democrat to be elected to the Senate from Wisconsin since F. Ryan Duffy swept into office during the Franklin Roosevelt landslide of 1932 and only the third to be elected since 1914, when the first popular vote for the Senate named Paul Hastings to the upper chamber.

In the campaign, Proxmire came out for: Abolition of fast tax writeoff laws; Increased personal income tax exemption; Drastic measures to reverse the sharp and prolonged drop in farm income; Emphasis on the United Nations to build up the U.N. as a force to overcome economic and social as well as political obstacles to peace.

His victory yesterday was the achievement of that goal, and he observed it by saying that now he would not rest until "our clean, young Wisconsin Democratic people get control of other state offices."

This Democrat who whipped a three-time Republican governor for Wisconsin's vacant Senate seat says his election was "a protest against President Eisenhower and his policies."

William E. Proxmire hammered hard during the campaign at the administration's foreign, farm and fiscal policies. Republican Walter J. Kohler Jr. based his own stand on full support of the President.

The result, said the 41-year-old victor, was clearly "a protest against President Eisenhower and his representative, Walter Kohler."

DO VOTERS LIKE ME? Democratic State Chairman Philo Nash added: "It seems quite clear. The candidate Kohler ran as an Eisenhower man and the voters rose up and swamped him."

Republicans had no immediate comment.

In Washington, colleagues also hailed Proxmire's election as a protest against the administration.

Said Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) who appeared in Wisconsin on Proxmire's behalf, "It shows that the people are becoming tired of the high interest rates and low farm income of the Eisenhower administration, tired of the pros-each of the three tiers on each side," Allinger recalled later. "About 30 or 40 boys actually started it all."

"They threw down mattresses from their cells and set them on fire. They were burning up anything that was loose, even the guard desk."

"I was unarmed. I closed the door when the trouble started so they couldn't get out. Then we started fighting them. I picked up a table leg and started swinging. Then I was knocked unconscious."

"But before I went down I saw Gomez hitting another officer with a club."

Allinger and Montgomery were reported in fair condition.

The cause of the riot was not determined immediately but Gov. Steve McNichols, who planned to drive here from Denver today, said he understood the prisoners "believed they were being worked too hard."

The inmates who were shot in the leg, all under 22, were identified as Gene Loux, Jerry Troxel and Richard Benjamin. Harvey Williams was shot in a finger.

Area Police Aid Ambulance Dash With Ailing Child

Pontiac area police today took part in aiding a 60-mile dash from Flint to Detroit by an ambulance carrying a two-day-old baby who was born with a heart condition. The baby was being rushed to Henry Ford Hospital for examination.

As the ambulance speeded down U.S. 10 behind State Police escort, local police units cleared the way after being notified of the approaching convoy by radio.

Ambulance and escort passed through this area on the Dixie Highway, Telegraph road (to avoid central Pontiac), Square Lake road and Woodward.

The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Macko of Flint, was born Monday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Flint.

A Flint pediatrician described the baby's heart defect as "an abnormality of construction of the heart." He said extensive examinations are to be conducted at Ford Hospital to determine the exact nature of the defect.

everything that was consigned to that car, we won't know what was stolen.

"There is speculation that cash was taken, but, at the moment it is strictly speculation. We just don't know."

"The train stopped at Ingersoll. The clerks, judging only from notes they heard, believe the bandits got off there. It wasn't until the train moved out of Ingersoll that the clerks were able to release themselves."

"This was near Dorchester and they stopped the train there to report the holdup."

Asked specifically how the men entered the mail car, Baker said he didn't know. He presumed they entered a door on the side of the mail car opposite to the side facing the Woodstock station. Likewise, he didn't know how they got off but presumed they used the door opposite to the one facing the Ingersoll station.

The postal investigators identified the mail clerks as Arthur Harding, Norman Fontaine, W. Scott Little, Ed. Figg, and Ed. Wazynkwich, all of London. Kenneth McDonald of Port Credit, Bernard Hurley of Brantford, Murray McCallum of Glenora.

Wazynkwich, approached by a reporter, said he had strict orders "from the Ottawa boys" not to discuss the robbery. He said he had no authority to give even a description of the mail car's interior.

De Stefano said the editorial was entitled "Hollywood Against Confidential."

"I told Robert Harrison (publisher of Confidential) and Rushmore I didn't think we should tackle the movie colony because it's too big," De Stefano testified.

"I said as big as you are in the publishing business, you are not big enough to fight Hollywood. They'll run you out of business."

Flu Vaccine Amount May Top Estimates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney said today a larger-than-expected amount of Asian flu vaccine may be available by the first of the year.

The Public Health Service chief said manufacturers now expect to produce between 30 million and 35 million doses of vaccine by Jan. 1. The original goal announced earlier was 20 million doses by Feb. 1.

Burney gave the new figures in an interview in connection with a meeting of the Association of State and Territorial Health Officers of the United States. The group opened a two-day conference yesterday to map plans for combating possible large-scale outbreaks of the flu this fall or winter.

WASHINGT. (AP) — The Marine County Board of Supervisors has eyed a request for a nudist beach on the county's shoreline and reached a decision.

Stan Schler, past president of the American Sunbathing Assn. of May's Landing, N. J., had asked the county to set aside a secluded beach where bathing suits would be optional.

"Designation of such a beach would create a parking problem for spectators as well as a patrolling problem for the sheriff," said San Anselmo Supervisor William Fusselman.

And so the board turned down the request.

Charge Murder in Trailer Death

First Degree Warrant Issued Against Harris in Area Shooting

Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem today issued a first-degree murder warrant in the fatal trailer shooting of Eddie Hicks, 28, of Wye Mills, Pa. Monday night.

Lee Harris Jr., 25, a resident of the Glenview Trailer Park, 2300 Shimmings Rd., Pontiac Township, demanded examination when he appeared before Pontiac Township Justice of the Peace Robert W. Hodge at noon.

Ziem said he would seek to have Thomas Squires, 27, of Wyandotte, and Joseph Wells, 19, of Detroit, held as material witnesses.

All three men are in Oakland County Jail.

Harris told investigating Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies that he fired over the heads of Hicks, Squires and Wells after they pounded on the door of his trailer.

Squires and Wells contended that they knocked on the trailer door and Harris answered by brandishing a gun and firing at them.

Deputies said that Squires admitted he and Harris had been carrying a grudge since an argument in Pennsylvania several years ago. Squires' wife is Harris' former wife.

The Day in Birmingham Police and School Officials Urge Extra Street Caution

BIRMINGHAM — With 13,400 children between the ages of 5 and 19 listed in the recent school census here, educators and police issue an early appeal to motorists to exercise all caution, especially in the early morning hours.

He pointed out that many youngsters are attending school for the first time and are more excited and aware of that and their new importance than they are of the dangers of approaching automobiles.

Schaule said, "That first week or so finds the youngsters meeting old school chums for the first time in weeks. They are full of summer vacation memories and are more apt to be talking about these than they are to be watching cars and traffic signals."

School officials showed at the close of the census that there are an additional 5,399 children in the city who have not yet reached school age.

Public schools will have a total enrollment of 10,805 for the opening day.

City officials have authorized city attorney, Richard Adams, to prepare a defense in the case of Coker versus the city of Birmingham.

Irwin I. Cohn, legal representative for the Coker Co., has issued a chancery summons against the city's decision on rezoning property the firm owns.

It was denied the right to build a multi-story apartment building in an area on North Woodward avenue, zoned for terraces.

Two persons received minor injuries in a rear end collision yesterday afternoon at Telegraph and Crestline roads, Bloomfield Township.

John F. Fardet, 68, of 1155 Fairfax St., Pontiac, was struck, as he stopped for a left hand turn, by Louis H. Marsh, 51, of 2135 Kingston Rd., Pontiac. Fardet complained of pains in his back while Marsh had lacerations about the left eye.

Both, according to police, refused hospital treatment.

AP Automotive Editor, 2 Other Writers Honored

DETROIT (AP) — Automotive editor David J. Wilkie of the Associated Press and two other veteran auto industry writers may do their reporting henceforth with a literally elegant touch.

Gold-plated portable typewriters were presented all three by the Ford Motor Co. at a banquet and ceremony last night in connection with Ford's Edsel line preview.

Besides Wilkie, those receiving the unusual tokens were Leon J. Pinkson of the San Francisco Chronicle and Bert Pierce of the New York Times. Each has reported on the auto industry for a half century or more.

DETROIT (AP) — Fast tax writeoffs for industry will end on Dec. 31, 1959, under a bill signed Monday by President Eisenhower.

The program was inaugurated in World War II, and re-enacted during the Korean War, to give industry incentive to expand defense production. Under the plan, certain industries were allowed rapid writeoff, for tax purposes, of plant investments.

In the 16 months remaining before the plan ends, fast writeoffs will be granted for a limited number of specialized defense items or atomic energy requirements.

It has been estimated the cost to the government in postponed taxes will reach about five billion dollars under rapid amortization certificates issued since the Korean War.

The program was inaugurated in World War II, and re-enacted during the Korean War, to give industry incentive to expand defense production. Under the plan, certain industries were allowed rapid writeoff, for tax purposes, of plant investments.

In the 16 months remaining before the plan ends, fast writeoffs will be granted for a limited number of specialized defense items or atomic energy requirements.

It has been estimated the cost to the government in postponed taxes will reach about five billion dollars under rapid amortization certificates issued since the Korean War.

He pointed out that many youngsters are attending school for the first time and are more excited and aware of that and their new importance than they are of the dangers of approaching automobiles.

Schaule said, "That first week or so finds the youngsters meeting old school chums for the first time in weeks. They are full of summer vacation memories and are more apt to be talking about these than they are to be watching cars and traffic signals."

School officials showed at the close of the census that there are an additional 5,399 children in the city who have not yet reached school age.

Public schools will have a total enrollment of 10,805 for the opening day.

City officials have authorized city attorney, Richard Adams, to prepare a defense in the case of Coker versus the city of Birmingham.

Irwin I. Cohn, legal representative for the Coker Co., has issued a chancery summons against the city's decision on rezoning property the firm owns.

It was denied the right to build a multi-story apartment building in an area on North Woodward avenue, zoned for terraces.

Two persons received minor injuries in a rear end collision yesterday afternoon at Telegraph and Crestline roads, Bloomfield Township.

John F. Fardet, 68, of 1155 Fairfax St., Pontiac, was struck, as he stopped for a left hand turn, by Louis H. Marsh, 51, of 2135 Kingston Rd., Pontiac. Fardet complained of pains in his back while Marsh had lacerations about the left eye.

Both, according to police, refused hospital treatment.

AP Automotive Editor, 2 Other Writers Honored

DETROIT (AP) — Automotive editor David J. Wilkie of the Associated Press and two other veteran auto industry writers may do their reporting henceforth with a literally elegant touch.

Gold-plated portable typewriters were presented all three by the Ford Motor Co. at a banquet and ceremony last night in connection with Ford's Edsel line preview.

Besides Wilkie, those receiving the unusual tokens were Leon J. Pinkson of the San Francisco Chronicle and Bert Pierce of the New York Times. Each has reported on the auto industry for a half century or more.

U. of M. Survey 'Proves' Old Idea

Cut Case Load to Improve Service

By DONN SHELTON

A University of Michigan survey has "proved" what local social workers knew a long time ago, that "special training and reduced case loads can improve services" rendered in the state's $26 million aid to dependent children (ADC) program.

"It stands to reason that a person with special training and/or less work to do could do a better job," points out Miss Ora Hinckley, supervisor of the Oakland County Bureau of Social Aid, a state agency with county offices.

The study was conducted by the U. of M. School of Social Work, in cooperation with the State Department of Social Welfare.

The project was conducted with ADC case workers in Genesee, Oakland, Lenawee, Monroe and Saginaw counties. In Oakland county the subject involved reduced case loads for the workers in the project.

In the research, five case workers handled case loads of 55 ADC cases for three months. Under present conditions, similar case workers have case loads of 90 or more.

While the total results of the survey haven't been released yet (they are due in a month, university officials say), Miss Hinckley said her staff had learned many things during the testing which have already been utilized to improve the program.

Specifying certain case workers to handle only ADC cases is such an advancement stemming from the research program, she said. The bureau also handles old age assistance, assistance for the blind and assistance for the totally disabled.

IMPOSSIBLE NOW

While methods like special training and reduced case loads are nice to talk about, they are "just financially impossible right now," Miss Hinckley says.

There are 21 case workers in the Oakland County bureau. The bureau has on its books more than 3,300 cases, with applications pending for more. Thus, reducing case loads is a case of having more money to hire additional workers—or depriving families of assistance.

Of the 21 workers, only five took college work in social work. All are required to have at least two years of college training, in any field.

Added to these problems of big loads and little special training, is the turnover problem. The bureau is a civil service organization, with no experience required for working there.

Most social work agencies demand experience in their newcomers, and the county bureau has become training grounds for workers to gain experience in order to qualify for another job.

Most young case workers don't last more than a year and a half, Miss Hinckley says.

The whole welfare problem is growing, she notes, and produces figures to show that there has been a steady rise in cases every month since December, 1955, in Oakland county.

The county itself is third in the state by case load, far behind Wayne and close to Kent, which includes Grand Rapids.

The Oakland County bureau handles presently 726 ADC cases, 2,500 old age assistance cases, 44 assistance to the blind cases and 94 totally disabled cases.

The total monetary disbursement to Oakland County families via the bureau is $3,000,000 yearly—and going up.

The total state payment is more than $25,000,000 yearly.

Robert Heitsch Quits Post at Mt. Clemens

MT. CLEMENS (P) — After 21 months in office Mt. Clemens' first city manager has resigned.

Robert Heitsch, 43, city manager since the Macomb County community adopted a city manager type of government in the spring of 1954, submitted his resignation yesterday.

Heitsch, hired at a salary of $11,500 a year, charged that an "old guard" in the city commission blocked his efforts. He is a former resident of Pontiac and was city manager in Farmington, Conn., at one time.

The city commission named city engineer Edwin E. Whedon acting city manager.

One Killed, Two Injured When Train Hits Car

SHELBY (P) — One woman was killed yesterday and two others injured when their car collided with a Chesapeake & Ohio diesel engine at a crossing near Shelby's southern limits.

Patrolman John Wade identified the victim as Miss Thora Hanson, about 75, of Chicago, a passenger in the car driven by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Sarah P. Hanson, 63, of Evanston, Ill.

Mrs. Hanson and another passenger, Sigrid Pierson, 66, of Bangor, were reported in fair condition at Shelby Hospital with crash injuries.

Something to Cry About Along Ohio River

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (P) — It was a day for crying along the Ohio River yesterday.

Employees of a hardware company began shedding big tears. Warehouse superintendent R. H. Waters checked the neighborhood and found other weepers.

Patrolmen Willard Morris and Hurley Thompson, summoned to investigate, said they didn't find the cause but believed something in the air was responsible.

They added they too had a good cry.

By expanding its Hindustan telephone cable plant to turn out coaxial telephone cable, India hopes to link major cities by an underground cable network. The plant will produce coaxial cable by 1958, New Delhi reports.

Team Holds Key to Crusade

Billy Graham Earns Trust, Respect of All

(This is the third of four articles summing up the effects of the Billy Graham New York crusade, which ends this weekend, and showing how the Graham team works.)

BY PHYLLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Bursting with a personal exhilaration that one wouldn't be likely to observe even at the most boisterous New Year's Eve party, Miss Ethel Waters nightly sings out her heart and larynx as a member of Billy Graham's 1,500 voice crusade choir.

Miss Waters is the only so-called "celebrity" whom the members of the Graham team will talk about. That is because "Ethel has loved Christ for years, and everybody knows it," says Jerry Beavan, Billy's executive secretary and press chief.

It is equally known that several, perhaps dozens, of famous personalities in America are "new Christians," converted during the Madison Square Garden crusade; but the team isn't talking.

"In the medieval days the church was considered 'sanctuary,' and it was a place of safety for all men," explained Beavan amiably. "That's the way Billy feels about it. We never give out the names of persons who make 'decisions' because the relationship of a man and his God is a very personal thing."

RESPECT, TRUST

"It's one reason people respect Billy. They know they can trust him."

Beavan, like most members of the team, resembles a handsome college halfback, though he's old enough to have been a Graham colleague for 10 years, and before that a newspaper reporter, advertising agency man and midwest college professor.

Part of his fitness comes from playing golf, a game he was lured into after Billy insisted on buying him a set of clubs in Scotland.

Billy shoots in the low 90's, is neither proud nor ashamed of his game, but apparently is somewhat of a stickler for physical fitness. In an interview in a hotel room, he gave me some hints as to how he feels on the subject.

"I believe," he said, "that television can either be a great help in a home, or a great detriment. You've read reports about how our American young people are, compared with children in other parts of the world."

"We make our own children (Billy and Ruth Graham have four) stay out all afternoon, every good day. We don't want them in the house. In return, we let them watch two television shows a day."

Billy admits he takes vitamins, "chemical as well as spiritual," to keep up his strength. He has lost 12 pounds during the New York crusade (normal weight 182; present weight 170) contrasted to 22 in his rigorous London stay. Lately he has felt the need for rest, yet companions insist these last days he has preached more strongly than ever.

Graham's answer is a slice of the scripture: "My strength is made perfect in weakness." Which means that, in the extra effort to overcome fatigue, comes more power than before.

SPECTATOR

When he is speaking, the evangelist claims, he does not feel a physical sensation of energy expending itself. "I feel more like a spectator on the sidelines, watching God at work." For a moment, describing that feeling, he looks puzzled. "I'm always as amazed as everyone else is when I watch people come forward to declare themselves to God."

"It's not me that's doing it. I mean I KNOW it's God. There's nothing else."

Graham, always impeccably and modestly dressed himself, likes his workers to be well groomed. The theory, said Beavan, is that if soldiers must be neat because they represent the U.S. government — how much neater should be the men who represent Christ.

When a team member is too busy to get a haircut, for instance, Bill sometimes will say, "Here's a dollar and a half-hour for the barber."

When Graham occasionally is too absorbed to remember his coiffure, a team member is likely to let go the offhand remark, "Whose turn is it to get ribbons for Billy's hair?"

FRIENDLY JOKES

The friendly banter that exists among Graham's crew (11 "key members," each with a specialized job) is one of the greatest delights in Billy's constantly hectic life. "Our main problem," says one of the team, "is to keep Bill from doing too much." "Let God keep him anointed," says another, "we'll keep him humble."

The team's gently happy approach to life has also enchanted thousands of the new converts who have made "decisions for Christ" during the crusade.

"I always thought people who were very religious were a bunch of squares," said one, "but they're not. They're more fun than anybody I ever knew. I didn't realize there were so many really funny clean jokes."

(Tomorrow: A woman who made a "decision for Christ" describes her experience.)

BROTHER BEATER — Geraldine Roach, 14, of 770 Pensacola St., has come up with a way to beat her brother, when it comes to copping top honors for prize rabbits at the Michigan State Fair, which opens Friday. The rabbit here is Sandy, 1956 Grand Champion, with whom her brother, Leland, 17, took one of the seven prizes. Geraldine is raising a different breed, has high hopes for this year.

House-Senate Break on Aid Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House conferees today broke up in complete disagreement in attempts to reach a compromise on the foreign aid money bill.

The conferees were trying to reconcile a $500,000,000 difference in the House and Senate measures.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) said the meeting suddenly broke off "in a huff" when one of the House conferees said his group would hold out against any compromise carrying more than 200 million dollars above what the House voted.

Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz.), chairman of the Senate conferees, said senators "can be stubborn too."

Settlement of the difference is one of the obstacles to adjournment this week.

The Senate last night passed the bill by a 65-25 roll call vote after beating back efforts to cut below the $3,682,710,000 recommended by its Appropriations Committee.

The House some time ago passed a bill totaling $3,191,810,000. Both Senate and House totals include new and reappropriated money for military and economic aid in the fiscal year that began July 1.

Red Claim Credited

LONDON (INS) — The consensus of London newspaper military and scientific writers today is that the Soviet claim of having successfully fired an intercontinental ballistic missile eventually will be substantiated.

Williams Names Men to Measure Impact of Automation in State

LANSING (AP) — An 11-man special commission on automation and mechanization was set up by Gov. Williams today to measure the impact of automation and other labor-saving techniques on Michigan employment.

An announcement from the office of Williams, who is vacationing on Mackinac Island, said that Edward Cushman, of the American Motors Corp., was named chairman.

Appointed as members were: Max Horton, director of the State Employment Security Commission; Roger Allen, Grand Rapids architect; Henry E. Crampton, Michigan Bell Telephone Co.; Ralph Cross, president of the Cross Co., Detroit; Jack Reese, president of Continental Motors, Detroit.

Frank Crise, United Mine Workers, Detroit; Jack Powell, United Steel Workers, Iron Mountain; Robert V. Coulter, State Building Trades Council, Lansing; Denver Hertel, Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, Detroit.

and Nat Weinberg, United Auto Workers, Detroit.

The governor already has obtained promises of cooperation with the commission from heads of the three largest state-supported universities.

Williams said he was asking the group to "get whatever information we can in a hurry so that it may be of value in meeting our present problem."

Williams has expressed concern at the rise of unemployment in the state beyond the 200,000 mark.

Boy, 8, Struck by Auto; in Hospital; Leg Broken

An eight-year-old boy is in satisfactory condition today at Pontiac General Hospital with a broken leg and possible concussion which he received when he was struck by a car yesterday afternoon.

John P. Hoke, of 16 Gingell Ct., was struck by a car driven by Jose C. Rodriguez, 28, of 739 Portland St., at 5 p.m. when he crossed N. Saginaw Street, near Clark. The driver will make a statement at the Oakland County Prosecutor's office today.

Applications Acceptable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said yesterday the United States would consider applications from any Chinese Communist newsmen to visit this country.

Hit School Segregation

ANN ARBOR (INS) — A resolution opposing racial segregation in education was passed today by the Congress of the U. S. National Student Association at its meeting here. The resolution was passed by a vote of 380 to 19. The association represents over 900,000 students in 355 colleges.

While he was gone Mrs. Robinson gave one last good tug. Robert was freed without even a scratch.

Niagara Development Public-Private Project

After seven years of argument and disagreement, Congress has approved a bill permitting the New York State Power Authority to develop the vast power of Niagara.

A treaty with Canada in 1950 determined New York State's share of the water to be used for power. Canada went right ahead with the project and is now utilizing some of its share. It will be over three years before power is available on this side of the border.

The issue of public versus private power in this country delayed development but finally a compromise has been worked out. Power output will be split between public and private utilities and Ohio and Pennsylvania will each have a 10 per cent share.

In the past seven years the cost of construction has gone from $385 million to $600 million. This sum is to be raised by sale of bonds to private investors.

The main plant will have a capacity of 1.9 million kilowatts, second only to Grand Coulee's output. It will supply customers within 150 miles of Niagara Falls and relieve a critical power shortage in that fast growing industrial area.

Water from the Niagara River three miles above the Falls will be diverted through tunnels to the main generating plant on the N.Y. bank of the river three miles below the Falls. For the first time in the nation's history one of our greatest sources of hydroelectric power will be utilized to its fullest extent.

Fast Tax Write-offs to end Dec. 31, 1959

During World War II the Government granted fast tax write-offs for $5.7 billion worth of plants and equipment and reinstated the plan in 1950 for the Korean war.

That emergency ended in 1953 but fast write-offs did not. As of last January 1 a total of $23 billion worth of projects, some of them rather distantly related to defense, was granted. Biggest recipients were the railroads, utilities, petroleum, coal and chemical companies, iron and steel industry and mining.

The law permits a company to deduct from taxable income all or part of the cost of a new plant or equipment in five years. It is true, however, that the write-offs only postpone tax payments and that heavier taxes are paid after the five year period. Actually the large sums withheld are interest free loans to the companies.

However the Government must make up the deferred tax revenue either by borrowing, and paying interest, or by levying higher taxes on other businesses or individuals.

Rapid depreciation write-offs were needed in war time to expand defense industries on the assumption that the plant's usefulness might end with the war.

But this need has long since vanished.

The House has agreed with a Senate plan for cutting back fast write-offs and ending them entirely by December 31, 1959. If approved by the President this tax benefit will be available only to new specialized defense plants and Atomic Energy Commission agencies.

U.S. Pays Rentals in 106 Foreign Lands

According to a recent compilation by the General Services Administration (GSA) annual rental charges for the 2,270 U.S. civilian agencies outside this country amount to $8,255 million.

Rental fees run from $196 for one lease on the Island of Malta, to $1,116 million for 115 leases in Viet Nam. Outside the United States civilian agencies operate in 106 countries.

This is in addition to the more than $10 million paid by the Federal Government for Defense Department leases in foreign countries. All this, says GSA, is only a small part of lease fees paid by our Government.

Total annual rentals paid by the Federal Government amount to $113 million, of which $95 million is for leases in the United States. Of this total GSA itself, the Post Office and Defense Departments account for $100 million.

Being the world's greatest power comes high. But not to maintain that position would invite disaster.

One has been irrigated with a cup of coffee every morning for several weeks, while the other gets a like portion of a coffee substitute.

The former now is 12 feet tall with a top blossom 14 inches across and 19 other blossoms, all healthy looking and prolific.

The other is only eight feet tall, with a top blossom nine inches across, and 13 other blossoms, all somewhat sickly and shriveled.

David Lawrence Says:

U.S. Has Long Sought Arms Limit

WASHINGTON — Memories are short—or at least some of the Democratic Party's politicians in the Senate evidently think so.

For three Democratic senators in the last few days have made public statements trying to tell the American people that President Eisenhower's current proposals at the London disarmament conference to suspend nuclear tests are the very ones Adlai Stevenson had suggested and for which the Democratic presidential nominee had been criticized in the 1956 campaign.

The official record shows nothing of the kind. It does show that Adlai Stevenson was willing, if elected president, to suspend nuclear tests without any agreement that Soviet Russia would do likewise.

It shows also that the United States has consistently proposed that nuclear tests be suspended only if an agreement with Soviet Russia is reached on other phases of reduction in armaments.

The White House on Oct. 23, 1956, gave out the complete record which said in part:

"On Nov. 11, 1955, at the Geneva foreign ministers conference, Secretary Dulles stated that 'if agreement can be reached to eliminate or limit nuclear weapons under proper safeguards, the United States would be prepared to agree to corresponding restrictions on the testing of such weapons.'"

"At the London meetings of the disarmament subcommittee, the U.S. delegation on April 3, 1956, put forward a working paper suggesting a step-by-step plan for a first phase of a comprehensive disarmament program including limitation on conventional armaments, provision against surprise attack, including President Eisenhower's proposals for control of the nuclear threat, and limitations on the testing of nuclear weapons as part of a safeguarded disarmament program."

UNACCEPTABLE TO REDS
"The paper included a proviso that 'the testing of nuclear weapons will be limited and monitored in an agreed manner,' by an armaments-regulation council which the U.S. proposed should be established. This proposal was not accepted by the U.S.S.R."

Notwithstanding these facts, which had been widely published at the time each event occurred, Adlai Stevenson said on April 21, 1956, the United States "should give prompt and earnest consideration to stopping further tests of the hydrogen bomb," and then added:

"Of course, I would call upon other nations to follow our lead, and if they don't, and persist in further tests, we will know about it."

Now of course I don't know whether the mastoid operation and the "heat treatments" (whatever they may be) or high calcium diet and calcium feeding brought about the great improvement or recovery, but I believe correcting calcium deficiency will bring such relief in many cases of real or simulated.

Let me remind you that no medical authority to date has negated the dictum of Sherman that—

"The ordinary mixed diet of Americans and Europeans, at least among dwellers in cities and towns" (where they don't get enough milk and milk products), "is probably more often deficient in calcium than in any other chemical element."

Oh, you're allergic to milk, eh?

It and we can reconsider our policy."

Two days later Senator Kefauver of Tennessee—who is one of those senators now lamenting the attacks on Stevenson—said:

"I think that anything we do along that line should be reciprocal. I wouldn't want this country to stop testing if they (the Russians) are going to keep on testing."

When the issue arose again in the campaign in the autumn of 1956, President Eisenhower on Sept. 18 said:

UNWISE POLICY
"We cannot prove wise and strong by any such simple device as suspending unilaterally our H-bomb tests."

Even as late as Oct. 23, 1956, Stevenson, however, was saying:

"It is for these reasons that I proposed long before this campaign that we take the lead in curbing this ghastly killer. . . ."

"Yet the hard scientific fact seems to be that we can safely stop hydrogen explosions without inspection, because, if Russia or anyone else should violate an agreement and explode a big bomb, we would immediately detect it."

Making a partisan issue out of the difficult and delicate question of controlling atomic warfare is a regrettable development inside this country.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Calcium-Rich Diet Aids Relief of Sinus Trouble

It is absurd to label ache, pain or other sensation "neuritis" if it is here today and gone tomorrow, no matter what pain-killer or sense-deadening drug or physical therapy the poor souls may be persuaded to take for the "neuritis." Oh, yes, indeed, neuritis happens, but not nearly so commonly as your trick specialist or "clinic" racketeer would have you believe.

Sinus trouble, chronic sinusitis, so-called, is genuine inflammation, infection or suppurative of one or more of the air-spaces in the skull, all of which are lined with mucous membrane continuous with the lining of the nasal passages.

In a great many instances of chronic sinus trouble the condition seems to be a manifestation of allergy, or at least allergy is the chief contributing factor.

If you are subject to chronic sinus trouble, the following report should interest you:

"Dear Dr. Brady: For three years I have been going to doctors for sinus trouble. They give me penicillin shots. In '52 had operation on both 'mastoids' . . . I was going for heat treatments twice a week . . . saw your recommendation of calcium and D. began taking six a day . . . haven't been to the doctor now for over two months. Signed —"

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Crane Tells Facts About Childbirth

Dora is like the average expectant mother. She wants to know exactly what to expect and when. Such advance information actually reduces most of the terror of any medical operation, for much of the so-called pain of childbirth is due to lack of knowledge. When you mothers can visualize what is going on, you suffer far less. So send for the booklet below.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case V-375: Dora G., aged 23, is expecting her first baby.

"Dr. Crane, I want the baby very much," she began, "but I am frightened at the thought of having it."

"For I don't know what to expect, I never saw a baby born. And many women say it is a very terrifying ordeal."

"I'm sure millions of expectant mothers must be panicky about such things, so would you please relieve our minds by telling us what to expect."

"I get a medical check-up every two or three weeks, but I want to know about the big event itself."

MOTHERHOOD FACTS
"The truth shall make you free," stated Jesus, and that holds very well of medical operations, as well as childbirth.

Once an expectant mother knows exactly what to expect and when, she can cooperate more intelligently with the doctor.

And she doesn't suffer as much pain or discomfort. In fact, I have tried hypnosis with such patients in contrast to a simple explanatory talk prior to childbirth, and I find that hypnosis is

Voice of the People

Pontiac Resident Suggests Brightening Main Street

From the appearance of things, a stranger walking down Saginaw street from Huron to Orchard Lake would conclude Pontiac is in the throes of a 1930-style depression. A more down-at-the-heels main street would be hard to find. There are empty stores with dirty, bleak windows; pigeons have taken over; sidewalks are littered.

It's time someone got mad and went down our main street with a bucket and a mop. (I'll carry the bucket.) I suggest businesses still alive and kicking rent those windows and dress them up with new merchandise. It would not only brighten the entire street, but attract new businessmen. A little progress like making Saginaw street presentable might prove the key to solving bigger problems. Even the poor can be clean.

If businessmen and landlords won't take pride in the street, perhaps various civic and social organizations could be permitted to publicize their activities by setting up displays. Anything but apathy. 29 Douglas St.

Gives Socialists' Reason for War

Newspaper columns repeatedly refer to horrors that will result from atomic-hydrogen wars, but I find no hint as to what the real cause of war is. The Marxian Socialist answer is that it is caused by rivalries among dominant competitive nations. As a supporter of the Socialist Labor Party, I subscribe to this view.

The story is told in a few brief words from the U.S. Navy Department (Congressional Record, April 15, 1957): "Realistically, all wars have been for economic reasons. To make them politically and socially palatable, ideological issues have always been invoked."

Let's get at the cause of war and abolish it.

Mother Criticizes Wallace Program

Up until now I've agreed with Mike Wallace in not denying the right to bring facts to his audience, but his last program went beyond the bounds of fact-reporting. Why should some detective who deals in nothing but smut be allowed to go before a national audience, which undoubtedly contained many young people, and condone immorality? Mike Wallace was just as bad when he did nothing to emphasize that such behavior is not accepted outside such bacchanalian groups as the detective seems to frequent. While realizing such conduct occurs, I see no reason for brandishing it about and have no desire to watch television programs which treat it so lightly.

Century of British Rule Ends in Malaya Saturday

By JOHN H. MARTIN
(INS Foreign Director)
More than a century of British rule comes to an end Saturday when the Federation of Malaya becomes independent and a member of the commonwealth.

This will be the fifth country now in the commonwealth to be made independent since World War II.

The federation, rich in tin, rubber and other resources, is the thin peninsula which juts from the big land mass of Asia. It does not include Singapore—the Communist-menaced island at the foot of the peninsula. But Penang, the island in the northwest, and Malacca, the old West Coast settlement, are included.

The British flag first went over Penang in 1786 and over Malacca nine years later. But it has been within the last 100 years that Britain intervened inland, establishing a system of resident advisers.

After Malaya had been freed of the Japanese conquerors, there were the twin troubles — a new nationalism and communism.

FACT SIGNED IN 1948
At first, the British wanted to create a Malayan union which would have a strong central government and deprive the Malay rulers of some of their authority.

This was resisted by the Malays and the new federation agreement was signed in 1948 preliminary to the independent status.

Prince Abdul Rahman, a brother of the sultan of Kedah, is the leader of the alliance and will be the first prime minister. His relations with London are good and he has cooperated with the British in the nine-year-old battle against Communist guerrillas in the jungles.

The Reds are estimated to number between 2,000 and 3,000, and their threat has dimmed through the years, but they still make sporadic raids on villages to obtain provisions.

Another problem facing the infant nation is the Chinese population which numbers nearly half of the 6,000,000 people. There are some 3,000,000 Malays, about 2,300,000 Chinese and 700,000 Indians.

Singapore will not be a part of the Malaya state, at least in the beginning, because inclusion of its 900,000 Chinese would put the Malays in a minority position in their own country.

The Red menace in Singapore also is acute. The government there under Lim Yew Yock last week arrested 35 persons, all Chinese leftists, in raids the government said were aimed at preventing a Communist plot to take over the colony by violence and armed revolt.

Eighteen were officials of the People's Action Party.

For physicians can't afford to sit around for 5 or 10 hours for one case.

The intern thus keeps the attending physician informed so he can get over to the hospital about 30 minutes ahead of the baby's birth. Meanwhile, the nurse gives the expectant mother an enema to clear out all unnecessary solid material from the pelvis, so the baby's head will meet less obstruction.

And the urinary bladder is likewise emptied to give the baby's head more room to advance.

To prevent possible tearing in the rectum with the first baby, a neat little incision is often made, under anesthesia to widen the outlet. This is called an episiotomy. It's usually at the 4 o'clock position.

As soon as the baby's head is delivered, the shoulders slide out easily.

For further helping information, send for my booklet "Facts About Pregnancy," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents.

It relieves undue fears and shows you how to cooperate better with your physician so you'll feel less pain.

Always write to: Dr. George W. Crane, in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 12 x 600 self-addressed envelope and the 20-cent stamp, and printing your name and address for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Senator Urges Missile Speed

Jackson Sees Russian Report Servicing U.S. Defense Thinking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jackson D-Wash urged today that the United States accelerate its missile program and boost production of long-range bombers in the light of Russia's claim to have tested successfully an intercontinental missile.

"Perhaps the Russians have rendered us something of a service, if the Defense Department will take heed of the danger," Jackson said. "The Soviet announcement should be the signal to the defense administrators to reverse the missile slowdown."

Meanwhile, the Eisenhower administration issued a statement crediting the Soviets "with substantial progress in the long-range ballistic missile field."

But this statement, put out by Acting Secretary of Defense Donald A. Quarles, also said American officials have "made it clear that our own work in this same field is being pressed forward on a broad front and with a high priority."

The statement, cleared by the White House and the State Department, described as "greatly exaggerated" the immediate military significance of what has been termed an American-Soviet race to develop a missile capable of carrying a nuclear warhead 5,000 miles.

Junior Editors HOBBY QUIZ

QUESTION: What nation first used stamps?

ANSWER: Great Britain was the first nation to print postage stamps, starting the practice in 1840. The United States followed Britain's lead and issued its first postage stamps in 1847.

However, many stamps were in use throughout the world before that time. As early as 1653 persons of high rank in England attached private stamps to their correspondence. And in the 17th century the Dutch started a trend by issuing tax stamps. These revenue stamps were put on various items to show that the tax had been paid. The famous British Stamp Act of 1765 was one of the direct causes of the American colonial revolt against Great Britain.

Today stamps are issued by almost every country, colony and island in the world. International postal regulations are set by the Universal Postal Union.

FOR YOU TO DO: Thousands of persons collect stamps as a hobby. Start your own collection by consulting a stamp dealer.

Do You Try to Reform Your Fellow Men?

NEW YORK (AP)—There were only two men at the bar—one very fat and one quite slender—and they were strangers.

However, the fat man introduced himself, bought a couple of rounds, and soon he and the slender man were having as much fun as two microbes in a bowl of pudding.

They were, that is, until the slender man took the fat man by both lapels and said:

"You know, Al, I know it's none of my business, and I hate to poke my nose in another man's life, but why don't you do something about all that extra weight you're carrying? Don't you realize that packing all that fat around will bring you to an early grave?"

The fat man's booming laugh died. A frown spread over his face as he reached into his pocket and handed his new friend a letter addressed "To whom it may concern."

The slender man, a bit bewildered, opened the letter and read as follows:

"Dear friend:

"Until now you have been a nice guy. But your last remark clearly shows you are one of those millions of unhappy people who try to reform their fellow man and make them a prisoner of their own particular brand of misery."

"You think that if I looked as badly fed as you do that I'd be happier. Please listen to my story:

"At birth I weighed 154 pounds.

"I come from a fat family. My father (God rest his soul!) weighed 285 pounds when he died at 81 after outliving three beanpole-shaped wives, each of whom assured him he was digging his grave with his teeth.

"As a boy I was too fat to fight, so, as a result, I never got my teeth knocked out and today I have all my own chompers. In college I was too fat to play football, so I never got any broken bones.

"After college I weighed 250 pounds and was so fat that no woman wanted to marry me. This enabled me to concentrate on my job—selling food sauces—and by the time I was 35 I had saved $50,000 in cash.

"Then my dear uncle, who weighed 315 pounds, died at 79

(God rest his soul!) and left me another $50,000. That gave me $100,000 and I sank it all into a firm that manufactured a new antifat pill. I was named president and the company prospered from the start.

"But the more money we made, the more I ate, so that my weight climbed to 312 pounds. Other members of the firm suggested I either go on a diet or sell out to them.

"I wouldn't change my eating habits, so I sold out—for $3,000,000. That was five years ago. By careful investment I doubled my nestegg. A few months ago I put my $6,000,000 into four per cent municipal bonds. They give me an income of $240,000 a year—tax free.

"I now eat from four to seven meals a day, depending on how I feel, and I weigh 345 pounds and feel fine. I carry $5,000 in my wallet at all times, just to be sure I won't ever have to go hungry. I sleep until noon every day, and can go anywhere or do anything I please.

"I have 40 pairs of shoes, 50 suits, 150 shirts and 300 neckties. Perhaps, of course, I have missed something in life by remaining fat. On the other hand I have a 10-room air conditioned penthouse on Park Avenue, 3 motor cars and 5 servants. If I want a date, all I have to do is pick up the phone and call anyone of a dozen beautiful chorus girls. They may, it is true, think I am a bit chubby, but they like my chubby bankroll.

"Well, friend, that brings my story up to date. And now, skinny,

I am quite willing to hear your tale of joy. Please go right ahead and tell me how much more you've gotten out of life by counting your calories."

The slender man folded up the letter, handed it back to the fat man, and silently walked out of the bar.

Low-Flying Jets Make Garage Doors Open

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The mystery of why radio-operated garage doors in the Point Loma section seemed to just fly open several times daily was solved by the federal communications commission.

Vergne Hoke, FCC man, found the doors were being activated by radio signals from navy jet planes coming in for landings. The doors, in turn, were causing interference with the navy's airfield approach system.

Martin Van Buren was the first President to be born a citizen of the United States.

Eisenhower Signs Bill Hiking Vets Disability Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has signed a bill hiking monthly payments to about two million veterans with disabilities from service.

The increases, effective Oct. 1, range up to nearly 25 per cent in the case of veterans who are totally and permanently disabled, best rise will be about 10 per cent for most veterans getting the higher payments.

The cost to the government is estimated at nearly 187 million dollars for the first year.

In a statement, Eisenhower said he was signing the bill even though he felt it "inadequately compensates some veterans with more serious service-connected disabilities while providing at the same time more than necessary increases to others."

"I have signed the measure notwithstanding these defects," he added, "because my refusal to do so would deprive veterans with service-connected disabilities (a group which merits our particular concern) of any adjustments in their compensation."

Late Aga Khan's Son Honeymoons With Wife

NICE, France (AP)—Prince Sadruddin and his bride, former London model Nina yer, were honeymooning today at the Riviera villa of his mother Princess Andree.

The younger son of the late Aga Khan III and his new wife arrived from Geneva last night aboard a private plane. "She gave me happiness," said Sadruddin to newsmen who asked the 27-year-old bride what she had given her 24-year-old husband for a wedding present.

Sadruddin and the former wife of Swiss-naturalized industrialist Heinrich von Thyssen were married in Switzerland yesterday in civil and Moslem ceremonies.

Females With Rocks in Head, Gold in Heart

Women Want Furs, Senate or No Senate

By PHYLIS BATTLE
NEW YORK (INS) — Senator Richard L. Neuberger, Democrat from Oregon, has just intimated to his cronies in the chamber that the American woman is a breed with gold in her heart and rocks in her head.

"According to all available records, not one Republican took issue with the idea. This is as it must be; senators will be diplomats."

The immediate excuse for the Senate's recognition of this most pair of traits in fair damselhood is Neuberger's crusade to ban the use of "toothed steel traps" for the capture of animals whose fur is later used to keep the American woman's heart so allegedly warm.

Our dear, kindly American girls, said the senator, are persons "of great gentleness and compassion," so obviously they don't realize by what cruel mean they are being awarded their minks and muskrats. They are "unwitting motivators of an instrument of medieval torture and unnecessary savagery," Neuberger contended, in wearing those lovely furs "at the expense of terrible suffering and cruelty among animals."

"I'M FOR DICK, BUT . . ."

Well, I am all for Neuberger's theory to abolish all forms of inhumane slaughter, as would be any woman who wasn't brought up to yank kitties' tails.

However, after 35 years of kicking around with (and about) the women of the world, it occurs that his analysis of this "great gentleness and compassion," in the ladies may be a whit overflattering, even for a politician.

Women can be as docile and soft as puppy dogs when they are carefully handled—which explains why the mention of gentleness is appropriate in the same breath with fur coats—but women also comprise the sex that rarely hesitates to snap at the hand that doesn't feed them.

It is my belief, through observation and conversation, that instinctively most men have more kindness in their hearts than most women, and less taste for the hurting of fellow-man or beast.

It is the woman, I imagine, who would the more gingerly drop the live lobster into the steam; the woman who would shudder with showmanship, but then bait the worm on the fishhook the more eagerly.

TO BE EXPECTED

It is all to be expected. Females were made to mother the children of the world, and the law of self and family survival has made them less compassionate with those outer creatures who threaten, or do not concern, them.

The great humanitarians in history, almost all, have been men. They have cared for the many, leaving women to fight for the rights of the family few.

I know there are hundreds of women doing volunteer work for humane societies, and to these, Senator Neuberger's remarks are properly kind.

But as for a great mass of American girls will the knowledge that they are "unwitting motivators of cruelty" make them stand up and fight inhumanity—make them boycott the mink coat market till the cruelties are abolished? Afraid not.

After all, a lady has to keep warm in the torso, if not in the heart.

Police Pacify Caller; Find Elephant in Yard

ENID, Okla. (AP)—Police decided to pacify Mrs. Russell Britton when she reported an elephant and some horses romping around in her back yard.

An officer reluctantly went to investigate, and discovered Mrs. Britton wasn't fooling.

The animals were there all right. They were from an animal act and the owners had stopped and turned them loose while cleaning their pens.

William Howard Taft was the first U.S. president to receive a salary of $75,000 a year.

Mackinac Island Historical Feud Really Collapses

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP)—A controversy over razing or preserving the 140-year-old clerks' quarters of the old American Fur Co. as a historical monument literally has collapsed.

Mayor John F. Franks today said the old structure, which once housed 450 employees when this northern Michigan island was a prominent fur trading center, fell apart over the weekend during operations to remove its third floor.

Workmen sought to remove a sagging chimney and dilapidated third floor which was not a part of the original building.

The clerks' quarters and grounds are owned by the City of Mackinac Island.

They previously had been slated for razing as a public hazard, but the plan was delayed when several state and private organizations protested that the building should be restored as a historical marker. The city decided to proceed with plans to dismantle the crumbling chimney and remove the ruined third floor of the building.

Franks said the rest of the structure was planned to be left intact pending outcome of negotiations with the State Park Commission for acquisition of the building and property.

Contractor Jim Francis said the removal project was nearly completed when the remained of the old timber building "just fell in."

Franks said, however, the city has erected a fence around the ruins. If the state still desires, he declared, it can rebuild the clerks' quarters from the original pieces—even the measurements were noted carefully before the building collapsed.

Body of 5-Year-Old Girl Found in Texas River

EVADALE, TEX. (U)—The body of a 5-year-old girl, hunted by hundreds in the thick growth near here since she disappeared from a family outing Sunday, was found face down in the Neches River yesterday.

Diane Burch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Burch, had been sought by soldiers from Ft. Polk, La., and peace officers from several east Texas counties.

She was spotted by helicopter.

Teenagers Disagree on Their Ability to Drive Today's Cars Carefully, Safely

Teenage driving draws continual criticism and defense from all segments of the society. This is the second of four articles presenting a national picture of teenage driving, actually and with the opinions of experts, teenagers and their parents.

By IRWIN SAPHCHIK
INS Staff Writer

What do the youngsters themselves say about charges that they are apt to drive themselves, their passengers and other motorists to the cemetery?

Pat Sanderson, a 17-year-old girl from Mechanicsburg, Pa., says, "The majority of teenagers are careful drivers," explaining: "They have to be because usually they drive their parents' car."

But Jeff Burton, 15, of Salt Lake City, Utah, says: "I don't think most kids are as careful as their parents—they want to show off."

To which John Dillion, 17, of Philadelphia, replies: "Most teenagers are reckless drivers because they see their parents speed so they think they can do it too."

David Fischer, 18, of Los Angeles, believes teenagers are "more careful" than older drivers when they're in the car by themselves, "but they are less careful when there is a group of them."

PHYSICAL ABILITY GOOD

Most of the youngsters agree on one point: Teenagers have the physical equipment—the reflexes, the eyesight, and so on—to become superior drivers; but too many of them lack the mental equipment to make the most of this God-given advantage.

It is, in other words, a matter of maturity, which brings up the question of when a youngster should be allowed to drive.

Even the 48 states don't agree on this one. South Carolina and Texas hand out licenses to 14-year-olds; Nebraska makes them wait until they're 20.

Thirty-six states and the District of Columbia figure that 16 is right, while Florida has fixed on the age of 16 years and one month. The minimum age is 15 in Louisiana, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, South Dakota, Virginia and Washington. It's 17 in New Jersey and 18 in New York.

Teenagers and parents have their own ideas. "As long as you can sit behind the wheel, I guess you're old enough to drive," says W. All Smith, 19, of Atlanta. "The minimum driving age should be 21," declares James Cushing, 17, of Omaha.

'COULD BE 14'

A parent in Phoenix, Ariz., George McClanathan, expresses the opinion that the minimum age "could be as low as 14," but only as long as there is "total parental supervision."

But just as most states believe 16 is the proper minimum age for new drivers, so do most youngsters, their fathers and mothers.

Whether a juvenile is mature enough at that age to have several hundred horsepower at his disposal is another question, depending on the teenager himself. But, to the average boy or girl, being allowed to take the car out alone is in itself a sign of growing up.

Arthur L. Rautman and his wife, Emily, clinical psychologists at the University of New Mexico, write: "In modern America, the permission to drive, without supervision, that great symbol of technological progress—the automobile—has come to be the one sign of maturity which, in the eyes of the adolescent, supersedes all others."

(Tomorrow: Who should teach the teenager to drive?)

Project Clouded at Pontiac Lake

Financing Difficulties May Hit Construction of New Dam, Levees

Financing complications may again cast a shadow on proposed construction of a new dam and levees for Pontiac Lake.

Two bids opened for the project both contain qualifications about financing under Michigan's drain laws, said Oakland County Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry.

Action on the bids will probably not be taken, Barry said, until after a conference with one of the bidders, Lee Trullio, a Cleveland, Ohio, contractor.

Trullio submitted a $73,172 bid for construction of the entire project, while another Cleveland firm, Intrusion Prepack Co., submitted a $37,305 bid for work on the dam only.

Trullio's bid was entered with the stipulation that he would not contract for just one part of the project, Barry said.

Both bidders had qualifications over marketing of drain orders. It was on this same point that bidding failed earlier.

The Cleveland bidders are not sure of the exact amount of discount they would have to pay on orders set up by Barry over the five-year period during which special assessments would be spread.

In June, the only bidder on the project was another Ohio firm, that wasn't sure it could find a Michigan outlet for the drain orders. The firm's bid was subsequently turned down for this reason.

More lives were lost in the Civil War than any other war in which the U.S. has been engaged.

Threats End Peaceful Day

Telephone Calls Follow an Orderly Registration at Schools in Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (U)—A day of orderly registration for Nashville's first integrated classes wound up last night with telephone threats aimed at a school official and six of the 13 Negro pupils enrolled in the first grade for mixed classes.

Asst. School Supt. W. H. Oliver confirmed last night that his family had received telephone threats after a truck driver of the same name reported he had received such threats from callers mistaking him for the official.

Enrollment yesterday was 43 per cent below expectations, officials said, but no violence or disorders were reported as Negro mothers brought their 6-year-olds to their newly assigned schools.

One white pupil enrolled in a previously all-Negro school.

Telephone threats of violence and harm to their children were reported by parents of six of the Negro children. The parents of a seventh child said their phone rang repeatedly but the caller hung up without saying anything.

"The police department gave us strong and complete protection yesterday and everything went smoothly. I have been assured from them that we will receive the same protection when these children return to class," Oliver said.

Registration day was reported quiet at Clinton High School in east Tennessee. The school, 200 miles from here, was the scene of racial violence last fall when it became the first state-supported secondary school in Tennessee to integrate. The school enrolled two 15-year-old Negro freshmen without incident.

Polite Drivers Given Bouquets by 80 Judges

ST. LOUIS (U)—Eighty judges stood at intersections yesterday and bestowed bouquets upon courteous drivers.

It was the first annual "courtesy day" sponsored by the Allied Florists' Assn., and the judges had 100 bouquets to give away.

By late afternoon they had found only 70 deserving drivers and the sun had wilted away the awards.

One happy woman driver exclaimed: "I'll have to take the flowers home to my husband or else he'll never believe this."

"I'm AWOL from my wife in Cincinnati," said another driver who refused to give his name and drove off hurriedly after receiving the floral gift.

50 Top CAP Cadets to Be Flying Jets

PERRIN AIR FORCE BASE, Tex. (U)—Fifty youths from 47 states—all Civil Air Patrol honor cadets—will realize dreams today with a chance at the controls of a jet scheduled for each.

The cadets, aged 16 to 18, are from every state except Rhode Island. All are considered prime Air Force officer material because of their cadet records. They are getting the VIP treatment.

They came here Sunday and have gone through an orientation course.

Each is paired with an instructor pilot. An Air Force spokesman said 16 had previously piloted planes and would take the controls within 20 to 30 minutes of being airborne today.

All are expected to be piloting and navigating by the last flight Saturday. They will not take off or land.

On the Art of Thievery

YORK, Pa. (U)—A 12-year-old boy arrested for shoplifting surrendered a notebook he kept entitled "Hooking—How to Be a Good Thief." It included a will "in case I'm caught" and a map showing where he had hidden his money.

Dooley's First Patient a Critically Burned Boy

2nd in Series

By DON DUNHAM

SAIGON, Viet Nam (NEA) — Ion, a 10-year-old boy of the Black Thai tribe in Laos, stuck his head, happy face into the doorway of Dr. Thomas A. Dooley's hospital clinic room in Nam Tha.

Ion's story is one of Dr. Tom Dooley's most dramatic in several months of adventure with the happy, pleasant people of the tribes who depend on him for their health.

Ion just wanted to say hello to his "American doctor friend."

Ion was Dr. Dooley's first patient after he opened his hospital at Nam Tha. The doctor and his boys had just ended three tough days whipping their hospital into shape.

But let Tom Dooley tell it in his own words: "Late at night we were called by a man to go to his village to see his son who had been badly burned. We went through rain and dense jungle, across bamboo bridges, through rice fields and high onto the mountain.

HUT ON STILTS

"Finally, we reached a hut on stilts. The hut reeked with the stench of burnt flesh. The father led us to a wisp of a body.

"This was Ion, lying on his stomach. He was barely alive. The stench worsened. I picked up a rag that covered the boy's back and my head swam in sickening pity. He was charred from head to bottom. His back was twisted and distorted.

"Above the boy's whimpers, the father explained that he had been burned a week before. The village witch doctor had made a paste of betel grease, tobacco juice and cow dung. This is what caused the specter that I was looking at. We all agreed that the boy would die unless he were taken to the hospital. And hope was feeble for him even there.

"The natives built a basket and slung it from a bamboo pole. We went on ahead. By midnight Ion was at the hospital.

"My team was ready. Pete Kessey gave open-drip anesthesia. Denny Baker scrubbed with me. And we did our first operation at Nam Tha in a room where the paint had hardly dried.

"Using flashlights (we had no electricity), we cut away the dead tissue, cleaned out the burns, scrubbed the little boy and even gave him a haircut. We then bandaged him into pounds of Terraclyn ointment, fluff gauze and bandages. For the rest of the night my boys stood watch over him, forcing sugar, salt and penicillin into him.

"With the power of medicine and prayer and a little sweat, Ion pulled through. As he improved, we rigged his bed with colored balloons sent to us among many other things by a Honolulu high school. Ion loved these and said, 'Kenoi mak-Thanh Mo li . . . This means, 'I like Americans a lot.'"

NO IDEA OF FATE

Dr. Dooley, of course, had no idea what the fates had in store for Ion when he snatched him away from death. He did not know whether he would grow up to have faith in the freedom that we have, or whether his lot would be the cruelty and lust of those just a few miles north where the Communists hold sway.

But Ion came to love and respect his "American doctor friend," whose skill and care had saved off death.

Tom Dooley sees in Ion a living example that we are our brother's keeper and that it is not just selfish charity.

"There is a simple, clearcut.

Street Hole Saves Life

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—A large hole in a city street is usually a traffic hazard. But in Lima, such a hole was responsible for saving a boy's life.

Douglas Weber, 3, suffered only minor bruises when a car backing out of a driveway "squashed" him into the hole.

Free Peruvian Sub From Sand Shoal

OLD SAYBROOK, Conn. (AP)—The Peruvian submarine Iquique was yanked loose from a sand shoal in Long Island Sound at high tide today after being stranded embarrassingly more than three miles from shore.

The 240-foot attack submarine ran aground during builder's trials yesterday afternoon. She was pulled loose at 12:40 a.m. by two submarine rescue vessels and several Navy and commercial tugs.

The 57 crewmen and observers remained aboard all the while. Officials said they were comfortable and in no danger.

A spokesman for the builder, the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., said the craft headed back to the company's Groton, Conn., dock yards under its own power to be inspected for damage.

Of the 57 persons on board, 41 were company employees acting as crew during the test. The other 16 were Peruvian navy personnel traveling as observers.

Atlanta Population Up

ATLANTA (AP)—The Metropolitan Planning Commission today reported that the population center of Greater Atlanta surpassed the 900,000 mark during August. The 15,000 increase since Jan. 1 was in line with the commission's prediction that the city's metropolitan area will reach a million in population in 1961.

Worked Over Draft Board, Detailing Engine Parts

Victor Hancock Was Pioneer With Oakland

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.
Fifty years ago an ambitious young man visited Pontiac during his summer vacation from Purdue University. Victor H. Hancock never returned to his studies at the University.

Instead, he embarked on a short career of aiding in the development of the first two-cylinder Oakland motor car, the predecessor of today's Pontiac.

"My uncle knew Ed Murphy who was then organizing the company. Murphy gave me a reference card to see Otto Kline, chief engineer," relates Hancock as he looks back on his unexpected entrance into the automobile industry.

"I saw Kline and he hired me. He started me out — at $15 a week — detailing for manufacturing purposes the parts of the planetary transmission of the car, which was a complicated mess in those days."

Hancock, then 20, labored over a draft board from 1907 through 1910 to become one of the five pioneers of the first Oakland. He had to give up the work because of ill health.

Today, Hancock, 70, is in partnership with his brother operating the Hancock Iron Works at 52 W. Pike St.

Telling of the birth of the Oakland, he recalled how anxious Kline and Al Brush, designer of the car, were to get the vehicle before the public. "When the New York show came along, we only had a car body, wheels, and frame, but no motor or transmission. We were in the process of manufacturing the rest," he said.

The quietest of pioneers moved their headquarters from Detroit in 1907 to a small room in a two-story building near the old Pontiac Buggy Co. This building, Hancock believes, is still part of the present Pontiac Motor Division administration offices at 196 Oakland Ave.

Hancock's primary job was to lay-out plans for each individual part of the Oakland so that they could be blueprinted and passed on for manufacture.

RECORD RIDE
Describing his first ride in the two-cylinder Oakland, the pioneer draftsman recalled, "I thought we had set some sort of a record when we went from the old Welsh Motor Car Co., about where the Blair Transit is today, to the fairgrounds in 45 minutes."

"We didn't have to change a thing," he continued. "In those days, over rough gravel and sand roads, that was quite an accomplishment."

Hancock said the members of the company felt sure they were on a project which would sell. "The people in the buggy company wondered how the car's ash wood frame would hold up," he reminisced.

"You wonder how it ever held together," Hancock questioned, "but it did."

"We worked a 10-hour day 'Sometimes I would work a six days a week,' he recalled, month detailing one part before it could go out for manufacturing."

"I remember well when they started me on the transmission. It was very detailed and I asked them to give me a couple of days to look it over."

Besides Hancock, A. P. Brush, and Kline, George Howard, chief draftsman, and another draftsman by the name of McDonald, were in on the initial development of the two-cylinder Oakland.

Modestly recalling his contribution to Oakland car industry, Hancock said he will never forget those long 45 minutes he and another rambled in a test car down Saginaw street toward Detroit. "I thought I was living on top of the world."

Plan for U.S. Chief of Agency Hits Snag

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U.P.) — The U. S. campaign to install an American as head of the new International Atomic Energy Agency was reported today to have run into serious opposition.

Diplomatic sources said several influential members of the agency, including the Soviet Union, were insisting that the director be someone not closely linked to any of the big powers.

The United States is backing Rep. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.), former chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, an American spokesman said Cole's candidacy would be pressed despite the opposition.

"The United States has high hopes Cole will be elected," the spokesman said.

The American delegation was reported surprised by the Soviet opposition. One source said the United States had understood the Russians would go along on Cole provided Soviet nationals were given some key posts in the agency.

Calls for Fewer Journalism Schools

BOSTON (INS) — The president of the Association for Education in Journalism called for a drastic reduction in the number of schools and departments of journalism.

Dr. Norval Neil Luxon, dean of the University of North Carolina school of journalism, told the organization of 750 journalism teachers they should strengthen the schools which remain after his proposed reduction so they will become truly professional schools.

Dr. Luxon declared the increase in the number of schools during the last decade has been from 114 to 163.

He suggested American newspapers and other media of mass communication would be better served by 40 or 50 truly professional schools with high standards.

Malenkov Denounced as Tool and Shadow of Beria by Khrushchev

MOSCOW (U.P.) — In the strongest indictment of Georgi Malenkov to date, Nikita Khrushchev has denounced the former Soviet Premier as a shadow and tool of executed secret police chief Lavrenty Beria.

The Communist party boss, in an article published yesterday in the magazine Kommunist, charged that Malenkov and Beria goaded Stalin in his last years into acts which now warrant denunciation.

Khrushchev declared Malenkov was completely under Beria's influence, that he was the former police chief's "shadow and a tool in his hands."

Stalin made "gross and grave mistakes," he said, but he did much good for Russia and the Communist movement.

"Though Malenkov occupied a high position in the party and government," Khrushchev continued, "he did not restrain Stalin, but very skillfully took advantage of Stalin's weaknesses and habits in the last years of his life. In many cases he incited him to action which was deserving of stern condemnation."

Malenkov was purged from the top Kremlin command in late June for allegedly conspiring with V. M. Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich in a revolt against Khrushchev's policies. The Soviet government says the pudgy ex-premier now is director of a power station in Central Asia.

Beria was purged in June 1953 while Malenkov was premier. He died before a firing squad the following December.

Money Mounts in Pot-O-Gold to $2,300

A grand total of $2,300 now waits for some lucky person who wins Pot-O-Gold. Unless you don't mind someone else getting all the glory, not to mention the cash, you better get started right now on the new puzzle below.

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the sentence. You then write the number of that word in the puzzle square marked A.

Do the same with all other squares. Read all the clues carefully and be sure the right numbers are in the right squares.

- Winners will be awarded an extra cash bonus of $25 each if they are Pontiac Press subscribers of record on the day winners are announced. Only one such bonus can be awarded to each prize-winner no matter how many weekly prizes may accumulate.
- Each week's puzzle will be published Monday, Wednesday and Friday until the contest's end. Either or all will be considered as official entry blanks.
- Winners and correct solutions will be announced each Friday of the week following individual contests. Official keeper of answers will be Frederick C. Ziem, proprietor for Oakland County. Only the General Features Corp., originators of the puzzles, will know the solutions until after each contest is over. Answers will be delivered to the Press judges by Mr. Ziem after the final deadline.
- There is only one correct solution to the POT-O-GOLD puzzle, and only that correct answer can win. The decision of the judges is final and all contestants agree to abide by the judges' decision. All entries becoming the property of The Pontiac Press and none can be returned.

Now in Mid-East for U.S. Henderson Top Diplomat

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Loy W. Henderson, ace state department trouble-shooter who was sent to the Middle East last week after the Syrian crisis developed, has been termed a diplomat's diplomat by admiring colleagues. One of the most versatile state department officials, Henderson is so valuable that when forced to retire upon reaching 65 last June 28 President Eisenhower appointed him deputy undersecretary of state for administration so he would not be lost to the foreign service.

In his new job, Henderson's main duty supposedly is dealing with the selection and training of foreign service personnel and other administrative problems.

But he has been called upon for help almost every time a troublesome political situation develops in any part of the world. Syria's swing toward communism sent him flying to the Middle East to consult with various friendly leaders in the troubled area. It was his fourth trip since 1935 to the Middle East, where the Arabs have considered him a friend ever since he was named U.S. minister to Iraq 14 years ago.

EXPERT IN IRAN

The high point of Henderson's highly successful career came a few years ago when he was sent to Iran because that country was in danger of falling into the Communist orbit after breaking off relations with Britain over an oil dispute. Henderson got the oil flowing again and helped make Iran one of the West's most dependable allies in the Middle East.

In 1947, while director of the office of Near Eastern and African Affairs, Henderson probably was as responsible as any single individual in formulating the Truman Doctrine to save Greece from the Communists.

The son of a Methodist minister, he was born in Rogers, Ark., was graduated from Northwestern University and attended Denver Law School and New York University's School of Graduate Studies.

Before entering the foreign service 35 years ago, Henderson served with the American Red Cross in France and in Western Russia and the Baltic states during the Russian civil war.

A distinguished balding man of medium height, Henderson's energy belies his years.

He spent his early foreign service career in Ireland, the Baltic and Moscow, then switched to the Middle East. He was ambassador to India in 1948 and to Iran from 1951 to 1953.

He is married to the former Elise Marie Heinrichson. They have no children.

Bayonets made their first appearance in Bayonne, France.

Bob Considine Says:

Fate Prodded Chambers to Exposing Hiss

NEW YORK (INS) — Whittaker Chambers is back in the news. He has recovered sufficiently from his series of heart attacks to accept a post as European observer for "National Review," a magazine somewhat to the right of right field.

Chambers once was a Communist who served as a courier running secrets out of Washington. His testimony that Alger Hiss was one of the major court cases and political crises of its time.

The Hiss case might have died with little furor, save for a strange happening. For a long time after the original charge was hurled, Chambers insisted to the house un-American Activities Committee that he had no documentary proof. Then he unexpectedly yielded the first of the documents he had secretly saved through the years.

He gave them up (after 24 hours of sleepless meditation, he later wrote) because in a pre-labeled examination of Mrs. Chambers — who had accidentally struck a pedestrian while driving to the Hiss attorney's office — the attorney accused Chambers of being a homosexual. Mrs. Chambers arrived back at their Maryland farm in a state of extreme mental stress. So Chambers produced letters and memos from Hiss' office, and later, upon further prodding, the "pumpkin papers."

I had to read the story twice, before cancelling a telegram of thanks I was about to send to Sen. Lyndon Johnson for personally putting up that extra $300,000,000 the President wanted for his foreign aid program. I thought that, as a Texan, he was prepared to take it out of his petty cash box. But it seems now that somebody else will get it up. You.

The current issue of Life magazine, with its superb pictures of fabled and remote San Simeon, built by the late W. R. Hearst Sr., recalls a pleasant trip there near the end of the war.

I was one of his obscurer workers, but he received us as if he had waited for some time for the pleasure. My wife and I were struck dumb by the splendor of the place — which Life's cameras have caught with imagination and vigor.

What the cameras couldn't catch, of course, was the man who is gone. He was taller than we expected, and though an old man at the time he moved with Hearst said, "He'll always be the action of one who had been with us."

We were prepared for something explosive in the way of the prototype of a publishing tycoon. Instead, his voice was soft, his manner shy, his whole attitude one of almost deference to a casual visitor's small wishes. He called me mister.

I asked him what he saw in the future for the daily American press.

"More mechanization," Hearst said. "Better presses and much more use of color. If a merchant wishes to sell yellow dresses he'll advertise them in their natural color, not in black and white."

"But nobody is ever going to invent a machine to take the place of the writer, the good writer."

DAYTON, Ohio — The U. S. attorney's office here, trying to collect as much money as possible from government debtors before the end of fiscal 1956, wound up in a familiar government position — in the red.

Bill to Protect FBI Files Near

See Quick Agreement on Compromise Plan Before Adjournment

WASHINGTON — House-Senate conferees today were expected to reach quick agreement on a compromise bill, aimed at preventing defense lawyers from looking without restraint through FBI files.

Rep. Celler (D-NY), chief House conferee, expressed no doubt in an interview that a compromise would be worked out in the remaining few days before Congress adjourns.

Celler said he thinks various features of the bill the Senate passed Monday night will be included in the compromise version. The House passed a somewhat different bill yesterday by a 351-17 vote. The House bill conforms to the Eisenhower administration's wishes.

The House vote came after the Justice Department branded the Senate bill as unacceptable because of what it called "serious defects."

The bills were passed to meet what the Justice Department says is an emergency situation caused by the Supreme Court's June 3 ruling in the case of former union official Clinton Jencks.

The high court threw out Jencks' perjury conviction and ordered a new trial, saying a defendant in a criminal case has a right to inspect all relevant material in FBI files furnished by prosecution witnesses, so the defense might try to impeach their testimony.

Lower courts have interpreted the Supreme Court decision in different ways. Some have viewed it as granting broad rights for the defense to look at federal files.

GUARDING THE EXHIBITS — They don't give blue ribbons for sleeping, but if they did, two-year-old Bruce Jones would probably be a prize winner. He's settled down near the championship

Rewards Offered in Chicago Slaying

Four Bullets Found in Girl

CHICAGO (INS) — Autopsy surgeons who found four bullets in the head of torso murder victim Judith Mae Anderson, 15, are expected to present some of their findings at the inquest into her death today.

A preliminary autopsy report last night on Judy's dismembered body, which was taken from Lake Michigan at Montrose Harbor in Chicago last week, said that two of the bullets penetrated the brain and were the cause of death.

The two other bullets were recovered from soft tissue outside the skull. One was in the back of the neck and the other in the left side of the jaw.

Four physicians who participated in the partial report yesterday still are seeking to determine how long Judy had been dead when an oil drum containing her torso and legs was found in Montrose Harbor last Thursday. The head, arms and hands were found in another steel container.

The inquest is expected to be continued after the presentation of routine testimony. Coroner Walter McCarron said:

FOUR WOUNDS A SURPRISE

"We will have more information at the inquest."

The discovery of four bullets came as a surprise. Earlier medical reports mentioned only one bullet wound, in the left temple.

The caliber of the bullets was not disclosed. Also kept secret was any reports of marks of abrasions on the head.

Dr. Victor Levine, coroner's pathologist, told newsmen:

"There are some things I cannot tell you at this time."

Participating with Dr. Levine in the autopsy were Dr. Walter J. R. Camp, state toxicologist and professor of toxicology and pharmacology at the University of Illinois medical school; Dr. Otto Saphir, head of the department of pathology at Michael Reese Hospital, and Dr. Samuel A. Levinson, professor of pathology at the University of Illinois medical school.

Dr. Levine refused to answer a question as to the contents of the dead girl's stomach.

The bullets were turned over to the police crime laboratory for ballistic tests.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Tribune offered a $50,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who murdered Judith Mae.

Previously, the Robert O. Law Co., where the girl's father, Ralph, is a foreman, offered a $1,000 reward.

SEARCH HARBOR

Skin divers still are searching the bottom of Montrose Harbor in an effort to locate the gun used in the killing and the knife or other implements used to dismember her body.

Authorities continued their search for clues in the vicinity where Judy lived, and near where Judy's best friend, Elena Abbatucci, 15, resides.

Elena was the last known person to see Judith Mae alive. She vanished shortly after leaving Elena's home the night of Aug. 16.

Civil Rights Bill to Face Attack

Johnson to Give Critics Time to Air Views; Sees No Filibuster

WASHINGTON — Decks were cleared in the Senate today for a possibly lengthy assault by Southern opponents of the compromise civil rights bill.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said that as far as he is concerned critics of the measure the House passed 297-97 yesterday will have all the time they need to talk against it in the Senate. But an all-out filibuster appeared unlikely.

The Senate debate actually began last night after the bill arrived from the House.

Sen. Thurmond (D-SC) offered a surprise motion to shunt the

2 From State Vote No

WASHINGTON — Two Republicans, Hoffman and Johansen, were the only members of the Michigan delegation voting against the compromise civil rights bill which the house passed yesterday.

The Michigan roll call: Democrats for: Diggs, Dingell, Griffiths, Macrowicz, Rabaut, Republicans for: Bennett, Bentley, Broomfield, Cederberg, Chamberlain, Ford, Griffin, Knox, McIntosh, Meader.

Democrats against — none. Republicans against: Johansen. Republicans paired against: Hoffman.

Lesinski, Democrat, was listed as not voting.

measure to the Judiciary Committee headed by Sen. Eastland (D-Miss), another avowed foe of the civil rights bill.

The motion took Republican and Democratic leaders by surprise. Even Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), captain of Southern forces, said he had not known of it. But after about two hours debate, the Senate rejected the motion 66-18.

Johnson then called for a recess until today.

City Commission Meets Tonight

Expect to Set Hospital Vote Date

City commissioners' primary attention tonight will be directed toward a report from Pontiac's bond attorney in which he is expected to outline financial details of the proposed fall vote to equip Pontiac General Hospital.

Commissioners, after hearing the report, are expected to set the date for the $350,000 general obligation bond election.

Fifteen of the 26 items facing the commission deal with the city's continuing public works program.

Included are two public hearings on special assessment rolls covering a proposed storm drain in the block bounded by Glendale, Menominee, Genesee, and Telegraph, and for a curb, gutter, and related work project slated for Homestead drive from Astor to East Boulevard.

A third public hearing will concern a proposal to change the name of Dix street between Warner and Hess streets to Howard McNeill street.

Commissioners, meeting a night later than their usual Tuesday session because of last night's celebration show, will hear a letter from S. E. Knudsen, Pontiac Motor Division general manager, thanking the city for its participation in the Aug. 19 parade honoring the 50th anniversary of the industry.

Bids received Monday for more sidewalk projects in Pontiac will be acted on tonight.

Two requests for changes in package beer and wine licenses in the city have been placed on the agenda.

A request for street improvements of Livingston avenue from Blaine to Stanley has been made by Allen A. Saltz, Detroit builder.

Making up the rest of the docket are seven engineer estimates on proposed projects, and resolutions to receive four special assessment rolls on other projects.

Advertising Agencies in New York Total 650

NEW YORK — About 650 advertising agencies have headquarters in New York City, according to the New York State Division of Employment. These agencies employ 23,000 persons in the city.

About 10,000 of them are in clerical and other nonprofessional jobs. The offices are concentrated in the Radio City area and on or near Madison and Park avenues from 42nd to 59th streets.

MR. & MRS. T. FLUENT JR.

Speaks Vows at St. Joseph

Lois McManus Weds

LAKE ORION — St. Joseph Catholic Church was the setting for the Saturday morning nuptial mass of Lois Elaine McManus, and Thomas Arthur Fluent Jr. Parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest John McManus of Lakeview street and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Arthur Fluent Sr. Detroit.

The bride's gown, made by her mother, was of Chantilly lace, with a scalloped overskirt of the same lace over satin, in floor length. Her fingertip veil was caught to a heart-shaped cap and embroidered with seed pearls.

She carried an arrangement of white sweetheart roses and stephanitis with white streamers and tiny red rosebuds, on an heirloom prayer book, the gift of a friend, Madeline Goodrich.

Her honor attendant was her sister, Mrs. Stuart Crandall. Another sister, Maxine McManus, and Susan Moultrup, of Waterford, were the bridesmaids.

Lois Ann Crandall and Claudia Elaine Hunt were flowergirls.

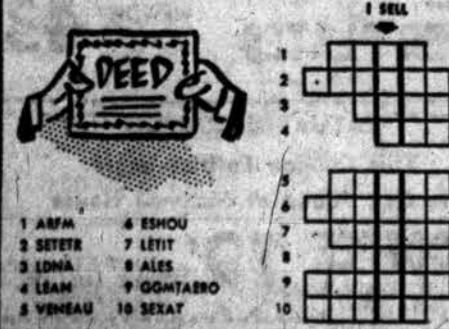

Robert Fluent served as his brother's best man, Donald McManus brother of the bride, and Al Merrill of St. Claire Shores ushered. Kim Allan Crandall and Roger Keith Hunt were ring bearers.

Two hundred guests attended the afternoon reception held at the home of the bride's parents. Afterward the couple left for Niagara Falls and a northern honeymoon.

They will make their home in Pontiac.

'Hurray' to Peck, Bartlett, for Sharing With Writers

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) - Let me say a loud "hurray" for Gregory Peck and Sy Bartlett who so strongly believe that scriptwriters should be given a share in the profits of a movie, that they are giving an appropriate "cut" on a story they've just bought, "Pork Chop Hill," to scripter James Webb!

This should be heartening news to hundreds of typewriter pounders who seldom get in on the gravy.

Let me tell you more about "Pork Chop Hill," authored in book form by General S.L.A. Marshall.

It's a stirring dramatic tale of a battle taking place only 80 miles away from the peace conference grounds at Panmunjom, Korea, and of a single patrol's tragic struggle to reach a position within shouting distance of the peace tables.

Greg, who is finishing "The Big Country" for Willy Wyler, tells me he'll start this new project in February of '38.

Dean Martin makes his debut as a solo TV star on Oct. 5 for NBC. He's made guest appearances, but this will be the first time he's had his own story. Cy Howard delayed his trip to Europe to write Dean's material.

It almost knocked Dean, NBC and everyone out when Elvis Presley asked $75,000 for a single appearance on the opening night show. That's an all-time high, isn't it?

Elvis' price has gone up since he was paid $50,000 from Ed Sullivan. The money he's taking in makes Uncle Sam richer and richer.

STORY ABOUT HIMSELF

Lou Costello's first movie since he and Bud Abbott broke up is "10,000 Kids and a Comic." Yes, you guessed it - it's a story about Lou himself.

The roly-poly Lou has commissioned Jim Bacon, syndicated Hollywood columnist, and Joe Glasston, the latter Costello's press agent for 17 years, to write the yarn.

There will be plenty of comedy, naturally, but the plot also revolves around Lou's serious bout with rheumatic fever and also the tragedy of losing his seven-month-old son, Lou Jr., in a swimming pool drowning.

It was in his son's memory that Costello founded the Lou Costello Jr. Youth Center, where so many youngsters have been guided to good citizenship.

Apparently Bing Crosby doesn't know his own popularity. While on a fishing trip off the Canadian coast, he received word via ship's radio that it was imperative for him to speak to the Edsel people about his CBS October television show.

Bing was forced to put in at the nearest town, Goose Bay, in Canada, to talk via telephone. Everyone in the town crowded around the pier and the local cannery shut down during this period so the employees could join with the town's inhabitants.

Before the popular Bing could get to the telephone he had to sing for 25 minutes. Then while he was talking on the phone, Phil Harris, who accompanied Bing on the fishing trip, carried on.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Marjorie Rambeau, who had been ailing for some weeks, is in Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital for a complete check-up. While there her 96-year-old mother passed away. Here's hoping Marjorie will soon be her gay, bright self.

The late Frank Morgan's son, George, and his wife welcomed a baby girl at Santa Monica Hospital. Papa's a film editor at Disney's.

Cobina Wright's new granddaughter will be named Cobina III (what else?)—Cobina Wright Beaudette.

Didn't recognize Betsy Drake in the theater at Las Vegas until she turned around to greet me, her hair is so very blonde. She and Cary Grant held hands during the show.

A nice telegram from Phillip Reed, who married Audrey Gillin in Seattle, Washington. Her brother, John, has been the frequent escort of publicist Lee Anderson.

Malaya Federation to Be Independent

FAIRYLAND SETTING — Graceful palms accent the fairyland setting of government and religious structures at the capital of Kuala Lumpur.

The tin and rubber rich Federation of Malaya becomes on Aug. 31 the fourth Asian member of the 10 independent member countries of the British Commonwealth. Newsmag shows Malaya's strategic position in the struggle against communism in Asia, locations of its great tin and rubber wealth and size compared with Florida. Malaya has been the scene of 10 years of fighting against armed Communist terrorists. A colorful round of freedom celebrations will be capped by a trade fair. The Duke of Gloucester, above, will represent England at the celebration in Kuala Lumpur. (See story on Editorial page today)

Blind Evangelist Building Own 3-Bedroom Home

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—A blind evangelist, guided by the sound of the hammer and the feel of the boards, has started construction of a three-bedroom home.

The Rev. Milton Hulsey lost his sight in 1947 through illness. At the North Carolina Preconditioning Center for the Blind, he learned, among other things, the use of tools.

Today, Hulsey, while still an evangelist, operates a candy stand. But at night and on Saturdays he works on his home.

Occasionally he gets help from relatives but he feels that the job is his own project.

By the sound of the hammer, he explained, he can tell whether or not he's striking off center. He guides his sawing with a board cut square.

"Sometimes I really get fouled up when I make a mistake," he said, "But I can't let that stop me. I just start all over."

Pontiac's Line of Glamor Cars

A featured attraction of the automobile section at the Michigan State Fair Aug. 30 to Sept. 8, will be Pontiac Motor Division's display of glamorous new cars in a wide range of brilliant and pleasing new colors.

Included in the exhibit will be General Motors' all new Vauxhall Victor "Super," a small, economical four-cylinder car manufactured in England and soon to be offered in this country by Pontiac dealers.

Among the new models to be displayed is the Star Chief Custom four-door Safari, Pontiac's newest station wagon keyed for ultimate in luxury, comfort and convenience for the long-distance highway traveler.

Those attending the Michigan State Fair will also see a Pontiac four-door, three-seat Safari, a Star Chief convertible, a Star Chief custom four-door sedan, a Chief-tain Catalina coupe and a Super Chief four-door Catalina sedan.

The 1957 Pontiac is offered in 18 new body styles, all featuring the distinctive Star Flight body styling with "starlite" or "accent" two-toning luxurious interiors. The Star Chief is on a 124-inch wheelbase, while the Super Chief and Chief-tain wheelbase is 122 inches.

Interiors of the new Pontiacs are keyed to exterior colors in 66 different combinations. Star Chief models are upholstered in hand-buffed leather in "dream car" shades.

Negro Teachers Hired in All-White Levittown

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Two Negro teachers have been hired for schools in this Southeastern Pennsylvania community of 60,000 where violent protests recently greeted the arrival of its first Negro family.

School authorities disclosed the appointments at a school board meeting yesterday. Names of the new teachers — a man and a woman — will not be announced until school starts, in line with established practice.

A combination of leather and nylon fabrics also is available. Super Chief interiors have nylon face fabric and grained vinyl, while the economy priced Chief-tain has luxury-styled interiors of nylon faced cloth and vinyl.

$3 Million Per Day

NEW YORK — Last year, for the eighth year in a row, taxes of United States Class I railroads exceeded $3,000,000 a day, including Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. The bill came to $1,300,000,000, not including transportation excise taxes collected for the Government by the railroads on passenger and Pullman tickets or on freight and express shipments.

Quality has everything in its favor including the price.

WINTERS, Tex. (AP) — J. U. Juernigan, 68, whose back was broken in an accident four years ago, swam from the bank and rescued a 4-year-old boy when a boat overturned.

Juernigan, who said if the shore had been "another 10 feet I couldn't have made it," swam about 150 yards into the lake to save Richard Simpson. The boy's father, Emmett Simpson, 44, and Ben Nitsch, both of Winters, drowned.

Lacks 'People Vices'— Sure Dog Can Stay

STERLING, Colo. (U)—Mrs. M. J. Peterson of Sterling tells this story of a retired railroad man planning a vacation:

The railroader wrote to a Florida hotel about a reservation and asked if his dog would be permitted in the room.

The hotel owner replied:

"I've been in this business for 30 years. Never have I called on police to eject a disorderly dog. Never has a dog set fire to a bed with a cigarette. I have never found a hotel towel or blanket in a dog's suitcase. Nor, a whiskey ring on a dog's dresser. Sure, the dog is welcome."

SEATTLE (U)—City employees aren't going to have to send an SOS for a beekeeper any more when bees swarm on traffic lights—as they did at least twice last year. The city has bought two beekeeper outfits—veils, gloves, and

This day marks the 50th year in business of an industry which, in large measure, has contributed much to the growth of our community. This is the half-century mark for Pontiac Motor Division, the place where thousands of our fellow citizens earn their livelihood.

Fifty years in business — successful business — is a record to be proud of. Imaginative leadership, the craftsmanship and loyal effort of thousands of Pontiac citizens have made it possible.

We at Pontiac State Bank are proud to work side by side with this world famous organization. Its products, its record of achievement, are worthy of our heartiest congratulations on this anniversary day!

Milady Can Breathe Easier-- in Paris Styles This Year

By NORA W. MARTIN

PARIS (INS) — Women who thought the French fashion designers had removed all sex-appeal from fall fashions can breathe easier.

Official French fashion photos published Tuesday show bosoms and hips are still around in spite of all the talk about "sack" dresses and short skirts.

The photos emphasize the difference between French fashions by day and French fashions by night. Hips may look slender and boyish in daylight but they're curvaceous by night. Ditto bosoms.

The day look consists of short chemise dresses, fur-topped coats and shaggy hats. Most of the coats are straight or barrel-shaped. Both dresses and suits blur out the waistline, or mark it gently at a point below the natural waist.

CURVE, TOO

The evening look consists mostly of skin above and curves below. Throats, shoulders and arms are shown off in strapless dresses, and dresses that remain high in front dip as low as the waist in back.

Low-cut fronts for evening this year are really low; most necklines need a "filler" frill or flower to be decent.

Legs for evening are covered; but by day they show more than in years — as much as 13 inches of leg, or knee-length.

Now that the new look is fully displayed, you can choose:

The new "ensemble style." It consists of a suit and coat of matching fabric with fur collar and matching fur hat.

The new "spindle coats." They are shaped like barrels with high fox fur collars and lines tapering to the hem.

The new lengthened suit-jackets. They reach below the hipbones, have a convex back, a double-breasted front and are worn with pencil slim skirts.

NEW "CHEMISE"

The new "chemise dresses." They have straight backs but are semi-fitted with tucks or belts in front.

The new draped dresses. They have loop, "lasso" or even "diaper" drapes while remaining slim and elegant in style.

The new costume-like evening dresses. They have big "panier," bell or crinoline skirts and necklines as daring and feminine as can be.

The new short skirts. Mostly slim, they skim the knees and show off your legs, which they are supposed to do.

The new fabrics . . . are rugged, fuzzy and bulky for daytime; soft, supple and silky for afternoon; precious, lacy, metallic, velvety and extremely feminine for evening.

Here's a group of happy youngsters photographed at Summer Camp Oakland. They're all grins as they line up for the picture with their counselor, Robert Runk. Read the letter written to Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore in the story opposite.

At Will-O-Way Final Play Successful

A bit of the Orient has been transplanted to Will-O-Way Playhouse for the season's concluding play, "The Tea-house of the August Moon" by John Patrick. Opening Monday night to a packed house, the play will be presented at the West Long Lake road theater through Thursday, Aug. 29 and again from Sept. 9-15.

During the intervening 10 days the entire production will be transferred to the Michigan State Fair grounds where two performances each evening will delight playgoers.

Detroit's Japanese American Citizen's League was tapped to provide some of the performers for the current play. Mrs. Ichiko Horiuchi not only has a small part in the production, but acted as technical adviser during rehearsals. Her daughter, Bebe, plays the leading feminine role of Lotus Blossom. She doesn't speak a word of English throughout the whole play. Her Geisha costumes are exquisite.

Once again Danny Simpson has the leading role, this time one of an Okinawan native who acts as interpreter both in the play and before curtain time. As Captain Fishy, Paul Caplan, another Will-O-Way veteran, does an entertaining bit of acting.

Because of the popularity of the book and the movie of the same name this play's plot is familiar to many. Briefly, it concerns several members of the Army of Occupation in Okinawa and their attempts to bring democracy to the natives. Having already been conquered seven times before by various nationalities, the Okinawans are old hands at cooperation with the invaders. Who conquers whom is a moot question before the play ends.

Benefit Slated for Camp

On Oct. 3 several homes throughout Oakland County will be opened for a dessert-bridge benefit for Summer Camp Oakland.

The summer camp which includes 10 weeks of camping programs, accommodates some 500 youngsters. Contributions insure many youngsters this opportunity who otherwise would be unable to attend camp.

LETTER TO JUDGE

Following is a letter written to Judge Arthur E. Moore, by one of the campers, and which was signed by 35 other boys.

"I, and the groups of boys (undersigned) from the Oakland County Children's Home wish to thank you for sponsoring and making possible this wonderful camping program that we are now taking part in.

"Myself, I like swimming best of all, but everyone has their favorite sport or hobby and I'm sure that the other activities are being well enjoyed also.

"Everyone was fairly surprised at the wonderful cooking of Raymond Jones, especially when we had finished stuffing ourselves on hotcakes and bacon for breakfast this morning.

"Once again we wish to thank you for making this program possible."

The benefit-bridge luncheons to begin at 1 p.m. will enable other youngsters to have fun at Summer Camp Oakland next year.

Patricia Mann Weds Richard Edwin Sonntag

Patricia Mann and Richard Edwin Sonntag exchanged wedding vows Saturday evening in First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Galen E. Hershey performed the ceremony before 300 witnesses.

For her wedding the bride chose a floor-length gown of nylon chiffon with a chapel sweep train and fashioned with a draped Sabrina neckline that formed two floor-length panels in back. She carried an arrangement of white butterfly orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. L. J. Bradley Jr., as matron of honor, wore a cocktail-length gown of Cotillion blue with matching headpiece edged in seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of pale peach gladiolus. Other attendants were a sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Richard N. Johnson of Milwaukee, Wis.; another sister of the bridegroom, Dorothy Sonntag of Terrace Park, Ohio; Mrs. Armen P. Googasian, Penny Londres of Groesbeek, Mariou Taylor of Melvindale and Linda Mann, a sister of the bride, who served as junior bridesmaid.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Mann of Washington street, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Sonntag of Terrace Park, Ohio.

Capital Wife Becomes Lawmaker

Kathryn Granahan Elected to Congress From Pennsylvania

By ANNETTE DAVIS
(For Jane Eads)

WASHINGTON — As a congressman's wife, Mrs. William T. Granahan used to take most of the day to get ready for "that Washington party." Now she takes her party dress to work, makes a fast change at the end of a hectic day and sometimes barely gets to the shindig at all.

She's Rep. Kathryn Granahan (D-Pa) now, the only new Democratic woman member in the 85th Congress and the first woman ever elected to Capitol Hill from Pennsylvania.

USED TO WATCH

Mrs. Granahan often sat in the visitors' gallery and helped in the office of her late husband during his 10 years in the House. At the close of her first session as a Congresswoman she says she now has a "completely different idea and feeling of what goes on."

"Sometimes I used to be amazed to see members slumping in their seats and congressmen talking to an almost empty chamber," she told me. "Now I know how hard they work and why so many are not on the floor. They're in committee meetings where most of the work of Congress is done."

Mrs. Granahan herself puts in many hours at meetings of her own committees, Post Office, Civil Service and the District of Columbia. Some of these are breakfast meetings.

Chess Pie Rates High in South

Mrs. Bennett Has Had Family Recipe for Many Years

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Today's recipe is for a real southern delicacy, Chess Pie. Coming from a native born southerner, it has been handed down in Mrs. Loy Bennett's family for many years.

When Mrs. Bennett is not helping her husband in his business, she does a lot of sewing or works in the women's group of her church. The Bennetts have a son and a daughter.

CHESS PIE

By Mrs. Loy Bennett

1 1/2 cups sugar
4 tablespoons flour
3 eggs
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Unbaked pie shell
Add flour to sugar. Beat in eggs one at a time. Add rest of ingredients. Pour into unbaked pie shell and bake one hour at 400 degrees. Makes one pie.

Tip for Painter

Paint experts say be sure to wash off any sizing or paste that may remain when preparing to paint a wall from which wallpaper has been removed. Apply a coat of wall primer when the surface is dry and allow it to dry overnight. The next day, a new coat of paint can be applied.

Wise to Plan for Time When Children Are Gone

'Empty' House Should Inspire Mother to Branch Into New Fields of Interest

By RUTH MILLETT

"Our youngest child goes off to college this fall. I know I'll be simply lost with the last one gone," I recently heard a woman remark.

"It's not an unusual observation. But a woman should make up her mind ahead of time that she is bound to feel lost when her children leave home.

Sure, the house is going to seem empty. And there won't be as much work to do.

But why should that make a woman feel lost? She doesn't have to sit in the house all day listening to the emptiness.

And certainly a few free hours of her own each day ought not to be a weight around any woman's neck.

Why should we women take such a defeatist attitude toward the peace and leisure offered when the long job of rearing a family is done?

Why are we frightened by the prospect of having enough time to do things we always claimed we wanted to do?

HANGOVER FROM PAST? Is it just a hangover from years when there actually wasn't much for a woman to do once her family was reared?

Does the prospect of doing things we always wanted to do scare us silly because we don't really want to do anything any more?

That is something for a woman to start thinking about long before her last child leaves home.

Just a little thought ought to convince any woman that a bit more freedom than she has been used to isn't anything to be frightened of.

There's nothing so terrible about a home from which children have gone forth to make their own way.

Sew Nighty From Dad's Old Shirt

Smart coeds have discovered a new way to ease the college budget. They're using dad's old shirts for gay nightshirts.

Local sewing center experts say it's easy.

Cut the collar off the shirt, making a scoop neckline. Cut off sleeves above the placket and below the elbow. Then stitch on the trimming of your choice.

For a dainty, frilly nighty, get 5 yards of nylon val lace heading, 2½ yards of matching lace edging and 6 yards of rayon satin baby ribbon to thread through the lace heading. Then sew lace heading down center front, around neckline, sleeves and armhole, and on pocket edge.

Thread the ribbon through the heading, leaving enough for bows at neck and sleeves. Stitch lace edging around shirttail, and there you are with a glamorous night-shirt at little cost.

LITTLE COST

Dainty lace trims can be bought for as little as 10 cents a yard, so the cost of your frilly nightshirt should be not much over a dollar.

Many variations are possible. You can use rows of rickrack or colored bias binding for trimming.

Try dressing up one of dad's old shirts with alternate rows of pink and red bias binding down front closing, around sleeves, down the middle of the back and around the shirttail.

You can leave the collar on, if it's not too worn. The result is a gay dormitory nighty.

Use your imagination in various trimmings and color combinations. A little lace, rickrack or bias binding can transform an old shirt into a dormitory conversation piece.

AUTUMN BEAUTY

By Edythe McCulloch

Labor Day . . . and suddenly summer is over. We are faced with what to do about our fading suntan and sun baked skin. Time to start on a serious moisturizing program. Start by using liquid cleansers on your face. The kind that reach deep down and penetrate the pores to remove grime and stale suntan lotion. Apply with a circular motion, stimulate the skin as you clean. Remove with tissue. Nourish your skin while you sleep with a rich night cream. Use body lotion generously after your bath, apply it to elbows, legs and arms whenever you think of it. (A bath will do more to moisturize your skin than a shower while you are on your special fall program.)

Make-up for your fading tan may be a blend (in the palm of your hand) of your suntan foundation and your paler winter shade. Changing your lipstick to a burnt or coppery red, avoiding the blue shades will do until you are back to your normal color. Call us if you have a special problem.

Flaming Dessert Popular
Try Gastric Delights a la Tuscany-Style

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — Serving a festive flaming dessert — without tell-tale candles — is a popular birthday tradition at one Italian restaurant in San Francisco.

Flaming Baked Alaska makes any birthday or special occasion more fun at this gay bit of Tuscany transplanted to the Golden Gate city (and called "Oreste's").

Co-owners Lido Masini and Joe Piccinini think so highly of their chef, Oreste Orsi, they named the restaurant for him. Here's Oreste's recipe for a celebration dessert:

Place a slice of sponge cake or other plain cake on an even-proof plate. Put three scoops of Neapolitan ice cream on the cake. Use other slices of cake to cover top and sides of ice cream.

Whip two egg whites until stiff and completely cover cake with them. Trace a design or the name of the honoree on top with powdered sugar icing in a pastry bag, or decorate with a red cherry.

Place in very hot oven for about five minutes, until golden brown. The dessert then is placed before the guest. The waiter sprinkles several drops of Grenadine over it for color and sweetening. About two ounces of brandy and a tablespoon of rum are poured over the dessert and it is lighted. By spooning the brandy and rum back over it, the baked Alaska can be kept aflame for a minute or two.

Serve immediately with a "happy birthday" wish!

Fried cream is another Italian dessert Oreste enjoys preparing as a climax to one of his delicious dinners.

First make a custard. When it cools, place it in a buttered dish and allow it to get very cold in the refrigerator. Then slice it for individual servings.

Each slice is gently dipped in fine bread crumbs and deep-fried to a golden brown. Lift it onto a hot dish and sprinkle powdered sugar over the slice.

Ladle a few spoonfuls of brandy or rum over the custard. Light it for a fragrant flare-up and serve.

How about an after-dinner drink, Tuscany-style? Here's the recipe for chocolate-flavored Capuccino: For one glass, heat three-fourths glass of milk in sauce pan, meanwhile mixing in separate one tablespoon of cocoa with just enough water to form paste. When milk is hot, add chocolate mixture plus one jigger of Grand Marnier liqueur.

Pasta always comes up in a discussion of Italian cooking, and

Coiffure, Paris Style, Takes Time
Frenchwomen Plan Half-Day Session for Shampoo, Wave

PARIS (U) — Paris has 7,500 hairdressers, and to a man, they all love to talk.

Any woman who can get into and out of a French "Salon de Coiffure" in under a half-day deserves a medal.

French women apparently love it. They come prepared to settle in, often accompanied by a poodle and or a chatty friend, who fills in the gaps when Monsieur is busy with another customer.

For their five dollars (average price of a shampoo, set and permed rinse), they get several hours' entertainment as well as a haircut.

NO TIME TO READ
Stacks of fashion and movie magazines are dumped on their laps by the "shampooists," but these are opened usually only under the drier, where conversation becomes impossible.

Some 100 Paris hairdressers have banded together in a syndicate of "High Coiffure" to indicate their superiority, but perversely some of the city's most celebrated hair stylists refuse to join.

The syndicate twice a year, just after the fashion openings, holds its own collection of the styles they hope to popularize for the season.

BIG 'PARADE'
Magnequins parade the latest brain waves at a champagne cocktail for the press, while television and movie cameras grind away, and spotlights blind the spectators.

For shock value, there are always a few spouting fountains, Eiffel Towers or tri-color jobs, but the hairdressers usually concentrate on putting over short styles to beat the long hair or chignon trend fostered by dressmakers in recent years.

EVERYBODY TINTS
The hairdressers offer no statistics to support it, but French women seem to go in for tinted and dyed or bleached hair more than those of other countries. Reddish tones are favored this year.

Teenagers take their tips from America, and the ponytails of a few years ago are now largely replaced by long, lanky straight locks, with or without bangs.

Writing a bread-and-butter note to tell your hostess how much you enjoyed your visit is an absolute must when you have been an overnight or weekend guest. This is important even if your hostess is a relative.

Who Pays if Group Stops to Eat?

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: A group from our office go bowling once a week. The group consists of both men and women and there are eight in all. After bowling the other evening a suggestion was made that we go somewhere for something to eat. One of the men in the group paid the check and later the amount was divided among the other men.

"I would like to know if, when out in a group of this kind, the men are obliged to pay for the women. In other words, when there are several men, would they be considered cheap not to pay for the women?"

Answer: If you regularly or even often stop for something to eat, this would be a part of the bowling expense and women should insist on paying their share.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever proper to have an 'at home' in honor of a man? My daughter's fiancé is going to visit us for the first time (she is coming with him as they work in the same city) and we'd like to have an at home and invite the relatives and friends (hers and ours) so they can all meet him. But it seems curious to write on our cards 'To meet John Smith.'"

Answer: It would be very curious to invite people to meet a man unless he is a high prelate or great celebrity. You merely invite people to tea and to very intimate friends you would say Mary's John will be here. To those you don't know well, you write across the top of your visiting card, "Tea for Mary and her fiancé John Jones."

"Dear Mrs. Post: I go to a church where none of the pews are reserved. Everyone is free to sit where he (or she) pleases or wherever there is a vacant seat. I have a friend who likes to sit on the aisle seat.

"If this seat happens to be taken, she asks the person to move in instead of crossing over and taking a seat further in. I think this is extremely bad manners. What is your opinion?"

Answer: I agree with you, the choice aisle seat is the reward one gets for coming early and a later arrival has no right to it.

Common Defect in Women Over 35

Correct Thigh Bulges, Flabbiness

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Bulges on the thighs and flabbiness on the inner upper leg are two of the most usual signs of aging or neglect, figure-wise. These are sure to happen unless you exercise regularly.

Even exercise cannot entirely correct these conditions but it will cause a happy improvement. Most women past 35 have these figure defects to some degree, and many even earlier.

Today I would like to give you some corrective exercises.

1. Lie on the floor on your back, with arms resting on the floor at your sides. Swing your left leg to the side, keeping the heel close to the floor but not touching the floor. Swing the leg back and across the right leg as far as you can, while keeping the hips on the floor.

Continue swinging to the side and then across the opposite leg with the hips resting firmly on the floor. After a time swing the right leg to the side and back across the left leg, keeping the hips on the floor.

WATER EXERCISE

2. Another splendid exercise for the thigh and inner leg can be taken in the water: Stand with the left side toward the pool. Hang onto the side while you lift your right leg up as far as possible and then lower it to place.

Continue lifting and lowering right leg. Later on turn your right side toward the wall and lift and lower your left leg.

3. Another water exercise: Face the side of the pool in deep water. Separate your legs as far as comfortable. Bring them together. Continue swinging legs apart and together with stiff knees.

The water provides mild resistance which makes this exercise more valuable than usual. If you swim in a river or lake, hang onto a raft or pier or boat and do this same exercise.

Exercises need not take a lot of time. Take one exercise daily for each defect. Do each exercise about 35 to 50 times a day (after working up gradually).

Silica-Coated Bulbs Reduce Light Glare

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (INS) — White, silica-coated light bulbs may make your home better lighted while at the same time cutting obnoxious glare to a minimum.

Home furnishings specialist Mary Grindstaff of the Colorado State University extension service suggests using the new bulbs in open light fixtures.

She reported glare is almost eliminated through the diffusing action of the silica coating, although the amount of light remains relatively high.

Color-tinted bulbs also diffuse the light, but cut down on the amount of available radiation.

Bulges on the thighs and flabbiness on the inner upper leg are two of the most usual signs of aging or neglect.

Mrs. Showen Heads Auxiliary to Legion Post

Mrs. Eldon Showen was installed Saturday as president of Cook-Nelson Auxiliary, American Legion Post 29. Mrs. Robert Conat was installed as first vice president and Mrs. Ray Jewell assumed duties of second vice president.

Other officers installed at the meeting were Mrs. James McKee, secretary; Mrs. Donald Sutton, treasurer; Mrs. Milton Yerkes, chaplain; Mrs. Charles Morris, historian; and Mrs. Russell Thompson, sergeant at arms.

Eight and Forty ritual team of Salon 224 of Oakland County assisted with the installation.

Special guests were 18th district president, Mrs. John Sacks and the Emery Bouchards.

When you accept an invitation, accept it with enthusiasm. A half-hearted acceptance is less flattering than a refusal.

Is Mother Love Actually So Different?

By ERIC FROMM
for Muriel Lawrence

(Mrs. Muriel Lawrence is an educationist. In her absence, noted psychologist Eric Fromm discusses the frequently asked questions on child-parent relationship. His essays are condensed from his book, "Man For Himself," published by Rinehart and Co.)

Q. Is "mother love" different from other kinds of love?

A. Motherly love is the most frequent and most readily understood instance of productive love; its very essence is care and responsibility.

During the birth of the child the mother's body "labors" for the child and after birth her love consists in her effort to make the child grow.

Motherly love does not depend on conditions which the child has to fulfill in order to be loved; it is unconditional, based only upon the child's request and the mother's response.

But not so evident is the connection of care and responsibility with individual love; it is believed that to fall in love is already the culmination of love, while actually it is the beginning and only an opportunity for the achievement of love.

It is believed that love is the result of a mysterious quality by which two people are attracted to each other, an event which occurs without effort.

EASY TO LOSE

Indeed, man's loneliness and his sexual desires make it easy to fall in love and there is nothing mysterious about it, but it is a gain which is quickly lost as it has been achieved.

One is not loved accidentally; one's own power to love produces love — just as being interested makes one interesting. People are concerned with the question of whether they are attractive while they forget that the essence of attractiveness is their own capacity to love.

To love a person productively implies to care and to feel responsible for his life, not only for his physical existence but for the growth and development of all his human powers.

While it may be said that love for man differs from motherly love inasmuch as the child is helpless and our fellow men are not, it may also be said that even this difference exists only in relative terms.

All men are in need of help and depend on one another. Human solidarity is the necessary condition for the unfolding of any one individual.

Preparing a pitcher of ice water or a cup of tea or coffee for the workman who spends hours working on a job in your home or yard may not be necessary, but it is a thoughtful thing.

A bride should write her thank-you notes for wedding gifts as soon as possible after the gifts are received. This will ease the burden of letter writing, by keeping it from piling up all at one time.

Valeria Corrine Hoyt and Ronald James Thronset were married Saturday in First Methodist Church, Clarkston. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bernadene Hoyt and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Thronset are the bridegroom's parents.

MR. and MRS. R. J. THRONSET

Couple Speaks Vows in Clarkston Church

First Methodist Church, Clarkston, was the setting for the Saturday evening wedding of Valeria Corrine Hoyt and Ronald James Thronset. The Rev. William Richards performed the ceremony before 200 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bernadene Hoyt of Clarkston. Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Thronset of East Beverly street are the bridegroom's parents.

For her wedding the bride chose a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace featuring a Sabrina neckline with short sleeves, a white tulle cummerbund and a skirt of scalloped tiers of lace. Her fingertip veil of French tulle was held in place by a heart-shaped crown of sequins and pearls. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Patrick Thompson of Clarkston, as matron of honor, wore white eyelet over blue tulle featuring a scoop neckline and blue tulle cummerbund falling into a light blue bow in back. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue carnations with white roses. Serving as attendants were Jacqueline Powell of Clarkston and Mrs. Eugene Cretal.

PASTEL YELLOW

man, as flower maid, wore a white nylon dress accented with a powder blue sash. She carried a white basket of pink rose petals.

Serving as best man was Chester Myren of Birmingham. Seating the guests were Eugene Cretal and Orlyn Skjervheim of Birmingham.

For a reception held in the church parlors the bride's mother chose a beige lace dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Thronset wore an aqua lace dress with beige accessories and a pink rose corsage.

For a northern Michigan trip the new Mrs. Thronset wore a navy sheath dress with white accessories and a corsage from her bridal bouquet. The couple will live on Dwight street.

Little Sister Can Find Bedtime an Easier Task

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Small sleepy-time girls like to look appealing and feminine at bedtime, just like their big sisters. If a pint-size glamor girl has a pretty, cuddly bathrobe to wear, she may not fight off bedtime so energetically.

You don't need to wreck the budget buying an expensive robe. All you need is some fabric and a sewing machine.

Local sewing center experts suggest making a little girl's robe out of flower-sprigged washable white wool challis, trimmed with pink yarn dolls and accented with decorative stitching.

The stitching that borders collar and pockets is easy to do with one of the new automatic slant-needle sewing machines, or with the automatic zigzag attachment on a standard machine. Buttonholes are made the same way, and even the blind-stitched hem can be done on the machine.

Use a standard pattern for a child's robe, and add the decorations according to your own imagination. You'll find your small charmer will enjoy looking glamorous for her bedtime story.

The National Hot Rod Association Championship drag races will be held in Oklahoma City Friday through Monday, Aug. 30-Sept. 2.

Football and basketball coaches were named at South Lyon high school. Fred Gerhardt, who has been in the school system for eight years, was named head football coach. Phil Martin, who comes from Vandercook Lake High School near Jackson, was named head basketball coach.

Dutch Clark, one of the all-time greats of the NFL and the Detroit Lions, and later the coach and athletic director at U. of D., is the president of the Lions' "Alumni Association."

Thirteen sites have been chosen for Football Rules meetings of the Michigan High School Athletic Association. Some of the sites in the Lower Peninsula include Saginaw Arthur Hill, Tuesday Sept. 10; Port Huron, Thursday Sept. 5; Ann Arbor, Thursday Sept. 5; Flint Northern, Monday Sept. 9; and Ferndale Lincoln, Tuesday Sept. 10. All meetings start at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Harry Latos of Ferndale took medal honors with a 70 in the golf tournament for the Oakland County Society of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons held at Glen Oaks last weekend. Al Emsley of Pontiac took medal honors for the pharmacists in the tourney.

All three Birmingham pools will be open each Saturday from 9:00 to noon starting October 5th for the city's elementary swimming program.

Romeo football coach Ted Engdahl had his biggest thrill in 12 years of golf recently when he fired a hole-in-one at a Kentucky course while visiting there.

New York pro grid star Frank Gifford may be playing his last year in the NFL. His off-season setup of playing movie roles has reportedly made it too enticing financially to move his family again from their Hollywood home.

Clarkston will have a rarity in high school football this fall in Dave Swayne. The senior backfield candidate is married and the father of a child. Head coach Ed Hintz is hoping Dave has fully recovered from a leg injury which forced him out of action early last season. "He ran well for us as a sophomore," Hintz recalled.

Wins 32nd Hambletonian Hickory Smoke Beats Ten

DUQUOIN, Ill. (INS) — Hickory Smoke, the bay colt by Titan Hanover-Misty Hanover, displayed terrific speed and heart to win the 32nd renewal of the $111,126.25 Hambletonian yesterday at the Du Quoin, Ill., state fairgrounds.

Hickory Smoke, driven by John F. Simpson of Maitland, Fla., bested Hoot Song, a black filly by Hoot Mon-Love Song, by a half length in a history-making fifth heat before a record crowd of 31,150 harness racing fans in 2:08.4.

Hickory Smoke and Hoot Song entered the showdown for glory and the major portion of the purse—second largest in the era of the Hambletonian—after winning the first and second divisions in straight heats of two each.

Hickory Smoke earned $47,917.62 for winning the two elimination heats and the raceoffs. The champion's lifetime earnings now total $39,281.62 Hoot Song earned $36,136.88 for the day to push its total monetary record to $99,361.88.

Hickory Smoke bested ten other horses in the first division. Hoot Song out-trotted nine opponents in the second phase.

Their times in winning the mile elimination heats were exceptionally good.

Hickory Smoke, owned by L. B. Sheppard and A. C. Mudge of Hanover, Pa., beat Buckeye Demon by a head in the first heat of the first division with Cassin Hanover finishing third. The time was 2:01.

The order of finish in the second heat was the same. Hickory Smoke's margin of victory over Buckeye Demon—three-quarters of a length. The time was 2:00 1-5, just a fifth of a second slower than the Hambletonian heat record set in 1947 by Hoot Mon.

Hickory Smoke earned $47,917.62 for winning the two elimination heats and the raceoffs. The champion's lifetime earnings now total $39,281.62 Hoot Song earned $36,136.88 for the day to push its total monetary record to $99,361.88.

Stall Detroit Bid for 3rd Place

Bosox Ward-Off Tigers, 7-5

DETROIT (AP) — The baseball game the Detroit Tigers couldn't afford to lose was over, and the silence in the clubhouse was almost deafening.

They had almost literally given the game to the Boston Red Sox Tuesday night though it took 11 innings and 3 hours and 20 minutes. The score was 7-5.

Manager Jack Tighe was unusually silent. Players exchanged only necessary words. They dressed quickly and left.

Booyed by a surge that had produced eight victories in 11 games, the Tigers needed a sweep of the three-game series to overtake the third-place Red Sox. Instead, they slipped to two and one-half games behind the Sox, who now are assured of leaving Detroit in third place.

The Bengals blew a four-run lead. Three of the runs were gifts, coming across in unearned fashion in the first inning after a wild throw by Boston third baseman Frank Malzone. The Tigers collected five runs and eight hits in the first four innings — and no runs and only two hits — both singles — in the last seven.

Each team was guilty of shabby defensive play in the long struggle witnessed by 34,797 spectators who sat in 60-degree weather in the opener of this crucial series.

In the end, it was the base on balls — for which there is no defense — that brought down the roof on the Tigers.

Ted Williams, who already had a home run and a single, drew a walk from Duke Maas, the fourth Tiger pitcher, to open the 11th inning. He moved to second on a sacrifice and the Tigers ordered long-hitting Jackie Jensen put on first to set-up a possible double play.

But the opportunity never came. Catcher Frank House was guilty of a passed ball that enabled Williams and Jensen to move up a base. First baseman Dick Gernert scored both of them with a line drive single to left field.

Reliever Ike Delock, who yielded just one hit in four sharp innings of work, disposed of the Tigers quickly in the bottom of the 11th and that was it.

Paul Foytack, who hadn't pitched in two weeks because of a pulled muscle, started but had to retire after five innings with a sore arm. He had a 5-3 lead at the time. Harry Byrd yielded two runs in three innings and left with the score tied 5-5. Lou Sleater worked on three batters — two of them hit safely — before Maas took over in the ninth. Never did the Tigers threaten to pull out a victory. They got only four men on base after the fourth inning.

Maas didn't weather the Sox' second flurry. Tighe called on his ace, Jim Bunning, for today's game. Frank Sullivan was scheduled to start for Boston.

Williams' Present Aim Is AL Batting Crown

DETROIT (AP) — Ted Williams, frisky as a colt despite his 39 years, has passed another hitting milestone in his white-hot struggle with Mickey Mantle for the American League batting title.

Williams cracked the 450th home run of his major league career last night as his Boston Red Sox nipped the Detroit Tigers 7-5 in 11 innings. So wrapped up is Williams in his duel with the New York Yankee slugger 13 years his junior that he did not realize his fifth inning smash into the upper rightfield stands of Briggs Stadium was No. 450.

"That's wonderful," said Williams when he learned of it. "I'd love to hit 450 of them."

Williams needs 45 more round-trippers to pass Lou Gehrig, who ranks fourth among baseball's all-time home run hitters.

"Right now I have to think of that batting title," said Williams. "I want it in the worst way."

Williams collected two hits in four official trips last night and gained a point to .380. Mantle was one-for-four against Chicago and slumped a point to .376.

The Boston slugger said three things are responsible for his tremendous batting this year: "A full spring training period, a fast start and no injuries."

Reminded that for the first time in several years, there has been little or no talk of retirement, the big guy quipped: "Hell, if I hit .300 or .315 everyone in the world would be talking about Williams retiring."

"You know," said Williams, "a lot of people have told me they're pulling for me. I guess they'd like to see the old man win that batting title one more time."

Horseshoe Title Won by Bartley

Floyd Bartley won the city horseshoe championship last night by defeating John Vitton in a best-of-five final series at Oakland Park.

Bartley won the 1st match, 25-20; lost the 2nd game, 18-25; then came back to take the next two, 25-9, 25-13.

Bartley reached the finals with victories over Milton Swigert, Leonard Skaggs and Jim Clarkson. Vitton advanced to the title round with wins over George Lidgy and Doyal Schumacher.

A dozen players took part in the singles tournament, which was sponsored by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Twenty-four young players were on hand today for the opening round of the 72-hole medal play 12th annual Hearst National Junior golf tournament.

Three-Part Series Tells Story Why Did Tigers Struggle During '57?

This is the first of three articles on the Detroit Tigers. Picked to finish second in the American League, the Tigers are struggling to keep from ascending their seventh straight year in the second division. Why is it such a struggle? What have the Tigers been doing over the past several seasons? What do they have to do to return to power?

By DAVE DILES
AP Sports Editor

DETROIT (AP) — An overabundance of optimism borne out of a small taste of success left little room for realism as the Detroit Tigers approached the 1957 baseball season.

So, as the season draws to a close, the same weighty problems that faced the club a year ago — even five and six years ago — remain to be solved. More than likely the Tigers — despite another fine season at the box office — will wind up in just about the same straits as they did a year ago — if as good.

The so-called "experts" — and high Tiger brass, too — promised "this is the year, we're dry behind the ears now. We're ready to make our move."

What everyone failed to note was this: No fewer than 19 front-line Tiger players performed better in 1956 than they had ever performed before. There was no guarantee that they would continue at this pace, certainly, because three of them, at most, could be considered as established major league standouts.

Instead of challenging the New York Yankees for the pennant, the Tigers are in a situation that could find them winding up as high as third place or as low as sixth. It will take a tremendous spurt to match their 1956 record of 82 victories and 72 losses.

The reason? Of the 19 players who came through with individual high marks a year ago, only one — pitcher Jim Bunning — has exceeded that mark. Another, pitcher Paul Foytack, is performing just about as he did last year. The other eight have been in season-long slumps ranging from mild to critical and at this stage it is doubtful if any of them can match his performance of a season ago.

"The Detroit club has a long history of over-selling itself on its own ability," says a veteran baseball writer.

These second-liners — Robinson, Dittmer, Olson, Clark, Wojey, Crisman — have come and gone. So have Torgeson, Belardi, Phillips, Brideweser, Kennedy, Trucks and Garver. Four youngsters, Lee, Osborne, Small and Taltrows, have been up and down.

All opportunities for major transactions were passed up. The bench strength has been so woefully inadequate that manager Jack Tighe has had to operate under a severe handicap: slumping players, for the most part, have been forced to "ride out" the slump simply because there was no one else available to fill in. By the same token, there was no one to "push" the regulars for their jobs.

Former Detroit Pilot Signs Five Year Contract

New Pittsburgh Chief to Assume Duties at Grid Camp Immediately

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Raymond "Buddy" Parker, who tossed in the sponge as head coach of the National Football League's Detroit Lions little more than two weeks ago, has a new five-year contract as head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Parker, whose appointment was announced late last night by the Steelers, succeeds Walt Kiesling.

The ex-Detroit coach said he is asking Kiesling and all of Kiesling's aides to remain on the coaching staff.

The Steelers didn't reveal Parker's salary. A source close to President Art Rooney said Rooney agreed to give Parker "in excess of $20,000 annually."

Parker said at Detroit he will go to the Olean, N.Y., training camp of the Steelers tomorrow. His new club lost its only two exhibition starts to the Chicago Bears and Cleveland Browns.

"I've one thought only and that is to win," Parker said. He revealed that he talked to Rooney last week in Chicago about taking the coaching job next year, adding:

"Rooney called me last night from Atlantic City and we decided I'd take the job right away. That's all there is to it."

In Olean, Kiesling said he was happy to be relieved.

A Steelers spokesman, explaining the sudden shift, declared:

"Kiesling was pretty sick last season and although he's pretty well recovered he feared another collapse if he had to go through another season as head coach."

With Parker in command, the Steelers' next exhibition is at Philadelphia on Labor Day against the Eagles. Parker will get a chance against his old team when the Steelers meet the Lions in Buffalo Sept. 8.

Kiesling was head coach of the Steelers for eight seasons and compiled a 25-51-4 record.

Parker quit the Lions in a dramatic speech at a welcoming dinner to the squad in Detroit Aug. 12. He directed the Motor City eleven to three Western Division conference titles and two NFL championships in six seasons.

One of the most heralded rookies in the Detroit Lions camp last year was quarterback Jerry Reichow of Iowa, the team's No. 4 draft choice.

Reichow again is one of the most heralded performers in the '57

Reichow Bright Spot at End Post for Lions

Lions camp — only this time at a "rookie" position, offensive end.

Head Coach George Wilson has tabbed the former Hawkeye star for front-line duty at left end and flanking back and Reichow has responded with two sparkling performances in the Lions first two pre-season games.

Against the Cleveland Browns Reichow grabbed three passes for 72 yards and followed up with four receptions against the Philadelphia Eagles good for 102 yards and two touchdowns. One scoring pass against the Eagles was a "picture play," as the veteran Bobby Layne hit Reichow with a 37 yard strike that the former Iowa star grabbed under the goal posts on his finger tips and then fell into the end zone for a score.

"Reichow can be a great end in this league," asserts Wilson. "He has amazing speed for a 6'2", 212-pounder and has as fine a pair of hands as any receiver I've seen. To top it all off, Reichow is such a tremendous competitor that he'll battle for every ball that's thrown in his direction."

The play of Reichow has helped solve what former head coach Buddy Parker called "the Lions' biggest single problem — offensive ends and receivers."

The Lions are getting ready for their third pre-season game Saturday night at Legion Field in Birmingham, Ala., against the Washington Redskins.

A total of 44 players still in camp will make the trip by plane, leaving Friday morning.

Washington has lost its first two starts in exhibition play, dropping a 45-14 tilt to Los Angeles and a 27-20 decision to San Francisco.

BEANED — First baseman Dale Long of the Chicago Cubs lies on the ground after being hit in the head by Dodger pitcher Danny McDevitt last night at Ebbets Field. The catcher is Roy Campanella and the ump is Vic Delmore. Chicago beat the Dodgers, 9-4.

THE POWERHOUSE

"You drop into the dentist's chair. He fixes your teeth and waves you away without a bill. I asked how come and my dentist said: 'Look, my work gets monotonous, patient after patient. Along comes a major league ballplayer. I'm honored. I'm also entertained chatting with him, getting the lowdown on the league, dugout chit chat, and all that. To me it's fun. Breaks up my day. Refreshes me. So no charge.'"

Fred Haney took off his dark sun glasses . . . "Here's a thought. This club ought to be called the Wisconsin Braves, not the Milwaukee Braves. There isn't a day when we don't have 100 or more buses roll up. They come from towns as far away as 150 miles. That means a 300-mile round trip. We have the parking facilities to make everyone comfortable. The town has good restaurants, good German food, good beer. Everyone has a good time and no one is hurt."

"And don't forget the deal we get from a big dairy. Wisconsin prides itself on being a dairy state. So we are all milk drinkers and we each get six months supply of milk for the family free," added Johnny Logan. "I like the stuff so much that I continue to get it and pay for it myself during the winter. We get cost price deals on appliances, free custom built suits, shoes, rifles and fishing rods."

"A New Yorker doesn't have the old school spirit Milwaukee fans have. Their streets are spotless. They would no more litter their streets than they would their own lawn. Their police force is one of the best I've ever seen. Each man is well trained. A lot of people, a higher proportion than any town I've been in, own their own homes," added Logan.

Yanks Open 4½ Game LeadBerra's Homer Trips Sox

CHICAGO (U) — "We're in pretty good shape now," gloated Casey Stengel last night after his New York Yankees had beaten the challenging Chicago White Sox 12-6 to open a 4½ game lead in the American League.

"We were in bad shape when we came to town," confessed Stengel, "but how can I be in bad shape now. We won, didn't we?"

The Yankee victory, iced by Yogi Berra's tie-breaking three-run homer in the eighth inning, wasn't as easy as the score indicates. The Bombers jumped to a 5-0 lead only to have the Sox claw back for a 6-6 tie in the seventh.

But Berra, who drove in six runs with his homer, a pair of singles and a double, broke Chicago's back with his 20th homer on the first pitch tossed by reliever Paul LaPalme, the fourth of five Sox hurlers.

"It was a knuckler," said Yogi. "and you know, that's the second time I hit one off him to win a game. Earlier I hit one at the stadium in the 13th inning to beat the Sox."

Stengel, who used four pitchers in the game, said, "My pitching has been a little off but maybe we'll straighten out now. I got Don Larsen, 7-4, all rested up for Wednesday night but then I might use Bobby Shantz, 10-3, if his hand is okay. Yes sir, we're in pretty good shape now."

Tulane Net Ace Has Upset Win

RYE, N. Y. (INS) — Ron Holmberg, a Tulane collegian who calls Brooklyn, N. Y., home, entered the quarter-finals of the Westchester Bowl tennis tournament today with two upset victories to his credit.

Holmberg whipped Mike Davies of Great Britain, 6-4, 6-4, and Ramanathan Krishnan of India, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, in the tournament's opening rounds yesterday.

In another surprise, 16-year-old Junior Davis' Copper Earl Buchholz, of St. Louis, bounced the No. 6 Australian, Bob Howe, 3-6, 6-2, only to lose to Luis Ayala of Chile, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Baptist 9 Blanks Church All-Stars

Harlan (Ed) Keith and Glenn (Wimpy) Johnson combined pitching talents last night to mow down the Pontiac Church League All-Stars in an exhibition softball game at North Side Park.

Keith and Johnson struck out 18 batters and gave up only two hits as Emmanuel Baptist, Waterford League champion, shut out the All-Stars, 2-0. Chalmers Gidcomb and Floyd Hicks hurled four-hit ball for the losers.

"Fat" and his brother "Skin" scored Emmanuel's runs and teammate Ken Orr made two hits. Chuck Young of the All-Stars tripled for the only extra-base blow of the contest.

Robinson's Feud Still Unsettled

IBC Says Demand for $250,000 Guarantee Stymies Settlement

NEW YORK (U) — Sugar Ray Robinson's feud with the International Boxing Club continued unabated today.

The status of Robinson's middle-weight title defense against Carmen Basilio, scheduled for the Yankee Stadium here, continued unresolved.

"We met for three hours with Robinson last night," said an IBC spokesman, "and got nowhere." "Ray wants a $250,000 guarantee from theater television and that no one is prepared to offer. In the absence of IBC chief Jim Norris, who was confined to a hospital with an attack of food poisoning, Harry Markson and Truman Gibson, negotiated with Robinson.

The IBC signed with Theater Network Television for the fight. Robinson wanted Teleprompter, a rival outfit, to handle the theater TV. He said he could make more money from Teleprompter.

However, TNT has guaranteed 500,000 seats, double its original offer. This, said Robinson's attorney, Martin Machet, has made Sugar Ray happy. It would net him about $225,000.

PHILADELPHIA (U) — One Michigan girl survived and another was eliminated in the second round yesterday of the 40th annual U. S. Girls Grass Court Tennis Championships.

Berra Gives Chisox Headaches

THREE CHEERS — Yogi Berra (left) who drove in six runs yesterday as the Yankees defeated the White Sox, 12-6, joins winning pitcher Bob Grim (center) and Bill Skowron (right) who drove in three runs, in a cheer for the winners. The victory moved the Yankees 4½ games ahead of Chicago in the American League race.

Yanks Prevent White Sox Gain With 12-6 Win

Yogi Drives in Six Runs in Crucial Game in Chicago

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Yogi Berra.

That's all. No fancy gimmicks. No line about old pros or how the New York Yankees always win the big ones.

Just Yogi Berra. The guy was tremendous. He drove in six runs, had four hits in five trips and stopped the nonsense with a three-run homer that cracked a 6-6 tie and hustled the Yankees to a 12-6 victory last night in the opener of that all-important three-game series with the Chicago White Sox.

The home run didn't just win a game. It won the opener and it may have won the series and clinched the pennant.

It's corny, trite and undeniable that you have to win the first one to sweep a series. And a sweep was what the White Sox were after to stay alive. But when you spot 'em a 5-0 lead, scramble back for a tie and still lose, what's left?

At best, the White Sox may salvage the last two games of the set, but instead of being within three percentage points for the Yankees and all even in the last column, they'll be 2½ games back and the champs will have a two-game edge in the last column.

In the other AL games, Cleveland took fifth from Baltimore by beating the Orioles 5-4, and Kansas City plunked Washington deeper into the cellar with a 3-1 decision.

Berra, who entered the game with a .242 average, got the job done with his 20th homer on the first pitch from reliever Paul LaPalme. The veteran slugger had given up singles to Enos Slaughter and Mickey Mantle. Reliever Bob Grimm won his 11th, but needed Bob Turley's help in the eighth when the Sox loaded the bases with two out. Turley fanned Minnie Mino.

Bengals Sign Young Fielder and a Hurler

DETROIT (U) — A shortstop from Detroit and an outfielder from Austin, Tex., have signed minor league contracts with the Detroit Tigers. Both will report next spring.

Tom Heenan, 17-year-old from Detroit Cooley High School, was signed by scout Ray Meyers. Otto Lind Jr., a right-hander who weighs 180 pounds, was signed by Schoolboy Rowe.

Practiced Play Pays OffStops Giants' Rally

NEW YORK (U) — If Manager Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves were asked to single out the game which gave him the most satisfaction this season, he undoubtedly would select last night's 4-3 triumph over the New York Giants.

Not so much because the victory boosted the Braves' first place margin over St. Louis to 7½ games. Or because all the runs were furnished by left-handed power, a commodity the Braves sorely lacked last year. Or because Don McMahon, his new bullpen ace, came through with a perfect two-inning performance to preserve Lew Burdette's 14th victory.

Second-place St. Louis pocketed a victory in the completion of a game suspended July 21 at Pittsburgh, but then lost the regularly scheduled game 3-1.

Third-place Brooklyn skidded eight games back, losing to the Chicago Cubs 9-4. Cincinnati rallied and beat Philadelphia 5-2 for a fourth-place tie with the Phils.

To Haney's way of thinking, the turning point came in the sixth inning when a long-practiced defensive play by the Braves came off to perfection and resulted in an odd double play that averted a possible big inning by the Giants. "That play was worth all the hours and all the work we put in this spring," declared the little pilot. "Those were the kind of games we lost last year."

The play in question occurred in the sixth inning. Milwaukee was leading 3-1. Willie Mays was on third with nobody out and Ray Jablonski was the batter.

Jablon hit a crisp grounder to third baseman Eddie Mathews and Mays was trapped. Willie tried to zig-zag between third and home but Mathews and catcher Del Crandall closed in on him quickly. Mathews made the tag and quickly threw to Red Schoendienst who put the ball on Jablonski trying for second.

"It was a play Haney had us practice all spring," said Mathews happily. "and we worked it to perfection. The idea is to hold the hitter on first or, if possible, double him up at second."

Bob Friend's five-bitter jolted the Cardinals. Singles by Bob Skinner and Bill Mazeroski plus a wild pitch and an infield out scored the clincher for the Bucs in the eighth off Van McDaniel, now 7-4.

Stan Musial extended his NL record for consecutive games played to 835 by getting into the lineup of the suspended game, which was resumed in the ninth. The string now officially extends from the first day of the 1952 season.

son to last Friday, when he was sidelined by a shoulder injury. The old mark of 822 was set by Pittsburgh's Gus Suhr.

Bob Thurman, recalled yesterday to fill in for the injured Gus Bell, rapped a two-run homer as the Redlegs scored four in the ninth at Philadelphia. The Reds have won only two of 16—and Joe Nuxhall was the winner in both.

Sally Sharp Batters Par in 6-4 Victory

Sally Sharp, 21-year-old Michigan State co-ed, eliminated Mrs. Victor Ryden yesterday in the opening match play round of the Women's District golf tournament at Detroit Golf Club. Miss Sharp shot sub-par golf for a 6-4 win.

The Forest Lake golfer was 3-up at the turn after shooting a one-under-par 38 and she was still one under regulation when the match ended on the 14th hole. Mrs. Ryden was co-medalist in the qualifying rounds.

Helen Grinnell, who shared medalist honors, rallied to defeat Mrs. Robert Leahy, 3-2. Mrs. John LaBoskey surprised Mrs. Keith (Susie) LeClair, 1-up, in the day's top upset.

Miss Sharp was scheduled to meet Mrs. Harold Marquardt today in the 2nd round.

Quiggle Reported as Course Flunker

EAST LANSING (U) — Campus reports had it Tuesday that Jack Quiggle, high-scoring guard during the past Michigan State basketball season, flunked a summer course and will not be eligible at least until January.

Quiggle was high for his team with 384 points last season. Coach Fordy Anderson conceded he had heard the report but said summer school marks would not be officially known until today.

The same reports had it that John Green, Michigan State's jumping jack center, successfully passed his summer school exams.

Fort Wayne had little trouble in defeating Peoria, Ill., 9-1. Milwaukee, Wis., won from Johnstown, N. Y., 10-1.

Tonight Colonial Heights, Va., goes against Grand Rapids, Mich., in a fourth round game. The loser will be eliminated.

SOUVENIRS—Returning only a few days ago from a motor-trek of more than 14,000 miles in two-and-a-half months, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd R. Walker, 2647 Edgevale, Drayton Plains, brought back some interesting souvenirs from Barrow, Alaska. They are shown above, Mr. Walker holding a pair of Eskimo snowshoes, a small toy made of the jaw of a caribou, and wears a water-proof, raw-wool jacket made by the Eskimos. Mrs. Walker holds a pair of beautifully made mukluks, or regular footwear.

Pontiac to Alaska Auto Safari

DP Couple Makes 14,890 Mile Trip

By H. GUY MOATS

From Pontiac to the Land of the Midnight Sun, and return, in the space of two-and-a-half months, is quite an undertaking. But it proved a very delightful (at times rugged) and highly interesting experience for Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd R. Walker, 2647 Edgevale, Drayton Plains.

The trip, made in a compactly equipped automobile that carried all the necessary living facilities, covered nearly 15,000 miles (14,890 to be exact).

It started June 14, ended last Saturday. It covered many western states, British Columbia, up the coast to Dawson, City Alaska and on to Fairbanks. It also had an air-borne jaunt to

A certificate, similar to the equator-crossing proofs for travelers, was presented the couple by the airline that flew them to Barrow. They spent three days in the Eskimo town, lived in the home of an Eskimo, ate his food and played with the children.

"We never heard an Eskimo child speak English at play, or anywhere outside the government school," said Walker, who with Mrs. Walker have long been school teachers (Walker at Farmington's 6th grade, Mrs. Walker in Drayton's 1st grade). There is no juvenile delinquency in Barrow," Walkers report.

The Walkers found the Eskimo unspoiled, friendly and happy. They thrilled at the abundance of big game and fine fishing, were bemused by the making of color photographs at midnight (the sun was high all day and night). They took along four cameras.

Fishing was good, with trout the main prize. Walker took some four-pounders, saw some that went 24 pounds, on the Alcan route. A pair of nosey wolves peered into their car once, when they passed the night in a gravel pit.

"I was a little surprised," said Walker, "when I saw most men went around armed."

MUCC District Session Sept. 8

A meeting of MUCC district seven will be held at Oakland County Sportsmen's Club at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 8.

At least two representatives from every member club in this district are urged to attend the first regular "seven" meeting of the new season.

Important action to be taken at this time will be election of a district chairman and vice chairman.

Other business which may be discussed includes district organization; sportsman-hunter and farmer relations program; safety program for youth groups; fall fire hazard season; sportsmen and fire fighting; value of agricultural groups in conservation work and an open discussion on subjects of interest to MUCC.

Annual AuSable Canoe Marathon This Weekend

GRAYLING — Michigan's famed Au Sable River will be the scene of the 11th Annual Michigan Canoe Marathon on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 31 and Sept. 1, when an expected total of 30 canoes will race 240 miles non-stop, from Grayling, in the central part of the state, to Oscoda on Lake Huron.

Many sportsmen from all parts of the United States consider this canoe racing event to be one of the toughest tests of endurance and sporting skill held anywhere. Only 11 of 37 starters finished the grueling race last year.

Canoe teams from Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Minnesota and Canada, will start from Grayling at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at 15-second intervals and finish at Oscoda some 17 hours later on Sunday afternoon.

Conservation Session

LANSING — Next monthly meeting of the state Conservation Commission has been scheduled for Sept. 19-20 at the Conservation Department's Higgins Lake training school.

5 Days Left for 'Fish Derby'

By H. GUY MOATS

Oakland County anglers are reminded today that only five days remain in which to file entries for the current Pontiac Press "big fish derby." Competition for the three $50 U.S. Savings Bonds concludes with Labor Day, Sept. 2.

All divisions are still wide-open. While the leading bass is a contest, and probably an all-time Oakland

Other States Lead Michigan

Deer Harvest in This State Only 11.7 Per Cent Each Year

LANSING — Hunters bag less than 12 per cent of Michigan's deer herd each year, one of the smallest harvests of any major deer state.

Calculated deer populations for Michigan indicate the herd exceeds 600,000 animals — 345,000 in the upper peninsula and 259,000 in the northern lower peninsula.

Last year hunters bagged some 71,126 whitetails in these two regions — or approximately 11.7 percent of the total population.

Meanwhile, a study of 1955 kill figures and estimated populations by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service indicates several other major deer states exceeded Michigan's kill percentage, including: Pennsylvania 66.155 of an estimated population of 300,000, or 23.7 percent; New York, 59,532 out of an estimated 387,500, or 15.4 percent; Minnesota, 63,945 out of an estimated 400,000 or 16 percent; and Maine, 35,563 out of an estimated 180,000, or 19.8 percent.

county record fish, one never can tell—there may be a still larger one lurking in the cool depths of some area lake.

Andy Simko, who landed the 7-pound 15½-ounce largemouth in Big Fish Lake, near Holly, on July 29, didn't know he was going to get the luncheon when he began fishing that day.

There have been bigger northern pike in this contest in other years, but a 9-pound 8-ounce specimen is the present leader. It was taken July 28 on Crescent Lake by Matt Grabek of Pontiac. It usually takes a 10-pound-plus fish to win this division.

Leading bluegill, as of this time, is a one-pound-one-ounce fish taken from Loon Lake by Loren K. Wilson, Pontiac.

While the summer-long contest ends next weekend, there is still one more week of trout fishing for Michigan anglers. Season on trout waters ends Sept. 8. However, there will be plenty of trout fishing even after that time on specially designated trout waters, a list of which may be had by writing the State Conservation Department Fish Division, Lansing 26.

Special fall season is for rainbow trout, and some of the finest late-season trout fishing is available on these northern Michigan streams.

Bass fishermen have until Dec. 31 to pursue their favorite fight in non-trout streams, and some of the finest fish of the season frequently are taken.

Trout Pond's OK

Gives Late-Season Sport

By JACK PATTERSON

We had been planning for some time to stop by the "Fisherman's Paradise" trout pond on the Dixie just past the M-15 turnoff and the other day we finally got around to it. We were pleasantly surprised to find that it is being operated by old friends Gus A. Verla Bessinger who used to run a similar deal at Hubbard Lake.

PATTERSON

Water is the critical factor in an operation of this nature, water of the proper purity, temperature and aeration. Two six-inch wells provide a steady flow of 41 degree water and the outlet temperature, even in the hottest weather has yet to exceed 68 degrees.

Fish stay in fine shape at these temperatures, and owing to a special diet, compounded to keep fish in fighting trim and to preserve their "native" flavor, the flycatcher or worm fisherman who takes some of these brooks, browns and rainbows running up to 20 inches has something he needn't be ashamed to take home.

A dollar gets you in and there is no time limit. You pay only for the high you catch on a modest per inch basis. For the fisherman who can't scrape up time to hit the northern streams this could be a "fisherman's paradise" indeed.

We're rapidly running out of August and Labor Day weekend traditionally winds up trout fishing for most fishermen. This is an understandable but most unwise attitude. The first two weeks in September often turn up the most comfortable and productive stream fishing of the summer. If you don't believe us, give it a try.

Although there are no "official" figures on an upsurge in grouse populations we have had enough reliable reports from around the state that birds are on the rise that we feel it safe to predict that shooting this coming October will be considerably better than in the past two or three years. There will be local exceptions, of course, but the general outlook is very encouraging.

An increase in Michigan woodcock supply has already been reported which is pleasant news to the man with the small gauge gun and quick shooting eye, and presumably to the blast-at-anything fraternity as well.

Hungarian partridge planted in a couple U.P. counties seem to be taking hold rather well. A few more seasons of increase at the present rate and these fine, fast gamebirds may be added to the open list in Michigan.

Haven't had any recent news on waterfowl but at the time the seasons were set it appeared likely that conditions would be about the same as last year—good at the right times and places. No late dope on pheasants. Our theory is you couldn't stamp 'em out if you tried.

Rabbits continue to be rather scarce, particularly locally.

Fun Trial Planned for German Pointers

Arrangements have been completed for a fun trial for German short-haired pointers, with the German Short-haired Pointer Club of Michigan the hosts. Event will take place at Highland Recreation area, Sunday, Sept. 1. The club also has arranged a fall field trial for Sept. 28-29 at the same site. This is an annual event and usually attracts a big field.

Sunday's trial begins at 9 a.m. with puppies. Older dogs run in order of age. Trial serves as an instructional period for the amateur handler with inexperienced dogs.

Information about the trials — (fun trial), Ben Luce, Det. Kennel 5-2381; (fall trial), Carl Johnston, Farmington, Greenleaf 4-8548.

The 250 to 300-pound shark was taken in an unusual manner. Policeman Jack Jaeger wounded and stunned the shark with his service revolver about 100 yards off shore. It was then gaffed and landed.

Robin Hood a Phony

Ann Marston Also Hits Indians' Archery Skill

NEW YORK (AP)—Robin Hood was a phony and American Indians couldn't hit a tepee from 100 yards with a bow and arrow, a pretty archery queen claims.

"I don't want to disillusion all the tykes who watch television and read books about the glamorous hand of Sherwood Forest," said Ann Marston of Detroit, "but some of the feats attributed to the archers of the middle ages are sheer malarkey."

"For example, in a big tournament at Nottingham the villain sends an arrow slipping into the center of the target. Robin Hood steps up and nonchalantly splits the arrow."

"The chance of that happening is one in a million. It's impossible to do it intentionally."

If Robin happened to be competing against Ann, chances are he'd swallow the arrow.

Miss Marston is 19, a honey-haired blonde with blue eyes and a figure not meant to be hidden in a sport as obscure as that of archery.

British-born, she learned to walk and later to shoot in Sherwood Forest under the tutelage of her father, Frank, a champion archer in England. The family moved to this country seven years ago—making Detroit their home—and since have been winning honors and giving exhibitions as archers.

Ann has won nine national women's free style championships and recently broke her own record in repeating her title at Watkins Glen, N. Y. She is in town to participate in Sports Illustrated's annual sports festival.

Ann can send a dozen arrows into a circle the size of a silver dollar from 90 feet. From the same distance, she can turn a dozen eggs into an omelette.

Miss Marston, who herself is an honorary princess of the Sioux tribe with the title "She who never misses," says also Indians actually were poor bowmen.

Ban With a Bump!

Stiff Penalty for Violation

ALL OUTDOORS (INS) — Department of Interior has officially banned the use of electrical devices or recordings used to take migratory game birds.

An announcement from the department in Washington said the migratory bird treaty act is broad enough to apply to all migratory game birds and will prohibit the use of recordings and amplifications of imitations of goose or duck calls produced by conventional calling devices.

Standard penalties for the illegal taking of migratory game birds will now apply to the taking of such birds by the use or aid of recorded bird calls or sounds or recorded or amplified imitations of bird calls or sounds.

"Violators are subject to a maximum of six months in jail, a maximum fine of $500, or both." The department said the devices were banned because of "their deadly effectiveness."

Outboard School for Servicemen

Charles "Chuck" Greenlee, 936 Pontiac Trail, Walled Lake, is attending a two-weeks outboard service school in Waukegan, Illinois.

The school is designed to acquaint the firm's dealers with its 1957 line of outboard motors, and to instruct them in the latest techniques of outboard service and repair. On completion of the two-weeks session class members receive certificates certifying them as qualified outboard mechanics.

Greenlee reported that the accent for 1957 has been put on color, styling and power.

Novel Approach Proved Out OK

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Landowners having their troubles with hunters — and let's face it, many of them do — might consider the novel approach of welcoming the boys with maps and free coffee.

That's what the State of Washington did in a project called operation Cooperative Hunter Experiment Control (CHEC).

A committee of representatives from the state game department, the Lewis County sheriff's office, and private organizations sponsored the test on a 70 square miles tract near Chehalis during deer season a year ago.

The objectives were to lower the landowners' hazards of damage by fire, theft, vandalism and the man-hours of repairs; to reduce game and civil law violations, and obtain a maximum harvest of deer.

The area was posted with 113 signs asking hunters to stay out of certain areas and off specified roads. The CHEC hunters were greeting signs reading "welcome sportsmen." After receiving a permit from a checking station, they were given maps of the area, cups of coffee and books listing ground rules and hunting tips for the area.

Free cabins and firewood were available on a first-come, first-served basis to hunters who wanted to stay overnight.

Here's the committee report: During the 31-day season, 387 hunters used the area. There were: No cases of hunting law violations. No reported thefts of equipment. No vandalism. No fires in the area. No firearms accidents. No failures to comply with local regulations. The operation was successful.

Browns Drop 5, Cut List to 42

Mike Potunno, Ex-UM Back, Among Rookies Getting the Axe

Those released were John Bayuk of Salida, Colo., fullback from Colorado University; linebacker Mike Potunno of Canton, Ohio, a former University of Michigan player; Charlie Harris, a halfback from Athens, Ga., formerly at the University of Georgia; tackle Tom Gulian of Steubenville, Ohio, one-time Mississippi State player who has been in service for three years; and tackle Gerald Stone, formerly of Southern Louisiana College, also just out of service.

Cuts put the Browns one below the Labor Day limit of 43. Eventually, the squad must be pared to 35.

The New England featherweight titlist rules a slight favorite in the nationally-televised (ABC, 10 p.m., EST) bout because of his wide edge in experience over the Panamanian 126-pound champion.

Both battlers are 23, but Gomes has had twice as many bouts since turning pro in 1951 than Martinez, has had in five years of battling.

Babbish fired rounds of 71 and 75 to lead nine other qualifiers for the U. S. Amateur tournament, scheduled Sept. 9-14 at The Country Club in Brookline, Mass.

The Michigan trials were part of the sectional qualifying rounds held yesterday throughout the nation. Iowa was the only sectional remaining and 34 golfers were slated to compete for four places at Des Moines today.

Chilly winds raised havoc with scorecards at the Country Club of Detroit's 6,910-yard course as none of the starting field of 68 players could equal or better par.

Babbish, an outstanding amateur in this area for many years, succeeded in qualifying for the nationals for the 10th time.

Finishing 2nd was Jerry Berles of Grand Rapids, who carded rounds of 71-77 — 148. Joe Grace Jr., star golfer at Notre Dame, and four others shared 3rd place with 150.

Matching Grace were former National Public Links champion Sam Kocsis, Vic Cuius of Jackson, husky Gene Woodward of Lakepointe and Grand Rapids veteran Harold Brink.

Ray Lovell, ex-Birmingham High player, Jim Funston of Plum Hollow and Dr. W. R. Aldrich of Kendallville, Ind., round out the qualifying list.

Lovell, Funston and Aldrich were forced to gain their national berths in extra hole playoffs with Dick Whitting and Stan Lenzon, both from Red Run. All five ended their regulation play tied at 151.

Whitting and Lenzon are the state's top two alternates. Five other shotmakers, including Tom Draper and Dick Weyand, both of Birmingham, are also alternates.

There were some notable area casualties Tuesday. Art Oils Jr. of Birmingham, No. 1 amateur in the Michigan Open last weekend at Edgewood, failed to qualify, as did state amateur champion Lloyd Syron of Pontiac and Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile, state amateur king three years in a row.

Pontiac's Dick Robertson also failed to make the grade. Of the 68-man starting field, 58 finished.

The 10 qualifiers will be joined in the national test by Chuck Kocsis, who went to the national finals last year before bowing to Harvie Ward. Kocsis did not have to qualify by virtue of his position on the U. S. Walker Cup team. Dick Foutche of Charleston, W. Va., scored the country's best round yesterday, posting a 67-66-133 at Huntington, W. Va.

A field of 208 will compete in the national match play tournament at Brookline. All but 31 were required to qualify sectionally.

Ward will not be defending his title this year due to his one-year probationary period for violations of amateur status.

Among the exempt golfers are Charley Cox, Rex Baxter Jr., Arnold Blum, Joe Campbell, Billy Campbell, Bill Hyndman III, Billy Joe Patton, Hillman Robbins Jr., Mason Rudolph, Dr. Frank (Bud) Taylor and Kocsis.

Students Lose Sports Control

That's Claim of U.S. Student Congress in Ann Arbor Confab

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The 10th annual National Student Congress today charged that intercollegiate athletics have been taken out of the hands of the students and sometimes even have escaped from control of the colleges.

The 1,000 delegates from 250 colleges went on record as saying that financial subsidies and gifts have been instrumental in perverting the outlook of the athlete and student. The representatives charged further that information about financial activities of athletic programs has been hidden from the public.

The congress passed a resolution today asking for equal educational treatment to athletes and non-athletes. The resolution said, "scholarships should be based on financial need and scholastic ability, not athletic prowess."

It also recommended that alumni groups withhold gifts and subsidies to star athletes.

LA Politicians Ask Fast Talker to Get Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (INS) — Los Angeles politicians, trapped by a fast-approaching deadline, appointed a second man today to try to talk Walter O' Malley into bringing his Dodgers west.

John E. Leach, veteran Los Angeles county assistant administrative officer, was named to assist Harold McClellan in his dealings with the Dodger boss.

Leach accompanied Los Angeles county and city officials on a recent Florida junket envisioned as the "opening door" movement for luring Brooklyn to Los Angeles.

The appointment was made to aid McClellan with the great number of talks tentatively scheduled between now and the Sept. 30 deadline for transferring the National League franchise.

Hunter Loses Bounty on Frozen Fox Pups

MASON (AP) — A Mason fox hunter thought he had $85 in frozen assets. But when he thawed them out, he wasn't able to collect.

Ingham County sheriff Willard P. Barnes explained the man brought in 17 fox pups to collect the state bounty of $5 a pup.

The sheriff was curious because fox pups are born in the spring. The hunter explained that he took the litter in the spring but rather than collecting the bounty then, he decided to "bank" the pups in a deep freeze and bounty them when he needed the money.

The hunter wasn't able to cash in on his frozen assets because under state law animals must be bountied within 10 days after the time they are taken.

Mrs. W. L. Mosher of Bloomfield Hills finally has achieved a goal she just missed on many previous occasions at Orchard Lake Country club. Yesterday she won the club women's golf title from defending champion Mrs. R. E. Leahy of Birmingham, 3 and 2.

The new champion had a hot approach iron on the first four holes, where she holed out three chips. She had an eagle on the first, a par five hole, birdied No. 3 and No. 4 to give her an edge she never lost, although Mrs. Leahy was only one down at the 11th. Mrs. Mosher birdied 13th to go 3-up.

It is always

When you are asked what car you drive, it is always nice to name the top car of its class. And when you are asked where you insure your car, it is just as nice to say, "I am insured with the Exchange at Auto Club."

Saying that says so much. It says you are a proved, selected, good driver. Says you know your motoring. Says you have the best, yet save money. Says you know your way around. Just answering proves good things about you, and most everyone knows it.

Why don't you get aboard?

TEDI THURMAN

Even Hurricane Sounds Lovely

Girl With Torrid Voice Gives Reports on NBC Radio, TV Shows

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (U)—Connoisseurs of the nation's weather have a pronounced cleavage in their views of TV and radio weather forecasting. Some like it straight. Others like it fancy.

One of the most articulate and comely exponents of the fancy approach to tomorrow's weather report is a Midville, Ga., lass. Her name is Tedi Thurman, a tallish (5 feet 7½ inches), shapely, honey-haired and blue-eyed young lady who says:

"I don't read books on meteorology. I just read sexy books." You will realize that this is not an improbable statement if you've heard her give the weather reports on NBC Radio's "Monitor" or heard and seen her on NBC-TV's new "Tonight" show. The weather is always sultry, even if it's freezing, when Miss Thurman articulates the forecast in a modified Southern accent.

To innumerable American males who write her proposals of marriage and send her flowers, Miss Thurman is the voice that can make even the approach of a hurricane sound heart-warming. There are, also, one or two weather purists who object to her forecasts on the grounds that—well, frankly, she sounds too sexy. Now what's wrong with that? "Nothing," says an anonymous member of the watch and ward society. "It's not what she says, but the way she says it. If a farmer is worried about his crops, he can't concentrate on the forecast."

She left Midville to study art in Washington, D.C., for a year. When her parents urged her to return home, she came on to New York and went to work for the Conover model agency.

She made pots of money and acquired a Park Avenue apartment and took a lot of kidding because of her Southern accent. "There's nothing wrong with a Southern accent," she said, "except that I wanted to be an actress. An actress with a Southern accent can obviously play only a Southern woman—and how many roles are there?"

So she took speech lessons and lost her accent. Then "Monitor" wanted a weather girl and somebody heard Miss Thurman talking. That was it. NBC signed her to a contract and now she isn't modeling any more.

Civic Center Park Will Face City Hall

The corner of South Parke and Pike streets is getting a face-lifting by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Dept.

According to a department official, the area bounded by Parke, Pike, the Clinton River, and the Austin Trucking Co. parking lot, will become a temporary park until permanent plans are settled. The area is directly across from the City Hall and has been cleared of homes during the past two years. It is part of Pontiac's Civic Center site.

Brazil Starts Museum for Carmen Miranda

By EARL WILSON

SAO PAULO—You get a nice warm feeling down here hearing the Brazilians talk of Carmen Miranda as though she were still alive.

WILSON

There are a couple of good reasons that Carmen won't be forgotten for quite some time. Her husband, David Sebastian, of Hollywood, has arrived in Rio with several trunks of Carmen's personal possessions—including her costume jewelry and platform shoes—for a museum which is being encouraged by President Kubitschek's wife. And Carmen's sister, Aurora, is perpetuating her memory by singing in Machado's famous "Night and Day" night club in Rio.

"I am sorry I sing so much like Carmen," Aurora told me the night I heard her sing.

"Im not, because that's pretty good," I said.

"I have dropped everything in Hollywood to come here for a few months," Dave Sebastian told me, "so I can get this museum started."

Strangely, most Brazilian girl singers are sedate—with none of the shouting demonstrativeness that Carmen had. "Carmen was very smart," Aurora says.

"When she got in America and found they couldn't understand her words, she did the yelling and wore the bananas to attract attention."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... IN NEW YORK...

Frank Sinatra's after Orson Wells to direct and act in the singer's TV series... George Jessel says one of his gags was credited to a new TV comic, but adds, "I don't mind the boy claiming it—usually my stuff is credited to Lawrence Welk."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: We've heard of the six-year-old who kept his new shoes neat and clean for weeks. Then he started to wear them.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Writer Arnie Rosen explains his capital gains tax deal: "Every time I work, the Capitol gains." ... That's earl, brother.

Duck Brought to Life

SPRING VALLEY, Calif. (U)—Eleven-year-old Ronald Hemming found an egg in a field. He put it in a can and kept it covered with warm ashes from the incinerator at his home. In five days, a duck hatched. Ronald has added it to his collection of a squirrel, a gopher snake, a king snake and a toad.

Yokosuka Prison Is Virtual Hotel

GI Convicts in Japan Get Laundry Service, Unarmed Guards, TV

TOKYO (INS)—When Japanese courts sentence an American serviceman to prison, he serves his time in what one U.S. admiral calls a "hotel."

The "hotel" is a special prison in the port city of Yokosuka for U.S. servicemen confined by Japanese courts. Attention is focused on Yokosuka prison this week because of the internationally-publicized trial of William S. Girard, the GI accused of killing a Japanese woman shell-convener.

If the 22-year-old army SP3 were sentenced to prison by the Japanese court at Maebashi, he would be confined at Yokosuka. Girard could be sentenced to as much as 15 years, although most observers believe his sentence will be considerably lighter, and will be suspended.

One soldier, paroled this month after serving a year for armed robbery said:

"Serving time in that prison was like being a civilian. No inspection, no hard work. The parolee, Pvt. James W. Kuralt of Patterson, N.J., now is in a U.S. army stockade for another offense. He said:

"I'd much rather be doing this time in Yokosuka. That prison's got the stockade beat."

One American rear admiral who recently inspected Yokosuka prison, 40 miles southwest of Tokyo, was quoted by prison officials as saying:

"This place has the accommodations of a hotel. I wouldn't mind spending a week there."

Here is what an American serviceman can expect at Yokosuka prison:

Small steaks for breakfast, personal laundry service, a TV set, unarmed guards and a roomy cell that looks more like a college dormitory room and certainly is the equal of any GI barracks.

Three of the 32 prisoners are serving 2-to-15 year terms for murder and robbery—the longest sentences at Yokosuka. They are eligible for parole on good behavior after five years.

One reporter who toured the prison revealed inmates who appeared healthy and content. Bare-chested and wearing blue pants, they worked quietly and listlessly in the machine shop or played softball in the recreation yard.

The prisoners live in cells with western-style mattresses and sheets that are changed twice a week; a desk with a shelf for such items as soap and shaving equipment (supplied by the PX) and a flush toilet.

Single cells are six by nine feet and those for two prisoners are 12 by 15 feet. More of the 32 prisoners prefer and are allowed to occupy doubles.

A Japanese Ministry of Justice official, Isuji Okimoto, who went along on the prison tour, declared: "It cost us $150,000 to renovate this prison for U.S. prisoners."

Storm (Gale) Is Brewing for Welk on TV Channels

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—A Storm named Gale is brewing again this season for Lawrence Welk, the show that inherits Sid Caesar's old time, and other TV channel fare.

A year ago it looked like someone was throwing Gale Storm to the wolves when she launched her "Oh! Susanna" telefilms on CBS-TV. Opposing her on one rival network was Lawrence Welk and his popular rock 'n' chair music and on another was Comedy King Sid Caesar and his troupe of clowns.

On an average of seven out of 10 times, Gale beat the Welk show in the rating battle and she helped carve K.I.P. on the tottering Caesar's chest by drawing almost double his audience.

So here we go again with Gale explaining her longtime success on TV, first as "Margie" and now as "Susanna," with the word-age:

"No one except people liked Margie and no one except people likes Susanna."

By that Gale means she's been clobbered in both roles by TV critics. But audiences love her. And this season she's brewing up a bigger storm for her competition.

In a new guest star idea for "Oh! Susanna," movie and TV stars will join Gale in her sometimes—sometimes—cornball plots aboard that luxury liner.

Her first guest, on the opening Sept. 14 show, is Pat Boone, who tops the roster of male singers just as Gale tops the gal warblers.

Yes, that's right. The 5,000,000 sales of Gale's Dot records in a year and a half, and her "Dark Moon" hit, have given her the title of the nation's most popular feminine recording star. Last spring, in fact, she was for several months the only girl listed in the nation's top 25 singers.

Brewing up storms of laughter on TV with her expressive eyes and active face was something new for Gale when she became "Margie" and starred in 126 episodes which are still playing reruns all over the home screen channels.

But singing was old stuff for the girl from Houston, Tex., who was born Josephine Owaisa Cottle. Before TV she had starred in many Hollywood films, musicals, plus westerns, dramas and horror flickers. But Hollywood never thought of her for comedy.

For almost 10 years, from 1946 to 1956, Gale Storm was the queen of Hollywood's B movies.

"Most of them," she laughs, "really were nervous C's. You can see most of them on TV today—if you can stand them."

Gale made movies at such a speedy clip, she remembers that "one time we rushed a picture so fast we never finished it. Honest."

GALE STORM

a film contract, and her name, on Jesse Lasky's radio show "Gateway to Hollywood." Being queen of Hollywood's B movies didn't bother her. She told me:

"I was happy. I just couldn't get worked up over the fact that I wasn't Hollywood's No. 1 star. I never had that kind of driving ambition."

The boy winner of the "Gateway to Hollywood" contest was a young actor named Lee Bonnell and a year later, in 1941, Gale became Mrs. Bonnell. Lee is a successful insurance man now, and they have four children: 14-year-old Philip; Peter, 11; Paul, 10, and 10-month-old Susanna without the "Oh!"

Like Jane Russell, Gale is deeply religious and has taught Sunday school classes. Her first TV success as Margie was bigger than anything that ever happened to her in 10 years of movie making.

She told me:

"It made me not only grateful but humble. I had a feeling about the show that not even the early critics could discourage. It was a feeling that 'My Little Margie' was something special, like God had said, 'This is it!' It was."

Beaver Island to Get Microwave Phones

PETOSKEY (U)—A radio microwave will link Lake Michigan's Beaver Island telephonically with the mainland starting Sept. 15.

Really Stays Impartial

STREATOR, Ill. (AP) — Justice of the Peace John Entwistle didn't bat an eye when he handed down his decision. He denied his son, Duane, 24, his driver's license when he met him face to face in a

TV Causes Breakup

CINCINNATI (AP) — Our complex modern world. A local couple, John F. Leblang, 39, and his wife, Emma, 39, have filed cross complaints in divorce court here because, among other things, they could not agree on what television programs to watch.

Some 3.2 million immigrants—about one-ninth of the total population increase—came to the United States between 1946 and the end of 1956.

Russia Starts Service

ODESSA, U.S.S.R. (AP) — The Soviet Union has started a new passenger and freight service to the Middle East operating from this Black Sea port. The motor ship "Krym," assigned to the run will complete a circuit to Constantinople, Varna, Istanbul, Piraeus, Beirut and Alexandria in 18 days.
