Bonn, France Yield on Arms Control Issue

Nine-Nation Conference Reportedly Has Agreed on Controversial Points

LONDON (AP)—France and West Germany made concessions today on the issue of arms control, thus brightening the picture in the stymied nine-power conference on rearming West Germany and granting her sovereignty in partnership with the West.

This was disclosed after a top level executive session at which both French Premier Pierre Mendes-France and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer reportedly yielded on points which threatened to bog down the conference.

Two sessions were on tap for the afternoon—another executive session by the nine foreign ministers and then a meeting of Mendes-France, Adenauer and U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to draft a declaration of intent to end the 9-year-old occupation of West Germany.

Yesterday Mendes-France suddenly announced opposition to a conference plan for control of German armaments production.

This stunned the other conference delegates, who had been under the impression Mendes-France was ready to go along with the compromise, drafted by Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak. It called for NATO and an (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Ike, Gruenther Meeting Today

NATO Chief Flies to Denver to Give Views on Europe Defense

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower today kept abreast of efforts to clear away new obstacles to a western European defense alliance against communism and arranged to talk over the military aspects with Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther.

Gruenther, Supreme Allied commander of North Atlantic defense forces, flew to the President's vacation headquarters here last night to report on the troubled situation as he has observed it from his Paris vantage point.

Newsmen asked Gruenther last night whether he felt western Europe could be defended as effectively under the proposed nine-power London agreement as under EDC, which called for a six-nation European army.

"Yes," Gruenther replied; "so far as the purely military aspects are concerned. We can handle it either way."

But he added that the problem is "much broader" than the military aspects.

Red Hearing Aftermath

Clardy Seeks Disbarment of Attorney John Houston

LANSING (AP)—Rep. Kit Clardy (R-Mich.), a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, has asked the State Bar of Michigan to disbar a Pontiac attorney on the grounds he invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked about membership in the Communist Party.

Clardy asked the action against John C. Houston of Pontiac, a witness before a subcommittee hearing here last summer.

The congressman said Houston should be added to two other attorneys for whom he previously had recommended disbarment. They were Morton Leitson and Max Dean of Flint, both witnesses at subcommittee hearings in Flint.

Clardy said he was sending the bar copies of the testimony of Mrs. Bernice Baldwin, a Detroit housewife, who testified she had been an undercover agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Clardy said her testimony linked Houston with the Communist Party, but that Houston "repeatedly" invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked about the alleged membership.

Czechs Release Two Gls Held for 16 Days as Spies

WALDHAUS, Germany (AP)—Two American soldiers imprisoned in Communist Czechoslovakia since Sept. 17 as suspected spies returned to free West today.

1st Lt. Richard H. Dries of St. Albans, Long Island, N. Y., and Pfc. George Pisk of 4507 Placid Place, Austin, Tex., were liberated by their Czech captors at this lonely little West German checkpoint.

It ended a two-week ordeal which began when a roving Czech patrol seized them near Eslarn, Bavaria, while the pair was on a routine border mission.

After their arrest, Czechoslovakia charged the two were in Czech territory on an espionage mission. A note accused them of "photographing military installations and carrying out observation with field glasses."

Army headquarters here rejected the charges, declaring the soldiers were on a legitimate mission and were picked up on West German territory.

Dries and Pisk looked tired and drawn. Their clothes were rumpled.

They arrived at the West German-Czech frontier in two limousines, accompanied by two Czech border officers.

They got out, walked into the Czech sentry house and minutes later across a 50-yard stretch of no man's land into West Germany.

Dries, who had been dressed in civilian clothes at the time of his capture, was greeted by a captain of the U.S. Military Intelligence Service. The captain, who did not give his name, approached Dries and said:

"Hello, Richard, how are you?" Dries started to reply but the captain said:

"Let's get into a car and get out of here. We can talk later."

Pisk climbed in with them. Both Pisk and Dries carried the binoculars they had when arrested.

Half-Inch Rain Floods Streets, Jams Traffic

Little Damage Reported as Cloudburst Drenches County

A half-inch of rain swept into Pontiac by a 20-mile north wind last night, causing rapid flowing street floods, snarling traffic to almost a standstill and drenching last minute shoppers in the downtown area.

The downpour which let go nearly a third of an inch of rain in five minutes was accompanied by a fierce electrical storm which caused little damage, authorities said.

According to Pontiac Police, the city's east and north side streets were overflowing onto the sidewalks following the cloudburst.

Authorities said that many motorists had to stop their cars causing downtown traffic jams when they were unable to see through their windshields.

Lt. George T. Scott said that some streets were jammed with traffic lines as far back as a mile on Woodward, East boulevard and Oakland Ave.

Oakland County Sheriff's Dept. also reported that most of the county roads were badly flooded after the deluge which started shortly after 7 p.m.

Police said that hundreds of shoppers were stranded about 45 minutes in business districts waiting for the storm to let up.

Birmingham and Southfield Township said the summer-like rain caused flash floods and stalled traffic at Woodward and Harmon and at the East Maple viaduct.

Farmington officials said hail fell there about 10 minutes.

Detroit Edison Co. officials said about 50 Lake Orion homes were without service when a wire was felled by lightning. But service was restored "immediately" to the residents in Bunny Run Sub-division.

Bell Telephone and Consumers Power officials said their services weren't affected by last night's storm. Telephone company authorities said it was considered "lucky" that no damage occurred.

For Pontiac and vicinity, the U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts considerable cloudiness with scattered showers and possible thunderstorms tonight and Sunday.

Little change in temperature is predicted with a low tonight of 63 to 65 and a high of 76 to 80 for Sunday.

Temperature at 2 p.m. in Pontiac was reported at 69 with light variable wind.

Friday's highest temperature was recorded at 70 and a low of 62.

Fight Looming for Senate Seat

Nevada Election Code Faces Test in Naming McCarran Successor

RENO (AP)—A court test of Nevada's election code was in prospect today with high stakes in this gambling state—the seat of Sen. Pat McCarran who died Tuesday.

To fill the vacancy, Republican Gov. Charles Russell yesterday appointed Ernest Brown, 51, Reno attorney.

Atty. Gen. William T. Mathews, a Democrat, ruled that Brown's appointment would be good only until Jan. 3 and that the rest of McCarran's unexpired term—until January 1957—must be filled in the Nov. 2 general election.

Both Brown and the choice of the state Democratic Committee—Alan Bible—raced 30 miles to the capital, Carson City, to file their candidacies.

The Nevada Supreme Court ruled it lacked jurisdiction to block the certification of Brown and Bible by the secretary of state.

Lester Summerfield, former Republican national committee man, promptly announced the GOP would seek injunctions in the district courts for all of Nevada's 17 counties to restrain county clerks from entering the candidates on the ballot.

Keith Lee, state Democratic chairman, termed the court's ruling "a victory for the people of Nevada" who have the constitutional right to elect a successor.

Giants' Wonder Man Forced Out

SHOULDER HIGH—Bobby Avila, Cleveland's second baseman, is upended by sliding Jim Rhodes of the New York Giants who was cut down on a force play in the fifth inning of yesterday's Series game in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium. Rhodes, who tied a Series record by making a third pinch hit in yesterday's game, was out on Davey Williams' bouncer to Shortstop George Strickland. Giants won the third game 6 to 2.

Nicoletti Collapses in Court

Teamster Official Guilty of Bribery and Extortion

DETROIT (AP)—Mike Nicoletti, president of an AFL Teamsters Union local, was convicted of extortion and bribery of building contractors last night.

A few moments after hearing the verdict of a recorder's criminal court jury comprised entirely of women, Nicoletti collapsed on the court room floor and was hospitalized.

The verdict, returned by the women after three hours deliberation, confronted Nicoletti, president of Teamsters Local 247, with a possible maximum prison term of 20 years.

Fainting, Nicoletti struck his head on a wooden bench. He was removed to Receiving Hospital and held overnight. At the hospital he swooned a second time.

The conviction was a climax to a labor racketeering case brought against five AFL Teamster men. Three pleaded guilty and the fourth was dismissed. The trial lasted five weeks.

Judge Joseph A. Gillis said he would pass sentence Oct. 12.

At that time he also will pass sentence on the three who pleaded guilty, all important Teamster Local officials. They are Daniel J. Keating, president of Local 614; Louis C. Lintean, business agent of Local 614, and Samuel J. Marosco, business agent of Local 247.

All were accused of demanding gifts and payoffs ranging up to $500 from contractors in return for promised favors from the union.

Several witnesses told of making payments under threats.

The case was the outgrowth of a 1-man labor racket grand jury investigation. Circuit Judge Miles N. Culehan was the grand juror. The grand jury was conducted more than a year ago.

Nicoletti was charged with soliciting payments from contractors on threats of work stoppages or other union difficulties.

Judge Gillis canceled Nicoletti's $5,000 bond. In remanding the defendant the court said it wanted a psychiatric investigation of Nicoletti.

Strange Bird Calls Invade Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"If you passed the Free Library building last night and thought you heard the cry of the loon, you weren't loony."

Prof. Paul Kellogg of Cornell University was giving a lecture, using sound films he took on expeditions to the South American jungle, the Hudson Bay area and elsewhere.

The evening was warm and the doors were open. The film sound track filled Logan Square with strange bird calls. Several passers-by reported to police Philadelphia was invaded by non-local birds.

4 State Gls Die in Rented Plane

Crash Before Dawn in Cornfield 9 Miles From Holland

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP)—Four young Michigan soldiers were killed today in the pre-dawn crash of a rented plane in which they were flying home on furlough.

Apparently lost and out of gas, the four died in the wreckage of their single engine plane in a cornfield nine miles northeast of Holland.

Ottawa County sheriff's deputies identified the victims from army identification cards as:

Harold Brooks, 19, 481 First St., Manistee.
Robert L. Brooks, 19, Hotel Chippewa, Manistee.
Norbert G. Bunkert, 22, 14551 Whitcomb, Detroit.
Sam S. Soultanian, 22, 16844 Linwood, Detroit, the pilot.

Sheriff's deputies said papers found at the scene indicated the four were on furlough from Camp Leonard Wood, Mo. The plane had been rented from the Waynesville Travel Service at Waynesville, Mo.

The plane, apparently trying to land in the corn field, rough and soggy from recent rains, bounced several times, then hit a six-foot ditch and piled up 50 yards beyond it.

'Bugs' Baer Says Leo's Contortions Left Him Addled

CLEVELAND (INS)—We tried to cop Leo Durocher's signals in the visitor's trench yesterday. We'll let you figure out the motions. Leo chopped seventy pounds of hamburger very fine, went up a rope hand-over-hand, frightened a herd of zebras off the front lawn, directed traffic as far south as Cincinnati, pulled in a two-hundred-pound tarpon, dusted the cowboys off the moon and dug a well with a bone-handled knife, says 'Bugs' Baer.

Gomez pitched fine until he gave way to Knuckles Wilhelm. Durocher's non-transferable pantomime for this deal was 'swimming butterfly with one arm while winding a candy pull' with the other.

The Clevelanders could not steal these signals without getting into charades. They thought Leo was playing, 'What's My Line' with a troupe of Japanese barrel jugglers.

Lopez Recalls Lemon to Stave Off Giant Drive

Durocher Calls Out Don Liddle in What Could Be Final Tilt

BY TED SMITS
CLEVELAND—The New York Giants took an early 2-0 lead in the second inning of today's fourth World Series game at Cleveland.

The runs were scored when Wertz and Westlake committed errors.

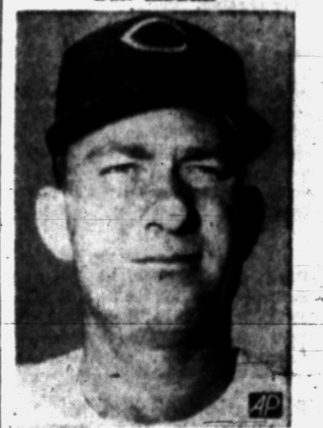

Propelled by Dusty Rhodes, the amazing pinch hitter, the New York Giants took on the Cleveland Indians in the fourth and possibly last game. The Giants, against all odds, have swept the first three games and are only one away from the championship.

In desperation the Indians called on their pitching ace, Bob Lemon (23-7) to return to the mound after only two days' rest. He was beaten in the first game 5-2 by Rhodes' 10th inning pinch homer with two on. Pitching against Lemon is the tiny Giant southpaw, Don Liddle (9-4).

Aside from the humidity the weather was ideal. A high temperature of 82 was indicated and although showers were forecast they

The Day in Birmingham Newcomers Club Schedules Bloodmobile Visit Oct. 20

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — With talk of the high price of coffee on many lips these days, local residents may take note that coffee will be given away in Birmingham on Oct. 20. That's the day the Newcomers Club will sponsor a Red Cross Bloodmobile visit at the Community House.

No one will be asked for money—just a pint of blood in exchange for coffee, a snack, and the satisfaction of knowing that they contributed toward the 200 pints Birmingham has been asked to donate.

Appointments are necessary for donors, who may call either Mrs. Allen Otto or Mrs. Lon King, co-chairmen of the drive. The bloodmobile will operate from 2-5 and 6-8 p.m. on "Blood Donor Day" here.

Mrs. Otto and Mrs. King urge Oakland County residents between the ages of 18 and 59 to make an appointment for their contribution.

They stressed the importance of keeping appointments so that collection operation can proceed in an efficient manner. They also commented that the donor station will be staffed by skilled medical, nursing and technical personnel, supplemented by Newcomers Club volunteers.

Members of St. Dunstan's Guild claim they have lost Adolph, a slithering snake who holds the key to the plot of "My Three Angels," which the guild will open its season with each Friday and Saturday for the next two weekends.

And without Adolph they say Henri Truchard, played by Frederick Graf, will never meet his demise, a development on which the story is hinged. Mrs. George H. Heideman and Mrs. John D. Klee, who played the mother and daughter roles, are listed as other likely suspects by their fellow members.

Any clues as to Adolph's whereabouts will be gladly welcomed by Mrs. John Warner, director, or Mrs. Otis Thompson, in charge of production. Those interested in the final outcome, are invited by the guild to obtain their tickets either at Grinnell's or by contacting Mrs. Muir Lind.

Congressman George A. Dondero, (R-Royal Oak) is to be the guest speaker at Monday's luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club, which will be held at noon at the Community House.

Following this week's City Commission meeting, a lease agreement is expected to be signed immediately, which will authorize the city to operate the 18-car parking lot behind the S. S. Kresge Co. building.

Officials hoped that with the installation of parking meters a faster turnover will be accomplished through discouraging all-day parking.

In other action, commissioners asked that the awarding of a contract for resurfacing five streets in the Quanton Lakes Estates subdivision be held off for one week, while City Engineer L. R. Gare checks the qualifications of the low bidder, Detroit Concrete Products, and the second low bidder, Don Wells, Inc.

The bids for resurfacing Pilgrim, Puritan, Lake Park, Fairfax and Safford were $22,085.75 and $22,554.75 respectively. The low-bidding firm was in question because of delays and other conditions in-

School to Shift Negro Students

Milford, Del., Removes Disputed Children After White Pupil Boycott

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Attendance at the Milford, Del., High School returned to normal after the removal of Negroes. All except about a third of the white pupils had been boycotting classes. Milford's new school board, reversing a stand taken by a previous board, decided to remove 11 Negroes who had been assigned to the high school.

It seemed likely that they would be sent to an all-Negro school at Dover, 18 miles away. In Dover a member of the school board, J. Leon Tarburton, called a meeting to discuss prevention of "terrorism by lawless forces."

A group of about 200 citizens appeared at a district school board meeting in East St. Louis, Ill., to protest increased enrollment of Negroes in the Centerville Grade School near East St. Louis.

Paul Chitty, spokesman for the group, said about 100 have transferred from an all-Negro school to the Centerville school, which has had a few Negroes for years. A committee named by Chitty meets with the local school board Monday to discuss the protest.

The Topeka, Kan., Board of Education has filed a brief with the U.S. Supreme Court stating that the court need not issue de-segregation orders for Topeka because racial integration will be accomplished by September of next year.

The board said segregation is being ended with "full public co-operation and acceptance of both white and Negro pupils, teachers and parents." The Topeka board was defendant in one of the segregation cases on which the Supreme Court ruled in May.

Florida sent another sort of brief to the court. Atty. Gen. Richard W. Ervin filed a 243-page document which said Florida's school system would be endangered by an immediate end to segregation or by "a decree of a period of short delay."

The brief asked for broad powers of discretion vested in local school authorities to determine administrative procedures.

2 Demand Exams in Burglary Case

Examinations on breaking and entering charges were demanded yesterday by two youths accused of breaking into a barber shop at 607 Franklin Rd. Sept. 27.

Eugene Burnes, 18, of 85 1/2 Gillespie St., and Cleo Johnson, 17, of 276 W. South Blvd., the accused, were unable to furnish $5,000 bond each and are in Oakland County Jail awaiting examination Oct. 6. They appeared before Pontiac Judge Maurice P. Finnegan.

Two others, Percy Buckley, 23, of 503 Highland Ave., and Joseph Johnson, 19, of 293 W. South Blvd., were released by police yesterday.

Three juveniles implicated with Burnes and Johnson will be held for further investigation, according to Capt. Clark M. Wheaton.

September Report Weather Hits Average Despite Odd Temperatures

Despite unusually high and low temperatures here, the month of September averaged close to normal weather-wise.

Starting out with a bang, September had several days in the high 80's and 90's. Highest temperatures reached on the 5th, when the mercury soared to 98, the hottest day of the year.

This was preceded by a high of 91 on the 3rd and followed by the same temperature on the 6th.

Last year the high was 101 with two other days of 96 recorded for the first three days of the month.

The low for September this year was on the 23rd when the mercury dipped to 39 degrees. The first trace of frost was seen on that day, but not enough to do any serious crop damage.

Six days of 50 degrees and below brought the average for the month to 65. The normal is 65.6.

Little Community Lights Up When the Stork Calls

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — A "lights on" tradition has been established in Zooks Corner to celebrate the birth of every child born in that 16-home community near Lancaster, Pa.

Albert M. Lohr, started the idea in 1947 when he was slow in taking down his Christmas decorations.

The lights were still up outside in April when he took his wife to the hospital to give birth to their fifth child.

Lohr promised his neighbors he would turn on the lights to let them know when his wife left, and again when she returned with her baby.

The originator of the tradition decided to extend the courtesy to all new parents in the area. So far the lights have been on six times.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A sharp-eyed cashier noted that a $20 bill had "White House" on the back, while all the others she checked had "The White House."

Police discovered similar "White House" bills here and in nearby National City and Escondido. They thought the shrunken-looking, suspicious, too. But the U.S. secret service advised that the "the" and shrunken changes were on bills turned out in 1934.

Historic Vessel Could Be Rebuilt From Old Data

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP) — A former shipbuilder has a 170-year-old book containing data he thinks could be used for restoring the famous warship Constellation, now rotting away in a Massachusetts shipyard.

The book contains specifications for warships of the Constellation-Constitution class.

The Constitution, the "Old Ironsides" of 1812, has been restored but her sister ship, which shot her way to fame against French privateers in the late 18th century, is little more than a shabby hulk at Charleston, Mass.

The owner of the book, Albert E. Alder, has checked the data with the superstructure of the Constitution and has found that they agree.

The 52-year-old former Rhode Island shipbuilder deduces that the missing above-decks of the Constellation could be replaced authentically from figures in his book, should public or governmental sentiment support a restoration.

Once the possession of the builder of the Constitution, the ancient, yellowed book was found among old nautical instruments when Alder and his father bought the Warren Boat Yard at Warren, R. I. in 1932.

It is entitled "The Ship Builder's Assistant, or, Marine Architecture." It was written by William Sutherland and published in London in 1748.

On the flyleaf in quill script is the inscription: "Given by George Claghorn, Constructor of the Frigate Constitution to Ephraim Covell."

Arraignment Is Set for Teenage Girls

Two teenage Pontiac girls, arrested Thursday night on charges of illegal possession of beer, are expected to appear in Pontiac Municipal Court today for arraignment.

A third girl, Joyce Gjelhaug, 18, of 873 Woodland Dr., pleaded guilty to the same charge yesterday before Judge Cecil McCallum, who deferred her sentence until Oct. 8 and freed her on personal bond.

Police are looking for a fourth youth, Robert Franzell, 20, of 1250 Cherrylawn Dr., owner of the car in which the youths were reportedly drinking. All four were released by police the night of their arrest.

Gjelhaug and the other girls, Doris Nightingale, 18, and Bobbie Sloop, 19, both of 171 N. Mill St., are already on probation for conviction of a similar charge two weeks ago.

Thumbs Reveal Brain Paralysis

Psychiatrist Finds That Disorders Are Shown by Abnormal Positions

CHICAGO (UP)—The position of a patient's thumb may be an important clue in diagnosing brain paralysis, according to Dr. Temple Fay, Philadelphia psychiatrist who described his simple thumb tests in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Fay said some cases can be tentatively diagnosed almost as soon as the patient walks into the office.

Specific parts of the brain control specific muscles and movements, he said.

Thus, an abnormal position of the thumb in relation to the fingers or to the hand and wrist while walking is characteristic of certain types of paralysis.

Fay, a neurosurgeon, said thumb tests roughly can separate patients who have disturbances of the spinal cord and the cerebellum.

Tentative diagnoses can be made quickly for such disorders as encephalitis, multiple sclerosis, meningitis or arteriosclerosis.

For example, he said, an inflammation of the spinal cord such as polio may enable a patient to place the tip of the thumb completely back of the knuckle of the index finger. A thumb drawn into the palm of the hand may indicate spastic paralysis, Fay said. Patients with central brain conditions such as shaking, palsy or Parkinson's disease cannot repeatedly and rapidly touch the tip of the thumb to the tip of the index or middle finger, he said.

CHIMNEY and ROOF REPAIRS

The repair men who just happen to be in your neighborhood and to notice your chimney needs repairs; definitely needs to be fixed before you put your furnace on. Also he observes a few shingles need replacing or the gutters are clogged with leaves and the flashings need a little paint here and there. He even offers to guarantee the work. You get the impression the job is quite simple and the cost not so great—until you come to pay the bill. It may be anywhere from thirty to a hundred dollars and if the job doesn't hold up you can't find the "guarantor."

Cleaning the flues and putting your furnace in good condition for winter goes hand-in-hand with the "roofer" and "chimney expert." Sometimes he takes your furnace apart and discovers how much "repairs" it needs or even a new furnace is required. Why take chances like that? There are a number of local reputable firms dealing in "heating," "roofing," etc. Call a reliable firm and get an estimate.

Trieste Issue Settlement Pilot Finds More Thrills on Tractor

By CHARLES M. McCANN
UP Press Staff Correspondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

The good:

1. The London Conference on West German armament moved toward success despite a series of near crises arising from French demands for guarantees against future German aggression. The United States and Great Britain promised to keep troops in Europe, as a safeguard for France, under a united defense plan.

At last, it appeared, the way may be open soon for limited West German rearmament and the granting of sovereignty to the Bonn Republic.

2. A solution of the Trieste issue was reached after nine years. It is hoped that an agreement will be signed next week. Under it, Italy will get the northern part of the 330-square-mile territory and Yugoslavia will get the southern part.

The agreement removes a source of friction which had embittered relations between Italy and Yugoslavia. It will make Yugoslav co-operation with the West easier.

3. One after another, in general assembly debate in New York, United Nations members plaided whole-hearted support of President Eisenhower's "atoms for peace" plan. There seems no prospect that Soviet Russia, despite its offer to resume talks on its participation, will take part in the proposed atomic energy pool for peaceful purposes. But support of the free countries assures success.

The bad:

1. Speeches in the U.N. Assembly disclosed growing anxiety over the danger of Communist subversion in Southeast Asia. Prince Wan Walthayakon of Thailand said his government has reason to believe that the Communists are preparing for big scale infiltration into Thailand from Red China. Wan asked that the U.N. take up the situation. There are active Red subversion movements in Burma and Malaya now, as well as in Indochina.

2. Relations between the Arab nations and Israel took another turn for the worse. Egypt charged that an Israeli merchant ship fired upon its Red sea coast and wounded several persons.

The Egyptian delegation to the U.N. was instructed to make a strong protest. An Egyptian cabinet spokesman nevertheless threatened retaliation. "All elements of a state of war between Israel and the Arab countries are still in existence," he said.

3. The British Labor Party, which could return to power in the event of a general election, showed increasing signs of a swing to the left. Delegates to the annual party conference cheered an announcement that laborite leaders M. Malenkov and Chinese Red Premier Chou-En-Lai to visit Britain. An official party resolution affirming support of the policy of arming West Germany, as part of Western defense against Soviet aggression, was approved by only a fractional majority.

U.S. Gets Chance to See Collected Shelly Papers

NEW YORK (U)—A collection of 200 letters, papers and manuscripts of Percy Bysshe Shelley, the poet, has been brought to America by Lord Abinger of Cleeves Hall, Suffolk, England. The collection traces the lives of Shelley, his wife, Mary; and her parents. It includes Shelley's diary, beginning with an account of his elopement with Mary Godwin, then 16, with pursuers at their heels.

Mary's manuscript of her famous novel, "Frankenstein," written when she was 19, is included. The collection was inherited by Lord Abinger when he succeeded to the title in 1943.

VAN WERT, O. (UP)—Chugging along on a tractor carries more thrill to R. L. ("Bird") Baker than flying as first pilot on the newest commercial airliners.

Baker retired from Capital Airlines service in 1950 when he was 55 years old so he could go to work on his 100-acre farm here. He made his retirement a "leave of absence" so he could go back if he found he didn't like farming as well as he thought. The three-year period is up, and Baker isn't going back.

"It was a good-paying job, but I'm satisfied now to stay right on this job," said Baker, who logged 20,400 hours in the air.

The last entry on his logbook was for a trip out of Cleveland in a DC-6 with 60 passengers and a crew of four. The first was for an insecure flight in 1919. In between the two entries lay nearly 3,000,000 miles at the controls. They include the first regularly scheduled passenger plane flight from Cleveland to Washington in 1920.

"I got a bigger kick out of driving this little tractor," he said. Two of Baker's three daughters learned to fly with his hearty approval. He said he'd be scared to have them in automobile traffic.

No Pocket Is Secure

WATERBURY, Conn. (UP)—Police searched a pickpocket and found, among other things, a Fairfield County sheriff's badge.

Reflections

"THANKS, NURSE!"

Nurses have asked for a House resolution proclaiming Oct. 4th to 9th as National Nurse Week; to our way of thinking five days, five weeks or five years isn't enough time to give them all the credit they deserve.

Kris, heroine in the book Not A Stranger, typifies her sisters. She had no social sense, unequal to modern society, unabashed by her doctor-husband, lonely but loyal, shone like a diamond in bright light in cap and uniform. Life is the goal of a nurse, her ambition, time ceases and fatigue forgotten when a life hangs in the balance. That isn't for five days, five years, but for a lifetime of service to mankind.

We honor these girls, pay tribute to them. They minister to the sick as a mother ministers to her child; love, kindness, inspiration are ingredients mixed with medication.

Changeover at North Branch

Central's Friendly Voice Replaced by Dial Tone

By MYRA SNOW

Pontiac Press Correspondent
NORTH BRANCH—"We're on our own now," was the unspoken thought of the 500 North Branch telephone subscribers when they dialed their first calls after 6 a.m. Thursday.

That day began a new communications era locally, as the impersonal "hummmmm" of the dial tone replaced the friendly, familiar voice of the operator heard for so many years.

For many, the dial phone's time-saving efficiency has been counteracted by the loss of a friend of years standing.

The cutover to dial equipment was begun earlier this summer, and completed during the past three weeks.

First telephone communications for the area were housed in the J. H. Vandecar drug store, in 1890, remaining there until 1930 when the center was transferred to the Thomas block on South Saginaw street.

Today's modern system is located in the General Telephone's new fire proof building.

First call made by the new automatic system was put through at 6:05 a.m., when S. D. Blackburn called his wife.

Navy Schedules Antarctic Junket

Ike's Office Announces Icebreaker Will Leave Soon on Expedition

DENVER—President Eisenhower's headquarters announced today the United States will send a small Navy-directed expedition to the Antarctic, an area of great potential strategic importance in the event of war.

The announcement said the decision to dispatch an icebreaker to the southern polar area "is in line with continuing United States interest in the region."

The expedition will set out soon and remain four or five months, the White House said.

It added that in addition to mapping and collecting scientific data, the exploring party will study supply problems which will face a U. S. group to take part in 1957-58 in an international geophysics program in the Antarctic.

The United States so far has refrained from staking any claim to territory in the south pole area, but the importance of the region in the event of a war with Russia long has been under study by military experts.

The Soviet Union, too, has recognized the strategic value of the Antarctic and has sent one expedition there without making a claim to territory.

The White House announcement did not say who will lead the Navy expedition and officials on hand here were unable to provide that information.

Retired Adm. Richard E. Byrd, a veteran Antarctic explorer, has announced he plans to return and there was speculation he will head the expedition.

All Faiths Help X-Ray Project

Protestants, Catholics and Jews Combine to Promote Health Tests

By Religious News Service
GREENVILLE, S. C. — Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews worked together in a mass X-ray project here which resulted in getting a record number of persons X-rayed to detect tuberculosis, heart disease and chest abnormalities.

The interdenominational project was headed by a Protestant clergyman, a Catholic priest and a rabbi. Members of the three faiths manned the X-ray equipment aside from its technical phases and conducted a publicity campaign to attract citizens to the unit.

The Hopewell Tuberculosis Assn. has promised at the first of the year that it would attempt to reach a goal of 20,000 free X-rays in Greenville County (pop. 168,000) in 1954. That goal was reached four months ahead of time.

Forest Brown, Pontiac High School teacher, will be the leader of the first forum. "A Layman Looks at Evanston," will be his discussion topic. This forum is open to all adults.

Can They Count On You?

By DON D. TULLIS

An archaeologist was preparing to go abroad to do some special work. He advertised for a helper. He must be between 25 and 35 years of age, a college graduate, and have some knowledge of archaeology.

The next morning an unwashed, ragged individual appeared at the door. The archaeologist said, "What do you want?" The man replied, "I came in answer to your ad."

"But, can you meet the requirements?" asked the archaeologist. "Are you between 25 and 35 years of age?" The man replied, "No, I'm 49."

"Are you a college graduate?" "No, I was thrown out of the eighth grade." "Have you studied archaeology?" "I don't even know what it is," was the reply.

"Then, why have you come to me in response to my ad?" asked the archaeologist. "I just wanted to tell you that on me you shouldn't count."

Can you imagine the deep path that would be worn to the study door of pastors, priests and rabbis if every member of their congregations should come to confess their own unreliability saying "on me you shouldn't count."

Just how many may they count upon to do the world's or carry on the program of the Kingdom? Is it one out of two, one out of ten, or one out of a hundred?

During the last war a young American was about to depart on a dangerous flight. He was not under orders, but chose to do the thing that needed doing. His mates tried to dissuade him, but he said, "I must go. I'm on a mission."

We are all on missions. We are here for some specific tasks. Something will be left undone that ought to be done if we fail to do it. Can the world depend upon you, or do you confess "on me you shouldn't count?"

What power is there to insure our response to the call to service? The psalmist gives the answer, "Happy are they who, served of Thee, set out on pilgrimage."

This experience marks the beginnings of the highest enterprises of the ages. "Nerved by Him" we must set out on pilgrimage. It is this that has moved the pioneers of every generation.

Are you confessing "on me you shouldn't count?" Let God nerve you and you too will become a man of the pilgrim heart.

Sheen Praises Mission Work

Reports U. S. Catholics Have Given 71 Pct. of Pope's Funds

By Religious News Service
NOTRE DAME, Ind. — United States Roman Catholics have contributed 71 per cent of all the mission funds available to Pope Pius XII, Auxiliary Bishop Fulton J. Sheen of New York said here. Addressing the fifth annual meeting of the Mission Sending Societies, Bishop Sheen said that through her missionaries and their work the church is giving more help to peoples of pagan lands "than the Red Cross or any other organization."

He said that in 55 mission countries and 653 mission areas some 100,000 missionaries, about 4,500 of them Americans, are operating 45,000 elementary schools, 10,000 secondary and professional schools, 1,350 hospitals, 1,300 orphanages and a variety of other institutions.

Bishop Sheen lauded American missionaries who, he said, "have withstood trial and persecution as well as any in the world."

He added that most Americans are themselves only few generations removed from foreign countries and have an "international spirit" which makes their work particularly effective.

Comparing the present state of the missions to Christ in the Garden of Gethsemane, the bishop lamented the loss of one million Catholics in Viet Nam, "the most Catholic part of Asia."

He also noted that where there were 8,500 missionaries in China, there are now only about 180.

Minnesota Clergyman Is Man of the Soil, Too

By Religious News Service
WELLS, Minn. — There were lots of red faces among farmers competing in a soil conservation judging contest when a clergyman walked off with top honors.

Dr. Charles Spear, pastor of the Methodist Church in Fairmont, Minn., went out to the contest on a farm near here just because he was interested.

When he arrived at the farm, he entered the contest, scored 219 out of a possible 300 points, and was named winner of the grand championship.

Gory Comics Make Way for Disney in Ft. Worth

By Religious News Service
FORT WORTH, Tex. — Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck are again being featured at comic book sections of newsstands here.

Of the many stands checked, only one still was displaying a so-called horror comic book. The dealer told a reporter he did not consider the book in question as bad as some of the other horrors offered by distributors.

"All the others I sent back," he said. The Star-Telegram reporter interviewed one lad of about nine who was leafing through a Robinson Crusoe comic book in a dime store. "Sure, I read those horror comics once in a while," he said. "But, heck, with the way money is, I'd rather spend mine on this kind, anyway."

The first annual Day of Recollection was held in the Hospital Chapel for all the employees of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital recently and conducted by Father John A. Trese, director of the Catholic Family Center of Pontiac.

The conferences were planned by Sister Mary William to give all employees an opportunity to participate in a period of meditation on spiritual values.

"The intimate connection between physical and spiritual needs in caring for the sick is evidenced by the eagerness with which employees of all faiths attended the conferences," Sister Mary said. "The benefits derived compensate for the sacrifices encountered to meet schedules and fulfill the obligation of caring for the sick."

Church Group Buys Williams Lake Site

The congregation of the Evangelistic Tabernacle here has announced purchase of a 19½-acre site on Williams Lake to enlarge facilities for their annual summer camp.

The meetings have been held here in July for the past 14 years.

Plans call for construction of a meeting hall on the site, according to spokesmen of the group. Completion of the building, planned to accommodate 2,000 persons, is expected by next summer, they said.

A Boy Can Change His Mind, Too

A Girl Is Baffled by Friend's Strange Elusive Action

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

A boy can tell you that he loves you devotedly — then stay miles away from you for weeks at a time. Another boy who is temperamental and moody can blame you for giving him a bad time.

A lad can sidestep with the greatest agility all ideas of going steady with you, yet fly into jealous tizzles when you go out with anyone but him. Another will gulk and avoid you when you're the innocent victim of some other boy's attentions.

It doesn't make sense, you say. Boys are so contrary. They'll say one thing and mean another. They'll rush you to death, then drop you flat. They'll tie you down, then leave you there to languish. How can you explain it? How rationalize it? How make it easier for a girl to understand boys?

Girls aren't the only ones with the privilege of changing their minds. Boys veer from one mighty idea to another with great rapidity sometimes. They're driven by new urges, caught up by new influences, tempted by new diversions, and swept away by new emotions. Just as girls are: Boys are unsettled — consequently very unsettling to girls.

This girl, for instance, finds her boy friend completely baffling. "Dear Miss Woodward: Out of a clear blue sky he told me he didn't want to go steady with me any more. He insisted that he still loved me as much as ever. I didn't mind this new arrangement because he said that we would still date, though not steady — for a while. He promised to call me the very next day. And that's been two weeks ago!"

"Could it be because I've been going out with others? I know he has had a few dates, but I've had a date almost every night. I really love him and am miserable without him. Do you think I should call him?"

No — it's too soon to call him. He hasn't had time to get his new routine of "dating you, though not steady" into motion.

You were taken by surprise, and thought undoubtedly that you'd be seeing him almost as often as before. Everything would be practically the same.

But he meant it, when he said "no more of this" for a while. He probably didn't date anybody for days — just looked around, sized things up, and then lined himself up a few dates. His whole attention is aimed at making new friends for himself. And until he gets those new friendships well cemented, he won't have time for occasional dates with you.

He may be afraid of them, and the serious turn they were taking. He may want to put his love for you into cold storage until he's in a position to do something about it.

But you can't really be miserable — if you have a date every night in the week! Fun with other boys in small, or large, doses is just what you need to help you wait until he gets around to calling you again.

Molded Bodice Is New Way to Liven Plain Garb

Anne Fogarty, queen of princess dresses, comes up with still another version of her beautifully cut, carefully fitted, figure-enhancing models. This time, she does what looks like the plainest of plain bodices, except that it is darted and molded to give the lines and outlines for which she is famous. The high-cut armhole and tight sleeve is another new point, all a part of the new upper-story simplicity, which makes an ideal background for jeweled ropes. The skirt, typically full, has four gores set on the lowered bodice which curves into the waist with perfection. Miss Fogarty originally showed this one in a patterned tweed but it is equally great in faille or brocade for more formal occasions, in any dress-weight wool for general wear.

This pattern is cut to Designer measurements, not standard pattern measurements.

Size 11 requires 3 1/2 yards of 54 inch material for dress. To order pattern No. 1196, address Spadea Syndicate, Inc., P. O. Box 535, G. P. O. Dept. No. P-6, New York 1, N. Y. State size. Girl Skirts Fancy

Classroom dresses for little girls are going to need a full flaring petticoat, as skirts continue to be quite lavish for everyday wear. It's smart to shop for petticoats that will stay permanently crisp through the dozens of sudings ahead of them.

PETUNIA!

They were charming. Yesterday. But now they're wilted. Plumb away!

Your cut-flowers will last longer with fewer water changes. Petunia, if you'll add a drop or two of household bleach to the water. Keeps the vase clean and fresh-smelling too!

Family Car Needs Care for Winter

Women Play Their Part in Automobile Maintenance

Most of the family driving is now the woman's job, and more and more she's seeing to car maintenance and servicing as well. If she's wise she's having the car prepared now for cold weather driving while the garageman has time to winterize her car properly.

Unless you're a mechanic, you'll want to ask your garageman to follow these tips for proper winter servicing.

Check the entire electrical system, including battery, spark plugs, distributor points, condenser, generator and voltage regulator; cleaning, adjusting and replacing items as needed.

Check the fuel system, clean and service gasoline filters, strainers, carburetor, and air cleaner in accordance with the car manufacturer's recommendations.

Drain and flush cooling system. Use one of the recommended cleaning compounds, where necessary, to remove rust scale. Check entire cooling system for leaks and replace deteriorated hoses and faulty gaskets. Tighten cylinder head bolts and hose clamps and be sure that the fan belt tension is correct; replace worn or frayed and heater operation and you're set to install a good all-winter anti-freeze.

Check engine for faulty rings and valves and possible loss of compression.

Check transmission and differential, changing to lighter oils and greases if necessary.

Grease chassis and check tire pressure.

To maintain your car during winter months, cars should be washed more frequently during winter weather to protect the finish and chrome from rust. Chrome parts can be given a coating of clear lacquer.

If your car has conventional gear shifting, you can save your battery and get the engine started much easier in cold weather by holding down the clutch pedal when pushing the starter button. This disengages the clutch and the crankshaft isn't retarded by the cold transmission oil and the gears. Be sure not to turn on the lights or other electrical equipment until after starting the engine. This avoids extra drain on your battery while the starter is operating.

Winter drivers should carry a bag or two of sand in the trunk of the car. A bag of sand is a simple way of safeguarding against getting stuck due to ice, and is worth its weight in gold when you need it. Most women drivers can handle one of the 20-pound bags of sand which, sprinkled on the ice or snow, gives the rear wheels the necessary traction.

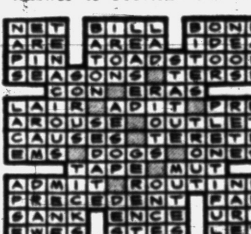

Snow tires or chains are valuable aids of drivers on rural roads, and a shovels is a handy tool to clear a path through large snow drifts.

When suddenly encountering deep snow or mud it is usually a good idea to shift into low gear. If you get stuck in a car with an automatic transmission, the selector lever should be moved back and forth between the LO (low gear) and the R (reverse) positions. Keeping a light, steady pressure on the accelerator, allow the car to rock its way out of the snow or mud.

If you'll go over the checklist with your mechanic and keep those other suggestions in mind, we predict much pleasanter winter driving for you.

Montreal, one of the great ports of the world, is 795 miles from the open waters of the Atlantic.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

Saying "Pleased to meet you" is not the right way to acknowledge an introduction. "How do you do" is the right thing to say. But while you're saying "How do you do," it's always good to look as though you're thinking "Pleased to meet you."

No one likes to hear the honk of a wild goose when he's driving a car.

Put Shine in Life

Every year, thousands of girls discover all over again something their mothers could have told them all the time—that the best formula for beauty is soap and sleep! The sleep puts a shine in their eyes, the soap puts a shine in their hair and a glow on their faces.

Skirts Will Keep Same Length

So Hosiery Must Be Chosen With Extreme Care

No matter what Dior, Givenchy, Fath, and other French couturiers may try to do with our feminine figures during the coming months, they seem to be pretty well agreed that they're going to leave our legs alone. Skirt lengths remain normal—and by normal we mean comfortable and attractive.

Your nether extremities will show in all their shapely beauty beneath slim, straight skirts or wide, flaring skirts, but the important thing is—they'll show!

That means we women will pay lots of attention to choosing our hosiery. Our sheer, sheer nylons take on a new importance, first, because they are such adjuncts to our new fall ensembles; second, because our legs are showing, and they simply must look well.

Shoes are more beautiful than ever, better cut, more revealing, but even the loveliest pair of shoes ever fashioned would lose their appeal if they were not enhanced by the exactly-right nylon in both weight and color.

Texture is the new interest in materials — colorful, lightweight tweeds, smooth-as-velvet fleeces, broadcloths, velours, duvetynes. With these soft, flattering materials in their exciting colors—all the beiges, greys, blue-reds, scarlets, turquoises, purples, and greens—it is more important than ever to really study the hosiery colors that will complement your costume.

One manufacturer of nylon hosiery has developed eight exactly-right colors, or, as they put it, "color mirages." Nothing detracts more from a costume than the wrong hosiery shade. The right "mirage" for every one of the new colors and fabrics has been created from the pale brocades that will take the evening spotlight, to the deep, spicy tones for the new, important tweeds.

The colors are light, tint, beige, misty, smooth, spicy, pretty, and taupe, and each is keyed for certain colors. The first, light, is a clear, honey beige, created for a contrasting look with black or navy or perfect with barest sandals for evening wear.

If your taste runs to beiges, select tint, beige, pretty, smooth, or spicy. These shades are also perfect with the clear blue-reds and mauve and purple tones, medium blues, greens, and are good for contrast with black and charcoal.

Taupe is an important color this year, and taupe is a perfect hosiery shade in your sheer, sheer nylons. It is a delicate mauve-grey, and lovely as well with grape shades, blues, and greys.

Both smooth and spicy are particularly high fashion. Smooth is a subtle brown-toned beige, and gives a deeper "mirage" of color on your legs. Spicy is a gingery beige, particularly stunning with the new tweeds, and very chic with the dark charcoal greys and blacks.

There's a special shape and size plastic container made for practically anything you want to put away. And you'll be able to wash these plastics with soap and water year after year after year.

MSC Echos Praise of New Season

News of Parking Issue Sparks Talk on College Campus

By ELVIRA BISOGNI

Fall has arrived on the Michigan State College campus and Fall at MSC means new students, dances, parties, football games, Bermuda shorts and knee socks and a lot of hard study.

The Freshman Orientation Week ended with an All-College Orientation dance in the auditorium last Saturday. Classes began Monday.

A Pep Rally for the first home football game of the season which was played this afternoon was held Friday night at the Band Shell. A Pep Rally Dance sponsored by the student government was held later.

This year will mark the first time since the fall, 1944 football season that coeds have led cheers at MSC. The Michigan State Athletic Council recently approved their return after a group of interested students had drawn up a petition.

George Szypula, assistant professor of physical education and cheerleading coach said that about 60 coeds — three times the number of men who turned out — answered the call for cheering tryouts.

Spartans have been greeted with a new set of driving rules which allow students to have cars on campus. Special care and caution have taken place by assigning a certain amount of restrictions on the students.

Metered parking began on campus this week. There were 212 units installed on West Circle Drive.

The metered parking restrictions would not be in effect on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, except for special events like home football games.

Lt. A. S. Ellis of the campus police said that the principal object of the parking meters is to keep parking places near the heart of the campus clear for faculty members, visitors and others who have business with the college.

Fraternity rushing at MSC began Tuesday night with a smoker for the prospective rushees in the Union Building.

Play Detective With Silverware

A new idea is to make like you're playing detective in your own house when you handle silverware. Wear a clean pair of cotton gloves and use them to give each piece of silver a final buffing or polishing as you set the table.

This will keep it gleaming and free of fingerprints all the time. Wash the gloves as promptly as possible after use because the smudge marks you wipe off the silver wear a habit of staining the cotton.

This wear-clean-gloves-when-you-set-the-table routine is a good gimmick to interest the children in helping you at mealtime.

Pleats Can Be Simple to Make

There's an easy way to make draperies with box or French pleats. A new washable-pleating tape, which can be sewn flat to any drapery fabric, is "slotted" at suitable intervals.

The pleats are formed when special pins are inserted into these slots according to directions. A lock is then slipped into place over each pin to hold the pleats as firmly as though they were stitched.

When it's time to launder the draperies, the pins can be unlocked and removed, and the pleats can be flattened for easy sudsing and ironing.

Keep Jars Sweet

AF to Probe Wreckage of Plane Lost 11 Years

LOS ANGELES P—Air Force identification experts plan to probe the wreckage of a B24 missing with 12 men for more than 11 years.

Two couples hunting Indian relics discovered the plane wreckage and scattered human bones on San Miguel Island, 55 miles west of Santa Barbara. The Air Force said yesterday it is undoubtedly the Liberator bomber which disappeared after leaving Salinas Air Force Base July 5, 1943.

Two officers from the Air Materiel Command at Dayton, O., have been dispatched to identify and return the remains.

French Ask Chief of Defense to Resign

PARIS (U) — The French government today suspended Jean Mot, permanent secretary general of national defense, following charges that two of his aides leaked high-level secret information.

Mot, the top civilian in the Defense Department, was asked to resign provisionally while investigations continue into alleged leaks from National Defense Council meetings. Some of the information reportedly reached Communist party officials.

Police said yesterday Rene Turpin, chief of Mot's personal staff, and Roger Labrousse, chief administrator in his department, have confessed passing secret information. The police did not say to whom the secrets were given. Turpin and Labrousse were arrested.

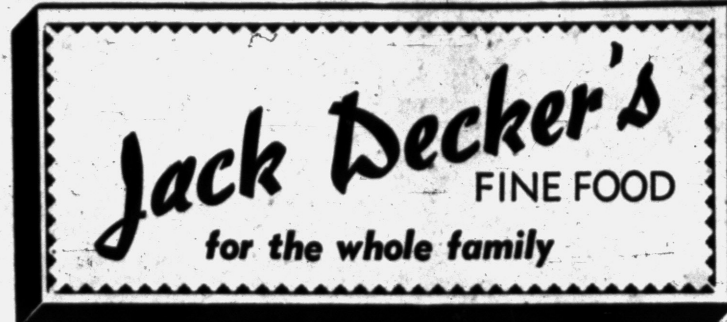

The birthplace of former President Herbert Hoover in West Branch, Iowa, is being preserved as a memorial.

NOTICE!

In reply to Mr. Samuel's notices in the Pontiac Press, we feel we should answer those statements which we believe to be untrue.

First of all—we would like to say the place to discuss the issues in any Labor-Management dispute is around the Conference table for in the ultimate and that is where most settlements take place.

Mr. Samuel states there is no strike. Technically we agree with him because the Union men employed there were LOCKED OUT.

He states there is no Labor or Wage dispute. Certainly by his own statements he admits that a Labor and Wage dispute existed. Maybe he contends there is none now, being that he broke off negotiations.

He may call the Picket Line whatever he desires—Job Promoters, Nuisance Line, or what have you. We in that line know we are there for a just Labor Objective, expressing Freedom of Speech by use of Picket Signs, and asking for no more than conditions that previously existed.

He states he has not attempted to "eliminate Union workers." On Sept. 7th he broke off negotiations, changed the locks on the Projection Booth doors, and in the presence of our Business Agent and Vice-President gave the men permission to enter the Booth, in his presence, to pick up their tools and turn in their keys.

He states, "Feather-Bedding" is the only issue in the Drive-In dispute. In the year 1950 the Pontiac Drive-In, Inc., a corporation, opened the Drive-In Theatre with three men. Two were Projectionists and the other a Maintenance man who repaired all speakers, junction boxes, underground wiring going to the speakers, maintaining lights throughout the Drive-In and lettering the attraction board.

In 1953 relief was requested of the third man, namely the Maintenance man. Mr. Samuel stated he could handle that work himself, that the third man was a financial loss to the Corporation. We took the stand then and we do now, that the speakers, junction boxes, and service lines to them are an intricate part of the equipment in the projection booth. It is important that the Projectionist is familiar with the complete system. Any break or damaged part at either end greatly affects the whole system. The Maintenance man was dropped and the two Projectionists took on the extra work, greatly increasing their productivity to the Corporation and at no extra cost. In fact, the approximate savings to the Pontiac Drive-In Theatre Corp. was in the amount of $1018.64 for the season.

On August 9th of this year the Corporation wanted the Local to take off another man. This change in the Contract was not accepted by Local 620. Mr. Samuel LOCKED OUT our men on Sept. 7th. The statement about "Feather-Bedding" is unjust and without any foundation.

The two Projectionists and the amount of work covered by them has become the accepted standard in this area, with one exception. One Drive-In in our area, comparable in size to the Pontiac Drive-In, requested the Maintenance Man to be on the field at all times and TWO Projectionists on duty in the Projection Booth. It is correct that there is only one man employed in the Projection Booth in the Inside Theatres in Pontiac. However, in theatres having 1500 seats or more, two Projectionists are employed. And there is no comparison of that with the amount of work and service that is done in a Drive-In.

So when it is conveyed to the Public that Pontiac Drive-In Theatre, Inc., does not have a Contract with us, that we are trying to force an extra man on them (Feather-Bedding term it), we consider such statements in bad faith and false. We could just as easily call the Corporation's action Union Busting. Both Labor and Management have responsibilities—when either party fails a step is being taken in the wrong direction.

Many changes are taking place in our industry—the medium of Third Dimension, Cinemascope, Cinemascope, Stereophonic Sound and many more yet to come, carries added responsibility on every Projectionist and every Manager. The quality of light, sound and projection will either spell success or failure. The show going people are the ones that really built our industry. They have the right to expect the best entertainment possible and presented in a showman like manner.

In the completion of his letter to "Voice of the People" Mr. Samuel finishes his statements by saying, "That is the whole story." We are confident that the show going public will write the Final Story.

We wish to Thank Union men and women everywhere who have respected us while picketing at the Pontiac Drive-In Theatre.

Reds Warn Quemoy Will Fall by Oct. 15

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Communist loudspeakers on the China coast are broadcasting warnings to Nationalist defenders of Quemoy that the offshore island base will be in Red hands by Oct. 15, an official spokesman said today.

"We never take their word seriously," said Lt. Gen. Chang Yi-ting, Nationalist Army spokesman. He told a news conference that immediately after the fighting around Quemoy began Sept. 3 the Communists boasted the island would be theirs by Sept. 11.

"I think that after Oct. 15 they will set another date," Chang added. Sporadic artillery fire was reported today between Nationalist batteries on Quemoy and Communist guns on Amoy, seven miles to the west, and on other mainland bases.

Chang said Nationalist warships and planes continued patrols along the China coast opposite Formosa.

Bird Wings Into Court, Judge Calls a Recess

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—District court proceedings were halted yesterday by a bird.

He ordered a recess until an S.P.C.A. officer trapped the bird with a net.

Two Old Plays Come to Life in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Notes and comments on the Hollywood scene:

What a week! A reporter had to keep hopping to stay up with the news in Hollywood. First came the Helen Hayes opening at the new million-dollar Huntington Hartford Theater. More stars than you could shake a flashlight at.

What a woman! Helen Hayes, I mean. She can take an old play like "What Every Woman Knows" and bring it to life. And isn't that testimony on the present poor state of playwrighting? Two queens of the theater are now playing locally in shows written by James M. Barrie, who died in 1937. Mary Martin is a hit here in "Peter Pan."

Betty Hutton, who never does things in a quiet way, dropped a bombshell by declaring she will retire after her Las Vegas stint Oct. 12. It's hard to imagine Betty ever giving up. Greasepaint has been a part of her throughout her life.

Everybody, myself included, views her retirement vow dubiously. But she's a contrary cuss and is liable to make liars of all of us.

Wednesday was Judy Garland day. Hollywood wrapped up the day, the year and an Oscar and handed them to Judy for the taking. If there's anything the town loves, it's the comeback story. That's why folks are waxing with almost maudlin sentimentality about Garland.

Fortunately, the picture comes through. It had to, considering the six million invested in it! Even those who consider the first "A Star Is Born" one of the greatest films ever made—and I do—will find little fault with the new version.

All the best scenes are still there—the husband's drunken rantings at the Academy awards, the fight with the press agent at Santa Anita, the suicide swim into the sun-set. Add to this some listenable tunes by Harold Arlen and Ira Gershwin, tasteful dance numbers and the razor-sharp talents of Judy Garland and you've got a winner.

The population of the world is increasing at a rate of about 1.4 per cent a year says the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization.

Policeman Nab Driver at His Own Front Door

RENO, Nev. (AP)—All Policeman Robert Guardia had to do to make his first arrest yesterday was open his own front door.

He put Jack Patterson, 36, under arrest on a drunk driving charge after Patterson banged his car into Guardia's auto parked at the curb.

A million tons of California grapes are used each year for wine and brandy.

Boy Acclaimed Hero of Crash

Hurt 12-Year-Old Claws Across Valley for Help After Plane Wreck

SALIDA, Colo. (UP) — Twelve-year-old Richard Nicholson today was acclaimed the hero of a plane crash which killed his father and seriously injured their companion. The boy, dazed and badly cut, fought through rocky, timbered land for four hours on Monarch Pass Thursday until he found a road and help.

Edgar Nicholson, 36, a Baytown pharmacist, died instantly of a crushed skull when his Cessna 160 slammed into a stand of heavy timber on the 11,300-foot pass. Joseph Grady Tuck Jr., 28, of Baytown suffered a broken leg and possibly a broken back.

Richard was severely cut and bruised. But he pulled his father, thinking him still alive, and Tuck from the wreck and tried to build a fire to keep them warm, then he set out across the pass to summon help, his tracks bloodied from his injuries.

The boy started off in the wrong direction. He struggled for two miles up and down the punishing, snow-covered terrain only to reach a deserted road. Doggedly he recrossed the pass and reached the main highway.

Motorist C. H. Carlton found him wandering on U.S. 50, sobbing that "Daddy won't talk to me," and took him to the Chaffee County Sheriff's Office here.

Nicholson was flying his son and Tuck to Grand Junction, Colo., on the western slope of the Rockies for a hunting expedition.

Salida authorities organized a search party when the Nicholson boy was brought into town, and soon found the wreck. Tuck and Nicholson's body were carried to the highway and an ambulance.

Under Sheriff Harold Thonoff said of the Nicholson boy: "You have to get that valley to appreciate what a plucky boy he is. It's nothing but rocks and thick timber and he's small for his age."

The boy and Tuck were both in a state of shock and under heavy sedation at Rio Grande Hospital here.

Richard still does not know his father is dead.

School Subjects May Be Taught Via Card Game

DETROIT (UP) — An education-minded Austrian-born surgeon hopes to teach children the fundamentals of French, Greek, Latin, chemistry and music by the simple process of having them play rummy with marked cards.

Dr. Henry Turkel's proposed venture into the field of arts-a venture he hopes to enter within the next 12 months — is based on the large success of his word-rummy game which teaches children spelling as well as the Morse code.

The 23-card deck contains four complete alphabets and the object of the game is to meld out with words as in rummy.

Dr. Turkel concocted the game for his daughter, whom he described as being better versed in card games than in spelling.

The Toledo Board of Education said that the game gave children "excellent practice in spelling and vocabulary building."

Dr. Turkel, who is noted for his invention of medical instruments, said his musical deck is designed to teach children note recognition and enable them to learn sight-reading.

The chemistry students will meld chemical formulas with the symbols on each card.

Police Guarding Wolfson Against Possible Kidnap

NEW YORK (UP)—Louis E. Wolfson, 42-year-old head of a financial empire, has a 24-hour police guard to protect him against possible kidnaping.

Wolfson, son of an immigrant junk dealer, made his first million by the age of 30 and since then has gained control of corporations reportedly worth 200 million dollars. He is now fighting for control of Montgomery Ward & Co.

The guard was posted at Wolfson's Hotel Pierre suite yesterday. Police said they received the kidnap warning from police in Miami, Fla., where Wolfson has a home.

Authorities gave no further details on the kidnap threat.

Man Doesn't Know a Note but Collects 30,000 Discs

NEW ALBANY, Ind. (UP)—A local businessman who "doesn't know one note from another" has compiled one of the best private phonograph record collections in the Midwest.

C. Urban Zoeller began his collection in the 1920s with a few records and a hand-wound phonograph bought for his children because they had "nothing to do."

The collection grew until a few months ago he had more than 30,000 records, mostly classics. He recently gave 15,000 to the music department of St. Meinrad, Catholic Seminary, St. Meinrad, Ind.

Zoeller is literally surrounded by shelf after shelf of record albums. They are on shelves in an entrance hallway, in the living room and around the four walls of a special listening den.

The albums all are bound in gold-stamped leather covers which he has especially made in Cincinnati.

He originally began buying two copies of each record or album because in the pre-automatic changer days he didn't like turning over records in mid-symphony.

He still buys two of each issue out of habit. He bought two high fidelity players because "one might break down, you know."

and still has many records he hasn't heard played once. Zoeller estimated that he could listen eight hours a day for five years on end and never hear the same record twice.

About 70 per cent of his collection are long-playing, and many of them are collectors' items long out of stock at most dealers.

"I guess I just love music," he said, trying to explain his fascination "over records. 'Don't know one note from another, but I like it.'"

Often when an avocation or hobby is carried to the extent of Zoeller's, business suffers. Not so the River Coal and Sand Co., which Zoeller manages.

He often brings bookkeeping home in the evening and does it to the strains of Bach and Haydn. He estimates he spends an average of 30 hours a week listening

Railroad Grave Offers Mystery

Little Is Known About Conductor Buried by Tracks in 1859

NORTH PRAIRIE, Wis. (UP) — He was a conductor for the old Milwaukee & Mississippi Railroad. He died 95 years ago. He's buried under a fancy monument along the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific tracks near here.

And that is about all that is known about George E. Price. Much more is known about another old railroader named Casey Jones.

A member of the state historical society is one of many who have tried to find out more about Price and the story of how he came to be buried along the Milwaukee's right-of-way. But Price remains a mystery.

His weather-dimmed 10-foot monument bears a bas-relief of a railroad car and this inscription:

George E. Price
Died at Milton
March 23, A. D. 1859
Aged 31 yrs. & 3 mos.
Late Conductor on M. & M. R. R.

A search of railroad's employment records before it became the Milwaukee road has failed to turn up anything about Price.

An investigation by the Waukesha County Historical Society has also failed to shed light on this railroader who is laid to rest within the confines of a picket-fenced private cemetery.

A station agent, Truman Wilson, has heard several versions of the death of Price. One is that he was fatally injured in a train wreck on the spot where he is buried.

Frank Kipp, an oldtimer, said he remembers hearing his parents say that Price was killed in an accident near Whitewater, Wis.

Another story is that just before he made his last run, Price signed his train sheet and asked to be buried along the right of way.

Only one thing is sure — Price was a railroader until the end.

Fruit of the cherimoya tree has a white, smooth pulp which tastes somewhat like a mixture of pineapple and banana.

TRoubles—This Rhode Island Red rooster is a strange sight with a protruding lower beak and a distorted upper beak. Because he can't pick food off the ground, he is fed from a deep container at his Rutherfordton, N.C., barnyard.

Blarney Stone Chip Is Used to Form Altar

RINDGE, N. H. (UP)—A piece of Ireland's famed Blarney Stone is among stones from many nations that form the altar at the Cathedral of the Pines here. The Cathedral, an open air sanctuary amid pines on a New Hampshire hillside, is a memorial to all soldiers who died in World War II. Douglas Sloan, who founded the nonsectarian cathedral after the death of his Air Force son, Lt. Sanderson Sloan, received the Blarney Stone fragment from J. W. Chapman of Lynn, Mass.

It had been in the Chapman family for 100 years. In the 1850's a boy from Ireland crossing the Atlantic fell overboard and was rescued by one of Chapman's ancestors. In gratitude the lad gave his rescuer his most prized possession, the piece chipped from the Blarney Stone.

The Blarney Stone is now guarded so that souvenir seekers can no longer take any of it.

Hopes Honest Ad Pays

WINSTED, Conn. (UP) — A real estate advertiser hopes it pays to advertise—the truth, that is. He inserted an ad in the local paper that stated the house he put up for sale was "dilapidated," needed roof shingles, ground grooming, and the retaining walls were "crumbling."

BLOOMFIELD VILLAGE—This three-bedroom brick with two bath is in a group of 150 homes being built by Kopman and Hassin in Judson Bradway's Bloomfield Village No. 5. Location is at the corner of West Maple and Cranbrook, extending south to the new Birmingham High School. Benjamin and Stephens Inc., are realtors.

BESIDE A WATERFALL—In Forestbrook Hills, at the southwest corner of Twelve Mile and Inkster Roads, the George A. Duke Contracting Co. is building distinctive homes such as this Colonial ranch-type with authentic eastern touches. Each house features its own little waterfall in the brook winding back of the homes.

VILLA IN A VALLEY — San Marino Villa is the name of this subdivision where the Malpell Construction Company is building 123 houses. Location is the southeast corner of Inkster and Twelve Mile Roads, Southfield Township. Feature of this three-bedroom, two-bath ranch is the farm kitchen with built-in Thermador range, oven and automatic dishwasher. Floor is of slate and the house has two fireplaces.

IN QUIET FRANKLIN — This Colonial ranch-type home has the sprawling features of a ranch and the charm of a Colonial home. It is the Shirley Farms Exhibit Home in Franklin, Southfield Township, and is located on Susanne Street near Franklin Hills

Drive. It has three lavatories and private bath; walnut-trimmed den with built-in bookcase and desk. Double French doors from the living room open on a terrace overlooking a picturesque ravine. Homes in this subdivision are being sold by Gordon Williamson Co.

CONTEMPORARY CROWNS A HILL — This two-level contemporary brick with cinnamon-frame trim is one of the many types of houses being built in the Shirley Farms Exhibit Home area in Franklin. All homes are distinctive, following the contemporary, with conventional additions. Being designed by Benecke and Lorenz, they are being constructed on one-acre lots in the subdivision at Fourteen Mile and Wing Lake Road. Home pictured is one occupied by the J. A. Cotter family.

City Folks Find Quietude in Oakland

By ABBIE KUCSERA

City dwellers and city builders, seeking the quietude of the countryside, are meeting today on a commonly happy hunting ground—that of scenic Oakland County.

Driving along pleasant country roads, one is continually surprised and pleased at finding new and beautiful subdivisions being developed. Many of them are tucked away in a green valley, some have sprung up beside the lakes, others are sheltered by tall trees and often one is found at the end of a winding lane.

However and wherever one looks, the new houses are so beautiful and so complete in modern comfort that they are a delight to both builder and buyer.

One of these, Forestbrook Hills, set back in a 120-acre wooded area at Twelve Mile and Inkster roads in Farmington Township, is all that the name implies. It has the trees, the brook and the hills.

There, under the name of the George A. Duke Contracting Co., three brothers, George A. Jr., Bruce E. and Thomas A. Duke are developing the subdivision. The homes, all beautiful and all different, are being designed by one man, Frederick Reiss.

Each house has all the modern conveniences and many added features such as terraces, outdoor fireplace and Dutch doors. Every house with the brook behind it will have its own dam, so that each family may have a private waterfall.

The subdivision has been laid out so that beautiful Pebblebrook valley runs behind most of the homes. Every house will have from two and a half to four baths; two or three bedrooms; library, and two-car garage. No garages will face into the street.

No separate lots are being sold in Forestbrook Hills, as the builders are utilizing every plot for building. Houses are $35,000 and up.

A second new subdivision, being developed by the Malpell Construction Co., is located at the southeast corner of Inkster and Twelve Mile Roads.

Model-and-office, situated at 28380 Inkster Road, is a three-bedroom ranch type of grey beige brick.

The subdivision, called San Marino Villa, will consist of 123 homes. Features include a large farm kitchen with fireplace, built-in Thermador range and oven, and electric dishwasher.

The model has a fireplace in the living room and features double front doors of burgundy shade. Windows are all Thermopane, eliminating the need of storm windows.

The houses are radiant-heated, have attic fans, two-tile baths with colored fixtures and two-car garages.

Benecke and Lorenz, Architects, have designed a group of beautiful homes being built in Franklin, off Fourteen Mile and Wing Lake Road.

Their model at present is the Shirley Farms Exhibit Home, located on Susanne Street and is a Colonial ranch-type.

All homes in the subdivision are of individual style, following contemporary lines but with conventional additions. Most of the homes, built on one-acre lots, overlook a picturesque ravine.

The houses, ranging from $35,000 to $50,000 in price, are being sold by Gordon Williamson Co. of Detroit.

In Judson Bradway's Bloomfield Village No. 5 being developed at the corner of West Maple and Cranbrook and extending to the new Birmingham High School, about 150 homes will be built.

Most of the homes will be three-bedroom, with two baths. They will be of varying design, including two-stories, Cape Cod and tri-level. Others will be three and four-bedroom ranch-types of varying exteriors.

The homes feature cement drives, gas heat and all paved streets. Children of the area will attend Bloomfield Village School up to the seventh grade and continue on at Birmingham High School.

Kopman and Hassin are builders and Benjamin and Stephens Inc. are realtors for the development.

Reducing Idea Curbs Big Bay

Adapt Window Bulge to the Modern Look With Home Surgery

Is your bay window showing? Is it standing between you and a home that has one of those "exciting concepts" the home magazines talk about?

The bay window was as popular in the early nineteen hundreds as the picture window is today. But somehow it doesn't suit the contemporary, or even near-contemporary, line of modern home design.

But if your bay window is troubling you, take heart. Here's an example of how not one, but two bay windows were adapted to the modern look in home exteriors.

This particular home was two stories, with the roof overhanging the edge of the top story by 40 inches. There was a bay window at the side and another one in front jutting out on the front porch. The porch also had a roof with an overhang matching the one at the top of the house.

Here's the way a little "home surgery" worked miracles with this house. The front porch was eliminated entirely although the roof was left in place and extended around the side and over the bay window, so that it tied both the front and side bays together.

A small porch with railing was added at the side of the house, and the living room opened on to the porch through attractive French doors.

The parallel lines of the railing were extended around the front of the house with three courses of clapboard siding joined by horizontal batten strips. They looked like a continuation of the side railing. They also tended to minimize the protruding effect of the front bay window.

The height of the house was minimized by running the entrance step sideways and adding a trim railing which increased the value of the horizontal lines.

Above the porch roof the side walls were refinished with colorful insulating siding panels in the gray shake shingle pattern.

Of course there were numerous little improvements . . . a new front door, a light post in front, recessed lights under the porch roof, new shrubbery.

They all added up to an appearance of smart individuality and proved that a reducing treatment on bay windows will definitely work.

'Walbri,' Old Briggs Estate to Become Protected Site for Residential Colony

By HAZEL TRUMBLE

With the passing of the era of huge country estates maintained for one family, Snyder, Kinney & Bennett, Inc., of Birmingham, have found an answer to this land problem in the development of "Walbri," former 108-acre estate of the late Walter O. Briggs.

Located off East Long Lake road in Bloomfield Hills and Bloomfield

Township, the estate will become the site of an extensive residential colony protected by the formation of an association known as Woodcrest Lakes.

As announced this week, the realty firm said that only persons elected to membership in the Woodcrest Lakes Residential Assn., Inc., will be permitted to acquire one of the 40 homesites planned for the estate.

Acquisition of a lot, they said, will give each member a proportional ownership of the estate's huge tennis courts, year-round Italian tiled swimming pool and bath house, and other recreational facilities available including formal gardens and extensive greenhouses.

On a high ledge overlooking the acres of rolling hills, heavily wooded slopes and two naturally fed lakes, is the English Tudor styled summer home of the Walter O. Briggs which can be used for a clubhouse for the colony.

The 40 charter members will make the decision whether this home and its adjacent structures will be kept by the group.

Building restrictions set up by the association concern the size of the house to be built and its placement, plus the character and type of building. Blueprints must be approved by an association-named architectural committee before a house is constructed.

Preferred, said the realty firm, is the traditional type of architecture, either one floor or multi-level.

The late Mr. Briggs developed this estate at an estimated cost of several million dollars. Rare tree and shrub plantings have matured which were imported from various parts of the globe.

Other restrictions to guarantee the future of this estate, said Snyder, Kinney & Bennett, state that in the event a landholder decides to sell his property, the sale can be made only to an elected member. The association reserves the option of repurchasing the land at any time it is offered for sale.

Be Fussy When Choosing Your New Heating Plant

Be fussy about your purchase of a heating system, recommends the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association, in a recent release to home owners. The Association advises that the home owner should specify to his heating dealer exactly what he wants in the way of heating results, when he buys his heat plant, because in the final analysis it is the amount of indoor comfort at economical operating cost which the system will produce that will determine its value to the home owner.

Too many people make the mistake of analyzing their purchase of a heating system in terms of buying the heating unit itself. They are inclined to shop for heating units in the same fashion they might use to shop for TV sets or window coolers.

People don't realize that good heating results are dependent on much more than the unit itself. The distribution system, by means of which the heat from the unit is distributed to every room in the house, plays a most important part in the final comfort results that are produced.

The comfort which the home owner will receive will directly depend on the distribution system that has been designed to meet the heat needs of each room in the house. The best heating unit available can give only mediocre heating results if it is connected with a distribution system that has not been properly designed.

Standards of correct design and installation procedure for every type of popular warm air heating system have been developed by the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association.

They are the result of more than 35 years of continuous research in comfort heating sponsored by the Association at the University of Illinois. The Association states that since these standards were established it has yet to learn of one system that has been installed in accordance with them that failed to produce satisfactory comfort results for the user or home owner.

Lumber Men to Star Model Home of 1955

Other features for home owners and prospective home buyers will be exhibits of the latest building products including how-to-do-it features arranged by materials manufacturers, step-by-step construction of panel homes which can be put under roof in one day, and 24 table settings showing the latest fashions in tableware.

For several thousand retail lumber dealers visiting the Exposition from all parts of the country, there will be workshops on mechanical handling of building materials, retail store merchandising, and home construction, plus three marketing forums dealing with construction, merchandising, and finance.

HOME MADE—Jim Gillett, 60, an Eaton Rapids contractor prepares to launch his 24-foot sloop which he built in his barn basement over a 14 years span.

The contractor turned sailor says he's headed for a "long vacation," cruising the sunny waters off Florida, the Bahamas and Cuba.

Two-in-One Dutch Door Gains Favor

Being both open and shut at the same time is the function of a Dutch door, the kind of door with top and bottom sections that swing independently of each other. An old favorite, Dutch doors are coming back into popularity for use in modern homes.

Ponderosa pine Dutch doors have many practical uses. On a child's room, the bottom section serves as a gate and the open top lets the mother hear any sounds of trouble.

With a serving ledge fixed on top of the bottom section, a Dutch door works well between a kitchen and a dining area.

As an outside door, it gives plenty of ventilation without opening the bottom section. Children or pets cannot make a dash for the outside when deliveries are received through the open top.

The Dutch door, besides being functional, has long been considered an attractive door, expressing a warm welcome.

Dutch doors are available in a variety of designs and sizes to suit any style of house. The ponderosa pine wood can be painted to match, or harmonize with, any present color scheme.

There are about as many miles of elevator shafts as there are subway tracks in New York City.

50 Year Dream Realized in Boat

Takes 14 Years to Build Dreamboat to Take Him
on Perpetual Vacation

EATON RAPIDS (P)—Long before "do it yourself" became a household phrase, Jim Gillett began work on a 50-year ambition. Now, 14 years later, he's the proud owner of a 24-foot sloop named the Pippi-Quaw.

Gillett, 60 last May, is a building contractor who says sailing the vessel may become his life's work.

"Sort of a long vacation," he adds.

He built the craft in the basement of his barn over the 14-year span, plus an additional three months work this year while the boat was on its cradle in his back yard.

The Pippi-Quaw (Indian for little hawk) was launched Sept. 9 at Holland.

Gillett didn't let the dignity of his 60 years interfere with enthusiasm and excitement as little vessel entered the water for the first time.

"It's a proud little boat, isn't it?" he exclaimed to visitors as the vessel rode at its moorings.

Since the launching, Gillett has been busy outfitting the Pippi-Quaw with mast, sails and rigging as he nears his goal of being a seafaring man with his own ship. A 16-horsepower auxiliary engine already is in place and he's satisfied that a fiberglass hull coat has provided good waterproofing.

The builder-captain expects to spend the next few weeks sailing around Lake Michigan, getting acquainted with the feel of his craft. Nov. 1 is something of a target date.

He plans to shove off then from Chicago for a cruise to the Gulf of Mexico and a winter, in the sunny climate.

Gillett's destination is purposeful but carefully vague.

"Florida, the Bahamas, Cuba—anywhere the fish are biting is where you'll find me and my dog, Buddy," he says.

All-Electric 'Capri' Home Awaits Public Inspection

An all-electric new "Capri" is ready for public inspection this week at 3375 W. Walton Blvd. in Waterford Township.

Shown for the first time by Paul Kern, Realtor, this modern home is becoming a family favorite from coast to coast with its one-story, long and low sweeping lines and flexibility of living plan.

A three-bedroom design, all of these rooms have double clothes closets and the master bedroom features a built-in alcove vanity. The bathroom boasts another built-in of this type.

The living room has an "island" fireplace serving both the living room and dining areas and is done in a warm colored brick. Walls are finished in Wedgewood, a new type of paneling having a driftwood finish.

Completely furnished in contemporary styled furniture, the purchaser of these homes can buy the house in a complete package unit if he chooses.

The Detroit Edison has installed interesting valance lighting and all other facilities are electrically controlled.

A connected garage and storage area gives this spacious pre-fabricated home plan the ultimate in comfort.

Kern announces that he will build several others of this model type in the Indian Pointe addition of Loon Lake Shores. Part of his development includes a heavily wooded point reaching out into Loon Lake.

Glass Replaces Canvas in New Painting Idea

Even if you can't draw a straight line, you can produce some striking portraits, pictures and designs by using window glass as your "canvas."

Simply place a portrait photograph, picture or design you admire on a flat surface and cover it with a sheet of window glass. Then, selecting the colors you want, paint the picture or design right on the glass.

When you have finished, you may spray the painting with artist's plastic to keep it from rubbing off and back the glass with a strip of cloth or paper of complementary tone. For instance, if you paint a Chinese-red swan, you may wish to back it with black cloth.

In recent years there has been vast expansion in the growth of strawberries for home use, according to the American Association of Nurserymen, probably due largely to widespread adoption of the deep-freeze, by means of which the flavor, and fruit can be easily preserved for winter consumption.

A new version of the famous "Trade Secrets" house—an idea which began with the home building industry seeking a model design to produce the most house for the money. In this plan the architects said their objective was to develop a design which did not depend on mass production for its economy. Features include a flexible study, which is convertible into a third bedroom.

The house is planned for construction without a basement. The heater room is behind the living room fireplace and chimney. Room arrangement insures against cross traffic, with all parts of the house within easy access from front door. This is plan H-333-P by the Homograft Co., 11711 East Eight Mile Rd., East Detroit, Mich. The house covers 1,486 square feet without carport. (Further information and blueprints available from architects).

Cut Laminated Plastic Using Cross Cut Saw

Laminated plastic sheets can be cut smoothly and quickly with a fine-toothed cross-cut saw.

Clamp strips of wood on both sides of the plastic sheet along the cutting line. Set the sheet on a firm cutting base, decorative side up.

Use a sharp cross-cut saw and hold it at a low angle to minimize chipping. Cut on the down stroke only.

For sawing curves, use a key-hole saw.

If the edge of the laminated plastic is to be exposed, it should be filed and sanded carefully. File on the down stroke only.

The llama has a mean and ugly disposition. When angry or attacked, it spits saliva into its enemy's face.

Flow Control Valve Saves Precious Water

Shaveless days and the limitation restaurants impose of one glass of water per patron per meal undoubtedly are of value in impressing the public with the need for conservation where the water supply is scarce.

Unfortunately, however, such measures are of little effect in getting at the root of the problem which is, quite simply stated, the saving of water.

The best way to accomplish this, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau points out, is with the installation of a flow control valve right where most water is wasted—at the faucet outlet. A number of different manufacturers produce such valves, which are supplied and installed by qualified plumbing contractors.

DUCK DECOYS

These decoys are made by sawing out pieces traced from a pattern. Then the pieces are glued up with waterproof glue and the solid piece is shaped and smoothed with a rasp. The next and last step is to follow the painting directions on the pattern to produce a realistic effect that will not only fool other ducks but other hunters. The heads may be turned in different ways for naturalness. As a caution to you hunters we suggest that you make a few extras for wives who want to use them for lamp bases and other decorative purposes. The pattern for making these decoys is No. 404 which is 25c per copy. This number is included in the Sportsman's Packet for five full size patterns for $1 postpaid. Write "Workshop," The Pontiac Press.

Home Handyman Can Hook Up Garage Lights

Most home handy men can hook up extra lights in a garage or basement work area if an electric circuit has already been installed close by.

You won't want 110 volts "tingling" up your arm, so turn off the electricity first. Then install a new fixture box, and run a cable from the closest light fixture to the new box.

Buying a Farm? Now's the Time

Before Your Purchase Consider Well These Important Points

The squeeze on profits resulting from lower market prices and higher production costs on farm produce has resulted in a gradual decline in the price of farm land.

The beginner farmer now has an opportunity to buy good farm land at a reasonable price for the first time since the beginning of World War II.

Here are some points that should be considered in deciding whether to buy:

Here's the basic and most obvious point. Yet a surprising number of farmers still judge soil fertility by appearance. The only real measure is analysis by a recognized laboratory, of both top and subsoil. Then you'll have exact information on what's required to raise fertility to a profitable level.

Farm size—The increased use of power machinery for farm work saves on labor but it raises capital investment. On a small farm, the cost of using machinery may reduce profits to almost nothing. Two hundred and forty acres seems to be the minimum size for a farm in the corn belt, with much larger acreage in the West and Southwest.

Farm buildings—Just because buildings are gleaming white and in good repair they don't necessarily lend themselves to modern farming methods. Look for buildings that can be easily adapted to labor saving electrical equipment and other power-driven devices.

Consider also how difficult the buildings will be to maintain. Buildings finished with a material like insulating siding, which requires no painting or staining, will give you more time for work that increases farm production.

Another important consideration in buying a farm is to break down the total price into separate items—land, buildings, fences, livestock if any. Then you'll have an acceptable basis for claiming depreciation costs on your future income tax returns.

It's obvious that buying a farm involves not one but many important decisions.

Metal Lath Used to Help Beautify, Strengthen Gate

Metal lath in diamond mesh adds beauty and strength to a fence gate.

An easy way to dress up almost any fence gate, and strengthen the frame at the same time, is to attach sheets of diamond mesh metal lath to either side of the gate.

When building a gate, the mesh can be sandwiched in between a double frame, which is then firmly nailed together.

Metal lath is used most of the time for plastering and so can be found at any building supply house or lumber yard. It is easy to cut with tinners' snips and can be fashioned into various designs to fit the needs of the home craftsman.

The diamond mesh type of this material, weighing 3.4 pounds per square yard, is recommended for a yard fence. You can get it either in an expanded copper alloy steel, dipped in protective paint, or galvanized. Either form can be painted to suit after flapping with a solvent.

Six Simple Rules Promise Happy Carpet Selection

There is a type and quality of carpet to meet every requirement and to suit every budget. To help you select the carpet you want here are some broad basic rules that will serve as a guide:

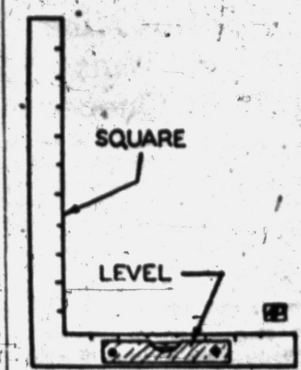

Deal with an established and reputable store. Having selected the store, rely on the advice of the dealer in making your choice. Carpets are his business and his professional knowledge is yours for the asking. Buy the best carpet that you can afford. In this connection, carpet longevity far exceeds that of many household furnishings and considered on the basis of years of use is an exceedingly economical household necessity.

As to type select that which best meets your needs, whether it is one of the new handcrafted textures, rugged tweeds, or one of the tightly twisted weaves that gives a smooth look. No weave is better than another and there are many variations in each of the basic carpet groups, whether axminster, velvet, wilton, chenille, or tufting. What matters is not the weave or construction but the amount of yarn used to make the carpet, a matter about which the dealer is fully informed. Just as type of weave does not reflect relative quality neither does the height of pile or nap. Either high or low pile can be of highest quality.

Arrange for a pad to go under your carpet. This gives it a double softness effect, prolongs the carpet's life and increases the insulation factor. (Carpets cut down chill at floor level and increase the warmth of rooms.) The pad also doubles the ability of the carpet to deaden floor as well as other noises.

Buried Century in Tree

HESPERIA, Mich. (U.P.) — A 52-inch circular saw screeching through a big beech log lost all its teeth when it had hit a woodsman's wedge imbedded deep in the log. Experts estimated the wedge had been there for 100 years, judging from the growth of the tree around it.

A nuthatch usually will build its nest in a dead stump or tree from two to 60 feet up, so that its young may eat the insects that flourish in this habitat.

The name "dogwood" for the beautiful ornamental tree or shrub once was used in England to wash so designated, originates from the many dogs.

The mineral asbestos is now, in such heavy demand for use in fireproof building materials and other products that the Quebec government has authorized a $30 million dollar mining project, involving the draining of a large lake, in order to recover the asbestos rock under the lake bed.

The program is expected to make available some 50 million tons of the unique mineral which produces fiber that looks like silk but will not burn. Operations will center around Black Lake, some 50 miles southwest of the City of Quebec.

Asbestos is used in making siding shingles, roofing shingles, corrugated sheets and building board—all highly regarded for their durability and strength as well as for their ability to resist fire. The fibers also go into textiles, brake linings, clutch facings, pipe and many other products.

Nitroglycerin will burn quietly if ignited in small quantities, but explodes if heated or jarred.

By STEVE ELLINGSON

If there's a little boy in your home and you want to find out if he's normal, we can help you. Give him our "Pattern Ranch Normalcy Test." Here's what you do:

1. Lean a ladder against the house and see if he won't climb it. If he does, he's normal.
2. Throw him a baseball and see if he can hit it. If he does there's no need to worry.
3. Send him on an errand. If he returns promptly, take his temperature.
4. Take him swimming and just see if he doesn't wade out over his head—even if he can't swim.
5. Promise to take him to a wild west show and then try to get out of it. If you are successful, there's something wrong with the boy.
6. Look in his pockets. If he has less than 25 articles in them, you might have cause to worry.
7. If he's good and often bad:

curious except when he's hungry, a general nuisance at church, theaters, school and at home, then he's normal.

8. You might let him "mirror his feelings" with a hammer and saw. If he goes right to work fixin' or makin' something, he has a good future.

Nothing in the world is quite as complicated as a little boy. Even our government with its thousands of branches is simple compared to him.

If you want to learn to know your boy real well, let him help you build the shoe shine box you see pictured here with young television actor Bobbie Muswick and his sister Christy. This is an interesting project for a youngster and gives him an incentive to keep his shoes shined.

Bobby even went further than that, after he shined his shoes, he shined his father's and mother's, for a fee, of course. On Saturdays he's worked up quite a little business. His base of operations is just outside of the local grocery store. Earned two dollars last Saturday.

Anyone can build the shoe shine box pictured here and it's handy for every member of the family. The only materials needed are a few scraps of wood. All you need do is trace the full size pattern on the wood, then saw it out and finally put it together. The pattern is designed for inexperienced amateurs.

To obtain the full size shoe shine box pattern No. 127, send 35c in coin to Steve Ellington, The Pontiac Press, Van Nuys, Calif.

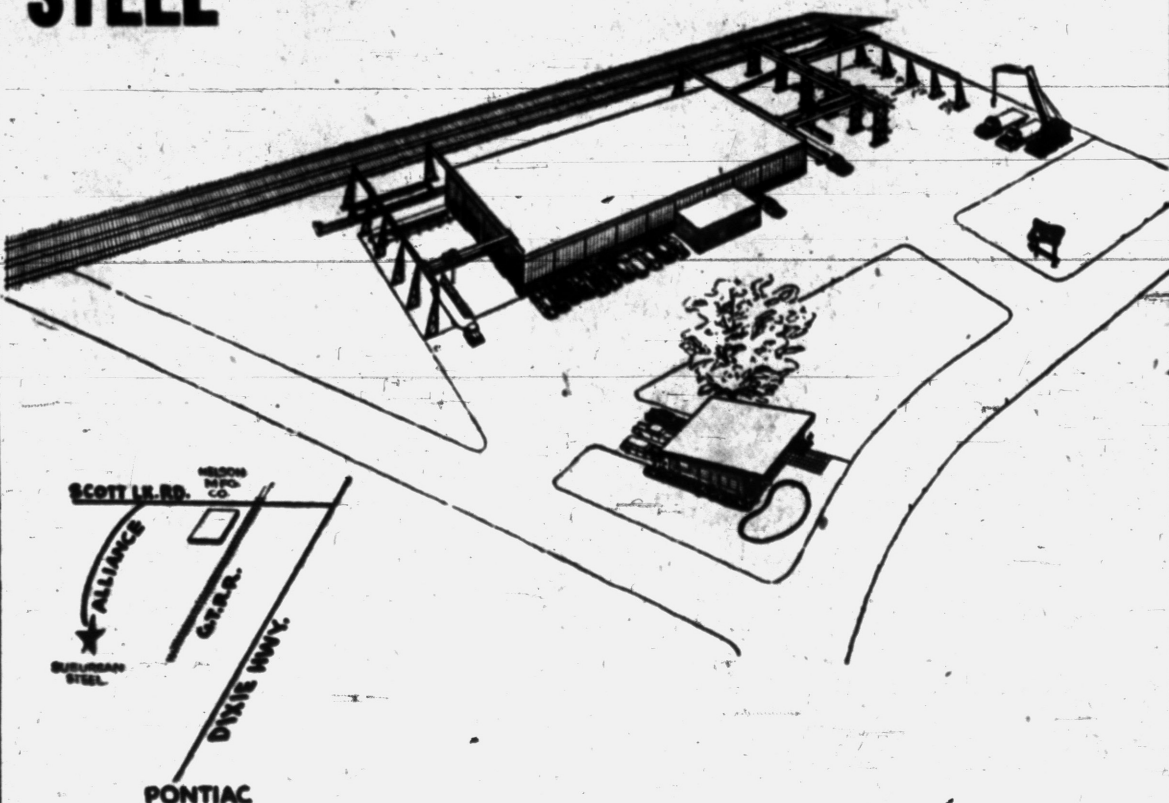

Great strides have been made in the nursery industry in breeding and selecting plants that will beautify any type of architecture, says the American Association of Nurserymen. Examples are lower-growing plants for the ranch type home; lobby and lower-floor plants for office buildings and stores, and plants especially selected for picture window views.

Asphalt Meets
5,000-Year Test

Used by Noah, Egypt,
for Swedes' Roofing,
We Improve It Today

Five thousand years is a long time to test a building material, but that's how long asphalt has been proving it can hold things together and keep water out.

The material that today gives its name and its waterproofing ability to the roofing that protects approximately eight of ten houses being built in the United States was used by the Sumerians in 3000 B. C. to cement ornaments to statues. Many of these ornaments are still intact.

Geological research also shows the use of asphalt in India in 3000 B. C. to cement brick walls. The Egyptians used it to preserve their mummies, many of which have come to light only recently, well preserved. The Babylonians used asphalt both as a cement and a waterproofing agent in their buildings, and Noah calked his Ark with it.

The first form of asphalt roofing was made in Sweden toward the end of the 18th century. By 1831, in Andrew Jackson's day, duck fabrics coated with cold asphalt were being used as roofing in the United States. Thirteen years later it was found preferable to melt the asphalt before coating the base fabric.

For half a century all sorts of combinations of materials were tested. Near the end of the 19th century, asphalt roofing began to be made of a tough felt base saturated with waterproofing asphalt.

Later, when asphalt roofing began to be made in shingle form, mineral granules — little bits of stone — were used as a surfacing material.

Research continues to produce new improvements. Today's shingles are attractive, weather-tight, fire-resistant, durable, and low in initial cost and maintenance.

A major development has been the manufacture of asphalt shingles in every color needed to meet the requirements of modern decorative concepts. In addition to traditional red, blue, green, and black shingles, there are now whites, silver-grays, icy greens, cool blues, warm russets, coral and many other solid and blended colors.

Research continues to produce new improvements. Today's shingles are attractive, weather-tight, fire-resistant, durable, and low in initial cost and maintenance.

One-third of our municipal improvement work is horticulture. Another third is architecture and the remaining third is common cleanliness and decency, says the American Association of Nurserymen.

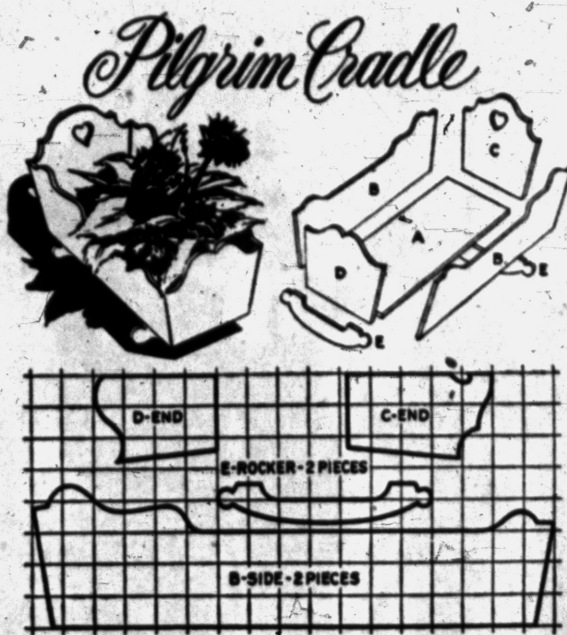

Texas, largest state in the Union, has 254 counties; Georgia ranks second in this respect with 150 counties.

Pilgrim Cradle Authentic
Early American in Design

Here is a pattern for plywood wool. You are then ready to apply wax, varnish, paint or stain.

Designed by author-designer Lurelle Guild from an original in his extensive collection of early American antiques on which he is one of the world's greatest authorities, the cradle is a good example of the work of early American craftsmen. It is one of six new "do-it-yourself" designs developed by Guild for construction. Fir plywood is recommended.

It is exciting to imagine the quaint old-fashioned names of the scores of pioneer children that may have been rocked to sleep in lonely Colonial farms in this charming piece of early handicraft.

A miniature can be used today as a wonderful toy just as similar miniatures were used in Colonial times. Or you can use it for mail, as a letter holder or, lined with metal, as a decorative and charming planter.

You can make the Pilgrim cradle from the illustration shown above with a small piece of half-inch plywood. Lumber dealers stock standard small-size panels of plywood and a piece as small as 18" by 23" will do the job. First cut the following parts:

1 pc. 6" by 15 1/2"; bottom; (A)
2 pcs. 4 1/2" by 16 1/2"; sides; (B)
1 pc. 4 1/2" by 5 1/2"; end; (C)
1 pc. 4" by 5 1/2"; end; (D)
2 pcs. 1 1/2" by 7"; rockers; (E)
After these have been cut, draw a grid on a piece of paper, spacing lines 1" apart. Then draw in the actual shape of the parts on the grid, using the pattern shown as an illustration. Only half of the end patterns are shown. Reverse the half pattern for a full-size pattern.

Then cut out the parts with jig or coping saw. File the bottoms of the sides and ends so they rest flat on the bottom boards when assembled at the slight angles shown in the sketch. Nail or screw and glue all parts together.

You can finish this by giving it a natural finish or painting a bright color. Decorative decals available at your dime store will dress up the sides or ends. Before finishing sand the whole piece with 0 sandpaper and then dampen with a wet rag. Let it stand for 12 hours and then sand it again with 00 sandpaper or rub down with fine steel.

Life's Challenge Should Be Met

No Housewife Should Let Housework Keep Her From World

It's the lazy woman who spends all day in housework! She's probably trying to avoid some of the more serious challenges of modern life by hiding out at home. There is no woman under the sun who has to work all day in routine household chores, what with modern conveniences and materials. Home economists contend that three or four hours at the most should be enough to wrap up ordinary chores.

Modern-minded women know this. More and more they are contributing their practical intelligence and distinctive perceptions to politics, the arts, community affairs, and meaningful neighborhood activities. Now often the newspapers carry stories of mothers—and grandmothers, too—who have returned to college for a degree in literature, medicine, or law!

Advances in home design have helped to make all this possible. Homes today are easy to care for—and fun, too. A few years ago the housewife had to spend one-half to a full hour doing the dinner dishes. Today automatic dishwashers and driers not only do the job in a jiffy, but they do it better too.

The kitchen was—and still is—the big work center. But the scrubbing and scouring of yesterday are no longer necessary. The extensive use of readily cleaned, stainproof materials such as durable tile make kitchen clean-up as easy and time-saving as taking precooked meals right out of the deep-freezer.

Yes, the fact is that women today are liberated for all time from mere drudgery. It's squarely up to them now to make the most of it!

Americans Build 6,200,000 Homes

What's the building industry like? In answer to that question, a builder's magazine gives these statistics: 6,200,000 houses and other dwelling units have been built in the last five years, providing homes for more than 21,000,000 persons. 120,000 firms are actively engaged in home-building work.

26,110 retail building material and lumber dealers sell about $20,000,000,000 worth of materials a year.

$6,600,000,000 is being spent annually for home repairs and improvements. 3,200,000 persons earn their living in the construction industry. $10,140 was the value of the typical new home (with FHA-insured mortgage) in 1953. The house had five rooms, 924 square feet of floor space.

Split-Level House Gains Popularity

The split-level home, a type built on a stagger plan combining two-story privacy with ranch house convenience, is increasing in popularity, American Builder says.

The magazine reports that in one development the first 73 of 74 homes sold were of the split-level type.

New GM Truck Agency to Be Largest in Midwest

Construction has begun on the new Wilson General Motors Truck Agency to be located at the corner of Cass Ave. and Dixie Highway in Pontiac.

When completed in early January, it is predicted that this new facility will be the largest and most completely equipped truck agency in this part of the country.

The 226 by 66 foot building will handle every type of commercial vehicle from the full-sized haulaway to the pick-up. A 50-foot lubrication pit has been designed to take care of one haulaway at a time or two normal-sized trucks.

Doors are to be placed on both sides of the building, facilitating efficient movement through the repair shop. This area has 16 service stalls, the lubrication pit plus a unit repair section, and a diesel injection repair room.

Washing Curtains Often Gives Them Longer Life

If curtains are neglected, they wear out before very long. Washing them every few weeks helps to save them. It takes the harmful soot and grit out of them just that much sooner.

Washing is easy with a good household washer. A quick swish through the foamy suds and a thorough rinsing—that's all there is to it. As for ironing, nothing can be as helpful and time-saving as a household ironer.

With these two modern appliances you can wash and iron your curtains more frequently than you have been in the habit of doing.

Owners of the Agency are Edward E. Wilson and C. E. Wilson, Jr. The manager is Fred Walker.

Architect Harry M. Denyes, Jr., A. I. A., Birmingham, stated that an interesting feature of this structure is the 26-foot building upon which it was necessary to place feet on the ground floor with a balcony section measuring 30 by 30 feet. This latter unit houses employees shower and locker rooms and a large lunch room which will double as a training center for personnel.

In the office section there will be a general office, sales office and two closing rooms.

Never Overload Automatic Washer
Overloading a household washer is as inadvisable as jamming things into a refrigerator until little or no unoccupied space remains. In neither case can the equipment perform at its best. Always keep in mind the capacity of the washer as stated in the instruction book.
It is also important to remember that washing is done best by having different size articles in each load. In other words, do not fill the washer with sheets but put in one or two at a time plus smaller articles. This ensures freer, better washing action.

Salesmen Irked by Conferences

Psychologists Discover Such Meetings Stir Up Antagonism

CHICAGO (UP)—A social science study of the emotional make-up of a salesman recently showed that sales conferences "fail miserably" to get at the root of his personality.

Weiss and Geller, a Chicago advertising firm, arranged interviews between salesmen and psychologists.

They analyzed the typical salesman as "a rugged individualist" the firm said.

The "depth interviews" showed the salesman is a persuasive person himself who likes to feel he is in power and that he is stronger than other personalities.

Sales meetings "trigger a chain reaction of confusion, bewilderment, anger, rebellion or total apathy and send the sales force back to work feeling they have been victimized by their bosses," according to conclusions made in the survey.

Because of the salesman's personality he is not willing to be persuaded by "rah-rah lectures or soft blandishments of management," the firm reported.

It concluded that meetings where management does all the talking and the salesmen the passive listening are bound to produce psychological rupture.

Edward H. Weiss, president of the company, suggested that the $420,000,000 spent annually by management on sales meetings could be more profitably used in "mutual exchanges" between sales and management.

He asked for "a concerted effort to let each salesman dramatize his own experience and techniques" in order to bridge the psychological gap.

He said the salesman can be "sold" if he is made to feel he is a teacher rather than a pupil.

Forgot to Remember

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—A Rotary Club luncheon adjourned early after its main attraction, a team billed as the "Memory Marvels," failed to show up.

Hal Boyle Says:

Voices of American Girls Worst in the Entire World

NEW YORK (UP)—The oddity of the modern girl's voice is a different from today's version. First became popular 120 years ago, the players ran clockwise. First base was where third base is now. ... Here are a few popular spectator sports unknown in America then: Basketball, football, boxing, ice hockey, auto racing, golf and tennis. ... A popular sport that reached its peak about 1800 and later was outlawed was "gouging." In addition to gouging, the participants also enjoyed kicking, fighting and kneeling each other. When this game died out, politics took its place.

Almanac editorial: Everybody favors a safe and sane Fourth of July, but how about making Christmas a safe holiday for children, too? ... It is estimated that 100,000 American children suffer eye accidents each year. ... and many

"They are self-conscious about everything but their voices, and they have the worst voices in the world. It is perhaps a mark of their nervous and aggressive assertiveness. Stand outside a crowded cocktail room and you can hear their shrill conversation above all the man talk. It sounds like a buzz saw going through a piece of tin. For feminine allure there is nothing like a silken voice. European women realize this, and keep their voices sweet and low."

Any ladies who disagree with this verdict? Okay, don't shout. Speak softly. ... Softly.

World Series quip: Would it have helped manager Al Lopez of Cleveland if he had been a Rhodes scholar?

The almanac's crystal ball: Auto mobiles will be much safer 50 years from now. General Electric engineers say car headlights then will be 10 times as powerful as those of today but have less glare, and infra-red lamps will keep windshields free of ice and snow.

Odd items about the great: Napoleon Bonaparte, renowned because of his battlefield generalship, wasn't so expert in the tactics of love. But he wasn't stingy with his ladies. After divorcing Josephine because she couldn't have children, he married Princess Marie Louise of Austria. When she rewarded him with a son, he rewarded her with a tiara containing 15 large emeralds and 500 diamonds. ... The tiara, now in this country, is insured for $350,000. ... Parenthood is simpler today—all dad gives is a box of cigars to his pals. ... He doesn't even offer one to his wife.

What do you know about sports are caused by unsafe toys given them by grownups.

A note on Yankee ingenuity: Some 5 per cent of all the goods manufactured in the United States become obsolete for one reason or another and must be marketed as "surplus." ... surplus dealers now have a $380,000,000-a-year industry.

They salvage items by converting them to other uses. For example, machine gun cartridges are turned into brass cigarette lighters, outmoded television tubes into small household aquariums, army gas masks into school bags, jungle bolo knives into garden tools.

Almanac long range weather forecast: A massive thunder storm, originating in the U.S. Senate early in November, will spread in cloudy turbulence throughout the country. It will be accompanied by strong wind squalls.

Gloria Vanderbilt to Make a Television Debut Soon

NEW YORK — Gloria Vanderbilt, who will portray the part of Sibyl in "Shadow Play," to be presented soon on TV, says:

"I've always wanted to act since I was 16," said the attractive hazel-eyed brunette. "This summer I took the plunge, at Gilbert Miller's suggestion, in a play I thought would be right. I didn't expect everyone to be quite so kind and I was very grateful."

"Though I've never trained formally for the theatre, I am very serious about an acting career. I plan to devote myself to it, and I'm very excited about being on TV for the first time."

The talented young woman has a keen aesthetic sense; she is a painter and poet. Last October, she had a one-woman show of her abstract oils, water colors and pastels at the Bertha Shaffer Gallery in New York. The critics reviewed her work favorably. She occasionally paints portraits, but never from life, "just my imagination," she says.

Some of her recent poetry has been set to music by composer Alan Hovhaness and a tape recording has been made of it by singer Neil Tangeman. It may be issued commercially in the future.

Gloria Vanderbilt likes "dressing up," is fascinated by color and often matches her lipstick to some accessory in the red spectrum, with

Artificial Limb Shop Fits 300 Per Month

DURHAM, N. C. —The brace and instrument shop at Duke hospital turns out artificial limbs and braces for more than 300 patients a month. It is one of the largest in the nation. The combination shoe shop, tannery, metal shop and factory can produce any kind of orthopedic appliance from an artificial toe to a skull plate.

It concentrates on the cosmetic aspect of making braces fit so that they are least noticeable, even to the extent of tinting plastics flesh color.

"The cosmetic effect is very important in keeping the patient from feeling a stigma because of his brace," explains Dr. J. Leonard Goldner, Duke orthopedic surgeon.

Watch for the Fish's Mouth in Sky Tonight

Fomalhaut, the Fish's Mouth, will be low from the north, fairly high from the south. It is the principal star in the constellation of the Southern Fish. If you watch from very far south, you will see twin stars below Fomalhaut; they are the principal stars of Grus, the Crane. . . from the tropics they are particularly fine. From the north, northern U. S. or Canada, you'll see crossing the meridian with Fomalhaut the Big Dipper. . . of course, you'll have to look north for that, below the North Star. The Pointers of the Dipper share nearly the same meridian as Fomalhaut. The dotted line in the diagram is the ecliptic, path of sun, moon, planets. The sun is due north of Fomalhaut in early March; the moon will be due north of it a week from tonight.

Lanza's 'Voice' Irks Chrysler

Sponsor of TV Show Wants Promise Records Will Not Be Used

HOLLYWOOD — Mario Lanza's voice - from - the - past television debut remained the talk of the town today as the Columbia Broadcasting System confessed that old records were used on his first show.

The CBS statement, issued by J. L. Van Volkenburg, president of CBS-TV, verified The Associated Press report that two-year old records had to be used because Lanza's quick reducing had impaired his voice.

Van Volkenburg said pre-recording had been agreed on in advance and a session was set for last Monday, but "just prior to this Mr. Lanza told us his physician had advised him it would be impossible for him to undertake this taping session and to participate in the production to the extent we had originally planned."

"In view of this we eliminated a complicated finale, and a comedy sketch which featured Lanza. We also decided that due to Mr. Lanza's physical condition we would have to use already existing records instead of newly pre-recorded ones. The decision was the sole responsibility of CBS Television."

Lanza and CBS West Coast Vice President Harry Ackerman earlier had maintained the recordings were only a week and a half old. Ackerman admitted last night "I made a mistake." Lanza could not be reached for comment.

But the sponsor was heard from. "We are seeking assurances that nothing of this kind will be done on our future shows," declared James Cope, vice president of Chrysler Corp., which backed Thursday's "Shower of Stars" show with Lanza and Betty Grable.

"It was our understanding that Mario Lanza was in condition to sing, as well as to appear and perform on our program."

The word "Paschal" used in connection with Easter derives from the Hebrew word meaning Passover.
