Wrathful Schwartz Brings Files to House Quiz

Lincoln and Jeff Davis . . . Comrades in Arms

Served in Black Hawk Uprising

Foes of '61 Were Buddies in '32

Abraham Lincoln. Jefferson Davis. The one, President of the United States and Commander-in-Chief of the federal armies in the Civil War. The other, President of the Confederate States of America and Commander-in-Chief of the Southern armies.

Could there be two more mortal enemies? It would seem not. But was that really so? One wonders—especially if one goes back 30 years before Fort Sumter.

Kentucky-born Abe Lincoln and Kentucky-born Jeff Davis were both 23 years old—and comrades-in-arms. The year was 1832. That's when they first met, liked each other and became friends.

This is a tale that they tell of cultured, aristocratic, West Point-trained Davis and rawboned, gangling, self-educated frontiersman Lincoln when their lives touched briefly, as do forking streams—to flow away on divergent courses, each branch ultimately finding outlet in its own tragedy. They say it happened in the Black Hawk War—a campaign that earned little more than a paragraph in history.

Black Hawk was the chief of a band of Sauk and Fox

Along Saginaw Street

Traffic Lights Plan for Pontiac Readied

Final plans for the first $4,500 section of an improved, progressive traffic signal system on Saginaw street are expected to be ready by next week, City Traffic Engineer Theodore Vanderstemple said today.

The first stage involves lights at the corner of Oakland and Lafayette, Warren and Mt. Clemens streets, he said.

The proposed changes, including a new $1,000 safety island at the Oakland avenue interchange, could be put into effect about a month after the state authorizes the city to proceed, Vanderstemple believed.

By mid-summer, he predicted, the rest of the progressive system should be in effect along the entire route from Oakland south to South boulevard.

The plans are being completed by the State Highway Department, which has jurisdiction over Saginaw street because of its designation as a federal highway (U.S. 10).

"We expect the plans to be submitted to us for final approval next week. Approval here means that the city is willing to participate in construction costs on a 50-50 basis," Vanderstemple explained.

The traffic island would lie in the middle of Saginaw just north of the Sears Roebuck store. It is designed to separate the two northbound traffic lanes from the two southbound ones, "making driving less confusing and pedestrian crossing easier and safer," Vanderstemple said.

The principal expense in the entire project in installation of a new wire connecting existing traffic signals. By means of this, Vanderstemple said, the signal periods can be varied uniformly throughout the length of the street to handle rush-hour traffic.

Hoffa Disclaims Heart Ailment

Teamster Boss Calls Checkup by Specialist in Miami 'Routine'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa declared today "there is absolutely nothing wrong with my heart."

★ ★ ★

"I had a routine checkup yesterday — I have one every six months — and I never felt better in my life," Hoffa told a reporter.

The 44-year-old truck union boss said Dr. Sherman R. Kaplan, Miami Beach heart specialist, made several electrocariogram tests "and said I was in good shape." Dr. Kaplan declined to discuss the case.

Hoffa, who up and about before 8 a.m. today, denied reports that the doctor had ordered him to bed.

★ ★ ★

Hoffa said he planned to preside at today's session of the teamsters Executive Board and would be in charge so long as the sessions continue.

French Kill 100 Rebels in 2 Algerian Clashes

ALGIERS (AP) — The French today announced they killed 100 rebels and captured large quantities of arms and ammunition in two clashes in eastern Algeria.

The clashes occurred late Sunday night and yesterday. The French said one of the rebel bands was intercepted near Khenchela just after it crossed the border from Tunisia into Algeria.

Ousted Prober Claims Denial of Basic Rights

Committee Head, Two Lawyers Quit in Protest Over Firing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Bernard Schwartz, fired as counsel to a special House investigating committee, went before his erstwhile employers today with a staggering armload of documents.

Schwartz was subpoenaed as a witness in the committee's investigation of federal regulatory agencies and instructed to bring all his personal files.

"Compared to this kangaroo committee, the Star Chamber itself was the very paragon of justice," Schwartz angrily told reporters.

"I have been denied basic procedural rights which would be accorded to the most blatant criminal."

The committee's 7-4 vote to fire Schwartz, a New York University law professor, from his $14,000-a-year job had left an explosive atmosphere.

CHAIRMAN QUITS

Chairman Moulder (D-Mo) announced that he was quitting as head of the dissension-torn investigation.

Two lawyers resigned from the staff. They are Herbert M. Wachtell and Paul Berger, both of New York. They had come to Washington to assist Schwartz.

The committee has four other lawyers and three investigators on its staff.

The investigating group is technically a subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee, and Chairman Harris (D-Ark) of the parent committee called the subcommittee into closed session.

Moulder was present. Moulder had told reporters he would continue to serve, although resigning as its chairman.

Harris told newsmen as the meeting was about to open that he had not yet actually received Moulder's resignation, but "I received it through the press."

Dr. Sullenberger Refuses to Enter Sidelines Battle

Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger today steered away from entering another sidelines battle in his dispute with the Pontiac General Hospital administration and medical staff.

The ousted staff surgeon, who is suing for reinstatement and $250,000 damages, was asked to comment on a resolution passed recently by the staff in support of hospital director Carl I. Flath's charges against him in reply to the suit.

The resolution was publicized yesterday. Today Dr. Sullenberger commented simply, "The staff appears very brave in the newspapers. I'll wait to see what happens in court."

Flath alleged Dr. Sullenberger had violated professional standards and listed 25 specific cases in six of which, he said, the patient died. Dr. Sullenberger noted today that in their reply, medical staff members claimed only that he had violated professional standards.

"It's easy to back up Flath's charges in the newspapers, but I notice they didn't do so in the litigation," he said.

Trial of the suit has been set for early in April before Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams. Two medical staff committees, the hospital, its board of trustees and the city are named as co-defendents.

Propose 30 Day Delay on 1958 Auto Plates

LANSING (AP)—A 30-day postponement of the Feb. 28 deadline for displaying 1958 auto license plates was proposed today in the legislature.

★ ★ ★

The bill for the delay was filed by Sen. Charles S. Blondy (D-Detroit).

Sponsors are pushing for the extra month because they say the regular deadline would work a hardship on the state's mounting roster of unemployed workers.

DSR Manager to Study Fare Hike's Effects

DETROIT (INS) — Leo J. Nowicki, general manager of the Detroit Street Railways (DSR), will report in two weeks on the savings or increased revenues which would result from possible fare hikes or service cuts.

The DSR Commission yesterday instructed Nowicki to look into the effect of any of the following:

—A two-cent across-the-board fare increase.

—A one-cent fare boost.

—A five-cent charge for transfers.

—A cutback to only eight hours service on Sundays on 25 lines now producing less than 50 per cent of operating costs for the day. Some of the lines now operate around-the-clock.

Nowicki has forecast a $400,000 deficit for the DSR by the end of the current fiscal year.

Mayor Louis C. Mirjani would have to approve any fare boosts or service reductions.

Chou Replaced in Chinese Post

Apparently Resigns as Foreign Minister, but Remains Premier

HONG KONG (INS)—Chou En-lai was replaced today as foreign minister of Communist China.

★ ★ ★

Chou, who has been both Premier and foreign minister since 1949, apparently retained his premiership.

According to the official Communist New China news agency, Chou voluntarily relinquished the foreign ministership in favor of Chen yi, a vice premier, as part of a government reorganization.

Parliament named Chen after he was recommended by Chou, who is generally considered the No. 2 man in Red China, outranked only by party chief Mao Tse-tung.

★ ★ ★

Chen, 60, is a veteran Communist and an old associate of Chou.

The news agency said Chou told Parliament the reorganization would strengthen government administration and improve efficiency.

He was quoted as saying the reorganization was necessary in view of China's "rectification" campaign aimed at streamlining the bureaucracy. It also would meet the needs of the second five-year plan, he said.

Bill Would Aid Bus Companies

State House Measure Specifies Private Lines Leasing to Cities

Seventeen House members went to bat in Lansing for ailing local bus lines today, introducing a bill that would excuse firms operated by private interests under city-lease agreements from payment of gas and weight taxes.

★ ★ ★

Although such lease agreements are in effect only in Ann Arbor, Jackson and Kalamazoo, the measure conceivably could apply to Pontiac, where a lease agreement has been considerded.

Rep. Leslie H. Hudson (D-Pontiac) was one of 14 Republicans and three Democrats co-sponsoring the bill, introduced by Rep. Bassett (R-Jackson) to help cities where sagging revenues threaten public transportation systems.

Under the proposal, bus companies would be eligible for tax relief if (1) receipts are paid over to the city; (2) net profits are limited by agreement or municipal control; and (3) if the city controls routes, schedules and fares.

Locally, Pontiac City Lines, Inc., has complained that steadily decreasing profits threaten curtailment of services.

Farrell 'Bright and Chipper'

Moon Trip Proceeding Smoothly

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) —Airman Donald G. Farrell brushed his teeth and shaved this morning just like many other husky 23-year-olds — except that he is pretending to be on a trip to the moon.

The blond six-footer from the Bronx was squeezed Sunday into a 3-by-5-foot experimental sealed cabin, quickly dubbed a space barrel, at nearby Randolph Air Force Base.

Space medical experts at the base's School of Aviation Medicine expect Farrell to crawl from the cabin at 9:35 a.m. next Sunday unharmed by the seven days in a make - believe space ship.

★ ★ ★

"Very bright and chipper" was the way Lt. Col. George R. Steinkamp, chief of space medicine, reported Farrell's condition. "At this point I see no reason why he should not last the full seven days."

CONTACT BY TV

Steinkamp described how Farrell spends his time in the hermetically sealed cabinet. He sees and hears nothing on the outside. All instructions are relayed to him by a closed - circuit television hookup or by pre-arranged signals on a panel of buttons and switches.

He said Farrell has "work periods" of about four hours that might be compared with standing a shift at the controls of a space ship.

He has a rubber mattress he can inflate and stretch out on during a specified sleeping period. Otherwise he must sit almost bolt upright.

However, it is not all work and sleep. There are "rest periods" during which he reads, including two textbooks on accounting and English grammar. In these periods he also listens to hi-fi record music piped into the cell—mostly George Gershwin and Cole Porter selections that he picked before the "trip" started.

The scientists figure it would not be impossible for space travelers to hear radio music broadcast from the earth — or maybe from a space station relay point.

Farrell follows a master menu that Steinkamp said was "high in protein and highly nutritious." It does not consist entirely of condensed or dehydrated foods. He had an orange with his breakfast.

To test Farrell's reactions from day to day an alarm signal may be sounded during any of his rest periods. He is expected to respond and take over the controls of the make-believe spaceship as soon as possible.

Sergeant's Court-Martial Begins Today

NCO Accused of Spying

WASHINGTON (INS) — Master Sgt. Roy A. Rhodes, 41, asserting his innocence, went on trial before a general courtmartial today on charges that he was bribed by vodka, sex and rubles to spy in Moscow.

The Eatontown, N. J., soldier loudly declared as he entered the sound-proof courtroom at historic Fort McNair: "I'm not guilty." His civilian attorney, James K. Eaton, said Rhodes' innocence would be established.

★ ★ ★

Clad in an old - style Army uniform including the now outmoded "Eisenhower jacket" on which his decorations — the combat infantryman badge, the Bronze Star and the good medal gleamed — Rhodes faced a 10-officer court.

The scene of the court - martial is the same Army post where persons involved in the assassination conspiracy against President Abraham Lincoln were tried, convicted and hanged.

Col. Milton S. Glatterer, presiding at the court - martial, called the dramatic proceedings to order at 9:35 a.m. (EST).

Rhodes' pretty wife came to Washington from their New Jersey home to stand by him. A brother, Franklin, of Colorado Springs, Colo., also is present.

The sergeant was charged in two specifications with conspiracy to violate U.S. espionage laws after he appeared as a government witness at the trial of convicted Soviet spy Rudolph Abel at Brooklyn, N. Y., last October.

Another government witness, Reino Hayhanen, had testified Abel had told him to try to locate Rhodes in this country after the latter's return from Russia.

★ ★ ★

Rhodes created a sensation when he was called from Fort Myer, Va., to testify. He testified he had started giving information to the Russians after spending a night with a Russian woman.

According to Rhodes' own admission, he received between 2,500 to 3,000 rubles from the Russians over a period extending from May 1951 to July 1953. The Army charged he took a total of $3,000 — which would be worth 12,000 rubles at the official exchange rate and about 30,000 rubles in actual value.

Rhodes, currently under restriction at Fort Myer across the Potomac River from Washington, also is charged with signing a false official certificate. If convicted of the lesser charge, he could be sentenced to one year. In both of the charges, he also, upon conviction, could be sentenced to forfeiture of all pay and allowances and a dishonorable discharge.

Call Car Dealers to Senate Probe?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) said today the Senate Antitrust Subcommittee would turn next in its auto prices investigation to complaints of car dealers.

★ ★ ★

"I've been hearing from a number of dealers that they feel they're being forced to bear a disproportionate share of what competition there is in pricing," Kefauver told a reporter.

★ ★ ★

He said that the subcommittee first would hear Frederick J. Bell, executive vice president of the National Auto Dealers Assn., scheduled to testify Feb. 19.

Individual dealers may be asked to appear later, the senator said.

The subcommittee completed the first phase of its hearings yesterday, with a second day of testimony by George Romney, president of American Motors Corp.

In the previous two weeks, officials of the big three auto producers—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—appeared. Another witness was Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

How can the stars be useful to you, in connection with the weather?

Perhaps today the stars have lost some of their importance as guides and direction indicators, what with radio direction-finding, radar and the beams which are used for homing and charting compass courses.

In the old days, when sailors or hunters or explorers ran into foul weather, or fair, they could use the stars to give them a course away from the undesirable elements. In bad weather, glimpses of the stars are few and far between, but one glimpse is enough.

You must know that there are five constellations of stars in our hemisphere which never sink below the horizon—Big Dipper, Little Dipper, Draco, Cepheus and Cassiopeia. The lip of the cup of the Big Dipper always points to the North Star—also always visible.

In this hemisphere weather moves west to east, and bad weather counter clockwise. A direction bearing from the stars can point the way to the warmer south, away from the center of a hurricane or storm, etc. And the stars, unlike a compass, never fail.

Faces Charges of License Sale

Former Ecorse Officer Said to Have Accepted Drivers' Money

ECORSE (INS) — Detective Lt. Louis Audia, who was suspended from the Ecorse, Mich., Police Department, faces charges today he sold drivers' licenses to unqualified applicants for as much as $45.

Officials said another policeman and five other officials might be involved with him.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor Arthur J. Koscinski said charges of violating the State Motor Vehicle Act could be levied in the case.

Police said they were holding Tommie Prince of Detroit for investigation of charges he was the contact man between Audia and applicants.

Assistant Secretary of State John F. Dodge requested the charges be studied and said about 12 persons have signed statements they received their licenses from Audia. Dodge added that during the investigation of the case:

"We found numerous instances where the licensee was so illiterate that he could not read 'yield' or railroad crossing signs."

Man Accused of Beating Child

Says Nothing in Justice Court to Charges of Hitting Girl With Strap

A Keego Harbor man had nothing to say when he appeared in justice court today to face charges of thrashing his 10-year-old stepdaughter with a razor strap so that her back, police said, "was one mass of black and blue marks."

★ ★ ★

West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle ordered Frank Szumowski Jr., 25, of 2066 Willow Beach Rd., held in lieu of $5,000 bond and scheduled an examination Feb. 18.

Szumowski, an unemployed welder and former amateur boxer, charged with cruelty to Diane Dube, his wife's daughter by a previous marriage, was to be questioned further at Oakland County Jail by Detroit detectives.

They suspected that five wallets and four wristwatches seized at Szumowski's home Friday had been stolen from the locker room of the Detroit plant where he formerly was employed, according to Keego Harbor Police Chief Richard Hurtubise.

★ ★ ★

Hurtubise said Detroit officials were considering other charges stemming from Szumowski's alleged armed invasion of the Detroit home of his wife's parents early Friday.

His wife, Dorothy, 25, who had fled there with Diane and two younger children from her second marriage, claimed Szumowski threatened her parents with a .45 caliber automatic when they would not divulge the whereabouts of his family.

In a statement yesterday, Szumowski denied making the threats and maintained he had found the wallets and wristwatches, Assistant Prosecutor James E. Roberts said.

★ ★ ★

"However, Szumowski admitted beating the girl because she lied to him, he said, when he asked if her natural father had visited their home," Roberts added.

Szumowski maintained he had never beaten the girl before nor mistreated the other members of his family, Roberts added.

Unemployment at 8-Year High

U.S. Reports Jobless Total of 4,494,000 for Month of January

WASHINGTON (INS) — The government reported today that unemployment climbed in January to 4,494,000, the biggest monthly jump since 1940 and the highest level in eight years.

The Commerce and Labor Departments said in a joint report that unemployment rose by 1,120,000 between December and January, while total employment declined by 2,058,000 to a total of 62,238,000.

The sharp cut back in the number of workers was accompanied by reductions in the work week and average pay.

The report said the changes were greater than usual for this time of the year, reflecting further decline in manufacturing as well as a seasonal curtailment in outdoor work and temporary Christmas jobs.

The increase in unemployment was less than the drop in employment because many housewives and others who left temporary holiday jobs withdrew from the labor market instead of seeking other work.

TUNISIA, CENTER OF NEW CONTROVERSY — Map locates Tunisian border village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef near the Algerian frontier, scene of attack by French warplanes. Gaillard OKs Debate on Tunisian Bombing

By DAVID MASON

PARIS (AP)—Premier Felix Gaillard agreed to immediate parliamentary debate today on the French bombing of a Tunisian frontier village.

The bombing on Saturday set off a diplomatic crisis for France which threatened relations with Tunisia and sparked worldwide criticism of French policy.

Tunisia said 68 persons were killed, 10 were missing and 84 wounded in the raid.

Tension mounted in Tunisia, where French troops have been confined to their bases by order of President Habib Bourguiba who was determined that French troops must be evacuated from his country.

★ ★ ★

The French National Assembly was packed and the diplomatic galleries full as Gaillard strode to the rostrum and announced he would meet his critics head on. The Assembly suspended for an hour to allow the orators to organize their debates.

The premier has been deeply disturbd by the unfavorable foreign reaction—particularly in the United States and among France's Western allies.

★ ★ ★

He has been in almost continual meetings with his ministers, deputies in the assembly, diplomats and others. He has conferred with U. S. Ambassador Amory Houghton.

In Tunis, Western sources were openly worried at the turn of events there. Five French consulates were ordered closed.

★ ★ ★

The French charge d'affaires in Tunis went to the Tunisian Foreign Ministry this morning to ask if the French troops in the country could transport food between their bases. The Tunisians told him, in effect, "Let them eat in France."

Cabinet ministers leaving a three-hour special meeting gave no indication what Gaillard might say in reply to his critics which might justify the bombing attack.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today appealed to France and Tunisia to settle their differences and restore their traditionally close friendly relations.

The appeal came at a news conference at which Dulles also said that a foreign ministers conference is not an essential preliminary to holding an East-West summit conference. Dulles said evidence that agreement could be achieved by a summit conference is essential.

On the Tunisian issue which arose Saturday over French aerial attack on a Tunisian border village, Dulles refused to commit the United States to a precise line of action.

He disclosed that Tunisian Ambassador Mongi Slim has asked the United States to support an appeal to the U. N. Security Council but Dulles made no commitment pending word on what precise action would be sought.

Abe Lincoln, Jeff Davis Were Comrades in 1832

Indians whose country was the lush valley of the Fox River in northern Illinois.

Under what was admittedly a most unfair treaty, they sold the whites their homeland for little more than a "mess of pottage" and retired westward across the Mississippi.

THERE THEY STARVED. In desperation they recrossed the Great River, thus violating the treaty and rose against the whites. Blood was shed.

★ ★ ★

There were federal garrisons nearby and, to augment them, Governor John Reynolds called for volunteers from every village in the area.

All responded, including New Salem, where Abe Lincoln lived. There were 68 New Salem volunteers and they elected Lincoln captain of their group, which they called the Sangamon Company, after the river on whose banks New Salem stood.

The Sangamon Company marched to Fort Armstrong, on Rock Island, to link up with Regular Army troops of the first U.S. Infantry under a newly created colonel—Zachary Taylor—a 20-year veteran of Indian fighting, even then called "Old Rough and Ready" by his men.

The Illinois volunteers formed up to be welcomed by the Regulars. Company captains were ordered "front and center."

Except Abe, these leaders were mounted but none was in uniform. Capt. A. Lincoln, the only commander afoot, stood there in rough jacket, coarse frontier shirt open at the neck, yellow homespun trousers stuffed into rawhide boots instep deep in mud.

★ ★ ★

AFTER THE BRIEF welcoming speech, Old Rough and Ready introduced two young aides who would be liaison officers between the volunteers and the Regulars. One was a Lieut. Robert Anderson—to be known to every schoolboy as the hero of Fort Sumter. The other was Lieut. Jefferson Davis, less than four years out of West Point and three decades away from immortality as the leader of the Lost Cause.

Later that afternoon the volunteers stood muster and inspection by Colonel Taylor and his aides, with Lieutenant Davis as the inspecting officer. Sharp-eyed Colonel Taylor interrupted the proceedings.

★ ★ ★

"Captain Lincoln, you have no sabre?"

"No, sir."

"Lieutenant Davis, see that Captain Lincoln has a sabre before the next inspections."

The men dismissed, Lincoln and Davis remained together, the rough, slouching, home-spun pioneer, and the West Point-erect soldier, natty in Army blues, with gold-barred epaulets and gleaming sabre. Davis, strangely attracted to the young rustic, invited him to his quarters.

"I have an extra sword I'd like to lend you."

Inside the Spartanly furnished tent, Lincoln noticed a sword in its scabbard, hanging from a peg on the tent pole.

★ ★ ★

AS LINCOLN FINALLY prepared to leave, Davis took down the sword and buckled its belt around Abe's waist.

Lincoln wore the sword throughout his Black Hawk service, which lasted a scant four months. Lincoln was mustered out by Lieutenant Davis on July 10, 1832.

It was then that Lincoln returned the borrowed sabre. He had worn it since he was mustered in at Fort Armstrong. He had never drawn it against a foe.

The Black Hawk War was Lincoln's only military experience and he never saw a hostile Indian.

And that is the tale they tell of Lincoln and Davis together under the Stars and Stripes.

The Day in Birmingham

Hearing Set March 3 on Zoning Ordinance

BIRMINGHAM — The public hearing on the proposed Birmingham zoning ordinance has been set for March 3.

In the meantime, city commissioners and members of the Planning Board will hold a joint meeting Feb. 19 for a thorough discussion of the ordinance and the proposed changes in the sign and open parking lot ordinances.

★ ★ ★

Commissioners, meeting last night, again offered an explanation to Charles C. Currie, owner of the Baldwin Manor Apartments, concerning the condition of the pavement on Southfield avenue.

City Manager L. R. Gare was asked by commissioners to inform Currie that resurfacing is done according to need. Gare said he could not tell at this time whether the street would be included in the 1958 program.

Currie had requested the street be resurfaced, stating that the condition of the pavement caused a noise disturbing to his tenants.

★ ★ ★

Commissioners also denied—for the second time—permission to Milton Freedman to connect lines with the Birmingham sanitary sewer system.

Freedman owns property at the southeast corner of 14-Mile road and Pierce street in the newly-incorporated village of Westwood.

Commissioners said it long had been a city policy to withhold this type of service.

In commenting on the request, Gare said "our system is unequipped to handle an additional load." If this request were granted, it would quite possibly bring other requests from surrounding areas, he said.

Two area country club managers, Charles R. Banges of Bloomfield Hills Country Club and John T. Brennan of Birmingham Country Club, will be among the 500 persons attending the 31st annual conference of the Club Managers Association.

★ ★ ★

The meeting will be held in St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 13-15.

The Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Detroit YMCA has approved the appointments of John Kotchian, Mrs. Bernice Reule and Miss Marion Cannon to the Birmingham YMCA Committee of Management.

The elected officers of the Birmingham "Y" also were approved.

Reginald W. Rose

Service for Reginald W. Rose, 62, of 24249 Lamarack Circle, Southfield Township, will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Cass Avenue Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co., Detroit. The Rev. Kenneth L. Gass of St. James' Episcopal Church, Birmingham, will officiate. Entombment will be in Roseland Park Cemetery, Royal Oak.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Rose died Sunday in New Grace Hospital, Detroit, after a brief illness.

He was a manufacturer's agent for the Montgomery and Whaling Co., Detroit.

A veteran of the Naval Air Corps in World War I, Mr. Rose was a graduate of the University of Michigan. He was a member of Alger American Legion Post, Detroit, and the Detroit Golf Club and Recess Club.

Surviving are his wife, Jean; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas T. Restrick of Birmingham, and a son, John W. of Southfield Township.

Mrs. Herbert Songer

Mrs. Herbert (Ruby) Songer of 2805 Lahser Rd., Bloomfield Hills, died at her home this morning. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home.

Schwartz Brings Files to House Quiz

members loaded with investigative files.

★ ★ ★

"I was served with a subpoena at 12:35 a.m. to appear with my files," he said to reporters.

"I spent most of the night trying to seek counsel."

Schwartz said he had succeeded in obtaining George Arnold and Wachtel—the man who resigned from the subcommittee staff—to represent him.

★ ★ ★

The ousted committee counsel said he had had no reasonable time to go through his files, but had done the best he could under the circumstances.

"What is my crime?" he demanded of the newsmen.

★ ★ ★

"I made mistakes but they were honest mistakes," he said. "I couldn't turn back on the strength of evidence which was to be produced before this subcommittee. I couldn't live with myself if I had. That is the only crime I have committed.

BERATES COMMITTEE

"The only mistake I have made is treading on the toes of powerful interests and some members of this committee.

"I have known since October that this committee could not be trusted to conduct this investigation."

★ ★ ★

Schwartz contends he was fired because he was digging up evidence that numerous pressures—some even from the White House—have been exerted on quasi-judicial agencies such as the Federal Communications Commission.

★ ★ ★

A majority of the committee said it objected to tactics used by Schwartz. There were questions raised too about some of his expense accounts.

Hazard Ends at Jersey City

Locate Big Water Leak That Drained Supply, Shut Plants, Schools

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP)—The water main leak draining this city's supply of water at an alarming rate was located today and the state of emergency was declared over.

★ ★ ★

August W. Heckman, commissioner of public works, announced that the leak had been pinpointed in a 36-inch main starting at the city's small receiving reservoir and running under the Hackensack River.

The leak, with millions of gallons of water going to waste, had led to a state of emergency for a third of this port city. Hundreds of water works employes had been searching for the break since Sunday night without success.

★ ★ ★

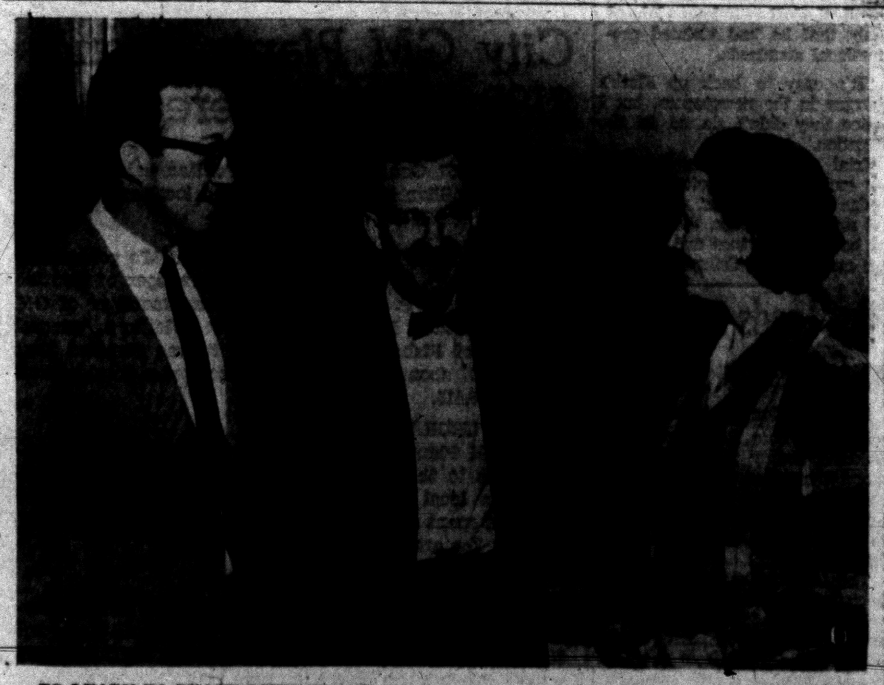

Most of the 40 control valves had been closed one at a time in an effort to find the leak.

The possibility that the break might result in cave-ins had brought about the state of emergency.

About a third of the city's 309,000 population was without water for a while, until pressure could be built up to offset the leak.

★ ★ ★

A total of 195 plants, employing 25,500 workers had been closed in an effort to conserve water and thus maintain pressure. Twenty schools were closed, giving 16,000 pupils an unexpected holiday.

CHAPTER 35

Mr. Crackenthorpe laughed, a high, whinnying laugh of intense amusement. "I hear things," he said. "Can't keep things from the old man. They try to. So Alfred's dead, is he? He won't sponge on me any more, and he won't get any of the money either. They've all been waiting for me to die, you know—Alfred in particular. Now he's dead. I call that rather a good joke."

★ ★ ★

"That's not very kind of you, Mr. Crackenthorpe," said Lucy severely.

Mr. Crackenthorpe laughed again. "I'll outlive them all," he crowed. "You see if I don't, my girl. You see if I don't."

Lucy went to her room, she took out her dictionary and looked up the word 'tontine'. She closed the book thoughtfully and stared ahead of her.

★ ★ ★

"Don't see why you want to come to me," said Dr. Morris, irritably.

"You've known the Crackenthorpe family a long time," said Inspector Craddock.

"Yes, yes. I knew all the Crackenthorpes. I remember old Josiah Crackenthorpe. He was a hard nut — shrewd man, though. Made a lot of money." He shifted his aged form in his chair and peered under bushy eyebrows at Inspector Craddock. "So you've been listening to that young fool, Quimper," he said. "These zealous young doctors! Always getting ideas in their heads. Got it into his head that somebody was trying to poison Luther Crackenthorpe. Nonsense! Melodrama! Of course, he had gastric attacks. I treated him for them. Didn't happen very often — nothing peculiar about them."

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Quimper," said Craddock "seemed to think there was."

"Doesn't do for a doctor to go thinking. After all, I should hope I could recognize arsenical poisoning when I saw it."

"Quite a lot of well - known doctors haven't noticed it," Craddock pointed out. "There was—" he drew upon his memory, "—the Greenbarrow case, Mrs. Reney, Charles Leeds, three people in the Westbury family, all buried nicely and tidily without the doctors who attended them having the least suspicion. Those doctors were all good, reputable men."

"All right, all right," said Doctor Morris, "You're saying that I could have made a mistake. Well, I don't think I did." He paused a minute and then said, "Who did Quimper think was doing it—if it was being done?"

★ ★ ★

"He didn't know," said Craddock. "He was worried. After all, you know," he added, "there's a great deal of money there."

"Yes, yes, I know, which they'll get when Luther Crackenthorpe dies. And they want it pretty badly. That is true enough, but it doesn't follow that they'd kill the old man to get it."

"Not necessarily," agreed Inspector Craddock.

"Anyway," said Dr. Morris, "my principle is not to go about suspecting things without due cause. Due cause," he repeated. "I'll admit that what you've just told me has shaken me up a bit. Arsenic on a big scale, apparently—but I still don't see why you come to me. All I can tell you is that I didn't suspect it. Maybe I should have. Maybe I should have taken those gastric attacks of Luther Crackenthorpe's much more seriously. But you've got a long way beyond that now."

★ ★ ★

Craddock agreed. "What I really need," he said, "is to know a little more about the Crackenthorpe family. Is there any queer mental strain in them—a kink of any kind?"

★ ★ ★

The eyes under the bushy eyebrows looked at him sharply. "Yes, I can see your thoughts might run that way. Well, old Josiah was sane enough. Hard as nails, very much all there. His wife was neurotic, had a tendency to melancholia. Came of an inbred family. She died soon after Luther was born. I'd say, you know, that Luther inherited a certain—well—instability—from her. He was commonplace enough as a young man, but he was always at loggerheads with his father. His father was disappointed in him and I think he resented that and brooded on it, and in the end got a kind of obsession about it. He carried that on into his own married life. You'll notice, if you talk to him at all, that he's got a hearty dislike for all his own sons. His daughters he was fond of. Both Emma and Edie—the one who died."

"Why does he dislike the sons so much?" asked Craddock.

"You'll have to go to one of these new-fashioned psychiatrists to find that out. I'd just say that Luther has never felt very adequate as a man himself, and that he bitterly resents his financial position. He has possession of an income but no power of appointment of capital. If he had the power to disinherit his sons he probably wouldn't dislike them as much. Being powerless in that respect gives him a feeling of humiliation."

★ ★ ★

"That's why he's so pleased at the idea of outliving them all?" said Inspector Craddock.

"Possibly. It is the root, too, of his parsimony, I think. I should say that he's managed to save a considerable sum of his large income—mostly, of course, before taxation rose to its present giddy heights."

A new idea struck Inspector Craddock. "I suppose he's left his savings by will to someone? That he can do."

"Oh, yes, though God knows who he has left it to. Maybe to Emma, but I should rather doubt it. She'll get her share of the old man's money. Maybe to Alexander, the grandson."

★ ★ ★

"He's fond of him, is he?" said Craddock.

"Used to be. Of course he was his daughter's child, not a son's child. That may have made a difference. And he had quite an affection for Bryan Eastley, Edie's husband. Of course I don't know Bryan well, it's some years since I've seen any of the family. But it struck me that he was going to be very much at a loose end after the war. He's got those qualities that you need in war time; courage, dash, and a tendency to let the future take care of itself. But I don't think he's got any stability. He'll probably turn into a drifter."

"As far as you know there's no peculiar kink in any of the younger generation?"

"Cedric's an eccentric type, one of those natural rebels. I wouldn't say he was perfectly normal, but you might say, who is? Harold's fairly orthodox, not what I call a very pleasant character, cold-hearted, eye to the main chance. Alfred's got a touch of the delinquent about him. He's a wrong 'un, always was. Saw him taking money out of a missionary box once that they used to keep in the hall. That type of thing. Ah well, the poor fellow's dead, I suppose I shouldn't be talking against him."

"What about—" Craddock hesitated, "Emma Crackenthorpe?"

★ ★ ★

"Nice girl, quiet, one doesn't always know what she's thinking. Has her own plans and her own ideas but she keeps them to herself. She's more character than you might think from her general manner and appearance."

"You knew Edmund, I suppose, the son who was killed in France?"

"Yes. He was the best of the bunch, I'd say. Good hearted, gay, a nice boy."

★ ★ ★

"Did you ever hear that he was going to marry, or had married, a French girl just before he was killed?"

Dr. Morris frowned. "It seems as though I remember something about it," he said, "but it's a long time ago."

"Quite early on in the war, wasn't it?"

"Yes. Ah well, I daresay he'd have lived to regret it if he had married a foreign wife."

"There's some reason to believe that he did do just that," said Craddock.

Man, 53, Sentenced Here for Felonious Assault

A 53-year-old man was sentenced Monday by Oakland County Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick to one to four years in the Southern Michigan State Prison at Jackson for feloniously assaulting a woman with a pellet gun last month.

Sentenced was Walter Byrnes, who gave his address as 118 W. Lawrence St. He pleaded guilty Jan. 27.

'Happy' Chandler Wants Pants On to Cross Bridge

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UP) — Gov. A. B. Chandler mixed his pants, bridges and taxes at a press conferenc yesteray.

Asked if he would veto a Louisville occupational tax bill pending in the State Legislature, Chandler said: "I put my pants on when I get up in the morning. I'll cross that bridge when I come to it."

A reporter suggested he was mixing his metaphors.

"I can't conceive of a situation," the governor said, "where a man would cross a bridge with his pants off."

Lansing Rushes Aid to Schools

Unfreeze $28,500,000 in Overdue Payments to Clear Obstacle

LANSING (UP)—Without a word of debate, the House last night rushed through a Senate-approved bill to unfreeze 28½ million dollars in overdue school aid payments.

The measure, removing a legal obstacle, was steered immediately to Gov. Williams for signing.

With the State Treasury deep in the red, however, the problem of where to dig up the needed funds was still to be solved.

"I just don't know where we're going to get the dough, for a while anyway," said State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown.

★ ★ ★

Passage of the bill marked an important step toward sending primary and secondary schools 28½ millions dollars in school aid payments due last Jan. 15. It allows the state to draw on the general fund for school allotments, wiping out an objection from Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams that borrowing from other funds was illegal without specific statutory authority.

The school aid fund currently shows a 33 million dollar deficit and the general fund, from which the money is to be borrowed, is 10 million dollas in the red.

A second feature of the bill pledges the state to make up out of general funds an expected shortage for this fiscal year in the school aid kitty. The amount is estimated at from $3,200,000 to as high as eight million dollars.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of Public Instruction, said he would confer with state fiscal authorities this week to decide what can be done to speed up payments.

"Payrolls are coming up and if the schools can't get state aid, they're going to have to borrow and pay interest," he said.

Frigid Weather Giving You Cold Feet?

NEW YORK (UP) — Cold feet? "The current cold wave is taking its greatest toll below the ankles," says the American Foot Care Institute, Inc.

Here's what the institute suggests:

1. Bathe your feet alternately with hot and cold water after your bath or shower. This stimulates blood circulation.
2. Wear closed shoes.
3. Men should wear two pairs of thin socks instead of one heavy pair. The space between will help retain body warmth.

★ ★ ★

4. Women, prone to cling to nylons, can rub lanolin or baby oil into the skin to prevent chapping.
5. Exercise your feet briefly, by wriggling the toes and rotating the feet from the ankles.
6. Stay indoors if you can.

Security for You

Widows Have to Be 62 to Draw Checks

By RAY HENRY

From Mrs. B. N. of Washington, D. C.: "If a husband and wife file a joint income tax return, must they both sign the return?"

Yes. The return will not be accepted unless it is signed by both.

From Mrs. F. S. of Oakland, Calif.: "I am 43 years old and a widow. If I didn't make but $100 a month, could I draw Social Security? My husband was paying the maximum amount at the time of his death. We had no children."

You're not now eligible for Social Security payments as a widow. You may be at 62 if your husband worked long enough under the Social Security law to make you eligible. Your nearest Social Security office will be able to tell you.

From W. F. G. of Sioux Falls, S. D.: "I will be 72 the latter part of April. I am working and my income will be over $1,200 in 1958. As I understand it, I can start my payments at 72 no matter how much I have in income. When should I file for my Social Security?"

You should apply sometime in March. No matter how much you make through the rest of the year, you're certain of a check for each month beginning with April.

From R. J. M. of Fredericksburg, Va.: "If my wife and I should die before drawing any Social Security, what would become of the money I've put in? we have no children and no one is dependent on us."

Social Security will pay a lump sum of from $90 to $255 after your death to your wife or anyone else who pays your funeral expenses if your wife dies before you.

From R. A. of Hagerstown, Md.: "My mother is 63 years old and has been living in this country permanently since 1948. However, she is not an American citizen. For the past couple of years, she has been working as a babysitter and her employers have been paying Social Security tax for her. As an alien, can she collect Social Security?"

As long as your mother remains in the United States, her alien status will not affect her eligibility to Social Security.

From H. B. of Newport, Tenn.: "I'm now 72 years old and my wife will be 62 years old March 2. I understand that she'll be eligible to draw Social Security when she reaches 62 because of my work. Will they take any money from my check? How does she get her payments started?"

Nothing will be taken from your check to pay your wife benefits. The nearest Social Security office has applications she can use to get her payments started.

Ousted Students to Get Hearings

New York Schedules Individual Talks on Fate of Troublemakers

NEW YORK (UP) — Students suspended last week from the city's schools as troublemakers will get individual hearings to decide what is to be done with them.

Thirty-two assistant school superintendents will help decide whether each pupil is to be returned to school, sent to a special school for problem children or confined in an institution.

The hearings program was worked out by Mayor Robert F. Wagner and leading school and city officials.

The mayor and Gov. Averell Harriman scheduled a meeting for tomorrow to discuss what assistance the state can offer.

★ ★ ★

Each student's parents, school principal, teacher or teachers involved in the complaint, representatives of the Attendance Bureau and the Burea of Child Guidance and a probation officer if one is concerned are to attend the suspension hearings.

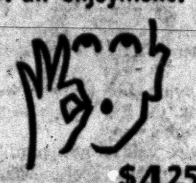

Severity of the offense, the student's attitude and the measure of cooperation which the home is able and willing to provide will be important factors in determining whether the pupil goes back to school, a City Hall statement said.

Schools Supt. William Jansen said the usual five-day limit in which a suspended student is entitled to a hearing will be extended indefinitely in the present crisis.

THOMAS EDISON OPENED A NEW FRONTIER

Imagine what your life would be like without electricity. Imagine a world without electric lights, radio, television, motion pictures . . without electric appliances . . . without X-ray and electrocardiograph equipment . . . without whole industries that are dependent on electric power.

How different a world it would be from the one we know! So different it's hard to realize that it has been only 78 years since Thomas A. Edison invented the first practical incandescent lamp and paved the way for the harnessing of electricity.

During this week people in all the various groups that make up the electrical industry unite to pay tribute to Edison and other pioneers of electrical progress and to rededicate their industry to continuing progress and service to the nation.

Military Brass Revolting in the Pentagon

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The military brass in the Pentagon are revolting for keeps this time.

They're fed to the teeth with the red tape, timidity, ponderous, insulting budget procedures, an elaborate committee system and lack of decision - making which they claim exists at the top civilian-control level of the Department of Defense.

★ ★ ★

They're encouraged by public indignation at what has been going on in the Pentagon and by White House and Congressional determination to reform their "five-sided glue pot," as they call it.

Army Gen. Jim Gavin's willingness to chuck his brilliant career into the ash can to expose Pentagon dry rot reveals the depth of the feeling among many top officers today.

Since the Sputniks, top Air Force Gen. Tom White, AF missile boss Gen. Bernard Schriever, Army space expert Wernher von Braun, Navy's Vanguard head Dr. John Hagen and scores of others have dared to jeopardize their careers to lash out at the White House, Bureau of the Budget and Pentagon system.

EISENHOWER UPSET

President Eisenhower, angry and upset by these charges, is working on a reorganization of the Pentagon. The recent Rockefeller Report adds to the devastating case against the Department of Defense and makes several recommendations for its improvement. Congress is also planning to help straighten out the mess.

Whatever happens, the military brass now believes that any change will be for the better, regardless of what happens to them individually.

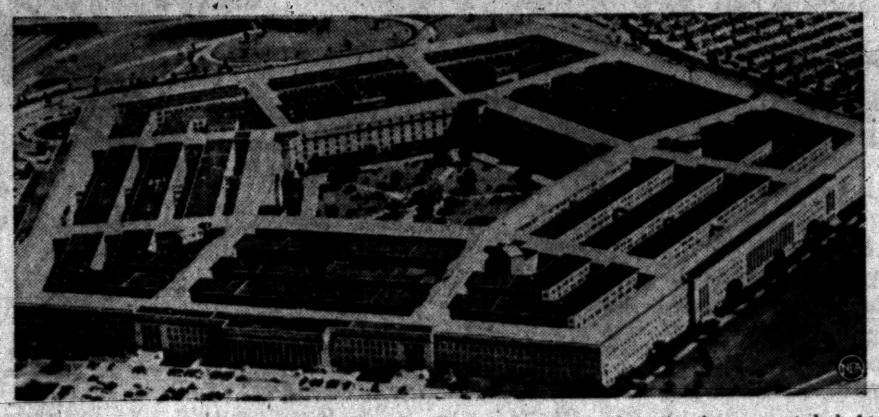

Information revealed to Congress, plus facts which officers admit privately, add up to a real administrative horror story.

Gen. Gavin shocked the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee by revealing he had waited 10 months, and was still waiting, for a decision on a request to go ahead on a vital, secret research project.

NEEDED SPEED

After Sputnik, at the request of the Department of Defense, Gavin sent up a list of about 10 projects he regarded as essential to be speeded up. Three months later he had not heard a word on any of the requests. Nor had he received a dime to finance them.

Army Chief of Staff Gen. Maxwell Taylor has 19 miniature flags on his desk, representing the 19 civilians in the Department of Defense through whom he must clear his plans and papers to get them to the Secretary.

It took 40 days after the White House approved "rush" production of the Jupiter ballistic missile for the Bureau of the Budget to give Taylor the money he needed to get the Chrysler Corp. started on actual production.

The normal military budget procedure is incredibly complex. First step is lengthy sessions of the service officers with scores of Department of Defense committees and fiscal experts. This procedure is then repeated before the Bureau of the Budget.

A general who has been through this dollar wringer many times says:

"These hearings are frequently hostile and insulting to your knowledge of military matters. It's here where uninformed civilians exert damaging and illegal influence on strictly military problems. There are senseless repetitions of questions and delays for the sake of delay."

When the Budget Bureau is finished the whole procedure is duplicated before committees of both houses of Congress.

MUST GO BACK

And when the money is finally appropriated the services have to go back to the Bureau of the Budget for a repeat of the hearings to get the cash in hand. This last step recognizes the embarrassing chance that the whole procedure takes so long a weapon or plan could become obsolete in the meantime.

(NEXT: Too many planners; too few patriots.)

GEN. JIM GAVIN — He chucked a career to expose dry rot.

GEN. MAXWELL TAYLOR — 19 flags symbolize 19 hurdles.

★ ★ ★

They are charged with burglarizing the Sealtest ice cream and milk plant at 257 Ladd Rd., Walled Lake, taking 285 blank payroll checks and $50 in cash last month.

Will Specifies Man's Ashes Put in Garbage

COWFOLD, England (AP) — A daughter of the late Arthur H. Robins says itS TRUE — the family had father cremated and threw his ashes in the garbage can.

No disrespect was intended. Robins, a 63-year-old stockbroker, specified this disposal of his remains in his will.

★ ★ ★

"Father was always a practical joker," the daughter, Mrs. Eve Sutton, said, "and I guess this was his last joke. None of the family was upset or startled about it.

"The ashes were just put in the bin in a matter-of-fact way and carted away with the ordinary household debris."

Robins did not forget the garbage collector, Harry Constable. He left him 10 pounds ($28) for hauling away his ashes.

"Mr. Robins was a bit of a card," Constable commented.

Is he curious?

The world awaits another Edison.
He could be your son.

During his lifetime Thomas Alva Edison "lighted the world" with the electric light, reproduced voices and sounds with the phonograph, pioneered in developing movies and radio. Over 1100 important inventions were his because—like your boy—he simply wanted to know.

But, we are told, one Thomas Edison in a generation is no longer enough to sustain our kind of progress. The need is for thousands—educated young people, trained to harness their curiosity about the unknown.

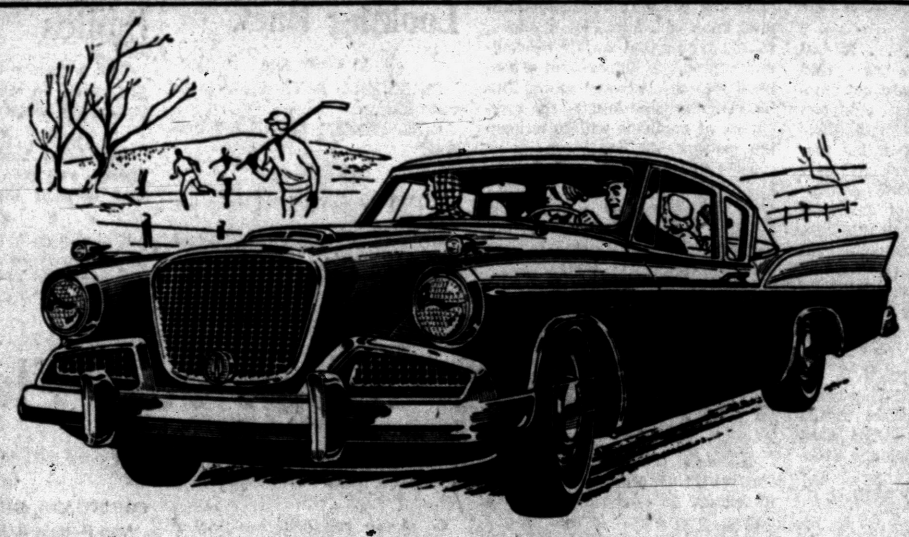

Right now American industries are trying to encourage the natural curiosity of the young—with assistance in education and training and good-paying jobs, as well. You can be sure your electric light and power company is a part of this movement.

We owe a lot to Tom Edison. We'd like to help your boy to be like him. We salute both on February 11th, 1958—SCIENCE YOUTH DAY—and also Mr. Edison's 111th Birthday.

FPC Control Fought by Gas Producers

Hearings on the HARRIS - O'HARA natural gas bill to free independent producers from Federal regulation are coming up soon in the House.

Similar bills passed by both House and Senate last year were vetoed by President EISENHOWER not on the merits of the case but because of what he termed "arrogant lobbying tactics" on the bills' behalf. Other bills were vetoed by President TRUMAN in 1950 on the ground that there was the clear possibility that "competition would not be effective in holding prices to a reasonable level."

★ ★ ★

Proponents of the measure to exempt producers of natural gas in the field from Federal rate regulation point out that the Federal Power Commission has never exercised the authority given it in the Natural Gas Act of 1938 to regulate natural gas at the source. Regulation, they contend, would threaten "the bold and risky exploring that's needed to assure adequate supplies of natural gas" and would stifle competition.

★ ★ ★

Opponents claim that gas production is a virtual monopoly and that exemption from regulation would increase prices to consumers from $500 to $700 million a year. Sen. WILEY of Wisconsin terms the bill "the most inflationary single measure conceivable."

★ ★ ★

The Natural Gas Act was passed as a result of exposure of price gouging and other abuses by interstate transmission companies. Amending that act, as the Harris-O'Hara bill suggests, would destroy consumer protection.

There are 40 million gas consumers in this country. They are not organized and must rely on the United States Mayors' Committee or Natural Gas Legislation representing 64 large cities, including Detroit, to plead their cause. Individuals should express their opinions by writing or wiring their Congressman.

Germany Should Bear Part of NATO Defense

West Germany seems to have flatly rejected Britain's claim for continued support for its NATO troops on German soil.

The Bonn Government has been contesting the claim for two years on the ground that it was invalid after the expiration of the one year agreement to the Paris treaty by which West Germany was to rearm.

★ ★ ★

Since the agreement was made on the understanding that as the NATO Allies were providing defense while Bonn was building up its own, the West German government should pay for troop maintenance. The stand taken by the United States, France and Britain is that West Germany should bear part of the expense of the NATO troops guarding its frontier against Russia.

The Germans counter with the argument that it is a continuation of the occupation costs even though Bonn is now a sovereign member of NATO. West Germany has the strongest economy in Europe and a huge surplus in its treasury, one reason for which is its small defense budget.

★ ★ ★

British currency is relatively weak and if Britain should have to pay the full cost of sustaining its army and air force in Germany, it would add an additional $140,000. About 14,000 British troops were withdrawn from the Republic last year and it is proposed to call home 8,500 more in April. But that still would leave 65,000 British troops in Germany.

So far of the 12 German divisions agreed on, only five at two-thirds strength are available for limited service with NATO. It seems only reasonable that the Bonn government should continue to help pay for Germany's protection until its own forces have reached full strength.

THE severe wintry weather the U. S. has been and is having causes one to wonder if the Russians haven't already gained control of the world's weather.

Opening of New Pits in County Is in Prospect

Good trader: Woman who can drop a handkerchief and pick up a mink.

Already our second industry, next after auto and truck making, the working of gravel and sand is assured of a big increase in Oakland County. If new construction work and highway improvement continues in Southeastern Michigan, it will be greatly expanded. Plans already are completed and the new property purchased for this purpose.

Soundings show that under our county are strata of gravel not to be exceeded anywhere in Michigan. Some idea of the future of the industry here can be gained from the fact that land which already had been platted for home building has been taken over for gravel, at prices running away over $1,000 per acre. At least 20 of the 25 townships in our county have the foundation for a profitable working for this purpose.

Messages From the Explorer

David Lawrence Says:

Economic Pickup Sure, but When?

WASHINGTON — The most fascinating game among businessmen—and it's a game with high stakes—is guessing just when the "pickup" will come in the economic situation of the country.

LAWRENCE

There's a distinct difference between "recovery" and "pickup." It is conceded that, when the "upturn" comes, it could be slow and might precede by a good many months an actual state of "recovery."

What is meant, of course, is that the generalities which have been heard for the last several weeks are being challenged as the first month and a half of 1958 have already passed. The idea that business will recover in the second six months—a widely held view—presupposes a certain regularity about economic time tables. Business trends don't behave that way, as one factor after another has to arise in an unpredictable sequence until the whole picture has changed.

Nobody can tell in advance when "confidence" will come back and when commitments will begin to be made for further expenditures. But when "confidence" has actually been restored, everyone will recognize its return.

The biggest fallacy of all is the widely spread argument—mostly by the politicians—that government itself can give business "a shot in the arm" or that a tax cut will be a panacea.

The administration itself has had to deal with such predictions cautiously and ambiguously because it doesn't want to seem to be a killjoy or to be "inflexible" in its approach to possible solutions. But the truth is a tax cut is unlikely unless a deep depression ensues.

★ ★ ★

Few here really believe in the concept. It could be a dangerous move, too, and destroy confidence in the dollar, especially if the federal deficit goes to $7 or $8 billion—which it could certainly do if, in addition to the expected drop in revenue yielding a deficit of $3 billion, there is a $3 or $4 billion loss in receipts due to tax reductions.

The fatal error of the 1930s was "pump priming" on the consumer side. It didn't result in the building of more plant or equipment. The existing capacity was enough at the time to take care of demand. Hence the money poured into "pump priming" didn't have much velocity or turnover.

It didn't bring re-employment to the millions in the bread lines from 1933 through 1939. The war in 1940 really brought the upward swing.

For it was only when the heavy-good industries were given public works and armament projects that fuller employment came back. It will do little good to the automobile workers of Detroit, so many of whom are out of work, if the "take home" pay of the other employes of the country is increased by only a couple of dollars a week through tax reduction. This could help buy more food but it will not help much to buy automobiles even on the installment plan.

★ ★ ★

It is by adding substantial increases to the employment rolls generally that industries like steel and copper and other metals get the stimulus to recover. This can come only when a general prosperity has been achieved. Heavy goods involves a multiplicity of transactions and, unlike consumer increases, they permeate the whole economy.

The truth is that, with a vast population growing larger and larger each month and with America's plant and capacity still less than is essential to meet the requirements of an expanding economy, the recovery is inevitable. The question of exactly what month will see the "pickup" is less important than the fact that the "pickup" is certain.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

And they sing the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying. Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of saints. — Rev. 15:3.

★ ★ ★

One of the most essential preparations for eternity is delight in praising God: a higher acquirement, I do think than even delight and devotedness in prayer. — Thomas Chalmers.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Dad's Place at Childbirth —Right in Delivery Room

A Massachusetts reader sends a news item about a leading obstetrician who told the American Medical Association —

DR. BRADY

". . . It just isn't true that men are not emotionally equipped to be with their wives at the moment of delivery. Dr. Mario A. Castallo of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, said a man's place is in the delivery at his wife's side, rather than pacing the waiting room."

★ ★ ★

Well, I'll be jiggered! This twentieth century obstetrician would have the prospective father right there where a man belongs when his baby is being born. OF COURSE HE'LL BE THERE IF HE'S A MAN!

If he's an irresponsible mamma's boy, a nincompoop, he'll much prefer to wait in the monkey cage with the rest of the sissies — or maybe down at the corner bar dulling his consciousness with America's favorite narcotic.

Dr. Castallo insisted that the prospective father should attend prenatal instructions with his wife.

This, I think, is the easy, natural way for a prospective father to behave like a man: Study with his wife whatever primer, pamphlet or book the doctor recommends. Your columnist recommends a booklet, Preparing for Maternity, for which send me in care of this newspaper, 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

GO WITH WIFE

Whenever the expectant mother goes to the doctor for examination, instruction or advice, the expectant father should go with her. After all it is THEIR baby, not her's.

I still say, be it ever so humble there's no place like home to have a baby. If your home is fit to live in, it is safer for mother and baby than any hospital.

Many young couples who would like to have their baby at home tell me they can't find a doctor who will attend childbirth at home.

That's too bad. But I'm sure it's not THAT bad.

It takes patience and determination, but if you will canvass all the doctors in the community, by telephone or personal interview, you'll find ONE who delivers at home.

★ ★ ★

If this seems undignified, unconventional or too daring, you can always give up, surrender your freedom and self-respect and submit to whatever rules and regulations the hospital authorities impose upon you. Such, for instance, as the claim that a law or ordinance prohibits entrance of a husband into the delivery room. This lie shows to what lengths the merchants of medicine will go to keep the peasants in line.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Wants Skating Programs to Replace School Dances

I was happy to see the picture in The Pontiac Press of the group of young people skating at Lincoln Junior High. I hope this better type of program will be carried on by more of our good PTA members. I'm very much against these dancing programs in the schools. No good comes of them that I can see. I've visited a few and know.

In answer to World War II Veteran, during the time someone voted for Roosevelt and Truman, you went overseas and I hope came back with a whole body.

My son came back with just his torso. He left his legs on the banks of the Rhine. Now he's going to work every day, trying to help the disabled veteran to have a better life as a counselor for disabled veterans. So don't feel sorry for yourself.

Would you trade a pair of good legs for his job? The job wasn't just handed to him. He worked for it because he thought he could help disabled veterans from feeling sorry for themselves.

Offers His Solution to Curb Recession

It looks like everyone has a way to stop the recession. Some say share the profit. Some say cut tax. Some say cut wages.

Now if they want to help, let them pay 80 per cent of the working man's check for unemployment, and mail it to him so he doesn't have to stand in line. Next, the welfare should be increased and people that ask for help should be treated like people. This should be done at once, not in July.

A tax cut won't help, when you haven't a check to pay on. A profit of the welfare won't help. The working man should have something to say for himself.

Hunter-Farmer Tells His Story

I was interested in Mr. Gorsline's opposite side of the dog controversy because he inadvertently printed the hunter's side of the story, too. As a fox hunter and also a farmer, I feel qualified on both sides.

I agree that most fox hunters are nice people and respect the farmer and don't want to cause him concern or damage. I give him credit for being man enough to look up the hunter and tell him his hounds were exciting his sheep. The hunter caught his hounds and Mr. Gorsline's trouble was over. Isn't that the fair and simple way to settle the matter?

Hounds cannot help hunting. They're bred for generations to run fox and are there by their master's wish. He's the one to answer for it. The hunter feels no one has the right to kill a valuable hound because he's going across a farmer's property and isn't doing any damage. A law that is workable must protect everyone and I believe the present dog law inadequate and should be changed.

Cain was real suave about the business. He asked Abel, "Do you want to join my club?"

They say the Sputter-niks will pack the same corrosive circumference. I've picked out a nice cave in the hills just right for a family of one.

You must remember Abel was called out on one strike too.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Compliments Aren't Just Flattery

Maude's true experience at the millinery shop might have happened to you and to me on many occasions if we could have read the minds of our co-workers. So resolve NOW that you will actively spread kindness by paying at least three compliments daily. Every word of praise helps make earth more like heaven.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case X-326: Maude B., aged 45, was a cultured member of my Bible Class at the Chicago Temple.

★ ★ ★

DR. CRANE

After the "Compliment Club" had proved so successful in one of my psychology classes at Northwestern University, I decided to use it as a Sunday school project.

So I explained it in detail one Sunday. And I pointed out the fact that compliments are not flattery.

No, indeed! Compliments are sincere statements of praise for demonstrable virtues or talents. You can honestly compliment even your worst enemy if you'll just divorce yourself from your bias or hatred.

For even our enemies have some good traits! Nobody is totally devoid of merit.

Oh, we may dislike praising our foes and need to grit our teeth to force our grudging praise across them, but if we actually do so, it will not be long until our former enemy likes us and vice-versa.

★ ★ ★

Abraham Lincoln thus said the best way to destroy our enemy is to make him our friend!

"But, Dr. Crane, aren't you exaggerating somewhat?" you may ask.

So please consider the case of Maude. She worked in a millinery shop in Chicago. And she decided to join the "Compliment Club."

ENEMIES BECOME FRIENDS

It was a blustery March afternoon when Maude happened to realize she had paid only two of her three compliments for the day.

Since she was planning to hasten home right after work, she didn't know where she'd encounter a third person to whom she could pay a bit of praise.

Across from Maude, however, sat a middle aged woman named Laura. Maude disliked Laura as being snobbish and aloof.

But she remembered my statement in Sunday school that you can be quite sincere in praising your enemy if you just pick out a true merit and phrase a compliment thereon.

So Maude finally mustered up her resolution.

★ ★ ★

"Laura," she began, "I've worked here for 15 years and almost every time I have looked up I have seen your head silhouetted against the window behind you.

"I have never told you this before, but you have the most beautiful profile I have ever seen."

Well, Laura looked up, startled. Then tears came into her eyes and Laura's chin quivered. She finally pulled out her handkerchief to dab at her eyes.

"What's the matter, Laura?" Maude asked, in surprise. "I really meant that as a sincere compliment."

"Thank you," Laura answered, "and I appreciate it more than you can know. For I have worked here 17 years and that's the first kind word anybody has ever given me."

CHRISTIANS, BEWARE

Maude later told me Laura was probably correct, for Maude added:

"Dr. Crane, I guess that was the first kind word I had ever said to her, and here I am supposed to be a Christian and a faithful member of your Bible Class. So I was conscious stricken.

The next day Maude invited Laura to have lunch with her. And slowly the other women in that department began including Laura, who had simply been starving for friends.

But Laura was a shy introvert, so didn't know how to start conversation or launch the friendship process.

So she had frozen up to hide her heartache. Her co-workers had mistaken her aloofness for haughtiness and indifference.

Resolve right now to join the "Compliment Club" and spread positive attitudes and verbal sunshine every day. Don't be a sour-puss Christian!

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Junior Editors Quiz on ANIMALS

QUESTION: Do goats really eat tin cans?

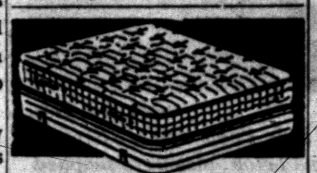

ANSWER: The goat has been called the "poor man's cow" because it gives lots of milk in relation to its size and costs little to keep. It is a rugged animal able to find enough food to eat on poor dry land where horses, cows and sheep would starve.

In fact a goat, although mainly a grass eater, will chew just about anything, including washing hung on a line as this goat is doing. Jokers say that a goat even eats tin cans. This is not true, but he may crush a can in his strong teeth to see if it still contains any food.

Doctors Report:

70% OF ALL MENTAL PATIENTS COULD IMPROVE OR RECOVER, IF...

Every year, a quarter of a million people enter mental hospitals. When that happens, is all hope lost? Must the door to our free, happy world stay closed forever to these unfortunate people?

The answer is an emphatic "No!" Mental illness today is not hopeless. In fact, with what science already knows about mental illness, 70% of all mental patients could improve or recover completely! Why don't they? Simply because most mental hospitals do not have the staff, the equipment, and the facilities they need to put this scientific knowledge into everyday practice!

And that's why we turn with hope to you! You can do so much because there's so much to be done. Your understanding and support can help people suffering from mental illness get well . . . can help them return to their families, their jobs, their lives!

We who have never faced the darkness of mental illness can do much to bring others out of it. Today, won't you please work with and support your local Mental Health Association?

U.S. Turns Into Gals' Stronghold

WASHINGTON (INS) — The United States is becoming a woman's world, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

★ ★ ★

The department's Women's Bureau has published a study of women's status in 1956-57 which shows the weaker sex holds nearly a third of the nation's jobs, comprises nearly a fifth of all labor union members, a third of the nation's college students and cast about half the votes in the last presidential election.

POWER AT POLLS

The report called "Spotlight on Women in the United States," noted:

"In the course of 10 presidential elections, women have achieved a power at the polls equal to that of men, whose voting history covers 43 presidential elections."

★ ★ ★

Women also outnumber men as stockholders, although men own a majority of the shares. Two-thirds of the women shareholders are housewives and nonemployed women.

The 22 million women presently at work represent over a third of the total adult female population in the U.S. and almost a third of the labor force. An estimated 3.4 million are members of national and international labor unions.

★ ★ ★

Six million women are office or clerical workers, some three million are factory workers and over two million are in professional occupations.

Professional opportunities, according to the report, widen as women in increasing numbers attain degrees. In the 1955-56 school year women earned over 132,000 degrees, close to a third of the total granted.

Dear Abby....

You Cannot Be That Handy, Andy — So Leave the Job for Your Dentist

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am wondering if you would know where I could buy one of those do-it-yourself dental kits. I have a big family and I don't make much money.

ABBY

The dentist wants $200 to give me a upper and lower set of teeth and I can't stand that kind of pressure. If you could tell me where to find one of those do-it-yourself dental kits, I am sure I could do it myself as I am very handy with my hands.

ANDY

DEAR ANDY: You might be handy, Andy, but it takes an expert with much skill and training to make a satisfactory set of dentures. I've never heard of do-it-yorself dental kits, and doubt if there is anything like this on the market.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I traded a neighbor my husband's old tuxedo for what was supposed to be a thoroughbred Siamese cat. This cat is so dumb that she doesn't even know her own name. I call her and she is 3 feet away from me and she doesn't even look up.

My son says that all cats are naturally dumb and I should not expect too much from this cat because, after all it is not a dog — it is only a cat. Is he right or can you train cats to come when you call them and so forth?

CAT OWNER

DEAR OWNER: Cats can be trained. If your cat doesn't even look up when you call her, maybe she is deaf. Take her to a vet. Some cats are smarter than dogs.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am always so embarrassed whenever I get a gift of cash. In the first place I think it shows bad taste for a person to give someone money because it shows that they don't even want to take the time or give a little thought to selecting a present. Writing "thank you" notes for a money gift is so hard. What can I say, "Thank you for the money".

NOT PLEASED

DEAR NOT: Your attitude is wrong. Many people give a gift of cash because they are not sure of the size or your preference of color—or simply because they want you to have exactly what you want. A gift of cash is far better than receiving a "white elephant" or something that has to be exchanged.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: You are always telling someone who is in love with someone besides their own spouse to fill up the holes in their heads. You might be able to fill up the holes in your head, but how do you stop the ache in your heart?

It's Impolite to Be Late for Dates

Girl Is Mistaken in Purposely Keeping Beaus Waiting

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My girl friend has just told me something that I can hardly believe is true, and so I am writing to you to find out if it is really so. It's about girls who keep their boy friends waiting. When she has a date, she always keeps the boy waiting 10 minutes and sometimes even longer.

"When I asked her why she did this, she said that it was correct to keep a man waiting so that she won't seem too eager. Will you please give me your opinion on this?"

Answer: I can't imagine where she learned that rudeness is politeness. I agree that if she were to sit out on the front steps looking up the street she might be considered overeager, but to be ready promptly is one of the very first exactions of good manners —at least in her own house.

Even if she were meeting him downtown for dinner, she should be no more than a few minutes late. The only reason for this is that the girl should not be kept waiting alone for a man in any public place.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When one puts a forkful of food into one's mouth, is it proper to put it back on the tongue and close the teeth on the fork, but not the lips, or is it correct to close the mouth (lips) completely as one removes the fork from the mouth:

"I have seen many women follow the former procedure. I realize it is done to keep from smearing one's lipstick but it does not look correct to me and I would like your opinion on this."

Answer: You are quite right, the first maneuver you describe is not correct.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I received a black fox muff for a gift, and I would like to carry it when I go out in the evening to a restaurant or a nightclub. Is it proper to take it with me to the table or must I check it?"

Answer: If the muff is not in anyone's way at the table you may take it with you.

Banish Fear of Parental Irresponsibility

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Weeks ago Norman's father—who's divorced from Norman's mother — promised to send her his December check in time to buy the children's Christmas presents.

★ ★ ★

He broke his word. So a week before Christmas she asked her brother to lend her some money.

As she thanked him for the check, he said angrily, "Oh, stop. What else can I do? Harry never kept his word to you when you were married to him. Why do you expect him to keep it now that you're divorced?"

In the next room 10-year-old Norman pushed away the comic book he was reading and went out to the kitchen. He was still there, leaning his face on his hand when his uncle left.

But his mother ignored him because she didn't know what kind of comfort he needed. And in consequence felt more discouraged with herself than ever.

THREE COURSES

According to child psychiatrist Dr. J. Louise Despert, there are three things we can do for the child to whom we have given an irresponsible father or mother.

First, we can reduce Norman's anxiety over his father's unreliability by accepting it calmly ourselves. Second, we can disconnect him from this destructive trait in his father. Third, we can remind him of what is good in his absent parent.

We can say to Norman, "Don't look so unhappy, darling. Daddy is just a person who can't do what other people expect him to. That's why he breaks his word so often. He's different from us. We don't mind making promises.

"You, for example, have faithfully kept your promise to phone me when you want to stay longer over at Billy's house. Daddy wouldn't be able to do that. Yet he sent you your electric train for your birthday. That was because you didn't expect him to send anything."

★ ★ ★

Norman has his own experience of his father's unreliability. He needs not a pretense that the fault doesn't exist, but removal of his fear of it.

DON'T FEEL HELPLESS

We are bound to feel hurt when a child is hurt by some fault in the other parent we chose for him. We don't have to suffer a sense of helplessness, too.

Dr. Despert's suggestions for action in these situation not only give comfort to Norman but reduce our sense of self-reproachful helplessness.

But They'll Yield to Exercises

Oversize Thighs Prove Stubborn

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Those women who joined my Eight - Week Self - Improvement Marathon already are writing in to tell me about some of the wonderful results they have achieved!

★ ★ ★

Pounds and inches have dropped away. They are gaining or losing where they wish. Many mention a pickup in energy and a feeling of youthfulness which had been lost in the rolls and bulges. It is wonderful for me to know that I have been able to help so many of you.

Quite a few of these readers already have banished most of their figure faults, but still are struggling with large thighs. This is one of the most stubborn spots and usually the last to give in to diet and exercise.

Out - of - proportion thighs are a source of distress to many women with otherwise nice figures. They are stubborn but will yield to a woman's determination. This condition is a result of sagging muscles and fatty deposits. Today I am going to give you an exercise which will mold the thighs into lovelier lines.

★ ★ ★

Stand facing a table. Take hold of it with both hands. Bend the right knee slightly and at the same time raise the left leg forward with a stiff knee. Slowly straighten the right knee and return left leg to usual position. Repeat several times.

Now bend the left knee and raise the right leg forward with a stiff knee. Straighten left knee and return right leg to position. Repeat several times and continue. After you have done this exercise some time, you will be able to go all the way down until you are sitting on one heel.

The exercise just described firms the thigh muscles. Do the following one also: Lie on the floor on your back. Bend both knees and place the feet on the floor fairly close to your hips. Raise the heels from the floor. Keep the toes on the floor as you roll from side to side, slapping the thigh at the end of each roll.

If you failed to join Marathon and would like to do so for a loss of up to 20 pounds in eight weeks time, send 10 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope with your requet for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Today's Parents Act Shy About the Word 'Wrong'

How Can Teenagers Know the Rules of Society Unless They're Told?

By RUTH MILLETT

If a kid gets in trouble in Harris County, Tex., the sheriff's department has a memo for his parents to read and mull over.

They have given their memo the frightening but thought-provoking title, "Twelve Rules for Parents in Raising Juvenile Delinquents."

Every point is a good one, but it seems to me the most effective rule is No. 5:

"Avoid the use of the word 'wrong.' It may develop in the child a 'guilt complex.' This will prepare him to believe that when he is punished later on for stealing cars and assaulting women, society is 'against him' and that he is being persecuted."

Parents of today's teenagers have been mighty shy about using that word "wrong."

We've given Sis and Junior just about every other reason we can think of for not doing wrong things but the real reason: "Don't do it because it is WRONG."

★ ★ ★

And when a teenager does disobey society's rules and gets in trouble as a result, we look for every kind of excuse to explain his behavior.

He comes from a broken home. Or his parents are too strict or too lenient. Or he is "insecure." Or he has had too much, or had too little.

We just can't quite bring ourselves to explain to our children, "He did wrong — and now he's paying the price for it."

How can we honestly expect our children to know the difference between right and wrong, unless we use the labels?

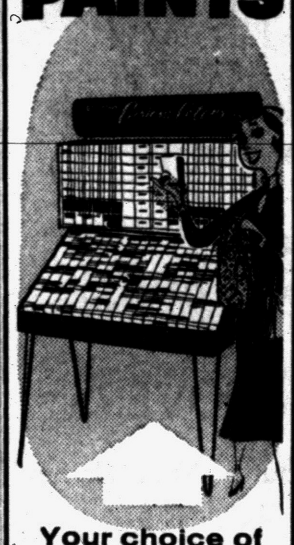

★ ★ ★

And how can we teach them to expect unpleasant consequences from wrongdoing so long as we blame everybody and everything for the trouble a gid gets himself into — except the kid's own choice between right and wrong?

DePauw Case Before Judge

Acting Lieutenant, City Civil Service Dispute Police Promotion

Oral arguments in the legal battle between Acting Police Lt. John DePauw and the Pontiac Civil Service Commission were held yesterday before Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick.

★ ★ ★

DePauw is contending that he is confirmed in the rank of lieutenant and has secured an injunction against his demotion or the promotion of any other officer to that rank: He was appointed acting lieutenant prior to the adoption of civil service last April.

Howard I. Bond, DePauw's attorney, asked the court for permission to amend his pleadings. He sought to charge that the Civil Service Commission had improperly delegated its judgment when it appointed a panel of police experts to interview orally officers seeking the rank of lieutenant.

William Ewart, city attorney, argued that a separate proceeding by writ was required to raise this issue and urged the judge to turn down the motion to amend.

Judge Hartrick said that as the case now stood, he would be inclined to rule for the commission and dissolve the injunction, but that he wanted to give Bond a chance to prove his right to amend the proceedings.

He said he agreed generally with Ewart's contention that Bond should raise the examination question by writ, but he would give Bond 10 days to prove otherwise.

Fire Dance Shakes 'em Up at Montego Bay

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica (INS) —Adele Astaire Douglass — thousands of miles and a quarter-century removed from the professional dancing spotlight — nuzzled her toes rhythmically in the cool sand.

"I don't mind a bit growing old," she said, "but I hate the thought of having people thinking me silly.

"And down here, away from my needlepoint and my gardening, I can't keep my feet still. At my elderly age, I have to get up and dance—I really make a spectacle of myself. You see all those people down the beach? Goodness knows what they think when I get into a fire dance . . ."

★ ★ ★

Adele (Mrs. Kingman) Douglass squinted down the exquisite white seaside of "Round Hill," one of the palmiest, fanciest international resorts in the world. Her fellow-guests were such as Oscar Hammerstein (playing chess), Alfred Hitchcock (rotundly relaxing), the William Paleys, David Selznick and Jennifer Jones, the Henry Fords, Sen. Jack Kennedy.

"They wouldn't say anything, of course, but I know what they're thinking." She laughed unexpectedly. "I know what I'D think if I could see me."

★ ★ ★

The dance she referred to is a primitive, sensuous fire dance, believed to have been a ritual with the Arawak Indians, who lived it up on Jamaica Island centuries before the British came in and tried to tame it down.

WILDEST MUSIC EVER

"I don't know where it came from—who cares?" shrugged Fred Astaire's sister. "All I know is it's the wildest music I ever heard, and it has no melody. At night, you're sitting quietly dining on the patio, and all at once you hear a man tootle-de-tooting on a whistle high up on the hill, and there's a drum beat with it."

And then, "They come dancing down the hillside, tootling and beating, and they look like they're on fire." (Actually, they are on fire. The dancers are encased in a framework of combustible materials: Some wear sashes and anklets of flame, others wear horses' heads that glow like torches.)

Drawn like a moth to the flames, Adele spontaneously flings her still agile, compact body into the wild dance. It is the most fascinating show on the island. The natives don't know who she is, but they like her enough to somehow keep from searing her in the frenzy.

The Douglasses have fire insurance, but no indemnification on stage fright.

Oscar Hammerstein looked up lazily from the chess game, executed in the tropic sun and a pair of swimming trunks, and said the reason he comes to Montego Bay for vacations is that "it's hard to concentrate on anything." So why bother?

Boys Claim Blaze Set by Accident

Two Commerce Township juveniles have admitted to Oakland County sheriff's detectives that they accidentally set fire to a house under construciton Sunday evening, causing an estimated $2,500 damage, according to the Sheriff's Department.

★ ★ ★

The brothers, ages 11 and 14, told detectives they were playing in the unfinished house at 4865 Halberd Dr., and had built a "fort" in the front room out of bales of straw they found there.

They had built a small fire in a tin can inside their "fort" but said they thought they had put it out before leaving. Later, they saw flames in the house.

Before calling the Commerce Township Fire Department, the youths said they re-entered the house and tried to put out the fire themselves. No official charges have been made against the boys as yet and they have been left in the custody of their parents, said detectives.

Mental Health Authorities Speak

Explain Problem in Oakland

Legislators and mental health authorities agreed that an informed public is necessary for better legislation regarding the care and treatment of the mentally ill when the Oakland County Chapter of the Michigan Society for Mental Health met Monday at Kingsley Inn.

Principal speakers were Charles F. Wagg, Director of the Michigan Department of Mental Health, and Dr. Jacques S. Gottlieb, director of Lafayette Clinic.

Wagg told members of the society that more funds are needed in child guidance centers where there is not sufficient staff to handle youngsters who are in need of care.

With this needed personnel, he said, the waiting lists could be cut down and more youngsters treated.

This, he pointed out, is a method of prevention of more severe mental problems. If a child is denied treatment, he often is placed in a state institution as a result, at a much higher cost to the state, Wagg said.

★ ★ ★

Additional funds are needed for expanding hospitals and for the treatment of emotionally disturbed children in state hospitals, he pointed out. As an example, he stated that there were 69 admissions in 1952 and 360 in 1957.

Dr. Gottlieb explained the research and training programs carried on at Lafayette Clinic, in Detroit pointing to the new and improved methods of caring for the mentally ill.

LONG WAITING LIST

The more serious problem facing the state is in the area of the mentally retarded child, he explained. With increasing facilities, there still is a waiting list of 900 and over 1,000 are in temporary leased buildings.

★ ★ ★

Invited to hear the speakers were State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, Rep. Leslie Hudson, Rep. Don A. Brown, Rep. Walter McMann, Rep. Farrell Roberts, Dr. Ivan A. LaCore, Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, Cyril E. Miller and Fred Smith, members of the board of supervisors and Dr. Herbert Raskin, a member of the Michigan Society of Neurology and Psychiatry.

Salvagers to Tackle Ship Sunk in 1628

STOCKHOLM — Salvagers hope to bring to the surface of Stockholm harbor next spring or summer the Swedish man of war Vasa, which capsized and sank August 10, 1628, at the beginning of her maiden voyage. About 400 people were aboard.

The 1,200-ton galleon, a three-decker, mounted 60 to 70 guns, most of them weighing about 3 tons each, which probably made her topheavy. At least 17 of the bronze cannons have already been brought ashore.

Salvage efforts were begun as early as 1660. The ship lies in 100 feet of water and is on an even keel in clay under 7 feet of mud and silt. She is built of oak and her hull is so tight that divers have not been able to force a knife between her planks.

Famous Letter to Lincoln Dear to Romeo Families

By LEE WINBORN
Romeo Correspondent

ROMEO — Two local families will have reason tomorrow to remember the little girl whose request led Abraham Lincoln to grow a beard.

They are the descendants of Grace Bedell who, at age 11, wrote to Lincoln from her home in Westfield, Chautauqua County, N.Y. In her letter the child told the presidential candidate whiskers would improve his looks.

Cartoonists had found the gaunt Illinois Republican an easy mark for political caricature. As it developed, instead of ignoring the childish petition, Lincoln decided to heed Grace's advice and make the radical change in his appearance.

This story has been told repeatedly in Romeo schoolrooms on Feb, 12 by the children of Juliana Bedell Dodge and Anne Phillips Moran. Mrs. Dodge, 66145 Van Dyke, and Mrs. Moran, 221 W. St. Clair St., are both grandnieces of Grace Bedell.

Their children used to take a photographic copy of the original letter to school to show their classmates. It was given to Grace Bedell's nephew, Levant E. Bedell, by Attorney George A. Dondero of Royal Oak.

DONDERO

Bedell, Mrs. Dodge's father, was president of the Romeo Savings Bank in 1929—the year the letter was discovered by Dondero.

The Royal Oak lawyer later became U.S. Congressman from the 17th Congressional District. He was a personal friend of Robert Todd Lincoln, the President's son, who died in July 1926.

★ ★ ★

While visiting Lincoln's family three years later in Manchester, Vt., the subject of the letter arose. When asked if he would like to see it, Dondero was amazed to find it was still in existence—having been carried from Springfield to Washington and then on to the family vault in this small New England town.

Mrs. Lincoln gave the letter to her Michigan friend to deliver to its author, Mrs. Grace Bedell Billings in Delphos, Kan. Mrs. Billings, in turn, presented it to Dondero, who still numbers it one of his most cherished possessions.

The late Romeo banker's wife, Mrs. Bedell, keeps the copy of the letter in her Church street home along with related newspaper and magazine articles about the story—now a legend of Americana.

This is the exact wording of the famous letter dated Oct. 15, 1860:

Hon. A. B. Lincoln

Dear Sir

My father has just come home from the fair and brought home your picture and Mr. Hamlin's. I am a little girl only eleven years old, but want you should be President of the United States very much so I hope you wont think me very bold to write to a great man as you are. Have you any little girls about as large as I am, if so give them my love and tell her to write to me; if you cannot answer this letter, I have got 4 brothers and part of them will vote for you any way and if you will let your whiskers grow I will try and get the rest of them to vote for you, you would look a great deal better for your face is so thin. All the ladies like whiskers and they would tease their husbands to vote for you and then you would be President. My father is a going to vote for you and if I was a man I would vote for you to but I will try to get every one to vote for you that I can. I think that rail fence around your picture makes it look pretty. I have got a little baby sister, she is nine weeks old and is just as cunning as can be. When you direct your letter direct it to Grace Bedell, Westfield, Chautauqua County, New York.

Historians know Lincoln received the letter and replied because Mrs. Billings had the answer framed and hung it in the living room of her Kansas home. There it remained until her death in 1936.

In his reply Lincoln said he regretted "the necessity of saying" that he "had no daughters" and closed with the question, "As to the whiskers, having never worn any, do you think people would call it a piece of silly affection if I were to begin now?"

When Lincoln's train stopped in Westfield, N.Y., on Feb. 16, 1861, the president-elect asked to meet his youthful correspondent. According to the story, Lincoln shook Grace's hand, then stooped and kissed her before hundreds of well-wishers.

"You see, I let these whiskers grow for you, Grace," Lincoln said, pointing to his full-grown beard.

★ ★ ★

The Grace Bedell story provided the basis for a delightful book entitled "Lincoln's Little Correspondent" by Hertha Pauli. Reference to it also was made in William E. Barton's book, "The Women Lincoln Loved."

Two South Oakland Cities Favor Increased School Tax

The apparent voter reaction against increased school taxes went into reverse yesterday in special elections in two major South Oakland County cities.

★ ★ ★

Oak Park School District residents approved an 8½-mill operating tax increase for five years with 1,478 voting for the proposal and 1,216 against it.

In Royal Oak, the Board of Education's request for a continuation of the additional $5.29 operating tax now in effect was approved by a margin of just 49 votes. Of the 4,947 who voted, 2,498 were in favor of the tax proposal and 2,449 were opposed.

Oak Park voters have approved additional taxes for school maintenance 10 times in the past nine years. Yesterday's tax approval will mean an additional 16 dollars on each $1,000 of assessed valuation on property in the school district.

Royal Oak's approval of the $5.29 operating tax will keep it in effect for another five years. School taxes in Royal Oak cost the average home owner $20.20 on each $1,000 of assessed valuation.

School tax issues in Berkley, Madison Heights and the Lamphere School District were soundly beaten in special school elections last November.

A report from the Romeo Volunteer Fire Department revealed that several townships were delinquent in payment for fire calls. Oming said he, as Washington Township treasurer, was "unaware" that his township was in arrears.

Councilmen then learned he had no records to consult on the matter and said it was "not surprising" he did not know how the account stood. They authorized bills to be sent again to the townships within the next two weeks.

The four players nominated as the outstanding players we had seen last season were back Jim Drake of Lake Orion, tackle Lou Pavloff of Hazel Park, center Steve Stieler of Wyandotte and end Jim Schultz of Bay City Central.

When the team came out a few weeks ago, Stieler received high recognition in being named to the 4th team. The others were honorable mentions.

All are eligible to play in the 1958 All-America Prep Classic at Crump Stadium in Memphis, Tenn., next August.

From here, the outstanding players will be picked to play the Pennsylvania High School Stars at Hershey Stadium in Hershey, Pa.

Seems quite an honor for the Keystone State to have the best of 47 states play the Pennsylvania stars.

SIGNS PACT — Tiger outfield star Al Kaline signed his 1958 contract yesterday at a reported slight cut. The fleet flychaser is expected to earn $30,000 this season.

Kaline Agrees to Slight Cut in '58 Salary

DETROIT (AP)—Slugger Al Kaline has ended his mild salary differences with the Detroit Tigers. He took a slight cut in pay.

The 23-year-old rightfielder, a member of the American League All-Star outfield for three years running, came to terms yesterday in a brief conference with Gen. Mgr. John McHale.

Kaline's 1958 contract is believed to call for a salary of about $30,000.

Chiefs to Face Two Top Rated Teams in State

Strong Highland Park Has Not Lost at Home Since 1950

Pontiac Central gets its two toughest assignments in one week tonight and Friday by facing the second and third ranked teams in the state's class A prep ranks.

Powerful Highland Park which hasn't lost a game on its own court since 1950 is favored to make Pontiac its 9th victim in 10 starts.

The Parkers under Jim Wink posted a 16-1 record last season among which Pontiac was a victim on the PCH court. This year Highland Park went through seven straight games before losing a return match at Grosse Pointe last Tuesday.

The Parkers were the number one team in the state according to one poll until the loss to the Pointers, but it only dropped Highland Park a single notch to second place.

★ ★ ★

The mid-year graduation of forward John Bradley just before the Grosse Pointe game hurt the Parkers, but Wink still has a well rounded ball club led by all-state senior forward Gene Lawson.

Lawson, who stands 6-2, is a former Pontiac resident, and he was responsible for knocking the Chiefs out of the unbeaten ranks a year ago on the PCH court with his dead-eye shooting and rebounding.

Dick Turner, 6-feet-4, is Bradley's replacement, except that he will move into the center spot with Larome Hancock, 5-10 at forward.

★ ★ ★

At guards, Highland Park has John Cannis, 5-11 and John Fundackian, 5-9.

There is a possibility that Pontiac Central coach Art Van Ryzin may miss the contest. Van Ryzin has been in Wisconsin because of the illness of his mother and should he be able to make connections he may try to go directly from the airport to the game.

Meanwhile Fred Zittel, assistant coach, is handling the team. The Chiefs are now 8-3 for the season after last week's 56-52 win over Arthur Hill.

★ ★ ★

The play of junior forward Bill Hayward has been heartening for Pontiac since he joined the team four games ago. He has 45 points in four games and has done well on the boards.

How well Pontiac can handle the boards against Highland Park will be a big factor in the final result. Lawson is the Parkers' one-man portable sweeper and with 6-4 Turner the task will be tougher.

★ ★ ★

Dick Whitmer at the other forward, Harrison Munson at center and Charley Barge and John Bandy may get the nod at tipoff time.

A jammed house in the little Highland Park gym is expected. Only 900 fit into the hard-breathing quarters.

Layne Hopes to Return to Lions Next Season

DETROIT (AP) — Quarterback Bobby Layne said today the injury that sidelined him for the last part of the Detroit Lions' 1957 football season has healed completely. He expects to play football again next season "if I can cut the mustard."

The veteran quarterback, in town on oil business, said doctors removed the cast from his leg 10 days ago.

He suffered a dislocated ankle and a fracture of a small bone in his leg in the Lions' Dec. 8 game against the Cleveland Browns. Layne missed the final regular season game against the Chicago Bears, the Western Division playoff contest at San Francisco and the world championship game against Cleveland.

"My doctors gave me a real good report," said Layne. "they said the leg and ankle healed in perfect position and they believe everything will be all right."

Layne said he has been taking daily whirlpool treatments and plans to play a lot of golf once he returns to his home in Lubbock, Tex.

"It's still a wait-and-see deal about next year, though," Layne added. "I'll do a lot of running and give my leg a thorough test this summer before I ever come to camp. I'll know whether I'm all right then.

"If I can cut the mustard, then I wouldn't think of retiring. On the other hand, I'd quit in a minute if I felt I couldn't go 100 per cent."

★ ★ ★

Layne would not speculate on the Lions chances when they defend their world championship in 1958.

★ ★ ★

"I still can't get over the 1957 team," he said. "we had to have more than just playing ability — something bigger and more important held us together."

Bottle Barrage Halts Game

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — They're going to try and get around to ending the second game of a doubleheader between Cuba and Puerto Rico today in the Caribbean baseball tournament after the fans vented their feelings with a barrage of trash when their favorites lost a lead and caused the game to be suspended.

★ ★ ★

The deluge of bottles and cans happened last night when Cuba had the bases loaded and one run in that erased a 4-3 Puerto Rico lead in the last of the ninth inning.

★ ★ ★

Milwaukee Braves fireballer Juan Pizarro had taken over just previously and Alejandro Leroux hit a ball to right field that umpires said was trapped by right fielder Marcial Allen. The tying run scored easily.

The crowd began throwing missles and officials immediately suspended the game until tonight. It will be resumed with the bases loaded and none out with Pizarro pitching.

Group Winner at PKC Show Wins N.Y. Class

One of the area group winners in the recent Pontiac Kennel club show here has gone best of breed in the big Westminster show in Madison Square Garden, N.Y. in the French bulldog class.

Ch. Bouquet Nouvel Ami, owned by the Ralph Wests of Livonia, topped the class last night, as two other Pontiac area dogs placed high in the German Shepherd class. Ami needs just one more win to set a Westminster show record. This was his 6th straight class victory.

Luxi von Liebestraum (Emil Lederer, Union Lake) went best of breed, and Tux of Forjan (Rudy Buchmann, Pontiac) went reserve winner in last night's judging.

Show will wind up tonight with selection of the coveted Westminster best-in-show award.

'One-Man' Quintet Beats OLSM, 77-56

Orchard Lake St. Mary's cagers last night ran into a pair of Tartars in their invasion of Hamtramck St. Ladislaus court, and wound up on the short end of a 77-56 count, 3rd loss for the Eaglets against 10 wins. Game was originally slated for tonight.

★ ★ ★

Len Dziuk and John Karp hit for 56 points to equal the Eaglet's entire production. Dziuk had 40, one less than the school's record. The 24-point average cager hit from everywhere. Eaglets reported today. For St. Mary's Stan Moniuszko had 13, Art Goisdzinski had 12 and Chet Wlodkowski 10.

Eaglets entertain Detroit St. Thomas Thursday in the 2nd of five additional contests just announced for St. Mary.

Sooners Reject Ex-Baylor Star

Refuse Scholarship to McClellan as Release Is Denied

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Mike McClellan, star athlete who pulled out of Baylor and enrolled last week at Oklahoma, still had a home with the Bears today if he wanted it.

Oklahoma turned a cold shoulder to the Baylor football and track star yesterday when Coach Bud Wilkinson refused him an athletic scholarship.

Baylor had steadfastly refused to give the 18-year-old Stamford, Tex., freshman a letter of release to Oklahoma stipulating that Oklahoma had not recruited him. Baylor officials, including head football coach Sam Boyd, accused Oklahoma of unethical tampering with the boy.

"Naturally," said McClellan, "I'm disappointed but I don't blame Mr. Wilkinson. There is no reason why they should change their policy for me."

McClellan, still in Norman, Okla., said last night, "I have no plans for the future. I'll probably leave Norman tomorrow or Wednesday, return to my home town of Stamford and think about what I'll do."

Margaret Meston Heads Rifle Club

One of the few organizations of its kind in this section is the Blanche Wilson's Girls Rifle club, which recently elected Margaret Meston of Drayton Plains its 1958 president.

Other new officers include Margaret Kempel, vice-president, of Pleasant Ridge; secretary-treasurer, Mary Alice Kuhn of Pontiac.

Jones Seeks Pro Aid to Regain Davis Cup

LOS ANGELES (INS) — Perry T. Jones, newly-appointed captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team, said today he will get help from professional stars in trying to win the trophy back from Australia.

Jones, 68-year-old retired businessman, has developed some of the brightest stars of American tennis in 40 years of coaching and counseling in Southern California.

He numbers among his former charges Jack Kramer, Ted Schroeder, Pancho Gonzales and Gene Mako and hopes they will return his past favors by doing what they can to regain the Davis Cup.

Wolverines Knocked Out of Big 10 Lead

MSU, Hoosiers Share 1st

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The old "who's on first" gag has a new twist in the Big Ten basketball race. Now it's who's in first?

Michigan State and Indiana are tied for first place at the moment but how long that will last is anybody's guess.

Minnesota knocked Michigan out of the top spot last night with an 80-69 lashing while Michigan State defeated Iowa 90-84 and Indiana dropped Wisconsin 93-87. Illinois routed Purdue 99-84 and Northwestern edged Ohio State 78-76.

Every home team was victorious except Wisconsin's Badgers who slid into a last place tie with Illinois. However, Illinois and Wisconsin—both 3-5—are only two games behind MSU and Indiana who have 5-3 records.

★ ★ ★

Great balanced scoring helped Michigan State beat the Hawkeyes. Larry Hedden scored 27 points, John Green 26 and Jack Quiggle 25. MSU led all the way and was in front 44-40 at halftime.

Dave Gunther of Iowa led all scorers with 30 points but didn't get enough help from his teammates.

Indiana rallied in the closing minutes to beat Wisconsin after the Badgers had led most of the way. Trailing 47-45 at halftime, the Hoosiers went ahead 80-79 with 4½ minutes left and added to their margin rapidly.

Archie Dees paced the Indiana attack with 30 points but Bob Litzow of Wisconsin took honors with 34 points which tied the Wisconsin fieldhouse record set by Don Rehfeldt of the Badgers in 1949. Litzow's 16 field goals wiped out the old mark of 13 set by Rehfeldt.

Minnesota, scoring its third straight conference triumph, held a 45-30 lead at halftime over Michigan and then smothered a Wolverine rally in the second half when Michigan pulled within four points. George Kline led the Gopher attack with 28 points. Jack Lewis was tops for Michigan with 19 while high-scoring Pete Tillotson was held to 15.

Ambitious Purdue, seeking a fourth straight triumph, ran into one of Illinois' better nights. The Boilermakers fought back from two eight-point deficits after Illinois led 45-43 at halftime but Roger Taylor and Don Ohl pulled the Illini out of danger.

Purdue tied the score at 76-all before Ohl hit three straight baskets and after the Boilermakers threatened again, Taylor scored three. Taylor was tops with 29 points, Ohl added 22. Harv Austin was high for Purdue with 24.

Northwestern blew a 47-34 halftime lead and then stalled its way to victory. Ohio State, unable to win on the road, fought back to a 68-68 tie but Northwestern put on two quick spurts and a stall for the triumph. Joe Ruklick and Dick Johnson paced the Wildcats with 19 points each and Larry Huston was high for OSU with 24. Buckeye star Frank Howard sat out about 10 minutes of play with four fouls.

Stilt's Average Takes Dip

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Colorado clamped down on Wilt "The Stilt" Chamberlain and as a result, the Kansas All-American today was far behind the two front-runners in the major college basketball scoring race.

The 7-foot ace took only five shots against Colorado last night and scored six points as he turned playmaker in answer to a three-man defense set up against him.

Chamberlain's average dipped over a point to 31.1 on 466 points in 15 games. That left him more than two points behind Elgin Baylor of Seattle, the leader with a 33.7 average. Baylor and runner-up Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati, who has a 32.9 mark, were idle last night.

Yardley scored the season's high of 52 points against Syracuse last Tuesday and followed with 37 Friday against St. Louis. In the meantime, Schayes, who had been averaging 30 points a game for two weeks, collected 40 points in two games.

AGE BEFORE BEAUTY — The two oldtimers of the Press Bowlerama, Cap Holliday (right) and Walter Carpenter, met at the desk during their qualifying round last Sunday. Holliday, who is 74, obligingly allowed Carpenter, his senior by five years, to register first. Carpenter took the feature prize for being the oldest male bowler in the tourney. Neither, however, was able to qualify.

Just Miss Qualifying? Well, Don't Give Up!

Men, did you just miss qualifying in the Press Bowlerama over the weekend?

★ ★ ★

Well, don't give up, you may still get a crack at the championship round.

The breaking point in the qualifying list was 618 and this made 56 men eligible. But this is unofficial.

The Press follows that rule that 12½ per cent plus all ties will get into the finals, and a few errors among the averages could bring the 617 scores and even those with 616 and 615 into the championship.

★ ★ ★

It happened among the women last year and ultimately one of the women who got into the championship round only because of an error on a qualifier's average, turned out to be the champion.

What happened was that after the qualifying round, 11 women appeared to have made the finals. But after checking the averages, the last woman on the list lost one pin and as a result this gave her the same score as the next two women. Since all three were tied for the last postion, there were 13 instead of 11 in the finals.

None was more happy than Mrs. Donna Verhey, the 1957 champion, because the tie gave her a crack at the big prize of $205.

★ ★ ★

This year the women are shooting at three guaranteed prizes, $250, $125 and $75 plus other prizes. Entries closed at midnight last night, and only those delivered before noon today were the last accepted.

★ ★ ★

Qualifying times will be printed in Thursday's Press. Motor Inn will be the site Saturday, starting just before noon and finishing with a late Saturday squad.

Jacobetti Files Bucks Only Bill

LANSING (AP) — Encouraged by a close vote last year, an Upper Peninsula legislator today filed a bill to take away deer herd control from the state conservation department.

Rep. Dominic Jacobetti (D-Negaunee), the sponsor for the second straight year, proposed to strip the department of its authority to set special seasons which permit hunters to shoot deer of either sex. The measure would allow the shooting of bucks only.

Conservation authorities contend special seasons help to prevent starvation losses of deer in areas where vegetation is sparse during the winter months.

Jacobetti asserted department policies are decimating the deer herd.

NCAA Endorses Same TV Policy

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The NCAA's committee on televising college football games has recommended another round of the same fare for the armchair fan next fall — nine national "game of the week" telecasts and four Saturdays set aside for regional games.

The 492 voting members of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. are being asked to approve the proposal in a mail referendum by a two-thirds majority. Proposals by the committee have carried easily ever since the NCAA took control of college football telecasts.

The committee suggested that not more than six colleges from any one of the NCAA's eight geographical districts may appear on the national "game of the week" telecasts. Last year the Big Ten had teams in seven of the games.

West Virginia Quintet Drops Into 2nd Spot

Decision Over Kansas Puts Wildcats on Top of Basketball Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kansas State Wildcats accomplished three things when they knocked off Kansas 79-75 in their important Big Eight basketball game last week.

They showed that Kansas could be beaten with Wilt Chamberlain in the line-up; they tightened their grasp on the Conference lead, and they gave college basketball a new national leader for the first time since the early part of the season.

Kansas State emerged ahead of West Virginia today in the weekly Associated Press ranking poll of sports writers and broadcasters. It was the closest kind of a vote that finally dethroned the Mountaineers, leaders in all but the first two polls this season.

West Virginia appeared first on 45 of 108 ballots while Kansas State drew only 32 first-place votes. But the votes for second, third and fourth, previously scattered over a wide range, swung to the Wildcats as the experts apparently were convinced they were the "team in their territory."

Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, nine for second, etc., down to one for 10th.

After State's impressive victory, Kansas drew only one vote for first and slid to fourth place.

Cincinnati's Missouri Valley Conference leaders retained third place with 730 points and San Francisco and Oklahoma State continued in fifth and sixth.

Temple, now possessor of a 15-game winning streak and a 16-2 season record, jumped from 10th to seventh. Duke, winner over 1957 national champion North Carolina, moved up for 13th to eighth. Maryland dropped to ninth and North Carolina State to 10th.

The standings with points on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis (first place votes and won-lost records through Saturday, Feb. 8, in parentheses)

Waterford at Orion, Rochester at Avon

2 Games in Spotlight

By BILL CORNWELL

Activity is a little on the thin side tonight in Oakland County prep basketball circles, but a couple of area games should enliven the program considerably.

Waterford's visit to Lake Orion and Rochester's invasion of Avondale take top billing on tonight's schedule, which finds conference action at a premium.

Only four league games are slated, two each in the Wayne-Oakland and Eastern Michigan circuits.

In the W-O loop, Northville hopes to stay on the heels of pace-setting Clarkston by downing Bloomfield Hills on the Hills' court and Milford plays host to West Bloomfield.

Eastern Michigan contests are Hazel Park at East Detroit and Port Huron at Ferndale. The unbeaten Dales will be seeking their 6th league victory and 9th overall.

The Waterford-Orion clash could be the most interesting of the bunch, with a scoring duel a distinct possibility. Orion will have the edge in the duel, however.

Waterford's John Herrington has the unenviable task of trying to equal Orion's double punch of Jim Drake and Nick Neira, something no one else has come even close to doing.

Drake and Neira have accounted for two-thirds or better of the Dragons' point totals in every game they have played this season.

Herrington has been the Skippers' most consistent scorer, but this will test his mettle and give the Waterford defense a stiff workout at the same time.

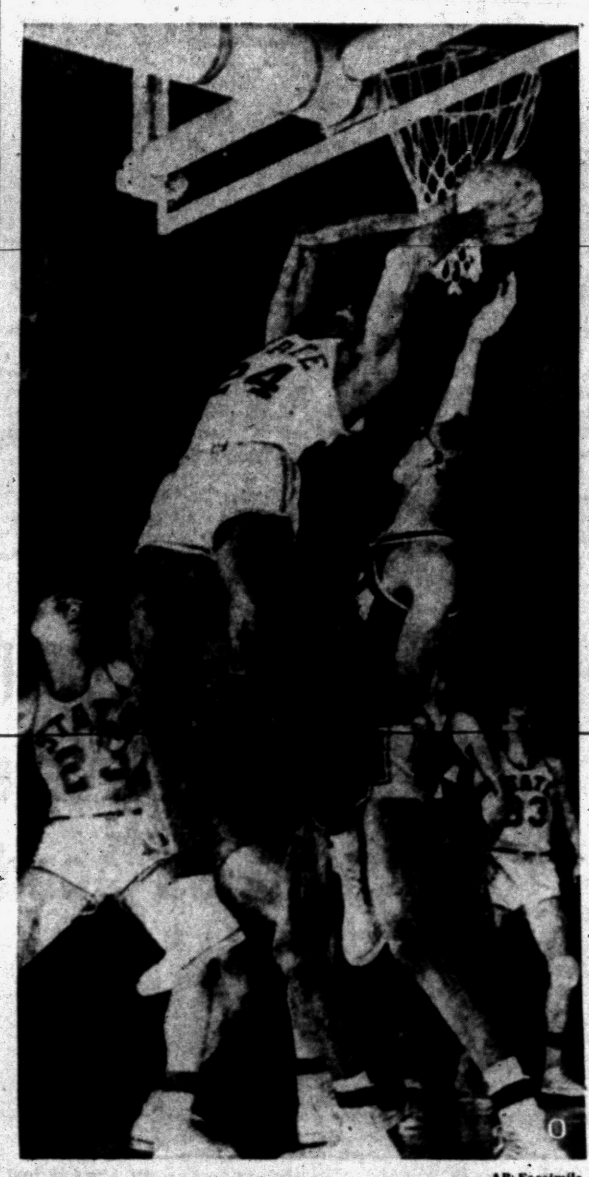

The Skippers will enter the scrap with a 4-7 record while Orion is 7-3.

Rochester and Avon collide for the 2nd time this season. The Falcons defeated Avon in their 1st meeting on the Rochester floor in a game of stone-cold shooting by both sides.

If the Yellow Jackets can stop fighting among themselves, they can give Rochester a busy evening. The Jackets have a 6-5 record and Rochester stands 10-3, one of the county's top marks.

Other games of great area interest tonight are Romeo at Utica and Royal Oak Dondero at Berkley.

Undefeated Imlay City goes to Capac, Fitzgerald invades Roseville and Lapeer entertains Owosso in other attractions.

Moore Pushed by Richard in Hockey Scoring Race

MONTREAL (AP)—Henri "Pocket Rocket" Richard of the Montreal Canadiens has moved to within three points of teammate Dickie Moore in their duel for the National Hockey League's individual scoring championships.

Statistics from league headquarters today show Moore with 66 points and Henri Richard with 63. From there it's a drop of 11 points down to Andy Bathgate of New York, third with 52 points.

Richard scored three points last week on a goal and two assists for a net gain of two on Moore, who was held to a single goal and did not assist.

Moore leads in goals with 30 and Richard in assists with 41. Montreal goalie Jacques Plante continues to lead in the goals-against category with a 2.06 average per game.

Claims New Fuel Suited for Rockets

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — A Belgian chemist says he has found a new fuel which may help boost rockets toward outer space.

Louis Lacroix, who specializes in preparing varnishes, thinks the process he discovered to manufacture this new fuel may increase the yield from heavily asphaltic crude oil, such as is produced in Venezuela.

★ ★ ★

At present this type of oil yields a comparatively small proportion of volatile fuels, Lacroix said. He said his experiments with Venezuelan crude had produced "astounding results" in high-octane fuel yield.

★ ★ ★

"So far, to obtain the high thrust power necessary to put rockets on their way," Lacroix said, "compounds of fluorine and-or boron were added to the fuel in use."

One property Lacroix claims for his fuel is the ready acceptance of fluorine-boron compounds without usual dangers.

Debbie's Piano Recital Scores Homerun

NEW YORK (INS) — A most gifted teacher of the piano and fine pianist herself, Clara Chichester, presents an annual recital here in New York for her several young students. One supposes that this is duplicated all over the world, as it was Sunday at the pleasant apartment of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Frank, and, of course, at concert halls.

But in Miss Chichester's case, it strikes closer to home. One of her pupils is a young girl we know named Deborah. In Sunday's concert Debbie batted third, as did Babe Ruth and Mickey Cochrane with perhaps less fervor.

A fine little girl named Jill Felix, playing Thompson's "The Dirigible," led off. Another fine little girl, Pamela Taylor, was in the hit-and-run spot, or the bunt post, with MacLachlan's "Climbing." Behind Debbie, in the clean-up position (memories of Gehrig, Foxx, Berra, Aaron, etc.) came Lori Lawrence, with a fine rendition of a Mozart minuet. Cleaned the sacks.

★ ★ ★

The way our kid Debbie got into this situation was as accidental as winning the Irish sweepstakes. Seems that one of our other kids, a fine lout of a boy, made a statement one day about having to take piano lessons. It was couched in a classic American mood. He said, "To hell with it!" Made it stick, too.

Well, that left us stuck with a couple of lessons we had paid for, if memory serves. So it shouldn't be a total loss this girl child used up the lessons. The other day she played "The Ballet Dancer," by Rolseth, as easily as if it were the only piece her parents can play, Chiang Kai-Shek's Chop Sticks.

It's odd, being unable to play any musical instrument except dice, to produce children who want to make coordinated sounds on various musical tools. The untutored father stands around with a false easiness, tapping his foot (out of time) and not able to comprehend the blanch that chalks the faces of the knowing when the dear child hits a clinker that, apparently, sours all unbottled milk as far off as Urbana, Ill.

It's an ignorant thing to acknowledge, but it has been hard for me through the years to like musicians. For me, they are an alien species, remote, removed, hardly of this world. Those with a political conscience so often turned out to be crackpots, it seemed to me. Those who just slogged away in the band seemed as faceless as man could get.

During a more active sports-writing time I wrote a piece, from a cold college football game that featured crazily prancing bandsters, that I would shoot any child of mine who tried to become a member of the band, instead of the team, or a drum-majorette.

Well, tempus fugits. A boy of ours called excitedly from his school the other week. "Pop," he said, "I MADE it! I'm playing Glockenspiel in the band." Another boy we have said, "Pop, I called up today and arranged to rent a gee-tar from Manny's and take lessons from Hy White."

A group of boys in Allenhurst, N.J., swear they are going to form a band, in which our kids will be incorporated. The band's name is the Sputniks, of course.

★ ★ ★

And so there was this girl, Debby, sparring with Rolseth and holding him to at least a draw. Parents learn. But not often.

We still have Mike. Can't play a note.

Hollywood Headlines

Aldo Ray Is Maverick, Keeps to Carefree Ways

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A maverick among movie stars is Aldo Ray.

The guy simply refuses to behave like a star. He doesn't go to the fashionable parties, nor to the noted night spots. His favorite hangouts are a couple of off-the-beaten-path taverns.

He owns no fancy automobile. Matter of fact, he hasn't any. As for the luxurious home—he's currently living in a friend's apartment.

★ ★ ★

Obviously, Hollywood hasn't changed the free-living, outspoken constable from Crockett (Calif.) in the seven years he has been here. That is a matter of irritation to some people here, notably his boss.

Aldo is employed by Harry Cohn, head of Columbia Pictures and the last tycoon of the movie business. He is the sole remaining studio boss who rules his realm with an absolute and imperious hand. Naturally, the presence of a rebel like Aldo spelled trouble.

★ ★ ★

It started after Aldo's first starring film, "The Marying Kind," with Judy Holliday. Aldo had gone all over the country to exploit the film and had overtaxed his expense account by sending home presents to his family and Jeff Donnell, whom he was courting.

"I'll admit I overdid it," said Aldo. "When I got back and went to get my salary check one week, there wasn't any. I was told they were taking the money out of my check for the presents. If they were going to be that way, that was all right with me."

★ ★ ★

He was earning $200 a week at the time.

He is still working for a three-figure salary, though Columbia racks up $100,000 for loaning him out. His latest service is with RKO for "The Naked and the Dead." It has been over two years since he worked for his own studio.

Nowadays he visits only the mail room to pick up personal letters.

"But it will all be over in August," the actor said. "That's the end of my seven-year contract. And what a happy day that will be!"

Beck Denies Union Loss

Asserts Teamsters in Better Financial Shape Than Before

SEATTLE (AP)—Dave Beck, former president of the Teamsters Union, last night denied that the union is faced with a financial loss because of the way he managed its funds.

★ ★ ★

In an interview with the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Beck said: "The Teamsters are in marvelous financial position, both as to net assets and liquidity. Certainly they can't possibly be in bad shape when they have several million dolars drawing higher interest rates than they would pay for borrowing."

At Miami Beach, Fla., James R. Hoffa, Beck's successor as president of the union, said the opening session of the Teamster's Executive Board was largely occupied with examining union funds investments.

★ ★ ★

It was reported that Beck had tied up most of the union's 35-million-dollar assets in long-term mortgages and other investments, but that the union was left with relatively few liquid assets.

Beck estimated the union has "six or seven million dollars" invested at a higher interest rate than it would be required to pay for borrowing.

"The union has a reserve of over a million dollars in cash right now," he said. "There is no immediate need of borrowing and no foreseeable need of borrowing.

"The union had 14 million dollars more in assets when I left office as president last month than when I went in, on Dec. 1, 1952, and 400,000 more members."

Membership of the union is 1,400,000.

6 Orphan Children Start New Life With Sister, 18

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — A new life for six little orphan girls who will be mothered from now on by their 18-year-old married sister was rapidly settling into a routine today.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Leona Moore, who was granted custody of the children, arranged for Linda, 12, Julie, 10, and Toni, 9, to enter the Webster Elementary School this morning.

The other little girls —Kristie, 6, Nola, 3, and Viola, 2— were just stay-at-homes in the modest two-bedroom house in which the family will live until larger quarters are available.

★ ★ ★

The little girls were orphaned last month when their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Larsen of Pine Creek, Idaho, were killed in a highway crash.

When Leona — who married a 28-year-old Lewiston paper mill worker 14 months ago — heard of the tragedy, she hurried to Pine Creek and took charge. She said she wanted to become the children's legal guardian.

Probate Judge Peter Dufresne approved. The Moores have no children of their own.

★ ★ ★

This community has been rallying to the family's support for several days. The Moores will live rent-free in the two-bedroom house for a month, or until a larger home is found. If one isn't available, lumber has been donated and the Carpenters Union has offered to add a bedroom to the present home.

Lewiston residents also have donated cash and a number of kitchen appliances. A mother's club says it will provide new clothing as the girls grow up. Moore's employer, Potlatch Forests, Inc., is donating the heat for the house.

★ ★ ★

Now all that's left is for the seventh orphaned Larsen child — 15-year-old James — to come home. He's attending school at Nampa, Idaho, but he's expected to join the family soon.

Grain Futures Generally Weak

CHICAGO Feb. 11 (AP) — A general weakness seeped through the grain futures market in early board of trade dealings today. Transactions in corn, however, were at firm prices.

★ ★ ★

Soybean prices eased after a weaker opening in vegetable oils and soybean meal and a report that Manchurian beans were going to the European market at around $1 a ton under U.S. exports.

Wheat trading was very light with offerings in excess of demand following another report that weather conditions for the winter crop continue favorable.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was ⅛ cent higher to ⅜ lower, March $2.16⅜; corn ½ to ¾ higher, March $1.10¼, oats unchanged to ⅛ lower March 64⅞; rye ⅛ to ¾ higher, March $1.26; soybeans ⅛ to ⅝ lower, March $2.22⅞; and lard unchanged to 5 cents a hundred lbs higher, March $11.72.

Permits Banned to Land Firm

Area Board Prohibits Issuance to Developers Until Debt Paid

Formal action by Waterford Township board members at last night's meeting prohibits the issuance of any more building permits to land developers Coleman and Friedman of Ferndale.

★ ★ ★

Th company developing subdivisions near Isaac Crary Junior High School had deposited $2,500 with the township for operation and maintenance of a sewer treatment plant. These funds have been used plus $1,500 more which has been paid by the township.

Until the debt has been paid and an additional $2,500 deposited with the township in good faith, there will be no more permits issued to the company.

A request from Lewis Bromm, 3448 Shelby St., for installation of blinking warning signals for school children's safety was considered by board members.

Bromm asked the board to send a letter to the Oakland County Road Commission to request installation cost estimates so that he may promote his project to, parent-teacher associations, the board of education and other organizations.

Cost of two machines for each school is $400 but installation is approximately $1,000 per school. The lights have been state - approved, Bromm said.

Competitive bids on two township insurance policies which expire March 1 wil be asked in the near future.

Caution Rules in Slow Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Caution prevailed in an exceedingly narrow and slow market early today.

Leading stocks were mixed, showing fractional gains or losses. Many were unchanged.

The opening was fairly active but after the initial blocks were cleared, trading slowed down to a walk. The market has gone through four straight declines since the 1958 rally topped-out on Feb. 4.

Business and industrial news remained spotty. Some economists expressed doubt about the widely-predicted midyear upturn.

Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad cut its dividend and the stock dropped around a point but selling was not heavy. Meanwhile, badly-battered New Haven Railroad stock picked up about a point.

Throughout major groups there was no particular emphasis. Such stocks as General Motors, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel and Anaconda were about unchanged.

Small gains were posted by U. S. Steel, Goodyear, Phelps Dodge, International Nickel, General Electric and Texas Co.

Franklin P. Williams, president and general manager announced the earnings of the S. S. Kresge Co., and subsidiaries for 1957 as $14,463,494 or $2.62 per share. This is an increase of $116,338 or two cents per share over 1956. Sales of the companies were $377,169,219 or 2.95 per cent over 1956.

Williams said that 33 new stores were opened in 1957. This was the largest new store program since the early 1930's.

Ninety-nine stores were converted from full sales clerk service to check-out, making 281 of the companies' 692 stores check-out operations.

Links It to GOP Election Chances

Nixon Watches Economy

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (INS) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today that Republican chances of winning the congressional election this fall are "wrapped up in the fate of our economy."

★ ★ ★

He predicted that Democratic attempts to make defense an issue will boomerang, because the launching of the Army "Explorer" and other developments between now and November will prove the effectiveness of our military posture.

"The economic factor is all that the administration needs to be concerned about, as far as the campaign is concerned," Nixon told this correspondent in an informal chat.

He advised the "wise money" boys to bet, however, on an upturn in the economy before fall, "because the economy is basically sound and this administration does not plan to sit idly by and allow the downtrend to continue."

★ ★ ★

Nixon said the time is past when any administration can tolerate prolonged, excessive unemployment without taking dramatic steps to right the economy.

NO FULL CONTROL

He warned, however, that no administration can completely control the economic cycle, any more than it can control what Russia might do to upset the precarious world peace.

★ ★ ★

Nixon, who leads other GOP presidential contenders by a nearly three-to-one margin in the public opinion polls for 1960, said he thinks President Eisenhower passed his low point in popularity two weeks ago. From now on, he predicted, Ike will begin to regain his once-phenomenal public esteem.

Asked for his opinion of "strong" presidents as opposed to those who "compromise" with Congress, the vice president mused:

"Each president has his own way of effecting leadership. President Eisenhower has been strong in his way. He believes in persuasion and getting people to work together. He is not flamboyant and loud and dictatorial. President Truman was all of those things, and yet both were leaders in their way."

★ ★ ★

Nixon said a president's popularity is like a free economy—it goes up and down. If a president is fundamentally sound, however, he believes history will record him as an outstanding one. Otherwise, it won't.

MOST SUCCESSFUL

The vice president predicted that by the end of his eight-year term, Ike will no doubt rank among the most successful presidents.

★ ★ ★

"But this, of course, can be affected by events he can't control," he cautioned. "Three great issues affect a president's place in history: International affairs, domestic economy, and the honesty and efficiency of his administration."

Nixon said that on the third count, Ike will "rate among the very best," but that he cannot control what the Soviets may do, or the exact cycle of our economy.

One thing working in favor of Eisenhower, Nixon declared, is his own "high standard of personal morality which he insists on up and down the line."

Occasionally, he conceded, a bad apple turns up "but is promptly disposed of."

★ ★ ★

"There is no danger of Eisenhower going out as Truman did under a cloud in 1952," Nixon concluded. "Truman's place in history was damaged by the acts of some of his friends in high places."

Your PTA Is Planning

Slate Special Programs

With National PTA Founder's Day moving into the limelight, parent-teacher associations throughout the Oakland County area are scheduling special programs this week in observance of the organization's 61st birthday. The PTA dates back to Feb. 17, 1897.

West Bloomfield Township

Scotch School PTA will take the Founder's Day theme for its program at 8 p.m. Thursday when it is host to Green, West Bloomfield High and Roosevelt PTAs.

A highlight of the program, to be held at the Scotch School, will be a play, "Our Objects, Now and Then," in which parents from each of the four PTA groups will act.

A flag ceremony will be presented by the combined scouts in the area. Special music will be under the direction of Mrs. Dreama Royal and Mrs. Merlin Asplin.

Historians' books from each of the four PTAs will be on display. A committee of four women has charge of refreshments, with Mrs. Thomas Bertrand in charge of table decorations. A woman member from each of the four PTAs will preside at the tea and coffee service.

Invocation and benediction will be by the Rev. Edward Auchard of Orchard Lake Community Church.

Bloomfield Township

Boy Scouts of Troop B-19 will have the stage when Hickory Grove PTA meets at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Following the Scouts' Color Guard Ceremony, Charles Robinson, institutional representative, will describe activities and project of the troop and introduce the troop's scoutmaster, George Edgington.

A Court of Honor will be held so that PTA members may witness the badge-awarding ceremony. The scouts also will demonstrate a troop meeting-in-miniature, with fire-building, bandaging, knot-making and other basic skills.

Climax of the scout program will be presentation of the troop charter by a representative of the Oakland Boy Scout Council.

GOP Disavows Money Appeal

Call for Funds in Texas Links Contributions to Fate of Natural Gas Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration today disavowed any connecion with a Republican fund appeal in Texas which linked party contributions and the fate of the natural gas bill.

★ ★ ★

So did Chairman Meade Alcorn of the Republican National Committee.

The appeal, printed today in the Washington Post, went out in connection with a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner in Houston last night in honor of Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachuetts, GOP House header.

Under a Jan. 30 date, it bore the signature of H. J. Porter, Texas Republican national committeeman.

★ ★ ★

It said Martin had always been a friend of the Texas oil and gas industries, had helped pass a bill to ease federal control over natural gas producers in the past, and it will be up to Martin to muster at least 65 per cent of the Republican votes "in order to pass the gas bill this year."

"He has to put Republican members from northern and eastern consuming areas on the spot politically," the appeal added, "because the bill is not popular due to the distortion of facts by newspaper columnists and others."

Even before the Republican National Committee could whip out a formal statement expressing its disavowal White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said it would be forthcoming.

★ ★ ★

U.S. to Battle Sea Lamprey With Chemical

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department now regards chemical compounds as the best means of eradicating the sea lamprey in the Great Lakes.

★ ★ ★

Donald L. McKernan, director of the department's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, said this method "in the long run . . . will bring about a control of sea lamprey perhaps as much as 5 or 10 years earlier (than electrical means) and save perhaps millions of dollars."

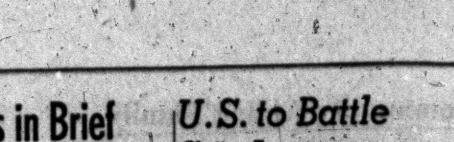

McKernan's statement was made before the House Interior Appropriations Subcommittee.

The lamprey, a parasitical eel-like sea animal which preys on fish, has been steadily increasing in the Great Lakes.

McKernan testified that a chemical compound called Bowlap 30 was 98 per cent effective last October in destroying lamprey larvae at a Lake Huron stream in Michigan without appreciable damage to game fish.

Stranded Car Yields Woman, Dead Husband

BALDWINSVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—She moaned and shivered beside her dead husband in an automobile buried in snow for two nights.

Finally, Mrs. Henry Allen heard footsteps yesterday and leaned on the horn. A faint beep reached rescuers.

★ ★ ★

They found Allen, 46, dead of a heart attack. Mrs. Allen, 44, was suffering from chill and shock.

"Thank God, it's about time!" she murmured.

★ ★ ★

Just how long Allen had been dead was not determined. To Mrs. Allen, it was "several hours." She was treated at a Syracuse hospital and discharged.

She said a blizzard that struck this central New York area halted the car Saturday night as the couple drove toward their home near here after shopping in Baldwinsville. They were to celebrate her birthday at home.

★ ★ ★

Allen tried twice to shovel the car free, then complained of a pain in his chest. He slumped over the wheel and she could not wake him.

Allen had been a foreman for the Carrier Corp. in Syracuse 20 years.

Goldstein also conceded that after three years of regular high school he cannot spell "character," "behavior" and "citizenship."

Leibowitz sentenced him and two other youths in an assault last Sept. 10 on a rookie policeman. Goldstein will serve 2½ to 5 years in an Elmira, N.Y., correctional institution. He had pleaded guilty.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF Concetta Tanuta, who passed away February 9, 1952.
Dear Mother, you are not forgotten
Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before;
Sadly missed by sons and daughters and families.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR son, Stephen A. Douglas III, who passed away Feb. 9, 1952.
There is a home not made by hands,
And beyond its golden door;
Awaits the son who's now away,
Not lost, just gone before.
And in that home, not made by hands
The Master will prepare;
A place for us and when He calls,
We'll meet our loved son there.
Forever in our hearts, Mom & Dad, Brother & Sisters.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY son, Edward F. Spencer Jr. who passed away Feb. 11, 1949.
You are not forgotten, son,
Nor ever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last,
We shall remember thee.
Sadly missed by mother and father.

IN MEMORY OF CLIFFORD Fredrickson, who passed away February 11th, of last year.
We miss him so very much.
His wife, Myrtle Fredrickson and children, Emma Stangler, Agnes Woody, Charles Caldwell and Grandchildren.

School Board Members Attend Area Workshop

A four-meeting series of workshops for school board members serving Oakland County school districts will begin tonight.

★ ★ ★

The workshops are being conducted through the cooperation of the Michigan Association of School Boards, the Oakland County School Boards Assn., University of Michigan, Eastern Michigan College of Education, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

All meetings will be held at the county board of education office, 1025 N. Telegraph Rd., from 8 to 10 p.m.

Tonight, the basic responsibilities of school board members and their relation to each other, the school staff and the community will be discussed. Dr. Floyd Parker, of MSU and Dr. Donald Weaver, of U. of M., will be the guest speakers.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Julius Barbour, field secretary of the Michigan Assn. of School Boards and Dr. Donald Dolan, of U. of M. are planning to attend each session with representatives from each of the sponsoring colleges and universities.

The other workshops are slated for February 25, March 11 and 25.

Paving Projects to Be Discussed

Hearings Will Be Held on 9 Tonight; 13 Others to Be Considered

More progress on the 1958 street improvement program is expected tonight as city commissioners hold public hearings on their intention to pave portions of nine streets and consider a resolution declaring the paving of 13 others a public necessity.

★ ★ ★

The hearings will be on intention to construct two-inch asphaltic concrete surfaces on these streets:

Burt street, LeGrande to Hillside; East Chicago avenue, Baldwin to Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad; East Colgate avenue, Baldwin to University; Carlisle avenue, Cornell to Columbia; Colorado avenue, Bagley to Franklin road; Fairmount avenue, Baldwin to Carlisle; Hudson avenue, Pingree to Summit; Jefferson avenue, Cadillac to Kimball, and Kimball street, Jefferson to its southern end.

If the projects are not overridden by public objections, the commission will be asked to authorize the preparation of assessment roles.

★ ★ ★

The 13 other streets are the last ones on this year's improvement program. They are:

Bagley street, Arthur to South Boulevard; Hudson avenue, Putnam to Pingree; Jefferson avenue, Cadillac to Summit; New York avenue, Baldwin to University; Northway drive, Astor to East boulevard; Pike street, Cadillac to LeGrande; Putnam avenue, Cadillac to LeGrande; Roselawn drive, Fiddis to Maines; Rundell street, Baldwin to Pingree; Tennyson avenue, Joslyn to Highland; Tregent street, Baldwin to Saginaw, and Yale avenue, Carlisle to Stanley.

There will be a public hearing on a Planning Commission proposal to rezone a lot south of Ypsilanti avenue and west of Baldwin avenue from residential to commercial to make way for a proposed super market there.

'Charlie Chan' Assails Medium

But Admits Television Is Chief U.S. Source of Entertainment

By CHARLES DENTON

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—J. Carrol Naish, the world's only Irish Chinese philosopher, had a broad, new approach to the great living room quiz game of "who's to blame for television?"

★ ★ ★

If you agree with him and the many other critics who feel that the medium is mired in a slough of mediocrity and shows little promise of achieving its vast potential, he says regretfully, look for the culprit responsible in your mirror.

Blaming the television industry, as the motion picture industry does, or the motion picture industry, as the television industry does, for the lamentable lack of spirit and imagination in TV is too easy, says the 57-year-old veteran character actor, currently video's version of the ageless Oriental private eye Charlie Chan.

He believes that both industries have had a hand in hobbling TV with "dependable," dreary formulas, but the real blame for the medium's faults resides with "the world we live in."

★ ★ ★

"The war is partly responsible," says Naish, just back from filming 39 "New Adventures of Charlie Chan" in Europe, "because after the war everyone said everything was gone, that there was nothing left. They doubted everything, disbelieved everything.

WE'RE ALL AFRAID

"Pride of workmanship has gone out of the world, completely out. Kids today know nothing about real family life. No one thinks alike any more. No one is mature in his personal living. We're all afraid, which is what leaves us wide open to all the H-bombs and Sputniks.

★ ★ ★

"Today everyone is after security — security of the bank account, not the security of peace of mind. We fight tuberculosis and cancer and all the other diseases, but what do we do to fight to restore the integrity of living?

"And let me tell you something—security of that kind is the cyanide of creative talent. That's an old Irish saying—of my own!"

Therein lies the nucleus of Naish's argument. The radio industry, he says, inherited a golden monster in television but didn't know what to do with it.

Oakland Cool to Mental Plan

Bill Provides for 50-50 State-County Division of Hospital Costs

A proposal to require counties to bear half the costs of caring and treating for the mentally ill in Michigan is headed for a cold reception in Oakland County.

"I think our county has got all we can do now to provide the budgeted services we are obligated to," declared Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, when told of the proposal.

It has been up in the State Senate for two weeks after being offered by Sen. Lewis G. Christman (R-Ann Arbor).

Christman said for the current year, the state will spend about $64 million while the counties will carry about $8,000,000—the entire cost of a patient's hospitalization for the first year. "The state pays the rest," he said.

★ ★ ★

Hamlin said he intended to contact State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge in regard to opposing the bill.

Under the measure the state mental health expenditures would be cut to around 25 million dollars for 1958-59, Christman said.

Together with the 50-50 state-county split in costs, Christman's bill calls for commitment reforms which he says would exert a downward pressure on total spending in years to come.

It would require the committing judge to screen carefully a prospective patient's legally liable relatives for ability to pay.

How New 'Fair Lady' Meets Her Fair Lad

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The new fair lady in "My Fair Lady," pretty Sally Ann Howes from London, leaned across a table and told me how she married the brilliant American composer, Dick Adler.

★ ★ ★

"I only met Richard last July," she said. "He was casting for 'Of Human Bondage' in London and I was asked to go and sing for him.

"My agent didn't want me to sing for him. My agent got very snobby and said I was established—I didn't have to audition for anybody. Richard got very angry and said, 'But why can't you sing for me? Everybody else sings for me!'"

"I stuck to my guns. So Richard said, 'Well, then, will you have lunch with me?'"

WILSON

★ ★ ★

Sally Ann's a lady of independence — for example, she drinks coffee instead of tea, and when she does make a concession and drink tea, she makes it from a teabag, American style. Dick Adler, who'd written the "Pajama Game" score, intrigued Sally Ann. When a show she was doing closed in London, she came to America "to decide whether I liked him."

"We were married in Arlington, Va., because you don't have to wait so long for your Wasserman there. You don't have that in England, and it's an extraordinary experience.

"We went to this little hut with a Red Cross sign on it that said 'Blood tests, one hour.' We went on a tour of Washington and I read the Gettysburg address while they were finding out whether I passed."

Sally Ann, daughter of a famous British performer, Bobby Howes, took over the Julie Andrews part in "My Fair Lady" last week.

Intangibles Tax Sent to House

No Surprises in Bill When It Appears in State Legislature

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams' much publicized intangibles tax plan, backed by 16 House Democrats, made its appearance in the legislature last night.

It proposed to boost the present $23,600,000 levy on stocks, bonds and other intangibles by some 20 million dollars a year.

The bill carried no surprises, following pretty much to form what Williams proposed in his 361-million-dollar 1958-59 budget. Even with the intangibles tax hike, however, the Governor said the state would wind up the ensuing fiscal year some five million dollars in the red.

As a concession to Republicans, Williams by-passed his original plan to collect a tax on intangible properties held last year. He has agreed not to oppose a plan by Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton), chairman of the House Taxation Committee, to pick up a quick 16 million dollars by deferring payment on state liquor purchases for 90 days, rather than 30 days as is now done.

In turn, House Speaker George M. Van Peursem (R-Zeeland) and other Republican leaders have promised to take a "hard look" at the Williams plan.

Rep. Frederick Yates (D-Detroit), chief sponsor of the bill, said it would exempt 11,000 present intangible tax payers from any levy and reduce it for 8,000 others.

Absorbing the increase would be another 49,000 individuals, partnerships, corporations and others who already pay the biggest share.

Iraq and Jordan Ponder Merger

2 Might Be Joined by Saudi Arabia in Move to Counter U.A.R.

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Iraq's King Faisal was due in Jordan today to discuss with his cousin King Hussein a royal merger to counter the overshadowing union of Egypt and Syria.

★ ★ ★

Indications grew that the kingdom of Saudi Arabia might join the two Hashemite realms of Jordan and Iraq in a federation — provided Iraq pulls out of the pro-Western Baghdad Pact that has alienated her from powerful nationalist elements in the Arab world.

★ ★ ★

Hussein and Faisal were expected to form some sort of union to stand off increasing pressure from Egypt and Syria to bring the rest of the Arab world under the banner of their newly formed United Arab Republic. A Hashemite federation would be basically opposed to the U.A.R., whose two members Jordan divides geographically. Syria long has viewed Jordan as a potential province.

★ ★ ★

Union with Iraq probably would spell the end of the little state of Jordan, which Britain created after World War I and gave independence to in 1946. Iraq—bigger, more populous and richer—undoubtedly would dominate such a union.

★ ★ ★

Official sources in Amman predicted that King Saud of Saudi Arabia might join the federation, although his family was long an arch foe of the Hashemites. To permit Saudi Arabia's entry, these informants said, Iraq might take certain steps. They added that they "would not be astonished" to see Iraq pull out of the Baghdad Pact.

5 Teenagers Drown as River Gulps Car

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — A carload of high school pupils turned into a dark, deadend street last night and somersaulted into the Portneuf River. Five teenagers drowned. Two others made it to safety.

★ ★ ★

One of the survivors was Kim Sharp, the driver, 16-year-old son of a Pocatello physician. He said he did not know the quarter-block street ended at the river.

Sharp crawled through a window and another youth, Lynn Everso, 16, was pulled from the car by a passing motorist, Wayne Davis. Davis said the strong current prevented further rescue attempts.

★ ★ ★

The youngsters had been to a church youth meeting.

Coroner Allen Manning identified the five victims as Lamona Webster, William Clark, Dwanna Woodward, Verda Mae Stone and Marilee Smith. All were about 16.

The average American family requires about 400 gallons of water a day.

Ballistic Missiles Mass Produced in Super-Secret Warren Plant

By JERRY CHIAPETTA

WARREN (INS) — American ballistic missiles are being "mass produced" in Warren in a complex and precise operation that makes an auto assembly line seem simple by comparison.

In an ultra-modern, super-secret plant 16 miles north of Detroit, Chrysler Corporation employes are busy every day building, checking, testing and guarding Redstone and Jupiter missiles for their only customer — the U. S. Army.

Business appears to be good. About 100 new employes are hired each week. By the end of the year, some 9,000 persons will be working at the plant. Most of them will be engineers and special technicians.

Nick Pragos, of Pontiac, a foreman in the instrument department, said, "I love my work. It's fascinating."

NO BOASTING

Unlike other private industrial plants, there are no boasts in Warren about production reports.

And the product is never officially compared to that of the competition — Russia — because all these things are top secret.

This reporter was permitted a sketchy look around certain areas of the plant, after he had been thoroughly checked for security. Even so, Deputy Security Officer H. B. Whitescarver and Chief Production Supervisor Burwyn Bender acted as escorts.

The intermediate range (1,500) Jupiter was kept out of sight. This is the missile developed at the Army's Redstone arsenal by the same team, under Dr. Wernher Von Braun, which turned out the Jupiter-C test vehicle that launched the U. S. satellite.

The Jupiter and the Jupiter-C, however, are different missiles.

Information about the weight, cost, number produced and other data on the Jupiter was listed as "classified" or "unavailable." The only performance information released was on the thrust. It was compared to "something like that of 2,066 modern automobiles."

During the tour permission was granted for a look inside the belly of the Redstone.

It looked like a bad dream after a wild party. There were wires and then more wires, miles of them of all colors and sizes. There were pipes, tubes, tanks, and fins — all representing obviously many hours of precision labor.

Building a missile can only be compared to building a fine watch. Engineer Bender said there are tens of thousands of things that can go wrong and prevent a successful launching or cause these missiles to miss their targets.

NO PRODUCTION LINE

These fantastic machines do not move down a "line" as automobiles do. Like airplanes, they are assembled on the spot.

Missiles are built in three main sections — nose, brain, and fuel cells for the power plant. The latter accounts for about 75 per cent of the Redstone's 69-foot length.

The Redstone has a range of 200 miles, is highly accurate, uses liquid propellant and is capable of carrying nuclear or conventional warheads.

BIRTH OF A JUPITER — Skilled workmen assemble the frame of an Army Jupiter IRBM at Chrysler's Warren, Mich., plant.

The Chrysler missile plant — said to be large enough to cover 40 football fields — is spotless and air conditioned in many areas where precision work is under way. Noise generally associated with most factories is lacking.

Busy men around the Redstone seemed engrossed in their work. C. Allen Brady, a Chrysler corporation veteran and now general manager of the missile division, said:

"The spirit and enthusiasm of these people is amazing. Why, we have to remind some of them to go home because they get so intent on what they are doing."

★ ★ ★

Chester Roberts, a foreman in final assembly, was asked if he enjoyed making missiles. The Mt. Clemens man replied, "This is science. This is good for the country."
