

Injured Crowd Hospital

VICTIMS TREATED—An emergency treatment center at St. Anne's Hospital on Chicago's West Side presented this bustling scene today when it was jammed with persons injured in the explosion at Helene Curtis Industries cosmetics plant. Almost the entire staff of the hospital was pressed into service administering to the injured. More than 140 were hurt in the blast.

Acid Fumes Spread Through Area

200 Hurt as Chicago Plant Explodes

CHICAGO (AP)—The number of injured in the Chicago explosion has risen to an estimated 200. No fatalities have been reported.

CHICAGO (UPI)—The chemical mixing plant of a sprawling cosmetics factory exploded today in a blast of flying glass followed by choking, hydrochloric acid fumes. More than 140 persons were injured.

A count of injured at seven hospitals showed 143 persons treated.

The blast at the 16-building Helene Curtis plant rocked Chicago's West Side and shattered windows in a 20-block area. Fumes from hydrochloric acid used in the preparation of permanent wave lotion and detergents spread through the area.

Firemen had to put on gas masks.

One point, they were forced to turn off their hoses for fear a chemical reaction with the fumes would touch off new explosions. Neighboring residents were forced from their homes.

Two persons, including a Helene Curtis chemist, were reported missing in the wreckage. However, company president Willard Gidwitz "to allay the fears of relatives" issued a statement saying that there were no confirmed fatalities.

BARRAGE OF GLASS

The explosion was triggered in a long, one-and-a-half story building where the main chemical components for cosmetics were manufactured. It sent a shrapnel-like barrage of glass flying across the industrial thoroughfare of North Avenue, into a Zenith Corp. plant where 2,500 employees were just starting work.

From 25 to 40 persons were struck by flying glass or fell victim to shock in the Zenith plant. Only 13 of the injured were in the chemical building where the blast occurred.

One Zenith employee said the blast "sounded like a 500-pound bomb."

Another factory manager James Rooney, said "It was heavy... there was a heavy compression of air and then the windows suddenly erupted. I wasn't so scared as excited. I was excited and that's to say the least."

Most of the injured were taken to St. Anne's Hospital, where hospital spokesman Frank McGovern said 118 persons had been treated and 21 of them hospitalized. Walter Memorial Hospital reported treating eight persons injured in the explosion, Belmont Hospital six, Franklin Boulevard Hospital six, St. Mary's Hospital four, Garfield Park Hospital two, and Newgreen American Hospital two.

The hospital injured count differed from the estimate of Fire Marshal Robert Quinn, who said

Deadline Proposal Tabled at Con-Con

LANSING (AP)—A move to get the work of Michigan's constitutional convention completed by the end of the year has been sidetracked temporarily.

The Dec. 31 deadline proposal, introduced by Henry L. Woolfenden, R-Bloomfield Hills, was tabled Tuesday by the rules and resolutions committee.

At the same time, the group dealt the same treatment to a resolution stipulating that there be no rigid deadlines for the receipt of new proposals, petitions and suggestions on possible changes in the constitution.

The second proposal was filed by Melvin Nord, R-Detroit.

Members of the committee agreed not to take any action on either of the proposals until a better picture emerges of the workload that will fall on the convention's 144 delegates, now in their third week of organizing.

Committee Chairman Richard Van Dusen, R-Bingham Farms, said the two resolutions were "both stumbling but they're not dead."

That a kind of timetable should be adopted by the convention's nine substantive committees is a problem under discussion among the chairmen, Van Dusen said.

Reporting on the views of the chairmen, Van Dusen said the introduction of proposals should be fixed as soon as the potential volume—and the staff's capacity to prepare them—could be estimated realistically.

Chrysler and the UAW agreed, Reuther said, to give priority to reaching agreements on working conditions at both the national and local levels.

In negotiations with GM and Ford, agreements first were made on a national economic contract covering wages and extra benefits. But local unions insisted on striking to back up their demands on non-economic matters.

Reuther said wages and benefits will be taken up last at Chrysler. But he said the UAW will insist that Chrysler's highest wage and benefit pattern be established in settlements the union now has with GM, Ford and American Motors Corp.

This gives UAW members an annual wage increase of 2½ per cent or 6 cents an hour, whichever is larger, and a cost-of-living wage increase tied to the government's consumer price index.

Reuther said the UAW will then have completed its current series of tests so that the effect of that moratorium will then be directed squarely against the United States and the United Kingdom, both of whom have observed the (previous) moratorium.

"It is perfectly clear that the United States would then be placed in a most difficult position. It is also apparent that this assembly will have been tricked and delayed if it allows itself to be toyed with in this manner."

Claim Russians Will Soon Seek a Moratorium

U. S. Delegate Charges Reds Want Ban Against Western Testing

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—A U.S. charge that Russia seeks a new moratorium to prevent nuclear tests by others after it winds up its own series on Oct. 31 confronted the United Nations today.

The charge was made Tuesday by Arthur H. Dean, chief U.S. negotiator for a permanent, controlled and inspected nuclear test ban. Dean made the charge at the General Assembly's 161-nation Political Committee prepared to wind up a week-long argument on which its agenda items should be debated first.

As a result, the committee postponed its vote until today when it will deal on the discussion priority of an Anglo-American demand for an ironclad nuclear test ban treaty, an Indian demand for a new nuclear test moratorium immediately, and a Russian demand for debate on overall disarmament as the first order of business.

Dean pointed out that Russia resumed nuclear testing in September without warning and with obvious preparation carried out while a moratorium was in effect and it was engaged in apparently good faith negotiations at Geneva on a permanent test ban.

"The Soviets have announced the date for the end of their current series of tests," Dean said. "I leave I miss my guess, that date of Oct. 31 is intended to coincide with action by this assembly supporting an uncontrolled, unimpeded moratorium on nuclear tests."

'Could Only Aid Political Cause'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House has asked the Soviet Union to reconsider its decision to explode a 50-megaton nuclear bomb, charging that the test would be unnecessary and could "only serve some unconfessed political purpose."

It said the United States had the materials and know-how to produce bombs in the 50-100 megaton range—and higher—but that such weapons are not essential to U.S. military needs and that full-scale tests are not necessary to develop them.

A 130-word statement was handed to newsmen Tuesday night by press secretary Pierre Salinger, who said it should be attributed to the White House and not to President Kennedy personally.

The statement was the only official U.S. comment so far on Premier Khrushchev's announcement Tuesday that the Soviet Union would explode a 50-megaton weapon at the end of this month. A 50-megaton blast is equivalent to the force of 50 million tons of TNT and about 2,500 times more powerful than the U.S. atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

U.S. strategists hoped the White House statement, citing the lack of military purpose for such a test, would rally world opinion against the Kremlin.

From a diplomatic standpoint, Khrushchev's Moscow speech was seen as combining the carrot on a stick technique with the flick of a whip—mixing the lure of negotiations over Berlin while brandishing a mammoth nuclear threat.

A task force of State Department experts—including the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Llewellyn E. Thompson—gathered to scrutinize all available textual matter to weigh the significance of what Khrushchev said, and what he didn't say.

The State Department said there would be no official assessment of the speech until Secretary of State Dean Rusk holds his press conference late this afternoon.

U.S. officials, however, reserved any enthusiasm for the Soviet leader's conditioned offer to lift his Dec. 31 deadline for signing a separate treaty with East Germany until they are certain what he meant. They indicated (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Urban Renewal Last Plan Ready

Commission Will Meet Informally Thursday to Study Details

The final plan for Pontiac's second urban renewal project was unveiled at last night's City Commission meeting.

The estimated $2.8-million project will be studied by commissioners at an informal meeting Thursday so that it might be given preliminary approval at next week's commission meeting.

Commissioners are expected to authorize City Manager Walter K. Williams to submit a final report with the Urban Renewal Administration and Housing and Home Finance Administration in Chicago. At that time, Williams would ask for a loan and grant from the two agencies.

The application would be filed in mid-October. It would require about two months to review and modify the plan before a public hearing and final Commission approval could take place.

The second project area is 19.6 acres in size and mostly commercial in character.

The area lies west of South Saginaw Street and is bounded by the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks, W. Pike Street and the rear lot lines on Saginaw.

Gross cost of the project is estimated to be $2,830,670. Proceeds from the resale of land are estimated at $855,550, leaving the net cost at $1,975,120.

The federal share is three-fourths, or about $1.5-million. The city pays the balance.

The local share, however, will be the credit received by the city (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Life Depends on YOU and CD Plans

Prepared With Shelter Against N-Attack?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: What chance of survival do people in Pontiac and the surrounding area have should an all-out thermo-nuclear attack ever be launched against this country? Stirred by a growing public awareness of the possibility of such an attack, The Pontiac Press has begun a concerted study of the local defense posture in search of the answer. The following article is the second in a series.

By DICK HANSON

Your chances of surviving a nuclear attack on this country—providing you escape a direct hit—depend on two factors: how well you are prepared personally and how effective are master plans prepared by Pontiac and Oakland County civil defense directors.

As things stand now, the first responsibility is entirely yours—to provide adequate shelter and supplies for yourself and your family.

This responsibility might be lifted as the federal government currently is considering the feasibility of providing public fallout shelters.

Consequently, you are left with a choice at this time, either to go ahead with your own plans or wait and see if the government steps in.

The second responsibility rests with the various agencies made responsible for carrying out city and county survival plans.

Such plans have been prepared in detail by Pontiac CD Director Robert Stiller and Oakland County CD Director Lewis Jarrendt. The plans have been approved by the state civil defense department.

FURTHER TRAINING NEEDED

But their adequacy would be fully determined only if put to the test. In many instances this means further training is urgently necessary, both local directors agree.

Following is a rundown on what these plans call for.

sure the earliest possible warning through an intricate radar and electronics set-up.

For intercontinental ballistic missiles the warning is expected to be 30 minutes. For jet-bombers, three hours. Billions of dollars more are being spent by the government in an effort to widen the warning gap.

Locally, the population would be warned of an attack by air-raid sirens, radio and television. This hardly would be adequate if the warning had to be sounded when most people are asleep.

So far, the only way presented to overcome the problem would be to install a warning device in each home and building that could be sounded simultaneously from one master switch.

Known as the NEAR system of attack warning, the device apparently has become snarled somewhere between politics and production, according to William C. Powell, state CD planning and operations director.

Since 30 minutes warning time (all you can get with an ICBM) would be insufficient time to evacuate Pontiac, sounding of the siren atop the Pontiac State Bank Building is intended to mean "take shelter."

Following the first attack wave on this country, survivors in areas considered secondary targets to be sought out by enemy bombers would be evacuated to safer ground.

Pontiac and Oakland County already have designated escape routes should evacuation be required.

ESCAPE ROUTES

In Pontiac, the routes heading out of the city are: East Boulevard; Auburn Avenue East; Perry Street; Jollyn Avenue to Walton Boulevard West and out; Oakland Avenue; State Street onto Elizabeth Lake Road; and Orchard Lake Avenue.

Oakland County evacuation routes are: Woodward Avenue and Dixie Highway as far as either Davisburg or Holly Roads and west on these; M24 into Lapeer; Opdyke (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

15 STORIES UP—The air raid siren atop the Pontiac State Bank Building, the city's highest office, is capable of throwing its warning din as far as 10 miles, according to Asst. City Manager Robert Stiller. Here he looks out over Pontiac and surrounding Oakland County from alongside the siren's mouthpiece. The siren is powered by a 18-horsepower gasoline engine and operated from a push-button behind the main desk in the Safety Building (partly shown beneath railing in picture). The $5,000 siren would be sounded as a warning to take cover from either enemy attack or tornado.

Lilly Vies for Auditors' Chief
With the Oakland County Board of Supervisors scheduled to fill 12 county appointments Nov. 7, Robert E. Lilly has announced his candidacy for chairman of the board of auditors.

Lilly, 42, a Ferndale Democrat, currently is secretary of the county board of auditors. His present post is one of those to be filled by appointment in November.

Opposing Lilly for the $10,000-a-year post will be Norman R. Barnard, 47-year-old county corporation counsel tapped for the job by the powerful Ways and Means Committee.

The current chairman of the board of auditors, Robert Y. Moore, 76, is not expected to seek reappointment. He already has tendered a letter of resignation to the board of supervisors.

Moore, the senior of all county officials here, with 31 years service, is seeking the newly-created post of budget director, to be named by the board of auditors.

If Barnard is appointed chairman of the board, Moore is considered likely for the new $10,000-a-year job.

TRIED TO UNSAID
Lilly, however, is not likely to favor Moore's appointment if he wins the chairmanship over Barnard. Lilly tried to unsaid Moore in a showdown last December.

The Ways and Means Committee, headed by Birmingham Supervisor David Levinson, is seeking the services of a younger man at the helm of the board of auditors.

Demolition of the two residential structures will involve relocation of six single persons and 10 families.

A survey of the 43 structures indicated that 751 per cent were substandard and 25.8 per cent were considered substandard to a degree warranting clearance and demolition.

Local administrators hope final approval of the plan can be completed by February 1962.

Land acquisition and site improvements will begin when final approval comes.

Last November the URA and HIFA made a capital grant reservation of $108,376 and approved a $70,000 advance to cover survey and planning costs for the project.

At that time, formal planning began. Last night's report was the culmination of the 15-month planning and survey phase of the project.

The second project area differs from the first in that it is mainly commercial and designated for non-commercial developments when cleared.

Blue Shield in the Black, Says Director

KALAMAZOO (UPI)—Michigan Blue Shield is in "excellent financial condition," Summer G. Whittier, the plan's executive director, told the Kalamazoo County of Medicine here Tuesday night.

Whittier said current rates should remain stable for some time if the use of medical services holds to a past pattern of a 5 to 7 per cent increase each year.

He said that any greater increase would be because of new expenditures, and implied that rates might have to follow.

"We would like to wipe out last year's deficit completely and be building up reserves within a few weeks," Whittier said.

Whittier predicted that the total cost of medical care would continue to rise because of new cures, medicines and techniques which will be able to "save thousands for whom there used to be no hope."

Whittier said Blue Shield and Blue Cross are concentrating now on solving the problems of the aged and the unemployed who require medical care.

Issue Warning on Illegal Fires
Dept. of Public Works Cautions Not to Burn Leaves in Streets

The scent of burning leaves in the air may be a romantic sign of autumn, but it's not always a sweet smell to Pontiac Department of Public Works.

Clyde Christian, DPW superintendent, today warned that it is illegal to burn leaves on streets or sidewalks and said that DPW crews would pick up leaves on regular rubbish collection days if they are properly banded.

"Our men will gladly pick up any leaves that are placed in front of homes in bags, sacks, baskets or other similar containers on regular collection days," he said.

"Residents who prefer to burn leaves should heed a city ordinance prohibiting such burning on city streets and sidewalks. They should burn leaves on their own lawns or in their backyards."

Leaf burning causes rapid deterioration of pavement, especially on blacktopped surfaces, Christian warned.

Fire Department officials suggest that residents burn leaves in rubbish burners and not leave fires unattended.

If leaves are burned in the open, they recommend the burning be done on a day that is not windy.

DETROIT (AP)—Democrat Lucien Nedzi and Republican Walter Carmezki were nominated for Congress in Michigan's First District Tuesday in a primary election in which campaign practices were under investigation for allegedly injecting the racial issue.

Nedzi, 36, a Hamtramck attorney, and Carmezki, 47, a Bld Co. employee, will battle each other in an election Nov. 7. But the First District, which includes the East Side of Detroit and the suburb of Hamtramck, is overwhelmingly Democratic and a getting that party's nomination virtually assures election victory.

The election was held to determine a successor to Thaddeus M. Machrowicz, Machrowicz, a six-term Democratic congressman from Hamtramck, resigned Sept. 18 to accept President Kennedy's appointment to the U. S. District Court bench.

Nedzi defeated eight other Democratic candidates, including four Negroes and Michigan Lt. Gov. T. B. Board of Trustees, for 3 years.

N-Attack Survival Depends on Planning

ROAD (to skirt Pontiac county south of the city); Levens and Rochester Roads; M-16 and U.S. 16.

In other phases the survival plans call for:

1. A system of communications to keep survivors informed of the changing situation and what action is required.

2. An intelligence service to ascertain what areas have been hit, extent of devastation, where fire are raging, number of casualties, what essential routes are blocked, what stocks and supplies are needed, and whether the enemy has released biological or chemical agents.

3. A welfare agency to provide food, clothing and shelter where needed.

4. An engineering service to clear and restore routes and to test for radioactivity.

5. A transportation department to move supplies and evacuate people otherwise cut off, such as at schools and hospitals, and to maintain field liaison.

6. Rescue service to locate and free people trapped in rubble and debris, and capable of giving first aid.

7. Manpower service to recruit an emergency labor force drawn from adult survivors.

8. Health services to render emergency medical and hospital care for casualties.

9. Fire fighters to control fires resulting from the original blast and after by ruptured power utilities.

10. An emergency information service to gather news for the sake of morale and the prevention of confusion and panic.

All of these duties would be directed from a civil defense department which would be considered relatively safe on the basis of what has happened.

Whether or not those working in the control center would have any of the above agencies operational would depend almost entirely on how well those with the previously assigned duties had been trained to carry them out.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Clare Hoffman, R-Mich., said Tuesday the United States cannot win a war if it continues unlimited spending overseas.

Hoffman said that although "we have contributed billions upon billions to other nations" this nation's security has weakened. The nation, he said, is on "the verge of war because we have disregarded advice not to become entangled in the affairs of other nations."

John Leisland, Carmezki topped two other Republican hopefuls.

The investigation into the election's campaign practices was ordered Tuesday by Gov. Swainson.

The governor wired the Rt. Rev. Marshall R. Reed, Methodist Bishop of Michigan and chairman of the Fair Campaign Practices Commission, to investigate reports that the racial issue had been injected into the campaign.

Traffic Accidents to Date Running Same as 1960

BIRMINGHAM — Traffic accidents in the city during the first nine months of the year were almost identical to the same period in 1960, Police Chief Ralph W. Moneley reported today.

There has been a minor decrease, however, in the traffic accidents investigated through September, he said.

The quarterly accident summary shows that 833 accidents were reported during that time compared to 839 last year.

Property damage accidents also dropped from 40 last year to 38 this year, but personal injury accidents climbed slightly from 134 to 137.

Persons injured in these accidents remained the same for both years at 155.

Right of way violations were responsible for 115 of the accidents investigated during the first nine months and following too closely was the cause in 134 accidents.

With three out of five accidents coming from these two violations, Moneley said that members of his department have been instructed to take prompt enforcement action.

The September monthly report shows that there were 70 accidents, 14 more than in September on German.

A few hours later Salinger handed out the statement which said: "It is reported that the Soviet Union plans to explode a giant nuclear bomb—the equivalent of 50 million tons of TNT."

"We call upon the Soviet Union to reconsider its decision. If in fact it has been made, we know about high-yield weapons. Since 1957 the United States has had the technical know-how and the materials to produce bombs in the 50-100 megaton range and higher. But we also know that such weapons are not essential to our military needs. Furthermore, full-scale tests are not necessary to develop 50-megaton bombs."

"We believe the peoples throughout the world will join us in asking the Soviet Union not to proceed with a test which can serve no legitimate purpose and which adds a mass of additional radioactive fallout to that which has been unleashed in recent weeks."

Birmingham City Commissioners recently reaffirmed the city's fire protection policy on the request of City Manager L. R. Gare.

As in the past the city will not allow neighboring fire departments to use hydrants within the city limits unless the service is contracted. The policy is directed against properties located at the city limits.

In all cases, except when life is involved, is the policy adhered to by the city, according to Gare.

He said that persons locate their homes, businesses and industries outside the city limits to escape city taxes but still desire city services.

Commissioners agreed that anyone requesting services should annex to the city.

Soviet Ambassador Valerian A. Zorin retorted: "All this talk about the Soviet Union secretly preparing tests and the United States not observing and not preparing tests is for simplicity."

"How can one make underground tests without preparing them? Underground tests require tremendous preparations. How did we make three underground tests? When do you hope to decide? You are not children."

DETROIT (AP)—Clifford Bledsoe, 22, of Detroit, was sentenced to 10 to 20 years in prison Tuesday for the fatal stabbing May 6 of his estranged wife, Willie Belle, 19. Bledsoe had pleaded guilty to second-degree murder.

Man to Spend Christmas in Jail Eating Baby Food

TRAVERSE CITY (UPI)—Christmas 1961 should be one William J. Youker of Traverse City will long remember.

He's scheduled to spend it in jail eating baby food.

Judge Edward P. Schumacher ordered the confinement and diet today as part of the 21-year-old Youker's punishment for disorderly conduct over the weekend.

Schumacher told Youker, "If you're going to act like a baby, you may as well eat like a baby."

The total sentence called for Youker to spend each of the next 10 weekends in jail. The final weekend, Dec. 23-25, will be a three-day affair and Schumacher ordered that Youker's only food during that time will be baby food.

Kenneth J. Laubach, 21, who pleaded guilty with Youker to disorderly conduct, was sentenced to four weekends in jail.

Both were also fined $25 and costs.

Youker, Laubach and three friends were arrested early Saturday after they had broken windows in another car which had been involved in a minor collision with their auto.

Schumacher said Youker got his unusual sentence because of a previous record.

Warns Con-Con Against Politics

LANSING (UP) — George Romney expressed belief Tuesday that Michigan voters might reject a proposed new state constitution if it "bears a partisan, sectional or special interest stamp."

Romney, president of American Motors, outlined his views in a 15-minute talk to his 143 fellow delegates to Michigan's constitutional convention.

He listed five objectives for the convention:

- "1. A model state constitution

Man Beats Red Tape, Brings Bride Home

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Regional Fromm, 23, a guy who beat government red tape, and his French bride are scheduled to arrive in Dallas today in a love story that laughed at international boundaries.

The bride is the former Francoise Rouviere, daughter of the police chief of Paris.

Fromm, who is now a student at Arlington State College, met her while he was in military service and stationed in France.

He returned to his home at Fort Worth, Tex., and for the past 18 months has been trying to get her into the country under the French quota.

Finally, Fromm decided the red tape was too much and there was one way to beat it. He flew to Paris on Sept. 30 and married Miss Rouviere in a civil ceremony. They plan to have a church wedding in Fort Worth next week.

Flying Minister Uses Highway as Landing Field

HOLLAND (UPI) — A Holland minister, finding the local airport blocked out Tuesday, was forced to put his small plane down on U.S. 31, 5 miles north of the city.

Rev. Garland Coffield, pastor of the Rose Park Baptist Church, said the landing was imperative because his four-engine plane was running low on gas.

With Rev. Coffield were his wife and two children.

A passing motorist took Coffield to an all-night filling station where he picked up more gas and called the airport management to have the field lights turned on.

Then with county sheriff's deputies blocking off traffic on the four-lane divided highway, Rev. Coffield took off again and brought the plane back to the airport.

Nasser Plans to Name New Cabinet Today

CAIRO (UPI) — United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser will name a new cabinet today, the semi-official Middle East News Agency reported.

Nasser indicated he will also introduce a new series of reforms. Fifteen Syrian members of the cabinet resigned after Syria broke away from the U.A.R.

Area United Fund Drive Sensible Plan for All

The Pontiac Area United Fund drive is now on. It is a united effort, and it is the most important charity effort in this community each year.

The United Fund is the most sensible plan for community charity yet devised. No system, of course, is perfect, yet this type of drive seems to have more advantages than all the others put together.

This system where the community has one joint charity drive, with local people deciding what portion of the funds collected will go where, is area fund giving at its best.

The United Fund offers a way for a local group to help underprivileged children, teen-agers, troubled families hit by disaster, the sick, the handicapped, victims of crippling diseases and others.

This community has always supported the United Fund handsomely. In the drive now under way every civic minded citizen should do his earnest best to contribute to this year's fund.

Let's make it another banner year in UNITED GIVING.

Insufficient Instruction Caused Corps Blunder

Typical of the way many of our Government's foreign programs are mishandled is the current case of MARGERY CHERMORE, a member of the Peace Corps.

Unfortunately, and quite obviously, this young lady had not received proper training. Had she been properly indoctrinated and still made the blunder of describing the "squalor and poverty" of the Nigerian people on an open post card, then she should be dropped from the service.

It seems reasonable to believe that it is difficult to make friends in a foreign country by insulting that country. All the facts in Miss CHERMORE's case are not known. However, we would hazard a guess that her Peace Corps instructions were insufficient for the job she was undertaking.

The parents of this young Peace Corps member are probably right in saying "perhaps she was naive in writing such a card." She is a well-educated graduate from Smith College, but unless she has the proper background training for such work one such mistake can play havoc with the whole Peace Corps program in the area.

Many of our representatives in foreign countries fall in this category. Their behavior through lack of knowledge does more actual harm than their presence does good.

The fault lies in improper training, and in some cases, no training at all on the culture and background of the country where they expect to work.

Our Peace Corps is being rushed into service, and apparently, at least in this case, a little more thorough schooling would have eliminated this touchy situation.

American tax dollars cannot buy back the good will lost from such an incident.

Will Jimmy Hoffa Beat This Charge?

Well, JIMMY HOFFA is on the spot again. He's been indicted by a Florida grand jury in an alleged mail fraud.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee has subpoenaed Hoffa to testify about his union's relations with the controversial Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union.

The CIO is encouraging wayward teamsters disgusted with King JAMES to return to the fold.

This time it would be nice if they could hang something on slippery Jimmy. The best attempts of the past have left him unscathed and it's beginning to look like he is Untouchable, and not only on Thursday night.

We hope the Government has learned not to go ahead until they have him cold, rather than initiate a series of harassing moves which make him seem so slick when he gets off.

The Man About Town

A Hint for Pontiac Comes From the Doings of Hustling Canadian City

Color blind: What's a greater affliction when the autumn foliage display is on.

That former Pontiac resident, John F. Olney, sends an interesting query:

What is Canada's largest city? Don't be too quick in answering. It isn't Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg or any other city you may think. It also is the third largest city in North America.

It is John's present home city, Calgary, Alberta. Recent annexations, in taking in its suburbs covering a wide area, make it over 150 square miles.

Of course this "largest" status is in area only—not in population. So Calgary really is spreading out.

Can the namesake of Chief Pontiac take a hint? Our city's present area is a meager 22 square miles.

Are you listening, Waterford, et cetera, et cetera?

This weekend should bring a big change in our football contest standings, as there are three contest games on as many days: Pontiac Northern vs. Waterford on Friday; Syracuse vs. Penn State Saturday; and Detroit Lions vs. Baltimore Colts Sunday.

Speaking of potato growing championships.

Herman Oshel of 153 Michigan Ave. has something quite unique right here in our city. It's a potato vine that grew up a pole to the height of six feet and eight inches. We challenge anybody to beat that for a climbing potato.

A farmer in Northwest Oakland County most of his life.

Irving Smith, of Flint, died Sunday, aged 83.

Everybody should find extra reason to be happy this autumn, according to

Mrs. Pearl Buford of Birmingham, who phones to remind us that last year at this time we had a presidential election on our hands—and in our hair.

In response to our request, several readers have sent us oak leaves. But none come from Oakland County, nor from anywhere within a radius of 30 miles.

Something else in nature's setup that appears askew, as pointed out by Mrs. Frederick Kassel of Waterford, is that vegetable garden plants are killed by the frost easier than weeds.

Personally known to me are three excellent citizens with the name of Jack Frost, but all refuse to admit any connection with that legendary character.

The harvest moon and Indian summer arguments are making their annual appearance. The former is in October, and the latter usually in December.

Without knowing any reason for such a condition, we agree with Mrs. Gerald Flintman of Rochester, who, after taking a few of our suggested autumn color tours, asserts that the best display is on the city and village residential streets, not in the rural sections.

The Old One-Two!

David Lawrence Thinks:

JFK Wins First Cold War Victory

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy, in behalf of the United States, has won his first victory in the "Cold War" when he met with Premier Khrushchev in Vienna last

June. Kennedy said no "ultimatum" had been presented to him. Later it was disclosed that the Soviet premier had left a memorandum with the President which was widely interpreted as an ultimatum—that before the end of this year the Soviets would sign a peace treaty with East Germany abrogating the four-power agreement signed after the close of World War II.

But now the Soviet premier announces that the plan for signing a peace treaty with East Germany will not be carried out this year and will be postponed. As so often happens in diplomacy, the premier decided to confirm Kennedy's earlier interpretation of the Vienna conference because it now seems expedient to do so.

This may sound like an important detail and perhaps it is no proof of any fundamental modification of the Soviet viewpoint on the main issue of the current controversy over Berlin.

But it is significant nevertheless of a change in the timing. It can only mean that Kennedy's firm position has been duly taken into account in Moscow and that all the words in the President's speech to the United Nations and in his private conversations with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko here really did take effect.

MORE TALKS

So now it seems that prolonged negotiations are in prospect, and that the Russians aren't going to throw away their trump card by signing a peace treaty with East Germany until they have exhausted every opportunity to negotiate settlements favorable to them.

What probably happened is that when Foreign Minister Gromyko returned to Moscow he reported that President Kennedy and Secretary Rusk were firm in their determination to resist any change in the status of West Berlin so far as rights hitherto granted the Western Allies are concerned and that the only hope lay in further talks.

Undoubtedly, the emergence of some differences of opinion among the Western Allies encouraged Moscow to postpone any definitive action on the East German peace treaty on the theory that nothing would be lost and that there perhaps something to be gained by first letting the Western Allies argue the issues out among themselves.

Dr. Hyman Says:

Dermatologists Explore Aging Skin Problems

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Here are some hints given by a pair of prominent dermatologists on the subject of the aging skin:

Features of the aging skin are: thinning, increasing dryness, sallowness, wrinkling and drooping.

Water-oil emulsions (cold creams) and oil-in-water emulsions (vanishing creams) relieve dryness and sallowness. Their cost, but not their usefulness, is increased by coloring matter, perfumes, hormones and other medicinal products.

Wrinkle creams are "quite useless."

It seems unlikely that any local applied products will stop or reverse the changes that take place well below the surface of the skin and that are the changes responsible for wrinkling and sagging.

Certain of the anti-wrinkle creams contain mercury which, if deposited below the surface, may produce a peculiar and permanent disfiguring discoloration.

Antifreeze creams are ineffective and may cause "violent reactions."

There is no proof that hormone creams act as skin rejuvenators. Other than softening and smoothing the skin in the manner of an unmedicated cold cream or vanishing cream, there is no proof that these so-called "rejuvenating" products have any beneficial effect.

Prolonged, overuse of hormone cream may result in sufficient absorption of the gland extract to produce serious changes throughout the body. Indeed, there is a remote possibility that they may stimulate cancer growth (carcinogenesis).

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Clinging Parents Can Ruin Child

By GEORGE T. CRANE

CASE K-47: Bob R., aged 30, should be a challenge to all mothers.

Most of my life she had been a mother and she was a mother. As I look back, I can see that she did the same thing with my dad.

"During my years at home I can recall how she would browbeat Dad into doing whatever she wanted."

"If he ever tried to be independent, then she'd get sick and make a scene, so he finally gave in and lived a meek, meek existence."

"But I'm unwilling to let her ruin my life. I want to become a teacher. So I plan to go back to school next month and actually to move to other cities where better jobs beckon them."

Talk Cass-Wisner Zoning Again

City Commissioners clashed again at last night's meeting on the question of rezoning property at Cass Avenue and Wisner Street.

The matter was referred back to the planning commission for more study.

Planners had recommended last week that the request of Manley Young of 196 Cherokee Road, owner of the land, be denied until Young could produce a prospective buyer with a specific use in mind for the property.

Young asked that it be rezoned from residential to commercial-2 and had presented a petition approving the change signed by 75 per cent of the affected property owners.

Several commissioners disagreed with planners on the basis that no definite use need be specified since a majority of those affected had already the broad C-2 zoning classification.

The property lies on the east side of Cass from Wisner to a point 400 feet north.

No objections were heard at a public hearing on a resolution to vacate a 14-foot wide alley parallel to and between S. Safford and Tasmania streets.

The part to be vacated runs from Chandler Street south to the back line of properties on the north side of Auburn Avenue. Property owners on either side of the alley requested the move last month.

It was recommended by the planning commission since the alley is not used by vehicles. The resolution was given final approval.

Work will proceed on sidewalk replacement on W. Princeton Avenue, on the north side, Baldwin to the first alley west; and on the south side, Baldwin to lot 606, Walton Boulevard Park subdivision.

There were no objections raised at a public hearing on the special assessment roll for the project.

In other business, rolls were confirmed for recently completed curbs and gutters on Stanley Avenue, Kinney to Montclair in five payments; and on Elm Street, Paddock to Jessie in four payments.

Charles G. Calhoun, Waco, Texas, was elevated to the rank of Grand Cross of the Court of Honor. Only three others share the rank.

In addition to the 33rd Degree Masons, 1375 members were chosen as knights commander of the Court of Honor.

Members of Congress elected to the 33rd Degree included Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla.; Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb.; Rep. John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz.; Rep. Albert S. Herlong Jr., D-Fla.; Rep. Walter H. Judd, R-Minn.; Rep. Hugh G. Alexander, D-N.C.; and Rep. J. Vaughan Gary, D-Va.

Reps. J. Edgar Chenoweth, R-Colo., and Robert F. Silver, D-Fla., were elevated to knights commander.

Ex-County Man to Be Sentenced for Indecency

Sentence will be passed Nov. 7 on Stanley R. Allen, who pleaded guilty yesterday to gross indecency.

Allen, 41, a former resident of Clarkston and now a salesman living in Detroit, was arrested in August in a Waterford Township motel, where police said he was about to take lewd movie pictures with a woman.

The woman was a police vice squad officer working on the case.

Allen, who originally stood mute to the charge, appeared yesterday before Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland and changed his plea. He was released on $1,000 bond pending a presentence investigation by the Probation Department.

Safety Depends on Good Driving

President of GM Says Engineers Working but Fool-Proof . . . No!

CHICAGO (AP) — As long as automobiles are driven by people it is "completely unrealistic even to talk about a fool-proof and crash-proof car."

That's what General Motors President John F. Gordon said, in effect, Tuesday night at a meeting of the National Safety Congress.

Gordon said, "This is true because an automobile still must be something that people will want to buy and use."

"Safety, in any environment from a bathtub to a bomb shelter, is a relative term, and an absolute. In the case of the automobile we can only design into it the greatest degree of safety that is consistent with other fundamental characteristics. Beyond that we must depend on intelligent use."

Gordon jabbed at amateurs who try to make a hobby of automotive safety engineering. The professionals, he said, have worked long and hard to provide crash injury protection. He added:

"I assure you that this progress will continue. New designs and devices will be adopted as rapidly as our research, development and test assures us that they are practicable and desirable."

Fail to Take Side Effects From New 'Mind-Energizer'

NEW YORK (UPI) — In disappointment and with sadness three physicians reported drug scientists have not yet succeeded in pulling the chemical fangs from the mind energizing "wonder" drug, iproniazid.

Physicians have great need for safe chemical mind-energizers with which to dose many people weighed heavily with depressions which yield to no reasoning nor other persuasion.

Iproniazid has the power to lift that kind of depression. But now and then it will also murder a liver. Drug scientists altered its molecule in various ways, hoping to retain the good and get rid of the evil.

The three English physicians, Drs. C. D. Holdsworth, Michael Allinson and William Goldie, reported they had tried three of these altered molecules in patients and all three made sneak attacks on livers.

DANGEROUS EFFECT

Four severely depressed patients were treated with them on seven occasions. In each instance the appearance of jaundice warned the doctors that the liver had been attacked. Three patients recovered when the drug was stopped but in the fourth the liver damage was irreversible and he died.

Iproniazid had two careers as a "wonder" drug. Its first fame was as an anti-tuberculosis agent but it soon was replaced by compounds even more effective. Upon tuberculosis patients it bestowed an extraordinary sense of personal well-being and thus launched its second career as mind-energizer.

But it wasn't long before it was becoming notorious medically as a liver-damager and occasionally, a liver-enderver. Measured against total numbers of persons for whom the drug was prescribed these untoward liver reactions were few.

However, there was no reliable way for a physician to tell in advance which patients might have them. Iproniazid dropped out of general prescribing. And the drug scientists got busy making derivatives of its molecule.

The derivatives tested and found no less liver-oriented than iproniazid were pheniprazine, nialamide and phenelzine. Like iproniazid they all have a particular blocking action in brain chemistry.

They inhibit an enzyme which supervises the elaboration of complex compounds from a simple one. Theoretically when this enzyme is overly active, there is a wastage of several prime chemical regulators of the nervous system and a consequent and persistent mental depression.

The physicians, in reporting to the technical journal, "The Lancet," said there was no clear reason why these compounds should attack the livers alone.

They could only assume it was due to the personal and unusual chemical state of the person in whom the liver attack occurred.

The liver damage caused by the compounds produces the same symptoms as the damage caused by the hepatitis virus, they said, but in our experience the illness has been more severe and the jaundice has persisted or progressed for many weeks after the drugs have been discontinued."

U.S. Aid Funds Up for Debate

State Groups May or May Not OK Governor's Welfare Plan

LANSING (UP) — Legislative appropriations committees were to decide today whether they will support Gov. Swainson's proposal for a special session of the legislature to claim federal welfare funds. Swainson indicated last month that he would issue the call only if legislative leaders believe there is a good chance the required legislation will pass.

Two GOP leaders, who asked not to be identified, said there appeared to be little support among majority Republicans for the extra session.

The legislature turned down virtually the same proposal twice before, once during the regular 1961 session and again at a special session June 15.

$10 MILLION FOR KIDS

The federal program would provide $10 million in aid for children of unemployed fathers from Jan. 1 to the end of the current fiscal year June 30. The state would have received $20 million had the legislature approved it last spring after Congress set up the special program.

Families who would be eligible for assistance now are receiving direct relief assistance from county welfare agencies, with the state paying part of the cost.

Swainson, who is backed by Democratic legislators in urging acceptance of the federal money, estimated state costs for welfare cases would be reduced by about $4 million by the federal aid. Counties would receive aid totaling some $6 million, he said.

Some Republican members of legislative appropriations committees discussed the proposal here Tuesday with representatives of the State Association of County Supervisors. The organization's board of directors adopted a resolution last month supporting action by a special session to permit Michigan to participate in the special program, which will expire June 30.

PONTIAC'S TEMPEST

GAS-SAVING "4"

Tempest balances budgets. The 4-cylinder engine slips gas while it gulps miles. Choice of horsepower: 110, 115, 120 or 140. Extra-cost engine with 4-barrel carburetor gives you 166 h.p., aluminum V-8 puts out 190 h.p. Balanced ride, too. The engine is up front, the transmission is in the rear. Equal weight on every wheel. Tempest digs in and hangs on. Bank a turn in a Tempest—it's balanced like none of the others.

They give soothing relief to tired legs and feet, yet never bind — because they are made of nylon. These Gaymode stockings "win in a walk." They look as fashionable as other lovely nylons. Tests prove they far outwear ordinary nylons, yet they are free of the color imperfections and the streakiness found in ordinary support hose. Gaymode support stockings provide maximum comfort and freedom from leg fatigue.

Working to Be an Astronaut

Detroit Gal, 14, Explores Cape Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — "Marsia the Martian," a sharp-eyed 14-year-old Detroit girl who wants to be one of the first women in space, nearly went into orbit Tuesday as she realized her dream to meet an astronaut and tour Cape Canaveral.

Marsia Kulesa, who said neighborhood children tagged her "Marsia the Martian" because "I talk so much about Mars and space flight," made a four-hour tour of the Cape and then said "I'm going to study very hard, because more than anything I want to be a lady astronaut."

Marsia, interested in science since the fourth grade, earned her trip on a national television show ("On Your Mark," ABC-TV) for youngsters. The other finalists in the contest all were boys.

Asked what impressed her most about the Cape, Marsia answered: "LOOKED HUGE."

"The Saturn rocket. I didn't have a real close look at it. But even from a distance it looked huge."

On the tour, Marsia received a briefing in an Atlas blockhouse and saw new missiles on other pads: An Atlas with a Mercury capsule scheduled to carry a chimpanzee into orbit soon; an Atlas-Agena topped by a Ranger satellite; a Titan and a Jupiter.

An Air Force briefing officer said, "The girl is very intelligent. She asked searching and intelligent questions. We treated her like an adult."

"It was all very thrilling," Marsia said. "But one of the greatest thrills was meeting astronaut John Glenn at the motel where my father and I are staying. Mr. Glenn was in a hurry to catch a plane, but he took time to shake hands."

He promised to autograph a book for me when he comes back later this week. He's very nice."

Her father, Stanley, reported this contrasting situation:

ON TEEN-AGERS
"Most teen-age girls go wild over certain singers. But when Marsia and I were on the plane to New York, we spotted Fabian (a favorite teen-age singer) two seats in front of us. I asked Marsia if she wanted to get his autograph. She said no, that she would rather meet an astronaut. She got her wish. She also hopes to meet Alan Shepard and Virgil Gribson who are due here 'this week.'"

One of Marsia's prized possessions is a recording about Shep-ard's flight as the first American in space. She hopes to receive a film of that flight, taken inside the capsule, for Christmas.

Marsia, who is a freshman at Dominicus High School in Detroit, said she decided about three years ago that she wanted to be an astronaut. She is taking every course possible and plans to continue in college. She says she will learn to be a bit miffed because I didn't get Fabian's autograph."

YMCA Invites Both Girls, Boys to Open House

Boys and girls of the Pontiac area are being urged to attend the open house Thursday and Friday at the YMCA.

Facilities will be available for free use to the girls Thursday from 1:30 to 3:45 p.m. and to the boys Friday at the same times.

Since both days are school holidays in conjunction with Michigan Education Association meetings, activities included in the open house will be a typical day at the YM: swimming, gym for transpiration, rope climbing, tumbling and touch football outdoors. The program is for children 9 and older.

The open house is in conjunction with the present annual fall running to the end of Oct., according to John E. Miller Jr., Pontiac YMCA youth director.

Youths planning to attend the open house on either day must bring bathing suit, towel and soap, gym shoes and shorts.

Missed Kitchen Sink

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Thieves ransacked a newly built home in suburban Miramar and made off with everything but the kitchen sink. They did, however, get the bathroom sink. They also took the oven and range, hot water heater, water pump and filter system for the swimming pool, a toilet unit, and a built-in dressing table.

Prices effective thru Sat., Oct. 21. We reserve the right to limit quantities.

Wants U.S. Food Cache in Case of N-War

WASHINGTON (AP)—A California scientist suggests the United States build up a national food cache so that food enough for two years would be available within easy walking distance of every American in the event of nuclear war.

Dr. Perry R. Stout of the University of California, speaking Tuesday to a component meeting of the National Research Council, said a $15-billion emergency food supply should be widely distributed.

LEAN YEARS

Stout said: "It will not be too much to follow the Biblical admonishment that the seven lean years will follow the good. As with the ancient Egyptians, let us take 20 per cent of each year's crop and store it—assuming we can get agricultural production up to such a level."

He added: "In this age of nuclear weapons, the United States is perhaps the most vulnerable of the large nations because of the dependence of her agricultural complex upon industrial supplies of fertilizers, fuels and machinery.

"Consequently, in case of large-scale nuclear combat with primary targets being our concentrated industrial establishments, agriculture, even though highly dispersed, will become paralyzed immediately."

Adding that agriculture in the United States could not be restored until its industrial base was reestablished, he said food enough for two years should be cached for these reasons:

TAKE ONE YEAR

1. It would take a year to restore industry and transportation after a full-scale nuclear attack.

2. Another year would be required to allow new crops to come in and be harvested.

The agricultural scientist said a "two year survival kit" of food would require: supplies of animal protein, desiccated and compacted; carbohydrates and fats similarly treated; plus the vitamins necessary for adequate diets.

And, "as for our present surplus grains, they must be gotten out of the warehouses and converted to animal protein."

He said the resources of agricultural experiment stations and food preservation industries "must be called upon for all-out research programs to develop methods for keeping foods stored for indefinite periods in the future."

Swainson, Board to Talk With 45 Con-Con Dems

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Swainson and members of his state administrative board will have a get-together tonight with the 45 Democratic delegates to the constitutional convention.

The meeting in a downtown hotel, (the Jack Tar) will be closed to newsmen.

An aide to the governor said it was "just a social get-together."

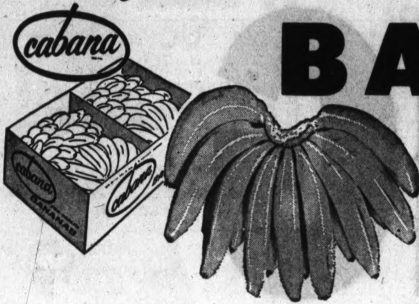

The first coin specifically authorized for issuance in the United States was the Fugio cent of 1787. The Latin inscription FUGIO in conjunction with a sundial signified "time flies."

Members of the British Parliament buoy up their fellows with "hear, hear," which becomes "cheers" in the record of debates.

The Hub clothiers is GOING

A LANDMARK PASSES! Since 1931 THE HUB has been the center of clothing values for men who insist on quality in addition to lowest prices. Unfortunately, we can no longer maintain this policy and still operate at a profit. Rising costs have finally pushed us to the wall!

OUT OF

Rather than compete by abandoning the standards that have made THE HUB famous we are GOING OUT OF BUSINESS! Thousands of items are being liquidated at COST or even BELOW COST. Everything MUST GO! The savings are UNBELIEVABLE—in every department. Come in tomorrow at 8:30 A.M. Once-in-a-lifetime values are waiting for early buyers.

THREE DEER STORIES — This is the season for deer tales. In the picture on the left, 6-year-old Jack White of Riverdale in Gratiot County, brought down his 100-pound yearling buck near Weston in the Upper Peninsula. He gets permission to be away from school for a week's hunting with his bow and arrow. He hunts with his father, Jack White, a nationally known archer, and this is young Jack's third trip. There were witnesses to his feat. In the picture on the right, at Galesburg, a tender drama took place in early morning hours as Brad Curry, 11, leaves his home to board a school bus and his pet fawn Custer watches. Abandoned by the mother deer, Brad nursed Custer back to health. The fawn roams the woods until Brad gets home to feed him milk and grain pellets. Custer also likes pickles. The third deer story (not pictured) comes from Wyandotte. The deer that invaded the town over the weekend was a traffic victim on Dix Road. The doe who had been with her was shot and killed on a school playground. They apparently had swum across the Detroit River from Canada.

Red Demonstrators Hit Gen. Taylor's Visit
TOKYO — More than 6,000 North Vietnamese demonstrators paraded through the main streets of Hanoi in protest against the visit of Gen. Maxwell Taylor, President Kennedy's special military adviser to Saigon, the New China News Agency (NCNA) reported today.
NCNA, quoting a Hanoi dispatch, said the Communist demonstrators shouted slogans: "Taylor, go home!" and "Down with U.S. imperialism!" The agency said a resolution adopted at a rally urged "the International Supervisory and Control Commission immediately to take effective measures to check U.S. military intervention in the South."

Now Used by Air Traffic Control Hand-Off Radar Plan to Save Crashes

By ROBERT J. SERLENG
UPI Aviation Editor

CHICAGO—An air traffic control procedure that might have prevented history's worst air disaster has gone into operation on a modest scale, the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) revealed today.

The procedure is known as direct radar "hand-offs"—a system under which an air traffic control center does not relinquish radar observation of an inbound flight until it has been taken over by the airport control tower.

It was the lack of such a radar hand-off that played a major role in the collision of a United DC-8 and a TWA Constellation over New York in 1960 which killed 134 persons. The traffic control center stopped monitoring the jet before it entered the Idlewild tower's jurisdiction.

Lee E. Warren, deputy director of FAA's air traffic service, said fulltime radar hand-offs are now in operation at 12 cities—Chicago, Detroit, Great Falls, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Norfolk, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Salt Lake City, Seattle and Spokane.

TAKES EXTRA MEN
Warren, who spoke at the ninth annual safety forum of the Air Line Pilots Association here, said Jacksonville will be added to the list as soon as it commissions new radar equipment.

The radar hand-off process requires two specially assigned controllers in adjacent facilities

one in the center and the other in the tower. They communicate over a special telephone "hot line" for instant action.

Warren said 14 other centers, including New York, are providing parttime hand-off service for inbound aircraft.

The FAA had hoped to expand

the fulltime procedure to all major airports but the budget bureau knocked the funds for additional personnel and equipment out of its current budget. The agency pleaded with Congress to restore the money but the lawmakers failed to act.

State to Open Bids on Expressway Link

LANSING — The State Highway Department has announced bids will be opened Oct. 25 for construction of the first section of the $90 million Detroit-to-Port Huron Expressway.

The contract will be for slightly more than 7 miles of Interstate 94 freeway from Cotton Road southwest of New Baltimore to the Macomb-St. Clair County line about 2 miles north of New Baltimore.

A Million Dollars to Relieve Itch of Piles
It is estimated that over a million dollars a year is spent on varied remedies to relieve itch of piles. Yet druggists tell you that cooling, astringent Peterson's Ointment soothes pile torture in minutes. Its hot or ice tube applicator, Peterson's Ointment gives fast, enjoyable relief from itching. Be delighted or money back.

Pear Season Is All Too Short

Michigan's Bartlett pears are here. You'll find Bartlett pears at their best from now until early October says the Marketing Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawler.

Pears are often not fully ripe when purchased. They ripen well in the paper bag from the grocer or some fairly tight container such as a cabinet drawer or cake box. A fairly humid place at about 60 to 70 degrees is best.

Pears that are fully ripe and ready to eat keep best in the refrigerator until eating time. If kept too long after they are ripe, they may lose some of their delicate fresh flavor.

If underripe pears are to be kept a week or more before serving, put the green pears in the refrigerator. Then take them out 2 or 3 days before using to ripen. Pears to be cooked should be used just before they are fully ripe.

When canning pears, remember it takes 2 to 3 pounds of fresh pears to make one quart, or 24 pounds for 10 to 12 quarts. Three to four medium-sized pears weigh about one pound, and one pound makes about 2 cups of sliced or diced pears.

Using fresh pears for salads or dessert? To keep the cut surfaces from discoloring, drop the pieces into a jar or bowl of chilled pineapple juice or orange juice. Put a crumpled ball of waxed paper or foil on top to press the pieces under the juice. Cover. Store in the refrigerator until ready to use.

Overcooking sometimes causes pears to turn pink in canning or baking. These will be good to eat, though they may have lost some of their flavor.

Dessert Is Much Like Dumpling

Pear 'n' Biscuit

2 cups biscuit mix
2 tablespoons shortening and 3 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup (about) milk
6 Bartlett pears
6 teaspoons dark brown sugar
1/4 cups granulated sugar
1 cup water
Grated rind of 1 lemon and 1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Cut shortening and 2 tablespoons of the butter into the biscuit mix until particles are fine. Stir in enough milk to make a soft dough. Roll out on prepared pastry cloth into a rectangle that's about 9 by 6 inches; with pastry wheel cut into 6 strips each 1 1/2 inches wide and 6 inches long (long enough to wrap around base of pear).

Core unpeeled pears from blossom end but not through stem end. Sprinkle 1 teaspoon brown sugar into each cavity. Wrap a strip of biscuit dough around each pear, overlapping the strips and pinch biscuit ends together. Place in individual baking dishes (1 cup capacity—about 5 inches across and 1 1/2 inches deep).

Heat remaining 1 tablespoon butter, granulated sugar, water, lemon rind and juice, cinnamon and nutmeg to boiling; pour over pears. Bake in very hot (450 degrees) oven 20 minutes or until pears are tender and biscuit baked through. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

Aluminum Cooking Pans Hold an Even Heat

Did you ever notice that the lid of an aluminum pot is just as hot as the pot itself? This is because of aluminum's high heat conduction, and is the reason aluminum cooks better. The heat travels rapidly and evenly through the whole utensil. It cooks from the bottom up, the sides in and the top down.

All of the contents of the pot are cooked thoroughly and evenly without hot spots. And because the whole pot is hot, you can keep the heat down to low or medium and save fuel.

Go International in Your Food Planning on Tuesday

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Dishes of foreign origin are more common in the American diet than they were a generation ago. Our people travel all over the world, eating strange foods and bringing back some of the recipes.

Tuesday—United Nations Day—might be a good time to introduce a new foreign dish to your family. If you have often served this type of food, you can plan an entire menu with each course from a different country.

The following recipes were selected at random. They are not meant to be served as one meal! Such a menu would not be a balanced one.

Start with pancakes for breakfast. Pancakes date back to the time ancient Neanderthal man made a batter of meal and water and baked it on a hot flat stone. This recipe is a typically American version of an international food.

Corn Griddlecakes

1 cup sifted enriched flour*
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
1/2 cup cooked whole kernel corn
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Mix egg, milk, corn and shortening. Add to flour mixture stirring well. Beat until smooth but gummy. Serve with butter or margarine and hot syrup. Makes about twelve 5-inch griddlecakes.

*When self-rising flour is used, omit baking powder and salt.

For lunch—if you did not have pancakes for breakfast—you could serve Rice Cakes. This recipe has an Oriental flavor. Combine two cups cooked rice, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 beaten egg, 1/2 teaspoon grated nutmeg or grated rind of 1/2 orange. Heat some shortening in a frying pan, and drop rice mixture by spoonfuls. Flatten into cakes. Cook over low heat, browning cakes on both sides. Serve plain or with a sauce.

Caraway Bread Baked in Skillet

Buttermilk, besides being good to drink "as is," can be used to make many tasty, economical and nutritious dishes, such as a Buttermilk Caraway-Raisin Bread. It is a delicious heavy-type bread that requires a minimum of preparation.

Ingredients for the bread can be combined quickly and baked in a large heavy cast iron skillet in just one hour. The finished product is superb, with the pleasant flavor of the caraway seed predominating. And since buttermilk is a rich source of calcium and riboflavin, the bread is as nutritious as it is tasty.

Serve this skillet-baked Buttermilk Caraway-Raisin Bread for breakfast, or with the main course at any meal. It's good with a coffee break, too.

Buttermilk Caraway-Raisin Bread

5 cups sifted flour
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup butter
2 1/2 cups white seedless raisins, washed and drained
3 tablespoons caraway seeds
2 1/2 cups buttermilk
1 egg, slightly beaten

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and baking soda. Cut in butter with pastry blender or two knives until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Stir in raisins and caraway seeds. Add buttermilk and egg to dry mixture, blending only until all of the flour is moistened.

Butter generously a 1 1/2-inch heavy cast iron skillet. Turn batter into skillet and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) one hour or until firm and browned.

NOTE: This is a delicious heavy type bread.

The Dutch who make such good cheese serve it all through the day. For a cocktail party they hollow out an Edam cheese, shred the cheese before mixing with other ingredients and pile it back into the shell. Raw vegetables and crisp crackers go well with this spread.

Festive Holland Cheese Ball

1 Holland Edam cheese (3 to 4 pounds)
1 tablespoon butter
1/4 cup light cream
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire
Dash salt
Dash cayenne
Chopped parsley (optional)

Cut and remove a three-inch circle from top of cheese. Scoop out the cheese, leaving a half-inch shell. Shred or grind the cheese and measure. For each cup of cheese, add the amount of additional ingredients listed.

Let the cheese and butter soften in bowl at room temperature, then cut with a pastry blender until mixture is blended and cut into fine pieces. Gradually add cream, beating with a spoon or electric mixer until quite smooth. Add mustard, Worcestershire, salt and cayenne. Mix well.

Pack the cheese mixture into the hollowed Edam shell, shaping it into a high, smooth mound. Garnish the top with rosettes made by forcing some of the cheese spread through a pastry bag fitted with a rosette tube. If desired, mix a part of the spread with salt and pepper, chopped parsley for rosettes.

Lentils Make Soup More Interesting

You can save the hambones and chicken parts needed for this main course in your freezer.

Lentils Plus

2 hambones
6 giblets, hearts and wing tips from 2 broiler-fryers
6 cups water
1 small onion (diced)
2 carrots (pared and diced)
2 ribs celery (sliced)
1 small bay leaf
1 cup lentils
Salt and pepper (to taste)

In a kettle, bring to a boil the hambones, chicken parts, water, onion, carrots, celery and bay leaf. Cover and simmer for 1 to 1 1/2 hours. Remove hambones, chicken and bay leaf. There should be about 5 cups stock and vegetables. Add washed lentils; bring to a boil; cover and simmer until lentils are tender—about 1 hour. Dice any meat on hambone and the giblets and hearts; add to lentil mixture with salt and pepper. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

decked with bits of green. Makes 1 large, party-sized cheese ball. Turkey contributes the Shish Kabob. Just because it is too cold for outdoor meals doesn't mean that some of the good foods we enjoyed all summer need to be neglected. Your oven will do the job of broiling. Then, too, many

Shish Kabob

1 lb. lamb shoulder or shank, cut into 1" cubes
1/2 med. onion, thinly sliced
1 teaspoon salt
Dash coarsely ground pepper
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon oregano
1 green pepper, cut in 1" pieces
1 med. onion, cut in 1" pieces
1 firm tomato, cut in 1" pieces
Place lamb cubes in a bowl.

Tuck in onion slices. Add seasonings. Refrigerate 1 to 2 hours. Alternate meat cubes, pieces of pepper, onion and tomato on metal skewers. Roll in vegetable oil. Broil 3" from heat, allowing 15 to 20 min. Turn at meat and vegetables brown 4 servings.

The Swedes have a way with yeast breads. Fortunately, it is easy to copy. Cardamom seed gives this coffee bread its distinctive flavor. Kringle is delicious hot or cold.

Swedish Kringle

1/2 cup warm water (not hot—110 to 115 degrees)
1 pkg. active dry yeast
1 1/2 cups milk, scalded then cooled
1/2 cup sugar
1 tsp. salt
1/2 cup melted butter
1 egg, beaten
12 cardamom seeds, crushed (or 1/2 tsp. powdered)
1/2 to 4/5 cups unsifted flour*

*To pressure flour, dip nested dry measuring cups into flour, level off with straight-edged spatula.

Measure yeast in warm water, stir in milk, sugar, salt, butter, egg and cardamom. Add about half the flour and beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour. Dough will be soft and sticky. Cover and let rise in warm place (80 degrees) until double, 1 1/2 to 2 1/4 hr. (If kitchen is cool, place dough on a rack over bowl of hot water and cover completely with a towel.)

Might Be Good For Halloween

Almond Bread

1/2 cup warm water (not hot—110 to 115 degrees)
1 pkg. active dry yeast
1 1/2 cups milk, scalded then cooled
1/2 cup sugar
1 tsp. salt
1/2 cup melted butter
1 egg, beaten
12 cardamom seeds, crushed (or 1/2 tsp. powdered)
1/2 to 4/5 cups unsifted flour*

Punch down, let rise about 1 hr. Turn onto lightly floured board. If necessary, work in a little more flour to make easy to handle. Divide dough into 16 pieces. Form each piece of dough on lightly floured board into a roll 14" long. Cross ends and tuck under the opposite side like a pretzel. Place close together in lightly greased oblong pan, 13x9x2 1/2.

Heat oven to 375 degrees (quick mod.). Let rise in warm place about 30 min. Brush with 1 beaten egg; sprinkle generously with 1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts and 1/4 cup sugar. Bake 35 to 45 min., or until nicely browned.

School Day Lunch Dessert

In a saucepan heat canned apple slices and melt a pat or two of butter or margarine over them. Now serve with a gentle pour of syrup and another of half-and-half cream. This is all quick and easy, and the youngsters will love canned apple slices fixed this way.

After-School Pudding

Have this quick dessert ready when hungry children come home from school. Prepare instant pudding mix and fold in well-drained fruit cocktail. Spoon into paper cups and sprinkle with cookie crumbs.

BUTTERMILK BREAD—Bread baked in a skillet sounds like something the pioneer woman would do. But it's the way this bread is baked. Buttermilk adds tenderness to the batter while raisins and caraway seeds add interesting flavor. Wonderful idea for brunch.

K Tells Communists Downfall of Imperialism Is Inevitable

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev told the 22nd Soviet Communist Party Congress today that the downfall of imperialism and the triumph of socialism on a world scale are inevitable.

The Soviet premier took the rostrum at the second session of the congress to discuss the massive new party program—its first since 1919—which the Kremlin claims will make communism supreme and irresistibly attractive to the rest of the world by 1980.

Khrushchev told the more than 4,000 delegates in the new Kremlin Palace of Congresses that the experience of a large group of countries had confirmed that the socialist system inevitably replaces the capitalist system.

Imperialism — the standard Communist term for Western capitalism—has irresistibly lost its hold on the bulk of the world's peoples, he declared, asserting that socialism is the main avenue along which mankind advances.

CONGRESS OF BUILDERS

In the Soviet Union, he continued, socialism has been translated into reality and this 22nd party congress will go down in history as the congress of the builders of communism.

The premier said the Soviet people's living conditions have been radically altered as a result of these "colossal transformations"—that unemployment had been wiped out long ago, workers' real wages have risen 400 per cent, and the real incomes of the peasants have risen more than 300 per cent.

Khrushchev listed what he called three historical factors of the 20th century.

"The formation of the world-socialist system is the principal result of the progressive development of society in our epoch," he declared.

"The crumbling of the colonial system is the second in historical significance among the results of world development."

"The third result of world development is an acute all-around weakening of capitalism and a fresh sharpening of its general crisis."

The party program before the congress was published July 30, and many Westerners immediately called it a pie-in-the-sky scheme.

AIMING FOR 1980

With a target date of 1980, it calls for free rent, medical care, education, utilities, local transportation and factory lunch by then.

It also pledges to overtake the United States in per capita production, to maintain peaceful co-existence between socialist and capitalist states, to support independence movements throughout the world, and to keep Soviet military forces at top efficiency.

"American capitalism has passed its prime and is declining," Khrushchev declared, asserting that the "American financial oligarchy" does not have the strength or the means to implement its claims "to the role of savior of capitalism and its claims to world domination."

The premier said two intertwining trends are operating in the "imperialist camp": A trend toward joining all forces against socialism, and a trend toward mounting rivalry "between the imperialist powers and the other countries of the capitalist world."

"The United States has not succeeded and will not succeed in overcoming the latter trend," Khrushchev asserted.

He charged that imperialism is compelling mankind to spend at least $100 billion annually for military purposes.

If only 20 per cent of that sum were spent annually on helping the underdeveloped countries, he continued, power stations could be built to produce 230 million kilowatts, steel works could be built to produce 185 million tons a year, 247 million acres could be irrigated, and many other big things could be done to improve the lives of the peoples.

'URGENT STRUGGLE'

"All this demonstrates once again how urgent the struggle for disarmament is to all the peoples," Khrushchev said.

Turning to the new party program, Khrushchev said it was a concrete, scientifically motivated program for the building of communism, marking a new stage in the development of the revolutionary theory of Marx, Engels and Lenin.

He boasted that communism no longer has to contend with capitalist encirclement but rather is being built "under the conditions created by the existence of a world socialist system, the increasing supremacy of the socialist forces over those of imperialism, of the forces of peace over those of war."

Within 20 years, Khrushchev asserted, "a Communist society will be in the main built in the U.S.S.R."

"Once the Soviet Union will have become the first industrial power," he continued, "once the socialist system will have fully become the decisive factor of world development and once the peace forces the world over will have grown still greater, the scales will be maintained at a level adequate to "crush any aggressor who dares to draw the sword against the Soviet Union and the socialist world as a whole."

HIGH LIVING STANDARD

He outlined these goals he said the program would achieve for the Soviet Union in the next 20 years: Industrial production rising twice as great as the present production of the entire non-socialist world; a living standard higher than in any capitalist country; the world's shortest working day; disappearance of low-paid industrial and office workers by 1970; full maintenance of all disabled persons at public expense; rent-free modern housing and free basic communal services for every family.

At the same time, Khrushchev declared, Soviet defenses will be maintained at a level adequate to "crush any aggressor who dares to draw the sword against the Soviet Union and the socialist world as a whole."

French Sleepwalk Through Crisis

By PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign News Analyst

PARIS — Among the people of France, as in West Germany, there is no urgent feeling that the world may stand on the edge of catastrophe.

A French electrical engineer evidenced that there was a Berlin crisis.

"A Hollywood stunt," he called it.

"Bad for business," a hotel man said.

"The fault of Roosevelt and Stalin," said another.

Three weeks of travel in West

Germany, including nearly a week in Bonn and another in West Berlin, convinced this correspondent that the German people outside Berlin were sleepwalking. In fact he hoped that this talk of crisis was all a bad dream which eventually would go away.

Now a week in Paris which has included talks with high government and NATO officials leads to much the same conclusion but reached by a different avenue.

In Germany, the feeling is of a country still numbed by defeat in two world wars, a divided nation in which West Germans feel that they still have not been wholly accepted back into the family of nations.

France, under President Charles de Gaulle, is at a peak of prosperity. Yet there persists talk of civil war arising from the Algerian problem and the rebellious right-wingers who insist that "Algeria is French."

Plastic bombs explode nightly in Paris and across the Mediterranean in Oran, Algiers or Constantine.

Algerians living in Paris have been placed under an early night curfew.

Yet if these factors tend to divert or prevent popular attention from focusing on the Berlin problem and Khrushchev's threats against world peace, the same cannot be said of governments or of NATO. There, the focus is sharp and earnest.

It is the subject of constant review by the NATO Council, and daily consultations in the foreign office at the Quai D'Orsay and at Elysee Palace.

As this dispatch is written thousands of American support and fill-in troops are pouring into France.

De Gaulle has brought two divisions home from Algeria and is planning to bring back a third. His air force is at almost full strength.

FORWARD WALL

By the first of the year, NATO officials believe they can have 24 to 27 divisions in readiness. This is the forward wall being built by NATO, first to convince Khrushchev of Western determination and then to meet his attack if it comes.

These are the deterrent forces who would be expected to hold firmly to their positions against the first Communist assault wave.

Back of them is the incomparably greater strength of NATO's nuclear arm, and back of that the might of the U.S. Strategic Air Command which would be the force counted upon to take the war to Russia.

Escapes Death in Attempt to Fix Fuzzy TV

BERLIN (UPI)—Mrs. Ingeborg Schultze, a West Berlin housewife and mother of two boys, found life in the divided city dreary at times.

In fact, if it weren't for her television set, she probably would have gone out of her mind worrying about the cold war rapidly reaching the boiling point.

Tuesday, even her TV set had the flitters. The reception was fuzzy and the set started to flicker.

But it saved her life.

"As I bent over to check the socket there was a crack," she said. "The window crashed and fell down behind me. Something clattered around the room."

That "something" was a Communist bullet that was fired from a cemetery by a Red sentry. She said the slug passed within 6 inches of her head.

Urges Antiflu Shots

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The Surgeon General of the United States urges immediate anti-influenza shots for persons over 65, expectant mothers and persons suffering from heart disease and other chronic ailments. The official, Luther L. Terry, repeated Tuesday a prediction that an outbreak of influenza will occur in the United States this fall and winter.

Scooped Out Hot Dog Rolls Hold Tasty Salad

Restaurants started the fashion and home cooks took it over. Now, days sandwiches come as "salad rolls."

For the filling, practically anything goes. This chicken combination is pleasant to serve the girls — be they 16 or 60.

Fruited Chicken Rolls
 6 sliced frankfurter rolls
 1/4 cup mayonnaise-type salad dressing
 2 tablespoons minced onion
 1/2 cup finely diced celery
 2 tablespoons minced red or green pepper or pimiento
 1 1/2 cups diced cooked chicken
 8 slices crisply-cooked bacon (crumbled)

Salt and pepper
 1 package (2 ounces) cream cheese
 2 tablespoons milk

Using a fork, remove bread from the insides of the bottoms of the frankfurter rolls. In a medium-sized bowl mix together the salad dressing, onion, celery, green pepper, chicken and bacon; add salt and pepper to taste.

Fill each scooped out roll bottom with about 1/4 cup of the mixture. Replace tops and wrap in foil or transparent plastic wrapping. Chill until serving time.
 Soften cream cheese with milk.

Frost tops of filled-rolls with mixture. Garnish as desired. Makes 6 servings.

Other Salad Rolls
 In New York restaurants that specialize in serving these salad rolls, usually both sides (tops and bottoms) of the frankfurter rolls are scooped out and the filling is added in lavish amounts.
 A special New York filling is made of diced cooked chicken, cooked rice (cold), cooked green peas, diced crisp celery, mayonnaise and seasonings.
 Another special filling is made of a combination of cooked and raw vegetables with a well-seasoned mayonnaise-type dressing.

The cooked vegetables may be green peas, cut green beans and diced carrots; the raw vegetables may be diced celery, sliced radishes, minced green pepper, grated carrot.

Lobster, crabmeat, salmon and tuna salads are fillings that do well in salad rolls. If you use lobster, let the true flavor of the seafood hold its own; couple the lobster only with celery, mayonnaise and seasonings.

Chopped cooked corned beef and smoked tongue also make good fillings for salad rolls. Chopped hard-cooked eggs are fine to mix with these meats and the mayonnaise may be slipped up with prepared mustard or pickle relish or both. Instead of the eggs, finely shredded crisp green cabbage may be added to the meat.

If you're thinking of making some of these salad roll sandwiches, you can have the rolls on hand in your freezer and then thaw them before adding the freshly-made filling.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new variation of hamburger—the blue-burger—is made by toasting a beef patty with blue cheese, says the American Blue Cheese Association.

Cornmeal Turnover Has Hearty Filling

NEW YORK (UPI)—Corn meal turnovers make a quick and easy main dish. Sift-together 1/2 cup of enriched corn meal, 2 cups of sifted all-purpose flour, 1/2 teaspoon of salt and 2 teaspoons of baking powder. Cut in 1/4 cup of shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in 1 cup of milk. Mix lightly.

Turn out on floured board or canvas. Divide dough in half.

Roll each portion to a 6-by-18-inch rectangle. Cut each into three 6-inch squares. Cut 1 (1-pound) can of corned beef hash into 6 slices. Place slices on one corner of each turnover. Top with slice of process 20 minutes.

cheese. Fold dough to form triangle.
 Seal edges, first moistening with water. Prick surface. Place on cookie sheet. Bake 12 to 15 minutes in a preheated 425-degree oven. Serve with spick tomato sauce. Serves 6.

Cornflake Crust Makes Sausage Patties Tasty

These breaded sausage patties provide a real stick-to-the-ribs lunch for children home from school. Shape 1 pound fresh pork sausage into 6 patties about 3/4 inch thick. Dip patties in a mixture of 1 beaten egg and 2 tablespoons milk.

Roll patties in 1/2 cup crushed corn flakes. Brown in 1 tablespoon lard or drippings. Cover and cook 10 minutes.

Zippy Chili Dressing Tops Green and White Salad

NEW YORK (UPI)—Snow cap salad is as cool as its name. Trim and separate 1 small head of fresh cauliflower into flowerets. Arrange raw flowerets in a mound in a lettuce-lined bowl. Surround with 1 (10 ounces) package of frozen green peas, cooked according to package directions, drained, quick-chilled with ice cubes, and drained again.

Top with a chili dressing made by blending 1/2 cup of mayonnaise or salad dressing with 1/4 cup of chili sauce, and 1 tablespoon each of sweet pickle relish and sweet pickle liquid.

A teaspoon of curry powder gives potato salad distinction.

Veal Is Better With Extra Flavoring of Cheese, Ham and Sour Cream

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Veal cutlet goes fancy when it's stuffed. So if you'd enjoy a made-in-skillet meal to serve to company, here's your dish.
The pan gravy that accompanies this veal is delectable; don't neglect to make it according to the recipe directions. Garnish, too, as suggested: the dollop of sour cream with its crisscross piping looks as pretty as can be and adds a real taste fillip.

What to serve with this veal? Southern friends of ours insist on hot biscuits. We say have hot biscuit if you like, but hot buttered rice is a must.

It won't hurt the rice a bit if you throw a handful of silvered, toasted almonds into it. After all, company's coming. Any such green vegetable as snap beans, green peas, broccoli or cooked green celery will make another fine partner for the meat.

When we tried this veal dish in my test kitchen, there was a portion left over. Next day I reheated it and found it extra good. If you make this dish ahead and reheat it, just make sure the gravy doesn't boil. Remember that the sauce contains sour cream, and sour cream is notoriously temperamental about heat.

Veal Stuffedlets
2 pounds veal cutlet (about 1 1/2 inch thick)

6 small thin slices cooked ham
6 small thin slices Swiss or Muenster cheese
1/4 cup salad oil
1/4 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 cup stock or bouillon
Salt and pepper
1/2 cup commercially-prepared sour cream
2 teaspoons flour
3 tablespoons cold water

Minced parsley or dried parsley flakes
3 whole pimientos (drained)
Cut veal into 6 pieces; split each piece horizontally almost to the end; open as you would a book and flatten with a cleaver or flat side of a heavy knife. Place a slice of ham and one of cheese on each piece of veal; fold over and secure with toothpick. Brush with a little of the oil; dip in the crumbs.

In a large skillet heat the remaining oil; add veal and brown, turning once. Spoon any excess fat from pan; add stock; sprinkle meat lightly with salt and pepper; cover and simmer until tender — 25 to 30 minutes. Remove meat to a hot serving dish.

To drippings in pan add the sour cream. Mix the flour with the cold water until smooth and add to skillet with salt and pepper to taste and parsley. Simmer, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened and just hot. Serve gravy around meat. Garnish each serving of veal with a dollop of extra sour cream topped with half a pimiento.

Cheese Crackers to Crumb Fowl

Fried chicken, a perennial favorite, served hot or cold for picnic, patio or dining room fare, is even more delicious when it's "cheese-fried." The rich nest of cheese is derived from crushed, inch-square cheese crackers mixed for zip with salt, oregano and celery salt (or garlic salt may be substituted to give a continental touch).

Roll chicken in cheese cracker mix; next dip it into beaten egg and milk; then roll chicken a second time in remaining crumbs; and fry to a rich golden-brown. So good to eat, so easy to make this way:
Cheese-Fried Chicken
1 cut up fryer, 2 1/2 to 3 lbs.
1 1/2 cups cheese cracker crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon oregano
1/4 teaspoon celery salt (garlic if preferred)
1 egg, beaten
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup shortening
Clean, wash and dry chicken. Roll cheese-it crackers between two sheets of waxed paper into fine crumbs. Combine crumbs with salt, oregano, and celery salt. Place in shallow pan. Roll pieces of chicken in crumbs until well coated. Then dip chicken in mixture of beaten egg and milk. Roll again in remaining crumbs until well coated.

Brown chicken, a few pieces at a time, in hot fat, removing and keeping warm. When all pieces are browned arrange in skillet, cover and cook over low heat until tender, about 30 minutes. Makes four generous servings.

You Too Can Understand Food Labels

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — The labels on food are an important clue to their quality.
Mrs. Glenna Lamkin, University of Illinois home economist defines some of the most common:
— "Breakfast" on cocoa labels means the cocoa contains at least 22 per cent fat.
— "French dressing" indicates the presence of 30 per cent oil in the product. Italian, Roquefort or fruit dressing without the word "French" probably do not contain this much oil.
— "Fancy," "choice" and "standard" indicate quality in canned foods. "Fancy" means high-quality food — the best product sold by the processor or distributor. "Choice" indicates a product perhaps not quite so perfect in size or shape. "Standard" canned food is a good product, but the fruits or vegetables may be imperfect in size and shape. The vegetables are usually more mature and the fruit packed in light syrup.

USDA prime, choice, good, standard, commercial and utility are the federal terms for beef grades in retail stores. In decreasing order of quality, choice, good and standard are the grades most frequently available.

A Good Dessert Climaxes Meal

The cook can take it easy if she uses prepared and frozen foods for this menu.

Tomato Juice
Meatless Potato Sticks
Meat Pie
Bread Twists
Sauce Cakes with Orange Preserves
Orange Frosting
1/4 cup butter or margarine (soft)
2 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon orange extract
Salt
3 to 4 tablespoons hot milk
In a small mixing bowl beat thoroughly the butter, sugar, orange extract, a dash of salt and 3 tablespoons of the hot milk. Add enough more milk to make good spreading consistency. Use to frost top and sides of a cake baked in an 8 by 8 by 2-inch pan.

Creamy Chicken Dish Calls for Cereal

Dinner must be on the table in a hurry tonight? Then Easy Chicken Casserole is the dish for you. Combine two cans or jars of baked chicken or turkey cut into chunks with a can of condensed pepper pot soup and a half can of light cream or rich milk. Cover the bottom of a shallow baking dish with life-size wheat or rice cereal and add chicken mixture. Top with another layer of cereal and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven until heated through.

Needlework Guild Ingathering November 9

By MARY ANGLEMYER

The 49th annual Ingathering of the Pontiac Branch of Needlework Guild of America, Inc., got under way when section presidents and directors gathered for coffee at the West Iroquois Road home of Mrs. Donald D. Bos Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Charles Rogers, incoming president, announced directors should take their collected garments to First Presbyterian Church between 9 and 11 a.m. on Nov. 9.

Members of the Queen Mary Section of the guild will serve coffee and British pastries at the Ingathering from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

Assisting Mrs. Rogers at the Ingathering will be fellow officers, Mrs. Bos, first vice president; Mrs. Chancery G. Burke, second vice president; Mrs. Harold A. Furlong, third vice president; Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald, fourth vice president; Mrs. William Brace, secretary; and Mrs. Philip Francis, treasurer.

Mrs. Burke and Mrs. George Crane will be in charge of the distribution at the close of the annual meeting scheduled for 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Rogers welcomed three new directors, Mrs. John Sedan, Mrs. Walter Methvin and Mrs. John Nadon, all of Rochester.

HISTORY OF GUILD

To refresh the directors about the beginnings of Needlework Guild, Mrs. Basil E. Brown gave a brief history of the organization. She also spoke of the late Mrs. Harry Y. Fitzgerald who served as president of the Pontiac Branch for many years and of her work in organizing new sections and branches.

Mrs. Brown also introduced two guests from Stabafa Club, Julie Bos and Calen Corpron, who brought a supplementary contribution for the emergency layette fund over and above the regular gift of garments.

Needlework Guild dates back some 70 years to Dorsetshire, England, when hundreds of children were made homeless following a mining disaster.

Lord and Lady Wolverton, who lived in a great manor

TWO OF EACH

The children needed clothing so Lady Wolverton invited a group to tea asking them to bring along enough material to make two garments. The women sewed dresses, nightclothes, boys' and girls' blouses, making one "to wash" and one "to wear."

These women loved the work so well they formed an organization which was called Needlework Guild.

Mrs. Almon Harpene of Philadelphia started this work in the United States in 1895. Upon a return trip to England she told her niece of the worthy undertaking.

"Once a year," she said, "two new articles of clothing or household linen were donated to the orphanage."

Her niece promptly gathered together the seven girls of her Sunday School class in the Oxford Presbyterian Church and Needlework Guild had its beginning in America.

The late Miss Ella Green, who just a few weeks ago died at the age of 103, introduced Needlework Guild to Pontiac. She had attended an Ingathering while visiting in the East.

Miss Green interested several friends and on May 21, 1912, the local group was formed at the home of Mrs. W. T. Barbour in Bloomfield Hills.

Only new articles are accepted by the guild. The women believe, as did the Wolvertons,

In England, that the extra lift of something new, not a hand-me-down, means more than just charity to those who receive guild articles.

It is a lift of spirit, a gift of confidence that can never be fully evaluated.

Chairman Mrs. William S. Isgrigg was assisted at the coffee table by Mrs. John A. Riley, Mrs. Donald Stearns, Mrs. Robert G. Isgrigg, Mrs. William C. Rogers and Mrs. Hart Morris.

Mrs. Walter Galbraith and Mrs. Furlong poured.

Preparing report sheets for section presidents and directors of the Pontiac Branch of Needlework Guild of America, Inc., is Mrs. William E. Brace of Voorheis Road, secretary. The 49th annual Ingathering is scheduled for Nov. 9 in First Presbyterian Church. Rochester women receiving instructions are (from left) Mrs. William J. Dunseith, Crooks Road; Mrs. Walter M. Methven, Northumberland Road; Mrs. Brace; and Mrs. John E. Sedon, Bretton Road. Mrs. Donald D. Bos was hostess to the group for morning coffee Tuesday at her home on West Iroquois Road.

Pouring for Mrs. Donald D. Bos (left standing), West Iroquois Road and Mrs. Edward P. Barrett, Pine Tree Trail is Mrs. Walter Galbraith, Miami Road. The occasion is the annual morning coffee for section presidents and directors of the Pontiac Branch of Needlework Guild of America, Inc.

Women's Section

Beth Jacob Women Gather

Luncheon was served to over 15 women at the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Jacob's October meeting Tuesday.

After the opening prayer by Mrs. Gertrude Present, a leadership institute for men and women Nov. 11 at Michigan State University Oakland was announced by Mrs. Harold Chapman, president.

A report on the success of the temple's recent antique fair by Mrs. Martin Kabcenell was followed by a talk on the United Nations by Mrs. Sam Stolorow.

A congregational dinner Oct. 28 was announced. Rabbi Richard G. Hirsch, Chicago, will be guest speaker. The meeting is being arranged by Dr. Samuel J. Chafetz, president, and other members of the temple's board.

'ASK THE RABBI'

Mrs. Harry Arnoff presented Rabbi Nathan Hersfield who gave a program, "Ask the Rabbi." In answer to questions, Rabbi Hersfield spoke on the branches of Judaism, the Jewish attitude on proselytism, the marriage ceremony, Jewish holidays and customs and symbols within the synagogue.

Mrs. Hersfield presented guests from the United Presbyterian Church, Drayton

Plains, a number of mothers from the Temple Beth Jacob Nursery School and guests from Detroit.

Guests were given the opportunity to ask questions and to tour the temple. Mrs. Mark Leach read the closing prayer.

Tell Others of Your Pleasure

By The Emily Post Institute. Q: My husband and I have just returned home from a 10-day cruise. Arrangements for this cruise were made through a travel agent. He had excellent accommodations and everything was perfect. He even arranged to have a bottle of champagne sent to our table while at the hotel.

This last was a complete surprise to us, and a very nice one. Now that we are home, we wondered if there is anything we could, or should, do in return to show our appreciation for his kindness.

A: Telephone him and thank him for all he did to make your cruise as perfect as it was. In addition tell any of your friends who may be planning a trip about him and be sure to have him arrange your own future trips.

Q: My fiancé and I have been arguing about the correct use of the suffix Jr., and would like you to settle it. He said that if the first name is the same as that of the father, the child is junior.

A: Yes, it does. Junior means an exact duplicate of senior, and the suffix is the only way by which one can be distinguished from the other.

Q: My husband and I have been invited to my godchild's wedding which will take place in two weeks. When we arrive at the church, and are greeted by an usher, do the three of us walk side by side up the aisle, or what is the correct procedure?

A: An usher will offer you his arm which you take and walk up the aisle on his right side. Your husband follows you, or if there is room he may walk on your right.

For information concerning the correct clothes of the bride and groom's parents as well as those of the wedding guests, send for the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Clothes at Wedding Reception." To obtain a copy, send ten cents in coin, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to The Emily Post Institute, care of The Pontiac Press.

Wellesley Alumnae Mark 50 Years

Over 200 Oakland County alumnae and friends of Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass., are invited to a double celebration Oct. 25 at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, Detroit.

Margaret Clapp, president of Wellesley College, will fly from Massachusetts that day to speak at the banquet. The affair will also celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Detroit alumnae club's founding.

Wellesley was named recently by the Ford Foundation as one of the eight independent liberal arts colleges to receive large financial grants from the Foundation provided its alumnae match the grants through gifts and bequests.

For her visit next week President Clapp will bring local alumnae further details of the offer, which could mean $2 million toward faculty salaries, scholarships and building construction.

Newest additions to the college roster from the Pontiac area are Susan Hallas, daughter of the Howard E. Hallases, Interlaken Street, Orchard Lake; Martha Hopkin, daughter of the John H. Hopkins, Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills; and Joan McDonald, daughter of the Howard C. McDonalds, Timberlake Drive. All are members of the class of 1965.

McCarroll PTA Plans Monday Fair

A pancake supper with "all the pancakes you can eat" will highlight the McCarroll School PTA's annual fair from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Dimiri LaZaro is general chairman for the festival. Booths and their chairmen will include all-southern, Mrs. Donald Sherwood, Mrs. Robert Lyon, Mrs. Howard Davis and Donald Sherwood; and game room, Mrs. Charles Palasian, Mrs. John Forester, Mrs. John Olson and Mr. Forester.

Mrs. Russell Ridley, Mrs. Jack Cole, Mrs. Richard Mielke and Mr. Ridley will supervise the make-up booth. Other helping will be Mrs. Joseph Prus, Mrs. Alan Rook, Mrs. William Nelson, James Singer and William Nelson, movies and pop corn; Mrs. Thomas Hereford, Mrs. Jake Guajardo, Mrs. Daniel Hutchens and Donald Sherwood, book sale; Mrs. Lloyd Love, Mrs. Arthur Koehn, Mrs. Robert O'Dell and Kenneth Skrine, talent show.

The fish pond will be managed by Harold Brown, Mrs. Carmie Ayers, Mrs. George Henry and Mrs. John Van der Meer. Other booths and their chairmen will include Cherry tree, Mrs. Hercules Renda, Mrs. Edward Showers, Mrs. Virgil Everett and George Hamilton; white elephants, Mrs. Clayton McIlhargie, Mrs. Reginald Lamont, Mrs. James Cezmadina and James Eldridge; surprise package and confectionery shoppe, Mrs. Wendelin Hyla, and Mr. and Mrs. Truman Nelson.

Pop and ice cream will be sold by Mrs. Ray Welch, Mrs. Frank Dillon, Mrs. John Fleck and Chris Schmidt.

Plan November Wedding Date

A November wedding is planned by Jill Mae Olson, daughter of the Benjamin F. Olsons of Hudson Avenue, and Ronald J. Elmy, son of Mrs. LeRoy Peak of Kenilworth Avenue and the late Robert J. Elmy.

Tickets with a smile are dispensed for McCarroll School Parent-Teacher Association's annual fair Monday. Among students eagerly awaiting the event is Jimmy Walters of Raskob Street, receiving his ticket from Mrs. Dimiri LaZaro, Oliver Street, general chairman. Looking on is Frances Hayes of Louell Street, second grade teacher.

Ebert-Traps Vows Told

On Bermuda Honeymoon

MRS. ANDREW G. EBERT

The newlywed Andrew G. Eberts left for a Bermuda honeymoon following Saturday afternoon vows in Kirk in the Hills, Bloomfield Hills and a dinner reception in Devon Gables.

Dr. Harold C. DeWitt officiated at the nuptials of the former Edith May Traps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Traps, Walnut Lake Road and the bridegroom, son of the Andrew Eberts, Jamaica, N.Y.

Re-embroidered Alencon lace accented the bridal gown of imported white silk organza over taffeta, styled with deep tucked bustle drape and full chapel train. Buttery veiling of silk illusion was caught by a pearl star.

The bridegroom's gift necklace of pearls and a cascade of white roses and stephanotis completed the bride's ensemble.

Green hats and shoes complemented white silk tulle dresses for the bride's sisters Carole, maid of honor and Elizabeth, who was bridesmaid. Tallman roses added to buttercup and yellow chrysanthemums designed the bride's attendant.

Best man was James Stover, New York City and ushers were Helmut Bernat, Lafayette, Ind.; Peter Paisley, Franklin, David Kaler, Kalamazoo and the bride's brother Phillip.

The new Mrs. Ebert attended Purdue University where her husband received his doctorate in pharmacology.

Green cymbidium orchids accented Mrs. Traps' sheath dress of bone silk. The mother of the bridegroom appeared in a royal blue silk sheath dress with which she wore white cymbidium orchids.

Anything Goes

(UPI) — Designers have extended a carte blanche on fabrics for rain-wear this season. Rugged wide wale corduroys, poplins and suede take the lead as favorites among the young set. Cotton knits have been laminated to foam for warmth with lightness.

MRS. RICHARD L. SANDAGE

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hartman, Watkins Lake, announce the marriage of their daughter Kristine Ann to Richard Lee Sandage, son of Mrs. William J. Petrusa, Dover Road, and Gilbert C. Sandage, Auburn Road. The couple was married Oct. 7.

Lynda Tabor Married at Marimont Church

White chrysanthemums and gladioli caught the light from tall candles for the seven o'clock vows of Lynda Mariene Tabor to John M. Kraus Jr. Saturday in Marimont Baptist Church. Rev. Philip Somers officiated.

Seating in the church pews following the ceremony were the Willie Tabors, West Strathmore Avenue, and the John F. Kraus, Third Avenue, parents of the newlyweds.

Proceeding the bride to the chancel were her sisters Nancy, maid of honor, wearing peacock blue organza with coral cummerbund, and Deborah, who served as bridesmaid. She wore coral organza with peacock blue cummerbund. Both carried semi-crescents of white and autumn-shade pompons.

Cynthia Tabor attended her sister as flower girl and Kenneth Tabor carried the rings.

The white satin bridal gown featured a bodice and long sleeves of Chantilly lace, repeated as applique on the floor-length skirt and chapel train. A lace cap secured the silk illusion veiling. White orchids centered the bride's cascade of white carnations.

Larry Kraus was best man for his brother and Gary Kraus served with Ronald Heines and Vernon Ruffatto.

HONEYMOON UP NORTH

After a honeymoon up north the couple will live in Drayton Plains.

Host Church Class October Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Loyse of Cadillac Avenue were hosts for the Baldwin Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church Fellowship Class' October meeting.

Mrs. Leslie Ball offered devotions. Mrs. Robert Walker, president, appointed Mrs. Paul Spragg, William Gaddes and George Reuter to the nominating committee at the Saturday gathering.

The Harold Pearalls will be hosts for the next meeting.

RUTH MILLETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Most parents are wise enough to know that marriages made in high school may not turn out to have been made in heaven.

But convincing teen-agers of that is quite a different matter.
However, a recent survey of high school marriages made by a high school vice principal working on his master's degree reveals a startling fact that ought to be impressive to teen-agers themselves.

According to this survey, 74 per cent of the young marriages questioned said they do not believe that high school marriages are a good idea... although each and every one of them married before finishing high school.

Adults can argue, preach, persuade and talk themselves blue in the face without convincing young people that they know what they are talking about.

But when almost three-fourths of the young marriages in a survey are ready to admit that teenage marriage isn't a happy row to hoe—teen-agers should be ready to listen.

Maybe high schools all over the country ought to make their own surveys to find out what students who marry before they get a diploma feel about the step they took—say, five years later.

If no names had to be signed to the questionnaires sent out, the answers ought to be honest and revealing.

And they should make the best possible ammunition to use in fighting the growing trend toward younger and younger marriages.

Church Women Hold Dinner

Hostesses for the Friday dinner meeting of the Flora Shelly Group of the First Presbyterian Church were Judith Shelly, chairman, assisted by Mrs. S. E. Minard, Jessie Axford, Harriet Holly and Mrs. Gladys A. Hocking.

Clara Gayford gave the Bible study from the Book of John. Grace Heltsch led the devotions and Lulu McGregor presented the missionary study on "The Influence of the Church in Africa."

Guests were Lela Shields and Mrs. Christine M. Albert.

Her First Choice

NEW YORK (UPI) — After the stove, refrigerator and washing machine, most housewives choose a dishwasher as their next appliance, according to a maker of electrical appliances.

Next in order — the clothes dryer, food freezer, garbage disposal unit.

Order From Chaos

(UPI) — Place small items such as aspirin and pencils in a clear plastic box in the car's glove compartment. That way your glove compartment will be tidy and the pills won't get mixed with the maps or mashed by the flashlight.

'Cut-a-Rug' Celebration Calls for Cider-in-a-Keg

Friends of weaver Annie Saunders gathered in a secluded courtyard at Cranbrook recently to help the young weaver "cut a rug." No jive talk or jam session this, but the traditional celebration that weavers host when a rug is completed and cut from the loom. Soft fall weather and perfumed soft cider in a keg lent an old-world enchantment to the soiree.

Overprotective Parent Boosting Own Ego

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Bobby entered the second grade this fall.

Every morning his father drives him to school on his way to his office. Every afternoon the school bus deposits him on the corner half a block from his house.

As he is not required to make any street crossings, his homecoming is as safe as human limitations can make it. But his mother insists on suffering agonies of anxiety until he comes within reach of her eyes.

If his bus is three minutes late, she runs down to the corner to wait for it; when the driver opens the doors to eject Bobby, she swears upon him as though he'd just returned from a dangerous mission in enemy territory.

On these occasions she is uncomfortably aware of the half-contemptuous, half-skeptical look from the school-bus driver.

DON'T WANT TO KNOW
Overprotective parents get used to this look on the faces of other people. We sense that they regard our displays of excessive concern for children as phony. But we resist what we sense. For we realize that of concern for Bobby's safety is really a parade of the superiority of our parental love.

We prefer not to know that our noble anxiety has in fact little to do with Bobby but has a great deal to do with our view of ourselves as particularly sensitive, particularly responsible persons.

Like all overprotective parents, we live in terror of anything happening to Bobby lest his involvement in any misfortune accuse us of failure in parental obligation to him.

Though this is rough on Bobby, it's rougher on us. Being a parent contains quite enough real anxiety without such inflation.

It's customary for child guidance experts to sneer at the love of overprotective parents for their children.

This is unfair, I think. I think Bobby's mother is fairly fond of him. The problem is, ordinary affection isn't good enough for her.

The overprotective parent can never be ordinary in anything. Wanting to be the tops in parental devotedness is just part of a lifelong need to excel in everything. She likes Bobby well enough. It's just that she likes being special a little more.

So she'll have to keep on proving it by rushing herself down to the school bus corner every afternoon to escort her able-bodied child home.

Should Stay Home, Abby Says

Has No Reason to Leave

DEAR ABBY: My husband just informed me that he is going to be "away" for Christmas and New Year's.

He owns his own business and can make his own work schedule, so I know that he is not being forced to be home with me. He gives me the excuse that this is the "busiest time of the year for him, but I am not convinced.

Does he have a legitimate excuse? NOBODY'S FOOL

DEAR NOBODY'S: Only if his name is Santa Claus.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would write a column about how the parents of today are getting their young people off to a bad start in married life. First the folks go in lock up to their elbows for a flashy blow-out type wedding.

The young marrieds are still paying off the rings when they go deeper in debt for furniture, TV, appliances and a car. When they buy, instead of taking along an older, experienced person, they let some slick-talking salesman sell them cheap furniture that will fall apart in a year.

They don't anticipate dental bills, illness or even a possible lay-off in employment. The only one working is the stork.

I have seen it happen so many times it isn't even funny. Why don't you tell parents to advise their young-marrieds to buy wisely, build together and save something instead of trying to start out with more than the Joneses?

OLD TIMER
DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and my boy friend (if you can call him that) is 17. He seems to be afraid to be alone with me. He has a car, but when we go out we always double date with another couple. He takes me home first, and then takes them home.

If he comes over to my house (other than for a date) he has one or two of his buddies with him. I would like to be alone with him, but don't know how to arrange it. Can you give me a suggestion?

PIXIE

DEAR PIXIE: There is no way to get a boy "alone" if he doesn't want to be alone with you. Be satisfied with his company—even in a crowd. He seems to be nice, even though a bit shy.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ELAINE: Bill was right. Good luck's partner is hard work.

CHRISANTHY J. ANNAS

May roses are planned by Chrisanthy J. Annas, daughter of Mrs. James G. Annas of East Iroquois Road and the late Mr. Annas, to George Valis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kerr Valis, Grosse Pointe Shores. She attends Michigan State University, Oakland and her fiancé is an alumnus of University of Michigan.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Mrs. Farmer, I have purchased diagonal weave wool and propose to use a pattern with a center front seam. Will you please advise me whether or not I should make this by cutting the material to form a 'V' at the center front?"

Mrs. K. C. If your fabric is actually woven with a diagonal weave, the diagonal lines must all run in one direction. It is impossible to cut your garment to form a "V" as you asked, unless you would use the wrong side of the fabric for one half of the dress.

Remember that when diagonal woven fabric is cut on the bias, it forms straight horizontal lines, which makes a very attractive contrasting binding. It is the self trim used in an unusual way that makes plaids and diagonals so attractive.

FABRIC ROSES

"Dear Mrs. Farmer, Would you please send me instructions on how to make the fabric roses used on dresses? This is an expensive looking detail which seems to give the dress a custom made look."

Mrs. G.M.C. These fabric roses are made with a bias fold of fabric. Cut a strip of bias approximately 8 to 10 inches long and about 7 inches wide. Fold the bias strip and machine stitch with a long stitch, beginning 3 inches from the fold and tapering to about 1/2 inch from the fold. The width of the bias fold as well as the length of the bias strip will determine the size of the finished rose. For a smaller rose, stitch closer to the fold and make a shorter bias strip.

After you have completed the first row of stitching, make a second row of machine stitching about 1/4 inch above the first row.

From the wrong side of your bias fold, pull the two bobbins threads together, until the fold is eased up, or slightly gathered. Now beginning with the narrow end, which will form the center of the rose, gradually wind the bias fold around, working from the center out.

You will notice the appearance of a rose forming. After you have the desired size, stitch the raw edges of the bias fold together on the base of the rose. These stitches will be made by hand and on the base of the rose and will keep the rose in shape. This will take a little practice, but is fun to do.

Dear Fans: I'm delighted with the hundreds of "Sewing tips" you readers have already sent me. Keep them coming but they will have to be unique and unusual to be considered a winner of a Tailor Trix Pressing Board. Your helpful "tips" will be shared and appreciated by our many readers.

LATEST WINNER This Week's Winner of the Tailor Trix Board is Mrs. Betty Parent, Kissimmee, Florida.

"Sewing machine needles should be kept in a small bottle to which a drop of oil has been added. This will keep the needles from becoming rusted. Run the needle through a piece of blotting paper before using on the machine. This little tip is very helpful, especially in a southern climate."

Your Sewing Glossary: Matelasse: This is a fabric that is enjoying quite a comeback in dressy clothes. It has a raised design which is woven in the fabric.

Shed That Excess Baggage

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN Did fall sneak up on you and catch you with 5 or more extra pounds? Life is like that! We become so involved in so many interests and responsibilities that time flies.

After summer vacations and summer guests, a person may find, to her dismay, that her figure is not the one she had last spring, or the one she had planned to take with her when shopping for new clothes this fall. A few pounds too many can take the fun out of shopping.

Because I know that this is the experience of many readers, I offer you my Trick and Treat Diet at this time. This is a seven-day diet which brings you a loss of 5 pounds. So, do not dismay, delay your shopping for a week, and then enjoy it.

Here are the menus for tomorrow.

Breakfast

Six ounces tomato juice
Two baked or hard poached eggs, with the poacher lightly greased with butter and a dot of cheese on each egg
One piece of toast
Coffee, with one teaspoon sugar

Lunches

Broiled lean meat patty (three ounces)
One-half cup carrots
One glass skim milk
One medium apple

Dinner

Six ounces vegetable juice, two Rye Krisps
Four ounces lean beef
One-half cup carrots and peas, flavored with one teaspoon butter
One-half cup grapefruit sections (fresh or water packed canned)
One small potato, baked or boiled, with salt and parsley
Eight ounces skim milk
Apple Snow

Here is the recipe for Apple Snow: Two egg whites; three-fourths cup unsweetened apple sauce; one tablespoon sugar; nutmeg.

Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold in apple sauce. Add sugar. This makes three servings. After serving portions sprinkle nutmeg over tops.

If you have missed some of the diet which has been published in my column this week, or if you would like to have the complete diet in a small booklet, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Trick and Treat Diet booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Garden Branch Plans Card Party for November

Sylvan Manor Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, will sponsor its first card party Nov. 28 at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Oakland. Mrs. Frank D. Webb, noted designer, will make Christmas arrangements preceding the card playing.

Mrs. Russell Kock of the Pine Lake Branch gave a talk on preparing plant material for dried arrangements last week in the home of President Mrs. Thomas Phillips on Ivanhoe Road. Mrs. James Burke and Mrs. Frederick Scott were co-hostesses.

Mrs. Phillips gave a resume of the recent council meeting at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club and read invitations to attend Christmas workshops Dec. 2 at Northville and Dec. 7 at the Waterford Community Center.

Guests of the group were Mrs. Robert Overcashier, Mrs. Max Miller and Mrs. William Grubbs.

Honedaga Lake in Herkimer County, New York, is 2,187 feet above sea level.

Millage Passage Helps to Guarantee Expansion

ROMEO — Voters in the Romeo Community School District, yesterday approved a $650,000 bond issue for school expansion by a vote of 510 to 399.

Also passed was a proposition to levy 3 mills for 20 years to finance the addition of some 20 rooms in the district. The vote on this proposal was 558 to 421.

This was the second time this year the school district electorate had been asked to vote on a bond issue to provide much-needed facilities. The first, for $700,000, was defeated Feb. 3 by a vote of 626 to 415.

The amount of the original bond issue was reduced by $20,000 when plans for a new elementary school were abandoned in favor of extensive remodeling projects and addition of more rooms on existing buildings.

Three classrooms, a guidance counseling room and three other rooms will be added at the high school; a large science room, boiler room and lavatories at the junior high.

The major construction and remodeling projects will be undertaken at Washington Elementary School.

Five regular classrooms will be built on the north end of the school with a multipurpose room and extensions to the kitchen and disposal system to be added.

The present corridor will be remodeled to provide a library, speech correction room and a health clinic.

TWO CLASSROOMS

Two classrooms will be added at South Grade School and the special education room at North Grade School will be remodeled for use as the principal's office. The present principal's office will be converted into a faculty room.

The special education room moved out of North School will be added to South School, making a three-room wing there. A special education room also will be built onto the Washington and Junior and senior high schools.

Voters in both the Washington and Romeo precincts favored the two proposals by sizeable margins. Those in the 3rd precinct of Davis, where no building projects were planned, defeated them.

The projects are due for completion by fall 1963.

Court Date Set for Man in Her

ROCHESTER — A former Rochester oil company distributor, accused of the Sept. 11 ax beating of his wife, will be arraigned at 1:30 p.m., Monday in the Oakland County Circuit Court.

Charged with assault with intent to commit murder is C. O. George, 65, of 147 Highland St., Rochester. He appeared for examination yesterday before Justice Luther C. Green in Avon Township Justice Court and was released on $20,000 bond pending his arraignment.

According to Mrs. George, her husband fed after he had attacked her with an ax saying, "This is the day I'm going to kill you." Her screams attracted the attention of neighbors who ran to the house, frightening him away.

Mrs. George received cuts and bruises of the head and arms and had a lacerated neck. She has since recovered.

George disappeared for four days following the alleged attack on his wife.

The object of a statewide search, he was apprehended by Romeo State and Rochester police on Sept. 15 at the home of his sister, Mrs. C. B. Titus of 714 Mead Road in Avon Township.

Find Man Dead in Car, Hose Leading to Exhaust

ROMEO — A 28-year-old Romeo man was found dead in the front seat of his car moon yesterday, a hose running from the exhaust pipe under the back seat.

The dead man, discovered in Burdison Park, was identified by Romeo State Police as Henry H. Smith, of 134 S. Bailey St. Smith was married and had four children.

He said it would probably be a year before the program could be established.

DR. S. M. BROWNELL

New School Unit to Meet Today

Detroit Superintendent Will Address Avondale Citizens' Committee

AVON TOWNSHIP — Dr. Samuel M. Brownell, superintendent of Detroit public schools and former United States commissioner of education, will address the first meeting today of the newly formed Avondale Schools Citizens' Study Committee.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the senior high school gymnasium, 1435 W. Auburn Road.

Brownell's experience with citizens' committees in Detroit will help guide Avondale in its study to determine goals and methods for the operation of the school system.

The Avondale committee was formed to promote wider interest and participation in school affairs and to project, estimate and plan for future growth.

All organizations in the school district have been asked to send a representative, and all Avondale citizens are invited to attend and participate in the meeting.

Pastor to Describe His Freedom Ride

MILFORD — Rev. James B. Guinan, Farmington, who recently took part in a "Freedom Ride" through Southern states in protest of segregated facilities, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Milford Democratic Club 8 p.m. today.

Pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church, Farmington, Rev. Guinan will discuss his trip, taken with 27 other clergymen, and his reactions as it.

The program will be held in the Civic Room of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Oakland branch here.

Addition to Twp. Hall OK'd for White Lake

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Construction of a $12,000 addition to the township hall was approved last night by the township board. The 25 by 50 foot addition, scheduled to be completed before the end of the year, will house fire and police equipment, according to Supervisor Edward Cheyz.

Half of the existing fire station at the township hall will be remodeled into offices for the township clerk and building inspector.

Storage space will be provided in the remodeled quarters for voting machines, which previously have occupied floor space in the township board meeting room.

The new addition will be part of an overall improvement program in progress on the interior of the township hall.

Cheyz said bids on the addition will be advertised immediately and will be opened Oct. 25.

OK Bond Issue to Pave Streets

Lake Orion Councilmen Approve $60,000 for Improvement Project

LAKE ORION — The Village Council has approved a recommendation for a $60,000 bond issue to pay for paving three of the village's major streets.

The bond issue will not involve a special assessment and will be financed out of state highway tax refunds, Irvine J. Unger, council president, said.

Streets to be paved are Flint Street, from the eastern village limit to the railroad tracks; Atwater Street, Orion Road to M24; and Broadway Street, Jackson Street to the railroad tracks.

Since the project is in its preliminary stages no estimate of work schedules has been made, Unger said.

The council also announces slide gates to the lake will be closed Saturday. Normally the lake takes from four to six weeks to resume its winter level, Unger said.

He urges workmen on docks and breakwaters to finish repairs before the water level interferes.

Suspect Arson Caused Fire That Destroyed Fortuna Pizzeria

ROYAL OAK — Mario Fortuna, owner of a restaurant which was destroyed by fire here yesterday, was to be given a lie detector test today.

State and local fire marshals suspect arson as cause of the blaze that destroyed Fortuna Pizzeria, 1115 Calypso Road.

In investigating the fire, Royal Oak Fire Marshal Noble Havecock found two partially-filled 5-gallon gasoline cans.

Royal Oak police said that evidence was found that gasoline was spilled on the floor of the building.

According to police, Fortuna of 12225 Auburn St., Detroit, has admitted he collected on fire insurance on another pizzeria he owned in Detroit.

The state fire marshal is currently investigating that fire, police said.

DAMAGE AT $30,000

Fortuna told police that he closed his Royal Oak restaurant shortly after midnight yesterday and that everything was all right then.

Firemen were called to the scene at 3:30 a.m. Damage to the building has been estimated at $30,000.

The restaurant has been involved in a city zoning dispute for several months. The city claimed the restaurant could not be operated in the area zoned neighborhood shopping.

Fortuna appealed to Circuit Court and won an injunction prohibiting the city from interfering with the pizzeria's operation.

Royal Oak has asked the court to set aside the injunction.

Nearly 80 per cent of the nation's families now carry some form of life insurance. To tell the public of the advantages of all types of insurance, companies in this field, spent over $17 million in national newspaper advertising in 1960.

Aim for Those 'As's, Not the 'Cs'

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.,
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California.
Let us assume that you've worked especially hard on the review for a test in some school course which has been giving you the well-known bad time.

You have achieved a good grade. You've met the crisis. But what now?

You have the course up to date now with your good review. Don't let it slip away again.

If you are not careful you will have to put in another rough week-end of review before the next test. You will have lost special care. Get assignments in the advantage on time with which you are armed today. You'll never hit anything unless you don't forget you aim at it. If you aim for an A and get only a C you will have grade will be nothing. You figured on the based partially on C anyway. Now is the time to raise the work you do your sights. You might have As from day to day in range after all.

DR. NASON

So keep the course up to date for the rest of the semester. It's the easy way. The proper organization of material which you now have is a must for effective reading and listening which will help you hold these new heights you've just captured.

FOUR STEPS

Here are some steps forward in your new plan of action:

1. Be in class; be there promptly, come prepared.

2. Listen to the teacher. Take advantage of what he has to offer. He gets the same pay whether you listen to him or not.

3. Prepare all assignments with the most simultaneous with hearing it.

4. Try aiming for As — not Cs.

Too often we think of "listening" as two separate and distinct things and most certainly as things that you could not do at one and the same time.

This is where you are wrong. Your past work in the course is now organized and you no longer need to worry about it. Because of this you will find that, while you are listening to the teacher, you can be spending more time studying what he is saying.

And you will now find that you can organize course material almost simultaneously with hearing it.

TIME TO START

You can improve on this organization of material by following a couple of suggestions:

1. Read ahead in the text before coming to class. Listen carefully to what the teacher is saying and try to guess what it is he'll say next.

2. Write short sentences from time to time — just little re-mindings which will summarize what the teacher has said.

Don't wait to do these things. Do them now while the whole course reorganization you have made is fresh in your mind.

In some respects, doing school work can be a little like paying for something you've bought on the installment plan. If, when you are purchasing something on credit, you will have the good sense to put away a portion of your weekly earnings, there will be no problem meeting the monthly payment on the item.

Daily organization of course material and the practice of putting the basics away daily in memory and notebooks will prepare you for that day of reckoning when the teacher gives you a final examination.

(Write Dr. Nason in care of this paper. He will cover questions of general interest in his articles.)

Khrushchev Strength Shows in His Speech

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's public account of his triumph over the "anti-party" group in 1957 indicated today the strength of his now-unchallenged leadership in the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev gave the account Tuesday to more than 4,000 delegates — plus diplomats, visiting Communists and newsmen — at the opening session of the 22nd Soviet Communist Party Congress.

It was the first time he personally had admitted publicly that a party crisis had mushroomed in 1957 when a majority of the presidium reportedly tried to oust him.

The group consisted of Vyacheslav Molotov, Georgi Malenkov, Lazar Kaganovich, Dimitri Shepilov, Nikolai Bulganin, Maksim Saburov, Mikhail Pervukhin and former President Klementi Voroshilov.

REVEALS NAMES
Those who sided with Khrushchev were Mikhail Suslov, Ekaterina Furzeva, Anastas Mikoyan and Alexei Kirichenko.

Eventually this second group won the day, leading to an expulsion of the Old Guard Stalinists and their younger associates from leadership.

The linking of Voroshilov to the "anti-party" group caught many Russians by surprise.

Voroshilov, now 73, sat on a platform red-faced as Khrushchev brought his name into the fight. Khrushchev began his anti-Stalinization program at the 1956 party congress. His speech did not leak out until weeks afterward.

He told his audience Tuesday that he wanted to take the entire party into his confidence and not hush up negative factors in the Soviet Union as the Stalinists would have liked him to.

The anti-party group allegedly also opposed Khrushchev's virgin lands agricultural plan, decentralization of industry, rapprochement with Yugoslavia and a general liberalization of the Soviet regime.

Had this group triumphed, Khrushchev said, the Soviet position would have suffered at home and abroad.

As if to prove the reality of the end of Stalin era, Voroshilov, still highly respected in the Soviet Union although retired from active affairs, was elected Tuesday to the presidium of the congress.

Also attending the congress were Bulganin, Saburov and Pervukhin.

All the members of the "anti-party" group are alive today including Molotov in Vienna, an ambassador to the International Atomic Energy Commission and Malenkov as director of a hydroelectric station in Kazakhstan. Bulganin and Kaganovich are retired.

Russ Get Word on Nuclear Tests

People Told for 1st Time of Plans to End Series and 50-Megaton Blast

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet people were told for the first time today that their government plans to conclude its current series of nuclear tests with a 50-megaton explosion this month.

The disclosure came in the reading over Moscow's three main home radio stations of the text of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's speech to the opening session of the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress Tuesday.

Texts of the speech printed in today's editions of Moscow newspapers did not include this reference to the explosion.

The radio listeners heard Khrushchev's assurance that the nuclear tests had gone "very successfully" and that the Soviet Union has a 100-megaton bomb.

They heard, too, Khrushchev's exclamation: "However, as they used to say, God forbid that we should ever have to explode these bombs!"

The Soviet government had, up to Tuesday, given no details of its nuclear test program which it resumed Sept. 1.

K's Speech Arouses Conflicting Feelings

LONDON (AP)—Premier Khrushchev's speech to the Soviet Communist party Congress aroused conflicting feelings of hope and dismay in the capitals of Western Europe today.

The fearful Europeans clutched at the straw he held out on Berlin, the announcement he had lifted his deadline for signing a peace treaty with East Germany. But some noted that was the only change in his Berlin stand.

Dismay was widespread at his announcement that in less than two weeks the Russians will explode a 50-megaton hydrogen bomb, the biggest man-made bang the world has ever known.

British newspapers exhibited more concern at the prospect of the massive Soviet nuclear blast than relief over the possible delay in a Berlin showdown.

Pontiac Girl Hurt When Car Skids Off Road

A 15-year-old Pontiac girl was injured when a car skidded into a ditch alongside Milford Road in Highland Township last night.

Linda Mullens of 129 Howard St. was reported in fair condition today at Pontiac General Hospital. She suffered a fractured knee and a cut on her thigh.

The driver of the car, Alden Lewis, 26, of 6649 Pine Knob Road, Independence Township, told sheriff's deputies that he was attempting to pass a car ahead on the right side when his wheels drove onto the gravel shoulder and he lost control of his car.

The car careened 85 yards at about 50 miles an hour before hitting the ditch, deputies said. Lewis and five other passengers escaped injury.

Gives Eisenhower Head-of-GOP Title

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rep. William E. Miller, Republican national chairman, says he believes Richard M. Nixon has "renounced his position of titular head" of the national GOP.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is the party's national leader, he told a news conference Tuesday.

Nixon himself reportedly has told associates he felt the title "titular leader" was an empty honor. He recently announced he will seek California's governorship in 1962 and will not seek the White House in 1964.

Miller has conferred with Nixon since arriving here for party conferences.

Half of American Berlin Garrison Tests Readiness

BERLIN (AP)—Nearly half West Berlin's 4,500-man U.S. garrison rolled out today for a three-day test of combat readiness. Tanks rumbled through the streets at daybreak, followed by armored personnel carriers packed with steel-helmeted troops.

There was a cold fall wind under blue skies as the columns wheeled out of their barracks and headed for the Grunewald Forest, in the American sector southwest of the city proper, where the mock battles will be staged.

Teens Driving Doctor to New Phone Number

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—So you think you got teen-age telephone trouble? Consider the plight of the Jefferson City doctor whose number is 5-4321.

Teen-agers have been calling and when the doctor's receptionist answers: "This is 5-4321," the kids shout "Blast off!"

Elated on Being Quoted in New Dictionary

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—I can see my high school English teachers getting the news now.
"You mean to tell me," says the first one, "that Harold Boyle, that big curly little boy who always came to class in his tennis shoes, is quoted twice in the new unabridged dictionary?"
"I know it sounds impossible, but it's true," says the second. "This is the bluest day for literature since William Shakespeare died."

"Oh, I don't know," says the third. "I always suspected little Harold had something in him."
"So did I," says the fourth, "but I never suspected it was anything anyone would ever want to quote in a dictionary!"

COULDN'T BELIEVE
Many of my editorial coworkers couldn't believe it either when the massive, 2,720-page new dictionary arrived in our office.
But there in bright clear print—both on page 224 under "black-and-white" and on page 50 under "burn"—was the defining quote: "black-and-white world where a guy is either your pal or probably a bum.—Hal Boyle."

"How did this disaster happen to our beloved language?" asked a jealous conferee.

"CONTEMPORARY NOTABLE"
"Oh," I replied, "the editors decided to modernize the dictionary. So they threw out some of the explanatory phrases of a bunch of old mossback writers like J. Milton and Alex Pope, and replaced them with new quotes from 14,000 contemporary notables."

Con-Con Plans Public Hearings

Taxation Group First to Set Date of Oct. 25 as Sounding Board

LANSING (P)—Michigan's con-con delegates were hard at work Tuesday perfecting committee operations so every resident from Gov. Swainson down the line will have a chance to air his views on how the state's constitution can be improved.

The committee on taxation and finance got a jump on eight other major committees when it announced the first of many con-con public hearings will be held Wednesday, Oct. 25. The initial session will deal with the question of constitutional earmarking of state tax money.

D. Hale Brake (R-Stanton), former state treasurer and chairman of the committee, said announcements of the public hearing had been sent to seven interested groups.

Richard Van Dusen (R-Bingham Farms) voiced the views of several delegates when he told the rules and resolutions committee that public hearings were especially important in the early weeks of the convention.

"We want to get every type of view, even though some of them may be frivolous," he said.

Van Dusen added:
"The second time public hearings will be of the most benefit is after the committee has developed some tentative proposals and wants to subject committee thinking to the sounding board of public opinion. We must keep the public informed since they will have to act on what we do."

Some delegates expressed concern that too many witnesses who had no specific suggestions would consume valuable committee time.

CUT OFF ORATORY
Brake, while stressing the committee's desire to hear all groups and individuals who had something constructive to offer, expressed hope his group would be able to avoid witnesses who would have lots of oratory and little else.

Former Congressman Alvin Bentley (R-Dwese) told a meeting of the committee studying the executive branch he felt that as a matter of courtesy Gov. Swainson should be given the privilege of being the first witness to be heard.

At a meeting of the education committee, it was decided to ask Dr. Lynn Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, to appear before the group to give a summary of the state's present educational setup.

This would be a prelude to the committee hearing from other witnesses.

Declines to Commit U. S. to Giving India Cotton

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman declined Tuesday to commit the United States to build up cotton buffer stocks in India, where production has been hurt by floods.
At a news conference, Freeman said "it is impossible to respond at this time because the United States is in short supply" this year because of low production.

Loud Patrolmen

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Eye-dazzling vests have been thrown into Memphis' traffic safety battle. Police who direct traffic on dark streets will wear the bright orange and white vests, enabling motorists to see them better.

"What's a contemporary notable?" he inquired.
"Well, according to the dictionary itself, you're looking at one of them Buster," I told him coldly. He looked the other way as quick as he could, and walked away breathing hard and chewing on his blue pencil.

CLASSY CROWD
Actually, I'm in a pretty classy crowd. Among the other "contemporary notables" are such renowned literary figures as Willie Mays, Ethel Merman, Ted Williams, and Dina Shore.

They also managed to find room for quotes by Mickey Spillane, Winston Churchill, Douglas MacArthur, W. Somerset Maugham, and Ernest Hemingway.

WILLIE'S DEFINITION
The quote from Willie Mays is one of my favorites. Defining one meaning of puff, it says, "Hit too many homers and people start puffing you up."

The new unabridged dictionary is the first new edition in 27 years, cost $3,500,000 to prepare and has 600,000 entries, including 100,000 new terms.

"How does it feel to be quoted in the dictionary?" asked one of my coworkers.
"It doesn't really leave you much to live for does it?" I teased a second.

"Oh, I don't know," said a third, "he still hasn't made the bible."

LOOK ME UP
But I'll tell you how it felt. To a boy who started throwing newspapers at the age of 10 and has loved words all his life, being quoted in the dictionary was like—well, it was like one who, lost in a wilderness, looks up and sees an airplane, and suddenly the airplane writes his name in giant letters against the eternal blue sky, and the letters hang there, fadeless and fine.

There's only one thing wrong. The dictionary costs $47.50. That's a lot of money—even for a "contemporary notable."
But the next time you drop into the public library, be sure and look me up. Page 224! Page 225!

Most Licenses Forgery-Proof

Driving Certificates Issued on Safety Paper to Prevent Defacing

LANSING (P)—More than half of Michigan's four million drivers now carry forgery-proof licenses, the Secretary of State's Office reports.

The black-on-grey wallet-size cards are printed on safety paper which cannot be successfully defaced or falsified. The licenses are replacing the former white-on-black photographic process document which would be easily forged.

Since the change was made in April of 1960, the office said, 2,161,825 of the new licenses have been issued. During the same period, 175,640 duplicates and corrections were issued.

The duplicates were for lost or mutilated licenses and the corrections were mostly for newly wedded women switching over to their married names or divorcees returning to maiden names.

Licenses must be renewed every three years, the office reminded, and become invalid on the driver's birthday when the 36 months are up.

Ex-Presidents Standing By If War Comes

By BOB CONSIDINE
KANSAS CITY, Mo. — In the event of a big war it is certain that President Kennedy would return at least two and probably all three former chief executives to some kind of active elder statesmanship.

Each has his special gift, his unique contribution to make if called upon. En masse, they'd represent the country's resolute togetherness.

Former President Eisenhower's ability to weld divergent opinions and unite traditionally suspicious Allies make his presence on some senior advisory board almost a necessity. He is 71.

Ex-President Herbert Hoover brought a measure of order to the chaos that followed world wars one and two. He is in mid-life 80, but sound.

Seventy-six-year-old Harry S. Truman would take the first plane to Washington if called upon, his friends here say, and not because of any desire other than to be of service to a President he has come to admire greatly.

POSITIVE TRUMAN

Truman could bring to any such panel the power of positive decision. No president before him had as many difficult decisions to make as even Lincoln, Wilson or FDR. Only the incumbent had as many problems heaped upon him.

Truman had to make the terrible decision to drop the atomic bomb on Japan, and make it in face of a petition signed by 66 of the nuclear physicists who built it — and saw it work at Alamo — pleading that it not be used.

One even asked to be strapped to the first such bomb dropped on a city, so that he could be consumed with it as a penance for having had a hand in its creation.

At a time when Japanese were fighting to the death against towering odds to protect already lost islands to the south of Japan, the scientists suggested that the Japanese home front would surrender if even told about the existence of the new and terrible bomb.

It was even suggested that we invite the emperor and the war cabinet of Hideki Tojo to witness a test at sea.

President Truman had the counsel of his military at this time, too. The best men he had, beginning with Douglas MacArthur, considered 800,000 as a conservative estimate of the casualties the U.S. would suffer in the October 1945 invasion of the Japanese homeland.

If the resistance was so great in places for which the defenders had no love, what would it be when it concerned the homeland?

ORDERED THE BOMB

So the President ordered the bomb used — and the history of man underwent sharp alteration. He had unleashed the atom, and posed questions which will concern mankind into eternity.

That was just a beginning. Truman had to make the basic decision that produced the Marshall Plan, which did as much to save all Europe from going Communist as any single act.

He followed it with his Point Four plan, the beginning of the miracle of industrial rehabilitation abroad. He said to the Russians that they could not advance through Greece and Turkey on one side of the world, and through Korea with their satellites, on the other edge of the earth.

And in the end he had to fire upon, than this tough-fibered one of the greatest personal heroes of his life, MacArthur, as a reminder to present and future generations that in the U.S. the basic decisions are made by civilians, not the military.

Harry had guts. There's no reason to believe, we've discovered on a brief trip to Trumanville, that the years have dulled them. Along with millions of other Americans he prays there will be no war.

But if there is one, nobody will be more ready to serve, if called upon, than this tough-fibered independent man from Independence.

He shares that patriotism with the two others still living who have been tempered by the fires that sweep the presidency.

As perhaps the keenest student of the presidency of the three, Truman understands best the fact that nothing he or the others could provide, in the case of dire need of togetherness, would relieve President Kennedy of the awesome burden of decision.

Truman used to have a sign on his White House desk reading "The Buck Stops Here."

Figuratively, it rests on Kennedy's desk today — and nobody could "feel" for him more than those three fine Exs.

One-Eyed Monster Gets Test Torpedoes Back

SILVER SPRING, Md. (UPI)—A one-eyed robot with powerful claw-like pliers has been designed by Vitro Laboratories to retrieve test-fired torpedoes from 2,000 feet under the waves.

The device, called Solaris, uses a TV camera and powerful floodlights to search the bottom of the sea and then can retrieve a heavy object with its claws.

Even Prep Games Have Outstanding Card

Grid Weekend in State to Draw 250,000 College-Pro Fans

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

One of the biggest football weekends in many years is expected to draw over 250,000 fans to four major attractions from Friday through Sunday.

The weekend will have everything—big names, top teams and a variety of styles on the gridiron. Even the local prep scene will have its share of crucial games to add to the attractive college and pro card.

The college schedule will start Friday night when unbeaten University of Detroit plays host to Navy with 45,000 people expected at Tiger Stadium.

Saturday, the big game at East

Landover before 15,000 people will feature top ranked Michigan State against Notre Dame, currently the 20th ranked team in the country. Over at Ann Arbor, a crowd of 45,000 is expected to watch the Wolverines play host to rugged Purdue.

Sunday it will be the revenge-minded Baltimore Colts against the Detroit Lions with a full house of 50,000 anticipated.

The pros will take some of the football glamour Friday night, as Pontiac Northern and Waterford renew their rivalry at Wisner Stadium. The Eastern Michigan League will start its showdown stages with Fort Huron and Ferndale, both unbeaten and rated, playing in Ferndale. Saturday night Michigan's No. 1 schoolboy, Bay City Handy visits Wisner Stadium to meet Pontiac Central in a Saginaw Valley game.

It all adds up to three great days of football.

At the Football Writer's Meeting Tuesday, the guest of honor was All-American and Helmsman Trophy winner Joe Bellino of the Naval Academy.

Bellino was here to do advance publicity on the Titan-Navy game Saturday night.

"We are going into the Detroit game with the highest respect for U. of D. because we've watched Jerry Gross pretty good and we know he is as good a quarterback and passer as there is," said Bellino.

Working with the Fiebe team at the academy, Bellino pointed out that Navy has 20 sophomores on its varsity and "when you have green kids like that you can always expect them to make some mistakes."

"We've had rough games against teams like Boston College whom we've beaten three straight years, but Detroit has also beaten B.C. the past two years, this year very handily, so don't think we're coming to Detroit over-confident."

The game will start at 8:15 p.m. Friday night in Tiger Stadium.

Finishing remarks were put on the Michigan-Michigan State card last weekend by their respective publicity directors of the two schools before looking into this Saturday's big games.

Coach Bump Elliott, in remarks presented by publicity director Les Eiter, said, "We know we are a good team, but Michigan State has a great team and deserves the position as the best team in the country."

"As for the Purdue team, we needn't mention the reputation it has as a consistent sound team, especially defensively," Eiter noted. "I don't think the loss to MSU last weekend has hurt our morale," he continued. "Our boys have looked sharp in drills and feel they can have a real good season."

Speaking by way of a type regarding coach Duffy Daugherty praised Michigan and admitted that a couple early breaks hurt the Wolverines.

Daugherty commented that he is "real scared of the Notre Dame team."

"We know that all of South Bend has been pointing to this game all year," said Duffy, and they are coming up here with fire in their eyes."

Notre Dame publicity director Charlie Callahan admitted that the Irish, who have lost 8 of the last 9 games, feel they have the best chance since 1955 of beating the Spartans.

"We have good experience, and we are a much deeper team," Callahan said, "but we've been looking forward to this game for a long time and we feel we can win."

The Lions received advance warning that Johnny Unitas is returning old form and the Baltimore Colts are "tired" of these hair-raising losses to Detroit.

Publicity director of the Colts, Harry Hughes said the Colts are mixing their offense with the "shotgun" and that Baltimore will be in its best physical condition for Detroit.

"We lost Lemmy Moore for the second half of the Bears game last week and that hurt us. Jimmy Orr was also hurt and didn't play, but we were very happy with Unitas, especially in the second half. He completed 13 of 33 passes for the day."

Several Los Angeles writers in attendance commented that area football fans shouldn't be waiting for top attractions. The writers stayed in town from the Rams-Lions game Sunday. The Rams are working out this week at U. of D. until Friday when they will head for New York where they face the Giants Sunday.

PATCHING UP THE LINE — University of Michigan tackle John Houtman from Adrian is taped up by trainer Jim Hunt in preparation for a practice session as the Wolverines conduct heavy scrimmages to get ready for Saturday's game with Purdue at Ann Arbor. Houtman starts in the forward wall for Michigan and packs 280 pounds on a 6-4 frame.

SPORTS

Titans Have Best Passing Attack

NEW YORK (AP) — Texas, Notre Dame, Detroit and West Texas State are the team leaders in offense and scoring among college football teams this week.

Statistics from the NCAA Service Bureau today show Texas the offense leader with an average of 446 yards in four games, rebounding Notre Dame leading in rushing offense with a per game average of 203.3. Detroit the passing leader with 211.7 yards per game, and West Texas State the scoring pace-setter with 156 points in four games, a whopping 39-point average.

West Texas doesn't figure to lose that distinction this weekend either, since it is matched against Hardin-Simmons. The latter has permitted more points than any other major team so far—172.

A bruising 322 yards on the ground against Southern California last Saturday put Notre Dame into the ground gaining

Four Touchdowns Lead Champions to Victory

Dave Breeding's four touchdowns paced defending champions Lutes Rams to their second straight victory, a 34-0 nod over Stringham, last weekend in the Waterford Township Recreation Department's Boys Touch Football League.

Other highlights included Joe Long's three touchdowns in Beaumont's 19-0 triumph over Drayton Plains, and a last minute safety provided by Bob Sjut, that gave Leggett Raiders a 15-13 win over Beaumont Flyers. Other results:

Burton Vikings 24, Waterford Village Wildcats 0; Sandburg 16, Williams Lake T-Birds 6; Haviland Eagles 13, Schoolcraft 0; Adams Vikings 26, Govers Spartans 0; Colley Blue Devils 12, Haviland Helicats 2; Waterford Center 16, Month 6.

Spartans Given Edge Over Irish Saturday

NEW YORK (AP) — After barely surviving last week's fiasco of the 1961 season, the Spartans gave the Irish a 10-0 victory in the 1961 season.

The Detroit Tigers, who finished 2nd in the American League pennant race, yesterday were voted as 42-100 World Series shares at $1,689.50 a share.

Don Schwall, who left the University of Oklahoma in 1957 to sign a $50,000 bonus contract with the Boston Red Sox, was named the American League's Rookie of the Year today by UPI.

Hazel Park's Lou Pavloff, U. of M. guard, was lost to the Wolverines for the season today after undergoing surgery for removal of cartilage in his knee. Tackle Jim Bobbitt of MSU had a lumbectomy today and will miss the Spartans' battle with Notre Dame.

Quarterback Jerry Gross of the University of Detroit held 2nd place this week among the total offense leaders in major college football statistics. The U. of D. quarterback has gained 702 yards in 94 plays in three games.

PCH 11 Meets 'Opportunists' Saturday

Football, Baseball Stars Back in Armed Forces

Pro Teams Hit by Call-ups

By The Associated Press

Football stars Paul Hornung tackle Ray Nitschke, both of the powerful Green Bay Packers, and baseball player George Thomas have been added to the growing list of professional athletes recalled to active duty in the Defense Department buildup.

The overall list, a check revealed today, now totals nearly a score and indications are many more are still to come.

None of the call-ups, however, hit with the force of the announcement Tuesday that the Packers, defending Western Conference champions of the National Football League, probably will be without halfback Hornung and linebacker Nitschke for the second half of the season. Their loss could cost the Packers of Vince Lombardi a chance to repeat as Western champion. Green Bay shares first place now with San Francisco.

Hornung, 25, a former star quarterback at Notre Dame, has won the NFL scoring championship the last two seasons and is well in front this season with 77 points in five games, including a 13-point surge against Baltimore last Oct. 8. Probably the most versatile back in pro football, Hornung is an ace runner, good passer, and in Green Bay's field goal, conversion and kickoff expert.

Nitschke, 24, former Illinois fullback, became a regular with the Packers last season and has been a standout on the defensive platoon this year. The Packer defense has permitted only 51 points—fewest in the 14-team league.

Hornung, who is single, has been ordered by 14th Army Corps headquarters to report to Ft. Belvoir, Kan., Oct. 30. Nitschke's orders direct him to report to Ft. Lewis, Wash., on Nov. 2.

In addition to Hornung, Nitschke and Nitschke, NFL players affected by call-ups so far include tackle Dick Scharfrath of the Cleveland Browns, defensive tackle Lou Cordellone and guard Mike Magar of the San Francisco 49ers, and Taz Anderson, guard Bob DeMarco and tackle Ernie McMillan of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Scharfrath has reported to duty at an Ohio post and has received permission from his commanding officer, as required by the NFL, to play with the Browns each weekend. McMillan has received a deferment until the first of next year, and Cordellone has been given a 90-day delay in reporting because of an injured knee. He plays with a brace on his knee when he's able to play.

In the American Football League, the players involved include quarterback Jack Kemp and tackle Ron Mix of the unbeaten San Diego Chargers; and Harn Urenda and lineman John Jelenc of Oakland, and Bill Boehnelt of Denver.

Thomas, outfielder and third baseman for the Los Angeles Angels of the American League, joins a major league baseball list that includes pitcher Steve Barber, an 18-game winner, and shortstop Ron Hansen of the Baltimore Orioles; shortstop Ruben Amaro of the Philadelphia Phillies, who reported Tuesday to Fort Meade, Md.; and outfielder Bob Taylor of the Milwaukee Braves.

In addition, the 14th Corps same headquarters that issued the orders to Hornung and Nitschke, has said that Tony Kruk, all-star shortstop of the New York Yankees, is in a "susceptible position" for a call to active duty. Most are expected to serve at least a year once they report to their respective military posts.

Although they've had their troubles, the Chiefs were a bank of giving top-rated grid machines a hard time.

Two years ago PCH upset two ranked teams during the same season—back to back.

Ferndale came to win last weekend among the state's top 10 schoolboy powers and PCH triumphed, 7-0. Bay City Central, No. 1 at that time, came to town the following week and the Chiefs won, 13-7.

Now another Bay City prep power pays a visit to this city under the same circumstances.

The Wildcats, coached by former Cadillac master H. B. Delbert, have been highly successful in downing Adrian, Midland, Flint Northern and Saginaw in league and state, Alameda in non-conference play.

PCH scouting reports glow with complimentary adjectives about the Handy squad.

"They do everything well and they're terrific opportunists," said head coach Paul Delberta. "They pounce on every little mistake made by the opponent and turn it into a touchdown."

"They don't have great speed, but they're quick and still fast enough to be dangerous at all times," Delberta continued.

Delberta then added: "They can be beaten, just like anyone else, but if we're going to knock them off, it will take a supreme effort on our part with an absolute minimum of mistakes."

The Chiefs may be in a sound frame of mind for the Handy invasion after finally getting the victory column last Friday with a 14-0 triumph over Flint Northern at Flint's Atwood Stadium.

That narrow success could be just the incentive the Chiefs need for an all-out effort against the mighty Wolverines following a series of frustrations in their early games.

Prior to the verdict over Northern, PCH had lost three hotly-contested games and tied another. Now, with that long-awaited first win under their belts, the Chiefs' confidence should be restored.

Cementing Grid Relations

Flint Northern, Chiefs Stage 'Goodwill' Trips

Football players from Pontiac Central and Flint Northern and Bay City Central exchanged "goodwill" visits yesterday to cement athletic relationships between the two institutions.

The "peace" missions came as a result of the wild melee which followed Friday night's grid clash between the two teams at Flint's Atwood Stadium.

Pontiac was the game, 7-0, and a series of fights broke out among the players as the clock ran out and to the end.

The free-for-all was quickly put under control by coaches of both teams, game officials and police, but it was certainly a regrettable incident and one that veteran Valley observers cannot remember happening for a good long time.

Machen Seeking Title Shot After Beating London

LONDON (AP)—America's Edie Machen flies home today after a victory that could bring him closer to a shot at Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight boxing championship.

The victim was Britain's Brian London, who was outclassed by Machen in five one-sided rounds Tuesday night and retired from the scheduled 10-rounder complaining his nose felt like it was broken.

"Now I want a fight with Henry Cooper (British champion) to decide who is the No. 1 contender for the world title," the unmarked Machen told reporters after his light exercise in London's indoor Wembley Stadium.

EVERYBODY'S BOWLING

By DON CARTER

Four-Time All-Star Downslide into the delivery.

The lowest point in the downslide comes when the ball and the fourth step, or slide, starts. Here's where the slide brings the bowler to within two to six inches of the foul line. The ball comes past the left foot, not over the foul line and is delivered toward the target.

Complete control of your movements is important. The slide should come naturally, without wavering or loss of balance.

Just as important, a natural slide allows your complete attention to focus on the target.

Dorie Reid of Ferndale and surprise Roger Stewart of Bloomfield Hills moved up from 23 postings to 1-2 by matching 24-point outings last Friday.

Swiff Reid holds a three-point advantage with 73 points to St. Stewart has 54 in the last two games.

Both will get rugged tests this week with the Dales host to strong Port Huron and Bloomfield going against Holly.

Last week's top man Tom Mizdel was held to one touchdown by Roseville and dropped to 3rd with 56. Rick Goklinski of Hazel Park tallied 13 to take 4th with 50 and Art Schuler got 19 for 50 and to gain 5th at 49.

Dave Schuler took over 6th place last week and moved up to 5th by chalking up 23 Saturday for Cranbrook.

Schultz is on the top 20 list for the 1st time this fall. Other newcomers this week are Bill Coud of Holly, runner-up Ron Kotales and Jeff Barth, Farmington City.

LUCK OF THE IRISH — Coach Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State holds a gold-plated fourth clover—looking suspiciously like a shamrock—given him by a fan. With him is team captain Ed (Rocky) Ryan, defensive signal-caller who will miss Saturday's game against the Irish of Notre Dame due to a dislocated shoulder. Ryan attended Notre Dame as a freshman. The Irish and MSU match perfect records Saturday at East Lansing.

Reid Point Leader Again

By CHUCK ABRAH

The wild battle for Oakland County individual prep scoring honors continues with the standings changed all around again this week at the midway point of the 1961 season.

Dorie Reid of Ferndale and surprise Roger Stewart of Bloomfield Hills moved up from 23 postings to 1-2 by matching 24-point outings last Friday.

Swiff Reid holds a three-point advantage with 73 points to St. Stewart has 54 in the last two games.

Losing Streak Ended by Pistons, 142-108

EAST DETROIT 49—The Detroit Pistons ended a three-game losing streak last night by overpowering the Cincinnati Royals 142-108.

The Pistons led 66-40 at the half and exploded in the third quarter to run up a 95-82 lead.

Out of the select group this time are Bob Mitchell, Jim McArthur, Gary Carpenter, Westwood, Hank Park, Wood of Orchard Lake St. Mary and Dave Hallmark, Lake Orion.

Bill Tietoff of Romeo has been dethroned in the area by steady Jim Portie of Armada. Dwight Lee, New Haven, moved up to 3rd. In City has three boys in the top ten.

Press Pheasant Contest Opens With Season Friday

Thumb District Best Location for Ringnecks

Rabbits, Squirrels and Coons Become Legal on Same Day

The part of hunting most nimble have been waiting for — pheasant season — opens at 10 a.m. Friday.

The Pontiac Press pheasant contest starts at the same time.

A $30 savings bond will be awarded the Oakland County resident bringing in the heaviest ringneck and a $25 bond will go to the hunter bagging the rooster with the longest tail.

Only county residents are eligible. And they can only enter the pheasant contest. Rabbits and golden pheasants are not eligible. The birds can be taken anywhere in Michigan with shotguns or bow and arrow during the Oct. 20 to Nov. 1 season. Pheasants shot at preserves are not eligible.

All entries must be brought to The Press sports department for measuring and weighing between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 7 to 11 a.m. Saturday.

The birds should not be dressed before weighing. The same person cannot win both classes.

Hunting is prohibited in the Lower Peninsula Friday until 10 a.m. Rabbits, ruffed grouse, squirrels and woodchucks also become legal targets in the southern third of the state Friday and the ruffed grouse pheasant will get the big play.

State game experts are sticking to their summer predictions that Michigan pheasants will bag upwards of 500,000 pheasants this year. Last year, they took about 570,000 birds, somewhat below the average for recent years and substantially under the record 1.4 million taken in 1944.

Summer brood counts by rural mail carriers, usually a reliable barometer for the season ahead, indicate substantial drops in pheasant populations in the last hunting grounds of Eastern Michigan. They report 20 per cent fewer broods than last year sighted in the Thumb district and 23 per cent fewer in the southeastern corner of the state.

HEAVY COVER
Game men, however, figure that heavy cover, mostly the result of a late wheat harvest, hid a good many birds that the mallen normally would catch sight of as they travel their routes. The survey period also was a bit earlier than last year.

"Regardless of what the situation is, the best hunting will still be found in the Thumb," said Vic Jensen, pheasant specialist for the State Conservation Department.

Because of a mild winter, the pheasant outlook is considerably improved in some areas. Pheasants appear to be twice as numerous as usual in Arenac, No. Wexco and Gladwin Counties and other areas on the northern fringe of the pheasant range. They're also up considerably in the southwestern counties. Neither area, however, is noted for big pheasant populations.

Central counties probably will furnish about the same hunting opportunities last year.

Surveys indicate that about 90 per cent of the pheasant population is to be found south of a diagonal line running from Alcona County on Lake Huron southeast to Muskegon County. About 70 per cent of the birds are in the eastern half of that section.

EARLY KILL
As in past years, hunters probably will knock down about 70 per cent of the season's take the first week and 30 to 40 per cent of these the first day.

"Cover is heavier than usual this year, but because of the heavy hunting pressure in Michigan, we don't think that will have much effect on hunter success," said Jensen.

"Practically all the corn crop still was standing at the start of the 1960 season and that was a problem for hunters," he said. "The harvest already has started this year."

Bag limits this year are the same as last—two a day, four in possession and eight for the season. After the first day, hunting hours start at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

TROPHY FOR DEN — L. Z. Monroe, Drayton Plains, looks over the antlers of the moose he bagged on a recent trip to Northern Ontario.

Taxidermist Al Hyde said the 45-inch antlers were better than average for that area of Canada.

Area Hunters Score on 1st Moose Hunts

By DON VOGEL
Pontiac Press Outdoor Writer

The urge to collect a trophy larger than a deer sent three area hunters to Ontario this month in search of moose for the first time.

All three returned to Oakland County with enough moose meat to easily last the winter.

L. Z. Monroe, Drayton Plains, press room foreman for The Pontiac Press, and Milo Fisher, Birmingham, hunted 60 miles north of Cochrane, Edwin Welch, 91 Mary Day St., Pontiac, scored along the Montreal River in the Algoma area north of Sault Ste. Marie.

Monroe bagged the largest moose. It took two shots from his 30-06 to down the 1,500-pound bull. The animal, estimated to be six years old, had an antler spread of 45 inches.

Fisher returned home with the head and meat of a young bull.

Welch also collected a young bull. He was hunting out of Dan-Site Lodge, owned by Lester Patton, former Pontiac refrigeration supply dealer, who now spends the winter in Drayton Plains. The lodge is located at Mile 92 on the Algoma Central railroad.

"The season on moose wasn't open where the lodge is located," said Welch, "so we took a canoe 27 miles east on the Montreal River."

Patton, guide Peter Pines and Welch set up camp and headed up a tributary in search of moose.

"We came around a bend and saw a cow standing on the shore," said Welch. "She looked before I could get a shot. When we came to the next bend, we just showed the front of the canoe out enough so we could see. A cow and a young bull were near the water."

"After backing the canoe out of sight, we moved on shore to a place where we could see the moose. I was going to shoot the cow, but Lester said to try for the bull and he would shoot at the cow."

Welch dropped the animal where it stood with one shot from his 30-06. Patton missed the cow. The bull weighed about 1,000 pounds.

"It took almost two days for us to get the meat back to the lodge," Welch reported.

LET OTHERS GO HUNTING

While other men's thoughts turn to hunting, Paul Crowder, 428 Midway St., Pontiac, goes fishing.

Crowder was fishing the small lake off Auburn Ave., just west of Opdyke Rd., last Friday evening when he hooked and landed a 15-inch perch weighing two pounds.

As is usually the case, it was the only fish he landed. The perch was heavy with spawn.

Three Pontiac area Irish Terriers, a breed not too well known in Michigan, turned in good performances at the recent Progressive Dog Show.

Meharras Tulara and Meharras Buccaneer, owned by Charles Kitley, 3028 Cooley Lake Road, won best of winners and best of opposite sex, respectively. First in the American-bred dog class was Merryranks Clancy, owned by Mrs. Francis Mack, 217 Nelson St., Pontiac.

Mrs. Mack reports that plans are being made to organize an Irish Terrier Club in the state.

GOOD OPENING DAY FOR DUCKS

Last Friday was the best opening day of the duck season in many years.

The local ducks were plentiful and some flights were down from the north. Almost everyone got shooting, and plenty of two-duck limits were collected.

Heavy concentrations of geese are reported in the Sebawing area. There are plenty of ducks available, too.

Michigan played host to more campers in its state parks this year than any other state in the nation, a Conservation Department spokesman says.

Charles M. Leeson, a regional park supervisor, said camping increased almost 10 per cent in 1961. Some 186,753 camp permits were issued as of Oct. 1, he said.

Increasing Aid Called Threat

AP President Warns Against Letting U.S. Infringe on Freedoms

BLANKENBURG, Va. (AP) — A growing public dependence on government may threaten existing freedoms, Benjamin M. McElwain, president of the Washington Star and president of the Associated Press said here today.

This dependence stems from continuing increases in federal assistance of financing and other responsibilities, he told a convocation at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

McElwain, a member of VETS-317 class, said in a prepared speech that all institutions of higher learning face the problem of preserving freedom "in the face of growing dependence upon the federal government."

"Education is the most effective means of preserving that freedom, which so often perishes through ignorance."

McElwain said the congressional debates on federal aid to education this year "produced much evidence of continued reluctance to enter this broad field, although there is little doubt that it will eventually come."

The newspaper editor said there were at least two ways in which institutions of higher learning may make their own contributions toward preserving freedom.

"The first is to be ever on the alert against any tendency by government to infringe upon their academic freedom or to dominate their conduct at a time during which their own financial dependence upon government will inevitably increase," he said.

"The second is to place intense emphasis, in the selection of curricula, upon a field of learning that urgently needs revitalization. That field embraces the basic responsibilities the individual must assume if he is to live in a free society."

"That field includes continued stress, in the education of young men and women, upon the fact that the roots of our materialistic accomplishments as a nation lie in the spiritual aspirations of man—not in what government may accomplish in easing its burdens."

4 Area Youths Arrested After Wild Auto Chase

Four Pontiac area youths were arrested early this morning after leading Pontiac Police on a wild chase that ended when the car was driven into a house.

Held for investigation of larceny from an automobile were Donald P. Sparkman, 19, of 110 S. Merrimac St.; Frank Hines, 19, of 54 Mt. Clemens St.; William H. Sexton, 18, of 9725 Ellis Road and Timothy G. Affolder, 18, of 9328 Cedar Grove St., both of Clarkston.

New 'Disturbance' Heads for Bahamas

MIAMI (UPI) — A tropical depression carrying heavy rains that left four persons dead in Eastern Cuba moved toward the Bahamas today with winds up to 40 miles an hour.

The low pressure area, called a tropical depression, had not yet turned into the season's seventh tropical storm, but showed signs of slowly developing.

In an 11 a.m. bulletin, the Miami Weather Bureau said hurricane hunter planes found the disturbance poorly organized. Tight circulation of winds which could wind up the disturbance into tropical storm Gerda had not developed yet, the bureau said.

The broad area of low pressure extended from the northern Caribbean Sea to the Bahamas, about 200 miles off the coast of Florida, and was drifting slowly northward toward the North-Central Bahamas, the Weather Bureau said.

Reports from Santiago, Cuba, this morning said heavy rains in Oriente Province during the past three days claimed four lives, left hundreds of persons homeless and flooded the lower second of Santiago.

Real Estate Groups To See Parks Film

Robert Bills, landscape architect for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, will be the guest speaker at the Thursday meeting of the United Northwestern Realty Association in conjunction with the Western Oakland County Real Estate Board. The session will begin 6:30 p.m. at Rotunda Inn, Orchard Lake Village.

Bills will present a film entitled "Recreation Unlimited" showing the parks and facilities of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, a five-county park and parkway agency serving Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washington and Wayne counties.

Algerian Rebels, Williams Talk

Soapy Could in Tunis to Try Halting Swing to Communist Bloc

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — The United States is sounding out Algerian rebel leaders in what some observers regard as an effort to halt their swing toward the Communist bloc.

G. Meenen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, talked for more than three hours Tuesday with the rebel foreign minister, Said Dahlab, and the information minister, Mohamed Yauad.

"There was informal conversation on a number of problems," a brief U.S. communication said. Informal sources said the talks ranged from rebel ties with the Soviet bloc to African development and unity. Special emphasis, they said, was placed on the Algerian nationalists' relations with Red China.

NEW CONTRACTS

The meeting coincided with unconfirmed reports of fresh contacts between French and rebel envoys. The rebels broke off peace talks last July and informed sources said the resumption of those talks was one item brought up in the meeting with Williams.

Williams also met with Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba for talks on Tunisian requests for increased American funds to counter economic difficulties brought on by crop failures and the North African nation's Bittere battle with France.

Woman Now Pleads Guilty to Charge

Mrs. Willie V. Moore, 36, of 63 Chapman St., charged with issuing a check without an account changed her plea to guilty yesterday when she appeared before Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland.

She'll be sentenced Nov. 7 for passing a worthless $10 check Aug. 21.

In another change of pleas, Wilford Thibodeau and George L. McFarland, both of 3861 Iris St., Waterford Township pleaded guilty to passing 10 no-account checks in August. Both will be sentenced by Judge Holland Nov. 14. They originally stood mute on the charges.

Britain Cancels Visit to U.S. by Top Envoy

LONDON (AP)—Britain today canceled a Washington visit by her top export on Germany—only 24 hours after announcing he would be going this weekend.

Informal government sources reported the assistant undersecretary for foreign affairs, Sir Evelyn Shuckburgh, instead probably will be making flying visits to Paris and Bonn for policy talks with the French and West German governments.

The switch in plans came as a sequel to last week's muddle over the form of proposed new consultations on the Berlin crisis.

A planned London meeting this week of senior American, British, French and West German diplomats was called off because of French objections. The London talks were to have been the occasion for policy-making in case negotiations with the Soviet Union are set up.

Just 65 Years Late

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — The Vermont Mutual Fire Insurance Co. received $12 in premiums which were somewhat delayed in the mails. One of the four letters containing the money bore an 1885 date. The latest was postmarked 1949. The letters were found during repairs at the Montpelier Post Office.

Williams and Rebels Together in Tunisia

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI)—U. S. Asst. Secretary of State for African Affairs G. Mennen Williams held an informal three-hour talk Tuesday with key ministers of the Algerian rebel government in exile here.

The main topic of conversation probably was the Algerian crisis and the prospect of renewed negotiations between France and the Algerian rebels, political observers said.

Williams' meeting with the rebel leaders was the highest level direct contact yet between the Moslems and U.S. officials.

Gloria Swanson Fights to Blot Out Old Legend

AF Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD—The mansion was hard by Sunset Boulevard. I crunched my way up the gravelled driveway to the double doors, each with a small glass peephole. A sign said rather bludgily, "Unexpected guests must use telephone."

Was I unexpected? No, I had made a date with the great lady. I summoned enough courage to ring the bell.

"Who's there?" demanded a voice.

I announced myself and was prompted, "Closer to the speaker." I repeated my identification and was answered with a metallic click.

OLD, NEW MASTERS
The door swung open. A handsome young butler ushered me into the sitting room, which was decorated with old and new masters—the real things.

"Miss Swanson will be down presently," the butler announced.

The uneasy wait. Her heels could be heard on the marble hall. Then she swept in, slim and surprisingly small, wearing a brocaded lounging suit, her arms a-clank with metallic jewelry. Her skin was smooth and flawless. There was scant gray in her shiny hair, atop which perched her spectacles.

IN SECOND REEL
"Let's go in the den, where it's more comfortable," said Gloria Swanson after ordering vodka on the rocks from the butler. We went to the den, which was dominated by a full-length portrait of the actress.

As we began to talk, the lights went out. The butler entered with lighted candles and, partly the trouble was being attended to. Miss Swanson reclined on the couch and continued talking in the candlelight, while I felt for all the world as if I were in the second reel of "Sunset Boulevard."

BACK TO REALITY
Miss Swanson soon brought me back to reality. The house was not hers but that of a family she had known for years. And she is not Norma Desmond, the silent star she played in "Sunset Boulevard."

"My God, how the legend hangs on!" she declared. "Just a few weeks ago I had to get tough with an interviewer on BBC in England. He kept trying to link me up with the picture."

"I finally said him, 'No, I don't have a body floating in my swimming pool. I don't even have a swimming pool. I don't live in the past. I am concerned only with the present and the future.'"

TYPE CASTING
"I guess I got my point across. I got a lovely note from Alec Guinness just before I left, congratulating me for standing up against the legend."

MISS SWANSON was here after a seven-week European trip, partly to view the new Paris, fashions for her dress business, partly to show her mother the Continent. She's working this week in a drama for ABC's "Straightaway."

"Guess what I am playing," she said. "That's right—an actress. Isn't it frightful, the type-casting in this town?"

SAY MONGOLIA UNABLE to Get U. S. Visas

UNITED NATIONS, N.H. (AP)—The Soviet Union protested to the United Nations Tuesday night that Communist Outer Mongolia, its candidate for U.N. membership, is having trouble getting visas to send a delegation to New York.

The Russians complained about the visa difficulty in letters to the president of the Security Council and to Mongol Slim, president of the General Assembly.

Mongolia's perennial application for membership is expected to come before the council again next week.

Because fallout is carried by rain and there is little rain in the desert, such an area would be relatively free of worldwide fallout, he told the National Civil Defense Council.

He said fallout shelters will not protect humans against the long-range effects of radiation but do protect against local fallout.

At a news conference, Dr. Libby said the nation would be in jeopardy without fallout shelters and radiation meters to measure the amount of local radiation. Shelters could save millions of lives and construction should begin immediately, he added.

"In addition," he said, "every household should have a radiation meter."

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Maynard A. Clemen, 82, founder of Eastern College and its affiliate, the Mt. Vernon School of Law, died Tuesday after a long illness. Dr. Clemen organized the College of Commerce at the University of Maryland and established the College of Commerce at the University of Baltimore. He was born in Addison, N.Y.

NEW YORK — The Broadway gossip is talking about Johnny Carson, Joey Bishop, Hugh Downs, Groucho Marx, Jan Murray, Oscar Levant, Phil Silvers, Jackie Gleason, George DeWitt and practically everybody else as a possible replacement for Jack Paar when he leaves his night NBC show March 30.

Carson, now with ABC, was among those considered before Paar got the job, but was with another network then. He's popular, especially with Broadway viewers, who consider him as exciting as libber.

"Whoever follows Paar is at a great disadvantage because Paar created so much excitement," says Carson. "Furthermore, the new man can't work with Paar's people."

Hal March and Buddy Hackett told me they're not interested. "It's not that I'm not interested," Buddy Hackett said. "But I can't get out of the house four nights a week."

POWELL SHOW PACE
Fell Flat on Its Face
By FRED DANZIG
NEW YORK (UPI) — The old smoothie, Dick Powell, ran into some rough going Tuesday night. In the title role of "John J. Diggs," Powell turned up in the NBC-TV hour that also gives him a title role, namely "The Dick Powell Show," and tidied up some loose ends near the Mexican border. It was a story of capital letter action! Romance! Intrigue! Passion!

Produced and directed by Ralph Nelson, the hour was diverting for about 20 minutes and then the plot began piling up coincidences. Before long, the story line had sagged and hit bottom.

One of those interchangeable actors named Charlton Heston had a thick-veined, meaty assignment Tuesday night with "The Fugitive Eye."

Heston played the part of an itinerant Irish strong man, an Anthony Quinn — "La Strada" type guy — whose life was changed, almost ended, in fact, after he asked a man for a light.

Chance to Survive N-Attack Depends on You, CD Plans

(EDITOR'S NOTE: What chance of survival do people in Pontiac and the surrounding area have should an all-out thermo-nuclear attack ever be launched against this country? Stirred by a growing public awareness of the possibility of such an attack, The Pontiac Press has begun a concerted study of the local defense posture in search of the answer. The following article is the second in a series.

By DICK HANSON

Your chances of surviving a nuclear attack on this country — providing you escape a direct hit — depend on two factors: how well you are prepared personally and how effective are master plans prepared by Pontiac and Oakland County civil defense directors.

As things stand now, the first responsibility is entirely yours — to provide adequate shelter and supplies for yourself and your family.

This responsibility may be lifted as the federal government currently is considering the feasibility of providing public fallout shelters.

Consequently, you are left with a choice at this time, either to go ahead with your own plans or wait and see if the government steps in.

The second responsibility rests with the various agencies made responsible for carrying out city and county survival plans.

Such plans have been prepared in detail by Pontiac CD Director Robert Stierer and Oakland County CD Director Lewis Jarrendt. The plans have been approved by the state civil defense department.

FURTHER TRAINING NEEDED

But their adequacy would be fully determined only if put to the test. In many instances this means further training is urgently necessary, both local directors agree.

Following is a rundown on what these plans call for.

First, the nation must be warned that an attack is coming.

The federal government has spent billions of dollars to insure the earliest possible warning through an intricate radar and electronics set-up.

For intercontinental ballistic missiles the warning is expected to be 30 minutes. For jet-bombers, three hours.

Billions of dollars more are being spent by the government in an effort to widen the warning gap.

Locally, the population would be warned of an attack by air raid sirens, radio and television. This hardly would be adequate if the warning had to be sounded when most people are asleep.

So far, the only way presented to overcome the problem would be to install a warning device in each home and building that could be sounded simultaneously from one master switch.

Known as the NEAR system of attack warning, the device apparently has been snarled somewhere between politics and production, according to William C. Fowell, state CD planning and operations director.

Since 30 minutes warning time (all you can get with an ICBM) would be insufficient time to evacuate Pontiac, sounding of the siren atop the Pontiac State Bank Building is intended to mean "take shelter."

Following the first attack wave on this country, survivors in areas considered secondary targets to be sought out by enemy bombers would be evacuated to safer ground.

Pontiac and Oakland County already have designated escape routes should evacuation be required.

ESCAPE ROUTES

In Pontiac, the routes heading out of the city are: East Boulevard; Auburn Avenue East; Ferry Street; Jonny Avenue to Walton Boulevard West and out; Oakland Avenue; State Street, onto Elizabeth Lake Road; and Orchard Lake Avenue.

Oakland County evacuation routes are: Woodward Avenue and Dixie Highway as far as either Davisburg or Holly Roads and west on these; M24 into Lapeer; Opydyke

Ask Reds to Call Off Test

Claim Russians Will Soon Seek a Moratorium

U. S. Delegate Charges Reds Want Ban Against Western Testing

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—A U.S. charge that Russia seeks a new moratorium to prevent nuclear tests by others after it winds up its own series with a 50-megaton blast on Oct. 31 confronted the United Nations today.

The charge was made Tuesday by Arthur H. Dean, chief U.S. negotiator for a permanent, controlled and inspected nuclear test ban. Dean made the charge as the General Assembly's 101-nation Political Committee prepared to wind up a week-long argument on which of its agenda items should be debated first.

As a result, the committee postponed its vote until today when it will decide on the discussion priority of an Anglo-American demand for an ironclad nuclear test ban treaty, an Indian demand for a new nuclear test moratorium immediately and a Russian demand for debate on overall disarmament as the first order of business.

Dean pointed out that Russia resumed nuclear testing in September without warning and with obvious preparation carried out while a moratorium was in effect and it was engaged in apparently good faith negotiations at Geneva on a permanent test ban.

"The Soviets have announced the date for the end of their current series of tests," Dean said. "Unless I miss my guess, that date of Oct. 31 is intended to coincide with action by this assembly supporting an uncontrolled, unimpeded moratorium on nuclear tests."

'AGAINST ALLIES'

"The Soviet Union will then have completed its current series of tests so that the effect of that moratorium will then be directed squarely against the United States and the United Kingdom, both of whom have observed the (previous) moratorium."

"It is perfectly clear that the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Skies to Continue on Fair Side, Is Prediction

Skies will continue to be fair but temperatures will drop 2 degrees below the normal high of 50 and normal low of 32 for the next few days, the weatherman said. The low will hit 42 tonight.

Showers are forecast for Saturday, Sunday and Monday with about one fourth inch in rain.

Morning southwesterly winds at 11 miles per hour will become 15 to 20 m.p.h. and shift to northwesterly tonight.

France to Expel 1,500 Algerians

Government Reaches Decision After Riots Sweep Paris Tuesday

PARIS (AP)—The French government decided today to expel 1,500 Algerians swept up in Tuesday night's curfew rioting, and said this is only the start of a giant weeding-out process.

Three persons were killed and 72 injured seriously in bloody battling between police and the Muslim North Africans protesting a curfew imposed on them. The deed drew two Algerians and an unidentified European. Thirteen policemen were among the injured.

Riot squads arrested 11,338 Algerians from among about 20,000 who bolted out in the streets.

It was announced that 1,500 would be returned to Algeria within 48 hours. AS identify checks continue, others are to be expelled.

The curfew, imposed to cut down on Algerian attacks on police and warfare between rival Algerian gangs, brought a call for the demonstration from the rebel FLN National Liberation Front.

It was headed in proportions which showed a broad and insistent support of the rebel government in its seven-year fight to break French rule in Algeria.

The French Cabinet, called into regular session by President Charles de Gaulle, also decided to add six companies of riot police and four of mobile gendarmes to the already heavy security forces in the capital. The reinforcements will total about 1,000 men.

Sentenced in Stabbing

RED LISTENS TO U.S. — Soviet U.N. delegate Valerian Zorin (left) is a smiling listener as Arthur Dean (right), U.S. delegate, addresses the Political Committee of the U.N. Zorin shot back with a charge that the U.S. had secretly violated the test moratorium by preparing for underground tests.

K's Speech Arouses Conflicting Feelings

LONDON (AP)—Premier Khrushchev's speech to the Soviet Communist party Congress aroused conflicting feelings of hope and dismay in the capitals of Western Europe today.

The fearful Europeans clutched at the straw he held out on Berlin, the announcement he had lifted his deadline for signing a peace treaty with East Germany. But some noted that was the only change in his Berlin stand.

Dismay was widespread at his announcement that in less than two weeks the Russians will explode a 50-megaton hydrogen bomb.

Seeks to Avoid Chrysler Strike

Reuther Plans to Use New Strategy in Bid to Sidestep Walkout

DETROIT (AP)—Walter P. Reuther indicates he is trying to wind up labor contract negotiations in the auto industry without striking the little brother in the Big Three automotive family—Chrysler Corp.

The United Auto Workers' president, soft-pedaled strike talk Tuesday when he personally took command of the final round of bargaining with Chrysler.

Reuther disclosed a new bargaining strategy designed to avoid at Chrysler the strikes over local issues that shut down General Motors Corp. for two weeks and Ford Motor Co. for 13 days.

Chrysler and the UAW agreed Reuther said, to give priority to reaching agreements on working conditions at both the national and local levels.

In negotiations with GM and Ford, agreements first were made on a national economic contract covering wages and extra benefits. But local unions insisted on striking to back up their demands on non-economic matters.

Reuther said wages and benefits will be taken up last at Chrysler. But he said the UAW will insist that Chrysler accept the wage and benefit pattern established in settlements the union has with GM, Ford and American Motors Corp.

This gives UAW members an annual wage increase of 2½ per cent or 6 cents an hour, whichever is larger, and a cost-of-living wage increase tied to the government's consumer price index.

Half of American Berlin Garrison Tests Readiness

BERLIN (AP)—Nearly half West Berlin's 6,500-man U.S. garrison rolled out today for a three-day test of combat readiness.

Tanks rumbled through the streets at daylight, followed by armored personnel carriers packed with steel-helmeted troops.

There was a cold-fall wind under blue skies as the columns wheeled out of their barracks and headed for the Grunewald Forest, in the American sector southwest of the city proper, where the mock battles will be staged.

That a kind of timetable should be adopted by each of the committee's nine subcommittee committees is a problem under discussion among the chairmen, Van Dusen said.

Reporting on the views of the chairmen, Van Dusen said the consensus was that a deadline for the

Commission Will Meet Informally Thursday to Study Details

The final plan for Pontiac's second urban renewal project was unveiled at last night's City Commission meeting.

The estimated $2.8-million project will be studied by commissioners at an informal meeting Thursday so that it might be given preliminary approval at next week's commission meeting.

Commissioners are expected to authorize City Manager Walter E. Williams to submit a final report with the Urban Renewal Administration and Housing and Home Finance Administration in Chicago. At that time Williams would ask for a loan and grant from the two agencies.

The application would be filed in mid-October. It would require about two months for review and modify the plan before a public hearing and final Commission approval could take place.

The second project area is 19.6 acres in size and mostly commercial in character.

The area lies west of South Saginaw Street and is bounded by the Grand Truck Western Railroad tracks, W. Pike Street and the rear lot lines on Saginaw.

Gross cost of the project is estimated to be $2,800,000. Proceeds from the resale of land are estimated at $855,500, leaving the net cost at $1,944,500.

The federal share is three-fourths, or about $1.5 million. The city pays the balance.

The local share, however, will be the credit received by the city (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

U. S. Requests Reconsideration of Big N-Blast

White House Charges Plan Would Serve No Military Purpose

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House asked the Soviet Union to reconsider its decision to explode a 50-megaton nuclear bomb, charging that the test would be unnecessary and could "only serve some unconfessed political purpose."

It said the United States had the materials and know-how to produce bombs in the 50-100 megaton range—and higher—but that such weapons are not essential to U.S. military needs and that, full-scale tests are not necessary to develop them.

A 130-word statement was handed to newsmen Tuesday night by press secretary Pierre Salinger, who said it should be attributed to the White House and not to President Kennedy personally.

OFFICIAL COMMENT

The statement was the only official U.S. comment so far on Premier Khrushchev's announcement Tuesday that the Soviet Union would explode a 50-megaton weapon at the end of this month.

A 50-megaton blast is equivalent to the force of 30 million tons of TNT and about 2,500 times more powerful than the U.S. atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

U.S. strategists hoped the White House statement, citing the lack of military purpose for such a test, would sway Soviet opinion against the Kremlin.

From a diplomatic standpoint, Khrushchev's Moscow speech was a trick combining the carrot on a stick technique with the flick of a whip—mixing the lure of negotiations over Berlin while brandishing a mammoth nuclear threat.

A task force of State Department experts—including the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, J. Lee Thompson—gathered to scrutinize all available textual material to weigh the significance of what Khrushchev said, and what he didn't say.

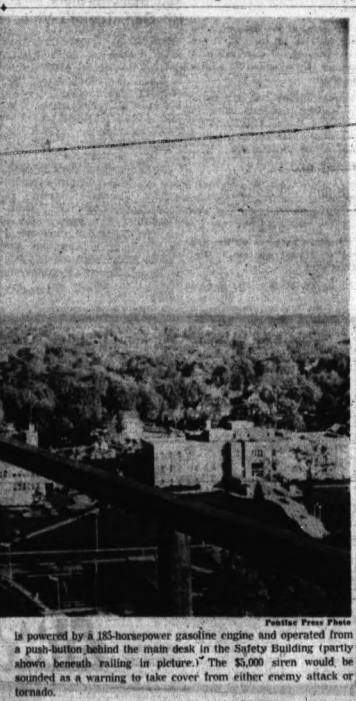

The State Department said there would be no official assessment of the speech until Secretary of State Dean Rusk holds his press conference late this afternoon.

U.S. officials, however, reserved any enthusiasm for the Soviet leader's conditioned offer to lift his Dec. 31 deadline for signing a separate treaty with East Germany until they are certain what he meant. They indicated that his speech seemed to contain no basic change in his views on Germany.

'NO COMMENT'

Salinger said earlier that the President would "have absolutely no comment" Tuesday on Khrushchev's 6-hour and 20-minute oration before the Communist party congress.

15 STORIES UP — The air raid siren atop the Pontiac State Bank Building, the city's highest edifice, is capable of throwing its wailing din as far as 10 miles, according to Asst. City Manager Robert Stierer. Here he looks out over Pontiac and surrounding Oakland County from alongside the siren's mouthpiece. The siren is powered by a 185-horsepower gasoline engine and operated from a push-button behind the main desk in the Safety Building (partly shown beneath railing in picture). The $3,000 siren would be sounded as a warning to take cover from either enemy attack or tornado.

We'll make you an Astronaut

Detroit Gal, 14, Explores Cape Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Marcia, interested in science since the fourth grade, earned her trip on a national television show to be one of the first women in space, nearly went into orbit Tuesday as she realized her dream to meet an astronaut and tour Cape Canaveral.

Marcia Kulesa, who said neighborhood children tagged her "Marcia the Martian" because "I talk so much about Mars and space flight," made a four-hour tour of the Cape and then said "I'm going to study very hard, because more than anything I want to be a lady astronaut."

Why does an attractive teen-age girl want to rocket off into space? "I guess mostly for the advancement of science," she replied. "But I think anyone who looks into the night and sees the stars and planets wonders if there's life there and wants to explore them."

She belongs to several science clubs and reads everything she can on space and astronomy. She has no plans for marriage, she says, because it would interfere with her chosen career.

What happens when she returns to Detroit Saturday?

"I've promised my teachers that I'll report everything to the other students," Marcia said. "My mother, brother and four sisters will want to know all about the possible and plans to continue in trip—but one of my sisters might college. She says she will learn to be a bit miffed because I didn't get Fabian's autograph."

YMCA Invites Both Girls, Boys to Open House

Boys and girls of the Pontiac area are being urged to attend the open house Thursday and Friday at the YMCA.

Facilities will be available for free use to the girls Thursday from 1:30 to 3:45 p.m. and to the boys Friday at the same time.

Since both days are school holidays in conjunction with Michigan Education Association meetings, activities included in the open house will be a typical day at the YM; swimming, gym for trampolines, rope climbing, tumbling and touch football outdoors. The program is for children 9 and older.

The open house is in conjunction with the present annual fall running to the end of Oct., according to John E. Miller Jr., Pontiac YMCA youth director.

Youths planning to attend the open house on either day must bring bathing suit, towel and soap, gym shoes and shorts.

Missed Kitchen Sink

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Thieves ransacked a newly built home in suburban Miramar and made off with everything but the kitchen sink. They did, however, get the bathroom sink. They also took the oven and range, hot water heater, water pump and filter system for the swimming pool, a toilet unit, and a built-in dressing table.

Prices effective thru Sat., Oct. 21. We reserve the right to limit quantities.

THREE DEER STORIES — This is the season for deer tales. In the picture on the left, 6-year-old Jack White of Riverdale in Gratiot County, brought down his 100-pound yearling buck near Reson in the Upper Peninsula. He gets permission to be away from school for a week's hunting with his bow and arrow. He hunts with his father, Jack White, a nationally known archer, and this is young Jack's third trip. There were witnesses to his feat. In the picture on the right, at Galesburg, a tender drama took place in early morning hours as Brad Curry, 11, leaves his home to board a school bus and his pet fawn Custer watches. Abandoned by the mother deer, Brad nursed Custer back to health. The fawn roams the woods until Brad gets home to feed him milk and grain pellets. Custer also likes pickles. The third deer story (not pictured) comes from Wyandotte. The deer that invaded the town over the weekend was a traffic victim on Dix Road. The doe who had been with her was shot and killed on a school playground. They apparently had swum across the Detroit River from Canada.

Hand-Off Radar Plan to Save Crashes

By ROBERT J. SERLING
UPI Aviation Editor
CHICAGO—An air traffic control procedure that might have prevented history's worst air disaster has gone into operation on a modest scale, the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) revealed today.

The procedure is known as direct radar "hand-offs"—a system under which an air traffic control center does not relinquish radio observance of an inbound flight until it has been taken over by the airport control tower.

It was the lack of such a radar hand-off that played a major role in the collision of a United DCB and a TWA Constellation over New York in 1960 which killed 134 persons. The traffic control center stopped monitoring the jet before it entered the Midfield tower's jurisdiction.

Lee E. Warren, deputy director of FAA's air traffic service, said fulltime radar hand-offs are now in operation at 12 cities—Chicago, Detroit, Great Falls, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Norfolk, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Salt Lake City, Seattle and Spokane.

TAKES EXTRA MEN

Warren, who spoke at the ninth annual safety forum of the Air Line Pilots Association here, said Jacksonville will be added to the list as soon as its commissions new radar equipment.

The radar hand-off process requires two specially assigned controllers in adjacent facilities

—one in the center and the other in the tower. They communicate over a special telephone "hot line" for instant action.

Warren said 14 other centers, including New York, are providing parttime hand-off service for inbound aircraft.

The FAA had hoped to expand

the fulltime procedure to all major airports but the budget bureau knocked the funds for additional personnel and equipment out of its current budget. The agency pleaded with Congress to restore the money but the lawmakers failed to act.

State to Open Bids on Expressway Link

LANSING — The State Highway Department has announced bids will be opened Oct. 25 for construction of the first section of the $30 million Detroit-to-Port Huron Expressway.

The contract will be for slightly more than 7 miles of Interstate 94 freeway from Cofton Road southwest of New Baltimore to the Macomb-St. Clair County line about 2 miles north of New Baltimore.

Pear Season Is Go International in Your Food Planning on Monday

All Too Short

Michigan's Bartlett pears are here. You'll find Bartlett pears at their best from now until early October says the Marketing Agency. Mrs. Josephine Lawrence says, "Pears are often not fully ripe when purchased. They ripen well in the paper bag from the grocery, or some fairly tight container such as a cabinet drawer or cake box. A fairly humid place at about 60 to 70 degrees is best."

Pears that are fully ripe and ready to eat keep best in the refrigerator until eating time. If kept too long after they are ripe, they may lose some of their delicate fresh flavor."

If underripe pears are to be kept a week or more before serving, put the green pears in the refrigerator. Then take them out 3 or 4 days before using to ripen. Pears to be cooked should be used just before they are fully ripe.

When canning pears, remember it takes 2 to 3 pounds of fresh pears to make one quart, or 24 pounds for 10 to 12 jars. Three to four medium-sized pears weigh about one pound, and one pound makes about 2 cups of sliced or diced pears.

Using fresh pears for salads or dessert? To keep the cut surfaces from discoloring, dip the pieces into a jar or bowl of chilled pineapple juice or orange juice. Put a crumpled ball of waxed paper or foil on top to press the pieces down. Cover the jar. Store in the refrigerator until ready to use.

Overcooking sometimes causes pears to turn pink in coloring or browning. There will be good reason though they may have lost some of their flavor.

Dessert Is Much Like Dumpling

This hearty fresh-fruit dessert satisfies after soup and salad.

Pear 'n' Biscuit

- 2 cups biscuit mix
 - 2 tablespoons shortening and 3 tablespoons butter
 - 1/2 cup (about) milk
 - 6 Bartlett pears
 - 5 tablespoons dark brown sugar
 - 1/4 cups granulated sugar
 - 1 cup water
 - Grated rind of 1 lemon and 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- Cut shortening and 2 tablespoons of the butter into the biscuit mix until particles are fine. Stir in enough milk to make a soft dough. Roll out on prepared pastry cloth into a rectangle that's about 9 by 6 inches; with pastry wheel cut into 4 strips each 1 1/2 inches wide and 6 inches long (long enough to wrap around base of pear).

Core unpeeled pears from blossom end but not through stem end. Sprinkle 1 teaspoon brown sugar into each cavity. Wrap a strip of biscuit dough around base (blossom end) of each pear and pinch biscuit ends together. Place in individual baking dishes (1 cup capacity—about 1 1/2 inches across and 1 1/2 inches deep).

Heat remaining 1 tablespoon butter, granulated sugar, water, lemon rind and juice, cinnamon and nutmeg to boiling; pour over pears. Bake in very hot (450 degrees) oven 20 minutes or until pears are tender and biscuit baked through. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

Aluminum Cooks Pans Hold on Even Heat

Did you ever notice that the lid of an aluminum pot is just as hot as the pot itself? This is because of aluminum's high heat conduction, and is the reason aluminum cooks better. The heat travels rapidly and evenly through the whole utensil. It comes from the bottom up, the sides in and the top down.

All of the contents of the pot are cooked thoroughly and evenly without hot spots. And because the whole pot is hot, you can keep the heat down to low or medium and save fuel.

BUTTERMILK BREAD—Bread baked in a skillet sounds like something the pioneer woman would do. But it's the way this bread is baked. Buttermilk adds tenderness to the batter while raisins and caraway seeds add interesting flavor. Wonderful idea for brunch.

The Dutch who make such good cheese serve it all through the day. For a cocktail party they hollow out an Edam cheese, shred the cheese before mixing with other ingredients and pile it back into the shell. Raw vegetables and crisp crackers go well with this spread.

- ### Festive Holland Cheese Ball
- 1 Holland Edam cheese (3 to 4 pounds)
 - 1 tablespoon butter
 - 1/4 cup light cream
 - 1/4 teaspoon prepared mustard
 - 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire
 - Dash salt
 - Dash cayenne
 - Chopped parsley (optional)

Cut and remove a three-inch circle from top of cheese. Scoop out the cheese, leaving a half-inch shell. Shred or grind the cheese and measure. For each cup of cheese, add the amount of additional ingredients listed.

- ### Let the cheese and butter soften in bowl at room temperature, then cut with a pastry blender until mixture is blended and cut into fine pieces. Gradually add cream, beating with a spoon or electric mixer until quite smooth. Add mustard, Worcestershire, salt and cayenne. Mix well.

Pack the cheese mixture into the hollowed Edam shell, shaping it into a high, smooth mound. Garnish the top with rosettes made by forcing some of the cheese mixture through a pastry bag fitted with a rosette tube. If desired, mix lentil mixture with salt and pepper; chopped parsley for rosettes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

of our readers have indoor grills. Incidentally, lamb shoulder is an inexpensive cut of meat.

- ### Shish-Kabobs
- 1 lb. lamb shoulder or shank, cut into 1" cubes
 - 1/2 med. onion, thinly sliced
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - Dash coarsely ground pepper
 - 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon oregano
 - 1 green pepper, cut in 1" pieces
 - 1 med. onion, cut in 1" pieces
 - 1 firm tomato, cut in 1" pieces

Place lamb cubes in a bowl. Tuck in onion slices. Add seasonings. Refrigerate 1 to 2 hours. Alternate heat cubes, pieces of pepper, onion and tomato on metal skewers. Roll in vegetable oil. Broil 3" from heat, allowing 15 to 20 min. Turn as meat and vegetables brown. 4 servings.

The Swedish have a way with yeast breads. Fortunately, it is easy to copy. Cardamon seed gives this coffee bread its distinctive flavor. Kringle is delicious hot or cold.

- ### Swedish Kringle
- 1/2 cup warm water (not hot—110 to 115 degrees)
 - 1 pkg. active dry yeast
 - 1/4 cups milk, scalded then cooled
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1 tsp. salt
 - 1 cup melted butter
 - 1 egg, beaten
 - 12 cardamon seeds, crushed (or 1/2 tsp. powdered)
 - 2 1/2 to 4 1/2 cups unbleached flour

To measure flour, dip nested dry measuring cups into flour,

level off with straightedged spatula.

Place in a bowl. Tuck in onion slices. Add seasonings. Refrigerate 1 to 2 hours. Alternate heat cubes, pieces of pepper, onion and tomato on metal skewers. Roll in vegetable oil. Broil 3" from heat, allowing 15 to 20 min. Turn as meat and vegetables brown. 4 servings.

Heat oven to 375 degrees (quick mod.). Let rise in warm place about 30 min. Brush with 1 beaten egg; sprinkle generously with 1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts and 1/4 cup sugar. Bake 35 to 45 min., or until nicely browned.

School Day Lunch Dessert

In a saucepan heat canned apple slices and melt a pat or two of butter or margarine over them. Now serve with a gentle pour of syrup and another of half-and-half cream. This is all quick and easy, and the youngsters will love dry measuring cups into flour, level off with straightedged spatula.

Place in a bowl. Tuck in onion slices. Add seasonings. Refrigerate 1 to 2 hours. Alternate heat cubes, pieces of pepper, onion and tomato on metal skewers. Roll in vegetable oil. Broil 3" from heat, allowing 15 to 20 min. Turn as meat and vegetables brown. 4 servings.

Might Be Good for Halloween

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Now is the time to make raggedy old man brittle. Rinse 1 cup of seedless raisins and drain thoroughly. Combine with 6 cups of crisp corn flakes, 1 cup of coarsely chopped roasted unblanched almonds and warm in oven.

Boil a mixture of 2 cups of sugar, 1 teaspoon of butter or margarine, 1/4 cup of vinegar, 1/2 cup of water and 1/2 teaspoon of cups and sprinkle with cool water.

After-School Pudding

Have this quick dessert ready when hungry children come home from school. Prepare instant pudding mix and fold in well-drained fruit cocktail. Spoon into paper cups and sprinkle with cool water.

Ebert-Trzos Vows Told

On Bermuda Honeymoon

MRS. ANDREW G. EBERT

The newlywed Andrew G. Ebert left for a Bermuda honeymoon following Saturday afternoon vows in Kirk's in the Hills, Bloomfield Hills and a dinner reception in Devon Gables.

Dr. Harold C. DeWandt officiated at the nuptials, of the former Edith May Trzos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Trzos, Walnut Lake Road and the bridegroom, son of the Andrew Eberts, Jamaica, N.Y.

Re-chambered Alconon lace accented the bridal gown of imported white silk organza over tulle, styled with deep tucked bustle draps and full chapel train. Mysteriously veiling of silk illusion was caught by a pearl tiara.

The bridegroom's gift necklace of pearls and a cascade of white roses and stephanotis completed the bride's ensemble.

Green hair and shoes completed white silk brocade dresses for the bride's sisters Carole, maid of honor and Elizabeth, who was bridesmaid. Tallman roses added to boutonniere and yellow chrysanthemums, designated the honor attendant.

Best man was James Stover, New York City and ushers were Richard Barrett, Lafayette, Ind.; Peter Palley, Franklin; David Kaler, Kalamazoo; and the bride's brother Phillip.

The new Mrs. Ebert attended Purdue University where her husband received his doctorate in pharmacology.

Green cymbidium orchids accented Mrs. Trzos' sheath dress of boue silk. The mother of the bridegroom appeared in a royal blue silk sheath dress with which she wore white cymbidium orchids.

Anything Goes

(UPD) — Designers have extended a carte blanche on fabrics for rain-wear this season. Plunged wide waist corseting, poplins and suede take the lead as favorites among the young set. Cotton knits have been laminated to foam for warmth with lightness.

MRS. RICHARD L. SANDAGE

To Honeymoon in East

A breakfast at Devon Gables followed the Saturday marriage of Jane Elizabeth Martini to Edward S. Netke in Our Lady of Refuge Church, Orchard Lake.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Martini of Cooley Lake Road and the Stanley Netkes of Sherbourne Road, Waterford.

After a honeymoon in the New England states, the couple will live in Erie, Pa.

Open House Is Set by Area PTA Unit

The Waterford Center PTA will have an open house from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Thursday. It will be followed with a talk by guest speaker Bernard Henney of the Isaac Crary Junior High School.

There will be a group discussion on communication from schools to parents and refreshments will be served by mothers of home room students.

More than 20 per cent of U.S. families now have hotbe freezers. Manufacturers of frozen foods, in an effort to fill these freezers with their products, invested over $9 million in daily newspaper advertising in 1960.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hartman, Watkins, Lake, announce the marriage of their daughter Kristine Ann to Richard Lee Sandage, son of Mrs. William J. Petruska, Dover Road, and Gilbert C. Sandage, Auburn Road. The couple was married Oct. 7.

Lynda Tabor Married at Marimont Church

White chrysanthemums and gladioli caught the light from tall candles for the seven o'clock vows of Lynda Marlene Tabor to John M. Kraus Jr. Saturday in Marimont Baptist Church. Rev. Philip Somers officiated.

Receiving in the church parlors following the ceremony were the Wills Tabors, West Stratmore Avenue, and the John P. Krauses, Third Avenue, parents of the newlyweds.

Proceeding the bride to the chancel were her sisters Nancy, maid of honor, wearing peach 'blue organza with coral cummerbund, and Deborah, who served as bridesmaid. She wore coral organza with peach 'blue cummerbund. Both carried semi-crescents of white and antique-rose pumpkins.

Cynthia Tabor attended her sister as flower girl and Kenneth Tabor carried the rings.

The white satin bridal gown featured a bodice and long sleeves of Chantilly lace, repeated as applique on the floor-length skirt and chapel train. A lace cap accented the silk illusion veiling. White orchids centered the bridal cascade of white carnations.

Larry Kraus was best man for his brother and Gary Kraus ushered with Ronald Helms and Vernon Ruffalo.

HONEYMOON UP NORTH

Host Church Class October Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Love of Cadillac Avenue were hosts for the Baldwin Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church Fellowship Class' October meeting.

Mrs. Leslie Ball offered devotions. Mrs. Robert Walker, president, appointed Mrs. Paul Sorace, William Gadden and George Reuter to the nominating committee at the Saturday gathering.

The Harold Pearalls will be hosts for the next meeting.

RESCUED FROM SAND PIT — With only his eyes and part of his nose showing, John Steven Engelhart, 11, of Brockton, Mass., clings to the outstretched hand of William Burke Jr., after the youth was trapped in a sand pit for two and a half hours. Burke removed the sand that completely covered the boy, and clung to him until fire fighters arrived and freed him.

Praises Trend to Church Unity

Past Controversies of Christians Pointless,
Says Theologian

CHICAGO (UPI) — A prominent English Roman Catholic theologian said Tuesday night that present trend toward unity among Christian churches is marked by "new horizons, new insights, and, above all, a new spirit."

The Rev. Bernard Leeming, dean of theology at Heythrop College, Oxford, England, said past controversies among Christian churches are pointless and meaningless in a world in which Christians are a minority.

Father Leeming spoke at Loyola University's fall theology series.

He said the trend toward unity "represents a change in the attitude of Christian churches from that of debate, in which they looked for the errors of other churches, to an attitude of dialogue, in which they are now tending to look for the truths held by others and approve and develop these truths."

Father Leeming said Pope John XXIII has "told us that humility, prayer, charity are the means to reconciliation with those whom we call our separated brethren."

He said the "greatest danger" in the ecumenical movement is "doth — the most subtle danger of despair and do-nothing-ism because of possible risk."

Student in the Hole

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Seven-year-old Ted Jensen didn't move when he was called to the blackboard by his teacher. The reason? One of his fingers was stuck in a hole in his desk and it took police and fire rescue workers 15 minutes to free it.

Today's Focus on Health

Guam in Sclerosis Research Picture

By The Associated Press

An odd finding on "Lou Gehrig's disease," a precaution about filling teeth of certain heart patients, and prospects for keeping GIs dryer from rain are subjects for focus on health.

TIP ON "ALS"

"From the faraway island of Guam has come a potential lead towards better understanding of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, the usually fatal muscle-wasting disease that killed Lou Gehrig, the immortal first baseman of the New York Yankees."

Among the natives of Guam, U.S. Public Health Service scientists have found an unusually high incidence of both "Gehrig's" disease and a newly described neurological ailment called Parkinsonism-dementia complex.

Further, there's evidence of a close relationship between the two disorders. This suggests that some biological factor present in daily living of the natives — plus a possible genetic predisposition — may account for the relatively high rates.

Clarification of several features common to both maladies might help towards unravelling the causes of these ailments not only among the Guam natives but in other populations of the world, the scientists say.

DENTAL WARNING

All physicians and dentists have long known that dental extractions offer a prime means of admitting germs that can cause a disease called bacterial endocarditis in people already suffering from rheumatic or congenital heart ailments. But this complication can be prevented by administering penicillin to such people before any teeth are extracted.

Now comes a team of Georgetown University heart specialists reporting that not only extractions but even the cleaning and filling of teeth by dentists may open a portal for B.E. bug. So they strongly urge dentists to give the penicillin prophylaxis to vulnerable heart patients. They also urge physicians and patients to make sure the dentist is told the patient has a heart condition.

WATER PROOF SOLDIERS

Researchers have come up with a new water-repellant and oil-repellant treatment for GI clothing, and the Army says it "promises to keep soldiers dryer longer, yet maintain its moisture-proof properties throughout repeated washings."

The stuff added to the cloth consists of a mixture of ammonium and fluorocarbon chemicals.

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—I can see my high school English teachers getting the news now.

"You mean to tell me," says the first one, "that Harold Boyle, that big-nosed little boy who always came in with his tennis shoes, is quoted twice in the new unabridged dictionary?"

"I know it sounds impossible, but it's true," says the second. "This is the blackest day for literature since William Shakespeare died."

"Oh, I don't know," says the third. "I always suspected little Harold had something in him."

"So did I," says the fourth, "but I never suspected it was anything anyone would ever want to quote in a dictionary!"

COULDN'T BELIEVE
Many of my editorial coworkers couldn't believe it either when the massive, 2,720-page new dictionary arrived in our office.

But there in bright clear print both on page 224 under "black-and-white" and on page 36 under "bum"—was the defining quote "black-and-white world where a guy is either your pal or probably a bum—Hal Boyle."

"How did this disaster happen

to our beloved language?" asked a jealous conferee.

"CONTEMPORARY NOTABLE"
"Oh," I replied, "the editors decided to modernize the dictionary. So they threw out some of the old mawkish writers like J. Milton and Alex Pope, and replaced them with new quotes from 14,000 contemporary notables."

Con-Con Plans Public Hearings

Taxation Group First to Set Date of Oct. 25 as Sounding Board

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's con-con delegates were heard at work Tuesday perfecting committee operations so every resident from Gov. Swainson down the line will have a chance to air his views on how the state's constitution can be improved.

The committee on taxation and finance got a jump on eight other major committees when it announced the first of many con-con public hearings will be held Wednesday, Oct. 25. The initial session will deal with the question of constitutional earmarking of state tax money.

D. Hale Brake (R-Stanton), former state treasurer and chairman of the committee, said announcements of the public hearing had been sent to seven interested groups.

Richard Van Dusen (R-Bingham Farms) voiced the views of several delegates when he told the rules and resolutions committee that public hearings were especially important in the early weeks of the convention.

"We want to get every type of view, even though some of them may be frivolous," he said.

Van Dusen added:

"The second of these public hearings will be of the most benefit is after the committee has developed some tentative proposals and wants to subject committee members to the sounding board of public opinion. We must keep the public informed since they will have to act on what we do."

Some delegates expressed concern that too many witnesses who had no specific suggestions would consume valuable committee time.

CUT OFF ORATORY

Brake, while stressing the committee's desire to hear all groups and individuals who had something constructive to offer, expressed hope his group would be able to avoid witnesses who would have lots of oratory and little else.

Former Congressman Alvin Bentley (R-Dowagiac) told a meeting of the committee studying the executive branch he felt that as a matter of courtesy Gov. Swainson should be given the privilege of being the first witness to be heard.

At a meeting of the education committee, it was decided to ask Dr. Lynn Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, to appear before the group to give a summary of the state's present educational setup.

This would be a prelude to the committee hearing from other witnesses.

Declines to Commit U. S. to Giving India Cotton

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman declined Tuesday to commit the United States to build up cotton buffer stocks in India, where production has been hurt by floods.

At a news conference, Freeman said "it is impossible to respond at this time because the United States itself is in short supply" this year because of low production.

Loud Patrolmen

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Eye-dazzling vests have been thrown into Memphis' traffic safety battle. Police who direct traffic on dark streets will wear the bright orange and white vests, enabling motorists to see them better.

"What's a contemporary notable?" he inquired.

"Well, according to the dictionary itself, you're looking at one of them. I told him coldly. He looked the other way as quick as he could, and walked away breathing hard and chewing on his blue pencil."

CLASSY CROWD

Actually, I'm in a pretty classy crowd. Among the other "contemporary notables" are such renowned literary figures as William Mayes, Ethel Merman, Ted Williams, and Dina Shore.

They also managed to find room for quotes by Mickey Spillane, Winston Churchill, Douglas MacArthur, W. Somerset Maugham, and Ernest Hemingway.

WILLIE'S DEFINITION

The quote from Willie Mayes is one of my favorites. Defining one meaning of puff, it says, "Puff too many homers and people start puffing you up."

The new unabridged dictionary is the first new edition in 27 years, cost $3,500,000 to prepare and has 60,000 entries, including 100,000 new terms.

"How does it feel to be quoted in the dictionary?" asked one of my coworkers.

"It doesn't really leave you much to live for does it?" jeered a second.

"Oh, I don't know," said a third, "he still hasn't made the dictionary."

LOOK ME UP

But I'll tell you how it felt. To a boy who started throwing newspapers at the age of 10 and has loved words all his life, being quoted in the dictionary was like—well, it was like one who, just in wilderness, looks up and sees an airplane, and suddenly the airplane writes his name in giant letters against the eternal blue sky, and the letters hang there, endless and fine.

There's only one thing wrong. The dictionary costs $47.50. That's a lot of money—even for a "contemporary notable."

Most Licenses Forgery-Proof

Driving Certificates Issued on Safety Paper to Prevent Defacing

LANSING (AP)—More than half of Michigan's four million drivers now carry forgery-proof licenses.

The Secretary of State's Office reports. The black-on-grey wallet-size cards are printed on safety paper which cannot be successfully defaced or falsified. The licenses are replacing the former white-on-black photographic process document which would be easily forged.

Since the change was made in April of 1960, the office said, 2,101,828 of the new licenses have been issued. During the same period, 178,640 duplicates and corrections were issued.

The duplicates were for lost or mutilated licenses and the corrections were mostly for newly wedded women switching over to their married names or divorcees returning to maiden names.

Licenses must be renewed every three years, the office reminded, and become invalid on the driver's birthday when the 36 months are up.

O'Hara, State Officials Agree on Problem of Blue Water Bridge Fees

LANSING (AP)—Canadian authorities held the key to solution of a dispute over tolls being charged at the Blue Water Bridge at Port Huron, a Michigan congressman and state officials have agreed.

James O'Hara, D-Mich., said Tuesday with Gov. Swainson and State Highway Commissioner John T. Mackie.

O'Hara agreed with Swainson that little can be done until a meeting is held with Canadian officials for the province of Ontario to determine their exact stand on the matter.

Swainson said he hoped to convene the Canadian authorities at Port Huron some time after Oct. 25.

The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads had warned Michigan might lose up to $5 million in Federal highway support unless tolls are lifted on the international bridge linking Port Huron and Sarnia, Ont. Michigan and Canada must honor an agreement to eliminate the crossing charge as soon as bonds to finance the bridge were paid off, the bureau insisted. The last of the bridge bonds were retired this year but a 25-cent maintenance toll has been charged.

Ontario officials have said they will continue the toll even if it is lifted in Michigan.

Sen. Patrick V. McNamara, D-Mich., who is invited to the meeting, was unable to attend. He sent word he thought the toll agreement should be honored.

O'Hara said he thought one approach might be to appoint an international bridge authority.

"We should attempt to carry out the spirit of the agreement," he said.

"If Canada continues to charge the toll and only maintains one half of the bridge, we would be in a ridiculous position. Suppose they just painted half of the bridge or removed the snow just half way across?"

Swainson and O'Hara both said there had been no local resentment noted at Port Huron against the toll. More than half the cars using the bridge are from outside the state, O'Hara said.

Jack and Jackie at 2nd Half of Opening Concert

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Kennedy have given an abbreviated assist to the launching of the National Symphony Orchestra's new season.

They arrived at Constitution Hall Tuesday night in time for the second half of the concert, Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 5. They received a standing ovation from the crowd.

The Kennedys joined in enthusiastic applause for Conductor Howard Mitchell and the symphony.

Kennedy wore black tie. Mrs. Kennedy wore a turquoise, blue and gold short length theater suit, gold shoes, white gloves and three strands of pearls.

Chinese Defy K on Albania

Reds Hail Friendship With Tiny Nation After Attack by Khrushchev

TOKYO (AP)—The Chinese Communist Party today denounced a speech bailing for Albania's "unbreakable" friendship for Albania less than 24 hours after Soviet Premier Khrushchev had criticized the little East European nation for its espousal of Stalinism.

The speech by Mrs. Yang Yun-yu, Chinese delegate to the fifth congress of the Women's Union of Albania in Tirana, declared: "The friendship between the Chinese and Albanian peoples based on the principles of Marxism-Leninism is unbreakable and no force can destroy it."

Mrs. Yang spoke on Monday. The official New China News Agency and Peiping radio, either by design or because of a communications delay, reported it only today.

Khrushchev's lengthy address to the 22nd Soviet party congress has not been carried by either service, suggesting that it was under review in Peiping. Westerners in Moscow considered that Khrushchev's denunciation of the Chinese Communists implied an attack on Red China's Mao Tse-tung.

Khrushchev also attacked another of Mao's cardinal theses when he reiterated that war with the capitalist powers can and must be avoided.

Hong Kong's official Chinese Communist press also ignored Khrushchev's speech and only carried a New China News Agency dispatch from Peiping reporting the opening of the Soviet party congress.

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Workers holding down several jobs are not robbing fellow workers of a chance to earn a living, the Labor Department suggested today.

It made public a new survey on the prevalence and characteristics of dual jobholding—or moonlighting—as it is commonly called.

"Over three million persons, or 4.7 per cent of all those employed in the country held more than one job when the survey was taken in December, 1961. This means nearly one out of 20 held second jobs."

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said, however, that the number and proportion of dual jobholders has not been increased in recent years. Also, it was found for the first time, he said, that moonlighting is a misnomer. More of the dual jobholders, contrary to popular belief, work on their extra jobs during daylight hours rather than at night.

WORK DAY HOURS

Only 24 per cent of the dual jobholders were reported as working mostly at night on their extra job; 42 per cent worked mostly during weekday working hours; and 24 per cent primarily on weekends.

Goldberg had some comments on the agitation from jobless workers during periods of heavy unemployment, "there ought to be a law" banning anyone from holding more than a single job.

"The results of this survey give little support," the secretary said, "to the notion that the unemployment problem could be solved by prohibiting extra jobholding."

"The hours worked on the second jobs are usually very short, and a great many of these jobs—for example those in farming and the professions—would be unsuited to the unemployed or of little interest to them."

Only about 180,000 of the three million dual jobholders worked full time on both jobs. Typically, the total hours worked by the multiple jobholder added up to 50 on both jobs, with 11 hours devoted to the extra job.

SOME EXAMPLES

Some examples of extra jobholding: The factory worker with a side job working evenings in a drug store, a postal clerk devoting off hours as a gas station attendant, and the office secretary doing weekend clerking in a department store.

About 850,000 of the extra jobholders had extra jobs operating their own farm or business. These are positions, the Labor Department said, that unemployed could not reasonably be expected to fill.

All in all, it was estimated that some 12 million of the 3 million side jobs wouldn't be suitable for unemployed for one reason or another.

Understandably, because of their family responsibilities, three-fourths of all multiple jobholders were found to be married men. Only two per cent of women workers held extra jobs.

Finally, although unemployment has been heavy among factory workers, only four per cent of them are multiple jobholders, and the extra jobs were generally outside the factories.

Orders Airport Desegregated

Florida Capital Loses Federal Suit by Trio of Negro Ministers

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—Florida's capital city will have to take down the "colored" and "white" signs at Tallahassee Municipal Airport, or appeal a ruling of Federal District Judge G. Harold Carroll.

The judge ordered an end to segregated facilities at the airport Tuesday and gave the city three days to comply. Mayor Joe Connelly's only comment was that the City Commission had the order "under study."

The judge issued his order in the suit filed by three Negro ministers seeking an injunction against the American News Co., which operates the airport restaurant where the Negroes were refused service last April.

Carroll refused the injunction. He said the news company had testified its policy was to serve all persons regardless of race and that its other terminal restaurants in Florida were not segregated.

The company operates the restaurant under lease from the city and Carroll blamed the city for segregation at the airport.

Williams and Rebels Together in Tunisia

TUNIS, Tunisia (UP)—U. S. Asst. Secretary of State for African Affairs G. Mennen Williams held an informal three-hour talk Tuesday with key ministers of the Algerian rebel government in exile here.

The main topic of conversation probably was the Algerian crisis and the prospect of renewed negotiations between France and the Moslem rebels, political observers said.

Williams' meeting with the rebel leaders was the highest level direct contact yet between the Moslems and U.S. officials.

LANSING (AP)—State Treasury income during the past week totaled $18.1 million and expenditures $20.7 million. The treasury balance at the end of the week was $51.2 million.

Gloria Swanson Fights to Blot Out Old Legend

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD—The mission was hard by Sunset Boulevard.

I crunched my way up the gravelled driveway to the double doors, each with a small glass peephole. A sign said rather biddingly, "Unexpected guests must use telephone."

Was I unexpected? No, I had made a date with the great lady. I summed enough courage to ring the bell.

"Who's there?" demanded a voice.

I announced myself and was prompted, "Closer to the speaker." I repeated my identification and was answered with a metallic click.

some young butler ushered me into the sitting room, which was decorated with old and new masters—the real things.

"Miss Swanson will be down presently," the butler announced.

The uneasy wait. Her heels could be heard on the marble hall. Then she swept in, slim and surprisingly small, wearing a broadened lounging-suit, her arms a-clack with metallic jewelry. Her skin was smooth and flawless. There was scant gray in her shiny hair, atop which perched her spectacles.

IN SECOND REEL

"Let's go in the den, where it's more comfortable," said Gloria Swanson after ordering vodka on the rocks from the butler. We went to the den, which was dominated by a full-length portrait of the actress.

Desert Is Safe From Fallout

Little Rain to Carry Radiation, Say Nobel Prize Winner

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Nobel prize-winning chemist Willard F. Libby said Tuesday of the perils of nuclear war: "If you really want to avoid the worldwide, long-range fallout, go live in a desert."

Because fallout is carried by rain and there is little rain in the desert, such an area would be relatively free of worldwide fallout, he told the National Civil Defense Council.

He said fallout shelters will not protect humans against the long-range effects of radiation but do protect against local fallout.

At a news conference, Dr. Libby said the nation would be in jeopardy without fallout shelters and radiation meters to measure the amount of local radiation. Shelters could save millions of lives and construction should begin immediately, he added.

"In addition," he said, "every household should have a radiation meter."

UNITED NATIONS, N.H. (AP)—The Soviet Union protested to the United Nations Tuesday night that Communist Outer Mongolia's candidate for U.N. membership, is having trouble getting visas to send a delegation to New York.

The Russians complained about the visa difficulty in letters to the president of the Security Council and to Mongol Slim, president of the General Assembly.

Mongolia's perennial application for membership is expected to come before the council again next week.
