Two More Dogs Ride Into Space for Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched another test space ship into orbit today with two dogs on board, the official news agency Tass reported.

The live-in vehicle, Tass said, also carried "other animals, insects and plants" for Soviet scientists to study their condition via radio-television and other telemetering devices aboard. Its exact weight—just counting the carrier rocket that boosted it into final orbit—was listed at 10,627 pounds.

The dogs, latest in a series of Soviet canine space travelers starting with the space-dog Laika, were named Pchelka (Little Bee) and Mushka (Little Fly).

It was described as the "third space ship" by Tass.

U.S. and French observatories reported picking up signals from the Soviet satellite this morning.

The launching was the first space exploit announced by the Soviet Union since Aug. 21 when the U.S.S.R. disclosed it had sent a 4½-ton space ship into orbit and safely recovered its cargo of two dogs and some rats, mice, flies and plants.

The two dogs, Belka and Strelka, were later exhibited in their space suits before newsmen in Moscow. The Soviets said the animals were catapulted from the space ship and were landed gently in a capsule at a speed of 13 to 15 miles per hour.

The first Soviet space ship was put into orbit last May 15.

Altogether the Soviet Union has placed seven satellites in orbit around the earth since she opened the space age 25 months ago. In addition it has a comrade payload orbiting the sun.

(The United States has orbited nearly 30 earth satellites and two satellites around the sun.)

(In Washington a spokesman for Space Administration said the agency could not make any official comment on the Soviet launching until it received more details. But he added that on first glance

Williams to Handle Affairs for Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy today picked Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan to be assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

Kennedy called the job second in importance to no other position in the new administration. It was his first major appointment outside of his White House staff.

Kennedy made the announcement on the doorstep of his Georgetown home with Williams standing at his side. They had conferred at a breakfast meeting.

Williams, who has served six terms, will retire as governor of Michigan Jan. 1.

The announcement bore out advance indications that Kennedy had passed the talking stage and was at the point of making actual official assignments.

Cutter Sends Small Boat to Aid Wallowing Ship

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — The Coast Guard cutter Mackinac radioed today that it was sending out a small boat with a boarding party to help the stricken Liberian freighter Francisco Morazan.

The ocean-going ship has been aground since Tuesday night on a rocky reef off South Manitou Island in Lake Michigan about 32 air miles northwest of here. The vessel has been fighting for its life in gale-lashed waves.

Aboard are 12 crewmen, Capt. Eduardo Trivizas and his wife, an expectant mother.

Gale winds subsided today and made it possible for the powerful Mackinac to approach the freighter. The cutters Mesquite and Sundew stood by.

The boarding party will assess damage to the freighter and confer with the skipper on what to do. Capt. Trivizas so far has refused to give up the ship.

The freighter, aground in water 14 feet deep, was taking on water faster than her pumps could pump it out.

Shortly before dawn, the Coast Guard cutter Mackinac, patrolling nearby, radioed the Liberian freighter asking her status.

The captain answered: "Water in the hold is coming higher and higher and we are pumping all we have. We are still pumping on the bottom. It stopped for about an hour, but through the night it was pretty bad."

Then he added, "I'm afraid we can't..." And static cut off the remainder from shore stations.

Helicopters and amphibious planes stood by at the Traverse City Coast Guard air station.

City Officials Acclaim Beginning of Regular Commercial Trips

By PETE LOCHMILER

Commercial airline service came to the Pontiac area today in the form of a sleek, silver transport that set down at Pontiac Municipal Airport shortly after 10 a.m.

The twin-engine, 44-passenger Convair 340 aircraft, flew in from Detroit's Willow Run Airport on its way to Sault Ste. Marie.

The stopover here marked the inauguration of daily commercial airline service by North Central Airlines, the largest short-haul airline in the nation.

City officials and community leaders were on hand to greet the plane and its party of North Central officials who planned to make similar inaugural stopovers at other Michigan airports later in the morning.

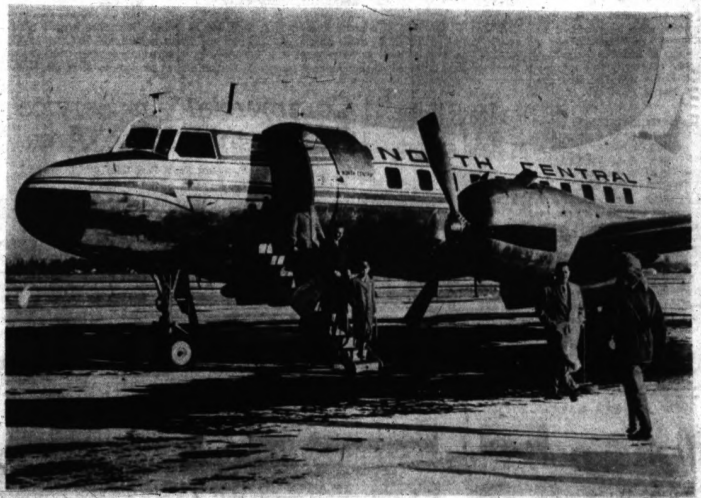

The plane was to put in at Flint, Truitt Airport (Saginaw, Bay City, Midland) and Alpena.

Then the aircraft was to head on to Pellston, near Mackinac City, and thence to the Soo. These two are not in the Pontiac area, since North Central has served the Soo for several years.

The same plane was scheduled to return along the same route with the same stopovers this afternoon, arriving at Pontiac shortly after 6 p.m. The round trip is completed when the Convair heads back to Willow Run and North Central headquarters in Michigan.

Ceremonies along the way were to prevent the plane and pilot from holding to a strict time schedule.

Plan $1-Million Building Project

Plans for a $1-million building project on Woodward Avenue, across from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, were announced this morning.

The credit union purchased 20 acres of land, totaling 570 feet of frontage on Woodward Avenue, about a month ago from Fisher & Company.

Harry J. Woodman, credit union treasurer and general manager, today announced the sale of half of the land to the physicians' corporation.

At the same time, both groups announced their proposed building plans.

Spokesman for the physicians' corporation was Dr. Edwin J. Dobski, president of the board of directors.

Architect for both projects will be Harry Denyes Jr., of Pontiac and handling both sale transactions was Pontiac realtor Bruce J. Annett.

Each project will cost an estimated $100,000, and each building will be a one-story structure with full basement.

"Our move was necessitated by the growth of the credit union," said Woodman. The credit union now has some 11,000 members.

"We will vacate our present building at 136 W. Huron St. and move our main office into the new building when it is completed," he explained.

"At the present time we have about 3,200 square feet of working space. The new building will give us an estimated 23,000 square feet."

Woodman also said that the location of the proposed building "couldn't be more proper for the GMTC people."

"Parking space is also a major factor in our move," he explained. "It is estimated that there will be a total parking area for 700 cars or more for both buildings."

The doctors' group began organizing and investigating the possibilities of an office building in September.

"The Professional Building will be similar in design to the credit union structure and is being planned to house 24 suites," said Dobski.

Behind the project are the credit union and a group of Pontiac area doctors, the Physicians Real Estate Development Corp.

"This is in addition to laboratory facilities, and a pharmacy," Dobski explained.

"We want to emphasize that this is not a clinic. It is a building housing offices for physicians in private practices," he said.

The doctors expressed their belief that it would be probably the largest building in Pontiac for doctors exclusively.

The corporation's board of directors is currently made up of Dobski, Dr. Charles L. Bowers, vice president, Adam Stark, a pharmacist, secretary, Dr. Edward McPhee, treasurer, and Dr. Dale Dewey.

Look for a Slight Warming Trend — 38 Tomorrow

Christmas shoppers will find temperatures a little warmer tomorrow, the weatherman says.

Tonight will be fair with a low of 18 degrees. The high will reach around 38 tomorrow. The outlook for Saturday is partly cloudy and warmer.

Northwesterly morning winds at 15-22 miles per hour will diminish late this afternoon and tonight, becoming light variable Friday.

Nineteen was the lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 3 a.m. The reading at 29 at 2 p.m.

GOP Mantle Falls on Nixon

President Toasts Veep at White House, Calling Him Head of Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has given Vice President Richard M. Nixon public recognition as the new leader of the Republican party, in sharp disagreement with the stand of New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The White House said today that Eisenhower, in a toast at a White House dinner Wednesday night, remarked that Nixon will be recognized as head of the party for the next four years, and will have Eisenhower's support and the support of all those present.

Whether so intended or not, the President's comments amounted to a repudiation of Rockefeller, who spoke at an Albany news conference only the day before.

Rockefeller, once a competitor against Nixon for this year's Republican nomination for the presidency, said a party without a president in office is without an actual head except perhaps for the national chairman.

The Governor did say Nixon has a "tremendously important part to play in uniting and strengthening the party."

Freedom Near After 9 1/2 Years

Taylor Seeks Release of Man Imprisoned on Assault-Murder Charge

Convict John Mundo stands to become a free man tomorrow after 9 1/2 years in Jackson Prison.

Prosecutor George F. Taylor announced today he would move to drop the assault with intent to commit murder charge against Mundo.

Taylor, after studying the transcript of the 1951 trial and hearing some testimony from special investigator W. M. Peterson, said he "could not prove John Mundo guilty beyond a reasonable doubt."

Mundo, 51, was sentenced to prison for 15 to 30 years for former Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty after being found guilty by a jury of the Nov. 20, 1950, shooting of James I. Marshall, 30, owner of two jewelry stores in Ferndale.

Mundo continued to prevail his innocence and hired Pontiac attorney Bernard Girard to help him prove it.

He was granted a new trial recently when he produced an affidavit from Marshall, now a resident of Highland Park, saying he (Marshall) was not sure Mundo was the man who shot him 16 years ago.

Petermann gave Mundo several lie detector tests in June at Jackson, leading the investigator to say that it was his opinion "that this inmate is telling the truth and was not involved in this case."

"I do not have positive proof he was the one," Taylor said, reviewing the case and after conferring with Petermann.

Taylor said he would draw up the motion promptly and today probably file it tomorrow with Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondoro, who had ordered a new trial based on the affidavit.

When Dondoro signs the order Mundo becomes a free man, Taylor said.

High Court Rules for 12-Town Drain

The State Supreme Court today said county drain officials' greatest hopes in years of solving flooding problems in Southeastern Oakland County when it ruled it could finally build the huge 12-town storm relief drain.

The high court, in an unanimous decision handed down today, ordered dismissal of a suit by the Madison Heights against the project's drainage board.

The decision was welcomed by county drain officials.

The $47-million drain has been contemplated as to its financial arrangements in and out of the courts ever since it was first envisioned in 1952.

Today's ruling reverses one back a year ago by Circuit Judge William J. Beer.

Judge Beer said the drainage board had failed to take into account how much Madison Heights contributed to the proposed drain in determining the city should pay $2,848,803 as its share of the long-awaited drain.

The city said this share was unfair.

In oral arguments before Judge Beer last November the city's attorneys said a "proper calculation" would reduce the amount to well below one million dollars.

The Supreme Court today said that county drain attorneys who said that financing arrangements were settled earlier in the so-called Southfield-Troy case involving the drain. The court last July decided in this case in favor of Oakland County.

When asked if the city's recent opinion removed all legal barriers to construction of the drain—designed to stop flooding of basements and streets in the heavily-populated southeastern section of the county—Robert P. Allen, drain attorney in the corporation counsel's office, said:

"I think so and I sure hope so."

He said until he read the court's opinion he couldn't tell just what the next step of the county would be.

Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry, who supported the assessments all along as fair, was unavailable for comment.

2 More Dogs Ride Rocket for Russia

The text of the Soviet "announcement."

"In accordance with the program of scientific research the third space ship was orbited an earth satellite in the Soviet Union on Dec. 1."

"For medical-biological research in the conditions of a space flight experimental animals—dogs named Pchelka and Mushka—have been placed in the cabin of the space ship."

"In the cabin there also are other animals, insects and plants. The experimental animals are being watched by means of radio-television and telemetering systems, which play back physiological data about their condition."

SEVERAL INVESTIGATIONS

"The scientific-measuring instrument Spatnik-ship provides for several scientific investigations of outer space phenomena."

"The weight of the third Soviet Spatnik-ship, without the last stage of the carrier rocket, amounts to 4,563 kilograms."

WELCOME ABOARD—A pretty stewardess greets Joseph L. Fourn of the traffic department at GMC Truck and Coach as he prepares to board the plane for North Central Airlines' first flight out of Pontiac Municipal Airport today.

Fourn was flying to Flint, the first stop for the Convair 440, which will fly regularly from Detroit to Pontiac and as far north as Sault Ste. Marie.

Commercial Air Service Begins in Pontiac Area

APL-CIO Council; Harry J. Woodman, president of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce; city attorney William A. Ewart; Sherwin M. Birnkant, assistant city attorney; Homer D. Hoskins, airport manager; and John W. Hirtling, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

Ewart, Birnkant, Hoskins and Hirtling formed the four-member committee that lobbied four years for commercial airline service.

Heading the North Central party was Arthur E. A. Miller, chairman of the Board of the Minneapolis, Minn. company.

Strictly speaking, the ceremony did not represent the advent of Pontiac's first commercial airline service, since there was no passenger and mail service at the airport 1959-1962.

Thompson Aeronautical Co. began air mail service in 1929. The service passed to Trans-American Airlines (the forerunner of American Airlines) and then to Pennsylvania Central Airlines (forerunner of Capital Airlines). Both Trans-American and Pennsylvania carried passengers before depression days brought an end to commercial activity at the airport.

North Central does bring the area its first commercial service in 28 years and the first in the modern sense of the word.

The airport was not quite ready for the first flight. But the $1.5 million spent there for development over the past five years had paved the way.

The terminal building was about 95 per cent finished, but not equipped. The lobby, concourse and ticket windows were open, though, and North Central agents were operating an office and baggage room.

Finished was the 1,300-foot extension to the main, east-west runway that the Convairs will use from now on. The expanded, 5,300-foot length of the runway makes it possible for twin-engine craft to use the strip.

Also finished were the taxiways and the $100,000 parking ramp which the plane swung around to reach the terminal.

Local Business Takes Advantage of Flights Early

Several Pontiac merchants and industries today shared in the history-making commercial flight into Pontiac with the receipt of air express shipments on the plane.

Pontiac Motor Division and General Motors Truck & Coach Division received several shipments sent out of Detroit on the flight, according to Gene Hardin, sales representative with Railway Express Agency, Inc. in Pontiac.

Arthur's received some furs from New York City and Osmun's Men's Wear received some tuxedos out of Philadelphia among the 27 pieces unloaded from the Convair 440 when it touched down shortly after 10 a.m. at Pontiac Municipal Airport, Hardin said.

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's November traffic death toll of 135 was eight less than the 143 fatalities for the same month a year ago, state police reported today.

The Day in Birmingham

Downtown Shopping Mall Now Under Construction

BIRMINGHAM — Work began today on the city's first shopping mall.

The first project in a long-range plan for the redevelopment of the downtown business district, the block-long shopper's mall is on Henrietta Street between Maple and Martin.

All traffic will be rerouted around the mall.

A 38-foot tree, the first of many to be placed in the mall, was to be planted at 11 a.m. today. A deep layer of wood chips will cover the pavement and walkways will be formed by path blocks.

Supervising the pilot project is the Birmingham Central Business District Development Committee. The committee received $18,000 from area merchants to have the long-range plan developed.

Claude Kidd, a member of the committee, said the mall has been designed to facilitate better vehicular-pedestrian traffic, and future plans call for building several other malls.

He said the mall is the first physical evidence of downtown redevelopment since the committee hired a full-time planner a year ago to work strictly on the project.

Other plans, he said, call for the elimination of traffic jams where Willets and Brown streets intersect Woodward Avenue.

The exact cost of the future projects has not been determined but the work will be done by the city with funds made available from businessmen.

Mrs. Robert C. Mack, Service for Mrs. Robert (Marie) C. Mack, 42, of 6919 Woodbank Drive, Bloomfield Township, will be 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. Burial will be in Taylorville, Ill.

Find $100,000 More of Ransom Money

LOS ANGELES (AP)— FBI agents have found another $100,000 of the ransom paid kidnappers of a Los Angeles businessman.

To date $125,215 of the $200,000 paid has been recovered, FBI agents discovered the money Wednesday in a Los Angeles apartment occupied illegally by Frank Matrone, 31, one of five arrested suspects. The money was in a panel on the inside of a refrigerator door.

Alonso, kidnapped in San Diego Nov. 21, was freed unharmed after payment of the ransom.

Plenty of Good Albums Around

Recorded Music Spreads Yule Cheer

Each year something new is added to the music of Christmas, and 1960 is no exception. Growups and children alike will delight in the sound of seasonal music on new record albums.

So gather round the hi-fi, young and old, and invite your neighbors to a Yuletide music festival.

This year among the new Christmas records is a swinging treatment of Tchaikovsky's perennial favorite, called "The Swinging Nut Cracker," by Shorty Rogers. Another is "The Sound of Children at Christmas," a Yuletide follow-up to Hugo & Luigi's delightful, "The Sound of Children," and "The Holy Land," by George Beverly Shea.

More in the traditional vein are "Christmas Music" by the Augustana Choir, and "The Sound of Christmas" by The Three Suns.

There are many other albums to add to your library of Christmas music. And, of course, the old recordings from seasons past, will bring the same joy year after year.

Do you have a Christmas stocking for every guest? They needn't be expensively filled. A few nuts and candies will do the trick, delight the kids especially. You can hang them from the mantle and place them among the branches of your plastic tree... or hide them around the house and make a game of seeking them.

Film Producers Say
Morals Maintained

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—"We do not agree that Hollywood has made a bold and unprecedented departure from previously accepted moral standards," says the Association of Motion Picture Producers.

The association commented Wednesday on a statement issued in Washington in which a committee of bishops urged the 40 million U.S. Roman Catholics to stay away from movies not meeting acceptable standards.

"We do not agree that objectionable films have created a national crisis," the producers' statement said. "We do not agree that the production code administration is presently ineffective. The facts do not support any such conclusion."

His Undercover Men
Face a Rude Surprise

FONTANA, Calif. (UPI)—Police Chief Henry A. Young posed proudly for newspaper photographers yesterday standing by a new police car, slated for undercover work, that has no distinguishing markings to identify it. The photos clearly showed the undercover car's license plate number.

Taped Orchestra
Backs Violinist
in Short Concerto

NEW YORK (AP)—With the violinist on hand but the orchestra absent, a short concerto for violin and orchestra was played Wednesday night before an intrigued audience of about 300.

It was an electronic orchestra. The violinist gave the nod to the man who pushed the button and just the tape to rolling, and they were off on a five-minute capriccio. If there wasn't any orchestra, there wasn't any music either—no a few disgruntled patrons' thought. But most of them gave a good hand to the tape, the tape machine and the well-known violinist, Anshid Ajemian.

It was the season's first concert of the Contemporary Music Society. The composer of this opening number, premiered last summer in Canada, was Henk Badings.

At Christmas, the Salvation Army seeks to bring joy to all corners of the community—to the sick, to the distressed and especially to children. And music accompanies almost all of the giving. In hospital wards, the caroling lends a festive air as bedridden ladies pass among the beds handing out packages and Christmas greetings.

Radioactive Truck
Stolen From AEC

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission says a mildly radioactive truck was stolen Tuesday from its test site at Camp Mercury, 40 miles from here on the desert. The pickup truck, contaminated by plutonium in a 1957 safety experiment, had been parked with four other contaminated trucks in the open beside a double fence. Trucks and fence bore radiation warning signs. The AEC said it is unlikely, however, that persons exposed to the stolen vehicle's radiation would suffer any ill effects.

Jackie Decides to Take Baby on Palm Beach Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy has decided to take her infant son with her to Florida in mid-December even if it means staying in the hospital an extra day or so, her doctor reported Wednesday.

The president-elect's wife plans to go to Palm Beach, Fla., when she gets out of Georgetown Hospital in about 10 days.

There she will recuperate from her Caesarian operation at the seafaring home of her father-in-law Joseph P. Kennedy.

Until now there had been some question whether John F. Kennedy Jr. would be able to accompany his mother on the Florida trip.

CAROLYN, TOO

But Mrs. Kennedy's obstetrician Dr. John W. Walsh told reporters she was determined that "when she goes, her baby will go with her."

Three-year-old Caroline, the Kennedy's first child, probably will make the trip too. The president-elect has said he wants to have his whole family together at Palm Beach around Christmas.

Dr. Walsh reported that "everything is beautifully normal" with his famous patient and her six-pound, three-ounce son.

The infant still is being kept in an incubator for warmth and as a protection against outside infection, although he has been taking off oxygen.

Doctors moved him into a private nursery across the hall from his mother because the premature nursery, where he has been since birth, is "getting pretty crowded with lots of visitors."

Electricity was first made from atomic energy at the atomic energy commission's testing station located in Idaho on Dec. 20, 1951.

Oliver Corp. Keeps Execs After Merger

CHICAGO (U) — Oliver Corp., which recently became a subsidiary of the White Motor Co., has retained many of its management executives, the firm said Wednesday.

Samuel W. White Jr., the new president, said that responsibilities of some officials were changed.

Bernhart Hansen, D. W. Kogel and L. P. Ritchie retained vice presidential rankings. T. W. Kavanagh, former controller, takes over Hansen's treasurer responsibilities and Hansen's area is finance.

The new controller is S. A. Baker,

Kennedy, leaving the hospital after a 25-minute visit with his wife and a look at his new son, stopped on his way out to sign some autographs and shake hands with some hospital workers.

Then he posed against a wall in the corridor for the picture.

A drawing of the Biblical Miriam holding a timbrel or tambourine, an instrument of Old Testament times, reportedly inspired early Salvation Army lassies to add tambourines to the band.

To one account, their first appearance on the street "filled the devil with disgust and the newspapers with comment."

off. Kennedy walked across and tried to help fix the camera, then went back to the wall to pose again.

He had to leave before the camera was back in working order.

The disappointed sister said she preferred not to give her name.

Today there are 50,000 trained Salvation Army bandmen around the globe. Some are officers, but most are members of The Salvation Army who work at regular trades or professions and pursue their "ministry through music" in their leisure time.

Many, both here and abroad, are so proficient that they make recordings, perform in concert and are heard on radio and television programs.

Congratulations to City's Expanded Air Service

Shortly after 10 a.m. today Pontiac came of age in the era of air transportation. It was a goal achieved after much hard work by many people who have faith in Pontiac, and want to keep it growing into the future.

North Central Airlines began regular flights from our city airport in Waterford Township. Although the terminal building is not completely finished, the essentials of the service are ready—longer runways, adequate taxi strips, and equipment for handling the North Central 44-passenger twin-engine Constellation.

To begin, there will be one flight north through the state daily, in the morning, and one flight south to Willow Run, in the late afternoon.

For the first time, Pontiac area residents will be able to go to Flint, Bay City-Saginaw-Midland, Alpena, Pellston and Sault Ste. Marie just by taking the short drive out M59 to Airport Road.

The new service is a 30 per cent expansion for North Central, increasing their route miles to 6,900 and 90 cities in 10 states and one Canadian province.

Already one important improvement has been announced. Faster and less expensive air express service is forthcoming with the new airline service. This will be a boon to the numerous industrial concerns of our area who frequently need this quick service.

Pontiac City Commissioners, Chamber of Commerce executives and several progressive-minded area residents and business leaders deserve credit for raising Pontiac's airport to its new standards.

Now all we have to do is use the service. Actually, it's use it or lose it. After the first six months, a one-year trial will begin, in which Pontiac has to average five passengers a day, or see the service curtailed.

Airline service is here today. Let's make sure we keep it.

Peace Would Usher In No Economic Tailspin

In an editorial captioned "Peace Scare" Business Week takes issue with an unnamed American businessman for his statement that "the greatest threat that faces America today is the chance that Russia's Nikita Khrushchev may come forward with a genuine peace proposal. It would throw us into an industrial tailspin."

To prove how untrue this statement is the editorial points out that in 1944 U.S. defense expenditure totaled $88.6 billion but by 1947 it had dropped $77.2 billion to $11.4 billion. At that time the Gross National Product (GNP), that is the total value of all goods and services, was running about $200-million annually.

The U.S. economy did not go into an industrial tailspin but went on to the greatest postwar expansion in history. Today defense spending is less than $50 billion and our GNP is $500 billion a year.

Taking into account some important differences in the economy of the postwar period and that of today, there is every reason to believe that both government and business would gladly cooperate again to cushion any conversion to a full peacetime economy.

"If we were able to cut out billions of dollars of spending on defense," says Business Week, "and let people hold onto their own money by reducing taxes, this would probably provide a major stimulus, not a drag, to economic growth. Not all the defense savings would have to be returned to the people in the form of tax reduction. There are plenty of important jobs—education, urban development, resources, and the like—that could well benefit by more public support."

One of the favorite themes of Communist propaganda is that the U.S. economy would go to pieces if there were no cold war; that we cannot afford peace. Let us not mouth this defamatory.

Unfortunately there is little prospect of surcease from the cold war. But if a genuine peace should come what an era of progress would dawn on all mankind!

The Man About Town

Our Cranberries

They Seem to Be a Lasting Crop in the Pontiac Area
Weather: A commodity in which the Pontiac area also excels in variety—a different kind every day.

Our story about cranberry growth in the Pontiac vicinity has brought a flood of letters and phone calls from readers who know where this holiday delicacy still grows. In fact, we've now added it to our almost numberless articles of natural and manufactured products—in which we challenge the world.

The most extensive local cranberry tract in our county, that is still producing, is about four acres in extent, according to a letter from Karl W. Rhineault of Lake Orion. It is located in a swamp near the Holly-Orionville Road.

A number of other letters and phone calls told of picking cranberries for Thanksgiving dinner from "secret bushes" on their own property. Several claim the berries are better than the shipped-in variety.

Mr. Rhineault and a few others also say that the holly shrub can still be found in Oakland County, "if you know what you're looking for and know where to look."

A young spikehorn deer with a broken leg is hobbling around the big woods near the home of Paul Landsdowne, along the railway tracks about ten miles northwest of Pontiac.

In the big Webber woods near Holly, Jack Penrose, who drives a truck for the Detroit fire camp there in the summer, returned to bag a buck right beside the camp buildings.

Like many others, getting weary of receiving loving cups, Oscars, etc. for most everything imaginable is Orville Hubbard, Dearborn's spectacular mayor, who always calls us "neighbor," because his city's playground is located near Millford.

Advance notice comes to me that Dr. Carl S. Winters, famous pastor of the Oak Park III, First Baptist Church, who got his start in Michigan, will be the speaker at the annual meeting of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce on Feb. 1. He comes through the courtesy of General Motors.

An air mail letter drifts in from Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Fierth of Rochester, mailed at Amarillo, in the Texas panhandle, says, "Better come down and bring your toboggan and skis. We have the snow—ahead of Michigan."

A letter from my good friend up at St. Ignace,

Grant Willoughby says that the number of deer being brought across the Mackinac Bridge is far less than the average year.

Giving but little evidence of her approaching 94th birthday,

Mrs. Isadora Lamphere of 2732 Pontiac Lake Road, is as keen and active as many people half that age.

What, No Santa Claus Yet?

David Lawrence Says:

Blame Dems for Some Gold Loss

WASHINGTON — Everybody is discussing the kind of administration John F. Kennedy, as president, is going to give the country, but there seems to be little attention focused on the kind of job the nation may expect of Congress.

LAWRENCE

Will it be a responsible or an irresponsible Congress? Will it do the things that maintain a stable dollar, or will it bring about the inflation that will rob the workingman of the purchasing power of his wages?

The role played by the Democratic-controlled Congress in bringing about the "chaos" in the international business situation of today has not been made clear to the American people.

While, for instance, the outflow of gold is doubtless not due to any single factor, it can be persuasively argued that the Democratic leadership in Congress, by its refusal to remove the interest ceiling on U.S. government bonds of five years or more, contributed a great deal to the current crisis in gold.

Some politicians have always been inclined to feel that they can run the government on a socialist basis—that is, that they can mold the law of supply and demand to fit their own concepts of what will prove popular or bring votes.

But every now and then actual experience catches up with theory, and the nation pays the penalty for the mistakes of the theorists.

When interest rates in the last two years started rising all over the world, and especially in the United States because of the increasing demand for investment funds to meet the needs of natural economic growth, the United States was faced with the simple effects of the law of supply and demand.

Our government, in borrowing money, cannot be paying very much less for prime securities than the non-governmental institutions and businesses in America are paying for money.

Ordinarily the law of supply and demand fixes the interest rates. The U.S. Treasury, however, which has to refinance constantly the enormous public debt, cannot always wait for more propitious moments to float its loans.

It must go into the market and pay the current rate. The situation normally tends to iron itself out as demand and supply balance one another. Eventually, the demand-falls off, the interest rate drops, too.

But when the Congress yields to the demagogic politicians who cry out against "high interest rates," a serious blow is struck at the normal and natural processes of the law of supply and demand.

Last year and this year the Congress turned thumbs down on the request of the Treasury for a free hand in dealing with the sale of government securities.

There was a blast from the politicians that interest rates must not be allowed to rise. This view was shortsighted. Interest rates would have not gone higher for any length of time but would have gradually reduced themselves.

Meanwhile, foreign-owned funds would have remained inside the United States, and there wouldn't have been such a tendency to send gold out of the country to earn the higher interest rates being paid abroad.

As a consequence of the interference by Congress with the normal fixing of interest rates on a supply-and-demand basis, the business situation inside the United States was worsened.

While the steel strike caused a recession, a recovery movement this year was further complicated by the bad effects on foreign-trade markets caused by the outflow of gold from America.

Just as Congress commits a serious error in interfering with the law of supply and demand in the case of government securities—something that makes extremely difficult the sound management and refinancing of the national debt.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Calcium Deficiency Leaves the Door Open for the CRI

CRI, pronounced kree, is an honest name for any one of the dozen or more respiratory infections which an ignorant "cold" calls "colds" the early hours of the illness or indisposition.

The early state the CRI is most communicable, but the poor people who catch it are unaware of the disturbing samples assures everyone within cough, sneeze or conversation spray range that it is just a bad "cold."

Whether you choose to call it "cold," "grip," flu or "a virus," and whether you try to keep out of conversation spray range or wear a suitable mask or not, the next question is, what are you doing about it?

Probably you are "trying" this or that "cold cure," which usually consists of aspirin, either straight or mixed with another analgesic or pain-killer, such as acetaminophen, phenacetin, or the like.

I'm no stoic. In fact I holler before I'm hurt. But still it may be that I'm less sensitive to ordinary aches and pains than most Americans today because — get this, aspirin eaters — I'm a calcium eater. That is to say, for many years, I have supplemented my diet with an adequate daily ration of calcium and vitamin D.

The diet of most Americans is deficient in calcium and vitamin deficiency. "Weak nerves," "nervous strain," "high tension," or whatever flatters your vanity. I call it nutritional deficiency.

Anyway it's my conviction, from long study and observation, that the better one's calcium metabolism the less use one has for aspirin and other pain-killers. By the same token, it is false to say that nutritional deficiency is a common contributing factor to habitual drinking and use of other narcotics.

Aside from temporary relief of ache, pain or other discomfort, it is difficult to understand why any one resorts to such drugs when coming down with, or ill of, the CRI (any common respiratory infection), when, just in case the infection proves to be influenza, faint paralysis or cerebrospinal meningitis, for example, one will need all the natural protective, antitoxic or immunological capacity one has to insure or hasten recovery.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Many Profs Jealous of Columnist

Billy Graham has stated that many clergymen in every city where he has considered conducting meetings have first objected that "we don't need you here." Why do such clerics make that protest? It's a device of self-defense and camouflage, as per the psychologist's attack below. You readers can see through their attempts "smoke screen."

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE G-440: Tony Z., aged 24, is a graduate student in psychology.

"Dr. Crane," he began, as he was visiting my youngest sons. "The clergymen psychologists in our university surely put you on the pan."

"One of my profs didn't know I knew you personally so he began to ridicule your column in which you told 'DR. CRANE' teenagers they could improve their personalities."

"He got so furious that he even said people were morons if they thought they could change their personalities by sending for your 20 cent non-profit booklet."

"Then he finally attacked your college textbook, for he added that only fools would think it was possible to improve their personalities by reading any book."

BIASED PROFS
A lot of clergymen psychologists are jealous of the fact that I write a newspaper column. Such "white rail" profs hate practical education.

Voice of the People

Enjoys Saturday Edition; Agrees With Dr. Brady

This is a long overdue "thank you" for the Saturday editorials. In fact, the whole Saturday issue is saved for leisurely perusal on Sunday at our house.

Perhaps I should also thank H. Sellers, R. N. for her letter to the Voice of the People. It aroused me enough to make me want to write and be counted among those who would "stand up" for Dr. Brady's common sense and courage in attacking some "sacred cows."

Asks Hunters Write State Representative

When Mr. "Bo" Bartlett of the Conservation Department states that there are still plenty of deer in the woods, this is what he means: The large pulp companies are lobbyists in Lansing, pouring money into deer control to get what they want. What do they want? They want all the deer deer away with because their future depends on young trees and browse on which the deer feed.

The talk you hear about deer starving to death is a laugh. That's only a part of the reason for the deer season.

All you deer hunters, unless you want to travel out of Michigan to hunt deer in the very near future, let's get a voice in the matter and try to stop the slaughter of our Michigan deer before it's too late. Write to your State Representative in Lansing.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn. On this day in history: In 1873, at Fifth Avenue Theater in New York, Arthur Sullivan conducted the score of H.M.S. Pinafore for the first time.

In 1917, Father Flanagan founded Boys Town, the "city of little men" near Omaha, Neb., with a fund of less than $100.

In 1919, the first woman in the British Parliament took her seat as American-born Lady Nancy Astor was sworn into the House of Commons.

In 1939, at Liberty Theater in New York, the curtain went up on the first performance of "Lady Be Good" with music by Gertrude.

A thought for today: The Greek philosopher Plato said: "Under the influence either of poverty or of wealth, the human mind and soul are equally liable to degenerate."

You Know How It Is With Sportsmen—They're Choosy

Select Those Golfing Gifts Very Carefully

The most welcome gift any golfer could receive as a Christmas present undoubtedly would be a magic putter that would unfailingly stroke the ball into the hole.

Unfortunately, such a putter has not been invented, even by a benevolent Santa.

But according to Ben Roman, head golf professional at Harder Hall, Sebring, Fla., pro shops are filled with innumerable gifts that will please the avid golfer. In selecting a gift for the golfer, Roman advises the shopper to consult a golf pro. "He can help the shopper avoid the gimmicks and select gifts that will really contribute to the golfer's enjoyment of the game."

"If the pro knows the golfer, he can make even more helpful suggestions," says Roman. "For instance, he may know that a golfer wants for a new putter, or prefers one kind of ball to another."

Some gifts such as golf gloves or shoes require a perfect fit and should be given through a gift certificate.

A comparatively inexpensive gift, but one that many golfers would welcome is a ball marking set. These may come with the golfer's name already set in a line of type which can be stamped up his golf balls as they are purchased.

Another welcome gift is a collapsible golf cart of the kind that has made caddies almost obsolete on many busy courses. The purchaser should be sure that it folds up easily, is light but sturdy, and rolls smoothly.

A first set of golf clubs for a young boy or girl can make this Christmas an especially memorable. In purchasing clubs, the Harder Hall pro suggests that the advice of a professional be sought. It's very important that clubs have the right shaft, flexibility, swing weight, dead weight, length and grip size.

British Firm Denies U.S. Control Offer

LONDON (AP)—Handley Page, Britain's oldest aircraft building firm, issued a statement today denying it has received a $16-million offer from an American corporation for enough stock to control the British company.

The statement said that it has been engaging in negotiations with an American company on many matters.

"But these do not include the sale of the company to American interests, and it has received no offer and has no reason to expect any offer of this nature," the statement said.

Reports published here, and circulating widely in financial circles, said that the American corporation interested in the McDonnell Aircraft Co. of St. Louis, Mo.

Accepts Resignation of Education Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Wednesday accepted the resignation of Lawrence G. Derthick as U.S. commissioner of education, effective Jan. 19.

Derthick will become executive assistant secretary of the National Education Association.

Derthick has been commissioner of education since December 1956.

The Saga of Santa has acquired many satellites through the years. Some peoples believe that in addition to his gifts, the ancient Bishop carries a bundle of birch rods in order to punish the naughty children as well as reward the virtuous.

New Year's Eve Fun Cut Shorter

LANSING (AP)—New Year's Eve celebrations in public places will be two hours shorter than usual this year.

Because New Year's Day falls on a Sunday, the State Liquor Control Commission said sale of alcoholic beverages must stop at 2 a.m. in compliance with state law.

"The premises must be cleared by 2:30 a.m.," it said in a notice sent to all enforcement agencies and retail licensees.

In other years the commission has adopted a special regulation allowing taverns, hotels and others to sell liquor until 4 a.m. on New Year's Eve unless the New Year comes in on a Sunday.

The law also requires liquor sales to stop at 9 p.m. on Christmas Eve, a Saturday.

He's a Remarkable Old Saint

Santa's Really Changed

In his 1600 years on earth, Santa Claus has grown a long, white beard, moved from a small village in Asia Minor to a toy factory at the North Pole, and changed from flowing robes into a red and white furry suit. He's gotten shorter, rounder and much, much merrier.

The original Santa Claus was born in Patras, Asia Minor. Young Nicholas—instead of being interested in games and play—devoted himself to the study of the Scriptures. Because of his remarkable boyhood, he was later accepted as the patron saint of children.

Being of very rich parents, Nicholas was able to share his wealth with others. He found particular joy in providing gifts for children, or the dowry necessary to start a beedy young woman on the road to a happy marriage. His travels brought him to the large city of Myra where he was consecrated archbishop.

St. Nicholas died on Dec. 6, about 341 . . . but not before he had saved a ship from a threatening storm with his prayer, found a way to feed all the people of Myra during a famine, and deposited three bags of gold upon the doorstep of a poor merchant.

Today, there is hardly a seacoast city in any Catholic country that does not have a chapel dedicated to him. He is the patron saint of bankers, pawnbrokers, maidens, children, mariners, scholars and even thieves! Europe has always celebrated St. Nicholas Day on Dec. 6 and this is the traditional day of gift giving. But in the New World, St. Nicholas gave up his own day and became a well-loved part of the Christmas celebration.

Dutch settlers brought Santa Niklaas to New Amsterdam. At first he appeared to look like Father Knickerbocker. American history researchers tell us that Thomas Nast, famous cartoonist, periodically dressed his Santas in suits of red, white and blue for patriotism's sake.

Washington Irving described the merry gift-giver as a tubby little children all over America have fellow with a jolly manner who pictured him ever since.

sped through the air on a reindeer sleigh. From this interpretation came the basis for Clement Clark Moore's beloved "A Visit From St. Nicholas." Dr. Moore, professor at a New York Theological Seminary, composed the poem for his children who first heard it on Christmas Eve 1822.

"He was dressed all in furs from his head to his foot and his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot . . . he was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf, and I laughed when I saw him in spite of myself."

This was how Dr. Moore saw Santa Claus, and thanks to his vivid characterization, this is how merry gift-givers all over America have fellow with a jolly manner who pictured him ever since.

WONDERFUL to find under the tree is a trio of eau de toilette liquid skin sachet and body powder. The powder has shaker top as well as puff.

A VISIT FROM ST. NICHOLAS — The laughing man with the big heart adds to the joy of Christmas for children everywhere . . . but what happens to the child who huddles on the stairway watching for Santa till his eyelids drop? Or the child who doesn't see footprints in the snow on Christmas morning? Or the child who has been told, there is no Santa Claus. For him, Christmas becomes a sad time.

Sees Bright Future in Space Industry

BRISTOL, Pa. (UPI) — The spaceman may be the key to taping up the slack if military contracts drop off after 1965, according to the president of Thiokol Chemical Corp.

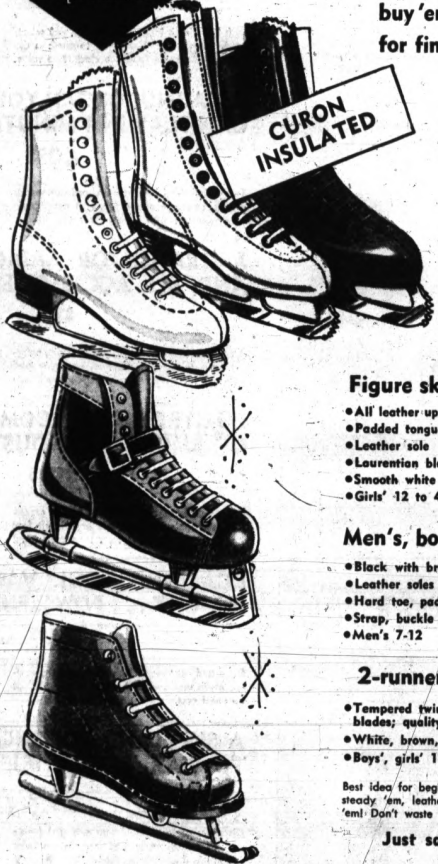

Joseph Crosby, whose company has a number of contracts in connection with missiles and rockets, says he sees a bright future for the industry in the decade ahead if the number of defense contracts is reduced.

Asks Creativity in Advertising

Jones Says Emphasis of Freshness Needed to Meet Competition

A call for more attention to creativity in advertising to meet competitive demands in the future was made yesterday by Ernest A. Jones, president of MacManus, John & Adams, Inc., of Bloomfield Hills.

Jones, a director and operations committee member of the American Association of Advertising Agencies (AAAA), told the annual meeting of the East Central Region of AAAA in Detroit that "50 per cent more advertising will be directed at 17 per cent more people."

He named six management attitudes he said frustrated creativity.

Management, he said, allows an agency to become known as a "specialist" agency with undue emphasis on one function.

OTHER FAULTS

Other faults, he said, were setting up a group system which blocks creative people from the main current of creative operations, placing too much emphasis on "cooperation and getting along," attempting to force creative people to conform to the "scientific piddledog of personal science," and failure to provide adequate recognition for creative people.

He also criticized "making management of money the goal, rather than leadership of creativity."

"Before you are many years older, you are likely to be thinking of 1960 as the good old days," Jones said.

"Without accelerated creativity in every form of advertising, getting a sales message even noticed will be about as easy as driving a bent nail into an oak log with a banana."

U.S. Takes the Sass Out of Sarsaparilla

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government today prohibited the use of sarsaparilla and oil of sassafras as flavorings in foods and beverages—including root beer and sarsaparilla.

The bottling industry, acting voluntarily, already has generally quit using them.

The Food and Drug Administration announced it was taking the formal action based on findings by a special scientific committee that the flavorings are a "weak hepatic carcinogen."

It was explained that this means that sarsaparilla, also spelled sarselle, and oil of sassafras cause cancer of the liver in female rats. Under a new law, substances which cause cancer in test animals are banned for human use.

Graham Urges More Individual Responsibility

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Billy Graham says churches should put more emphasis on moral problems and individual responsibility.

"We have situations in this country that are alarming that are not going to be solved until we have increasing reliance on the transforming power of Christ in individual lives," the evangelist told reporters Wednesday.

"There must be group action by churches, but no resolution on social action is going to solve the personal problems of an individual who sees his life as a wreck."

Graham speaks tonight at a banquet of the John Tracy Clinic, Los Angeles school for deaf children.

Between 1940 and 1950 the population of the United States increased by 15 per cent and in the same decade church membership gained by 34 per cent.

WHERE IT COMES FROM — Parents still pay the major share of college expenses for their children, according to a nationwide study conducted by the University of Michigan. The study estimated that the average cost to unmarried students for the 1959-60 school year was $1,550. The chart shows the relative importance of the sources of that money. Over half the nation's college students now earn part of their expense. Only one out of four students receives any scholarship help.

Book Can Open World to a Child

Did you ever think about the night after Christmas? Or did you ever read about it? Everything in literature seems to stop after the carols and the presents and the turkey.

But literature can be deceptive. Just when it stops, it starts. And on the night after Christmas, lucky kids all over the country will be reading books.

American publishers are offering more and better children's books than ever, and whether the child in your life is 4 or 14, there's a wonderful world waiting for him in the printed word.

One American publisher is suiting the action both to the word and to the world. The World Publishing Co. of Cleveland and New York has a 'cosmopolitan collection of books for children by distinguished writers from France, Italy, England, Japan and, of course, America. Here are a few of them.

Bruno Munari's ABC is imaginative, and bursting with color enough to enchant parents, let alone youngsters. It's the first of this brilliant Italian artist's books to be created especially for American children.

Another stunning picture book in color is "The Butterfly Chase"—this one for the maturing young adult of, say, 4 to 8 years of age. It's a zany story about a small American boy and his French grandfather, written by the husband-wife team of Denise and Alain.

Trez. The Trez's are Parisians, and their occasional exuberant comments in French may well start some unsuspecting tot on the road to becoming a linguist.

A very different kind of story for approximately the same age group is "A Pair of Red Clogs," an engaging tale by the young Japanese writer, Masako Matsuno.

Then, turning to our English cousins, the well-known archeologist and author, Leonard Cottrell, has written a fine book about everyday life in ancient Egypt, entitled "Land of the Pharaohs." This is for adventurous people, but you'd better save it until your particular genius is at least 12.

When he or she is 12 or thereabouts, an introduction to the whole wide wonderful world can be had in a book that is not only beautiful, but superbly readable. This is "People and Places" by Dr. Margaret Mead, the anthropologist whose studies of young people all over the globe have given her an international reputation for science-made-human.

Finally, if that child of yours is determined to join the human race, give him "Exploring Science." Jonathan Leonard, who wrote the book, has been exploring it in the pages of a leading magazine for many years, and this is American boy and his French grandfather's rundown on everything from grandfathers, written by the husband-wife team of Denise and Alain.

AMC Ups Dividend From $1 to $1.20

DETROIT (U.P.)—American Motors today increased its annual dividend rate from $1 per share to $1.20.

Directors declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share payable Dec. 20 to stockholders of record Dec. 8.

American Motors stock was split three for one in February. Since then quarterly dividends have been 25 cents a share. Prior to the split the equivalent dividend was 30 cents a share.

Later today the auto company will announce earnings for the 1960 fiscal year which ended Sept. 30.

Claims Teachers Must Be Sold on Their Status

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI).—A classroom teacher has to be "sold" on her own professional standing, according to an official of the National Education Association.

Mrs. Susan Stober, Webster Groves, Mo., who is president of the Department of Classroom Teachers, says the image of the teacher needs to be brought into sharper focus.

She says teachers really have two jobs—providing the best possible instruction and participating in the work of professional associations.

Sale of Allied Lab to Dow Approved

WILMINGTON, Del. (U.P.)—Stockholders Wednesday approved sale of Allied Laboratories of Kansas City to Dow Chemical Co. Dec. 30.

J. L. McKee, Allied president, announced the sale was favored by holders of 92.6 per cent of the stock and opposed by 2.6 per cent. He also announced a final dividend of 25 cents a share.

Kenneth F. Valentine, executive vice president, said the deal can result in greater accomplishments in medical research.

Valentine also is president of Allied's largest subsidiary, Pitman-Moore Co., Indianapolis pharmaceutical firm. Other Allied subsidiaries are Sioux Falls (S.D.) Laboratories and Campana Corp., Bostonia, Ill.

Spectator Off to Church Fire En Deshabille

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—The Rev. Kenneth B. McIntosh heard the fire engines and stepped onto his front lawn to see, to his dismay, a fire at the Lake Highlands Methodist Church where he is pastor.

Quickly, he rushed to the church, he said many others. The fire was in a large free-house beside the church, and not in the church itself.

The pastor stopped to chat with some of the spectators on the scene. One of the men, he said, was in a sports shirt and Bermuda shorts. Another man approached, wearing brief clothing. "I see you wore your Bermudas, too," he said jocularly. Aloudly, the newcomer looked down, then started running for the dark.

"Oh, my goodness," he exclaimed, "I forgot my pants."

Typhoon Ophelia Wrecks Hamlet on Pacific Atoll

TOKYO (AP)—The violent off-season typhoon Ophelia, carrying 161-mile center winds, battered Pacific atolls today and headed for the Philippines.

All buildings on the tiny U.S. administered Uthai atoll were reported destroyed, except for a concrete Coast Guard station.

Judge Forgets He's on Stand Instead of Bench

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Criminal District Judge Joe B. Brown was on the witness stand instead of behind the bench at a domestic relations trial, but forgot that he wasn't the judge in the case.

Judge Brown was testifying as a character witness when an attorney objected to a question directed to the judge.

"I sustain your objection on that," Brown said.

The embarrassed judge was upheld by presiding Judge R. H. Wright, who added a belated, "Sustained."

Arraign Zantop Brothers on Charge of Assault

DETROIT (U.P.)—The Zantop brothers, Howard and Duane, were arraigned in common pleas court Wednesday on charges of assaulting a Wayne County deputy sheriff.

The brothers are co-owners of the Zantop Hangar Service at Detroit Metropolitan Airport. They stood mute on the charge and were released on $100 bond for trial Dec. 12. Deputy Laurence W. Alcorn said the Zantops attacked him as he made a routine patrol of their firm's parking lot Nov. 12.

When the U. S. Military Academy opened in 1802 it had only 10 students.

Christian Ideals
Return to Reds*Eastern Europe People
Obstinate in Marking
Christmas Season

VIENNA (UPI)—In the last two years, Christmas in Communist East Europe has regained some of its former character as a sacred holiday of the Christian world.

After years of obstinate Communist attempts to turn this traditional holiday of "love and charity" into just another festive occasion, the Red regimes in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and other satellite countries had to realize the complete failure of their policy and became more and more tolerant.

Now the Czech, Hungarian and other East European peoples may celebrate Christmas with less limitations than a few years ago.

This is in line with the general policy of satellite leaders of making concessions which do not endanger the political aims of the Communist regimes.

During the Stalinist era the Communists systematically tried to deprive Christmas of its character as a Christian holiday. All Christmas bonuses were abolished and the second Christmas holiday was decreed a normal working day.

The word Christmas was replaced by the phrase "Festival of the Fir-Tree," and Father Christmas was referred to as Father Winter. It was risky not to use these new expressions in talking with Communists.

VERY FEW TREES

It was a part of the policy to avoid anything which would indicate that Christmas was coming and, of course, the supply of Christmas trees was far too small to meet the demand.

However, despite all Communist attempts, the East European peoples defiantly kept celebrating the festival of the Birth of Christ in private circles.

It was this firm attitude which caused a change of Communist policy.

Today the picture is quite different. There are enough Christmas trees and the supply of Christmas gifts is sufficient. Another question, however, is whether the East European worker can afford all the goods offered because, unlike his counterpart in West Europe, he still does not get any Christmas bonus.

During the weeks preceding the holiday streets in Budapest and Prague have a typical pre-Christmas look with all shops having special decorations.

This also is the time when there are enough tropical fruits like oranges, bananas and lemons on the market.

As in other Christian countries, Christmas in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Rumania is a family festival. The presents are placed under the Christmas tree, the center of the festivities.

After exchanging presents the family sings traditional Christmas carols. Then comes the Christmas dinner: Meat or, not infrequently, fish and cake.

France OKs Laws
Against Wine Bottle

PARIS (AP)—A sheaf of new laws aimed at wooing Frenchmen away from the wine bottle went into the books today.

Eight laws, drawn up by President Charles de Gaulle's government to fight alcoholism, provide for reducing the number of corner bistros, cutting advertising for alcoholic beverages, preventing buying of drinks on the cuff, and forbidding the sale of drink to persons under 14.

A study group also is set up for the job of convincing the citizenry that fruit and vegetable juices are more desirable than wine and related beverages.

The Cromwell current, discovered in 1954, moves 3,500 miles eastward near the equator from the Christmas Islands to the Galapagos Islands. It is 190 miles wide and 650 feet thick and sandwiched between westbound currents.

A BIRD'S EYE: — There will be added joy for the children on Christmas day if a parakeet is among their gifts.

A Parakeet Gives Years of Rapture

Santa Claus can't bring a gift that will give more joy to a little girl or boy than a colorful pet. A parakeet in a cage makes a particularly good gift since these amusing little creatures are hardy and have talents which can be developed by the youngster.

They are inexpensive to own, simple to care for and have a natural flair for entertaining that can keep the whole family amused.

If you really want to make a big, Bud's Cuber, executive director of French's Pet Bird Institute, suggests that you buy the bird in advance and teach it to say "Merry Christmas."

Then pick a pretty cage, top it with a sprig of holly and a red bow, and you have a gift that will bring joy and companionship long after the time and Christmas wrappings have been forgotten.

Parakeets will live from eight to 12 years with proper care. Every day fill the seed cup with conditioning food and refill the water cup. Then keep a parakeet cuttle bone and biscuit attached to the cage bars and a layer of gravel on the cage floor. And don't forget to pack in a supply of bird food. Not many stores are open on Christmas.

Kill Bid to Stretch Ohio Jobless Pay

COLUMBUS (UPI)—The Ohio legislature has killed an effort by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle to have the state's unemployment compensation law extended from 26 to 39 weeks.

The final act came Tuesday night when the House rejected both an emergency extension and a regular extension of the jobless pay law. The special session of the lame-duck legislature then adjourned.

DiSalle, a Democrat, went before a joint session of the Democratic-controlled legislature and made an impassioned plea for enactment of the temporary extension.

DiSalle had called the special session for the express purpose of considering extending the jobless pay benefits to aid those persons who have exhausted their regular benefits. He said passage of the temporary extension would give Ohio's economy a shot in the arm before Christmas.

However, the extension was bitterly opposed by business and industry as unnecessary. Spokesmen attacked it as a threat to the economic and business climate of Ohio.

Working Hard Prolongs Health, Expert Claims

NEW YORK (AP)—Want to stay healthy and happy in your old age?

Then keep working — "for the fun of it"—says an expert on the problem.

Dr. James Watt, director of the National Heart Institute and a special adviser to the government's Department of Health, Education and Welfare, spoke Tuesday at the dedication of a workshop for the elderly.

"For the first time, there is a whole generation of older people not for their daily bread but as a means of self-expression," he said.

"When we find ways of letting them keep working, we will have met the challenge of old age."

Chinese Bank Delays Foreclosure of Factory

HONG KONG (AP)—The Bank of (Communist) China, besieged by protesting workers, today postponed foreclosure sale of a factory in this British crown colony.

More than 200 workers and their wives and children sat silently on the floor of the room where the factory was to be auctioned. Another 100 slept in the street in front of the bank Tuesday night. The South China iron works was to have been sold to raise $750,000 owed the bank.

Presents Rough on Sugar Bowl Savings

This is the time of year that most money problems for most American families. We all love the "Christmas spirit," but sad to say, for many of us it means overexpending, throwing the budget to the wind, dipping into reserves, and straining our credit.

Then comes a cold, gray January day and with it a flood of bills, a flat pocketbook, beans for supper — and a vow that "next Christmas will be different."

Meanest blow of all is having no money to take advantage of those "save 50 per cent" after holiday sales — especially when the old coat is threadbare, and the living room really needs a new carpet.

It's not too late to make this Christmas merry — and still keep the family in good financial shape come January.

If you saved for this Christmas in a bank, credit union, savings and loan association or Christmas Club, you're in good shape. Only foolish spending can trip you up. If you did not put aside some cash for the holidays, now's the time to open a savings account for next year. But don't give up — planning and wise buying can still bring you out ahead in January. Here's how:

Decide first what you want out of the holidays. If you get a lot of satisfaction out of giving expensive presents to those you love, and if you think holiday entertaining in the grand style is what makes the Christmas season for you — and if you're willing and able to pay for it by foregoing other purchases for the next year — then go to it.

It's okay if you know what you're doing, and if you have the credit — and the income — to pay for it.

On the other hand, if you enjoy sentiment more than splash, and want to cut down on holiday expense, so you'll have money for those January sales, here are a few tips:

1. Make a list of all holiday items that cost money. Think of each holiday event. Keep the list handy and add to it when new items crop up. (That Christmas tip for the newborn; the last minute present for teacher; baby sister for New Year's Eve; here's a handy checklist to start off.)

Death Rate in 1959 Ran 9.4 Per 1,000

WASHINGTON (UP) — There were 1,656,814 deaths in this country during 1959, a death rate of 9.4 per 1,000 population, the Public Health Service reports.

The rate was practically the same as for 1958 but, was more than 1 per cent lower than the 1958 rate and about 2 per cent lower than for 1957.

The service explained that the higher rates for 1957 and 1958 resulted primarily from the influenza epidemic which had its chief impact on mortality in this country from October 1957 to April 1958. During 1959 only small localized flu outbreaks were reported.

During 1959 the death rates per thousand population were 10.3 for white males, or a total of 834,651 deaths; 7.9 for white females, or a total of 626,189; 11.3 for non-white males, or 108,437; and 8.5 for non-white females, a total of 87,537.

Long before the sixty-six trombones of Meredith Willson's "Music Man" marched onto the Broadway stage, a parade of Salvationists with their trumpets and drums had inspired Willson to compose another song. Not as well known as "Seventy-six Trombones," but equally stirring, is "Banners and Bonnets," a musical tribute to the Salvation Army.

Decorations — tree, lights, trimmings, "Snow" wreath or greens, bows, ribbons, candles.

Present — family, friends, office, teachers, neighbors, tradesmen.

Wrappings — paper, ties, seals, Scotch tape.

Mailings — wrapping paper, cord, labels, postage, insurance.

Entertaining — foods, beverages, nuts, candy, invitations, holiday tablecloths, flowers, and napkins, punch bowls, cups, rentals of chairs, dishes.

Holiday clothes

Cosmetics

Beauty shop—your holiday hairdo

Taxis

Holiday telegrams and phone calls

Try to estimate realistically how much you'll spend for each item. Add it up. You'll get a nasty shock. When you revive, start weeding out items you just can't afford, or things that are not very important to you.

2. Now make your gift list. Beside each name, list gift ideas. Be sure to include alternate suggestions, in case you can't find the "right" item. Otherwise you're tempted to spend more than you budgeted.

3. Shopping early costs less. You not only avoid crowds, and save time, but you have a better chance of finding the items you want at the price you can pay. If you wait till the last minute, you usually end up buying more expensive gifts, because the early birds carried away the bargains.

4. Fewer shopping trips save money. Taking the car downtown costs money — and many people also forget parking lot charges, taxi fare, lunch downtown and meter tickets. So go over your lists again and plan to get all the items you can in one store, or two. Some folks save by buying the same item in quantity for all their friends. This is a nice idea if you can find a really useful, or unusual item at a real bargain price.

5. If you mail presents, you'll save a lot in wrapping and shipping costs if you stick to lightweight and small items. (Give that 4-ft. china lamp you just can't resist to your sister right in town.)

6. Don't get "carried away" with the wrong kind of holiday spirit: buying more a new TV set when a housecoat is what you can afford.

Mutual Network to Give Jack Jr. Tape for Birthday

NEW YORK (UP)—The Mutual Broadcasting System said it is preparing a special birthday gift for John F. Kennedy Jr., the newborn son of the president-elect.

The gift will be a tape-recording of "The World of Today" program on the evening of Friday, Nov. 25, dealing with the baby's birth. The tape will be on a gilded reel, with an engraved plate reading: "This is your birth, John Fitzgerald Kennedy Jr., Nov. 25, 1960."

College Crush Means High-Living Coed

CHICAGO (UPI) — College students are living high these days. Take 678 coeds at the University of Wisconsin, for example. They've moved into a new, 11 story residence hall. Pennsylvania State University, among others, also is building tall dorms.

The editors of College and University Business, a trade publication, report that more and more college students will be living in high-rise buildings as enrollments increase and available campus space decreases.

lord. She doesn't want you to go in hock for her present. If, in your house, you've agreed on a "family present" such as a new dishwasher, don't break down and also buy a full set of other gifts just "to have something to put under the tree."

The sentiment's fine — but express it with little remembrances that are clever, rather than costly. "Just for fun" dimestore items, gaily wrapped will give dad more enjoyment than worrying about paying for his present.

7. Buy for cash. If you possibly can. That's always best, and costs less. Stores that offer no interest charge account service have to include the cost in their prices. So you usually, but not always, can save at a "cash only" store.

8. If you buy on credit, know what it costs you. You should shop for your "best buy" in credit just as you would for anything else. Here are a few common sources of holiday credit and their costs:

Today, most department stores use revolving charge accounts, and the usual charge (if you shop your whole bill in 30 days) is 1½ per cent per month on the unpaid balance. A few charge less, some more. If the charge is not stated, ask. This is a handy way to do Christmas buying, but remember, 1½ per cent per month is 18 per cent per annum, if you keep a balance due all year long — and many people do.

If you have to borrow from a small loan company, you'll probably pay 3 per cent per month, or 36 per cent per annum on small loans. Better go to your credit union, if you belong to one, where you will get a loan, often on your signature alone, for 1 per cent per month, or 12 per cent per annum. Most credit unions provide credit life insurance at no extra cost, too.

9. Use these money savers, that still have the Christmas spirit:

Homemade gifts are the most treasured, and they usually cost the least. Homemade candy, fruitcakes, cookies are traditional. But look for unusual containers to dress them up. A coffee can, wrapped with Christmas paper, or lavishly painted by your children, for instance. Save the nice plastic boxes many products come in, for Christmas treats. An oatmeal box covered with fancy paper or foil makes a handsome wrap.

Don't try to compete with money. Instead, look for the unusual gift. No point in sending your rich uncle another tie — instead, surprise him with a bowl of goldfish — or even a kite — or a new gadget from the hardware department.

Give your time effort, talent. A thoughtful card with a handwritten note, and a snapshot of your family, or an "IOU" for babysitting for a busy young mother: a promise of walk-shopping for the widow across the street; a room painted for your favorite aunt — or even a small treasure in your house that a loved one has admired. Write your favorite recipes on cards — tie them up with a sprig of holly for a wonderful gift to your new sister-in-law.

Whatever you spend for the holiday — buy with your heart — and your head — and not just to impress others. Remember the other 12 months of the year, and save enough for those good time needs.

And have a good time at the January sales!

fruitcakes, cookies are traditional. But look for unusual containers to dress them up. A coffee can, wrapped with Christmas paper, or lavishly painted by your children, for instance. Save the nice plastic boxes many products come in, for Christmas treats. An oatmeal box covered with fancy paper or foil makes a handsome wrap.

Don't try to compete with money. Instead, look for the unusual gift. No point in sending your rich uncle another tie — instead, surprise him with a bowl of goldfish — or even a kite — or a new gadget from the hardware department.

Give your time effort, talent. A thoughtful card with a handwritten note, and a snapshot of your family, or an "IOU" for babysitting for a busy young mother: a promise of walk-shopping for the widow across the street; a room painted for your favorite aunt — or even a small treasure in your house that a loved one has admired. Write your favorite recipes on cards — tie them up with a sprig of holly for a wonderful gift to your new sister-in-law.

Whatever you spend for the holiday — buy with your heart — and your head — and not just to impress others. Remember the other 12 months of the year, and save enough for those good time needs.

Race Trouble Costs Rhodesia Money

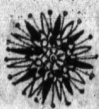

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (UPI) — The recent racial disturbances in Southern Rhodesia have cost the colony millions of pounds in the tourist trade, according to J. W. Brinsley, director of the Salisbury and District Publicity Association.

Brinsley said that in August of last year nearly 3,000 tourists visited his bureau. "Following the July rioting this year, the August figure was only 1,000. In September last year we had 2,827 visitors, but this year the September figure is only 1,000."

As Salvation Army bands pass through the main street of cities or along the cobble alleys of slums, they carry a message of joy in their stirring marches, or of hope in the words of the familiar hymns.

GOOD FOOD—Double peanut drops and jiffy fruitcake squares are easy-to-make Christmas gifts. They'll stay fresh for weeks.

Tasty Cookies Are a Joy to All

Double Peanut Drops, Jiffy Fruitcake Squares Richly Flavorful

There's nothing more heart-warming than a gift of home-made goodies at Christmas time. Two of the most delicious and easiest to make in large quantities are crisp Double Peanut Drops and no-bake Jiffy Fruitcake Squares. Because of the rich flavor of peanut butter, these two very different cookies appeal to all ages. Here's how to make them.

DOUBLE PEANUT DROPS
One-quarter cup peanut butter, 1/3 cup butter or other shortening, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2/3 cup crushed peanut brittle, 1 cup sifted flour.

Cream peanut butter with shortening. Beat sugar to gradually. Add vanilla and peanut brittle. Gradually stir in flour. (Mixture will be crumbly.)

Measure heaping teaspoons and, with fingers, shape into round flat cookies. Bake in 325 degrees F. oven for 15 minutes. Makes 45 cookies.

JIFFY FRUITCAKE
Fifteen oz. raisins, 1 lb. pitted dates, 1/2 cup crunchy peanut butter, 2 lbs. mixed dried candied fruit.

Grind raisins and dates together. Add peanut butter and mix thoroughly. Add candied fruit and mix well. Line two 8x4x3 inch pans with wax paper and press half of mixture into each. Chill in refrigerator 36 hours before cutting into squares. Makes 80 pieces. Fruitcake can be stored in refrigerator for several months.

She'd Exchange Unborn Baby for Warm Apartment

LONDON (UPI)—A mother, has pledged her unborn child in exchange for an apartment.

Mrs. Gladys Bowler placed this advertisement in a local shop window: "Wanted—A flat in exchange for my baby."

The child is expected in March.

Mrs. Bowler and her 44-year-old disabled ex-soldier husband, Frederick, have to leave their windowless basement apartment by Saturday.

"I must find a home," she said, "but no one will have us."

She said she and her husband discussed the baby-for-a-flat deal while her three children were at school.

"For their sakes," she said, "we decided to give our unborn baby away in exchange for a flat."

She added: "With the baby will go all the clothes I have knitted, and toys as well."

Live Polio Vaccine Delay to Continue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Drug industry sources said Wednesday it is unlikely that live polio virus vaccine will be available in any substantial quantity in time for next summer's polio season.

Spokesmen for Lederle Laboratories of Pearl River, N.Y., told a reporter their company does not expect to be able to start full-scale production "until the fall or winter of 1961, and we don't know of any other company that is ahead of us."

They said this outlook is based on such things as the fact that the U.S. Public Health Service has set rigid standards for testing the vaccine preliminary to any licensing.

Also they said the preparation of a live polio vaccine calls for technical steps not needed in preparing the Salk vaccine which is made of killed virus.

They denied complaints by such people as Dr. Albert Sabin of Cincinnati, one of the developers of live polio vaccine, "that industry is dragging its feet" on the product.

Push Humphrey for Floor Post

He'd Be Successor to Mansfield, Who'll Take Post as Senate Leader

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Key Senate Democrats were reported in agreement today on the choice of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota for the post of assistant floor leader.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, who is the assistant leader now, is scheduled to become Senate Democratic leader when Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas moves into the vice presidency.

Sen. George Smathers of Florida was reported the probable choice for secretary of the Democratic conference, No. 3 in the line of Senate Democratic leaders. The post has been vacant since the death this fall of Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. of Missouri.

Both Humphrey and Smathers were understood to have the approval of President-elect John F. Kennedy and Johnson for the leadership jobs.

Humphrey, one of the chief spokesmen for the liberal wing of the Democratic party, won reelection to a third six-year Senate term on Nov. 8 and helped to carry his state for Kennedy.

When he took his Senate seat in 1949, Humphrey was regarded as a bogymon by Southern Democrats for his success in leading a drive to toughen the civil rights plank of the 1948 party platform. He has since made his peace with most Southern senators, although he is still viewed with suspicion and hostility by state Democratic leaders in the South.

All three of the Democratic leadership jobs are filled through election by the conference of all Democratic senators, to be held early next year.

'U.S. Contradicts With Desires on Cars'—Cole

EAST LANSING (U)—The American public has a contradictory attitude as to what it wants in autos, according to E. N. Cole, general manager of Chevrolet.

Cole, in a speech at the Michigan State University business school Wednesday said what car buyers would really like would be "interiors of austere mink."

"They want the greatest economy without sacrificing the ability to get away from the stop light fast. They want a smaller car—but with enough room to transport a family cross country."

He said that in his own General Motors Corp. division more than 30 per cent of the orders for his compact car, the Corvair, were for the luxury Monza series.

Lumumba Search Continues in Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI)—Congolese army troops and police today pressed the hunt for Patrice Lumumba in spite of Moscow's claim that the deposed pro-Soviet premier had made good his escape.

A Moscow radio broadcast said Lumumba had eluded his pursuers and was continuing his journey eastward through "friendly territory."

The home service broadcast gave no source for its report nor did it give any specific details. The report was discounted by official sources here. According to the latest reports from these most Southern sources, the elusive Lumumba was believed heading toward Port Francqui in Kasai Province, about 360 miles east of Leopoldville.

Believe Red Summit Over After Report of 'Warm, Friendly' Chat

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev had a "warm and friendly" talk with top-ranking Communist Chinese leaders, the Soviet news agency Tass reported today, and there were indications that an extraordinarily long Red summit meeting has ended.

The agency said Khrushchev, along with top Soviet theoretician Mikhail Suslov and the premier's right-hand man in the Communist party leadership, Frol Kozlov, met with the visiting Chinese.

It was the first public mention of Liu Shao-chi, president of Red China, since the press reported his presence on the reviewing stand at the Nov.-7 revolution anniversary parade. It also was the first mention of the presence in Moscow of Hsiao Ping, general secretary of the Chinese Communist Central Committee, and Peng Cheng, powerful member of the Red Chinese Politburo. Both sat in on the talks with the Soviet leaders.

OVER 30 DAYS For more than 20 days, international Communists have been meeting in Moscow, and the indications have been that the discussions included exchange of tough talk on matters of Communist party theory, tactics and strategy. The Chinese are believed to object to the general line of Khrushchev's foreign policy, that is key to the theme that nuclear war can be avoided.

Tass announced that the Polish Communist delegation, headed by Wladyslaw Gomulka, had left for home. That was a strong sign that the talks had ended, since Gomulka is believed to be a sort of arbiter between Peking and Moscow.

British Ford Stock Falls $22.4 Million

LONDON (AP)—British Ford shares tumbled by $22.4 million in the London market today after reports of Washington intervention in the plan for the parent motor car firm in Detroit to take over the subsidiary.

Denials from Detroit of such intervention restored some confidence and more than half the loss was recovered in late morning trading.

The conflicting reports shot the Ford issues into hectic controversy on the exchange, however, and had an unsettling effect on the market as a whole.

Ford stock had been sensitive ever since the U.S. Ford, which held 55 per cent of British Ford, offered to buy the remainder.

The British Treasury approved it. Fortunes were made and lost in feverish trading.

Tax Bills to Be Mailed on Dec. 9

The Pontiac treasurer's office is readying 30,000 county tax bills scheduled to go into the mails Dec. 9.

The billings, based on a total $1.44 tax for every $1,000 of assessed valuation, amount to $2,081,831, said Walter A. Giddings, city treasurer. Of this, $140,566 represents the collection on a half-mill (50 cents) for special education.

The county millage is 6.94 mills, or $6.94 on every $1,000 of assessed valuation.

County taxes are payable, said Giddings, Dec. 12 through Jan. 20. After Jan. 20, a four per cent penalty will be charged, he said.

Bills not paid by Feb. 28 will be returned to the county for collection, said Giddings.

The treasurer said that 95.8 per cent of the billings for city and school taxes has been paid. This represents $110,150,000, said Giddings. The billings were sent out in July.

3 Feet of Snow Hits Lake County Area

By The Associated Press
Lake County residents were digging out today from a freak snowfall that dumped 30 to 35 inches in the Baldwin area of Western Michigan.

The cold snap continued throughout the state today, with early morning thaws giving temperatures in the teens and lower 20s. Snow also covered the ground over the state, but most places were well left in comparison to the Lake County inundation.

Sheriff Jesse MacDougall said Lake County's secondary roads were still largely blocked by the huge snowfall, but highway maintenance men had managed to clear trunk lines and restore some traffic flow.

MacDougall said the snow fell in a 24-hour period ending late Wednesday afternoon and tied up traffic in an area roughly 15 to 20 miles in all directions from Baldwin, the county seat.

Elsewhere in the state, Marquette was digging out from an accumulation of six inches of snow and Pellston reported four inches remained on the ground there.

Long-Ago Family Remembered in Broadway Play

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway takes another touching excursion into long-ago family life in "All the Way Home."

The play, which opened Wednesday night at the Belasco Theater, is based upon James Agee's Pulitzer Prize novel, "A Death in the Family." Fragile in mood, slender in event, it is performed with towering power.

The spectator immediately thinks of "Look Homeward, Angel" and "The Glass Menagerie" in seeking comparison for this account of remembrance of a boy's family. Like them, the emotions evoked are universal and timeless.

"All the Way Home," adapted to the stage by TV writer Tad Moser, concerns four days in the Knoxville, Tenn., of 1915. A lad finds in that span happiness, tragedy and a sudden emergence. The role is enacted by John Megna, a 9-year-old acting marvel. The performance which director Arthur Penn wins from him is unforgettable.

Lack Solid Clues in Detroit Bombing

DETROIT (AP)—Police said they had no solid clues today in the bombing of a Detroit labor leader's home but theorized it was meant more to frighten than to harm.

Marvin Lane, chief of detectives, said "if his enemies had wanted to harm him they would have waited for him to come home or they could have put a bomb in his car."

Marion A. MacInnes, president of the Detroit Building Trades Council and business manager of Sheet Metal Workers Local 861, was at a meeting Tuesday night when the dynamite bomb exploded at the rear of his home.

The blast tore a gaping hole in the $30,000 home, causing an estimated $6,000 damage, but did no harm to MacInnes's wife Irene or daughters Kathy, 8, and Cecilia, 10, who were upstairs at the time.

MacInnes was unable to give police any reason for the bombing or to suggest a suspect.

Red China, Tunisia Sign Second Trade Agreement

RABAT, Morocco (UPI)—Communist China and Tunisia signed a second trade agreement Wednesday at a formal ceremony here.

Tunisian ambassador to Morocco

Fathi Zouhir and Peiping ambassador Pao Jen signed the treaty for their respective countries.

The agreement, reached in Rabat because there is no Red Chinese diplomatic representative in Tunisia, called for an increase in trade between the two countries over the original 1958 treaty amounting to about $5 million.

But Housewives Will Fight It

Cold-Water Dishwashing Hot Prospect

ANN ARBOR 10—Washing dishes in cold water looks like a hot prospect for kitchens of the future.

Improved detergents, with built-in sanitizers, have made the cold water method faster, cheaper and more sanitary.

This is the finding of University of Michigan School of Public Health researchers who are trying to make the hum-drum dishwashing chore as safe and effective as possible in the home and public eating establishments.

Edward H. Armbruster, a U. of M. researcher who heads a project under a three-year U.S. Public Health Service grant, says the cold water dishwashing process now can be safely used. Most restaurants in the country should be using the new method by 1964, he says.

"It could be in use in most homes by 1970, but talking housewives into doing dishes in cold water isn't going to be easy," he said.

"It took 10 years to convince them not to use too many suds while washing clothes. It'll probably take another 20 years to get them to accept this idea."

Armbruster says the chief drawback of hot water, besides its higher cost, is that a sufficient supply can't always be relied upon to insure bacteria-kill.

Use of very hot or scalding water also presents a possible safety hazard to children in the home, he said.

Much of the public health school's work in this area has been aimed at developing better machine dishwashers and cleaning agents suited to their use.

Cold water glass-washing machines, which use brushes working on all surfaces of the glass instead of a spray-type action, are being field tested in bars, drug stores and restaurants in many sections of the country.

Another dishwashing machine has been developed which can handle dishes still holding leftover food. While the uneaten food is sloughed off and discarded, mechanical brushes go to work cleaning the dishes.

After a few seconds, the dishes are brushed again, this time in an iodine sanitizer, rinsed and then mechanically stacked and dried in trays.

"This process removes 99.99 per cent of the dirt and at roughly 50 cents per thousand dishes," he said. "And the dishwasher operates on less than half the price needed to run a hot water machine."

USE GEIGER COUNTER

To put the cold-water type machines through their scientific

paces, a specially-designed Geiger-counter measures radioactive films of grease which are applied to dishes in the lab before washing. By comparing the count before and after washing, cleanliness can be measured with a high degree of accuracy.

Before the National Sanitation Association conference in San Francisco July 18, Armbruster will display a radically new method of checking invisible dirt on dishes used in restaurants and hotels.

The process involves dusting a plate with a special mixture of tale and dye, then holding it under running tap water. All grease, starch and protein stains immediately will turn a bright red, while the clean portions of the plate wash clean.

Older sanitation methods took about 48 hours to complete. Armbruster's dusting method gives inspectors immediate results by slashing the total time to less than 48 seconds.

When Armbruster, who has spent the past 11 years researching dishwashing methods, was asked how often he does the dishes at home, he said:

"I've been lucky. Got caught only twice in the last year."

Iron Range Workers Told Layoff Coming

ISHPEMING (UPI)—Officials of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. which employs about 2,600 persons in eight mines on the Marquette iron range, has told its employees to expect a "severe curtailment" of employment.

The employees received letters from the firm telling them the cutback would be put into effect on Jan. 1 due to current business conditions and an "extremely discouraging" outlook for next year. The letters did not say how many men would be laid off.

The letters said imports of foreign ore had contributed to the situation.

SHE'S A SHARPSHOOTER—Mrs. H. V. Winford, 67, whipped out her ancient pistol and shot two men, one fatally, Tuesday, after she said they broke into her house in Memphis, Tenn., and pistol-whipped her husband in a robbery attempt. With her is her 68-year-old husband who told police the men tried to rob him of his car keys and money. The dead man is Billy Lee, 20, wanted in Mississippi for stealing an automobile, two pistols and four boxes of ammunition from his employer Monday night. Despite his wound the other man escaped but was captured by police shortly afterward.

Folks Who Are 'Old' Have Remedy for the Cold

GIN RUMMY SESSION — Many husbands and wives enjoy activities of the Golden Age Club and these two couples take their card-playing very seriously. President of the group, Mrs. Mary MacFarland, is telling Mrs. Henry Becker to "save her ace" as (from left) Mrs. George Dietrick, George Dietrick and Henry Becker line up other plays of the game.

SOMEBODY GOOFED — By the expression on Mrs. William Cheyne's face her partner must have renegeed on a bridge play yesterday as people in the Golden Age Club gathered for an afternoon of fun. Cecil Weber is curious as to which card his wife will play, and it looks like a golden opportunity to pick up a few tricks.

Drop-In Day for 'Past 60s' Warms Waterford Center

By REBA HEINTZELMAN
Although the weather outside was stormy yesterday afternoon, the atmosphere inside the big Community Center in Waterford Township was anything but cold.

More than 40 men and women "past 60" loved the place with spirited shuffle games, highly competitive pin pong and rousing rounds of ping pong.

They came from Clarkston, Rochester, Lake Orion and others areas to be together for the first Wednesday afternoon "Drop-In Day."

Members of the Waterford Golden Age group, eyeing the long, cold winter decided to have an afternoon session each week in addition to their gathering every other Friday night.

GATHERING OFFICERS
So club President Mrs. Mary MacFarland got her officers together, including Vice President

Cecil Weber, Secretary Mrs. Norris Craig, and Treasurer William Cheyne, and they mapped a program designed strictly for good sports.

Sponsored by the Waterford Township Recreation Board, the Golden Age group now boasts a membership of almost 100. Mrs. MacFarland said she will furnish further information to those interested.

Promptly at 1 p.m. yesterday, cars of every description began pouring into the center's spacious parking lot.

Despite their age, very few of the retired people had to be assisted from automobiles, and most of them drove their own vehicles.

Port Mary MacFarland, bearded with a brand new corsage, greeted the guests at the door with a cheery, "Come on in out of the cold and let's get going."

At first it was a little quiet in the big main floor dining hall, but it wasn't long before the clatter of 32 shuffleboard pucks filled the air.

NO INTRODUCTIONS
People didn't have to be introduced to each other in this game. But when Edwin Golt yelled to his partner at the other end of the court to "sock this one, right here," the party really began to swing into action.

As intense games of bridge, 500, hearts and even black-jack progressed — so did the conversation. Throughout the afternoon, friendly arguments on points, plays and rules could be heard from people who only hours before had been strangers.

Most elders believe that names are a waste of time and that association and good companionship are the real things. Age was forgotten at the ping pong table as William Cheyne and Mrs. Ray Onkrich slapped the elusive ball back and forth.

This is not one of the quiet games and the two seemed to have more fun than anybody. Outside was what looked like a mid-February blizzard, as high winds whipped the area's first real snow flakes around.

The people inside couldn't care less as they continued individual activities with enthusiasm.

At 3 p.m. homemade Christmas cookies were piled high on a table at one end of the room. And there was coffee, tea and milk.

Later, when all had left the building and Mary MacFarland and her crew were cleaning up, she said: "I only wish more people knew how much fun we golden agers have. There'd be a lot less moaning about hating to face old age. We love it."

Studio Defends Self Against TV's Garner

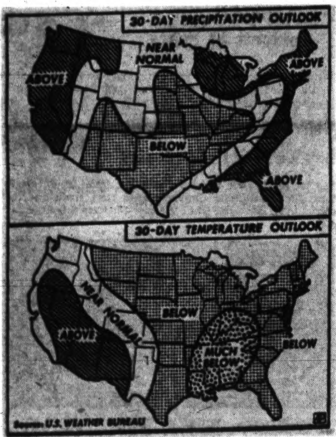

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The president of Warner Bros. studio says he personally decided to suspend actor James Garner, of television's "Maverick" series, during a writers' strike.

Jack Warner testified Wednesday he did so after learning there were no available scripts for the series starring Garner.

Warner Bros. is suing to force the actor to resume work under his $1,750-a-week contract. Garner contends the studio broke the contract with the two-month suspension. He asks $341,000 damages.

Rail Firms Also Eye Sandusky

Wabash-May Join Merger of N&W and Nickel Plate

NEW YORK (AP) — The proposed merger at the termination of the merger of the Norfolk & Western Railway and the Nickel Plate Road may be expanded to bring in the Wabash Railroad.

The N&W and Nickel Plate also said Wednesday they would purchase the Sandusky line of the Pennsylvania Railroad as a connecting link between their railroads. This line is in Ohio.

The plans have been agreed upon by the boards of directors of all roads involved. Stuart T. Saunders, president of the N&W, said.

If the proposal goes through, the N&W will become a system of more than 7,400 miles of road and combined assets of about $1.7 billion.

Saunders said the N&W will pay $27 million cash for the Sandusky line, which runs 111 miles from Columbus to Sandusky. The purchase includes three coal piers on Lake Erie and supporting yards at Sandusky.

Under the plan, the Wabash would be leased by the N&W for 30 years. Wabash would have an option to exchange at any time after six years all its common stock ($4.1M shares) for $15,000 shares of N&W stock. This exchange would be man-

Cuba Seemingly Two Press Films Warn Kids Against Molesters

So Mao's Reds Boost Castrolike Revolutions for Latin America

TOKYO (AP) — Fidel Castro's fiery economic envoy, Ernesto Guevara may have lined up Cuba beside Communist China in Peking's ideological dispute with the Soviet Union.

And, as though in gratitude, the Chinese have given their blessing to the spread of Castro-type revolutions in other parts of Latin America.

These points emerged from a joint communique signed Wednesday by Guevara and Chinese Finance Minister Li Hsien-nien in Peking in which the Chinese extended Cuba an interest-free loan of 200 million rubles ($80 million by Communist reckoning), and promised to buy a million tons of Cuban sugar in 1961.

Guevara, who came to Peking after visiting Moscow, left today for North Korea after signing the communique which was studied with Marxist references to the "correct" leadership of Castro and Mao Tse-tung.

It glowed with mutual praise and approbation, called the United States "the common enemy" of both nations and promised each other undying support.

Two newly released films intended to forewarn children against molesters have been made available for showing in Pontiac and other Oakland County schools by The Pontiac Press.

Sheriff Frank Irwin, who previewed the films yesterday, said: "These are the first motion pictures of their type that can be shown in elementary schools without danger of making any unfavorable impression on the minds of young viewers."

"I am sure that the films will impress our children with the need to be on guard against molesters without arousing fear or curiosity."

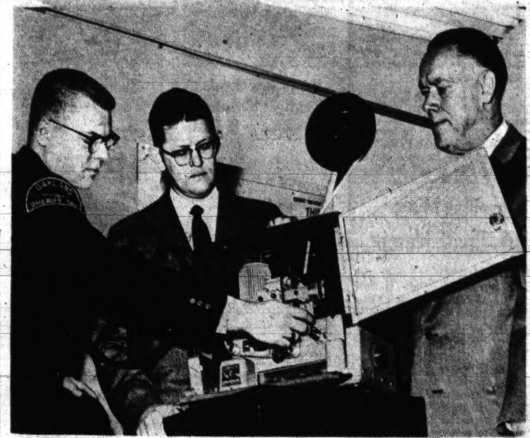

The films, sponsored here by The Press, will be shown in area schools by the sheriff's department.

It is expected to take two years to present the movies before children in all of the county's some 360 schools. They will be shown to youngsters in kindergarten through junior high school starting next week.

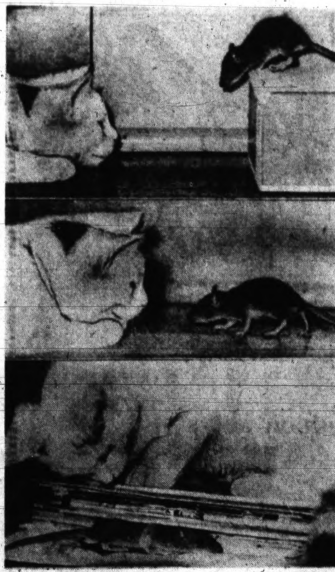

The films, titled "The Dangerous Stranger" and "Strangers," are in color with sound tracks dubbed in.

The first dramatizes places and circumstances under which a child is apt to encounter "dangerous strangers."

By demonstrating that "stupid"

A WARNING TO CHILDREN — Combined efforts of the Sheriff's Department and The Pontiac Press make two of the latest films warning children against possible molesters available for showing in Pontiac and throughout Oakland County. The films are deemed excellent since they make children aware of danger signs without unduly alarming them. Preparing the film for viewing here are (from left) Sgt. Donald Krafft of the sheriff's department; Howard H. Fitzgerald II, vice president and business manager of The Press; and Sheriff Frank Irwin.

CAT AND MOUSE GAME — A pet house cat named Arrowhead and a wild but friendly field mouse are shown playing at what has become a daily game at the Leslie-Kreider home in Elizabethtown, Pa. At the top the two animals eye each other at a distance. In the center they get a closer look at each other and on the bottom they scan a magazine rack.

New Tax Ruling Affects Clubs

If Money Is Made by Renting Facilities, the Unit Loses Exemption

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many of the nation's country clubs will have to change their policies — and some may be forced out of business — because of a new federal tax ruling.

If you belong to a country club, the result may be an increase in the dues you pay.

If you're not a club member, but belong to some other group that occasionally uses club facilities, you may find that your group no longer is welcome.

In essence, the Internal Revenue Service has held that a nonprofit social club may lose its exemption from federal taxes if a regular part of its revenue comes from the general public. However, the ruling leaves a loophole and does not prohibit all outside income.

Quite a number of clubs have been able to increase their income by renting out their facilities for private banquets, wedding receptions, dances, meetings and golf tournaments. As a result, they have been able to avoid increasing membership dues.

With IRS now frowning on this practice, many clubs will have to raise their dues, some to the point where they may have to turn down because members are unwilling to pay.

Some other clubs may voluntarily surrender their tax exempt status in order to continue drawing substantial income from outside sources.

The IRS ruling was issued Oct. 10, but has received little public attention. In addition to tax-exempt country clubs, it affects all types of tax-exempt clubs "operated exclusively for pleasure, recreation and other non-profit purposes." This includes yacht clubs, tennis clubs, in-town social clubs, and many others.

Urge Uniformity for School Elections

LANSING (AP)—Uniform dates and procedures should be set up for school elections, members of a special legislative committee have agreed.

The committee met here Tuesday with members of the State Department of Public Instruction and Elections Division, Rep. Russell H. Strange Jr., R-Clare, committee chairman, said main recommendations for school election legislation included:

1. — A uniform election date on the second Monday in June with school board members taking office July 1 in primary and fourth class districts.

2. — Schools to be allowed by mutual consent to use township registration records.

3. — A specification that the ballot applications should spell out qualifications of school election candidates.

4. — The setting up of "reasonable" periods between bond elections, probably three months.

5. — Spelling out the question of registration closing 30 days before the school election, making all registration periods the same.

Macmillan Mulls U.S.-British Merger

LONDON (UPI)—The Daily Mail said Wednesday Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was merely "thinking aloud" about events 10 years or more in the future when he spoke recently of a U.S.-British merger.

The newspaper speculated that what the prime minister has in mind is some sort of an Atlantic union of nations in which the English-speaking countries would be senior partners.

The Sunday Express and the Sunday Dispatch expressed indignation over the idea of an Anglo-American merger, and laborite M. P. Arthur Lewis will ask in parliament Thursday whether Macmillan has discussed the idea with U.S. officials.

State Workers: Beware of Gifts

Civil Service Unit Has Caution for 31,000 on Christmas Influence

LANSING (AP)—State workers are warned to watch it when it comes to accepting Christmas gifts.

The State Civil Service Commission sent a letter covering the policy on Christmas gifts to 92 agencies employing some 31,000 state workers.

No state employee should accept loans or gifts of money or goods that might influence the manner in which he performs his work, the memo said.

A violation could lead to suspension or removal, it was warned. Franklin K. DeWald, state civil service director, said the commission knew of no case of improperly accepting gifts.

"On the other hand," DeWald said, "we are aware that in public as well as private employment the acceptance of gifts by employees in connection with their work is a continuing problem."

Ban Foreign Liquors From Overseas PXs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department today ordered U.S. military exchanges overseas to stop buying Scotch, Canadian and other foreign liquors.

It indicated, however, that it might permit the continued sale of foreign alcoholic beverages in officers' and noncommissioned officers' clubs at home and abroad "for consumption on the premises."

Foreign beverages have traditionally been bought by U.S. military stores abroad for sale at low, tax-free prices to servicemen and other eligible persons.

They became a casualty, effective today, of President Eisenhower's program for slowing down the flow of dollars to foreign countries.

Traffic Injuries Fatal

MUSKEGON (AP)—An autopsy disclosed Wednesday that Mrs. Joseph McDonald, 73, of Muskegon, died Tuesday of injuries suffered in a two-car collision Saturday night.

1962 Auto Show to Be at Cobo Hall

DETROIT (AP)—The board of directors of the Automobile Manufacturers Association voted Wednesday to hold the next national auto show in Detroit's Cobo Hall in 1962.

The 1960 show here drew a record attendance of 1.5 million during an eight-day run in October. All previous national shows had been held in New York City. Date of the 1962 show is to be set later.

Deaths in Pontiac, Neighboring Areas

MRS. CHARLES O. GRIMM—Mrs. Charles O. (Edith M.) Grimm, 57, of 2802 Lansdowne Drive, Waterford Township, died early this morning at her home after a long illness.

She was a member of the Church of Christ Scientist and the Order of Eastern Star, Clarkson.

Surviving are her husband; three sons, Charles J. and John F., both of Drayton Plains, and Arthur J. of Royal Oak; five grandchildren; three brothers and two sisters.

Service will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at Sparks-Griffin Chapel with burial in Oak View Cemetery, Royal Oak.

NELSON SINGLETON—Service for Nelson Singleton, 66, of 142 W. Rutgers St., will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the Voohees-Siple Chapel with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery.

A retired guard at Community National Bank, he leaves his wife, Ula, two daughters, Mrs. Robert Vance of Pontiac and Mrs. Donald Davis of Owosso; two sons, Wayne of Kenosha, Wis., and Dennis of Pontiac; eight grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Edith Wilkison of Pontiac and Mrs. Myrtle Evans of Paxio, Mo.; and two brothers, W. S. Spangler of Pontiac and Grant in Missouri.

Mr. Singleton suffered a heart attack and was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital early yesterday.

FLOYD M. TAYLOR—Service for former Pontiac resident Floyd M. Taylor will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Pursey Funeral Home. His body will be taken to East Lawn Cemetery, Lake Orion, for burial.

Jack Will Retain Post at Harvard University

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy plans to continue as a member of the 30-man Harvard University Board of Overseers after he moves into the White House, it was reported today. The Washington Post and Times Herald said Kennedy had told his fellow overseers that he would keep his post on the board. His term expires in 1963.

High Bidder Will Get Some Peculiar Items

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — The Alabama Revenue Department said it will auction off to the highest bidder Dec. 8 the following items, which were confiscated for lack of state tax stamps:

167 decks of playing cards, 62 packs of cigarettes, 33 plugs of chewing tobacco and 50 cans of snuff.

Can't Stand to Get Wet

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI) — A 65-year-old woman walked into an automatic laundry nude Wednesday and tried to take a "bath" in a clothes dryer.

Police arrested her on a drug charge, but they couldn't resist asking why she chose a dryer instead of a washing machine. "I didn't want to get wet," she replied.

Big Bully of a Bust

DENVER (UPI) — Frank Romero, 30, sued Denver Tramway Corp. yesterday for $10,000, claiming the driver ran over his foot as he ran to catch a bus.

Steelworkers Get Pay Hike

Basic Employee Raise Doesn't Bring Word of Industry Price Boost

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Basic steelworkers got a pay raise today, the first of two under their current contract. This meant higher payroll costs for steel producers. But, as expected, there was no word of any impending price increases.

Spokesmen for U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's biggest steel producer, and Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., the fourth largest, said they expected no announcements of any kind today on prices. They declined further comment.

About 545,000 United Steelworkers members became eligible for wage boosts ranging from 7 to 13 cents an hour, depending on job classification.

However, a union-estimated 80,000 of these did not benefit immediately because they were unemployed.

The basic steel industry currently is operating below 50 per cent of capacity, and no significant pickup is expected in the next few months.

For this reason, industry sources believe steel prices will remain steady in the immediate future. A price boost at this time, these sources think, would only tend to aggravate market weaknesses and undermine steel's competitive position.

Production and maintenance workers received wage boosts under terms of last January's 30-month contract agreement that followed a 116-day strike. Pay raises of 7 to 10 cents an hour go into effect next Oct. 1.

Basic hourly rates in the industry now range from $2.20 to $4.27.

Grechko Acting Red Defense Minister

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio disclosed offhandedly today that Marshal Andrei Grechko was acting as Soviet defense minister.

The broadcast gave no explanation of the whereabouts of Defense Minister Rodion Malinovsky. Grechko is Malinovsky's deputy.

The broadcast reported talks between Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer of the United Arab Republic and Soviet military leaders and said Grechko participated as "acting U.S.S.R. minister of defense."

Malinovsky, a bulky battle veteran, was a subject of Western speculation during the Paris summit conference in May. He followed Soviet Premier Khrushchev around like a shadow, prompting the feeling that political forces in Moscow had ordered Malinovsky to keep an eye on the premier and make sure Khrushchev did nothing that had not been approved in advance at the Kremlin.

Malinovsky was last in the public eye Nov. 7, when he addressed a giant parade in Moscow's Red Square on the 43rd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Dead Horse on Highway Causes Fatal Accident

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—A horse on a highway caused two accidents, and one death here Wednesday night.

A car driven by Henry Lanier of Sedalia, N.C., struck and killed the horse and ran off the road of Sedalia, one of the group around Lanier's car, but Lanier was uninjured. A tractor-trailer then slammed into the horse's body, caromed off the road into the same field.

Will He Buy Shoes?

STARKSVILLE, Miss. (UPI)—Bill Betts, a senior at Mississippi State College, won a $4 bet yesterday by running 20 miles in four hours and 15 minutes—and doing the last 10 miles barefoot.

There's a tax on everything but thinking, and the Graham, Texas, Rotarian sheet says that isn't taxed because it wouldn't produce anything. . . . A wife we know told her husband she needed him like Gen. Sarpy needed more radios. —Earl Wilson.

Luke's Story of Nativity Still Beloved by World

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

His name was Luke, and he was a physician by trade. But history knows him best as an author.

He wrote the most beloved story in all literature. It is called the nativity story, and it is found in the first 20 verses of the second chapter of the Gospel according to St. Luke.

It is only 416 words from the beginning to end. But it has had a greater impact on the minds and hearts of men than any long novel, play or poem you can name.

From it have come enough great masterpieces of art to fill a hundred galleries.

It has inspired a whole library of music, ranging from familiar carols like "Silent Night" to majestic oratorios like Handel's "Messiah."

READ AND CHERISHED

For more than 1,900 years it has been read, and cherished, by all sorts and conditions of men. It has moved medieval monks—and atomic scientists; Roman charioteers and New York taxi drivers; Oxford dons—and African bushmen.

It has been translated into more than 1,300 languages and dialects, and its poetic beauty always seems to come through.

As always at Christmastime, it will be read aloud in millions of churches and homes.

"And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. . . ."

Luke goes on to tell how Joseph and Mary left their home at Nazareth and went up to Bethlehem, the home of their ancestors, to be enrolled for the Roman census. It must have been a hard journey for Mary, since, the physician notes, she was "great with child."

"And so it was that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered."

"And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn."

How many millions of sermons have been preached on that one text?

The first Christmas did not fall on Dec. 25. That date was picked arbitrarily many centuries later. It must have been some time in autumn, when the weather was still mild in Palestine, for Luke records that "There were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night."

"And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: And they were sore afraid."

"And the angel said unto them, fear not: For, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people."

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a savior, which is Christ the Lord."

"And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the Babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."

"And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying."

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

Whether Luke meant his story to be read as literal history or dramatic poetry is a question for Biblical scholars to debate.

Some modern scholars, having never heard a choir of angels, assume that no one else has either.

Others point out that critical studies have established Luke as a reliable reporter who carefully researched his facts.

Perhaps if Luke could join in the debate, he would say that the herald-angel's song was audible, then—as now, only to those willing to hear it.

Goal-Setters Warn Against Reds

Editor's Note—While recommending goals for economic growth and jobs, a presidential commission also must be found able to counter the aggression and subversion of world communism in other nations. The commission's report is discussed in three sections of this issue. AP writer on economic affairs

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation is in great danger. Communist aggression and subversion threaten all that we seek to do both at home and abroad.

With that warning, the President's Commission on National Goals has underscored its call to Americans to shoulder still heavier burdens of armament and foreign aid in the 1960s.

In a soberly phrased section titled "Goals Abroad," the commission's report—placed this week in the hands of both President Eisenhower and President-elect John F. Kennedy—recommends this posture for the United States in the coming decade:

"Stay stronger than the Soviet Union 'at whatever cost'; hold firm in Berlin and wherever else the cause of democracy is menaced."

DISARMAMENT GOAL

But strive constantly for peaceful solutions; stand ready to negotiate 'on any reasonable basis'; and seek international control of nuclear weapons, "disarmament should be our ultimate goal."

The report proposed no sharp deviations from the present policies of the Eisenhower administration in the military or diplomatic areas, except in the output of money and effort.

It moved into highly controversial ground, however, in the realm of trade, tariffs and foreign aid. The commission took an internationalist view on issues over which legislators are bound to clash in the 87th Congress as they have in the past several congresses.

The bipartisan, 11-member commission of leaders in industry, science, labor, education, and public affairs, called for these measures to bolster the economy of the West under cold war conditions:

1. A "substantial increase" in foreign aid, shared equitably by the larger free nations.

The growth rate of the underdeveloped countries would be doubled—from 2 per cent to 4 per cent annually—within five years, the commission said.

AID POOREST NATION

This can be accomplished if the efforts of the poorer nations themselves are bolstered by an 8 per cent increase in foreign investment, both public and private, by the United States and other industrialized countries.

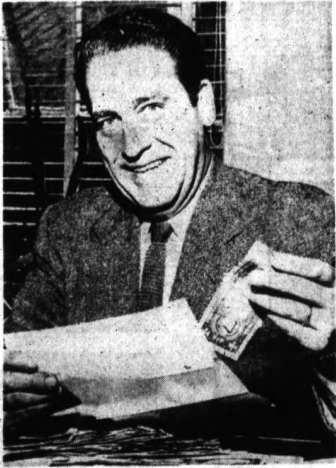

"The U. S. share of such an effort would require by 1965 an outflow of $5 billion to $5.5 billion a year of public and private capital, as compared with $3.4 billion a year in the 1956-59 period," the commission estimated.

"A step-by-step reciprocal domestic industry from lower-cost foreign competition, the 'peril point' and 'escape clause' sections of the Trade Agreements Act, may have to be changed because they prevent further lowering of U. S. tariffs on some commodities," the commission said.

"We should seek this goal while safeguarding the national economy against market disruption against destructive competition as a result of grossly lower unit labor costs, and to preserve national defense," the commission said.

Yet the commission recognized that even gradual tariff cuts would hurt some American industries of cooperation" to industrialize and cities. It recommended good the poorer countries, in which earnest help to cushion the blow those countries themselves would.

Correction of this country have opportunity to participate.

HIS CHRISTMAS MONEY—Dr. James Redmond, superintendent of New Orleans schools, smilingly looks through a pile of letters with dollar bills enclosed that he received Wednesday. With Christmas coming on, anonymous persons are participating in a drive to make up the salary Dr. Redmond has not received since being caught between the state government and federal court in the school integration program. Redmond said hundreds of dollars came in the Wednesday morning mail.

Of the overall problem, the re- as in Berlin, our commitments and interests are squarely exposed to those of the Soviets.

"A secure deterrent is essential. We must be ready to make the sacrifices necessary to meet the rising costs of such military capabilities."

Kennedy Answers to Call of Medicine

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President-elect John F. Kennedy and a group of Georgetown University medical students had a brief debate Wednesday night on socialized medicine.

The students saw Kennedy emerging from Georgetown Hospital after visiting his wife and daughter; "Keep out socialized medicine."

Just before he stepped into his car, Kennedy yelled back: "I'm for medical care for the aged and you're against socialized medicine, and there is no disagreement. It's a matter of definition."

Out of every 1,000 patents granted by the U. S. patent office, more than 200 steamship lines maintain offices in the port of San Francisco.

You'd Be Surprised at What a Sack Can Do

Fashion Gay Presents From Bags

Like to open packages on Christmas morning?

Most people do, but sometimes it's even more fun to receive early gifts that can be used during the holidays. Decorations, kitchen accessories, and children's nightwear are only a few of the pre-Christmas surprises you can make for friends and neighbors. And what's more, you can make them inexpensively if you sew with cotton bags.

Modern sacks are available in a variety of prints, cambrics, and oxford materials that are adaptable to almost any sewing purpose.

If you live on a farm, you can acquire a collection of pretty fabrics by buying cotton-packed feed, seed, and flour.

If you're a city gal, it's often possible to obtain empty sacks from feed dealers or local textile shops.

Bags are easily prepared for sewing. Just unravel the chain-stitched seams, soak out brand names, and the fabric is ready. Add your own ingenuity and a few glittering trimmings, and you can concoct an array of low-cost, original gifts.

It's always fun to give — and receive — special Christmas decorations, for they can be put to immediate use.

Bag fabric is ideal for decorations. Used as is, it has the appearance and texture of natural-colored linen. Or it may be dyed in brilliant tones of red, blue or green.

You can save yourself trouble and still stay away from assembly-line gift-giving by dyeing several sacks the same shade, but using them to make different items.

Sacks may be turned into ornamental Christmas card holders, rickrack-trimmed table runners, fringed place mats, gay floor skirts for the Christmas tree, or practical shopping bags.

While plain bags are versatile, don't overlook the print and cambric sacks. Print bags are especially appropriate for kitchen accessories, for the textile patterns are bright and cheerful. You can give even aprons or curtains a holiday look by trimming them with candle designs of bias binding, or attaching an applique in star or snowflake motifs.

Basic accessories sewn from white sacks also have a gala air when they're stenciled or appliqued with poinsettia, holly or bell designs.

And if some of your friends like a frequent change of decor, give them aprons and curtains with snap-on appliques especially appropriate for Christmas.

BEST AMID REGALIA — This Crown terris is no respecter of place as it relaxes between copies of the Royal Orb and the Imperial State Crown in the British Embassy in Washington. The copies are used to illustrate lectures on the English crown jewels.

ONE-WAY — This is a new mouth-to-mouth resuscitator which enables a rescuer to use the most effective method of artificial respiration without objectionable contact. The unit, invented by Dr. Morris H. Brook of Saskatoon, Canada, and manufactured by Willson of Reading, Pa., has a one-way valve to prevent breath or moisture returning from the victim's lungs. It costs under five dollars.

Cuddly Puppy Makes Ideal Pal for Child

Ever catch the look on a child's face at the sight of a puppy in a pet show window? You can put that delight in your youngster's eyes by giving him a dog for Christmas.

A cute puppy is a never-to-be-forgotten present.

And, in taking tender, loving care of his new charge, a responsible child will make a giant step toward emotional maturity.

On Christmas morning, after the excitement of the gift subsidies, you'll stop to wonder if you can give the new addition to the family proper care. Getting a new puppy does present some problems.

BRINGING PUPPY HOME
Most "new dogs" are puppies from six weeks to three months of age. Even if they are adults, there are certain rules to follow.

The first is to bring your new pup home in the morning. The dog this will have a chance to become familiar with his new friends and home before spending a long night by himself.

Use care in introducing your new puppy to the family. Everyone will want to pet and hold him. This is more excitement than the puppy should have all at one time. Make the introductions by easy stages.

Do not let anyone pick the puppy up by his front legs. This will stretch the tendons and may even injure soft bones. The proper way to lift the puppy is with one hand under the hindquarters, and the other steadying him under the chest.

After the excitement of first greetings, you should introduce him to his new home.

Try putting him there along with some piece of your own wellworn and unlaundered clothing. From this clothing, the puppy will get your odor. This will comfort him and make him less homesick while he is getting used to his new quarters.

THE POWER — Balance-minded individuals quake at this sight — over 50 old tires stacked in a dealer's lot in Francineville, Ind. Attendant Bob Gutwein gazes at the precarious stack.

Group Studying State's Growth
'Better If Businessmen Would Stop Wailing and Talk Advantages'
LANSING (UP)—"Michigan businessmen should stop wailing and crying about the industrial climate and stress the good points of our state," a legislative committee on industrial growth has been told.
Robbie B. Martin, vice president and general manager of the Dundee Cement Co. testified here Wednesday before a House committee on industrial climate headed by Rep. William H. Thorn, D-Deerborn.
The committee is studying possible legislation to help Michigan's economic growth.

Martin cited the availability of raw materials, a skilled labor pool, water for industry and a fine transportation network as among the state's advantages.
He suggested a state fund to help communities attract industries and an expanded program by the state economic development commission as among concrete steps that could be taken.
"I think the people of the state would support a sound program to help industry," Martin said. "Proof of this appears to be that they supported the sales tax increase."
"There is altogether too much pessimism," agreed L. R. Kampferman, vice president and director of marketing of Leonard Refineries of Alma.
Kampferman said salesmen for Leonard Refineries are told to take active part in promoting the state. Workers in gasoline stations, especially, he said, do a good job of selling Michigan.
Rep. Fred O. Olsen, R-Sheridan, a committee member, said he thought "slanted political advertisements" helped create a bad industrial atmosphere in Michigan.
"I think the politicians have more to do with the problem than anyone else," Olsen said.

Volkswagen Ships In 21,495 Via Seaway
ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N. J. — Volkswagen of America said today it shipped 30 per cent more vehicles through the St. Lawrence Seaway this summer than it had anticipated.

The German auto company said it delivered 12,485 cars, trucks and station wagons at the ports of Toledo, Detroit and Chicago. Original plans called for 18,000 deliveries.
Carl H. Hahn, general manager of Volkswagen of America, said his company intends to make full use of the seaway.
He said about $1.45 million was paid local service firms in connection with the shipments. These payments went for wharfage, stevedoring, servicing on the piers and overland transportation to dealers.

Tanked Trout Stalls Puzzled Woman's Car
WATERBURY, Conn. (AP)—Dorothea Loughran's car had been stalled off and on for the past month. Finally, after having checked everything else, garage-men removed the gasoline tank and inspected it. Inside they found a 7-inch trout. No one seemed to know how it got there.
Ida Lupino, Howard Duff on the Rocks Again
HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Actress Ida Lupino and actor Howard Duff have separated for the second time in their nine-year marriage. A spokesman for Duff said the two are trying to work out their differences.

Gentlemen:

Having just completed an advertising survey of our business, we thought you might be interested in our findings.

The Pontiac Press is the one advertising force where we have been able to put our finger on direct results. When we run an ad on fifteen used cars and two days later are able to scratch off a dozen of them as sold we know that your paper is reaching people in the market who recognize good value. Accordingly we plan in '61 to cut back substantially on certain other advertising media and go more heavily in your direction.

Needless to say we are gratified with the results we have been obtaining.

Sincerely,

FILM YOUR YULE FUN—No season presents more picture-taking opportunities than Christmas. Boon for the budget-minded is a new movie camera that costs little more than a snapshot camera. Easy to operate, one new model simply requires setting the dial, aiming, and pressing the button. A foldaway handle permits quick winding. Catching holiday highlights in all their color and motion is a rewarding experience.

U. S. Investors Weighing Risks in Latin America

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — American investors are taking a new look at Latin America. They've poured nearly $9 billion into it. And stockholders of American companies with about $1 billion invested in Cuba have seen their assets seized. Castrol's anti-Americanism rumbles today in other Latin lands.

But both the present and incoming administrations are on record as favoring more aid, private and governmental, to Latin development and needs.

Twenty-eight U.S. governors just back from looking over investment possibilities in Argentina and Brazil, express views on the risks today that range from enthusiasm, caution, plain bearishness.

American manufacturers already have stepped up their expenditures this year. The Department of Commerce reports they are pouring nearly $75 million more into Brazil this year for new plant and equipment. In Argentina, expenditures have risen to $70 million this year, more than double the 1957-58 average.

Total U.S. investments are put at $13.3 billion in Brazil and $317 million in Argentina.

The views of the returning American governors were obtained by Alan Hathaway, managing editor of the Long Island paper, Newday.

On one thing they seem agreed—Argentina and Brazil have more than four million square miles high in potentials for agriculture and hydroelectric power and rich in mineral deposits. In both countries the areas are waiting and anxious to be developed.

The questions private American investors will be asking the governors are: Are Latin-American investments in general safe from future government interference? Are prospects of returns greater than the foreseeable risks?

Each wrote his exultant oratorio. Handel created the "Messiah" with its magnificent "Hallelujah Chorus." No one is sure who wrote "Adeste Fideles," credit is usually given St. Bonaventura; this hymn was a great favorite of Teddy Roosevelt.

4 Broken Noses Have Plagued '61 Rose Queen

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The world is suddenly a bed of roses for a girl who has suffered four broken noses.

She is Carole Anne Washburn, a dimpled 18-year-old who will be queen of the 1961 Tournament of Roses.

She was selected Wednesday to reign over the Rose Parade and the Minnesota-Washington Rose Bowl football game Jan. 2.

Carole, a freshman at Pasadena City College, is 5 feet 8, weighs 120 pounds, has hazel eyes and auburn hair, and measurements of 36-24-34.

She suffered her first broken nose in a fall from a teeter-totter. It happened again when a boy hit her with a rock, again when she fell downstairs and the last time in a dive into the shallow end of a swimming pool. You could never tell it.

It's Grandpa Wayne for the Fourth Time

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—John Wayne became a granddaddy for the fourth time Wednesday.

The wife of Wayne's son, Michael, gave birth to a daughter, 7-pound, 3-ounce Teresa Ann, at St. Vincent's hospital. The couple has another daughter, Alicia, 17 months.

British shipyards are said to be busier now than in the past 30 years.

Long-Distance Phoning Faces Major Revolution

NEW YORK (AP)—A sweeping change in long-distance telephone service is being readied for the near future. The effect, it will mean extension of the local or area calling concept—unlimited long-distance calls at a flat monthly rate.

The giant Bell system of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. is working on such a long-distance zone-calling idea and hopes to have it ready for submission to the Federal Communications Commission in two weeks.

President Frederick R. Kappel of AT&T gave the first hint of the plan last month in a Boston speech.

"It appears to be that step by step," he said, "the distinction between local and long-distance in communications will gradually disappear."

SOME TOLLS VANISH

"We have already seen the broadening of local telephone calling areas so that calls between many adjoining communities are not treated as toll calls. Not visionary, but extremely practical, is the concept that many of our customers will want for a service enabling them to call over wide areas, and even across the continent, at a flat monthly rate."

"And if you should ask, 'When is the Bell system going to develop specific plans for this sort of thing?' I am happy to give you this answer: We are working on them now," he told the Boston Conference on Distribution.

AT&T declines to elaborate on details of long-distance zone calling until the proposal is actually filed. "We are absolutely prohibited from discussing any details," a spokesman said.

However, the plan under consideration would permit a New York telephone subscriber, for example, to buy a service for a fixed monthly rate that would permit an unlimited number of calls to, say, Chicago. Or, if he estimates he will be making 25 calls to Chicago monthly, he would be able to buy a service at a specified fee for possibly 30 three-minute calls to that city or any other phone number in the same zone.

The new system would divide the country into six zones. Customers could buy service to any one or combination of zones or even all six. For a specified fee that may run under $3,000 a month for one telephone line, a subscriber could make an unlimited number of three-minute calls to any-

Ex-State High Court Justice Boyles Dies

CHARLOTTE (UPI)—Former Michigan Supreme Court Justice Emerson R. Boyles died Wednesday at his home here. He was 78.

Boyles served on the state high court from 1949 to 1958 when he retired.

He was born in Eaton County in 1881 and was a graduate of the University of Michigan law school.

Before serving on the Supreme Court, Boyles was prosecutor and probate judge in Eaton County, a deputy attorney general for the state, and served on the Michigan Public Utilities Commission.

He also served as legal adviser to Govs. Frank Fitzgerald and Luren Dickinson.

His wife, the former Mabel Casler, died in 1953. Boyles is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Henry Crouse of East Lansing, two sisters and three grandchildren.

Friend of Santa to Have a Niche

Plan to Restore Home of Moore, Who Wrote 'Twas the Night ... 'Twas the Night ...

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—Jolly St. Nick should have a soft spot in his heart for the city of Newport.

For it was here that Dr. Clement C. Moore, author of the beloved "A Visit From St. Nicholas," spent the declining years of his life. And the old house at 25 Catherine St. where he lived is still standing.

No holiday poem in the English language has equalled the appeal of "Twas the Night Before Christmas"—and at 4:30 p.m. on Dec. 22, a reading of that bit of verse will take place before the fireplace in the old house.

The reader and host for the annual event will be James Van Alen, president of the Newport Casino—Newport's sports club—as well as an editor, publisher, world traveler and court-tennis champion. Van Alen has composed an introduction to the poem as well as a "Postscript," both of which have become a regular feature of the reading.

"I hope that I haven't angered Dr. Moore," Van Alen said, "but when I was a kid I always thought the poem ended too quickly." He said he dreamed up the postscript to "stretch out the fun."

Van Alen has secured an option to purchase the old Clement Moore residence with the assistance of the National Trust for Historic Preservation in Washington.

He says his corporation plans to renovate the old structure and install 1820-1870 period furniture. Also planned is a wax-sculptured group, composed of a figure of Dr. Moore reading his poem to his four children.

Van Alen also wants the "House of Santa Claus" to become a "Museum of Santa Clausiana," with various editions of the poem on display along with period costumes, drawings, paintings, Christmas cards, newspaper articles—and perhaps an animated cartoon showing the visit of St. Nick.

He also envisions a stable for the eight tiny reindeer, each with a nameplate over its stall, and a coach house for the sleigh. There would be a dressing room and a workshop for Santa, too.

Purpose of the museum, according to Van Alen, would be to "bring at Christmas time the image of our beloved Santa Claus as envisioned by Dr. Moore and the spirit of family love, understanding and solidarity which Santa Claus symbolizes to every heart and home in America."

As Van Alen put it, "I can't think of any other American who Moore."

Middle-Sized Firms Really Most Important

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI)—Big business in America is not as big as some people think.

A new research study conducted by Management Methods magazine shows that middle-sized firms—those with from 100 to 1,000 employees—are really more important, more powerful and a stronger influence in the American economy than all the giant corporations put together.

There are more than four million small businesses with fewer than 200 employees, compared to only about 1,000 so-called "giants" with more than 1,000 employees.

GENERATION TO GENERATION—Caroling got its start in America when a small group of Bostonian neighbors came outdoors to sing from hymnals on Christmas Eve in the early 1900s. Traditionally, wandering minstrels in Europe kept ancient carols alive through the centuries, passing them along from generation to generation before words or music were written down.

Puritans Once Outlawed Christmas

Carols Have a Long, Fascinating History

"The mice have been at the bellows, Father. I can't play the organ for Christmas," Franz Gruber told his pastor the sad news. Father Joseph Mohr responded by writing "Silent Night, Holy Night," which Herr Gruber set to music. They sang the new song together at Christmas services . . . to guitar accompaniment! This was the origin of one of our best-loved hymns—in Oberndorf, Austria, 1818.

Church choirs still strive to recreate the first music of Christmas—angels singing "Glory to God in the Highest!" over Bethlehem . . . as reported in the Bible story of Christ's birth.

Early Christians never took a fancy to the solemn chants of convents and monasteries . . . but St. Francis of Assisi raised their hearts and voices when he set religious themes to merry music in the 13th century.

People went home humming his sermons . . . and carols were born. The word "carol" means dance in a ring. At first it described group singing and dancing in any festive season. For the last few hundred years, "carol" refers specifically to Christmas music, sacred or secular.

Italy, France, Germany, England and America have carol literature and traditions of their own. Early songs weren't written down, they were carried by wandering minstrels and folk singers. They went through so many changes of word and melody . . . their creators probably wouldn't recognize them to-day.

Medieval carols seem to have been written as scripts for religious drama. Vivid pictures in the verses move the listener from scene to scene . . . moods change from coarse humor to reverence as the story of the Nativity progresses. In one vigorous carol, shepherds respectfully give the Child of Bethlehem—"a bunch of cherries, a feathered songster and a tennis ball!"

Religious folk songs were often sung at holiday revels debasing the spirit of Christmas. Puritans—coming into power—frowned on such pagan excesses. They said festal music was sacrilegious and dishonored God.

They outlawed Christmas. A Puritan law of 1644 made Dec. 25 a market day. Shops were required to remain open. Stiff fines . . . even jail sentences, awaited anyone caught "celebrating" Christmas. People obediently wore straight faces—and hummed merrily under their breath. Christmas music went underground.

The Restoration eventually let music back into church.

"Away in a Manger" is said to have been inspired by Martin Luther's "From Heaven Above I Came to You." Charles Wesley wrote, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" in 1737. . . several authors presumed to alter it . . . and a section of Mendelssohn's "Pescara" was adapted in 1855 for the musical version familiar to us.

In 1968, "O Little Town of Bethlehem" was composed by Bishop Phillips Brooks, when his Philadelphia Sunday school class asked for a Christmas song. His organist, Lewis H. Redner, furnished the tune . . . and insisted the music came to his miraculously, in a Christmas Eve dream!

Let Small Appliances Be Your 'Extra Hands'

If the so-called "small" appliances we get for Christmas could speak for themselves, they would protest spending the better part of the housekeeping day on the shelf. For these, small-size, lightweight and sleekly-styled appliances are BIG about making housekeeping more efficient and entertaining less of an effort.

Homemakers who own an electric roaster will find that it's capable of doing anything an oven can do, including baking, stewing and roasting. With the broiler grid—an optional accessory—foods can also be fried, grilled, toasted and broiled.

With the timer clock—another accessory—food played in the roaster in the morning will start cooking at any later preselected hour and will stop when done, all without any pe watching.

DOUBLE DUTY

Double duty can be had from the equipment that comes with the roaster. Ovenproof dishes can be used independently for baking, serving and storing food. The lift-up rack makes a cooling rack for cakes and cookies. The inset pan can be pressed into service as a dishpan.

The toaster, if given a chance, can be an any-meat servant. Stretch leftovers by serving them on a crisp slice of toast at lunch. Heat frozen waffles for Sunday supper.

Make homemade Melba toast. Toast leftover pound cake, smother it with hedge sauce, and you have a tasty dessert.

Extra mileage can be had from an electric coffee maker—especially during the holidays—by saying "let's have a cup of coffee" to guests who drop in. Once a pot full of coffee has reached serving temperature, the coffee automatically remains piping hot without repping.

If vacuum cleaner and attachments are kept in mind, then it's doing what comes, naturally to use the radiator tool to dust out coat pockets and cuffs on trousers.

Odd jobs for the steam iron include pressing the veil on a hat, freshening ribbons, or raising nap on suede and velvet shoes.

That extra pair of hands with muscles, otherwise known as a mixer, should be on the job as often as there are cake batters to mix, cream to whip, salad dressings to blend, eggs to beat or potatoes to mash. With one beater removed, eggs and milk shakes can be whipped up in a jiffy.

To own small appliances without putting them on a fulltime basis is a needless waste. It's about time, that makes these willing workers old before their time.

Army Gets M60 Tank
Produced by Chrysler

DETROIT (UPI)—Chrysler Corp. reported that the first production-line M60 medium tank built at its tank plant in Center Line was accepted Wednesday by Army ordnance officials.

The tank is the first of 720 to be built under a $60 million construction-line M60 medium tank contract awarded Chrysler last May.

Open Art Gallery in Remodeled Barn

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Six months of work by three suburban women was climaxed by the opening of an art gallery in a remodeled barn.

Their plan to promote the work of local artists began last April and will feature works by 25 Minneapoleans in its first exhibit.

If the initial effort proves successful, the women plan to try the venture on a summer business basis. It is located in the suburb of Deephaven.

But You're Almost at the Wire—Get With It

There's Still Time to Save for Gifts

Going to see red at Christmas now and the time you expect to start your shopping.

DEPOSIT THEM
Deposit weekly savings in a special-purpose account. There, your Christmas fund will be out of easy reach, and you won't be tempted to borrow from it for other things.

So check your finances now. Find yourself a little short? Then, cheer up! There's no need to grow a long white beard worrying how you're going to fill the stockings at the chimney. Here are several ways to get ready for your date with Santa.

First, start saving now. You still have time to build up a fund for Christmas if you begin right away. To figure out how much money to put aside each week, make a complete list of all your holiday expenses.

Deduct whatever you or your husband may have coming in the way of a Christmas bonus from the office. Then, divide this amount by the number of weeks between

Contrary to popular belief, you can get the loan whether you are a depositor or not. All you need show is your ability to repay the loan comfortably out of current income.

But don't take on more debt than you can afford. It will take all the fun out of Christmas. The bankers suggest this rough rule-of-thumb: keep your total installment debt for the year under 15 per cent of annual take-home pay.

This figure does not include the mortgage payments on your house. They are considered the same as rent; thus are extra.

A thoughtful way to give money to someone on your Christmas list for whom it is difficult to select a gift is through gift checks. You can buy them at many banks. And they come in attractive designs for the occasion.

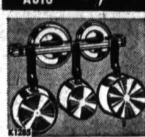

Finally, learn from this Christmas. Save a year ahead and don't get caught short of cash again.

Community singing grows more popular every year. Thousands of choral groups. In Santa Barbara, Calif., carolers masquerade in the flowing red capes and peaked hoods of ancient Europe... and go forth singing.

Late last century, church musicians and laymen tracked down carols sung throughout the world... and printed them for the enjoyment of future generations.

In homes for the aged, in prisons, Salvationists play awakens music and at the numerous parties given in Christmas past, and kindness by the Salvation Army, the music the spark of the Christmas spirit.

BREADED POTATO CAKES — Nut brown potato cakes make a pleasing accompaniment to little fat sausages. It's a fine menu for a cold Sunday morning when you have time for a leisurely meal. Use instant potato flakes to make the mashed potatoes.

Potato Cakes for Breakfast

Picnic Shoulders, Broilers Are Attractively Priced

A leisurely Sunday breakfast is one of the pleasant events of family life. A time when the home-maker wants to serve something a little out of the ordinary. How about link sausages and plump, crisp potato cakes? These go-together foods make an unusually good breakfast that's guaranteed to satisfy all hearty appetites. You can make a platter of potato cakes in 15 minutes with a convenience food — instant whipped potato flakes.

Breaded Potato Cakes

1 1/2 cups water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup cold milk
1/2 cup instant potato flakes
1 tablespoon butter
1 egg

Mix eggs, water, salt, milk and potato flakes. Stir in butter. Shape into 3/4-inch cakes. Coat with remaining 1/2 cup bread crumbs. Melt 4 tablespoons butter in large skillet; saute potato cakes until brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve immediately. Makes about 7.

Variations:

Any one of the following may be added to the basic recipe:

1) 1/4 cup chopped parsley

2) 1 (1 1/2-ounce) package minced onion or 1 medium size onion, chopped

3) 1/4 cup chopped chives

4) 1/4 cup celery flakes

Combine water and salt in medium-size saucepan; cover; bring to boil. Remove from heat. Add milk immediately, then potato flakes and 1 tablespoon butter; stir gently with fork or wire whip until moisture is absorbed. Whip briskly. Mix in egg and 1/2 cup of the bread crumbs.

Shape into 3/4-inch cakes. Coat well with remaining 1/2 cup bread crumbs. Melt 4 tablespoons butter in large skillet; saute potato cakes until brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve immediately. Makes about 7.

Slaw Dressing Is Uncooked

A thrifty version of an old-time sweet dressing for slaw.

Creamy Sweet Dressing

1 cup well-drained evaporated milk
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
1/2 teaspoon prepared Dijon-type mustard
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
1/2 teaspoon paprika

Stir vinegar slowly into evaporated milk. Add sugar, salt, pepper to taste, mustard, celery seed and paprika. Whip with a fork or shake thoroughly in a covered jar.

Refrigerate for several hours or overnight so flavors will mellow and blend. Makes almost 1 cup. Use as a dressing on shredded green cabbage. The mustard used should be the brown non-sweet variety.

Italian Style Veal Slices Easy to Fix

A delicious and easy way to prepare veal cutlets.

Easy Scallops

1 large egg
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup cornstarch (about 1 1/2 pounds) tender boneless veal (from leg)
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup oil

Beat egg until foamy; beat in lemon juice, salt and a dash of pepper to combine. Dip each veal slice in the egg mixture, then in crumbs.

Heat half the butter in a large (about 12-inch) skillet and add many veal slices as will fit in one layer. Over medium heat brown on both sides—about 4 minutes. Cook remaining veal the same way adding butter as needed.

Keep hot in a 250 degree oven until all pieces are ready for serving. Makes 4 servings. Serve with tomato sauce.

NOTE: The prepared bread crumb mix called for contains toasted crumbs, Italian cheese, and pepper, paprika and mustard to taste. Makes 1 1/2 cups dressing; glutamate.

Sour Cream Dressing

A tasty sour cream dressing for cole slaw can be made by combining 1 cup dairy sour cream, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon celery seed, 1 pinch onion cut in silvers and pepper, paprika and mustard to taste. Makes 1 1/2 cups dressing.

Holiday Puddings Are Hearty

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

People who rarely eat dessert will often break down and enjoy a serving of holiday pudding. There are families that do not consider the Christmas meal complete unless it is climaxed by a steamed pudding with hard sauce.

Pudding wasn't always a dessert. It used to be served before the main course. From this custom a popular saying arose, "I came in pudding time," meaning "I came early."

Puddings may be baked, boiled or steamed. If you don't have a regular steamer, convert any large kettle into one. Place a rack on cups in the bottom of the pan and put your mold on the rack. Add the boiling water and keep the cover tightly closed. Then follow steaming directions.

Try a steamed pumpkin pudding. It will be a little change from pumpkin pie. You'll like the spicy flavor.

Steamed Pumpkin Pudding

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup apples
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup canned pumpkin

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, soda, cinnamon, ginger and cloves together. Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and beat well. Add flour mixture alternately with milk and pumpkin to creamed mixture.

Pour into greased 1 1/2 qt. mold. Steam 1 1/2 hours, or until toothpick stuck in center comes out clean. Cool a few minutes, loosen from sides of mold, remove from mold, serve warm with Hard Sauce. About 10 servings.

HARD SAUCE: Blend 1/2 cup butter and 1 unbeaten egg white with 1/2 package (7 oz.) Creamy White frosting mix. Beat on high speed electric mixer 1 minute, or by essay. Band until light and fluffy. Add 1/2 teaspoon rum flavoring, if desired. Chill until hard. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

Stale cake crumbs never go to waste. Use them to make a Christmas pudding in the shape of a log. This is nicely.

Yule Log

8 cups crumbs, made from stale cake, coffee cake, or pound cake
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup apples
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup canned pumpkin

Measure the mold you choose over log.

Our last pudding is the one pictured. Perhaps you have never thought of serving pudding on a cake compote. Any flat dish does nicely.

This is a heartier dessert than the preceding ones, reminiscent of the old-fashioned steamed puddings our ancestors liked.

Favorite Holiday Pudding

1 cup sifted flour
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup apples
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup canned pumpkin

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, soda, cinnamon, ginger and cloves together. Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and beat well. Add flour mixture alternately with milk and pumpkin to creamed mixture.

Pour into greased 1 1/2 qt. mold. Steam 1 1/2 hours, or until toothpick stuck in center comes out clean. Cool a few minutes, loosen from sides of mold, remove from mold, serve warm with Hard Sauce. About 10 servings.

lid or aluminum foil. Place mold on rack in deep kettle. Add enough boiling water to come half way up side of mold.

Cover kettle and simmer 3 1/2 to 4 hours. Replenish boiling water as needed. Makes 12 to 16 servings. Serve hot with brandy hard sauce.

NOTE: For smaller pudding, divide recipe in half and turn into well-buttered 5-cup mold. Steam 2 hours. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Old-fashioned New England cooks sometimes used to chop the vegetables left over from a "boiled dinner" and put the mixture into a hash.

Big Hearty Sandwich Gets Creamy Topping

Here's a hot and hearty sandwich that really satisfies appetites. Start with English muffins or hamburger buns. Split, butter and place a slice of ham on each half. Arrange well-drained canned green beans over hash. Top with thin slice of onion, one of tomato and finish with nippy cheese. Broil until cheese melts.

Serve hot "as is," or with this tangy sauce: heat gently together 1 cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, dash EACH of Worcestershire sauce and tabasco sauce and 2 tablespoons milk. Spoon hot over broiled sandwiches.

Never Waste Crumbs

Small fry cooks: they'll enjoy cutting rounds out of a sheet of sponge cake, using cookie cutters. Then the rounds may be frosted and decorated. The raggle-taggle ends of cake may be used instead of bread in a pudding, but the regular amount of sugar will probably have to be decreased.

Catholic Protest Urged

Hollywood and Bishops Argue Over Film 'Dir'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hollywood film producers today took issue with a charge by a committee of Roman Catholic bishops that the motion picture industry has abandoned former moral standards and is turning out "pornographic and perverted subject matter."

The Bishops' Committee for Motion Pictures, Radio and Television, which represents the church hierarchy in matters pertaining to mass entertainment, urged the nation's 40 million Roman Catholics to boycott what the panel considers dirty movies.

The Motion Picture Association of America replied that bolder treatment of sex and a broader range of subject matter in movies merely represented an evolution in film making "dictated by the American audience."

...offered to adult audiences," the bishops said, "they were in fact sold to impressionable youth."

The Motion Picture Association denied the committee's charges.

The Catholic leaders appealed to the movie industry to "set its own house in order" by revitalizing the production code. They said such "self-regulation" would be preferable to legal censorship. But they were able to legal censorship.

But they warned that continued disregard of moral standards by the industry will lead to "public demands" for government "restrictions."

President's Son? Naw, Ex-RKO Chief's Kin

NEW YORK (UPI) — The list of births in this week's issue of the show business trade paper, Variety, included: "Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kennedy, Nov. 25, Washington, a son, John F. Kennedy Jr., child is grandson of Joseph P. Kennedy, former president of film booking office and RKO theaters."

Gas lights were introduced in London streets in 1807.

JUST ASK DAD — Shows may come and shows may go but Sally Rand (of fan fame) goes on forever. Vivacious and with that same fabulous figure, at 50 Sally still waves her fans and still wows her fans — the latter now gray-haired who remember her as the darling of the 1935 Chicago Exposition.

Addresses Aid Sad Family

By EMILY POST
Good Taste Today
Question: My father died recently and we received many notes and floral pieces. A great many of these were sent by business acquaintances of my father who were strangers to us.

When it came time to acknowledge these kindnesses, we had a terrible time trying to find out the addresses of these people — some we still haven't been able to find.

Won't you please advise your readers, when sending flowers to include an address on the card along with his (or her) signature and thus make it easy for the poor bereaved family?

Answer: I agree with you most emphatically, and hope that those who read this answer will follow your good advice.

Question: I am a college girl who has just received a birthstone ring as a birthday present from my boy friend. I would like to know the correct hand on which to wear this ring.

Some tell me that any ring from a boy, whether an engagement ring or not, should be worn on the left hand. Others say that no ring should be worn on the left hand until one receives an engagement ring.

Answer: As it is not an engagement ring, you should wear it on your right hand, or if you wish, on the little finger of your left hand.

Question: The other evening after a movie, a friend and I stopped in at a drugstore and sat at the soda fountain to have a cup of coffee and a sandwich. My friend did not take off his hat, which I believe a gentleman should do when he is with a lady. Am I correct?

Answer: Unless there was a hat rack nearby or a shelf underneath the counter, there was no place for him to put it except on his head. His lap would be too slanting to hold his hat securely, and he certainly couldn't lay it on the counter.

MSUO Speaker Stresses Need for Education

Dr. Lowell R. Eklund, director of continuing education at Michigan State University, Oakland, who spoke to Zonta Club at Hotel Waldorf today, informed the group, "The world struggle will be won, not with military power, but with brain power applied to all fields of human endeavor."

"If we are to win the struggle, we must pursue excellence, achieve our fullest potential and avoid mediocrity," he told the women's service club at its noon luncheon meeting. "We must cease our search for security, since security and mediocrity always have gone hand in hand."

He concluded his talk with the thought, "Education does not end with the issuance of a high school or college diploma. Education is a life-long process."

Antique Show Readied by Temple Beth Jacob

Committee members of the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Jacob are making final arrangements for their antique show this weekend. Examining antiques from one of the 18 dealers to be represented are (from left) chairman Mrs. Harold Chapman of Tilden Avenue, dining room chairman Mrs. Harry Ackerman of Voorheis Road and cochairman Mrs. Marvin Talan of Colrain Drive. The public show runs from noon Sunday through 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Little Jody Talan, 2, might be mistaken for a doll herself among the antique toys that will be shown and sold at Temple Beth Jacob's antique show. Furniture, glass, china, jewelry, silver and old coins and stamps will also be featured.

Make the Pair a Full House

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Have you any advice for a man who is married to a woman who spends every afternoon (and half her evenings) playing poker? We've been married for two years and I am getting tired of it.

POKER WIDOWER:
DEAR POKER WIDOWER:
Deal her a full house!

DEAR ABBY: I answered the phone last night and a man on the other end said, "Ask Rudy to call Hazel in half an hour." My husband's name is Rudy, so like a fool

He wouldn't use the phone at home. He left and called her. When he came back I asked who Hazel was. He didn't even answer me.

That night I heard him say in his sleep, "But you're another man's wife and what are we going to do about the kids?" Do you think there is another woman in the picture? We've been married 12 years, have 5 kids and I thought we were happy. How can you get the truth out of a man who refuses to talk?

RUDY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: The truth is apparent. Why attempt to beat a confession out of him? Your local Family Service Agency offers free counseling and so does your clergyman. Don't tackle this without professional help.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think our mother is being fair to us kids? She hasn't let us father in the house for four months all over a phone call she got from a person she doesn't even know saying our father had a girlfriend. They have been married 21 years, Abby, and Daddy never stayed out late or did anything wrong. She hasn't any real proof. How can she do such a thing to us?

FATHERLESS:
DEAR FATHERLESS: If your mother has locked your father out of the house with or without — proof of his wrongdoing, she is being unfair to herself and to you children. Parents owe themselves and their children a harmonious home.

This can be achieved only by airing all differences, discussing them and resolving them. No matter how guilty your father might be — your mother shares the blame.

DEAR ABBY: Why do people go into a theatre to neck? Don't they know that a theatre is a public place for watching a movie — not a park bench? I am an usher in a theatre and I know what I'm talking about.

A couple comes in supposedly to see a show and they sit there all evening in a clinic, kissing like a cow pulling his foot out of a mudhole. If they want to neck, let them stay home.

USHER

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a girl for four months, steadily. I really didn't go off on my studies because of her, but I flunked geometry. My father says it was her fault and won't let me see her until next term. How can I make my father understand that this girl had nothing to do with it? I have argued until I am blue in the face.

BLUE BOY
DEAR BLUE: Hit the books, son, and try another angle.

Getting married? For Abby to have a lovely wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Study Club Hears Talk by Leader

Parliamentary Study Club members met for an instruction session Wednesday at the Masonic Temple on East Lawrence Street.

The program was led by Mrs. Louis Stieb who explained the lesson on amending a constitution and bylaws, revising committee reports, standing rules of organizations and voting on a series of paragraphs.

Rules were practiced by a demonstration group with Mrs. Fred Gones assuming the role of president and Mrs. Melvin Norberg, recording secretary. Mrs. Harry Vernon was sponsor for the demonstration officers. A question and answer period was conducted by Mrs. Joseph Panter.

Mrs. William Plakert was recording secretary pro-tem for the meeting. In charge of the guest book which was signed by Mrs. E. M. Malone was Mrs. Fred Gones. Mrs. Lester Oles, Mrs. N. E. Tibbits and Mrs. Ervin Christie were tellers for the election to membership of Mrs. E. M. Malone and Mrs. George Tates.

The next meeting will be at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 14 in Masonic Temple.

Chiffon Goes On

For evenings, chiffon goes flatteringly from season to season. Sequins and rhinestones glitter on spring ballgowns instead of going into storage after the "big" season as they once did.

Deborah Moore Says Nuptial Vows

Christ Church Cranbrook was the setting for the Saturday marriage of Deborah Moore to Peter F. Getthner of Philadelphia. The Rev. Robert L. DeWitt officiated at the afternoon ceremony.

Guests were received at the church immediately following the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Moore Jr., parents of the bride, gave a small reception at their home on Lahser Road, Bloomfield Hills.

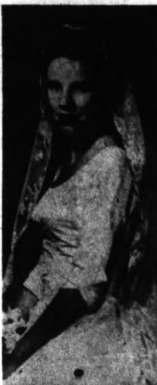

The bride appeared in ivory mist silk taffeta with heirloom veil of rosepoint lace from her great-grandmother's family. She carried white roses entwined with ivy.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister Lydia and her sister-in-law Mrs. Jonathan Moore of Lincoln, Mass., was mother of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Eleanor C. Thomas of Baltimore, Md., Lee Sumner of Millard, Conn., Ilana Higgins of Dedham, Mass., Lynn Burrows of Saginaw, Kevin Ungemah of Hartsdale, N. Y., and Susan E. Hodges of Bloomfield Hills.

They wore moss green velvet and satin gowns and carried chrysanthemums in autumn colors. The honor maid carried yellow roses.

MRS. PETER F. GETTHNER

Baltimore, stood as best man for his brother. They are the sons of the Paul H. Getthners of Philadelphia.

BROTHERS USHERS

Ushers were the bride's brothers Benjamin, of Bloomfield Hills and Jonathan of Lincoln, Mass., David T. Mc-

Laughlin of Hamilton, Ohio, John C. Heston Jr. of Tarrytown, N.Y., William H. Mansfield Jr. of Washington, D.C., William N. Clarke and Curtis C. Flounders of New York City and W. Dixon Boggs of Wheeling, W. Va.

The mother of the bride wore a sheath dress of ivory satin brocade and Mrs. Getthner chose an olive-green brocade dress. Both wore cymbidium orchids.

The new Mrs. Getthner is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Moore of Orleans, Mass., and the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nichols of Cambridge, Mass. She is a graduate of Kingswood School Cranbrook and Smith College. Her sorority is Tau Beta.

The bridegroom was graduated from Dartmouth College where he affiliated with Beta Theta Pi, Gamma and Gammalet and Phi Beta Kappa. He holds a master's degree from the Johns Hopkins University school of advanced international studies at Bologna, Italy, and is a lieutenant in the Naval Air Force Reserve.

Among key speakers will be Dr. Ernest O. Melby, professor, MSU College of Education, who will discuss "The World in Revolution: What Counts," and Dr. Elizabeth Drees of the college of education, who will offer "Observations on Psychological and Physiological Aspects of Growth and Development."

The conference is cosponsored by the MSU College of Education.

YW Holds Conference at Lansing

The Young Women's Christian Association's national conference is being observed at Michigan State University through Saturday.

Participating are nearly 200 women from throughout the nation, including members of the national professional Y staff, program directors who head YWCA departments, teenage, young adult and adult program directors and staffers in charge of health, physical education and recreational activities.

The Y's first meeting of this nature in 10 years, the conference will emphasize functional programming based on today's society and the role of women.

Among key speakers will be Dr. Ernest O. Melby, professor, MSU College of Education, who will discuss "The World in Revolution: What Counts," and Dr. Elizabeth Drees of the college of education, who will offer "Observations on Psychological and Physiological Aspects of Growth and Development."

The conference is cosponsored by the MSU College of Education.

The Canadian Players are bringing "Julius Caesar" to Pontiac Jan. 13. Here, Claude Bode as Caesar is warning Louis Terence as Antony to beware of Cassius and his "lean and hungry look." The classic, sponsored by Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall, is set for 8:30 p.m. at Pontiac Northern High School auditorium.

Mervyn Blake as Casca (left) and Max Hellmann as Cassius are shown in a tense moment from Shakespeare's classic, "Julius Caesar." Tickets for the one-night stand are available on a first-come first-served basis from Mrs. J. A. Rammes of Rosedale Street. Proceeds will benefit MSUO's scholarship fund.

Wear White Wrap for Winter Whimsey

Elegant coats in winter white are immensely flattering. In perfect harmony with winter's soft skies and snowflakes is the double-breasted coat at left with dropped shoulder line and satin binding and buttons. A modified kimono line is featured in the center coat which tapers slightly at the hem. The coat at right has a wedding band collar and slight controlled fullness. It's done in soft fleece. All are perfect second coats in any wardrobe.

Hills Folk Dashing to Parties

By RUTH SAUNDERS
BLOOMFIELD HILLS — This weekend ushers in 1960 Christmas gaiety for many different groups.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Fitzgerald will give their annual cocktail party Friday at Bloomfield Hills Country Club and on Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Carleton C. Patterson will be hosts at cocktails in their Pilgrim Road home.

Mrs. William B. Saunders entertained at tea Wednesday for friends of her mother, Mrs. Robert W. Budd of Charlottesville, Va. Mr. and Mrs. Budd are former Bloomfield residents who came for Thanksgiving and are staying to attend the second Winter Club dinner dance of the season Saturday at Bloomfield Hills Country Club.

Winter Club is a group of friends who gather several times each year from Bloomfield Hills, Birmingham, Detroit and Grosse Pointe.

Another traditional Christmas affair is the party Mr. and Mrs. George W. Walker will give Dec. 10 at Bloomfield Hills Country Club.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard B. Barker will give a dinner party Dec. 9 and the annual Christmas dinner dance of Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills Junior League members will be given at the Detroit Golf Club that same evening.

Mrs. George T. Trumbull Jr. is chairman of the party Mr. and Mrs. Clayton H. Gordon, Mrs. Lawrence B. Williams, Mrs. Nelson B. Nolan, Mrs. Richard C. Hallett and Mrs. Richard S. Wilson.

Among hosts at cocktails before the Ball will be the Sidney W. Smiths, the Richard C. Pages and the Charles B. Perry Jr.

Mrs. Edward S. Wellock has invited friends for a tea in her home Dec. 10 honoring Mrs. John H. Wellock of Harbor Beach. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. William D. Singleton, Mrs. Percy K. Loud, Mrs. Frederick G. Weed, Mrs. Henry J. Beam, Mrs. Horace W. French, Mrs. E. W. Wells and Mrs. Truman Barber.

Presiding at the tea tables will be Mrs. Leslie H. Green, Mrs. L. C. Gault, Mrs. Herman D. Scarney and Mrs. Leroy Vandever.

Announcement is made of the marriage Nov. 25 of Mrs. Richard A. Gonnell Jr. to William M. Packard Jr. The ceremony was read in St. Agnes Church in Detroit.

Scarboroughs Tell of Peggy's Troth
Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Scarborough of North Street, Scarborough, announce the engagement of their daughter Peggy Joyce to Crute Caudill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Caudill of Lockwood Street, Ortonville.

The couple will exchange vows at 7 p.m. Dec. 17 in the new chapel of First Congregational Church.

Ann Armitage Is Engaged

BIRMINGHAM — Mr. and Mrs. Duncan H. Hammer of Walnut Lake Road have announced the engagement of their daughter Ann Armitage to Joseph Kemp Houck, whose parents are Dr. and Mrs. Joseph William Houck of Lynchburg, Va.

The bride-elect was graduated from Hollins College.

Her fiancé was graduated from Virginia Episcopal School and the University of Virginia.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Just a few seasons back, the white coat for winter was a costly luxury that few women could afford.

This winter, it's for everyone. It can serve as a second coat in your wardrobe, double for evening wear, go traveling from one climate to another.

Beautifully cut from pure wool the white coat provides a dramatic background for accessories. It can be sported with color or worn with white gloves, white chiffon scarf, white mink or fake fur hat.

Cut in lightweight wool (a soft fleece or a nearly weightless, top sacking), the winter white coat can see service from November to April. It's meant to be a working part of a wardrobe rather than a luxury to be worn a few times, then set aside.

Generally, the styling for these winter white coats is simple and pure of line. Often they are trimmed and bound in white satin, a tiny touch to heighten the dazzling effect of the white.

A good many women are going to have an immediate feeling that winter white coat will present constant cleaning problems. Actually this should not be so if it is used as a second coat in a winter wardrobe.

Your fur coat or regular daytime coat should take the heavy wear. The white coat with its essential elegance will take you all of the places where you want to look really dashing.

Want Success on Job?

Working girls, wide awake about their jobs but fast asleep about their charm potentials, are being awakened gently by Doreen Teeling.

At the request of businessmen Miss Teeling conducts glamor sessions in factories and offices. She has been in the business of teaching good grooming in industry since 1951.

The bosses are happy to pay for her course consisting of seven two-hour sessions. They are eager to help their feminine employees find a middle road between being overly dressed and poorly groomed, she says.

The tall, willowy blonde from the Middle West has learned from the tycoons of industry the many taboos of office dress. Thus Miss Teeling developed this list.

1. Open-toed shoes are not for business. Always wear closed heel and toe, preferably the opera pump.
2. Large-patterned dresses, sheer blouses, low-cut necklines are out of place.
3. Skirts and sweaters should not be worn on the job.
4. A suit is fine if it is not so heavy that the wearer must spend the day in her skirt and blouse.
5. Make-up taboos include overdoing the whole idea. Green eye shadow, for example, is too exotic.

See No Harm in Novels, Movies, Songs

Teen-Agers Deny That Smut Affects Them

By EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert Youth
Research Co.

Most of you young folks tell me that smutty novels, movies and songs are doing you no harm.

I was much interested in this view, which sums up the results of more than 1,000 interviews across the country, because adults often seem worried about what effect such material has on the younger generation.

GILBERT: "Sex is out in the open, but it isn't hurting us." Is the answer I get from four-fifths of you.

It just may be that the old folks see smut where none exists — or at least where their sons and daughters don't see it.

Only a fifth of you teenagers regard many pop songs as suggestive. The figures on movies and novels are more impressive, but still only 38 per cent of you think that many movies are suggestive, and only 68 per cent regard many popular novels.

Granted that a movie or book has a bad reputation, what do you do about it? Rush out to see it or read it? Not if you act like most teen-agers tell me they act.

"Most say they don't go out of their way to take in such stuff. And far more assure me that they are positively repelled rather than attracted."

In any case, 80 or 90 per cent assert that such entertainment and reading material has no bad influence either on them or on their friends.

"I feel I am old enough and mature enough to screen out junk and treat it as such," comments Gilda Rubinstein, 16, of New Rochelle, N.Y.

SMUT IS OUT

Let's see what you young people say about current movies: "Movie makers seem to think they have to have suggestive things in it to get publicity," Sharon Wilson, 15, Fairbairn, Minn.

"I don't go to the movies very often but when I do I want to see a picture I will enjoy and not be embarrassed by saying I saw it," Harriet Hall, West Coates, Conn.

"I know my standards and if a movie could change them, I'd better re-evaluate myself," Loraine Jokinen, 15, Detroit.

About novels they say: "They go into unnecessary details concerning sex," Della Felix, 14, Atlanta.

"I feel I can read better books than the suggestive ones," Lily Moler, 13, San Francisco.

"With school work and all I have to do there is little though time for reading and so I choose only books of definite merit," Fred Sidell, 15, Miami.

Bessie Haskett, 11, South Bend, Ind., speaks for the 17 per cent of you who say you read very little.

"Everyone is talking about this book. They say the book is dirty and you want to be able to talk about it, too, so you read the book."

The story is different when we come to the music you like-rock 'n' roll.

PARENTS NOT DATED: Only 20 per cent of you find many pop songs suggestive, only 6 per cent of you look for the suggestive in these songs and just 2 out of 100 feel a suggestive song would have any influence on you.

In rising to the defense of your popular songs, you often remark that you dance to rock 'n' roll—you don't analyze its good or bad lyrics and when you're listening to rock 'n' roll, you just let it go in one ear and out the other.

Another remark heard often is "Most of the words don't make sense—I just like rock 'n' roll."

Seventy-four per cent of the young people we talked to feel there is no need for laws against suggestive movies, songs and novels. And, in fact, if there were such laws, you say, they probably wouldn't be enforced.

Most of the interviewed—63 per cent of those interviewed—said their parents' attitude on suggestive movies, music and fiction is don't consider their viewpoints old fashioned. Ninety-one per cent ap-fashoned.

Flaky Butterhorns Made of Refrigerator Dough

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Home Editor, roll rolls add the perfect touch to a meal. Really, they aren't difficult to make. These Butterhorns of Mrs. Harvey Hahnfeld's are light and flaky.

Mrs. Hahnfeld has a new home that has kept her pretty busy for some months. She enjoys interior decorating and painting. Reading is another hobby of hers.

BUTTERHORNS

By Mrs. Harvey Hahnfeld

2 packages yeast
1 cup warm water
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1 cup soft butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups flour

1 cup warm milk
1/4 cup sifted flour

Dissolve yeast and 1/2 teaspoon sugar in the 1/2 cup warm water. Cream butter or margarine with sugar. Add eggs, salt, milk, yeast and flour. Mix thoroughly. Let stand overnight in the refrigerator.

In the morning divide dough into 4 parts. Roll out each part into a circle like pie crust. Brush with melted butter or margarine and cut into wedges. Roll up, starting with small end. Place on greased baking sheet and let rise 3 hours.

Bake 25-30 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes 34 dozen.

Give Watch Bath

Even your watch needs washing — if it's waterproof. Since salt water, acids, and other fluids can pit and corrode the stainless steel finish of the case and wrist band, a waterproof watch should be washed through warm soap or detergent and rinses regularly. Then dry with a soft cloth.

This care is recommended by experts, who point out that water can't penetrate the hermetically sealed mechanism of a waterproof watch.

Tracade, on St. George's Bay in Nova Scotia, was settled by French colonists in 1778.

Relax With Exercise

Stretch to Relieve Tension

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Just a few weeks ago I gave you slimming exercises for the waist, hips and abdomen, the three spots where excess weight harasses us most. Today I am going to give you some exercises which will relax you.

Stretching is extremely refreshing when tension is dogging you. Stand with your arms raised overhead. Lower your head back slightly and stretch up toward the ceiling with your arms.

Bend slightly, or away, from left to right, still stretching upward. You will feel the pull all the way down your torso. This should be done slowly in a lazy, stretchy manner. Relax and continue.

Now point your left toe as far out to the left as you can (toe touching floor), stretching your left leg. At the same time raise your right arm sideward upward until you feel the pull down the right side. Hold while you count to five. Return to starting position.

This time point your right toe to the side and raise your left arm sideward upward until you feel the stretch down the left side of your body. Hold while you count to five. Continue a few times, alternating.

Now try this one. Kneel on both knees. Bend at the waist and touch the fingertips to the floor as far out in front of you as comfortable.

Drag the fingertips along the floor and then up your body as you slowly straighten your spine. Arms continue on to the overhead position. Do this so slowly that you seem to feel each vertebra as it straightens. Continue.

One more. Stand tall. Lower your head backward as far as comfortable. Raise the head and touch the chest with the chin. Continue slowly.

These four exercises are guaranteed to banish tension and make you feel relaxed. Try them at the end of some tiring day, or even better, during the day before you become so weary.

Starch for Gloves

(AP) — While gloves should be washed as soon as possible after they are soiled. A small amount of liquid starch added to the rinse water keeps them looking like new.

This stretching exercise will relax you. Touch the fingertips to the floor as far out in front of you as comfortable. Drag the fingertips along the floor and then up your body as you slowly straighten your spine. Arms continue on to overhead position.

Friendship With Aged Pays Many Dividends

By RUTH MILLETT

We hear a lot of talk these days about what should be done for our senior citizens.

Most of the talk is what can be done by government aid. But there is very little talk about the older person's need for companionship, for friendship, for being useful. No kind of legislation is going to take care of those needs. If they are to be met, it will have to be done on an individual basis.

I have before me a letter from a man of 80 who asks: "I wonder if you would be kind enough to make a suggestion as to how a partially incapacitated man of 80 could go about to make new friends?"

He writes that he can no longer afford to pay dues to the lodge where, in the past, he found most of his masculine companionship and though he has a "loving and attentive wife" he feels the need of a few male friends.

Shouldn't lodges and men's organizations be making a real effort to keep in touch with their elderly members? Shouldn't members who reach a certain age be relieved of the obligation to pay dues?

Shouldn't churches be doing more to provide companionship for older members?

And shouldn't we all see that older persons in our own neighborhoods aren't left alone and lonely? The man whose letter I quoted can't very well, at the age of 80, go out and seek new friends on his own. But friendship and companionship could be offered to him by his neighbors, by members of his church and by members of his lodge.

When we let our older citizens live in isolation, just because they are old, we not only condemn them to loneliness but we lose a lot ourselves.

We lose the chance to understand first-hand the problems of aging. And we lose a wonderful opportunity to give of ourselves. For a happier life and a happier marriage, send for a copy of Ruth Millett's new booklet, "How to Have a Happy Husband." Mail 25c for each copy to Ruth Millett Reader Service, c/o The Pontiac Press, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 15, N.Y.

Manila Roberts Marries

300 Witness Wedding

Some 300 guests attended the Saturday wedding of Manila Roberts of Birmingham and David C. Simpson in Marquette Baptist Church.

Pink candelabra and baskets of pink white roses and gladioli adorned the altar for the ceremony performed by the Rev. Philip W. Somers.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roberts of Five Street, Birmingham and the Rev. C. Simpson of Willard Street.

The bride's floor length taffeta gown was fashioned with a Sabina neckline, white embroidered bodice and beautiful skirt gathered at the back and embellished by four white taffeta roses.

Her imported crystal crown with forehead veil was worn with an illusion veil and she held a colonial bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

The attendants Diana Swanson, honor maid and Pat Lynch of Troy and Sandy Williams of Birmingham, the bride's maid, were gowned alike in cotton blue lace frocks with fitted full skirts and matching accessories.

Ceremonies and recess, American Beauty for the maid of honor and pink for the bridesmaids, comprised their bouquets.

Sue Roberts of Yelland, the bride's niece, was flower girl, holding a basket of white and pink roses. The ring bearer was Barry Smiles.

The duties of best man were performed by Jack Selzer, ushering were Jack, Sheri and Sheridan Roberts of Birmingham, brother of the bride.

At a reception in the church parlors Mrs. Roberts greeted guests wearing a lustrous blue lace dress with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a navy blue suit with beige accessories. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

Before leaving for a honeymoon in the Muskogean area, the bride donned a brown check wool suit with matching accessories and the white rose corsage from her bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Grand Rapids.

Smart Woman Looks Pretty for Family, Too

(NEA)—Every city and town in this country has its share of attractive, active and beautifully groomed mature women. They turn up at club luncheons looking bright-eyed and spruce.

But later that afternoon, at home, it's a different story. The man who comes to deliver a package from the department store is quite likely to see a head full of bristling rollers, rundown slippers and a worn-out dress that's just one step away from the rag bag.

This, too, is the sight that greets the family in the evening. And there isn't much excuse for it. To present a glowing picture to strangers and the other side of the coin to people nearest to you is poor form.

Those curlers can be covered with a fetching, frilly nylon cap. If you want to change into something comfortable at the end of the day, let it be a really pretty robe or an inexpensive cotton dress.

Take off that stale make-up at the day's end with refreshing, warm soapwater. Then apply fresh make-up. Powder, rouge and lipstick. Take five minutes at the most and the results are worth the effort.

Girls Have Top Record for Safety

NEW YORK (UPI)—Boy drivers are more concerned with the care of an automobile — but girl drivers have a better safety record.

Automotive experts from a firm that makes an anti-freeze said so in an analysis of habits among the more than six million teenage drivers.

The experts said the boy drivers see that oil is changed regularly, keep tires properly inflated and have the car winterized before cold weather sets in.

"Like their mothers, girls are inclined to think these mechanical details magically take care of themselves," the automotive authorities said.

To show that the girls have a better safety record, however, the experts said that insurance rates do not rise when the young ladies in a family start to drive.

But when a teenage boy operates the family car, insurance rates are boosted 50 per cent. The auto experts said that the superior safety records of girl drivers may be due in part to the fact that boys do more driving, handling the wheel on dates and spinning about for the pure fun of motoring.

Public Baths Go

Another wonderful old custom is no more! In Plainfield, Michigan, the public baths have been removed from the basement of the library.

For more than one hundred years, the bathhouse there had been kept in constant use by townspeople — who called to make reservations for a warm soak in soapwater! Wonder how many water-logged books were returned to the shelves during all those years!

The betrothal of Margrit Grieder, daughter of Mrs. Edward G. Grieder of Basel, Switzerland, and the late Mr. Grieder, to Edward H. Roje, son of the Horace G. Rojes of Bloomfield Hills, has been announced. Mr. Roje manages the German branch of a Birmingham engineering company in Wiesbaden.

Washington Evergreens Set Theme

Birmingham Garden Group in Yule Show

Double-needle evergreens from the State of Washington in the shape of miniature Christmas trees mark the entrance to the 23rd Christmas show being staged today by the Birmingham Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, at the Community House.

Mrs. George S. Dixon is general chairman, with Mrs. Seth B. Slawson and Mrs. Hobart D. Andrews in charge of the schedule and Mrs. Norman W. Berry, stage director.

Presiding at the tea table in the Ruth Shain room done by Mrs. Victor A. Brain in pink and antique green will be Past President Mrs. Alvin H. Knorr, President Mrs. Nelson A. Miles, Mrs. F. Gordon Davis, president of the Michigan division, and Mrs. Raymond E. Giffels.

Committee chairmen are Mrs. Robert Caldwell and Mrs. Aldo Patrie, properties; Mrs. J. Vinton Birch, schedule cover; Mrs. Stuart Gaston and Mrs. Royal E. Paulette, entries; Mrs. Aaron H. Webster, passing.

Others are Mrs. Edward Sipe, hospitality, assisted by Mrs. Philip DeBauben; Mrs. Herbert A. Carr, social; Mrs. C. V. DiPietro, publicity; Mrs. James Hunter, horticulture; Mrs. J. Reed Alexander, hortotherapy.

Mrs. R. B. Pokorny, junior gardening chairman, has the exhibits arranged by children, most imaginative and interesting. Mrs. Knorr was hostess at a brunch at the Community House Wednesday for the 12 judges and clerks.

the Birmingham Community House is Mrs. Alvin H. Knorr of Birmingham, past president.

Tip to Painters

(UPI) — Wide-mouthed paper pails are a convenience for mixing paint, but it is not a good idea to leave the paint in them overnight. The bottom might drop out. Emptying the pails after each painting session permits a thin film to form on the inside and results in making paint, but it is not a good idea to the pail even stronger.

You Need Both Diet, Exercise for Trim Look

(NEA) — A good many women seem to be puzzled by the value of exercise versus diet in carving out a slender figure. Actually, to attain a trim figure, you need both. The value of a sound diet lies in over-all weight reduction. You need to take off ten or fifteen pounds and you do. Fine. But once you've done it, you somehow still haven't the proportions you had expected. Your hips still seem bulgy, your upper arms are flabby and your legs need trimming down. What's needed, then, is not a further weight reduction but spot exercise.

"WALK" FLOOR
For the hips, you should sit down on the floor and "walk" across it by rolling your body first to one side and then the other. For the upper arm, do the backstroke in a standing position. For pretty legs, take a walk. But take a good long walk every single day. And wear mid-heels while you're about it. Exercise can turn even a poor figure into a trim one if it's used regularly and coupled with a sound diet.

TIME TO BUY — Unscrupulous merchants take advantage of the Christmas shopping rush.

'Tis the Jolly Season for Yuletide Swindlers;

WASHINGTON (NEA)—'Tis the season to be jolly. 'Tis also the jolly busy season for swindlers and hijackers.

That's the holiday word from two government agencies, the Federal Trade Commission and the FBI.

FTC investigators warn that unscrupulous store owners and manufacturers pull off their most lucrative swindles at Christmas time when men and women buy presents for the opposite sex.

The swindlers take advantage of the fact that most men know very little about the prices of commodities usually bought by women and vice-versa. This ignorance combined with the holiday shopping rush confusion often adds up to an easy swindle.

Males are most often gypped when buying perfume, hosiery, lingerie and furs. Women often are cheated when purchasing luggage, brief cases, fountain pens, and socks. Both sexes can be targets for a fleecing when it comes to buying watches.

Most popular type of swindle is the false price markdown used to con the customer into believing he's getting the bargain of the year.

In such swindles, the so-called "original price" on the label is phony. Its purpose is to conceal the fact that the "sales" price is more than the article is worth in the first place.

One false mark-down gimmick is pre-ticketing. The manufacturer prints what's supposed to be the selling price on the products.

The mark-down price that the store owner invariably gives the product is still more than it's worth. FTC officials explain that pre-ticketing swindle is often used in selling watches and men's hosiery.

A fictitious price gimmick used to get rid of especially low quality items, like cheap perfume, involves running a one-shot ad in a national magazine. The listed price is usually high.

Several days after the magazine hits the stands, salesmen start peddling the product door-to-door or in stores.

Their pitch is that here's the same item, advertised in a big name magazine, now being sold at a drastically low price. They have a copy of the magazine to prove it, too.

Such appeal is used to sell low quality watches. In a recent case, FTC officials cracked down on an outfit that was importing watch cases from Hong Kong and advertising them as "Swiss."

Consumers can protect themselves by being suspicious of drastic markdowns that look "too good to be true," and of door-to-door salesmen who offer spectacular bargains.

Honest merchants and manufacturers, however, have little protection against their major criminal adversary, the hijacker.

The FBI says Christmas always sparks a boom in the robbing of trucks which, beginning in November, start transporting extra-large shipments of clothing, liquor, tobacco, TV sets, furniture and radios.

Items like these can be unloaded easily on the black market at any time.

And just as in the honest world of business, there's an increased demand for such items during the holiday season among underworld

Dog Recruit Expected by State Police

EAST LANSING (UPI) — State police expect to have a new recruit at the East Lansing headquarters about the first of the year, but he won't need a blue uniform and he'll work for just his food and an occasional pat on the head.

The four-year-old German Shepherd police dog Jacko was to report for duty as a police dog with troop patrolman Richard Abbott.

Abbott and Jacko recently completed the training course at the St. Louis, Mo., Police Department Dog Training School.

State police said the dog was the first animal in an experiment to see if dogs can be used successfully in Michigan police work.

The dog, who weighs 85 pounds, is all black and had to have his name changed from Dago Von Liebestraum to become a police dog, lives with Abbott and his family at Monroe. Abbott is currently assigned to the Erie, Pa., post.

The dog is highly trained to act at commands, mostly for search procedures.

But Jacko will protect himself or his handler in the event of physical attack, Abbott said. But he emphasized that the dog is not vicious, likes the training and is gentle with the family.

It Must Be Exactly Right for the Situation

Pick Your Little Pet Pal Properly

NEW YORK (NEA) — If you decide to give an animal as a gift, first make sure you're not hating up the wrong ally.

While it's a rare person who doesn't like animals, not everyone has the time or facilities to care for them. If you still want to give a pet, the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals may have the answer to your problem — adopt one.

Cats, dogs and other animals are waiting at shelters for some one to take them home for Christmas — and they're free. The only money involved is the cost of a license where necessary.

This doesn't mean you can solve all your presenting problem by running down to your local shelter and asking for a dozen cats and dogs gift wrapped. There's a little more to it than that.

Janice Paprin, a spokesman for the ASPCA, has some suggestions whether you buy or adopt an animal.

"Make sure the one receiving the animal really wants it," Miss Paprin warns. "They may take it only because they don't want to hurt your feelings."

"When picking a pet, take into consideration the size, breed, disposition of the animal, the size of the home or apartment and the age of children in the home."

Miss Paprin recommends small (but not tiny) to medium sized dogs for children. Children under five are usually too young for a live pet. Handling of pets by older children should be supervised. In the case of a dog, it should be about six months old.

PITY POOR PUPS

Children like to pick up puppies and this could lead to an injury to the pup. An older dog has a better chance to fend for himself. If you choose a female, consider having her spayed to prevent unwanted puppies.

It's a good idea to buy a book on pets and their care before you select an animal. Have the person receiving the animal read the book beforehand so that he'll know how to care for the new friend when he arrives.

"The animal should be introduced into the household in an atmosphere of calm," Miss Paprin says. "Bring him home a few days before or a few days after Christmas so that he can receive undivided attention and get acquainted with his new surroundings without a lot of hustle and bustle going on around him."

NOT IN STOCKING
"It may look cute," Miss Paprin says, "but never hang the animal up in a stocking or put him in a box under the tree. You may walk away and forget all about him. Prepare a place ahead of time where the pet will be kept. Have feeding dishes, a bed and of course, food on hand."

Don't forget that puppies are just like little children. You have to have patience when it comes to housebreaking them. Information in your dog book.

"Children should be taught how to handle animals with kindness and consideration," Miss Paprin says. "And last but not least, warn the youngsters that the pet's tail is not the leash."

IF HER homework centers around her kitchen, she'll love a colorful 'kitchenette' lighter of fine china. Sprightly fruit and vegetable design brightens any room.

The big bass drum was not at first among the Salvation Army's musical "weapons." But as soon as Salvationists discovered how its booming inspired outdoor meetings and inspired singing, the drum was seldom absent. In outdoor services, the bass drum has often been turned on its side and used as a penitents' bench.

Mackie Joins List of State Engineers

DETROIT (UPI)—State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie's name today is included in a new list of 448 engineers qualified by the State Board of Registration for Architects, Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors.

Mackie's right to run for the office he now holds was challenged in 1957 in a suit that went to the State Supreme Court because he wasn't a registered engineer.

Mackie took and passed the exams for registration last summer.

He said that now that he is registered and if he runs for reelection next spring, he hopes this "side issue" will be eliminated.

Mackie is a 1942 civil engineering graduate of Michigan State University.

Humidity Change Sends Electronic Brain on 'Spree'

TORONTO (UPI)—Some say electronic computers can't think—and maybe they can't. But the machine, employed by Toronto Transit Commission to produce payroll checks, rebelled when the building's air conditioning was switched off at the end of hot weather.

In a show of displeasure it disgorged thousands of payroll checks, overwritten by as much as $88.90.

"It was terribly embarrassing," said Treasurer James H. Kearns. The electronics experts said it was only the humidity varying cards on which the machine fed.

In any event, everything's back to normal now. The computer works fine. And so does the specially installed air conditioner.

Urges Creation of Urban Dept.

It's Probably a Symbol of Security or Status

Wife Really DOES Want That Mink Coat

By PHYLIS BATTLE
NEW YORK — Urgent memo to the typical American husband:

Dear Sir—
When you ask your wife what she wants for Christmas, does she really flippantly, "Oh, a mink coat will be fine?"

Of course she does.
And you think she's kidding, don't you? She chuckles and says, "Sure, sure, and I would not be difficult about a Rolls Royce." To which she chuckles and shrugs, "Drop dead."

But drop dead is under her superficial layers of humor, sentiment, pancake make-up and composure — is the American housewife really looking after her desire for a fur Christmas?

Not on your life savings, she can't. She wants a mink so much she can taste it (makes you pucker, sort of like kumquats).

This fact is statistically proven by a survey just completed among hundreds of housewives in urban and suburban communities across the country last September. Of the women queried, 76 per cent had a good idea, even at this early date, exactly what they wanted to find under the tree this Christmas.

And the "overwhelming heart's desire" of this group was for a mink coat or stole, or for a piece of some other kind.

Sweaters, watches, rings, sewing machines, perfume and a new car came next on their lists.

Now, does this indicate that her wife is harboring beneath her gentle heart a hard core of greed?

Of course that's a matter of individual personalities but all the best evidence points to the fact that the monetary value of a mink coat has little to do with her desire for it; only two per cent of the women queried had any interest in receiving money for a present.

The mink, then, probably is a symbol (to a woman) either of security or of status.

(A few women might conceivably want it for warmth, but it is perhaps significant to note here that not one of the girls questioned mentioned a desire for electric blankets, gas-heating or thermal underwear.)

We have two suggestions for the husband of a woman who earnestly desires a mink coat or stole:

1) If she desires it as a status symbol, and you can afford it, by all means give it to her.

She'll be easier to live with, and it'll be a kick to see what her "gratitude" is next Christmas.

2) If she desires it for a sense of security, look into your own behavior. . . . Mink will never replace man in the art of making a woman seriously secure.

The survey (conducted by Chicago Printed String Co., gift-wrap maker) also revealed the following statistics.

The average American family spends $226 annually for gifts — $147 at Christmas time. The most costly gift of the family budget is the wedding gift, averaging a whopping $17.

Next come anniversary gifts at $13, followed by Mother's Day gifts at $10, Father's Day $9, baby gifts $8, showers $7, Easter $6.30, birthday $6, graduation and going-away gifts $5.

For Christmas gifts, the average price is a relatively meagre $4.61.

Under the circumstances, when the housewife confesses she spends only $4.61 for most Christmas gifts, isn't it a bit unrealistic that she asks for a mink coat for herself? Of course it is. But a woman is a woman is a dreamer.

Makes Fine Playmate

Little Dog Trains Child

A puppy isn't just another Christmas present to a child. It not only will be your youngster's playmate for years to come, but it can help him in the important business of growing up.

With proper adult supervision, the responsibility of caring for a puppy can help a child become unselfish, reliable, and learn the proper respect for property.

If the child participates in the training, he also will learn that patience, obedience and understanding have priceless rewards.

Average temperature of the earth's surface is said to be 60 degrees.

How Good Are FCH Cagers This Season?

Area Collegians Named on AP All-State Team

Six players from Oakland County are on the Associated Press All-State small college football team announced today.

Heading the list is Hillsdale's Jim Larkin, Drayton Plains, a first team tackle selection. On the second team are Hillsdale guard Paul Christo, Oak Park, and Albion fullback Gerry Snider, Royal Oak.

Three players made honorable mention. They are Alma and Jim Greenlee, Ann Arbor; Alma halfback Dave Peters, Rochester; and Hillsdale halfback Jim Drake, Lake Orion.

Northern Michigan and Hillsdale, the top small college teams in the state, dominated the squad picked by coaches, sports writers and broadcasters. Northern's Wildcats placed six men. Hillsdale's MIAA champions earned five spots.

The squad and all coaches will be honored at a luncheon at Marshall at noon on Dec. 13. Special awards will go to first and second team players, and to F. L. (Frosty) Fernandez, named earlier this week as AP's coach-of-the-year.

Top vote getter on the AP squad is Duke Davis, Hillsdale's great two-way center. He gets the honorary captaincy of the first team.

Larkin is a 250-pounder who, like Davis, has earned four letters for coach Frank (Muddy) Waters' fine teams.

Grosse Pointe May Give Clue Saturday Night

Valley Champs Hope Fed Will Be Ready for League Opener

By BILL CORNWELL

Just how good is the Pontiac Central High School basketball team this season?

Are Art Van Ryn's cagers good enough to win their first straight Saginaw Valley Conference championship and 4th in the last five years?

Do they have the scoring power, depth and balance to again dominate Michigan's toughest Class A schoolboy league. How will they be regarded by the voters when the weekly polls begin?

It's far too early to know the answer to any of these questions, of course, and certainly not much better with the return of the pressure applied by a top-notch opponent.

It's generally conceded that the Chiefs do have some "horses of championship caliber."

The T-Birds just didn't have the personnel to compete with PCI on anywhere near even terms and consequently the Chiefs have yet to make a winning record.

Fed, an agile 6'3" center and an outstanding All-State candidate, broke his right thumb in the Flint Central football game and did not see action against Edsel Ford.

Nor will he see any action Saturday night in the FCH gymnasium when the Chiefs meet Grosse Pointe.

Van Ryn is hoping that Fed will be ready to go a week from tomorrow night when the Chiefs travel to Saginaw against Arthur Hill.

Grosse Pointe still is a highly capable club this season and the Blue Devils may furnish a strong challenge to the talent and abilities of the current Central outfit.

In the words of Van Ryn: "We've got rebounding. If we can come up with some good outcourt shooting and develop a sound defense, I think we'll be real tough this season."

The Chiefs had good outcourt shooting in the Edsel Ford contest, especially from Clarence Douglas and Little Bob Smith, who were junior varsity performers last season.

Douglas netted 23 points and Smith 12.

Big Brad Pittchett, still trying to round into basketball form after just coming off the football field, gave a good account of himself Tuesday by scoring 15 points and grabbing 14 rebounds.

Central's depth has yet to be tested under pressure. Van Ryn used every varsity player in uniform Tuesday, but the Chiefs had such a big lead in the 2nd half that their floor play became cardroom and sloppy and it was difficult to tell how good the bench strength really is.

Sophomores Andy Roach and Bobbie Graves, Junior Paul Brown and Otto Kennedy and senior Dennis Diehl looked OK by spells.

Kennedy, a 6-foot-6 stringbean with no previous varsity experience, jumps well and has excellent hands, but he needs a steady diet of action to come to the front as a standout player.

It's still a long season and anything can happen. But it's a pretty safe bet that the Chiefs will make a lot of noise before the campaign is over. Just how loud a noise they'll make may be known shortly.

Trade Talk Involves 'Rock'

Tigers Huddle With Dodgers Over Colavito

Scheffing Hints He'd Like to Have Snider and Hodges

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Detroit Tigers are talking trade for Rocky Colavito, their celebrated home run hitter who came to them in baseball's top 1960 deal.

Word that the Rock is on the block came out after a huddle between the Tigers and officials of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Rick Ferrell, who heads the Detroit delegation at the minor league meetings here, said the negotiations were exploratory. But manager Bob Scheffing indicated he'd like to have two of the Dodgers' aging veterans—Gil Hodges and Duke Snider—in Tiger uniforms next season.

Buzzie Bavasi, general manager of the Dodgers, caused a stir when he commented on one of his trade confabs.

"An American League club has offered us a player that I think would insure a permanent for Los Angeles," said Bavasi.

There were reports that the player was Colavito, Tiger Al Kaline or Jim Lemon of Minneapolis.

St. Paul's new twins, The Tigers, however, have an unimpeachable tag on Kaline.

Bavasi said he would like to acquire a right-handed home hitter to aim at the friendly left field screen in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Colavito could become expendable to the Los Angeles gardeners to acquire an experienced outfielder.

There are reports here that Bill Broun, going to Detroit in a trade for Frank Bolling, Bolling has been mentioned in trade talk with three National League clubs.

One of the players Wood is so glowing that the Tigers may feel free to trade their second baseman for an outfielder.

Another report had Colavito headed for Los Angeles in exchange for four players — the Tigers' pick of outfielder Don Demeter, infielders Jim Gilliam and Bob Little and pitchers Danny McDonald, Ed Palquist and Jim Gaudin.

Detroit was disappointed in Colavito's hitting and fielding last season after the big trade in which Harvey Kuiper went to Cleveland.

John Pizarro, an erratic left hander, Carleton Willey, Chuck Coker, Mel Roach, and Charley Lam are other players the Braves mentioned in dealings for Bolling.

Wolverine Hockey Team Opens Against Toronto

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The Michigan hockey team will host the University of Toronto here Friday and Saturday in a pair of non-conference games.

The Wolverines open the Western Collegiate Hockey Association schedule next week with a pair of contests against North Dakota at Ann Arbor.

Five letterman forwards, led by Capt. Dale MacDonell, are the nucleus of a veteran team that coach Al Renfrew, beginning his fourth season at U-M, hopes can improve on U-M's record of 12-2-2.

Tigers Pick Bob Swift to Manage Farm Team

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bob Swift, a Washington coach in 1960, yesterday was named manager of the Duluth-Superior club of the class C Northern League.

Jim Campbell, vice president of the Detroit Tigers, announced the appointment of Swift and two other managers in the Detroit farm system.

Al Lakeman, veteran catcher, will manage Durham, N.C., in the class B Carolina league. He managed Montgomery, Ala., in the Alabama Professional League last season.

Gail Henley, veteran outfielder, will succeed Lakeman at Montgomery. It will be the first managerial job for Henley who has played with Birmingham the last three years after Major League experience with Pittsburgh and New York in the National League.

Swift, who caught in the Majors for 13 years, coached at Detroit from 1953-1964 and at Kansas City from 1965-1969. He managed Altoona in 1968.

Lakeman caught in the National League with Cincinnati, Philadelphia and Boston from 1942 to 1949.

The season ticket sale has gone over 4,000. The students will take up another 3,500 leaving 1,500 for general sale which started this week.

Utah State, a finalist in the NIT last year, is ranked 4th in pre-season polls and observers in the Skyline conference area say that Utah State is Ohio State's big challenger for the top ranking.

U. of D. is ranked in the same pre-season poll and the Titans could shoot into the top five with a win over Utah State.

The U. of D. fieldhouse allows only 3,500 capacity for its games.

Hillsdale 11 Rated 8th

NEW YORK (AP) — Hillsdale, thanks to its 17-4 victory over Iowa State Teachers in the Mineral Water Bowl, has finished eighth in the final small college football ratings.

Hillsdale replaced Southern University of Baton Rouge, La., in the top 10. The Dales finished their season with a 9-1 record and got 29 points from the Associated Press panel of eight selectors.

Representing the eight NCAA districts.

Low Average Bowler Missing Big Chance

Are you a bowler who hasn't entered the Bowlerama because you have an average under 150, or the claims of a bowler over 150, or neither?

The percentages have shown that 25 per cent of the money lost are of bowlers under 150 and 15 per cent of bowlers over 150.

As example, the last two tournaments, showed that in 1958 there were 31 who shared the prize list in the 150-185 bracket (50 per cent); 15 with averages under 150 (25 per cent), and 14 with averages over 185 (25 per cent).

Last year 20 in the prize list were between 150 and 185, 18 between 167-185, 16 between 186-202 and 18 between 113-140.

The strange part of this year's Bowlerama is the lack of the 150-185 average bowler. In view of these statistics the low-average bowler is certainly missing a golden opportunity to grab a share of the big prize list.

An increase is seen in the bowlers over 185 average, many of whom have been drawn into the Bowlerama by the actual Invitational Championship which requires no additional entry fee and gives the high-average bowler additional opportunities for trophies and prizes.

The deadline for next Sunday's qualifying at How's Lanes closes at midnight last night. However, entries for the Dec. 11 qualifying can now be turned in, with next Wednesday as the final deadline.

Every qualifier is assured of a prize, and no handicap singles tournament kind of thing in the Detroit-Pontiac area offers the guaranteed prizes, entry-percentage prizes or awards in proportion to the number of entries that the Bowlerama offers.

The times and squads for Sunday's qualifying will be printed in Friday's Press sports page.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Larkin, a tackle on Hillsdale's MIAA and Mineral Bowl championship team, is on the Little All-America second team announced today by the Associated Press.

A senior from Drayton Plains, Larkin is also on the AP Michigan small college All-State eleven. He is one of two Michigan players to be listed on the Little All-America's top three teams. Bill Williamson, Michigan Tech end, is on the third team.

Gerry Snider, hard-running Albion fullback from Royal Oak, received honorable mention.

Larkin played for Waterford High School and was captain of the team his senior year. The 6-foot, 250-pound lineman received All-County and All-State recognition.

DETROIT (AP) — Terry Sawchuk will be in goal tonight when the Detroit Red Wings meet the Boston Bruins in a National Hockey League game at Olympia Stadium.

Coach Sid Abel said the club's other trouble, Hank Bassen, is still troubled somewhat by a leg injury. "Anyways," Abel added, "Terry deserves the chance because of his shutout against Toronto."

Sawchuk was in the nets Sunday night when the Red Wings blanked Toronto 2-0.

HICKORY, N. C. (AP) — The Northern Michigan College football team was due today for its Saturday NAIA Eastern playoff date with Lenoir Rhyne College.

The winner advances to the St. Petersburg, Fla., Holiday Bowl game Dec. 10. The other bowl team will be determined Saturday at Arcata, Calif., when Humboldt State meets Whitworth.

Northern Michigan, ranked 11th in the NAIA ratings, brings an 8-1 record into the game against top-ranked Lenoir Rhyne, which has won 10 in a row.

Northern Michigan, with a tackle to tackle lineup averaging 220 pounds, has a high-scoring powerhouse that averaged 33 points a game.

Coach Clarence Stasavage's Lenoir Rhyne team won the North State Conference crown for the sixth year in a row.

UNGUARDED — Boston Bruin goalie Bruce Gamble slides out onto the ice as the puck skids by his glove on an attempt by Chicago Black Hawk's Ron Murphy (10). Other players are

John Pizarro, an erratic left hander, Carleton Willey, Chuck Coker, Mel Roach, and Charley Lam are other players the Braves mentioned in dealings for Bolling.

Wolverine Hockey Team Opens Against Toronto

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The Michigan hockey team will host the University of Toronto here Friday and Saturday in a pair of non-conference games.

The Wolverines open the Western Collegiate Hockey Association schedule next week with a pair of contests against North Dakota at Ann Arbor.

Five letterman forwards, led by Capt. Dale MacDonell, are the nucleus of a veteran team that coach Al Renfrew, beginning his fourth season at U-M, hopes can improve on U-M's record of 12-2-2.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Larkin, a tackle on Hillsdale's MIAA and Mineral Bowl championship team, is on the Little All-America second team announced today by the Associated Press.

A senior from Drayton Plains, Larkin is also on the AP Michigan small college All-State eleven. He is one of two Michigan players to be listed on the Little All-America's top three teams. Bill Williamson, Michigan Tech end, is on the third team.

Gerry Snider, hard-running Albion fullback from Royal Oak, received honorable mention.

Larkin played for Waterford High School and was captain of the team his senior year. The 6-foot, 250-pound lineman received All-County and All-State recognition.

As a freshman at Hillsdale, he started for the Dales in the Holiday Bowl at St. Petersburg, Fla.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Little All-America football team selected by The Associated Press.

DETROIT (AP) — Terry Sawchuk will be in goal tonight when the Detroit Red Wings meet the Boston Bruins in a National Hockey League game at Olympia Stadium.

Coach Sid Abel said the club's other trouble, Hank Bassen, is still troubled somewhat by a leg injury. "Anyways," Abel added, "Terry deserves the chance because of his shutout against Toronto."

Sawchuk was in the nets Sunday night when the Red Wings blanked Toronto 2-0.

HICKORY, N. C. (AP) — The Northern Michigan College football team was due today for its Saturday NAIA Eastern playoff date with Lenoir Rhyne College.

The winner advances to the St. Petersburg, Fla., Holiday Bowl game Dec. 10. The other bowl team will be determined Saturday at Arcata, Calif., when Humboldt State meets Whitworth.

Northern Michigan, ranked 11th in the NAIA ratings, brings an 8-1 record into the game against top-ranked Lenoir Rhyne, which has won 10 in a row.

Northern Michigan, with a tackle to tackle lineup averaging 220 pounds, has a high-scoring powerhouse that averaged 33 points a game.

Coach Clarence Stasavage's Lenoir Rhyne team won the North State Conference crown for the sixth year in a row.

UNGUARDED — Boston Bruin goalie Bruce Gamble slides out onto the ice as the puck skids by his glove on an attempt by Chicago Black Hawk's Ron Murphy (10). Other players are Boston defense Leo Babin (20) and Dallas Smith (8) and winger Nick Stasiw (17). The Black Hawks tied the Bruins, 2-1, in Chicago Stadium.

PCH Back Gains Berth on All-Valley Team

McCauley Is Honored

By BILL CORNWELL
Dick McCauley, praised by every rival coach, was Pontiac Central's contribution to the 1960 All-Saginaw Valley Conference football team announced today.

The brilliant PCH halfback, who did everything for the Chiefs except sweep the dressing room, easily landed a berth on the honor squad selected by Saginaw Valley coaches and sports writers.

Joining McCauley on the Valley's first unit were four players from champion Flint Northern, four from runner-up Bay City Central and two from Arthur Hill, which tied PCH for fifth place in the final SVC standings.

Northern, which won the Valley crown for the 2nd straight year and swept through a nine-game schedule unheated and untied, contributed halfback Craig Nourse, tackle Carl Harris and ends Herb Cleaves and Willie Dent.

Representing Bay City, which posted an 8-1 record, were tackle Ken Wright, guard Scott Riebenack, center Mike Nuttall and quarterback Bob Crumpton. Wright is the only junior on the team.

The 170-pound, 5-foot-9 speedster reeled off 1,073 yards rushing in 145 attempts for an average of 7.4

yards per carry. He caught three passes for 25 yards and one touchdown and scored 15 touchdowns altogether.

He was equally valuable on defense where he intercepted four passes, recovered four fumbles and made nearly 50 per cent of the tackles in the defensive secondary. He was a crisp, sure tackler.

McCauley also did all the Chiefs' punting and averaged 30.2 yards on 28 kicks. An elusive and deceptive runner with a fine change of pace, McCauley was a smart ball carrier who knew how to pick his holes and use his blockers to best advantage.

As outstanding in the classroom as he was on the football field, McCauley is truly a worthy member of the 1960 All-Valley team—a talented and versatile performer.

THE STYLE CORNER OF PONTIAC

Greenberg, Kiner Regain Interest in LA Franchise

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The major league expansion picture took on another hue today with the report that Hank Greenberg and Ralph Kiner have regained interest in acquiring a franchise in Los Angeles.

A reliable source said Greenberg was ready to reconsider his decision to pull out of the Los Angeles picture if his American League colleagues made a more attractive player allotment offer to the 24 and 10th clubs. Greenberg wouldn't consider trying to operate a new franchise in the American League. "If he has to start with those fringe players put on the market, I'm not interested," Kiner said.

However, if the American League should place more attractive players on each 15-player list, Hank would almost certainly re-apply for a franchise. I'm sure he'd get it, too.

The American League is holding up announcement of its expansion plan—whether it will operate in 1961 with 8, 9 or 10 teams—until after two pivotal meetings.

The first of these meetings took place today between Ford Frick and league president Joe Cronin of the American and Warren Giles of the National. The purpose was to agree on an amendment of rule one which provides for unanimous agreement of all 16 clubs for major league to place a franchise in territory occupied by another big league club.

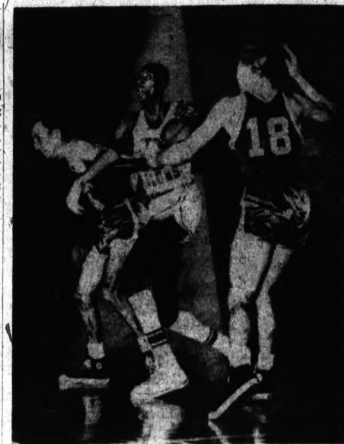

The American also is awaiting word from the National regarding its proposal for nine-team inter-league play in 1961. The National is slated to discuss this proposal at its annual meeting in St. Louis Dec. 3. Advance information is that the National will reject the proposal.

A suggestion offered by Frank Lane, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, would have each of the eight established clubs offer a "bonus" player for a $150,000 price. Each new club would have the option of purchase from one to four of these bonus players.

The National League's claim on Houston stems from its granting of a franchise to a Houston syndicate headed by Craig Cullinan Jr. and George Kirksey. The syndicate thus far has been unsuccessful in its bid to acquire the franchise from the Hopkins group. It has offered $300,000 against the asking price of $600,000.

Home Ice Helps Chicago Hawks Stay Near Top

If the Chicago Black Hawks could play all of their National Hockey League games at home they'd win the pennant in a breeze. They extended their unbeaten home ice string to 12 games, 8 victories and 4 ties, by tying the Boston Bruins 2-2 in the league's only action Wednesday night. The Hawks looked as if they were headed for victory as they held a 2-0 lead with less than 10 minutes remaining. Then Doug Murray and Ron Murphy got their second away in front in the first period, midway of the second period, and the Hawks moved to second place Montreal.

THE DUKE FOULED — Walt Dukes, Detroit Pistons' center, goes in for a shot and is slowed up by an elbow extended by Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics in their game at the Olympia last night. Jim Loscutt (18) of the Colts also moves in on Dukes. The Pistons lost to the Celtics.

East Makes Successful NBA Invasion of West

DETROIT (AP) — The power, as triumph in 16 games and gave far as the National Basketball the Hawks their second loss in a season, still rests now and sixth in 18 games.

This was proved again Wednesday night as the Boston Celtics smashed the Detroit Pistons 125-110 and Syracuse, third-ranked in the Eastern Division standings, shipped St. Louis, the top team in the Western Division, 115-126. Both games were played in Detroit's Olympia Stadium before 3,723.

The victory was the ninth straight for Boston, top team in the Eastern Division with 14 wins and only three losses. The Celtics now hold a 3½ game lead over second place Philadelphia and are 7½ ahead of Syracuse.

The Nets, despite their low divisional status, set St. Louis down 115-126 in five baskets and the hard as they collected their sixth straight victory.

Lou Koprince Rolls 700 at West Side

Lou Koprince, Captain of the strong, Biemar Inn team, got the first 700 series of the year in the West Side Classic this week when he shot games of 181-232-287-100 in his big game. Lou started with a spare and then shot 10 straight strikes before leaving the 6-10 split on his last ball.

This was a new high game and series in the Classic this year. On his big series, Lou helped his team to a two-game win over Calbi Music despite the fact that Chico Chivsky almost kept stride with him by shooting 247-195-234-676 for the losers.

Biemar had a strong 254 series on games of 364 1045 1035 294. High series of the night was rolled by the West Side Mobil boys when they strung together games of 1018 902 1018 296. Other high scoring included Judah Lake Mart 1058 in 2903, and Lake Center Drugs a 1020 1006 2937. The 1058 shot by Judah Lake was the high game of the night.

Judah Lake was a 3-game winner over Coca Cola. Triple X Lunch won 3 from Tony's Rental and West Side Lanes won 3 from Hazelton. Lettering to top the league. The rest of the lineup included two game victories for Blue Cleaners from Oakland Coin, Mobil from Plaza's Lounge, Sparks-Griffin over Pasquale's Pizzeria and Lake Center over Slater's Concrete.

Colts Need 'Concentration' Says Coach Awaiting Lions

BALTIMORE (U) — "What we need in our last three games is for every player to play his best—every minute," says coach Ewbank. "Concentration, concentration, that's what we need." The little general of the defending National Football League champions still was showing signs of anger over their failure to beat the San Francisco 49ers last Sunday.

While drawing up plans for next Sunday's revenge game with the Detroit Lions, Ewbank repeated "Concentration, concentration, that's what we need." "At times we look great. But then it takes only one missed snap, block or a wrong play to ruin it."

"We certainly missed too many last week and mostly by some players who had been looking for the best."

"There has been a lot of talk about Bill Pollington, Gino Marchetti and Art Donovan being too old on defense. They are not the ones."

Coach Ewbank customarily wouldn't identify those he felt let down.

He did say "We have the best defensive back in the league—at least we thought we did—but they didn't intercept a San Francisco pass. They didn't even tackle."

"It's not overconfidence. It's something you can't put your finger on. Just a lack of concentration."

A lot of people worried that the Colts aren't going to make it to their third straight championship playoff are pointing a finger at quarterback John Unitas.

That's because he has had 17 passes intercepted in nine games—three more than in all of last year's 12 games.

"It's the same thing, lack of concentration," said Ewbank. "But how are you going to complain if he is as great as he is most of the time?"

College Basketball Season Starts Tonight

By The Associated Press

The "new look" college basketball season officially opens tonight in all parts of the country.

Last year the headlines went for the most part to Oscar (Big O) Robertson of Cincinnati, Jerry West of West Virginia, Jerry Lucas of Ohio State, Darrell Imhoff of California, Lennie Wilkens of Providence, Lee Shaffer of North Carolina, Tom Sanders of NYU, Tony Jackson of St. John's and Tom Stith of St. Bonaventure.

Of these, only Lucas, Stith and Jackson are back. Lucas is a junior, Jackson and Stith are seniors. Expected to come to the fore are such players as Terry Dischinger of Purdue, Roger Kaiser of Georgia Tech, Bill (The Hill) McGill of Utah, Dave DeBusschere of Detroit and a giant sophomore, T. J. Lewis Qualls of Texas A&M.

Whether the Texas Aggies will threaten Texas for the Southwest Conference championship depends a lot on Qualls. He plays his first varsity game tonight, against Trinity (Tex.).

The top game of opening night, however, shapes up as the Ohio State encounter with Ohio University. This will be the first appearance of the Buckeyes since they won the national collegiate (NCAA) championship last March by beating California. It also will be Lucas' first appearance since he helped win the Olympic cage title for the United States at the Rome Games last summer.

Other top games find Bradley at Minnesota, Virginia Military at Kentucky and Utah at Los Angeles Loyola.

This trio of games should provide some indication of whether Bradley, the NIT champ, will succeed Cincinnati at champion in the Missouri Valley Conference; whether Utah will win the Skyline crown, and whether Kentucky will regain the top in the Southeastern Conference.

Virtually all the major teams in the country will be in action by Saturday night, when the final of the first major holiday tournament will be held. The tournament — the Kent State Invitational — opens Friday with Clemson playing Syracuse and Massachusetts playing Kent State.

Christians' Holy Land Route Now Freed of Tank Traps

JERUSALEM (UPI) — To find Christmas in Bethlehem, you must walk through large brown tents and along a way lined with the rubble of war.

But for the first time in 13 years pilgrims this year will not have to pick their way among the "Dragon's teeth."

These concrete tank traps along the Israeli-Jordan border have jarred the official state of war existing between the two since 1947. But before this Christmas season they were dug out of the ground with the consent of both nations.

Their absence will be a clear indication of the slowly improving relations between Israel and Jordan.

An estimated 3,500 Christians will cross from Israel into Jordan for Christmas in Bethlehem this year.

Winding their way through the border districts on the Israeli side they will pass shell-damaged homes and buildings, reminders of the war which ended 12 years ago and left Jerusalem divided.

As they walk on they will be watched by clusters of black-hatted children with long black ringlets in front of their ears identifying them as members of the city's orthodox Jewish religious quarter.

The pilgrims will present themselves for registration at several large tents set up for the occasion near the little green border post between Israel and Jordan.

Last year they will pass under a huge "Merry Christmas" banner, the frontier barrier will be lifted and they will find themselves in the country of Christ's birth.

The pilgrims always wear their Sunday best, some in colorful Arab dress and other in Western-style clothes. Along with their bundles for the journey they carry presents for relatives and friends "on the other side."

One family might hug a baby's bath tub, a stove, articles of clothing, or just a few delicacies to add to the Christmas dinner table.

The Christmas season in the Holy Land lasts longer than anywhere else. All the main divisions and sects of Christendom are represented by communities living in the land of Christ's birth.

Therefore, the holiday is celebrated three times, on Dec. 25 by most of the churches which follow the Orthodox and Eastern rite, and on Jan. 19 by the Armenian Church.

On each of the first two dates some 1,500 pilgrims will cross over into Jordan, while on the last there will be about 500.

Those wishing to make the pilgrimage must apply to the Israel Ministry of Interior. Preference is given to those who have never made the Christmas or Easter crossings or who have not made the pilgrimage in a long time. Older people are given a preferred position on the list.

After the lists are completed by the Israeli authorities—only one-third of the applicants usually are given clearance—they are submitted to Jordanian officials who usually disqualify about 7 per cent as "undesirables."

On Christmas Eve, crowds arrive in Jerusalem from all parts of Israel. They make their way to the Madaaba Gate, only opening in the sealed border.

Notice usually is given in advance that some persons will not be able to enter Jordan. But pilgrims sometimes are turned back on Christmas Eve after having gone as far as the actual check post on the Jordan side.

More often, though, the state of hostilities is forgotten in the Christmas season. Israelis and Arabs vie with one another in processing and checking the batches of pilgrims as quickly as possible before sending them on their way.

Officials at Troy Clash Over Airstrip Permit

U.S. Jury Hears Story of Hoffa's Mink Present

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Federal Court jury was told Wednesday that Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa gave a mink stole to his hotel's chief telephone operator after she allegedly helped disguise records of Teamster phone calls.

This testimony was given by Mrs. Evelyn Mead, a phone operator at the Woodner apartment hotel here where Hoffa stays.

Mrs. Sally T. Hucks, the hotel's former chief operator, and two others are charged jointly with conspiring to alter, destroy or conceal hotel records to thwart the Senate Labor Rackets Committee in its probe of Hoffa and his union.

Mrs. Hucks, 46, also is charged with perjury for allegedly telling the Senate committee she didn't have a mink stole.

Mrs. Mead asserted from the witness stand that Mrs. Hucks claimed ownership of such a stole and said it was a gift from Hoffa.

Mrs. Mead said that in September 1957, about the time Hoffa became Teamsters president, she and the other Woodner operators were instructed by chief operator Hucks to install a "red light" treatment for Hoffa and other Teamsters officials living at the hotel.

Under the system, Mrs. Mead testified, all local calls would be listed as going to a single local number regardless of where they actually were directed.

Similarly, she said, all outgoing long distance calls were listed as being made to a single number in Detroit "regardless of where they were going throughout the United States, whether California or New York or New Jersey or anywhere."

Asked whether chief operator Hucks gave the girls any reason for this, Mrs. Mead replied:

"A PROTECTION"

"She said it would be impossible to check on the places called and the parties talked to in that way. It was a protection for the Teamsters."

Mrs. Mead quoted the chief operator as saying the records were being subpoenaed by the government.

About a year later, Mrs. Mead said, she came to work one night to find Mrs. Hucks with a new mink stole. As Mrs. Hucks modeled it for the other girls, the witness said, she said: "Jimmie Hoffa gave it to me."

partment attorney, introduced a mink stole in evidence. Mrs. Mead said it appeared to be the same color and style as the one Mrs. Hucks had had.

The witness said the chief operator soon left for a vacation trip to Hawaii.

Mrs. Mead said Mrs. Hucks reported that the head of the Teamsters in Hawaii had been a gracious host and had provided a limousine for her use.

She said she "called Jimmie Hoffa and thanked him and he said it was nothing," Mrs. Mead testified.

The two other defendants are Moss Herman, a New York Teamster, and Joseph M. Williamson, an Urbana, Ill., attorney who was counsel for the Woodner and some Teamsters officials.

Plans Bazaar Saturday

ORTONVILLE—The Ortonville Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its annual bazaar and turkey dinner Saturday at the Masonic Hall. Serving will start at 5:30 p.m.

Needlework, mystery packages and baked goods will be on sale, and there also will be a fish pond. In addition two handkerchief-filled jewelry boxes will be given away, according to Worthy Matron Mrs. Ben Westberry.

Orion to Greet Santa Saturday

Parade Will Follow His Arrival by Train at 9:42 A.M.

LAKE ORION—Santa Claus arrives here from the North Pole at 9:42 a.m. Saturday aboard a New York Central Railroad train.

He'll be welcomed by practically the whole town, including the Lake Orion Community High School Band.

Village Council President Irvine J. Unger will be there to shake Santa's hand when he arrives at the Flint Street railroad crossing.

After his official welcome, Santa will be the main attraction in a parade led by the high school band.

WITH TOP DOWN!

The bewhiskered old gentleman will ride in an open convertible with Eugene Green, president of the Lake Orion Merchants' Association.

All along the parade route local merchants will display special flags to honor his arrival.

Children from the area will bring up the rear of the parade, which will travel east along Flint Street, south to Front Street and east to its destination, Russ Johnson's Motor Sales, 51 N. Broadway.

Children under 12 will receive gifts from their special holiday visitor at the auto dealership, which will be Santa's headquarters until Christmas.

Huber, Yanich Continue Digs

Argue With Each Other About 'Danger' From Robbins Plant

TROY — Mayor Robert J. Huber and City Commissioner Louis Yanich clashed again over an airstrip owned by the Jim Robbins Co. at a special commission meeting last night.

Yanich charged that the landing field, located behind Robbins' plastics firm at 14-Mile Road and Stephenson Highway, was a menace to public safety because it was too close to the Troy Drive-In Theater.

The commissioner said that an airplane taking off from the field could crash into the drive-in.

At an earlier commission meeting, Huber had accused Huber of political favoritism in dealing with Robbins.

Huber answered that Yanich's charges were ridiculous.

"He (Yanich) told us at this commission table that Mr. Robbins was going to blow up the city with his plastics plant," Huber said.

"I'm in the plastics business myself," the mayor continued, "and I know that plastics aren't dangerous." Huber told the commission that Yanich was telling people that Robbins was going to level the whole city with the chemicals at the plant.

"You always like to exaggerate," Yanich answered the mayor. "I haven't got anything against Mr. Robbins."

Yanich also said that Huber had misquoted him to the press.

The commissioner said Robbins "just wanted ahead and built a mile long strip before he applied for a building permit."

Yanich thought the city should bring legal action against Robbins because of this.

"Louis (Yanich) obviously just wants to drive industry out of the city," snapped Huber.

City Attorney Stanley Burke named the commissioners that the city presently has no airport ordinance. He said anyone could build an airport on his own property under present laws.

"There is no basis on which Robbins could be denied a building permit as it has been submitted," the attorney said.

City Manager David E. Firestone explained that the landing field is operated privately and only planes owned by the company use the strip and its facilities.

No action was taken later in the meeting when Burke submitted an airport ordinance which he said was a stop-gap measure to keep landing strips from opening up in the city.

Yanich said such an ordinance, if approved, should be complete. Burke was told to study airport ordinances of other communities and to receive information from the Michigan Municipal League so he could draw up a more effective ordinance.

The meeting was held to complete the agenda of Monday's commission session which was taken up with a discussion of a proposed local ordinance, which eventually was not approved.

In order that the Clawson-Troy Elks Club could locate in the city, the commission rezoned a piece of property across from Big Beaver Airport for their use.

Since the city has no special provision for local zoning, the property was zoned from residential to business.

LIBRARY UNDER CONSTRUCTION — Work on the new $100,000 West Bloomfield Township public library will continue through the winter months with completion scheduled in February. Shown is the rear of the building with its canopied multipurpose room. Designed by the Birmingham architectural firm of Strickel, Jaroszewicz and Moody, the library will house 50,000 volumes. The new facility will replace the main library located on K. K. K. Harbor. The new structure is on Orchard Lake Road, just north of Walnut Lake Road.

Hold Out at Caracas University

Rebel Die-hards Holed Up

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A Communist-backed pro-Castro rioting and student strike which has resulted in eight deaths.

His police grabbed about 250 persons in raids on white collar and other labor movements to prevent a bank strike and other threatened work stoppages. Communist headquarters were also raided.

The government said disorders, mainly rioting by high school students, had spread to Maracaibo, the oil center, Barquisimeto, Venezuela's third largest city, Maracaibo, Portuguesa, Puerto la Cruz, and San Juan de los Morros, a health resort 30 miles southwest of the capital.

Oil fields are located near Maracaibo, and Puerto la Cruz is the Caribbean terminus of an oil line and site of oil refineries.

Six persons, including the local were arrested at Maracaibo in connection with the bombing of the newspaper La Panorama and thefts of arms. Maracaibo authorities closed the schools after some students held demonstrations in favor of Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba.

Batancourt, who charges that the rebels want to replace his government with a Castro-style regime, decided to disregard the traditional Latin-American respect for universities as sanctuaries from police intervention. He ordered the diehard leftists holed up at Caracas University removed.

But the band of defiant students again exchanged gunshots with National Guard troops.

Sponsor Yule Display Contest

Union Lake Civitan Club to Back Competition for Home Owners

UNION LAKE — An outdoor Christmas display contest will be sponsored in the area by the Union Lake Civitan Club, George Williams, president of the organization, announced today.

The contest has been planned to emphasize the essential spiritual aspects of the holiday, he said.

Judges will award first, second and third prizes to home owners, basing their decisions on ingenuity and noncommercial aspects.

One additional award will be made to the institution or business having the best display.

The size or costliness is not a factor considered in judging, Williams pointed out.

Applications blanks, which will be made available by merchants in the area, must be in by Dec. 25, with judging to take place Dec. 26.

Contestants have the opportunity when submitting their application to tell if the display is best viewed at night or in daylight.

Displays will be judged within miles of Union Lake Village.

Entry blanks are to be mailed to the Civitan, Edgewood Country Club, Walled Lake.

Hits Tree Near Otter Lake

Women Killed in Crash

LAPEER — A 62-year-old Marathon Township grandmother was dead on arrival at Lapeer County General Hospital here yesterday after her car crashed into a tree near Otter Lake.

Dead was Mrs. Yale (Lettie M.) Brown of 5767 North Lake Road.

Lapeer County sheriff's deputies said the car, Mrs. Brown was driving apparently hit a patch of ice, arched off the road and hit the tree on Otter Lake Road, just east of Otter Lake village.

Survivors besides her husband, factory worker, are three daughters, Mrs. Max Hemmingsway of Otter Lake, Mrs. William Berkowski of Standish and Janet Brown at home; a son, Marie Brown of Otter Lake; and nine grandchildren. Service is tentatively set for 2 p.m. Saturday at the Reynolds Funeral Home, Columbusville. Burial will be in Southview Cemetery, Independence Township.

Veterinarian Hurt in Car-Train Crash

LAKE ORION—A 32-year-old Oxford veterinarian was reported in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital today after the car he was driving collided with a New York Central freight train here yesterday.

Injured was Dr. George Cruikshank, of 10 Lincoln St. He suffered lacerations of the scalp and a possible concussion.

Police said the car-train crash occurred at the Flint Street crossing of the New York Central railroad tracks. Engineer on the local freight train was Phillip L. Lucas, 67, of 226 Lakeview Drive.

The train was traveling about 26 miles per hour when the accident occurred at 5:31 p.m., according to Lake Orion police.

Seasonal Songs Planned for Keego PTA Meeting

KEEGO HARBOR — Christmas songs presented by the pupils of the Roosevelt Elementary School will highlight the Parent-Teacher Association meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

The Rev. and Mrs. Robert H. Benedict will be special guests at the meeting.

Rev. Benedict, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, and his wife will show films of their recent trip to Vatican City.

Public Christmas Bazaar Set by Guild

FOUR TOWNS — The Elizabeth Russell Guild of the Women's Society of Christian Service at Four Towns Methodist Church will hold its annual public Christmas bazaar Saturday at the church.

The bazaar opens at 4 p.m. and a complete ham dinner will be served starting at 5 p.m.

On sale during the one-day event will be baked goods, candy, surprise packages, needle work and Christmas decorations.

Civil Defense Official to Speak in Commerce

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP—Lewis Jarrett, Oakland County director of Civil Defense, will be the featured speaker at an 8 p.m. meeting Monday of the Carroll Lake Civic Association.

Charles Bullock, the county's assistant Civil Defense director, also will speak and a movie, "See, Ours for Survival," will be shown.

The meeting will be held at the John F. Ivory Clubhouse, Cooley Lake and Carroll Lake roads.

FIGHT SCHOOL BLAZE — Fire yesterday completely destroyed St. Mary's Elementary School in Gaylord despite efforts of Gaylord, Gaylord and Michigan Conservation Department firemen to save the two-story brick and wood building. The 309 pupils and teachers fled calmly to safety as flames fanned by winds per hour, gusty winds swept through the structure. Sparks and ashes were carried to the downtown area a block from the school, and damage was estimated at $200,000.

Doctor Makes Adventure Fortune

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "One thing led to another."

That's the way Dr. Armand Hammer describes his varied careers as a chemical manufacturer, an international trade tycoon, a lead pencil manufacturer (in Russia), a super-salesman of million-dollar art collections, a distillery owner, a breeder of prize cattle, and now president of a thriving oil company.

In his late 50s, Hammer plunged into the oil and natural gas exploration business.

Three years ago he became president of the Occidental Petroleum Co. The stock sold for 30 cents a share. Today it reached $4.

"There's a lot of romance in this business," he said. "You've got to have nerve. It's a gamble. There's a lot of tension and danger when that bit goes into the ground, deeper and deeper—30 feet can mean the difference between a loss and a million dollars."

Mystery Glass Scientific Riddle

Tektites Found Over Entire Globe; May Be From Space

WASHINGTON—Tektites, small fragments of glass scattered over widely separated parts of the earth, present a tantalizing scientific riddle.

No one is sure where they come from.

The objects have been found in Georgia, Texas, southern Australia, the Philippines, India, Java, Czechoslovakia, the Libyan Desert, the Ivory Coast and Colombia, the National Geographic Society says.

His drillers recently hit nine consecutive producing gas wells in Northern California. They hit one well where a larger company gave up and turned the rights over to Occidental in what is called a "farmout."

How can a comparatively small company do this sort of thing with some regularity?

"I've got a great crew," explained Hammer.

Hammer showed this tendency to pick the right men at an early age.

When he was a medical student at Columbia University he and his brother, Harry, a chemist, took over a small pharmaceutical and chemical business owned by their father.

Hammer was graduated with honors in 1921. He was a millionaire. He was offered an intership at Bellevue Hospital but it did not start for six months.

TROUBLE IN RUSSIA

He heard about trouble in Russia—famine and illness sweeping the country after World War I. He bought a war surplus U.S. field hospital and carted it off to Russia.

"I found the people needed food more than they did medicine and doctors," he recalled.

"We went through the country on a train and little children used to come up at night and cry for food."

Putting two-and-two together, Hammer approached Russian officials and told them farmers in the United States were burning wheat because the market was glutted.

He signed a trade agreement, chartered ships and took wheat to Russia. On the return trips, his ships carried furs, hides and anything else Russia had to offer in exchange.

After three years of that, Russia formed its own international trading organization, Amtorg.

And one thing again led to another.

"How does he explain all his business successes?"

"I've guessed right on quite a few trends," he said. "It's a matter of reading and studying your subject. Luck plays a part. It shows one thing—there's still a lot of opportunity in the good old U.S.A."

3 GIs in Germany Charged in 17 Deaths

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—The U.S. Army has charged two officers and an enlisted man with negligent homicide in the firing of a howitzer shell which carried more than a mile off range and exploded in a tent area, killing 17 soldiers.

The three artillerymen were ordered court-martialed the week of Dec. 12.

The Army said the artillery piece was loaded with seven bags of powder instead of the required five and that it over-carried the range at the Army's Grafenwoehr training area near the Czech border on Sept. 2. The shell killed 15 men outright, and injured 27 others, two fatally.

One theory holds that tektites were clipped off the moon by a meteorite collision, spiraled into orbit around the earth, and fell when they dipped into the earth's gravitational field.

Another possibility is that tektites are pieces of the glassy crust of a lost planet. The planet may have collided with a similar planet or another solar body, causing pieces to fly off at varying speeds in all directions.

According to the theory, chunks circled the sun, while others landed on the earth, moon and other planets and satellites. Differences in chemical composition of tektites indicate the fragments came from various parts of the lost planet.

Some scientists theorize that tektites may be glass meteorites from beyond the solar system because their radioactivity—caused by cosmic ray bombardment—is greater than would be expected on the earth or moon.

Those who say tektites were formed on earth consider it unlikely that a swarm of particles arriving from the moon or more distant space would stay close enough together to produce the small tektite-strewn surfaces on earth.

They also believe that cosmic objects would be scattered through more geologic periods.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Back stairs with the president-elect: Seads of prominent Washingtonians want to help the John F. Kennedy so that they don't feel underprivileged. The president-elect may be a wealthy man, but he doesn't belong to a country club in the Washington area.

He has any number of friends and acquaintances ready to put him up for membership and so far, Burning Tree, President Eisenhower's club, too, seems like a good bet.

The president-elect once was a much better golfer than he is today. He was captain of the Harvard University golf team and shot consistently in the 70s.

With World War II and resultant injuries, plus the preoccupation of a political career, Kennedy's game suffered from long layoffs. With some consistent playing, however, he could become the lowest-scoring golfer in White House history.

Life insurance protection in force at the start of this year totaled about $200 million, which is double the national debt and triple the combined sales of the 500 largest industrial corporations. Insurance companies informed their prospects of their services with over $154 million worth of national newspaper advertising in 1959.

Two More Dogs Ride Into Space for Soviets

ONE COLOR MAKE OVER PAGES

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched another test space ship into orbit today with two dogs on board, the official news agency Tass reported.

The five-ton vehicle, Tass said, also carried "other animals, insects and plants" for Soviet scientists to study their condition via radio-television and other telemetering devices aboard. Its exact weight—not counting the carrier rocket that boosted it into final orbit—was listed at 19,857 pounds.

The dogs, latest in a series of Soviet canine space travelers starting with the space-dog Laika, were named Belka (Little Bee) and Mushka (Little Fly).

It was described as the "third space ship" by Tass. U.S. and French observatories reported picking up signals from the Soviet satellite this morning.

The launching was the first space exploit announced by the Soviet Union since Aug. 21 when the U.S.S.R. disclosed it had sent a 4½-ton space ship into orbit and safely recovered its cargo of two dogs and some rats, mice, flies and plants.

The two dogs, Belka and Strelka, were later exhibited in their space suits before newsmen in Moscow. The Soviets said the animals were catapulted from the space ship and were landed gently in a capsule at a speed of 13 to 18 miles per hour.

The first Soviet space ship was put into orbit last May 15.

Altogether the Soviet Union has placed seven satellites in orbit around the earth since she opened the space age 38 months ago. In addition it has a cosmic payload orbiting the sun.

(The United States has orbited nearly 30 earth satellites and two satellites around the sun.)

Plan $1 Million Building Project Near St. Joseph's

Plans for a $1 million building project on Woodward Avenue, across from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, were announced this morning.

Work on two separate buildings, one housing the General Motors Truck & Coach Employees Federal Credit Union and another housing doctors' offices, will begin immediately.

The credit union will expand its present facilities by seven times.

The building housing the doctors' offices will be called the Professional Building and will be one of the largest in Oakland County used exclusively for offices of physicians.

Groundbreaking ceremonies are scheduled for sometime next spring. Both buildings should be completed by late 1961.

Behind the project are the credit union and a group of Pontiac area doctors, the Physicians Real Estate Development Corp.

The credit union purchased 20 acres of land, totaling 670 feet of frontage on Woodward Avenue.

about a month ago from Fisher & Company.

Harry J. Woodman, credit union treasurer and general manager, today announced the sale of half of the land to the physicians' corporation.

At the same time, both groups announced their proposed building plans.

Spokesman for the physicians' corporation was Dr. Edwin J. Dobski, president of the board of directors.

Architect for both projects will be Harry Denyes Jr. of Pontiac and handling both sale transactions was Pontiac realtor Bruce J. Annett.

Each project will cost an estimated $500,000, and each building will be a one-story structure with full basement.

"Our move was necessitated by the growth of the credit union," said Woodman. "The credit union now has some 11,000 members."

"We will vacate our present building at 156 W. Huron St. and move our main office into the new building when it is completed," he explained.

"At the present time we have about 2,200 square feet of working space. The new building will give us an estimated 23,000 square feet."

Woodman also said that the location of the proposed building "couldn't be more proper for the GMC people."

"Parking space is also a major factor in our move," he explained.

It is estimated that there will be a total parking area for 700 cars or more for both buildings.

The doctors' group began organizing and investigating the possibility of an office building in September.

"The Professional Building will be similar in design to the credit union structure and is being planned to house 24 suites," said Dobski.

"It will accommodate from 30 to 35 doctors."

"This is in addition to laboratories."

FIRST PASSENGERS ARRIVE — Arriving on schedule (10:06 a.m.) aboard North Central Airlines' first regular flight to Pontiac were these passengers this morning at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

Plane's Arrival Signals Start of Regular Flights

North Central Convair Is Met by Delegation of Pontiac Officials

By PETE LOCHBILER

Commercial airline service came to the Pontiac area today in the form of a sleek, silver transport that set down at Pontiac Municipal Airport shortly after 10 a.m.

The twin-engine, 44-passenger Convair 340 aircraft flew in from Detroit's Willow Run Airport on its way to Sault Ste. Marie.

The stopover here marked the inauguration of daily commercial airline service by North Central Airlines, the largest short-haul airlines in the nation.

City officials and community leaders were on hand to greet the plane and its party of North Central officials who planned to make similar inaugural stopovers at three other Michigan airports later in the morning.

The plane was to put in at Flint, Tri-City Airport (Saginaw, Bay City, Midland) and Alpena. These five cities are also getting commercial service for the first time.

Then the aircraft was to head on to Pellston, near Mackinac City, and thence to the Soo. Since North Central has served the Soo for several years.

The same plane was scheduled to return along the same route with the same stopovers this afternoon, arriving at Pontiac shortly after 6 p.m. The round trip is completed when the Convair heads back to Willow Run and North Central headquarters in Michigan.

Ceremonies along the way were to prevent the plane from holding to a strict time-schedule.

Representing the city at the Pontiac ceremony were Mayor Philip C. Bowman, City Manager Walter E. Willman, Fred V. Suggard, president of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council; Harry J. Woodman, president of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce; city attorney William A. Ewart; Sherwin M. Birnkant, assistant city attorney; Homer D. Hoskins, city engineer; and John W. Hirlinger, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

Ewart, Birnkant, Hoskins and Hirlinger formed the four-member committee that lobbied four years for commercial airline service.

Heading the North Central party was Arthur E. A. Miles, chairman of the Board of the Minneapolis, Minn. company.

Strictly speaking, the ceremony did not represent the advent of Pontiac's first commercial airline service, since there was passenger and mail service at the airport 1929-1932.

Kennedy Makes Williams Aide for African Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-Elect John F. Kennedy today picked Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan to be assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

Kennedy called the job second in importance to no other position in the new administration. It was his first major appointment outside of his White House staff.

Kennedy made the announcement on the doorstep of his Georgetown home with Williams standing at his side. Williams had conferred at a breakfast meeting.

Williams, who has served six terms, will retire as governor of Michigan Jan. 1.

The announcement bore out advance indications that Kennedy had passed the talking stage and was at the point of making actual official assignments.

MAKES APPOINTMENTS

In addition to Williams, he had appointments today with Robert A. Lovett, former secretary of Defense; Commerce Secretary, Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff; and Rep. Stuart L. Udall, D-Ariz. All have figured in Cabinet and sub-Cabinet talks.

Kennedy and Williams stood without topcoats or hats in freezing weather while Kennedy read a statement.

"I have asked Gov. Williams to accept a position of responsibility second to none in the new administration for Africa," he said.

"African countries make up one quarter of the nations in the General Assembly of the United Nations. The continent of Africa is now a giant testing ground to determine whether freedom can be maintained in conditions where great masses of people live on the margins of subsistence, struggling against illiteracy, disease, malnutrition and civil division."

When Kennedy concluded his statement, Williams read one saying he is ready to serve the United States "wherever and in whatever capacity I can best serve and am called upon to serve."

Williams returned Monday from a tour of Argentina and Brazil with a number of other governors.

The first concrete word that Kennedy was nearing the action stage for key administration positions came late Wednesday with two announcements.

READY WITH MORE

1. Before Kennedy leaves Friday afternoon for a weekend at Palm Beach, Fla., he will announce his choice for budget director or someone to serve in a liaison capacity with the Budget Bureau until the new director is selected.

2. He will announce a top appointment for his administration at Palm Beach before returning to Washington Monday. The appointee may be with Kennedy when the announcement is made.

A gathering of some of his top aides gave further indication that Kennedy was nearing the announcement stage for appointments.

Look for a Slight Warming Trend — 38 Tomorrow

Christmas shoppers will find temperatures a little warmer to-morrow, the weatherman says.

"Tonight will be fair with a low of 18 degrees. The high will reach around 38 tomorrow. The outlook for Saturday is partly cloudy and warmer."

Northwesterly morning winds at 15-22 miles per hour will diminish late afternoon and tonight, becoming light variable Friday.

Two-Car Collision in Pontiac Claims Life of Orion Twp. Resident

Mrs. John H. (Marie) Anderson, 48, 817 N. Long Lake Drive, Orion Township, died early today of injuries sustained in a two-car collision yesterday on N. Perry Street.

Mrs. Anderson lost control of her car on icy pavement while traveling south on Perry at 10:40 a.m. yesterday, according to Pontiac police.

Officers said the car spun around, crossed the median, and collided with an auto driven by John R. Irwin, 66, 1825 Delrose St., Bloomfield Township.

She suffered a skull fracture and other head injuries when she was flung from the car by the crash at the intersection of Perry Street and Pontiac Road.

Mrs. Anderson died at 1:30 a.m. at Pontiac General Hospital.

Insults Fly in New Orleans

Police Step Into School Rioting

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Fanatical women — screaming insults — manhandled a university student today in front of integrated William Frantz School, saying the youth led recent downtown sit-in demonstrations.

Police rescued him. All the way to a police car, the woman shouted: "I hope you have a bunch of mulatto grandchildren," yelled one.

Police also rescued George Dreyfous, a professor of law at Louisiana State University and member of the Civil Liberties Union in Louisiana.

A few minutes earlier, the same women pickets failed to keep a young minister from taking his daughter and two other white children into William Frantz.

Tension increased at New Orleans, two integrated schools in the wake of a federal court ruling ordering agencies of the State of Louisiana to cease interfering with integration.

The three-judge panel also refused to stay or modify the ruling opening the previously all-white schools to Negroes on a gradual basis.

Demonstrations increased at one of the integrated schools Wednesday after the ruling.

"It doesn't make a damn," a woman demonstrator shouted. "We are going to have segregated schools."

Two women were knocked down as police showed back members of a jeering, hooting crowd which sought to follow a white mother taking her daughter home from the William Frantz School.

Newsmen said the demonstration appeared to be the most bitter since the march by more than 1,000 persons on the City Hall School Board Building Nov. 16. Those demonstrators were dispersed by police and firemen.

The legislature at Baton Rouge, incensed by the federal court ruling moved to set up a voluntary private school system through grants-in-aid for children who wouldn't attend segregated schools.

A House committee took less than a minute today to approve a major new bill offering a choice between private schools and the traditional public system.

The State Senate also will consider a House-approved resolution reaffirming the state's stand on segregation and interposition. The latter policy, overruled by the federal judges as unconstitutional, seeks to place the sovereignty of the state between the federal government and the people.

All 76 members of the House present at the session approved the renewed state rights challenge to the federal courts.

Atty. Gen. Jack Gemmill said the ruling will be appealed. "This is the first time," he added, "that I have ever heard of a state legislature being enjoined by a federal judiciary without rhyme or reason."

Then he added, "I'm afraid we can't." And static cut off the remainder from shore stations.

Amazing Sir Winnie Up for His Birthday

LONDON (AP)—The amazing Sir Winston Churchill got up today as he had forecast to celebrate his 86th birthday—a sentimental event that was being hailed around the world.

Announcing that his famous patient was rising from his invalid's bed, Lord Moran, one of Churchill's doctors, told reporters: "He's getting on very well. He's getting up for lunch, but whether he stays up for the rest of the day depends on how he feels."

It was only 15 days ago that Britain's wartime leader tripped over a rug in his bedroom and friends, little children—and even a junk man Chris Shepard, who drove his horse and cart to Churchill's door to offer good wishes.

Post Office trucks ran what amounted to a shuttle service with letters and packages.

The indestructible Churchill celebrated the day with a 100-pound cake soaked in his favorite brandy.

Hyde Park Gate, the quiet little dead-end street on which he lives, was jammed with traffic as birthday remembrances rolled in on a tide of delivery trucks and bicycles.

They came from Queen Elizabeth II, President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, and other rulers, potentates, old claims teachers must be sold on their status.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A classroom teacher has to be "sold" on her own professional standing, according to an official of the National Education Association.

Mrs. Beuna Steinhilber, Webster

Groves, Mo., who is president of the Department of Classroom Teachers, says the image of the teacher needs to be brought into sharper focus.

She says teachers really have two jobs—providing the best possible instruction and participating in the work of professional associations.

Sale of Allied Lab to Dow Approved

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Stockholders Wednesday approved sale of Allied Laboratories of Kansas City to Dow Chemical Co. Dec. 30.

J. L. McKee, Allied president, announced the sale was favored by holders of 82.6 per cent of the stock and opposed by 2.05 per cent. He also announced a final dividend of 75 cents a share.

Kenneth F. Valentine, executive vice president, said the deal can result in greater accomplishments in medical research.

Valentine also is president of Allied's largest subsidiary, Pitman

Moore Co., Indianapolis pharmaceutical firm. Other Allied subsidiaries are Sioux Falls (S.D.) Laboratories and Campana Corp., Batavia, Ill.

The plan calls for issuing two-thirds of a share of Dow stock for each share of Allied. Dow stock closed Tuesday at 75; Allied at 49.5.

Allied had sales of $30.1 million last year. Dow sales totaled $781 million in the year ended May 31.

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—The Rev. Kenneth B. McIntosh heard the fire engines and stepped onto his front lawn to see, to his dismay, a fire at the Lake Highlands Methodist Church where he is pastor.

Quickly, he rushed to the church. So did many others. The fire was in a large tree-house beside the church, and not in the church itself.

The pastor stopped to chat with some of the spectators on the scene. One of the men, he said, was in a sports shirt and Bermuda shorts. Another man approached, wearing brief clothing.

"I see you wore your Bermudas, too," he said jocularly.

Abruptly, the newcomer looked down, then started running for the dark.

"Oh, my goodness," he exclaimed, "I forgot my pants."

Judge Forgets He's on Stand Instead of Bench

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Criminal District Judge Joe B. Brown was on the witness stand instead of behind the bench at a domestic relations trial, but forgot that he wasn't the judge in the case.

Judge Brown was testifying as a character witness when an attorney objected to a question directed to the judge.

"I sustain your objection on that," Brown said.

The embarrassed judge was upheld by presiding Judge Beth Wright, who added a belated, "Sustained."

Months ago WKC teamed with an important maker of quality living room furniture to create a sectional sofa that BEATS ANYTHING on the market... for style, for QUALITY, for VALUE! Here is the result of this combined effort... a HUGE FOAM 5-Pc. sectional that's the ultimate of functional, luxurious living! All cushions are fully reversible, each is a SOLID slab of FOAM four inches thick. Interesting textured tweed fabrics. All 5 pieces exactly as shown including two large end sections, beautiful carved center and 2 armless chairs.

FOR THE MAN who likes "slim" lines, the leaf-thin styling of this new 30-jewel, self-winding watch will be a joy to find nestled under the Christmas tree.

Christian Ideals
Return to Reds

Eastern Europe People
Obstinate in Marking
Christmas Season

VIENNA (UPI)—In the last two years, Christmas in Communist East Europe has regained some of its former character as a sacred holiday of the Christian world. After years of obstinate Communist attempts to turn this traditional holiday of "love and charity" into just another festive occasion, the Red regimes in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and other satellite countries had to realize the complete failure of their policy and became more and more tolerant.

Now the Czech, Hungarian and other East European peoples may celebrate Christmas with less limitations than a few years ago.

This is in line with the general policy of satellite leaders of making concessions which do not endanger the political aims of the Communist regimes.

During the Stalinist era the Communists systematically tried to deprive Christmas of its character as a Christian holiday.

All Christmas bonuses were abolished and the second Christmas holiday was decreed a normal working day.

The word Christmas was replaced by the phrase "Festival of the Fir-Tree," and Father Christmas was referred to as Father Winter. It was risky not to use these new expressions in talking with Communists.

It was a part of the policy to avoid anything which would indicate that Christmas was coming, and, of course, the supply of Christmas trees was far too small to meet the demand.

However, despite all Communist attempts, the East European peoples defiantly kept celebrating the festival of the Birth of Christ in private circles.

It was this firm attitude which caused a change of Communist policy.

Today the picture is quite different. There are enough Christmas trees and the supply of Christmas gifts is sufficient. Another question, however, is whether the East European worker can afford all the goods offered because, unlike his counterpart in West Europe, he still does not get any Christmas bonus.

During the weeks preceding the holidays streets in Budapest and Prague have a typical pre-Christmas look with all shops having special decorations.

This also is the time when there are enough tropical fruits like oranges, bananas and lemons on the market.

As in other Christian countries, Christmas in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Romania is a family festival. The presents are placed under the Christmas tree, the center of the festivities.

After exchanging presents the family sings traditional Christmas carols. Then comes the Christmas dinner: Meat or, not infrequently, fish and cake.

France OKs Laws
Against Wine Bottle

PARIS (AP)—A sheaf of new laws aimed at wooing Frenchmen away from the wine bottle went into the books today.

Eight laws, drawn up by President Charles de Gaulle's government to reduce the number of corner bistros, cutting advertising for alcoholic beverages, preventing buying of drinks on the cuff, and forbidding the sale of drink to persons under 14.

A study group also is set up for the job of convincing the citizenry that fruit and vegetable juices are more desirable than wine and related beverages.

The Cromwell current, discovered in 1954, moves 3,500 miles eastward near the equator from the Christmas Islands to the Galapagos Islands. It is 190 miles wide and 650 feet thick and sandwiched between westbound current.

GOOD FOOD — Double peanut drops and jiffy fruitcake squares are easy to make Christmas gifts. They'll stay fresh for weeks.

Double Peanut Drops, Jiffy Fruitcake Squares Richly Flavorful

There's nothing more heart-warming than a gift of home-made goodies at Christmas time. Two of the most delicious and easiest to make in large quantities are crisp Double Peanut Drops and no-bake Jiffy Fruitcake Squares. Because of the rich flavor of peanut butter, these two very different cookies appeal to all ages. Here's how to make them.

DOUBLE PEANUT DROPS

One-quarter cup peanut butter, 1/3 cup butter or other shortening, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2/3 cup crushed peanut brittle, 1 cup sifted flour.

Cream peanut butter with shortening. Beat sugar in gradually. Add vanilla and peanut brittle. Gradually stir in flour. (Mixture will be crumbly.)

Measure heaping teaspoons and, with fingers, shape into round flat cookies. Bake in 325 degrees F. oven for 15 minutes. Makes 45 cookies.

JIFFY FRUITCAKE

Fifteen oz. raisins, 1 lb. pitted dates, 1/2 cup crunchy peanut butter, 2 lbs. mixed dried candied fruit.

Grind raisins and dates together. Add peanut butter and mix thoroughly. Add candied fruit and mix well. Line two 8x8x1-inch pans with wax paper and press half of mixture into each. Chill in refrigerator 24 hours before cutting into squares. Makes 50 pieces. Fruitcake can be stored in refrigerator for several months.

She'd Exchange Unborn Baby for Warm Apartment

LONDON (UPI)—A mother has pledged her unborn child in exchange for an apartment.

Mrs. Gladys Bowler placed this advertisement in a local shop window. "Wanted—A flat in exchange for my baby."

The child is expected in March.

Mrs. Bowler and her 44-year-old disabled ex-soldier husband Frederic have to leave their windowless basement apartment by Saturday.

"I must find a home," she said, "but no one will have us."

She said she and her husband discussed the baby-for-a-flat deal while her three children were at school.

"For their sakes," she said, "we decided to give our unborn baby away in exchange for a flat."

She added: "With the baby will go all the clothes I have knitted, and toys as well."

Live Polio Vaccine Delay to Continue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Drug industry sources said Wednesday it is unlikely that live polio virus vaccine will be available in any substantial quantity in time for next summer's polio season.

Spokesmen for Lederle Laboratories of Pearl River, N.Y., told a reporter their company does not expect to be able to start full-scale production "until the fall or winter of 1961, and we don't know of any other company that is ahead of us."

They said this outlook is based on such things as the fact that the U.S. Public Health Service has set rigid standards for testing the vaccine preliminary to any licensing.

Also they said the preparation of a live polio vaccine calls for technical steps not needed in preparing the Salk Vaccine which is made of killed virus.

They denied complaints by such people as Dr. Albert Sabin of Cincinnati, one of the developers of live polio vaccine, "the industry is dragging its feet" on the product.

Scorns Black Market Prayer Book

Russia Stops the Presses of Enterprising Printers

MOSCOW (UPI)—A band of was doing a booking business enterprising Moscow printers has through direct retail sales when been raking in the rubles by print; authorities became suspicious. ing black market prayer books. Kuznetsov fled, leaving behind a with state-owned presses, paper sack full of books, and was eventually captured.

The newspaper Literature and Life reported Wednesday that the group, which entitled its operation "Hallelujah Printing House," has lated a law forbidding production of any religious literature, "except by official church organizations and under certain conditions."

It indicated that their punishment will be light, but they "already have been given moral condemnation by the Soviet people."

The prayer book ring consisted of more than a half dozen printers, mechanics and technicians working at the state public, scientific and technical library.

RINGLEADER BAGGED
It was smashed, Literature and Life said, when ringleader Sergei Kuznetsov, 24, was caught trying to peddle a sack full of prayer books to collective farmers.

Kuznetsov first tried unsuccessfully to distribute the books through local church elders, who rejected them on grounds the books were poor quality and lacked official church approval.

But Kuznetsov cut his price from 10 rubles a copy to two rubles and

Holiday Records for Every Age

Especially This Year, More Adult Christmas Music Ready

NEW YORK (UPI)—Christmas music on records will be available to Yuletide celebrators of all ages this year.

Probably the best of the group is "St. Patrick's Cathedral Choir Sings Christmas Carols" (Roulette). One of the most famous choirs in the nation sings 12 carols. Thirty boys and 20 men comprise the choir.

"It's Christmas Everywhere" by Paul Anka (ABC Paramount) should appeal to teenagers.

Anka opens with a Christmas message and then goes into the popular Christmas field with "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer" and other non-religious tunes. Four carols are included.

Grown-ups should particularly enjoy "Christmas Carols" by Peggy Lee with Billy May's Orchestra (Capitol) and "The Magic of Christmas" by Nat King Cole. Like Anka, Miss Lee mixes carols with commercial numbers, but Cole observes the religious nature of the season and sings only carols.

Hugo and Luigi, independent record producers, who are "lined up with RCA-Victor, organized a children's choir some time ago."

These children perform admirably on an LP called "The Sound of Children at Christmas." This is a heart-warming experience as Christmas Day is the biggest one in a child's life even year. There are 22 children in this choir, the youngest 8 and the oldest 12. They mix up carols with commercial Christmas songs but never lose the feeling of the season.

The best big offering is Handel's Messiah. Roulette has made a complete recording of the Christmas-Easter oratorio featuring the London Philharmonic Orchestra and the London Philharmonic Choir.

Frederick Jackson conducts what appears to be one of the finest recordings of Handel's inspiring work.

For some reason the record industry is reluctant to offer an abundance of Christmas music on singles, possibly because of the psychological block that seems to inhibit many Americans.

They think that after Dec. 25, Christmas carols are out of date until the next Yule season.

Red China, Tunisia Sign Second Trade Agreement

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — Communist China and Tunisia signed a second trade agreement Wednesday at a formal ceremony here. Tunisian ambassador to Morocco

Fathi Zoubir and Peiping ambassador Pao Jen signed the treaty for their respective countries.

The agreement, reached in Rabat because there is no Red Chinese diplomatic representative in Tunisia, called for an increase in trade between the two countries to the original 1958 treaty amounting to about $5 million.

Red China Signs for Cuban Sugar

Agrees to Buy Million Tons in 1961 Under a Five-Year Pact

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China agreed Wednesday to buy a million tons of Cuban sugar in 1961, formalizing a five-year pact signed in Havana last July. The original agreement, which stands, was for at least half a million tons of sugar a year.

The deal was announced by the New China News Agency in a broadcast from Peking. The agency said Cuba also will get loan credits totaling 240 million rubles—worth $60 million by Communist reckoning.

A joint communique signed by Maj. Ernestoche Guevara, head of Cuba's national bank and the country's economic chief, and Chinese vice premier and finance minister Li Hsien-shan pledged closer friendship, the agency said.

The July agreement extended the credits to Cuba for the purchase of Chinese industrial goods and equipment. Further, it opened the door for Red Chinese technicians to go to the Caribbean nation.

The deals are designed to offset the shrinkage of U.S. sugar markets, where Cuba has received a premium of two cents or more above world market prices.

Cuba already has sugar trade agreements with seven Communist countries. Cuba so far is the only nation in the Western Hemisphere having diplomatic relations with Communist China. They were established Sept. 24.

Guevara and his trade delegation arrived in Peking Nov. 18 after visiting the Soviet Union.

Tax Bills to Be Mailed on Dec. 9

The Pontiac treasurer's office is readying 30,000 county tax bills scheduled to go into the mails Dec. 9.

The billings, based on a total $7.44 tax for every $1,000 of assessed valuation, amount to $2,091,531, said Walter A. Giddings, city treasurer. Of this, $140,566 represents the collection on a half mill (.50 cents) for special education.

The county millage is 6.94 mills, or $6.94 on every $1,000 of assessed valuation.

County taxes are payable, said Giddings, Dec. 12 through Jan. 20. After Jan. 20, a four per cent penalty will be charged, he said.

Bills not paid by Feb. 28 will be returned to the county for collection, said Giddings.

The treasurer said that 96.8 per cent of the billings for city and school taxes has been paid. This represents $10,150,000, said Giddings. The billings were sent out in July.

Lawyer May Quit on Adolf Eichmann

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — German lawyer Robert Servatius said he may decide against defending Adolf Eichmann if his memoirs as published in an American magazine are proved authentic.

The memoirs quoted Eichmann as saying he does not regret his wartime role in the Nazis' anti-Jewish extermination program.

Dr. Servatius said Wednesday night he plans to go to Israel early next month to speak with the prisoner about the matter.

"If he confirms that I will have to consider whether I can remain his defense lawyer," Servatius said.

Such a decision could delay opening of the Eichmann trial scheduled for next March.

But Housewives Will Fight It

Cold-Water Dishwashing Hot Prospect

ANN ARBOR (U)—Washing dishes in cold water looks like a hot prospect for kitchens of the future.

Improved detergents, built-in sanitizers, have made the cold water method faster, cheaper and more sanitary.

This is the finding of University of Michigan School of Public Health researchers who are trying to make the hum-drum dishwashing chore as safe and effective as possible in the home and public eating establishments.

Edward H. Armbruster, a U. of M. researcher who heads a project under a three-year U.S. Public Health Service grant, says the cold water dishwashing process now can be safely used. Most restaurants in the country should be using the new method by 1964, he says.

"It could be in use in most homes by 1970, but talking housewives into doing dishes in cold water isn't going to be easy," he said.

"It took 10 years to convince them not to use too many suds while washing clothes. It'll probably take another 20 years to get them to accept this idea."

Armbruster says the chief drawback of hot water, besides its higher cost, is that a sufficient supply can't always be relied upon to insure bacteria-kill.

Use of very hot or scalding water also presents a possible safety hazard to children in the home, he said.

Much of the public health school's work in this area has been aimed at developing better machine dishwashers and cleaning agents suited to their use.

Cold water glass-washing machines, which use brushes working on all surfaces of the glass instead of a spray-type action, are being field tested in bars, drug stores and restaurants in many sections of the country.

Another dishwashing machine has been developed which can handle dishes still holding leftover food. While the uneaten food is sloughed off and discarded, mechanical brushes go to work cleaning the dishes.

After a few seconds, the dishes are brushed again, this time in an iodine sanitizer, rinsed and then mechanically stacked and dried in trays.

"This process removes 99.99 per cent of the dirt and at roughly 30 cents per thousand dishes," he said. "And the dishwasher operates on less than half the price needed to run a hot water machine."

USE GEIGER COUNTER

To put the cold-water type machines through their scientific

paces, a specially-designed Geiger-counter measures radioactive films of grease which are applied to dishes in the lab before washing. By comparing the count before and after washing, cleanliness can be measured with a high degree of accuracy.

Before the National Sanitation Association conference in San Francisco July 18, Armbruster will display a radically new method of checking invisible dirt on dishes used in restaurants and hotels.

The process involves dusting a plate with a special mixture of talc and dye, then holding it under running tap water. All grease, starch and protein stains immediately will turn a bright red, while the clean portions of the plate wash clean.

Older sanitation methods took about 48 hours to complete. Armbruster's dusting method gives inspectors' immediate results by slashing the total time to less than 48 seconds.

When Armbruster, who has spent the past 11 years researching dishwashing methods, was asked how often he does the dishes at home, he said:

"I've been lucky. Got caught only twice in the last year."

Iron Range Workers Told Layoff Coming

ISHPEMING (UPI)—Officials of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. which employs about 2,600 persons in eight mines on the Marquette iron range, has told its employees to expect a "severe curtailment" of employment.

The employees received letters from the firm telling them the cutback would be put into effect on Jan. 1 due to current business conditions and an "extremely discouraging" outlook for next year. The letters did not say how many men would be laid off.

The letters said imports of foreign ore had contributed to the situation.

SHE'S A SHARPSHOOTER—Mrs. H. V. Winford, 67, whipped out her ancient pistol and shot two men, one fatally, Tuesday, after she said they broke into her house in Memphis, Tenn., and pistol-whipped her husband in a robbery attempt. With her is her 68-year-old husband who told police the men tried to rob him of his car keys and money. The dead man is Billy Lee, 20, wanted in Mississippi for stealing an automobile, two pistols and four boxes of ammunition from his employer Monday night. Despite his wound the other man escaped but was captured by police shortly afterward.

Folks Who Are 'Old' Have Remedy for the Cold

GIN-RUMMY SESSION — Many husbands and wives enjoy activities of the Golden Age Club and these two couples take their card-playing very seriously. President of the group, Mrs. Mary MacFarland, is telling Mrs. Henry Becker to

SOMEBODY GOOFED — By the expression on Mrs. William Cheyne's face her partner must have reneged on a bridge play yesterday as people in the Golden Age Club gathered for an

Drop-In Day for 'Past 60s' Warms Waterford Center

By HERA HEINTZMAN

Although the weather outside was stormy yesterday afternoon, the atmosphere inside the big Community Center in Waterford Township was anything but cold.

More than 40 men and women “past 60” turned the place with spirited card games, highly competitive shuffleboard and rounds of ping pong.

They came from Clarkson, Rochester, Lake Orion and other areas to be together for the first Wednesday afternoon “Drop-In Day.”

Members of the Waterford Golden Age Group, eyeing the long cold water decided to have an afternoon session each week in addition to their gathering every other Friday night.

GATHERING OFFICERS

Six club President Mrs. Mary MacFarland got her officers to gather, including Vice President

Cecil Weber, Secretary Mrs. Norris Craig, and Treasurer William Cheyne, and they mapped a program designed strictly for good sports.

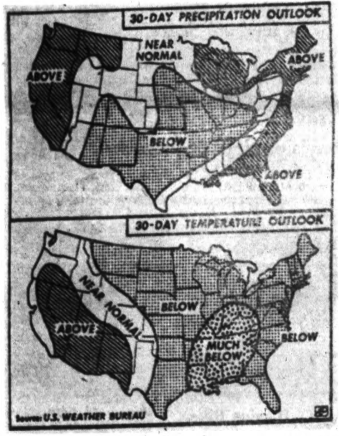

Sponsored by the Waterford Township Recreation Board, the Golden Age group now boasts a membership of almost 100. Mrs. MacFarland said she will furnish further information to those interested.

Promptly at 1 p.m. yesterday, cars of every description began pouring into the center's spacious parking lot.

Despite their age, very few of the retired people had to be assisted from automobiles, and most of them drove their own vehicles.

Port Mary MacFarland, decorated with a brand new ceremonial sword, greeted the guests at the door with a cheery, “Come on in, it's all yours and let's get going.”

At first it was a little quiet in 30-DAY WEATHERCAST — These maps, based on those released Wednesday by the U. S. Weather Bureau in Washington, show the temperature and precipitation outlook for the next 30 days. The Pontiac area is due for lower temperatures and more snow than normal for the 30-day period, according to the maps.

Rail Firms Also Eye Sandusky Wabash May Join Merger of N&W and Nickel Plate

NEW YORK (AP)—The proposed merger of the Norfolk & Western Railway and the Nickel Plate Road may be expanded to bring in the Sandusky line.

The N&W and Nickel Plate also said Wednesday they would purchase the Sandusky line of the Pennsylvania Railroad as a connecting link between their railroads. This line is in Ohio.

The plans have been agreed upon by the boards of directors of all roads involved, Stuart T. Saunders, president of the N&W, said.

If the proposal goes through the N&W will become a system of more than 7,400 miles of road and combined assets of about $1.7 billion.

Saunders said the N&W will pay $27 million cash for the Sandusky line, which runs 111 miles from Columbus to Sandusky. The purchase includes three coal piers on Lake Erie and supporting yards at Sandusky.

Under the plan, the Wabash would be leased by the N&W for 50 years. Wabash would have an option to exchange at any time after six years all its common stock (298,186 shares) for 675,000 shares of N&W stock.

This exchange would be mandatory at the termination of the lease, if not made before. More than 99 per cent of the Wabash common stock is owned by the Pennsylvanians.

BASED ON DIVIDENDS

N&W will pay a net annual rental of $7,125,000 for the first six years, with an increase based upon any rise in dividends in excess of $5 a share on N&W common.

From the seventh year on, the rental will become an amount equal to the annual dividends on 675,000 shares of N&W stock.

The proposed arrangement includes all Wabash subsidiaries except the Ann Arbor railroad. Wabash's stock interests in the Detroit Toledo and Ironville Railroad and the Lehigh Valley Railroad also are excluded.

The N&W-Nickel Plate terms, as revealed in June, involve exchange of each share of Nickel Plate common stock on a tax-free basis for $\frac{1}{10}$ of a share of N&W common stock.

The plans must be submitted to stockholders of the various railroads, and also to the interstate-commerce commission for approval. This will be done at the earliest possible date, Saunders said.

Cuba Seemingly Two Press Films Warn Kids Against Molesters in China's Camp

Two newly released films intended to warn children against molesters have been made available for showing in Pontiac and other Oakland County schools by the Pontiac Press.

The films, titled “The Dangerous Stranger” and “Strangers,” are in color with sound tracks dubbed in.

The first dramatizes places and circumstances under which a child is apt to encounter “dangerous strangers.”

By demonstrating that “stupid” is 10 minutes in running time.

Children are most frequently duped by molesters, it emphasizes how the “smart” child can avoid such persons. Human interest, common sense and humor are used, but fear is carefully avoided.

POLICEMAN IS FRIEND

The Los Angeles Police Department cooperated in the production of “The Dangerous Stranger.” The policeman, who acts as moderator, is portrayed as the child's friend.

“Strangers,” the second film, instructs the child in correct and safe conduct when meeting strangers under unsupervised conditions.

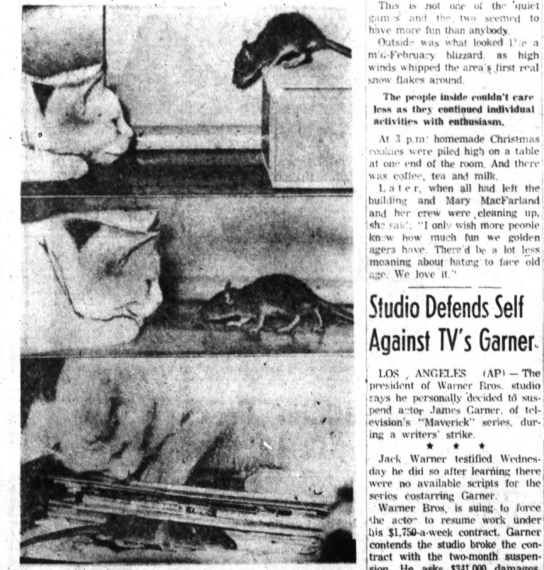

It provides examples of what to do and what not to do.

Never take money, candy or treats from a stranger; never go anywhere with a person you do not know; always take the same route between home and school; avoid deserted or strange places; and never enter a stranger's house even when invited.

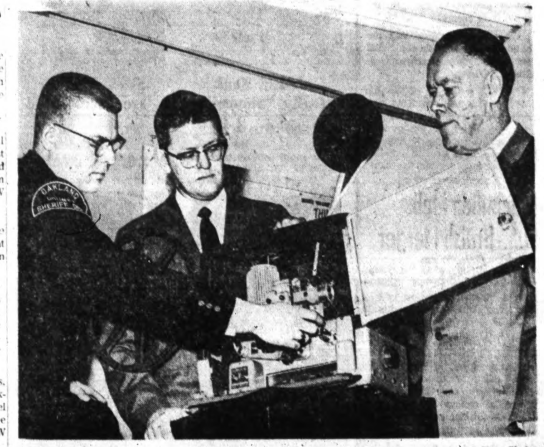

“We hope, with the cooperation of city, village and township police, to show these films in every area school,” said Sheriff Irons.

Prevention of child molestation is of much greater importance than punishing the crime.

The films also are available to civic and social groups in Oakland County upon request through the sheriff's department. Each movie is 10 minutes in running time.

New Tax Ruling Affects Clubs

If Money Is Made by Renting Facilities, the Unit Loses Exemption

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many of the nation's country clubs will have to change their policies — and some may be forced out of business — because of a new federal tax ruling.

If you belong to a country club, the result may be an increase in the dues you pay.

If you're not a club member, but belong to some other group that occasionally uses club facilities, you may find that your group no longer is welcome.

In essence, the Internal Revenue Service has held that a nonprofit social club may lose its exemption from federal taxes if a regular part of its revenue comes from the general public. However, the ruling leaves a loophole and does not prohibit all outside income.

Quite a number of clubs have been able to increase their income by renting out their facilities for private banquets, wedding receptions, dances, meetings and golf tournaments. As a result, they have been able to avoid increasing membership dues.

With IRS now frowning on this practice, many clubs will have to raise their dues, some to the point where they may have to shut down because members are unwilling to pay.

Some other clubs may voluntarily surrender their tax exempt status in order to continue drawing substantial income from outside sources.

The IRS ruling was issued Oct. 10, but has received little public attention. In addition to tax-exempt country clubs, it affects all types of tax-exempt clubs "operated exclusively for pleasure, recreation and other nonprofit purposes." This includes yacht clubs, tennis clubs, in-town social clubs, and many others.

Urge Uniformity for School Elections

LANSING (AP)—Uniform dates and procedures should be set up for school elections, members of a special legislative committee have agreed.

The committee met here Tuesday with members of the State Department of Public Instruction and Elections Division. Rep. Russell H. Sings Jr., R-Clark, committee chairman, said main recommendations for school election legislation included:

1. — A uniform election date on the second Monday in June with school board members taking office July 1 in primary and fourth class districts.
2. — Schools to be allowed by mutual consent to use township registration records.
3. — A specification that the ballot applications should spell out qualifications of school election candidates.
4. — The setting up of "reasonable" periods between bond elections, probably three months.
5. — Spelling out the question of registration closing 30 days before the school election, making all registration periods the same.

Macmillan Mulls U.S.-British Merger

LONDON (UPI)—The Daily Mail said Wednesday Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was merely "thinking aloud" about events 10 years or more in the future when he spoke recently of a U.S.-British merger.

The newspaper speculated that what the prime minister has in mind is some sort of an Atlantic union of nations in which the English-speaking countries would be member partners.

The Sunday Express and the Sunday Dispatch expressed indignation over the idea of an Anglo-American merger, and Laborite M. P. Arthur Lewis will ask in parliament Thursday whether Macmillan has discussed the idea with U.S. officials.

State Workers: Beware of Gifts

Civil Service Unit Has Caution for 31,000 on Christmas Influence

LANSING UP—State workers are warned to watch it when it comes to accepting Christmas gifts. The State Civil Service Commission sent a letter covering the policy on Christmas gifts to 32 agencies employing some 31,000 state workers.

No state employee should accept loans or gifts of money or goods that might influence the manner in which he performs his work, the memo said.

A violation could lead to suspension or removal. It was warned, Franklin K. DeWald, state civil service director, said the commission knows of no case of improperly accepting gifts.

"On the other hand," DeWald said, "we are aware that in public as well as private employment the acceptance of gifts by employees in connection with their work is a continuing problem."

Ban Foreign Liquors From Overseas PXs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department today ordered U.S. military exchanges overseas to stop buying Scotch, Canadian and other foreign liquors.

It indicated, however, that it might permit the continued sale of foreign alcoholic beverages in officers' and noncommissioned officers' clubs at home and abroad for consumption on the premises.

Foreign beverages have traditionally been bought by U.S. military stores abroad for sale at low, tax-free prices to servicemen and other eligible persons.

They became a casualty, effective today, of President Eisenhower's program for slowing down the flow of dollars to foreign countries.

Ex-Mayor Jezewski of Hamtramck Dies

HAMTRAMCK (UPI)—Hamtramck's first mayor, Peter Jezewski, died Wednesday night at the age of 77.

Jezewski collapsed of a heart attack on the street near the drug store he operated for 43 years.

He was elected mayor when Hamtramck was incorporated in 1922 and was re-elected two years later.

He lost his office in 1925 when he was sentenced to a year in prison for violation of federal prohibition laws.

After his release he made a political comeback and was elected to a third term as mayor, serving from 1930 to 1932.

Before coming to the Detroit area, Jezewski lived in New York City and served a term as assemblyman in the New York State Legislature.

Three U. S. presidents have been assassinated and four have died natural deaths while in office.

Output of Oral Vaccine Slow

Live Polio Virus Pill Not Expected to Be Ready by Summer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Surgeon Gen. Leroy Burney said Wednesday the public health service feels that "we cannot expect to have an oral (polio virus) vaccine for use by" next summer.

Burney said that in developing the recently approved vaccine made of live polio virus as distinguished from the Salk vaccine already in use, "There are still many problems to be worked out in taking production out of the laboratory and into mass production."

"These problems have been by no means resolved," Burney said in an address to the American Medical Association's annual clinical meeting.

"In fact, based on the latest information provided informally by prospective manufacturers, it is our judgment at the present time that we cannot expect to have oral vaccine for use by this summer."

The live polio virus vaccine can be taken by mouth in the form of pills or in a syrup. The Salk vaccine, made of killed virus, must be given by injection.

Burney told the doctors: "With large quantities of the Salk vaccine available, it is evident that if we are to pursue our common goal of stamping out poliomyelitis in America, we must exert an even greater effort than in the past. For the possibility of a new vaccine will further encourage procrastination, even by individuals or by communities."

"I would urge that your association and you as individuals begin planning now for midwinter campaigns with the Salk vaccine. In this way you will have the active support of the public health service."

Holland Has Stock of Atomic Warheads

THE HAGUE (UPI) — A Dutch Defense Ministry spokesman said Wednesday Holland has a stock of atomic warheads.

However, he refused to give location details or reveal the type of missile the warheads fitted.

The spokesman's statement followed earlier claims by authoritative sources that there were stocks of atomic warheads in Eastern Holland for use by the West German and Dutch armies.

These forces would be equipped with "Sergeant" missiles. According to the spokesman, Parliament had approved storing the warheads on Dutch soil.

The spokesman said members of the U.S. Congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, presently in Europe, would pay a brief inspection visit today.

He would not give details of the visit "for security reasons."

Group Studying State's Growth

'Better If Businessmen Would Stop Wailing
and Talk Advantages'

LANSING (AP) — "Michigan businessmen should stop wailing and crying about the industrial climate and stress the good points of our state," a legislative committee on industrial growth has been told.

Robbie B. Martin, vice president and general manager of the Dundee Cement Co. testified here Wednesday before a House committee on industrial climate headed by Rep. William H. Thorn, D-Deerborn.

The committee is studying possible legislation to help Michigan's economic growth.

Martin cited the availability of raw materials, a skilled labor pool, water for industry and a fine transportation network as among the state's advantages.

He suggested a state fund to help communities attract industries and an expanded program by the state economic development commission as among concrete steps that could be taken.

"I think the people of the state would support a sound program to help industry," Martin said. "Proof of this appears to be that they supported the sales tax increase."

"There is altogether too much pessimism," agreed L. R. Kamperman, vice president and director of marketing of Leonard Refineries of Alma.

Kamperman said salesmen for Leonard Refineries are told to take active part in promoting the state. Workers in gasoline stations, especially, he said, do a good job of selling Michigan.

Rep. Fred O. Olsen, R-Sheridan, a committee member, said he thought "slanted political advertisements" helped create a bad industrial atmosphere in Michigan.

"I think the politicians have more to do with the problem than anyone else," Olsen said.

Tanked Trout Stalls Puzzled Woman's Car

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — Dorothea Loughran's car had been stalled off and on for the past month. Finally, after having checked everything else, garage-men removed the gasoline tank and inspected it. Inside they found a 7-inch trout. No one seemed to know how it got there.

4 Broken Noses Have Plagued '61 Rose Queen

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The world is suddenly a bed of roses for a girl who has suffered four broken noses.

She is Carole Anne Washburn, a dimpled 18-year-old, who will be queen of the 1961 Tournament of Roses.

She was selected Wednesday to reign over the Rose Parade and the Minnesota-Washington Rose Bowl football game Jan. 2.

Carole, a freshman at Pasadena City College, is 5 feet 8, weighs 120 pounds, has hazel eyes and auburn hair, and measurements of 38-24-34.

She suffered her first broken nose in a fall from a teeter-totter. It happened again when a boy hit her with a rock, again when she fell downstairs and the last time in a dive into the shallow end of a swimming pool. You could never tell it.

It's Grandpa Wayne for the Fourth Time

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — John Wayne became a granddaddy for the fourth time Wednesday.

The wife of Wayne's son, Michael, gave birth to a daughter, 7-pound, 3-ounce Teresa Ann, at St. Vincent's hospital. The couple has another daughter, Alicia, 17 months.

British shipyards are said to be busier now than in the past 30 years.

Long-Distance Phoning Faces Major Revolution

NEW YORK (AP)—A sweeping change in long-distance telephone service is being readied for the time being. In effect, it will mean extension of the local or area calling concept—unlimited long-distance calls at a flat monthly rate.

The giant Bell system of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. is working on such a long-distance zone-calling idea and hopes to have it ready for submission to the Federal Communications Commission in two weeks.

President Frederick R. Kappel of AT&T gave the first hint of the plan last month in a Boston speech.

"It appears to be that step by step," he said, "the distinction between local and long-distance in communications will gradually disappear."

SOME TOLLS VANISH

"We have already seen the broadening of local telephone calling across so that calls between many adjoining communities are not treated as toll calls. Not visionary, but extremely practical, is the concept Bell envisions of our customers will want forms of service enabling them to call over wide areas, and even across the continent, at a flat monthly rate."

"And if you should ask, 'When is the Bell system going to develop specific plans for this sort of thing?' I am happy to give you this answer: We are working on them now," he told the Boston Conference on Distribution.

AT&T declines to elaborate on details of long-distance zone calling until the proposal is actually filed. "We are absolutely prohibited from discussing any details," a spokesman said.

However, the plan under consideration would permit a New York telephone subscriber, for example, to buy a service for a fixed monthly rate that would permit an unlimited number of calls to Chicago. Or, if he estimates he will be making 20 calls to Chicago monthly, he would be able to buy a service at a specified fee for possibly 30 three-minute calls to that city or any other phone number in the same zone.

Ex-State High Court Justice Boyles Dies

CHARLOTTE (UPI) — Former Michigan Supreme Court Justice Emerson R. Boyles died Wednesday at his home here. He was 70.

Boyles served on the state high court from 1940 to 1956 when he retired.

He was born in Eaton County in 1881 and was a graduate of the University of Michigan law school.

Before serving on the Supreme Court, Boyles was prosecutor and probate judge in Eaton County, a deputy attorney general for the state, and served on the Michigan Public Utilities Commission.

He also served as legal adviser to Govs. Frank Fitzgerald and Luren Dickinson.

He was appointed to the Supreme Court in 1940 to fill a vacancy, elected to the vacancy later in 1940 and re-elected in 1943 and 1951.

His wife, the former, Mabel Carter, died in 1953. Boyles is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Henry Crouse of East Lansing, two sisters and three grandchildren.

Friend of Santa to Have a Niche

Plan to Restore Home of Moore, Who Wrote 'Twas the Night . . .'

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—Jolly St. Nick should have a soft spot in his heart for the city of Newport.

For it was here that Dr. Clement C. Moore, author of the beloved "A Visit From St. Nicholas," spent the declining years of his life. And the old house at 22 Catherine St. where he lived is still standing.

No holiday poem in the English language has equalled the appeal of "Twas the Night Before Christmas" — and at 4:30 p.m. on Dec. 22, a reading of that bit of verse will take place before the fireplace in the old house.

The reader and host for the annual event will be James Van Alen, president of the Newport Casino Newport's sports club — as well as an editor, publisher, world traveler and court-tennis champion. Van Alen has composed an introduction to the poem as well as a "Postscript," both of which have become a regular feature of the reading.

"I hope that I haven't angered Dr. Moore," Van Alen said, "but when I was a kid I always thought the poem ended too quickly." He said he dreamed up the postscript to "stretch out the fun."

Van Alen has secured an option to purchase the old Clement Moore residence with the assistance of the National Trust for Historic Preservation in Washington.

He says his corporation plans to renovate the old structure and install 1820-1870 period furniture. Also planned is a wax-sculptured group, composed of a figure of Dr. Moore reading his poem to his four children.

Van Alen also wants the "House of Santa Claus" to become a "Museum of Santa Clausiana," with various editions of the poem on display along with period costumes, drawings, paintings, Christmas cards, newspaper articles — and perhaps an animated cartoon showing the visit of St. Nick.

He also envisions a stable for the eight tiny reindeer, each with a nameplate over its stall, and a coach house for the sleigh. There would be a dressing room and a workshop for Santa, too.

Purpose of the museum, according to Van Alen, would be to "bring at Christmas time the image of our beloved Santa Claus as envisioned by Dr. Moore and the spirit of family love, understanding and solidarity which Santa Claus symbolizes to every heart and home in America."

As Van Alen put it, "I can't think of any other American who Moore."

Middle-Sized Firms Really Most Important

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI) — Big business in America is not as big as some people think.

A new research study conducted by Management Methods magazine shows that middle-sized firms — those with from 100 to 1,000 employees — are really more important, more powerful and a stronger influence in the American economy than all the giant corporations put together.

There are more than four million small businesses with fewer than 100 employees, compared to only about 3,000 so-called "giants" with more than 1,000 employees.

"CHARGE IT AT KRESGE'S"

See No Harm in Novels, Movies, Songs

Teen-Agers Deny That Smut Affects Them

By EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert Youth
Research Co.

Most of you young folks tell me that smutty novels, movies and songs are doing you no harm.

I was much interested in this view, which sums up the results of more than 3,000 interviews across the country, because adults often seem worried about what effect such material has on the younger generation.

GILBERT

"Sex is out in the open, but I don't hating us," is the answer I get from four-fifths of you.

It just may be that the old folks see smut where none exists — or at least where their sons and daughters don't see it.

Only a fifth of you teeners regard many pop songs as suggestive. The figures on movies and novels are more impressive, but still only 58 per cent of you think that many movies are suggestive, and only 68 per cent so regard many popular novels.

Granted that a movie or book has a bad reputation, what do you do about it? Rush out to see it or read it? Not if you act like most teen-agers tell me they act.

Most say they don't go out of their way to take in such stuff. And that's more assured me that they are positively repelled rather than attracted.

In any case, 80 or 90 per cent assert that such entertainment and reading material has no bad influence either on them or on their friends.

"I feel I am old enough and mature enough to screen out junk and treat it as such," comments Gilda Rubinstein, 16, of New Rochelle, N.Y.

SMUT IS OUT

Let's see what you young people say about current movies:

"Movie makers seem to think they have to have suggestive things in it to get publicity," Sharon Wilson, 16, Fairbairn, Minn.

"I don't go to the movies very often but when I do I want to see a picture I will enjoy and not be embarrassed by saying I saw it," Harriet Hull, West Glenside, Conn.

"I know my standards and if a movie could change them, I'd better re-evaluate myself," Lorraine Jokinen, 15, Detroit.

About novels they say:

"They go into unnecessary details concerning sex," Della Felix, 14, Atlanta.

"I feel I can read better books than the suggestive ones," Lilly Meier, 13, San Francisco.

"With school work and all I have to do there is little enough time for reading and so I choose only books of definite merit," Fred Sidel, 15, Miami.

Susan Haskett, 17, South Bend, Ind., speaks for the 17 per cent of you who say you read "racy" novels:

"Everyone is talking about this book. They say the book is dirty and you want to be able to talk about it, too, so you read the book."

The story is different when we come to the music you like—rock 'n' roll.

PARENTS NOT DATED

Only 20 per cent of you find many pop songs suggestive, only 6 per cent of you look for the suggestive in these songs and just 2 out of 100 feel a suggestive song would have any influence on you.

In rising to the defense of your popular songs, you often remark that you dance to rock 'n' roll—you don't analyze its good or bad lyrics and when you're listening to rock 'n' roll, you just let it go in one ear and out the other.

Another remark heard often is "Most of the words don't make sense—I just like rock 'n' roll."

Seventy-four per cent of the young people we talked to feel there is no need for laws against suggestive movies, songs and novels. And, in fact, if there were such laws, you say, they probably wouldn't be enforced.

Most of the interviewed—61 per cent of those interviewed—said their parents' attitude on suggestive movies, music and fiction is don't consider their viewpoints old-fashioned. Ninety-one per cent agree.

Positive Press Home Editor

Hot rolls add the perfect touch to a meal. Really, they aren't difficult to make. These Butterhorns of Mrs. Harvey Hahnfeld's are light and flaky.

Mrs. Hahnfeld has a new home that has kept her pretty busy for some months. She enjoys interior decorating and painting. Reading is another hobby of hers.

BUTTERHORNS

By Mrs. Harvey Hahnfeld

2 packages yeast

1 cup warm water

1/2 cup salt butter or margarine

1/2 cup sugar

1 beaten egg

1 cup warm milk

2 cups sifted flour

Dissolve yeast and 1/2 teaspoon sugar in the 1/2 cup warm water. Cream butter with sugar. Add eggs, salt, milk, yeast and flour. Mix thoroughly. Let stand overnight in the refrigerator.

In the morning divide

dough into 4 parts. Roll out each part into a circle like pie crust. Brush with melted butter or margarine and cut into wedges. Roll up, starting with small end.

Place on greased baking sheet and let rise 1 hour.

Bake 25-30 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes 3-4 dozen.

Give Watch Bath

Even your watch needs washing — if it's waterproof. Since salt water, acids, and other fluids can pit and corrode the

and wrist band, a waterproof

watch should be swished

through warm soap or detergent soap and rinsed regularly.

Then dry with a soft cloth.

This care is recommended by experts, who point out that water can penetrate the hermetically sealed mechanism of a waterproof watch.

Relax With Exercise

Stretch to Relieve Tension

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Just a few weeks ago I gave you slimming exercises for the waist, hips and abdomen, the three spots where excess weight harasses us most. Today I am going to give you some exercises which will relax you.

Stretching is extremely refreshing when tension is dogging you. Stand with your arms raised overhead. Lower your head back slightly and stretch up toward the ceiling with your arms.

Bend slightly, or sway, from left to right, still stretching upward. You will feel the pull all the way down your torso. This should be done slowly in a lazy, stretchy manner. Relax and continue.

Now point your left toe as far out to the left as you can (toe touching floor), stretching your left leg. At the same time raise your right arm sideward upward until you feel the pull down the right side. Hold while you count to five. Return to starting position.

This time point your right toe to the side and raise your left arm sideward upward until you feel the stretch down the left side of your body. Hold while you count to five. Continue a few times, alternating.

Now try this one. Kneel on both knees. Bend at the waist and touch the fingertips to the floor as far out in front of you as comfortable.

Drag the fingertips along the floor and then up your body as you slowly straighten your spine. Arms continue on to the overhead position. Do this so slowly that you seem to feel each vertebra as it straightens. Continue.

One more. Stand tall. Lower your head backward as far as comfortable. Raise the head and touch the chest with the chin. Continue, slowly.

These four exercises are guaranteed to banish tension and make you feel relaxed. Try them at the end of some tiring day, or even better, during the day before you become so weary.

Starch for Gloves

(AP) — White gloves should be washed as soon as possible after they are soiled. A small amount of liquid starch added to the rinse water keeps them looking like new.

This stretching exercise will relax you. Touch the fingertips to the floor as far out in front of you as comfortable. Drag the fingertips along the floor and then up your body as you slowly straighten your spine. Arms continue on to overhead position.

Friendship With Aged Pays Many Dividends

By RUTH MILLETT

We hear a lot of talk these days about what should be done for our senior citizens.

Most of the talk is what can be done by government aid. But there is very little talk about the older person's need for companionship, for friendship, for being useful. No kind of legislation is going to take care of those needs. If they are to be met, it will have to be done on an individual basis.

I have before me a letter from a man of 80 who asks: "I wonder if you would be kind enough to make a suggestion as to how a partially incapacitated man of 80 could go about to make new friends?"

He writes that he can no longer afford to pay dues to the lodge where, in the past, he found most of his masculine companionship and though he has a "loving and attentive wife," he feels the need of a few male friends.

Shouldn't lodges and men's organizations be making a real effort to keep in touch with their elderly members? Shouldn't members who reach a certain age be relieved of the obligation to pay dues?

Shouldn't churches be doing more to provide companionship for older members? And shouldn't we all see that older persons in our own neighborhoods aren't left alone and lonely?

The man whose letter I quoted can't very well, at the age of 80, go out and seek new friends on his own. But friendship and companionship could be offered to him by his neighbors, by members of his church and by members of his lodge.

When we let our older citizens live in isolation just because they are old, we not only condemn them to loneliness but we lose a lot ourselves.

We lose the chance to understand first-hand the problems of aging. And we lose a wonderful opportunity to give of ourselves. For a happier life and a happier marriage, send for a copy of Ruth Millett's new booklet, "How to Have a Happy Husband." Mail 25c for each copy to Ruth Millett, Reader Service, c/o The Pontiac Press, P.O. Box 488, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

Christians' Holy Land Route Now Freed of Tank Traps

JERUSALEM (UPI) — To find themselves for registration at several, into Jordan, while on the last there will be about 500.

Those wishing to make the pilgrimage must apply to the Israeli Ministry of Interior. Preference is given to those who have never made the Christmas or Easter crossings or who have not made the pilgrimage in a long time.

Older people are given a preferred position on the list.

After the lists are completed by the Israeli authorities—only one-third of the applicants usually are given clearance—they are submitted to Jordanian officials who usually disqualify about 7 per cent as "undesirables."

On Christmas Eve, crowds arrive in Jerusalem from all parts of Israel. They make their way to the Mandelbaum Gate, only opening in the sealed border.

Notice usually is given in advance that some persons will not be able to enter Jordan. But pilgrims sometimes are turned back on Christmas Eve after having gone as far as the actual checkpoint on the Jordan side.

More often, though, the state of hostilities is forgotten in the Christmas season. Israelis and Arabs vie with one another in processing and checking the batches of pilgrims as quickly as possible before sending them on their way.

On each of the first two dates some 1,500 pilgrims will cross over the border districts on the Israeli side. They will pass shell-damaged houses and buildings, reminders of the war which ended 12 years ago and left Jerusalem divided.

Officials at Troy Clash Over Airstrip Permit

4-H WINNERS — Two Michigan 4-H Club members were named national winners at the 39th National 4-H Club Congress held this week in Chicago. The two, both of whom received $400 scholarships, are Coralee Jackson of Howell and Larry Crandall of Battle Creek. Coralee was the winner in the 4-H home improvement program sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, and Larry scored in the 4-H tractor program sponsored by Standard Oil Foundation, Inc. Some 1,350 boys and girls representing 50 states and Puerto Rico attended the Congress in recognition of achievements in 4-H Club work.

Huber, Yanich Continue Digs

Argue With Each Other About 'Danger' From Robbins Plant

TROY — Mayor Robert J. Huber and City Commissioner Louis Yanich clashed again over an airstrip owned by the Jim Robbins Co. at a special commission meeting last night.

Yanich charged that the 'landing field, located behind Robbins' plastics firm at 14-Mile Road and Stephenson Highway, was a menace to public safety because it was too close to the Troy Drive-In Theater.

The commissioner said that an airplane taking off from the field could crash into the drive-in.

At an earlier commission meeting, Yanich had accused Huber of political favoritism in dealing with Robbins.

Huber answered that Yanich's charges were ridiculous.

"He (Yanich) told us at this commission table that Mr. Robbins was going to blow up the city with his plastics plant," Huber said.

"I'm in the plastics business myself," the mayor continued, "and I know that plastics aren't dangerous." Huber told the commission that Yanich was telling people that Robbins was going to level the whole city with the chemicals at the plant.

"You always like to exaggerate," Yanich answered the mayor. "I haven't got anything against Mr. Robbins."

Yanich also said that Huber had misquoted him to the press. The commissioner said Robbins "just went ahead and built a mile-long strip before he applied for a building permit." Yanich thought the city should bring legal action against Robbins because of this.

"Louis (Yanich) obviously just wants to drive industry out of the city," snapped Huber.

City Attorney Stanley Burke informed the commissioners that the city presently has no airport ordinance. He said anyone could build an airport on his own property under present laws.

"There is no basis on which Robbins could be denied a building permit as it has been submitted," the attorney said.

City Manager David E. Preston explained that the landing field is operated privately and only planes owned by the company use the strip and its facilities.

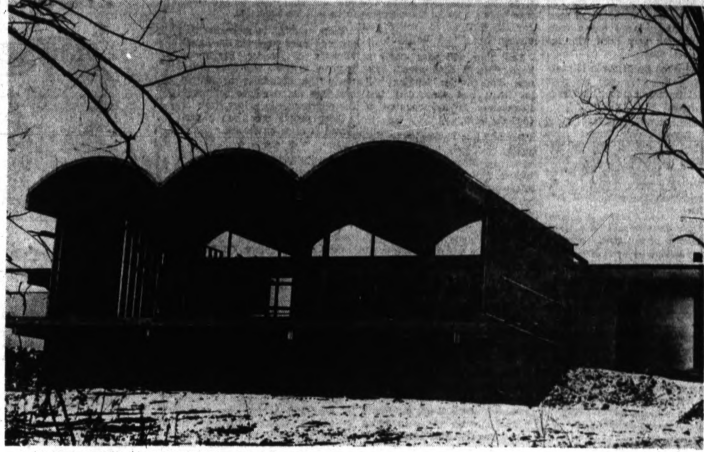

No action was taken later in the meeting when Burke submitted an airport ordinance which he said was a stop-gap measure to keep landing strips from opening up in the city.

Yanich said such an ordinance, if approved, should be complete. Burke was told to study airport ordinances of other communities and to receive information from the Michigan Municipal League so he could draw up a more effective ordinance.

The meeting was held to complete the agenda of Monday's commission session which was taken up with a discussion of a proposed lodge hall ordinance, which eventually was not approved.

In order that the Clawson-Troy Elks club could locate in the city, the commission rezoned a piece of property across from Big Beaver Airport for their use.

Since the city has no special provision for lodge hall zoning, the property was zoned from residential to business.

LIBRARY UNDER CONSTRUCTION — Work on the new $100,000 West Bloomfield Township public library will continue through the winter months with completion scheduled in February. Shown is the rear of the building with its canopied multipurpose room. Designed by the Birmingham architectural firm of Strickel, Jaroszewicz and Moody, the library will house 50,000 volumes. The new facility will replace the main library located now in Keego Harbor. The new structure is on Orchard Lake Road, just north of Walnut Lake Road.

Guest Speaker From U. of D.

15th Essay at Aquinas

ORCHARD LAKE — The Aquinas Academy of St. Mary's College here will present its 15th public essay, entitled "The Psychology of Helping People," Sunday in the campus assembly hall.

Guest speaker at the 7:30 p.m. program will be the Rev. Robert N. Hinks, S.J., associate professor of the Academy entitled "People Who Help People."

An orientating paper will be given prior to Father Hinks' discussion by one of the members of the Academy entitled "People Who Help People."

This is the Academy's 15th presentation, in keeping with its stated purpose of attempting to "discover the significance of the created world as reflected in literature, science, philosophy, and the arts."

The program moderator will be the Rev. Walter J. Ziemba, dean of St. Mary's College.

Theme of the concert and tableaux is "The Nativity." Directors are Mrs. Eleanor Egan, Annette DeRosa and Gene Terpstra.

Proceeds will go toward the Alumni Memorial Organ Fund.

OES in Clarkston Will Remember

CLARKSTON — Final plans will be made for remembering shut-ins and men in service at Christmas time when the Joseph C. Bird Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, meets 7:30 p.m. Monday at Masonic Temple.

After the business meeting, there will be an exchange of white elephant gifts, and an offering will be taken for the Children's Villa at Adrian.

Mrs. George Lang will decorate the dining room and refreshments in keeping with the season will be served by Mrs. Marvin Roberts, Mrs. Harold Lockhart, Mrs. Kenneth Thomas, Mrs. H. J. Nelson, Florence Hollinger, Alberta Williams and Rosella Parcells.

Mrs. Howard Johnson is chairman of the hostesses.

Father Hinks, whose special interests include psychiatric casework and alcoholism, has a master of social work degree from the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

An orientating paper will be given prior to Father Hinks' discussion by one of the members of the Academy entitled "People Who Help People."

Parking Meters Being Covered in Royal Oak

ROYAL OAK — Merchants and city officials are cooperating to give store patrons in Royal Oak a pre-Christmas present this year. They are covering the parking meters with cello tape and offering free two-hour parking.

Believing that meters are costing them business, merchants raised $4,000 which they gave the city parking lot indebtedness fund. The additional $3,000 the meters would have earned this month will come out of the city's general fund.

Stores also have strips of cello tape on the outside to indicate they have contributed to the free pre-Christmas parking.

By allowing the free parking, Royal Oak is following the lead of Berkeley, which is permitting the same gratis service for the second season.

The city of Clawson took out its parking meters for repairs in November 1959 and never put them back. The central business district there is a half mile from a large shopping center with free parking on 14-Mile Road.

Application blanks, which will be made available by merchants in the area, must be in by Dec. 20 with judging to take place Dec. 21.

Contestants have the opportunity when submitting their application to tell if the display is best viewed at night or in daytime.

Displays will be judged within 3 miles of Union Lake Village. Entry blanks are to be mailed to Civitan, Edgewood Country Club, Walled Lake.

Will Offer Lessons on Moving Injured

ALMONT — First aid instruction for all in the area who move injured people in the course of their duties will be given at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 9 at the Community Hospital near here.

Dr. Merle B. Haney will conduct the class.

Purpose of the lesson is to reduce the possibility of aggravating injuries through unskillful handling of people at critical times, Dr. Haney said.

The hospital is extending an invitation to all firemen, policemen, state police personnel, ambulance drivers and others to attend.

Refreshments will be served following the instruction period.

Sponsor Yule Display Contest

Union Lake Civitan Club to Back Competition for Home Owners

UNION LAKE — An outdoor Christmas display contest will be sponsored in the area by the Union Lake Civitan Club, George Williams, president of the organization, announced today.

The contest has been planned to emphasize the essential spiritual aspects of the holiday, he said.

Judges will award first, second and third prizes to home owners, basing their decisions on ingenuity and noncommercial aspects.

One additional award will be made to the institution or business having the best display.

The size or costliness is not a factor considered in judging, Williams pointed out.

Application blanks, which will be made available by merchants in the area, must be in by Dec. 20 with judging to take place Dec. 21.

Contestants have the opportunity when submitting their application to tell if the display is best viewed at night or in daytime.

Christmas Tree Growers to Meet in Ferndale

The Christmas Tree Growers of Metropolitan Detroit will meet 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Ferndale Public Library, 9-Mile Road and Woodward Avenue.

The objective of the nonprofit organization is finding ways and means to grow better Christmas trees in Michigan, according to Fred Bauer, president of the group.

He said anyone interested in any phase of the Christmas tree

Low-income Michigan farmers surveyed in a Michigan State University study paid 11.5 per cent of the farm property taxes but got only 16.1 per cent of the farm income.

Hits Tree Near Otter Lake Women Killed in Crash

LAPEER — A 62-year-old Marathon Township grandmother was dead on arrival at Lapeer County General Hospital here yesterday after her car crashed into a tree near Otter Lake.

Veterinarian Hurt in Car-Train Crash

LAKE ORION — A 33-year-old Oxford veterinarian was reported in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital today after the car he was driving collided with a New York Central freight train here yesterday.

Injured was Dr. George Cruikshank of 10 Lincoln St. He suffered lacerations of the scalp and a possible concussion.

Police said the car-train crash occurred at the Flint Street crossing of the New York Central railroad tracks. Engineer on the local freight train was Philip L. Lucas, 67, of 258 Lakeview Drive.

The train was traveling about 26 miles per hour when the accident occurred at 5:31 p.m., according to Lake Orion police.

Seasonal Songs Planned for Keego PTA Meeting

KEEGO HARBOR — Christmas songs presented by the pupils of the Roosevelt Elementary School will highlight the Parent-Teacher Association meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

The Rev. and Mrs. Robert H. Benedict will be special guests at the meeting.

Rev. Benedict, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, and his wife will show films of their recent trip to Vatican City.

Dead was Mrs. Yule (Lettie M.) Brown of 5767 North Lake Road.

Lapeer County Sheriff's deputies said the car Mrs. Brown was driving apparently hit a patch of ice, skidded off the road and hit the tree on Otter Lake Road, just east of Otter Lake village.

Survivors besides her husband, a factory worker, are three daughters, Mrs. Max Hemingway of Otter Lake, Mrs. William Berkowski of Standish and Janet Brown at home; a son, Merle Brown of Otter Lake; and nine grandchildren.

Service is tentatively set for 2 p.m. Saturday at the Reynolds Funeral Home, Columbusville, Burial will be in Sashabaw Cemetery, Independence Township.

Public Christmas Bazaar Set by Guild

FOUR TOWNS — The Elizabeth Russell Guild of the Women's Society of Christian Service at Four Towns Methodist Church will hold its annual public Christmas bazaar Saturday at the church.

The bazaar opens at 4 p.m. and a complete bean dinner will be served starting at 5 p.m.

On sale during the one-day event will be baked goods, candy, surprise packages, needle work and Christmas decorations.

Civil Defense Official to Speak in Commerce

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — Lewis Jarrendt, Oakland County director of Civil Defense, will be the featured speaker at an 8 p.m. meeting Monday of the Carroll Lake Civic Association.

Charles Bullock, the county's assistant Civil Defense director, also will speak and a movie, "Seconds for Survival," will be shown.

The meeting will be held at the John F. Ivory Clubhouse, Cooley Lake and Carroll Lake roads.

Orion to Greet Santa Saturday

Parade Will Follow His Arrival by Train at 9:42 A.M.

LAKE ORION — Santa Claus arrives here from the North Pole at 9:42 a.m. Saturday aboard a New York Central Railroad train.

He'll be welcomed by practically the whole town, including the Lake Orion Community High School Band.

Village Council President Irvine J. Unger will be there to shake Santa's hand when he arrives at the Flint Street railroad crossing.

After his official welcome, Santa will be the main attraction in a parade led by the high school band.

WITH TOP DOWN! The bewhiskered old gentleman will ride in an open convertible with Eugene Green, president of the Lake Orion Merchants' Association.

All along the parade route local merchants will display special flags to honor his arrival.

Children from the area will bring up the rear of the parade, which will travel east along Flint Street, south to Front Street and west to its destination, Russ Johnson's Motor Sales, 51 N. Broadway.

Children under 12 will receive gifts from their special holiday visitor at the auto dealership, which will be Santa's headquarters until Christmas.

Club Offers Fish Supper

DAVISBURG — The Men's Club of the Davisburg Methodist Church will sponsor a fish supper tomorrow beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the church.

A free will offering will be taken with proceeds to go into the church's general fund.

FIREFIGHTER BLAZE — Fire yesterday completely destroyed St. Mary's Elementary School in Gaylord despite efforts of Gaylord, Gaylord and Michigan Conservation Department firemen to save the two-story brick and wood building. The 308 pupils and teachers fled calmly to safety as flames fanned by 30-mile-per hour, gusty winds swept through the structure. Sparks and ashes were carried to the downtown area a block from the school, and damage was estimated at $250,000.

ESCAPE SCHOOL FIRE — Sister Marie Edward, first grade teacher, marches pupils into snowstorm at St. Mary's Elementary School, Gaylord, after fire broke out between the basement and first floor yesterday. The evacuation was directed by the Rev. Eugene Golias, eighth grade teacher, who discovered the fire after smelling smoke in his classroom. He went from room to room ordering the children and teachers out. The fire destroyed the interior of the building and left only three walls standing but ready to crumble.

Armies Might Stand Firm in War

Warns Against Deriding Red Satellites

LONDON (UPI) — An authoritative British publication has warned the West not to take it for granted that Russia's satellite armies would prove unreliable in case of war.

"It would be unrealistic to base any political or military calculation on the expectation that they might desert the Soviet cause," said the World Today, a publication of the Royal Institute of International Affairs, in a report on satellite military might.

The survey estimated that the Soviet satellite states have regular armies totaling about 800,000 men, plus 300,000 men in "militia units."

"These forces might prove unreliable in dealing with internal rebellions," the survey said, "but they would be extremely unlikely to jump to the conclusion that they would never fight by the side of the U.S.S.R. against an external foe."

ESTIMATES OF STRENGTH

The survey included these estimates of the strength and organization of the satellite forces:

POLAND: The Army has been reduced from 20 to 15 divisions and its leadership has been reorganized in the wake of the military upheaval of 1956. Soviet "military advisers" have been withdrawn from the country.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA: Has 15 divisions, equipped with up-to-date weapons, including airborne units of divisional size. Russia appears to regard Czech troops as "more reliable" than the Poles.

BULGARIA: There are 11 divisions, including four mechanized ones closely approximating the Soviet model.

ROMANIA: Has 15 divisions, noto be as well equipped as other satellite forces.

HUNGARY: The Army was virtually wrecked in the revolution of 1956. Only 4 divisions are believed to have been rebuilt.

EAST GERMANY: About 7 divisions, including 2 armored. All are well trained and equipped.

The satellites also offer a valuable addition to Russia's own air forces, according to the survey.

Poland and Czechoslovakia each have about 1,000 jet fighters, modeled on the Soviet MIG.

Sagging TV Shows Set for Final Curtain

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—Television networks, or at any rate their publicity departments, are the most affirmative-thinking, optimistic institutions since Polya-

nia. They talk up their programs as if each were a masterpiece, and when one proves definitely to be a dud, they beat drums for its replacement without even bothering to announce the demise of the old show.

The end of the first 13-week period of the TV season will soon be upon us, and although many shows have been bought for 26 weeks or re-signed by sponsors, a number are bound to disappear. Some fatalities have already been named, mostly by checking schedules to find out what current shows are occupying time slots in which new shows have been cast.

The new year will bring several changes to the NBC schedule, "The Dick Van Dyke Show," which has barely managed to keep afloat during its replacement without even bothering to announce the demise of the old show.
