Lucky Hunch Wins Man Drowns in Weather Contest in Kent Lake

A lucky hunch paid off for a Milford mother. It brought her victory and a $100 savings bond in The Pontiac Press Weather Man contest.

Mrs. William R. Scott, 33, of 4365 England Beach Rd., guessed within three minutes the actual hottest moment in June.

She forecast 2:17 p.m., June 17. The hottest moment of the month turned out to be 2:20 p.m. June 17 when the thermometer soared to 94 degrees.

How did she pick the time and date she submitted to The Press? "Well, 2:17 p.m. June 17, was the exact time and date I was baptized," said Mrs. Scott. "I just played a hunch."

Employed at Socony-Mobil Oil Co., Pontiac, Mrs. Scott has been married 16 years and has three children. Her husband is a factory worker employed in Detroit.

Although Mrs. Scott has carried off June's honors, there will be another Weather Man Contest for July, for which entries closed Saturday afternoon.

U.S. Dist. Judge Burnita S. Matthews said she would rule on the motion, later in the day and meanwhile ordered the trial continued.

Hoffa, Midwest boss of the Teamsters Union, and Hyman I. Fischbach, Miami attorney, are charged with "planting" John Cye Cheasty, a Brooklyn lawyer, investigator, on the Senate Rackeys Investigating Committee to feed Hoffa the committee's inside information.

Cheasty, the prosecution's star witness in the trial, testified he told the committee and the FBI of the plot.

Edward B. Williams, Hoffa's attorney, and Daniel B. Maher, counsel for Fischbach, joined in the motion for a mistrial.

Ice Fall Traps Peak Climbers 10,000 Feet Up

Start Rescue Operation as Four Cling to Perch in Cascade Mountains

GOLDENDALE, Wash. (AP)—Four weekend climbers, stranded overnight on a gleaming ice fall high on snow-covered Mt. Adams, were rescued early today, cold, tired and hungry but otherwise unharmed.

RANDLE, Wash. (AP)—A gleaming ice fall high on the flanks of 12,307-foot Mt. Adams today held captive four mountain climbers as a massive rescue operation got under way.

The ice fall was at the 10,000-foot level on the Cascade Mountains peak 105 miles southeast of Seattle.

Dr. Ralph Uber, 40, Robert Swensen, 33, and Mike McGuire, 20, all of Yakima, and David Bishop, 22, Toppenish, Wash., were apparently trapped by the ice. McGuire is a student at Colorado School of Mines, Golden, Colo.

Rescue parties, organized in Seattle, Yakima, Ellensburg, Goldendale, Longview, Wash., and Hood River, Ore., headed up the rugged sides of Mt. Adams at dawn this morning in an effort to pluck the four stranded climbers from their bed of ice. The ice fall has a 45 degree slant.

An ice fall, or ice wall, is a wall of ice extending down the side of a mountain. Its sides are precipitous. The four men were trapped at the head of the ice wall.

Sheriff Ez Kaiser of Klickitat County, said it was not known whether any of the stranded men were injured.

He said it was quite possible that the four reached a point on the ice fall where they could go neither up nor down, left nor right.

All four were described as experienced mountain climbers. Their plight was first noticed by another Yakima climber, George Gans. In climbing about the lower elevations yesterday, Gans noted that the four men stayed in virtually the same spot on the ice fall from early morning to late afternoon.

Mishap on Water Skis Takes Life of Visitor From Upper Peninsula

Marvin R. Lakki, 22, a resident of the Upper Peninsula town of Aura, who had been staying with friends at 32127 Kathryn St., Garden City, became Oakland County's second weekend drowning victim Sunday afternoon.

The first victim, Charles Koonitz, 27, of 18904 Maplewood St., Livonia, drowned when the seven-foot pram he was in was swamped in the choppy waters of Loon Lake, Commerce Township, early Saturday.

Lakki, who drowned in Kent Lake, Lyon Township, was water skiing at the time of the fatal accident. A friend, Milton Kivela, of 6975 Bailey St., Dearborn, was driving the boat which towed Lakki.

Kivela told Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies that he turned to see Lakki fall off the skis, but the discovery that one ski was damaged led them to believe he may have hit a floating object.

The body has not yet been recovered. Dragging operations were halted after dark Sunday night, to be resumed early today.

May Be Visible Again Tonight

State Watches Fabulous Display of Northern Lights

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan was treated to a spectacular display of northern lights—the Aurora Borealis—for almost five hours Sunday night and early today.

They appeared as bright shafts of light through the sky with waving streamers of pale green, greenish white and white.

SEEN ALL OVER The lights were visible through the entire Great Lakes region, the weather bureau said.

The weather bureau predicted clear skies, again tonight and said the lights may again be visible. Strong sunspots are causing the emanations.

Washington offers a forecast for the next 18 months of more freak weather over the world, and more brilliant northern lights displays.

STUDY EFFECTS Scientists of many countries concentrated today on studying the effects of a major explosion on the sun which coincided nicely with the opening of the International Geophysical Year.

Actually, the flare erupted three days ago, but its effects were not noted until early yesterday.

Russian scientists at Moscow were the first to report it. They flashed word to IGY communications centers all over the world, including the IGY world warning agency at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

The word was passed promptly along to scientists at 2,000 IGY stations from the arctic to the ant-

Van Atta Backers Expected to Ask Trial Board Hearing

Backers of dismissed Waterford Township Police Chief Frank Van Atta are expected to demand a trial board hearing for him tonight when the township board meets at 7:30 in the township hall.

The group questions the dismissal of Van Atta without considering his seniority rights. Van Atta, whose post was eliminated as a result of a sharply reduced budget, joined the Waterford police department when it was organized three years ago.

The board is expected to take action in the rezoning of Williams Lake road property, from the railroad to Coventry, from residential to commercial. This area is known as the Burlington Lake Park Subdivision.

Previously, the Waterford Zoning Board approved the rezoning but it was turned down by the

State Tax Receipts Soar

LANSING (AP)—The State Revenue Department today reported 1956-57 state tax receipts hit a new peak, reflecting record business activity.

"Despite all claims to the contrary, Michigan business, of which tax collections represent the most accurate barometer, reached an all-time high record," the department said.

Sales tax yield hit $309,600,000, or about 2.7 million dollars over the preceding year, notwithstanding a drop of about five million dollars in revenue from automobile and building materials.

Mayflower Uses Her Own Power for New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Moving under her own power, the Mayflower II sailed slowly across New York Harbor today as other craft tooted a welcome.

By midmorning, the ship was nearing the Statue of Liberty, an scheduled to dock at Pier 81 on the Hudson River by noon. A brisk wind gave her a proud stance as she made her approach.

The tiny bark, a replica of the Pilgrims' ship, arrived under tow from Newport, R.I., and was tied up at a Staten Island pier at 3 a.m.

Delayed at Newport for almost a day by high winds and heavy seas, the Mayflower II made its way to the city through Long Island Sound and the East River into the harbor. The little ship had left Newport shortly after Saturday midnight, towed by a commercial tugboat.

Fear of Disease Hanging Over Louisiana Coast

Workers Find They're in a Race With Time to Clean Up the Dead

By BOB CONSIDINE

LAKE CHARLES, La. (INS)—Louisiana today prepared mass burial for the nameless among its estimated 350 to 500 hurricane victims.

The threat of disease and pestilence hung like a vulture over the West Gulf Coast of Louisiana today as rescue workers found themselves in a race against time to clean up the dead—human and animal.

200 BODIES FOUND

Less than 200 bodies have been recovered and rescue operations, already gruesome, are being made almost horrifying by thousands and maybe millions of poisonous water moccasins which are swimming about everywhere.

Eighty-eight injured are under treatment in Lake Charles and six of these are in critical condition.

An estimated 70,000 head of cattle are floating in the slimy marsh country of south Cameron parish, where 105-mile-an-hour winds shot ashore at 4 a.m. Thursday followed by waves of near tidal proportions, which drowned most of the cattle, leaving salty water to take a toll of those that survived the first hours.

PORTABLE PUMPS

Portable pumps went into the fight today to save some 15,000 to 20,000 of Cameron parish cattle that survived Hurricane Audrey. The air literally smells of death.

In Lake Charles, where most of the survivors are being cared for, the refugees today obeyed the biblical admonition, "Visit the sick, bury the dead."

No one really knew how many of either there are.

Salvation Army Center Started

Remodeling Job Begun on First Social Service Area in Pontiac

A $271,000 remodeling job was started today on the future site of Pontiac's first Salvation Army Men's Social Service Center at 118 W. Lawrence St.

Major Ernest Alder, manager of the center, announced that the Smith & Andrews Construction Co. of Oak Park was awarded the general contract for the work with a bid of $125,838.

The mechanical trades contract went to Sylvan Plumbing & Heating Co. ($93,200), electrical trades to Rogers Electric Co. ($29,678), and the Illinois Range Co. for kitchen equipment ($22,436).

Work on the first floor of the former Whitfield, Walter & Dawson wholesale grocery warehouse is expected to be completed by Aug. 15, Major Alder said. This will permit opening of the center's retail store, baling room, and certain shops. A Oct. 15 date has been set for the completion of the second floor. Here will be housed facilities for 55 men and other repair shops, recreation rooms, and a chapel.

The Salvation Army purchased the building for $150,000 a year ago.

The center will be for the rehabilitation of needy men who seek assistance from the Army.

It will be completely self-sustaining from the proceeds of the retail store, which will sell redevelped furniture, clothing, waste materials and miscellaneous items collected by the Salvation Army.

Pontiac area Baber Shops will be closed all day Friday and Saturday following July 4th. Open Wednesday.

Prices Go Up on Cigarettes

Whisky Also Higher as Result of Increased State Taxes

LANSING (AP) — Prices went up today for smokers and drinkers in Michigan, the result of increased state taxes on whisky and cigarettes.

Proceeds from the additional levies will help pay for support of local schools.

The legislature went on record for the plan five weeks ago. Although Gov. Williams, who has been out of the state, had not signed the bill late last night, the tax machinery began to turn on his promise in a statewide telecast that he would do so.

The governor planned to affix his signature—reluctantly—before the day was out.

The new whisky tax, an excise levy at the rate of four per cent, added 16 cents to the price of a fifth that previously retailed at $4. The jump in the state cigarette tax was two cents a package, making the total now assessed by the state five cents. Also, some manufacturers recently nudged the price up another penny a pack.

However, smokers purchased at many vending machines that formerly ejected a pack for 25 cents were requiring 30 cents for the same product, a nickel extra.

Suffers Head Injury

A 32-year-old pedestrian, injured Saturday morning when he was hit by a truck while reportedly running across the street, is in Pontiac General Hospital today with a concussion.

Pontiac police report witnesses of the accident said John Hardy of 338 Bloomfield St., ran against the traffic light at Franklin road and South Boulevard W. His condition is satisfactory. Driver of the truck was Hastings Martin Jr., 19, of 467 Highland St.

Driver Pleads Guilty

Franklin H. Marens, 45, of 744 Maloney Ave., Oxford, pleaded guilty before West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle Saturday, and had the drunk driving charge against him reduced to reckless driving. Marens paid a fine and costs totaling $100.

Does the weather affect our mood because of psychological factors or because of physical factors?

The changing weather affects the way we feel in both the real, physical sense, and the psychological. In the first place changes in the pressure of the air affect us, as does the relative amount of moisture in the air, so that many people feel genuine physical "omens" and "signs" about the weather in advance of a weather change, and during certain periods.

The psychological effect is also great. Psychologists have found that some people associate cheerfulness with rain, others link it with bright, sunny skies. It depends, to a large extent, on childhood experiences and the business you are in, or what effect rain—for example—will have on your life.

So both these influences must be taken into consideration in appraising the effects of weather on humans, which is sometimes quite great. Generally speaking, of course, most people, feel best, physically, when they are under a high pressure area of clear, dry air.

During July 4th Weekend 535 May Die in Accidents

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents may kill 535 Americans during the long Independence Day holiday, the National Safety Council said today.

The 102-hour period runs from 6 p. m. local time Wednesday to midnight Sunday.

Cold figures indicate that unless extra care is used to meet the extra holiday hazards, the holiday traffic jam will bring death to 535 persons.

That would be a new high for the Independence Day holiday. The record is 491, established during a four-day period in 1950.

Last State Stronghold Falls Republicans Loosen Grip

LANSING (AP) — The long-weakening Republican hold on Michigan's top political offices officially was pried loose today as the inauguration of two Democrats gave their party every chair on the eight-man state administrative board.

The 10-year Democratic climb to political power gives the party full administrative control for the first time in state history with the inauguration today of John C. Mackie of Flint as state highway commissioner and Lynn M. Bartlett of Grosse Pointe Woods as state superintendent of public instruction.

Republicans who once dominated Michigan's political fortunes, now maintain only a minority in both houses of the state legislature.

Only 10 years ago the Democrats were at one of their lowest political points in Michigan history. Now they fill the chairs of governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, treasurer and auditor general.

Defense Bill Debate Under Way in Senate

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Senate opens debate today on the big 34 and one-half billion dollar defense bill with passage before the Fourth of July its aim.

Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.), chairman of the Military Appropriations Subcommittee who will be in charge of the measure, appeared to have wide support even from colleagues who usually seek to cut money bills.

Some members of the appropriations committee said they expect the debate to be pretty much cut and dried, with the real fight to come in the conference of the two houses over the two and one-half billion dollars the House cut from President Eisenhower's request.

The Senate committee restored nearly one billion dollars—almost the entire amount of hard cash the administration asked.

Lost Girl Uses Spoon to Scare 'Friendly' Bear

RESEDA, Calif. (INS) — A four-year-old girl calmly related today how she clobbered a black bear with a spoon when he got too friendly as she wandered lost in the wilds of Yosemite National Park.

The little girl, Shirley Ann Miller, was found yesterday after being missing for three days in the rugged California wilderness. Undaunted and unshaken by her experience, Shirley had suffered only a heat rash that made her face bright red.

She said: "I saw a big black bear once and I went up to pet him. Then he put his paw on my head. I guess I got scared. So I hit him with my spoon . . . and he ran away."

In telling about the bear a few minutes after she had been found, Shirley Ann insisted that she wasn't lost — it was the bear that was lost.

Neighbors crowded through the Miller home today and shook their heads in bewilderment as the child gave an off-hand account of her three days and nights in the wilds after wandering away from her parents.

She said: "It wasn't so bad. I slept under a tree one day, all day long."

The girl's mother, Mrs. Virginia Miller, said: "I don't know what all happened to her. But I had faith she'd come home. I just knew she would."

She added: "Next time I'm going to tie a cowbell around her neck."

Shirley Ann giggled.

Man Injured in Accident

Robert A. Williams, 16, of 16229 Woodbine Rd., Detroit, was treated and released from Pontiac General Hospital Sunday afternoon after suffering minor head and abdominal injuries as his car left the road and rolled over.

Williams told sheriff's deputies he was going east on Clarkston Rd. at Easton Rd., in Independence Township, when an oncoming car forced him off the road.

They found the station had been entered by thieves who escaped with more than $800 in merchandise and cash.

Missing were three batteries valued at $60, three boxes of spark plugs worth $32, one box of tools valued at an estimated $600, four tires valued at $75, $6.80 in change taken from a coke machine, $44 worth of commercial gift stamps and other items.

Deputies said the thieves had evidently backed a truck up to the rear of the building, loading it with the items. The deputies had checked the station at 1 a.m. and found nothing out of place.

As Government Opens Fiscal Year Agencies Need Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government started its new financial year today with some of its larger agencies not yet financed by Congress.

To cope with the situation, the House Appropriations Committee called an emergency session. It planned to send to the House for action later today a stop-gap resolution provided temporary funds for agencies whose annual money bills haven't cleared Congress.

In the technically "broke" group are the Defense Department, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Tennessee Valley authority and the International agencies whose annual money program, plus several smaller agencies, awaiting final Senate action today also are House-Senate committee agreements on the Agricultural bills haven't cleared Congress.

Cooperative Administration, and Interior Department money bills.

Actually, the agencies have enough money to tide them over until Congress acts, provided it doesn't delay to long.

The Day in Birmingham Petitioners Protest Price of School Pool Admission

BIRMINGHAM—One of the issues of citywide importance to come before commissioners tonight will be a petition signed by 287 Birmingham residents protesting prices for the use of the Derby Junior High School and Birmingham High School pools.

The recreation board has set prices of 35 cents for children and 75 cents for adults as admission to the pools. Petitioners point out that they feel the prices are exorbitant. They cite the fact that some families have four or five children who at 35 cents each would make it prohibitive for the youngsters to enjoy any swimming facilities during the summer season.

They are asking commissioners to intercede in bringing about what they consider a more fair and reasonable admission fee.

Commissioners also will receive a letter from Frederick C. Pew adding further protest to the business C zoning policy they have adopted. At last week's meeting Pew warned commissioners and plan board members that this type zoning can become a very real danger to desirable residential property. He terms it a "catch-all" for zoning.

The purchase of two trucks and outline of policy for the use of water for sprinkling purposes also will come before the commission this evening.

Police are investigating a sudden flurry of prowler reports throughout the city. Residents of Hanna, Frank and Manchester streets and Colonial Court, widely scattered areas in the city, reported prowlers Saturday night.

The Hannah and Colonial Court reports were received within two minutes of each other. Police said that since these are at extreme ends of the city there is every indication that more than one person is involved.

Resurrected Billy Graham's Mother Joins His Crusade

From the Dead

United With Wife, Sons After Listed Drowning Last April 26

PASCO, Wash. (U)—The rector of the Episcopal church here, believed drowned in an Idaho lake April 26, returned to his home and his parish late last night.

The Rev. Andrew Daughters, 37, returned from the dead while attending a communion service yesterday morning in Grace Episcopal Cathedral in San Francisco. He was dressed as a workman and his hands were calloused.

The first indication of returning memory came as he read the parish bulletin. He asked a fellow worshipper if the date, "June 30," was correct. When informed it was, he sought help from Canon Richard Byfield, the clergyman who had conducted the service.

Talking with Canon Byfield, the Rev. Mr. Daughters regained knowledge of his identity. He held a tearful telephone reunion with his wife. He was given the clothing of an Episcopal clergyman. With his workman's clothes in a paper bag, he flew from San Francisco to Portland, Ore., and then to Yakima, Wash.

At Yakima, he was met by his wife and the Rev. Charles May, the Episcopal rector at Kennewick, Wash., and a friend of the Daughters.

The three then drove to Pasco, arriving late last night. Daughters' four sons, aged 3 to 13 years, greeted him.

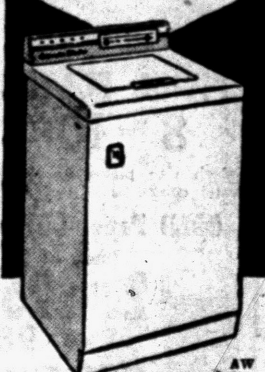

Search for Daughters started after his boat was found abandoned and damaged on Lake Coeur D'Alene. A week later the search was given up and Daughters was listed as "presumably drowned." A memorial fund for the aid of his children had been started.

The parish had chosen a new rector and had called the Rev. Lester Kinsolving, vicar of St. Thomas Church at Rodeo and St. Philip's Church at El Sobrante, Calif.

Wrong Side of Street

CONCORD, N. C. (U)—Earl (Doc) Webster, a 38-year-old Kaniapolis farmer, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. Officers said he drove his farm tractor down the wrong side of Concord's main street.

NEW YORK (U)—Evangelist Billy Graham's mother joined him on the platform at Madison Square Garden last night to tell of the virtues and blessings of a Christian home.

They were heard by an audience announced as 19,200, including 700 standees. An estimated 5,000 gathered outside, unable to be admitted to the arena because of building regulations. A spokesman said it was the largest turn-out during the 46 days of Graham's New York crusade.

Graham's mother, Mrs. Anne Morrow Graham, a little woman in her 60s, urged that parents rear their children in the Christian faith and the Bible and take them to church and Sunday school. She said she and her husband, William Frank Graham Sr., a North Carolina dairy farmer, did their best to instill a feeling for God in their children.

Graham, before introducing his mother to the Garden audience, went outside to speak briefly to the crowd there. Some of those who could not get inside were members of a delegation that came by special train from Louisville, Ky. Loudspeakers later carried his sermon to those outside. Graham said, "The home is re-

Severe 'Back' Bruises Given Meter Reading

DALLAS (U)—Water meter reader James W. Martin asked the City Council to approve a $75 hospital bill.

His injuries involved an automobile accident.

The doctor's report listed "severe bruises" along with a series of lengthy medical terms relating to anatomy. The accident report noted that Martin had his back to the automobile at the time it nudged him. He also was leaning over.

garded by all Christian nations as the basis of civilized society," and he added:

"Any nation can only be as strong as its homes. The greatest men of our days were not fashioned on battlefields but in the cradle at the fireside."

Total attendance at the Garden meetings to date was announced as 805,800. Graham's call last night for "decisions for Christ" brought 597, making a total of 24,952 since the meetings began May 15.

Graham's office announced there will be no meetings at the Garden tonight and the next two succeeding Monday nights, to give the evangelist and his associates a rest. They have had only one night off so far during the New York crusade.

Graham spoke yesterday afternoon at an open-air rally in Harlem, New York's main Negro neighborhood. A crowd estimated at 5,000 heard him preach from the steps of the Salem Methodist Church.

The evangelist from North Carolina called race relations "the most burning social question of the day."

Trash Man Returns Rings Worth $1,250

NEW ORLEANS (U)—A city trash collector has returned to the owner two diamond rings worth $1,250, found hidden in a venetian blind that was discarded.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Canovski concealed the rings at the top of the blind. The rings were forgotten and the blinds were changed.

When the loss was discovered, city sanitation worker Jacob Dalgren was contacted. He had taken the blinds home without realizing their hidden value.

"We need legislation," he said. "But we must have the love of Christ in our hearts to back up the legislation. Prejudice has its roots in sin."

Graham said the solution to the racial question lies in love for one's neighbor.

The meeting was sponsored by the Heart of Harlem Neighborhood Church Assn. of the Protestant Council. It was one of a series of meetings to spread his message to various neighborhoods of the city.

Twins Equal in Court

MILES CITY, Mont. (U)—Dick and Dan Biery of Rosebud county are 20-year-old twins. Both have twin model sedans. Both were fined $10 in justice court after pleading guilty to driving their twin vehicles, bumper to bumper, 68 miles an hour in a 55-mile-an-hour zone.

Without dust, considered a fall, says the National Geographic Society, little rain or snow would plague.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or estrins—agents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

GUNLOCK by WAYNE D. OVERHOLSER

CHAPTER 31

Ordinarily Delaney would have locked the store and gone home hours ago, but he was still there when I reached town, proof that he was anxious to make any kind of sale and get out of the valley. I stomped snow from my boots before I went in.

He had scrawled the words of a simple agreement stating that I would buy his store and house for $3,000, possession to be given and payment to be made within ten days. I signed it and handed it back.

"Got another copy, Will," he said. "One for both of us."

I signed it, too, and folded it and slipped it into my pocket, thinking gloomily that I had been a fool, that after the beating Mathers had taken he would leave the valley, leaving me with a store on my hands.

At the sound of a shot I alerted. For a moment I wasn't sure where it came from, but Delaney seemed to know. He said smugly: "I hope they plug each other."

I grabbed his fat shoulder and shook him. "Who are you talking about?"

"Dillingham and Kathy Morgan."

I went out of the store on the run, untied my horse, and swung into the saddle. This was the finish. I don't know why I was so sure. Just a feeling, maybe. But it made sense. Dillingham and Turner had been working on their scheme all summer. Now Turner was dead and his friends had been cleaned off Box P range. Dillingham would be wild, but he should be after me, not Kathy.

When I reached her house I saw that the front door was open, lamplight blurred by the whirling snow. I ran to the house, and when I made the step up to the porch I saw Kathy lying in the center of her front room.

I went in, slamming the door, and knelt beside her. She was alive, her pulse strong and regular. Blood had trickled down her forehead and dried, making a brown stain above her left eye. It wasn't a bullet wound; she'd been knocked out by a blow.

I carried her to the couch. She was beginning to stir. When I turned toward the kitchen door, I became aware of the shambles the house had become. Dillingham had taken an ax and smashed holes in the floor and the wall. Chairs were upended, drawers jerked out and emptied. The upholstery on the back of the couch had been ripped by a knife.

I found a dishcloth in the kitchen and wet it at the pump. The same thing had happened there. Even the pantry had been emptied; supplies and broken dishes were scattered all over the kitchen floor. I returned to the front room, where, sitting down beside Kathy, I began to wipe her face, all the while trying to figure out what had hit Dillingham. He was a bully who probably got pleasure out of sheer destruction, but why at Kathy's?

She came out of it within a minute or so.

"Did he hit you with a gun barrel?" I asked her.

"Yes. I tried to kill him but I missed. Before I could shoot again, he cracked me. That's all I remember." She licked her lips and felt her head. "Get me a drink, Will. There's a bottle in the pantry if he didn't take it."

I found it, and a cup that wasn't broken, went back into the front room, and poured her a drink. She sat up long enough to get it down, then fell back, clutching the top of her head.

"What was he after, Kathy?"

She opened her eyes, to look at me, her right hand still holding her head. "You don't know, do you, Will? You really don't know. That Dillingham. You can fight something that's in the open, can't you? Like Turner and his clodbusters. You cleaned 'em off Box P range slicker'n a whistle, but you didn't know you'd turn Dillingham into a wild man. You don't savvy anybody who waits and waits, do you? Me and Dillingham were good waiters, for a while. I wanted him to wait some more, but he wouldn't. Had to rob me, and get out, but I'll get him. I'll get him if I chase him to the end of the earth!"

"What was he after, Kathy?" I asked again.

"Money. What else would make him do a thing like this?" She swore for a full minute. "I had better'n $4,000 laid away. Didn't know then what I was saving for, but I knew after Joe cashed in. He was gonna leave me all his money, and what'd I get. A thousand dollars!"

She sat up, cursing again as pain racked her. Even after what had happened tonight, she seemed to hate Sarah far more than she hated Gene Dillingham. She jabbed a forefinger at me.

"You can buy respectability. That's what I was saving for. Had the money right here in the house, and Gene knew it. After you killed Turner, he was bound to pull out of the valley. Wanted me to go with him, but I wouldn't. I was going to stay here and bust your widow friend, I'd have hired some gunslingers to do the job—not plow pushers like Secore and Troy and Runyan. We aimed to get you, Will, you and Thurston and the King kid. Run off her cattle. Whittle her down till she'd be glad to sell. I was going to buy the Box P, and then I'd live up there in the house where Joe lived and I'd lord it over the valley just like they used to when Joe was alive."

She shut her eyes again. I sat there staring at her, thinking that the last time I had seen her I had sensed she was evil; but I hadn't realized how virulent her hatred for Sarah was, how much she had changed in the year since Joe was killed.

I rose. Whatever sympathy I'd had for her in the past was gone. She'd leave the valley. I'd see to it that she did.

She went on. "Gene hunted till he found the money. That's when I tried to kill him. We figured it out a long time ago. I was gonna buy the Box P and he was gonna run it for me, and people'd look up to us just like they used to look up to Joe and that thing he married. But Gene wouldn't wait. Now he'll kill her and he'll go 'way with my money."

I grabbed Kathy by both shoulders and shook her until she cursed me and put her hand to her head again. I yelled: "Where's Dillingham? Did he go to the Box P?"

"Sure he went to the Box P, 'n' you're too late to stop him. He'll kill her 'n' then he'll kill you. Think he'll forget she made you foreman 'stead of him? Not Gene. No, sir."

I didn't wait to hear any more. I ran across the snow-covered yard and swung into the saddle once more, the wind still blasting across the valley, fat snowflakes pelting me as I put my tired horse up the road to the Box P. Kathy Morgan's words were going through my mind in an endless burning refrain: "Sure he went to the Box P, and you're too late to stop him." She could have told me that at first, but instead she'd talked, holding me there so that Dillingham would have more time.

Something inside kept telling me to ride, ride . . . All I knew was that it was cold and that it was an effort to stay in the saddle.

My horse stopped. Instinct made me dismount. I knew I could not stand there motionless, so I began stirring around and waving my arms, and a moment later I stumbled into the corral gate.

The bunkhouse windows were dark, and when I opened the door the room seemed as cold as the driving snow outside.

I went on toward the house, guided by a faint show of light that was hardly anything at all when I first saw it, so hard was it snowing. But it was enough, and I was fully aware of what lay ahead. I must kill Gene Dillingham or he would kill me. The waiting was over, and yet, knowing that, I made a stupid mistake for which there was no excuse. . . .

"Dillingham stood as motionless as if he and the gun were carved out of granite. I did the only thing I could —" Continue Will Beeson's story tomorrow.

Previously Unpublished

Shaw's Love Letters to Be Sold in London

LONDON (INS) — George Bernard Shaw's first love letters, written to Alice Lockett, a young hospital nurse, will be sold this month in London's famed Sotheby Auction rooms.

The previously unpublished letters disclosed their romance apparently had flourished in the dreary waiting room of the Liverpool Street station in London amid the sounds of hissing steam engines. Shaw was 27 at the time he began writing them.

The letters, dated from 1883 to 1885, were written after he became infatuated with the young nurse while she was taking singing lessons from his mother.

Shaw would escort her to the railway station after her lessons.

Shaw's letters showed he was at once bluntly outspoken and capable of soaring to great heights romantically.

They were tender at times, sharp at others, depending on the way his romance was going.

On one occasion Shaw declared:

"I despise happiness." Another day he warned: "When love has gone out of me . . . I shall hurl the truth about like destroying lightning."

Frequently his love notes were tender, as when he compared Alice and himself to two souls clinging "to the same spar in a gleam of sunshine."

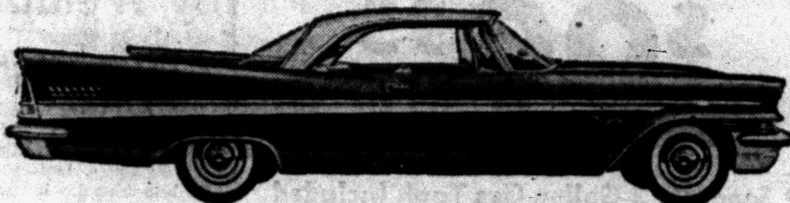

Shaw died on Nov. 2, 1950, at the age of 94.

Firm Develops Lighting in Fog

New Theory May Aid Visibility as Much as 100 Per Cent

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (U)—A New York research firm and a Pennsylvania State University professor have reported the development of new highway lighting principle which they believe will improve visibility through fog by 100 per cent.

C. L. Crouch, secretary of the illuminating engineering research institute of New York City, called the development a "fog penetrating system" made possible through light control methods using polarization of light.

He said it uses a polarizing filter to screen out a certain portion of the light bounced back by fog, thus revealing a more distinct scene.

Tests on the project, undertaken in 1953, were run at the University of Michigan as well as at Penn State.

Prof. Charles R. Marsh, associate professor of electrical engineering, said the fog visibility could be improved by changing the mounting angles of highway lighting, using low-mounted white fog lights and polarizing the light sources.

The new lighting system has been demonstrated for turnpike authorities from 10 states, highway safety experts and lighting engineers.

New Prison Uniforms for Jackson Inmates

JACKSON (U)—Brown denim is replacing blue for the uniform of Southern Michigan Prison inmates. Prison officials said the change was being made to make possible quick identification of prisoners, especially trustees working outside the walls. They noted that blue denim is used for most civilian work clothes.

The heavy brown denim is manufactured in the prison industries plant here. The trousers are made at Marquette State Prison.

Pro-Reds Ask Ouster

COLOMBO, Ceylon (U)—The Federation of Socialist Trade Unions has demanded the ouster of Ceylon's ambassador to the United States, R. S. S. Gunawardena, because he signed the U. N. committee report on the Hungarian revolt. The federation, backers of a Communist faction, says the 5-nation report is a collection of falsehoods and slander.

The wife of a U.S. President has no official title.

Hal Boyle Says:

Bob Hope Claims Jokester Crown

NEW YORK (U)—Bob Hope, the comedian's Croesus, believes he probably has told more jokes than any other man in history.

He's been skipping them out past his ski-slope nose at the rate of better than 10,000 a year for the last quarter century.

"I figure I've told at least a quarter million jokes," he said, "and if you count repeat jokes, that is jokes told over and over to different audiences while on tour, the number would go into the millions."

"I doubt if anyone else has told more," he said, adding with a grin, "who else has had the chance?"

When you look over the field, the candidates are few. Can any other gag man match his combined experience in vaudeville, radio and television, movies—50—and on tour? He still travels 25,000 to 50,000 miles annually, and in a two-year period during World War II he racked up 450,000 miles entertaining U.S. servicemen.

Fans need never fear that Hope will run out of jokes. The Mississippi River is more likely to go dry.

Although he is known as one of the best "ad-libbers" in the business, Bob also is as methodical as a clock. He has perhaps the finest individual humor library of anyone in the show world. It runs to about 80 file cabinets.

"I have a complete script of practically every show I was ever on," he said, "plus all the material written for them which, for one reason or another, was crowded out at the time."

Once he had 12 writers and three secretaries at work building up his laugh library.

"It must contain at least between three and four million jokes," he remarked.

Many times he has gone to his library to help out fellow entertainers in desperate need for fresh material.

"I'm glad to help them," said Bob, "particularly if they're doing a show for charity I believe in."

The stern anxieties of comedy that have driven many present day funny men to psychoanalysis leave Hope unruffled.

"I'm not a couch man myself," he said, "And I'm not sad—just disgustingly normal."

"Every comedian is an individual, but television—the problem of trying to be funny every week—can drive anyone to the couch. "It gives a man the feeling he's in a rut. It takes a lot of work sometimes to get rid of that feeling. I think the best answer is to change—to try something different."

Hope feels he escaped the danger of rut-rust by starring in "Beau James," the life story of former Mayor Jimmy Walker.

"It was more of a straight dramatic role. One problem I had was that the mayor was a skinny guy. I had to lose 15 pounds. I did it on a diet of lamb chops, fruit salad and yogurt."

Tension causes many casualties in show business as well as in every other industry, and Bob has his own recipe to avoid it.

"There is very little tension when you're doing something you really know. What will really make you blow up is to try to do something for the first time at the last moment. The answer is to be prepared—and avoid emergencies."

Hope is a multimillion dollar property himself and, like the good businessman he is, he takes care of his physical as well as financial assets.

"My grandfather died a month short of his 100th birthday," said Bob. "He believed in moderation—and I'll be happy to match his record."

"I play golf—a little oftener than President Eisenhower, and a little better—and I take bending exercises twice a day. I also like to get a massage every day if I can. Nothing is more relaxing."

What defeats most people in life and keeps them from success? "Over-eating," said Hope, "and marrying the wrong girl."

Issue Truck Contracts

BATTLE CREEK (U)—Government contract awards to the industrial truck division of Clark Equipment Co. here totaled $4,555,688 in the past month. However, a spokesman said the awards will not require the callback of 150 employees who have been laid off intermittently since April. Work on some of the contracts, for tractors and fork lift trucks, will not start for four to six months.

2 Strike Upon Coin Process

Rochester Men Claim Secret Means to Embed Copper Alloys

By MAX E. SIMON

Two amateur Rochester chemists have hit upon a new formula which could revolutionize coin collecting.

Burdette R. Lewis, 410 Parkdale, and John L. Slocum, 518 Parkdale, are able to embed coins in lucite plastic, a substance which will preserve them indefinitely.

Only three firms in the nation possess the know-how for enclosing objects in the plastic.

None of these, however, have been able to embed copper alloys in the material. Not even the Dupont Corp., from which the two chemists purchase the raw materials for their work, have discovered the key to the riddle.

NO LIMIT

"The potentialities of the discovery are unlimited," says Slocum.

"Not only will the plastic preserve the coins in perfect condition, but collectors will be able to examine their coins in much more minute detail than before."

"This is because lucite is clearer than the atmosphere itself."

Among the coins that Slocum and Lewis have put into the plastic are first-proof coins struck in 1956. Never in contact with human hands after being minted, the coins were mailed to the two inventors in sealed Treasury envelopes.

The two use their L & S Furniture Sales Store in Ayon Township as an outlet for their plastic sales. Eventually, they hope to establish a plant for embedding items in lucite.

LOCKS OF HAIR

Other objects which they are able to enclose in the material are locks of hair and natural vegetation.

Pictures, fish, and minerals have also been enclosed in the plastic.

Educationally, Slocum says, lucite can serve many purposes. The two men have preserved the working mechanisms of guns, watches, locks, biological specimens, and various parts of the human body.

That lucite plastic has come into its own as a preserver of documents is borne out by the fact that many of the materials in the National Archives Building are preserved by this process, Slocum said.

Many finely worked miniature scenes have also been put into the substance.

The two men won't reveal the exact nature of the process, but say that the lucite must be carefully cured at a constant temperature for 30 hours. Once the object is encased, it must be carefully polished, buffed and machined.

They said they have been offered $50,000 for a phase of their formula, but turned down the offer.

CONVERTIBLE — From crew cut to long tresses, normally a two-year job, can now be accomplished in a split second. Yolande Tornell, of Manhattan, N. Y., demonstrates the latest teen-age fad — pony-tail wigs, made of natural hair. Ranging in length from 14 inches to 16 inches, the hairpieces are priced from $25 to $45, and are made by attaching hairs, one or two at a time, to a piece of silk.

Detroit Council to Meet on Water Supply Issue

DETROIT — The Detroit board of commerce wants residents "to make themselves heard" in support of a single water supply system for the Detroit metropolitan area.

Writing in the Detroit, the board's weekly publication, Gerald E. Warren urged residents to attend a meeting of common council on the subject Tuesday.

"Wayne County road commission lobbyists have used every tactic they know to prevent the scheduled hearing this Tuesday, when the fantastic statements leveled at the Detroit system can be disproven," he wrote. Some county officials have contended it would not be legal for Detroit to buy out the Wayne County supply system and serve the entire area.

Daughter of Pianist Hurt Badly in Fall

SAN REMO, Italy — Sonia Horowitz, daughter of famed pianist Vladimir Horowitz and granddaughter of the late Arturo Toscanini, today was reported in a "very critical" condition after falling from a motor scooter here on the Italian Riviera.

Hospital attendants said the 22-year-old girl suffered a skull fracture and had not regained consciousness. They said she had been given several blood transfusions to build up her strength for other treatment or perhaps surgery.

Police said she fell while riding the scooter near San Remo last night. She has been vacationing at the villa here of her cousin, Duchess Manuela Castelbarco Acquarone.

Rich Girl Dies, Father Arrested

Suspect San Francisco Man of Holding Her Prisoner for 7 Years

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — San Francisco police today held Robert O. Blakely, 40, in the death of his 12-year-old daughter who police said became a virtual prisoner after inheriting $153,000 seven years ago.

Blakely, a husky former iceman and grocery clerk who said he had not held a steady job for more than a year, was under psychiatric observation at San Francisco Hospital after booking on suspicion of manslaughter.

He told officers he gave his daughter, Nancy, 12, a "little shove" at their home yesterday after questioning her about a man who sat down beside her in a church pew.

Coroner Henry W. Turkel said the girl died from "a blow or blows, or jarring of the head." The 80-pound body bore numerous bruises, some new and some old, the coroner reported.

Court records showed that Nancy inherited a fortune in trust from her late Godfather, William Rosendall, a sea captain, who died seven years ago.

Homicide Inspector Ralph McDonald said Blakely put new double locks on the door and windows to the girl's room last week because he suspected her of "sneaking out nights."

For days at a time over the past several years, McDonald said he was informed, Nancy was kept locked a prisoner in her room.

She was invariably accompanied by her mother, Irma, to and from junior high school, even during lunch periods.

It Means You Are No Longer Needed or Loved by Others

Would You Really Like Absolute Freedom?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Freedom is a strange and deceptive word. It woos us with its subtle charm in the midst of the hecticness and strains of daily living. Freedom to do what we wish? Freedom to find our own individual little bit of happiness?

Perhaps you have spent years and years taking care of others, submerging your own ambitions and interests and needs in order to fulfill your obligations.

Surely, you think, the time has come when you have earned some freedom, some time and opportunity for self-expression, for cultivating deep satisfactions which have been put aside because of those who depend on you.

Freedom is a mirage on the desert. If you reach the place it seemed to be you will find it dry, because being free means that you are no longer needed or loved by others. It would be a death, a dusty taste in the mouth. Those who are completely free of any obligations or loyalties or responsibilities are the loneliest people on earth.

So long as you love even one person or one person loves you, so long as your life has any effect on those about you, you cannot be free. Should you find yourself without even one person, you would discover that you are living in a vacuum, isolated and frighteningly alone.

FEEL BETRAYED

It might be well to hold this thought when we feel that our obligations are tremendously heavy, that we are being called on for more than is just, that we have been cheated or betrayed.

Every shining blessing has its price. There are so many very lonely people on this earth who would eagerly change places with us and our problems. Let us thank God every night that we are not free!

If you would like to have my leaflet "How to Overcome Loneliness and Self-Consciousness" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 29 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

There is probably no charm so disarming as complete naturalness. By this I do not mean a dreary, destructive frankness which informs you of your faults, which tells you that your new hat is unbecoming or your husband is unfaithful.

Nor do I mean to suggest lips without benefit of lipstick, shiny noses, uncurled hair, unpenciled eyebrows or membership in a nudists' camp.

IN LOVE WITH LIFE

The naturalness of which I sing comes from a lack of self-consciousness. This can only happen when a woman is so in love with life and so interested in others that she forgets herself.

This frees her to be perceptive, responsive, gay and enthusiastic. It allows her to express with spontaneity, the varied facets of her nature and to throw herself into the moods of others.

Men like mystery but they also like to be comfortable, and there is nothing which so comforts and intrigues a man as a keenly alive woman who is herself.

The able-bodied mature male runs for his life when personally confronted with the brand of synthetic mystery which is concocted of slinky gowns, double or triple falsies, umbrella eyelashes and rouge-distorted lips. Only the very young or the emotionally immature man is caught in a trap like this.

The mystery which is attractive to men lies in vibrancy due to mental, emotional and physical vitality, in a variety of moods and ideas and interests, in the eternally new, and not quite known, YOU.

I think the nicest compliment my husband ever gave me was when he said, "Jo, there have been many times when I have become exasperated with you but I'll say this, you have never bored me."

WATCH OUT FOR RUTS

We women are apt to get into ruts of viewpoint with years of marriage. We sometimes fall into these because of fatigue, worries, stresses and fears of all sorts.

Unless we watch it we may react to certain statements or situations in the very same manner, year after year, so that our spouse knows what we will say or do long before we open our mouth or make a move.

Naturalness, which comes from a lack of self-consciousness, allows a woman to be perceptive, responsive, gay and enthusiastic.

Four sisters and their mother, together for the first time in 10 years, are (left to right) Mrs. Ulric Roberts of Springfield, Mass., Mrs. Harriet Sandstrom of Michigan avenue, Mrs. Mary Jackson, the mother, also of Michigan avenue, Mrs. Kenneth Mallmann of Escanaba, and Mrs. Roy Mitchell of Crystal Falls.

Chance to Be Polite

You have a lot of chances when driving a car to practice good manners. Giving a pedestrian a chance to get across the street, giving the car ahead a chance to start up without blasting on your horn, parking so as to take up as little space as possible, etc., are simply good driving manners.

Puzzled by 'Gauge,' 'Denier'?

What's Your Hosiery IQ?

What gauge and denier of hosiery do you ask for when you shop? Gauge is the number of cross-wise stitches per one and one-half inches of stocking fabric. The higher the gauge, the closer the knit. Most common gauges are 51, 53, 60 and 66.

Denier means the size of the thread in the stocking. The lower the denier number, the finer the yarn. Popular deniers are 30, 20, 15 and 12.

Gauge and denier numbers are usually given in combination such as 51 gauge-15 denier, explain Michigan State University clothing specialists. Yarn thickness and closeness of stitches work in combination to determine sheerness, weight and serviceability of hosiery.

The proper balance of gauge and denier is important in wear. For example, a stocking made of fine yarn in a high gauge is more resistant to snagging and gives greater service than a stocking loosely knit of the same size yarn.

If anyone should happen to refer to a hole in your head, don't bristle. Researchers report that adults have upwards of 90,000 such "holes," from which each individual hair emerges.

Through habit or inertia we may lose what was once our natural self. Perhaps your romance will quicken if you will make an effort to understand viewpoints new to your general conception of things, if you can free yourself of prejudices and bitterness; if you do not always show the usual reaction to a given situation; if you discover what you really are and then be yourself.

Hatter Says Hide Face After Six

PARIS (INS) — For a dramatic and Parisian-American look at cocktail time, hatter Svend proposes that you show your throat but hide your face.

According to Svend it isn't stylish to wear fur hats after 6 o'clock. Instead he proposes bulky and face-hiding chapeaux made of yards of veil, trimmed with a touch of fur and lots of diamonds.

One Svend creation recalls a cheese-bell. It is made of stiff black veil and covers the wearer's face down to the mouth. On top of this semi-transparent cloche hat is trimmed with a fur pom-pom and a diamond clip.

For another mystery effect Svend uses a double layer of coarse black veil which he wraps around a woman's face to look like the mask of a fencer or bee-keeper.

The veil ends are fastened on the top of the head to a pert bow and secured by a diamond clip. Both styles are particularly effective in contrast to a low-cut, vampy cocktail dress.

In case you should fear getting claustrophobia with your head and face all covered up, inventive Svend proposes still another style for a pseudo-Oriental look after dark.

Take a yardage of veil, fold it lengthwise and wear it "muffler fashion." It is important that your veil muffler covers mouth, nose and ears like the "purdah," or Moslem veil, women wear in the Orient.

Svend shows this style in black hat-veiling for blondes and white for brunettes. You'll have to remove your veil-muffler to eat, drink and smoke. But you'll certainly be noticed.

Honored at Shower

Mrs. Bale Helgemo (nee Betty George) was the honoree Thursday evening at a pink and blue shower given by Mrs. Glen Helgemo and Mrs. Donald Helgemo at the former's Rollindale drive home. Fifteen guests were present.

Pattern No. 2567 contains tissue—sizes 2, 3, 4 incl.; hot-iron transfer; sewing and embroidery directions; color chart.

A taller, slimmer look evolves in small print. Avoid bold plaids which shorten and broaden the short figure.

Prints and plaids are for the woman who likes easy country elegance. Proportion should govern her choice. The smaller designs are less conspicuous, easier to wear. Even the tall girl should avoid conspicuous plaids.

British Open Begins Today

Cary Middlecoff Heads Ten From U.S. in Field

Al Watrous Decides Not to Compete; Favorite Is Pete Thomson

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (U.S. Press) — Former U.S. Open champion Dr. Cary Middlecoff has a college education and for that reason British Ryder Cup golfer Harry Weetman believes he has a big advantage over many of his less fortunate colleagues teeing off in the British Open today.

"Brains sharpened like Middlecoff's help in a tight corner," Weetman said. "I'm sure players who have had a university education often have a great advantage in golf."

Middlecoff was a dentist before he turned to golf for a living. In the next five days he faces one of his toughest assignments—drawing the teeth of the reputation wrecking Old Course in his first bid to win the British Open crown.

The 6,996-yard, par 36-36—72 Old Course has sent the world's greatest golfers away in despair after their trip around its famous fairways, where golf was played 400 years ago.

Middlecoff heads a 10-man American challenge which includes Frank Stranahan, former British Amateur champion.

Gene Andrews, a 43-year-old insurance salesman from California, was the first American off the tee this morning. He shot a round of 38-34—72, best among the early finishers.

Favorite for the title is Peter Thomson, 27, long driving Australian who has won the championship the last three years.

The field of 300 will be cut to a maximum of 100 after qualifying rounds today and tomorrow.

Then the survivors will start all over again Wednesday going 72 holes to decide the championship.

Wrong Score Disqualifies Pung

Rawls Wins Crown

MAMORNECK, N. Y. (U.S. Press) — What penalty is "to severe" for a golfer who turns in an incorrect score in a championship tournament?

The United States Golf Assn. again was called upon to answer that question today after the topsy-turvy finish of the fifth USGA Women's Open championship at the Winged Foot Club.

Following the rules strictly, the tournament committee, guided by USGA president Dick Tufts, handed the title to Betsy Rawls after disqualifying Jackie Pung, who had beaten her out, 298 to 299, in the actual score. Jackie, in the confusion of a tense finish, had attested a card with the wrong score on one hole.

Sylvan Glen Golfers Get First Place Tie

Sylvan Glen scored a 12½-9½ victory over Pontiac Sunday to move into a 1st place tie with Idle Brae Burn in the Metropolitan Golf Association's White Division. Paul Bada led Sylvan Glen with a three-under-par 67. Other Sylvan Glen scores were 72 for Ron Rothbarth, 75 for Mike Andonian and 81 for Ed Wasik. Roy Iceberg was best for Pontiac with 71, followed by Dick Robertson 74, Glenn Harding 76, and Chuck Barker 78.

Bob O'Link won its 1st victory of the season with a 12-10 decision over Morey's No. 2, Stan Savage (80) and Joe Burdort (85) dropped 11 points to Ray Kane (75) and Walt Nossel (76).

In other MGA results, Sunnybrook continued to lead the Red Division with a 15-7 win over Morey's No. 1, Hillcrest massacred Idyl Wyld, 21½-1½, and Highlands defeated River Bank, 17½-4½.

penalties "in exceptional individual cases."

Many players, some bitterly critical of USGA handling of the entire tournament, thought a two-stroke penalty would have been stiff enough. That would have deprived popular and needy Jackie of the title anyway.

Public opinion, reflected in talk around the Winged Foot clubhouse appeared to be that a player should be allowed to correct an honest mistake, made under such nerve-racking conditions, without penalty.

And Winged Foot members backed their opinion with money. When a fund was started to repay Mrs. Pung the $1,800 prize money she had lost, they were almost elbowing one another aside to sign contribution checks.

Jets Win at Jackson

Pontiac Jets put together a first-inning three-run blast and a fourth-inning rally for two tallies to defeat a Jackson Prison baseball club 8-4 Sunday. Final runs came late in the game, but were not needed.

First Jackson pitcher was chased in the opener. Cox and Booker singled and both were sent home on Arnie Barnum's double, for the winning runs in the fourth.

Bill Snow gave up seven hits, fanned 10, walked two, while Jets battered the Jackson moundsmen for 17 blows. Cox and Barnum each had three for five.

Aaron, Mathews Keep Braves on Top in NL

Yanks Win 2 to Lead Again

The New York Yankees were back in first place today but a new threat has risen in the American League pennant race in the Boston Red Sox.

Winners of 11 of the last 13 games, Mike Higgins' streaking crew has pushed its way into a virtual third place tie with Cleveland, seven games off the pace. Paced by their three-man wrecking crew of Ted Williams, Jackie Jensen and Frank Malzone, the Red Sox flattened Detroit 10-3 for a sweep of their three-game set over the Tigers who have lost 10 of their last 13.

Kansas City pitcher Ralph Terry came within five outs of a no-hitter and Yankee pitcher Don Larsen hurled his first complete game of the season as New York made it 11 in a row over their Athletic cousins with a 2-1 and 5-1 sweep of a doubleheader.

Roy Sievers' 18th home run, his second of the day, gave Washington a 10-inning 11-9 victory after the Chicago White Sox had rallied for four runs in the ninth to win the opener 7-6. The Sox overcame a 9-3 deficit in the second game before Sievers' second homer knocked them out of a first place tie with the Yankees.

Baltimore won its first series from Cleveland since it returned to the American League in 1954, capturing its third game in the four-game set as Billy Loes pitched a four-hit 12-3 triumph over the Indians.

Henry Aaron became the first major leaguer to reach 100 hits and batted his 22nd and 23rd home runs as the Milwaukee Braves swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 7-4 and 6-5. Eddie Mathews' two-run homer in the 13th won the second game and kept the Braves in first place, a half game in front of the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Brooks Lawrence turned in a six-hitter for his ninth victory in Cincinnati's 6-1 triumph over Philadelphia then came back to snuff out a Philly rally in the ninth as the Redlegs won the second game 6-2.

Ruben Gomez became the first National League pitcher to win 10 games as the New York Giants defeated St. Louis 5-3 in the first game. The Cardinals won the nightcap 7-1 behind bonus right-hander Lindy McDaniel. Stan Musial hit a three-run homer for the Cards, his 18th of the season. It also was the 370th of his career to break a sixth place tie with Ralph Kiner among all-time home run leaders.

in reverse when 27 Dodgers struck won the opener 3-2 in 11 innings, as they were held to a split by young Danny McDevitt hurled a 1-0 doubleheader with the five-hitter for his third victory in Chicago Cubs. After Chicago had Brooklyn's 5-1 triumph.

Stan Doesn't Need Assist to Make NL All-Star Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan "The Man" Musial of St. Louis didn't need an assist from Commissioner Ford Frick to gain his customary spot on the National League All-Star team, it developed today.

Only three days ago, Frick tossed Cincinnati's George Crowe, Gus Bell and Wally Post out of the starting lineup and replaced them with Musial, Willie Mays and Hank Aaron after he decided that Cincinnati fandom was stuffing the ballot box.

As things turned out, Stan the Man pulled in 363,792 votes for first base compared to 272,655 for Crowe even after the last-minute deluge of Redleg votes.

Mays and Aaron needed the commissioner's aid, though. In the battle for center field, Bell drew 471,295 votes to 302,573 for the New York Giant flycatcher. Post collected 445,457 votes to 335,918 in the race for right field with Aaron, Milwaukee's top hitter.

But, by executive edict, it will be Mays in center field and Aaron in right field when the National League takes the field in St. Louis on July 9. Frick made no comment in announcing the team yesterday.

Nor did he have any answer to the Redleg proposal that Bell, Crowe and Post be made "honorary" members of the team so they can collect the gift tag goes to each member of the All-Stars. He is not expected to take any cognizance of the idea.

A further statistical note: Even if the Cincinnati landslide hadn't developed, the only other non-Redleg who might have had a chance of making the starting team was Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee. He might have nosed out Don Hoak for this base. But of course the exact breakdown never will be known.

So the Redlegs fans accomplished five-eighths of what that started out to do, a pretty good average. The fans have nothing to say about the pitchers. Manager Walt Alston will tend to that matter later in the week.

NEW YORK (AP) — Here are the starting lineups, chosen with batting averages for the All-Star game in St. Louis, July 9.

Nickerson Vows to Continue Fight

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Col. John C. Nickerson Jr., under fire and reprimand for misuse of secret defense data, says he "will continue the fight within the armed forces" in behalf of the Army's missile program.

The 41-year-old officer, who pleaded guilty before a court-martial board on 15 counts of leaking secret information, said last night "I will speak my opinions wherever I can."

He also said he has no intention of resigning his Army commission.

Nickerson was fined $1,500, officially reprimanded and suspended from rank for a year by the 10-man board Saturday at the end of a five-day trial.

The sentence is subject to review by 3rd Army headquarters in Atlanta, the Department of the Army and Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson.

Hospital and other expenses for accidents in the United States last year exceeded the total expenditure of the U. S. Navy in 1955.

Hollywood Headlines Producers Outdo Actors in Piling Up Great Wealth

(Editor's Note: It's possible to make—and keep—millions in Hollywood. But it may surprise you to learn that there are few actors among the financial elite in filmland. Who are the millionaires and how did they achieve that status? Columnist Bob Thomas tells all about the movie money-men in a three-part series starting today.)

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Money, money, money—who's got it in Hollywood?

You might have an easier time figuring out who hasn't got it. Huge losses usually come out in the wash, while those who make big money and keep it are shy about revealing their wealth.

But by talking to a number of experts on Hollywood fiscal matters, I have arrived at a list of the town's wealthiest 10. Here they are:

1. Howard Hughes. He is really a ringer, since he amassed his wealth with his tool company and aircraft interests. But he belongs in the list because he has been linked to film production since 1927. His holdings have been estimated at a half-billion.

2. Samuel Goldwyn. He made his millions entirely from films and has been the industry's most successful independent. Variety makes these estimates of his U.S. and Canadian grosses of his recent films: "Guys and Dolls"—$9 million; "Best Years of Our Lives"—11 million; "Hans Christian Andersen"—6 million.

3. Louis B. Mayer. He started in the movie industry in 1915, added his name and company to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, reigned as production boss for 27 years, during that time, he was reportedly paid close to a million yearly, plus a share of the profits.

4. J. L. Warner. He has long ruled as the boss of Warner Brothers Studio. When he and his two brothers were negotiating sale of their stock in the company, the value was estimated at 19 million.

5. Harry Cohn. The founder-boss of Columbia Pictures has remained quiet about his earnings. But he has made many millions from his shrewd operation of the studio.

6. Mary Pickford. She was the biggest earner of the silent movie era, a time when income taxes were laughable.

7. Darryl Zanuck. Head of Warners production at 27, he left the studio and $5,000 a week to form 20th Century, later merged with Fox. His stock in the firm has enormous value.

8. Marion Davies. She was another top star with her own production company in the silent days. She invested heavily in real estate and paid 2 million for Palm Springs' Desert Inn two years ago.

9. and 10. Bob Hope and Bing Crosby. They are the only Johnny-come-latelies amid the wealthy 10. They make the list thanks to having their own companies, earning big dough in several mediums and—especially—investing in oil.

Tomorrow: The next 15 Hollywood millionaires.

Guidance Clinic to Be Opened in Royal Oak

The long-anticipated South Oakland Branch of the Child Guidance Clinic opened today for service on a limited basis.

Located at 315 W. Sixth St., Royal Oak, in basement quarters under the Red Cross office, the branch will accept referrals and information queries for the first month or so.

Cases from south of 14 Mile road will still come to the main Pontiac office for diagnosis and treatment, although Emil Zamorisk, psychiatric social worker, will treat a few cases at the branch.

Branch office hours are 8:30 to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. According to Abe Brickner, branch board chairman, a number of South Oakland groups are aiding in the furnishing of the new office. Child Guidance Clinics are devoted to the assistance of emotionally disturbed children, through state, county and community fund support.

Bookie Found Dead in Country Home

PLEASANTON, Calif. (AP)—Paul (Bouquet) Cohn, colorful San Francisco Bay area bookmaker and tavern operator, was found dead in a tool shed at his hunting country place yesterday, a hunting rifle bullet in his heart.

His wife Dorothy found the body upon returning home from driving her maid to church. She said the 53-year-old horse owner was slumped in a chair with a 30.06 rifle between his legs.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Munn said it was "a definite suicide."

Cohn had retired to his Oakland farm to breed stock after a series of skirmishes with the State Liquor Board which resulted in his selling his San Francisco cigar stores and taverns.

Kemp Gets Scholarship

Thomas H. Kemp, of Royal Oak, is one of eight Michigan students awarded scholarships by Alfred P. Sloan, Inc. Kemp will use the scholarship at the University of Michigan.

Tax Law Protest Asked by C. of C.

Members of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce have been asked to protest Michigan's "crippling" tax legislation.

The Governmental Affairs Committee of the Chamber recently took a stand opposing taxes which committee members say are "forcing existing industry to leave the state."

In letters which went out this week, figures were cited showing where Michigan stands in state taxes as compared to Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois. Michigan ranks the highest, the figures showed.

The Chamber committee, headed by William F. Kalwitz, studies local, state, and national questions. In March, members went on record opposing proposed federal aid for education.

The notices to Chamber members pointed out that General Motors Corp. has located 13 plants in Ohio—an example of "big employers" locating in other states because of Michigan taxes.

Also cited were statistics showing locating of new Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. plants in Ohio and Indiana.

Committee members urged businessmen to write, call, or wire legislators in Lansing to "help change this picture now."
