Temptations of the Desert Are Ever-Present Today

By IGOR SIKORSKY
Renowned Plane Designer

Not too long ago I had the good fortune to visit that gloomy wilderness overlooking the Jordan Valley where Jesus was led up of the spirit to be tempted. It was a fitting place to forget the frenzy of modern life and contemplate the world, the flesh, and the devil.

SIKORSKY

On the ground were thousands of flat, smooth stones, the same stones that the tempter asked Jesus to turn into bread. Even now they seemed remarkably like cakes of bread. The desert monoliths and precipices suggested thoughts of the turrets of Jerusalem, from whose ancient temple top Satan challenged Christ to jump without harm as a sign of his superhuman power.

Above were the heavens which covered all the kingdoms of the earth which were offered to Christ by the devil.

My thoughts wandered from the stones to the heavens. What is this visible heaven? It is not the foolish invention of the astronomer. What is the vast, invisible heaven? The universe itself?

Five centuries ago man saw the stars shining and beautifying only the earth. Now, he knows they shine and beautify the entire universe, the invisible as well as the visible heavens.

While sitting there I felt the heavens were indeed one of the realities of God's creation and reflect all His wisdom, power and glory.

And I became suddenly aware of the relation between resurrected man and the mysterious immensity of the universe. I was a part, if only a minute part, of this tremendous creation. The thought awed me.

From time to time I have had such an inner feeling. That sixth, indefinable sense that goes beyond mere mechanical intellect, intuition, or even inspiration. It is one of the faculties of the spiritual component of human personality. It is sound proof there is something beyond brain, eyes, nerves, tissues.

It was not until I was 25 that I began my search alone, and became more and more interested in the thoughts behind faith. My present convictions are not the result of a sudden awakening or conversion. It was an inner process, carried out mostly in complete solitude; often in the woods, or climbing mountains. It is not necessarily the only road, but it was my road.

Wilson Notes Progress in Guided Missile Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson says the military's program for development of guided missiles is "getting better organized all the time."

The defense chief returned to the capital last night after visits to the Army's Redstone Ballistic Missile Center near Huntsville, Ala., and Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., headquarters for the proving range from which guided missiles and ballistic rockets are tested over the Atlantic.

Having in mind the continuing criticism of the American missile program by Sens. Symington (D-Mo) and Jackson (D-Wash) and others, newsmen asked Wilson about the general program.

"I don't think the people of the country generally appreciate the work that has been done and the investment that has been made—that we have such big projects going as we have," Wilson replied. "We are getting better organized all the time."

He said he still hasn't found anyone to direct the coordinated missile program of the Defense Department and the three armed forces—a job which he announced recently he is setting up.

At present, Wilson said, he has in mind for the job about five per-

Growth in 1955 Moves Pontiac State Up 27 Places in List

Pontiac State Bank moved up 27 places in the list of U.S. Commercial banks by size in the United States during 1955, achieving a coveted "five star" rating from the American Banker, New York daily banking newspaper.

The bank now ranks 899 from the top among some 5,000 commercial banks of the nation. Deposits of the Pontiac bank totaled $23,848,000 at the end of 1955, increasing from $22,238,000 at the close of 1954.

The nation's largest bank, according to the Banker, is the Bank of America in San Francisco with deposits totaling $8,802,506,000.

Chase Manhattan Bank of New York ranks second in size with deposits near $7 billion.

Drop in Temperature Forecast for Tonight

The United States Weather Bureau predicts partly cloudy and colder for the Pontiac area. The thermometer will dip to a low tonight of 14-18 degrees.

The forecast for tomorrow is a high of 25-29 degrees. Winds are from the north at 10 miles per hour.

The lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 22 degrees. The mercury rose to 28 at 1 p.m.

Turnpike Strategy Revealed

Financing Plans Depend on Help From U.S. Grant

Local Audience Is Told Program Would Lower Cost to Michigan

By BURDETT C. STODDARD

Full details of the Michigan Turnpike Authority's plan for financing 511 miles of state toll roads were revealed yesterday by MTA Chairman George N. Higgins in a speech at the Kiwanis Club here and a later interview with The Pontiac Press.

The plan, evolved after weeks of study, could see $600 million worth of pay-highways built at a cost of $60 million to Michigan, plus nominal bond interest.

In hinges on Congressional approval of a Federal aid bill introduced by Rep. George H. Fallon (D-Md.)

The program explains why Higgins asked th eState Legislature Jan. 26 to place a $300 million bond issue (half the needed amount) on the November ballot for a public vote.

The MTA strategy would rule out the threat to the proposed north-south (Ohio line to Straits of Mackinac) turnpike posed by Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler's plan to build several competing stretches of freeway.

WOULD CUT REVENUES

The competing highways, authorities say, probably would cut revenues on the north-south route forcing the MTA to pay a higher interest rate on the bonds.

But the MTA's plan, as explained yesterday, aims at building both north-south and Detroit-Chicago toll roads simultaneously, getting the Federal government to bear the major expense burden and obtaining low interest rates.

"That's why we want the $300 million bond issue voted on in November thus placing full faith and credit of the state behind half the total needed amount," Higgins explained.

This would place the bonds on a "semi-full-faith-and-credit" basis rather than being only backed by expected toll revenues, and allow a lower interest rate, he stated.

Whether the complete plan will be workable depends largely on passage of the Fallon road-aid bill by Congress. The measure is now in a House committee, but is expected to be reported out for debate within two weeks, said Higgins.

The measure would have Federal funds pay for 90 per cent of toll roads which meet specifications and "our roads would meet

Lady's Punches Send 2 Robbers Running for Door

OMAHA (AP)—White-haired Wilheimina Linneman is a lady who doesn't stand for any holdup business. She proved it last night. Two youths entered her small beer store and growled, "This is a holdup."

Mrs. Linneman reacted swiftly.

"I hit the nearest one right in the eye with a right swing," she told police.

When her first swing brought a howl of pain from one youth, the other bolted out the door, she said.

The one who caught the punch dazedly started for the door but ran into it and couldn't get away until Mrs. Linneman had swung a few more times.

"I was so mad they could have shot me and I wouldn't have felt it," said the small woman. "But I didn't notice whether they had a gun.

Voting Machines Ordered by City

80 Units to Be Ready by July 1 on 1-Year Rental Trial

A bid from the Automatic Voting Machine Corp. of Jamestown, N.Y. for the one-year rental of 80 voting machines at $150 a machine, was accepted last night by the City Commission.

After the one year trial basis, the city has the option of purchasing the devices at a bid price of $1,355 per machine with the $150 rental price to be applied to the purchase price.

Motion of Commissioner Philip Rowston that the machines be installed on a year's trial was adopted without dissent by the full commission.

Roy L. Gustavson, corporation representative, said delivery of the machines could be made on or before July 1 in time for the August primary.

He said an educational team will come to Pontiac about three weeks prior to the primary to begin a series of instruction periods for voters and city officials who conduct the elections.

"With tonight's approval, Pontiac now becomes the largest city in Oakland County to use these machines," he added. He estimated that 2,000,000 Michigan voters will vote in the November elections by voting machines.

There are 4,000 automatic voting machines in more than 200 Michigan communities, Gustavson concluded.

The bid from the New York firm was the only one considered last night. A bid from another firm was received after the 2 p.m. deadline, City Clerk Ada R. Evans reported to the commission.

All incumbents from the present City Commission filed petitions except District 7 Commissioner Harry W. Lutz who decided he would not seek reelection.

Yesterday's deadline brought a rush of six petitions into City Clerk Ada R. Evans' office.

By districts, the following candidates filed for nomination:

DISTRIST 1—Dr. Roy V. Cooley, John B. Woodward, Andrew A. McCaskill, Samuel J. Whiters, David Simmons.

Hamilton Confesses to Knifing His Rival

DETROIT (INS) — Twenty-year-old Maurice Hamilton today admitted that he plunged a knife into the body of Aziz Hermiz (Haisha) last Friday, but only after Hermiz' wife, Victoria, 25, had pleaded:

"I can't finish it . . . I can't finish it . . . you help me!"

Mrs. Hermiz, according to Hamilton, had stabbed her husband twice before she asked for his aid.

Hamilton told police he thought Hermiz was already dead because of the wounds inflicted by the young woman before he stabbed the Detroit grocer.

The new statement by Hamilton, son of a wealthy Baghdad merchant, was made shortly before the couple was taken before Recorder's Judge Gerald W. Groat on a first-degree murder charge.

Previously, both Mrs. Hermiz and Hamilton had accused each other of the actual murder.

Final Approval Given Plans

City Asks Bids on Hospital

The City Commission last night approved final plans for the Pontiac General Hospital $3,000,000 addition and authorized the advertisement for bids.

Upon the recommendation of Architect Leo J. Heenan, who suggested six weeks for the bidders to complete bids, the bids will be received April 19. The City Commission is expected to get the results at their April 24 meeting.

Heenan told the commissioners that the expansion will provide for 346 beds and 90 bassinets. The hospital presently has 148 beds.

As to the actual construction date of the addition City Manager Walter K. Willman said last month that "as soon as we know what the bids are we would begin to advertise the sale of the bonds."

Doctors Report He Could Serve 5 to 10 Years

Republicans Confident President Will Consent to Run Again

WASHINGTON — Joyful Republicans predict that yesterday's reassuring medical report will convince President Eisenhower he should run again.

Democrats voiced gratification at the extent of Eisenhower's recovery. A few of them maintained he will say "no" to a second term.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, chief consultant on the case since Eisenhower's Sept. 24 heart attack, said he and five other physicians believe Eisenhower should be able to carry on in the presidency "for another 5 to 10 years."

Dr. White said the "active life" definitely and specifically included the presidency. He parried questions on whether Eisenhower could withstand the rigors of an election campaign, saying that was one of the points the President will discuss himself when he announces his decision to the nation.

Republicans are confident that a television campaign can be tailored to fit any limitations placed on Eisenhower's activities. The President told his last news conference he would not have done any "barnstorming," regardless of his heart attack.

Indications are that Eisenhower will announce his second term decision either in a news conference or in a television address to the nation during the last week in February.

WEEK IN GEORGIA

He plans to remain in Georgia about a week, returning to Washington around Feb. 22.

The President has an okay from his doctors to hunt quail from the mule-drawn hunting wagon he had used on past visits to Treasury Secretary Humphrey's plantation.

"Like all Americans," said Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson, "I am of course delighted at the favorable report on the condition of the President's health."

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Democratic floor leader, said in a statement dictated from his home in Texas:

"As a fellow human being who has gone through the same thing, I am very pleased that the medical report is so favorable. I know every American will be happy."

Deaths Total 489 in Europe Cold

'Copters Save 20 Sailors From Ice-Heavy Baltic; Still No Relief in Sight

LONDON (AP) — Europe's relentless cold wave had claimed at least 489 dead today after 2½ weeks. Relief still was not in sight.

Subfreezing temperatures spread across the Continent. St. Tropez on the French Riviera playground had a 16-inch snowfall, heaviest in memory.

Icepacks slowly forced the 1,900-ton Swedish cargo ship Matilda on to Sweden's rocky Baltic coast. Helicopters stood by to rescue the crew of 20.

The ice also treatened the last open sea lane between eastern and western Denmark.

People in hundreds of isolated villages in Italy and on lonely Baltic islands ran short of food and fuel.

DROP 70,000 POUNDS

Sixty-five U. S. Air Force Flying Boxcars wound up the biggest European airlift since the Berlin blockade, completing delivery from Germany of 70,000 pounds of relief supplies for the hard-hit Italians.

French cities were short of fresh vegetables. Gardeners suffered damage running into the millions.

Fresh snow piled up over southeast England. Roads in 77 British counties were declared dangerous. A northerly gale sent East Coast shipping running for shelter.

Bentley Looms as Likely GOP Gubernatorial Bet

DETROIT (AP) — With Mayor Albert E. Cobo out of the picture, Republican Congressman Alvin M. Bentley of Owosso appeared today the strongest potential contender for the Republican nomination for governor.

The 37-year-old representative from Michigan's eighth district has indicated a firm decision before the end of the week.

Only Bentley and State Representative George W. Sallade of Ann Arbor gave any public indication of being available for the nomination after Cobo yesterday dashed hopes of party leaders he would carry the GOP standard in the state.

Sallade, leader of the so-called "Young Turks" in the House at Lansing said he would make a decision "in the near future." It will depend, he said, on the course of the Republican race.

"I would become a candidate if I thought the other contenders would not carry through an Eisenhower program in Michigan," the 33-year-old legislator said.

Cobo, Detroit's three-term mayor and a vote getter in a Democratic stronghold, was considered by many party leaders their best hope of unseating Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams in the event Williams decides to run this year for a fifth term.

But Cobo bowed out in a statement that caught politicians by surprise.

TO GIVE DECISION SOON

Bentley had said: "You'll remember I told you some months ago that if Mayor Cobo ran, I would not run. If he is definitely out of the race, I will make a decision by the end of the week."

Bentley lunched with Cobo yesterday but neither gave any hint of what was said.

Bentley defeated veteran Rep. Fred L. Crawford for the Republican nomination in Michigan's eighth district in 1952. The district includes Clinton, Gratiot, Ionia, Montcalm, Saginaw and Shiawassee counties. He is serving his second term.

His grandfather and father, Albin M. Bentley I and II, operated a woodworking plant in Owosso. They built a fortune in investments in General Motors stock.

A University of Michigan graduate, Bentley was a foreign service officer in the State Department before entering politics.

He was one of five congressmen wounded March 1, 1954 when fanatic Puerto Rican nationalists shot up the House of Representatives.

Last night in a speech to the Wayne County Women's Republican Club here, Bentley said Republicans can wrest control of the state administration from Democrats but he predicted it would be an "uphill fight."

He said a Republican victory next fall hinges on a heavy vote in the "basically Republican area of upstate Michigan" and capture of at least 40 per cent of the vote in heavily Democratic Wayne County.

Dr. John Hannah, president of Michigan State University, stated yesterday he had "no political aspirations at all."

"I am not a candidate for any public office and I don't intend to be a candidate," he said.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford Jr. a fourth-term Republican congressman from Grand Rapids, mentioned as a possible candidate, also bowed out. He said he plans to seek re-election to the House.

Still a possible contender is former state and Detroit police commissioner, Donald S. Leonard.

Leonard has made no public announcement that he will seek the nomination. He was soundly defeated by Williams in the '54 election.

The 62-year-old Cobo, who suffered a severe heart attack in 1952, said the question of his health did not influence his decision.

Plan for Parking Gains Approval

City Community Club, Employes Local Favor $600,000 Proposal

Two more resolutions favoring the city's $600,000 municipal parking program were aired at last night's City Commission meeting.

One was from the Northside Community Club and the other from Local 100 of the Government and Civic Employes Organizing Committee, AFL-CIO.

The first read in part: "We are a civic-minded group organized to propose and promote programs for the betterment of our community.

"The current private parking operators have failed to meet the needs of the citizens, and that the municipal lots now operating have proven beyond a doubt to be self-sustaining.

* * *

"Other municipalities have proven by actual operation these programs can be successful financially and properly meet the needs of the citizens."

* * *

Local 100, representing 454 members, resolved that "our families visit the downtown area to pay bills, shop, and bank, which usually takes from one to three hours, and their parking cost should be from five cents to 15 cents and instead they must pay from 25 to 50 cents for the same period in private lots."

Trevor Gardner flew to Florida late last week to tell Wilson that he was resigning as assistant Air Force secretary for research and development.

At a news conference, Gardner said among other things he thought the missile development program should be accelerated to the pace of a wartime effort.

'LOT OF CREDIT'

Wilson said Gardner "deserves a lot of credit" for spending three years in the government when he came to Washington intending to stay only a few months.

At Huntsville, Wilson saw the Army test a rocket motor designed for use in the Redstone ballistic missile, which is intended to have a range of 1,500 miles.

Asked if he thinks that range can be attained, Wilson said, "Yes—they are very conservative people" at the Redstone Missile Center.

To another question, Wilson ventured the opinion that the Redstone ballistic rocket would attain that range with a single stage rocket engine, instead of the two or three stages considered for long-range, 5,000-mile rockets upon which the Air Force is working.

NEW EDISON SUBSTATION — Construction work is scheduled to begin soon on Detroit Edison's Mohawk Substation to be located on Long Lake Road at Andover. The new station will serve an eight-square mile area in Bloomfield Township. The substation will increase the electric power supply in the area by about 60 per cent. It is scheduled for completion in early fall and will be a modern brick and steel structure. This area now receives its electric power from Bloomfield, Franklin, Long Lake and Westchester substations.

Scientists Seek Oral Polio Cure

UM Researchers Say Such a Drug Is Still in Early Stages

ANN ARBOR (AP) — University of Michigan scientists are trying to find a drug that could be taken orally to cure polio.

Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., evaluator of the Salk polio vaccine, said yesterday research still is in the early stages.

The University was given $286,944 by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis this month to continue the program.

Dr. Francis said the drugs would work as fluoride in water does to prevent tooth decay.

It would be a chemical approach to the problem that would attack the poliomyelitis virus directly, he said. Salk vaccine relies on antibodies built up in the blood as protection against the disease.

Dr. Francis said many chemicals are known to exist which destroy the virus. The problem is to find compounds safe for human beings. His staff, he said, already has demonstrated that certain chemicals can prevent polio in monkeys.

Higgins Tells Plans to Finance Turnpike

those specifications," the MTA chairman asserted.

COST $600 MILLION

Total cost of the two Michigan projects would be $600 million. If Fallon's plan passes, Federal funds would supply $540 million leaving the state to pay only $60 million, plus bond interest.

"And under our semi-full-faith-and-credit plan we would probably get the bonds at 2 per cent interest instead of 3.5 to 3.75 which would be required otherwise," Higgins asserted.

"We could also keep interest down by splitting the issue up to obtain money only as we needed it," he added.

"When we put our bill in asking for a vote on part of the issue, we weren't just praying for a Santa Claus. We knew the Fallon bill would include toll roads."

In order to get the aid grant, the state would have to have its share of the money to match the federal funds. "The bond issue would make sufficient funds readily available," said Higgins.

WOULD STOP LOSSES

By building both projects at the same time, and getting them into operation together, overall revenue would be enough to overcome loss on some stretches which will be less heavily traveled, he stated.

"The section from Bay City north to the Straits will not pay for itself for about five years and if Ziegler builds competing roads the Rockwood - Saginaw stretch might not make much profit at first. But revenue from the Detroit-Chicago route would more than overcome this.

"Under this plan, Ziegler can go ahead and build any road he wants and we'll be a lot closer to getting a network of toll and free highways adequate to meet our needs."

Higgins is in Lansing today to explain the plan to the Legislature and attempt to win approval of the proposed public vote in November.

Another possible stumbling block looms in an awaited State Supreme Court decision on the MTA's power to over and underpass existing state roads. "But there's little doubt this will be decided in our favor," said Higgins.

"If things go as is hoped, we might be able to start financing proceedings for the 113-mile, Rockwood-to-Saginaw section within 60 days," he added.

It would be difficult to explain in human language, but it did bring me to the fundamental conclusion of my faith: Belief in God Almighty, the Creator of the earth, and all the visible and invisible heavens.

While I was in the desert of temptation, I looked down at the flat, smooth stones and up to the endless heavens again, and considered the temptations Jesus resisted so firmly. These temptations exist today perhaps as viciously as when Christ faced them.

The challenge to turn stone into bread finds its evil today in the malevolent desire of the godless to control all food. There is no more powerful argument than bread. Feed them first, and then it is easy to compel their obedience.

The devil dared Jesus to cast Himself down from the pinnacle of the temple. The objective of a miracle in such a place was to control and capture the imagination and obedience of the crowd by sheer demonstration of superhuman forces and without attempting to influence their souls or opinions. The nihilist of our day seeks to capture the minds of men by exhibitions of overwhelming power and frightening them into submission.

DARKEST HOURS

The devil is surely worshipped today by those who use the means of lies and murder to justify the end of world conquest.

At the site of Christ's temptation I thought, this is surely one of the darkest hours in human history. We are endowed with more wealth than the earth has ever seen before; yet in the last 40 years over 100,000,000 people have been destroyed by planned, or preventable, hunger; by the Red revolution; by two world wars; and the ceaseless bloodletting which followed.

Before leaving the desert I looked at the vast, visible heavens, and felt the challenge of the vaster, invisible heavens. I knew for the thousandth time they would prevail because, in the final plan of the creator, the power of life, truth, and light is infinitely greater than the sum of evil.

Plan to Re-Question Suspect in Robbery

An alleged red - hooded bandit will be requestioned today in the two-man, $890 armed robbery Jan. 18 of Tom's Bar, 928 Mt. Clemens St.

The 23-year-old suspect from Auburn Heights has denied since his arrest for investigation Saturday that he took part in teh city hold-up and in a similar robbery earlier Jan. 18 near Port Huron, Det. Sgt. Raymond E. Meggitt said.

Police claim the man was the partner of Gerald K. Davis, 28, of Avon Township, who admitted the crimes Friday, Meggitt said. Davis told Meggitt that he and his companion wore red cloth hoods in both stick-ups.

Davis previously had confessed being the lone, red-hooded armed thug who held up an Orion Township tavern Feb. 4.

11 Youths Admit Area Breakins

Detroiters Confess 9 White Lake Township Home Thefts

Seven Redford High School youths and four juvenile companions have confessed a series of White Lake Township breakins and surrendered a variety of loot, Oakland County Sheriff's detectives said today.

The gang, led by a 16-year-old youth, made a total of nine breakins since September, Detectives Harry Maur and Leo Hazen said.

Detectives said they confiscate as stolen property:

Seven outboard motors, a wire recorder-phonograph, a radio-phonograph, a television set, three gasoline engines including a 300-pound four-cylinder motor, several bows and arrows, a 14-foot rowboat, a stuffed deer head, a .22 calibre rifle and shells, a juke box, "numerous" small radios and an airplane propeller.

Cash taken was small, Maur said, probably not exceeding $20.

Some of the loot was sold to fellow-students, Maur said. Some, including the juke box, was destroyed and split up among gang members.

The gang was rounded up through one juvenile, questioned yesterday about a car theft in Detroit. Detroit Det. Clarence Wesley and Youth Officer Paul Telisky said the boy implicated his friends in the White Lake breakins.

Being held in Oakland County jail waiting formal charges are Russell Johnson, 18; Russell Dancey, 17; David Miller, 17; Thomas Schwartz, 17; Gerald Luma, 17; and Eugene Herrick, 19.

Another youth is held in Detroit, waiting transportation to Oakland County, detectives said. The juveniles were released to the custody of their parents.

Gotham Probing New Vice Ring

Arrest of Two Leads Police to Investigation of East Side

NEW YORK (INS) — New York Police continued today to investigate an elaborate network of "floating madames" which officials said was operating from public phone booths during the cocktail hour.

A high police source revealed yesterday a vice ring which used a dozen or more beautiful girls on $100-plus dates was run by madames who used the phone booths around New York City's fashionable East Side area to avoid detection and wiretapping.

The investigation was sparked by two Park Avenue raids which led to the arrest of blonde, 21-year old Jane Stacey, and Mrs. Jane Cook, 33-year-old brunette.

Miss Stacey, picked up at the Sulgrave Hotel on Park Ave. and Miss Cook found at her home, were questioned at the district attorney's office while awaiting arraignment in the court for vagrant women.

PUBLIC PHONE BOOTH SETUP

The setup, which one official said "makes (Mickey) Jelke look like a piker," was for one operator to phone another from a phone booth after lining up a patron.

The second "floating madame," would then get in touch with the girl and send her to the selected rendezvous. As a special service, suite reservations at one of the best hotels would be made.

* * *

Police said for identification purposes the girl would carry a certain magazine with the name showing or would purchase a certain brand of cigaretts or soda, since the girls reportedly never knew their "dates."

The spokesman said although a number of operators were involved he could not disclose the exact number while the present investigation continues.

Officials said the involved system was unique in that no records of addresses were used since the "floating madames" would memorize telephone numbers and information.

It was said most of the business was done at cocktail or early dinner time.

Pope Initiates Lent by Marking Forehead

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII marked his own forehead with ashes today as the 40-day Lenten season of penance began for Christians throughout the world.

Roman Catholics observe Ash Wednesday by attending Mass during which the priest marks each forehead with ashes and says in Latin: "Remember man that thou art ashes and unto ashes will return."

In St. Peter's Basilica many Masses were celebrated to enable thousands of Romans and pilgrims to receive ashes. Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, archpriest of the basilica, presided at the principal ceremony.

The Day in Birmingham

Parking Heads Agenda at Commission Meeting

BIRMINGHAM—Lightning, acoustics, Bibles and camping know-how took the Board of Education's attention last night, while city commissioners wrestled with parking lot sites and priorities and library fees.

Parking Lot No. 2 south of Shain Park was relegated to the time when West Maple is more developed commercially, and commissioners decided to have the city manager restudy parking lot needs and finances for possible revamping of their week-old priority schedule.

View of the Off-Street Parking Committee of the Chamber of Commerce that Lot HH, on Hunter and Hamilton, should have top priority along with Lot 3-A north of Hamilton, was presented by its chairman, Donald L. Cummings.

Aiding with a financial study will be Matthew Carey, Detroit financial consultant, hired last night to advise tehe commission on bond sales.

Of the $500,000 bond sale approved by voters, $195,000 in bonds is outstanding, and $305,000 worth of bonds are yet to be sold.

For Parking Lot A, its necessity was voted, as well at the alley at its edge, but paving and changes in Park and Oakland streets was held over for study of whether the Gaffill, Bailey or Chenault properties should be used in straightening Park. Hamilton crossover at Hunter boulevard was approved.

The ten dollar library fee for out-of-city readers, questioned by Robert F. Stansberry, president of the Beverly - Golfhurst Assn., was answered by the finance director's statement that taxpayers of this city pay on a family average $11.95 for the library's support.

With the library taking $77,671.85 during the current fiscal year, any owner of a home assessed at $6,860 or over pays as over the non-resident's ten dollar fee, he said. Based on 1955 valuation, cost of the library is $1,458 per thousand, he says.

The school board accepted bids for classroom lighting at Pierce School for $6,830, from Schultz Electrical Service of Pontiac and acoustical ceiling for the same school from Detroit Acoustical Contracting Corp. for $4,250.

Changes in the old schools, such as the near-completed relighting in Adams School, were indicated by last spring's citizens committee report, bringing the average up to above the 30-foot-candle standard for classrooms, where an eight to nine foot-candle average existed.

Furniture, bids ranging from $20,673 to $28,482 were taken under study, of whether high or medium quality pieces should be used in Derby Junior High School, where the board expects to have classes under way in the fall.

Camping courses, for teachers who will be leading such classes as the Adams sixth graders who took a week's camp trip last year, will be given in university extension here with the board's approval last night.

Gideon Bibles will be placed in school libraries and classrooms for reference texts, except where they already are from a previous placement by the Gideon Society, and New Testaments will ge given to students of fourth grades or over if the students so request. The Gideon offer was approved last night by the board.

SHORTENING A LONG DOG — 3

No doubt you've heard people say: "Let's make a long story short."

Well, here's Rudy, a long dog that can be made into a short one.

First paste this picture down on stiff paper and then color with paints or crayons. Make Rudy a bright brown, his blanket blue with a yellow border and the strap yellow.

Cut out both parts carefully. Fold back on the dotted line A. Then fold back on dotted line B. Make point A meet point B and fold the extra part away at the back.

If you want to keep the dog short just paste it in place. If, however, you want Rudy long, fasten with a pin.

Fold the flap under the front feet forward and fold the other flaps back. Now, long or short, the dog will stand up.

To help keep Rudy warm on wintry nights don't forget the blanket with his initial on it. Fold the blanket in half and lay it over his back. You can keep it pinned with a wire clip.

New Electronic Bombing Device Revealed by Firm

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Business Machines Corp., today made public some details of what it described as a new electronic airplane bombing and navigational system of "unprecedented reliability."

* * *

Because of security considerations, few details could be given. However, these were some of the facts disclosed about the new device:

It somewhat resembles the giant computers now in use in industry and research, except that it is small enough to be installed aboard a plane. Radar principles are employed.

Information such as air speed, altitude, desired target—all the factors bearing on reaching and bombing a target—are fed into the machine by the plane's crew. It then guides the plane to the target and carries the craft through its bombing run.

Ford Co. Considering Rebuilding Noted Inn

DEARBORN (INS)—A Ford Motor Co. spokesman said the matter of reconstructing Wayside Inn at Sudbury, Mass. is under consideration by the Ford family.

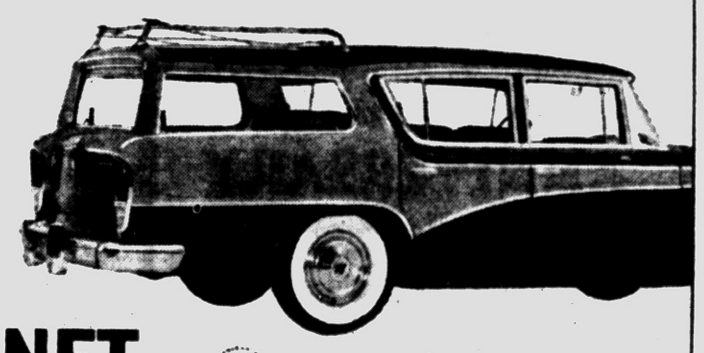

Henry Ford II, Ford president, and other members of the Ford family have received many letters from New England urging them to rebuild the inn.

The inn, constructed about 1686 and immortalized by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow in his "Tales of a Wayside Inn," was destroyed by fire last Dec. 22.

Wayside Inn was purchased and restored by the late Henry Ford in 1925.

Opulent Miami Beach Just Grows Richer

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

MIAMI BEACH (INS) — There are two almost certain ways to make money in this uncertain world.

* * *

The first method (traditional, but limited to bare handfuls of persons) is to marry Babs Hutton or Tommy Manville.

The second (relatively new but sure-fire) is to build a Miami Beach hotel.

Every year, new pink and blue and multi-hued tourist palaces open up in the seven-mile-long creampuff of an island, and allegedly shrewd businessmen up North predict—"Well, now they've overdone it." But as fast as there are 600 new rooms there are 600 new families swooping in from the dark winterlands to take them over.

* * *

"You can't miss," said a man in a red sport shirt named Harry Mufson. "In the past 15 years, I've never heard of anyone building a hotel here without making money. It's the thing to do. Providing you like money, naturally."

HE LIKES IT

Mufson, "born with zero in the family bank" on New York's lower East Side, is real fond of money himself. So after years of co-ownership of the Beache's San Souci Hotel, he recently built the hotel of the year — the Eden Roc.

It costs 10-million dollars but, thanks to its 401 rooms, ranging from $38 to fanstastique, Harry happily expects to get it all back fast.

Three distinct impressions strike almost simultaneously the tourist who comes to the Beach for the first time: 1) Isn't the sun glorious? 2) You don't mean it. That's a hotel? 3) We can't afford this Mama, Let's go home.

Mufson concedes this, but points out that fortunately there are many, many less expensive hotels than his flossy abode; and virtually everybody stays on.

Harry has a gentle smile, and he put it on as he said, "When I first came here I had the uncomfortable impression that everybody on Miami Beach was a millionaire. Then I figured it out.

"A tan in the winter makes everybody look wealthy."

It's difficult to describe the motley opulence of the Miami Beach hotels that have sprung up in the last few years. Most have splashing fountains, neon-lighted, palm trees, gilt and satin, carpets you sink into up to your shoestrings.

Mad and magnificent, designed as showcases for bare-shouldered blondes, their lobbies attract more oglers than the Empire State Building.

LUXURY ARCHITECT

Morris Lapidus is the architect responsible for most of it. Among others, he designed the Fountainbleu (last year's hotel), the Eden Roc (this year's hotel) and the Americana (next year5s hotel already heavily booked).

"A lot of people laugh at the Beach hotels," he admits amiably. "Frank Lloyd Wright called the Fountainebleu an ant hill.

"All I can say is a hotel is not a home. When people travel they want to see things completely foreign to them. If it were practical, I'd put a waterfall in every bedroom.

"Miami Beach is a Technicolor, Cinerama dream of delight in the mind of Tillie the Toiler!"

. . . . Too bad Tillie can't afford to indulge her dream beyond the lobby.

Blast Proves Fatal

MONROE (AP)—Ira Evans, 21, of Monroe died Tuesday of injuries suffered in a gasoline explosion at his home Monday. Evans was burned over most of his body when gasoline he was using to clean paint brushes was ignited by a stove pilot light.

Say Something Nice, but Don't Lie

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Recently, in Portland, Maine, I was addressing a group of nurses on the general subject of human relations. As is often the case, I learned more from my audience than I taught them.

* * *

They were a wonderful group of women. I remember one in particular who has worked in obstetrics most of her life.

You could see she loved her work and thought that babies and new mothers were the most wonderful patients a nurse could have.

"I liked what you said about telling the truth," she told me later. "And that it doesn't pay to be pleasant if you're being hypocritical, and that, if you try, you can find nice things to say without telling lies.

* * *

"I've always felt that way, I can't stand lies. Besides, saying a phony nice thing always sounds phony and gets you nowhere in the long run.

SOUNDED FALSE

"During my first assignment in the obstetrical ward, one nurse I worked with would exclaim over the new babies and make outlandish remarks about how beautiful they all were.

"It sounded so false, that I decided never to do it. And I've never had to, although I've been in the field 15 years!

"If a new baby has lovely eyes, a well-shaped head or dimples, you comment on that to his mother. She beams and you beam and you both know it's honest.

"If he's very, very funny-looking—and some of them are—you look to see if his ears are flat. Then you can say, 'I've never seen such nice, flat ears.' That's honest and everybody feels good.

* * *

"If he's really ugly, you know that he won't be for long—sometimes the funniest-looking baby turns out to be Mr. America—but you still don't lie. You say, 'My, won't you and your husband just love having him around!' And of course, they will.

MAKES LIVE EASIER

"Telling the truth makes life so much eaiser. I love the mothers and they love me, because we're honest with each other."

* * *

I've thought of her many times since then.

Her human relations are perfect and yet she never took any courses in how to please people.

She knows that there is something good in any situation, something pleasant about any person, something nice about any baby. By looking for the good and commenting on it, she slides easily and happily through life.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Wilton of Maplecrest avenue and Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Peterson of East Beverly avenue.

A gown of Rose Pointe lace and tulle was chosen by the bride for her wedding. The bodice of the gown was fashioned with a Queen Anne collar and the skirt featured side panels of lace.

A headband of tulle trimmed with pearls secured her fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried an arrangement of white carnations centered with pink variegated carnations.

Workshop's 2nd Session Scheduled

Three Educators to Speak Tonight at Webster School

The E. R. Webster PTA will hold the second session of its midwinter workshop this evening at 7:30. The theme, "Rearing Children of Goodwill" will be discussed by three educators.

* * *

Dr. Hulda Fine, principal of Hampton School in Detroit, will speak. She is chairman of the educational committee of the Round Table of Christians and Jews in Detroit and author of the first textbook on human relations used in Detroit's public schools. She will speak on "What Do We Expect of Our Schools?"

Dr. Fine will discuss the four major experiences of schooling and the way they culminate in good social living, easier solution of adult problems, release of international tensions, cultivation of judgment without hostilities, and independence — the right to be different.

Dr. Robert Lee Anderson, secretary of the Coordinating Committee for Human Relations and supervisor of audio-visual aids in Detroit public schools, will have as his topic "What Are the Schools Doing in the Line of Human Relations?"

* * *

This discussion will show practices already resulting from a human relations guide recently assembled for publication. The guide covers a five-year study by a staff of educational research specialists. The educators were given the task of determining if good citizenship can actually be taught as a part of the curriculum.

This citizenship study staff had as a member Dr. Elmer Phlieger, supervisor of social studies in Detroit public schools. He will talk on "How the Schools Are Accomplishing a Successful Human Relations Program."

Following the symposium, parents will go into discussion groups to formulate questions to be submitted to the panel for discussion. Refreshments will follow the program, to which the public has been invited.

Standish Group Holds Meeting at Shier Home

Sixteen members of the Standish Group of First Congregational Church met at the home of Mrs. August Shier of East Huron street Friday for a dessert luncheon.

* * *

A valentine arrangement of red and white flowers served as a centerpiece for the luncheon table. Mrs. Shier was assisted by Mrs. Lawrence Rutledge.

Mrs. Solomon Kline gave the devotions, using a theme, "The Bible," which was described as a "letter from God, telling us about the things He wishes us to do."

For the program, Mrs. Roy Bennett read a collection of poems appropriate for Valentine's Day. Announcement was made of the World Day of Prayer at the Bethany Baptist Church Feb. 17.

* * *

Announcement was also made of a breakfast for workers on "Loyalty Sunday" Feb. 26 and a Good Friday Breakfast March 30.

Shy Girl Fears She's Losing Only Friend

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

Some girls are just too lazy! They talk a lot about being shy. But it's just an excuse to cover up their reluctance to make any effort. It's easier to let somebody else do all the work.

* * *

Some girls have a mighty poor impression of themselves. All the other girls around are prettier than they are, have more personality, more ability, more talents.

They close into themselves and make a first-class audience for all the others. They never give anybody a chance to dig below that shy surface.

Other girls don't know how to be casual with people. They have to share secrets, talk seriously, get very close. They have time to do this with only a few, and they have no contact at all with the others. All their ages are in one basket.

If a girl is shy and lazy and serious and has only one good friend to her name, she's in a fix. A bit like this girl's.

"Dear Miss Woodward: We've been the closest of friends for two years now. I didn't think anything could wreck our friendship.

"But ever since we started high school something has come between us. She's changing, so I'm surprised. We hardly ever see each other except for lunch and then all she talks about is boys.

"In a few months we're moving to a nearby town and I'd like to keep our friendship going, but I doubt if I can if this keeps up.

"What do you suggest I do? I have a hard time making friends, so I'm worried sick over what will happen after we move. I'm so shy. How can I make friends more easily?"

Answer: Lightning — that overwhelming interest in boys — has struck your girl friend. It hits most girls — some soon, some later. And you feel that it is disrupting your friendship. Just because you can't closely share all of her interests.

You can still be friends after you move. You'll still need each other. But as she has less time to be close to you, make an effort to be friendly with other girls.

Don't bother to dig too deep at first. Smile, laugh and chatter with them. In your new town, show some eagerness to be friendly. Respond to people who want to know you.

And mull over all the tips in my booklet, "Why Be Shy?" which I'm sending to you. It will help you get a new slant on yourself and your ability to make people like you.

* * *

Anyone else who would like a free copy of this booklet can have same by writing me for it, in care of The Pontiac Press enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Waterford Citizens Protest Disposal Plant, Rezoning

Fear Proposed Changes May Decrease Valuation

By JANICE HAYHOW

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—Objection to a proposed sewage treatment plant adjacent to the Clinton River, about 600 feet south of Pontiac Lake Road to serve the new Highland Estates Subdivision was made by a delegation of citizens to the Waterford Township Board last night.

A second group of Waterford citizens questioned a change in zoning recommended by the zoning board.

* * *

The sewage plant may serve two other areas, the Saginaw Trail near Watkins Lake and the subdivision at the corner of Tubbs and Crescent Lake Roads.

Spokesman for the group of area residents, Homer Hoskins, 5676 Clinton River Dr., said that those present felt their property in the area of the proposed plant would depreciate.

They feared an overloading of the plant as Waterford Township population continued to increase and they feared pollution of the Clinton River.

Lloyd Anderson, township supervisor, replied that the Water Resources Commission and the State Board of Health would permit neither of these two things to happen.

Hoskins said his group questions whether the sewage plant is necessary at the point proposed, suggesting a site farther down-river, just south of Elizabeth Lake Road. He said, "There are no houses in that area," and showed an aerial view of the township to bear out this fact.

ENDORSES INTERCEPTOR

Hoskins went on to endorse the Farmington Interceptor Sewer, which has been in a planning stage for over two years and will eventually serve Waterford Township.

Anderson, who has worked with the authority in charge of planning the interceptor sewer, echoed his approval.

Hoskins said his group was prepared to serve an injunction on the township if the site for the proposed sewage plant remained the same.

The board moved to table the matter until members had further investigated the possibility of another site.

* * *

Another group of township residents from the Westridge subdivision protested action of the Waterford Township Zoning Board and the County Zoning Board of changing from residential 1 to light manufacturing 1 10½ acres on the east side of Airport Road and immediately north of the Grand Trunk Railroad along the tracks. The zoning change was up before the Township Board last night for a decision.

Residents present protested the light manufacturing zone because "the township could not control what went into the strip." They believed that the manufacturers who located there could cause possible damage to their property with undue noise, odor, or traffic.

Anderson pointed out that light manufacturing 1 prohibits odor, and certain plants which would emit same or cause noise.

Anderson said that "down through history the first area to blight was near the railroad track." The protesting group was concerned with the aesthetic values of the community.

The board tabled the zoning change for further research.

In other business, the board authorized the supervisor to sign an agreement with the Lenox Construction Co. to put up seven model homes to be used only as models until the plat could be recorded and the water system approved and they gave tentative approval to a proposed sewage plant in Watkins Hill No. 1 by the railroad in the Saginaw Trail area.

Pass Dublin Bond Issue

Approve $150,000 Sum to Finance Addition to School

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Voters in White Lake Township District No. 7 in an election yesterday approved a $150,000 bond issue to finance an addition of five classrooms and facilities to Dublin School.

The issue passed by a vote of 195 to 53.

In a resolution to rescind a six mill levy established in 1954 and replace it with the bond issue which would require no more than five mills, the vote was 122 yes and 137 no.

Representative voters said that the extra taxation would aid in better operating and equipping Dublin School.

William H. Vanderven, school superintendent, said "I am very happy about this." It seems it's something never done. This will provide us with a better educational program for Dublin School students."

In a meeting of the school board last night, members passed a resolution to hold the annual election June 11, one month earlier than usual. Due to the change in the school code, there will be no annual meeting but an annual election.

Alabama Authorities Arrive to Pick Up Man Arrested in Keego

KEEGO HARBOR — Alabama State Prison authorities will arrive today to pick up Buford Saint, 30, of 319 N. Saginaw St., Pontiac.

Saint was arrested Feb. 4 by Keego Harbor Police Chief Calvin C. Baxter and Patrolman Richard Hurtubise on an indecent liberities charge in a local place of business.

A teletype was received from the Alabama State authorities with a description fitting Saint and a statement that he might be an escapee of the prison.

He was turned over to Sheriff Frank W. Irons for interrogation and waived extradition before Judge H. Russell Holland on Feb. 9.

Saint, who has a wife and three children in northern Alabama, was serving a 12 year sentence for six-2nd degree burglary cases and grand larceny there.

Double Facilities at Parish School

Gethsemane Lutheran at Brooklands Announces Enrollment Open

BROOKLANDS — Gethsemane Lutheran Church at Brooklands is announcing that its parish school facilities will be doubled with the beginning of the 1956-57 school year.

* * *

An undergraduate teacher will be employed to teach the lower grades with Norman Heim continuing as principal and teacher of the upper classes. The pastor will teach the religion courses in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

In this expansion Gethsemane hopes to be able to accommodate all members and non-members who wish to enroll their children.

It has been necessary for the past several years to limit enrollments to children whose parents are members of the church.

It is emphasized, however, that due to the rapid expansion of the community, applications should be in as soon as possible since facilities are still limited.

Mark 10th Anniversary of Library at Waterford

The month of March marks the tenth anniversary of the Waterford Community Library in the Community Activities Building on Williams Lake Road.

* * *

Begun without much fanfare by a group of library enthusiasts headed by Mrs. O. L. Siegman, the project was taken over for a time by the Mothers' Club of the Waterford Village School as a public service. They gathered books, raised money, bought supplies, and with the help of their husbands made shelves and stacks and decorated the room set aside for the library in the new CAI building. Many "work-bees" followed, getting the books accessioned and on the shelves.

But "business" was slow. Not many people knew about the only public library in Waterford Township. Many who did know thought that membership in Community Activities, Inc. was necessary in order to use the library. This misunderstanding has never been completely cleared away.

The library has been able to maintain a working catalogue of over four thousand volumes, in addition to several sets of reference books. This has been due largely to continued donations of many fine books, and to the financial contribution of the local Book Review group.

The available books in the library include about twelve hundred non-fiction works, over fifteen hundred adult fiction (current and classical, though not always the latest editions), a section of some five hundred adult mystery novels, and approximately eight hundred books for children and junior readers. There are even a few foreign language readers and grammars.

At present, the library hours are: Tuesday—7 to 9 p.m., Wednesday—9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Thursday—7 to 8 p.m., and Saturday—10 to 12 a.m.

Youth Would Attend Waterford High

Council to Sponsor Foreign Student

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — The Student Council of Waterford Township High School this week approved a resolution to sponsor a foreign student in the high school next year.

* * *

The council will work through the American Field Service, a non-profit organization whose purpose is the furthering of understanding and good will among the peoples of the world.

It carries out this purpose by bringing teenage students from approximately 18 countries to study in American schools and to live in American families and communities for a year.

The youngsters who come here on AES scholarships are selected from many applicants in schools of foreign countries. All candidates are hand-picked by the Minister of Education of each country.

Emphasis is placed on qualities of character, leadership, scholarship, a fluent knowledge of English, and a genuine desire to know democracy as it is lived in the United States.

The AFS depends on the community to find homes for the students but the final choice is made by the New York headquarters.

PARENTS RESPONSIBLE

A student must live with the same family for one year. The foster parents exercise the same authority over him as they do over their own children. The parents, too, are responsible for giving him the understanding and affection that all teenagers require. The family receives no remuneration for the upkeep of the student.

All tuition and book fees are taken care of by the school. The youngster is placed in the grade closest to his age group.

The minimum cost to the sponsoring group for bringing these student ambassadors is $630 each.

Carl Hanna, Michigan representative of the AFS, however has waived the sponsor's fee for the program next year. He feels that once Waterford has felt the rewards of the project, it will want to continue the plan under the usual regulations.

The fee covers all travel from abroad to Waterford, insurance, $12 a month spending money, and a three-week bus trip of the country at the conclusion of the year.

* * *

This project also works in reverse—Waterford students become eligible for a summer trip to Europe.

The Student Council is now working out details of the project and hopes that an interested Waterford Township family can be found to assume the responsibility of housing and caring for a teenage visitor from abroad.

Agreement Made to Sell Tribe for $4,000,000

CLEVELAND (AP) — A one-time usher at the Cleveland Indians old League Park made arrangements under a gentleman's agreement yesterday to purchase the Tribe for nearly four million dollars.

William R. Daley, 63, who will be chairman of the new corporation, had a chance to buy the club 6½ years ago for 1½ million dollars less.

* * *

Daley, an industrialist, and General Manager Hank Greenberg, also a partner in the pending transaction, said they've been waiting for a long time to buy into the American League baseball club.

Greenberg has been waiting ever since he came here nearly nine years ago to get a financial interest in the club, which he thought he was to get in the beginning.

Both should get their wishes in about three weeks, the time estimated for the legal details to be worked out for the stockholders' approval. The directors, who own a large majority of shares, informally approved the price yesterday. It is $1,550 a share. At that rate, the club's total worth is nearly four million, counting the present 2,556 shares.

Daley will head a new corporation, but has asked the present officers to remain. Some of the shares still will be held by the current officers and directors.

Daley tried to buy the club back in the days Bill Veeck and his associates had the franchise. Daley admitted then that "we and our associates are actively pursuing such a deal," but it never came off. The Veeck regime finally sold out late in 1949 for about $2,200,000, compared with the $1,200,000 the club cost in 1946. The 1949 buyers were substantially the present owners, except that Ellis Ryan departed as president after a squabble in 1952.

* * *

Greenberg is scheduled to become a "principal" stockholder under the new owners. Daley and a fellow director of the Nickel Plate Railroad, Ollman Ignatius A. O'Shaughnessy of St. Paul, and Greenberg are expected to hold more than half the shares.

Big Hank, recently voted into Baseball's Hall of Fame for his slugging talents with the Detroit Tigers and Pittsburgh Pirates, thought he was to get a financial interest when he was appointed to his present job by Veeck in 1947.

* * *

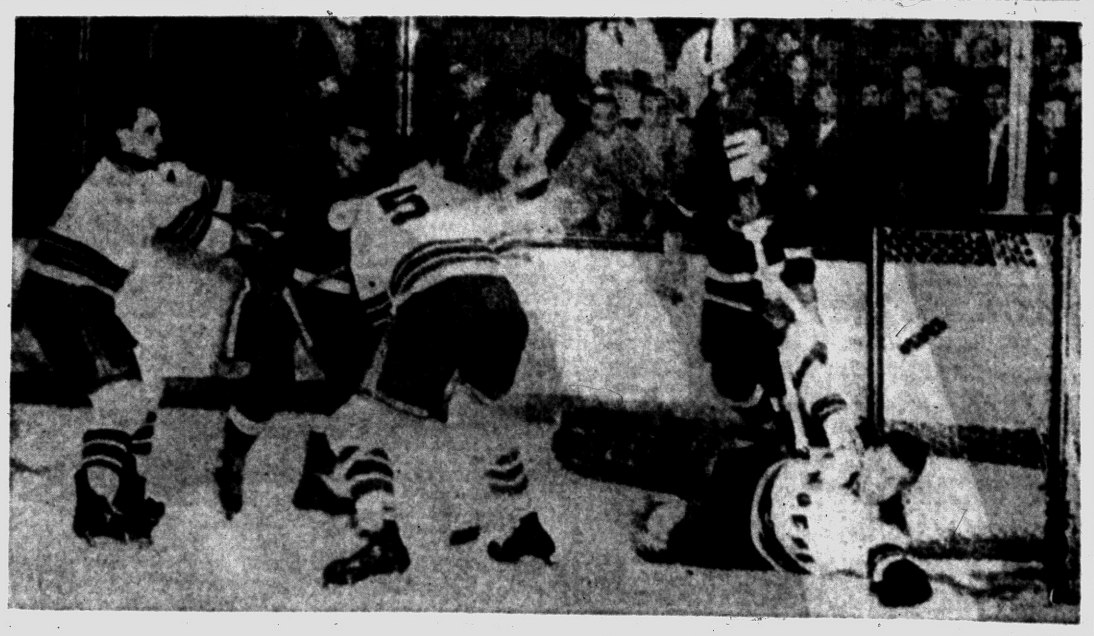

In fact Veeck announced that Greenberg "is" the second largest stockholder in the Indians, but later the general manager said that he never was able to buy any shares. It was reported a minor stockholder had promised Veeck he would sell some shares to Greenberg, but backed out.

Daley said that the other time he was interested in buying, Veeck was asking 2½ million.

* * *

"I thought it was a wise investment then, just as I think it is now," he continued. "I have the greatest faith in the future of baseball and particularly in Cleveland, which is a great baseball town."

Daley was a sandlotter as a boy in Ashtabula, Ohio. When the family moved here in 1910 he got a job as an usher in the Indians' former home, League Park. Until now, that was his only official connection with baseball.

Jim Meyers, a 245-pound fleet-footed tackle on Madison High's undefeated Oakland B championship football team last year, will enroll at Michigan State in April. A member of the All-Oakand County honor team, he was graduated from Madison two weeks ago.

Meyers holds the Michigan prep record for the longest touchdown run, a 105-yard gallop with a pass interception against Troy in 1954. The giant tackle is 18 years old and as a college student will have a wife, Patricia, and a 5-months-old daughter, Felicia, to support.

It now appears that Pontiac's Larry Lamphere didn't have a cut over the eye in his finals bout against Dude Green at the state Golden Gloves finale at Grand Rapids. That's Larry's manager's report, and Boris Bisogni, one-time Pennsylvania champion, himself, says Green paid the Pontiac middleweight a nice compliment.

Green said "he had been around quite a bit, and that with a little more experience Larry would make good."

In winning the 1920 National League pennant, the Brooklyn Dodgers' longest losing streak was three games.

Red Wings Ice Rangers, 5-3

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings tightened the dash for second place in the National Hockey League race last night, defeating the New York Rangers, 5-3, before 12,906 fans.

* * *

The win moved the Wings, defending Stanley Cup Champions, to within one point of the second-spot Rangers. Both clubs are far ahead of the rest of the pack. Fighting it out for the fourth and last berth for the Stanley Cup playoffs are the Toronto Maple Leafs, the Boston Bruins and the Chicago Black Hawks.

The Detroiters scored three goals in the third period to take the victory, their 23rd of the season. They have 60 points, one behind the Rangers and 18 off the Montreal pace.

Metro Prystai led the Wings with two goals. Lorne Ferguson, a former Bruin, Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio added singles. Harry Howell, Wally Hergesheimer and Dean Prentice scored for the Rangers.

* * *

The Wings, beaten 2-1 in New York Sunday, had to come from behind in each of the first two periods and were fighting off a strong Ranger surge for the tying goal when Prystai's second tally clinched the game in the last minute of play.

Playing their customary hit-and-run game, the Rangers scored on three of their 18 shots on Detroit netminder Glenn Hall while Lorne Worsley was kicking out 35 Detroit drives.

Prystai, whom the Wings sent to the Hawks last season and took back earlier this season in a trade for Ed Sandford, scored his first goal in the opening period to offset a Ranger marker by Howell. It was Harry's first goal of the season.

* * *

Hergesheimer scored on Ron Murphy's pass early in the second but Ferguson rapped home Red Kelly's rebound to tie it up again. The Wings took command with two goals midway through the windup period. Howe got his 31st of the season at 9:53 and Delvecchio scored his 20th at 11:02. Prentice narrowed the gap to 4-3 at 16:32 but Prystai found the empty net at 19:39 when the Rangers pulled Worsley in favor of a sixth attacker.

Husky Ex-GI Sets Sights on Owens' Jumping Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—Roslyn Range, just an unknown GI a year ago, takes the spotlight in the National AAU indoor track and field championships Saturday as a threat to the 21-year-old broad jumping records of the great Jesse Owens.

The brawny ex-soldier, now competing unattached out of Los Angeles, has his immediate sights on the indoor broad jump record of 25 feet 9 inches set by Owens in 1935.

* * *

"I think Range has a good chance to break the mark," said Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the AAU and director of the 68-year-old meet.

* * *

"I believe eight world records and four meet marks could be beaten or equaled this weekend — at Madison Square Garden—and the broad jump is one of them."

Range came out of nowhere in the Pan-American Games at Mexico City to win the broad jump championship with a leap of 25 feet 4¾ inches.

Olympic Member Awed by Squaw Valley Snowfall

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The great amount of snow at California's Squaw Valley impressed a member of the International Olympics Commission which awarded the 1960 Winter Olympic Games to the Sierra ski resort.

"Never have I seen so much snow," he remarked of the 104-inch pack. "I am glad the IOC voted Squaw Valley as the 1960 site. I was agreeably impressed."

NIGHTHAWKS

Comiskey Figures 96 Wins Will Take AL's '56 Crown

CHICAGO (AP)—Chuck Comiskey, scion of one of baseball's pioneer families, is talking pennant in his rookie year at the Chicago White Sox helm.

The personable, young vice president, who took charge after Frank Lane quit the Sox to become general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, enthusiastically cries: "Ninety-six in '56."

* * *

That's the number of victories Comiskey believes are needed to win the American League pennant this year and he's sure the Sox can reach the mark.

"I'm convinced," said Comiskey at the White Sox "Get-Away" luncheon yesterday, "the team that wins the American League pennant can do so with 96 victories."

That's the same number the Yankees won with last year while the Sox finished third with 91 triumphs.

"We feel the 1956 White Sox team will be the strongest club we have fielded in many a year," continued Comiskey, who is 30. "The nucleus of the 1955 club is with us again and the White Sox have been strengthened by the addition of outstanding players from other major league clubs and from our farm system.

* * *

Actually the Sox have acquired only one outstanding player and he's outfielder Larry Doby, who many observers last year felt would have brought the Sox their first pennant in 36 years had he been patrolling center field for the Comiskeys.

* * *

It was the lack of long ball power which prevented the Sox from winning the pennant. They led the league in batting and were second in pitching and fielding but they lost 27 games by one run.

Claims 1st Pro Game

Death Hits Efforts to Prove Ovid Site of Tilt

OVID, Mich. (AP)—Ovid now probably never will be recognized as the site of the first professional football game.

Leo J. Grove, a man with a cause, died last week at Delray Beach, Fla., at the age of 79.

* * *

Grove spent the last few years of his life digging through old records attempting to prove that the first professional football game was played July 4, 1895 at this Central Lower Michigan town.

* * *

All the record books recognize the first pro game as a meeting between Latrobe and Jeanette at Latrobe, Pa., on Aug. 21, 1895.

Grove played football for Albion College against Notre Dame and other top midwestern teams graduating in 1894. After graduation, he formed a football team known as the "Michigan Rushes" at his home town of Shepardsville near Ovid.

On June 27, 1895, the following notice appeared in Ovid Register-Union: "Don't miss the ball game July 4."

Grove declared that a hat was passed after the game and the players split the take to become professionals.

To support him, a statement from Will Marvan, a life-long resident of Ovid, stated:

"I live right where I did July 4, 1895, the day we played a game of football . . . at which game a collection was taken and the money paid to the local team, and the amount was three dollars."

Curry Stands Mute on Murder Charge

Accused of first-degree murder in the fatal beating Jan. 18 of a 57-year-old man in a local hotel, John A. Curry yesterday stood mute and Oakland County Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams entered an innocent plea for him.

Curry, 27, of Pontiac is charged with murdering Frank L. Behevdt, an ex-bookkeeper. He will await trial in Oakland County Jail.

Two men have told police they heard Curry threaten to kill Behevdt, while one says he witnessed Curry beating the victim whose death resulted from a ruptured abdominal artery.

Writers Honor Helfand, Robby and Speiser

CHICAGO (AP) — Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York Athletic Commission who succeeded in banning the boxing managers' guild in New York, last night received the Chicago boxing writers' award for contributing the most to boxing in 1955.

* * *

Other awards went to middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson and light-heavyweight Chuck Speiser.

Robinson was cited for making the "Comeback of the Year" and Speiser received the "Most Improved" boxer award.

Helfand, steering clear of his recent battle against the guild, said vigilance will restore boxing to its proper level.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Bill Curtis, who returned to Texas Christian University specifically to make the Olympic team, is running the high hurdles in championship form.

Curtis was at TCU in 1954 and not only won the Southwest Conference 120-yard high hurdles but won in all the other meets he entered—the Border Olympics, Texas Relays, Southwestern Recreation Meet, Kansas Relays and Drake Relays.

He had to drop out of school last year to recoup financially and worked in the oil fields at Colorado City. He returned last fall and has been working in the hurdles ever since. He has done 14.2 twice in practice without pressing and Elmer Brown, who is coaching him, thinks he'll go under 14 seconds.

Cuba on Top in Caribbean Diamond Action

PANAMA (AP)—Cuba held undisputed possession of first place in the Caribbean baseball championships today on the strength of a fine pitching performance by Washington's Camilo Pascual and Panama's surprising conquest of Puerto Rico.

Pascual limited Venezuela to four hits last night as Cuba racked up a 7-0 victory in the first game of a doubleheader. The triumph was the winners' fourth against a lone defeat. Bob Boyd of the Baltimore Orioles chipped in with a three-run homer for Cuba which also was helped by a run-scoring single by Archie Wilson of the St. Louis Cards.

Bosox Sign Stephens, Ted Williams' Fill-In

BOSTON (AP)—The signing of Gene Stephens, a promising young outfielder who filled in for Ted Williams in left field most of last season, was announced today by the Boston Red Sox.

The 23-year-old speedster from Arkansas hit .293 in 157 official times at bat while appearing in 109 games last year. In many of his home appearances, he was a pinch hitter, pinch runner or Williams' relief in left field in late innings.

The World Series record for consecutive strikeouts is six, made by Cincinnati's Red Ellis in 1938 against the White Sox. Ellis won the game, 9-0.

APPROVE SALE OF INDIANS — Myron H. Wilson, center, president of the Cleveland Indians is flanked by Hank Greenberg, left, general manager of the club, and Don Hornbeck, club secretary, just after the present board of directors approved the transfer of the club to a new corporation. The new corporation, which offered $3,961,000 for the team, is headed by William R. Daley, president of Otis & Co., an investment firm. Wilson is expected to stay as president with Daley becoming chairman of the board. Greenberg has been identified as one of the new stockholders.

Pro Leagues Talk Turkey

Canadians Meet With NFL Heads Hoping to Settle Disputes

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two ends get together today to talk about the middle in an effort to settle a U.S.-Canadian hassle over pro football players.

* * *

The ends are Comissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League and Ralph Cooper, representing our northern neighbor's two big pro loops. The middle consists of U.S. college players, who for some time have been in the enviable position of being able to play off ends against each other for the highest salary.

Both leagues accuse each other of persuading players to break contracts and options held by the other. Several of the disputes have wound up in the courts and many have been marked by hot words.

Bell suggested the meeting, to be held today at noon in a downtown hotel with newspapermen on hand to record the proceedings. Cooper agreed willingly to talk things over.

Bell says he's ready to talk about anything which "does not restrain the rights of the players."

Harrison Hits Tuneup 61; Bone Qualifies With 69

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the old campaigner, had the eye of the gallery today as golf's winter tour went through final tuneup rounds for the $20,000 Texas Open.

The old Arkansas traveler, who plays out of St. Louis, caused them to buzz yesterday when he shot his finest round in 25 years, a 10-under-par 61, in a pro-amateur.

It was at the Oak Hills Country Club course, a 6,135-yard layout that isn't as tough as the Fort Sam Houston course, where the open is to be played. But it showed that the man who won the Texas Open twice in the past—in 1939 and 1951—was to be reckoned with in this year's tournament.

Harrison had 29-32 with six birdies on the front nine and four on the last. He missed only two putts under 10 feet and had two 30-footers. He won $400 as the low professional, finishing five strokes ahead of Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex.; Jack Burke of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., and Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio, who each won $180 for tying for second with 66s.

* * *

At Fort Sam Houston 177 of the lesser lights of the tour and many not on the tour shot for qualifying places in the open with Henry Williams of Reading, Pa.; Manuel de la Torre of Milwaukee and Billy Phillips of Winchester, Va., leading the way with 4-under-par 68s over the 6,464-yard course. Gene Bone of Detroit and Don Clarkson of St. Louis were next in line with 69s. A 74 was necessary to qualify.

Lausse Favored Over Bob Boyd

CHICAGO (AP)—Eduardo Lausse, powerful left-hook specialist from South America, is a 2-1 favorite to defeat rangy Bobby Boyd, former Chicago butcher apprentice, tonight in his climb to a middleweight title shot.

Lausse, 28-year-old mechanic's son, will put an undefeated string of 32 bouts on the line in the nationally televised 10 rounder at Chicago stadium (10 p.m. EST, ABC).

The scrap may not go the distance, for each has impressive knockout records. Lausse, world's third-ranked 160-pound contender, has scored 49 kayoes. A victory over Boyd would put him at the head of the line for a crack at the winner of the Bobo Olson-Sugar Ray Robinson return bout.

His over-all record is 61-6-3 and his victories include decisions over Tiger Jones, Kid Gavilan and Gene Fullmer and knockouts of Purk Edwards, Georgia Small and Johnny Sullivan. Lausse, making his 13th start in this country, was held to a draw by Milo Savage in his last fight, Jan. 6. Savage floored the Argentine.

Kemmerer a Seal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League today obtained Paul Kemmerer, young right-handed pitcher, on option from its parent club, the Boston Red Sox.

Santee's Amateur Status Pending

NEW YORK (AP)—The fate of star miler Wes Santee, who faces permanent suspension as an amateur athlete, likely will be decided Sunday by a seven-man AAU investigating committee.

Santee, a Marine lieutenant whose 4:00.5 mile was the fastest ever run by an American, yesterday threatened legal action if he is barred from running in the 1956 Olympic Games in Melbourne.

The investigating committee comprised of AAU and Olympic officials will look into what Pincus Sober, chairman of the seven-man group, called "new information not previously revealed."

Santee was suspended by the Missouri Valley AAU last Oct. 11 on charges that he accepted "excessive expenses" for three track meets in California in May.

On Nov. 20, however, the Missouri Valley AAU Board of Managers lifted the suspension on the grounds of insufficient evidence. Santee resumed his running career but withdrew from indoor meets in New York on a request from the investigating committee.

"My whole career as an athlete is jeopardized," Santee, former University of Kansas athlete, told a stormy meeting of the New York Track Writers Assn.

OSU's Freeman Still Leading Big 10 Scorers

CHICAGO (AP)—Ohio State's Robin Freeman faltered a bit but maintained a commanding lead in the Big Ten basketball scoring race through the week.

Held to 12 points by Illinois, Freeman came back with 28 against Northwestern Monday to run his all-game total to 548 points in 17 games.

Julius McCoy of Michigan State gained some ground but remained 94 points behind the Buckeye whiz. McCoy has a 454-point total for 15 games.

Wally Choice of Indiana is 3rd with 349 points in 17 games, followed by Ron Kramer of Michigan with 343 points in 17 games.

What's new in General Motors Cars?

He and some 20,000 others are getting special mechanical training each month

THE GENERAL MOTORS MOTORAMA, now touring the country, gives vivid evidence of the fact that General Motors leads the way in the development of new safety, convenience and performance features.

They sparkle with advanced engineering developments.

But have you ever thought of this?

Every time the engineers come up with a new advance in automatic transmissions—or power brakes—or power steering—or V8 engine design—or air conditioning—thousands of dealer mechanics have new things to learn.

Even a veteran mechanic needs to know how these new features are built—how they operate—how to take them apart and put them together expertly when they need service attention.

Automobile manufacturers, of course, have tried—in a small way—to pass on this information for years, with shop manuals and training classes.

But never before has there been anything which can even approach the General Motors Training Center program launched last year.

This involved building thirty brand-new, specially designed and specially equipped training centers, conveniently spread throughout the country.

It involved providing specially trained instructors, and well-equipped classrooms, where the mechanics enrolled can actually perform every service operation themselves.

And it involved getting dealers to recognize the advantages of this training. But that was easy.

After all, General Motors dealers are good businessmen. They know the advantage of giving their customers the finest possible service.

So from the day the first Training Center was completed, it was crowded to capacity.

By the end of the year, when all thirty Centers were in operation, enrollment for the year had topped 100,000.

And now—as we start a new year with all Centers in operation—registrations are coming in at a rate which runs 20,000 a month.

This is one more reason why the 16,957 General Motors dealers throughout America have such a leadership in sales. They know that success smiles on those who deserve it.

Narcotics User Forgetfully Cures Self in Jail

KANSAS CITY (AP)—An admitted narcotics user who was "sort of forgotten" spent 18 months in jail without trial, the county prosecutor says.

Charges of possessing marijuana against Melle John Ecton were dismissed at the request of Prosecutor Richard K. Phelps.

Phelps told the Circuit Court that Ecton's case "in some way got put on the hold docket" rather than a regular docket.

"Ecton has been sort of forgotten," Phelps said. "He used the drug and he tells me he now is cured of addiction."

* * *

Ecton's attorney died after his arrest in August 1954. No one at the jail could recall whether Ecton ever asked about his length of stay.

After the case was dismissed today, Ecton was still held pending action in connection with a mental examination for the prisoner.

Sales of Hardtops Shine in Lagging Auto Market

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—Going over strongly in an otherwise lagging new car market right now are the auto industry's newest 4-door hardtops. These are the models in which there are no side-center posts above the belt line.

Twelve of the industry's current car builders are producing them in their 1956 lines.

Surveys indicate demand for these models is holding up well, with some retailers unable to make immediate deliveries. Many industry experts say flatly the 4-door hardtops some day will replace the conventional type of sedan.

It isn't much of a secret the manufacturers have had problems with hardtop production. Most manufacturers expected problems. They expected difficulties with glass and window installations and with hinging and latching doors on an entirely different type of body design.

These difficulties are being licked. All the car makers currently producing hardtops expect to increase the percentage of their output devoted to these models. The hardtops, with windows that can be lowered to leave both sides wholly open above the belt line, have more than ordinary eye-appeal.

The hardtop styling also appears to increase demand for power window lifts. This extra-cost option is being made available by all producers.

GM's Fisher Body Division developed the first of the 4-door hardtop bodies after successfully designing the 2-door model of the same type.

A major problem in developing the 4-door unit was achieving required rigidity in the shortened center upright that carries the door lock latches and also in maintaining proper balance of the car top supported only at front and rear ends.

Many months of tests preceded final introduction of the 4-door hardtops. They were considered one of the most revolutionary body changes since introduction of the first all-steel closed body.

Another revolutionary operation is being carried out by GM's Chevrolet Division in its new stamping and frame plant near Flint, Mich. Here a tube mill and an ingenious bending machine convert strip steel into tubing and then into 4-by-4½ inch box girders that form the body frame side members.

Says GOP Lagging in Civil Rights Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) called on the Eisenhower administration today to "exercise its leadership rather than its lungs" in obtaining congressional action on civil rights legislation.

* * *

Humphrey, a supporter of Adlai E. Stevenson's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, struck back at the contention of Vice President Nixon in a New York speech Monday that the Democrats have proved themselves "helpless and futile" in this field.

* * *

"We might make some substantial progress in the field of civil rights legislation in this Congress if we can get just a little help from Republicans," Humphrey said in an interview. "If we do, the administration will have to exercise its leadership rather than its lungs."

* * *

"I might remind the Republicans that during the 83rd Congress which they controlled a whole series of civil rights bills were introduced and I don't recall that a single one of them was ever brought up for action."

Nash Sales Increase

DETROIT (AP)—Nash Motors reported yesterday its retailers delivered 6,160 new cars last month. This was a 27.5 per cent increase over the comparable 1955 month, the company reported.

Name R. L. Ferguson to Fisher Body Post

The appointment of Russell L. Ferguson as production manager of Fisher Body's Hamilton, Ohio, stamping plant was announced today by E. J. Hanson, general manufacturing manager.

Ferguson replaces Danes W. Kenifeck who was recently named manager of the division's Pittsburgh, Pa., stamping plant.

Ferguson joined General Motors in 1930 as a foreman with the Pontiac Motor Co. In 1934 he transferred to Fisher Body as a tool and die foreman in the Pontiac Plant.

He became chief inspector of production standards in 1942, and in 1945 was promoted to shift plant superintendent. He was assigned to the Hamilton plant as master mechanic in 1947 and has been shift plant superintendent since 1947.

Chevrolet Top Seller in 1955, Says Survey

DETROIT (AP) — Chevrolet says final R.L. Polk & Co. figures place it first in the auto industry in 1955 passenger car sales by 67,405 cars.

Ford ran second.

The R. L. Polk figures usually are accpeted by the industry as official. They cover new car registrations.

Chevrolet passenger car registrations totaled 1,640,681.

The 1954 sales race ended in a dispute between Chevrolet and Ford, the consistent production leaders. Ford claimed Chevrolet had registered many cars actually still held by dealers.

Ford made no announcement regarding the Polk figures.
