

Court Rules Out Integration Delay

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court declared unanimously today that its 1955 decision that public schools must be desegregated with all deliberate speed does not mean that there can be indefinite delay in elimination of racial barriers.

The court's declaration was in an opinion written by Justice Goldberg in a decision which specifically called for immediate desegregation of parks, playgrounds and other city recreational facilities in Memphis, Tenn.

However, Goldberg also made a reference to schools, declaring:

"Given the extended time which has elapsed, it is far from clear that the mandate of the second Brown decision requiring that desegregation proceed with 'all deliberate speed' would today be fully satisfied by types of plans or programs for desegregation of public education facilities which eight years ago might have been deemed sufficient."

Goldberg then went on to assert for the full court:

"Brown never contemplated that the concept of 'deliberate speed' would countenance indefinite delay in elimination of racial barriers in school, let alone other public facilities not involving the same physical problems or comparable conditions."

Referring several times to the 1955 school segregation case, Goldberg stated that, "The nature of the ultimate resolution effected in the second Brown decision largely reflected no more than a recognition of the unusual and peculiar problems inhering in desegregating large numbers of schools throughout the country."

He said the court had demonstrated a concern that delay not be conditioned upon insufficient reason, or in any event, tolerated unless it imperatively and compellingly appeared unavoidable."

At another point, Goldberg declared:

Henry Says Suspects Won't Get Fair Deal

The attorney for two 23-year-old Pontiac men accused in the murder of a Kroger supermarket co-manager, asked today that trial of the two be held in another county.

Pontiac attorney Milton R. Henry also asked Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer to delay the first degree murder trial of Adolphe White and Charles E. Hodges.

The trial has been scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Henry made the request along with two others in motions filed with the court this morning. A hearing on the motions before Judge Beer was scheduled for 2 p.m. today.

NOTORIETY

Henry claimed White, 79% Wall, and Hodges, 174 Prospect, could not get a fair trial in Oakland, Wayne or Genesee counties because of notoriety and publicity about of the crime with which the two are charged.

They are accused of the March 16 slaying of Robert A. Greene, 22, 122 Summit, at the Pontiac Mall shopping center.

Henry asked that the trial be ordered held in Ingham County.

Henry moved that his clients' statements admitting the crime be ruled inadmissible in evidence on the grounds that the two were "subjected to illegal detention and interrogation" and that their statements were obtained, "through the application of illegal pressures."

Henry asked for a delay in the trial to permit time for White and Hodges to be examined by a psychiatrist appointed last week by the court.

Henry has said he will plead insanity as his clients' defense.

JFK Seeks Rapid Transit for Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy urged Congress today to build an $800-million rapid rail transit system in the nation's capital.

The President called the system "essential" for improved transportation in Washington and its suburbs.

He said the alternatives to rapid rail transit were "steadily worsening congestion" or more highways, which would cost money, displace persons and hurt the looks of the city.

The rapid rail transit system would include a subway in downtown Washington and surface lines in suburban Maryland and Virginia. Under Kennedy's plan, it would take 10 years to build.

Public transportation in the city and suburbs is now all by bus.

Over 30 organizations will pay their respects by marching in the 10 a.m. parade.

A color guard of Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force representatives will lead the parade north on Saginaw from its formation on Patterson.

The marchers will pass in review before city officials, headed by Mayor Robert A. Landry, at Saginaw and Huron.

Others on the reviewing stand will include Commander John R. Tobin of the Pontiac Naval Reserve Training Center, and William Tunney, parade marshal and president of the Pontiac Memorial Day Association, which organized the ceremony.

Honorary parade marshal will be John N. Johnson, a 75-year-old veteran of the Spanish-American War, and commander of the Davi-Kimball Camp 51, Spanish-American War Veterans.

MUSIC

Providing music for the numerous veteran and service-related groups will be the bands from Pontiac Central and Northern high schools as well as the combined bands of several area junior high schools.

The Land 'O' Lakes Majorettes, Skyliners, and the National Parade Champions Color Guard and Drill Team sponsored by Eagles Lodge 1230, will lead additional color to the parade.

A trophy will be awarded by Chief Pontiac American Legion Post 377 to the organization with the most members marching in the parade.

CAUGHT HIS EYE — An interested young spectator found one flock in the "Fountain of Fashion" so appealing he had to tuck up for a closer look. Upon discovering that the lady in it wasn't his mother, the boy returned to his seat in Shain Park for the rest of the show which was the climax of Birmingham's Michigan Week activities Saturday.

'Because of Irregularities'

Dems Plan to Continue Recount

DETROIT (AP)—Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency said yesterday his party will continue the recount of votes cast for the new constitution in the April 1 election because of a number of irregularities uncovered in the first week of the recount.

Ferency, appearing on a Detroit radio broadcast sponsored by the Democratic party, said the recount will be pushed to completion "to see how sloppy election procedure can get in this state."

State Elections Director Robert M. Montgomery, commenting on the broadcast, said "on the whole" the April 1 election count was more accurate than in previous elections.

"We have found errors," he said. "While some appear to be inexcusable, they were not because of the law but because of failure to understand the law or perhaps fatigue at the end of a long day."

CHANGES PROPOSED

Montgomery said the voting machine section of the law can be greatly improved and his staff is working on proposed changes to be recommended to the legislature.

Ferency emphasized that Democrats were not suggesting there was any "fix" in the April 1 election, or any other Michigan election.

Recounts in 24 of 77 counties reduced the constitution's margin by only 130 votes. The proposal was passed by a 7,829-vote margin.

Stating that Democrats were never optimistic about turning "yes" votes into "no" votes, Ferency added that "the purpose was to determine whether there was an accurate count."

"The irregularities we have found so far are so disturbing that we feel it is incumbent upon us to complete the recount, to see how sloppy this procedure can get," he said.

In one county, Ferency said, 57 absentee ballots showed on the machine, but nobody could find them.

SEALED CAN

"There have been 25 or 30 precincts where we weren't allowed to look at the paper ballots," the chairman said. "The election inspectors say that if the ballots are not in a sealed can, or if bundles are not tied securely, they cannot be recounted."

Ferency said the number of precincts that couldn't be recounted for one reason or another was "almost four per cent."

He said there was a need for "lightening" the state's election laws, but added that it wasn't known yet exactly what recommendations would be made to the legislature.

Another guest on the program, former Gov. John B. Swainson, said he thought he had a future in government, but didn't know whether it would be at the federal, state or local level.

Justices Deny Wallace Suit

Won't Bar Troop Use in Birmingham, Ala.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court rejected today a suit by Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama to bar use of federal troops in Birmingham.

The governor asked the high tribunal to declare President Kennedy violated the Constitution by sending troops into the state for possible riot duty in Birmingham racial troubles.

Wallace said neither he nor the Alabama Legislature had asked for federal troops and contended such a first step was necessary under the Constitution. The governor asked the court also to declare unconstitutional a post-Civil War statute under which the President acted, and the Constitution's 14th Amendment.

The Supreme Court in a brief order said the motion to file the governor's complaint was denied.

PRESIDENTIAL POWER

"In essence," the high court's order said, "the papers show no more than that the President has made ready to exercise the authority conferred upon him by article 10 U.S.C. Section 333 by alternating and stationing military personnel in the Birmingham area. Such purely preparatory measures and their alleged adverse general effects upon the plaintiffs afforded no basis for the granting of any relief."

The section referred to in the order is a post-Civil War law giving the president authority to order out troops to suppress disorders in states.

Justice White took no part in today's action. This made the court's vote 8-0.

Concern Mounting Over Ailing Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Gravely weakened by recurrent hemorrhages, Pope John XXIII was confined to his apartment today. Concern grew about his condition.

A Vatican source said plans for President Kennedy to see the 81-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff had been suspended. Kennedy was due here about June 22.

Belgian-born Bishop Pierre van Lierde, the Pope's sacristan and vicar-general for Vatican City, canceled several engagements in Rome. He was reported remaining in or near the Pope's apartment constantly to be ready to administer Extreme Unction.

Italy's biggest newspaper, Corriere Della Sera, said that although very weak, the Pope was clear of mind and serene.

The newspaper added:

"He realizes the gravity of his condition. He told a person who visited him during the day: 'I know very well what I have. And I also know that I only have left three or four weeks of life.'"

The Vatican switchboard received hundreds of phone calls about the Pope. Operators replied "A little better."

At the Vatican press office there was no statement on his condition. Informants said the Pope had a restless night.

His personal physician, Dr. Antonio Gasbarrini, who was called here urgently Sunday from his home in Bologna, saw the Pope again at noon today.

Another papal doctor, Piero Mazzoni, kept vigil near the Pope's bedside throughout the night. It was the sixth successive night Mazzoni had spent in the apostolic palace.

All through the night, the lights were off in the Pope's third floor apartment overlooking St. Peter's Square. This indicated he did not need attention.

DEATH TAKES ONE — Priest administrators Francis' car crashed head-on with one driven last night to victim of crash in which actress Arlene Francis was injured yesterday. Miss Francis was injured.

Actress Is Injured in Head-On Collision

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress Arlene Francis, a panelist on the television program "What's My Line?," was reported in satisfactory condition today after an automobile collision in which she was injured and another woman was killed.

The Boston-born actress was replaced on "What's My Line?" Sunday night by singer Kitty Carlisle.

Miss Francis, 35, was en route to Manhattan to appear on the show, when her auto skidded on wet pavement and collided head-on with another auto. Police said she apparently had tried to stop her car because of a minor accident ahead of her.

Killed in the collision with the actress' car was Rose Arcos, 34, of Brooklyn. Her husband, Joseph, also 34, who was driving, and three other passengers in his car were injured, two of them critically.

Miss Francis was taken unconscious from the accident scene, on Northern State Parkway at Lake Success, N.Y., to a hospital in East Meadow, then to Harkness Pavilion of Columbia/Presbyterian Medical Center in Manhattan.

Doctors at Columbia Presbyterian said she suffered a fractured collarbone, a minor concussion, a cut scalp and bruises.

Station WOR said Miss Francis' radio interview program each weekday would be conducted today by the show's producer, Jean Bach.

Miss Francis told police that the last thing she remembered was changing lanes to avoid a car ahead of her.

Court to Rule Soon on Integration Effort

By The Associated Press
A federal court ruling is due today or Tuesday on Negro efforts to desegregate schools in Birmingham, largest city in Alabama and focal point of racial unrest for weeks.
U.S. Dist. Judge Seybourne H. Lynne said Sunday he will announce his decision by Tuesday. It will be the fifth court ruling within a week on Birmingham issues.

Union Leader Wants Site for Retirees' Rec Center

By BILL SCHMIDT
Cecil C. Mullinix, president of Pontiac Motor Division Local 653, UAW, today vowed to appear before the City Commission, if necessary, to obtain land for a drop-in center for Oakland County's 40,000 retirees.
"Almost every city the size of Pontiac has at least one drop-in center; we don't have any," he noted.
At present, the county's retirees are unorganized and disenfranchised, he said.
They meet in a dozen small groups, the largest of which range from 200 to 300 and meet at UAW halls throughout this city.

But, as Mullinix stated, union halls are hardly adequate to provide the many services to which retirees are entitled, such as recreation.
OLD COURT HOUSE
He suggested the site of the old county court house as an ideal location for a new drop-in center, and urged the county to consider the possibility of donating the property for this purpose.

plan to present themselves for admission to white units of the University of Alabama system—one at the main university campus at Tuscaloosa, the other at a branch at Huntsville.

Gov. George C. Wallace has vowed a stand-in-the-door policy to maintain segregation in Alabama's schools. He has said he will be on hand personally to block admission of a Negro at the university for the term beginning June 10.

Two suits are involved in the public school litigation before Lynne. The first, filed in 1960, attacks Alabama's pupil placement law, which has been upheld on its face by the U.S. Supreme Court. The law gives local school boards broad authority in assigning pupils to schools.

The second, filed last year, seeks an injunction wiping out the entire segregation system in Birmingham schools. Both are class actions, which means they seek relief on behalf of all Negroes.

Negro leaders planned a meeting during the day in out-of-state Birmingham.

About 500 riot-trained federal soldiers have been pulled out of a Montgomery base, 90 miles south of Birmingham, but 2,500 federal troops remain at Aniston, 60 miles east.
The troops were sent to Alabama by President Kennedy after May 12 bombings and rioting in Birmingham.

complaint, the court made no reference to a request by Wallace that it declare the Constitution's 14th Amendment invalid.
Wallace filed his suit in the Supreme Court May 15.

A brief submitted to the high court by the governor said the President's troop order was "an exercise of personal power" and asserted Kennedy's action "if tolerated by this court would in effect create a military dictatorship."

A reply brief by the Justice Department asked the court to reject Wallace's suit as being without legal foundation.

The President has statutory and constitutional authority to send troops into action as he sees fit.

Tribunal Rules Out Integration Delays

The Memphis park case, Goldberg said, presented no obvious occasion for warranted delay.

"Desegregation of parks and other recreational facilities does not present the same kind of cognizable difficulties inherent in the elimination of racial classification in schools."

The court ruled on an appeal by 11 Negroes who said the principle allowing time for desegregation of public schools, as fixed by the Supreme Court in 1955, should not be applied to use of public recreational facilities.
Justice Goldberg delivered the unanimous decision.

Recover Americans

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—A helicopter flew two frostbitten American mountaineers off Mt. Everest today and the rest of their expedition prepared to start the long trek back from the top of the world.

The two men flew back to Katmandu were William Unsworth, 34, of Corvallis, Ore., and Barry C. Bishop, 30, of Washington, D.C.

They were tired but happy. They rejected stretcher help and limped into the hospital, aided by their anxious wives.

Dr. Robert Berry of Philadelphia said after a careful medical examination that except for their frostbitten toes and blister-ridden feet, the men were in good shape.

He said it was impossible to determine immediately whether any toes would have to be amputated.

This evening the rest of the expedition made its last radio contact with Katmandu before starting a 12-day march from the mountain to this Nepalese capital.

They said they did not expect to be able to make radio contact again until June 7 when they expected to be rising onto high ground again about 40 miles east of here.

Woman Dies in Home Fire

A house fire which claimed the life of a 34-year-old Pontiac woman last night is believed by fire officials to have been caused by careless smoking.

Mrs. Mary E. McDonald, 36, Maple, died of suffocation and burns in the fire that gutted her bedroom shortly after 9 p.m. Her body was found on the floor near her bed by firemen.

Fire authorities concluded that Mrs. McDonald, a partial invalid, had accidentally set the bed on fire with a cigarette. They said they learned she was a heavy smoker.

While the fire was raging Mrs. McDonald's husband returned home and had to be restrained from entering the building, firemen said.

The fire, discovered by an unidentified youngster, was under control in an hour.
Damage to the two-story frame house, which is owned by the state, was estimated at $1,500. Contents valued at $500 were destroyed.

Fire Destroys 3 Warehouses

Detroit's West Side Hit by 5-Alarm Blaze

From Our News Wire
DETROIT—Three large warehouses were destroyed in a five-alarm fire on the city's west side yesterday. One fireman was seriously hurt when he fell from an aerial ladder.

The fire, which raged out of control for two hours, destroyed a one-story building housing the Merchant Wholesale Service Co., and two warehouses owned by the Fishman Paper Stock Co.

The blaze threatened to spread to a nearby Mittle Color coal yard and the Dittler color design paint plant.

Twenty-five pieces of equipment and 150 firemen were rushed to the scene. Fire fighters were hampered by low water pressure because the hydrants were located far away from the fire.

Fire Chief Glen Thom said some hoses had to be stretched over 2,000 feet to reach the flames.

Chief Thom said the probable cause of the blaze was children playing with matches in waste paper.

A fireman, Donald Donati, 43, of Detroit, suffered a crushed chest when he fell from a 40-foot aerial ladder. He was in critical condition in Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital.

Fire officials said Donati was hit by the hose after a belt holding the hose nozzle in place snapped. He fell onto the cab of a fire truck and then to the ground.

Fire officials estimated damages at $120,000. The building and its contents were a loss.

Ellis Fishman of Huntington Woods, owner of the paper firm, said he hoped he could resume operating without the buildings next week.

The spectacle drew thousands of people from the surrounding residential area to watch firemen battle the fire.

Police had to send for reinforcements to keep the crowds back. At one time, 50 officers were used to control the mob of spectators.

Two Dems Offer New N-Ban Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., and Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., teamed up in a surprise move today in suggesting the United States offer the Soviet Union an agreement to ban atmospheric and underwater nuclear tests.

The two Democrats, who differ sharply over the adequacy of Kennedy administration proposals for a comprehensive treaty banning all nuclear weapons testing, found common ground on a first-step proposal.

They proposed a resolution asking Washington to offer Moscow an agreement to halt tests that "contaminate the atmosphere or the oceans."

Twenty-two other Democrats and six Republican senators signed the resolution with their introduction in the Senate.

Humphrey and Dodd emphasized the resolution would impose no restrictions on underground testing or on testing in outer space which would not contaminate the atmosphere.

Dodd, in a speech prepared for Senate delivery, paid high tribute to Humphrey, assistant Senate Democratic leader, as "a champion of peace and disarmament."

He called the Minnesota "the logical candidate" for the next Nobel Peace Prize.

The resolution stipulates that if the Soviet Union refuses to sign the first-step agreement, "we commit ourselves before the world to conduct no nuclear tests in the atmosphere or underwater so long as the Soviet Union abstains from them."

But it specifies that in committing the United States to such a moratorium, this government should bear in mind the Soviet record of "deceit and bad faith" and maintain its testing facilities in a state of constant readiness so it will not be caught napping if the Soviets should suddenly resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere or underwater."

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., was one of the Democratic senators who sponsored the resolution.

Commission to Receive 9-Hole Golf Course Plan

BIRMINGHAM—Tentative plans for a nine-hole golf course, which also could be used as a winter sports area, will be submitted to the City Commission tonight.

The $151,300 facility has been planned for the northwest corner of 14-Mile Road and Cranbrook.

The commission has been considering various plans for use of the 66 acres of city-owned property for several years.

City Manager L. R. Gare noted that the city has provided suitable areas for picnics, sports activities and nature study at its other parks.

Laying out the golf course indicates it would be 3,200 yards compared to 2,700 yards at the city's Springdale course.

Winter facilities would include sleds, toboggan slides, an abbreviated ski run and natural ice skating rink.

A public hearing on the $12-million proposed city budget will be held at tonight's commission meeting.

Although the 1963-64 budget would increase city spending by $68,357, it would maintain the current 18-mill tax levy.

With an assessed valuation of $72,891,900, the city anticipates collecting $1,315,955 in taxes and raising $537,398 through other sources.

Dems to Meet on Party State Debt

Hope to Plan Fund Raisers

May Cut Liability
Totaling $260,000

LANSING (UPI) — Top-level Democrats have another closed-door meeting scheduled for late today in Detroit at which they hope to solidify a plan that may chop the party's $260,000 debt in half.

Democratic Chairman Zolton A. Ferency and Party Finance Director Stuart Hertzberg were closed-mouthed about the specifics of the plan, but said they had high hopes for its success and believed they would be able to announce its details by tomorrow.

Ferency said, "This is something that has never been tried in Michigan before, or anywhere else that I know of."

"It's a statewide plan and it would depend on both big and small contributions."

The Democrats have adopted as their motto "Owe No More in '64" and hope to have the entire debt wiped out by Jan. 1.

Some of the obligations date back three years, but most of them were built up during the 1962 general election and the 1963 spring election campaigns.

Former Gov. John B. Swainson, whose unsuccessful bid for a second term as governor accounts for much of the red ink, is one of the Democrats who was to be at today's meeting.

Ferency called the group meeting today the "crash committee—they're going to devise a way to bring in that quick cash transference on an emergency basis."

FUND RAISERS

He said in addition to the emergency fund committee, the party is also looking at "some of the usual fund raisers—dinners honoring certain people; county-by-county fund raisers, either picnics or dinners; and additional emphasis on membership."

"We could double or triple the size of the party almost immediately if each present member would just recruit one or two more."

Two other possibilities would be bringing President Kennedy to Michigan, which Ferency said would be difficult to do, or setting up a touring entertainment spectacular, such as state Republicans have done in recent years with the GOP Party.

Ferency said, "We would like to get the President in, but we have no prospects or assurances that he will be able to come and we really can't count on it."

"Senators (Philip A.) Hart and (Patrick V.) McNamara and Congressman (Neil) Staebler will keep a weather eye on that to see what can be done. But you can't expect too much. After all, Mr. Kennedy has got 50 states to cover and he's pretty busy."

575 Die in State Traffic

EAST LANSING (UPI)—A total of 575 persons have lost their lives in Michigan traffic accidents this year, provisional figures compiled by state police showed today. The toll on this date a year ago was 465.

TRAIL BLAZERS — Demonstrating their skill at making trail signs for long hikes are Bill Schilling, 5833 Derosé, Waterford, and Max Thompson, 2201 Ellery, Waterford. The two members of Troop 31 were among about 500 boy scouts who camped at Oakland University over the weekend. They were joined by about 500 cub scouts Saturday for the fourth annual Show-O-Ree of the Manito District, Clinton Valley Boy Scout Council.

LOOK MA, NO NET! — Ten-year-old John Verhey of 4434 Cheeseman, Waterford Township, could be crossing a treacherous river on his bridge made of three ropes. The task was not minimized by the fact that it was performed at the Manito District Show-O-Ree Saturday. The cub scout is a member of Pack 52.

Won't Appeal Detroit Levy

Vigilance Committee Still Plans Tax Vote

DETROIT (UPI)—The Vigilance Tax Committee says that on the advice of its legal subcommittee it will not take its suit on the constitutionality of Detroit's income tax law to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The committee was rebuffed in its attempts to get the law declared illegal when the Michigan Supreme Court ruled it was within the bounds of Michigan's constitution.

At their meeting Saturday, the mayors who composed the committee said, however, they would continue to seek narves for petitions seeking to put the matter before the voters.

Approximately 220,000 signatures have already been collected. About 1,000 more are needed. Detroit's income tax puts a one per cent levy on residents who live and work in Detroit and non-residents who work in the city.

Conflicting Views

Price of Sugar: Up or Down?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housewives who have been keeping an uneasy eye on soaring sugar costs which are fattening family grocery bills across the nation have been given conflicting price predictions.

One—the climb won't be reversed for a year or two. The other—a drop can be expected fairly soon.

The predictions came over the weekend while sugar price investigations were being arranged by three congressional groups—the Senate Finance Committee, the Senate Small Business Committee and a House Banking subcommittee.

The hearings had been scheduled after sugar prices climbed to more than 12 cents a pound last week.

The dimmer view on the price situation came from the president of the New York Sugar Exchange, Earl P. McHardy. He predicted there will be no major reversal of the price climb for perhaps a year or two.

ONE VIEW

Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy held to his view that a major price drop can be expected fairly soon.

"I think we may expect a return to the range of six or seven cents a pound (in the world market) in the fairly near future," he said, "but the price of sugar on the world market of two cents a pound I don't think is very likely in the near future."

McHardy said prices have skyrocketed because a few months ago a world price of about 2½ cents a pound was so low that producers could not make a profit. Opposing this view, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana called the price rise "exorbitant and unexpected and independent businesses."

He added: "They simply cannot withstand the kind of extraordinary and incomprehensible increases in sugar prices such as we have seen in the last several days."

Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., said, "I think the high price is unwarranted, for the simple reason that we have sufficient sugar available in order to take care of all our needs, and I fear that much of the sugar that's available now is being hoarded."

The four gave their views in a recorded television interview. Chairman John Sparkman, D-Ala., of the Senate Small Business Committee said in a statement, that soft drink bottlers, bakers, confectioners and other heavy users of sugar "are predominantly small and independent businesses."

Sen. Willis Robertson, D-Va., said he was advised that the government is calling on foreign countries to speed deliveries of quota sugar to the United States.

Germany Won't Alter Friendship With France

BAD GODESBERG, Germany (AP)—Deputy Chancellor Ludwig Erhard said Sunday West Germany's policy of friendship with France will not change after Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's retirement.

Erhard, 66, is expected to succeed Adenauer in the fall. He told the seventh annual meeting of the French-German Conference that as chancellor he would seek to firm up French-German relations.

Bandit Uses Jungle Knife

KALAMAZOO (UPI) — Police here are looking for a hold-up artist with a unique angle — instead of carrying gun, he waves a machete to get his point across. Early yesterday morning the man robbed the Clark's Service Station here of $480 in cash and checks.

Station attendant George Caldwell said the man wore stockings over his face and hands. He waved a machete and demanded the money. Caldwell didn't argue.

Stuart, 69, was a youngster compared with some of the visitors here, such as "Uncle Tom" Campbell, 107, who arrived in an ambulance for the festivities.

Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery
Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months. In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or straining of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Pontiac's City Commission Confronted by Tax Problem

Pontiac's City Commissioners face a definite responsibility in their current tax position, and they propose to face it squarely.

This is no time for shadow-boxing and self-delusions. Few cities in the Nation are as sound financially. Very few have as small a debt per capita. Many well-known communities have double and even triple the total per-inhabitant. But we're in an untenable position because of an inherent weakness in the charter. We set a budget that begins Jan. 1, but the money isn't collected until after July 1. Hence the Finance Director and Treasurer are sorely beset for immediate cash.

By maintaining a rate close to the $14.98 originally budgeted last January, enough money can be accumulated over a period of years to build a reserve to cover this awkward situation.

Pontiac's taxes have been on the low side, and this city has stoutly maintained a "pay-as-you-go" policy. Obviously this was impossible when big capital investments arose, or when increasing costs of operations accumulated. But frugal management has been the watchword in local fiscal policies for many decades. Voters here can look with satisfaction on the financial management of our civic affairs dating clear back to the '20s. Many cities went sleight length with bonded debt. We didn't.

Over an extended period of years there was a sufficient accumulation of "cash on hand" to tide the City over this annual dry spell. But demands have slowly absorbed the kitty, until today we face an impasse. Tax bills will be increased slightly. The raise won't hurt anyone and will only amount to approximately $4.50 a year on a home assessed at $4,000. This is less than nine cents a week.

Pontiac has little choice. The only alternative would be to borrow the money anew each succeeding year. We can't afford to jeopardize our national standing by having a few "payless pay-days" each spring while we await the collections after July.

That's unthinkable. The Press feels the commission is stepping up to the matter squarely. It owes this to the taxpayers who insist on the same fine, clean name that we've always enjoyed.

Should Petition....

Happily, the name of the dimwit who spelled "Mohawk" with a senseless "e" is lost to posterity.

Let's make no attempt to uncover his ignominy, his shame and utter stupidity. The sooner this crass ignorance is forgotten the better. Webster's Third International Dictionary, which is more modern than Cooper's 22 orbits, doesn't even recognize it as archaic, something abandoned or a frontier colloquialism.

"Mohawke" is for the birds. The Press hopes residents of that attractive road will petition for normalcy so their address in the eyes of the world won't be a giggle, an audible snicker, or even a raucous guffaw.

Who'll volunteer?

Disgusting....

Few governors have ever made such a prime and overwhelming spectacle of themselves as George C. Wallace of Alabama.

From this distance, it's a laugh. In fact, he's disgusting.

First of all, Wallace proposes to defy a Federal court order which approves the admission of Negroes to the state university. Our celluloid hero declares that he, sub, personally, will guard the sacred portals of Alabama's two big universities and stop the colored boys physically. If the Lions' Roger Brown or even a faint facsimile thereof were to turn up, the incident might produce the horse laugh of the year. Roger could tick the Alabama Governor under one arm and carry the squirming form right into the registration room without much difficulty and sign up with his free hand.

Then the Governor threatens the President of the United States with a suit because the Chief Executive moved Federal troops into Fort McClellan. Has this naive Alabama hothead forgotten the Army, the Navy and the Air Force troops will be where Mr. KENNEDY says?

The President has taken oath to uphold the law. He would, anyway. Hence that quaint Alabama character had better do a little private soul searching and come up with a set of answers that make sense and recognize the Constitution.

And in Conclusion....

Farther And Farther — Nearer And Nearer

David Lawrence Says:

Bobby Asks Military Dictatorship

WASHINGTON — A remarkable brief has just been filed in the Supreme Court of the United States by direction of Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy.

If the argument in it is sustained by the high court, the way is opened to a military dictatorship in the United States at any time and for any reason that suits the whim of a president.

The provisions of the Constitution which limit a president's power would be swept aside and, LAWRENCE for all practical purposes, the Constitution, hereafter would be what the president says it is.

The brief is in answer to a petition of Gov. Wallace of Alabama asking the Supreme Court to issue an order against the use of Federal troops in Alabama unless requested by the governor or the legislature, as required by the Constitution.

The Department of Justice replies that the provision of the Constitution which explicitly says that Federal troops may be used within a state only with the permission of the governor or the State Legislature is "irrelevant" and that somehow the Fourteenth Amendment conferred broad new powers on the president to enforce any law on any subject or to use troops whenever, on the basis of his own judgment of the circumstances, he wishes to use them.

The brief, moreover, makes this sweeping claim: "There is no room for judicial review of a presidential determination that the conditions stated in section 333 have arisen and require him to take 'such measures as he considers necessary.'"

Section 333 is part of a law originally passed in 1878. It specifically relates only to a failure or refusal by state authorities to permit the "execution of the laws of the United States."

President Kennedy has himself publicly stated that, in the recent disturbances in Birmingham, Ala., no federal law was being violated — nor any court order, either.

WHAT DIFFERENCE The law itself doesn't say a president may threaten to use Federal troops or even use them until the circumstances stated in the law have actually arisen.

But what difference would it make what the law says if the Department of Justice is right in claiming that there can be ease ADLAI STEVENSON out of the U.N., and now the method may have presented itself. If Supreme Court Justice DOUGLAS marries again, he says he will retire, leaving the way to juggle ADLAI into the vacancy.

no judicial review of a president's acts."

A military dictator could use the same reasoning as is contained in the brief of Atty. Gen. Kennedy.

If disturbances were threatened at election booths or if a president wanted to postpone a national election, he could order the troops to suspend balloting on the ground that there had been disorders and that he felt the time was inopportune for balloting.

There is no limit to the powers of coercion that could be

Former Eisenhower Aides Soon to Back Goldwater

WASHINGTON — Capital yak yak: Goldwater-for-president forces now deploying around Washington assure one and all that two former Eisenhower cabinet officers will soon come out strongly for the Arizona-Republican's nomination — former Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and former Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield.

They seem to CONSIDINE concede that if former President Eisenhower speaks up for anyone it will be for Gov. Romney. He tells close friends that he was tremendously impressed by Romney in their most recent meeting.

The "across-the-board" pay rise for the military limps slowly through the Senate, further tormented by link-pickers. Our military people haven't had a general pay raise in five years. The strongest branch of public service carries the weakest voice when it comes to getting a pay hike.

Charwomen at the Pentagon have more to say about their pay than the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The bucket belongs to them, the brass doesn't.

Low wages for the military waste the taxpayers' money. Personnel leave the service for better-paying jobs in private life. As salaries must be spent annually on the task of training their replacements.

NEW SUB KILLER Future submarines of the Thresher class will be equipped with one of the most sophisticated weapons ever added to the defense inventory.

Developed by Goodyear, whose flacks moon pitilessly that the Navy won't let them brag about it, the weapon is a versatile enemy sub killer.

It is launched from any depth from the unique port or starboard midship torpedo tubes of a Thresher class sub, and then proceeds away from the sub in approved torpedo style, climbing at a 45 degree angle toward the surface.

While still submerged, however, its rocket engine ignites (Polaris is shot clear of the water by complied by a president, whether a "liberal" or not, by ordering out troops.

If the Supreme Court accepts the reasoning of the Department of Justice, then, even when no Federal law or court order has been violated, a president can mobilize Federal troops and deploy them as he pleases.

He could intimidate local authorities and cause certain citizens to make concessions in favor of one group of voters rather than another.

When I speak to you of moonlight... The silver stars above... You can always be quite certain... I am offering my love... And whenever I am talking... Of the graceful clouds on high... You can promptly tell your heart, dear... For a place in it I sigh... If you hear me softly whisper... I can hear the night wind's song... Make a mental note, my darling... For your warm embrace I long... Should my words be slowly turning blue... To the lovely midnight... You will know that I am yearning... For a little kiss from you... But if I should be referring... To the dawning of the day... You will know my love has faded... And fatigue is holding sway.

Rites Set; Death Eyed by Police

Why Did Pastor Pay Visit? Riddle Probed

NORTHWOOD, Iowa (UP) — Funeral service was scheduled today for a Lutheran pastor while authorities tried to learn why he paid a "middle-of-the-night" visit to a neighboring town shortly before he was slain.

Freeborn County, Minn., authorities attempted to piece together what is known of the hours immediately preceding the death of the Rev. Berner Nyjordet, 43, whose mutilated body was found in a game refuge near Albert Lea Friday.

The body was only partly clothed and had 14 stab wounds and two bullet wounds. The minister's blood-stained car was found in Albert Lea Thursday morning.

The tall, good-natured minister was last seen here when he left the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Perkins, northwest of here, after midnight Wednesday. He had gone there after attending high school commencement exercises with the couple and had left for his home shortly after, complaining of a cold.

Sheriff Everett Slovren said "Our biggest problem is to find out why he came to Albert Lea in the middle of the night."

It was known that the minister visited a downtown bar shortly before 1 a. m. and a cafe a short time later. He was then seen alone at a highway service station at the edge of town.

The attendant told officials the minister drove northeast on U. S. 16 when he left the station. Officials believe he was killed a short distance off the highway about five miles east of Albert Lea.

The Iowa border was in almost the opposite direction.

Fog Causes Smashups; Seven Dead

NEWARK, N. J. (UP) — Seven persons were killed early today in a series of smashups involving 14 vehicles on a fog-bound section of the New Jersey Turnpike, state police said.

Identification of the dead was not immediately available, nor was there any report on the number injured, police at turnpike headquarters said.

Several vehicles were badly mangled and drivers had to be pried from the wrecks, authorities said.

"Most of the dead are truck drivers, scattered from all over the country," police said.

Twelve trucks and two cars were involved in the smashups. Turnpike headquarters described fog conditions at the time as "so thick you couldn't see your own hand."

The accidents occurred on a stretch of the superhighway between Newark Airport and the City of Elizabeth.

Reopen Way to Red-Circled German Area

BERLIN (AP) — The way was open again today for fire engines to reach the tiny West Berlin enclave of Steintucken.

The community of 183 people belongs to the American sector, but is surrounded by Communist territory. The only access is along a narrow road 3/4 of a mile long, strictly controlled by East German guards.

Last week, the Reds added rows of steel rails stuck upright in the ground to the barriers sealing off the road and community from East Germany.

The West Berlin city government expressed alarm because the obstacles did not allow big vehicles such as fire engines, ambulances and food delivery trucks to get through.

West German police reported today that Red border guards uprooted the rails with a mobile crane and replanted them farther apart.

Mrs. Duke Leads Project

Blair House Taking On Restoration Glow

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — Fortunately for the American taxpayer most of our top officials are married well.

It would be impossible to compute the free time Jacques Kennedy and some of her predecessors have spent in renovating the Blair House, the presidential residence.

The latest to prove her worth beyond price is Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke, who until her recent marriage to the U.S. chief of protocol was the glamorous Robin Chandler.

A career girl, Robin had made her mark as fashion editor of the New York Journal-American, a stunning panelist on TV's "Leave It to the Girls," a broadcaster for NBC and a stockbroker.

Blessed with taste and brains as well as beauty, Mrs. Duke is now deep in the heart of Blair House, the historic estate directly across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House, which serves as the President's guest house for foreign heads of state.

As chairman of its fine arts committee, Robin is directing a renovating and refurbishing project which should rank the fine old mansion on par with its more publicized neighbor across the street.

The history of Blair House is a proud one.

Built in 1824 by the surgeon-general of the Army, it was sold shortly thereafter to the Blair family, which handed it down from father to son for more than a century, until Uncle Sam bought it for VIP visitors in 1942.

TWO HISTORIC OCCASIONS

Two U.S. Presidents have made history there.

It was in the front study to the right of the handsome reception hall that Abraham Lincoln offered the command of the Union Army to Robert E. Lee.

The Virginia gentleman sorrowfully turned him down, and led the succession forces instead.

Some eight decades later President Harry S. Truman, son of a confederate-rebel mother, occupied Blair House with his family while the dangerously tottering White House was being rebuilt.

While the peppy President was taking a siesta in the upstairs front bedroom, Puerto Rican fanatics staged an abortive assassination attempt, and killed a Secret Service guard instead.

Through the years, as fine old pieces of furniture wore out, they were replaced by mediocre reproductions.

Robin and her committee are intent on restoring the house to its original elegance as a gentleman's house of the 1820s, with the comforts of the 1960s.

The mansion is scheduled for an interior face lifting, with crisp white walls except in the charming upstairs study, which is to be papered and hung with the exquisite red damask that First Lady Jackie removed from the White House Red Room.

A modern kitchen will replace the dingy basement quarters from which food has been hand-dropped in dumb waiters for 140 years.

Air conditioning is also to be installed this summer.

Robin and her enthusiastic committee are soliciting donations of "things," rather than money.

Since the first meeting last month, they have performed so effectively that the crying need for fine blankets, linens, breakfast trays and radio-television sets for the 13 bedrooms has almost been filled.

Manufacturers have been easy targets for the pretty women, who use the soft sell: "Wouldn't you be proud to have your product used in the President's guest house for foreign rulers?"

The fact that the donors receive a tax reduction and an impressive framed certificate naturally helps, and the response has been gratifying.

Private citizens are beginning to donate fine furniture, which to be acceptable must be authenticated antique English and American pieces.

HEIRESS RESPONDS

Among the first to respond was Mrs. Herbert May, the Post-Tonies heiress, who gave a handsome four-poster bed.

Robin spends several hours a day on the Blair House project, despite the fact that she and Angie have a 5-month-old baby boy, and five children by previous marriages.

In addition, the stunning blonde must appear immaculately groomed at a constant round of official parties with her husband, chaperone the wives of visiting VIPs, and answer a steady stream of correspondence from foreign ambassadors' wives who want her to find them a cook, or get their children admitted to private schools.

Timing Key to Success

Inventor Bucks Formidable Odds

By HARRY FERGUSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Every day 250 American inventors apply to the federal government for a patent and automatically become mental millionaires. They have royal dreams of quick wealth, but as the days, months and years roll by they are driven to the conclusion that roulette and craps shooting may be better bets.

The odds against an inventor getting rich are formidable. There is almost a 50-50 chance that somebody thought up the gadget before he did and already has obtained a patent.

In any case his application goes to the bottom of a list of 100,000 others which are awaiting a decision in the U.S. Patent Office, and on an average it will be between three and three and a half years before he will know how he stands. But his troubles are only beginning. Once he gets the patent, he has to persuade somebody to manufacture and sell his gadget and here, again, his chances are only a little better than 50-50. Too many people invent things that nobody happens to want at the moment.

The classic example is Johannes Gutenberg, a German who invented movable type in the middle of the 15th Century. He made crude block letters and printed a 28-page book in Latin advising people how to make speeches.

Then he ran out of money and got a loan from Johann Fust, a banker. Gutenberg then printed some Bibles, but they didn't sell.

MISCALCULATED

The miscalculation in Gutenberg's plan was that very few people knew how to read and there wasn't any market for printed pages. The banker foreclosed on him, seized all of his equipment and Gutenberg wound up working for the archbishop of Mainz at a salary of one new suit of clothes a year.

Bartolomeo Cristoforo ran into the same problem when he invented the piano in 1709. The Italians didn't like the piano, preferring the dulcimer and the harpsichord, and Cristoforo's pianos rotted in the warehouses.

Long after the inventor's death a German, Gottfried Silbermann, took about 10 years to make a piano that was good enough to begin to build them. He got rich fast. The Germans happened to like pianos.

American industry is highly competitive and the natural assumption would be that corporations would slug it out with each other in an attempt to get an invention that would improve their product. But sometimes they appear to be completely blind when a new idea—patented and proved—is put before them.

In 1928 F. W. Davis invented power steering for automobiles. It made a car infinitely easier to handle and obviously was a strong selling point to women drivers. But just the other day Davis, in Boston, told in the Wall Street Journal an amazing story about his invention.

WENT TO DETROIT
As soon as he had perfected the device he took it to Detroit and demonstrated it to 10 automobile companies. None was interested.

In 1928 he stirred some interest in Cadillac Motors, he said, and a tentative licensing agreement was drawn up. But Cadillac decided the cost of tooling the invention was too high and the agreement was allowed to expire.

Davis said he then went to the Bendix Corp., which agreed to experiment but only on pilot models for buses and trucks.

Sometime in 1930 Davis said he got the Buick Motor Co. interested in power steering.

"It looked like we were ready to go," he said, "but then came Pearl Harbor and the end of civilian automobile production. 'After the war I went back to Cadillac and they told me they didn't need anything new because they were selling all the cars they could make.'"

It was not until 1951 when a buyers' market returned that the automobile makers became interested in power steering.

When Chrysler introduced a power steering model, everybody wanted one and I began to make some money."

Before adoption of the U.S. Constitution the American colonies and states issued patents and the first one went to Samuel Winslow of Massachusetts, who in 1641 devised a new method for manufacturing salt.

President George Washington signed the first federal patent law on April 10, 1790, and since then the U.S. Patent Office has granted 3,899,944 applications.

Most of them have been forgotten, and that is the reason few inventors get rich. But when a man comes up with the right thing at the right time, the money rolls in like the tides of the ocean.

Take Cyrus H. McCormick, for instance. His father owned four farms in Virginia, two saw mills and a blacksmith shop, and was constantly tinkering with the idea of a machine for harvesting his grain.

SOLVES PROBLEM
Young McCormick went to work on the problem and in 1831, at the age of 22, submitted his plans to the family blacksmith.

What he had done was to solve the problem of how to keep stones and stumps from breaking the sharp edge of the knives which cut the grain. He did it by protecting them with a string of metal fingers which brushed aside the rocks.

Before 1831 a man with a scythe could cut about half an

Ex-German Official Sees Israel Secretly

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Former Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss left by air today for Israel. His movements were shrouded in secrecy because of demonstrations in Israel denouncing the visit.

Strauss' Christian Social Union party confirmed only that Strauss and his wife had left.

About 500 demonstrators carrying placards denouncing Strauss waited more than 10 hours in vain at Israel's central airport yesterday.

Opposition leaders have accused Strauss of bringing ex-Nazi back into the German army.

Anti-German sentiment runs high in Israel because of the mass slaughter of Jews by the Nazis during World War II.

Dysentery Breaks Out at Top Hotel in Japan

TOKYO (AP)—An outbreak of dysentery among employees was reported today at the swank Imperial Hotel, where visiting President Sukarno of Indonesia is staying.

Assistant manager Ichiro Inumaru said the hotel's food and beverage departments will be closed until further notice. He reported 33 cases of dysentery among the hotel's 1730 employees.

NEW YORK—The stock market has bounced back—and then some—from the crash of 1962. In the year since the "Black Monday" of May 28 a sorely sick market has recovered robust health.

Actually, say experts on Wall Street, today's market is much more solid than the one that soared to an all-time peak in late 1961. The market has been nudging that level recently.

After hitting its historic 1961 high in a frenzy of speculative stock buying, the market slipped 10 percent in the months after, then

The market continued drifting downward, reaching a low of $35.76 on the Dow Jones Industrial average June 26. It had been at 611.89 on May 25, 1962, and 734.91 on Dec. 13, 1961. This May 17 it stood at 724.81.

MANY CRISES

The market faced many stresses and strains. International crises upset it. There was apprehension about the Securities and Exchange Commission's investigations of the securities industry. The possibility of a recession caused anxiety.

But in October the market got a lift when the Soviets agreed to remove missiles and bombers from Cuba in compliance with U.S. demands.

From that point the market mounted an advance that was one of the sharpest and longest in history.

It fed on increasingly good reports about business.

"We didn't get the widely predicted business recession despite the loss of $100 billion in stock values," said Eldon Grimm, investment analyst for Walston & Co. "Corporate profits reached record. Total dividend payments

GLENWOOD PLAZA - PADDOCK and NORTH PERRY at GLENWOOD

Money's Appropriated—but for What?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Suppose you were a stockholder in a giant corporation and wandered into the home office one day to find a group of men in one room deciding what kind of a product the firm should put out.

And suppose you strolled on down the hall and found another group of men in another room deciding how much money the firm should spend on its operations.

All without knowing what the first group might have in mind.

Ridiculous? Of course. But a good many congressmen believe there's a parallel in the way Congress votes money to run the Defense Department, the Agriculture Department, the Treasury and the dozens of other departments and agencies which comprise the federal establishment.

Listen, for example, to Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

He is convinced that Congress "fumbles around," mixing its legislative and fiscal affairs until the result is a nightmare of conflicting actions.

As a result, he said in an interview with UPI, Congress often finds itself passing carefully balanced money bills for certain programs on one hand while it is legislating wholesale changes in the same programs on the other hand.

TWO SESSIONS
Magnuson's proposed solution is to have two sessions of Congress each year — one devoted to legislative matters and the other to fiscal affairs.

His bill also would put the government's fiscal activities on a straight calendar-year basis. It now operates on a fiscal year ending June 30.

"As far as I know," Magnuson said, "Congress is the only parliamentary body in the free world which doesn't divide its work in such a way so the left hand knows what the right hand is doing at all times."

He suggested that Congress legislate for six months, from January to June 30, take a recess and then return for a two-month session to consider only appropriation and tax matters during November and December.

The legislative session is the architect. It makes the plans for the House," he said.

"The people would have a chance to evaluate what we did before we spent the money. This is the theory of parliamentary government."

Magnuson said his timetable would enable the president to send his budget measure to Congress in September, giving him time to evaluate the lawmakers' legislative accomplishments, before they return to spend and tax.

PRESIDENTIAL CHOICE
This, the senator said, would

Edison Rates as the King

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thomas A. Edison was the champion inventor of all time.

During his career he held 1,093 patents. The Wright brothers, inventors of the airplane, had only five patents. Samuel F. B. Morse needed only one basic patent to protect his invention of the telegraph. The first woman to obtain a patent was Mary Kies of Killingly, Conn., who invented a process for weaving straw in 1809.

The U.S. navy's first airplane flight from a ship was in January 1911 from the battleship USS Pennsylvania stationed in San Francisco harbor.

enable the chief executive to drop programs he considers unwise or propose pumping more money into those he deems beneficial to the nation.

"It would be conducive to caution, not rash actions," Magnuson declared. "I think we could save billions of dollars."

A member of the Appropriations Committee, which meets in the gilded old committee room on the first floor of the Capitol, Magnuson said he "sits in the pit appropriating for something which the White House sent up eight months previously."

Upstairs, the Senate is legislating.

A split session with a summer recess already has a warm following among members with school-age children.

"If we had a meeting of the (legislative) wives' club, my bill would pass tomorrow," said Magnuson, a bachelor.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Montana, has strongly endorsed the Magnuson joint resolution but it faces formidable opposition from the anti-reformers and those who enjoy the comfort of the status quo.

This is the fifth year Magnuson has introduced the measure. One disadvantage: lame duck

Thank You All That's Necessary

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: My husband meets many people through his job. Just recently one of the executives of a large company invited my husband and me to visit his factory.

We welcomed us very warmly and took us on a tour of the plant and later insisted on taking us to lunch at his club.

When we left he presented me with a gift manufactured by his company. How can we best show our appreciation for his kindness?

My husband feels that this man can well afford to do these things and that it gives him pleasure to do it, and he thinks no return is expected.

Can we accept his graciousness without any obligation on our part except to say thank you?

A: Your appreciative thanks is all that is necessary and I'm quite sure all he expects, or wishes, in return.

Q: When I ask friends to spend an informal evening with us, I usually serve simple refreshments, such as cheese and crackers, potato chips or pretzels or something of that nature, with a drink.

I put these snacks on the coffee table for guests to help themselves. My husband thinks I should get up and pass these things around every so often as guests are reluctant to help themselves.

Is this necessary?

A: You should pass them around once and then ask your guests to please help themselves.

Q: I am a Girl Scout working to earn my hospitality badge. One of the things I must know is how to set a table correctly.

I have been told that the teaspoon should be placed on the saucer when serving coffee at the dinner table. Is this correct? A: Yes.

Details concerning the announcement of an engagement are described in the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Announcing the Engagement."

Fish Course: (Very fishy.) "I haven't had any real satisfaction in years."

Entree: Baloney and "I'd have left my wife years ago—if it weren't for the children."

Salad: Grass (other-side-of-the-fence-variety) and "YOU understand me perfectly. If I were a free man I'd marry you tomorrow."

Dessert: Sweet talk and "It's so noisy in this place. Let's get out of here and go to my place where we can talk."

DEAR ABBY: Can a person who has no "rhythm" ever learn to dance? I am a 44-year-old bachelor.

I've always been on the beautiful side and was told that a course in ballroom dancing (including the fox trot, waltz, rumba and cha cha) would help me socially.

Well, since 1956 I have spent $4,500 on dancing lessons and still haven't met anybody.

Furthermore, I can't dance any better now than I did before I took the lessons.

I am not complaining, because nobody forced me to sign up, but I want to know this: Can a person who does not have a natural sense of rhythm be taught to dance?

NO RHYTHM

DEAR NO RHYTHM: No, no—a thousand times no! This is not to say that those who have no sense of rhythm cannot enjoy dancing as much as those who have. (Only the partner suffers!)

But attempting to "teach" a person who has no "rhythm" to dance is like trying to teach a person who can't carry a tune to sing.

DEAR ABBY: I was engaged briefly while I was in the service, but the girl returned the ring. I am going to get engaged again.

Would it be okay to use the same ring? Some people tell me that a girl doesn't want a ring some other girl has worn, but the one I'm marrying says she doesn't care.

Do you think it's okay?

LAWRENCE

DEAR LAWRENCE: Even if your girls says she doesn't care, be a sport and have the stone set in a brand new mounting. Why have any of the "old" memories cropping up?

DEAR ABBY: Even more important than whether Jesus Christ drank wine or grape juice is the fact that there are so many self-proclaimed Christians in the world whose minds never rise above their neighbors' garbage cans.

RALPH

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this specifically for junior and senior high school students:

I am a senior at an accredited high school. I am considered an average student and, like many average students, I could have done much better.

Today, in the mail, I received a "turn down" from a nearby college in response to my application for admission. It was quite a shock.

I just want to say to all students who want to go to college: STUDY NOW! Don't wait until your last semester of high school before you buckle down.

Wedding Pictures Take Candid Trend

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Posed wedding pictures are on the way out and candid coming in along with color, says the executive manager of the Professional Photographers of America, Inc. (P.P.A.).

"The trend is to the candid photographic record of the bride's big day," said Frederick Quellmalz.

"About the only formal shot today's bride wants is one of the wedding party or herself and husband. This is the one that usually is framed and goes on the mantelpiece or piano in the new home."

"ALMOST PASSE"

"Black and white is becoming passe," said Quellmalz. "Color increases cost, but it's worth it for the value the couple gets out of it. Color photography records the radiance of the bride."

The organization which Quellmalz directs was founded in Chicago in 1890. Its present headquarters is in Milwaukee, and Quellmalz said membership now totals 8,000 men and women—doing mostly bridal, child, school groups and portraiture.

The photographer does the best job if there is elbow room for working, he said. Keep space needs in mind in planning where the reception will be held.

Don't worry if an alert photographer catches some slip-up in the proceedings—the best man dropping the wedding band as he attempts to hand it to the bridegroom. (Some churches permit photographers inside during the ceremony, so he doesn't. Check with your minister, said Quellmalz.)

The candid shots make for happy memories later and it's a rare wedding that goes completely smoothly, he reminded.

He recalled one photographer's experience in covering a wedding. The mother of the bride fainted in the reception line and the photographer helped revive her.

"Later," said Quellmalz, "she raised Cain because she'd been left out of some of the pictures."

The P.P.A. manager, in an interview during a business trip to New York, listed some suggestions to assure a good wedding album.

Don't pose, except for one formal shot in the studio or at the reception. Even tossing the bride bouquet should be done just as if the bride didn't know the photographer was on hand.

The bride should try to get a good eight hours sleep the night before, he said. "But I know it's often impossible. However, a good rest does make her photograph better."

"DON'T RUSH"

"Don't be in a rush during the wedding festivities. If the bride provides some extra time in the wedding day schedule for the photographer, the results are better. "A hurried bride is less photogenic," said Quellmalz.

As a bride, keep your makeup natural. It should be no heavier than your usual street makeup. If you use eye shadow, match it to your eyes. Go easy on the rouge. In black and white photography, rouge shades gray.

Parents Shouldn't Fear Child's Reactions

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My 4-year-old boy insists on coming into the bathroom when I am taking a bath. When he was a toddler I let him in because I couldn't leave him alone. But now his curiosity is clear to me and I don't know how to handle it. I don't think I should encourage it, but on the other hand I don't want to make such a mystery out of my nudity that it will have harmful after-effects. Answer: Your little boy's presence in the bathroom makes you feel uncomfortable, doesn't it? All right then. Don't let him in. Say, "I want to be alone while I'm taking my bath."

As to the "harmful after-effects" of this declaration of your feeling, let's take a chance on them. If you're going to have to brood over the possible evil consequences of every wish you entertain during your life as a parent, the "after-effects" on you will be to scare you out of entertaining any wishes at all.

You are obviously up on your child psychology book reading. So you know all about the danger of "repressing" children's feelings.

You know that a child who's been made afraid of his feelings and wishes by stupid parents loses trust of himself and develops "hostility."

NOT HUMAN FEARS
Parents are not human freaks. We, too, lose trust of our feelings and wishes if we permit stupid parent-educators to make us afraid of them.

We, too, develop "hostility." Like the "repressed" child, we become uncertain and timid.

Do you realize that you have used time, notepaper and a five-cent stamp to write and ask me permission to take a bath by yourself?

That distrust of yourself is what comes of reading too many child psychology books. That's what comes of such anxious concern with "harmful" effects of our feelings on children that all our feelings are suspect until someone else says: "It won't wreck your 4-year-old's psychosexual development if you refuse to let your body be used as an object of curiosity."

Well, it makes good business for the mental hygiene profession. The grownups' psychoanalysts repair the damage done by the child psychologists — and I suppose it all works out in the end.

TWO KINDS OF GOITER

Q. What causes goiter? Is it in any way related to diet?
A. Simple (colloid) goiter is an enlargement of the thyroid gland due to insufficient intake of iodine. That's why we use iodized salt . . . no overeating and deficiency of iodine. Toxic goiter (thyrotoxicosis) is a condition which results from excessive secretion of the thyroid gland. This is a medical and/or surgical problem which must be dealt with by a physician. It should be remembered that the term "goiter" does not in itself mean danger, but rather enlargement of a tissue change involving the thyroid gland.

ASIAN FLU VACCINE
Q. Is it possible to contract Asian flu, as the result of which the vaccinated? For how long is a person protected by Asian flu vaccine?
A. The vaccine will not induce the disease although some immunized persons develop an achy feeling and nasal symptoms which last a day or two after the injection. Two injections of the vaccine provide protection for about one season. Continued protection can be obtained by taking a "booster" injection each year. We package prescriptions in safe, efficient containers that protect the medicine against possible harmful effects of light, air or moisture.

Polly's Pointers

Way to New Plumage

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Last year I bought an expensive white feather hat and wore it once before storing it for the summer.

When I got it out in the fall, I was astonished to see big yellow marks every place the feathers had been attached to the hat. I took it back to the milliner to see what had happened.

She told me I should have been advised by the saleslady to store the hat in the freezer during the hot, humid summer to prevent this spotting. I would suggest sealing the hat in an airtight plastic bag and putting in a box first.

Do you or any of the readers have any suggestions for making this hat wearable? Is there a dye suitable for feathers? — MRS. N. C.

GIRLS — My feather hats always survived the summer without freezing them. Sounds to me as if the glue used on the hat was causing the trouble.

Old Quality, New Variety in Blankets

Today's homemaker seeks much the same qualities in a blanket that her predecessor sought: maximum warmth with minimum weight, easy care, long wear and, of course, beauty.

The difference is that it's easier today to find all these qualities in one blanket. There is a variety of fibers, colors, and even patterns in blankets to make choosing a lot more fun. But it requires more knowledge about the hows and whys of blanket-buying, too.

One of the reasons for the hand-somer, more efficient blankets available today is the increasing use of man-made fibers.

Creslan acrylic fiber, for example, used by many leading manufacturers, produces a blanket that is featherlight, yet warm. It can be machine-washed and dried and will stay new-looking for years.

Shrinking, piling, and matting are no longer problems. And since the fiber is non-allergic, these blankets insure comfortable sleep even for allergy-sufferers.

The new look in blanket colors now covers a wide range of bright colors and even includes plaids and reversible blankets.

Since automatic blankets offer more warmth with less bulk, they are the choice of more and more homemakers. For double-bedders, there's the added advantage of individual heat control.

Wall-Rutherford Rites Held in Pontiac Church

A Belgian lace mantilla cascaded over Charlotte Jan Rutherford's gown of white bridal satin as she became Mrs. Gerald Arthur Wall Saturday in All Saints Episcopal Church.

During the candlelight service performed by Rev. C. George Widdfield, she held a white orchid and Stephanotis on a prayer book.

Parents of the couple are the Charles R. Rutherford of Emerson and the Charles A. Walls of Third.

Scarlet Ann Rutherford, her sister's maid of honor, bridesmaid Mrs. Charles Moore and the bridegroom's sister Patricia Louise Wall and Nancy Ellen Rutherford, junior maid, appeared in bouffant pink sheer.

They held lavender chrysanthemums on white lace fans with purple pansies added to the honor attendant's bouquet.

Beth Lynn Rutherford and Daniel Mallett were flower girl and ring bearer.

Gerald L. Colling was best man. Guests were seated by Bruce Bell, Robert Carroll, the bridegroom's brother Stephen and their cousin Charles Perry.

After a honeymoon at Charlevoix, the couple will reside in Pontiac.

Help Son Learn the Value of His Earnings

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley: Our son will have his first summer job, full time, when school is out. He's all pepped up, of course, about making "some real money" — which will be around $45 a week.

MARY FEELEY

I'm wondering whether his father and I should suggest how he handle his money, or just leave him to learn this first experience in "money management" to him.

He will go back to high school in the fall, so he really isn't on his own financially! His college funds are already set aside.

Do you think, since he's no longer a child, that he should consider his salary his own business?

Mrs. W. C. Washington, Pa. Dear Mrs. C.: It's not just children who need a guiding hand in money matters! However, I see your point in trying to let him develop responsibility at an early age. And I like your use of the word "suggest" — at his age, you'd be hurting his pride if you laid down the law.

But a few well-chosen phrases, perhaps from his father, will help him plan his spending and saving more wisely. His father can point out that most business men consider it essential to put from 5 to 15 per cent of their income in a savings account.

And that since he has no dependents, he could afford to bank the full 15 per cent. You might also suggest that he figure his expenses on the job in advance — expenses for transportation, lunches, clothes, etc. — so he will know how much money he'll have left over each week.

Emphasize that a regular schedule, or plan, for handling his money will make sure he gets the most out of it.

I think he might assume token responsibility toward the household. If, for instance, he has been in the habit of cutting the lawn or doing other necessary jobs around the place, he could well afford to pay something, if not all, for hiring somebody else to do the work.

If your son had grown up in an atmosphere of thrift and common sense about finances, he may be able to handle his own very well.

Be prepared to see, in his attitude, a reflection of how you and your husband have managed over the years!

Dear Mrs. L.: If your income and expenses can allow $70 a week for food, well and good. But some people can't.

The figures $35.50 to $40.50 are based on Department of Agriculture findings, with meals planned for the most nutrition per dollar.

When you have a limited amount to spend for food, you learn to try — and even like — the cheaper cuts of meat, meat substitutes, and the widest possible use of left-overs.

As for spending $5 extra in gas to shop economically — maybe I'd better point out that some people don't have to worry about that angle. They don't have a car to start with. They walk and tote.

Mary Feeley will welcome your questions. Write to her in care of The Pontiac Press.

Sour Cream Replaces Shortening in Cake

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Remember, we told you we had a whole collection of recipes from the Queen Mary Section of the Needlework Guild of America? We're giving you another one today.

Mrs. Alex Joss is always a busy worker at the Long-Gathering Tea in November. She shares her recipe for a Sour Cream Nut Cake with us.

OLD TIME SOUR CREAM NUT CAKE

By Mrs. Alex Joss
1½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder

¾ teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1 cup sugar
¾ cup dairy sour cream
¼ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts
½ cup fine bread crumbs

Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs until thick and lemon colored. Gradually beat in sugar.

Stir in sour cream, soda and vanilla. Beat thoroughly. Add nuts. Fold in bread crumbs.

Pour into greased 9-inch tube pan. Bake 35-40 minutes at 350 degrees. Frost as desired.

A population explosion in dogs and cats is resulting in the birth of 33 million of them a year, while the maximum prospect for homes is estimated at 8 million.

'Keep Watch to Protect Individual Rights'—Ike

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has cautioned the American people to keep a vigil for trends of government which appear to overlook the voice of free individuals.

More than 4,000 persons filled a huge circus tent on the Defiance College campus yesterday to hear the former president deliver the commencement address and see him awarded a citation.

If, through the cloying effect of government subsidy, we have lost any measure of self-reliance, independence of spirit and love of liberty, then restoration of all these is part of your task," Eisenhower told the 116 members of the graduating class.

"The need for reformation rises out of the new and complex problems that confront us daily, requiring new and even revolutionary solutions. . . . In reaching appropriate answers to these problems, the words of the true leaders must be so clearly spoken, so courageously supported, that all citizens will still continue to live as fully free individuals. Their voices and wishes must be accurately represented in the government and their equality of opportunity assured."

He said the framers of the U.S. Constitution could not know "that in less than two centuries the immensity of domestic and international affairs would tend to create in us a feeling of individual helplessness and even lead us into an unthinking abandonment of personal and local responsibility to a few men in government, giving to them a frightening power for good or evil—and almost certain to invite error or abuse."

Even so, the former president said, the Constitution provides a means for restoration and reformation by the people themselves.

"Through their state legislatures and without regard to the federal government, the people can demand and participate in constitutional conventions in which they can, through their own action, adopt such amendments as can and will reverse any trends they see as fatal to true representative government."

Eisenhower said he was not hinting at any amendment currently proposed, or under consideration, by the states.

Turns to Television

Playwright Says Nuts to NY

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie — Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD—Tired of trying to please New York theater audiences — "a bunch of old-fashioned sports" — playwright William Inge is turning his talents to television.

Inge has signed a contract with CBS to create a series for the 1964-65 season. He has already started work on it. He plans to write five or six hour-long scripts — "a kind of contemporary Shakespeare."

"Winesburg, Ohio" of the Midwest. From these CBS would pick one to shoot as a pilot film in late summer.

"I am much intrigued with writing for television," he remarked at his temporary quarters at a Sunset Strip hotel.

"During this past year I started watching television for the first time. I must say I was fascinated by much of it. Shows like 'The Defenders,' 'Kildare' and 'The 11th Hour' I found often excellent. I've enjoyed many of the variety shows, especially Dinah Shore's. Even when the dramatic shows were not well written, often found the acting was good. Television seems to be a good medium for actors."

Inge's interest in the new medium is in direct ratio to his disenchantment with the New York theater.

SMASH TO STUMBLE

After four smashes in a row — "Come Back, Little Sheba," "Picnic," "Bus Stop," "Dark at the Top of the Stairs," he stumbled with "A Loss of Roses." This season he went back again with the wryly titled "Natural Affection," a play of violence and sex. "I didn't really want to go back," he commented. "It was an ugly play, and I had never done one before. I didn't want to do it, but I felt I should."

The result: a hit in Washington; a month's run in New York. "I think it's wrong that American theater should be dictated from New York," he commented. "In Washington we had intelligent audiences. They liked the show; we were sold out. 'Yet we failed in New York. Part of that may have been due to the newspaper strike. But I think a great deal has to do with the kind of audience you get in New York. It's a bunch of old-fashioned sports who only like what they've seen before."

"Somehow we've got to find a new audience. The only solution I can see is to decentralize the theater, to get it away from New York. It might be done by the colleges and universities, along with what help the Ford and Rockefeller foundations might provide."

"Certainly we can't expect any assistance from the government, which really should be concerned. This country has never paid much attention to the problems of the arts."

Inge cited another reason for the decline of the theater: the critics.

"Every bright young writer who comes up starts out by sharpening his wit on the theater," he said despairingly. "I can't understand the viciousness with which critics attack plays. No wonder the theater is in such

Frightening Asthma Attacks End In Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots Or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed.

New York, N.Y. (Special) — A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast. Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma — the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This formula is so safe when used as directed, it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONITIN®. Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become: less, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs as less and less oxygen can enter. Now, BRONITIN, with two asthma relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs. The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep. Get BRONITIN — available at all drug stores without prescription.

Still Probing Pair of Blasts

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Police, puzzled by what prompted two blasts here, will continue to check clues today under the premise the explosions were the work of pranksters.

One blast was set off early Saturday on the Louisiana State University campus. There was no damage and no one was injured.

The other blast, about 30 minutes later, exploded at the base of a tree on the capitol building grounds shattering some 40 windows of the capitol and damaging a few windows in nearby apartments.

A state official said yesterday that investigators told him that the blasts were pranksters' work. The official would not be identified.

Woman Lives Longer Because of Her Lack of Efficiency

By PHYLIS BATTLE
NEW YORK — The American housewife walks, literally, hundreds of miles in her lifetime looking for her scissors.

Or for her spectacles.

Or for those other elusive necessities, her checkbook, her laundry list, her youngest and most independent offspring.

However ridiculous the reason, she gets more exercise than he does.

PHYLIS BATTLE

Dr. Frank Gallup, the pollman, reveals that the American husband tries very hard to make life easier for his wife, but that she is too illogical to take advantage of his kindnesses.

He buys her marvelous labor-saving gadgets for her kitchen and her laundry. He puts heavy appliances on low shelves so she won't have to lift them.

He installs handy books for those always-missing sewing scissors so she cannot possibly lose them. In all ways, he encourages her to lead a life of ease and efficiency.

But she doesn't get with it. Within hours after her husband has provided her with a convenient organizational system, the average housewife reverts back to her old way of doing (and overdoing) things.

The heavy items are back up, "out of the way," as she puts it, where she'll have to strain to reach them again. Her scissors are left somewhere, in the vicinity of where she restored a lost button, but she can't recall exactly which room.

Feeling guilty about her so-called labor-saving gadgets, she thinks she must use them constantly to "make them pay" for themselves.

Hence, a woman's work—her unnecessary stoop-squat-squint-and-hoist-is never done. She is constantly on the go, exercising, while her efficient husband is sitting himself into senility.

Oh, he shakes his head, of course. But as an exercise in physical fitness, this motion has negligible results.

A woman lives longer, Gallup and everyone must conclude, "not despite her stupidity, but because of it."

SWIMMIN' HOLE
Millions of American children have never swum in an ol' swimmin' hole.

Still more millions have never milked a cow, gathered eggs, fed the pigs or broken a leg jumping off a haywain.

Having done most of these things at one time in my grimy-faced youth, I know what they're missing. A city kid don't forget his visit to a farm.

It nestles in his memory somewhere—ranked considerably below his first kiss, and somewhat above his first bee sting.

On the theory that all city-living families are weary of concrete sidewalks, movies, museums and the easy life, and would therefore like to expose their youngsters to a brush with the grass roots of America, an outfit named "Farm Vacations and Holidays, Inc." annually persuades thousands to partake of some old-fashioned country hospitality.

For an average of $45 per week per adult, and $25 for each child, a family can live with a farmer or rancher in any of 31 states or three Canadian provinces, meals and tax included.

In return for this relatively small remuneration (you can hardly take a cheaper vacation, unless you want to safari for friendly animals, go plowing, and mosquitoes in your own backyard); the kids are given the "opportunity" to draw their own milk in an utterly different manner, gather their own berries for shortcake, feed any number of friendly animals, go plowing, and so on.

One city tyke, advised of the wonders in store, remarked, "Isn't it more easy to go to the zoo?"

Colombia's Techo City Is Tribute to Alliance

By JAMES DEWEY
BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Walk down the main street in Techo City and you'll come to a small drugstore. Outside in a hazy neon is the name "Drogueria Jacqueline."

It's a tribute from a humble Colombian family to the wife of President Kennedy and to the Alliance for Progress which has given them a home and a future. When Techo City is finished this summer it will be complete with schools, hospitals, churches, clothes dealer, wrote Kennedy recently a letter the President quoted in a message to Congress. "We now live peacefully, free from misery," the letter said. "We are no longer homeless outcasts but live in dignity and freedom."

Techo City consists of 70 acres about five miles from Bogota. Construction is divided into three categories. The first and most important is called "aided self help." The applicant, determined by a point system designed to give priority to those who most need housing, builds his own home under supervision, makes no down payment and has 12 years to pay off his loan at low interest rates. Every house has a kitchen, bath, bedrooms, electric connections, sanitary figures and a yard.

A house in this bracket costs $685-1,130. An applicant for the lowest cost house would have an income of $28-36 monthly. His monthly payments would run $6-17, about what he used to pay for a single room without kitchen for his whole family in Bogota slum.

The second category includes multifamily apartments. The construction is done by private builders. Down payments are required but the interest rates are generous.

The third category was devised to encourage the participation of private capital in the construction of middle-class housing. These projects are built on private property by private builders with long-term financing.

'TFX Probe Produces No Fraud Proof'

TFX: Senate investigations of the TFX warplane contract award have produced no evidence of fraud or abuse of discretion by Pentagon officials, says Sen. Jacob K. Javits. Javits, a New York Republican, is a member of the Senate Investigations subcommittee which has been holding hearings aimed at finding whether favoritism influenced award of the big contract for the TFX fighter-bomber to General Dynamics Corp. Military evaluation boards had reported that the Boeing Co. had submitted a design for a better, cheaper version of the TFX. Republicans: Sen. Thurston B. Morton says Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's remarriage may prove to be a political asset if the New Yorker bids for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination. Morton, Kentucky Republican who heads his party's Senate campaign committee, said Sunday in a television interview he believes Rockefeller "got over the hump on the divorce when he was re-elected by over a half million votes after that."

RECAPTURED — Tommy Haines, 14, offers a fish to Jeff, a trained seal who escaped from Marine Wonderland and apparently plunged over Horseshoe Falls before his recapture.

Three Men Are Hurt in Two Air Crashes

By The Associated Press
Aircraft crashes at Howell and Pellston yesterday injured the pilots of both planes as well as a passenger in one craft.

A newly purchased P51 Mustang of World War II vintage bounced when it touched down on the landing strip of Pellston airport last evening.

The converted fighter plane flipped on its back, injuring the pilot, Bruce Hayward, 22, of Garden City, and the passenger, Stephen Van Avery, 21, of Charlotte, N.C.

Van Avery, the owner, suffered a broken nose, possible concussion, jaw and a possible concussion, state police said.

Hayward's right arm was broken. Both men were taken to Little Traverse Hospital at Petoskey. Both were enlisted in the Air Force and were stationed at Kincheloe Air Force Base near Sault Ste. Marie, authorities said.

At Howell Airport, a Melvindale police lieutenant, George Towler, 49, cracked up his plane while attempting to take off for Detroit Metropolitan Airport shortly before midnight, Livingston County sheriff's deputies said.

LIGHTS OFF
The runway lights were not turned on, deputies said, and Towler's North American AT 60, an Army trainer craft, veered off the grass runway and hit a hanger and two other light planes.

Towler escaped from his plane, which was destroyed, with severe scalp lacerations. He was listed in good condition at McPherson Community Health Center at Howell.

The impact also destroyed the two planes in the hanger, deputies said. There was no immediate estimate of damages.

Towler had flown to Howell to attend an air show yesterday, officers at the Melvindale Police Department said.

The P51 Mustang piloted by Hayward had been purchased by Van Avery during the weekend at Battle Creek, state police said.

'FCC Eying More Controls'

New Chairman Cites Lack of TV Variety

NEW YORK (AP) — E. William Henry, who will become chairman of the Federal Communications Commission next Saturday, says there is "a great lack of variety" in television shows and that the FCC is considering regulating television programming.

Appearing yesterday on a television interview program, Henry said one solution to the alleged lack of program variety would be to limit the amount of "prime time" given network-owned shows.

Evening viewing hours usually are considered prime time because audiences are larger during that period. As a result, sponsors pay more money for programs shown in those hours.

Henry said another solution would be to give more time to network affiliates. He said the local stations then would have more leeway to cater to the viewing needs of those whose interests lie outside the general programming pattern.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS
"We want to encourage television stations to present more community programs and more public affairs programs," Henry said. "But we have not reached a firm conclusion on how this would come about."

He said the FCC is studying controls that would regulate the programming of television networks and their affiliates, and will continue to give serious consideration to what he called the network domination of programming.

"The sponsors, not the FCC, are often guilty of this domination," he said, because many times "the sponsors have stipulated the types of programs which must be shown."

Henry disavowed any intention of the FCC to try to control the sale of television stations. "But the commission will take a closer look at how the rules for such transactions are being observed," he said.

Graham Finishes Tour

Seen Doubtful

Syrian, Iraq Ba'athists
Having Misgivings

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Syria and Iraq's apparent second thoughts on Arab federation today placed their proposed union with Egypt in serious doubt.

Both nations' ruling Ba'ath Socialist parties have given clear indications in recent weeks they are having misgivings about implementing the union plan reached in Cairo April 17.

An abortive attempt during the weekend to overthrow the Baghdad regime has heightened the difficulties.

Anti-Ba'ath sources here said they believed "only a miracle" can now save the ambitious union plans which were to go into effect by September.

DELAYING
Observers believe the Ba'ath leadership is delaying movements toward union because of fears that they would fall under the domination of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, who would be the president of the "United Arab Republic" (N.A.R.).

In recent tests between Ba'ath and Nasser supporters in Iraq and Syria, the Ba'athists have won new strength. Reports from Baghdad have said the weekend trouble was engineered by groups supporting Nasser. Earlier this month, serious rioting between Nasserites and Ba'ath supporters broke out in Syria.

But Nasser still enjoys strong support in his two potential partners, according to observers here, and the struggle is by no means considered over.

Goldwater Tops
GOP Poll List

48 Pct. of Delegates in '60 Back Senator

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., is the presidential choice of 48 per cent of the 1960 Republican convention delegates who responded to a poll conducted by the Phoenix Gazette.

Ballots were mailed in mid-April to 1,331 delegates, and 707 replies were received.

The poll by the Phoenix afternoon daily asked the delegates to list the candidate they would support in the next election. The results showed:

Goldwater 339 votes for 48 per cent.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, 244 for 34.5 per cent.

Michigan Gov. George Romney, 24, 3.4 per cent.

SCRANTON 1.3 PCT.

Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, 9, 1.3 per cent.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, 7, 1 per cent.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., 5, 0.7 per cent.

Oregon Gov. Mark Hatfield, 4, 0.6 per cent.

Those receiving one vote each were former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Henry Ford II, Robert Hutchins and former Sen. William Knowland of California.

Forty-four delegates indicated no preference and 27 marked the "don't know" box.

The ballots were distributed a few weeks before Rockefeller's remarriage. About 100 of the ballots were returned, however, well after the event.

Governor Bringing First Lady

Lull to End at N.Y. Mansion

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—New York State's executive mansion soon will have a first lady in residence for the first time in more than two years.

The new Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller, 36, will take up the duties of hostess in the century-old mansion, which has seen little official social life in the last 26 months.

The 54-year-old governor and his wife, married May 4, have announced plans to live in the 28-room mansion and on the Rockefeller estate in Westchester County.

This is pending renovations for what is expected to be their principal residence, a huge apartment overlooking Central Park in New York City.

GRIM EVENT

The last time a first lady of the state was at the mansion was a grim event.

The Republican governor and his first wife fled from the red brick, turreted house into the early-morning cold on March 3, 1961, as fire swept through the building.

The first Mrs. Rockefeller climbed down a ladder to safety in her night clothes, never to return.

A little later, she entered a hospital in New York City for what was described as a minor operation.

Her absence from the governor's side at official functions and trips was thereafter explained by his aides as a question of health.

Later that year, it was announced that the Rockefellers had separated and would be divorced.

ORDERS RESTORATION
Meanwhile, Rockefeller directed that the executive mansion be restored.

He rejected proposals for construction of an official governor's residence in more suitable surroundings than the rundown neighborhood where the stately mansion now stands.

"It is a comfortable building to live in," he said, "wonderfully adaptable for entertaining and receiving large groups. . . . The Albany residents who live in the vicinity of the mansion have been most friendly to us."

He also noted that the mansion had "a great tradition. . . ."

The former residents included Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt, all of whom moved from the mansion to the White House, an achievement Rockefeller has wanted to duplicate.

Restoration of the mansion eventually cost nearly $600,000.

Lost Drivers Get Backing

CHICAGO (U) — Drivers who have become lost on superhighways, although signs indicated directions, have some support from experts.

"Sign standardization in the United States would probably save about 2,000 lives a year," says Harry Porter, traffic manager of the National Safety Council. Iowa recently completed a survey of all traffic signs on state roads and found they were a mess. More than half of its 182,000 signs will be replaced as a result of the study.

Band of Boys Steals to Further Education

LEGHORN, Italy (U) — It was a vicious circle, policewoman Gianelli said when she reported breaking up a band of small boy thieves. The boys, she said, learned how to make petty thefts by going to crime movies. Then they stole to get money to go see more movies.

Nearly 200 Reportedly Killed

Duvalier Terrorism Continuing in Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — President Francois Duvalier's security forces have killed nearly 200 persons — mostly political prisoners — during the past month, according to anti-government Haitians.

Duvalier's opponents claim they can list the names of 196 victims of government repression since anti-government terrorists killed three of the president's bodyguards in an apparent attempt to kidnap his two children April 26.

No such list has been compiled and it would be virtually impossible to verify in Haiti. The bombs appear to have been only of nuisance value.

against Duvalier, who remains firmly in power despite opposition threats to kill him.

Raymond Thurston, U.S. ambassador to Haiti, arrived in Washington last night "for consultations" after Haitian authorities first denied permission for his plane to leave Port-au-Prince. He was not expected to return to Haiti.

BLOCK RUNWAY

He flew to Washington via the Dominican capital of Santo Domingo and San Juan, P.R.

Haitian officials blocked the runway and delayed the take-off of a U.S. Air Force DC-8 for an hour before permitting Thurston to leave yesterday. No explanation was given.

The United States and some Latin American countries maintain Duvalier's legal status as president ended May 15.

He claims a 1961 congressional election constituted a popular mandate for him to start a new six-year term at that time because his name appeared on all ballots.

Duvalier declared May "National Gratitude Month" in honor of his continuation in power and held a celebration May 22 on the second anniversary of his "Reinauguration" in 1961.

Internal resistance has not stopped. General Hospital is known to be so full of militiamen wounded during nighttime clashes with underground fighters that patients are lying on mattresses on the floors.

At sundown each day, blue-shirted militiamen take up posts in every gasoline station to prevent arson.

The nocturnal explosions are of two different types and tend to corroborate reports from informed Haitians that at least two opposition groups are at work.

Renegade leader Clement Barbot, formerly a Duvalier favorite and founder of the Ton Ton Macoute, is credited with directing the explosions of American-made fragmentation grenades, like the one which killed five militiamen at Paraguary School May 20.

Another opposition group is apparently setting off paper-cased percussion charges like those used by the military for simulated artillery fire.

MOVE FOR TIES — The 30 shaded countries on the map are those that formed the Organization of African Unity at a summit conference in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. The new charter must be ratified by two-thirds of the states to become effective.

End to Colonial White Rule Pledged by United Africans

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — To "liberate," by force of arms if necessary, the millions of other Africans living under white rule in colonies throughout the continent.

The main targets are Portuguese Angola, Mozambique, and Guinea. All are easily accessible from neighboring independent countries, colonies themselves not too many years ago but now OAU members pledged to come to the aid of "national liberation movements."

Beyond these Portuguese colonies are Southern Rhodesia and South Africa.

As the heads of state left for home, details of organizing the OAU were turned over to officials here. Touré said the Ethiopian government and a committee of other member states would spend the week setting up a temporary secretariat.

The first meeting of the new council of ministers will be held late next month in Dakar, Senegal. The OAU charter also must be ratified by two-thirds of its members' parliaments.

Its aims are three: —To push the economic and social progress of the continent's 200 million Africans.

—To push the economic and social progress of the continent's 200 million Africans.

I Have Learned A Lot About Pontiac Press Classified Ads

In our house, my mother and father make it a point to read the Pontiac Press Classified Ads every day. Their conversation is also interesting to listen to, when they exchange ideas on the uses of the many articles listed and how these different items would be useful in our own house.

It is also a lot of fun when we get into the car and drive to the place that has the item for sale, we meet some very nice people and have made some new friends.

My mother and father have also used the Pontiac Press Classified Ads to sell many items, such as a car, baby crib and dad's golf clubs.

Education Cost Profits Taxpayer

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.

Now there's proof of what wise people have known all along. Education is a good investment. Everyone has read repeatedly that a boy or girl with a high school diploma will earn thousands of dollars more in a lifetime than the one who drops out. And the college graduate has an even greater financial advantage.

DR. NASON

With national, state and local taxes paying a large part of the cost of education, it is obvious that the individual gets a real bargain.

But what is the gain to the taxpayer who has helped foot the bill?

Well, Theodore W. Schulz, considered by many the nation's outstanding researcher on the economic values of education, points out the taxpayer, too, gets a high return on his investment in education.

His return comes in the form of increased gross national product. In other words, the country as a whole gets a greater income and has a higher standard of living when the population has a high level of education.

Prof. Schulz uses some foreign countries as examples. Brazil, for instance, has great national resources but low levels of literacy, with a resulting slow growth in national production.

But such countries as Denmark, Switzerland and Japan, which are low in natural resources but high in education, have made rapid gains in their gross national product and standards of living.

ECONOMIC GROWTH

In the United States, according to Francis Keppel, U.S. commissioner of education, at least 40 per cent of our economic growth must be credited not to capital investment but to our investment in education.

This means, he says, that the rate of return on investment in education is higher than the rate of return on money invested as capital.

But this does not mean that spending money at random on education will automatically insure high returns. The money must be spent to improve the educational opportunities of individuals.

One example of a constructive use of such money is the "Higher Horizons" program in New York City schools. This is a plan to upgrade the cultural backgrounds of children who have not had the opportunities to enlarge their knowledge of the humanities and fine arts.

Special programs are provided in 12 different cultural areas, under Jacob Landers, coordinator.

Another fine example of what New York is doing is "Operation Return." Two special schools are available for young people who, after dropping out of high school, want to return to full day school attendance.

A variety of vocational courses is available to them, in addition to the usual academic curriculum.

In New York there are many students who are at a disadvantage because they can't speak English, such as immigrants from Puerto Rico. Several hundred teachers and supervisors have gotten first-hand knowledge of the background these children have come from through Human Relations Workshops in Puerto Rico. (Copyright 1968)

Here is a letter from Massachusetts that is typical of many that I receive. It says, "You write about squeeze plays all the time. How can I recognize one and then work one? I play lots of bridge, but am definitely not an expert."

JACOBY

The answer to the first question is that any time you have all the tricks, but one, you have a potential squeeze situation. As to working one, the simplest method is to give the cards a chance.

South ruffs the third diamond and leads three rounds of trump. He has all the tricks but one, and no problem if hearts break for him. Suppose hearts don't break?

Well maybe there is a squeeze and the way for South to find out is to lead his last trump and

Pontiac Central Places 4th in State Track Meet

Nine Records Broken in Class A; Cranes 'Lose League Meet'

Pontiac Central finished fourth Saturday in what just about everyone described as "the best" state Class A high school track meet ever held in Michigan.

"And you won't see anything like for a long time," commented PCH coach Dean Wilson.

Flint Northern and Flint Central made a two-team show of Class A with the Vikings, winning 37½ to 32. Kalamazoo Central was a distant third with 19 and then came Pontiac Central with 17.

Jack Harvey of Birmingham Seaholm was the lone Oakland County winner. He took honors in the shot put with a heave of 57 feet 1½ inches.

The pole vault battle between PCH's John Stewart, Waikiki's Steve Pichler and Hazel Park's Vern Hill never really materialized. Hill and Pichler both went out at 12-8.

Stewart cleared 13-2, but had to settle for sixth place behind William Barrett of Berkley because of more misses. Bill Lee of Flint Central won the vault of 15-6 to break the record held by Seaholm's Bill Alcorn.

NINE RECORDS
Nine records were shattered in the meet.

Bill Long of Flint Central ran the 12-1/2 hurdles in 14.2 seconds to eclipse the standard of 14-4 held by PCH's Hayes Jones and Farmington's Rex Cawley.

Charley Humphrey of PCH ran a good 14.5 but could only finish fourth. He was seventh in the low hurdles.

Gerald Henry of PCH tied for second in the high jump, but was placed third because of more misses. At Washington of Flint Northern broke the record by clearing 6-5.

Kettering's Orville Mullins was third in the 100 yard in record time of 1:10.9.

Ted Hindman of PCH was fourth in the 220, won by Bill Rayner of Niles in a record 21.4.

River Rouge won the Class B championship, Boys Vocational took Class C honors and Michigan School for the Deaf won in Class D.

Western Reserve opened Cranbrook 79½ to 59 in to win the Interstate track championship.

Winning for the Cranes were Jess Brewer in both hurdles, John Coburn, mile; Steve Way, high jump; and the 800 relay team.

Orchard Lake St. Mary slammed seven events yesterday to Detroit St. Andrew 85-24. Bernie Stec paced the winners with 12 points and Dave Felker scored 10.

Waterford is running against Kettering at 3:30 p.m. today at Wisner Field.

CAGER KILLED — Jon Speaks, three-year varsity basketball player at North Carolina State College, was killed early Sunday in an automobile accident near Leggett, N.C. Two other State College athletes were injured.

Cranbrook Wins Title on Diamond

Cranbrook and Flint Central continued the diamond whammy Saturday while the whammy was out on Orchard Lake St. Mary. Cranbrook clinched the Interstate Prep School League crown with a 2-0 shutout over Cleveland University School; Flint Central double-O'd Pontiac Central, 3-0 and 5-0; and OLSM was its own victim at Royal Oak St. Mary, 5-3.

For the Cranes, it was the fourth straight loss victory. John Billeston buried a five-hitter, giving the winners a record of eight hits and one unearned run permitted in the four contests.

Dale Bosley drove in both Cranbrook runs. Guy Bramble singled twice and scored the first run in the second inning which was all Billeston needed.

The twin bill sweep was Central's second and third wins over the Chiefs this season, all by shutouts. The losers had three hits in each game Saturday, after being no-hit earlier this year.

Paul Oliver yielded three unearned runs to lose the opener, and Chuck Owen was touched for all five second-game runs in the second inning.

Errors were the downfall Sunday of OLSM. Tied for the Northwest Catholic League lead with ROCM, the Eagles led 3-1 going into the bottom of the sixth.

Five errors followed the first out, plus a walk to score four runs and mean the ball game. The losers' Eddie Ignaczak had a home run and a double for three runs batted in. The two teams will play again today at Orchard Lake.

Bailey's Belt Helps McBean

Homers Bucco's Relief Key

By the Associated Press

Alvin O'Neal McBean is a man whose short but successful baseball career has had some very strange twists.

He hooked on with the Pittsburgh Pirates through a year of fate. He dropped from starter status to bullpen duty this season and has built up one of the best records in the National League in 1967.

And he's finding that the home run can be a pitcher's best friend. McBean was a winner again Sunday as the Pirates beat Milwaukee 5-2 on bonus rookie Bob Bailey's three-run homer in the 11th inning.

The victory was the slender-right-hander's third in as many relief decisions—and in all three home runs have been decisive factors.

BIG ERRORS
Also in the NL—the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped front-running San Francisco 4-3 in 10 innings, crashing in three runs on three throwing errors by Jose Pagan; the Philadelphia Phillies swept their first doubleheader in Cincinnati since 1950, 10-4 and 3-0; the New York Mets snapped a seven-game losing string, edging St. Louis 3-2 in 11 innings after losing the opener to the Cards 7-4 on Charlie James' three-run homer.

McBean, now in his second full season with Pittsburgh and his sixth in pro baseball, went to cover a Pirate tryout in his native Virgin Islands as a photographer for a local newspaper and wound up with a contract. He became a member of the varsity last year, with a 15-10 record as a starter, and with four straight victories in 1967.

McBean went in against Milwaukee in the eighth inning with the Braves leading 2-1. Bill Mazeroski's homer in the ninth tied it up. Then in the 11th, Bailey connected against Hank Fischer, Milwaukee's sixth pitcher, after a single by Roberto Clemente and a walk.

The Dodgers salvaged the last game of their three-game set at San Francisco and moved to within two games of the first-place Giants. Pagan's third error throw put Jim Gilliam on second in the 10th and Tommy Davis' single scored the winning run.

ROOKIE HELPS

keyed the Phils' sweep over the Reds. Sievers cracked a pinch hit grand slam homer in the eighth inning that put the opener out of reach. Culp fired a three-hit shutout in the second game, striking out 12 and allowing only one runner as far as second base.

Two errors gave the Mets an 11th-inning run and their victory over St. Louis. Duke Carmel, defensive replacement for Stan Musial in left field, dropped Charlie Neal's fly for a two-base error, and Neal raced in when pitcher Bob Gibson threw wildly on Chico Fernandez' sacrifice bunt. The Mets also got an unearned run in the seventh for a 2-1 edge, but Carl Sawatski sent it into overtime with a ninth inning homer.

In the opener, Ken Boyer drove in the tying run in the eighth with his fifth straight hit—a single—and James followed with his clinching three-run pinch homer.

Lakeland vs. Spencer

Battle for Softball Lead

Recreation softball action to night will be highlighted by the Lakeland Pharmacy-Spencer Floor Coverings Class B contest in Waterford Township.

A Class C game at 8:30 p.m. will follow on the Drayton Plains diamond. It will pair A&W Root Beer and Lakeland Pharmacy.

In Pontiac, four games are slated. Circle Inn will play Local 653 at 7 p.m. and First Church of Brethren will meet G&M Construction at 8:30 p.m. on the Beaudette Park diamond. A similar twin-bill at Northside Park will pit Buettner's Cleaners against Poppen's Market in the opener, and Jet Bar opposite Berry Door in the afterpiece.

Both doubleheaders will have no bearing on the standings in either the National or International circuits.

Lakeland is undefeated in the Class B Township loop while Spencer has won four straight since an opening forfeit loss to the pharmacists.

The city Class A American League will resume action Tuesday with three games. Harvey's Colonial House will seek its third straight when it meets Howe's

Walker Cup Victory Jumps Odds on U.S.

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP)—The United States' leading amateur golfers, with the Walker Cup safely in hand again, turned their sights today on the British Amateur title—and the bookies say they'll win that one, too.

The bookies, legal in England and willing to accept a bet on anything, quickly installed the United States players as the ones to beat in the Amateur at historic St. Andrews June 3-9 after their comeback triumph in the Walker Cup Saturday.

The U.S. has won the old Cup 18 of 19 times since it was inaugurated in 1922, but they had to overcome a 6-3 deficit to retain possession.

SWEEP

They swept the four foursomes Saturday to take the lead and nailed it down by winning five of the eight remaining singles. The final U.S. victory margin was 12-3 with four matches halved in the two days of competition.

"They got right down to the job with a tremendous determination," former British amateur king Eddie Hamilton wrote in the Scottish Sunday Express.

Much of the difference came on the 15th and 16th holes of the par 72, 7,025-yard Turnberry course. The 16th was particularly troublesome to the British. On the key four-somes, the British all landed in a creek running across the 415-yard, par-4 hole, and that's where they lost the cup.

"They are great golf players," said British team captain Charles Lawrie.

U.S. team captain Richard Tufts of Pinehurst, N.C., said much of it could be traced to a matter of experience.

"By the time an American boy is 18, if he is playing in competition at all, he is playing in a lot of it," he said. "He comes to us a seasoned performer."

The U.S. team scattered after the matches, but eight of the 10 are due to compete in the British Amateur, including defending champion Richard Davies, Pasadena, Calif.

The others are U.S. Amateur champion Labron Harris, Bob Gardner, Downing Gray, Billy Joe Patton, Dick Sikes, Charlie Smith and Ed Updegraff.

HAPPY CREW—The jubilant crew of Troy Ruttman runs beside the Dearborn driver after he qualified for the 500-Mile Memorial Day Race yesterday at Indianapolis. Ruttman, who won the race in 1962, qualified with an average speed of 148.374 miles an hour.

5 Newcomers Make Line-Up

Fast Field to Start 500 Run

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The field for Thursday's 500-mile auto race is so fast for the 500-mile auto race that it is last place in the 33-car field.

Two weekends of wind-swept qualifying produced a line-up of 28 veterans and five newcomers who averaged 149.028 miles per hour in the 10-mile runs, against a record 147.339 last year and 145.302 in '61.

Parnelli Jones' May 18 record of 151.153 never was seriously challenged.

7-CAR CHALLENGE

The trials that ended Sunday brought out a seven-car challenge to the old reliable Offenhausers which have won all of the Memorial Day Classics since Mauri Rose took the checkered flag in a Blue Crown Offy in 1947.

It was an Offy that powered Jones to his record, however.

Al Miller, a 39-year-old Indianapolis Motor Speedway rookie from Roseville, Mich., was the fastest of three drivers who made the line-up in the final session. He put a rear-engine Thompson-Harvey Titanium Special into the field at 149.603 and had one lap at 150.401.

Mickey Thompson, of Long Beach, Calif., American land speed record holder, entered five of his tiny Chevrolet-powered cars and got two of them into the field. One was qualified by 50-year-old Duane Carter of Indianapolis early in the trials.

Masten Gregory, American living in Paris, also qualified one of Thompson's beetle-shaped cars but he was bumped from the field when the final listing of the best speeds left him 36th—three spots out of the line-up.

Only two members of a five-man invasion of Grand Prix drivers will be in the race. Jimmy Clark of Scotland and Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., were never in danger of being bumped after qualifying their new Lotus-Forders May 18 at 149.750 and 149.019, respectively.

Gregory tried to qualify another Thompson car after he was bumped but couldn't better the 147.832 speed of Dempsey Wilson, Hawthorne, Calif., the slowest qualifier who survived. Pedro Rodriguez, Mexico City, didn't get another chance after his Austin-Martin Cooper proved too slow.

Graham Hill of England, 1962 champion of the Grand Prix circuit, withdrew earlier for lack of practice and inability to reach competitive speed in a Thompson.

Challengers of the Offys besides the Thompsons and Lotus-Fords will be three supercharged Novis driven by Jim Hurtubise, North Tonawanda, N.Y., and rookies Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., and Art Malone, Tampa, Fla.

Clark also ranks as a rookie at the Speedway although he was No. 2 in world road racing standings last year. Miller and Johnny Rutherford, Fort Worth, Tex., round out the quintet which will try to win a first Indianapolis start. This hasn't been done since George Souders' 1927 victory.

Ruttman joined three other former winners, Roger Ward of Indianapolis, Jim Rathmann of Miami and A. J. Foyt of Houston, in the field.

The well-known drivers who failed to qualify included Len Sutton of Portland, Ore., who finished second to teammate Ward by only 11 seconds last year.

Northville, Kimball Favored in Baseball Tourney

Defending champion Northville and unbeaten Royal Oak Kimball top the eight-team lineup that will participate in the three-day Pontiac High School Invitational baseball tournament this week.

Cosponsored by the Parks and Recreation Department of The Press, the second annual tournament will have Pontiac Northern and Pontiac Central, plus two teams from the Wayne-Oakland and Tri-County leagues, and one each from the Oakland A and Eastern Michigan leagues.

Front-running Avondale will represent the O-A, Rochester and Kettering will carry the banner of the Tri-County, and Clarkson will join Northville from the Wayne-Oakland.

Kimball is the EML leader; PNH is runnerup in the Inter-Lakes League; and Central plays in the Saginaw Valley Conference.

Several other top teams in the county turned down invitations to play in the three-day affair. These included Romeo (leading the tri-county), Bloomfield Hills (W-O pace setter), and Berkley (I-L champion).

EXAMS

Cranbrook, also, was forced to decline due to final exams, and post-season playoffs stopped the Northwest Catholic League top contenders from participating.

TWO BRACKETS

The tournament has an upper and lower bracket. Two games from each are slated for Thursday. The 1:30 p.m. Memorial Day opener will have Pontiac Central playing Northville. At 3:30 p.m. Kimball will meet Rochester. Both are upper bracket contests. The lower bracket "twin bill" will start at 5:30 p.m. when Kettering meets Clarkson. Closing the opening day slate is the Pontiac Northern-Avondale clash at 7:30 p.m. under the lights.

All games will be played on the Jaycee No. 2 diamond, weather permitting. The four Thursday winners will be back in action Friday. The upper bracket winners will clash at 5:30 p.m. and the 7:30 p.m. nightcap contest will feature the lower division victors.

The championship game, preceded by a 5:30 p.m. consolation contest, will begin at 7:30 p.m. Saturday under the lights. The new date and time.

Tickets are available for the entire tournament (eight games for $2) at the Parks and Recreation or from Pontiac Class A recreation baseball managers. Individual admissions (three sessions) are 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for students.

This Week Opens Picnic Season

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

If you haven't had your first picnic (and we haven't), it's long overdue. Let's talk about what we'll have to eat, and the time and place will follow naturally.

This is the time of year we always issue a warning about dangerous food. Sounds funny, coming from a food editor.

But all we want to do is to remind you that warm weather presents certain problems in food care.

Keep hot food hot and cold foods chilled. Lukewarm food is the ideal breeding ground for dangerous germs. Forget cream fillings until fall.

Potato salad, sandwich fillings made with mayonnaise, ground beef mixtures and ham can be villains.

Get your salads and fillings all made except for the mayonnaise and add that at the picnic site.

If you are having chili or spaghetti—or baked ham—have it very hot before you carry it to the picnic. Or have it frozen and heat it when you want to eat.

The first two recipes, courtesy of the American Spice Trade Association, have black pepper in both of them.

Hearty Picnic Salad

3 cups cooked elbow macaroni, chilled
1 pound can red kidney beans, chilled
1 1/2 cups diced cooked ham, tongue, or luncheon meat
2 cups diced celery
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon powdered mustard
1 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
Paprika
Salad greens

Place macaroni, red kidney beans, meat and celery in a mixing bowl. Combine salt, spices, instant minced onion, mayonnaise, and lemon juice. Add to salad mixture. Toss lightly. Cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour before serving. Garnish with paprika. Serve on salad greens. Yield: 2 quarts.

Black Pepper Picnic Cake

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger

1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup hot milk
Pineapple-Coconut Topping

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Set aside to use later. Beat eggs until light and lemon colored. Gradually beat in sugar. Add shortening to hot milk. Stir until melted. Add flour mixture and hot milk alternately to eggs and sugar.

Turn into a well-greased, lightly floured 8x4x2-inch pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 40 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

spread with Pineapple-Coconut Topping. Place under broiler until brown and bubbly, watching closely to prevent burning.

Pineapple-Coconut Topping
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
12 cup drained crushed pineapple
1/4 cup angel flake coconut
1/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
Combine all ingredients and mix well. Spread over top of cake. Broil in a preheated broiler until brown and bubbly, about 3 to 5 minutes.

Pickle Ham 'N' Cheese Rolls are another picnic dish you can prepare before setting out for the nearest park.

6 thin slices Swiss cheese
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
3 dill pickles, cut in lengthwise quarters
6 frankfurter rolls, split
Mayonnaise

Place 1 slice cheese on each slice ham. Blend mustard and 2 tablespoons mayonnaise. Spread on cheese and top with pickles. Roll up jelly-roll fashion. Spread cut sides of frankfurter rolls lightly with mayonnaise. Serve with ham-pickle rolls.

Soak white raisins overnight in sherry and add to an apple pie for epicurean flavor.

Sliced Apples Are Added to Fried Onions

Fried Onions and Apples

2 cups onion rings
2 cups sliced unpeeled cooking apples
3 tablespoons bacon fat
1/2 teaspoon salt
Freshly-ground pepper to taste
Two medium-size onions will make the 2 cups called for; apple slices should be about 1/2-inch thick. Heat the bacon fat in a skillet and add the onions, apples, salt and pepper.
Cover and cook gently until tender—about 15 minutes. Turn

Serve over hamburgers. Makes 4 servings.

16 States Silently Struggle Against Federal Strength

EDITOR'S NOTE — Chief Justice Earl Warren has taken America's lawyers to task for remaining silent while 16 states approved at least one of three proposed state-rights amendments to the U.S. Constitution. In this first of three articles, Associated Press staff writer Stanley Meisler describes the struggle, silent drama behind these amendments aimed at curtailing federal government powers.

By STANLEY MEISLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Without trumpeting or the beating of drums, 16 states have slipped into a strange, silent parade to amend the U.S. Constitution and curtail the power of the federal government.

These states have approved at least one of three proposed constitutional amendments designed by men piqued at the U.S. Supreme Court and alarmed at the ballooning power of Washington in the 20th century.

"If the proposals of this magnitude had been made in the early days of the republic," Chief Justice Earl Warren said recently, "the voices of the lawyers of that time would have been heard from one end of our land to the other."

Warren has called for a great national debate, and, of late, a chorus of opposition has started to sound.

The most significant outcry has come from President Kennedy, who told a news conference recently:

"It's always seemed to me remarkable that those people . . . in order to defend the Constitution should seek always to change it, and particularly to change it in such a basic way. . . . I would think that the efforts will come to nothing, and I will be glad when they do not."

16 STATES
A survey of state legislatures shows that so far this year 16 completed action on resolutions proposing at least one of these amendments. The total will be 17 as soon as South Carolina puts

Military Leader Is Nominated for Korea President

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — To the surprise of no one, Gen. Chung Hee Park, chairman of the ruling military junta, was unanimously nominated by the junta-backed Democratic Republican party today to run for president of South Korea.

Park did not attend the party convention. He will decide whether to retire from active service before announcing acceptance of the nomination. Elections are planned for this fall.

Park, a four-star general, would have to change elections laws if he decides to keep his rank and run. Civilian politicians assert Park's candidacy is a smoke screen to extend military rule.

The Civil Rule party earlier named former President Yun Po-sun to run for the presidency.

some minor, finishing touches on its resolutions. And the total would be 18 if Gov. Frank Morrison of Nebraska, a Democrat, had not vetoed two resolutions passed by his state's legislature.

Here is what the amendments would do:

1. Make it possible for the states to propose and ratify constitutional amendments on their own — without approval of Congress or a national convention.

This has been proposed by the legislatures of 11 states. South Carolina will make it 12. Nebraska would have made it 13.

2. Wipe out federal jurisdiction over the apportionment of seats in the state legislatures.

This has been proposed by the legislatures of 12 states. South Carolina will make it 13. Nebraska would have made it 14.

3. Make it possible for certain decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court to be overruled by a "Court of the Union" comprising the chief justices of the 50 states.

This has been proposed by four states. South Carolina will make it five.

ANGERS MANY
The drive for these amendments came like a knee-jerk reflex to the Supreme Court's historic ruling of March 1962 that federal courts have the power to step into disputes about the reapportionment of state legislatures.

This angered many state officials, particularly, of course, legislators. So many representing sparsely settled rural districts, faced loss of their seats if the legislatures were redistributed on the basis of population.

For the first time, Southerners, who had been crying themselves hoarse about the Supreme Court because of its desegregation decision, found new Northern allies ready to shout just as loud.

This anger billowed into the General Assembly of States held in Chicago last December by the Council of State Governments.

"We believe that grave imbalance now exists," Assemblyman Lloyd W. Lowrey of California said. "Some federal judicial decisions . . . are bringing about a strong shift toward the extension of federal powers and restraint of state powers."

As a remedy, a committee headed by Lowrey and appointed by the National Legislative Council proposed the three amendments and the assembly, made up mostly of legislators, approved them.

Another committee, not officially connected with the Council of State Governments, though named by state legislators, took over the job of quietly pushing the amendments through the state legislatures.

This committee, headed by Speaker W. Stuart Helm of the Pennsylvania house, worked with so little fanfare that the proposals became known as the "silent amendments." The Texas legislature, for example, passed them with almost no discussion, with no one, in fact, explaining their purpose.

OPPOSITION GROWS
But, as states fell into line, opposition began to form and then to mushroom.

The first cry of alarm came from Prof. Charles L. Black Jr. of Yale University Law School. He called the amendments "one more attempt, so late in the day, at converting the United States into a confederation."

"The wisdom of peace and the sacrifices of war alike," he said, "warn against starting down that ruinous road."

After President Kennedy spoke out two weeks ago, Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., and Gov. George Romney of Michigan, a Republican, joined the protest.

The board of governors of the influential American Bar Association — too long silent in the view of Chief Justice Warren — took part and voted its disapproval of the "Court of the Union" amendment and the amendment to change the way of amending the Constitution. The board, however, held back its views on the reapportionment amendment.

Will this opposition stop the drive? The case of New Jersey may provide the answer.

Last Jan. 14, the New Jersey Senate unanimously and quietly passed two of the amendments. Then Gov. Richard J. Hughes, a Democrat, and U.S. Sen. Clifford Case, a Republican, lashed into the amendments. Two weeks ago, the Senate recalled one. Last week, it recalled the other.

A Senate-Assembly hearing on summer. The battle is not over in a silent one now. The amendments is expected this New Jersey, but it can hardly be Tomorrow: The states-rights amendments have a long, complicated road to travel. But one of the amendments would ease that road in the future.

Unsalted Margarine a Boon to Dieters

Salt is the seasoning that most people rely upon for food that is tasty and satisfying. When the amount of salt consumed has to be reduced, meals frequently become dull and monotonous.

Sweet and Sour Spareribs
2½ pounds lean spareribs
¼ cup (½ stick) unsalted margarine

½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup chopped onion
1¼ teaspoon minced garlic
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup pineapple juice
¼ cup cider vinegar
3 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon pepper

moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 hour. Pour off fat. Meanwhile, heat margarine in saucepan.

Saute green pepper, onion and garlic in margarine until tender. Remove from heat. Stir in cornstarch, pineapple juice and vinegar. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil.

ZUCCHINI SAUTE
2 pounds zucchini squash
¼ cup (½ stick) unsalted margarine

Best Vegetables Cooked Without Much Water

To preserve the flavor and color of vegetables, try cooking them the waterless way. Use only moisture that clings to vegetables after washing and add a tablespoonful of butter and fill pan at least two-thirds full.

Otherwise, all you need for waterless cooking is a thick aluminum pan with tight-fitting cover and low heat. Aluminum spreads heat thoroughly and evenly so that no troublesome hot spots can develop to cause sticking and burning.

Slow the Browning

Sometimes yeast breads that are the coffee-cake type, rich in sugar and shortening, brown too rapidly; in this case, just cover the top of the bread with a piece of brown wrapping paper.

Banana Filled Biscuits

Banana puffs are an easy-to-make breakfast surprise or snack food.

Cut unbaked refrigerator biscuits horizontally into 2 thin rounds. Place a slice of banana in the center of each half and bring edges up and around, pinching together with fingers to seal. Fry in preheated 375-degree deep fat until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper.

Some Women Consider Cooking a Creative Art

By JEANNE LESEM

United Press International
NEW YORK—I like to cook. In some eyes, this types me as a martyr, a time waster, a fuddy duddy, a freak.
Like other home cooks, I use some canned, frozen and packaged foods. But I also enjoy making and serving homemade bread, pickles, preserves, fancy

And I'm fed up with having my motives questioned thusly:

"Whom are you trying to impress with that bread you spent hours making?"
"Your peach preserves are delicious, but have you tried Brand X? It's just like homemade."

"Maybe you did save money by making your own branded chestnut sauce, but how long did it take you to peel the chestnuts?"

Let's face it—and I wish more people would—some of us enjoy cooking in the sense that artists enjoy painting and singing, singing. It's creative.
And cooking isn't always time-consuming. Appliances such as electric blenders and mixers provide shortcuts without changing basic recipes or flavors.

I can't distinguish blended mayonnaise or hollandaise sauces from those Mother used to make laboriously with a hand beater or wire whisk. Nor soup that simmered, unwatched, in an electric saucepan, from soup made on a wood-burning range.
But if I cite flavor advantage over prepared or packaged foods, a parlor psychiatrist is sure to suggest that this attitude reflects an infantile desire for oral satisfaction.

And if I mention economy, some people deliver a lecture on time-and-motion study. Certainly, there are occasions when my time is worth more than the cost of a commercially-made product.

But not in the case of yogurt or wine vinegar, because neither needs attention, once the ingredients are mixed, and both can be self-perpetuating, indefinitely.

Three cups of homemade yogurt cost no more than one cup of the commercial. I've never estimated the cost of homemade wine vinegar, and will concede that it is less uniform than the commercial variety—the flavor varies according to the wines used. But the process does use leftover table wine advantageously.

Of course, such projects take time, a commodity in extremely short supply to most women with a large house and small children. I'm not suggesting that they or any other busy homemakers return to the culinary dark ages. But please, girls, let me have my fun even if it is your idea of hard labor.

Table wine reminds drinkable only a few days to a week after opening, but can be converted into vinegar by mixing with wine re-vinegar culture and water.

HAPPY PAIR — E. G. Marshall, star of "The Defenders," and Glenda Farrell, who appeared in a "Ben Casey" segment, won best actor and best supporting actress awards at the TV Emmy presentations yesterday.

Repeat Winners

Emmy Awards Made

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There were enough repeat winners at the 15th annual television awards to make it look like a summer rerun.

Even the President of the United States got one. It was only fair. His wife picked up an Emmy last year.

CBS' courtroom drama, "The Defenders," was top winner with five awards. Its star, E. G. Marshall, earned an outstanding actor in a dramatic series. The show also picked up Emmys for dramatic writing, directing and film editing.

It was the second time around for Shirley Booth's bossy maid, "Hazel," the best series actress, and Don Knott's bumbling deputy Barney Fife in "The Andy Griffith Show," best actor in a supporting role.

"The Tunnel," NBC's controversial documentary showing East Berliners digging their way to freedom beneath the Berlin wall, was named program of the year. It also took honors as best documentary and for its narrator, NBC Berlin correspondent Peter Anderson, for international reporting.

TEARS, TOO
Actress Jane Allison dissolved in tears when the Television Academy presented a posthumous Emmy to her late husband, actor producer Dick Powell for his contributions to the industry. Powell died last year of cancer. The award was accepted by his former partners in Four-Star Productions, actor David Niven and Charles Boyer.

The trustees also presented an award to President Kennedy for his willingness to expose his thoughts and feelings to his fellow countrymen in his regular news conferences. Mrs. Kennedy won an Emmy last year for her "Tour of the White House."

Another special award was presented to American Telephone and Telegraph Co. which launched the Telestar communications satellite last year.

There were bitter words from Reuben Frank, producer of "The Tunnel," who remarked that the State Department tried to keep NBC from putting the show on the air, "but now the U.S. Information Agency is showing it all over the world."

Newfound comedienne Carol Burnett got a wedding present in a golden Emmy for the outstanding performance in a variety show "Julie and Carol at Carnegie Hall." She also won the award last year. The program, in which Miss Burnett costarred with singer Julie Andrews, was named the year's outstanding musical program.

FUNNIEST SHOW
"The Dick Van Dyke Show" noosed out the favored "Beverly Hillsbillies" as the year's funniest series. Its writer, Carl Reiner, and director, John Rich, also won Emmys. It was the fifth Emmy for Reiner, onetime second banana on the Sid Caesar show.

"I told my kids not to tune in this year," quipped Reiner. "I didn't think I could win again." He now has two for writing, two for acting and one for directing.

Two of the winners haven't been renewed—David Brinkley's "Journal," which won, as it did last year, the prize as outstanding public affairs program, and "The Andy Williams Show," named best variety program.

A Ben Casey segment, "A Cardinal Act of Mercy," picked up awards for its star, Kim Stanley, for the best single performance by an actress; and for veteran Glenda Farrell, as best supporting actress. Miss Stanley played a woman lawyer addicted to narcotics, and Miss Farrell, a nurse.

British actor Trevor Howard's portrayal as "The Invisible Mr. Dorsani" won laurels for the outstanding single performance by an actor. The show, produced by Hallmark-Hall of Fame, also won a prize for its camera work.

NBC swept the news and special events divisions. For the fifth year in a row, the team of Chet Huntley and David Brinkley was cited the best news show.

Other winners: Walt Disney's wonderful world of color, best children's show.

Police Kept Busy

It's Tale of 2 Cities

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco and Oakland police have tangled a web of Weavers who wandered.

Richard Weaver, his wife, Julia, and their daughter, Michelle, 4, were straggling along San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf on Saturday.

First, Michelle disappeared into a crowd. Weaver went looking for her. Coast Guard, State Harbor Patrol and San Francisco police forces were summoned by Mrs. Weaver, when neither husband nor daughter showed up. She didn't know her husband had found the child.

The reason she didn't know was that father and daughter were unable to locate Mrs. Weaver to tell her Weaver and Michelle, unaware of the searching still going on, went home together.

Oakland police found Weaver and the child in Oakland an notified San Francisco. San Francisco police were unable to tell Mrs. Weaver the happy news, though. They couldn't locate her.

She had taken a bus home, arriving to find her husband out looking for her.

Tell Memphis to Integrate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court called today for desegregation of parks, playgrounds and other city recreational facilities in Memphis, Tenn.

The court ruled on an appeal by 11 Negroes who said the principle of allowing time for desegregation of public schools, as fixed by the Supreme Court in 1955, should not be applied to use of public recreational facilities.

Justice Goldberg delivered the unanimous decision.

Memphis has been upheld by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, Ohio, in the city's stand that it could provide for gradual admission of Negroes to parks and other recreational places.

The Circuit Court, in rejecting a complaint by the 11 Negroes, cited "the past and present success of the continuing plan of desegregation now being peacefully and harmoniously worked out by the city; the unquestioned good faith of the officials of the city and its park commission."

But the Negroes argued that problems involved in school desegregation did not exist in the case of recreational facilities. They said their constitutional rights were "personal and present."

In argument of the case before the Supreme Court, the Justice Department supported the contentions of the Negroes, saying that Memphis public authorities "failed to make any case at all that delay was warranted by serious obstacles standing in the way of desegregating the city's recreational facilities."

"There is nothing about public recreational facilities," the department added, "to suggest that their desegregation would present insuperable problems."

Memphis officials argued that proof introduced at trial of the case supported the conclusion that gradual integration "is in the best interest of all citizens of Memphis, both white and Negro."

Concern Mounting Over Ailing Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Gravely weakened by recurrent hemorrhages, Pope John XXIII was confined to his apartment today. Concern grew about his condition.

A Vatican source said plans for President Kennedy to see the 81-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff had been suspended.

At the Vatican press office, Kennedy was due here about June 22. The Vatican switchboard received hundreds of phone calls about the Pope. Operators replied: "A little better."

His personal physician, Dr. Antonio Gasbarrini, who was called here yesterday Sunday from his home in Bologna, saw the Pope again at noon today.

Another papal doctor, Piero Mazzoni, kept vigil near the Pope's bedside throughout the night. It was the sixth successive night Mazzoni had spent in the apostolic palace.

All through the night, the lights were off in the Pope's third floor apartment overlooking St. Peter's Square. This indicated he did not need attention.

Mazzoni left the palace shortly after dawn and Gasbarrini did not call until noon. This was taken to mean that at the least there was no worsening in the pontiff's condition.

L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, said the Pope's condition Sunday night "showed general improvement, above all subjective," meaning that the Pope felt better.

The Pope's doctors found further improvement in his condition this morning, the paper added.

There were no clear cut favorites in the field, as 20 prep teams took off in the 12th annual Pontiac Press Invitational Golf Tournament today at Pontiac Country Club.

At least 17 were figured to have a chance to win the huge Press trophy which has been in possession of Bloomfield Hills for the past two years.

Northville, Walled Lake, Rochester and Waterford were considered as the top contenders as school boys started out at 8:30 a.m.

Northville and Rochester matched strokes evenly with three players on the front nine.

Northville's Dave Zielinski and Rochester's Chuck Lepley matched 38; Jim St. Germain had 39 against Rochester's Tom Mitzelfield and Bill Weidner of Northville and Dave Bouwens of Rochester had 41.

"Nine hole scores:

Lepley, 38; Zielinski, 38; St. Germain, 39; Mitzelfield, 41; Bouwens, 41; Weidner, 41; ...

Ruling Is Due on Negro Effort in Birmingham

Court to Comment on Attempt to Integrate Alabama City Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court rejected a suit by Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama to bar use of federal troops in Birmingham.

By The Associated Press
A federal court ruling is due today or Tuesday on Negro efforts to desegregate schools in Birmingham, largest city in Alabama and focal point of racial unrest for weeks.

U.S. Dist. Judge Seybourne H. Lynne said Sunday he will announce his decision by Tuesday. It will be the fifth court ruling within a week on Birmingham issues.

It will come just three weeks after two Negroes, backed by orders of another federal judge, to present themselves for admission into white units of the University of Alabama system.

At the main university campus at Tuscaloosa, the other at a branch at Huntsville.

Gov. George C. Wallace has vowed a stand-in-the-door policy to maintain segregation in Alabama's schools. He has said he will be on hand personally to block admission of a Negro at the university for the term beginning June 10.

Two suits are involved in the public school litigation before Lynne. The first, filed in 1960, attacks Alabama's pupil placement law, which has been upheld on its face by the U.S. Supreme Court. The law gives local school boards broad authority in assigning pupils to schools.

The second, filed last year, seeks an injunction wiping out the entire segregation system in Birmingham schools. Both are class actions, which means they seek relief on behalf of all Negroes.

Negro leaders planned a meeting during the day in outwards calm Birmingham.

About 500 riot-trained federal soldiers have been pulled out of a Montgomery base, 90 miles south of Birmingham, but 2,500 federal troops remain at Anniston, 60 miles east.

The troops were sent to Ala-

'Because of Irregularities'

Dems Plan to Continue Recount

DETROIT (AP)—Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency said yesterday his party will continue the recount of votes cast for the new constitution in the April 1 election because of a number of irregularities uncovered in the first week of the recount.

Ferency, appearing on a Detroit radio broadcast sponsored by the Democratic party, said the recount will be pushed to completion "to see how sloppy election procedure can get in this state."

State Elections Director Robert M. Montgomery, commenting on the broadcast, said "on the whole" the April 1 election count was more accurate than in previous elections.

"We have found errors," he said. "While some appear to be inexcusable, they were not because of the law but because of failure to understand the law — or perhaps fatigue at the end of a long day."

CHANGES PROPOSED
Montgomery said the voting machine section of the law can be greatly improved and his staff is working on proposed changes to recommend to the legislature.

Ferency emphasized that Democrats were not suggesting there was any "fix" in the April 1 election, or any other Michigan election.

Recounts in 24 of 77 counties reduced the constitution's margin by only 130 votes. The proposal was passed by a 7,829-vote margin.

Starting that Democrats were never optimistic about turning "yes" votes into "no" votes, Ferency added that "the purpose was to determine whether there was an accurate count."

"The irregularities we have found so far are so disturbing that we feel it is incumbent upon us to complete the recount, to see how sloppy this procedure can get," he said.

In one county, Ferency said, 50 absentee ballots showed on the machine, but nobody could find them.

SEALED CAN
"There have been 25 or 30 precincts where we weren't allowed to look at the paper ballots," the chairman said. "The election inspectors say that if the ballots are not in a sealed can, or if they are not tied securely, they cannot be recounted."

He said there was a need for "lightening" the state's election laws, but added that it wasn't known yet exactly what recommendations would be made to the legislature.

Another guest on the program, former Gov. John B. Swainson, said he thought he had a future in government, but didn't know whether it would be at the federal, state or local level.

20 British Constables

Reported Dead in Asia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—About 120 North Borneo rebels killed at least 20 British constables in a two-hour battle in the border town of Tobutu in British Sarawak, the official Antara News Agency said today.

The rebels, who were armed with automatic weapons, killed the constables in a surprise attack on a police station.

The constables were on duty when the rebels attacked the station. The rebels then set fire to the station and fled.

The rebels are fighting for independence for North Borneo. They have killed several British soldiers and constables.

The rebels are now in control of the town of Tobutu. They have set up a temporary government in the town.

The British government has sent reinforcements to the area. They are trying to retake the town of Tobutu.

The rebels are now fighting in other parts of North Borneo. They have killed several more British soldiers and constables.

Pontiac Plans Holiday Tribute

Pontiac joins the entire nation in honoring its war dead Thursday.

Memorial Day ceremonies begin here with a parade downtown, followed by a graveside tribute to those that gave their lives in battle.

Over 30 organizations will pay their respects by marching in the 10 a.m. parade.

A color guard of Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force representatives will lead the parade north on Saginaw from its formation on Patterson.

The marchers will pass in review before city officials, headed by Mayor Robert A. Landry, at Saginaw and Huron.

Others on the reviewing stand will include Commander John R. Tobin of the Pontiac Naval Reserve Training Center, and William Tunnicliffe, a parade marshal and president of the Pontiac Memorial Day Association, which organized the ceremony.

Honorary parade marshal will be John N. Johnson, a 78-year-old veteran of the Spanish-American War, and commander of the David Kimball Camp 51, Spanish-American War Veterans.

MUSIC
Providing music for the numerous veteran and service-related groups will be the bands from Pontiac Central and Northern high schools as well as the combined bands of several area junior high schools.

STRETCHED
Fire Chief Glen Thom said some hoses had to be stretched over 2,000 feet to reach the flames.

Chief Thom said the probable cause of the blaze was children playing with matches in waste paper.

A fireman, Donald Donati, 47, of Detroit, suffered a crushed chest when he fell from a 40-foot aerial ladder. He was in critical condition in Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital.

Fire officials said Donati was hit by the hose after a belt holding the hose nozzle in place snapped. He fell onto the cab of a fire truck and then to the ground.

Fire officials estimated damages at $150,000. The building and its contents were a loss.

Ellis Fishman of Huntington Woods, owner of the paper firm, said he hoped he could resume operating without the buildings next week.

SPECTACLE
The spectacle drew thousands of people from the surrounding residential area to watch firemen battle the fire.

Police had to send for reinforcements to keep the crowds back. At one time 50 officers were used to control the mob of spectators.

JFK Returns to D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy returned to the White House today from a weekend spent in the mountains at Camp David, Md.

The President arrived back in Washington at 10:11 a.m. after a helicopter flight from the Camp David retreat. His departure had been delayed because of fog in the mountains. Mrs. Kennedy remained at Camp David.

Actress Is Injured in Head-On Collision

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress Ariene Francis, a panelist on the television program "What's My Line?" was reported in satisfactory condition today after an automobile collision in which she was injured and another woman was killed.

Killed in the collision with the actress' car was Rose Arcos, 34, of Brooklyn. Her husband, Joseph, also 34, who was driving, and three other passengers in his car were injured, two of them critically.

The Boston-born actress was replaced on "What's My Line?" Sunday night by singer Kitty Carlisle.

Miss Francis, 35, was en route to Manhattan to appear on the show, when her auto skidded on wet pavement and collided head-on with another auto. Police said she apparently had tried to stop her car because of a minor accident ahead of her.

Joseph Kennedy Has Minor Surgery

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, the President's father, rested at his home today from minor weekend surgery and the extraction of two teeth.

Kennedy, 74, had a small skin growth removed from his arm at Cape Cod Hospital in Hyannis Saturday morning by Dr. Samuel F. Marshall of Boston and Newton.

Kennedy returned to his ocean-front home after the surgery. He is recuperating here from the stroke he suffered in Palm Beach, Fla., 17 months ago.

Plans are being made for the launching of 2,000 balloons to clear the earth at an altitude of 20,000 to 100,000 feet. These would send weather information to eight satellites which would relay it to the earth.

Old Quality,
New Variety
in Blankets

Today's homemaker seeks much the same qualities in a blanket that her predecessor sought: maximum warmth with minimum weight, easy care, long wear and, of course, beauty.

The difference is that it's easier today to find all these qualities in one blanket. There is a variety of fibers, colors, and even patterns in blankets to make choosing a lot more fun. But it requires more knowledge about the hows and whys of blanket-buying, too.

One of the reasons for the hand-somer, more efficient blankets available today is the increasing use of man-made fibers.

Creslan acrylic fiber, for example, used by many leading manufacturers, produces a blanket that is featherlight, yet warm. It can be machine-washed and dried and will stay new-looking for years.

Shrinking, piling, and matting are no longer problems. And since the fiber is non-allergenic, these blankets insure comfortable sleep even for allergy-sufferers.

The new look in blanket colors now covers a wide range of bright colors and even includes plaids and reversible blankets.

Since automatic blankets offer more warmth with less bulk, they are the choice of more and more homemakers. For double-bedders, there's the added advantage of individual heat control.

Polly's Pointers

Way to New Plumage

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY — Last year I bought an expensive white feather hat and wore it once before storing it for the summer.

When I got it out in the fall I was astonished to see big yellow marks every place the feathers had been attached to the hat. I took it back to the milliner to see what had happened.

She told me I should have been advised by the saleslady to store the hat in the freezer during the hot, humid summer to prevent this spotting. I would suggest sealing the hat in an airtight plastic bag and putting in a box first.

Do you or any of the readers have any suggestions for making this hat wearable? Is there a dye suitable for feathers? — MRS. N. C.

GIRLS — My feather-hats always survived the summer without freezing them. Sounds to me as if the glue used on the hat was causing the trouble.

If such a hat is not wearable, nothing is lost by experimenting a bit. I know of no dye specifically for feathers but I tried brushing ordinary dress dye on some feathers with a toothbrush.

The center "spine" did not take the dye but the feathers came out very well. In fact, should there be a variation of color in the different feathers, the effect would be very nice, I think.

All sorts of shading could be worked out, using different colors, if one so desired. Brush only the feathers with the dye and do not wet the glue that attaches them to the hat. Pull out a feather or two and experiment first before tackling the entire hat.—POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — I have a hint for teen-agers. Store your beauty paraphernalia in a large tote basket.

I use an old Easter basket. You can carry it with you to the bathroom and then take it right back to your dressing table.

Other members of the family are not annoyed by clutter in the bathroom and all your things will be together in one place.—TEEN-AGER.

Wall-Rutherford Rites
Held in Pontiac Church

A Belgian lace mantilla cascaded over Charlotte Jan Rutherford's gown of white bridal satin as she became Mrs. Gerald Arthur Wall Saturday in All Saints Episcopal Church.

During the candlelight service performed by Rev. C. George Widdfield, she held a white orchid and Stephanotis on a prayer book.

Parents of the couple are the Charles R. Rutherfords of Emerson and the Charles A. Walls of Third.

Scarlet Ann Rutherford, her sister's maid of honor, bridesmaids Mrs. Charles Moore and the bridegroom's sister Patricia Louise Wall and Nancy Ellen Rutherford, junior maid, appeared in bouffant pink sheer.

They held lavender chrysanthemums on white lace fans with purple pansies added to the honor attendant's bouquet.

Beth Lynn Rutherford and Daniel Mallett were flower girl and ring bearer.

Gerald L. Colling was best man. Guests were seated by Bruce Bell, Robert Carroll, the bridegroom's brother Stephen and their cousin Charles Perry.

After a honeymoon at Charlevoix, the couple will reside in Pontiac.

Turns to Television

Playwright Says Nuts to NY

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD—Tired of trying to please New York theater audiences — "a bunch of old-fashioned ugly play," playwright William Inge is turning his talents to television.

Inge has signed a contract with CBS to create a series for the 1964-65 season. He has already started work on it. He plans to write five or six hour-long scripts — "a kind of contemporary 'Winesap, Ohio' of the Midwest." From these CBS would pick one to shoot as a pilot film in late summer.

"I am much intrigued with writing for television," he remarked at his temporary quarters at a Sunset Strip hotel.

"During this past year I started watching television for the first time. I must say I was fascinated by much of it. Shows like 'The Defenders,' 'Kildare' and 'The 11th Hour' I found often excellent. I've enjoyed many of the variety shows, especially Dinah Shore's. Even when the dramatic shows were not well-written, I often found the acting was good. Television seems to be a good medium for actors."

Inge's interest in the new medium is in direct ratio to his disenchantment with the New York theater.

SMASH TO STUMBLE

After four smashes in a row — "Come Back, Little Sheba," "Picnic," "Bus Stop," "Dark at the Top of the Stairs," he stumbled with "A Loss of Roses." This season he went back again with the wryly titled "Natural Affection," a play of violence and sex. "I didn't really want to go back," he commented. "It was an ugly play, and I had never done one before. I didn't want to do it, but I felt I should."

The result: a hit in Washington; a month's run in New York. "I think it's wrong that American theater should be dictated from New York," he commented. "In Washington we had intelligent audiences. They liked the show; we were sold out. 'Yet we failed in New York. Part of that may have been due to the newspaper-strike. But I think a great deal has to do with the kind of audience you get in New York. It's a bunch of old-fashioned sports who only like what they've seen before.'"

"Somehow we've got to find a new audience. The only solution I can see is to decentralize the theater, to get it away from New York. It might be done by the colleges and universities, along with what help the Ford and Rockefeller foundations might provide. 'Certainly we can't expect any assistance from the government, which really should be concerned. This country has never paid much attention to the problems of the arts.'"

Inge cited another reason for the decline of the theater: the critics.

"Every bright young writer who comes up starts out by sharpening his wit on the theater," he said despairingly. "I can't understand the viciousness with which critics attack plays. No wonder the theater is in such poor condition. It has been a punching bag too long." Despite his disillusion with the commercial theater, Inge indicated he would probably try again. "I've got a couple of plays I want to do," he said, not without a note of sadness.

Still Probing Pair of Blasts

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Police, puzzled by what prompted two blasts here, will continue to check clues today under the premise the explosions were the work of pranksters.

One blast was set off early Saturday on the Louisiana State University campus. There was no damage and no one was injured.

The other blast, about 30 minutes later, exploded at the base of a tree on the capitol building grounds shattering some 40 windows of the capitol and damaging a few windows in nearby apartments. A state official said yesterday that investigators told him that the blasts were pranksters' work. The official would not be identified.

'Keep Watch to Protect Individual Rights' — Ike

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has cautioned the American people to keep a vigil for trends of government which appear to overlook the voice of free individuals.

More than 4,000 persons filled a huge circus tent on the Defiance College campus yesterday to hear the former president deliver the commencement address and see him awarded a citation.

If, through the cloying effect of government subsidy, we have lost any measure of self-reliance, independence of spirit and love of liberty, then restoration of all these is part of your task," Eisenhower told the 116 members of the graduating class.

"The need for reformation rises out of the new and complex problems that confront us daily, requiring new and even revolutionary solutions. — In reaching appropriate answers to these problems, the words of the true leaders must be so clearly spoken, so courageously supported, that all citizens will still continue to live as fully free individuals. Their voices and wishes must be accurately represented in the government and their equality of opportunity assured."

He said the framers of the U.S. Constitution could not know "that in less than two centuries the immensity of domestic and international affairs would tend to create in us a feeling of individual helplessness and even lead us into an unthinking abandonment of personal and local responsibility to a few men in government, giving to them a frightening power for good or evil — and almost certain to invite error or abuse."

Even so, the former president said, the Constitution provides a means for restoration and reformation by the people themselves.

"Through their state legislatures and without regard to the federal government, the people can demand and participate in constitutional conventions in which they can, through their own action, adopt such amendments as can and will reverse any trends they see as fatal to true representative government."

Eisenhower said he was not hinting at any amendment currently proposed, or under consideration, by the states.

Frightening Asthma Attacks End in Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed.

New York, N.Y. (Special) — A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast.

Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma — the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing — the terrible fear of asphyxiation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This formula is so safe when used as directed, it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONITIN®. Doctors know that when asthma attacks, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked so air is "trapped" inside lungs as tension and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONITIN, with two asthma relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs.

The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep. Get BRONITIN — available at all drug stores without prescription.

RETIRING—Mrs. Golda Holecheck (left), LeBaron School principal, and Mrs. Louise Baldau, second grade teacher, will complete long careers in education at the end of this school year. The veteran educators, who total nearly a century of teaching experience, were honored at a special retirement tea yesterday at the school.

Count 89 Years of Experience

Memories Please 2 Retiring Teachers

By Gary Thorne

A chance to mold the character of future citizens is the greatest reward for any schoolteacher, according to two retiring Pontiac educators.

Mrs. Golda Holecheck and Mrs. Louise Baldau, both of LeBaron Elementary School, have shaped the character of thousands of youngsters in lengthy classroom careers.

The two educators were honored yesterday at a special tea at the school.

Mrs. Holecheck, principal of LeBaron School, and Mrs. Baldau, a second grade teacher, have a total of 89 years in public education.

LOVE FOR CHILDREN

Both teachers reflect a deep love for children and get an immense satisfaction out of watching former students prosper as useful citizens.

"Teachers discover children and uncover potentials that maybe a parent has never seen before," Mrs. Holecheck explained.

The retiring teachers have noticed several changes in teaching over the years. The biggest difference is a closer relationship between parents and teachers.

Mrs. Holecheck said parent-teacher conferences are the best example of this change. In addition, learning has changed from "a book of facts" to education of the whole child.

"We now try to seek a level for every child where he can lead a happy, useful life," Mrs. Baldau said.

Mrs. Baldau said teachers are taught to think, as well as the child. Mrs. Holecheck added that in the past students were taught school more now than in the past.

"MORE INTERESTING"

"Teachers," she said, "have made school more interesting." Both veteran teachers agreed that in the past students were taught subject matter — just facts.

"Books are secondary to the whole child," Mrs. Holecheck said. "Before, it was 'get through the book.'"

Mrs. Baldau attended Eastern Michigan and Wayne State Universities. She taught in Upper Michigan and California before joining the Pontiac system in 1921.

In 1924, Mrs. Baldau took a leave to raise two daughters, but she returned in 1945 to LeBaron School.

Mrs. Holecheck, former principal of Bagley School, started teaching in 1916.

After getting her teaching certificate in a state examination, she had the unique experience of teaching years of high school to a younger brother and sister.

The retiring principal joined the local system in 1936. After 12 years as principal of Bagley School, Mrs. Holecheck was named to her present post. A native of Boyne City, Mrs.

Holecheck has been in education for 47 years.

During the years she taught, Mrs. Holecheck went to night correspondence and summer school to earn her master's degree.

The two LeBaron School teachers will end their careers next month, but neither expects to forget the students whose character is just a shade better because of their efforts.

Touchy About Visits

Japan to Curb U.S. N-Subs

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Notes from the foreign news cables:

NUCLEAR SUBS

Japan, first and only nation to suffer an atomic attack, is extremely touchy about the proposed visits of U.S. nuclear-powered submarines to Japanese ports.

Informed sources say the United States is willing to put tight limitations on the visits. The subs would use only the ports of Yokosuka and Sasebo.

They would call no oftener than once a month and stay no longer than two weeks at a time. They would come and go only in daylight. But by U. S. law, their power plants would not be open to Japanese inspection.

The so-called Rhee Line which extends Korean fishing waters 60 miles out from Korea's coast, is one of the biggest obstacles to normal relations between Japan and South Korea.

The line prevents Japan's modernized fishing boats from moving in on South Korea's relatively antiquated fleet.

Lately, however, Japan has offered to help modernize the Korean fishing fleet, and to cooperate in helping fishermen of both countries to work together instead of at cross purposes.

South Korea has indicated interest.

It could all lead to modification or abolition of the Rhee Line, and then to normal relations — a consummation devoutly wished by the United States.

BARNSTORMING

President Charles de Gaulle is expected to hit the road frequently in coming months. Besides further meet-the-people tours of the French provinces, he plans to visit Germany in July and Africa toward the end of 1963 or the beginning of 1964.

He also has outstanding invitations from Mexico and several South American countries.

The French Communist party is putting out feelers again to the Socialists to join in a revamped "popular front" movement. French Socialist leaders are unlikely to take the bait.

Plan Motel-Sport Center

SAGINAW (P)—A Bridgeport industrialist has announced plans for a $1.7-million motel and sports center to be built on Dixie Highway south of Bridgeport.

Daniel J. Menter, one of the participants, said construction on the project would begin this week. Future plans include an airplane landing strip on the 34-acre plot.
