De Gaulle Tells France He Will Seek New Term

Announcement Ends Months of Conjecture; Election Slated Dec. 5

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle said tonight he will be a candidate for reelection Dec. 5. The announcement in an address to the nation set at rest months of speculation on whether he would seek another seven-year term.

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle says "yes or no" tonight to the No. 1 question in France—whether he will run on Dec. 5 for another seven years in office.

Most political observers think de Gaulle will say yes. A small minority thinks he has decided to step aside. No one pretends to have inside information or to be sure.

De Gaulle makes his decision public in a radio-television address. There was speculation that his revelation would not come until his closing sentences.

The suspense element has been so carefully built up that de Gaulle was certain to have an almost saturation audience.

One of the reasons for the uncertainty was a complete absence of recent information on the state of his health, a key factor in his decision.

STRENUOUS TOUR

Six months later, he made a strenuous, three-week tour of Latin America and showed no outward ill effects. Since then he has carried on as usual.

Those who strongly believe de Gaulle would be a candidate base their belief at least in part on these factors:

1. De Gaulle feels at home in power and would not willingly turn over the reins as long as he feels physically fit.
2. Crucial negotiations are in prospect within the Common Market and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on issues involving France's national interests. De Gaulle thinks he is best qualified to impose France's will.
3. No apparent effort has been made to build up a successor.

RECORD TOTAL—Calvin J. Werner, general chairman of the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign, congratulates workers at a noon luncheon today for their efforts in making this year's campaign the most successful ever. Seated

Campaign Ends on Victory Note

By L. GARY THORNE

Contributions to the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign cracked the million-dollar mark, skyrocketing 14 per cent over the record goal, it was announced today.

It was the first time that local UF contributions have topped a million dollars. The 22-day campaign ended today with a giant victory luncheon at the Pontiac Elks Temple.

No Presidency Aims--Romney

Got Into Politics to Help State, He Insists

TOKYO (AP)—Gov. George Romney of Michigan said today "I have no presidential ambitions. I got into politics to help Michigan."

That was Romney's response to a question whether he believed the Republican Party leadership was working to block any presidential ambitions he might have because he didn't support Sen. Barry Goldwater at the party's 1964 convention in San Francisco.

The governor addressed the Tokyo Foreign Correspondents Club.

He said Michigan's efforts at San Francisco were to get written into the platform a change in its civil rights stand and right wing extremism. "Since then Goldwater has conceded some mistakes were made there," Romney said.

He said he believed the recently formed National Republican Coordinating Committee would be helpful to develop a "superior program" within the Republican Party.

Most of his speech centered on foreign affairs.

He said the United States is carrying out inadequate policies of "containment and survival" while the communists "still have the initiative."

News Flash

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The double Gemini space flight proposed for December will not include a space walk, the manned spacecraft center announced today.

Consideration was given to allowing astronaut Thomas Stafford outside the spacecraft while in orbit, but it was announced today that "there would be no EVA (extra vehicular activity)."

Werner presented each of the division chairmen with an Indian Oscar Award for their work in the UF campaign.

General Motors Corp. and its employees accounted for nearly 70 per cent of the UF campaign funds. A total GM contribution of $691,934 was reported at the luncheon.

CORPORATE GIFT
The GM corporate gift totaled $165,000, while GM employee contributions reached $526,934.

Industrial Division chairman Thomas Wiethorn reported that his division collected a total of $733,150 or over 25 per cent more than the $582,463 quota.

Bruce J. Annett, advance gifts chairman, reported that his $104,000 quota had been exceeded slightly. Advance gifts totaled $104,189. Workers were urged to clean up outstanding pledges.

The women's division, headed by Mrs. William C. Wright, topped its quota of $55,000. Women contributions totaled $56,002 or 3 per cent over quota.

MORE ON WAY
Commercial Division Chairman James P. Dickerson offered the promise of more contributions.

Ninety per cent ($221,012) has been raised of the division's quota of $243,757. Solicitors were urged to turn in outstanding pledges.

UF leaders reported at the luncheon that special gifts had reached $9,543, falling short of the $13,702 quota. However, more gifts are anticipated.

Werner presented each of the division chairmen with an Indian Oscar Award for their work in the UF campaign.

SIMILAR AWARD

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., who presided at the luncheon as master of ceremonies, then presented Werner with a similar Indian award.

Werner told the UF volunteers, "Although your success is measured in dollars, it is best realized in spirit."

"The increased goal this year was a tremendous challenge and the figures reported are both a tribute to the generosity of Pontiac citizens and to the dedication of everyone connected with the 1965 campaign."

Threats Delay Meg's Flight

Two Anonymous Calls Fail to Stop U. S. Trip

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret left today for her first visit to the United States after two delays.

The British jetliner taking Queen Elizabeth's 35-year-old sister to America was delayed 17 minutes by an anonymous telephone caller who said strychnine missing from a warehouse at London Airport had been put in the drinking water on Margaret's plane.

Security men drained the water supply on the plane and refilled the tanks. Airline officials reported yesterday that a box of 25 pounds of strychnine nitrate being shipped from India to Hungary was missing from a warehouse. Police said they believed it had been stolen.

Later Scotland Yard announced the missing poison had been found in a warehouse in Budapest, where it apparently had been since Oct. 26.

Last night another anonymous caller telephoned the airport and said an attempt would be made to bring down the royal flight "either by a bomb or other methods."

A search of the plane, a regular British Overseas Airways Corp. airliner, revealed nothing suspicious. The plane was tightly guarded until takeoff.

The entire first class section of the plane was reserved for the princess and her party.

The princess was scheduled to land for 90 minutes at New York's John F. Kennedy Airport and then fly on to San Francisco, arriving there about 9 p.m. EST.

Pleasant Weather Is Due to Linger

Another pleasant day is coming our way. The weatherman forecasts mostly sunny and slightly warmer with highs in the 50s tomorrow. Lows will dip to 25 to 33 tonight.

Partly cloudy and warmer is the outlook for Saturday.

Fear 36 Cubans Drowned in Ship Crack-Up on Reefs

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The Mexican navy searched today for 36 Cuban refugees feared drowned off the Mexican Coast after their fishing smack cracked up on the reefs.

As hope of finding them alive dwindled, the Cuban government's order to halt the exodus of small boats from Cuba to Florida was in effect.

The ministry of the interior said the action—effective at noon yesterday—was taken due to bad weather and an imminent agreement between the United States and Cuba for an orderly airlift of refugees.

U.S. Coast Guard cutters braved 28-foot swells in the Florida Straits to search for two refugee boats long overdue at Key West from Camarioca, the port emigrants must use.

The straits, which separate Cuba from Florida, were dotted with empty boats left behind when the Coast Guard transferred refugees to its cutters.

The Mexican navy searched for the 36 off the northeast tip of the Yucatan Peninsula, where their fishing smack, Jose Marti, struck reefs.

The navy said nine survivors were rescued, including four women, and six bodies were recovered.

Mexican officials said the vessel left Cuba Oct. 25 and apparently was trying to reach Isla Mujeres. It sank Tuesday.

A Havana radio broadcast identified the vessel as the Jose Martinez and said it sailed from Cuba's westernmost Pinar del Rio Province "in a clandestine manner."

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, said the boat carried 44 persons, 11 of them minors, and that only nine survived.

The broadcast quoted an Armed Forces Ministry spokesman as saying that "deportations like this have no justification whatsoever because the Cuban government has always permitted legal departures from the country."

The incident was termed by the communique "a sad feat of the counterrevolution."

At least six persons have drowned previously and hundreds of others have been rescued from small craft trying to navigate the 90 miles between Cuba and the Florida Keys.

'SEVERAL EXECUTED'

In Miami, a newly arrived refugee said several Cubans accused of trying to assassinate Castro July 27 have been executed.

Col. Lazaro Landeiros, a Cuban army official until 1952, said Mario Salabarría, chief of police under the Ramon Grau San Martin government in the 1940s, a Dr. Bernardo Milanés and others were believed to have been shot.

Landeiros' comments were made public by the exile Cuban Information Agency.

Sets in Motion Intensive Program Study

LBJ Signs Farm Bill at Last Minute

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)

— President Johnson announced plans today for "the most thorough study ever conducted" of federal farm programs after signing into law a four-year omnibus agriculture bill affecting most major commodities.

Johnson just got under the wire in signing the measure — one of the major bills of the 1965 Congress and one carrying an estimated $4-billion price tag for the 1966 crop year.

The President's action was announced Wednesday night by the Texas White House shortly after 11 p.m. Had he waited until after midnight, the legislation would have died by pocket veto.

Issuing a 1,500-word statement on his action, Johnson hailed the new law as establishing "a farm policy geared to growth" and one opening a new chapter "in the miraculous story of American farming."

MAJOR INNOVATIONS

The chief executive said the legislation, with major innovations affecting wheat and cotton growers and dairy farmers, marks a milestone.

"Yet," he said, "all of this can be — and should be — only a beginning."

Then he announced establishment of a National Advisory Commission on Food and Fibre which will "construct the most thorough study ever conducted of the effects of our agricultural policies on the performance of our economy and on our foreign relations."

The commission, to be headed by Dean Sherwood Berg of the school of agriculture at the University of Minnesota, will report to the President within 18 months.

LONG-RANGE STUDY

"I am asking this commission to make a penetrating and long-range appraisal of our agricultural and related foreign trade policies. This commission will undertake this review in terms of the national interest, the welfare of our rural Americans, and the well-being of our farmers, the needs of our workers and the interests of our consumers."

Simultaneously, Johnson announced establishment of a committee on food and fiber to be headed by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Johnson contended the new farm bill would:

— "Help reduce the cost to the taxpayers of all our farm programs."

— Strengthen the competitive position of American cotton, wheat and feed grains in world markets.

— Lead to elimination of costly grain surpluses by 1970 and great reductions in surpluses of cotton and tobacco.

HAD DEFICIENCIES

Past farm programs, he said, have had deficiencies: Farm income has been too low, surpluses have remained too high and price supports have "interfered with price competition and a free marketplace."

The new law, he said, "is a major step toward correcting those deficiencies."

He said Congress "has forged a new link with the future" by combining principles of competition and government action.

tive pricing with direct federal payments to producers.

There was no explanation for his late signing of the bill, particularly in view of his expressed satisfaction with its provisions.

DEFEATED PROPOSAL

However, Congress defeated an administration proposal to have a wheat price support increase paid for by millers. The House killed the plan, making payment come from the federal Treasury. Opponents of the administration plan had dubbed it a bread tax, saying its cost would be passed on to consumers.

Wheat producers will receive a combination of support loans and payments giving them an over-all return of at least $1.84 a bushel. They will receive payments equal to the world price on wheat shipped abroad. Wheat grown for domestic consumption will be supported at $2.57 a bushel — $1.25 of basic support plus a 75-cent payment by millers and a 5-cent payment by the federal government.

Cotton growers for the first time will be eligible for direct price support payments if they don't use their entire acreage allotments.

Next year's cotton support price will be pegged at 21 cents a pound. The world price is 24 cents.

In addition, producers who cut their allotments by at least 12 1/2 percent will get a direct federal subsidy of about 8 cents a pound — and can get more by reducing their acreage up to 35 percent.

Of importance mostly in the Western states, big growers who don't want controls and who can compete at the world price without subsidies can plant up to 250,000 acres next year.

COTTON SURPLUSES

Cotton surpluses now total more than 15 million bales. Authors of the legislation hope these will be reduced under the new program.

The law also authorizes the government to get into the business of selling dairy products through the Commodity Credit diversion program in any year

Corporation, even when they in which the national allotment are not in surplus. exceeds that of 1965, with the payment pegged to maintain producer returns at the 1965 level.

Other key provisions:

Wool — The present program is continued in essence, though modified to boost production would share the cost of finding with a support price set at 65 new uses for surplus land.

Rice — If acreage allotments be withdrawn from production fall below the 1963 level, the Feed grains — The program secretary of agriculture is re-of the past four years will be required to carry out a four-year continued.

A Russian's Memoirs

Reaction Slow to Nazi Blitz

MOSCOW (UPI)—Josef Stalin's ministers wasted vital hours trying to find him on the day the Nazis attacked Russia, one of the late dictator's former ministers said today.

Former Naval Minister Adm. Nikolai Kuznetsov said he himself had to order the Soviet fleet to fight back.

Kremlin officials, in an apparent refusal to believe the war was on, kept Kuznetsov from getting the news to Stalin, he said.

Kuznetsov told the tale of the harrowing first hours of the World War II battle on the Eastern front in the latest installment of his memoirs.

He said he and other officers had told Stalin that Hitler planned to attack on June 22, 1941. Stalin scoffed at the reports, and even forbade his commanders to order their troops to shoot back if attacked.

On the night of June 21, Kuznetsov stayed in his office. At 3:07 a.m. on June 22, the Black Sea fleet reported German airplanes nearing Sevastopol.

Kuznetsov said that, acting on his own authority, he gave the order to fight, and then tried to call Stalin at the Kremlin.

"Comrade Stalin is not here," the Kremlin duty officer replied. "Where he is I do not know."

Kuznetsov persisted and the duty officer hung up. A few minutes later, Kuznetsov telephoned again and told the duty officer, "This is war."

TELEPHONE RINGS
"A few minutes later," Kuznetsov related, "the telephone rang and I heard a disgruntled, irritated voice: Do you understand what you are talking about?"

"It was Georgi M. Malenkov," Kuznetsov said. Malenkov at that time was Stalin's most trusted aide. Later, he was to become his successor.

Hearing of no action, Kuznetsov went to the Kremlin at 10 a.m. that morning, but it lay quiet in its usual Sunday morning torpor.

Two hours later, Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov went on the radio to tell the Russian people that—despite Stalin's assurances—Hitler had attacked.

Stalin lay low for the rest of the month, Kuznetsov said, and did not attend supreme headquarters sessions although he was commander in chief.

In July, however, he made a radio broadcast, and after his "confusion during the first few days of the war," emerged "in top form during the entire duration," the admiral said.

Soapy: No Plans to Leave Post to Reenter Politics

WASHINGTON (AP)—G. Mennen Williams said Wednesday he has no plans to change his position as assistant secretary of state for African affairs. Williams issued this statement through a spokesman following renewed reports that he might leave his high diplomatic post to reenter politics.

Williams is known to have kept up his interest in Michigan, where he was Democratic governor for 12 years before the late President John F. Kennedy appointed him to his present position in 1961.

The Johannesburg (South Africa) Star reported from New York Wednesday that Williams plans to resign in February to seek a Senate seat from Michigan. It said Williams' current African tour is his farewell visit to the continent.

British Royalty Here for Tour of America

America extends a warm welcome to Great Britain's Princess MARGARET and her husband, the Earl of SNOWDEN, who today began a three-week tour of the United States.

It is the princess' first visit to the U.S., the fulfillment of a dream cherished since she was 18. Refused permission for a transatlantic crossing by first her father and later her Queen sister, the schedule planned for the 35-year-old mother of two would indicate that she intends to make up for lost time.

Lord Snowden, a professional photographer formerly known as Antony Armstrong-Jones, visited New York in 1958 to publicize his photographic book about London.

The itinerary of the royal couple covers the glamour and historical attractions of Hollywood, New York and Washington interspersed with a succession of social, ceremonial and state events. A visit with President JOHNSON will climax the Washington visit.

It is good to have on our soil these fine representatives of a land to which we are so closely tied. We wish them an exciting and informative sojourn as they traverse the New World.

Youth Revolt Charged to New Social Dogma

All manner of excuses are given for the waves of juvenile delinquency that continually disrupt this Country. It is said that some way, somehow, society has failed these errant young people and so society must take the bulk of the blame.

A man who is a real authority on crime and its causes—Director J. EDGAR HOOVER of the FBI—holds a very different view.

In his words, "Teen-agers and their parents have been subjected to a foetal philosophy which condones rebellious conduct against authority, law and order, or any regulatory measures which restrict their whims, wishes, desires and activities. This astonishing belief has spread into the schoolroom, the living room, the courtroom and into the streets of our cities in the form of wild, drunken brawls."

No doubt society has failed our youth, Hoover conceded, but not in the way many seem to think. Rather, the dereliction has been the failure to teach them the meaning of discipline, restraint, self-respect, and respect for law and order and the rights of others, he charged. "Consequently," the lawman pointed out, "the lesson now is both painful and costly."

The surest way to turn the juvenile delinquent of today into the hardened adult criminal of tomorrow is to pamper him. The foremost right and duty of society is to enforce the law under representative government.

Return of Tax Dollars to States Makes Sense

A proposal that first came to public notice a year ago, and then disappeared from view, is now back. It is that the Federal government return a proportion of the taxes it takes from the states back to them so that they may be in a better financial position to meet the wants and needs of their people.

This time the proposal has substantial political support. Whether anything ever comes of it, the implications and the possibilities are worth full consideration.

The states, and local governments, have been depending more and more on a wide assortment of Federal aids. Voters are encouraged to promote all manner of local programs if Uncle Sam will pick up part or most of the cost.

What isn't mentioned is that this money has first to be taken from the people—and that a substantial part of that take disappears in paying the overhead of vast and mysterious Washington bureaucracies.

Worse than the financial question is that so-called Federal aid also means Federal domination. So states and local rights, responsibilities and pride of purpose are gradually eroded away. In this, as in individual affairs, handouts create beggars.

The best solution would be to end Federal participation in purely local affairs. Failing that, a return of part of the Federal tax take to the states whence it came might give local governments some resurgence of independence and authority that they sorely need.

Just What Are Viet Realities?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—A young man here tries to dodge the draft. Another there burns his draft card. Students demonstrate. A Quaker burns himself to death at the Pentagon.

All in protest against the American role in Vietnam. Granted, the protesters are sincere in their belief the American war against the Vietnamese Communists is wrong. Granted they are concerned for mankind.

But amidst the protests from a minority of the people, the professors and the students, the basics in Viet Nam are apt to be forgotten. What are the realities?

For all of this century up to 1954, and for much of the 19th, the French held the Vietnamese people in colonial thralldom. They had the better part of a century to prepare the Vietnamese for freedom and independence but didn't.

When the Vietnamese rose up against their masters, people of all persuasions joined the forces of Communist Ho Chi Minh to crush the French, which they did. The French withdrew.

SPLIT SETTLEMENT

In the settlement, Viet Nam was split in half, the north going to the Communists, the south free. The United States promised to help the south to progress in freedom, and it did, at first economically and with weapons.

The North Vietnamese protested when the south wouldn't agree to nationwide elections to choose one government for all. They would hardly have been free elections, certainly not in the Red-run north.

Then the Viet Cong, the agents of Ho Chi Minh, began their war to force the south to submit to guerrilla war, assassinations, terror. Bit by bit, the United States helped the south resist until, when the south was near collapse, this country got directly involved.

What is the interest of this country in Viet Nam? Basically, it has two interests, one selfish, one unselfish.

THREAT OF CHINA

Unless the Red push in South Viet Nam is stopped—and it certainly would not be if the United States withdrew entirely—all Asia will go Communist under the dominion of China.

Therefore, it is to the vital interest of the United States to try to stop the advance.

This is the unselfish reason for the American presence in Viet Nam. To help this backward country, left poor and ignorant, by the French, to move into the 20th century, and if it can survive long enough, to work out a prosperous economy, a stable government, and retain freedom.

This has been American policy elsewhere, too.

Rendezvous In Outer Space!

David Lawrence Says:

NY 'Bosses' Handed Big Defeat

WASHINGTON—Racial and religious prejudices, bloc voting, political venality and social and economic grievances dominated the voting in the several city and state elections on Tuesday throughout the country.

The ideal of democracy—that the best man should receive the support of the majority of the voters and that LAWRENCE basic principles should be given preference over personalities—was forsaken again, just as it has been many times in the past.

New York City's election was salutary only in a negative sense—that the "bosses" and the political machine suffered a severe defeat. Party lines were brushed aside. In fact, the two candidates of Republican background—Lindsay and Buckley—together received almost 60 per cent of the total vote.

President Johnson's endorsement of the Democratic nominee was ignored by a substantial number of Democrats, who joined with the Republicans to help elect the Fusion ticket headed by Lindsay.

The New York mayoral contest will, of course, be analyzed by the politicians across the country to determine whether a national trend is developing that could affect the congressional elections of 1968 and the presidential campaign of 1968.

INTO LIMELIGHT

Naturally, Lindsay, who has served for seven years in the House of Representatives but gets into the limelight now as a potential Republican nominee for the presidency in future contests.

He has been known as a "liberal." He was opposed energetically during the campaign by Buckley, a conservative Republican. But the net effect of the Buckley effort was to draw votes away from both the Democratic and Republican tickets and make it impossible for any of the three candidates to win by a majority. Lindsay is, therefore, a winner only by a plurality.

Does the Lindsay victory mean that he has vindicated the anti-Goldwater cause and that liberal Republicanism now is on top?

The answer is that there is never such a thing as a victory between factions in any political party which really wants to win elections.

PUNISHING DEMS

Obviously many Republicans who supported Goldwater voted for Lindsay. They reasoned that it was better to punish the city-hall machine of the Democrats than it was to get political revenge.

What the Republicans need in 1968 is a presidential candidate who can gain the support of Democrats who are dissatisfied with the Johnson administration and hold also Republicans who are willing to allow their resentments over the 1964 campaign to be submerged in the public interest.

For some of the same issues which were present throughout the country in influencing the elections this week are bound to be decisive factors in the 1966 as well as 1968 national campaigns.

Bob Considine Says:

Committees Take All Fun Out of Royal Visit to U.S.

NEW YORK—Princess Margaret and the Earl of Snowden will see as little as possible of the U.S. and its people during their visit here.

It was always thus. Committees in charge of such tours go to impressive pains to eliminate all the fun, CONSIDINE frivolity and fact-harvesting associated with the exploration of a new land, if the visitors happen to be of the nobility or better.

Margaret's sister, Elizabeth II, came closer to getting the lowdown on the U.S. than almost any of her family who ever got around to visiting the former colonies.

She may or may not have heard the interesting exchange between her Scotland Yard man and his opposite number on the New York police force the day she and Prince Philip were riding Broadway in an open car in a blizzard of torn ticker-tape and somewhat heavier objects, like wedges of Manhattan telephone books.

"Good God, man, where is your security?" the gaffer from Scotland Yard demanded of his New York counterpart as he glanced up at the filled windows of the topless palisades of glass and steel.

IN COAT POCKET

The New York cop fished in his coat pocket, brought out a closed fist, opened it and showed Scotland Yard a Rosary.

"Here," he said, wistfully.

Then there was the football game involving Maryland and North Carolina, on the campus of Maryland University.

The dear sweet Defender of the Faith sat through that dull charade with a fixed smile which became more and more strained because of the idiosyncrasy of her cohorts, Govs. Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin and Luther Hodges.

KEPT PAWING

They kept pawing at each other across the queen's lap and around her fine straight back, as one team or the other gained ground. Or they'd leap up to lead cheers and give a fighter's handslap over her bonnet.

Later that dismal day, Elizabeth and Philip were exposed to a typical supermarket, filled with frozen goods and frigid housewives carrying more meat than their tattered pants were built for.

Philip's elegant nostrils quivered when the manager offered him a tidbit of American cheese, impaled on the point of a toothpick.

GOOD FOR RATS

"How do you like our cheese?" the manager asked solicitously, rubbing his hands.

"Good for rats, I guess," Philip snapped with the rapier wit that has made him the toast of the continent. (Antarctica.)

Princess Margaret and her earl have a crowded and dutifully dull schedule or, rather, shud-yule.

Their trip to the U.S. and visit with the American people have been arranged carefully, to see to it that they see as little of the country and its inhabitants as is possible.

Too bad. I'd bet they'd like it. And us.

Readers Express Views on Motorcycle Drivers

Almost all motorcyclists are good, safe drivers. Naturally, there are going to be a few reckless, uncaring ones. Even the horse and buggy days had that kind of people. Most motorcycle accidents are caused by auto drivers who either don't see the motorcyclist or don't care when they do.

The proposed crash helmet law now being discussed in Lansing and Detroit is ridiculous. It's the motorcyclist's head and if he wants to drive around with a crash helmet, that's his business—and his head. We might also add that his money has to buy the helmet. Next the government will be telling us what to wear and when. Nowadays a selected few "public servants" seem to think they can run everyone's life.

As to the proposed law against driving on the white line between lanes, a person should be ticketed for such an offense whether he's a motorcyclist or an auto driver. There's no special law needed here since an offense is just plain reckless driving. Let's put a stop to this continuing regimentation. We would like to remain free thinkers, able to make our own personal decisions.

What makes Mr. Kern think the City Fathers are going to uphold our wishes? On the average we do not even want water from Detroit. They should pay us to take it, not charge us the price we are paying for it. We were not asked whether we wanted it—we just got it. Detroit gets rich, and coffee and tea these go up because you have to mix it with something or you can't drink it.

Your recent editorial on "Bloody Telegraph" was of great interest to me. My husband and I are both truck drivers and travel Telegraph at least twice a week. People are in too big a hurry to get nowhere. Nine out of ten drivers on Telegraph will be half-way through an intersection before the light changes to green for them.

I remember reading of a communist that was to study Telegraph to try to figure out what could be done to cut its death toll. Let them start at any intersection and they will find the answer to their question.

True COs Serve at Various Jobs

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Burning a draft card as a protest in the name of conscientious objectors is the act of a charlatan.

There is no need for a genuine conscientious objector to burn anything. "COs" have very specific protection under the law, CROMLEY says they will not be required to serve in any military role.

Private talks with clergymen who work with conscientious objectors in key states convinces me this practice works out in practice.

There are at present about 5,000 COs working in medical and other noncombatant jobs with the armed services at home and overseas.

A conscientious objector who feels he cannot work with the military, even as a noncombatant medical aide, serves two years with a state, religious or private service agency. He and his local draft board work out what organization he will serve with, what job he will do and where.

There are roughly 2,500 of these nonmilitary-connected objectors now serving. About three out of four work in hospitals. Some of these are participating in medical research and experimentation projects.

Most of this objector group don't serve out their two years. A goodly number of those who About 200 are now overseas in resign do so to join the Army, Canada, Switzerland, Germany, Algeria, Bolivia, Honduras, Mexico, Congo and Southern Rhodesia.

Some work in real hot spots overseas—in Viet Nam with the International Volunteer Service, for example, and in Laos, Viet Nam and the Congo with the Mennonite Church or other religious groups. Some have died in service.

Some 883 of these objectors have at one time or another in the past 13 years worked in village rehabilitation, war relief, agricultural and animal husbandry improvement projects, the feeding of children and similar assistance programs in 43 foreign countries through the international service units of the various religious organizations which are cooperating in the work program.

Twelve per cent of these COs don't serve out their two years. A goodly number of those who About 200 are now overseas in resign do so to join the Army, Canada, Switzerland, Germany, Algeria, Bolivia, Honduras, Mexico, Congo and Southern Rhodesia.

About 90 per cent of these COs (those who refuse any military-connected service, even medical), come from six denominations—Mennonite and Brethren in Christ, Church of the Brethren, Religious Society of Friends, Old German Baptist Brethren, Jehovah's Witnesses and Church of Christ.

The other 10 per cent come mostly from 33 other Christian sects or denominations and seven non-Christian groups. About 1 per cent of the COs states no religious affiliation.

Among the conscientious objectors are even Buddhists (three in 13 years) and members of the Rosticulan Fellowship, the Baha' Faith World, the Essenes of Kosmon and the Faithists. Some agnostics have been accepted as COs.

Thirty-nine per cent of the conscientious objectors work with religious-affiliated organizations. The largest programs are carried out by the Mennonites, Methodist Brethren (German Baptist), Friends, Episcopalians and Presbyterians.

There are 1,200 nonprofit organizations in the conscientious objectors' work programs to which these COs may be ordered.

By W. B. RAGSDALE Jr.
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, never a man to tip his hand in advance, appears to be waiting until the last minute before naming his secretary of housing and urban development. The new department, made up of the agencies now under the Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA), begins life at midnight Monday. Some action must be taken by then, even if it is only to name an acting secretary to sign the payroll.

Up to now, Johnson hasn't given a hint of who he will name to the new Cabinet post. The Texas White House indicates no announcement is expected before the weekend.

'Eyes Not Hurt by Poor Light'

By Service Secrecy.
NEW YORK — Abraham Lincoln's eyes probably were not damaged by all the firelight studying he is reported to have done.

There is no evidence that reading with inadequate light can damage the eyes, says Dr. Jerry H. Jacobson, clinical assistant professor of surgery in ophthalmology at Cornell University Medical College here.

Adequate, nonglare illumination undoubtedly makes reading more comfortable, the physician says, but the eye is "quite resistant" to damage by anything short of direct injury.

Good news to those who make a habit of reading in bed is Dr. Jacobson's statement that this is not bad for the eyes. Also "mistakenly believed harmful" activities include wearing sunglasses, reading in the sun, looking at television and holding a book too close.

A person may get a temporary headache if he does these things to excess, but that is about all in Dr. Jacobson's opinion.

The man on the hottest seat is housing administrator Robert C. Weaver, who now runs the agencies. He has been waiting for some word on his fate since Johnson signed the bill creating the department Sept. 9.

In 1962, President John F. Kennedy announced he would appoint Weaver, a 57-year-old Negro, if Congress created the Cabinet post.

KENNEDY COMMITMENT

Congress didn't, and Johnson hasn't indicated that he considers Kennedy's commitment binding on him.

In fact, high administration sources say a major overhaul of top leadership in housing and urban matters is under consideration.

This could mean Weaver will be replaced along with commissioners Philip N. Brownstein of the Federal Housing Administration; Marie McGuire of the Public Housing Administration; William L. Clayton of the Urban Renewal Administration, and acting Commissioner Richard L. Still of the Community Facilities Administration.

Speculation on possible choices has ranged from the mayors of several major U.S. cities to former Rep. Albert

Rains, D-Ala., a long-time congressional specialist in housing matters.

HHFA officials say there are many organizational decisions which should be made soon. Alternative proposals have been worked out at HHFA and presented to the White House staff, but so far no decisions have been revealed.

And officials say little can be done until the President decides who will head the new department.

Jury Is Selected for Second Trial of U.S. Red Party

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twelve jurors who maintain they have never heard or read a derogatory word about the U.S. Communist party begin hearing testimony today in the party's second trial for refusing to register as a Soviet agent.

The jury of eight women and four men was picked yesterday to hear the case, brought by the government in U.S. district court under the controversial McCarran Internal Security Act of 1950.

Selection of the jury came after questioning of almost 40 prospective jurors resulted in the surprising claim by virtually the entire panel they had not seen or heard anything to put the party in a bad light.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Joseph A. Lowther, the chief prosecutor, said he would call about eight witnesses.

The government needed only one witness to get a conviction in the first trial three years ago. But the conviction was overturned by an appeals court which gave the prosecution an additional burden — to prove there was a volunteer available to register for the party.

Lowther is expected to produce two or three witnesses who will identify themselves as volunteers.

His list of tentative witnesses includes Mrs. Lulu Mae Thompson and Mrs. Eibel Klein Newton, who have testified in previous proceedings as ex-undercover informants for the FBI.

Also on the list are newsmen Oscar Mariotti, Lowther de-questing of 37 prospective jurors by trial Judge William B. Will Lissner of the New York Times and Paul Jeschke of UPI. Army Orders New Copter

Lockheed to Develop Revolutionary Craft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army has ordered development of a revolutionary high-speed helicopter to provide heavy fire support for the ground forces in the late 1960s.

In its first bid to enter the helicopter production field, Lockheed Aircraft Corp. yesterday won an order to develop the "compound helicopter" which will be armed with machine guns, grenade launchers, rockets and antitank missiles.

The so-called advanced aerial fire support system will be able to fly faster than 230 miles per hour, which is twice as fast as the armed helicopters now in Viet Nam.

It will be the first chopper designed exclusively to carry weapons. Those now in use were adapted from troop and cargo carrying helicopters.

Lockheed, usually identified with speedy jet fighters and military transports, came up with two design features which won it the development contract for the new Army helicopter and opened the door to a variety of other possible uses:

• It is a compound helicopter; that is, it flies not only on its rotary wing but has a pusher propeller in the tail and short stubby wings like an airplane to give it lift and greater forward speed.

• It has a rigid rotor system instead of the flapping rotary blades on conventional helicopters. This means it will be highly stable while hovering or in forward flight, eliminating the shaking characteristics of present helicopters and giving the two-man crew greater accuracy with their weapons.

POSSIBLE USES

In the future the compound helicopter may be equipped with a jet engine and expanded into a passenger or cargo-carrying vehicle with speeds up to 500 miles an hour. Commercial versions could be used in intercity and airport-to-downtown transportation.

Shortly, the Army will contract for 10 test versions of the Lockheed craft. It will be powered by 3,000-horsepower gas turbine engines developed by General Electric Co.

A month ago, Lockheed and General Electric teamed to win the Air Force's $2-billion contract for the giant C-141 jet transport plane to carry 365 troops. The compound helicopter, assuming success of the prototypes, may become operational in the Army in about two years.

Ruling Stirs Wisconsin Legal Snarls

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — One court was shut down, two youths charged with murder were freed, at least temporarily, and confusion swirled in legal circles today after a Wisconsin Supreme Court decision stripping district attorneys of the power to issue arrest warrants.

The ruling in a Milwaukee paternity case said warrants should be issued only by a "neutral, deliberate and impartial magistrate." The court decided unanimously that district attorneys, who sign the majority of warrants under Wisconsin's legal system, did not meet that test.

Faced with a probable parade of prosecutors to courts to obtain warrants, Milwaukee County Judge John Krueger closed his courtroom Wednesday and postponed all proceedings until the issue is clarified.

Milwaukee County Judge F. Ryan Duffy dismissed third-degree murder charges contained in a warrant against two teenagers accused of fatally beating a man in a street robbery. Prosecutors were expected to refile the charges.

GUIDELINES SOUGHT

Dodge County Dist. Atty. John P. Kaiser of Juneau called a meeting of the executive committee of the Wisconsin District Attorneys Association with the state attorney general's office next Wednesday to try to arrive at guidelines.

Kaiser noted the decision apparently does not affect past conviction. The unanimous opinion said warrants must be issued by neutral magistrates "in the future."

However, court appeals of convictions on this point appeared likely.

The state's highest court said: "We must determine whether a district attorney is the equivalent of a neutral and detached magistrate who may constitutionally be empowered to authorize the issuance of the warrant. Our conclusion is that he is not."

OVERNIGHT CHANGE

"You can't throw an opinion that embodies so much change overnight at a government of this size," said County Executive John Doyle, Milwaukee County's highest elected official. "We're not running a popcorn stand."

Kaiser called the past system a fair one because district attorneys prevent unjustified warrants from being issued when they review the evidence for an arrest.

"If that's the ruling, okay," said Judge Allen M. Stranz of Forest and Florence counties. "But I don't intend to act as father confessor to every police officer, game warden and disgruntled citizen that walks into my office. I don't believe I would be qualified to hear their cases then."

CMU Faculty Group Grips

Testimony Counters Earlier Statements

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP)—A group of Central Michigan University faculty members complained to a Senate committee Wednesday about everything from the school's president to parking regulations.

Their testimony countered Tuesday's and part of Wednesday's pro-administration statements by faculty members subpoenaed to the committee hearing into faculty-administration relationships at CMU.

Among those testifying were Associate History Prof. William Bulger Jr. and Assistant English Prof. Hazel Emery.

Bulger testified to four years of disputes with CMU President Judson Foust, and Valled Foust "a well-trained debater... who at times seems more interested in smashing down suggestions than in examining these suggestions in the light of their validity."

BEGAN LAST SPRING

The investigation began last spring after some CMU faculty members made anti-administration complaints to Sen. Edward Robinson, D-Deerborn, the committee chairman.

Bulger, who said under questioning he has never been punished for his views, said "the door to the president's office always is open, but many faculty members are reluctant to go through that door for fear of the treatment they may receive."

Foust, who sat in the front row of spectators and took many notes Tuesday and Wednesday, declined to comment to newsmen. He noted he is to testify Nov. 16.

Miss Emery criticized orders from outside the English Department on how to teach English. She said the situation had caused many faculty members to leave that "we have a decimated department."

TREATED LIKE DIRT

She said her stands had caused her "to be treated as if one were dirt," although she said she had not suffered in promotion or salary from her beliefs.

She called dissatisfaction with the administration "very large" among colleagues in her department whom she knew well. Richard Brooks, an associate professor of political science, said "high centralization" and making of normal department decisions by higher authority hurt the school.

Issue Warrant in Slaying of Baby Sitter

DETROIT (AP)—A first degree murder warrant was issued Wednesday against Najeb Kadri, 21, wanted in the Monday slaying of his stepson's baby sitter.

The warrant was issued in Recorder's (Criminal) Court after a 24-hour delay in action on a police request because of election day Tuesday, a court holiday.

Gloria Julie Pasanen, 18, the baby sitter, was slashed to death with a long-bladed knife at the apartment of Kadri's estranged wife, Eileen, 23, while sitting with baby Michael, 18 months. Michael was unharmed.

Kadri, missing from his baby-sitting job at a cafe, has not been seen since prior to the slaying.

Mrs. Kadri, a cafe hostess, said she married Kadri, a Lebanese, last February but had decided to leave him. Michael is her son by a previous marriage. Her first husband was killed in a plane crash, she said.

Curiosity Leads to Animal Fossils Said Oldest Ever Found

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A geologist's curiosity about an interesting ledge of rocks in the Canadian arctic may have yielded the oldest animal remains ever found. The fossils are believed to be at least 720 million years old — pushing back the known dates of animal life by at least 120 million years.

The fossilized remains are of small, clamlike creatures called brachiopods. They may be even older than 720 million years since the age-telling process called radiodating establishes only a minimum.

Waited Long Enough

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — B. P. Lozier has filed for divorce, charging his wife Isobel deserted him in 1933, two years after their marriage.

In the same ledge were several kinds of fossilized tracks and trails made by burrowing wormlike animals and small tubes and spines of an unknown species.

McNair and six Dartmouth students spent six weeks last summer on Victoria Island, north of the Canadian mainland. He said while returning to camp one day he noted the rock ledge about one half mile away.

"I was cold and tired and almost didn't go to inspect it," McNair said. "But when I did, I knew how gold prospectors felt when they stumbled across the mother lode." Previous fossil finds have shown advanced species such as the brachiopods existed in the Cambrian era which began about 600 million years ago. The

In the time clock of life on earth, dinosaurs didn't appear until 200 million years ago and mammals — characterized by hair and blood — were relative newcomers 60 million years ago. Human beings date back a million years or so.

The brachiopods, measuring one-half inch across, had two interlocking, paper-thin shells, which were ridged with growth years.

U.S. Wheat Deal Less Than India Hoped For

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The United States agreed today to provide India with half a million tons of wheat worth $39 million. It was much less than the government of hungry India hoped for.

The agreement insured the continued arrival of 20,000 tons daily for the month of December under the "food for peace" program.

The wheat agreements formerly were signed on an annual or longer basis. Many Indians charge that the United States is doing out grain on a monthly basis so it can exert pressure on India to settle the Kashmir dispute with Pakistan.

American officials say the new arrangement is intended to bring home to India the importance of increasing its own food production.

The wheat is sold to India for rupees. Almost all of these are then lent back on a long-term, low-interest basis for economic development projects.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—The Rhodesian government brought general import controls into force today in an attempt to stop a heavy drain on its foreign assets.

The government announced

Wednesday night that the foreign assets of the Reserve Bank of Rhodesia dropped about $13 million—or about 18 per cent.

The drop was attributed to a sharp upsurge in buying when a unilateral declaration of independence by the Rhodesian government appeared imminent. The bank's foreign assets together with gold holdings of more than $9.8 million provide the external backing for Rhodesia's currency. Between Oct. 15 and Oct. 30, the assets dropped from $70.6 million to $57.6 million.

MONTREAL (AP)—The International Air Transport Association announced today its member airlines have agreed by mail vote to raise the limit of their liability for the death of passengers on international flights to the United States to a maximum of $50,000.

Previously the liability limit was set at $8,300 by the 1929 Warsaw convention, to which 84 airlines in 75 countries were signatories. This was doubled to $16,600 by a 1955 amendment to which 45 countries agreed. Under the terms of the IATA agreement, member airlines operating to and from the United States must increase their liability to $50,000. Members not subject to the approval of governments concerned.

ROME (AP)—Millions of workers in Italian industry, commerce and agriculture got in the past quarter, the govern-automatic pay raises of 2 to 6 percent announced. The scale was a result of a rise in the cost of living since 1956 and has been rising since.

The official cost of living rose from 143 points to 144. The raises are provided by the govern-law.

Phony Charities Set for Big Holiday Push

CHICAGO (AP)—Fund raisers, whose favorite charity is themselves are getting ready to capitalize on the spirit of giving engendered by the approaching holiday season.

The busiest time of year is beginning for the charity swindlers who, by the time Christmas is over, will have frisked generous Americans of millions of dollars, the Better Business Bureau says.

"They're stepping up their activities now," John Nichols, vice president of the Chicago bureau, said in an interview Wednesday night. "Little storefront so-called religious groups, for instance, count on people being in a warmer mood."

Charity swindlers net about $100 million a year, the bureau said. Although there's no telling what amount is made during the Christmas season, the volume of complaints then indicates it's considerable.

There are numerous ways by which gypsies and crooked professional fund raisers enrich themselves. Often, legitimate and worthwhile causes are their victims.

"When they sign up for the services of professional fund raisers they aren't aware how much will be siphoned off as administrative or solicitation costs," said Nichols.

"We have cases in which as much as 90 per cent of the money collected is skimmed off," he said. And although inefficiency occasionally is to blame, usually somebody is fattening himself on the public generosity.

How can the individual donor be sure a major portion of his charity dollar actually is going to aid a worthwhile cause?

Telephone the Better Business Bureau before donating, Nichols advised.

Leader of Reds Hunted in Java

Accused of Plotting Foiled Jakarta Coup

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The Indonesian army ringed a central Java area today where Communist party boss D. N. Aidit was believed hiding.

Maj. Sajidman, an officer of the crack Diponegoro division, told newsmen commandos and 5,000 Diponegoro troops were hunting for Aidit in a 100-square-mile area south of Bojohall on the slopes of Mt. Merapi, an active volcano.

Maj. Gen. Suharto, the army chief, said Wednesday that Aidit, a fugitive since the attempted coup Oct. 1, had been seen frequently in central Java in Surakarta, Klaten and Bojohall. The army has accused the Indonesian Communist party, the PKI, of masterminding the attempted coup.

SECRETARY ARRESTED

Sajidman said Aidit's private secretary was arrested last Sunday in central Java.

Communist terrorism in central Java was reported to have tapered off since Oct. 23 after two army commando battalions moved into the area to reinforce units already there.

The official news agency Antara said planes of the Indonesian air force dropped pamphlets and made reconnaissance flights to help the ground forces combing the area.

Observers said the armed forces' massive operations in central Java were apparently aimed at crushing Communist or pro-Communist rebels before their terrorism spread to other parts of Indonesia and touched off a civil war.

Communist terrorism in central Java was reported to have tapered off since Oct. 23 after two army commando battalions moved into the area to reinforce units already there.

The official news agency Antara said planes of the Indonesian air force dropped pamphlets and made reconnaissance flights to help the ground forces combing the area.

Observers said the armed forces' massive operations in central Java were apparently aimed at crushing Communist or pro-Communist rebels before their terrorism spread to other parts of Indonesia and touched off a civil war.

Marine General's Letter, Criticizing Lack of Forces in Viet, Is Called Obsolete

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. Marine general's letter complaining of insufficient forces and authority in Viet Nam was written last July before President Johnson ordered the big military buildup. Marine and defense officials said today.

Thus, they told a reporter, the views expressed by Maj. Gen. Lewis W. Walt have been overtaken by events and are obsolete, these officials said.

There was no direct word here as to whether Walt, commanding general of the 3rd Marine Division in Viet Nam, has changed his views.

However, one knowledgeable Marine Corps source said "I am sure he has different feelings now."

CAUSED A STIR

Publication of Walt's letter Tuesday caused a stir at high levels in the Pentagon.

It was reported that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara asked for an explanation when it came to his attention.

A check was made by the Navy Department and the Marine Corps and McNamara was told that the letter was a personal one addressed to friends and family and was old stuff.

This apparently satisfied McNamara.

U.S. to Watch 'Cosmodrome'

Space Spectacular Is Hinted by Russians

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — U. S. "spy in the sky" satellites will keep a photographic eye on a possible build-up to a new manned space spectacular at Russia's No. 1 "cosmodrome" near the Aral Sea during the next few weeks, according to informed sources.

Interest in what the Soviet might be up to was spurred by Monday's successful orbiting of a giant Proton 2 satellite from the firing center at Baikonur, in the southern Russian province of Kazakhstan.

Baikonur is the Soviet counterpart to America's Cape Kennedy. The massive cosmodrome, which includes launching sites at Karsakpay and Tyuratam, evidently is the heart and brains of the Russian manned space program.

It was learned yesterday that Baikonur was the launching site for Proton 2, a 27,000-pound satellite, that tied the Proton 1, launched July 16 for the title of heaviest working payload in space.

The fact that the blast-off took place at Baikonur rather than from a second firing center for unmanned space vehicles at Kasputin far added to the belief among several U. S. cosmic experts that the Proton project is linked directly to the Russian manned spaceflight program.

TEST MODEL

Some U. S. officials suggested that Proton 2 was a test model of a space base to which perhaps a half-dozen Soviet cosmonauts may someday — perhaps within weeks — be ferried in separate launchings from Baikonur.

Informed sources said it "could be assumed" that America's orbiting "spy" satellites — notably the picture-taking Samos moonlets — would keep an especially sharp eye on activities at Baikonur during the next several weeks.

The Samos satellites are part of a U. S. Defense Department space reconnaissance program that began five years ago.

The orbital cameras will search for — if they have not already found — the massive new launching pads built for the powerful booster rocket that launched Protons 1 and 2.

Satellite Launching

Delayed Second Time

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — An attempt to launch a new earth-mapping satellite named Geos-1 has been stalled for the second time this week by a faulty electrical circuit.

The Federal Space Agency yesterday called off today's scheduled launching of the geodetic explorer and said a delay of at least a day or two was expected.

Official pronouncements by even though they may be made military officials who still be targets in North Viet Nam, such as the capital city of Hanoi.

Letters to friends and family. Actually, there are some high and bombing of more important.

Walt wrote: "We have neither the forces nor the authority to do the entire job under the present policy guidance that we operate within."

Walt's letter also said that Viet Nam stood at about 72,000 of which 25,000 were Marines.

Radiation Expert Tells of N-Blast Effects

By L. GARY THORNE
Nuclear fallout has been described as looking like "coarse snow," a visiting radiologist told a group of area physicians last night.

Dr. Eugene L. Saenger, professor of radiology at the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine, spoke at the monthly meeting of the Oakland County Medical Society at the Kingsley Inn.

A recognized expert on radiation, Dr. Saenger is a member of the National Council on Radiation Protection and Measurements.

He said that nuclear fallout seems to scare people the most. Depending on the size of the bomb, it can effect hundreds of thousands of square miles.

BLAST EFFECT

Illustrating the power of a 20-megaton nuclear bomb exploded on the ground, Dr. Saenger said that a severe blast effect would destroy brick buildings within a circle with a 15-mile diameter.

Moderate blast effects would destroy frame buildings in a circle with a 32-mile diameter.

A ground blast would create a crater with a half-mile diameter.

However, Dr. Saenger said greater damage can be done with a nuclear blast that explodes in the air.

Severe blast effects would be felt in a circle with a diameter of 20 miles, while moderate blast effects would reach 40 miles. Serious fire damage would go 36 miles.

Describing the tremendous power of a 20-megaton bomb, the radiologist said 14 millions of ocean water would be vaporized by such a weapon.

Dr. Saenger, detailing some of the medical effects of nuclear bombs, said that burns accounted for about one-half of the deaths from the two atomic bombs dropped in Japan during World War II.

The effect of radiation on human beings is measured in units called "roentgen."

A dose of about 450 roentgens in total body radiation can produce death in humans.

A 20-megaton bomb would produce some 5,000 roentgens between the first hour and the second day after the blast.

Touching on the political aspects of nuclear bombs and fallout, Dr. Saenger, who is also director of the radioisotope laboratory at Cincinnati General Hospital, said he could offer no solution to nuclear bombs and fallout — which he considers the number one public health problem.

"We don't know very well how to protect the civilian population," he admitted.

He said that if a massive program were begun to build bomb shelters, other countries might look on this as an overt declaration of war.

Dr. Saenger added that they might view such a program here in the same light as Americans would such a building program in certain foreign countries.

The visiting radiologist did not discuss what physicians might do in the event of a nuclear bombing.

He doubted if there would be very much that could be done.

Dr. Saenger mentioned, however, that the American Medical Association has pushed on a national level for some study of so-called "disaster medicine."

This would apply not only to a bombing attack, but to natural disasters — hurricanes, tornadoes and the like — as well.

Harmony at Animal Farm

By HUDSON-WILLES
Have you seen a dog taking a skunk for a walk lately? Or a fox riding comfortably in the front seat of an automobile?

A registered nurse at Wheelock Memorial Hospital in Goodrich, Miss Weller is a devoted animal lover.

Miss Weller, who houses her pets on a 4-acre parcel of land at 3510 Dixie, at one time accommodated seven baby rabbits, seven wild mallards, a broken-winged pigeon and an undernourished crow.

"He (the crow) came back every day for his dog food and vegetables," she said.

Her present entourage includes a fox, a raccoon, two dogs, a cat and a skunk.

Each is insured, tame and friendly.

Harmony prevails at the Weller "animal ranch." She insists that all of her current crop of pets can be left in the same enclosure without mishap.

Her dogs, Heather, an 18-month-old golden retriever and Susie, a 20-month-old part-

The animals are kept in 8-by-20-foot pens made of chain-link for one year at the F. H. Gasow Veterinary Hospital, 1521 Wood. She gained experience in the ward, Birmingham.

Asked about her strong fancy for all kinds of animals, Miss Weller replied, "I like it."

"It's been a hobby at mine as far back as I can remember."

PRETTY FOXY—Betsy, the fox, is a frequent passenger in Nancy Weller's car. Tame and friendly, Betsy is a resident of Miss Weller's animal paradise on Loon Lake at 3510 Dixie, Waterford Township.

Exam Is Slated for Area Man

Charge Suspect With Felonious Assault

Preliminary examination for a 45-year-old Waterford Township man charged with felonious assault has been set for 1:30 p.m. Nov. 17.

Carl Model of 3162 Watkins Lake demanded examination Tuesday night at his arraignment before Waterford Township Justice Patrick K. Daly. He was released on $500 bond.

Model allegedly threatened Vern Acha of 2119 Windy Hill, Pontiac Township with a pistol late Tuesday afternoon at Beardslee Truck Sales, 2688 M59, according to Waterford Township police.

Acha then reportedly knocked the weapon away from Model.

However, he was hit several times with a steel bar, allegedly by Model's 16-year-old son, Charles, Waterford Township police reported.

SATISFACTORY CONDITION

Acha was treated by a private physician and later taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital where he was reported in satisfactory condition yesterday.

The son reportedly was taken to the county juvenile home after being apprehended by township police.

Man Is Bound Over in Fatal Stabbing

Clyde Richardson of 296 W. Wilson was bound over to Circuit Court on a charge of manslaughter yesterday after examination in Municipal Court.

Circuit Court arraignment was set for Nov. 10.

Richardson, 39, was released after posting $2,000 bond.

He had originally been charged with first-degree murder in the fatal stabbing Oct. 22 of 38-year-old Estelle Dudley. The victim died shortly after being stabbed as she stood in front of a jukebox at a South End restaurant.

View Plan for Training Area Police

A tentative budget and curriculum guideline for a proposed law enforcement training program in Oakland County was presented yesterday to a special committee studying enforcement problems.

Since income in the budget hinges on the extent of participation by county law enforcement units, the committee called a Dec. 1 meeting with city and township officials to present its proposal.

Expenditures in the suggested budget, prepared for the committee by Lawrence J. Baril of the Michigan State University School of Police Administration, ranged from $25,700 to $34,700.

This includes a proposed salary range of $11,500 to $14,500 for a full-time program coordinator.

Tuition rates in the income portion of the budget specified $100 for a six-week program, $50 for two weeks of training, $25 for a one-week program and $15 for one to three days.

Another tentative budget, submitted to the committee by Glenford S. Leonard, director of the Oak Park Department of Public Safety, called for total expenditures of $21,600.

Leonard also outlined a proposed curriculum program which included recruit training, investigation, riot control, traffic law enforcement.

He proposed seminars on sex crimes, Supreme Court decisions, abnormal persons and police instructor technique.

The study on law enforcement problems was suggested by Circuit Court Judge Arthur B. Moore to determine how police can perform at maximum efficiency in the face of present restrictive laws.

Delos Hamlin, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, appointed the committee in September.

Art Exhibit Opens Today at Oakland U.

A major public exhibition titled "World Primitive Art 1955" opened today at Oakland University with a guest lecture on African art by Professor Roy Sieber, Indiana University art historian.

Scheduled for 2:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre, the lecture was to be followed by the opening tea in the University Art Gallery.

Both events were open to the public. The exhibit will run through Nov. 23.

It includes some 55 works of art, according to John Galloway, chairman of the OU art department and specialist in primitive art.

Art of Negro Africa, Oceania, and the Precolumbian Americas, many of which have been privately housed by collectors, are being displayed.

MASTERPIECES

Others are museum masterpieces which have been included because of their interest and rarity.

Most pieces are sculptured masks, figures and ritual devices, though some ceramic works are shown.

Galloway noted that a vast amount of literature on primitive art is available to the professional and amateur student.

American Education Week

Special Activities Slated in Waterford

Open houses, book fairs, PTA meetings, demonstrations and special programs will highlight activity next week as Waterford Township Schools celebrate American Education Week.

Open houses are scheduled for all 31 schools of the system while PTA meetings will be conducted at most of them.

Book sales are slated for Burt, Donelson, Houghton, Leggett and Waterford Village schools.

Congressman Billie S. Farnum will be featured speaker at a PTA meeting at Williams Lake School next Friday night.

Other guest speakers will be Dr. Marshall Jameson, coordinator of elementary education of Waterford Township Schools, and Ralph Stram, a case worker of Oakland County Protective Services.

'RIGHTS FOR KIDS'

Jameson will speak on "Bill of Rights for Kids" at Lambert School next Thursday night. Stram will be a guest the same night of Leggett PTA.

One of the schools—Drayton Plains—has a slogan to promote its program: "Come to school to see what your money buys! See the greatest educational show on earth."

Third graders of Burt school are sponsoring a breakfast for their parents Wednesday morning.

Stringham School will hold an "International Night" next Thursday with four students of the foreign student exchange program speaking on their travels last summer.

Houghton School won't hold its open house until the following week because some of its pupils will be at camp.

It is estimated that 32 million parents in the U.S. will visit schools next week.

American Education Week is sponsored by the National Education Association, the American Legion, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the U.S. Office of Education.

The theme of the observation this year is "Invest in Learning."

Chairman of the celebration in Waterford Township is Mrs. Beatrice Arnold, principal of Houghton School.

Detroit Mayor to Speak at Billie Farnum Dinner

Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh will be the principal speaker tomorrow at the 19th Congressional District Democratic dinner in honor of Rep. Billie S. Farnum.

The 7:30 p.m. dinner will be held at Roma Hall, 27777 Schoolcraft between Inkster and Middle Belt, Livonia.

It will be Cavanagh's first major appearance since winning reelection Tuesday.

The dinner is a joint affair involving both the Wayne and Oakland County sections of the 19th District, which Farnum represents.

The idea for the single dinner was worked out by Chairman Robert Jackson of the Oakland 19th and Ronald Martiros of the Wayne 19th.

Court Orders Leave Death Row Filled, Gas Chamber Empty

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Death is taking a strange holiday in California.

The little green-walled, two-chair gas chamber in San Quentin State Prison — where four women and 190 men have paid their lives for crimes — has executed no one in almost three years.

Death row, originally set up to house 34 condemned men, now has 47. Two have been there more than eight years.

Twenty more also would be there were it not for appeals now part of a courtroom logjam likely to prolong the moratorium on executions indefinitely.

There's an irony in this. Gov. Edmund G. Brown tried to get the legislature to abolish capital punishment. It wouldn't do it. He then he asked for a moratorium on executions. The legislature turned him down. Now, in effect, he has it anyway.

The last execution was on Jan. 23, 1963. Since then a steady buildup of death row inmates has conformed to the routine of being locked up 20 1/2 hours out of 24 in 4 1/2 x 11-foot cells. Under armed guard, the condemned men exercise the other 3 1/2 hours in a fenced enclosure. Their view of the world outside is what they see on television screens at night.

"The absence of executions in California for nearly three years is primarily the result of various court decisions including the Morse, Dorado and Griffin decisions," explained Walter Dunbar, director of the California Department of Corrections.

He captioned these State Supreme Court rulings:

"Morse decision — During the penalty trial — in California the penalty is determined in a trial separate from that on the verdict — no reference can be made to the fact that men with life sentences are eligible for parole in seven years.

"Dorado decision — A suspect must be informed of his right to remain silent, his right to an attorney and the fact that anything he says may be used against him in court.

"Griffin decision — No reference can be made in court to the defendant's failure to testify on the witness stand."

Since the Jan. 7, 1964, Morse decision, rendered in the case of a San Diego teen-ager convicted of killing his mother with a rock and his sister with a baseball bat, there have been 26 penalty reversals based on it. Eleven killers have been retried and are back on death row.

Three got a switch from the gas chamber to life. One was Iva Kroeger, the eccentric sharp-tongued grandmother who buried a strangled couple in the basement of her San Francisco house so she could take over their auto court.

Legal breathers are held over this staggering question — does failure to tell a man, before he confesses, of his rights open retrial doors for cases going back into the past?

The California Supreme Court has ruled these can go no further back than June 22, 1964, date of a U.S. Supreme Court decision on which the California Dorado decision was based.

Now California's attorney general waits for a U.S. Supreme Court review affirming this. Otherwise, said the California Supreme Court, it "would impose impossible burdens upon the administration of justice."

The chief justice of the California Supreme Court, Roger J. Traynor, emphasized recently that the courts are not "codifiers of criminal law."

"They deal sternly with those who take the law in their own hands. When they insist that an accused be brought into court and tried by fair procedures, even if it entails a new trial, they may slow down the speed of justice but they also give every man assurance that, should he ever be brought to court, he will be brought to justice fairly," Traynor said.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

U Thant of Burma says he hasn't decided whether he will accept a second term as secretary general of the United Nations.

"I think there is no particular individual who can be regarded as indispensable for a particular job," Thant said last night at a dinner given by the U.N. Correspondents Association in New York.

Thant, who has completed four years of his five-year term, said he will let the news-men know "at the appropriate time" and assured them "You will be among the first to know."

Golf, Filming Hard on Bob's Back

Comedian Bob Hope is recovering from a back injury suffered on the golf course, then aggravated when pulling bikini-clad actress Elke Sommer from a bathtub on a movie set.

A spokesman said Hope suffered a pinched nerve in his back playing golf Sunday.

During the Hollywood filming yesterday of his new movie, "Boy, Did I Get a Wrong Number," the script called for Hope to pull Miss Sommer from the bathtub. He apparently reinjured his back during the filming of the scene.

Seek Political Viet Peace, Says High Court Judge

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas says he believes the United States should seek a political settlement in Viet Nam.

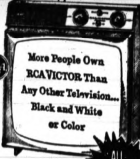

"The solution in Viet Nam is not a military one," he said in a public lecture last night at Hobart and William Smith Colleges in Geneva, N.Y.

Canadian Election Interest at Low Ebb

BOY FOUND — State Police Trooper Ken Bare of the Paw Paw post carries Timothy Roberts, 2, after he was found unharmed yesterday in the woods a quarter-mile from his rural Sawyer home. The boy had been missing 21 hours.

By MAX HARRELSON
OTTAWA (AP) — Rarely have Canadians approached a national election with such apathy as they have shown in the campaign now drawing to a close.

Various reasons have been given, but the most plausible appears to be a public conviction that Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's Liberal party will win in Monday's voting.

Public opinion polls and surveys virtually have ruled out a victory by Conservative leader John G. Diefenbaker.

The main interest is in whether the Liberals will win a majority of the 265 House of Commons seats and thus be able to form a majority government.

That was Pearson's objective in calling the election after 2½ years in office.

NOT LISTENING

A veteran political writer for the Toronto Globe & Mail, who has visited all parts of the country, remarked: "Nowhere is it evident that the people who will vote on Nov. 8 are listening to what is being said. In truth, very little is being said that is worth listening to."

In one Quebec district, the Conservative candidate has found a way to stir interest. He opens his rallies with the first reel of a Brigitte Bardot film, speaks for half an hour, then shows the rest of the picture.

"The formula has been a smashing success," said candidate Gerard Vermette.

T.C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic party, blamed the lack of enthusiasm on what he called the disenchantment and disillusionment of the public with both Pearson and Diefenbaker.

ATTACKS 'THE MESS'
Diefenbaker, 70, has conceived his attack on what he calls "the mess" in Ottawa — Since the Pearson government has accepted them, this has become a dead issue.

AP SPECIAL REPORT

Another issue which has played little part in the campaign is anti-Americanism. Criticism of the United States was a major part of Diefenbaker's 1958 campaign and it bobbed up to some extent in 1962. Diefenbaker now is supporting U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

MAIN QUESTIONS
The two main questions on the campaign are the pact on auto parts and the question of exporting Canadian water to the United States.

Diefenbaker charged that Canada got the short end of the deal. He said the auto parts pact gave U.S. consumers no benefits, and since then, price cuts on Canadian cars have been announced.

Says Writer Nearing 50

There's No Such Thing as Growing Old Gracefully

By LEO MARKS
Written for Hal Boyle

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Reflections of a man nearing 50; or, things my father (who's nearing 80) never taught me:

There's no such thing as growing old gracefully. Who ever coined that must have been in his 30s looking back on his 20s.

Old soldiers don't just fade away. They just keep talking about their military exploits, some of which sound so good with age and repetition that they wish they really had experienced them.

Here's one of mine I remem-

2,500 Workers Strike State Refrigerator Firm

GREENVILLE (AP) — The strike of Gibson Refrigerator's 2,500 workers went into its second day today as mediators sought a resumption of new contract negotiations.

Local 137 of the United Auto Workers called the walkout at 9 a.m. Wednesday following failure of round-the-clock negotiations to produce a new contract. The old contract expired at midnight Tuesday.

HEIRESS WEDS — Gordon Waddell, 29, and his bride, the former Mary Oppenheimer, 21, leave St. Mary's Church in Johannesburg, South Africa, yesterday following their marriage. The bride is the daughter of South Africa's gold and diamond multi-millionaire, Harry Oppenheimer. Waddell is the son of a wealthy Glasgow, Scotland, stockbroker. Negroes, invited to the wedding, numbered over 4,000 and cheered enthusiastically throughout the ceremony. The bride's father is a supporter of the Multi-racial Progressive Party in apartheid South Africa.

ber vividly. My artillery outfit on the Rhine ran out of our regular eight-inch gun ammunition and had to send back to one of the French ports for more. There was none, but they sent us some shells from the cruiser Minneapolis, in port at the time, and we fired those until ours showed up.

SHELL FRAGMENTS
Can you imagine what the Germans must have thought when they picked up shell fragments painted, "U.S.S. Minneapolis," on the other side of the Rhine?

Shortly after that they surrendered. * * *

And have you noticed lately: How old politicians never seem to disappear? They keep showing up every Fourth of July. And only you recall who they are?

PRETTY GIRLS
How much prettier and younger the girls who walk by (without looking at you anymore) seem every year? * * *

How everyone in the office you've been working with for years suddenly seems older, and a casual stroll over to the corner mirror doesn't exactly vindicate you, either?

And you try sneaking up on the tattle-tale mirror from another angle, and it's worse? How your kids treat you with deference instead of defiance? And the wife starts giving you that "Well, how-are-we-today?" Once-over every morning?

If you've answered any one of these questions with a "yes," stop rocking the boat, brother.

Carrier Toting Enough N-Warheads to Blow Hanoi off Map

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

CRUISING IN THE SOUTH CHINA SEA — (NEA) — The USS Independence, largest aircraft carrier committed to the Viet Nam war, is floating with enough nuclear warheads in her hull to blow Hanoi to hell.

The officers know it. Their men know it. Probably, a lot of wives and sweethearts know it.

Nonetheless, proving it is a bomb of a different megaton.

This is one of those closed-mouth and open-face military secrets about which, with an elbow jab and a wink, the brass will say nothing.

A jittery ensign, looking fairer refers inquiries to a lieutenant. The lieutenant to a commander and the commander to the captain.

WON'T SAY

And the captain? "I neither confirm nor deny the rumor of nuclear weapons," says Independence skipper John Kennedy. "But, of course, everyone is free to draw his own conclusions."

And everyone does, from cooks to coxswains.

"I think it's pretty much common knowledge," says one 18-year-old. "It's impossible to keep a thing like that secret among 4,200 men who live in close contact for six or seven months at a stretch."

Another enlisted man adds: "I walk by the guards every day and never pay them no mind. Sometimes I've thought about the things down there... naturally. But it don't worry me none."

LIKE ANY OTHER

And a third man: "Have I seen them? Are you kidding? In the first place, from what I hear, they look just like any other bomb and so you could trip over one in the mess hall and not know it."

"And, anyway, they don't let nobody but a few special people down into the arms room. The captain himself, I hear, has to get permission to enter that part of the ship."

That the big bangs are here is indisputable. What kind and how many, however, is conjecture.

The probability is they are low-yield, lightweight bombs, the type most jet craft aboard would be capable of carrying, like conventionals, under their wings.

SIMPLE ADDITION

There are a dozen Phantom F-4s in one of the ship's squadrons, for example, and each is capable of hauling up to 12,000 pounds of nuclear explosives.

Simple addition indicates that this deadly dozen alone could load up with 72 tons of atomic energy.

Phantoms fly at least twice, and probably nearly thrice, the speed of sound.

FOR SHOW

But, having nukes and using nukes are separate considerations. Some feel they are for years the way it's going. What are we going to do, drag on for years with it?

"I say use them if we got them," a 10-year Navy salt mumbled over a pair of hose he was washing in a sink. "This thing could drag on for years the way it's going. What are we going to do, drag on for years with it?"

A sock-scrubbing companion took exception:

"That would be stepping over the line. That's aggression. We wouldn't have a friend left in the world even if we were successful."

"So, what's new? How many friends we got now?"

NO WONDER

"Well, at least we can hold our heads up high."

"Ha! No wonder we're always getting them shot at."

"Look, do you know what the bomb can do? I read someplace in a full atomic war, 90 million Americans would die the first day. 90 million! You want that?"

"No, I don't want that—my wife's mother maybe, but nobody else."

NEW LIGHT

The argument raged, most likely to end in a soap suds fight.

Men at war, like men at peace, cannot be serious for long.

evening movie. Politics inevitably give way to poker.

But deep in the intestines of this massive ship is hell's fire. And everybody knows it. Including, to be sure, Hanoi.

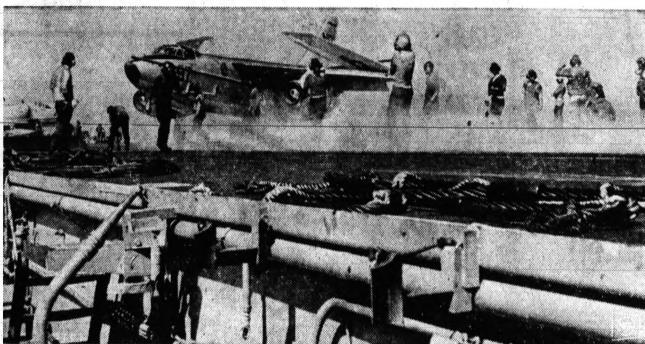

Missile Shots Curbed to Aid Deer Hunters

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Spokesmen at this southern New Mexico missile range say all missile firings that might necessitate daytime use of an 864,000-acre safety-impact area have been halted for the current deer season, ending Nov. 21.

The same action was taken last month in southeast Utah so hunters would be protected from falling boosters in the 271,000-acre booster impact area set aside for Athena rockets.

Hospital Gets Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has approved a $306,800 grant to the Herman Keifer Hospital in Detroit to dark thoughts. One worries more about the quality of the practical nurses.

Drug Is Relief for Depression

Eases Woes Without Tranquilizing Patient

By Science Service
NEW YORK — A drug that relieves depression without tranquilizing the patient has shown continued and impressive success in tests reported here recently.

The antidepressant, called desipramine, "definitely" helped two out of every three people tested, said Dr. James E. Reeves of San Diego, Calif.

Dr. Reeves called for increasing use of the drug as an instrument in therapy. Desipramine is already in moderate use.

The exact action of the drug has not been well defined, Dr. Reeves noted. However, when tested on rats tranquilized by a chemical called reserpine, desipramine reversed symptoms of "profound sedation, muscular rigidity and decreased motor activity."

Thirty-three patients were selected for the experiment. All had been seen in private therapy and all had experienced depression as an important element in their troubles.

Each was given 100 capsules containing desipramine to take after meals. Younger patients reported benefits within four to seven days, wrote Dr. Reeves. Older patients took somewhat longer—seven to 14 days.

Only one patient seemed to get worse with the drug. He became agitated, tense and overactive. But this disappeared a few days after therapy was discontinued. Two of the 33 had adverse reactions of insomnia and stomach upset.

No adverse reactions were noted, however, in the 22 patients who showed a definite lift from depression, Dr. Reeves reported.

The antidepressant only relieves symptoms, however; it does not cure, Dr. Leon Yochelson, chairman of the psychiatry department at George Washington University Medical School told Science Service. Its utility is in allowing patients to be helped more easily with traditional methods of psychotherapy.

Desipramine may also be a key to understanding specific types of depression, Dr. Yochelson noted. It appears to work only on particular depression states. Further research may illuminate exactly what depression is affected by the drug and how this differs from other mental lows.

You Can Get $5 for Your Wood Nickel

MONROE, Wis. (AP) — Take all the wooden nickels you can get.

They are worth up to $5 each here.

The market for hardwood cash has been booming ever since the U.S. Treasury Department decided that wooden nickels issued by a Monroe bank to ease a local coin shortage were illegal.

Private coin collectors pursue the wooden nickels even more eagerly than do Treasury agents. A bank official says the nickels are believed to be the only coins ever issued by a federally chartered bank.

The Treasury Department recovered 450 a week after the First National Bank of Monroe issued the nickels in May 1964. That left 19,550 missing.

"We are still redeeming them for a nickel apiece but we have had none brought in," said John W. MacInnis, 37, assistant bank cashier.

A Monroe antique dealer recently sold 180 wooden nickels for $360. MacInnis said, "I know personally of many that have been sold for up to $5."

Dale Alexander, 30, operator of a bar, used the wooden nickels as an opening promotion last year and wound up with a rich cache because, he said, "some people wouldn't take them as change at first."

As soon as the coins were declared illegal tender, Alexander found the price at 50 cents, $1 and still climbing. Now he asks and gets $5 each for his dwindling supply.

Federal law prohibits a person from passing any object in lieu of a U.S. minted coin.

MacInnis estimated 5,000 nickels remain in the hands of residents of this southern Wisconsin city of 7,000 persons after purchases by outside collectors.

Word Power to Success—22

Don't Forget: 'Infer' Means Mental Activity, 'ImPLY' Verbal Expression

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 22nd in a 30-part series entitled "The Word Power Way to Success." The series is designed to help by being improved in spelling, grammar and vocabulary.)

I try to bestir
My mind to infer
From hence you reply
Just what you imply.

In this article and the one to follow we shall cover quite a few of the most common grammatical errors. The preceding articles on grammar should have made clear that common sense and good grammar are inseparable. For that reason we have no need to dwell on each of the remaining rules to any great extent.

The first rule we shall cover is concerned with the very real difference between infer and imply.

These words may not be used interchangeably. Infer means the mental activity of reasoning; imply means the verbal expression of what the mind infers. The mind infers; words imply. Consider our rhyme at the top of the article.

From a number of past happenings you (your mind) may infer (my mind judges) that you infer that I am stupid. In subsequent conversation with me the words you use may imply that I am stupid.

IRREGARDLESS
No such word. Irregardless is a double negative, in fact. The prefix ir (originally in) is a negative; the suffix, less, is also a negative. Say only regardless.

NEITHER AND EITHER
Either means (Watch this!) "one of two." It means "one," and that makes it singular. It means "one of two," and therefore you may use it when talking only of two persons, places or things.

ENTHUSE-ENTHUSED
Again, no such word, at least in formal writing or speech. It is tolerated in informal (colloquial) conversation. Use enthusiastic.

ATTITUDE IMPLIED
"His attitude inferred that Zilch was guilty." Wrong. "His attitude implied, etc." is correct. Never try to strengthen this word by very, most or the like. Unique means "the only one of its kind," and very or most does not add anything to the meaning. "From the way you talk, I imply you don't trust me." Wrong. "From what you say, I mean."

UNIQUE
Never try to strengthen this word by very, most or the like. Unique means "the only one of its kind," and very or most does not add anything to the meaning.

NEITHER OF THE THREE PIES DESERVE THE PRIZE.
Neither of these three pies deserve the prize. There are two mistakes here. First there are three pies so you may not use "neither." Secondly, "neither" is singular (equals "neither one"), so we may not say "Neither deserve the prize." We must say, "Neither deserves the prize." The whole sentence should read "None of the three pies deserves the prize."

ANY ONE OF YOU TWO IS ELIGIBLE.
Wrong. Since we are talking about "one of two," we must say, "Either of you two is eligible." We may not say "Either of you three . . ." We should say, "Any of you three . . ."

A QUIZ
There are six errors in the following brief paragraph. Try to catch all of them.

"This book is unique" is as strong a statement as you can make. "Willie Mays is a most unique athlete" shows you don't know the meaning of unique. Let unique stand unmodified.

"This book is unique" is as strong a statement as you can make. "Willie Mays is a most unique athlete" shows you don't know the meaning of unique. Let unique stand unmodified.

NEITHER AND EITHER
Either means (Watch this!) "one of two." It means "one," and that makes it singular. It means "one of two," and therefore you may use it when talking only of two persons, places or things.

ENTHUSE-ENTHUSED
Again, no such word, at least in formal writing or speech. It is tolerated in informal (colloquial) conversation. Use enthusiastic.

ATTITUDE IMPLIED
"His attitude inferred that Zilch was guilty." Wrong. "His attitude implied, etc." is correct. Never try to strengthen this word by very, most or the like. Unique means "the only one of its kind," and very or most does not add anything to the meaning.

UNIQUE
Never try to strengthen this word by very, most or the like. Unique means "the only one of its kind," and very or most does not add anything to the meaning.

NEITHER OF THE THREE PIES DESERVE THE PRIZE.
Neither of these three pies deserve the prize. There are two mistakes here. First there are three pies so you may not use "neither." Secondly, "neither" is singular (equals "neither one"), so we may not say "Neither deserve the prize." We must say, "Neither deserves the prize." The whole sentence should read "None of the three pies deserves the prize."

ANY ONE OF YOU TWO IS ELIGIBLE.
Wrong. Since we are talking about "one of two," we must say, "Either of you two is eligible." We may not say "Either of you three . . ." We should say, "Any of you three . . ."

Lindsay, Surrounded by Dems, at Least Has LBJ Aid Vow

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican Mayor-elect John V. Lindsay faces lopsided Democratic control in New York's City Hall, but he has President Johnson's assurance of federal help for the problem-plagued city.

The President wired his congratulations to Lindsay for his victory. He said: "The problems of our largest city must be tackled with resolve and unfailing energy and without regard to party affiliation. We will do our best to see that city and federal officials work together to make New York a good place to live."

Johnson also sent a message to Lindsay's Democratic opponent, Abraham D. Beame, whom he had backed in the election. He told Beame that "your fellow Democrats are proud of the effort you made." Lindsay, who swept to victory Tuesday despite 340-1 Democratic voter registration in the city, set to work within hours to take over the reins of office from Mayor Robert F. Wagner. He met with Wagner Wednesday to set up an "orderly and constructive" transfer of government. Lindsay becomes mayor Jan. 1.

The two men will name study groups to consider such problems as finances and budget and the city's legislative program to be sent to the state capital at Albany and to Washington.

Although Lindsay's triumph carried him into office, his own ticket lost. Key elected officials will be Democratic and Democrats control the City Council 30-7. In the Board of Estimates he can count on only six of the 22 votes.

"The job is enormous and the burdens are immense, but I asked for them and I'm glad to shoulder them," Lindsay said at a news conference.

PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITY

Lindsay's victory immediately cast him as a Republican presidential possibility.

Asked about it, he replied: "Thank you for the compliment, but it is out of the question. As far as I'm concerned, I want to be mayor of New York and nothing else."

Lindsay pledged that his administration would be nonpartisan. Democrat Frank O'Connor, who was elected City Council president as the top vote-getter in the election, promised cooperation, but said the council would be no rubber stamp.

Even if Lindsay and the council function well together, the problems faced by the new administration are staggering and include a budget deficit, a water shortage, a growing crime and narcotics problem, slums, housing, inadequate transportation, air pollution, dirty streets, and numerous others.

Former President Dwight D.

Eisenhower said he had been "praying" for a Lindsay victory. He wired: "Congratulations on your brilliant victory and the courage and energy you displayed in gaining it. The eyes of the entire nation will now be on you and I hope that every success will crown your work for the next four years."

Four hundred gallons of oysters were consumed at President James Buchanan's inaugural ball in 1857.

Marital Woes Top Family Service List

A family service of Oakland County served 1,141 families last year through its Pontiac office at 132 Franklin Blvd. According to Robert James, executive director, 417 of these cases were related to marital problems.

The agency also deals with problems of parent-child relationships, adolescents, adults, broken families, unmarried mothers, the aged and physically, mentally or emotionally disturbed individuals.

Services rendered by the six full-time social workers of the agency include casework study and diagnosis, group education, community planning, professional education and research.

Emphasis is always focused on the family as a unit.

STRENGTHENS FAMILY

The central purpose of the agency is to strengthen family life, to contribute to harmonious family interrelationships and to promote healthy personality development and satisfactory social functioning of individuals and family members.

Consultation is offered once a week and continues upwards of two years, although the average case is treated from four to six months.

The counselors at the Pontiac office are professionally trained. Their adeptness is best reflected by their average experience of 13 years.

James described the following disguised case to typify the marital problems encountered by Family Service.

STARTS TALKING

You look at Helen and wonder why she always has to start talking right at the most important part of a television program.

She's a good kid. She means well. She's been a good wife and mother.

However, lately she's getting on your nerves. Can't she ever learn that the TV bit is important to you?

You're Helen and you're tired. You're tired of Joe's nagging; tired of yourself and the children. You'd like to get away somewhere and just be yourself and relax.

LITTLE ANNOYANCES

Back of the scenes, however, they each know they've been getting on each other's nerves the past few years. Little things that once might not have annoyed them now have exaggerated importance.

Joe and Helen are troubled. Their troubles mean trouble not only between themselves, but within the family.

"Getting on each other's nerves" is a common problem among married couples, according to James.

A feeling that a wife is not as good as she could be or a husband as kind as he should be is also common, added James.

OTHER REASONS TOO

Other problems, cited by James, include lack of understanding and loss of interest, alcoholism, wrong attitudes toward the children or belief that one partner is engaged in a love affair with another person.

"All these troubled attitudes can afflict not only the marital relationship," emphasized

Dems Bid to Override 3 Vetoes at Dec. 9 Session

LANSING (AP)—Lawmakers today were being summoned back to the State Capitol for a Dec. 9 meeting—as Democrats searched for enough votes to override three multimillion-dollar vetoes.

House Speaker Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, and Senate Majority Leader Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, announced Wednesday they had mailed notices to legislators calling them back for the one-day session.

Democrats hope to round up 74 House votes and 26 in the Senate, meaning they would have to find a few Republican votes in each chamber who are willing to jump the fence.

They want to thwart the veto by acting Gov. William Milliken's senior citizens bill as "a pet-untimely act of the legislature against the legislature" for not tackling fiscal reform in its autumn meeting.

Dzendzel said the vetoes were intended to "dramatize the false notion that Michigan can't afford these vitally necessary programs."

The senior citizens bill—with an estimated annual price tag of $4.5 million to $6.5 million—would have rebated to older or disabled renters the equivalent of the local property tax on the first $2,500 of state equalized valuation of their dwelling places.

The dwelling could have a maximum $10,000 state equalized valuation ($20,000 actual cash value); the renters would have to be 65 or older, or fit the Social Security definition of total disability and have maximum incomes of $5,000 a year.

It was a companion to a senior citizens home owners tax relief bill passed earlier this year and signed into law.

The higher education bill would have appropriated $12 million to all but the University of Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State universities, to handle unexpected enrollment increases.

Our belief at the beginning of a doubtful undertaking is the one thing that insures the successful outcome of our venture. — William James, American psychologist.

Estimates of its annual cost ranged from $2.5 million to $4 million.

Order Trial for Seven in Local Raid

Seven men facing gambling charges were ordered to stand trial at their arraignment in Circuit Court yesterday.

All of the defendants pleaded innocent. No trial date was set.

All seven are charged with violation of the state gambling laws. In addition, they face a variety of conspiracy and bribery charges.

They were arrested Oct. 2 in an early-morning raid on an alleged gambling operation at the second floor of 114 S. Paddock.

Among the defendants is 37-year-old Angelo (Barbely) Lombardi, charged with bribery and conspiracy to bribe a public official and conspiracy to violate state gambling laws.

MAFIA LEADER
Lombardi of Detroit has been described as a section leader in the Mafia, reputed international crime organization.

Charged with conspiracy to bribe are Odus Tischer, 49, of St. Clair Shores and Charles Reous, 32, of Detroit.

Anthony J. Bachorowski, 57, of Highland Park; Thomas J. Misko, 47, of St. Clair Shores; Casey Harrod, 37, of 30 Fairgrove and George Mekras, 47, of 840 Robinhood are accused of conspiracy to violate the gambling law.

Arrests of the seven followed nearly five months of undercover work by Pontiac Police Lt. Raymond E. Meggit and Sgt. Robert C. Gaines.

Klan Silence Irks Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the House Committee on Un-American Activities are beginning to show some impatience with the string of refusals to answer that they are getting from Ku Klux Klan leaders.

"Frankly, I don't think you look very good to the American people coming here and taking the Fifth," Rep. Joe R. Pool, D-Tex., told Charles Bartlett of Jonesboro, Ga., Wednesday.

Bartlett, 38, a bulldozer operator, was identified as the grand klorigo, or inner guard, of the Georgia Klan and a Klan instructor in the use of dynamite, bombs, karate, judo and guerrilla warfare. Like practically all the other Klan witnesses, Bartlett declined to answer any questions on Fifth Amendment and other grounds.

He said that additional funds are required to hire more supervisors so employment can be increased to 42 by the end of the year.

Pool told Bartlett, "I certainly think if you consider yourself a good American citizen, you would cooperate with this committee." He invited Bartlett to make some kind of statement.

DEAD SILENCE
A dead silence ensued, and Pool added, "I guess he has none."

Rep. John H. Buchanan Jr., R-Ala., also told Bartlett, "He who shows contempt for this committee is in fact showing contempt for the American people."

To another witness, Daniel Bruce, also identified as an instructor in the Klan dynamite school, Buchanan complained that he was unwilling to admit he was a Klansman.

Buchanan said he understood that "by paying a little extra, you can get a blood drop in it." It is not clear what this blood drop is, but previously evidence was introduced showing "blood drop pins" were sold to Carolina Klansmen for $1 each. The pins have a red enamel background.

Service Unit Seeks Funds and Members

New Horizons of Oakland County today will launch a membership and fund-raising campaign aimed at enlisting 500 new members and raising $10,000.

Mrs. Sidney Smith Jr. of 210 Abbey, Birmingham, will be chairman of the campaign.

New Horizons, a community service which provides vocational training and employment to mentally handicapped young people, opened a shelter workshop last February.

Stanford Wallace, president of New Horizons, said the number of retarded persons employed there has grown from five to 25 now.

He said that additional funds are required to hire more supervisors so employment can be increased to 42 by the end of the year.

Elect Officers of Goodfellows

Ernest Latimer, 3345 Curdolph, has been elected president of the Waterford Township Goodfellows for 1963-64.

Other officers named at a recent election were Frank Rancidolph, 5820 Eldridge, vice president; Charles F. Sitton, 3505 Richmond, secretary; and Elmer Fangbner, 3327 Meinrad, treasurer.

All live in Waterford Township.

Latimer announced that the organization's annual newspaper sale will be held Dec. 4. Proceeds will be used to help needy persons at Christmas time.

Plans for the sale will be discussed at a meeting next Wednesday at fire station No. 1.

Convict Pleas or Guilty to Robbery

An escaped convict — who held up a Pontiac bar, buried part of the $4,000 loot, stole two cars and was captured in Birmingham all within 30 minutes — yesterday pleaded guilty in Circuit Court to unarmed robbery.

Freddie Bledsoe, 22, formerly of Madison Heights, entered his plea before Judge Arthur E. Moore as his trial on a charge of armed robbery was ready to begin.

Moore will sentence Bledsoe Dec. 8. He faces a maximum of 15 years in prison for the offense.

Bledsoe was arrested July 1 by two Bloomfield Hills patrolmen who forced his car to the curb after giving chase on Woodward.

He later admitted robbing Ducky's Bar, 800 S. Woodward, according to Pontiac police.

PRISON ESCAPEE
Police said that Bledsoe walked away from a Michigan prison farm in May and had been living in Detroit. He was serving a 3-to-15-year term for the armed robbery of a Madison Heights gas station in April 1963.

After fleeing from the bar, police said, Bledsoe stole a car from a woman on Nebraska, abandoned it eight blocks away with police in pursuit, and then took another from a back yard in Bloomfield Township.

He buried about $150 in change near where he stole the second car.

'Grandfathers' Missing From Pontiac Store

Pontiac police are investigating the disappearance of two "Grandfathers" — one 5-foot-6, the other an even 6 feet — reported yesterday.

According to Keith Johnston, manager of the Thomas Economy Store at 361 S. Saginaw, the "grandfathers" — both clocks — were taken from the store Tuesday night or early yesterday morning.

Patrolmen said entry to the store had been gained through a hole pried in the wooden loading dock at the rear.

Johnston said the shorter grandfather was worth about $180 and the taller clock about $200.

Cat Takes Long Walk to Get Back Home
ROSS, England (UPI) — A pet cat took three months but found his way back to his master's home 75 miles away.

"Snowy" disappeared from the holiday home where his owners had gone for the summer. Today he was back home after a 75-mile trek.

'Red-Hot' Letter Day for Italian Seaman
BOSTON (UPI) — An Italian seaman stepped off the liner Cristoforo Colombo yesterday and walked over to a mailbox to send a letter home.

Moments later, several fire trucks rushed to the corner. The mailbox turned out to be a fire alarm box.

Research Director Quits Hospital Post

Dr. John J. Hsu has resigned as director of research at Pontiac State Hospital to devote full time to the general practice of psychiatry.

Born and educated in China, Dr. Hsu came to this country from Formosa in 1954. He completed his residency in psychiatry at Pontiac State Hospital where he served the past eight years.

Dr. Hsu opened an office in the Riker Building in 1963 to practice on a part-time basis. He will retain this office.

Witnesses told Pontiac police Jackson died after a violent argument and ensuing struggle with the Hudson woman.

100-Year-Old Mill Is Destroyed by Fire

FLAT ROCK (AP) — A fire Wednesday destroyed a 100-year-old abandoned grain mill, a Flat Rock landmark, burned through telephone wires, cutting off service for hours to the community's 5,000 residences.

The flames also leaped to a nearby police and fire station and a house, damaging both.

Prepare Plans for Civic Center

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Plans for a proposed three-building civic center complex serving the township and the village are expected to be completed within a week or two.

The drawings are now being prepared by Harry M. Derys Jr., Associates, Inc., and Bruce Lafer, Pontiac architects. They were hired jointly by the village, the township and the Oxford Library Board.

Supervisor Lee B. Valentine said the plans will have to be approved by the three organizations. Each must approve its individual building and then the complex as a whole.

The complex, to be located on the site of the present village and township offices at 18 and 22 W. Burdick, will consist of a village hall, including the police department, a township hall and a library.

Valentine said cost of the project will be about $170,000. He said the township hall will cost "in the neighborhood" of $50,000, the library about $70,000 and the village hall about $50,000.

Fire Spreads, Is Battled for Three Hours

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A house fire roared out of control yesterday afternoon, spreading across 15 acres of grassland and endangering a half-dozen homes.

Firemen from three departments fought the blaze in the Nashaway Acres Subdivision for three hours before bringing it under control.

The fire started in an unoccupied home at 2319 Norma Lee at 2:30 p.m., while a plumber was working between a partition, according to West Bloomfield Township firemen.

The house, valued at $25,000, had been completed by Ross Homes, Inc., 1941 Telegraph.

Damage to the trilevel home was estimated by firemen at $15,000.

The department was called out again at 4:30 a.m., today when debris ignited and started another blaze in the structure.

When the fire swept into the surrounding field, firemen from Farmington and Bloomfield townships were called in to assist the West Bloomfield department. High winds hampered the operation.

Several barns on the other side of the 40-acre field also were in danger of burning, according to firemen.

High School Seniors Are Invited to Michigan Christian College

AVON TOWNSHIP — Michigan Christian College will hold a "Senior Day" Saturday to help high school seniors make final plans for their college education.

College officials and faculty members will be on campus to counsel seniors regarding all phases of college life. Parents of senior students are invited to attend as guests of the college.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. in Room 1067 of the Student Center Building. Sessions dealing with the academic, financial and social

Congregation's Okay Sought

Church Addition Is Proposed

ROCHESTER — The congregation of St. Paul's Methodist Church will be asked at a special meeting Tuesday to approve plans for a new sanctuary and fellowship hall to meet the needs of expanding membership.

The proposed new unit, estimated by the architect to cost approximately $634,000, is to be finished, will seat 700 persons at morning worship, 410 persons for fellowship meals, and provide a total of 24 classrooms.

FINANCING METHODS

Specific methods of financing have not been determined. The library board already has a one-mill levy in effect, and will probably sell its present building on Mechanic Street, Valentine said that this, with the aid of a federal grant, will provide funds for the library.

He said the township has a building fund which will be used, but that about $20,000 will have to be raised, possibly through the issuance of bonds. He said there are a number of methods which must be investigated.

The Village Council is waiting to see the plans before it makes any decision, according to Village Manager Robert W. Smalley.

"If we decide to go to a vote of the people, we're going to have to do something pretty soon," he said.

Work on the project probably will not be started until next spring, according to Valentine.

HOLLIE LEPLEY
Athletic Director Will Address PTA

LAKE ORION — Hollie Lepley, director of athletics at Oakland University, will speak at the Monday meeting of the Blanche Sims-Intermediate School PTA at 8 p.m. in the Intermediate gymnasium.

Lepley will speak on the importance of a regular physical fitness program for children.

Two films will be shown: "Youth Physical Fitness, A Report to the Nation," tells how one city started a basic program. "A Basic School Program" tells how to utilize teachers and limited facilities.

There were four bids ranging to a high of $187,350.

The mechanical contract went to the lowest of five bidders, Joseph P. Kropf Co. of Detroit, for $23,900. The high bid was $34,660.

The contract for electrical work was withheld until the architect studies the bids. Schools Superintendent Rex B. Smith said the apparent low bidder is John Pierce Electric Co. of Lake Orion at $54,634.

ESTIMATED COST
The total, if the electrical contract goes to the low bidder, will be $238,464, or about the estimated cost.

The work includes eight new classrooms, increasing the size of the kindergarten room to make a library material center. Michigan Christian and modernizing four old classrooms, 800 W. Avon, Rochester.

Additional information may be obtained by writing to Fred J. Alexander, director of admissions, Michigan Christian College, 800 W. Avon, Rochester.

It will be erected on the present site at 620 Romeo as part of the present structure. The present unit contains a chapel, parlor, offices and a classroom space.

The design of the new sanctuary features an altar in the center of a cruciform building, gathered on all sides of the altar. A personal devotions chapel, open 24 hours a day, also will be a feature of the sanctuary.

The fellowship hall will contain a stage, with seating for about 500 at stage productions. It will also serve as a banquet hall for large groups, church school classrooms, meeting rooms and small dining rooms.

If approved by the congregation, and the church's current financial crusade reaches its goal, it is expected that ground will be broken and construction started early next summer.

ON THE JOB — Mrs. Charles Parks, Huron Valley Youth Employment Service secretary, stops to chat with two persons pleased with the organization's work — Dr. Carl C. Steinman, 115 River, Milford, and Brian Monroe, a Milford High School sophomore. Brian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myrlo Monroe, 3540 Wikom, Commerce Township, has been doing yard work at the Steinman home.

Junk Yard Hearing Set

Change Zone Code

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has approved several revisions to the township zoning ordinance and set a public hearing date for a rezoning request to establish a junk yard.

The zoning amendments had been previously cleared by the township planning commission.

One of the major changes, according to Township Clerk Howard Altman, allows for mineral and soil removal by applicants providing they meet certain provisions.

Another amendment gives the township authority to regulate off-street parking spaces.

In addition, other revisions regulate the area of lots for R-1 and R-2 districts.

2 Contracts Awarded by School Board

TROY — The Board of Education has awarded two contracts on an addition to Niles Elementary School, but held up a third for further study.

The general contract was awarded to low bidder Edgar Gilbert and Son of Utica Tuesday night with a base bid of $154,000.

There were four bids ranging to a high of $187,350.

The mechanical contract went to the lowest of five bidders, Joseph P. Kropf Co. of Detroit, for $23,900. The high bid was $34,660.

Employers Benefit, Too

Service Helps Teens Help Themselves

By PAT McCARTY
MILFORD — Getting that first job has few rivals for importance in the life of a teenager.

On the other side of the coin is the vexing problem of the home owner or small businessman who could use some extra help.

That's where the Huron Valley Youth Employment Service comes in.

Not only does it help youth take a crucial step in the growing-up process, the organization provides potential employers with a source of boy- and girl-power.

Established to operate during the summer, the agency has completed its first five months with the decision to continue on a year-round basis.

PRESENT PROBLEM
The problem now facing the group is that it needs to obtain something more substantial than the moral support it has received from virtually all quarters.

The nonprofit organization needs money to cover operating expenses, which are small but nevertheless pressing.

Operating with volunteers, the service developed from a survey taken by Milford Jaycees last spring.

The women asked the Village Council, ministers and school officials for ideas on worthwhile projects.

HELP THEMSELVES
The answer was: help the teen-agers to help themselves.

The resulting organization is headed by Mrs. James Powers, of 487 Middle, Highland Township, former acting chairman of the Milford Area Youth Assistance Committee.

Mrs. Charles Parks is secretary and Mrs. James Benson treasurer of the board of directors.

Mrs. James Gustafson, chosen to represent the Jaycees, was joined on the board by her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Thomson represent the Retirees' Club and Clarence Purvis the Jaycees.

OTHER SUPPORT
The local Zonta Club also lent financial support, and the Suburban League sent volunteers.

G. E. Grosse donated office space at 447 N. Main, and furniture came from other benefactors.

Cost of operating the office runs about $15 a month, most of it used for the telephone bill.

OFFICE HOURS
Office hours are 3-5 p.m. Tuesday and 9-11 a.m. Saturday. In addition, Mrs. Parks can be telephoned at her home, 424 Liberty, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday.

At the end of its first five months, the agency reported a total of 72 applications on file, 46 from girls and 26 from boys.

Applicants are 14 to 21 years old, although there is no specific limit.

The service had filled 43 of the 51 job orders received, and it cited a need for more boys.

NOT LARGE
"Although these statistics do not comprise a large number, we feel those employed have been helped a great deal," the group reported.

Some of the jobs are for regular part-time work. Others are to fill temporary needs — baby-sitting, yard work, window washing and the like.

The agency does not make recommendations, only referrals.

Among those who stand to be helped by the service are potential delinquents and high school drop-outs, according to Mrs. Parks.

A youth with a little extra spending money in his pocket not only increases his status at school but also boosts his self-esteem, she said.

Among those who stand to be helped by the service are potential delinquents and high school drop-outs, according to Mrs. Parks.

There have been reports of other anonymous youths who could have become problems but took a turn for the better.

An enthusiastic supporter of the service is Lester Howe, counselor at Milford High School.

"It's wonderful for the kids in the district," he said. "They like it very much and it's something I can't take the time to do."

HAPPY TO REFER
As long as a job will not interfere with school work, Howe said he is happy to refer teen-agers to the agency.

The teen-ager may need the money, experience or an alternative to getting into trouble.

At any rate, no complaints have been voiced yet.

There are approximately one mile of roads and streets for every square mile of land within the boundaries of the United States. The average American is estimated to spend two months or more of his life behind the steering wheel.

Latin-U. S. Grass Root Cooperation

Alliance Proves a Two-Way Street

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Alliance for Progress is becoming a two-way street.

Latin Americans are contributing teachers, technical services, art exhibits, minerals, plants and other things to the United States.

And it is done without government financing at either end. The communities in Latin America and the United States are sharing the costs — and the benefits.

"The plan is what you might call grass roots cooperation between the peoples of Latin America and the United States on a private enterprise, good neighbor basis," says James H. Boren, director of the U.S. agency's partners program.

PLAN INVENTOR?

Boren's friends in the U.S. Agency for International Development, of which the alliance agency is a part, say Boren practically invented the partnership plan. Partnership programs now are under way between 26 states or communities in the United States and an equal number of areas in Latin America. Additional plans are in the formative stage.

For example, Delaware sent an eight-member team headed by former Gov. Elbert N. Carvel, to Panama. The team developed plans to provide equipment and manuals for Panamanian Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, funds for vocational training in Santiago, and financial aid for the purchase of nets and outboard motors by fishing cooperatives in San Carlos.

In return, Panama was asked to select three Panamanians to advise the Delaware Highway Department on roadside road construction, beach erosion control, and ways to eliminate mosquitoes.

Oregon sent a five-member team to Costa Rica to work out specific projects in advance of a campaign to obtain statewide public support for an exchange

SPECIAL REPORT

Plan. Said Max Harriger, head of the Social Studies Division of the Oregon Department of Education and chairman of the team:

"This is not a Big Brother program under which we tell other people what to do. It is a mutual exchange between our people and those of other countries."

NONCAREER MAN

Boren, a noncareer man, formerly was a professor in Arlington (Tex.) State College and an administrative assistant to Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Texas. He was in Peru in 1961 and 1962 to help direct the AID operations in that country.

"I soon got the feeling the people in the communities of Peru wanted to do something effective to share their skills, experience and other things with the people of the United States," says Boren. "The idea of the partners plan possibly was born there, but actually the alliance charter, approved by 20 American republics, contemplates the active cooperation and participation at the citizen level, on a private basis. That is enthusiasm in all areas is something remarkable."

This year, little Costa Rica, in Central America, sent to Lane County in Oregon's Crow-Apple gate School District a group of teachers who taught Spanish and worked with Spanish language teachers in 12 elementary and junior high schools. They lived with families of the region, spent half of each day teaching Spanish and history and sociology of their area, the other half in training.

EXPRESS INTEREST

"It was so successful that 40 school districts have expressed interest in a similar project for their schools next year," Boren said. The Costa Rican teachers spent three months, at a time when their schools were closed for yearly vacations, and the Oregon schools were open.

In Kentucky, the Louisville school system, and the state school authorities, have expressed interest in bringing in a group of teachers from Ecuador. Texas' private committee on the alliance partners is working on similar plans with Peruvians.

Panama is planning to send a specialist on mosquito control to work with the Delaware Board of Health. In addition, the Delaware Highway Department has offered a year's employment to Panamanian highway engineers, to work firsthand at road construction and maintenance, a major problem in Panama. Delaware plans to send vocational and other teachers to Panama to learn Spanish and exchange ideas in their fields. Miami University of Ohio wanted to train teachers in Portuguese. So the state of Parana, Brazil, sent up an expert teacher to work with high school teachers taking summer courses at the university.

SEEDS RECEIVED

From the State of Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, the Indiana Department of Agriculture received seeds of an alfalfa-type legume plant which puts its roots down 40 feet to reach water. Specialists there are studying the possibilities of its adaptation to rain-short areas in the United States.

From Bolivia, 10 agricultural students of high school age went to Utah last year to live with families in that state, and study U.S. farming methods.

High school students in Minas Gerais, Brazil, are sending samples of minerals from that state to a number of high schools in Colorado.

Coming to Illinois to learn are two civic and social workers from Sao Paulo State, Brazil, to study methods of establishing in Brazil the unified agencies for raising funds for charitable purposes. They will work with agency people in Illinois.

Arkansas' partners committee is working with teachers of Bolivia to give Spanish courses in schools in Arkansas, and learn how Arkansas grows rice — a major product in one area of that state.

"For many years in this country, we paid lip service to the idea that we could learn many things from Latin America about its technical skills, culture, agriculture, painting, sculpture, music and so on, but not too much was done about it," says Boren. "Now, thanks to the generosity of the Latin Americans themselves, and to alliance partners' committees of citizens in this country and south of the border, this is being accomplished."

"Venezuela, for example, is sending up an exhibition of 58 paintings, estimated to be worth $100,000 or more, for exhibition for months in seven galleries of Tennessee."

"As may be noted, there is a genuine interest and response of citizens groups, formed into alliance partners committees, at both ends of the line."

Jailer Tricked; 2 Escape

LAS VEGAS, N.M. (AP) — San Miguel County jailer Selmo Roybal received a telephone call from a man identifying himself as parole officer Mike Padilla.

The caller instructed that Roybal release Agapito Maestas, being held in connection with theft of clothing from a car, because the car's owner didn't want to press charges. Roybal released Maestas.

Thirty minutes later on Monday, Roybal received a call from a man who identified himself as Dist. Atty. Donald Martinez and who ordered that Lorenzo Roybal (no relation), being held in connection with burglary, be allowed to go to Rosary services for his late grandmother. The jailer released Roybal.

Officers sought both prisoners today. Martinez said the calls were tricks.

Sukarno Remains Pivotal Indonesian

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

As the ravages of a kidney ailment became more apparent in the puffy face and limping gait of Indonesia's lifetime President Sukarno, a frequently asked question was "after Sukarno, what?"

Just over a month since the NEWSOM abortive Sept. 30 attempt by Indonesia's Communist P.K.I. party and its leftist sympathizers to seize power, the question is asked with even more frequency.

If anything has emerged from the violence and confusion of the last 30 days, it is the clear proof that Sukarno remains as he has been since the days of the rebellion against Dutch colonial rule, the pivotal political figure in Indonesia.

Even though Indonesia seems teetering on the edge of violent civil war, the description still is valid.

For, although the right-wing 400,000-man army pursues its drive to eliminate the Communists as a political force in defiance of Sukarno's orders, it has no political base of its own and it knows it needs Sukarno as a symbol to hold together the 3,000 islands that make up the Indonesian Republic.

STILL DEPENDENT

As for the Communists, even though currently in retreat, they know it is upon Sukarno they must depend if they are to make a political comeback.

About the ill-fated coup, there remains contradictions and at least one major mystery.

Even though the army is holding under arrest, or has executed, scores of minor Communist functionaries, not one major Communist leader has been arrested.

One small mystery is the current whereabouts of party leader D. N. Aidit.

Within the government, not one major official has lost his job, although the army is openly suspicious of first deputy premier and Foreign Minister Subandrio, principal architect of Sukarno's close ties with Red China and long regarded as a possible successor to Sukarno.

On the political front, Sukarno cloisters himself with the Red Chinese ambassador and exchanges promises of enduring friendship.

But in the streets, demonstrators attack the Chinese community, and army units unceremoniously break into and search installations of the Red Chinese embassy.

And from Peking comes a heated protest.

MAJOR MYSTERY

A major mystery of the coup that failed is how much or little Sukarno may have known about it in advance.

On Sept. 30, on grounds of illness, he suddenly left a platform where he had been addressing technical students. From then until he appeared at Bogor Palace on the night of Oct. 1, his whereabouts were unknown.

In the meantime, the plotters had killed six of Indonesia's eight leading generals.

As the army pursues its anti-Communist campaign, it is joined by long-suppressed political parties and by Moslem and Christian youths. Fighting breaks out in central Java and in northern Sumatra.

For years, Sukarno successfully maintained a balance between the army and the three-million-strong Communist party. That balance now has been upset and even Sukarno's undoubted influence may not be able to prevent civil war.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Gov. Hulett Smith and state legislative leaders are to meet Nov. 22 to decide what should be included in Smith's proclamation to the 1966 West Virginia Legislature. Smith said he was considering more than 50 items for the 30-day budget session beginning Jan. 12.

Junior Editors Quiz on CANADIAN MOUNTIES

QUESTION: Do the Royal Canadian Mounted Police still use horses?

ANSWER: In 1869, the Canadian government took over large areas of the great unsettled Canadian Northwest. This wild region lured settlers because of its mining, fishing and fur trade.

It is said that in this area almost every known mineral is present. But it was dangerous country in the old days, for various lawless bands had made it their headquarters.

To protect the decent people who wanted to settle in the Northwest Territories, the mounted police was organized in 1872. This body of fine men quickly became famous for its reliability and devotion to duty.

Liquor smuggling was stamped out, as was the trade in stolen horses and cattle. From this beginning the Mounties were used to uphold law and order in all parts of Canada except Ontario and Quebec.

They patrol thousands of miles of wild country and have a splendid record of keeping crime under control. The horse, nowadays, has been largely superseded by the faster patrol car; yet the riding tradition of the Mounties remains, as they still put on riding exhibitions for ceremonial occasions.

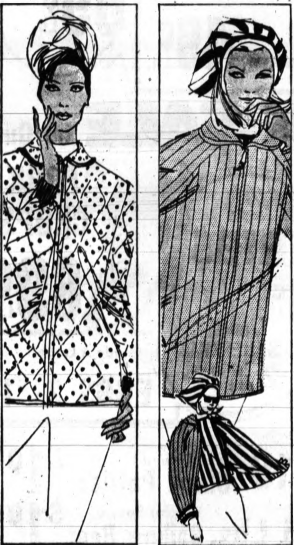

The Mounties also use various types of ships, boats and airplanes in their far-flung activities.

FOR YOU TO DO: Color the Mounties' costume in the picture. The tunic is brilliant scarlet with hat, gloves, revolver, holster and boots brown. There is a bright yellow stripe down the side of the breeches, and the edge of the saddle blanket is also bright yellow.

Cooks Share Bake Sale Recipes

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

On Tuesday there was a fat envelope in the mail for me. When opened, it spilled out several dozen recipes, a regular treasure trove.

Mrs. Max King of Birmingham has been busy rounding up these recipes. She is helping Mrs. Robert Church who is chairman of the baked goods and candy sale of St. Joseph Hospital Nurses Alumnae Association.

This Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. there will be all sorts of homemade goodies available in the lobby of the hospital.

The alumnae and many of their daughters will be busy in the kitchen in the next few days. They've shared some of their recipes with us.

Mrs. Church and her daughter, Karen, are making candy and cake. Here are two of their recipes:

CRISPETTES

By Mrs. Robert Church
3 cups rice cereal

3 cups cornflakes
1 cup white sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
1 cup light cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup broken nut meats

Mix cereals in bowl. Put sugar, corn syrup and cream in saucepan and boil for firm ball stage. Add vanilla and nuts and pour over cereals. Mix well.

Spread in buttered pan. When cool, break into pieces.

Karen likes to make chocolate cake.

FUDGE CUPCAKES

By Karen Church

1/2 cup boiling water
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 cup sugar
1 cup all-purpose flour
1/4 cup sour milk or cream
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup margarine
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla

Pour boiling water over chocolate in a large bowl. Add dry ingredients and mix well. Add shortening and egg. Mix well again. Stir in sour milk or cream and vanilla.

Pour into 12 paper cupcake containers or into a greased 8x8x2 pan. Bake cupcakes 20 to 25 minutes in 350-degree oven; cake will take 35 minutes.

Maggie Shaughnessy, a young teenager who is a freshman at Marian High School, will bake her favorite cookies for the sale.

M & M COOKIES

By Maggie Shaughnessy
1 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup white sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 eggs
2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon soda

1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups M&M candies
Cream shortening and sugars. Beat in vanilla and eggs. Sift dry ingredients together and add to first mixture, mixing well. Stir in 1/2 cup of the candy.

Drop by teaspoonsful on ungreased cookie sheet. Decorate with remaining candy. Bake 10-12 minutes at 375 degrees. Makes 34 dozen cookies.

Mrs. King's 16-year-old daughter, Anne Marie, will contribute her specialty — peanut brittle — to the sale. This is a wonderfully simple recipe.

PEANUT BRITTLE

By Anne Marie King

2 cups granulated sugar
2 cups chopped peanuts
1 teaspoon salt
Put sugar into an iron frying pan and heat slowly, stirring constantly. Continue cooking until sugar melts and turns a light brown (watch carefully; it can scorch).

Spread peanuts in buttered pan, sprinkle with salt. Warm pan slightly and pour melted sugar over nuts. When cool and hard, crack into pieces.

We'll share other recipes from this group of good cooks in the coming weeks.

CANDY MAKERS — Mrs. Robert Church and her daughter, Karen, of Shoals Street are making candy for the food sale of the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Nurses Alumnae Association. Scheduled for Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the hospital lobby, the sale will feature baked goods and candy, all homemade.

Shiny Biscuits

Diluted egg yolk (use water for the dilution) brushed on baking powder biscuit dough before baking will give the biscuits a shiny topping.

Substitute Coffee

If you like, you may substitute brewed coffee for the water called for in a boiled frosting recipe. This coffee combination tastes good on spice cake.

Salt to the Rescue

If food spills occur in the oven during baking, pour salt over the entire soiled area. It reduces smoke. Clean oven as soon as cool.

STUFFED CAULIFLOWER — Dig a well in a head of fresh cauliflower, cooked to crisp-tender point, and fill with a flavorfully seasoned meat mixture.

Cauliflower Deserves Your Attention

It's very easy to over-cook cauliflower and since it tastes as good raw as cooked it's a mistake to give it "just another minute" of cooking lest it be underdone. It's also a mistake to cook it too far ahead of time and try to keep it warm.

Fresh cauliflower is one of the many convenience vegetables. Rinse it and trim away the heavier leaf stalks, but, if you're cooking it whole, do retain those decorative little green leaves which clasp the head — they are completely edible.

A whole head of cauliflower needs not more than 25 minutes total cooking time. Set it in a 1-inch depth of boiling salted water. Let cook 5 minutes with out a lid, then cover and cook another 15 to 20 minutes, depending on size of head.

Cauliflower is one of those white vegetables which can pick up an unattractive yellowish cast if cooked in "hard" or alkaline water. Add a teaspoonful of fresh lemon juice to the cooking water and the cauliflower will stay nice and white.

There are many ways of serving cauliflower. Sprinkle it with fine bread crumbs lightly browned in butter. Cheese, lemon or tartar sauce is delicious over it. Cook it in chicken or beef stock and garnish generously with chopped fresh parsley. Serve it with lemon butter or chopped almond butter.

Raw, thinly sliced, cauliflower is a nippy addition to a tossed green salad. Good, too, as a "pick-up" for dips on the hors d'oeuvre tray.

Like its many cabbage cousins, cauliflower is a good source of vitamin C, some of the vitamin B group and it contains calcium and iron. Weight-watchers will be delighted that a whole cup of cooked cauliflower yields about 30 calories.

To inspire you as a cauliflower cook, do try these recipes from the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association.

Stuffed Cauliflower Italiane

1 large head cauliflower
1 teaspoon salt

Eggs Baked for Salad

The New York State Department of Agriculture suggests this simple way to prepare a large quantity of hard-cooked eggs for salads or sandwiches.

Simply grease a large casserole and break eggs into it (not more than 2 inches in depth, however). Cover and place casserole in a pot of boiling water. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven for 40 minutes or until eggs are done.

Remove from oven and score the eggs. Then they can be taken out of the casserole diced and ready to use.

2 cups diced cooked ham
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1/2 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
2 tablespoons vegetable or salad oil
1 cup diced cooked beef or veal
1 cup chopped cooked cauliflower
1/2 cup diced pimiento
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/2 cup dry white wine
1/4 cup water

Combine wine and water; pour into casserole around cauliflower. Cover and bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 minutes. Remove cauliflower to a serving dish.

Stir egg yolk into hot liquid; cook over low heat until slightly thickened, about 5 minutes. Spoon over cauliflower. Serve hot. Yield: 4 servings.

Skillet Cauliflower
1 large head cauliflower
1-inch boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
Fresh parsley

Wash cauliflower and break into flowerets. Parboil in 1-inch boiling water and salt 10 to 12 minutes. Drain well and dry cauliflower with clean towel.

Melt butter or margarine in skillet, add cauliflower and cook until nicely browned. Sprinkle with ground black pepper. Garnish with chopped fresh parsley. Yield: 6 servings.

Small Ones Will Like Serving Idea

If your children are like most, they're discriminating eaters, no matter what their age. For rapidly growing toddlers, Fish Stick Rockets make a nourishing lunch or supper.

Fish Stick Rockets
1 package frozen breaded fish sticks
1 or 2 slices American cheese
3 hard cooked eggs
1 1/2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/4 teaspoon salt
Pinch pepper

Cut five strips of cheese, about 1/2 inch wide. Place each strip of cheese between two fish sticks. Place pairs of fish sticks on a baking sheet and cook according to directions on package. (Cheese will melt, holding pairs of fish sticks together.)

Cut hard-cooked eggs in half between pointed ends of eggs. Remove yolks and mash with fork. Add mayonnaise, mustard, salt and pepper; mix well.

Stand fish stick pairs on end in hollow of egg whites. Fill edges of cavity with mashed yolk mixture so that fish sticks stand upright in egg halves. Top other end of fish sticks with a dollop of extra yolk mixture.

Serve on a "launching pad" of lettuce cups.

Try Topping That's Sweet, Sugar-Free

Now you can whip up a light-colored, delectably sweet and lovely topping for puddings, fruits and other desserts — without using any sugar! The special, calorie-trimmed recipe for Orange-Lemon Dessert Topping, given here, can also double as a smooth and creamy frosting for cakes.

Developed by home economists this sugarless topping will be welcomed by diabetics and by all who would like to enjoy the sweet things of life without going overboard on calories.

Note that, instead of cream cheese, the recipe calls for Neufchâtel cheese whose calorie count is nearly one-third lower. Most important, calorie-wise, is the replacement of all the sugar normally required with the natural-tasting sweetener, sucaryl.

Organe-Lemon Dessert Topping

1 8-ounce package Neufchâtel cheese
2 tablespoons sucaryl solution
Dash of salt
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon orange juice
Let cheese soften at room temperature. Combine all ingredients in mixer bowl and blend until smooth and creamy. Refrigerate to chill well. Serve as topping over stewed fruit, pudding or gingerbread, or as frosting on cakes.
Makes 1 cup, each tablespoon dessert for 20-25 minutes. Serve 36 calories; 1.5 grams protein; 3 grams fat; 0.5 gram carbohydrate. (With sugar 90 calories.)

DESSERT TOPPING — This orange-lemon mixture can be a sauce of stewed fruit, pudding or gingerbread. It can also be frosting for cake. It's sweet, but sugar-free.

Roll Up Asparagus in a Ham Slice

Here is a delicious cool weather casserole recipe you might like to clip. "Quick Fiesta Fix-Up" is not only an easy dish to prepare for the family, but also is fancy enough for a luncheon.

Quick Fiesta Fix-Up
16-24 asparagus spears, cooked
4-6 slices ham, baked or boiled

1 can condensed cheese soup
1/4 soup can of milk
Arrange 4-6 asparagus spears on each ham slice. Roll up. Place in buttered 1 1/2-quart casserole. Mix soup and milk. Pour over ham rolls. Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes. Serve with baking powder-biscuits or refrigerator rolls. Serves 4-6.

Beef, Squash Cook Together

An informal skillet main dish will feed a family of four.

Phyl's Beef and Zucchini Dish
2 slices white bread
1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper
1 small onion, finely grated (use pulp and juice)
1 egg
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 large ribs celery, sliced
2 eight-inch zucchini, unpared and cubed

Soak bread (with crusts) in a little cold water; squeeze out water; mix bread with beef, salt, pepper, onion and egg. Shape into 8 small oval patties; cook with flour mixed with paprika.

In a 10-inch skillet, melt the butter; add patties and brown. Add celery and zucchini; cover tightly and cook gently until patties are done through and vegetables tender.

If skillet does not have tight cover, you may have to add a few tablespoons of water to pan during this cooking. Makes 4 servings.

Cherries, Nuts Sauce Lamb

Dress up a leg of lamb with a sparkling cherry-almond sauce.

Simply turn a 1-lb. can of pitted dark sweet cherries and their syrup into a saucepan; heat and thicken with 1 tablespoon cornstarch blended with ¼ cup honey and 2 tablespoons vinegar.

For a distinctive touch, sprinkle with ¼ cup sliced almonds before serving as a sauce for the lamb.

Getting True Picture of Food Costs

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Mrs. Feeley:

My husband is an unusually big eater. He does heavy work, is true. But sometimes I think he overdoes it in the eating department.

Our three boys — ages 13, 11 and 9 — copy their father when it comes to eating, regardless of what I say — especially the 13 and 9-year-olds. We also have a girl of 16, and myself to feed.

Would you please tell me how much our food bill should be per week?

Mrs. A.A., Rochelle Park, N.J.

Dear Mrs. A.:

Heavy eaters are often the grantees of people to live with like the purring cat with a bowl of cream. A good meal sweetens their point of view. However, I recognize your problem. Somebody has to pay for all that grocery shopping.

I'm going to give you some figures on what it costs to feed your family of six, on three different price levels — liberal, moderate, and low income averages.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's recent figures show that last penny — but they take sound nutrition into consideration, as every homemaker must.

New keep in mind that these weekly costs are for food only — not including paper goods, detergent, soap, light bulbs, toothpaste, shampoo, sponges, brooms and mops, and all the various household items the average woman loads into her car.

Bracing Drink

cart when she does what she calls "the food shopping."

Food week for a family of six:

	Low	Moderate	Liberal
9-yr.-old	$ 6.10	$ 8.10	$ 9.30
11-yr.-old	$ 6.10	$ 8.10	$ 9.30
13-yr.-old	$ 7.00	$ 9.00	$ 10.20
16-yr.-old	$ 8.90	$ 9.00	$ 10.10
Parents	$14.60	$19.50	$22.60
Week's Total	$40.70	$54.30	$61.50

Now, according to best estimates, you may deduct 10 percent from those weekly totals when there are six or more in the family — because the cost of feeding each individual is less when the food allotment is shared by other members of a large family. So the more realistic figures would come out:

Weekly food costs for a Low Scale, $36.63; for a Moderate Scale, $48.87; for a Liberal Scale, $55.35.

I wish you'd try an experiment next time you go to the supermarket. I've tried it myself, and it's a real eye-opener. First take a cart around and put in it only the items you don't eat — all those items listed above which most of us buy in the supermarket.

Go through the check-out, pay your charges, and save your printed cost slip for those purchases.

Now set these so-called "groceries" aside, start all over again with an empty cart and buy the family's food — only what you're going to eat. After you're checked out on these real groceries, compare the cost of food with the cost of "household items." deduct the difference, and probably for the first time in your life you'll find out what it costs to feed the family.

We often blame the high cost of food for all those incidentals we pick off the supermarket shelves. If you really want to budget on a practical basis, you've got to recognize the various ways in which you spend your money. I agree that you need all those incidental items you buy. But just keep the record straight.

Food Faddists Are Apt to Follow Same Pattern

People who "go" for iron tonic, "organically grown" fruits and vegetables (whatever that means), yoghurt, safflower oil and other items of so-called "health" foods fit into a pattern. It appears they tend to be in the upper age brackets, in the lower educational and income brackets, and are avid readers about health matters in newspapers and magazines. They have rigid personality patterns and they collect a lot of invalid opinions and pieces of information about nutrition.

Freeze Whole Fruit for Later Use

Autumn brings lots of tempting apples to the market place. Should you have more on hand than can be used at one time, freeze them whole.

Wash the apples and place in moisture-vapor-proof bags; seal and freeze. Frozen apples are best used for sauce, pie or other cooked apple dishes.

To use, do not thaw. Just run cold water over them, peel, slice and use immediately.

This characterization of the "faddist" shows up in a study by Jalso, Burns and Rivers of Cornell University. They used questionnaires and statistical analysis to separate "faddists" and "non-faddists" from borderline or uncertain subjects.

Then they interviewed 53 faddists and 48 non-faddists in their homes. "Misinformation," they said, "was prevalent in all areas of food and nutrition encompassed in this study. However, invalid opinions regarding special health foods, and soil depletion, chemical fertilizers and insecticides predominated."

Early Settlers Had Cured Beef

Dried beef and sliced, smoked beef are staples of today's homemaker, but early Americans also enjoyed a primitive form of this convenience food, reports the American Meat Institute.

Before the American Revolution, the inhabitants of the West Indies produced "bucan," an Indian form of dried beef. When these people turned to the more profitable pursuit of piracy, they were given the professional title of "buccanier."

In the Southwest, Mexican and Indian "vaquero" or cowboys processed dried beef into a product called "churki." Americans slurred the pronunciation to "jerky," and in some areas, today's jerky still eat "jerked beef."

No More Soaking

Nowadays a packaged dried fruit may usually be cooked without the soaking old-fashioned recipes always called for.

When you are preparing a creamstyle fish chowder, try adding a bay leaf along with the other seasonings.

CALIFORNIA STYLE — Serve halves of avocados. California style. Combine two-thirds cup rose wine or rose wine vinegar, two-thirds cup olive oil, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, ¼ teaspoon each white pepper, capers and chopped dill: Chill several hours or overnight. At serving time, cut avocados lengthwise; remove seeds. Brush cup surfaces with lemon juice. Serve half shells with wine vinaigrette.

Beans and Bacon Plus Tomatoes

What do you look for when you need a supper or luncheon from top end. Remove tomato pulp. Fill tomatoes with pork and beans. Arrange Canadian-style bacon in a baking dish.

Place a stuffed tomato on each slice of bacon. Cross 2 half slices of bacon on each tomato. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes or until tomatoes are tender and bacon is lightly browned. 6 servings.

Discover Goodness of Boiled Dressing

Egg sandwiches benefit from hot (but not boiling) water until being made with boiled dressing. Remove from heat; stir in butter. Cover and chill. Makes about 1½ cups.

Boiled Dressing
2 tablespoons regular flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
2 teaspoons sugar
1 large egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup milk
¼ cup cider vinegar
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Almond Frosting
Like almond flavoring in a frosting for cake? For a frosting made with two cups of confectioners sugar and about two tablespoons of hot milk, you may want to add as much as a teaspoon of the almond flavoring.

Unique Sandwich
Cut crisp rolls in half lengthwise and butter the cut sides; add a layer of cole slaw and one of fried oysters as the filling. Cook and stir constantly over for an unusual sandwich.

Relishes Cut Calories to Minimum

No need to get out the canning kettles and jars when you make up a batch of these sweet and spicy instant relishes. Each can be freshly prepared in a matter of minutes, then left to marinate in the refrigerator overnight.

Take your choice from deliciously spiced Sweet 'N Sour Carrot Sticks, tangy Mustard Beans, or Pickled Beets and Onion Rings. Serve them singly or combined on your relish tray, in a tossed salad, as a meat accompaniment, or as a zesty topping for hamburgers. And don't count the calories. You don't have to! Unlike most relishes these are completely sugar-free. Delicious sweetener comes from the natural-tasting, calorie-free sweetener, Sucraly.

SWEET 'N SOUR CARROT STICKS

6 medium carrots

pour over carrots. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Drain well before serving. Makes 6 servings, each 23 calories; 0.5 gram protein; trace of fat; 5.5 grams carbohydrate. (With sugar 85 calories.)

MUSTARD BEANS

1 1-pound can yellow wax beans, drained

In saucepan, combine all ingredients except beans; bring to a boil. Add beans; simmer uncovered 5 minutes; cool. Cover; refrigerate overnight. Serve as a relish, meat accompaniment, or in a salad. Onion Rings

4 medium onions, thinly sliced
¼ cup cider vinegar
¼ cup water
¼ teaspoon sucraly solution
¼ teaspoon salt
1 stick cinnamon
1 teaspoon whole cloves

To prepare beets: drain and combine the beet liquid with remaining ingredients in saucepan. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Strain and pour over beets; cover and refrigerate overnight.

To prepare onion rings: separate onion slices into rings. Combine remaining ingredients; bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Strain; pour over onion rings; cover and refrigerate overnight.

To serve, drain beets and onion rings and arrange in relish dish or on salad greens. Makes 6 servings, each 63

Try Beef Kidneys as Meat Course

Some of the most famous restaurants in the country serve braised veal or lamb kidneys with beets for breakfast. Why not serve this treat at home?

Wash and split the kidneys, brush with melted butter, and broil five minutes on each side, 3 to 4 inches from heat source. Halves of small kidneys may be wrapped with bacon for broiling, too.

Or you can pan-fry veal and lamb kidneys in bacon drippings, suggests the American Meat Institute.

Beef kidneys are best sliced or diced and simmered in water with vegetables. Beef kidney is a tasty addition to beef stew and beef pie.

Try Sweet Topping

A half cup of brown sugar mixed with a teaspoon of cinnamon and a tablespoon of melted butter makes a sweet topping for coffee-cake dough made with baking powder.

Use Wire Rack

Bread rolls made with yeast-raised dough should be cooled on wire racks, just as you would cool a cake or cookies.

GIVES VIEWS—Sam Legg (left) acted as spokesman for the widow of Norman R. Morrison at a press conference in Baltimore yesterday. The group released notes written by Morrison for a message to next Sunday's adult class of the Stony Run Friends Meeting Society. Morrison burned himself to death outside the Pentagon Tuesday. Seated beside Legg are Quaker society members Hooper Bond (center) and John Roemer.

'Not Pacifist'—Psychiatrist

Friends Tell Motives for Quaker's Death

WASHINGTON (UPI) — He was a young man with all his life in front of him. Why did he choose to end it in fiery protest against his country's policies in a nation half a world away?

Friends of Norman R. Morrison, the 31-year-old Baltimore Quaker who burned himself to death in front of the Pentagon Tuesday, think the answer lies in his deep pacifist beliefs.

His grief-stricken widow believes he gave his life as a "witness" to the belief that "the control and ultimate elimination of war is imperative in this century. He considered war itself — and the hatred and passions it inspired — as the real enemies of the people of Viet Nam and the United States."

But Dr. Howard P. Rome, senior consultant to the Mayo Clinic's department of psychiatry and president of the American Psychiatric Association, believes that Morrison was not really a pacifist in the accepted sense of the word.

Rome, in Washington for the White House conference on health, said yesterday that Morrison had performed the "ultimate form of violent action . . . self-destruction."

AGAINST TEACHINGS

His action "ran completely counter to the teachings of George Fox, one of the founders of the Society of Friends (Quakers)," Rome said.

"The Friends are against

the taking of any life, including one's own."

Rome refused to attempt anything like a diagnosis of Morrison's drastic act on the basis of news reports of the immolation.

But "as conjecture," he said, he would put Morrison's action in the category of any other suicide attempt. The immediate protest, upon which Morrison was said to have based his action, can be merely coincidental to the actual motives involved, he said.

NOT ALWAYS FACTOR

Rome explained that what a would-be suicide claims is his reason for his self-destructive action is not necessarily the factor which led to the suicide attempt.

Usually, he said, the causes are much more complex. Thus concern over the war in Viet Nam would not necessarily have been the sole or even the dominant factor which drove Morrison to that Pentagon parapet.

Rome believes there is a great distinction between Morrison's act and the recent wave of student demonstrations.

He feels that the teach-ins, the draft-card burnings, and the peace marches are "expressions of interest on the part of the young in public affairs . . . an attempt to identify themselves with something, a borrowed allegiance."

Morrison left no note of explanation for his action. But his wife made public remarks he had prepared only hours before his death to be given at a Sunday class in his church. They ended with this line: "The most important thing in the world is that our faith become the living experience of deed and life."

Michigan Briefs

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

WASHINGTON — Michigan's sweet cherry crop was slightly up but the sour cherry crop of all the Great Lakes states, which grew 96 per cent of the 1965 crop, was down 36 per cent. Prices: sweet cherries $325 a ton (up 12 per cent); sour cherries $103 a ton (up $1.00).

Walter Belson, American Trucking Association: "The trailer-on-flat-car or 'piggyback technique' will cut off millions of dollars of tax money or toll revenue now received on turpikes, bridges, tunnels . . . On the average one big truck pays more taxes than 36 passenger cars."

Health referral and counseling programs for armed forces medical rejectees are now being conducted in 37 states, and Michigan is expected to be the 38th, the U. S. Public Health Service reports.

Michigan highway officials have been invited to a meeting this week of top officers in all state highway departments to discuss implementing the Highway Beautification Act of 1965.

Federal Highway Administrator Rex M. Whitten said standards must be set for definition of unwanted areas used for business and commercial purposes and standards for the number, size and lighting of billboards in areas zoned for such purposes.

The act provides for control of billboards and junk yards and the protection and enhancement of scenic beauty of highways and roadsides.

TESTING FOR FLIGHT—An X15 rocket plane carrying two huge external fuel tanks and fastened under the wing of a B52 bomber made its first flight yesterday from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., with the new tanks in place. With Lt. Col. Robert Rushworth at the controls, the X15 was dropped over the California desert by the bomber. The X15 then dropped the empty tanks by parachute. The tanks are designed to eventually increase the X15 speed to 5,000 miles an hour.

MRS. WERNER, HOSTESS

Mrs. John Werner will be hostess at a luncheon meeting on Tuesday when members of the Bloomfield Hills Alumnae Club of Pi Beta Phi sorority will be entertained by "Wigs and Wiglets" with Grace Scalia in charge.

The James McGuire also joined their daughter Melissa for the weekend.

Dietition Confab

Mrs. Paul M. McCoy, food service director of the Waterford Township schools and Miss E. Grace Clark former dietitian at Pontiac State Hospital are in Cleveland, Ohio attending the 48th annual meeting of the American Dietetic Association.

Mrs. C. W. Doerr, Sylvan Lake (left) and Mrs. E. K. Wellman, Pontiac Lake Road, take measurements in Pontiac General Hospital lobby. They're planning decorations for the Nov. 19 bazaar sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary. Hours are 10 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Bazaar Planners Bustle Around

Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Every place you go these days you're apt to find women working on items to sell at bazaars, menus for luncheons or dinners or plans for decorations. We know of at least a dozen that take place this week or next.

Bazaars can be big business as anyone who has been chairman of one knows. To be really successful they must be planned far ahead and worked on for months.

AVAILABLE HELP
There are several little booklets published and free for the asking that will help a harassed committee. It's too late to get them for this year's bazaar, but you might want them for the future.

One is put out by a national manufacturer of home dyes; the other comes from a trading stamp company.

St. Paul Methodist

Tomorrow, the women at St. Paul's Methodist Church on East Square Lake Road will open the doors on their "Autumn Leaves" bazaar. Hours are 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Mrs. Howard Nelson and Mrs.

Ronald McGraw, cochairmen, say that luncheon will be served from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. Visitors may have coffee and dessert from 2-4 p. m.

Other committee women are Mrs. Fred Harroun, Mrs. Robert Reynolds, Mrs. David Dawson and Mrs. Robert Anderson.

St. Paul Lutheran

The Ladies Guild of St. Paul Lutheran Church plans its annual Christmas fair from 11 a. m. to 7:30 p. m. Friday.

This year's theme "Candy Cane" was chosen by a committee headed by Mrs. Louis Bays. Mrs. James Hoopingarner and Mrs. Henry Jarrard.

Assisting are Mrs. Norman Fralick and Mrs. Rosetta Buhl, cochairmen for the luncheon from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and smorgasbord, 5 to 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. Floyd Frisch, guild president, reports that fair proceeds will help purchase a new electric mimeograph machine for the church.

HOSPITAL AUXILIARIES

Auxiliaries of both St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and Pontiac General Hospital are sponsoring bazaars this month.

St. Joseph Mercy

The auditorium of the Mercy School of Nursing on Fulton Street will be transformed into a row of shops next Wednesday and Thursday. Hours are 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Last year was the first time that the Auxiliary had attempted such a lavish affair. It was so successful that in spite of the great amount of time and work involved, the women voted to do it again.

Gift shop committee women Mrs. John Geovjian, Mrs. Frank Audette and Mrs. Louis Hagopian, have made several trips to Detroit, Chicago and New York for interesting new items.

YULE DECORATIONS
Handmade and commercial Christmas decorations will again be offered.

Putting on a sister act in the accessories booth will be Mrs. Charles Woodson and Mrs. Douglas Brown.

Over 100 women are checking lists, making phone calls and scurrying around on last minute errands.

A special feature will be Rita Skooven, portrait artist, who will be available on Thursday to do pastel or charcoal portraits. A light luncheon will be served during the noon hour.

Pontiac General

Less elaborate, perhaps, but just as meticulously planned, is the bazaar at Pontiac General Hospital. Mary Guthrie is chairman of the Nov. 19 event.

This will be the second year that the bazaar will be held in the hospital lobby. Hours are 10 a. m. to 8 p. m.

A Daughter Born

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Heemstra of Ada, Mich., (Maureen Slosson) announce the birth of a daughter, Michelle Renee, on Nov. 1.

Grandparents are the T. M. Slossons of Woodbine Drive and the senior Cornelius Heemstras of Ada.

Booths scheduled are a boutique shop, baked goods and candy of all kinds, white elephants, jewelry and toys.

Auxiliary members are working on handmade articles for decoration and gifts.

Among the committee heads are Mrs. Floyd Compton, Mrs. Cecil Bondurant, Mrs. C. W. Doerr, Mrs. E. K. Wellman, Mrs. R. H. Austin and Mrs. Howard Walder.

Sons of Norway

Women of the Sons of Norway Lodge 473 plan a bazaar and bake sale Friday at First Federal Savings of Oakland's building. Hours will be from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Hand knit Norwegian sweaters and knickknacks will be featured at the event.

Heading the bazaar committee are Mrs. Per Mass and Mrs. John Kent.

Boxes of items to be sold at Pontiac General Hospital Auxiliary bazaar are waiting to be unpacked. Mrs. R. H. Austin, Porter Street, stops long enough to admire a doll. Bazaar proceeds go toward the Auxiliary's gift to the hospital.

Sister Mary Xavier, administrator of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, has made dozens of jars of jam and jelly for the Auxiliary bazaar. She performed this labor of love during the summer after her day's work. Bazaar proceeds go to the hospital building fund.

Mother's making aprons for St. Paul Methodist Church bazaar Friday, but it looks as if Beverly's doll could stand a new wardrobe, too. Mother is Mrs. Warren Ross of Douglas Drive. "Autumn Leaves" is the theme of the affair scheduled for 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. in the church on East Square Lake Road.

Mothers Take Advantage of Willing Baby Sitter

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: In spite of my 46 years, I am a healthy, active woman who does a lot of "baby jumping," not "sitting."

My problem is when two young mothers go out together to the same place, they ask me if I "mind" taking care of two sets of children.

It involves twice as much work, as both sets may need baths, diapers changed, supper, etc. Also, small children from different families usually don't get along very well together, and I have to watch them carefully and settle their squabbles and keep them entertained.

I don't mind the extra work involved, but when it comes to paying me, the mothers split the cost. So four hours of freedom costs them a dollar each. Is this fair to me?

Your answer in the column might help many of us who are imposed on in this way. Thank you.

OLD SUCKER

DEAR SUCKER: When you are asked if you "mind" taking care of two sets of children, speak up and say, "Not if each mother pays the going rate." When you buy two quarts of milk, you don't get the second one free!

DEAR ABBY: I have to agree with the woman who resented having a "working mother" who didn't really have to work. I had one, too.

I hated to come home from school to an empty house day after day.

When my mother did finally come home she had to catch up on her housework and everything was hectic and hurried. During my teen years I had to stay home all summer and look after my younger brothers. It was awful.

Brothers rarely obey their older sisters and I worried myself sick when they'd run off. There was much mutual resentment and bitterness.

Well, that's over now. I am grown and married, and my mother is still working. It's funny, but I can't remember any of the "extras" the additional money provided by my mother's working.

But I can remember how miserable and lonely I was. My mother and I will never be close. There just wasn't enough time for us to become acquainted.

Fruitcake Made Now Has Time to Season

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

It's time to make fruit cake — maybe past time. The candied fruit is piled high in the stores. If you do your baking this week, the cake will have time to season before Christmas.

Some lucky people are going to be able to buy Mrs. Claude Cole's fruitcake at the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Nurses Alumnae bake sale Saturday.

If you can't do that, here's the recipe to make your own.

GRANDMA'S FRUIT CAKE

By Mrs. Claude Cole
1/2 cup butter
1 pound brown sugar
3 eggs, separated
1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 teaspoon soda
4 cups flour

1/4 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 cup strong coffee (or brandy)
1/2 cup coffee and 1/4 cup

1/2 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup chopped dates
1/2 cup currants
8 oz. candied citron
8 oz. candied cherries, cut
8 oz. candied pineapple, cut (optional)

Cream butter and sugar, add egg yolks and beat well. Mix coffee, soda and sour cream together. Add to creamed mixture.

Sift dry ingredients. Dredge fruit in flour. Add both to first mixture. Stir in chopped nuts.

Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry, and fold in. Pour into large greased tube pan. Bake 1 1/2 hours at 250 degrees. Makes one 5-pound cake.

Eye-Popping Art's Her Hobby

SAINT JAMES, Ark. (AP) — When Merle June Dehls completed a course in arc welding as the only woman in a class with 50 men, she put her new skills to work in a hobby. It's a variation of pop art.

Aided by her father and neighbors, Miss Dehls has built up a scrap metal stockpile of nuts, bolts, screws, pieces from farm machinery and car parts which she thinks will keep her supplied with material for her handiwork for years to come.

On the lawn in front of the family home are some of Mrs. Dehls' creations, which cause passing motorists to pause for a better look. One is a "bird" composed of parts from an automobile, 61 plow shovels for feathers and other odd pieces of scrap metal.

Sketches Indians' Recipes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Dade County Department of Public Health nutritionists were faced with a problem in trying to teach the Miccosukee Indians to improve nutrition through new methods of food preparation.

NO WRITING

As the Miccosukees have no written language, it seemed impossible to supplement cooking classes with cookbooks.

But a 17-year-old high school senior, Sharon Tupko, came to the rescue. She volunteered to take the recipes prepared by Mrs. LeVina Phillips of the health department and translate them into pictures.

SIMPLE

Her simple sketches accompany the preparation directions for tupa and rice; green beans, macaroni and cheese, scrambled eggs, and grits and cheese, as well as a number of desserts.

Holiday Outline

DEAR GIRLS — Schedules are addressed. One of our readers are like New Year's resolutions are suggested that the addresses in that more are broken than be written with pencil for easier changing.

Cookie baking can be done now. The cookies keep for a long time in the freezer. A home economist also suggests making all the dough, quick freezing the cutout shapes on cookie sheets and then slipping them into plastic bags and storing in the freezer to be baked later.

Some readers may be ahead of these proposed plans. If so, fine. Many packages for delivery overseas are probably already mailed by the week of Nov. 1. If not, they must be mailed by Nov. 10, or air mailed by Dec. 10 to be sure of delivery by Christmas.

By, or during, the first week of November, Christmas cards should be ordered. If the signature is to be imprinted, include your last name as someone may know a dozen Marys or Jims. Last year's card list must be checked to know how many to order and we suggest getting some extras.

At this time make address changes in your file or book and officers, main motions and subsidiary motions. — speed up the job when envelopes POLLY

Those who do Christmas shopping throughout the year should check the gifts on hand against their lists so there is no chance of duplicate buying. About this time it might be well to write down your own sizes and wants so when friend husband asks you are all prepared with suggestions to help him shop.

If your family has no established Christmas custom think ahead to one that you will start this year. In most families these are simple things like reading aloud Dickens' "Christmas Carol" on Christmas Eve, singing carols or a tree trimming party for lonely friends.

The $72 million the United States paid Russia for Alaska in 1867 was equivalent to only two cents per acre.

The Joseph H. Warings of Summit Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter Alice Lynn to Douglas W. Hummel, son of the Richard M. Hummels of West Rundell Street. Her fiancé attended Flint Junior College. Spring vows are being planned.

Early winter chapel vows in the First Baptist Church, Dublin, Texas, are planned by LaJuana Kaye Warren and David James Fisher, son of the Richard Fishers of Cherokee Road. The bride-elect is the daughter of Paul W. Warren of Dublin and the late Mrs. Warren. Both she and her fiancé attended Tarleton State College, Stephenville, Texas.

MRS. J. C. GROSSBAUER

Canadian Trip for This Pair

The James Carl Grossbauers (Bonnie Lee Crow) left for a brief honeymoon in Canada after their recent marriage in the Lum Methodist Church.

A reception and buffet supper for some 300 guests in the American Legion Hall, Imlay City, followed the evening rite performed by Rev. Darrell Tallman.

Parents of the couple are the William Crows of Lum and the Harry Grossbauers of Metamora.

LACE ACCENTS

Hand-clipped Chantilly lace accented the bride's gown of white silk bombazine and her tiered Watteau court train. A Swedish tiara of lace and pearls held her illusion veil.

White orchids, roses and Stephanotis were arranged in a cascade bouquet for the bride.

Connie Joseph was her sister's maid of honor along with bridesmaids, Mrs. Duane Misener of Lapeer, and Mrs. Donald Hill of Imlay City. Julie Henderson of Ottawa Lake was flower girl.

William Grossbauer was his brother's best man with Duane Misener and Barry Crow as groomsmen. Robert Watt and Michael Groves seated the guests. Candlelighters included Bradley Crow and Tim Streu.

New Charges Face Portugal

34 African Nations
Ready U. N. Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The security council, forced for three days running to cancel meetings on the Kashmir crisis because of big power disagreement, turned today to debate on Portugal's policy towards its African territories.

For the second time within a year, the 11-nation council was to hear charges brought against Portugal by representatives of 34 African countries.

Last May, Senegal complained to the council of alleged violations of its territory by troops stationed in neighboring Portuguese Guinea.

Portugal denied those charges, and Foreign Minister Alberto Franco Nogueira was set to again make an equally vehement defense of its government's African policies.

Presenting the charges for the African powers were Foreign Ministers J. Rudolph Grimes of Liberia and C. B. Rodgers-Wright of Sierra Leone, and ambassadors Mongi Slim of Tunisia and Louis Rakotomalala of Madagascar.

WERE APPOINTED

These four countries were appointed by the Organization of African Unity (OAU) in 1963 to press for council action against both Portugal and South Africa.

Diplomatic sources expected an African demand for economic sanctions to force Portugal to grant self-determination to its African territories.

They saw little chance of the council taking such action, however, and expected only a call to Portugal to speed progress of its three African territories toward independence.

Backstage conferences among council members seeking agreement on a new resolution to enforce a cease-fire-and-withdrawal order in the Kashmir conflict between India and Pakistan appeared to have collapsed yesterday.

DROP MEETING

For the third consecutive day, the council canceled a scheduled meeting on the issue rather than risk a Soviet veto.

The Soviet Union was reported to have rebuffed appeals from western and neutral powers to abstain, rather than vote against, a draft resolution endorsing Secretary General Thant's action in seeking to enforce the cease-fire Sept. 29 order to the embattled rivals.

Diplomatic sources said Russia, which insists that the council has authority over peace operations, wanted to set a three-month time limit on the observer operation — entailing about 100 men — set up by Thant.

The limit would expire Dec. 20, 90 days after the Sept. 20 resolution was passed.

The United States wanted full endorsement of Thant's effort with no limitation specified.

No date for a new council meeting on Kashmir was set, but there was always a possibility of a session being called on short notice.

Report Draft Deferment to Police Cadet

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Steven Cox, 20, said today he has received a letter from his draft board saying he will be deferred from military service while he is a Cincinnati police cadet.

The letter was good news to harried Cincinnati police officials who are having trouble keeping the force up to its authorized level of 800 men.

Chief Stanley R. Schrotel said his department wrote to the county draft boards two weeks ago, asking for deferments to the cadets on the grounds that they were needed for the protection of citizens.

One member of Cox's class of 28 cadets was inducted last week. He had been ordered to report for physical examination.

It is easy to get to a slam after a limit raise. Opener takes control because his partner has shown a very precise hand with good trumps and a total of 11 or 12 points in support of his partner's opening bid.

South lost no time in getting to six spades

Wings Send New Player to Pittsburgh

DETROIT (U) — Red Wing defenseman Bob McCord, acquired during the off-season from the Boston Bruins, was assigned Wednesday to the Wings' Pittsburgh farm club in the American Hockey League.

McCord replaces veteran defenseman Pete Goegan, who was recalled to the National Hockey League club Saturday.

Coach Sid Abel said the move was designed to bolster the Wings' sagging defense, which has allowed 19 goals in its first five games.

Abel, in preparing for tonight's Olympia Stadium meeting with the Bruins, noted that McCord — a right-handed shooter — was out of position on left defense where he was playing.

Goegan, a veteran traveler in the Wing farm system, shoots left-handed. He will team with Al Barkley in McCord's spot.

Punch Imlach, general manager-coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs, was reflecting on his decision to protect aging Johnny Bower and Terry Sawchuk from the National Hockey League draft last June and expose young Gerry Cheevers.

"Sure I thought about protecting Cheevers," Imlach said after Bower's sharp play had protected 2-3 tie against the New York Rangers Wednesday night.

"But you know goalies are like wine. They improve with age."

Bower, who celebrates his 41st birthday next week, was at his best in the third period against the Rangers after New York's Rod Gilbert had tied the score in the first 12 seconds.

Arrows Win Coin Toss

Groves' Defense Has Big Challenge Friday

Birmingham's Groves' defense Friday night will attempt to stop the potent Clintonde of the Port Huron Friday night.

Southeastern Michigan Association champion Royal Oak Kimball should remain unbeaten against visiting, once-victorious Port Huron Friday night.

East Detroit will visit Ferndale, Farmington will invade Southfield, Oak Park will entertain Highland Park.

Clintonde, the No. 6 ranked team in the weekly class B state poll by the Associated Press, has been averaging six-to-seven touchdowns a game in running over seven opponents.

Groves, 2-4-1 on the season and winless in its last four starts has shown a respectable defense except for a breakdown consecutive weekends against North Farmington and Livonia Franklinton.

Seaholm and Dondoro will both be looking to regain lost momentum. The Maples' offense has struggled in losing and tying its last two starts, while Dondoro's defense has suffered as the Oaks lost two of their last three games.

RO Kimball's Knights are the county's highest rated team. With a 7-0 mark and the SEMA title, they are No. 5 in the class field of 120 pros in the $8,960 A poll and hoping to finish journey over the treeless 6,758 yards Kingston course.

Play hit his drive 250 yards down the fairway of the 396-yard par four first hole, then hit an easy seven iron. The ball landed just beyond the pin and spun back into the cup. He went out in 34 and came back in 36.

Doug Sanders, of Ojai, Calif., and Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio were late starters in the field of 120 pros in the $8,960 A poll and hoping to finish journey over the treeless 6,758 yards Kingston course.

Pontiac May Be Title Site

Need Saturday Win Against Lansing

The Pontiac Arrows won the toss of the coin as the site for Midwest Football League playoff but it all hinges on whether the Arrows can beat the Lansing Stars in their season finale Saturday night at Winder Stadium.

Currently tied with Dayton with 5-2 records atop the MFL, the two teams had to flip the coin to decide where the playoff game would be held should both win their final games this weekend.

Dayton is a heavy favorite to defeat Flint, a team which pulled the season's top upset in defeating Pontiac, 19-14, last weekend.

Should Dayton win and Pontiac lose to Lansing, the Colts would take the crown and earn the right to meet the MFL All-Stars.

Lansing, with a strong offensive team, currently holds down third place in the league and the Stars from the Capital City battled the Arrows to the final gun in their first outing before losing 18-13.

The game Saturday night is scheduled for 8:00 p.m. A midweek football game is slated to start at 7:00 p.m.

At halftime, the outstanding player award donated by Cook Construction will be presented and the Pontiac Northern band will do the entertaining.

Tickets are on sale at numerous locations in the Pontiac area, including Osburn's, Griff's, Bob-Ken's, Triple XXX, VFW and Montgomery Wards.

Old Windy Hoople Fattens Up Picks

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Grid Wizard

Egad, friends, here we are in November and it's time to start fattening up the turkey for your Thanksgiving feast.

We've been very busy recently at the Hoople Poultry Experimental Station developing a gobbler with five legs to provide enough drumsticks for every member of the average family.

We are hopeful — ha-kaff — of having this bird on the market by next year!

Ole Miss justified our confidence by administering a 23-0 thumping to L.S.U. — Har-rumph! The valiant Missouri lads weren't quite as fortunate, falling by a scant two-point margin after leading the Cornhuskers most of the way — kaff-kaff! (Ed. Note: Close, but no cigar, Mr. Windbag.)

To still the clamor of the multitudinous Pennsylvania followers of the Hoople Forecasts, I've included the crucial Slippery Rock State and Lock Haven State contest in my forecast.

Now go on with the forecast.

Waterford Meets Lapeer

Skipper Coach Wary

Waterford coach John Moffat must shudder a bit when he thinks about this week's gridiron foe; the Skippers will make the trip to Lapeer Friday night to meet the Panthers.

Moffat doesn't have any powerful opponent to challenge with the struggling Township eleven. In fact, Lapeer's 1-3-3 log is not as good as Waterford's 2-5. That is the real concern for the first-year coach. How does he get the Skippers aroused for the game, particularly when they have to be looking ahead to next week's annual collision with Waterford Kettering?

The Skippers have lost four in a row after being 2-1. They aren't ready for Kettering, yet, unless the offense and defense begin functioning this week at Lapeer.

The Panthers under new coach Sid DeCou have beaten only Port Huron Northern in their second game of the season, but had three ties in their league play.

Walled Lake will play Plymouth at home in that annual meeting. The Vikings finally put everything together last week in whipping East Detroit and shouldn't have much trouble with Plymouth which has been down.

Romeo will visit Lathrup East and Oxford has a home date with Madison Lapeer. The latter is a solid favorite over Oxford which is still looking for its first win under new coach Jerry Neidinger.

The Romeo-Lathrup East contest is a toss-up. The Bulldogs have generated offense in the past two weeks and may have enough momentum to offset their host's homefield advantage.

Uniform Change Eyed by Policeman-Punter

MIAMI (UPI) — Joe Quick, who hopes to switch from a policeman's uniform to a football suit as a punting specialist for the Baltimore Colts next season, and maybe before.

Quick, a Dade County motorcycle patrolman, disclosed Wednesday he had signed a $10,000 contract with the Colts.

Quick said he was told to practice more in Miami because he would be called upon for the remainder of this season.

"I sure hope so. Imagine starting at the top with a championship contender," he said.

The Colts are tied for the Western Division lead in the NFL and are looking for a consistent punter.

"I hope I can make the grade," Quick said.

Sayers Storms With Ball

Bear Runner Real Gale

NEW YORK (AP)—Gale Sayers' value to the Chicago Bears is emphasized in a compilation of the National Football League statistics at mid-season.

The Bears' prize rookie half-back has accounted for 1,006 combined net yards and 10 touchdowns. He has rushed for 300 yards and four touchdowns, caught 18 passes for 306 yards and five TDs, returned nine kickoffs for 312 yards and one score and returned four punts for 86 yards.

A tabulation of combined yardage for the running backs in both rushing and pass receiving shows Sayers in fifth place.

Pros Facing Test in 1st Hawaii Open

HONOLULU (AP) — "I'm not suggesting that the rough is tough," said Don January, "but I hear they turned down jungle Jim for a caddy's job because he was afraid to go in it."

January, the slim Texas veteran, was describing the unkempt areas of the Waialae golf course on the slopes of Hawaii's famous Diamond Head where the regulars on the pro tour teed off today in the $50,000 Hawaiian Open.

"The fairways are narrow, and if the trade winds blow hard, it could be a tough golf course," January said.

Waialae plays at 7,000 yards for the 72-hole tournament, first official Professional Golfers Association tournament ever held in Hawaii and next-to-last stop on the pro tour this year.

Cranes' Harriers Stay Unbeaten in 16-46 Victory

Cranbrook's cross-country team remained unbeaten and the Cranbrook soccer team defeated Bloomfield Hills, 6-2 in prep action yesterday.

Charlie Craig broke the course record by a tenth of a second with a 10:14 clocking in Cranbrook's 16-46 win over Birmingham Groves.

Mike Koerner, a sophomore like Craig was only one second off the mark in finishing No. 2. Cranbrook also took third, fourth and sixth with Bruce Hunter, John Vogt and Greg Bower.

A three-goal third period outburst on boots by Rich Bosley, Roger Cummings and Mark Packard broke open a close soccer game with Hills, whose only two losses have been against the Cranbrook this fall.

Must Halt Holly's Phalen

Bloomfield Hills Has Another Test

Bloomfield Hills got a taste of Milford's one-man attack last week and didn't find Mike Yeager palatable on the way to suffering its first loss of the season, 20-19.

It may have been just as well. The Barons, at least, had a warm-up of what to expect Friday when they travel to Holly hoping to wrap-up the Wayne-Oakland League football championship.

Holly will throw halfback Mark Phalen at the Bloomfield defense. He's shiffter and faster than Yeager, but he doesn't play quarterback as the Milford star does on occasion.

Phalen also is the top scorer in the county with 16 touchdowns and two extra points for 96 markers.

Milford (4-2) will be hoping for the Barons (5-1) to slip once again. The Redskins, however, will have to get past fast-improving Clarenceville at Milford. Other W-O action has West Bloomfield at Clarkston and Northville at Brighton. These are the final league tilts of the season.

OAKLAND A
The Oakland A also ends play Friday.

Rochester entertains Warren Cossino and victory for the Falcons would give them fourth place over the visitors by half a game. Avondale can move ahead of visiting Troy into sixth place.

Winless Lake Orion has the unhappy task of going to undefeated Fitzgerald. The Spartans are heavy favorites to win the game and the outright championship.

Clawson moved into second place alone last night with a 13-0 victory over Madison.

A pair of doubleheader-passes from Larry Pinchback to Mark Babich turned the trick for Clawson and upped the team's record to 6-1 in O-A play and 7-1 over-all.

In another game last night, Grosse Ile, the state's third-ranked Class B team, routed Wayne John Glenn, 40-12.

Local College '5' Tourney Host

Basketball invades the sports scene this weekend with the first Midwestern Baptist Seminary Invitational Tournament Friday and Saturday nights in the Golf Drive school's gymnasium.

The opening night action will find Detroit Bible College playing the Detroit Tech freshman team at 6:15 p.m., followed by the host school's encounter with the University of Windsor plebes at 8 o'clock.

The two losers will collide in the Saturday night opener and the championship game will follow at 8 p.m.

Both Midwestern and Detroit Bible are members of the Michigan Christian College Athletic Association. Dean Ken Fitzgerald coaches Midwestern's Falcons.

Former Emmanuel Christian prep school all-star Ralph Wingate combines with Larry Thompson to give the host school a potent offensive punch.

In addition, Frederick has several other experienced varsity performers to work into the starting rotation and freshman Fraser Vipond of Traverse City may break into the lineup quickly.

The college will open its league season next week along with five of the other six league members around the state.

Mrs. Breedlove Takes Control of Record Car

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah 47. — The pretty, dark-haired wife of the fastest man on wheels wants to become the fastest woman on wheels.

Mrs. Craig Breedlove, wife of the man who roared to 555.127 miles per hour to grab the land speed record here Tuesday, will drive her husband's Spirit of America Sonic 1 Thursday in an attempt on Betty Skelton's 277.62 m.p.h. mark set last September.

Miss Skelton, of Detroit, drove Art Arfons' Green Monster Cylops, an open cockpit jet dragster, 250.61 m.p.h. and returned on the one-mile measured portion of the 11-mile course at a speed of 315.72 m.p.h.

The 277.62 mark shattered the previous record of 226 m.p.h. set by Paula Murphy of Los Angeles in 1964.

Port Huron '6' Falls
DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Barry Jakeman slipped in a goal with less than two minutes remaining in the final period Wednesday night to give Des Moines a 4-3 victory over Port Huron in an International Hockey League game.

Activation of Districting Group Creates Added Problem--How to Finance Operation

LANSING (AP) — The State, Legislative Apportionment Commission will meet for the first time Nov. 12 — to face a host of problems in addition to legislative districting.

The first among these is: how to finance its operation when there's no appropriation for that purpose?

Secretary of State James Hare, into whose department the commission was transferred under governmental reorganization, said Wednesday:

"The first meeting will have to face the problem of setting up an organization, staffing it, housing it, and equipping it without an appropriation — to say nothing of per diem fees and travel expenses."

The eight-member bipartisan commission was reactivated Tuesday by the State Supreme Court's 5-3 order to reassess the state's present legislative apportionment.

The commission, which last operated as a group nearly 18 months ago, has no appropriations behind it in the current fiscal year.

The high court's lengthy opinion did not go into the matter of financing the commission's operation, which must be completed 60 days from Tuesday.

Hare, who now serves as secretary to the commission, said he would ask the commission how much office space and how many assistants it would need.

"But," he added, "there is no debt or liabilities," said Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Because the legislature has not officially adjourned, emergency contingency funds of $100,000 voted by the legislature, it has "no right to incur" earlier this year cannot be tapped, he said.

The legislature is not scheduled to adjourn until Dec. 30, freeing the money for the staffing problem—might be to borrow clerical and advisory personnel from other state agencies, if the agency heads are willing, Lane said.

One possible solution—least for the staffing problem—might be to borrow clerical and advisory personnel from other state agencies, if the agency heads are willing, Lane said.

1-Man, 1-Vote -- Just How Far

Application of Rule to County Units Argued

LANSING (AP) — How far down the governmental line does the historic "one man-one vote" ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court run?

"All the way," say the opponents of present districting of Kent and Muskegon county boards of supervisors.

"It stops at the legislative level," say the backers.

The Michigan Supreme Court heard oral arguments in the two precedent-setting cases Wednesday, scarcely 24 hours after it reopened the state's legislative apportionment question.

UNDERREPRESENTED

A group of Grand Rapids residents are protesting the city is underrepresented on the County Board of Supervisors. And Eugene Schaub, a resident of Eggleston Township in Muskegon County, maintains the City of Muskegon is overrepresented at the expense of his township.

A third case has not yet reached the Supreme Court level. Robert Jones Jr. of Jackson and Kenneth White of Michigan Center filed suit in Jackson County Circuit Court last month contending they were being denied equal protection of the laws because of alleged malapportionment of the county board of supervisors.

Kent County Clerk Jack Bronkema heads a group of county residents and city officials appealing Kent Circuit Judge Fred Sear's September 1964 ruling that the board had to be apportioned on a population basis.

Attorney George Cook, representing the board of supervisors, called Sear's logic "defective."

NOT APPLICABLE

The U.S. Supreme Court, he contended, "has not held that (previous cases) are applicable to units of government below the level of the State Legislature."

"And for this court to now so hold would be to add another self-pounded coffin nail in our federal system," he added.

William Reamon, attorney for the plaintiffs, argued that a local body, exercising powers delegated by the state, is subject to the same restrictions as the state, in this case, equal population districting.

Under questioning by Justice Theodore Souris, he agreed this referred to "representative bodies that purport to be representative."

$300 Store Robbery Staged via Telephone

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — When supermarket manager Omar Hershey answered the phone Wednesday night, the voice on the other end ordered him to give all his money to the man in the blue sweater.

Hershey looked up—and there was a man wearing a blue sweater. Hershey gave him $300 and the man walked out.

An uncommon luxury!

Fear 36 Cubans Drowned

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The Mexican navy searched today for 36 Cuban refugees feared drowned off the Mexican Coast after their fishing smack cracked up on the reefs. As hope of finding them alive dwindled, the Cuban government's order to halt the exodus of small boats from Cuba to Florida was in effect.

The ministry of the interior said the action—effective at noon yesterday—was taken due to bad weather and an imminent agreement between the United States and Cuba for an orderly airlift of refugees.

U.S. Coast Guard cutters braved 28-foot swells in the Florida Straits to search for two refugee boats long overdue at Key West from Camarioca, the port emigrants must use.

The straits, which separate Cuba from Florida, were dotted with empty boats left behind when the Coast Guard transferred refugees to its cutters. The Mexican navy searched for the 36 off the northeast tip of the Yucatan Peninsula, where their fishing smack, Jose Marti, struck reefs.

The navy said nine survivors were rescued, including four women, and six bodies were recovered. Mexican officials said the vessel left Cuba Oct. 25 and apparently was trying to reach Isla Mujeres. It sank Tuesday.

A Havana radio broadcast identified the vessel as the Jose Marti and said it sailed from Cuba's westernmost Pinar del Rio Province "in a clandestine manner."

44 ABOARD

The newscast, monitored in Miami, said the boat carried 44 persons, 11 of them minors, and that only nine survived.

The broadcast quoted an Armed Forces Ministry communiqué as saying that "departures like this have no justification whatsoever because the Cuban government has always permitted legal departures from the country."

The incident was termed by the communiqué "a sad feat of the counterrevolutionary."

At least six persons have drowned previously and hundreds of others have been rescued from small craft trying to navigate the 90 miles between Cuba and the Florida Keys.

'SEVERAL EXECUTED'

In Miami, a newly arrived refugee said several Cubans accused of trying to assassinate Castro July 27 have been executed.

Col. Lazaro Landeiros, a Cuban army official until 1962, said Mario Salabarría, chief of police under the Ramon Grau San Martin government in the 1940s, a Dr. Bernardo Milanes and others were believed to have been shot.

Landeiros' comments were made public by the exile Cuban Information Agency.

CHARLES DE GAULLE

Frenchmen Awaiting De Gaulle Decision

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle says "yes or no" tonight to the No. 1 question in France — whether he will run on Dec. 5 for another seven years in office.

Most political observers think de Gaulle will say yes. A small minority thinks he has decided to step aside. No one pretends to have inside information or to be sure.

De Gaulle makes his decision public in a radio-television address. There was speculation that his revelation would not come until his closing sentences.

The suspense element has been so carefully built up that de Gaulle was certain to have an almost saturation audience.

One of the reasons for the uncertainty was a complete absence of recent information on the state of his health, a key factor in his decision.

De Gaulle's last serious illness was nearly 19 months ago, when a prostate tumor was removed.

STRENUOUS TOUR Six months later, he made a strenuous three-week tour of Latin America and showed no outward ill effects. Since then he has carried on as usual.

Those who strongly believe de Gaulle would be a candidate base their belief at least in part on these factors:

1. De Gaulle feels at home in power and would not willingly give over the reins as long as he feels physically fit.

2. Crucial negotiations are in prospect within the Common Market and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on issues involving France's national interests. De Gaulle thinks he is best qualified to impose France's will.

3. No apparent effort has been made to build up a successor.

The barge and tug were owned by A. B. McLean & Sons Ltd. of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. Winds had subsided to 25 to 31 miles an hour by the time of the rescue today.

Blasts of 60 to 65 miles last night drove the tug and the 235-foot barge Johnson aground.

Gov. Romney: No Eyes on Presidency

TOKYO (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan said today "I have no presidential ambitions. I got into politics to help Michigan."

That was Romney's response to a question whether he believed the Republican Party leadership was working to block any presidential ambitions he might have because he didn't support Sen. Barry Goldwater at the party's 1964 convention in San Francisco.

The governor addressed the Tokyo Foreign Correspondents Club.

He said Michigan's efforts at San Francisco were to get written into the platform a change in its civil rights stand and right wing extremism. "Since then Goldwater has conceded some mistakes were made there," Romney said.

He said he believed the recently formed National Republican Coordinating Committee would be helpful to develop a "superior program" within the Republican Party.

Most of his speech centered on foreign affairs.

He said the United States is carrying out inadequate policies of "containment and survival" while the communists "still have the initiative."

Pleasant Weather Is Due to Linger

Another pleasant day is coming our way.

The weatherman forecasts mostly sunny and slightly warmer with highs in the 50s tomorrow. Lows will dip to 25 to 33 tonight.

Partly cloudy and warmer is the outlook for Saturday.

Morning westerly winds will be 15 to 30 miles per hour with diminish tonight becoming south to southwest at 5 to 15 miles tomorrow afternoon.

Thirtieth was the low reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The thermometer registered 51 at 1 p.m.

Threats Delay Meg's Flight

Two Anonymous Calls Fail to Stop U. S. Trip

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret left today for her first visit to the United States after two delays.

The British jetliner taking Queen Elizabeth's 35-year-old sister to America was delayed 17 minutes by an anonymous telephone caller who said strychnine missing from a warehouse at London Airport had been put in the drinking water on Margaret's plane.

Security men drained the water supply on the plane and refilled the tanks. Airline officials discovered yesterday that a box of 25 pounds of strychnine nitrate being shipped from India to Hungary was missing from a warehouse. Police said they believed it had been stolen.

Last night another anonymous caller telephoned the airport and said an attempt would be made to bring down the royal flight "either by a bomb or other means."

A search of the plane, a regular British Overseas Airways Corp. airliner, revealed nothing suspicious. The plane was tightly guarded until takeoff.

The princess was accompanied by her husband, Lord Snowdon; her lady in waiting, Lady Elizabeth Cavendish; and her private secretary, Maj. Francis Leigh.

The entire first class section of the plane was reserved for the princess and her party.

The princess, 35, was scheduled to land for 90 minutes at New York's John F. Kennedy Airport and then fly on to San Francisco, arriving there about 9 p.m. EST.

Margaret's three-week tour will include visits to San Francisco, Los Angeles, the Arizona ranch of former Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas, Washington and New York.

Campaign Ends on Victory Note

By L. GARY THORNE

Contributions to the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign cracked the million-dollar mark, skyrocketing 14 per cent over the record goal, it was announced today.

It was the first time that local UF contributions have topped a million dollars. The 22-day campaign ended today with a giant victory luncheon at the Pontiac Elks Temple.

Calvin J. Werner, general campaign chairman, introduced division chairmen who reported their final fund-raising figures.

The total campaign effort netted $1,000,107 or 14 per cent over the record $875,000 goal for 1965. There was promise that late UF donations might push the total even higher.

Commenting on a "job well done," Werner said the record contributions set an all-time high for the Pontiac Area United Fund, topping the 1965 goal by more than $125,000.

General Motors Corp. and its employees accounted for over 50 per cent of the UF campaign funds. A total GM contribution of $691,934 was reported at the luncheon.

CORPORATE GIFT

The GM corporate gift totaled $165,000, while GM employee contributions reached $526,834.

Industrial Division chairman Thomas A. Withers reported that his division collected a total of $723,130 or over 25 per cent more than the $582,463 quota.

Bruce J. Annett, advance gifts chairman, reported that his $104,090 quota had been exceeded slightly. Advance gifts totaled $104,189. Workers were urged to clean up outstanding pledges.

The women's division, headed by Mrs. William G. Wright, topped its quota of $35,078. Women contributions totaled $36,002 or 2 per cent over quota.

MORE ON WAY

Commercial Division Chairman James P. Dickerson offered the promise of more contributions.

Ninety per cent ($221,812) has been raised of the division's quota of $243,757. Solicitors were urged to turn in outstanding pledges.

UF leaders reported at the luncheon that special gifts had reached $9,943, falling short of the $13,702 quota. However, more gifts are anticipated.

Werner presented each of the division chairmen with an Indian Oscar Award for their work in the UF campaign.

SIMILAR AWARD

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., who presided at the luncheon as master of ceremonies, then presented Werner with a similar Indian award.

Werner told the UF volunteers, "Although your success is measured in dollars, it is best realized in spirit."

"The increased goal this year was a tremendous challenge and the figures reported are both a tribute to the generosity of Pontiac citizens and to the dedication of everyone connected with the 1965 campaign."

STAY HEAD DOWN Newswoman Viet Fatality

member of the press killed in the Viet Nam war.

A corps commander in the central highlands said, "She never asked the slightest concession because of her sex."

Yesterday she bet Associated Press photographer Henri Huet a dime that the Marine unit she was with would be fired on before his.

LOST BET

She lost by half an hour when Huet's outfit was pinned down for a time by sniper fire.

"Okay," she said with a laugh, "tomorrow I'll have my chance."

Last night Huet helped her dig her foxhole despite her protests. But night was coming on fast and Huet swept aside her objections; they expected their positions to be hit by mortar fire after dark.

The mortar shells did not fall, and Huet had breakfast with her over a can of C rations. It was the last time he saw her alive.

HEARD CRIES

He reported later: "A few minutes after breakfast I was taking pictures of a Marine officer holding a punji stake, when I heard shouting and cries of 'corpse man! corpse man!'"

"I saw a group running about 100 yards away. I ran with them and saw three or four bodies on the ground."

"One was face down and soaked with blood. I couldn't tell who it was at first, but I looked more closely and suddenly I realized it was Dickey."

"The corpsmen checked her and told me nothing could be done for her in the field."

"He went to tend the other wounded, while we waited for the Medivac chopper (medical evacuation helicopter) that came and took her out."

"A chaplain gave her the last rites of the Catholic Church. She apparently died around the chopper."

The newswoman had been up front with the Marine company when it began moving down a hill from the bivouac area to begin the day's patrolling.

The booby trap exploded at the foot of the hill, triggered by a grenade wired to an 81mm mortar.

ON ASSIGNMENT

Miss Chapelle was on assignment for the National Observer and for WOR-RKO radio. She had previously worked in Vietnam for the National Geographic.

An accomplished pilot and parachutist, she parachuted several times into the thick of the fighting.

She had been in Viet Nam several times on combat assignments.

CORPS EMBLEM

When she died, she still wore on her hat the Marine Corps emblem which Gen. Wallace M. Greene, the Marine Corps commander, took off his uniform and gave to her in his Washington office two months ago when he heard she was going back to Viet Nam.

Wounded Boy 'Satisfactory'

Nineteen-year-old Robert O'Connor was reported in satisfactory condition this morning at Pontiac General Hospital following surgery which removed a .22-caliber rifle slug from the top of his head yesterday.

O'Connor was shot Tuesday night by an assailant who fired through the window of O'Connor's parked car.

The youth, a former football player and wrestler at Lake Orion Community High School, grabbed the gun and fought off the attacker.

Detective Alphonse Anderson of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department said no concrete leads have turned up in the shooting, which took place on a lonely stretch of Draher Road in Addison Township.

The assailant was described as about five-foot-eight, 150 pounds and wearing a brown coat and brown hat. He fled on foot after losing the gun to O'Connor.

Grid Star Tormented---Defense

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—A former college football star on trial for the bloodiest bank robbery of modern times was described by his chief counsel yesterday as a tormented young man sliding helplessly toward homicide.

"Something was taking possession of his mind," court-appointed attorney Robert Crosby said. "Crosby said, 'I never had been in trouble, did not swear, and did not "even drink coffee." Crosby said, "Maybe he was too good."

Pope, the son of Roxbury, Kan., shareholder, is accused of stealing $1,500 from the Farmers State Bank of Big Springs; of killing bank President Andreas (Andy) Kjeldrickson, 60, and bookkeeper

Mrs. Lois Ann Hothan, 35; and of seriously wounding Kjeldrickson's nephew, Franklin, 25, expected to be the prime prosecution witness.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Theodore Richlin in his opening argument yesterday called the Big Springs affair a "planned, cold, calculated, premeditated act."

A South Kansas artillery unit fired the rounds last week that killed six U.S. paratroopers, an informed source said today.

The Americans were members of the 101st Airborne Division who were taking part in an operation near the port city of Qui Nhon, 260 miles northeast of Saigon.

The former McPherson (Kan.) College football player never had been in trouble, did not swear, and did not "even drink coffee." Crosby said, "Maybe he was too good."

Teachers Vote Tuesday on BEA as Bargainer

BIRMINGHAM — Teachers' representatives and a MEA field representative will vote Tuesday to determine whether or not the Birmingham Education Association will act as their sole bargaining agent with the school board.

No other organization has requested recognition, so teachers will only answer yes or no rather than make a choice.

The election will be conducted at Derby Junior High School and at Seashell High School from 2 to 6 p.m.

It will be supervised by representatives of the State Labor Mediation Board.

Excluded from the balloting will be principals, assistant principals, department heads in secondary schools, coordinators and central office administrators.

MEMBERSHIP
The Birmingham Teachers Association claims a membership of over 90 per cent of Birmingham teachers.

Petitions were verified and election details worked out at a hearing last week before the Labor Mediation Board in Detroit.

Present at the hearing was Superintendent John B. Smith, attorneys for both the Michigan Education Association (parent of the BEA) and the board of education, five BEA representatives and a MEA field representative.

The Birmingham Society of Women Painters will open its 21st annual exhibition Sunday at the Birmingham Art Center, 1516 S. Cranbrook. It will continue through Nov. 28.

The Society is the oldest organized art group in Birmingham and, at one time, was the only one which regularly sponsored classes and presented annual exhibitions.

It was the first to hold art exhibitions in Shain Park and one of its members, Mrs. Ralph D. Williams, planted the seed which eventually blossomed into the Bloomfield Art Association.

Although the emphasis over the years has been in oil painting, members have worked in a variety of media. They have produced serigraphs, lithographs, gouaches, weaving, ceramics and sculpture, many of which will be exhibited at the show.

Jury Is Selected for Second Trial of U.S. Red Party

WASHINGTON (UPI)

Twelve jurors who maintain they have never heard or read a derogatory word about the U.S. Communist party begin hearing testimony today in the party's second trial for refusing to register as a Soviet agent.

The jury of eight women and four men was picked yesterday to hear the case, brought by the government in U.S. district court under the controversial McCarran Internal Security Act of 1950.

Selection of the jury came after questioning of almost 40 prospective jurors resulted in the surprising claim by virtually the entire panel they had not seen or heard anything to put the party in a bad light.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Joseph A. Lowther, the chief prosecutor, said he would call about eight witnesses.

The government needed only one witness to get a conviction in the first trial three years ago. But the conviction was overturned by an appeals court which gave the prosecution an additional burden — to prove there was a volunteer available to register for the party.

Lowther is expected to produce two or three witnesses who will identify themselves as volunteers.

His list of tentative witnesses includes Mrs. Lulu Mae Thompson and Mrs. Ethel Klein Newton, who have testified in previous proceedings as ex-undercover informants for the FBI.

Also on the list are newsmen Will Lissner of the New York Times and Paul Jeschke of UPI; Parnell J. T. Callahan, a New York attorney, John M. Hewson, a law student at the University of Georgia, Aubrey C.

Lewis, an FBI agent; and Henry Oscar Marriot. Lowther de-questioning of 37 prospective jurors by trial Judge William B. Jones had been expected to uncover grounds for excusing most of them, necessitating the questioning of additional prospects, but only eight turned out. The jury was selected with unacceptable to the court.

LBJ Is Mum on Head of Urban Affairs

By W. B. RAGSDALE Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, never a man to tip his hand in advance, appears to be waiting until the last minute before naming his secretary of housing and urban development. The new department, made up of the agencies now under the Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA), begins life at midnight Monday. Some action must be taken by then, even if it is only to name an acting secretary to sign the payroll.

Up to now, Johnson hasn't given a hint of who he will name to the new Cabinet post. The Texas White House indicates no announcement is expected before the weekend.

'Eyes Not Hurt by Poor Light'

By Science Service

NEW YORK — Abraham Lincoln's eyes probably were not damaged by all the firelight studying he is reported to have done.

There is no evidence that reading with inadequate light can damage the eyes, says Dr. Jerry H. Jacobson, clinical assistant professor of surgery in ophthalmology at Cornell University Medical College here.

Adequate, nonglaring illumination undoubtedly makes reading more comfortable, the physician says, but the eye is "quite resistant" to damage by anything short of direct injury.

Good news to those who make a habit of reading in bed is Dr. Jacobson's statement that this is not bad for the eyes. Also "mistakenly believed harmful" activities include wearing sunglasses, not wearing sunglasses, reading in the sun, looking at television and holding a book too close.

A person may get a temporary headache if he does these things to excess, but that is about all in Dr. Jacobson's opinion.

The man on the hottest seat is housing administrator Robert C. Weaver, who now runs the agencies. He has been waiting for some word on his fate since Johnson signed the bill creating the department Sept. 9.

In 1962, President John F. Kennedy announced he would appoint Weaver, a 57-year-old Negro, if Congress created the Cabinet post.

KENNEDY COMMITMENT

Congress didn't, and Johnson hasn't indicated that he considers Kennedy's commitment binding on him.

In fact, high administration sources say a major overhaul of top leadership in housing and urban matters is under consideration.

This could mean Weaver will be replaced along with commissioners Philip N. Brownstein of the Federal Housing Administration; Marie McGuire of the Public Housing Administration; William L. Slayton of the Urban Renewal Administration, and acting Commissioner Richard L. Still of the Community Facilities Administration.

Speculation on possible choices has ranged from the mayors of several major U.S. cities to former Rep. Albert

Rains, D-Ala., a long-time congressional specialist in housing matters.

HHFA officials say there are many organizational decisions which should be made soon. Alternative proposals have been worked out at HHFA and presented to the White House staff, but so far no decisions have been revealed.

And officials say little can be done until the President decides who will head the new department.

Radiation Expert Tells of N-Blast Effects

By L. GARY THORNE
Nuclear fallout has been described as looking like "coarse snow," a visiting radiologist told a group of area physicians last night.
Dr. Eugene L. Saenger, professor of radiology at the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine, spoke at the monthly meeting of the Oakland County Medical Society at the Kingsley Inn.
A recognized expert on radiation, Dr. Saenger is a member of the National Council on Radiation Protection and Measurements.
He said that nuclear fallout seems to scare people the most. Depending on the size of the bomb, it can effect hundreds or thousands of square miles.
BLAST EFFECT
Illustrating the power of a 20-megaton nuclear bomb exploded on the ground, Dr. Saenger said that a severe blast effect would destroy brick buildings within a circle with a 15-mile diameter.

Moderate blast effects would destroy frame buildings in a circle with a 32-mile diameter.
A ground blast would create a crater with a half-mile diameter.
However, Dr. Saenger said greater damage can be done with a nuclear blast that explodes in the air.
Severe blast effects would be felt in a circle with a diameter of 20 miles, while moderate blast effects would reach 40 miles. Serious fire damage would go 36 miles.
Describing the tremendous power of a 20-megaton bomb, the radiologist said 14 million tons of ocean water would be vaporized by such a weapon.
Dr. Saenger, detailing some of the medical effects of nuclear bombs, said that burns accounted for about one-half of the deaths from the two atomic bombs dropped in Japan during World War II.
The effect of radiation on human beings is measured in units called "roentgen."

A dose of about 450 roentgens in total body radiation can produce death in humans.
A 20-megaton bomb would produce some 5,600 roentgens between the first hour and the second day after the blast.
Touching on the political aspects of nuclear bombs and fallout, Dr. Saenger, who is also director of the radioisotope laboratory at Cincinnati General Hospital, said he could offer no solution to nuclear bombs and fallout — which he considers the number one public health problem.
"We don't know very well how to protect the civilian population," he admitted.
He said that if a massive program were begun to build bomb shelters, other countries might look on this as an overt declaration of war.
Dr. Saenger added that they might view such a program here in the same light as Americans would such a building program in certain foreign countries.

The visiting radiologist did not discuss what physicians might do in the event of a nuclear bombing.
He doubted if there would be very much that could be done.
Dr. Saenger mentioned, however, that the American Medical Association has pushed on a national level for some study of so-called "disaster medicine."
This would apply not only to a bombing attack, but to natural disasters — hurricanes, tornadoes and the like — as well.

Harmony at Animal Farm

By HUDSON WILLSE
Have you seen a dog taking a skunk on a walk lately? Or a fox riding comfortably in the front seat of an automobile? These are everyday occurrences in Waterford Township at the Loon Lake animal paradise of Nancy Weiler.
A registered nurse at Wheelock Memorial Hospital in Goodrich, Miss Weiler is a devoted animal lover.
Miss Weiler, who houses her pets on a 3-acre parcel of land at 3510 Dixie, at one time accommodated seven baby rabbits, seven wild mallards, a broken-winged pigeon and an undernourished crow.
"He (the crow) came back every day for his dog food and vegetables," she said.
Her present entourage includes a fox, a raccoon, two dogs, a cat and a skunk.
Each is insured, tame and friendly.
Harmony prevails at the Weiler "animal ranch." She insists that all of her current crop of pets can be left in the same enclosure without mishap.
Her dogs, Heather, an 18-month-old golden retriever, and Susie, a 20-month-old parti-

The animals are kept in 8-by-8 care of animals while employed 20-foot pens made of chain-link for one year at the F. H. Gasow Veterinary Hospital, 1521 Wood fence.
She gained experience in the ward, Birmingham.

Charge Suspect With Felonious Assault

Preliminary examination for a 45-year-old Waterford Township man charged with felonious assault has been set for 1:30 p.m. Nov. 17.
Carl Model of 3102 Watkins Lake demanded examination Tuesday night at his arraignment before Waterford Township Justice Patrick K. Delby. He was released on $500 bond.
Model allegedly threatened Vern Acha of 2119 Windy Hill, Pontiac Township with a pistol late Tuesday afternoon at Beardslee Truck Sales, 3083 M59, according to Waterford Township police.
Acha then reportedly knocked the weapon away from Model.
However, he was hit several times with a steel bar, allegedly by Model's 16-year-old son Charles, Waterford Township police reported.
SATISFACTORY CONDITION
Acha was treated by a private physician and later taken to Pontiac-Osteopathic Hospital where he was reported in satisfactory condition yesterday.
The son reportedly was taken to the county juvenile home after being apprehended by township police.

Man Is Bound Over in Fatal Stabbing

Clyde Richardson of 296 W. Wilson was bound over to Circuit Court on a charge of manslaughter yesterday after examination in Municipal Court.
Circuit Court arraignment was set for Nov. 10.
Richardson, 39, was released after posting $2,000 bond.
He had originally been charged with first-degree murder in the fatal stabbing Oct. 22 of 38-year-old Estelle Dudley. The victim died shortly after being stabbed as she stood in front of a jukebox at a South End restaurant.

View Plan for Training Area Police

A tentative budget and curriculum guideline for a proposed law enforcement training program in Oakland County was presented yesterday to a special committee studying enforcement problems.
Since income in the budget hinges on the extent of participation by county law enforcement units, the committee called a Dec. 1 meeting with city and township officials to present its proposal.
Expenditures in the suggested budget, prepared for the committee by Lawrence J. Baril of the Michigan State University School of Police Administration, ranged from $26,700 to $34,700.
This includes a proposed salary range of $11,500 to $14,500 for a full-time program coordinator.
Tuition rates in the income portion of the budget specified $100 for a six-week program, $50 for two weeks of training, $35 for a one-week program and $15 for one to three days.
Another tentative budget, submitted to the committee by Glenford S. Leonard, director of the Oak Park Department of Public Safety, called for total expenditures of $31,668.
Leonard also outlined a proposed curriculum program which included recruit training, investigation, riot control, traffic law enforcement.
He proposed seminars on sex crimes, Supreme Court decisions, abnormal persons and police instructor technique.
The study on law enforcement problems was suggested by Circuit Court Judge Arthur E. Moore to determine how police can perform at maximum efficiency in the face of present restrictive laws.
Delos Hamlin, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, appointed the committee in September.

Art Exhibit Opens Today at Oakland U.

A major public exhibition titled "World Primitive Art 1965" opened today at Oakland University with a guest lecture on African art by Professor Roy Sieber, Indiana University art historian.
Scheduled for 2:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre, the lecture was to be followed by the opening tea in the University Art Gallery.
Both events were open to the public. The exhibit will run through Nov. 29.
It includes some 55 works of art, according to John Galloway, chairman of the OU art department and specialist in primitive art.
Art of Negro Africa, Oceania, and the Pre-Columbian Americas, many of which have been privately housed by collectors, are being displayed.
MASTERPIECES
Others are museum masterpieces which have been included because of their interest and rarity.
Most pieces are sculptured masks, figures and ritual devices, though some ceramic works are shown.
Galloway noted that a vast amount of literature on primitive art is available to the professional and amateur student.

American Education Week

Special Activities Slated in Waterford

Open houses, book fairs, PTA meetings, demonstrations and special programs will highlight activity next week as Waterford Township Schools celebrate American Education Week.
Open houses are scheduled for all 31 schools of the system, while PTA meetings will be conducted at most of them.
Book sales are slated for Burt, Donelson, Houghton, Leggett and Waterford Village schools.
Congressman Billie S. Farnum will be featured speaker at a PTA meeting at Williams Lake School next Friday night.
Other guest speakers will be Dr. Marshall Jameson, coordinator of elementary education of Waterford Township Schools, and Ralph Stram, a case worker of Oakland County Protective Services.
'RIGHTS FOR KIDS'
Jameson will speak on "Bill of Rights for Kids," at Lambert School next Thursday night. Stram will be a guest the same night of Leggett School PTA.
One of the schools—Dayton Plains—has a slogan to promote its program: "Come to school to see what your money buys! See the greatest educational show on earth."

Detroit Mayor to Speak at Billie Farnum Dinner

Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh will be the principal speaker tomorrow at the 19th Congressional District Democratic dinner in honor of Rep. Billie S. Farnum.
The 7:30 p.m. dinner will be held at Roma Hall, 27777 Schoolcraft between Inkster and Middle Belt, Livonia.
It will be Cavanagh's first major appearance since winning reelection Tuesday.
The dinner is a joint affair involving both the Wayne and Oakland County sections of the 19th District, which Farnum represents.
The idea for the single dinner was worked out by Chairman Robert Jackson of the Oakland 19th and Ronald Mardiros of the Wayne 19th.

Carrier Toting Enough N-War Heads to Blow Hanoi off Map

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

CRUISING IN THE SOUTH CHINA SEA — (NEA) — The USS Independence, largest aircraft carrier committed to the Viet Nam war, is floating with enough nuclear warheads in her hull to blow Hanoi to hell. The officers know it. Their men know it. Probably, a lot of wives and sweethearts know it.

Nonetheless, proving it is a bomb of a different megaton.

This is one of those closed-mouth and open-face military secrets about which, with an elbow jab and a wink, the brass will say nothing.

A jittery ensign, looking faintly refers inquiries to a lieutenant. The lieutenant to a commander and the commander to the captain.

WON'T SAY

And the captain? "I neither confirm nor deny the rumor of nuclear weapons," says Independence skipper John Kennedy. "But, of course, everyone is free to draw his own conclusions."

And everyone does, from cooks to exasians.

"I think it's pretty much common knowledge," says one 18-year-old. "It's impossible to keep a thing like that secret among 4,200 men who live in close contact for six or seven months at a stretch."

Another enlisted man adds: "I walk by the guards every day and never pay them no mind. Sometimes I've thought about the things down there... naturally. But it don't worry me none."

LIKE ANY OTHER

And a third man: "Have I seen them? Are you kidding? In the first place, from what I hear, they look just like any other bomb and so you could trip over one in the mess hall and not know it."

"And, anyway, they don't let nobody but a few special people down into the arms room. The captain himself, I hear, has to get permission to enter that part of the ship."

That the big bangs are here is indisputable. What kind and how many, however, is conjecture.

The probability is they are low-yield, lightweight bombs, the type most jet craft aboard would be capable of carrying, like conventionals, under their wings.

SIMPLE ADDITION

There are a dozen Phantom F-4s in one of the ship's squadrons, for example, and each is capable of hauling up to 12,000 pounds of nuclear explosives.

Simple addition indicates that this deadly dozen alone could load up with 72 tons of atomic energy.

Phantoms fly at least twice, and probably nearly thrice, the speed of sound.

Hanoi, then, 500 miles distant, is only minutes away.

FOR SHOW

But, having nukes and using nukes are separate considerations. Some feel they are for show and some for blow.

"I say use them if we got them," a 10-year Navy salt mumbled over a pair of hose he was washing in a sink. "This thing could drag on for years the way it's going. What are we going to do, drag on for years with it?"

A sock-scrubbing companion took exception: "That would be stepping over the line. That's aggression. We wouldn't have a friend left in the world even if we were successful."

"So, what's new? How many friends we got now?"

NO WONDER

"Well, at least we can hold our heads up high."

"Ha! No wonder we're always getting them shot at."

"Look, do you know what the bomb can do? I read someplace in a full atomic war, 90 million Americans would die the first day, 90 million! You want that?"

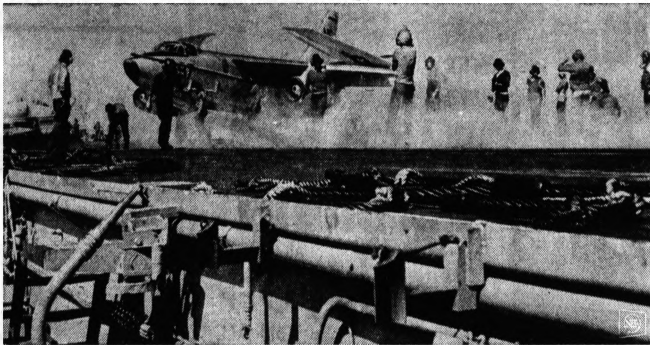

"No, I don't want that—my wife's mother maybe, but nobody else."

NEW LIGHT

The argument raged, most likely to end in a soap suds fight.

Men at war, like men at peace, cannot be serious for long.

Bomber Returns To Carrier Base After Raid On Reds

Missile Shots Curbed to Aid Deer Hunters

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Spokesmen at this southern New Mexico missile range say all missile firings that might necessitate daytime use of an 884,000-acre safety impact area have been halted for the current deer season, ending Nov. 21.

The same action was taken last month in southeast Utah so hunters would be protected from falling boosters in the 271,000-acre booster impact area set aside for Athena rockets.

Hospital Gets Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has approved a $506,800 grant to the Herman Keifer Hospital in Detroit to train 160 unemployed persons as more about the quality of the practical nukes.

Fruitcake Made Now Has Time to Season

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

It's time to make fruit cake — maybe past time. The candied fruit is piled high in the stores. If you do your baking this week, the cake will have time to season before Christmas.

Some lucky people are going to be able to buy Mrs. Claude Cole's fruitcake at the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Nurses Alumnae bake sale Saturday.

If you can't do that, here's the recipe to make your own.

Getting the fruit ready a day ahead of baking time makes the job seem easier.

GRANDMA'S FRUIT CAKE

By Mrs. Claude Cole

1/2 cup butter
1 pound brown sugar
3 eggs, separated
1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 teaspoon soda
4 cups flour

1/2 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 cup strong coffee (or 1/4 cup coffee and 1/4 cup brandy)
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup chopped dates
1/2 cup currants
8 oz. candied citron
8 oz. candied cherries, cut
8 oz. candied pineapple, cut (optional)

Cream butter and sugar, add egg yolks and beat well. Mix coffee, soda and sour cream together. Add to creamed mixture.

Sift dry ingredients. Dredge fruit in flour. Add both to first mixture. Stir in chopped nuts.

Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry, and fold in. Pour into large greased tube pan. Bake 1 1/2 hours at 250 degrees. Makes one 5-pound cake.

Eye-Popping Art's Her Hobby

SAINT JAMES, Ark. (AP)

—When Merle June Dehls completed a course in arc welding as the only woman in a class with 50 men, she put her new skills to work in a hobby. It's a variation of pop art.

On the lawn in front of the family home are some of Mrs. Dehls' creations, which cause passing motorists to pause for a better look. One is a "bird" composed of parts from an automobile, 61 plow shovels for feathers and other odd pieces of scrap metal.

Aided by her father and neighbors, Miss Dehls has built up a scrap metal stockpile of nuts, bolts, rods, pieces from farm machinery and car parts which she thinks will keep her supplied with material for her handwork for years to come.

Sketches Indians' Recipes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Dade County Department of Public Health nutritionists were faced with a problem in trying to teach the Miccosukee Indians to improve nutrition through new methods of food preparation.

NO WRITING

As the Miccosukees have no written language, it seemed impossible to supplement cooking classes with cookbooks.

But a 17-year-old high school senior, Sharon Tupko, came to the rescue. She volunteered to take the recipes prepared by Mrs. Levina Phillips of the health department and translate them into pictures.

SIMPLE

Her simple sketches accompany the preparation directions for tuna and rice, green beans, macaroni and cheese, scrambled eggs, and grits and cheese, as well as a number of desserts.

New officers for the next demonstration group on Nov. 17th will include Mrs. John Walrath Sr., Mrs. John Shaffer, Mrs. Vernon Jeans, Mrs. Charles Crawford, Mrs. David Saks and Mrs. Odes Case.

Mrs. Esther Griffin of Troy was a guest.

Holiday Outline

DEAR GIRLS — Schedules are addressed. One of our readers suggested that the addresses in that more are broken than are kept. Nevertheless, a general outline for Christmas holiday preparations (always subject to change for individual needs) will help prevent last-minute panic and pandemonium on Christmas Eve.

Some readers may be ahead of these proposed plans. If so, fine. Many packages for delivery overseas are probably already mailed by the week of Nov. 1. If not, they must be mailed by Nov. 10, or air mailed by Dec. 10 to be sure of delivery by Christmas.

By, or during, the first week of November, Christmas cards should be ordered. If the signature is to be imprinted, include your last name as someone may know a dozen Marys or Jims. Last year's card list must be checked to know how many to order and we suggest getting some extras.

At this time make address changes in your file or book and zip code numbers. This will speed up the job when envelopes are addressed. One of our readers suggested that the addresses in that more are broken than are kept. Nevertheless, a general outline for Christmas holiday preparations (always subject to change for individual needs) will help prevent last-minute panic and pandemonium on Christmas Eve.

Those who do Christmas shopping throughout the year should check the gifts on hand against their lists so there is no chance of duplicate buying. About this time it might be well to write down your own sizes and wants so when friend husband asks you are all prepared with suggestions to help him shop.

If your family has no established Christmas custom think ahead to one that you will start this year. In most families these are simple things like reading aloud Dickens' "Christmas Carol" on Christmas Eve, singing carols or a tree trimming party for lonely friends.

POLLY

Cookie baking can be done now. The cookies keep for a long time in the freezer. A home economist also suggests making all the dough, quick freezing the cutout shapes on cookie sheets and then slipping them into plastic bags and storing in the freezer to be baked later.

The Joseph H. Warnings of Summit Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter Alice Lynn to Douglas W. Hummel, son of the Richard M. Hummels of West Rundell Street. Her fiancé attended Flint Junior College. Spring vows are being planned.

Early winter chapel vows in the First Baptist Church, Dublin, Texas, are planned by LaJuana Kaye Warren and David James Fisher, son of the Richard Fishers of Cherokee Road. The bride-elect is the daughter of Paul W. Warren of Dublin and the late Mrs. Warren. Both she and her fiancé attended Tarleton State College, Stephenville, Texas.

The $72 million the United States paid Russia for Alaska in 1867 was equivalent to only two cents per acre.

Canadian Trip for This Pair

A reception and buffet supper for some 300 guests in the American Legion Hall, Imlay City, followed the evening rite performed by Rev. Darrell Tallman.

Parents of the couple are the William Gross of Lum and the Harry Grossbauers of Metamora.

LACE ACCENTS

Hand-clipped Chantilly lace accented the bride's gown of white silk bombazine and her tiered Watteau court train. A Swedish tiara of lace and pearls held her illusion veil.

White orchids, roses and Stephanotis were arranged in a cascade bouquet for the bride.

Connie Joseph was her sister's maid of honor along with bridesmaids, Mrs. Duane Misener of Lapeer, and Mrs. Donald Hill of Imlay City. Julie Henderson of Ottawa Lake was flower girl.

William Grossbauer was his brother's best man with Duane Misener and Barry Crow as groomsmen. Robert Watt and Michael Groves seated the guests. Candlelighters included Bradley Crow and Tim Streu.

Caution Cast Off

Market Strong on 3 Fronts

NEW YORK (AP)—Aircraft, airlines and electronics were strong in a rising stock market early today. Trading was heavy.

Key stocks advanced 10 to 15 points on a point or so. Wall Street cast off its usual Thursday caution which has been based on fear that the Federal Reserve Board might announce some credit-tightening measure such as raising margins for stock purchases.

General Motors recovered fractionally from its recent slide. Chrysler and Ford also rose.

Highway Dept.

Asks Tax Hike

LANSING (AP)—A penny a gallon hike in the state gasoline tax and increased vehicle weight taxes are being urged by the Highway Department to pay for its expanding road-building program.

The department Wednesday announced a breakdown of proposed spending by areas for its next five-year construction program.

The department plans to spend $758.29 million during the five-year period starting July 1, 1967.

The schedule is part of a program that will boost the state's total highway construction spending to $2.75 billion for the 15-year period ending in 1972.

PROPOSED SPENDING
The proposed spending for the five-year period by areas:—$429.85 million for the five counties of Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne in the Detroit metropolitan area.

—$112.40 million for the 14 counties in southwestern and south central Michigan.

—$126.02 million for the 14 counties in the central corridor of the state.

—$75.79 million for the 25 counties in the northern half of the Lower Peninsula.

The United States guarantees to the cities and villages and $23.3 million to the counties.

“With these increases, which would cost the average motorist about 25 cents a week, the state can finance the entire program, and counties and cities will receive substantial increases in highway funds to bolster their programs,” Hill said.

“Without the increases, the state trunkline schedule alone will fall $175 million short of meeting minimum needs by 1972.”

Downgrade Tourism

as Factor on Dollar

By RICHARD L. GRAVES
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK—Overseas tourist spending by Americans apparently has done less to increase potential dollar claims of foreigners on U.S. gold than was feared.

The final accounts on the summer spending by tourists are not settled yet, but Federal Reserve statistics for the summer months through August provide some clues to the impact of overseas travel on the nation's worrisome dollar outflow.

It is the drain of dollars due to the nation's persistent balance of payments deficit that has brought the total gold supply down to $13.9 billion from $21.7 billion a decade ago.

In that same period, foreign holdings of dollars — each a claim on gold — have accumulated. At the end of August total holdings of dollars by foreigners amounted to $24.4 billion. Of the total a little more than $5 billion represented U.S. deposits with the International Monetary Fund and other international banking agencies. In reality they are U.S. government assets.

Of the remaining $23 billion, Europe held $11.3 billion; Latin America, $3.8 billion; Canada, $2.7 billion; Asia, $5 billion, and the remainder was in Africa or other parts of the world.

The United States guarantees to exchange gold for dollars at the fixed rate of $35 an ounce. Therefore, every dollar in foreign hands represents a potential claim on U.S. gold.

REAL PROBLEM
Of all the potential claims, those in Europe pose the real problem. That is the only area of the world where dollars in excess of day-to-day trade needs have accumulated.

Europe — notably France and West Germany — has been the region which has converted the most dollars to gold, taking some $1.6 billion in gold exports in the past 12 months alone.

The government has been trying to curb the deficits which lead to the gold reduction. As part of their overall concern about overseas spending, U.S. government officials have expressed considerable worry about the level of tourist spending.

That concern focused the attention of economists on the summer months' foreign travel. The tourist spending would be as great as anticipated, thus leading to an unusual buildup of dollars in foreign hands.

The government had projected a tourist expenditure of some $2.2 billion. But if tourists spent that much during the summer months, the drain must have been partially offset by cuts in the dollar outflow elsewhere.

Federal Reserve statistics indicate that the net increase in foreign dollar holdings between the year's low point in May and the end of August was $1 billion. During the same period the U.S. sold the net $187 million in gold to foreign governments.

That $1 billion increase in foreign dollar holdings is a gold breakdown down by value: $196 million in new deposits with IMF and other international banks; $735 million in Europe; $70 million in Latin America; $109 million in Asia; no change in Africa, and a $1 million increase elsewhere.

EUROPEAN INCREASE
Of the European increase of $672 million went to the United Kingdom. Though some of it may represent tourist spending, most of it probably reflects U.S. dollar and extended to help the British defend the pound sterling against international speculation during the summer months.

The remaining increases in the European holdings were Switzerland and Yugoslavia. All the other European nations marked decreases.

The Federal Reserve does not yet have figures on foreign dollar holdings for September.

At the end of August overseas dollar holdings still were below their February highs, despite the impact of summer spending. February was the month the government put into effect an so-called voluntary program to curb voluntary import.

Though the program was unsuccessful to curb the dollar outflow in the first three months of the year, it produced a surplus in the second quarter. Third quarter results are not yet in, but it is expected the deficit will reappear in Austria, Greece, Switzerland and Yugoslavia. All the other European nations marked decreases.

Q: "I am 75 and my wife is 73. I am retired with a good stock list bringing me $1,200 annually in dividends. With Social Security and a New York paper fund pension, I get pretty well. I want to leave an estate to my children and grandchildren. My portfolio shows a good profit except for General Atomics. I have a profit on Borg-Warner and wonder if I should switch it into Great Northern Ry." Y. K.S.
A: General Atomics seems fully priced to me. It was sold to a syndicate at highly competitive bids and then run up still further on public buying. Many investors thought it was another Conrail — simply because the Government ran the company since World War II.
Borg-Warner is a good company operating in cyclical fields. In your position I would switch to Great Northern which supplies above-average income and possible future benefits from its proposed merger.

Old Windy Hoople Fattens Up Picks

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Eggs, friends, here we are in November and it's time to start fattening up the turkey for your Thanksgiving feast.

We've been very busy recently at the Hoople Poultry Experimental Station developing a gobble with five legs to provide enough drumsticks for every member of the average family.

We are hopeful — hah-kaff — of having this bird on the market by next year!

Ole Miss justified our confidence by administering a 23-0 thumping to L.S.U. — Har-rumph! The valiant Mississippi lads weren't quite as fortunate, falling by a scant two-point margin after leading the Cornhuskers most of the way — kaff-kaff! (Ed. Note: Close, but no cigar, Mr. Windbag.)

To still the clamor of the multitudinous Pennsylvania followers of the Hoople Forecasts, I've included the crucial Slippery Rock State and Lock Haven State contest in my forecast.

Now go on with the forecast.

Chevalier, at 78, Is Still a Marvel of Western World

By DOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—"When I was 75, I thought that would be the end of my career. But then I became 76 and the offers still kept coming in and I was still performing at the height of my powers. So I just kept on going."

Now Maurice Chevalier is just one man and a piano, said Chevalier. "No one else has been able to do that, certainly not at such an advanced age as 78, calculating his age in the European manner. He considers himself in his 78th year, since he was born in 1888."

Whatever his age, Chevalier remains one of the marvels of the Western world. No one is more aware of the fact than Chevalier.

GREAT PASSION

Chevalier is the one great passion of his life, and he speaks of it with eloquence. He reported the triumphs of his career in 1914, when he was 26, as a stand at the Ziegfeld Theater in New York, performing at the height of his powers. So I just kept on going."

"And I did it the hard way—just one man and a piano," said Chevalier. "No one else has been able to do that, certainly not at such an advanced age as 78, calculating his age in the European manner. He considers himself in his 78th year, since he was born in 1888."

Whatever his age, Chevalier remains one of the marvels of the Western world. No one is more aware of the fact than Chevalier.

Feeling no diminution of his power, as a draw and as a human machine, Chevalier told himself: "Damn it, why should I quit?"

He didn't. He continues at a merry clip, taking his one-man show to far-off places, lending his charm to television—a tribute to Cole Porter coming up at Thanksgiving—and to films. He is now at Walt Disney's factory for the first time, portraying a priest in "Monkeys Go Home" with Dean Jones and Yvette Mimieux.

PINK AS A BABY

The hair is silver-gray, but Chevalier's face is as pink as a baby's and there is a lightness in his step. His regimen is that of a fighter, which is what he was, early in the game.

"Like all Frenchmen, I enjoy food," he admitted. "But I am sparing in what I eat, except when I attend a party and cannot offend the hosts. I drink very little—again, to be sociable."

"Exercise? I am a great walker: I can walk for three or four hours and return refreshed. I have always enjoyed dancing, and I like to rehearse dance numbers for a show. As for calisthenics, I always considered them a bore, even when I was fighting. I spend two or three minutes each morning, just to see if I can still touch the floor. To do any more is boring."

Mostly, he likes to perform. That has been his life for the 66 years he has been before the public.

LEGEND END? When will the Chevalier legend end?

"Now I am planning a grand tour for my 80th year on the same scale as when I was 75," he said.

Hoffa's Indictment Given Continuance

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Frank Wilson has continued the indictment against Teamsters Union President James Hoffa.

Attorneys for both sides agreed to continue the matter until the next term of federal court here.

Hoffa was convicted in March 1964, of tampering with the jury which heard his conspiracy case in Nashville. He was sentenced to eight years in prison but is appealing to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lawn Seed Mistake Leads to Good Meal

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Dr. and Mrs. Jewel Butler purchased a home in a fashionable suburb last spring. They had 45 truck loads of dirt hauled in for a yard and eight pounds of grass seed put down.

Soon green sprigs began popping up — mustard greens and turnip greens. A batch gathered for cooking was pronounced tender and delicious. The Butlers figure the seed store got its seeds mixed up.

Labor's Next Battle Cry: Organize 'Working Poor'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The labor movement is preparing to resolve the problem of jurisdictional lines penetrate a field most union members already are operating in — organizing the vast field of low wage industries.

It will be one of the most difficult and expensive organizing campaigns ever attempted, but the potential for new union members is vast.

It is estimated that some 15 million workers now have low paying jobs. That's about equal to the total present number of union members in the United States.

Labor spokesmen apply the term "working poor" generally to all workers not covered by the federal minimum wage. They include farm workers, hospital orderlies, laundry and hotel workers and employees in numerous other service type jobs.

The increasing awareness among labor leaders of this organizing potential has grown out of labor's work in civil rights and government antipoverty programs aimed at upgrading the skills of low wage workers.

The first move in the organizing campaign will come when the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department, headed by Walter Reuther, United Auto Workers president, meets in Washington Nov. 18-19.

Most of the low paid workers who will be targets of the campaign are in small units in small businesses scattered throughout the nation.

The present thinking is to resolve the jurisdictional question by organizing these workers into whatever union is closest or strongest in a given area.

The organizing of small units of workers has long been a problem to large unions, which are set up to operate in big industrial plants.

The United Auto Workers, for instance, gave up trying to organize the nation's thousands of widely scattered auto mechanics, leaving the field to other unions.

Another major problem is that most of the lower paid workers in small business operations can't afford to pay dues or initiation fees or other costs of supporting a union.

Thus, labor leaders expect to lose money at first, but hope eventually the newly organized workers can be made self-supporting.

Said one union spokesman: "The labor movement is wealthy enough to support it."
