Johnson Asks Curbs on Crime, Aid to Cities

ONE COLOR

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposes expanding the war against crime and big-city problems and lists a "really true" cease-fire as a priority goal in any Vietnam peace talks.

The President, in his State of the Union message last night to Congress, again urged enactment of a 10 per cent income tax surcharge to help pay for new attacks on unemployment and slum housing.

Johnson said it would take a $10.4 billion boost in spending to finance ongoing programs. He reported the fiscal 1969 budget would reach a record $186 billion with a built-in $8 billion deficit sure to go higher if the tax boost isn't approved.

Only when he called for federal action to aid cities and states in combating crime and to halt "mail order murder" through gun-control legislation did the President get enthusiastic reaction from the lawmakers during his 51-minute, nationally televised address.

FULBRIGHT, RFK SILENT

Johnson's renewed demand that North Vietnam respond with military restraint to a halt in U.S. bombing found such war-policy critics as Sens. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., responding with silence amid applause.

Johnson drew greater applause in calling for a $2.1 billion program aimed at creating jobs for 500,000 hard-core unemployed through federal-private business cooperation and a $100 million slum rebuilding program.

The President suggested a 10-year program to provide six million new housing units for low and middle-income families.

His domestic proposals included new prenatal care and consumer protection programs.

Johnson's estimate that the Southeast Asia conflict will cost $25 billion in the fiscal year beginning July 1 was disputed by Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican conference. Laird said the cost will be nearer $30 billion.

100 MORE FBI MEN

Asking for 100 additional FBI agents, the president predicted the nation will change frustrations into achievements to alleviate despair in "the cities where the fires of disorder burned last summer."

The President failed to pack the House. On the floor there were 29 vacant seats despite hurried movement of aides and pages to fill the yawning spaces.

Of the 100 Senators, 53 were present, including 30 of the 64 Democrats and 23 of the 36 Republicans. Of the 435 House members, about 250 were present. Some members may have decided to listen and view the speech on television.

★ ★ ★

Johnson's renewed call for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge drew no response from the floor when he warned: "Interest rates have passed the peak of 1966; and if there is continued inaction on the tax bill they will climb even higher."

'NO CASE FOR INCREASE'

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee declined comment until he studies the budget. House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said Johnson had made no case for a tax increase.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee, said he remains opposed to a tax increase.

Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., of the Senate-House Economic Committee, said it was a "serious economic mistake" for the President to ask for a tax increase without making sharp reductions in public works and space programs, which Johnson did not mention.

Proxmire welcomed Johnson's call for removal of the 25 per cent gold cover behind U.S. currency. He said this would free more than $10 billion in gold to meet international obligations.

★ ★ ★

Republicans challenged Johnson's contention the $10.4 billion increase in the administrative budget for the next fiscal year represented only built-in increases for programs Congress voted.

★ ★ ★

The "unified budget" which Johnson said he will present Jan. 29 will for the first time include expenditures for such huge government trust funds as Social Security and highway and other activities.

Triumphant Red Forces Nearing Laos Capital

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)— Triumphant North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao forces were reported today near the royal capital of Luang Prabang after routing a 4,000-man government force to the north.

Government commanders were trying to find their routed forces, which account for one-sixth of all royal combat troops. Reportedly, only about 1,000 of the troops have filtered back.

No one was willing to predict that the Communists were prepared to attack the royal capital, but informed sources declared the Communists "could go anywhere in the country with a force that size." They estimated the Communist force as regiment-sized, or about 1,200 men.

The North Vietnamese and Communist Pathet Lao routed the government troops six days ago from Nam Bac, 50 miles north of Luang Prabang. Nam Bac was the last major government stronghold north of the royal capital.

BIG VICTORY

The Communist victory was the biggest in five years and they were reported maneuvering freely.

Not only did the frenzied retreat from Nam Bac shatter illusions about the fighting ability of the Laotian army, but it gave the Communists several artillery pieces and tons of ammunition and supplies, an informed military source said.

Pressure on Luang Prabang would not be new. In the past year, the city's air field and defenses have been hit four times.

★ ★ ★

In another development, an unidentified terrorist set off a small bomb at the North Vietnamese Embassy in Vientiane last night. No one was injured but the incident did nothing to ease tensions in the supposedly neutral country.

SOUTHERN LAOS

There was some concern about the military situation in southern Laos as well. About five of the 12 government battalions at Nam Bac were pulled out of the south, leaving that area seriously weakened.

The recent actions in Laos come at a time when North Vietnamese infiltration through Communist-controlled portions of Laos toward South Vietnam is perhaps at an all-time high.

An informed military source said it was not known whether the increased traffic on the Ho Chi Minh trail meant the Communists were increasing their commitment in Laos.

Soviets, U.S. Agree on N-Pact

GENEVA (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union presented today a new and complete draft treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

★ ★ ★

The key Article 3 recognizes the International Atomic Energy Agency as the body having over-all control over safeguards. But it gave nonnuclear states 18 months in which to negotiate separate arrangements with the IAEA.

These arrangements must fulfill the provisions of Article 3, which said safeguards must be applied "on all sources of special fissionable material in all peaceful nuclear activities within the territory of any state party to the treaty, or under its jurisdiction, or carried out under its control anywhere."

NEGOTIATIONS

Negotiations with the IAEA must start within 180 days of the original entry into force of the treaty.

Conference officials pointed out that even if most nations of the world sign the draft it could take several years before all governments ratify the treaty.

The new treaty included three new articles designed to meet opposition from the nonaligned countries. But they were mainly changes of language and clarifications which did not change the original basic principles of the draft.

The Soviet-American agreement seemed likely to win acceptance of the treaty by West Germany, Italy and other members of the Common Market, except France.

Frigid Response From Congress on Peace, Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's State of the Union remarks on peace prospects drew a frigid response from some fellow Democrats, and other initial congressional reaction pointed to continued hostility toward increases in taxes and spending.

★ ★ ★

Johnson told Congress last night that if a basis for peace talks can be established with North Vietnam, his hope would be for complete cease-fire as the first order of business.

His remarks on the prospects for peace drew applause — but not from Democratic Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and J. William Fulbright of Arkansas.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, seeking the Democratic presidential nomination on a platform of opposition to Johnson's Vietnam policies, said: "We still are told the nation can wage and win two wars — the one in Vietnam and the war on poverty. We are waging one, but not winning either."

DEMOCRATIC CRITICISM

The President's renewed appeal for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge, coupled with his announcement that spending would be increased by some 10.4 billion, drew criticism from such Democrats as Sen. William Proxmire, chairman of the joint Economic Committee and Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Republicans joined the attack.

But other Democrats came to the President's support, including Speaker John W. McCormack and House Democratic Leader Carl Albert.

Johnson Speaks To The Nation

Romney Terms Message 'the Same Tired Approach'

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's Gov. Romney today criticized President Johnson's State of the Union message as "the same tired approach of the past three years" regarding overseas problems and solutions of the '30s for present-day domestic problems.

Romney, the only announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, made his airport remarks after arriving in Michigan from a five-day campaign visit to New Hampshire, which holds the nation's first presidential preference primary March 12.

"In the pursuit of peace," Romney said, "he offered nothing new. His approach to the problems we face at home showed too little appreciation of their magnitude."

★ ★ ★

"But he tragically delayed putting help on the line for the Detroit riot," Romney said in a reference to last summer's riots which swept the Motor City.

Romney and the Johnson administration previously had disputed whether there was a delay in sending federal troops to help put down the Detroit violence.

Romney said that perhaps the strongest indictment of the President's message was his "insistence on measuring America's greatness by the size of pay checks, the newness of our cars and the number of television sets in use."

★ ★ ★

The governor said restlessness in the nation is deep.

'NOT BEING CALLED ON'

"The people are restless because they are not being called on to play an adequate part in meeting problems in the greatest period of national crisis since the Civil War."

Dinner to Honor County Leader

Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, will be honored for his 25 years of government service by local, state and federal officials and friends and relatives at a recognition dinner Jan. 26.

Theme of the dinner is "A Silver Anniversary of Service," marking Hamlin's quarter-century as a member of the county board, the past 12 years as its chairman, an unusual record of such continuous service anywhere in Michigan.

A reception will precede the dinner, at 7 p.m., at the New Raleigh House, Telegraph at 10 Mile Road, Southfield.

Among dignitaries expected at the dinner will be Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken, Sen. Philip A. Hart, Congressman William R. Broomfield, R-18th District, and Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District.

Hamlin, 63, actually began his public career more than 25 years ago in 1930 as a Farmington city councilman. He was later the city's mayor, from 1939 to 1949. He has since retired as a real estate developer and manufacturer and now devotes fulltime to public affairs.

Jan. 26 has also been proclaimed "Delos Hamlin Day" by the County Board of Supervisors, as part of the highest tribute Oakland County can confer. Such honors have been accorded only a few times in the past to outstanding leaders.

Hamlin is a native of Durand. He and his wife, the former Mildred Hartz of Bay City, have three children: two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Clark of Lakeville and Mrs. Jane Byer of Baltimore, and a son, Fred of Farmington.

Snow Goddess Feeling the Heat

EAST CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — A predicted high of 40 degrees was expected to solve the snow goddess problem today.

The goddess is a nude snow woman molded by Ray Gonzalez and his friends and sprayed with flesh-tone paint.

It has caused traffic tie-ups as motorists stop to gaze upon her beauty. Neighbors told police it was obscene.

Open-Housing Bill, Anticrime Package Before Legislators

LANSING (AP)—Bills banning racial discrimination in real estate transactions and stiffening penalties for certain crimes were before riot-conscious state legislators today.

An open-housing bill — with bipartisan sponsorship—was introduced in the Senate Wednesday while House Republicans offered anticrime measures.

★ ★ ★

Open-housing and anticrime proposals were recommended last week by Gov. George Romney as part of "a balanced program of greater justice and better law enforcement" to combat tensions which could lead to racial violence.

The Senate open-housing bill is virtually identical to a measure introduced in the House during the recent special session and which—with several amendments added — was defeated 47-55.

CHIEF SPONSORS

★ ★ ★

In the House, Rep. Anthony Licata, R-Detroit, was principal sponsor of a 10-bill package which would insert in state law minimum penalties for such felonies as riot arson, assault, attempted murder, attempted robbery and other crimes.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Quincy Hoffman, R-Applegate, introduced a bill which would make it a felony instead of a misdemeanor to interfere with a fireman on duty.

The open-housing bill was sent to the five-man Senate State Affairs Committee, where it will have to receive three votes before it can be reported out to the floor for full Senate consideration.

NEXT FEW WEEKS

Lockwood said he is "optimistic that we will get the votes within the next few weeks to get it out of committee and pass it in the Senate."

Action on the controversial bill could come by the middle of February, Lockwood added.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Republican plans call for the consideration of the open-housing bill along with anticrime measures. Romney's anticrime proposals have not yet been introduced in the Senate.

LENGTHY LIST

The open-housing bill includes a lengthy list of actions which it would define as unfair housing practices and provides remedies for victims of such practices.

It also gives the State Civil Rights Commission certain enforcement powers.

The commission could petition in circuit court for payment of civil fines of 1,000 by real estate dealers or financial institutions found to have engaged in an unfair housing practice and $2,000 for subsequent violations.

An individual could not be fined by the commission, but could be required to pay up to $500 in damages to the complainant.

Nixon Quoted on Viet Stand

'Should Stop Bombing Only if Fighting Stops'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon was quoted by the Richmond News Leader today as saying about the North Vietnamese: "We should not stop bombing if they start talking. We should only stop bombing if they stop fighting."

The former vice president also was quoted as saying "there is a chance the war could come to an end before the elections in November" but that it "is more likely to end by petering out rather than by negotiation."

★ ★ ★

With reference to his position on a bombing halt, Nixon said:

"Many will say that's a hawk position, and if it's a hawk position, I should point out it's also a peace position . . . We must never forget that most of the American casualties in Korea occurred after talks began. We talked, and they continued to fight, and our hands were tied behind our back. We must not make that same mistake in South Vietnam."

LONG, HARD ROAD

Nixon said that if he becomes an announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, he has "determined... definitely to go down that long, hard primary road."

Other members of the Pontiac Plant City Committee from GMC Truck & Coach are John A. Castle, director of public relations; Earl A. Maxwell, personnel director; John D. Mintline, divisional comptroller; and Bert T. Olson, general manufacturing manager.

Members from Pontiac Motor Division are John Z. DeLorean, GM vice president and Pontiac general manager; Theodore B. Bloom, personnel director; Enoch Eley, divisional comptroller; Robert W. Emerick, director of public relations; and F. James McDonald, works manager.

Prior to his appointment as general manager of BMC Truck & Coach in September 1966, Caserio served in several managerial positions in GM divisions including general manager of Delco Radio Division and AC Spark Plug Division. He was elected vice president of General Motors by the board of directors in March 1964.

Ex-Detective Named to Fight Drug Abuse

In calling for a statewide program to fight drug abuse, Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson today announced the appointment of a former Waterford Township detective to head a new division to attack the problem on the local level.

Bronson, who in the last few months has placed heavy emphasis on the drug problem in Oakland County, said his establishment of a Youth Crime Division, focusing attention on drug abuse, is to his knowledge the first of its kind in a prosecutor's office.

Named by Bronson to direct the activities of the pilot program is Frederick G. St. Souver.

St. Souver, 32, had been assistant to the director of public safety at Oakland University.

★ ★ ★

Prior to that, he was on the Waterford Township Police Department for seven years.

Initially, St. Souver will be responsible for preparing educational materials designed to pinpoint the problems of drugs.

"We must tell young people the way it really is," said Bronson. "We must tell young and old alike how powerful a drug can be, how it can harm as well as heal, how the mind and body can be injured by the use of drugs. It may be too late for some of them.

★ ★ ★

"Strong positive and concerted action must be taken, for if it is not, many will suffer permanent mental and physical injury," added Bronson.

WIDESPREAD PROBLEM

He said that the problem is widespread in Oakland County, but he would not speculate as to what percentage of students are using drugs.

In addition to the appointment of St. Souver, Bronson said that he has named two others to an advisory committee on drugs.

They are Richard Wilson of Wilson Drugs in Birmingham and Mrs. Helen Fenton, with the Detroit Board of Education. Two others were named a few weeks ago.

Bronson said he and St. Souver are in the process of preparing a budget for the division and, as soon as it is completed, it will be presented to the board of supervisors.

St. Souver, who begins his $8,500-a-year job immediately, is a graduate of the Federal Narcotics Academy, sponsored by the U.S. Treasury Departmet.

GOP Officials in Minnesota Prefer Rocky

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Minnesota Republican officials personally prefer Nelson Rockefeller over Richard Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination by a 5-4 margin, the Minneapolis Star reported Wednesday, following a survey of the 320-member Republican State Central Committee.

But committee members regard Nixon as the "most likely nominee" by an 8-3 margin, the Star said.

Replies were received from 253 persons, an 80 per cent response.

Central committee members were given a choice of eight possible candidates plus an "other" category in which to list their preferred, strongest and most likely nominee selections.

In the preferred category 106½ votes, or 42.1 per cent were cast for Rockefeller. Nixon collected 86 votes or 34 per cent.

Nixon Leading in Indiana Poll

With 48 of the state's 92 county chairmen answering an Associated Press questionnaire, Nixon, who carried the state by 222,000 votes in 1960, was mentioned by 54 per cent as their first choice for the nomination.

Strike Paper Halts in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Employes of an interim newspaper in Detroit Wednesday were told their employer was suspending publication because demands of the Teamsters union could not be met.

★ ★ ★

Frank J. Beaumont, publisher of the Daily Express, said he could not place $99,000 in escrow to guarantee pay for Teamsters who were not working for either of the city's two strike newspapers.

★ ★ ★

The announcement came as the shutdown of Detroit's two major daily newspapers — The News and Free Press — moved into its 10th week.

The Teamsters have demanded that the Express hire an additional 225 members and that its competing interim newspaper, the Daily Press, add on another 192.

DISTRIBUTION REFUSED

Teamsters picketed both interim newspapers at midnight Tuesday, and refused to distribute the Express Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

In a notice to employes Wednesday, Beaumont urged other unions to protest the Teamsters action "since the high-handed and despicable action by Local 372 makes unreasonable demands upon us."

★ ★ ★

Drivers delivered the Press after union officials said that newspaper had started to satisfy demands to hire 192 idle Teamsters.

'New Teachers, Pay Key to Millage Hike Request'

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — New teachers and better pay, say school officials, are the factors responsible for this district's request for a five-year, 14-mill tax hike.

Irving E. Menucci, assistant superintendent for business, attributed much of the district's monetary difficulties to its terrific growth.

From approximately 2,500 students in Sept. 1957, he reported enrollment has climbed to 8,766 this year.

The rate of increase shows no signs of diminishing. The district added 764 new pupils this year, and next year's projection is for another 760.

★ ★ ★

What this has meant is a steady climb in the number of personnel employed by the district, Menucci said. Within the last two years, two new elementary schools — Traub and Way — West Hills Junior High School and Lahser High School have been opened.

NEW CLASSROOMS

In addition, new classrooms have been added to East Hills Junior High and Booth, Hickory Grove, Conant and Pine Lake elementary Schools.

The district now has 135 more classrooms and 158 more certified personnel (teachers), than in Sept. 1965.

The sudden burst of growth, which was initiated with the approval by voters of an $11-million bond issue for new construction in 1966, has been reflected in dollars and cents.

The board's 1966 budget was $5,165,171; this year, it is $7,527,255—an increase of better than $2 million. Of this, said Menucci, $1.3 million has gone for instructional increases alone — not including administrators, librarians and maintenance costs at the new schools.

SURPLUSES

The district has always carried a surplus of operating cash after the year's expenses are totaled—and each year the surplus has climbed.

★ ★ ★

Last year, for the first time, the amount of money carried over was less than the previous year. This year, even with the surplus, the district will run $1.3 million in the red—also a first.

★ ★ ★

Despite the size of the proposed tax increase — largest in the area — Menucci was optimistic about its passage. "The people of this district have always treated us very well on millage requests," he said. "If they continue to live up to their desire for good schools, we can look forward to a successful election."

By The Associated Press

Republican sources in Washington say California Gov. Ronald Reagan has told GOP leaders he won't make any more out-of-state speaking tours before the nominating convention in August.

This would mean no campaigning by Reagan, considered a prospect for the GOP presidential nomination, despite his denials of interest, in states where his name probably will be entered on primary ballots. These include Wisconsin, Nebraska and Oregon.

★ ★ ★

Reagan met Wednesday with Republican leaders of the House and Senate as well as National Chairman Ray C. Bliss. Persons attending reported on what he said.

Reagan currently is on a 10-speech tour of four states.

MAJOR ISSUES

He went to New York later in the day for a speech and told a newsman he thinks the two major issues in the presidential campaign will be inflation and morality, which includes "excessive crime."

Michigan Gov. George Romney, an announced GOP candidate, said that after five days of campaigning in New Hampshire, "we've had much more support than we'd anticipated."

Romney plans a lot more campaigning in the Granite State before the March 12 primary there. On Saturday he extends his campaign to Wisconsin, scene of another crucial primary on April 2. He'll launch the Wisconsin campaign in Milwaukee.

Romney managers say he met 11,000 people during his initial foray into New Hampshire. But the governor continued to describe himself as an underdog. He faces likely opposition in New Hampshire from former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who is expected to announce his candidacy soon.

CONTROVERSIAL FUND

Another prospective GOP candidate, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, asked three businessmen supporters in his state to dissolve a controversial $100,000 fund designed to help him meet his office expenses. They agreed to his request to return all the contributions and to release contributors' names so, Percy said, "the public is made fully aware of the quality and good character of the contributors."

★ ★ ★

Percy said despite his efforts to "guarantee the full integrity of the fund and its use, there has been widespread concern about it."

"Therefore, until such time as the Congress has clearly defined a set of rules for activities of this type, I am respectfully requesting that you return all contributions received."

Percy said last November that he spent $70,000 of his own money to run his Senate office. He said his $30,000 salary as senator and his speaking fees were set aside for office expenses.

★ ★ ★

The California state poll indicated today California voters believe New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller to be the strongest possible Republican presidential candidate. He is the only Republican leading an increasingly popular President Johnson.

Fifty-four per cent of those responding to the poll published by The Los Angeles Times favored Rockefeller over Johnson. Johnson received 37 per cent. Nine per cent were undecided.

W. Bloomfield JCs Hear Debate on Fair Housing

"If an owner doesn't want to sell to someone because of his hair color, he should have this right," claimed Bruce J. Annett, speaking for the side opposing open house legislation.

Annett is the past president of the Pontiac Area Board of Realtors and has often voiced his opinions against such legislation.

A spokesman for the other side explained that legislation wouldn't force an owner to sell what he didn't want to sell. But owners should be required to sell by negotiating with everyone on the same basis, asserted Albert Munson of the Pontiac Organization of Black Youth.

★ ★ ★

SENIOR AT WSU

Munson, 23, a senior at Wayne State University studying speech and speech therapy, is also working with Detroit's Housing Commission for Urban Renewal.

He informed the some 25 Jaycees that "you may be against open housing because you feel we might be inferior or won't fit in with a neighborhood, but Negroes must have the right to buy property and have access to the housing market just as others do.

"An owner doesn't have to sell to blacks on terms not offered to anyone else," he added.

Munson went on to stress that property rights are subject to certain laws such as zoning. Open housing legislation, he continued, wouldn't encroach upon property rights except that the sale can't be based on race, color, creed or national origin.

'SHOULD BE NATIONWIDE'

He cited that the constitutionality of such laws has been upheld in 21 states.

Annett's response was that if there is a law, it should be nationwide for conformity.

The realtor emphasized that any restrictions the owner wants to put on the sale of his property should be upheld as a right.

He voiced his belief that usurpation of property rights is the first thing done when a Communistic government takes over.

Annett said that legislation will increase the problem of minority groups. "We have an adequate system for enforcing laws now," said Annett who also cited the realtors' code of ethics.

The realtor admitted, however, that there are some cases where a Negro at the present time can't buy where he would like and financially can because of an owner's reluctance.

He complained that if proposed legislation is passed, realtors may have to spend time and money to prove themselves innocent of charges made to the State Civil Rights Commission.

A Jaycee said that under the proposed law a realtor could be investigated three times. A decision of the commission could be appealed to the Circuit Court and then to the Senate Appeals Court, he said.

Oxford Township Prepares to Fight Incorporation Move Aimed at Industrial Sector

By JEAN SAILE

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — What do you do when you're faced with the possible loss of half your income?

★ ★ ★

If you're a township board and the income derives from high tax base land proposed for incorporation into a city, you prepare to do battle.

Legal advice was sought last night by Oxford Township, faced with the loss of about four square miles of highly industrialized property.

The village of Oxford has resolved to move ahead with incorporation plans which would increase its size from the presently less than two square miles to about six square miles.

★ ★ ★

'COULD HURT DEVELOPMENT'

"What are we going to do about the library, the park and the cemeteries?" asked Valentine. "We own those. And what about the fire department? That runs us about 5 per cent of our township budget right now — about $13,000 a year," he said.

Connected with the worry over possible monetary loss was the contract with the Oakland County Department of Public Works for engineering on the Paint Creek Arm of the projected Clinton-Oakland Sewer.

A contract holding the township liable for 25 per cent of such costs, should the sewer to serve the two Oxford areas, Orion Township and Lake Orion not be built, was authorized by the board after Attorney Paul Mandel said he would write a restriction binding the township only so long as its boundaries remained intact.

"I don't know whether the DPW will accept it or not," he said.

Mandel informed the board that it had little legal recourse to stop the proposed vote on incorporation.

"You can watch procedures," he said. "They (the village) may have to take a special census to determine that they have the proper number of people and the density required by the state for such action."

He explained that only those people living in the village and in the affected area would vote and that a simple majority would be all that would be required.

SECOND VOTE NECESSARY

"One favorable vote would not establish cityhood," he said. "A second vote to approve a charter would be necessary. The village would have three attempts in two years to get one accepted."

"I think we should go to a charter township form of government," said Supervisor Valentine.

"Under a charter, a township can levy up to 5 mills without a vote of the people."

"Four to five mills wouldn't make up for the loss of the assessed valuation," said Offer. "I suggest that we ask the vilage to take a more serious look at the consequences."

★ ★ ★

Valentine had earlier reported that some $11 million of assessed valuation out of the total township valuation of $19 million is threatened by the village's proposal.

Holly Township Farmer Wins Soil-Water Conservation Award

The Soil and Water Conservation Farmer Award for 1967 has been presented to Harold Mitchell, 10542 McWain, Holly Township.

A member of the Oakland County Soil Conservation District Board of Directors for 16 years, Mitchell was cited for activities which included installation of 11,000 feet of tile drainage, two acres of tree planting, 32 acres of woodland harvest cut, an acre farm pond, a mile of wildlife hedgerow planting, 19 acres of land clearing, crop rotation and erosion prevention.

Also honored by the district last night was Keith Middleton, 2120 Stoney Creek, Oakland Township, who retired after 18 years as a member of the district board of directors.

James Reid, 5400 Cedar Island, was reelected to the board of directors and renamed chairman.

School Board Cools Rink Bid

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The board of education here has given the cold shoulder to the possibility of an artificial ice rink in the school district, at least in the near future.

John H. Smith, 252 Woodedge, appeared at the regular board meeting to discuss the need for ice-skating facilities and ask the board for information on how to proceed.

Smith pointed to the growing popularity of skating and ice hockey among young people in the area, saying that increasing demand had led to the necessity of renting time on the few existing rinks.

He then suggested that the board consider the possibility of constructing an indoor or outdoor rink, at costs of $500,000 and $200,000, respectively.

In taking no action on the matter, board members observed that the present pressing need for operating millage (an election asking a 14-mill five-year increase was scheduled at the same meeting) would not allow any expenditures of the type proposed.

They also pointed out that the board currently pays rental on the Cranbrook School rink for Andover High School's varsity hockey team.

Payments Forecast for Wool, Lambs

Payments of between 25 and 30 cents a pound on sales of wool or lambs was forecast by Alfred Haack, chairman of the Oakland ASC County Committee.

Producers have until Jan. 31 to file an incentives paymets application at the ASCS County Office, 4515 Highland, Waterford Township, Haack said. Payment rates will be announced in March and payments to wool producers will be made about April 1, he reproted.

Furniture Dealer in Oxford Twp. Is Irate Over Letter

Oxford Township Board last night was called to account for a letter reportedly sent to local furniture dealer Edward Bossardet, last month in which dissatisfaction with both the contract and the drapes for the new township share of the Civic Center was expressed.

Said Bossardet, "You might have asked me about it instead of sending a letter. I consider this an insult to my business reputation. And why did you wait two months after the furniture and drapes were installed before finding fault?"

The board conferred momentarily and authorized payment of an additional $234 drapery charge on Bossardet's total bid of $4,512.

Talk to PTA Planned

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — "Parental Responsibility in Education" is the topic of a talk tonight at the Scotch School Parent-Teacher Organization meeting at 8 p.m. at the school, 5810 Commerce. Speaking is Charles P. Kotting, consultant in the adjusted study program of special education in Oakland County.

Highland Twp. Woman 100 Years Old

BY BETTY ANN SCHULTZ

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — When the first train chugged over the tracks at Wardlow Crossing in 1865, Mrs. Cora Gordon was riding with the engineer.

She was only 3 years old then. Today she is celebrating her 100th birthday.

The Leonard's home at 1655 N. Milford Road sits on acreage once owned by Mrs. Gordon's father, Jonathan Clark. The centenarian was born in a home that occupied that land until 1927 when Franklin tore it down to build his house.

★ ★ ★

The nephew reports he has seen deeds dating back to 1835.

BUILT IN 1881

On a corner of that property Clark in 1881 built a brick house that is now known as 1555 N. Milford Road, home of the Floyd D. Andrews Jr. family.

Mrs. Gordon will be moving from a house on 112 S. Center to another house at 150 W. Livingston in two weeks.

This only represents another change of residence in her life, this time for the convenience of one-floor living.

When she married Charles Gordon, who died in 1951, she moved to Pontiac on Parkhurst Street. Her husband then operated a vinegar works in the city.

The next move was to Detroit, then to a farm on West Livingston, and then to Milford across from the present Batey Greenhouse.

When asked about her interests and activities, Mrs. Gordon proudly and contentedly says, "My housework."

She keeps house methodically and does all the work except the washing," reports Mrs. Franklin Leonard.

★ ★ ★

She's known to have a pie ready whenever her only son, Carlton of Detroit, comes to visit.

★ ★ ★

REGULAR CHURCHGOER

Mrs. Gordon also attends the Highland Congregational Church every Sunday.

★ ★ ★

She claims exceptional health, but is rumored to take two aspirins each morning.

★ ★ ★

Noticeable, however, is her difficulty in hearing. But this doesn't stop her spontaneous joking.

★ ★ ★

She does get serious about her 100 years. They mean a lot to her: "It's a long time," she avers.

MRS. CORA GORDON

Cranbrook Events

PLANETARIUM — Regular public demonstrations, Wednesday at 4 p.m. and weekends at 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. The topic for the month is "Telling Time by the Stars."

ATOMARIUM — Public demonstration Sunday at 3:30 p.m. or by appointment. Admission 25 cents.

LECTURE — Dr. Pierre Dansereau, biologist and plant geographer, will present an illustrated lecture, "Vegetation and Land-Use in the Azores," tomorrow night at 8:15 in Cranbrook School Auditorium.

A volcanic outburst in 1957-58 added several acres of land to one island, offering an opportunity to study gradual colonization by plants and animals.

Adult Classes Begin Feb. 5 in Rochester

ROCHESTER — Adult evening classes sponsored by the Community Education Service of Rochester Community Schools, will begin for the second semester on Feb. 5.

Registrations will be accepted from 7 to 9 p.m. Jan. 29 and 30 at the Rochester Senior High gymnasium lobby and at the first session of each class if vacancies remain.

Courses to be offered include cake decorating, pottery, woodworking, sewing, knitting, oil painting, upholstery, square dancing, bridge, decoupage, chair caning, ballroom dancing, yoga, antiquing and china painting.

Tiny tot swim instruction will once again be offered Saturday mornings at Oakland University pool.

Eastern Star Dinner

OXFORD — Oxford Chapter No. 266, Order of the Eastern Star, will serve a chicken dinner from 5 to 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Masonic Temple, 20. S. Washington. Mrs. Leo Misenar, 28 Davison, is chairman.

OCC Plays Slated

"My Mother, the Macabre," four one-act plays with the main theme of birth and death, will be presented by the Theater Guild of the Highland Lakes campus of Oakland Community College at 8:30 p.m. Feb. 1-3 at Clarkston High School.

2 of 'Big Four' Confirm Hike of Parts Prices

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. and General Motors say they have been raising prices of some auto parts, but American Motors and Chrysler refused comment on a report that all major auto firms were upping parts prices.

Dow Jones, a financial news service, reported Wednesday that the major auto makers had been increasing auto parts prices while not announcing them.

★ ★ ★

A Ford spokesman said the price increase on some parts recently was closer to 3 per cent than the Dow Jones' report of between 4 and 5 per cent.

★ ★ ★

GM confirmed it was substantially correct that prices of 16 of 17 Delco lines were raised during the period Nov. 10 to Jan. 1, but did not comment on Dow Jones' other report that GM raised many of its prices by 6 per cent to 7 per cent.

Dow Jones said Ford hiked prices Nov. 1 and then again on Jan. 1 on parts covering half of Ford's line.

"We are constantly studying the prices. Some of them we increase, others we decrease because we have to stay in step with the market," the Ford spokesman said.

A GM official added, "There are more than 500,000 service parts, the process of which is under continual review."

Dow Jones reported Chrysler Corp. boosted the price it charges dealers by cutting the markup on wholesale prices on all items and supplies that dealers cannot buy elsewhere from 32 per cent to 25 per cent.

American Motors also raised prices 6 per cent or 7 per cent in November on about 60 per cent of its line, Dow Jones said.

Mayor's Report Weighs Gains, Losses

The past year has been a trying one for heads of government on all levels. The mayoralty of Pontiac has been no exception.

TAYLOR

In submitting his fourth annual State of the City report to the City Commission Tuesday night, Mayor WILLIAM H. TAYLOR JR. reviewed the pluses and minuses for 1967.

On the positive side, the administration can point with satisfaction to the construction of 800 units of multi-dwelling housing of various description, extension of the sewer and water main systems, additional and improved street lighting and completed projects affecting the Clinton River and two creeks essential to freeway construction and flood control.

The other side of the coin reflects failure to materialize of the so-called Taubman plan which would have created a downtown shopping district and hopefully prove to be the key to the gradual rejuvenation of the central business area.

Of paramount significance, however, to both City government and the citizenry at large is the critical financial condition that confronts Pontiac.

Fiscal problems, deepening with time, last year obliged City Hall to exhaust a half million dollar earmarked surplus to meet operating expenses. Not only is the current fiscal budget, despite extensive cutbacks in services, in the red, but the 1969 budget effective July 1 will, without increased income, reflect an even greater deficit.

The urgent need of the City is additional operating funds, which can only come from tax sources. The income tax passed by City Commission last year would have met the emergency, but legal opposition threatens nullification of it.

But through it all, we think the City Fathers headed by Mayor Taylor have acquitted themselves well in meeting the involved issues of the City and rate public approval for the administrative job done in 1967.

Country Swamped by Tidal Wave of Legislation

We have all heard the phrase "there ought to be a law." It pops out of our mouths almost automatically now whenever something occurs that we personally do not think should be permitted.

This psychological confession of willingness to accede to government fiat is no longer a joke. Nearly 16,000 bills were introduced in Congress last year. When these are added to the blizzard of laws that sweep through lawmaking halls of the 50 states, the total becomes awesome. Included in the deluge are all the spending measures.

It is useless to blame our elected representatives for grinding out more laws than can be administered, enforced or paid for, as long as the performance of Congress and the legislatures are judged by the number of bills that go through their hoppers. They are only responding to "there ought to be a law" psychology."

Why not devote one session of Congress and the legislative bodies of the states exclusively to nullification of the mass of obsolete, ill-conceived and unenforceable laws that clutter up the statutory archives and have been gathering legal dust for years?

School Bells Heard by Millions of Americans

As in so many social areas where nonconformity makes news while conformity is passed over, school attendance is pretty much taken for granted in favor of national emphasis on the "dropout" problem.

But an encouraging note comes from a Bureau of the Census survey showing that total school enrollment now exceeds 55 million persons — three out of every five in the age range of 5 through 34.

About 35.6 million were in elementary school or kindergarten, almost 13.4 million in high school and some 6.1 million attended college or professional school during the last school year. Experts anticipate that total enrollment by 1975 will exceed 60.4 million.

Since an informed citizenry is the best guarantor of the social precepts that have made America the greatest country in the world, the increasing interest in education holds assurance for perpetuation of those ideals.

Johnson's Speech Had Air of Rerun

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's State of the Union message to Congress last night was not one of his masterpieces.

He cut it to the bone. No trimmings. And also no color. No hint this would be his most critical year with its presidential election. No political overtones.

MARLOW

And two of his main points — Vietnam and an income tax boost — were simply repetitions of his 1967 State of the Union message.

This was the way he chose to launch his 1968 presidential campaign — no one seems to doubt he will run again although he hasn't said yes or no — for everything he says this year will affect some voter's view of him.

★ ★ ★

In short, he left the heat and the oratory for later this year. He confined himself strictly to American conditions.

PEACE TALKS

He didn't even go into details about the one thing which has kept the Vietnam pot bubbling and boiling. This was North Vietnam's suggestion Jan. 1 — it could be a phony — that it is willing to start peace talks if the United States will stop the bombing unconditionally, and all other acts of war.

Ever since Hanoi made this suggestion, American critics have called for an end to the bombing, either temporarily, to see what Hanoi is up to, or permanently.

But the one thing he made clear — despite all the criticism he has had to endure because of the war and the fact that a war still going on at election time may affect the outcome — is that the United States will continue the war.

SAME POSITION

Last year he also asked Congress to impose a six per cent surcharge on personal and corporate income taxes. Congress ignored him in 1967. Last night he asked for the surtax again but now he wants a 10 per cent hike.

He had hardly anything new to add to what he said last year about trying to prevent crime in the streets and asked Congress this year to approve the 1967 crime control proposal.

★ ★ ★

In delivering his televised message at the Capitol before a joint session of House and Senate he used exactly the same technique he adopted in 1967: A minimum of gestures and facial expressions.

CAMPAIGN TECHNIQUE

This, no doubt, is the technique he will use in the campaign. He has been increasingly careful for at least a year about his public image. The year 1967 was a turning point for him.

In last year's message his method changed from previous years in sentence structure. At that time he eliminated the overuse of short sentences. And last year's, like this year's, had no trimmings.

The Johnson the nation listened to and watched last night — and in 1967 — is not necessarily the Johnson it would have seen if there had been no war in Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

If there had been no war, last night's message might have been full of sweeping new proposals. But the criticism heaped on him about the war has probably made him want to stay out of controversy in general as he tries to sweat out the war, while remaining unyielding to his critics.

'A Transplant Might Be Worth A Try Here, Too!'

David Lawrence Says:

Key to Peace Is in Moscow

WASHINGTON — Great Britain's pullout as a major military or naval force in the preservation of peace throughout the world caused consternation here because it means that the United States is left with the main burden of protecting small as well as large nations which may be threatened by Communist imperialism.

LAWRENCE

Perhaps the biggest single factor contributing to the British decision is the expense of maintaining up-to-date equipment even for conventional wars while nuclear strength is today the only preventive of a world war.

Many nations — like Great Britain—are beginning to feel, moreover, that, as long as the United States and the Soviet Union maintain a stalemate, there is no real need for building up their own armament and that local uprisings of a serious nature can be left either to the United States or to the United Nations to police.

Maybe the men who formulate British foreign policy would have been willing to continue to help defend the Middle East and Southeast Asia, but economic weakness has dictated another course.

★ ★ ★

The United States is up against grave risks to its own economic future if there is a continuation of its present spending all over the world. Yet the policy makers of the American government have come to believe that they have no other choice.

WOULD MOVE IN

Either Southeast Aisa, for instance, has to be defended and a watchful eye kept on the Middle East or else the Soviets would move in and take over.

The key to world peace, therefore, is in Moscow. If the Russians and the United States were to come to an agreement, so that future military operations to back up the smaller countries became unnecessary, Red China by itself would not be a threat to peace.

The British action in withdrawing from Asia, despite commitments in SEATO and to the commonwealth countries of the area, is accompanied by the prospect of a British navy without aircraft carriers and a royal air force without effective air power.

Will the Russians now take advantage of this change to start trouble on the borders of West Germany? Will Moscow encourage Nasser to start a new war with Israel? Will the United States, if it stops bombing North Vietnam, find itself frustrated by a Communist take-over of South Vietnam?

These are questions that make the effects of the new British policy more difficult to foresee.

Hence, the United States may have to begin an "agonizing reappraisal" of its position in Europe as well as Asia.

This requires a reexamination of the structure of the United Nations itself. For a new alliance would have to be formed from those large and small nations of the world which may wish to ally themselves with the United States to protect their independence against Communist aggression.

★ ★ ★

Some realignment is going to be necessary on the part of many countries if American power is to be made available to help defend them. Certainly the job cannot be done by the United States alone.

Bob Considine Says:

Company Plans A-Blasts for Hard-to-Reach Riches

LAS VEGAS — This famed gambling hell could become the atoms - for - peace capital of the world.

CONSIDINE

The Geonuclear Corp. was recently formed from Continental Oil Co., Edgerton, Germeshausen and Grier, the company that has timed and fired all atomic energy commission nuclear weapons, and Reynolds Electrical & Engineering Co., operators of the Nevada test site since 1950.

For a price, which the new company hopes to get down to $300,000, minus the digging of the needed wells, Geonuclear would roam this country and the world setting off underground atomic bombs which would squeeze oil out of shale, release untold natural gas fields, root out more copper from sites no longer held economical to mine, create underground water reservoirs whose water will not evaporate in hot climates, and even dig cesspools that could take care of a city's waste for decades.

Had a talk the other day with two of the leading figures of the new company, Hal Aronson and Henry Coffer, engineers of an age they are sure is about to dawn. It's a heady experience.

★ ★ ★

"All technical difficulties have been solved," Aronson, an athletic young man, told us. "But that's just a beginning. We used to be engineers. Now we're public relations men.

CONVINCE PUBLIC

"Our job is to assure the general public that what we are capable of doing will not hurt them. They grew up filled with stories about Hiroshima and Nagasaki and the radioactive ash that fell on the Japanese tuna fishermen.

"Naturally, they tend to become jumpy when they hear about radioactivity in any connection. About 6,000 megawatts of nuclear reactor electrical power is now being produced by the utility companies in this country, to add to the thermal and hydro sources of power.

"Harmless, of course, but nice ladies still occasionally call up their power companies to ask if their electric ranges will be contaminated."

Dr. Coffer, a jovial genius type, said, "There's more radiation thrown off by burning coal than by fissioning materials. Matter of fact, if we had found uranium and plutonium first, as a source of peaceful power, we'd probably now have some sort of an international test ban on the burning coal.

MILD RADIATION

"The radiation produced above surface from underground detonation of a 100-kiloton nuclear device — five times the yield of the Hiroshima bomb — is about the same as a person who lives in Denver receives every day. He has a mile less of atmospheric cushion between himself and radiation coming at all of us from the sun.

"The last time you had an X ray of your chest you took 3/10ths of a roentgen, that is, about three times what your body has been subjected to from all the nuclear tests of all the nuclear powers since we touched off the first one at Alamogordo in 1945," Dr. Coffer said, merrily.

'People Should Get Vote on Pontiac Income Tax'

Although the City Commission has achieved its objective of obtaining more revenue through an income tax, the primary issue with many is the way this was accomplished. It seems apparent that the Commission has not wanted to let the people vote on the basic issue of tax, nor perhaps to have set forth initially a taxation plan which could have been approved on the ballot. An approach to such a plan might have included:

- Basing the request for more funds on some realistic reductions in present expenses in order to demonstrate convincingly the best use of all current funds.
- If a third income tax is a necessity, try and adjust new revenue needs to some tax rate less than the full one-half and one per cent possible in view of the state tax passed only weeks ago.
- Campaign to promote at least two alternate plans (this was done) but then allow a vote on the entire issue. Most people would approve a reasonable plan and those who still oppose would have their right to say no at the start when it would have been much less of a grievance than now.

★ ★ ★

The Commission loses the faith of its people when it dramatically threatens to cut essentials in response to a fair public request for a basic vote —a request that should have been honored originally and is now denied on a technicality. I do not oppose a fair tax plan. I do oppose the intent by elected officials to refuse those people they represent the right to vote on an issue when it is so apparent a large number wish to vote.

'Some Bus Drivers Don't Wait for Children'

My complaint is with the elementary school bus drivers. In freezing weather some children trudge through the snow and don't quite make it in time. Some drivers will close the door and leave a child rather than wait two minutes. How many times do these same children wait in the cold while the bus is still in the garage and won't start? A friend who is a driver says that the little time she waits for the elementary students doesn't bother her schedule.

Offers Suggestion for Waterford Schools

To Dr. Tatroe: For the past two years the people of Waterford Township have been trying to tell you that they cannot afford the gyms and extras. I fear that if you enact your budget proposal it is going to arouse the taxpayers' anger even more and they will not renew the operating millage we now have.

I suggest you form a citizens advisory committee from the Township, not the ones you have had the last year, and appeal to the people as you did when you first came here. Let these people help to determine the cuts and understand the situation. Many cannot keep giving more and more taxes. Be fair to us and our youngsters.

'What Is Answer to Snowplowing Problem?'

Pontiac City is doing a real good job of plowing the roads. However, in some instances it leads to an unhappy situation. First the walks are well plowed. Then the road cleaner shows up. If the roads and sidewalks touch, the snow and drifts from the road are thrown right on the sidewalks, and all the good work is lost. When there's a space between the road and the walk, there's no trouble.

★ ★ ★

I give both road and sidewalk people full credit but is there any way to avoid this calamity?

Question and Answer

How is a Social Security number determined? Is there a special significance in the numbers or are they just in some sort of numerical order?

E. W.

REPLY

Mr. Wade of the Social Security office tells us a group of numbers is issued to each office and they are issued in numerical order as people apply. The first three numbers indicate which payment center will eventually handle the claim for that number, but aside from that, there is no special significance to the numbers.

A Lesson in Faith

Student Pilot Tries Instrument Flying

EDITOR'S NOTE — Jean Saile, a Pontiac Press reporter, wife of a commercial artist and mother of six children, is learning how to fly an airplane. This is another in a series on her impressions of flying.)

By JEAN SAILE

An instrument pilot really has to have faith.

My last flying lesson — designed to give me a break from the landing pattern at Oakland - Pontiac Airport —was an introduction to hooded flying.

MRS. SAILE

I saw the weird looking long - visored headpiece lying on the back seat of the Musketeer when instructor Art Trowbridge and I took off.

"Put it on," he said once we were clear of the airport. "Adjust it so you can't see out the windshield."

★ ★ ★

WRONG VIEW

Uh huh. For the first minute or so it was all strange. I felt as though we were flying straight and level, but the instruments didn't agree. Sneaking a look out from under the hood, I saw ground out of my window where there should have been sky.

"Don't look. I'm not going to let you crash," said Trowbridge. "Follow the instruments.

★ ★ ★

I watched the directional gyro roll around to 90, and then realized I didn't know which way to move to roll out from the turn.

BELOW HORIZON

Ahhh! It began to get better.

"This is just in case you run into trouble on your cross-country trips," Trowbridge said.

"Now, take off the hood and we're going to learn something about VOR (a radio navigation aid)," he explained.

'TO' SETTING

"Flint's VOR setting is 111.6. Turn the dial until you get the needle centered on the "TO" setting. Now fly the course indicated," Trowbridge said.

"The needle is swinging to the right. The wind is strong today. Turn five degrees to the right and see if the needle centers," he ordered.

And minutes later — "There's Flint down there."

"Now tune into the Pontiac VOR."

It was the same routine back again.

"There's Pontiac's transmitting station down there. Watch the VOR dial change from 'TO' to 'FROM,'" Trowbridge said as we passed over a small mosque-like building.

"There's the airport over there," he said.

"Now do a couple of touch and goes. There are gusts of wind up to 25 knots today, so watch yourself."

We landed and took off again.

"Now try one without flaps," he ordered.

I did and we sort of fell onto the runway.

"You're a lot better than you were the last time I flew with you. One more hour in the traffic pattern and then we'll go out to the practice area. About four hours out there and you'll be ready for cross-country," the instructor said.

"That's when it gets to be fun," he grinned.

It's quite a honeymoon spat when she weighs 1,800 pounds and he makes the scale groan at 2,200. The two rhinoceroses have been battling for weeks and both are wearing deep scratches.

Dr. Ivo Poglayen, director of the unfinished zoo in Louisville, Ky., quipped, "You might say I'm caught on the horns of a dilemma."

His problems began Nov. 16 when the couple — they have no names yet — arrived from Germany via New Orleans. The rhinos' exercise yard isn't finished so day after day, hour after minute after minute, they've been confined to a 20-by 36-foot room.

"They're just like anyone else," said Poglayen. "They get tired of each other. They need a little privacy. In breeding season, they wouldn't be able to see enough of each other but now they can't stand each other's sight."

Kangaroo's Cousin Unnerves Miami

A kangaroo's cousin jangled the nerves of Miami motorists yesterday and touched off an all-day search.

The bounding chase began when a motorist described something that hopped past his car as "the biggest kangaroo I've ever seen."

Several hours later Jim Rogers grabbed the culprit identified it as his 16-month-old wallaroo. He said the 18-inch-high marsupial escaped from his traveling zoo Dec. 29.

Fire Takes Home of Dog and His Chick

The bulb touched off a fire which destroyed the doghouse that the mixed-breed dog and chicken had shared for weeks — clucking and barking their admiration of one another.

The chick, Sophie, had done her best to make their nest cozy, even producing a nice, fat egg every other day.

The dog and the chicken became friends when Mrs. Estill White Jr., Louisville, Ky., brought Sophie to town to fatten her for Thanksgiving dinner. But she and the rest of the family became attached to Sophie and the chicken got a reprieve. She moved in with Groucho.

Captive Python Lays 24 Eggs

A 20-foot python in Forest Park Zoo, Forth Worth, Tex., has laid about two dozen eggs, half of which will be removed for artificial incubation. Mama python will be allowed to guard the rest.

Incubation for python eggs takes 45 to 60 days, the zoo director said yesterday. The incidences of captive pythons laying eggs are extremely rare.

'Steelhead Cures Itself of Heart Disease'

Two University of Washington (Seattle) researchers say the fighting steelhead trout often develops acute heart disease, but has a mysterious power to cure itself.

Dr. Robert L. Van Citters and engineer Nolan W. Watson said the reversal in steelhead is unknown in any other animal. They also said their report, just made public, may have no significance in the study of human heart disease.

In their four-year study, they found steelheads develop acute coronary disease while battling from the sea to their fresh water spawning grounds. But by the time the fish spawn and return to sea, the disease has disappeared.

Wanted to Be One of Best, Says First Negro Trooper

FLINT (AP)—Jack Hall, 26, says he joined the 1,503-member force because "I wanted to be one of the best."

While working as a policeman in Benton Township in Berrien County for nearly five years, Hall said he became interested in the State Police.

"We worked closely with them and they looked pretty squared away, so I applied," Hall said.

But Hall had no idea that, if accepted, he would be the first Negro on the force. He learned this when he was interviewed by the commander of the Paw Paw post.

'WANTED TO DO IT'

"I figured this was what I wanted to do and so I wasn't bothered by the prospect of being the only Negro," he said.

Hall was assigned to the Flint post, where he is midway through a six-month probationary period, after completing work at the tough 12-week State Police recruit school.

Some of his fellow troopers at Flint believe the State Police training school is tougher than Marine Corps boot camp.

"A couple of times I felt like quitting because it was so hard," Hall said with a smile when asked about the State Police training.

"But as far as I'm concerned they're head and shoulders above everyone else. I wanted to be one of the best."

Hall is still spending time studying books with titles like "Interrogation for Investigators" and "1966 Michigan Police Law Manual." As other new troopers, he is required to take up to eight examinations a month.

★ ★ ★

Sgt. Alan Shaw, assistant post commander, said since the recent Supreme Court decisions affecting arrest procedures, troopers have to keep their legal knowledge sharper than ever.

Trooper David H. Dailey, one of two officers who are riding with Hall during the probation period, said the only reference made at all by the public about Hall's race has been caused by curiosity.

"They want to know if he isn't that Negro policeman they had read about," Dailey said.

Sgt. Shaw said "Jack's been accepted in the post with no problem at all. We're not asking anyone else here. He has a great desire to succeed."

Traffic Pile-Up in Indiana Fog Kills 5; 8 Hurt

SELLERSBURG, Ind. (AP)—Five persons were killed and eight others injured Wednesday in chain-reaction collisions involving 18 vehicles in zero visibility fog on Interstate 65.

Flames erupting from the first crash spread through the wreckage, fed by paint-making chemicals in a truck. Destroyed or damaged were 11 semitrailer trucks, six automobiles and a pickup truck.

The pileup 15 miles north of the Ohio River began as two policemen stood on the southbound lanes of the highway waving flares to slow traffic for a three-car accident a half mile south in which no one was injured.

State Trooper Gerald Hayes said, "Everybody was going too fast in the fog." He said he kept trying to flag vehicles, and "They just kept coming."

None of the dead was from Michigan.

'Viet Obligation to Level Off'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials say the U.S. commitment to the Vietnam war may be close to the high-water mark in men and money.

They said they anticipate "a leveling off of both money and forces in Southeast Asia in the coming year."

This could mean U.S. troop strength in Vietnam will stabilize near the 525,000-man mark, although it does not rule out further reinforcements if conditions dictate.

U.S. military forces in Vietnam now total 486,000 men, with the balance of the 525,000 due there within the next few months.

Discussing President Johnson's upcoming budget, these officials told newsmen they calculate that about $25.75 billion will be spent during the fiscal year to prosecute the Vietnam war—a $1.2 billion increase over this year.

All told, Vietnam war costs will account for nearly one-third of the $77.2 billion defense budget Johnson will send to Congress within the next couple of weeks.

While the fiscal 1969 military budget will be up $2.9 billion over 1968, it still will fall about $11 billion short of the World War II peak.

The optimistic forecast of a leveling off in Vietnam came as officials discussed Johnson's State of the Union message to the House and Senate Wednesday night.

WESTMORELAND'S VIEW

That forecast is in tune with Gen. William C. Westmoreland's confident statement while in Washington about two months ago that "We have reached an important point when the end begins to come into view."

Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, has spoken of a possible start on U.S. troop withdrawals within two years.

American optimism has soured in the past and there is no assurance it won't happen again.

The Pentagon had hoped to hold the U.S. troop commitment to about 480,000 men by next June 30. But last summer, Johnson yielded to Westmoreland's request for reinforcements. The Vietnam manpower ceiling was raised by about 45,000 men.

NO ADDED FUNDS

Despite this, and other unforeseen cost rises, Johnson has managed to avoid asking Congress for additional funds to pay for the war effort between now and the end of this fiscal year.

★ ★ ★

The Pentagon is helping by balancing off $6 billion in increased costs with reductions in non-Vietnam programs.

★ ★ ★

This is being accomplished by $4.3 billion in "reprogramming," which means stretching out or dropping some procurement, and by shifting $1.7 billion from hardware buying to operating expenses.

Religious Leaders Seek Ruling on Housing Bias

WASHINGTON (AP) — Protestant and Catholic leaders, joined by the Justice Department, are seeking a Supreme Court ruling which would bar discrimination in the sale of homes by housing developers.

The National Council of Churches said if something isn't done, the suburbs around America's cities "can be converted into sanctuaries for racial or religious monopolies or bigotry." That would mean "fencing into our cities those who are thus reduced to second or third class citizenship," it said.

The council, representing 34 Protestant and orthodox denominations comprising 42 million Americans, filed a friend-of-the-court brief Wednesday asking the Supreme Court to bar big housing developers from refusing to sell homes to Negroes.

A group of 24 Roman Catholic bishops, including Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle of Washington, D.C., and Lawrence Cardinal Shehan of Baltimore, said they would file a similar brief with the high court today.

COUNCIL BACKING

The bishops were joined in their brief by the National Catholic Council for Interracial Justice, based in Chicago.

The National Council of Churches brief was in support of an interracial couple who sued the developers of the Paddock Woods subdivision in suburban St. Louis for allegedly refusing on racial grounds to sell them a house and lot. The plaintiffs are Joseph Lee Jones, a Negro, and his white wife, Barbara Jo.

The U.S. Circuit Court in St. Louis ruled last June that neither the Constitution nor an 1866 civil rights law cited by the couple bar discrimination in private housing.

Despite President Johnson's urging, Congress has not passed an open-housing law. The Justice Department, in urging the Supreme Court to hear the Paddock Woods case, argued lower courts should be given authority to prohibit racial discrimination by developers.

The Catholic brief, arguing the 1866 law is in fact a national open-housing act, said: "There is a constitutional right to purchase a home without discrimination on account of race, such right being grounded not upon social convenience but upon antecedent moral rights deriving from the very nature of man."

Israelis Clamp Curfew on Arabs in Gaza City

TEL AVIV (AP) — The Israeli army clamped a general curfew on the more than 200,000 Arabs of occupied Gaza City today while security forces searched house to house for arms used in a current wave of sabotage.

There have been almost daily hand-grenade attacks in Gaza. On two recent occasions grenades were lobbed into open-air market places, injuring local Arabs, and one Israeli soldier was wounded while standing near the Gaza railway stop.

★ ★ ★

COMPLETION

The Israeli-Egyptian exchange is expected to be completed next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Israel still held slightly more than 4,000 Egyptians captured in the June war. More than 300 had been returned in the exchange which started last week under direction of the International Red Cross.

★ ★ ★

The Egyptians hold more than 10 Israelis in Cairo jails. Israel captured about 5,000 Egyptians in June but released 500 as a gesture on Jan. 1 prior to the exchange agreement.

The prisoners were loaded onto private buses at their camp near Haifa and driven during the night through Tel Aviv and across the desert to El Qantara on the Suez Canal.

APPOINTMENT

In Jerusalem, the Israeli Cabinet formally approved the appointment of the former army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Itzhak Rabin, as the new Israeli ambassador to the United States.

Rabin, who completed his army service Dec. 31 after leading the Israeli army to victory in June, is to arrive in Washington in mid-February.

Abraham Harman, 59, who has been Israeli ambassador to Washington since 1959, will become president of the Hebrew University.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Pavel M. Litvinov, a leader in the youthful Soviet intellectual protest movement, says he will go to court to seek reinstatement in his job as a physics teacher.

Litvinov, grandson of the late Soviet foreign minister, said yesterday his superiors at a Moscow chemical institute released him for "violations of labor discipline."

Terming the firing "quite illegal," Litvinov said, "I now intend to go to court over it."

As part of a series of bold protests in recent weeks, Litvinov last Friday publicly condemned the trial of four literary figures as a "wild mockery."

Elvis Presley to Do TV Special

Elvis Presley will do his first television show since 1960 for the National Broadcasting Co. next year, the company announced yesterday in Memphis, Tenn.

NBC Vice President Thomas W. Sarnoff revealed plans for a Presley special to the Memphis-Commercial-Appeal. Sarnoff said the program will be produced by Bob Finkel, executive producer of the Jerry Lewis Show.

The Presley special will be broadcast during the holiday season of 1969, either Thanksgiving, Christmas or New Year's week.

Shah of Iran Gets Honorary Doctorate

The Shah of Iran said today that differences in standards of living among various nations "are no longer tenable."

THE SHAH

"In our world today, the various human groups have become so closely joined together . . . that differences in standards of material, cultural and spiritual life on earth are no longer tenable," the Shah said in an address at a special convocation of the University of Malaya, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

"It is now fully accepted that all individuals in the human society should attain the same level in all material and cultural respects."

The convocation was held to confer an honorary doctor of letters degree on the Shah in recognition of his efforts to bring about a restoration of diplomatic ties last year between Malaysia and Pakistan.

Boy Born to Singer Abbe Lane

Spokesmen at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, Hollywood, said singer Abbe Lane was "just fine" after giving birth yesterday to an 8-pound, 6-ounce boy.

Miss Lane and her husband, talent agent Perry Leff, also have an adopted son, Andrew, 2.

Death Hits 2nd Sister in Same Strange Way

SANTA MARIA, Calif. (AP) — Five years apart, two sisters died mysteriously in the same, sudden way: They looked around horrified, screamed piercingly for 10 seconds, then stopped breathing.

Police said Army Staff Sgt. Robert Rush told them Wednesday that his wife, Patricia, 23, woke him about 6 a.m. screamed and collapsed.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Mrs. Rush's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Stephens of nearby San Luis Obispo, told newsmen that in 1963 their daughter Beverly, 17, emerged from a swimming pool and died in the same way. An autopsy failed to disclose a cause of death.

The Stephens have two other daughters, Barbara, 17, and Diana, 11.

★ ★ ★

"Naturally," said Stephens, "we are very concerned and anxious about my other daughters."

Warren Man Starts Drive to Put Wallace on Ballot

WARREN (UPI) — A man who says he has "hundreds" of supporters behind him today announced a campaign to put former Alabama Gov. George Wallace on the presidential ballot in Michigan next fall.

James E. Hall, a former Kentuckian who heads a citizens group in the suburban Detroit area, has officially filed the name of the "American Independent Party" with the Macomb County clerk.

He said he will go to Alabama soon to meet with Wallace supporters and will return to launch a petition drive to get Wallace on the ballot Nov. 5 as a third-party candidate.

Under Michigan law, Hall would have to collect not less than 13,370 signatures nor more than 53,480 signatures of registered voters on his petitions to place Wallace on the ballot.

The law also requires that the petitions be filed before May 5 and that they must include at least 100 names from each of at least 10 counties, with no more than 35 per cent of the total signatures coming from any one county.

Any signatures collected between now and the May 5 deadline would be legal under the statute.

Hall said he has been in contact with many voters but only met "two people who told me that they wouldn't support George Wallace. And I have talked to hundreds who said that they would."

"Mr. Wallace seems to be the only well-known politician who will publicly tell the truth without talking out of both corners of his mouth," Hall said. "He'll give you the solution to any problem you ask him about. He answers you.

★ ★ ★

Speaking of Gov. George Romney, Hall said "I'd hate to think of him as the president. He wouldn't be any better than the man we've got."

He said he had no doubt that he could collect enough petitions to put Wallace on the ballot.

"We're going to get enough votes to elect him the next president of the United States," he said.

Taylor GI Listed Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Wednesday that Army Cpl. Douglas S. McIlroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McIlroy of Taylor, Mich., had been killed in recent action in Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

The soldier had originally been listed as missing in action, the department said, but has since been confirmed as killed in combat.

Credit Card Misuse May Cost $500,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Misuse of thousands of "Everything" credit cards—issued unsolicited last summer by the First National City Bank—may cost the bank and merchants as much as $500,000, Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office says.

Hogan's office made the estimate Wednesday as it announced the arrests of five persons on charges of illegal possession and criminal misuse of the cards.

★ ★ ★

First National, second largest bank in the city, stopped issuing its "Everything" card last September except upon request of a customer, a Hogan aide said.

Last July, a Hogan aide said, the bank began issuing the cards to customers without solicitation by the customers and without signed agreements with them.

WARNINGS ISSUED

Since then, federal and local authorities have warned consumers that lost or stolen cards issued in their names might be used fraudulently.

In addition to the five arrested, charges have been lodged against a man serving a prison term for burglary and against a seventh person who is sought.

Among charges in indictments against the seven are larceny and possession of forged instruments.

★ ★ ★

Asst. Dist. Atty. Jeffrey Atlas sid the seven appeared to have operated independently. They apparently got the credit cards as the result of burglaries, thefts and picking pockets, Atlas said.

The merchandise charged on the cards, he said, consisted mainly of clothing and housewares, which could be sold easily.

★ ★ ★

The bank was reported to have reimbursed the victimized merchants at the rate of $25 for each fraudulent transaction of $50 or more.

Atlas said the credit cards involved in half of the indictments were never received by the proper person, and therefore their loss could not have been reported.

North Carolina is known as the Tar Heel State because of the tar found on its beaches by early settlers.

Hart Sponsor of Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart says a pending civil rights protection bill responds "to a specific, identified need in the area of violence and intimidation."

"We need to strengthen the capability of the federal government to meet the problem of violent interference, for racial or other discriminatory reasons, with the free exercise of civil rights," the Michigan Democrat told the Senate.

Hart is chief Senate sponsor of an administration bill that would make it a federal crime to interfere by force or threats of force with the exercise of certain rights because of a person's race, color, religion or national origin.

He said its passage would provide "an unmistakable warning to lawless elements not to interfere with the activities protected by the bill."

LBJ PLUG

President Johnson put in a plug for the measure in his State of the Union address to Congress Wednesday night.

General in 12-Death Air Crash

MINOT, N.D. (AP) — A two-star general and eight other Air Force officers were among 12 persons killed Wednesday when a huge Air Force tanker plane crashed on takeoff from fog-shrouded Minot Air Force Base. There was one survivor.

An Air Force investigating team sought the cause of the crash.

The seven crewmen and six passengers were from March Air Force Base near Riverside, Calif.

Maj. Gen. Charles M. Eisenhart, 53, vice commander of the 15th Air Force, died when the plane burst into flames upon impact around 9 a.m. An explosion followed, spewing bodies and parts of the plane more than 1,000 feet in several directions.

The death list also included three colonels, three lieutenant colonels, a major, a captain and three enlisted men.

LONE SURVIVOR

The survivor was T. Sgt. William G. Wright, 34, the plane's steward.

Wright was taken to John Moses Hospital in Minot, 14 miles south of the Strategic Air Command base in north central North Dakota. He suffered burns over 70 to 80 per cent of his body and was reported in critical condition.

★ ★ ★

Air Force officials said Wright would be flown to Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., for treatment at Brooke Army Medical Center.

The tanker, a four-engine jet usually used to refuel other planes in flight, was on a routine staff visit to Minot and was taking off for Glasgow, Mont., Air Force Base. The craft had been outfitted for passenger service and was not carrying extra fuel, officials said.

'NO EYEWITNESSES'

Officials at the base said the plane apparently was airborne just before the crash. The wreckage was about 20 yards to the right of and about three-quarters of the way down the 15,000-foot long runway.

The base information officer said, "To my knowledge there were no eyewitnessess. Visibility was too low."

Brig. Gen. Edward Nichols, SAC inspector-general, arrived at the base Wednesday from Omaha, Neb., to head the investigating team.

The team met for 3½ hours, but Nichols did not reveal to newsmen what may have figured into the crash. The probe is expected to take about 10 days.

An official at the Minot base said there was no way to know yet what caused the accident.

Gen. Eisenhart, a native of Culbertson, Neb., made his home at McCook, Neb. He is survived by his wife, Dorothy; a son, Donald, 19; and a daughter, Marion, 17.

VETERAN PILOT

He had been a military pilot for more than 30 years, entering the Army Air Corps in 1937. In World War II, he commanded bomber squadrons operating from the Marianas Islands against Japan. Among his decorations were the Legion of Merit, the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Bronze Star. He had flown more than 8,000 hours, including 156 combat hours.

SAC headquarters at Omaha said the pilot was Lt. Col. Jack A. Mercer, 44, Atwater, Calif.; the copilot, Capt. James A. Sullivan, 28, Flushing, N.Y., the navigator Lt. Col. Clifford V. McConnice, 46, Long Beach, Calif.

Sicily Toll Nears 400; No Yanks Hurt

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — The known death toll in western Sicily's earthquakes near 400 today, but U.S. Embassy men from Rome said they have found no evidence of any Americans killed or injured.

The quakes Monday wrecked a dozen towns and villages, injured more than 1,500 persons, and hundreds are still missing.

The hilly inland region is seldom visited by tourists, but the embassy in Rome sent a special staff to help the Palermo consulate handle the hundreds of queries from the United States about Americans or relatives possibly in the area.

Rescue teams, jittery from the shock of 32 tremors which followed the devastating quakes, continued poking under rubble and found two survivors Wednesday, still breathing after nearly 60 hours of confinement.

BARN WRECKAGE

Giuseppe San Filippo was rescued from the wreckage of a barn at Partana where workers also found 21 bodies. He said the group had been holding an engagement party at a nearby farmhouse and fled to the barn after one earth tremor.

A second shock brought the barn down on the celebrants, he said, and "I heard many of them moaning before dying. The two fiances were killed."

★ ★ ★

In Salaparuta, eight bodies were dug out of debris, but a woman in her 60s had survived by huddling under a staircase as her two-story building disintegrated. She was taken to a field hospital in serious condition.

Dr. Francesco Scanga, Italy's chief of public hygiene, led special teams spraying the debris to avert epidemics.

Police set up patrols against looters. Four youths were arrested in Palermo Wednesday night while trying to break into a bakery.

The island's major problem remained getting food, medicine, tents and blankets to an estimated 40,000 refugees preparing to spend a fourth night in the open. They were spread in small encampments throughout the western tip of the island, with only about 3,000 tents for shelter.

★ ★ ★

"We need bread. Money is useless to us because all the shops are closed or in ruins," one refugee complained. Later, 32 tons of bread and 100 tons of pasta were flown to the island from a military base in Naples.

Four navy ships ferried food trucks, bulldozers and camping equipment to the disaster zone.

PRESIDENT'S PLANE

In Cattanzaro, a southern Italian town, 152 persons—mostly Sicilians—on trial on charges of belonging to the Mafia, interrupted testimony to give blood for the injured. The stricken area is reputed to be a Mafia stronghold.

Iron County Defies State on Hospital

IRON RIVER (UPI) — The Iron County Board of Supervisors, faced with a cutoff in state funds for the county's Medicare Hospital, has refused to make improvements in the hospital to meet state requirements.

★ ★ ★

The state threatened to stop its flow of funds to the hospital, estimated at $35,000 to $40,000 per month, unless the hospital meets state standards by Feb. 15. The hospital was previously cited for violation of state fire law requirements.

The supervisors voted in June to build a new Medicare hospital but they haven't yet decided whether to hold a public vote on the proposal.

A proposal to make the needed improvements in the present hospital was defeated 12-7 Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

One of the supervisors voting against the proposal said it would be up to the state to find facilities for the 100 patients involved if it withdraws its funds.

She Feels Hurt About 'Friends' Avoiding Visits

By ELIZABETH POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Please advise if I am correct in feeling friendless. I left my job, where I had worked for several years, to be married and to live in another city. My marriage was short — my husband died. I returned to my home town soon afterwards.

I let it be known that I was back and I waited for some of my friends to call or come to visit me. I can count on one hand, with fingers left, the ones that called. Am I right in thinking they were not friends, just people I knew? — Friendless

Dear Friendless: It seems to me that you consider "friends" were not really friends at all. I cannot blame you for feeling hurt, but in order to make a less lonely life for yourself, you must swallow your pride and make a move to renew your old "ties."

A STICKY PROBLEM

Dear Mrs. Post: My son and I are both graduating in June—he from high school, while I will be receiving my master's degree. I would like to have an open house celebrating both occasions. I don't want anyone to bring me any gifts, but I do not want to deprive my son of gifts he would probably receive. How shall I make this known to the guests without appearing to be asking for gifts?—Mrs. H.

Dear Mrs. H.: Graduation presents should only be given to those who are very close to the graduate. Invite family members and closest friends to the party by telephone and explain that you do not want gifts. If they ask about your son, say "That's up to you."

To lesser acquaintances who should not be expected to give a gift to either of you, send more formal invitations with "No gifts, please" written at the bottom.

She Steers Clear of License but Still Heads for Trouble

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What's wrong with one of the smartest women in town who's so convinced that she can't pass the driver's test that she's been driving without a license for ten years?

ABBY

I try to tell her that all she has to do is read the driver's manual, then go take a test, and maybe drive around the block a few times with the examining officer. But she won't believe me.

What can I do? She's a good driver, but I can't persuade her to get a license. A husband can't turn his wife into the police, but I am tempted. SWEN

★ ★ ★

DEAR SWEN: The "smartest woman in town" could be the sorriest, and her husband could be the "brokest" if she were involved in an accident. So if you can't talk some sense into her head, ask your insurance agent (or lawyer) to try.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am a sophomore at a small but friendly junior college and belong to a close sorority where all the sisters are genuinely concerned for each other. Here is my problem:

My boyfriend wants to wait until he is 21, this July, before giving me a ring and officially announcing our engagement. I want so much to become officially engaged before the school year ends because I want to share my happiness with my sorority sisters.

★ ★ ★

Next fall will be too late because many of the girls will have graduated or transferred. My happiness will not really be complete unless I can share it with those who are so close to me.

★ ★ ★

How can I persuade my boyfriend that a few months won't make that much difference, and that we should become engaged before the school year is over? EAGER

★ ★ ★

DEAR EAGER: You probably can't. And if you are wise you won't pressure him. Wait until he is 21 and don't press your luck.

★ ★ ★

Problems? Write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Best Man Wins in This Choice

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — Ken Smith wanted to marry Jennifer Sidwell, but since she was under 21, he needed her guardian's consent.

So he asked himself.

Ken was on a $16.44 a week allowance at college when he was named Jennifer's guardian in her father's will in 1966. She is now 20.

The couple had been courting four years so Jennifer's "yes" as guardian came easily.

Today they announced a March wedding.

Jennifer's comment was: "A fine guardian he made. Fancy telling his ward she could marry a man earning less than seven pounds, $16.80 a week."

HOW TO MAKE A SMALL ROOM LOOK LARGER

There are many ways you can make small rooms look larger. The use of mirrors or an entire mirrored wall is another good way.

Another rule is not to overcrowd a small room. Use as few pieces of furniture as possible and use small dimensioned pieces.

Use a love seat instead of a sofa and the love seat should be lightly scaled and not heavy and overstuffed. Use occasional or armless chairs instead of large lounge chairs and keep the size of everything used in the room smaller in proportion.

Needless to say, never use wallpaper, carpet or upholstery with large patterns in a small room.

A hand painted or wallpaper mural of a landscape or seascape will add third dimensional depth to a room.

Perhaps the most important of all is the final ensemble and arrangement of the furniture you use. We'll be happy to offer you personal suggestions and help you in any way we can. As you may know, we're relatively new in Pontiac. But it's no accident that Coleman's Furniture Mart is already the fastest growing store of fine furniture and appliances in town! We believe that our policy of EXTRA service and personal attention is one of the reasons for our rapid acceptance by homemakers like you.

Every member of our selling staff is trained in the art on Interior Decorating so we're sure that we can be of great help to you in creating and furnishing rooms that will be both beautiful and functional. Stop in and let us prove it. We're at 536 North Perry in Pontiac just across Glenwood from Kmart and we're open every night 'till 9 and Saturday from noon 'till 6 P.M. for your convenience.

Jan. 29—"Woman's Relation to Man" by Gary Broman, Merrill-Palmer Institute, is a provocative look at the relationship between men and women from a man's point of view.

Feb. 5—"Woman in the Home, Executive Homemaker" with Mrs. Marguerite Hague, home economist, and Mrs. Dorothy Thomson, interior decorator, will be a discussion of the many faceted role of a woman in the home and suggestions for imaginative solutions to problems.

Feb. 12—"Profitable Use of Leisure" will be discussed by members of the American Association of Universty Women; Mrs. Mayfoard Roark, volunteer services; Mrs. Charles Huntoon, music; Mrs. Anthony Witt, artist; Mrs. Henry Gilmartin, writer; Mrs. George Mosher Jr., politics; and Mrs. Peter B. Loomis, church.

Feb. 19—"Keeping Up With the Times" by Dr. Owen Morgan, Psychologist — Merrill-Palmer Institute. Dr. Morgan, a leading marriage counselor, will analyze the changing values in our society and their impact on women.

Feb. 26—"The Revolving Stage" will feature women representative of different life situations (single woman, young married, middle life, divorcee and widow) who will discuss the challenges and resources demanded by each stage.

Fee for the course is $10 and registrations should be mailed to Community Services Division, Oakland Community College, 2480 Opdyke Road, Bloomfield Hills, Mich. 48013.

The Ronald Morses of Seeboldt Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Darlene Hope, to David Paul Keith, son of the Raymond Keiths of Manson Street.

Propane Cooking

Newest use for dad's propane torch (which is so safe it is accepted for mailing by the U.S. Post Office) is to brown a meringue, crisp steaks or singe fowl and game.

When cooking spaghetti or macaroni, add one tablespoon cooking oil to prevent boiling over.

Divorced Men Find Living Standard Falls

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles on the divorced man. Author is Jean Sprain Wilson, AP news-feature writer.)

The level of living for the man used to split-level suburbia suddenly slips to substandard because of his lack of money and-or housekeeping skills. Many times home for him becomes a bleak and solitary "efficiency" room.

"On weekends I'd lie and stare at the ceiling, and wallow in self pity as I listened to the sad songs on the radio. I could keep busy the other five days, but from Friday night to Monday I was wasted," said a newspaper advertising salesman.

"My friends told me to snap out of it, and get out and meet somebody, as if that were the easiest thing in the world to do."

With unattached women outnumbering men three to one, it would seem so. With bars and social clubs chattery with the high-pitched voices of females, it seems so very easy. And it is to some who have never really been out of practice at the market places. But the salesman was as embarrassed and as unnerved as a teen-ager on the first date.

"When I took a woman out at first, I was never quite sure what she expected me to do, or how far I was supposed to go. One thing I was sure they wanted. Marriage. They wanted a meal ticket. I was looking for love again," he said.

He was reluctant. Some divorced men are too eager. Lonely, and inept at taking care of themselves, they frequently are driven by a desperate desire to show up a wife by beating her to the altar again.

Of all marriages performed in a year, 20 per cent are remarriages, but the divorce rate among the remarried is twice that for first-marrieds. Though the same old reasons that contributed to the first marriage breakup may be there, haste before the scars have been healed also has been blamed for some of these second unsuccessful tries.

Some social psychologists claim that children, however distressed they are by the breakup of the home, are in the end less damaged by divorce than by the continuance of a bad parent relationship.

But this does little to assuage many fathers who, in assuming the role of the guilty ones, find themselves helplessly buying forgiveness, understanding or affection by turning every visiting period into a party.

"Damn kids and their little black hearts," said a 50-ish TV repairman who has good humor in his voice despite his dark words. "They sense your vulnerabilities and play both parents to take their own advantage."

Said another "Saturday Father" who eventually dropped out of his child's life to let him be adopted by his wife's new husband: "I got so fed up. Always those icy warnings from my ex as to what we were not to do, not to eat, and even not to say. Then little Jimmy always got the third degree when he got home. Maybe Jimmy hates me for deserting him, but I think it's better this way."

The divorced man often experiences a sudden drop in living standard. He could be confronted with a do-it-yourself hot plate, cramped quarters and an emptiness that reminds him daily he is alone.

An early August wedding is planned by Brenda Lee Grimes and Ronald Keith Dagenais. The bride elect is the daughter of Thomas L. Grimes of Ypsilanti Street and the late Mrs. Grimes. Her fiance is the son of Mrs. Rex B. Ransom of Liter Street, Orion Township and the late Louis A. Dagenais.

Youth Show Saturday

A special children's show is scheduled Saturday from 1:30-3 p.m. at the Community House in Birmingham.

Sergeant Sacto, of Channel 50's "Captain Detroit" show, is bringing with him the mischievous Grandpa Sacto as well as some of his young fans' favorite cartoons of Yogi Bear, Quick-Draw McGraw and Huckleberry Hound.

A return engagement of La-Thom the Magician is also on the program.

Seating is limited. Parents are urged to pick up their tickets in advance at The Community House.

Adult chaperones will be in attendance.

Award Winning Pianist, Rudnytsky, Opens OU Concert Series

Award winning pianist Roman Rudnytsky will open Oakland University's winter concert series Monday with a recital at 8:30 p.m. in Wilson Hall. His appearance is made possible through the sponsorship of The Edgar M. Leventritt Foundation of New York.

The New York born artist comes by his talent naturally. His father is a distinguished composer, conductor and pianist and his mother was a noted opera singer who performed under her maiden name, Maria Sokil.

Rudntsky is a graduate of Julliard where he worked on scholarship for five years with Rosina Lhevinne. Among the competitions he has won since 1956 are the Mozarteum, Geneva, and Munich Internationals and the Juilliard Concerto Award.

SEW SIMPLE

When I spoke about bonded fabrics two months ago, I told you that bonded crepes don't always weather the dry cleaning. If I implied that it was the fault of the dry cleaners, I am sorry. The trouble is 100 per cent the fault of the bonding process.

★ ★ ★

There are different qualities of bonding, however, there doesn't seem to be a method that is entirely satisfactory for cleaning as well as washing in the machine. When you purchase bonded fabrics, you are always taking a chance. Perhaps this, too, will be corrected in the near future.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Robert J. Haney, Hopkinsville, Ky., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

"I am an instructor in a shoe plant, and we sew on patent leather and vinyl. These materials have a tendency to make your presser foot stick. Take a small piece of cotton, saturate with oil, and stroke where you intend to stitch. The machine will glide along without any further trouble. Be sure you are careful to wipe the oil off your machine before it stains anything else."

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I recently purchased some fabric that is wrinkle resistant and is made of a synthetic yarn. I didn't think about the fold of the material, and now I can't remove the crease. Any suggestions?

Mrs. R.T.

Dear Mrs. R. T.:

Since most synthetics are crease resistant, the crease that you find at the fold of the fabric is almost impossible to remove. Most of the imported fibrannes (synthetic yarns) are 54 inches wide, you can refold the fabric before you begin. Just fold the selvage edges in to meet at the original fold, it will work with almost every pattern.

This is a good idea when working with light colored fabrics as well since there is often a slightly soiled line at the fold that may show up on your finished garment.

As to the crease that is already there, dampen it on the wrong side with a mild solution of vinegar and water and try pressing it out. This usually works!

Pistol Packin' Gals Invade Gun Class

DEARBORN (UPI) — About 190 of this city's wives and mothers are working to become as adept with pistols as they are with pots and pans.

The women are taking a three session course on the use of hand guns. The course is sponsored by the Dearborn Recreation Department.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman for the department said the course grew out of the Detroit riots last summer. At the time Dearborn Mayor Orville Hubbard urged his residents to "take up arms" and "shoot straight and deadly" in self defense. Dearborn is an all white suburb bordering on Detroit.

★ ★ ★

"We're offering this course because there's a demand for it," the recreation department spokesman said. "If enough people ask for something we try to provide it within the scope of our budget and facilties."

EXPERT TEACHERS

The women are tutored in the use of guns at the Dearborn Police Department shooting range by Lisa Rozner, a National Rifle Association pistol instructor.

They are using handguns only, "anything from .22 snub nose revolvers to .38 calibre specials," the department spokesman said.

He said they must supply their own weapons. The women are told the guns must be registered but the recreation department doesn't verify the registration.

★ ★ ★

Those participating in the course take it seriously, the spokesman said. They are taught gun safety, how to hold a handgun, carry it, store it and shoot it, he added.

Besides the 190 currently participating in the course, at least another 140 women are on a waiting list, he said.

The recreation department man said there is nothing to charges from some quarters that the proliferation of guns could lead to vigilante rule.

"I doubt that vigilante rule could develop from a course such as this," he said.

Floral Creations, Program Theme

"The Art of Making Florentine Flowers" was the subject of a recent talk by Mrs. Harold Hughes at the Waterford branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association meeting.

Shakespeare Is on Agenda of Great Books Group

"Richard II" by William Shakespeare is the topic for discussion planned by members of the Waterford Great Books Club which meets Friday.

★ ★ ★

Percy Lowery of Clarkston will lead the program with Wilbur Ott giving a presentation on the historical facts concerning Richard's predecessors and successors.

★ ★ ★

The event, which takes place at the CAI Building at 8 p.m. is open to all who wish to attend.

Business Women Hear Speaker Tell Kidney Foundation Aims

By JANET ODELL

The Pontiac Business and Professional Women made a contribution to the Michigan Kidney Foundation at their meeting Tuesday evening in Devon Gables.

★ ★ ★

Main speaker for the evening was Jack Adams, field representative of the National Kidney Foundation which has state headquarters in Ann Arbor.

This Foundation was started 12 years ago by six young couples who had children with Nephrosis, a childhood kidney disease.

At that time, such children had only a 50-50 chance to live Now, thanks to new drugs, they have a 90-10 chance of survival.

But many parents can't afford the drugs, which are costly. The Foundation has set up 14 drug banks throughout the state to supply medicine at minimum cost to over 600 children.

This is only a small part of what the Foundation does. Fifty per cent of its funds go into research; 25 per cent is used for education; and the other 25 per cent goes to direct patient services.

But no amount of money is enough at present to supply help to all who need it.

There are only five artificial kidney machines in the entire state. Individual home machines are available, but patients and their families need training to run them and the cost of supplies and tests is about $5,000 a year.

FUTURE HELP

Soon to be in operation at Wayne Country General Hospital in Eloise will be a training program for new outpatients.

The Foundation is buying $35,000 worth of equipment, after which the hospital will be able to train 36 new patients a year. The hospital is furnishing free space and training personnel.

Kidney transplants are done only at the University of Michigan Hospital and Henry Ford Hospital. Michigan has the only kidney donor bank in the nation.

Anyone interested may sign a statement, saying he wishes his kidneys immediately taken from his body after death and given to someone who is waiting for a transplant.

★ ★ ★

Adams told of one woman, born with four kidneys who wants to give away two. Another woman who had a transplant plans to donate her transplanted organ to the kidney bank.

The Michigan Kidney Foundation is a member organization of the Michigan United Fund a the United Foundation of Detroit.

Guests at Tuesday's meeting were Mrs. Jack Adams, Mrs. Carl Bird, Lillian Davidson, Joy Mitchell and Mrs. C. J. Odell.

Teen-agers in the United States spent $18 billion in 1966. and the Youth Research Institute figures that by 1970, they'll be spending $30 billion.

Jack Adams Will Speak

Jack Adams of the Michigan Kidney Foundation will be the guest speaker tonight when members of the Oakland County Osteopathic Auxiliary join their husbands for cocktails and dinner in the Holiday Inn at 6 p.m.

A representative of Blue Shield will also attend and will answer questions concerning Blue Shield and Medicare.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

This is the ninth and last day of my Eight Week Beauty Plan. From now on I will use one day a week for the next six weeks to help you on your way to a loss of from 15 to 20 pounds in eight weeks.

Keep remembering that in just eight weeks you can feel and look like a different person. Eight weeks will pass before you know it!

Those of you who have been following my Beauty Improvement Plan (Bip for short) have weighed and measured and decided on your goals. You have had several sample daily menus and learned how to plan your reducing diet.

You have been given exercises and directions about complexion care. I judge that you are counting calories and exercising and are well launched on this program.

SPECIAL ATTENTION

Yesterday, I urged you to give your skin special attention during the next eight weeks. Do the same for your hair. In just eight weeks of diet and exercise and some local first-aid you will see great improvement in the condition of your tresses.

We all know what a terrific difference hair can make in a woman's appearance. Daily scalp massage is beautifying because it stirs up circulation in that area. This is the correct technique. Spread your fingers on your scalp. Hold the fingers in place while you rotate your hands. Keep changing the position of the hands until you have covered your entire scalp.

If your hair is very dry give yourself a hot oil treatment at least once a week, or use one of the excellent conditioners for dry hair. Also, use cream shampoos and rinses.

YOUR HAIR

If your scalp and hair are very oily do not be afraid to shampoo frequently, even several times a week if necessary. There are also corrective products available for the oily scalp. A vinegar rinse will help cut the oil and the soap.

You will find that both your hair and complexion will benefit by my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan but local aid is also beneficial.

It's not too late to join my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan. Just send for my Bip Kit which gives you detailed instructions, a calorie chart, height and weight chart, special exercises, reducing menus for 15 days, and a unique wall chart on which you plot your weight daily and watch your beauty line rise as your weight line falls.

If you have missed some of this series or would like to have the kit for reference send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling, and your printed name and address with your request to Josephone Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Barbershop Singers to Mark Anniversary With a Special Show

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

Those once-a-week washes were poured in the barbershop during granddad's time. The local shavers' shop became the hangout where the men sang during their Saturday night scrub.

That's why O. C. Cash called his little club The Society for the Preservation and Propagation of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America when advertising the first meeting in 1938.

Saturday, the Pontiac chapter of that club is presenting a special show, The Silver Showboat, honoring its 25th anniversary.

The 8:15 p.m. show at Pontiac Northern High School Auditorium headlines two local quartets, the Harmony Knights and the Resonaires and a local barbershop chorus, The Merry Motor Men.

★ ★ ★

Others singing include the society's international champions, the Four Statesmen and the Chicago Midnight Oilers, recently returned from entertaining troops in Vietnam.

The Pontiac chapter was organized in 1939 at a cottage in Lake Orion by a mumber of area persons who had belonged to the Detroit chapter.

The International Society, which now calls for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Singing in America, registers some 30,000 members. Most chapters have both quartets and choruses, as the Merry Motor Men in the Pontiac Chapter.

★ ★ ★

The Silver Showboat is being produced by William Pacher, the only remaining charter member of the chapter. The Merry Men are codirected by Pascher and Rawly Hallman.

Ford Research Car Has a Gold-Plated Steering Wheel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. demonstrated Wednesday an automobile with a gold-plated steering wheel—all in the interest of highway safety research.

★ ★ ★

Officials said the vehicle may some day help improve driver-licensing, rate drivers faster and more efficiently, and provide more detailed information on the effects of alcohol, drugs, jammed beneath the dashboard fatigue and illness on driver-performance.

★ ★ ★

They indicated that the gold-plated wheel is a means of measuring a driver's heart-beat under normal and stressful driving conditions.

They told newsmen the gold-plated wheel is a relatively minor part of the $18,500 cost of electronic and other gear and in the trunk of the research car.

MERCURY CONVERTIBLE

Added to that, you'd have the cost of a conventional Mercury convertible in which all this gear is housed.

Gold plating was chosen because it is a good conductor of electricity—in this case the tiny electrical impulses of heart beats transmitted through a driver's hands to the wheel, and rate of a person sitting in it—thence to tape-recording equipment within the car.

Fletcher N. Pratt, manager of Ford's traffic safety and highway improvement department, described the driver's seat as a special "medical monitor chair" developed by the Philco-Ford Corp. western laboratories in Palo Alto, Calif. It enables measurements of heartbeat and breathing through his skin alone, without need for any attached electrodes or other devices.

TAPE RECORDER

The chair, and allied sensoring devices, are connected to a 20-channel magnetic tape recorder in the car's trunk—for later analysis by computer. The equipment also records the motions of the car on the road, and relates this to the driver's physiological reactions.

Platt said research at the University of Michigan suggested that a driver's mechanical reactions are related to stress.

"Now," he said, "we can measure that relationship and see what happens to a driver's emotions as measured by an increase in pulse rate.

"And some day, this kind of information may go a long way toward taking most of the guesswork out of licensing and rating drivers. We are experimenting with new techniques for rating different kinds of highways and surface roads as well."

A new glass has been developed that is five times stronger than ordinary window glass and may reduce breakage by 75 per cent.

Blizzards Kill 18 in Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Blizzards that paralyzed Jordan the past three days took 18 lives, all refugees of the June Mideast war.

★ ★ ★

The subsequent thaw brought danger of flooding. The Jordan river was overflowing at several places, and persons living along the banks of the Asseil, which flows through Amman, were warned to leave their homes.

State of the Union Message Draws Praise, Disappointment

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — Big city mayors expressed both praise and disappointment in initial reaction to President Johnson's call for a modest step-up in existing federal programs to meet the nation's urban problems.

Johnson's State of the Union message last night contained no new programs to deal with the ghettos, but called instead for accelerated action on four existing ones — job training, model cities, low income housing and the war on poverty.

John V. Lindsay, Republican mayor of New York, and Carl B. Stokes, Negro Democratic mayor of Cleveland, said they welcomed the prospect of more help in those fields but were disappointed the President did not go farther in his proposals to Congress.

Lindsay said that "while there were some praiseworthy items" among the proposals, "in the setting of priorities, the major urban cities came close to being left out."

Stokes said he was "quite enthusiastic" about Johnson's proposed increase in manpower training funds and step-up in housing, but the total urban program was "still not sufficient."

The Detroit mayor, a Democrat like Johnson, said last night it was especially courageous of the President to make some of the proposals "in light of the obvious attitude of Congress and the nation on our position on many of these programs."

Cavanagh mentioned model cities, housing, work training and jobs for the hard-core unemployed as politically neutral some proposals advocated by Johnson.

In Washington, U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., said the "the most important fact in it was the proposal for increased spending by the President is a very great need in this community and throughout the nation."

Cavanagh also approved of Vietnam veterans in the fire and police services of cities around the nation.

In Washington, U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., said the President's message was aimed at "pacifying the questioning Democratic National Committeeman Neil Staebler said again that no one has a better understanding of the nation's problems than he."

"But," added Griffin, "It was neither inspiring nor surprising. "A restless America went to bed tonight still asking the same questions. The President reportedly proceeded to wash his hands of responsibility.

"The State of the Union message, I agree," said Democratic Gov. George Romney over, takes your pulse, and looks at the scribes.

"The President found the country uneasy and full of troubles, but none of them beyond the capacity to meet with determination and persistence."

AP Photo

CALLING THE SQUARE — Square dancing, once considered a hillbilly form of entertainment, now boasts six million devotees in the United States alone. Working to introduce modern techniques and give the activity a face-lifting is 31-year-old Larry Ward, shown calling a typical square dance. Ward, a professional choreographer in California, has established the largest private square dancing club in the world with 3,300 members.

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Square dancing is no longer for the squares. A California choreographer is teaching adults that the traditional Western favorite still can be fun — and healthy. Larry Ward, a full-time caller, has put square dancing on a commercial basis and is swinging with 3,300 partners in his private statewide club.)

By RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The tarnished image of the square dancer — as a noisy, stomping hillbilly — is getting a drastic polish job in California at the hands of a professional choreographer.

Larry Ward, 31, who numbers 14 millionaires among the 3,300 upper-income followers of his modernized teaching, has rocketed to a modest fame here by reshaping the square dance for adults.

"Many responsible people are rebelling against having their entertainment — movies, television, even music — dictated by sex-and-crime-obsessed youth," says Ward. "They want something that is wholesome and neighborly, and at the same time fun. They are finding they can get it in square dancing, with people of their own age and social levels.

"Another thing professional and business people need in this era of soft living is healthy exercise, and they get that, too. Few realize it, but they dance about 2½ miles a night and enjoy it."

LARGEST CLUB

Ward is a professional dancer and instructor — his cotillion classes once numbered 13,000 youngsters — who started teaching square dancing on a mass scale to adults four years ago. He formed what he says has since become the largest private square dancing club in the world, the B Sharps, with chapters in San Francisco, Sacramento, Los Angeles, San Diego and Yucaipa, near the wealthy desert resort of Palm Springs.

★ ★ ★

Ward believes that it is something dancers call "styling" which is responsible for the spread of square dancing to a new segment of the population.

"Let's face it," he said in an interview, "the old hillbilly image was not attractive and undoubtedly was a factor in the decline of square dancing during the past decade. But square dancing can and should be as graceful as ballroom dancing — which it once was.

"By introducing modern techniques, we find we are drawing an increasing number of doctors, lawyers, aerospace and movie executives—even the dean of a large university."

★ ★ ★

Ward believes square dancing, which now boasts six million devotees in this country, will gain even wider popularity as medical advances widen the span of active years for adults — especially if it is tailored to the mature personality. This calls for smoothness and poise, precision and discipline, and in a Ward-choreographed dance frequently translates into something resembling a ballet.

★ ★ ★

Ward is a far cry from the traditional square-dance caller, the gallused rube who shouts 'do sa do" with the finesse of a farmer summoning pigs to dinner. Ward is a showman, an entertainer who never forgets he is "on stage" — and that he is being paid well to be there.

★ ★ ★

Many callers are moonlighters, inept but glad to get the $25 to $35 a night small clubs pay for their services. Ward is a full-time caller, and he has found a way to boost his earnings to $100 or more a session.

★ ★ ★

Instead of hiring out for a fixed fee, he personally organizes everything: he sets up clubs, arranges for halls, caters refreshments — and charges admission.

"My club members like it," he says. "It relieves them of administrative chores so they can spend more time dancing. I like it too — it has put square dancing on a commercial basis."

Ward, a bachelor, flies from city to city, instructing or calling every night. He estimates that in the course of a month he will see each of the 3,300 persons in the organization at least once.

NANCY STEPHENSON

Mott Student Is Waterford Teen of Week

A 15-year-old Waterford Mott High School sophomore has been selected as Waterford Township Teen of the Week.

Gaining the honor is Nancy Stephenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stephenson of 2375 Fairbanks, Waterford Township.

An A and B student at the school, Nancy is a member of the student council. Earlier this school year, she served as temporary recording recretary of the council.

Nancy plans to attend a liberal arts college after finishing high school.

Outside of school, she has many hobbies, including painting, drawing and skiing.

According to the school staff, Nancy believes that if a person is more concerned about others than himself, he will have the respect and consideration that can make his own life more enjoyable and meaningful.

Urban League Enlarges Staff

New Man Has Social Worker Experience

A full-time staff member with extensive experience in social work has been added to the staff of the Pontiac Area Urban League, executive Director Clarence Barnes reports.

WILLIAMS

Matthew J. Williams, 33, a graduate of Albama State College, Montgomery, Ala., will complete work toward a master's degree in Michigan. He attended Hunter College, New York for postgraduate work.

Williams, married and the father of four, served in the Air Force in 1952-56.

He has been employed by the Frederick A. Moran Institute of Delinquency and Crime in New York City, the New York City Youth Board, the Youth Hostel for Boys, and as a youth parole officer for the New York State Department of Welfare.

He also was a schoolteacher.

Another recent addition, Barnes said, is Alex Shorter, who is working full-time on the staff to replace a staff member who is on leave of absence.

EMU GRADUATE

Shroter, a graduate of Pontac Central, holds a bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University.

Barnes said the league is also utilizing the services of Willefred Wilson, graduate student in the school of social science at the University of Michigan.

Wilson, 28, is employed by the league two days a week as part of the graduate school program leading to a master's degree in social work.

Air Crash Kills 12 Navy Men

MATSUYAMA, Japan (UPI)—The entire 12-man crew of a U.S. Navy patrol plane perished in a crash during a snowstorm on Shikoku Island, the Navy said yesterday.

Two teams of U.S. Air Force para-medics parachuted into the snow-covered forest where the plane crashed to look for survivors. The Navy said the bodies of the 12 crewmen were found near the plane's wreckage.

of the 1968 Union/Pure Oil Performance Trials.

Since everyone seems to be announcing the winners...

Class IV: Among the losers were Chevrolet Biscayne, American Ambassador, Chevrolet Impala, Plymouth Fury I and Plymouth Fury III. (Ford Custom won and Ford Galaxie 500 was second.)

Class IX: Among the losers were Chevrolet Camaro, Plymouth Barracuda, Pontiac Firebird and Javelin. (Mustang won.)

Class VI: Among the losers were Buick Special Deluxe, Dodge Coronet, Olds F-85, Pontiac Tempest, Plymouth Belvedere, American Rebel—and Ford Fairlane. (Yes, Fairlane. It missed being overall winner by half a point. Still, it was the only car to place first in two out of three events.)

Ford Motor Company won more classes than all other car makers combined in the 1968 Union/Pure Oil Performance Trials just completed at Riverside International Raceway, California. NASCAR supervised the trials and determined winners on the basis of points scored in economy, acceleration and braking. If superiority in economy, acceleration and braking are among the qualities you want in a car, see the Better Idea cars from Ford.

U.S. Is Taking Mess Out of the Mess Hall

By JERRY T. BAULCH
AP Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON — If you're a GI, or have been one in the past couple of decades, you'll never forget those metal and plastic mess hall trays with compartments designed — it's said — to keep the gravy out of your pudding.

BAULCH

Well, they're on the way out. It's part of a Defense Department directive sprucing up military mess halls starting this year. GIs will eat off real plates, just like civilians.

"Dining facilities will be designed and applied to assure a pleasant dining environment," says the directive. "The decor will be consistent with that found in first-class commercial cafeteria dining establishments."

This includes giving a neater look to the man behind the counter. The directive says "Food service personnel engaged in the preparation and serving of foods will be neatly attired in appropriate food service uniforms."

But the Army, Navy and Air Force Times may have been a bit too optimistic in commenting the new order "may even end the practice of putting gravy on top of the ice cream."

And for guys and gals who are watching their waistlines, there's a bit of help, too. Short order lines are being set up for anybody who wants just a snack.

On some posts, where there are many small messes, they'll be consolidated into larger ones. And as part of the move to standardize food service in the military — such as unified menus — the food school may be turned over to one service.

Incidentally, butter may take over from oleomargarine on Army and Air Force tables in April. It was banished by the defense Department last March because of the price. The Navy didn't get in on the economy because a special law requires it to serve butter.

Congressional Outlook

Congress, in returning to work, has on hand several bills affecting military personnel and veterans. Some passed the Senate only and some the House, and since a bill has to pass both to become law they didn't quite make it.

Other bills will be introduced too, but it doesn't look like 1968 will produce the pile of major laws in this area as 1967 did.

One new proposal will be by Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., for the government to set up an ombudsman — that's a Swedish version of people's trouble shooter — to investigate complaints about the military draft law and its administration.

Boosts GI Morale in Viet

Weathergirl Fills Role in War

(EDITOR'S NOTE -- Bobbie Oberhansly, a curvy blonde from Tacoma, Wash., is boosting GI morale in Vietnam with her nightly weather report over Armed Forces Television. Military interest in the weather has perked up considerably since Bobbie, 23, put on a miniskirt and well-filled sweater—36-24-36 --to add a feminine flavor to forecasting.)

By JOHN LENGEL

SAIGON (AP) — Somehow, in the massive buildup of men and the equipment of war, they've happily found room for that fond American institution: the weather girl.

She's Bobbie Oberhansly, 23, Red Cross girl, pert blonde, and confessed do-gooder who once had to convince her sewing class at a girl's reform school that she was not an undercover social worker.

★ ★ ★

It's from Bobbie that GIs watching her television show in the searing heat of the delta learn: "In Denver today it was 30 degrees and clou-ou-dy."

Smacking at mosquitoes and pulling on warm sodas, GIs on the Cambodian frontier are told, "Intense snow still threatens the Midwest and there are storms along the West Co-o-oast."

R-AND-R FORECAST

Her five minutes each weekday night on Armed Forces Television also covers the weather in Vietnam and rest-and-recreation spas throughout Asia. These are cued with a sonorous announcer's voice saying, "Let R-and-R open the door to excitement."

Then it's "Bobbie, saying good night to all of you, and especially to the Headquarters Battalion of the 199th" — the night's special unit. There's a big smile, a fade on the screen. That's all.

But there is more to it than just five minutes of weather, and Bobbie's boss, Lt. Col. Arthur Jones, Alexandria, Va., puts it this way: "You don't see many girls like Bobbie here. She helps morale. She could stand in front of the camera and read the telephone book. When she smiles into the camera . . .

"Sure, people are interested in the weather. But if we put a corporal or sergeant up there, interest in this show would drop to zilch."

"The letters say I never project a sexy image. I seem to remind everyone of the girl next door. They see something of their little sister in me. They think I'm a prude, which couldn't be further from the truth."

One letter came from the wife of an airman who works in the control tower at Tan Son Nhut air base. The fellows in the tower had "adopted" Bobbie. Apprehensively, the woman asked Bobbie to remind her husband that his wife and children still loved him very much.

Other letters have camera tips and advice on what to wear. "I used to wear big, cool, tent-like dresses. Now I wear this for the show," she said indicating sandals, and a miniskirt and sweater which assiduously followed every considerable curve — 36-24-36.

TERRIFIC FRUG

Bobbie — a nickname for Barbara — was raised in Tacoma, Wash. She attended Brigham Young University for one year and worked as a secretary in San Francisco, picking up skin diving and a terrific frug.

Bobbie came to Vietnam 11 months ago.

"The men here bend over backwards. They turn into real gentlemen. In the States it seems like they'll never open a door for you. I enjoy being a girl here."

OEO Unit Asks Grant of $100,000

MONROE (AP) — Monroe County Economic Opportunity Inc., is seeking a $100,000 grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity to begin a year-round Head Start program.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. David Finck, local OEO director, said approximately 350 underprivileged preschool children participated in Monroe County's summer Head Start program last year.

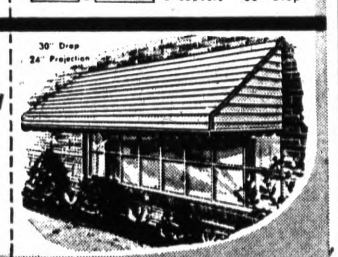

The children attended sessions at a camp which is used a few weeks during the summer by the Monroe County chapter of the Michigan Society of Crippled Children and Adults. Local OEO officials want to extend the Head Start program to a year-round basis, using the camp.

'Revenge' Ambush by U.S. Claims Head of Cong Battalion

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. paratroopers lying in ambush along a trail killed a Vietcong battalion commander from a regiment which overran a South Vietnamese district town two weeks ago, U.S. headquarters announced today.

The ambush was one of five clashes Wednesday, scattered from below Saigon to the Demilitarized Zone, in which U.S. forces reported killing 119 Communist soldiers at a cost of seven Americans killed and 29 wounded.

A U.S. communique termed the paratroopers' ambush "vengeance on the Dong Hai Regiment which attacked the district town of Tan Uyen in the early morning hours of 6 January."

An ambush squad from the 187th Airborne Infantry, which arrived in South Vietnam last month, caught Lam Hiep, 28-year-old commander of the Dong Hai Regiment's D800 Battalion and two other Viet Cong on a trail 25 miles north of Saigon, a U.S. spokesman said.

ONE YANK KILLED

The paratroopers killed Hiep and another Vietcong, but the third man apparently escaped. In an exchange of fire, one American was killed and one wounded.

A pouch full of documents, a Russian pistol, a map and a compass were found on Hiep's body. The documents disclosed his identity and showed he had commanded the battalion since April 1966 at least.

One letter to Hiep, believed to have come from the executive officer of the Dong Hai Regiment, said 23 Vietcong were killed and 18 wounded in the attack on Tan Uyen. The Vietcong held the town 23 miles north of Saigon for five hours, and allied forces reported finding 19 Vietcong bodies and taking two prisoners.

The Vietcong troops attacked the Tan Yen district headquarters, a South Vietnamese Army regimental headquarters and the town itself. They were unable to penetrate the headquarters compounds, but in the town they burned 11 housing units where 110 families of South Vietnamese soldiers lived, damaged the schoolhouse, shot up the police station, and blew up the new marketplace.

SUFFOCATED IN BUNKER

Eight soldiers and six civilians were killed, including a woman and two children who suffocated in a bunker underneath their burning living quarters, while 35 soldiers and 11 civilians were wounded.

Lam Hiep's rank was not reported, but he probably was a major. Last month U.S. troops killed a North Vietnamese regimental commander in the Que Son Valley 35 miles south of Da Nang.

★ ★ ★

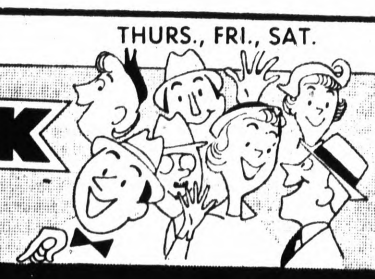

Fifteen miles to the north of the ambush site, two other new paratrooper units were accidentally hit by two rounds of 105mm artillery fire by an American battery. Two paratroopers were killed and 21 wounded.

West Puts His Mind to It

Russians Creating 'ESP Gap'

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As if we didn't have enough to worry about already, there has now developed an "ESP gap."

WEST

This alarming bit of news comes from Clyde Kreskin, who identifies himself as founder of the ESP Institute of Research.

Kreskin, by the way, only uses one name. Maybe he has a good reason for that, but it seems awkward to me. So I have taken the liberty of calling him Clyde. I hope he won't mind.

According to Kreskin, the Soviet Union has forged far ahead of the United States in the practical application of extrasensory perception (ESP).

SPY TRAINING

"The Russians are also training their spies to use ESP to pass secrets to each other and thus avoid the risks of open exchanges," he says.

We want the U.S. government to start financing ESP research programs before it is too late. I suppose the money would be raised by a federal telepathy tax or something of the sort.

Unfortunately, Kreskin does not say where he got his information. Presumably he picked it up over the ESP grapevine. But if the Soviets are indeed engaging in ESP espionage, something should be done to counter it.

Closing my eyes and pressing my thumbs to my temples, I began to concentrate on the word "President," hoping my brain waves would be strong enough to make contact. They did.

In a flash, I was in telepathic contact with Ronald Reagan, Richard Nixon, Nelson Rockefeller, George Romney, Harold Stassen, Charles Percy, George Wallace, Eugene McCarthy, Bobby Kennedy and John Lindsay.

★ ★ ★

After they hung up, I tried again. The connection was bad, but this time I think the party I contacted was either Barry Goldwater, Tom Dewey or Alf Landon.

In the light of this experience, I'm recommending that Kreskin try to reach the President by Western Union. ESP apparently doesn't work too well in an election year.

Phone Bill Forces Man to Sell Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — James Young is selling his home to pay off a $4,509.81 telephone bill that he says his daughter and her Alaska-based husband ran up in just 38 days last spring.

"I'm doing my best to hold on to my sense of humor," Young said this week after revealing that he and his wife will move into an apartment from the $27,500 home they have owned 13 years.

Young, 42, a security officer at San Fernando Veterans Administration Hospital, said his daughter, Collene, 19, and her 15-month-old baby stayed with him while her husband, Lynn Wade Cross, 20, was with the Navy at Adak, Alaska.

"They made 95 telephone calls between the end of April and the end of May, between billing dates," Young said. One lasted 90 minutes, he added.

'UNAWARE OF CALLS'

He said he and his wife, Carol, 38, were "totally unaware" of the calls. "When the bill came in around June 1, I put a big chain and a $30 padlock on the phone," he said.

He said some of the calls were made collect from Adak and some originated from his home. He said most were made during the day when he and his wife were at work and his sons, 17 and 13, were in school.

★ ★ ★

General Telephone Co. of California now has a lien against Young's home. A spokesman for the firm said responsibility for such calls lies with the person in whose name the telephone is installed.

Young said his daughter paid $270.90 of the bill, but then moved with her husband to Corpus Christi, Tex. He said he has not heard from the couple since.

★ ★ ★

Youth Wins Delay in Army Training

LANSING (UPI) — A Flint area youth has won a brief skirmish with the military by receiving a deferment from basic Army training until he graduates from high school this spring.

★ ★ ★

Mark Taylor, 18, of New Lothrop appealed to Vice President Hubert Humphrey, Gov. George Romney and National Guard officials to postpone his Jan. 23 starting date of basic training until he completed school.

★ ★ ★

Maj. Gen. Clarence Schnipke, head of the Michigan Department of Military Affairs, ordered the delay.

Heart Attacks Kill 17 in Detroit Area

DETROIT (AP) — Seventeen persons have died of heart attacks in the Detroit area since the city was blanketed with snow last weekend.

All but one of the deaths came while the victims were shoveling snow. The other victim was a 69-year-old man who collapsed as he was pushing an automobile.

Complete Text of President Johnson's . . .

Mr. Speaker, Mr. President, members of the Congress, my fellow Americans:

★ ★ ★

I was thinking, as I was walking down the aisle here tonight, of what Sam Rayburn told me many years ago. The Congress always extends a very warm welcome to the President, as he comes in.

I have come once again to this chamber—the hall of our democracy—to give you, as the constitution requires, information of the state of the union.

A Challenge

I report to you that our country is challenged at home and abroad:

● That it is our will that is being tried not our strength; our sense of purpose not our ability to achieve a better America;

● That we have the strength to meet our every challenge, the physical strength to hold the cause of decency and compassion at home; the moral strength to support the cause of peace in the world.

★ ★ ★

And I report to you that I believe, with abiding conviction, that this people—nurtured by their deep faith, tutored by their hard lessons, moved by their high aspirations—have the will to meet the trials these times impose.

Vietnam Progress

Since I reported to you last January, three elections have been held in Vietnam in the midst of war and under the constant threat of violence.

● A President, Vice President, a House and Senate, and village officials have been chosen by popular, contested ballot.

● The enemy has been defeated in battle after battle;

● The number of South Vietnamese living in areas under government protection has grown by more than a million since January of last year.

★ ★ ★

These are marks of progress. Yet:

● The enemy continues to pour men and material across frontiers and into battle, despite his very heavy losses.

● He continues to hope that America's will to persevere can be broken. He is wrong. America will persevere. Our patience and our perseverance will never match our power. Aggression will prevail.

PEACE IS GOAL

But our goal is peace—and peace at the earliest possible moment.

Right now we are exploring the meaning of Hanoi's recent statement. There is no mystery about the questions which must be answered before the bombing is stopped.

We believe that any talks should follow the San Antonio formula stated last September, which said:

● The bombing would stop if talks would take place promptly and with reasonable hopes they would be productive.

● And the other side must not take advantage of our restraint as they have in the past. This nation simply cannot accept anything less without jeapordizing the lives of our men and our allies.

REPORT PROMISED

If a basis for peace talks can be established on the San Antonio foundations—and it is my hope and my prayer that they can—we would consult with our allies and with the other side to see if a complete cessation of hostilities—a really true cease-fire—could be made the first order of business. I will report at the earliest possible moment the results of these explorations.

I have just recently returned from very productive talks with His Holiness the Pope and I share his hope, expressed only today, that both sides will extend themselves in an effort to bring about an end to the war in Vietnam. I have assured him that we and our allies will do our full part to bring this about.

International

Since I spoke to you last January, other events have occurred that have major consequences for world peace.

The Kennedy Round achieved the greatest reduction in tariff barriers in all the history of trade negotiations.

SPIRIT IN AFRICA

In Africa the spirit of regional cooperation is beginning to take hold in practical ways.

These events we welcomed. Yet since I last reported to you, we and the world have been confronted by a number of crises:

★ ★ ★

During the Arab-Israeli war last June, the hot line between Washington and Moscow was used for the first time in history. A cease-fire was achieved without a major power confrontation.

Now the nations of the Middle East have the opportunity—and the responsibility—to find the terms of living together in stable peace and dignity, and we shall do all in our power to help them achieve that result.

CONFLICT IN CYPRUS

Not far from this scene of conflict, a crisis flared on Cyprus—involving two peoples who are America's friends: Greece and Turkey. Our representative, Cyrus Vance, and others helped to ease this tension.

★ ★ ★

Turmoil continues on the mainland of China after a year of violent disruption. The radical extremism of their government has isolated the Chinese people behind their borders. The United States, however, remains willing to permit the travel of journalists to both our countries; to undertake cultural and educational exchanges; and to talk about the exchange of basic food crop materials.

U. S. and Soviets

Since I spoke to you last, the United States and the Soviet Union have taken several important steps toward the goal of international cooperation.

I met at length with Chairman Kosygin—achieving, if not accord, at least a clearer understanding of our respective positions.

★ ★ ★

Because we believe the nuclear danger must be narrowed, we have worked with the Soviet Union and other nations to reach an agreement that will halt the spread of nuclear weapons. On the basis of communications from Ambassador Fisher in Geneva today, I am encouraged to believe that a draft treaty can be laid before the conference there in the near future. Therefore, I hope to be able to present that treaty to the Senate this year for its approval.

CONSULAR TREATY

We achieved, in 1967, a consular treaty with the Soviets, the first commercial air agreement between our two countries, and a treaty banning weapons in outer space. We shall sign, and submit to the Senate shortly, a new treaty for the protection of astronauts.

★ ★ ★

Serious differences remain between us, yet in these relations, we have made some progress since Vienna, the Berlin Wall and the Cuban missile crisis.

Defense

Despite this progress, we must maintain a military force capable of deterring any threat to our Nation's security, whatever the mode of aggression. Our choices must not be confined to total war—or total acquiescence.

We have such a military force today. We shall maintain it.

I wish—with all my heart—that the expenditures necessary to build and protect our power—could all be devoted to the programs of peace. But until world conditions permit, and until peace is assured, America's might—and America's bravest sons who wear our nation's uniform—must continue to stand guard for all of us—as they gallantly do tonight in Vietnam and other places

Yet neither great weapons, nor individual courage, can provide the conditions of peace.

A COMMITMENT

For two decades America has committed itself against the tyranny of want and ignorance that threatens the peace. We shall sustain that commitment.

This year I shall propose that we launch, with other nations, an exploration of the ocean depths to tap its wealth, energy, and abundance.

That we contribute our fair share to a major expansion of the international development association, and to increase the resources of the Asian Development Bank.

That we adopt a prudent aid program; rooted in the principle of self-help.

FOOD FOR FREEDOM

That we renew and extend the Food for Freedom program.

But unless the rapid growth of population in developing countries is slowed, the gap between rich and poor will widen steadily.

Government in the developing countries must take such facts into account. We are prepared to assist them in their efforts.

But we must also improve the lives of children already born in the villages, towns, and cities on this earth. They can be taught by great teachers through the miracle of satellite television—and we shall bring to bear every resource of mind and technology to make this dream come true.

Here at Home

Let me speak now of matters here at home.

Tonight our nation is accomplishing more for its people than has ever been accomplished before. Americans are prosperous as men have never been in recorded history. Yet there is in the land a certain restlessness—a questioning.

The total of our nation's annual production is now above $800 billion. For 83 months this nation has been on a steady upward trend of growth.

★ ★ ★

All about them, most Americans can see the evidence of growing abundance. Higher pay checks; humming factories; new cars moving down new highways. More and more families own their own homes, equipped with more than 70 million television sets.

A new college is founded every week. Today more than half of the high school graduates go on to college.

WHY RESTLESSNESS?

Why, then, this restlessness?

We ask now, not how can we achieve abundance but how shall we use our abundance? Not, is there abundance enough for all but, how can all share in our abundance?

While we have accomplished much, much remains for us to meet and to master.

In some areas, the jobless rate is still three or four times the nation average.

FACE OF VIOLENCE

Crime increases on our streets.

Income for farm workers remains far behind that for urban workers; and parity for farmers is still just a hope—not an achievement.

★ ★ ★

New housing construction is far less than we need—to assure decent shelter for every family.

Hospital and medical costs are high, and rising.

Many rivers—and the air in many cities—remain badly polluted.

We lived with conditions like these for many years. Much that we once accepted as inevitable, we now find intolerable.

In our cities last summer, we saw how wide is the gulf for some Americens between the promise and the reality of our society.

We cannot change all of this in a day. It represents the bitter consequences of more than three centuries.

The issue is not whether we can change this; the issue is whether we will change this.

★ ★ ★

I know we can. I believe we will.

This then is the work we should do in the months ahead.

The first essential is more jobs; useful jobs for tens of thousands who can become productive citizens and pay their own way.

Our economy has created seven and a half million new jobs in the past four years. It is adding more than a million and a half new jobs this year.

JOB TRAINING

Through programs passed by the congress, job training is now being given to more than a million Americans.

And when we do that, you will find that it is the best investment we ever made, because we will get these diseases in their infancy, and we will find a cure in a great many instances that we can never find by overcrowding our hospitals when they are grown.

This year, we must get to those who are last in line—the hard-core unemployed—the hardest to reach.

Employment officials estimate that 500,000 of these persons are now unemployed in our major cities. Our objective is to place these 500,000 in private industry jobs within the next three years.

To do this, we propose a $2.1 billion manpower program in the coming fiscal year—a 25 percent increase over the current year. Most of the increase will be used to start a new partnership between government and private industry to train and hire the hard-core unemployed. I know of no task before us of more importance for our future.

CITY REBUILDING

Another essential—we must rebuild our cities.

Last year the Congress authorized 667 million for the Model Cities program. I requested the full amount of that authorization to help meet the crisis in our cities. But the Congress appropriated only $312 million—less than half.

This year I urge the Congress to honor my request for Model Cities' funds to rebuild the centers of American cities—$1 billion.

Surely a nation that can go to the moon can place a decent home within the reach of its families.

300,000 HOMES

Therefore we must call together the resources of industry and labor, to start building 300,000 housing units for low and middle-income families next year—three times more than this year. We must make it possible for thousands of familiees to become homeowners, not rent-payers.

I propose, for the consideration of this Congress, a ten-year campaign to build six million new housing units for low and middle-income families.

Last year, Medicare, Medicaid, and other new programs brought better health to more than 25 million Americans.

American medicine— with the strong support and cooperation of public resources—has produced a phenomenal decline in the death rate from many diseases.

CHILDREN'S TRAGEDY

But it is a shocking fact that, in saving the lives of babies, American ranks 15th among the nations of the world. And among children, crippling defects are often discovered too late for corrective action. This is a tragedy that America can, and should, prevent.

I shall propose to the Congress a child health program to provide, over the next five years, for families unable to afford it—access to health services from prenatal care of the mother through the child's first year.

★ ★ ★

When we act to advance the consumer's cause, we help every American.

Last year, with little fanfare, Congress and the executive branch did just that.

TIME TO FINISH

Now it is time to complete our unfinished work. The Senate has already passed Truth-in-Lending, Fire Safety, and Pipeline Safety laws.

I urge the House immediately to approve these measures. And I call upon the Congress to enact, without delay, the remainder of the 12 vital consumer protection laws I submitted last year.

★ ★ ★

I also urge final action on a measure—reported out today by the Senate Agriculture Committee and already passed by the House—to guard against fraud and manipulation in the nation's commodity exchanges.

These measures are a pledge to our people—to keep them safe in their homes and at work, and to give them a fair deal in the marketplace.

MORE NEEDED

And we must do more. I propose:

● New powers for the Federal Trade Commission to stop those who defraud and swindle the public.

● New safeguards to insure the quality of fish and poultry, and the safety of our community water supplies.

● A major study of automobile insurance.

And to give the consumer a stronger voice, I will appoint a consumer counsel—a lawyer for the American consumer—to work directly under the Attorney General and serve the President's Special Assistant for Consumer affairs.

This Congress—Democrats and Republicans—can earn the thanks of history. We can make this truly a new day for consumer protection, and live in history as the consumer conscious era.

War on Crime

We, at every level of government in this nation, know that the American people have had enough of rising crime and lawlessness.

They recognize that law enforcement is first the duty of local police and local government.

They recognize that the front line headquarters against crime is in the home, the church, the city hall and the state house—not in far-removed Washington.

But the people also recognize that the national government can and should help the states and cities in their war on crime to the full extent of its resources and constitutional authority. This we shall do.

NO NATIONAL FORCE

This does not mean a national police force. It does mean help and financial support:

● To develop state and local master plans to combat crime.

● To provide better training and better pay for police, and

● To bring the most advanced technology to the war on crime in every city and county in America.

★ ★ ★

There is no more urgent business before the Congress than to pass the Safe Streets Act I proposed last year. That law will provide these required funds. They are so critically needed that I have doubled my request under this act to $100 million in fiscal 1969.

I urge the Congress to stop the trade in mail order murder this year by adopting a proper gun control law.

DRUG CONTROL ACT

This year, I will propose a Drug Control Act to provide stricter penalties for those who traffic in LSD and other dangerous drugs.

I will ask for more vigorous enforcement of all our drug laws by increasing the number of federal drug and narcotics control officials by more than one-third. It is time to stop the sale of slavery to the young. I also request funds to add immediately 100 Assistant United States Attorneys throughout the land to help prosecute our criminal laws. They too will give special attention to drug abuse.

We have increased our judiciary by 40 per cent, but we have increased our prosecutors by 16, and the dockets are full of cases because we do not have assistant district attorneys to go in before the federal judge and handle them. And we start these young lawyers at $8,200 a year. And the docket is clogged because we do not have authority to hire 100 more. These young men will give special attention to this drug abuse, too.

Finally, I ask you to add 100 FBI agents to strengthen law enforcement in the nation and to protect the individual rights of every citizen.

A moment ago I spoke of despair and frustrated hopes in the cities where the fires of disorder burned last summer. We can—and in time we will—change that despair into confidence, and change those frustrations into achievements. But violence will not bring progress.

We can make progress only by attacking the causes of violence and only where there is a civil order founded on justice.

Today we are helping local of-

Johnson Stresses Cease-Fire

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson seeks to work out with North Vietnam a "basis for peace talks" which could lead to discussion of a complete cease-fire in the Vietnamese war as the first order of business.

The President proposed top priority for the cease-fire goal in his State of the union message to Congress last night. But at the same time he made it emphatically clear his conditions for halting the bombing of North Vietnam in order to open talks must be met.

By contrast, North Vietnam still insists on an unconditional end to the bombing.

"There is no mystery about the questions which must be answered before the bombing is stopped," Johnson said. He did not specify the questions which in fact are already being put to Hanoi. through diplomatic channels.

But he is known to be seeking assurances that the talks would be prompt and probably productive and that North Vietnam would not try to pour reinforcements into the South after the bombing was halted—points he made in his address.

Johnson's formula for the bomb halt-peace talk deal was first put forth in a speech he made at San Antonio, Tex., last September. In paraphrasing it last night he appeared to ease his requirements in one respect and harden them in another.

At San Antonio Johnson said he assumed North Vietnam would not take advantage of the end of bombing to improve the Communist military position. Last night he declared: "The other side must not take advantage of our restraint as they have in the past. This nation simply cannot accept anything less without jeopardizing the lives of our men and our allies.

Officials interpreted that assertion as a clear warning that if the North Vietnamese did start rushing reinforcements South after a halt Johnson would resume the bombing.

On this conditions for moving to get talks started, Johnson told the Congress "the bombing would stop if talks would take place promptly and with reasonable hopes they would be productive."

Officials said there was no way to guarantee in advance that any talks would be productive so the words "reasonable hopes" were inserted to make this requirement easier to fulfill.

"If a basis for peace talks can be established on the San Antonio foundations," Johnson declared, "and it is my hope and my prayer that they can be —we would consult with our allies and with the other side to see if a complete cessation of hostilities — a really true cease fire — could be made the first order of business.

"I will report at the earliest possible moment the results of these explorations."

Administration officials say privately they hold little hope the present efforts to come to terms with North Vietnam will be successful. Reports from Hanoi so far through diplomatic channels are said not to be encouraging.

Crime Bills Get Hand; Votes Another Thing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's plea for several bills to combat crime won him some of his warmest applause from Congress—but votes may be harder to get.

★ ★ ★

Republicans, who joined loudly in applauding Johnson's anti-crime remarks Wednesday night, have bills of their own they favor and plan to make "crime in the streets" a major campaign issue in November's presidential election.

★ ★ ★

Of the 52 bursts of applause that interrupted Johnson's State of the Union address, 12 came during his brief remarks on crime.

The approval appeared aimed at the general idea of attacking crime, however, and not the specific programs he mentioned.

The gun-control law he is backing is stuck in committee in both the House and Senate with little likelihood it can be enacted. Sentiment is much stronger for the Republican-backed version, which has the approval of the National Rifle Association.

The centerpiece of the Johnson program—a $100 million measure to help local police improve their techniques and training—has already been mangled in the House and is now bogged down in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Johnson didn't even mention a proposal the Republicans have urged most strenously—to legalize wiretapping under court controls.

An administration proposal that should have clear sailing, however, would add 100 FBI agents and 100 assistant U.S. attorneys to the federal law enforcement ranks.

Johnson said the extra officials would help in more vigorous enforcement of the drug laws. He also proposed stricter penalties for persons dealing in LSD and other dangerous drugs.

. . . Message on the State of the Union

ficials improve their capacity to deal promptly with disorder.

Those who preach disorder and violence must know that local authorities are able to resist them swiftly, sternly, and decisively.

★ ★ ★

I shall recommend other actions:

To raise the farmers' income by establishing a security commodity reserve that will protect the market from price-depressing stocks and the consumer from food scarcity.

FOR AIR SAFETY

A new air safety program.

Measures to stem the rising costs of medical care.

★ ★ ★

Legislation to encourage our returning veterans to devote themselves to careers in community service, such as teaching, being firemen and joining our police forces and our law enforcement officials.

Programs to strengthen and finance our anti-pollution efforts.

★ ★ ★

Fully funding all of the $2.2-billion poverty program you in the Congress just authorized to bring opportunity to those who have been left behind.

An Educational Opportunity Act to step up our drive to break down financial barriers separating our young people from college.

PENDING LEGISLATION

I shall also urge the Congress to act on several vital bills pending:

Especially, the civil rights measures—fair jury trials, protection of federal rights, enforcement of equal employment, and fair housing.

★ ★ ★

The unfinished work of the first session must be completed—the Higher Education Act, the Juvenile Delinquency Act, conservation measures to save the redwoods of California, and to preserve the wonder of our scenic rivers, the Highway Beautification Act—and all the other measures for a cleaner and better America.

The Economy

Next month we begin our eighth year of uninterrupted prosperity. The economic outlook for this year is one of steady growth—if we are vigilant.

★ ★ ★

True, there are some clouds on the horizon. Prices are rising. Interest rates have passed the peak of 1966; and if there is continued inaction on the tax bill, they will climb even higher.

I warn the nation that this failure to act will sweep us into an accelerating spiral of price increases; a slump in home building; and a continuing erosion of the American dollar.

This would be a tragedy for every American family. And I predict that if it happens, they will all let us know about it.

We—those of us in the executive branch, in the Congress and the leaders of labor and business—must do all we can to prevent this misfortune.

EXPENDITURES FOR '69

Under the new budget, expenditures for 1969 will increase by $10.4 billion. Receipts will be up by $22.3 billion including the added tax revenues. Virtually all of this expenditure increase represents the extra mandatory cost of our defense efforts, increased interest, or mandatory payments under laws passed by Congress—such as those provided in the Social Security Act of 1967, and to Medicare and Medicaid beneficiaries, veterans and farmers. With few exceptions, we are holdng the fiscal 1969 budget to last year's level, outside of those mandatory and required increases.

★ ★ ★

A presidential commission composed of distinguished Americans recommended this year that we adopt a new budget approach. I am carrying out their unanimous recommendations. This budget, therefore, accurately covers all federal expenditures and receipts, including for the first time $47 billion from the Social Security, Medicare, highway and other trust funds.

★ ★ ★

The fiscal 1969 budget has expenditures of approximately $186 billion, with total estimated revenues, including the tax bill of about $178 billion.

CAN REDUCE DEFICIT

If the Congress enacts the tax increase, we will reduce the budget deficit by some $12 billion—from about $20 billion in 1968 to $8 billion in 1969.

This is a tight budget. It follows upon the reduction I made in cooperation with the Congress — a reduction of approximately $10 billion in appropriations and $4 billion in expenditures in fiscal 1968. It provides for a much lower increase in expenditures than occurred in 1967 or 1968. And we will continually attempt as the year moves along to attain every economy we can.

★ ★ ★

Certain selected programs to meet the nation's most urgent needs have been increased. We have insisted that decreases in very desirable, but less urgent programs be made before approving the increases.

I ask the Congress:

● To hold its appropriations to the budget requests, and

● To act responsibly early this year by enacting the tax surcharge which for the average individual amounts to about a penny out of each dollar's income.

YIELD OF INCREASE

This tax increase would yield about half of the $23 billion per year we returned to the people in the tax reduction bills of 1964 and 1965.

★ ★ ★

This must be a temporary measure, which expires in less than two years. Congress can repeal it sooner if the need has passed. But Congress cannot repeal inflation.

★ ★ ★

The leaders of American business and American labor—those who really have power over wages and prices—must act responsibility, and in the Nation's interest by keeping increases in line with productivity. If our recognized leaders do not do this, they and those for whom they speak and all of us will suffer serious consequences.

★ ★ ★

On Jan. 1, I outlined a program to reduce our balance of payments deficit sharply this year. We will ask the Congress to help carry out those parts of the program which require legislation. We must restore equilibrium to our balance of payments.

FREE OUR RESERVES

We must also strengthen the international monetary system. We have assured the world that our full gold stock stands behind our commitment to maintain the price of gold at $35 an ounce. We must back this commitment by legislating now to free our gold reserves.

Americans, traveling more than any other people in history, took $4 billion out of their country last year in travel costs. We must reduce the travel deficit of $2 billion by $500 million—without unduly penalizing the travel of teachers, business people, students and Americans who have relatives abroad. Even with the reduction of $500 million, the American people will still be traveling more overseas than at any time in their history.

★ ★ ★

If we act together as we should, we can continue our economic expansion which has already broken all past records.

In Conclusion

Each of the questions I have discussed tonight is a question of policy for our people. Therefore each of them should be—and doubtless will be—debated by candidates for public office.

I hope those debates will be marked by new proposals, and by a seriousness that matches the gravity of the questions themselves.

These are not appropriate subjects for narrow, partisan oratory. They go to the heart of what we Americans are all about—all of us, Democrats and Republicans.

★ ★ ★

Tonight I have spoken of some of the goals I should like to see America reach. Many of them can be achieved this year—others by the time we celebrate our nation's 200th birthday—the bicentennial of our independence.

HARD TO EACH

Several will be hard to reach. But the state of our union will be much stronger eight years from now if we resolve to reach them now. They are more important—much more important—than the identity of the party, or the president who will then be in office.

Can we achieve these goals?

Of course we can—if we will.

If ever there were a people who sought more than mere abundance, it is our people.

If ever there were a nation capable of solving its problems, it is this nation.

If ever there were a time to know the pride and excitemen and hope of being an American—it is this time.

★ ★ ★

This, my friends, is the state of our union: seeking, building, tested many times this past year—and always equal to the test.

Cosmic Dust Peril to Craft Belittled

SEATTLE (AP) — The danger of damage to space vehicles from cosmic dust particles is much less than previously feared, a University of Washington scientist said Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Prof. Paul Hodge of the astronomy department said a 15-month study of particles collected during a Gemini space flight indicates "the density of meteoric dust in interplanetary space is at least 1,000 times less than previously believed and thus should not be a serious threat to space vehicles traveling to the moon and beyond."

★ ★ ★

"The danger of meteoric dust to vehicles in space appears to be much less serious than the hazards of the freeway to motor vehicles," he said.

LBJ Plans to Shuffle Funds to Help Check Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration will try to hold spending in check in its new "uified" $186 billion budget partly by shuffling program funds, officials say.

But some key members of Congress say they plan to seek cuts in what President Johnson referred to in his State of the Union message Wednesday night as a tight budget.

Johnson said spending in the new fiscal year which begins July 1 will increase by $10.4 billion, virtually all of it for defense needs and spending the administration is unable to control.

Administration officials said money for such stepped-up programs as model cities and manpower training will come from programs with less priority for which money is already available.

PENTAGON PLANS

They added the Pentagon plans to switch several billions from one fund to another to avoid seeking more money from Congress during the current fiscal year.

Some construction projects are also likely to be deferred, it was said.

Johnson also appealed anew for adoption of a 10 per cent tax surcharge and requested removal of the gold backing for U. S. paper money. This would free about $10.7 billion in gold to defend the dollar abroad.

Under the new unified budget to be used for the first time this year, Johnson projected a deficit of $8 billion on spending of $186 billion and revenues—including the surcharge—of about $178 billion.

TRUST FUNDS

These figures include for the first time spending and receipts from huge government-operated trust funds such as Social Security and highways—a spending item of about $47 billion.

This would compare with spending of $175.6 billion and a deficit of about $20 billion in the current fiscal year.

Under the more familiar administrative budget used in previous years, spending would rise from about $137.25 billion currently to about $147.5 billion in the new fiscal year.

But Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, senior Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, said he will submit quickly a resolution to slice spending by about $10 billion. He predicted he would get strong support.

Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Texas, of the same committee, said, "Our business is to reduce spending wherever possible and that we will do and must do."

The House Ways and Means Committee will probably spend two days in open hearings next week on the surcharge but won't move to act on it at least until Johnson formally submits his budget on Jan. 29.

New PR Chief for State Dems

LANSING (AP)—Democratic State Chairman Sander Levin has announced the appointment of Morgan O'Leary of The Detroit News Lansing Bureau as public information director for the State Democratic party, effective today.

Levin said O'Leary will be director of the party publicity and public relations programs.

O'Leary, 27, is a native of Kansas City, Mo., and a 1963 graduate of Harvard College, where he was a member of the Young Democrats.

He joined The Detroit News staff in May 1965 and has been assigned to the Lansing bureau for the past year covering the House of Representatives and state governmental agencies.

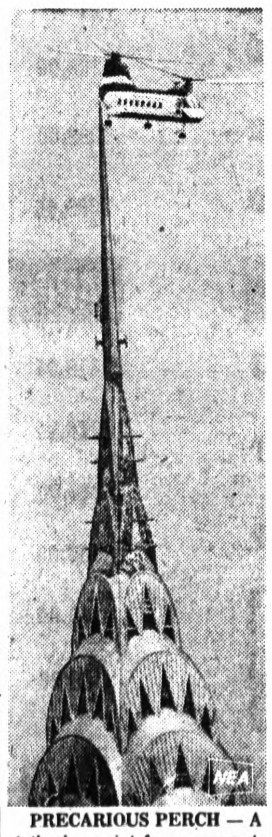

City Streets Mostly Clear of Snow Now

All city streets have been cleared of most of last weekend's snow accumulation, Director of Public Works and Service Joseph E. Neipling reported today.

The heavy snows of the weekend necessitated the DPW working two 12-hour shifts from Saturday until last night, he said.

During the snow-clearing operations the department had 150 men working one of the two shifts.

In use were four graders, three underbody blades, three front-end plows, six salt trucks and a snow blower, officials said.

Key Points Given in LBJ's Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here in brief are major points of President Johnson's State of the Union message Wednesday night:

Vietnam—Reported progress on all fronts. Pledged U.S. resolve would not flag.

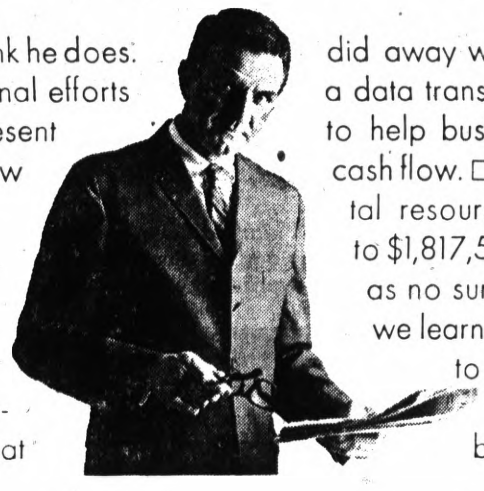

Peace Talks—Said U.S. conditions for ending bombing and starting talks remain unchanged—North Vietnam must reciprocate militarily.

Domestic Programs—Proposed $2.1-billion program to employ hard-core jobless; $1 billion to revitalize urban cores; 10-year program to build six million new housing units for low and middle-income families; plus numerous consumer protection measures and a program aimed at cutting the U.S. mortality rate.

Crime—Requested $100 million for federal aid to local and state police agencies. Asked for 100 new assistant U.S. attorneys and 100 more FBI agents; for tougher drug violation penalties and more federal narcotics agents; for a stiffened gun control law.

Economy-Taxes—Said prosperity would be threatened unless income tax hike wins congressional approval. Reported "unified" budget would be about $186 billion, with an $8-billion deficit assuming tax hike clears Congress. Urged foreign travel curbs.

Does one customer make an extra special year?

At Manufacturers Bank we think he does. And in 1967 we made additional efforts to better serve each of our present customers and to attract new ones. Manufacturers' traditional friendly service was emphasized. New banking services were initiated. Like Unicheck, the first complete bank account. And a new personal checking account that did away with service charges. And a data transmission service designed to help businessmen speed up their cash flow. ☐ The result was a rise in total resources from $1,631,232,609 to $1,817,549,224. But it really came as no surprise. Because long ago we learned that personal attention to each individual customer is the best way for a bank to grow and prosper.

Try New Pastry Recipe for Winter Pies

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Is the holiday period far enough in the background for us to be thinking of special desserts again? It seems like a good time to talk about pies.

Our grandmothers considered lard the only shortening to use for a pie crust. But with the emphasis on polyunsaturated fats and less cholesterol in diets, we have to find substitutes.

EASY-MIX PASTRY SHELL

1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup corn oil
2½ tablespoons ice water

Sift together flour and salt. Combine oil and ice water in measuring cup. Beat with fork until creamy.

Immediately pour all at once over flour mixture. Toss and mix with fork. Form into ball. The dough will be moist. Shape into flat round.

Roll out dough between two 12-inch squares of waxed paper. (Paper will not slip if table is wiped with damp cloth). Roll out until dough forms circle, reaching edges of paper.

SOFT MARGARINE PASTRY

2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup soft margarine
4 tablespoons cold water

Measure flour and salt into mixing bowl. Mix well. Cut in margarine with pastry blender or fork until mixture resembles coarse meal. Sprinkle with water, lightly stirring with fork, until all the flour is moistened.

Gather dough together and press firmly into a ball. Divide dough in half. Place on lightly floured cloth or surface. Flatten dough slightly, keeping edges free from cracks.

REQUEST CHERRY PIE

1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup juice from cherries
¼ teaspoon red food coloring
⅛ teaspoon almond extract (optional)
2 cans (1-lb. each) water pack red tart pitted cherries
2 tablespoons butter, or margarine
Pastry

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in a saucepan. Add juice, coloring and almond extract; stir until smooth. Cook until thickened and clear, stirring. Remove from heat; add drained cherries and butter.

Pour into an unbaked pastry lined 9-inch pie pan. Cover with a lattice top crust. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) about 40 minutes. One 9-inch pie.

CHOCOLATE PIE IMPERIAL

1 cup sugar
One-third cup cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
2 eggs, beaten
1 package (6-ozs.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
Peppermint flavoring, to taste (about 2 teaspoons)
½ pint (1 cup) dairy sour cream
1—9-inch pastry shell

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Stir in milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from heat.

Gradually stir at least half of hot mixture into eggs. Then blend into hot mixture in saucepan. Cook 1 minute.

Remove from heat. Add chocolate pieces and stir until melted. Stir in flavorings. Cool to lukewarm, stirring occasionally. Blend sour cream into chocolate mixture; spoon into pie shell and chill.

Sunny Cracker Nut Pie

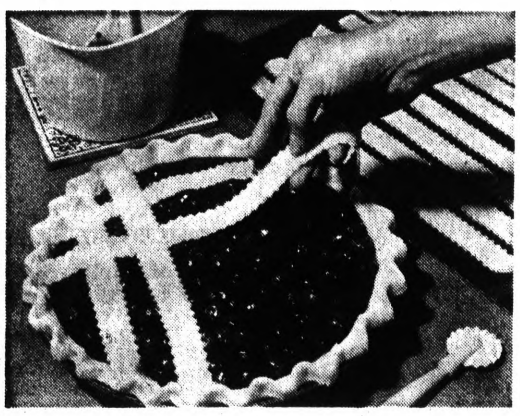

20 double thin crispy crackers
1¼ teaspoons double acting baking powder
4 egg whites, at room temperature
1⅓ cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
fresh or frozen strawberries

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. With blender or with rolling pin, crush crackers into fine crumbs. Add baking powder, mix well and set aside.

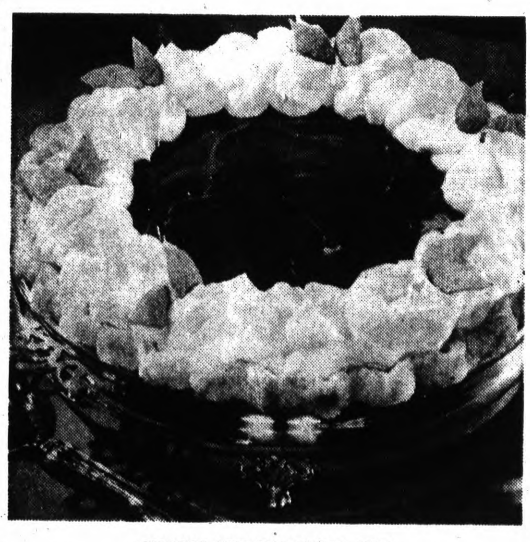

Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Gradually beat in sugar a little at a time. When egg whites hold stiff peaks, gently fold in vanilla extract, pecans and crumbs, mixing well.

Pour into well buttered 9-inch pie plate. Bake 30 minutes, or until golden brown and firm. Let cool in pie plate.

Change Ordinary Taste of Corn Muffins With a Bit of Curry

CURRIED CORN MEAL MUFFINS—Curried Corn Meal Muffins combine the crunch and fresh flavor of American corn meal with pungent East Indian curry.

Cooking with corn meal we should feel completely "at home," for corn belongs to the Americas. Enjoying a curry, we know we are tasting of a land and culture remote from our own. Curries carry us off to the East—to India or Ceylon, where they are so usual as to be served several times a day.

But the lines are rarely so hard and fast, and we're probably never so at home in our cooking as we might think. Even our "very American" chicken dinner is traceable to ancient southern Asia.

It was there that the ancestors of our domestic chicken first thrived — probably more than 3,000 years ago. And both Europe and America owe their favorite chicken dishes to the interchange of early explorers.

Curried Corn Meal Muffins

¼ cup chopped green onion
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1¼ cups enriched corn meal
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
¾ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon curry powder
1 egg
1 cup milk

★ ★ ★

Heat oven to hot 425 degrees. Cook onion in oil until tender. Set aside. Sift together corn meal, flour, salt, baking powder, sugar and curry powder into bowl. Add egg, milk and the cooked onion; stir until just combined.

★ ★ ★

Circle a Beef Stew With Cereal Biscuits

Tender, chunky beef stew and vegetables swimming in rich brown gravy make wonderful eating on cold, blustery days. Not only is this an economical dish for budget shoppers, but a versatile one, as well.

Dress up stew by oven baking it, so that you can top it with cereal biscuits during the last 20 minutes of cooking. The hot biscuits, split and opened on each dinner plate, provide delicious foil for gravy.

Oven Beef Stew With Cereal Biscuit Topping

¼ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 pounds boneless beef chuck, cut into 1-inch cubes
3 tablespoons shortening
1 cup coarsely chopped onion
3 cups hot water
2 beef bouillon cubes
3 cups diagonally sliced (½-inch) carrots
2 cups diagonally sliced (½-inch) celery
2 cups prepared biscuit mix
1½ cups whole wheat flakes, crushed to make ¾ cup crumbs
½ cup milk
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted

Prepare Stew. Combine flour, 1 teaspoon salt, garlic salt, and pepper. Coat meat with flour mixture. (Save any left-over flour mixture.) Brown meat in shortening over moderate heat, turning to brown evenly. Add onion; cook until soft.

Sprinkle remaining flour mixture over meat; mix. Add 1 cup water and bouillon cubes. Cover; cook in moderate oven (350 degrees) until meat is almost tender, about 1½ hours, stirring several times during cooking. Add vegetables and remaining 2 cups water and 1 teaspoon salt. Cover; return to oven for 30 minutes. Prepare biscuits. Stir biscuit mix and cereal crumbs together. Add milk and butter or margarine; stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Turn onto lightly floured board; knead 10 to 12 strokes.

Roll or pat ¾-inch thick. Cut into 12 round biscuits with a 2-inch cutter. Arrange biscuits on stew around edge of baking dish; bake biscuits until done and lightly browned in a hot oven (400 degrees) about 20 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Roll Mixture in Beef Slices

This is a fun serving for your next cocktail party. It's different, so easy to prepare, economical and downright good to eat. Make plenty.

Clean 2 pounds fresh mushrooms, or use 1 six or eight ounce can mushrooms drained. Cut into small pieces but don't chop. This must not be mushy.

Add 1 tablespoon chopped capers and 2 teaspoons each freeze dried chives and parsley with 3 tablespoons chopped celery hearts. Drain again.

Dip out onto dried beef slices to form a hobo pouch. Use tall bamboo sticks for fasteners to hold pouch together. Stand pouches up on cocktail server. Delicious with drinks.

A real experience when served with a big slice of Spanish melon, or ripe honey dew melon. And surprisingly satisfying with a cup of black coffee or strong fragrant tea.

Low in Calories

Fresh winter pears are a great pick-up for those drab, diet days. They satisfy hunger with a minimum of calories and provide refreshing goodness besides. An average size pear contains only 63 calories.

Flan Is Just Custard

Pumpkin Flan

1¼ cups sugar
5 eggs
1½ cups evaporated milk, undiluted
⅓ cup water
1 cup canned pumpkin
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1½ teaspoons vanilla

Caramelize ½ cup of the sugar and pour into a hot (oven heated) 8 by 8 by 2 inch cake pan to coat bottom; reserve.

In a large bowl beat the eggs slightly; add milk and water; beat to combine. Add remaining ¾ cup sugar and the remaining ingredients; stir until smooth. Pour over coating in pan.

Bake in a pan of hot water that comes halfway up flan pan, in a 350-degree oven until a silver knife inserted in center comes out clean—about 1¼ hours. Cool; chill.

Loosen sides of pudding. Turn out on serving plate. Serve with vanilla ice cream. Makes 8 servings.

Fold chopped natural (unblanched) almonds and chopped candied fruit into softened ice cream for your own "tortoni." Refreeze in individual paper souffle cups. Drizzle with fruit syrup or liqueur to serve.

X15 Test Plane to Retire Soon

'Greatest Research Aircraft Ever Flown'

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The X15 is the greatest research airplane ever flown.

Its mighty rocket engine has hurled it higher and faster than anything else with wings has ever gone. It has climbed 67 miles into the sky. It has hit mach 6.72 or 4,534 miles an hour.

It has piled up a mass of data on supersonic, hypersonic and space flight which engineers will still be digesting to their profit years hence.

It was the late Dr. Hugh Latimer Dryden, deputy chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), who described the X15 as "the most successful research airplane ever built."

Nobody ever disputed him.

The X15 taught aeronautical and space engineers things they never knew before about design and control of craft pushed to the limit of performance by powerful rockets.

FOR LAST TIMES

This year the X15 will fly for the last times.

"It has done its job and has earned honorary retirement," a NASA official said.

In any case, the X15 project has run out of money.

★ ★ ★

NASA did have some more chores for this long, sleek, stubby-winged aircraft which already has done so much.

NEW ENGINE

It wanted to test a new engine, a ramjet, as an X15 powerhouse. It could have used the X15 for a lot more tests in near space of astrouaut suits, pilot reaction times and the effect of sudden accelerations above the atmosphere on living organisms.

But in the 1969 fiscal year starting July 1, NASA is going to have to rejigger its spending priorities. Congress is unlikely to give it more than $4 billion for the new year, compared to $4.6 billion for the current year ending June 30.

So, since it has done its job, the X15 program is being "phased out."

★ ★ ★

Three X15 planes have been built and done their duty. These craft, about 50 feet long with wings only 22 feet from tip to tip and with a violent rocket in their tail generating 60,000 pounds of thrust, were dangerous to fly.

ONLY ONE DEATH

But since the maiden X15 flight on June 8, 1959, this craft has cost the life of only one pilot.

Air Force Maj. Michael J. Adams died last November when his X15 plummeted from an altitude of 50 miles to a smashup on California's Mojave Desert.

NASA has been spending about $6 million a year to fly its X15s. It has enough left for a few more flights through next summer or fall.

But times and priorities change.

With its money for aeronautical experimentation dwindling, NASA has decided to concentrate research on such things as vertical takeoff planes and reduction of jet aircraft noise.

'NO REQUIREMENT'

The United States is working on a supersonic transport that will fly up to 2,000 miles an hour. The X15 has proved that airplanes can travel at hypersonic speeds upwards of 4,000 miles an hour.

But, to borrow a phrase from the military, there is "no requirement" for a hypersonic airplane in a period when many wonder what need there is for a supersonic craft.

So the X15 has "hit the ceiling of airplane performance," a NASA spokesman said, and has no place to go but into retirement.

Peace Corps Test Is Saturday

A Peace Corps placement test will be administered at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in Room 1 of the Federal Building. Applications, available at the post office, must be presented to the tester before the test.

The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. The test requires no preparation and is noncompetitive.

Serious Hope Reflects on Vietnam Tour

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There are all kinds of servicemen audiences, said Bob Hope, and he ought to know.

The comedian made the observation as he was in the midst of preparing tonight's television account of his Christmas visit to Vietnam. This was a different, more serious Bob Hope than the public's image. He is always more sober and reflective when he returns from the war zone.

THOMAS

The reception in Vietnam for the Hope show provided the same tumult he has attracted with his gags since he started entertaining the troops 26 years ago.

"It was great," he reflected. "Everywhere we went it was great, but some places better than others. One time I was puzzled: it was when we were playing for the Big Red division at Lai Khe. Twelve thousand guys, and I figured, boy, this is going to be easy.

SHORT LANUGHS

"But it wasn't. Oh, they'd laugh. They let out the big scream at the punch lines, but they didn't laugh as long. I didn't get that second and third roll that I usually do. I finally asked a guy if the sound was okay. He told me there was nothing wrong with the sound. It was simply that those boys had been through some rough times and they were still feeling it."

The most surefire of audiences, he said, are the aircraft carriers. The Hope troupe played the Ranger and the Coral Sea on the December trip.

★ ★ ★

"There's something about a carrier that makes it great to play," Hope observed. "Maybe it's because you're working with a smaller crowd, and the boys are wrapped all around you, hanging from rails and all over. They grab everything you say and run with it."

Hope's view of Vietnam is different from the one most visitors see. It's a mixture of welcoming banners, receptions and seas of laughing young American faces.

'THE SHOCKER'

"You wouldn't even know there's a war going on if you didn't go into the hospitals," said the comedian. "That's the shocker. You suddenly know what the toll is and how the guys are stiffing up under it.

"Like the time Raquel Welch and I went into the intensive care ward of a hospital ship. It was tough on her, because she isn't used to seeing that kind of thing. I am. I passed a guy who was still being worked over by a couple of doctors who were trying to stop a wound in his side.

"'Hi-ya, Bob,' he says to me, just as cheerful as can be. A few minutes later I asked what happened to the kid. They told me he had both his legs amputated that morning. and here he was giving me the big 'Hi-ya, Bob'!"

Hope came back from the war even more of a hawk than before. He believes that only an all-out effort could end the war. But if the shootings stopped, that wouldn't be the end of his visits to Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

"Afterwards I'll be needed more than ever," he said. "It's when our boys have nothing to do that they get in trouble. That's when they need entertainment."

French Club Helps Restore Chateaus

By Science Service

Thousands of young volunteers spend their vacations each year clearing out rubble and restoring ancient castles and manor houses in France.

They are members of an increasingly popular organization called "Le Club du Vieux Manoir." Ten-day courses are regularly held to train restoration organizers and excavation leaders.

In the last year, students have been restoring abandoned or neglected houses and digging out forgotten ruins and foundations in 12 different sites. Founded in 1954 with 45 members, the club now has more than 3,500 members.

Izvestia Shows Two Standards

Decries U. S. Case, Ignores Soviet Trial

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

One day after a closed-door Soviet court convicted four defendants in a literary trial, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia waxed indignant over what its headline called "the fate of a poet."

In a column subtitled "Democracy Inside-out," the newspaper expressed anger that this poet had been convicted, it said, because of his views.

★ ★ ★

Izvestia was not talking about Soviet writers, many of whom have been sent off to prison for their views. It was talking about the case of the American Negro poet, LeRoi Jones.

Jones had participated in a violent Newark, N.J., riot last summer. He was convicted recently for illegal possession of lethal weapons. His trial was open and widely publicized. He was freed on bail and was at liberty, pending his appeal, to keep speaking engagements and say publicly whatever he pleased about his government.

VAGUE CHARGES

The Soviet writers convicted last week were sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor on vague charges of anti-Soviet activities. The trial court was closed except to those selected by the prosecution. All through the trial there was no mention of it in the Soviet press. Only after the conviction did one Soviet paper briefly report the fact that it had been held. Principal press organs ignored the proceedings.

There will be no bail for the Russian writers, nor for any convicted before them. There will be no opportunity for them to keep speaking engagements or even to whisper publicly what is on their minds.

But the way Izvestia tells the story to its Russian readers, the United States is a savage persecutor of writers. Here is what Izvestia had to say about the trial of LeRoi Jones.

"The bourgeois newspapers and journals are silent about the reprisals against the gifted poet whose verses have been included in an anthology of modern American poetry. Official literary societies also display total ignorance . . . Only the workers' newspaper, the Worker, came forward with an exposure of his tormentors."

PRINCIPAL GUILT

The Izvestia article argued that Jones' principal guilt was not illegal possession of weapons, but association with those who stood against the community and because his poems and essays on Negro life in the United States were a call to struggle. Izvestia was equally indignant about the pending prosecution of Dr. Benjamin Spock, the antiwar leader.

"On the eve of the 1968 elections," it said, "the American press more often than usual recalls the traditions of democracy in the United States of America. But of what kind of democracy can it speak now, when the American authorities attempt by all means to put down antiwar demonstrations and stamp out a movement in defense of the full civil rights of Negroes?"

Soviet law makes it a serious crime to engage in any "activities against the state," and only the Soviet authorities can say which activities endanger the state. Any breath of criticism at all can be interpreted, under the Soviet penal code, as "anti-Soviet slander," and incur harsh punishment from which there is little chance of appeal or escape.

Influenza Hikes NY Death Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Health Commissioner Edward O'Rourke says the influenza epidemic helped make the death rate in the city during the first week in January the highest in almost 20 years.

He said the rate was 14.9 per 1,000 persons—the highest since August 1948 when the rate was 17.1 per 1,000 during a heat wave. At this time last year, the rate was 11.8.

Today's Russia Still Needs the Pawnshop

★ ★ ★

"We'll take furs, radios, almost anything of value," said husky, red - faced pawnbroker Alexei M. Zolotov in an interview in his bleak, cubbyhole office in a Moscow industrial district.

Zolotov heads the sales end of the Moscow pawnshop system. The lending is done at separate receiving stations.

SALESROOM JAMMED

"Yes, We Have No Bananas" blared in the background as a young man tried out a big tape recorder selling for the equivalent of $946.

★ ★ ★

Other customers sniffed used clothing, inspected cameras and shouted for service.

The odor was musty and the lighting was bad, giving the place the feel of a scene in an old Russian novel.

STILL NECESSARY

Communism has not eliminated the necessity for the pawnshop. It survived the Bolshevik Revolution and is thriving today. The Peking People's Daily newspaper recently cited the pawnshops as evidence that the Soviet Union is a "capitalist country in disguise." The pawnshop is just one step short of setting up a stock market in Moscow, the newspaper contended.

But the pawn system as conducted here is defensible as a Communist institution. Zolotov is only the manager, not the owner. His profits go to the state.

Sitting under a portrait of Lenin, founder of the Soviet state, Zolotov explained that Soviet people today most often use the pawnshop system to finance vacations and large purchases.

If they don't pay back the money within four months, their hocked goods are trucked out to his store and put on sale.

Zolotov said he gradually lowers the price on slow-moving items until they are sold.

EXPENSIVE

★ ★ ★

A broken - down refrigerator was priced at 179 rubles. Tiny-screen, used television sets went for 17 to 75 rubles and shaggy fur coats were as high as 357.

New synthetic fiber raincoats, imported from Italy, were on sale here because of slight manufacturing defects. They went for 65 rubles. A bicycle with two flat tires was priced at 9.

Customers are willing to pay these prices for used goods because such items are scarce and even more expensive in Moscow department stores.

Work Starts in July on 6-Mile Rio Span

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) —Work will start in July on a six-mile bridge connecting Rio with Niteroi across Guanabara Bay.

Mario Andreazza, the transportation minister, says it should be finished in three years and the $96-million cost recovered through tolls in seven years more. It will have six lanes.

About 40 per cent of Niteroi's population of nearly 300,000 commutes to Rio by ferry. The boats are always overloaded.

★ ★ ★

Construction will be by a Brazilian-U.S. consortium including Howard, Needles, Tammen & Bergendoff of New York, and Wilbur Smith and Associates of New Haven, Conn.

Convention Unit in Detroit Reports

DETROIT (AP)—Delegates to conventions in Detroit spent an estimated $38 million, a record amount, in 1967. The Detroit Convention Bureau said the amount was $8 million above the 1966 spending level, due mainly to an increase in conventions to 374 last year.

Czech Reds' Rift May Grow

Shake-Up Not Seen as Intellectuals Win

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Czechoslovakia's ruling Communists, increasingly concerned about resistance from young intellectuals, have sent a Red version of a whiz kid into the arena to protect vested party interests. The country's internal struggle soon may intensify.

At first glance, the shake-up placing Alexander Dubcek at the pinnacle of the Czechoslovak party leadership might seem a victory of sorts for intellectuals who have been demanding more freedom. The explanation in the party press of the change vaguely implies that Dubcek, at 46, might be more responsive to the demands of rebellious young people.

News Analysis

But the party obviously shoved President Antonin Novotny out of the position of first secretary and brought a new man in because the old stalwart had been unable to cope with spreading restlessness.

Three newspapers—the central party organ Rude Pravo, the Slovak Pravda and the Prague newspaper Zemedelski Niviny—have been hinting that Dubcek is on the side of reform. They suggest that Dubcek is thinking along the lines of the Yugoslav party, which has veered away from the idea of constant "class struggle." The suggesteion is that this younger man will be able to appeal to younger people.

'UNHEALTHY EFFECT'

"To search for signs of such struggle where various conflicts quite naturally and necessarily accompany people's efforts for progress has an unhealthy effect," commented Rude Pravo.

The "unhealthy effect" had been much in evidence in rising defiance among intellectuals against party structures. The party had been progressively alienating young Czechoslovaks Students and intellectuals have been clashing with police, demanding the right to demonstrate, criticizing the party bureaucracy, demanding economic reforms.

Dubcek's history fails to suggest that he will be any more yielding than his predecessor. At the last Czechoslovak party congress, he pictured himself as the champion of party discipline and unity, first, last and always.

Dubcek has been a Communist virtually since his cradle days. Only the accident of his father's homesickness prevented him from being born an American. The father, whom a Moscow biographer described as "a progressive carpenter," emigrated to the United States before World War I, but returned to Czechoslovakia after the war, before two sons were born.

SOVIET SCHOOL

The Dubcek family lived for years in the Soviet Union, where Alexander was graduated in 1938 from the Soviet party's higher school. The family returned to Czechoslovakia on the eve of World War II, and father and sons fought in the underground against the Nazis.. The father was imprisoned, the elder son, Julius, killed and Alexander wounded several times.

Dubcek worked in a yeast factory after the war and continued in party work, rising steadily through the ranks in Slovakia. But his name was unknown outside the country until five years ago, when he became a member of the central party presidium and bass of the organization in Slovakia..

The Soviet press, reviewing Dubcek's career, expressed confidence he would adhere to "principles of proletarian internationalism," implying due respect for Moscow's leadership of the Communist movement.

Dubcek is young enough and vigorous enough to pursue a hard line, and despite the vaguely promising words of the party press, he appears from his background to be as dogmatic as any who preceded him in power.

★ ★ ★

The resistance of the Czechoslovak intellectuals bore fruit to the extent that Novotny was revealed as unable to deal with the situation. Dubcek is a product of Soviet training of the Stalin era. He could prove a good deal tougher than Novotny.

Patent Is Awarded to Folding Airplane

The lightweight, folding plane was originally designed for the military as a rescue craft for downed pilots, according to Peter F. Girard, who developed the concept with Fred Landgraf. But its versatility and portability make it a good prospect for the civilian market, he says.

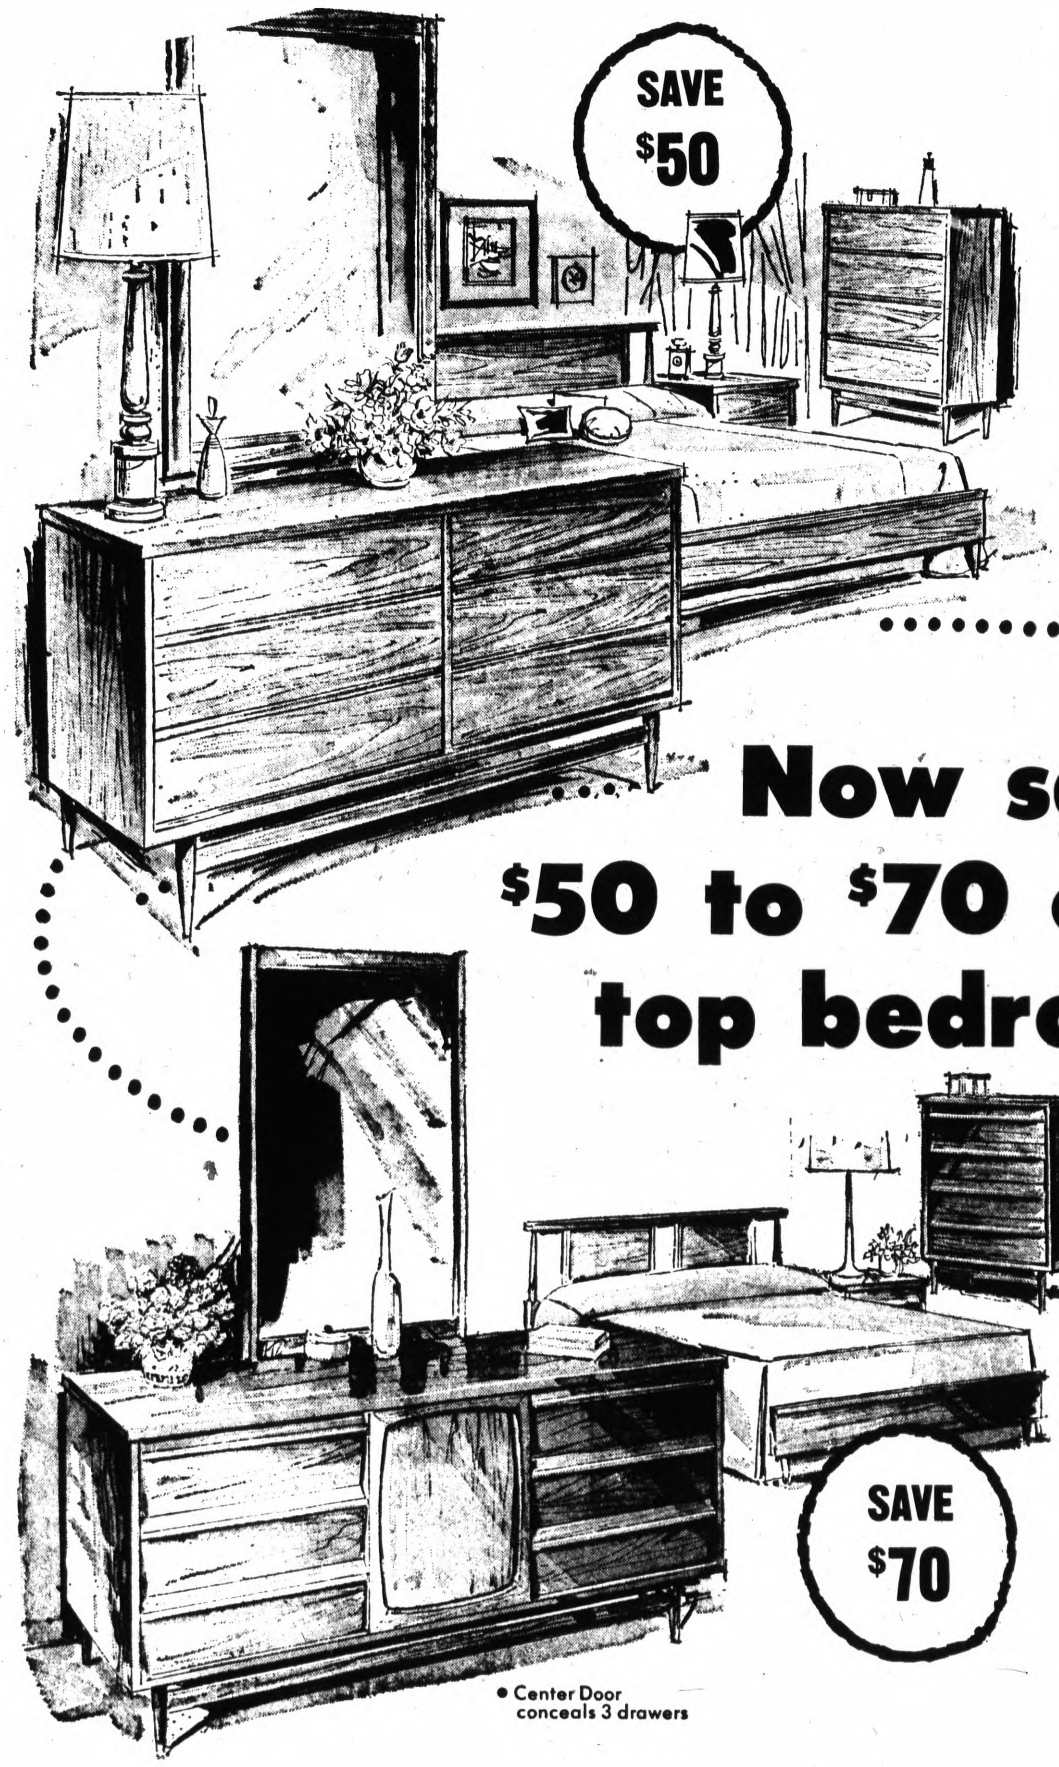

The plane has a speed of about 75 miles per hour, and can take off within 100 feet, according to Girard. By pulling a few pins it can be dismantled into a half dozen pieces, each of which can be carried by one man.

The whole plane weighs about 175 pounds empty, and has a range of 50 to 100 miles.

Huge E. Berlin Tower Rising

Prestige Project Will Include a Restaurant

BERLIN (AP) — As a prestige project, the Communist government in East Berlin is erecting a broadcast tower which will have a panoramic restaurant at the 800-foot level, overlooking West Berlin.

★ ★ ★

The tower itself is to be 1,170 feet high and will send out both television and radio signals. It is due to be all the way up in 1969, but the whole project is not due for completion until 1971.

★ ★ ★

With its reinforced steel and concrete foundation sunk deep into sandy, swampy Berlin soil, the tower represents a considerable engineering feat. It will be second in Europe only to Moscow's newly completed 1,761-foot tower. The Eiffel Tower in Paris stretches 1,056 feet to the top of its television antenna.

★ ★ ★

For many Germans, the East Berlin tower is an unnecessary addition to the sprawling Berlin skyline. They feel it will overshadow midcity landmarks that escaped destruction in World War II.

NOTED LANDMARKS

These include the Brandenburg Gate just inside East Berlin, the Reichstag just inside West Berlin and the red brick City Hall and the Marienkirche, the city's oldest remaining church, to the flanks of the tower itself.

The first tower ever built in Berlin was erected in 1924-26 and now stands about 450 feet high in what became West Berlin after the war. West Berlin also has a 750-foot tower built after the war for communications with West Germany.

★ ★ ★

A projected 1,120-foot tower, for the West German ministry that handles broadcast signals, will be located in an outlying section of West Berlin and thus not be much of a direct visual challenge to the midtown East Berlin needle.

★ ★ ★

That was primarily a concession to the Western allies who expressed fear a downtown West Berlin tower could endanger air traffic in and out of the isolated city. Work on this is due to begin this year.

FITS INTO DRIVE

The East Berlin tower fits into a Communist drive to make their downtown half of the city into a showcase of modern construction. Building is going on all around the tower, with emphasis on apartment units, main-access roads and public structures. New construction is dispersed among such painstakinglyrestored buildings as the National Art Gallery and the opera house.

★ ★ ★

The tower seems to back the Communist regime's expressed confidence that it has weathered adverse world opinion about the wall built in 1961 to divide Berlins.

★ ★ ★

The high restaurant will give 200 diners a view of the wall running between the Brandenburg Gate and the Reichstag, as well as a penetrating look beyond it into the capitalist side of Berlin.

★ ★ ★

The base of the tower is about 120 feet in diameter. The frame of the restaurant sphere that will swing around the tower at 800 feet was assembled aground. After pieces were numbered, work of dismantling it began. The next job was to swing the pieces aloft and reassemble them.

Police Ticket Parked House

OREM, Utah (AP) — Police officers were called to take care of a vehicle blocking a street just off U.S. 91, but found more than they expected.

The problem the officers faced was — what to do about a house blocking a road.

★ ★ ★

The department said the house was being pulled through the city on the highway and the movers had pulled it off onto First South to park for the night.

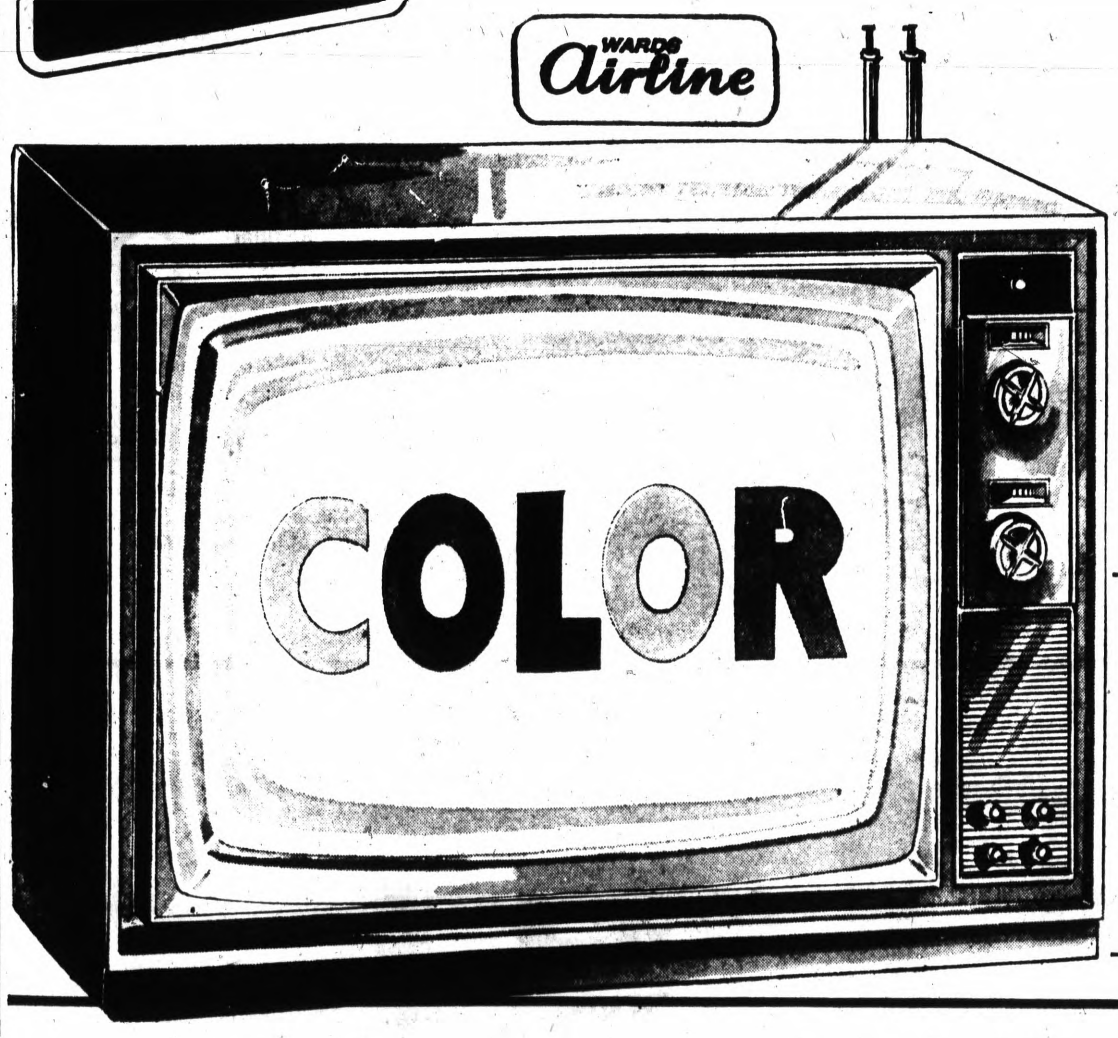

★ ★ ★

All the officers could do about the complaint was give the movers a ticket for blocking a street, put up warning lights, and wait until morning for the house to be moved.

CLAIRE TREVOR

Actress Back on Stage in Lesbian Role

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Claire Trevor has played in some 150 movies, winning an Academy Award 20 years ago for her role in "Key Largo." Now she's returning to the stage, for the first time in about 14 years, portraying a cigar-smoking lesbian in a touring company of "The Killing of Sister George.")

NEW YORK (AP) — Claire Trevor is back on stage, in training like an athlete except for those cigars.

"Some day I'll learn not to inhale," she hopes.

Miss Trevor, filmland's favorite tough girl, with a heart of gold—150 pictures and an Oscar for "Key Largo" — portrays a brawny lesbian in "The Killing of Sister George" on an 11-city coast-to-coast tour.

The expedition is her first in about 25 years and her first theater workout in about 14. As she puts it, "I can't remember dates."

But when it comes to work, the lady is a stickler for discipline.

WINS GLANCES

To get ready, Miss Trevor shunned all but study, sleep and a wary diet, which hardly seemed necessary. In her Sassoon haircut and miniskirt, she is a damsel who still has no difficulty at winning admiring glances.

Learning lines has been her main concern, even more than getting to treat a cigar with respect.

★ ★ ★

"Your memory gets lazy in movies," she says, pointing to the difference between remembering just a short scene and a whole play. In a way, that's what led her back to the stage.

"I was getting too damned confortable and decided it was time to stir myself up."

WIFE, MOTHER

In private life the wife of Milton Bren, industrialist-film maker, and the mother of three sons, the oldest 35, Miss Trevor didn't jump at the initial offer.

She turned down the "Sister George" script, but when coproducer Morton Gottlieb persisted, she had her husband look it over.

★ ★ ★

"I'm no good without him," says the star. "He thought it a darn good play. He's also a good analyst who knew I'd been wanting to get back in harness."

When Miss Trevor gets talking about spouse and family, she leaves no doubt where her heart is. That acting career comes in a bad second.

PARALLEL WORKOUT

"A happy marriage is priceless," in her emphatic opinion, and the roles she plays must fit in around that central concern. While she is having this stage tint, Bren is having a parallel workout in return to film production.

In "The Killing of Sister George," Miss Trevor enacts a stogie-puffing woman involved in a lesbian relationship.

"I don't think the subject should shock anyone today," she declares. "There is discussion of homosexuality on television all the time and I think it is a good thing to have such matters out in the open."

Her portrayal is strictly her own, for she didn't see the Frank Marcus play during the Broadway run and a bout of the flu prevented an inspection of the London version.

Booze Boom in Tiny Town

$1.5 Million in Profits for Store in Six Years

JAMESTOWN, N.C. (AP)—They call this quiet Piedmont North Carolina community "the town that laid a golden egg with a legal liquor store."

Jamestown is a tiny place with no police force and only 1,338 residents, but in six years it has received profits of more than $1.5 million from its Alcoholic Beverage Control store.

Says Carl Wester, administrator of the North Carolina ABC system: "I don't know of a retail liquor outlet in America for the size of the town that sells as much liquor. During the past fiscal year the Jamestown store has sales totaling more than $2.5 million."

The store, which has six clerks, is only a stone's throw from the corporate limits of High Point, a dry city with a population of more than 62,000. Twice in recent years High Point, noted for its many furniture plats, has voted against establishing ABC liquor stores.

"Let's face it," said one Jamestown merchant, "the store was built to get High Point business."

Mayor Thomas C. Ragsdale said, "The store hasn't caused us any truble. The funds have enabled us to get some projects that we wouldn't have had otherwise."

The prosperous industrial community has a new $275,000 colonial-style town hall, a new fire truck and a $925,000 sewage system and has spent $540,000 for street improvements. In addition, the town has a tax rate of only 63 cents per $100 property valuation.

MORE MONEY

"If anything, the store has put gray hairs in my head because we've had more money to spend," said Town Manager Charles P. Turner.

He recalled that voters approved the establishment of the liquor store by only about 30 votes. When the store opened Dec. 16, 1961, customers were waiting in line in a cold rain. Some had been there for hours. Traffic was tied up for blocks.

★ ★ ★

William Lawrence, who operates a service station nearby and signed the original petition requesting a liquor referendum, said, "The only complaint I have is that it causes heavy traffic on holidays, and cars can't get into my station."

The five-member Town Council, which formerly used a service station as its meeting place, now meets in a luxurious room in the new Town Hall.

The town has an Alcohol Education Center which helps educate the public on the evils of excessive drinking.

Turner said $215,000 has been spent for rehabilitation, education and law enforcement work.

Mayor Ragsdale said that when law enforcement help is needed, the town calls on the Guilford County sheriff's department.

The enabling legislative act which authorized the Jamestown liquor referendum specified that 70 per cent of the profits go to Jamestown. The remaining 30 per cent is divided on a per capita basis and goes to Guilford County and other municipalities in the county except Greensboro, which has AVC stores.

One woman resident pointed toward the liquor store and then to the Alcholo Education Center and said: "They buy their liquor over there and get rehabilitated over here."

'Open Minds Have Place in Business'

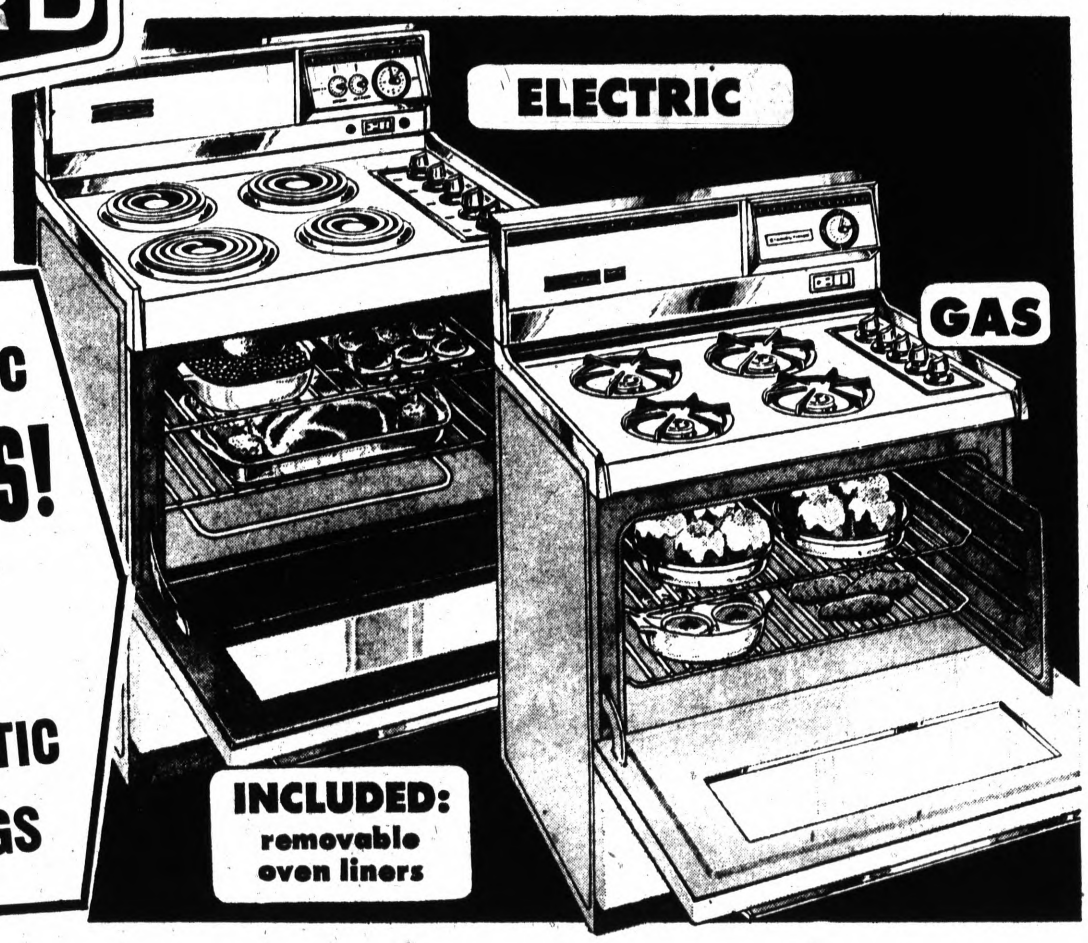

DETROIT (AP) — The world of business has plenty of room for men and women with "open minds and wide and compassionate humanity," Chrysler Corp. President Virgil E. Boyd told 86 outstanding high school seniors Wednesday night.

"We really don't need a lot of bearded and unbathed hippies telling us that we've got the world so messed up the only way out is to plant the whole thing in petunias," he said.

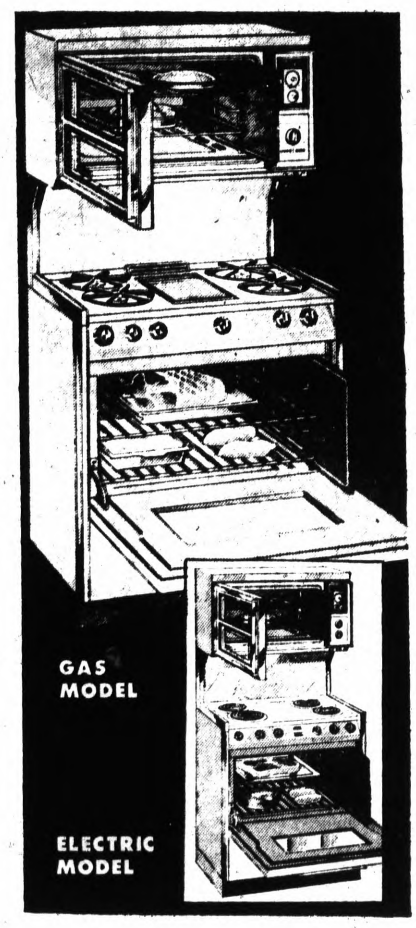

Boyd and other civic leaders spoke at the meeting at which the seniors were honored as winners of 1968 Detroit Police Department Youth Awards on the basis of "citizenship in home school and community life." The program is sponsored by the police and Chrysler Corp.

Dixie Negroes Claim Bias in Phone Lack

BOGUE CHITTO, Ala. (AP) — This central Alabama community, spread out along dirt roads, has no telephone service and the Negro residents are unhappy about it.

"The TV comes on and talks about getting different phones in each room, different colors and all that. We can't even get one in our community," says Charles Pettis, who runs one of the two businesses in the rural community, a small garage. The other is a grocery.

★ ★ ★

Southern Bell Telephone Co. says Pettis and other Bogue Chitto residents will get telephones but not soon.

'NO BIAS'

"This matter about not serving Negroes doesn't hold water at all," said the utility's public relations manager, Joe Healey.

"We have rural pockets all over the state which are extremely expensive to service," Healy said. "We have to consider each one of them on a pure basis of economics. We schedule them on the basis of economic feasibility of the project. The most feasible one first on down to the least."

★ ★ ★

"It will be some time before we get to this one, but we will get to it.

"Our applications don't indicate race."

The Southern Courier, a pro-civil rights publication based in Montgomery, quoted Mrs. Willie I. Pugh as saying she had been trying unsuccessfully for 10 years to get a phone.

EXAMPLE CITED

"Right down the road here," she was quoted as saying, "there's a lady between two white folks' houses. They both got phones, and we can't even get a phone."

Healey said eight houses are on that line and "there's no way to put anybody else on it. We want to fill up every eight-party line and we wouldn't turn down anybody, for economic reasons."

★ ★ ★

To put phones in Bogue Chitto, Healey said, new lines would have to be run from Marion Junction, 9 miles away, at a cost of $40,000 or almost $2,000 per phone for the 21 applicants in Bogue Chitto.

"It would be approximately 20 years before we could possibly ever break even on the investment," he said.

ACKNOWLEDGE NEED

"Nevertheless, we do acknowledge the need to spend capital dollars in this and other rural areas and we are prepared to meet this responsibility in the months and years to come."

Healey said some of the applications "are fairly recent, while some of the white people have had phones a long time. We have no service to white or Negro people in Bogue Chitto, but several Negroes in the general area have phones."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Amelia Boynton of Selma, 20 miles to the northeast, sent a petition to the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington on behalf of the Bogue Chitto residents.

The department's civil rights officer, William Seaborn, said the department has no legal authority over service supplied by privately operated utilities. He wrote the company, however, at Mrs. Boynton's request, and received a letter from Southern Bell promising to look into the matter.

AREA SURVEYED

Healey said that after Seaborn's letter was received, "We made a survey of the whole area. We found everybody in the area who wanted a phone, priced it out and came up with fairly exorbitant figures that put them on a low priority basis."

★ ★ ★

The Federal Communications Commission in Washington declined comment on the matter, referring queries to the Alabama Public Service Commission which has primary jurisdiction.

Opening lead—♥ K

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

While we are going to recommend the lead of ace from ace-king, we don't want to claim any credit for being the first people to think of it or to use it.

JACOBY

In fact, we are somewhat late in getting on the bandwagon, although we are the first bridge columnists to do so.

The reason for our hesitation is that the other lead has been in use for so many years that we don't think many of our readers will want to change lifetime habits.

★ ★ ★

If you stick with king from ace-king, you will save yourself a lot of mental adjustment and worry while you learn the new lead, but if you do go to the trouble to change you will be rewarded in the long run.

★ ★ ★

It has been rather traditional, when your partner opens a king against notrump, that you play your second highest card in the suit. This isn't bad when you don't know whether his his lead was from ace-king or from king-queen.

★ ★ ★

If you know that it was from king-queen, you don't want to play this way. Instead, you play low if you don't want him to continue and high if you do want him to keep playing the suit.

South should let West's king of hearts hold the first trick and it will be up to East to drop his jack.

East won't be too happy about this play because he can't be sure that his partner holds the 10 spot, but East can be pretty sure that declarer will make his contract unless West can set his heart suit up immediately.

If East drops the deuce, West might still continue with the queen, but if East drops the jack, West has no problem at all. He continues the suit, knocks out dummy's ace, gets in with the king of clubs and collects a 50-point penalty.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	2 ♥	Pass	2 N.T.
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

♠ 2 ♥ J 4 ♦ K 10 9 5 4 3 ♣ 7 5 4 3

What do you do now?

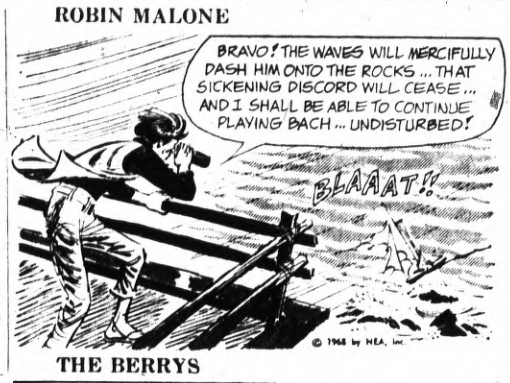

A—Bid four hearts. You have two hearts and only one spade. Do not bother with diamonds on this sequence.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Junior Editors Quiz on PEPPER

QUESTION: What is the story of pepper?

ANSWER: Pepper seems ordinary to us; it is so familiar sitting in its little shaker on the pantry shelf. Yet pepper has a most romantic story, beginning with the fact that it is a spice and comes from the Spice Islands of the Far East.

These islands lie south of the Philippines and are colored black in our map. Pepper, which grows especially well on the islands of Java and Madura, is a tall vine with red berries. After the berries are dry, they turn dark and are then ground into pepper.

We still use pepper and other spices; but they were especially important to Europeans and others before the days of the refrigerator. Not only did they give zest and flavor to dull-tasting foods but they tended to cover over the taste of food which had become stale or tainted.

It was partly to reach these Spice Islands that Columbus and other explorers made their famous voyages. Later, the sturdy mariners of New England built sailing vessels, such as our artist has pictured, in order to sail to the Far East.

Sea captains and owners made fortunes bringing back spices, china and silks to such towns as Salem and Marblehead. So spices contributed much to the prosperity of the growing American nation.

State to Review History Tests for Ethnic Treatment

LANSING (AP) — The 12 American history books most widely used in Michigan schools are being reviewed for their treatment of racial and ethnic groups, Ira Polley, superintendent of public instruction, reports.

Historians from six universities are going over the books, Polley told the Legislature this week.

He said the review "would give a picture of the treatment of ethnic and racial groups in textbooks used in Michigan schools."

A state law passed last March requires fair recognition of accomplishments of racial and ethnic groups in social studies textbooks.

The Education Department said that a survey of the 4,400 different titles of textbooks used in Michigan indicated 660 were social studies books and that, of these, a scrutiny of the history books would be most in line with the Legislature's intention is expressed in the law.

The report noted the textbooks have been criticized for "inadequacy of their treatment of minority group peoples, and a number of critics have charged that writers of textbooks have been remiss and even irresponsible in the manner in which they have discussed in their works—or have failed to discuss at all—the contributions minority groups have made to our culture and way of life."

An advisory committee was appointed to help develop textbooks review standards and procedures for impartial evaluation of the books.

'Fantasticks' to Hit Longevity Record

With performance number 3,225, the boy-girl musical fantasy eclipses the longevity record of "Life With Father." In total attendance, however, the latter remains far ahead because it ran in a Broadway theater seven times bigger than the 150-seat Greenwich Village playhouse which houses "The Fantasticks."

★ ★ ★

But for the peewee project, a batch of impressive statistics have been run up. Assembling most of them was Tom Jones, who wrote the story and lyrics in collaboration with composer Harvey Schmidt.

For the 57 investors who posted the initial production cost of $16,500, the local run alone has returned 2,100 per cent profit thus far on a $2-million gross.

In addition, there have been 1,081 presentations of the show by stock, amateur and college groups in this country, and 95 productions in 35 other nations including New Zealand, Ethiopia and Chad.

Seventy-five players have rotated through the show's eight roles during the local run which began May 3, 1960, and some returned after going off into other projects that proved less permanent. The only survivor of the original group still with it is Jay Hampton, who has enacted six roles and is now stage manager.

Since "The Fantasticks," Jones and Schmidt have written two Broadway musicals, "110 in the Shade" and the still-running "I Do: I Do:"

'Tree Shrew Not Primate'

Tree shrews, small chipmunk-like animals used in research, are the object of long debate over whether or not they are primates.

Some scientists claim evolution proceeded from tree shrews through lemurs, monkeys and apes to man. Now, Wisconsin scientists have evidence that tree shrews are not related to primates at all.

Studies on the membranes of tree shrews show them to be very primitive, placing shrews in an intermediate position between primates and insectivores.

Montreal Bombards Battered Wings

EDWARDS FOILS CANADIENS — Among the 49 saves Detroit Red Wing goalie Roy Edwards (1) made Wednesday night at Montreal was this spectacular one on the Canadiens' All-Star center Jean Beliveau (4). Beliveau and teammate Yvan Cournoyer (left) broke in alone on the Detroit netminder with Beliveau attempting to catch the corner of the goal with his shot, but Edwards steered the shot wide of the target. Montreal won, 6-1.

Detroit Returns Home for Rest After 6-1 Loss

MONTREAL (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings, battered and winless in their last six National Hockey League games, shook the French Canadien salt out of their scarlet tail feathers today and headed back to Detroit for a needed rest.

★ ★ ★

Goalie Roy Edwards was bombarded with 55 shots Wednesday night as the Montreal Canadiens soundly thrashed the Wings 6-1.

In other NHL games, New York downed Chicago 4-2, St. Louis shut out Minnesota 5-0 and Pittsburgh and Oakland tied 1-1.

SIXTH STRAIGHT

The victory was Montreal's sixth straight and extended its unbeaten string to 10 games. During that time the Canadiens have climbed out of the Eastern Division cellar to move into third place, one point behind second place Boston.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, the Red Wings have fallen from fourth to last, losing five of their last six games while tying Chicago 4-4.

While the Canadiens were peppering Edwards, the Montreal defense gave goalie Rogatien Vachon a comparatively easy night, holding Detroit to 19 shots on goal.

Beliveau's hat trick gave him 18 goals for the season while Duff's were his 12th and 13th. Jacques Laperriere got the other Montreal goal.

★ ★ ★

The Wings get to rest until Saturday when they travel to Pittsburgh for a game with the expansion Penguin club.

Senator Griffin Makes Bid to Quash Amateurs' Feud

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., says the time has come for a bill of rights for amateur athletes to protect them from the feuding of rival sports federations.

He announced he was introducing today a bill that would ban the disqualification from competition of any amateur athlete because he had engaged in a prior meet staged by a rival organization.

The legislation also would prevent sports associations from imposing what Griffin called unreasonable restraints on an athletes' freedom to participate in sports events.

An athlete could go into court for an injunction and violations of the bill would be punishable by a fine of up to $1,000 and six months' imprisonment.

AIMED AT FEUD

Griffin's bill is aimed at the protracted feud between the National Collegiate Athletic Association NCAA and the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) over control of track and field meets.

He said the feud "threatens to seriously cripple our Olympic team this year, just as it has threatened to do in the past."

★ ★ ★

"The rights and interests of the individual athletes have been too long ignored," Griffin said in a prepared Senate speech.

"The patience of the Congress and the American people is worn thin by those who have made athletes the innocent victims of a senseless war."

Congress established an arbitration board in 1965 in an effort to settle the dispute. The board is expected to submit its report shortly, but Griffin said there is little reason for believing the parties will accept the decision.

CITES CASES

The senator cited seven recent cases involving suspensions of more than 30 athletes who took part in track and field events sponsored by competing associations.

★ ★ ★

"The endless, bitter, wrangling among the sanctioning groups has led me to conclude that athletes need legislative protection so that their freedom to compete in amateur events will not be impaired," he said.

★ ★ ★

Player Safety in Grid Plans

Rules Changes by NCAA Brings More Protection

MIAMI (AP) — Three types of guys who knowingly — but legally — contribute to college football's high toll of injuries have been outlawed by the Football Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

These are the villains:

The safety who gives a fake fair catch signal, making himself immune from tackling then throws a crushing block into an unsuspecting enemy coming down to cover the punt.

★ ★ ★

The flanker who goes wide, then cuts back into a neutral zone behind the line of scrimmage to clip a linebacker.

These maneuvers, condoned by tricky coaches, have led to many injuries, Ivan B. Williamson, the committee chairman said Wednesday, and prohibiting them "will make football a safer game."

Under new rules, the safety who gives a fair catch signal will not be allowed to block while the ball is in play. If he does, his team draws a 15-yard penalty.

CLIP RULE

In the past, clipping has been legal in a zone three feet deep along the interior line.

In the future, no player more than five yards outside this zone may enter it and throw a clip. The penalty will be the usual 15 yards.

To prevent sucker shifts, no lineman will be allowed to move before the snap of the ball once he has assumed a position with a hand on the ground. A shift will bring a five-yard penalty.

Dr. O. B. Murphy, team physician of the University of Kentucky, told the committee clipping is the biggest cause of knee injuries. And the committee heard a report that the sucker shift was causing many other injuries to players hit before they can return to their positions and get set for the play.

The committee, yielding to a clamor from coaches, also abolished the punt coverage rule it put into effect last season.

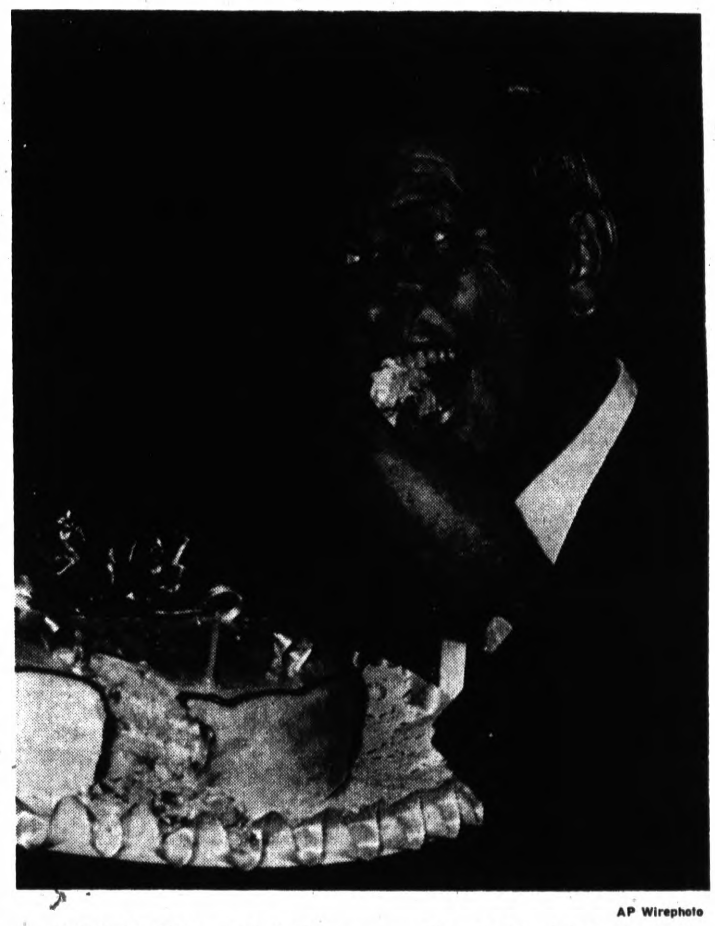

The one-year-old rule, which allowed only ends and backs of a punting team to go downfield with the snap of the ball, was intended to discourage the fair catch and add excitement to the game, Williamson said.

But pressure from coaches to go back to the old rule, which permitted everybody to go with the snap of the ball, succeeded, although the new rule did not lead, as they expected, to a rash of injuries among ends and backs.

PLAY ELIMINATED

The tackle-eligible pass play was eliminated from the game. Williamson said some coaches had been getting illegal receivers downfield by putting numbers in the 80's, usually reserved for ends, on tackles.

Now, centers, guards and tackles must wear numbers between 50 and 79 and no player wearing those numbers will be eligible for a pass.

BIRTHDAY BITE — Detroit Tiger manager Mayo Smith celebrates his birthday with a mouthful of cake last night at the club's annual banquet for the press, broadcasters, team personnel and players. It was Smith's 53rd birthday so the club provided the cake.

Tigers 'Well-Aged' Manager Set for '68

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Detroit Tiger manager Mayo Smith, who said he "grew a year older in the last two days of the 1967 American League pennant race," celebrated his 53rd birthday at the Tigers' annual press and celebrities gathering last night in Detroit.

Smith, who came to Detroit for the annual Tiger event from his winter home in Florida, will head a contingent of Tiger coaches, officials and players on a week-long jaunt next week for a series of press dinners for the baseball company.

The Tigers stayed in the thick of the American League pennant race until the final weekend when they split a pair of doubleheaders with the Los Angeles Angels, finishing one game behind the champion Boston Red Sox.

Several changes have already been made for the 1968 season. Jerry Lumpe has retired. Johnny Podres was given his release and Fred Gladding was sent to the Houston Astros to complete the deal made earlier for Eddie Mathews.

Smith said when he arrived in Detroit two days ago, he received a phone call, supposedly from a fan.

★ ★ ★

"What are your plans for Hank Aguirre," the phone caller asked?

"Well, we certainly need left-handers and Hank will have to win his job like everyone else in training camp," Smith replied.

After an exchange of opinions about Aguirre's merits, Smith then asked the caller, "May I ask who this is?"

"This is Hank Aguirre," was the reply.

Smith's comment in jest was not for print.

In looking to the 1968 season, next to a banner which read, "A Tiger championship in '68," Smith said, "I can't promise we'll win the pennant, but this team really grew up last season and I'm sure we'll have a stronger team effort in 1968."

WANTED APARICIO

Smith said the Tigers made a strong bid for a shortstop but the Baltimore Orioles traded Luis Aparicio to the White Sox for pitcher Bruce Howard.

WMU's Broncos Hold Off Ohio U.

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Western Michigan, down by three points at halftime, exploded with 10 quick points early in the second half and held off a desperate Ohio University rally for an 83-79 Mid-American Conference basketball victory Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

The Broncos, MAC leaders with a 3-0 record, outscored Ohio 10-3 in the first three minutes of the second half to turn a 36-33 deficit into a 43-39 lead.

★ ★ ★

Gene Ford topped Western with 27 points and Reggie Lacefield added 23. Gerald McKee had 23 for Ohio.

★ ★ ★

Tigers Add Seven to Farm System

The Tigers have signed seven more free agents for the 1968 season, Director of Player Procurement Ed Katalinas announced today.

★ ★ ★

In the group of new signees, there are three pitchers, three catchers, and an outfielder.

★ ★ ★

Donald Fox, son of former Tiger outfielder Pete Fox, is one of the pitchers. He is a native of Detroit, where he attended Cooley High School and was a batting practice pitcher for the Tigers during part of the 1967 season. Fox stands 5' 10" and weighs 175.

★ ★ ★

Robert Counterman, a catcher from Linden, N.J. is the only player among the batch of new players to be drafted by Detroit in the Free Agent Draft in June, 1967. He was the Tiger's 46th choice.

High-Flying Bombers Next for Tomahawks

The improved Chicago Bombers — winner over Holland and Columbus in back-to-back recent outings — will provide a different test Saturday for the improving Pontiac Tomahawks.

Pontiac Sports Inc. has announced that all adults buying a regular ticket ($2) will be allowed to bring two children into the game free for the 8 p.m. North American Basketball League contest at Northern High School.

The Bombers have added 6-5 Dion Flessner to their lineup and the ex-Illinois cager gives the Bombers improved rebounding and bench strength.

The Tomahawks, too, have a new face. Slender, 6-4 Joe Johnson of Parsons College was purchased last week from the Lansing Capitols and hit 17 points in Pontiac's loss at Grand Rapids.

RETURNS

The Tomahawks are also expecting the return of Saginaw's Ernie Thompson to the lineup and a return-to-form showing by Paul Long whose play at Grand Rapids reflected a recent bout with the flu.

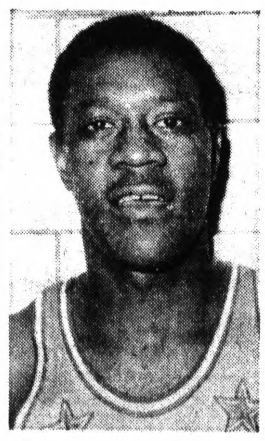

Rugged Ed Burton, "Sonny" Dove, rookie Jim Patterson, guard Ken Nevels and player-coach Bob Duffy comprise the remainder of the nucleus for the Tomahawks.

Chicago's quintet relies a lot on teamwork, plus the sharp-eyed gunning of guard Porter Merriweather. The 6-1 Tennessee State graduate has led the NABL in scoring the past two years.

Former Harlem Globetrotter Tim Robinson, a 6-5 rebounder; Willie Bond, a veteran NABL performer; Frank Wade of the Globetrotters and Wisconsin; and Grady McCollum of the old American Basketball League comprise the heart of the Chicago roster.

Following Saturday's game the Pontiac pros are idle until Sunday Jan. 28 when Battle Creek returns to the PNH court with its talented array of marksmen.

BOMBER STAR — Guard Porter Merriweather will lead the Chicago Bombers against the Pontiac Tomahawks Saturday night at Northern High School. He was a league All-Star last year and has led the scoring race twice.

Old Cage Score to Settle for PNH

CONTROLLING THE SITUATION—San Francisco forward Rudy LaRusso (35) has the ball and the action under his control as he commands the rebound following a missed shot by Detroit Piston Dave Bing (falling behind LaRusso) Wednesday night at Cobo Hall. Pistons Len Chappell (19) and Terry Dischinger (bandaged face) prepare to break upcourt. The Pistons won, 117-109.

Huskies Meet Kettering Five

Captains Ousted PNH From '67 Tournament

Pontiac Northern's Huskies will be trying to settle a score with Kettering in basketball when they invade the Captains' gym tomorrow night for a nonleague game.

A little over 10 months ago the Captains rudely bounced PNH from the Class A district tournament at Clarkston. Five of Northern's top six players this season started that contest.

★ ★ ★

Unfortunately for Kettering, most of the Captains who had a hand in that conquest have graduated.

★ ★ ★

While the Inter-Lakes League leader is taking on Kettering, loop action will feature Livonia Stevenson at Waterford and Farmington at Walled Lake.

Northern is heavily favored to make the Captains their fifth victim of the season. PNH has lost twice, both in overtime. Kettering, however, is not expected to be a pushover.

The well drilled-Captains have taken the measure of five straight foes after losing their opener. The addition of Bill Penoza has bolstered the scoring which is led by three-year regular Pete Evans.

★ ★ ★

Gene Pankner, Dave Powell and Joe O'Connor handle the ball well and get good position on rebounds. The Captains also are noted as a good defensive unit.

FAST BREAK

Northern's experienced quintet likes to run. It has the rebounding to make the fast break work. Bob Traylor, Chuck Moncrief and Don Hayward work well under the boards and all are capable of hitting 20 points.

Guards Mike Clancy and Craig Deaton are excellent ballhandlers, shooters and defensive players. A strong bench, led by Dana Coin and Eddie Williams, gives Coach Dick Hall much needed depth.

Moncrief, a sophomore, is the only newcomer to PNH's lineup from last season's tournament. He has replaced Coin who is off to a slow start because of injury and illness.

LOSING STREAK

Waterford, reeling from a five-game losing streak, will have to come up with a top effort against Stevenson's veteran quintet. Illness and injuries coupled with inconsistent shooting and poor defensive play have held the Skippers in check.

★ ★ ★

Farmington and Walled Lake, both improving after slow starts, are expected to wage a close battle. The home court may help Walled Lake.

Ring Date Set for Title Bouts in New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — Grand Rapids heavyweight Buster Mathis will fight Joe Frazier in a March 4 Madison Square Garden doubleheader that also will see middleweight champion Emile Griffith pitted against Italian Nino Benvenuti.

★ ★ ★

Lion Guard, Wife Still Hospitalized

CINCINNATI (AP) — Detroit Lions guard Robert Kowalkowski and his pregnant wife were listed in satisfactory condition here today following an auto accident.

Both Kowalkowski, 24, of the Lions of the National Football League and his wife Judith, 24, suffered facial and scalp lacerations after their car skidded off a downtown street and hit a utility pole Tuesday.

The two were taken to Cincinnati General Hospital Tuesday and were later transferred to Cincinnati Holmes Hospital.

Pistons Down Warriors, 117-109, to Snap Slump

DETROIT (AP)— Led by guards Dave Bing and Eddie Miles, the Detroit Pistons snapped a three-game losing streak Wednesday night with a 117-109 National Basketball Association victory over the San Francisco Warriors.

★ ★ ★

In other NBA games, Los Angeles knocked off top-ranked Philadelphia 125-116, New York edged Baltimore 111-109, Boston trounced St. Louis 114-102 and San Diego defeated Chicago 110-104.

Bing, the league's leading scorer, netted 31 points including two field goals in a six-point spurt which broke a 107-107 tie late in the game. Miles added 21 points.

LOSE 3 STRAIGHT

The Warriors, who have lost three straight games, jumped to a 61-56 halftime lead on the shooting of Nate Thurmond and Jeff Mullins.

Detroit took a five-point lead in the final period before the Warrors rallied for a one-point advantage, then battled back to knot the score at 107-all..

Thurmond wound up with 32 points to lead all scorers.

The Pistons are idle until Friday when they take on the Seattle Supersonics at Cobo Arena. They go to Cincinnati for a Saturday game with the Royals and then return to Detroit for a Sunday game with the New York Knicks.

PIVOTAL LAKER — Waterford Our Lady of Lakes' Dan Sioma plays the pivot and the Lakers' success frequently depends upon how well he controls the rebounding. He is also averaging in double figures with his scoring. The Lakers have won three straight.

OLSM Visits Titans

Big Night for Parochial 5's

Catholic League action on the basketball court Friday finds Pontiac Catholic and Waterford Our Lady of Lakes both facing formidable foes in their bids to dissolve their tie.

The Titans and WOLL have 4-4 marks and share third place with Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows in the Northwest League.

★ ★ ★

The FOLS Lancers are acually favored to take over the position since they will visit Royal Oak St. Mary (2-6) while PCHS will entertain unbeaten Orchard Lake St. Mary (8-0) and the Lakers will be hosts to St. Francis de Sales (7-1).

MATCH RECORDS

St. Rita and Ferndale St. James will duel for the seventh spot on the latter's court. Birmingham Brother Rice and Detroit Salesian will match their 2-5 records in a First Division Central League encounter.

In Double A play, Royal Oak Shrine (5-2) is favored to keep alive its title hopes against Detroit Benedictine (2-5).

Winless Emmanuel Christian will bid for its first victory at Allen Park's Inter-City Christian a first-year team.

Pontiac Catholic's meeting with St. Mary on the Madison JHS court pairs a high-flying Eaglets' unit with a Titan squad that has improved since its 75-54 loss last month at Orchard Lake.

★ ★ ★

Sharp-shooting sophomore Sam Brady is expected to be in the lineup after missing the earlier meeting. But the Eaglets' speed and experience poses a stiff test.

OL St. Mary's 8-1 over-all mark has earned it the seventh spot in the Associated Press weekly prep Class C poll.

Waterford OLL coach Mike Boyd has promised an avenging conquest for the Laker fans. The Lakers dropped a hard-to-take 66-64 decision at de Sales in December when a long desperation shot sailed in at the buzzer.

★ ★ ★

WOLL gave St. Mary a big scare on the Waterford court and could have the confidence now to upset the talented St. Francis de Sales quintet.

Corvette Team Enters Race

Drivers Include Two From County

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A team of three Corvettes, captained by Peter Revson of New York and Jerry Grant of Del Mark, Calif., has been entered in the 24 hours of Daytona sports car race Feb. 3-4.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

"A three-car team gives a real strategical advantage," said Ralph L. Morrison, Sunray's sports coordinator. "This, coupled with the fact that the Corvettes will be the largest engined cars on the track, will definitely make us a strong threat for victory in the grand touring class and a high over-all placement."

Junior Matmen Win

Walled Lake Junior High School avenged an earlier close defeat by arch rival Clifford Smart with a 44-23 wrestling victory last night.

There were eight pins in the match, five by the winners.

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—The Grand Valley State College Invitational Basketball Tournament this weekend will be held at Grandville Junior High School instead of Jenison Junior High School as previously announced.

Highland Lakes Ends Skid; Auburn Hills Falls, 134-92

Oakland Community College both prospered and suffered as the result of hot shooting Wednesday night in Michigan Community Junior College AC basketball action.

The Highlanders sank 46 of 82 field goal attempts for a 56 per cent clip. They held a 60-46 lead.

John Olander led the triumph by scoring 33 points. Teammates Jerry Wright and Tim Moller added 27 and 21, while Larry Hojna registered seven assists with a standout playmaking effort. Wright also pulled down 24 rebounds.

Auburn Hills, meanwhile, stayed with powerful Saint Clair CC for one half, trailing 65-54 as Glenn Lenhoff hit 24 points in the opening 20 minutes for the Nikes.

But the Skippers (13-1 over-all and 9-0 in the league) amassed a 32-16 field goal margin in the last half, making 69 per cent of their attempts.

Arnold Palmer Kaiser Choice

★ ★ ★

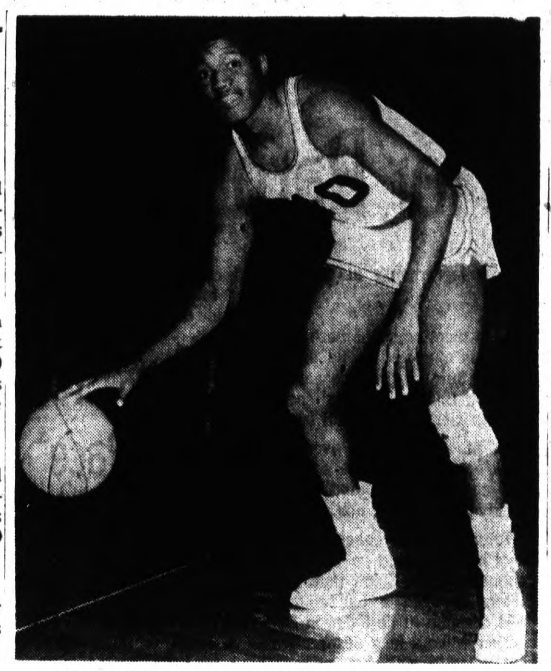

Silverado Country Club's north course plays long but without too much trouble on its 6,879 yards unless a golf ball finds its way into a creek or a couple of ponds.

★ ★ ★

Palmer, Miller Barber and Bobby Nichols each shot four-under-par 68 in Wednesday's pro-amateur prelude, worth $650 to each.

WAITS FOR CALL — Jesse Evans, former Pontiac Central standout, is one of the first reserves called into action for Eastern Michigan University. He will be with the Hurons Saturday night when they invade University of Detroit.

Angels' Tallis Fills Top Spot at Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "My timetable is everything just as soon as possible," says Cedric Tallis, who was named executive vice president of Kansas City's 1969 expansion club yesterday. "We don't have enough hours on the dial to do all we want to do in 1968."

★ ★ ★

The 53-year-old New York native, a baseball executive the past 20 years, helped build the California Angeles into baseball's top expansion franchise as vice president in charge of operations.

★ ★ ★

Heading the list of immediate needs is selection of a director of player personnel. A close second is a lease for Municipal Stadium.

★ ★ ★

Eastern Michigan Five to Invade Titans' Lair

Eastern Michigan up-and-coming basketball team goes big game hunting Saturday for the fourth time this season.

The Hurons invade University of Detroit's Memorial fieldhouse for an 8 p.m. contest.

This will be the Hurons' fourth start against a major college quintet. They lost to Loyola of Chicago and defeated Hardin-Simmons and Maine.

Other opponents in Eastern's 10-3 season are classified as small college, the same as EMU.

The Titans will be favored to snap a four-game losing streak that has left them with an 8-6 mark. Both teams are about equal in size, but Detroit has a wide edge in experience and the caliber of foe played.

Former Pontiac Central star Jessie Evans is a top-line reserve for Eastern. Although he isn't a starter, the sophomore forward has hauled down 33 rebounds.

This will be the first meeting between the schools since 1951. U. of D. won the last game, 47-46, and holds a 39-8 margin in the series that dates back to 1898.

Gary Visconti Defends Title

Men's Skating Includes Bid by Tim Wood

Visconti, of the Detroit Skating Club, is on active duty with the U.S. Naval Reserve. He was granted permission to compete for the national singles title and to go on to Grenoble, France, for the Winter Olympic Games next month if he makes the team. He also can go to the World Championships in Switzerland, starting Feb. 27, if named to that team.

Peggy Fleming, women's world champion, glides into action Friday, and is a big favorite to win the Nationals for the fifth straight time and lead the U.S. distaff team into the Olympics. She faces opposition from the nation's No. 1 and 2 ranked singles' skaters, Alberta Noyes of New York and Jennie Walsh of Los Angeles.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Olympic figure skating team will be chosen from among the winners and other standout performers in the Nationals. Officials are to announce the senior pairs Olympic representatives after Friday night's events, and the men's and women's singles members following Saturday's events.

This is expected to be Uncle Sam's best team since the nation's top figure skaters were wiped out in the 1961 airplane crash in Brussels, Belgium.

Visconti faces formidable opposition from a skater he's traded the singles' title with the last four years. Scott Allen, a Harvard University freshman from Smoke Rise, N.J., edged Visconti in 1964, was runner-up to the Detroit star in 1965, and won it back in 1966, and lost it again in 1967. It should be his turn.

A threat to both is Tim Wood of Bloomfield Hills, also of the Detroit Club. He is ranked third in the nation.

Vaughn Paces Pipers Victory Over Indiana

By the Associated Press

Vaughn scored 40 points with five three-point baskets in his total as the Pittsburgh Pipers crushed Indiana 137-101 in an American Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

But the Muskies remained one-half game ahead of Pittsburgh in the league's Eastern Division, beating Anaheim 119-115.

Vaughn had plenty of help in the scoring department as Connie Hawkins had 28 points, Charlie Williams had 23 and Art Heyman 22.

★ ★ ★

In other ABA games, New Jersey beat Kentucky 103-96 and New Orleans topped Houston 110-103.

Tracks Up Ante; Horses Ready to Go at Hialeah

MIAMI (AP) — The horses will be off and running at Hialeah Park today and the owners and trainers will be getting a larger share of the track's take than they received last year.

Today's opening is one day late because of a boycott by the horsemen who refused to run their thoroughbreds unless their demands for a bigger cut were met.

Hialeah President Gene Mori balked and he missed opening day Wednesday when the jockeys joined the horsemen in a sympathy move.

TURN AWAY FANS

But Mori gave in Wednesday night after thousands of persons were turned away from the track's turnstiles.

★ ★ ★

Mori issued a statement in which he agreed to pay purses amounting to $108,000 more than last year.

He said the track would pay horsemen 48.8 per cent of the track's seven cents of each dollar wagered, amounting to $2,496,310 and including $650,000 in stakes money. The state takes another eight cents.

Members of the Florida division of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association demanded an increase from 43 47 per cent of the track's share, plus additional money for the HBPA's welfare fund and a contract with Hialeah.

Mori's first offer of a flat $80,000 more in purses and $16,000 to the welfare fund was unanimously rejected by the horsemen, who clamped on an effective boycott. Only 33 horses were entered and only eight jockeys were listed for the opening program, which was canceled early Wednesday.

DCB Quintet Spurts

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit College of Business took the lead for the first time with less than five minutes left Wednesday night and went on to defeat Cleveland State University, 85-81, in a nonconference basketball game.

The Guns of Judgment Day

Cliff Farrell's new Western thriller

Chapter 8

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Dan Briscoe wanted to escape his reputation as a lawman who had sent a deputy into an ambush. John Cass, mayor of Yellow Lance, advised Briscoe go further west, to where a friend of his, Bill Royal, might give him a job as a ranch foreman. Arriving at the town named Flag, his sympathetic attention was attracted to an older woman. He found that she, Lavinia Shannon, was in trouble, financially and otherwise.

A dusty stagecoach creaked into Flag and passed by the poolroom with the team worked to a full lather. All heads turned.

"Ike's in early from Flat Butte," the fat man commented. "Someone must have prodded him into workin' them horses today."

"Them horses ain't the only ones that's sweated up," someone said. "Alex Emmons is aboard that stage. She must be comin' in on the westbound train today."

Several men snickered. "It's about time," another man observed. "Them two Spanish Bell saddle mounts she an' Alek left with Bill Davis has been gettin' fat on hay an' grain for two weeks since she went East.

Alex likely gave Ike a dollar to make a fast run. He wants time to git duded up before he helps her down the steps off the train."

Passengers were alighting from the stage and scattering as the driver doled out luggage from the boot. One of the arrivals was a tall, young, good-looking cowboy who wore a fringed elkskin vest over a plaid shirt.

A new, wide-brimmed, gray hat was set aggressively on blond hair. He had a sixshooter with a black agate handle in a black leather holster. He had brought his personal effects in a leather saddle pouch.

"Alex Emmons is like a pup chasin' a butterfly," someone said. "She ain't marryin' anyone, after what she's been through. 'Specially, not to a young squirt like Alex, who who spends his time struttin' around an' admirin' his shadow."

★ ★ ★

"You never can tell," another man observed. "Even her royal highness might fall for Alex. An' don't make any mistake about that young buckaroo. I rode roundup with him a time or two. He kin top bad horses with the best of 'em."

GOOD WITH GUN

"An' with a gun too, so I hear," the first man rejoined. "Provided it's from a dry gulch or at night."

"If so, maybe he got reason, mister."

"Them Baskos was packin' wasn't they?" the other snapped

"The Shannons don't want another supply wagon stampeded over a cutbank into a coulee," a new voice said. "I'd pack iron, too, if I was workin' for Livvy Shannon."

"You thinkin' of hirin' out down in that direction, Chuck?" a man jeered.

"Gawd help the man what killed Abel Shannon if Livvy ever finds out fer sure who done it. She'd cut him down with her own gun, like you'd knock over a rabied coyote."

He was seeing Frank Buckman again, young, fair-haired, handsome, the same jaunty stride, the same chip on his shoulder.

LISTENS TO CONVERSATION

Katey Royal! Dan suddenly became keenly alert to the conversation. However, the poolroom owner changed the subject, and the others seemed glad to drop the matter of the Shannons and Alex Emmons.

Dan finally returned to Heather House. The sitting room was cooler than the street, and he resumed the sleepy task of poring over the reading material.

However, his mind was elsewhere. John Cass had said that the daughter of the owner of Spanish Bell was a widow.

From his discussions with Cass, Dan had the impression that Kate Royal was a matronly, middle-aged person, kindly enough, but befuddled by the responsibility of managing a cattle ranch.

TROUBLE IN PARADISE

Perhaps this Kate Royal the poolroom patrons had been talking about was a daughter of the widow. Certainly, Alex Emmons was palpably not the type to pursue in a romantic way the sort of person Dan had pictured from John Cass's words.

And the mayor of Yellow Lance had led Dan astray on another matter. There was evidently trouble in Paradise — Springwater Basin in this case.

Real trouble, evidently which divided the opinion of citizens in this town, ninety miles away. Perhaps John Cass had not known of the situation. Dan gave him the benefit of that doubt, at least.

★ ★ ★

In any event Dan was forewarned. His interest in the matter was now purely academic. Impersonal. But he was curious.

Alex Emmons appeared from his room. He was shaved and combed and had changed to more conservative garb. He wore a white shirt with a black string tie and dark trousers. It was a considerable contrast to the attire in which he had arrived.

It was calculated to make him appear more mature and steadfast. But he still carried the black-handled six-shooter.

Emmons, of course, was dressed to impress the person he had come to Flag to meet. Kate Royal, if the pool patrons were on the right track. Emmons walked through the sitting room and to the street, giving Dan only a disinterested glance.

★ ★ ★

The distant wail of a whistle announced the approach of a train from the East. Alex Emmons lengthened his stride as he headed down the street toward the depot.

Dan arose and moved to the window to watch. Within him was disappointment. He had not realized until this moment how high he had built his hopes.

It was that name — Springwater Basin — that had deluded him with its picture of peace and a chance to start a new career under a new name.

That was over now, of course. The stage for Flat Butte and Springwater Basin would be leaving in the morning, but he would not be aboard. He had the sudden impulse to hurry to the depot and catch this westbound train, whose destination must be California.

★ ★ ★

But the whistle of the locomotive was loud over the town. He could hear the slap of couplings and the grind of wheels as the express made its stop. There would be no time to gather his belongings and reach the depot in time.

He relaxed. There was no real need for haste. There would be another train tomorrow.

Then he admitted the real reason why he was content to stay a few more hours. He wanted to get a look at this Kate Royal. What was it someone had called her in the poolroom? Her royal highness.

He remained at his viewpoint which commanded the end of the depot where the locomotive and a mail car blocked the street.

Alex Emmons came into view, his hand on the arm of a woman. She was obviously slender and tall, but she wore a linen dust coat and had a scarf tied over the top of her bonnet and under her chin so that age, shape, and beauty were impossible to estimate at this distance.

Edinburgh U. Pill Dispute Is Now a National Debate

It started when Malcolm Muggeridge, author and professional cynic, resigned as rector of the Scottish university because of student demands that the pill be made freely available.

★ ★ ★

Muggeridge, 64, scathingly accused students of "slobbering debauchery." He linked the pill with drugs as "a tenth-rate sort of escapism and indulgence."

But Heln Brook, founder of an independent organization to give sex advice to young people, says she will go ahead with her plan to open a birth control center in Edinburgh.

CAN'T STOP

"Life cannot stop for Mr. Muggeridge," she said.

"Nothing he says will deter us. How can he not wish to prevent unwanted children being born?"

Five Brook centers are already operating—two in London, one in Cambridge, one in Birmingham and another in Liverpool.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Maurice Potts, an official at Cambridge University and secretary of the committee which runs the Cambridge birth control center, denounced Muggeridge's attitude as outdated.

"The real answer to Muggeridge is that he ought to get out and see what the problem actually is," he said. "We are not encouraging promiscuity."

300 CLIENTS

The Cambridge center has been open for a year and about 300 young people have sought advice there.

The university chaplain, Canon Hugh Monteflore, said: "The young people here have been going to the centers in a sober and responsible way.

"We don't just dish out the pill indiscriminately. The centers also offer advice on a whole range of emotional problems."

★ ★ ★

The attitude at London University is similar—that it's better to prescribe the pill than to risk unwanted pregnancies.

The actual prescribing of the pill is left to doctors in the university's health service center which deals with 7,000 students.

"I think it should be obligatory for girls to take the pill for the three years they are at university," said a doctor at the center.

Another center is at the London School of Economics.

Miss Joan Freedman, 20-year-old deputy president of the school's student's union, said: "The center has filled a great need here. I think contraceptive clinics should be set up in universities throughout the country. Being against the whole idea is like burying your head in the sand."

But Muggeridge's message may be getting through.

Students at Edinburgh University, whose representatives had earlier denounced Muggeridge for his stand on the pill, gave him a vote of support by 479 to 414 Tuesday.

Reaction to LBJ Speech

Mart Advances on Broad Front

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced on a broad front early this afternoon in reaction to President Johnson's State of the Union message.

Brokers said investors' apprehension in advance of the message evaporated when they found no surprises in his proposals to Congress Wednesday night.

Analysts said Johnson's call for more spending had helped spur the advance.

Another favorable factor was the Federal Reserve Board's report that industrial output in December established the first new record in a year.

Advances of individual stocks outnumbered declines by nearly 500 issues.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange. Gains of around 3 points were made by Slick Corp., Mary Carter Paint and Susquehanna. Warner Bros.-Seven Arts added more than 2 points.

AFRICA, U.S.A.

In a secluded canyon approximately 45 miles north of Los Angeles, Calif., the sounds of 500 to 600 wild animals ring out every day. This is "Africa, U.S.A.", a 160-acre jungle compound where varied species are brought together to be trained for motion picture and television needs.

To adequately care and feed the animals daily, a 45-man staff moves about the grounds unafraid, following owner Ralph Helfer's view, and wife Toni, that the jungle creatures are tame, thus non-dangerous.

Beginning with the young when possible, the Helfers think as the animal thinks, rather than adapt it to human temperament. This established, they lavish continual kindness and affection to make the animal enjoy doing what is expected, without threat or reward. In turn, the teaching of routines and tricks, which overcome the animal's fears and inabilities, is simplified.

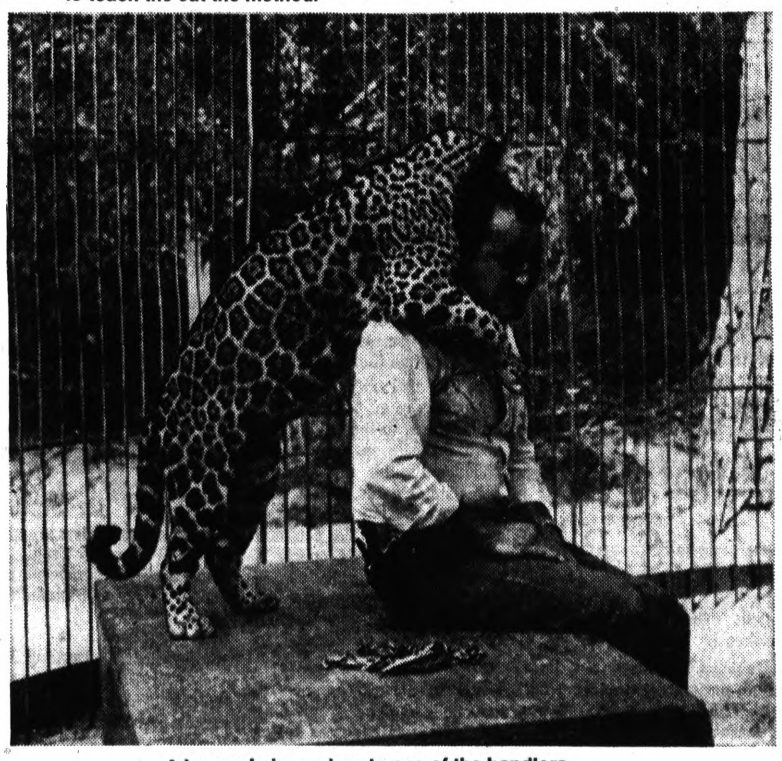

In the 15 years they have been in business, neither Helfer has been attacked. The animals, gathered from locales throughout the world, have passed through their training instead to become star performers to the viewing public.

Walking with Ying, a full-grown leopard, Toni Helfer moves up and down the obstacle stairs to teach the cat the method.

Of Misusing Ohio City's Funds

Ex-Dowagiac Official Found Guilty

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) —Edward N. Simmans, recently resignede city manager of Dodagiac, faces up to 12 years in prison for his conviction on obtaining money under false pretenses while safety-service director of Port Clinton, Ohio.

Simmans was found guilty on four counts Wednesday night of misusing Port Clinton city funds between March 1964 and June 1965. He could get up to three years on each count. No date was set for sentencing.

★ ★ ★

In Dowagiac the City Council met in a special session and accepted Simmans' resignation, which had been submitted Dec. 1 when the charges were first made public. The council named Donald Scripter, assistant director of municipal finances, as acting city manager.

Simmans was given 30 days to appeal for a new trial. The jury deliberated about three hours in Common Pleas Court here. The trial was moved to Toledo after his attorney claimed news coverage had made a fair trial impossible in Ottawa County.

TESTIMONY

Simmans testified in his own defense Wednesday and described James Reed, whose name was signed to four checks worth about $2,500 in city funds, as a supplies broker.

Ottawa County Prosecutor Lowell Petersen contended during the trial that Reed did not exist. Simmans said he had tried unsuccessfully to locate Reed, whom he described as about 70 years old.

★ ★ ★

Hugh Leggette of Columbus was called by Peterson as a handwriting expert and testified that Simmans had written the four checks made out to the Erie Water Supply Co. and cashed at a Sandusky supermarket.

Waterford School Board Slates Financial Review

The Waterford Township Board of Education is expected to devote much discussion to the school district's serious financial status at its 7:30 meeting tonight.

Joseph A. Giddis, associate superintendent for business, is scheduled to present a financial review, and Supt. of Schools Dr. Don O. Tatroe is expected to recommend the formation of a citizens' financial review committee.

Also up for discussion is a report of the staff's reaction to proposed budget reductions for the 1968-69 school year.

The proposed cutbacks followed a Nov. 30 election in which district voters defeated a 7½-mill property tax increase.

★ ★ ★

In other business, the board is scheduled to discuss what schools will house the Indicom project which now has offices at 3576 Cass-Elizabeth.

Ex-Governor Is Hospitalized

DETROIT (UPI) — G. Mennen Williams, former six-term Michigan governor, was reported in good condition after he was taken to a Detroit hospital for a bladder infection.

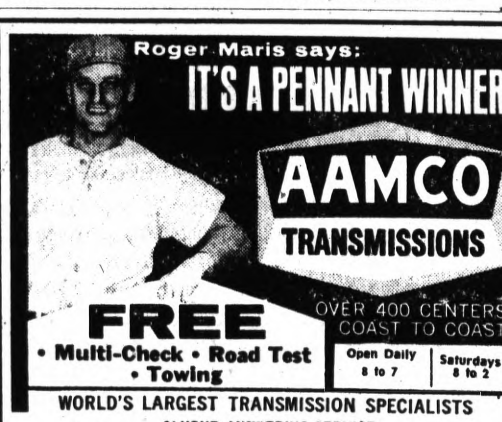

Williams, who will be 57 next month, was taken to Jennings Memorial Hospital Tuesday by his wife after spending a restless night at his Grosse Pointe home, his office said.

A kidney stone operation at the height of the 1966 Senate race hospitalized Williams for several days.

Williams, still undecided about a political future, is chairman of the Wayne County Office of Economic Opportunity and also a statewide advisory citizens committee for higher education.

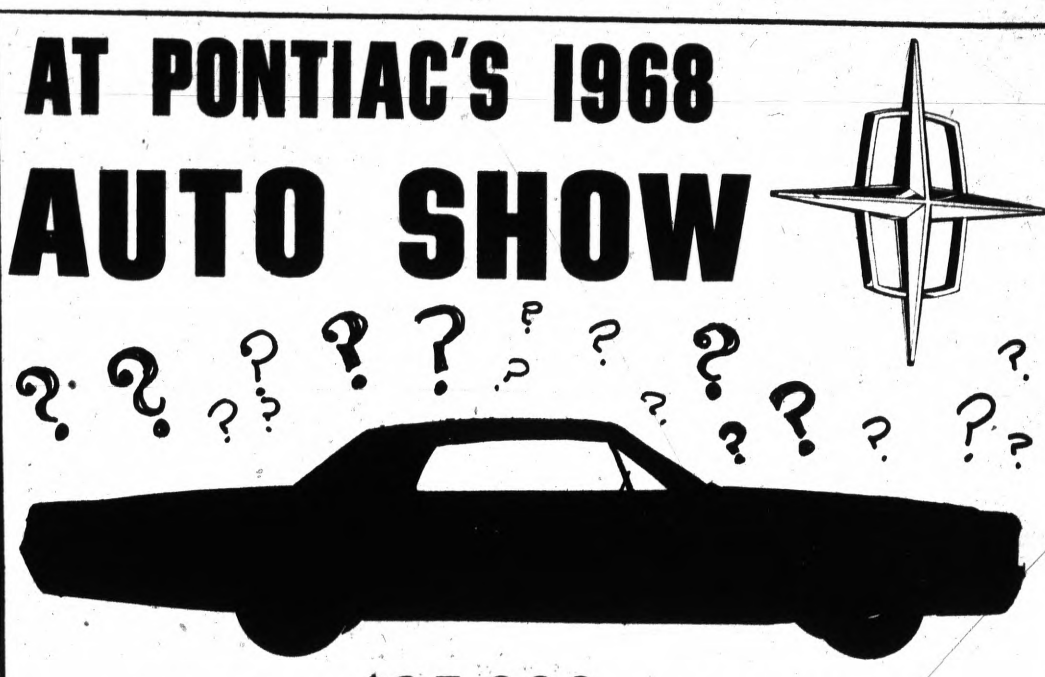

★ ★ ★

He also is writing a book about his experience as assistant secretary of state for African affairs during the Kennedy administration.

HARBOR PATROL

Off the Kwangtung Coast of southern China, at the mouth of the Chu Kiang River, is the deep sheltered harbor of Hong Kong. Over its 17 square miles, with east and west entrances, pass ships up to 40,000 tons, crossing bows with a continual flow of sampans, junks, ferries and yachts of all sizes.

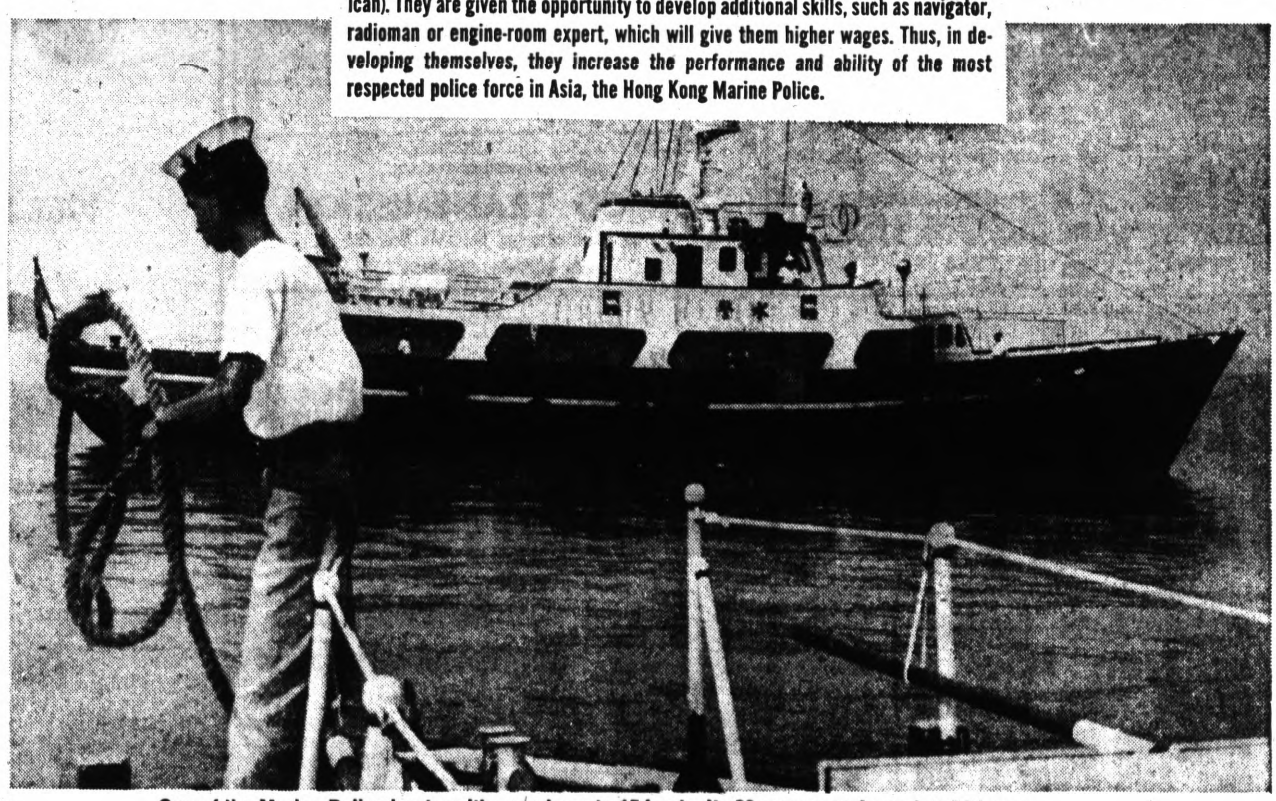

Patrolling this area to deal with routine inspections of licenses, life preservers, fire-fighting equipment and general ship conditions is the Hong Kong Marine Police. Under British superintendents, the 2,000-man force, 98% Chinese, also make periodic searches of suspicious vessels for smuggled drugs or would-be immigrants fleeing the Communist China mainland. Monthly, some 50 to 200 of these refugees are caught and returned.

The harbor areas, and waters up to the Red Chinese 'dividing line', are part of the patrol run. Also, four-day "village penetration patrols" move through Kowloon Peninsula and the 20-odd inhabited islands within the territorial waters, bringing to some villages the only outside authority they ever see.

For this effort, the men receive $400 Hong Kong dollars monthly ($90. American). They are given the opportunity to develop additional skills, such as navigator, radioman or engine-room expert, which will give them higher wages. Thus, in developing themselves, they increase the performance and ability of the most respected police force in Asia, the Hong Kong Marine Police.

One of the Marine Police boats, with speeds up to 15 knots. Its 20-man crew is on duty 72 hours.

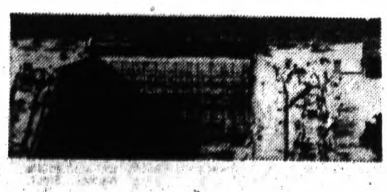

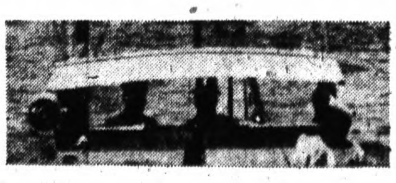

At a "walla-walla", or water-taxi, Inspector K. T. Wong, with crew members, investigates licenses and the ship's interior.

PAUSE FOR RETOUCH — Action was heavy on Anzio beach — so rough that occasionally invasion forces had to pause for a dab of powder and general freshing of makeup. At least that's the scene on the movie set of "Anzio," for actor Robert Mitchum, who plays a war correspondent. The picture is being filmed at the scene of the allied landing south of Rome during World War II.

U.S. Casualties in War Up Sharply Last Week

SAIGON (AP) — American casualties in the Vietnam war rose sharply last week. The U.S. Command reported today that 278 men were killed in action and 1,323 wounded, compared with 184 killed and 1,132 wounded the week before.

The South Vietnamese Command reported its casualties also went up markedly.

Enemy casualties last week dropped to 2,216 killed, the two commands said, a major decline from the record 2,868 reported for the previous week.

The U.S. Command said action last week was "characterized by moderate to heavy engagements."

711 HOSPITALIZED

Of the 1,323 Americans wounded last week, the command said 711 required hospitalization.

The report increased the total American combat casualties in the war to 16,549 killed and 102,197 wounded. The command said another 968 Americans are listed as missing, captured or interned since Jan. 1, 1961.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 357 government troops were killed last week, 946 were wounded and 110 were missing or captured. These tolls are among the heaviest of the war for South Vietnamese forces.

South Vietnamese casualties reported for the week before were 263 killed, 657 wounded and 83 missing or captured.

Of the 2,216 enemy reported killed last week, South Vietnamese headquarters said 605 were killed by government troops and the rest by U.S. and other allied forces.

The U.S. Command said there were no personnel killed in action last week among other allied forces, only four wounded and none missing.

The report said there were 486,000 U.S. military personnel in South Vietnam by midnight Saturday, an increase of 4,000 over the total reported for the previous week.

The total of other foreign allied personnel was 60,000 a drop of 1,000 from the previous week.

The U.S. estimate of enemy strength was the same it has been for weeks—223,000 to 248,000 military, and 75,000 to 85,000 political workers.

Clearing of Way to Mailboxes Urged

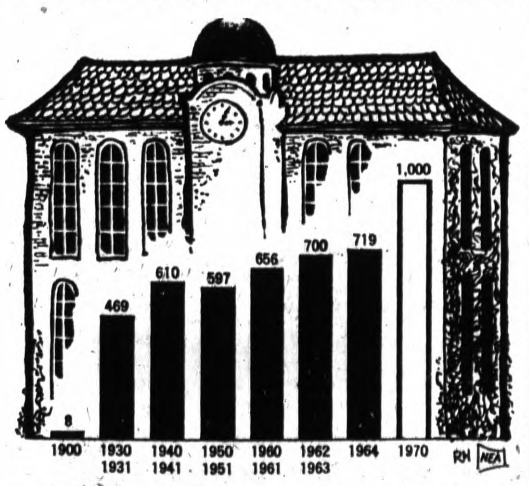

Postal patrons are requested to clear approaches to their mailboxes in order to receive service, Pontiac Postmaster William W. Donaldson said today.

★ ★ ★

Patrons living on routes served by foot carriers are urged to keep their walks and steps free of snow and ice.

Mail carriers are anxious to give good service but are cautioned not to give service where dangerous conditions on walks or steps might invite a fall or broken limb, Donaldson said.

BURGEONING CAMPUSES

STEADY GROWTH—The number of higher education institutions in the United States has been increasing as steadily as total enrollment. Junior colleges account for the bulk of recent growth. During the peak period of postwar growth, 50 new two-year schools have been opening each year.

Items Stolen From Home Worth $2,395

Township police said the loot consisted of four shotguns, two rifles, two cameras, two tuxedos, a television set, a projector, jewelry and a bottle of whisky.

★ ★ ★

Most of the items were taken from the basement, police said.

The intruders, who gained entry to the home by prying open a basement door, rifled through drawers, closets and cupboards.

Probe of Arms Theft Brings Little Success

Pontiac police said today they have followed up on dozens of leads in their investigation of the Jan. 7 theft of weapons from the city's Army Reserve Center, 40 Walnut.

However, they said, none of the leads have proved very useful.

"It's a tedious process of checking out every rumor and every possibility," said Detective James Fritz of the burglary detail.

More than 50 weapons, including automatic rifles and pistols and four bazooka-type rocket launchers, were discovered missing by an officer who had scheduled his unit for drill.

★ ★ ★

Investigators said the burglars had entered the building by prying open a rear overhead door and then had used bolt cutters to enter caged-in storage areas.

LACKED COMPONENTS

Most of the weapons lacked components necessary for operation and no ammunition was stored in the center.

★ ★ ★

The investigation, aided by FBI, State Police and military intelligence personnel, has concentrated on a search for the stolen items.

★ ★ ★

"Sooner or later, one of the weapons will be let out of hiding and we'll get a legitimate lead to it," said Fritz.

U.S. Copter Rescues GI From Vietcong

CAN THO, Vietnam (AP) — An American infantryman captured by the Vietcong was dramatically rescued in the Mekong Delta by an Army helicopter gunship that attacked the guerrillas, a U.S. officer said today.

The soldier had been taken by the Vietcong earlier this month, only 24 hours before he was to return home at the end of his tour in South Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

It was the only such helicopter rescue recorded in the war and one of the very few times any serviceman has been freed from Vietcong captivity. The most notable previous instance was the escape last July of a Navy pilot, Lt. (j.g.) Dieter Dengler.

The identity of the freed American was not immediately disclosed. He was reported to have been sent back to the United States.

10-DAY CAPTIVITY

He was plucked to safety about a week ago after having been held by the Vietcong for about 10 days.

As pieced together from several military sources, the rescue was a hair-raising adventure in which the soldier narrowly escaped being killed by the helicopter that later saved him.

★ ★ ★

The helicopter was operating in a free-fire zone, an area in which all traffic is forbidden.

It came upon a suspicious sampan carrying three men.

The helicopter swept down in a strafing pass and the men in the boat dived into the water.

TWO VERSIONS

One version of the incident was that the American stayed in the bottom of the sampan. Another was that he dived in the water and made it to the safety of the canal bank.

Agunner aboard the helicopter had a quick look at the men during the strafing pass and told the pilot he believed one looked like an American.

STOPPED SHOOTING

The pilot ordered the shooting stopped.

The infantryman stood up and began waving. The chopper dropped hastily into the Vietcong-infested area and the door gunner hauled him into the cabin.

The infantryman, though tired and jumpy, was reported to be unhurt.

★ ★ ★

He was, however, hospitalized in Saigon while intelligence officers questioned him for any information he might have concerning other Americans known to be held in the delta.

Evidently the Vietcong were transporting him to some kind of camp at the time he was spotted.

Son of Victim to Testify Again

The trial of a Pontiac Township man charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of his mother-in-law continued today in Oakland County Circuit Court with the victim's son returning to the stand to testify.

Gary W. Falls, 22, of 2581 Peters, Pontiac Township, said yesterday he was standing near his mother, Mrs. Arthur Falls, 1315 Gettysburg, Avon Township, when she was shot by Paul McDonald, 40.

McDonald of 3399 Shimmons has been held in the Oakland County Jail since the May 2, 1967, shooting.

The victim's husband testified earlier in the day that he and his son were working on his daughter's car in the driveway when McDonald approached them and forced them into the basement at gunpoint.

★ ★ ★

The Senior Falls said that as they were going down the stairs, Mrs. Falls was just starting to come up from the basement.

'GRABBED RIFLE'

"I can only remember her saying 'Oh my God' and then a shot rang out," Falls recalled.

He said that he turned and grabbed the rifle from McDonald and then he and his son wrestled McDonald to the ground.

When McDonald tried to escape while Falls was calling police and an ambulance, Falls said that he told his daughter, Dorothy (McDonald's estranged wife), to hit McDonald in the head with the butt of the rifle.

★ ★ ★

"Gary had to tell her to stop," said Falls.

The jury trial is being heard before Judge William R. Beasley.

False Business Schemes Again Flood Pontiac Area

The Pontiac area is again being flooded by false and deceptive practices of magazine subscription solicitations and classified directory schemes.

The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce said today it is supporting a code of ethics developed by the Central Registry, an association sponsored by magazine publishers to self-regulate the industry and protect the consuming public which will help combat the deceptive practices.

The Chamber asks area firms and individuals to report, to the Chamber office, any solicitations representing or implying that magazines are free or that the subscriber need only pay for the postage or the handling costs.

We must know the name of the company calling, the Chamber said.

A spokesman said the two misrepresentations are false, deceptive and indefensible. The Chamber has pledged to report any known violations to the National Better Business Bureau.

The Chamber also warned against classifted directory schemes. The spokesman urged businessmen to advise their personnel not to pay any billings which appear to be payments for classified advertising in the local telephone directory.

Brickey, who escaped serious injury, was ticketed for an improper turn, police said.

Fire broke out at the Arvilla Behrick home at 979 Myrtle, Waterford Township, shortly after 11 last night and caused an estimated $4,000 damage — $3,000 to the building and $1,000 to the contents.

Township firemen used four pieces of equipment to quench the blaze at the one-story brick home which was valued at $10,500.

Card of Thanks 1

MY LITTLE ONES AND I WOULD like to express our sincere gratitude to our families, our wonderful friends and neighbors and everyone who did so much to help us bear the loss of a most precious husband and daddy. Mrs. Nancy J. Strickland and children, Harold Jr., Timothy, and DeeAnn.

WE WISH TO THANK ALL WHOSE kindness and sympathy offered comfort during the illness and recent death of our beloved husband and father. We are especially grateful to those responsible for the many lovely floral tributes and to the Silvercrest Baptist church, the pallbearers, Clarkston Masonic lodge, and all the friends and neighbors. Mrs. Florence Milton and son Tom.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR mother Lydia Lucinda Hight, who passed away January 18, 1947.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly fond and true.
There is not a day, dear Mother,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by all your devoted sons, daughters, sons-in-law, daughters-in-law, and grandchildren.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR dear daughter and sister, Charlotte Lovell.
We do not need a special time,
To keep you in our mind.
The days we do not think of you,
Are very hard to find.
They say, time heals all sorrow
And helps us to forget,
But time has only proven
How much we miss you yet.
The Haines family.

You are reading this ad for only one of two reasons, you are hunting for a job or you have one, and are looking for a better one. Either way look no longer. My company hires about once every 5 years, we have moved enough men up the ladder, so that we need new salesmen. We are a big company, Dunn and Bradstreet rated.
This is one of the hottest things that ever hit the Detroit area. No credit check, no turn downs, no canvassing. I cannot promise you the moon, because I don't own it, but I can promise you one of the best positions east or west of the Rockies, I have got that, I can also promise you that you can make more money with my company than you have ever made before, no matter what you have been doing, or what you have been selling. I promise you that you will never work as hard as you have worked before.
If you want something for nothing, answer another ad, but if you want a real good position, call me. If you have never sold anything before, that's O.K. I won't have to unlearn you, we can start from scratch, if you are a top notch salesman now, I have a real good position. Now just an ordinary down to earth salesman can make over $14,000 per year, no traveling, no gimmick, no tall tales, no way out yonder promises.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

A Look at TV

Convention Role Eyed

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Thoughts about how to streamline television coverage of the presidential nominating conventions have occupied network executives for some time.

The subjects arose again Tuesday when ABC-TV announced it was canceling its gavel-to-gavel reporting of this year's conventions in favor of nightly 90-minute prime time wrap-ups.

ABC-TV is having over-all budget headaches, but the network says it was searching for alternativess to gavel-to-gavel coverage anyway.

The obvious ideal answer — for television — would be for the conventions to streamline their own basic procedures, with an eye to a more video-oriented presentation.

ABC-TV's nightly wrap-up plan is far from the over-all solution being sought. For, rather than tightening the live coverage, it all but eliminates it — and this unfortunately means losing the drama of historic moments as they happen, forfeiting the thing television does best.

AN ALTERNATIVE

Among the alternatives the network considered was "selective coverage" — in short, moving in on the story when something is happening.

This idea was inaugurated several years ago by CBS-TV in its coverage of space shots, but failed to hold up. The problem, basically, was: once you cut away from a story, how can you hold the audience so that it is still there when you want to go back?

The experiment proved that a competitor who offers running coverage will win hands down every time.

Television offers the gift of bringing back intimacy and immediacy to politics, and this vital offering to the public should be encouraged and intensified rather than diluted.

Bank's Bid Low on Loan for Renewal

First National City Bank of New York was the lowest of five bidders yesterday on the sale of $1,015,000 in preliminary loan notes for Pontiac's R44 urban renewal project area.

★ ★ ★

The bank quoted an interest rate of 3.38 per cent on the notes due in six months.

Director of Urban Renewal and Planning James L. Bates said the Chicago regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development approved the bid yesterday by telephone.

Other bidders and the interest rates quoted:

★ ★ ★

Morgan Guarantee Trust with Solomon and Hutzler, 3.39; First National Bank of Boston, 3.40; Chemichal Bank of New York, 3.43; and Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust of Chicago, 3.49.

Act of Vandalism Causes Nebraska Lake Level Drop

State Game Commission Director M. O. Steen said Wednesday the water level dropped eight feet in Grove Lake before the drain-off was spotted.

★ ★ ★

"With determined malicious intent, hoods opened the spillway valve in an attempt to drain the 50-acre impoundment," Steen said.

He said the vandalism has rendered the lake unsafe for ice fishing. The lake had ranged in depth up to 26 feet.

Priest Lauds Church Reform

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The president of the University of Notre Dame, declaring he approves of modern dress for nuns, warns, "There will always be tension between those who want to go one way fast and those who want to go another way slowly."

★ ★ ★

Father Hesburgh said because of the current debate over Church politics, within 10 years the church will be improved.

"Reform can never come fast enough to suit everyone," he said.

Epidemic Survey Has Bug in It

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A report determing whether the Albany area is in the midst of a flu epidemic won't be completed this week as planned.

A spokesman for the Albany County Health Department said Wednesday so many members of the department were ill that completion of the report had to be postponed.

No Longer a 'Professional,' Marx Now a Patriotic Rebel

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Groucho Marx at 72 has decided to quit acting "professionally"—and will only do TV and radio programs that will help American people "because my conscience tells me I owe something to my country."

WILSON

He'll appear on programs such as the Public Broadcasting's Channel 13 show in which he and Betty Furness will attack high interest rates, and the companies that sell poisoned meats and exploit poverty-stricken Negroes and Puerto Ricans in the slums.

"I'm not interested in shows where I can make a lot of money, and I'm not doing this because I can't get other jobs," Groucho told me. "But I've been funny for 50 years.

"The high interest rates charged these poor people, especially Negroes, are unbelievable. A lot of these fellows are going to come home from Vietnam and show how they feel about how their families were taken advantage of while they were away.

"I also think we should get the hell out of Vietnam and get the hell out of Lyndon Johnson. I'm for Rockefeller."

Groucho's targets will include "the evils of alimony" and "planned obsolescence" wherein so many products seem to wear out sooner than they should.

I'm not a missionary or a Holy Roller," he said. "I just think it's a patriotic gesture. I don't say I wouldn't do a good show if one came along but mostly I'm going to try to do some good.

"I'm a rebel. I'm the last of the angry old men."

School Roof Collapse Eyed

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Officials were told Wednesday that the roof of the Quail Hollow Junior High School cafeteria collapsed under the weight of ice and snow last Saturday because two supporting columns were erased when design drawings were being revised.

★ ★ ★

Oil Pours Into Bay; Scores of Birds Die

MORRO BAY, Calif. (AP) — Dead sea birds by scores turned up on blackened beaches after an oil company tanker accidentally dumped 2,800 barrels of industrial oil into Morro Bay.

Richfield Oil Co. said its tanker Catawbe Ford was pumping oil into a steam power plant Wednesday when the 37-foot-long submarine pipeline snapped.

The California Fish and Game Commission is investigating whether other fish and wildlife, including the bay's famous clams, were injured.

New Computer Will Get Word

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A University of Texas engineer is working on a computer that can convert spoken numbers to electric signals, and he hopes it will understand everything from a Texas drawl to a Cockney accent.

★ ★ ★

"We hope we won't have to teach people to talk to the machine," says Dr. C. L. Coates, professor of electrical engineering and computer sciences.

Coates said the machine would be of tremendous practical value, as a desk calculator, for instance.

Coates says although progress has been made, much research remains to be done.

LBJ Asks Crime Curbs, Aid to Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposes expanding the war against crime and big-city problems and lists a "really true" cease-fire as a priority goal in any Vietnam peace talks.

The President, in his State of the Union message last night to Congress, again urged enactment of a 10 per cent income tax surcharge to help pay for new attacks on unemployment and slum housing.

Johnson said it would take a $10.4 billion boost in spending to finance ongoing programs. He reported the fiscal 1969 budget would reach a record $186 billion with a built-in $8 billion deficit sure to go higher if the tax boost isn't approved.

Only when he called for federal action to aid cities and states in combating crime and to halt "male order murder" through gun-control legislation did the President get enthusiastic reaction from the lawmakers during his 51-minute, nationally televised address.

FULBRIGHT, RFK SILENT

Johnson's renewed demand that North Vietnam respond with military restraint to a halt in U.S. bombing found such war-policy critics as Sens. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., responding with silence amid applause.

Johnson drew greater applause in calling for a $2.1 billion program aimed at creating jobs for 500,000 hard-core unemployed through federal-private business cooperation and a $100 million slum rebuilding program.

The President suggested a 10-year program to provide six million new housing units for low and middle-income families.

His domestic proposals included new prenatal care and consumer protection programs.

Johnson's estimate that the Southeast Asia conflict will cost $25 billion in the fiscal year beginning July 1 was disputed by Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican conference. Laird said the cost will be nearer $30 billion.

100 MORE FBI MEN

Asking for 100 additional FBI agents, the president predicted the nation will change frustrations into achievements to alleviate despair in "the cities where the fires of disorder burned last summer."

The President failed to pack the House. On the floor there were 29 vacant seats despite hurried movement of aides and pages to fill the yawning spaces.

Of the 100 Senators, 53 were present, including 30 of the 64 Democrats and 23 of the 36 Republicans. Of the 435 House members, about 250 were present. Some members may have decided to listen and view the speech on television.

Johnson's renewed call for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge drew no response from the floor when he warned: "Interest rates have passed the peak of 1966; and if there is continued inaction on the tax bill they will climb even higher.

'NO CASE FOR INCREASE'

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee declined comment until he studies the budget. House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said Johnson had made no case for a tax increase.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee, said he remains opposed to a tax increase.

Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., of the Senate-House Economic Committee, said it was a "serious economic mistake" for the President to ask for a tax increase without making sharp reductions in public works and space programs, which Johnson did not mention.

Proxmire welcomed Johnson's call for removal of the 25 per cent gold cover behind U.S. currency. He said this would free more than $10 billion in gold to meet international obligations.

★ ★ ★

Republicans challenged Johnson's contention the $10.4 billion increase in the administrative budget for the next fiscal year represented only built-in increases for programs Congress voted.

★ ★ ★

The "unified budget" which Johnson said he will present Jan. 29 will for the first time include expenditures for such huge government trust funds as Social Security and highway and other activities.

Soviets and U.S. Agree on Full N-Spread Pact

GENEVA (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union have reached agreement on a complete draft treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons, authoritative Western sources reported today.

The completed draft, including an article on international controls previously in dispute, is to be submitted to the 17-nation disarmament conference when it goes back to work later today after a Christmas recess.

It was believed that the Soviet-American agreement on controls would result in acceptance of the treaty by West Germany, Italy and other members of the Common Market except France.

No details of the agreement on controls were immediately available. U.S. sources said earlier differences had been narrowed down to a matter of several words during meetings in the past few days of the U.S. and Soviet cochairmen of the conference, Adrian S. Fisher and Alexei A. Roschchin.

★ ★ ★

But India's position, believed the key to acceptance of the treaty by most neutral and nonaligned nations, remains that the draft document does not clamp down hard enough on nations that already have nuclear weapons.

CHAIN REACTION

If the Indians refuse to sign, Pakistan almost certainly will refuse also. It is believed this will encourage Israel to hold back, and then none of the Arab countries would sign.

India has four main objections:

1. The nuclear powers are excluded from inspection procedures, although both the United States and Britain are prepared to submit to controls of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

★ ★ ★

2. The treaty contains no specific guarantees for nonnuclear nations against nuclear attack.

3. It bars nonnuclear countries from manufacturing their own nuclear devices for peaceful projects.

★ ★ ★

4. The treaty language in which the nuclear powers pledge to try to reach agreement of disarmament, India says, is not strong enough.

SECURITY GUARANTEES

The United States has expressed willingness to study changes in the treaty to meet some of these criticisms. But it still maintains that security guarantees should be negotiated outside the treaty. The Russians reportedly share these views in general.

The U.N. General Assembly, which is to reconvene in the spring, has asked the conference to try to have a complete draft treaty ready by March 15.

Cuba Has Shot Down U.S. Pilot

HAVANA (AP) — The government announced today it had shot and captured an exparatrooper from the United States after he dropped a package with a rifle while flying his small plane over Cuba Dec. 29.

The Interior Ministry announcement identified the pilot as Everett Jackson, 27, of Los Angeles. The ministry said his single-engine Taylorcraft was hit by antiaircraft fire over the central Cuban city of Rancho Veloz. The plane fell on Falcon's Key on the north coast in the province of Las Villas.

The announcement did not say what has happened to Jackson since his capture or if he was injured when his plane was downed.

★ ★ ★

The announcement was published on the first page of the Communist party newspaper Granma and in the semiofficial newspaper El Mundo, but without the customary headline splash.

DELAY UNEXPLAINED

There was no indication of why the government delayed so long in making the announcement. The news was first broken by Havana radio.

Jackson had dropped a parachute package containing a carbine rifle, 200 bullets, maps, cameras with telephoto lenses and a set of binoculars, the broadcast said.

The Coast Guard in Miami said it had no report of a missing plane matching the description given of Jackson's plane. The Federal Aviation Administration in Miami said its reports on missing aircraft were not available.

★ ★ ★

The plane was described in the broadcast, monitored in Miami, as a Taylorcraft with identification No. L96467.

SOLD PLANE

Robert M. Cheatwood of Miami said he sold a 1946 Taylorcraft to Jackson for $1,200 on Nov. 18, 1967. He said the plane had the registration number N96467.

★ ★ ★

The newscast said Jackson identified himself as a former member of the 82nd and 101st Airborne units, who had served in Germany with the 11th Division.

Frigid Response From Congress on Peace, Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's State of the Union remarks on peace prospects drew a frigid response from some fellow Democrats, and other initial congressional reaction pointed to continued hostility toward increases in taxes and spending.

★ ★ ★

Johnson told Congress last night that if a basis for peace talks can be established with North Vietnam, his hope would be for complete cease-fire as the first order of business.

His remarks on the prospects for peace drew applause — but not from Democratic Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and J. William Fulbright of Arkansas.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, seeking the Democratic presidential nomination on a platform of opposition to Johnson's Vietnam policies, said: "We still are told the nation can wage and win two wars — the one in Vietnam and the war on poverty. We are waging one, but not winning either."

DEMOCRATIC CRITICSM

The President's renewed appeal for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge, coupled with his announcement that spending would be increased by some 10.4 billion, drew critcism from such Democrats as Sen. William Proxmire, chairman of the joint Economic Committee and Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Republicans joined the attack.

But other Democrats came to the President's support, including Speaker John W. McCormack and House Democratic Leader Carl Albert.

Johnson Speaks To The Nation

Romney Terms Message 'the Same Tired Approach'

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's Gov. Romney today criticized President Johnson's State of the Union message as "the same tired approach of the past three years" regarding overseas problems and solutions of the '30s for present-day domestic problems.

Romney, the only announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, made his airport remarks after arriving in Michigan from a five-day campaign visit to New Hampshire, which holds the nation's first presidential preference primary March 12.

"In the pursuit of peace," Romney said, "he offered nothing new. His approach to the problems we face at home showed too little appreciation of their magnitude."

★ ★ ★

"But he tragically delayed putting help on the line for the Detroit riot," Romney said in a reference to last summer's riots which swept the Motor City.

Romney and the Johnson administration previously had disputed whether there was a delay in sending federal troops to help put down the Detroit violence.

Romney said that perhaps the strongest indictment of the President's message was his "insistence on measuring America's greatness by the size of pay checks, the newness of our cars and the number of television sets in use."

★ ★ ★

The governor said restlessness in the nation is deep.

'NOT BEING CALLED ON"

"The people are restless because they are not being called on to play an adequate part in meeting problems in the greatest period of national crisis since the Civil War."

Dinner to Honor County Leader

Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, will be honored for his 25 years of government service by local, state and federal officials and friends and relatives at a recognition dinner Jan. 26.

Theme of the dinner is "A Silver Anniversary of Service," marking Hamlin's quarter-century as a member of the county board, the past 12 years as its chairman, an unusual record of such continuous service anywhere in Michigan.

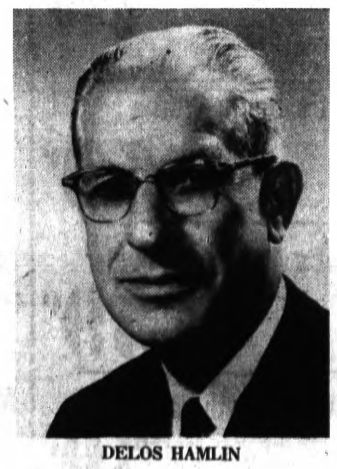

A reception will precede the dinner, at 7 p.m., at the New Raleigh House, Telegraph at 10 Mile Road, Southfield.

Among dignitaries expected at the dinner will be Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken, Sen. Philip A. Hart, Congressman William R. Broomfield, R-18th District, and Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District.

Hamlin, 63, actually began his public career more than 25 years ago in 1930 as a Farmington city councilman. He was later the city's mayor, from 1939 to 1949. He has since retired as a real estate developer and manufacturer and now devotes fulltime to public affairs.

Jan. 26 has also been proclaimed "Delos Hamlin Day" by the County Board of Supervisors, as part of the highest tribute Oakland County can confer. Such honors have been accorded only a few times in the past to outstanding leaders.

Hamlin is a native of Durand. He and his wife, the former Mildred Hartz of Bay City, have three children: two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Clark of Lakeville and Mrs. Jane Byer of Baltimore, and a son, Fred of Farmington.

Guatemala Terror Claims Landowner

GUATEMELA (AP) — Defying a sweeping police roundup to check terrorism in Guatemala, gunmen killed a wealthy landowner yesterday one day after the slaying of two U.S. military officers.

Alfonso Alejos de las Cerda, 77, was machine-gunned in a suburb of the capital, and his driver was wounded. He was an uncle of Roberto Alejos, a presidential candidate in 1962, and of Carlos Alejos, a former ambassador to Washington.

Open-Housing Bill, Anticrime Package Before Legislators

LANSING (AP)—Bills banning racial discrimination in real estate transactions and stiffening penalties for certain crimes were before riot-conscious state legislators today.

An open-housing bill — with bipartisan sponsorship—was introduced in the Senate Wednesday while House Republicans offered anticrime measures.

★ ★ ★

Open-housing and anticrime proposals were recommended last week by Gov. George Romney as part of "a balanced program of greater justice and better law enforcement" to combat tensions which could lead to racial violence.

The Senate open-housing bill is virtually identical to a measure introduced in the House during the recent special session and which—with several amendments added — was defeated 47-55.

CHIEF SPONSORS

In the House, Rep. Anthony Licata, R-Detroit, was principal sponsor of a 10-bill package which would insert in state law minimum penalties for such felonies as riot arson, assault, attempted murder, attempted robbery and other crimes.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Quincy Hoffman, R-Applegate, introduced a bill which would make it a felony instead of a misdemeanor to interfere with a fireman on duty.

The open-housing bill was sent to the five-man Senate State Affairs Committee, where it will have to receive three votes before it can be reported out to the floor for full Senate consideration.

NEXT FEW WEEKS

Lockwood said he is "optimistic that we will get the votes within the next few weeks to get it out of committee and pass it in the Senate."

Action on the controversial bill could come by the middle of February, Lockwood added.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Republican plans call for the consideration of the open-housing bill along with anticrime measures. Romney's anticrime proposals have not yet been introduced in the Senate.

LENGTHY LIST

The open-housing bill includes a lengthy list of actions which it would define as unfair housing practices and provides remedies for victims of such practices.

It also gives the State Civil Rights Commission certain enforcement powers.

The commission could petition in circuit court for payment of civil fines of 1,000 by real estate dealers or financial institutions found to have engaged in an unfair housing practice and $2,000 for subsequent violations.

An individual could not be fined by the commission, but could be required to pay up to $500 in damages to the complainant.

Nixon Quoted on Viet Stand

'Should Stop Bombing Only if Fighting Stops'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon was quoted by the Richmond News Leader today as saying about the North Vietnamese: "We should not stop bombing if they start talking. We should only stop bombing if they stop fighting."

The former vice president also was quoted as saying "there is a chance the war could come to an end before the elections in November" but that it "is more likely to end by petering out rather than by negotiation."

★ ★ ★

With reference to his position on a bombing halt, Nixon said:

★ ★ ★

"Many will say that's a hawk position, and if it's a hawk position, I should point out it's also a peace position . . . We must never forget that most of the American casualties in Korea occurred after talks began. We talked, and they continued to fight, and our hands were tied behind our back. We must not make that same mistake in South Vietnam."

LONG, HARD ROAD

Nixon said that if he becomes an announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, he has "determined... definitely to go down that long, hard primary road."

Ex-Detective Named to Fight Drug Abuse

In calling for a statewide program to fight drug abuse, Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson today announced the appointment of a former Waterford Township detective to head a new division to attack the problem on the local level.

Bronson, who in the last few months has placed heavy emphasis on the drug problem in Oakland County, said his establishment of a Youth Crime Division, focusing attention on drug abuse, is to his knowledge the first of its kind in a prosecutor's office.

Named by Bronson to direct the activities of the pilot program is Frederick G. St. Souver.

St. Souver, 32, had been assistant to the director of public safety at Oakland University.

★ ★ ★

Prior to that, he was on the Waterford Township Police Department for seven years.

Initially, St. Souver will be responsible for preparing educational materials designed to pinpoint the problems of drugs.

"We must tell yong people the way it really is," said Bronson. "We must tell young and old alike how powerful a drug can be, how it can harm as well as heal, how the mind and body can be injured by the use of drugs. It may be too late for some of them.

★ ★ ★

"Strong positive and concerted action must be taken for, if it is not, many will suffer permanent mental and physical injury," added Bronson.

WIDESPREAD PROBLEM

He said that the problem is widespread in Oakland County, but he would not speculate as to what percentage of students are using drugs.

In addition to the appointment of St. Souver, Bronson said that he has named two others to an advisory committee on drugs.

They are Richard Wilson of Wilson Drugs in Birmingham and Mrs. Helen Fenton, with the Detroit Board of Education. Two weeks ago.

★ ★ ★

Bronson said he and St. Souver are in the process of preparing a budget for the division and, as soon as it is completed, it will be presented to the board of supervisors.

★ ★ ★

St. Souver, who begins his $8,500-a-year job immediately, is a graduate of the Federal Narcotics Academy, sponsored by the U.S. Treasury Departmet.

GOP Officials in Minnesota Prefer Rocky

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Minnesota Republican officials personally prefer Nelson Rockefeller over Richard Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination by a 5-4 margin, the Minneapolis Star reported Wednesday, following a survey of the 320-member Republican State Central Committee.

But committee members regard Nixon as the "most likely nominee" by an 8-3 margin, the Star said.

★ ★ ★

Replies were received from 253 persons, an 80 per cent response.

Central committee members were given a choice of eight possible candidates plus an "other" category in which to list their preferred, strongest and most likely nominee selections.

In the preferred category 106½ votes, or 42.1 per cent were cast for Rockefeller. Nixon collected 86 votes or 34 per cent.

Nixon Leading in Indiana Poll

With 48 of the state's 92 county chairmen answering an Associated Press questionnaire, Nixon, who carried the state by 222,000 votes in 1960, was mentioned by 54 per cent as their first choice for the nomination.

Strike Paper Halts in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Employes of an interim newspaper in Detroit Wednesday were told their employer was suspending publication because demands of the Teamsters union could not be met.

★ ★ ★

Frank J. Beaumont, publisher of the Daily Express, said he could not place $99,000 in escrow to guarantee pay for Teamsters who were not working for either of the city's two strike newspapers.

★ ★ ★

The announcement came as the shutdown of Detroit's two major daily newspapers — The News and Free Press — moved into its 10th week.

The Teamsters have demanded that the Expreess hire an additional 225 members and that its competing interim newspaper, the Daily Press, add on another 192.

DISTRIBUTION REFUSED

Teamsters picketed both interim newspapers at midnight Tuesday, and refused to distribute the Express Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

In a notice to employes Wednesday, Beaumont urged other unions to protest the Teamsters action "since the high-handed and despicable action by Local 372 makes unreasonable demands upon us."

★ ★ ★

Drivers delivered the Press after union officials said that newspaper had started to satisfy demands to hire 192 idle Teamsters.

'New Teachers, Pay Key to Millage Hike Request'

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — New teachers and better pay, say school officials, are the factors responsible for this district's request for a five-year, 14-mill tax hike.

Irving E. Menucci, assistant superintendent for business, attributed much of the district's monetary difficulties to its terrific growth.

From approximately 2,500 students in Sept. 1957, he reported enrollment has climbed to 8,766 this year.

The rate of increase shows no signs of diminishing. The district added 764 new pupils this year, and next year's projection is for another 760.

★ ★ ★

What this has meant is a steady climb in the number of personnel employed by the district, Menucci said. Within the last two years, two new elementary schools — Traub and Way, — west Hills Junior High School and Lahser High School have been opened.

NEW CLASSROOMS

In addition, new classrooms have been added to East Hills Junior High and Booth, Hickory Grove, Conant and Pine Lake elementary Schools.

The district now has 135 more classrooms and 158 more certified personnel (teachers), than in Sept. 1965.

The sudden burst of growth, which was initiated with the approval by voters of an $11-million bond issue for new construction in 1966, has been reflected in dollars and cents.

★ ★ ★

The board's 1966 budget was $5,165,1711; this year, it is $7,527,255—an increase of better than $2 million. Of this, said Menucci, $1.3 million has gone for instructional increases alone — not including administrators, librarinas and maintenance costs at the new schools.

SURPLUSES

The district has always carried a surplus of operating cash after the year's expenses are totaled—and each year the surplus has climbed.

★ ★ ★

Last year, for the first time, the amount of money carried over was less than the previous year. This year, even with the surplus, the district will run $1.3 million in the red—also a first.

★ ★ ★

Despite the size of the proposed tax increase — largest in the area — Menucci was optimistic about its passage. "The people of this district have always treated us very well on millage requests," he said. "If they continue to live up to their desire for good schools, we can look forward to a successful election."

W. Bloomfield JCs Hear Debate on Fair Housing

"If an owner doesn't want to sell to someone because of his hair color, he should have this right," claimed Bruce J. Annett, speaking for the side opposing open house legislation.

Annett is the past president of the Pontiac Area Board of Realtors and has often voiced his opinions against such legislation.

A spokesman for the other side explained that legislation wouldn't force an owner to sell what he didn't want to sell. But owners should be required to sell by negotiating with everyone on the same basis, asserted Albert Munson of the Pontiac Organization of Black Youth.

★ ★ ★

SENIOR AT WSU

Munson, 23, a senior at Wayne State University studying speech and speech therapy, is also working with Detroit's Housing Commission for Urban Renewal.

He informed the some 25 Jaycees that "you may be against open housing because you feel we might be inferior or won't fit in with a neighborhood, but Negroes must have the right to buy property and have access to the housing market just as others do.

"An owner doesn't have to sell to blacks on terms not offered to anyone else," he added.

★ ★ ★

Munson went on to stress that property rights are subject to certain laws such as zoning. Open housing legislation, he continued, wouldn't encroach upon property rights except that the sale can't be based on race, color, creed or national origin.

'SHOULD BE NATIONWIDE'

He cited that the constitutionality of such laws has been upheld in 21 states.

Annett's response was that i fthere is a law, it should be nationwide for conformity.

The realtor emphasized that any restrictions the owner wants to put on the sale of his property should be upheld as a right.

He voiced his belief that usurpation of property rights is the first thing done when a Communistic government takes over.

Annett's response was that if there is crease the problem of minority groups. "We have an adequate system for enforcing laws now," said Annett who also cited the realtors' code of ethics.

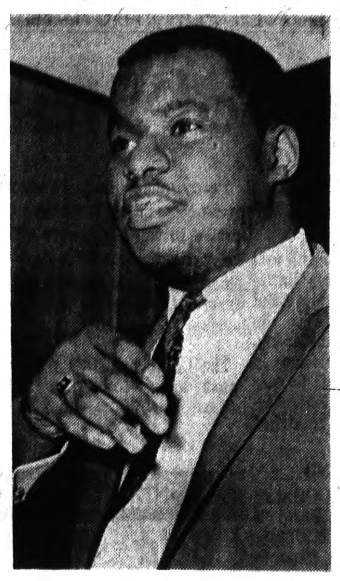

The realtor admitted, however, that there are some cases where a Negro at the present time can't buy where he would like and financially can because of an owner's reluctance.

He complained that if proposed legislation is passed, realtors may have to spend time and money to prove themselves innocent of charges made to the State Civil Rights Commission.

A Jaycee said that under the proposed law a realtor could be investigated three times. A decision of the commission could be appealed to the Circuit Court and then to the Senate Appeals Court, he said.

Oxford Township Prepares to Fight Incorporation Move Aimed at Industrial Sector

By JEAN SAILE

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — What do you do when you're faced with the possible loss of half your income?

★ ★ ★

If you're a township board and the income derives from high tax base land proposed for incorporation into a city, you prepare to do battle.

Legal advice was sought last night by Oxford Township, faced with the loss of about four square miles of highly industrialized property.

The village of Oxford has resolved to move ahead with incorporation plans which would increase its size from the presently less than two square miles to about six square miles.

★ ★ ★

'COULD HURT DEVELOPMENT'

"What are we going to do about the library, the park and the cemeteries?" asked Valentine. "We own those. And what about the fire department? That runs us about 45 per cent of our township budget right now — about $13,000 a year," he said.

Connected with the worry over possible monetary loss was the contract with the Oakland County Department of Public Works for engineering on the Paint Creek Arm of the projected Clinton-Oakland Sewer.

★ ★ ★

A contract holding the township liable for 25 per cent of such costs, should the sewer to serve the two Oxford areas, Orion Township and Lake Orion not be built, was authorized by the board after Attorney Paul Mandel said he would write a restriction binding the township only so long as its boundaries remained intact.

"I don't know whether the DPW will accept it or not," he said.

Mandel informed the board that it had little legal recourse to stop the proposed vote on incorporation.

"You can watch procedures," he said. "They (the village) may have to take a special census to determine that they have the proper number of people and the density required by the state for such action."

★ ★ ★

He explained that only those people living in the village and in the affected area would vote and that a simple majority would be all that would be required.

SECOND VOTE NECESSARY

"One favorable vote would not establish cityhood," he said. "A second vote to approve a charter would be necessary. The village would have three attempts in two years to get one accepted."

"I think we should go to a charter township form of government," said Supervisor Valentine.

★ ★ ★

"Four to five mills wouldn't make up for the loss of the assessed valuation," said Offer. "I suggest that we ask the village to take a more serious look at the consequences."

★ ★ ★

Valentine had earlier reported that some $11 million of assessed valuation out of the total township valuation of $19 million is threatened by the village's proposal.

Holly Township Farmer Wins Soil-Water Conservation Award

The Soil and Water Conservation Farmer Award for 1967 has been presented to Harold Mitchell, 10542 McWain, Holly Township.

A member of the Oakland County Soil Conservation District Board of Directors for 16 years, Mitchell was cited for activities which included installation of 11,000 feet of tile drainage, two acres of tree planting, 32 acres of woodland harvest cut, an acre farm pond, a mile of wildlife hedgerow planting, 19 acres of land clearing, crop rotation and erosion prevention.

Also honored by the district last night was Keith Middleton, 2120 Stoney Creek, Oakland Township, who retired after 18 years as a member of the district board of directors.

James Reid, 5400 Cedar Island, was reelected to the board of directors and renamed chairman.

School Board Cools Rink Bid

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The board of education here has given the cold shoulder to the possibility of an artificial ice rink in the school district, at least in the near future.

John H. Smith, 252 Woodedge, appeared at the regular board meeting to discuss the need for ice-skating facilities and ask the board for information on how to proceed.

Smith pointed to the growing popularity of skating and ice hockey among young people in the area, saying that increasing demand had led to the necessity of renting time on the few existing rinks.

He then suggested that the board consider the possibility of constructing an indoor or outdoor rink, at costs of $500,000 and $200,000, respectively.

In taking no action on the matter, board members observed that the present pressing need for operating millage (an election asking a 14-mill five-year increase was scheduled at the same meeting) would not allow any expenditures of the type proposed.

They also pointed out that the board currently pays rental on the Cranbrook School rink for Andover High School's varsity hockey team.

Prices Forecast for Wool, Lambs

Payments of between 25 and 30 cents a pound on sales of wool or lambs was forecast by Alfred Haack, chairman of the Oakland ASC County Committee.

Producers have until Jan. 31 to file an incentives paymets application at the ASCS County Office, 4515 Highland, Waterford Township, Haack said. Payment rates will be announced in March and payments to wool producers will be made about April 1, he reproted.

Furniture Dealer in Oxford Twp. Is Irate Over Letter

Oxford Township Board last night was called to account for a letter reportedly sent to local furniture dealer Edward Bossardet, last month in which dissatisfaction with both the contract and the drapes for the new township share of the Civic Center was expressed.

Said Bossardet, "You might have asked me about it instead of sending a letter. I consider this an insult to my business reputation. And why did you wait two months after the furniture and drapes were installed before finding fault?"

★ ★ ★

The board conferred momentarily and authorized payment of an additional 234 drapery charge on Bossardet's total bid of $4,512.

Talk to PTA Planned

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — "Parental Responsibility in Education" night at the Scotch School Parent-Teacher Organization meeting at 8 p.m. at the school, 5810 Commerce. Speaking is Charles P. Kotting, consultant in the adjusted study program of special education in Oakland County.

Highland Twp. Woman 100 Years Old

BY BETTY ANN SCHULTZ

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — When the first train chugged over the tracks at Wardlow Crossing in 1865, Mrs. Cora Gordon was riding with the engineer.

She was only 3 years old then. Today she is celebrating her 100th birthday.

The Leonard's home acreage once owned by Mrs. Gordon's father, Jonathan Clark. The centenarian was born in a home that occupied that land until 1927 when Franklin tore it down to build his house.

★ ★ ★

The nephew reports he has seen deeds dating back to 1835.

BUILT IN 1881

On a corner of that property Clark in 1881 built a brick house that is now known as 1555 N. Milford Road, home of the Floyd D. Andrews Jr. family.

Mrs. Gordon will be moving from a house on 112 S. Center to another house at 150 W. Livingston in two weeks.

This only represents another change of residence in her life, this time for the convenience of one-floor living.

When she married Charles Gordon, who died in 1951, she moved to Pontiac on Parkhurst Street. Her husband then operated a vinegar works in the city.

The next move was to Detroit, then to a farm on West Livingston, and then to Milford across from the present Batey Greenhouse.

When asked about her interests and activities, Mrs. Gordon proudly and contentedly says, "My housework."

"She keeps house methodically and does all the work except the washing," reports Mrs. Franklin Leonard.

★ ★ ★

She's known to have a pie ready whenever her only son, Carlton of Detroit, comes to visit.

★ ★ ★

REGULAR CHURCHGOER

Mrs. Gorden, also attends the Highland Congregational Church every Sunday.

★ ★ ★

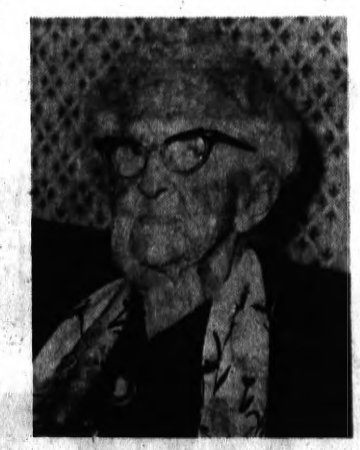

She claims exceptional health, but is rumored to take two aspirins each morning.

★ ★ ★

Noticeable, however, is her difficulty in hearing. But this doesn't stop her spontaneous joking.

★ ★ ★

Cranbrook Events

PLANETARIUM — Regular public demonstrations, Wednesday at 4 p.m. and weekends at 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. The topic for the month is "Telling Time by the Stars."

ATOMARIUM — Public demonstration Sunday at 3:30 p.m. or by appointment. Admission 25 cents.

LECTURE — Dr. Pierre Dansereau, biologist and plant geographer, will present an illustrated lecture, "Vegetation and Land-Use in the Azores," tomorrow night at 8:15 in Cranbrook School Auditorium.

A volcanic outburst in 1957-58 added several acres of land to one island, offering an opportunity to study gradual colonization by plants and animals.

Guest lecture tickets, when available, are $1.

Adult Classes Begin Feb. 5 in Rochester

ROCHESTER — Adult evening classes sponsored by the Community Education Service of Rochester Community Schools, will begin for the second semester on Feb. 5.

Registrations will be accepted from 7 to 9 p.m. Jan. 29 and 30 at the Rochester Senior High gymnasium lobby and at the first session of each class if vacancies remain.

Courses to be offered include cake decorating, pottery, woodworking, sewing, knitting, oil painting, upholstery, square dancing, bridge, decoupage, chair caning, ballroom dancing, yoga, antiquing and china painting.

Tiny tot swim instruction will once again be offered Saturday mornings at Oakland University pool.

Eastern Star Dinner

OXFORD — Oxford Chapter No. 266, Order of the Eastern Star, will serve a chicken dinner from 5 to 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Masonic Temple, 20. S. Washington. Mrs. Leo Misenar, 28 Davison, is chairman.

Trading Is Heavy

Brisk Advance by Stock Mart

Brokers said investors apparently had shaken off their uncertainty that was evident before President Johnson's State of the Union message Wednesday night.

They added there was nothing particularly new in Johnson's proposals and that some could be construed as bullish from the stock market viewpoint.

In the first half hour the Dow Jones Average of 30 Industrials rose 4.74 to 888.52.

TICKER TAPE LATE

Opening blocks included United Gas, off 1⅛ at 77 on 35,000 shares; American Telephone off ⅜ at 52 on 30,000 shares, and Timken, unchanged at 39 on 11,800 shares.

The Associated Press 60-Stock Average declined .9 to 320.4 Wednesday.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

AFRICA, U.S.A.

In a secluded canyon approximately 45 miles north of Los Angeles, Calif., the sounds of 500 to 600 wild animals ring out every day. This is "Africa, U.S.A.", a 160-acre jungle compound where varied species are brought together to be trained for motion picture and television needs.

To adequately care and feed the animals daily, a 45-man staff moves about the grounds unafraid, following owner Ralph Helfer's view,and wife Toni, that the jungle creatures are tame, thus non-dangerous.

Beginning with the young when possible, the Helfers think as the animal thinks, rather than adapt it to human temperament. This established, they lavish continual kindness and affection to make the animal enjoy doing what is expected, without threat or reward. In turn, the teaching of routines and tricks, which overcome the animal's fears and inabilities, is simplified.

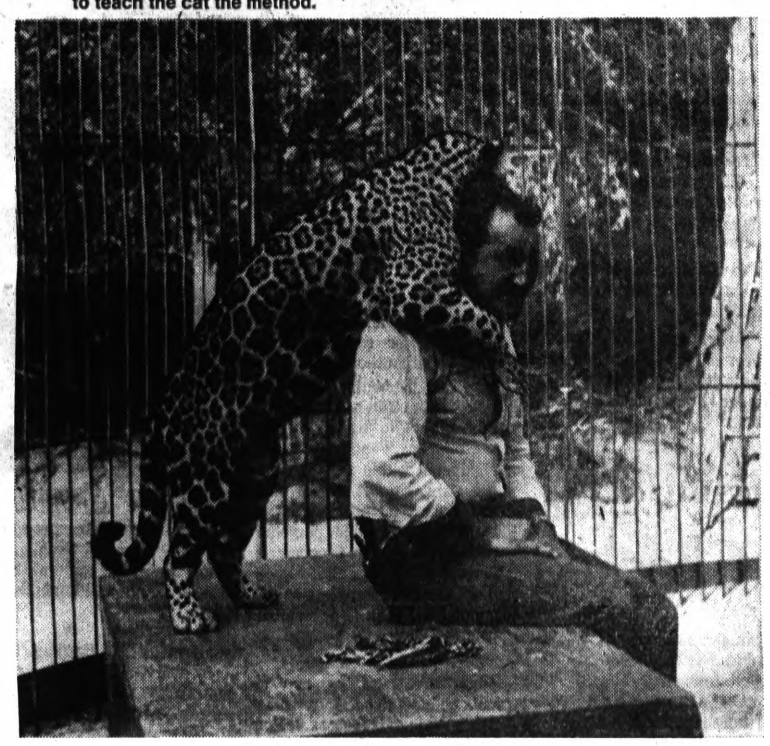

In the 15 years they have been in business, neither Helfer has been attacked. The animals, gathered from locales throughout the world, have passed through their training instead to become star performers to the viewing public.

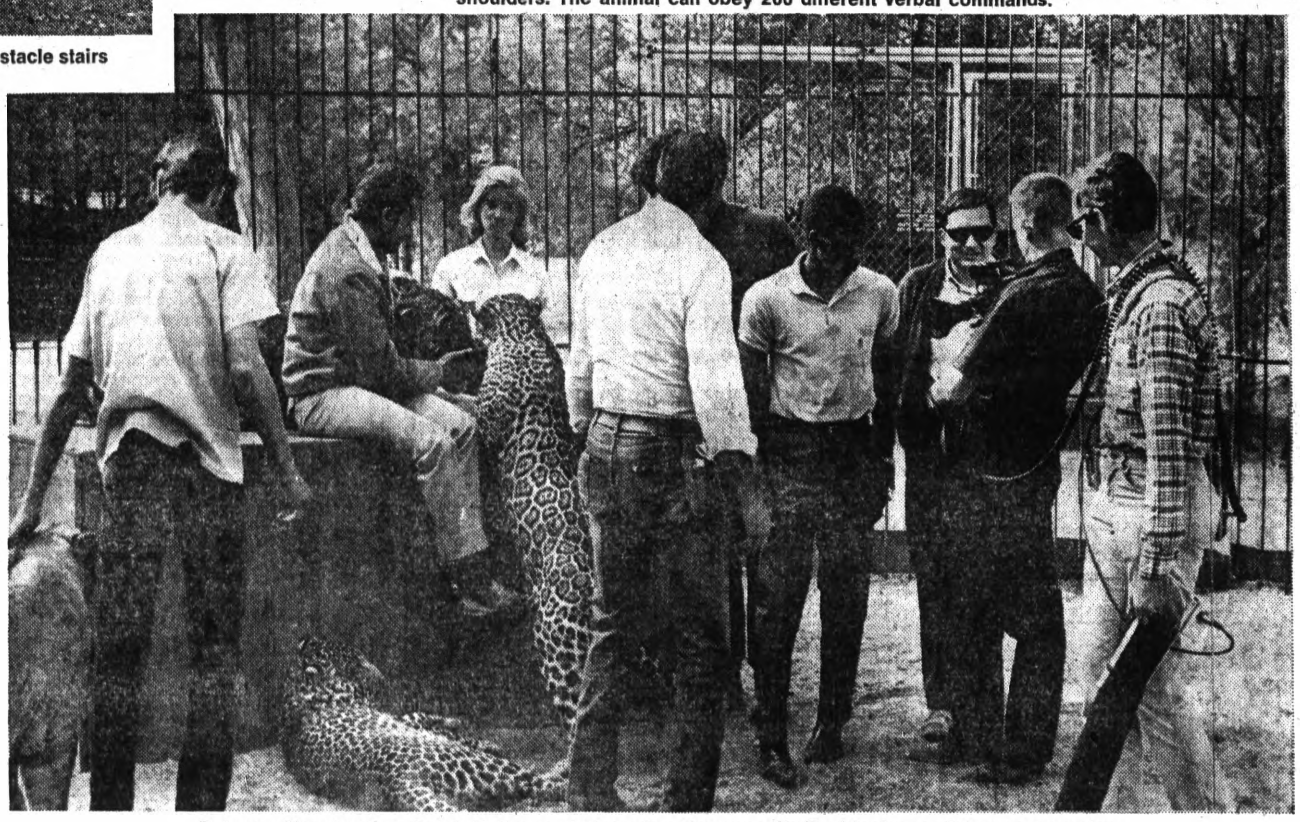

Walking with Ying, a full-grown leopard, Toni Helfer moves up and down the obstacle stairs to teach the cat the method.
