

Dems in Senate Draft 10-Point Recession Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democrats are drafting a 10-point anti-recession program which party leaders plan to give a speedy start through Congress.

The program is being put together by individual committees under the guidance of the Democratic Policy Committee headed by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

British Planning More Advanced Ballistic Rocket

LONDON (AP)—The British government announced today it is developing a ballistic rocket more advanced than the Americans now possess and is designing it for launching from underground sites.

A white paper published by the Defense Ministry said this weapon "is being developed on the highest priority in close cooperation" with the United States.

The white paper said the agreement under which American intermediate range ballistic missiles will be located in Britain "will be completed shortly."

County Dems Expect 500 to Hear Hart

In his first major talk since he announced his candidacy for the U. S. Senate, Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart will be toasted at tomorrow night's Valentine's Day testimonial dinner given by Oakland County Democrats.

An overflow crowd of 500 is expected to hear Hart talk at the Northwood Inn in Berkley. Carlos Richardson, Democratic committee chairman, said it more show up they will dine at the nearby Club Berkley.

Last week party members decided to skip plans to quarter this overflow in the Normandy Restaurant in Pleasant Ridge, when it was learned it does not employ union labor.

Hart, 45, of Birmingham, this week announced he would seek Sen. Charles E. Potter's seat in Congress in the coming November elections.

It will represent the party's answers to demands that Congress act before the business slump gets worse. Johnson is understood to have told his colleagues that while he is opposed to a "gloom and doom" attitude, he thinks immediate steps must be taken to combat unemployment, which now has reached 4 1/2 millions.

As Johnson views the program, it would shape up like this:

1. A comprehensive housing bill aimed at getting this limping industry going full blast.

2. Legislation to permit Federal Reserve banks to make loans to small businesses which certify they can't get credit in ordinary channels.

3. Passage of a post office construction bill.

4. Authorizations to put on extra shifts of workers on public works projects for which Congress has provided the money.

MILITARY HOUSING

5. Construction of military housing in areas with soft spots of unemployment.

6. A Works Progress Administration program to be thrown into the breach if other efforts fail to stem the recession.

7. Action to start and speed up with extra shifts work on reclamation projects which have been authorized by Congress.

8. Repeal of the pay-as-you-go provision so the interstate highway program can be speeded up.

9. Authorization for additional hospitals to be built under the Hill-Burton Act.

10. Action to authorize the planning of new projects aimed at providing more business for basic industries.

Johnson, who had experience with the National Youth Administration and the Works Progress Administration during the depression of the 30s, has told his colleagues he wants no jangling projects.

Republican Leaders at Banquet

LINCOLN DAY GATHERING — Among the many Republicans that chatted with Oakland County Lincoln Day banquet speaker, Mrs. Robert W. Leeds (center), were former Congressman George A. Dondero (left) and John B. Martin Jr. of Grand Rapids, GOP national committeeman from Michigan. Mrs. Leeds, assistant commissioner of patents in Washington, spoke last night to some 600 at the 68th annual Oakland County Lincoln Republican Club banquet at the Elks Temple.

'Unhyphenate and Unite,' Mrs. Leeds Tells GOP

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Republicans must "unhyphenate" themselves and unite as "modern" party members to follow on a track toward principles established by the father of the party—Abraham Lincoln.

This was expressed by Mrs. Robert W. Leeds, first woman U.S. assistant commissioner of patents, as she addressed some 600 Republicans at the 68th annual Oakland County Lincoln Republican Club banquet here last night.

She also marked up another first by becoming the first member of her sex to address a Lincoln Day banquet here.

Mrs. Leeds cited the danger of a "party divided," of all the numerous categories of hyphenated Republicanisms—modern, liberal, progressive, conservative, Lincoln, Taft, Eisenhower.

"I suggest that if we are Republicans at all," continued the speaker, "we are modern Republicans, tackling new problems and finding their solution within the framework of Republican principles."

The well known patent attorney and author lauded GOP accomplishments in business, labor, civil rights, veterans' rights, finance, natural resources and public works.

"FANGS TEMPORARY" She viewed the country's present economic status as "suffering the pangs of temporary economic adjustment."

"And as is the case in all such adjustments," she added, "some individuals are hurt. Worse, however, would be a continuation of the inflationary trends where everyone is hurt."

To achieve success at the polls in Michigan, Mrs. Leeds, the mother of two sons and wife of an Atlantic City hotel owner, urged the party to "get over our minority-mindedness."

It has been President Eisenhower who has lifted the country up from 20 years in a Democratic "doghouse," and "eclipse," she exclaimed.

She questioned the judgment and motives of those "divided and hyphenated" party members who oppose the present administration.

"This administration's program is but the restatement—to meet current situations and problems—of the same liberal and liberating principles upon which our party was founded," the speaker declared.

Congressman William S. Broomfield introduced Mrs. Leeds to the Oakland County and Michigan Republicans gathered at the Pontiac Elks Temple.

Among those in attendance was George J. Scott, 89, of 315 W. Lincoln St., Royal Oak, who attended the first Oakland County Lincoln Day banquet.

The Pontiac Board of Realtors at their 42nd annual banquet Monday will hear L. L. Cunningham, president

Trouble Brews as Teamsters Call In Monitors

Lawyer Claims Union Is Taking Illegal Action

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)

The Teamsters Union called in its monitors for a social call today but it looked as if the party might get a little rough.

Godfrey P. Schmidt, harshest Teamsters critic among the court-appointed monitors and about to ask a $300,000 Teamsters-paid legal fee in its compromise lawsuit, came gunning for trouble.

Schmidt complained in advance that two "witnesses" he called for the New York Teamsters rank and file plaintiffs in a suit against Teamsters President James R. Hoffa had been subjected to reprisals.

The New York lawyer said locals at Fall River, Mass., and Providence, R. I., had instituted ouster proceedings against the plaintiff witnesses on grounds that their testimony had brought the union into disrepute.

Pointing out the court settlement of the suit had specifically prohibited any such reprisals, Schmidt said, "Some drastic action is necessary to make sure they don't continue."

The lawsuit sought to bar Hoffa from taking over the union helm on the grounds that his October election was rigged. A settlement let Hoffa take office, and provided the union would pay all legal costs and would operate with union-paid monitors as overseers.

BECK DISCUSSED

After a Teamsters Executive Board session, Hoffa said how well the union is going to take care of the 63-year-old former President Dave Beck had been discussed. He said the upshot is that he'll talk it over with Beck.

Hoffa disclosed that he is discarding several private business deals to conform with a court order that Teamsters officials rid themselves of possibly compromising financial arrangements.

The Detroit labor chieftain said he is divesting himself of an interest in the Hobren Trucking Co., a Motor City equipment-leasing firm. He said he also was "disposing of several things that I don't care to discuss."

Senate Rackets Committee investigators in 1957 heard testimony that Hoffa's wife participated in equipment-leasing operations involving firms with which the Teamsters bargained on behalf of members.

Dear Governor: $100 Million— That Ain't Hay!

In the first of what he calls a novel series of "Dear Governor" letters, Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (R-Drayton Plains) has demanded that Gov. Williams indicate by what tax an extra $100 million revenue can be raised.

Lodge sent his first letter off yesterday. In it, he told the governor:

"I feel that a series of letters between us, which may be available to the press before mailing, as are your messages to the Legislature before delivery, may be most revealing and informative to the people."

Noting that Gov. Williams had submitted his budget proposals in what Lodge called "piecemeal and diverse messages which are confusing," the Oakland County senator said "as I assemble them, your requests total approximately $100 million more than anticipated revenues."

New taxes are required if the budget is accepted by the Legislature, Lodge pointed out.

"What are those taxes that may be fairly and honestly levied upon the people?" Lodge asked. "It is your lead, governor, and I am ready to play if the deck isn't stacked against my people."

VanHorn Faces
Murder Charge

Slayer of Waterford
Woman Bound Over on 1st Degree Count

Mostly on the strength of his confession that in a drunken rage he brutally killed the wife of a friend who had tried to help curb his drinking, Billy Ray VanHorn was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court today for arraignment Feb. 24 on a first-degree murder charge.

Waterford Township Justice Donald E. Adams today ruled that VanHorn, 24, could not face a reduced charge of second-degree murder because the death of Mrs. Hazel Murdock, 39, was accompanied by a criminal assault upon her person.

VanHorn, an unemployed welder described by police as a drifter and a drunk, is charged with beating, strangling and stabbing the Waterford Township housewife in her home, 127 N. Josephine St., Jan. 25.

During the 45-minute preliminary examination before Justice Adams today, Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem read into the record the confession VanHorn made 30 hours after the slaying.

In it he admitted the killing but claimed he "blacked out" during the actual crime. He said, "I had no intention of doing anything to anybody when I went to the house. I must have lost my head."

Williams' Plan: Construction to Provide Jobs

Issue Bonds to Finance
Public Works Program,
Legislators Urged

LANSING (AP)—An immediate start on a $54,700,000 state construction program "as a public works program" was urged on the Legislature today by Gov. Williams.

Williams advocated start of the construction, to be financed by bonds, in a message to the Legislature on the state of Michigan's economy.

He also called for a 30-million-dollar parks expansion program to give the state a lift and attract new tourist dollars.

"Michigan is feeling the effects of the national business slump with unusual severity," the governor said.

"If more time had been spent on positive efforts to forestall recession and less time in running Michigan's economic reputation before the rest of the country, we might not now have 320,000 of our people out of work," said Williams.

"The time has come," he said, "for all who profess loyalty to Michigan to cease trying to make political capital of our economic misfortune and join in a program to recover our prosperity."

Williams said the short-range objective must be "to create jobs where we can" and the long-range one to create a more diversified industry to make up for decentralization by the automobile industry.

Williams asked the Legislature to authorize a $54,700,000 capital outlay bond program for new state construction immediately, mostly for educational institutions.

WOULD PROVIDE JOBS

He estimated this would provide 5,000 to 7,000 man-years of work. Of the total, he said, $22,500,000 of the state building projects could be started immediately, $11,200,000 within three to seven months and the remainder within four to eight months.

As a companion measure, Williams advocated that the voters be asked in November to approve a 30-million-dollar bond issue for reconstruction and expansion of state parks.

The bonds could be retired one-half from parking and other park fees and one-half from general fund revenues, the governor said.

As other specific recommendations, he urged:

That jobless workers be allowed to take temporary farm and or (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Skilled Tradesmen in UAW Will Ask $3.25 Base Rate

DETROIT (AP)—Leaders of UAW skilled tradesmen in the Detroit area will ask for a "uniform base rate of $3.25 for all classifications in the skilled trades" in a program being prepared for the national conference next week.

The program will be recommended to the UAW National Skilled Trades Conference in Chicago Feb. 28-March 1.

They proposed adding to the $3.25 hourly base rate the present 19 cents cost-of-living "plus all merit increases presently received by the skilled tradesmen over the present minimums."

They also proposed retaining all differentials exceeding $3.25.

The current economic recession is "man-made" and was brought on "by finagling with money to the point where unemployment is high," says Leonard Woodcock, a vice president of the UAW.

Woodcock told the UAW General Motors Council yesterday that the economic downturn "was deliberately perpetrated by government policies."

The council, which is headed by Woodcock, is meeting in closed session here to draw up formal contract demands for negotiations this spring. About 400 delegates are attending the three-day meeting, representing about 350,000 GM employees.

The UAW's Chrysler Council will meet here Feb. 19-20. The UAW Ford Council is scheduled to meet March 4-5. Skilled trades demands will be mapped at a meeting of the UAW skilled trades conference in Chicago.

Scientists will still be able to receive the same type of outer space data from the remaining transmitter as was previously available from the two radios.

The transmitters in each of the two Russian Sputniks also relayed space information. But the Soviet radios stopped operating many weeks before the expected silence of the remaining radio in the Explorer.

Pontiac area residents continued to shiver last night as the mercury registered 3 below zero at the Pontiac State Hospital, making it the coldest reading of the winter.

Frigid weather reports still continue for the Pontiac area and all of Michigan.

Variable cloudiness, scattered snow flurries and more icy temperatures are predicted for the Pontiac area and the rest of the state tonight, tomorrow and Saturday.

The expected low for this area tonight is 0-4 degrees and the high tomorrow 16-20.

While local citizens complained about frozen water pipes and stalled cars, Pellston had the distinction of being the coldest spot in the nation yesterday. The mercury fell to 26 below zero. The deepest snow in the nation was 47 inches at Houghton.

The death of Theodore F. Fielder, found collapsed in the snow in Stevensville, near Benton Harbor, yesterday, was attributed to exposure in the severe cold.

Near Ann Arbor yesterday, the derailing of six cars of a 78-car freight train was blamed on cold and the weight of the train snapping a section of track.

mission reported local roads are in good condition today, but the Automobile Club of Michigan reported highways in the southern part of the state are generally slippery.

Highways west of U.S. 27 and south of a line from Ludington to Mount Pleasant are slippery and snow-covered. The Thumb region is generally icy while the Flint and Bay City regions are slippery in spots. The rest of the state is clear.

The Automobile Club also said its road service department answered more than 10,000 motorist distress calls in the Detroit area during the first three days of this week.

More than 2,200 drivers in the area called for assistance yesterday.

Zero was the lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury had risen to 19 at 2 p.m.

Alert Airman Passes Halfway Mark on His Simulated Journey to Moon

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Air Force scientists showed optimism today as Airman Donald Farrell passed the halfway mark on his simulated moon flight.

The blond, six-foot airman from the Bronx, after theoretically flying over lunar wastes, was speeding earthward again in his make-believe flight in a compact space cabin.

The airman, still bright and chipper, completed the halfway mark at 9:35 p.m. last night. His seven-day flight is scheduled to end Sunday.

"We are constantly surprised," said Lt. Col. George R. Steinkamp, "at Farrell's continual alertness, lack of fatigue, and especially his lack of boredom." Steinkamp is head of the department of space medicine, School of Aviation Medicine, at Randolph Air Force Base here.

Steinkamp and other scientists show guarded optimism over man's ability to withstand the strains and stress of air travel. But he said, "We've got to run other tests." He let it be known that Farrell is just the first Air Force guinea pig for space flight tests.

Farrell, living in air pressure usually encountered at 18,000 feet, was subjected to three emergency summons. He has no way of knowing whether or not there is a real emergency.

But he continued high-efficiency performance. He made extra quick time in responding to all of them, Steinkamp said. Once he had his emergency gas mask in place in 19.5 seconds.

Air Force scientists said the many instruments attached to electrodes taped over Farrell's body show no significant changes whatever. They measure respiration, heart action, blood pressure and other physical conditions. Only once has the 23-year-old son of a Wall Street accountant shown signs of irritation. He can have either radio music or taped music channeled into his space cabin. He signaled for radio music.

Taped music was turned on. He snapped his signal switch but was ignored. Displaying aggravation, he snapped it on and off several times. Finally, said Steinkamp, raucous hillbilly music was turned on. Farrell flipped it off and shrugged his shoulders.

He amazes his watchers with his lack of boredom. Cozy and warm, he ate a turkey dinner with evident relish. He takes copious notes on his feelings and thoughts as part of the experiment.

His watchers say he stays busy and call him "a great chow hound."

Ousted Counsel to Testify

WASHINGTON (INS) — Ousted Counsel Bernard Schwartz appears in the witness chair today to tell a House investigating committee all he knows about an alleged scandal in a Miami TV license award.

Schwartz was subpoenaed to the public hearing as Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark) promised "the most thorough investigation Capitol Hill has ever seen" into the affairs of the Federal Communications Commission and other government regulatory agencies.

Harris also said he intends to find out if some missing committee files include a memo charging that Thomas E. Dewey's law office refused to turn over records of a $100,000 fee collected from Eastern Air Lines for "non-legal" work before the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The chairman said the memo was disclosed by the St. Louis Post but he had personally not seen it. The missing files were said by Schwartz attorney to involve "the CAB and possibly some other things."

Schwartz was called to reveal what evidence he has of "payment of a sum of money to a federal communications commissioner in a comparative television case (license award)."

Harris would not say flatly it involved the award of channel 10 in Miami to National Air Lines against the recommendation of the commission's own examiner. But Schwartz' attorney, Herbert Wachtel, told newsmen it was the channel 10 case.

Harris made his pledge of a sweeping investigation after this rapid series of events:

—The firing of Schwartz, his accusation the majority of the committee was trying to "whitewash" the probe and the dramatic resignation of Rep. Morgan Moulder (D-Mo) as chairman of the investigating subcommittee in protest against Schwartz' ouster.

—Schwartz' midnight delivery of the subcommittee's "hot files" to the apartment of Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), Harris' recovery of the files and his disclosure that some committee documents are missing, and Morse's call for a separate Senate probe of the regulatory agencies.

GM Notes Rise in Average Pay

Hourly Rated Workers Are on Job 38.6 Hours a Week in Past Year

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors reported today its hourly rated workers in U. S. plants last year averaged a record $2.64 an hour for an average 38.6-hour work week.

Hallow H. Curtice, GM president, and Albert Bradley, chairman of the board, said in a statement preliminary to their annual report that the average hourly wage for last year was up 16 cents over the previous high set in 1956.

Contributing to the increase was an annual improvement factor boost of 2 1/2 per cent of base hourly rate, or six cents an hour, whichever was higher, and a six-cent-an-hour increase in the cost-of-living allowance during the year, the statement said.

GM's hourly workers averaged $36.63 for an average 39-hour work week in 1956.

Curtice and Bradley said the 1957 average hourly wage was "well above the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics average for all U. S. manufacturing employees."

They said payrolls of $1,855,000,000 went to an average of 350,398 GM hourly rated employees in the United States in 1957.

Worldwide GM payrolls last year totaled $2,855,000,000 and an average of 588,160 persons worked for the corporation throughout the world, the statement said.

GM said its hourly employees in the car, truck, body and assembly divisions in U. S. plants earned an average of $104.37 for an average 39-hour work week last year.

The company said that although there was a reduction in production and employment in the second and third quarters, higher schedules for production of 1958 models in the fourth quarter resulted in an increase in employment.

Fisher Body Local Turns Down Strike

For the first time since Fisher Body Local 596 was organized in 1937, its membership has turned down a strike.

While not divulging the actual vote of the 2,800 production workers eligible to cast ballots in a strike vote taken Monday, the union president, Harold A. Grant, said today that the strike, over alleged production speedup grievances, had been defeated.

Grant added that he did not "personally favor" a strike at this time. "However, at a membership meeting last week I was authorized to call a vote, whether I favored it or not."

220 Bills Flood Into Legislature

Deadline for Measures Pushed Back to Next Monday Night

LANSING (AP) — Bills, bills and more bills. You name it and chances are Michigan's Legislature is mulling over a proposal to enlarge it, reduce it, create it, abolish it, regulate it or alter it in one way or another.

An avalanche of 220 bills descended on the House and Senate today, more than a fourth of the total introduced at the entire 1956 session, the last comparable legislative meeting.

The original deadline for introduction of legislation came and went at midnight last night. But with other measures still to be drafted and legislators pleading to turn them in, both houses neatly suspended their rules yesterday and pushed back the deadline to next Monday night.

Some of the more interesting proposals would:

Outlaw pay television (Sen. Ryan).
Authorize cities to set up unemployment compensation plans for municipal employees (Baird).
Hand over $62,800 to the Michigan Employment Security Commission for a continuing analysis of Michigan's economy in an effort to hold down unemployment.

HELP FOR CITIZENS
Furnish financial help from the state's general fund to cities whose population has grown by more than 20 per cent since the federal census in 1950 (McCollough and Bowman).

Create a Michigan Automation Commission to minimize hazards of unemployment arising from economic changes triggered by automation (Hudson).

Allocate $250,000 each to scholarship and graduate research programs in Michigan colleges (Sallade).

Create a milk commission and local milk boards to supervise and control production, processing, transporting, storage and distributing of milk and cream (Raap).

Set up vocational training programs for unemployed workers, and disabled persons (Hunsinger, Penczak).

GIFTED CHILDREN
Set aside $10,000 for a pilot study on methods for education gifted children (McCollough).

Raise minimum vehicle liability coverage under the financial responsibility law (Lesinski).

Force the state to pay the highest prevailing wage in any community where state work is being performed (Dziedzic).

Require any school district which has admitted non-resident pupils from its "normal service area" to continue to allow them in high school if attendance has been permitted in four of the preceding seven years (Andrews).

Prohibit auto manufacturers to set up retail outlets in any county where they have authorized dealers (Hughes).

Provide pensions for volunteer firemen (Rahol).

Require police authorities to install signs warning motorists of radar and similar equipment used for speed checks (Nichols).

Regulate brine production from solid salt deposits (Feenstra).

chard jobs without losing retirement benefits.
Passage of a $1.25 minimum wage law.

That the Legislature ask Congress to eliminate the 10 per cent excise tax on new cars.

Use of $1,750,000 in federal money returned to the state and $200,000 in general fund revenues for retraining jobless workers.

Use of $62,800 in federal money returned to the state for a continuing analysis of the Michigan economy.

ATTRACT INDUSTRY
Legislation to permit the construction of "industrial islands" to attract new business to the vicinity of scientific and research centers, particularly at the state's universities.

Legislation to create a position of state director of atomic energy activities, a radiation standards safety board and a scientific advisory committee on atomic energy as recommended by Dean E. Blythe Stason of the University of Michigan Law School.

Adoption of a state fair business practices act.

New County U. N. Group to Give Program Monday

BIRMINGHAM — Oakland County's newly formed chapter of the American Association for the United Nations will present its first public program in the Birmingham Community House at 8 p.m. Monday.

Robert W. Peden, chapter president and Wayne State University comptroller, will moderate the panel discussion on "The Workable Structure of the United Nations: The Specialized Agencies."

Panelists are Mrs. Ray Robinson, representing UNESCO; Albert M. MacCleary, UNICEF; and Mrs. Max Williams, World Health Organization. All three panelists are directors of the county chapter and are active in the affairs of their communities, Peden said.

Mrs. Williams, an invitational member of the Speakers Bureau for United Nations, said this statement today as indication the murder was not premeditated. However, Justice Adams overruled Orr's bid to have VanHorn face a lesser charge.

Neither VanHorn nor any witness in his behalf was called to testify.

Ziem produced three witnesses, Sheriff's Detective Roy Hartick; Dr. Richard E. Olsen, pathologist who performed an autopsy on the body, and a Detroit Edison Co. employee, Ambrose P. Kennedy of 1212 Cass Lake Rd., Waterford Township.

Kennedy testified he had been trimming trees in front of the Muddock home when he saw VanHorn approach it towards the rear door about 2 p.m. the day of the killing. Kennedy said that he did not notice VanHorn leave.

In his confession, VanHorn said he went to the home to see the victim's husband and became enraged when Mrs. Muddock criticized him for having been drinking that day.

The husband, Drulard Muddock, 55, a self-employed carpenter, was working. When he returned that evening he found his wife's body lying on the kitchen floor and informed police he suspected VanHorn. VanHorn was picked up a few hours later.

AVOIDS PUBLIC COMMENT
Johnson has avoided public comment on President Eisenhower's expression of confidence that the economic downturn has about run its course and that March should see a start toward increased employment.

But other senators made it clear they are not as optimistic as the President. One of these, Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), said "The administration has got to do more than issue statements."

Aiken said the building of confidence is needed to help get business on the upgrade and that to do this "it is essential to convince the public by deed as well as by word."

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) said in a separate interview he hopes Eisenhower is correct in his forecast "but I have grave doubts that he is."

Ex-MFL Official Runs for Legislature

Robert P. Scott, former treasurer and legislative agent for the Michigan Federation of Labor, announced his candidacy today for Pontiac state representative.

Scott, 51, of 31 Bloomfield Terrace, is a member of the state Board of Barber Examiners and a former vice president of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614.

A native of Grand Rapids, Scott has lived in Pontiac since 1914. Married with one daughter, he has long been an active member of the Oakland County Democratic party and has often served as a Pontiac precinct delegate.

GM's Offer to Unions Set to Come Later
Pontiac UAW officials attending the General Motors Council of union representatives in Detroit today and tomorrow are hearing reports on the international's proposals for a new working agreement with automotive companies.

The Pontiac Press incorrectly stated yesterday that General Motors Corp. would disclose its offer at this meeting. The union and the auto companies will not begin bargaining until union officials from Chrysler and Ford locals meet later this month and the UAW's demands are formally presented.

Stroke, Exposure Kill City Man, 60

A 60-year-old widower who lived alone was found dead yesterday at the foot of the outside stairs leading to the rear porch of his home.

Roy Oliver, 24 N. Francis St., was seen by a neighbor, Mrs. Ida Shaver of 28 N. Francis, who called the police.

Deputy Coroner Dr. Leon Cobb said Oliver apparently suffered a stroke and died of exposure in the below-zero weather when he was unable to get back into his home.

What can you tell about the weather by observing the brightness of the stars?

The stars, and the moon, if watched carefully, will tell you something about the layer of gas that is above you—your weather. Have you ever noticed that on some nights the stars seem as bright as diamonds?

Allowing for this probability more often in winter, this is an indication that clear, clean air is overhead, free of dust particles. If noticed immediately after a rainy period, it means fair weather, and probably for a couple of days. Often it denotes a high pressure area moving in.

Maritime air, while often clear, is also often as clear as polar air. Moist maritime air, dusty air and unclear air, so to speak, dims the glow of the stars. Cold-front air masses from the polar regions most often produce the diamonds in the sky in all their sparkle.

Deep South Shivers

3" Snow Hits Tallahassee

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow whirled by chill winds gave a freakish gleam to the Deep South today. Subfreezing temperatures were a dime a dozen.

In Florida, 3 inches of snow fell at Tallahassee, 2 inches at Panama City on the Gulf of Mexico and an inch at nearby Pensacola. Miami braced for temperatures expected to fall almost to freezing.

The fall at Tallahassee, possibly the heaviest in the capital's history, continued past midnight.

At New Orleans, Mardi Gras throngs tossed snowballs, a rare sport that far south. The inch fall was New Orleans' heaviest in 59 years. Western Louisiana reported a heavier blanket.

Snow dropped a thin coating on white sand beaches at Biloxi and Gulfport, Miss.

Mobile, on Alabama's coast, had more than an inch in a 7 1/2-hour fall. Ft. Morgan, at the mouth of Mobile Bay said the deposit amounted to 4 inches.

Throughout the Gulf Coast area, azaleas and camellias drooped and sagged. Palm fronds wilted.

Snow covered the ground at Thomasville, Ga., where President and Mrs. Eisenhower were expected today as guests of George Humphrey, former secretary of the Treasury. Humphrey owns a plantation near that south Georgia town.

At Savannah, a Georgia port, a few whimsical flakes fell early today, but soon melted. Snow also fell early today at Augusta, Ga., on the Carolina line.

Jacksonville, Fla., took a triple beating. Rain turned to sleet and the sleet in turn changed to snow early today.

The tourist trade and crops suffered in many Dixie areas.

Editor Robert Lodmell of the Daily Highlander at Lake Wales started a drive to send food and clothing to Seminole Indians hit hard by the inclement weather.

Southern states have experienced almost six consecutive weeks of unseasonably cold weather, but events of the past few days have been almost unbelievable.

Doctor to Address Practical Nurses

Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger, Pontiac chest surgeon, will be the guest speaker Monday at the monthly meeting of the Practical Nurses Association of Oakland County.

Since February is "Help Your Heart Fund Month," Sullenberger will discuss the heart and show colored illustrations of how it functions.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers, state president of the PNA, will also attend the meeting which begins at 7:30 p.m. at the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan building, 761 W. Huron St.

Documents Shredded

PARIS — A handy little new machine for shredding paper has been marketed by a Paris firm. All documents, secret files, letters, and the like that are fed it are rapidly shredded by circular steel knives into pieces so small it is impossible to read anything written on them. The self-sharpening knives cut up paper clips along with the paper. The chopped paper is useful for packing fragile articles.

Unruly Students Put in 4 Schools

Wagner, Harriman OK
Using Special Buildings in Effort to Cut Crime

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Gov. Averell Harriman have agreed on using four existing schools to accommodate problem children in an effort to cut crime in the city's schools.

After the mayor and governor conferred for 2½ hours, Harriman said he is prepared to draw up a further state aid, with an eye toward buying or leasing facilities for additional state correctional institutions.

The city now has five special schools. The new "specials" would be opened within a month in old buildings now vacant or only partially used, Wagner said. Two other special schools are planned for use next September.

Wagner said the four extra schools would be able to care for 600 to 800 students. He said it would cost the city about $125,000 to get each of the schools in shape.

The Board of Education has suspended 644 students who had been charged with insubordination or acts of violence.

In recent weeks, a number of the city's 900 schools have been the scene of rapes, assaults, stabbings and delinquency. The incidents have involved both Negro and white students.

Among other proposals advanced at the conference, Harriman said, was a "work-activity program," whereby pupils would be permitted to work part-time during regular school hours.

Harriman said he would veto any measure which would change the state law requiring compulsory education up to the age of 17. Students included in the mass suspensions last week will get individual hearings to help decide whether they return to a regular school, a special school, or an institution.

Television May Be Used as Log-Sorting Aid

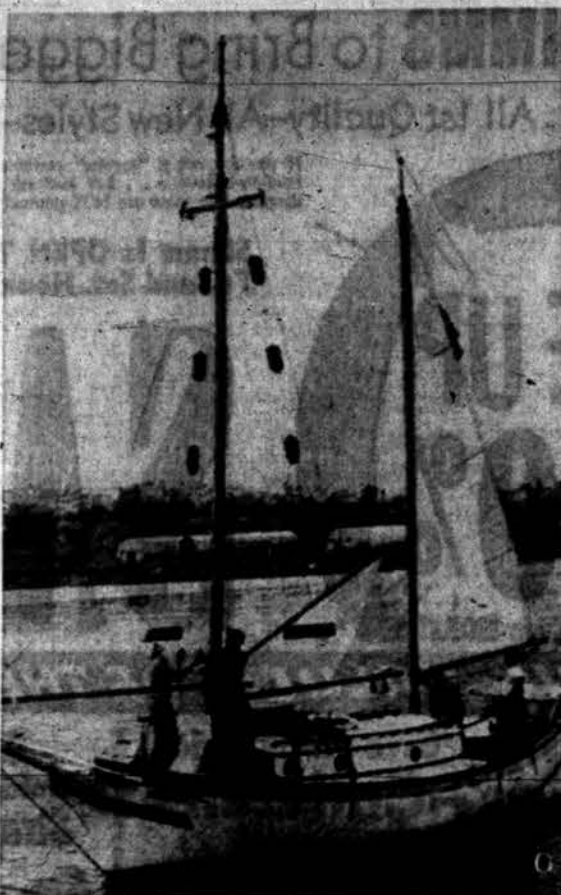

GOTHENBURG, Sweden—Industrial television may soon be used for sorting timber at Sandolan on the Angerman River in northern Sweden, said to be the largest sorting plant in the world.

The logs would be hoisted out of the water so the various owners' markings could be seen by the television camera. They would appear on the screen in the operator's cabin. By remote control the operator then would direct each log into the proper enclosure for bundling.

Each year the rivers of northern Sweden transport about 150,000,000 logs to the saw and pulp mills along the coast.

Mackinaw City Wants Them

Argue Disposal of Docks

LANSING (AP) — Bills proposing two different plans for disposal of the state ferry docks at Mackinaw City will get an airing Feb. 26 at a hearing before a legislative committee.

Rep. Lloyd Gibbs (R-Portland), chairman of the House State Affairs Committee, said officials of Mackinaw City and the Mackinac Island State Park Commission would be summoned to testify.

Mayor Neil Downing and Councilmen Ford Martin and Stanley McRae of Mackinaw City appeared before the committee yesterday in support of a bill to turn over the docks to the city.

Rep. Walter T. McMahon (D-Hazel Park) today introduced another measure to place the dock and adjacent facilities under control of the park commission.

A compromise proposal appeared in prospect. Downing told the committee Mackinaw City lost 25 families, about 10 per cent of its population.

Confab Cuts 'Squares'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Youth and adult really did get closer together at the Governor's Youth Conference. The director of the California Youth Authority, Herman G. Stark, said his son Charles, 19, a college student, told him: "Dad, somehow you don't seem as square as you usually do."

Oakland Roads Get Tax Share

4th Quarter Payment
From State Amounts to

Oakland County's share of $41.5 million of 1957 fourth-quarter gas and weight tax receipts will be $794,098.49, according to the State Highway Department.

These fourth-quarter collections for the state amounted to $41,534,661, an increase of $570,058.21 over receipts for the 1956 fourth quarter.

Based on a 47-55-18 per cent distribution formula, the highway department will receive $19,321,290.67 for state trunklines, counties will receive $14,537,131.35 for county roads, and incorporated cities and villages will collect $7,676,238.98.

This will be distributed among the following Oakland County and adjacent communities:

Addison $1,371.87; Almont $1,589.28; Ann Arbor $2,889.82; Berkley $23,091.31; Birmingham $27,637.54; Bloomfield Hills $4,518.25; Clawson $1,414.71; Clawson $8,444.32; Croyden $1,331.70; Fenton $7,149.27; Ferndale $42,178.41; Franklin $3,692.35; Holly $4,646.89; Huntington Woods $8,472.58; Inland City $2,140.23; Keego Harbor $4,227.81; Lake Angelus $119.79; Lake Orion $3,823.20; Lapeer $10,705.54; Lathrup Village $6,177.97; Leonard $1,233.31; Madison Heights $28,497.50; Metamora $1,078.19; Milford $8,116.43; Northville $4,832.82; Oak Park $17,697.97; Orchard Lake $2,183.82; Orionville $1,413.49; Oxford $2,343.37; Pleasant Ridge $4,756.89; Pontiac $407,133.04; Rochester $7,304.43; Romeo $4,326.73; Royal Oak $80,322.10; South Lyon $2,448.01; Sylvania Lake $2,470.97; Troy $28,588.81; Utica $2,148.77; Walled Lake $4,571.00; Wixom $2,561.26; Wolverine Lake $2,554.57.

Jamaican Tribe Avoids Modern Civilization

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

ACCOMPONG, Jamaica (INS)—Every now and then you think wistfully of what a swell life could be led by one who had no taxes to pay, no H-bombs to fear and no further contact with what is referred to by weary folk as the cold, cruel world.

So you make your way to the only spot you've ever heard of where this "swell life" exists: A wild, grotesque settlement called Accompong—home of giant trees, monstrous boa constrictors and a small band of primitive peoples who withdrew from the rest of the world in 1662 and never came back. They are called the "Maroons," and their almost impenetrable land, made up of awesome contortions of rock mountains and jungled gulleys, is "the land of look behind." That's because thousands of British troops tried for dozens of years to penetrate the Maroons' hideaway, and were promptly wiped out from the rear.

Finally in the 18th Century, the British gave up their fight to capture these ex-slaves who had banded together and fled to the hills. By order of the king, in 1739, the Maroons were given their weird, land, tax-free, on condition they would stop killing white men. Today, about 1,000 of them remain hidden in the mountains, only 40 miles from the splendors of Montego Bay, yet almost as remote from 1958 civilization as they were two centuries ago.

EXERT MUSCLE

To visit the Maroons, one must exert influence and muscle. First, it is necessary to locate the "contact" man in Montego Bay, and convince him that you mean no harm to the village.

Then he sends a wire to the chief of the tribe, who, because of their fighting history, is called "colonel." The wire goes to the last outpost of the telegraph lines, and from there it is carried by donkey over another four miles into the mountain jungle.

If an okay is forthcoming from the "colonel" (he grants less than 30 visits to outsiders each year), the arduous trip begins, partly by road, partly on foot. The "colonel" himself greets you at the edge of the settlement; he is a slight, neat, dark man who says his age is "about 65 to 70." He takes you to his home, a two-room shack over-run with chickens. His dialect is "Maroon"—no other accent is quite like it.

"We like a live here. I was born here, this house. Not like a town. You sleep a' night and don't worry about anyone to break into your house. Quite law-abidin'. Good church-goin' people."

A Presbyterian missionary discovered the path to Maroonland, and "quite a great majority" of the colonel's people are Christian. It is believed there is still a large business on "obeah," or voodoo, but the chief shakes his head.

"Well," he says, "I have no idea about dat. No crime here. Just one killin' in 200 years, and he a young boy didn't know better, stab another boy in the belly."

Since they pay no taxes, they have no electricity, of course, and no communication, except by donkey. Do they ever want to progress? "No, it don't worry me at all."

Asked if he had heard about atomic bombs, the colonel replied, "Scarcelly." Asked if what he had heard caused the Maroons concern, he thought deeply, then answered, "England an' the United States and France are the biggest nations, and that's something for them to worry over."

Without any of the modern "necessities," and with a diet largely of sugar cane, yams, chicken and goat meat, the Maroons' life span—if they survive infancy—is 80 to 90 years. There is much to say for global ignorance.

Most Unusual Vehicle Costs Fine to Owner

HALFAX, Eng. (INS)—Car owner Johann Svejnoma was fined over $15 after police superintendent L. Massey told a court how a cop saw "a most unusual vehicle" one night.

It was hissing, growling and emitting steam, it had only one light which pointed straight up, no handbrake, no fenders, no silencer and no front license plate.

When the magistrate asked if it was a "vintage car," Massey replied with feeling "vintage plus."

Dog and Stove Pipe Produce Rabbit Stew

CHEROKEE, Okla. (U)—Rabbits visiting the backyard of Barbara Robbins' farm quickly become stew thanks to a dog and stove pipe.

The pipe leads to the Robbins' cellar. An ell-shaped arm is attached to the top at ground level.

 The Robbins' dog herds the visiting Brer Rabbit into the ell. Mrs. Robbins then goes to the cellar and picks up her rabbit.

So far, four have been caught. But one of the bunnies got fouled up in the electric wires, short-circuiting all the house lights.

Dictators on Decline in Latin America

Over the last four years many of Latin America's self appointed dictators have gone the hard way. In plain English, they have been given the "bum's rush."

This has been good news to the rest of the free world.

These self-styled strongmen have ruled with an iron hand. Selfishness and personal gain has been their only motive. They have cowed their native subjects into submission and taken away any semblance of liberty.

Glancing over the records we find quite an unimpressive list of our much touted strongmen from Latin America.

Checking the following list over is like looking at an FBI roster of the ten most wanted men:

Argentina's Juan Peron, dumped in a military uprising in 1955;

Brazil's Getulio Vargas, military ultimatum to step down in 1954, instead killed himself;

Panama's Jose Remon, machine gunned to death in 1955;

Nicaragua's Anastasio Somoza, killed by an assassin in 1956;

Honduras' Julio Lozano, kicked out by the military in 1954;

Haiti's Paul Magloire, ousted for stealing 12 million in public works money in 1956;

Peru's Manuel Odría, lost his power and slipped off into obscurity;

Colombian's Gustavo Pinilla, church and businessmen forced him into exile in Canary Islands in 1953.

The two dictators left include Cuba's FULGENCIO BATISTA and Dominican Republic's RAFAEL TRUJILLO.

What a list of political bums. One of the most comforting realizations is that this type of rule is fast becoming extinct. It is well on its way out and the many Latin American countries responsible deserve the continued support from the rest of the free world.

The majority of these small countries are near by and it is important for the United States to have them as allies. To achieve this, they must first swing over to the democratic form of government.

An Optimistic Report

The Committee for Economic Development (CED) has just released a highly optimistic report of its research and policy unit on America's future development.

By 1975, says CED, the income of the average American family after taxes should be $7,100, an increase of $1,800 over the present disposable income of $5,300. This non-profit, non-partisan and non-political organization declares that this is not a dream but a "practical goal for practical men."

Within the next 20 years, says the report, barring war and assuming that we manage our affairs with reasonable competence, "we may expect to enter a period of general well-being never before considered attainable." Since 1880 the gross national product (GNP) has risen from $635 per capita to $2,466 in 1956. The GNP is expected to exceed $725 billion by 1975 compared with $415 billion in 1956.

The Committee is composed of 150 prominent business executives and economists who conduct research and advise on economic developments. Its report is based on past performance of the economy. However, CED warns that if nuclear war breaks out and if defense spending continues for too long a time, anticipated growth could fail to develop.

The report presents good reasons for confidence in our economic future and emphasizes that every factor promoting growth should be encouraged. This is a challenge to every American who recognizes his opportunity and responsibility.

"A PORTLAND, Ore., man complained that his wife kept the ashes of her first husband in their bedroom." — Press report. If we were jealous of a handful of ashes, we wouldn't let on.

Big Sum Awarded

Many Employees Received Up to $2,500 for Suggestions

Narrow mind: What usually goes with a wide mouth.

The neat sum of $184,207.11 was paid during 1957 by

Tight Spot

David Lawrence Says:

Ike Betting on American Business

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower has just placed an important "bet" on the future trend of American business. He bets that the bottom of the present "recession" will have been reached next month and that the "pick-up" will then begin.

He doesn't say when the "recovery" process will be completed, but predicts that it will be well under way "later this year."

Mr. Eisenhower, in effect, says that the government will use its economic and financial power to promote recovery but only "in every sound way."

The mere fact that such a statement was issued shows an awareness on the part of the administration of the psychological impact that could result from Tuesday's announcement that 4.5 million persons are unemployed.

There were 12.5 million unemployed in 1933, and there were still 9.5 million unemployed in 1939. Thus the "Roosevelt Depression" was much longer and much more severe in unemployment than the "Hoover Depression."

The reason for this was the utter failure of the new policy of "letting nature take its course," which was based on erroneous concepts about the benefits from increases in "purchasing power" through inequitable taxes and relief projects. It was wrongly believed this would bring full employment.

America could experience the same disaster again if the Democrats in Congress force a return to their earlier doctrines and neglect the stimulus that can come from sound measures to revive the heavy-goods industries. It is this primarily which can bring substantial decreases in unemployment.

Dr. William Brady, a dentist who is dean of a dental school, the views of a professor of oral pathology at Harvard recently set forth in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN were reviewed with approval. The professor stated that the true nature of tooth decay remains obscure.

What! After all this everlasting brushing with germ-killing, odor-destroying soap, our teeth may still decay?

The Harvard professor mentioned several theoretical causes of tooth decay which are being investigated by research — such as the role of heredity, the role of endocrine glands, the role of the saliva, the role of vitamin and mineral deficiencies in general nutrition, and finally the role of germs and food accumulations on and between the teeth.

I am a little ashamed to say that this extraordinary acknowledgment of the truth by the Harvard Professor of oral pathology, endorsed by the Southern California dental school dean and his dental society, makes me chuckle.

But right away I think of all the poor souls who never, never forget to brush their teeth many times a day — then for a moment I feel sorry—but not for long.

SHOULD VISIT DENTIST These same demon tooth-brushers are the poor souls who neglect proper dental, mouth, oral hygiene, that is, regular examination and treatment by the dentist — which, brush or no brush, is the ONLY way one can preserve one's teeth.

The teeth of the inhabitants of Tristan da Cunha (who, when I was there eight years ago) had the finest teeth in the world, looked as clean as, but no cleaner than, any well brushed teeth I ever saw. They never brushed their teeth.

Another chuckle, nay, a belly laugh about oral hygiene hokum is choked off by sympathy for the unhappy children who are put through a ridiculous "tooth brush drill" by teacher, nurse or "hygienist."

I do not mean to imply that ordinary tooth brushing does any harm — although the use of a sterile new tooth pick each time seems more cleanly than the use of the same old toothbrush day after day for weeks and months.

Voice of the People

Parent and Student Defend School Dance Programs

I, too, was happy to see pictures of students skating at Lincoln, but I don't think Mother of Two Girls is just in saying no good comes of the dances.

We parents have worked hard to get dances started. They keep students from occupying the streets and getting into trouble. If it weren't for these dances, a lot of towns would have a lot more delinquency.

The skating programs are very good, but so are the dance programs. Skating costs more than dances, and on top of that students must rent skates if they don't have their own. At dances the only thing to pay is a ticket to get in and then they have drawings for prizes, so it's possible to win something. It may be worth more than the price of the ticket. I've also been to many dances and can see they do all the good in the world.

I am glad that Mother of Two Girls likes our roller skating program at Lincoln, but I don't see what she has against the dancing programs. We have dances, too, and everyone who goes has a good time. No bad comes from them either. I go and I know.

Another Favors Existing Law

In regard to the dog law and sportsmen, road hunting is unlawful and should be stopped. When the hunter lets his dogs out on the road, he deliberately urges them to help him break the law. Very few dogs are shot by farmers even though their masters have not hesitated to place them in danger.

A number of hunting dogs disappear because they've wandered into state parks where they're potential menaces to wild life. I favor the present dog law because it can help to curb the indiscriminate running of dogs on my property.

Some people labor through the day... While others work at night... As dawn or dark may be their choice... Or it may be their plight... Of course, most people like to sleep... When stars are in the sky... They feel that daytime slumber keeps... More beauty from the eye... Or they may think that they miss out... On more important things... As daylight seems to emphasize... The joy that living brings... But God made night, as well as day... And as the world goes on... Each moment is important in... The dark the same as dawn... So let us not surrender to... Case Records of a Psychologist:

Criticizes 'Allowance' System

Jenny's fertile brain should be memorizing choice quotations from the Bible and elsewhere. For they will boost her school marks later on and furnish her spending money right now. Don't use the "allowance" plan, but let your youngsters work for pay, which is the better plan. Pay for mental as well as physical work as explained below.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case X-328: Jenny L., aged 10, is a bright girl but somewhat frustrated.

"Dr. Crane, she needs something to do," her mother explained. "For she is very bright and gets her school work finished early."

"Now she wishes she had a job so she could earn some money. And I feel it would be good for her."

"But what type of work can I give her. We have a maid so there isn't too much housework available."

LET KIDS WORK
Children need money. And they should obtain it by work, instead of by the inefficient "allowance" plan.

For life makes no allowances for anybody, so we should never encourage youngsters to expect "something for nothing," which is what the allowance inevitably means.

The "allowance" plan is just a dote! And the dote psychology then develops. Your children will soon gripe and argue with you because their allowance isn't as large as that of some other kid down the block.

So pay children for work! Then they no longer will criticize you about spending money. For their income thereafter depends solely upon their own output.

There is thus no ceiling on their weekly income. They can obtain $1 to $10 depending on how much elbow grease they wish to expend.

Simply see that plenty of jobs are always available. Post the pay chores on a chart on the kitchen wall. And reward them properly.

Don't over-pay your kids, but don't undercut their wages, jobs, like mowing lawns or shoveling snow; cleaning windows or ironing the flat work.

They may polish your shoes or the automobile and even give you mothers a lot of relief by massaging your scalp or rubbing your tired back.

MENTAL WORK

Mrs. Crane told our five children that they should all learn to typewrite by the touch system. So she fastened a wall chart in front of them.

When they could typewrite at the rate of 10 words per minute, they were entitled to $25.

And for each additional 10 words per minute, up to the 40-word rate, they obtained another $25. Thus they earned $100 when they reached 40 words per minute.

Another form of mental work very desirable for children, is to pay them for reading good books.

We offered our children $1 apiece for each book they read in the Bible. If, for example, they finished Genesis, they earned $1. And another $1 for every additional book.

There are 66 books in the King James version of the Bible, so they could reap $66 in that fashion.

And it is a splendid idea to encourage children to memorize gems of poetry or famous quotations from literary masters of the past.

It enriches their minds. And it will prove a tonic to the soul when they can quote such beautiful thoughts as Lincoln's hope that his biographers would say of him that he planned roses where thistles grew before.

At the bottom of about 200 pages in my college textbook "Psychology Applied," I thus included great quotations from the past.

So pay your child for each choice quotation it memorizes. The money will help Jenny now but the cultural benefits will pay dividends all through college and her later life.

For further advice on the subject, send for my booklet "Ways by Which to Earn Spending Money," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

A child should earn and budget money from kindergarten, onward. It is good insurance, too, for happier marriage!

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20¢ to cover typing and printing costs. When you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

U. S. Suicide Rates Hit All-Time Low

NEW YORK (INS) — The suicide rate in America is dipping to an all-time low — despite tensions of the times.

The rate stands at around 10 per 100,000 population. But statisticians at the National Office of Vital Statistics still refer to suicides as a "needless loss of life." It is hoped that psychiatrists and other specialists may help to reduce the rate even more.

Some 16,000 took their own life during 1956 — the most recent year for which complete data is available.

This compares with a little over 7,000 deaths in 1916 during the worst polio epidemic in the United States.

Suicide rates are lowest for the married; highest for the widowed and divorced. The rate for unmarried men is over twice that for married ones. The rate for divorcees is approximately four times that of those who stay married.

Gold Mines Give Johannesburg Chronic Hiccups

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Johannesburg is a city that suffers from chronic hiccups.

For the past 20 to 30 years, hardly a week has gone by without crockery dancing on shelves as the city shudders.

The hiccups are earth tremors which vary in intensity and length.

The reason for the spasmodic tremors that ripple along the Witwatersrand lies in 12,000 miles of tunnels which crisscross in a 70-mile-long maze.

These are the workings of the Witwatersrand gold mines which are so interlocked that a man can walk (in theory) for a distance of 70 miles from east to west or vice versa, without seeing daylight.

Scientists say the reason for the earth tremors along the Witwatersrand is the great strain placed on subterranean rock somewhat weakened as a result of mining operations.

The pressure causes the rock to crack and the city shivers.

Severe tremors do not follow a regular pattern, Witwatersrand University's Bernard Price Institute of Geophysical Research says. But observations have proved that minor earth tremors occur daily between 2 p.m. and 3 p.m., when miners dynamite the gold-bearing reef.

There is nothing to indicate that the tremors will increase in the future or that the bedrock will weaken and the city disappear into the tunnels.

Shaken 'Just a Bit' by 'Indian' in Auto

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — State Policeman George Smith said he got "shook up just a bit" recently when he checked what he thought was an Indian sitting in the back seat of a car parked near here late one night.

It was an Indian all right, but it was a six-foot high carved figure of a Tesuque Indian which usually stood guard at a guest lodge north of the city.

Some prankster had apparently moved the statue and later abandoned the car with it in the back seat.

Bob Considine Says:

Mass Execution Would Be Grisly Unique

NEW YORK (INS) — This is the first of two pieces on the trial of seven boys who are facing the electric chair at Sing Sing, as the iron-clad cliché puts it. There have been very few mass trials of this nature here or anywhere else in the country. This one is made unique in a grisly way not only by the possibility of mass execution but by the fact that the oldest boy is 18 and the youngest of the defendants is a 15-year-old epileptic.

The seven sit shoulder to shoulder in Judge Irwin Delmore Davidson's court each day, never whispering, mildly interested-looking, not unlike well-mannered but bored children listening to a dull teacher.

They were all members of the Egyptian Kings mob. The Egyptian Kings were, and are, children of generally poor, always crowded and in some cases broken, families living in a section of Harlem and Puerto Ricoville that has no public swimming pool. For the past year or two, during the summers, they had been going to a pool on Washington Heights, dug on the very ground where George Washington's ragged ranks won their first real victory over the British in a stirring but surely less complicated age.

The people who live in the neighborhood where the pool was built did not want the Egyptian Kings to swim there. They told their own children not to go there any more, and the place became known in the neighborhood as the "Ink Well."

Last summer was oppressively hot in New York, and so it became the practice of the boys of the neighborhood to wait until guards had left for the night and then slip through a widened hole in the iron fence that surrounds the place, and swim. To boot, a group named the Jesters, a teenage mob from the district, sometimes challenged the Egyptian Kings mob, and there were perimeter fights galore. The Jesters were tougher.

One of the defendants is charged with deploying his troops in bushes near the place where the iron fence had been pounded apart far enough to admit a nocturnal swimmer. He and two others then went out on patrol. While they were gone, two boys named Michael Farmer, once a police case, and Roger McShane, slipped through the fence in the hope of a swim.

The bulk of the mob pounced. McShane ran. Farmer either could not or would not. He was promptly beaten and stabbed to death. The ultimate plunge apparently was delivered by a 14-year-old who said later that he wanted to feel what it was like to punch a knife through human bone. The child is now confined in a reformatory, where on indeterminate terms are being held 11 of the 18 who participated in the murder and/or the almost fatal stabbing of young McShane, who was intercepted as he tried to run for safety and help.

All these 11 are under age 15. Six have turned state's evidence. The first of these to testify, 14-year-old Ralph Lago, is on the stand today. The terribly frightened boy came to the stand too late Tuesday to be heard, after days of cool, polite answers to the questions of some of the 27 lawyers the court has appointed to keep these youngsters from a chain store electrocution that would never be forgotten.

(Tomorrow: The Judge . . . the lawyers . . . the case.)

There are 241,514 licensed lawyers in the U.S., 5,036 of them women.

Golden Anniversaries to Be More Common

NEW YORK (INS) — Two out of five young couples who marry early should survive long enough to hear golden wedding chimes.

When the groom is 21 and the bride 17, the likelihood of 50 years together are twice as good as they were in grandma's day.

Information from Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. statisticians also shows that prospects of a golden wedding decrease rapidly with advances in age at marriage.

Very young lovers, marrying when both are 17, have a one in two chance of celebrating the 50th. When bride and groom are 25, however, chances dip to one in four.

Marry at 31 and the chances are only one in 10. The chances are only one in 100 for those who say "I do" at age 39.

The decline in death rates has enhanced the outlook for silver anniversaries, too. Even for those marrying at 35 there is a seven out of 10 chance that both will survive long enough to celebrate the 25th.

Selling Buffalo as Pets

CARNEGIE, Okla., (U.S.)—This item appeared in the Carnegie, Okla., Herald: "Anybody want a buffalo? The Wichita Wildlife Game Refuge officials have announced they have several head of the early day prairie roamers for sale to someone wanting a nice pet around the house."

Alligator Causes Crash

BRAZIL, Ind. (U.S.)—This must be a new one. Gordon Wesner Jr. blamed an alligator when he drove into another car here. Sure enough police found a three-foot alligator inside Wesner's station wagon. It had crawled out of a box. Wesner was taking it to a biology class at DePauw University, where he is a student teacher.

New Electrical Device Guards Against Shock

CAPE TOWN — A safety device developed by a South African inventor, K. A. Adams, is expected to eliminate all electrocution hazards in the home.

The invention is said to turn off electric power as soon as a person receives a shock from a faulty electrical appliance. A current-balance switch in the device is said to "take the sock out of the shock," re-acting so swiftly that anyone receiving a shock does not remain in contact with electric power long enough for the electric surge to be fatal.

California occupies more than one-third the Pacific coastline of the U. S.

Develop Aerosol Spray to Dispense Heart Drug

LOS ANGELES — A Los Angeles concern has developed a "metered" aerosol spray container which dispenses octyl nitrate, said to be recommended for "anginal attacks produced by coronary insufficiency," a heart condition that produces intense pains because insufficient oxygen reaches the heart muscle. In practice, a person struck by such an attack inserts the aerosol tube in his mouth and releases a spray of the drug; the spray is automatically cut off after a measured dose is administered.

Assassination of President James A. Garfield in 1881 was by Charles Guiteau, a disappointed Federal office seeker.

Danish Merchant Fleet Numbers 600 Ships

COPENHAGEN — Denmark's merchant fleet has made a great comeback since World War II, during which half of it was lost and 1,500 Danish seamen were killed. At war's end the fleet consisted of just under 400 ships, totaling less than 700,000 tons. Now it totals

1,800,000 tons gross and numbers 600 ships manned by 15,000 men. The number of ships is about the same as in 1939, but the tonnage is 50 per cent greater.

Usage of Water Vast

THREE RIVERS, Quebec—One Canadian paper mill uses 2½ billion gallons of water a day. That's more than New York City uses.

Sweden Leads Europe in Use of Combines

STOCKHOLM—Swedish farmers today use about 140,000 tractors, 21,000 combines for harvesting and threshing, and 140,000 mechanical milking units. Most of this mechanization has come about in the past 10 years. At the end of the war there were only 20,000 tractors. Combines now handle about half the country's bread-grain harvest; this is the highest percentage in Europe.

Railroads Spend More

NEW YORK — Class 1 U. S. railroads in 1956 spent $1,883,846,000 for fuel, materials, and supplies. This was an increase of $246,773,000, or 15.1 per cent, over the 1955 figure and was in addition to the expenditure of $1,232,000,000 for capital improvement. About $112,000,000, or 6.3 per cent of the increase was due to higher prices.

The first daily newspaper in the U.S. appeared in Philadelphia in 1734.

1857 Champagne First

SAN FRANCISCO — The first champagne produced commercially in northern California was fermented in 1857 by Pierre Sainsevain in San Francisco. His product, "sparkling California," was made from wines produced at his El Aliso vineyard, located where the Los Angeles Union Railroad depot stands today.

The Great Lakes have an estimated 95,000 square miles of deep water.

Beach Tanks Planned

SAN FRANCISCO — When United States troops hit the beaches from now on, they'll have a fuel supply in a hurry and without rolling around heavy drums. The new method, called the amphibious-assault bulk-fuel system, features 10,000-gallon collapsible tanks that are placed on the beaches. Fuel is pumped from landing craft to the tanks.

Dartmouth College dates its founding back to 1769.

U.S. May Swap Television Soon

See Worldwide TV Being Used Within Next Decade

NEW YORK — The United States and Europe may be swapping live television programs by 1959 with indications that global TV will be firmly established within the next decade.

Steelways, official publication of American Iron and Steel Institute, says scientists are rapidly mastering the technical problems that will permit construction of 60-foot steel antennas across the Atlantic land masses that will enable TV pictures to be relayed to both continents and eventually around the world.

It asserts the scientists already have achieved success in reaching the 200-mile "plateau" in transmitting pictures and are now bending every effort to send a picture 300 miles which is necessary to leap-frog across the remote land masses that span the Atlantic.

The major breakthrough to international TV occurred when engineers discovered that signals could and did cross the horizon. Until then, the light wave, which is straight and limited to a 30 to 100-mile horizon, seemed forever to block progress. But now the engineers could multiply power by 20,000 times, adopt huge round steel antennas and go beyond the horizon.

One of the major problems that still confronts trans-Atlantic TV is maintenance of the relay stations in the remote areas after they are built. Says Steelways:

"The carbon steel relays will be able to withstand almost anything; the plan for establishing an airlift in and out of each location for maintenance men still requires development."

Army Mine Planter Really Automatic

FORT BELVOIR, Va. — The Army Corps of Engineers has developed an anti-tank mine planter that is expected to help GI's put away their shovels.

The device is said to act like a Lazy Susan, carrying mines in a round, rotating magazine and feeding them automatically into a planting mechanism.

The plow-like mechanism arms the mine, lifts the turf, deposits the mine, and drops the soil back into place.

Rome Fire Sale First?

ROME — In ancient Rome there were fire companies but the fire fighters wouldn't tackle a blaze until the owner had sold them the property at a low price. This may have been the origin of the "fire sale."

Junior Editors Quiz on SCIENCE

QUESTION: Where does the tide go when it runs out?

ANSWER: Tides rise and fall in the ocean on a time schedule determined by the pull of the moon. As a result, the tides arise about 50 minutes later each day, just as the moon does. The gravitation of the moon pulls the nearest water upwards and away from the earth beneath it. When it gets to the other side of the earth it exerts a pull there too. The tides thus hit nearly every seacoast at intervals of about 12 hours and 25 minutes, giving most seacoasts two tides a day. But because they are deflected by land masses, the tides are not as high at some places as at others.

Thus, when the tide runs out—or becomes low—on the Atlantic coast of the United States, the water is moving toward the Atlantic coast of Europe, causing a high tide there.

FOR YOU TO DO: The action of the tide is much like that of water in a bowl. You can demonstrate this by tipping a bowl with some water in it away from you. The water will be low on your side and high on the other. Tip it carefully back toward you and the water becomes high on your side and low on the other.

(For being the first to submit this question, Sandra Hahn of Collegeville, Pa., receives $10. Send yours on a postcard to Violet Moore Higgins, AP Newsfeatures, in care of this newspaper. Tomorrow: How did the custom of giving valentines start?)

Bills May Set Record

CHICAGO—During the first five months of this year $1,646 bills were introduced in legislative sessions of the states whose assemblies met this year. This total indicates a new high record by the year's end. New legislative measures introduced up to June 1 all-most equaled the number of bills presented during all 1935.

Jack Rutledge Writes for Hal Boyle

Bull Fights Slipping in Mexican Popularity

MEXICO CITY (U)—Bullfighting is at a low ebb in Mexico. Tourists are about the only ones who get very excited about what's going on in the bullrings nowadays.

Experts blame the situation mainly on lack of real talent among the matadors, and the poor quality of the bulls themselves. But there are other factors: Mexico has some top-notch prizefighters now who receive the adulation once reserved for matadors. It has baseball, soccer, American football, jai alai, and other sports.

Back in the 1920s bullfighting was the major sport. It got so bad the government banned bullfight talk by employees while on the job.

But the great Rodolfo Gaona retired, and interest sagged. With the master gone, bullfighting just wasn't the same. A youngster named Armillita came along and fans caught fire again. But during his period of popularity prizefighting gained in favor, football became a major sport, and there were more and more movies to lure the scarce pesos away from the bullring.

The great Manolete, a Spaniard, brought bullfighting back to its almost fanatic enthusiasm in the 1940s. He fought often in Mexico, where he was paid as much as 150,000 pesos — $12,000 — for a few hours of work. But he was gored and died in Spain.

Carlos Arruza was the next spark. He was a Mexican, and a great matador. He ranked, in the minds of many, with Manolete. His peak overlapped Manolete and Luis Miguel Dominguin in world popularity. But Mexico was now baseball mad, and American style football was introduced, packing the stadiums. Then Arruza, retired and Dominguin was banned from Mexico for insulting officials after a controversial fight in the plaza.

There are few outstanding matadors today. The Plaza Mexico—largest bullring in the world—has been closed for over a year by strike, rings in smaller cities have operated spasmodically. Sometimes they don't have fights once a month.

So until another Gaona, Manolete or Arruza comes along, the fans probably will settle for a hot baseball game, a prize fight, or once a new bullring idol appears watch them flock back to the arena!

There's Money in Stealing London's Cats

LONDON — Since a cat-stealer admitted in a London court that "Finally, I did not see a cat. I just saw $1.75 walking on four legs," puss has become the most pampered member of many households.

The cat is bedded down indoors instead of being put out to face dangers of the night. But cat thefts still number thousands a year, police say.

By night, thieves prowled the streets whipping up a confiding female here and a bold tom there. They dispose of their haul at $1.75 a head to a dealer who sells them to laboratories at $3.50 each, making a handsome profit.

Cat stealing is "too easy," the S.P.C.A. says. Cats, accustomed to being petted, are easy meat.

Corrosion of Ships Stopped by Device

EAST NEWARK, N. J. — An East Newark concern reports development of an automatic electrical system to protect the hulls and propellers of ships against corrosion, increasing the useful life of ships and cutting repair costs.

The system is said to neutralize the flow of chemically created electricity which travels from one part of the ship's hull to another through the sea. It provides a reverse current through the hull, generated from platinum anodes attached to the hull.

Use of steel propellers instead of the bronze ones now used may be possible through use of the system, according to the company. The steel screws are stronger and have been considered impractical because of their susceptibility to corrosion.

Ironclad Ships in 1591

SEOUL, Korea — In 1591 Admiral Yu-Soon-sin of Korea designed what some historians believe was the world's first ironclad warship. It was a 20-oar rowing galley called the Koh-Book-Son, or "Turtle Ship."

Henson Bound Over on Murder Charge

Bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court today on a second-degree murder charge was Frank W. Henson, 54, of Hazel Park.

Hazel Park Municipal Judge Robert C. Baldwin bound the former factory worker over for arraignment Feb. 17 when the prosecutor's office withdrew a motion that Henson be charged with first-degree.

He is accused of killing his wife Helen, 57, who was found dead on the kitchen floor of their home at 62 W. Maxlow St. Dec. 23. Henson is free on a $5,000 bond pending his arraignment.

Tow Truck Can't Stop, Strikes Car in Rear

A tow truck that was unable to stop quickly hit a car yesterday afternoon on Franklin road at Rapid street.

John L. Ray, 39, of 235 Rapid, the truck driver, told police he was towing a Cadillac and the weight of the car prevented him from stopping when a car ahead halted for a left turn.

Ray was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for neck pains. The other driver, Lloyd M. Cooke, 32, of 4851 Payton St., Waterford Township, was not hurt.

Pontiac Resident Victim of Holdup Men in Detroit

A Pontiac resident was held up in Detroit last night and robbed of $500 in cash and $800 in checks belonging to his employer, the John Wallace and Son Co., of Detroit.

John Lehmann, 25, of 420 W. Huron St., parked his truck in the grocery firm's parking lot at 7:30 p.m. when two men approached him. One was armed with a pistol and the other with a straight razor, he said.

"The one held a pistol to my face, while the other grabbed my wallet with the day's receipts in it," Lehmann said.

Driver Runs Stop Sign, Smashes Into 2nd Car

A driver who ran a stop sign caused an accident yesterday afternoon on M24 at Perry St., Pontiac Township.

Earl St. John, 80, of 9306 E. Dodge Rd., Otisville, told Sheriff's deputies he did not see the stop sign on Perry. He ran into a car driven by James A. March, 43, of 647 Tennyson Ave.

Mrs. Mary Ellen St. John, 69, was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for a cut on the right hand.

Theodore Roosevelt probably was the most athletic of all U.S. Presidents. He took judo lessons, and lost the sight of one eye boxing with a young Army officer in the White House gymnasium.

Utica Girl Selected as Michigan Hothouse Rhubarb Queen

Dianne Bennett Scores Area 1st

Will Reign Over Annual Festival on Tap There Next Month

UTICA — For the first time in the three-year history of the contest, a Utica girl was named Michigan Hothouse Rhubarb Queen.

The competition was held last night in the cafeteria of the Utica Community High School.

Seventeen-year-old Dianne Bennett, a senior at the local high school, was picked over a field of 10 other attractive candidates for the title. She will reign over the annual festival to be held here March 8.

Dianne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bowman, 8320 Russell St. Her hobbies are playing basketball, traveling and collecting stuffed animals — she now has 42.

She plans to attend Michigan State University and major in either English or journalism. She told the audience she was "overjoyed" to be picked for the coveted honor.

Susan Jane White, 17, a senior at Warren High School and 19-year-old Eleanor Meerschaert, of Mt. Clemens, were named honor maids in the contest.

Other entrants were Donna Jean Bauman, Richmond; Rose Marie Mikolowski, Utica; Jeanette Dainzer, New Haven; Mary Hamilton, Utica; Marge Brohl, Fraser; Irene DeHondt, Utica; Kathy Urban, Centerline; and Carol Beagrie, Fraser.

Master of ceremonies Duane S. Gerlach, Mt. Clemens, was introduced by Utica Rotary President Allan Hinsdale who is Utica community high school principal.

Gerlach interviewed each of the girls as they came in individually first in street dress, then in formal attire. Their identities remained secret until the winners were announced.

Judges were Miss Virginia Levey, a Utica school teacher from Pontiac, and Mrs. Marjory Gibbs and Stan Kaban, both of Detroit.

They graded each candidate on her personal appearance, social poise, self confidence, and speech.

Graduates AF School

AUBURN HEIGHTS — Airman Third Class Betty L. Newby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newby of 2853 Avalon Rd., will graduate Friday from the Medical School at Gunter Air Force Base, Ala. Following graduation, she will be stationed at Maxwell Air Base Hospital, Montgomery, Ala. She has been in the service since July, 1957.

DR. HAROLD N. SKIDMORE

Conference Leader Slated at Rochester

ROCHESTER — Dr. Harold N. Skidmore, minister and superintendent of the Michigan Congregational Christian Conference, will preach Sunday at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services at the First Congregational Church, Rochester.

His sermon will be "The Future Must Come." He and his wife also will remain to lead the All-Church Planning Retreat to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Axford from 3 to 7 p.m. the same day. Special music for the morning services will be under the direction of Leo Youcum. A duet, "Thy Will Be Done," will be sung by Mrs. Lawrence Kirklin and Youcum. The chancel choir will sing the anthem, "Great Is the Lord."

QUEEN — Dianne Bennett, 17-year-old Utica High School senior, holds rhubarb bouquet, emblematic of her title as "Michigan Hothouse Rhubarb Queen." She was selected last night at Utica High School. Named maids of honor were Susan Jane White, 17, a senior at Warren High, and Eleanor Meerschaert, 19, of Mt. Clemens.

Awarded for Outstanding 4-H Work Orion Youth at Confab

LAKE ORION — Bill Middleton, 18-year-old Lake Orion 4-H member, is in Kansas City, Mo., today attending a three-day Junior Fact Finding Conference.

Middleton, of 2610 Stoney Creek Rd., received the four-day trip for outstanding work in the 4-H poultry project. He is the winner of the state Poultry Fact Finding Award.

Meany May Attend Merger Convention

DETROIT — George Meany, national AFL-CIO president, plans to be on hand when the Michigan AFL and CIO gather to carry out their merger orders, according to a high state union official.

Gus Scholle, president of the Michigan CIO Council, said yesterday Meany indicated he would attend the Feb. 24-28 meeting at Grand Rapids "unless other business interferes."

The convention was ordered by Meany to merge the 650,000-member CIO and 350,000-member AFL on a state level. The AFL-CIO president earlier revoked the charters of both groups after the Michigan Federation of Labor instructed its local to boycott the convention.

Herbert T. McCreedy, AFL-CIO regional director, said some 50 per cent of the state's AFL locals are expected to send delegates despite the boycott order.

Area Students Earn Place on Dean's List

Students from a number of Oakland County communities were placed on the Dean's List at Ferris Institute, Big Rapids, for scholastic excellence during the 1957 fall term.

Included in the list, for average grades of B or better during the semester, are Diane Erickson of Drayton Plains, Robert Bilodeau of Rochester, Joan Desmarcaux of Walled Lake, Dale Kiser of Washington, Donald MacDonald of Farmington, Edward Yodhes of Ferndale, Vasilie Bizari of Hazel Park, Anthony Bonacci and Carl Dennis of Royal Oak, and Richard Coussell and Gary Patriquin of Berkley.

A Michigan State University short course agricultural student, he is attending the fifth annual conference with Jack Worthington, Oakland County 4-H Club agent, and two other Michigan delegates.

A total of 70 boys and girls of 4-H and Future Farmers of America clubs from 23 states are participating in the conference which will last through Sunday.

The teenage event is sponsored jointly by the Institute of American Poultry Industries, the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Inc., and the Federal Extension Service.

During the program, the youths will give demonstrations, illustrated talks, reports on projects and assist in panel discussions. They will learn the modern techniques in the sanitary processing of poultry.

The conference is organized to stimulate youth interest in processing, marketing, distribution and consumer acceptance of poultry and poultry products; to promote improvements in these processes through youth and stimulate interest in vocational opportunities in the poultry industry.

During their visit, the youths will be guests of 10 national food industries and will tour their plants.

5 Area Policemen Take Traffic Course

Five representatives from three police departments in Oakland County are furthering traffic safety this week by putting to work information gained in a special police traffic supervisors' course.

Back from the course, given on the Michigan State University campus, are Calvin Cook of Oak Park Department of Public Safety, Vernon C. Loeffler of Novi Police Dept., and Chester Wells, Frank Geister and Vaughn Laskie of Royal Oak Police Dept.

The course was sponsored by the Police Administration School, Highway Traffic Safety Center and the Continuing Education Service of MSU.

Rep. Stanislaw Collapses, Dies

Dearborn Twp. Dem Suffers Heart Attack in Lansing

LANSING — Legislators today mourned the death of Rep. Coleman A. Stanislaw, second term Democrat from Dearborn Township.

Stanislaw, 57, collapsed and died of a heart attack yesterday in the Lansing office of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. His wife found the body when she entered to keep a luncheon appointment.

House members cut short their session yesterday in respect for their colleague after adopting a resolution mourning the death.

Gov. Williams described Stanislaw's death as "a great shock to all who knew him."

"He was a good Democrat, a conscientious legislator and a good personal friend of mine," he said.

A native of Moon Run, Pa., Stanislaw had represented the railroad brotherhood for the last 10 years. He was owner of a farm near Webberville and planned to move there on retirement.

He was co-sponsor of a pending bill to control air pollution in Michigan and had backed legislation dealing with railroads.

Survivors include the widow, Martha, and one son, George W.

Funeral service will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Fardian Funeral Home in Allen Park. Burial will follow at Webberville.

Area Zoning Board OKs 3 Proposals

At last night's monthly Waterford Township Zoning Board meeting, members approved recommendations to change three sections in the township from residential to commercial zoning.

These include three lots between Dixie highway and Sashabaw road on Monroe street; 17 lots on Walton boulevard at Seebaldt avenue; and 264 feet of property on Cooley Lake road near Lochaven road.

The recommendations will now be presented to the Waterford Township board for final approval.

Cub Pack Holds Banquet

Mrs. Stanley Kipp, of the Oakland County Extension Service was honored yesterday by Cub Scout Pack 8 Crofton School, for her services to youth.

Cub Scout Roger Watson and Den Mother Adele Erickson, of Den 3, presented a pin to Mrs. Kipp for her 4-H Club work.

NANCY THOMPSON

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Thompson of Pine Lake avenue, Keego Harbor, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Marie, to Ronald Facer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Facer of Birmingham. No wedding date has been set.

TRAIN MISHAP — Three freight cars of a southbound New York Central train were derailed at 11 p.m. yesterday behind 36 Pearl St., Oxford. One car landed in the rear yard of the home occupied by Edward Hardenburg, smashing a chicken coop. The accident is believed to have been caused by a wheel that stuck.

Executive Hails U.S. Strength

DuPont Manager Says Free Industry Nation's 'Ultimate Weapon'

Americans shouldn't worry so much about Soviet missile developments, according to Robert T. De Vore, Midwest manager for the Extension Division of the Du Pont Co.

"Our free industry and agriculture, which have done the best job in the world up to now, will prove to be the ultimate weapon," not the first intercontinental missile," De Vore said in speeches before the Pontiac Civitan Club and Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"This is by far the strongest nation on earth, and in a way more fundamental to its defense needs than its present position in the missile race."

America today, he said, can so outproduce Soviet Russia "as to more than equalize" the Soviet advantage of greater population and hold the balance of power for the free world.

A former Washington news correspondent, De Vore pointed out that large corporations play a big part in carrying out giant military research projects.

Big and small business are not enemies, he said, referring to "a very substantial increase" in the number of small businesses, particularly in the past few years.

"Unwise taxes, inflation, or arbitrary restriction of the size of industry could have the effect of destroying incentives," De Vore warned.

Scotch PTA to Fete Two Detroit Lions

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Two Detroit Lions football players, Tom Tracy and Dorn Dibble, will be honored guests at the annual father and son banquet sponsored by the Scotch School PTA Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the school.

A film of an area Pee Wee football team will be shown by John Neymer, father vice president, who is in charge of the evening. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Robert Hollister, EM 3-3079 or Mrs. Robert Scott FE 8-1195.

To Telecast Operation

DETROIT — A "live" telecast of a surgical operation will be presented March 18 in connection with the annual Michigan Clinical Institute. The operation, to be performed by two Ford Hospital surgeons, will replace a faulty section of an artery. It will be shown over one of more Detroit television stations.

Heart Machine May Save Lives of Many Children

NEW YORK — Every year there are 50,000 children born in the U. S. with heart defects and until now most have been doomed to early death or invalidism.

Steelways Magazine says that since the development of a heart-lung machine to make surgery inside the heart practical, there is hope that half of the children may eventually be able to lead normal or nearly normal lives.

Originally designed for chemical laboratories where special precautions against contamination were necessary, the machine works on the principle a farmer uses in milking a cow. Steelways adds: "Twelve steel fingers operated by a steel-alloy can gently stroke the blood through a plastic or gum-latex tube pressed against a polished stainless steel plate."

This, Steelways says, insures the blood in being absolutely free of air and gas before being pumped into the patient's arteries.

Asks Jury to Probe Alleged Embezzling

Lapeer County Prosecutor George D. Lutz said today that he will file a petition in Circuit Court asking a one-man grand jury to investigate the alleged embezzlement of $50,000 from the Bestick Foundry in Lapeer.

Lutz said he has learned that George Fernes, 325 W. Genesee, Lapeer, the firm's bookkeeper for 28 years, has admitted to officials of the company, auditing and bonding firms that he took $50,000 of Bestick money over the past eight years.

Neither the company nor Fernes will talk to the police or prosecutor about the matter, however, Lutz said.

"The sheriff has done all he can, but he can't get sufficient information to justify a warrant," Lutz said. "Our only remaining course is to ask to a grand jury."

He is asking Circuit Judge Timothy C. Quinn to sit as a one-man grand jury unless he disqualifies himself.

Cub Scout Pack Honors Area Extension Worker

Pack 66, Cub Scouts, of LeBaron School, held a Blue and Gold Banquet which was attended by some 200 persons. Guests included Mrs. G. Holeccheck, LeBaron principal, and Glen Lackey, scout representative.

Plan Medical Center

PETOSKEY — Emmet County commissioners will consider Thursday an offer from Lockwood General Hospital in Petoskey to turn over land for a county medical center. The hospital proposes a wing be added to the present private institution and that it would furnish professional and general hospital services for some 75 persons now in private nursing homes.

Oak Park Set to Build School

Construction Bids to Be Opened Friday for New Elementary Unit

OAK PARK — Bids will be opened Friday for the construction of another elementary school in Oak Park.

This follows the approval of an $8½-million operating tax increase by voters in the school district in Monday's special election.

The new school will be the seventh elementary school for Oak Park, one of the nation's fastest growing cities.

In 1950, there were 84 children in Oak Park schools. Today there are more than 4,600.

Superintendent of Schools James N. Pepper said 80 per cent of the tax increase money will be used for instructional costs, regular salary raises and to hire 30-35 additional staff members. Oak Park teachers presently are the highest paid in southern Oakland County.

Hungarians Rule Kiss Snatchers Must Go to Jail

BUDAPEST, Hungary — A stolen kiss, ruled the communist Budapest court, is a "violation of personal freedom" punishable by three months in prison.

The ruling was reported today — two days before Valentine's Day — in the newspaper Esti Hirlap.

The 27-year-old personnel officer of a Budapest factory was hauled into court accused of stealing a kiss from "one of the pretty young women from the wage calculation department," the paper said.

He had summoned the girl to his office, "locked the door, embraced her and kissed her." The girl broke from the embrace and pounded with her fists on the door until another worker came to her rescue.

The personnel officer got fired, but the court suspended his three-month sentence.

Oil Burner Starts Fire

A fire at the residence of Joseph Thompson, 4066 Erskin St., Waterford Township, early yesterday started from a faulty oil burner and caused $550 damage, according to Waterford firemen who answered the call.

Liquor Scheme Left Up in Air

Governor Sends Back Conlin's 90-Day Credit Purchasing Plan

LANSING — The question of whether the state will be able to pick up temporarily 16 to 18 million dollars by buying liquor for the State Liquor Control Commission on a 90-day basis was way up in the air today.

Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton), originator of the plan, tossed the ball to Gov. Williams and the governor tossed it back again like a hot potato.

Conlin had suggested that if the distilleries were willing to wait 90 days for payment for liquor supplies for the commission, the state could get its hands on some badly needed cash.

"It is entirely up to you and the liquor commission," Conlin wrote the governor. "This is an administrative decision."

Williams replied that the Federal Alcohol Tax Division was doubtful about the idea and had warned that if any distilleries go along with the plan they "do so at their own peril."

Going along with the 90-day plan could be construed as an illegal inducement since the state might favor the companies that extended credit over those that demanded prompt payment, it was explained.

"If the Legislature wishes to take this method of raising funds, I will not stand in the way," Williams wrote Conlin.

But he added that "unfortunate results" would ensue if the plan is found to be unworkable.

Navy Divers Seek Nuclear Weapon

SAVANNAH, Ga. — Navy divers are searching off the Georgia coast for part of a nuclear weapon that was dropped into the Atlantic from a B-47.

"There is no danger of explosion or radioactivity," the Air Force said.

A statement released by Hunter Air Force Base at Savannah said the bomber jetted part of the weapon after a collision with an F-86 Sabre Jet Feb. 5.

The weapon was not capable of a nuclear explosion, the statement said.

The pilot of the Sabre Jet parachuted to safety. The bomber was landed by its three-man crew at Hunter AFB.

Reckless Driver Jailed 10 Weekends

A reckless driver who led Pontiac police officers on a chase at speeds up to 120 miles an hour was found guilty today in municipal court.

William D. Hellams, 28, of 16½ E. Huron St., was fined $100, placed on probation and ordered to spend 10 weekends in jail by Judge Cecil B. McCallum.

Hellams was caught in Birmingham after being chased from S. Saginaw and Wilson street on Feb. 5.

Wants to Outlaw Radio, TV Ads on Cigarettes

LANSING — Rep. Michael Novak, a smoker who's trying to break the habit, wants to outlaw those radio and television commercials that extol the pleasures of puffing on a cigarette.

Novak, Democrat from Detroit, filed a bill today to ban radio and TV advertising that promotes or portrays cigarette smoking. Cigarette ads in newspapers, magazines and other publications weren't mentioned.

Novak said the measure was drafted chiefly to turn young people against smoking.

"It is probably too late for those that have the habit to stop," he said.

"Constant repetition of cigarette advertising on radio and television and the portrayal of smoking as a necessary part of adult and youth behavior is bound to make an impression on youth," he said. "It is not 'modern' to smoke, nor is it necessary in order to 'be a man' or to be 'fashionable.'"

Novak also cited medical surveys showing cigarettes have harmful effect on heavy smokers.

ELIZABETH KAY BRENDEL

Mr. and Mrs. James Brendel of 5492 Grass Lake Rd. have announced the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Kay, to Charles C. Donelow Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Donelow of 768 Young St., Pontiac. A March 14 wedding is planned.

Probation Terms Cut County Welfare Costs

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

The Oakland County Probation Department and Circuit Court judges are doing their share of helping to trim the swelling welfare case load in the county.

This is evident from the fact that probation, rather than imprisonment, was handed out to 376 persons who were studied by the department among 523 pre-sentence investigations performed last year.

What does this have to do with cutting welfare costs? Arthur P. McKenna, chief probation officer, said:

"In many instances the prisoner's wife and children are left behind without funds when he is incarcerated. Then the welfare agencies have to step in and take care of them."

work in the community. Figures from the department show that these persons earned a combined income of $784,654 in industry, business and professional life last year.

LESS TAXES, TOO

Probation also means easing the pull on the taxpayers' pocketbooks.

"Statistics show that the cost of incarceration in prison is $1,200 per year and $1,700 at the Detroit House of Correction," McKenna explained.

"In contrast," he added, "if costs approximately $36 per year to supervise a person on probation."

At the end of last year the Oakland County department had 724 probationers (672 men and 52 women) under its supervision. This was an increase of 42 over the 682 at the beginning of 1957.

Illustrating the extensive use of probation by the four circuit judges is the fact that it was used in 72 per cent of the cases up for pre-sentencing last year.

"The fact that probation saves people from degradation of a prison sentence and possibly a career in crime would be more than enough to justify its existence," said McKenna.

It works for some and not for others, he said. Twelve per cent of the probationers under the control of the local department last year failed to improve.

An additional duty of the seven-person force is to collect costs, fines, restitution, support and probation fees assessed by the court. This amounted to $41,985 in 1957.

Wants to Take Traffic Case to High Court

HONOLULU (AP)—Lucien G. Dodge was charged with violating the right of way in a minor traffic accident. He refused to forfeit his $25 bond, announced he would fight the charge, and subpoenaed a list of defense witnesses including the chief of police and much of the rest of the force.

Dodge lost the case. He was fined $25. He said he was thinking of appealing to the Supreme Court.

Security for You

Phone Call May Save 2nd Trip to Office

By RAY HENRY

This time of the year the Social Security offices always find their business booming.

For example: Nearly twice as many people are applying for Social Security these days as were doing so in the late months of 1957.

There are a number of reasons for this. Many companies chose the first of the year to retire their older workers. And, these retired people crowd the Social Security offices to get their payments started.

Lots of self-employed people wait until the end of the year to give up working. They also troop into their local offices to start their payments.

And, of course, this is the time that self-employed persons must pay their Social Security tax. Many call on their local offices to get help in figuring how much they must pay, how to fill out the tax forms, etc., etc.

In any case, the jump in business creates problems both for Social Security offices around the country and for the people visiting them.

The offices get jammed and people have to wait in line to get help. Applications for payments pile up and, as a result, it takes longer for payments to start after a person applies.

As a practical matter, there isn't much the Social Security offices can do about their problems. It's unreasonable and costly to hire and train people to work temporarily during the periods of booming business.

But there are ways in which you—if you have a Social Security problem—can avoid a long wait in line and some of the other results of the crush.

The first thing to do is to find out if you actually have to visit your local office to get your problem solved. You may be able to solve it by a telephone call.

The Social Security people can give you just as good an answer to many questions on the phone as they can in person. And probably it'll be easier and faster for them, too.

A phone call may also save you a second trip to your local office.

For example: If you're applying for monthly payments, you'll probably have to show certain kinds of affidavits or documents before your application will be accepted. This could include a marriage license, death or birth certificate, W-4 income tax form, etc. If you find out by a phone call what you're going to need, you'll save a second trip.

You may be able to escape a visit to the office altogether by putting your problem in a letter to the nearest office. You probably can get the address from your phone book. It'll be listed under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Social Security Administration, Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance. Or you can get the address from the nearest post office if there's no office listed in the phone book.

You may not get an immediate answer to your letter due to the heavy load most offices are carrying now. But a letter can generally move you toward Social Security payments as fast as a personal visit.

If your letter is designed to get your payments started, you should clearly state it. Then the payments probably will be effective on the day the letter is received.

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

EL RENO, Okla. (AP)—Veldon Grudler of El Reno doesn't do much flying now that he's becoming an expert at building aircraft—in his home shop. Grudler, who has built two sports planes and helped construct a glider, now is in the midst of another project. He's building a gyrocopter.

$40,000 Goal Set in County Drive for Easter Seals

A $40,000 goal has been set for the 1958 Easter Seal campaign in Oakland County, according to Matthew Cammareri, chairman of the drive sponsored by the Oakland County Society For Crippled Children.

Easter seals will be sent to more than 135,000 residences throughout the county to aid in the campaign held March 6 through Easter Sunday, April 6.

Approximately 90 per cent of the funds raised in Michigan during the annual Easter Seal campaign finances services for crippled children and adults in the state, Cammareri said. "The remainder goes to help support a national program of service, education and research."

Last year some 500 children were helped in Oakland County from funds supplied by the 1957 Easter Seal Campaign.

CHAPTER 37

"Still busy tidying everyone and everything up?" Cedric said.

"Somebody seems to have been tidying you up," said Lucy, looking at Cedric.

"That's that damned nurse," said Cedric with feeling. "Have they had the inquest on Alfred yet? What happened?"

"It was adjourned," said Lucy.

"Police being cagey. This mass poisoning does give one a bit of a turn, doesn't it? Mentally, I mean. I'm not referring to more obvious respects," he added. "Better look after yourself, my girl."

"I do," said Lucy.

"Has young Alexander gone back to school yet?"

"I think he's still with the Stoddard-Wests. I think it's the day after tomorrow that school begins."

"Before getting her own lunch Lucy went to the telephone and rang up Miss Marple."

"I'm so terribly sorry I haven't been able to come over, but I've really been very busy."

"Of course, my dear, of course. Besides there's nothing that can be done just now. We just have to wait."

"Yes, but what are we waiting for?"

"Elspeth McGillivuddy ought to be home very soon now," said Miss Marple. "I wrote to her to fly home at once. I said it was her duty. So don't worry too much, my dear. Her voice was kindly and reassuring."

"You don't think—" Lucy began, but stopped.

"That there will be any more deaths? Oh, I hope not, my dear. But one never knows, does one? When anyone is really wicked, I mean. And I think there is great wickedness here."

"Or madness," said Lucy.

"Of course I know that is the modern way of looking at things. I don't agree myself."

Lucy rang off, went into the kitchen and picked up her tray of lunch. Mrs. Kidder had divested herself of her apron and was about to leave.

"You'll be all right, Miss. I hope?" she asked solicitously.

"Of course I shall be all right," snapped Lucy.

She took her tray not into the big, gloomy dining room, but into the small study. She was just finishing the meal when the door opened and Bryan Eastley came in.

"Hullo," said Lucy, "this is very unexpected."

"I suppose it is," said Bryan.

"How is everybody?"

"Oh, much better. Harold's going back to London tomorrow."

"What do you think about it all?—Was it really arsenic?"

"It was arsenic all right," said Lucy.

"It hasn't been in the papers yet."

"No, I think the police are keeping it up their sleeves for the moment."

"Somebody must have a pretty good down on the family," said Bryan. "Who's likely to have sneaked in and tampered with the food?"

"I suppose I'm the most likely person really," said Lucy.

Bryan looked at her anxiously. "But you didn't, did you?" he asked. He sounded slightly shocked.

"No, I didn't," said Lucy.

Nobody could have tampered with the curry. She had made it — alone in the kitchen, and brought it to table and the only person who could have tampered with it was one of the five people who sat down to the meal.

"I mean—why should you?" said Bryan. "They're nothing to you, are they? I say," he added, "I hope you don't mind my coming back here like this?"

"No, no, of course I don't. Have you come to stay?"

"Well, I'd like to, if it wouldn't be an awful bore to you."

"No. No, we can manage."

"You see, I'm out of a job at the moment and I — well, I get rather fed up. Are you really sure you don't mind?"

"Oh, I'm not the person to mind, anyway. It's Emma."

"Oh, Emma's all right," said Bryan. "Emma's always been very nice to me. In her own way, you know. She keeps things to herself a lot, in fact she's rather a dark horse, old Emma. This living here and looking after the old man would get most people down. Pity she never married. Too late now, I suppose."

"I don't think it's too late at all," said Lucy.

"Well — Bryan considered. "A clergyman perhaps," he said hopefully. "She'd be useful in the parish and tactful with the Mothers' Union. I do mean the Mothers' Union. Don't let Not that I know what it really is, but you come across it sometimes in books. And she'd wear a hat in church on Sundays," he added.

"Doesn't sound much of a prospect to me," said Lucy, rising and picking up the tray.

"I'll do that," said Bryan, taking the tray from her. They went into the kitchen together. "Shall I help you wash up? I do like this kitchen," he added. "In fact, I know it isn't the sort of thing that people do nowadays, but I like this whole house. Shocking taste I suppose, but there it is. You could land a plane quite easily in the park," he added with enthusiasm.

He picked up a glass cloth and began to wipe the spoons and forks.

"Seems a waste, it coming to Cedric," he remarked. "First thing he'll do is to sell the whole thing and go basking off abroad again. Can't see, myself, why England isn't good enough for anybody. Harold wouldn't want this house either, and of course it's much too big for Emma. Now if only it came to Alexander he and I would be as happy together here as a couple of sandboys. Of course it would be nice to have a woman about the house." He looked thoughtfully at Lucy. "Oh, well, what's the good of talking? If Alexander were to get this place it would mean a whole lot of them would have to die first, and that's not really likely, is it? Though from what I've seen of the old boy he might easily live to be a hundred, just to annoy them all. I don't suppose he was much cut up by Alfred's death, was he?"

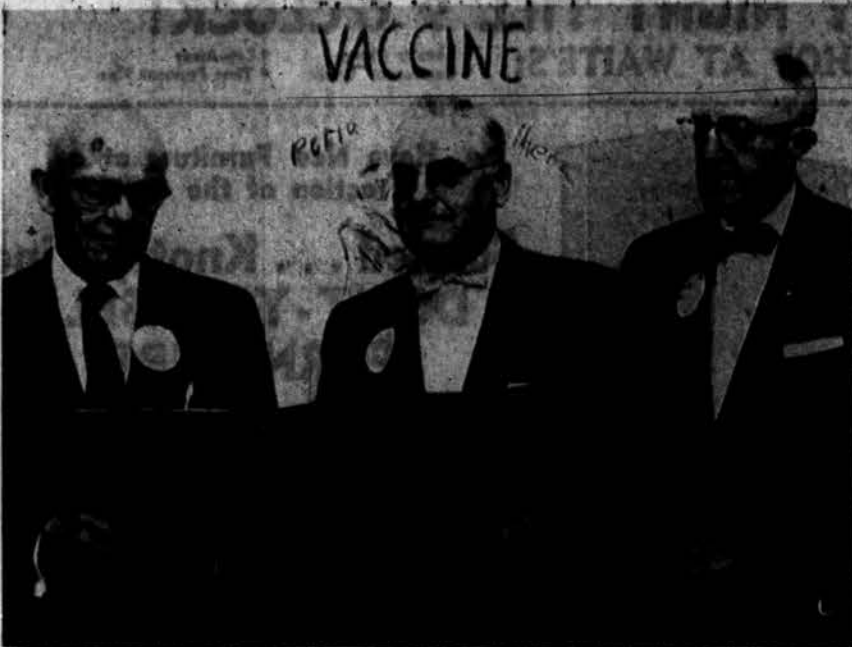

Lucy said shortly, "No, he wasn't."

"Cantankerous old devil," said Bryan Eastley cheerfully.

"Dreadful, the things people go about saying," said Mrs. Kidder. "I don't listen, mind you, more than I can help. But you'd hardly believe it." She waited hopefully.

"Yes, I suppose so," said Lucy.

"About that body that was found in the Long Barn," went on Mrs. Kidder, moving crablike, DISCUSS HEALTH IN LANSING — Dr. John S. Lambie, health coordinator for the Oakland County Health Department, (left) studies a report on public health needs in Michigan with Dr. Frank J. Condon and Dr. Charles Neafie, deputy directors of the county department, at the ninth annual State Health Commissioner's Conference held in Lansing recently.

backwards on her hands and knees, as she scrubbed the kitchen floor, "saying as how she'd been Mr. Edmund's fancy piece during the war, and how she came over here and a jealous husband followed her and did her in. It is a likely thing as a foreigner would do, but it wouldn't be likely after all these years, would it?"

"It sounds most unlikely to me."

"But there's worse things than that, they say," said Mrs. Kidder.

"Say anything, people will. You'd be surprised. There's those that say Mr. Harold married somewhere abroad and that she came over and found out he'd committed bigamy with that Lady Alice, and that she was going to bring 'im to Court and that he met her down here and did her in and hid her body in the sarcophagus. Did you ever?"

"Shocking," said Lucy vaguely, her mind elsewhere.

"Of course, I don't listen," said Mrs. Kidder virtuously. "I wouldn't put no stock in such tales myself. It beats me how people think up such things, let alone say them. All I hope is none of it gets back to Miss Emma's ear. It might upset her and I shouldn't like that. She's a very nice lady. Miss Emma is, and I've not heard a word against her, not a word. And of course Mr. Alfred being dead nobody says anything against him now. Not even that it's a judgment, which they well might do. But it's awful, Miss, isn't it, the wicked talk there is?"

Mrs. Kidder spoke with immense enjoyment.

"It must be quite painful for you to listen to it," said Lucy.

"Oh, it is," said Mrs. Kidder.

"It is indeed. I says to my husband, I says, however can they?"

The bell rang.

"There's the doctor, Miss. Will you let 'im in, or shall I?"

"I'll go," said Lucy.

But it was not the doctor. On the doorstep stood a tall, elegant woman in a mink coat. Drawn up to the gravel sweep was a purring Rolls with a chauffeur at the wheel.

"Can I see Miss Emma Crackenthorpe, please?"

It was an attractive voice, the R's slightly blurred. The woman was attractive too. About thirty-five, with dark hair and expensive, and beautifully made-up.

"I'm sorry," said Lucy. "Miss Crackenthorpe is ill in bed and can't see anyone."

"I know she has been ill, yes, but it is very important that I should see her."

"I'm afraid," Lucy began. The visitor interrupted her. "I think you are Miss Eyeselbarrow, are you not?" she smiled, an attractive smile. "My son has spoken of you, so I know. I am Lady Stoddard-West, and Alexander is staying with me now."

"Oh, I see," said Lucy.

"And it is really important that I should see Miss Crackenthorpe," continued the other. "I know all about her illness and I assure you this is not just a social call. It is because of something that the boys have said to me—that my son has said to me. It is, I think, a matter of grave importance and I would like to speak to Miss Crackenthorpe about it. Please, will you ask her?"

"Come in," Lucy ushered her visitor into the hall and into the drawing room. Then she said, "I'll go up and ask Miss Crackenthorpe."

She went upstairs, knocked on Emma's door and entered. "Lady Stoddard-West is here," she said. "She wants to see you very particularly."

"Lady Stoddard-West?" Emma looked surprised. A look of alarm came into her face. "There's nothing wrong, is there, with the boys — with Alexander?"

No, no," Lucy reassured her. "I'm sure the boys are all right. It seems to be something the boys have told her or said to her."

"Oh, well —" Emma hesitated. "Perhaps I ought to see her. Do wires."

I look all right, Lucy?"

"You look very nice," said Lucy.

Emma was sitting up in bed, a soft pink shawl was round her shoulders and brought out the faint rose pink of her cheeks. Her dark hair had been neatly brushed and combed by Nurse. Lucy had placed a bowl of autumn leaves on the dressing table the day before. Her room looked attractive and quite unlike a sickroom.

"I'm really quite well enough to get up," said Emma. "Dr. Quimper said I could tomorrow."

"You look really quite yourself again," said Lucy. "Shall I bring Lady Stoddard-West up?"

"Yes, do."

Lucy went downstairs again.

"Will you come up to Miss Crackenthorpe's room?"

Gavin, Successor Don't Get Together

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lt. Gen. Arthur C. Trudeau, en route to Washington, D.C., to become the Army's research and development chief, and the man he replaces, Lt. Gen. James Gavin, were both here yesterday but they didn't meet.

The Army said Gavin's visit was secret. He visited a helicopter plant at Palo Alto and then flew to Los Angeles. He retired in protest against what he called obstacles to Army missile development.

"All I need is authority, and I will cut through the red tape," Trudeau said here. He was commander of the 1st Army Corps in Korea when picked as Gavin's successor.

Turncoat Spy Being Quizzed

Former Russian Agent Describes Attempts to Contact Sergeant

WASHINGTON (AP) — A turncoat Russian spy faced cross-examination today on his story that Moscow master-minded efforts to contact a U.S. Army sergeant accused of betraying his country.

Reino Hayhanen, who resembles a movie-type version of a spy, has been the major witness so far in the court-martial trial of M. Sgt. Roy A. Rhodes on charges of conspiring to commit espionage.

Swirling around the case were prosecution contentions that "a pretty large and dangerous conspiracy" has been established and defense complaints that the trial has "compounded hearsay on top of hearsay."

The prosecution position is that the 40-year-old Rhodes was part of an espionage conspiracy that originated in Moscow while he was stationed at the U.S. Embassy there and continued after he returned to America in 1953. Maximum sentence upon conviction could be life imprisonment.

Rhodes' chief counsel Lt. Col. John F. Hummel told the court the prosecution has produced no actual proof there was a conspiracy or that Rhodes was part of one. He called Hayhanen's testimony all hearsay. But his motion to throw it out on grounds of irrelevancy was denied.

Hayhanen told of working closely with Col. Rudolph Abel of the Soviet secret police, whom he described as "resident agent" in New York for an espionage ring. He later broke with Abel and the Russians.

Last October, Hayhanen was a key witness at a trial in Brooklyn, N.Y., which resulted in Abel's conviction on espionage charges.

He testified he never had met or even seen Rhodes until a pre-trial conference in November, but said he had tried without success to locate Rhodes after the sergeant's return to this country.

He identified what he said was a copy of a message from Moscow naming Rhodes as "Agent Quebec," and providing information to help locate him.

Southeast Side Playground Planned Property Lease Signed by City With GMC Truck

The city has signed a $1-a-year lease with General Motors Truck & Coach Division for property on which a new southeast side playground is planned.

The property is a strip about 12 lots long lying east of Howland avenue and north and south of Nebraska avenue. For its use by the public, the City Commission was agreed to waive the company's assessment of about $140-a-year in city taxes.

The lease is a continuous one, City Manager Walter K. Willman said, until such future time the company might want to convert the property into a parking lot.

David R. Ewalt, Parks & Recreation director, said the grounds will be developed and equipped with the financial aid of the Southwest Civic Assn., an independent group formed last August.

"This will be the first playground in that area and the fifth to be developed cooperatively by the Department of Parks & Recreation and local, civic organizations," Ewalt said.

The playground may be in partial use by this summer, Ewalt said. Frank Carruthers, president of the southwest association, said his organization hoped to raise $1,000 for the playground by the end of the year.

Virginia Dems Seek Candidate

Sen. Byrd's Statement of Retirement Catches Party by Surprise

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Virginia organization Democrats, recovering from their surprise at the retirement announcement of U.S. Sen. Harry Flood Byrd, turned today to the practical political matter of who might be his successor.

They expected the atmosphere of uncertainty to begin to dissipate in the next two weeks as one or more of the potential candidates make their intentions known. There are expectations too that the situation may be fairly well resolved by the time of the Democratic State Central Committee meeting Feb. 28.

Informed political sources put the spotlight on four names as standouts in a long list of probabilities to succeed the man who has been the dominant political force in Virginia for the past quarter century.

These were veterans of the Democratic political wars — former Gov. John S. Battle, a member of the federal Civil Rights Commission; former Gov. William M. Tucker, now congressman from the Southside 5th Dist.; and two younger party leaders, Atty. Gen. Albertis S. Harrison and Rep. Watkins M. Abbott of the 4th Dist.

Others mentioned as possible included the senator's son, State Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr.; Rep. Howard W. Smith of the 8th Dist., dean of the Virginia delegation; Rep. Porter Hardy Jr. of the 2nd Dist.; former Gov. Colgate W. Darden Jr., now president of the University of Virginia; Speaker of the House E. Blackburn Moore; and Rep. Burr P. Harrison of Byrd's home 7th Dist.

In his retirement announcement, Byrd cited the fact that his wife "has suffered a crippling illness and is an invalid."

District Attorney Fears Power of 'Overworld'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As if the underworld weren't enough of a problem, Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson has come up with something new to worry about: "the overworld."

"The overworld," McKesson explained at a Crime Prevention Week luncheon, "is a sinister segment of society seeking special favors because of wealth, position, party, influence, standing, or whom one knows."

He said it is "corruption in control of our economic life, working under a cloak of respectability, but still living off ill-begotten gains of patronage and special interest."

Port Huron Rocket Group Plans Bigger Model

PORT HURON (AP) — Eleven teenagers in the Port Huron area are so enthused about their latest rocket launching that they have decided to aim a bigger model next time.

The youths, members of the Blue Water Rocket Assn., disclosed yesterday that they successfully launched a one-foot aluminum missile from a farm southeast of here Sunday. It disappeared in the clouds.

Their next production will be a three-foot affair. Its launching, like the last one, will remain a secret until done.

The association meets each week in the suburban East China Township school under the supervision of science teacher Nathan Lyden.

READING, England (AP) — Pranksters from Reading University dumped a metal cylinder with the phony inscription "U.S. Air Force — Danger" in a public park and hid in the bushes waiting for laughs. Along came a little girl too young to be able to read. She picked up the cylinder, trotted 50 feet to a river and threw it in.

Pneumonia Death Is Labeled Suicide

LAKEWOOD, Colo. (AP) — Mrs. Geraldine Mahathey, 46, was critically burned Feb. 2 when an explosion rocked her home, blowing out an entire wall.

She died yesterday — of pneumonia — but Jefferson County Coroner Ken Raynie ruled the death a suicide.

Doctors at Denver General Hospital said Mrs. Mahathey developed pneumonia as a complication of her burns.

Law officers obtained a written statement from the woman several days ago claiming she had attempted to kill herself by turning on the gas in her home and lighting a cigarette, setting off the blast.

Taxes Show Smoking Up in New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — Comptroller Lawrence E. Gerosa said today that tax returns indicate cigarette smoking is increasing in New York City.

The penny-a-pack cigarette tax will produce revenues to the city of $10,200,000 in the current fiscal year ending June 30 — an increase of about $300,000 over the past fiscal year — according to his estimate.

The figures were included in a lengthy report by Gerosa on city finances.

Hope Dims for Settlement of French-Tunisian Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. ambassador at Tunis reportedly has confirmed Tunisian claims of heavy civilian casualties in Saturday's French bombing of the village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef.

State Department officials were studying the official dispatch, received from Ambassador G. Lewis Jones to determine whether any new action should be taken by this government.

United States policy has been to try to get the Tunisian and French governments to settle their differences quickly. Hope for the success of this approach is dimming.

If the argument over the bombing incident develops in the North Atlantic Council in Paris and in the United Nations, as authorities here fear it may, the United States may be compelled to take sides. This could mean a split with France or loss of cordial relations with Tunisia and further anti-American hostilities in some sections of the Arab world.

Privately top officials believe the French made a bad blunder in bombing the village even though they claim it was a base for Algerian rebels operating across the nearby border.

The government at Tunis put the number of dead at 68 with 84 persons wounded and 10 missing.

French officials have announced that all American-made planes used in the attack were owned by France and were not supplied as NATO equipment.

26,560 Diesel in Fleet

CHICAGO — The United States diesel-electric locomotive fleet consists of about 26,560 units.

TUNIS (AP) — The French government today warned Tunisia that further grave incidents might result from Tunisian efforts to cut off supplies to the 15,000 French troops still in the North African country.

President Habib Bourguiba ordered the blockade of the French garrisons as part of his campaign to force the French out of his country in retaliation for the French bombing of the Tunisian village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef.

The French warning was contained in a note delivered to Bourguiba's chief minister, Bahl Ladgham, as the president was recording his weekly radio address to the nation for broadcast later today.

In Paris, Foreign Minister Christian Pineau scheduled a speech on the Tunisian crisis in the National Assembly this afternoon. Earlier, the Assembly voted 338-179 to accept Premier Felix Gaillard's explanation that the bombing was in "legitimate defense" against Algerian rebels headquartered in the village.

Foreign ambassadors in Tunisia who visited the village, however, reported to their governments that most of the casualties appeared to be civilians, as the Tunisian government claimed. The Tunisians said 68 men, women and children were killed, 84 were wounded and 10 were missing.

Ted Husing Out of Job He Held Since Summer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Husing's agent said today that the famous sports announcer of yesterday has lost his $150 a week job at CBS radio which he had held only since last August.

Husing is now at Pasadena, Calif., recovering from a brain tumor which paralyzed and blinded him in 1954.

Husing achieved wide popularity with CBS between 1927 and 1946 for his smooth delivery and knowledge of sports. He left sports to become a $250,000-a-year disc jockey.

Jack Benny's Rochester Suffers Stomach Attack

A doctor said Anderson had suffered a stomach upset.

Smog Experts Attack Autos

Group Contends Cars Last Source of Noxious Fumes in Cities

LOS ANGELES (U)—Thirteen experts, convinced that smog has become a nationwide menace to health and happiness, will meet in Washington tomorrow to put the heat on the auto industry.

The group is the Advisory Council to the U.S. Surgeon General on Air Pollution Problems, made up of scientists, medical men and air pollution specialists. Its contentions are these:

1. The automobile is the last, and so far uncontrollable, major source of the noxious fumes that regularly besmirch the atmosphere of American cities, bringing discomfort to millions.

2. Unless cut off, the fumes will certainly worsen smog in cities already affected and will ultimately create smog problems where air is now pure.

The experts intend to ask auto industry executives to go all out in developing a device to reduce or eliminate the automobile's contribution to air pollution.

They say privately that auto men have dragged their feet on working up an antismog device, apparently under the impression that the smog-car problem is peculiar to the Los Angeles region where the loudest outcries have been heard.

The facts are, say the experts, that half a dozen major cities—including auto headquarters itself, Detroit—already consider auto exhaust a serious smog problem, and more than 200 cities deem it a factor in their air pollution picture.

The group's goal: a cheap—$25 to $50—device to be built into all new cars that will effectively filter, or burn, unconsumed gasoline vapors. It is these vapors, belched from auto exhausts, that change chemically in the air to form smog's irritants.

Revolt in the Pentagon

Armed Forces Stall Unification Themselves

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
Last of Three Dispatches
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Since the U. S. Department of Defense was created after World War II, American taxpayers have chipped in close to 400 billion dollars for the so-called unified military services. This huge sum has paid for a lot of aircraft and missiles, a limited war in Korea, foreign military assistance and a wad of other military equipment. But it has bought little of the kind of unification the designers of the new department had in mind.

Defense Department officials are now being lashed for the red tape and timidity which exists in the unified Military Air Transport Service. In a short time the Navy had created a new "fleet logistic wing" organization to avoid using MATS. The Air Force got around the order in similar fashion.

Attempts by defense officials to unify and standardize purchasing have been constantly frustrated and nullified by the services. A more economical means of buying shoes for women in the service has been blocked because the Navy has insisted on a one-inch heel while the Army has never accepted anything but a one and one-half inch heel. For years the Army and Navy have been unable to agree on whether bacon should be smoked 24 or 48 hours, thus blocking savings on the purchase of this item.

The most damaging situation is the fact that the success of an officer or civilian in a service has come to be measured by his victories against the Office of the Secretary of Defense, rather than cooperation with it.

This black look at confusion, delay and bickering in the Pentagon is brightened by recommendations which the recent Rockefeller Report makes for correcting these faults. The President and Congress are giving careful consideration to these and their own ideas for improving the situation. Corrective action is bound to result.

Recommended clear-cut authority to the Secretary of Defense to cut their civilian layer over the services.

But the Defense Department—more specifically the Office of the Secretary—can only be blamed for the lack of efficiency and unification which exists today in light of the sabotage of its effort to achieve unification from the beginning.

The classic case of the services' fight against unification started with the abolition of the air transport services of the Navy and Air Force and creation of the unified to control research, purchasing and the right to halt or transfer programs would give new defense boss Neil McElroy

BUT THE FEUDING DIDN'T STOP—This photo made military history of sorts in May, 1956, when the then Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson and top leaders of all the armed forces held a joint news conference in the Pentagon in an effort to head off a mushrooming feud among the services. Left to right: Gen. Nathan Twining, then Air Force Chief and now head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff: Donald Quarles, then Air Secretary; Army Chief Gen. Maxwell Taylor; Army Undersecretary Charles Finscane; Wilson; Adm. Arthur Radford, then Chairman of the Joint Chiefs; Charles Thomas, then Navy Secretary; Navy Chief Adm. Arleigh Burke and Gen. Randolph McC. Pate, Marine Corps Commandant.

Life in Castle Proves to Offer Little Pleasure

DONCASTER, Eng. — Honey-mooning in a Queen's castle has turned out to be a nightmare for John Gavall, 38 and 36-year-old Rosemary Horstmann, his bride. The honeymoon home is moated Tickhill Castle near Doncaster. They were chosen from hundreds of applicants, to rent the castle for $22.50 a week.

Instead of cozy evenings before the fire, Mrs. Gavall found herself scrubbing floors by candlelight. Carpenters and others started two months ahead to restore the castle—but they hadn't quite finished. "It was pandemonium," said Gavall. A furniture truck stuck under the drawbridge. Then Mrs. Gavall found there was no electricity. And when a cabinet-maker called it took her five minutes to find the front door by flashlight. But they stayed on, anyway.

Free-Trade Zone Set

MANAUS, Brazil — To stimulate trade and economic growth in its Amazon area, the Brazilian Government is going to establish a free-trade zone at the port of Manaus.

Manaus, which can be reached by steamer from the Atlantic, is the chief distribution center of northwestern Brazil. It is on the Rio Negro and is 925 miles above Belem and 2,800 air miles from Rio de Janeiro.

Radiation-Sensitive Glass Developed

WASHINGTON — The Naval Research Laboratory here has developed a radiation-sensitive glass it says is indistinguishable from regular window glass. It is made by dissolving silver into a melt of high-phosphate-content glass.

The crystal-clear substance glows bright orange under ultraviolet light if it has been exposed to sufficient gamma or X rays.

These qualities make it useful as a detection device for persons working with nuclear materials and, in the form of a thin needle, for recording the amount of radiation received in hard-to-reach tissue of cancer patients.

More than 700,000 people in the United States are now under treatment for cancer, says the American Cancer Society.

About 21,000 Americans are killed by accidental falls each year, and one-half of the victims are 65 or more years old.

Florida Freeze Takes Toll in Dead Cattle, Ruined Crops

By FRED SPARKS

MIAMI (NEA) — The editor of the Orlando Evening Star summed up Florida's brutally cold and wet winter with this headline: "Weather's for Birds—Penguins." There have been some mild, midday hours that permit tanning — behind sturdy wind screens. But, during one month in the Sunshine State, I've had only two swims — and each time felt as warm as a pecan in a sundae.

Hotel bulletin boards that ordinarily display "home town temperatures" — to make guests delighted they're South — have quietly dropped the boast. One day Miami hit 36, same as Denver; Daytona Beach hit 26, same as Washington — but who visits Washington in February with Bermuda shorts?

Miami Beach's Cotton club featuring Cab Calloway, is expected to close; tourism is off 20 per cent. And Jefferson stores display this sign: "Sorry, we are completely out of electric blankets."

But tourism, like horse racing, is a gamble; feast or famine. "One season you pay off the mortgage," a motel owner told me. "The next you post the wife's diamonds as security for the grocer."

Palm Beach will forget the sight of pomeranians tucked in pink jackets air freighted from Park Ave.; Jacksonville the sight of life-guards wearing parkas; Tampa the shock of "heated taxi" posters.

But few motoring tourists will forget the sight of 20 to 30 beautiful black Angus, clustered together — stiff, bloated, dead in a field.

Or the sight of a white-faced steer trying, hour after hour, to struggle to its feet, making one, then two knees, then collapsing.

Everywhere around the town of Okeechobee, Florida's cattle heartland, are these sights, sounds and smells of death. Ranchers like Z. K. Williams are typical: he expects to lose half his 2,000 head, has been so busy trying to save the living he can't bury the dead.

Those still surviving on the Williams ranch are standing around, limp, energyless, skin and bones, huddled in small bunches on knolls above flooded pastures, nibbling hard brown stubble — a skimpy diet.

J. Olin Pearce Jr., president of the Florida Cattlemen's Association, sees slight chance of the frosts and drizzles ending during February. That is usually the roughest month on the farms and the roughest on Palm Beach caterers, as the international watering set, led by the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, take to buffet table.

Said Pearce: "Most of us don't know how many cattle we've lost; the underbrush is so thick and the buzzards are not helping us."

STARVATION FOLLOWS
"So far the cattle have died because of the freeze. Starvation will enter the picture between now and spring. The freezes killed grass and what hasn't been killed is covered with water."

"The cattle bed down in the water or on the damp ground and when morning comes they have pneumonia or can't get up."

Few motoring tourists will forget the rolling, artificial fog banks, streaming from smudge pots, that try to cloak perishables in smoky warmth. It is usually wasted. By morning, there are acres of frost-shriveled plants, tomatoes dead on the vine.

The $2-million-a-year strawberry crop erased. Beans, cucumbers, squash, flowers . . . all crippled. Oranges already down from the estimated 102 million boxes to 75. All this means higher prices up north; a fresh leak in milady's shopping purse.

Wrote one protester to Gov. LeRoy Collins: "By going into outer space with Sputnik and Explorer man has tampered with the logical balance of things. Rocket tests in Florida must stop."

Fallen Sputnik Belong to U.S.?

Urges More Knowledge of Outer Space Before Setting Up Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department witness has told congressmen more should be learned about outer space before important rules on control of space can be laid down.

Loftus Becker, the department's legal adviser, raised a question as to whether a satellite still belongs to the country which launched it once the satellite shoots out of control into space.

"Usually ownership relates to capability to grab hold of it, and I don't know what they (the Soviets) could do about Sputnik or what their remedy would be if we were to pick up this . . . piece they said fell on the West Coast," he testified.

Becker said, however, that the United States would be at a disadvantage in staking out territorial claims on the moon if others get there and this country doesn't.

Becker, whose position makes him the top policymaker on these questions under Secretary of State Dulles and President Eisenhower, spoke out against various space control proposals during a closed session of a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on national security.

Among others, he opposed any immediate action on proposals for a special conference on space regulation, establishment of a U.N. convention for the purpose, and giving the task to the International Civil Aviation Organization.

Becker said that really to prevent conflict in space, a view of space in international rather than national terms may have to be developed. He said rules must be drawn up to protect people underneath space vehicles, to channel radio frequencies for space vehicle use, to govern space navigation and eventually probably to cover marriages and other legal relationships when people move into space.

But he cautioned against "too precipitate" action to set up detailed rules without more word from scientists on "what are the possibilities of controlling or doing anything in the area."

Boy Lies Helpless in Snowy Canyon

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Rescuers worked today at the 5,000-foot level on Mt. San Geronimo to reach a 14-year-old boy lying helpless after a 300-foot fall into a snowy canyon.

A sheriff's deputy who took part in an earlier rescue attempt said Donald Burns was lying in a grotesque position, as though he may have suffered bone fractures.

Burns, of nearby Colton, was hiking with schoolmates yesterday when he slipped on an icy trail at the top of Big Falls. He fell with the cascading water about 100 feet to a ledge. The falling water pushed him from the ledge and he fell another 200 feet to the bottom of the canyon.

The boy waved and yelled intermittently for five hours after the fall, then was silent.

U.S. Forest Service workers and sheriff's officers tried to bring the youngster out but couldn't get down into the canyon because their rope wouldn't reach far enough.

Card Table Can Become Play House

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The father who makes a hobby of building play toys for his children should enjoy making a little play house that will take very little of his time. It is constructed out of paper and an ordinary card table.

All you do is tape heavy brown wrapping paper around the card table. It's a good idea to cut the paper into panels for each side of the table.

Cut out the windows and the door and then fasten the sides to the table legs with strips of cellophane tape.

You can get a roof effect by cutting two pieces of cardboard into triangular shapes and securing them to opposite sides of the table.

The wrapping paper for these sides is cut to fit the triangular shapes. Use long thin strips of tape to hold the paper securely.

Trim with tape. Cut out the windows and the door before taping the paper to the table. Trim window edges with colored plastic tape. Crisscross the tape at the windows for the lattice effect.

Curtains may be made of cheese-cloth or little fabric scraps found around the house. These may be fastened to the paper (on the inside) with transparent tape.

A fence may be put around the bottom of his little play house. Just paint a design on the brown paper with poster paint.

Flowers may be cut from yellow, blue and white construction paper and taped to the wrapping paper for a three-dimensional effect.

Plastic tape may be used to form window boxes at the side windows.

Holds Observance of Founders' Day

Chapter CL of PEO Sisterhood was entertained by Elda Sutter at her home on West Iroquois road. The Founders' Day observance was prepared by Mrs. Waldron Keasey assisted by Mrs. Clark Morgan, Mrs. Henry Sink, Mrs. Harry Chapman, Mrs. Max Fell, Mrs. Charles Matson, Mrs. George Putnam, Miss Sutter and Marilyn Keasey.

Mrs. Victor Lindquist sang two selections accompanied by Mrs. Martin Wager at the Monday session.

Pair Speaks Vows

Married Feb. 10 were Darlene Rhyndress and Ralph Townsend. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rhyndress of Mann Road, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Townsend of Waldon road.

Women of the Forest Lake Country Club gathered Wednesday at the club for a card brunch. Chatting before the activities began were (left to right) Mrs. Carroll Braid of Rosewood drive, Mrs. Cecil Newstead of North Hammond drive, Mrs. William McClure of West Huron street and Mrs. Aaron Fox of Cherokee road.

Mrs. Harry Hanson of Wenonah drive (left) and Mrs. William Taylor of Ottawa drive were snapped by The

Yomar Group Holds Meeting at Mason Home

Mrs. Ralph Mason was hostess to the Yomar Group of the First Presbyterian Church Tuesday evening at her home on Maplewood drive. Welcomed as a new member was Mrs. Jack Hunt.

Conducting the study on world service was Mrs. Gene Fenely assisted by Mrs. Earl Bright, Mrs. Caius Gordon, Mrs. George Stinnett, Mrs. Howard White and Mrs. James Graybiel.

Mrs. Earl VanDyke participated in the evening's projects. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Pierce Boutin, Mrs. Graybiel and Mrs. Marvin Hillman.

Clubs Owe Origin to Lonesome Wife

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — When Mrs. Albert E. Carter came to Washington in 1925 with her husband, a newly elected Republican congressman from California to the 69th Congress, she didn't know a soul.

"I found other wives of new members in the same boat—some so lonesome they were even talking of going home," she recalls.

ORGANIZED CLUB

"There were 69 of us. We formed a club, met once a month, shared our problems, went sight-seeing together and became good friends. We were called the 69-ers."

So successful was this venture, Mrs. Carter helped form new clubs with each new Congress. The latest is the 85th, headed by young Mrs. Frank Church, wife of the Democratic senator from Idaho.

When some of the earlier clubs began dwindling in size with the passing years, Mrs. Carter, whose husband now practices law here, was urged to consolidate the remaining members in a new group, the "Senior Congress Club."

Some of the 69-ers helped. They included Mrs. Fred Vinson, widow of the late chief justice and long-time Democratic member of Congress from Kentucky, and Mrs. Walter George, widow of the late Democratic senator from Georgia.

GUEST OF HONOR

Recently Mrs. Carter was honored by the Congressional Club which is made up of wives of all the lawmakers, many of whom belong to individual clubs organized by her.

Mrs. Nobel Johnson, wife of the chief justice of the Custom and Patent Appeals Court and former congressman from Indiana and herself one of the 69-ers, was chairman of the gala event.

Headed by the very active Senior Congress Club whose president now is Mrs. Everett Dirksen, wife of the Republican senator from Illinois, each Congress Club presented a skit depicting an era of Mrs. Carter's life.

"I guess I've been here longer than most," Mrs. Carter told me.

"Though I did most of my work in California, I've found many opportunities to keep myself busy here. Organizing the clubs, meeting all the new women, has been a very warming experience."

BETTER PREPARED

Mrs. Carter says in recent years new congressional wives coming to Washington are more familiar with what goes on here.

"They are much better informed about things outside their homes, are more politically aware and more concerned with national and international affairs than wives used to be," she explains.

Before coming to Washington, Mrs. Carter served as state president of the Legislative Council of Women in California which worked to get changes in the state community property laws, to get women on juries, and to raise teacher salaries.

She has served on the state board of education and holds life diplomas for teaching in Oregon, California and the state of Washington.

Toastmistress Club Is Joining in Class Project

An impromptu program was featured when members of the Pontiac Toastmistress Club met at the Hotel Waldron. Names were drawn as each activity was presented.

Toastmistress for the evening was Mrs. George Gaches. Speaking on "Lenten Observances" was Mrs. Ivan Wilcox; Mrs. Clayton Tibbals spoke on "Hero Worship in These United States" and Mrs. Clayton Rule discussed "Easter Customs and Costumes."

Mrs. Howard Wheatley, Helen Turek, Mrs. Wayne Keaves and Evelyn Cole gave criticisms and evaluations.

Mrs. Sidney Olson acted as grammarian. Timekeeper was Mrs. Ivan Wilcox, and fines were levied by Mrs. Wheatley. Helen Lapich was chief evaluator. Also participating in the Tuesday program was Mrs. Sidney Olson.

Guests for the evening were Gwen Polk, Kay Thomas, Lois B. Tutor and Dorothy E. Bell.

Charles Dugas and Henry Powers of the Pontiac Toastmasters Club attended in the interest of the speechcraft classes being planned by the two clubs. These classes will be conducted at the YMCA each Tuesday for six weeks beginning in March.

Book Review Heard by Dirt Gardeners

Mrs. William Bachmann, Mrs. William Healy and Mrs. Clarence Phillips were hostesses when members of Dirt Gardeners Club met in Adah Shelly Library Tuesday. Tea was served from a table decorated in a Valentine motif.

It was voted to send a contribution to Baily Memorial commemorating the Baily Centennial. Mrs. John Frederick Naz reviewed a book, "The Last of the Curlews."

Exercises Can Correct Common Faults

Good Posture Aids Looks, Health

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Posture has such an amazing effect on the way we look and the impression we give others, to say nothing of its effect on our health!

Good posture takes inches from your waist measurement, makes your bust more prominent and your hips less prominent, improves your chinline, flattens your tummy and discourages a Dowager's Hump. It also gives you an air of self-confidence and poise and adds grace to your silhouette.

Good posture gives your heart and lungs more room in which to operate, is conducive to good elimination and deep breathing. It is restful whereas poor carriage places a strain on muscles and ligaments and often leads to backaches or fatigue.

Today I would like to give you three corrective exercises for the three most prevalent results of poor posture — the Dowager's Hump, sway back and round shoulders.

1. Dowager's Hump. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Bend your right knee up and grasp it with your hands, pulling it back close to your body. Hold your leg in this position while you roll your head back and lift your shoulders from the floor (head on the floor).

Hold for a few seconds and return to starting position. Do the same thing with your left knee. Continue, alternating right and left. This is also a mild abdominal exercise.

2. Sway back. Lie on the floor on your back with your knees bent and your feet flat on the floor. Arms rest at your sides. Pull your abdominal muscles in HARD. Flatten your mid-back against the floor.

Hold for a few minutes and relax. Continue. See if you can touch your entire middle back to the floor. Also, when you are walking.

remember to pull the hips under and keep the knees relaxed.

3. Round shoulders. Stand tall. Make large circles with your arms. Start with the arms overhead. Bring them downward, outward, and pulling back as you do so. Cross the arms in front of the body and move them upward. Continue.

Be sure to pull back as the arms move downward. Lift the chin slightly while doing this exercise and keep the trunk erect.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Grace and Charm," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 57 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tomorrow: "She Wants Long Hair—So She Cut It Short!"

Has your posture got you down? Learn the rules of good posture and do this exercise: In this position, roll your head back and lift your shoulders from the floor (head on the floor). Hold for a few seconds and return to starting position.

Paris Roses Bloom Even in the Winter

PARIS (INS) — In Paris women wear roses even in winter.

The marvelous artificial flowers for which Paris is famous bloom on women's hands, decorate their dresses and trim even their shoes this winter.

The simplest headgear for a party or dance is a rose fixed in the hair with a satin or velvet ribbon — a pink rose for a brunette, a black one for a blonde.

Another new flower style is Hawaiian leis. Hair stylist Guillaume has just shown long "necklaces" made of chains of artificial flowers like leis. They are designed to give a touch of "primitive grace" to sacks. To be Parisian and stylish the leis must dangle down well below the waist.

Madeleine de Rauch shows how to wear a flower — artificial or natural — even in daytime and with a suit. Some of her suit jackets have two buttonholes, instead of one with a button, at the neck. To fasten your suit jacket you thread the long stem of a rose or carnation through both holes. This style would look just as pretty on a cardigan.

A new, and very romantic, idea is to carry one long-stemmed rose or carnation instead of wearing a corsage.

A pretty French startlet has recently started this charmingly naive mode and now some girls arrive at cocktail parties or in restaurants with one long-stemmed flower in the hand and play with it gracefully just as they would with a fan.

Loyal Philathea Unit Has Valentine Party

Mrs. William Hakes participated in the program of Loyal Philathea Class of First Baptist Church Tuesday evening in Fellowship Hall.

In charge of the Valentine party was Pearl Hudson, with Mrs. Hakes presenting a solo. Mrs. William Carls, Margaret McCarroll and Mrs. Walter Rysh were in charge of refreshments.

To Show Movies

The Players Studio Club of Bloomfield Hills will present the Marx Brothers in "A Day at the Races" and "Ski Thrills" Feb. 23 at Will-O-Way Playhouse on West Long Lake road.

Church Fellowship Conducts Meeting

Mrs. Allan Hersee, Mrs. Amelia Stevenson, Mrs. Harry Kunse and Mrs. Lowell Mount took part in the program of Christian Women's Fellowship of First Christian Church Tuesday evening.

Elizabeth Circle acted as hostess for the social hour at which the Valentine motif was carried out. Group singing was led by Mrs. Kunse.

Babysitters Need Rules for Guidance

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — Babysitting with safety means preparation by parents before they leave Junior and Susie in the care of someone else.

In San Francisco alone last year, some 30 youngsters were killed and more than 100 others seriously injured in home accidents, according to the city's public health department.

Dr. Ellis D. Sox, public health director, says most of these accidents can be prevented if safety measures are taken by parents when they turn the child over to a babysitter.

He asks that special attention be paid to children under four years of age as more than one-third of the home accidents happen to these toddlers.

Dr. Sox urges parents to discuss these points with the babysitter: —Where you are going, when you will be back and how you can be reached.

—Location of telephone numbers of the doctor, fire and police departments and the neighbors. —Location of first aid supplies and direction on how to treat a slight cut or burn.

—Safety reminders the child most frequently needs. Does he stay away from the stove, stairs, windows, etc.?

—The need to keep scissors, pins, matches, cigarettes, medicines, poisons and other dangerous objects out of the child's reach. —Safe use of the stove and other appliances.

—The danger of answering the telephone or doorbell when bathing a child before removing him from the tub.

—Directions on how to lock outside doors and who, if anyone, should be admitted into the house.

Before the sitter arrives, Dr. Sox suggests that parents make a basic safety check of the home and remove possible hazards.

Only when these precautions have been taken, says the doctor, can Mom and Pop go out for an evening of fun without the threat of a sad homecoming.

Keep Clothing Ready to Wear

The secret of having a closet full of clothes that are ready to wear is constant care. This involves both time and trouble but is worth it.

It means no delay in sending clothes to the cleaner or in rinsing out lingerie. It means making small repairs at once. It means keeping shoes polished and neat.

It also means never having to turn down an invitation for lack of something to wear.

Forty-six members were present Monday evening at Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building for a cooperative dinner and Fun Night.

Social committee for the evening included Mrs. E. Verne McCall, Mrs. Russell Auten, Mrs. E. Milton Evans, Mrs. Nelle Pump, Mrs. A. L. MacAdams, Mrs. Allan McIntock, Mrs. Horace Young, Mrs. Melvin Small and Mrs. Ericson Lewis.

Sons and Daughters Do as They Please Anyway

Asking Permission to Wed Loses Meaning

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert Youth Research Co.
Memo to parents: If you're worried about what to tell your marriageable sons and daughters when they come to announce that the question has been popped, save your cares for another day.

Chances are that no matter what sage advice you have to give about the proposed match, it will fall on love-deafened ears. They'll listen in respectful silence (if you are lucky and don't provoke an argument) and then go out and do precisely as they please—particularly if you say no.

In a nationwide survey of recently married young couples, we gleaned these two conflicting trends:

1. Boys and girls still ask their parents' permission to get married.
2. Boys and girls marry the partner of their choice, regardless of whether it is the partner of their parents' choice.

anxiously asking father for daughter's hand may not exactly be gone forever, but the scene isn't the same.

In nearly nine cases out of 10, father is being subjected to a mere formality. If he puts thumbs down on the match, she may be faced with the choice of either giving the bride away unwillingly or having her go way on her own volition.

The same of course goes for boys, even more so since the percentage is higher.

Only 8 per cent in either group sought the advice of someone other than those mentioned, presumably a friend or relative.

In most cases, the parents were receptive to the idea. But 29 per cent of the boys and 20 per cent of the girls said they were turned down by one or both parents. What did they do? They got married anyway.

The type of advice that they sought from all these sources, however, did not pertain to sex education, at least in most cases.

Of the more than 750 young couples we interviewed in various localities across the country, only 23 per cent of the husbands said they learned the biological facts of life in their own family circle.

The girls had somewhat higher average, with nearly 29 per cent learning about life from their parents.

Gift Return Could Hurt Her Friend

Mother Told Not to Give Back Unworn Baby Dress

By EMILY POST
"Dear Mrs. Post: Not long ago I was given a stork shower and received many lovely baby presents — many more than I could possibly use. My daughter has worn several of them but there are a few that she has never used and now has outgrown.

"A friend of mine who gave one of these lovely dresses just had a daughter of her own. My daughter has never worn this particular dress and I would like to know if it would be proper to give it back to her for her daughter, or might this hurt her feelings?"

Answer: I advise you not to give her the dress because, if her feelings are easily hurt, the knowledge that the dress not used by your daughter was the one she had given to you might make her unhappy.

"Dear Mrs. Post: While having dinner with a friend the other evening, I seemed to have embarrassed her by pushing my dinner plate aside after I had finished eating, and putting my coffee cup in front of me. Was this incorrect?

"We were not having dessert and the coffee was served before we had quite finished eating our dinner. I thought this much simpler than reaching across the dinner plate to drink my coffee."

Answer: To call undue attention to the maneuver would be bad manners. If the plate was really in the way or unappetizing to look at, it would have been nicer to ask the waiter to take it away.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband died a little over two months ago. My nephew is to be married next month. I am very fond of him and feel sad at having to miss the wedding, but I do not think it would be proper for me to go under the circumstances. What is your opinion?"

Answer: I think, considering the bridegroom is your nephew, it would not be improper for you to be present at the church ceremony, and certainly no one could criticize you for going to the reception for a short time to greet your family and wish the bride and bridegroom happiness.

Mrs. Richard Lasho was hostess to the Professional Homemakers Tuesday at her home on Hira street. Lesson for the evening was "House Plants and Flower Gardens."

Mrs. James Skaggs reported on perennials from a talk by Fred Duranseau. Mrs. James Elliott spoke on house plants and their care, and Mrs. William Bergemann reported on roses and how to select them.

Guests attending were Mrs. Margaret Curvin and Mrs. Roland Hudson.

Swimming Suit With Neat Look Rates Highest

NEW YORK—(NEA) — The soft and simple swimsuit with a neat look is the one you'll see the most of this year, both on beaches everywhere next summer.

The square neck, the halter neck and the rounded neck will all be in view. There will also be shirred decollete necklines, low waistlines at the back and pleated front panels.

There will be prints and plaids and solid colors. But the evening gown look has been returned, for the most part, to the ballroom whence it came.

The bared back calls for cover-up in some form and it will be provided by beach jackets, coats and sweaters to toss over the shoulders or actually wear as the afternoon shadows lengthen.

It isn't rubber that makes an eraser. It's pumice, a volcanic glass, which is mixed with the rubber that does the erasing.

Accentuating the Positive Can Revitalize Marriage

Find Some New Shared Interest and Set Goals to Work Toward Together

By RUTH MILLETT
Don't decide your marriage has grown hopelessly dull until—

The two of you take a little time off from routine and take a trip together. There's every chance that given a change of scene and freedom from responsibility you'll find you are still companionable.

You make a real effort to see more of some of the people you've met and thought you'd like to know better.

You find some new interest you can share. It doesn't matter what the interest is, just so that you both enjoy it.

You set some new goals to work toward—goals you both agree are worth the struggle to achieve.

You start treating each other with as much courteous consideration as you show to others.

You stop criticizing each other, both aloud and silently, and instead look for things to admire and praise.

You each take on a few outside activities, so that you have something to talk about when you are together besides the day's routine.

You begin to talk less about problems and irritations and the things you don't like and more about the things that please and interest and challenge you.

You plan some project for improving your home—and get busy at it.

You look for ways in which you can be helpful to others.

You figure out why you once enjoyed each other's company so much you decided to marry, and find out what's missing now that makes the marriage seem dull.

You face realistically what life would be like if you were alone, instead of together.

You make yourself as pleasing as possible—and give your marriage partner a chance to please you.

New Easy-Care Yarn Improves Knitted Attire

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Each season, knitted fashions get better. They become prettier, harder and more wearable on more occasions.

They've proved themselves to be good travelers in seasons past but they've also proved themselves to be sound all-round fashions.

BUY OR KNIT
Some women buy their knitted fashions. Others knit their own, be it coat, sweater or dress.

These are the women who will be much taken with a new yarn made of rayon acetate and nylon since the garments made from it won't sag, are hand washable and fast drying, do not require steam blocking or pressing.

This means that when you hand knit a dress with this yarn, you can safely hang the dress on a hanger or toss it in a suitcase and thus generally discard the velvet gloves in handling it.

Its appearance will be as it was on the day you completed it.

Fashion is a cinch this spring for women who love to knit since the straight, slim lines are easy to follow.

IDEAL FASHIONS
The sheath or the semi-sheath are both ideal fashions for the woman who knits. The sheath usually takes a belt and the semi-sheath takes a half-belt at the back and shaping at the waistline.

Yarn colors for early spring include strawberry pink, lemon yellow, geranium, ice blue, cocoa, navy, red and a black-and-white tweedy mixture.

U.S. President John Quincy Adams was a man who changed his mind often. He was first a Federalist, then Republican, then Whig, then Abolitionist.

MR. and MRS. JAMES E. EVERSON

Dorles I. Rains Becomes Bride in Methodist Rite

Central Methodist Church was the setting for the Saturday evening wedding of Dorles Irene Rains and James E. Everson of Hastings. Before an altar banked with white gladioli, snapdragons and palms, the Rev. Milton Bank performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Lincoln Rains of Park place are the bride's parents, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Everson of Washington, N. C.

The bride approached the altar in a floor-length gown fashioned of Italian taffeta featuring a sweetheart neckline outlined with lace applique and embroidered with pearls. The gown was fashioned with long, hand-tapered sleeves and a fitted basque waist.

Her fingertip veil—held in place by a crown of pearls, and she carried a cross of white carnations and roses.

Maid of honor Glenda Rhee wore a dress of peacock blue lace over taffeta in princess style with three-quarter-length sleeves and a V-neckline. She carried a nosegay of white roses and red carnations.

Bridesmaids Mrs. Dale Rolfe and Mrs. George Rogers, sisters of the bride, were gowned like the honor attendant and carried nosegays of white roses and blue carnations.

William Green was best man, with George Rogers and Dale Rolfe seating the guests.

To receive 80 guests in the church parlors Mrs. Rains wore a blue crepe dress with navy and pink accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

The new Mrs. Everson changed to an aqua and gray sheath with Sleeves are all-important on large figures. Keep them simple and avoid getting a top-heavy look in belted sleeves.

You widen the figure enormously in full sleeves whether short or long. The set-in or narrow arm-eye sleeve in street or sports clothes is most becoming for the plump and the large-bosom figure.

Dear Abby....

Dad Should Check New Tax Law

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who works part-time in a furniture store and he thinks he knows everything. I asked him if he could get me a bedroom set at wholesale price, and I told him I wanted one large double bed because the wife and I don't care for twin beds.

ABBY

He says that double beds went out with high-button shoes and that nobody buys them any more. I believe that plenty of people still buy double beds and wonder if you would print this to see if I am wrong, or is he?

FOR DOUBLE BEDS

DEAR DOUBLE: Of course plenty of people still buy double beds — unless my information also went out with high-button shoes.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a father who makes his son quit working after he's earned $600 in one year because he wants to keep his son as a deductible dependent for income reasons.

Our son is 18 and ambitious and has worked after school to save money for college, but his father made him quit.

MRS. E. C. D.
DEAR MRS. E. C. D.: The father ought to have a long look at the new tax law. A person who goes to school (for five months or more during the year) may earn as much as he is able provided his father contributes half (or more) to his support.

DEAR ABBY: I met a guy who was in the Air Force. He calls me up all the time. The last time he called me he told me he couldn't tell me where he was but he was AWOL. I'd like to find out where to find him.

VIRGINIA
DEAR VIRGINIA: So would the U. S. Air Force. Forget him.

DEAR ABBY: Should I have my head examined? For two years my husband (who is six years younger than I) has been introducing me as Mrs. Cunningham at the few places we frequent for entertainment. I have gray hair but I had gray hair when I met him and I was only 33 then.

He dominated every conversation in a most peculiar way and never asked anyone to sit down at our table with us and never allowed me to open my mouth.

I now discover that everyone (through his conditioning) thinks I am his MOTHER. What would you do in a situation of this kind?

CUNNINGHAM'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: If you have gray matter as well as gray hair, you will let your husband know (quickly) that you are on to his little game... and let HIM make the next move.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HENRY Z: You'd make an ideal husband. Cook with her — garden with her — clean house with her — but don't mop the floor with her.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Because of an increasing number of traffic fatalities, automobiles in Sweden are now being equipped more and more with safety belts.

IT'S A PIPE—According to Smithsonian Institution the Adena people, who lived in the Ohio Valley some 3,000 years ago, smoked a pipe, left, that looked like the head of a modern shoveler duck, right. The pipe, said to be the first bird effigy ever found in an Adena mound, was unearthed from a huge Indian mound in West Virginia.

Alaska Brownie Dangerous, So— Scare Bear First, They Say

WASHINGTON — For anyone afraid of bears, Alaskans have sound advice: Scare the bear first.

In territory inhabited by monstrous Alaska brown bears, the biggest meat eaters on land, wise travelers have been known to carry tin cans loaded with rattling pebbles or to pipe themselves along with bosun's whistles.

The largest of the brown bears stands nine feet tall and weigh up to 1,500 pounds — twice the weight of a grizzly. All species carry a formidable armament of claws and teeth. But usually there is little danger, because the awesome creatures are afraid of man, the National Geographic Society says.

Trouble starts when those two most dangerous mammals — man and bear — come upon each other by surprise.

Keen of nose and ear, the bears have poor eyesight. Walking quietly upwind, a person can happen on one unexpectedly. So the safe thing to do is to give the bruins plenty of warning.

KODIAKS LARGEST

The brown bears' range is restricted to a crescent of seacoast extending north and west along the Alaska "panhandle" to the tip of the Alaska Peninsula and a few offshore islands. One such island, Kodiak, has given the largest species of brown bear (Ursus middendorffi) its common name. Other species include the Peninsula Giant Bear (Ursus gyas) and the somewhat smaller Alaskan Brown Bear (Ursus dalli).

After a six-month winter sleep, the bears emerge in spring to graze the meadows like cattle, eating grass and foliage. Roots, insects, and mice also disappear into the cavernous mouths.

But this diet is only an appetizer, a stopgap until nature serves the rich main course.

STAKE CLAIMS

In summer salmon swim up the coastal rivers to spawn. Staking out territorial rights on a stretch of water, the bears start fishing. Some lurk on the bank, ready to pin down a passing salmon with a spiked paw. Others prow the stream bed. One cagey old male was seen sitting in a stream, his back to the current, waiting for his dinner to swim into the eddy created by his body.

Fancy divers seem as interested in fun as in food. They gallop out from the shallows, take a long, gliding plunge, submerge, and come up with a fish.

On a single trip to the river, a fishing bear may stow away six or eight salmon with an average weight of four pounds.

License Plate Sales in Area 'Way Behind'

License plate sales have fallen "way behind" in the Pontiac area, William M. Brewer, Secretary of State office branch manager, said today.

"At the moment, our sales of auto plates are about 5,000 less than last year and truck plates 500," said Brewer.

The deadline for driving on 1937 plates is March 1. In order to expedite sales between now and then, Brewer said, the hours at the Pontiac office, 33 N. Parke St., will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and Saturdays, including Saturday, March 1.

"February 28, we will stay open as long as there are any customers in line," he said.

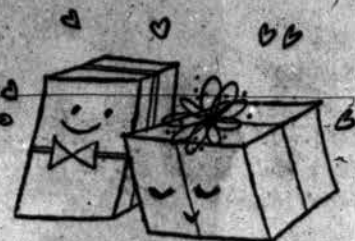

The same schedule will apply at the branch office in Waterford Township Hall, Brewer added.

Night Accidents Deadly

CHICAGO—Although night traffic is only one third as heavy as day traffic, it accounts for more than 22,000 deaths, 400,000 injuries, and an economic loss of two billion dollars every year.

Heart Shaped Dessert in Vogue

Pontiac Press Home Editor

It's not too late to make Valentine Meringues for your festive occasions this weekend. They lend themselves beautifully to various ways of serving.

While it is easier to beat the egg whites in an electric mixer, one is not necessary. Our grandmothers put egg whites for meringues or angel food on a large platter and beat them with a wire whisk.

When you form the heart shape on your baking sheet, be sure to exaggerate the top curves of the heart a bit. Otherwise, they will spread during baking and the heart shape may be lost. Tint the meringues a pale pink if desired.

Here's the recipe for using frozen strawberries and poached pears as a filling.

Poached Pears

3 firm fresh Anjou pears
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup water
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

Wash, halve and core pears. Combine sugar, water, lemon juice and rind in saucepan and bring to boil. Add pears and simmer until tender, about 12 to 15 minutes. When tender, remove from heat and cool.

Meringues may be made just before they are to be used or even days ahead of time.

Meringues

4 egg whites
1 cup fine granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar, if desired
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract, if desired
Have egg whites at room temperature.

perature. Add salt and cream of tartar, if desired. Beat until mixture forms round peaks. Add sugar, two tablespoons at a time, and continue beating until sugar is dissolved and the meringue forms soft, very glossy peaks. Add vanilla, if desired, about halfway through the beating process.

For heart shaped meringues, drop by spoonfuls in centers of 6-inch heart shapes traced on brown paper. Place paper on baking sheet. Hollow out centers of meringue hearts slightly. Bake at 275 degrees for 60 minutes. Remove from paper immediately; cool. When ready to serve, place spoonful of frozen berries in center of each meringue heart. Place poached pear half, cut side up, in center of heart; top with remaining berries. Serves 4 to 6.

If you want to make one large heart, do it this way. With a pencil outline a large heart, about ten inches across, on unglazed paper on a cookie sheet. Cover with meringue an inch deep, working with two spoons, and then build up the sides a couple of inches high and wide enough to form a firm wall.

Bake 45-60 minutes at 250 degrees, until light golden brown. Turn off heat and leave meringue in oven to cool. If the paper sticks to the meringue, carefully wet the under side and it will peel off.

For a special Valentine pie, fill the meringue shell with one quart vanilla, chocolate or coffee ice cream and top with one and a third cups of prepared mince meat.

VALENTINE MERINGUES — Prettier than the picture itself is a Valentine Meringue — the perfect dessert for that day dedicated to hearts, flowers and romance. The bottom is a tender meringue, the filling sweet cool strawberries centered with a juicy fresh Anjou pear; poached in syrup.

Cooks Invited to Competition

Calling all cooks! Calling all cooks! The third annual Rhubarb Festival takes place March 8, at the American Legion Hall in Utica. You are invited to enter the rhubarb cooking contest.

The first year this festival was held only rhubarb pies were entered in competition. This year there are eleven classes of entries. These include:

1. Rhubarb Pie—All Rhubarb
2. Rhubarb Pie—Other (cream, etc.)
3. Rhubarb Sauce
4. Rhubarb Cakes
5. Rhubarb Puddings
6. Rhubarb Salads
7. Rhubarb Frozen or Refrigerator Desserts
8. Rhubarb Drinks
9. Rhubarb Jam, Jelly, Preserves
10. Unusual Rhubarb Dish
11. Rhubarb Centerpieces

For girls who were not 16 years old by January first of this year a Junior Division has been set up. All others compete in the Senior Division. Prizes will be gifts for the home.

Anyone interested in entering this contest for rhubarb dishes may get further information by calling Mrs. Janet Odell, Home Editor, at FE 2-5181. The public is invited to attend the Festival March 8, from noon until late evening. Two dances are part of the program.

Air Hole Helps Removal

To remove canned meat in one piece for attractive slicing, punch a hole in the middle of one end of the can. Open the opposite end with a can opener. The air hole releases the pressure, and the meat will shake out easily.

Hungarian Fish Dish Developed for Tuna

To take advantage of canned tuna, now on the plentiful food list, here's a recipe just developed for Tuna Paprika. Adapted from the Hungarian, the recipe uses sweet milk and cream instead of the sour cream usually called for in Hungarian recipes.

By the way, in explaining the Hungarian fondness for paprika, Myra Waldo says in her "Round-the-World Cook Book," "The sweet paprika is a mild, beautiful shade of red which adds greatly to the taste and eye appeal of the dish."

Tuna Paprika

- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1/2 cup light cream
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup chili sauce
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 can (7 oz.) solid pack tuna, broken into large chunks
- 4 cream puff shells or 8 toast triangles

Blend flour, salt, pepper and paprika into melted butter. Add cream and milk. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Stir in chili sauce, Worcestershire sauce, oil drained from tuna, and tuna. Heat. Serve in cream puff shells or on toast triangles (2 triangles to a serving). Makes 4 servings.

Bran Flakes Vary Quick Banana Loaf

Banana bran flake bread adds variety to breakfast and is good with fruit plates for luncheon, or as sandwiches.

Banana Bran Flake Bread

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup melted fat
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/4 cup mashed bananas
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/4 cup chopped nuts, optional
- 1 cup bran flakes

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Combine egg, fat, milk, bananas, and vanilla; add to dry ingredients and stir just until well mixed. Blend in nuts and bran flakes. Turn into greased loaf pan, 9x5x3 inches. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until done, about 1 hour. Cool on rack 10 minutes. Remove from pan.

Variety Meats, Pork Cuts Keep Budget in Line

Though you may have heard gloomy reports of further damage to fresh produce, there are encouraging notes in the food market this week.

Wholesale beef prices have dropped slightly due to larger cattle supplies. This means you may find some retail beef prices a little lower. During the last week, fryer prices have decreased a few cents a pound in some stores. Despite a fluctuation of wholesale pork prices, you will find many cuts at reasonable cost.

PROTEIN FOODS — Large cattle supplies will make no drastic change in price of retail beef cuts. With the exception of specials, most carry the same price tag shoppers have seen for the past month.

A thousand and one ways to use ground beef and learning to enjoy variety meats could be an answer for conscientious shoppers, states the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

Michigan law guarantees consumers of ground beef of certain quality standards. Ground beef for fresh sale cannot contain over 30 per cent fat (most ground beef is 20 to 25 per cent fat). No organ meat (heart, etc.), added water or rice, cereal or flour, bread or bread crumbs, dried milk solids, artificial coloring, chemical preservatives, thickeners, stabilizers, or gums are permitted. Ground beef is ground beef plus 30 per cent or less water for flavor and juiciness.

There is lots of mealtime variety, flavor, nutrition and economy in variety meats. Yet, they often get no more than a passing thought from meal planners. Have a heart, or liver, tongue, kidney, sweetbreads or brains.

Don't expect the flavor of variety meats to be the same as other meats. After all, chicken does not taste like beef. Variety meats have flavors all their own. Uncertainty about preparing variety meats can be conquered by checking your cookbook.

Loins, picnics, Boston butt and thick sliced bacon share the pork value list. Based on this week's prices cost per serving is as follows: rib-end loin 15 to 23 cents; picnics 17 to 22 cents; Boston butt 13 to 21 cents; and bacon

7 to 8 1/2 cents. Bacon is used mostly for mealtime flavor, not for protein which lean meats supply.

If you consider the amount of meat you buy in relation to bone, the large size turkeys and stewers are the outstanding poultry choices this week.

Eggs and cheese are other good protein providers. These will help to make meat dollars go farther. According to the National Dairy Council a rounded halfcup of cottage cheese, three slices of cheddar cheese or three eggs have the same amount of protein as an medium serving of lean meat, poultry or fish.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES — Freezing weather went nipping at fresh vegetables again. This explains the changes you may find in quality and the continuing high prices.

Canned and frozen peas are one of the best vegetable buys for February. Stocks of canned peas on December 1, 1957 were 33 per cent larger than the year before. There were about 13 1/2 million pounds more frozen peas in stock as of January 1, 1958 than at the same time in 1957.

A No. 303 can of peas or a 10-ounce package of frozen peas will serve three people. If the price is the same, let family preferences decide which you will choose.

If you need a bit of color to carry out your Valentine theme, cherries, rhubarb or apples are timely choices. You will need about two pounds of each to make a 9-inch pie.

Store checks show that potatoes, carrots, spinach and rutabagas rate a special place in many market baskets these days. All are thrifty buys and good eating.

Let Juice Be Foil

Doctors frequently prescribe unflavored gelatin for its protein value on reducing diets. The daily envelope amount can be taken in water, milk, or fruit juice drinks. Orange, tomato, or pineapple juices are good foils for the bland gelatine.

Almonds Count in Fish Recipe

Spanish cooks have a way with spices, herbs, olive oil, wines and nuts that makes Spanish cuisine exotic. And yet, a good Spanish cook uses a light hand in adding these ingredients, introducing them so subtly that the true flavor of the basic foods is never lost. This recipe for Spanish Fillets with Silvered Almonds illustrates how well this is done with fish, a delicately flavored food.

Any white-meat fish fillets you find in your grocer's frozen food cabinet will do — cod, haddock, ocean perch, sole, flounder. If you use frozen fillets, the National Fisheries Institute suggests you let them thaw before cooking.

Spanish Fillets With Silvered Almonds

- 1 medium onion, sliced
- 1 pound fresh fillets (cod, sole, haddock, ocean perch)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 tablespoon white wine
- 1/2 cup silvered blanched almonds

Lay onion slices on bottom of buttered casserole. Cover with fish. Season with salt and pepper. Pour olive oil and wine over fish. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Bake for 15 to 20 minutes at 350 degrees, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Baste once or twice during baking. Makes three servings.

Good Breakfast Calls for Whole Grains

What makes one breakfast menu better than another? In order for breakfast to do its share in giving you the nutrients you need each day, the morning meal should follow this pattern: Fruit or fruit juice; an egg, if possible; whole grain or enriched cereal; enriched or whole grain bread; butter or fortified margarine, and milk.

Be especially sure your breakfast breads, if not whole grain, are enriched. Enrichment gives them three B-vitamins and food iron.

Marketing costs continue to rise. In 1957 marketing costs amounted to about 60 per cent of the retail cost of food.

RELATIVELY, MEAT IS CHEAP

LABORER WORKED IN 1919... IN 1955...

45 MINUTES 19 MINUTES

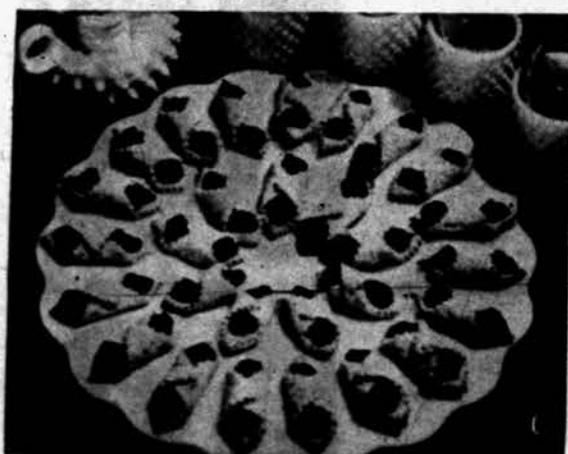

... since over half the 450 lbs. goes into low-priced items, his profit must come from more expensive cuts...

... who processes about 400 lbs. of this himself, sells remaining 600 lbs. for about 40 1/2¢/lb. to retailer...

... who can sell about 450 lbs. of this to consumer. He must figure at least 10¢/lb. for readying meats. And...

(NEA Newmarket)

WHY IS MEAT SO DEAR? — This is a question often asked by Mrs. Homemaker. But as Newschart above shows, the history of a steak from range to frying pan is a long and expensive process. Cattle, sheep and swine convert large quantities of grain and grass into meat which is nutritious and flavorful and a concentrated source of protein and energy. Actually, the American homemaker is spending a smaller and smaller percentage of her disposable income for meat (see center box). While many minor improvements can yet be made in the slaughtering, processing, distribution and retail business, meat experts say, the industry today is doing a competent and efficient job of serving the consumer inexpensively.

RASPBERRY CHEESE FRILLS — They even look like Valentine's Day. These party frills feature cream cheese in mix; raspberry jam's tucked in the center.

Filled Frills Cupid's Ally

Snow-white cheese and love-red raspberry jam combine in frills for Valentines.

The dough, using rolled oats, faintly resembles rich pie crust. It is rolled thin and cut into squares which are filled with the jam. Served forth on a flat white plate, they make a beautiful tribute to the Queen of Hearts.

Cream Cheese Frills

One cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sifted enriched flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked)
1 8-ounce package cream cheese raspberry preserves

Beat butter and vanilla until creamy. Add flour, salt and oats; mix until well blended. Add cream cheese and beat until smooth. Chill thoroughly. Roll out on lightly floured board or canvas to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut into 2-inch squares with ripple edged pastry wheel or knife. Place on ungreased cookie sheets.

Spoon 1/4 teaspoon raspberry preserves onto center of each square. Fold 2 opposite corners to center; press gently to seal. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 10-12 minutes. Makes 4 dozen.

The aluminum coffee maker which "looks" clean after standing on the shelf for several weeks must be thoroughly scoured with a steel wool pad and washed thoroughly to remove oxidation products that produce a bad taste in the coffee.

Prune Sizes Are Listed on Package

When you're shopping for fruits to add freshness to winter meals, don't overlook dried prunes. They're listed as "plentiful" by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, because of the big crop harvested in the fall, plus a carryover from an even bigger crop in 1956.

When you shop, you may want to look at the label on the package for an indication of size of the prunes you're buying. As a rule, there's a relation between size and the price tag on the package.

Usually, the larger prunes are priced higher per pound than the small ones, but in actual amount of fruit per pound, there's hardly any difference. So, if you're using them in cooked dishes, you may be able to save a few pennies by buying the smaller sizes.

The size is indicated by the number of prunes per pound. If the package reads 50-60 that's a large size prune, with somewhere between 50 and 60 fruits to the pound. If the package is labeled 70-80, that means 70 to 80 fruits per pound, a small size prune.

You may find some marked 80-90 which is about as small as prunes come. The difference in size is principally one of variety. In actual use, you can treat them alike.

Some cooks like to plunge frankfurters into boiling water for a minute before grilling and serving with a barbecue sauce.

Meat Buying Easy If Rules Followed

The three T's to make meat buying easy are total, tenderness and time, says the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

The total to buy depends on the number of servings needed. Allow a fourth-pound per serving if meat is boneless, a half-pound per serving if there is some bone in the meat. Allow three-fourths to one pound per serving if the meat has a large amount of bone.

Tenderness wanted is judged by the grade of meat. Beef, veal and lamb may carry a government grade to tell quality or ask the butcher about the grade. Grades do not appear on retail cuts of pork.

On stay-at-home days you may plan meals like roast and pot roasts that take over an hour to cook. When every minute counts, choose meats like chops, steaks, hamburger or fully cooked meats like canned or frozen.

These three T's to meat buying will help you to be better satisfied with the meats you choose.

Bit of Green Onion Means Better Eggs.

One of our favorite ways to cook eggs.

Green Onion Omelet
3 good-sized scallions (green onions)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 eggs
2 tablespoons water
2 pinches salt salt, pepper
extra butter

Chop scallions including most of green tops; cook slowly until wilted in 1 tablespoon butter. Beat eggs and water just enough to combine yolks and whites; add olives and salt and pepper to taste. Pour egg mixture over wilted onions, adding extra butter, and cook as a French omelet; roll up and serve.

Pork Sausage Sandwich Includes Cheese, Fruit

Place 1 pound pork sausage links and 2 tablespoons of water in a cold frying pan. Cover and cook slowly for 5 minutes, uncover and brown links. Spread 2 tablespoons of applesauce on each of 8 slices of buttered toast.

Arrange two pork sausage links on each slice of bread topped with a cheese strip. Broil these sandwiches slowly until the cheese has melted.

Chicken Fricassee Tops Served on Corn Bread

Top hot corn bread squares (truly Southern) with canned boned chicken fricassee for a quick, but hearty luncheon or supper entrée.

Vary the color and flavor of the corn bread with chopped green pepper and pimiento... to add a certain "something" to this bread. In combination with fricassee, it's a real treat! Here's how the recipe goes:

Prepare and bake 1 package corn bread mix according to package directions, adding 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento and 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper to the batter. Combine 2 cans (15 1/2 ounces each) boned chicken fricassee and a dash of ground thyme in a saucepan; heat. Serve over corn bread squares to 6 hungry people.

Never serve cooling tea with cream or milk!

When wedges of bought doughnuts are folded into freshly made warm applesauce, dessert needs no embellishment except perhaps a dab of nutmeg-flavored whipped cream.

COFFEE'S HERE!—A welcome sight in many a Pontiac business place each morning and afternoon is this Meals-on-Wheels truck. Coffee and doughnuts are regular items, in addition to other sweets and noon lunches. These men waiting in line work at the Pontiac Retail store.

You 'Pays' Your Money and 'Takes' Your Choice

Pontiac Press Home Editor

What next? Now you don't even have to make your own meringue topping. All you do is add water to an all-purpose meringue mix, whip it up and there you are. The same mix makes little party meringue shells and meringue for Baked Alaska.

That is just one of the new food products appearing on the food market recently. In the past several weeks on our desk have appeared (1) rich crisp crackers in a new dress with new individual packets, (2) boxes of mix for both chocolate and lemon cake pudding, (3) cinnamon chips, (4) lemon chip angel food mix, (5) banana nut loaf mix.

The crackers are even crispier than usual in their new dress; we didn't get to taste many. The Nine-Year-Old discovered them first at home!

Miss Teenager took the cake puddings to a school party, but we sampled them first. They are interesting and a welcome change from regular puddings.

We made cookies with the cinnamon chips and let the Bridge Club sample them. Unanimous agreement on how good they were. So far, we have not seen these chips in local stores. But you keep watch and so will we. They're made by the same people who first introduced the cherry, butterscotch and lemon chips.

The new angel food is as yet untried. But if it's as good as the regular lemon chip cake, it will be delicious.

Two of our co-workers tried the Banana Nut Loaf mix and reported it to be very good. The package contains a bag of dry ingredients, a jar of banana puree and a bag of nuts.

Today's mail brought news of a cinnamon coffee cake mix, complete with dry ingredients, topping and the baking pan. This is a companion mix to the cornbread you make right in the plastic bag and bake in the pan provided. We can't report on this one yet.

BABIES RATE

Babies have come in for their share of attention in the new food department too. You can feed them a Tropical Fruit dessert that combines banana and mango purees with orange, lime and pineapple juices and tapioca.

New juices for baby are enriched with vitamin C; new combinations are apple-grape, apple-prune, apple with pineapple and apple with apricots.

The third new baby food is in the main dish line. Now you can buy your young hopeful Chicken à la King, Chicken With Sweet Potatoes and Chicken With Rice.

Our last two items fall in the miscellaneous category. Right after Christmas we received a bottle of Worcestershire sauce with a new top. This plastic gismo, according to the publicity release makes the sauce go "plink-plink-plink" when you pour the bottle at a slight angle. When you increase the angle-of-pour, it emits a steady controlled stream. Neat.

Ida Bailey Allen who has written more cookbooks than some people ever read is the author of a small one devoted entirely to sausage.

Buy 'em — try 'em — reject or accept 'em. We'll keep telling you about 'em. What? New products, of course.

Blend 1/2 cup mashed cooked carrots, 1 tablespoon pickle relish, and 3/4 cup ground salami; blend 1 cup mashed baked beans, 1/2 tablespoon each of tomato ketchup and table mustard and 1/2 pound ground Polish sausage.

For other savory sausage fillings, try blending 1 chopped green pepper with 1/2 cup peanut butter and 3/4 cup ground frankfurters or bologna or 1/2 cup crumbled blue cheese, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise and 1/2 pound mashed liver sausage.

Hot House Rhubarb Parks Up Menus

It is hothouse rhubarb time in Michigan. Some of the stores in your area may have this rosy plant so right for sauce and pies.

Choose two pounds for a generous 9-inch pie suggests the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. One pound will make 4 to 5 one-half cup servings. The leaves are not edible and should not be used.

Slit, Peel and Slice

When you buy ice cream in a round carton you can serve it in even slices if you slit the carton from the firmly-frozen ice cream with a sharp knife and then peel off the heavy paper. A quart of the ice cream may be cut into six rounds.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Rolled Beef Rump Pot-Roast.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It comes from the rump section of the carcass. The rolled rump is made from the standing rump pot-roast; all bones have been removed. The standing rump pot-roast is triangular in shape.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By braising; a moist heat method of meat cookery. The meat is browned in its own or a small amount of added fat, a small amount of liquid is added, the meat is covered tightly and slowly (simmered) approximately 3 to 4 hours.

Beef Chop Suey a Good Change

Cube some beef stew meat, and cook it with celery, onions, a can of mixed Chinese vegetables, seasonings and soy sauce, and what do you have? Beef chop suey, of course! Serve the Chinese style beef stew over crisp noodles or hot, fluffy rice.

Beef Chop Suey

1 1/2 pounds beef stew meat, cut in 1-inch cubes
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups hot water
2 cups coarsely chopped celery
1 1/2 cups coarsely chopped onions
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup cold water
1 can (14-16 ounces) mixed Chinese vegetables
2 tablespoons molasses
1/2 cup toasted almonds (optional)

Coat meat with flour and brown in hot fat. Add sauces, salt, pepper, hot water. Cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours. Add celery and onions and cook 10 minutes longer, or until vegetables are barely tender.

Mix cornstarch and cold water; add to mixture; cook, stirring constantly, over low heat. When thickened, add mixed vegetables and molasses. Heat two or three minutes. Add almonds and serve over hot rice. 6 servings.

Sauerkraut Likes Pork

Pork sausage and sauerkraut are wonderful "go-togethers." The hearty combination is especially tasty on a cold winter day. The tartness of the brined vegetable is a pleasant contrast to the full-flavored spicy sausage. Toss a couple teaspoons of caraway seed into the sauerkraut mixture before cooking it, if you like.

Sausage Balls With Sauerkraut
1 1/2 pounds pork sausage meat
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/2 cup raw rice
1 small onion, minced
1 can (1 pound, 11 ounces) sauerkraut
1 cup water

Mix meat, eggs, rice, and onion; form into 12 balls. Mix sauerkraut and water in a large kettle. Place meat balls on top of kraut. Cover and heat to boiling. Lower heat, then cook slowly 1 hour. 6 servings.

Fine Noodles Base for Fruity Dessert

Noodles, cranberry sauce and coconut combine to make a novel dessert, Cranberry Crunch Pudding.

Add 4 ounces fine noodles to 2 cups milk in top of double boiler and cook over boiling water about 20 minutes. Meanwhile, combine 2 cups jellied cranberry sauce (1-pound can), 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup flaked coconut, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Mix well.

Beat 2 egg whites until foamy. Gradually add 1/4 cup sugar and continue beating until egg whites are stiff and glossy. Gently fold 1/2 cup more flaked coconut into meringue. Beat 2 egg yolks and add gradually to noodle mixture. Cook over boiling water 5 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Stir in cranberry sauce mixture.

Turn into greased 8-inch square baking dish. Pile meringue lightly on top. Bake in very slow oven (300 degrees F.) 45 minutes. Cut into squares and serve warm. Makes 9 servings.

Grant Knew His Onions

At one point during the Civil War, General Grant refused to move his troops without onions. The War Department sent him three trainloads the following day.

Deviled Cereal Crumbs Coat Sweetbreads

Don't be so surprised. Give this variety meat specialty, Deviled Sweetbreads, a try. Serve them to your family. It'll be a challenge, but undoubtedly your family will be asking for seconds.

But how are they prepared? The sweetbreads are first cooked in water to which a small amount of vinegar or lemon juice has been added. Allow 1 tablespoon vinegar for each quart of water. Simmer about 20 minutes.

Then they are broken into small pieces and coated with a spicy mixture of Worcestershire sauce, paprika, dry mustard and egg yolk. Crushed corn flakes complete the formal attire before the sweetbreads are deep-fat fried.

Deviled Sweetbreads

1 pound sweetbreads
1 quart water
1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vinegar
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons melted butter
1/2 cup finely crushed corn flakes
Lard for deep-fat frying

Place sweetbreads, water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar and 1 teaspoon salt in a saucepan. Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Drain and remove membranes. Break into 2-inch pieces.

Mix together 2 teaspoons vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, paprika, mustard, pepper, 1 teaspoon salt and egg yolks. Add melted butter. Dip sweetbread pieces first into egg yolk mixture, then in crushed corn flakes. Fry in deep lard (360 degrees F.) until browned, about 2 minutes.

USDA Suggests Ways to Use Nut Supply

The U. S. Department of Agriculture says the nut supply is generous this year, with almonds and filberts being especially plentiful. They come to us principally from California and Oregon, and the crop was unusually large.

Next time you serve a casserole dish, one that calls for bread crumbs on top, try this: mix chopped nuts with the bread crumbs. Don't say anything about it. Just sit back and wait until Dad and the youngsters get a bite of it.

Maybe you'll have pumpkin pie some day soon. Shoot it right out of this world by putting a layer of chopped nuts, coated with a little butter, over the pie before it goes into the oven. The nuts will roast, while the pie is baking.

At many stores, you may be offered a choice of nuts in the shell and nutmeats. The nutmeats may be whole or in pieces. As a rule, the pieces will be cheaper than the whole meats, and will be just as good for most purposes.

It takes about three and a half pounds of almonds or two and a quarter pounds of filberts in the shell to produce a pound of nut meats.

Children Will Love Fruit-Nut Candy

Here are two fruit-nut candy ideas for healthy snacks to satisfy a sweet-tooth.

Put raisins, dried apricots, prunes and walnuts through a food grinder. Pack into an oiled pan and cut in squares or roll into balls.

Or steam prunes over hot water until soft, then cook, remove pits and stuff with walnuts. Dip in melted milk chocolate for an elegant fruit candy.

Broil, Then Serve

Tempt baked apple lovers like so: Just before serving, cover the tops of freshly baked apples with a slice of American or Cheddar cheese and pop under broiler till cheese melts and just starts to puff.

Scallions, Peppers Make Peas Unusual

Peas taste extra delicious prepared this way.

Special Green Peas
1 package (10 ounces) frozen green peas
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup of a large green pepper
Salt, pepper

Cook peas according to package directions; drain, reserving a few tablespoons of the cooking liquid. Keep peas warm.

Add butter to saucepan in which peas were cooked with chopped scallions and thin strips of green pepper; include most of green tops with scallions. Stir over low heat a few minutes; add 1 or 2 tablespoons of cooking liquid from peas and cook a few minutes longer. Add cooked peas to skillet, mix and reheat if necessary. Makes 4 servings.

Canned Goods Can Save Food Dollars

Money, time and energy are important reasons for the popularity of canned foods, says the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawler.

To get the most for your money when purchasing canned foods, be sure to compare prices among brands, can sizes, styles of pack and quality. Which you choose should depend upon the use the product will have in the menu. For example, tomatoes for chili need not be the top quality product you should choose for a dish of stewed tomatoes.

For other savings, take advantage of special canned food sales. At sale time extend savings into the future by buying in case lots.

Next time you use oxtails for stew or ragout, add 1 teaspoon curry powder to flour in which oxtails are tossed.

Stuffed Eggs Good on Buffet Table

Good combination!

4 hard-cooked eggs
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1/2 teaspoon cider vinegar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Paprika
Lettuce

Shell eggs and cut into halves lengthwise. Remove yolks and mash with mayonnaise, vinegar, salt, mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Spoon back into cavities of whites; ruffle with fork tines; sprinkle with paprika. Serve on lettuce with Italian salami (thinly sliced), olives and celery. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Slumber Party Snack

Cut thin slices of meat from cooked roast. Spread slice of rye bread with salad dressing. Cover with lettuce, tomato slices, and meat. Top with another slice of bread.

Dates, Coconut Star in Rich Bar Cookie

These bar cookies keep well.

Dates Coconut Bars
1 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 cup light brown sugar (firmly packed)
1 tablespoon butter or margarine (melted)
1/4 cup finely sliced dates
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

1 cup shredded coconut (not in short lengths)
1 tablespoon hot water

Sift together the cake flour, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs until they begin to get thick; gradually beat in brown sugar. Mix in melted butter, dates, lemon rind and coconut. Add flour and water; mix thoroughly.

Turn into buttered 9 by 9 by 2 inch pan; bake in slow (325 degrees) oven about 35 minutes. Cool in pan and cut into bars. Store in tightly covered container.

Deviled Ham Spices Variety of Main Dishes

For teen-agers with roaring appetites, a family-size can of deviled ham is the sign of home sweet home. It's not only for rock 'n' roll set, however. It has many hors d'oeuvre uses and can be used deliciously in hot dishes.

Red Devil Bean Dogs
4 1/2-ounce (family size) can deviled ham
1 small can baked beans
1/4 cup minced onion
Sliced American cheese
Five bread slices
Drain baked beans, mash and combine with deviled ham. Add minced onion, mix well and spread on rye bread slices. Top with cheese slice and second slice of

rye. Garnish with pickles and potato chips.
Deviled Ham Balls
2 family size cans (4 1/2-ounce) deviled ham
1 small onion, chopped
1 small green pepper, chopped
1 egg, unbeaten
1 cup packaged bread crumbs
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
Mix ham, onion, pepper, egg and 1/2 cup bread crumbs. Form into about 2 dozen round meatballs. Roll each in remaining 1/2 cup bread crumbs. Fry in butter over low heat until brown on all sides.
Quick Mushroom Sauce
1 can (10 1/2 ounce) meat gravy

1 can (4-ounce) sliced mushrooms, drained
1/2 cup commercial sour cream
Heat gravy and mushrooms together to boiling point. Remove from fire and slowly stir in sour cream. Place in chafing dish and add deviled ham balls. Serve over hot rice. Makes 4 servings.

High in Vitamin A

Baby doesn't know it when he opens his eager little mouth for the next spoonful of strained prunes, but he's getting 60 percent of his daily minimum requirement of Vitamin A with every 4 1/2 ounce can of strained prunes he consumes. And it's Vitamin A that helps build his resistance to colds and other respiratory diseases and helps keep him healthy and hearty!

Barbecue Sauce Spooned on Hot Beef Sandwich

Cut thin slices of meat from chilled pot roast of beef. Split a loaf of crusty French bread in half lengthwise. Cut into pieces about 5 inches long. Spread with softened butter or margarine. Overlap slices of roast beef on each sandwich.

In a saucepan, mix together 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1/2 teaspoon each salt and dry mustard, 1/4 teaspoon chili powder, 1/2 cup catsup, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1/2 teaspoon paprika, and 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Heat well and spoon over roast beef. Cover with top halves of French bread. Serve with potato chips or French-fried potatoes and pickle slices.

Layer Prunes in Waffles

Our pioneer fathers ate good breakfasts, then went out and conquered a continent. Could that have been done on skinny breakfasts of black coffee and fruit juice? No, ma'am! It took sausages and eggs, beans and bread, prunes and porridge, syrups and pancakes and other such good vittles to give them vim, vigor and vitality to think like winners, work like winners, be winners.

Surprisingly easy to prepare, too. And it's smart to make double or triple the quantity of prune filling—to keep in the refrigerator ready for breakfast waffles any time.
Waffles with Hot Prune Filling
2 cups chopped cooked prunes
1/2 cup dark brown sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1/2 cup orange juice
Few grains salt
1/2 cup sliced toasted almonds
Hot waffles
Heat together chopped prunes, brown sugar, butter or margarine. Add orange rind, juice and salt; mix well. Just before serving add almonds. Serve hot as a filling between waffles. If desired, garnish each serving with pitted plumped prune. Makes 3 cups.

Hearty Skillet Dish Tempt School Child

For an easy but ample schoolday lunch, try All-in-One Skillet Special. Melt 2 tablespoons fat in large, heavy skillet. Add 1/2 pound ground beef and then 1 cup chopped onion and cook 'till browned, about 10 minutes. Add 1 cup sliced carrots and 1 quart water. Cover and simmer over low heat 30 to 35 minutes.

Glazed Peach Tarts Can Be Creamy

Glazed peach tarts are as pretty to look at as they are good to eat. Arrange drained canned cling peach slices in baked pastry shells, and brush with melted orange marmalade or apricot jam.
For a creamy variation, start with a spoonful of vanilla pudding before adding the peaches.
Add Prunes to Pancakes
Cooked chopped prunes added to pancake batter lift pancakes into the gourmet class. What a flavor! Or simply open a jar or can of ready-to-serve prunes and serve along side, letting the rich prune juice add flavor to the pancakes.

Although Deploring Way Money Raised

2 Republicans Would Take Texas Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two legislators quarterbacking Republican efforts to capture control of Congress say they'll accept $100,000 raised by a Texas party dinner—although they deplore methods used to drum up the contributions.

However, there was a possibility the money might stay in Texas.

Sen. Schoepel (R-Kan.) and Rep. Richard Simpson (R-Pa.) said the party groups they head will not be governed by a refusal of the Republican National Committee to use any of the money raised at the $100-a-plate dinner in Houston. Schoepel and Simpson are chairmen of GOP campaign committees in their respective houses.

A political hubbub has resulted from a letter written by H. J. Porter, Texas Republican national committee chairman, linking the dinner Monday night to efforts to pass the controversial natural gas bill.

The affair was advertised as an appreciation dinner for House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts. In soliciting potential ticket-buyers, oilman Porter said Martin had helped pass a natural gas bill in 1955 and that Martin's aid would be needed to push through a similar measure this year.

The bill would exempt gas producers from direct federal regulation, but would continue Federal Power Commission control of interstate pipelines. The 1955 bill, which followed generally similar lines, was vetoed by President Eisenhower on grounds certain segments of the oil-gas industry were "arrogant" in lobbying for it.

The White House, Martin and GOP National Chairman Meade ALCORN all have disavowed Porter's appeal.

Simpson called Porter's letter "crude and inexcusable" and said "everybody knows that Joe Martin's influence is not for sale." But Simpson added that "I see no reason why the contributions should not be accepted" by his House campaign committee.

Schoepel said Porter's letter was "unfortunate and does not bespeak the attitude of the Republicans of Texas who contributed honestly to help elect Republican senators and congressmen."

"We are certainly not going to take the position, however, that any money forwarded to us by the Republican State Finance Committee of Texas will not be accepted."

In Houston, Porter said the $100,000—less expenses—will be used by the state GOP organization if the national committee doesn't want it. He declined to comment on whether he is con- sidering giving any of the money groups.

Hunt for Parents of 2 Young Boys Left With Sitter

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Who are their parents, and where are their parents?

While Franklin County authorities try for the answers, two young boys—ages approximately 14 months and 3 years—wait in the medical center of the County Children's Home.

They were left with a baby sitter, Mrs. Lois Kapp of Columbus, almost three weeks ago. She had advertised for children to be boarded, and told authorities a woman brought the two youngsters in answer to the advertisement.

The baby sitter said the woman identified herself as Mrs. Dorothy Newsome, and first brought the youngest, said his name was Johnny and identified the boy as her son.

The woman returned a few days later with Mike, the 3-year-old, the baby sitter continued. He was said to be the son of the woman's roommate.

Mrs. Kapp said a woman telephoned a few days later to say that she was a friend of Mrs. Newsome's and that Mrs. Newsome would be in Dayton, Ohio, until Feb. 2 because of illness in her family.

The baby sitter said she heard nothing more until Feb. 5, when another woman, identifying herself as Mrs. Newsome's landlady, called for the children. Mrs. Kapp said she would not let the children go without word from Mrs. Newsome.

Mrs. Newsome called Tuesday from the Columbus railroad station, she said, saying she would pick up the children immediately. However, she did not appear.

Mrs. Kapp, who said she has not been paid for caring for the two youngsters, filed a charge of contributing to neglect against Mrs. Newsome.

Acquit City Woman in Husband's Death

A 44-year-old Pontiac woman is free today after being acquitted by a jury of the fatal stabbing of her husband Woodrow Russell, 43, last Christmas.

The jury acquitted Maelouise Russell of 202 Hughes St., of manslaughter charges in the climax of a two-day trial before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge George B. Hartrick.

Mrs. Russell said the stabbing took place after Russell had struck her several times after he had been drinking.

Traverse Bay Freezes Ahead of Schedule

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—A solid surface of ice on both arms of Grand Traverse Bay was hailed by winter fishing enthusiasts today as slightly ahead of schedule. The bay froze over Tuesday night.

A celebrated event in Traverse City, the freeze has failed only 16 times since 1851. The bay froze last year on March 4 and the ice was out March 15. In 1956 it was ice-bound from Feb. 28 to March 3.

The bay showed open water for three successive winters between 1953 and 1955, the first such occurrence noted since records have been kept.

Indonesian Reds Gaining Steadily

May Come Out on Top in '60 General Election and Take Over Nation

JAKARTA, Indonesia. (U)—Communism is making steady gains in Indonesia.

The booming Communist party already claims to be the biggest in the nation. If present trends continue to the 1960 general election, many think the Communists can come out on top and take over government leadership.

The three things that might stop them are: a coalition of non-Communist parties and other forces, a change of attitude by President Sukarno or direct intervention by the army.

The Communists are working hard and quietly. The tide of events (anti-Dutch campaign, an economic crisis) has been working in their favor. They are supporting the government and not rocking the boat. They get moral, and presumably financial, support from the Soviet and Red China embassies here. The Daily Worker and four fellow-traveling dailies help supplement a big party propaganda machine.

Indonesia's Communists suffered a crushing defeat, but learned a valuable lesson, when they tried to overthrow the government in 1948. Since then they have been operating peacefully — and effectively.

In the nation's first general election, in 1955, the Communist party ran third with more than six million votes, or 16.4 per cent of the ballots cast. Since then the Reds have made sweeping gains in east and central Java.

Communists now have 39 of 257 parliamentary seats. There are three Communists on the National Council, the 45-man advisory board set up under President Sukarno's "guided democracy" program. So far they have been kept out of the Cabinet but non-Communist Indonesians say 4 of the 24 Cabinet members are fellow travelers.

One diplomat put it this way: "The Communists are way ahead on points. If they play it smart, all they have to do is let the clock run out."

Corpses' Teeth Worn

PANAMA CITY — Archaeologists have found that some ancient Panamanians wore necklaces of dead men's teeth. Scientists now are studying the greatest part of a cache of about 7,000 such teeth, believed to be the stock of a necklace maker years ago.

Michael Wilding Weds Divorcee in Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (U)—Actor Michael Wilding and Mrs. Susan Nell, a London divorcee and interior decorator, eloped here by plane from Los Angeles and were married in a wedding chapel last night.

The British film player, 45, former husband of actress Elizabeth Taylor, and Mrs. Nell, 42, obtained a marriage license shortly after 10 p.m. at the marriage license bureau in downtown Las Vegas.

Eluding newsmen, they went to the Little Wedding Chapel Around the Corner, also in downtown Las Vegas, where the Rev. James Herndon performed the simple, single-ring ceremony. He said both appeared calm.

They told reporters waiting outside they would honeymoon for two days at the Sahara Hotel, after which their plans are unsettled.

The bride wouldn't say who her former husband was. "That's all history now," she replied.

On the marriage license application she gave her address as West Los Angeles and said she was divorced in London last July.

Wilding said he and Mrs. Nell had known each other 14 years and first met at a social gathering in London. Their romance started, he added, only about three months ago.

Wilding and Miss Taylor were divorced in June 1956. Miss Taylor now is married to showman Mike Todd.

He Finds Out Lasso Stops Steer, Not Car

HARRISBURG, Pa. (U)—Robert Mitchell, 14, found out that a lasso might stop a steer but not an automobile.

The youngster tossed the lariat onto the license plate of a passing car and found himself dragged for several feet before the motorist stopped.

42 Billion Cans Opened in U.S. During 1956

NEW YORK (U)—Americans opened 42 billion cans last year—259 for every man, woman and child in the country. Steelways says that from 50 to 80 per cent of such crops as tomatoes, sweet corn, beets, peaches, pears and apricots are preserved in cans.

High school basketball coaches take your bows. Men in college and pro coaching have admitted that only few of their ranks would be good enough to handle a cage job on the prep level.

Men like George Mikan, formerly of the Lakers, and Eddie Gottlieb, coach of the Philadelphia Warriors, recently were quoted to have agreed with the statement that only three coaches in the NBA and no more "would be worth a free lunch in high school."

Charley Eckman, ex-Pistons' coach, said, "I couldn't even be a cheerleader in high school."

Mikan, who ran out of gas as a player and recently as coach, shudders at the thought of coaching in high school. "In the pro ranks there are a certain chosen handful who are taught the system and not the game. But in high school, with cramped quarters, and about 100 kids who try to learn to dribble at the same time in 40 minutes of one class, one wonders not what the coach does, but how he is able to do it."

Fred Schaus of West Virginia, one of the nation's top ranked teams, added support to the statements. "High school is the hardest level of basketball teaching, and all our jobs are rest-cures compared to the high school coach."

So there you are high school coaches, give up your ulcers and get into pro coaching for a rest.

Our friend the Birdie had three cold moments last week but still managed to pick 12 of 15 games correctly and now stands 62-17 for the season.

In Friday's blue plate special at Pontiac High he sees the Chiefs knocking Flint-Central out of the top spot in the Saginaw Valley Conference.

It will be a big task but vengeance is the reason. It was Flint Central which ended Pontiac's 12 game winning streak in SVC play early in December.

Golden Glove Boxer Dies

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A 17-year-old Chicago amateur boxer suffered fatal injuries last night after being knocked out in the first round of a golden gloves boxing bout.

Melvin Young, 125 pounds and fighting in the open class competition of the boxing show, was pronounced dead upon arrival at a hospital. Cause of death was not determined immediately.

Young's opponent was Joe Berra, 16, of Granite City, Ill.

They met in the next to last fight on a 32-bout program sponsored by the Springfield Jaycees and the Illinois State Register.

Young was one of 16 inmates from the Sheridan, Ill. School for Boys entered in the tournament, said Melvin Bryant, assistant superintendent of the school. He said the school's policy permitted inmates to take part in high school level athletics. He said the boxing team at Springfield was under supervision of school officials.

Ramsey Lions' Top 'Movie-Goer'

DETROIT (AP) — Buster Ramsey rates as the Detroit Lions' top "movie-goer."

The veteran defensive coach has started a three-month project that involves running movies of all the Detroit club's 1957 games over and over again, day in and day out.

"It doesn't get stale, though," Buster explained. "We're looking for new and different things each time we run 'em—so actually, in a way, it's like seeing a new movie each time."

Backfield coach Red Cochran is working with Ramsey now and head coach George Wilson sits in on many of the sessions. Aldo Forte is busy on an off-season job while the two other assistants, Bob Nussbaumer and Bob Dove, are getting ready to depart on a scouting trip through southern states.

Ramsey explained his "movie-going" this way:

"We're trying to accomplish three things. First off, we have to clear up our 1957 work. The last part of our season was so hectic that we didn't have time to chart all the teams. We take down formations—both offensive and defensive. We chart just what plays worked against certain teams and what plays didn't. We have to put down what plays worked against our own defenses."

"We have to find out, not only why certain things worked well, but why certain other things didn't work. Over the years we have learned that some plays keep working against some teams time and time again."

"Next, we grade individual players on our own club. On each play of each game, we follow a certain player to see just how capable he is. We learn his strong and weak points, whether he is weak on a certain kind of block, and so forth. We grade them from zero to five. Just like in school, some players get better grades than others."

"Then we chart all the defenses used against the Detroit offense. We try to learn how our opponents maneuvered. Then next year, we know what they used against certain type of plays. A team can't radically alter its defense in one season; they move slowly on that type of thing—and they'll always show some of the defense they used the season before."

"Of course, we analyze our own system. Sometimes just by looking at a piece of film we can come up with a new idea that will help. Maybe a player can change one step, either on offense or defense, that will change the complexion of a play. One step frequently means the difference between success and failure."

NEW ORLEANS — Manager Paul Richards (left) greets a pair of newcomers to training camp at Scottsdale, Ariz. Jack Harshman (middle) was obtained in a trade with the Chicago White Sox, while Dave Nicholson is the rookie teen-aged outfielder who reportedly received $115,000 for signing with Baltimore. He is from St. Louis.

Tribe Holdouts to Take $100 Day Cut

Eight Tiger Farmhands Leave for Spring Camp

DETROIT (AP) — Eight young Detroit Tiger farmhands left for spring training early today.

They boarded an airliner about midnight at nearby Willow Run and were scheduled to sit down in Tampa 3½ hours later.

Tigertown at Lakeland, Fla., where the young hopefuls will train, is just about a 50-mile drive from the Tampa airport.

The Tigers don't expect any members of the group to be ready for the big league club this year but they are among the top hands in the now - sprawling farm system.

The four pitchers in the group had a combined won - lost record last season of 64 victories and 47 defeats. Fred Gladding of Flat Rock was the biggest winner, compiling a 16-8 record at Valdosta.

Dave Reed of Battle Creek was 14-8 at Durham, Phil Regan of Wayland was 9-14 at Durham, Dick Sheldon of Birmingham was 13-11 at Valdosta and Dick Walter of Flushing was 12-4 at Valdosta.

The others making today's trip were catchers Jack Feller of Onsted and Jack Bowen of Detroit, and first baseman Dick Colone of Detroit.

Feller batted .264 at Durham, Bowen hit .303 at Valdosta and Colone hit .254 at Durham. Both Feller and Bowen won all-star team berths in their respective leagues. Colone is a powerful hitter who rapped out 25 homers and collected 103 runs-batted in.

Lane Is Still After Bolling

CLEVELAND (AP) — Frank Lane, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, said today he still may be able to swing a deal with the Detroit Tigers for a second baseman.

John McHale, Tiger GM, "left for the Tigers' camp yesterday," Lane said, "and he told me he still wants to find out if Billy Martin can play shortstop. If Martin can play short, then Frank Bolling is McHale's second baseman."

"But if Martin can't play short, then the Tigers have two second basemen and maybe I can get one of them, maybe Bolling."

AGREES TO TERMS — Nellie Fox, Chicago White Sox infielder, gives the okay sign as he comes to terms by phone for a contract calling for more than $40,000. Fox said he was very pleased with the new contract.

Cleveland GM Uses Policy of 'Sign or Fine'

Frank Lane to Chop Contract Offer Daily for Not Signing

NEW YORK (INS) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick lined himself up on the side of Gene Woodling today in the Cleveland outfielder's "sign-or-fine" battle with general manager Frank Lane.

The rhubarb started when Lane said that $100 will be cut from the contracts offered to holdouts on the Tribe for each day they fail to report for spring training beginning March 1, at Tucson, Ariz.

The unsigned Woodling labeled the edict "unfair" yesterday and said, "I won't stand for anything like this. We have a baseball commissioner and I think he should step into a situation like this."

Frick said, "The case is not before me. I'll decide when it is put before me."

But the commissioner let it be known that he sided with Woodling.

"I don't think Mr. Lane is going to take $100 away from anybody," the commissioner declared. "I don't think he can subtract for a player's negotiations for service."

Lane insisted that the matter was no concern of the commissioner. The Cleveland GM said: "With all due respect to the commissioner, I believe we have a right to offer what we believe to be a fair salary. I don't think a player is worth as much to a club if he is not in shape. Therefore, I am taking off $100 for each day they fail to train."

Woodling, who batted .322 last season, third highest in the American League, received an estimated $23,000 last season and reportedly wants $32,000 for 1958.

The outfielder threatened to raise his demands by $100 a day after the deadline set by Lane.

Lane said the $100 cut decree actually was aimed at the Latin players who play winter ball and "always report late." The players involved are Minnie Mirosco, Chico Carrasquel and Bobby Avila.

Vic Wertz and Jim Hegan also were notified they faced the cut unless they signed and reported.

'Pocket' Leads Montreal's Win

Young Richard Scores Twice as Canadiens Beat Leafs, 5-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Big Brother Maurice "Rocket" Richard has been out of National Hockey League play since a November injury but little guy Henri, the Pocket Rocket, is doing okay keeping the Richard name up among the scoring leaders.

Henri, rapidly coming of age with something of the class that has made Maurice the top scorer in NHL history, fired in two more goals last night as the Montreal Canadiens whipped Toronto, 5-2, in the league's only game.

Now with 24 goals and 41 assists, Henri Richard is only two points behind teammate Dickie Moore in the race for league scoring honors. Moore, contributing an assist on Henri's first goal, has 67 points to Henri's 65.

The Canadiens bolted into a 4-0 lead during the second period against the Leafs as they stretched their first place margin to a whopping 27 points over second place New York.

Jean Beliveau, Tom Johnson and Andre Pronovost also scored for Montreal while Ron Stewart and Brian Cullen bagged Toronto's goals.

Coaches Eye 24-Second Rule

Bill Perigo, Michigan's basketball coach, says he is in favor of the 24-second shooting rule that applies in the National Basketball Assn.

But the Wolverine coach added that he does not believe the NCAA will adopt the rule for next season.

The 24-second rule, as in professional basketball, states that a team must attempt a field goal within 24-seconds after it gets possession of the ball. It has been proposed by some college coaches that a time limit rule be used in the college game. Proposals have been for time limits ranging from 24 to 30 seconds.

Perigo believes the question will come up again before the rules committee.

"It had a lot of support last year," he added, "but still I doubt if it will have enough support to pass."

Perigo said his Michigan team is faced with a tremendous task in the Big Ten basketball schedule that lies ahead.

"We have the best rebounding team in the latest statistics," he explained, "but the worst shooting team. And our defense isn't as strong as it was a year ago."

He would not predict the outcome of the torrid title chase.

Perigo said his Michigan team was outshot, 44 per cent to 23 per cent, in the first half in Monday night's loss at Minnesota.

"Our three front men hit 12 of 56 shots while Minnesota's three front players had 22 out of 48. That tells the difference," he said.

The Michigan - Michigan State game, scheduled for next Monday at Yost field house in Ann Arbor, has been sold out for weeks. Ticket director Don Weir said doors may be closed at 6:45 p.m. an hour and 15 minutes before tip-off time.

Big Ten Hoop Statistics Confusing as Title Race

CHICAGO (AP) — Big Ten basketball statistics are as mixed up as the title race itself.

Northwestern, tied for seventh place, is the conference's leader in field goal, accuracy with a .413 percentage, official figures showed today.

Michigan, in third place, has the poorest floor shot mark, .332. Last place Illinois is tops in scoring with an average of 73.5 points per game. Northwestern is second with 79.

Wisconsin, sharing last place with the Illini, is No. 1 defensively by holding opponents to an average 58.3. Ohio State, tied for fifth with Iowa, is next with a yield of 70.8.

Michigan is tops in rebounds with a 54.6 average, compared to 47.2 for Michigan State and 45 for Indiana, the co-leaders.

The Wolverines set a league single game record with 71 rebounds against Illinois last week. George Lee retrieved 32 of them for an individual mark.

Indiana's Archie Dees continues his individual scoring lead with a 24.9 average and also is tops in field goal and free throw percentages with .538 and .878, respectively.

Joining the top 10 are two Michigan State stars, John Green and Larry Hedden. Green netted 42 points in two games over the weekend to go from 11th to 6th place with a 17.4 mark. Hedden made 53 to soar from 22nd to a share of seventh with 17.0.

Green is the leading rebounder with an average of 16.4 and Michigan's M. C. Burton is next with 15.7.

Both players agreed to terms via phone conversations yesterday with Vice President Charles Coniskey who said Fox "has earned every penny" of his new contract.

Fox led the American League last season in total hits, 156, in games played, 153, and in fewest strikeouts, 13. He batted .317.

Pierce reached the 20-game victory mark for the second straight year.

Fox said at St. Thomas, Pa. "I am very happy with my new deal."

Pitcher Bob Keegan also came to terms yesterday. There now are seven White Sox players who still have not signed 1958 contracts.

Two Squads of Women to Qualify Saturday

It's time for the women to get into the Bowlerama act as two squads will start their qualifying Saturday at Motor Inn. The first squad of 50 ladies will start rolling at 12:30 with three women per alley. At 3:00 p.m. another squad of 50 will enter the qualifying round.

From here 12 per cent of the women plus all ties will battle for the championship Saturday February 22nd at the Huron Bowl.

Every woman who qualifies is assured of a prize, and still get a crack at the guaranteed $250 first prize, $125 runnerup and $75 for third place.

The high actual game and the high actual series in the qualifying round will earn the bowler a bag and a ball. In event of a tie for either of the actual scores, a one game roll-off will determine the winner.

High qualifier, with total handicap score, will also win the Motor Inn's qualifying trophy.

All women are requested to check in at the Motor Inn desk about half hour before bowling time.

The honor of being the oldest woman in the tournament goes to Birmingham's Mrs. Anna Winters who is 76. Her nearest rival is 70-year-old May P. Reed.

Checking of the men's averages is nearing completion and indications point to the possibility of several changes in the qualifying list as result of errors in averages.

Ranked Indians Boast 11-1 Mark in Season Play

Chiefs Keyed to Knock Saginaw Valley Leaders From Perch

High flying Flint Central, currently the third-ranked Class A team in the state, could fall from its perch if it finds Pontiac Central in a rough frame of mind tomorrow night on the PCH court.

The Indians currently lead the Saginaw Valley Conference with a 6-1 record and an 11-1 season mark.

A loss to the Chiefs coupled with Flint Northern's expected victory over Arthur Hill in Flint would push Northern into the lead.

Currently Flint Northern is in 2nd place with a 5-2 record and a victory would give the Vikings one more win than their city rivals.

For Pontiac it means mathematical survival in the SVC race.

It was Flint Central which started the Chiefs into their losing ways with a 52-43 setback in Flint last Dec. 20.

Now PCH stands 4-3 in conference play and after Tuesday's 53-48 loss to Highland Park the Chiefs are 4-4 for the campaign.

Central lost a letterman by graduation since that first game. However, coach Joe Dowdy has received surprising help from Dale Lucas who took over the spot vacated by guard Chuck Hyslop.

Lucas saw limited action until two games ago and he has 20 points or better in both starts. Against Pontiac the first time Lucas came into the game in the second half and contributed seven big points.

Coach Art Van Rysin said that Jim Skinner made back in action for the Chiefs. Skinner has been out for three games with an ailing ankle.

The big wheel in the Flint Central lineup is guard Felix Miller, the league's leading scorer. He had 22 points in the last encounter.

In the other Saginaw Valley game, Bay City Central visits Saginaw.

Jewelers Beat Union, 68-67

Shaw's Jewelers piled up a 41-29 halftime lead and staved off a late rally for a narrow 68-67 victory over CIO Local 594 in a Class A City League basketball game last night at Pontiac Central High.

Ernie Wagner sparked the Jewelers with 23 points while Felix Brooks fired 21 for the CIO.

John Keller clicked for 24 points to pace the Knights of Columbus to a 63-53 triumph over Southfield in the other "A" contest. Southfield's Ed Bryant took scoring honors with 29.

Whiter's Electric won its first Class D game of the season, a 45-38 win over Home Lunch behind Carl Adams' 18 points. Chuck Langdon had 15 in defeat. St. Vincent de Paul forfeited to Perry Park in the other "D" game.

Plan Fox Hunt for Archers in Holly Area

First of a series of three fox hunts in the Holly area, arranged by Holly sportsman Cliff Dryer, is set for Sunday, Feb. 16.

Second swing is scheduled for Feb. 23, and the big feature hunt for bowmen only, takes place March 2.

Hunters will convene at Dryer's place, 18210 Holly road, at 9 a.m. each hunt day. Hot coffee and doughnuts will be served free at noon.

Last year's hunts drew from 175 to 200 shotgunners and 175 in the archery hunt. Gunners bagged four or five foxes each swing, but the archers missed out. "I hope the bow hunters' aiming is better this year, Dryer said today.

Only guns permitted will be shotguns, using No. 2 and No. 4 loads only.

Dark to Defend Players' Title

Major Leaguers Begin Qualifying in Annual Golf Tourney

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Defending Champion Alvin Dark and 44 other major leaguers tee off today in an 18-hole qualifying round in the National Baseball Players' golf tournament at the Miami Springs Country Club.

Dark, St. Louis Cardinals shortstop, led qualifiers last year with a 75 and is favored to repeat in the 18th renewal of the tournament. He may have a tough battle with Al Lopez, Manager of the Chicago White Sox. Lopez carried Dark into extra holes in the 1955 tournament and lost in another close match last year.

Fans also will be watching such baseball figures as Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra and Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees; Clem Labine and Don Newcombe of the Los Angeles Dodgers; Lew Burdette, Billy Herman of the Milwaukee Braves; Billy Martin of the Detroit Tigers and Jimmy Piersall of the Boston Red Sox.

Other baseball figures in the field, which has divisions for minor league players, the press and guests, include Howard Ehmke, Phil Cavarretta, Ewell Blackwell, Phil Rizzuto, Earl Torgerson, Virgil Trucks, Don Bessent, Bob Grim, John Gray, Ray Boone, Walt Dropp, Del Rice, Bob Friend and Joe Collins.

Ex-Wing Prystai Suffers Leg Injury

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Metro Prystai, 30-year-old left winger for Edmonton Flyers, suffered a broken leg in a Western Hockey League game against Winnipeg Warriors last night.

General Manager Bud Polle of Flyers announced Prystai is through for the season after breaking a shin bone when he crashed into the Edmonton goal post in the third period.

Earlier in the season while with the Detroit Red Wings he suffered a hairline fracture of the left ankle.

Loop Titles Call Area Pace-Setters

By BILL CORNWELL

Outright league championships or the guarantee of at least a co-title will be the goal of three Oakland County area high school basketball teams Friday night.

Berkley in the Inter-Lakes Conference, unbeaten Troy in the Oakland B League and Almont in the Southern Thumb loop are all just one step away from glory.

The Bears can assure themselves of an Inter-Lakes co-championship by getting past Walled Lake, the team they shared the crown with a year ago.

Walled Lake, which gave Berkley fits before losing by three points in their first meeting at Berkley, will have the home floor advantage this time, but the Bears still rate a solid choice.

Waterford seeks to avenge an earlier 53-50 loss to Van Dyke when the Skippers invade the Van Dyke premises and runner-up Southfield visits Farmington to round out the Inter-Lakes slate.

Troy goes after its 14th victory of the season and an undisputed Oakland B title against Avondale on the Avon court. Lake Orion goes to Madison and Fitzgerald plays host to Clawson in other loop games.

Memphis is the last stumbling block for Almont in its drive to the Thumb crown. The Memphis cagers trail the league leaders by half a game and will have the home court edge for their showdown with the Raiders.

Clarkston, leading Northville by a scant half game in the Wayne-Oakland Conference, will have to be wary of an upset tomorrow night at West Bloomfield.

field. Northville could also have trouble with Holly on the Holly floor in another W-O headliner.

Bloomfield Hills journeys to Milford and Brighton entertains Clawsonville to complete the Wayne-Oakland card.

Winless Oxford looks doomed to take another licking at Imlay City and Ortonville tackles North Branch away in South Central loop action.

Rochester wants revenge for a previous beating when the Falcons play Class A Roseville at Rochester in an attractive non-league offering.

Eastern Michigan League activity sends Birmingham to Hazel Park, undefeated Ferndale to Mt. Clemens and East Detroit to Port Huron. Fraser is at Utica for a Bi-County tussle.

Western Michigan Bows

KALAMAZOO — Loyola of Chicago took an early lead and never was headed in downing Western Michigan 68-61 in a non-conference basketball game last night. Edgar Blair was high for Western Michigan with 19.

Pontiac Matmen at Flint Northern

Win Tonight Would Put Chiefs Above .500; 3 Other Area Matches

Pontiac Central's wrestling contingent gets a chance to go above the .500 mark for the first time this season as they tangle with Flint Northern at Flint tonight at 7.

The Chiefs have beaten Royal Oak Dondero and Waterford in their latest outings to mark the first time they have been able to put two straight wins together. They must win three of five remaining dual meets to have a successful finish.

There are three other matches involving Oakland County schools scheduled for tonight.

Featuring the trio will be Cranbrook's invasion of Southfield which should be a battle of evenly matched units.

Farmington, considered by many to be the most improved team in the area and a strong threat for post-season honors, travels to Livonia Bentley while once-beaten Hazel Park hosts Melvindale in the other mat action.

Chief Tankers Swim in Three More Duals

Only three dual swimming meets remain for Pontiac Central's tankers, before the Saginaw Valley Conference and state meets.

Coach Bob Boyce's club swims at Flint Central on Friday afternoon, will be host to Bay City on Feb. 21, and winds up the regular schedule at Flint Northern on Feb. 28.

Valley championships are at Arthur Hill's fine pool, on March 7, and the state event is set for March 14.

Derocher Leads St. Fred to 63-35 Win

By H. GUY MOATS

Gene Wright's St. Frederick Rams last night put together probably their best game of the basketball season to stop Detroit Sacred Heart 63-35.

The win, in St. Frederick's gymnasium, was not only a fine team victory but also a personal triumph for Rams' ace, Tom Derocher. Tom, who ran into a scoring slump recently, emerged with a 28-point total, his best of the year.

Wright checked his scoring and announced that Derocher had compiled 190 points, including the 28.

Win was Rams' 8th, against three defeats. The club will be idle rest of this week, resuming action next Tuesday at St. Francis de Sales, Detroit.

After Bill Hoydic hooked a basket in the first minute of last night's encounter, and Derocher countered, Rams were on their way. Count was 16-9 at end of the period and expanded to 26-17 at halftime.

Every Ram player got into the game, and seven contributed to the scoring. Derocher altogether sat out one full period.

"I was delighted with the team's play as a whole," Wright said. "It was an alert group, everybody did their jobs in the right way."

With the exception of the St. Thomas (Detroit), O.L. St. Mary game tonight, at Orchard Lake, area parochials will not resume action until next week.

St. Frederick reserves also won their 8th game (2 losses), by a 29-26 score, with Mike Reed's 8 points tops.

Hope Wins 9th Straight

GRAND RAPIDS — Hope boosted its MIAA basketball record to 9-0 in defeating Calvin 70-62 last night.

Eaglets Expect Tough Contest

One of Detroit's top Class C parochial quintets will make its first appearance on an Oakland County floor tonight, when St. Thomas tangles with Orchard Lake St. Mary at the Eaglets court. Orchard Lakers look for one of the season's toughest tests.

Coach Walt Bazyle's club has lost only two games in 10, is runnerup to Grosse Pointe St. Paul in the 2nd division East Side Catholic loop with a 9-1 record. Only loop loss was to St. Paul, and the only other defeat was a 73-59 win, Tuesday for Ann Arbor St. Thomas. St. Paul is the current No. 1 state Class C quintet.

A reserve game is set for 7 p.m., varsity tilt at 8:15.

Giants Get 'Clean' Start

MESA, Ariz. — Giant boss Bill Rigney says he'll be "the cleanest manager in the National League" when spring training starts and he'll have eight equally well-bathed San Francisco Giants with him.

Rigney, eight players, two coaches and two club officials begin 11 bath-filled days at Buckhorn Spa here today, steaming themselves into condition.

The Giants regular spring training camp opens at Phoenix, 20 miles from the hot springs resort.

YOU CAN DO IT — West Bloomfield coach Art Paddy had several words of wisdom for his Lakers today as they completed drills for their rugged home encounter against Clarkston tomorrow night. The Keego Harbor team is hopeful of upsetting the league leaders despite an up-and-down season. Shown listening to Paddy are, left to right, Rolf Gerdhammer, John Lucadam, Ross Fockler and Jim Hollister.

Pancho Beats Hoad 15,000 See Pro Netters

NEW YORK (AP)—Pancho Gonzales' new tennis strategy—blast, blast—continues to pay dividends and today he is just two victories away from his young professional rival, Lew Hoad. "I hit the ball with everything I had."

That's the way the tall Californian described his 7-9, 6-0, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Hoad last night at Madison Square Garden, reducing the Australian's lead in their 100-match series to 9-7.

Gonzales, who dropped seven matches in a row to his freshman adversary, has a chance to pull even before the week-end. The troupe invades Washington, D.C., tonight for two matches.

The largest crowd ever to watch

STRIKES AND SPARES
By Joe Wilman

I get a chuckle out of the efforts of many bowlers to roll a hook ball.

In an effort to get their ball to hook sharply, they sacrifice footwork and timing. Even if it doesn't hit the pocket consistently, they feel they've really accomplished something if they can roll a hook ball.

I recommend rolling a hook ball, but there's a right way of doing it. The stuff that makes a ball hook is applied with finger lift (which is shown very clearly today), with wrist turn or with a combination of the two. Keep all body motion out of your delivery. Don't dip too low as you bring the ball forward to release it. It won't help put extra finger lift into your delivery. Instead, it may only cause you to ruin your timing, or you may bounce or "dribble" the ball in bringing it forward. Turning or twisting the body won't help your hook, either. More likely, it'll just affect your accuracy.

So keep your body motions out of the picture. Depend upon finger lift and or wrist turn to give your ball that hooking action.

Theft Solved; Farmer Recalls Another in '15

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP)—When farmer W. A. Moon reported a two-month-old theft of a dinner bell and anvil, the sheriff's office didn't let the age of the crime hamper it.

Hours later two men were arrested and charged with grand larceny. Moon got his dinner bell and anvil back.

Now he remembers a couple of other thefts: four buggy wheels taken in 1915 and seven pigs which disappeared in 1922.

Enigma Leaves Family in Tizzy

Bouncing Bottles Blowing Their Tops

SEAFORD, N.Y. (AP)—An expert electrician today enters the case of the bouncing bottles which blow their tops — a 10-day enigma which has the Herrmann family in a tizzy.

On Feb. 3, the first of all sorts of bottles mysteriously began doing jigs, capsizing or literally blowing their screw-type tops. The detonating containers have held liquids of all kinds, ranging from perfume to washing bleach to holy water, in all parts of the six-room ranch house.

Suggestions as to the probable cause of the phenomena have poured in on the Herrmanns — James; his wife Lucille; a daughter, Lucille, 13; and a son, James Jr., 12.

Mrs. Herrmann pinned her hopes of ultimate solution on another test scheduled for today. She said: "A man from the Long Island Lighting Co. is coming with some kind of testing machine to check all the wiring in the house."

The bottle business, she added, "doesn't scare me because there has to be a reason for everything."

But at this point, she continued, "I don't even want to know what the reason is. I just want to get it over with."

Rightist Ydigoras Heads Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP)—Rightist Gen. Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes finally has the presidency of Guatemala after trying since 1950. He also appears to have the majority of the incoming Congress behind him.

The outgoing legislature elected the 62-year-old leader of the Conservative Reconciliation party to a six-year term yesterday. The congressional choice between Ydigoras and Jose Luis Cruz Salazar was necessary because Ydigoras did not get a majority in the Jan. 19 election, although he ran well ahead.

The democratic Nationalist Movement of the late President Carlos Castillo Armas backed Cruz Salazar and held 56 of the 66 seats in the old Congress. But Cruz Salazar, fearful that the country would continue on its recent unstable political path, called for his opponent's election.

Ydigoras needed two ballots to win, because several deputies voted twice on the first one. The first time he got 44 votes, the second time 46.

Ydigoras has vigorously denied charges in the last election campaign that he plans to set up a dictatorship. He also has promised to continue close cooperation with the United States.

The new President will be inaugurated March 2.

The Connecticut Turnpike soon will have a 53-mile stretch of continuous highway lighting from Greenwich at the New York state line to Branford, Conn.

He's Advertising Gas at 9.9 Cents Per Gallon

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—Service station operator George Dee Smithson is advertising regular gasoline at 9.9 cents a gallon. Smithson said the customer also must pay 9 cents tax on each gallon, but it's still unusually low at 18.9.

A gasoline war in the east San Francisco Bay area has cut prices.

Wild Animals, Birds Grow New Outfits

WASHINGTON — While humans prepare for winter by taking heavy clothes out of storage, wild animals and birds simply grow new outfits.

In North America, certain creatures provide themselves with the equivalent of down comforters, white suits to match the snow, and snowshoes for easier travel, the National Geographic Society says.

ON NEW PINIONS

Birds that flew south this autumn made the journey on new pinions. Just before migration the birds shed flight feathers, frayed from nest-building and family duties, and grew fresh ones.

The birds that stay north also molt, and develop new outfits containing a heavier growth of feathers to conserve body heat.

The feet of the ruffed grouse, a favorite game bird, are bare in summer. As cold weather approaches, the scales on the edges of the toes become longer, producing a comblike fringe that serves as a snowshoe when the grouse searches for food among the drifts.

GROUSE PROTECTED

Another wintertime trick of the ruffed grouse protects it from keen-nosed predators. When bedding down for the night, it flies rather than walks to a snowdrift, plunging into the insulated hideaway. No scent trail is left to betray it.

Snowshoes aren't only for the birds. The snowshoe hare, an animal superbly equipped for life in changing seasons, grows long, coarse fur around its feet in winter.

The snowshoe hare has another ability that gives it an alternate name — varying hare. In summer it wears brown fur. But when winter comes, the dark hair drops out and white hair grows in, providing camouflage in the snow. For late fall and early spring, when the snow only blotches the ground, the hare has a two-tone coat.

Also famous for this trick is the weasel, a ferocious little predator that apparently kills for the pleasure of it and tackles animals much larger than itself. In summer it is brown with white underparts. But in northern winters the common weasel becomes the regal ermine, clad in immaculate white except for a black-tipped tail.

Weasels living in regions with little or no snow do not change color when they molt. Transplanted to the north, a southern weasel stays brown in winter. Similarly, an ermine from the north will continue to change its color in the snowless south.

Buffalo Bob Smith Regards Howdy Doody With Pride

TAKE THE CAKE — Buffalo Bob Smith, Howdy Doody and Clarabell the Clown recently cut and served a 10th anniversary cake on NBC-TV's "Howdy Doody Time." The puppet and his friends star in the oldest and one of the most popular children's shows on television. "Howdy Doody Time" is presented Saturdays from 10 to 10:30 a.m.

Creator Guards Puppet's Name

Program for Children Now in Its 11th Year on NBC Television

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — Buffalo Bob Smith can say no to $100,000 without batting an eye. Especially so since his baby, Howdy Doody, is now a robust, self-supporting 10-year-old.

And self-supporting is an understatement. This pleasantly ugly puppet is a financial wizard; Smith says, without boasting, that he thinks he's made more money for NBC than any other single person.

Yet Smith, the voice and creator of Howdy, and Roger Muir, the show's long-time producer, are both careful about how they get that money.

They're proud of the fact that Howdy, although he's a cowboy by trade, never carries a gun. Nor will Smith and Muir license toy gun manufacturers to turn out a line of Howdy Doody cowboy pistols.

And they've turned down other sources of income, too. They refused to let a bubble gum concern sponsor the show and they said no to a firm, $100,000-a-year guarantee if they'd permit Howdy Doody lollipops to reach the market. That's because Smith figures candy and kids' teeth shouldn't mix.

VISUAL NOISE
He is, in fact, proud of his creation, proud of his show, proud of the influence of Howdy Doody. This, despite much criticism that Howdy and his friends are nothing more than visual noise.

"Sure it's noisy," Smith says, "but kids like noise. And this is a kids' show, after all. If I ever heard parents saying they liked the show, I'd figure it was time for a change."

It all started on Dec. 27, 1947. Prior to that time, Smith had little experience with kids' shows. He was, in fact, then a part-time radio show producer.

A few months before the big day, he'd started a Saturday radio show for children, which he called the "BBB Ranch," the initials standing for Big Brother Bob.

This had games and songs and a make-believe ranch hand named Elmer who spoke like Mortimer

Snerd and always came on saying, "Well, howdy doody, boys and girls."

HE DIDN'T EXIST

The boys and girls who came to the studio to see the show were always disappointed that Elmer — they called him Howdy Doody — didn't exist. All that happened was Smith would grime a little and out would come Elmer's voice.

"That made me think about television," Bob says. "They wanted to see this character, so I thought that maybe it was an idea for TV."

At roughly the same time, NBC asked Roger Muir to consider a TV show for children — featuring puppets in juxtaposition to adults. Muir met Smith, the two ideas merged and "Howdy Doody" was born.

He wasn't actually ready for his debut. That first week the show was telecast, the puppet they'd commissioned wasn't finished. So he spoke from a desk drawer. By the next show, he was there in person.

The first figure only lasted a few weeks. There was some trouble with the man who made it, so another one was ordered. And it's this personification of Howdy Doody that still exists — the same puppet, as a matter of fact.

RECOVERED NICELY

Smith says he's been patched and glued and nailed and still goes on. Once, his head split open in an airplane — the baggage compartment wasn't pressurized — but he recovered nicely.

"We've tried many times to make a duplicate," Smith says, "but they're never exactly right. We do have another puppet — we call him 'Double Doody' — who goes on once in a while. I guess he's good enough to fool the kids but not us."

Smith himself is, of course, delighted with the firm place in American culture Howdy Doody has established for himself. But it's not enough for Smith.

He wants to do a nighttime show and is currently making audition records of one of his ideas. "I want to show them," he says, "that I can do something other than patting kids' heads and talking to puppets."

After 2,200 shows, Bob Smith and the character he created keep rolling along. They're both making money, but Smith denies Howdy has made him wealthy.

"I'm not rich," he says. "Oh, Howdy hasn't done me any harm, but I'm not rich — unless you go along with the definition of richness being happiness. If that's what you mean, then I'm rich."

Actors Union Makes Apology to Merman

NEW YORK — Actors Equity union has made an apology to star Ethel Merman, one of its members, for what another member said. It was the first time such action had been taken by the organization.

The apology grew out of a charge made by Gene Wesson that Miss Merman had caused his dismissal from the musical "Happy Hunting" in which both were appearing. An investigation disproved the charge and Wesson also lost a suit for a salary settlement. The actor told Equity he would apologize to Miss Merman, but when he failed to do so the union issued its own apology.

Suggestion Box Paying Off Well

WASHINGTON — The old suggestion box is paying off handsomely for Federal Government employees. The Government reports that the 1956 crop of ideas submitted by its employees increased more than one third over the year before and two thirds over 1954's suggestions. And the number of ideas actually used increased even more. During the year, some 80,000 of nearly 300,000 suggestions submitted were used, saving the Government more than $100,000,000 apart from improving service and yielding the idea employees nearly $6,000,000.

Plaid Shirts Attract Biting Canadian Flies

QUEBEC — Scientists have advised eastern Canada's lumberjacks to stop wearing their traditional plaid shirts in spring and early summer. Entomologists report that the area's biting black flies seem to be attracted to the reds and blues in lumberjack plaids.

The scientists found that light shades of khaki are "distinctly less attractive" to the insect pests, which often become so vicious that at the height of their activity, woodcutting must often be stopped despite the use of repellents. Hypochlorite is the chlorine compound used most for the bleaching of cellulose materials such as wood pulp, many textiles and other related products.

India Plans Dwellings for 'Untouchable' Caste

NEW DELHI, India — Nearly 100,000 houses will have been built by India's various states for occupation by Scheduled Castes ("Untouchables") within another five years, the Central Board of Harijan Welfare announced in New Delhi. Free housing sites will be provided in many instances and about $11,730,000 has been earmarked for construction of homes for the Scheduled Castes. States and the Government of India will share the expense. Generally the houses will be of $100 to $200, depending on local conditions. The Government usually meets 75 per cent of the amount as a subsidy in the form of building materials.
