Forced to Use Tear Gas, Bullets After Political Melee in Streets

TIJUANA, Mexico (UPI) — Police used live ammunition and tear gas to break up a wild riot which erupted among an estimated 1,000 persons attending a political meeting.

Some 35 persons sought medical help after the melee in which more than 30 automobiles were damaged.

Luis H. Alvarez, National Action Party (PAN) presidential candidate defeated in last July's elections, said "We, the PAN, will keep on fighting until we have finished the regime."

Alvarez, who was speaker at the large outdoor gathering four blocks from Main street late Saturday when the riot exploded, yesterday addressed a meeting of 800 persons at Mexicali, about 100 miles east of here.

Police said yesterday's two-hour meeting was peaceful.

Deputy Police Chief Francisco Vias Novoa said Saturday's riot was the worst in Tijuana's history.

The outbreak apparently was touched off by protestations against a show of strength by the government which earlier had warned Alvarez that the meeting would be disbanded if a federal law prohibiting anti-government demonstrations was broken.

Armed police officers were stationed at rooftops overlooking the meeting place and fire trucks were drawn up around the gathering when Alvarez began his talk.

300 Red Missiles in 18 Months Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimate that the Soviet Union will have 300 intercontinental ballistic missiles within 18 months and that at least half of them will work has been given to the Eisenhower administration.

The prediction was made by the Rand Corp., which does research work for the Pentagon. It was made public over the weekend at a session of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

In the current issue of Foreign Affairs, an article by Albert Wohlstetter said the "delicate balance of terror" on which American policy is based is not automatic and that, while feasible, "it will be much harder to achieve in the 1960s than is generally believed."

Cold Air Heads South From Canada Border

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The brief mild winter weather appeared ended in Northern sections of the country today.

Cold air spread from Canada into the north central region and headed into Southern and Eastern sections. It also was on the chilly side in New England and parts of the Rockies and Plateau region.

But fairly mild weather continued in most other sections of the country after Sunday's record temperature marks for the date in some areas.

The icy air in the north central region extended through the Dakotas and Nebraska and dropped temperatures some 20 degrees lower than 24 hours earlier. They were near zero in North Dakota, about 10 degrees in South Dakota and in the 20s in Nebraska.

The cold air was expected to advance through the Great Lakes region and Ohio Valley southward into Arkansas and northern Texas.

Grieving Father Meets Duncan

Arrange Funeral for Murdered Bride in Bizarre Slaying

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The grief-stricken father of Olga Duncan, murdered Santa Barbara nurse, met his son-in-law for the first time Sunday.

Friends said Frank Duncan, the dead woman's husband, sobbed as he and Elias Kupczyk, her father, discussed tentative arrangements for her funeral at a meeting in Duncan's Hollywood apartment.

The funeral will be private, followed by cremation—the latter in accordance with an expressed wish of the pretty 30-year-old victim. The date of the funeral was not fixed.

Ventura County authorities charge that Olga Duncan died because her mother-in-law, 54-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan, was jealous of the younger woman.

At a grand jury session Friday two men, Luis Moya, 22, and Augustine Baldonado, 25, repeated confessions investigators said they had given earlier, in which they told how the elder Mrs. Duncan offered them $6,000 to kill Olga, who was five months pregnant.

The body was found Dec. 21 in a shallow grave near Casitas dam in Ventura County.

Kupczyk arrived by rail from Benito, Man., in northern Canada. He was accompanied by his son William, 32.

exiles reported Castro had broadcast an accusation that the Dominican Republic is "preparing an attack on Cuba" and 30 warplanes with Cuban markings are "ready to fly in order to begin a general invasion of the island."

The exiles said the purpose of the attack is to "provoke the intervention of the Organization of American States or some international organization to thwart an otherwise inevitable rebel victory."

Rebel reports from Oriente indicated that the 10,000 Batista troops there were in desperate trouble.

The insurgents claimed they captured the city of Palma Soriano, an important point on the main highway between Bayamo and Santiago, and inflicted 600 casualties on government force, including 286 prisoners taken. They said the highway from Bayamo to Santiago, a distance of about 75 miles, was under rebel control. Rebel casualties were put at 27 dead and 50 wounded.

The rebel broadcasts said a government battalion was holding out at Maffo, near the highway town of Contramaestre between Bayamo and Palma Soriano, but said it was surrounded and the town virtually destroyed.

Dan Dailey Battles Police

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Dan Dailey, 45, had a ground-rolling tussle with two policemen that ended with the lanky hooper being handcuffed, officers said today.

He was due in nearby Van Nuys Municipal Court later today for arraignment on a drunk driving charge.

Daily and his wife, Gwen, 31, the former wife of actor Donald O'Connor, had a few drinks with band-leader Louis Prima and his wife, Keely Smith, shortly before Dailey's car smashed into the rear of another car in a thick fog early yesterday, he told officers.

Mrs. Dailey was "loud, boisterous, profane and abusive," officers said. "WAS WARNED" "She was warned to hold her voice down," they reported. "We were aware she also had been drinking and we advised her not to try to make things worse than they were."

She was not held.

"I was on my way home when the fog caused me to hit that car ahead of me which was stopped for the red light," Dailey told arresting officers William Hayhoe and Harold E. Skidmore.

"I'm not going to kid you," officers quoted him as saying. "I'm crooked because I've had plenty to drink. I won't blow up your balloon because that would prove I'm stoned."

That's What Voters Want

'Chop California in Two'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Public sentiment favors splitting California into two states, the San Francisco Chronicle said today.

The newspaper, releasing results of a poll, said a majority of participants believe the north and south have little in common. They wanted the issue settled by referendum, the paper added.

More than a third of the voters indicated that the question as put to them was unrealistic, if not impossible.

Almost half expressed the belief that such a division would benefit both the northern and southern sections of the state and a majority of the ballots favored a partition of California at the Tehachapi Mountains — the traditional boundary between north and south. marring Christmas 1958 with a record highway slaughter, the holiday could end up as the second worst in history.

The most tragic holiday on record was the black Christmas of 1956 when 712 persons died in traffic. The second worst Christmas on the highways occurred in 1955 when 621 persons were killed during a three-day Christmas holiday.

Thus, if late highway fatality reports boost this year's toll only slightly above the council's prediction of 620 deaths, the holiday would go down as the nation's second worst.

The Day in Birmingham Space Expert to Speak at Town Hall Lecture

BIRMINGHAM — Birmingham Town Hall, under the auspices of St. Anne's Guild of St. James Episcopal Church, will open the second half of its current series Jan. 8, 9. The first speaker will be Arthur C. Clark, noted author and authority on space travel.

The second program will be of special interest to style-conscious women as Oleg Cassini, fashion designer, discusses his profession Feb. 5 and 6.

Concluding speaker for the 1958-59 series will be Stewart Alsop, well-known newspaper columnist, who will come here March 5 and 6.

All programs are held at the Birmingham Theater at 11 a.m. A "meet the celebrities" luncheon follows at the Birmingham Country Club.

Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley tonight will ask city commissioners for the permanent appointment of Wesley J. Skowron as warrant officer for the city of Birmingham. Skowron was given the office six months ago on a trial basis and according to Moxley has been "very satisfactory."

Something new in the annals of "crime" has come to the attention of Birmingham police. Someone stole Santa Claus over the weekend. The six-foot, plywood figure was a part of the outdoor display at the home of Dr. John N. Wakevainen, 507 Linden Rd.

Tickets for the annual Allied Youth dance on New Year's Eve are available now at the Birmingham YMCA. To be held at the Masonic Temple in Detroit, the dance features three bands in the three main ballrooms.

DeVere T. Corey Service for DeVere T. Corey, 58, of 193 Hazel St., will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. Burial will follow in White Chapel Cemetery.

Mr. Corey, a truck driver for the Alcoa Co., Detroit for 35 years, was a charter member of the Oakland County Sheriff's posse. He is survived by his wife Gladys B. and a daughter, Mrs. Harold Guegy of Royal Oak, two grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Larry Dirrim of Adrian.

Rebels Smash at Army Forces Near Santiago

Batista Forces Wage All-Out Offensive in Central Region

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

HAVANA (AP)—A climax in Cuba's two-year-old civil war appeared to be drawing near today. Fidel Castro's rebels smashed at government forces in Eastern Cuba, and President Fulgencio Batista's army waged a fierce offensive against insurgents in the central part of the island.

In Oriente province, at the eastern end of the island, the rebel radio said four of Castro's columns were marching toward Oriente's capital, Santiago de Cuba, after hitting army forces elsewhere in the province.

The rebels said their goal was to set up an insurgent government in Oriente shortly.

In the central province of Las Villas, Batista's forces apparently had started a large-scale offensive to counter a string of rebel victories which threatened the provincial capital of Santa Clara. The government was sending in heavy artillery, tanks and bombers.

The rebels reported government planes bombed Santa Clara and the rebel-held town of Jatibonico, in Camaguey province near the Las Villas border. Camaguey lies between Las Villas and Oriente. Other reports from Las Villas said Batista's planes and artillery heavily bombed and shelled rebel concentrations around Santa Clara. One aim of the government's offensive appeared to be to remove a rebel threat to the main highway between Las Villas and Oriente.

Despite rebel attempts to have populated places declared open cities, the government warned that it would make all-out counterattacks on towns held or threatened by the rebels.

A rebel exile organization in Miami said the planes bombed and strafed cities although the Army knew the rebels were camped outside the cities.

Traffic Toll 23 in State; None Killed Sunday

National Total of 595 May Be 2nd Worst Yule Holiday on Record

Traffic ..... 595

Total ..... 795

From Our News Wires

Michigan wound up the long holiday weekend with a miraculous deathless Sunday on the highways, although 23 persons lost their lives in traffic earlier during the Christmas week-end.

A heavy fog covering southern and central Michigan slowed traffic and may have been a factor in the perfect Sunday. But the fog caused a large number of minor accidents involving considerable property damage.

State Police said it was the first time since Jan. 12 for Michigan to go through a Sunday without a traffic fatality. There was only one Sunday in 1957—Sept. 8—without a fatality.

The highway toll, coupled with five fire deaths, three shooting fatalities and one person who died in a plane crash, gave the state an over-all count of 31 dead in accidents over the holiday.

Highway deaths were far lower this year than "the black record" of about 50 deaths over the Christmas weekend two years ago," according to Orin M. Lucas, State Police traffic analyst.

Across the nation, homeward-bound motorists, apparently shocked by the early rate of traffic deaths, slowed down during the weekend to save the nation from posting a record Christmas holiday highway fatality toll.

The National Safety Council said the four-day toll, which appeared headed for an all-time high at the start, slackened off in the final two days. The council said the count probably would wind up somewhat above its pre-holiday estimate of 620 traffic deaths.

Safety officials said the improvement in the traffic death rate stemmed from the "shock" of the early fatality pace.

California counted about one-tenth of the nation's highway fatalities with 59. Texas had 46, Illinois 38, New York 34, Ohio 27, Pennsylvania and North Carolina 25 each, Michigan 23, Florida and Virginia 18 each and Indiana 17.

Wreckage Lies in Peach Orchard

VISIBILITY WAS 45 YARDS — His Cessna 140A plane apparently out of gas, William R. Quye of 968 Kenilworth St., a 22-year-old student pilot, died when the craft plunged to the earth in a fog-covered peach orchard near Romeo. Romeo State Police said visibility was only about 15 yards. Quye was flying alone in the rented plane.

Goes Down in Fog Near Romeo

Air Crash Kills City Man

A 22-year-old Pontiac man was killed Sunday afternoon when his rented plane narrowly missed a house and crashed in a fog-shrouded peach orchard in Washington Township seven miles southwest of Romeo.

William R. Quye, of 968 Kenilworth St., was dead when Harry W. Bell, 41, and his daughter, Valerie, 15, arrived at the scene moments later.

Romeo State Police said Quye, a student pilot, suffered a fractured skull when his head hit the plane's instrument panel.

Bell said he and his family were watching television shortly after 4 p.m. when they heard a "thud and a swish."

"We thought it was a car at first. Then when we went outside we saw limbs from our big oak tree strewn all over the front yard, Bell said.

A piece of the plane's right wing tip and glass also were found on the ground.

The plane, a Cessna 140A, hit the top of the tree, spun out of control above the house and crashed just 50 yards short of an open field. Visibility was about 15 yards, state police said.

The pilot, who had about 45 hours flying time to his credit, had left Pontiac Municipal Airport at 2:15 p.m. on a flight to Lapeer and Port Huron. He had been out about two hours, having stopped at Lapeer and Port Huron airports after leaving Pontiac, according to Romeo State Police Corp. Henry DeLooff.

He said Quye had put 11½ gallons of gas in the plane before he left Pontiac Airport, but that state troopers found no gas in the tank.

Civil Aeronautics Administration inspectors were to investigate the wreckage this morning.

The plane is owned by J. R. Greenhalgh, of 75 Ottawa Dr., Pontiac, who owns and operates the Northern Flying Service at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

A neighbor of the Bells, Paul Kyle, 26, who was home with his wife, and three children, said he heard the plane flying low, "right over our roof."

"We thought it was going to hit our house, and then we heard a crash. It sounded like an explosion," Kyle said.

He was the second man on the scene.

In the Bell home when the crash occurred were Bell, his wife, their three daughters and a son.

A neighbor's child and Bell's father also were in the house.

Police said they caught Richard Dawson, 37, St. Louis, Mo., with one of the missing trains under his shirt and five others stuffed in a paper bag.

The trains — the miniature variety — were taken from a display.

Asked why he did it, Dawson replied simply: "I love trains."

He was held on a preliminary charge of larceny.

15 in Oakland Hurt but No Deaths Listed

Road Conditions Force Traffic to Move at Snail's Pace

Thick fog which blanketed Oakland County and slippery roads today were blamed for one of the highest weekend county traffic accident tolls of 1958.

Twenty-six smashups were reported to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department from 8 a.m. Saturday through mid-morning today.

Fifteen persons were hurt in 12 injury accidents reported to sheriff's deputies. The other 14 mishaps were property damage accidents.

At one point late Sunday afternoon, eight accidents were reported during a span of about 2½ hours, three of them involving injured persons.

Within an hour and 40 minutes Sunday morning, two accidents were reported, with eight persons injured.

Most of the mishaps were caused by fog and slippery roads.

State Police at the Pontiac Post reported more than a dozen wrecks over the weekend, half of them involving injuries.

The Redford State Police Post reported 15 property damage and five injury accidents since midnight Saturday.

"There were more accidents reported for during holiday period over the past few days than in any other similar period I can remember," Sheriff Frank W. Irons said.

Irons expressed a feeling of relief this morning as Oakland County escaped the holiday weekend's hazardous weather conditions with only two traffic fatalities.

"Most of the accidents were due to a heavy unseasonal fog which not only cut visibility to a few feet in many sections, but put a fine coat of ice on roads and highways," Irons said.

"We were extremely fortunate that the death count was held to two in the face of highway conditions and the number of accidents reported."

From noon Saturday through mid-morning today, 11 accidents were reported in the city of Pontiac.

Three of the accidents involved injuries.

Patrolman David H. Slater of the Pontiac Police Department Traffic Bureau said the city's weekend accident total was one of the highest of the year.

Serious injury accidents were prevented because the fog forced drivers to proceed cautiously, Slater said.

The fog was dissipating slowly this morning, but drivers were warned by authorities that some roads are still slippery and snow flurries are expected tonight.

Irons warned drivers on county roads to be "extremely cautious" during periods of the day or night when fog prevails. The visibility is near zero and the pavement is treacherous when slippery.

"The best thing is just not to do any driving unless it is absolutely necessary and, if you must drive, keep your speed down," Irons advised.

Low of 20-Tonight Forecast for Area

A few scattered snow flurries are forecast for tonight with the low temperature expected to dip to 20 degrees. Tomorrow will be cloudy with a high of 30, and moderate southerly winds.

In its five-day forecast, the U.S. Weather Bureau predicts temperatures will average 4-5 degrees above the normal high of 34 and normal low of 20. Tonight and Tuesday are to be colder but Wednesday and Thursday will be warmer.

Precipitation will total two- to three-tenths of an inch as snow flurries tonight and some snow or rain again near the end of the week is forecast.

Jack Kevorkian is an enthusiastic Pontiac physician who has dared to rekindle one of the touchiest subjects in the medical world.

The 30-year-old researcher has advocated that condemned prisoners be allowed to volunteer for painless medical experiment under anesthesia before they are put to death.

of his address before the Criminology Section of the American Association for the advancement of Science in Washington, D.C., Saturday.

Back in Pontiac, where he lives with his parents at 294 Cherokee Rd., the young doctor conceded that his idea is a startling one.

"I've not experienced any public reaction as yet," he said, "but the professional people with whom I've talked generally have taken the idea under serious consideration."

Kevorkian felt that the strongest objections to his proposal would come from those quarters that oppose capital punishment itself, not medical experimentation.

Possible in 10 Years

Space Lab Would Hold 10 Men Up for Six Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new plan for a gigantic wheel in space — intended as a laboratory 500 miles above the earth — was proposed today.

Scientists from the Lockheed Missile Systems Division of Sunnyvale, Calif., predicted that the space art will be advanced enough to do the job in about 10 years. It would cost more than two billion dollars, they estimated.

The wheel with five spokes would be assembled in space, with ready-made units fired up to a construction crew.

In operation it would support a scientific crew of 10 men for six months completely independent of earth supply. It would have a nuclear power supply as it orbited around the earth.

The basic rocket which would boost the space station compartments into orbit would be a three-stage giant, according to the Lockheed proposal.

The first stage would develop a million pounds of thrust and is to be designed to be recoverable. The second stage would add 300,000 pounds of thrust, or something less than the total power of the largest U.S. missile to date, the Atlas. The third stage would lift the payload into orbit.

As soon as four of the sealed self-sufficient compartments were blasted into orbit, the crew would move in with a rocket designed for assembly work and another designed to return to earth.

The assembly rocket is dubbed by Lockheed scientists the Astro-tug. Its job would be to capture all of the space laboratory compartments as they are fired aloft, and fit them together into the wheel-shaped space laboratory.

The Lockheed proposal was presented by Saunders B. Kramer and Richard A. Byers before the fifth annual meeting of the American Astronautical Society of the American Assn. for Advancement of Science.

The Astro-tug would have to locate, identify and capture the 23 space station compartments as they were needed. Some 15 compartments would go into the rim of the wheel alone.

Crewmen would be able to return to earth in a special re-entry vehicle which would glide gradually into the earth's atmosphere and drop below the speed of sound some 25,000 feet above the earth.

At this stage the return vehicle would turn on a turbojet engine and fly as a normal airplane until it was captured piggy-back style by a mother airplane and brought in for a landing.

State Inaugural Takes 17 Hours

Williams Sixth Straight Term Without Precedent in History of Nation

LANSING (AP) — Democratic Gov. Williams' sixth 'straight' inaugural — without precedent in the history of the nation — is going to consume the better part of New Year's Day.

Thursday's inauguration, including the formal program and side activities, will take up 17½ hours.

On a packed schedule of events will be the swearing-in ceremonies on the east porch of the State Capitol, a luncheon talk by Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler and Williams' own inaugural speech.

Mrs. Nancy Williams, the Governor's wife, will be forced to pass up some of the day-long activity. She is recovering from a recent illness.

She expects to be present at the grand march of the inaugural ball, however. She and her husband plan to lead the grand march at the Civic Center as they have done in his past inaugurations. The ball caps the day's events.

Official Held in West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — A top official of a private West Berlin intelligence agency has been arrested on suspicion of being a Communist spy.

West Berlin police said the man is Dr. Kurt Werner, 59, head of an economic section of the League of Free Jurists.

The Free Jurists — an organization which has received moral and financial support from prominent lawyers in the Western world — gathers evidence of legal injustice in Communist East Germany. It has widespread underground contacts in the East.

Werner knew the names of some of these underground contacts, and police suspect him of having given the East German secret police information on them. A spokesman for the Free Jurists said three contacts have been arrested as a result of Werner. Five others fled to West Berlin.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Japanese admiral has told a U.S. schoolboy his fear of a trap led him to withdraw his fleet when the Americans invaded the Philippines in World War II.

The 2,000-word letter of Vice Adm. Kiyohide Shima to 16-year-old Bill Frazer of Pacoima, Calif., broke the admiral's long silence on a mystery which has puzzled war historians.

Frazer had asked Shima why he pulled his forces out of the crucial battle of Leyte Gulf in October 1944. The youth will use the information in a history term paper in junior high school.

Expressing gratitude for the admiral's response, young Frazer added: "I hope I get an A on the paper."

While U.S. forces were fighting for a foothold on Leyte Island, Shima withdrew the ships of his 2nd Division from a running sea battle in Surigao Strait.

The admiral wrote Frazer that the Japanese 1st Division of Vice Adm. Nishimura was destroyed by the Americans. His own flagship, the heavy cruiser Nachi, was crippled by a collision with another Japanese cruiser and was limited to a top speed of 20 knots.

All factors made him decide the Americans were waiting for him in force. "It was quite clear that we should only fall into a ready trap," Shima said. "I considered all such things — events, circumstances, possibilities. Then I came to my decision that it would be better to retreat from the strait and wait a chance to know how everything went."

The Los Angeles Examiner, which published the copyrighted letter, said it is "certain to become one of the great historical documents of the war in the Pacific."

Jap Prime Minister Faces Party Threat

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi is facing his most serious political threat in 19 months in office following his failure to persuade three Cabinet members not to resign.

The three are members of Kishi's Liberal Democratic party. They are part of a group of dissidents who want a bigger share of top party jobs and Cabinet posts.

The crisis was touched off when Kishi tried to get a bill through Parliament giving police greater powers to crack down on leftist demonstrations. The Socialists forced him to back down. The split is based largely on personality clashes and does not involve Kishi's firm pro-Western stand or his domestic policies.

BERLIN (AP) — A top official of a private West Berlin intelligence agency has been arrested on suspicion of being a Communist spy.

West Berlin police said the man is Dr. Kurt Werner, 59, head of an economic section of the League of Free Jurists.

The Free Jurists — an organization which has received moral and financial support from prominent lawyers in the Western world — gathers evidence of legal injustice in Communist East Germany. It has widespread underground contacts in the East.

Werner knew the names of some of these underground contacts, and police suspect him of having given the East German secret police information on them. A spokesman for the Free Jurists said three contacts have been arrested as a result of Werner. Five others fled to West Berlin.

Canned citrus juices have soared by more than 1500 per cent since World War II and consumption of fresh oranges and grapefruit has diminished.

Man Who Put Hole in Life Savers Dies

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP)—Edward John Noble, the man who put the hole in Life Savers, died Sunday at his home here after an illness of several months. He was 76.

Noble, a businessman and philanthropist, built the candy mints into a multimillion-dollar operation.

In 1913, he and J. Roy Allen bought the Life Saver business for $2,900 from Clarence A. Crane. Besides changing the hard mint's design, Noble wrapped the candy in eye-catching paper and designed a display carton.

Within seven years, Life Savers were bringing in a million dollars in profits. By 1938, the business was worth 22 million dollars.

WOLVERINE — M. C. Burton, former star of the Muskegon Heights state championship class A basketball team, is Michigan's top scorer and rounder in five games to date. Burton is one reason why the Wolverines are favored in the 7th annual Motor City Cage Classic which opens tonight in Detroit.

NBA All-Star Game Jan. 23

Pettit, Sears Lead Balloting

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Pettit, Ed Macauley of St. Louis will score ace of the St. Louis Hawks and Kenny Sears, New York Knickerbocker star, topped the voting for the National Basketball Assn. all-star game today.

The game, between hand-picked aces of the Western and Eastern divisions, will be played in Detroit Jan. 23. Writers and sportscasters selected 10 players announced by League President Maurice Podoloff. The remaining five players on each squad will be named by the coaches next week.

The lone newcomer to the squad is Elgin Baylor, former Seattle All-American now in his first year with the Minneapolis Lakers. The other nine have seen action in the annual all-star event with Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics booked for his ninth successive game.

In addition to Sears and Cousy, the Eastern squad is composed of Bill Russell and Bill Sharman of Boston and Paul Arizin of the Philadelphia Warriors.

Members of the Western squad in addition to Pettit and Baylor are Cliff Hagan and Slater Martin of the Hawks and Gene Shue of Detroit.

Army, Michigan Favored in Classic

Annual Detroit Cage Tourney Opens Tonight

Wolverine Quint Top Choice to Win Motor City Meet

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Midwest basketball prestige gets tested by Eastern challengers tonight in the 7th annual Motor City Classic at the U. of D. Memorial building.

U. of D., a sophomore-laden darkhorse, meets a veteran Army team at 7:30 p.m. with the University of Michigan, tourney favorite, facing experienced Princeton in the second game about 9:15 p.m.

The favored Wolverines may have their hands full with the Ivy Leaguers who gave Ohio State a rough time at Columbus on a nationally televised game.

Princeton, coached by ex-Michigan player and coach Frank "Cappy" Cappon, held 12 point leads against the Buckeyes before falling, 75-66.

The Tigers will try to match Michigan's three-ply scoring and rebounding attack, made up of George Lee, M. C. Burton and John Tidwell, with 6-5 senior captain Carl Belz and a sparkling junior Jim Brangan.

Burton has hit 94 points in three games while Tidwell, a sophomore, has totaled 91 points. Lee, former Highland Park High School ace, has hit 88 points to date.

Princeton has four seniors from the squad which won 20 and lost 6 last season and could give Michigan trouble with its experienced reserves.

Army and U. of D. are figured to be the weaker of the teams in the classic, but the Cadets rate the favorites' role over the Titans in the opener.

A classy sophomore, Lee-Sager who has piled up 105 points in five games, is Army's key performer. As a pebble he was being touted as the best player to hit the court at West Point.

Standing 6-5, Sager entered the academy under the new rule which changed the height limit from 6-4. Captain of the Army quintet is a Michigan boy—Chuck Darby of Sturgis. Darby was on the football team with Pete Dawkins in his sophomore year but he dropped the gridiron to stick with the basketball team.

U. of D. has shown improvement in the past couple games with big George Heger, a 6-4 junior, doing a sensational job rebounding as well as scoring. Walled Lake's Larry Hughes, 6-4 sophomore has also been impressive since taking over a starting forward spot in the last four games.

The Titans have the height and depth but not the polish. They could surprise the Cadets if hit from the floor as accurately as they did against Delaware and North Dakota State in their last two games.

The Motor City field is one of the best in its seven years. The four teams have compiled an overall record of 18 wins and six losses. Michigan is (4-1), Army (4-1), Princeton (4-2) and U. of D. (6-2).

Spartans Battle Duke Tonight in Dixie Classic

Cage Powers Invade Raleigh

By The Associated Press

The college basketball fan heard giving out with "I wish I were in Dixie" isn't whistling in the dark. He's in tune with the times, brother.

While more than a dozen holiday tournaments are on the schedule today, the majority of the big boys have converged on Raleigh, N.C., for the Dixie Classic.

Four of the nation's top ten teams entered the Dixie, and tomorrow night's semifinals could see them banging heads in a doubleheader, providing all survive today's opening round.

Cincinnati (No. 2) met Wake Forest, North Carolina (No. 3) faced Louisville, N.C. State (No. 6) was paired with Yale and Michigan State (No. 9) took on Duke.

Meanwhile, unbeaten Kentucky, idle for a week after winning its own invitational tournament, puts its No. 1 ranking on the line against Navy at Lexington. The Kentucky boys have won eight this season.

Championships will be decided tonight in the ECAC Holiday Festival at New York, the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City, the Far West Classic at Corvallis, Ore., the Queen City Invitational at Buffalo, N. Y., and the Southwest Conference tournament at Houston.

The Big Eight tourney reaches the semifinals with the championship tomorrow night.

The Motor City, Orange Bowl, Gator Bowl, Sugar Bowl and Richmond Invitational tournaments, all two-day, four-team affairs, get underway tonight, while the Carousell tournament at Charlotte, N.C., an eight-team battle like the Dixie, opened with a twinbill this afternoon.

The ECAC final matches St. Joseph's of Philadelphia and St. John's of New York, a pair of once-beaten, crowd-pleasing teams that look to the class of the East. St. Joseph's outscored Utah 79-65 and St. John's thrashed previously unbeaten Dayton 76-63 in Saturday's semifinals.

With pre-tourney favorite Xavier of Ohio, No. 10 nationally, on the sidelines, host Oklahoma City and Duquesne clash for the All-College title. Oklahoma City stopped Xavier 81-54 and Duquesne beat Bowling Green 69-65 to set up the championship pairing.

Favorite Texas Christian and darkhorse Texas A&M barely made it, 60-59 over Rice, while TCU rolled over Southern Methodist 74-64.

Host Oregon State tackles invading Iowa in the Far West showdown. Iowa eased through the first round of the four-team tourney, 82-74 over Wyoming while Oregon State was extended by Air Force 49-47.

Hometown Canisius and Dartmouth, the defending Ivy League champion, play the big one in the Queen City. Canisius crushed Seton Hall 72-45, while Dartmouth started with an 88-75 victory over Brigham Young in the Saturday openers.

Fourth-ranked Kansas State lived up to its favorite tag with a 69-66 first round triumph over Missouri in the Big Eight's first round at Kansas City, but Oklahoma State, figured to give the K-State Wildcats the most competition, went under 55-48 to Nebraska. Colorado, 63-52 victor over Kansas, meets Nebraska in one semi-tonight, while K-State plays Oklahoma, which whipped Iowa State 68-65.

Whether the treacherous footing had anything to do with the results is debatable. Actually, all the players had the same problems with the slippery grass.

One thing is certain—there will be repercussions among the brass of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn. over Jones' use of MacKay. Had big Barry come through, Jones would have been hailed as a master strategist.

But MacKay gave an undistinguished performance, to say the least. He has one more chance in his second singles match. But he'll have to do a lot of improving if he hopes to make amends. Jones now, of course, is fair game for the second-guessers.

Olmedo, a 22-year-old Peruvian—and the first foreigner ever to play on a U.S. Davis Cup team—more than acquitted himself before the sellout crowd of 18,500.

He hauled himself off the deck a couple of times and slugged it out toe-to-toe with Anderson until the tide of battle changed.

Alex, the National Collegiate champion from Southern California, also had his troubles with the linesmen in the early stages of the match, but didn't permit the calls to trouble him.

In the first set, Olmedo slashed what appeared to be an ace past Anderson, but the linesman called it out. Anderson also thought it was good, but as it turned out, Olmedo's second service got the point for him.

Later in the first set, Anderson was ahead, 6-5, and ran up a 40-15 margin on Olmedo's service. But Alex forced Anderson into two errors, then grabbed two more quick points and it was tied at 6-6.

In the third set again, Anderson made a bid to chop down Olmedo. But Alex again wouldn't give. Anderson was ahead, 7-6, on Olmedo's service. No fewer than five times was the Aussie at set point, only to have Olmedo come storming back at him, and finally win the game.

So now it's a brand new match. The doubles are scheduled for tomorrow with Olmedo teaming with Richardson and Cooper pairing with left handed Neale Fraser for the Australians. It is in the doubles that the Americans were conceded their best chance in pre-match forecasts.

The courts were soaked from a tropical storm the night before, and all four players donned spikes at one time or another. Despite the canvas covering, some rain seeped onto the turf of the Milton Tennis Stadium.

Host Oregon State tackles invading Iowa in the Far West showdown. Iowa eased through the first round of the four-team tourney, 82-74 over Wyoming while Oregon State was extended by Air Force 49-47.

Hometown Canisius and Dartmouth, the defending Ivy League champion, play the big one in the Queen City. Canisius crushed Seton Hall 72-45, while Dartmouth started with an 88-75 victory over Brigham Young in the Saturday openers.

Fourth-ranked Kansas State lived up to its favorite tag with a 69-66 first round triumph over Missouri in the Big Eight's first round at Kansas City, but Oklahoma State, figured to give the K-State Wildcats the most competition, went under 55-48 to Nebraska. Colorado, 63-52 victor over Kansas, meets Nebraska in one semi-tonight, while K-State plays Oklahoma, which whipped Iowa State 68-65.

Whether the treacherous footing had anything to do with the results is debatable. Actually, all the players had the same problems with the slippery grass.

One thing is certain—there will be repercussions among the brass of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn. over Jones' use of MacKay. Had big Barry come through, Jones would have been hailed as a master strategist.

But MacKay gave an undistinguished performance, to say the least. He has one more chance in his second singles match. But he'll have to do a lot of improving if he hopes to make amends. Jones now, of course, is fair game for the second-guessers.

Olmedo, a 22-year-old Peruvian—and the first foreigner ever to play on a U.S. Davis Cup team—more than acquitted himself before the sellout crowd of 18,500.

He hauled himself off the deck a couple of times and slugged it out toe-to-toe with Anderson until the tide of battle changed.

Alex, the National Collegiate champion from Southern California, also had his troubles with the linesmen in the early stages of the match, but didn't permit the calls to trouble him.

In the first set, Olmedo slashed what appeared to be an ace past Anderson, but the linesman called it out. Anderson also thought it was good, but as it turned out, Olmedo's second service got the point for him.

Later in the first set, Anderson was ahead, 6-5, and ran up a 40-15 margin on Olmedo's service. But Alex forced Anderson into two errors, then grabbed two more quick points and it was tied at 6-6.

In the third set again, Anderson made a bid to chop down Olmedo. But Alex again wouldn't give. Anderson was ahead, 7-6, on Olmedo's service. No fewer than five times was the Aussie at set point, only to have Olmedo come storming back at him, and finally win the game.

So now it's a brand new match. The doubles are scheduled for tomorrow with Olmedo teaming with Richardson and Cooper pairing with left handed Neale Fraser for the Australians. It is in the doubles that the Americans were conceded their best chance in pre-match forecasts.

The courts were soaked from a tropical storm the night before, and all four players donned spikes at one time or another. Despite the canvas covering, some rain seeped onto the turf of the Milton Tennis Stadium.

Whether the treacherous footing had anything to do with the results is debatable. Actually, all the players had the same problems with the slippery grass.

bleheader, providing all survive today's opening round.

Cincinnati (No. 2) met Wake Forest, North Carolina (No. 3) faced Louisville, N.C. State (No. 6) was paired with Yale and Michigan State (No. 9) took on Duke.

Meanwhile, unbeaten Kentucky, idle for a week after winning its own invitational tournament, puts its No. 1 ranking on the line against Navy at Lexington. The Kentucky boys have won eight this season.

Championships will be decided tonight in the ECAC Holiday Festival at New York, the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City, the Far West Classic at Corvallis, Ore., the Queen City Invitational at Buffalo, N. Y., and the Southwest Conference tournament at Houston.

The Big Eight tourney reaches the semifinals with the championship tomorrow night.

The Motor City, Orange Bowl, Gator Bowl, Sugar Bowl and Richmond Invitational tournaments, all two-day, four-team affairs, get underway tonight, while the Carousell tournament at Charlotte, N.C., an eight-team battle like the Dixie, opened with a twinbill this afternoon.

The ECAC final matches St. Joseph's of Philadelphia and St. John's of New York, a pair of once-beaten, crowd-pleasing teams that look to the class of the East. St. Joseph's outscored Utah 79-65 and St. John's thrashed previously unbeaten Dayton 76-63 in Saturday's semifinals.

With pre-tourney favorite Xavier of Ohio, No. 10 nationally, on the sidelines, host Oklahoma City and Duquesne clash for the All-College title. Oklahoma City stopped Xavier 81-54 and Duquesne beat Bowling Green 69-65 to set up the championship pairing.

Favorite Texas Christian and darkhorse Texas A&M barely made it, 60-59 over Rice, while TCU rolled over Southern Methodist 74-64.

Garden to Honor Poet

BROOKVILLE, N.Y. (UPI)—The Alpha Xi Chapter of the Phi Sigma Delta fraternity at C. W. Post College combed the words of poet Walt Whitman and found he mentioned 80 different kinds of plants, trees and shrubs. In honor of Whitman, the students are planting a garden in which all of these flora will be represented.

THE STORY: Angus Graham, inviolated out of the Navy, is amused at being hired by Sir Claude as a "haison officer" for the simple job of courier on a superlative luxury bus tour in Europe. He's filling in for his friend, Wax Seal. The passenger list sounds impressive—Lord Lorrimer, father of a Navy admiral, and his wife, Admiral Peterson and his psychic sister, Mrs. Denby-Warre, the irrefragable young Sir Maurice Tarrant, Stanton Holt, an American who asks to meet Miss Seton, with the warm, humorous, intelligent eyes. The crossing to France is uneventful. Miss Seton confides to Angus she is half-sister to Rosamund Blair, who has just completed a film in Italy and is sailing to South America. She plans to surprise Rosamund by meeting her boat in Lisbon. In the middle of the night, Miss Seton receives a mysterious phone call with bad news. Percy Brewer, the driver, reports there were prowlers in the night. Someone tried the garage bolts. Angus and Angela are in love, but Angus feels he should have something to offer her. Yule complains that Tarrant is a nuisance and believes he's annoying Miss Clunes. It's late when they arrive at Beynac, a two night stop. Though they had planned that Angus would speak to Lord Lorrimer at dinner, Angela has already told him of their plans.

CHAPTER XII

Angus said, "Angela, you haven't got a photograph of me."

"I have, don't you remember the rugger fifteen? As captain, you were in the middle, but it wasn't a very good likeness. It's been on my dressing table for years. Father said, of course, that he wished you had more. More money, he meant."

"Did he—?"

"Did he what?"

"Did he mention Yule?"

"No. Why should he?"

"Because Yule's got a lot to offer, and he's obviously in love with you. I wondered if your father—"

"My father," she pointed out, "doesn't regard me as a pewter pot, to be handed to the one with the highest score. I like Lionel, but that's all." She glanced over Angus' shoulder. "Father's coming. Will you have any work to do after dinner?"

"Not much. I shall have to go along and see Ferdy."

"Can I come too?"

"Of course."

"Then I'll meet you in the garage."

NOT VERY ROMANTIC

"That," said Lord Lorrimer, joining them, "sounds rather less than romantic." He looked down at his daughter.

"Wouldn't it be as well," he asked, "if I had a word with this young man alone?"

"No, I can't risk it," she said. "He's still got a few pockets of resistance, and you might find them. He's keeping a lot of scruples in reserve. I don't trust either of you."

He smiled, and waved Angus to a chair.

"Let's sit down," he said. "But first, let's order drinks."

When they were brought, he raised his glass with a rather weary smile.

"To headstrong women," he said. He put his glass down and studied the two young people. "It's been said before, but I'll say it again. Life plays strange tricks."

"This isn't a trick," said Angela.

"This is a reward for single-mindedness. I waited for him, and I got him."

"I love Angela, and I'd like to marry her, sir," said Angus.

"I've already told her that I've nothing much to offer her."

"And she, of course, gave up the whole idea at once?"

"She—?" Angus sounded a little hoarse. "It might not sound much of a future for her, but she says she's prepared to risk it. I feel that she— that I— I feel—"

"That's what I feel, too," said Angela.

MEANS NEW LIFE

"There's only one thing I'm not quite certain about," went on Angus, "and that is whether she understands that if she marries me, she'll have to make an entirely new life in entirely new conditions."

"You might do very well in Canada," said Lord Lorrimer.

"I hope I shall."

"You're not, Angela tells me, too keen on leaving England?"

"I'm lucky to have a job to go out to, and I'm grateful."

"But you don't want to go?"

"No."

"Why not?"

Angus hesitated.

"I— It's nothing I can put into words, I'm afraid. My father loved Europe, and so do I. He saw a good deal of it, and so— on Naval leaves— did I."

"But I only saw a fraction of what I wanted to see. There's— there's so much more. I wanted to— I'd planned to write a minor sort of travel history-book, nothing ambitious, just an account of the old battles, the old campaigns, told with photographs of the sites as they are now."

"The threads of English history— you find them woven into so many parts of Europe."

"Tourists pass old battlefields, places where their own kings lived or died, and hardly ever know it. I wanted to— I told you it wasn't very easy to explain."

There was a long silence.

"I don't think," said Lord Lorrimer slowly at last, "that you're going to make a very good oil man."

"I can try."

"I could perhaps write and put you in touch with one or two people in England who might offer you something."

"It's kind of you, sir, but I'm not easy to place. We could perhaps discuss it at the end of the journey."

"Why not now?" asked Angela.

"Because," answered her father, "he thinks that you're still pursuing romantic ideas about him."

USING HIS HEAD

"Is that what you think?" she asked Angus.

He smiled.

"No. No, I don't—but I'd like to be quite sure."

"I came down this evening," said Lord Lorrimer, after a pause, "to beg you to keep your heads. But Angus seems to me to be not only keeping his head, but also using it."

"That's what's wrong with him," complained Angela. "He uses it too much."

Lord Lorrimer did not seem to hear. He was staring out at the darkness beyond the terrace, and when he spoke, it was half to himself.

"You have to grasp happiness when it's offered," he said slowly. "It's— it's fugitive. You have to take it while you can. If you see a chance now— seize it, for God's sake, and don't let it go."

They sat in silence. There was a stir inside the house. The diners began to come out on to the terrace, but the three scarcely saw them, for they were busy with their thoughts.

Angus, with Angela's hand touching his own, realized that though she had seemed to travel too swiftly, she had had her own landmarks to guide her.

It was true that although he and she had seen little of one another, her interest in him had not been based solely on romantic dreams. She had had a grandstand view of his life.

What she had not seen, her brother had relayed to her. If there had been nothing of any special interest to report, there had at least been nothing lurid. She had traveled fast—but she had not traveled in ignorance.

EAT IN SILENCE

Dinner came, and they ate, but for the most part in silence. Lord Lorrimer's thoughts had gone far away. He seemed lost in sober dreams.

When dinner was over, he said good night to the others and went into the house. Mrs. Zollner came across to take his place and to talk to Angela, and Angus left them and went to the office to order the variety of breakfasts expected by the passengers.

When he went to say good night to Ferdy, he found that Angela had got there before him and was seated on a long bench in the courtyard, deep in conversation with the driver.

The yard was dark, except for the light streaming from the wide doors of the garage and from the room beside it in which Ferdy was to sleep.

"Any likelihood of more bolt-rattling tonight?" Angus asked him.

"Don't think so, sir. I think we've left the snoopers behind. We might get a few of the village lads looking in through the windows, but that's all."

They watched as he superintended the cleaning of the coach, then they said good night to him and wandered slowly across the courtyard, under the great archway and on to the dark, deserted road.

Neither spoke for some time, and when at last Angela broke the silence, her voice sounded quiet and brooding, like the night.

"One thing I can't understand," she said, "is why my father said he'd write to his friends about a job for you. Why write? Why not talk to them?"

"One reason is that he isn't in England."

"But he will be. We're not staying long in Lisbon. He could see people when he goes home, and talk to them about you."

"Perhaps he feels that my time in England is running short."

Hollywood Headlines

Movie, TV Stars Reveal New Year's Resolutions

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD — It's resolution time again, and Hollywood's movie and television stars have solemnly delivered up their personal pledges for the new year.

Here are some of them:

Jim (Gunsmoke) Arness—"To brush up on my fast draw so my son Rolfe can't beat me at it any more."

Charles Boyer—"To stop telling people I never said, 'Come with me to the Casbah.' They don't believe me anyway."

Zsa Zsa Gabor—"To go a year without falling madly in love."

Jack Benny—"To do my bit for Los Angeles air pollution by keeping my Maxwell car in the garage and Phil Harris on the wagon."

Tony Randall—"To keep on with my weight-lifting even though I'm still a coward."

Gale Storm—"To keep others from doing unto me as I would do unto them when I lose my temper."

Lassie—"I'm tired of working like a dog. In 1959, I'm going to take off four to six weeks between early July and early September (the dog days)."

Joan Collins—"I resolve not to do it any more, whatever it is."

Red Skelton—"To find a talking part in one of my shows for my parrot."

Walter Brennan—"I celebrated my 64th birthday last summer. When a man's done that he no longer worries about New Year's resolutions."

Robert Wagner—"To learn how to cook better than my wife (Natalie Wood) so I won't starve to death."

Natalie Wood—"To learn how to cook."

Warn Against Berlin 'Aggression'

Reds Issue War Threat

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union today rattled its intercontinental ballistic missile, and a hydrogen-bomb head for it, in defense of East Germany.

"Any provocation in West Berlin and attempted aggression" against East Germany "may start a major war," said the Soviet communist party newspaper Pravda. It was quoted by Moscow radio.

The same threat was made before in trying to pressure the West to accept Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposal that the Allies quit West Berlin and let it be turned into a disarmed free city.

The Soviets say they are going to turn over control of all traffic to and from West Berlin to the East German Communists, and that any attempt to defy their controls will constitute aggression against East Germany.

"The Soviet people and its valiant armed forces," Pravda said, "will give a crushing rebuff to those who dare encroach upon the state interests of the U.S.S.R. and unleash a war against it."

About 60 per cent of all the automobiles sold in the U.S. are on time payments or installment purchase plans.

He says he still gets plenty of exercise and doesn't smoke or drink.

Britton lives in the Methodist Home for the Aged in Grand Rapids and every day walks a minimum of six blocks doing errands for "younger" people at the home—those in their late sixties and seventies.

Britton related a couple of close brushes with death he had many years ago.

In 1928 he had pneumonia and a doctor told his wife one night that if he lived until morning he would probably live to be 100.

"Well, here I am," said Britton. "The doctor's gone, so is my wife (she died about 20 years ago) and I'm still here."

He also had typhoid fever and smallpox, which in his day were often fatal.

Model Prison at Joliet Has 100 Years Service

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — The famous prison here is celebrating its 100th birthday this year.

Warden Joseph E. Ragen made Statesville into a model prison for model prisoners whose lifetime hope is to get outside. Until he came, rehabilitation was merely a word in the dictionary. Today Statesville and Joliet have industries inside prison walls that keep prisoners busy.

Man Draws Fine, Jail for Smashing His Car

DIXON, Ill. (AP) — Arthur L. Wolf, 21, go so mad at his stalled car that he took a crank and smashed the windshield, headlights and side windows and was hammering on a fender when arrested.

The car gears had jammed on a parking lot.

Police Magistrate Lawrence E. Boos fined Wolf $25 and costs on a disorderly conduct charge and jailed him when he was unable to pay the fine.

Robert (Trackdown) Culp—"To give my analyst one more chance to take the beat out of my generation."

Richard (Have Gun, Will Travel) Boone—"Have pun, but won't use it."

Robert (Wagon Train) Horton—"To travel by plane."

Maurice Chevalier—"To continue to thank heaven for little girls."

Paul Newman—"Not to read Lolita again."

Alfred Hitchcock—"Never again to tell a New York taxi driver to speed up a little."

Rock Hudson—"To earn a navigator's license and become a first-class sailor. I owe it to my yacht."

Clifford Webb—"To stop having such big families." On the screen, that is. He had 12 children in "Cheaper by the Dozen" and has 17 in "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker."

Bobby Jordan, former "Angel of the Dead End Kids"—"To appear in a Broadway play. It's not the popularity, prestige or plaudits. It's the money."

Ann Sothern—"Each year, I make resolutions, but this year I quit. If they come true I'm shocked. If they don't I'm frustrated."
