

Viets Announce U.S. to Increase Commitment

At Pontiac Mall

Hudson's to Triple in Size

Plans to expand the J. L. Hudson Co.'s present one-story Pontiac Mall budget store into a full-line department store were announced today by Joseph L. Hudson Jr., president.

Construction is slated to begin next summer. The expanded store, occupying more than 285,000 square feet of floor space, is expected to be completed by the fall of 1966.

The present Mall store occupies about 84,000 square feet. The new structure will stand two stories high and have a basement merchandising floor. It will offer the same merchandise and service departments as does Hudson's Northland, Eastland and Westland stores, Hudson said.

"Enlargement of the Pontiac Mall store and its expansion to a full line Hudson's Department Store was necessitated by the pressing needs of the growing communities in this area," said Hudson.

"Hudson's Pontiac Mall store will serve 30 key Michigan communities with a population of one-half million people."

Included in the building plans is a new entrance, fronting on

Elizabeth Lake Road, which will lead into a new air-conditioned Mall from which one can enter Hudson's and a group of other new shops which are to be added to the center, according to Hudson.

Hudson's present main entrance will also continue to serve the new building. A beauty salon will also be located on the 125,000 square-foot first floor.

A restaurant will be located on the second floor, as will furniture, housewares, toy and service departments.

The basement level, occupying 80,000 square feet of space will be designed by Levine, Alper and Associates of Detroit. It will house Hudson's Budget Store selling departmental, office and service facilities.

Carter, Catsman Cleared in Flint Conspiracy Trial

Former Pontiac and Flint City Manager Robert A. Carter and Flint businessman Samuel M. Catsman were freed today of conspiracy charges in connection with a Flint land deal.

Visiting Circuit Judge Edward T. Kane directed a Genesee County jury to return a verdict of innocent on charges against the former Pontiac official.

ROBERT A. CARTER

In a separate ruling, Judge Kane found Catsman not guilty on the same charges.

Carter had maintained his innocence through the trial and preceding investigation that began with a grand jury probe.

Carter, 48, and Catsman, 59, were accused of conspiracy in the sale of property north of Port Huron which was to be used by Flint in a pipeline project to bring water from Lake Huron to the city.

They were accused of conspiring to cheat and defraud the City of Flint in a property sale involving Claude O. Darby Sr., a land purchasing agent for the city.

Judge Kane said there was not enough evidence against Carter. He referred to the ex-city manager as "a whipping boy," which the community generally looks around for in such a matter.

"You have suffered tremendously," the judge told Carter. Carter, according to Judge Kane, was in no way connected by circumstantial or direct evidence.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL

The judge added that the case against Catsman was circumstantial.

"I don't think Samuel Catsman conspired with anyone," said Judge Kane.

"Catsman did not have to conspire to buy the property. He did exactly what the City of Flint was going to do."

Utica Man Is Jailed in Wife's Death

A 30-year-old Utica steel worker faced arraignment in Justice Court today for the slaying of his wife yesterday.

Gerald Skrumbellos of 8630 Goodale was arrested yesterday by Utica police after his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Sox of Hazel Park, called police and told them Skrumbellos had killed her and said he had killed his 27-year-old wife, Audrey.

$91-Million School Aid Hike Asked

LANSING (AP)—A $91.3 million boost in state school aid was proposed yesterday by Lynn Bartlett, superintendent of public instruction.

He called the proposed jump to $472 million "strictly a first step" to reverse a downward of state percentage support for primary and secondary schools.

Bartlett said it was up to the legislature to find the money.

Key points of his program are a 10 per cent hike in basic per-pupil aid, a new $32 million program of special aid for poor districts, a $7.5 million aid program for underprivileged students and lesser jumps in several other special programs.

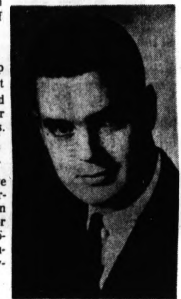

"Fifty million, 30 million, anything would help," Bartlett said. "But to significantly change this downward trend of state support we need this program."

LESS SUPPORT

State support of all school expenses has dropped from about 58 per cent in 1950 to about 43 per cent this year.

Bartlett estimated his program would boost this to 46-47 per cent.

He said $50 million more in each of the next two fiscal years would be needed even if the legislature approves his proposals in total for the 1965-66 budget year.

Retiree, 95, Looks Ahead

He Shares Rich Memories

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

The year 1869 was a momentous one.

During it, The National Prohibition Party was organized, the Westinghouse airbrake was patented, the Suez Canal was opened — oh yes, and Harry Orlay Whitfield was born on Dec. 11.

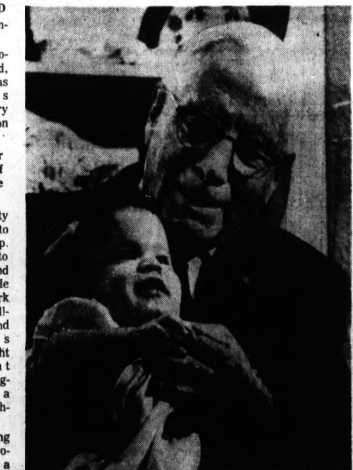

Since then, speaking for both self and canal, lots of water has flowed under the bridge.

Born on an Oakland County farm, the nonagenarian came to Pontiac (pop. 78,800) in 1893 to seek fame and fortune.

He went to work for a firm selling drugs and groceries — which might indicate that even then drug stores were branching out into other lines.

Three years later, the young man set up his own drug-grocery business which, after a move across the street, he conducted at 21 N. Saginaw until 1918.

20th Dixie Suspect Freed; Case Slated for Grand Jury

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — At the request of the Justice Department, a woman U.S. commissioner today freed a 20th man arrested last week in connection with the slayings of three civil rights workers in Mississippi.

Commissioner Verta Lee Sweatman dismissed the charge against James Edward Jordan, 38, during a preliminary hearing here that took only two minutes.

Nineteen other white men arrested in the case were freed yesterday at Meridian, Miss., when another woman commissioner, Esther Carter, refused to hear a purported confession on grounds it constituted hearsay evidence.

Government lawyers said it was an unprecedented action. They refused to offer any other evidence at the Meridian hearing and announced they would ask that a federal grand jury be convened as quickly as possible to consider the evidence.

The FBI had arrested 21 white men Dec. 4 in connection with the slayings last summer near Philadelphia, Miss., of the civil rights trio — two white New Yorkers and a Mississippi Negro.

The 21st man, Horace D. Barnette, was arrested near Shreveport, La., and was not affected by the preliminary hearings in Mississippi.

U.S. Commissioner James Barton in Shreveport said he has not received any communication from the Justice Department or from Barnette's counsel.

Barton has not set a date for a hearing. Barnette, 25, of Cullen, La., is free under $5,000 bond on a conspiracy charge.

Jordan, also arrested on a conspiracy charge, is a construction worker at the space testing facility in Hancock County, Miss.

YWCA Starts Fund Drive for a New Headquarters

The Young Women's Christian Association of Pontiac launched its YWCA Building Fund campaign today to raise $150,000 for the purchase and remodeling of new headquarters at 269 W. Huron.

The drive will start with solicitation for advance gifts, corporate and business organization contributions, and gifts from individuals.

A general solicitation from individuals will begin after the first of the year, according to Alice D. Serrell, general chairman of the building committee.

The Pontiac YWCA, organized in 1943-44, has long outgrown its present headquarters at 22 Franklin Blvd., she pointed out.

The present membership is approximately 1,200 of which 300 are Y-Teen Club members.

There are six senior and junior Hi-Y Teen clubs in Pontiac, Clarkson, and Lake Orion.

PROPERTY OPTION

Pontiac offers the only headquarters-based YWCA in Metropolitan Detroit and Flint.

The YWCA of Pontiac has an option on the property. It proposes to purchase. This option expires in 1965 unless renewed or taken up, according to Mrs. William Emerson, president.

The building was formerly the Leo Beaudette home and architects and interior designers have declared it would make ideal headquarters for the YWCA.

Pledge forms permit contributors to spread their gifts over a period of three years, and contributions are deductible from income taxes.

War Expansion Outside Nation Is Hinted Near

Development Occurs as Buddhists Moving to Oust New Premier

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — South Viet Nam announced today the United States has agreed to an across-the-board increase in aid in the war against the Communist Viet Cong and hinted that the war will soon be expanded outside this country.

"The U.S. government has offered additional military and economic assistance to improve the execution of the government's programs and to restrain the mounting infiltration of men and equipment by the Hanoi regime in support of the Viet Cong," a communique said.

This development was disclosed as the Buddhist hierarchy called on the United States in a letter to Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor for support in a campaign to oust Premier Tran Van Huong's civilian administration.

Top Buddhist leaders met in a council of war and yellow-robed monks flocked to Saigon's main pagoda.

A U.S. spokesman said the government's communique had been prepared after consultations with the U.S. Mission here, but that the mission would have no comment on any aspect.

TO BE STRENGTHENED

The communique said the air defenses of South Viet Nam will be strengthened, implying that more U.S. fighters and other equipment were on the way.

The communique did not spell out what forms the new American aid will take.

A U.S. official said some provisions will be kept secret for security reasons and other aspects have not yet been fully worked out. Consultations between the American Mission and the Huong government will continue with Huong today for the third time since the ambassador returned from Washington last Sunday.

SERIES OF TALKS

The communique said:

"The government of Viet Nam has just completed a series of discussions with the United States Mission with regard to measures which should be taken to improve the situation in South Viet Nam in all its aspects."

"The government of Viet Nam has accepted this offer of support, which includes provision for increased numbers of military, paramilitary and police forces, the strengthening of the air defense of South Viet Nam, and further economic assistance for a variety of forms of industrial, urban and rural development."

"For its part, the government of Viet Nam is reviewing ways of increasing the scope and effectiveness of its programs related to the development of security and local government in the rural areas."

"Together, the government of Viet Nam and the U.S. Mission, are making joint plans to achieve greater effectiveness against the infiltration threat."

Gems Worth $84,000 Stolen From Dealer

LONDON (AP) — Three crooks pounced on a 79-year-old diamond merchant as he was opening his safe today and got away with gems worth around 30,000 pounds ($84,000).

The merchant was David Cohen, head of the firm Cohen and Van Der Molen. He was left bound hand and foot.

Reserves Face Streamlining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was reported today to have approved a drastic streamlining that would shift 150,000 Army reservists and their units into the National Guard.

Some 150,000 more reservists would be dropped into a manpower pool to be tapped for reinforcements in emergencies.

As a practical matter, the Organized Army Reserve would cease to exist.

Backup for the 16-division regular Army would be concentrated in an expanded 550,000-man National Guard.

The keynote is readiness. All guard units would be built into well-equipped, well-drilled outfits in condition to be used within 60 days or so of their call for cold war or limited war crises.

Singer Killed in LA Scrap

Sam Cooke Is Shot by Motel Manager

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rock 'n' roll singer Sam Cooke was shot and killed early today by a woman motel manager, police said, after he kicked in the door of her apartment.

Cooke, 33, was struck in the chest by one bullet from the .22-caliber pistol fired by Mrs. Bertha Lee Franklin, manager of the South Figueroa Street Motel.

Police said Cooke accused Mrs. Franklin of hiding his female companion, who he said had fled their motel room with most of his clothing moments before.

Officers identified the girl, found in a telephone booth half a block away shortly after the shooting, as Linda Boyer, 27, of Hollywood.

Mrs. Franklin told police Cooke came to her office, kicked in the door, accused her of harboring Miss Boyer and struck her twice with his fist.

GRABBED PISTOL. She told police she grabbed the pistol from her desk and shot him.

Officers said three shots were fired, but that only one hit Cooke. Mrs. Franklin was not held.

Cooke had climbed rapidly in the music world in the past two years.

He made eight records and all of them sold were listed among the 10 most popular. They had total sales of more than 10 million copies.

Warning Is Issued for 2 City Lakes

Parents in the vicinity of Owen Lake and Terry Lakes were urged today to keep their children off the ice on the two lakes regardless of weather conditions.

A Department of Public Works spokesman said the DFW engaged in a draining and clearing operation at the lakes in an attempt to correct a pollution condition in Osmun Lake.

The raising and lowering of the water level in the lakes creates an extremely hazardous ice condition.

money proved irresistible, and for two years he sat at a rolltop desk as vice president of the Oakland County Savings Bank.

But the lure of greener pastures proved stronger than the green of money, and in 1919 he organized a wholesale grocery firm.

Known initially as Whitfield, Walter & Marcotte (the last name soon changed to Dawson), the business was first located on Wayne Street, later on Pike, then on Perry and finally made it back to Pike to occupy a new home, where it flourished until sold in 1958.

The building itself was acquired soon after the Salvation Army to be utilized as a Men's Social Service Center.

Pleads Guilty; Took Funds of Investor Club

A former secretary of the Chippewa Valley School Board in Mazonia County yesterday pleaded guilty in Oakland County Circuit Court to embezzling funds from an area stock investment club.

The Talented Ten Investment Club, comprised of 17 employees of Vickers Inc., Troy, had brought the charge against Rhys L. Moore, 34, of Mount Clemens.

Members of the club contend that Moore embezzled $1,200 while he was treasurer of the organization, although he was only charged specifically with embezzling funds in excess of $100.

He held the school post from July to August of this year when he resigned.

Moore was treasurer of the investment club from 1958 until January 1964, when Arthur E. Grieves, 4046 Philip, Berkley, was elected to the post.

CALLLED BROKER

According to Senior Assistant Prosecutor William Lang, Grieves first learned of the embezzlement when he contacted a brokerage firm to find out the status of the stocks in the club's portfolio.

Grieves was told that the portfolio had been closed out in November 1961, Lang said.

Even though there were no stocks, Moore had continued to submit reports to investors, Lang said.

Moore will be sentenced March 4 by Judge Arthur E. Moore.

Probers Tour Ionia Hospital

Generally Favorable Impressions Reported

IONIA (AP) — A legislative investigating committee toured the Ionia State Hospital for the criminally insane yesterday and generally reported favorable impressions.

Five members of the House Mental Health Committee, including two women, made the trip.

Their visit followed charges of maladministration at the hospital, stemming from a recent suicide there and reports of a high rate of venereal disease among patients.

Rep. David Upton, R-St. Joseph, committee chairman, said he was convinced after the tour that the hospital needed more aid from the legislature.

"They are apparently doing as well as they can with existing facilities," he said. "But they need some new ones. Perhaps the legislature can help."

Rep. Marie Hager, R-Lansing, said she was impressed by the cleanliness of the institution.

"Of course, they had time to prepare for us," she observed.

As the group walked through the dining hall, Mrs. Hager checked and found inmates were eating goulash. They also had institution - bake bread, she noted.

"It looks nourishing but not very exciting," she observed.

The five - member legislative committee and party paraded through the institution, staring at patients.

Tito Appeals for Coexistence

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito said today he is ready and fit to continue leading Communist Yugoslavia on a road of peaceful coexistence with the West. He said a return to the cold war would bring disaster.

The 72-year-old president made the statements at a news conference for more than 100 foreign journalists attending the eighth congress of Yugoslavia's independent-minded Communist party.

It was his first general news conference in 12 years.

Tito holds two top jobs in the country, the presidency and the secretary generalship of the Communist party. One of the first questions asked was whether he had made provision for succession in his party job.

"That's not up to me," Tito replied with a grin. "That is a matter for the congress to decide."

The congress opened Monday and will end Sunday. Tito's reelection as secretary general is certain.

residence, Skrambellos threatened to kill six of his seven children who were at home if the officers tried to enter the home.

The officers persuaded Skrambellos to let them in. They found the half-dressed body of his wife in bed. She had been shot twice in the head.

Skrambellos told police he had shot his wife for "personal reasons" and did not elaborate.

He was taken to Macomb County Jail.

The six children, aged 10 months to nine years, were not harmed. A seventh child was sent out of the house by Skrambellos, who apparently killed his wife yesterday morning and told the children she was ill.

Asked to what he attributed his noteworthy longevity, the part exercise played in it, etc., the answer was that he had never gone in much for exercise.

Seems he got most of it acting as pall bearer for his friends who exercised a lot.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Tom Carlton and Mike Del Prete were lunching together when Del Prete suddenly was reminded that Carlton owed him 50 cents.

"During severe weather," it announces, "two conditions will affect normal school operation."

If main roads can not be traveled safely, schools will be dismissed for the day throughout the district.

However, if the main roads are clear and only the secondary roads are blocked, classes will be in session in all schools.

SECONDARY ROADS

In that event, students living on impassable secondary roads will need to walk to and from main road bus stops until weather permits buses to resume their normal routes.

It is the general policy of the board to keep schools open if at all possible without hindering the health or safety of students.

Parents are asked to tune in their local radio stations when the weather might alter the usual routine.

If only one building needs to be closed for a day, parents will be informed by radio or telephone.

REPORT FOR WORK

"Whether schools are in session or not, teachers and all employees will be expected to report for work as soon as possible," the board said.

Top FBI Leadership of National Interest

Whether the retirement of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover is imminent or deferred, its eventualty poses a crucial concern for America. Who will take his place?

In existence since 1908 as a branch of the U. S. Department of Justice and under its present designation since 1935, the Federal Bureau of Investigation has been guided by the firm and dedicated hand of Hoover for 40 years.

During those four decades, the investigative agency has grown from a force of 900 to 6,000 agents, and its reputation from that of a ragtag catchall for political hacks shot through with inefficiency and disrepute to one giving it rank as the world's top crime-detection organization staffed by superior personnel of unquestioned integrity.

But as so often happens in a close-knit body personally dominated by a crusading leader, no clear line of succession to the top is established. To a great extent, Hoover's unprecedented long reign has contributed to the vacuum of potential leadership, since top aides, from among whom a worthy successor might come, themselves inevitably have long records of service and are nearing retirement eligibility.

Congressional consideration has already been given to enactment of procedure for appointment of a new FBI director when the time comes for such action.

A year ago, a bill was introduced by Sen. EVERETT DIRKSEN, R-Ill., to give the Senate a hand in such an appointment, although the initiative would rest with the President. Two companion bills were also introduced in the House, but died in committee.

DIRKSEN has said that he will reintroduce his Senate bill in the session beginning Jan. 4.

But through the uncertainty that currently clouds the contingency of Hoover's retirement and appointment of a successor, one fact shines clearly.

It is that political or self-seeking tampering cannot be permitted to weaken by one iota an arm of government that can point to this record of accomplishment.

● Virtual elimination of such threats to democracy as the Ku Klux Klan and the domestic wing of international communism.

● Relegation to exceptional status of such crimes as kidnapping and extortion.

● Smashing of interstate crime organizations and apprehension of the nation's worst criminals.

It is the patriotic duty of every American to make his influence felt against any action that would weaken the FBI.

Juvenile Courts Seek Agreement With Press

A significant step has been taken in resolving the disaffection that has long existed between the press and juvenile courts over the secrecy that has traditionally cloaked proceedings related to juvenile offenders.

In a report titled "Guides for Juvenile Court Judges on News Media Relations," a select group of juvenile court judges has formulated a set of working principles designed at once to satisfy the people's right to know and to protect culprits from injurious publicity.

With juvenile delinquency increasing at an alarming rate, representative members of the juvenile court judiciary believe that objective reporting of youthful misconduct will have a salutary effect. They also are prepared to waive customary anonymity of offenders and disposition of their cases when deemed to be in the public interest.

One of the delicate considerations involved in full disclosure of juvenile court proceedings is that they are of informal nature wherein evidence is given that wouldn't be admitted as such in higher courts. This imposes a reportorial responsibility in drawing the line between testimony germane to the offense and that exploratory of related personal and family factors that call for remedial measures.

The outlook for improved press-juvenile court relations is keynoted by the first of the eight guiding principles, contained in the report. It recognizes that "the newsmen, as the eyes and ears of the public, has a very direct interest in any and all juvenile court proceedings, and it is therefore recommended that news media be welcomed to all sessions."

LBJ, Business Cross Swords

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON—President Johnson likes to be liked, particularly by the business community, some of whose biggest maharajahs in his corner in the last election. As he put it last week:

"Over the past 12 months I have said many times that it is my hope — and my purpose — that government and business should operate in partnership, not as antagonists. That will always be my goal."

This is in keeping with his philosophy of "let's reason together."

Now Johnson has banged heads with the bankers, but he wore a rubber cushion, and it worked.

The trouble he ran into started in England where the interest rate was raised on money borrowed from the government to curb borrowing and, as a result, slow down the loan on British reserves.

Right away the American Federal Reserve raised the interest rate on loans it charges to U.S. commercial banks. There was some danger in this:

Would American commercial banks in turn raise the interest rate on loans to American business and industry. If so, this might mean less borrowing, less business expansion, and damage to this prosperous economy.

4 BANKS RAISED RATE

Sure enough, four banks raised their rate. It didn't require radar to see other bankers waiting in the wings to do the same. Right at the start of Johnson's new administration, the economy was in danger of a dive.

The President's problem was to get tough without offending the bankers. Last week he talked to the Business Advisory Council, made up of more than 100 presidents and board chairmen of leading corporations.

He made a long speech on how he wished to get along with business, how good the economy is, how business could spoil the easy glow, and how business and government should work together.

But right in the middle of it, and in just a few paragraphs, he took dead aim at the bankers. Although being very pleasant, he warned against the danger of upping lending rates.

"I am confident that American bankers will consider the long-term interest of the nation in sustaining a healthy and vigorous rate of economic growth."

All this was intended to show he wasn't interfering with free enterprise, and he wasn't giving orders, but the bankers got the message. There was a little squawking, but not much. And no more banks raised rates.

Makings Of An International Gulliver

David Lawrence Says:

Rebuilding Party Not Easy Task

WASHINGTON — How do you rebuild or remake a national political party?

Can it be done by two or three leaders getting together and working out a plan?

Or should the members of a political party themselves have a voice in such a reorganization?

Unfortunately, political parties are not set up on a representative basis so that the citizens who contribute their funds as well as their votes do not usually have an opportunity to select their national leaders.

Even the members of the national party committee are not chosen by popular vote except in two states.

Thus the problem of rebuilding a party is not easy to solve, especially when there are many conflicting interests as well as various individuals with ambitions to run for the presidency in 1968 or thereafter.

The battle over who is to be the national party chairman is really a drive to unseat Dean Burch as a means of gaining ascendancy in the party organization for henchmen of particular candidates for the 1968 nomination.

But there are many men in the party who are really anxious to bring about unity.

The conference held between Gen. Eisenhower, former Vice President Nixon and Sen. Goldwater was designed not only to produce harmony in the party but to encourage the members of the national committee to confer with their local leaders and find out just what they wish to do about party policies and Republican activity between elections.

The real trouble with the Republican party is that nobody knows what the dissenters really want. It is difficult to get a good definition of what a "moderate" is, or even an "extremist" or a "conservative" or a "liberal."

Rep. Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio said in an interview not long ago that on some things he is conservative and on other things he is liberal.

There is no single phrase that covers the individual viewpoints of most men in public life on the questions of the day.

The important task before the Republicans is to define just what proposals they believe in and what policies of the administration they feel should be opposed.

Tourist Mecca Pamphlet Dredges Up Memories

NEW YORK — San Simon's hilltop Enchanted Castle, once the home of William Randolph Hearst Sr., and more recently one of the most popular tourist meccas in California, is the subject of a touching tribute from Bugs Baer.

Bugs recently received a San Simon souvenir catalogue from his old friend Brad Kelly of King Features Syndicate, who was visiting the showplace, and it moved him to respond as follows:

"Dear Brad: Got your ideographed pamphlet of the Enchanted Castle and it brought back more memories than a class picture."

"I was out there on the Chief's birthday and mingled with the exquisite tapestries and the marble-grated statues. The overwhelming beauty and syndicated magnificence was only comparable with the Taj Mahal with a double moon in the form of a dripping swimming pool."

SAME WAY

"The Chief lived in exactly the same way as I would have lived if I had even been given the chance to massage the patina of Aladdin's tailight."

"Unfortunately, my friend at the Chase Manhattan didn't have a friend at Chase Manhattan."

"Only Mr. Hearst looked at home in the Rock Candy Castle on the hill. The air was frankincense and myrrh and the panorama was onyx and turquoise."

"I stayed at one of the Casas overlooking the Mira or the Monte."

RICHIE LU BEED

"I think I distributed my wakefulness in Cardinal Richelieu's split-level bed. The tiled floor was what Michelangelo had left over from the Vatican job."

"A million-dollar Gobelins was still unrolled because the Renaissance thumbtacks had not arrived yet."

"There was a desk on which Daniel Boone had written to Queen Elizabeth offering to shoot the cooties out of her imperial wig."

"The bath mat cost $125.00. I left my shoes outside the door and they were gold-plated in the morning."

BREAKFAST RIDE

"The Chief took a breakfast ride of 50 miles that morning because Ned McLean of the Washington Post had arrived in a private car equipped with a wine cellar and room service."

"I borrowed my monographed handker and was off for Los Angeles by the valley route. My own private car was up on corks in a bicycle repair shop."

"No estate anywhere can brandish a taper to the Chief's wick-up on the mesmerized skyline. That includes San Souci, Versailles and Villa d'Este. I saw them all on one of the Chief's Diner's cars."

"I had lived too long at Billy Lahlit's to be comfortable in an empire where eleven miles from the front gate to the front door is too far to stagger."

PLATINUM ZITHER

"Even now I can hear Stephen Foster playing 'My Good San Simon Home' on a platinum zither with a diamond encrusted swizzle stick."

"The catalogue of 'luxury' brought back the glorious night when I spent three hours looking for a place to put a cigarette down. I finally flicked the ashes into an old Egyptian urn, only to learn, alas, it contained a set of Cleopatra's boudoir-length eyelashes."

Post for Keating

Journal American

Reports around Washington are that President Johnson is considering Republican Senator Kenneth B. Keating, who lost to Democrat Robert F. Kennedy in the election, for a Government post if he is interested.

Including Senator Keating in the Administration would be concrete evidence of Mr. Johnson's intention to be President of all the people — and utilization of the talents and experience of a man who served New York notably in both House and Senate.

Grand Champion

Chicago Tribune

The grand champion steer of the stock show, weighing in at 1,000 pounds, sold for $17,500, or $17.50 a pound, whereas on the same day Dick Butkus, Illinois' star linebacker, weighing 245, was signed to a contract by the Chicago Bears and probably commanded a much higher price per pound.

To emphasize the subtle distinctions between the two heavyweights, Butkus disposed of two plates of roast beef at his signing party. Charger, the steer, may have taken a moody view of this performance.

Owner-coach George Halas of the Bears did not think of signing charger because this prospect does not have a college education as has Mr. Butkus. Everyone knows that football is a sport that demands a high degree of intellect from the performers, as attested by the occasional presence in the Bears lineup of such brains as Rick Casares and J. C. Caroline.

After a bad day on pass defense, Caroline put his mind to work and reached the reasoned conclusion that his trouble had been that he forgot to wear his contact lenses on taking the field.

The success of Butkus and some 200 other collegians who are cashing in on the pro draft is a tribute to the training one gets in the halls of Ivy. The professor of Greek and Hebrew may have a star or two under his wing, but he does not have to protect himself from a mob of recruiters bearing down to snatch his pupils with offers of contracts, bonuses, and injury-proof guarantees.

It is to the physical education department that the bearers of glad tidings turn, waving fistfuls of greenbacks and promising salaries which would put the president of the institution to shame. So we should counsel parents of male progeny to start early in seeking to place their charges in the college and pro roster of their choice.

Not Choice

The (Portland) Oregonian

It seems to have been overlooked that Dean Burch of Arizona was not the choice of the Republican Party, or even of the Republican National Committee, for its chairman. The committee accepted him because Sen. Barry Goldwater said he wanted Burch and no other.

Mr. Burch should offer his resignation inasmuch as his appointment was a campaign device and Sen. Goldwater lost in a landslide. But he has not done so, and Sen. Goldwater insists that he be left in office. Republican governors are divided on the matter.

The Republican National Committee obliged Sen. Goldwater by giving him his choice as the national chairman. The obligation has been discharged.

Nothing that Mr. Burch did in the campaign demonstrates talent for the job or promise of future success in bringing the divergent elements of the party into a working agreement. If he will not quit, the national committee should vote him out and put in a fulltime chairman with more experience and ability.

Report Probe Not Allowed

Pilot Drinking Before Fatal Crash—CAB

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board said Thursday that investigators planning to make a post-mortem examination of a private pilot—who had been drinking beer shortly before his plane crashed—were denied permission to do so.

The CAB's report on its investigation of the crash near a tavern at De Witt, Mich., June 3, did not indicate who refused to allow the post-mortem study. Relatives would have that authority.

The CAB said that during the hour and a half before his flight the pilot, Harold Karl Dobrick, 44, of De Witt, consumed at least four glasses of beer at a tavern where he met his passenger, Lawrence Richard Hornstra of East Lansing, Mich.

"Before leaving the tavern the pilot told the bartender he would 'come back over the place and give him a buzz,'" the CAB said.

WATCH FOR PLANE

"The passenger also phoned a relative and told her to watch for the plane."

"Following takeoff the aircraft was flown at unregulated low levels, estimated as 100 to 300 feet, over various areas in the vicinity including the tavern and the home of the relative of the passenger."

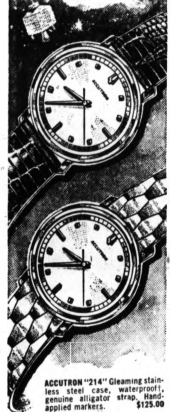

The plane dived into the ground near the tavern, killing both men.

The CAB attributed another Michigan light-plane crash, fatal to both men aboard, near Muskegon April 20, to misjudgment of altitude by the pilot "during visual night flight over an unlighted water area in unfavorable weather conditions."

The two pilots — James J. Taylor, 45, and Andre S. Decas, both of Holland, Mich. — were taking dual instruction prior to winning instrument ratings. They had been practicing instrument procedures near the Muskegon airport. Shortly after they told the airport control tower by radio that they might have to discontinue the mission because of worsening weather, the plane dived into Lake Michigan.

LBJ to Give Hubert Job of Coordinating U.S. Rights Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he will make Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey responsible for coordinating and pressing government programs that are dedicated to the goal of equal opportunity. This announcement Thursday night to the Urban League was accompanied by a Johnson pledge to make the emancipation of Negroes "a fact" and a promise that he will be content with "nothing less than the full assimilation of more than 20 million Negroes into American life."

In both instances Johnson drew sustained applause.

Urban League Executive Director Whitney Young told the President that Negroes trust him, believe in him and 85 per cent of them voted for him. The six government groups whose activities Johnson said Humphrey has agreed to coordinate were listed by the President as the Justice Department's civil rights division, the Civil Rights Commission, the President's Committee on Equal Opportunity in Housing, the Community Relations Service, the soon-to-be created Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the President's Committee on Equal Opportunity in Employment.

When Johnson was vice president he headed the employment opportunity group. Whether Humphrey will become its chairman is up in the air—as is the status of the committee at a time of transition to operations under the new civil rights law.

After promising to make Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation a fact, Johnson said that

215 Days Left in Mariner Trip

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mars has only 215 days left to primp before a television camera aboard America's Mariner-4 snaps the first close-up pictures of its mysterious surface. Scientists at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) said yesterday they are confident the spacecraft will fly by the red planet at an amazingly close distance of only 5,400 miles.

The historic space rendezvous is set to occur at 6:10 p.m., PST, (9:10 p.m., EST), next July 14, climaxing a 7½-month - long, 225-million-mile journey for the vehicle.

The scientists also told newsmen they are confident that a series of 22 television photos of Mars will be taken by Mariner-4 for relaying to earth.

Although the photographs are not expected to answer the age-old riddle of whether some form of life exists on Mars, it is anticipated that they may provide clues about the Martian canals, which have fascinated man since invention of the telescope. The actual picture-taking will start when Mariner-4 is zooming past Mars at a distance of 9,000 to 6,000 miles in a downward angle.

Primary goal of the spacecraft is to photograph the surface of Mars and to take scientific readings on radiation, magnetic forces and space dust surrounding Mars. The information should tell scientists the density of the Martian atmosphere and whether a spaceship can land on the planet.

Urges Greater Support for Tourism in U. P.

ST. IGNACE (AP) — Lawrence Rubin, executive secretary of the Mackinac Bridge Authority, Thursday night urged greater support for a program to keep summer visitors in the Upper Peninsula for longer periods. Rubin, who addresses the Upper Peninsula Association of Supervisors, suggested that more support be given to the promotional program of the Michigan Tourist Association.

When Johnson was vice president he headed the employment opportunity group. Whether Humphrey will become its chairman is up in the air—as is the status of the committee at a time of transition to operations under the new civil rights law.

After promising to make Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation a fact, Johnson said that

Science Quiz

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: A rubber band mystery.

NEEDED: A weight suspended from a rubber band, and a match.

DO THIS: Hold the flame of the match near the rubber band, and as the band is heated, it contracts, lifting the weight.

HERE'S WHY: While most substances expand when heated, some will contract. Eleven volumes of ice, when heated, make only about ten volumes of water. Such substances as rubber contract because of their increased stiffness, when heated, therefore more force is required to stretch the rubber band. For better technical understanding, look up Young's modulus.

Two collections of these science tricks are in book form, "Science Circus" and "Science Circus No. 2." They are available in book stores and libraries.

Battle of the Bulge Came Violently, Unexpectedly

By ROBERT E. MERRIAM
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It was cold but the ground was still soggy, that 16th day of December in 1944 — just 20 years ago.

Six months earlier, the Americans, British, Canadians and some Free French had bloodily debarked in Normandy. Only four months before that day our armies had broken out of the beachhead, and charged across France to a deliciously happy

Paris, into Belgium and small pieces of Germany and Holland.

Dec. 16 was only one month after our forces had consolidated their lines along the German frontier and opened for use the great port of Antwerp, vitally needed for ships bringing ever-short supplies.

November generally was a time of consolidation and limited attack, but by the end of the month the Allies were preparing for the next big thrust forward.

By early December, the British Second and the American Ninth Armies were poised on the north flank of the 635-mile front for a massive attack on Germany with Cologne as a main target.

SEIZURE OF DAMS

They awaited only the seizure of a series of dams controlling the Roer River, capture of which had been assigned to one corps of the American First Army, next to the south. This latter attack started on Dec. 13.

South of the First, Patton's Third Army was mounting troops and supplies for a massive smash, which was to take us sweeping through the German West Wall to the Rhine River, into southern Germany. His target date was Dec. 13.

On the southern flank the Seventh and First French Armies were poised to assist.

In the middle of the Allied line, on an 80-mile front of woods, hills and poor road networks, was the only static point of the December war.

BEAUTIFUL HILLS

In these beautiful Ardennes hills of Luxembourg and Belgium, several American divisions heavily smashed in bitter fighting in the Huerger Forest, had been sent to "rest." One new division, getting "acclimated," went into the line on Dec. 13.

Optimistic Allied intelligence officers were predicting an imminent German collapse:

"It is now certain that attrition is steadily sapping the strength of German forces on the western front and that the crust of defense is thinner, more brittle, and more vulnerable than it appears on our G2 maps, or to the troops in the field." is an actual quote from the estimate of a high American intelligence officer only a few days before the unexpected happened.

It was in these loosely held Ardennes forests that the Germans struck early in the morning of Dec. 16 — the same area out of which they had attacked in 1914 and 1940.

FROM RESIDUE

Tanks and troops — some recruited from the Russian front and others scraped from the residue of the once-great "Wehrmacht" — sprang into action.

Paratroopers reappeared. The "Luftwaffe" made its final fling.

The Battle of the Bulge was launched — violently, unexpectedly, vigorously.

It was Hitler's last great gamble. His objective was to cut the Allied forces in two, drive to the English Channel and then annihilate the split forces, forcing, he hoped, another Dunkirk retreat to England.

STUBBORN TROOPS

The last great fling might have worked but for unswerving, nevertheless stubborn American troops.

There was the engineer squad at a bridge at Trois Ponts, gallant defense forces at St. Vith and scattered units in Bastogne, to mention but a few of the heroic defenders in the first days of the attack.

Seventeen German divisions had been secretly hoarded and armed for this great battle, with twelve more in reserve.

A corps of saboteurs under the leadership of the adventurer, Otto Skorzeny, onetime rescuer of Mussolini, had been recruited, many armed with American uniforms.

'SAVIOR OF BERLIN'

The "savior" of Berlin at the time of the attempted assassination of Hitler — Remer — had been given a massively armored brigade.

Dietrich — Hitler's former bodyguard and top ranking SS officer in the German Army — commanded the main thrust.

For two bloody, snowy weeks the world was rocked as the Allies withdrew before this ferocious, startling German attack.

Every available American, British and French unit was thrown into the defense.

INSIDE LINES

Despite this, German tanks clawed their way into view of the Meuse River, 60 miles inside the Allied lines.

All Allied offensives were called off.

Patton was diverted to the penetration. Montgomery brought part of his army down to the Meuse River. Units of the American Ninth Army were diverted into the middle of the fighting.

Germans filtered behind the lines. Eisenhower was closely guarded when rumors spread of an attempt on his life.

COLLOQUIALISM

Both generals and privates had to brush up on their colloquialisms as trigger-itchy road guards, looking for Skorzeny's men in American uniforms, challenged them with questions: "Who are the Bumsters?" or "When did you last see the Lady (Statue of Liberty)?"

Hitler gambled that Eisenhower didn't really have the authority to react quickly to the German attack and this was his worst mistake.

Ike quickly split the front, half to Bradley and half to Montgomery, risking the wrath of his American commanders.

The attack finally was contained — nearly 100,000 Allied casualties later — and the Germans slowly were driven back.

MANY MYTHS

There are many myths about this gigantic battle.

Some said we deliberately had edged the Germans into this attack, which wasn't so.

Some said Hitler didn't really plan to drive us into the sea, which wasn't so.

Some claimed we had forced Germans to attack prematurely, when in reality they delayed because they couldn't get their supplies forward fast enough.

Some contended that Patton immediately blunted the German attack, when in reality he was initially hitting only into the flank of the enemy, as bitter as was this fighting.

NOT LET DOWN

Some said the British let us down, when instead they supported our main effort magnificently.

They even miscalled it the "Rundstedt Offensive," when in reality the old Prussian refused to have anything to do with its planning or execution.

For nearly a million Americans caught in this holocaust it was a bewildering experience. They had just been told the war was nearly over.

These proud Americans were unused to the chaos and confusion of a withdrawal. They didn't like it when hospitals were abandoned, vast ammunition and gasoline dumps were left unguarded, command posts were left with secret documents strewn about by the fleeing soldiers.

MADE OF STRAW

They were upset by real German parachutists and dummy parachutists made of straw.

Hundreds of German propaganda broadcasts moved up the new, unexpected fears of Allied soldiers.

French and Belgian officers added to the panic by directly predicting that this was the 1940 debacle all over again.

Returns From Prison Anonymity

Teamster's Beck Out on Parole Today

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Two and a half years ago Dave Beck mangled a famed quotation and said, "Remember boys, as Gen. MacArthur said 'I'll be back.'"

Today at 70 he comes back — back from the anonymity of prison life across the three miles of Puget Sound that have separated him from freedom since June 29, 1962.

The white launch that carried him away on a sunny summer day to nearby McNeil Island Federal Prison will return him in raw December to the same dock where he bade his farewell.

Beck, a self-made millionaire and once a power in the labor world as head of the Teamsters union, was granted parole Dec. 1 after being turned down twice before.

NO OFFICIAL REASON

No one ever gave an official reason for the rejections other than a "minor infraction" of prison rules.

One report said he tried to slip notes to visitors for delivery on the outside.

Another was that he tried to arrange a gift so another prisoner could fly to New York for his mother's funeral.

Either would break prison rules.

Beck also was said to have argued with the warden over some of the restrictions on the 1,500 inmates of the island prison and to have helped a convict-committee press for a new set of rules.

With Beck's release today he has served nine days less than half of a five-year sentence for filing fraudulent tax returns for the union's Joint Council Building Association in Seattle.

Before he entered prison he won reversal of a conviction of evading more than $240,000 in personal income taxes.

He will remain under supervision of a federal parole officer until June 20, 1967.

PAROLE PAPERS

The state also prepared parole papers for Beck to sign in connection with a five-year sentence for grand larceny. He was convicted in county court of pocketing $1,900 from the sale of a union-owned auto. The state parole will last three years.

During his time in prison Beck worked as an apple canner, labored on his memoirs and was stricken with pneumonia resulting from a bad case of sunburn.

In this interval the life he will return to in Seattle changed. His mother, Mrs. Mary Beck, died in March 1963 at the age of 85.

His wife, Dorothy, died in November 1961, before he was imprisoned, but probate of the estate appraised at $2,025,840 caused much of Beck's trouble at McNeil. He fired lawyers over their handling of the matter and wrote a Superior Court judge suggesting the jurist visit him to talk over the case.

The estate still is in Probate Court.

The house he built on the shore of Seattle's Lake Washington was purchased last July by an attorney.

IN SEATTLE

One of his lawyers, George Kargianis, said accommodations for Beck have been arranged in Seattle, but would not say where or what they were.

Beck started going through the routine prison check-out Thursday night, getting medical clearance, turning in his uniform and drawing any pay he had coming.

He turned down the suit given prisoners on discharge. His own clothing was sent there several days ago.

He draws a $50,000 a year pension from the union in which he rose from laundry truck driver to international president, a post he held from 1952-58.

Woman Gets Loan on Snarling Tiger

DETROIT (AP) — The collateral snarled at the credit manager but the loan went through anyway.

"Anything after this will be relatively tame," said Jerry Helmke, credit audit manager at the Michigan Bank's main office. He had just finished handling a loan this week on a 4-month-old Bengal Tiger.

The animal's owner, Mrs. Geri Helmke, a white back and wanted "to make a loan on a tiger."

She explained that she operated an animal rental agency. The animals are rented for commercial and advertising purposes.

DEMAND FOR TIGERS

"Recently there's been a great demand for tigers and I learned of this opportunity to buy one in Colorado," Mrs. Geri said. She was requesting commercial loan "somewhere in the neighborhood of $1,000."

Helmke said Mrs. Geri assured him that the 25-pound tiger would have life insurance — written by Lloyds of London — and that proceeds from rental of the animal would pay for the loan.

Helmke approved the loan but "cannot recall granting a loan for anything quite like this" before.

The tiger, called Tinker Bell, was taken to the bank Wednesday to be identified and photographed.

SNARLED SOME

Tinker Bell snarled a little and created quite a stir as she was led through the bank on a leash, but Mrs. Geri assured everyone that "Tinker Bell is really quite gentle."

Daniel West Stands Mute

DETROIT (AP) — A plea of innocent was entered for Michigan House member Daniel W. West at his federal arraignment on a 117-count indictment Thursday.

West stood mute and Federal Judge Thomas P. Thornton entered the plea of innocent and continued a $10,000 bond posted earlier.

The indictment charges West with 117 counts of causing false information to be filed on income tax returns and causing fraudulent checks to be issued by the U. S. government.

Federal agents claimed West's methods of filing income tax returns for clients have cost the government and individuals an estimated $250,000.

TAX RETURNS

R. I. Nixon, district director of the Internal Revenue Service, said some 1,500 persons had tax returns prepared by West. Nixon charged that West would add fictitious dependents to the returns he made out and have some of the rebates sent to himself.

West was described by police as an ex-convict when The Detroit News, in a copyrighted story, alleged that he masqueraded under the educational background of a New York attorney of the same name, now deceased.

He also has been charged in Detroit Recorder's Court in two warrants with vote manipulations in his recent election campaign.

West was re-elected to a two-year term in the Michigan House of Representatives Nov. 3. He is scheduled to come up for seating Jan. 13.

Romney Will Get New State Auto

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney is getting a new state car. But he says it will cost only about half what his present vehicle cost to operate.

He'll lease a 1965 Chrysler Imperial LeBaron for $62.50 per month.

His 1963 Chevrolet cost an average of $122.45 per month, including purchase price, maintenance, insurance and depreciation, said his office.

Professor Urges Course in Computer Language

EAST LANSING (AP)—There should be courses for high school students in another new language—the special language learned in computer programming, a Michigan State University professor suggests.

"It requires no prerequisite, it is on about the same level of difficulty (as a foreign language), and it is easier to learn early in life," it says Dr. Charles F. Wrigley, director of the MSU Computer Institute for Social Sciences.

By CATHY RICHARDSON
A Clarkston High School junior, Hazel Biles of 6381 Church Street, has been named Co-ed correspondent of the 1964-65 school year, according to an announcement made by Margaret Hauser, editor of Co-ed Magazine.
The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Biles II received her appointment from Judy Kaibfleisch, home economics teacher at Clarkston, who presented her with a special pin and card.
Selected for her qualities of leadership and her enthusiasm for home economics, Hazel will serve as junior adviser to the editors of Co-ed, national magazine for teenage girls.
She will keep them informed of activities at Clarkston. More than 4,000 Co-ed correspondents throughout the United States and Canada report regularly.
Y-Teens across the country are celebrating World Fellowship Month during December. Clarkston's Y-Teens will use next week to collect money.
During this time they will carry Christmas stockings in which students may place their change.
Over the past weekend Clarkston's student government feasted the commissary and other places around the school with Christmas decorations. They will sponsor a Christmas party next weekend.

By KAREN TRIMMER
A new educational aid program has been initiated at Bloomfield Hills High School.
Under this plan, members of the National Honor Society, for a small fee, will tutor students who desire additional help in a school subject.
Foreign exchange students will offer additional help in their native language.
A card catalogue with the names, addresses, phone numbers and strong subjects of NHS members has been formed and will be kept in the student council bookstore for the use of those desiring help.
More effective studying techniques, as well as a closer contact with the problems of the students, are among the assets of this new plan.
PARTY HIGHLIGHTS
Foreign customs and traditions will be among the highlights of the foreign relations club Christmas party to be held Sunday.
At this time the foreign students will present to the club members the varying Noel customs they and their families follow each year.

help initiate the foreign visitors to American traditions.

BHHS students recently selected a traditional school ring, which will be gold set with a blue stone. A student committee formed last year presented various plans, designs and suggestions from which the entire student body voted.

SCHOOL SHIELD

The school shield will be on one shank of the ring with a mounted Baron to symbolize the school mascot on the other side.
Students will only choose whether they prefer a smooth or faceted stone when ordering their rings.
It is hoped that with the initiation of a traditional school ring that graduates will be able to recognize other alumni of their high school.

Special Christmas plans are also being laid by the BHHS executive club. This club, composed of the presidents of all the school's major clubs, has arranged for all the clubs to decorate special areas of the school in Christmas fashion.

TO AWARD PRIZE

The club which is judged to have decorated most effectively will be awarded a prize. All clubs have been assigned a hallway so that the entire school will be decorated.

Students Give Food,
Gifts for Area Needy

By PENNY YOUNG
The Christmas spirit in its most charitable form has invaded Waterford Kettering High School.

For the second consecutive year, WKHS's 44 homerooms are preparing Christmas baskets for distribution to needy families in the area.

Each homeroom has been given a family and they will donate food and gifts to them. The gaily decorated baskets will be placed in front of the stage in the gym before the Christmas assembly Dec. 23.

The following day a representative from each homeroom will take his room's basket to the home of a needy family.

Sponsored by the student council, and backed by the entire student body, the Christmas basket drive will undoubtedly turn out to be the most successful and worthwhile project undertaken this year.

3 QUALIFY
For the first time, three WKHS students have qualified for the second half of the Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition test.

Seniors Roger Roosa, David Curtis and Ole Anderson scored among the top four per cent of the 22,000 high school students from Michigan who took the test.

The GAA letter club and the varsity club were cosponsors of a recent recreation night in the gym. Members played volleyball and participated in gymnastics.

Report cards were distributed in homerooms for each student to take around to his classes.

Four WTHS seniors participated in the second exam in the Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition yesterday.

Jean Voydanoff, Linda Walks, David Venie and Kenneth Main scored in the top four per cent of the 30,000 juniors and seniors in Michigan who took the first test last month.

Ninety-two students from WTHS took the exam this year, according to senior math instructor Robert Line.

SKI CLUB

The ski club has selected officers for this year. They include Robert Schall, president; David Roemensky, vice president; and Debbie McNair, secretary-treasurer.

Co-sponsors for the ski club are Al Cuthrel and Stu Thorell.

Ski club members have been working out in the gym in order to be in shape for this year's meets with 15 area schools. Both a boys' and a girls' team will participate.

WTHS's first meet will be Jan. 12 at Mt. Holly. Plans are being made for the first of many one-day trips to be held during Christmas vacation.

CHRISTMAS DANCE

The annual Christmas dance "Snow Bound," presented by the seniors, is slated Dec. 23. This year the dance will hold a ski theme. Tickets are now available for the activity.

Robert Crompton, director of the vocal music department, will head the annual Christmas concert Dec. 22. Five languages will be sung by the girls' glee club, choir and camera. The public has been invited.

Pontiac Northern Seniors Choose Class Officers

By ALICE TURNER

Final election of officers for the senior class at Pontiac Northern High School has been held.

Prior to this, two other elections were held, one to narrow the candidates down to 10 and another to narrow them down to 5.

The student receiving the most votes became president, and so on down the line until all of the positions had been filled. The least amount of votes, of the 5, was eliminated.

This year's senior class president is Robert Church. Other officers are Michael Woodruff, vice president; Rick Fritz, secretary; and Robert Hayes, treasurer.

The 11th annual drafting contest, sponsored by the American Society of Body Engineers, was held recently. Two Pontiac Northern students were among the winners.

SCHOOL WINNERS

Roger Hayward placed twelfth and James Bailey was fifteenth. The contestants were required to draw, describe and demonstrate a part of a Plymouth.

Some 400 students entered from the 54 schools in the Detroit metropolitan area.

Tryouts for Northern's coming musical, "Carousel," were held yesterday and today. Cast winners will be announced Monday. The musical will be presented in early February.

Northern's future teachers' club is making Christmas stockings for patients at the Pontiac State Hospital, and members of the senior class decorated a Christmas tree for placement in the senior lounge.

Walled Lake Food Drive Aids Needy

By VIVI METTALA

"Give a needy family a Merry Christmas" is the goal of the Walled Lake student council's canned goods drive.

Boxes will be placed at every door during the two-day drive. A gauge at "four corners" hall will keep students posted on progress of the race between sophomore, junior and senior classes.

The following Walled Lake High School students are finalists in this year's Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition:

Lawrence Benninger, Barbara Cole, Jon Huhtala, Linda Phillips, Richard Felts, Bradley Ginter, Patricia Hill and Richard McArthur.

Sixty-two students accompanied Alexander Zerbán and Helmut Holland-Moritz of the music department to the performance of "The Sound of Music" recently. Zerbán said WL's music department will present "The Sound of Music" in the spring.

Black-haired, brown-eyed Ochoa de la Terra, 17, arrived from Mexico City, Mexico, recently to spend her "summer" vacation with senior Betsy Adams' family in Union Lake. She is an exchange student for the Youth for Understanding program.

WL's music department will present its annual Christmas concert Thursday at 4 p.m. in the gym. Performing will be the choir, male and girls' glee club, girls' and male choruses, band and orchestra, under the direction of Zerbán and Holland-Moritz.

SANTA and the SINGING TURTLE

By LUCRECE BRALE.

(Synopsis) Prince Chad, the Singing Turtle, and the Snowman arrive in Santa Land to attend the Christmas Music Festival.

CHAPTER SIX

"Santa Land" read the big sign on the snow station. "We're really here!" exclaimed the prince. "I can't believe it."

"I can," said the one-eyed snowman, taking in deep breaths of the icy air. "I feel better already. Why, in this climate I will last ten thousand years!"

"But where are the musicians?" wondered George. "I was sure I would hear them practicing."

"Let's go see!" cried Prince Chad.

DARTED AWAY

He darted away from his plodding companions and raced across the snow-covered fields past row on row of workshops, barns and stables.

He came to a little red-shuttered house with smoke curling from the chimney. He knew this was it — Santa Claus house.

He walked all around it and peeped through the curtained windows.

He tapped softly at the door. There was no answer.

FINALLY ARRIVED

George and the snowman finally arrived. George said impatiently, "Knock louder, for goodness' sake!"

The prince knocked and the snowman pounded with his heavy fist and George tapped with his little tail. Suddenly the door flung open.

There stood Patrick Tweedle-knees, a crooked-legged, bent-backed, near-sighted elf who clearly had just been awakened from a very fine sleep and did not like being disturbed.

I'M WORKING

"Stop that hullabaloo!" he shouted. "Can't you see I'm working?"

The prince was so astonished he stepped backward, tripped over George and fell off the porch.

The elf peered at him and said fustily, "Who are you anyway and what's that thing on your head?"

"I am Frederick Chadwick Anthony Matthew Christopher John," stammered the prince. "The thing on my head is a crown because I am soon to be King of Razeple. Could we see Santa Claus, please?"

GONE TO FESTIVAL

"Santa Claus! He's gone to the music festival, as you should certainly know if you are about to be a king."

"The music festival!" cried George in alarm. "But we have come here to the music festival. I am to sing!"

"Sing if you wish but no one at the festival will hear you," snapped Tweedle-knees. "The festival is in Fairyland. It begins tomorrow and you can never get there in time."

George was stunned with disappointment. He pulled his head inside his shell. Then he pulled his feet in and his tail, too.

HEARTBROKEN

"Now see what you have done," said the snowman towering over the elf. "You've broken his heart!"

"Me!" protested Tweedle-knees angrily. "I'll have you know tomorrow is Christmas Eve and I have my hands full getting everything ready, doing all the work, taking all the responsibility while Santa is away having all the fun."

"Then you come along and blame me because you came to the wrong place! Well, I say, pooh to you!"

With that the elf went in the house and slammed the door.

SAT ON STEPS

The three visitors sat on the

The prince said, "I never thought Santa Land would be like this."

And the snowman said, "I don't even want to stay here any more."

George said nothing, but two big tears rolled out from under his shell.

DOOR OPENED

Suddenly the door flung open and Patrick Tweedle-knees was back. "I can't stand this racket," he grumbled. "I'll send you to Fairyland. Make your racket there."

George's head darted from his shell. "You mean—you can get us there in time for me to sing?"

"I can see it's the only way I am to have any peace," snapped Tweedle-knees.

"Meet me at workshop number six in two hours and I will give you boots that will get you to Fairyland before tomorrow's dawn."

"Oh," said George gratefully. "I will sing for you now!"

"Spare me!" retorted Tweedle-knees. "It's the least you can do." And turning on his heels he stalked off to workshop number six.

Junior Editors Quiz on HORIZON

QUESTION: How far away is the horizon?

ANSWER: The horizon is the line where, if there are no mountains, trees or other objects to interfere, the sky and the land (or the edge of the sea) seem to join.

In mountainous places, it is sometimes difficult to decide just where the horizon is. On the flat prairie, we can see it very clearly as well as at the seashore, where Jane and Fred are admiring the sunlight falling on it, which turns it into a band of glittering silver.

How far it is away from you depends on how high you are above the level of the land at the moment you look at it.

The top diagram shows that if Jane and Fred had climbed a mountain a mile high, they would look a long way off before sighting the horizon (1), but if they stood at the water's edge as in (2) and the main picture, it would look much nearer.

In the last case, if your eyes were four feet above the ground, the horizon would be two and a-half miles away.

If you climbed the mile-high mountain, on the other hand, your horizon would lie 96 miles away. The reason we can't see beyond the horizon, even with a telescope, is that the curvature of the earth hides what is beyond on our sight.

FOR YOU TO DO: You can find out where your horizon lies right now, without even going outside. Fold this newspaper you are reading, lift it up with its edge level with your eyes, so you don't see either the top or under side.

If you took room, house and everything else away, the line made by the paper edge would be level with the distant horizon.

Ceylon Buddhists Aided Defeat of Woman Premier

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Srimavo Bandaranaike was a weeping widow with three children when she became the world's only woman to head a government.

She was elected prime minister of Ceylon in July 1960, on a sympathy vote after her husband, Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike, was assassinated by a Buddhist monk.

Now, five months before her five-year term is due to end, Mrs. Bandaranaike has suffered her worst setback — a defeat by one vote in Parliament last Friday. She announced afterward she would dissolve Parliament and call elections.

The defeat stemmed from a campaign by Buddhist monks who interpreted her moves to take over the country's biggest newspaper group — Lake House

— as part of a drive toward dictatorship.

The monks assailed her coalition with the Trotskyite Sama Samaj party, declaring it anti-Buddhist and antidemocratic.

ANOTHER TARGET

The monks found another target in Trotskyite Finance Minister Dr. N. M. Perera's budget proposal to ease restrictions on tapping coconut trees for toddy, a fermented alcoholic juice. They charged this was a deliberate Marxist plan to destroy Buddhism, which forbids all alcoholic drinks.

Mrs. Bandaranaike scrapped the toddy plan. But she did not yield in the press nationalization issue.

control of British, Indian and Pakistani banks.

She also took over schools run by religious organizations, ignoring a civil disobedience movement by nearly 800,000 Roman Catholics.

In foreign policy Mrs. Bandaranaike followed a course of nonalignment, worked closely with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, tried to mediate Indian-Chinese border disputes and described herself as anti-imperialist.

Her wealth depended on lands given to her ancestors for service to Britain, but her policies hurt British tea and rubber planting concerns and the import-export trade they controlled.

PAID HOMAGE

Mrs. Bandaranaike paid homage to a portrait of her late husband night and morning. Also — in spite of her quarrel with monks over the press takeover — she was deeply religious, spending half an hour each morning and evening sitting cross-legged before an image of Buddha in her home.

Mrs. Bandaranaike consulted astrologers frequently before making major decisions.

Early in her career she relied heavily on her able nephew, Felix Dias Bandaranaike, now minister of agriculture. Later she turned to the Trotskyite Perera. Taking the Trotskyites into her government, she explained she wanted to shore up her parliamentary majority and at the same time break up an ominous promising unity movement of three previously quarreling Marxist parties.

SECOND GOAL

She achieved the second aim. She also secured industrial peace after a fierce outbreak of strikes that for three months crippled the export trade Ceylon depends on for its clothing, tea and sugar on sales of tea, rubber and coconut.

Mrs. Bandaranaike was defeated by her unwavering determination to go ahead with the nationalization of the press group. She felt she had been venomously and unfairly attacked in newspapers during the 1960 elections.

In addition, her government was chronically assailed by mounting inflation and falling foreign assets, which forced drastic import curbs affecting the production of consumer goods. Development did not match increases in the labor force, and critics said this failure was a fundamental reason for what they called her drift toward dictatorship.

Bandits Hit Same Bank

WEST COVINA, Calif. (AP) — Two gunmen, apparently working independently, entered the same bank at almost the same moment Thursday, police said.

Witnesses in the West Covina branch of the United California Bank said one gunman demanded money of teller Grace Lund, 30. The other similarly addressed teller Yvonne Christopher, 24, at another window. Both men had paper sacks.

Between them they collected about $4,000, the bank said. Upon leaving the bank one got into an automobile and drove away. The other departed on foot.

In 1985 about 14 per cent of the families in the United States were composed of three or more generations, compared with 9 per cent in 1960.

Jackie Attends Concert

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In a rare public appearance, Mrs. John F. Kennedy went to the United Nations Thursday night for a concert. The concert in the General Assembly hall celebrated the 16th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

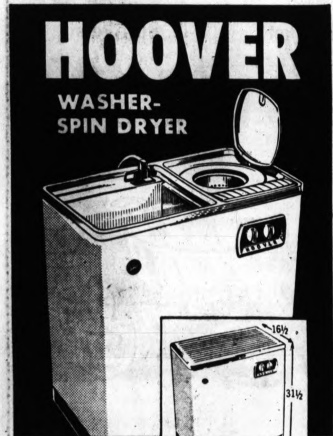

The president's widow attended with Adlai E. Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations. Stevenson is the chairman of the Eleanor Roosevelt Memorial Foundation, and Mrs. Roosevelt was a chief architect of the human rights declaration.

Mrs. Kennedy wore a fitted knee-length black sheath with her left shoulder bare, a white fur jacket, jeweled pendant earrings and a jeweled bracelet.

Buys UNICEF Cards 'Despite Protest

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — The Bank of America, which revoked permission to sell United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) Christmas cards in its lobby after a John Birch Society protest, is buying $1,000 worth of the cards to prove it won't submit to "outside pressure."

Since last Tuesday's Birch protest, on the basis that some of the benefits go to Communist countries, sales of the UNICEF cards have been reported "booming" in the bay area and on the peninsula.

After the protest was delivered by Dan King III of Pacific Grove, section leader of the Monterey chapter of the Birch Society, the bank's Monterey, Pacific Grove and Carmel branches ousted UNICEF volunteers from their lobbies.

The bank stated later that lobby sales were at the discretion of local branch managers but broad bank policy was against lobby solicitations. Card sales have not been resumed in the banks.

In San Francisco, Bank of America President R. A. Peterson said the $1,000 card purchase "is a small token of our bank's appreciation for UNICEF's work in providing food and medicine to needy children around the world."

In New York, United Nations' UNICEF headquarters reported

sales of its Christmas cards up 35 per cent from 1963.

Vows to Swim
St. Clair River;
Youth Missing

PORT HURON (AP) — Police on both the American and Canadian sides of the St. Clair River searched today for a junior college student who jumped in the water following a party and announced he was going to "swim across."

Police said the youth, James Cunningham, 20, Allen Park, a student at Port Huron Junior College went down to the river bank last night with four friends after a party, stripped to his trousers and jumped into the chilly 37-degree water.

His friends told police that Cunningham said, as he walked to the bank of the river, that before he did anything else "was going to swim across that river."

The point at which Cunningham jumped in is about a mile wide from the Canadian to the American side. The current of the river at that point is about 7 miles per hour, police said.

diseases and helps governments set up clinics for mother and child care.

Mrs. H. Paul Riebe, Monterey area director of UNICEF card sales, said she hoped the heavy increase in card sales after the Birch protest was "not merely a reaction to the (Birch) pressure," but an increased awareness of UNICEF's role.

King said he had presented the "Birch Society facts" on the UNICEF cards, stating that UNICEF helps some Communist countries and the cards made no mention of Christ.

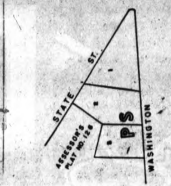

Mrs. Riebe says the cards are sold internationally and in some non-Christian countries, adding that four of the 15 card designs have a religious motif.

Borrows Services of 2 Others

LBJ Formalizes Aide's Role

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has added a special assistant to his staff and, in recent days, borrowed the services of two other men who could wind up with steady jobs at the White House.

George E. Reedy, White House press secretary, announced late Thursday that Richard M. Goodwin, once an aide to President John F. Kennedy, has been named a special assistant to Johnson. This formalized an arrangement under which Johnson had borrowed Goodwin from the State Department for speech-writing assignments.

Two other men have temporary assignments at the White House and Johnson would like to hire at least one of them on a permanent basis.

Marvin Watson, Democratic state chairman in Texas, has occupied a White House desk since Monday. Reedy said he did not know what chores Watson might be performing.

MAKING ANALYSES

Ramsey Clark, assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's lands division, also has been working at the White House. Reedy, asked about this, said Clark "is here for a few days making a few analyses for the President." He did not elaborate.

Goodwin, a 33-year-old honors graduate of Harvard Law School, was Kennedy's assistant special counsel at the White House for 11 months in 1961. Kennedy then moved him to the State Department where he was deputy assistant secretary for inter-American affairs.

Johnson borrowed Goodwin for speech-writing assignments during the campaign.

Reedy said Goodwin would be doing much the same work in the future as he has in the past.

HONKING POODLE—Charmaine, a 2-year-old poodle, is about to honk the car horn with her paw—a trick she learned to attract attention. The dog's owners, the Willard E. Smiths of Brooklyn Heights, near Cleveland, Ohio, say Charmaine used to bark badly when left alone in the car. Now she honks the horn. The Smiths have threatened to leave her home if she doesn't stop the annoying habit.

How Children Fail—5

Tension Eases for Student After Making Mistake

Enterprise Assn.

Copyright 1964 Pittman Publishing Corp.

There is a peculiar kind of relief, a lessening of tension, when you make a mistake. For when you make one, you no longer have to worry about whether you are going to make one. Walking a tightrope, you worry about falling off; once fallen off, you don't have to worry.

Children, to whom making mistakes is acutely painful, are therefore under great tension when doing something correctly.

Worrying about the mistakes they might make is worse than worrying about the mistakes they have made.

Thus, when you tell a child that he has done a problem wrong, you often hear a sigh of relief. He says, "I KNEW it would be wrong." He would rather BE wrong, and know it, than not know whether or not.

Some say that children get security from large amounts of written work. Maybe.

NO MISTAKES

But suppose every teacher in the school were told that he had to do 10 pages of addition problems, within a given time limit and with no mistakes, or lose his job.

Even if the time given were ample enough to do all problems carefully with time remaining for checking, the chances are that no teacher would get a perfect paper.

Their anxiety would build up until it impaired or wholly broke down their co-ordination and confidence.

Perhaps children need a lot of written work, particularly in math, but should not get much of it at one time. Ask children to spend a whole period on one paper, and anxiety or boredom is sure to drive them into foolish errors.

MOST MISTAKES

It used to puzzle me that the students who made the most mistakes and got the worst marks were so often the first ones to hand in their papers.

"I used to say, 'If you finish early, take time to check your work, do some problems again.' Typical teacher's advice. I might as well have told them to flap their arms and fly.

When the paper was in, the tension was ended. Their fate was in the lap of the gods. They might still worry about flunking the paper, but it was a fatalistic kind of worry, it didn't contain the agonizing element of choice, there was nothing more they could do about it.

One way to keep down tension is to be aware of it. I told the math class that to let something go by in class without knowing what it means, and without saying anything, is like leaving something in Howard Johnson's on a long car trip.

HELPS STUDENTS

You are going to have to go back for it eventually, so the sooner the better. This foolish metaphor has helped the kids, or so they say.

They have learned to recognize, if only a little, the feeling of panicky confusion that slowly gets hold of them.

To be able to say, "I'm getting left at Howard Johnson's" helps them to control this feeling, and if it gets too much for them they can always tell me that they have been left behind; then I can do something about picking them up.

We must set a limit to the tension that we put children under. If we don't, they will set their own limits by not paying attention, by fooling around, by saying unnecessarily, "I don't get it."

Poll Shows Majority of Committee Undecided

See No Shift on Burch Since GOP Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was no indication today of any strong shift for or against chairman Dean Burch in the ranks of the Republican national committee since the GOP summit meeting.

And Burch himself tied his star to Sen. Barry Goldwater, saying if he is deposed it would be almost like reading Goldwater out of the GOP.

By far the majority of 132 committee members who replied to an Associated Press poll on whether they would give Burch a vote of confidence at Chicago Jan. 22-23 said they were undecided or keeping their own counsel.

In their meeting in New York Wednesday, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon told Goldwater that his handpicked GOP chairman would need a mandate, and not just a working majority, to remain at the head of the party's national organization.

CHECKS VOTES

Burch himself was reported today to be trying to learn through telephone talks just how many committee members he could count on in a showdown.

There were contradictory reports on how the count was running. One source said that as of now, Burch had enough backing to win a vote of confidence. Another source said Burch did not, and definitely did not have enough to be considered a mandate.

Burch, a protégé of the defeated GOP presidential candidate, expressed the opinion Thursday night that if he were forced to resign as party chairman "the implication would be that he (Goldwater) was no longer asked to support the party....

"Let's face it — the headline, if I were deposed in Chicago, would not be 'Dean Burch Deposed.' It would be 'Goldwater Rejected by the Republican Party,' and it's as simple as that."

TV INTERVIEW

Burch said in a CBS television interview aired on the Walter Cronkite program, "If I were satisfied in my own mind that my leaving would be beneficial to the party, would not be construed by the conservatives or the strong pro-Goldwater folks as a slap at them, then I would probably be packed and leaving."

As to the "Burch must go" demands that have sounded since Goldwater's defeat, Burch said he was the target only because "I'm supposedly a Goldwater man. Actually, it had been my understanding until recently that everybody was a Goldwater man during the campaign."

A prehistoric people may have lived in the Grand Canyon and other northern Arizona canyons 4,000 years ago, carbon tests on artifacts indicate.

Village Woman's Club Ready for Yuletide

Already the spirit of Christmas is filling the old English country style residence that houses the Village Woman's Club on East Long Lake Road.

Bells, a tree, holly and greens help create the holiday atmosphere. So does the large box of gifts brought by members for patients in the Oakland County Medical Care Facility and the geriatrics division of Pontiac State Hospital.

An evening of Christmas caroling is arranged for Dec. 17 when "The Jills," a group of nine girls from Bloomfield Hills High School will present a program and join the members in a community sing.

Mrs. Leslie Stauffer, Mrs. William Bachman Jr. and Mrs. Morris Purdy will be hostesses that evening.

SANTA TO VISIT

On Dec. 20 Santa will visit children and grandchildren of the members. Helping him pass out candy canes will be elves, played by Mrs. Paul Carrick, Mrs. Roger Craton, Mrs. Wendell Smith and Mrs. Brian Van Hols.

On display at the club during holiday season is a group of paintings by mother and daughter, Grace T. Fox and Kathryn C. Fox of Birmingham.

Mrs. Stratton Brown and Mrs. Donald Parsons, both artists in their own right, are in charge of this exhibit which is one in a series from local artists.

Consider the Feelings of Others

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: Will you please tell me if I was right or wrong in the following situation: My sister-in-law came to visit me the other day.

It had rained shortly before and the streets were still wet. She did not wear rubbers and her shoes were quite muddy.

I asked her if she would please remove them as I didn't want her tracking mud on my living room rug, which incidentally is quite light. I gave her a pair of slippers to put on.

She was highly insulted over this and has told the rest of the family that she will not come to my house again.

I hate unpleasantness and this whole thing has me very upset. Will you please tell me if she is justified in feeling hurt?

A: While I can readily understand your wanting to protect your rug, to have asked her to remove her shoes so as not to track mud on it, was not very polite and implied that she didn't have the good sense to wipe her shoes before coming in.

On the other hand, had you offered her a pair of dry slippers to put on while her wet shoes were drying to prevent her from catching cold, would have shown thoughtful consideration of her and at the same time protected your rug from her muddy shoes.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Childhood dreams of being a nurse became a reality for Mrs. Howard Polley (Nancy Shaw) of DeSola Place, a recent graduate of the Henry Ford Hospital School of Nursing in Detroit.

Her brother James with whom she played 'nurse and doctor' received the degree of doctor of medicine last June from the University of Michigan. He is a lieutenant assigned to the U.S. Naval Hospital, San Diego, Calif.

Their parents are the John R. Shaws of Auburn Avenue.

A 'Slip' of the Tongue

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Recently the janitor who works in the office where my sister is a secretary told her in front of some other employees that her slip was showing.

My sister became very angry and told him that she thought he was out of line to have made such a personal remark to her.

As a result of this, many unpleasant things have developed which I do not care to go into here. But our family is now arguing about it at home. Some of the members of our family say that a person who is in a lower class should not make personal remarks to someone who is in a higher class. Your opinion is needed.

DEAR ELECTED: Class shames! Just because a man's

Xi Chapter Celebrates the Holiday

Mrs. Donald Hogue presented a program of narrated Christmas carols for Xi chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma society Thursday evening.

The dinner meeting at Holiday Inn was planned by Mrs. Peter Spring, Mrs. Hogue, Mrs. R. H. Kempf, Marietta Spring and Mrs. Charles Wait.

Mrs. Hogue reminded the group that some of the most cherished customs of Christmas came from European sources.

She noted too that in this time of change, the Christmas season is one of unity in diversity.

Also presented was a short film explaining the history of "Silent Night" which was first performed in a little church in Oberndorf, Austria early in the 19th century.

Smart snow bunnies will greet the season in a handsome sweater they knit themselves. This authentic Aran-inspired style by Bernat is in Super Morshire, wool and mohair—a rugged, warm yarn that knits up quickly. The big diamond design is perfect for colleens who ski and those who just want to look the part. Style No. 5064.

Heavy Irish Yarn Comes in New Warm Colors

It's a great day for the Irish — and style conscious Americans who knit. Rugged, handsome Irish wool yarn, for generations the favorite of both fisherfolk and aristocrats on the Emerald Isle, is making a colorful debut in this country.

Blarneyspun it is, to make a knitter's heart happy for the sheer clicking of a needle! Sure, for more than two centuries the Irish have been knitting the great heavy sweaters, all warm as promise.

WARM SWEATERS

Fisherman's knit, they call them. Now knitters with an eye to fashion and a mind to accomplishment, can knit the fine warm sweaters in authentic Gaelic patterns in the genuine Irish yarns.

Bernat, the oldest name in handknitting yarns, is now importing genuine Irish yarn. Blarneyspun — the robust, all-wool yarn — is rugged, strong and knits up into patterns and styles as handsome as the outdoors where they will be worn.

For the first time, Irish yarn is available in colors for knitters — rich, warm colors borrowed from a leprechaun's rainbow. True to the tradition of Irish yarn, Blarneyspun is processed to be water-repellent.

More Irish luck, the great look of all Irish sweaters is translated into easy-to-follow instructions in a new book by

Service Pins Are Given Six Women

Six women of St. Michael's Catholic Church were presented with special 15-year service pins for their work for the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Every two weeks for more than 15 years these women have sewn cancer pads for the foundation's service program.

Mrs. Milo D. McLintock and Mrs. George McCorkle, volunteers from the local unit of the Michigan Cancer Foundation presented the pins.

Receiving the honor were Mrs. Cedric C. Davis, Mrs. R. A. Lamb, Mrs. Harry Stahovec, Clara Nusbauer, Mrs. Vincent Vaverek and Mrs. Herbert N. Watson, who has for many years been chairman of the group.

Dr. and Mrs. Gerald C. Dietz, Woodedge Drive, (Mary Frances Galvin) announced the birth of their sixth child, Kevin Casey, on Dec. 2.

OU Chorus Will Join Symphony in 'Messiah'

The 140-voice Oakland University chorus will join with the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra for a campus performance of Handel's "Messiah" 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the intramural building.

This will be the chorus' second year with the Pontiac Symphony. It is the nation's only traveling university chorus specializing in singing with symphony orchestras.

Conducted by George V. Cripps and Felix Resnick, the Christmas portion of the famous oratorio will be performed in its entirety, including the choruses "And Glory of the Lord Shall Be Revealed," and "For Unto Us a Child Is Born."

The well-known "Comfort Ye My People," "Thus Saith the Lord of Hosts," "Rejoice Greatly," and "He Shall Feed His Flock" will also be heard.

Cripps is associate professor of music and director of the Oakland Chorus and Resnick is conductor of the Pontiac Symphony.

A feature of the Sunday performance will be the use of a harpsichord in the accompaniment. Clive Henery, assistant instructor in music at Oakland, will be the harpsichordist.

His wife, Diana Henery, will be the soprano soloist while other solo parts will be sung by Alice Engram, contralto, and J. Duncan Sells, bass, both of the Oakland faculty, and John Wilkinson, tenor, of Pontiac.

The concert is under the joint sponsorship of the Oakland University Community Arts Council and the campus concert lecture series.

Tickets will be available at the door at $1.50 for adults and $1 for students.

Winner on the slopes—a neosy Fisherman's knit-it-yourself sweater for all outdoor girls. Genuine Irish Blarneyspun yarn handknits into a handsome turquoise-and-natural patterned sweater, with large, face-framing collar. Knit it with easy to follow instructions by Bernat. The yarn is rugged, warm and water-repellent. Style No. 397.

Perfume Containers Have Art Heritage

Fine art glass, gathered from the major glass centers of the world, is featured in a new collection of fragrance containers for Christmas giving.

Included are striking examples of hand cut crystal, laticino thread glass, aurora decorated glass, convoluted stems of birds and fish and crackled gold and silver.

Also available are Italian baroque art glass, alabaster, triplex, lustre, rainbow, and flashed and flecked glass in artistic shades and shapes.

"Artistic" is the proper word to describe these unusual containers, for many of the designs and techniques employed to produce these handcrafted pieces may be seen in such famous museums as The Louvre, The British Museum, The Silesian Museum of Opava, The Uffizi Museum in Florence, and the Metropolitan Museum of New York.

FUNCTIONAL TOO

"Practical" would also be an accurate description. All but hidden by the precious metals and convoluted crystal is a tiny perfume pump of efficient design, carefully set into the art glass containers by craftsmen at The DeVilbiss Company in Somerset, Pa.

All the pieces in The DeVilbiss collection are now available for purchase at leading drug, department, and specialty stores throughout the United States and Canada.

One More Job for Mama: Planning Fun

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

If you're a woman with a family, you already have so many different jobs to handle you won't notice one more. And this one really needs doing, according to the letters I get from around the country. The job is chairman of the family entertainment committee.

More families need to find more ways of having fun—for less money.

The depressing conclusion in those families whose budgets simply won't allow an expenditure of from 2 per cent to 10 per cent for recreation is that it takes too much money to do anything.

If a couple decides to go in for bridge, they feel the need of professional lessons first. If they live near the water, there's the price of a boat. Dinner and dancing out is far out, financially.

Taking the family bowling is not for free. Neither is the neighborhood movie. And TV doesn't provide much in the way of participation.

INGENUITY NEEDED
Families with tight budgets may have to invent some new types of entertainment, or revert to some of the old-fashioned pleasures that once upon a time were considered highly satisfying.

Maybe your loved ones would be tempted to look you up if you suggested climbing a hill to watch a sunset. But I know a woman who frankly admits she spends $2,000 to $3,000 to go and see the sun rise in Tahiti!

The trouble with most of us is that it doesn't cost money, we don't think it's fun. That same sun in Tahiti also rises closer to home—but who's going to enjoy looking at it if there's no admission charge?

Since the family income must cover a multitude of needs, there's often little left besides ingenuity to provide for entertainment. That's why Mom has to take on the job. She's accustomed to using her wits in lieu of money.

NEW IDEAS

For the sake of her family's emotional health, she needs to search out all the ways in her local environment to provide recreation. In addition, she'll no doubt have to do a selling job on the family. They just don't know—from lack of familiarity with them—that unsophisticated activities can be fun for sophisticated people.

In one community near my home, some smart young families have started a group singing session once a week. Last year they probably have scorned the idea. But they've discovered it's real sport—and doesn't cost a thing.

It was an idea born of mutual financial straits, but has flourished because everybody has a darn good time. In a mid-western town, it's the dancing class—taught by the best dancers in the crowd—and each family takes a turn at being host.

Family outings can be hikes to discover what's up a strange road you've never taken. Or how about giving everybody a dime store paint box and holding an outdoor art session?

A business executive, recalling some of the more memorable pleasures in her life, cited the family berry-picking excursions every summer as the high point in a well-traveled and sophisticated career.

Speaking of sophistication, maybe one of the facts we need to face is that we aren't as frightfully sophisticated after all—that we can actually enjoy simple pleasures that jog our imaginations and even stir our talents.

Maybe we don't have to have a lot of expensive equipment we can't afford, or resign ourselves to costly travel in order to get where fun is supposed to be. And maybe we don't have to work so hard in order to have a good time.

If you've dreamed up some ideas for your own family's recreation, this column—and its readers—would like to hear about them. Leisure time and the enjoyment thereof is so precious it's a crying shame to have to put a price tag on it.

(You can get Mary Feeley's handy Budget Leaflet by writing to her in care of The Pontiac Press. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Sandwich Cookies Filled With Jelly

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

A delicious cookie of European origin (as most of our cookies are) is a cookie made by Mrs. Myroslaw Hruska.

She sent some to her daughter's Girl Scout troop and the leader of the troop asked us to get the recipe.

Mrs. Hruska is a home-room mother this year.

BUTTER COOKIES

By Mrs. Myroslaw Hruska
1 cup butter
¾ cup sugar
5 hard-cooked egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt

Mash egg yolks, or push through a fine strainer.

Cream butter and sugar; add yolks and vanilla. Mix well. Add flour and salt.

Chill until firm enough to roll. Roll out to ¼ inch and cut in rounds. Use a thimble to cut circles out of half the rounds.

Place on lightly greased cookie sheet, one inch apart. Bake at 350 degrees 10 minutes, or until golden. Cool.

Cover rounds with raspberry or currant jelly. Top with doughnut-like rounds. Frost with confectioners' sugar icing.

Angels, Stars Party Theme

Angels and stars in a white and silver color scheme provided the theme for the Christmas party of Iota Eta chapter of Pi Omicron National sorority Thursday evening at Devon Gables.

Mrs. E. Verne McCall was mistress of ceremonies. Co-chairmen for the event were Mrs. Leon Skelley and Mrs. Paul L. Hoskins. They were assisted by Mrs. Harold Biegelow and Mrs. Hugo Harnack.

Out of town guests included the Michigan state president, Grace Morrow; Petronella Sullivan, central district president; and Mrs. Sig Cervinski, national director.

Something Else Can Lose Shape

Even the most expensive handbag will lose its shape if it is constantly overstuffed. Make a practice of weeding out your purse as soon as you notice that it looks overcrowded.

Group Hears Missionary

Isabelle Jones, missionary to the Congo for 12 years, spoke to the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the First Baptist Church Thursday.

She told of the fall of Stanleyville and of her evacuation.

Mrs. Melvin Strader was guest soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Jack Barron.

Nutrition Institute Studies Malnutrition, Diseases of Overeating

NEW YORK (AP) — The facts are eloquent, and the figures are shocking:

In some of the world's underdeveloped areas, children have only a 50-50 chance of reaching the age of 5 — because of hunger and deficiencies associated with it.

At the same time, one of the leading killers in the United States is the higher-than-needed food intake — which manifests itself in heart disease, cerebral strokes, liver disease, and kidney failure.

Tucked away in temporary quarters in an apartment house off 168th Street — in sight of other buildings of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center — are the cramped headquarters of the Institute of Nutrition Sciences.

The institute — the only one of its kind in the Americas — tries to fight malnutrition globally. In the United States, for example, institute researchers are investigating the influence of too many calories and too little exercise.

STUNTED GROWTH

In the Caribbean area, institute field teams are studying stunted growth and anemias caused by food deficiencies.

In Beirut, Lebanon, institute specialists are working on a low-cost, high-protein food mixture, and on protection from blindness caused by lack of vitamin A.

In New York itself, the institute trains researchers and public health officials in a program

Program Set on Retarded

The 13 newly elected members of the State Legislature from Oakland County will be honored guests at the Retarded Children's Information Day Program, tomorrow, at Royal Oak's Kimball High School.

The program, sponsored by the Oakland County Council for Retarded Children, is to acquaint the public and members of the legislature with the need for expanded services to the mentally retarded.

Dr. Stafford L. Warren, assistant to the president for mental retardation, will speak at luncheon on federal-state implementation of new legislation for the retarded.

that draws on almost every scientific and medical field taught at Columbia.

Most of the 40-odd students in the institute each year already are medical doctors or public health officials.

FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Most of them come from foreign countries — usually the emerging nations of Africa, Asia or Latin America.

Courses — not generally offered elsewhere — include problems of food and drug law regulation, food production and economics, and food technology.

One of the leading killers studied by institute is a combined deficiency of vitamin A and protein.

If intakes of both are very low, reports Dr. King, the mortality rate, even after medical care, is a staggering 85 per cent.

Furthermore, low intake of vitamin A often results in total blindness — affecting millions of children in India and Southeast Asia.

Dr. King says reasons for this and other phenomena are not fully understood "but research can furnish answers."

He adds that if low-cost, high-quality protein foods — such as the one under development in Beirut — could be produced and distributed on a large scale, the death rate could be dramatically lowered.

The work of the institute has been severely handicapped since a fire in February 1964 destroyed the main office and work space, but classes continued on schedule.

'65 Corvair

More are on the way every day. So if you're itching to be off and running in one of these racier, roomier new Corvairs, come on in and see us now. Try out this internationally styled beauty that has both U.S. and European car buffs applauding it. It's enrolled many a family man, complete with family, in the ranks of its enthusiasts. It's longer and wider, easier to enter, with more shoulder room up front. It's also got up to 180 hp available in the new top-of-the-line Corsas; up to 140 hp in the Monzas and 600's. You're really got to drive this new Corvair to believe it.

Corvair Monza Sport Sedan

Chevrolet Impala Sport Coupe

'65 Chevrolet

If it looks like it could be too rich for the old budget, that's a tribute to Chevrolet's designers and engineers. Because they knocked themselves out to bring you a longer, wider, extravagantly beautiful car. With richer, roomier interiors. A smoother Jet-smooth ride. Wide-Stance design for greater stability. And mighty impressive power availability, including a 400-hp V8. On top of that the people at Fisher Body outdid themselves. But even this car must lack something — and does. You at the wheel — a glaring deficiency we'd like to remedy real soon.

'65 Chevy II

Here's where you get a belt out of going thrifty. Because (1) you get the sharpest looking thrift car you've ever seen — like the bucket-seated Nova SS Coupe below, for example. And (2) you can put in a V8 with 300 hp and spunk along like you never thought a thrifty car could. Of course, if your power wants are more modest, there's a 4 available on lowest priced sedans, and two 6's and two other V8's available throughout the line. Like to get your hands on a thrift car that doesn't look or move like one? Have a go in one of these.

Choose a new Chevrolet, Chevelle, Chevy II, Corvair or Corvette now at your dealer's

Here are all the things that made Chevelle the most popular car of its size its first year out — plus some new surprises that promise to make it come on stronger than ever. You can have up to 350 hp behind that new V-shaped prow. All told, there's a range of six engines available — from a quieter six to high-performance V8's that feel as impetuous as this new Chevelle looks. There's also a quieter, smoother ride. Yet Chevelle still comes on the same easy-handling wheel-base — beautifully proportioned between the regular Chevrolet and Chevy II.

State College Teen Found Dead in Bed

ALPENA (UPI) — The body of a 17-year-old student at Alpena Community College was found yesterday in his bed at the apartment he shared with three other youths, police said.

An autopsy showed that Lloyd Ross, 17, of nearby Mikado died from a skull fracture caused by a blow or a fall, authorities said.

It was reported the youth was involved in a scuffle at a party the previous night at the apartment of other students, but police would release no details on the matter.

The boy's body was discovered at 1:30 p.m. by Mrs. Ted Flowsky, Alpena, mother of one of Ross' roommates, Terry Flowsky.

TIME OF DEATH

Authorities estimated the time of death to be between 3 a.m. and 9 a.m.

Flowsky and the other roommates said they shook Ross briefly yesterday morning to tell him they were going to their classes at Alpena Community College, and they thought he mumbled something.

They said he complained of a headache during the night.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS

Being a small boy, David did not know a decree had gone out from Caesar Augustus that the world would be taxed. In fact, he didn't even know what taxes were.

But David's father did, and he cried out against the injustice of further taxing people who already were taxed almost to starvation.

"David and I will have to go to Bethlehem to pay our taxes." David's father told his mother. "We shall have to use our meager savings."

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Duodenal Ulcer Recurrence Is Possible

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I recently had an operation for a duodenal ulcer. My doctor said he did a subtotal gastrectomy and a vagotomy.

Please explain just what was done. Is it possible for me to have a recurrence of the ulcer?

A—My friend, you had more than half of BRANDSTADT's stomach removed if you had a subtotal gastrectomy.

This is done to cut down on the amount of acid-secreting mucous membrane because a person with a duodenal ulcer secretes an overabundance of hydrochloric acid.

This acid irritates the ulcer and interferes with its healing. Vagotomy is a cutting of the vagus nerve.

REDUCE STIMULI

This is done to reduce the stimuli to the acid-secreting cells in the stomach lining and thus further reduce irritation of the ulcer.

Duodenal ulcers have several causes.

If the cause remains after the operation, there is always a possibility of recurrence of the ulcer.

Maintenance of a bland diet and a calmer attitude toward life will, however, reduce this danger.

Q—In a recent column you said that 15 kinds of yeast could cause disease. Could taking Brewer's yeast cause such a disease?

A—Brewer's yeast is a good source of the vitamin B complex and is often prescribed for this purpose.

It is not related to any of the disease-producing types of fungus.

Red Official Raps Nikita on Economics

MOSCOW (AP) — An economic official accused former Premier Khrushchev of economic wishful thinking today at a session of the Soviet parliament.

It was the first time Khrushchev had been attacked publicly by name since his ouster on Oct. 14.

Konstantin Belyak, chairman of the Economic Council of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, told the Supreme Soviet there had been lack of stability in Soviet economic planning.

"This was due," he said, "to the practice cultivated by comrade Khrushchev of presenting the desired as reality—the desire to put down (in plans) as much as possible on the off chance it would be possible to achieve it."

4.5 Million to Choose

Yule Trees From State

LANSING (AP)—A record 4.5 million families will choose Michigan evergreens as their Christmas trees this yuletide season, including some 2 million outside the state, the conservation department predicts. It expects strong demand from the northeast, where drought conditions cut into the local Christmas tree crop.

BLUE SHIELD ANSWERS YOUR QUESTIONS

Blue Shield Protects Subscriber Dollars

I've heard Blue Shield say that it protects subscriber dollars. What does that mean and how do you do it?

We mean we make sure subscriber dollars are not spent carelessly or needlessly to pay for benefits that are not necessary or not covered in the subscriber's contract. We do this with a team of internal auditors and quality-control specialists, including physicians, who maintain a constant check on claims and payment procedures.

I have a small business which employs only a few people. Can we get Blue Shield coverage?

Firms with as few as five full-time employees including the owner may qualify for group coverage. And even if you do not have enough employees to qualify as a group, you and your employees can get Blue Cross-Blue Shield protection as individuals. Write or phone your nearest Blue Cross-Blue Shield office for full particulars.

If my newborn baby required emergency surgery within hours after his birth, would Blue Shield cover the cost?

It certainly would. Children requiring special care are eligible for all Blue Shield benefits from the moment of birth. If he is your first child, be sure to notify Blue Shield of his birth within 30 days.

Can I buy stock in Blue Shield and how high are the dividends it pays?

No, you cannot buy stock in Blue Shield because it is a non-profit organization. The only dividends it pays are in the form of the finest medical care protection available at the lowest possible cost. In addition, Blue Shield returns to its subscribers, in benefits, more than 93¢ of every dollar taken in. This is one of the highest benefit returns of any health care protection plan anywhere.

Do I need a physical examination before I can join Blue Shield?

No. You need no physical examination or statement of health—no matter how old you are or when you join.

Do you have a question about your Blue Shield coverage? Just write Dept. 54, Michigan Medical Service, 441 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

Now! Join Blue Cross-Blue Shield without belonging to a group if you are under 65. Get your application from your doctor, hospital or nearest Blue Cross-Blue Shield office.

Ignorance, Callousness

Small Incidents Help Viet Cong Cause

By ROBER C. MILLER

SAIGON (UPI)—The Communists get many unwitting assists in their effort to take over South Viet Nam.

The backhanded assists come from Americans and loyal Vietnamese alike.

They illustrate some of the things the United States and its Vietnamese allies have to contend with in trying to win the war against the communists.

Here are some typical incidents:

A Vietnamese woman beats her servant in a village near Dalat. Three nights later a Viet Cong Communist delegation visits the village, and forces the woman to kneel and publicly apologize to her servant.

A small group of Communist guerrillas make a food raid on a Quang Ngai village. The village authorities radio the nearby Vietnamese army garrison for help.

FRIENDLY SHELING

Instead, of sending out troops, the buttoned-up garrison fires an artillery barrage into the area. The Viet Cong retreat unscratched. The village suffers three killed and 12 wounded by the "friendly" shelling.

Outnumbered Saigon police battle rioting students outside a Buddhist pagoda. A sweating, exasperated police captain pleads with a brown-robed monk to intercede.

A holy man gazes serenely at the sky as the rioters pause and look to him for guidance.

The holy man retreats inside the pagoda, and a Mona Lisa smile appears on his face as the battle resumes.

Two battalions of Vietnamese troops — nearly 1,500 men — move down a road in the Mekong Delta. A light machine gun fires from an ambush. The troops take cover in ditches.

The lone gun sprays the troops at intervals, moves, sprays another group, each time killing and wounding the ground-hugging troops.

An American adviser shouts orders, screams at the Vietnamese, begs them to counter-attack the lone gun. None move.

He runs about attempting to prod them into doing something besides lying there waiting to be killed. But none follow him, and all he gets is a burst of enemy fire for his efforts.

He swears disgustedly and takes cover. Four hours later the Reds exhaust their ammunition and withdraw. The troops reform their column, attend the dead and wounded and move down the road.

A drunken American soldier slides out of a tiny Saigon taxi, argues loudly with the Vietnamese cabbie over the fare. He angrily shoves the driver to the ground and lurches off into the darkness.

The driver dusts himself off, glares at the American and mutters: "Some day."

A district chief with powerful friends in Saigon and a Hitler complex misuses his power and lays a harsh rule upon his area.

The villagers complain repeatedly to higher authorities, but receive only a shrug of the shoulders.

The Communist Viet Cong capture the chief in a predawn raid, hold him prisoner a week and then execute him after a public trial. The new district chief appointed by Saigon governs well.

A shiny American car moves slowly through a crowded Saigon street; its Vietnamese driver rides the horn impatiently. In the rear seat two American officers loiter majestically.

"See," says a scowling youth on a corner, "just like the arrogant French." The group with him nods in agreement.

A helicopter loaded with Vietnamese soldiers lands at a remote beleaguered outpost. The soldiers are told to get out. None move.

The American sergeant repeats his order. The terrified troops shake their heads and refuse to move. The burly American grabs them one by one and kicks them out the door. The reinforcements for outpost X have arrived.

The American in civilian clothes reaches across the bar and tenderly caresses the Vietnamese girl's hand.

"Sorry, honey," he says in a low voice, "I won't be able to see you tonight, we're moving some troops down to the delta early in the morning."

Later the girl makes a low-voiced phone call in Vietnamese.

In the morning the convoy is ambushed, three trucks destroyed and several soldiers killed or wounded by the Communists.

The American, now a shot-at hero, tells his friends: "Those VC (Viet Cong) sure got good intelligence. I wonder how they find out things."

A helicopter lands at a mountain-top outpost in the strategic Phuoc Valley in Central Viet Nam.

Two stretcher-bearers attempt to put an ill woman aboard, but are pushed back by an American Army major who insists that two heavy pieces of scrap canvas be taken aboard instead.

"These people must learn," he says, "that they have their own helicopters and these planes are only for Americans."

Bulldog Gets Yule Cards

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Percy, an English bulldog who has spent most of his nine years as mascot at the Municipal Animal Shelter, even gets Christmas cards.

Every day brings visitors and Christmas cards. "We will have a lot of people who found dogs here who remember Percy and want to show him to their children," said Mrs. Ruth Coffey, an employee at the shelter.

"He's a moocher — and how we love him," she added.

Percy, more dead than alive, was almost two years old when he came to the shelter as an apparent fugitive from an assault with bullets and pop bottles. He has never left the grounds.

HE SHARES HIS BUNK

Now his eyes and hearing are failing, but he continues an unusual Christmaslike, year around charity for a bulldog by sharing his bunk with two cats.

Vow Payment of Repair Costs

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—The Indonesian government promised today to pay for repairs to two American libraries attacked by mobs demonstrating against the U.S.-Belgian rescue mission in the Congo.

It was unclear, however, whether the U.S. Information Agency (USIA) library in Surabaya, attacked last Monday, and another in Jogjakarta would be allowed to reopen.

The second ransacked USIA library is located in Jakarta, the capital.

U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones obtained President Sukarno's pledge to pay damages during an interview with him today.

Last Wednesday in Washington, U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk criticized countries in which mobs attacked American installations with government's "acquiescence." These incidents also have occurred in other countries, however, and Rusk did not name Indonesia.

CROWD ATTACKS

Crowds attacking the library in Surabaya broke windows, destroyed furniture and burned an estimated 4,000 books.

Yesterday Paul Neilson, head of the USIA in Indonesia, returned from a visit to Surabaya and reported the situation appeared to be quiet.

Khanh Escapes Death in Cong Airport Attack

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Lieut. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, commander of South Viet Nam's armed forces, escaped death Thursday when the Viet Cong attacked an airport from which he was about to take off.

With Khanh, former premier of South Viet Nam, was Dr. Nguyen Luu Vien, deputy premier in Premier Tran Van Huong's civilian government.

A government source said Khanh and Vien were visiting Phu Quoc, a 30-mile-long island in the Gulf of Siam. They were about to return to Saigon when the attack began.

The plane they were to use was damaged in the fight, and the two men were forced to spend the night on the island. Another plane was sent in for them today and they returned to Saigon safely.

The government dropped paratroopers on the island to pursue the guerrillas, but no results were reported.

Reports Say Cong

Suffer High Losses

SAIGON (UPI)—Government

casualty reports indicated today that Communist guerrillas are paying a heavy price for their current offensive in South Viet Nam's central mountains.

Six Americans have been killed and a seventh is listed as "missing in action" in the latest Viet Cong push. But a spokesman for the South Vietnamese Defense Ministry said at least 200 guerrillas have been cut down in the past three days.

The spokesman said 124 Viet Cong were killed in three related mountain battles, the highest reported Communist casualty figure of the war.

Sixty-five other guerrillas were said to have been slain in other engagements with government troops this week.

Jagan Refusal to Resign Sparks Crisis

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — British Guiana headed into a governmental crisis today as Premier Cheddi Jagan said he would not resign. Gov. Sir Richard Luyt consulted with London to determine how the Marxist leader could be forced out.

"I will not resign," Jagan told a news conference. "The British government will have to force me out."

Luyt asked London for an order permitting him to summon the new legislative assembly without the premier's consent. Some sources close to the governor said Jagan's tenure would end with the calling of the assembly.

However, some experts on the South American colony's constitution said there were ambiguities that create a doubt whether Jagan's tenure would end automatically or whether his resignation is required.

Traditionally, premiers resign when defeated in elections. But Jagan charged fraud in the vote Monday which cost him his majority in the assembly.

Brazil President Caught in Personality Squabble

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — President Humberto Castello Branco is caught in the middle of a name-calling fight between one of his top Cabinet members and Gov. Carlos Lacerda, a key figure in the revolution that brought him to power.

Also caught up in the feud is the American mining combine, the Hanna Co.

Lacerda, governor of Guanabara State — Rio de Janeiro City — claims the economic planning minister, Roberto Campos, served as a consultant for Hanna and that a new mining policy of the government is completely beneficial to the firm and detrimental to other mining companies and the Brazilian national interests.

On a television program, Campos denied Lacerda's accusations and claimed the governor is attempting to divide the nation.

PRIVATE PORT

The dispute arose over Hanna's request to build a private port for iron ore exports near Rio de Janeiro where the state-owned steel company had planned to build its port. The government is reported agreeable in principle to the Hanna proposition.

Campos' connection with the American firm comes from a firm called Consultec which Campos started several years ago as an economic consulting business. The firm did some research on local market conditions and export possibilities for Hanna.

Lacerda, though attacking

Campos and other ministers, has carefully refrained from assailing Castello Branco.

Charging that Campos was pulling the wool over Castello Branco's eyes in the Hanna affair, Lacerda demanded the minister's removal and a complete restudy of the case.

Castello Branco responded in a letter to Lacerda that he assumed complete responsibility for Campos' actions but stated that he was always open for any "criticisms sincerely made."

After receiving the president's letter, Lacerda canceled a television program which he had scheduled to renew his attacks against Campos.

LONG-TIME ENEMY

Lacerda, who figured prominently in the fall of presidents Getulio Vargas in 1964, Janio Quadros in 1961, and Joao Goulart last April, is a long-time enemy of Campos. Campos figured in Goulart's government as ambassador to Washington but quit and turned against Goulart shortly before the revolution.

If continued, the Campos-Lacerda battle — while apparently based in large part on personal animosity between the two men — could put Castello Branco in the uncomfortable position of having to choose between the two.

Lacerda is the presidential candidate and titular head of the National Democratic Union with which Castello Branco counts his principal political support.

If he chose against Lacerda he would stand to lose a large chunk of the party's backing.

Campos has charge of the government's fight to halt inflation and put the nation in order economically.

Planning to Ask Death for Trio in Kidnap Case

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal prosecutor said Thursday he will ask the death penalty for three men charged with kidnapping William R. Loomis, 39, of Indianapolis.

Loomis' body was found in the woods near Manitowish, Mich., a month after he disappeared during a trip to Chicago. He had been shot in the head.

Arraignment of the defendants was continued to Dec. 17 by Judge Michael L. Igoe in U.S. District Court after Arthur L. Dunne, assistant U.S. district attorney, told the court one defendant, Philip Battaglia Jr., 23, is sick with flu in the DuPage County Jail in Wheaton, Ill.

"The government is going to seek the death penalty in this case," Dunne said.

The other defendants are Roy W. Thornburn, 37, and Robert D. Lazzaro, 27. All defendants are from Chicago.

DUKE OF WINDSOR

Plan Surgery on Former King

Houston Operation for Duke of Windsor

NEW YORK (AP) — The Duke of Windsor leaves Saturday for Houston, Tex., to undergo "corrective arterial surgery" by a noted heart doctor.

The former King Edward VIII, now 70, is reportedly suffering from a possible abdominal aneurysm — a ballooning of an artery in the abdomen, according to spokesmen at Methodist Hospital, Houston, where the surgery will be performed.

The duke's wife, the former Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson of Baltimore, Md., will accompany him. A hospital room near the duke's room has been reserved for her.

An aide of the duke declined to elaborate on the nature of the ailment. When asked for assurance that the surgery would not involve the heart, the aide said, "I cannot give you that assurance."

The aide's announcement Thursday said:

"The Duke of Windsor is being admitted to the Methodist Hospital in Houston, Tex., for corrective arterial surgery to be performed by Dr. Michael De Bakey, professor of surgery, Baylor University College of Medicine."

De Bakey has developed a reputation in the cardiovascular field — relating to or involving the heart and blood vessels.

Doctors in New York, where the duke and duchess have been staying at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, have been caring for the duke and recommended the surgery, the aide said.

Asked why Methodist Hospital and De Bakey were chosen, the aide said:

"It is very simple. The No. 1 man in the field is Dr. De Bakey and he wants to operate in his own hospital with his own team."

In London, Jack Le Veen, American producer who is filming the duke's biography, "A King's Story," said the overtime king told him by transatlantic phone that "he is feeling fine and that the surgery . . . is only corrective."

Le Veen said the filming was completed in August and that the duke is to do the narration in London next February.

There is no publicly known history of heart trouble for the duke. Last year he underwent examination by a Swiss specialist in internal diseases, at Lausanne. The results were not made known.

The duke was 42, and held the title of Prince of Wales, when his father, King George V, died Jan. 20, 1936. He was elevated to ruler but abdicated Dec. 11 that year because, he said, as king he could not marry "the woman I love."

To Answer African Charges

U.N. to Hear Belgium's Spaak

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak goes before the Security Council today to reply to African charges that Belgium landed paratroops in Stanleyville in an attempt to wipe out the Congo rebel force.

A Belgian source said Spaak would recount events that led up to the U.S.-Belgian mission which rescued some 1,700 whites held hostage by the rebels.

Spaak was expected to emphasize that Belgium brought Congo Premier Moïse Tshombe and rebel leader Christophe Gbenye together last summer in a vain attempt to end the revolt.

Both Spaak and U.S. authorities have insisted that the Stanleyville mission was not a military operation but was purely humanitarian, to save the lives of European men, women and children held captive.

QUICK WITHDRAWAL

The Belgian minister has stressed that the quick withdrawal of the paratroops was concrete proof of the humanitarian nature of the mission. He has accused the Soviet Union of resorting to "Cold War" tactics in charging that the Belgian action reflected colonial aspirations.

Since the Congo debate began Wednesday, a chorus of African nations have accused the United States and Belgium of murderous motives in emotion-charged speeches that shocked Western delegates.

There was speculation the United States would make a stinging reply and challenge the African critics to explain their own motives in backing the rebel cause.

Algerian Ambassador Tewfik Bouattour, the last speaker Thursday, declared that the Western press was more shocked by the killing of 80 white hostages in the Congo than by the "tens of thousands of Africans slaughtered by the Congolese Army."

HAIL OF INVECTIVE

The Africans also have loosed a hail of invective against Tshombe, who arrives in New York Saturday. He will present his own charges that Algeria, Ghana and the United Arab Republic are sending military supplies to the Congo rebels and the Soviet Union is backing this.

In Rome, where Tshombe stopped for an audience with Pope Paul VI, the Italian Communists kept up their agitation against his presence in the country. About 800 demonstrators clashed with police in downtown Rome Thursday night and another 500 demonstrated in Naples.

In the Congo, Tshombe's mercenaries rescued 59 white hostages from a farming research station 60 miles from Stanleyville. Most of them were believed to be Belgians.

Friends Put Up Bail

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Burly, blond accused bank robber Howard McCutcheon was freed Tuesday on a $75,000 property bond put up by 17 friends.

McCutcheon, 32, from Coldwater, Mich., is charged with robbing banks at Howe and Hamilton and another in Michigan. The property bond was double the amount required for a cash bond, although U. S. Commissioner David Peebles reduced the latter sum from $50,000 to $37,500.

Congo Troops Hunt Hostages

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — Mercenary-led troops of the Congolese Army were reported fanning out from Paulis today in a search for white hostages at the mercy of savage rebels.

Paulis, a town in the Northeast Congo, fell to government troops yesterday, according to reports reaching here.

It was the scene of the second U.S.-Belgian rescue mission two weeks ago, but rebels moved back in when the operation ended.

The town was apparently recaptured in the Congolese Army's latest offensive to crush the Communist-backed rebellion.

About 350 hostages were flown out of Paulis in the airlift, but 20 others were found massacred in the streets by the Belgian paratroopers who dropped on the town from U.S. Air Force planes.

SAID HELD

Many foreigners are believed to be held by rebels at Wamba, a missionary station about 60 miles southeast of Paulis. These hostages are said to include William McCleskey, an American missionary.

There have been unconfirmed reports that 13 whites were slaughtered by rebels in Wamba two weeks ago.

15 Manpower Experts to Visit Troy

TROY — A delegation of 15 manpower experts from various parts of the world will include a Troy plant on their tour of area industries Tuesday.

The visitors, from Western Europe, Japan, United States and Canada, will witness production operations at AMT Corporation, 112 E. Maple, during the morning.

AMT currently is offering an on-the-job training (OJT) program under the Manpower Development and Training Act (MDTA).

The tours Tuesday and Wednesday of the plants and facilities in the Detroit area conducting MDTA programs have been arranged by the U.S. Department of Labor.

The 15 coming to the Motor City and environs are among the 150 leading economists, manpower experts and sociologists who participated in a conference Tuesday through yesterday on the Manpower Implications of Automation at the State Department in Washington, D.C.

NEW CENTER — Tuesday afternoon the delegates, representing government, labor, industry and education, will visit Detroit new Skill Center where a number of MDTA training programs are being conducted.

Elmer L. Babb, Michigan and Indiana director of the Labor Department's Office of Manpower, Automation and Training (OMAT), who made the arrangements for the group, said:

"The visitors' schedule, which will include a trip to one of the big automobile plants, was designed to reflect the working arrangements between government, business and labor for training workers displaced through automation and other technological change."

On Wednesday morning, the delegates will visit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh's office in Detroit where they will be briefed on the success of the city's current Special Youth Employment Project developed in cooperation with OMAT.

200 TRAINEES — Twelve hundred young trainees have already been placed in jobs under the project.

The countries being represented by the visiting delegation—besides Japan, Canada and the United States—are Austria, France, Germany, North Ireland, Norway, Sweden, Turkey and the United Kingdom.

Holly Is Asking Residents to End Classroom Shortage

HOLLY—A $775,000 answer to Holly School District's elementary classroom shortage will be on Monday's ballot here.

In conjunction with the election, the board of education has scheduled two open houses Sunday.

If approved, the bond proposition will finance a major addition at the new Patterson Elementary School and a smaller one at Davisburg Elementary School.

It would mean a tax increase of not more than $2 per $1,000 of state-evaluated valuation, according to Schools Supt. George Garver.

The present 22.7-mill levy in the district includes 7 mills for debt retirement.

SCHOOL ADDITION — The larger portion of the sum being requested would be used to construct a $600,000 addition at Patterson School, the district's third elementary unit which was opened in January.

The new 31,000-square-foot wing, containing 15 regular classrooms and a multi-use area, would more than double the size of the existing 14-room building.

Incorporated in the multi-use area would be administrative offices, a library, eating area, facilities for a limited physical education program and a kitchenette to serve public meetings held at the school.

A $115,000 construction project at the Davisburg facility would provide four classrooms and some auxiliary space. Besides the 5,000-square-foot wing, the

Home in Area Gutted by Fire

Oakland Twp. Family Escapes Uninjured

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP—Fire destroyed a one-story house shortly after midnight today, but a four-member family managed to get out safely.

Armond Granata of 4360 Collins discovered the fire in the utility room of the home at 12:52 a.m.

His wife Sharon called the Rochester Fire Department and the two of them got 14-month-old John and three-month-old Doreen out of the burning house.

The structure was engulfed in flames when firemen arrived, and they concentrated on trying to save valuable papers and possessions.

The fire completely gutted the house, leaving only the brick and stone veneer walls standing.

ESTIMATES DAMAGE — Rochester Fire Chief Lyle Buchanan estimated the damage at between $8,000 and $10,000 and said that the house was insured for $7,000.

Granata's mother, Mrs. Geroline Christianson, who lives on Dequindre Road near Rochester, was the owner of the home.

Buchanan said the fire apparently started in a faulty oil hot water heater. Granata said he had been having trouble with the heater and had had to re-light the pilot light before retiring at 11 p.m.

A $115,000 construction project at the Davisburg facility would provide four classrooms and some auxiliary space. Besides the 5,000-square-foot wing, the sum would pay for renovation to bring the existing building up to state fire marshal's specifications.

VIEW OF BUILDING — All of the proposed new classrooms would be like those recently constructed at Patterson. The school board will open the Patterson unit for inspection from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Voters in the community then will be able to see for themselves the kind of facilities planned.

During the same hour, the board also is having an open house at the high school, where a new addition recently has been completed.

The new wing has filled the need for additional secondary space, Garver said, but the gains in the elementary facilities.

SCHOOL ROLLS — With a total enrollment of 2,785, the district is now short four elementary classrooms, according to Garver.

The number of students, he said, jumped 185 this year, while a maximum increase of 150 had been expected.

W. Bloomfield Wants to Keep Up

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Property owners here Monday will vote on a $1-million bond issue designed to keep school building space with rapid growth in the community.

Spurred by the extension of sewers into the southern portion of the township, subdivisions are being developed on once-barren land there.

The new families are accounting for record jumps in school enrollment, according to the board of education.

A 10 per cent increase in registrations was tallied this year when the number of students jumped from 2,038 to 2,247.

Featured in the proposed building program is a 13-room elementary school in the heart of the growth area, on Maple midway between Middle Belt and Orchard Lake.

$500,000 — Cost of constructing and equipping a building on the site already owned by the school board has been estimated at $500,000.

The board also proposes spending some $100,000 to complete and equip the new junior high school under construction on Orchard Lake Road.

Some $200,000 would be allocated for the purchase of additional elementary sites.

Plans also call for some $100,000 to be spent on renovation at the high school, $50,000 in the Scotch Elementary School area and $50,000 on contingencies.

Police Forces Join in Raid

25 Face Arraignment in Shelby Gambling

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — State police from the Romeo and Warren posts and the Detroit intelligence squad joined forces with Shelby Township police early this morning in a raid on a gambling establishment at 5170 Shelby.

A dozen officers converged on the house at 5:30 a.m. and netted 21 alleged players and four alleged operators, along with cards and dice.

The four suspected operators are Morris (Marty) Combs, 28, of 5170 Shelby; LaQuintus (Bud) Collins, 27, of 1186 E. Boulevard; Madison Heights; Charles Mirabitter, 33, of 1810 Levertre, Detroit; and Nathan Anderson, 44, of 4021 Los Angeles, Warren.

Combs told police the house was his.

The four suspected of operating the establishment were taken to Macomb County Jail, where they were to be arraigned today on a charge of operating the gambling house.

ALLEGED PLAYERS — The alleged players were to face arraignment before Justice Joseph Plutner in Shelby Township on a charge of frequenting the gambling establishment.

Romeo State Police said that the residential-type house had been under surveillance for "quite awhile."

Lapeer Lodge Sets Public Installation

LAPEER—Public installation of officers of the Lapeer Masonic Lodge will follow a 6:45 p.m. dinner tomorrow at 8 at the Masonic Temple.

Don Crankshaw will be installed as worshipful master.

Other officers also taking over their new duties will include Charles Underwood, senior warden; Don Mosher, junior warden; Lyle Stewart, secretary; and Del Beard, treasurer.

Approval of the bond issue would cost property owners nothing in additional taxes, according to School Supt. Dr. L. A. Hagen.

The same factors which have caused the need for new schools will help to pay for them, he said.

New houses in the district are increasing the assessed valuation and therefore producing more total tax dollars.

The current tax rate is expected to produce enough revenue by 1965 to cover the proposed bond issue with no tax increase.

The district this year is levying a 26.75-mill tax. Of the total, property owners are paying $7.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation as equalized for debt retirement.

In a recent report to voters, the board noted a $1.8-million bond issue approved in 1963 now is being used to relieve present crowded conditions in the system.

Additional funds are needed for growth anticipated in the future, the board said.

Headed YMCA Branch To Leave Rochester

ROCHESTER—The first executive secretary of the Rochester Branch YMCA, Jack Zahn, is leaving town Jan. 15.

Zahn, who arrived in the village in late 1960 to become the first executive secretary of what was then an extension of the Pontiac YMCA, will take a similar position in West Allis, Wis., a Milwaukee suburb.

Prior to his arrival in Rochester, Zahn was involved in YMCA work in his native state of Indiana for three years, and worked nine years in the Lansing area, organizing branches and extension programs.

Since 1960, the Rochester Branch YMCA has offered many courses and been responsible for many projects. It is still in its original home on Helen Street, but faces the necessity of moving next year.

The owner of the building, St. John Lutheran Church, wants to put the structure to a different use.

Zahn, his wife, and four children, who live at 1046 E. Tienken, will be leaving 1,650 Rochester Branch YMCA members and many friends.

"We try to be prepared to move, because we know it will come," he said, "but we never are."

"You make so many friends," he continued, "moving is like dying a little—it's very difficult for us."

Zahn said the programs now offered at the Rochester Branch YMCA will continue after his departure, under the direction of laymen and volunteers.

Signal Caller in 16th Season

Tittle May Bring Down Curtain on Glittering Pro Career

NEW YORK (UPI) — This is it for Y. A. Tittle although it's killing him to come right out and say so.

The bald, narrow-eyed, 37-year-old New York Giants' quarterback has given every indication to those closest to him that Saturday's game with the Cleveland Browns will be his last, but he's reluctant to make the final official announcement.

Tittle has put in 16 exciting seasons in the National Football League and naturally hates to go. They all do when the time comes.

He looked even older than his years Thursday as he sat in front of his locker wearing horn-rimmed eye-glasses, chewing on a foot-long ham-and-cheese sandwich and discussing both his future and his past.

"I can see why all this speculation has arisen about whether I'm coming back or not," he said. "It's all due to the fact that I've had a poor season and that I'm not getting any younger."

HAD POOR SEASON

Someone tried to tell Tittle he did not have THAT poor a year, but he didn't buy it.

"When the team loses, the quarterback had a bad year," he said, dismissing any other suggestion.

Tittle, whose two-year contract with the Giants expires this season, made it clear he'd never consider playing for any other team.

"I'm in the insurance business in California and that's what I'll concentrate on when I'm all through," he said.

The man who helped quarterback the Giants to three consecutive Eastern Division titles and completed more than 2,000 passes in his time, said a professional athlete has no real way of knowing when he's finished.

"It's a gradual evolution and you're never really conscious of the exact time unless a specific injury finishes you off," he said.

Tittle knocked wood on the side of his locker when he mentioned the word injury.

"I've had a lot of them in my time," he said, "but I feel fine now."

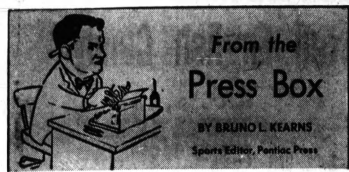

Tittle thought some more and returned to the subject of how an athlete might realize he's all through.

HE KNOWS

"If Duke Spider gets up and looks at a baseball and doesn't see it right, I'm sure he knows," Y. A. smiled. "I guess it's the same in all sports but it's very difficult to pinpoint."

Especially if you happen to be the fellow involved. It still holds true, you can always see in others what you can't see in yourself. Many have been saying that it's high time Tittle hung up his cleats, but he hates to say it himself.

Someone at the University of Michigan must have had a crystal ball when setting up the basketball schedule couple years ago.

Monday's battle between No. 1 rated Michigan and No. 2 rated Wichita has already been reported as a sellout. It will be played at Detroit's Cobo Hall.

It could be a preview of the NCAA finale this year as the Wheatshockers like the Wolverines are rated to go all the way.

Michigan's decision to play a game in Detroit should satisfy many of the school's Motor City alumni who have long clamored for the Wolverines to do so.

The subject was brought up a couple years ago at a press gathering in Detroit with all the college basketball coaches present.

GET TOGETHER

It was asked why Michigan, Michigan State, U. of D. and Western Michigan, the four major state basketball teams don't get together in a Motor City tournament each year with the addition of three outside schools, possibly from Ohio, Indiana or Illinois.

No one really did come up with a good answer, especially in view of some of the teams listed on the schedules which could be eliminated in favor of state competition.

MSU coach Fordy Anderson, just this week was quoted as saying he was in favor of playing state schools in his pre-conference schedule and had Northern Michigan and Western Michigan scheduled this year.

It might be Fordy's thinking now, but it wasn't a few years ago, when he failed to continue his series with U. of D., just at the time when Dave DeBusschere moved into the Titan scene.

At any rate, basketball would be a good sport to bring the top state quintets together. They do it in many states, New York, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Indiana, and others where basketball fans get a chance to see their leading state teams compete in local tournament play.

STADIUM IDEA GOOD

The talk about an 80,000-seat stadium at State Fair Grounds in Detroit should be considered seriously by the city.

Tiger Stadium, a nice baseball field, is a poor football stadium, and its not the healthiest structure in Detroit.

Houston is ready with its domed stadium, Pittsburgh has unveiled its 55,000-seat model. Atlanta has lured the Braves with a new stadium. Philadelphia has already contracted the Eagles and Phillies for its planned stadium, and yesterday Chicago announced plans for a 60,000-seat structure.

Detroit should look at its need more closely.

City Pro Five Plays Benton Harbor Again

North American Basketball League action Saturday night for the Pontiac Nationals features a must game in Benton Harbor against the Twin City Sailors.

The Sailors are currently tied for the league lead with a 3-1 mark, the same as Grand Rapids. Benton Harbor handed Pontiac a 107-102 loss the first time they met.

But the Nationals fought back from an early deficit in that game to make it a rough evening for the Sailors.

The visiting Nationals Saturday will enter the game with a 2-3 record and in third place. A loss would drop them into fourth place behind either Chicago or Muskegon, who meet in Muskegon at the same time. Both are 1-3.

Pontiac would not climb any higher should it hand the Sailors defeat No. 2.

But the victory would put the Nationals within a game of idle Grand Rapids, which would back into the sole possession of first place.

Pontiac recreation basketball star Felix Brooks is the 10th man on the active playing roster but is not at present on the traveling squad.

Game time in Benton Harbor is 8:15 p.m. at the Benton Harbor High School gym.

Hawks Drub Bruins, 5-1

Hull Scores 21st Goal in NHL

BOSTON (AP) — Tireless Bobby Hull is off to the second fastest goal-getting start in National Hockey League history.

The only thing that surprises the Chicago ace's coach — Billy Reay — is that the blond bomber didn't do it a year sooner.

Hull scored his 21st goal in 23 games, the tie-breaker, and later contributed his 10th assist as the reawakened Black Hawks handed Boston a 5-1 National Hockey League drubbing Thursday night.

The previous night his three assists spurred a 6-1 decision over New York, the team the fifth place Hawks now trail by two points. The twin victories snapped a five-game winless streak.

"Bobby's playing real well," Reay said after the game. "He's certainly great now."

"But I thought last year he could have had at least as many goals at this stage. The only difference was the puck just wasn't going in for him."

LIKES TO PLAY

"That's the beauty of this boy. You never have to worry about him. He never gives you a bad game."

"He likes to play. He can stay on the ice twice as long as most players. Of course, he's tougher physically than most. He's 194 pounds and not an ounce of fat on him."

Hull played an estimated 40 minutes, about twice as long as most of the other contestants.

Even the year Hull scored a record-tying 50 goals in one season he didn't collect his 20th goal until the 44th game, then staged a whirlwind finish.

Only player with a faster start on the books was Maurice (Rocket) Richard in the 1944-45

Colts' QB Lauds Team

Unitas Selected MVP

BALTIMORE (AP) — "I couldn't accept the honor without accepting it for the whole club," said quarterback John Unitas of the Baltimore Colts upon being informed he had been voted Most Valuable Player in the National Football League.

"Without the 39 other guys, you're nothing."

Unitas' reaction to his election by an Associated Press panel, announced Thursday, was as laconic as his steady performance on the field.

"It's nice," he said, "but it never concerned me one way or the other. I like to get it, but I didn't worry about it. If it's going to come, it's going to come."

DISTANT SECOND

Unitas received 32 votes out of a possible 42 by three selections in each league city. Jim Brown of Cleveland got five, Lenny Moore of the Colts two and Johnny Morris of Chicago one.

There were two abstentions.

Unitas twice led the Colts to NFL titles in the past and set records with his spectacular passing. But this season, in which they wrapped up the Western Conference title on Nov. 22, brought out the quarterback in him.

His number of passes will be the third lowest in his nine seasons. But Unitas has drawn as much praise for his masterful direction of the most potent offense in the league.

"We tried to control the ball," explained Unitas, "by running and passing. One helps the other."

"There's no sense throwing 35 per cent of the time when you got the runners. If one bogs down, the other picks it up."

The difference has been healthier, rampaging Lenny Moore, who has run for 15 touchdowns, and the addition of bruising rookie Tony Lorick to complement fullback Jerry Hill.

COMEBACK PLAYER

Coach Don Shula allows Unitas to run the game. "He's the boss out there," said Shula, who himself was voted best in the league in the AP poll.

And Moore, announced Friday as the Comeback Player of the Year in the same poll, talks of the leadership of Unitas, not his passing.

"I honestly don't know how long it's been since we've won a game," he said. "I read somewhere that we hadn't won in 46 games. Let's see — I guess that's right, but I honestly don't know."

Cave said he knew his team didn't win any of its 20 games last year, nor any of the 20 the year before. It has lost all six starts this year.

BIG PROBLEM

The personnel coach said the whole problem at the small northeast Georgia college is the lack of full scholarships. "We

Cleveland Will Face Giants in Key Tilt

NEW YORK (AP) — When Cleveland and New York get together in Yankee Stadium Saturday, the Browns will be gunning for the National Football League's Eastern Conference title, Jimmy Brown for a record, the Giants for an upset and old Y. A. Tittle . . . well, just what will he be gunning for?

The Giants' old Bald Eagle is closing out his 15th professional season, a season that has been marked by injury and ineffectiveness and one in which he

Baseball Near TV 'Package'

Fetzer Heads Group After ABC Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — Package television, the little miracle of the electronic age that sometimes gushes gold, is about to engulf baseball.

In January 1964, Columbia Broadcasting System agreed to pay the National Football League $25 million to televise every regular season NFL game for the next two years.

Shortly thereafter, the National Broadcasting Company gave the American Football League $36 million for the rights to televise every AFL game for the next five years.

Now along comes Organized Baseball, with an envious glance at pro football, also seeking a piece of the rich pie.

A committee, headed by owner John Fetzer of the Detroit Tigers, has been negotiating with the American Broadcasting Company for a television Game-of-the-Week spectacular during the 1965 season.

SATURDAY GAMES

ABC is said to be ready to pay $5 million for the package which would consist of 25 Saturday afternoon games to be televised coast to coast.

Three times 33 and 36 touchdowns passes the last two seasons, but has managed only nine this season. One of his better days was in the 42-20 loss to Cleveland, when he hit 19 of 31 for 177 yards. The Browns scored 28 points in the final quarter of that game, three of them set up by the defense.

"I just hope Tittle has a good day," St. Louis coach Wally Lemm said several days ago.

The Browns, of course, have a major weapon in fullback Jimmy Brown, who has 1,356 yards rushing and needs only one touchdown to equal Don Hutson's career record of 1,401.

But that isn't the Giants' only worry.

"No team in the NFL today can afford to key on one man," New York Coach Alie Sherman said. "The Browns are improved over last year. With flanker Paul Warfield going so well, Frank Ryan has more than one receiver. The kid also helps Brown's cause. No, it takes a balanced defense these days to stop anybody."

Can't Remember

Losses Dull Memory

DEMOREST, Ga. (AP) — O'Neal Cave is an educated man with a good memory, but it's been so long since his basketball team won a game he can't remember it.

Cave is coach at Piedmont College, which has lost 46 basketball games in a row over the past three seasons.

"I honestly don't know how long it's been since we've won a game," he said. "I read somewhere that we hadn't won in 46 games. Let's see — I guess that's right, but I honestly don't know."

Cave also noted that the long losing season hasn't affected the team at all. "They have never given up and I'm sure they never will. We'll win one someday."

Jim Gibbons Lions MVP

Players on the Detroit Lions today named end Jim Gibbons as the team's most valuable player.

Gibbons, a Lions stalwart since 1953, edged flanker Terry Barr in the annual vote and will receive the Lion President's Trophy, awarded annually since 1952.

Gibbons has caught 41 passes, including six for touchdowns this season. In his Lions career, he has caught 238.

Boog Powell AL's Newest 'Muscle Man'

BOSTON (UPI) — Meet the new "muscle man" of the American League — John (Boog) Powell of the Baltimore Orioles.

Harmon Killebrew hit more home runs, Tony Oliva led in four departments and Brooks Robinson drove in 118 runs but it was the 6-foot, 3-inch, 235-pound Powell who topped the league in slugging percentage—the badge of the true slugger.

Figures released today by the AL disclosed that Powell had a .606 slugging percentage during 1964 to beat out Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, whose percentage was .591.

Oliva ranked third with .557, Bob Allison was fourth with .553.

Killebrew was fifth with .548 and Robinson was sixth with .521. It was the first slugging title won by Powell, who has no better than 12th in the league in 1963.

Slugging percentages are computed by dividing a player's total number of appearances at the plate into his total bases.

Horse Groom Hurt

Filly Panics on Train

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — The Santa Fe's Grand Canyon Limited screamed to an emergency stop near here Thursday and out jumped a 3-year-old racing filly valued at $80,000.

The thoroughbred, identified as Cheetha II, owned by Maine Chance Farm, panicked in her stall car after catching her head in a fire extinguisher cabinet. She was being shipped from Belmont to Santa Anita.

She suffered a gashed left rear leg and finally wound up at Belmont Farm, a stable near Leont, Ill., a suburb of Chicago.

Two grooms were injured trying to control the violent horse. Claude Bryan, 53, Orlando, Fla., was kicked in the chest and stomach. He was in a Joliet hospital Cecil Courtney, Philadelphia, suffered bruises but was not hospitalized.

LONG CHASE
Police said the grooms apparently had opened the door of the stall-car after pulling the emergency cord on the train, which had three carloads of thoroughbreds.

Edward Burns of Peoria, Ill., a passenger, chased the horse two miles through melting snow along the railroad right-of-way. He was described by deputies and firemen summoned to the scene as "the real hero" of the roundup. He quieted the horse and helped get it into a commandeered horsetrailer.

Ex-Champion Patterson Set for 10 Rounds

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Floyd Patterson, the former heavyweight champion, isn't taking his warmup fight with unranked Charlie Powell lightly.

They will meet in a 10-round charity bout at Hiram Bithorn Stadium Saturday night.

Patterson completed his heavy training with a four round boxing drill and six rounds of gym work Thursday. First he sparred two rounds with his brother Ray, also a pro heavyweight, and then he went two with Joe Shelton.

The ex-champion weighed 198 pounds before his workout and trainer-manager Dan Florio predicted he will scale 194 for his scrap with the underdog from San Diego.

Powell boxed four rounds with Willie Johnson and did eight rounds of gym work.

AFL Title Game Is Uncertain of Teams

By The Associated Press

The American Football League is in the peculiar position of having both its division leaders in action this week with neither game meaning very much.

San Diego, 8-3-1, already has clinched in the West and no matter what happens in Buffalo's game with Denver, the Eastern leader Bills must face Boston in a show-down game in the season finale next week.

And the Patriots, with a 10-2 record, can do nothing but sit and fret.

The schedule for the next-to-last weekend of the regular season has Buffalo at Denver, 2-9-1, Kansas City, 5-7, at San Diego and New York, 5-6-1, at Houston, 2-10, all Sunday. Boston and Oakland are level, lose or draw against Denver, the Bills' shot at the Eastern crown goes on the line in Boston a week from now.

LONG-SHOT
Boston kept alive its long-shot chance for a second straight AFL Eastern title last week with a 21-24 decision over Kansas City while Oakland surprised Buffalo (16-13) with a touchdown in the last four seconds of play.

That set up the following possibilities for the show-down game:
1. If Buffalo beats Denver this week, the Bills will need only a tie with Boston to clinch the Eastern crown.
2. If Buffalo ties Denver this week, the Bills will need a victory over Boston to clinch. Ties with Denver and Boston would result in a tie for the top spot.

and development chief for the State Conservation Department, said 248 elk already have been taken — amounting to some 42 tons of elk, figuring most weigh between 350 and 450 pounds dressed out.

He estimated the kill in this year's hunt, first legal elk hunt east of the Mississippi since before the turn of the century, could have gone as high as 400 to 500 without harming the herd. The season ends Sunday. Stanley Cain, a commission member from Ann Arbor, said more elk would have to be taken next year. He said this year's kill would not keep the herd from increasing from the estimated 3,500 animals, and an overabundance problem would continue.

BEING CLOSED
The commission, meeting informally, also heard from Robert Brevitz of Battle Creek who serves on a local committee studying how to use lands in the Fort Custer area once the fort is closed. Brevitz said the 14,000-acre military reservation, being closed under orders of Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, seems a natural site for a recreation area.

The area probably has the highest deer concentration of any area in the state, with an estimated 100 deer per square mile.

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — The professional golf career of burly Julius Boros has been a dramatic succession of ups and downs.

Today, at 44, he may again be on the rise. After a layoff of nearly four months, Boros returned to tournament competition Thursday, teaming with Betty Rawls to shoot a slick four-under-par 68 for the first round lead in the $40,000 Scotch Mixed Foursomes Tournament.

A man of very few words, Boros admitted grudgingly, "I'm feeling fine now and playing well. I'll be ready to get back on the tour in January."

After a phenomenal season in 1963, when he defeated Arnold Palmer and Jacky Cupit in a playoff to become the second oldest winner of the U.S. Open and was chosen PGA Player of the Year, Boros' game went sour this year.

He started 1964 in reasonably good style but in the open, he was bothered by muscle spasms in his back.

DROPPED OUT

"Physically," he said, "there were some weeks when I just wasn't able to play. By August, my putting was off and I had just lost the urge. Besides, my wife was pregnant, so when the tour went West I dropped out."

"The layoff has done me a world of good. My putting is okay now and I'm ready to get back in there."

Boros, a pro since 1949, first attracted attention in 1952 when he won the U.S. Open and the money championship. In 1955, he was again back on top in cash earnings.

Then came a long victory drought. He didn't win another tournament until 1958 and he won only one that year and only one in 1960.

Although handicapped by buristis in his hands and arms, Boros did well financially in 1961 and 1962, but his best finish in a year was a tie for third.

In 1963, he bounced back to the top, winning more than $77,000 to move into third place among the money winners of the modern era.

Boros showed signs of returning to his 1963 form when he teamed with Miss Rawls, four-time winner of the U.S. Women's Open, in a first round over a course swept by strong winds.

Mason Rudolph, an infrequent winner on the men's tour but one of its most consistent players, paired with Kathy Whitworth to shoot a 69 and tie for second with the veteran Art Wall and Mary Mills, 1964 champion of the Ladies PGA.

New Safety Rules on Fuel by '500'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway issued new safety regulations Thursday for the 1965 Memorial Day 500-mile race in an attempt to reduce the possibility of collision-explosions such as the one that killed two drivers last May.

A speedway spokesman said requirements in entry blanks to be mailed early next month will include:

gravity type only, eliminating pressure relieving.

SPEEDED UP

All new drivers must pass tests up to 146 hours an hour, an increase of 10 miles an hour. All cars must carry numbers in black on white disks or white on black disks instead of present miscellaneous color combinations.

Rookie Dave MacDonald hit the wall on the second lap of this year's race with a heavily-loaded rear-engine car. Veteran Eddie Sachs hit MacDonald's car with a similar racer. Both vehicles exploded and burned. Parnelli Jones, another veteran, suffered painful burns in a fueling fire.

All fuel tanks must have rubber bladder inserts. To reduce fuel loads, all cars must refuel at least twice. No fuel tanks shall be installed directly in front of the driver. Refueling equipment must be

Big 10 Okays 'Handshake'

Athletic Heads Prefer
Pre-Game Ceremony

CHICAGO (AP) — If you see opposing Big Ten football coaches shaking hands before a game next season, don't be surprised.

Athletic directors attending the annual winter business meetings of the conference have gone on record endorsing the pre-game, rather than post-game, handshake.

"It is not obligatory or expected," said Commissioner Bill Reed. "But the handshake at the time the coin is tossed before the game starts seems practical. After a game, it is difficult for the coaches to get together for this ceremony. Sometimes, the winning coach is being carried off the field on the shoulders of his players."

The business sessions are expected to wind up today with a joint meeting of faculty representatives and athletic directors formally approving a declaration of policy that would rule any conference athlete ineligible if he participated in an event not sanctioned by a federation.

Royals No Longer Hold Hex on Celts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cincinnati Royals have given the champion Boston Celtics the last two years in the National Basketball Association.

They took the season series and forced the Celts to the utmost before losing in the playoffs.

It's a different story so far this season. The Royals haven't yet beaten the champs.

Boston made it four straight over the Royals Thursday, a 116-101 crusher on Cincinnati's home court. The Celts did it the hard way, too. They trailed in the second quarter by 18 points.

The St. Louis Hawks beat the Lakers 95-91 in their game at Los Angeles in the other NBA game scheduled Thursday.

Bill Russell's 24 rebounds as he outplayed Jerry Lucas sparked Boston's comeback. In addition, he scored five straight baskets in the third quarter. Oscar Robertson got 31 points for the Royals and Sam Jones 22 for the Celts. Russell scored only 13, but his control of the boards was vital.

CARRIED OUT

The Hawks had to play without their star, Bob Pettit, for most of the second half. Pettit collided with Rudy LaRusso of the Lakers and both players fell to the floor.

Pettit was removed from the game on a stretcher, treated for a cut on the back of his head and a bruised back. He was not hospitalized and he returned home with the team. LaRusso was not injured.

St. Louis held a 15-point lead until Pettit was hurt. Los Angeles rallied and pulled within six points of the Hawks at the start of the final period.

With one minute to play the Lakers cut the deficit to 91-87 but a basket by Len Wilkens clinched the verdict for the Hawks. Wilkens was high for St. Louis with 30 points while Jerry West topped Los Angeles with 34.

Pistons Open Tour on Road

Play San Francisco; Chamberlain Hurt

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons open a four-game road trip tonight when they meet the San Francisco Warriors at the Cow Palace.

The Pistons will take a 10-17 record into the game compared to San Francisco's 8-19 mark. The defending Western Division champion Warriors have been handicapped due to the loss of Wilt "The Stilt" Chamberlain who is injured with a broken nose.

Detroit, which leads the last-place Warriors by two games, has an 8-8 record since play-coach Dave DeBusschere took over the coaching duties from Charley Wolf.

The Pistons will play the Warriors Saturday night before moving to Los Angeles to meet the Lakers Sunday and Tuesday nights.

Pontiac's Mike Samardzija, Jr., at age 23 has reached a bowling pinnacle few men can hope to make; and he isn't making big headlines or winning large checks.

Samardzija, as many local bowlers are aware, is a member of the Stroh's team that bowls out of Detroit. He was with it last spring on a trial basis and signed a regular contract during the summer.

Unlike other bowling teams, Stroh's is a professional squad that has salaried performers. Only the Falstaff's of St. Louis can make the same claim.

The Stroh's team competes in two Detroit leagues and weekly makes trips to Ohio or other Michigan cities for bowling exhibitions.

Samardzija is one of six men on the team. He is leading it and the entire Detroit All-Star Classic with a 210 average — three pins ahead of his nearest rival.

The other five Stroh's bowlers — they rotate turns are team captain John Ruggiero Jr., Bob Crawford, Dale Seavoy, Mike Toksky and Junior Donoso.

The men are paid a salary plus incentive bonuses for special accomplishments which — in Samardzija's words — really can amount to an attractive sum by year's end.

Stroh's also provides two sets of white bowling uniforms, a pair of practice shirts and pants, shoes, socks, bowling bag, a blazer, slacks and a company necktie.

The team members all instruct or have outside jobs. The trips to date have taken Mike, to West Virginia, many towns in Ohio, and will include Pennsylvania and Indiana overnight junkies, later on. The team's exhibitions currently are solidly booked through May.

Five bowlers normally make the trips. They will bowl against local teams, give clinics or exhibitions that include trick shots.

The Pontiac newby — he was married in October to the former Jeradine Bowman — has a 5-6-7-8-9-10 setup that he goes for.

Samardzija finds the esprit de corps of the team very refreshing and says the arrangement is much more enjoyable than being on the regular professional tour (at which he also has had some success).

The world of bowling has been good to Mike Samardzija, Jr., and he is in a position to appreciate this fact.

SPARE PINS
The annual Elks Temple Christmas Junior Bowling Tournament begins tomorrow morning. The singles event for the seniors and juniors starts 9 a.m. tomorrow.

The groups will have their doubles competition next week. The tournament is sanctioned by the American Junior Bowling Congress which computes the scores by mail for national recognition.

Military Expenses Soar for Tourney

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army and Navy brass and high ranking civilians have been enjoying cut-rate accommodations for the Masters golf tournament at taxpayers' expense, say government auditors.

In a sharply critical report to Congress, the General Accounting Office called for an end to the generous hospitality of the commanders of Ft. Gordon, near Augusta, Ga.

The hospitality described included quarters for as low as 40 cents a day, free transportation to the golf course at Augusta, cocktail parties and daily towel service.

The GAO estimated that it required $20,000 in military man hours to provide the services for the 1963 and 1964 tournaments.

HANDS UP — Notre Dame has three hands on the basketball and two belong to Walt Sahm. No. 44 of the Irish is Ron Reed, who has one hand on the ball. Fighting a losing cause for the ball in Detroit's Dorrie Murray. Others are Jay Miller (41) and Larry Sheffield (35) of Notre Dame and

Fourth Win for Irish

Notre Dame Dumps Detroit, 107-86

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Paced by Larry Sheffield's 37 points, Notre Dame defeated the Detroit Titans Thursday night 107-86.

It was the fourth straight basketball victory for the unbeaten Irish, who exceeded their three-game average of 105 points by two.

Sheffield connected with 13 field goals and 11 of 12 free throw attempts.

The Irish started slowly as Detroit grabbed a 10-1 lead after the first three minutes. Not until four minutes before intermission did Notre Dame go ahead to stay, 39-38, on a jump shot by Jay Miller.

There's a lot of new faces on the college basketball scene this season, such as Louie Dampier of Kentucky, Ron Sepic of Ohio State, Wes Blalock of Connecticut, Bob Lewis of North Carolina and Nevil Shed of Texas Western.

ADD ANOTHER
You can add John Austin of Boston College to the list today.

He's a junior, but his fame as a sophomore last season was confined mostly to New England. He's headed for national recognition now since Boston College will depart shortly to play on the Pacific Coast and in the Rainbow Holiday Classic at Honolulu.

Austin, a 6-foot-1 native of Washington, D.C., made his debut at New York's Madison Square Garden Thursday night and led the Eagles to their third straight triumph, a 102-94 conquest of NYU.

Austin scored 42 points on 14 of 25 shots from the field and 14 of 17 free throws. He got 16 of his points in last six minutes after the Violets, 14 points down, reeled off 13 straight points to climb within one at 72-71.

Billy Cunningham of North Carolina with 48 points, Rick Barry of Miami, Fla., with 30 and Bob Verga of Duke with 24 also made the headlines on

BOWLING

West Side Lanes Classic League bowlers posted their best night of the season Monday.

One 700 series, 23 surpassing 600 and 95 games of 200 or better were among the impressive totals.

The competitors were proud of the 1955-1956-1957-1958 effort by the Huron Bowl team which was sparked by captain Fran Bertram's 240-244-718.

Also the final game match between Colonial Lounge and Sylvan Lounge was a dilly. All 10 bowlers hit in the 200s and Colonial grabbed off a 1111-1106 victory.

Mike Andonian had the high game, a 247; and Max Evans was only one pin off 700 with 244-244-211. Huron Bowl's fancy shooting enabled it to tie for second place.

TIE FOR FIRST

At Huron Bowl last Friday, there was a tie for first place between Fontana Brothers and Calbi Music following the Classic League's action.

The night's high scoring was done by Mark Bowers who had 265-262 for Waterford Realty and Gay Brothers' Earl Castle bowled a 278.

The 300 Bowl team split with J. A. Fredman in a high-scoring match. The "300" bowlers rolled 1117-1190 and the Fredman squad had 1150-1064.

Also at Huron Monday night Jeanette Lee had one of the top performances this year in the Pontiac General Hospital League when she posted 300-549.

The Airway Lanes Men's Classic Tuesday was led by Merv Weber's 235-290-722. Bob Sutton hit 238-244-688, Norm Smith 259 and Keith Moore 258. The Airway Lanes Ladies Major Classic was led last week by Pat DeLongchamp's 223-597. Lorraine Cloutier added 235-586 and Marvel Sot 211-564 as Howe's Mortgaged Lanes squad posted 917-2617.

The 6 o'clock Airway Outlaw League reported a 241 for Glenn Miller Sunday and 214 for Laura Crenshaw.

The 226-458 scoring of Jack Gulach Monday night topped the Collier Lanes House circuit and led Cities Service into a tie for first place.

Town & Country also moved into the deadlock by sweeping Smith Silo for eight points. Twelve points separate the first 12 teams now. The night's high game honors went to Lloyd Hughes with 245.

Sylvan Lanes action last Friday featured a 278 by John Winkelmann, and Dave Skillman's 258-233-675 (both in the Sylvan Men's League). The preceding week Skillman had 706.

Tank Stars to Compete

NEW YORK (UPI)—Olympic gold medalists Don Schollander of Lake Oswego, Ore., and Gary Ilman of San Jose, Calif., have accepted an offer to compete in the 100-meter freestyle event at a swimming meet in Marseilles, France, Dec. 19.

One Must Win 1st in Basketball Game

Oakland County will have a winner in the Michigan Christian College basketball Association after tomorrow night.

Pontiac Midwestern Baptist and Michigan Christian of Rochester, both winless, tangle at 7:30 p.m. at Emmanuel Christian. Both squads have dropped three straight league games.

The Midwest Falcons, who have been getting top scoring from first year player Ralph Wingate, are favored.

Jenkins' Doctor Is Against His Testifying

WASHINGTON (AP) — A holiday in San Juan, Puerto Rico, said Thursday: "I'll see after my stay here."

A letter from Dr. Leon Yo-chelson, a psychiatry professor at George Washington University Medical School here, to rules committee chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said Jenkins is suffering "a depressive reaction of the utmost gravity."

The letter, dated Dec. 4, said Jenkins was improving but warned that he "remains vulnerable to serious setback" if subjected to stress before he recovers fully. The doctor said he had recommended strongly that Jenkins not appear at the hearings, due to resume early next year.

UNDER OATH

The rules committee voted unanimously Wednesday to summon Jenkins to testify under oath. At the same time it decided to drop the sex and political angles that turned up during the Baker investigation. Jordan said Thursday that so far as sex is concerned, nothing contained in two FBI files "related in any way to the official conduct" of any senator or Senate employee.

One of the FBI files, Jordan said, dealt with Ellen Rom-etch, West German beauty who left Washington shortly before the committee began its year-old Baker investigation.

He said the other file was on an FBI investigation of accusations made in 1952 and 1953 by Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent and former associate of Baker who has been a key witness in the stormy Senate probe.

NO RIGHT

The committee's Democratic majority had concluded, Jordan added, that it had "no legal right to probe into the private conduct of individuals and, therefore, the committee should not engage in an investigation of matters referred to in these files."

Jordan noted that Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., the only one of the three GOP committee members present at a closed meeting Wednesday, had voted against dropping this phase of the investigation.

Jordan's statement reported on the actions taken at the four-hour session held to discuss the future course of the investigation into Baker's activities while he was secretary to the Senate Democratic majority.

After 'Just Being a Girl'

Ann Miller Is Dancing Again

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — "For three and a half years, I enjoyed being a girl," says Ann Miller. Now she's learning to be a dancer all over again.

THOMAS

The results can be seen Saturday on ABC's "Hollywood Palace," and preview reports indicate Ann still has that great tapping style that made her a leading figure in movie musicals for 20 years.

"Boy, I worked hard enough!" she exclaimed. "For a month and a half I practiced with David Lichine and his wife, two Russian ballet experts who made me stretch my muscles and get back in shape. Then I had three weeks of rehearsals with Nick Castle — all for one number."

"I lost 13 pounds going it. But I also found a whole new career, and I'm as giddy as a starlet, starting in all over again."

NO CHANCE

Annee never had much chance to be a girl. Troubled with rickets as a child, she studied dancing in her native Houston, Tex., to help straighten her legs. They grew — and grew, until by 12 Ann was her full height of 5 feet 5. She had been playing in vaudeville, then made her film debut in "New Faces of 1937."

"I was 13, but said I was 18," she recalled. "I was scared to death I'd be found out and fired. Ginger Rogers was the only one at RKO who knew my secret, and she didn't tell."

Ann danced through RKO films, later switched to MGM as replacement for Cyd Charisse. Ann stayed almost 14 years.

After a few television appearances, she quit the dancing game.

"I hung up my dancing shoes, the whole works," she said. "I had been working all my life, and I figured I wanted to spend some time just being a girl. It had never happened to me before."

IN FURS AND FEATHERS

"So for three and a half years I was a girl, dressing in furs and feathers, going out on dates, traveling about the world. Fortunately, my mother had saved some of the money I made along the way, so I could afford to."

"But a few months ago I realized that just being a girl wasn't enough. I needed some reason for living, and that meant work."

She's full of plans now to do shows, play Las Vegas, New York, London, Miami and Australia. Still a single girl, she hasn't given up hope of another marriage.

"I was married briefly to three handsome and fascinating men — Resse Miller, Bill Moss and Arthur Cameron," she said.

"The trouble with men like that is that they get married but want to retain the privileges of bachelorhood. I wouldn't go for it. Next time? Well, maybe I'll just try not to notice."

No Pinups;
Cheesecake
Gap Bared

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Hollywood pinup, that great morale booster of World War II, is a dying diversion. And lonely GIs, from South Viet Nam to Thule, are griping. The cheesecake crisis is such that the San Diego Navy Dispatch published an ad in Daily Variety headlined: "Help!"

STUDIO PUBLICITY DEPARTMENTS

used to be the ever-flowing well for pinup art. But the wells have run dry.

THE REASON

The reason is simple. Hollywood now is geared to independent production. Studios no longer have platoons of shapely starlets under contract.

The pinup routine once worked well in building up movie hopefuls. Marilyn Monroe was a favorite of the Korean war, a major factor in her rapid climb to stardom.

NOWADAYS, THERE ARE TWO EXTREMES.

There's a group of young actresses who feel they can make it on talent alone and pinups will destroy their image. Or there are actresses like Carroll Baker, the movies' new Jean Harlow, who pose in the altogether. One editor of a service newspaper explains that nude pictures don't go.

WIFE IS THERE

"Today's serviceman is likely to have his wife living with him."

Barbara Nichols, one of Hollywood's shapeliest actresses, says more than half her fan mail comes from GI's requesting her in pinup poses.

"I call up the studios and they tell me they can't mail out pictures anymore," says Barbara. "It would cost a fortune to do it myself. I'd gladly pose for pinup art to help our lonely servicemen."

"I think this whole cheesecake crisis is un-American."

LEARNING AGAIN — Ann Miller, who "enjoyed being a girl for three and a half years," is learning to be a dancer all over again. She's pictured rehearsing for tomorrow night's "Hollywood Palace" on ABC. Preview reports indicate Ann still has that great tapping style that made her a leading figure in movie musicals for 20 years.

Yule Logs to Make Home

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (U) — One hundred logs are too bulky to fit under a Christmas tree but they fit around one just fine. That is what Fairbanks folks are giving the Chuck Garrett family for Christmas — a log cabin to house their Christmas tree.

The Garretts and their four children lost all their possessions when fire destroyed their home two weeks ago.

The "Give a Log" drive is being coordinated by University of Alaska students. Eighty logs, at $5.60 each, have been donated.

Professional builders have pledged their time to build the 24-by-38-foot house. The house raising bee is planned next week.

Even Christmas Spirit Rationed Out to Cubans

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you think you've got Christmas shopping woes, pity the Cubans!

At the head of their Christmas list is a big block of rationing rules and other regulations on gift-giving and holiday dining.

A Havana radio broadcast heard here said the rules are aimed at establishing "equitable distribution of toys and other articles" during the holiday season.

Santa Claus and his Latin-American counterparts—the Three Kings—were not mentioned in the broadcast, nor were Christmas and Three Kings Day.

TWO DAYS

In bygone days, Cuban youngsters often were the envy of their young friends among U.S. and Canadian citizens living in Cuba because the Cubans were remembered on both Dec. 25 and on Three Kings Day, Jan. 6.

Also before Fidel Castro's proclaimed "liberation of Cuba," Cubans had a merry time celebrating the Christmas season with exchanges of gifts, buying everything they could afford and importing such luxuries as turron (a Spanish candy) by the ton, grapes from California, apples from many parts of the world.

On practically every table there was a roast suckling pig with the trimmings of black beans, rice, garlic sauce, fruits, vegetables and other delicacies. This year there are regulations about what Cubans can eat. As Cuban exiles interpret

24, 1963 bombing of a home in Warren, quipped:

"Your Honor, this case these rules, the answer they come up with is almost nothing.

As for toys, say the broadcast regulations, those rationed will go only to children under 12. But imported toys costing less than 30 centavos will be unrationed and so will those nationally produced "with some exceptions."

Havana radio said if a Cuban wants to give his wife, mother or girlfriend rationed domestic electric articles, these articles "will be widely distributed." But there are regulations about these, too.

As explained by Deputy Minister for Manufactured Products Roberto Interian, "The electrical domestic appliances available this year will be sold only to those not able to purchase them last year."

Where available, bicycles will be sold, but "only one per family unit is allowed regardless of size."

In one area of goods, Castro's promises of plenty seem to have been achieved: Cuban families can buy sets of dinnerware, silverware and kitchenware in sets of six pieces.

Five Numbers Suspects Nabbed in Detroit Raid

DETROIT (AP)—Police arrested five Detroit persons in a raid Thursday on an alleged numbers racket. U.S. Attorney

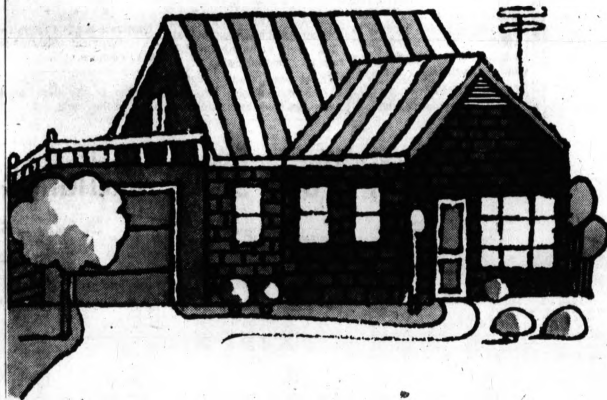

Lawrence Gubow described it as an estimated "$9-10 million operation per year." Three of the five, all women, were arraigned Thursday and released on $1,000 bond. Two men were to be arraigned today.

Detroit N-Specialist Expected in Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alfred Amosof of the Atomic Power Development Association, Detroit, was expected to arrive in Moscow today, the Atomic Energy Commission said. Amosof and nine other U.S. nuclear reactor specialists are to visit Soviet installations as part of a series of unclassified exchanges between the two countries, the AEC said.

You build a new home to get exactly what you want why not get the heating system that gives you exactly what you want

Electric heat is custom heat. There's a thermostat in each room so you can dial the exact warmth you want . . . in the baby's room, the den, the kitchen, every room!

Electric heat is the clean, modern heat. No drafts or cold spots. You get even heat from head to feet. Ideal for your new home.

It's also a good choice as supplemental heat for your present home—to warm up a chilly bedroom or new add-on family room.

The cost? That depends on your particular home. Electric heat may be your most economical heat. It won't cost you a penny to find out. Just call Edison. We'll have one of our heating specialists give you—free—an estimate of operating cost; tell you about the types of equipment available. No obligation, of course.

EDISON

P.S. A lower all-electric rate gives you the savings you want, too!

Saves you as much as 20% on your heating bill if yours is an All-Electric Home. More reason than ever to enjoy modern all-electric living.

'Dynamite' Made Case a Bit Sticky

Defense attorney Nick Arvan, after questioning Detective Sgt. Earl C. Leedle of the Detroit Police Scientific Bureau, turned to hand the stick to Assistant Prosecutor Richard Lamb.

But the stick slipped and fell. Everyone waited for the blast. But none came.

The dynamite was actually a dummy prepared by Leedle for court demonstration. But only Leedle knew this.

Arvan, defending a client who was accused in the Aug. could have been tried before a Higher Tribunal.

Judge John P. O'Hara ordered an immediate recess until composure could be regained.

Steels Resume Rebound

Market in Moderate Recovery

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market staged a moderate recovery with trading fairly slack early this afternoon. Steels resumed their rebound from what analysts called an oversold condition.

Some of the airlines, chemicals, aerospace issues, office equipments, tobacco and drugs helped lift the averages a bit. The market was seen still groping along in a "test" area — trying to find a clue as to whether the next sharp move will be a rally or decline to a lower support.

FAVORABLE NEWS

Wall Street viewed the current economic news as favorable but the pace of trading was slower than yesterday's when volume for the session slipped below five million shares. This seemed to reflect a lack of enthusiasm as prices moved up.

Gains of fractions to a point or so outnumbered losers among key stocks. Some of the higher-priced issues made 2 or 3-point gains.

Town gained about 2 and Phillips Electronics rose 2. Gains of a point or better were made by Shattuck Denn, Rollins Broadcasting and Mack Truck warrants. Up fractionally were Hygrade Food, D. Kaitman, Brazilian Tractor, APL Corp., Massey-Ferguson, New Park Mining and Ogden Corp. Fractional losers included Syntex, Universal Controls and Husky Oil.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds continued to advance.

State Students Get Aid Plea

Hear California Drive Leaders at U. of M.

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Leaders of the University of California Free Speech movement asked University of Michigan students Thursday to support a possible student-faculty strike against the California regime.

Stephan Weissman, a former U. of M. student, called upon the rally to march on U. of M. President Harlan Hatcher's house, if necessary, and demand that he support the California protest.

Weissman, who led a teacher assistant's strike at California, made his plea for support at the nighttime rally on the General Library steps on the Michigan campus.

The rally was not sponsored by a student group, nor scheduled in advance as university regulations require. The violation will be investigated, a university spokesman said, by the Office of Student Affairs and the Student Judicial Council.

ACTION UNLIKELY. Students involved in bringing the Free Speech movement leaders to Ann Arbor expressed doubt that any action will be taken since "no group sponsored them."

VOICE, a campus student political party, denied it, as a group, sponsored the rally. Several of its leaders and members of Students for a Democratic Society, VOICE's parent organization, made the arrangements, as individuals.

$130 IN CONTRIBUTIONS

The Free Speech movement collected some $130 in contributions for the legal defense of arrested students at Berkeley.

Mario Savio, leader of the movement who stopped off on his way to New York for a television appearance, said its major issue is alienation. The movement, he said, is fighting "the arbitrary power and unresponsive bureaucracy of the multiversity."

Teen Driver Gets 2-Year Probation in Traffic Death

A Redford Township youth was placed on two years probation for negligent homicide in a traffic death.

Ronald R. Brant, 18, had pleaded guilty to the charge Nov. 18.

Residues probation, Brant was ordered to pay $100 court cost by Judge Arthur C. Moore.

The charge was brought against Brant after a passenger in his car, David B. Miller, 18, of Livonia, was killed in a two-car crash at 81 Mile and Middle Belk, Farmington Township, on May 2.

Brant disregarded a red flasher signal, according to town police.

Treasury Position

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cash position of the Treasury continued to improve as the government's cash position improved.

The Treasury's cash position improved as the government's cash position improved.

The Treasury's cash position improved as the government's cash position improved.

The Treasury's cash position improved as the government's cash position improved.

Worry about the risk of a steel strike next spring appears to be behind much of the change in thinking about stock buildings to hedge against possible shortfalls in the chances of more widespread price increases.

These signs and portents are being read into the latest survey of manufacturers by the Commerce Department. It reports total sales this final quarter apparently have leveled off at $12.4 million. Four months ago factories were predicting a rise in the final months of this year.

Factory sales of durables have fallen this quarter, the survey shows, with auto sales being the chief culprit. The $300 million drop in hard goods cut the total to $59 billion.

All segments don't fit into this pattern. Example: the major appliance industry, in a separate forecast, is talking of an average growth in sales next year of between 4 and 5 percent. This would give it the second straight record sales year. But manufacturers note that this rate of growth doesn't match that the set last two years.

Government economists are giving an especially close look now to signs that factory policies about inventories may be changing.

The Commerce Department survey indicates that factory stocks are climbing in the final weeks of 1964 to a seasonally adjusted $62.2 billion. This is twice the rate of increase in the third quarter. Also another $600 million advance in inventories is expected in the next three months. In the first half of 1964 stocks rose by $150 million in each quarter.

Dr. James A. Peal, assistant director for the State Department of Mental Health in the care of patients.

The announcement said there were no specific deficits in her professional performance in the care of patients.

STRIKE VOTE. A strike vote had been scheduled last night by members of Pontiac State Hospital Local 60, Michigan State Employees Union (AFL-CIO), preparatory to picketing in defense of the registered nurse.

The nurse claimed she was suspended because she dated Adams whose religion was different from her own and was in "for having poor professional judgment of be seen dating a male attendant."

They stopped at a service station at Perry and Ogdyske, Pontiac Township, and called the sheriff's department.

Newman arrived moments after the call and administered mouth to mouth resuscitation and heart massage.

Further efforts were made at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital to revive the child who officially was listed as dead on arrival.

DEATH CAUSE. Cause of the death has not been determined, a hospital spokesman said. The child had been suffering with a cold prior to developing breathing difficulties.

MINNEAPOLIS (U)—Judge John A. Weeks spotted a man sitting in the rear of his courtroom wearing a hat.

Disturbed by this disregard for courtroom decorum, Judge Weeks ordered the man to leave. He did.

The clerk called for the burglary case of George A. Rogge, 44, who had been free on $10,000 bond.

Rogge didn't come forward. "STILL LOOKING."

"Your honor," Prosecutor Hagin Goulet said, "that is the man you ordered from the courtroom."

Police are still looking for Rogge.

IONIA (AP) — A legislative investigating committee toured the Ionia State Hospital for the criminally insane yesterday and generally reported favorable impressions.

Five members of the House Mental Health Committee, including two women, made the trip.

Their visit followed charges of maladministration at the hospital, stemming from a recent suicide there and reports of a high rate of venereal disease among patients.

Rep. David Upton, R-St. Joseph, committee chairman, said he was convinced after the tour that the hospital needed more aid from the legislature.

"They are apparently doing as well as they can with existing facilities," he said. "But they need some new ones. Perhaps the legislature can help."

Rep. Marie Hager, R-Lansing, said she was impressed by the cleanliness of the institution.

"Of course, they had time to prepare for us," she observed.

As the group walked through the dining hall, Mrs. Hager checked and found inmates were eating goulash. They also had institution-baked bread, she noted.

"It looks nourishing but not very exciting," she observed.

The five-member legislative committee and party paraded through the institution, staring at patients.

TRY TO TALK

Patients stared back. Several tried to talk to members of the party and their followers made up of Mental Health Commission and hospital executives plus radio and television newsmen.

The most persistent message was — "you should talk to me."

Proposes Hike of $91 Million in School Aid

State Education Chief Calls Jump 'First Step' to Reverse Downtrend

LANSING (AP) — A $91.3 million boost in state school aid was proposed yesterday by Lynn Bartlett, superintendent of public instruction.

He called the proposed jump to $472 million "strictly a first step" to reverse a downward trend of state percentage support for primary and secondary schools.

Bartlett said it was up to the legislature to find the money.

Key points of his program are a 10 per cent hike in basic per-pupil aid, a new $2 million program of special aid for poor districts, a $7.5 million aid program for underprivileged students and lesser jumps in several other special programs.

"Fifty million, 30 million, anything would help," Bartlett said. "But to significantly change this downward trend of state support we need this program."

LESS SUPPORT

State support of all school expenses has dropped from about 58 per cent in 1950 to about 43 per cent this year.

Bartlett estimated his program would boost this to 47 per cent.

He said $50 million more in each of the next two fiscal years would be needed even if the legislature approves his proposals in total for the 1965-66 budget year.

Bartlett's proposals will be submitted to Gov. Romney who will decide what parts of them to submit to the legislature in his budget message early next year.

GREATER POPULATION

Bartlett's figures showed that $11.7 million of the increase would occur even if aid formulas remained the same as this year, because of increasing student population.

The state currently figures basic aid at $28.50 per pupil. Bartlett proposed $39.00.

Hudson to Expand Mall Store

Plans to expand The J. L. Hudson Company's present one-story Pontiac Mall budget store into a full-line department store was announced today by Joseph L. Hudson Jr., president.

Construction is slated to begin next summer. The expanded store, occupying more than 285,000 square feet of floor space, is expected to be completed by the fall of 1966.

The present Mall store occupies about 94,000 square feet.

The new structure will stand two stories high and have a basement merchandising floor. It will offer the same merchandise and service departments as does Hudson's Northland, Eastland and Westland stores, Hudson said.

"Enlargement of the Pontiac Mall store and its expansion to a full-line Hudson's Department Store was necessitated by the pressing needs of the growing communities in this area," said Mr. Hudson.

"Hudson's Pontiac Mall store will serve 30 key Michigan communities with a population of one-half million people."

Included in the building plans is a new entrance, fronting on Elizabeth Lake Road, which will lead into a new air-conditioned Mall from which one can enter Hudson's and a group of other new shops which are to be added to the center, according to Hudson.

Hudson's present main entrance will also continue to serve the new building. A beauty salon will also be located on the 125,000 square-foot first floor.

A restaurant will be located on the second floor, as will furniture, housewares, toy and service departments.

The basement level, occupying 80,000 square feet of space will be designed by Levine, Alper and Associates of Detroit. It will house Hudson's Budget Store selling departments, offices and service facilities.

ALL SMILES — Neshoba County (Miss.) Sheriff Lawrence Rainey (right), his deputy Cecil Price (left) and an unidentified friend are all smiles after U. S. Commissioner Miss Esther Carter dismissed charges against them and 17 others after a preliminary hearing on the charges in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers.

Justice Department to Take Rights Case to Grand Jury

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — At the request of the Justice Department, a woman U.S. commissioner today freed a 20th man, James E. Jordan, arrested last week in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers.

Meridian, Miss. (AP) — The Justice Department prepared today to present its evidence to a federal grand jury against 19 men freed of charges in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers.

Federal attorneys were stunned yesterday when U. S. Commissioner Esther Carter ruled out a purported confession at a preliminary hearing.

When the Justice Department refused to proceed, she dismissed the conspiracy charges against the men, thus freeing them. They were among 21 white men arrested Dec. 4.

It will be up to U. S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox at Jackson to convene the grand jury but Robert Owen, Justice Department attorney, said, "we will ask that a grand jury be called as soon as possible."

Another man, James Jordan, was to have a hearing today at Biloxi, Miss., before U. S. Commissioner Verta Lee Sweatman.

Jordan, who was arrested in his home town of Gulfport Dec. 4, was not affected by the Meridian action.

LOUISIANA MAN

No date was set for a preliminary hearing for the 21st man, Horace D. Barnett, who was arrested in Shreveport, La.

When Miss Carter ruled against the testimony of an FBI agent, Owen declined to put up additional evidence.

Then the gray-haired commissioner said she had no alternative but to grant a defense motion to throw out the charges.

"The defendants are discharged," she said, and ordered their release from bonds of $3,500 to $5,000.

YWCA Starts Fund Drive for a New Headquarters

The Young Women's Christian Association of Pontiac launched its YWCA Building Fund campaign today to raise $150,000 for the purchase and remodeling of new headquarters at 269 W. Huron.

The drive will start with solicitation for advance gifts, corporate and business organization contributions, and gifts from organizations.

A general solicitation from individuals will begin after the first of the year, according to Alice D. Serrell, general chairman of the building committee.

The Pontiac YWCA, organized in 1943-44, has long outgrown its present headquarters at 22 Franklin Blvd., she pointed out.

The present membership is approximately 1,200 of which 300 are Y-Teen Club members.

There are six senior and junior H-Y Teen clubs in Pontiac, Clarkston, and Lake Orion.

PROPERTY OPTION

Pontiac offers the only headquarters YWCA between Metropolitan Detroit and Flint.

The YWCA of Pontiac has an option on the property it proposes to purchase. This option expires in 1965 unless renewed or taken up, according to Mrs. William Emerson, president.

The building was formerly the Leo Beaudette home and architects and interior designers have declared it would make ideal headquarters for the YWCA.

Pledge forms permit contributors to spread their gifts over a period of three years, and contributions are deductible from income taxes.

Medical Unit Eyes Leftover Drive Funds

Oakland County Medical Society officials are pondering what to do with $200,000 left over from their antipolio campaign last spring.

An announcement was slated to be released today on results of a meeting last night of medical society officials and some leading businessmen.

The money remains as excess from the triconomy antipolio drive conducted by the doctors.

Antipolio sugar cubes were fed to 550,000 persons in Oakland. A 50-cent donation was requested, but no one was turned away for lack of funds.

According to Dr. Worth W. Henderson, president-elect, donations totaled roughly $420,000. The vaccine itself was the only major expense. It ran about $200,000, leaving the unexpected $220,000 "profit."

Society officials feel that the "profit" belongs to the citizens of Oakland, not in any way to the medical group.

War Expansion Outside Nation Hinted Near

Development Occurs as Buddhists Moving to Oust New Premier

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — South Viet Nam announced today the United States has agreed to an across-the-board increase in aid in the war against the Communist Viet Cong and hinted that the war will soon be expanded outside this country.

"The U. S. government has offered additional military and economic assistance to improve the execution of the government's programs and to restrain the mounting infiltration of men and equipment by the Hanoi regime in support of the Viet Cong," a communique said.

This development was disclosed as the Buddhist hierarchy called on the United States in a letter to Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor for support in a campaign to oust Premier Tran Van Huong's civilian administration.

Top Buddhist leaders met in a council of war and yellow-robed monks flocked to Saigon's main pagoda.

A U. S. spokesman said the government's communique had been prepared after consultations with South Viet Nam here, but that the mission would have no comment on any aspect.

TO BE STRENGTHENED

The communique said the air defenses of South Viet Nam will be strengthened, implying that more U. S. fighters and other equipment were on the way.

The communique did not spell out what forms the new American aid will take.

A U. S. official said some provisions will be kept secret for security reasons and other aspects have not yet been fully worked out. Consultations between the American Mission and the Huong government will continue, he said.

Tito Appeals for Coexistence

'Return of Cold War Can Bring Disaster'

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito said today he is ready and fit to continue leading Communist Yugoslavia on a road of peaceful coexistence with the West. He said a return to the cold war would bring disaster.

The 72-year-old president made the statements at a news conference for more than 100 foreign journalists attending the eighth congress of Yugoslavia's independent-minded Communist party.

It was his first general news conference in 12 years.

Tito holds two top jobs in the country, the presidency and the secretary generalship of the Communist party. One of the first questions asked was whether he had made provision for succession to his party job.

GRINS IN REPLY

"That's not up to me," Tito replied with a grin. "That is a matter for the congress to decide."

The congress opened Monday and will end Saturday. Tito's reelection as secretary general is certain.

Rain to Stop Until Sunday

Today's rain will gradually end tonight.

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicts temperatures will drop to the low 30s tonight and climb into the 40s tomorrow.

2 Townships Start Goodfellow Sales

Goodfellow paper sales to benefit the needy got under way today in Orion and Oxford townships, sponsored by the Lake Orion and Oxford Township Lions clubs.

Both drives are two-day affairs. Money collected in the Orion Township campaign goes for groceries, clothing and other necessities for needy families, while the Oxford Township drive is aimed at providing clothing for needy youngsters.

Utica Man Is Jailed in Wife's Death

A 30-year-old Utica steelworker faced arraignment in Justice Court today for the slaying of his wife yesterday.

Gerald Skrubbellos of 2620 Goodale was arrested yesterday by Utica police after his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Sox of Hazel Park, called police and told them Skrubbellos had called her and said he had killed his 27-year-old wife, Audrey.

When police arrived at the residence, Skrubbellos threatened to kill six of his seven children who were at home if the officers tried to enter the home.

The officers persuaded Skrubbellos to let them in. They found the half-dressed body of his wife in bed. She had been shot twice in the head.

Skrubbellos told police he had shot his wife for "personal reasons" and did not elaborate. He was taken to Macomb County Jail.

CHILDREN UNHARMED

The six children, aged 10 months to nine years, were not harmed. A seventh child was sent out of the house by Skrubbellos, who apparently killed his wife yesterday morning and told the children she was ill.

Police found a 32-caliber automatic pistol in the Skrubbellos home, which is believed to have been the murder weapon.

Retiree, 95, Looks Ahead

He Shares Rich Memories

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

The year 1899 was a momentous one. During it, The National Prohibition Party was organized, the Westinghouse airbrake was patented, the Suez Canal was opened — oh yes, and Harry Octavius Whitfield was born on Dec. 11.

Since then, speaking for both self and canal, lots of water has flowed under the bridge.

Born on an Oakland County farm, the nonagenarian came to Pontiac (pop. 7,800) in 1893 to seek fame and fortune.

He went to work for a firm selling drugs and groceries — which might indicate that even then drug stores had a yen for branching out into other lines.

Three years later, the young man set up his own drug-grocery business, which, after a move across the street, he conducted at 21 N. Saginaw until 1918.

IRRESISTIBLE URGE

MANY HAPPY RETURNS — With ages bridged by nearly a century, Harry O. Whitfield of 22 Waldo is fondly remembered on his 95th birthday by great-granddaughter Nancy Strait.

Viets Say U.S. to Increase Aid

for the third time since the ambassador returned from Washington last Sunday.

SERIES OF TALKS

The communiqué said:
"The government of Viet Nam has just completed a series of discussions with the United States Mission with regard to measures which should be taken to improve the situation in South Viet Nam in all its aspects."

"The government of Viet Nam has accepted this offer of support, which includes provision for increased numbers of military, paramilitary and police forces, the strengthening of the air defense of South Viet Nam, and further economic assistance for a variety of forms of industrial, urban and rural development."

"For its part, the government of Viet Nam is reviewing ways of increasing the scope and effectiveness of its programs related to the development of security and local government in the rural areas."

JOINT PLANS

"Together, the government of Viet Nam and the U.S. Mission are making joint plans to achieve greater effectiveness against the infiltration threat."

"In the course of the discussions, the U.S. representatives expressed full support for the duly constituted government of Prime Minister Huong."

With financial aid from the United States now running at a rate of $600 million a year, a U.S. spokesman was asked if there was any monetary limit on the new program.

He replied that no limit ever has been placed on American support for the Saigon government and that as much aid will be given as seems needed to do the job.

It appeared, however, that no substantial number of U.S. servicemen will be added to the 22,000 already on duty in Viet Nam.

The coincidental Buddhist move was made in a scene that looked as conspiratorial as the planning sessions in the Buddhist fight against the Ngo Dinh Diem regime last year.

Retiree Shares His Memories money proved irresistible, and for two years he sat at a rollicking desk as vice president of the Oakland County Savings Bank.

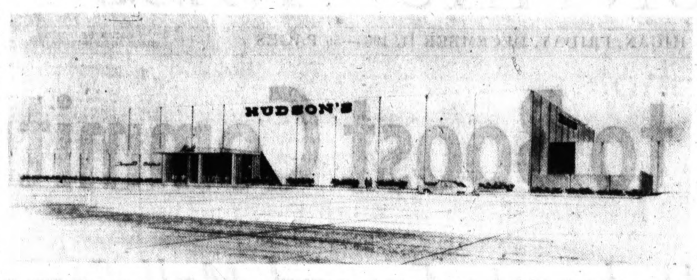

But the lure of greater gains proved stronger than the green of money, and in 1919 he organized a wholesale grocery firm.

Known initially as Whitfield, Waller & Marcotte (the last name soon changed to Dawson), the business was first located on Wayne Street, later on Pike, and back to Pike and finally made it back to Perry to occupy a new home, where it flourished until sold in 1958.

The building itself was acquired soon after by the Salva-Aid Agency to be utilized as a Men's Social Service Center.

MOMENTOUS YEAR

The year 1941 was also a momentous one.

Pleads Guilty; Grand Jury to Get Case

Cecil Price, left the Meridian Courthouse free of all charges only six days after their arrest in a roundup by FBI agents.

The dramatic moment in the hearing came with the first and only witness, FBI agent Henry Rask of Atlanta. Owen asked the agent if he had interviewed Barnett, one of 10 men the FBI had charged with taking part in the slayings.

Rask testified he interviewed Barnett, 25, of Cullen, La., and formerly of Meridian, on Nov. 19, 20 and 21.

"Did you obtain from him a signed confession?" the short, broad-faced Owen inquired quietly. There was complete silence in the packed courtroom.

"I did," Rask said.

Then Owen asked the agent how he obtained the statement, and Rask began: "I talked to Mr. Barnett and we discussed various things."

They argued that if Barnett had confessed, then he should testify. Owen countered that Barnett was a codefendant and his presence at the hearing had no connection with admissibility of the evidence.

Owen said he was prepared to prove the signed confession to the commissioner.

But Miss Carter ruled against him. There was more argument from both sides, and the defense attorneys asked for time to confer about their position on Barnett's statement.

Give Weather Guides for Dismissing Schools

BIRMINGHAM — Just how bad does the weather have to get to prevent youngsters from going to school?

The Birmingham Board of Education has added new ground rules to the traditional winter morning guessing game.

"During severe weather," it announces, "two conditions will affect normal school operation."

If main roads can not be traveled safely, schools will be dismissed for the day throughout the district.

However, if the main roads are clear and only the secondary roads are blocked, classes will be in session in all schools.

SECONDARY ROADS

In that event, students living on impassable secondary roads will need to walk to and from main road bus stops until weather permits buses to resume their normal routes.

It is the general policy of the board to keep schools open if at all possible without hindering the health or safety of students.

Parents are asked to tune in to their local radio stations when the weather might alter the usual routine.

If only one building needs to be closed for a day, parents will be informed by radio or telephone.

REPORT FOR WORK
"Whether schools are in session or not, teachers and all employees will be expected to report for work as soon as possible," the board said.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — A melodrama entitled "Pure as the Driven Snow" or "A Working Girl's Secret" will be presented tonight and tomorrow night in the Cranbrook School auditorium.

The performances by the Cranbrook School Equestrian Club and members of the Kingswood School Cranbrook senior class will be at 8:15 p. m.

FRANKLIN — Antonio Vivaldi's "Gloria," one of the more popular Baroque works for choir and orchestra, will be presented Sunday night in the sanctuary of Franklin Community Church.

The church choir of the University of Michigan Symphony Orchestra will combine their talents for the 8 p. m. concert.

The public is invited to attend the concert at the church, 32473 Normandy.

Club Extension to Hold Open House Sunday

A Community Open House will be held Sunday from 3 to 6 p. m. at the new Columbia Avenue Extension of the Boys' Club of Pontiac, 124 W. Columbia.

The new extension has been rebuilt and remodeled completely through the efforts of community groups, individuals and the city.

The Downtown Optimist Club is sponsoring the open house, and the public is invited.

Sunday will also mark the 40th anniversary of the establishment of the Boys' Club in Pontiac.

Parents in the vicinity of Osmon Lake and Terry Lake were urged today to keep their children off the ice on the two lakes regardless of weather conditions.

"A Department of Public Works spokesman said the DPW is engaged in a draining and flushing operation at the lakes in an attempt to correct a pollution condition in Osmon Lake."

The raising and lowering of the water level in the lakes creates an extremely hazardous ice condition.

PERCY KILBRIDE

Death Takes 'Pa Kettle,' 76

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Percy Kilbride, 76, the Pa Kettle of the movies, died early today at Casa Sanitarium.

He was injured in an auto accident Sept. 21 and underwent brain surgery at Good Samaritan Hospital in Hollywood Nov. 11.

Dr. Barkley Noble said Kilbride died at 12:45 a. m. of hardening of the arteries in the brain and terminal pneumonia.

The doctor said he notified Kilbride's sister, Mrs. John L. Crowley of Los Angeles Thursday that her brother was failing fast.

Fame came in his later years to the hawk-nosed comedian with the singsong voice.

800 STAGE ROLES

"He appeared in 800 stage roles, then made his movie debut in 1942. His roles were minor until he and Marjorie Main played a farm couple in 'The Egg and I' in 1947."

The characters were lifted from the film and became the basis of the "Ma and Pa Kettle" series. They were immensely popular at the box office, and Kilbride and Miss Main were starred from character roles to leading parts.

Kilbride was 61 when the series began. The Kettle films made a fortune for the studio, but Kilbride never struck it rich. Work was brief, taxes too much, and he was typecast as the back-country farmer.

He retired at 65, lived largely on Social Security, and spent much time walking Hollywood Boulevard. A bachelor, he lived alone in a modest apartment.

LBJ to Give Hubert Job of Coordinating U.S. Rights Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he will make Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey responsible for coordinating and pressing government programs that are dedicated to the goal of equal opportunity. This announcement Thursday night to the Urban League was accompanied by a Johnson pledge to make the emancipation of Negroes "a fact" and a promise that he will be content with "nothing less than the full assimilation of more than 20 million Negroes into American life."

In both instances Johnson drew sustained applause. Urban League Executive Director Whitney Young told the President that Negroes trust him, believe in him and 95 percent of them voted for him. The six government groups whose activities Johnson said Humphrey has agreed to coordinate were listed by the President as the Justice Department's civil rights division, the Civil Rights Commission, the President's Committee on Equal Opportunity in Housing, the Community Relations Service, the soon-to-be created Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the President's Committee on Equal Opportunity in Employment.

until a qualified person, regardless of where he lives or works or the color of his skin, has the right, unquestioned and unrestrained, to go in and cast his ballot in every precinct in this country. I am not going to be satisfied."

215 Days Left in Mariner Trip

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mars has only 215 days left to primp before a television camera aboard America's Mariner-4 snaps the first close-up pictures of its mysterious surface. Scientists at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) said yesterday they are confident the spacecraft will fly by the red planet at an amazingly close distance of only 5,400 miles.

The historic space rendezvous is set to occur at 8:10 p.m. PST, (9:10 p.m. EST), next July 14, climaxing a 7½-month-long, 325-million-mile journey for the vehicle. Primary goal of the spacecraft is to photograph the surface of Mars and to take scientific readings on radiation, magnetic forces and space dust surrounding Mars. The information should tell scientists the density of the Martian atmosphere and whether a spaceship can land on the planet.

Urges Greater Support for Tourism in U.P.

ST. IGNACE (AP)—Lawrence Rubin, executive secretary of the Mackinac Bridge Authority, Thursday night urged greater support for a program to keep summer visitors in the Upper Peninsula for longer periods. Rubin, who address the Upper Peninsula Association of Supervisors, suggested that more support be given to the promotional program of the Michigan Tourist Association.

When Johnson was vice president he headed the employment opportunity group. Whether Humphrey will become its chairman is up in the air—as is the status of the committee at a time of transition to operations under the new civil rights law.

Although the photographs are not expected to answer the age-old riddle of whether some form of life exists on Mars, it is anticipated that they may provide clues about the Martian canals, which have fascinated man since invention of the telescope. MAKE OVER THE BATTLE of the Bulge Came Violently, Unexpectedly

By ROBERT E. MERRIAM
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assoc.

It was cold but the ground was still soggy, that 16th day of December in 1944 — just 20 years ago.

Six months earlier, the Americans, British, Canadians and some Free French had bloodily fought in Normandy. Only four months before that day our armies had broken out of the seashore, and charged across France to a deliriously happy

Paris, into Belgium and small pieces of Germany and Holland.

Dec. 16 was only one month after our forces had consolidated their lines along the German frontier and opened for use the great port of Antwerp, vitally needed for ships bringing over-short supplies.

November generally was a time of consolidation and limited attack, but by the end of the month the Allies were preparing for the next big thrust forward.

By early December, the British Second and the American Ninth Armies were poised on the north flank of the 625-mile front for a massive attack on Germany with Cologne as a main target.

SEIZURE OF DAMS

"They awaited only the seizure of a series of dams controlling the Roer River, capture of which had been assigned to one corps of the American First Army, next to the south. This latter attack started on Dec. 13.

South of the First, Patton's Third Army was mounting troops and supplies for a massive smash, which was to take us sweeping through the German West Wall to the Rhine River, into southern Germany. His target date was Dec. 18.

On the southern flank the Seventh and First French Armies were poised to assist.

In the middle of the Allied line, on an 80-mile front of woods, hills and poor road networks, was the only static point of the December war.

BEAUTIFUL HILLS

In these beautiful Ardennes hills of Luxembourg and Belgium, several American divisions heavily smashed in bitter fighting in the Huertgen Forest, had been sent to "rest." One new division, getting "acclimated," went into the line on Dec. 13.

Optimistic Allied intelligence officers were predicting an imminent German collapse:

"It is now certain that attrition is steadily sapping the strength of German forces on the western front and that the crust of defense is thinner, more brittle, and more vulnerable than it appears on our G2 maps, or to the troops in the field," is an actual quote from the estimate of a high American intelligence officer only a few days before the unexpected happened.

It was in these loosely held Ardennes forests that the Germans struck early in the morning of Dec. 16 — the same area out of which they had attacked in 1914 and 1940.

FROM RESIDUE

Tanks and troops — some recruited from the Russian front and others scraped from the residue of the once-great "Wehrmacht" — sprang into action.

Paratroopers respurred. The "Luftwaffe" made its final fling.

The Battle of the Bulge was launched — violently, unexpectedly, vigorously.

It was Hitler's last great gamble. His objective was to cut the Allied forces in two, drive to the English Channel and then annihilate the split forces, forcing, he hoped, another Dunkirk retreat to England.

STUBBORN TROOPS

The last great fling might have worked but for unsung, isolated, nevertheless stubborn American troops.

There was the engineer squad at a bridge at Trois Points, gallant defense forces at St. Vith and scattered units in Bastogne, to mention but a few of the heroic defenders in the first days of the attack.

Seventeen German divisions had been secretly hoarded and armed for this great battle, with twelve more in reserve.

A corps of saboteurs under the leadership of the adventurer, Otto Skorzeny, outline rescuer of Mussolini, had been recruited, many armed with American uniforms.

'SAVIOR OF BERLIN'

The "savior" of Berlin at the time of the attempted assassination of Hitler — Remer — had been given a massively armored brigade.

Dietrich — Hitler's former bodyguard and top ranking SS officer in the German Army — commanded the main thrust.

For two bloody, snowy weeks the world was rocked as the Allies withdrew before this ferocious, startling German attack.

Every available American, British and French unit was thrown into the defense.

INSIDE LINES

Despite this, German tanks clawed their way into view of the Meuse River, 60 miles inside the Allied lines.

All Allied offensives were called off.

Patton was diverted to the penetration. Montgomery brought part of his army down to the Meuse River. Units of the American Ninth Army were diverted into the middle of the fighting.

Germans filtered behind the lines. Eisenhower was closely guarded when rumors spread of an attempt on his life.

COLLOQUIALISM

Both generals and privates had to brush up on their colloquialisms as trigger-itchy road guards, looking for Skorzeny's men in American uniforms, challenged them with questions: "Who are the Bums?" or "When did you last see the Lady (Statue of Liberty)?"

Hitler gambled that Eisenhower didn't really have the authority to react quickly to the German attack and this was his worst mistake.

Like quickly split the front, half to Bradley and half to Montgomery, risking the wrath of his American commanders.

The attack finally was contained — nearly 100,000 Allied casualties later — and the Germans slowly were driven back.

MANY MYTHS

There are many myths about

this gigantic battle.

Some said we deliberately had egged the Germans into this attack, which wasn't so.

Some said Hitler didn't really plan to drive us into the sea, which wasn't so.

Some claimed we had forced Germans to attack prematurely, when in reality they delayed because they couldn't get their supplies forward fast enough.

Some contended that Patton immediately blunted the German attack, when in reality he was initially hitting only into the flank of the enemy, as bitter as was this fighting.

NOT LET DOWN

Some said the British let us down, when instead they supported our main effort magnificently.

They even mislaid it the "Bandstand Offensive," when in reality the old Prussian refused to have anything to do with its planning or execution.

For nearly a million Americans caught in this holocaust it was a bewildering experience. They had just been told the war was nearly over.

These proud Americans were unused to the chaos and confusion of a withdrawal. They didn't like it when hospitals were abandoned, vast ammunition and gasoline dumps were left unguarded, command posts were left with secret documents strewn about by the fleeing soldiers.

MADE OF STRAW

They were upset by real German parachutists and dummy parachutists made of straw.

Hundreds of German propaganda broadcasts preyed upon the new, unexpected fears of Allied soldiers.

French and Belgian officers added to the panic by directly predicting that this was the 1940 debacle all over again.

Are you now confused as to what the Battle of the Bulge was all about? You should be, because 20 years ago everybody else was, too.

IN SIX DAYS

As the Christmas season approaches just remember the two privates from one American division which had not been heard from in six days.

They stumbled accidentally into the relocated First Army headquarters after searching all day for their abandoned trailer full of Christmas presents.

In rapid succession they were escorted from lieutenant to captain to major to colonel to general, all wanting to know where their division was located.

"This is the most information I have gotten all week," they heard the general say as they left.

That was his Christmas present in 1944. They didn't ever find theirs.

Nutrition Institute Studies of Overeating Malnutrition, Diseases

NEW YORK (AP) — The facts are eloquent, and the figures are shocking: In some of the world's underdeveloped areas, children have only a 50-50 chance of reaching the age of 5 — because of hunger and deficiencies associated with it.

At the same time, one of the leading killers in the United States is the higher-than-needed food intake — which manifests itself in heart disease, cerebral strokes, liver disease, and kidney failure.

Tucked away in temporary quarters in an apartment house off 168th Street — in sight of other buildings of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center — are the cramped headquarters of the Institute of Nutrition Sciences.

The institute — the only one of its kind in the Americas — tries to fight malnutrition globally. In the United States, for example, institute researchers are investigating the influence of too many calories and too little exercise.

STUNTED GROWTH

In the Caribbean area, institute field teams are studying stunted growth and anemias caused by food deficiencies.

In Beirut, Lebanon, institute specialists are working on a low-cost, high-protein food mixture, and on protection from blindness caused by lack of vitamin A.

In New York itself, the institute trains researchers and public health officials in a program that draws on almost every scientific and medical field taught at Columbia.

Most of the 40-odd students in the institute each year already are medical doctors or public health officials.

FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Most of them come from foreign countries — usually the emerging nations of Africa, Asia or Latin America.

Courses — not generally offered elsewhere — include problems of food and drug law regulation, food production and economics, and food technology.

One of the leading killers studied by institute is a combined deficiency of vitamin A and protein.

If intakes of both are very low, reports Dr. King, the mortality rate, even after medical care, is a staggering 85 per cent.

Furthermore, low intake of vitamin A often results in total blindness — affecting millions of children in India and Southeast Asia.

Dr. King says reasons for this and other phenomena are not fully understood "but research can furnish answers."

He adds that if low-cost, high-quality protein foods — such as the one under development in Beirut — could be produced and distributed on a large scale, the death rate could be dramatically lowered.

The work of the institute has been severely handicapped since a fire in February 1964 destroyed the main office and work space, but classes continued on schedule.

Program Set on Retarded

The 13 newly elected members of the State Legislature from Oakland County will be honored guests at the Retarded Children's Information Day Program, tomorrow, at Royal Oak's Kimball High School.

The program, sponsored by the Oakland County Council for Retarded Children, is to acquaint the public and members of the legislature with the need for expanded services to the mentally retarded.

Dr. Stafford L. Warren, assistant to the president for mental retardation, will speak at luncheon on federal-state implementation of new legislation for the retarded.

Come take your choice of the beautifully different new Chevrolets!

'65 Corvair

More are on the way every day. So if you're itching to be off and running in one of these racier, roomier new Corvairs, come on in and see us now. Try out this internationally styled beauty that has both U.S. and European car buffs applauding it. It's enrolled many a family man, complete with family, in the ranks of its enthusiasts. It's longer and wider, easier to enter, with more shoulder room up front. It's also got up to 180 hp available in the new top-of-the-line Corsas; up to 140 hp in the Monzas and 500's. You've really got to drive this new Corvair to believe it.

'65 Chevrolet

If it looks like it could be too rich for the old budget, that's a tribute to Chevrolet's designers and engineers. Because they knocked themselves out to bring you a longer, wider, extravagantly beautiful car. With richer, roomier interiors. A smoother Jet-smooth ride. Wide-Stance design for greater stability. And mighty impressive power availability, including a 400-hp V8. On top of that the people at Fisher Body outdid themselves. But even this car must lack something—and does. You at the wheel—a glaring deficiency we'd like to remedy real soon.

'65 Chevy II

Here's where you get a belt out of going thrifty. Because (1) you get the sharpest looking thrift car you've ever seen—like the bucket-seated Nova SS Coupe below, for example. And (2) you can put in a V8 with 300 hp and spank along like you never thought a thrifty car could. Of course, if your power wants are more modest, there's a 4 available on lowest priced sedans, and two 6's and two other V8's available throughout the line. Like to get your hands on a thrift car that doesn't look or move like one? Have a go in one of these.

'65 Chevelle

More to see, more to try in the cars more people buy

Choose a new Chevrolet, Chevelle, Chevy II, Corvair or Corvette now at your dealer's

Here are all the things that made Chevelle the most popular car of its size its first year out—plus some new surprises that promise to make it come on stronger than ever. You can have up to 350 hp behind that new V-shaped prow. All told, there's a range of six engines available—from a quieter six to high-performance V8's that feel as impetuous as this new Chevelle looks. There's also a quieter, smoother ride. Yet Chevelle still comes on the same easy-handling wheelbase—beautifully proportioned between the regular Chevrolet and Chevy II.

BALLOTING ON BRICKS — Officials of three Oakland County school systems Monday will seek funds to buy building materials and furnishings for new construction within their districts. Here contemplating the bond issue elections are (from left) Frank W. Marriott, vice president of the West Bloomfield Board of Education; George Garver, Holly schools superintendent; and Mrs. Charles Scully, Walled Lake Board of Education president.

Holly Is Asking Residents to End Classroom Shortage

HOLLY — A $775,000 answer to Holly School District's elementary classroom shortage will be on Monday's ballot here.

In conjunction with the election, the board of education has scheduled two open houses Sunday.

If approved, the bond proposition will finance a major addition at the new Patterson Elementary School and a smaller one at Davisburg Elementary School.

It would mean a tax increase of not more than $2 per $1,000 of state-equalized valuation, according to Schools Supt. George Garver.

The present 22.7-mill levy in the district includes 7 mills for debt retirement.

SCHOOL ADDITION

The larger portion of the sum being requested would be used to construct a $600,000 addition at Patterson School, the district's third elementary unit which was opened in January.

The new 31,000-square-foot wing, containing 15 regular classrooms and a multi-use area, would more than double the size of the existing 14-room building.

Incorporated in the multi-use area would be administrative offices, a library, eating area, facilities for a limited physical education program and a kitchenette to serve public meetings held at the school.

A $155,000 construction project at the Davisburg facility would provide four classrooms and some auxiliary space. Besides the 5,000-square-foot wing, the sum would pay for renovation to bring the existing building up to state fire marshal's specifications.

VIEW OF BUILDING

All of the proposed new classrooms would be like those recently constructed at Patterson. The school board will open the Patterson unit for inspection from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Voters in the community then will be able to see for themselves the kind of facilities planned.

During the same hours, the board also is having an open house at the high school, where a new addition recently has been completed.

The new wing has filled the need for additional secondary space, Garver said, but the gap remains in the elementary facilities.

SCHOOL ROLLS

With a total enrollment of 2,785, the district is now short four elementary classrooms, according to Garver.

The number of students, he said, jumped 185 this year, while a maximum increase of 150 had been expected.

Board of education members thought the district would need two more classrooms, but the problem was doubled when 1,607 youngsters registered for elementary school this fall. Comparable figure last year was 1,481.

Home in Area Gutted by Fire

Oakland Twp. Family Escapes Uninjured

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP — Fire destroyed a one-story house shortly after midnight today, but a four-member family managed to get out safely.

Armond Granata of 4360 Collins discovered the fire in the utility room of the home at 12:52 a.m.

His wife Sharon called the Rochester Fire Department and the two of them got 14-month-old John and three-month-old Doreen out of the burning house.

The structure was engulfed in flames when firemen arrived, and they concentrated on trying to save valuable papers and possessions.

The fire completely gutted the house, leaving only the brick and stone veneer walls standing.

ESTIMATES DAMAGE

Rochester Fire Chief Lyle Buchanan estimated the damage at between $8,000 and $10,000 and said that the house was insured for $7,000.

Granata's mother, Mrs. Geraldine Christianson, who lives on Dequindre Road near Rochester, was the owner of the home.

Buchanan said the fire apparently started in a faulty oil hot water heater. Granata said he had been having trouble with the heater and had to re-light the pilot light before retiring at 11 p.m.

Eastern Star Chapter Sets Christmas Party

DAVISBURG — Austin Chapter No. 396, Order of the Eastern Star, and Austin Lodge No. 48, F&AM, will hold their Christmas party tomorrow night.

Entertainment will follow a 6:30 p.m. cooperative supper to be held at the Masonic Temple on Andersonville Road.

W. Bloomfield Wants to Keep Up

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Property owners here Monday will vote on a $1-million bond issue designed to keep school building space with rapid growth in the community.

Spurred by the extension of sewers into the southern portion of the township, subdivisions are being developed on once-barren land there.

The new families are accounting for record jumps in school enrollment, according to the board of education.

A 10 per cent increase in registrations was tallied this year when the number of students jumped from 2,038 to 2,247.

Featured in the proposed building program is a 13-room elementary school in the heart of the growth area, on Maple midway between Middle Bell and Orchard Lake.

Cost of constructing and equipping a building on the site already owned by the school board has been estimated at $500,000.

The board also proposes spending some $100,000 to complete and equip the new junior high school under construction on Orchard Lake Road.

Some $200,000 would be allocated for the purchase of additional elementary sites.

Plans also call for some $100,000 to be spent on renovation at the high school, $50,000 in the Scotch Elementary School area and $50,000 on contingencies.

Approval of the bond issue would cost property owners nothing in additional taxes, according to Schools Supt. Dr. Left A. Houghton.

The same factors which have caused the need for new schools will help to pay for them, he said.

New houses in the district are increasing the assessed valuation and therefore producing more total tax dollars.

The current tax rate is expected to produce enough revenue by 1965 to cover the proposed bond issue with no tax increase.

The district this year is levying a 26.75-mill tax. Of the total, property owners are paying $7.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation as equalized for debt retirement.

In a recent report to voters, the board noted a $1.6-million bond issue approved in 1963 now is being used to relieve present crowded conditions in the system.

Additional funds are needed for growth anticipated in the future, the board said.

Headed YMCA Branch To Leave Rochester

ROCHESTER — The first executive secretary of the Rochester Branch YMCA, Jack Zahn, is leaving town Jan. 15.

Zahn, who arrived in the village in late 1960 to become the first executive secretary of what was then an extension of the Pontiac YMCA, will take a similar position in West Allis, Wis., a Milwaukee suburb.

Prior to his arrival in Rochester, Zahn was involved in YMCA work in his native state of Indiana for three years, and worked nine years in the Lansing area, organizing branches and extension programs.

Since 1960, the Rochester Branch YMCA has offered many courses and been responsible for many projects. It is still in its original home on Helen Street, but faces the necessity of moving next year.

The owner of the building, St. John Lutheran Church, wants to put the structure to a different use.

Zahn, his wife, and four children, who live at 1046 E. Tienken, will be leaving 1,650 Rochester Branch YMCA members and many friends.

"We try to be prepared to move, because we know it will come," he said, "but we never are."

"You make so many friends," he continued, "moving is like lying a little—it's very difficult for us."

Zahn said the programs now offered at the Rochester Branch YMCA will continue after his departure, under the direction of laymen and volunteers.

25 Face Arraignment in Shelby Gambling

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — State police from the Romeo and Warren posts and the Detroit intelligence squad joined forces with Shelby Township police early this morning in a raid on a gambling establishment at 3170 Shelby.

A dozen officers converged on the house at 5:30 a.m. and netted 21 alleged players and four alleged operators, along with cards and dice.

The four suspected operators are Morris (Marty) Combs, 29, of 5177 Shelby; LaQuintus (Bud) Collins, 27, of 1160 E. Rowland, Madison Heights; Charles Mirabir, 33, of 1189 Leverette, Detroit; and Nathan Anderson, 44, of 4021 Los Angeles, Warren.

Combs told police the house was his.

The four suspected of operating the establishment were taken to Macomb County Jail, where they were to be arraigned today on a charge of operating the gambling house.

ALLEGED PLAYERS

The alleged players were to face arraignment before Justice Joseph Plutner in Shelby Township on a charge of frequenting the gambling establishment.

Romeo State Police said that the residential-type house had been under surveillance for "quite awhile."

Lapeer Lodge Sets Public Installation

LAPEER — Public installation of officers of the Lapeer Masonic Lodge will follow a 6:45 p.m. dinner tomorrow at 8 at the Masonic Temple.

Don Crankshaw will be installed as worshipful master.

Other officers also taking over their new duties will include Charles Underwood, senior warden; Don Mosher, junior warden; Lyle Stewart, secretary; and Del Bader, treasurer.

Boog Powell AL's Newest 'Muscle Man'

BOSTON (UPI) — Meet the new "muscle man" of the American League — John (Boog) Powell of the Baltimore Orioles.

Harmon Killebrew hit more home runs, Tony Oliva led in four departments and Brooks Robinson drove in 118 runs but it was the 6-foot, 3-inch, 235-pound Powell who topped the league in slugging percentage — the badge of the true slugger.

Figures released today by the AL disclosed that Powell had a .608 slugging percentage during 1964 to beat out Mickey Velez of the New York Yankees, whose percentage was .591.

Oliva ranked third with .557, Bob Allison was fourth with .553.

Killebrew was fifth with .548 and Robinson was sixth with .521. It was the first slugging title won by Powell, who was no better than 12th in the league in 1963.

Slugging percentages are computed by dividing a player's total number of appearances at the plate into his total bases.

Horse Groom Hurt

Filly Panics on Train

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — The Santa Fe's Grand Canyon Limited screamed to an emergency stop near here Thursday and out jumped a 3-year-old racing filly valued at $90,000.

The thoroughbred, identified as Cheeta II, owned by Maine Chance Farm, panicked in her stall car after catching her head in a fire extinguisher cabinet. She was being shipped from Belmont to Santa Anita.

She suffered a gashed left rear leg and finally wound up at Belmead Farm, a stable near Leominster, Ill., a suburb of Chicago.

Two groomers were injured trying to control the violent horse. Claude Bryan, 53, Orlando, Fla.,

Ex-Champion, Powell Meet in 10-Rounder

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Floyd Patterson, the former heavyweight champion, isn't taking his warmup fight with unranked Charlie Powell lightly.

They will meet in a 10-round charity bout at Hiram Bithorn Stadium Saturday night.

Patterson completed his heavy training with a four round boxing drill and six rounds of gym work Thursday. First he sparred two rounds with his brother Ray, also a pro heavyweight, and then he went two with Joe Shelton.

The ex-champion weighed 198 pounds before his workout and trainer-manager Don Florio predicted he will scale 184 for his scrap with the underdog from San Diego.

Powell boxed four rounds with Willie Johnson and did eight rounds of gym work.

NFL Title Game Is Uncertain of Teams

By The Associated Press

The American Football League is in the peculiar position of having both its division leaders in action this week with neither game meaning very much.

San Diego, 8-3-1, already has clinched in the West and no matter what happens in Buffalo's game with Denver, the Eastern leader Bills must face Boston in a show-down game in the season finale next week.

And the Patriots, with a 10-2-1 record, can do nothing but sit and fret.

The schedule for the next-to-last weekend of the regular season has Buffalo at Denver, 2-9-1, Kansas City, 5-7, at San Diego and New York, 5-4-1, at Houston, 2-10, all Sunday; Boston and Oakland are idle.

That means that win, lose or draw against Denver, the Bills' shot at the Eastern crown goes on the line in Boston a week from now.

LONG-SHOT

Boston kept alive its long-shot chance for a second straight AFL Eastern title last week with a 31-24 decision over Kansas City while Oakland surprised Buffalo (16-13) with a touchdown in the last four seconds of play.

That set up the following possibilities for the show-down game:

1. If Buffalo beats Denver this week, the Bills will need only a tie with Boston to clinch the Eastern crown.

2. If Buffalo ties Denver this week, the Bills will need a victory over Boston to clinch. Ties with Denver and Boston would result in a tie for the top spot.

Pine Knob and Dorris went into last night's action tied for the lead, but Anita trimmed Pine Knob, 4-2, and Dorris took a 4-2 decision from A & W.

In other matches, Seaman Manufacturing knocked off Buettner's Cleaners, 5-1; Clark's Drive-In and Frostop battled to a 3-3 tie; Kemner's Service blanked Club 99, 6-0; Pepsi Cola downed Crocker Candy, 5-1; and Francis Fuel posted a 4-2 triumph over Harvey's Colonial House.

and development chief for the State Conservation Department, said 246 elk already have been taken — amounting to some 42 tons of elk, figuring most weigh between 350 and 450 pounds dressed out.

He estimated the kill in this year's hunt, first legal elk hunt east of the Mississippi since before the turn of the century, could have gone as high as 40 to 500 without harming the herd. The season ends Sunday.

Stanley Cain, a commission member from Ann Arbor, said more elk would have to be taken next year. He said this year's kill would not keep the herd from increasing from the estimated 3,500 animals, and an overhunting problem would continue.

BEING CLOSED

The commission, meeting informally, also heard from Robert Brevitz of Battle Creek who serves on a local committee studying how to use lands in the Fort Custer area once the fort is closed.

Brevitz said the 14,000-acre military reservation, being closed under orders of Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, seems a natural site for a recreation area.

The area probably has the highest deer concentration of any area in the state, with an estimated 100 deer per square mile. Once federal agencies decide

Boros Ready for PGA Tour Again

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — The professional golf career of burly Julius Boros has been a dramatic succession of ups and downs.

Today, at 44, he may again be on the rise. After a layoff of nearly four months, Boros returned to tournament competition Thursday, teaming with Betsy Rawls, to shoot a slick four-under-par 68 for the first round lead in the $40,000 Scotch Mixed Foursums Tournament.

A man of very few words, Boros admitted grudgingly, "I'm feeling fine now and playing well. I'll be ready to get back on the tour in January."

After a phenomenal season in 1963, when he defeated Arnold Palmer and Jacky Cupit in a playoff to become the second oldest winner of the U.S. Open and was chosen PGA Player of the Year, Boros' game went sour this year.

He started 1964 in reasonably good style but in the open, he was bothered by muscle spasms in his back.

DROPPED OUT

"Physically," he said, "there were some weeks when I just wasn't able to play. By August, my putting was off and I had just lost the urge. Besides, my wife was pregnant, so when the tour went West I dropped out."

"The layoff has done me a world of good. My putting is okay now and I'm ready to get back in there."

Boros, a pro since 1949, first attracted attention in 1952 when he won the U.S. Open and the money championship. In 1955, he was again back on top in cash earnings.

Then came a long victory drought. He didn't win another tournament until 1958 and he won only one that year and only one in 1959.

Although handicapped by burrs in his hands and arms, Boros did well financially in 1961 and 1962, but his best finish in each year was a tie for third.

In 1963, he bounced back to the top, winning more than $77,000 to move into third place among the money winners of the modern era.

Boros showed signs of returning to his 1950 form when he teamed with Miss Rawls, four-time winner of the U.S. Women's Open, in a fine round over a course swept by strong winds.

Mason Rudolph, an infrequent winner on the men's tour but one of its most consistent players, paired with Kathy Whitworth to shoot a 68 and tie for second with the veteran Art Wall and Mary Mills, 1964 champion of the Ladies PGA.

New Safety Rules on Fuel by '500'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway issued new safety regulations Thursday for the 1965 Memorial Day 500-mile race in an attempt to reduce the possibility of collision-explosions such as the one that killed two drivers last May.

A speedway spokesman said requirements in entry blanks to be mailed early next month will include:

All fuel tanks must have rubber bladder inserts. To reduce fuel loads, all cars must refuel at least twice. No fuel tanks shall be installed directly in front of the driver. Refueling equipment must be gravity type only, eliminating pressure refueling.

SPEEDED UP

All new drivers must pass tests up to 145 hours an hour, an increase of 10 miles an hour.

All cars must carry numbers in black on white disks or white on black disks instead of present miscellaneous color combinations.

Big 10 Okays 'Handshake'

Athletic Heads Prefer Pre-Game Ceremony

CHICAGO (AP) — If you see opposing Big Ten football coaches shaking hands before a game next season, don't be surprised. Athletic directors attending the annual winter business meetings of the conference have gone on record endorsing the pre-game, rather than post-game, handshake.

"It is not obligatory or expected," said Commissioner Bill Reed. "But the handshake at the time the coin is tossed before the game starts seems practical. After a game, it is difficult for the coaches to get together for this ceremony. Sometimes, the winning coach is being carried off the field on the shoulders of his players."

The business sessions are expected to wind up today with a joint meeting of faculty representatives and athletic directors formally approving a declaration of policy that would rule any conference athlete ineligible if he participated in an event not sanctioned by a federation.

Royals No Longer Hold Hex on Celts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cincinnati Royals have given the champion Boston Celtics fits the last two years in the National Basketball Association. They took the season series and forced the Celts to the utmost before losing in the playoffs.

It's a different story so far this season. The Royals haven't yet beaten the champs.

Boston made it four straight over the Royals Thursday, as Los Angeles in the other NBA game scheduled Thursday.

Bill Russell's 24 rebounds as he outplayed Jerry Lucas sparked Boston's comeback. In addition, he scored five straight baskets in the third quarter.

Oscar Robertson got 31 points for the Royals and Sam Jones 22 for the Celts. Russell scored only 13, but his control of the boards was vital.

The Hawks had to play without their star, Bob Pettit, for most of the second half. Pettit collided with Rudy LaRusso of the Lakers and both players fell to the floor.

Pettit was removed from the game on a stretcher, treated for a cut on the back of his head and a bruised back. He was not hospitalized and he returned home with the team. LaRusso was not injured.

St. Louis held a 15-point lead until Pettit was hurt. Los Angeles rallied and pulled within six points of the Hawks at the start of the final period.

With one minute to play the Lakers cut the deficit to 81-67 but a basket by Len Wilkens clinched the verdict for the Hawks. Wilkens was high for St. Louis with 30 points while Jerry West topped Los Angeles with 34.

Pistons Open Tour on Road

Play San Francisco; Chamberlain Hurt

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons open a four-game road trip tonight when they meet the San Francisco Warriors at the Cow Palace.

The Pistons will take a 10-17 record into the game compared to San Francisco's 8-19 mark. The defending Western Division champion Warriors have been handicapped due to the loss of Wilt "The Stilt" Chamberlain who is injured with a broken nose.

Detroit, which leads the last-place Warriors by two games, has an 8-8 record since player-coach Dave DeBusschere took over the coaching duties from Charley Wolf.

The Pistons will play the Warriors Saturday night before moving to Los Angeles to meet the Lakers Sunday and Tuesday nights.

Even Christmas Spirit Rationed Out to Cubans

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you think you've got Christmas shopping woes, pity the Cubans! At the head of their Christmas list is a big block of rationing rules and other regulations on gift-giving and holiday dining.

A Havana radio broadcast heard here said the rules are aimed at establishing "equitable distribution of toys and other articles" during the holiday season.

Santa Claus and his Latin-American counterparts — the Three Kings — were not mentioned in the broadcast, nor were Christmas and Three Kings Day.

TWO DAYS
In bygone days, Cuban youngsters often were the envy of their young friends among U.S. and Canadian citizens living in Cuba because the Cubans were remembered on both Dec. 25 and on Three Kings Day, Jan. 6. Also before Fidel Castro's proclaimed "liberation of Cuba," Cubans had a merry time celebrating the Christmas season with exchanges of gifts, buying everything they could afford and importing such luxuries as turron (a Spanish candy) by the ton, grapes from California, apples from many parts of the world.

On practically every table there was a roast suckling pig with the trimmings of black beans, rice, garlic sauce, fruits, vegetables and other delicacies. This year there are regulations about what Cubans can eat. As Cuban exiles interpret

Defense attorney Nick Arvan, after questioning Detective Sgt. Earl C. Leedle of the Detroit Police Scientific Bureau, turned to hand the stick to Assistant Prosecutor Richard Lamb.

But the stick slipped and fell.

Everyone waited for the blast. But none came. The dynamite was actually a dummy prepared by Leedle for court demonstration. But only Leedle knew this.

Arvan, defending a client who was accused in the Aug. could have been tried before a Higher Tribunal.

Judge John P. O'Hara ordered an immediate recess until composition could be regained.

Five Numbers Suspects Nabbbed in Detroit Raid

DETROIT (AP) — Police arrested five Detroit persons in a raid Thursday on an alleged numbers racket. U.S. Attorney

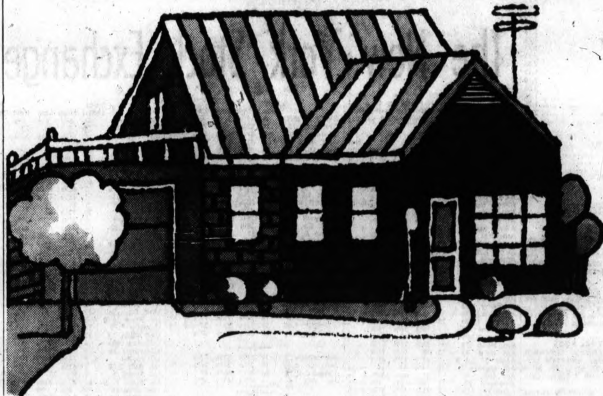

Lawrence Gubow described it as an estimated "$400 million operation per year." Three of the five, all women, were arraigned Thursday and released on $1,000 bond. Two men were to be arraigned today.

Detroit N-Specialist Expected in Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alfred Amorosi of the Atomic Power Development Association, Detroit, was expected to arrive in Moscow today, the Atomic Energy Commission said. Amorosi and nine other U.S. nuclear reactor specialists are to visit Soviet installations as part of a series of unclassified exchanges between the two countries, the AEC said.
