Barber Prepares for Centennial

Beard Grows Despite Reaction

But the itching is over and Earl Castle Jr. is well along with a bushy centennial beard.

Castle's quarter-inch growth, started Jan. 1, is not the first centennial stubble in Pontiac.

But as a barber, 32-year-old Castle is in a good position eight hours a day to take the most ribbing from the beardless majority.

"Shave mister?" black-bearded Castle asks politely.

"Are you kidding?" the beardless one roars in reply. Then the guffaws and the slapping of thighs begin.

It'll be worth it," says Castle, dreaming that the first beard of his life will become the longest, or bushiest or at least the blackest of Pontiac's centennial crop.

Centennial officials keep their mirth covered by sedate smiles. Neither condoning nor condemning beards at this point, they've kept most of their plans under cover, so far, for the June 17-24 official celebration, fearing that to let the cat out of the bag now would take the zest out of centennial fun later.

But it's no secret that the centennial will begin officially to encourage beards when the traditional Brothers of the Brush start marching, probably around March 16 — Pontiac's 100th anniversary as a city. The signal to enter beard-growing contests will probably come then.

For Castle, who hasn't tried to kiss his wife, Earline, in three days, the beard has brought changes at his home, 805 E. Pike St.

Daughter Peggy, 5, covers up the prickly growth with one hand as she searches for some cheek in kissing her father goodnight.

And son Earl, 11, has become thoughtful.

"He just looks at me as if he's wondering if he's going to have to look like this when he grows up. I don't think he likes the idea," said Castle. The Castles have two other children, Katrina, 9, and Shirley, 3.

Castle's boss, Perc Secord, who runs the Capitol Barber & Beauty Shop, 580 W. Huron St., encourages centennial beards, although he's not sporting one himself.

Secord isn't worried about the shaving trade falling off. He's looking forward to a new source of business — beard trimming.

Search for Vicious Killer of Shy, Young Schoolgirl

A pathologist's report, issued as a huge hunt was pressed for a vicious killer, said today that rape was indicated in Geraldine's slaying.

GERALDINE WILLIAMS

Dr. Daniel Glaser of Kalamazoo made the report after an autopsy. Police announced its results.

The body of the shy, auburn-haired, freckle-faced girl was found late Thursday in the basement of an abandoned farm house. She had been waylaid near a bus stop Wednesday.

Two state troopers found her body while checking abandoned farm shacks during the search triggered by the finding of her blood-stained lunch sack and books at her bus stop.

Lt. Fred O'Donnell of state police, who told newsmen "I wish I hadn't gone in," said, after viewing the basement-slaying scene:

Geraldine's skull was caved in by several blows, Glaser said. Blood was found on two bricks and a rock about the size of a large grapefruit near the body.

The girl died within an hour after she was accosted minutes before 8 a.m. Wednesday, the pathologist reported.

★ ★ ★

"All indications are that the killer is someone local," O'Donnell said, "but we have a lot of checking to do before we can put the clamps on anybody."

ALL PARENTS FEARFUL

Parents in this Lake Michigan resort town were keeping a close watch on their children following this brutal murder.

Attendance at South Haven's three schools was reported "about normal" although many parents were reported escorting their children to school, even for distances as little as two blocks.

The lieutenant said there was

Congo Rumors Say Lumumba Out of Prison

Report Army Troops Mutiny at Camp Where Ex-Premier Is Held

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Congolese troops were reported to have mutinied today at the camp where ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba is imprisoned—and wild rumors swept the capital that Lumumba is free.

President Kasavubu and Col. Joseph Mobutu made a hurried trip to the scene in an attempt to restore order.

Diplomatic officials in Washington said the Lumumba supporters may gain the upper hand in most of the Congo by the time John F. Kennedy becomes president on Jan. 20.

The sources said they appear to have been aided by the United Arab Republic, which has Soviet support.

Ferry boats across the Congo River at Brazzaville, in the former French Congo, were packed throughout the day with Europeans and Congolese. Hotel rooms in Brazzaville were unobtainable by late afternoon.

Legislators See the Kids

Hospital Tour Opens Eyes

By DICK SAUNDERS

A handful of state legislators should return to Lansing after today knowing why Pontiac State Hospital needs $1,138,000 this year.

They were guided through children's wards by members of the American Association of University Women and staff members at the hospital.

The object of the tour is $1,138,000 which the State Mental Health Department has asked the state legislature to appropriate for service facilities and planning for an 80-bed unit at Pontiac State Hospital for emotionally disturbed children.

It was part of a $26 million budget increase for the whole state, asked for by the department.

Mrs. Edward F. Latulip, of Detroit, state legislative chairman of the AAUW, was one of those behind today's tour.

"We must have facilities for the children that are separate from those of adults," she said.

"What we aim to do is show the legislators what the needs are, let them see for themselves.

"Our group feels that children's facilities are the most urgent need in this year's mental health budget," she explained.

The group left Pontiac State Hospital at about one for a tour of Hawthorne Children's Center near Northville.

"We are taking them to Hawthorne so they can see how a children's facility should be run and can be run, with the funds necessary for staff and facilities," Mrs. Latulip asserted.

They saw the hospital's single ward exclusively for children. It was clean and well kept.

They also saw children napping on hard wood benches and wandering the halls of wards that were predominantly adult wards.

They listened to Dr. Myroslaw Hrushka, director of the children's program, apologize that "the school is a fire trap used with special permission from the local fire chief."

It houses 35 pupils each day. By next week it will handle 50 pupils. That is the limit.

"There are 88 children at the Children's Unit in Local State Hospital Plans

Department Turns Over Request for Expansion to Legislature

Nearly $2.2 million for plant expansion in the Pontiac area is being sought by the State Mental Health Department, including planning funds for an 80 to 90 bed children's unit at Pontiac State Hospital.

In budget requests submitted to the legislature in Lansing, the department is seeking $1,138,000 for Pontiac State Hospital and $1,066,000 for the Lapeer State Home and Training School.

For the whole state, the department is asking for a $26 million budget increase during the next fiscal year. The largest increase, more than $15 million, was asked for new construction, special maintenance, remodeling and additions.

Dr. Charles F. Wagg, mental health director, said $832,000 was sought for construction of a service building for food handling and maintenance at Pontiac State Hospital.

Plans already have been prepared, he said, under previous legislative approval.

The department is seeking $35,000 for preparation of plans for a $350,000 children's unit.

"This is part of our program to develop special units for emotionally disturbed children at all of our state hospitals," said Wagg.

Wagg said he had unsuccessfully sought approval of the planning funds in several previous budgets.

★ ★ ★

"We need such units for the better care of children already existing within the state hospital system."

The close to 50 children under 13 years of age presently at Pontiac State Hospital are housed in special wards in some cases, Wagg said, but in many others are intermingled with adults.

"Children have their own special needs and should have a specially designed unit for themselves to meet these needs," said Wagg.

NEED PONTIAC WING

Another $26,000 is being sought, Wagg said, for planning of a new administrative wing at Pontiac State Hospital.

For the Lapeer home, the department is seeking $200,000 to complete a 200-bed nursery building. Plans for the first $200,000 section are in the contract stage at present, said Wagg.

Another $800,000 is earmarked to begin a $1.2 million, 200-bed custodial building while $36,000 is sought, Wagg said, for planning of

Robert Kennedy Sells All His Stock Holdings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee today approved without objection the selection of Robert F. Kennedy to be attorney general in the cabinet of his brother, President-Elect John F. Kennedy.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy, brother of the president-elect, testified today he has sold all of his stocks to avoid any possible conflict of interest as attorney general.

As to how he proposes to conduct that office, Kennedy pledged he would wage an unrelenting "attack on organized crime," enforce the antitrust laws vigorously, protect the poor in federal courts, and keep his judgments uncolored by partisan politics.

Kennedy gave his testimony under oath to the Senate Judiciary Committee on his selection to become the nation's chief law enforcement officer at the age of 35, in the cabinet of his president-elect brother, John F. Kennedy.

The attorney-general-designate came under some needling from Republicans but there was every prospect that the committee would approve his nomination.

OTHERS FARE WELL

There was smooth sailing for other cabinet appointees of the new administration, several of whom were before other Senate committees simultaneously.

The Senate Labor Committee informally approved the choice of Arthur J. Goldberg to be secretary of labor. Formal action can't be taken until after President-Elect Kennedy's inauguration.

Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, the secretary of welfare-designate, had a friendly meeting with the Senate Finance Committee and heard a prediction by Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., that he would be confirmed unanimously by the Senate for his Cabinet post.

* * *

Byrd also told newsmen he believed Douglas Dillon would have no trouble in winning confirmation as secretary of the Treasury.

Former Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota, the secretary of agriculture-designate, had a two-hour meeting with the Senate Agriculture Committee and was told by Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D-La., that the committee will approve his nomination within minutes after it begins formal consideration.

Cuba Hints Plot on Guantanamo

The charges could mark the start of a major effort to drive the United States out of the big naval bases.

Premier Fidel Castro was expected to address a mass meeting outside the Cuban "White House" later today.

The government-controlled press and radio said Manuel Prieto Gomez, a Cuban employe at the base, was "tortured" during 11½ hours of questioning by U. S. officers last Saturday. The newspaper Revolucion said Prieto was taken unconscious to a Guantanamo City Hospital Thursday night, but gave no explanation for the delay in treatment.

Prieto was quoted as saying the Americans fed him "several pills" to force him to confess stealing a list of personnel stationed at the base.

"They tortured me after accusing me deliberately and unfairly ," the press quoted him as saying.

"I was kicked and threatened by an officer who said 'now that we've severed (diplomatic) relations, I'll tear your head off unless you confess.'"

Diplomats speculated that Castro would adopt some new anti-U.S. propaganda line since his much-advertised American "invasion" has not materialized.

The group was to appear before Judge John Emery. They are charged with the theft of some 400 sheets and pillow cases from the Birmingham House Motel, 145 S. Hunter Blvd.

Dale Lee, manager of the motel told police that sheets, bedspreads and towels disappeared between Oct. 3, 1960 and Jan. 7, 1961.

Those to be arraigned are porters and maids. They are: Leonard Ruffins, 28; Ozell Jones, 32; Anna P. Smoots, 26; Beaulah William, 27; Marie Lowry, 45; and Rena McInnis, no age given.

The department is asking a total $105,434,899 for operations and new construction during 1960-1961. This compares with $70,947,250 granted for the current fiscal year.

The department asked for $20,465,720 for new construction, remodeling and additions in the new budget, against $5,161,250 in the current budget. The request for operating funds was $7 million over the current year and the $12 million sought for special programs was up $3 million.

The proposed plant expansion, the department said, is part of a proposed $80 million over the next five years.

Local Protesting Overtime Hours

Fisher Union Talks With Pontiac Officials, Asks Fewer Layoffs

Officials of Fisher Body Local 594, UAW, have verbally protested overtime at the Pontiac plant in the face of layoffs, it was reported today.

* * *

The protest was made by Gerald W. Kehoe, local president, and Lawrence Hartman, chairman of the union's shop committee, at a committee meeting with company representatives this week, Kehoe said.

"We want the company to discontinue overtime so more production workers can be on the job," said Kehoe.

There was no comment from the company.

* * *

Kehoe said approximately 300 union workers have been laid off in the past 10 days. Most of the 3,400 to 3,500 still on the job are employed between 8 and 9 hours a day at present during the five-day working week, he said.

Fisher Body employs both morning and afternoon shifts on assembly of both Pontiac and Tempest bodies.

Crofoot School Gets Principal

J. Albert Henning, 39, Succeeds Lewis Crew Who Has New Post

The Pontiac Board of Education last night appointed J. Albert Henning, sixth grade teacher at Emerson Elementary School, as principal intern at Crofoot Elementary School.

* * *

Henning, 39, will succeed Lewis Crew, who was named to a newly created position of administrative assistant three weeks ago.

Henning will assume his new position Monday.

The new principal has been teaching in Pontiac since 1954. He spent four years at Whitfield School before being transferred to Emerson.

* * *

He holds a bachelor of arts degree with a major in psychology from Hillsdale College, and a Master's degree with a major in elementary school administration from Wayne State University.

Henning, who lives at 412 Markle St., also holds a permanent elementary teaching certificate. He is married and has two children.

Administrators said Henning was chosen for the job because he is "a well balanced person and a superior teacher, and has shown superior interest in curriculum development, and in instructional improvement."

Fleeing Bandits Wound Man

Fights Off Pair Outside Waterford Restaurant; Not Seriously Hurt

Otis Pilsbary, 43, 166 W. Strathmore Ave., was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for head wounds suffered when one of the bandit's bullets struck him. The wounds were superficial and he was released from the hospital.

Pilsbury told township police he was going to his car outside Bob's Chicken House at Elizabeth Lake and Telegraph roads when the bandits came up from behind and attacked him.

After a struggle, the bandits fled, Pilsbury said. One turned and fired at him.

Waterford detectives are holding two suspects in the shooting robbery. Pilsbury has not been able to make positive identification of the suspects, they said.

47 Teamster Locals Out of Trusteeship

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters Union has announced it is releasing 47 of its locals from trusteeship, under which a local is run by international headquarters in Washington.

A Teamster official said Thursday that Union President James R. Hoffa had notified all but three of 50 locals under trusteeship to set up elections of local officers.

Those being released include Local 247 at Detroit and Local 508 at Toledo, Ohio, the spokesman said.

Teamster locals are placed in trusteeship for various reasons. Sometimes it is for misconduct of officers. Sometimes there are financial problems or factional fights.

hospital, 35 of which can be treated in a reasonably adequate manner," said Dr. Walter H. Obenauf, medical director.

"Fifty-three of our children are scattered through various adult hospital wards. The hospital was originally built for adults, not children," he said.

By next week we will be operating at full capacity.

NEED NEW UNIT

Both Obenauf and Hrushka felt that "the proposed unit, if approved, would enable us to handle our current need adequately."

The teacher pupil ratio is now 1 to 8. That is pushing the limit.

There are currently 28 staff members in the children's program—70 are needed.

Dr. William H. Kerr, assistant director of the State Health Department in charge of coordinating all children's services in state hospitals, was there too.

* * *

Passing through one ward he told legislators, "There are activities which children should participate in that they cannot do in a converted adult facility such as this," he said.

Among the legislators were Rep. Arthur J. Law, D-Pontiac; Rep. and Mrs. William Hayward, R-Royal Oak; Rep. Raymond L. Baker, R-Berkley; Rep. and Mrs. John C. Hitchcock, D-Hazel Park; and Mrs. Farrell E. Roberts, wife of the state senator from Oakland County.

* * *

"I certainly will do all I can to push for a children's unit," said Law. "There seems to be no question of a need existing."

Rep. Baker also felt the need. "The program here has done so much already, it deserves expansion."

Kennedy, Rusk Talk Foreign Policy Today

Andrew Hatcher, Kennedy's assistant press secretary, said Johnson would arrive some time today with a group of others. Hatcher said he had no information on the make-up of the group, or on the purpose of the conference.

Rusk flew to Palm Beach from Washington Thursday night and met with the president-elect this morning at the Kennedy family's seashore home. The session was to continue at luncheon and perhaps into the afternoon.

*

In testimony to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in Washington Thursday, Rusk indicated the new administration plans no immediate policy departures in dealing with specific trouble spots around the world.

Kennedy announced he is retaining two Eisenhower administration officials.

THOSE RETAINED

Joseph Charyk will continue to serve as undersecretary of the Air Force.

Thomas D. Morris, now an assistant director of the Budget Bureau, will be assistant secretary of defense for supply and logistics.

END EMBARGOED MATTER

* * *

Gudeman, 54, is a former vice president and at present a director of Sears, Roebuck and Co. Last year he became a general partner in the investment banking firm of Lehman Brothers. He is a graduate of Harvard College.

* * *

In his Washington testimony, Rusk was questioned by senators about his views on Red China, Cuba, summit conferences, American fliers being held by the Soviet Union, and U.S. relations with the nation's allies.

* * *

On Communist China, Rusk said he sees no present prospect of the United States establishing normal diplomatic relations with the Red regime. But he said, "The presence in mainland China of a large and powerful force is one of the facts . . . we cannot ignore."

* * *

As for the anti-American Castro government of Cuba, Rusk said he is very much disturbed by that situation. He called for intensified efforts to get the truth to the people of Latin America, through the United States Information Agency.

on troops holding the Congo's Kivu Province for Mobutu's prisoner, Lumumba. The attack was repelled.

The resolution recommended that the General Assembly, which will resume March 7, consider what to do about the alleged violation.

* * *

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, whom the Soviet Union has charged with assisting Belgian aggression, sat in on the debate for the first time.

He flew back from Africa today and entered the council chamber six minutes after the meeting started. Asked by a reporter when he would speak, he replied:

"We will see if there's a need for it."

The Asian - African resolution, drawn to attract the largest possible vote, was milder than the demands Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin made to the council Thursday.

The flurry in the Congo was symptomatic of the uneasiness in this capital whenever Lumumba is mentioned.

There was no official confirmation that Lumumba actually is free.

Telephone lines to Thysville—where Camp Hardy is situated—were cut and no details of the soldier's reaction to Kasavubu's plea were available.

LOCKED UP DEC. 2

Lumumba was locked up in Camp Hardy Dec. 2. He was recaptured during an abortive attempt to reach his loyal stronghold at Stanleyville.

While the fiery ex-premier has been brooding in jail his followers have taken control of Oriental and Kivu provinces and thrust into North Katanga.

The Lumumba rebels now control over a third of the Congo and have strong support in other areas.

* * *

Lumumba took over as the Congo's first premier June 30 when the Belgians granted the colony independence.

His inaugural speech was jarring—he accused the Belgians of inflicting sufferings on the Congolese people for 80 years.

The mutiny created panic among the Belgians remaining in the Congo to run the economy of the fledgling republic. They quit the country in droves—perhaps as many as 50,000 or half of all Belgians in the country.

More than 60 law enforcement officers, aided by an airplane and helicopter, had been checking woods and meadows in the vicinity of Geraldine's home when troopers Francis Davis and William Hahn found her body about 5 p.m.

These business men attended a kick-off luncheon for the JA drive this week in Detroit, conducted by Philip J. Monahan, vice president in charge of the GM manufacturing staff.

Funds raised will be applied to the over-all goal of the Junior Achievers of Southeastern Michigan campaign, thus insuring high school students of an opportunity to obtain experience in the operation of independent business enterprises.

Kennedy Regime to Request Tax Reform Program

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Treasury Secretary-Designate Douglas Dillon said today the Kennedy administration will ask Congress to enact a tax reform program this year.

Because of high defense spending, Dillon said it may not be possible to avoid a deficit in government spending in the coming fiscal year.

Dillon also reported that President-Elect John F. Kennedy would propose additional action to help reverse the deficit in U.S. international balance of trade payments and thus stem the overseas flow of gold reserves.

Leonard M. Felts, 34, of 9439 Garforth St., was fined $100 and two days in the Oakland County Jail, or 15 days in jail if the fine is not paid.

Asks 75-M.P.H. Limit on Divided Highways

LANSING (AP) — A bill proposing a maximum speed limit of 75 miles per hour on divided highways that are part of the interstate defense system has been filed for introduction in the State Senate.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Haskell L. Nichols, R-Jackson, also calls for a minimum speed of 40 m.p.h. on the highways.

Wind, Waves Hit Northwest Coast but Sunny Inland

By The Associated Press

A cold front which lashed the Washington and Oregon coastlines with high winds and battering waves drove inland today with rains in the Northwest and snow over the northern Rockies.

* * *

The storm Thursday night heaped mountainous breakers in the mouth of the Columbia River at Astoria, Ore., capsizing two small Coast Guard vessels and a crab boat they were seeking to help. Six crewmen were reported missing.

* * *

On the Atlantic, a seagoing barge sank in heavy seas 10 miles off West Palm Beach, Fla., and seven crewmen were reported missing. One man was rescued.

* * *

Don't Have an Accident

Watch Those Emotions!

CHICAGO (UPI) — The real killer in many a fatal highway accident is "out of control emotions," according to psychiatrist Karl Menninger.

Menninger, head of the world famous Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kan., writing in an insurance publication said, "There's a little suicide in every man's heart."

* * *

"Give him such a powerful weapon as a car, inflame his inhibitions, irritations or frustrations, then add alcohol or fatigue and the murder or suicide may get committed," Menninger wrote.

* * *

"We know relatively few accidents are wholly accidental," he said. "The number of accidents ascribable to pure chance must be well below 15 per cent."

"No healthy-minded person ever says—'It can't happen to me.' He might meet a fool, you know, or he might

Pontiac Customers Pay for Accessories

Accessories and optional equipment on Pontiac passenger cars have steadily grown in popularity according to statistics released today by Pontiac Motor Division.

Heaters are the most popular items, being ordered on 98.8 per cent of the 1961 models. Second place among the extras goes to hydramatic transmissions (on 97.7 per cent of the new models), followed by radios (95.5 per cent).

Next in order of popularity are backup lights (91.2 per cent) and white sidewall tires 87.5 per cent).

Showing the greatest rise in the past seven model years, however, are the power steering units. On only 22 per cent of the 1955 models, they have been asked for on 87.4 of the 1961 models, an increase of 290 per cent.

POWER BRAKES UP

Power brakes are on 82 per cent of the 1961 models as against 30.6 per cent of the 1955 cars, while windshield washers are on 52.1 per cent of the new cars, up from 30 per cent on the 1955 models.

The statistics also show that air conditioning units are growing in acceptance. They were installed on only 1.1 per cent of the 1955 models, but are on 12.3 per cent of today's cars.

Both power seats and power windows are on a larger percentage of cars than they were in 1955. Orders for power seats have risen from 6.1 per cent in 1955 to 10.2 presently, while power windows are up from 2.2 to 9.6 on 1961 models.

UDALL AIDE — James D. Carr, 46, former California Water Commission chairman, will be undersecretary of the interior in the Kennedy administration.

A Pontiac man has traveled way around the world to find the more he knows of the earth, the prouder he is to be an American.

"I have never had the values of my American heritage made so clear to me as out here working with Indonesian medical problems," says Charles Dickerson of 468 Ogenaw Road, Pontiac, one of the two pharmacists presently aboard the floating medical center SS HOPE which is waging the peace in the troubled waters off Southwest Asia.

Dickerson, who has been with the HOPE since its arrival in Indonesia in October, has been responsible for the cataloging and stocking of the thousands of drug items carried aboard the vessel, in addition to his regular pharmaceutical duties.

"It's been a long haul," Dickerson reported from Sumbawa, Indonesia, to Dr. William B. Walsh at Project HOPE headquarters in Washington, D.C. "We're in pretty good shape now and I think we're going to lick our resupply problems."

The resupply problem of which Dickerson speaks is the staggering 8,000 mile supply line between the United States and the SS HOPE over which durgs, vaccine, and other medical supplies must travel.

Princess, Playboy Are Wed Suddenly

★ ★ ★

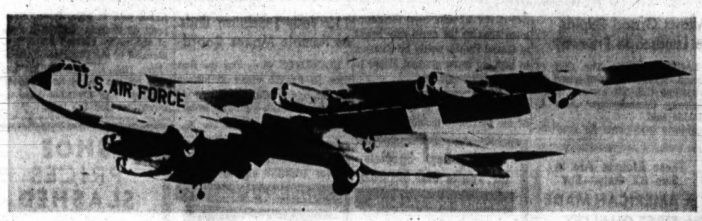

The couple, who made headlines last August when the princess' then estranged husband raided her Mexico City hotel room and had Pignatari arrested on adultery charges, arrived in Reno Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Pignatari's former husband, Prince Alfonso Hohenlohe, dropped the adultery charges in October in return for custody of their two boys, aged 4 and 1.

During Australia's gold rush, the country's population increased from 411,100 in 1850 to about 1,100,000 in 1860.

NEW WEAPON TEAM TAKES OFF—A B52H global jet bomber takes off Thursday in Wichita, Kan., with four dummy Skybolt missiles under its wings in the first air test of what the Boeing Airplane Co. calls the free world's "most powerful, most mobile weapon system." When the Douglas built Skybolts become operational in 1964, they will extend the striking range of the Strategic Air Command's B52H more than 1,000 miles beyond its own 11,000-mile range.

Director of Good Roads to Talk to Earthmovers

Gerald W. Graves, executive director of the Michigan Good Roads Federation, will address the Oakland County Earthmovers and Excavators Association at the Pontiac Savings & Loan Building next Thursday at 8 p.m.

Robert J. Dunn, association president, said Graves' topic will be, "The Problem of Highway, Road and Street Needs Is a Long Way From Being Solved."

Improvements Total $1.3 Million

City Projects Off in '60

Pontiac's capital improvement program last year totaled an estimated $1,287,000. This compares with an estimated $1,857,000 the year before.

In a report to the city manager, City Engineer James N. Carlisle said last year's total would be around $2,322,000 if the costs of the airport terminal and new library were figured in.

Because the two buildings were started in 1959, their costs were figured in that year, but most of the money was spent in 1960, he said.

The total investment last year represents funds from the city, state and federal governments, special assessments on property owners and expenditures by developers and private citizens.

Included are paving, sewers, curbs and gutters, drains, grading and sidewalks, as well as some construction at the airport and a couple city parks.

Combined sewers, last year, .64 miles, $270,000; the year before, .26 miles, $20,000.

Sanitary sewers, last year, 2.27 miles, $119,000; the year before, .76 miles, $31,000.

Curbs and gutters, last year, 5.38 miles, $424,000; the year before, 2.82 miles, $170.000.

Grading and graveling, last year, .06 miles, $1,150; the year before, .48 miles, $9,300.

Blacktopping, last year, 2.80 miles, $78,000; the year before 2.81 miles, $74,000.

Sidewalks, last year, 2.30 miles, $52,000; the year before, 5.48 miles, $121,000.

In addition, there were 3.87 miles of sidewalk last year by contractors and private citizens, costing $52,000, Carlisle reported.

There was $23,800 spent at the airport on runways and taxiways, Carlisle reported; another $30,000 on lighting and other improvements in parks; and $75,000 for property acquisition in the Civic Center area.

HOSPITAL COSTS

Not included in 1960 figures are costs for the completion of the Pontiac General Hospital remodeling program.

There were 1,266 building permits issued last year, resulting in $9,527 in fees for the city, according to Carlisle's report. The year before there were 1,387 permits and $11,154 in fees.

There were 991 plumbing permits last year and 2,284 heating permits. The figures for the year before were 1,102 and 1,214 respectively.

Plumbing fees amounted to $7,381 last year and heating fees $14,844. The year before the plumbing fees were $5,107 and heating $8,007.

All told, the city counted 6,133 building permits, licenses, registrations and examinations last year and took in $39,068. The year previous the figures were 6,013 and $33,449.

Housing Authority Gets Approval of Kalamazoo

KALAMAZOO (UPI)—The Kalamazoo Community Relations Board, by a 9-1 vote, has recommended the City Commission establish a public housing authority.

The board acted after hearing a report by Paul Allen, city sanitarian, on his study of similar commissions and authorities in Bronson, Benton Harbor, Inkster and Albion.

Twenty-four Michigan cities have such housing bodies.

China Reported Aiding Laos From Familiar Bases

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Chinese Nationalist sources said Thursday Soviet planes in their arms airlift to Laos are using two bases in South China familiar to U.S. airmen in World War II.

★ ★ ★

Newspapers quoted the sources as saying the bases are Kunming in the southwest province of Yunnan and Nanning in the southern province of Kwangsi.

WAS MAIN BASE

Kunming was the main airbase in China in the war against the Japanese. It was well-known to all Americans who flew "the hump" over the Himalayas in the airlift of arms and supplies. The Chinese Communists seized it virtually intact from the Nationalists in 1949.

★ ★ ★

Nanning was an advance U.S. fighter base in the U.S.-Chinese attempt to stem the advance of the Japanese from central China into south China late in the war. The Americans destroyed its facilities when the Japanese neared Nanning.

French Colonists Stand Alone in Algeria

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

ALGIERS — Slowly, but surely it is being borne in upon Algeria's rebellious "colons" that now they stand alone.

★ ★ ★

The weekend referendum giving President Charles de Gaulle a free hand to guide Algeria toward eventual independence provided one proof. The French army here provided the final crushing proof.

In mainland France, the majority of Frenchmen served notice on Algeria's European settlers that they were tired of the enormous cost of the Algerian war and wanted it settled on whatever terms De Gaulle arranged.

Here in Algeria it was the French soldier who for more than six years had fought to keep Algeria French, who now reduced the angry settlers to seething but helpless fury as he stood guard at the voting booths to insure an orderly first step in De Gaulle's plan for an Algerian Algeria.

VIOLENCE NOT OVER

The violence is not over in Algeria. There will be other clashes between European and Moslems as Algeria, under the guidance of De Gaulle, gradually loosens its ties with France and the settlers fight their desperate rear-guard action to maintain things as they are.

Algeria's biggest cities were peaceful election day. The university building where Pierre Legaillarde and his followers defied government forces a year ago gleamed white in the Mediterranean sun. Below the university, where the barricades had been, there only were strollers and patrons of the sidewalk cafes.

Perhaps the election day quiet was not only because of the French troops.

In retrospect, it seems likely now that a climax was reached in December.

Rioting European youths poured into the streets then in protest against De Gaulle's referendum call, and Moslems poured out of the Casbah to meet them.

★ ★ ★

With grim impartiality, tough French paratroops and others of the armed forces broke up the demonstrations and for the settlers the cause was lost.

The army was remaining loyal to De Gaulle.

Without the army there could be no successful revolt.

It seems probable now that even De Gaulle's plans are not finally shaped and that he must proceed according to developments.

Across Algeria, the French are building a vast network of television and radio stations as part of an educational campaign both to appeal to the Europeans for peaceful cooperation and to convince the Moslem majority that in one form or another Algeria's future lies with France.

LOYALTY TEST

★ ★ ★

It will come under further strain when the day comes, as it must, when the FLN becomes a recognized, legal political party.

The scars of war run deep here and neither the army nor the FLN can easily forgive.

But at any rate, the first hurdle is past and as one young French administrator said:

"Now we can get to work."

Classify Juvenile Delinquents as Criminals, Says Hoover

With crime increasing four times faster than our population, any message J. EDGAR HOOVER has for his staff is significant and full of interest.

Here is his current word to the Department:

"Teen-age terrorism has become so commonplace that the American public has virtually built up a shock resistance to vicious murders, rapes, assaults, robberies, and, in fact, the entire spectrum of atrocious crimes committed by young people.

"The term 'juvenile delinquency' is a misnomer since the depredations start at home and can more accurately be attributed to 'adult delinquency.' The brutality of the crimes committed by teenagers certainly pales the all-inclusive, pampering, palliative phrase of "juvenile delinquency' which is used today.

★ ★ ★

"I am appalled by reports revealing the disgusting and sordid picture of acts almost too obscene to be attributable to those who are still in the second ten years of their lives.

★ ★ ★

"Last summer I read news accounts of five youthful gangsters between the ages of 15 and 18. Like a snarling wolfpack, the gang attacked two families in a midwestern city. Beating both husbands into insensibility with baseball bats, stabbing them with switchblade knives and robbing them, these vicious thugs then turned upon the two mothers, aged 23 and 27 and both pregnant, ripped their clothes from their bodies and savagely ravished them while the two children of one mother — aged 3 and 1½ — watched, weeping and horrified.

★ ★ ★

"Just 12 hours before, a judge had released two of the attackers who had been arrested and charged with auto tampering. His action was taken despite the vigorous protests of the office of the state's attorney. The probation officer of one of the pair also protested, to no avail. One of the ringleaders was on probation and another of the pack was a parolee from a state reformatory.

★ ★ ★

"Meting out justice firmly, a righteously indignant judge sentenced four of these thugs to two concurrent 65-year sentences, and the fifth was given one 65-year term and one 50-year term. He recommended that they never be paroled.

★ ★ ★

"Surely such bestial actions by teen-agers, demanding the harsh punishment they rightfully received, could never fall into the category of the lame, almost flowery term 'juvenile delinquency.'

★ ★ ★

"Yet, there are still among us muddleheaded sentimentalists who would wrap teen-age brigands in the protective cocoon of the term 'juvenile delinquency' with emphasis upon all of its connotations of youthful prankishness. I would like to see the term 'juvenile delinquency' banished. Teenage gangsterism should be labeled for exactly what it is — 'youthful criminality.'"

Voters Give De Gaulle a Freer Hand in Algeria

Results of the voting in France and Algeria are indeed heartening. With an overwhelming majority for those voting President DE GAULLE can now proceed with his program for ending the seven year war in Algeria and giving that country self-government.

★ ★ ★

Opposition to the general's plan came mostly from the French Right which always lives in the past and detests liberalism. Communists, ever ready to take advantage of a trouble-making opening, joined with these reactionaries to vote against the proposal.

In Algeria, too, many Moslems boycotted the polls under threat from rebel extremists. Nevertheless, the program received 75 per cent of the French vote and nearly 70 per cent of Algeria's.

President DE GAULLE'S first move probably will be orders to the French army to act only in self-defense or to preserve order. Algerians will have to vote in a second referendum to choose the kind of self-government they want and to guarantee protection for European and other minority groups.

DeGaulle has already indicated that leaders of the "rebel government" of Algeria will be consulted. This would have been politically impossible before the new mandate strengthened the general's hand.

★ ★ ★

The door is now open for peaceful settlement of the bloody conflict. Let us hope that neither French Rightists on the one hand nor Algerian rebels on the other will succeed in closing it again.

The Man About Town

They're in Danger

Those Waiting for School Buses Often in Jeopardy

Wise parent: One who nos his (or her) own children.

Again several school bus drivers are requesting this column to warn parents of children who playfully, or otherwise, push each other around, and fail to keep in line while waiting for their bus.

They're often in danger of stepping in front of a passing car, and there have recently been several narrow escapes in the Pontiac area. Only the alert action of the driver of a car prevented a casualty.

Two Waterford Township cars were damaged this week in a collision when the driver of one of them was dodging a child that had been pushed in front of him.

Our grandparents' marathon booms along. News now comes that the 2½ year old daughter of

A few personal contacts with him proves to me that our new Governor

John B. Swainson

G. Mennen Williams,

at remembering names and faces. This was a major factor in keeping Soap in the office so long.

Thanks to that lovely lady for that handkerchief with so beautifully embroidered and stitched across its corner. She had noticed that my nose is drippy, but this hankie is too precious to ever be defiled, stained, corrupted, smutched, filthied or even just moistened by the little drips or the big drip who produces them.

"The Man About Town"

Will the party who last borrowed my book on expert poker playing, please return same. There's a long waiting list, one of whom has canceled all gambling until he reads it.

"Under the Round Table,"

The 4-year-old daughter of Late Blooming Switcheroo

David Lawrence Says:

New Administration Is Challenged

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has issued a challenge to those in control of the government in the next four years: Will the dollar, which is now worth about 47 cents in purchasing power, as compared with 1939, be worth 25 cents in another four years?

Mr. Eisenhower made no predictions in his "State of the Union" message as to the future but pointed out what had happened to the dollar prior to 1953 when he took office and what has happened since.

LAWRENCE

The dollar, which 21 years ago had a value of 100 cents, was worth 71.2 cents in 1946. Under the Democratic administration, it had dropped to 53.5 cents when the Eisenhower administration came into office.

During the last eight years the rate of decline has been checked, and in the last two years the dollar has varied only a point or two.

While President-Elect Kennedy has not made any statement as to what his fiscal policies will be, except in general terms, the sudden flood of study reports by his "task forces" has produced great uneasiness in the business community.

The American people were told many things during the recent political campaign that were almost fantastic in their exaggerations. They were told, for instance, that the country had been "stagnating," and that the United States had lost its "prestige" abroad and had failed in its foreign policies.

EMPLOYMENT UP

Yet Mr. Eisenhower points now to the total employment as much higher than it was eight years ago and to the national output as having reached a record height. He stresses the fact that the average family in 1959 had an income of $6,250, or 15 per cent higher in dollars of constant purchasing power than in 1952. He declares that the real wages of the American factory worker have risen 20 per cent during the past eight years.

Naturally Mr. Eisenhower calls attention to the strengthening of the mutual security program, the development of world trade, the ending of hostilities in Korea, the creation of a powerful deterrent military force, and the establishment of a fiscal responsibility.

The President says frankly that he does not wish to imply that all is well today or that all problems are solved.

The biggest achievement has been the avoidance of any war during the eight years. The outcome of the Korean War can hardly be regarded, of course, as entirely the responsibility of the present administration.

For, rightly or wrongly, practically all the important provisions of the armistice agreement had been agreed upon by both sides before the Eisenhower administration took office.

But it is on the economic side that the President's message will evoke the widest comment. For the public is not aware of the many influences that can, for instance, interfere with the stabilization of the dollar and cause its value to decline.

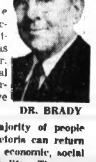

Labor-union power has grown so formidable that it can inflate the economy almost at will.

Dr. William Brady Says:

If You Have Angina . . . Take Nice Long Walk

Some time ago Dr. John F. Briggs, St. Paul internist, contributed an extraordinarily informative article on angina pectoris to The New Physician, a magazine for medical students.

DR. BRADY

Nowadays one rarely comes across medical writing as meaty as this essay of Dr. Briggs — medical students are fortunate to have such a teacher.

The great majority of people with angina pectoris can return to their normal economic, social and community life. They are not to be limited in any way . . . (But, Doctor, they do so love to walk on eggs.) except by pain . . . they should be taught to do anything they want to do, as long as it does not produce pain. Should they be forced to engage in some activity that may produce pain, then it is suggested that they use nitroglycerin prophylactically.

The pain of angina pectoris is not necessarily felt in the chest, Dr. Briggs points out. In some cases the pain occurs in the abdomen and may not be recognized as angina unless attention is directed to the patient's complaint that it occurs on exercise or under emotional excitement . . . and the physician notes that the pain is relieved by rest or nitroglycerin.

There are individuals who have attacks of angina without pain — instead they have great distress as a result or exertion or emotional excitement. This discomfort is relieved by rest and nitroglycerin.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Briggs describes a dozen variations of angina all of which are relieved by rest and nitroglycerin.

The diagnosis of angina pectoris is made by paying more attention to what you hear from the patient, says Dr. Briggs, than what you hear through your stethoscope, and what you see in the patient than what you see in his electrocardiogram.

Angina pectoris is diagnosed only by history — by the patient's complaint. No one can diagnose it by physical examination and or electrocardiogram alone.

Anyone subject to angina pectoris or coronary insufficiency should be able to purchase nitroglycerin tablets in any drugstore without prescription. Such persons should always carry in pocket or pocketbook a supply of nitroglycerin tablets and take a tablet or let it dissolve under the tongue at the first threat of distress, and repeat the dose in 10 minutes if necessary.

Nitroglycerin and rest. Rest and nitroglycerin. This is good preventive (prophylactic) precaution and the best available emergency relief.

In Little Lesson No. 2, CVD, about heart and artery troubles (for a copy send me 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope) I recommend a better prophylactic —not a remedy—for angina pectoris, coronary insufficiency or any other heart trouble — now, please keep your shirt on, if you harbor nineteenth century notions about what's good or bad for your heart.

The prophylactic I recommend is a walk of up to two miles three times a day. That is, when conditions are favorable — not when it's raining cats and dogs, blowing great guns or oppressively hot or bitterly cold.

In the same Little Lesson I recommend a remedy for whatever kind of heart trouble you may have, not an emergency remedy but a real heart tonic to take the place of digitalis.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 300 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, but disease, diagnosis, or treatment will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

The Country Parson

Voice of the People:

'How Does NAACP Rate Quick Court Decisions?'

How can the NAACP get a decision through the U. S. Supreme Court with such speed? It took the U. S. Government from 1954 to 1961 to get its case on the Dixon Yates case through the Supreme Court.

★ ★ ★

It is not unusual to see where it takes years for some widow left with a large number of young children to get a case heard for damages due her because some company neglected to have the proper safety equipment on the job on which her husband was killed.

★ ★ ★

The NAACP has gotten three cases in the last month in and out of the U. S. Supreme Court in less than 24 hours. Could it be that the dean of the Supreme Court, Mr. Felix Frankfurter, for ten years was an attorney for the NAACP? How about our conflict of interest laws?

Mothers Give Reply on Housekeeping

"Ready for Another" shouldn't judge all women by herself. Some women have harder childbirths than others and need more time to regain strength. Some babies are sickly, retarded or have birth defects.

★ ★ ★

I have five children, two with birth defects. My house is clean but somewhat disheveled from children at play. I am walking around toys most of the time the children are awake, but it's their home, too.

★ ★ ★

I am seamstress, barber, bargain hunter, etc. I've seen women with smaller families who have their share of problems, too. Yet, it never entered their minds to brag publicly about how much we accomplish. We do our best and our husbands think we're "tops."

Not Ready for Another

"Ready for Another" should consider herself very fortunate that she's been blessed with such strong nerves and good stamina. Many of us are not quite so fortunate.

However, such people should not be quite so quick to judge others. If they've never had to contend with the mountains of work connected with being a mother while being torn apart by ragged nerves and fatique, they have no idea what many mothers have to go through.

I wonder if my little girl . . . With work and family . . . Can find the time throughout the day . . . To give a thought to me? . . . I wonder if some silent night . . . With stars upon the sky . . . She ever hangs a wish on one . . . That Daddy would come by? . . . I wonder if she ever thinks . . . About her childhood days . . . When we walked often hand in hand . . . On magic carefree ways? . . . I wonder if the crimson dusk . . . On heaven's baby blue . . . Would ever make her whisper that . . . My eyes could see it, too? . . . I wonder if the happiness she has . . . Of being someone's wife . . . Has granted all her golden dreams . . . And filled each day of life?

'What's Happened to All the Birds?'

Does anyone know what's happened to our feathered friends? In past years it seemed we couldn't put food out fast enough for them and now the food remains for days before it is all eaten. The children have always enjoyed watching the birds, but this pastime is gone.

Just Wondering

Baptist Minister Explains Caption

As pastor of the Crescent Hills Baptist Church, I am happy to explain to "Just Wondering" the meaning of the caption, "Waterford Township's American Baptist Church." Crescent Hills is the only church in the geographical area of Waterford Township which is affiliated with the American Baptist Convention. This convention is composed of 6,000 churches in 35 states with a membership of over a million and a half people.

We appreciate this inquiry and, if the one who wrote wishes more information, he may feel free to call the parsonage.

Church Member Praises Pastor

I have been a member of Rev. A. J. Baughey's church for fourteen years and I'm glad to have a pastor who doesn't grant a license to everyone who wants to preach.

★ ★ ★

Many tried to help Keith Hamilton but granting this man a preacher's license didn't help. It only brought a reproach upon the cause of Christ by such statements as "a self-styled preacher."

I am not worried about "the kind of love" Rev. A. J. Baughey has and teaches.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

'Suddenness' Frightens Children

Women fear mice chiefly because of the sudden movements those creatures make. And it is "suddenness" that frightens children, so heed the wise advice of Dr. Potts regarding a child's visit to a hospital or to a dentist or barber. And tell the child what to expect, for ignorance is not bliss.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

DR. CRANE

In a recent talk about the treatment of child patients in hospitals, he warned:

"We don't want children to get well physically and then go home with a psychiatric scar!"

So he urged that parents be granted visiting hours from 10 a.m. through 7 p.m., to help give children freedom from fears.

"Spoil your kids while they are hospitalized," he added. "Visit them. Stay with them."

IGNORANCE IS NOT BLISS

Dentists and physicians have long learned that "ignorance is not bliss," both as regards adults and especially children.

So they now try to give you the essential facts in advance of a visit to their office for dental surgery or to the hospital.

It is the unknown that is most terrifying, so inform a child of just what will take place.

Let him handle some of the surgical instruments and dental drill. Give him the dental mirror so he can look at the back side of his own teeth.

Even when you take your 1-year-old to the barber shop for the first time, smart barbers know it is wise to let the child hold the electric clippers in his own hand, just to get the feel and sound.

In fact, it is even better to start this process at home, especially if its daddy uses an electric razor. Let the youngster hold the razor to obtain the tingly sensation from its buzzing.

Then, when he arrives at the barber shop, he will be partly familiar with the vibration of the electric clippers.

IMITATION HELPS

If you have an older boy or can "borrow" a neighboring child who needs a haircut, then take the older child along when your yearling goes for his first haircut.

Let the older child sit in the barber chair first. For youngsters need to be initiated into strange situations by slow degrees. Don't rush them!

For it is the sudden shift from the "known" to an "unknown" that gives them terror, and often starts their screaming.

In like manner, children will respond better to a dentist if they are given a chance to see an older youngster occupy the chair first.

In hospitals, too, they respond much better if allowed to finger the anesthetic mask.

Yesterday I mentioned the case of Betsy, who was only 8 years old when she was emotionally shocked by the drowning of her kittens.

So make it a rule to give your child the facts about forth-coming action. Let him sample a similar situation or toy or machine that will be used on him at a doctor's or barber's office.

And remember that "suddenness" scares both fish and animals as well as children, so slow down your tempo and ease into the new action gradually.

For further help in handling children, send for my 200-point "Rating Scale for Good Parents," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (nonprofit).

Use them in your PTA meetings for discussion.

Cancer Sidelines Remarkable Doctor Dooley a Second Time

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — One of the most remarkable young men of our time, Dr. Tom Dooley, lies gravely ill in New York's Memorial Hospital. The gifted American doctor who cofounded Medico and worked himself to the bone in its cause, has had a serious recurrence of the cancer found in his chest wall in 1959.

* * *

In his book, "The Night They Burned the Mountain," Tom relates how he got the Word. He and his assistants were carrying on their work of attending to the sick poor of Laos though war was beginning to rage closer around them.

In the midst of things he received a bewildering telegram, through Laos army sources, reading: FROMPE TEK COMAND URAS DOCTOR DOOLEY URGENT RETURN TOUS IMMEDIATELY.

The message was broken down in time to read, FROM PETER COMANDURAS: DOCTOR DOOLEY, URGENT RETURN TO U.S. IMMEDIATELY. Dr. Comandurras runs Medico.

* * *

Dooley had to be pried out of there. He feared the natives would conclude he was chickening out in the face of danger. And that Medico was undergoing a money crisis.

DR. TOM DOOLEY

It never occurred to Dooley that the call to come home was associated with a small tumor which a fellow doctor had cut out of his chest some time before and shipped to Hong Kong for study.

Between planes in Bangkok he rank into Hank Miller of USIA and his wife Annie, old friends. He poured out to them his concern over not being able to get any more information out of Dr. Comanduras in New York—and guessed he was being brought home for something as trivial as a TV show.

Months later, in his book, Dooley wrote:

"Hank looked at me and coolly said, 'I know why you are going home. I will tell you, Tom.' I leaned forward, took a deep breath and pleaded, 'What's wrong, Hank?' My tension was at its peak. I thought I would burst. Slowly, deliberately, he said, 'The tumor that Dr. Van Valin removed has been diagnosed as a secondary stage of malignant melanoma.'

* * *

"I had no reaction. The words entered my head like a fist jammed into a pillow. I felt nothing. I neither felt elation at finding that Medico was not in a state of chaos, nor did I feel great dejection at finding out that I had a hideously malignant growth of cancer. It just seemed for a moment that all was quiet. All was tranquil for now. At last, I knew."

* * *

He Worked Fast Appointing Study Groups

JFK Being Swamped With Reorganization Ideas

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's raining recommendations.

President-elect John F. Kennedy, during the campaign and after his election, wanted ideas on how to do better for the government and the people. He wanted them before he was sworn in Jan. 20.

So he appointed study groups which went under various names—task force, committee, study panel—to look into the problems, assigned them and come up with proposals.

They're coming in now: recommendations which range from reorganizing the Defense Department to sending a peace corps of young Americans to newly independent Asian and African countries as technicians.

* * *

This is a big advantage for Kennedy. It gives him a head start in putting together programs he can submit to Congress in a hurry.

President Eisenhower was prodigious in creating commissions but he waited until he moved into the White House. The long delay in making some of the studies simply delayed action on the problems. The last Eisenhower commission—on national goals—reported Dec. 1.

AGING CONFERENCE

Right now in Washington 2,500 people from all over the country are taking part in a conference on the problems of aging. Congress wanted this one and Eisenhower had to call it.

When there's a conference this size on any problem there should be no surprise if the result is hash.

* * *

The unknown quantity about the recommendations being given Kennedy is what he will do with them when he gets into the White House.

For instance: A committee headed by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., was the first group to report and called for a reorganization of the Defense Department.

Symington, under President Truman, had been secretary of the Air Force and knows the inner workings of the Pentagon. But Kennedy was careful not to give the Symington report a hearty endorsement.

* * *

He hadn't yet selected his secretary of defense, so he didn't know how he'd feel about it. He finally made Robert S. McNamara secretary, and McNamara so far has exhibited no enthusiasm for Symington's ideas.

LANDIS NAMED

On the other hand Kennedy appointed a one-man committee, James M. Landis, a former Harvard Law School dean, to look into the government's regulatory agencies and make suggestions on improving them.

Those agencies—such as the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Power Commission, the Federal Communications Commission—have controls in most areas of American life.

* * *

Landis, who had once worked among them himself—he is a former chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission—turned in a bristling criticism on the operations of these government agencies with proposal for improving them.

Kennedy promptly assigned Landis the job of overhauling them. This won't be easy since Congress will have a strong say in any change.

ENTRANCED? — House clerk Norman E. F. Philleo looks as if he is either entranced or critical over Gov. John B. Swainson's first "State of the State" message at a joint session of the legislators in Lansing Thursday. Maybe Philleo has heard too many speeches about the high level of unemployment or the state of Michigan's economy, and just lets it go in one ear and out the other.

The latest study group's report on welfare came Tuesday with recommendations which suggested a broad expansion of Social Security, public assistance, unemployment pay, medical education and immediate passage by Congress of a program Kennedy himself unsuccessfully backed last year in the Senate—a medical care program for the aged tied to Social Security.

This very subject is under discussion now at Eisenhower's conference on the aging.

Other Kennedy groups have given him recommendations on distressed areas, the nation's economy, education, housing and the peace corps.

But the quick work of these study groups will let Kennedy lay down programs to Congress faster than Eisenhower did when he took over. Eisenhower, starting out, had his hands full with Sen. Joseph McCarthy and the Korean War.

GOP Won't Question Cabinet Trust Pacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leaders have decided not to challenge the trust agreements proposed by some of President-Elect John F. Kennedy's Cabinet appointees to avoid conflict of financial interests.

* * *

This is part of a policy agreed upon by Sen. Styles Bridges, R-N.H., and other GOP leaders which could lead to speedy Senate confirmation of Kennedy's Cabinet nominees. Bridges heads the party's policy committee.

Bridges and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, are reported willing to accept a proposal under which Robert S. McNamara, named for defense secretary, would set up a trust to handle his financial operations while in office.

* * *

Similarly, they regard favorably a proposal of Douglas Dillon's to place his securities in an irrevocable trust as long as he is secretary of the Treasury.

IKE'S GIFT TO SCHOOL — Patsy Schmidt holds an oil painting by President Eisenhower that he has sent to his old high school in Abilene, Kan. The President, who was graduated from the school in 1909, sent the painting on request of the student council and in an accompanying letter apologized for his "nonexistent talent." Patsy is a senior at the school. The painting will be placed on the wall of the hall in the high school.

Tugboat Crew Strike Worries New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — A four-day-old strike of tugboat crewmen which has the backing of the powerful Teamsters Union, tightened its grip today on the delivery of New York's supply of meats, vegetables and fruit.

* * *

Federal mediators warned both the unions and the 11 railroads which operate the tugs and ferries that if the walkout of 660 crew members continues much longer, the economy of the state and city will be seriously affected.

* * *

Mayor Robert Wagner said there was no immediate danger of a serious food shortage, but markets commissioner Anthony Masciarelli who met with city officials to assess the problems, had warned that the Teamster action could cut off 50 per cent of the deliveries of meat, vegetables and fruit.

Would Borrow Tranquilizer Gun to Fight Dogs

DE TOUR (AP) — The City of Sault Ste. Marie wants to borrow De Tour's bring-em-back-alive dog hunter and his tranquilizer rifle. The Soo has dog problems.

* * *

Leo Smith, De Tour dog warden, says he has been very successful in rounding up stray dogs with his tranquilizer rifle. The gun fires a narcotic-loaded syringe which puts a dog to sleep but does not kill.

The Soo wants to borrow Smith because stray dogs lately have taken to gathering in packs on school playgrounds.

* * *

Wilbur M. Cotton, Soo city manager, said "there are some big smart dogs forming packs on the playgrounds. We want to look them over and see if they're licensed and find out who the owners are."

Hotel Owner Claims He Was Kidnaped

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Henry Herman, 60, co-owner of the plush Cadillac Hotel, says kidnapers held him for four hours, then released him to raise $50,000 ransom or be killed.

Police, checking his story, toured Miami and Miami Beach with him Thursday while he tried to recall events during the hours he was held captive Wednesday and driven around in his own car.

Chief of detectives Clarence furnish only a vague description of the two men he says abducted him near his home.

CORNELL CAPA

BULLETIN:

Shell discloses the nine ingredients in today's Super Shell—and the remarkable things they do to give your car top performance

Super Shell gasoline, with nine ingredients, is now in Pontiac. Today's formula contains cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate—a new, improved version of TCP. Read how this patented additive increases mileage, releases power, and helps your car give top performance

A notice on each Super Shell pump promises that this gasoline will give your car top performance. Shell's scientists want you to know why they can make this promise.

Ingredient #1 is TCP for power, mileage and longer plug-life

Super Shell now contains an even better version of this famous additive. Its chemical name is cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate.

TCP additive can give your car up to 15 per cent more power; up to 17 extra miles per tankful; and can make plugs last up to twice as long.*

New TCP does this by neutralizing certain harmful effects of combustion deposits. It is scientifically formulated to keep them from glowing when hot—a major cause of power loss. Also to keep them from diverting your spark—a major cause of "missing."

This is petroleum that has actually cracked under 900-degree heat and catalytic action. Its heavier molecules have been shattered into livelier, lighter ones.

The result is a super-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.

NOTE: "Cat-cracking" refers to the use of a catalyst—the mysterious substance that can alter molecules without changing itself.

Ingredient #3 is Alkylate, noted for knock control in hot engines

Alkylate—the ingredient that took the dream of 100-octane gasoline out of the lab and put it into the skies—is now in Super Shell. It controls knocking in hot engines at high speeds better than anything else yet available.

NOTE: The engine in your car may frequently turn even faster than the engines of a DC-7 at cruising speed. Think of this next time you are passing on the highway.

Ingredient #4 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks

You might think that two high-octane ingredients are enough for knock-free performance. But Shell's scientists have ears like musicians.

They insist on adding a special anti-knock mix. A mix, so effective, one teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating by five points.

This mix has the tricky job of regulating combustion so that Super Shell gives each piston a firm, even push—rather than a sharp blow which would cause a knock.

Ingredient #5 is Butane for quick starts on cold mornings

Butane is so eager to get going that Shell keeps it under pressure 400 feet below ground to stop it from vaporizing by itself. Think what this extra volatility means in cold weather. Your engine fires in seconds. There is less strain on your battery. And none on your patience.

Pentanes are made by tearing gasoline apart, much as you split kindling to start a log fire.

NET RESULT: Fast warm-up and top performance in a hurry.

Ingredient #7 is an "anti-icer" to check cold-weather stalling

Super Shell's formula is adjusted as often as eight times a year to beat the weather. For example, whenever the temperature is likely to be less than forty-five degrees, a carburetor anti-icer is added.

Why add anti-icer at forty-five degrees? Because, even then, frost can form in your carburetor just as it does in your refrigerator. It can choke your engine dead.

Ingredient #8 is gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside

Even the purest gasoline can form gum when stored. This can clog carburetors and foul automatic chokes. But, with Super Shell, you needn't worry. A special gum preventive does the trick.

Ingredient #9 is Platformate for extra energy, more mileage

It takes eight million dollars' worth of platinum catalyst for Shell to produce Platformate. But fortunately for you and for us, this precious stuff can be used over and over again.

The platinum re-forming process, which gives Platformate its odd name, converts petroleum into super-energy components—such as benzene, xylene and toluene.

These three alone release 11 per cent more energy per gallon than the finest 100-octane gasoline.

But make no mistake. This is not untamed energy. Far from it. The super-energy of Platformate is harnessed by the eight other ingredients in Super Shell, where it behaves so well you scarcely know it's there. That is until you note your extra mileage. After that, there is no doubt.

Test Super Shell for yourself

Try Super Shell next time you fill up. You'll soon feel and hear a difference in the way your engine runs.

That difference is top performance.

These rubber-gloved hands are placing a piece of sensitized film on top of a radioactive piston head. This produces what is scientifically known as a "radio autograph," from which Shell's scientists can study the nature and location of engine deposits. Research such as this helps Shell develop products that insure top performance from every size and shape of engine. New, improved TCP is a typical example.

Laotians Await Red Retaliation

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Laotian government's four newly acquired planes from the United States pounded the pro-Communist rebels' artillery positions 70 miles north of Vientiane today for the third straight day.

★ ★ ★

No reports were available so far on the damage but military experts said the Laotian pilots—trained in France and Thailand—probably would need more flying to sharpen their aim.

So far there was no sign of air retaliation from the Soviet Union, Communist China or North Viet Nam, which support the Pathet Lao rebels. But Western intelligence sources reported an old model Soviet spotter plane was observed directing rebel artillery fire on Monday, the day before the United States delivered the four propeller-driven trainer planes the government forces are using.

★ ★ ★

Use of the planes for attack missions raised fears among British and French diplomats here that the Soviets or Red Chinese would supply combat planes for use against the anti-Communist forces.

Pontiac Police Officer's Suit Moved to Jan. 20

The lawsuit by a Pontiac police patrolman, who is fighting his assignment to the so-called "graveyard shift," has been adjourned from today to Jan. 20 at 2 p.m., Circuit Court Judge H. Russel Holland's office said.

★ ★ ★

Patrolman Guy White is asking an injunction to stop his commanding officers from taking him from the services bureau of the department to the 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. third platoon shift. He says his eight-year seniority doesn't warrant the change.

Name's Too Familiar

CASTROVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Councilmen of Castroville, noting there has been no street named for Count Henri de Castro, almost decided Wednesday night to name a street in honor of the French nobleman who founded the town 116 years ago. The proposal was dropped when somebody pointed out it might look like the avenue was being designated in honor of Cuba's Fidel Castro.

Remembers Covered Wagons

Centenarian LOVES Jet Traveling

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — George Washington Vaughn was born 100 years ago, and never regretted it until now.

The neatly dressed old gentleman, slightly stooped and walking with a cane, stepped off a shiny jet airliner at Love Field Tuesday with a twinkle in his eye.

★ ★ ★

Vaughn figures he was born before his time. As a boy and young man he traveled by covered wagon. But jets are much better in a couple of ways.

★ ★ ★

"They never could have got that much champagne or pretty girls in a covered wagon," he said with a big grin.

And if Vaughn could have had his way, he would have climbed right back aboard.

★ ★ ★

Mary Ruth Bell, a pert Delta Air Lines hostess who helped make Vaughn's trip comfortable, gave him a model of the jet plane he had traveled on and he was delighted with it.

Vaughn is the senior citizen of De Soto, Tex., a small community near Dallas. The jet flight to and from his native state of Georgia was a present to him on his 100th birthday.

He came to Texas from Georgia in 1921 and began operating a hotel at Honey Grove. Shortly afterward, he moved to De Soto and became a farmer.

"It used to take about 60 days to come from Georgia to Texas," he said. "I did a lot of traveling by covered wagon back in the old days.

"If someone would have told me people would be flying around like that someday," he said with an admiring glance at the big airplane behind him, "I wouldn't have believed it.

★ ★ ★

"I'd like to ride a plane again. It's the only way to travel. My grandson wants to be a pilot, and I don't blame him one bit.

"You know, if I was a bit younger . . . "

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Meller, D.V.M.

Q. My parakeet has developed a wheeze that comes whenever she gets excited. Can you advise me what to do for it? Mrs. Cecil Kasanoff, Brooklyn.

A. The symptoms you describe are a little too vague to make an accurate diagnosis, but it does sound suspiciously like air sack disease. This is an infection of the air sacks, which are connected with the bird's respiratory system and enable it to fly.

The infection is usually a result of chilling. The treatment is to keep the bird out of all drafts and at 80 to 85 degree temperature for a few days.

Put some bird antibiotic into the drinking water. If the condition persists after five days of treatment, you will want to take your pet to the veterinarian for a specific diagnosis.

Chile Earthquake Earns Reporter the Pyle Award

NEW YORK (UPI)—James O'Neill Jr., drama editor of the Washington Daily News, Thursday won the 1960 annual Ernie Pyle Memorial Award for his stories on the earthquake in Chile.

* * *

The prize was announced by the Scripps-Howard Newspapers, trustees of the Scripps-Howard Ernie Pyle Memorial Fund. O'Neill will receive $1,000 and a bronze plaque.

The fund also announced a grant of $5,000 to Evansville College, Evansville, Ind., to promote the teaching and study of journalism.

O'Neill had assigned himself to the Chile story by hitching a ride on a military Air Transport Command plane carrying a hospital unit to the disaster area caused by last year's devastating earthquakes and tidal waves.

The judges said O'Neill's writing showed "sensitivity and great human warmth, and he knows the dramatic impact of restraint."

Traffic Judge Honored

DEARBORN (UPI) — Traffic Court Judge George Martin has received the American Bar Association Traffic Court Program Award for outstanding improvement in traffic court practices and procedures.

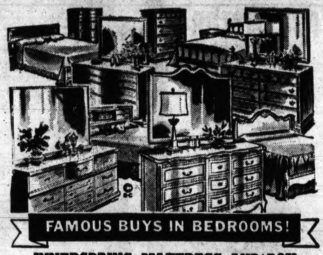

U. of M. Will Honor Nobel Prize Winner

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Dr. Donald Glaser, former University of Michigan physicist who won a 1960 Nobel Prize for his development of the bubble chamber, will be honored here Jan. 25.

Glaser, now a staff physicist at the University of California, will be the first recipient of the Dewey F. Fagerburg Memorial Lectureship presented by the U. of M. Phoenix atomic research program.

Gals Limber Up Ankles, Bravely Glide Away

Pontiac Press Photos

By MARY ELLEN MEAD

If you're a "wobbler," more apt to clutch wildly at thin air than stand erect, or if you're a "glider," perfectly able to cut a respectable figure eight but bent on learning ice ballet, then Bill Swallender's your man.

Instructor Swallender holds forth at the Cranbrook Skating Club, and Tuesday morning he initiated the first in a series of 10 weekly lessons for Bloomfield and Birmingham women.

With some trepidation ("I have new skates and can't even stand on 'em!"), but heroic determination ("If I never learn, I know it's therapeutic"), the gals rallied at 10 a.m. in the warming room, were given some verbal instruction, then taken out on the boards to flex knees and limber up ankles.

Once on the ice, a chorus line was formed against a rear fence of the rink and there, to the rhythmic tunes of recorded music, every housewife seemed suddenly to turn into a Hans Brinker.

Bill Swallender inspires that kind of confidence.

Mrs. W. H. Burgum and Mrs. Robert Wardrop were responsible for organizing the series of lessons, starting with a group of 12, but finally enrolling twice that many.

★ ★ ★

Among those participating are Mrs. W. Calvin Patterson, Mrs. Arthur Otis Jr., Mrs. William Gray, Mrs. Richard Darragh, Mrs. Hanley Dawson Jr., Mrs. W. Thompson Tambke and Mrs. Eero Saarinen.

★ ★ ★

Others are Mrs. Charles Webster, Mrs. Robert D. Meek, Mrs. Robert DenUyl, Mrs. Charles Himelhoch, Mrs. Lester Neiman and Mrs. Anthony M. Menkell Jr.

"Properly laced skates are important to ankle support," says instructor Bill Swallender (at left) to Mrs. Richard Darragh, Mrs. W. Calvin Patterson and Mrs. Arthur Otis Jr., all of Birmingham. They skate to music at a brave 10 a.m. and find the vigorous outdoor exercise sets them up for the day.

With Aid of Family Service of Oakland County

Problems of Children CAN Be Solved

(Editor's note: The prevention of social and emotional breakdown is the concern of Family Service of Oakland County, a member agency of the Pontiac Area United Fund. This is the second of six articles in which the agency will direct the spotlight on causes of unhappy living. The material and case history in the articles is disguised to protect the families served.)

There is little disagreement that the future of our society lies in the hands of our children and that happy children produce happy adults.

We also know that maladjusted and miserable children tend to strike out later at the community in antisocial behavior such as criminal acts. Thus the community is faced with paying the cost of unhappy living and individuals involved are faced with despair and grief in their personal difficulties.

PARENTS ALERT!

Prevention of social and emotional breakdown of a child can occur when parents are concerned and alert to early signs.

In the previous article we learned how unhappy marriages affect emotional development of children, but what about reasonably happy marriages where parents have problems in understanding and handling their children and are unable to solve these problems themselves?

★ ★ ★

For example, the case of Bobby, age eight, a tense and unhappy little boy. Jeff and Nancy, his parents, really began to wonder what was wrong with Bobby when consistent blinking became a habit.

★ ★ ★

On the surface, Jeff and Nancy seemed like many young couples in this country. They were in their early 30s, suburban home owners and Jeff had an up and coming job. Bobby was one of two children.

The family had economic security but something was lacking. After talking with their family doctor, they followed his suggestion and contacted a caseworker at Family Service of Oakland County.

The counselor, in a sensitive way, helped Jeff and Nancy feel free to look at their family life. In college, they felt they were "meant for each other." Jeff felt a need to struggle and to succeed above all else. There had been rigid standards imposed on him by his mother.

★ ★ ★

His job, building a house, being important in community life meant that Jeff had little time and later, little patience with his family.

Nancy came from a family that was free in their expression of affection; however, her mother tended to be overcritical and exacting.

★ ★ ★

Nancy married Jeff, knowing that he could provide for her. However, as their life together progressed and children arrived, she found little affection from Jeff, and his exacting ways were as irritating as her mother's had been when she was young. Marriage was not all "peaches and cream" and though irritations began to pile up, she held them in.

When the Family Service caseworker saw Bobby, tension was noted in addition to desire for constant acceptance and encouragement by adults.

The success of a child's life, his ability to give and take in later life all depend upon a firm foundation of love and being wanted for himself. All this is engendered by family relationships as he is growing up. Parents' feelings about themselves and other people affect their attitude and handling of their children.

In interviews, Nancy could see how her built-up anger about her marriage oozed out when she blew up at Bobby for minor things. She realized that this real anger was a carryover from her relationship with her mother.

Anger, unfavorable comparison and ridicule will neither allow the parent to appreciate the child for his own strengths and weaknesses nor will it allow the child to grow at his own pace.

If we are to see that no two children are alike, then we too must be free of irritations and anger toward children.

CONTROLLED HER TEMPER

As Nancy was helped to sort out her feelings and judge them in the light of what she wanted for herself in her own behavior, she found she was able to control her temper when dealing with Bobby.

Soon after, she was amazed that Bobby's blinking stopped when he did not have to face his mother's uncontrolled outbursts.

A parent's control of his own feelings does not mean overgiving, overdoing, or the lack of setting limits for a child. It does not mean that a child grows up in a chaos of freedom. Children need to know the do's and don'ts of life.

Part of growing up means to learn to accept limitations and responsibilities that adult life will place on a child's shoulders.

★ ★ ★

Jeff, too, was a part of the picture with Bobby. He could see that his exacting standards for an eight-year-old were high and Bobby needed encouragement. Although Bobby could not wield a hammer as well as Daddy, Daddy could now be satisfied that he was trying.

Such comments as "you ought to see him throw a ball" were more frequent than "he couldn't hit the broadside of a barn."

Thus, Bobby's blinking brought help to an unrealized marital problem. His parents were helped to control their reactions, accept Bobby for what he was and encourage rather than belittle his efforts.

We can easily see how Bobby's pent-up feelings of rejection and anger, which would have been greater in adolescence, might have led to dire problems had not this family sought the help of Family Service of Oakland County, a United Fund agency.

Family life affects all aspects of a person's life. The next article will look at the problems which individuals present on their jobs and how the agency can help.

'Twas Ever Thus, He Says

Blanton Raps Defeatism

By MARJORIE EICHER
Women's Editor The Pontiac Press

Dr. Smiley Blanton, vigorous golf-playing optimist, who is a noted psychiatrist and author, addressed Birmingham Town Hall Thursday. His subject was "Can We Survive in Today's Troubled World."

The youthful appearing doctor who is "pushing 80" is smooth skinned and forcefully direct. A spade is a spade in his deck.

With penetrating gaze and charming humor, Dr. Blanton said the dangers we face today are no greater than they've always been. "You're just as dead if the Indians kill you as you are if you're hit by a bomb," he said.

"We must put our forefathers' doctrine of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness into practice," he stated.

* * *

The theme prevailing through much of Dr. Blanton's talk was "examine the past realistically to realize how lucky you are in the present."

He cited the infant mortality, [illegible] communicable diseases rate and devastating percentage of deaths in ancient wars.

"When I was a child," he said, "everybody was dying — I was going to funerals about once a month. Imagine what that did to mothers! You have that great burden taken from you."

His prescription for our anxieties was threefold: we must have and practice love and faith in ourselves and our country, we must have resolution and patience and we must be familiar with the great leaders in our past and develop more leaders like them in our present.

* * *

He believes materialistic thinking and the philosophy of positivism (believing only in what our senses can perceive) are the greatest dangers we face at present.

"We can fight this materialism through our great Judeo-Christian traditions," he started. "And we must practice our religion, having the faith of the early Apostles and the love used by Christ, which was an active and aggressive good will."

"Through the years our country has developed the most amazing leaders the world has ever known." Dr. Blanton related the examples of the leadership of Washington, Jefferson, Grant and Lee.

"Lincoln is the nearest to Jesus Christ of any man who ever lived," he said. "He never had an unkind word for the South. He was the greatest writer of prose this nation ever produced. He used words with precision — his style should be taught in the schools."

Dr. Blanton is a man who uses words with precision, too. For 10 years he was a professor of speech and mental hygiene at the University of Wisconsin. A graduate of Vanderbilt University, he did graduate work at Harvard and took his medical degree at Cornell. He worked with Dr. Sigmund Freud in Vienna and has taught clinical psychiatry at several universities.

* * *

His new book, "The Healing Power of Poetry," reflects his optimism and philosophy of love. In it he deals with the role poetry can play in relieving tensions, anxiety and depression.

The book is as liberally laced with quotations as Dr. Blanton's conversation. He quotes as readily and aptly as I wish I might.

Dr. Blanton concluded a luncheon interview with the statement that we must seek time for daily contemplation.

Big News: Fabrics

NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody expected a great new silhouette for Spring 1961. And one hasn't materialized.

This means, with the end approaching for the New York Couture Group showings, you can chalk up the season as one of the more successful for fashion forecasting.

In lieu of lines, designers have shown the 200-plus visiting fashion writers attending the 36th National Press Week a tender regard for wearability and an adventurous awareness of fabrics.

Four fashion houses presented their couture concepts Wednesday and they boil down to: costumes, costumes, costumes, costumes.

Roxane of Samuel Winston made a dramatic departure. Instead of the usual combination of solid jacket and skirt with print blouse and matching print jacket lining, she came up with print jackets — the print forming the outside, that is. Her most usual skirt shape was the dome, fashioned from stitched gores.

DAVIDOW CONFORMS

Davidow went right along with the costume trend. His coat and suit coordinates for Spring sported blouses in colors dyed to match, with the emphasis on monochromes.

Jackets in the Davidow collection ranged from just below the waist to the hipbone. One longer style was straight, but mostly the short jackets were boxy or cardigan and the longer were fitted. Skirts were straight but easy. Topcoats were usually straight, with the necklines widened.

Paul Parnes' collection designed by Beni Claire was the usual highly wearable group of clothes women have come to expect from this house. There was a great attention to detail, and a vast range of fabrics — from lightweight tweeds and wools, to sheer crepes, silk prints and embroidered organdy.

* * *

Parnes used lace appliques as generously as the succeeding collection of Harvey Berlin's. The bias cut was big with Berlin, and so were bloused backs on bodices, draped skirts with floating panels and gathers to soften slim skirts. Designer Karen Stark produced some walking dresses that glided rather than marched, with a front curve at the waist, a sleek fit over the hips and a swishy sweep at the back.

Save Oil Cloth

Don't throw away old oilcloth. Instead, cut any good sections into large squares for the children to use as mats when pasting or painting. Then they can splash and have fun without fear, because hot soap or detergent suds will sponge away spots and spills.

Learn to Handle Situation if Imposed Upon

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

We have a neighbor whose 9-year-old boy makes trouble whenever he comes over. Our boy, Stanley, is 7 and fairly obedient until Eddie is around. Then he goes wild and so rough I can't make him mind.

This week Eddie broke the wheel off my shopping cart though I've told him time and again not to play with it. He's such a bad example for Stanley. Should I ask his mother to tell him he has to be more obedient when he's at our house?

Answer: It should have been simple to say Eddie: "Go home now. And don't come over again until you can believe I mean what I say."

Why wasn't it simple? Why do you want Eddie's mother to protect you against his aggressiveness?

The answers to these questions might prove helpful. Eddie's aggressiveness may not be the problem so much as your inexperience in resisting it generally. If this is true, we want to know it.

We want to know if you've always felt selfish and mean when you've asked for some advantage for yourself. We may need to see that the situation involving you with Eddie is not special but one of many experiences with other people's impositions.

We need to start wondering if you've always felt uneasy when you had to refuse someone a favor, if you're frightened of displeasing or hurting people, if you find it difficult to forget a critical remark.

We don't solve problems like this one with Eddie by getting someone to tell us what to do about it. All such "do" advice does is to put into our mouths words which don't belong to us while they leave untouched the fear of displeasing which DOES belong to us.

The "do" adviser gives us a temporary answer—but the very next time we are pushed by imposition, the untouched fear will render us as helpless as before.

★ ★ ★

So, let's not content ourselves with parroting the words I've suggested be said to Eddie. Let's try to appreciate their honesty, too.

Let's see that they dispense with pride in kindness and tolerance to openly declare what we want, regardless of whether it pleases or not.

★ ★ ★

Speak to them with respect for their honesty—and you may be able to use them again for the next imposer instead of asking me what to do about him.

Lose Excess Pounds

Marathon Can Help You

Many reducing women do some calorie shuffling so that they have most at the time they are hungriest. This dieter has saved a glass of milk for bedtime.

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Today I will answer questions about my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon.

Q. "When should I begin Marathon?"

A. Begin as soon as you receive the Marathon booklet which gives you the necessary instructions and material. Officially, Marathon begins this week, but the tremendous number of requests makes it impossible to get the booklet to everyone at the same time.

When you receive your booklet read it over thoughtfully. It is important to your success that you follow directions carefully. Then start on Marathon and keep a record of your progress on the chart on the back of the booklet for the next eight weeks.

Q. "I am determined to make myself much more attractive in the next eight weeks. I am serious about this! I have had this 20 pounds too much for too long, and neglected myself in many ways. I know it can be done and I am going to do it! Would steam baths help me reduce if I exercise and diet, too?"

A. Good! I am sure you will succeed and that you will enjoy the game. The weight loss from steam baths is not a loss of fat but of water. It is a temporary water loss and has no real part in a reducing routine.

Q. "Can I eat only two meals instead of three and still reduce successfully?"

A. It does not matter when you eat so long as you hold your calorie intake to 1,200 daily. However, many studies have shown that the most successful reducers do not skip a meal.

If you do, you are apt to become so hungry that you overeat at one of the other meals. Also, you probably will experience fatigue which is unnecessary.

If your habit has been to eat your heaviest meal at night or at noon you can shuffle the calories about so that you have most at the time you are hungriest.

Many women like to save a glass of milk or fresh fruit or some other snack for in-between meals or just before going to sleep at night.

★ ★ ★

"How long should I exercise?"

A. Begin with five to 10 minutes daily and work up gradually to 20 or 30.

If you would like to join thousands of other women on my Eight - Week Self - Improvement Marathon, which will bring you a loss of from 15 to 20 pounds and will help you improve any defects in beauty you may have, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Has Two Secretaries, Plus Aide

Jackie Eases Into Social Position

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy is getting ready for her White House role with two secretaries and a public relations aide.

But, she's going to get into it slowly, giving herself plenty of time to recover from the Caesarean birth Nov. 25 of her second child, John F. Kennedy Jr.

* * *

The word came from her Palm Beach resort resting place Wednesday that Mrs. Kennedy plans to take part only in the main festivities of her husband's inauguration.

* * *

That includes just about everything she'd been expected to attend except a preinaugural reception Jan. 18 for distinguished women. About 4,500 guests are expected for the reception in the National Gallery of Art.

But, the announcement serves notice that Mrs. Kennedy won't be at any of numerous unofficial celebrations Washington big-wigs are planning.

The future first lady, 31, has been engaged in a quiet planning operation. Shortly after Jan. 1, she called in her former parttime secretary, Mrs. Raymond Gallagher, a mother of two who lives in nearby Alexandria, Va.

PAMELA TURNER

At Palm Beach, the two have been working on correspondence and other chores.

LETITIA WORKING

Meanwhile, in Washington, Mrs. Kennedy's social secretary, former schoolgirl friend Letitia Baldrige, went to work in preparation for the White House moving day.

The latest addition to Mrs. Kennedy's personal entourage is Pamela Turnure, 23, who will help with public relations. A former secretary in Kennedy's Senate office, she has been added to the White House staff of News Secretary Pierre Salinger.

* * *

Mrs. Kennedy thus will have as her aides three women who have been close to the Kennedy official family long before the presidential election.

* * *

Miss Turnure's appointment came as something of a surprise, since she does not have a news or public relations background. She is expected to work closely under the direction of Salinger.

Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower had no similar aide. Her press relations were handled either by her social secretary, Mary Jane McCaffree, or by Presidential News Secretary James C. Hagerty.

* * *

Social Secretary "Tish" Baldrige, daughter of a former Republican congressman, has lots of diplomatic training. She worked for Clare Boothe Luce when she was ambassador to Rome, and also learned the ropes in international society from Mrs. David Bruce, wife of the former ambassador to France.

Mrs. Gallagher, wife of an insurance agent, has been working for Mrs. Kennedy on a parttime basis for the past four years. It looks as though her chores may run into fulltime now. She says she's come to feel like a member of the family and considers Mrs. Kennedy the "ideal boss."

The wife of the vice president-elect, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, is getting ready for her new role, too. She's selected one of her close younger friends, Bess Clements Abell, wife of a Washington lawyer, to be her personal secretary. Mrs. Abell is the daughter of former Kentucky Sen. Earle Clements.

Have You Tried This?

Pork Needs Simmering Before Going Into Pie

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Today's recipe was completely new to us; but several frineds who come from Canada knew all about it. Tourtieres are French meat pies. All you need with them for dinner is salad and dessert.

* * *

Mrs. James Murr of Clarkston is today's cook. This recipe came from her grandmother. Three sons and two daughters keep Mrs. Murr pretty busy at home. Whenever she has time, she reads.

TOURTIERES
By Mrs. James Murr

3 pounds pork roast, not too lean
½ loaf stale bread
1 cup chopped onion
1½ teaspoons savory
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Chop meat into 1-inch cubes. Crumble bread. Add other ingredients and cover with water. Simmer until meat is tender but not dry.

Mash mixture until it is smooth. Line a pie tin with pastry and pour in meat. Top with crust. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 and bake until crust is done.

Serve with a green salad and dessert for dinner.

* * *

Abby Says: Get Ear Plugs

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When I was a young girl, I had to cut across a cow pasture to get to school. A couple of cows chased me once, making those terrible mooing noises, and I have been terrified of cows ever since.

ABBY

I've been married a short time, and have been having horrible nightmares about those cows. Then I discovered that my husband's snoring brought back the memories of those pursuing cows.

We have a very small apartment so I can't go into another bedroom to sleep. How does a wife sleep with a husband who snores?

SNORER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Go to a drug store and ask for "bee's wax ear plugs." They really work! There are several brands on the market but, curiously enough, most pharmacy clerks have trouble finding them. You have to be persistant!

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the letter from the woman who has been getting anonymous phone call telling he that her husband was stepping out on her. I was tickled pink when you told her to pay no attention to it.

Only last week I received such a phone call from a woman who refuses to tell me who she was. She said she thought I should know that my husband was seeing another woman. It just so happens I am not married. Sincerely yours,

EVA

DEAR ABBY: When people you otherwise enjoy ask personal questions, what is the best way to handle the situation? I have been asked by this certain woman how much I paid for my shoes, taxes and how much my gas and electric bill is. I tried saying, "I don't remember," but the questioning continues.

I have to associate with her so I don't want trouble, although I feel like saying "That's none of your business."

TOO POLITE

DEAR TOO: A person who would ask you what you paid for your shoes is starting at the bottom and working her way up to some dillies. With your sweetest smile and warmest tone reply, "I'd rather not say." Then change the subject.

DEAR ABBY: Next month I am going to the hospital to have my second baby. My younger sister offered to stay at my house and take care of my little girl, who is 3. My sister is 20, single, and is taking a week's leave of absence from her secretarial job to do me this favor.

I am ashamed to admit this, but I have been having terrible nightmares lately about a possible love affair between my husband and my sister while I am gone.

I trust my husband and also my sister, but my husband is very good looking, my sister is pretty and I am very plain. How can I change these arrangements without making insulting accusations?

WORRIED AND UPSET

DEAR WORRIED: Line up a housekeeper, thank your sister and tell her you've changed your plans. Offer no excuses, but for goodness sakes, don't tell her (or your husband) the reason for the change. Even though there is probably no basis for your nightmares, your peace of mind is what counts right now.

Don't Make Mistake of Assuming Things

By RUTH MILLETT

Far from asking too many questions, most adults don't ask enough.

We don't ask enough questions when we are buying, when we are making plans and arrangements, when we are accepting responsibilities, and when we are making important decisions.

And when plans don't turn out as we anticipated, when things aren't what we expected them to be, when what we thought was a sound decision turns out to be a poor one, when we get stuck with a purchase that isn't exactly what we wanted, we say helplessly, "I just assumed . . ."

And we feel cheated or put upon or stupid, depending on the situation, simply because we assumed too much.

Sometimes we don't ask questions because we don't take the trouble to figure out just what questions we should ask.

Sometimes we hesitate to ask questions because we don't want to appear naive or ignorant.

But whatever the reason for our not finding out what we need to know we usually excuse our negligence with that perfect alibi, "I just assumed . . ."

Once in a while we are honest enough with ourselves and others to qualify "I just assumed . . ." with "I guess I shouldn't have . . ." or "There was no reason why I should have . . ."

But more often we blame the other person for not making things more clear, more explicit.

When we assume instead of asking questions we can be pretty sure that a good part of the time our assumptions will be wrong.

LONDON (AP) — Pilot Francis G. Powers has been charged with espionage and Premier Nikita Khrushchev has promised "We shall try him—try him severely as a spy."

* * *

This was reported today by the Soviet news agency Tass.

The penalty for espionage in the Soviet Union ranges from 10 years in prison to execution by firing squad.

* * *

The latest developments were announced in Tass broadcasts from Moscow today in the wake of the news conference Khrushchev held Wednesday at the Moscow exhibit of espionage articles which the Soviets say Powers carried when he was downed May 1.

Part of Western correspondents' dispatches on the news conference had been held up in Moscow censorship. The Tass account of Khrushchev's remarks was carried from Moscow 20 hours after the news conference took place.

TASS VERSION:

Q. "Will this plane incident influence Soviet public opinion when Eisenhower comes to Moscow?

A. "I would not like to be in Eisenhower's place. I would not like to answer the questions which might be put to him when he comes to ... I can only say the Soviet people and our public are very polite, so there will be no excesses. But questions will be asked of course. Animation, laughter.

"I would put it this way: 'One person, namely U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, has helped the President particularly in this respect. At his ... Herter made an ... ment. ... that this will continue in the future.

* * *

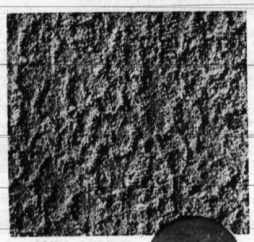

"Only countries which ... in a state of war can ... in a state of war with America. These aggressive actions and Herter's statement are impudence, sheer impudence!"

"Herter's statement has made us doubt the correctness of our earlier conclusions that the President, the American government, did not know about the flights. ... Herter's statement says that the plan was endorsed by the government.

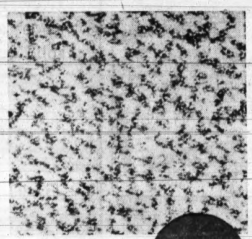

"The Americans, obviously, were compelled to say this because otherwise they would have had to bring Allen W. Dulles (head of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency) to account. Dulles, in turn, would have exposed the government by saying he carried out a plan approved by it, and, consequently, endorsed by the head of the government. I proceed from the statement that was made by Herter."

PLAYERS PREPARE — The senior class at Oxford High is now in final week of rehearsal for its forthcoming production of George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion." The play will be staged next Thursday and Saturday. Seemingly caught in the middle is Pam Broome, who plays the role of Eliza. In this scene she's trapped between Larry Spickler (left) who plays Col. Pickering and John Vernier, who plays Henry Higgins. All three are lead roles in the popular Shaw comedy. Curtain time will be at 8 each evening.

Sculpture Popular With Art Students at Northern

By DIANE MARY WALTER

Pontiac Northern students have the opportunity to express themselves in various ways. Their talent may lie in the field of dramatics, music, sports, interpretive modern dancing, or art.

Sculpture is one of the fields of creative expression open to art students.

Sculpture differs from painting and drawing in that it can be viewed from many angles, and it appeals to the sense of touch.

Students are encouraged to apply truth to materials, that is, to design a project suitable to the substance from which it will be made.

Ancient stone workers knew their material as evidenced by the compact stone statues of the past.

Art, is an international language and each piece of sculpture clearly expresses the artist's ideas.

Students are taught that the most outstanding and distinguishing characteristics that outline the quality of work are form, space, planes, lines, light, texture, color and else.

One of the many art students, Sharon McWethy, feels that "art has varied divisions in which many people can find enjoyment, relaxation, and achievement.

"I encourage everyone that has an interest in art to take advantage of the opportunities offered at Northern.

★ ★ ★

"One not only learns techniques and skills of art but learns the background, and history of art that makes the subject so individually enjoyable.

"It enables the student to express himself in an unlimited pattern and is a field crying for good enthusiastic artists," Sharon asserts.

"I would like to go into commercial art work after graduation. I love being able to express my ideas and know I have achieved and created something," Carol says.

★ ★ ★

Mike Plourd and Jeanette Whitlock are running for vice president and Carolyn Mills and Bonnie Plummer for secretary.

Globetrotters, PTA Will Meet at Walled Lake

By SHARON MURDY

Five members of The Globetrotters, Walled Lake High School's new exchange student club, will meet next Thursday at 8 p. m. with the Parent Teacher Association at Walled Lake High.

The Globetrotter group will be made up of three Walled Lake students who have traveled abroad and two students now at Walled Lake from other countries.

They are Ken Wentzel, who visited Germany; Carol Sanderson, who went to Holland; and Dodie Duckwitz, who traveled with the Michigan Chorale to South America this past summer.

Roberto Bocchi, a visiting exchange student from Italy, and Corry Bohl from Holland will also participate on the panel.

They will be asked to discuss the impressions of the countries they visited. The customs in homes and schools will be main topics.

Any particular adjustment problems exchange students have will also be brought out.

Purpose of the meeting is to give the PTA an overall picture of the exchange student program by actually talking with the students.

NORTHERN SCULPTORS — One of the popular fields of creative expression open to students at Pontiac Northern High School is sculpture. Busily working over their individual "masterpieces" are three art students (from left) Carol Putinski, 17; Sharon McWethy, 18; and Nancy Watson, 18. They find the materials with which to put their ideas to work in Northern's art room. Behind them on the wall is expression of another type — a huge mural currently being painted by fellow art students.

Tuesday, representatives from the Oakland County Department of Health gave all the students the tuberculin skin test that will reveal any TB germs that might be present.

Results of these tests will be known in two to four days.

Also, along the science line, plans for the annual science fair to be held in March are beginning to take shape.

To the dismay of some and the gladness of others, individual school pictures arrived on Monday of this week.

PLAN 'SWEATER SWING'

Plans are being made for the annual, "Sweater Swing," a casual dance to be held near the end of January.

The dance is sponsored each year by the Athletic Association.

The selection was announced at the dance. A short ceremony of the crowning of the king and queen took place and they reigned as royalty over the dance.

Dance Class Openings Still Exist in Waterford

Waterford Township area residents wishing to learn ballroom dancing at the Community Activities Center on Williams Lake Road, can still register, according to director Robert Bauer.

This was one of the most popular programs offered by the CAI last year and couples have been urged to register as soon as possible, Bauer said.

The 12-week course will begin at 8 p.m. Monday under the direction of Mrs. Carol Wolfe. Further information may be obtained by calling the CAI.

By BARB SECAN

Recently honored upon their acceptance to the Michigan State Honors Choir were the four members of the Waterford Township High School Mixed Quartet.

The foursome was selected through an audition in early December. Groups from all over the state auditioned for this event but only 18 quartets were accepted from the entire state.

The Michigan School Vocal Association sponsors the activity.

As members of this honorable choir the group will travel to the University of Michigan on Jan. 14 to rehearse for a performance which will take place at Michigan State University May 13.

PREPARE SPEECH FILM

Miss Ann Hobart's sophomore speech class has announced that they are preparing for the premier of their film "Is Our Speech Improving?" The date set for the first public showing is Jan. 30.

This group of students has actually made a movie dealing with the improvement of speech techniques through the ages. It hits on four major eras: the caveman, the early Roman, the pioneer, and the modern beatnik.

The film illustrates the change in speech, with a slight dash of humor sprinkled throughout the plot.

The students, who prepared this entirely by themselves from script writing to filming, are presently engaged in recording the sound track which will accompany the movie.

The program is scheduled for 8:00 p.m. and is to be held in the annex building of Waterford Township High School. Anyone interested is welcome to attend.

The presentation will include an opening speech and brief history of the film before the actual showing of the movie.

STAGE CHILDREN'S SHOW

"Simple Simon," this year's Children's Theater production, will be presented by the W.T.H.S. play production class for the final time tomorrow afternoon at 1:30.

This program, under the direction of Miss Patty Looman, is intended for the younger set.

Lead roles in the play are played by Bill Kunse, Simple Simon; Gene Riabucka, the pieman; Joyce Ahrens, the queen; and Dave Corbin, the king.

Other behind the scenes workers are Bob Keel, stage manager; Mary Robertroy, props; Cecelia Darmont, costumes; and Sharon Hills, publicity.

The presentation will be in the Waterford gymnasium and tickets will be on sale at the door for 25c each.

The final cast for the play is to be as follows: Pam Broom, Liza; John Vernier, Higgins; Ken Mapley, Mr. Doolittle; Larry Spickler, Pickering; dual cast Russ Valentine and Sam Booker, Freddie; Karen Douglas, Mrs. Pearce; and Ann Pickford, Mrs. Hill.

This play, written in 1912 by George Bernard Shaw, has been a successful play on stage, screen, and television. Pygmalion is a satire in Shaw's most amusing manner.

The play is to be directed by Richard Siler and Jerry Limbert, both English teachers in the Oxford school system.

DOLPHINS PLAN SHOW

The Dolphins have begun plans for their spring water show to be given April 20-22 in the Central pool.

Music for the 12 numbers will be about girls, the theme of the show.

The 36 Dolphins began organizing their routines this week. Work of designing, sewing, and purchasing costumes will soon begin by Donna Helmkamp and her committee.

The music committee, headed by Lynn Viereck, has already completed its work by listening to many kinds of music and finally selecting twelve numbers for the show.

Sue Ann Hathaway and committee are planning the decorations for the pool area.

The tickets and programs will be designed and distributed by Micki King and her committee. Barb Griffin's committee will handle all publicity.

Seven girls made up routines and were judged by physical education instructors Catherine Craig and Nelma Wood, sponsor of Dolphins.

VOCALISTS TO SOLO

Many From Oakland Going

Dems Inaugural-Bound

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL

It will be destination Washington, D. C., next week for a great many Democrats from Oakland County. They'll be in the throngs watching the inauguration of President-Elect John F. Kennedy.

Most of the local Democrats, some of whom have been planning since Kennedy's election in November, and others who are still making up their mind whether to make the trip, are going on their own. There's no organized group from the county making the trip.

* * *

One exception is a group of Hazel Park Democrats headed by the Zigmund J. Niparkos and the Morgan Seals.

Plans for a special train for the Michigan delegation going, headed by Gov. John B. Swainson and his wife Alice, have fallen through, according to Mrs. Mildred Jeffrey, in charge of many of the reservations for inaugural events.

She said she has found it difficult to keep an up-to-date list of those from Michigan — she believes the state's delegation will be around 300 — because so many are making plans on their own.

"The inaugural is a public ceremony and anybody that wants to take a chance of getting close enough to see the events can," she said.

MANY INVITED

Many local Democrats are proud recipients of engraved invitations from Kennedy and Vice President-Elect Lyndon B. Johnson, but will not be able to accept. Money, some say, while others say the press of business and lack of accommodations in Washington.

Having to skip the historic events are County Chairman James M. Glynn and his wife Sally and Mrs. Harriett Phillips, candidate for vice chairman of the state party, and her husband Robert.

Not planning to miss an event are the Richard J. Clasbys of Oak Park. Mrs. Clasby is Kennedy's cousin. Clasby met his wife when he roomed at Harvard with Kennedy's younger brother Edward.

THEY'LL MISS OUT

Having to pass up the events are the Donovan G. Gillmores, of 963 S. Opdyke Road, Pontiac Township. Donovan received $100 toward the trip for being a top fund raiser, but Gillmore said he doesn't believe the $100 "will get me far."

* * *

Among some mentioned as going East are: the Robert L. Fentons of Huntington Woods; Dr. and Mrs. Leon Fill of Huntington Woods; Mrs. Jack Moscowitz of Huntington Woods; Dr. and Mrs. Howard H. McNeil of Bloomfield Hills; the Avern Cohns of Royal Oak; Dr. and Mrs. Sam Halperin of Royal Oak.

Cohn was treasurer of the Citizens for Kennedy in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Letts Jr. of Southfield are reported going.

Mrs. Jeffrey said she had heard that Dr. Robert T. Hatt, director of the Cranbrook Institute of Science, and Mrs. Hatt would attend.

Allen Zommel of Oak Park and his wife will attend. Zommel is a former law partner of Swainson.

Others mentioned by Mrs. Jeffrey are Mrs. Mary Ann Gariak of Royal Oak; Mr. and Mrs. George M. Zoltzer of Oak Park; Mr. and Mrs. John Foley of Birmingham; the Edward Panlks of Oak Park; and the Walter and Roy Reuthers.

President-Elect Dumps Stocks

From Our News Wires

PALM BEACH, Fla.—President-Elect John F. Kennedy has removed his personal fortune, which may be as large as $10 million, from the field of speculative investment for as long as he is in the White House.

Preparing for his inauguration Jan. 20 and wanting to avoid possible conflict of interest although not required by law, Kennedy recently disposed of all stock holdings and reinvested the proceeds in government bonds — federal, state and municipal.

* * *

Pierre Salinger, his press secretary, told newsmen in response to questions that the president-elect's total holdings now consist of such bonds, plus the houses he owns in Washington and at Hyannis Port, Mass., and three trust funds set up for him and his brothers and sisters by their father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

Salinger said the president-elect's income from these trusts —set up in 1926, 1936 and 1948— amounts to about $100,000 annually, after taxes. The income before taxes reportedly is about $500,000 a year.

Assuming interest at the rate of about 4 to 5 per cent, the funds could have a principal value of close to $10 million. Kennedy has other holdings, including the undisclosed value of investments he converted into government bonds.

* * *

Salinger would not discuss Kennedy's net worth, but he did say the president-elect decided to sell his stocks without being required to do so by law.

Joseph P. Kennedy's fortune has been estimated unofficially as between $200 and $300 million. He began setting up trust funds for his children in 1926. The trusts are split seven ways — an equal share for each of the seven children of Joseph P. and Rose Kennedy.

The trusts were added to again in 1936 and 1949. Three years ago the president-elect at the age of 40 received a quarter of the principal held in trust for him. Two years hence, he will receive another quarter.

Say Adopted Son Killed Pastor's Wife

RUTLAND, VT. (UPI) — Authorities today held a quiet youth as a suspect in the slaying in a parsonage of the wife of a clergyman who adopted him.

* * *

Police said Geoffrey P. Aldrich, 17, a high school football star, stabbed Mrs. Hazel Aldrich, 39, four times in the back as she played a piano in the living room of their home last night.

Aldrich, who was treated recently at two mental clinics, was arrested about four hours later in Troy, N. Y., when he turned the family car the wrong way on a one-way street. He was held there for Vermont authorities.

Police said Aldrich told them he stabbed Mrs. Aldrich when she insisted that he stay home and finish his homework. He wanted to go to a local library.

High Court Gets Mooney Appeal

Defense Lawyer Claims Extraneous Evidence Introduced at Trial

The State Supreme Court Thursday heard oral arguments in an appeal by Arthur C. Mooney, 52, a Waterford Township teacher convicted on a morals charge in Oakland County.

Mooney's attorney argued the prosecuting attorney should not have been allowed to introduce testimony in the case regarding the teacher's behavior with youths other than the one who filed a complaint against him.

Mooney also contended former Circuit County Judge Frank L. Doty was in error on several rulings. Mooney said he was deprived of his right to a fair and impartial trial by "the improper, inflammatory and prejudicial testimony . . . and the erroneous rulings and charges of the trial judge."

A Circuit Court jury convicted Mooney of gross indecency on May 6, 1959. A 16-year-old youth filed the complaint against Mooney.

Judge Doty sentensed Mooney, who said he was drunk at the time of the incident, to 2 to 5 years in Jackson Prison.

Carlton S. Roeser, Mooney's attorney, asked the court to discharge the defendant or reverse the verdict and order a new trial.

Oakland County Assistant Prosecutor Robert Templin Jr. contended there was no basis for Mooney's arguments that did not get a fair trial.

Red China and Burma Will Fight Guerrillas

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The China Post today said Chinese Nationalist intelligence sources report that Red China and Burma have signed a pact for joint warfare against an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 anti-Communist guerrillas along their borders.

* * *

The newspaper said Nationalist intelligence sources estimated that about 5,000 Red Chinese soldiers had entered Burma under a secret agreement signed during Premier Chou En-lai's recent visit to Rangoon.

High Bids May Delay Sewer

Lowest Tops Estimate for Bloomfield Project by $46,000

Delays can be expected in construction of the Evergreen sanitary sewer line in Bloomfield Hills and Bloomfield Township after bids received yesterday proved higher than engineer estimates.

The bid is some $46,000 over the construction estimate of $402,000, according to Donald W. Ringler, deputy director of the department of public works.

Ringler said the bid, the lowest among eight received for the project to serve some 13,000 residents of the two areas, was referred to the department's consulting engineers for tabulation. A report will be made to the board of public works on Tuesday.

* * *

Ringler said the higher bid would delay the start of construction on the five-mile extension of the Evergreen interceptor until summer.

He said the original bonding resolution for $400,000 probably would have to be amended to around $550,000, and an amendment made with the State Municipal Finance Commission to cover the increase.

The proposed sewer line starts in the vicinity of Cranbrook School in Bloomfield Hills and branches west along the Rouge River, with with one branch going to Telegraph road and the other southwest to the vicinity of Quarton and Lahser roads.

Kennedys to Learn of the Day-After Dems

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — The Kennedy clan — gregarious, friendly and intellectually curious — is beginning to discover the same phenomenon that fogner First Lady Bess Truman noted 12 years ago.

For reasons to obvious to mention, there always seem to be a lot more Democrats the day after a Democrat wins the White House than the day before.

When Harry S. Truman confounded the experts by defeating GOP standard bearer Thomas E. Dewey in 1948, this correspondent attended an elaborate tea in honor of Mrs. Truman.

Among the guests were a number of Washington socialites who, convinced that the long Democratic era of Roosevelt and Truman was about to come to a close, had been slyly spreading the word that they were "really Republicans."

One, the wife of a prominent Southerner who had held high office in the Democratic National Committee, told everyone who would listen: "Of course, mother and I have always been Republicans."

As soon as the upset vote was counted, she was among the first to rush her congratulations to the "darling Trumans," and to claim that she had won money betting on their victory.

At the tea, as we shook hands with the First Lady, we told her: "Of course, I'm a Republican, but congratulations anyway."

Bess Truman, in her forthright way gave our hand an extra squeeze as she grinned: "you don't know how refreshing it is to hear you say that. Margaret and I are getting mighty fed-up with Wednesday Democrats."

She referred to the opportunists who — after the results of the Tuesday election became know — tried to pose as party stalwarts.

★ ★ ★

The cocktail circuit is full of such social climbers seeking favors, and their antics can usually be shrugged off with a smile. More annoying are the ones who, having sat on their hands during the campaign, or actually knifed the winner before the votes were counted, demand patronage appointments and policy jobs with the new administration as "reward" for their campaign services.

★ ★ ★

The Democratic National Committee has been inundated with this kind of mail, and the main task that Bobby Kennedy set himself during the weeks before he moved to the Justice Department was to cull the wheat from the chaff — to eliminate the phonies from the genuine party workers before dispensing jobs.

Some of Washington's social leaders lifted their eyebrows in shocked surprise when President-Elect Kennedy announced the appointment of one of his top-echelon nominees.

At a large and elegant private dinner party a few weeks before the election, this gentleman and his attractive spouse led the gloom-and-doom claque in predicting the dire results if Kennedy should win the election.

Jack Kennedy knows that this particular appointee is a Republican who supported Richard M. Nixon. He probably is unaware of the unflattering remarks he made about his presidential capabilities.

Kennedy might not mind, even if he knew. He has exhibited thus far an almost unrivaled ability to rise above petty party politics in selecting the advisors he thinks are best qualified to help run the country.

Most presidential honeymoons are short-lived, lasting little longer than the traditional 90 days. If JFK is able to continue the pleasurable progress of this interregnum, however, he may be able to keep the fickle Wednesday Democrats.

C47 Is Good Enough

LONDON (AP)—That trusty old American aerial packhorse—the C47—is still good enough for Britain's Queen Elizabeth, who will use two of the World War II vintage planes during her state visit to Nepal next month. The C47s are the biggest planes that can land on Katmandu's short runways.

Soil Conservationists Meet

'Good Showing' Made in 1960

County Group Hears Reports on Maps and Other Achievements

A review of the past year's accomplishments and an outline of aims for 1961 highlighted last night's annual meeting of the Oakland County Soil Conservation District.

Progress was the key word in soil and water conservation activities during 1960, according to the annual report read by Stuart J. Hutchins, SCD director from Avon Township.

They included services of the federal and state government, Michigan Legislature, State Soil Conservation Committee, Oakland County Board of Supervisors and the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority.

Among the projects undertaken by the county SCD directors was the development of a soils map for the City of Wixom to be used in future city planning.

PLAN FOR PARK

In addition, they have worked with the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority to develop a soils map to be used in planning the new Stoney Creek Park being established northeast of Rochester.

There were 38 new cooperators added in the county during 1960, soil surveys made of 9,121 acres, 1,350 lineal feet of drainage ditches dug and 81 acres of trees planted.

Hutchins pointed out that one of the best methods of conserving soil is through reforestation. He said that this year the district will have spruce, scotch pine and white pine trees available for planting.

Tree order blanks may be obtained from the soils conservation office or the Oakland County extension office.

Goals set by the local district for 1961 include obtaining 30 new cooperators, developing 30 basic plans, revising 25 others and conducting conservation programs for youth which will include a land-judging contest for vocational-agriculture students in April.

The directors also plan to distribute 60,000 trees in the next three months.

ELECT DIRECTORS

Re-elected to another three-year term as a director was Robert McCrory of Lyon Township. Elected to succeed William Scramlin of Groveland Township was Sam Miller of Independence Township.

Miller also will serve for three years.

Acting as toastmaster for last night's banquet at the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building, Pontiac, was Dr. Kenneth W. Brown, deputy superintendent of Oakland County schools.

The program featured a talk by David Sturgis, 23, of Sturgis, who was an International Farm Youth Exchange Student in Israel for four months last year. He illustrated his remarks with colored slides.

Margaret Whitehead and Brenda Long, both of the Milford 4-H Club, presented a skit. And Leslie Lawrence of the Northwest 4-H Club, Holly Township, played accordion numbers.

Vote on Annual Meeting Moved

Cancellaton of Primary Causes Oxford Twp. to Switch Ballot Date

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — A vote to abolish the annual township meeting will not be taken here Feb. 20 because the primary election scheduled for that date has been canceled, Supervisor Lee H. Clack said today.

However, Clack reported that the proposition will appear on the ballot April 3.

The only reason for holding a primary was to eliminate two of the four candidates who had filed nominating petitions for positions on the nonpartisan library board.

Two of the library board candidates, Kenneth C. Huff and incumbent Mrs. Josephine Meads, have withdrawn their nominating petitions in order to save the township the expense of holding a primary.

There are no contests for any of the other elective offices in the township.

Clack said that the township will save at least $300 by not holding a primary next month.

Under state law, the annual meeting must be held the first Saturday in April, which in this case would be April 1, two days before the election.

Mother Sheds Light on Youths' Strange Deaths

The mystery surrounding the deaths of two Southern Oakland County youths as the result of a traffic accident in Redford Township Monday apparently has been cleared up by the mother of one of the victims.

John Walker Jr., 19, of 2388 Berkley Ave., Berkley, died Wednesday without regaining consciousness after being injured in the mishap which claimed the life of his friend, Robert W. Baker, 18, of 30065 Fairfax St., Southfield.

Walker was speeding to a hospital with his friend when the car in which they were riding crashed into a utility pole. Baker was killed immediately.

Walker had driven into a drive-in restaurant to ask directions to the nearest hospital.

★ ★ ★

No one knew why the pair was trying to reach a hospital in such a hurry, but Baker's mother explained her son had been suffering from an affliction which cut off his breathing.

Supervisors Go Home

LANSING (UPI)—The Michigan Township Association closed its weeklong convention here today after hearing evaluations of township problems and remarks on the nation's power struggle with Russia.

Blast May Hold Up Leonard School Start

TROY — The new Leonard Elementary School may not be opened here this spring as originally scheduled because of the damage caused by an explosion in the boiler room Dec. 22.

Although he said nothing is definite yet, School Supt. Rex B. Smith reported that the delay in construction work caused by the accident may force the school board to wait until next September to open the school.

Some pupils may be transferred to Morse Elementary School if the new building isn't available by March 1, according to Smith.

A Detroit electrician, the father of 10 children, was killed in the blast which ripped doors loose from the gas-fired boiler and sent bolts from the heating unit through the concrete block walls of the boiler room.

Official Wants Home Rule Promotes Townships

LANSING (AP)—An official of the Michigan Townships Association yesterday called for more home rule for township governments and lambasted groups he said are trying to annex townships to other units of government "by coercion or threats."

Joseph F. Parisi, the association's executive director, also unleashed a new broadside against a proposed convention to rewrite the state constitution.

In remarks prepared for the association's annual convention to be renewed a challenge to debate George Romney, American Motors president and chairman of Citizens for Michigan, on the merits of a new constitution.

The association already has taken a stand against a convention. Romney's group helped win voter approval of a proposal to put the issue on the April 3 ballot.

In two years, Parisi said, population in Michigan's townships has nearly doubled, rising to 3.4 million last year. Assessed valuation soared to more than $8 billion, four times the total in 1958, he said.

Townships could better handle their growing problems if the legislature would give them self government, Parisi said. Township boards should be permitted to levy up to five mills in taxes without requiring approval of county tax allocation boards, he added.

"We're not asking for much," he said." "All we're asking for is an opportunity to provide the same utilities and services for our people as are provided for in the unincorporated areas of our state.

"And we can do this without annexation."

Townships, faced with rapid growth, are increasingly troubled by the need for providing adequate sanitary and storm sewer facilities and water supplies.

Annexation to cities and villages is not necessarily the answer, he said.

"We in the townships are ready to discuss or negotiate with other units of government any time they are ready to treat us as coequal citizens," he said.

"I think they should realize that they have reached the end of the line in using coercion and threats to club people into submission."

Parisi cautioned the township officials to be wary of proposed legislation to permit cities and villages to levy income taxes.

Under the proposal, he said, township residents who work in municipalities which adopt the tax would be forced to pay it without having any vote on approving it.

"This is taxation without representation in the strictest sense of the word," Parisi indicated.

On Feb. 4 the group will participate in the Flint District Youth Rally to be held in Fenton.

Panel Discussion Set at PTA Meeting

AVON TOWNSHIP — "Praising and Appraising Our Schools" will be the theme of the Elmwood Parent-Teacher Association meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the school.

A three-member panel of experts will explain the functions of the Avondale Board of Education, its accomplishments during the past year and plans for the future.

Panelists will be board members Earl Wilson and George Granger and School Supt. LeRoy R. Watt. A question and answer period will follow.

Avondale High School future teachers will provide baby-sitters for the evening. Refreshments will be served following the program.

White Lake Studies Idea of Planning Board

Considering April 3 Vote to Replace Zoning Group

By JIM LONG

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP—Officials here Tuesday will consider placing before voters in the April 3 election a proposal for the establishment of a planning board.

At a special meeting last night the township board was told by Clyde Cook of the Oakland County Planning Commission that the creation of a planning board "would be a wise step in the right direction for the township."

Cook was invited to the meeting to explain the functions of a planning board, which, if approved by voters, would replace the present zoning board.

"Al townships have zoning boards whose function is to draw up some plan for future land use but this is where their power ends," Cook explained.

"A planning board has the authority to prepare a master plan for the township. It can do everything a city planning board can do," he added.

He said the Township Planning Act was set up by the state in 1959 and is designed to replace the Rural Zoning Act.

Bloomfield and West Bloomfield townships have already created planning boards and Waterford Township is considering a similar action, Cook pointed out.

"The planning board, however, hasn't the final word for the physical development of the community," said Cook. "It can only recommend and make suggestions. It is then up to the township board to either accept or reject these ideas."

"Under a recent act the township that has a planning board is eligible for matching funds from the state for planning purposes," continued Cook.

He said that he didn't know if either of the two townships with planning boards have yet taken advantage of the matching funds.

Cook suggested that if a planning board is created a professional planning consultant should be hired to guide it forward.

A portion of his fee could be covered with the matching funds from the state, Cook said. It is up to the township to decide if members of the planning board are to receive salaries.

The planning board, he said, would be made up of 5 to 9 members, to be decided by the township board. Cook explained that in many cases zoning board members have become members of the planning board.

Cook said there is "a wealth of information available to planning groups for future planning purposes."

Information needed for a master plan can be obtained from the county Planning Commission, the Detroit Area Regional Planning Commission, Water Resources Commission and the state and county highway departments.

Any zoning change or adoption of the over-all plan, in all or part, can be made only after a public hearing is held to hear objections, according to Cook.

Debate Will Be Featured at Meeting

A debate by two county high school teams will highlight the meeting of the Oakland County Chapter of the American Association for the United Nations Thursday at the Birmingham Community House.

The debate will be presented by students of Troy and Royal Oak Kimball high schools. It will begin at 8 p.m.

The subject to be debated is: "Resolved That the United Nations Should Be Significantly Strengthened." The affirmative will be presented by Troy and the negative by Royal Oak Kimball.

The debate subject is one being used in the 1960-61 school year by all high schools in Michigan. The schools compete against each other on a schedule arranged by the University of Michigan.

The Troy and Kimball teams have each debated the subject more than 20 times.

All adults and students are invited to the meeting. Refreshments will be served following the program.

Annual Meeting of Presbyterians in Troy Sunday

TROY—The election of church elders, deacons and trustees will be among the major items to be covered when the First Presbyterian Church holds its annual meeting here at 3 p.m. Sunday.

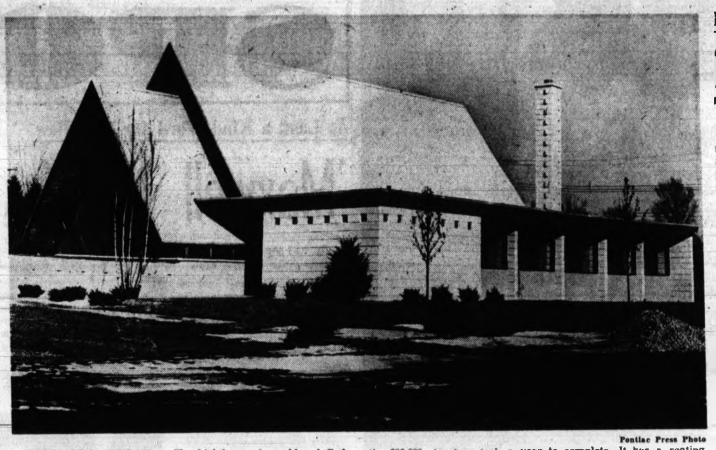

* * *

A 1961 budget will be adopted and progress reports will be given by the Women's Association, Men's Club, Department of Christian Education, church choirs, officers and pastor, the Rev. W. D. Pendell.

Following the business portion of the meeting, the congregation will adjourn to the social hall for a smorgasbord dinner.

A nursery for preschool-age children is slated by the youth of the church, who also will provide entertainment of elementary school children.

The social highlight of the evening, according to the Rev. Pendell, will be the showing of home movies, which depict the development of the church of Livernois Road, just north of Wattles Road.

DEDICATION SUNDAY — The Lighthouse Assembly of God Church in Walled Lake will be dedicated Sunday at 3 p. m. Constructed of cement blocks, exposed steel beams and mahogany, the $38,000 structure took a year to complete. It has a seating capacity of 200 and has Sunday school and nursery facilities. Pastor of the church is the Rev. John L. Gunn.

Built on Faith, Says Pastor

To Dedicate 'Assembly' Sunday at Walled Lake

WALLED LAKE — This city's newest church will be dedicated at 3 p.m. ceremonies Sunday, expected to be attended by 400 persons.

* * *

The new structure on S. Commerce Road at Wabasso Street is the Lighthouse Assembly of God Church. It is one of 8,137 such churches in the country.

Officiating at the dedication will be the Rev. Everett Cooley, general superintendent of the Assemblies of God, Michigan District.

* * *

Construction of the $38,000 building began a year ago and was built on "faith" by seven members of the small congregation, said Rev. Gunn.

If it hadn't been for these seven members working to keep the cost down, the church would have cost twice as much to construct," the pastor explained.

Built on one level the church will seat 200. It has Sunday school and nursery facilities. Samuel P. Harvix of Detroit designed the church.

The modern church structure is fashioned of cement block and exposed steel beams. Its exterior and interior are finished in Philippine mahogany.

* * *

Services were first held in the church a month ago.

Extends Contract of RO City Planner

AVON TOWNSHIP—The Township Board has agreed to an extension of its contract with Norman Bowman, a Royal Oak city planner who is working as a part-time adviser to the Township Zoning Commission.

Bowman, who originally was hired for six months Sept. 1, will be rehired for an additional six months following the action by the board.

His major task has been bringing up to date the township's zoning code. Carl Simon, chairman of the zoning commission, reported that he has been very pleased with Bowman's work.

Bridge Club Will Hold Meetings on New Day

CLARKSTON — The Clarkston Golf Course Duplicate Club, which formerly met on Wednesday evenings, today announced that all future games will be played at 5:45 p.m. Sundays.

Under its revised schedule, the club will hold its masterpoint night on the third Sunday of each month.

Kerbawy Has 'Too Many Irons in Fire'—Zollner

Lions' Dispute Leads to Order for Suspension

Pistons' Boss Claims Nick Is 'Too Involved' in Proxy Fight

DETROIT (AP)—W. Nicholas Kerbawy was on both the basketball and football sidelines today.

His basketball boss put him there last night, saying in effect that Nick had been dabbling too much in football—with which he has no official connection.

★ ★ ★

Fred Zollner, owner of the Detroit Pistons, placed Kerbawy on leave of absence as general manager of his National Basketball Association club.

Kerbawy removed himself as general manager of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League in 1958 when Zollner gave him a 20-year, million-dollar contract.

Despite an earlier denial by Kerbawy, Zoller said his basketball general manager actively is participating in a fight among stockholders of the Lions for control of the NFL club.

"No man can have too many irons in the fire without some of the irons getting cold," Zollner said in announcing Kerbawy's suspension as general manager until July 1. Zollner, however, said Kerbawy will be paid during his leave of absence and denied he was being fired.

D. Lyle Fift and George Cavanaugh, former directors, and C. Ray Davisson, a current director, are leading a campaign for proxies with the announced intention of unseating Edwin C. Anderson as president and general manager of the Lions at a Feb. 23 stockholders meeting.

File, a former Lions president, sparked a similarly unsuccessful campaign a year ago. Thirteen fellow directors are supporting Anderson now, but dissident quarters which decline use of their names claim they have sufficient stockholder votes in hand to elect seven of the 15-member board. That still would leave them a vote short of majority.

A published report that Kerbawy was involved in the Lions' hassle and he would return as general manager of the Lions if the dissidents won was denied by Kerbawy yesterday.

Zollner said, however, in placing Kerbawy on leave of absence, "It is common knowledge" that he is involved in the struggle for control of the Lions, and added:

"I have known it for some time. Kerbawy's energies are being diverted and it is in the best interest of all concerned that this action be taken."

Zollner emphasized he was acting on his own and hadn't discussed his plan with Kerbawy.

The pistons' owner said he had called a meeting of his club's directors for Detroit next Thursday and proposed to split Kerbawy's duties during his leave between a business manager and a promotional director.

Zollner arrived in Detroit from Fort Wayne, Ind., his home, while Kerbawy and the Pistons were en route there to register a 124-112 victory last night over Cincinnati.

Zollner, a millionaire industrialist, moved the Pistons from Fort Wayne to Detroit several seasons back. They always lost money there and never have made any here, but Zollner said they had "made definite progress from an over all standpoint" under Kerbawy.

Newsmen were unable to locate Kerbawy last night. Zollner said he expected Kerbawy would look him up in Detroit today.

JUST BEFORE SPLIT — This was the scene between Edwin J. Anderson (left) and Nick Kerbawy during their association with the Detroit Lions just before the split in 1958. Kerbawy, then general manager of the Lions, was named to the same position with the Detroit Pistons and yesterday, he was given a "leave of absence" by president Fred Zollner for what the Piston boss termed, "being active in the Lions' current proxy fight." Kerbawy is reported on the side opposing Anderson.

At Last, a Kind Word for Paw Paw

'Maxwell Not for Trade'—Scheffing

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

FLINT—At last a kind word has been said by a Tiger manager for Charlie Maxwell.

During the past three years, when Detroit Tiger managers were coming and going faster than the ink on the contracts could dry, Maxwell has always been the low man on the totem pole when the starting outfields were picked.

This year it hasn't been any different.

When the Tigers obtained Bill Bruton from the Braves, in the eyes of many this clinched the outfield spot along with Al Kaline and Rocky Colavito.

But yesterday in Flint, speaking before Michigan writers new Tiger manager Bob Scheffing had a few praises for the veteran from Paw Paw.

"Maxwell is not for trade at this time," said Scheffing, "he's a pretty tough guy to have up there at the plate when the game is at stake."

Under Bill Norman, Maxwell was the forgotten man. Norman gave him a first baseman's mitt in spring camp and never once put him at the position.

When the season opened, Lary Doby started in the left field and Maxwell appeared as a pinch hitter and hit a grand slam homer. Ironically, an error by Doby was a big factor in the defeat.

★ ★ ★

Managers Jack Tighe and Jimmy Dykes were a little more liberal in their use of Maxwell; but contract problems with the front office still put him in an outcast's role.

During the three years Maxwell has been one of the team's leading home run hitters and always first or second in RBI's.

Scheffing does not expect the Tigers to make any trades until after spring training.

"Because of the American League expansion program which has eliminated inter-league trades with the National League, there will be very few deals made," said Scheffing.

"We hoped to make a deal for a shortstop with the Yanks, but when McDougald quit it fell through. Now we will have to smuggle Fernandez out of Cuba," he added.

Scheffing was optimistic about the new faces which will be seen around the infield.

"Steve Boros is out third baseman right now. Chuck Cottier is a major league second baseman, but he yet not a major league hitter and our scouts are real high on Jake Wood, up from Denver," he added.

With the addition of two new teams in the league, Scheffing pointed out that it wasn't enough to have four starting pitchers. "Every team has to have five and even six with the additional games. We hope that either Bob Bruce or Dave Regan can be added to the starter's list with Jim Bunning, Frank Lary, Paul Foytack and Don Mossi."

Scheffing did not go into detail however on what will happen if Foytack doesn't have a better year this season. He only won two games last year.

The Tigers open early camp February 10th in Lakeland, and February 28th for the full squad of veterans.

Three Top Yanks Reject 1st Offers

NEW YORK (AP)—It's too early to tag a "holdout" label on an unsatisfied player, but at least three top ranking members of the New York Yankees have rejected contract offers and demand more sizable increases.

The three are Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Bill Skowron. Each has been given a raise over last year's salary. Each believes the raise is insufficient.

One who accepted a "slight increase" was Yogi Berra, who Thursday signed for just over $50,000, the sum he received last year when he hit .276 in 120 games. The only other Yankee to come to terms is reserve infielder Joe DeMaestri, who signed two weeks ago.

★ ★ ★

"All the contracts have been mailed out," said General Manager Roy Hamey. "There are no cuts for anybody. A few have been offered the same salaries, but they are in the minority.

"We won the pennant and I don't see any reason why anybody particularly deserves a cut."

Mantle has been offered a boost of $5,000 to $55,000. It is believed he is holding out for a restoration of the full cut of $10,000 he took last year. Mickey batted under .300, but he led the league with 40 home runs, was outstanding in the World Series and finished second to Maris in the American League's Most Valuable Player poll.

Maris reportedly is seeking a 100 per cent increase over his $20,000 salary. He has been offered $27,500. The strapping outfielder led the league in runs batted in last year and hit 39 home runs.

"I have a date with Maris later this month," said Hamey, "but I may see him this weekend, as long as he is in town. I don't expect any difficulty with him, or with anybody else for that matter."

Skowron, who received $22,500 last year, also is seeking $40,000. He, too, has been offered a $5,000 raise. The big first baseman had his best year in 1960, leading the club with a .309 batting average while driving in 91 runs and hitting 26 home runs.

"It's high time I made good money," he said. "Each year I was held down by an injury and I felt it wasn't fair to hold up the club for a big increase. But I played a full season and I had a good year, and I feel I'm not asking for too much."

Substitutions Key Issue as Rules Men Meet

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The group of college sports officials with the hopeless job of trying to please everyone started a three-day annual session today hoping for the best.

It is the National Collegiate Athletic Association Rules Committee, headed by Gen. Robert Neyland of Tennessee. Its rulings will determine how college football will be played next fall.

★ ★ ★

The big issue, as usual, is the substitution rule. Last year the committee, consisting of representatives from the eight NCAA districts and two lifetime members designated members-at-large came up with the "wild card" rule as a compromise for coaches who wanted unlimited substitution and those who wanted to curb substitutions still further.

It permitted a coach to send in one player between any two plays, and consequently was a license for coaches to call the signals.

★ ★ ★

The American Football Coaches Association's suggestions drawn up at Pittsburgh this week were to be presented to the rules committee today by Coach Jack Curtice of Stanford, new AFCA president, for its consideration.

Curtice said a concensus of coaches showed a slight majority favoring a return to free and unlimited substitution, meaning a return to two-platoon football.

Neyland said each suggestion of the AFCA committee will receive thorough consideration by his group. He does not have a vote himself except in case of a tie.

★ ★ ★

Aside from the consideration of a possible change in the substitution rule, other AFCA suggestions to be taken up include the finding of a more satisfactory way of recording substitutions, the right of a kicking team to down the ball anywhere on the field, clarification of the rule concerning impetus in cases where a player intercepts a pass close to the goal and steps into the end zone, and the prohibiting of teams or conferences from varying NCAA rules in games without specific permission.

Orion Matmen Split Pair of Dual Meets

A split in two dual meets is the Lake Orion High School wrestler's mark for the last two days of action.

Winners against Davison were Eli Washington, 103, and Mike LaMagna, 180, on pins, and Bill Toles, 133, and Fred Lauer, heavyweights, on decisions. The Dragons won one match by default.

Rally Pays Off

Pistons Nip Cincy Cousins

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—The old home town felt good to the Detroit Pistons Thursday night as they put on a fourth-quarter rally to beat the Cincinnati Royals 124-112.

The Pistons had beaten Cincinnati 18 straight times at Detroit and the switch to Memorial Coliseum here made no difference. The National Basketball Association team formerly played here before shifting to Detroit.

The Royals moved into a three-point lead at 55-52 at the half and still held it at 91-88 after three quarters. But Jack Twyman, who hit six of seven shots for the Royals in the third period, fouled out just before it ended.

Detroit grabbed the lead on two quick field goals at the start of the fourth period and pulled away gradually after that.

Bailey Howell scored 33 points for Detroit, topping Oscar Robertson's 31 for Cincinnati, Gene Shue tallied 26 for Detroit, and Twyman put in 21 for the Royals before his departure.

The attendance was 6,216—almost 800 more than the two teams drew at Detroit Wednesday night.

Texas Style Ambush Stops Bradley Five

By The Associated Press

For the second time in two seasons, the University of Houston has derailed one of Bradley's unbeaten streaks. Thursday night, it was a 60-59 upset that snapped the Braves' nation-leading major college winning string at 18. Bradley had started the new one, which carried through the National Invitation Tournament championship and 12 games this season, after having a 15-game streak broken by the same big, bold, brash and bad Houstons on Feb. 22, 1960.

★ ★ ★

If that wasn't enough, it was an Illinois boy—hailing from Wood River, about 150 miles south of Bradley's Peoria campus—who applied the string-snapper in the intersectional game at Houston.

Jim Lemmon, a 6-foot-2 senior, sank a free throw with 35 seconds left to close out the victory over the nation's No. 2 team and one of five major unbeaten clubs in the country. The two trips to Houston have cost the Braves a 35-game streak.

Now the perfect record list is down to Ohio State, Louisville, De Paul and Vanderbilt, with Ohio State's top-ranked Buckeyes assuming the honor of the longest winning streak—16 games, which they began just before their rush to the NCAA championship last March.

Bradley blew a 10-point halftime lead fashioned on sophomore Tim Robinson's 22-point burst and went scoreless the last 5½ minutes of the game. Lemmon, who had 10 points, was fouled in the act of shooting, missed the first free throw, but sank the second to break a 59-all tie.

Defense-wizard Gary Phillips, who has made a career of bottling touted scorers and twice stopped fabulous Oscar Robertson with less than 15 points, held Robinson to two points in the second half to trigger the comeback. Bradley's Chet Walker, one of the top scorers, also had a rough night with 13 points—half his season average.

The Braves remain the Missouri Valley Conference leader and favorite since Houston (now 8-5) pulled out of the league this year. But other MVC clubs showed there are other pitfalls ahead.

Reawakening Cincinnati (10-3) survived a shower of debris from unhappy Wichita fans and crushed the tough Shockers 88-57 for a 2-2 league record as soph Tom Thacker's 20 points led a balanced attack. Tulsa held Drake's high-scoring Gus Guydon without a point in the first half while handing the Bulldogs their second loss in 12 games, 81-69. St. Louis (10-4) was the only favorite to win—routing North Texas State (1-10) 60-40.

★ ★ ★

Virginia Tech (5-0) and West Virginia (5-1) remained a half-game apart in the Southern Conference. Tech, winning its seventh against two losses overall, whipped VMI 78-63 as Chris Smith scored 26 points and grabbed 22 rebounds. Sophomore Rod Thorn fired 32 points in a 105-87 rout of George Washington that extended West Virginia's winning streak to eight and its overall record to 10-2.

★ ★ ★

Dave King's tip-in with 20 seconds left gave Connecticut its third straight Yankee Conference victory, 79-77 over New Hampshire and Utah's defending champions made it 2-0 in Skyline Conference tussling, 111-68 over New Mexico as Billy McGill scored 27 points, his season average.

All five Notre Dame starters hit double figures, led by John Tully's 16, in a 76-54 romp over St. Francis (Pa.), and 26 points by Tom Conard and 21 by Jerry Smith led Furman's 70-61 victory over Clemson.

PLAN SPORTS NIGHT — The 23rd annual Father and Son banquet will be held at the Elks Temple, Wednesday night January 18th, with a long list of sports celebrities on the guest list. Ex-Tiger pitching great Hal Newhouser and banquet chairman George Tuson check the list of sports names who will attend. Advance tickets are on sale for the banquet.

Doolin 5 in 2nd Place

Doolin's Service moved into 2nd place in the Class C City League basketball race Thursday night with an easy 45-25 victory over Smith Fuel at Pontiac Central. Jack Johnson scored 19 points to lead the Doolin cagers to their 2nd win in three games. Carl Sheehy tallied 12 points for the Smith quintet. In a scheduled Class B game at PCH, the Baldwin Merchants won a forfeit decision over the Commerce Lakers.

BOWLING BEAUTY

NO. 5—THE STANCE

By DEE PURCELLO
AMF Staff of Champions

Check points to remember when you stand with the ball in your hands on the approach. Start from the top and work downward.

Eyes on the target. Shoulders and hips parallel to the foul line. Arm comfortably tight in against the body. The left hand, directly underneath the ball, supports its weight completely. Right wrist is perfectly in line with the forearm.

The ball is held at about waist level, although you might want to go slightly higher or lower. The knees are easily flexed. Feet are pointed directly at the target, the left on a few inches ahead of the right. Weight of the body on the heels.

NEXT: Back-up ball.

11th Frame

By CHUCK ABAIR

It has been proven each year in the Pontiac Press Bowlerama that not only the high average people can come up with big performances. Anyone can get hot on a given day or days.

Some recent examples of area "lesser lights" turning in topnotch showings have been reported to the 11th Frame this week.

Violet Lakeeta of Walled Lake rolled 668 on games of 288-180-220 in open bowling at the new Wonderland Lanes. She was just out for enjoyment at the time with her sister and brother-in-law. Mrs. Lakeeta averaged 153 last year in the Imperial loop at Huron Bowl. It was her 1st 600.

Bill Easlick of the Pontiac Motor Skilled Trades team hit 215-221-222—658 in a Midnight league. Bill had only one open frame in the three games, according to team anchor man John Milliken. That was due to a split in the very last frame.

Those were certainly impressive scores turned in by several of the youngsters in the Lakewood Lanes holiday event. Not mentioned previously was a 230 actual by Gary Coppinger.

Farmington Classic got back into action with more good scores at NorWest. Al Slobodnick paced the group with 247—697. Jack Treslor had 265—692, Fred Ringrose 246—663, Bruce Cummings 266—651, John Molnar 246—654, Chet Jerome 656. There were 24 series of 600 or more and 85 games in the 200 class. Redford Recreation had a 1153 singles. Cameo Jewelry tops the standings.

WIBC lists two 300s by California women as the only perfect games for women this season. A 747 has been the best series with Margaret Lewis of Detroit 3rd at 736. Stark Hickey Ford of Detroit has the 5th best game with 1068 and is 8th in series with 2949.

SKIPPING AROUND

Elks' Ladies National Invitational off to good start. Ricky's Pizza House, 1959 champ, already out of running. Field biggest yet, including 58 Pontiac teams . . . Lot of talk among keg people since Detroit proprietors upped bowling prices. All wondering if it will happen here.

Instructor Mary Monroe's departure from Huron Bowl may be only temporary. She told The Press she currently wants to concentrate on a heavy bowling schedule but may return to Huron sometime in February . . . Peggy Bender says entries coming in slowly for annual P.W.B.A. City Tournament at Sylvan Lanes.

Congratulations to Len Biallas of Pontiac on his nomination for the office of president of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association. His selection would keep the job in Oakland County since Lake Orion Village President Irvine Unger has been at the helm since August 1960 . . . "Mo" Moore's hopes of bowling with Detroit in the pro loop seems to be getting dim. Team has five members signed and three on a reserve list.

Central Starts Its Big Home Stand Tonight

Flint Northern Winless Going Into 7th Game

Looking Past, Vikings to Saginaw Greatest Danger for Chiefs

By BILL CORNWELL

The next three games, all at home, will be critical ones for the Pontiac Central basketball team.

Beginning with Flint Northern this evening, the Chiefs play host to a trio of Saginaw Valley Conference foes in a series of games that could make or break their chances for winning another league crown.

Saginaw High, unbeaten in five starts and currently leading the Valley race with a 3-0 record, invades the PCH gymnasium one week from tonight for a mid-season loop showdown in what should be the state's No. 1 prep attraction.

Then, on Friday, Jan. 27, Arthur Hill comes here for a rematch with PCH to tip off the second half of the SVC schedule. PCH, the Hillites and Flint Central are now deadlocked for 2nd place in the circuit with 2-1 marks.

* * *

The Chiefs of Art Van Ryzin must win all three of these games to keep alive their hopes of annexing a 3rd consecutive SVC title and 4th in the last five years.

Central's greatest danger tonight, perhaps, is looking beyond a winless Northern quintet in anxious anticipation of Saginaw's visit.

Jack Marlette's Vikings have yet to taste victory in six tries; three in the Valley, but they pose a peck of trouble for PCH if the Chiefs think too much about Saginaw and not enough about them.

Northern's starting lineup against PCH is expected to be Ron Jackson and Ed Carr at forwards, Charlie Haynes at center and Stan Brunske and Gus Talbert at guards. Jackson is the club's top scorer with 82 points while Haynes at 6-4 heads the rebounding department.

Van Ryzin plans to put height in his front line by starting 6-3 George Fed. 6-4 Bradell Pritchett and 6-2 Paul Brown. Andy Roach and Clarence Douglas will get the call in the back court.

Douglas leads the Chiefs in scoring with 115 points in seven games for a 16.4 average. Fed, the Chiefs' backboard specialist who missed the first two contests, comes next with 67 points in five outings, an average of 13.4.

The Chiefs have won four in a row and go against Northern with an over-all 5-2 record. Game time is 8 p.m.

* * *

Another crucial Valley game tonight sends the high-riding Saginaw cagers against dangerous Flint Central on the latter's floor. Hapless Bay City Central goes to Arthur Hill to complete the SVC slate.

Lake Orion Hornets Remain Unbeaten, 4-1

The Lake Orion Hornets remained undefeated in the Detroit Senior B Hockey League by defeating the Hustlers 4-1 last night.

The league-leading Hornets now have a 6-0-1 record.

Woman Rolls 727

New High at Lakewood

The pins keep rattling around at Lakewood Lanes with the Huron Street establishment having its best year for big scores.

Two women came up with big performances there this week in league play.

Norma Cattell, carrying a 134 average, became the 1st woman to top 700 at Lakewood with a 727 handicap score. She hit 623 actual on 245-214-164 competing with the Milo's Furs team in the 50ers League.

She returned two days later to practice and turned in a 222 game in a 568 actual. She finished the big game with six successive strikes and started the next with three in a row for a total of nine.

* * *

Rochester, Avondale Play Important Games

A pair of low ranking teams could hold the key to league basketball championships for two area high school quintets.

* * *

Rochester, tied for first in the Tri-County, entertains last place Lapeer tonight. Avondale travels to Clawson to meet a team that is one notch from the Oakland B cellar.

Pontiac Press Photo

RAM STARTER — Ted Dobski will be one of the St. Fred starters when the title hopeful Rams take to the Northern floor against strong St. Rita tonight. He had a 25-point game Tuesday boosting his average to 12.4.

Milford plays at Clarkston, Pontiac Northern goes to Berkley, Waterford is at Southfield and Walled Lake travels to Farmington for other important area games.

There will be four games played in Pontiac tonight: Pontiac Central plays host to Flint Northern, St. James is at St. Michael, St. Rita is at St. Frederick and Emmanuel Christian is home against Grosse Pointe University School.

* * *

Rochester has won only two of its seven games. But the victories came against two Tri-County foes.

Lapeer is expected to be a rough opponent. The Spartans have lost four games by one to three points and have two players —Dick Schwerin and Tom Connors averaging over 20 points a game.

Roseville is at home against L'Anse Creuse and is expected to win. This means that Rochester must down Lapeer or Roseville will be first place alone.

Avondale's Yellow Jackets reach for first place tonight. Coach Dick Bye's team has been specializing in taking close victories. They will probably need another top effort against Clawson if they are to deadlock Fitzgerald for first place. Fitzgerald does not have a league game.

* * *

Clarkston is in a position to spoil Milford's Wayne-Oakland championship hopes. Milford is one game behind Holly, which is at home against weak Clarenceville, and a loss would seriously hamper a first place bid. Bill Powell and his teammates have the home court advantage.

Five teams are tied for third place in the W.O. This jam will be broken as Northville plays at West Bloomfield and Bloomfield Hills goes to Brighton. The other deadlocked team is Clarkston.

Pontiac Northern should have no trouble recording its 13th straight Inter-Lakes victory. The Huskies are leading the league this season with a 2-0 mark.

Walled Lake's objective against Farmington will be to knock the Yellow Jackets out of tie for the lead. A Berkley upset over PNH and Walled Lake win would leave the league in a four-way tie for the top.

* * *

Southfield has the home court advantage against Waterford and this could be the deciding factor. One team will get its first win of the season in this contest.

Huskies Win, Chiefs Beaten

Coming from behind twice, Pontiac Northern got back on the winning side of the wrestling ledger by downing Walled Lake 24-20 in an Inter-Lakes match Thursday night.

Pontiac Central went down to its 3rd defeat in six dual outings, bowing 23-14 at Royal Oak Dondero.

Northern was behind 6-0 early, went ahead 8-6 featuring a Ken Kimmel pin, and then fell back again by 15-8 with five matches to go. Vets Win Miracle and Jerry Heard scored successive pins and Toby Contor and Dave Fox added decisions offsetting a final Viking pin. PNH is now 4-1 over-all and 2-0 in the league.

Inexperience and injuries hurt the PCH cause in its close match which had no falls. The Chiefs had a 11-5 lead featuring wins by Barry Whittaker, Art Fowlkes and Soph Charley Beevers — his 1st — but Dondero took charge from there taking six of seven verdicts.

Del Sanborn, a 112-pounder wrestling in 133, and Bruce Wigent were impressive losers. The latter squirmed out of several good pinning holds.

That 672 score is the exact score Clara Krupa of Hammond, Ind. won on in 1960.

Junior Wings Keep Win Streak Going

RIVERSIDE, Ont. (CPI) — The Detroit Junior Wings overpowered the Riverside Regents, 7-4, last night for their ninth straight win in the Border Cities Hockey League.

★ ★ ★

The Wings now have an 18-4 record and lead the league by 10 points.

Grimm, Walker Added

Cubs Add 2 Coaches, Now Have 7 on Staff

CHICAGO (AP)—With the naming of two more coaches, the Chicago Cubs nearly have reached their magic number—8.

The additions are Charlie Grimm, a vice president of the club and three-time manager, and Verlon Walker, a Cub employe since 1946 who was manager of the Carlsbad, N.M., club of the Sophomore League last year.

The Cubs now have seven coaches, with another yet to be chosen to complete the unique field staff under owner P.K. Wrigley's plan of operating a baseball team this season without a designated manager.

Other coaches previously named are Rip Collins, Harry Craft, Vedie Himsl, Goldie Holt and Elvin Tappe.

All seven were at Thursday's mid-winter news party thrown by the Cubs. At the same time announcements were made that star shortstop Ernie Banks has signed at a boost in salary (reportedly, around $35,000); the Cubs will have rotating coaches instead of managers for their farm clubs in San Antonio and Wenatchee, Wash.; and that Richie Ashburn, as Cub player representative, will be an "ex-officio" member of the management corps.

Wrigley displayed some statistical cards which will be used in the dugout to keep the coaches up to date on each of their players' average against the opposing pitcher as well as Cub pitcher against individual opponents.

"This is a speed-up in a system we've been using," said Wrigley. "In the past, we had the figures all right, but by the time they could give us the dope, the ball game was over."

Wrigley insisted that a manager as such will not be named, adding that "a leader of the coaching staff" naturally will emerge automatically. This should come in spring training, he said.

It is estimated each coach is being paid $15,000 annually, excluding Grimm, who presumably receives the $20,000 vice president's pay.

Grimm said he would not be interested in becoming field manager, or head coach, or whatever title is used.

"I've had too many turns already," he said, "but, of course, I'll do anything Wrigley thinks is best for the club."

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

"One of the coaches may run the Cubs for one month, manage in the minors for another month, and then return to the Cubs merely as coach for another month, and so on," he said.

Nats Hire Young Cronin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tommy Cronin, son of Joe Cronin, president of the American League, joined the new Washington Senators as an assistant to farm director Hal Keller.

Van Brocklin, Shaw Conclude Careers Sunday

Expect 60,000 Turnout for Final Grid Game at Los Angeles

And, as the Coliseum clock turns, time also will be running out for Buck Shaw, the man who coached Van Brocklin and the Philadelphia Eagles to the 1960 National Football League championship. Shaw, 61, and his 34-year-old quarterback both are retiring.

★ ★ ★

The odds say Van Brocklin and Shaw will retire as losers—but only by a whisker. The Western Conference all-stars, coached by Vince Lombardi of Green Bay, have been favored by one to three points over Shaw's East squad.

Kickoff is at 4 p.m. (EST) and the game will be televised nationally by NBC.

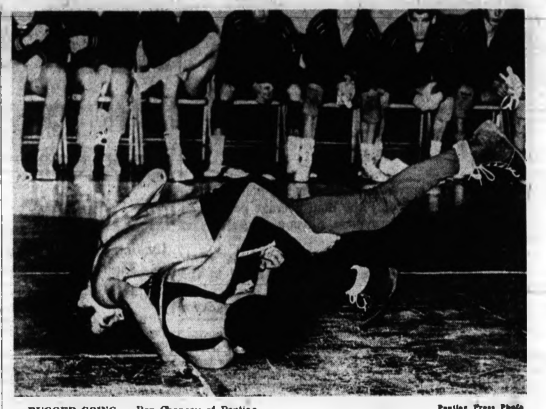

A turnout of 60,000 or more is anticipated.

For its running game, the East will call on Cleveland's Jim Brown—four-time NFL rushing leader—plus John David Crow of St. Louis and Bobby Mitchell of Cleveland.

Quarterback Johnny Unitas of Baltimore, the player of the game last year (when the West won 38-21), will run Lombardi's club. In the backfield with Unitas will be Jon Arnett of Los Angeles, Lenny Moore of Baltimore and Jim Taylor of Green Bay.

RUGGED GOING — Ben Chancey of Pontiac Northern was on top here but not for long as Tom Brown of Walled Lake rallied to win their 103-pound mat battle at PNH. The Huskies won a tight duel, 24-20.

West Side Mobil led the scoring on games of 1054 and 1002 in a 2925 series followed Sparks Griffin 1062 and 2908, Coca Cola 1031 in 2907. Pasquale's Pizzeria rolled a 1017 game and Lake Center Drugs had a 1023 game.

Coca Cola won three games from Tony's Rental, Lake Center Drugs shut out West Side Lanes, Bicmar shut out Pizzuti's Lounge and Pasquale's won three from Oakland Coin. Two game winners were Sparks Griffin over Hazelton Lettering, West Side Mobil over Blue Cleaners, Calbi Music from Slaters Concrete and Triple X Lunch over Judah Lake Shopping Mart.

No. 11—Baseball's Unforgettable Games

'Big Train' Johnson Shuts 'Em Out in Winning Three Successive Games

By JOE REICHLER and BEN OLAN

Some of his gems were the 56 scoreless innings, his 113 lifetime shutouts, his 16 consecutive victories, his 3,508 strikeouts, his 418 victories, and his 531 complete games.

It was in 1908, however, only in his second year with the Senators, that Johnson performed one of his most remarkable feats of his entire career — pitching three consecutive games played by his club and winning them all by shutouts.

Walter himself always maintained that this accomplishment gave him his biggest thrill.

A 20-year-old pitching three shutouts in four days!

In the three games, Johnson gave up a combined total of only 12 hits, walked one, and struck out 12.

The Big Train was also given solid batting support by Bob Unglaub, who got six hits, four in the second game, and Ed Delehanty, who collected three singles, a double, and a triple. The Big Train himself drove out a trio of one-baggers.

ALMOST UNBELIEVABLE

Modern ball players, particularly pitchers, shake their heads incredulously when they are told the story. In the old, wooden ball park at 168th Street and Broadway in New York City, Johnson faced the New York Highlanders — now the Yankees—on September 4, 5, and 7—and the only reason he didn't face them on September 6 was because it came on the Sabbath and Sunday baseball was then illegal in New York, as it was in most cities.

On September 4, Manager Joe Cantillon gave Johnson the ball and sent him against the New Yorkers. Johnson won 3-0, on six hits.

The next day Johnson was out there warming up with the rest of the pitchers when Cantillon walked over and said: "How d'you feel, Walter?"

"Fine," said Johnson, and Cantillon sent him out again. This time, Johnson beat New York, 6-0, with four hits. Sunday being an off day, Johnson idled around the hotel.

But when Monday arrived, Johnson was sitting on the bench a few minutes before game time when Cantallon came over and said: "Our pitching staff is in pretty sorry shape. How's your arm feel, Walter?"

"Feels as good as ever," said Johnson. And with that Johnson moved in against the New Yorkers for the third time in four days.

NO LOSS IN SPEED

His fast ball was never better. It cracked into Gabby Street's glove with a report that echoed throughout the little old New York park.

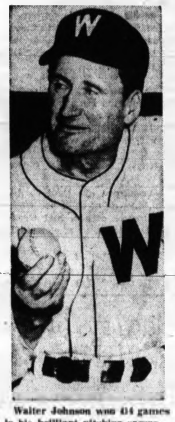

During the course of the game Johnson was struck flush on his pitching arm while batting against New York's Jack Chesbro. He was painfully injured, and Washington had to take a full five minutes before Johnson was able to use his arm again. When the seventh inning came up, Johnson was aware of a tenseness among his teammates.

They were shouting encouragement to him, but he didn't know why, since he had a good lead and was keeping the Highlanders scoreless.

When Johnson returned to the bench, he noticed Cantillon had become jumpy; and he didn't talk, but continually dipped the tin cup into the bucket of ice water and kept dousing it down—cup after cup. Cantillon was perspiring that hot September day.

Then, after Walter strode out for the last half of the ninth inning, Joe Delehanty and George McBride, his teammates, fell in stride with him and started touching his back lightly, reassuringly with their hands. "Keep firing away," they were saying. "We'll get 'em out for you."

Johnson didn't know what to make of this because he wasn't tired. He was just as fast as when he started the game. Walter put the New Yorkers out in order, and for the first time he knew what it was all about.

"You did it, Walter!" his teammates were shouting. "You did it!" They reminded him that he had pitched three shut-outs in four days, and that this was one record that would never be broken in baseball. Johnson beat New York 4-0 on two hits that day.

Keego Brothers to Be Canadian Football Rivals

The Ray brothers of Keego Harbor will be playing football for rival Canadian League pro teams next season.

* * *

Ron Ray, the older brother, played with the Hamilton Tiger Cats last season and will return to the Cats for another fling in 1961. George Ray is ready for his rookie year after signing a one-year contract with the Edmonton Eskimos.

Both are graduates of Howard Payne College in Brownwood, Texas, where they were named to the Lone Star Conference All-Star 1st string honor squads at tackle positions.

Downes Sure of Title Win

BOSTON (AP)—Britain's Terry Downes is confident he can whip Paul Pender under any conditions —fair or foul—in the ring Saturday night.

* * *

The two ex-U. S. Marines meet in a television 15-rounder at the Boston Arena for Pender's portion of the world middleweight title. The Brookline, Mass., boxer is recognized as champion by Massachusetts, New York and Europe. Gene Fullmer of Utah is hailed as king of the 160-pounders by the American National Boxing Association.

* * *

Downes, the rocky cockney who holds the British title, said he wouldn't turn the other cheek if Pender uses illegal rabbit punches (blows against the back of the neck) against him as he did in two title fights here with Sugar Ray Robinson.

If he uses rabbits on me, I'll give him some rabbits of my own," said the articulate, American-trained Londoner.

"What's good for him will be good for me. I just hope I don't have to do it. I'd rather it would be a clean fight.

* * *

"I saw the films of the Pender-Ray Robinson fights and I saw him (Pender) use the rabbit punch repeatedly. Of course Robinson was partially to blame the way he hung on at times to get a rest.

"Pender won't have to worry about me hanging on. I'll be going after him. I just hope he won't run like a thief.

"Boxing isn't ping pong or a tea party and I know that for sure. I'd rather fight by the rules. But if he doesn't go by the rules, I can do everything he does and it's up to him. No matter what, I'm confident I can beat him."

* * *

The subject of rabbit punching was introduced Thursday by British promoter Harry Levene. Levene is assisting Downes' manager, Sammy Burns, who is recuperating from a recent heart attack.

Levene said he had broached the matter to the Massachusetts Athletic Commission. He said the subject would be discussed again at a rules session when Teddy Waltham, secretary of the British Boxing Board of Control, meets with the commission before the fight.

The British already have lost one request. They wanted to have six-ounce gloves used, figuring it would help Downes, the puncher, against Pender, the boxer.

Why there's no heat like
ELECTRIC HEAT
FOR HOME REMODELING

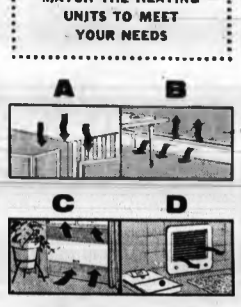

ELECTRIC HEAT SIMPLIFIES THE CONVERSION OF ATTIC INTO ADDED ROOM

When finishing off an attic would strain a home's heating system, built-in electric heat is the solution. Electric forced air wall units, for instance, can be installed without large-scale cutting into floors or substructure. Electric heat is fully automatic, operates independently of the main heating system. Efficiency, flexibility and ease of installation make electric heat your best buy for home modernization.

MATCH THE HEATING UNITS TO MEET YOUR NEEDS

WHEN THE BASEMENT BECOMES A SNUG FAMILY ROOM A good example of efficient supplementary heating is this use of radiant electric wall panels. They can be mounted wherever extra heat is needed in a family room. Then just dial the warmth you want and clean, silent, electric heat starts working for you right away.

ELECTRIC HEAT HELPS TURN SUMMER PORCH INTO YEAR-ROUND ROOM It's simple to install electric heating units on exterior porch walls where heat is needed most. Electric baseboard, for example. It will provide a curtain of evenly warm air over the glass surfaces and make an enclosed porch really cozy.

Popular built-in electric heat systems use (A) cable embedded in ceilings, (B) baseboards, (C) forced air units or (D) radiant panels set into the walls.

Jobless Count at 4,540,000, Up to 6.8 Pct.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment rose by a half-million in December to 4,540,000 — highest December total since 1940.

Employment declined by 1,173,000 to 66,009,000.

Announcing these figures today, the Labor Department also reported that the rate of unemployment to the total work force rose from 6.5 per cent in November to 6.8 per cent. This is the highest December rate since 1946. The percentages are seasonally adjusted.

Seymour Wolbein, Labor Department manpower expert, said that if the seasonally adjusted 6.8 per cent idle rate remains unchanged the unemployed total will increase by one million to 5½ million during January.

PTA Council President to Be Centennial Official

Mrs. George W. Gray Sr., president of the Pontiac Council of PTA, has been named chairman of the ladies' sunbonnets and dresses committee of the Pontiac centennial.

The appointment was announced today by William L. Belaney and Mrs. Clyde Dearing, chairmen of the centennial's participation division.

The appointment rounds out the six major committee chairmanships within the division, they said.

Backs Austerity for the Belgians

Nation's Lower House of Parliament Supports Program 115-90

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The lower House of Parliament approved 115-90 today the government's austerity program, target of a 25-day-old general strike called by the Socialists. Later approval by the Senate is considered a formality.

The Socialists opposed the plan bitterly, saying severe cuts in social welfare services and higher taxes will fall heaviest on the workers.

★ ★ ★

Premier Gaston Eyskens, who insisted austerity is necessary to offset losses of revenue from the Congo, missed the final debate. He became ill in Parliament Thursday and must rest several days.

In the Senate, Eyskens's coalition of Social Christians and Liberals has a substantial majority.

Shortly before the vote, a mass meeting of Socialist political leaders issued a thinly veiled call for a federated Belgium split into separate French-speaking and Flemish states.

The six brightest stars, in order of magnitude as seen from the earth, are Sirius, Canopus, Alpha Centauri, Vega, Capella and Arcturus.

Groups Urge Return of 2 Negroes

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Faculty, civic and religious groups urged today that two Negro students return to class at the University of Georgia until the state and federal governments complete an investigation of racial rioting that resulted in the Negroes' suspension.

★ ★ ★

Police, state highway patrolmen and university officials strengthened their defenses, however in expectation of a new surge of rioting should the two Negroes be ordered back by a federal judge in Macon, Ga., this afternoon.

Rumors swept the campus last night that demonstrations were being resumed, but actually the campus was unusually quiet.

The Negroes, Charlayne Hunter, 18, and Hamilton Holmes, 19, both of Atlanta, were taken out of the university by highway patrolmen early yesterday after a riot that left five policemen hurt and windows smashed in the dormitory where Miss Hunter lived.

★ ★ ★

Their attorneys were to go before Federal District Judge William A. Bootle in Macon seeking to have the suspension set aside. Bootle ruled yesterday that a state law cutting off funds to any integrated school was "clearly, patently unconstitutional."

About 600 of the approximately 800 faculty members of the university met last night in the chapel to discuss their position in the crisis.

The meeting was a long one and an estimated 100 left before it was over, but about 300 remaining signed a resolution insisting that the two suspended Negroes be returned to class and that "all measures necessary to the protection of students and faculty and to the preservation of orderly education be taken by appropriate state authorities."

★ ★ ★

The resolution commended university officials for their stand but regretted "that officials of the state of Georgia were unable or unwilling to protect the rights and property of the university and its students."

The Athens Junior Chamber of Commerce, the University Chaplains Association, and a Presbyterian church group launched similar campaigns.

The Presbyterian group began a telephone campaign backing up the university officials, and the Athens City Council adopted a resolution commending students, faculty and police in restoring order in Wednesday's riot.

1 Dead, 6 Missing in Sea Rescue Try

SEATTLE (UPI) — One man was dead and six others missing and feared drowned today in a sea tragedy touched off when a crab boat floundered in gale winds off the mouth of the Columbia River.

Three coast guardmen aboard the 83-foot Coast Guard vessel Triumph were missing after it rolled and capsized in violent seas while trying to aid the stricken crab boat, Mermaid.

Three other men, including one coast guardman fished out of the ocean, were missing aboard the Mermaid which drifted out of sight when her tow line to the Triumph snapped. It was believed the Mermaid went down.

Two other boats which joined in the rescue also met with disaster.

JFK's Assistant Eyes Possibility of Federal TV

NEW YORK (AP)—James M. Landis, President-Elect John F. Kennedy's special assistant on federal regulatory agencies, says the possibility exists of establishing a government television network.

★ ★ ★

Landis, interviewed on WNTA-TV, was asked whether he was prepared to push for establishment of government programming to compete with commercial programming.

★ ★ ★

"Not at this stage, certainly," Landis replied. But he added he could see no reason why the possibility should not be explored.

Such a network, Landis said, might be similar to the British Broadcasting Corp., which has government produced and controlled programming.

Have You Coat for a Needy Child?

Schools Can Use Good Used Clothing

Next week Pontiac public schools will sponsor their fourth annual used clothing drive.

The idea for a local drive rather than participating in one of the national drives was inaugurated in January 1958.

All of the used articles of clothing carted off to school by pupils will benefit Pontiac school children.

Clothing gathered during the drive which runs next Monday through Friday, will be distributed to one of three local charitable organizations.

The agencies acting as clearing houses for the Pontiac school system are the Salvation Army, 25 W. Lawrence St.; St. Vincent de Paul Society, 11 W. Wilson St., and Dorcas Society, Seventh-Day Adventist Church, 168 Mt. Clemens St.

Cochairmen are Paul C. Allison, director of child accounting and school census, and Gerald White, coordinator of elementary education.

Once gathered in bundles at the city's elementary and secondary schools, the maintenance department takes over distributing the clothes to the respective agencies.

During the school year, the clothing is made available to needy children in the school district.

TEACHER KNOWS

Unusually it is a teacher or principal who notices that a pupil needs shoes or a warm winter coat. In most cases the need is created by temporary unemployment in the family.

★ ★ ★

The parents are contacted and given a clothing requisition form with which they can get the needed items free from one of the three local organizations.

★ ★ ★

"The clothing orders processed last year by these agencies made it possible for hundreds of students to go to school who otherwise might not have had the opportunity," said Allison.

Last year the schools collected 15,260 pounds of clothing.

"Persons having clothing to contribute who don't have children in school may call the nearest school and collection will gladly be made by the Parent Teacher Association," he explained.

"There is particular need at this time for winter clothing of all sizes but summer clothing will be accepted for use later in the year.

★ ★ ★

"We need shoes, rubbers and galoshes badly. Adult clothing and bedding will also be accepted."

In the three years of the drive so far some 42,524 pounds of used clothing have been bundled up and carried to school by pupils.

During the last school year there were 419 requisitions issued to needy families and 236 were filled. Seventy-four of the requisitions issued were never presented at an agency.

This was an increase over the total of 352 orders issued during the 1958-59 school year.

Clothing that is too old and worn for use is sold and usable clothing bought with the money.

In other school years there have been two drives. However, next week's drive will be the only one this year.

Teachers to Be Specialists

Bagley 5th, 6th Grades Will Have New Plan

Fifth and sixth grade pupils at Bagley Elementary School will get to know some of their teachers better when the spring semester begins.

Last night the Pontiac Board of Education gave its wholehearted support to a program proposed by John F. Perdue, Bagley principal.

The plan calls for partial departmentalization at the school, which will provide instruction by specialists in the areas of science, arithmetic and reading.

All grades currently are run on a self-contained classroom basis; that is, one homeroom teacher teaches one class all subjects.

With the new plan in effect, pupils will spend half of each school day with one homeroom teacher and half with specialists.

The change affects only fifth and sixth grades.

"Such a plan will result in the full utilization of teachers and, we feel, will better prepare our students for junior high school," Perdue explained.

Morning: Self-contained class. One teacher teaching writing, spelling, grammar, composition, art and social studies, five days a week.

Afternoon: Three class hours; a different teacher for each, each teacher a specialist in his field. One hour arithmetic and one hour reading five days per week. One week, and one hour physical education, 2 days each week.

"There will be no change needed in teacher personnel requirements for the school under this plan," Perdue said.

A science room will be provided at the school under 1960-61 National Defense Education Act funds.

More 4-Cylinder U.S. Cars to Join Tempest—Exec

DETROIT (AP) — An automotive engineer predicts that four-cylinder engines, long the power plant for all but the biggest cars in Europe, will be used more widely in American autos.

"There is a lot of public interest in the four-cylinder engine, and in my opinion you will see more nameplates offering fours," said J. P. Charles at the Society of Automotive Engineers annual meeting Thursday.

Charles, who is assistant chief engineer at the Pontiac Division of General Motors Corp., noted that Pontiac's compact Tempest is the only four-cylinder car being offered by a major American maker at this time.

He said few Tempest buyers order the optional V8 aluminum engine, probably because it costs considerably more than the cast iron four-cylinder unit.

Flint Woman Robbed of $40 in Pontiac

A 38-year-old Flint woman reported to Pontiac police that she was robbed of $40 at gunpoint early today by two bandits in the parking lot of Art & Lil's Bar, 924 Joslyn Road.

Mrs. Florence Ritter told Pontiac police the two bandits approached her at 1:15 a.m. as she sat in her car.

Training a nickle-plated revolver on her, one of the bandits asked: "Do you have any money?".

She said she replied: "A little." Mrs. Ritter said the two men who she said were both in their 20s, ordered her out of the car and took her purse.

They made her walk to the rear of Schram Realty, 942 Joslyn road, where they told her to lie on the ground and warned her not to get up, she said.

When she heard them drive off in a car, Mrs. Ritter said, she ran into the bar and called police.

Gettysburg Schedules Dinner to Welcome Ike

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower will be given a welcome home dinner here Jan. 21, the day after he leaves office, it was announced Thursday.

Henry M. Schart, owner of the Hotel Gettysburg, said the President and Mrs. Eisenhower had accepted invitations to attend. The guest list will be held to some 200 persons because of space limitations.

U. S. GIFT TO LAOTIANS — The State Department revealed Thursday that the United States has supplied four T6 training planes to the pro-Western government of Laos. An air strike against rebel forces, reported Thursday from Vientiane, was made possible through the use of these training planes. As evidenced from the picture, the T6 is not the most modern plane in use today. The Air Force used it to train its pilots in World War II.

'Show Girl' Is Gay Channing Vehicle

Associated Press Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP)—Just for fun, "Show Girl" is a little cutie for Broadway theater fans.

With saucer-orbed Carol on stage occasionally are funnyman Jules Munshin and a pleasant male quartet just in from Paris, called (in translation) "The Four Thursdays."

From first to last, however, the show belongs to the lady, sleekly garbed in sundry costumes of sensuous and hilarious charm. How she gets the effects she does is Miss Channing's marvelous secret, but their laugh quotient is consistently potent.

Legislators Pleased So Far

Awaiting Swainson's Cash Blueprint

The new chief executive said he would disclose his 1961-62 spending blueprint near the end of the month. It will ask for "modest" increases in state spending, he told newsmen Thursday.

"It would be unrealistic to say that my proposals will not cost some money," he said. "But I think they require more good faith and action by the legislature than money."

The current budget, adopted last spring, totaled nearly $420 million. Legislative fiscal experts have estimated the new budget will cost at least $40 million more because of unavoidable increases in state school aid costs, salary increases ordered for state employes by the Civil Service Commission, the new program of medical care for the aged and other items.

'NOT COSTLY'

Swainson said most of his new proposals, including reorganization of the State Department of Economic Development, hiring of a marketing transportation specialist, and an economic growth act, would not require heavy expenditures.

★ ★ ★

He revealed that he will propose to carry on a $19 million state construction program with a bonding plan rather than more appropriations from the state's general fund.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Joseph J. Kowalski, D-Detroit, House Democratic leader, said bills to carry out Swainson's recommendation would start flowing into the legislature next week. The proposed economic growth act, which includes creation of a council of economic advisers to the governor, will be among them, he said.

Swainson's "State of the State message" Thursday met a generally favorable reception from GOP lawmakers.

"It was a refreshing message in view of what we've been getting for the past 12 years," said Sen. Perry W. Greene, R-Grand Rapids, taking an indirect poke at the former Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

"I think Swainson will make an excellent governor," he said.

REFRESHING

"He's the first man I've heard give a State of the State speech who didn't want to give the state away," said Sen. Harry Litowich, R-Benton Harbor. "If he continues in that vein, he's sure to have the cooperation of Republicans in the Senate."

Said Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings: "It was a refreshing, honest effort to get along with the legislature."

House Speaker Don R. Pears, R-Buchanan, Sen. Frank D. Beadle, R-St. Clair, GOP Senate caucus chairman, joined others in observing that the speech "had little new in it."

"It was a collection of generalities," said Rep. Wilfred G. Bassett, R-Jackson, speaker pro tem. "But I want to be fair with him. I'll make up my mind on the reasonableness of his program when I see his budget transposing words into dollars."

Rayburn Faces Prestige Vote

House Decision Is Due Tuesday on Enlarging Rules Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic leaders today set for next Tuesday a party-splitting showdown on what they termed an attempt by conservatives to seize control of the House.

At stake in the vote will be the prestige and power of veteran speaker Sam Rayburn. As of today the outcome was in doubt, although, on the basis of past performance, the betting was on Rayburn to win.

The vote will come at a closed-door party caucus, with virtually all the 262 Democratic House members expected to be present.

The question will be whether to enlarge the House Rules Committee, under a plan by Rayburn to smash a threatened conservative veto of key parts of President-Elect John F. Kennedy's legislative program.

The battle is between Rayburn and another House veteran, Rep. Howard W. Smith of Virginia. Smith is chairman of the rules committee and boss of its controlling conservative coalition of four Republicans and two Southern Democrats.

The speaker's plan would add two more Rayburn Democrats and another Republican to the 12-man committee, thereby giving liberals and moderates power to outvote the conservatives.

Rayburn sought in vain to reach a compromise agreement with Smith, under which the Virginian would guarantee that the rules committee would allow federal aid to education, housing assistance and other Kennedy-backed social and economic proposals to come to a vote in the House.

Thousands Are Scared

You Afraid of Friday, 13th?

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Thousands of Americans today remain huddled in bed, or slouched on a couch, consciously afraid to venture out because it is Friday the 13th.

Hundreds of great big adult men and women refused to buy or sell stocks today, because it is Friday the 13th.

And millions of people, who couldn't afford either to buy stocks or stay away from their jobs, went about their daily routines with their fingers crossed.

With lucky pieces or rabbit's tootsies in their pockets. With bubbly water in their veins and trouble in their eyes and, in every movement, a Pinkertonian precaution.

* * *

Before you laugh at these victims of superstition, think a moment: Did you purposely laugh at fate today yourself, by walking under a ladder or stepping on cracks or spilling salt? If you are like about 98.5 per cent of the population, you certainly did not. Because "very nearly 100 per cent of us is superstitious to some degree," says the world's foremost authority on the matter, "and will not go out of our way to ask for trouble."

* * *

The expert in this matter is a handsome woman named Claudia de Lys, the only person I know (or even she knows) who is so securely confident that she urges black cats to sidle across her toes.

Miss De Lys knows the Friday the 13th obsession is without basis, just as she knows an ebony feline is harmless. But she has no sympathy for the people who are superstitious about today; in fact she considers them rather lucky.

"The people who are so superstitious that they stay home on Friday the 13th, well, who could pity them? They have a day off.

"And the man who really believes that a rabbit's foot is lucky —perhaps he really is lucky. He has confidence in his superstitious crutch. This is an age of increasing fear and uncertainty, when many people spend a great deal of money on peace-of-mind books and psychoanalysis. The truly superstitious man doesn't need this—he has his rabbit's foot." She smiled. "He gets by cheap."

* * *

Miss De Lys ads, "I might call good luck charms the 'poor man's tranquilizers.' . . . In fact I think I will."

* * *

(Digging into her file of more than 80,000 superstitions, she finds that the rabbit's foot should be a back paw. Most of the commercial variety is taken from the front, since the back foot is too big to carry in a pocket. "But don't tell them," she whispers, "without their crutch suddenly, some people could get into all kinds of trouble.")

The Friday the 13th superstition has many origins. For instance, Eve is supposed to have tempted Adam with the fatal apple on a Friday.

The flood in the Bible, the confusion in the Tower of Babel, and the death of Christ all took place on Friday. There also is the Norse legend of Freya, the Goddess of Love who was supposed to have been banished to the mountains as a witch—and Friday was allegedly named for her. Thus it came to be called "witches' Sabbath."

* * *

As for the number 13, its fearsomeness traces back to the days when man first learned to count. "By using his 10 fingers, and counting his two feet as units, he came up with the number 12. Beyond that lay the unknown—and the unknown meant fear."

Obviously, we all became superstitious before some shrewd soul dreamed up that lovely comfortably axiom, "What you don't know, won't hurt you."

Civil Service Group Has an Active Year

Rules for the fire department were adopted and put into effect last year as a major accomplishment of the Civil Service Commission during 1960.

The commission, holding 10 meetings and two public hearings, spent a total 7½ hours in session last year, which resulted in 46 new entries in the official journal, according to a report from Theodore Carlson, president.

The other two members of the board are Stuart A. Austin and Gerald Guinan.

Twelve applications were taken and three eligibility lists prepared for jobs as firefighters. The commission issued 11 eligibility certificates, six for the rank of firefighter, four for lieutenant and one for captain.

In other action, the commission adopted standards for examination for the higher ranks, adopted policies in connection with medical examinations and protests on examinations and approved a fire service training manual in connection with tests.

The commission's proceedings were indexed from May 1957.

Agree With Talk by Swainson

But GOP Leaders See Nothing New in Any of His Recommendations

LANSING (AP) — Republican leaders in the legislature Thursday endorsed Gov. Swainson's call for new steps to speed up Michigan's economic development and create new job opportunities.

They said it reflects a long-standing GOP drive "to make our citizens aware of the problem and to take constructive action to meet it."

The governor's "State of the State" message, delivered to the legislature Tuesday, explained "little new," said House Speaker Don R. Pears, R-Buchanan, and Sen. Frank D. Beadle, R-St. Clair, in a joint statement.

"Almost every one of these recommendations have been made in the past," they said.

"The message recognizes what we have been saying — that the key to Michigan's economic development rests right here in Michigan.

"However, we will not get new jobs simply with the creation of new staff positions, new state agencies and bigger bond issues to drive the state further into debt."

The two legislators said they would await Swainson's specific proposals on appropriations, state taxation and unemployment compensation.

Action in these areas, they said, "reflects on Michigan as a good state in which to locate new business enterprise and create new jobs."

Navy Plans N-Sub Test at Bahamas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A prospect that Russia will soon have a fleet of nuclear-powered submarines was given Thursday as the reason for U.S. Navy plans to build a deep-water test range off the British-owned Bahamas Islands.

The British government announced Dec. 7 that the Navy had been granted permission to make surveys preparatory to building such a base. It will be known as the Atlantic Underwater Test and Evaluation Center (AUTEC).

A Navy spokesman explained today that nuclear-powered submarines travel much deeper than conventionally-powered types and that the present test range off Key West, Fla., is in comparatively shallow water. One of the chief purposes of the new range would be to test direction gear in deep water.

The spokesman added that the project is expected to cost less than $70 million over a period of 10 years.

Gains in Grains Show Up Small

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices moved generally ahead today but most gains in early dealings were small and reflected a small commercial demand.

★ ★ ★

Soybeans, however, posted gains ranging to about two cents on buying credited to speculators who apparently were reinstating positions liquidated during recessions earlier in the week. Nearly all contracts were up more than a cent during the first several minutes.

★ ★ ★

Wheat was understood to have a fairly active support from export interests. Reports were that overseas business during the next several days may total as much as 25 million bushels.

Safecracking Clues Probed

Waterford Twp. Police Continue Investigation of Thefts at 3 Stores

Waterford Township police are still working on clues and have questioned several suspects on three safecracking jobs that took place in three large stores this week.

Thieves entered the Foodtown supermarket at M59 and Williams Lake Road early Sunday. They smashed open a safe and escaped with an inner steel section containing some $4,000 according to the store supervisor William Reed.

At the same time township police investigated the adjoining Highland Variety Store and found locks on the back door smashed and the safe chiseled open from the bottom.

The owner of the store, Maurice Liptzer, said that between $3,000 to $4,000 had been in the safe and $300 in merchandise was missing.

Early Wednesday two more entered the Wrigley supermarket in the Drayton Shopping Center, bound and blindfolded the night porter, Russell Paar, opened a safe and escaped with $300.

Destroyers Collide Off North Carolina

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Two destroyers collided early today while engaged in exercises off the North Carolina coast, Atlantic Fleet Headquarters reported. There were no personnel casualties, a spokesman said.

★ ★ ★

The destroyers, the Johnston and the Keppler, were taking part in "Lantflex 1-61," a large training exercise of Atlantic Fleet units.

★ ★ ★

The Keppler sustained superficial damage, the spokesman said, and was expected to continue in the exercise. The Johnston sustained damage to her bow and was ordered to proceed to Charleston, S.C., her home port.

Woman Is Hospitalized After Drayton Collision

An Independence Township woman involved in an automobile accident near the Drayton Plains Elementary School yesterday remained at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today for observation.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Leslie Johnson, 29, of 5846 Flemings Lake Road, may have received head and internal injuries, her doctor said.

Her car crashed into one driven by Mrs. Robert J. Coad, 28, of 3416 Frembes St., Drayton Plains, when Mrs. Coad drove onto Sashabaw Road after letting her children out at the school, according to Pontiac state police.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Coad, who was uninjured, was ticketed for failing to yield the right of way.

Market Trading Still Is Heavy

The churning upward motion — profit taking mingled with reinvestment — resumed a performance which has continued all this week.

Brokers said that, on balance, it reflected a happier outlook toward the economy and the market, based on hopes of a business recovery and of economic measures to be taken by the Kennedy administration.

Steels rose in early dealings then backed away and showed moderate losses. Autos were a bit higher as car assemblies this week rebounded from the curtailed holiday schedules.

Chemicals, oils, nonferrous metals, and electrical equipments accounted for much of the gain in the industrial segment. Rails backed away slightly from their latest rally. Aircrafts were mixed. Airlines and tobaccos showed an easier tendency.

Homestake fell more than a point as the latest rally of gold shares came to an end.

Great A&P was a feature, keeping more than 2 points of an initial rise of 3 following news of record earnings.

Will Be Used Here by Universities

OK Unique Social Work Training Unit

The Pontiac Board of Education last night approved the establishment in Pontiac of a social work field training unit unlike any other in the United States.

Board members voted their unanimous approval of a request from the Wayne State University School of Social Work to set up a field training unit for visiting teachers in school social work for at least five years.

The entire program, it is estimated, will cost the Pontiac School District $5,000.

Present plans call for the unit to be used by the schools of social work at WSU, Michigan State University, and the University of Michigan.

FIVE DIFFERENCES

The proposed unit would differ from other student teacher programs in the following ways:

1. It is a training program for graduate students only.

2. It is a unit prepared for the training of school social workers (visiting teachers) only.

3. It is a cooperative endeavor with three universities.

4. It is financed through a grant from the United States Public Health Service.

5. The request is made for a minimum of five years.

At that time the university was applying for a grant for the unit to supplement the existing teaching and traineeship grant in school social work at WSU.

Recently the supplementary grant was approved by the Federal Health Service and now is combined for payment with the teaching and traineeship grant.

The proposed unit has full approval of Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, and Esther L. Belcher, state consultant for the visiting teacher program.

"The Pontiac school district was chosen because it meets all the requirements needed for establishment of such a unit," said Charles B. Brink, dean of the WSU School of Social Work.

Among the requirements were a well established, high caliber school social work program; a location convenient to the three universities; and a program which already has provided field instruction in case work for graduate students in social work.

Also a key factor was Pontiac's school population, representing students from a variety of social, economic, cultural and racial backgrounds, according to Brink.

"We will have to furnish appropriate housing and facilities and the opportunity for a field instructor and students to offer visiting teacher service in selected settings within the school district," said Dr. Philip J. Proud, assistant superintendent.

Proud outlined the proposed plan to the board and recommended that it be approved.

"Suitable housing can be provided at our Pupil Personnel Services Center, 87 Franklin Blvd., if a fire escape is installed and third-floor space is remodeled.

"These changes can be made for about $5,000," Proud said.

★ ★ ★

"This, to our knowledge, is the only program of its type in the area of school social work in the United States or elsewhere," Proud disclosed.

The grant will pay for a field instructor, a secretary, psychiatric consultation, the purchase of permanent equipment and expendable supplies, and travel expenses for the instructor and students.

Fiscal responsibilities will be carried entirely by WSU and personnel will be expected to conform to administrative policies concerning the visiting-teacher program now existing in Pontiac.

NEEDS MASTER'S DEGREE

The field instructor will be required to have a master's degree in social work, among other requirements.

Both Brink and Joseph P. Hourihan, training director for the school of social work, said that the school's 12-member advisory committee will be expanded in the near future to include a representative from the Pontiac school district.

The unit will house six students per semester — two from each of the three universities.

Big Brother a Second Father

He Makes Time to Help a Boy

Robert C. E. Gibson of Waterford Township knows that time is only as valuable as the use to which it is put.

It was just another meeting of his church's men's club in 1955, but what he saw there made a difference. It was a skit performed on the work of the then new organization, the Big Brothers of Oakland County.

What he saw that night convinced him.

Gibson, the father of a growing boy and girl, volunteered to give of his time as a big brother. He saw the need, thanks to the skit.

William L. Clark, executive director of the local organization designed to provide fatherly guidance to troubled boys forgotten by their real fathers, wishes there were more men like Gibson.

Gibson, 45, of 2855 Barkman St., took the time to help. He has a word of advice for those who might be pondering a move like his but aren't sure they have the time.

"I don't buy this alibi of 'we don't have the time,'" Gibson, an executive with J. L. Hudson's Eastland branch said. "The men who do join up to help are quite surprised to find that it doesn't take so much time."

"And what is time when you know you're helping these kids?" Gibson said.

Clark adds: "This whole thing is to insert the boy into your time instead of making time for the boy."

The organization's motto is: "No man ever stands so straight as when he stoops to help a boy."

To instill that warmth of life with a father, Clark's organization likes to see the big brothers visit their little brothers a minimum of once a week.

Twenty-four boys — five in Pontiac — aren't so fortunate as Gibson's Ronnie, the fictitious name he gives his little brothers. Clark has no big brothers left over to assign to them.

This being National Big Brothers Week, Clark has launched a recruitment drive to supplement the 144 big brothers now helping the organization.

"Ronnie" is picked up from his Royal Oak home by Gibson on his way home from work. Like any 14-year-old boy, he loves a thick chocolate milkshake, a coke now and then, or a good "flicker." There have been weekends when "Ronnie" has stayed as a guest at the Gibson home.

But the most important thing is that "Ronnie" knows somebody cares.

Credit Unions to Hold Elections in January

Five Pontiac credit unions have announced plans to hold their annual meetings during January. The annual meetings consist of reports to the members on the condition of the credit union as well as election of officers and directors.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac Co-op Federal Credit Union will hold its meeting Saturday night in the Little Theater at Pontiac Northern High School. Guest speaker will be City Manager Walter K. Willman.

Also to be held at Pontiac Northern are the meetings of Oakland County Employees Credit Union and GMTC Employees Federal Credit Union.

The Oakland County group will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

GMTC Employes have scheduled a 7:1 p.m Sunday meeting, Jan. 22, in the large auditorium. While the business meeting is in progress a feature film and cartoons will be shown to the children in the Little Theater.

★ ★ ★

Guest speaker for the GMTC meeting will be Joseph Blomgren, deputy director of the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions, Washington, D. C. Following this 25th anniversary meeting, a troupe of Dean and Lights supper will be served.

Body Crafters Federal Credit Union (Fisher Body) and Chief Pontiac Federal Credit Union (Pontiac Motor) both have scheduled meetings for Saturday evening, Jan. 21.

★ ★ ★

Body Crafters have planned a dinner meeting starting 6:30 at St. Michael's Hall. Guest speaker will be William Belaney, promotional director for GMTC Employes Federal Credit Union.

Chief Pontiac will hold its meeting at St. Benedict's Hall beginning at 7:30.

Jan. 23 Last Day for Primary Vote Registrations

County Clerk-Register Daniel T. Murphy Jr. announced today that Jan. 23 is the last day in which voters can register for the Feb. 20 spring primary in townships, villages and some cities.

★ ★ ★

Murphy said anybody who has moved since the November election must reregister in the new location.

Voters in the biennial spring election will name their party's nominees for many local offices from township supervisor down. The candidates then will be elected April 3.

Future Ballerinas Still Have Time to Register

Those interested in learning ballet have until the end of January to register at Waterford Township's Community Center, according to instructor Mrs. Carol Wolfe.

The reason for closing registration this month is to allow contracted training for the annual ballet recital to be held in mid-June, Mrs. Wolfe said.

3 Dem Hopefuls Left as Davis Drops Out

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — The Democratic Party here is left with three candidates for the position of township supervisor now that incumbent LeRoy Davis has announced he will not seek re-election.

Leonard F. Terry is the only Republican whose name will appear on the ballot for the office in the Feb. 20 primary.

LeRoy Davis, the 64-year-old supervisor who has been in office for two terms, said his name will appear on the primary ballot because he had filed a nominating petition which he failed to withdraw before the Jan. 5 deadline.

Although his name will be on the ballot, he said, he will not run in the April 3 election since he wants to devote more time to his business. He owns a grocery store in the township.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF EDGAR F. Schis who passed away 2 years ago today. Beatrice ;Schuls and children.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OLAF Arthur Paulson who passed away January 13, 1955.
Do not ask me if I miss him,
Do you think such a vacant place,
Oft I think I hear his foot steps,
Or I see his smiling face.
For he left me broken hearted,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they so little know the sorrow,
That is in my heart concealed.
Sadly missed by his parents, brother and sister-in-law.

'Untouchables' Threat Ignored

10 TV Stations Present Show Despite Claim It Maligns Jails

NEW YORK (AP)—Ten stations of the American Broadcasting Co. presented the taped TV show "The Untouchables" Thursday night despite a warning from the director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons.

At the end of the one-hour program came a network announcement that nothing in the show was intended to reflect on the integrity of the bureau.

In a telegram last Monday the bureau's director, James V. Bennett, told the 10 TV stations that his organization would oppose renewal of their broadcasting licenses if they showed the second installment of the two-part program called "The Big Train."

The theme—admittedly fiction—involved an abortive attempt by robbers to free Al Capone from a transcontinental train transferring him and other prisoners from Atlanta to Alcatraz prison in San Francisco Bay. The show depicted a prison guard as being in cahoots with Capone.

'PUBLIC' DISSERVICE

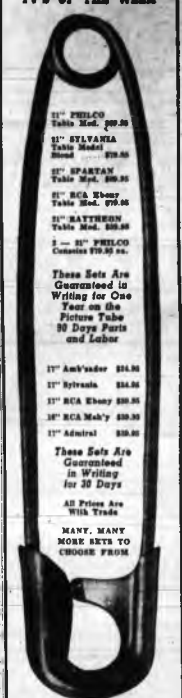

Bennett, after the first installment, asked ABC to withhold the second until he had consulted with the Federal Communications Commission and the U.S. attorney general.

"To picture honorable and courageous officers as venal, and a public institution like the Atlanta Penitentiary as toadying to a character like Capone," said Bennett, "is an unforgivable public disservice."

Omar F. Elder Jr., vice president and general counsel of ABC, had wired a reply to Bennett in which he said he doubted anyone would interpret the unfavorable portrayal of one or two guards as "representative of, or cast any general reflection upon, the integrity of other members of that group."

LANSING (AP) — Approximately 2.7 million barrels of cement and 45 million gallons of asphalt were used in Michigan's highway building program during 1960, the State Highway Department reports.

The department says it also used about 750,000 tons of steel and moved about 100 million yards of dirt.

Ford Foundation Gives $1.3 Billion Away in 10 Years

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Ford Foundation gave away more than $1.3 billion during the past 10 years, it was announced today.

The foundation, reconstituted in 1950 from a primarily local philanthropy in the Detroit area to a private philanthropic organization with activities extending around the world, granted funds totaling $1,339,700,000 over the past ten years, according to its annual report.

The lion's share of the expenditures went to formal educational programs. Grants and self-administered projects in that field over the past decade accounted for expenditure of $533.7 million.

First Part of 'Vanity' Is Far Better Than Fair

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—In Thursday night's adaptation of "Vanity Fair," poor Becky Sharp never got to the regimental ball. But I had a ball watching her "Family Classics" footwork during the CBS-TV hour.

I suppose William Makepeace Thackeray's classic couldn't hope to get itself properly trimmed and fitted into the TV medium. The book's scenes of grandeur aren't for TV. Studios aren't spacious enough.

There isn't time to spend on subtleties that help delineate a frame of reference or on leisurely, low-key character and story development.

As a result, the hour, adapted by Roger O. Hirson and directed by Tom Donovan, swung instead of swirled.

It came out, not as a silken needlepoint but as a nubby one. While each rub was a kernel of corn, I found myself liking the texture.

★ ★ ★

But perhaps best of all, the men and women in the cast seemed to be having a happy time as they raised eyebrows, gritted teeth, schemed, cajoled and romanced their way through the elaborate dialogue and crowded sets.

A spirit of fun prevailed.

Becky Sharp's maneuvers in England's Georgian Age were deftly drawn and avoided the pitfalls of burlesque and solemnity. How can you fault a show where costumed, lavender-and-lace characters spout ripe dialogue about bank drafts, depths of devotion and secret marriage.

SUCH PORTRAYALS!

As Becky, the low-born schemer with the high-blown hairdo, Diane Cilento was slyly insincere, desperate and pretty to boot. Cathleen Nesbitt as Miss Crawley, and Eric Berry as Sir Pitt Crawley pitched in with some lovingly sinister, deep-throated grunts. Jeanette Sterke was effectively trusting and sweet as Emmy. The tone of this tour de force was properly set by Laurie Main's gusto as the simpering Joseph Sedley. The cast seemed to accept his approach to his work and matched it in their respective portrayals of punctilious and punctured 19th Century romance.

The concluding hour in this two-part production will be seen tonight. Shall we dance?

Smuggling of Aliens Alleged in Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Exhaustive, cross-country investigations by the RCMP into the alleged smuggling of thousands of Chinese into Canada, have spread to the Windsor district.

A member of the Hong Kong Police Department is in the city working with local RCMP officials on investigations involving Chinese immigrants.

Local RCMP officials have declined comment on the investigations or the possibility of charges.

But it is known that a number of the 800 Chinese residing in Windsor and Essex county have been questioned and know that such an investigation is under way.

Lauren Bacall to Wed Actor Jason Robards

Widowed by the death of Humphrey Bogart four years ago, the 36-year-old tawny blonde glamour girl has been a constant companion to Robards, 38, for the past several months.

Robards first must divorce his estranged wife, Rachel, which he expects to accomplish next month when he returns to New York City — where he and Miss Bacall both maintain homes.

Attract More Tourists

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's four tourist information centers attracted 755,581 visitors asking for directions or information last year, the State Highway Department reports. This was about 8,000 more than the previous year.

Historical, Musical and Athletic Special Spot Week's Viewing

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Entertainment in widely varied form will be flooding the television channels during the next seven days.

Tackling the schedules chronologically, tonight there is another in the NBC American Heritage series (9-10 Eastern Standard Time), this called "The Invincible Teddy," and dealing with the debut of Theodore Roosevelt into politics. George Peppard plays young TR.

On Sunday, there is the annual Pro Bowl football game on NBC from Los Angeles (3:45 p.m. to conclusion). This conflicts with the CBS "A Question of Chairs, The Challenge of American Education," about the evolution of our school system.

CBS's big, expensive special, The Gershwin Years," with Maurice Chevalier, Frank Sinatra and Ethel Merman comes up Sunday night, 8-9:30, probably the highlight of the week.

Tuesday evening there's NBC's satirical revue, "Everybody's Doin' It," with Art Carney and Alice Ghostley (10-11). And on Wednesday evening there is CBS' Show of the Month, an adaptation of "The Prisoner of Zenda," prototype of all Ruritania tales, with Christopher Plummer in the leading, dual role (8:30-10).

Married for 25 Years — Earl Tells of Big Day

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Twenty-five years ago, I covered four executions at Sing Sing, wrote the story until 8 a.m., caught a little nap—arose groggily at noon—and got married.

WILSON

Rosemary Lyons, secretary, and I said our vows at the Municipal Building on her lunch hour.

The wife went back to work, keeping it all a secret from her boss. Because '36 was depression time. Only single gals were supposed to hold jobs. But our own parents had depression problems.

My laundry wasn't back—I had no clean shirt—I wore a dudish plain black model that Mark Hellinger had made acceptable.

I thought of all this in the early hours as El Morocco — which opened Oct. 5, 1931 — closed pending reopening on a swank new site Jan. 27.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "I met my wife at a ski lodge," says one fellow. "It was the only accident I ever had in 19 years of skiing."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Some formal gowns seen on TV leave little to the imagination—except, perhaps, why they cost so much.

Small things change history. For instance, if Alexander Graham Bell had had a teen-age daughter he never would have had a chance to test the telephone . . . That's fact, brother.

Seek Jump of $35 Million in State Aid to Schools

The legislature will be asked to increase state aid to local school districts more than $35 million for the next fiscal year.

Dr. Lynn M. Bartless, state superintendent of public instruction, provided the figure at the midwinter conference of the Michigan Association of School Administrators in Grand Rapids last night.

At the final session of the two-day conference today, Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of Pontiac Public Schools, will participate on a panel discussion on "Ventures in Educational Programing."

Also on the panel will be Dr. David Wells, specialist in mathematics for the Oakland County Board of Education.

Bartlett said his department will ask for $309,659,640 for school aid for the next fiscal year compared to an estimated $274,420,000 for the current fiscal year.

The figure includes an 8 per cent "improvement" increase in state aid, he said.

This is a "package" figure, Bartlett said, and also includes adjustments in the costs of transportation, special education, county school districts, distressed school districts and adult education.

It is estimated there will be a school aid deficit of about $36 million at the end of the current fiscal year, Bartlett said.

One of his first legislative requests, Bartlett said, will be for a deficit appropriation from the general fund to cover the anticipated shortage.

Bartlett said another recommendation to the legislature would call for the creation of state and county committees to handle reorganization of school districts in Michigan.

"There still are some 1,500 primary school districts in the state that do not and cannot offer a complete educational program," he said.

The eight-member state committee would develop policies, principles and procedures for a statewide school district reorganization program, Bartlett said.

The superintendent said he would ask for an amendment in the school building law which would provide inspection of all school buildings for fire and health hazards.

A fire in a Gaylord parochial school and an explosion in a Marine City school prompted the request, Bartlett said.

Michigan must do all it can to encourage the development of community colleges, Bartlett said.

"We have 16 community colleges in operation . . . by 1970 we must at least double this number," Bartlett said.

★ ★ ★

Communities require state financial assistance because their local tax resources "are being stretched to the limit" for other school costs, he said.

Gov. John B. Swainson will talk to the 500 school superintendents tonight at the final session of their winter meeting.

AAA Claims Couzens Still Is Best Route

A recent report by an Automobile Club of Michigan survey team shows that despite construction work James Couzens Highway remains the best route for South Oakland County motorists in that area.

Comparative distances and times follow:

To James Couzens and Wyoming by the Lodges Expressway, 8.9 miles, 24 minutes, 40 seconds; by Grand River and Wyoming, 8.6 miles, 29 minutes, 40 seconds.

Hunt Brutal Slayer of Girl

A pathologist's report, issued as a huge hunt was pressed for a vicious killer, said today that rape was indicated in Geraldine's slaying.

Dr. Daniel Glaser of Kalamazoo made the report after an autopsy. Police announced its results.

★ ★ ★

The body of the shy, auburn-haired, freckle-faced girl was found late Thursday in the basement of an abandoned farm house. She had been waylaid near a bus stop Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Two state troopers found her body while checking abandoned farm shacks during the search triggered by the finding of her blood-stained lunch sack and books at her bus stop.

Lt. Fred O'Donnell of state police, who told newsmen "I wish I hadn't gone in," said, after viewing the basement-slaying scene:

★ ★ ★

Geraldine's skull was caved in by several blows, Glaser said. Blood was found on two bricks and a rock about the size of a large grapefruit near the body.

The girl died within an hour after she was accosted minutes before 8 a.m. Wednesday, the pathologist reported.

★ ★ ★

"All indications are that the killer is someone local," O'Donnell said, "but we have a lot of checking to do before we can put the clamps on anybody."

ALL PARENTS FEARFUL

★ ★ ★

Attendance at South Haven's three schools was reported "about normal" although many parents were reported escorting their children to school, even for distances as little as two blocks.

The lieutenant said there was little doubt that the girl had been pulled into a car.

O'Donnell said, "We're looking for a young man. The car we want answers the description of a car that has been seen in the area

The driver of the car, Roy A. Wilcox, 21, of 3790 Coleport St., Orion Township, told police he didn't see the boy until it was too late to stop. He was not held.

The accident occurred on Joslyn Road south of Collier Drive at 5:55 p.m.

Wilcox was driving north on Joslyn at 25-30 miles per hour, he told police.

The boy was pronounced dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital. He suffered head and internal injuries in the accident.

President-Elect Dumps Stocks

From Our News Wires

PALM BEACH, Fla.—President-Elect John F. Kennedy has removed his personal fortune, which may be as large as $10 million, from the field of speculative investment for as long as he is in the White House.

Preparing for his inauguration Jan. 20 and wanting to avoid possible conflict of interest although not required by law, Kennedy recently disposed of all stock holdings and reinvested the proceeds in government bonds — federal, state and municipal.

Pierre Salinger, his press secretary, told newsmen in response to questions that the president-elect's total holdings now consist of such bonds, plus the houses he owns in Washington and at Hyannis Port, Mass., and three trust funds set up for him and his brothers and sisters by their father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

Salinger said the president-elect's income from these trusts —set up in 1926, 1936 and 1949— amounts to about $100,000 annually, after taxes. The income before taxes reportedly is about $300,000 a year.

Assuming interest at the rate of about 4 to 5 per cent, the funds could have a principal value of close to $10 million. Kennedy has other holdings, including the undisclosed value of investments he converted into government bonds.

★ ★ ★

Salinger would not discuss Kennedy's net worth, but he did say the president-elect decided to sell his stocks without being required to do so by law.

Joseph P. Kennedy's fortune has been estimated unofficially as between $200 and $300 million. He began setting up trust funds for his children in 1926. The trusts are split seven ways — an equal share for each of the seven children of Joseph P. and Rose Kennedy.

The trusts were added to again in 1936 and 1949. Three years ago the president-elect at the age of 40 received a quarter of the principal held in trust for him. Two years hence, he will receive another quarter.

Groups Urge Return of 2 Negroes

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Faculty, civic and religious groups urged today that two Negro students return to class at the University of Georgia until the state and federal governments complete an investigation of racial rioting that resulted in the Negroes' suspension.

★ ★ ★

Police, state highway patrolmen and university officials strengthened their defenses, however in expectation of a new surge of rioting should the two Negroes be ordered back by a federal judge in Macon, Ga., this afternoon.

Rumors swept the campus last night that demonstrations were being resumed, but actually the campus was unusually quiet.

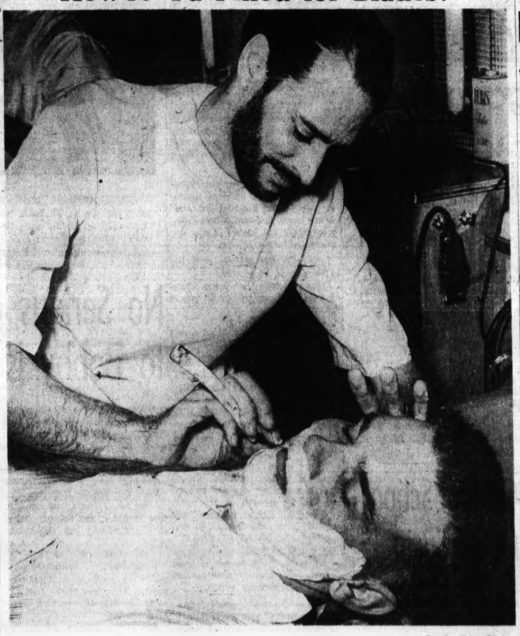

The Negroes, Charlayne Hunter, 18, and Hamilton Holmes, 19, both of Atlanta, were taken out of the university by highway patrolmen early yesterday after a riot that left five policemen hurt and windows smashed in the dormitory where Miss Hunter lived.

Legislature Gets Budget Bequest for Pontiac Area

State Department Says Children's Unit Needed at Hospital Here

More than $2.2 million for plant expansion in the Pontiac area is being sought by the State Mental Health Department, including planning funds for an 80 to 90 bed children's unit at Pontiac State Hospital.

In budget requests submitted to the legislature in Lansing, the department is seeking $1,138,000 for Pontiac State Hospital and $1,066,000 for the Lapeer State Home and Training School.

For the whole state, the department is asking for a $26 million budget increase during the next fiscal year. The largest increase, more than $15 million, was asked for new construction, special maintenance, remodeling and additions.

Dr. Charles F. Wagg, mental health director, said $932,000 was sought for construction of a service building for food handling and maintenance at Pontiac State Hospital.

Plans already have been prepared, he said, under previous legislative approval.

The department is seeking $35,000 for preparation of plans for a $750,000 children's unit.

"This is part of our program to develop special units for emotionally disturbed children as all of our state hospitals," said Wagg.

Wagg said he had unsuccessfully sought approval of the planning funds in several previous budgets.

"We need such units for the better care of children already existing within the state hospital system."

The close-to-80 children under 18 years of age presently at Pontiac State Hospital are housed in special wards in some cases, Wagg said, but in many others are intermingled with adults.

"Children have their own special needs and should have a specially designed unit for themselves to meet these needs," said Wagg.

NEED PONTIAC WING

Another $26,000 is being sought, Wagg said, for planning of a new administrative wing at Pontiac State Hospital.

★ ★ ★

For the Lapeer home, the department is seeking $200,000 to complete a 200-bed nursery building. Plans for the first $200,000 section are in the contract stage at present, said Wagg.

Another $800,000 is earmarked to begin a $1.2 million, 200-bed custodial building while $26,000 is sought, Wagg said, for planning of

Barber Prepares for Centennial

Beard Grows Despite Reaction

But the itching is over and Earl Castle Jr. is well along with a lusty centennial beard.

Castle's quarter-inch growth, started Jan. 1, is not the first centennial stubble in Pontiac.

"It'll be worth it," says Castle, dreaming that the first beard of his life will become the longest, fullest or at least the blackest of Pontiac's centennial crop.

Centennial officials keep their mirth covered by sedate smiles. Neither condoning nor condemning beards at this point, they've kept most of their plans under cover, so far, for the June 17-24 official celebration, fearing that to let the cat out of the bag now would take the zest out of centennial fun later.

But it's no secret that the centennial will begin officially to encourage beards when the traditional Brothers of the Brush start marching, probably around March 16 — Pontiac's 130th anniversary as a city. The signal to enter beard-growing contests will probably come then.

Meantime, enthusiasts like Castle are on their own as far as centennial planners are concerned.

For Castle, who hasn't tried to kiss his wife, Earline, in three days, the beard has brought changes at his home, 305 E. Pike St.

★ ★ ★

Daughter Peggy, 5, covers up the prickly growth with one hand as she searches for some cheek in kissing her father goodnight.

And son Earl, 11, has become thoughtful.

"He just looks at me as if he's wondering if he's going to have to look like this when he grows up. I don't think he likes the idea," said Castle. The Castles have two other children, Katrina, 9, and Shirley, 3.

Castle's boss, Perc Secord, who runs the Capitol Barber & Beauty Shop, 580 W. Huron St., encourages centennial beards, although he's not sporting one himself.

Secord isn't worried about the shaving trade falling off. He's looking forward to a new source of business — beard trimming.

Area Cooks Oversubscribe 'Fantasy of Foods' Event

At noon on Thursday there were approximately 300 more requests for cooking school tickets than available seats. Pontiac cooks, remembering how they enjoyed the 1959 school, were quick to request tickets for this year's "Fantasy of Foods."

Those without tickets will be admitted on the "first come, first served" basis just before the start of the program each day. The Pontiac Press sponsors these programs, but the demonstrations are put on by home economists from the National Livestock and Meat Board.

This non-profit organization, with headquarters in Chicago, is dedicated to research and education on foods. The programs will include new information on food preparation, new facts about nutrition and help on planning better meals for the family.

The doors at Pontiac Central High School will open at 1 p.m. each day. Cliff Wiegand will entertain on the electric organ before each session.

Dozens of prizes will be given away every day with special prizes on the last day, Friday. There will be grand prizes of an electric and a gas range.

Coupons for these prizes must be deposited ahead of time, but winners need not be present on Friday. No one connected with the Pontiac Press or their families is eligible for the grand prize and winners must be 18 years of age.

Balmy Weather Will Remain— No Dip in Sight

Winter is bound to catch up with us — but temperatures will hit the 60s again tomorrow, the weatherman says. Tonight will be partly cloudy with a low of 28 degrees.

Saturday is expected to be partly cloudy with a high of 42. The outlook for Sunday is a little warmer and continued fair.

Morning southwesterly winds at five miles per hour will become eight to 18 miles tonight.

★ ★

Twenty-eight was the lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The reading at 1 p.m. was 45.

Many From Oakland Going

Dems Inaugural-Bound

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL

It will be destination Washington, D. C., next week for a great many Democrats from Oakland County. They'll be in the throngs watching the inauguration of President-Elect John F. Kennedy.

Most of the local Democrats, some of whom have been planning since Kennedy's election in November, and others who are still making up their mind whether to make the trip, are going on their own. There's no organized group from the county making the trip.

One exception is a group of Hazel Park Democrats headed by the Zigmund J. Niparkos and the Morgan Seals.

Plans for a special train for the Michigan delegation going, headed by Gov. John B. Swainson and his wife Alice, have fallen through, according to Mrs. Mildred Jeffrey, in charge of many of the reservations for inaugural events.

She said she has found it difficult to keep an up-to-date list of those from Michigan — she believes the state's delegation will be around 300 — because so many are making plans on their own.

★ ★ ★

"The inaugural is a public ceremony and anybody that wants to take a chance of getting close enough to see the events can," she said.

MANY INVITED

Many local Democrats are proud recipients of engraved invitations from Kennedy and Vice President-Elect Lyndon B. Johnson, but will not be able to accept. Money, some say, while others say the press of business, and lack of accommodations in Washington.

Having to skip the historic events are County Chairman James M. Glan and his wife Sally and Mrs. Harriett Phillips, candidate for vice chairman of the state party, and her husband Robert.

Not planning to miss an event are the Richard J. Clasbys of Oak Park. Mrs. Clasby is Kennedy's cousin. Clasby met his wife when he roomed at Harvard with Kennedy's younger brother Edward.

THEY'LL MISS OUT

Having to pass up the events are the Donovan G. Gillmores, of 463 S. Opdyke Road, Pontiac Township. Donovan received $100 toward the trip for being a top fund raiser, but Gillmore said he doesn't believe the $100 "will get me far."

★ ★ ★

Among some mentioned as going East are: the Robert L. Fentons of Huntington Woods; Dr. and Mrs. Leon Fill of Huntington Woods; Mrs. Jack Moscowitz of Huntington Woods; Dr. and Mrs. Howard H. McNeill of Bloomfield Hills; the Avern Cohns of Royal Oak; Dr. and Mrs. Sam Holperin of Royal Oak.

John was treasurer of the Citizens for Kennedy in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Letts Jr. of Southfield are reported going.

Mrs. Jeffrey said she had heard that Dr. Robert T. Hatt, director of the Cranbrook Insti-

Press to Publish Civil War Map

In Saturday's issue, The Pontiac Press will carry a full-page color map of the first year of the Civil War, as well as a thrilling account of that fateful year, which began with the shelling at Fort Sumter.

You'll want to save both as a handy reference in this, the Civil War Centennial year.

The Battle of Bull Run, which so embarrassed the North, and the bottling-up of Southern shipping will be recalled, among other noteworthy happenings.

SUPERSTITIOUS? — If so, better be wary today. It's Friday the 13th! Fortunately, 19-year-old Shelagh O'Rourke of Sylvan Lake is not superstitious. It was a mere coincidence that the black cat crossed her path as she walked under a ladder, tripped and sent a mirror crashing to the floor, said Shelagh. Nevertheless, she decided to spend the rest of the day in bed.

Schools Can Use Good Used Clothing

Next week Pontiac public schools will sponsor their fourth annual used clothing drive.

The idea for a local drive rather than participating in one of the national drives was inaugurated in January 1958.

All of the used articles of clothing carted off to school by pupils will benefit Pontiac school children.

Clothing gathered during the drive which runs next Monday through Friday, will be distributed to one of three local charitable organizations.

★ ★ ★

The agencies acting as clearing houses for the Pontiac school system are the Salvation Army, 26 W. Lawrence St.; St. Vincent de Paul Society, 11 W. Wilson St.; and Dorcas Society, Seventh-Day Adventist Church, 168 Mt. Clemens St.

Cochairmen are Paul C. Allison, director of child accounting and school relations, and Gerald White, coordinator of elementary education.

Once gathered in bundles at the city's elementary and secondary schools, the maintenance department takes over distributing the clothes to the respective agencies.

During the school year, the clothing is made available to needy children in the school district.

TEACHER KNOWS

Unusually it is a teacher or principal who notices that a pupil needs shoes or a warm winter coat. In most cases the need is created by temporary unemployment in the family.

★ ★ ★

The parents are contacted and given a clothing requisition form with which they can get the needed items free from one of the three local organizations.

"The clothing orders processed last year by these agencies made it possible for hundreds of students to go to school who otherwise might not have had the opportunity," said Allison.

Last year the schools collected 15,280 pounds of clothing.

"Persons having clothing to contribute who don't have children in school may call the nearest school and collection will gladly be made by the Parent Teacher Association," he explained.

"There is particular need at this time for winter clothing of all sizes but summer clothing will be accepted for use later in the year.

"We need shoes, rubbers and galoshes badly. Adult clothing and bedding will also be accepted."

In the three years of the drive so far some 42,524 pounds of used clothing have been bundled up and carried to school by pupils.

During the last school year there were 410 requisitions issued three needy families and 336 were filled. Seventy-four of the requisitions issued were never presented at an agency.

This was an increase over the total of 352 orders issued during the 1958-59 school year.

Clothing that is too old and worn for use is sold and usable clothing bought with the money.

★ ★ ★

In other school years there have been two drives. However, next week's drive will be the only one this year.

JFK, Rusk Discuss Policy, Organization

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-Elect John F. Kennedy confers today with the new administration's secretary of state, Dean Rusk, on foreign policy problems and organization matters.

Rusk flew to Palm Beach Thursday night after indicating in Washington, in testimony to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, that the Kennedy regime plans no immediate sharp departures in dealing with trouble spots around the globe.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy announced he is retaining two Eisenhower administration officials.

THOSE RETAINED

Joseph Charyk will continue to serve as undersecretary of the Air Force.

Thomas D. Morris, now an assistant director of the Budget Bureau, will be assistant secretary of defense for supply and logistics.

END EMBARGOED MATTER

Gudeman, 54, is a former vice president and at present a director of Sears, Roebuck and Co. Last year he became a general partner in the investment banking firm of Lehman Brothers. He is a graduate of Harvard College.

In his Washington testimony, Rusk was questioned by senators about his views on Red China, Cuba, summit conferences, American fliers being held by the Soviet Union, and U.S. relations with the nation's allies.

On Communist China, Rusk said he sees no present prospect of the United States establishing normal diplomatic relations with the Red regime. But he said, "The presence in mainland China of a large and powerful force is one of the facts . . . we cannot ignore."

★ ★ ★

As for the anti-American Castro government of Cuba, Rusk said he is very much disturbed by that situation. He called for intensified efforts to get the truth to the people of Latin America, through the United States Information Agency.

★ ★ ★

Henning, 39, will succeed Lewis Crew, who was named to a newly created position of administrative assistant three weeks ago.

Henning will assume his new position Monday.

The new principal has been teaching in Pontiac since 1954. He spent four years at Whitfield School before being transferred to Emerson.

★ ★ ★

He holds a bachelor of arts degree with a major in psychology from Hillsdale College, and a Master's degree with a major in elementary school administration from Wayne State University.

Henning, who lives at 812 Markle St., also holds a permanent elementary teaching certificate. He is married and has two children.

★ ★ ★

Administrators said Henning was chosen for the job because he is "a well balanced person and a superior teacher, and has shown superior interest in curriculum development and in instructional improvement."

Temperatures Unusually Warm Across Country

By The Associated Press

Unseasonably mild temperatures and fair skies dominated much of the continent Thursday. Precipitation was generally confined to extreme areas.

★ ★ ★

Rainy weather continued to dampen the Pacific Coast from Northern California to Puget Sound though amounts were light. Showers and thundershowers also continued in Louisiana and Northeastern Texas. Port Arthur, Tex., had more than 2.75 inches of rain in 24 hours.

★ ★ ★

The West Coast again had temperatures in the 60s, with 40s and 50s in the extreme Southwest and east from Texas through the Gulf states to the Atlantic. Florida had readings in the 60s.

Arctic air brought readings in the teens to the Northeast. The Colorado Rockies and Northern New England again had below zero readings.

High Bids May Delay Sewer

Delays can be expected in construction of the Evergreen sanitary sewer line in Bloomfield Hills and Bloomfield Township after bids received yesterday proved higher than engineer estimates.

The bid is some $46,000 over the construction estimate of $402,000, according to Donald W. Ringler, deputy director of the department of public works.

Ringler said the bid, the lowest among eight received for the project to serve some 13,000 residents of the two areas, was referred to the department's consulting engineers for tabulation. A report will be made to the board of public works on Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Ringler said the higher bid would delay the start of construction on the five-mile extension of the Evergreen interceptor until summer.

He said the original bonding resolution for $490,000 probably would have to be amended to around $550,000, and an amendment made with the State Municipal Finance Commission to cover the increase.

The proposed sewer line starts in the vicinity of Cranbrook School in Bloomfield Hills and branches west along the Rouge River, with one branch going to Telegraph road and the other southwest to the vicinity of Quarton and Lahser roads.

No Serious Opposition to Bobby Is Scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some Republican needling—but no serious challenge—appeared to be in store today for Attorney General-designate Robert F. Kennedy.

Kennedy, 35, a brother of President-elect John F. Kennedy, goes before the Senate Judiciary Committee for a hearing on his selection to direct the Justice Department's far-flung law enforcement activities.

★ ★ ★

None of the committee's Republicans said they intended to oppose Robert Kennedy's appointment or try to obstruct Senate confirmation.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, a committee member, said Republicans plan extensive questioning to compile a record to which they can point if Kennedy later stubs his toe.

The hearing on Kennedy, probably the most controversial of any of the new Cabinet appointments, was called in advance of official submission of his nomination.

★ ★ ★

Other Senate hearings were called today on Orville L. Freeman to be secretary of agriculture, Arthur J. Goldberg to be secretary of labor, Abraham A. Ribicoff to be secretary of Welfare and Stewart L. Udall to be secretary of the interior.

In addition, the Senate Finance Committee asked Douglas Dillon, Secretary of the Treasury-designate, to return for further questioning.

The Foreign Relations Committee completed a hearing Thursday on Dean Rusk to be secretary of state, and the Commerce Committee announced it will have a hearing next Wednesday on Luther H. Hodges, named to be secretary of commerce.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., a Judiciary Committee member, said he has received more mail opposing Kennedy than any other Cabinet appointee. A similar report came from an aide of Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., another committee member.

Hruska said the general gist of this mail was that Kennedy would never have been considered for attorney general if he were not the president-elect's brother and had not managed his campaign.

Cuba Hints Plot on Guantanamo

The charges could mark the start of a major effort to drive the United States out of the big naval bases.

Premier Fidel Castro was expected to address a mass meeting outside the Cuban "White House" later today.

Government-controlled newspapers and radio broadcasts said Manuel Prieto Gomez, a Cuban employed at the base, was taken unconscious to a Guantanamo city hospital Saturday after more than 11 hours' questioning by U.S. officers.

Prieto was quoted as saying the Americans fed him "several pills" to force him to confess stealing a list of personnel stationed at the base.

"They tortured me after accusing me deliberately and unfairly . . . " the press quoted him as saying.

"I was kicked and threatened by an officer who said 'now that we've severed (diplomatic) relations, I'll tear your head off unless you confess'."

Diplomats speculated that Castro would adopt some new anti-U.S. propaganda line since his much-advertised American "invasion" has not materialized.

6 Senators to Be at Vote Recount in Escanaba

LANSING (UP) — A six-man Senate committee will go to Escanaba later this month to supervise the recount in the race for the seat of Sen. William E. Miron, D-Escanaba.

Miron won the Nov. 8 election in his district by 124 votes over Kent T. Lundgren of Menominee, who asked for the recount.

Named to the committee were Sens. Clyde H. Geerlings of Holland, Farrell E. Roberts of Oakland County and Thomas F. Schweigert of Petoskey, all Republicans; and Harold M. Ryan of Detroit, George C. Steeh of Mount Clemens and Raymond D. Dzendzel of Detroit, all Democrats.

Asks 75-M.P.H. Limit on Divided Highways

LANSING (UP) — A bill proposing a maximum speed limit of 75 miles per hour on divided highways that are part of the interstate defense system has been filed for introduction in the State Senate.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Haskell L. Nichols, R-Jackson, would make a speed of 60 m.p.h. on the highways.

Troops Advancing Into Equator Province; Dag Flies Back to U.N.

From Our News Wires

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo—Two columns of troops loyal to ousted Premier Patrice Lumumba were reported advancing into Equator Province today, indicating he might be on his way back to power.

Lumumba support sems to be sweeping the Congo again, and the growing crisis sent President Joseph Kasavubu and army chief Col. Joseph Mobutu flying off to Thyville to discuss the situation with Lumumba.

The fiery, 35-year-old pro-Soviet Lumumba was arrested by Mobutu's troops after he fled virtual house arrest in Leopoldville last month.

But with forces loyal to the deposed premier apparently on the way back, anything can happen.

Mobutu airlifted 100 or more paratroopers to Lisala in his native Equator Province Thursday to keep it from going the same way three other Congo provinces already have gone — over to Lumumba's supporters.

DAG RETURNS

U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold flew back to New York from Africa today to answer Soviet charges that he helped Belgium organize an attack on pro-Lumumba forces in the Congo from the neighboring U.N. trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi.

After visits to the Congo and South Africa, Hammarskjold abandoned plans to go on to India and hurried back for the continuation of council debate o the Congo.

★ ★ ★

The council began debate Thursday on a Soviet complaint that Belgium helped Mobutu troops mount an attack from Ruanda-Urundi Jan. 1 against troops holding the Congo's Kivu Province for Lumumba. The Lumumbist rebels repelled the attack.

EXPECT RESOLUTION

Diplomatic sources said they expected Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic to submit a resolution critical of the Belgian action.

Back in the Congo U.N. forces fanned out across Kivu Province to rescue white nuns, missionaries and medical teams from racial violence threatened by rebel Congo soldiers.

★ ★ ★

U. N. patrols toured the province to evacuate isolated Red Cross teams who wished to leave the area.

A U.N. spokesman said 29 American missionaries and their families are now under U.N. protection in Bukavu, capital of the province controlled by Lumumba supporters.

Jobless Count Jumps 400,000 to 4.4 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment jumped by more than 400,000 in December—about three times the normal increase—to a post-World War II high for the month, government officials disclosed today.

The sharp jump, concentrated in steel, autos and other manufacturing industries, pushed unemployment to more than 4.4 million, close to 7 per cent. It was 6.3 per cent in November.

Economists consider a rate above 5 per cent a symptom of weakness in the economy.

A further jump in joblessness was expected this month. A normal increase would be about 1.1 million.

several times in the last few days."

More than 60 law enforcement officers, aided by an airplane and helicopter, had been checking woods and meadows in the vicinity of Geraldine's home when troopers Francis Davis and William Hahn found her body about 5 p.m.

The parents of the 5-foot-1, 100-pound girl called state police at 9:25 p.m. Wednesday when they learned Geraldine wasn't at the home of relatives in South Haven and hadn't attended classes that day.

Rose and Ward Williams said they had offered their eighth-grade daughter a ride to school Wednesday morning but she had declined, explaining she enjoyed the bus trip with fellow pupils at South Haven's Central School.

Don't Have an Accident

Watch Those Emotions!

CHICAGO (UPI) — The real killer in many a fatal highway accident is "out of control emotions," according to psychiatrist Karl Menninger.

Menninger, head of the world famous Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kan., writing in an insurance publication said, "There's a little suicide in every man's heart."

★ ★ ★

"Give him such a powerful weapon as a car, inflame his inhibitions, irritations or frustrations, then add alcohol or fatigue and the murder or suicide may get committed," Menninger wrote.

★ ★ ★

"We know relatively few accidents are wholly accidental," he said. "The number of accidents ascribable to pure chance must be well below 15 per cent."

"No healthy-minded person ever says—'It can't happen to me.' He might meet a fool, you know, or he might even temporarily be one."

The Day in Birmingham

Six Detroiters Accused of Stealing Motel Linen

BIRMINGHAM — Six Detroiters, two men and four women, were to be arraigned today in Municipal Court on charges of stealing linens from a motel here where they were employed.

The group was to appear before Judge John Emery. They are charged with the theft of some 400 sheets and pillow cases from the Birmingham House Motel, 145 S. Hunter Blvd.

Dale Lee, manager of the motel told police that sheets, bedspreads and towels disappeared between Oct. 1, 1960 and Jan. 7, 1961.

Those to be arrigned are porters and maids. They are: Leonard Ruffins, 28; Ozell Jones, 32; Anna P. Smoots, 26; Beaulah William, 27; Marie Lowry, 45; and Rena McInnis, no age given.

The Community House Senior Men's Club has elected Charles Staples of 1366 Towermite St. president of the organization for 1961.

The club, founded four years ago, meets at the Community House every Tuesday and Friday.

Three special-assessment bond issues in Bloomfield Township have been approved by the State Municipal Finance Commission.

Included were bonds for construction of sewers in the Colonial Hills subdivision, $103,000; and in the Old Mill Road and Chula Vista Lane area, $32,00.

A $23,00 bond issue for blacktopping Jackson Park Drive also was approved.

Noninterest bonds are being issued in $50 denominations, redeemable in three years, to cover the costs of construction, according to Mr. Glabach.

He said that a new lending library for students of metaphysics will be opened in the near future at the Divine Science center.

The department is asking a total $186,434,409 for operations and new construction during 1960-1961. This compares with $79,347,250 granted for the current fiscal year.

The department asked for $20,465,720 for new construction, remodeling and additions in the new budget, against $5,161,250 in the current budget. The request for operating funds was $7 million over the current year and the $12 million sought for special programs was up $3 million.

Groups Ask Return of Two Negroes

to have the suspension set aside. Bootle ruled yesterday that a state law cutting off funds to any integrated school was "clearly, patently unconstitutional."

The meeting was a long one and an estimated 100 left before it was over, but about 300 remaining signed a resolution insisting that the two suspended Negroes be returned to class and that "all measures necessary to the protection of students and faculty and to the preservation of orderly education be taken by appropriate state authorities."

The resolution commended university officials for their stand but regretted "that officials of the state of Georgia were unable or unwilling to protect the rights and property of the university and its students."

The Athens Junior Chamber of Commerce, the University Chaplains Association, and a Presbyterian church group launched similar campaigns.

The Presbyterian group began a telephone campaign backing up the university officials, and the Athens City Council adopted a resolution commending students, faculty and police in restoring order in Wednesday's riot.

Cancer Sidelines Remarkable Doctor Dooley a Second Time

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — One of the most remarkable young men of our time, Dr. Tom Dooley, lies gravely ill in New York's Memorial Hospital. The gifted American doctor who cofounded Medico and worked himself to the bone in its cause, has had a serious recurrence of the cancer found in his chest wall in 1959.

★ ★ ★

In his book, "The Night They Burned the Mountain," Tom relates how he got the Word. He and his assistants were carrying on their work of attending to the sick poor of Laos though war was beginning to rage closer around them.

In the midst of things he received a bewildering telegram, through Laos army sources, reading: FROMPE TEK COMAND URAS DOCTOR DOOLEY URGENT RETURN TOUS IMMEDIATELY.

Dooley had to be pried out of there. He feared the natives would conclude he was chickening out in the face of danger. And that Medico was undergoing a money crisis.

It never occurred to Dooley that the call to come home was associated with a small tumor which a fellow doctor had cut out of his chest some time before and shipped to Hong Kong for study.

Between planes in Bangkok he rank into Hank Miller of USIA and his wife Annie, old friends. He poured out to them his concern over not being able to get any more information out of Dr. Comanduras in New York—and guessed he was being brought home for something as trivial as a TV show.

Months later, in his book, Dooley wrote:

"Hank looked at me and coolly said, 'I know why you are going home. I will tell you, Tom.' I leaned forward, took a deep breath and pleaded, 'What's wrong, Hank?' My tension was at its peak. I thought I would burst. Slowly, deliberately, he said, 'The tumor that Dr. Van Valin removed has been diagnosed as a secondary stage of malignant melanoma.'"

★ ★ ★

"I had no reaction. The words entered my head like a fist jammed into a pillow. I felt nothing. I neither felt elation at finding that Medico was not in a state of chaos, nor did I feel great dejection at finding out that I had a hideously malignant growth of cancer. It just seemed for a moment that all was quiet. All was tranquil for now. At last, I knew."

★ ★ ★

God love him.

BULLETIN:

Shell discloses the nine ingredients in today's Super Shell—and the remarkable things they do to give your car top performance

Super Shell gasoline, with nine ingredients, is now in Pontiac. Today's formula contains cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate—a new, improved version of TCP. Read how this patented additive increases mileage, releases power, and helps your car give top performance

A notice on each Super Shell pump promises that this gasoline will give your car top performance. Shell's scientists want you to know why they can make this promise.

Ingredient #1 is TCP for power, mileage and longer plug-life

Super Shell now contains an even better version of this famous additive. Its chemical name is cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate.

TCP additive can give your car up to 15 per cent more power; up to 17 extra miles per tankful; and can make plugs last up to twice as long.*

New TCP does this by neutralizing certain harmful effects of combustion deposits. It is scientifically formulated to keep them from glowing when hot—a major cause of power loss. Also to keep them from diverting your spark—a major cause of "missing."

This is petroleum that has actually cracked under 900-degree heat and catalytic action. Its heavier molecules have been shattered into livelier, lighter ones.

The result is a super-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.

Ingredient #3 is Alkylate, noted for knock control in hot engines

Alkylate—the ingredient that took the dream of 100-octane gasoline out of the lab and put it into the skies—is now in Super Shell. It controls knocking in hot engines at high speeds better than anything else yet available.

NOTE: The engine in your car may frequently turn even faster than the engines of a DC-7 at cruising speed. Think of this next time you are passing on the highway.

Ingredient #4 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks

You might think that two high-octane ingredients are enough for knock-free performance. But Shell's scientists have ears like musicians.

They insist on adding a special anti-knock mix. A mix, so effective, one teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating by five points.

This mix has the tricky job of regulating combustion so that Super Shell gives each piston a firm, even push—rather than a sharp blow which would cause a knock.

Ingredient #5 is Butane for quick starts on cold mornings

Butane is so eager to get going that Shell keeps it under pressure 400 feet below ground to stop it from vaporizing by itself. Think what this extra volatility means in cold weather. Your engine fires in seconds. There is less strain on your battery. And none on your patience.

Pentanes are made by tearing gasoline apart, much as you split kindling to start a log fire.

NET RESULT: Fast warm-up and top performance in a hurry.

Ingredient #7 is an "anti-icer" to check cold-weather stalling

Super Shell's formula is adjusted as often as eight times a year to beat the weather. For example, whenever the temperature is likely to be less than forty-five degrees, a carburetor anti-icer is added.

Why add anti-icer at forty-five degrees? Because, even then, frost can form in your carburetor just as it does in your refrigerator. It can choke your engine dead.

Ingredient #8 is gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside

Even the purest gasoline can form gum when stored. This can clog carburetors and foul automatic chokes. But, with Super Shell, you needn't worry. A special gum preventive does the trick.

Ingredient #9 is Platformate for extra energy, more mileage

It takes eight million dollars' worth of platinum catalyst for Shell to produce Platformate. But fortunately for you and for us, this precious stuff can be used over and over again.

The platinum re-forming process, which gives Platformate its odd name, converts petroleum into super-energy components—such as benzene, xylene and toluene.

These three alone release 11 per cent more energy per gallon than the finest 100-octane gasoline.

But make no mistake. This is not untamed energy. Far from it. The super-energy of Platformate is harnessed by the eight other ingredients in Super Shell, where it behaves so well you scarcely know it's there. That is until you note your extra mileage. After that, there is no doubt.

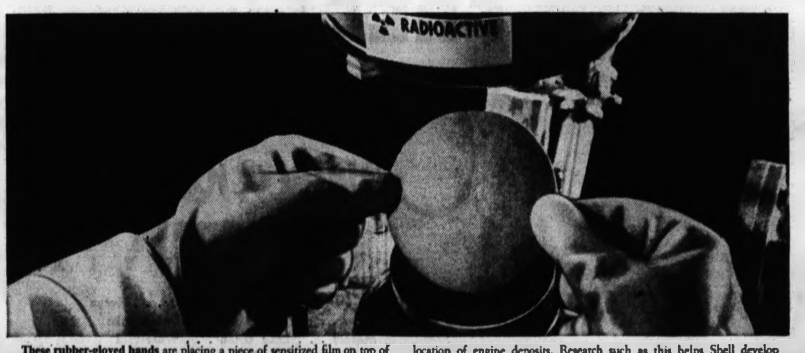

Test Super Shell for yourself

Try Super Shell next time you fill up. You'll soon feel and hear a difference in the way your engine runs.

That difference is top performance.

A BULLETIN FROM SHELL RESEARCH —where 1,997 scientists are working to make your car go better and better.

These rubber-gloved hands are placing a piece of sensitized film on top of a radioactive piston head. This produces what is scientifically known as a "radio autograph," from which Shell's scientists can study the nature and location of engine deposits. Research such as this helps Shell develop products that insure top performance from every size and shape of engine. New, improved TCP is a typical example.

Laotians Await Red Retaliation

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Laotian government's four newly acquired planes from the United States pounded the pro-Communist rebels' artillery positions 70 miles north of Vientiane today for the third straight day.

* * *

No reports were available so far on the damage but military experts said the Laotian pilots—trained in France and Thailand—probably would need more flying to sharpen their aim.

So far there was no sign of air retaliation from the Soviet Union, Communist China or North Viet Nam, which support the Pathet Lao rebels. But Western intelligence sources reported an old model Soviet spotter plane was observed directing rebel artillery fire on Monday, the day before the United States delivered the four propeller-driven trainer planes the government forces are using.

* * *

Use of the planes for attack missions raised fears among British and French diplomats here that the Soviets or Red Chinese would supply combat planes for use against the anti-Communist forces.

Abby Says: Get Ear Plugs

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When I was a young girl, I had to cut across a cow pasture to get to school. A couple of cows chased me once, making those terrible mooing noises, and I have been terrified of cows ever since.

ABBY

I've been married a short time, and have been having horrible nightmares about those cows. Then I discovered that my husband's snoring brought back the memories of those pursuing cows.

We have a very small apartment so I can't go into another bedroom to sleep. How does a wife sleep with a husband who snores?

SNORER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Go to a drug store and ask for "bee's wax ear plugs." They really work! There are several brands on the market but, curiously enough, most pharmacy clerks have trouble finding them. You have to be persistant!

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the letter from the woman who has been getting anonymous phone call telling he that her husband was stepping out on her. I was tickled pink when you told her to pay no attention to it.

Only last week I received such a phone call from a woman who refuses to tell me who she was. She said she thought I should know that my husband was seeing another woman. It just so happens I am not married. Sincerely yours,

DEAR ABBY: When people you otherwise enjoy ask personal questions, what is the best way to handle the situation? I have been asked by this certain woman how much I paid for my shoes, taxes and how much my gas and electric bill is. I tried saying, "I don't remember," but the questioning continues.

I have to associate with her so I don't want trouble, although I feel like saying "That's none of your business."

TOO POLITE

DEAR TOO: A person who would ask you what you paid for your shoes is starting at the bottom and working her way up to some dillies. With your sweetest smile and warmest tone reply, "I'd rather not say." Then change the subject.

★

DEAR ABBY: Next month I am going to the hospital to have my second baby. My younger sister offered to stay at my house and take care of my little girl, who is 3. My sister is 20, single, and is taking a week's leave of absence from her secretarial job to do me this favor.

I am ashamed to admit this, but I have been having terrible nightmares lately about a possible love affair between my husband and my sister while I am gone.

I trust my husband and also my sister, but my husband is very good looking, my sister is pretty and I am very plain. How can I change these arrangements without making insulting accusations?

WORRIED AND UPSET

DEAR WORRIED: Line up a housekeeper, thank your sister and tell her you've changed your plans. Offer no excuses, but for goodness sakes, don't tell her (or your husband) the reason for the change. Even though there is probably no basis for your nightmares, your peace of mind is what counts right now.

Don't Make Mistake of Assuming Things

By RUTH MILLETT

Far from asking too many questions, most adults don't ask enough.

We don't ask enough questions when we are buying, when we are making plans and arrangements, when we are accepting responsibilities, and when we are making important decisions.

And when plans don't turn out as we anticipated, when things aren't what we expected them to be, when what we thought was a sound decision turns out to be a poor one, when we get stuck with a purchase that isn't exactly what we wanted, we say helplessly, "I just assumed . . ."

And we feel cheated or put upon or stupid, depending on the situation, simply because we assumed too much.

Sometimes we don't ask questions because we don't take the trouble to figure out just what questions we should ask.

Sometimes we hesitate to ask questions because we don't want to appear naive or ignorant.

But whatever the reason for our not finding out what we need to know we usually excuse our negligence with that perfect alibi, "I just assumed . . ."

Once in a while we are honest enough with ourselves and others to qualify "I just assumed . . ." with "I guess I shouldn't have . . ." or "There was no reason why I should have . . ."

But more often we blame the other person for not making things more clear, more explicit.

When we assume instead of asking questions we can be pretty sure that a good part of the time our assumptions will be wrong.

Laotian Crisis Threatens Test of Strength but Not an All-Out Struggle

(Editor's Note: Laos has become a key point in the cold war. Thousands of words describing violent and counterclaims swirl around this small kingdom. What are the basic facts in this situation? Here is an appraisal by an experienced AP reporter who has worked in China, Japan and the Soviet Union — and spent most of the last six months in Laos.)

By ROY ESSOYAN

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Communist movement is chalking up gains in Laos. And the United States has little hope of reversing the tide without triggering full-scale war.

Most responsible officials here feel the United States will not take such a step unless Communist North Viet Nam invades Laos.

This leaves two alternatives:

1. A political settlement benefiting the Communists because recent military successes have placed them in bargaining position.

2. Continuation of the six-year civil war in which pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels now hold the initiative thanks to military aid and advice from Soviet Russia, Communist China and Communist North Viet Nam.

BIG WAR UNLIKELY

The Pathet Lao are doing fine without a Communist invasion, and the Communists traditionally stop short of triggering bigger wars than they can handle.

A massive land invasion of Laos from China or North Viet Nam is physically impracticable.

It would take days to move invading forces down treacherous mountain paths and through jungle trails. Only a few so-called highways exist in Laos. The invaders would have only the weapons they could carry on their backs because the terrain is too rugged to haul anything bigger.

Air invasion of Laos would be more practicable militarily, but practically no one here believes the Soviet Union and Communist China are prepared knowingly to precipitate an all-out war for Southeast Asia.

MAY EMBROIL OTHERS

A covert test of strength with East and West each aiding and supplying its side, yes, but not all-out war.

A major East-West clash in Laos could envelop most of Southeast Asia because of the location of this landlocked jungle kingdom.

Communist conquest of Laos would bring Communist borders to Thailand and South Viet Nam. Both countries have warned they are ready to fight to prevent this. Both countries are backed by the United States.

★ ★ ★

Communist China and North Viet Nam are equally concerned about possibility of a Western takeover of Laos because it would bring the West's frontiers to their borders.

It is generally believed both blocks would settle for a neutral Laos but each side wants Laotian neutrality to lean toward its side.

Souvanna Phouma, the former premier, considered by many as one of the few outstanding patriots of integrity in Laos, twice tried to make this sort of neutrality work. Both East and West apparently distrusted him. The Communists heckled him from one side, and the United States refrained from giving him wholehearted support.

CALLS ON SOVIETS

The United States has poured $300 million in aid, mostly military, into Laos in six years. The Soviets won a toehold during Souvanna's 15-week tenure. Feeling deprived of U.S. aid, he called on the Soviet Union for economic assistance.

The Soviets responded with an airlift of rice and gasoline, which was switched to arms and technicians when Souvanna fled the country last month and pro-Communist Laotian elements took over.

It is likely that 95 per cent of the two million people, easygoing subsistence farmers and villagers, know nothing of communism or democracy.

Most live in remote mountain and jungle villages. They do not even know that Laos won its independence six years ago. Many have not heard of Souvanna or of Prince Boun Oum, the current premier.

AID MEANS NOTHING

Some have benefited from American agricultural reform and irrigation programs and U.S. medical aid and sanitation measures, an estimated 2 percent of total U.S. aid to Laos.

A handful of devoted American agricultural specialists and health experts living the life of the primitive Laotians have won friends for the United States.

They are a drop of pure spring water in what is largely a sea of murk.

Will Pick Astronaut Very Soon

HAMPTON, Va. (UPI) — One of the seven Mercury astronauts will be chosen soon to take the first brief ride into space aboard an American missile. The flight is expected sometime in April.

This big step in America's man-in-space program is several months behind schedule. The manned rocket flight to an altitude of about 120 miles originally was planned for late last year.

The disclosure that one of the Astronauts would be picked "in the very near future" for the rocket ride was made Wednesday by Robert R. Gilruth, director of the space task group of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Gilruth and other officials gave newsmen a briefing on the Mercury program at NASA's Langley Research Center here.

The chosen astronaut will ride a one-ton Mercury capsule, boosted by a Redstone missile, on a 15-minute flight down the Atlantic missile range from Cape Canaveral, Fla. He will hit an altitude of about 120 miles before his sealed space cabin parachutes into the Atlantic some 200 miles from the launching pad.

Most adults cannot remember things that happened in their lives before they were 4 or 5 years old.

High Court Gets Mooney Appeal

Defense Lawyer Claims Extraneous Evidence Introduced at Trial

The State Supreme Court Thursday heard oral arguments in an appeal by Arthur C. Mooney, 42, a Waterford Township teacher convicted on a morals charge in Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

Mooney's attorney argued the prosecuting attorney should not have been allowed to introduce testimony in the case regarding the teacher's behavior with youths other than the one who filed a complaint against him.

Mooney also contended former Circuit County Judge Frank L. Doty was in error on several rulings. Mooney said he was deprived of his right to a fair and impartial trial by "the improper, inflammatory and prejudicial testimony . . . and the erroneous rulings and charges of the trial judge."

A Circuit Court jury convicted Mooney of gross indecency on May 6, 1959. A 16-year-old youth filed the complaint against Mooney.

Judge Doty sentenced Mooney, who said he was drunk at the time of the incident, to 2 to 5 years in Jackson Prison.

★ ★ ★

Carlton S. Rosier, Mooney's attorney, asked the court to discharge the defendant or reverse the verdict and order a new trial.

Oakland County Assistant Prosecutor Robert Templin Jr. contended there was no basis for Mooney's arguments that did not get a fair trial.

Nine out of 10 homicides in the U.S. are cleared by police through arrests but only about one in five larcenies can be prosecuted.

Slav Paper Hits U.S.

BELGRADE (AP) — Komunist, a publication of President Tito's Communist party, accused the United States Wednesday of "tolerating, encouraging and helping the bombing and burning of sugar fields" in Cuba. The weekly newspaper said these activities were part of pressure exerted on Cuba ranging from economic blockade through attempted political isolation to subversive activities.

Chairmanship Stirs Fight Inside State Senate GOP

LANSING (UPI)—A new look in legislative wrangling developed Thursday when Senate Republicans took on each other in a slam-bang affair over a committee chairmanship.

Sen. John W. Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, lined up enough support among newcomers to the upper chamber, long-time GOP dissenters and the 12 Democratic senators to bid for the top job in the Senate Business Committee.

It was slated to go to Sen. Charles R. Feenstra, R-Grand Rapids, a 24-year veteran in the legislature.

The so-called "veto bloc" of Senate conservatives, long accustomed to battling with Democrats, refused to concede the chairmanship to Fitzgerald.

They called for adjournment until next Tuesday instead.

Sen. Frank D. Beadle, R-St. Clair, chairman of the Republican caucus, said the conservative-controlled Committee on Committees, which makes the legislative assignments, would meet Monday in another attempt to iron out a compromise.

"At the moment, there is no compromise," Beadle said.

"I think you've got more to gain than you have to lose by waiting until next week," Beadle told Sen. John H. Stahlin, R-Belding, one of Fitzgerald's chief backers.

"Don't overplay your hand, John," Beadle warned.

The majority leader had reportedly backed Fitzgerald for the post in the committee on committees, but was outvoted even after threatening to step down as boss of the Senate GOP.

* * *

Fitzgerald, the 36-year-old lawyer who is a son of the late Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, said he sought the post for two reasons:

"I think I can do a better job than Feenstra can," he said, and added that he thought many of the Senate Republicans were tired of knuckling under to the conservative bloc.

The fight broke into the open after a day of clashes—mostly in closed caucus sessions—interrupted only by a joint session of lawmakers to hear an address by Gov. John B. Swainson and by lunch.

After he received backing for the business post from the GOP caucus, Fitzgerald announced he was ready to bring the issue to the floor if necessary.

* * *

CAR CRACKS IN TWO — A race between two cars on Indiana 23, southwest of South Bend, brought death when this car split in two after hitting a utility pole. Steven Borkowski, 17, of rural South Bend, a passenger, died as the vehicle smacked the pole while rounding a curve. Borkowski's brother and the driver were injured. The halves of the car were 150 feet apart, and the pole was snapped off.

Frankie? Oh, He'll Be Natty, Natch

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Frank Sinatra today uttered his first—and final—words about that publicized inauguration wardrobe designed by Don Loper. Frank says he likes the clothes and will wear them.

"This is the story of my life," Sinatra said in a phone call from Washington to this reporter. "I buy some new clothes and it becomes a big crisis. I never once opened my mouth to anyone.

"I like the clothes and I will wear them to whatever affair formal attire is called for."

Some published reports quoted a spokesman for Sinatra as saying he was miffed at Loper for giving out details of the wardrobe. These reports also said Sinatra would not wear the clothes because he was angry.

'WHAT I ORDERED'

Not so, said Frank.

"If I hadn't liked the clothes, I would have told Don so when I picked them up. They are just what I ordered."

Loper is noted as one of the top designers of women's fashions. Col. Charles Northrup, Loper's longtime business partner, commented, however: "Don designs furniture, houses, men's haberdashery—anything. He's a designer, period, and an old friend of Frank's. Frank's wardrobe is classic, correct and legitimate in every detail."

76 Trombones to Blare in Film

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Those famous trombones are coming to the screen, all 76 of them, with 110 cornets close at hand.

They'll be followed by rows and rows of the finest virtuosos and "Music Man" Robert Preston, too. The vastly popular musical is reaching the shooting stage at Warner Brothers, where plans are in the capable hands of Morton Da Costa.

THOMAS

He is the man who transformed the Meredith Willson saga of early-day Iowa into a stage hit, and he will be directing the picture, too. A plain-spoken man with a mop of rust-colored hair and a face full of freckles, he gave a report on the film project.

WON'T BE TOO LONG

"It won't be one of those terribly long pictures," he said. "It will run around 2½ hours, which is enough. After all, most Broadway shows run only 2½ hours, including an intermission. You can't hold an audience's attention much longer.

"The film version will follow the same line of the play, though it will be opened up. There were a lot of things I couldn't do on the stage because of limitations of space and time. When Bob sings '76 Trombones,' we'll take it out of the school gymnasium and into the street. Likewise, the final chase can be done all over town."

This may come as a blow to Iowa pride, but the entire film will be shot in Burbank, (California is an Iowa colony, anyway.)

"I thought of shooting it back there, but it would be impossible to duplicate the 1912 flavor," said Da Costa.

"It happens that Warners has a very good Midwestern town set. With 90 days of shooting and many intricate numbers, I'd rather be close to the studio's facilities."

Friars Club Honors Gary . . . While Alive!

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What has made Gary Cooper outlast all other movie stars?

A lot of famous names grappled with that question this week with only fair results. The occasion was the Friars' Club annual money-raising banquet. This year the funnymen chose to honor not one of their own but durable, unchanging Cooper.

It was a good idea. Too often Hollywood waits until the obits to pay tribute to its greats.

The tributes ranged from the awful to the eloquent. In the former class was a parody sung by Tony Martin. "The most beautiful man in the world." In the latter were Carl Sandburg's words about Cooper: "A tradition while he's living."

Audrey Hepburn tried verse: "A Gary Cooper is very rare—there is only one—and there will never be another—under the sun." Sam Goldwyn observed, "Gary doesn't say very much, but what he says makes a helluva lot of sense."

Others played with the star's "yup"ism. Said Henry Ford II: "He was in talking pictures five years before anyone realized he could talk."

* * *

Milton Berle, in a smashing monologue called him "Randolph Scott with novocain lips." Jack Benny, George Jessel, George Burns, Art Linkletter and J. N. Warner also played the comic theme with mixed results.

* * *

Cooper observed that since his start in films 35 years ago "a lot of celluloid has flowed under the bridge—and a lot of it is showing up on the late, late show.

Then he told the crowd at the Beverly Hilton international ballroom: "I want to thank each and every one of you for coming here tonight. Never has so much fuss been made by so many over so little. The only achievement I am really proud of is the friends I have made in the community."

Calls Civil War Pageants Backdrops to Integration

NEW YORK (UPI) — NAACP Executive Secreaary Roy Wilkins said today the current Civil War centennial celebrations "are merely 'historical backdrops for the continuing action downstage'" on the integration scene.

Wilkins issued a brief statement condemning the suspension of two Negro students at the University of Georgia because of anti-integration demonstrations.

The NAACP official said Southerners "fought other men with arms according to the rules of warfare" in the Civil War.

Tension Mounts in Haitian City

Call for Democratic Elections; People Hear om Excommunications

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) —A graveyard execution, unconfirmed reports of more arrests of Catholic priests and a series of noise bombs added to tension in Port au Prince today as striking students prepared for possible clashes when schools reopen Monday.

* * *

President Francois Duvalier's regime, which expelled Roman Catholic Bishop Remy Augustin this week and earlier deported Archbishop Francois Poirier for allegedly aiding the strike, was denounced as a police state in student leaflets calling for democratic elections.

Censorship under martial law prevented Haitian newspapers and radio from telling the predominantly Catholic population in this Negro republic of the Vatican's excommunication of those responsible for the expulsions. Haitians learned of it from the radio of the neighboring Dominican Republic.

* * *

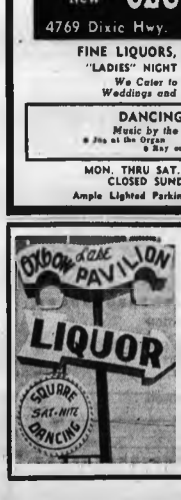

The papal nuncio called a meeting of five bishops from the provinces where unconfirmed reports said more priests have been arrested.

Safecracking Clues Probed

Waterford Twp. Police Continue Investigation of Thefts at 3 Stores

Waterford Township police are still working on clues and have questioned several suspects on three safecracking jobs that took place in three large stores this week.

Thieves entered the Foodtown supermarket at M59 and Williams Lake Road early Sunday. They smashed open a safe and escaped with an inner steel section containing some $4,000 according to the store supervisor William Reed.

At the same time township police investigated the adjoining Highland Variety Store and found locks on the back door smashed and the safe chiseled open from the bottom.

The owner of the store, Maurice Liptzer, said that between $3,000 to $4,000 had been in the safe and $500 in merchandise was missing.

Early Wednesday two men entered the Wrigley supermarket in the Drayton Shopping Center. Bound and blindfolded the night porter, Russell Paar, opened a safe and escaped with $300.

Woman Is Hospitalized After Drayton Collision

An Independence Township woman involved in an automobile accident near the Drayton Plains Elementary School yesterday remained at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today for observation.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Leslie Johnson, 29, of 5836 Flemings Lake Road, may have received head and internal injuries, her doctor said.

Her car crashed into one driven by Mrs. Robert J. Coad, 28, of 3316 Frembes St., Drayton Plains, when Mrs. Coad drove onto Sashabaw Road after letting her children out at the school, according to Pontiac state police.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Coad, who was uninjured, was ticketed for failing to yield the right of way.

Stocks Continue Upward Surge

★ ★ ★

As in other sessions, recently, gains of key stocks were mostly small and slight losses were scattered through the list.

Higher on balance were oils, autos, chemicals, steels and utilities.

Kerr-McGee was a standout among oils, rising 2 points to 70¾ on 4,200 shares, then trimming the gain a bit. Texaco, Royal Dutch and Jersey Standard gained fractions.

Ling-Temco jumped back into prominence on a block of 5,000 shares, rising ¼ to 29¾.

★ ★ ★

Youths Replace Adults

Switchover of Prisoners Begins at Camp Pontiac

Operation Switchover began at Camp Pontiac Thursday with the replacement of 30 adult prisoners by 30 young offenders transferred here from Southern Michigan State Prison at Jackson.

The prison camp situated in the Pontiac Lake State Park Recreation Area, White Lake Township, is being converted to a youth corrections camp.

Up until now it has served to house some 120 adult male prisoners employed in maintaining state parks and recreation areas in Oakland County.

These men are being transferred to a new state prison camp near Lexington in Macon County, where they will continue in a program similar to that which has been conducted here through the cooperation of state conservation and correction departments.

The switchover at Camp Pontiac is expected to be completed by sometime in February, according to Seymour Gilman, head of the corrections department's prison camp program.

At that time Camp Pontiac will be used exclusively to detain reformatory age male youths between the ages of 16 and 20 inclusive. The maximum number of inmates will be held at 100, said Gilman.

The youths will be employed in the maintenance of state parks and recreation areas locally. They are coming here from the state prison at Jackson and from the state reformatory at Ionia.

Purpose of the changeover is to further divorce younger prisoners from the influence of hardened criminals at Jackson. Those coming to Camp Pontiac will be considered good security risks by authorities. Others will continue to be detained at Ionia.

The present switch is also necessitated by an increasing number of young offenders in the state, according to Gilman.

NEED MORE ROOM

"We need more room for the 16-20-year age group as 40 per cent of commitments are running under 21 years old and 20 per cent under 19," he said.

★ ★ ★

Youths coming to Camp Pontiac will have between 6 and 18 months of their sentences left to serve, and they will include no serious offenders, he added.

According to the new program, the youths will do the same type of conservation work the older men have been performing in the area.

The purpose remains the same — to provide prisoners with construction labor that will enable them to learn such trades as carpentry, forestry, masonry and machine work.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

In addition, the youth will undergo more intensive counseling at the camp and will have the advantage of furthering their formal education.

Elliott Will Tell Chairmanship Decision Monday

Oakland County Republican Chairman Arthur G. Elliott Jr. will hold a press conference at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Birmingham to announce whether he'll be a candidate for state chairman of his party.

The spokesman said he prepared two speeches for Elliott to study while in Florida — one announcing his candidacy and the other declining.

Rob Waterford Twp. Man of $10 in Pontiac

Gordon McCombe, 42, 2120 Pompey St., Waterford Township, reported that he was strong-armed and robbed of $10 Pontiac police said today.

McCombe said the robbery took place at 5:35 p.m. yesterday at the rear of 78 Hagley St.

He Makes Time to Help a Boy

Robert C. E. Gibson of Waterford Township knows that time is only as valuable as the use to which it is put.

It was just another meeting of his church's men's club in 1955, but what he saw there made a difference. It was a skit performed on the work of the then new organization, the Big Brothers of Oakland County.

What he saw that night convinced him.

Gibson, the father of a growing boy and girl, volunteered to give of his time as a big brother. He saw the need, thanks to the skit.

William L. Clark, executive director of the local organization designed to provide fatherly guidance to troubled boys forgotten by their real fathers, wishes there were more men like Gibson.

Gibson, 45, of 2854 Barkman St., took the time to help. He has a word of advice for those who might be pondering a move like his but aren't sure they have the time.

"I don't buy this alibi of "I don't have the time," " Gibson, an executive with J. L. Hudson's Eastland branch said. "The men who do join up to help are quite surprised to find that it doesn't take so much time."

"And what is time when you know you're helping these kids?" Gibson said.

Clark adds: "This whole thing is to insert the boy into your time instead of making time for the boy."

The organization's motto is: "No man ever stands so straight as when he stoops to help a boy."

To instill that warmth of life with a father, Clark's organization likes to see the big brothers visit their little brothers a minimum of once a week.

Twenty-four boys — five in Pontiac — aren't so fortunate as Gibson's "Ronnie," the fictitious name he gives his little brothers. Clark has no big brothers left over to assign to them.

This being National Big Brothers Week, Clark has launched a recruitment drive to supplement the 144 big brothers now helping the organization.

"Ronnie" is picked up from his Royal Oak home by Gibson on his way home from work. Like any 14-year-old boy, he loves a thick chocolate milkshake, a coke now and then, or a good "flicker." There have been weekends when "Ronnie" has stayed as a guest at the Gibson home.

But the most important thing is that "Ronnie" knows somebody cares.

Jan. 23 Last Day for Primary Vote Registrations

County Clerk-Register Daniel T. Murphy Jr. announced today that Jan. 23 is the last day in which voters can register for the Feb. 20 spring primary in townships, villages and some cities.

★ ★ ★

Murphy said anybody who has moved since the November election must reregister in the new location.

Voters in the biennial spring election will name their party's nominees for many local offices from township supervisor down. The candidates then will be elected April 3.

Future Ballerinas Still Have Time to Register

Those interested in learning ballet have until the end of January to register at Waterford Township's Community Center, according to instructor Mrs. Carol Wolfe.

The reason for closing registration this month is to allow concentrated training for the annual ballet recital to be held in mid-June, Mrs. Wolfe said.

3 Dem Hopefuls Left as Davis Drops Out

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — The Democratic Party here is left with three candidates for the position of township supervisor now that incumbent LeRoy Davis has announced he will not seek re-election.

Leonard F. Terry is the only Republican whose name will appear on the ballot for the office in the Feb. 20 primary.

Democratic candidates are Roy Wahl, Donald Schell and James Davis, who is no relation to the present township supervisor. Schell is vacating his post as township trustee to run for the higher office.

LeRoy Davis, the 58-year-old supervisor who has been in office for two terms, said his name will appear on the primary ballot because he had filed a nominating petition which he failed to withdraw before the Jan. 5 deadline.

Although his name will be on the ballot, he said, he will not run in the April 3 election since he wants to devote more time to his business. He owns a grocery store in the township.

Will Be Used Here by Universities

OK Unique Social Work Training Unit

The Pontiac Board of Education last night approved the establishment in Pontiac of a social work field training unit unlike any other in the United States.

Board members voted their unanimous approval of a request from the Wayne State University School of Social Work to set up a field training unit for visiting teachers in school social work for at least five years.

The entire program, it is estimated, will cost the Pontiac School District $5,000.

Present plans call for the unit to be used by the schools of social work at WSU, Michigan State University, and the University of Michigan.

FIVE DIFFERENCES

The proposed unit would differ from other student teacher programs in the following ways:

1. It is a training program for graduate students only.

2. It is a unit proposed for the training of school social workers (visiting teachers) only.

3. It is a cooperative endeavor with three universities.

4. It is financed through a grant from the United States Public Health Service.

5. The request is made for a minimum of five years.

At that time the university was applying for a grant for the unit to supplement the existing teaching and traineeship grant in school social work at WSU.

Recently the supplementary grant was approved by the Federal Health Service and now is combined for payment with the teaching and traineeship grant.

The proposed unit has full approval of Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, and Esther L. Belcher, state consultant for the visiting teacher program.

"The Pontiac school district was chosen because it meets all the requirements needed for establishment of such a unit," said Charles B. Brink, dean of the WSU School of Social Work.

Among the requirements were a well-established, high caliber school social work program; a location convenient to the three universities; and a program which already has provided field instruction in case work for graduate students in social work.

Also a key factor was Pontiac's school population, representing students from a variety of social, economic, cultural and racial backgrounds, according to Brink.

"We will have to furnish appropriate housing and facilities and the opportunity for a field instructor and students to offer visiting teacher service in selected settings within the school district," said Dr. Philip J. Proud, assistant superintendent.

Proud outlined the proposed plan to the board and recommended that it be approved.

"Suitable housing can be provided at our Pupil Personnel Services Center, 87 Franklin Blvd., if a fire escape is installed and third-floor space is remodeled.

"These changes can be made for about $5,000," Proud said.

"This, to our knowledge, is the only program of its type in the area of school social work in the United States or elsewhere," Proud disclosed.

The grant will pay for a field instructor, a secretary, psychiatric consultation, the purchase of permanent equipment and expendable supplies, and travel expenses for the instructor and students.

Fiscal responsibilities will be carried entirely by WSU and personnel will be expected to conform to administrative policies concerning the visiting-teacher program now existing in Pontiac.

NEEDS MASTER'S DEGREE

The field instructor will be required to have a master's degree in social work, among other requirements.

Both Brink and Joseph P. Hourihan, training director for the school of social work, said that the school's 12-member advisory committee will be expanded in the near future to include a representative from the Pontiac school district.

The unit will house six students per semester — two from each of the three universities.
