Raise Tax Limit, Defeat Hospital Plan

Bond Issue Fails 60 Pct. Majority, Affecting Levy

'55 Rate to Drop 50 Cts.
Per $1,000 Because of
Earmarked Mill

Voters Monday approved a charter amendment increasing the city's tax limit from 10 mills to 12½ mills but failed to approve by the required 60 per cent majority a $3,000,000 bond issue for hospital expansion.

However, only 1½ mills of the increase ($1.50 per $1,000 valuation), earmarked for public improvements, can be used. The other $1 per $1,000 valuation, set up for hospital expansion, cannot be used because of the bond issue defeat.

The tax limit boost is effective in 1955.

If at any time in the future voters approve a hospital bond issue, the 1-mill authorized yesterday for hospital purposes could be taxed, according to City Manager Walter K. Williams.

The majority approval of city electors voting needed to pass the tax proposal was obtained, 6,963 voting "yes" and 6,080 voting "no". A majority of the property owners approved the hospital bond issue, but the "yes" vote fell 497 short of gaining the required 60 per cent of those voting. The vote was 6,240 in favor and 4,908 opposed.

Pontiac's tax rate will drop 50 cents per $1,000 as a result of voters' decisions on the two proposals, according to Williams.

Because the city charter amendment increasing the tax limit stated that $1 of the $2.50 per $1,000 could be used only for hospital (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

House to Vote on Vets' Bonus

Orr Suggests Limiting Payments to Overseas
Servicemen Only

LANSING (AP)—The House scheduled a vote today on paying the state bonus to veterans of the Korean War period. The measure received preliminary approval Monday night with little opposition.

Rep. W. Reed Orr (R-Battle Creek) suggested that the bonus might be restricted to those who actually served in Korea, but he did not offer an amendment to the proposal.

The proposal, already approved by the Senate would submit to the people in November, an $80 million bond issue to pay a bonus to Michigan veterans who served in U. S. armed forces between June 27, 1950 and Dec. 31, 1953.

The veterans would be paid at the rate of $10 a month for domestic service and $15 a month overseas to a maximum of $500.

The suggestion that the bonus should be limited to veterans who served in Korea was attacked by Rep. Leam Harrelson (D-Pontiac) who said that the state should compensate all veterans for sacrificing their time in the armed services.

"Those who stayed home built up pension credits, seniority and many other benefits in civilian occupation," he said.

At the same time, the House passed a Senate-approved bill requiring that all motor vehicles built in the state after Jan. 1, 1955 be equipped with automatic direction signals. The measure also requires such signals on all trucks over 14-feet in length as soon as the bill becomes effective.

Winners in Court Race

MAURICE E. FINNEGAN

CECIL MCCALLUM

Voters in Monday's city election returned Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan to the city bench and elected Cecil McCallum to a similar post. The municipal judges serve for six years.

Finnegan and McCallum Elected Municipal Judges

Judge Maurice E. Finnegan and Cecil McCallum were elected yesterday to serve six-year terms each in Pontiac Municipal Court.

McCallum beat Odin H. Johnson who was appointed by the City Commission in January to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge Charles P. Webster.

Judge Finnegan piled up an impressive margin over the other candidates for the two judgeships.

The other defeated candidate was G. Edson Hallock. The vote was: Judge Finnegan, 8,502; McCallum, 6,384; Johnson, 5,220; and Hallock, 4,346.

Judge Finnegan and McCallum will begin the new terms July 4.

Johnson said today that he would resign as judge effective April 15. This would permit the City Commission to appoint McCallum to replace Johnson until the new term begins.

Judge Finnegan has served as municipal judge since 1941, except for two years in the Army in World War II.

The 48-year-old jurist is a native of Pontiac and lives at 173 N. Johnson Ave.

McCallum, 52, has been a Pontiac resident since 1910 and has been an attorney for 21 years. He lives at 72 Dwight Ave.

Both Judge Finnegan and McCallum took early leads and held them.

Showers and thunderstorms starting tonight are expected to continue in the Pontiac area Wednesday, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau. A low of 54 to 58 is predicted tonight with a high of near 70 on Wednesday.

Monday's low of 26 rose to 60. The temperature stood at 60 at 8 a.m. today.

The rainfall at 8 a.m. today measured .05 inches.

South to southwest winds are expected to reach 15 to 25 miles an hour with gustiness during thunderstorms.

Dets. Charles Hewitt and Thomas Mitchell, along with Ketchel, apprehended Herschel Brown, 37, of 30 Stout St., 10 minutes later as Brown was entering a taxi at Orchard Lake road at Sylvan Ct., about five blocks from the holdup scene.

Brown, who Ketchel said had worked for him about a year ago, had part of the money in his possession. Under questioning later, he admitted hiding $80 in change behind a house on Edward street.

Capt. Clark M. Wheaton, chief of Pontiac Police detectives, said Brown, an ex-convict is being held pending issuance of an armed robbery warrant. All the money was recovered.

Ketchel, en route to his home at 128 Illinois Ave. shortly after 6 p.m., said he made a grab for the pocket knife, missed, and ran to a nearby grocery store to phone police.

The victim, Eugene Ketchel, 34, owner of the Peoples Fish and Poultry Market at 82 S. Saginaw St., said he was unaware of the bandit's presence until he was ordered to stop on Voorheis road and surrender the money bag lying on the front seat.

Ike Says War Unlikely if U.S. Is Set to Strike

Says Reds Would Shun
Risk, but Cites Danger of Miscalculated Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told the nation and the free world last night Russia is unlikely to risk war so long as this country stands ready to strike back swiftly with all its atomic might.

The President declared, however, that Americans must prepare "very coldly and very carefully" against the danger that power-loving men in the Kremlin might "in a fit of madness or through miscalculation" plunge the world into a hydrogen-bomb-age holocaust.

As for the United States, he said, "We're not going to start a war" despite this country's advantage in atomic weapons.

Eisenhower went on all radio and television networks in a relaxed, half-hour plea for a sober facing of the atomic era facts of life—and a fervent warning against the perils of "jitters" and hysteria over communism, investigations of communism or the threat of depression.

"We don't have to fear!" he said. "Of course, there are risks, but we do not have to be hysterical."

"We can be vigilant; we can be Americans. We can stand up and hold up our heads and say, America is the greatest force that God has ever allowed to exist on his footstool. As such it is up to us to lead this world to a peaceful and secure existence, and I assure you we can do it."

In a plain effort to soothe some of the controversies boiling in this country, and to quiet H-bomb nervousness abroad, Eisenhower broke some new ground in this mainly (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Pontiac (Illinois) Gets Roundabout Local Phone Call

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP)—Firemen in Pontiac got a telephone call early today from Tulsa, Okla., to put out a fire—not in Tulsa, but five miles north of Pontiac.

The fire was in a storage tank containing 150,000 barrels of crude oil at the Sinclair pumping station.

Workers at the station, however, couldn't make a telephone call to the fire department. Lightning, which started the fire, also disrupted telephone service to Pontiac, a city of 9,000 about 100 miles south of Chicago.

But it did not affect a direct telephone line to the company's headquarters in Tulsa, so a call was put through there and the fire reported. Tulsa relayed the call to the Pontiac Fire Department.

The fire was confined to the top and sides of the tank, and did not spread to six other tanks.

Voluntary Test to Be Safe

Head of County Physicians Explains Stand on Vaccine

Dr. Robert J. Mason today said there's nothing alarming in Michigan Medical Society's executive committee statement that it will not recommend the new Salk polio vaccine be used until there is further assurance that the serum is safe.

The president of Oakland County Medical Society commented that the state committee's stand "doesn't show any change of attitude at all."

"We've all said from the first," he said, "that not one drop of this serum will be given any child until we get a written statement from the U. S. Health Service that it's absolutely safe."

Meanwhile, Dr. Mason said, the county will go ahead with plans for the vaccine field tests.

Local plans include a public meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Stevens Hall, West Pike and Williams streets, when health officials and National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis personnel will answer audience questions about the vaccine and the tests.

Some 35,800 youngsters in the first, second and third grades of Oakland County's schools, are scheduled to take part in the field test of the new polio vaccine.

The two Germans were released after four hours of interrogation by the Soviets. But the Americans still are being held.

The Army announcement said the Americans were 200 yards inside the U.S. zone when they were seized and dragged into Soviet territory.

Commissioner Paul A. Kern was not a candidate for re-election in District 3 where William W. Donaldson defeated Earl J. Smith 580 to 448. Donaldson, 48, operates an insurance agency. He was District 3 commissioner from 1944-48.

Victor in District 5 was John A. Dugan who totaled 1,404 votes to win over John H. Ridgway who had 841. Dugan, 45, is an employee of Pontiac Motor Division.

Present District 6 Commissioner Ronald C. Hallenbeck, who was defeated for nomination in the primary, received 305 write-in votes.

The present commission will meet next Thursday, probably at 8 p. m. in Pontiac Municipal Court, to canvass the election returns.

The new commission will hold an organizational meeting Monday to elect the mayor and mayor pro tem. It will hold its first regular meeting the following night.

Kerr Optimistic on Tax Cutting

Believes Senate Will Approve Bill to Raise Personal Exemptions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.) said today his guess is that the Senate will approve a move he co-sponsors to cut income taxes by increasing personal exemptions of each taxpayer and dependent.

He said in an interview he hopes this action will be taken in the Senate Finance Committee but that, if it is not done there, he believes success will come on the Senate floor.

The Finance committee, on which the Oklahomaan serves, opens hearings today on a big tax revision bill to which Democrats hope to attach the income tax reduction.

The Eisenhower administration strongly supports the revision bill, which would make assorted tax cuts totaling $1,400,000 to business and individuals in its first year of operation. Just as strongly it opposes any new income tax slash.

Senate Republican leaders voice confidence they can beat the income tax cut as things stand now, citing indications that the business downturn is leveling off.

Democratic sponsors say it is too early to tell about the economic situation.

Both sides agree that the economic trend of the next two months probably will determine the outcome of the income tax fight in the Senate. The Finance Committee plans to end its public hearings April 23 and finish writing its version of the bill in May. It could be June before floor debate is finished.

Democrats have used the business decline as their principal argument for the income tax cut. They say efforts should be made to build up mass purchasing power instead of increasing incentives for business expansion, which the administration says is a main purpose of the revision bill.

Kerr is a co-sponsor with Sen. George (D-Ga.) and Frear (D-De.) of an amendment to raise income tax exemptions by $200 this year, a 4 1/2-billion-dollar tax cut, and by $400 in 1955 and thereafter, an eight-billion reduction. Kerr implied that smaller cuts would be pushed if the original plan were beaten.

In the House, Democrats tried for a $100 exemption increase, a tax cut of 2 1/2 billion. They lost 210-204 in a vote which largely followed party lines.

Pistol-Packing Minister Instills Fear in Thief

ADA, Okla. (AP)—The Rev. Billy Keen, pastor of the Assembly of God Church, and the Rev. Kenneth McCollough of the First Presbyterian Church, set out in search of the burglar who ransacked offices in both churches.

Keen, hot on the suspect's trail, borrowed a police revolver. He saw the man downtown, being questioned by a policeman. When the suspect saw Keen, he ran.

The Minister fired two shots into the air and ended the chase. The money was recovered.

Bandages Fail to Hamper Smile Over Good News

A wide bandage on David Jackson's face couldn't hide a big smile today when he learned that his injured dog, Rusty, soon would be coming home.

The pet German Shepherd suffered a broken leg Saturday when struck by a car in front of the 13-year-old boy's home at 168 E. Wilson Ave.

Despondent over the dog's injury, Dave accidentally poured water on a coal fire Sunday, scalding his cheek and neck.

"I feel fine now," said Dave when told that Rusty's leg would mend. The veterinarian didn't say when the dog could leave the animal hospital, but promised him it would be as soon as possible.

Front Line Safest in Next War, Montgomery Says

LONDON (AP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery thinks the safest place to be if a war breaks out is "in the front line with the fighting soldiers"—because he believes both sides will be using atomic weapons from the outset.

The hero of El Alamein, now NATO's deputy supreme commander in Europe, explained his view in a radio interview last night.

"If you're in the forward area, he (the enemy) cannot drop on you explosions which have a killing effect over a wide area because he will kill all his own soldiers too."

Or Gay Little Chicks

Styrofoam, Pipe Cleaners Become Easter Bunnies

CHICAGO (INS)—Styrofoam, the plastic that looks like snow but doesn't melt away, can provide housewives with unusual Easter decorations for the table.

Whimsical bunnies can be concocted from it with some pipe cleaners, sequins and ribbon.

Use a ball of styrofoam about the size of a pom-pom for the head and one about as big as a baseball for the body.

Stick them together with a pipe cleaner bent like the coil of a spring.

Similar coils can serve as the arms and pipe cleaners fashioned into hoops as the feet the "animal" stands upright on.

Give the bunny pipe cleaner ears, too. Bend the pipe cleaner in the middle into a point and then bend it over one again to be "floppy."

Sequins set in place with glue or small pins can be used for the eyes and nose.

Place a small bow of ribbon at the neck.

That's all you have to do for a "boy" bunny. For a "girl" add a bit of net for a skirt.

You can dye the pipe cleaners yellow, lavender, pink, pale blue or chartreuse to carry out the seasonal theme.

For variety, you can fashion chicks from a small glove of styrofoam.

Pin on some yellow cotton or feathers for the tail. Glue on a beak and wings of gilt paper. The chicks have pipe cleaner feet, of course.

Styrofoam in assorted shapes can be bought for a few pennies, usually in five-and-dime stores or

MAKE OVER PAGES Ike Says Confident, Vigilant Nation Can Keep Peace

WASHINGTON — Following is a transcript of President Eisenhower's speech to the nation Monday night:

Good evening, my friends. This evening I want to talk to you about a very big subject. I want to talk to you about this great country of ours. I should like to ask you to make a quick survey of its strengths, its problems, its apprehensions, and its future.

Particularly, I would like to talk to you about what you and I can do about its future.

Now, if we first take a look at the strength of the country — and I know it is the most productive nation on earth, that we are richer by any standard of comparison than any other nation in the world. We know that we have great military strength, economic, intellectual, but I want to call your particular attention to spiritual strength.

Now, I don't think it's amiss in this season of the year that has so many religious overtones to recall attention to this fact, that in conception our nation has a spiritual foundation, as announced by the men who wrote the Declaration of Independence.

Do you remember what they said? "We hold that all men are endowed by their Creator with certain rights." That is a spiritual conception that our founding fathers decided upon. And now, today, that spiritual strength is just as great in its requirements as it has been in our whole history.

By this I mean it is very important that you and I value the spiritual things that they had in mind when they founded this country.

For example, the things that were stated in the Bill of Rights, the things that announce the rights that every single individual has in this country; his equality before the law; his right to worship as he pleases, think as he pleases and talk as he pleases just so long as he does not trespass on the rights of others.

Spiritual Strength of Nation Vital

And the other part of the spiritual strength we need today is the same stamina and courage and gallantry that our forefathers had in defending those rights.

I want to call your attention to this particular part of the American strength because without all this everything else goes by the boards. We must be strong in our dedication and our devotion to America. That is a first element of our entire strength.

But all in all, this total strength of America is one of those things we call and the world calls unbelievable.

Now, why then, with all this strength should we be worrying at times about what the world is doing to us? Actually we see threats coming from all angles, internal and external, and we wonder what's going to happen to us individually and as a Nation.

Now, perhaps I can illustrate some of the reasons for this concern of today. Thirty-seven years ago tomorrow our country entered the first World War. At that time I was a lieutenant serving with the United States Infantry in Texas.

My regiment was armed, as were all other regiments, with the same kind of equipment, at least as to type and general character and power, as were the regiments that fought the Spanish American War.

Now, only a year ago the hydrogen bomb was exploded in the Pacific. Last month another series of these was undertaken. Now, this transfer of power, this increase of power from the mere musket and the little cannon all the way to the hydrogen bomb in a single lifetime is indicative of things that happened to us.

They rather indicate how far the advances of science have outraced our social consciousness, how much more we have developed scientifically than we are capable of handling — emotionally and intellectually.

No Easy Answers to Major Problems

So that is one of the reasons that we have this great concern of which the hydrogen bomb is merely a dramatic symbol. None of the questions that bother us today has an easy answer, and many of them have no answers at all, at least in their complete sense.

We may only do our best and from there on, make sure that we are doing all that human beings can do to meet these problems. This is not greatly different from what the ordinary American family does.

It has the problem of meeting the payments on the mortgage, paying for the family car, educating the children, laying aside some money for use in case of unexpected illness.

It meets its problems courageously. It doesn't get panicky. It solves these problems with what I call courage and faith, but above all by co-operation, by discussing the problem among the different members of the family and then saying this is what we can do; this is what we will do, and reaching a satisfactory answer.

Now, the problems of America are the problems multiplied a million fold. That is what we are talking about tonight. Now, I am not going to try to talk about all the problems.

We can talk about water conservation and soil erosion and handling of the public debt and all of these things that bother us day by day in our daily lives, but I am going to confine myself this evening to a discussion of just four or five things.

For example, we are concerned about the men in the Kremlin. We are concerned about the atomic age. We are concerned about the loss of our international faith in exposed areas of the world, the loss of them to the Communist dictatorship.

We are worried about Communist penetration of our own country. We are worried about the possibility of depression, and the loss of jobs among us here at home.

Sees Great Need to Face Facts

Now, the greater any of these apprehensions, the greater is the need that we look at them clearly face to face without fear like honest, straightforward Americans so we do not develop the jitters or any kind of panic, that we do not fall prey to hysterical thinking.

Now, sometimes you feel almost that we can be excused for getting a little bit hysterical because these dangers come from so many angles, and they are such different kinds, and no matter what we do they still seem to exist, but underlying all of these dangers is this one thing, the threat imposed upon us by aggressive Communism, the atheistic doctrine that believes in statism as against our conception of the dignity of man, his equality before the law; this is the struggle of the ages.

Now, the H-bomb and the atomic age, they are not in themselves a great threat to us. Of course not.

The H-bomb is a threat to us only if a potential aggressor who also has the secrets of the H-bomb determines to use it against us, and against that then we have to make our provisions to make certain that sensible men have done every possible thing they can do to protect ourselves against that.

Now, as Communism seeks to divide us, to set class against class, good people against good people, when those good people should be standing together in defense of liberty and against Communism, because of that we must take counsel among ourselves and stand together and let nothing tear us apart.

So let us first then take these problems one by one and think of some of the counterbalancing factors to set over against the threat itself.

By this I mean, let's take the Kremlin.

The Kremlin — when we say that word we mean the Politburo and what may be its designs against us, what may be the dictators' intentions with respect to war or aggression, his plans to enslave the world.

All of these, of course, war poses the greatest threat because of its destructive qualities. Now, let's take the first of what I would call our counteracting or counterbalancing factors.

Kremlin Is Aware of Great Risks

The very fact that those men by their own design are in the Kremlin means that they love power. They want to be there. Whenever they start a war they are taking the great risk of losing that power. They study history pretty well. They remember Mussolini; they remember Hitler.

They have even studied Napoleon very seriously. When dictators overreach themselves and challenge the whole world they are very likely to end up in any place except a dictatorial position, and those men in the Politburo know that.

So we have the first of these counterbalancing factors against the possibility of their declaring war.

There are many risks of every kind in war. Among other things the Russians have a system of satellites, captive satellites. Now, they know again the risks of indulging in war when you have captive satellites.

Napoleon went into Russia in 1812 with exactly that kind of an army. The Grand Army of France had been reinforced by Prussians and others of the regions that Napoleon had conquered, and whose soldiers he had impressed into his own army which, as he met his first disaster in Russia, began to desert him. The Russians know all that. That very system of satellites could be, in a war of exhaustion, a very great source of weakness.

Soviet Is Weaker on Economic Front

They have, as compared to us, economic weaknesses, and after all, a strong economy is necessary if you are going to push through to victory a modern war.

The Russians produced last year something less probably than half a billion barrels of oil. We produced two and a quarter billion by ourselves.

We produced something over twice as much steel as they produced. Now, these are strong elements in economy when you are going to use so much of your production to wage a war, particularly a war of exhaustion.

Now, all of these things are deterrents upon the men in the Kremlin. They are factors that make war, let us say, less likely.

As long as they know that we are in a position to act strongly and to retaliate, war is not a decision to be taken lightly.

Yet I admit, and we must all admit, that there remains a possibility they might do this in a fit of madness or through miscalculation.

The atomic age, of course, as I mentioned before, is dangerous because those people have these secrets and they have exploded, as they did some months back, such a bomb.

But we know with respect to that bomb, we are not going to start a war.

It's not going to be used by our initiative, and I have just talked about the sobering effect of the risks of war upon the men in the Kremlin.

Of all those sobering effects none is greater than that retaliation that would certainly be visited upon them if they were to attack any of our nations or any part of our vital interests aggressively and in order to conquer us.

In addition to all this, we devote ourselves to civil, continental defense in order to make certain that we have the best possible chance to live through such a catastrophe, to inflict upon the enemy such losses as we can.

But since insanity still exists, I again say there is still an element in that threat that we must calculate very coldly and very carefully.

Red Infiltration Is Real Danger

Now, the next thing that we fear, or concerning which we are apprehensive, is this idea of Communist infiltration into our own country, into our Government, into our schools, into our unions, into any of our facilities, any of our industries, wherever they may be and wherever those Communists could damage us.

Now, it would be completely false to minimize the danger of this penetration. It does exist. We know some of them are here. Yet let me give you now some of the counterbalancing factors. First of all, this fear has been greatly exaggerated as to numbers. In our country today there are possibly some 25,000 doctrinal Communists.

The FBI knows pretty well where they are, but the headlines of the newspapers would sometimes have you think that every other person you meet is a Communist. Actually 25,000 out of 160 million people means about one out of 6,000, but they are dangerous. Now, our great defense against

AP Wirephoto

REASSURES FREE WORLD—President Eisenhower flashes his familiar grin as he faces the camera just before going on the air last night in a plea for a sober facing of the atomic era facts of life. He assured the free world that America can lead the world to a peaceful and secure existence.

those people is the FBI. The FBI has been doing for years in this line of work a magnificent job.

They are a great bulwark and if any one of you can notify them today about real, valid suspicions you have, they will be on the job doing something about it. They're that kind.

So great is the story that they have to tell that I am not going to attempt to tell it tonight. Instead I have asked the Attorney General on next Friday night to come before you and give you a complete account of what the FBI has been doing about this.

Asserts Probers Must Use Care

Now, along with this fear of Communist penetration comes another fear that's related to it, the fear that we will use improper investigative methods, particularly through Congressional committees to combat that Communist penetration.

Now, as I pointed out before, it is minute. The great mass of governmental people, governmental workers, civilian and uniformed, people in our schools and everywhere else we can think of are just as dedicated as you and I. They are just as loyal.

But this fringe still has to be hunted out and, as I say, you will get a full report of what the FBI is doing.

Now the Congressional committee. One of its functions when it was first set up—the Congressional investigative committee—was to be your protection against the unwarranted attacks of an overpowering executive.

It was to look after your civil liberties to make certain that your liberties were not eroded away. Now, ladies and gentlemen, I admit that there can be very grave offenses committed against an innocent individual if he's accused falsely by someone having the immunity of Congressional membership.

He can lose his job. He can have scars that will be lasting, but in the long run you may be certain of this — America believes in and practices fair play and decency and justice.

In this country public opinion is the most powerful of all forces, and it will straighten this matter out wherever and whenever there is real violence done to our people.

Must Not Lose World Friends

Now, the next fear I want to touch upon is the fear of losing international friends. The fear that comes to us, the apprehension that comes to us when we consider that exposed areas of the world not so strong as we are, not so strong materially or in this world's riches or militarily, may fall prey to the subversion and deceit, the bribery, the propaganda that is practiced by the Russians.

Now, some of these areas are very, very important to us, not merely because of the necessity materials we get from them, tungsten, the rubber, manganese, and a the things we need to keep our economy going, but because those people, regimented under the Communist dictators in the Kremlin could make them stronger and stronger against us as the free world is chipped away.

Now, let's take again some of the counterbalancing values. Did you ever stop to think there's no nation in the world that has ever freely adopted Communism in a vote of the people?

On the contrary, every time Communists have taken over a country, even Russia, it has been done by a very small minority practicing violence or through some slick method of political move has gotten control of the country, establishing a Gestapo or other method of police control, has ruled that country.

Moreover, there is a growing understanding in the world of the decency of and the justice of the the slavery of any nation.

We do not believe that any nation, no matter how great, has a right to take another people and subject them to its rule.

We believe that every nation has a right to live its own life.

Every bit of aid we give, every co-operative effort we undertake, is all based upon the theory of co-operation among all of us. The other night a newspaper, by a curious error, spoke of Allies as "appliances" instead of allies.

Now, the one mistake we must never make is to think of our world as being tools of ours. They are not.

They are friends of ours, and if they are not friends, they are useless to us.

The United Nations was conceived in the idea that co-operative effort among great and free peace-loving nations could establish peace in this world, and the United Nations authorizes coalitions in different areas of the world designed for the same purpose and in the same spirit.

We believe in these in every corner of the world, whether it's to protect the Southwest Pacific or NATO in Europe or wherever it is, we believe that the interested nations should band together and in a co-operative spirit maintain the freedom of these countries against any kind of Communist aggression.

Still, some of these nations are weak. They're indecisive, and we have our disappointments, in trying to build them up.

We have that form of apprehension to take into our calculations to prepare for and to prepare against.

Now, I want to take up just very briefly the fear of Depression and the loss of jobs.

You will hear people talking about the level of 3,000,000 unemployed. It's very true, and it is a figure that comes about as a result of our efforts to go from war to peace economy.

That figure happily shows every sign now of leveling off. The last reports were only a few thousand greater than the ones earlier.

Jobs Near Record; 60 Million at Work

But these people who look on it so gloomily never say to you that there are more than 60 million people today gainfully employed in the United States entirely aside from the three million five hundred thousand that are in the armed services.

We have a number of peacetime jobs and employment that is very near to an all-time high. We have great insurance plans in this country against loss of jobs.

We have farm programs to protect the farms against disaster.

We have the great savings of our people, near an all-time high, and then we have the great requirements of 160 million people of good income, and that is the kind of thing that gives employment and insures the productivity of our farms and factories.

But aside from that, my friends, we have also a government that is ready to act whenever necessary.

Now, one of the important things in this kind of a problem is the attitude of your government.

I have tried to define our governmental several times as one that is completely liberal in its relationship to people, but earnestly tries to be conservative when it deals with your money and your economy.

Now, already there have been many measures taken to ease over and to accommodate this transition from a war to a peace economy.

Now, already there have been many measures taken to ease over and to accommodate this transition from a war to a peace economy.

We have made loans easier. We have facilitated construction. We have reduced and are reducing to some extent the surplus that overhangs our agricultural market.

We are trying to increase markets abroad, stimulating production, and so on, but there are many, many more plans in reserve ready to use it necessary.

Among these, of course, is public construction, further lowering of taxes, increasing of money to spend in many ways, and that is something to be brought out if necessary, but on the other hand, your government does not intend to go into any slam-bang emergency program unless it is necessary.

Free and Peaceful World Our Aim

Now, my friends, I should say that the one great aspiration of America is a free, peaceful and prosperous world.

To have a free and prosperous world we must be ever stronger.

We must be ever stronger not only in the things I have mentioned but particularly in the spiritual sense, the belief, the faith that we can do certain things.

We must have the faith that comes from a study of our own history. From the inspiration of leaders like Washington, Lincoln, and in what our pioneering forefathers did.

But as we look at the whole problem and we sum up these apprehensions of which I have just spoken, we find that each of them has a certain lingering element of truth in it.

And so we have plans. And this Administration has presented to the Congress a plan, a legislative program.

In that program there are simple measures for defense, civil and continental defense and for the deterrent effects of our atomic development.

We have lowered taxes so that 6 billion dollars or more have been turned back to the public to stimulate production.

We have farm programs, taxes, trade, mutual security, housing, social security, health programs. All of these things, my friends, if they are done, we will be certain of the stronger America that will be capable of bringing closer to us this peaceful, prosperous and secure America.

But I say again that it is American belief in decency, in justice, in progress, and the value of individual liberty, because of rights conferred on each of us by our Creator, that will carry us through.

As we study and plan these things, there must be something in the heat as well as in the head. And so as we do this, as you and I approach these problems in this way, I assure you we don't have to fear.

I don't mean to say, and no one can say to you, that there are no dangers.

Of course, there are risks, but we do not have to be hysterical. We can be vigilant; we can be Americans.

We can stand up and hold up our heads and say, America is the greatest force that God has ever allowed to exist on his footstool.

As such it is up to us to lead this world to a peaceful and secure existence, and I assure you we can do it. Good night, my friends.

NO CHARGE FOR CHILDREN UNDER 14!

Bring the family for a visit at the Detroit Statler

Why not give the whole family a weekend treat! It's the perfect time to plan that holiday in Detroit, under Statler's wonderful new family plan!

This plan is in effect every day of the week, every week of the year at Statler:

2. If one or more children under 14 occupy a room without a parent—in other words, if more than one room is needed for a family—the one-person rate applies for the second room.

SEVEN TOES—These kittens, owned by Mrs. Frank Johnson, of Miami, Fla., seem to be rechecking their total of 84 toes as they stand on a tabletop. Each of the three has seven toes per foot—two over par for every foot.
