The Coming of the King

II—A Decree of Caesar

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Conquered people are always a frightened people. And when a Roman soldier came in his chariot to the marketplace at Nazareth, the men of that town who came running to hear what he had to say were frightened, too. For, in those days, the Romans had conquered not only the Jews but all the world they knew of.

The soldier held a parchment in his hand and read from it. The Emperor Caesar Augustus—nephew and heir of old Julius Caesar himself—had decreed that all the world was to be taxed. Each citizen was ordered to go to what they called "his own town," but which really meant the town his family had originally come from. There a kind of census would be taken and each person would pay a tax to the Romans.

It was just as if I, who live in New York, had to go all the way back to Ohio, where I grew up, to pay my taxes each year.

Now both Mary and Joseph, although they were humble folk like most of us, were descended from famous Jewish families. In fact, Joseph was descended from the great King David, who slew Goliath. And the ancestral home of King David was the town of Bethlehem. So, to obey the order passed on by the Roman soldier, Joseph knew that he and Mary would have to journey to Bethlehem.

Mary would soon have her baby, but the decree of Caesar Augustus permitted no delay. They could not wait. And, although it is only about fifty miles from Nazareth to Bethlehem, Joseph was worried, as any good husband would be. For the road lay through deep valleys and over mountains and along dusty roads. By automobile today, it is only a short journey.

But neither poor people nor rich people then had automobiles. Poor people didn't even have horses. All Joseph had to help him was one slow little donkey.

Ford Foundation's Climb to Pinnacle Recounted

NEW YORK (U)—The Ford Foundation was set up by the late Henry Ford, founder of the motor empire, in 1936 for "the advancement of human welfare." It is by far the largest of some 7,000 such organizations in the United States.

It is governed today by a 13-man board of trustees, presided over by Henry Ford II, grandson of the founder. H. Rowan Gaither Jr., is president of the foundation. One of the foundation's better known activities next to giving away money, is its radio and TV workshop. From this workshop emanates the Sunday TV program "OmniBus."

The half billion in grants announced yesterday surpass the total of all the foundation's previous giving for promoting world peace, strengthening democratic processes and improving education. From the foundation have sprung such independent groups as the Fund for the Republic, whose activities currently are the subject of controversy, and the Fund for the Advancement of Education. The foundation says it exercises no direct control over these groups.

MONEY FROM FORD

The foundation's money comes from the Ford Motor Co. Its assets are some three million shares of non-voting Ford stock, or the bulk of the Ford stock outstanding.

Not even the foundation knows exactly what it is worth because the stock never has been put on the market.

However, it was announced recently that there will be a public sale in the middle of January. One reason is that the foundation wants to diversify its holdings.

Sixteen years ago, the present stock portfolio was estimated at $135 a share for estate tax purposes. The foundation still figures its worth on that basis—about half a billion dollars.

However, financial experts estimate the market price of the stock when it goes on sale will skyrocket the foundation's worth up to 2½ to 3 billion dollars.

Hospital Deadlock Broken

Retarded Group to Occupy Beds on Rental Basis

Farmington Goes Under Contract to Supply Food and State Other Needs

LANSING (U)—The Michigan Legislature's bitter, 38-day deadlock over emergency beds for mentally retarded children apparently was ended today in a bipartisan compromise.

The full Legislature was ordered to return Wednesday at 8 p.m. to vote upon a settlement reached suddenly Monday afternoon by Democratic and Republican leaders of the legislative and the executive departments.

Spokesmen for Senate Republicans, the House coalition of Democrats and rebel Republicans and the Governor's office put their approval on the compromise and said they were certain the Legislature would agree.

The settlement solved the major dispute over whether the state should buy or lease the Farmington Children's Hospital. This issue has split the two chambers since Nov. 4.

FLAT RENTAL BASIS

Under the compromise the state will put 110 to 150 children in the Farmington Hospital on a contract basis—the state providing equipment and staff and the hospital feeding them and providing utility service at a flat rental.

The agreement could be extended or canceled after one year.

The total proposal would provide 1,500 beds for an estimated 1,250 children on state hospital waiting lists.

Other elements in the plan, previously agreed to, would provide 800 beds at the empty Fort Custer Station Hospital, 100 in private hospitals, 100 in boarding homes, and 350 at the Mt. Pleasant and Coldwater State Home and Training Schools due to come into use between now and March 1.

Officials said they could move (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Shortage Halts Vaccine Shots

Polio Clinics in Area Stopped Until Supply Is Sufficient

Due to a shortage of Salk polio vaccine, all clinics in Pontiac and Oakland County administering the vaccine have been temporarily discontinued. It was announced today by Dr. John D. Monroe, city and county health director.

Clinics will resume on the same schedule as in the past as soon as sufficient vaccine is available.

Allocation of vaccine for Michigan, including Pontiac and Oakland County, already has been made, Dr. Monroe said, but due to an "unprecedented demand" supplies were not sufficient to keep up with the need.

Affected by the temporary shutdown are clinics held Tuesday afternoons at Pontiac City Hall, Friday mornings at Oakland County Health Dept., and Monday mornings and Wednesday afternoon clinics at the Royal Oak Health Center.

"We hope to have enough additional vaccine to resume clinics before the six-week appointments for children who have received their first inoculation become due," said Mrs. Howard W. Riemann, county polio vaccine program director.

Meanwhile she reassured parents whose children had not yet received the first of their shots that vaccine was expected in time to resume clinics and get in two shots before the next polio season.

Thieves Warned That Nickel Bars Could Kill Them

Police today issued a plea to thieves who stole $4,300 worth of nickel Saturday night to give themselves up—to save their lives.

The thieves may be walking around with death in their veins. Pontiac Police Inspector Clark Wheaton explained that the nickel, stolen from the Ajax Plating and Polishing Co. in 41 35-pound bars, had been in a cyanide wash.

"If the cyanide touched the thieves' hands," Wheaton said, "they'll break out in a rash. In a couple of days, they could be dead of cyanide poisoning."

He urged the men, whoever and wherever they might be, to see a doctor immediately.

Damages Asked by Dixon-Yates

Power Syndicate Sues U.S. for $3,534,778 for Breaking Pact

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Dixon-Yates syndicate sued the government for $3,534,778 today and charged that U.S. repudiation of its controversial private power contract was based on "important mistakes of fact."

The suit was filed in the name of the Mississippi Valley Generating Co., which was organized by the Dixon-Yates combine to build a power plant to replace energy formerly supplied by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The plaintiffs alleged in the action filed in the U.S. Court of Claims that the 197 million dollar contract was in force "for more than six months and during that time we proceeded with the performance of our obligations..."

Further, the suit charged: "The decision of the government to repudiate its contract presumably was based upon a legal opinion which rests upon important mistakes of fact, and we disagree with its conclusions."

The Atomic Energy Commission ruled Nov. 23 that the contract was invalid because of a "conflict of interest."

Dixon-Yates filed a 100-page brief with its petition. The brief did not outline the group's argument, but presented a copy of the contract and a detailed list of the expenses that have been incurred under it.

Included in the total was a claim for $589,430 by Ebasco Services, Inc., for services as the prospective management firm in the controversial undertaking which President Eisenhower ordered discontinued.

Other damages claimed were $1,208,743 to reimburse the Westinghouse Electric Corp., $296,407 for the J. A. Jones Construction Co., $246,198 for the fees of Cahill, Gordon, Reindel and Ohl, a New York partnership, and $108,128 for Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam and Roberts, another New York partnership.

City Goodfellow Sale Scheduled Saturday

Annual goodfellow sale of the Pontiac Press will be conducted Saturday in downtown Pontiac by members of the Metropolitan Club.

From 50 to 75 policemen, firemen and postal employees are expected to help the sale. Their aim will be to raise enough money to provide 150 Christmas baskets for needy families.

Police Sgt. Walter A. Baerwolf, who is chairman of the club welfare committee, said that between six and seven thousand copies of the paper must be sold in order to raise needed funds.

Spartan Bell Ringers to Play at White House

EAST LANSING (U)—Michigan State University's Spartan bell ringers will play at the lighting of President Eisenhower's Christmas Tree on the White House lawn Dec. 18 and at the Pentagon building Dec. 19.

In addition to the White House appearance, at 5 p.m. Dec. 18, the bell ringers will feature Christmas music in the main concourse of the Pentagon at noon Dec. 19.

Otto John Flees From Red Zone, Returns to Bonn

Defector Security Chief Redefects After Staying Months With Commies

BONN (INS)—West Germany announced today that Dr. Otto John—Bonn security chief until his defection to the Communists July 22, 1954—has "fled" East Germany and returned to the West.

John reported to West Berlin authorities yesterday and was flown immediately to West Germany.

A government spokesman in Bonn said John had "put himself under the protection" of the Federal Republic police.

He currently is being interrogated by the Federal Supreme Court.

John's exact whereabouts were not revealed.

The news of his "redefection" was received with surprise, but also with caution since there was some fear he might be returning as an agent of "confusion."

John's original disappearance in East Berlin nearly 17 months ago had caused a sensation.

At the time of his defection, John was chief of the West German office for the protection of the constitution.

The agency is charged with responsibility for guarding against treason, espionage and subversion. It has been equated with the U. S. FBI.

AFRAID OF NAZIS

John was produced by the Communists at an East Berlin news conference on Aug. 11.

There, he repeated statements already broadcast under his name, that he had fled the West because he was convinced U. S. and West German government policies would lead to the reNazification of Germany.

John denied being a Communist and said he told the East German Reds he would not give them any information relating to his counter-espionage work in the Federal Republic.

At that Berlin news conference, John showed no evidence of having been "brainwashed," but Communist security police were present during his meeting with Western reporters.

West German and Allied officials in Berlin said that despite his statements and East German claims they believed John had been prevented from returning to the West.

Ad Agency Discloses Promotions

The elevation of James R. Adams to the chairmanship of the board, and Ernest A. Jones to the presidency of MacManus, John & Adams Inc. was announced today by directors of the Bloomfield Hills advertising agency.

The move, which also saw the election of five to vice presidencies, was hailed by company officials as "a major expansion at executive and administrative levels."

In assuming the position formerly held by Adams, Jones becomes the youngest president of any major U. S. advertising agency, according to a firm spokesman. He is 40 years old.

Adams is a co-founder of the company. New officers elected include Frank T. Skinner, vice president and assistant to the board chairman; Charles F. Adams, vice president; Robert L. Garrison, vice president; William J. Whiting, vice president; and Armin Seiffert, vice president and manager of the art department.

John R. MacManus, who continues as a senior partner and executive vice president, will head the operating committee; Leo A. Hillebrand, a vice president, becomes secretary and financial officer, while Vice President Fred J. Hatch will be general manager.

Jones has been with the company 17 years. He has served as account executive for Pontiac and Dow, was head of the agency's New York office, and was responsible for the development of the television program "Med-

Recognition for its part in the growth and development of the Pontiac area is given the Pontiac Press by Meyer Simon, one of the city's leading merchants, in a letter to Harold A. Fitzgerald, publisher of the Press.

The occasion for the letter was the recent 100-page edition issued by the Press. It said:

"Another accolade is due you and your colleagues for an excellent edition."

"It is gratifying to see over the years the growth of an institution, particularly a semi-public institution."

"I feel the solid growth of our county is in no small measure due to the excellent paper which serves it so well."

U.N. Up Against Red Veto Today on Seating 'Package'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS)—The U. N. Security Council meets today to cope with Russia's veto ultimatum on the new members issue.

The Soviet declared that unless the council voted individually and concurrently with the assembly on each of the 18 applicants—starting with her Albanian and Outer Mongolian satellites—she would veto the Western "package" resolution providing seats for all of them.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev threw down the ultimatum on Saturday after the council failed in an all-day session to reach a vote in the face of a complicated procedural wrangle.

Intensive diplomatic efforts to induce Sobolev to withdraw his ultimatum marked the past 24 hours. These attempts included:

private talks among Canadian Minister Paul Martin, British Ambassador Sir Pierson Dixon and Russia's V. V. Kuznetsov.

As the council met for the second time to deal with what Nationalist Chinese Ambassador Tingfu F. Tsiang branded "Soviet blackmail" and "unconditional U. N. surrender," there was no substantial assurance the 18 applicants would escape either a Soviet or Formosa veto.

The assembly recommended last week by a 53-to-2 vote admission of the 13 free nations and five Communist states in a (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Split Half Billion Among Nation's Institutions

Area Donations Total Nearly $300,000 for Increased Services

Oakland County area hospitals received nearly $300,000 today as the Ford Foundation gave away half a billion dollars to colleges and hospitals across the nation in the largest single appropriation in the history of philanthropy.

Chief benefactor in the area was St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, which will get $196,000.

None of the 13 colleges in the state which received grants were in the Pontiac area.

The gigantic gift was 150 million dollars more than the Foundation had given previously in its 19 years of existence.

The sum of 210 million was earmarked for all 615 regionally accredited, privately supported colleges and universities in the United States, to help them raise teachers' salaries.

This was in addition to 50 million appropriated by the Foundation last spring for this purpose.

Another 200 million was tagged for about 3,500 privately supported hospitals to help them improve and extend services to the public.

Some 90 million was reserved for privately supported medical schools, to help them strengthen their instruction methods.

Other county institutions receiving grants were:

Cranbrook Infirmary Bloomfield Hills, $10,000
Sister Kenny Polio Hospital, Farmington, $20,500
Ardmore Hospital, Ferndale, $11,700
Oakland Center Hospital, Royal Oak, $10,000

In the Oakland County area, Mellus Hospital in Brighton received $10,000; Mariette Community Hospital, Mariette, $16,300, and Sessions Hospital, Northville, $6,000.

Hospital allotments were made on the basis of patient days of service provided, and birthrates. The funds may be used to support any program of improvement or extension of hospital service.

Jones was wanted in connection with the murder of James Blair in Pontiac Oct. 30, 1927. He allegedly killed Blair with a baseball bat and fled.

Pontiac Police Inspector Clark Wheaton said today Det. Allen Noble is in Chicago questioning Jones.

Angry Telegraph Moms Use Christmas Tree Ad

DETROIT — The angry mothers of Taylor Township blockaded Telegraph Road (U. S. 24) again yesterday in their quest for a traffic light, but this time they used "Christmas advertising."

The mothers carried a tinsel-covered tree into the middle of the busy highway. On top of the tree was this sign: "Give Us a Light for Christmas."

The mothers claim a traffic light is needed at the corner of Telegraph and Cypress Road for the protection of school children in buses.

However, the State Highway Department said a survey showed no light was needed and school buses could be re-routed.

The Day in Birmingham

City Commission Votes to Widen Willits Street

BIRMINGHAM — Progress toward widening Willits street, approval of the recreation-director's salary portion coming from the city, and go-ahead on construction of additional sewage treatment equipment were voted at last night's City Commission meeting.

The city will pay one-half of the director's salary, with the other half expected to be approved by the Board of Education at tonight's special session. The Recreation Board's choice to fill the post will be made public when salary approval has been voted by both bodies.

Another portion of Willits street's widening was approved last night, with the strip of trees and width enough for residential owners on the north side between Bates and Chester to have slanting driveways, were saved by mapping out a widening, one to eight feet wide on the south side. But the home owners are being asked to share the 50 per cent assessment, with business owners on the opposite side, while the city pay the other half of paving costs. A hearing has been set for Jan. 9.

With Bloomfield township voting approval on the sewage treatment equipment addition at the same time last night as the Township's Board meeting, the addition will probably proceed at once. Termed a "temporary expedient," it will tie in with the proposed Evergreen Interceptor, or will be basis for further plans at a later date. The township will share the cost of the addition at a 50-50 basis.

Importance of 14 Mile's paving was discussed, with reports being presented by the city planner, Herbert Herzberg and the Chief of Police Ralph W. Moxley, naming statistics to prove the added through street is needed to take traffic from the business area. Being on the southern edge of Birmingham, county participation is needed, as in the case of 16 Mile which the county has said will be resurfaced in the near future.

Maple, entirely within city limits, has been improved by the city, and carried the bulk of through traffic.

Mrs. Frances English Robinson, 45, 287 Pilgrim, was taken to Beaumont Hospital with minor injuries received when her car was struck from the rear by one driven by Robert R. Jenkins, 20, 927 Cranbrook. Jenkins was ticketed by police for reckless driving and his father's car suffered $1,000 damages.

He tried to pass Mrs. Robinson's car as she was slowing on Oak to turn left onto Pilgrim, Birmingham police said. After the impact, his car swerved into an Edison pole, crossed the street and hit another pole and a tree.

News Unions Hint at Contract Demand

DETROIT — Detroit's newspaper strike entered its 13th day today amid growing indications that none of six printing craft unions would return to work without new contracts.

Contracts between the six and the Detroit Newspaper Publishers Assn. have expired, but only the AFL-CIO Stereotypers officially are on strike.

When stereotypers walked out Dec. 1, following expiration of their contract, other craft unions respected their picket lines and the morning Free Press and the afternoon Times and the News closed down.

Combined the three dailies have 4,500 employees and a daily circulation of around 1,400,000.

Presidents of the six craft unions declared after a joint meeting yesterday "We are in agreement in our feelings concerning the strike."

None of them would expand on that statement, but a news pool operated by the struck papers said the "accepted meaning" was "agreement that none of the unions would return to work until the 'grievances' of all are settled."

Among those six presidents were the heads of the stereotypers, who voted unanimously Sunday not to return without a new contract, and the AFL-CIO Malters, who have voted to ask their international to sanction a strike against the dailies.

Birmingham merchants, most of whom opened for their first evening of Christmas business last night, have indicated a most successful season thus far. Businessmen have been too busy to compile statistics yet, according to Charles Mortenson of the Chamber of Commerce, but they have reported excellent business. Stores will be open evenings until Christmas, with exception of a very few stores, he says.

The Chamber of Commerce has voted to join the National Better Business Bureau, according to Mortenson. The bureau keeps its 800 chambers informed of any fraudulent schemes becoming prevalent about the country that might crop up in Birmingham's trading area.

Though all the country's firms are not listed, of course, most of the borderline or not too reliable ones are on record, Mortenson says.

Pride of Oakland Rebekah lodge will initiate five of its own candidates for membership as well as one for neighboring Clawson's lodge, at its regular meeting at Community House at 8 p.m. tomorrow. Many Clawson members will be present for the initiation and election of officers, to be conducted by the present noble grand, Ethel Clark.

Burial will be in Oakland Hills Memorial Garden at Novi and 12 Mile roads.

Mrs. Smith, who lived here since 1934, leaves her son, Emerson V. Smith; two brothers, Wallace Wyatt of Homer, and W. S. Wyatt; and a sister, Mrs. Frank L. Sutherland, both of Birmingham, Ala.

Devil's Food Always Big Delight

Mrs. Chamberlain Spreads Frosting on 'Mallow Topping

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Chocolate — the favorite flavor of all time is used in Mrs. Clarence Chamberlain's recipe for Devil's Food Cake. She spreads it with a Rocky Road Topping that contains miniature marshmallows.

Outside of her home, Mrs. Chamberlain concentrates on working with civic organizations. She's an active member of both the Boys Club Mothers' Club and of the Pontiac General Hospital Auxiliary. She also belongs to Guild 8 of her church. Baking is her hobby.

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE

By Mrs. Clarence Chamberlain
1 1/2 cups butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 squares baking chocolate, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter or margarine and sugar. Add eggs and beat well. Sift flour 3 times with soda and salt. Add alternately with milk. Add chocolate and vanilla. Bake in a greased pan 30 minutes in a 350-degree oven.

Rocky Road Topping
While cake is hot, top with 18 large marshmallows cut up, or cover completely with miniature marshmallows. Mix 3 cups confectioner's sugar, 2 tablespoons butter melted, 2 squares of melted chocolate and about 2 tablespoons hot water. Spread over the marshmallows.

April-May Group Entertained Friday

The April-May group of the First Presbyterian Church held their Christmas party Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Quentin Sweet on South Avery road.

Mrs. Edward Bennett gave devotions using "Keeping Christmas" as her topic.

Installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. H. B. Austin. Mrs. John Heitsch was installed as chairman and will be assisted by Mrs. Floyd Short, vice chairman; Mrs. Sweet, treasurer and Mrs. Floyd Mortenson, secretary.

Mrs. Walton Adams was a guest at the party. Mrs. Harrison McCall and Mrs. John Nicols assisted the hostess.

Cousins Vie for the Affections of Same Boy

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: My cousin and I like the same boy. He goes to her school so she gets to see him more than I do. He calls her up, so he tells me, just to find out things about me.

"She's mad at me now. She's always getting mad at me because I get her boy friends. I don't mean to. She met this boy first, but as soon as I met him he started to like me.

"Should I give him up, although I like him very much, so my cousin and I will get along better? Or should I go ahead and like him and let her alone?"

Answer: Your cousin has really nothing to do with the way you feel about this boy. That's a matter between you and him. And the way he feels about you is really

If he seeks you out, comes the deciding factor, around to see you, calls you up and in general shows that he likes you, make the most of it.

How he and your cousin feel about each other is their business. too. If she sees him oftener than you do that's her good luck.

Sooner or later he'll make it clear which of you girls he really likes better. And the die will be cast.

So while you're waiting for him to make his choice, say as little as possible about him to your cousin.

That's just stirring up the waters to no good purpose. Let her enjoy her relationship with him while you enjoy yours.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I like a girl who is very popular in our school. My boy friend likes her, too—and he's very popular with the girls. Shall I go after her myself and lose him as a friend? Or should I keep hands off and keep my friend?"

Answer: The missing detail in your puzzle is the state of the young lady's affections. You don't mention that vital statistic.

Is she, for instance, pretty fond of your boy friend? Does she return his interest and affection? Do they go out together? Or has she shown no particular signs of caring about him in any special way? Does she date other boys instead? Any one boy in particular?

In your either-or solution to your puzzle you're not taking into consideration how the girl might feel about you two boys. She might be wishing with all her heart that you'd take some notice of her.

She might respond enthusiastically to any overtures on your part. All of which would be too bad for your boy friend if he has been trying to make her sit up and take note of him.

In any case, a date or two with her would put no permanent crimp in your relations with your boy friend. He might get them, too—if he asked her. Which should ease your conscience when you try.

Holidays Means Party Dresses for Junior Miss

The Christmas holidays mean school vacations, excited reunions and an almost continuous round of parties and dances to thousands of girls all over America.

They also mean new party dresses, as gay as the season—and here is where the young designers of St. Louis demonstrate their knowledge of what juniors like to wear.

This year holiday fashions sparkle like Christmas lights, and the younger set will step out in rustling taffetas, metallic brocades and lustrous satins, many with jewel embroidery and sequins.

Although there are some slim skirts in evidence, juniors still love their crinolines for parties, and so full skirts and petticoats will be much in the picture.

These achieve a new look with the graceful and flattering long-torso silhouette, fitted to the hip-line, flaring below.

There also are some prophetic high-waisted Empire dresses about, many of these dramatized by the wide Japanese Obi sash reaching from waistline to bosom.

For the biggest dance of the year, many girls will choose a long evening dress this year, but the favorite still is the short dance frock, handier for doing the rock 'n' roll.

Yomar Group Has Christmas Party

Thirty-seven members of the Yomar Group of the First Presbyterian Church attended a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Beebe on Elizabeth Lake road.

Mrs. Harry Pattison installed the new officers and committee chairmen at the recent meeting. Mrs. J. E. Frankfield, assisted by Mrs. Richard Wright and Mrs. Marvin Hillman, presented the Christmas story on flannelgraph.

The social hour was under the direction of Mrs. George Stinnett and Mrs. Harry Wood, and the identity of secret sisters was revealed at the party.

Mrs. Myrtle Francher was welcomed as a new member of the group, and Mrs. Fred Turek, Mrs. Troyace Doolin and Mrs. Frankenstein assisted the hostess. Mrs. George Tremper and Mrs. Wright presided at the tea table.

Gadget Produces Malted, Shakes

OMAHA (INS)—Milk shakes and malteds can now be prepared in party-size quantities without the help of a soda jerk.

A gadget invented by a former Omahian, Harvey F. Swenson, holds six gallons of a prepared mixture at close to freezing temperature. By lifting a lever, malteds flow from the machine at a rate of four a minute.

Yule Program Slated at Owen

A Christmas program will be presented by the students of Owen School when the PTA meets Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the all-purpose room.

The program will include the presentation of the Christmas story in tableau with the school chorus under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Gessinger. A story in song will accompany each scene.

WCS Conducts Christmas Meeting

The December meeting of the Oakland Park Methodist Church WSCS was held at the church with the Deborah Circle acting as hostess.

Mrs. James Wellington was chairman of the Christmas program. She was assisted by Mrs. John Wethy, secretary of student work, and Mrs. William Childers, secretary of children's work.

The Junior Choir directed by Mrs. J. Wagley sang four Christmas hymns, and Ruth Ann Bandy gave a reading from Scripture.

Martia Deeg recited the poem, "But Once There Shone a Radiant Star," and Sherry Everett told a story, "The Toys of the Wise Man." The devotional message was given by Mrs. Ralph Clara at the recent meeting.

Announcement was made of the sub-district clinic at Wilson Avenue Methodist Church Jan. 13.

The study, "Indian Americans," will begin in January with Mrs. Elton Behnke as teacher. Members of the Esther Circle will provide the program for the January meeting.

Substitute Entertains Bridge Club

Some Misinterpreted Invitation as Bid to Join Group

By EMILY POST

A reader writes me as follows: "I am very anxious to have your advice on the following situation: In the community in which I lived before moving here I belonged to a bridge club.

"After a guest was asked to fill in a few times she would invite the club members to her house for a bridge party. We always thought this a considerate and gracious thing to do.

"I now live in another city and just recently invited the members of a bridge club to my house for an afternoon of cards. I do not belong to this club but I have filled in for them on several occasions.

"I have no time to become a regular member of any bridge club as I am working at the present time. Several of the women in the club misinterpreted my invitation as a bid to become a member of the club. Was I wrong to invite them?"

Answer: I think inviting the members of the club to a bridge party at your house was a gesture of friendliness, and as you say you cannot join any clubs, your asking them could hardly be misinterpreted as a bid to become a member of this one.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to send my doctor a Christmas card but don't know quite how to address it. His wife is — stranger to me and I would like to know if I should include her name on the envelope.

"Also, should I sign my husband's name to the card (my husband is unknown to the doctor), or should I sign it with my name alone?"

Answer: Send the card to your doctor addressed to his office. It is not necessary to include either your husband or his wife.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have been invited to a dance at my boy friend's school. I am going to wear a floor-length evening dress. I would like to know if elbow-length gloves are necessary, or would short ones be in order?"

Answer: Long gloves would be prettier.

Vann will serve the group as president, Mrs. George Tallender, second vice-president; Mrs. William Miller, first vice-president; Mrs. Leslie Cross, treasurer; Mrs. Dora Dawson, secretary and Mrs. Carl Webber, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Nellie Williams gave the devotionals in which all members participated. The Biblical story of the Nativity, a modern story of Christmas by Bruce Barton, and a Christmas Message by Henry VanDyke given by Mrs. Miller were interspersed by carols sung by Mrs. Robert Gaff.

Mrs. Carmi O'Dell, Mrs. Forrest Bouck and Mrs. Jack Moore assisted the hostess.

Jersey with a fleece or a velvety finish will be a new material for jackets and coats. Wine-red velour jersey used for an after-smart over a dark grey jersey dress.
