FINISHING TOUCH — Bloomfield Hills artist John S. Coppin puts the finishing touch on a large portrait of former Gov. Williams that will hang in the State Capitol in Lansing. Portraits of three other former governors painted by Coppin hang there now. Williams, now on an African tour as assistant secretary of state for African affairs, visited Coppin's studio at 4301 Echo Road four times for sittings before leaving for Washington.

Ileo Blasts U.N. Peace Plan

Congo Premier Warns Against Disarmament

Tshombe, World Body Had Agreed to Halt All Troop Movements

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Premier Joseph Ileo today denounced the United Nations peace plan for the Congo, declaring an attempt to disarm the army will be "a declaration of war."

The announcement came as a surprise. Diplomatic sources had expected the plan might be acceptable to President Joseph Kasavubu, Ileo's boss.

"The Congolese people are ready to die to defend our sovereignty," Ileo told a news conference.

He said his government would never accept the proposals approved by the Security Council.

He particularly assailed plans for reorganizing the Congolese military forces and for giving U.N. troops the right to use force to prevent civil war.

"They expect to disarm our army and that is a declaration of war," Ileo said heartedly. "We are ready to defend ourselves with all means at our disposal."

He warned that any loss of life would be the responsibility of the United Nations.

"If the U.N. uses force we will reply with force," Ileo added.

EASE FRICTION

Ileo's jolting words came after Katanga President Moise Tshombe announced that the U.N. and Katanka have agreed to halt all troop movements likely to lead to friction.

A conference in Elisabethville, capital of the secessionist Congo province, took some of the heat from a situation which prompted Tshombe earlier to order a general mobilization.

But there was a report of new political killings, this time by the Communist - backed Stanleyville regime of Antoine Gizenga. U.N. authorities said they had no confirmation.

British diplomatic sources said 15 Congolese prisoners were executed by a firing squad Monday at the Oslio army camp outside Stanleyville in revenge for the slaying of Ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba in Katanga.

An account published in Britain said one of the dead was Alphonse Songolo, former communications minister under Lumumba.

Tshombe objects to U.N. Security Council action which empowered the U.N. Congo command to use force if necessary to prevent civil war.

The council also called for withdrawal of foreign officials such as the Belgians who are

Kennedy Sends Pronged Note to Khrushchev

Ambassador Thompson Takes Message Stating Grabbiness Disliked

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy sent a personal message to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev expressing hope that current diplomatic conversations will bring better Soviet-American understanding.

Kennedy gave the message to U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, for delivery to Khrushchev, at a final conference today before Thompson returns to Moscow.

Thompson spent about 15 minutes at the White House in Company of Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

After he left, White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger made the following statement:

"Ambassador Thompson has completed his consultation in Washington and leaves today to return to his post in Moscow. In a series of meetings, the President and the secretary of state have received from Ambassador Thompson a first-hand report on a variety of subjects affecting Soviet-American relations.

"In addition, these meetings will enable Ambassador Thompson to return to Moscow with a clear understanding of the President's views on the matters discussed for his use as guidance in conversations with Soviet officials.

"He is taking a personal message to Mr. Khrushchev expressing the President's confidence in Ambassador Thompson and the desire that any further conversations between Soviet officials and the ambassador will be fruitful and assist in bringing about better Soviet-American understanding."

Thompson planned to go to New York by train this afternoon and set out by air Thursday for Moscow.

While Kennedy's message expresses hope for better Soviet-American understanding, it is understood the word that Thompson is taking from the President to the Soviet premier is two-edged:

First, that the new U.S. administration wants Soviet cooperation in many fields, such as space science and the conquest of disease.

Second, that the new U.S. administration is deeply concerned about Communist trouble-making in places like Laos and the Congo, and must judge real Soviet intentions largely by what happens in these areas of conflict.

Thompson returned to Washington two weeks ago for consultation with Kennedy and to report on his impressions of Khrushchev's state desire for easing of world tensions.

Supervisors Go Visiting

Look at New Courthouse

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

The county's own "White House"—the new courthouse—got the once over today.

The gleaming white marble six-story structure, future home of the county's judicial and allied activities, had some white-collar visitors in county supervisors. Already they are talking of expansion.

Members of the special county building and building and grounds committees of the Board of Supervisors, charged with the supervision of the construction of the building, toured the new courthouse floor by floor with engineers and architects to get an up-to-date progress report.

About 80 workers of several trades hardly noticed the visitors. They are racing the clock to make a May 15 date when the contractors should be out of the building, according to George Kimber, project engineer for the county.

A veteran of many building jobs, the 72-year-old Kimber can't believe some county officials' dreams that the county should move into the Telegraph Road edifice by June 1.

WHEN AND WHERE

More realistic estimates range from July 1 to Aug. 1.

Supervisors today dodged workers and piles of material as they paced the still cluttered corridors with Kimber. For the first time they had some idea of which department will go where and the shape and decor of the many offices and courtrooms.

First, before they passed through the temporary entrance, barred to outsiders without permits from Kimber, they saw the gold lettering "Oakland County Court House" over the 1960 cornerstone they saw laid last June 27.

Construction of the $3.2 million building began Sept. 21, 1959, climaxing several years of court delays experienced in its financing.

Kimber reports work about two months behind.

During their inspection trip supervisors were painted an imaginary picture where a new wing and supervisors' auditorium will be in relation to the courthouse tower unit.

They appropriated $1.2 million in non-tax surplus from the 1960 budget for the additions, which appeared a long way off after county voters turned down a $4 million tax levy for the additions in August.

SEE JUDGES' ROOMS

George K. Harris, of the Birmingham architectural firm of O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach, said original plans for the additions are presently being analyzed for with space requirements of those departments in the County Office Building, 1 Lafayette St., which will occupy the new wing.

An examination of the initial tower unit, which will have the luxury of air conditioning, for space for new Probate Judge Donald E. Adams was made today by supervisors.

They saw the beginnings of the chambers for the five Circuit Court judges, with the fine oak, cherry or walnut paneling.

Large slabs of black Africa marble were already in place behind and in front of the judges' benches in the courtrooms, which appear smaller than those in the downtown courthouse.

Lobbies outside the three public elevators are already finished with

Reluctant to Be President

Washington Was Weary

By DON OAKLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

On April 16, 1789, an unhappy man left his home in Virginia to begin a long journey to New York City.

This man had already received all the glory any mortal could hope for, having led a ragtail army and 13 sovereign, bickering colonies through seven years of war to victory and independence and, finally, to union under the Constitution.

To George Washington, his forthcoming inauguration as president in what was then the capital of the fledging nation was not a prospect that made him want to cheer.

At 57, all he desired was to spend his final years at his beloved Mount Vernon and pursue his favorite study, agriculture.

Earlier that month he had written to Henry Knox, his onetime chief of artillery and now secretary of war:

"In confidence I tell you (with the world it would obtain little credit) that my movements to the chair of government will be accompanied by feelings not unlike those of a culprit who is going to the place of his execution . . ."

And in his diary on the day of his departure he wrote:

"About ten o'clock I bade adieu to Mount Vernon, to private life, and to domestic felicity, and with a mind oppressed with more anxieties and painful sensations than I have words to express . . . with the best disposition to render service to my country in obedience to its calls,

Stockholder of Chrysler Would Limit Management

DETROIT (AP)—A Chrysler Corp. stockholder seeks to change the company bylaws to limit management representation on the board of directors.

Industrialist James M. Robbins of Royal Oak said Tuesday he had notified both Chrysler and the Securities and Exchange Commission that he will work for a resolution limiting company employes on the board to not more than one-fourth of all seats.

A Chrysler spokesman said the firm will make its answer to the proposal in a proxy statement to stockholders next month.

Chrysler has 21 directors. At present 10 are employes of the corporation and another, attorney Louis B. Warren, is a partner in a firm which furnishes services to Chrysler. There is currently one vacancy.

Robbins, a millionaire, former Chrysler engineer and dealer, is now involved in numerous enterprises, including a plastics firm which sells to the auto firm.

He said he hoped the resolution would be included in Chrysler's proxy statement, which will be mailed to stockholders about March 14.

Strengthen Efforts to Settle Air Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today intensified efforts to settle the flight engineers' walkout that has brought air travel to a standstill in many parts of the country.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg asked both the engineers' union and airline officials to stand by for conferences — with himself, with a peacemaking commission named by President Kennedy, and possibly with each other.

Goldberg discussed the strike this morning with Kennedy. He scheduled an afternoon meeting with Ronald Brown, head of the Flight Engineers International Association.

The three members of the commission appointed by Kennedy Tuesday were arriving in Washington for a prompt start on their inquiry.

MEANY SPEAKS UP

And in Miami, Fla., AFL-CIO President George Meany urged that airline employes comply with the appeal by Kennedy for a return to work.

The engineers union said it was canvassing its members on whether to yield to the appeal.

But, a noon statement said, the union was having difficulty in completing the poll because of litigation over the walkout.

"Many of the people who should have been doing such work spent all day yesterday and late into the night involved in court proceedings with the airlines," the statement said.

"Our largest chapter executive board, for instance, was tied up in court in New York City for 12 hours yesterday until 11 p.m. last night."

The statement demanded a "written promise from the airlines regarding lawsuits and recrimination proceedings."

MANY QUESTIONS

It also said there were many questions the men wanted answered—

"Our men have told us to ascertain whether Western is in or out of the agreement.

"If Western is out, the membership indicates that it will not return to work."

Western announced Tuesday that it was firing its flight engineers. It called the walkout a wildcat one.

On this point, Goldberg told newsmen that Western had not been represented when other affected airlines agreed that no disciplinary action would be taken if the engineers returned to work.

He said he was attempting to get in touch with Terry Drinkwater, Western's president, to ask if that line, which operates out of California, would join in the same assurances.

If Drinkwater acquiesced, the laid-off engineers presumably would be reinstated.

As settlement efforts continued, Eastern, American and Trans World Airlines were completely grounded. Pan American, National and Western were only able to maintain token service.

Some 88,000 airline employes had been furloughed.

Goldberg again sought to assure the engineers that a protested national mediation board ruling applies only to United Airlines.

2-in-1 Satellite Launching Only Partial Success

WASHINGTON (AP)—The doubleheader satellite launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., whirled around the earth today but officials called it only "a qualified, a partially successful" shot.

It failed to achieve the nearly circular orbit planned for it, flying instead in a path coming as close as 104 miles to the earth and as far out as 617 miles. The target was 500 miles.

And the two satellites carried upward by one rocket apparently did not even detach from the last stage of the booster. Scientists said they appear to be orbiting all together.

Dr. Richard B. Kershner, project manager for the transit navigation satellite program being supervised by the applied physics laboratory of Johns Hopkins University, summed up the situation for newsmen.

He said that instead of staying in orbit for many years, the satellites probably will have a life of only "several weeks."

The partial failure is reducing the effectiveness of the radioed information from the satellite.

The double device, with a different scientific task assigned to each, was sent up from the Cape Canaveral missile testing station at 10:45 Tuesday night, on the nose of a big Thor-Able-Star rocket.

The fact that an orbit had been achieved was quickly established.

Signals from equipment aboard started coming in as planned, and officials believed they had another full success.

The two satellites, separated and carrying out their individual chores, would have been the fourth and fifth successfully put up by the United States in five days. A success would have been the seventh in an unbroken string of space triumphs since the first of the year.

One of the units sent aloft today is the Navy's 2550-pound Transit III-B, part of a test series aimed at establishing precise navigational guides in the sky.

The second is a 54-pound hitchhiker dubbed Lofti, intended to solve problems of communication with space travelers of the future.

Astronauts All Eager to Be First

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Two astronauts training to be the first American in space reported enthusiastically today that they are ready to ride the next Redstone rocket if it carries a manned capsule.

"The answer is an overwhelming yes — a resounding yes," said Alan B. Shepard Jr., 37-year-old Navy commander from East Derry, N.H.

"Absolutely," commented John H. Glenn Jr., 39-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel of New Concord, Ohio.

They were among the three space candidates named Tuesday to begin final training for the first manned flight, a sub-orbital trip expected within two or three months.

The third, Air Force Capt. Virgil E. Grissom, 34, was in Bermuda where Tuesday he manned a control console during a successful launching of the Project Mercury man-in-space capsule aboard an Atlas missile.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said, however, that Grissom is just as eager as Glenn and Shepard to make the trip.

Glenn, Shepard and four other astronauts not selected for the initial launching pool held a news conference here today. The others — Scott Carpenter, Le-Roy Cooper, Walter Schirra and Donald Slayton — will be eligible for later manned flights.

The seven men were selected 22 months ago to begin training for the Project Mercury manned flight program.

40-50 Degree Highs Seen for Few Days

Springlike temperatures will continue in the Pontiac area over the weekend with the high in the 40s and the low 23 to 31.

The weatherman says tonight will be cloudy with a low near 32. Thursday's high is expected to reach 50. Only minor day-to-day changes are forecast for the period.

Precipitation will total two tenths of an inch or less with occasional showers or periods of light rain.

Morning light winds at 3 miles per hour will continue variable under 15 m.p.h. throughout Thursday.

The lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 32. The mercury had climbed to 48 at 2 p.m.

Students at MSUO Eye Unusual Sport

By MAX E. SIMON

Michigan State University Oakland may give a tremendous shot in the arm to American sports prestige — by pushing a bed.

There's no intercollegiate football on the campus. No basketball, baseball, swimming . . .

Intercollegiate sports competition, in fact, is frowned on by university officialdom.

Now bed-pushing is something else again.

The international intercollegiate sport will apparently be introduced this weekend. A group of 94 students has signed up to push a bed from MSUO to the MSU campus, around the Spartan statue, and back to MSUO — a distance of 150 miles.

Sixten Netzler, 20, 3751 W. Tienken Rd., Avon Township, head bed-pusher, said the international record is held—or rather, claimed — by Queen's College, Kingston, Ontario. That team toted a bed 301 miles.

MSUO students decided to challenge the international record when they believed it to be held by the University of Western Ontario (111 miles).

Despite learning of the new mark, they're still setting their sights on new heights.

"It's a question of patriotism," Netzler said.

The newness of bed-pushing in Michigan has caused problems.

Such as: Is it legal to push a bed on the highways?

Bed-pushers contacted State Police, the State Highway Department, the State Attorney General's Office, and the Secretary of State's Office.

Nobody said yes. Nobody said no.

"I think it's nuts," said one police chief.

However, nobody has come up with any laws prohibiting bed-pushing.

And Gov. Swainson has given his tentative approval — as well as a suggestion that bed-pushers take up a collection for the university's scholarship fund along their route.

Bed-pushing started with a worthy cause in South Africa. A hospital bed was pushed 20 miles by students to focus attention on the needs of the World University Committee for Books.

There was lots of attention.

Because of its newness, there's a lot of confusion about bed-pushing.

Unsettled is the question of whether to use a hospital bed or any bed.

Canadians use hospital beds. Other countries use regular beds with oversized wheels.

Also unsettled is whether speed is as important as distance.

MSUO feels that distance is really what counts.

Netzler figures the jaunt to East Lansing and back will be made at an average speed of 6 miles an hour — about 24 hours for the trip.

"We'll try to break the 301-mile record when we get back," Netzler proclaimed. "We'll push until we drop."

One Canadian school has pushed a bed more than 800 miles, but that was around a block. The claim of a record is being hotly contested.

There apparently is one more obstacle for MSUO's team to meet before starting out.

"We still need a bed," Netzler said.

No Fatalities Reported as Nine Cars Hurtle Track in North Dakota

BUFFALO, N. D. (AP) — "It started to go up and down and buck like a bronco," said a stunned passenger. "Then it started to sway, and it went over."

The Northern Pacific's crack Mainstreeter, bound for Portland, Ore., from Chicago, derailed at 60 miles an hour Tuesday, sending nine cars hurtling off the tracks. Thirty-nine persons were taken to hospitals throughout eastern North Dakota.

No one was killed. None of the injured was believed in serious condition.

RIPS UP TRACK

The train ripped up 300 feet of track and knocked down telegraph poles and communications before the derailed cars came to rest, partially buried in mud.

Dazed passengers crawled from the wreckage as emergency vehicles raced to the site. There were 51 persons in the coaches, 7 in Pullman cars, and 16 crewmen. Almost all suffered injuries of some kind.

Workers at 3 GM Plants Win $260,069 for Ideas

General Motors Corp. today announced that a total of 3,415 suggestions were accepted last year from employes at the three GM plants here.

The GM suggestion plan paid out a total of $260,069.93 in awards to employes at Pontiac Motor Division, Fisher Body Division and GMC Truck & Coach Plant.

There were four maximum awards of $5,000 each made here — all to Pontiac Motor Division employes.

These were among 44 maximum awards granted by the entire corporation.

A total of 41 local employes received awards of $1,000 or more.

There were 531 such awards made in the entire corporation.

The maximum award winning suggestions locally included an improved method of cleaning sand molds in preparation for iron pouring, and a nickel reclamation process in the plating plant.

Others were an improved method of fabricating rear car bumpers and a major improvement to a cylinder block machining operation.

Throughout the corporation there were a record 480,340 suggestions submitted last year.

Employes received more than $5 million for their ideas on how to make their jobs safer and easier and improve plant operations.

Of the total number of suggestions, 111,203, or about one out of every four, was accepted for the cash awards.

Losing JP Candidate Says 'No Recount'

Following one of the closest contests in Monday's primary election, Calvin E. Patterson, a candidate for Waterford Township Justice of the Peace, said today he does not intend to demand a recount against his winning opponent Richard D. Kuhn.

Kuhn won the JP Republican nomination for the full term position by only two votes with a total of 572 over Patterson's 570.

In a recheck by the Oakland County Board of Canvassers Tuesday, the results were the same as those made by Waterford Township officials after the polls closed Monday.

Patterson said, "I have decided not to ask for a recount. The Waterford Township officials were very, very accurate and I don't think a recount would turn up two or three extra votes."

key men in Tshombe's army and government.

The decision to freeze troop movements was reached at a meeting of U.N. representative Ian Berendsen of New Zealand and Col. Anders Kjellgran, Swedish commander of 2,000 U.N. troops garrisoned in Katanga.

It could end a Katangan offensive against Baluba rebels in the north of the Province, where U.N. troops have been little more than observers.

In New York, the United States was reported urging Belgium to pressure Tshombe into swinging his mineral-rich land into a federation of Congo states.

Informed sources said the United States also is pressing Belgium to keep her nationals from going to Katanga as mercenary soldiers.

Diplomatic sources in Leopoldville, the Congo's capital, said they believed the Security Council's proposals may be acceptable to President Joseph Kasavubu's government.

These informants said it depends on the interpretation.

A proposal for reorganization of Congolese military forces was viewed as meaning some form of cooperation between U.N. and Congolese troops.

There is an example of such cooperation now in Leopoldville. Nigerian and Congolese police share traffic duties and operate joint patrols.

Washington Was Weary

but with less hope of answering its expectations."

SOON DISPELLED

But the gloomy reservations in Washington's mind were soon dispelled by his fellow countrymen. As it has done with no other president, the office sought the man in George Washington.

He conducted no campaign, made no election promises, yet received the unanimous mandate of the Electoral College.

No other man had been seriously considered.

And although the ordinary citizens had not voted for Washington (electors were chosen by state legislatures in those days), they soon showed that the choice had their enthusiastic approval.

Crowds of neighbors and friends met him outside Alexandria, near his home, and accompanied him to the Maryland line.

There another throng met him in Georgetown, feted him and passed him out of town to the committee from Baltimore.

By the 19th, Washington had progressed as far as Wilmington, Del.

The next day, at Philadelphia, high officials of the state and cavalry, artillery and infantry troops escorted him into the city.

It was here, 12 years earlier, that Washington and the remnants of his battered army had spent the bitter winter of Valley Forge.

Here the Revolution had reached its lowest ebb.

RETURNS TO TRENTON

Then, after spending the night in Philadelphia, came Trenton, N.J., known to every schoolboy as the place where Washington defeated the Hessians. Then on to Princeton, site of another battle.

The procession through the New Jersey countryside was a repetition of the others as Washington was handed on from committee to committee along streets and roads lined with cheering well-wishers.

Finally, a week after his journey began, he reached Elizabethtown and met the committee from New York.

There, after reviewing the troops, Washington boarded a specially built barge which was to take him across New York Harbor.

As soon as it was under way, the barge was joined by an armada of other craft, decked out with flags and bunting. Some of the boats carried choirs which sang odes to Washington.

Ships with guns fired salutes and foreign vessels dipped their colors.

As he stepped off the barge at the foot of gaily decorated Wall Street, New York went wild as human voices tried to outdo bells and cannon. Not yet famous for their ticker tape, New Yorkers showered Washington with flowers.

It was not until April 30 that Washington was to be inaugurated, but the days of waiting did little to quiet down the city.

It rapidly, swelled to overflowing with visitors, foreign dignitaries, newly elected congressmen and other government officials. Latecomers slept in tents set up in vacant spaces.

HISTORIC DAY

Early on the morning of the 30th, the bells of the city began a prolonged pealing. About noon, a procession left Washington's house and began its short way to the Old City Hall, newly refurbished and renamed the Federal State House.

After meeting the members of Congress, Washington stepped out onto a balcony facing Broad and Wall streets, where his statue now stands.

The ovation he received from the densely packed crowd, even though he had been subjected to days and days of similar demonstrations, caused the great man to be visibly moved and seek the support of a chair.

After a few moments, the crowd fell silent as Washington rose and moved forward with the state chancellor. Then he took, for the first time, the now famous presidential oath.

Refinery Near Borger Is Ripped by Explosion of Gas Fractioning Unit

BORGER, Tex. (UPI)—A violent explosion shook the Phillips Petroleum Co. refinery today and the explosion and a fire which followed it killed or injured a number of construction workers.

The Texas Department of Public Safety reported six confirmed dead and later quoted an unconfirmed report that 10 were killed. Sheriff Hugh Anderson said he knew of seven injured.

A morgue was set up in the basement of the North Plains hospital to identify the victims.

Officials of the plant shut out newsmen and issued this statement:

"At 9:10 a.m. (CST) an explosion and fire in the gas fractionating unit at the Phillips refinery occurred. At the present time, the fire is under control and the cause of the fire and extent of the damage are unknown. Some injuries or fatalities may have resulted to construction workers in the area."

Wayne State Scholarship Applications Being Taken

BIRMINGHAM — Applications for the first Wayne State University scholarship sponsored by the University's Alumnae Club of Birmingham now are being accepted by the organization.

High School students from the Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Franklin and Lathrup villages have until Saturday to submit their registrations to the Scholarship Committee, 1139 Emmons St.

The scholarship will cover tuition for the fall semester and will be renewable. The winner will be decided on the basis of character and citizenship, financial need, academic achievement and seriousness of purpose, according to Mrs. John L. Thurber, committee chairman.

She said applications are available from school counselors.

Funds for the scholarship were raised by the alumnae through the card parties, a December bazaar and the sale of the "International Cook Book" which was published by the club.

Marion Tate of 1172 Bird is president of the organization.

The Birmingham branch of the Secretary of State office at 292 Park St. has extended its hours as the Feb. 28 deadline nears for obtaining 1961 license plate tags.

Branch manager Delbert Ayles said his office will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, through March 1.

In addition, he said the branch will be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday.

Say Reds Own Quemoy, Matsu

British State Islands Are Communists', Skip Question on Defense

LONDON (UPI) — The British government stated point blank today that the disputed offshore Chinese islands of Matsu and Quemoy belong to the Communists.

Edward Heath, the lord privy seal, was asked in the House of Commons today if the government continued to recognize the disputed islands, occupied by Nationalist Chinese troops, as part of Red China's territory.

"Yes sir," the lord privy seal replied.

Heath, however, dodged the question when asked if he would "give an assurance that in no circumstances will the government allow themselves to be committed to war by the U.S. or anyone else in order to keep (Nationalist Chinese president) Chiang Kai-shek in the Chinese coastal islands."

separately, to vote for one bargaining unit or the other.

Pilots outnumber engineers and engineers have expressed fear that their union may ultimately be wiped out.

"This ruling does not automatically apply to other airlines," Goldberg said.

He also emphasized that the new commission cannot alter the mediation board ruling.

It will, he added, study the whole question, in a broad way, of job security of employes and related representation rights.

While the commission conducts its inquiry, Goldberg said, "the status quo will be maintained so that nobody's rights can be affected at these other airlines."

United's engineers have not gone on strike.

Prison at Jackson Worse Than in '52

LANSING (UPI) — Southern Michigan Prison Warden William H. Bannan today told the Senate Appropriations Committee the inmate situation in his prison is worse than it was just before the 1952 riots there.

"The only difference is that now we're better equipped to handle it if something does happen," he said.

Bannan, state corrections director Gus Harrison and other officials appeared before the committee as part of a series of regular hearings on budget requests.

UAW Sets Conference

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers Union announced today it will sponsor a conference at Chicago March 4 to discuss means of attacking the unemployment situation in the farm implement industry.

Hapless Woman Driver Has Nothing but Trouble

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI)—While Mary Bryant was telephoning police to report that she had been in an automobile accident, someone stole her wallet containing $150.

When the police did arrive, they charged her with causing the collision. Still later, Miss Bryant learned it would cost her $400 to fix her car.

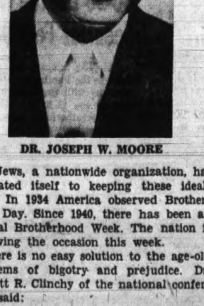

Congregations Brotherly

Their Generosity Saved Day

For centuries civilization has fought to gain and preserve the basic human rights of religious freedom, tolerance and the brotherhood of mankind. Our nation was founded upon just such principles.

But brotherhood must exist first in an individual's own heart before it can exist in a neighborhood, a community or between nations.

The National Conference of Christians and Jews, a nationwide organization, has dedicated itself to keeping these ideals alive. In 1934 America observed Brotherhood Day. Since 1940, there has been an annual Brotherhood Week. The nation is observing the occasion this week.

DR. JOSEPH W. MOORE

There is no easy solution to the age-old problems of bigotry and prejudice. Dr. Everett R. Clinchy of the national conference said:

"By getting to know the other fellow, the one who has a different creed, race, or national origin than yours, by understanding his viewpoint, ambitions and goals, you will find the old prejudices disappear."

Dr. Joseph W. Moore, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, 123 Wessen St., tells of a warm friendship with another minister while serving a church in Schenectady, N.Y.

"One of the finest examples of Christian Brotherhood showing interracial and interdenominational understanding and better race relations, was demonstrated on Nov. 27, 1957 in the city of Schenectady, N.Y., where I formerly pastored the Friendship Baptist Church.

WARM FELLOWSHIP

"The Rev. Dr. J. Edward Carothers, pastor of the First Methodist Church, and I had enjoyed a warm fellowship in exchanging pulpits, choirs, and youth fellowship groups.

"In 1957 Friendship Church had the opportunity to purchase the property of the First Baptist Church, which included a beautiful sanctuary, educational building and parsonage.

"We engaged in a building fund campaign, and even though several other churches made contributions and our people responded well, we still were about $1,000 short of our goal.

"The First Methodist Church was observing its 150th anniversary with a week of special services.

"Dr. Carothers secured permission from his bishop, and the First Methodist congregation voted to give all of its anniversary offering to the Friendship Baptist Church building fund. The sum amounted to $1,200.

"The generous gift enabled us to close the transaction and secure the other property."

Planes and Buses Crowded as Strike Grounds Aircraft

By United Press International

Travelers whose flights were canceled by an engineers' strike against six major airlines are flocking to other airlines, trains and buses today but the rush is intense in only a few of the nation's cities.

Unstruck airlines, railroads and bus lines reported the most dramatic rush in the East.

In most cities, the travel business is normal or slightly above normal. Only long-distance runs are affected in the Midwest, West and South.

At New York, the Pennsylvania Railroad planned to send out two extra trains to Washington today and added cars to trains bound for the Midwest. Business is up 50 per cent since Friday, the railroad said.

The New York Central Division at Boston said it is "overwhelmed" with demands for seats on its Chicago-bound train, The New Haven Railroad added 15 coaches and 15 sleeping cars to take care of a 25 per cent increase in traffic between New York and Boston.

20 COACHES ADDED

Continental Trailways bus lines at New York said it has added at least 20 coaches to its daily schedule.

At Washington, a Capital Airlines spokesman said flights are going out with empty seats.

"The public apparently thinks the entire industry is shut down," he said.

Extra planes, railroad cars and buses are taking care of travelers leaving Chicago, host to about 19,000 conventioneers. But railroad and business spokesmen said the travel crush does not compare with the Christmas holidays or that of the last major railroad strike.

MORE FLIGHTS

United Air Lines added flights to New York and Washington, Delta put on an extra flight to Atlanta and Miami, Capital sent an extra plane to Detroit and Chicago and Braniff added a plane to Kansas City, Oklahoma City and Texas.

The Greyhound bus line's Chicago depot said it put on extra buses to New York and travel is "a little heavier than ordinary to Detroit.

"It hasn't been anything to crowd us," a spokesman said.

Most railroads have hooked extra cars to trains leaving Chicago for either coast. A spokesman for the Milwaukee Road said an upswing in the number of reservations from the East has led to the addition of cars on its West Coast-bound trains.

A New York Central stationmaster in Chicago said the rush is beginning to taper off. The flight engineers' strike entered its fifth day today.

Minister Plans to Carry Torch for Disarmament

DETROIT (UP)—A Unitarian minister plans to carry a torch miles through the streets of Detroit tonight to demonstrate his support for disarmament.

The Rev. Curtis Crawford said he will walk half the perimeter of a circle 4½ miles from Detroit's Civic Center. This area, he said, would be obliterated if downtown Detroit were hit by a thermonuclear bomb.

Mr. Crawford, an instructor at New York University, said he will walk the other half of the circle across the Detroit River in Windsor.

U.S. 7th in Shipbuilding

LONDON (UPI)—The United States ranked seventh in construction of shipping in 1960, Lloyd's Register of Shopping reported today.

Bolivia's 'State of Seige' Results in Arrest of 85

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI)—The government has arrested 85 of its foes under a "state of siege" imposed to counter alleged subversion by Communists and other opposition groups, the interior ministry said today.

President Victor Paz Estenssoro told a news conference the government does not plan "for the moment" to censor Bolivia's newspapers. He said the country was "completely calm."

Business Recovery Robin Fluttering Into Sight?

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Some first stirrings of business recovery are heavening today the midwinter statistical gloom.

Most of the figures tell how bad things are—or were when the soundings were taken. And most of the sighters of industrial trends and probers of consumer motives and intentions hold that things must get worse before they get better.

But here and there are some dissenting voices. And here and there are some more hopeful statistics.

Loudest of the voices are in the stock market. For some time now they have been forecasting a return to better times. Rising stock prices have gone counter to the statistics. Often they have done this near the end of a recession.

Today's strong market tends to ignore the widespread drop in corporate earnings. It believes at least it is looking beyond the long decline in industrial output that has boosted the unemployment totals and brought depression itself to some areas.

But purchasing agents of many big corporations are saying that cutbacks in business activity, if not over, are at least in sight in many cases.

STEEL BETTER

Current steel production — if only for one week—has climbed higher than in any week since last June. This admittedly is no boom since mid February's output is still 45 per cent below a year ago.

Some steel executives are cautiously predicting gradual improvement in demand as the year proceeds. Most have been on the soothsaying sidelines since their year ago overoptimism tripped them up.

Several home building experts are forecasting a modest pickup in demand and construction. F.W. Dodge Corp., housing data collector, looks for some improvement, if mainly in apartment housing.

Mortgage lending at savings and loan associations has shown year-to-year gains for three straight months. The United States Savings & Loan League says one reason is that savings are running well over a year ago.

Much of the optimism in business circles as well as in the stock market is based on expectations of what Washington may do.

Lower mortgage interest rates are being pushed. Lower long-term interest rates in general are also the aim of the administration. And the Federal Reserve System apparently will lend a hand by entering the long-term U. S. securities market to keep yields moderate.

The administration also has taken some steps toward putting more spending money in some consumer pockets. It is urging Congress to take even bigger steps in that direction.

The auto makers as usual are building up optimism with spring only a month away. This doesn't hide the present large stocks in dealers' hands. But spring is supposed to help that. Meanwhile, steel men say, the auto makers are still holding back on ordering steel, just in case.

The recovery signs are thus faint at the moment. But those with an eye for them can find a few.

And with most of the official figures still on the gloomy side, we can use any hopeful signs that pop up.

U. of M. Bandsmen Big Hit in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—The University of Michigan Symphonic Band moves to Leningrad tonight for the second concert of its four-week tour of the Soviet Union.

Already, the bandsmen are a big hit.

The opening concert of the tour here Tuesday night was received warmly by some 6,000 Muscovites who couldn't get enough Gershwin tunes.

Several thousand persons crowded around the bandstand after the two-hour concert, plugging for encores and shouting "Gershwin."

The band responded with five encores — but no Gershwin tunes.

Switzerland has more than 1,500 lakes—1,360 are in the Alps, 125 in the lowlands and 30 in the Jura Mountains.

Quick Relief from Pile Irritation

40 years ago a Buffalo druggist created an ointment to relieve itching and smarting of piles. It brought such quick, cooling, soothing, astringent relief that its fame spread across the land making Peterson's Ointment a favorite in thousands of homes. Ask your druggist today for 55c box or 85c applicator tube. Peterson's Ointment delights or money back.

Even Lighting Needed in Recreation Room

Don't neglect the lighting in the recreation room of your home, the American Home Lighting Institute advises.

You should provide even lighting throughout the area by installing one surface or recessed fixture for every 40 square feet of floor space. In addition, ceiling fixtures should be placed over game areas such as table tennis or shuffleboard.

Defector Loses His Newspaper Subscription

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—A copy of the Laurel News Leader was returned by the Post Office Department with the wrapper stamped "Moved — Left no address."

Fidel to Tell Liquidation of Rebels

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro is expected to announce that clean-up operations against rebels in the Escambray Mountains are "coming to an end" and should be completed within five or six days, an unofficial report from Cienfuegos said today.

The report said that the prime minister would soon make a television appearance to announce for the second time in five months —that his army and militiamen had swept the insurgents from their mountain strongholds in South Central Cuba.

The Ministry of Armed Forces kept the security lid on the Escambray situation and denied any knowledge of the report.

Opposition sources in Havana claimed the government is planning to repeat its performance of last October, when it announced the liquidation of the insurgents in the Escambray Mountains and tried more than 200 persons on charges of participation in the anti-Castro fight. Five were executed.

Rhodesian Premier Mobilizing Forces

SALISBURY — Southern Rhodesia (AP) — Premier Sir Roy Welensky mobilized his white-supremacy government of the Central African Federation today against a race war he charges the British government is inspiring by insisting on more self-rule for Negroes in Northern Rhodesia.

Sir Roy called up 5,000 territorial troops and summoned the Parliament of the federation—linking Southern and Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland—for an emergency session Friday.

From the federation's capital here he flatly rejected the British plan to enlarge the North Rhodesian Parliament to give the Africans a louder voice in governing the protectorate.

National Law Group Picks Gossett of Ford

The American Bar Association, meeting in Chicago, has reelected William T. Gossett of 420 Goodhue Road, Bloomfield Hills, as chairman of the Fellows of the American Bar Foundation.

Gossett, vice president and general counsel of the Ford Motor Co., heads an ABA organization composed of 674 lawyers who promote legal education and research.

Nixon Set to Leave for West Coast

B JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is about to take off for California with his future political plans still up in the air.

The defeated Republican presidential nominee, delayed in Washington by the airlines strike, hopes to make final arrangements on the West Coast to announce early in March a connection with a Los Angeles firm for the private practice of law.

Despite some published reports that he may be thinking about running for governor in California, Nixon has told friends here he has come to no decision about his political future.

Washington's Traditions Have Guided Americans

GEORGE WASHINGTON could have had anything he wanted at the end of the Revolutionary War, up to and including the title of king. Such was the esteem and veneration in which he was held by Americans.

Even as duly elected President, Washington could easily have usurped great powers and set the United States on a course directly opposite from that which it has taken. He might well have continued in office until his death and set a pattern of self-perpetuation for his successors.

With a bad first president as a model, it is conceivable that future administration change overs might have become the palace revolution type so familiar in many countries.

We now have a constitutional amendment limiting presidents to two terms. Many feel that it is unnecessary and even unwise. But had WASHINGTON not established this tradition, as well as the tradition of devotion to self-government under law, there may have been no constitution left at all.

Washington set a standard of leadership, not only for presidents but for all public officials, that has played no small part in making this country what it is today.

Why did WASHINGTON shy away from power and self-aggrandizement? Other leaders in history, men more brilliant than he, have started with idealism and ended in despotism. Some have begun in devotion to their people and ended with the conviction that they alone were qualified to rule.

WASHINGTON himself would have answered that he did not desire to rule over men. He was a country gentleman, an agriculturist and a student of gracious living in the fullest sense of the word.

But that much is self-evident. The real answer could not be given without a complete study of the individual, his environment and the influences that shaped his life.

It is easy to understand that Washington was aware of all the dangers mentioned above. Like other great men who were his contemporaries, he knew the world's sad history of injustice and oppression. They wrote into the Constitution as much of the wisdom that could be distilled from their knowledge.

More important, however, WASHINGTON brought to his office a deep sense of responsibility toward the new Nation in particular and the human race in general. He possessed the kind of humility only truly great men possess. He was, indeed, the Father of His Country.

True Picture Not Given in Boat Census Figures

Talking boating when most of Oakland County's 423 lakes are still firmly within winter's grip may seem out of line, but boating is never out of season in Oakland County. Although the wraps are still on the county's fleet, a few warm days will open the fitting-out season.

Secretary of State James Hare announced boat census figures recently, and pegged Oakland County's registration at 27,467. But don't believe that this is the number of hulls that the area claims in the open-water season.

Although HARE's figures average out to 66 boats per lake, the true figure for Oakland County's boat count is much higher, for two reasons. First, this 27,000 figure, out of 343,000 in the state, is based on boats that are registered.

There are quite a few boats under 16 feet without motors, which do not have to be registered. These include some sail boats and rowboats used without motors, often by fishermen.

The major boost to Oakland's boat count, however, comes from nearby Wayne County. There are thousands of boats registered to Wayne County residents who regularly haul them to Oakland lakes. The steady stream of cars pulling boats on our major highways each summer weekend indicates this.

The line-ups at launching sites is further evidence of the popularity of our waters for those who live outside the county.

Considering the large number of boats being used locally, and the varying degrees of boating experience possessed by owners, last year's boating record in the county was not bad. Three persons drowned in boating accidents.

Let's hope that as the lakes become more crowded, we can add more caution to boat operation and keep the accident total down.

The Man About Town

Oldest in County

Club This Evening Holds Its 66th Annual Banquet

Washington: Who couldn't tell a lie; a trait now unknown in Washington.

Organized away back in the closing years of the last century, the

Holly Washington Club

now is the oldest such organization in Oakland County. We wonder if it isn't the oldest in Michigan.

Founded principally through the efforts of the late

Rosenkrans K. Divine,

it long has perpetuated the memory of the man whose birthday we celebrate today.

This year's meeting, through the instrumentality of its President, will consist principally of a revival of the recollections of those who have taken part in the 66 programs, or who were officers of the club.

Thomas E. Hadley,

The first newspaper assignment in the life of the present architect of this column was to cover the meeting of the club on Feb. 22, 1895, and it will be my pleasure to do some of the reviewing this evening.

Bible student or not, you cannot fail to be impressed with the series, being published in this newspaper every day until Easter.

"Lenten Guideposts,"

After being informed that a committee of 20 "bird dog" Democrats has been appointed to watch his doings at Washington, Congressman

Charles E. Chamberlain,

Republican, who represents the district that borders our Oakland County on two sides, asks them to make their headquarters in his office at the national capital, with all records open to them. However, he reserves the right to do some bird dogging on them.

It is quite fitting that Pontiac's

Kenneth P. Anthony

was recently elected president of the Michigan Cemetery Association. He surely knows that work as for several years he has been superintendent of local cemeteries, and succeeded his father in such capacity.

If we all had the faculty of spreading wholesome joy like of 675 East Beverly St., it would be a better world. For many years she has distributed flowers and other happy messengers where they do untold good.

Bordering our Oakland County, Fenton Village, according to its long time President, will vote on March 13 on the question of becoming a city.

Harry Lemen,

Verbal Orchids to—

How Fortunate We Were

Central Federation Ready to Pop

Another African Pot Is Bubbling

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Violent emotions stirred by black Africa's determination to guide its own destinies threaten to erupt soon in another vast area of the Dark Continent.

It is in the Central African Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland where the national aspirations of more than 12 million Africans are running head-on into the determination of less than half a million white settlers determined to retain the gains of generations.

This week, after more than two months of bickering over proposed constitutional reforms, the Africans charged that Britain had "sold us down the river to the fierce and reactionary white minorities of Central Africa."

The Central African Federation is a governmental hodge podge put together by Britain in 1953, with an area equal to California, Texas and New York combined.

Southern Rhodesia, with a population of 233,000 Europeans, is a self-governing British colony with its own prime minister. Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland are British protectorates with a European or white population of about 230,000.

Prime minister of the federation is tough, 54-year-old Sir Roy Welensky, a Rhodesian of Russian Jewish parenthood who married a South African, Dutch Protestant girl.

Welensky outranks the prime minister of Southern Rhodesia, Sir Edgar Whitehead.

One of South Rhodesia's neighbors is the Union of South Africa with which it has strong economic ties.

And, like South Africa, it practices racial segregation which has been described as even more thorough than South Africa's "apartheid."

In theory, legislation which discriminates against Africans is subject to veto by the British secretary of state for commonwealth relations. In practice, the veto never has been exercised.

Southern Rhodesia's segregation policies are the chief reason for the bitter opposition to federation in both Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland, and the reason why this week the African leaders charged they had been "sold down the river."

Man in the middle is Welensky.

Many of Africa's nonwhites distrust him, yet he himself has declared that a man should be judged by his achievements and not by the color of his skin.

On the other hand, his political opponents who advocate total white supremacy, have accused him of advancing the nonwhites too fast, especially in politics and education.

Welensky has declared:

"I stand for as much freedom of the individual as is good in relation to the interests of the rest of the community."

At the moment, he does not feel that an African-governed federation would be good for the community.

As the constitutional conference in London was breaking up, he said:

"Nationalism, supported as it undoubtedly is by communism and with equal certainty by elements we know so well in Britain and the United States, can produce the bloody chaos we see in the Congo, the uncertainty of Kenya, or the unruly mob that is from time to time let loose in Nyasaland."

The Country Parson

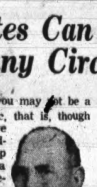

"There are some things a committee can't do — especially the things you should be doing."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Diabetes Can Be Found in Many Circumstances

Even though you may not be a potential diabetic, that is, though you may not have inherited the tendency to develop diabetes or a weakness or deficiency of the islands of Langerhans in the pancreas, it is well to know that diabetes is just such a weakness, a functional weakness.

DR. BRADY

Since diabetes is a functional ailment, there is no sharp borderline between ordinary or better than-ordinary capacity to metabolize or use carbohydrate (starch and sugar) and the degree of impairment of this function which we call diabetes.

The blood of a healthy person always contains from 0.07 to 0.12 per cent of sugar. If as much as 0.13 per cent is found in the blood of a person who has had no food for eight or ten hours, the person probably has diabetes.

Normally there's no sugar in the urine, but sugar may be found in the urine of a healthy person who has overindulged in any kind of starchy food or sweets. This is called alimentary glycosuria. It clears up within 24 hours, if the individual goes easy on the eats or skips a meal by way of penance.

But sugar is found in the urine in many circumstances unrelated to diabetes such as pregnancy, hyperthyroidism, following anesthesia.

In a few cases, maybe three or four in a thousand, sugar is constantly present in the urine, even after an overnight fast, yet the blood sugar level is constantly normal.

This is known as renal glycosuria — the kidneys spill a little sugar although there's nothing the matter and the individual does not have and is no more likely than any one else to have diabetes.

I have smoked many a cogitative pipe over the question whether—and I have been unable to convince myself of the wisdom of telling in a health column how to make the sugar test.

But if you really think you should know how, send 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope for Little Lesson 23, Training for Diabetes.

DRANK MUCH WATER

The scientific name for diabetes is diabetes mellitus. Mellitus means sweet. Nuff sed. This reminds me that there is a rare ailment called diabetes insipidus—no sugar in the urine, but enormous quantities of urine—in the only case I ever saw, the 24-hour volume of urine amounted to four to five gallons, and of course the patient drank enormous quantities of water. Insipidus means tasteless.

In several communities in recent years mass urine tests have been made in an effort to discover unrecognized diabetes. Through local medical society, health board, and civic organizations the people have been urged to bring urine specimens—in clean two-ounce, four-ounce, or half-pint bottles—to conveniently located drugstores, fire stations, or other collection points, for free tests.

Most diabetics make a belated discovery of what ails them because they don't think they need medical advice or, if they do go to the doctor he omits the routine urine test.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Help Husband Cure Sex Complex

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE H-415: Donald D., aged 47, is the husband of Doris, who was a typical menopausal wife.

When I interviewed him at more length, he finally gave this report:

"Dr. Crane, Doris isn't the only one at our house who has sex worries.

"For several years I have been scared at my lack of ardor, fearing DR. CRANE I would be on the shelf.

"And for the past two years, our marriage has been entirely platonic.

"Maybe that is one reason why my wife has been doubly disturbed over the elopement of our only child.

"Without telling my wife, I finally consulted a genito-urinary specialist who prescribed hormone shots.

"Well, I took them for six months with no significant improvement, so I have even contemplated suicide. Is there no hope for me?"

MEN'S MADNESS

Men often get into a dangerous mental state, based on false sex notions.

Many a young husband throws himself into Donald's dilemma just because fear and misapprehension render him platonic on the honeymoon.

Such young husbands not only contemplate suicide but occasionally check out via a gun or a leap from a hotel window.

For they get so dejected and addicted to self-deprecation that they think, "I'm no good to my wife, so I might just as well free her so she can marry some fellow who is O.K."

All of us physicians encounter these cases routinely, both among young men as well as husbands of Donald's age bracket.

For the male is more easily upset than the female in marriage.

ADVICE TO WIVES

MOST wives don't realize that they can drive a good husband into a platonic state both by active ridicule, unfavorable comments and aspersions, as well as indirectly by lack of enthusiasm and indifference.

Even though a wife is deflated or worried about her charm, she can still perform her wifely role, since she is a passive partner.

But the husband must be active, and a minor mental quirk can hamstring him in a matter of minutes so he is impotent thereafter.

Donald could easily have been cured if his physician had retained the proper prestige in Donald's eyes.

But that doctor was apparently used to a rough and tough type of clientele, so he employed vulgar language that shocked Donald. That shattered the medic's "halo," so his hormone shots were thus doomed to fail.

For a patient may receive literally hundreds of shots without showing any sex improvement at all, if his mind has meanwhile not been treated!

So I had a tactful interview with both Donald and Doris, during which I outlined these vital facts for married couples:

(1) It is a fallacy to think there is a limited amount of erotic fluids in the male. Regular function produces longer vitality of an organ, rather than reducing its lifespan.

(2) It is the duty of a good wife to stimulate her husband! If he is platonic, the fault is not the man's but pertains to his wife.

(3) A cooperative wife can banish her mate's sexual defeatism in one night. She is far superior to all the male sex hormones that we medics can inject into his arm.

(4) A husband may be platonic with the wife whom he loves devotedly, yet be free from impotence with somebody else, so it behooves a wife to fight fire with fire.

So send for the booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. It helped Doris quickly banish Donald's problem.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 6c stamped, self-addressed envelope and he is glad to give you professional advice. When you send for the psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People:

'Governor Disregards Vote Against State Income Tax'

By inference, the voters of Michigan rejected an income tax in voting for an increased sales tax. It seems that the Governor is disregarding the majority opinion in pressing for a state income tax.

The income tax would inevitably involve high costs in collecting, administering and auditing the tax, whereas the machinery for the sales tax is already in operation and involves no additional administrative expense.

As interesting question could very well be asked by all taxpayers: How did the state government carry on before we had even the 3 per cent sales tax? The sales tax itself was initiated as a "temporary" measure. Perhaps Swainson should be advised that a little economy would not be entirely out of order in government.

Exactly what do we receive for our state tax money now that we did not get in the years prior to the state sales tax?

'Nothing Is Done About Vicious Dog'

Why does a decent neighborhood have to tolerate a vicious dog? If this same neighborhood had a person within it who was dangerous, authorities would take steps to remove said person.

The fact that a dog has had rabies shots does not preclude the possibility of it biting or even killing a child.

Police say that nothing can be done until the dog attacks. This dog has attacked a child and has bitten him so that seven stitches were necessary. All the owner did was to pay the doctor's bill.

If a wild animal were at large, it would be shot. Is this a dog's world?

'Drive-In Mailbox Blocked by Cars'

What good is a drive-in mailbox if someone is parked in front of it? I am speaking about the box across from the post office on Huron Street. The sign "No parking from here to corner" is mounted on a light pole by the box, the curb is yellow for a couple of car lengths beyond the pole, but the sign is in the wrong place. People park there thinking only of the sign, not of the people who would like to use the box.

I have called the Pontiac police three times but nothing has been done. Who can fix this situation?

'Selfishness, Greed Lead to Confusion'

We all agree that the world is in a very confused condition and do not know where we are going or will end up. This condition is brought about by the selfishness and greed of too many people.

When people give up their selfish ways and are willing to do more to help themselves and their brother then you will see a great change for the better. God has placed everything on earth that we need for a healthy and happy life if we will make use of it as He intended. He will not force us to do anything but will help us if we sincerely ask.

God is a loving God and does not punish us but we do punish ourselves by disobeying his laws and create hell right within our own bodies consequently we are practically in hell all the time that we are out of tune with His laws. Tune yourselves to the God given fundamental laws and see how much happier you will be—it is certainly worth a trial.

MOVES OUT TO SEA — Moving slowly past a gasoline tank farm along the Delaware River south of Philadelphia, the supercarrier Kitty Hawk heads out to sea Tuesday for final builder's trials. The craft, first to be armed solely with guided missiles, will return to Camden, N.J., in four days. The 60,000-ton carrier is 1,047 feet long and 252 feet wide.

Najeeb Halaby New FAA Head

Nomination Is Okayed With That of Counselor Robert E. Giles

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Commerce Committee Tuesday Kennedy's nomination of Najeeb E. Halaby, California lawyer-pilot, to head the Federal Aviation Agency.

The committee also approved the appointment of Robert E. Giles, 36-year-old North Carolina lawyer, as general council of the Commerce Department.

Both names now go to the Senate for a final confirmation vote.

Halaby, 45, a graduate of Yale law school and former test pilot for Lockheed Aircraft Corp., was questioned extensively about his views on aviation safety during the nomination hearings.

He replaces former Air Force Gen. Elwood R. (Pete) Quesada, who had come under fire from some critics in the aviation industry.

Kennedy's Book Must Reading Under Hubbard

DETROIT (UPI) — Mayor Orville Hubbard of Dearborn has boosted President Kennedy to second place on his all-time list of most-read authors at Dearborn's City Hall.

Hubbard, who previously had gained nationwide attention with such ideas as compulsory daily "think sessions" for all his department heads, admits he didn't vote for Mr. Kennedy last November.

But now he has bought "20 or 35 copies" of the President's Pulitzer prize-winning book, "Profiles in Courage," and has farmed them out to his subordinates as required reading — a kind of food for thought for those daily think sessions.

This boosts Mr. Kennedy into second place behind Elbert Hubbard (no relation to the mayor) who wrote, "A Message for Garcia."

Holding Pontiac Man on Wife's Complaint

A Pontiac man accused of threatening his estranged wife with a shotgun after forcing his way into her home last month was ordered held for trial yesterday by Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum following examination on a felonious assault charge.

Willie Clay, 34, 85 Utah St., will be arraigned in Circuit Court Feb. 27. The complaint against Clay was signed by his wife, Elizabeth, 37, 175 Luther St.

Officers said that when they arrived Clay dropped the weapon and crashed through a closed window to flee. He surrendered himself at police headquarters a few days later.

Says Russ Could Launch Rockets From U. S. Skies

EAST LANSING (UPI)—The same ability that enabled Russia to hurl a rocket toward Venus from an orbiting satellite could put Soviet nuclear launching pads 300 miles above the United States, says a Michigan State University space theorist.

Dr. Maria v. Krzywoblocki, MSU mathematician and professor of mechanical engineering, said he believes Russia could put hundreds of bomb-carrying satellites into orbit.

The only major technical drawback, he said, is finding a sure way of returning or safely exploding the bomb before it loses orbit and plunges toward earth.

The shot for Venus indicates the Russians may be much further advanced in mathematics and electronics than the United States had thought, the professor said.

Find B47 Wreckage; Four Die, One Lives

HORSE CAVE, Ky. (AP) — Wreckage of an Air Force B47 today lay strewn like tinsel over a nearby farm. The plane blew to bits as it spiraled to earth after a midair refueling mishap.

Only the navigator survived of the five Strategic Air Command crewmen aboard Tuesday night. He bailed out at 7,000 feet and landed in a tree, breaking his left arm.

Unaware of any trouble, the KC97 tanker that had been refueling the six-jet plane at 15,000 feet returned safely to base at Columbus, Ohio.

Officials at Lackbourne Air Force Base there said the B47 carried no nuclear or other bombs, but was outfitted with electronic gear to disrupt enemy radar.

Detroit Attorney to Head Campaigns for Justices

LANSING (UPI) — A Detroit attorney has been named by the Republican State Central Committee to organize the re-election campaigns of Justices Harry F. Kelly and John R. Dethmers to the State Supreme Court.

Robert J. Brown, campaign coordinator for the committee, said Rockwell T. Gust Jr. will organize local committees to work for the two justices.

RONALD MAPLEY

Local DeMolay Sets Installation

Banquet, Dance Also on Program Saturday at Roosevelt Temple

Pontiac Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will hold its semiannual installation of officers Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Roosevelt Masonic Temple, 22 State St.

Also included in the ceremonies will be a banquet at 6:30 and a dance at 9:30.

To be installed as master councilor is Ronald Mapley of 157 Murphy Ave. Ronald, a Pontiac Press carrier for 2½ years, is a senior at Pontiac Central High School where he was recently chosen for membership in the National Honor Society.

He is also an active member of the Hi-Y, Boy Scouts, Order of the Arrow, and Youth Fellowship.

Other officers to be installed include:

Senior councilor, Winston C. Pfahlert; junior councilor, Norm Norgren; treasurer, Jim Moore; deacons, Bill Lister and Art Swartz; stewards, Jimmy Howard and Bill Warren; chaplain, Clyde Mottor.

Also, marshal, Bob Jones; sentinel, Steve Foster; and preceptors, Bob Kibbie, Chuck Hayes, Bob Tricker, and Jack Gillespie. Bob Chambers, Chuck Vahlbusch and James Gillespie.

The installing officers will be from a new club at Michigan State University Oakland which is composed of DeMolays attending the university.

Board to Hear From Architects on School Bids

In a special meeting of the Waterford Township Board of Education at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow, members will receive recommendations from architects on construction bids for additions to the maintenance building and the school board offices.

The low bid of eleven opened at last week's meeting, was submitted by Schwanz Builders of Bloomfield Hills, with a combined bid of $97,000 and a base bid of $39,962 for construction of the office addition.

These two projects are the last of the $5-million school building program approved by school district voters two years ago.

The board will probably take action on the recommendations presented by the architectural firm of George D. Mason & Co., Kalamazoo.

Two other items tabled at last week's meeting will again be up for discussion.

These are the use of instruments at the Pierce Junior High School by the newly organized Civic Band, and consideration of a request by Consumers Power Co. on the location of the gas line from Hatchery Road to the new Waterford-Kettering High School, now under construction.

Union Will Discuss Social Security

Social Security and old age survivors insurance will be discussed tomorrow night in a public program sponsored by the Oakland County AFL-CIO community service committee in cooperation with the Pontiac Area United Fund.

In the 7:15 p.m. program in the Community Service Building, 132 Franklin Blvd., the speakers will be Roy Richley, field representative of the Social Security Administration and Kenneth Himebaugh, assistant state director of old age survivors insurance.

Ask Added Drug Laws

EAST LANSING (UPI)—Stiffer punishments for violation of state narcotics laws and an expansion of the laws to include additional drugs are being urged by the legislative committee of Michigan law enforcement agencies, spokesmen said.

Boy, 9, Rescues Pal From Water

Waterford Pair Had Been Skating on Thin Ice of Williams Lake

A 9-year-old Waterford Township boy who watched his Boy Scout brother practice ice rescue work was credited today for saving the life of a 10-year-old companion as the two skated on Williams Lake.

Although Bruce Gilmore of 4040 Motorway Drive and Kurt Nelsey of 2315 Carlos Drive had been warned by their parents to stay out of a particular area, they just had to test their luck, Mrs. Kenneth Gilmore said.

As the two skated on Williams Lake Sunday, Kurt suddenly crashed through the thin ice up to his neck. He managed to grasp the edge, and Bruce, remembering his brother Terry's instruction, lay flat on the ice, dug his skates in and pulled his friend out of the water.

Beach sand had been dumped on the ice in front of his house by Del-Drive, and during last week's thaw the sand broke through. With Saturday night's cold spell, a thin layer of ice had formed over the water hole, making it dangerous for skating. This is the spot Kurt went through the ice.

"This experience could be a lesson to other children who ice skate on our township lakes," Mrs. Gilmore commented.

Dirksen Opposes Haste With Kennedy Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen cautioned Congress today against tackling President Kennedy's priority legislative program with "undue haste."

The Illinois Republican, unmoved by the agreement among Senate Democratic leaders, to expedite the 16-point Kennedy program, said in an interview that "it's in the country's interest to take a reasonable time to do this job."

Placed Fifth in Domestic Car Sales

'60 Pontiac Top Seller of Class

Auto registration figures compiled by R. L. Polk & Co. show Pontiac the 1960 champion of medium-price car sales among the domestic automotive manufacturers.

It was fifth in total sales.

Automotive News, weekly trade publication, reported 399,648 new-car registrations for Pontiac Motor Division products in 1960, up from 383,137 the previous year.

Ahead of Pontiac as the year ended were Chevrolet, Ford, Plymouth and Rambler.

Pontiac occupied fourth place in total sales as reflected by new-car registrations in 1959, with Rambler in the fifth spot.

The two changed places in 1960 as Rambler registrations jumped from 363,372 in 1959 to 422,273.

CHEVY, FORD SWITCH

Chevrolet led Ford in total registrations in 1960 as the two models reversed the standings from 1959. Plymouth stayed in third place both years.

Rounding out the top 10 cars last year behind Pontiac were Dodge with 356,572 registrations; Oldsmobile, 355,708; Buick, 267,837; Comet, 157,515; and Mercury, 150,724.

The 1960 statistics showed a total of 6,576,650 new-car registrations, surpassed only by the 7,169,908 count of 1955.

Automotive News reported that compact cars accounted for one out of every four new-car registrations last year (24.66 per cent), while the share of imports fell from 10.17 per cent in 1959 to 7.58 per cent in 1960.

(Five new compacts were placed on the market last year. The Comet was introduced in March, Lancer in September, Special and F85 in October, and the Tempest in November.)

Falcon grabbed off the leadership with 461,030 registrations in 1960.

Following were Rambler, 422,273; Corvair, 259,985; Valiant, 192,961; Comet, 157,515; Lark, 106,308; F85, 17,233; Lancer, 16,610; Special, 15,469, and Tempest, 12,335.

That the Tempest's standing is traceable only to its introduction late in the year is borne out by registration figures for December.

The month's registrations showed the Tempest ahead of the Lark, F85, Special and Lancer. The December count was Falcon, 35,608; Rambler, 31,637; Corvair, 24,752; Comet, 15,537; Valiant, 12,285; Tempest, 8,972; Lark, 7,333; F85, 6,808; Special, 6,426; and Lancer, 5,606.

Although registrations of Pontiac Motor autos was up for the year, the division's share of the total market was down from 6.33 per cent in 1959 to 6.08 in 1960.

Automotive News reported losses for last year in penetration of the market, in descending order, as follows: Ford, down 2.75 percentage points; Studebaker, 0.59; Oldsmobile, 0.56; DeSoto, 0.35; Mercury, 0.32; Pontiac, 0.25; Lincoln, 0.17; and Imperial, 0.05.

The biggest penetration gain was made by Dodge, 2.65 percentage points. Also gaining were Chevrolet, 2.31 percentage points; Rambler, 0.41; Plymouth, 0.32; Chrysler, 0.14; and Cadillac, 0.03.

Pontiac's penetration of the market was greatest in December, 6.65 percentage points.

The December share was an increase of 0.78 per cent over the 5.87 per cent share of the market taken by Pontiac in November.

December registrations showed Pontiac third, trailing only Chevrolet (145,107) and Ford (119,523) in that order. Behind Pontiac's 36,205 registrations were Oldsmobile, 34,446; Rambler, 31,883; Plymouth, 30,272; Buick, 27,526; Dodge, 22,295; Comet, 15,537; and Cadillac, Tempest, 8,972; Lark, 7,333; F85, 14,296.

Labor Organizing Lobby for JFK's Aid to Aged Plan

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Organized labor is launching a big lobby organization with interested outsiders to help put over President Kennedy's Social Security health aid plan for the aged.

The AFL-CIO announced Tuesday it is combining forces with others supporting the plan to combat opposing drives by the American Medical Association, the American Bar Association and such business groups as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and National Association of Manufacturers.

Kennedy has proposed an extra quarter-cent payroll tax on workers and their employers to finance an aged health plan added to the Social Security system. This would replace the program adopted under former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration to finance health benefits for the aged out of the U.S. Treasury.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said in announcing the new organization to push for the Kennedy plan, that financing health benefits for the aged through Social Security would enable workers to buy insurance against health costs in their advancing years.

"Most people retire on small savings and a modest pension," Meany said. "In most cases they can't afford to be sick."

Kennedy's Social Security financing plan has been attacked by the medical association and other organizations as a step toward socialized medicine, a contention hotly denied by the AFL-CIO and other Kennedy plan advocates.

Hoffa Criticizes Ban on Boycotts

Says Rule Designed to Make All Unionists Strikebreakers

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa says the federal ban on secondary boycotts will force unions into a position where "if one strikes, all strike."

Hoffa said the ban was designed "to make a strikebreaker of every union man in America." He referred to a section of the Landrum-Griffin Act.

Hoffa, speaking Tuesday night before the Westchester chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management, said local unions eventually will stop dealing with local management and will seek to deal on a nationwide basis and strike on a nationwide basis.

CONTRACTS TO EXPIRE

He noted that contracts covering 500,000 Teamsters will expire simultaneously Feb. 1, 1964. This timing was made necessary, he said, by the Landrum-Griffin Act which he said requires workers to cross the picket lines of other unions.

Hoffa told the 225 executives he would welcome a merger of the Teamsters with the AFL-CIO from which the Teamsters were ousted. He said all organized labor groups belong together in order to present a united front in dealing with management.

Rejects Cuban Break

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—The government has rejected demands for an immediate break in relations with Cuba, saying it lacks "indisputable proof" that that country is meddling in Colombia's internal affairs.

Carnahan Raised as Humphrey Quits Steel Post

PITTSBURGH (UP)—George M. Humphrey resigned Tuesday as board chairman of National Steel Corp. He will continue as a member of the board of directors and chairman of the executive committee.

The board of directors named President Thomas E. Millsop as the new chairman and chief executive officer of the corporation, fifth largest steel producer in the nation.

Paul Carnahan, chairman of the board of Great Lakes Steel Corp. of Detroit, was elected president. Great Lakes is a subsidiary.

Cockpit Trouble Cancels X15 Try for Speed Mark

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The X15 rocket plane's flight — billed as an attempt to set a new world speed record — was canceled Tuesday only thre minutes before it was due to be dropped from a B52 mother ship over the desert.

The Air Force said pressure in the pilot's cockpit failed. Date of the next try was not announced.

Can You Bake a Cherry Pie, Young Lady?

CHICAGO (UP)—The best cherry pie in America will be selected today.

Winners from 50 states are competing in the 29th annual contest sponsored by the National Red Cherry Institute.

The national winner will be crowned 1961 cherry pie baking champion.

The national champion receives a college scholarship, an electric range, and an educational trip to Washington, D.C., and New York City.

While in the capital, the champion traditionally presents the prize winning pie to the White House.

Among contestants this year is Vicki James, daughter of Betty Grable and Harry James. She is state champion of Nevada and lives with her parents in Las Vegas.

The contestants are mostly members of 4-H and Future Homemakers of America. Each was accompanied to Chicago by a chaperone, usually a home economics teacher or youth group leader.

Judges include home economists, newspaper and magazine food editors and youth organization leaders.

The champions are judged on baking technique, quality of pie and personal character.

Winners include:

Michigan-Bonnie Brunals, 17, RR 1, Box 95, Bear Lake.

David Thompson, explorer and mapmaker, made his way to the Columbia icefield by way of the Saskatchewan River in 1807.

Demonstrators' March in Wixom 'Not Unplanned'

A demonstration in front of the Ford Motor Co's. Lincoln Plant in Wixom yesterday apparently was not the "spontaneous" event it was reported to be on a television station.

William D. Singleton, plant manager, said the men who took part in the demonstration carried placards which stated they were out-of-work truck drivers protesting the transporting of new automobiles by railroads.

The men, according to Singleton, showed up shortly before the television crew arrived and left after the cameras which recorded the incident were taken away.

Holly Twp. Farmer Hurt as Tractor Pins Him

A Holly Township farmer escaped serious injury when his tractor flipped over and pinned him underneath yesterday afternoon.

Bill Adkins, 29, of 1418 M57 was driving the tractor through the barnyard when it hit a hay wagon and rolled onto him.

He was rushed to McClaren Hospital in Flint where he was reported in satisfactory condition today with minor chest injuries.

Walking expeditions to the snow-capped peak of Mount Kilimanjaro, highest mountain in Africa, are regularly arranged for tourists.

Broomfield Flies to Defense Talks

To Discuss Protection of North America With Canadian Counterparts

Congressman William S. Broomfield, R-Oakland County, flew to Ottawa, Canada, to discuss defense of North America with his Canadian counterparts.

Broomfield was one of 24 representatives and senators who will attend meetings to iron out rough spots in America's relations with its closest neighbor in matters of trade, production, mining, Great Lakes water diversion, pollution and mutual development of water resources.

The Americans will meet with members of the Canadian Parliament and the executive branch of the Canadian government.

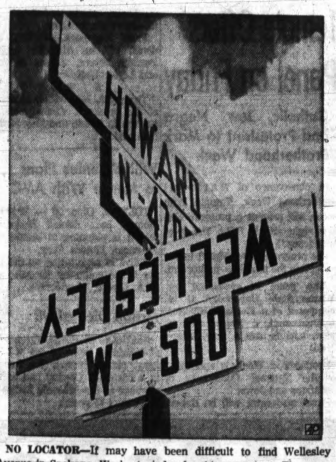

Broomfield, the only Michigan congressman on the trip and one of two members from the House Foreign Affairs Committee, was named to discuss problems of sharing defense production, nuclear weapons and responsibilities within the North American Air Defense Command, in addition to coordination of efforts on disarmament plans.

"Because Canada has been such a good neighbor over the years, we sometimes tend to take this nation's contributions to our own peace and security for granted," said Broomfield.

"We want to work out our mutual problems so that our efforts will work further toward solutions which will be fair to the citizens of both our nations in our search for world peace."

Host for the talks is Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

Hospital Expects Blue Cross Dole

$100,000 Advance to Mean General Won't Have to Borrow

A $100,000 advance from Blue Cross, expected today, will mean that Pontiac General Hospital won't have to borrow operating funds to meet what hospital officials have described as a continuously deteriorating cash position over the past few months."

Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator, said the Blue Cross funds were obtained as an advance on the final settlement expected between the hospital and the insurance company in April. The hospital expects the settlement will top $100,000.

Last week, the board of trustees authorized borrowing from a local bank for funds to cover the payroll and outstanding bills.

Euler said that a special plea to Blue Cross after the authorization resulted in the agreement on the $100,000 advance. He said the check, expected today, "allows the hospital to cover fully all accounts payable."

Clay, metal, wood and asbestos are modern roofing materials and the most popular of all is asphalt shingles.

Group Warned About JFK's School-Aid Plan

County Young Republicans last night learned of the dangers of federal aid to education from James C. Covert, superintendent of Royal Oak schools.

He termed President Kennedy's $5.7 billion aid to education plan "unacceptable" and suggested it be replaced with what he called a federal "general assistance fund" that would aid schools according to need.

Covert told around 75 Young Republicans who met at "The Showcase" in Birmingham that federal aid and federal control are inseparable.

"For every $11 Michigan contributes to federal aid funds it would get back $7," he said. "This is like saying we're going to collect $11 from everyone for welfare funds, but most of us will get back $7 right away. What point is there in kicking in that $7 to begin with?"

Waterford Mother Finds Baby Dead

A Waterford Township mother found her baby daughter dead in bed at 8:30 a.m. today, the possible victim of a deadly virus.

The frantic mother, Mrs. Doyal Creamer of 1374 Coleman St., called township police who in turn notified the fire department.

The child was warm when firemen applied the resuscitator, but all attempts to revive the 13-months-old child Christine failed, and she was taken to Pontiac General Hospital.

The Creamers' two other children, a boy, 5, and a girl, 3, are being cared for by neighbors.

Mrs. Creamer told police that her baby had been ill early last night, but had gone to sleep and not awakened during the night.

Talked Into It, Then Out of It

GILROY, Calif. (UPI)—A liquor store clerk averted an armed robbery by using his tongue.

G. F. Riley, 69, said he told a pistol-toting gunman he was "crazy" to try a holdup and then struck up a conversation with him.

"My wife was nagging me to get more money," the bandit said. Then he meekly put his pistol away, paid for a can of beer he had ordered and walked out.

Double for Ava Is a Girl of Many Talents

MELBOURNE—When U.S. film producer Stanley Kramer was in Australia filming On the Beach, he wanted a double for the star of the movie, Ava Gardner.

He got his girl, and in the same package deal got a ranking model, an auto stunt driver, a qualified chemist, winner of a beauty contest, a used-car dealer, a competitor in round-Australia car trials, an inventor and employee of a big Australian rubber firm.

All these different people were in the lonely, energetic, 23-year old, blonde-topped form of Betty Morgan of Melbourne who manages to carry on all of her varied test chemist in a rubber factory interests at the one time.

You mightn't think that a young lady driving a sports car at 90 m.p.h., or doing acrobatic stunts on a motorcycle, would have much time or inclination for displaying the models of haute couture, but Betty has won—two years in succession—the Melbourne Mannequin's Academy Award.

And if you think working as a should be enough for any one girl, be informed that Miss Morgan not only does this but conducts several prosperous used-car salesrooms as well.

She also finds time to bend her active brain to chemical problems—she once owned her own drug store, but quit it when she won a beach girl contest in 1958—and intends to enter business as a manufacturing chemist with a number of formulas she has patented.

This, however, will have to wait until she's finished with the rubber firm.

She feels she can't stretch her time too far . . .

Income from tourism in Austria reached $92,200,000 between January and June, 1960, an increase of 18.7 per cent over the first six months of 1959.

Emergency Solons Set In Case of Nuclear Attack

LANSING (AP)—If judges or members of the legislature are killed in an enemy attack, others would quickly step into their places under a plan submitted to the legislature with bipartisan support.

The proposal, providing for emergency replacements for jurists and lawmakers, carries out a plan started in 1959 to make certain that state government will continue even if officials fail to survive a nuclear attack.

Laws already enacted provide for emergency successors to the governor and other top elective officials.

Rep. Joseph J. Kowalski, D-Detroit, and Allison Green, R-Kingston, Democratic and GOP floor leaders in the House, sponsored a measure requiring the 144 members of the legislature to name at least three emergency interim successors and specify the order of succession.

They also cosponsored a bill requiring the governor to designate three emergency judges for each member of the Supreme Court, and circuit, probate, common pleas, recorders and superior courts, as well as any other state or municipal court of record.

Local authorities would name successors to justices of the peace.

Temple Offers Panel on Friday

Catholic, Jew, Negro and Protestant to Mark Brotherhood Week

In observance of National Brotherhood Week, Temple Beth Jacob will present a program Friday night titled, "The Panel of Americans."

The program is scheduled to begin at 9 in the temple's auditorium.

The panel is sponsored by Wayne State University. It is composed of a Roman Catholic, a Protestant, a Negro, and a Jew, who is also a new American.

Brotherhood Week is sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Panel moderator will be Hubert G. Locke, counselor of religious affairs at Wayne State.

Panel members, all WSU students, will be Alfredine Jordan, Patricia Myers, James McKillop and Lester Kalisher.

Damage by Fire in Pontiac Down From December

Fire damage in Pontiac last month totaled $14,645, down from $22,635 in December.

There were no fatalities from fires either month.

Per capita, the fire department says Pontiac lost $0.18 in January. The December figure was $0.28.

Last month firemen answered 136 alarms, compared with 184 in December.

Of these 54 were fires in buildings, 1 a grass and brush, 2 rubbish, 1 dump, 1 miscellaneous, and 7 in motor vehicles.

In all, 55 runs were to fires, down from 73 the previous month. There were 50 rescue and emergency runs and 12 false alarms, the same number of false alarms as in December.

There were three injuries by fire in January, one more than the previous month, and the department made 223 inspections, 12 more than in December.

Mrs. Glenn Reynolds of Drayton Plains puts the finishing touches to pretty 3-year-old Tami Salley's bonnet while Michael Carter, 5 looks on with disinterest. The group is getting set for the Waterford Jaycette's second annual fashion show and card party to be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday, at the Community Center in Waterford Township.

New Styles to Parade

"La Chic Madame" is the theme of the Waterford Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary's second annual fashion show and card party to be held at 8 p.m., Feb. 28 at the Community Center.

To be presented amidst a setting of hat boxes, fresh flowers and silhouettes, the show will feature suits, coats, day and evening gowns selected from the Phyllis Lee Shop modeled by Jaycette members.

The "small fry" will parade in frilly stand-out dresses, charming bonnets, and the boys—in the very latest 'little-men' fashions.

Narrator for the fashion show will be Mrs. Arthur Salley who also has charge of the ticket sale. Robert Lawson will play background music on an electric organ provided by the Wiegand Music Center at Miracle Mile.

Those attending the affair will have a choice of card games, with the winner of each table receiving a prize.

Jaycette models are Mrs. Rudy Mansfield, Mrs. James Williams, Mrs. Richard Schwab, Mrs. R. J. Sanderson, Mariam Harrington, Mrs. G. E. Starkweather and Mrs. Carroll Welch.

The public is invited to the affair. All proceeds will be given to the Oakland County Medical Care Facility. Tickets will be available at the door.

But Don't Fight—Abby

Do Help Him Grow Up

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Louie and I are happily married, but there is one thing we always fight about. He has five sisters and four brothers . . . all married. And we live within driving distance of each other.

Now, Abby, I love his family but I would like to see somebody else once in a while. Not Louie! All he wants to do is go to one of their houses, or invite them to ours (and you know how Italian families are — you can't invite one without the other).

Don't get me wrong; I enjoy being with his family, but isn't there something wrong with a man who doesn't care to make a few outside friendships?

LOUIE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: A person who refuses to venture outside his own family circle for friends usually lacks the initiative and self-confidence it takes to cultivate friendships. If you can't help him, don't fight him.

DEAR ABBY: My Mommy and Daddy got a divorce and I live with my Mommy. My Mommy says that Daddy is a very nice man. When Daddy takes me to his place on Sundays, he says that Mommy is a very nice woman. If my Daddy is so nice and my Mommy is so nice, please tell me why they couldn't get along with each other and stay married?

PATTY ANN (Age 9)

DEAR PATTY: Because they didn't try hard enough.

DEAR ABBY: There is a real cute boy on our block and I like him very much. But another girl on our block has her eye on him, too. How can I get him to notice me before he notices her?

IN A HURRY

DEAR IN: Don't be in such a hurry. Boys are not fish—the one who sees him first doesn't always land him. Play it cool and take your chances.

DEAR ABBY: Bless your heart for advising the wife of a mental patient to stick by him and not divorce him. I am presently under treatment in a mental institution and I know that if I didn't have my husband to go home to I would have nothing to live for.

FIGHTING TO GET WELL

DEAR ABBY: I just found out that my mother's maiden name is on my birth certificate, which means that she was not married to my father at the time of my birth. She is dead now. I know that I am illegitimate, but that's not my problem.

I was married at a large church wedding and have four children. I am worried sick over the fact that they are illegitimate because of my history. Where do they stand?

VERY WORRIED

DEAR VERY: You have nothing to worry about. If YOU were married before the birth of your children, THEY are legitimate.

Hallmark of Quality

A well-made suit or coat has tape secured along the inside edge. Home economists at Michigan State University say this hidden feature insures a firm, smooth line along the edge of the garment.

Cookies to Be Sold by Scouts

Girl Scouts of Northern Oakland Council have set March 3 through March 12 for their annual cookie sale. Girls in green and brown will canvass the area selling three kinds of cookies — chocolate mints, assorted sandwich and a new peanut butter pattie.

The price remains 45 cents a box. According to cookie sale chairman Mrs. Carlyle E. Bragen, no advance orders will be taken in the area. Proceeds of the sale support Camp Sherwood on Davis Lake near Lapeer where local girls spend many happy summer hours. A successful cookie sale permits these girls to enjoy a resident camp experienced at one of the lowest available fees.

Camp improvement and maintenance is a direct end-product of the sale. Last year proceeds were used for new kitchen equipment, a freezer and a new furnace and oil heater for the camp's winterized segment.

Although five cents of each box of candy sold goes directly to their troop's treasury, the scout's enthusiasm for the cookie sale is based on their interest in their camp. Use of facilities for year-around camping by individuals and troops has increased steadily over the past decade.

Orchard Lake Couple Cited for Service

By MARJORIE EICHER
Women's Editor The Pontiac Press

A husband and wife volunteer team were cited for outstanding service to the community by the Central Volunteer Bureau of United Community Services in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gadd of Orchard Lake are to many area residents "Mr. and Mrs. Youth Hostel." They have shared their home, talents and skills with members of a growing organization that encompasses three counties.

Hosteling, long limited in this country to college campuses and the east, has grown in leaps and bounds in Oakland County. Much of the growth can be laid to the dedicated effort of the Gadds. Their Indian Trail home has been headquarters for skiers, canoeists and European bike hostelers. Here an air of ease, comradeship and goodwill mixes pleasantly with adventurous enthusiasm.

The Gadds have stimulated effort in the building of a bunkroom at the Anna Foote Memorial Hostel at nearby Kensington Park. They enlisted the work of over a hundred volunteers in this ambitious project. Everybody had a rousing good time in the process.

Their teamwork spills over into other community enterprises. Mr. Gadd has long been associated with the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra in which he is a member of the violin section and official librarian. Mrs. Gadd is business manager of the orchestra and presides over the coffee urn and cookie tray at rehearsals.

Current interest of this dynamic pair is enlarging the teen-age wing of hosteling. They'd be glad to hear from interested young people who share a love for wholesome adventure.

Ardent workers for American Youth Hostel Association, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gadd of Orchard Lake (at left) received a community service pin from the Central Volunteer Bureau of Detroit's United Community Services. Adding his thanks to their efforts was Alfred Hyams of the Youth Hostel Council.

Father of Bride Assists With Church Ceremony

Baskets of white gladioli graced the chancel of the Gingellville Baptist Church for the Saturday afternoon vows of Elizabeth Ann Mercer to John D. Freeman.

Dr. and Mrs. James W. Mercer of Elizabeth Lake Road are parents of the bride and the bridegroom is the son of the Daniel Freemans of Baldwin Road.

A fingertip veil of French illusion, held by a headpiece of pearls and sequins, complemented the bouffant bridal gown of imported white silk. Feathered white carnations centered with a white orchid rested on the bride's white Bible.

Mrs. Clayton Carter of Birmingham, as matron of honor, appeared in dark blue silk taffeta and held a cascade of white and yellow carnations.

The bridegroom had his cousin Clayton Carter for his best man. Daryle Freeman and James Mercer, brothers of the bridal couple, seated the guests.

The new Mrs. Freeman, who attended Pillsbury College at Owatonna, Minn., chose a navy blue sheer wool sheath dress for the honeymoon. The couple will live in Tampa.

Receiving some 150 guests at the church reception, Mrs. Mercer was attired in a gray wool suit with white accessories.

The mother of the bridegroom chose a purple jersey dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white carnations.

MOMS Unit Two Has Luncheon

MOMS of America, Inc., Unit 2, was received by Mrs. Carl Cox in her Northfield Avenue home Tuesday for a schoolgirl luncheon. Mrs. David Edwards was appointed chaplain to fill a vacancy. Towels were hemmed for Pontiac General Hospital.

The March 7 meeting will be at the Franklin Road home of Mrs. Arno Hulet.

MRS. JOHN D. FREEMAN

Club Directors Plan Election of Officers

The Wever-Owen-Hawthorne-Alcott Community Club's newly elected board of directors will meet for an election of officers Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. John Emerson of West Chicago Avenue will be hosts for the 7:30 p.m. gathering.

Members of the board, named at the annual meeting in the Hawthorne School, include Mrs. Norman Bolton, Mrs. Gordon Allison, Mrs. Charles Dugas, Mrs. Ford Drumm, Mrs. Golman A. Dillon, Mrs. Cordie Hereim, Mrs. Arnold Simson, Mrs. Merle Parent, Mrs. John Emerson and Mrs. John Maxwell.

Others are John Couture, Warren Dubay, Fred Harroun, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Oltesvig, Floyd P. Miles, Leslie Hudson, Jasper Price, Kenneth Gidley and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gray.

John W. Hirlinger, manager of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce, spoke and showed the film, "The Pontiac Story of Progress and Promise," at the meeting.

Mr. Hudson announced improvements scheduled for Hawthorne Park in 1961 by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, and L. R. Stanley, Floyd P. Miles and Mr. Gray discussed the advisability of entering a float in the Centennial Parade.

Discuss Plans

Mrs. Fred Vollrath of Mark Road opened her home for the February meeting of Beta Mu chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority. Mrs. Jack St. John and Mrs. Frank Morton served refreshments.

Plans were discussed for the May convention to be held at Dearborn Inn.

Pennsylvania's mines yield a greater tonnage of anthracite coal than is produced by any other state.

SPRING HAIR STYLING

While the emphasis this spring is on the brief and casual effect in hair styling, it is going to require some important basic work to achieve.

First, the shaping is more important than ever. Your hair will need vitality and body. This means treating winter locks and a good basic permanent planned carefully for you.

Start with a modified bubble, a bit closer to the head (shaping does it) and then watch the fashion trends for your own variation of the casual look.

Landscaping Program Set at Waterford

"Maximum Planning with Minimum Maintenance," — a discussion on basic landscaping will be given by guest speaker Lavern Bueche of Troy, at an all-day program on horticulture tomorrow at the Waterford Township Community Center.

Sponsored by the Michigan Division of the Woman's National Farm & Garden Association, the Waterford branch will be hosting the event, according to Mrs. Norman Hill, chairman. She has been assisted by Mrs. Ralph Bump, Mrs. James Green, Mrs. Mark Stewart, Mrs. E. L. Windeler and Mrs. Arthur Arnold.

The program, which will also feature demonstrations on preservation of plant materials, propagation by layering and similar topics, will be under the direction of Mrs. J. C. Calhoun of Birmingham, state chairman of horticultural workshops.

The event is open to the public and a fee of 50 cents will be charged. Those attending have been asked to bring a sandwich, and coffee and doughnuts will be served by the hostess club.

During the afternoon, slides on landscaping will be shown by the guest speaker who operates a landscape service in Troy. Bueche also has offered to personally advise those who bring drawings or photographs of their problem areas.

Mrs. Kennedy in Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and her daughter were back in the White House today after a three day rest at the Kennedy retreat near Middleburg, Va.

Mrs. Kennedy drove back to Washington Tuesday. She flew to Middleburg with the President and daughter Caroline in a helicopter Sunday.

Decorating the White House family quarters still was going on and will be for some time, Pamela Turnure, Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary said.

Painters are working on the living quarters.

The First Lady's first guests, once the quarters are in shape will be her sister and her husband, Count Stanislaus Radziwill of London. They are currently vacationing in Jamaica.

Don't Let Feelings Block Line to Children

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The other day in answer to a mother troubled by her 13-year-old's rudeness, I suggested that she try to recover her original response of hurt and indignation and express it simply and immediately to the child.

It may not be easy. Today many factors make it difficult for us to say "You have hurt me and I don't like it" to an insolent child.

One of the factors is the indoctrination by the child-centered psychologists who have made it almost impossible for us to feel our own feelings any more.

We've been told so consistently to concern ourselves with the child's feelings that our own right to some has become vague. When the youngster we've asked to curtail her telephone conversation retorts with a demand that we mind our own business, we are confused and helpless.

Instead of expressing our own feelings toward her rudeness, we start trying to "understand" the feelings in her that produced the rudeness.

We think, "Maybe Joan has been frustrated by some social situation at school she has to discuss with her friend . . . maybe she's seeking support for anger at some teacher . . . maybe she's worried about homework. What is the emotion in Joan that has driven her to snap off my head?"

Now Joan's reason for snapping off our heads is her affair, her responsibility. If we are always going to take the responsibility from her by trying to figure it out ourselves, Joan is never going to learn to make her own contribution to human relationship.

It is only when we can take responsibility for our feelings, that Joan begins to take some for hers. Instead of expecting us to figure out her reason for her prolonged phone conversation, she will explain it herself.

To our statement, "You have hurt me and I don't like it," she will answer, "I had to get Gloria's history notes because I missed the assignment." She may even add "I'm sorry I was rude, mother."

This is life, communication between people. But when we deny children any expression of what we feel about the things they do to us, nothing takes place between us but stagnation and impasse.

Invulnerable parenthood is a bad ideal. That we've been saddled with it is why the young so often treat us like conveniences instead of creatures with feelings like those they have themselves.

Student Art Exhibited

CRANBROOK — An exhibition of works executed by students at Cranbrook Academy of Art opened Saturday, in the lower galleries.

This will be a continuing exhibition of current student art and crafts which will remain until the middle of May. Objects in the show will be changed periodically.

Represented will be pieces from all departments of the academy—painting, graphics, sculpture, design, metalsmithing, weaving, ceramics and architecture.

Occasionally some of the objects from the exhibit can be purchased through direct contact with the student.

Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries are open Saturdays and Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m. Admission is free.

Oakland Nurses Convene

The Public Health Nurses' Section of the Oakland County District Nurses Association attended a dinner meeting Tuesday at Devon Gables.

Weigh These Words:

Warm Up for Exercises

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here is a letter which will inspire the women who are following my eight-week self-improvement marathon. For one day each week during Marathon I give the entrants a little help.

"After quite a few years I have mastered my proportion problem. I have always been large across the back and 2 inches too large in the waist. This made it discouraging to shop.

I started your Marathon several times before but never stayed on it because something always happened; meetings, illness, company or something.

I found the answer for me, I get up 20 minutes earlier than the rest of the family and stretch while the coffee is perking. I used to exercise too strenuously and be exhausted and sore. This time I took it slow and stretched all of my muscles lazily for 10 minutes each morning.

"Then as the soreness left I would do just enough more each day to feel only a little sore. For the last 10 years I have weighed about 139 pounds. Now I weigh 128 pounds.

That isn't much weight to lose, but when I reduced before I did not exercise. Although I got slimmer I was still out of proportion and couldn't buy a skirt in my size which I could fasten at the waist.

"I have lost 3 inches in the waist and have a better figure now than I have had since I was 20 years old. I am 48.

"I used the image of models to make myself eat less. Also a cartoon I saw cinched it. This showed a husband lying on the divan looking out of a picture window at the attractive, slim women passing by while his overweight wife sat beside him. Many husbands will not tell their wives that they would like to have them reduce but they think it."

This letter emphasizes the value of exercise in a reducing routine. Without it you just get smaller all over. With it you distribute your weight more attractively.

Another thing, many women start in exercising too strenuously and too long and become discouraged by sore muscles. Follow the line this reader followed in exercise; take it slowly but do not give up just because of a little muscle soreness.

If you, too, have meant to start Marathon, or started and fell by the wayside, you can still join.

If you wish to do so send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet.

You can lose weight and improve yourself generally. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

This is one smart sleepy-time gal. She's stretching and getting her muscles in shape before beginning her daily exercises.

How a Few Years Change Our Attitude

By RUTH MILLETT

Do you remember when—

A husband expected a night out "with the boys" now and then but no wife in her right mind demanded an occasional evening "with the girls"?

College girls thought they had to choose between marriage and a career instead of assuming that a job and marriage go together like a horse and carriage?

A woman who had a household allowance was considered lucky, instead of underprivileged for not having a joint checking account?

Saying, "I love the color of your hair" to a woman who was helping nature out a bit would have been considered the height of cattiness instead of a frank compliment?

Junior's misbehavior at school was a matter to be settled between Junior and his teacher—and not through a conference with his mother?

A young man waited to propose to a girl until he could answer "yes, sir" the first question he knew her father would ask: "Can you support my daughter?"

Children were more familiar with the command, "You'll have to ask your father" than "Go ask your mother; she's the boss"?

Families sat for a long time talking at the dinner table because there was no TV program some member of the family couldn't miss?

A housewife would have preferred to be known as "a good manager" than as a "community leader"?

A husband who never wanted to go anywhere was praised for being a "family man" instead of low-rated for being anti-social?

Parents blamed their children when they did wrong, instead of blaming themselves?

Remember?

Fellowship Class Host to Congo Missionaries

The Rev. and Mrs. George Kennedy, missionaries returned from the Belgian Congo, presented the program as over 50 Fellowship Bible Class members of First Baptist Church met Tuesday for a cooperative dinner.

Mr. Kennedy, who offered devotions on "The Empty Tomb," played two trombone duets, accompanied by his daughter Charlene on the accordion. The couple's daughter JoAnne and son Billie sang a duet with piano accompaniment by Charlene.

Mrs. Kennedy concluded the program with color slide views of the Holy Land where the family toured last year on the way home from the Congo.

Dinner was served by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Armstrong and their committee, George Stockwell was program chairman. Murray Deighton of Birmingham, class teacher, opened the meeting with prayer.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice,

How can I alter a cotton bowling skirt so the gabardine shirt tail will 'stay in' and look as neat as possible during bowling?

Mrs. M.J.P.

Dear Mrs. M.J.P.:

The best suggestions I can give you will apply to the shirt and not the skirt. First, be sure the shirt tail is long enough. It should be at least 5 inches below the waistline. The following instructions will tell you how to apply a casing to the shirt for a tie.

1. Tie a string very tightly around your waistline, over the blouse.

2. Raise your arms up and down, also stretch them forward as you would when you are bowling. This will release the extra fabric you will need for comfortable ease and action.

3. Mark just below the string, with pins or white marking chalk, this will be your waistline guide.

4. After you have removed the blouse, baste over the waistline marks so they will appear on the wrong side.

5. Machine stitch a ½" strip of cotton bias-binding to the blouse, top edge of binding will just touch the basting guide line. The bias strip should begin at the outer edge of the blouse on the right front, and stop about 1½" from the oupter edge of the left front.

This bias-strip has now formed a casing. You can thread a small cord or string through the casing and tie it in front. This actually will work beautifully with blouses of all types that have a tendency to slip out.

Dear Mrs. Farmer,

What is meant by a half-size pattern?

Mrs. C. S.

Dear Mrs. C. S.

A half-size pattern is designed for the woman with a more mature figure. They are shorter waisted, and have more allowance for ease. These patterns are designed with the most becoming lines possible to make a woman look slender.

Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"One of the things I like most about your column is that you help beginners like me as well as women who have done a lot of sewing.

I have trouble just pinning the parts of the dress together before I sew it on the sewing machine. What is the best way to make the pieces match each other and the ends to come out even?"

Mrs. S. J. K.

Dear Mrs. S.J.K.:

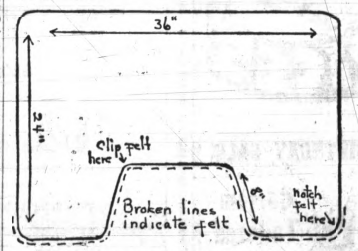

One of the most important steps to remember in making a garment is to use a flat surface when pinning or assembling any parts of your garment.

Often a table isn't convenient, so we find ourselves using our lap or some cramped space.

A perfect solution to this is the use of a lapboard. To me it is indispensable because it can be kept close to your sewing machine and when you need a flat surface, you merely push yourself back from the machine and place this board on your lap.

Since this item is not available on the commercial market, I am giving you complete instructions for one.

The lap board should be cut out of ½-inch fiber board, any other type material would be too heavy. If you make a paper pattern from the sketch given below, you may be able to get a lumber company to cut it out for you—or maybe you have a handy husband.

For added convenience, cover the board on one side with felt. This will keep the fabric from slipping. The felt should be cut about ¾ of an inch larger than the board. It can be glued on with household glue. Be sure to notch out the excess felt on all outer curves and to slip to the edge of the board on all inner curves. Now glue these outer edges of the felt to the other side of the board. Please let me know how you like it.

The Wrong Seat at Right Time

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: My wife invited a young lady to our house for Sunday dinner. Later in the afternoon we attended services at our church.

Driving to church, my wife put the lady between us on the front seat, but in church she herself sat between the visitor and me.

I told her the visitor should have sat in the center, the same as in the car. Will you please tell me if this seating arrangement was correct.

A: It would have been better if your wife had done just the opposite. Sitting between you in the car, your guest had the most uncomfortable seat, while in church she would probably have preferred sitting between you.

Q: I have noticed that at several parties to which I have gone lately, several friends will gather together and form their own small group and sit and talk together the entire evening.

I think this is very bad manners and that when invited to a party, all guests should mingle. I would like your opinion on this.

A: It is very natural for several friends at a party to gather into a group and talk about things that interest them.

If, however, they do not wish to make the effort to mingle and make conversation with the other guests, a thoughtful hostess will see that some leave the group to talk with any of her other guests who seem to be neglected.

Q: Is it permissible to put my girl friend into a taxi after our date and send her home alone? She lives at the opposite end of town from where I do and to see her home would mean that I wouldn't get home until so late it would cut my sleep to the point of handicapping my efficiency at the office next day.

The taxi would take her straight to her door and certainly would be safe. I would very much appreciate your opinion on this matter.

A: To send her home alone at night would be improper. You must see her safely to her door yourself.

Plans were announced for March 20 when members and their husbands will be guests of the Community National Bank. A talk on money management and investment will be a highlight.

Have You Tried This?

Three Cheers for George and His Cherry Tree

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

It's Washington's birthday and we have to have a cherry recipe today—naturally. Mrs. Ross Walls has one for us, a cherry roll dessert. You'll need a can of tart red cherries, the ones grown and canned in Michigan, we hope.

Mrs. Walls is active in the Colonial group of her church. Her hobbies are knitting and bowling.

CHERRY ROLLS
By Mrs. Ross Walls

1 recipe for baking powder biscuits
1 can tart red cherries
1 tablespoon sugar
Melted butter or margarine

Prepare a recipe of baking powder biscuits. Roll out ¼ inch thick and spread with the melted butter or margarine. Cover with drained cherries. Sprinkle with sugar.

Roll up like a jelly roll and slice 1½ inch thick. Put slices in buttered ring mold or in an 8x8 pan. Bake 45 minutes in 400-degree oven, or until brown. Serve with hot cherry sauce. Serves 4-6.

Cherry Sauce

½ cup sugar
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
Juice from cherries plus enough water to make 1¼ cups
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon vanilla

Mix sugar with cornstarch, add juice and water. Boil 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from stove, add melted butter and vanilla. Serve hot over Cherry Rolls.

Make Plans

Group III, Pontiac Chapter 228, Order of the Eastern Star, completed plans for a jewelry demonstration in March at the February meeting in Masonic Temple.

Mrs. James Gilloe was honored on her birthday.

Hostesses were Mrs. Mabel Reynolds and Mrs. Millard E. Hopkins.

Merely a Coincidence

RACINE, Wis. (UPI) — The judges said it was just a coincidence, but the sculpture award at a wax company employe art exhibit went to a figure E. L. Estes carved in wax.

HER SOLDIER HONORED — General of the Army Douglas MacArthur and Mrs. MacArthur are pictured in this smiling embrace at their New York hotel apartment after ceremonies marking the 16th anniversary of the liberation of the Philippines in World War II. Gen. MacArthur and his comrade in arms, Philippine Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo, were presented bronze plaque awards in commemoration of the liberation. They had landed together at Leyte in October 1944 at the start of the drive to regain the Islands.

Our Flight Engineers Nurse Today's Planes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Flight engineers now on strike are an outgrowth of the swing toward bigger and more complicated airplanes.

Twin engine planes that handled most of the passenger load before World War II needed only a pilot, copilot and stewardess as its crew.

But the four-engine ships introduced toward the close of the war were far more complicated and the flight engineer was added to the crew.

It's his job to operate some of the levers, which watch instruments and in other ways take some of the burden off the pilot so he can concentrate on actually flying the plane.

Before the plane takes off, the flight engineer in many instances goes through an elaborate inspection, checking pressures, fuel tanks and inspecting the tires for defects.

After he boards the plane, the flight engineer cooperates with the pilot and copilot in going through a check list of more than 100 items that must be ticked off before the plane can depart.

The flight engineer also often starts the plane and makes fine adjustments of controls during take-off. The pilot and copilot thus can concentrate on seeing that the plane is making proper progress down the runway.

Once the plane is airborne, the engineer continues to keep close tabs on the instruments and also does a great deal of fast bookkeeping.

Publisher's Spelling Irks Texas Physician

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Dr. Roy A. Crouch, child psychologist and marriage counselor on the University of Houston faculty, has received literature for years from a book publisher in Dallas, but has never placed a single order with the firm.

"And I never will," Dr. Crouch added, "until they stop sending mail to me addressed 'Dr. Roy A. Grouch'."

Average age of an automobile on a farm is eight years.

Big Families Answer to High Meal Costs

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — While it may not be true that two can live more cheaply than one, the University of Minnesota's Institute of Agriculture says it costs less per person to feed a large family than a small one.

The per-person cost of food in a family of five is 5 per cent less than in a family of four. In a family of six, it's 10 per cent less.

Dems Are Alone on Child Clinic

'Against' Policy of the County GOP to Take Stand on Branch Office

County Democratic leaders will have to go it alone in striving to keep the Birmingham branch of the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic. County Republicans said it is against their "policy to take positions on issues of this nature."

In an answer to James M. Glen, county Democratic chairman, GOP Chairman Arthur G. Elliott said: "We have been fully aware of the problems of the clinic, but it has not been the policy of our organization to take positions on issues of this nature."

"It is our feeling that such matters are best resolved through the serious consideration of the citizens of Oakland County, rather than by organization endorsements which may or may not reflect the thinking of the organization's membership."

"I strongly urge the citizens of the county to take the necessary time to study the problem in question, and then make their wishes known to their duly constituted representatives on the County Board of Supervisors," Elliott said.

Elliott is also Pleasant Ridge supervisor.

Dodge to Drop Welk for Ad Flexibility

DETROIT (UPI)—Chrysler Corporation's Dodge Division has announced that it will drop sponsorship of the Lawrence Welk television program June 10 to "increase its flexibility" in future advertising.

Dodge has been a sponsor of the ABC show since 1958, exclusively until January 1960, then as cosponsor with the J. B. Williams Co.

The Welk show was first signed as a network regular by William C. Newberg, then head of Dodge, and Jack Minor, then Dodge advertising director. Both men have since been fired in disputes over conflicts of interest.

Public 'Too Tolerant' About Growing Evil

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California Attorney General Stanley Mosk said Tuesday the American public is too tolerant of evil in big business, big labor and big rackets.

He told the San Francisco Exchange Club that increasing crime statistics reflect a "moral breakdown" among the populace.

Accident Fatal to Boy

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — Gregory A. Simmons, 4, son of William Simmons of suburban Wyoming, suffered fatal injuries late Tuesday when, police said, he apparently ran into the side of a moving car. The boy died last night at St. Mary's hospital.

Smile Over Profit Sharing

Sears Employes Get '60 News

If you visit the Sears, Roebuck & Co. store in Pontiac today, you'll see extra big smiles on the other side of the counter. And for good reason—the employes, as part owners of the company, have just received some good news.

At meetings held this week, manager Howard M. Nelson told the employes that they now have a total of $2,255,063 credited to their accounts in the employes' profit sharing fund.

Fund members were given statements showing how they shared in Sears' profits last year, and the value of each member's account, which is set aside for his eventual retirement.

The 199 local fund members include employes of the retail store at 154 N. Saginaw St. and the warehouse at 481 N. Saginaw.

Nelson said the holdings of local fund members included 31,332 shares of Sears stock and other securities amounting to $500,463 as of Dec. 31, the end of the fund's fiscal year.

More than 148,000 men and women across the nation are members of the savings and profit sharing pension fund of Sears, he said. This is an increase of more than 4,000 members since a year ago, he pointed out.

The 148,000 members include more than 12,000 employes of Allstate Insurance Companies, which each year contribute to Sears' profits.

HOWARD M. NELSON

The employes profit sharing fund, which is Sears largest single shareowner, held more than 26 per cent of the company's outstanding stock at the end of 1960. In addition to the large investment in Sears stock, the fund's assets also are invested in the stock of more than 100 diversified companies and in other miscellaneous securities.

ASSETS OVER BILLION

Total assets of the fund as of Dec. 31 exceeded $1.4 billion. Of this amount, some $170 million was contributed by employes from their wages and salaries. The remainder came from company contributions, investment income and appreciation in value of the fund's investments.

"Sears' profit sharing fund," Nelson said, "is the foundation upon which thousands of Sears and Allstate families build their financial security for retirement. It was established in 1916, when the company was celebrating its 30th anniversary, and had 6,000 members when it began. Now, in our diamond jubilee year, it represents retirement security for 148,000 Sears and Allstate families."

All regular employes of the company who have completed one year of service are eligible to join the fund, he explained. Members of the fund contribute 5 per cent of their wages and salaries, up to a maximum of $500 each year.

The company contributes a portion of its net income. The company's contribution is credited to members' accounts on a formula based on their age, length of service and deposits.

Five Register for March 1-15

Public Speaking Contests to Start in Area Schools

The spring program of the Michigan High School Forensic Association will begin soon in Pontiac area secondary schools.

Local public speaking contests will be held March 1-15. Five schools in the immediate area have registered for participation in the program.

These schools are Pontiac Central, Pontiac Northern and Waterford Township high schools; and Isaac Crary and John D. Pierce junior high schools in Waterford Township.

First and second place winners in each event will proceed to district competition March 20-April 8.

District winners will then go on to the regional contests which conclude the program April 17-May 6.

Engraved desk dictionaries will be awarded to district winners, and regional champions will each get certificates of merit.

The spring events include interpretative, narrative and humorous reading, declamation, oratory, extempore speaking, dramatic monologue and dialogue, lyric poetry, and radio news commentary.

A record 351 schools have enrolled in the 1961 program. The association headquarters is at the University of Michigan Bureau of School Services, Ann Arbor.

It is the second largest program in the nation. Some 8,000 Michigan high school students participated last year.

Other Oakland County area high schools registered include Berkley, Birmingham Seaholm, Bloomfield Hills, Clarkston, Bloomfield Hills, Clarkston, Clawson, Farmington, Hazel Park, Imlay City, Lake Orion, Lapeer, Madison Heights Lamphere and Madison Heights Madison.

Other high schools are Milford, Northville, West Bloomfield Township, Brandon, Oxford, Royal Oak Kimball, Southfield, Troy, Walled Lake, Utica and Warren.

Junior high schools include Walled Lake and Smart Junior High in Walled Lake; and Norup Junior High in Oak Park.

Also registered from Oakland County are Birmingham Country Day and Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows.

AN ENCOURAGING WORD for parents whose teenagers seem to talk on the phone for hours: child psychologists say they're only trying to banish moods of dejection and raise their spirits. Adolescents, it seems, are particularly vulnerable to depression. And telephoning is one way they avoid feeling "down." Perhaps the best psychology for parents is to get their teenagers an extension phone of their own—it costs just a few cents a day. Or, better yet, a separate line. It can raise the spirits of the whole household!

A VERSATILE LITTLE INVENTION called the thermistor (short for thermal resistor) has proved a boon to your telephone service. This supersensitive device—no bigger than a tiny bead—keeps telephone voice transmission at uniform volume. Volume can vary with temperature, and thermistors, reacting to heat and cold, keep the voice level constant. Developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories, millions of them today are hard at work in your nation-wide telephone network. Tiny and efficient, thermistors are another example of how your Telephone Company is constantly working to help keep down the cost of your ever-improving telephone service.

A NEW HOME TELEPHONE service is now available from Michigan Bell. It's called Home Interphone. Here are some of the wonderful things you can do with it • talk by phone from room to room; the person you call can answer "hands free" • answer the door from any phone (via a microphone-speaker by the door) • "hold" and transfer incoming calls to another telephone in the house by using the telephone to page the person being called. Home Interphone is a new Bell Telephone product that makes your telephone service more useful and convenient than ever.

Chances of Proxy Fight Fading Out at Chrysler

DETROIT (UPI) — With nearly eight weeks remaining before a scheduled annual meeting of Chrysler Corp. stockholders the threat of a full-scale proxy fight appears to be diminishing day by day.

Dissident stockholders who have been muttering about starting such a battle received another solar plexus punch by the calendar Tuesday.

When proxy statements are mailed about March 14 for the meeting April 18 the envelopes will include notice of payment of a 25-cent a share dividend to stockholders of record as of Tuesday, Feb. 21.

This is the rate which has been paid without interruption since the second quarter of 1958 except for the extra year-end 50-cent shot in December 1960.

This record would seem to be powerful ammunition for the 20 sitting directors in their battle to retain control of the auto firm.

Chrysler chief L. L. Colbert, the main object of attack, can point to the record when questioned on mismanagement charges with a very convincing air.

Such matters as the fact that as of Dec. 31 Chrysler had net working capital of $431 million the second highest figure in its history, and the fact that at the same time the liquidation value of the firm was pegged at $78 a share nearly double recent market prices, can't be ignored in the proxy picture.

Chrysler's big outstanding debt is a $250 million loan which the firm got from the Prudential Insurance Co. four years ago.

Chrysler has paid the $9,375,000 interest on this long-term note every year with little trouble and during the same period has continued to improve its financial position.

A breakdown made in 1960 of Chrysler stockholders showed that 79,000 of the 86,548 stockholders were individuals or joint tenants who held 50.85 per cent of the 8,885,458 shares outstanding.

Brokers held 27.34 per cent and trusts and estates 21.81 per cent.

These figures clearly throw the burden of proof of the mismanagement charges raised by Sol. A. Dann, Detroit attorney, and other dissidents on the insurgent group.

The control of Chrysler is with the brokers and trusts and this group is likely to be very impressed with the earning record of the present management.

Newark Man Heads American Bar Assn.

CHICAGO (AP) — Sylvester C. Smith Jr. of Newark, N.J., was selected today as the next head of the American Bar Association.

Smith, general counsel for the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, was nominated president-elect of the organization of 90,000 lawyers. Nomination is equivalent to election but his choice will have to await formal ratification at the election at the annual meeting of the ABA in August in St. Louis, Mo.

He will start his one-year term as president in 1962 after a year as president-elect.

GOP to Hold Meeting of Central Committee

LANSING (UPI) — State Republican Chairman George M. Van Peursem said today the State Central Committee will discuss spring election plans at a meeting here Saturday.

The meeting will also concern organization of the committee during the next two years, Van Peursem said.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court outlawed slavery in 1783.

Floats Along on Flower

KHARTOUM, Sudan (UPI) — A Sudanese sailor who fell overboard from a Nile River boat was found 40 hours later floating on a water hyacinth, none the worst for his ordeal except for a skinful of mosquito bites.

Deer Antlers May Aid Fallout Study

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—Those dusty deer antlers you've been meaning to take out of the attic and throw away could help scientists in their studies of radioactive fallout.

The Minnesota Division of Game and Fish is looking for antlers dating back to 1940.

Scientists of the division want to find out if the deer are using calcium and strontium from the fallout in helping to build their antlers.

Antlers from the preatomic era as well as those from more recent years are needed for the study.

Worsening of diabetic symptoms often is found during pregnancy.

New Book Translates Space Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — You probably know by now what an astronaut is.

But, if you were told one made a synergic ascent, adjusting his barber chair to avoid aeroembolism, would you be confused?

The Commerce Department, in taking pity on the ordinary citizen, is providing a key to the language of the space age.

The aid itself has an imposing title—"Interim Aerospace Terminology Reference." What it is is a 75-page glossary, prepared by Air Force researchers.

A synergic ascent is an upward flight designed to give optimum fuel economy with optimum velocity.

A barber chair is an adjustable upright seat which can be converted quickly into a bed so as to increase an astronaut's tolerance of high acceleration.

Aeroembolism is illness marked by the formation of gas bubbles can happen in a rapid change of altitude.

The glossary is $2 at the Commerce Department's Office of Technical Services.

Minnesota's small loan companies made 206,000 small loans last year averaging $294.

U.S. Incapable of Tracking Reds' Venus Rocket

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's top missile and satellite tracker has told Congress the United States is incapable of following Russia's latest space shot to its planned rendezvous with Venus.

Gen. Donald N. Yates, deputy defense director for research and engineering, told a closed-door meeting of the House Space Committee last week that "we cannot follow it at the present time."

A censored version of the top secret testimony was made available today to UPI.

Yates said the United States would be able to follow the path of the Venus rocket if the Russians "will tell us what it is transmitting."

He said that if the Russians did not make this information available, "we would have at the present time no basic (tracking) capability."

"It would be luck," Yates testified, "if we were to pick it up."

Russia Losing Hold on China?

England Sees Soviet Domination Broken in 10 to 15 Years

LONDON (UPI) — The British government believes the Soviet Union may lose control over Communist China within 10 or 15 years, an authoritative source said today.

The Peiping regime's latest famine has heightened the need for outside help and Russia has maintained a fairly strong hold over Red China through its extensive assistance.

But the source said there is increasing evidence that Red China is growing into a major power on the international scene despite the internal trouble.

Diplomatic sources reported that as a result Britain has decided to push for speedy admission of Communist China to the United Nations —possibly this year—as an essential first step toward resuming disarmament talks.

The decision was reached at a major review of British policy toward Red China, now under way in London.

APPOINTED — Lawrence Gubow, presently Michigan's commissioner of corporations and securities, has been named by President Kennedy to be U.S. attorney for Eastern Michigan.

Protestant Group Urged to Close 'Serious Gaps'

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — The general secretary of the National Council of Churches urged the nation's largest Protestant church organization today to close up serious gaps in its statements of principle and policy on matters of public concern.

The Rev. Roy G. Ross, in a report prepared for presentation today, specifically mentioned the council's stand on federal aid to schools and on social welfare.

He said in some cases confusion had resulted from the absence of unified policy.

The council's general board, in its first policy-making session since the organization's triennial assembly at San Francisco last December, is scheduled to tackle key public-interest problems in a two-day session here.

Disease Takes a Holiday

Communicable diseases took a week off in Pontiac last week, according to the Pontiac and Oakland Health Departments.

A single case of measles was the only new case of a communicable disease reported in the city last week.

The preceding week there had been 32 new cases of mumps, 10 of chicken pox, one of scarlet fever and one of whooping cough.

A decrease in communicable diseases was also reported last week in the county.

The following is a list of new cases of communicable diseases reported in Oakland County (excluding Pontiac) during the past two weeks:

Many Problems . . . May Be Months

Surplus Food Stamp Plan Stuck in Mud

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's food stamp plan for feeding needy Americans in six distressed areas," announced three weeks ago, isn't off the ground yet. It may be two months more before anybody actually gets any free food under the program.

The first step toward putting the program into operation may come very soon, Agriculture Department experts said. This will be a decision by Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman on what type or types of food stamp plans will be tested, and in what localities the tests will be made.

Agriculture Department officials then will begin conferences with local and state officials and with officials of grocery trade groups to prepare for their role of cashing and redeeming food stamps.

An order also will have to be issued for printing the stamps, a job which Agriculture Department officials have been told will take about two months.

Kennedy's announcement that the experiments would be launched in areas of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Southern Illinois, Eastern Kentucky, Northern Minnesota and in Detroit caught Agriculture Department officials by surprise.

They had not expected the presidential action so quickly, and in three weeks they have not settled a number of potential legal problems involved in the program.

The knottiest problem is the question of just what kind of action Congress authorized in a 1959 law which permits the administration to operate a food stamp program through January 1962.

Agriculture Department officials have indicated informally they are planning on programs in which needy families would use stamps to buy a wide range of foods, including meats, fruits, and vegetables, at grocery stores.

But some congressional attorneys who have studied the law believe that such programs might be stretching the language of the Food Stamp Act.

The law provides for a food stamp program using surplus foods piled up in farm support programs or diverted from normal trade channels by the government.

There is a direct conflict here between the idea of surplus disposal and administration plans to use food stamps to give low-income families an adequate, balanced diet.

The cost of a food stamp program, if the experiments later are broadened into a wide-scale operation, also remains a controversial subject with few hard facts in sight.

To Exempt Shelters From Property Tax?

Rep. William Hayward, R-Royal Oak, is a cosponsor of a bill which would stimulate the installation of civil defense facilities — such as fallout shelters — by granting a tax exemption from the general property tax.

The proposed measure, designated House Bill 29 and sponsored by Joseph Gillis, D-Detroit, would also provide for the deletion of some other state taxes on the structures and facilities built by business and industry to protect against enemy attacks.

Bob Kennedy Blames Shape for Beatings

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The attorney general says the President wouldn't have beaten him up so much as a child if he had been in better shape.

President Kennedy himself told a one-day conference on physical fitness Tuesday that "we should be a nation of participants in the vigorous life."

He participated a little himself later by bounding lightly to the top of a table to talk to a group of foreign teachers who visited the conference.

"You're very energetic," observed one of the teachers.

According to his younger brother, Robert, the attorney general, he was even more vigorous in days gone by. Robert said that if the nation had an adequate youth fitness program when he was a boy, "my older brother would not have beaten me up so much."

Long Arm of the Law to Be 4 Inches Longer

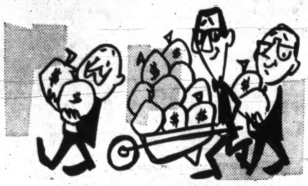

NEW YORK (AP)—If you intend breaking the law here stay at least 27 inches more than arms length away from all New York City policemen.

That will give you a slight clearance between yourself and the end of their nightsticks which Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy said will be lengthened from 22 to 26 inches.

She Plunged 80 Floors, But Refused to Die--a Guidepost

BETTY LOU OLIVER
Fort Smith, Ark.
(As told to Edwin P. Hicks)

I was 20 years old at the time and had been married two years. I had gone to New York in the summer of 1945 to await the return of my husband, Oscar Lee Oliver then torpedoman third-class in the Navy. A cousin of mine, Marie Gower, had lined up a job for me as an elevator operator in the Empire State Building where she worked.

The salary was $35 a week. To a coal miner's daughter raised in an orphanage, this seemed like a great sum, so I was very happy.

MRS. OLIVER

I had the 80th floor elevator. It operated nonstop from the first to the 66th floor, and then serviced all floors from the 66th to the 80th.

The morning of July 28, 1945, had begun like any other Saturday. At 9:50 I had just started down from the 80th floor without a single passenger in my car.

HOT, BLACK OIL

There was a smashing, tearing, thundering noise — everywhere — above me, then all about me — a roaring, crashing, hideous nightmare of sound and shock. It could have been the end of the world.

Just then a great block of machinery came spewing, crackling and burning through the top of my car. Instantly I was covered with hot, black oil. It was, suddenly, as if hell itself had dropped into my car.

I screamed, but could not hear my own voice. We dropped like a stone down the shaft; dropping so fast I soon was gasping for air; I wrenched at the controls but they were useless.

There was no time to think, no time even to pray. I made myself as small as possible in a corner of the car, helpless, waiting for the shock at the bottom—and death. We crashed, and went right through the bottom of the shaft and into the basement. There was a great roaring inside my head—and blackness . . .

PLANE HIT BUILDING

I learned the details later. A B25 bomber was lost in the fog. It struck the Empire State Building between the 78th and 79th floors—shearing into the elevator shaft and cutting the cable above my car, with one engine bursting through the top of my car and dropping down the shaft with it.

Far above me, on the 78th and 79th floors, 13 persons were dead and 25 others were hurt! Finally the firemen found me. An ambulance administered blood plasma as I lay on the floor. My back was broken in three places, my right leg in seven place, my right eye was cut open, I was badly burned, and was suffering from concussion and shock.

But through the haze of semi-consciousness, I realized one all important thing—I was still alive, and I was going to fight to stay alive. A Catholic missionary, Father V. McGrath, bent over and offered to administer the last rites of his church. They told me later that I cocked my one good, left eye up at him and said: "But Father, I'm a Protestant—just hold my hand."

NURSES AROUND THE CLOCK

For four months my home was to be Bellevue Hospital. Three special nurses were assigned to me, working in eight-hour shifts, around the clock.

The doctors came through in droves, discussing my injuries, lecturing. They set my leg, and I couldn't feel a thing, and that was just fine with me. They stuck pins in the leg, and when it didn't hurt, they reset the leg all over again. This time I suffered terribly and the doctors appeared proud and happy.

I prayed steadily; I asked God to allow me to be whole once more — to be a normal woman and live a normal life.

It was a great day when I walked out of the hospital on my husband's arm. My broken back was sound again, my leg was healed, my eyesight once more normal. My husband received his honorable discharge on Dec. 13, and we came back to Arkansas, to Fort Smith and to Oscar Lee's parents. They are my parents too now, and the very best, I think, in the world.

On Aug. 25, 1946, our first child, Shirley, was born. Stevie arrived in July 1947 and David was born Nov. 20, 1950.

Today, at 35 I am completely normal and entirely happy.

I've taken up fishing because my men folks love it. I work in our grocery store, do housework, attend Midland Heights Methodist Church every Sunday, and I love to ride in the rain at night with my husband.

It's what I fought for, what I prayed for, constantly, and what I am, now, so thankful for—this, my God-given second life.

Gives Birth to Twins, Each in Different State

PLATTEVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Prof. and Mrs. David A. Blaeuer are the proud parents of newly arrived twins, each born in a different state.

Mrs. Blaeuer gave birth to a boy at Platteville Hospital. Then apparent complications set in. It was decided to transfer the mother to Mercy Hospital at Dubuque, Iowa, for specialized care. There, three hours after birth of the boy, a girl was born.

Secret Ballot Once 'Unmanly'

Early Americans Cast Voice Votes Before an Election Judge

WASHINGTON — Voters in the presidential election on Nov. 8 will ballot in privacy—a practice once considered unmanly.

Voice voting was widespread in the American colonies and continued in some states after the Revolution, the National Geographic Society says. Citizens gathered at a polling place and announced their choices aloud to an election judge, usually the mayor, sheriff or coroner. A bullying crowd greeted the votes with cheers and jeers.

The noisy public vote was replaced in New York State by a secret ballot in 1833, but privacy was discarded the following year on the ground that it "insulted the manliness and independence of the laboring man."

Secret voting in national elections became Federal law in 1875, but Kentucky held state elections by voice vote until 1891.

Paper ballots were used as early as 1634 in Massachusetts. These and later ballots were unofficial and provided by the voter himself. They were not necessarily marked in secret.

When ballots increased in size, it became the custom of political parties to print them for the convenience of their supporters. Each party produced its ballot on colored paper so poll watchers could see at a glance whether the party faithful were indeed faithful.

So many varieties, shapes, and colors of paper ballots were used—often to deceive—that the United States went all the way to Australia for a new system. It borrowed the Australian ballot, an honest listing of candidates, officially printed, and intended to be secretly marked.

"Kangaroo voting," as it was first called, was adopted by Louisville, Ky., and by Massachusetts in 1888, then by New York, Michigan, and other states.

About half the 65,000,000 citizens expected to go to the polls Nov. 8 will vote by machines. Except for those casting absentee ballots, all will vote on the same day. This also wasn't always the case.

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. Why does a male parakeet talk more than a female? Shirley Ann Gugel, New Britain, Conn.

A. He doesn't. Most people believe that the male parakeet is more loquacious than the female, because he's got a bit of the ham in him. You see, all psittacocine birds have the ability to talk.

However, many budgies are too shy to show their learning in front of strangers. The male is generally more aggressive, and will speak up in front of strangers.

His reputation comes from showmanship rather than from ability. If you want to give any bird a large vocabulary, you must start training early, long before its sex can be determined. Sex has little to do with talkativeness in birds, at least.

STUFFED CELERY — Six wonderful ways to stuff celery: Top right, clockwise: pimiento cheese, shrimp salad, peanut butter and honey, cream cheese and Roquefort, deviled ham and egg and currant-Brazil nuts.

Stuffed Celery Can Serve as Salad or Appetizer

What can you eat a whole whopping pound of and be only 52 calories fatter?

Why, crispy, crunchy, delicious, nutritious celery, of course!

Two thousand years ago the Greeks ate celery for medicinal purposes and oil from celery seeds is used in medicine today as a sedative. But celery plays a much more versatile role.

Last year Americans ate nearly a billion and a half pounds of it, and spent nearly $60 million on it.

Besides being unsurpassed as a garnish, celery abounds in proteins, minerals and vitamins. It can be chopped up for soups, is delicious stewed, fried or in casseroles. Its main use is as a raw salad. It probably appears most often on dinnertables or in restaurants as an hors d'oeuvre, the ribs or hearts standing in a bowl of crushed ice to keep them crunchy.

One of the most versatile ways to serve celery — and one of the most attractive — is to stuff it. Here are SIX WONDERFUL WAYS TO STUFF CELERY. We hope you'll agree:

1. Mix equal parts of Roquefort cheese, mayonnaise and cream cheese until the lumps are gone. Stir in a tablespoon of lime juice and one of sherry wine if you like the flavor. Salt and pepper to taste and stuff into celery ribs which have stood in ice water until chilled. Sprinkle tops with capers and chopped chives.

2. To a small can of deviled ham add a chopped boiled egg, teaspoon prepared mustard, heaping teaspoon mayonnaise and scant teaspoon grated onion. Stuff into chilled celery ribs and sprinkle with freshly ground black pepper and garlic salt.

3. To half a pound of grated medium sharp American cheese add one small can of pimientos, drained and minced and two big tablespoons of mayonnaise. Salt to taste and stuff. Sprinkle top with paprika and freshly-ground black pepper.

4. Mix ½ cup of crunchy peanut butter with heaping tablespoon of honey and ¼ cup of walnuts.

5. Mash until creamy one large package of cream cheese and a heaping tablespoon of mayonnaise. Add ½ cup chopped Brazil nuts. Stuff celery and sprinkle tops with currants.

6. Mix ½ pound of boiled shrimp, chopped finely, with ¼ pound of cream cheese and two tablespoons of mayonnaise. Add 1 tablespoon each of minced onion, minced parsley, minced bell pepper and finely chopped celery and finely chopped green olives. Add a dash each of sauce, salt and pepper to taste.

Put Smoked Tongue Into Hot Salad

Good way to use leftover smoked tongue.

Julio's Salad

2 cups diced hot cooked potatoes
¼ cup French dressing
1 small onion (minced)
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
2 cups diced cooked smoked tongue
Mayonnaise
Lettuce and hard-cooked eggs

Mix the hot potatoes with the dressing; cool. Add onion, green pepper and tongue; fold in mayonnaise to suit taste. Serve on lettuce and garnish with sliced hard-cooked eggs. Makes 4 servings.

Don't be surprised if an Austrian nut torte recipe calls for a little finely ground or pulverized coffee. Just add it, straight from the coffee container!

Peanut Butter Turns Up at Breakfast

Homemakers have come to know the best ways to incorporate peanut butter into meals. You see, peanut butter is a very concentrated food, so if you combine it with other foods, you make peanut butter not only more appealing, but more digestible too. Besides sandwiches, peanut butter is a good salad and soup food —to say nothing of baking.

You'll want to keep peanut butter especially in mind for use in some delightful meatless menus now that the Lenten season is here. For example, here's a recipe for PEANUT CHOPS which is an unusual eye-opening breakfast treat:

Cut the crusts from half-inch-thick slices of rye bread and cut each slice into four lengthwise strips. Spread peanut butter (either creamy or chunk style) on both sides of the bread strips.

Dip the bread into a mixture of eggs and milk (¾ cup top milk for 2 eggs in a good ratio) with ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon paprika for seasonings, then roll in fine bread crumbs. Place the bread on a greased cookie sheet and bake in hot oven (400 to 450 degrees) until golden brown on both sides.

Caper Sauce Good to Use on Cauliflower

An interesting vegetable dish.

Cauliflower with Caper Sauce

1 large head cauliflower
2 teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons each butter and flour
1½ cups milk
½ teaspoon mustard
Pepper
2 to 3 tablespoons drained capers

Trim cauliflower and wash in cold water. Boil whole gently in 1-inch boiling water with 1 teaspoon of the salt, uncovered, 5 minutes. Cover and continue cooking over low heat until top is tender—about 20 minutes.

Meanwhile melt butter in a saucepan over low heat; stir in flour. Add milk, remaining 1 teaspoon salt, mustard and pepper to taste. Cook and stir constantly until thickened. Add capers.

Place cauliflower in serving dish; some of the sauce may be poured over the top so it dribbles down sides, and remaining sauce served separately. Makes six servings.

Keep a handy stapler in the kitchen. You'll find it useful for quickly sealing sandwich bags, frozen-food packages and to staple recipes to a notebook or cards.

Man in Space

First 'Astronauts' Got Off Ground in 1783

By PAUL EVE

PARIS (UPI)—Attempts to get a man into space really began in France in the 1780s.

Ignoring such legendary characters as Daedalus and Icarus, and assuming no one ever took Leonardo da Vinci's flying machine off the drawing board, Frenchmen Charles Pilatre de Rozier and the Marquis D'Arlandes are credited with being the first two men off the ground.

As happens now, their ascent was preceded by one in which animals were sent up to see whether they would come back alive, and thus whether it would be reasonably safe for man to follow.

But "up" in those days was not very far.

It was only a year after two French brothers, Joseph and Jacques Montgolfier, had discovered that it was possible to get a balloon into the air that Pilatre de Rozier and the Marquis made their bid to enter the heavens.

DECIDE ON VAPOR

The Montgolfiers watched clouds in the sky, decided they were masses of vapor, and concluded that the fact they were vapor had put them where they were. On this basis they decided that any bag of light material containing a vapor or smoke would rise.

In 1782 they built a fire in a field near Annonay, 40 miles from Lyons, suspended a bag of paper over it and found that it rose into the air. Later they repeated the experiment in front of a large crowd, filling a large linen globe with smoke, and watched it ascend.

In the balloon craze that followed, numerous experiments were carried out. One by a Paris professor used the idea of a balloon filled with hydrogen, which was made by mixing an enormous amount of sulphuric acid and iron filings.

Daily bulletins were issued on the progress of filling this 1783 space vehicle with hydrogen. History records that when it finally went up it stayed aloft for an hour before it fell into a field 15 miles away where indignant and superstitious peasants hacked it to pieces.

A few months later, the Montgolfiers repeated their experiments with an elaborate bag that contained a sheep, a cock and a duck in a cage below it. Records show that the only harm suffered was an injury to the cock's right wing. The sheep kicked it before the ascent started.

A short time after that, Pilatre de Rozier tried several ascents in a captive balloon. Finally he and the Marquis stepped into a free balloon Nov. 21, 1783, and soared up over the Invalides and the Ecole Militaire, landing beyond the city limits after 25 minutes in the air.

The balloon was of the Montgolfiers' "fire-balloon" type—filled with heated air to make it ascend and brought down by its own weight when the air inside it cooled off and no longer provided levitation.

Whether Pilatre de Rozier and the Marquis knew when they set off that they could not go far and would have to come down again is not known.

But only 10 days later, Prof. J. A. C. Charles, a French scientist who had been experimenting with the hydrogen-filled balloon, set off in one, got his ballast arrangements wrong and, probably for all he knew, was well on his way to the stars when the balloon stopped rising at 2,000 feet and came down gently miles away.

Charles complained on landing of a violent pain in his right ear and jaw, the first recorded astromedical data ever given.

The French experiments were the forerunners of many in Britain. It was only two years later—1785—that an American, Dr. J. Jeffries, and a Frenchman, Jean Pierre Blanchard, crossed the English Channel in a balloon.

Extra Car Sales Tax Yields Little Added Cash

LANSING (AP)—Despite the extra cent of sales tax collected on auto sales since Jan. 1, the average per-unit tax this year has gone up only $5.53 over the average in a comparable period last year, Secretary of State James M. Hare reported today.

In January 1960, the average tax per vehicle at the three per cent rate was $51.16, which means the price per unit averaged at $1,705. At the four per cent rate, vehicles sold at the same average price would have yielded $68.20 in sales tax.

Hare blamed the situation on discounts given on the sales of standard cars, the impact of lower cost compact cars and a buildup in the inventory of cheaper used cars on dealers' lots.

Boom Predicted for Birth Pills

Maker Wants Okay to Cut Prices by Halving Tablets' Weight

NEW YORK (UPI)—The manufacturers of birth-control pills will become a substantial industry in the United States in the next decade, pharmaceutical houses said Tuesday.

Chances of this took a big step forward when G. D. Searle & Co. of Skokie, Ill., moved to reduce the price of a year's supply of its progesterone - estrogen hormone pills, called Enovid, from $120 to $42.

Searle, which already is marketing the pills in this country and England, still needs further action by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to get the price down that low.

It most have federal approval of the five-milligram size for a 30-tablet bottle to sell for $3.50.

But Dr. Gregory Pincus of the Worcester, Mass., Foundation for Experimental Biology, who developed the pills originally, is supporting Searle's contention that the five-milligram size will be as effective as the 10-milligram size being marketed here now.

Searle already is selling the five-milligram tablets in England.

Shout Saves Teacher

KENT, Ohio (AP)—A class yell — which had noting to do with school spirit — saved Prof. Gertrude Lawrence of Kent State University from possible injury. Her class shouted a warning when a scaffold being raised outside the building knocked a large board onto the spot where she had been seated a moment before.

From His Home State

BALTIMORE (AP) — When Robert P. McHugh of Columbia, S. C., was visiting Baltimore, a panhandler begged money from him, describing himself as "a poor alcoholic from South Carolina."

Cites Several Innovations as Evidence

1961 Pontiac Is Safest, Says Knudsen

SAFETY FIRST — Included among new 1961 Pontiac options is a detachable luggage and utility lamp which can double as an emergency light during a stop at night on the highway. The lamp's 17-foot wind-up cord will deliver light to any point around the car.

"The 1961 Pontiac unmistakably shows the attention and care of safety-minded experts and we feel it is the safest car ever built by our division," says S. E. Knudsen, General Motors vice president and Pontiac general manager.

"We at Pontiac are well aware of the tremendous annual increase in traffic on the nation's highways," Knudsen pointed out.

"Statistics show that more Americans are driving and they are driving through longer life spans. And, one need only to glance at a high school parking lot to confirm that more young people are operating automobiles.

"Pontiac engineers are devoting year-around attention, both in the laboratory and on the test track, to improved safety features in car and its components," Knudsen continues. "The engineering effort behind safety advances in our 1961 model is unprecedented in our history."

Knudsen cites a new perimeter frame, a new innstrument panel pad and improved vision over the hood as being the most significant Pontiac safety innovations for 1961.

Featuring heavy steel side rails which competely encircle the passenger compartment, Pontiac's new perimeter frame design provides great protection for car occupants. Five cross bars join the parallel side rails to insure structural rigidity.

SAFETY CUSHION

Standard with all new Pontiacs is a safety cushion which extends completely around the cove area on the front of the instrument panel. The design of the panel face eliminates glare.

Another safety improvement results from the redesign of the Pontiac front end. On the new model, the hood and fenders slant downward to the grille, effecting a 17.5 per cent improvement in over-hood vision. The operator can see objects as much as four feet closer to the front of the car.

Also important from a safety standpoint, according to Knudsen, are improvements to Pontiac suspension systems in 1961.

"This advance, along with our popular wide track feature, insures even better ride and handling characteristics, improved stability and hence better control and less fatigue of the operator," he explains.

Included among Pontiac options is a luggage and utility lamp with cord which can be utilized as an emergency light during a stop at night on the highway.

Other safety accessories include: Safe-T-Track differential for better traction and less skidding in inclement weather conditions; Safeguard speedometer, providing both visual and audible warning when a preset speed is exceeded and also includes a low fuel level warning light to avoid running out of fuel; Guide-Matic headlight control for automatic dimming; E-Z Eye glass for reduced sun heat and glare from sun or headlights and rear-door safety locks to guard against children opening doors while the car is in motion.

Present Baby Oscar to Foster Parents

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Mr. and Mrs. Fred George of Freeport, Pa., were awarded a Baby Oscar recently by the Family and Childrens' Service Bureau.

They were singled out for rearing 21 foster children in their home in the past 15 years.

"One piles up many memories," said Mrs. George. "There has been so much happiness and at times a little sadness

"We've learned a lot about others and I'm sure we've been drawn much closer to God."

At present, The Georges are rearing 16-year-old twins, a school-age boy and a pre-school child.

"Our home is a happy one," the Georges said.

What! No Commercials?

HAVANA (UPI) — The government-run CMQ television network will eliminate commercials from its programs today as "an experiment to test public reaction," it was announced here.

New Move Tests Strength of City Trailer-Park Ban

A new move in behalf of a second trailer park on the east side of Telegraph Road, between Orchard Lake Road and the northern connection of Telegraph and the M58 underpass, has resulted in the first testing of the 1958 trailer park ban.

City commissioners, confronted with the proposal last night, referred it to the planning commission on the motion of Mayor Philip E. Rowston, who represents the area.

"This is the third time we've been asked to consider this change, but I'll send it to the planning commission again since there are very few people in the affected area," said Rowston to Samuel W. Barr, a Detroit attorney representing the owners of an 1,800-square foot swampy tract, immediately north of Richards Trailer Park.

A request for rezoning of the land from commercial to the special trailer park classification is expected to be aired initially by the planning commission March 1.

"The era of the old nomad style trailer park is gone," said Barr in support of the proposal. "The modern trailer today is a home and an asset to the community."

To block a similar proposal two years ago, the city acted under a new state law and created a new zoning classification strictly for trailer parks, then put into the new category only the Richards Trailer Park and the one other in the city, on Montcalm Street.

The move gave the City Commission and the planning commission broad powers to block creation of any new trailer parks.

Barr claimed the ban is unfair, contending that the Telegraph Road site, first proposed as a trailer park three years ago, has been "ruined" for commercial purposes by the 1957 underpass, which now carries most of the traffic.

Wind Lets Him Dive Home for Dinner

KINGSTREE, S. C. (AP) — Douglas James, 19, dropped in at his home for dinner one day recently from 2,500 feet above via a strawberry-pink parachute.

The youthful sky diver had meant to land in a field a considerable distance from home and had his mother, Mrs. A. K. James, stationed there to drive him home for the mid-day meal.

A strong northeast wind carried him to earth near his own front yard.

Killed in Crane Mishap

DETROIT (AP)—Charles Hoeft, a 67-year-old steel plant worker from Warren was killed Tuesday when a safety latch slipped and he was struck on the head by a piece of metal that fell from a crane.

JFK Beefing Special Forces

Will Use 'Commandos' to Train Troops of Friendly Nations

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The army outlined plans today to use its special commando forces as peacetime weapons against rebellion in friendly countries.

The forces, now numbering 1,900 men, are organized in operating detachments of only a dozen men each. They are being expanded as part of President Kennedy's defense speedup program.

"In the cold war period, U.S. Army Special Forces will, when directed, assist in training military personnel of foreign nations in combatting guerilla and terrorist activities and subversion," an army statement said.

As a part of the expansion, which will add at least 500 men this year, service requirements have been lowered to permit two-year draftees and three-year first enlistees to volunteer for special paratroop duty.

Members formerly were required to have a year's airborne training and 33 months of service remaining. The new minimums for special forces volunteers are three months of airborne training and 18 months left to serve.

Strike Fund Will Help Airlines

NEW YORK (AP)—A mutual aid strike plan set up by the airlines apparently will apply in the present flight engineers strike, industry sources report.

Ten of the country's 12 trunk carrier lines, including all of the lines on strike except Western, are members of the fund.

When there are strikes, the plan operates in this manner:

Airlines not involved in the strike compensate struck airlines for any financial benefits received from extra traffic.

Thus, if three airlines operate in a certain area and two of them are struck, the third airline pays over to the other two any extra profits it receives while the walkout is in progress.

The payments are figured out on the basis of what percentage of business each of the lines normally has in the area.

If the line still operating is put to expense in using extra equipment during the strike, this expense can be deducted before the payments are made.

Full data on the payments, including the manner in which they are calculated, is sent to the Civil Aeronautics Board.

End First Hearings on Wage-Floor Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House labor subcommittee Tuesday wound up concentrated hearings on President Kennedy's minimum wage hike proposal and hoped to get it to the full committee by next week.

Subcommittee Chairman James Roosevelt, D-Calif., said he expected some changes would be made in the proposal. Kennedy's bill would increase the wage floor gradually from $1 to $1.25 an hour and extend it to 4.3 million more workers.

Three days of hearings concluded Tuesday with committeemen urging George S. Hagedorn of the National Association of Manufacturers to back up his argument that the bill would cause unemployment.

British Await Adenauer for Talks on Defense

LONDON (UPI)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer flies here today to discuss means of strengthening Western European defenses and increasing free world aid to underdeveloped areas.

Adenauer, who will be accompanied by West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano, will be met by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

More Groanin' for Cronin— Gets Air Again

LONDON (UPI) — Fate dealt another brutal blow today to Thomas Cronin, onetime butler for Mr. and Mrs. Antony Armstrong-Jones.

His lady friend announced their romance is over and implied Cronin can remain forever in Dania, Fla., where he is a gentleman's gentleman at Jai Alai Palace.

"As far as I am concerned it is all over," said Mrs. May Groom, a widow who operates a pub.

"Anything there might have been between us is finished. He may have meant it when he said he loved me (in a transatlantic interview).

"But I haven't heard from him in two months. So if he returns to England I shall welcome him back as an old friend of the family. Nothing more."

31,729 Compensated in State During 1960

LANSING (AP)—A total of 31,729 workers suffered injuries that entitled them to compensation in 1960, the Michigan Workmen's Compensation Department reports.

The number was slightly less than that reported in 1959, the department said.

Regular Schedules for Capital and NCA

Not all airlines are down due to the wildcat strike of flight engineers. North Central Airlines, which services Pontiac Municipal Airport, continues to operate normal schedules.

Another airline which continues in operation is Capital. Bernard Bricks, district sales manager stationed in Detroit, expressed concern today that many persons think all airlines have been struck.

He pointed out that Capital is maintaining a complete schedule of flights from Willow Run Airport, and that many Pontiac-area persons are taking advantage of this.

He noted that Capital is not affected by the strike because its flight engineers are also copilots.

Easter Eggs Will Roll

WASHINGTON (AP)—A happy report for children was issued by the White House Tuesday. President and Mrs. Kennedy plan to continue the tradition of Easter egg rolling on their south lawn.

A good toastmaster is one who knows when to pop up and when to pop down . . . . A fellow just back from a Texas vacation says the drive-in movie screens there are so big they show next week's movies, too. — Earl Wilson.

Corned Beef Needn't Team With Cabbage

Dare to be different with an old favorite — and we promise you'll be praised! If you thought corned beef and cabbage were inseparable, you'll be pleased to know that some creative cooks have come up with a brand-new main dish that stars corned beef in a brand-new role.

The new twist is called Glazed Corned Beef with Bite-Size Dumplings—and it tastes as good as it sounds. Easy to fix the first time around, the new recipe also lends itself to second-day surprises that taste too good to be tagged "leftovers." And this is more than a major incentive to buy a 4-5 lb. corned beef, even for a small family. Here's the simple recipe for . . .

Glazed Corn Beef With Bite-Size Dumplings

Remove the protective bag of airtight film and place corned beef in a large cooking pan. Cover with cold water; add ½ teaspoon peppercorns and ½ clove garlic. Cover pot, bring water to a boil, reduce heat and simmer till tender. (Figure about 45 minutes a pound.) Then remove from water and place in a shallow baking pan.

Cover with glaze made from ½ cup brown sugar, ½ cup vinegar, and 1 tablespoon prepared mustard. Bake at 350 degrees for about ½ hour until glazed, basting frequently. Serve hot with about ¾ cup of sauce. Recipe serves 6 to 8.

Cornmeal Dumplings

Sift 1 cup cornmeal with ¼ cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt. Beat 2 eggs with ½ cup milk and combine with dry ingredients. Stir in 1 tablespoon melted butter. Drop by small spoonsful into simmering corned beef stock. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. Serve hot with corned beef.

Second Day Special

As a delicious second-day variation, re-heat the leftover corned beef in a shallow casserole with a fruit-sauce covering. Simply slice the beef after boiling, place in the casserole, and cover with:

Orange Cranberry Sauce

Stir 2 tablespoons flour into 2 tablespoons cooking oil in saucepan. Gradually stir in 1½ cups orange juice and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Season with dash of salt and add 1 can whole jellied cranberries. Makes about 2 cups sauce.

After covering beef with sauce in casserole, cook at 350 degrees F. for about ½ hour. Serve at once.

New Dried Parsley Will Work Here

Parsley adds flavor.

Parsley Dumplings

2 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons minced parsley
1 cup milk

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Add parsley and milk; stir only enough to moisten dry ingredients. Drop dumpling mixture by spoonfuls on top of pieces of meat and vegetables in gently boiling stew.

Cook uncovered 10 minutes; cover tightly and cook 10 minutes longer. Serve at once. Dumplings will be large. Makes 6 servings.

Hearty Vegetable Dish Pays Protein Dividend

Now is the time for all good cooks to come to the aid of their families. It's sniffle time — a period when freezes and thaws do their best to overcome the body's defenses and when a diet with plenty of minerals and vitamins is an expedient.

Nutritionists tell us a well planned, balanced diet needs no assist from supplemental vitamins, blood builders, and other major supporters of the television industry.

From Sweden comes a vegetable dish, suitable for either leftovers or first time vegetables. In combination with milk, eggs, and cheese, these vegetables provide an amazing number of minerals, vitamins, and proteins. More to the point for eaters, it makes vegetables sit up and sing with a new heartiness and flavor.

VEGETABLES AU GRATIN
(Gronsakgratin)

2 cups cooked cabbage coarsely chopped
2 cups cooked celery chopped
2 cups cooked snap beans
2 tomatoes THICKLY sliced
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
Salt and pepper
2 egg yolks
1 cup grated cheddar cheese

Melt butter in saucepan and stir in flour until well blended. Add milk gradually while stirring and cook over low heat for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and add beaten egg yolks. Return to heat and bring to a boil while stirring. Add half of grated cheese.

Remove from heat and continue to stir until sauce is thick and smooth. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Arrange all vegetables except tomatoes in a well greased, shallow baking dish. Pour sauce over vegetables and arrange slices of tomatoes in a circle around edge of dish. Sprinkle salt and pepper over entire dish. Place under broiler or in a very hot oven (500 degrees) for 10 to 15 minutes or until nicely browned. Serve immediately. Serves 6 or 7.

Discover Bargains in Good Nutrition

Good nutrition needn't be costly. You can find the important vitamins and proteins, which are the keystones of good nutrition, in costly top-grade beef or save dollars by feeding your family many of the same food values in dishes robust with the valuable nutrients found in the heart of wheat. Wheat germ added to vegetable dishes makes inexpensive dinners rich in priceless proteins, B-vitamins and iron. Used along with thrifty chopped beef it stretches meat food values, adds extra nutrients and delectable new flavor.

Today's recipe for Wheat 'N Meatball Stew is the kind of hearty family favorite you will want to keep and repeat often — whether or not the budget needs balancing. To star as a satisfying meatless luncheon or supper dish, wheat germ makes the wonderfully flavorful stuffing for Heart of Wheat Squash.

Wheat 'N Meatball Stew

1 egg
¼ cup water
¼ cup wheat germ
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
1 lb. ground chuck or round
2 tablespoons oil
1 clove garlic, chopped
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped onion
4 large carrots, cut in chunks
2 cans (8 oz. size) tomato sauce
½ cup water
2 cups string beans, snapped in half
1 can (12 oz. size) corn kernels, drained

Beat the egg in a large bowl; add the water, wheat germ, salt, pepper, cloves, and allow to soak for a few minutes. Stir in the meat with a fork till well mixed. With the hands, form into small balls, 1½ inches in diameter.

Heat the oil in a heavy pan or Dutch oven, brown the meat balls in this, then remove to a plate. Crush together the chopped garlic and the salt, then add, with onion and carrot, to the pan. Cover and cook slowly for about 3 minutes, to soften the carrot. Remove the lid and allow to brown for a further 3 or 4 minutes.

Add the tomato sauce, water; bring to a boil. Stir in beans, then lay meatballs on top. Cover and cook for 20 minutes over low flame, shaking occasionally to prevent sticking. Add the corn for the last five minutes to heat through.

Heart of Wheat Squash

2 acorn squash
1 tablespoon oil
2 tablespoons butter
1 small onion, chopped
½ green pepper, finely chopped
½ cup wheat germ
½ cup grated American cheese
½ teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper

Cut the squash in half lengthwise and scoop out the seeds. Lay squash halves, cut side up, in a baking dish, brush with oil. Pour water in the baking dish to the depth of ¼ inch, cover with foil and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) 35 minutes or until tender.

Melt the butter in a small pan; saute the onion and green pepper in the butter until golden, then add the wheat germ and cook for a few minutes, stirring all the time. Remove from heat, stir in cheese and seasonings.

Either pack into the hot squash and serve at once, or prepare the stuffing ahead; fill the almost-cooked squash and bake for 10 minutes to heat through. Allow 1 medium squash for 2 persons.

WHEAT 'N' MEATBALLS — Hearty flavor and priceless good nutrition make surprisingly low-cost dishes prepared with the bonus of wheat germ vitamins, protein and iron — the kind of dishes families love, with extra satisfaction for the cook who knows their good food values.

Cream Cheese Pastry

If you want a rich-as-Croesus pastry for jam turnovers, use a cup of sifted flour with a quarter pound of butter or margarine and three ounces of cream cheese. The butter and cream cheese may be worked into the flour with a pastry blender or they may be creamed together and then mixed with the flour.

To Broil or Braise — Which Chop Is Best

There are lamb chops to broil and lamb chops to braise. Best for broiling ar the rib, T-bone and sirloin chops. For oven-broiling the chops should be 1 to 1½ inches thick.

Little more needs to be done in the way of seasoning than to sprinkle the broiled chops with salt and pepper and perhaps a bit of rosemary or marjoram. A wedge of lemon to be squeezed over the hot chops after serving is a delightfully different flavor touch.

These same three kinds of chops cut thinner may be seasoned in the very same way but pan-broiled rather than oven-broiled.

The popularly priced blade and round bone chops are usually braised, thus lending themselves to being served with a variety of seasonings and sauces. The chops are browned on each side before salt, pepper, and a little moisture are added, and all are covered for cooking. The braised chops are tasty served with cherry sauce, a mint jelly, or clove-spiced red currant jelly sauce.

Evaporated Milk Makes Richer Custard Sauce

Luscious Nutmeg Custard Sauce is possible in next to no time with evaporated milk and vanilla instant pudding mix.

To prepare: Put 1 cup evaporated milk and 1 cup cold water in a mixing bowl, then add 1 package (about 4 oz.) vanilla instant pudding mix and beat slowly with a rotary beater until well blended, about 1 minute. Stir in ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg and chill. Makes 2 cups of heavenly sauce to serve over baked apples, cake, or any number of other desserts.

Float Wedges of Avocado in Main Dish Potato Soup

There is almost no limit to the variety of potato soups that are served around the world. Each country has its own delicious specialty. Although ingredients and seasonings may vary, thrifty homemakers long ago learned that hearty, savory potato soups add flavor, nutrition and often excitement to the family meals.

One of the most interesting versions of this popular food is potato-avocado soup from the Andes mountain region of Ecuador. We are not sure that Ecuadorian homemakers have tried frozen French fries in this delectable soup . . . but we did . . . and are delighted with the result: A creamy, flavorful, hearty soup which can be the main course of a family meal. It's quick and easy, too!

Sauted onion and seasonings are blended with milk and heated. Shredded cheese and the frozen French fries are added and allowed to thoroughly heat before thickening with eggs. Delicately flavored avocado slices are floated on the steaming tureen and served with each portion.

Try serving potato-avocado soup with savory crackers, a green salad with artichoke hearts and tuna chunks tossed with lemon-caraway dressing . . . and for dessert, pineapple and frozen raspberries with macaroons. Steaming tea or coffee will complete a menu that will please the family . . . and the budget.

AJIACO SOUP
(Potato-Avocado Soup from the Andes)

½ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
2 teaspoons salt
Dash of pepper
2 cups milk
2 packages (8 ozs. each) or 1 1-pound package frozen French fries
1 cup shredded process American cheese (about ¼ lb.)
2 eggs, beaten slightly
1 avocado, peeled and cut into ¼-inch slices

Saute onion in butter or margarine. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk and cook, stirring just until heated. Add cheese and frozen French fries and allow to heat, stirring carefully occasionally. Stir a small amount of hot soup into eggs; add eggs to soup; blend. Serve topped with avocado slices. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Veal Slice Holds Cheese Simmers With Tomato

Cheese and Veal Birds help you feed the piggy-bank. To make 4 servings, pound 1½ pounds veal steak until thin. Cut into 8 strips. Roll a ½ inch stick sharp Cheddar cheese within each veal piece. Fasten with wooden pick and roll in flour.

Melt ¼ cup (½ stick) butter in skillet; add meat and 1 medium onion, minced. Brown veal; add 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce and ¼ teaspoon oregano. Cover and simmer 20-25 minutes.

To make Thousand Island dressing, add chili sauce, chopped olives and green pepper, minced onion and pimiento to mayonnaise. Serve on hearts of lettuce for a salad then usually go for.

Chilled Cabbage Gets Well Dressed

"Spunky Coleslaw" is so easy, so good. Mustard seed and celery seed soak in vinegar to give zip to the sour cream dressing. Instant minced onion adds convenience, flavor.

Prepare cabbage any way you like: cut finely for crisp slaw, chop for juicy, shred for a happy medium. All of these methods are easier if cabbage is chilled before you start.

Spunky Coleslaw

6 cups shredded cabbage

1 teaspoon mustard seed
½ teaspoon celery seed
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 cup commercial sour cream
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
½ teaspoon salt

Toss cabbage with Dressing.

DRESSING: Combine mustard and celery seeds with vinegar and let stand several hours or overnight. Combine with remaining ingredients. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Baked Corned Beef

Ever spread a cut of freshly-cooked corned beef with prepared mustard, sprinkle with brown sugar (light or dark) and bake in a moderate oven until lightly browned? If you like, you can insert whole cloves in the top surface of the corned beef at 1-inch intervals before glazing.

Cranberries Can Put Lift in Meals

Perhaps you'd like to do a little extra special pampering of the family's sweet tooth during these Lenten days. If so, you can count on cranberries for many tempting delicacies.

One of the treats suggested by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which reminds you how plentiful cranberry products are this month, is a Cranberry Crunch Pie.

Now if you've never baked such a pie, you'll discover it's easy to prepare, easy on the food budget and easy on your time. Best of all, though, you and your family will discover what you've been missing in the way of a really delicious pie.

The crust of this pie uses quick-cooking oats which team flavorfully with cranberries. To prepare, put the contents of one can of whole cranberry sauce into a bowl. Break sauce apart with a fork and stir in ½ teaspoon of fresh lemon juice. Set the sauce aside while you prepare the crust.

Mix together ¼ pound of sweet butter, softened, with ½ cup of flour, 1 cup quick-cooking oatmeal (uncooked) and 1 cup of light brown sugar. As soon as ingredients are well blended divide the mixture into half and use half for the bottom crust. Spread the dough evenly over the bottom of a 9-inch oven-proof glass plate. Then cover evenly with the cranberry filling and the remaining dough is the topping.

Since all the dough will be slightly sticky and difficult to spread over the cranberry mixture, drop by spoonfuls as evenly as possible over the sauce. Bake 45 minutes in pre-heated 325 degree oven and serve warm, as is or with whipped cream.

Raisins With Onions

Nice for company: Roast chicken served with creamed onions to which golden raisins have been added. Plump the raisins first by allowing them to stand in hot water.

Lake Orion Tax Hike Going Into Effect March 1

4-Mill Increase Needed for Record-Sized Budget

By DON FERMOYLE

LAKE ORION — A four-mill tax increase, which will raise taxes for Lake Orion property owners to $21 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, will go into effect here March 1.

The extra millage is necessary in order to provide funds for a record $144,233 budget approved by the Village Council, according to Council President Irvine J. Unger.

Besides approving the budget and tax increase, the council also instructed Village Attorney Robert Parenti to start legal action in Circuit Court to compel tenants of the old Lake Orion Hotel to vacate the building.

The old hotel, located in the heart of the village's business district on South Broadway Street, has been termed a "health and safety hazard" by state, county and village inspectors.

Although increasing taxes, Unger reported Lake Orion's new 21-mill levy is still below the 22-mill limitation allowed under state law.

The new budget, Unger said, is some $4,200 above the figure set for last year, when the tax rate was $17 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

EYE IMPROVEMENTS

"The extra funds will be used for necessary improvements on the village's streets, recreational facilities and garbage and trash pickup programs," Unger stated.

The biggest single expenditure in the budget, he said, will be for salaries of village employes, mainly those in the Lake Orion Department of Public Works and Police Department.

The DPW workers and school crossing guards recently were granted pay raises by the Village Council.

New radio equipment and a water patrol boat also are needed by the police department this year, the council president said. The budget will take care of village expenses from March 1 through Feb. 28, 1962.

Unger said the council in the past has been trying to hold the line on taxes, but believed the increase was necessary this year in order to pay for the needed improvements in the village.

In other action, the council reappointed James Haddrill and George Perry as members of the board of review. Council approval also was given on the appointment of Raymond Genereaux as new director of the Lake Orion-Orion Township Office of Civil Defense.

GOING TO COURT

The council is taking its case against the hotel to court as the result of an incident Feb. 13 when Frank Dunaskis, owner of the building, refused to let inspectors enter his establishment.

Dunaskis earlier had met with village officials and agreed to let the inspectors tour his hotel so they could draw up a list of improvements which would be necessary in order to save the structure from condemnation.

However, Dunaskis later hired a new attorney who advised the hotel owner not to allow the inspectors on the premises.

Oscar Boyea, sanitarian for the Oakland County Health Department who also acts as health inspector for Lake Orion and Rochester, contends that the building is dangerous because of faulty wiring, unstable construction and an unsafe heating unit.

Except for a tavern on the first floor of the building, all tenants were ordered to vacate the hotel a month ago.

VIRGINIA L. LEWIS

A July wedding is planned by Virginia L. Lewis and Frank D. Gingell, whose engagement is announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin J. Lewis of Lowell. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gingell of 3404 Gregory Road, Gingellville.

Boy Scouts of Manito Set Dinner

The Manito District of the Clinton Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, will stage its first annual Leaders' Appreciation Dinner at 7:30 p.m. today at Clarkston Senior High School.

Featured speaker will be Edward H. Leland, scout executive for the council. He will discuss the future of scouting in the district.

Honored guests will include W. H. Taylor of Pontiac Motors Division and B. W. Crandell of General Motors Truck and Coach division; C. W. Whippo, district scout executive; and S. F. Goedde, principal of Clarkston High School.

Cub scouts, boy scouts and explorers from other districts will furnish the entertainment. William Pascher, council scouter from Gingellville, will be featured in a vocal number.

An eagle and gourd dance and a holy dance will be presented by Dick Tombley of the Macomb District, and explorers from Post 74 of Mount Clemens will give a pantomime.

Music for the evening will be furnished by a combo made of explorer scouts from Post 83 in Owosso.

Each scouter being recognized for service at the banquet will receive a gift of appreciation from Whippo. Toastmaster will be Virgil L. Van Horn of Clarkston.

James Doolittle was the first to fly across the American continent in one day.

YOUNG DANCERS REHEARSE — A group of Birmingham youngsters get some last minute pointers on ballet technique, from a New York dancing expert, Peter Nelson. The Birmingham Concert Dancers will present a concert at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Clarkston High School theater, under the direction of Delores Ruhl. Nelson, a faculty member of the Ballet Arts at Carnegie Hall, and former member of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo assisted Miss Ruhl in a one-day training session.

Clarkston to See Part of 'The Seasons'

Concert Ballet Dancers to Make Debut

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

CLARKSTON — The stage in the Clarkston High School's Little Theater has been set for the first performance of the Birmingham Concert Ballet Dancers at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Sponsoring the presentation is a newly organized group called the Village Friends of Art. It is devoted to promoting interest in cultural advancements in the community.

The Concert Dancers, under the direction of Miss Dolores Ruhl, range in age from 7 to 15 years. Fifteen of the young performers will present one por-tion of "The Seasons," by Marius Petipa.

This ballet was introduced at the Hermitage Theatre in St. Petersburg, Russia, in 1900.

In Saturday's production, "Summer" is depicted by the Spirit of the corn's arrival. The "flowers" go through a dance, then stretch out exhausted on the earth. Satyrs and fauns, playing on their pipes, come to capture the spirit of the corn, and the flowers protect him while the Zephyr sends them scurrying away.

RODGERS AND HAMMERSTEIN

Another section of the show will be "The Inventor and Comedians." The plot centers around a band of itinerant comedians and their often amusing escapades as they travel from town to town appearing in public squares and at fairs.

In still another portion of Miss Ruhl's presentation, "The Ballet Oriental" with music by Rodgers and Hammerstein, will be featured with all choreography by Miss Ruhl.

Various oriental themes and moods are accented by the colorful simplicity of the costumes and staging.

Directing ballet productions is not a new venture for the petite Miss Ruhl. For the past four years she has worked with the Concert Dancers training them and presenting concerts.

She is a graduate of the American Ballet Theatre, the School of Ballet Arts, Carnegie Hall, N. Y. and has taught at the Brinitzka School of Ballet in New York.

Before coming to Birmingham, Miss Ruhl was a professional dancer in "Corps de Ballet," of the Salmage Opera Co. in New York City.

1,100 Prepare Exhibits for Area Science Fair

ROCHESTER—Over 1,100 Rochester Junior High School students have prepared exhibits for entry in their annual Science Fair tomorrow and Friday. Prizes will be awarded for the best projects.

General chairman Reynolds White, science teacher, announces that emphasis is being placed on improved displays illustrating a wide range of science principles.

He said that he anticipates this year's fair will be more educational and exciting than it was last year.

White is being assisted by the whole staff of science teachers.

Ribbons and cash prizes will be awarded to winners from the seventh, eighth and ninth grade who are participating. The Rochester Kiwanis Club also will entertain the top winners at a dinner and will ask the boys and gilrs to demonstrate their projects at that time.

Outstanding citizens of the Rochester community whose training and occupations are concerned with specialized fields of science have been asked to judge the entries, according to White.

Others are Dr. Paul Tomboulian, professor at Michigan State University Oakland; Charles Courtney, Royal Oak science teacher; and A. H. Canderfield of Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

The fair will be held in the junior high gymnasium. It will be open to parents and the general public from 6 to 9 p.m. Friday. The judging will take place tomorrow.

Trying to Reactivate Dems in Avon Twp.

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Avon Township Democratic Club will meet at 8 p.m. today at the Avon Park Pavilion primarily to try and restore the two-party system in the township.

Inactive for the past two years, the club is being rebuilt, according to Louis Martin, temporary chairman of the group.

In addition to a general discussion of the club organization, there will be an election of officers.

Featured speakers will be William K. Benson, active township Democrat, and James G. Kellis of Berkley. Benson will discuss the November election.

He was Democratic nominee for county treasurer. Kellis was the party's nominee for Congress.

Subject of Kellis' talk will be the American foreign in the Far East, its issues and problems.

All interested Democrats have been invited to attend.

Avondale High Faculty Will Offer Program

A faculty-sponsored program will highlight tomorrow's 8 p.m. meeting of the Avondale Senior High School Parent-Teacher-Student Association.

Basketball coach Dick Bye and Charles Parrott, who teaches a course on modern problems and also driver education, have charge of the program.

It will consist of various student-sponsored activities. Refreshments will be served.

Asks Mental Clinic

LANSING (UPI) — A mental health clinic would be established in Flint to serve Genesee, Lapeer and Shiawassee counties under a bill introduced in the State Senate Tuesday.

The bill provided for a $14,000 appropriation toward the establishment of the clinic for adult patients.

Plans call for construction this year of a 20 to 22 room elementary school and two other school buildings approximately half that size.

Scheduled for construction in 1962 is another full-sized elementary school and a combination elementary-junior high school building.

Okays $3.98 Million for Utica Schools

UTICA — The issuance of $3.98 million in bonds for construction of five new school buildings in the Utica Community School District has been approved by the State Municipal Finance Commission.

The bond issue was passed by a 19-vote margin in a special election in the school district Dec. 8.

NANCY J. ANDERSON

Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Anderson of Midland are announcing the engagement of their daughter Nancy Jane to 2nd Lt. Theodore Keith Barnhart, son of Mrs. Ralph E. Meek of 212 Atwaten St., Lake Orion, and the late Theodore J. Barnhart. A June wedding has been planned by the couple.

Track Just Off M59

Want Restrictions Lifted on Drag Strip

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — A petition requesting that legal restrictions be relaxed on a portion of the Pontiac Speedway to allow racing this summer has been filed in Oakland County Circuit Court, according to the track owner.

Robert Amos, owner of track located off M59 here, said the petition asks that the court lift a part of the injunction filed by the township that has prohibited racing at the speedway for more than a year.

The track owner explained that the township filed for the injunction against his property in a battle over a dragstrip he proposed to build at the racing site.

The issue came before the township when Amos requested that 15 acres adjacent to the track by the zoning board and later by commercial.

The request was turned down by the zaning board and later by the board of appeals with the explanation that the drag strip would cause property values in the area of the track to depreciate.

Further construction of the dragstrip was halted by the injunction. A cross-bill was filed by Amos and a hearing is scheduled for March.

However, Amos said, the injunction took in part of the racing track needed to service cars, the pit area. This area, according to Amos, is not zoned for commercial use but was used for racing purposes long before the township zoning laws went into effect.

"It is this area, about 9½ acres, that we need before racing can be resumed," Amos said.

"This portion of the track has nothing to do with the dragstrip and we are hoping to have the restriction lifted before the dragstrip issue gets to court."

He said that a decision may be made by Circuit Court Judge H. Russel Holland by Monday.

To Eye Budget in Southfield

Evidence of Excess Spending Is Alleged by Council President

SOUTHFIELD—The City Council will meet here in a special session Saturday to review the 1960-61 Southfield budget set up by former City Administrator Robert J. McNutt.

Council President C. Hugh Dohany said today there is evidence of overspending in some departments and that it may be necessary to transfer money to other city departments.

The special council meeting is slated for 9 a.m. Saturday at the Southfield City Hall.

Dohany said he thinks it only fair that the new administrator, Donald V. Smith, have a clear picture of how much money is left to operate the city for the rest of the fiscal year.

The budget set up by McNutt was for operation of the city from July, 1960, to June of this year.

McNutt resigned in December after a controversy with some members of the council. Smith took over as administrator last month.

ROBERT TEMPLETON

Returns to Manage Fun Park

WALLED LAKE — Following an absence of three years, Robert Templeton has returned to manage the Walled Lake Amusement Park.

Templeton, 44, manager of the favorite summer spot 15 years before leaving in 1957, replaces Andrew M. Brown.

Brown has moved to Ohio to manage the San Juan Amusement Park at Russell's Point.

Templeton has spent the last three years with Esquire magazine in the advertising and special promotion fields.

The veteran manager said he is embarking early on a program to revise the park's picnic facilities, both for public and industrial recreational groups, as well as to renovate amusement and concession areas.

Templeton lives in Farmington with his wife, Berniece, and their two daughters, Mary, 14, and Robin, 10.

Negligent Homicide Charge for Driver

PAW PAW (UPI)—An Oak Park truck driver who won an award for driving a million miles without an accident was charged with negligent homicide today in the traffic death of a rural Hartford woman.

Mrs. Irma Jamecsny, 48, was killed Tuesday while driving a motor scooter on Interstate 94 just west of Hartford.

She was struck by an auto carrier truck driven by Jack B. Mena, 40, of Oak Park.

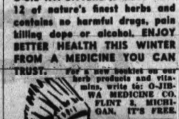

Van Buren county sheriff's officers said two auto carriers passed the woman and the third, driven by Mena, struck her.

County Prosecutor Meyer Washawski said he authorized a charge of negligent homicide against Mena, the father of 10 children.

Merchants to Meet on Reorganization

UNION LAKE—Area merchants will meet tomorrow evening to discuss the reorganization of the Union Lake Business Association and review the needs of the community.

The meeting will be held at Easton's Cleaners, 8185 Cooley Lake Road, at 9 p.m. All business and profesional people in the area have been invited to the meeting.

James McKibbon, chairman of the organization, said that an enlarged association might require the services of a salaried secretary.

The University Club of New York City is believed to be the oldest organization of its kind in the United States. It was founded in 1865.

Home Baked Products Are Tops in Taste

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

If you read last week's article about cutting food costs, you'll remember that we said home made baked goods are cheaper than frozen and many made from a mix. Cakes from a mix are the exception.

Perhaps you haven't done any baking "from scratch" for a long time. It really isn't a big chore; we think it's fun. Here are a few recipes to start out with.

Special breads make the simplest meal more delightful. A bread flavored with orange can go in the children's lunch boxes or appear as toast for breakfast.

Try this orange bread made with yeast. You may use fresh, frozen or canned orange juice.

ORANGE BREAD

1 package or cake yeast, active dry or compressed
¼ cup water
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon mace
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
⅔ cup strained orange juice
1 egg, beaten
3 tablespoons melted margarine or butter
2¾ cups sifted flour (about)

Sprinkle or crumble yeast into very warm water in large mixing bowl. Stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt, mace, orange rind, orange juice, egg, melted margarine or butter and half of the flour; beat until smooth.

Add remaining flour to make soft dough; mix well. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl; grease top of dough. Cover. Let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours.

Punch down; turn out onto lightly floured board; shape into a loaf. Place in greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 50 minutes, or until done. Makes 1 loaf.

For readers who are still scared to work with yeast dough (Aw, go on and try it—it's easy!), here is a recipe for fruit-filled biscuits. These could be dessert or the best part of breakfast.

Quick Raspberry-Nut Rolls

2 cups sifted enriched flour*
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅓ cup shortening
1 egg, beaten
½ to ⅔ cup milk
½ cup raspberry jam
½ cup chopped nuts
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
Melted butter

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt. Cut or rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Combine egg and 1/3 cup milk and add to flour mixture, mixing until dry ingredients are moistened. If necessary, add additional milk to make a soft dough.

Turn onto lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently 30 seconds. Roll out dough to a rectangle 10x18 inches. Combine raspberry jam, nuts, and orange rind. Brush dough with melted butter, and spread with jam mixture. Roll up as for jelly roll and cut into twelve 1½-inch slices.

Place cut-side down in lightly-oiled 8-inch square baking pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes, until golden brown. Makes one dozen 1¼-inch rolls.

*If self-rising flour is used, omit baking powder and salt.

Another bread that's easy to make comes from Shannon, Ireland. We have heard for years of Irish Soda Bread, but never of Irish Brown Bread. The recipe calls for whole bran cereal.

Irish Brown Bread

4½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1½ cups crushed whole bran cereal
2½ cups buttermilk

Sift together flour, baking soda, sugar and salt. Add bran cereal to flour mixture; mix well. Add buttermilk and mix until all dry ingredients are moistened. Flour hands and press dough into greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Makes 1 loaf.

This last recipe is for an apple dessert. Although the original recipe calls for zwieback crumbs, you may substitute graham cracker crumbs or even toasted bread crumbs without serious damage.

If you don't have a spring form pan, bake the dessert in a large casserole or baking pan and cut it out in wedges or squares.

Swedish Apple Cake

½ cup butter or margarine
2½ cups zwieback crumbs
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
3 cups firm, tart applesauce
2 tablespoons butter

Melt ½ cup butter or margarine in frying pan. Add crumbs and cinnamon. Cook, stirring over low heat until evenly browned. Alternate layer of crumbs and applesauce in a buttered 8-inch spring form pan, ending with a layer of crumbs on top. Dot with 2 tablespoons butter.

Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, 25 minutes. Cool slightly. Unmold on serving plate. Sprinkle top with confectioners' sugar. Serve with ice cold Vanilla Custard Sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Eggs in Tomato Sauce Bake to Perfection

For a quick and easy Lenten dish, bake eggs in a savory Spanish sauce: saute chopped onion in Spanish olive oil until tender, add canned tomato sauce, a pinch of oregano, a little minced fresh parsley and a dash of garlic powder.

Cover bottom of shallow ramekins with sauce, break one or two eggs in each and bake in 400 degree oven just until whites are set. Serve with plenty of crusty bread and a salad.

102 Passengers Escape Death as Jet Crashes

4 Crew Members Die on Flaming Mexican Airliner in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — A jet airliner crashed Thursday night seconds after taking off in a wind-whipped snowstorm. The huge ship's speed sent it slamming across a highway, clipping an auto and skidding in flames into a marsh.

Of the 106 persons reported aboard, 102 escaped death, although at least 26 were injured, several critically.

The dead tentatively were identified as four of the eight crew members — three men and the woman purser. Sixty-one of the 93 passengers aboard the four-engine airliner are residents of the United States.

The airliner, a DC-8 of Aeronaves de Mexico, went down at 8:26 p.m. It was bound nonstop for Mexico City.

One survivor, C. Terry Schrist of Farmington, Conn., said the plane got about 30 feet in the air, then skimmed down. Other survivors weren't certain if the plane ever got off the ground.

Airport observers said the 4-million craft had to get aloft to clear a concrete knee at the end of the runway. The plane did hit a strut fence just beyond the concrete barrier. Sections of the wreckage were gumshoed in the wreckage. The front section of the plane became enveloped in flames.

The Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Aviation Agency began on-the-scene investigations in an attempt to learn the cause of the crash.

The one person aboard who might have the answer is William R. Poe, 57, of Miami, Fla. Co-pilot aboard the plane. Bill Poe's condition early today at St. Joseph's Hospital in Queens was described as "still critical."

Visibility at the time of the crash was a quarter of a mile, and the ceiling about 300 feet.

IDENTIFY BODIES

Police tentatively identified the bodies found in the wreckage as those of Capt. Ricardo Gonzalez, the pilot; First Officer Antonio Ruiz Bravo; Second Officer Javier

Salesmanship, initiative and imagination are the roads to better business in 1961. It's no longer just enough to have a store on a busy street. You can't wait for customers to come to you. There are more sellers competing for the consumer dollar than ever before. Cars compete with swimming pools, new homes with vacation trips, new clothes with a summer cottage and food with liquid diet supplements. The competition is tough but the man with ideas will continue to grow. He will make people want his product or service with imaginative advertising. He will tell them who he is, where he is and how he can make their life more enjoyable. He will reach thousands of homes daily when he uses the pages of The Pontiac Press. He is the man who will do business in 1961.

Fife Rejects Last Minute Armistice Offer

Detroit Lions' Proxy Battle Drawing Close

Stockholders to Meet Thursday to Select Directors

DETROIT (AP) — The leader of the rebel camp in the Detroit Lions' front office civil war has spurned a last-minute armistice offer.

The terms of the peace overture most likely would have meant surrender for D. Lyle Fife, former president of the Detroit Football Co., and the dissident stockholders.

Fife said last night his group wouldn't give ground in its stockholders' proxy battle with the management forces.

He refused an appeal by president William Clay Ford to end their disagreement with a truce that Ford said would restore harmony before the long-awaited stockholders' meeting tomorrow.

Fife wouldn't admit defeat which Ford said yesterday was a foregone conclusion.

"Since it appears obvious that they will be defeated in their attempt to seize control of the franchise," Ford said, "we now appeal to them, as good citizens and old friends, to end their fight and join with us in a united effort to bring another world championship to Detroit."

"We have proxies and we intend to go in and vote with them," said Fife in rebuttal. "It's erroneous to say we're trying to gain control. But it's the prerogative of stockholders to try for a change if they're dissatisfied."

The stockholders will elect 15 directors to the board that runs the Lions' off-the-field fortunes.

"If we get eight or five or seven or nine, that'll be good," said Fife. "The number doesn't matter. What we want is to represent the stockholders properly."

Ford's statement inferred a minority bloc of directors could be ruinous to the Lions. It said:

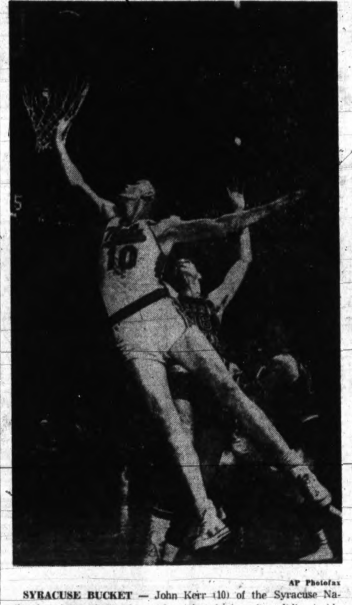

"If the dissident group should elect a minority to the board, we face the possibility of a continuing campaign of harrassment and disharmony which could disrupt the morale of our entire organization."

"No possible good can be accomplished by a division of loyalties on our board of directors, no matter how small the voice of the dissenting minority, but lasting damage and endless harm can result from such an unfortunate division."

Fife said he has conferred several times with Ford, who became president when Edwin J. Anderson stepped down in an apparent peace gesture. Anderson, victor over Fife last year in a similar dispute, remained as general manager.

"We're still willing to talk with them at any time before the meeting," said Fife.

SYRACUSE BUCKET — John Kerr (10) of the Syracuse Nationals twists and stretches as he sinks a basket after sliding inside the Detroit Pistons' Bob Ferry in the 1st period of Tuesday night's NBA doubleheader at Madison Square Garden. Syracuse handed the Pistons their 7th straight loss, 123-118.

Four NBA Playoff Teams Are Known

By The Associated Press

Four of the National Basketball Association's six playoff teams already have been determined and the big question for the waning weeks of the season seems to be who'll get the last two spots in the Western Division.

The Syracuse Nationals and Philadelphia Warriors, still struggling over second place in the East, did a double job of eliminating the hapless New York Knickerbockers from contention Tuesday night. The Nats clinched the third and last playoff spots by conquering the Detroit Pistons 123-118 in the opener of a New York doubleheader. Then the Warriors added "positively" by downing the Knicks 114-112 in the second game.

The St. Louis Hawks, who backed into the Western title Monday when Los Angeles lost to Syracuse, celebrated Tuesday night with their 26th victory in 30 home games—a 126-114 decision over the Cincinnati Royals.

As a result, Detroit still trails Los Angeles by a game and a half with Cincinnati another game back.

Philadelphia has a four point bulge over Syracuse for second in the Eastern Division. But the Nats, with Dolph Schayes, have been coming on strongly while the Warriors' victory was only their third in 10 games.

Schayes, playing his 660th consecutive NBA game, paced the Nats with 33 points in a game which saw the lead change 13 times in the fourth quarter. But it was Larry Costello and Barney Cable who sent Syracuse ahead to stay.

The Warriors won out in the last 19 seconds when Tom Gola converted a rebound to break a 112-112 tie. New York had led by as much as 11 points in the first half but couldn't fold it as Wilt Chamberlain and Paul Arizin went to work. Chamberlain scored 39 points and took 30 rebounds. Arizin scored 28.

Cincinnati, which has lost 23 games in St. Louis over five seasons, got a 36-point performance from Oscar Robertson but that wasn't enough to match 31 by Cliff Hagan, 30 by Bob Pettit and 27 by Lennie Wilkens.

'M' Swimmers Ad-Lib in PNH Pool Program

Dick Kimball, Michigan's former national collegiate diving champion and now diving coach of the Wolverine swimming team, does a pretty good job ad-libing with his comedy routine which was a smash hit before a standing room crowd at Pontiac Northern pool last night.

The Wolverines did some serious swimming and certainly broke the existing pool records. But everything was unofficial, entertaining and humorous.

Kimball and his divers, Olympic champion Bob Webster and Pete Cox put on a trampoline and diving exhibition, and Olympians Dave Gillanders and Bill Darnton swam in exhibition. Gillanders went :56.4 in a timed butterfly exhibition and Darnton went 1:21 in a 150 yard freestyle.

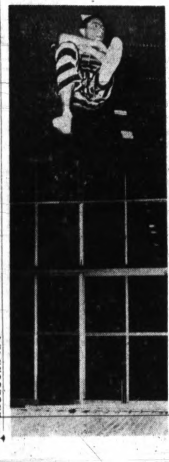

Kimball and Cox provided a comedy act with a water ballet as the "Flamingo Sisters" and they put on a series of dives which will probably never be included in competitive diving.

They featured the "Hi Dive," the "Paul Revere Dive" and "Russian Kossacki" and the "Belly Dive" and the dive of the "Three Horsemen."

Webster, the 10-meter platform Olympic champion, was near-perfect in his exhibition of the various dives.

"We do most of our practicing on our own" said Kimball, "most of the routines used in putting on our programs around the state are ad-libed in the car on the way."

Webster commented that Northern's pool "is one of the finest he has seen around the state." The standing room crowd was highly enthusiastic to program. Proceeds went to the Parent-Teacher-Student Association.

Pihos said he was hired as head coach and is temporarily holding down the job of general manager for the "paper" team, to be called the Cincinnati Dukes.

OLYMPIAN AND COMEDIAN — Bob Webster, University of Michigan's Olympic diving champion, showed beautiful form in his diving exhibition at Pontiac Northern pool last night. He was just as talented in his comedy routine in which he is shown doing the "Russian Kossacki" as his head appears near to touching the ceiling. A standing room crowd watched the Wolverines in the water show at PNH.

'Fireball' Roberts' Yen for Speed Understandable

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Glenn (Fireball) Roberts is a Daytona product so his yen for speed in this speed-happy community is understandable.

The tall, slightly stooped 30-year-old Roberts will be one of the favorites in the "Daytona 500" at the 2½-mile Daytona International Speedway next Sunday, and not only because of pride of the locals in one of their own. He ranks among the stars of late model stock car racing.

Preliminaries for the weekend speed program were marred when Harold Haberling, Phoenix, Ariz., was killed Tuesday in the upset of his modified 1955 Chevrolet on the 31-degree east turn.

Haberling's crackup was the first fatality on the Speedway since 1959, when two occurred.

Seventy cars are entered for the 500 Sunday. The fastest 60 will start.

Oddly enough, despite his high rating, Roberts hasn't won the "big ones," meaning the 500 mile and up events—the Atlanta 500, the Daytona 500, the Darlington 500 and the Charlotte 600.

He won the "Firecracker 250" here and a 300-mile event at Atlanta, but his cars haven't stood up over the longer grind. Some say he just bears down too hard—he holds the qualifying records at all four tracks. He just shrugs at the idea.

"You have to bear down if you're out to win," Roberts says. "If you want to finish 10th or so, that would be easy."

In a 25-mile race Feb. 12 he won a pole position in the two 100-mile races Friday and the 500 on Sunday with a speed of 155.709 miles per hour. Joe Weatherly of Norfolk, Va., won the other pole with a speed of 154.122.

"You couldn't keep up that pace for 500 miles," Roberts explains. "The car couldn't take it. On the straightaway you hit about 170. You can run flat all the way around this track, meaning all out. But in a long race you have to use your head and adjust your speed."

Fireball—he got the nickname as a high school baseball pitcher—will drive a 1961 Pontiac Sunday. He would like to take a shot at driving in the Indianapolis 500 but doesn't want to endanger his NASCAR standing.

Assistant Commissioner Seen Replacing Wilson

CHICAGO (AP)—Bill Reed, assistant commissioner of the Big Ten since 1951, apparently will succeed Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson.

The Big Ten opens its annual March meetings in Champaign next week and it is likely that the 44-year-old Reed will be recommended to succeed Wilson at that time.

Wilson will be 65 on March 27. For 20 years he served as athletic director at Northwestern before becoming commissioner in 1944 following the death of Major John L. Griffith. Wilson's contract, calling for a base salary of about $20,000 a year, expires May 1.

In the Big Ten, the general faculty plan for retirement is 65 and it is assumed the same will apply to Wilson who is also president of the U.S. Olympic Association.

Reed graduated from Michigan in 1936 and first joined the Big Ten in 1939 when he organized the Conference Service Bureau under Major Griffith. After a leave of absence during the war years, Reed returned to the conference and also set up the first central office of the NCAA as executive assistant.

Reed resigned in 1947 to become administrative assistant to U.S. Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan but returned to the Big Ten in 1951 as assistant commissioner.

Reed's recommendation is expected to be made by Big Ten faculty representatives after a report next week by a screening committee headed by V. C. Freeman, Purdue faculty representative.

Big Ten school presidents then are expected to make a decision at their regular meeting in Chicago late in April.

Although Reed is the one most likely to succeed Wilson, other names have been dropped as possibilities.

Pontiac Divers Take 4 Firsts

Pontiac divers competing in the Michigan Amateur Aquatics meet at Warren High School Sunday captured four firsts and high places in other events.

Micki King, PCH student who competed in the Olympic trials, won the girls' 15-16 event and the women's open division.

John LaMotte, aquatics instructor at the YMCA, was first in the men's open with ex-PNH diver Bill Ratliff taking second place.

Alex Hiller won the other first place in the boys' 13-14 division.

The wins were the finishes for Pontiac entries.

Boys 10-Under—4th, Dave Carruthers (50.7).

Boys 11-12—2rd, Carl Hiller (94.0); 4th, Dave Trousdale (80.65); 5th, Norm LaMotte (32.05).

Girls 13-14—Alex Hiller (123.40); 5th, Cliff Mann (88.9); 7th, Terry Nestrick (73.50).

Men's Open—John LaMotte (307.20); 2nd, Bill Ratliff (287.60); 5th, Nils Lindman (163.05), 6th, Gary Collins (161.65).

Leading Publinx Golfer to Head Driving Range

Veicho (Vic) Juhola of Clawson has given up his amateur status to become manager of the Maple Golf Range in Troy, according to an announcement by Jim Robbins, owner of the Maple driving range and Sylvan Glen Golf Club.

Juhola, who played for Sylvan Glen's publinx team in 1959 and 1960, has been one of the Oakland County area's top amateur golfers since his graduation from Redford High School in 1947. In his prep days at Redford, Juhola twice won All-City golfing honors.

"Vic" competed in the 1959 National Publinx tournament at Denver and last year's National Publinx event at Honolulu. He also played in the 1958 State Amateur and last year's Michigan Open. Juhola won the 1959 MPGA handicap tourney at Sunnybrook with an 18-hole score of 66.

The Maple range is located at 1550 Maple Road near Stephenson Highway. The 29-year-old Juhola will assume his new duties in March. Juhola, his wife Betty and three children live at 611 Bowers in Clawson.

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — Undefeated Flint clinched the Michigan Junior College Athletic Conference basketball championship last night by whipping Bay City 89-74.

In Tigers' Preliminary Camp

Osborne's Bat Hot

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Larry Osborne is swinging a red-hot bat in the Tigers' preliminary training camp.

But what happens if the beefy first baseman — once called the brightest prospect in the Detroit farm system — keeps on hitting?

For once first base isn't a bonafide problem for the Tigers. Norm Cash filled the job admirably last year and hit a surprising .286. Cash is young, and expected to improve as a fielder with more regular duty.

He's probably a more consistent and better clutch hitter than Osborne.

That leaves manager Bob Scheffing with a luxury few of his recent predecessors had — bench strength, or trading bait. And the Tigers will have even more depth with Charlie Maxwell riding the bench under Scheffing's new outfield alignment of Bill Bruton, Al Kaline and Rocky Colavito.

Osborne, who has stopped worrying about his weight, banged out the longest hit of the training season yesterday. He rammed a double off the 400-foot sign of the center field wall and added a sharp single.

Both hits were wasted as Phil Cavaretta's Black Sox whipped Don Heffner's Striped Sox for the third straight time, 5-3.

Osborne never lived up to his potential until last summer at Denver. He won the American Association's home run crown with 34 and the batting title at .342.

He says he forgot about watching his weight and it helps him concentrate on his hitting. In 1959 when he failed in Detroit, the Tigers had him trim his size down to about 205 pounds. Last year Osborne weighed in at about 230. The added poundage seemed to help his hitting in the thin, ball-carrying air at Denver.

Two former Michigan collegians also were hitting stars yesterday. Jim Northrup, once a football star at Alma, and Wilbert Franklin, who gave up his football eligibility at Michigan, each hit safely twice. Both are expected to gain spots with farm clubs.

Maple Swimmers Now 12-1, Ready for League Prelims

Birmingham Seaholm closed its dual meet season last night by downing Mt. Clemens 72-27, and now the Maples will be ready to add the Eastern Michigan League meet title to its dual championship.

The Maples finished the dual season with a 12-1 record, having lost only to powerful Ann Arbor.

In another EML dual meet, Royal Oak Kimball defeated Ferndale 64-41, with Larry Jacobs tying the Oakland County butterfly mark at :56.8.

Sophomore Don Spencer, who hit :56.8 earlier this year, had a :58.8 in this event last night.

The Maples lost only one first, that in the 100 backstroke won by Jim Nicholison of Mt. Clemens in 1:05.2.

The Seaholm 200 freestyle relay team missed the county record by .4 of a second. The winning time was 1:35.8.

Brook Bearss won the 50 for Kimball in :24.6 and Mike Rowe the backstroke in 1:02.9. Ferndale's Tom Stenbach went 1:12.6 in the breaststroke.

NCAA Preparing More Bad News on Infractions

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The committee on infractions of the National Collegiate Athletic Association opens a three-day meeting here today.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said the committee, the fact-gathering agency for the association's enforcement program will prepare several cases for consideration of the NCAA policy-directing council in April. He did not elaborate.

Byers also announced that Dr. J. William Davis, chairman of the Texas Tech athletic council, has been named to the four-man committee to replace A. D. Kirwan of the University of Kentucky, resigned.

Two Pirates Unsigned

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday signed outfielders Gino Cimoli, Joe Christopher and Henry Mitchell.

U-D Buries Chips, 90-33; Western Surprises Loyola

By United Press International

It's all play and no work for University of Detroit's basketball team these days.

The mighty Titans, slashing with carefree abandon through the "set-up" portion of a tough schedule, humiliated Central Michigan last night, 90-33.

It was the fourth straight triumph for coach Bob Calihan's cagers and it extended their season record to 16-7. For Central, it was the worst licking the Chippewas have absorbed in 12 years.

In other games last night, Lawrence Tech nailed down its 10th in a row as Cap Pethers set a new school scoring mark with 54 points in a 119-81 trouncing of Northwood and Western Michigan trimmed Loyola of Chicago, 107-89.

The brilliant Dave DeBusschere once again sparked the Detroit attack with 28 points and Charlie North added 25. No Central player reached double figures.

Calihan pulled his first-string off the floor with eight minutes to go, but the Titan reserves continued to pile it on.

Central's loss was its 16th in 19 outings.

Pethers' scoring blitz broke the record of 53 set by John Bradley last Jan. 11. Bradley, the nation's leading small college scorer, dunked in 26 points. He also generously set up Pethers for the record-breaking basket with a floor-length pass in the closing seconds.

Lawrence Tech's season record is now 19-5.

Western Michigan whistled a late Loyola rally to rack up its ninth victory against 13 losses.

Game scoring laurels were shared by Western's Sam Key and Loyola's Jerry Harkness with 28 apiece.

Junior Welter Title Match Set April 23

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Carlos Ortiz will fight Dulio Loy in Milan, Italy April 23 for the world junior welterweight title, fight manager Angelo Dundee said Monday night.

Dundee said featherweight champ Davey Moore would fight Italy's Giordano Canpari Feb. 25 at Milan. Both bouts are scheduled 10-rounders.

Ex-Champion, Veteran Lead Golf Qualifiers

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — A former national junior golf champion, Larry Beck of Kingston, N.C., and golfing veteran, Jimmy Paul of Delray Beach, Fla., led a select amateur golf field into today's second half of the qualifying round in the National Tournament of Golf Club Champions.

Large Crowd on Hand

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Omaha nipped Muskegon 2-1 last night before 5,637 persons, the largest International Hockey League crowd of the season here.

The visiting Zephyrs were blanked until Warren Back scored at 8:13 of the middle period.

Ranking Welter Wins

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Cuba's Luis Rodriguez proved his mettle as the world's second-ranking welterweight Tuesday night by scoring a fifth round TKO victory over California champion Lyle Mackin at Oakland Auditorium.

TUESDAY'S FIGHTS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Cassius Clay, 196, Louisville, stopped Donnie Fleeman, 194, Dallas, 7.

STREATHAM, England—Dave Charnley, 134½, England, outpointed Fernand Mailet, 133, France, 15. Charnley retained European lightweight title.

St. Fred, Eaglets Win; Skippers Bow, 46-43

St. Frederick won its 2nd game in three Catholic Tournament starts last night while Waterford, St. Michael and Birmingham Seaholm were all going down to defeat.

Orchard Lake St. Mary, Troy, Ortonville and Cranbrook joined the Rams on the victory side of the ledger.

It took a big 24-point last quarter for St. Fred to edge favored Dearborn Sacred Heart 66-63 in a tourney consolation contest.

Coach Gene Wright's Suburban League champs trailed all the way —once by as much as 14—until Mike Reed's basket with 1:30 to play turned the tide putting the Pontiac cagers in front 61-60. Ted Dobski added two free throws, Reed swished another goal and Pete Vasquez hit a foul to clinch the issue. Sacred Heart had led 40-31 at halftime and by 11 starting the 4th period.

Reed finished with 19, Jim Kennedy garnered 14 and Dobski 13. George Wilson rung up 24 in defeat.

St. Fred is now idle until Saturday when it concludes tournament play in another consolation against the St. Thomas-St. Cyril winner.

Wayne broke a tie in the closing minutes with three foul tosses to nip Waterford, 46-43. The Skippers, who led early 12-8 then fell behind, had rallied to get even before foiling their chance away.

Mike Gorvin was the Wayne big gun with 22 points. Ed Stigers fired in 15 and Dick Shipman 11 in defeat. It was Waterford's 8th setback in 13 games.

St. Michael had a 24-point last period but otherwise was no match for strong Mt. Clemens St. Mary in a 67-57 setback. The Shamrocks were 20 points down before their comeback. It was 33-23 at the half.

Jim Peters, who has averaged 20 points per game, rung up 30 for St. Mary. Al Tunny hooped 20 for the Mikemen, who are now 6-8.

Seaholm went from a strong showing in the upset of Ferndale to a listless performance at Mt. Clemens in a 71-41 rout. It was no contest after the home team went from a 19-13 lead to 41-23 taking control of the backboards while the Maples could not find the shooting range.

Larry Vann and John Bly sparked a balanced winning offensive with 24 and 16 points, respectively. "Hap" Dunne topped Seaholm with 13. Mt. Clemens gained a tie for 2nd in the tight Eastern Michigan race behind Ferndale. The two teams clash Friday.

East Detroit slammed Hazel Park 67-51 in the other loop tilt to take 3rd place. The Parkers were in front 24-22 at the half against the East Detroit 2nd team but coach Fred Lee inserted his starters after the intermission and periods of 35 and 20 followed. Jerry Brzezinski paced East Detroit with 20. Bill Boldt tossed in 21 for Hazel Park.

EAGLETS WIN 11th

Orchard Lake St. Mary broke up a close struggle by turning Detroit St. Andrew errors into four straight baskets in the last three minutes of the opening half and went on to triumph, 50-41.

Down 14-10, the Eaglets had their best quarter of the season with 22 points in going ahead to stay. St. Andrew got within five with three minutes left in the game but two Glen Hass' goals and one by Larry Sissen wrapped up the issue. Hass had 20 and Sissen 16 in the 11th victory against four losses.

TROY BOMBS ROMEO

It was 17-17 after one quarter but all Troy from then on as the Colts bombed Romeo, 66-45. Pete Davidson canned 15 and Hank Akin 14 for THS. Larry Lete's 9 was high for Romeo. The win made Troy's record 10-5. It was the 6th straight loss for the Bulldogs.

ORTONVILLE SHINES

Ortonville looked more like it had before a recent slump last night beating Flint Dye, 77-70. The Hawks had held a slight edge most of the 1st half but were behind 60-58 starting the last period. Doug Moors hit 10 of his 26 points in the last round as the Hawks riddled a pressing defense. Jim Hutchings added 21 and Jerry Brosseau 20 to the attack.

EASY FOR CRANBROOK

Steady George Blanchard paced Cranbrook to an easy 54-45 decision over Grosse Pointe University School. Coach Hugh Davison of the Cranes used 15 players. His team led by as much as 25 on the way to its 6th victory against seven defeats.

SOUTH LYON HALTED

South Lyon held up well for three periods but a 27-9 last period bulge enabled Willow Run to breeze 93-70 in the Lions' final regular season game.

Oakland County scoring leader Jack Wren was just under his scoring average with 24, Stan Tapp and Dave Taylor hit 16 each but Willow Run's greater height and the departure of three of the losing players on fouls eventually proved the difference. Willow Run led by only one point after each of the 1st two periods and 66-61 at the end of three. Big boys Ezal Cole and Ron Clinkscales totaled 55 for the winners.

OUCH!

Jim Bliss hit 40 points in Royal Oak St. Mary's 88-28 slaughter of Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes. George Sharpe got 15 points in defeat.

LIGHT WORKOUT

Berkley had a tuneup for the finish of Inter-Lakes play by rolling over Birmingham Groves, 73-30. Scott Casselman hit 12 heading several Bear point-getters. Mike Bearden scored 13 for Groves, now 5-7.

LAMPHERE BEATEN

Harper Woods was in command all the way in whipping Lamphere, 55-37. Terry Watt bagged 19 besting top Ram Phil Freer's 16.

UTICA DROPS 10th

Utica loss No. 10 by 62-37 at Fraser although behind only 24-17 at halftime. Fred Kollmorgan dominated the rebounds and featured the Fraser cause with 18 points. Dave Kraft had 11 and Tim Krenske 10 for Utica.

PCH Matmen Downed Again

Flint Southwestern handed Pontiac Central's wrestling team a 26-19 setback yesterday in the PCH gym.

The outcome of the meet was in doubt until the last match. Southwestern, holding a 21-19 edge at the time, won when 230-pound heavyweight Art Lowry pinned Central's Richard Richards.

Recording a pin for the Chiefs was Wayne Lee at 180 pounds.

Pontiac Central travels to Bay City Junior College this weekend to compete in the Saginaw Valley meet.

Conservation Department Wants Money

Seek License Fee Increase as One Move

Hassle With Federal Government Resulting in Shortage

LANSING (UPI) — Nearly every state agency has had occasion in the last two or three years to yell loudly about the state's tight money position, but few are as vocal as the State Conservation Department.

Department officials don't blame their problems entirely on the state's fiscal crisis of 1959—they say the federal government is also partly to blame for the trouble.

They are seeking relief on both fronts and are getting some backing in the legislature to provide more money for conservation and recreation needs.

This year one measure in the House would bring in about $300,000 in new revenue from the sale of fishing licenses, according to its sponsor.

But this is only half, or less than half, the amount the department would like to see added by a change in license requirements.

Rep. Walter G. Nakkula, R-Gladwin, proposes to broaden the base of fishing license revenues for all fishermen on the Great Lakes.

Michigan is the only lakes border state which does not have a license requirement for the Great Lakes, Nakkula said.

The lawmaker does not propose any increase in fishing license fees.

The department's proposal is to hike license fees from $2 to $3 and extend the coverage to the Great Lakes. Department spokesmen estimated this would bring in added revenues of between $600,000 and $800,000.

"I'm opposed to any general increase at this time, and from what I've heard from conservation clubs they don't like the idea either," the Gladwin Republican said.

The department's quarrel with the federal government is also related to fishing and hunting administration.

Michigan stands to lose $231,000 a year in federal funds for the state's game and fish protection fund because of a duplication in the state's license registration figures.

State officials currently count each license as a registration, while federal authorities say that one man is to be counted as a single license holder regardless of how many licenses he buys.

Three other states are also fighting for a new federal ruling on this question.

A bill similar to that proposed by Nakkula this year was introduced in the legislature before but it failed to pass.

The department's dispute over the duplication question has also been pending for some time.

From all indications, the department will remain in the classification with many other state agencies and will have a few more years of money problems.

Along the Outdoor Trail

BIG HANDFUL — Jim Dunn holds proof that he can do better than his brother, The 19-year-old Oxford angler speared this 21½-pound northern pike Saturday on Davison Lake. The fish is 43 inches long. Two weeks ago his brother, John, speared a 14-pounder on the same lake.

Opposition Growing Over New Projects

By DON VOGEL
Outdoor Writer, Pontiac Press

For many years the State Conservation Department has received general support for its programs from sportsmen's organizations across the state.

But in the last year and a half, department officials have been finding more and more resistence to projects they consider would benefit hunters, fishermen and those people who use state lands for other activities.

The faint rumblings heard from businessmen in Northern Michigan and a number of hunters ever since the "any deer" program started, exploded in a thunderous roar at the close of the 1960 season. Now there is an even chance that the legislature will remove some of the department's deer management powers.

The Conservation Commission is under heavy fire to repeal its action granting the federal government the right to build a hatchery along the Jordan River.

Before facing up to strong opposition over opening the Porcupine Mountains State Park to mining, a majority of the commissioners approved the move.

Now the department wants to increase the resident fishing license fee and extend the licensing requirement to cover wives and fishing in the Great Lakes. A proposal now before the House would include wives and Great Lakes fishing, but leave the price alone.

Sportsmen are generally opposed to any increase. They have not made any clear decision on a fishing license for wives or the Great Lakes.

Why the sudden opposition?

Some of the actions of the Conservation Commission, the Jordan River hatchery, Porcupines mining and the indecision over oil rights on state lands, makes a person wonder sometimes whether the commissioners are acting in the best interests of John Q. Public.

Constant reports of the department's divisions fighting among themselves doesn't help matters. Nor do the reams of statistics put forth. A hunter wants to see game when he sights over the barrel or wants to fell a fish on the end of the line.

Admitting errors in the deer count and having experts from other states tell them that trout planting projects on streams is not the answer, hurts Michigan's department.

Michigan sportsmen want results from the dollars they spend from licenses. It is true that many of them are asking for utopia, but their overall complaints appear to have a good foundation.

The department has some good projects, the progress shown by the parks division being one. But the overall progress is missing.

That is why opposition to department projects and requests for more funds is growing.

The terms of three commissioners expire soon. Gov. Swainson should consider carefully before making the new appointments.

New Banding Exhibit Set at Kensington

The tools, technique and history of banding of birds is explained in a new exhibit to be featured at the Nature Center of Kensington Park near Milford starting this Sunday.

At the same time visitors may see a dugout canoe, 12 feet long, which once belonged to an Indian Chief who made it from white cedar in 1800. The Nature Center is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday and from 2 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The banding exhibit was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Wright of Detroit who stated that Audubon pioneered the banding of birds in the United States by marking a group of Eastern Phoebes with silver threads in 1803. However, the first metal rings were recorded in 1400 A.D. when they were placed on the legs of a Great Covey Heron in Turkey.

Detroit Bulldog Show Favorite at Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Champion Vardona Frosty Snowman is a big, good natured English bulldog who has a job cut out for him next Sunday in Municipal Auditorium.

Frosty, owned by Dr. Edward Vardon of Detroit, is going to defend his Best In Show championship at the Heart of America Kennel Club's 13th annual exhibition. Club officials today said the 1,377 entries makes their show the largest one-day event in the Midwest and is a record for Kansas City.

The big white bulldog has won so many Bests In Show even his owner may have lost count. In 1960 alone he won 13 times out of the 37 he went to the top in the non-sporting variety group. Judge Jack Spear of Tipton, Iowa, will make the Best In Show award Sunday night. Other well known judges among the dozen or so who will be here include George Leatt of Skipton, England; Jack Baird, dog columnist of the New York Herald Tribune; and Mrs. L. W. Conney of Oyster Bay, N.Y.

Two Lowly Fish Might Provide Future Markets

Chubs, Burbot Regarded Good for Table; Helps Pay Anglers

By United Press International

Trout fishermen beware! This is the unfinished tale of two of the lowliest denizens of Michigan waters.

At the recent meeting in Traverse City of the Great Lakes commercial fishermen, delegates were served 50-pounds of breaded filets which they proclaimed as good as anything they ever tasted.

They were eating chub, the lowly oversized minnow which for years has been fed to mink, ground for fertilizer or cut up for bait.

At about the same time hardy bands of fishermen were preparing to take to the ice on two Upper Peninsula streams for one of the most limited "dipping" seasons anywhere.

They were Finnish-Americans after what they consider a delicacy, the lowly and ugly burbot, a freshwater cod which is a first cousin in appearance to the bullhead.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service branch in Ann Arbor is responsible for the chub incident. Keith Brouillard, a government experimenter at Ann Arbor, ran the chubs through a fileting machine produced in Sweden which quickly strips out the filets ready for freezing.

The machine could have a powerful and successful effect on Michigan's fishing industry if the government researchers are successful in introducing it here.

Chub now sells for about two cents a pound. That is slightly, but only slightly, higher than rosefish use to sell for in New England.

The rosefish became quite a success story under the new title of "ocean perch" and as frozen fish cakes in various forms now outsells every other fish in America.

The Great Lakes chub, taken in trawls which can handle a ton and a half an hour, shifted through a fileting machine and frozen could give the ocean perch a run for its money.

The burbot resembles nothing so much as a throwback to the last ice age. In fact some fish biologists believe that may be exactly what it is. It is an ice spawner, running up such streams as the Otter and Sturgeon Rivers in Baraga and Houghton Counties about this time of year to leave its eggs.

WEATHER CHECK — The weather will be in a big factor in the annual Oakland County Fish Expedition this Sunday at Lake Oakland. Checking the weather instruments in the lobby of the Press are Marshall Charter (left), 1960 fish king, and Elbert Pursell of the sponsoring Chief Pontiac American Legion Post. John Harrington, general chairman of the event, said coffee and doughnuts will be served at the 9 a.m. starting hour instead of breakfast as previously planned.

New Champion Assured

National Shooting Dog Championship Begins

UNION SPRINGS, Ala. (AP)—On a 12,500-acre plantation abounding in quail, one of the nation's foremost field trials started today with a record field of nearly 80 dogs.

Before the winner is determined in the 12th annual National Shooting Dog Championship, the mounted galleries will watch some of the best pointers and setters in the nation demonstrate their bird-finding ability.

A new champion is certain because the 1960 winner, Storm Harrigan, died last fall of pneumonia. Last year's runner-up and the first-place dog in 1959, Paladin's Handyman from Selma, Ala., is back, however, for another shot at the title.

Harrigan's owner, Mrs. Donald P. Ross of Wilmington, Del., has four entries in hope of winning a third leg and permanent possession of the trophy. She took home the championship with Brandywine Dee and again last year with Harrigan.

Dogs from 16 states will run in braces extending over a nine-hour span each day. Those who make the best showing in the preliminaries will perform again in a call-back to determine the winner.

The quail population on the huge Sedgefields plantation owned by industrialist L. B. Maytag is known to number more than 1,000 coveys, feeding on abundant natural food and more than 200 miles of feed strips planted annually to supplement the natural diet.

Because the hunting season in Alabama ends before the trials start, and as a safety measure because of the huge galleries, handlers will fire blanks when a covey is flushed. The firing is necessary to test the dogs under actual shooting conditions.

The judges will watch 18 dogs a day until the field has finished.

Claims Parks Expansion Program Urgently Needed

LANSING — Projecting recreational needs through 1970, Conservation Department parks chief Arthur C. Elmer last week told the Conservation Commission that Michigan should undertake a $146,000,000 parks expansion and development program during the next 10 years.

The proposed program, geared to an annual 10 per cent increase of parks users over the years, would provide lands and facilities to accommodate some 40,000,000 visitors who will make their way to state parks and recreation areas by 1970.

Currently, Michigan's state parks system is hard pressed to handle more than 18,000,000 recreationists who have used parks during each of the last two years.

Elmer pointed out that, since 1956, the parks division's appropriations for capital improvements have been practically nil. He said the proposed $5,000,000 permit-bonding program for parks improvements and lands acquisition will give a "shot in the arm" for long delayed needs, but it will not adequately answer future demands. The bond program still pends legislative action.

Outlining the long-range plan, Elmer explained that approximately $58,000,000 would be needed to buy more than 175,000 acres of new parks lands, double the acreage already set aside for parks use. The remaining $88,000,000 would go for capital improvements. Of this, $20,000,000 would be used to develop proposed new areas.

Among other things, development work would boost facilities to handle 62,000 campers at one time. The present limit is about 26,000 campers.

Elmer suggested that a private firm be hired to conduct a recreational survey which would take in all city and county parks, state holdings, and federal lands in Michigan.

Results of the survey would serve as a master plan for the $146,000,000 program. Elmer added the survey should give ample weight to findings of the recent Great Lakes shoreline study by the National Parks Service.

British bird lovers have chosen the robin as their national bird.

Though the choice is unofficial, it carries weight because it was made through the correspondence columns of The Times, the London newspaper that has long served as a repository of ornithological intelligence.

Attempt to Woo German Tourists

Committee Tries to Lure 200,000 Vacationers to the United States

FRANKFURT (UPI)—Vacation travel to the United States has long been a bugaboo for Europeans who have to watch their pocketbooks a little closer than Americans.

A group of businessmen and consular officials here has set out to destroy this bugaboo and give the American tourist trade a much-needed shot in the arm.

U.S. citizens are spending $1 billion annually more on tourism than foreigners visting the United States.

The group hopes that by stimulating tourist interest for travel to the United States, some of the money which American tourists have been sperding abroad will find its way back home.

The group, which calls itself the German Committee for Travel to the U.S.A., is made up of representatives of international airlines, steamship companies, the local American Chamber of Commerce and local American consular officials.

AIM FOR TOURISTS

Its goal is to convince an estimated 200,000 potential German tourists that they can visit the United States as cheaply as they could visit Greece or Italy.

Due to the post-war boom in Germany, the German people are enjoying their greatest period of prosperity in history.

For thousands of Germans, the opportunity to spend vacations in the New World, which for years had been completely out of the question, has now become a reality.

More and more Germans are joining the ranks of international globetrotters and thousands of them flock to the plush Mediterranean resorts of Spain, Portugal, France, Italy, Yugoslavia and Greece every year.

Another thing which may tempt potential European tourists is a booklet entitled "See New York on $5 a day."

The booklet lists all the important points of interest, TV and radio shows, hotels with moderate rates, transportation fares and cost of food.

That may be visiting the U.S.A. on a shoestring, but it's breaking the ice—and that, says the committee, is what counts.

WITH HANDS, YET — Hands don't belong to a recalcitrant astronaut who doesn't want to be shot into orbit. They're merely waiting to receive the nose cone of the Polaris missile from the workman riding in the bucket of a crane boom. The Navy missile was displayed in Westbury, L. I.

Eye Improving of 21 Streets

Public Hearings Set to Follow Submission of Plans, Cost Estimates

The 1961 public improvement program got under way last night as city commissioners tentatively scheduled improvements to 21 streets.

Declared public necessities, the projects will be the subject of public hearings after engineering plans and cost estimates are accepted by the commission.

Included in the initial projects:

Curbs and gutters on Bassett Street, Basswood to Woodward; Manitou Road, Navajo to Ottawa; Steinbaugh Court, Augusta to State; Foster Street, Howard to Forest; City Line Road, Baldwin to Hillside; Hillside Drive, Burt to City Line.

Also Woodland Drive, Lakeside to Dresden; High Street, Blaine to Summit; Kenilworth Avenue, Mt. Clemens to Perry; Adams Street, Jessie to Allen; Allen Street, Osmun to the Grand Trunk Railroad; and Elm Street, Paddock to Jessie.

Recapping on Clinton Street, Wayne to Williams; North Saginaw Street, Rundell to Chamberlain; Joslyn Avenue, Columbia to Walton; Edison Street, Chamberlain to Fairgrove; and Raeburn Street, Paddock to Sanford.

Blacktopping of Oxford Road, Argyle to Canterbury; Melrose Avenue, Mt. Clemens to Perry; Beverly Avenue, Arlene to Fuller; and South Jessie Street, Raeburn to Prospect.

Grading and graveling of Locke Street, east of Bay Street.

The engineering department was given the customary authorization to begin the 1961 sidewalk repair program, with a stricture from Commissioner John A. Dugan concerning notices to property owners.

As he has during the past two years, Dugan asked that notices be limited to those repair jobs the city is able to spend time and money on. Property owners are told in the notices that if they don't make the repairs, the city will step in and make them, billing property owners for the cost.

Assessments were confirmed to cover costs of the Astor Street-Northway Drive sanitary sewer.

After a public hearing, a zoning change was approved from residential to commercial for four lots on the northeast corner of Paddock Street, north of Jessie Street.

On the subject of urban renewal, investment of surplus funds in short-term U. S. Treasury notes was okayed.

Commissioner Winford E. Bottom called for an investigation of apparent pollution in Harris Lake on Baldwin Avenue, south of the Fisher Body Division plant.

Congress to Expedite Jobless Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways & Means Committee was expected to give speedy approval today to at least the first part of President Kennedy's emergency program to aid the nation's jobless.

The bill would provide $990 million for extra unemployment compensation to 3,125,000 jobless workers whose benefits have either expired or will run out during the next year or so.

Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., has promised to call the measure up for action promptly in the House once the committee acts. A floor vote was predicted early next week.

A companion bill would make $350 million in federal-state public assistance available for the needy children of the unemployed. This may be wrapped up into the jobless pay legislation as a package or acted upon separately.

Says Americans More Anti-Red

But Survey Finds U.S. Still Is Influenced by Propaganda Moves

NEW YORK (UI) — A writer who surveyed 500 American editors and political columnists reports that Americans are as firmly opposed to international Communism today as they were a decade ago, although they still are measurably influenced by Soviet propaganda.

The survey was made by Hawthorne Daniel, former war correspondent and author of 40 books, including "The Ordeal of the Captive Nations."

"Taken as a whole, the survey plainly suggests that in the minds of the (500) observers the attitude of the average American has tended for years to grow more critical of Communism," Daniel said.

"Little or no evidence suggests that those who were questioned see any easy way to overcome the dangers that accompany international Communism, but our defeat at the hands of the Communists is not envisioned by any of them."

One depressing thing he found, Daniel said, was that those questioned were convinced Americans in general tend to forget the tragic plight of the people of the captive nations behind the Iron Curtain.

"We even tend to forget the tragedy of Hungary despite the heroic but ill-fated revolt of 1956," he said.

On the question whether American Communists would have less or more influence 10 years from now, the editors by a ratio of more than 6-to-1 held that such influence will be growing less.

Asked whether or not they detected any Communist influence in American publications, their replies were only 2-to-1 in the negative, Daniel said.

City Commission Backs Halt to Federal Car Tax

The City Commission last night endorsed Rep. William S. Broomfield's proposal to abolish 10 per cent federal excise tax on new cars to spur new car sales.

The Oakland County congressman and Michigan's two U.S. Senators were to be notified by mail of the endorsement.

It came after commissioners were informed by Charles A. Mobley, mayor of Flint, that Broomfield's proposal had been endorsed by the city council there.

Votes to Scrap Reflector Plates

Refund Is Not Likely Despite State Senate Move to End Program

LANSING (UPI)—The State Senate voted 24-7 Tuesday to scrap a two-year-old program for reflectorizing Michigan license plates.

A 35-cent fee which has been collected from auto license buyers since last March for reflectorized plates would be discontinued.

But Sen. Elmer R. Porter, R-Blissfield, said he would introduce a measure to use the $1.5 million already collected under the program for improvements to secondary roads in counties.

The repealer now must be passed by the House and gain approval of Gov. John B. Swainson to become effective.

Fireworks developed over the bill on the floor and before the stormy session ended most of the senators took part in the oratory and parliamentary maneuvering.

Gaslight Craze Sweeps Nation

Twice as Many Lamps Being Used Today as in Era's Peak Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — The new Gaslight Era has caught on so well in the last four years that there are twice as many gas street lamps in the United States today as there were in 1914 — the peak year of the old Gaslight Era.

The southern New Jersey ocean resort of Cape May is the latest city to adopt gaslights to replace electric street lamps for its four-block business district.

Cape May town officials ordered 30 gas lamps for aesthetic reasons — to harmonize with their business district's Victorian architecture, which they intend to preserve.

The American Gas Association (AGA) helped the new Gaslight Era get started in 1957 at Albuquerque, N.M., also for aesthetic reasons — to preserve Albuquerque's charming Old Town as a tourist attraction.

The gas association didn't know then the idea would catch on so fast.

Gas street lamps put in use in the past years are more than twice the 300,000 that lighted the cities of he county in 1914.

Many of he lamps put up recently are old veterans moved from other locations or old warehouses.

But the demand for street lights and for indoor gas lamps to go with period decorated rooms has mushroomed so that 21 manufacturers are turning them out and some are being imported from England.

They are being made in factories all the way from New England to Texas to South Dakota and Honolulu.

New York Man Has Big Time With His Clocks

WARSAW, N.Y. (UPI) — Ned Miller really means it when he says, "I love that tick-tock sound."

Miller, a retired knitting mill worker and a bachelor, likes clocks for companionship. He has 67 of his collection of antiques in operation, and every quarter hours the visitor is made aware by the sound of chimes and gongs.

At 6:30 nightly, Miller gets the time signal from the radio, checks his big pocket watch by it and then makes the rounds to wind his clocks. At 10:30 a.m. on Sundays he winds his 8-day clocks.

The alarm of an ordinary table clock gets Miller out of bed daily.

Medical authorities attribute the trend toward bigger heads to the general physical growth of Americans as they take advantage of

Australia Luring Fewer British

1959-60 Figures Show 3 Per Cent Decrease From 1958-59 Totals

CRANBERRA — Federal Statistician Stanley R. Carver said that despite a higher over-all intake of permanent and long-term arrivals, the British content in Australia's migration gain for 1959-60, at 36.4 per cent, was lower than the 39.4 per cent for 1958-59.

Using figures to last June, Carver said arrivals for the year totaled 133,684, as opposed to the 125,000 intake target of the federal immigration scheme and last year's total of 116,697. Nearly 1.5 million migrants had arrived in Australia since 1946.

With 45,328 permanent departures, the net excess for 1959-60 was 88,356, compared with 76,443 for the previous year.

On available figures, British nationality excess of arrivals over departures was assessed as having risen from 30,100 in 1958-59 to 32,136 in 1959-60, Mr. Carver said.

Although this showed a small drop in British content, it was at least well above the ratios of the mid-fifties, which declined below 30 per cent.

Figures for the first months of 1960-61 indicated a big upswing in arrival of migrants of British nationality.

The arrivals-over-departures excess among foreign migrants went from 46,343 to 86,220, or from 60.6 per cent to 63.6 per cent.

Italians increased from 10,946, or 14.3 per cent, to 14,291 or 16 per cent, and 6,080 Greek migrants accounted for 36 per cent of the foreign-born arrivals — a two per cent increase on 1958-59.

Dutch, West German and stateless persons accounted for the bulk of the remainder of non-British permanent arrivals.

Laborites Defeat H-Bomb Ban Move in Britain

LONDON (UPI) — Labor Party leaders today defeated a "ban the H-Bomb" movement and said the West must keep its nuclear arms so long as the Soviet Union does.

The move came in twin votes on foreign and defense policy by the opposition party's executive committee and the general council of the laborites' most powerful supporter. The Trades Union Congress (TUC).

Amendments calling for immediate nuclear disarmament by Britain were defeated.

He Made It Bad and That Ain't Good

It's Sunny Italy for Frank Costello

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Frank Costello has lost his battle to stay in this country, even though for the past decade he has spent much of his time in this country's pokeys.

Unless his attorneys can come up with something new, he'll soon be sojourning in sunny Italy with two old and trusted hoodlum pals, Lucky Luciano and Joe Adonis.

It will be a blow to Costello, but one he'll probably take in stride. He has a compensating mind.

Years ago, I did a series on him for INS and obtained a fairly rare interview with him. The "audience" was held in the lounge of a small but plushy New York hotel. The pianist played Costello's favorite Gershwin numbers.

He chain-smoked English Ovals and sipped King's Random, an expensive Scotch turned out by a distillery he controlled briefly shortly after Prohibition ended.

A covey of fairly sinister characters sat at tables ringing us as we talked. It was like a scene from the Late Late Show.

The definition of "racketeer" came up.

"What is a racketeer?" Costello asked in his husky voice, shrugging as he said it. "Yes," he went on, "I could be called a racketeer, I broke laws." He looked at me. "Did you ever take a drink during Prohibition?"

A queasy memory of the Maryland Corn and bathtub gin of an earlier day swept over me.

"Yes."

"Did you ever play a slot machine."

"Yes."

"Did you ever place a bet with a bookie?"

"Yes."

Costello exhaled a cloud of blue smoke. "Then you're a racketeer, too," he said contentedly.

He blew the duke before the Supreme Court, 6-2, on a similar hair-splitting. In applying for citizenship in the '20s he gave "real estate" as his occupation.

The six who voted to ship him back to his native land decreed that he thus concealed the fact that he was an eminent bootlegger and rum-runner. Justices Black and Douglas dissented on the ground that Costello was, indeed, in real estate also at the time—and the form he had to fill out gave him a choice of indentifying his businesses.

Costello will miss the good New York restaurants he savored, though wherever he winds up in Italy the food surely will be better than the federal pen in Atlanta. He will even finally get to see the schools and orphanages he has been supporting for years.

Frank Costello—a Sicilian boy who made bad in the New World.

Ponders Appeal on GM Stock

Requests That Du Pont Give Up Its 63 Million Shares in Auto Firm

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court had under advisement today a government appeal to make the DuPont Co. give up its 63 million shares in General Motors Corp.

Two days of arguments before the court ended Tuesday with corporate lawyers predicting dire hardships for General Motors stockholders if the government contention is upheld.

Hugh B. Cox of Washington, attorney for E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co., said he wasn't trying to "terrorize" the court with that forecast. But he urged the court to affirm a 1950 ruling by Chicago Federal District Court Judge Walter J. LaBuy under which DuPont could retain, but not vote, its GM stock.

Cox said the court should consider "practicality and mercy" in its decision.

General Motors spokesman Robert L. Stern of Chicago said GM stockholders would lose "hundreds of millions of dollars" if 3 million shares are added to the 9 million normally traded.

He said experts predicted prices would slump 20 to 30 per cent if this was done.

Chief Doesn't Buy Pig in the Pokey

HILLIARD, Ohio (AP) — Police Chief Louis Riffle found a pig in the pokey, but he didn't buy it.

Riffle reported finding the "middle-aged pig" in the village's one-cell jail when he opened his office. He learned volunteer firemen had put it there after discovering it running loose in front of the fire station.

Mayor Gaymon Wright had the pig taken to a nearby farm and Chief Riffle had his jail deodorized.

Contract Battle Between Harbert and Frank Lane

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—An all-out contract battle is shaping up between Frank Lane, general manager of the Athletics, and Ray Herbert, who was the A's second-ranking pitcher last season with 14 victories.

Lane and Herbert have been conducting their negotiations by letter and Lane has termed Herbert's letters insulting.

"I've been insulted by experts before," Lane said today. "But I've never been insulted so inexpertly as I have been by Mr. Herbert. I understand now that Herbert has said if his terms aren't met he's going to spend the summer in Livonia (Livonia, Mich., a suburb of Detroit). If that's the case I'm afraid he's going to have to stay in Livonia because his demands are exorbitant."

No figures have been disclosed in the squabble but Herbert is believed to be asking slightly in excess of $20,000. It is believed the A's have offered him approximately $16,000.

10,440 Miles Now Open on Interstate Network

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government has announced that 10,440 miles of the 41,000-mile interstate superhighway system are now open to traffic.

The bureau of public roads said Tuesday that as of Dec. 31, 1960, another 4,128 miles of the system was under construction, and engineering or right-of-way acquisition was under way on 10,032 miles.

The highway network is scheduled to be finished by 1972 at a total cost of about $41 billion. The federal government is paying for 90 per cent of it and the states for the other 10 per cent.

Calls GM Only Rival in Pricing

Ohio Bus Manufacturer Exec Testifies in Suit Against Local Firm

DETROIT (AP)—An executive of an Ohio Bus manufacturing firm testified in U.S. District Court here Tuesday that when it comes to setting prices "we have only one competitor—GM."

Thomas P. Butler, executive vice president of the Flxible Co. of Loudonville, Ohio, was the first government witness in an antitrust suit against General Motors Corp.

GM is accused of conspiring with four bus operating companies to monopolize the manufacture and sale of intercity and transit buses. The bus operating companies are named as co-conspirators but not defendants.

General Motors contends there is no basis for a monopoly charge if all types of buses, including school buses, are considered.

Butler testified that intercity and transit buses are district types of vehicles, as opposed to such things as school buses.

He said Flxible does not consider itself to be in competition with school bus manufacturers, even though buses of that type are used for public transit in a few places, including Ann Arbor, Mich., Daytona Beach, Fla., and Little Rock, Ark.

Gas Price to Fall as Firms Match Cuts by Standard

Motorists in Oakland County will feel a slight price reduction in gas purchases as most dealers follow suit and trim to meet Standard Oil Co. price cuts.

A spokesman for Gulf Petroleum Products in Pontiac said his company "has met the price slice" and believes other local suppliers also will do so.

Standard reduced wholesale prices for regular and premium gas in Oakland and five other counties 0.7 cents a gallon. In Wayne County, gas was trimmed 1.4 cents a gallon.

Other suppliers were ready to make similar cuts, which would put retail prices at 29.9 to 30.9 cents a gallon for regular and 33.9 to 34.9 cents a gallon for premium at most stations.

Car Smashes Tree; 2 City Youths Hurt

Two Pontiac youths sustained injuries yesterday when a car smashed into a tree in Pontiac Township.

Driver of the car, Donald M. Siegers, 18, of 1169 Mt. Clemens St. suffered fractures of the left leg and right wrist, and head cuts. He was reported in satisfactory condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

A passenger, Woodrow L. Barnes, 18, of 835 Palmer Drive was in fair condition with fractures of the right arm and leg and facial cuts and bruises.

Siegers told sheriff's deputies the car spun out of control as he turned south off Mt. Clemens Road onto Doris Road.

Deputies estimated he was going too fast on the turn.

Confess Thefts at Phone Booths

Alert Detectives Fit Broken Glass on Pair's Car Taillight

Alertness on the part of two sheriff's detectives has led to the arrests of two Orion Township men in connection with a rash of looted phone-booth coin boxes.

James Shafor Jr., 18, 150 Heights Road, and James F. Cox, 21, 1392 Paul Blvd., have both admitted committing some 20 phone-booth thefts, according to Detective Charles Whitlock.

The pair were picked up Sunday by Whitlock and Detective Alphonse Anderson.

The two detectives said that the thieves had ripped the phones from booths by linking them to their car with a chain, then moving the car forward.

Sometimes the entire phone booth tipped over.

One of these times the booth broke a taillight on the pair's car.

While on another case Sunday, the detectives spotted the broken taillight. Pieces they'd found at the looted booth fitted perfectly.

Cox and Shafor were taken before Helmar G. Stamaback, Orion Township justice of the peace.

They waived examination and will be arraigned in Circuit Court Feb. 27 on burglary charges. Bond was set at $2,000.

They said they committed the thefts in Oakland, Macomb, and Lapeer counties because they needed the money. Both are unemployed.

Toe-Tapping Religion Wants to Be Heard

HONOLULU, (AP)—The Honolulu City Council has been asked to approve a loud speaker for a new dancing religion.

A letter of application submitted to the council said, in part:

"May I apply for a permit to use a loudspeaker when our fellow members of the dancing religion go out for public sermon on various street corners and parks to convey to them, the public, the good tidings conveyed by the dancing goddess?"

The letter was signed by a former Honolulu doctor.

Obliging Prisoner Thumbs Way to Jail

FOSTORIA, Ohio (UPI)—James LeRoy Thompson, 26, Fostoria, hitchhiked across the country to go to jail.

Thompson surrendered to California authorities and told them he was wanted in Fostoria on a forgery charge.

California officials released him when Fostoria officials said they would not spend the money to send an officer to California to return the prisoner.

A few days later, Thompson walked into police headquarters here and surrendered. He said he had hitchhiked to Ohio.

Film of City Is a Hit—Hirlinger

In 22 days, the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce centennial film, "Pontiac Story of Promise," has been shown to nearly 3,000 persons on 25 occasions, according to John W. Hirlinger, chamber manager.

He said the film has been booked 59 more times between now and May, with most of the bookings coming in the next three weeks.

"The film's reception has been wonderful," said Hirlinger. "It is our ambition to show it over and over to as many groups as possible in the Pontiac area."

Produced by the chamber's industrial affairs committee, the 26-minute, sound and color film is designed to boost civic pride and enlist support in public endeavors.

Hirlinger said the chamber expects to have two more copies of the film available soon for public showing.

The chamber office in the Waldron Hotel will schedule showings at no charge, providing both a projector and a projector operator, Hirlinger said.

The $12,000 film was premiered at the chamber's annual banquet Feb. 1.

AF Russian and English Machine Gets Assist From New Development

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI) — Photography is playing a key role in the success of the Air Force's new translating machine that changes Russian to English at the rate of 40 words per minute.

The translating device features a process developed by a camera manufacturer. The company coats special glass disks, the heart of the translating machine, with high-resolution photographic emulsion.

Previous translating mechanisms usually have been modified computers, turning out Russian-English "vocabularies" on magnetic tape or punch cards.

This outmoded operation limited the size of voeabularies that could be stored and the speed with which they could be searched electronically for words and phrases.

In the new process, an entire 55,000-word vocabularly is stored in a ¼-inch channel printed on a 10-inch glass disk.

The channel is scanned vertically and horizontally by electronics until the machine matches a Russian word — fed in with punched tape — to its English equivalent, which then is printed automatically on a typewriter.

The English translation is in a rough but meaningful form which is refined by human translators.

When more of the capacity of the photographic disk is employed, it will store about 500,000 Russian words and idioms on a single surface. Words appear in a line code of bars and spaces.

The high-resolution film is capable of storing 600 million bits of information per square inch.

This means that the contents of the Encyclopedia Britannica could be imprinted on a single 4-inch square piece of film.

Italy's Brasilia Taking Shape

Rome's New Center of Government Already Being Occupied

ROME (UPI) — Italy's little Brasilia is slowing taking shape.

Like the new Brazilian capital, it was built in a deserted area, has numerous government offices and is controversial.

But unlike the real Brasilia, it is only a 15-minute ride from the old capital by subway.

The area destined to become Rome's new government center is the EUR, built by a dead dictator for a world's fair which was never held, terminal of a subway which did nowhere and most recently the site of Olympic events.

Many government ministries and other big offices are now moving to EUR's big white stone buildings to ease the pressure of traffic on the narrow streets of old Rome and leave the downtown area to its natural role as a tourist and shopping center.

The history of EUR — the initials stand for Universal Exhibition of Rome — is one of paradox.

It is a 1,037-acre area, a little more than five miles south of the city, which was a sleepy pasture until Benito Mussolini decided in 1938 to make it the site of a world's fair for 1942.

Gleaming white buildings sprang up from the fields — all permanent constructions because Mussolini wanted to make EUR the new heart of Rome.

Then the dictator changed his mind and instead of the world's fair engaged in a world war.

The unfinished EUR buildings suffered heavily from German and Allied occupation. For years after the war, EUR was an uninhabited ghost city.

In 1952, democratic Italy took over the ruins of the dictator's dream and tried to make EUR good for something.

A state company started restoring the pillaged palaces, financing its work through sale of land for private house building.

A fast, modern subway line from the Rome railway station to EUR — also started by Mussolini — was eventually completed in 1954.

EUR was then nowhere and nothing. The only commuters on what was billed as Europe's fastest subway were couples going out to the meadows.

In the following years, things started happening. EUR was more and more often in the news — as the site of a medical conference, as a sport event, or a party congress.

News in Brief

Sheriff's deputies on patrol in Independence Township yesterday discovered seven cottages on Park and Lakeview streets had been broken into. They were unable to identify the owners to determine what was missing.

The Rev. Fr. William Malewits of Flint told sheriff's deputies yesterday that his cottage at 9820 N. Milford Road in Holly Township had been broken into. Missing were a 20-pound bronze engraved bell, valued at $100, two cases of beer and two bottles of wine.

Burglars took $1 and 14 cigars from Ray's Pool Hall, it was reported to Pontiac police yesterday.

Theft of $27 worth of safety equipment from a Jones Transfer Co. truck was reported to Pontiac police yesterday.

Marie Dunitz, 500 Valencia Drive, reported to Pontiac police yesterday that her wallet contained $31.50 and miscellaneous papers was stolen from a downtown store.

Receive Report on Retirement

Waterford Board Gets Details of Program for Police, Firemen

The Waterford Township Board members last night heard a detailed report on a retirement program for the police and fire departments, and another plan to cover all other township employes.

A representative of the consulting firm of A. G. Gabriel & Co., Detroit, J. F. Thews, explained the intricacies of Act 345 involving only the police and firemen's retirement system. This act provides benefits for the two departments in addition to those available under another act which covers all township employes.

Thews was authorized to prepare reports on each plan for consideration of the board. At present, there is no retirement program for any township employe.

Most of the balance of last night's business was tabled, including the consideration of revisions in the proposed $15,000,000 water system specifications.

Also tabled for two weeks was a report from township engineers Johnson & Anderson regarding several bids received last week for a cemetery-maintenance building for Crescent Lake Cemetery.

A hearing for establishment of street lights for the Donelson Park area was continued until next week's meeting. Residents want to consider the possibility of installing ornamental lights rather than the conventional type.

The board established a public hearing date for 7:30 p.m., March 13 for the blacktopping of one block of Riviera Street, and 8:30 p.m. the same night for a hearing for blacktopping one block of Cheeseman Street.

Donald L. Card of 6251 Jameson St., Drayton Plains was hired as an additional employe for the Cemetery & Parks Department with a beginning wage of $2 an hour.

The board approved a renewed plumber bond for the H. H. Stanton Plumbing & Heating Co. of Pontiac.

Texas Hunters to Set Own Season on Ducks

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas waterfowl hunters will get a chance to set their own season on ducks and geese next year.

The Texas Game and Fish Commission has mailed questionnaires to 4,500 hunters for information on the distribution of this year's kill. Commission spokesmen said the hunter's replies will be used to help determine the dates of the 1960-61 duck and goose season.

Air-Strike Layoffs Spreading

DETROIT (AP)—The flight engineers' strike, which has idled 766 Detroit area airline employes, began to take its toll Tuesday of workers whose jobs depend on the big passenger carriers.

Interstate Hosts Inc., which provides in-flight meals and operates the restaurants and bar at Detroit Metropolitan Airport said it is laying off 75 of its 218 workers.

Andrew McCabe, manager of Interstate, said more layoffs will be ordered if the strike continues.

A spokesman for the Wayne County Road Commission which operates the airport said a meeting will be held tomorrow to determine whether any county workers will be laid off.

Delta Airlines, which is not affected by the strike, is the only major carrier operating from Detroit Metro, which has been hardest hit by the strike.

Rotarians Will Hear MSUO Professor

Professor William Kluback of Michigan State University Oakland will present his first talk in a series of three pertaining to "the philosophies and ideologies of man that contribute to the international political scene" when he addresses the Pontiac Rotary Club tomorrow at 12:15 p.m. in the Waldron Hotel.

An assistant professor of philosophy at MSUO, he has written a series of publications dealing with 20th Century German philosophers and a critical analysis of German and French philosophers from 1870 to the present, titled "Search For Being."

In many states the will of an unmarried woman is considered to be revoked when she marries.

Business Notes

Servisoft, Inc., nationwide water conditioning service firm represented locally by Pontiac Soft Water Service Co., 88 Fairgrove Ave., has named a new slate of officers. George F. Getz Jr. was elected chairman of the board, with Bert A. Getz assuming the Servisoft presidency. Named vice president and general manager was Walter P. Beto.

Uses Doodlebug to Find Oil Sites

HANOVER, Ill. (AP) — A. A. Potter, a veteran of 47 years of wildcat oil drilling, used a variation of the "witching stick" to locate thte present drilling site he has drilled to a depth of 750 feet.

"Most people laugh when I tell them about my 'doodlebug'," the elderly Texan said.

Then Potter took a capsule from a plastic box and slipped it into the end of a curious-looking object.

"The capsule," he said, "contains a secret ingredient which attracts to electricity given off by oil.

"That's what makes the 'doodlebug' act up when there's oil in the area."

NATO Secretary Discounts That War Will Come

PARIS (UPI) — NATO's highest ranking civil servant agrees with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that war is improbable.

The reasons given by NATO Secretary General Paul Henri Spaak in an official pamphlet widely circulated here are the same as those most experts attribute to Khrushchev—that in the present state of affairs neither side believes it has a gambling man's chance of winning.

"Men have always fought up to the present . . . because . . . at least one of the sides and frequently both thought they were going to win," Spaak declared in the last edition of the NATO Current Topics pamphlet.

"Victory," he said, "was a very precise notion. It carried with it the possibility, after a period of struggle, of gaining territorial or trading advantages.

"Nowadays, no statesman . . . can hope to believe . . . that victory in the sense in which it was for so long understood, would be possible after a world war in which atomic weapons were to be used.

"Nowadays, the idea of military victory is a senseless one."

Youthful Skin Diver Discovers 1812 Cannon

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI)—Young Patrick O'Connor dug up some history when he went skin diving off Point Breeze south of Buffalo.

The 12-year-old boy spotted a rusted cannon in eight feet of water.

With help from his mother and sister he dragged the 200-pound weapon to shore. Authorities believe the cannon dates back to the War of 1812.

Partridge
IS THE "BIRD" TO SEE

Ford Agencies
1. SHILLMAN: Only $30,000 plus stock on terms! Includes modern air-conditioned 3 service stalls on main street.
2. TWIN: Outstanding northern sales agency for top selling line. Only $40,000 plus stock. $40,000 equipment, fixtures and stock.
3. OSCODA: Beautiful 10,000 sq. ft. tourist home. Only $50,000 (less than auto sales use, too). $100,000 for real estate, $30,000 for business. Terms.

Massage Furniture
Automatic massage lounge manufacturing. National acceptance by leading beauty salons, doctors and U.S. Gov't. Jigs, fixtures, complete equipment. Complete set up. Offices and plant included in sale. $35,000. Will lease on terms. Costly pioneering has all been done. An assured profit franchise for a hot item is part of the cream and this should easily pay most of operating expense.

SEARCH FOR BOY — Skin divers scour the bottom of a Detroit East Side canal for a missing 9-year-old boy who left his home Tuesday to play. John A. Grzanka (insert) was last seen by his parents late Tuesday afternoon and is believed to have fallen through the ice. John's ninth birthday was Tuesday and many of the children he invited to his birthday party watched the dragging operations. The second day of dragging began today as police resumed their efforts to discover the boy's fate. AP Photofax

Antibias Rule Scraper Due

10 State Republicans Behind Amendment to Kill 'Rule 9'

LANSING (AP)—A constitutional amendment that would wipe out the controversial "Rule 9" banning discrimination in real estate sales was ready for presentation to the legislature today.

Ten Republicans, headed by Rep. Robert E. Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, sponsored the proposal to insert an "inalienable right" of property ownership in the state constitution. It requires two-third approval in both Houses to go before the voters.

The new Rule 9 in the State Real Estate Act allows the state to lift the licenses of real estate brokers or salesmen whose transactions show discrimination because of race, color, religion or nationality.

The constitutional amendment would allow a property owner, or his agent, to sell, lease or rent his private property, or refuse to do so, to any person for any reason. Only the owner himself may now do so.

The amendment also would declare the right of any agent, including brokers and salesmen, to refuse to represent a property owner in a real estate transaction.

Parolee Sentenced for Rochester Crime

Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland Monday sentenced William H. Hearn, 21, of 2416 Dutton Road, Avon Township, to 2½ to 15 years in Jackson Prison for breaking and entering during the nighttime. He was on parole.

Hearn pleaded guilty Feb. 7, after originally pleading innocent, to breaking into a Rochester auto dealership and stealing plates which he later used on a stolen car.

He was nabbed when he tried to flee a Grosse Pointe Woods service station without paying for a tank of gas.

George, Washington, May Become a Town

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — There's a chance George, Washington, may become a town.

The State Senate has passed a bill to let George's residents incorporate.

The measure, which has been sent to the House, reduces from 300 to 250 the number of people necessary for the village to take the step.

Jaycees Busy on Waterford Sports Show

One of the biggest sports and builders shows in the Waterford Township Junior Chamber of Commerce's history is now being planned for March 16, 17 and 18.

For the seventh consecutive year, the Jaycees are busy working on their major project, proceeds of which will be donated to worthy community projects.

Committees have been named, advertisers contacted, and companies with various demonstrations to lure the homeowner and sportsman are being sought out for booths, according to Jack Cooper, general chairman. He will be assisted by Frank Richardson and Richard Thompson.

Other Jaycees heading committees are Norman Nelson, booth sales; William Carter, finance; William Sharp, advertising sales for program; Rudy Mansfield, outside booth sales; Darrell Patton, refreshments; Richard Schwab, manpower, building and grounds; and Donald Arsen, publicity.

Last year's sports and builders show drew more than 6,000 people.

Review A-Situation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., chairman of the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee, went over the atomic energy situation with President Kennedy Tuesday. Holifield said they talked about both civilian and military application of atomic energy.

State Senate Passes Park Repair Plan

LANSING (AP)—Only House approval was needed today to clear the way for sale of a $5-million bond issue to finance expansion and improvement of Michigan's state park system.

The Senate Tuesday approved a schedule of improvements and land purchases proposed by the State Conservation Commission.

The plan calls for $1 million in land acquisition and $4 million for improvements in the existing 62 parks and recreation areas.

Study Messages From Satellite to Find Goof

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The Air Force is studying radioed data to determine what caused an equipment malfunction on the Discoverer XX space capsule.

Because of the malfunction the Air Force Tuesday abandoned plans to recover the capsule.

The satellite, heaviest in the series, was launched last Friday. Plans were to snag its parachute as it descended near Hawaii Tuesday. The satellite now is expected to remain in orbit for about six months.

Discoverer XXI was launched last Saturday, but no attempt was made to recover its capsule.

Computer Companies Increase Jobs 50 Pct.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Labor Department reported today that jobs in firms producing computers and accounting machines increased by more than 50 per cent in the past five years.

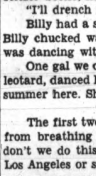

It said employment in the industry rose from 64,700 in 1956 to 103,000 in September 1960, because of the trend toward "office automation."

Lake Superior has a maximum depth of 1,180 feet. It is 602 feet above sea level and is closed to navigation by ice four months a year.

Good Time Had by All at Rio Mardi Gras

By EARL WILSON

RIO DE JANEIRO — "Carnival of Blood!" screamed one headline— another paper said that during the four nights of wild Mardi Gras dancing, there'd been 13 murders.

WILSON

The wife and I doubted that was really due to "Carnival" — we saw thousand upon thousands of Brazilians samba-ing on table tops, on chairs, on balconies, on the streets— even on dance floors.

They drank . . . they inhaled perfumed ether from handkerchiefs (though it's illegal) . . . they made love . . . they forgot the year's troubles in one big long spree.

"Be Jolly!" was the order.

Newspapers ceased publishing. Even editors got tight. (Fancy!) Burglars and hold-up men were jolly and robbed you with a smile.

Billy Rose, however, was unjolly. He came here with ex-wife Joyce Mathews. Some gal playfully waving an ether atomizer was about to squirt some into his eyes. Grabbing a seltzer bottle, he quite justifiably shouted:

"I'll drench you!"

Billy had a small tiff with a gent also in a squirting mood. Billy chucked water at the guy—and the next night the guy was dancing with Joyce. (This wasn't any Brazil nut.)

One gal we called "Blue Britches," because she wore a blue leotard, danced hour after hour on a table top, alone. It's mid-summer here. She must have danced off 15 pounds.

The first two nights it seemed crazy, but the third—maybe from breathing all that ether in the air, we thought, "Why don't we do this back in New York or Newark or Chicago or Los Angeles or somewhere?"

TV News and Reviews

Two Peaks Backstage at Truth About Video

BY FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—In honor of George Washington, we bring to light more truth about TV and how it got that way.

The first exhibit is an article titled, "What TV Censors Won't Let You See," written by Mike Wallace for the March issue of True Magazine.

Mostly a collection of familiar censored TV scripts, the article does reveal a new and fascinating industry technique. Wallace writes that a few years ago he spent many weeks trying to obtain an interview with Nathan Leopold, the "thrill killer" who was then about to be paroled from prison.

Suddenly, Wallace's producer, Al Ramrus, learned that a rival network program had jumped into the act and was trying to get the interview first. To head off this competition, Ramrus delivered a blow at TV's Achilles heel—the mail box.

Says Wallace, "Ramrus phoned a handful of friends around the country and had them send indignant telegrams to the president of the rival network, complaining that it was about to harbor a program which specialized in decadence and depravity.

"Within a week," Wallace notes, "the network president answered each telegram with a letter saying that he appreciated the frank criticism and that 'after reconsideration,' the program's invitation to Nathan Leopold had been withdrawn."

While there's nothing especially new in the fact that network executives are nail-bitingly sensitive to the letter-writing public, it's worth talking about from time to time because it helps us understand why the season's new batch of situation comedies, western, adventure and mystery shows are at an all-time low.

EXHIBIT 2

The second exhibit in this truth-telling summary is a speech delivered last week by Worthington Miner, producer of "The Play of the Week" series, which is syndicated to some 60 stations (including Detroit's WXYZ).

In attacking censorship on network TV, Miner says, "The advertiser and his agent must, in self-protection, drive dramatic programing deeper and deeper into the swamps of mediocrity."

His experience, however, in putting on adult plays about serious subjects has led Miner to believe that "in the face of compelling threats little voices are stilled."

But this experience doesn't sway networks and Miner adds that the censors have taken everything out of TV drama but "synthetic hogwash and violence . . . untruth and spurious gallantry . . . mediocrity, boredom, sadism and untruth."

Beech Tree Serves as Horse Memorial

GALLION, Ohio (AP)—For 99 years, a beech tree on a farm west of here has marked the spot where a young Union Army volunteer buried his horse before marching off to the Civil War.

The young man's name long has been forgotten, but the inscription, "Iron Horse, died March 1861" can still be read.

The present farm owner, Ora Zimmerman, says the term "iron horse" is an unsentimental description of the color of the animal and has nothing to do with its name.

A record 1,500,000 bales, or 750 million pounds of cotton, was used in the manufacture of men's and boys' trousers and shirts in 1959.

His Happy Home Is Just Too Hot to Handle

CODY, Wyo. (UPI)—David Craig is thinking about building a new house. And there's one place he isn't going to build it — where his old one used to be.

Craig recently was roused from bed by an explosion and fire in the kitchen. No one was injured and firemen halted the blaze.

Three days later he connected his house for natural gas and started a heater fire to dry it out. The house not only dried out, it was all but blown to bits when gas from a leaky line ignited.

Flight Engineers Ask New Talks With Officials

Delay Telling Results of Poll on Ending Halt; Leaders Pessimistic

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — Striking flight engineers called today for another meeting with government officials before deciding whether or not to end the most crippling walkout in U.S. aviation history.

The engineers polled their individual chapters throughout the night to decide whether to heed Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg's appeal to halt the strike while a special commission named by President Kennedy investigates the causes of the walkout.

Results of the poll were to have been announced at 10 a.m. (Pontiac time). But 30 minutes before the announcement was to be made, a spokesman for the union said it was "impossible" to make it on time.

The spokesman said "There have been later developments which make the 10 o'clock statement impossible without further conferences with government officials."

PUT OFF TILL LATER

He said the statement has been postponed "until at least noon." But he would give no indication what the "later developments" were about.

The special commission's powers are only advisory, and there was pessimisim among union leaders that the strikers would return to work.

The six-day-old wildcat strike has closed three of the nation's biggest passenger lines and has all but shut down three others. More than a half million passengers have been inconvenienced.

Eastern American and Trans World all have ceased operation. Pan American, National and Western are maintaining only token service.

Losses in revenue by the six airlines are estimated at more than $5 million a day. More than 84,000 employes of the struck airlines have been laid off.

At Los Angeles, Western Airlines fired its 130 striking engineers and said they would be replaced by pilots as soon as the latter could be trained to handle the duties.

Goldberg had said the airlines would there would be no disciplinary action against the strikers.

Votes to Scrap Reflector Plates

Refund Is Not Likely Despite State Senate Move to End Program

LANSING (UPI)—The State Senate voted 24-7 Tuesday to scrap a two-year-old program for reflectorizing Michigan license plates.

A 35-cent fee which has been collected from auto license buyers since last March for reflectorized plates would be discontinued.

But Sen. Elmer R. Porter, R-Blissfield, said he would introduce a measure to use the $1.5 million already collected under the program for improvements to secondary roads in counties.

The repealer now must be passed by the House and gain approval of Gov. John B. Swainson to become effective.

Fireworks developed over the bill on the floor and before the stormy session ended most of the senators took part in the oratory and parliamentary maneuvering.

2-in-1 Satellite Launching Only Partial Success

WASHINGTON (AP)—The doubleheader satellite launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., whirled around the earth today but officials called it only "a qualified, a partially successful" shot.

It failed to achieve the nearly circular orbit planned for it, flying instead in a path coming as close as 104 miles to the earth and as far out as 617 miles. The target was 500 miles.

And the two satellites carried upward by one rocket apparently did not even detach from the last stage of the booster. Scientists said they appear to be orbiting all together.

Dr. Richard B. Kershner, project manager for the transit navigation satellite program being supervised by the applied physics laboratory of Johns Hopkins University, summed up the situation for newsmen.

He said that instead of staying in orbit for many years, the satellites probably will have a life of only "several weeks."

The partial failure is reducing the effectiveness of the radioed information from the satellite.

The launching, 7th this year, gave this nation its fourth and fifth satellites in five days and its seventh major space success (though limited this time) without a failure this year.

The fledgling space voyagers are the Navy's 250-pound Transit III-B navigation satellite and a 54-pound hitchhiker sphere — called Lofti—to study space communications.

Both roared away from this test center in the nose of a Thor-Able-Star rocket at 10:45 p.m. Two hours later the Defense Department reported they were in orbit, keeping valuable information back to ground stations.

Putting satellites up by the bundle is nothing new to the Able-Star. It did the trick last June with Transit II-A and a radiation satellite.

Other American satellites sent into orbit in the last five days were the Explorer IXX polka dot balloon from Wallops Island, Va., and Discoverers XX and XXI from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

Supervisors Go Visiting

Look at New Courthouse

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

The county's own "White House"—the new courthouse—got the once over today.

The gleaming white marble six-story structure, future home of the county's judicial and allied activities, had some white-collar visitors in county supervisores. Already they are talking of expansion.

Members of the special county building and building and grounds committees of the Board of Supervisors, charged with the supervision of the construction of the building, toured the new courthouse floor by floor with engineers and architects to get an up-to-date progress report.

About 80 workers of several trades hardly noticed the visitors. They are racing the clock to make a May 15 date when the contractors should be out of the building, according to George Kimber, project engineer for the county.

A veteran of many building jobs, the 72-year-old Kimber can't believe some county officials' dreams that the county should move into the Telegraph Road edifice by June 1.

WHEN AND WHERE

More realistic estimates range from July 1 to Aug. 1.

Supervisors today dodged workers and piles of material as they paced the still cluttered corridors with Kimber. For the first time they had some idea of which department will go where and the shape and decor of the many offices and courtrooms.

First, before they passed through the temporary entrance, barred to outsiders without permits from Kimber, they saw the gold lettering "Oakland County Court House" over the 1960 cornerstone they saw laid last June 27.

Construction of the $3.2 million building began Sept. 21, 1959, climaxing several years of court delays experienced in its financing.

Kimber reports work about two months behind.

During their inspection trip supervisors were painted an imaginary picture where a new wing and supervisors' auditorium will be in relation to the courthouse tower unit.

They appropriated $1.2 million in non-tax surplus from the 1960 budget for the additions, which appeared a long way off after county voters turned down a $4 million tax levy for the additions in August.

SEE JUDGES' ROOMS

George K. Harris, of the Birmingham architectural firm of O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach, said original plans for the additions are presently being analyzed for with space requirements of those departments in the County Office Building, 1 Lafayette St., which will occupy the new wing.

An examination of the initial tower unit, which will have the luxury of air conditioning, for space for new Probate Judge Donald E. Adams was made today by supervisors.

They saw the beginnings of the chambers for the five Circuit Court judges, with the fine oak, cherry or walnut paneling.

Large slabs of black Africa marble were already in place behind and in front of the judges' benches in the courtrooms, which appear smaller than those in the downtown courthouse.

Lobbies outside the three public elevators are already finished with a brown marble from Carthage, Mo.

The public will enter the ground floor and first-to-fifth floor offices and courts through a public corridor on the south side of the building, which towers over the older county structures in the County Service Center.

Kimber took pride in pointing out what he calls "the monster" — the huge absorption refrigeration unit in the basement, which is a complex of machinery of all shapes and types to keep county employes warm, cool, and in light.

"You put steam in there and it comes out cold," Kimber said. "I haven't quite figured out how . . . it's under pressure . . . but when that gets snorting something ought to happen."

Pact to Freeze All Movements of Military

His Message Follows Show of Katanga Force at Elisabethville

From Our News Wires

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga — President Moise Tshombe of Katanga announced today that his government and the United Nations have agreed to freeze all troop movements.

In a communique Tshombe said "At a meeting this morning between the representative of the United Nations and cabinet ministers of Katanga an agreement was reached whereby all movements of troops likely to lead to friction would be stopped.

It was an abrupt shift for Tshombe, who calls this mineral-rich province independent. Only Tuesday he had ordered a mobilization of all black and white Katangans to prevent any attempt by the U.N. to neutralize his armed forces, as called for in a Security Council resolution.

Tshombe said he and three cabinet ministers met the U.N. representative in Katanga, Ian Berendsen, and Col. Anders Kjellgran, Swedish commander of U.N. forces.

They discussed details of instructions to carry out the resolution of the Security Council designed to halt civil war in the Congo.

Earlier in the day, Katanga authorities staged a show of force at Elisabethville Airport, fearing U.N. guards there intended to prevent the movement of Katanga planes.

Truckloads of troops and police rushed to the airport. U.N. guards were reinforced immediately and there were no incidents.

WHAT HAPPENED?

"We are not sure exactly what happened," a United Nations spokesman said, "but it seems the Katanga government feared the United Nations might try to stop planes of the Katanga air force from using the airport and so sent in police reinforcements as a show of force."

The Swedish commander of the airport guard summoned extra men after becoming concerned about the guard's position.

At the United Nations the United States was reported urg-

Reluctant to Be President

Washington Was Weary

By DON OAKLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

On April 16, 1789, an unhappy man left his home in Virginia to oegin a long journey to New York City.

This man had already received all the glory any mortal could hope for, having led a ragtail army and 13 sovereign, bickering colonies through seven years of war to victory and independence and, finally, to union under the Constitution.

To George Washington, his forthcoming inauguration as president in what was then the capital of the fledging nation was not a prospect that made him want to cheer.

At 57, all he desired was to spend his final years at his beloved Mount Vernon and pursue his favorite study, agriculture.

Earlier that month he had written to Henry Knox, his onetime chief of artillery and now secretary of war:

"In confidence I tell you (with the world it would obtain little credit) that my movements to the chair of government will be accompanied by feelings not unlike those of a culprit who is going to the place of his execution . . ."

And in his diary on the day of his departure he wrote:

"About ten o'clock I bade adieu to Mount Vernon, to private life, and to domestic felicity, and with a mind oppressed with more anxious and painful sensations than I have words to express . . . with the best disposition to render service to my country in obedience to its calls,

Chrysler Stockholder Would Limit Board

DETROIT (AP)—A Chrysler Corp. stockholder seeks to change the company bylaws to limit management representation on the board of directors.

Industrialist James M. Robbins of Royal Oak said Tuesday he had notified both Chrysler and the Securities and Exchange Commission that he will work for a resolution limiting company employes on the board to not more than one-fourth of all seats.

A Chrysler spokesman said the firm will make its answer to the proposal in a proxy statement to stockholders next month.

Chrysler has 21 directors. At present 10 are employes of the corporation and another, attorney Louis B. Warren, is a partner in a firm which furnishes services to Chrysler. There is currently one vacancy.

Robbins, a millionaire, former Chrysler engineer and dealer, is now involved in numerous enterprises, including a plastics firm which sells to the auto firm.

He said he hoped the resolution would be included in Chrysler's proxy statement, which will be mailed to stockholders about March 14.

"I am being encouraged in this effort by some other big shareholders," Robbins said.

The dissident stockholder, who earlier had said he was considering a proxy fight to overthrow the current management, did not rule out the more stringent move.

He said the bylaw proposal was an alternate possibility while he is considering "all the factors involved" in a proxy contest.

In other developments in the Chrysler merry-go-round of lawsuits attorneys for the corporation asked Wayne County Circuit Court to strike from the records many allegations in a bill of complaint of former President William C. Newberg as "scandalous, immaterial, irrelevant and impertinent."

Newberg is suing to void an agreement he signed to pay Chrysler $455,000 from profits in two Chrysler supplier firms.

Begin to Train for Space Shot

3 Officers Are Selected for the Final Phases of Astronaut Preparation

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Three confident astronauts today began intensive training to become the first American—perhaps the first man—into space.

The three were chosen Tuesday from among seven men who have been prepping for 22 months to ride rockets into the unknown. They are John J. Glenn Jr., 39, a Marine lieutenant colonel from New Concord, Ohio; Virgil E. Grissom, 34, an Air Force captain from Mitchell, Ind., and Alan B. Shepard Jr., 37, a Navy commander from East Derry, N.H.

Within two or three months, one of these men is expected to be a passenger aboard a Project Mercury man-in-space capsule which will zip 115 miles up and 235 miles down the Atlantic range at 4,200 miles an hour.

The selection announcement came shortly after jubilant officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the successful recovery of a similar capsule after it had been subjected to the most punishing conditions an astronaut might encounter on returning to earth from orbit.

The spacecraft came through in excellent condition, prompting space agency officials to proclaim that a manned suborbital flight may be attempted in the near future, with an orbit flight possible by the end of the year.

An Atlas missile hurled the one-ton space vehicle 107 miles up and 1,425 miles down range. The craft, empty except for instruments, landed near a recovery ship and was retrieved less than an hour after it was hoisted aloft from Cape Canaveral.

Robert Gilruth, Project Mercury director, said preliminary data indicated a man could have lived through the flight.

It was Gilruth who named the three astronauts who will start concentrated rehearsal for a short flight like that which Ham the space chimp survived on Jan. 31.

98 Algerians Slain

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — French troops supported by fighter planes killed 98 Algerian rebels Tuesday in the biggest clash between the two forces in several months, French army headquarters announced today.

Holland Mayor Out

HOLLAND (UPI)—Mayor Robert Visscher, who ran a poor second in a three-way primary race Monday while bidding for his fourth term, has withdrawn from the race.

Losing JP Candidate Says 'No Recount'

Following one of the closest contests in Monday's primary election, Calvin E. Patterson, a candidate for Waterford Township Justice of the Peace, said today he does not intend to demand a recount against his winning opponent Richard D. Kuhn.

Kuhn won the JP Republican nomination for the full term position by only two votes with a total of 572 over Patterson's 570.

In a recheck by the Oakland County Board of Canvassers Tuesday, the results were the same as those made by Waterford Township officials after the polls closed Monday.

Patterson said, "I have decided not to ask for a recount. The Waterford Township officials were very, very accurate and I don't think a recount would turn up two or three extra votes."

Kennedy Maps Strategy for Peaceful Cooperation

Ambassador to Russia Gets Final Briefing

WASHINGTON (UPI) President Kennedy today sent Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson back to Moscow with a personal message to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev expressing hope for "fruitful" continuation of diplomatic efforts to better U.S.-Russian relations.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy held a final strategy conference with Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson today before the envoy's return to Moscow with new instructions to push for Soviet cooperation on peaceful projects.

Thompson, who is leaving New York Thursday for Europe, is expected to press the President's ideas of Soviet-American cooperation in outer space and pooling their power on the medical and scientific fronts to lessen poverty and suffering in the world.

In the talks, which started a week ago, Kennedy, Thompson and top foreign policy experts also discussed the more immediate cold war problems which from time to time flare into crises which threaten world peace.

Thompson, who will arrive in Moscow next Monday, will test Russia's professed desire for better relations with the United States.

Officials said Kennedy is not pressing for any early session with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. But they believe he would be willing to meet Khrushchev informally if a mutually convenient occasion presented itself.

Before going into the huddle with Thompson, Kennedy met with Walter C. Dowling, U.S. ambassador to West Germany, who was paying a farewell call before returning to his post Thursday.

There was no hint from official quarters of any major policy change resulting from the extensive review of Soviet-American relations undertaken by Kennedy and his top aides. But high officials indicated that some changes in tactics might be forthcoming.

Thompson arrived in Washington two weeks ago in response to a summons from Kennedy who said he wanted to review with the ambassador the "entire field of Soviet-American relations."

Students at MSUO Eye Unusual Sport

By MAX SIMON

Michigan State University Oakland may give a tremendous shot in the arm to American sports prestige — by pushing a bed.

There's no intercollegiate football on the campus. No basketball, baseball, swimming . . .

Intercollegiate sports competition, in fact, is frowned on by university officialdom.

Now bed-pushing is something else again.

The international intercollegiate sport will apparently be introduced this weekend. A group of 94 students has signed up to push a bed from MSUO to the MSU campus, around the Spartan statue, and back to MSUO — a distance of 150 miles.

Sixten Netzler, 20, 3751 W. Tienken Rd., Avon Township, head bed-pusher, said the international record is held—or rather, claimed — by Queen's College, Kingston, Ontario. That team toted a bed 301 miles.

MSUO students decided to challenge the international record when they believed it to be held by the University of Western Ontario. (111 miles).

Despite learning of the new mark, they're still setting their sights on new heights.

"It's a question of patriotism," Netzler said.

The newness of bed-pushing in Michigan has caused problems.

Such as: Is it legal to push a bed on the highways?

Bed-pushers contacted State Police, the State Highway Department, the State Attorney General's Office, and the Secretary of State's Office.

Nobody said yes. Nobody said no.

"I think it's nuts," said one police chief.

However, nobody has come up with any laws prohibiting bed-pushing.

And Gov. Swainson has given his tentative approval — as well as a suggestion that bed-pushers take up a collection for the university's scholarship fund along their route.

Bed-pushing started with a worthy cause in South Africa. A hospital bed was pushed 20 miles by students to focus attention on the needs of the World University Committee for Books.

There was lots of attention.

Because of its newness, there's a lot of confusion about bed-pushing.

Unsettled is the question of whether to use a hospital bed or any bed.

Canadians use hospital beds. Other countries use regular beds with oversized wheels.

Also unsettled is whether speed is as important as distance.

MSUO feels that distance is really what counts.

Netzler figures the jaunt to East Lansing and back will be made at an average speed of 6 miles an hour — about 24 hours for the trip.

"We'll try to break the 301-mile record when we get back," Netzler proclaimed. "We'll push until we drop."

One Canadian school has pushed a bed more than 800 miles, but that was around a block. The claim of a record is being hotly contested.

There apparently is one more obstacle for MSUO's team to meet before starting out.

"We still need a bed," Netzler said.

More Rain Assails Alabama

By The Associated Press

Continued rain brought more woe today to north-central Alabama already made soggy by six straight days of precipitation. Damage, as yet uncounted, mounted as rising water forced more families from their houses.

The Red Cross estimated nearly 1,000 persons were displaced by high water in Jefferson (Birmingham) County Tuesday night. About 100 families fled the rising water at Gadsden, Ala., and an uncounted number were evacuated near Tuscaloosa, Ala. A few evacuations were reported near Montgomery.

ALABAMA TORNADO

While flooding has been prevalent over much of the Southeast, only one death has been reported —a drowning in Louisiana. Eight persons were injured when a tornado whirled through Angie, La., Tuesday. It destroyed two houses and a high school, but none of the 535 students had arrived for classes when the twister struck.

Another tornado spawned from rain-bearing, slowly moving low pressure areas advancing from the Gulf of Mexico hit Sumrall, Miss., Tuesday night.

The Weather Bureau said the rains will continue, increasing the worries of those living in low-lying areas of Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, and, to a lesser extent, the Carolinas and Tennessee.

American Forging Sale Is Rumored

Rumors were afloat today in the city that the American Forging & Socket Co., 150 Branch St., was being sold.

An official of the company said a statement would "not be ready today."

Congress to Expedite Jobless Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways & Means Committee was expected to give speedy approval today to at least the first part of President Kennedy's emergency program to aid the nation's jobless.

The bill would provide $990 million for extra unemployment compensation to 3,125,000 jobless workers whose benefits have either expired or will run out during the next year or so.

Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., has promised to call the measure up for action promptly in the House once the committee acts. A floor vote was predicted early next week.

A companion bill would make $350 million in federal-state public assistance available for the needy children of the unemployed. This may be wrapped up into the jobless pay legislation as a package or acted upon separately.

Washington Sale Is Held Today at Miracle Mile

With the annual Hatchet Days sale about to get under way in downtown Pontiac, Miracle Mile Shopping Center today is marking its annual Washington's Birthday Celebration.

The shopping center will be offering special values all day today.

A couple dressed in George and Martha Washington costumes is on hand to offer free hot chocolate and doughnuts to the first 1,000 customers.

They also are giving free cherry candies to the children. It had been incorrectly reported that gift certificates were being given away.

Tomorrow, in downtown Pontiac, the three-day Hatchet Days sale will begin.

Coach Is Understanding on Youngster's Tackle

GADSDEN, Ala. (UPI) — The coach understood when a youngster on the Gadsden High School football team leaped off the bench to tackle an opposing player during the excitement of a game last season.

The coach was Tommy Lewis, who made headlines by doing the same thing while on the University of Alabama bench during the 1954 Cotton Bowl game against Rice. Lewis tackled Dick Moegle, who was allowed the touchdown anyway.

Hapless Woman Driver Has Nothing but Trouble

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI)—While Mary Bryant was telephoning police to report that she had been in an automobile accident, someone stole her wallet containing $150.

When the police did arrive, they charged her with causing the collision. Still later, Miss Bryant learned it would cost her $400 to fix her car.

$20,000 IN SUGGESTION AWARDS—That is the amount accumulated during the past year by five Pontiac Motor employes—all of whom either won or shared in $5,000 General Motors maximum awards. Discussing a suggestion promotion program with J. F. Blamy (seated center), manufacturing manager, are maximum award co-winners Cecil Lankford (seated left), 68 N. Sanford St. and Alpo Nevala, 4048 Crocus, both of Pontiac's plating plant. Looking on are (left to right standing) Clifford J. Stasiuk, 112 Pioneer St.; Earl Pence, Romeo Rt. 2; and Edward E. Fricke, North Branch—all $5,000 award winners. Stasiuk is a member of the master mechanics department, Pence works in the foundry and Fricke is a pressed metal plant employe.

Workers at 3 GM Plants Win $260,069 for Ideas

General Motors Corp. today announced that a total of 3,415 suggestions were accepted last year from employes at the three GM plants here.

The GM suggestion plan paid out a total of $260,069.93 in awards to employes at Pontiac Motor Division, Fisher Body Division and GMC Truck & Coach Plant.

There were four maximum awards of $5,000 each made here — all to Pontiac Motor Division employes.

These were among 44 maximum awards granted by the entire corporation.

A total of 41 local employes received awards of $1,000 or more.

There were 531 such awards made in the entire corporation.

The maximum award winning suggestions locally included an improved method of cleaning sand molds in preparation for iron pouring, and a nickel reclamation process in the plating plant.

Others were an improved method of fabricating rear car bumpers and a major improvement to a cylinder block machining operation.

Throughout the corporation there were a record 480,340 suggestions submitted last year.

Employes received more than $3 million for their ideas on how to make their jobs safer and easier and improve plant operations.

Of the total number of suggestions, 111,203, or about one out of every four, was accepted for the cash awards.

No Fatalities Reported as Nine Cars Hurtle Track in North Dakota

BUFFALO, N. D. (AP) — "It started to go up and down and buck like a bronco," said a stunned passenger. "Then it started to sway, and it went over."

The Northern Pacific's crack Mainstreeter, bound for Portland, Ore., from Chicago, derailed at 60 miles an hour Tuesday, sending nine cars hurtling off the tracks. Thirty-seven persons were taken to hospitals throughout eastern North Dakota.

No one was killed. None of the injured was believed in serious condition.

RIPS UP TRACK

The train ripped up 300 feet of track and knocked down telegraph poles and communications before the derailed cars came to rest, partially buried in mud.

Dazed passengers crawled from the wreckage as emergency vehicles raced to the site. There were 51 persons in the coaches, 7 in Pullman cars, and 16 crewmen. Almost all suffered injuries of some kind.

Supervisors Visit New Courthouse

to begin the mammoth job of installing miles of telephone connections.

Besides the circuit, probate and juvenile courts, supervisors saw where the prosecutor's staff, probation department, county clerk and register of deeds, treasurer and tax equalization departments will hang their hats.

They received a bird's-eye view of the surrounding buildings through the spacious ceiling-to-floor windows lining the equally spacious law library on the fifth floor where attorneys will prepare their cases among row after row of shelves of law books.

This contrasts with the cramped quarters they're used to in the downtown courthouse built in 1904.

Washington Was Weary

but with less hope of answering its expectations."

SOON DISPELLED

But the gloomy reservations in Washington's mind were soon dispelled by his fellow countrymen. As it has done with no other president, the office sought the man in George Washington.

He conducted no campaign, made no election promises, yet received the unanimous mandate of the Electoral College.

No other man had been seriously considered.

And although the ordinary citizens had not voted for Washington (electors were chosen by state legislatures in those days), they soon showed that the choice had their enthusiastic approval.

Crowds of neighbors and friends met him outside Alexandria, near his home, and accompanied him to the Maryland line.

There another throng met him in Georgetown, feted him and passed him out of town to the committee from Baltimore.

By the 19th, Washington had progressed as far as Wilmington, Del.

The next day, at Philadelphia, high officials of the state and cavalry, artillery and infantry troops escorted him into the city.

It was here, 12 years earlier, that Washington and the remnants of his battered army had spent the bitter winter of Valley Forge.

Here the Revolution had reached its lowest ebb.

RETURNS TO TRENTON

Then, after spending the night in Philadelphia, came Trenton, N.J., known to every schoolboy as the place where Washington defeated the Hessians. Then on to Princeton, site of another battle.

The procession through the New Jersey countryside was a repetition of the others as Washington was handed on from committee to committee along streets and roads lined with cheering well-wishers.

Finally, a week after his journey began, he reached Elizabethtown and met the committee from New York.

There, after reviewing the troops, Washington boarded a specially built barge which was to take him across New York Harbor.

As soon as it was under way, the barge was joined by an armada of other draft, decked out with flags and bunting. Some of the boats carried choirs which sang odes to Washington.

Ships with guns fired salutes and foreign vessels dipped their colors.

As he stepped off the barge at the foot of gaily decorated Wall Street, New York went wild as human voices tried to outdo bells and cannon. Not yet famous for their ticker tape, New Yorkers showered Washington with flowers.

It was not until April 30 that Washington was to be inaugurated, but the days of waiting did little to quiet down the city.

It rapidly swelled to overflowing with visitors, foreign dignitaries, newly elected congressmen and other government officials. Latecomers slept in tents set up in vacant spaces.

HISTORIC DAY

Early on the morning of the 30th, the bells of the city began a prolonged pealing. About noon, a procession left Washington's house and began its short way to the Old City Hall, newly refurbished and renamed the Federal State House.

After meeting the members of Congress, Washington stepped out onto a balcony facing Broad and Wall streets, where his statue now stands.

The ovation he received from the densely packed crowd, even though he had been subjected to days and days of similar demonstrations, caused the great man to be visibly moved and seek the support of a chair.

After a few moments, the crowd fell silent as Washington rose and moved forward with the state chancellor. Then he took, for the first time, the now famous presidential oath.

Thus began, officially, the history of the United States of America.

The Day in Birmingham

Wayne State Scholarship Applications Being Taken

BIRMINGHAM — Applications for the first Wayne State University scholarship sponsored by the University's Alumnae Club of Birmingham now are being accepted by the organization.

High School students from the Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Franklin and Lathrup villages have until Saturday to submit their registrations to the Scholarship Committee, 1139 Emmons St.

The scholarship will cover tuition for the fall semester and will be renewable. The winner will be decided on the basis of character and citizenship, financial need, academic achievement and seriousness of purpose, according to Mrs. John L. Thurber, committee chairman.

She said applications are available from school counselors.

Funds for the scholarship were raised by the alumnae through the card parties, a December bazaar and the sale of the "International Cook Book" which was published by the club.

Marion Tate of 1172 Bird is president of the organization.

Eye Improving of 21 Streets

Public Hearings Set to Follow Submission of Plans, Cost Estimates

The 1961 public improvement program got under way last night as city commissioners tentatively scheduled improvements to 21 streets.

Declared public necessities, the projects will be the subject of public hearings after engineering plans and cost estimates are accepted by the commission.

Included in the initial projects:

Curbs and gutters on Bassett Street, Basswood t Woodward; Manitu Road, Navajo to Ottawa; Steinbaugh Court, Augusta to State; Foster Street, Howard to Forest; City Line Road, Baldwin to Hillside; Hillside Drive, Burt to City Line.

Also Woodland Drive, Lakeside to Dresden; High Street, Blaine to Summit; Kenilworth Avenue, Mt. Clemens to Perry; Adams Street, Jessie to Allen; Allen Street Osmun to the Grand Trunk Railroad; and Elm Street, Paddock to Jessie.

Recapping on Clinton Street, Wayne to Williams; North Saginaw Street, Rundell to Chamberlain; Joslyn Avenue, Columbia to Walton; Edison Street, Chamberlain to Fairgrove; and Raeburn Street, Paddock to Sanford.

Blacktopping of Oxford Road, Argyle to Canterbury; Melrose Avenue, Mt. Clemens to Perry; Beverly Avenue, Arlene to Fuller; and South Jessie Street, Raeburn to Prospect.

Grading and graveling of Locke Street, east of Bay Street.

The engineering department was given the customary authorization to begin the 1961 sidewalk repair program, with a stricture from Commissioner John A. Dugan concerning notices to property owners.

As he has during the past two years, Dugan asked that notices be limited to those repair jobs the city is able to spend time and money on. Property owners are told in the notices that if they don't make the repairs, the city will step in and make them, billing property owners for the cost.

Assessments were confirmed to cover costs of the Astor Street-Northway Drive sanitary sewer.

After a public hearing, a zoning change was approved from residential to commercial for four lots on the northeast corner of Paddock Street, north of Jessie Street.

On the subject of urban renewal, investment of surplus funds in was okayed.

Commissioner Winford E. Bottom called for an investigation of apparent pollution in Harris Lake on Baldwin Avenue, south of the Fisher Body Division plant.

The Birmingham branch of the Secretary of State office at 292 Park St. has extended its hours as the Feb. 28 deadline nears for obtaining 1961 license plate tags.

Branch manager Delbert Ayles said his office will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily and from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, through March 1.

In addition, he said the branch will be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday.

ing Belgium to pressure Tshombe to bring Katanga into a federation of Congo states that would cooperate with the U.N. Congo force.

Informed sources said the United States also is pressing Belgium to keep her nationals from going to Katanga as mercenary soldiers for the army in Katanga Province, which Tshombe proclaimed an independent state last summer soon after the Congo won independence.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold summoned his advisory committee on the Congo back for another meeting today to decide how to use the broad new powers voted him by the Security Council.

The U.N. commander said it had reports that 16 political prisoners were shot in Stanleyville Monday in reprisal for the slayings of former Premier Patrice Lumumba and several followers.

But a U.N. spokesman said that while he was "fearful for the fate" of the prisoners, he could not confirm the reports that they had been killed by Lumumbaists at Stanleyville's Camp Ketele.

Congregations Brotherly

Their Generosity Saved Day

For centuries civilization has fought to gain and preserve the basic human rights of religious freedom, tolerance and the brotherhood of mankind. Our nation was founded upon just such principles.

But brotherhood must exist first in an individual's own heart before it can exist in a neighborhood, a community or between nations.

The National Conference of Christians and Jews, a nationwide organization, has dedicated itself to keeping these ideals alive. In 1934 America observed Brotherhood Day. Since 1940, there has been an annual Brotherhood Week. The nation is observing the occasion this week.

DR. JOSEPH W. MOORE

There is no easy solution to the age-old problems of bigotry and prejudice. Dr. Everett R. Clinchy of the national conference said:

By getting to know the other fellow, the one who has a different creed, race, or national origin than yours, by understanding his viewpoint, ambitions and goals, you will find the old prejudices disappear."

Dr. Joseph W. Moore, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, 123 Wessen St., tells of a warm friendship with another minister while serving a church in Schenectady, N.Y.

"One of the finest examples of Christian Brotherhood showing interracial and interdenominational understanding and better race relations, was demonstraied on Nov. 27, 1957 in the city of Schenectady, N.Y., where I formerly pastored the Friendship Baptist Church.

WARM FELLOWSHIP

"The Rev. Dr. J. Edward Carothers, pastor of the First Methodist Church, and I had enjoyed a warm fellowship in exchanging pulpits, choirs, and youth fellowship groups.

"In 1957 Friendship Church had the opportunity to purchase the property of the First Baptist Church, which included a beautiful sanctuary, educational building and parsonage.

"We engaged in a building fund campaign, and even though several other churches made contributions and our people responded well, we still were about $1,000 short of our goal.

"The First Methodist Church was observing its 150th anniversary with a week of special services.

"Dr. Carothers secured permission from his bishop, and the First Methodist congregation voted to give all of its anniversary offering to the Friendship Baptist Church building fund. The sum amounted to $1,200.

"The generous gift enabled us to close the transaction and secure the other property."

Planes and Buses Crowded as Strike Grounds Aircraft

By United Press International

Travelers whose flights were canceled by an engineers' strike against six major airlines are flocking to other airlines, trains and buses today but the rush is intense in only a few of the nation's cities.

Unstruck airlines, railroads and bus lines reported the most dramatic rush in the East.

In most cities, the travel business is normal or slightly above normal. Only long-distance runs are affected in the Midwest, West and South.

At New York, the Pennsylvania Railroad planned to send out two extra trains to Washington today and added cars to trains bound for the Midwest. Business is up 30 per cent since Friday, the railroad said.

The New York Central Division at Boston said it is "overwhelmed" with demands for seats on its Chicago-bound train. The New Haven Railroad added 15 coaches and 15 sleeping cars to take care of a 25 per cent increase in traffic between New York and Boston.

20 COACHES ADDED

Continental Trailways bus lines at New York said it has added at least 20 coaches to its daily schedule.

At Washington, a Capital Airlines spokesman said flights are going out with empty seats.

"The public apparently thinks the entire industry is shut down," he said.

Extra planes, railroad cars and buses are taking care of travelers leaving Chicago, host to about 19,000 conventioneers. But railroad and business spokesmen said the travel crush does not compare with the Christmas holidays or that of the last major railroad strike.

MORE FLIGHTS

United Air Lines added flights to New York and Washington. Delta put on an extra flight to Atlanta and Miami. Capital sent an extra plane to Detroit and Chicago and Braniff added a plane to Kansas City, Oklahoma City and Texas.

The Greyhound bus line's Chicago depot said it put on extra buses to New York and travel is "a little heavier than ordinary to Detroit.

"It hasn't been anything to crowd us," a spokesman said.

Most railroads have hooked extra cars to trains leaving Chicago for either coast. A spokesman for the Milwaukee Road said an upswing in the number of reservations from the East has led to the addition of cars on its West Coast-bound trains.

A New York Central stationmaster in Chicago said the rush is beginning to taper off. The flight engineers' strike entered its fifth day today.

Minister Plans to Carry Torch for Disarmament

DETROIT (UPI)—A Unitarian minister plans to carry a torch miles through the streets of Detroit tonight to demonstrate his support for disarmament.

The Rev. Curtis Crawford said he will walk half the perimeter of a circle 4½ miles from Detroit's Civic Center. This area, he said, would be obliterated if downtown Detroit were hit by a thermonuclear bomb.

Mr. Crawford, an instructor at New York University, said he will walk the other half of the circle across the Detroit River in Windsor.

LONDON (UPI)—The United States ranked seventh in construction of shipping in 1960, Lloyd's Register of Shopping reported today.

Bolivia's 'State of Seige' Results in Arrest of 85

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI)—The government has arrested 85 of its foes under a "state of siege" imposed to counter alleged subversion by Communists and other opposition groups, the interior ministry said today.

President Victor Paz Estenssoro told a news conference the government does not plan "for the moment" to censor Bolivia's newspapers. He said the country was "completely calm."

Weigh These Words:

Warm Up for Exercises

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here is a letter which will inspire the women who are following my eight-week self-improvement marathon. For one day each week during Marathon I give the entrants a little help.

"After quite a few years I have mastered my proportion problem. I have always been large across the back and 2 inches too large in the waist. This made it discouraging to shop.

I started your Marathon several times before but never stayed on it because something always happened; meetings, illness, company or something.

I found the answer for me. I get up 20 minutes earlier than the rest of the family and stretch while the coffee is perking. I used to exercise too strenuously and be exhausted and sore. This time I took it slow and stretched all of my muscles lazily for 10 minutes each morning.

"Then as the soreness left I would do just enough more each day to feel only a little sore. For the last 10 years I have weighed about 139 pounds. Now I weigh 128 pounds.

That isn't much weight to lose, but when I reduced before I did not exercise. Although I got slimmer I was still out of proportion and couldn't buy a skirt in my size which I could fasten at the waist.

"I have lost 3 inches in the waist and have a better figure now than I have had since I was 20 years old. I am 48.

"I used the image of models to make myself eat less. Also a cartoon I saw cinched it. This showed a husband lying on the divan looking out of a picture window at the attractive, slim women passing by while his overweight wife sat beside him. Many husbands will not tell their wives that they would like to have them reduce but they think it."

This letter emphasizes the value of exercise in a reducing routine. Without it you just get smaller all over. With it you distribute your weight more attractively.

Another thing, many women start in exercising too strenuously and too long and become discouraged by sore muscles. Follow the line this reader followed in exercise; take it slowly but do not give up just because of a little muscle soreness.

If you, too, have meant to start Marathon, or started and fell by the wayside, you can still join.

"If you wish to do so send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet.

You can lose weight and improve yourself generally. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

This is one smart sleepy-time gal. She's stretching and getting her muscles in shape before beginning her daily exercises.

How a Few Years Change Our Attitude

By RUTH MILLETT

Do you remember when—

A husband expected a night out "with the boys" now and then but no wife in her right mind demanded an occasional evening "with the girls"?

College girls thought they had to choose between marriage and a career instead of assuming that a job and marriage go together like a horse and carriage?

A woman who had a household allowance was considered lucky, instead of underprivileged for not having a joint checking account?

Saying, "I love the color of your hair" to a woman who was helping nature out a bit would have been considered the height of cattiness instead of a frank compliment?

Junior's misbehavior at school was a matter to be settled between Junior and his teacher—and not through a conference with his mother?

A young man waited to propose to a girl until he could answer "yes, sir" the first question he knew her father would ask: "Can you support my daughter?"

Children were more familiar with the command, "You'll have to ask your father" than "Go ask your mother; she's the boss"?

Families sat for a long time talking at the dinner table because there was no TV program some member of the family couldn't miss?

A housewife would have preferred to be known as "a good manager" than as a "community leader"?

A husband who never wanted to go anywhere was praised for being a "family man" instead of low-rated for being anti-social?

Parents blamed their children when they did wrong, instead of blaming themselves?

Remember?

Fellowship Class Host to Congo Missionaries

The Rev. and Mrs. George Kennedy, missionaries returned from the Belgian Congo, presented the program as over 50 Fellowship Bible Class members of First Baptist Church met Tuesday for a cooperative dinner.

Mr. Kennedy, who offered devotions on "The Empty Tomb," played two trombone duets, accompanied by his daughter Charlene on the accordion. The couple's daughter JoAnne and son Billie sang a duet with piano accompaniment by Charlene.

Mrs. Kennedy concluded the program with color slide views of the Holy Land where the family toured last year on the way home from the Congo.

Dinner was served by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Armstrong and their committee, George Stockwell was program chairman. Murray Deighton of Birmingham, class teacher, opened the meeting with prayer.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice,

How can I alter a cotton bowling skirt so the gabardine shirt tail will 'stay in' and look as neat as possible during bowling?

Mrs. M.J.P.

Dear Mrs. M.J.P.:

The best suggestions I can give you will apply to the shirt and not the skirt. First, be sure the shirt tail is long enough. It should be at least 5 inches below the waistline. The following instructions will tell you how to apply a casing to the shirt for a tie.

1. Tie a string very tightly around your waistline, over the blouse.

2. Raise your arms up and down, also stretch them forward as you would when you are bowling. This will release the extra fabric you will need for comfortable ease and action.

3. Mark just below the string, with pins or white marking chalk, this will be your waistline guide.

4. After you have removed the blouse, baste over the waistline marks so they will appear on the wrong side.

5. Machine stitch a ½" strip of cotton bias-binding to the blouse, top edge of binding will just touch the basting guide line. The bias strip should begin at the outer edge of the blouse on the right front, and stop about 1½" from the oupter edge of the left front.

This bias-strip has now formed a casing. You can thread a small cord or string through the casing and tie it in front. This actually will work beautifully with blouses of all types that have a tendency to slip out.

Dear Mrs. Farmer,

What is meant by a half-size pattern?

Mrs. C. S.

Dear Mrs. C. S.

A half-size pattern is designed for the woman with a more mature figure. They are shorter waisted, and have more allowance for ease. These patterns are designed with the most becoming lines possible to make a woman look slender.

Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"One of the things I like most about your column is that you help beginners like me as well as women who have done a lot of sewing.

I have trouble just pinning the parts of the dress together before I sew it on the sewing machine. What is the best way to make the pieces match each other and the ends to come out even?"

Mrs. S. J. K.

Dear Mrs. S.J.K.:

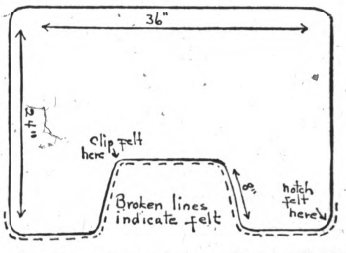

"One of the things I like most about your column is that garment is to use a flat surface when pinning or assembling any parts of your garment.

Often a table isn't convenient, so we find ourselves using our lap or some cramped space.

A perfect solution to this is the use of a lapboard. To me it is indispensable because it can be kept close to your sewing machine and when you need a flat surface, you merely push yourself back from the machine and place this board on your lap.

Since this item is not available on the commercial market, I am giving you complete instructions for one.

The lap board should be cut out of ⅛-inch fiber board, any other type material would be too heavy. If you make a paper pattern from the sketch given below, you may be able to get a lumber company to cut it out for you—or maybe you have a handy husband.

For added convenience, cover the board on one side with felt. This will keep the fabric from slipping. The felt should be cut about ¾ of an inch larger than the board. It can be glued on with household glue. Be sure to notch out the excess felt on all outer curves and to slip to the edge of the board on all inner curves. Now glue these outer edges of the felt to the other side of the board. Please let me know how you like it.

Lake Orion Tax Hike Going Into Effect March 1

4-Mill Increase Needed for Record-Sized Budget

By DON FERMOYLE

LAKE ORION — A four-mill tax increase, which will raise taxes for Lake Orion property owners to $21 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, will go into effect here March 1.

The extra millage is necessary in order to provide funds for a record $144,233 budget approved by the Village Council, according to Council President Irvine J. Unger.

Besides approving the budget and tax increase, the council also instructed Village Attorney Robert Parenti to start legal action in Circuit Court to compel tenants of the old Lake Orion Hotel to vacate the building.

The old hotel, located in the heart of the village's business district on South Broadway Street, has been termed a "health and safety hazard" by state, county and village inspectors.

Although increasing taxes, Unger reported Lake Orion's new 21-mill levy is still below the 22-mill limitation allowed under state law.

The new budget, Unger said, is some $4,200 above the figure set for last year, when the tax rate was $17 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

EYE IMPROVEMENTS

"The extra funds will be used for necessary improvements on the village's streets, recreational facilities and garbage and trash pickup programs," Unger stated.

The biggest single expenditure in the budget, he said, will be for salaries of village employes, mainly those in the Lake Orion Department of Public Works and Police Department.

The DPW workers and school crossing guards recently were granted pay raises by the Village Council.

New radio equipment and a water patrol boat also are needed by the police department this year, the council president said. The budget will take care of village expenses from March 1 through Feb. 28, 1962.

Unger said the council in the past has been trying to hold the line on taxes, but believed the increase was necessary this year in order to pay for the needed improvements in the village.

In other action, the council reappointed James Haddrill and George Perry as members of the board of review. Council approval also was given on the appointment of Raymond Genereaux as new director of the Lake Orion-Orion Township Office of Civil Defense.

GOING TO COURT

The council is taking its case against the hotel to court as the result of an incident Feb. 13 when Frank Dunaskis, owner of the building, refused to let inspectors enter his establishment.

Dunaskis earlier had met with village officials and agreed to let the inspectors tour his hotel so they could draw up a list of improvements which would be necessary in order to save the structure from condemnation.

However, Dunaskis later hired a new attorney who advised the hotel owner not to allow the inspectors on the premises.

Oscar Boyea, sanitarian for the Oakland County Health Department who also acts as health inspector for Lake Orion and Rochester, contends that the building is dangerous because of faulty wiring, unstable construction and an unsafe heating unit.

Except for a tavern on the first floor of the building, all tenants were ordered to vacate the hotel a month ago.

VIRGINIA L. LEWIS

A July wedding is planned by Virginia L. Lewis and Frank D. Gingell, whose engagement is announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin J. Lewis of Lowell. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gingell of 3404 Gregory Road, Gingellville.

Boy Scouts of Manito Set Dinner

The Manito District of the Clinton Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, will stage its first annual Leaders' Appreciation Dinner at 7:30 p.m. today at Clarkston Senior High School.

Featured speaker will be Edward H. Leland, scout executive for the council. He will discuss the future of scouting in the district.

Honored guests will include W. H. Taylor of Pontiac Motors Division and B. W. Crandell of General Motors Truck and Coach division; C. W. Whippo, district scout executive; and S. F. Goedde, principal of Clarkston High School.

Cub scouts, boy scouts and explorers from other districts will furnish the entertainment. William Pascher, council scouter from Gingellville, will be featured in a vocal number.

An eagle and gourd dance and a holy dance will be presented by Dick Tombley of the Macomb District, and explorers from Post 74 of Mount Clemens will give a pantomime.

Music for the evening will be furnished by a combo made of explorer scouts from Post 83 in Owosso.

Each scouter being recognized for service at the banquet will receive a gift of appreciation from Whippo. Toastmaster will be Virgil L. Van Horn of Clarkston.

James Doolittle was the first to fly across the American continent in one day.

YOUNG DANCERS REHEARSE — A group of Birmingham youngsters get some last minute pointers on ballet technique, from a New York dancing expert, Peter Nelson. The Birmingham Concert Dancers will present a concert at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Clarkston High School theater, under the direction of Delores Ruhl. Nelson, a faculty member of the Ballet Arts at Carnegie Hall, and former member of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo assisted Miss Ruhl in a one-day training session.

Clarkston to See Part of 'The Seasons'

Concert Ballet Dancers to Make Debut

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

CLARKSTON — The stage in the Clarkston High School's Little Theater has been set for the first performance of the Birmingham Concert Ballet Dancers at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Sponsoring the presentation is a newly organized group called the Village Friends of Art. It is devoted to promoting interest in cultural advancements in the community.

The Concert Dancers, under the direction of Miss Dolores Ruhl, range in age from 7 to 15 years. Fifteen of the young performers will present one portion of "The Seasons," by Marius Petipa.

This ballet was introduced at the Hermitage Theatre in St. Petersburg, Russia, in 1900.

In Saturday's production, "Summer" is depicted by the Spirit of the corn's arrival. The "flowers" go through a dance, then stretch out exhausted on the earth. Satyrs and fauns, playing on their pipes, come to capture the spirit of the corn, and the flowers protect him while the Zehpyr sends them scurrying away.

RODGERS AND HAMMERSTEIN

Another section of the show will be "The Inventor and Comedians." The plot centers around a band of itinerant comedians and their often amusing escapades as they travel from town to town appearing in public squares and at fairs.

In still another portion of Miss Ruhl's presentation, "The Ballet Oriental" with music by Rodgers and Hammerstein, will be featured with all choreography by Miss Ruhl.

Various oriental themes and moods are accented by the colorful simplicity of the costumes and staging.

Directing ballet productions is not a new venture for the petite Miss Ruhl. For the past four years she has worked with the Concert Dancers training them and presenting concerts.

She is a graduate of the American Ballet Theatre, the School of Ballet Arts, Carnegie Hall, N. Y. and has taught at the Brinitzka School of Ballet in New York.

Before coming to Birmingham, Miss Ruhl was a professional dancer in "Corps de Ballet," of the Salmage Opera Co. in New York City.

NANCY J. ANDERSON

Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Anderson of Midland are announcing the engagement of their daughter Nancy Jane to 2nd Lt. Theodore Keith Barnhart, son of Mrs. Ralph E. Meek of 212 Atwater St., Lake Orion, and the late Theodore J. Barnhart. A June wedding has been planned by the couple.

1,100 Prepare Exhibits for Area Science Fair

ROCHESTER—Over 1,100 Rochester Junior High School students have prepared exhibits for entry in their annual Science Fair tomorrow and Friday. Prizes will be awarded for the best projects.

General chairman Reynolds White, science teacher, announces that emphasis is being placed on improved displays illustrating a wide range of science principles.

He said that he anticipates this year's fair will be more educational and exciting than it was last year.

White is being assisted by the whole staff of science teachers.

Ribbons and cash prizes will be awarded to winners from the seventh, eighth and ninth grade who are participating. The Rochester Kiwanis Club also will entertain the top winners at a dinner and will ask the boys and gilrs to demonstrate their projects at that time.

Outstanding citizens of the Rochester community whose training and occupations are concerned with specialized fields of science have been asked to judge the entries, according to White.

They include Dr. Donald J. Trumpour, medical doctor; Dr. John S. Terry, dentist; Dr. J. W. Eastman, veterinarian; Gerald Trimble, mechanical engineer with General Motors Corp. and his brother Philip, an electrical engineer.

Others are Dr. Paul Tomboulian, professor at Michigan State University Oakland; Charles Courtney, Royal Oak science teacher; and A. H. Canderfield of Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

The fair will be held in the junior high gymnasium. It will be open to parents and the general public from 6 to 9 p.m. Friday. The judging will take place tomorrow.

Trying to Reactivate Dems in Avon Twp.

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Avon Township Democratic Club will meet at 8 p.m. today at the Avon Park Pavilion primarily to try and restore the two-party system in the township.

Inactive for the past two years, the club is being rebuilt, according to Louis Martin, temporary chairman of the group.

In addition to a general discussion of the club organization, there will be an election of officers.

Featured speakers will be William K. Benson, active township Democrat, and James G. Kellis of Berkley. Benson will discuss the November election.

He was Democratic nominee for county treasurer. Kellis was the party's nominee for Congress.

Subject of Kellis' talk will be the American foreign in the Far East, its issues and problems.

All interested Democrats have been invited to attend.

Avondale High Faculty Will Offer Program

A faculty-sponsored program will highlight tomorrow's 8 p.m. meeting of the Avondale Senior High School Parent-Teacher-Student Association.

Basketball coach Dick Bye and Charles Parrott, who teaches a course on modern problems and also driver education, have charge of the program.

It will consist of various student-sponsored activities. Refreshments will be served.

Asks Mental Clinic

LANSING (UPI) — A mental health clinic would be established in Flint to serve Genesee, Lapeer and Shiawassee counties under a bill introduced in the State Senate Tuesday.

The bill provided for a $14,000 appropriation toward the establishment of the clinic for adult patients.

Okays $3.98 Million for Utica Schools

UTICA — The issuance of $3.98 million in bonds for construction of five new school buildings in the Utica Community School District has been approved by the State Municipal Finance Commission.

The bond issue was passed by a 19-vote margin in a special election in the school district Dec. 5.

Plans call for construction this year of a 20-to 22 room elementary school and two other school buildings approximately half that size.

Scheduled for construction in 1962 is another full-sized elementary school and a combination elementary-junior high school building.

Track Just Off M59

Want Restrictions Lifted on Drag Strip

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — A petition requesting that legal restrictions be relaxed on a portion of the Pontiac Speedway to allow racing this summer has been filed in Oakland County Circuit Court, according to the track owner.

Robert Amos, owner of track located off M59 here, said the petition asks that the court lift a part of the injunction filed by the township that has prohibited racing at the speedway for more than a year.

The track owner explained that the township filed for the injunction against his property in a battle over a dragstrip he proposed to build at the racing site.

The issue came before the township when Amos requested that 15 acres adjacent to the track by the zoning board and later by commercial.

The request was turned down by the zoning board and later by the board of appeals with the explanation that the drag strip would cause property values in the area of the track to depreciate.

Further construction of the dragstrip was halted by the injunction. A cross-bill was filed by Amos and a hearing is scheduled for March.

However, Amos said, the injunction took in part of the racing track needed to service cars, the pit area. This area, according to Amos, is not zoned for commercial use but was used for racing purposes long before the township zoning laws went into effect.

"It is this area, about 9½ acres, that we need before racing can be resumed," Amos said.

"This portion of the track has nothing to do with the dragstrip and we are hoping to have the restriction lifted before the dragstrip issue gets to court."

He said that a decision may be made by Circuit Court Judge H. Russel Holland by Monday.

To Eye Budget in Southfield

Evidence of Excess Spending Is Alleged by Council President

SOUTHFIELD—The City Council will meet here in a special session Saturday to review the 1960-61 Southfield budget set up by former City Administrator Robert J. McNutt.

Council President C. Hugh Dohany said today there is evidence of overspending in some departments and that it may be necessary to transfer money to other city departments.

The special council meeting is slated for 9 a.m. Saturday at the Southfield City Hall.

Dohany said he thinks it only fair that the new administrator, Donald V. Smith, have a clear picture of how much money is left to operate the city for the rest of the fiscal year.

The budget set up by McNutt was for operation of the city from July, 1960, to June of this year.

McNutt resigned in December after a controversy with some members of the council. Smith took over as administrator last month.

Negligent Homicide Charge for Driver

PAW PAW (UPI)—An Oak Park truck driver who won an award for driving a million miles without an accident was charged with negligent homicide today in the traffic death of a rural Hartford woman.

Mrs. Irma Jamecsny, 48, was killed Tuesday while driving a motor scooter on Interstate 94 just west of Hartford.

She was struck by an auto carrier truck driven by Jack B. Mena, 40, of Oak Park.

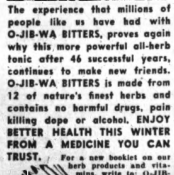

Van Buren county sheriff's officers said two auto carriers passed the woman and the third, driven by Mena, struck her.

County Prosecutor Meyer Wasawski said he authorized a charge of negligent homicide against Mena, the father of 10 children.

Returns to Manage Fun Park

WALLED LAKE — Following an absence of three years, Robert Templeton has returned to manage the Walled Lake Amusement Park.

Templeton, 44, manager of the favorite summer spot 15 years before leaving in 1957, replaces Andrew M. Brown.

Brown has moved to Ohio to manage the San Juan Amusement Park at Russell's Point.

Templeton has spent the last three years with Esquire magazine in the advertising and special promotion fields.

The veteran manager said he is embarking early on a program to revise the park's picnic facilities, both for public and industrial recreational groups, as well as to renovate amusement and concession areas.

Templeton lives in Farmington with his wife, Bernice, and their two daughters, Mary, 14, and Robin, 10.

Merchants to Meet on Reorganization

UNION LAKE—Area merchants will meet tomorrow evening to discuss the reorganization of the Union Lake Business Association and review the needs of the community.

The meeting will be held at Easton's Cleaners, 8185 Cooley Lake Road, at 9 p.m. All business and profesional people in the area have been invited to the meeting.

James McKibbon, chairman of the organization, said that an enlarged association might require the services of a salaried secretary.

The University Club of New York City is believed to be the oldest organization of its kind in the United States. It was founded in 1865.

Attempt to Woo German Tourists

Committee Tries to Lure 200,000 Vacationers to the United States

FRANKFURT (UPI)—Vacation travel to the United States has long been a bugaboo for Europeans who have to watch their pocketbooks a little closer taan Americans.

A group of businessmen and consular officials here has set out to destroy this bugaboo and give the American tourist trade a much-needed shot in the arm.

U.S. citizens are spending $1 billion annually more on tourism than foreigners visting the United States.

The group hopes that by stimulating tourist interest for travel to the United States, some of the money which American tourists have been spending abroad will find its way back home.

The group, which calls itself the German Committee for Travel to the U.S.A., is made up of representatives of international airlines, steamship companies, the local American Chamber of Commerce and local American consular officials.

AIM FOR TOURISTS

Its goal is to convince an estimated 200,000 potential German tourists that they can visit the United States as cheaply as they could visit Greece or Italy.

Due to the post-war boom in Germany, the German people are enjoying their greatest period of prosperity in history.

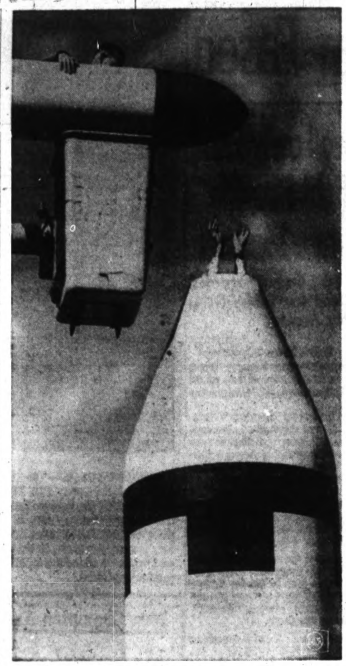

For thousands of Germans, the opportunity to spend vacations in the New World, which for years had been completely out of the question, has now become a reality.

More and more Germans are joining the ranks of international globetrotters and thousands of them flock to the plush Mediterranean resorts of Spain, Portugal, France, Italy, Yugoslavia and Greece every year.

Another thing which may tempt potential European tourists is a booklet entitled "See New York on $5 a day."

The booklet lists all the important points of interest, TV and radio shows, hotels with moderate rates, transportation fares and cost of food.

That may be visiting the U.S.A. on a shoestring, but it's breaking the ice—and that, says the committee, is what counts.

'Ghost Town' Wouldn't Die

Abilene, Tex., Watches Population Triple After Doom Forecast in 1945

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI)—Thirty-thousand residents of this West Texas city were shocked in 1945 to hear the prediction by a national magazine that Abilene would soon be a ghost town.

Doom prophets predicted that the expected closing of two military bases would wreck the city's economy.

Today Abilene is anything but a ghost town. Its population has tripled, a major facelifting of the downtown area has spurred business and the U.S. Air Force maintains a key striking force nearby.

Ranching — originally the base of the economy — now shares the title of Abilene's biggest business with agriculture, oil and industry.

TRANSPORTATION PLENTIFUL

The low, rolling plains around the city are lined with major highways.

Railroads and motor freight carriers give overnight service to large cities within 500 miles, and a new municipal airport is a regular east-west stop.

Three colleges and three general hospitals make the city an educational and medical center for West Texas.

It has to be to live up to the Chamber of Commerce slogan of "The Key City of West Texas."

Just this year the city completed a major renovation of its downtown area.

Streets were repaved, buildings remodeled, parking space set aside, wider sidewalks laid and a traffic bottleneck broken.

In all, 42 blocks in the main business district had their face lifted at a cost of more than $2 million.

The program dramatically revitalized downtown Abilene, and property values rose by 50 per cent.

Business and community spirit improved so that city fathers launched two current projects: a block-long air conditioned shopping center mall and a $3.4 million civic center.

Abilene has long since passed its namesake city in Kansas that stood at the end of the Chisholm Trail made famous by cattle drives neary a century ago.

Says Americans More Anti-Red

But Survey Finds U.S. Still Is Influenced by Propaganda Moves

NEW YORK (UI) — A writer who surveyed 500 American editors and political columnists reports that Americans are as firmly opposed to international Communism today as they were a decade ago, although they still are measurably influenced by Soviet propaganda.

The survey was made by Hawthorne Daniel, former war correspondent and author of 40 books, including "The Ordeal of the Captive Nations."

"Taken as a whole, the survey plainly suggests that in the minds of the (500) observers the attitude of the average American has tended for years to grow more critical of Communism," Daniel said.

"Little or no evidence suggests that those who were questioned see any easy way to overcome the dangers that accompany international Communism, but our defeat at the hands of the Communists is not envisioned by any of them."

One depressing thing he found, Daniel said, was that those questioned were convinced Americans in general tend to forget the tragic plight of the people of the captive nations behind the Iron Curtain.

"We even tend to forget the tragedy of Hungary despite the heroic but ill-fated revolt of 1956," he said.

On the question whether American Communists would have less or more influence 10 years from now, the editors by a ratio of more than 6-to-1 held that such influence was growing less.

Asked whether or not they detected any Communist influence in American publications, their replies were only 2-to-1 in the negative, Daniel said.

Poor Spellers Find English Words Hard

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — From a speller's viewpoint, there are more toughies in the English language than any other, according to W. McLean Johnson, president of the Webster Publishing Co.

Johnson, who describes his firm as the country's largest publisher of spelling textbooks is a strong believer in the need for putting one correct letter after another.

"Good spelling can make a person just as bad spelling can break him," he said. "What do you think goes through an employer's mind when he sees an application which contains misspellings?"

What makes poor spellers?"

"Poor spellers are often persons who are not big readers," Johnson said. "It's nearly impossible to read a lot and not be able to spell."

He conceded there are some exceptions.

"Sometimes it's a matter of carlessness," he said. "A person in a specialized field may write a paper containing spelling errors. Spelling might not be as important to him as what he is saying is."

Johnson noted there were spelling problems in college.

"I believe the reason for the increase in the number of poor spellers is simple because more students, from all educational groups, are attending college now, rather than 'the cream of the crop' as was the case many years ago," he said.

But Johnson said there is hope for those who never know when "e" goes before "i."

"Words have to be used to be learned," he said. "Words must be analyzed — proofread, so to speak — in order to be learned. Remedial courses now available in many school systems and colleges are helpful."

But any way you look at it, it requires concentration.

"There are five simple rules for learning to spell," Johnson said. "First, you must look at a word carefully, then pronounce it distinctly, noting the sounds and the presence of silent letters.

"It should be noted whether or not sounds are spelled as you might expect and if not, what the differences are. The fourth step consists of writing the word without help and finally to repeat that writing until it is entirely familiar."

Some poor spellers would like to throw out the entire language, start over and eliminate the stumbling blocks.

"We have no such plans," Johnson said with a grin.

Gaslight Craze Sweeps Nation

Twice as Many Lamps Being Used Today as in Era's Peak Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — The new Gaslight Era has caught on so well in the last four years that there are twice as many gas street lamps in the United States today as there were in 1914 — the peak year of the old Gaslight Era.

The southern New Jersey ocean resort of Cape May is the latest city to adopt gaslights to replace electric street lamps for its four-block business district.

Cape May town officials ordered 30 gas lamps for aesthetic reasons — to harmonize with their business district's Victorian architecture, which they intend to preserve.

The American Gas Association (AGA) helped the new Gaslight Era get started in 1957 at Albuquerque, N.M., also for aesthetic reasons — to preserve Albuquerque's charming Old Town as a tourist attraction.

The gas association didn't know then the idea would catch on so fast.

Gas street lamps put in use in the past years are more than twice the 300,000 that lighted the cities of he counry in 1914.

Many of he lamps put up recently are old veterans moved from other locations or old warehouses.

But the demand for street lights and for indoor gas lamps to go with period decorated rooms has mushroomed so that 21 manufacturers are turning them out and some are being imported from England.

They are being made in factories all the way from New England to Texas to South Dakota and Honolulu.

New York Man Has Big Time With His Clocks

WARSAW, N.Y. (UPI) — Ned Miller really means it when he says, "I love that tick-tock sound ..."

Miller, a retired knitting mill worker and a bachelor, likes clocks for companionship. He has 67 of his collection of antiques in operation, and every quarter hours the visitor is made aware by the sound of chimes and gongs.

At 6:30 nightly, Miller gets the time signal from the radio, checks his big pocket watch by it and then makes the rounds to wind his clocks. At 10:30 a.m. on Sundays he winds his 8-day clocks.

The alarm of an ordinary table clock gets Miller out of bed daily.

Men Are Getting Pretty Big Heads

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Cap and Cloth Hat Institute reports that the heads of American men are getting bigger.

Twenty years ago the average man's head size was 6⅞, according to the institute. Nowadays, most of the headwear purchased is 7⅛ and larger.

Medical authorities attribute the trend toward bigger heads to the general physical growth of Americans as they take advantage of

Australia Luring Fewer British

1959-60 Figures Show 3 Per Cent Decrease From 1958-59 Totals

CRANBERRA — Federal Statistician Stanley R. Carver said that despite a higher over-all intake of permanent and long-term arrivals, the British content in Australiia's migration gain for 1959-60, at 36.4 per cent, was lower than the 39.4 per cent for 1958-59.

Using figures to last June, Carver said arrivals for the year totaled 133,684, as opposed to the 125,000 intake target of the federal immigration scheme and last year's total of 116,697. Nearly 1.5 million migrants had arrived in Australiia since 1946.

With 45,328 permanent departures, the net excess for 1959-60 was 88,356, compared with 76,443 for the previous year.

On available figures, British nationality excess of arrivals over departures was assessed as having risen from 30,100 in 1958-59 to 32,136 in 1959-60, Mr. Carver said.

Although this showed a small drop in British content, it was at least well above the ratios of the mid-fifties, which declined below 30 per cent.

Figures for the first months of 1960-61 indicated a big upswing in arrival of migrants of British nationality.

The arrivals-over-departures excess among foreign migrants went from 46,343 to 56,220, or from 60.6 per cent to 63.6 per cent.

Italians increased from 10,946, or 14.3 per cent, to 14,291 or 16 per cent, and 6,080 Greek migrants accounted for 36 per cent of the foreign-born arrivals — a two per cent increase on 1958-59.

Dutch, West German and stateless persons accounted for the bulk of the remainder of non-British permanent arrivals.

Safety Requested for Swimming Pools

HARVARD, Ill. (UPI)—Swimming pools, a pleasure to some folks, often are a menace to children and wildlife.

The National Swimming Pool Institute headquartered here says the backyard plunge needs fencing in and covering to provide a safety factor that is required by law in some areas.

The fences of hedges or walls and wire reduce wind velocity so that the pool area is warmer.

Covers make it impossible for a wandering child to fall into a pool. It also prevents small wild animals from becoming trapped.
