Khrushchev Looks at the Birdie

Nikita Junks Security, Irritably Shifts Plans

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev said today Russia is scrapping 90 per cent of its cruisers and is concentrating on submarines, torpedo boats and mine sweepers.

From Our News Wires

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev flung off today still more of the security restraints and fixed scheduleds of his American tour.

A man who obviously doesn't like to be told what he can and can't do, the Soviet premier swept into the discard plans for him to start a tour of the San Francisco area with a visit to a supermarket.

Instead, he decided to go to the Longshoremen's Union hall.

This junked a night of planning lot of policemen idly staked out on a route that Khrushchev didn't use.

It also had the security people jittery. After Khrushchev had seen the Union hall and boarded a boat for a tour of San Francisco Harbor, a security spokesman was asked by reporters whether the premier might visit the supermarket later.

DON'T KNOW IF OR WHAT

"I don't know what he is going to do," was the reply. "He might turn this boat around and head back for shore."

Khrushchev took an early morning walk today, and pronounced San Francisco the most beautiful city he has seen yet on his tour.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman suggested today that Russian Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev follow Truman's example and "learn to hold his temper" when he is asked a needling question.

The former President said he saw no reason why American newsmen or others should stop asking Khrushchev sharp questions.

But he said he wished it had more trees.

The Russian premier emerged from the Mark Hopkins Hotel at 7:30 a.m. and walked two blocks.

He paused to study operations of a big garbage truck, and waved at pretty girls riding cable cars on Nob Hill.

Khrushchev has been showing increasing irritation with security precautions ever since he reached the West Coast. He was little short of furious when overruled in Los Angeles on a desire to visit the Disneyland amusement park.

Travelers Are All Aglow After Press Theater Trip

The Pontiac Press Theater Trip Travelers returned Saturday with the glitter of the big city still in their eyes.

The happy group emerged from a Greyhound bus in front of the Pontiac Press Building at about 2 p.m. armed with memories to keep them talking to their friends and families for many months.

"The whole thing was very exciting," she said. "I was standing on the corner of 34th street and Broadway.

The Khrushchev arrival was one "show" the Press hadn't counted on. It turned out to be a big extra for this year's touring group.

Others got a close-up of the beat generation. "We learned how to snap our fingers," said Mrs. Bernard Girard, 3712 N. Darlington Rd., Birmingham, with a smile as her husband, a prominent Pontiac attorney, stood at her side.

"One night we took a cab down to Greenwich Village and got lost," she explained. "We went to several beatnik hangouts where you snap your fingers instead of applauding the entertaiment."

"It was just a fabulous trip," said her husband. "I still don't know how the Press can offer so much for so little cost."

Mrs. Harry Stillman, 215 Berwin St., Birmingham, thought the trip around Manhattan Island was outstanding.

"The weather was ideal. I also enjoyed the tour of Rockefeller Center," she said.

Mrs. Verne Hampton, 3631 Brookside Dr., Bloomfield Hills, agreed. "The shows and planned events were wonderful, and we weren't hounded every minute. We had plenty of free time."

"I think I like Cornelia Otis Skinner's 'The Pleasure of Your Company' best of the shows we saw," she added.

"All of the shows were good," asserted Mrs. William C. Hazer, of Birmingham. "My favorite was 'Destry Rides Again.' "

"One place I'll never forget was the Four Seasons Restaurant. It was wonderful," beamed Mrs. Grace Kohn, 431 Mill St., Ortonville.

"And the Hayden Planitarium was very interesting," she added.

"I thought the most outstanding daytime event was a tour of the United Nations Building," asserted Alice Jackson, 34 Miami Rd.

Almost everyone was buzzing about one event or another during the five days and nights in the city of bright lights.

"The handling of our luggage and transportation was excellent," said one. "It was very nice the way that all the theaters were located close to our hotel," asserted another.

Most of them disagreed over what part of the trip was best, but everyone agreed on one thing—they had a wonderful time.

New University Will Lay Stress on Liberal Arts

Two Buildings to House Functions of the School During Its First Year

By MAX E. SIMON

A golden age of learning begins in Oakland County today as Michigan State University Oakland—America's newest university — opens its doors to a freshman class of more than 500 students.

Dedicated to helping students search for truth, the new university will place heavy stress on liberal arts.

Two buildings will house the university's functions during the first year. One of these, Foundation Hall, consists of two sections — a three-story classroom wing and a one-story administration structure.

The creation of MSUO was made possible when Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson three years ago donated their estate, Meadow Brook Farms, and $2 million for construction of the classroom-administration building.

Head of the new institution is Chancellor Durward B. Varner, who has worked closely with 50 community leaders of the MSUO Foundation in developing the outlines of the new institution.

The nation's leading citizens and educators were consulted in shaping the new institution's curriculum.

They all agreed MSUO must acquaint students with the world community, especially with non-Western cultures, and produce men of broad understanding and high principles.

Four programs will be offered — liberal arts, teacher education, engineering science and business administration.

Twenty-three of MSUO's 25 faculty members have their Ph.D. degrees. Only one in three has a doctorate in the average university. Average age of instructors is 33 — youngest of any college faculty.

Romney Emphatically Denies Political Aims

Opening an organization meeting of his "Citizens For Michigan," the American Motors Corp. president said:

"I am neither a Republican nor a Democrat. If I were nominated by either party, or by any other group, I would not accept the nomination. If I were drafted, I would not run."

Supervisors OK County Budget

73 to 2 Vote Approves $12,626,784 Figure as Tempers Flare

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors today put its 73 to 2 stamp of approval on the 1960 county operating budget of $12,626,784.

★ ★ ★

Angry words were exchanged preceding the roll call vote when Frid accused Fred W. Smith, chairman of the board's Ways and Means Committee, of being "all mixed up" when he supposedly was quoted as saying the county was headed for some financial trouble.

While Smith, a veteran of 28 years on the board, stood silently fuming, Springfield Township Supervisor John L. Carey sprang to his defense and said Frid's remark was "entirely out of order." Frid said he'd retract it.

Besides Frid saying — but without giving figures to substantiate his claim — that the 1960 budget was "out of line," questions on it came from but three other supervisors.

Although Smith, whose committee had a major hand in drafting the record-high budget, said he didn't expect any opposition to it, some appeared in the offing after several new supervisors questioned expenditures during budget hearings.

EYE NEXT YEAR

Too, more attention had been focused on next year's budget because a forced economy move necessitated Smith's committee chopping $1,279,800 out of the al-

Assures County GOP of Victory in 1960

"Government and politics are the same thing—and you can't avoid being 'mixed up in' politics," Mrs. Frank E. Williams told Oakland County Republicans Sunday afternoon.

Assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee, Mrs. Williams spoke at a reception marking the inauguration of the Oakland County Republican Women's Clubs and the beginning of a drive for funds in the county.

"The White House will be Republican in 1960," she said. "From Hawaii to Maine, from Alaska to Florida, the Republican Party is having a resurgence of strength."

Mrs. Williams pointed out that a Republican victory in the 18th congressional district here is important not only to the state but to the entire country.

She warned that the district was regarded as "marginal" and said the campaign strategy must be laid now for victory in 1960. This seat must be held, she stressed, after paying tribute to Rep. Wm. S. Broomfield.

She remarked that "your Democratic governor is marginal, too" and said she believed that Michigan Republicans were on the comeback trail.

Mrs. Williams referred to Michigan as "an island of insolvency" and stressed the importance of a return to Republican leadership.

"We must march together, remembering that the Republican Party has a record we can take to the people with pride," she told the audience of approximately 300 at the Birmingham Community House.

★ ★ ★

"A GOP victory in Michigan is important to the entire nation and if Republicans want to win in 1960 they must work."

"If you care enough you can do it," she said.

This is Mrs. Williams' first official visit to Michigan. As assistant chairman, she is the director of Women's activities for the national committee.

Accidents Kill 27 in Michigan Over Weekend

Roads Take 19 Lives; 3 Drown; 1 Hangs Self; 4 Die in Fires

By The Associated Press

Twenty-seven persons died in Michigan accidents over summer's last weekend.

Traffic claimed 19 lives, three persons drowned, four died in fires and an 8-year-old boy accidentally hanged himself.

Balmy weather lured thousands to the highways and to resorts for a last fling of the season.

The traffic toll equaled the death count of the weekend of Aug. 15, when 19 also died in the previous worst weekend of summer.

A father of six was among those drowned, and three children were among the fire victims.

James Dutton Jr., 7, his brother, Steven, 5, and their sister, Denise, 3, all died Saturday in a flash fire that swept the basement of their Detroit home.

Mrs. Vera Pisarcik, 55, was burned fatally Saturday in a fire at her Detroit home.

Robert Butterfield, 8, accidentally hanged himself Saturday while playing with a rope in a tree in the yard of his rural Davison home.

Harold C. Holmes, 27, of Perry, died Sunday of injuries suffered Saturday when his car crashed into a tree on a Shiawassee County road.

Nick Chutorash, 75, of Madison Heights, was killed Sunday when his car collided with a bulldozer on a road in Warren.

Joseph Egneiczi, 37, and Freeman Busby, 44, both of Flint, lost their lives Sunday when their car overturned on U.S. 23.

Mrs. Mary Stam, 70, of Holland, was killed when a car driven by her son, Fred, hit a tree.

Mrs. Clara E. Shaffer, 41, of Riverview, and her mother, Mrs. Beulah B. Heitt, 60, of Westfield, Ill., were killed Saturday night in a two-car collision in riverview.

Mrs. Dorothy Herfurth, 58, of Davison, was injured fatally Saturday in a two-car head-on collision on U.S. 10.

Lawrence Hickman, 58, of Baroda, was killed Saturday in a three-car collision just south of St. Joseph.

Take Out Your Sunsuit, Sister, the Heat's On

Summer is bowing out with a flourish of warm temperatures and clear skies. The mercury will reach unseasonable highs for the next few days and there's no rain in sight.

The temperature is expected to soar to 88 degrees this afternoon. The prediction for today and tonight is partly cloudy and windy, the U.S. Weather Bureau reports. The low tonight will be 68.

Tomorrow the reading will again be around 88 and skies will be partly cloudy. The low tomorrow night will be around 68.

Wednesday, the offical end of summer, will be generally fair and unseasonably warm, says the bureau.

Five-day forecast predicts temperatures averaging eight degrees above the normal high of 71 and normal low of 52. It will turn cooler Thursday or Friday when there will also be occasional thundershowers.

At 10:15 a.m. the winds were southwesterly at 12 miles per hour. The lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 64. At 2 p.m. the reading was 85.

Their Gifts Made University Possible

Dream of 2 Women Comes True at MSUO

The mutual interests and parallel paths of two local women today resulted in an educational milestone for Oakland County.

Classes began for the first time this morning at Michigan State University Oakland, the fruition of a dream shared by Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson and Dr. Sarah Van Hoosen Jones.

It was the grants from both these benefactors, a $10,000,000 gift from Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and 300-acre farm site of Dr. Jones, that "got the university off the ground."

Both women became aware of the need of such an institution while serving as members of the State Board of Agriculture, the governing body of Michigan State University.

The Wilson grant consists of a 1,400-acre estate, including the 267-room Meadow Brook Hall and a $2,000,000 cash endowment to see the project started.

Dr. Jones' contribution of the 300-acre farm estate, in the possession of her family for more than a century, is situated less than five miles east of the Wilson estate.

Mrs. Wilson and Dr. Jones won widespread recognition in agriculture and other fields in a day when women's entry into farming and business circles was decidely new.

Grain fields and meadows, orchards, sheep and hogs, poultry, herds of pure-bred Guernsey and Hereford cattle were cultivated and raised at Meadow Brook. Mrs. Wilson continues to enter her hackney ponies and her fine Belgian horses in shows.

Meadow Brook has produced substantial quantites of grain, fruit and dairy products, in addition to livestock.

Mrs. Wilson's business ability and her knowledge of farming early won her statewide acclaim.

Aside from serving on the State Board of Agriculture and the Michigan State University board, Mrs. Wilson acted as lieutenant governor for a time in 1940.

It was through these connections, she says, that she became interested in a project like MSUO.

"I was asked to contribute for an old people's home an observatory and many other things," says Mrs. Wilson. "But 20 years ago I was a member of the State Board of Agriculture. Through this I had contacts with Michigan State University and its future plans."

Dr. Jones' donation of more than half the acreage of her Stoney Creek farm is "in keeping with my lifelong interest in education."

Dr. Jones received a bachelor of philosophy degree from the University of Chicago, a master's degree in animal husbandry and a doctorate in genetics from the University of Wisconsin.

Unions Consider Slowdowns

Would Greet Taft-Hartley Use by Ike in Steel Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Labor leaders indicated today that production slowdowns may be staged in several major industries if the government invokes the Taft-Hartley Act and striking steelworkers are ordered back to work.

★ ★ ★

It was learned authoritatively by United Press International that a possible general slowdown across the nation was being planned mainly by officials of the United Auto Workers.

However, labor officials declined to issue a formal statement because of the possibility of opening the way to legal action against the unions involved.

One high-ranking AFL-CIO leader, attending the union's convention here, said possible slowdowns were being considered in the aircraft and electrical industries, as well as in steel and autos. He said any industry which used large quantities of steel might be involved, if an injunction is issued and steel production resumes.

In Pittsburgh, a group of striking steelworkers has asked every member of organized labor to go on a one-day sympathy strike.

Local 2227 of the United Steelworkers of America sent telegrams today to the AFL-CIO meeting in San Francisco asking union heads to call off work for one day as a vote of confidence for the half million striking steelworkers who have been out since July 15.

President Eisenhower can invoke the Taft Hartley Act whenever he considers that the steel strike is creating a national emergency. Under an injunction, the steelworkers would be ordered back to their jobs but would be free to go on strike again if no settlement had been reached after 80 days.

The only public statement concerning a possible slowdown was a hint last week by Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the UAW. Mazey said that workers might not have "any enthusiasm" if an injunction was issued.

In the past, auto workers have been able to cut production by as much as 40 per cent by upsetting the timing of the production line. It was believed that production in other industries also could be drastically slashed.

Thomas F. Patton, president of Republic Steel Corp., one of the 12 major strikebound companies, planned to begin a series of radio talks tomorrow over Ohio, Alabama and New York State stations to present management's arguments. The strike will then be in its 70th day.

Irritable Nikita Shifts Tour Plans

erty reminded newsmen that "the President's basic purpose and desire is to have Chairman Khrushchev see our country prior to the discussion of mutual interest that he will have with him at Camp David this week end."

★ ★ ★

The outspoken Khrushchev, who seems to plunge into an argument at every formal dinner, changed his pace again today.

★ ★ ★

Nowhere — at least until tonight — is he likely to run into a dispute similar to the one he had Sunday night with seven American labor leaders.

At this dinner, so the union leaders reported, Khrushchev vigerously defended his system and his policy, including the putting down of the revolt in Hungary.

Those who started the Hungarian revolution, Khrushchev said, were "hooligans and saboteurs."

VIGOROUS DEFENSE

The labor leaders said they defended the capitalistic system just as vigorously.

"Our positions are irreconcilable," Khrushchev was quoted.

The Soviet Premier, according to the union chiefs, blew up on at least a half-dozen occasions.

Walter Reuther, Auto Workers Union president and spokesman for the labor group, said Khrushchev accused him of being a dictator and "a capitalistic stooge."

"I certainly think Mr. Khrushchev feels we gave him a very bad time — he made that quite clear," Reuther told a jammed news conference after the three-hour, 20-minute private dinner.

A crisis of communication between Khrushchev and the American people seems to be developing in the Soviet Premier's American journey.

ANGERED BY MAYOR

The visit reached a low point Saturday night at the Los Angeles dinner for the Premier when he was angered by Mayor Norris Poulson's reference to Khrushchev's controversial dictum, "We shall bury you."

The Premier hinted at the possibility of discontinuing his visit. It takes less time to fly back to Moscow, he said, than to get here. Yesterday, his spirits higher, he joked away the idea.

Poulson labeled as "distortion" Khrushchev's charge that the Los Angeles mayor was "getting his revenge" by having a Russian-born Jew escort him during his Los Angeles tour.

Poulson said he was ready to stand back of his statement Saturday night which caused Khrushchev to threaten to cut short his United States visit.

Poulson's remark that angered Khrushchev was:

"We do not agree with your widely quoted phrase 'We will bury you.' You shall not bury us and we shall not bury you. We are happy with our way of life. We recognize its shortcomings and we are always trying to improve it. But if challenged, we shall fight to the death to preserve it."

U. S. officials accompanying Khrushchev have indicated they would like to see no more public needling of the Soviet leader on cold war issues.

"If he runs into any more mayors like that one (Mayor Poulson) he really is likely to pack up his bags and fly home," one official commented.

Good University Expects More From Students

By LOREN B. POPE
Assistant to Chancellor
MSUO

In higher education, as in almost any other kind of human endeavor, a superior job is done by about 10 per cent of the group. Even fewer do a really outstanding job. It is from this small group that come the ideas and the mountain-moving thrust of conviction that shape events.

★ ★ ★

This select few, a number that might (but probably doesn't) go as high as two per cent of the nearly 1,900 U.S. colleges and universities is composed of institutions that demand the utmost of themselves and of their students to try to develop mind and character.

And few of them are in the East.

Most of these are doing a familiar job in often familiar ways, but with exalted standards of excellence. Some are doing new and different things. But common to all is a climate the student reacts to and the visitor feels.

But the great tragedy of U.S. higher education, as it is of any other segment of society, from clerical to commercial, is that it fails to do its job anywhere near as well as it knows it should.

This sin is compounded because today's college student has changed in the last 20 years. He is a new and different species of more mature abilities and serious purpose, but he is generally hobbled by obsolete college programs.

This is not just my observation while Education Editor of the New York Times, but also that of a distinguished study commission of the American Council on Education. The ACE membership consists of the officials of some 1,200 college and universities, and its study commission was composed of thirteen college presidents and deans, two students and two ACE officials.

In one of two major inquiries sponsored by the ACE in the last two years, this commission found that colleges generally were almost criminally underestimating the college student.

The commission found that "Joe College" is no more. His place has been taken by a much abler, and more individualistic seeker after independence rather than conformity.

This student is seriously intent on exploring religious ideas. He is interested in concerts and in enlarging himself as a man. He is much less interested than his predecessor in fraternities, campus traditions or inter-collegiate athletics.

But horse-and-buggy practices, such as grades-and-credits requirements for graduation, and the four-year span of study, plus flabby courses are hobbling this abler student's potentialities, the commission concluded.

The other major ACE study found that colleges "make a great many pretenses, but match them with little accomplishment" in the matter of developing the intellectual and moral potential of America's youth.

This study, intended to discover whether colleges could influence development of character, found this was not only true but abundantly evident, in a very, very few colleges.

The study was undertaken in recognition of the fact that if a democratic society is to survive and prosper in a world that is no longer ruled by the white men's caprice, its educational institutions must produce men of high principle as well as of skill.

Both of these aims can be achieved in the same institution, the researchers found, and you do one by doing the other. The secret is a high level of expectancy.

The student from whom much is expected produces much. But the catch here is that the faculty must demand much of themselves before they can demand it of the student, and there is nothing so obvious to a student as a phony.

If you would have supporting evidence of the validity of these studies, you could talk to students in St. John's College in Annapolis, Md. One-third of the student body there is made up of youths who have transferred as sophomores of juniors, from other colleges, even though at St. John's every student has to start as a freshman and take the Great Books program required of all.

They have transferred from all kinds of other colleges because, as many of them told me, they "were sick of the pap" or disgusted with memory work. At St. John's they were made to think.

In that respect, MSUO will be like St. John's. Students will be made to think, to stretch their minds and to toil.

In such institutions as MSUO lies the hope of the university as an antidote to the materialistic mind of suburbia, now spreading over the land, the comfortable Maginot Line mentality that is a far more insidious—and mortal—threat to the American way than communism could ever flatter itself to be.

Lapeer Boy Hangs Himself Accidentally

An eight-year-old Lapeer County boy accidently hanged himself in a tree Saturday, the Lapeer County Sheriff's Department reported today.

Dead is Robert Butterfield, son of Mrs. Maxine Sebert of 2109 Washburn Rd., where the accident occurred, and Curtis Butterfield of Burnside road.

Sheriff's deputies said the youngster was playing with a rope in a tree and slipped, entangling the rope around his neck. He was discovered by a passing motorist who saw him hanging in the tree.

Lapeer County Coroner Dr. C. W. Heitsch said cause of death was accidental strangulation. The boy's body is at the Reynolds Funeral Home, Columbiaville.

Pontiac City's Report Gets Honorable Mention

Pontiac's 1958 annual report to its citizenry—published in March for the first time as a supplement to The Pontiac Press—won honorable mention in the yearly contest sponsored by the Michigan Municipal League for cities with 40,000 or more population.

The 16-page supplement, which went out March 28 to some 60,000 homes, as compared to some 20,000 reached from the old pamphlet type report, was dedicated to General Motors Truck & Coach Division. The division designed the blue and black cover of the supplement.

10 Are Injured in Waterford

Two Cars in Collision at Stop Light; Another Hits Tree After Skid

Ten people were injured in two accidents in Waterford Township over the weekend, according to township police.

Eight were treated and released from Pontiac General Hospital at midnight Saturday after a two-car accident occurred at Highland and Elizabeth Lake Roads.

Mrs. George Biebel, of 5458 Sarvis St., Waterford, told police she was waiting for a signal light to change to make a left turn from Highland road when her car was struck from behind by a car driven by David E. Mills, 17, of 3788 Sunset Blvd., Orchard Lake.

Mills told police he took his eyes off the road momentarily and did not see the Biebel car in time to avoid the collision.

Taken to Pontiac General were Lila Lilmata, 18, of 6080 Dixie Hwy.; Mrs. Biebel's 11-year-old daughter, Judith; Sandra Allen, 17, of 2577 Vender St.; Patricia Hadden, 18, of 6013 Southward St.; Diane Caldwell, 17, of 6730 Saline Dr., all of Waterford, and Katherine St. Dennis, 17, of 500 Lakeside Dr., Pontiac.

They were passengers in Mrs. Biebel's car.

Both Mills and his companion, Nancy Lee Cunningham, 17, of 4427 Windiate Dr., Waterford, also were treated and released.

Donald Koenig, 37, and his son, Donald, 16, 2162 Crescent Lake Rd., Waterford Township, were hospitalized when the elder Koenig lost control of his car on a curve and hit a tree on Crescent Lake Rd. near Elizabeth Lake road at 10 p.m. last night.

GOP Leader Sees Victory Ahead in '60

er. She was appointed assistant chairman in 1958 by the then GOP Chairman Meade Alcorn and reappointed by present chairman Thruston Morton when he took command of the party in April 1959.

She is also Republican National Committeewoman for Florida and a member of the executive committee of the national committee.

The newly-formed council will start the largest countywide organizational drive in the history of women's activities in Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

First new clubs in the area will be sparked by Mrs. Dan O'Madigan and Mrs. Paul Shine in Birmingham and Mrs. Charles Campbell and Mrs. Allen Simmons in the Farmington area.

GUEST LIST

Guests of honor included C.E. Wilson, former secretary of defense and onetime president of General Motors Corp. Paul Bagwell, GOP candidate for governor in the last election, and his wife, and Judge Theodore Hughes.

Also present were Mrs. L. R. Sampson of Pontiac, chairman of the reception which was sponsored by the Republican Committee of Oakland County and vice chairman of the county committee; Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Ray Hooker, national committeewoman from Michigan, and Sen. L. Harvey Lodge.

Others were Don E. Ahrens, state chairman of the GOP finance committee; Merritt D. Hill county finance chairman; Arthur E. Elliott Jr., chairman of the Oakland County Republican Committee, and Mrs. Ella Koeze, vice chairman of the state GOP central committee.

Also participating were Mrs. Howard Leverance, women's finance chairman of the county committee; William Hayward; representative from the 5th district, and Daniel Murphy Jr., county clerk-register of deeds.

Pouring at the tea were Dr. Sarah Van Hoosen Jones, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. George Hartrick of Royal Oak and Mrs. V. E. Nelson of Waterford.

Gas Price Expected to Fall by 1.9 Cents

The price of gasoline is expected to drop today.

Texaco, followed by Speedway Petroleum and Standard Oil, announced the two-cent slash Saturday.

Cash B. Hawley, general manager of the Retail Gasoline Dealers Assn., said today there was "no question but that the other major firms would fall in line."

Hawley said the price cuts were being dictated by competition from small, independent dealers.

The three firms said Saturday they would pass along to consumers a 1.9 cent-a-gallon drop in gasoline tank wagon prices.

The new prices for gas after the cuts would be 30.2 cents for regular and 34.2 cents for premium.

The Day in Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM — Top honors in the ninth annual Old Car Festival held at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, over the weekend went to Richard Teague of 4740 W. Maple St.

He was named grand champion of the event for the excellent running condition of his vintage 1904 Packard. Ancient cars from throughout the country arrived at the festival, being driven under their own power.

Second place winner of the show was Harry Day of 19335 Riverside St., Southfield. He arrived in a 1907 Packard touring car.

Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley and City Traffic Engineer T. W. Vanderstempal will submit reports on traffic conditions at the intersection of Brown and Pierce streets at tonight's city commission meeting.

The reports were made since the installation of four-way stop signs at the intersection recently.

Moxley and Vanderstempal are recommending no additional traffic controls at this intersection for the present.

Also on the agenda is discussion of resurfacing Lakeside road from Midland to Quarton roads and the proposed addition to Baldwin Library.

Requests for rezoning sent to the City Planning Board last week for its consideration will be returned to the commission with recommendations at tonight's meeting.

"Real Estate Appraisal I," a required course in the University of Michigan's statewide program leading to a certificate in real estate, will begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Birmingham, according to Charles H. Sill, supervisor of the program.

The weekly class sessions will be held at Seaholm High School. The course is being given with the cooperation of the Birmingham Real Estate Board.

This is the first class in the U. of M. program offered in Birmingham for some years, Sill said.

Instructor will be G. Gordon Walker, M.AI., S.R.A., realtor with Max Broock, Inc. of Birmingham.

"Real Estate Appraisal I" covers the fundamentals of appraising. Included will be instruction on how to properly set up an appraisal on various types of property, such as a vacant lot, a new home, or a house 25 to 30 years old.

Some of the topics to be emphasized are the plotting and utilizing of legal descriptions, analyzing the location, and writing up the physical condition of the property.

Registration may be made at the time of the opening session. All interested persons are eligible to enroll.

John A. Ramsey

Service for John A. Ramsey, 83, of Pontiac, formerly of Birmingham, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home. Interment will be at White Chapel Cemetery.

Mr. Ramsey died Saturday at Bloomfield Hospital after a short illness. Surviving are three cousins.

Weekend Accidents Kill 27 in Michigan

troit, was killed by a car in Detroit Saturday.

Mrs. Emma Wanrooy, 70, of Holland, was killed by a car Saturday as she was crossing a street.

Major Pierce, 37, of Detroit, was killed Saturday in a two-car collision.

Thomas W. Eames, 22, of Lansing, was killed Saturday when his car ran off a curve on M99.

Elmor Ree Simmons, 36, of Saginaw, was killed Friday in a collision involving four cars on M13.

Wayne Carter Petersen, 47, of Ionia, was injured fatally in a two-car collision at an intersection near Stanton.

Robert Neal Cummings, 31, of Newberry, was injured fatally Saturday when his parked car was struck by another car on M117.

Harry Springfield, 69, of Lansing, was killed Friday night when his car overturned into a ditch on M30.

Mrs. Daisy Hylick, 64, of Grand Rapids, suffered fatal injuries as a passenger in a car which rolled out of control Friday night down a 25-foot embankment off M50.

John N. Dyer, 63, of Three Rivers, drowned Saturday when he fell from a rowboat in river lake.

Supervisors OK Budget

location budget supervisors approved in April.

This was necessary as the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board granted but $5.62—the same as last year's county tax rate—while the county needed $6.47 to meet the preliminary budget.

Frid today said he opposed the budget believing the county should "spend only what we take in." Smith said this was the purpose of five hearings his committee held, mainly to make expenditures balance with anticipated revenues.

Hursfall, although he didn't take the floor to state his position, later said he voted against the budget because it provided for pay raises for 1,198 county employes, while some of his township employes hadn't had raises for five years.

Asked why he didn't explain to the board, Hursfall said: "This vote was cut and dry before we even came in. What's the use of fighting?"

He said he had reference to past history of the board which shows that the supervisors usually vote along with the majority veteran members.

Smith's committee, considered one of the most influential of the board's 28 committees, avoided more opposition to the budget when it restored, with reservation, a $32,500 appropriation for the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic, which treats emotionally-disturbed children.

Smith's committee of seven came in for some sharp criticism when it at first left out the clinic, claiming it was part of an overall economy drive, and besides, the clinic was receiving funds from other sources, Smith said.

Some supervisors privately said they would have voted against the 1960 budget — $341,061 more than the 1959 budget — had the clinic been cut off entirely from county funds.

★ ★ ★

Troy Supervisor Robert J. Huber, who was the only frequent visitor to budget trimming hearings last month, was milder than some expected when he questioned why the Salaries Committee couldn't have its recommendations completed before Smith's committee delved into its hearings.

After calling for a revamped approach to budget preparations, Huber was assured that his suggestion would be tried next year.

"The way we're going at it now is the wrong approach," Huber said. He said Smith's committee was non-committal to groups and county officials that appeared before it because the committee had no firm commitment on how much salaries would take of the 1960 budget.

Salaries and "salaries reserve" next year for hourly county employes will make up $3,432,751 of the budget. Included in this amount is $223,203 for employes raises — something they haven't had since January 1958.

Along with this salaries schedule approval came the adding of seven new deputies to the Sheriff Department as part of switching the department from the current 48-hour schedule to 40 hours. Addition of the seven adds up to $35,000 extra in the budget.

Besides these seven new deputies, the new budget calls for hiring three other new employes. County department heads were turned down in their original request for 69 new workers as part of the fiscal belt tightening.

Development of Questioners Integral Part of Education

BY ROBERT G. HOOPES
Dean of Faculty
Michigan State University Oakland

From one point of view, at least, the goals of undergraduate education are multiple. In the course of their college experience, if not earlier, students develop their own intellectual and professional allegiances and ambitions.

They set their own goals, and they should be allowed to pursue them by means of what we call the "major" or "field concentration." This much is hardly susceptible to dispute.

From another point of view, however, there is but a single goal. It is neither, strictly speaking, an intellectual nor a vocational-professional goal. It has to do with the kind of human being we are seeking to develop in the course of a four-year liberal education, and it demands our primary consideration, for the simple and unarguable reason that our students, as thinking, feeling, acting persons, are more important than the jobs we might in part prepare them for.

Or, to shift the terms, the society of men which they will enter upon graduation should exercise a strong and more meaningful influence upon our educational planning than the economy which happens to exist within that society, and in which our students will have to compete. It is a free society, and as such demands men and women who think, decide, and choose for themselves.

From the kind of educational experience which will equip them for intelligent and critical living in a free society, no students should be exempt—neither the girl whose only conscious purpose in college is to find a husband, nor the boy who wants nothing more of life than the opportunity to construct better bridges and reservoirs.

ROBERT HOOPES

Undergraduate education, then, may be defined as the process of turning adolescents into adults—or, to quote Whitehead, converting "the knowledge of a boy into the power of a man." If this is so, students must be reared in an undergraduate climate of intellectual friction and uncertainty.

★ ★ ★

They must confront ideas, remembering that the very nature of an idea is such that it compels either assent or dissent, and realizing that their first responsibility in becoming educated consists in the examination of their own minds and beliefs as they study.

As teachers, we fulfill our function only if we make it our responsibility to make them aware of their responsibility. The thousand and one separate "reasons" which bring individual students to college are of negligible importance beside this responsibility we bear, namely to get them to examine their "reasons"—not only for coming to college, but for studying what they study and believing what they believe.

When we seek to "orient"—to borrow a bit of professional gobbledeygook— students to a body of facts without inviting, urging, cajoling, if necessary, forcing them to doubt, question, discuss, argue, evaluate, and decide, it is as though we set a stake beside a dahlia and without help of twine or contact expected the drooping plant to be supported by it.

The student who concludes his college work, as many now do, indifferent to all principles, essentially uncritical and unphilosophical, has failed, no matter how much he may—as we say—have "learned."

What I am saying, in short, is what Heywood Broun said infinitely better: "Education is nothing if it gives a man anything less than the opportunity to choose for himself the things which he will believe."

Finally, the aim of liberal education is not to deliver a product at the end of four years, nor to fill students with a certain amount of information which we decide upon in advance and then determine how it may best be piped in.

The goal is to send away students who will go on inquiring and learning for the rest of their lives, who realize—as we must realize—that the first and last thing any of us can say about the "goal" is that it is a goal which must always be striven for.

7 Sewage Fund Requests Are Made by Local Areas

Among the applications for federal grants to aid in local sewage treatment construction projects made to the State Water Resources Commission are seven to benefit Oakland County area communities.

Harold K. Schone, director of the Oakland County Department of Public Works, has petitioned for two $250,000 grants to help defray costs of the $12 million Evergreen and Farmington sanitary sewers, now about 45 per cent completed, he said.

Schone said the money, if approved, would help reduce the financial obligations to the county from the numerous municipalities to be served by the sewers. He said the amount would be pro-rated.

The request for the Evergreen is a second attempt. The first was disallowed because the department had not met a construction deadline due to legal delays, Schone said.

The quarter-million dollar Farmington request is the first, he said. Both are the maximum grants.

Oakland's requests were among many received from 31 state communities, the Commission reported.

The estimated cost of the projects is $37,578,787, and $4,554,468 in federal grants has been requested. Only $1,403,175 in federal funds is available, however.

The city of Pontiac has asked a $250,000 grant for its $3,049,000 sewage disposal plant.

A like amount has been requested for the Dequindre interceptor sewer being constructd by the county Drain Commission and to serve the southeastern portion of the county.

Rochester is asking for $87,600 for construction of a $292,000 secondary sewage treatment plant. The city's request for the same amount last year was turned down.

Utica's request is for $94,050 which is needed for construction of a new $313,500 sewage disposal plant. The one in use was built in 1937 and takes out only 20 per cent of the impurities, while the State Health Department requires that 90 per cent be removed, the city clerk said.

Probe for Disease That Struck Convicts

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — State bacteriologists sought to discover today what disease struck about 300 prisoners at Eastham State Prison Farm.

Nearly 200 of the farm's 1,300 prisoners remained in the prison hospital Sunday. They became ill Saturday. Most ran a fever and became violently nauseated.

Jack Heard, assistant manager of the Texs prison system, said Technicians took food samples and made throat swabs.

Claims Reusing Grease May Cause Cancer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — An American Cancer Society official says "it is a very reasonable hypothesis that the constant use of the same cooking grease could cause cancer of the stomach."

Dr. E. Guyler Hammond of New York said Sunday the repeated heating of the same cooking fat produces cancer producing agents.

QUEBEC'S PREMIER — Paul Sauve, 52, has been sworn in as premier of Quebec, Canada. He succeeds the late Premier Maurice Duplessis, and holds in addition his previous position, that of minister of youth and social welfare. He is a member of the governing National Union party.

Spitfire Makes Its Final Bow, Crashes in Field

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's last Spitfire fighter plane entered the pages of history yesterday with a final flypast in tribute to the heroes of the Battle of Britain.

Then it crash landed on a cricket field.

The pilot was Air Vice Marshal Harold John Maguire, 47, of County Clare, Ireland, who won fame as a fighter ace covering the Dunkirk evacuation of 1940. He was not hurt in the crash.

Open House at Moses Wisner Home

Oakland County people should embrace the opportunity offered them this week to become better acquainted with a local historical shrine.

The Moses Wisner Home on Oakland Ave. is to be open to the public on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, from ten to five o'clock each day.

★ ★ ★

Now owned by the Oakland County Historical Foundation, it is being restored, in the hope that they can eventually keep it open at all times.

No other Michigan area can boast of a property so fraught with the essence of what was woven into its early days.

Built by Mr. Wisner 112 years ago, this brick house was his home when he later was governor of our State.

He refused a second term because he foresaw the Civil War, and wished to give his whole time to preparing men for it.

★ ★ ★

A visit to the home will be one of the most thought producing and inspirational events in your lifetime.

Red China Up Again for U.N. Membership

The U.N. General Assembly now meeting for its 14th session in New York, has an agenda of 68 items, many of them holdovers from previous sessions.

One of the first issues to come before the Assembly will be the old one of admission of Communist China. In 1950 only 16 nations including the Communist bloc, voted to seat Red China. Last year 28 countries favored recognition with 44 opposed and nine abstentions. It takes a two-thirds affirmative vote to admit a new member.

★ ★ ★

Since that vote Communist China has taken over Tibet, the Dalai Lama has fled to safety in India and has asked for U. N. help. No one doubts that Red China is behind the aggression in Laos and is actively engaged in border incidents in Northern India.

★ ★ ★

Nevertheless Prime Minister NEHRU indicates that India will not take its own dispute with Red China before the U.N. nor will he present Tibet's protest. Ironically, Defense Minister KHRISHNA MENEN, despite demands at home for his resignation, again will head the Indian delegation to the U.N. Furthermore, India will again sponsor mainland China's admission on the theory that CHOU EN-LAI would be more manageable within the U.N.

★ ★ ★

Under the General Assembly's ban of Feb. 1, 1951, never rescinded, China still is considered an aggressor in Korea and not "a peace-loving nation" within the terms of the U.N. Charter. So far the U.S. has blocked Indian attempts to seat Red China and on Aug. 19 the House of Representatives voted 368 to 2 for a resolution restating its opposition to such membership.

★ ★ ★

However, whether we like it or not (and we don't) the Peiping regime is the de facto government of China although far from "peaceloving."

Arab Meeting Presents No Constructive Ideas

There was talk of forming a Palestinian army and of how best to organize Arab nationalism. Premier NASSER of the United Arab Republic urged that pressure be brought on Premier KASSEM of Iraq to induce him to join the cause.

For the moment Premier NASSER is on good terms with Morocco, Saudi Arabia, the Sudan, Jordan and Lebanon. Neither Iraq nor Tunisia sent delegations to the conference.

Held together by a common language and the Islam religion, the league presents a united front to outsiders. But when the leaders meet, says the New York Times, "they don't talk about their respective nations. That would be interfering in each other's domestic affairs. They talk about Israel and of the plight of the Palestine refugees. They're united there."

What they need is a larger and more understanding view of the outside world and an awareness of the necessity for cooperating with it.

PHYSICIANS and psychologists who hold that people can imagine themselves sick, and cultists who preach that people can think themselves well, are crediting the mind with far more power than it possesses.

It's Time to Act

Our Football Contest Is Now in Its Closing Days

Pellston: A Michigan town whose weather man has some Ananias blood.

That $300 prize is dangling before you in our football contest. But it won't dangle long. Your entries must be received by Friday noon.

Make a check mark on each of the teams you think will win. If you think any game will be a tie, do not check either team. Then attach your name and address and you're on the way.

The list of games has appeared in this column during recent days. Look them up. They may mean money to you.

Every member of your family can compete. You can write out the list of games for any entries for which you do not have clippings.

This is an elimination contest. You are in the running only as long as you forecast correctly.

Attend to this NOW, before you forget it. Your neighbors probably already have made their entries. Do you want one of them to get the $300?

Big Race to Pick Up the Tab

David Lawrence Says:

Mr. K Takes Same Old Arms Stand

WASHINGTON — About all that Nikita Khrushchev has accomplish thus far by his visit to the United States is to convince many millions of Americans that he is a dangerous man.

LAWRENCE

The Soviet Premier resents the exposure of his crimes in the court of public opinion. Although he heckled Vice President Nixon in Moscow, Khrushchev complained bitterly to President Eisenhower at the White House last week about the vice president's speech to the American Dental Assn. in New York City the day before the Soviet Premier arrived in the United States.

"Czar" Nikita doesn't really want to debate the issues that divide the world. He prates about disarmament and tries to make it appear he is introducing a new approach when, in fact, he is repeating the same old story—he wants disarmament for everybody else but the Soviet Union.

He refuses to accept any plan that will actually mean effective inspection of what the Communists would be doing under the proposed agreement to ban armaments. He will never permit the kind of inspection that would insure against cheating.

For years, this very subject has been debated in detail, and the same proposals and counterproposals have been advanced in the League of Nations and in the United Nations. But now the Soviet Premier, benefiting by the attention of a worldwide audience, dramatically cries for complete disarmament — as if he alone had invented the idea.

He wishes everybody to forget that the Soviet government has repeatedly rejected every sensible plan for even partial disarmament which has been considered from time to time at a series of conferences that were initiated at the "summit" meeting at Geneva four years ago.

When Khrushchev cannot get his propaganda across, and is asked some searching questions, he becomes offended and irritable. He and his security officers had ample opportunity, for instance, to object to the plans made to omit a visit to "Disneyland" — an amusement park near Los Angeles.

The customary way, when such things are being arranged ahead of time, is to speak frankly and insist on this or that point. The Soviet Premier did not give the slightest intimation that he wanted to see "Disneyland" after it had been pointed out that it would be difficult from a security standpoint. Now he bursts forth with a denunciation of the security officials of the State Department.

Doesn't Khrushchev know we have a real security problem in America when a man guilty of tens of thousands of murders visits us? Doesn't he realize that the relatives of many thousands of persons he has ordered executed live in America, and that in their hearts dwell the bitterest resentments?

Someone ought to explain to the Soviet Premier the reasons for the security problem faced by the State Department in arranging for his visit.

When, however, the mayor of Los Angeles attempted to debate even the abstract issue of whether communism would or would not "bury" capitalism, Khrushchev let go with a blast threatening to go back home in a few hours.

The Soviet Premier is the kind of international bully the world has seen before in the personality of Adolf Hitler. He, too, thought he could cow his adversaries by threats, and that there would be no resistance from the West if aggression were begun. So does Nikita Khrushchev today apparently believe that, by shouting loudly and rattling his missiles and rockets, he can scare the rest of the world into submissively surrendering to his will.

Many bewildered citizens in the United States are asking: "What can be done? After all, we don't want to anger him—he might start a war. Isn't it better to humor him?"

Dr. William Brady Says:

Readers Are Eating Up Good Ol' Iodin Ration

A Buffalo reader says that about three months after she began taking iodin ration, a leg ulcer which she had had for over 10 years healed without any special treatment. In the pamphlet Varicose Veins and Varicose Ulcer I say that a suitable iodin ration seems to improve general metabolism and so promote healing in cases of chronic indolent ulcer.

DR. BRADY

Milford reader wants the Iodin Ration pamphlet. She says a friend writes that since she has been getting her iodin her waistline measures—hang onto your hats, girls—six inches less.

★ ★ ★

A Milwaukee reader assures me that "there is no doubt about the iodin ration restoring color and life to my hair. In fact my sister, who hadn't seen me for six years, refuses to belive I use no tint and never had it dyed."

Miami reader says that since taking Iodin ration for 1½ years, her hair, formerly thin, dry, lifeless, never seeming to grow, has regained its former dark brown color, with only a little gray, is thicker, longer, and has more luster.

She wishes she had learned about the body's need for iodin long ago.

GOITER GOES

Boston reader says she had a goiter the size of a lemon when she began taking the iodin ration 1½ years ago. The goiter gradually grew smaller, and now there is no sign of it. She says she never had so much pep.

Birmingham reader says he had painful arthritis in his hands which continued unchanged . . . until he began taking iodin ration. Then the pain and lameness steadily lessened, and now there is no pain.

To be sure, I believe one with rheumatiz (chronic joint disability due to physical degeneration of joint tissues) needs a daily optimal ration of iodin as well as calcium, vitamin D, and vitamin B complex. I don't know what the Birmingham man is talking about or whether iodin ration had anything to do with the relief he has experienced.

Readers in all parts of the country report that the iodin ration has made them more or less immune to "colds" to which they were formerly very susceptible. I don't know what they are talking about either. I don't know what anybody means when he talks about "colds," and I don't believe anybody does.

If you ask about the CRI (common respiratory infections), you begin to make sense. I can tell you how to prevent the CRI. I do so in Little Lesson 5. Call It CRI, for which send 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Please remember, the iodin ration I recommend is food, not medicine—food that every man, woman or child must get every day in order to maintain good nutrition.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

The Country Parson

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Hidden Desire Causes Symptoms

Jessie's problem indicates a deep-seated conflict. It has driven her to seek medical check-ups from four competent physicians. Despite the fact they pronounce her O.K., Jessie persists in believing she is losing her mind. Scrapbook this case as a classical example of the "Death Wish".

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane," she began nervously, "I am afraid I am losing my mind."

DR. CRANE

"I have suffocating spells during which I can't get my breath. And my head hurts terribly.

"At night I often have dreadful dreams during which I think my baby girl is in a coffin.

"So when I wake up, I rush into her room and make sure she is still alive and breathing normally.

★ ★ ★

"Am I going crazy? I feel sure I shall lose my mind, though I have consulted four different doctors, all of whom say I am medically O.K."

DEATH WISH

This may sound somber to many readers not familiar with modern psychiatry. But parents often grow so jealous of their own child that they subconsciously wish for an instant that the baby were gone.

Jessie had been a beautiful but rather spoiled "only" daughter of doting parents.

And when she married, her husband also showered attention upon her. He would telephone from the office two or three times per day to ask what she was doing and how she felt, etc.

This kept on clear up to the day she had her baby. But thereafter, notice what happened: He'd now telephone but ask how the baby was sleeping or if it had taken its feeding on schedule, etc.

So Jessie found herself suddenly demoted from the prima donna role to being just a member of the chorus, so to speak.

★ ★ ★

She also began to realize that she was confined to the house much more than formerly and forced to perform many routine chores.

Thus, she vaguely began to compare her carefree happy lot before the arrival of the baby, to her present status.

SUBCONSCIOUS IDEAS

"I hate you," many a tired, hungry toddler may cry at its mother in a time of unusual irritation.

Actually, the child doesn't permanently hate its mother but is simply momentarily irate at her.

★ ★ ★

Seldom will we focus on that thought consciously, for we all know parents aren't supposed to have such selfish ideas.

But every mother or father may subconsciously toy with such a thought at some time or other.

Most people dismiss this fleeting thought as a childish thing and ignore the incident. But some people feel unusually guilty at the fact they have even contemplated such a notion, even though but for a brief instant.

So they may compensate by becoming unduly solicitous. That's why Jessie awakens from her nightmare about the baby in a coffin, and then rushes into the nursery to check on her daughter's breathing.

★ ★ ★

And Jessie thinks, "I must be abnormal to have such a thought."

But the word "abnormal" is easily replaced by its synonym, namely "insane," and thus victims may imagine they SHOULD lose their minds as divine retribution.

Voice of the People

Former Commissioner Tells of Phone Rates

Telephone users in Detroit will undoubtedly receive better treatment than their outstate neighbors in the current Michigan Bell Telephone Co. rate case now pending before Michigan Public Service Commission.

The experience of the commission during postwar years has been that none of Michigan municipalities outside Detroit have done anything to protect the ratepayers in utility rate cases heard by the commissions. Cities outside Detroit make no effort to take part in rate proceedings and thus do not adequately protect ratepayers living outstate. Outstate cities have been derelict in their duty in not actively participating in utility rate cases, reported James H. Lee, commissioner and assistant corporation counsel for Detroit.

In other states most cities work together to see the rates do not work an undue burden on a particular area. In Michigan, the contrary has been true and as a consequence, the commission has consistently favored Detroit while at the same time putting an extra burden on outstate ratepayers.

Reader Claims Press Is Unfair

We're waiting for the article on the group of Negroes that raped that little white girl in Texas. We found it over on page 14. Seems as if the free press tries to hide Negroes' crimes and many go unprinted.

This sir, is what causes racial hate. The Negro has no pride because if he did, he wouldn't depend on white people and one-sided newspaper stories to help him advance in this world. The Negro in the South doesn't and won't integrate. He is happy the way things are. Now if you Northerners would leave him alone. You never hear of trouble in the South like you do here in the North—police officer getting beaten up in Detroit or the trouble in New York.

If the Negro doesn't have enough pride to live and go to school with his own kind, why should the white people have to. In your paper we never see a picture of a Negro involved in a crime, but if he or she is white, it will be on the front page. This is not fair to the public. Ex-Southerner should pray to God that nothing happens to her little girl such as what happened in Texas.

'Sloppy Women Are an Insult'

It may be stylish or okay to do it, but it certainly seems like women and girls have reached a new low when they appear in public with their hair partially done up in pin curls. It's just plain insulting.

They're only half dressed according to my standards. Businessmen will not walk around downtown without shaving. Some of today's women seem to be lacking in any personal pride in their appearance. The girls of yesteryear always appeared in public smartly dressed and well groomed.

'Lord's Prayer Will Give You Peace'

You should say the Lord's Prayer and give serious thought and contemplation to it several times a day. In doing this you'll be placing yourself in contact with God. If you say it with serious thought and consideration often enough, you can bring to yourself a peace of mind and happiness that can't be obtained any other way than contact with God. Give this a sincere trial and earn eternal happiness.

Hospital Bed Needed for Boy

Does anyone have a hospital bed to loan a muscular patient? The bed is needed very badly by a family here for their son. Because of other illness in the family, they have been unable to buy one. I know there are different organizations here in Pontiac who do loan these beds, but I do not know the names of them. If anyone is interested in helping to give this boy a hospital bed, please call FE 4-4866.

REGISTRATION NOTICE FOR SPECIAL election Tuesday, October 27, 1959

To the qualified electors of the Township of Waterford, County of Oakland, State of Michigan.

Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the "Michigan Election Law," I the undersigned Clerk will upon any day except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of any regular, special election or primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said Township, not already registered who may apply to me personally for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the time intervening between the Thirtieth day before any regular, special or official primary election and the day of such election.

Notice is hereby given that I will be at the Waterford Township Hall, 4995 W. Huron Street, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. every Tuesday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. every Monday

AND ON

Monday, September 28, 1959—last day. The Thirtieth day preceding said Election as provided by Section 498 Act No. 116, Public Acts of 1954, from 8 o'clock a.m. until 8 o'clock p.m. on each said day for the purpose of reviewing the registration and registering such of the qualified electors in said Township as shall properly apply therefor.

The name of no person but an actual resident of the precinct at the time of registration, and entitled under the Constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election, shall be entered in the registration book.

Elector unable to make personal application procedure.

Sec. 504. Any elector who is unable to make personal application for registration because of physical disability or absence from the Township, City or Village in which his legal residence is located, may be registered prior to the close of registration before any election or primary election by securing from the Clerk of the Township, City or Village in which is located his legal residence, duplicate registration cards and executing in duplicate the registration affidavit before a notary public or other officer legally authorized to administer oaths and returning such registration cards to the Clerk of the Township, City or Village before the close of office hours on the last day of registration prior to any election or primary election. The notary public or other officer administering the oath shall sign his name on the line for the signature of the registration officer and designate his title.

Unregistered persons not entitled to vote.

Sec. 491. The inspectors of election at any election or primary election in this State, or in any District, County, Township, City or Village thereof, shall not receive the vote of any person whose name is not registered in the registration book of the Township, Ward or Precinct in which he offers to vote. (As provided under Act 116, P.A. 1954.)

Transfer of registration, application, time.

Sec. 506. Any registered elector may upon change of residence within the Township, City or Village cause his registration to be transferred to his new address by sending to the Clerk a signed request stating his present address, the date he moved thereto, and the address from which he was last registered, or by applying in person for a transfer. The Clerk shall strike through the last address, ward and precinct number and record the new address, ward and precinct number on the original and duplicate registration cards and shall place the original registration card in proper precinct file. Such transfer shall not be made within the (30) days next preceding any election or primary election, (unless such 30th day shall fall on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday in which event registration shall be accepted during the next full working day), provided that no such transfer shall permit any person to vote in any Township, City or Village in which he had not resided (30) days next preceding any election or primary election.

Transfer of registration election day.

Sec. 507. Any registered elector who has removed from one election precinct of a Township, City or Village to another election precinct of the same Township, City or Village shall have the right to make application to have his registration transferred on any election or primary election day by executing a request over his or her signature for such transfer and presenting the same to the election board in the precinct in which he is registered. Upon receiving such request the inspector of election in charge of the registration records shall compare the signature thereon with the signature upon the applicant's registration record and if the signatures correspond then the inspector shall certify such fact upon said request and the applicant for transfer shall then be permitted to vote in such precinct for that election only. The application for transfer shall be filed with the Township, City or Village Clerk who shall transfer such voter's registration in accordance with the application. When the name of any street in a Township, City or Village has been changed, it shall be the duty of the Township, City or Village Clerk to make the change to show the proper name of street in the registration records and it shall not be necessary for the elector to change his registration with respect thereto in order to be eligible to vote.

FHA Rate Hike Expected Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government plans to raise the maximum interest rate on FHA-insured home loans from the present 5¼ per cent to 5¾ per cent.

Informed sources said today that the increase would be announced shortly after President Eisenhower signs the compromise housing bill passed by Congress. The President is expected to act this week.

The interest hike is designed to make FHA loans more competitive with conventional loans. Officials said it would have two effects on prospective home buyers seeking loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration:

—The total cost of an FHA loan will rise to 6¼ per cent since the borrower still must pay an additional half-point insurance premium.

—Home buyers will find it easier to get FHA loans because lenders will be more willing to make them at the higher interest rate.

According to industry reports, conventional home loans are running at about 6 per cent in most areas of the country.

Rising interest rates and the tight money market have caused lenders to shy away from FHA loans. This has resulted in a steady decline in applications to FHA for mortgage insurance. FHA applications in August totaled 65,700, the lowest for any month since December.

Jealous Lover Kills 10 and Self

NANTOU, Formosa (UPI) — A jealous soldier, maddened by preparations for the wedding of the girl he loved to another man, shot and killed 10 persons here yesterday and then committed suicide.

Four persons were seriously wounded, including Lu Mu-sheng, the girl of Pvt. Li Hsin Ju's dreams.

Li, armed with two carbines, broke into Miss Lu's home and killed her fiance, her father, her two brothers, her fiance's sister and a neighbor.

Then he climbed the fence of a nearby house and killed its owner, his wife and their son and daughter. In an upstairs room, he turned his carbine on himself.

Bureau Makes Profit Manufacturing Money

By FRANK CORMIER

You could do the same if you could legally manufacture 100 pennies for 27 cents or a dollar's worth of nickels for just 12 cents.

That's the kind of profit the mints are making on the production of pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars.

★ ★ ★

The mint made available to a reporter a study which showed that it makes a profit of 73 cents on every 100 pennies. Manufacture costs come to 8 cents and the metal used in the pennies costs 19 cents. The rest is profit.

★ ★ ★

On five-cent pieces, it takes only 9 cents worth of metal to make a dollar's worth. Manufacturing costs total 3 cents.

The mint business is so profitable that some officials would like Congress to stop making an annual appropriation for the bureau. The money isn't needed. Congress insists on making a token appropriation, however, on the theory this gives the legislators more control over the agency.

In the 1957 fiscal year, the latest for which tabulations are available, the mint had a total income of nearly 94 million dollars. About half of it was clear profit which was turned over to the Treasury's general fund.

All this was done on an appropriation of $3,650,000.

State VFW Blasts Vets' Pension Law

LANSING (UPI)—The Michigan Veterans of Foreign Wars officers closed their 31st annual meeting here yesterday by calling the newly-passed veterans' pension law "a sham and a fraud perpetrated on American veterans in the guise of benefits."

The VFW officers passed a resolution calling for a separate, liberalized pension program for World War I veterans to divorce that group from the new law which takes effect July 1.

The resolution also asked that a cost of living escalator clause be included in the program for World War I vets.

Argentine Girl, 15, 'Safe' From Russia

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Margarita Libonsky, 15-year-old Argentine daughter of two White Russian refugees, who refused to return to Russia with them, is being cared for by juvenile authorities here.

★ ★ ★

Federal police boarded the French liner Provence Friday just before it sailed and took the reluctant teenager off. She said her family had threatened to "put me in a reformatory" if she did not accompany them.

"I do not want to go to Russia because I am Argentine," she said.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

NOW...'60 CHEVROLET TRUCKS WITH REVOLUTIONARY TORSION-SPRING SUSPENSION THAT GIVES ASTONISHING NEW SHOCKPROOF ACTION !!!!!

Chevy's done the next best thing to paving every road in America!
First they threw out the front axle and put in torsion-spring independent suspension. Then they built coil rear springs into most light-duty models, variable-rate leaf springs into heavies. That made it—a ride you have to feel to believe. A ride that lets you move faster to get more work done in a day.

They're tougher than any Chevy trucks ever made. Frames are stronger, cabs 67% more rigid. Front wheels and tires are precision-balanced. And that new suspension cushions jars and road shock that used to spell slow death for sheet metal.

More comfortable cabs!
Easier to hop in and out of too. Many models are a whole 7 inches lower outside. Yet there's more head room inside, plus more width for shoulders and hips.

Big in the power department!
With the industry's most advanced gas-saving 6's. With high-torque Workmaster V8 performance in heavyweights. With new 6-cylinder or V8 power available in new L.C.F. models.

More models than ever!
New 4-wheel-drive models, tandems and high-styled Suburban Carryalls. It's the handsomest, hardiest Chevy fleet ever to report for duty. See your dealer for the whole story, and be sure to take a ride! It's something!

Anything less is an old-fashioned truck!

Both Ike, Dem Leaders Pin Big Bouquets on Themselves

The score: Eisenhower is proud of the Republican and the American public. The Democrats are proud of the Democrats.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas accused Eisenhower of trying to start a domestic cold war. He praised the session as one of constructive achievement.

★ ★ ★

The President fired the first volley in a lengthy statement released Saturday at his Gettysburg farm. He blasted the Democrats on spending and other issues, and credited the Republicans and the public with keeping them in check.

★ ★ ★

He said Congress distorted the shape of his budget in many respects and increased public spending. He made it clear he plans to continue his attack on the spending issue when the second session of the 86th Congress meets in January.

Eisenhower called passage of the labor control bill an important step toward labor reform. Its passage should be credited to the outspoken indignation of the American people, he said.

★ ★ ★

The President said his biggest disappointments in the past session were the refusal of Congress to increase the interest ceiling on long-term government bonds and to hold down on public works spending. Congress overrode his veto of a bill providing $1,200,000,000 for hundreds of public works projects.

★ ★ ★

He said he also was disappointed because postal rates were not increased, foreign aid funds were cut and an effective farm program was not worked out.

Illinois City Hopes to Use 'Closed' on Its Sin Strip

CHICAGO (UPI) — The state attorney's office today promised "a re-enactment of prohibition era tactics" in an effort to hang a wet blanket over, loud, lurid Calumet City.

State attorney's police swooped down on the "sin strip" of south suburban Cal City early Saturday and netted 74 arrests, including 22 exotic dancers and 39 red-faced customers.

But none will be hit with criminal charges. Frank Ferlic, first assistant state's attorney said.

Instead, the dancers and managers were given subpoenas to appear today in a superior court civil case, Ferlic said.

The customers were subpoenaed to show up tomorrow before a grand jury investigating vice in Cal City.

Ferlic said his office will try to prove the sin strip dives and strip joints are "public nuisances."

This is a direct departure from past raids in Cal City, where minor hoodlums were arrested while the top syndicate bosses, protected by their underlings, went free.

Ferlic said he hopes to hit the syndicate bigwigs in the pocketbooks by shutting off their main source of income.

If the "public nuisance" move is successful, he said, it may be used against both vice deans and gambling houses across the nation.

A civil law allows the padlocking of any saloon if the court rules it is a "public nuisance." And Ferlic said he hopes to padlock every door on the strip—permanently.

"We'll have a re-enactment of prohibition era tactics with imposition of injunctions like those that were posted on booze joints in the roaring '20s," Ferlic said.

"The big sign will be there on the saloon door, but there will be one big difference—in prohibition days, the signs read, "Closed for one year."

Private Plane Crashes; 5 Die

Plunges Onto Farmland Within Sight of New Pennsylvania Airport

INDIANA, Pa. (UPI)—Five men were killed yesterday when their private plane crashed after the conclusion of a three-day air show at the newly dedicated Jimmy Stewart Airport.

The twin-engine Piper Apache, valued at $35,000, plunged onto a farm yesterday within sight of the airport which was dedicated last Friday. The air show was a highlight of the dedication.

The dead were identified as Wayne Hess, 45, owner and pilot of the plane; Blaine Johnson, 26; Joseph Ricupero, 26; Andy Stahura Jr., 31, and his brother, Edward, 27, all of Indiana.

Donald Fenell, manager of the airport, said the plane had taken off about 10 minutes before it crashed on the farm of Alex Campbell, about a half mile from the runway.

State Police said Hess had invited the four passengers for a ride shortly after the final event of the air show, which was staged by members of the Indiana Flying Club.

Domestic Issues Will Decide Who Will Win British Votes

By TOM OCHILTREE

LONDON (AP) — The mental picture a majority of British voters have of their own country should determine the outcome of the Oct. 8 national election. On that point, at least, Prime Minister Macmillan and labor leader Hugh Gaitskell are agreed.

From now on they intend to base their campaign strategy on this assessment: foreign affairs will influence a substantial section of the electorate but the decisive element in the battle revolves about domestic issues.

After eight years in power, Macmillan's conservatives broadly speaking, are standing pat. They picture Britain as a prosperous country with increasing opportunities for all and ask that nothing be done to disturb this situation.

To support their case they point to the number of new cars and television sets being sold, to the amount of money Britons of all classes spend for vacations.

Specifically, they propose to rehouse another million slum dwellers by 1965 and to expand the hospital building program. They also intend to strengthen the government's machinery for dealing with local pockets of unemployment.

* * *

The labor picture of British life is completely different. In the labor view Britain is still "two nations" — one for the rich and the other for the underprivileged.

The laborites promise to boost old age pensions and expand the public health and education systems. But the big plank in their platform deals with revision of the tax structure.

In particular the Labor Party promises to end what it describes as "the business man's expense account racket" and the tax-free compensation paid to company directors upon loss of office. It also intends to tax capital gains made on the stock exchange.

* * *

Lord Hailsham, conservative party chairman, says the laborites now pay only lip service to their old Socialist doctrine of state ownership of industry. And apparently the Labor Party itself has concluded that nationalization now has little appeal for voters. It has no plans for placing industries under state control other than to renationalize the steel and state trucking industries.

More than ever before in a British election Macmillan and Gaitskell intend to follow the American "whistle stop" method of campaigning.

From now until voting day they will swing around the country addressing party rallies, talking to groups at factory gates and occasionally stopping off in a village pub to discuss politics with local residents over a pint of beer.

In all, nearly 1,500 men and women are fighting for 630 seats in the house of commons. The Communists are contesting 18 seats but are given little chance to win even one.

* * *

Straw polls, which usually come close to the mark in Britain, now give the Conservatives 4½ per cent of the vote, Labor 36 and the Liberals 4¼. That leaves 18 per cent of the voters who have not yet made up their minds.

Potato Chips Go Boom

NEW YORK (UPI) — Potato chip sales have been booming and TV gets much of the credit. A 50-state survey by Nutrition Research Council showed that America's families have selected potato chips as their favorite food while watching television. Runners-up were candy, fruit, cookies, nut and dry cereals.

Plan to Study Effects of Arms Ban on U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Disarmament Subcommittee plans to open an investigation into the possible effects of disarmament on the U.S. economy.

Chairman Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) said yesterday his group may hold hearings in key industrial cities and undertake special studies on programs for taking up the economic slack caused by any arms control agreement.

Humphrey declared that the Eisenhower administration has shown an apparent lack of interest in the "economic dislocation" that might follow an international disarmament pact.

Reports 13 Million Draw Social Security Benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government reports that about 13,400,000 men, women and children were drawing Social Security benefits at the end of August.

Of these, approximately 190,000 began receiving monthly payments during the past year as a result of amendments to the Social Security Law which went into effect in August, 1958.

The United States has on automobile for every 2.6 adults, compared with one per 61 in Soviet Russia and one per 6,461 in China.

Work 'Til End, Then . . .

CORK, Ireland (UPI) — The fact that Denis Delea worked "extremely" conscientiously for the same company 67 years right up to the day before he died failed to satisfy him. His will left $84 to the company "to compensate for any time I have wasted in their employment."

Food consumption studies show that families spend more money for meat and meat substitutes than any other major group of foods.

Landmark Is Sold

NEW YORK (AP)—Washington Market, a lower Manhattan landmark, has been sold at city auction for $1,106,000. The market place, which has been vacant since 1956, was purchased Friday by Dover Management, Inc., of Brooklyn. A spokesman said the property was obtained for investment.

Detroit, Ala., is the smallest incorporated municipality in the state. Its population is 76.

Algerian Plan Faces Revolt by Settlers

PARIS (UPI) — The newspaper Le Monde said today French settlers in Algeria may try to organize a revolt against President Charles de Gaulle if the Arabs accept his self-determination plan.

The De Gaulle plan, which could lead to Algerian independence, is opposed by the settlers who teamed up with the army last year in a bloodless uprising which doomed the French 4th republic.

It is not certain whether they can count on army support for a similar revolt against De Gaulle's 5th republic. Over the weekend, however, a group of conservatives led by ex-Premier Georges Bidault former a new party to line up civilian support for the settlers.

ORDINANCE NO. 26

An Ordinance regulating the use of sanitary sewers within the Township of Pontiac, Oakland County, Michigan, and to provide penalties for the violation thereof.

Section I. This ordinance shall apply to all sanitary sewers within the Township of Pontiac which are so constructed or connected as to flow directly or indirectly into the intercepting sewer or sewers of the County of Oakland, Michigan.

Section II. No surface roof, footing drains or ground water from any source shall be allowed to enter the sanitary system by any device or method whatever, and no connection shall be permitted which permits other than sanitary sewage to flow therein.

Section III. House connection sewer from lateral sewer in street or easement to within (5') five feet from house shall be minimum 6" diameter Vitrified Sewer Pipe with rubber joint or minimum 6" diameter Asbestos Cement Pipe with ring tight rubber joint or equal. All joints shall be tight and when tested for infiltration shall not exceed 500 gals. per inch of diameter, per mile, per 24 hours.

Section IV. The crock to iron joint shall be sealed by an approved bituminous joint filler, encased in concrete to provide a watertight seal. The iron pipe inside the building shall be plugged and leaded and remain plugged and watertight until such time as the plumbing is carried on to the first floor, thereby providing that no water from the excavated basement will enter the sanitary sewer.

Section V. No such house connection sewer shall be installed without a permit having been issued for same by the Plumbing Inspector of the Township of Pontiac. The fee for such permit shall be $3.00 to cover cost of inspection. Opportunity for such inspection shall be provided after all pipe are in place and before the backfilling of any trench or the covering of such pipe.

Section VI. Any person who shall violate any provision of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not to exceed One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or by imprisonment not to exceed ninety (90) days, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and each day that such violation continues shall constitute a separate offense.

Section VII. This ordinance shall be effective 30 days after publication.

Section VIII. If any section, paragraph, clause or provision of this ordinance shall be held invalid, the invalidity of such section, paragraph, clause or provision shall not affect any of the other provisions of this ordinance. Any existing ordinance or part thereof in conflict herewith is hereby repealed only to the extent necessary to give this ordinance full force and effect.

Made and passed by the Township Board of the Township of Pontiac, Oakland County, Michigan on the 14th day of September, A.D. 1959.

Though Other Nations Are Skeptical

British Like Nikita's Disarmament Plan

LONDON (AP) — Election-bound Britain appears willing to look at Nikita Khrushchev's plan for total disarmament as a basis of negotiation despite much skepticism elsewhere.

The Soviet Premier's scheme proposed before the U.N. General Assembly Friday would scrap all the world's arms and armies in four years.

★ ★ ★

The initial reaction in the United States and many other Western nations was that the plan was Utopian and largely propaganda. However, most Western diplomats politely promised to study its terms.

But in Britain, where a general election is due Oct. 8, the two main parties appeared to welcome the Khrushchev program in principle.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd on behalf of the Conservative government said the proposals would be examined in detail by the new 10-nation U.N. disarmament group which will meet in Geneva early in 1960. Both said they looked forward to a fresh start in disarmament negotiations.

The prime minister said in a "The hub of the whole thing is a proper system of inspection and control."

Lloyd, speaking on the same broadcast, replied: "Mr. Khrushchev appears to accept control and we have to examine that."

Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the opposition Labor party, said of the Khrushchev proposals: "I say we should accept them in principle. After all, scrap the lot, all the arms, is surely what we want to see, providing it is the lot, everywhere, and they really are scrapped."

Gaitskell urged that the big powers at a summit meeting agree in principle on the Khrushchev plan and leave East-West negotiators to work out details.

Find Benches, Lawn Mowers in Lake Bed

Denver authorities are finding out first-hand. They have drained a lake in Washington Park in an effort to locate a gun believed used in a recent slaying. They haven't found the gun, but they have turned up these items:

Seven water sprinklers, two lawn mowers, 10 park benches, 50 auto hubcaps, 400 beer cans, 600 bottles and a doctor's handbag.

Princess Beatrix Goes Home After U.S. Tour

The dimpled, 21-year-old heir to the Dutch throne officially wound up her 10-day visit yesterday and spent the night resting at the home of U.S. ambassador to the Hague, Philip Young, in Van Hornesville.

17 Are Executed in Iraq as Kassem Is Cheered

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Spectators cheered Iraq's Premier Abdel Karim Kassem Sunday as firing squads felled 13 Iraqi army officers and hangmen executed four civilians as enemies of the government.

The executions were the largest in a single day since the overthrow of the monarchy 14 months ago and were the first to be announced in advance.

The army men participated in the abortive revolt at the northern military headquarters in Mosul last march or were charged with plotting against Kassem. They were opposed to the left wing tendencies of Kassem's regime at the time.

Brig. Nadhim Tabakjali, commander of the 2nd Division at Mosul, was the highest ranking officer to die. Also prominent among the excuted officers was Col. Mustafa Haj Sirri, chief of the army's intelligence service in Baghdad.

★ ★ ★

The officers, tried before the People's court and sentenced several months ago, were accused of supporting policies of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and Kassem's No. 1 enemy.

HAD AIDED MURI

The civilians, accused of being criminal traitors were members of the government of the late Nuri Said, the pro-Western premier who was killed in Kassem's revolt of July 14, 1958. The best known among them were Said Qazzaz, former interior minister, and Bahjat Attiyah, ex security chief.

Blast Jitters Gone as Railroad Mops Up

LEAF RIVER, Ill. (UPI)—Train crews today began mopping up a 24-car derailment that gave this Northern Illinois village the jitters yesterday afternoon.

Firemen rushed to the Milwaukee road wreck scene at the west edge of town when it was reported that high explosive gas and refined gasoline were leaking from overturned tank cars.

Police and Fire Chief Harold Martin ordered his 16 volunteer firemen to rope off the area and said the leaking gas threatened nearby homes.

But Martin cancelled the alert three hours later when the railroad reported that only one car had sprung a leak and it contained not gas, but acetone, a combustible chemical.

Baltimore streets were lighted by gas as early as 1816.

'Woody' Destined for Varner —— Sooner or Later

By PETE LOCHBILER

If Durward B. Varner hadn't been nicknamed "Woody" during college days, he probably would have been pegged with some such tag later on.

As you'd expect, none of the collegians back in the 1930s at Texas A. & M. were familiar with the rare first name. Most pronounced it "Durwood."

Even this seemed inappropriate for the tall, likable Texan with an easy-going, yet determined manner, who was rapidly becoming the respected leader of his class.

"They dropped that mysterious first syllable of my name and added a final 'y'. The result—the way they pronounced it—was easy for everyone," Varner recalled recently at his desk at Michigan State University Oakland.

Pontiac Press Photo

PLANS FOR FUTURE — Chancellor D. B. Varner examines tentative development plan of Michigan State University Oakland. In viewing his post, Varner says, "The job of starting a university from scratch is monumental, and I m not sure that I would want to do it again, but I wouldn't have missed it this time for the world."

The MSUO chancellor has been known to his friends as Woody ever since. You would want to call him Woody, too, if you met him once or twice.

LIKES NICKNAME

For Varner at 42 is the kind of man on whom a nickname sits comfortably, yet with no loss of dignity. The balding, friendly administrator likes his nickname, too.

"This is Woody Varner," he says, with a slight Texas twang, to just about everyone who telephones. (Not to MSU President John A. Hannah, however, nor to the MSUO staff members. To them, he's just "Woody.")

Varner did not get the nickname, it may be worth noting, because the name of his home town in eastern Texas was Cottonwood—a hamlet with little more than an intersection and 75 inhabitants scattered around it.

★ ★ ★

(At the time Varner was raised there, the population was 100. "We had had a boom," he recalls.)

GAINED MUCH

He did gain a lot from Cottonwood though, and perhaps the most important is his basic respect for teachers and teaching and the belief that education is a dedicated profession.

Varner was taught, he recalls, "by the greatest teacher I have ever known" in the tiny Cottonwood schoolhouse. This was the Cottonwood village schoolteacher—his father.

The school was so small that the father taught the son all his high school classes in the same small schoolroom.

DEDICATED JOB

"The country schoolteacher's was a dedicated job," recalls Varner. "It paid next to nothing, required versatility, ability and enthusiasm and my father loved it all his life."

Before he died, Varner's father had patiently taught everything from algebra to Shakespeare to three generations of school children.

Varner graduated (not at the head of his class) and set out on a career that would lead him, by devious routes, from the country schoolroom to the head office of what is potentially the largest university in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Along the way were bypaths that might have led to promising careers in industry and the armed forces. Towards the end there were important moments when Varner turned from teaching to administration, from East Lansing to the Pontiac area.

★ ★ ★

In the middle were years when, like thousands of other returned World War II vets, he struggled to keep his young family in room and board while he attended college classes on the GI bill.

Varner's first name reveals another aspect of his personality, one which curiously reflects his keen interest in liberal education and the strong emphasis (as it turned out) on liberal arts study at MSUO.

Varner was the youngest of seven children and it may be that his folks were a little tired of finding new names for their brood.

★ ★ ★

Be that as it may, it happened that an older sister picked the new baby's name—picked it out of a book that she was reading, one of the classics.

★ ★ ★

Which classic, Varner isn't sure. Whichever it is, he hasn't read it, though.

And it is at this point that Varner is quick to admit that his own background in such liberal subjects as classic literature is not what he wishes it were.

He himself was trained as an agricultural economist. A specialist with experience in marketing and finance.

★ ★ ★

"I believe now that if I had gained a broader background in school, a deeper understanding of history, cultures and other peoples, I would be able to enjoy the world around me more, perhaps be able to make a better contribution to society."

★ ★ ★

Varner says this with obvious sincerity, and then goes on to say that his school won't be training students in the manner he was trained.

"MSUO is set up to educate students, not to train them for their first job. Our aim is to educate so that our youth, in the long run, can make valuable contributions."

Varner took up his specialty (agricultural economics) at Texas A. & M. because he didn't have money enough to buy laboratory equipment for his preferred subject, chemical engineering. But what money he did have was earned as a student assistant in the agricultural department and so he turned his studies in that direction.

INTEREST REMAINS

His interest in the subject has remained steady through the years . . . witness the technical books (such as the Agriculture Yearbook) in his office bookcase.

★ ★ ★

(Varner's big technical library, however, rests on the shelves in East Lansing—a gift to the university.)

Fellow classmates liked Woody so well they elected him commander of the cadet corps in his senior year. Since Texas A. & M. is a military school, this to the rest of the world is the equivalent of class president and to the Army an indication of top-notch officer material.

It was in his senior year that Varner met his wife-to-be, in a manner reminiscent of a musical comedy of two decades ago.

★ ★ ★

As a student leader, Varner was playing a big role in the annual weekend get-together between the Texas cadets and the coeds from Baylor University in nearby Waco.

★ ★ ★

At the last moment someone had to volunteer to date, sight unseen, the dateless Baylor coed who was head of the girls' social committee.

★ ★ ★

Varner reluctantly volunteered for Friday night, but only with the stipulation that the cadets' social chairman accept a $10 bill from Varner and take the girl out Saturday night.

Friday night came and Varner faithfully kept the blind date. Saturday night came and . . . well Saturday night corresponded to the second act finale of that musical comedy.

"Sufficient to say that my friend didn't earn his $10—I didn't even give him the chance to. I took her out again myself," recalls Varner.

★ ★ ★

That's how Varner met lovely Paula Price of Waco. They were married within a year.

★ ★ ★

Before his 1940 graduation, Varner was offered a regular commission in the U. S. Army, but he turned that down. IBM was interested in giving him a job on the East Coast, but he turned that down, too.

"War clouds were gathering and I preferred to remain with my bride in Texas as long as I could," he explained.

After working briefly as a junior executive with the federal land bank in Houston, Varner was called up by the Army in August 1941, given a reserve commission and placed in the tank destroyer corps.

MET RUSSIANS

Three years later, Lt. Col. Varner and his battle-worn men victoriously met the Russians at the River Elbe in Germany, having fought their way through France, Belgium and Holland.

★ ★ ★

Back stateside after V-E Day, but before V-J Day, the tankmen learned, apprehensively, that they were to land soon on the fortress of Japan, near Tokyo, two days after the upcoming invasion. Land, whether infantry previously had cleared the way or not.

Varner is not hesitant to note now, that then there were few if any mixed feelings about the atomic bombs that ended the war before the invasion had to take place.

"The dropping of the bomb was greeted with enthusiasm by all of us, including me."

After the war there followed a brief stint at Texas A. & M. as assistant dean of students. Then Varner went back to the classroom again, this time sponsored by the Army at the University of Chicago in an experimental program designed to develop a master food storage plan in the event of a national disaster.

"It was a good idea, but like most of the Army's ideas it didn't work out," Varner observed.

He and the Army clashed over his active duty status and the outcome had Varner quitting the program and continuing on in school under the GI bill.

★ ★ ★

A master's degree in economics followed and by 1949 Varner had only to write a thesis to win his doctorate.

But by this time there were two children to consider, Thomas and his younger sister, Judy. (Thomas is now 16; Judy 13, and a newcomer, Susan, is 5.)

"My wife and kids were getting hungry, so I decided to go to work for a change. They looked skinny." The decision resulted in Varner's first association with Michigan and Michigan State University.

JOINED FACULTY

He joined the faculty in 1949 as an assistant professor of agricultural economics. Three years later, President Hannah called Varner into his office. The heart of the conversation (as Varner recalls it) went like this:

★ ★ ★

The answer apparently pleased Dr. Hannah, for within a few months Varner was on the administrative side of things for the first time—appointed director of MSU's agriculture extension service at the remarkably young age of 34.

In the next three years Varner put the extension service through a major reorganization and found time to write his long-delayed doctorate thesis.

★ ★ ★

Sent off to Chicago, it came back with a few suggestions for some minor revisions, about a month's work, Varner figures.

The thesis hasn't been touched since it came back in the mail seven years ago.

Varner's attitude toward a doctorate degree (considered a kind of pinnacle in the academic world) is not what you'd expect from a university chancellor.

But it is easy to understand why the hard-working, enthusiastic head of MSUO is willing to go on forsaking for a while the honor of being known as "Dr." Varner.

"I wouldn't even think of taking a month off for a thesis now. There are things at MSUO much more exciting and interesting than writing a thesis."

★ ★ ★

Varner took to administrative duties like a duck to water since, in his words, "I like to get things done."

★ ★ ★

His talents in that direction were so remarkable that within 2½ years Dr. Hannah appointed him (to use a phrase favored by the journalists) "the first vice president of Michigan State University in its 100-year history."

In his new job (especially created by the old State Board of Agriculture) Varner coordinated all off-campus activities, backstopped Dr. Hannah, and handled MSU's relations with the Legislature.

The latter experience is proving invaluable for the chancellor of the new university, since the annual battle for state funds is perhaps the most significant job the head of a state college has these days.

★ ★ ★

(Varner did pretty well this year. He got a $550,000 initial budget during a period of strict economy.)

★ ★ ★

Varner has, at heart, a deep respect for the lawmakers in Lansing and the problems they face.

★ ★ ★

"If at times they bother me, I suppose that I, at times, am a bother to them," he remarked.

★ ★ ★

It was a grey November day three years ago when President Hannah was due in a few hours to fly to the Far East on a Defense Department mission, that a couple walked into the MSU offices with a proposition that ultimately would bring profound changes for Varner and Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Hannah had Varner talk with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson since he himself had to leave for the airport.

The Wilsons' offer to give their Meadow Brook estate to MSU "came out of the blue," Varner recalls.

Most of the story has become well known since the gift of the estate and $2,000,000 was made public Jan. 3, 1957.

★ ★ ★

Not so well known is that it was Varner who carried on negotiations the first month, who had the studies made that showed the enormous need here for an institution of higher learning.

★ ★ ★

A few days after Dr. Hannah returned from his trip, he and Varner drove down to Meadow Brook Hall and made a firm commitment with the Wilsons.

★ ★ ★

"It was a snowy Dec. 26," Varner remembers. "The Wilsons made their Christmas gift to the youngsters of Michigan a day late."

Varner stuck with the MSUO planning.

"It was an exciting, adventurous kind of program that aroused my Texas pioneering spirit."

Varner remembers another "moment of decision."

★ ★ ★

"Were we going to institute a traditional kind of school, to serve in a sense as a kind of community college? Or were we really going to try to make this university an interesting, exciting experience?"

★ ★ ★

The powers that be decided, much to Varner's personal satisfaction, in the latter direction.

When it came time to choose a head for the new school, Varner wasn't shy.

"I volunteered to be drafted and have been thankful ever since that I was chosen."

Varner doesn't see, really, any radical difference between MSUO and other schools. But what difference there is is highly significant.

MSUO students will be trained to live in our big world, not just to exist each in his own little world.

"Subject-wise, we place a great emphasis on the liberal arts, a strong emphasis on foreign languages and foreign studies and little or no emphasis on vocational training."

With great confidence, Varner predicts that four years from now MSUO will begin producing "first-class graduates, who will be able to stand their ground with students from any other institution."

After talking about himself for more than two hours late in the afternoon, Varner still had no time to settle back in his cubbyhole office or to head towards his new home in an old farmhouse at the southeast corner of the Wilson estate.

Faculty and staff members were still coming to "Woody's" office with problems and, as usual, Woody Varner was headed for another 12-hour day.

★ ★ ★

"The job of starting a university from scratch is monumental," he sighs, "and I'm not sure that I would want to do it again, but I wouldn't have missed it this time for the world."

WOODY AT WORK — Michigan State University Oakland Chancellor Durward B. Varner has come a long way from the tiny Texas hamlet of Cottonwood, (pop. 75) where he was born. Varner will guide the destinies of the nation's newest university where classes begin today. He inherited his respect for teachers and teaching from his father, who was the Cottonwood village schoolteacher.

More Books 'Visible' Daily

Library 'Cupboards' Bare, but Not for Long

By DICK SAUNDERS

"Just like the fictitious emperor with invisible clothing, we have a library with invisible books," says Audrey North, assistant librarian at MSUO.

★ ★ ★

If Mother Hubbard suffered pangs of despair when she opened her cupboard door, it must be agony for Miss North to open up the spacious, ultra-modern, empty MSUO library each morning.

ENOUGH CUPBOARDS

For weeks she's had enough cupboards for more than 10,000 books and no books.

Just last week the first shipments began arriving. By the time students start clamoring for reading material, they should have about 2,000 titles to choose from.

"That means more than 2,000 books," she explained immediately. "The Encyclopedia Britannica, for example, is considered one title, but comes in about two dozen volumes."

ALL ON ORDER

As far as any "shortage" is concerned, it should be temporary. Periodicals may be slow in arriving and some reference materials may not be available at first, but everything necessary has been ordered.

"We are already ordering advanced lists of required reading, and expect to remain one step ahead of student demand, but the first few months may be a bit hectic," she said.

As the student body and the requirements grow, so will the facilities.

By next June there will be about 10,000 titles to choose from and eventually the undergraduate library will hold an estimated 200,000 well-chosen titles.

"I plan to contact the various public libraries throughout this area and explain to the librarians what our problems are," she said.

"We can see no reason why there should be a 'run' on books at the public libraries, but there exists the possibility that students holding cards to city and county libraries may prefer to use them, thus increasing the demand in some respects."

"We hope to limit the undergraduate library to an active working collection tied in with the curriculum rather than having to go back and weed out inactive material as many college libraries are now finding it necessary to do," Miss North explained.

★ ★ ★

The collection will be built along three main lines: Basic references and bibliography; indexes to periodicals; and materials requested by the faculty.

The library is now located in the administration building. This modern room is temporary. Some day Miss North and all the books will have a permanent home of their own.

With modern schools come modern ideas. The same is true of libraries of modern schools.

"We will impose no rules and regulations until the students force us to," Miss North asserted.

This means there will be no set time limit on books which eliminates the fine system for overdue books.

"We want to treat the students as mature adults. We'll tell them we're short on books and expect them returned as soon as possible, but we want the students to have books for as long as they need them," she explained.

"In short, we want them to have full use and complete freedom where the library is concerned."

USE PAPER BACKS

Another "new" aspect will be the use of paperback editions. Miss North indicates the library will use paperbacks to their fullest extent.

"They are cheaper and we can therefore get more copies of certain works for the same price that a few hardback editions cost. With the increasing amount of good literature being printed in paperbacks, they are becoming an asset in building a library."

Miss North will remain in command until the head librarian, David T. Wilder, arrives here in January. Wilder is now assistant director in charge of reader service at Ohio State University.

WORKED TOGETHER

She and Wilder worked together as assistant librarian and librarian, respectively, at the American University in Beirut, Lebanon. He was there from 1951-54 and she from 1952-55.

Since then, she has served as head of the acquisitions department, Purdue University, and head of reader services, Oberlin College.

Miss North possesses a thoroughly enjoyable personality and splendid sense of humor. As you walk through the maze of empty shelves, the new tables and chairs, and the furniture that is yet to be unpacked, you suddenly hear a cricket singing nearby.

You turn to her, but she has already guessed the next question, and says with a smile, "Oh, we have a little bit of everything here—crickets included."

Miss North has ideas for cataloguing books, too. She may use a color scheme.

"What I hope to do is catalogue different subjects by giving them a color. Like red for history, blue for philosophy, and so on," she explains.

"It won't work when we expand to graduate courses in several years, but for now it's simple, fast, and the easiest way to find books."

And speaking of colors, the interior color design is guaranteed not to put students to sleep. The walls are a dark green. Partitions between study tables are grey and the upholstery on chairs is yellow and turquoise blue.

Everything is contemporary in design. The soft indirect fluorescent lighting in overhead panels is supplemented by dome-shaped skylights which diffuse sunlight and more than adequately illuminate the entire library during daylight hours.

Castle Overlooks the Campus

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

A fleeting glimpse at the unsurpassable architectural treasure of Medow Brook Hall could lead one to believe it's all part of a medieval fairy tale.

But there it is, real sitting majestically in the hollows of its birthplace — Meadow Brook Farms, home of Michigan State University Oakland.

One has to go far to see the likes of the Great Hall. There's probably nothing in this country to match its ancient-appearing splendor, except maybe William Randolph Hearst's San Simeon ranch home in California.

Just as spell-binding is the creation of this mansion.

Mrs. Alfred Wilson, former wife of auto magnate John Dodge, once upon a time strolled into the Detroit office of Smith, Hinchman & Grylls, architects, and announced she "wanted to build a house in the country."

★ ★ ★

Mr. Dodge had died while on a trip to New York, leaving his wife several million dollars. Left unfinished also was a huge home in Grosse Pointe.

Mrs. Wilson gave me a program of all the things she wanted in the country home," recalls William E. Kapp, former associate with Smith, Hinchman & Grylls and chief designer of what will be MSUO's art and cultural showcase.

"I nearly fell over. I told her there's nothing like this in the United States," Kapp, of Detroit, continued.

But the new Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson knew what she wanted. No monetary limit was ever placed on the historic project.

After the Wilsons and Kapp studied numerous sketches of the Tudor-style palaces Mrs. Wilson had envisioned for the new home, it was decided to journey to England in 1927 to see for themselves. Kapp went along on what turned out to be a seven-week trip during which the Wilsons and Kapp inspected some 30 Tudor homes.

Meanwhile, the foundation had already been started on the plot northeast of Pontiac.

"We visited the best of the Tudor-type houses in south central England, as well as touring museums," explained Kapp.

No time was it ever questioned why Mrs. Wilson desired this type and so large a home. Much of the planning, however, centered around her two living children then by her first marriage, Frances and Danny.

Kapp said the nine-foot wide stairway — which is large enough to permit furniture on its landings — was designed so that Frances might descend it upon her marriage.

He had wired ahead to the Royal Institute of British Architects to assure that the Wilsons would see the best. They got the royal treatment, including tea and crumpets.

Making the most lasting impression on them, Kapp said, was Crompton Wyngate, a famous country home in the English midlands.

The Wilsons had looked at entire room furnishings but decided to make their purchases in America instead.

They did buy, however, many articles of priceless furniture, paintings, gobelin tapestries and ming vases.

There's a Verrocchio Madonna, Hobbena landscape painting, Rembrandt portrait, a portrait and two dogs by Van Dyck, 18th century Reynolds and Gainsborough paintings, a priceless 19th century work of George Washington by Gilbert Stuart, and others by Diaz and Corot.

"Since Mrs. Wilson insisted on salvaging a lot of the granite from the Grosse Pointe home we had to incorporate features taken from there and what she saw in England," the designing architect said.

Besides, leaded glass windows from the Grosse Pointe home had to be made a part of the Great Hall, she said. For the most part, sizes of the rooms were copied from the unfinished house.

From what they saw in Europe came ideas for stone and wood carvings, magnificent plastered ceilings, and fine metal work — "Probably the finest in this country," Kapp said.

But one thing Mrs. Wilson desired was to have this work fit into her beloved home state of Michigan. Sculpturing on the north porch is of native state animal. Famous sculptor Joseph Parduzi did the exterior carving work.

One of the most awe-inspiring sights in Meadow Brook Hall is the view into a long hallway immediately off the front entrance way. The rich Oriental carpeted corridor is a replica from one at Knole, near the market town of Sevenoaks in Kent County, England.

★ ★ ★

Off the hallway are Mr. and Mrs. Wilson's individual studies.

Down at the end of the hallway you step into a huge dining room. The high ceiling with its oval shaped plastered center, surrounded by fin wood carvings done by eight carvers, hovers over a walnut table which can seat 74.

Then there's the two-story games room, which can be viewed from the hallway, in which meals fit for a king and queen can be served. Nearby is a billiards room and downstairs kitchen.

There are two elevators, 26 fireplaces, and in the past there was a crew of servants which made social functions go off like clock work. All these features and the assortment of rooms too numerous to count, are stretched along the Great Hall which itself is some 100 feet long.

★ ★ ★

Three years under construction, the exterior is mostly granite brick and Briar Hill sandstone.

Kapp today looks back upon his designing of Meadow Brook Hall as "one of my great accomplishments." It is but one of seven buildings he has designed in his lifetime.

It is a masterpiece of beauty, which one must see for himself to appreciate.

GREAT HALL — Like the exterior of the giant home in which it is contained, the Great Hall of Meadow Brook leaves a lasting impression on all who enter. Some indication of the hall's size is indicated in the fact that the photo shows only one end. Among the room's features are the sprawling rug, massive fireplace and magnificent stairway to the second floor.

FAIRY TALE COME TRUE — Though it may seem more like a structure from Medieval fiction, there's nothing unreal about Meadow Brook Hall. The majestic "big house in the country," at the far end of sprouting Michigan State University Oakland's campus, awes its visitors. This modern-day castle was built to meet the desires of Mrs. Matilda Wilson. It is almost unrivaled for splendor in this country.

MSUO Takes Big Role in Life of Community

Both officials of Michigan State University Oakland and civic leaders in the area agree that the new university will have "an invigorating effect" on the whole community.

"The university wants to be a force for intellectual growth," said Loren B. Pope, assistant to Chancellor D. B. Varner.

"We take seriously our responsibility in what should be the most important aspect of community life," Pope stated, adding that the university will be "a part of rather than apart from" the life in the area which surrounds MSUO.

Faculty members will be interested in community affairs, have children in the public schools in the area, take part in school affairs, such as PTA work and, perhaps even run for public office.

"Our staff members are not living in an ivory tower; they want to be of and for the community," the university official explained.

In addition to individual contributions that the staff will make to the community, the university itself is "committed to the development and upgrading through secular education of all professional and social service groups of our society, for which the university has academic responsibility," Varner said.

Through the cooperation of the continuing education program at MSUO, conferences now are being set up in the fields of volunteer leadership, church education, home rule, insurance, police work, nursing and others to be planned as the program develops.

Pontiac Mayor Phillip E. Rowston cited the "wonderful opportunity" the new university provides for young adults to acquire a college education close to home.

Another point he made was that those who have not completed their college education and have wished to do so after their children were a little older now would not have to go to Detroit to take credit and noncredit courses. They can now do so right within the area.

The facilities available at MSUO will materially help students coming out of our high schools to take their proper place in industry," the mayor said.

The new university will provide a more qualified corps of trained personnel to work in the industrial plants for which Pontiac is so famous," Rowston noted.

Attesting to the impact the location of the university in the Pontiac-Avon Township area, Pontiac Township Supervisor Leroy Davis said, "It's the greatest thing that has ever happened to our township."

Viewing the physical growth of the area, Davis said that in another 10 years people will hardly recognize the two townships.

"And one of the most important phases of development will be the educational opportunities MSUO will offer to those who live nearby," the supervisor said.

"People who had to travel so far to have any cultural advantages before now will have them nearby and are sure to make use of these opportunities," he added.

Clarence Burr, Rochester village president, said the influence of the new university will be felt from Pontiac to Royal Oak, encompassing a 50-mile radius and, more especially the closer communities.

"Business people and residents of Rochester feel that MSUO will be beneficial to this community because it will open new avenues of business, foster residential growth and bring cultural development never known in the area before," Burr pointed out.

Avon Township Supervisor Cyril E. Miller said that if the township keeps the same controls it has now, the MSUO community will develop into the "finest college community in the country."

"The area around the university is almost vacant and can expand in an orderly manner," Miller explained. "And it's going to develop very fast in the next few years."

MSUO will be the focal point of culture in the area and will attract leaders in education, science and the arts, the supervisor prophesied.

250 Lots Some Day

Subdivision for Faculty Will Rise Near Campus

Construction of homes in the corner of Adams and Crooks roads Michigan State University Oakland faculty subdivision is expected to start this month, according to George Karas, director of the physical plant.

Roads in the subdivision, located on a 147-acre site at the northeast have already been graded. Next step will be installation of sewer and water lines.

The present subdivision comprises 65 lots approximately 150 feet deep and averaging 100 feet in width. There will be 250 lots for faculty housing when the entire subdivision is completed.

Money has been borrowed to develop the property. It will be repaid by assessment against each and every one of the lots, university officials said.

ARRANGE UTILITIES

The utilities are being arranged with the Oakland County Department of Public Works through Avon Township, Karas explained.

The builder or homeowner, again, will reimburse the proper authorities, and residents will pay taxes the same as other property owners in the university community," he said.

Dr. Robert G. Hoopes, dean of the faculty, Loren B. Pope and Herbert N. Stontenberg, registrar, and members of the teaching faculty hope to start building their homes this month.

MSUO officials point out that these new homes will conform to others in the university community as to lot size, building size and other zoning requirements.

The subdivision lot layout was planned by Harold W. Lautner, campus landscape architect of the Campus Site Planning Office at MSU.

Designed to conform with the gently sloping contours of the land the roads are winding. There are two turn arounds in the subdivision.

WILL IMPROVE LAKE

Miller's Lake, located in the center of the entire acreage, will be improved to eliminate the marshy areas. It will be enlarged and graded around the edges.

Homes in the new subdivision will range in cost from $18,000 to more than $30,000.

106 Freshmen Seeking Jobs

15 Pct. of Students Will Work Part Time, Officials Estimate

Fifteen per cent of the freshman student body at MSUO will be engaged in part-time employment, officials estimate.

★ ★ ★

Alexander said 106 applications for part-time student jobs had been received by the university since last September.

"The university is offering as many job opportunities as possible, realizing that many young people must work their way through college.

Each operational unit has been given a budget for part-time assistance and each will draw up a list of requirements needed for the particular job which the student activities service will match up with student applicants, Alexander explained.

He pointed out that the university had already placed a few students in off-campus jobs, including sign painting, sales, secretarial, laboratory work, custodial, cafeteria and book store openings.

"We will try our best to place anyone who wants to work, since we assume he or she needs additional support for the college education," he said.

Engineers at MSUO to Learn Languages

Engineering students at Michigan State University Oakland must become proficient in one language, preferably Russian. They will have a broad base of physics, chemistry, and mathmatics.

There will be no majors in civil, mechanical or other specialized branches of engineering.

They Know Subject

All Russian language instructors at Michigan State University Oakland and one of three French instructors are of foreign birth and none have taught in a regular session of an American University.

Best in a Generation

Half a dozen members of Michigan State University Oakland's faculty are men whose department heads have called them "the best of their generation or among the best they have ever taught."

MSUO Bars Credits for Physical Education

No credit courses in physical education will be offered at Michigan State University Oakland.

In this area recreational skills rather than high pressure Intercollegiate athletics will be emphasized.

Hopkins Directs Counseling

Students Advised: 'Think for Yourself'

By HARVEY ZUCKERBERG

"The decision must be their own."

★ ★ ★

This if it can be expressed in one phrase, is Dr. Robert F. Hopkins' approach to the problems of Michigan State University Oakland students.

★ ★ ★

Hopkins, 34, of 2655 Silver Hill Rd., Waterford Township, was appointed director of counseling and testing for MSUO in July.

His department, he explains, is primarily a service to the some 500 students comprising the first pioneer class of Pontiac's neighboring university.

"We are here to provide assistance in academic, vocational, social and personal areas," says Hopkins. "We do not require that a student come to us."

SUGGEST HELP

"If a problem is detected we suggest to the student that we may be able to help. The student can decline or accept the offer."

Typical problems, says Hopkins, are study habits, lack of direction, uncertainty of vocation, social adjustment and personal difficulties that often stem from financial worries.

"We are concerned with all aspects of the student's life," the counselor said. "We assist the student in making his own decision, for example, on his immediate plans educationally or long range plans of a vocational or occupational nature.

Hopkins says assistance is given by providing clarifying information by gathering facts together and presenting them to a confused student and by helping the individual to analyze the various avenues open to him.

The student must choose which seems best for him to follow.

Hopkins acts also as coordinator of academic advisers. These advisers are faculty members who help the student plan his academic program.

Another of the functions of Hopkins' office is to conduct testing research. Tests, he says, are an invaluable aid in detecting problem areas, student potential and capabilities.

The university student will maintain very high standards," Hopkins said. "We are providing a program which will demand a lot of the students.

"The counseling and testing departments will grow as the university grows, adding staff and facilities as needed."

Although a young man, Hopkins comes to MSUO with an extensive background. He was born, and graduated from high school in Chesaning, a town of 3,000 in the Saginaw Valley.

He served in the U. S. Navy for three years during World War II and went on to get his BA degree in psychology from Michigan State University in 1948. From there, Hopkins became an employe-interviewer for the Kaiser-Frazer Corp. at Willow Run.

Hopkins earned a master's degree in counseling and guidance and a teaching certificate from MSU in 1951, and went to work as teacher-counselor for the Fowlerville school system.

His wife, June, who also holds a master's degree in counseling and guidance, worked in the Fowlerville system with her husband. They have a four-year-old daughter, Pamela.

In 1952, Hopkins was employed by the State Department of Public Instruction as an educational consultant. He held the position for one year and then moved to the Dearborn Township school district as a counselor.

The Melvindale public school system hired Hopkins as director of guidance in 1954 and soon afterward made him the school system psychologist.

MSU conferred the degree of doctor of education upon Hopkins in 1958. He served with the Melvindale schools until his MSUO appointment this summer.

★ ★ ★

Hopkins was named president of the Michigan Counselors Assn. in 1957, is treasurer of the Guidance Assn. of Metropolitan Detroit, resolutions chairman of the American Personnel and Guidance Assn., a member of the Michigan Psychological Assn., the National Vocational Guidance Assn., the American School Counselors Assn. and the International Society for General Semantics.

Hopkins says he likes his job because he deals with people on an individual basis.

"I have to give something of myself and learn something from each person I deal with. What we want here, is for each student to do his own thinking, to develop himself as an individual and to fit into society's standards."

MSUO Curriculum Shaped After 5 Seminars

'Revolutionary' System Result of Expert Planning

By DICK BUCK

There will be no covered wagons on hand when the doors open today at Michigan State University Oakland.

But as sure as the first folks who journeyed west were pioneers, MSUO fits into that category in the education field with its space-age curriculum.

How was the revolutionary plan decided upon? It certainly wasn't done overnight. The desirable advice of authorities wasn't lacking either.

Instead, nationally-known experts were called upon to participate in five seminars which helped MSUO planners shape the new university's curriculum.

The same major question was put to each group: Given a clean slate, how would you set up an educational system in your field to best meet the needs of today's space-age?

★ ★ ★

The quartet of seminars dealt with liberal arts, teacher education, engineering, business education and adult education.

A common idea in all the sessions was a desire for realistic, up-to-date understanding of today's world by the students.

POINT STRESSED

American colleges are placing too much emphasis on irrelevant courses which no longer have any meaning for the students, it was asserted.

The five panelists felt many brilliant students became discouraged because they are forced to master useless material. Dr. Sarah G. Blanding, Vassar College president, said students are forced to do too much. "Let us not trp to cover the earth in four years," she said.

Another liberal arts commentator, noted historian Dr. Henry Steele Commager, warned that Americans are falsely "dazzled" by many courses which have no place in a university program."

Scope of curriculum was also considered a leading problem at the engineering seminar.

The engineering experts felt today's programs have a "narrow educational concept." They regarded "engineering science" as the ideal goal.

The liberal arts panel criticized the emphasis placed on teaching as the key cog in the educational system. They emphasized that liberal arts thinking, they saw a strong need for prospective teachers learning the theories of education.

How did teacher educators feel about their field? In line with the

The panalists called for an understanding of how youngsters learn and said education students must be instilled with sympathy for the objectives of public school systems.

They noted, however, that these systems must not only use teachers, but help produce them. A program was urged whereby education majors would teach for a semester at public schools before receiving their degree.

As far as the first four years in college go, a need was expressed for adequate liberal education for teachers. This would provide a required understanding of our society and its heritage.

★ ★ ★

But along with this desire for general knowledge, the education leaders urged a program of intensive education in their fields of specialization. This foundation could be expanded in graduate work if desired.

★ ★ ★

What about the perennial teacher shortage? The panelists argued that greater opportunities for responsibility would result in more teachers.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Frank Keppel, dean of the graduate school of education, Harvard University, put it this way: "Teachers don't get enough of a chance to work with adults. They should be brought together and given a chance to air their ideas and try them out.

"Imagine a man of 21 going into the teaching profession," Keppel speculated, "He will be put in a room with the door closed. And that is his prospect when he is 35—in fact, until he dies, retires, or gets out of the profession."

This notion could lead to a long-time desire of teachers: fatter pay checks. Heald declared there is no factual evidence to show that really competent instructors in college can't handle 100 students as well as 20.

★ ★ ★

"If we could reduce the per-pupil cost of teaching," he said, "we could pay good teachers more."

Ability to make tough decisions was considered of major importance by the business education panelists. This could be done, the panelists felt, by giving business leaders a full understanding of their role in the world.

A business-bound college graduate, they said, should have an understanding of, rather than specialization in, the many components of business structure.

How about these tough decision? An understanding of basic values is the key, the group noted.

QUALIFICATIONS

Theodore V. Houser, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co. listed qualifications of a good business leader. These included: initiative, leadership, strong will, an intellectually curious and logical mind and power of analysis.

★ ★ ★

In the small business field, William H. Coleman, president and director of Twin Coach Co., Canton, Ohio, said those planning to enter that field should get emphasis on the problem of human relations and "How do I finance my business?"

George L. Bach, dean of the graduate school of industrial relations at Carnegie Institute of Technology, peeked into the future. He predicted business would be increasingly unable to act on human hunches.

Instead, the businessman must be equipped to make hard-headed analysis in a fast-changing world, Bach said.

World change from "an age of anxiety" to the "age of the Learning Society" was illuminated at the session on adult education.

Dr. Paul A. McGhee, Adult Education School director at New York University, said the anxiety age was present the first half of this century. The world is now approaching an exciting new era, the 'Age of the Learning Society,'" McGhee added.

He saw an increasingly important role for adult education in the role of world citizenry and told MSUO officials they must "gear for this tomorrow."

A warning against "taking the easy way out" in the adult education program came from Dr. Cyril O. Houle, professor of adult education at the University of Chicago.

Offering work which is at a university level and not filling the curriculum with routine service courses is vital, Houle declared.

Houle said a faculty responsibility is convincing young students to continue to learn for the rest of their lives. He noted that more professional men continue their educations than liberal arts students.

Athletics Will Play Part in Student-Faculty Life

By BRUNO KEARNS
Pontiac Press Sports Editor

Sports, recreation and physical education will play an integral part in the student-faculty life at MSUO.

Competitive and intra-mural athletic programs are expected to grow as the desires of the students and faculty become more evident and as on-campus and off-campus facilities become available.

Within three years a modern tri-level intra-mural or activities building covering 100,000 square feet for men and women is expected to be added to the Oakland campus.

The plans within the structure call for a gymnasium with a capacity for 3,000, a swimming pool with seating for 700, a physical ley was a physical education instructor at Beloit College prior to entry into the Navy. He was a swimming instructor and also taught wate rsurvival in the service.

Roy J. Alexander, dean of students, said the "philosophy of the University is to encourage as complete a participation as possible in student activities."

Alexander said that eventually MSUO will participate in intercollegiate activities but at a low pressure level.

The man appointed to guide the recreational and athletic program for the Oakland campus is Hollie L. Lepley, former assistant professor of physical education and swimming coach at the University of Nebraska.

Lepley comes to MSUO with a wealth of experience in physical education. He attended Marquette University and received a bachelor of philosophy degree from Carrol College in Wisconsin.

He obtained his M.A. degree in physical education from the University of Wisconsin and received his Ph.D. from Indiana University the past summer.

A veteran of World War II, Lepnumerous physical education and collegiate committees.

Under a present agreement, MSUO and the Pontiac school system have a two year contract sharing Lepley's duties.

"The reason for this," said Lepley, "is to help coordinate a program of physical education in the Pontiac school system and develop a working relationship so that the university and the school system may profit mutually."

Lepley pointed out that MSUO would have to depend on many of the community facilities in Pontiac and in turn the school system could profit from the teaching resources of the university.

A tentative schedule of physical education classes has been set up by Lepley and participation in this phase of the program is strictly on a voluntary basis.

Instructions will be given with co-educational classes, with both male and female members of the staff and qualified faculty members and students assisting.

A member of the MSUO staff in the instructional and recreational program will be Miss Jean Young, presently the supervisor of physical education in the elementary schools of the Pontiac school system.

Archery, golf, bowling, casting and marksmanship are the first sports activities included on the program.

Julian W. Smith, professor of education at Michigan State University, has designed a pilot program for experimentation at MSUO and he has been instrumental in supplying instructional materials for the archery, casting and marksmanship activities.

The university is supplying many of the materials such as the bows and arrows in archery, rods and reels in casting, and the clubs for the golf classes.

Arrangements are being made with local bowling establishments for instructional classes, with the students paying for the charges and being responsible for transportation.

Attempts are also being made for a winter indoor program with the possibility of utilizing facilities in the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Dept. and the school system.

It is anticipated that MSUO basketball teams may participate in the city leagues and that volleyball, table tennis and swimming programs may be worked into school and city facilities.

Athletics and recreation have not been by-passed at MSUO. Officials fully realize the integral importance of sports in the university life of students and faculty.

HOLLIE L. LEPLEY

Frats, Sororities Banned to Avoid Discrimination

Social fraternities and sororities will be barred from the MSUO campus because university officials think they accentuate certain discriminatory practices which are not in keeping with "the American way."

★ ★ ★

"Fraternities make membership exclusive instead of inclusive," Roy J. Alexander, dean of students, said.

"We are aiming at full participation by the whole student body in the whole program of student activities," he pointed out.

MSUO will be one of the few state institutions in the country to eliminate social fraternities and sororities from the campus.

TO PROVIDE ACTIVITIES

Alexander said the university will provide most of the activities for the student which are usually provided by these social organizations.

One of the first steps in this direction will be development of an organizational pattern by an "exploratory committee" chosen by the student body.

This will entail a combined effort with the faculty to develop plans for school government, club organizations, publications and advisory groups.

"This direction taken by MSUO is a means of putting the proper emphasis on the student activities program," Alexander said.

HERE'S THE LOWDOWN — Dr. Robert F. Hopkins, director of counseling and testing at Michigan State University Oakland, met with a number of students informally during the past few weeks to let them know what is expected of them as the university opens its doors for the first time today to its pioneer class. Basic advice given to students was "Think for yourself."

Chapter I Ends . . . Now Chapter II Starts

Developing University 'Exciting'

By DURWARD B. VARNER
Chancellor of MSUO

Today we are writing both the closing words of Chapter I and the beginning words of Chapter II in what promises to be one of the nation's most exciting educational adventures.

Chapter I represents the most satisfying period of my own professional life. During these past 32 months, I have shared in the excitement of one of education's most generous gifts.

I have participated in shaping the dreams, the plans, the aspirations for the nation's newest university.

I have also puzzled over the problems and frequently shared in their solution.

I have experienced the feeling of satisfaction which comes from working with a small group of dedicated individuals whose efforts have exceeded any normal expectations simply because they believed in the worthiness of the objective.

I have sensed the enthusiasm of the community, and from this have gained renewed courage and have realized all the more the necessity for doing this job well.

Chapter I has been exciting—even dramatic—to those of us watching each page unfold. So that the community may share with us in some of the events, let us touch lightly some of the major developments in the evolvement of this new program.

As you must know, this university had its origin in one of the most courageous acts with which I have had any experience in my lifetime.

It is not easy to give away one's life's accumulation, but here we have witnessed a deed of generosity not often exceeded in America's educational record.

This has been a story of wealth accumulated in the traditional American framework of competitive free enterprise and the story of a return of the major share of this wealth to serve the community from which it came.

For those who cry out for the preservation of our American ideals, I submit this decision of the Wilsons as a kind of positive action designed to achieve just this.

2,000-ACRE GIFT

Meadow Brook Estate, together with the beautiful Van Hoosen Farms—given through the generosity of Miss Sarah Van Hoosen Jones—gives this university a total of almost 2,000 acres as the campus for tomorrow.

In accepting these gifts, the board of trustees of Michigan State University accepted a far-reaching commitment to the citizens of this area and everywhere that from this gift should rise a new institution—one which could measure up to the potential symbolized by the generosity of the gifts.

The board of trustees gave us but one guideline. Literally, they said "Don't be bound by tradition—build a new university which encompasses as many of the good new ideas as can be identified."

With this mission, and with public interest in education at an all-time high, it seemed only natural for us to seek the counsel of an interested and enlightened group of citizens in the community.

A committee of 50 was selected, representing a wide variety of interests—leaders in industry, labor, business, banking, publishing, and education.

Their enthusiasm has resulted in the establishment of a permanent organization known as the Michigan State University-Oakland Foundation with the purpose of promoting the development of this new institution. In recognition of their invaluable assistance, the Board of Trustees of Michigan State University has voted to name the first building in their honor, and it shall be known as Foundation Hall.

The program of the university may well mark a turning point in American higher education.

It is committed to the concept of developing liberally educated young men and women regardless of their chosen field of specialization. It places an emphasis upon a knowledge of the world about us, with a particular reference to the all-too-little-known non-western cultures.

It proposes that the faculty be encouraged to innovate—to seek new ways of improving the effectiveness of the learning process.

STAFF IS YOUNG

The heart of a university, of course, is found in its faculty. From the beginning, it has been our purpose to attract a young, enthusiastic, and highly educated teaching staff. This we have accomplished.

The first faculty includes 25 members. The average age is 33. Twenty-three possess earned doctors degrees—the remaining two have achieved distinction in their own right.

They come from the great universities of America—Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Chicago, Michigan State, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin—to mention but a few. They come with a sense of mission—they recognize the potential which is ours.

The student body is an extremely good one—able, serious minded, aware of the purpose for which we are established.

They come largely from the two-county area, but there is an important group coming from other parts of the world to share in this new undertaking.

While the group cannot be labeled as an elite in the academic world, it is our conviction that they possess the ability to respond to the program which they face and that they shall assume key roles of leadership in their society in the years ahead.

This is the story of the development of this new university; of the plans and the projections, the dreams and the aspirations.

END OF CHAPTER I

Now we begin again—not in the planning, but in the execution of the plans; not in the dreaming, but in the reality of a new university. The planning has been done well, but now the real task begins.

★ ★ ★

In facing the job ahead, I am confident. We begin with an able student body, one of the most exciting faculties in America, an adequate beginning toward a physical plant, and a community with loyalty and enthusiasm.

The script has been written; the stage is set; the cast is prepared. It is our firm belief and commitment that we shall here develop a university commensurate with the magnificence of the gift of the Wilsons and equal to the enthusiastic expectations of the community.

There's Room for 500 Students and Campus Will Mushroom

A visitor to Michigan State University Oakland might at first wonder where there's going to be enough room for 500 students.

For spotting the green rolling hills of Meadow Brook Farms—home of MSUO — are but three buildings, the seedlings which will someday grow into a great plant of learning.

"Great things take a long time to build," reminds George Karas, whose job is to coordinate all construction. "Remember, Rome, too, wasn't built in a day."

Although the Alfred G. Wilsons generously gave MSUO their 1,600-acre estate—save some 127 acres for themselves—the three university buildings represent only a speck in the northwest sector of the land.

There, under a green Meadow Brook water tower is the two-wing Foundation Hall, the university's initial classroom and administration building, and the Oakland Student Center, which will serve as a home away from home for the freshman class.

ON THE BOARDS

Still on the drawing boards are plans for a library, intramural building for athletics, and an engineering classroom, Karas said.

Officials possess no fears they are opening the school prematurely. "You have to start with something," Karas said.

Just four and three-quarter miles from downtown Pontiac a visitor will come across the modern one-story administration building linked by a patio-type mall to a three-story classroom wing. This is Foundation Hall.

There are three identical floors of 13 classrooms each, two of which will seat 70 students while 11 will seat 35. Sizes of rooms can be enlarged by relocating sliding partitions.

Karas places a $2,000,000 price tag on Foundation Hall, and $700,000 on the student center, located immediately to the east of the hall.

Money came from a $2,000,000 gift from the Wilsons, revenue bo[redacted]nds, and $30,000 from [redacted]unty.

Eventually, the three-story Foundation Hall south wing will be a jack-of-all-trades type building in that it will house many miscellaneous functions which would normally be in separate buildings on other college campuses. There will be room for an infirmary, which can, if not in use, be changed into two small conference or seminar rooms.

★ ★ ★

Because of the many functions which would be housed in this first academic building, it was decided to construct two wings—one of three stories (south) containing all the classrooms and a one-story wing (north) housing the other facilities.

Some of these other facilities will be executive offices, faculty offices, a 10,000-volume library, registrar's office, science laboratories and lecture halls.

Until the winter winds grip the area, students most likely will congregate between classes in the open air passageways between the two wings and adjacent landscaped court.

Then there's the student center. Karas estimated that this will be 85 per cent complete by Sept. 21. This includes the cafeteria and a dining room where the student body as a whole can meet.

Faculty offices in the science-administration wing are 8 by 10-foot cubicles, clustered in two groups of 12 each. Larger offices are available, as well as a secretarial pool.

The north part of this north wing contains four science labs for beginning and advanced chemistry and physics.

The utmost in modern educational methods—use of television—will be possible at MSUO through a closed circuit provided for in all classrooms. Six rooms will be equipped to originate television instructional matter.

Classrooms will not depend on daylight for working light. Windows have been reduced in size and have been treated primarily as architectural elements, both inside and outside the building.

Most areas will be provided with recessed fluorescent lighting fixtures.

Plenty of daylight will shine through the windows of the student center, for which ground was broken April 9 by Durward B. Varner, chancellor, and Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

★ ★ ★

The functional edifice will be one story high and of contemporary American design with a minimum of decoration.

Although Karas admits the school needs an auditorium badly, in the interim the center will have to suffice for large gatherings of the student body.

According to Varner, the student center will have accommodations for seating 400 persons at one time, and will be adequate for a student body of 1,200 to 1,500 students.

The center will contain ample eating facilities, including dining rooms, cafeteria and snack bar, spacious lounges, student activity areas and office space.

Ping pong, square dancing and other social activities will be held in the 40x70 basement recreation area, Karas said.

"When finally complete," Karas said, "the center will be large enough to take care of the entire student activities program."

Campus 'Glow' Radiates 22 Miles

By LEE WINBORN

The beauty radiated by Michigan State University Oakland's campus doesn't stop at the boundaries of the 2,000-acre parcel.

Its glow, instead also beams over the 22-mile area surrounding MSUO.

Powerhouse behind this wondrous dispersal is the Avon-Pontiac Townships Planning Commission. The group was formed last December.

Its creation was prompted by the unique and fortunate situation of being able to plan a university community while the first MSUO buildings were still in the drawing board stage.

The comparatively open and undeveloped status of the surrounding area made this project unusual. It also opened a wide path for orderly expansion under controls set up by governing bodies in both townships.

PRELIMINARY SESSIONS

Many preliminary meetings were held before a steering committee was created.

Serving on the coordinating committee with MSUO Chancellor Durward B. Varner were Leroy Davis, Pontiac Township supervisor; Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors; Cyril E. Miller, Avon Township supervisor; and Harold A. Fitzgerald, publisher of The Pontiac Press.

The services of Robert H. Hotaling then were obtained. Hotaling is a specialist in urban planning from the MSU Institute for Community Development and Services. He is acting as study director of the original committee.

The university community was and still is, to a major extent, the primary responsibility of local citizens.

"The responsibility includes making an inventory of the present area, analyzing the inventory in terms of trends and present development of the community, and ultimately making future plans that apply to the entire area," Chancellor Warner said at the outset of the study.

In addition to the five-man committee, six working committees, composed of 30 citizens, have been involved in the study.

OTHER SUBCOMMITTEES

Since the study was started, other subcommittees have been formed to work on specific phases of university community growth.

The Planning Commission, as it was organized early this year, was composed of E. Tilson Peabody, chairman; L. Rex Bebout, vice chairman; and Sidney Q. Ennis, all of Avon Township; and Dr. S. L. Slowik, Mrs. Peter Garland and Lloyd Ludy, all of Pontiac Township.

The area the planners are concerned with is bounded on the north by Dutton road, on the east by Livernois road, on the south by the Grand Trunk railroad and Auburn road, and on the west by the proposed Walter P. Chrysler expressway.

First pressing problems, resulting from the location of the new university, were land subdivision, sewage disposal and traffic circulation.

Early this month the Planning Commission held its first public information meetings to let the people know what progress is being made.

SCHOOL EXPANDS

Other meetings are scheduled soon with Pontiac, Avondale and Rochester school districts so their boards of education may have a voice in school expansion in the areas they govern.

Meetings with real estate men and home builders interested in developing the university community, property owners, MSUO officials and county officials responsible for certain phases of providing facilities and utilities for the area also are slated.

Public information sessions will be held for new residents to let them know what is planned and to learn their reactions to work done thus far, Hotaling said.

Termed a "continuous education process," the planning program is now in a formulative stage, being constantly evaluated and changed where necessary to conform with ever-changing conditions.

The planners have made suggestions for zoning changes which currently are under consideration by both township boards. They concern lot sizes, district classifications and building sizes.

Both Pontiac and Avon Township supervisors say the location of the new university "hastened" development of the $660,000 sewage system to serve MSUO and the residential area around it.

The system initially will accomodate 700 homes and a school population of 500 students. It is designed, however, to ultimately serve 2,100 homes.

With each passing day the sewer lines draw closer to the university, and construction now is underway on the treatment plant in the vicinity of Avon and Livernois roads.

Avon supervisor Miller pointed out that three years ago, proposed sewer system was turned down because there was "not enough development" to support it.

The picture changed with location of the new university in the area. This single factor "hastened" its construction and will cause the land around MSUO to develop rapidly in the years to come, he said.

His prophesy was substantiated by Hotaling, who has made a preliminary population estimate for the university community.

COULD DOUBLE BY 1970

Stressing the point that variable factors may change the estimate over the years, he said the population which approached 10,000 in 1958 could more than double by 1970 reaching between 20,000 and 25,000.

By the year 2000 the total could be between 50,000 and 75,000.

That is, of course, if present plans for the university community are acceptable and remain so in the future with no great degree of variation, the study director said.

Dem Senator Censures GOP Farm Program

RICHLAND CENTER, Wis. (upi) —Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis) said yesterday the "failure of the administration to propose a farm program" was a national disgrace.

★ ★ ★

"The farmer is caught between rising costs and falling prices," he said. "The taxpayer is gouged by the costliest department of agriculture in history and the administration has done little but sit idly by denouncing Congress and vetoing the major farm bills Congress passed to improve the situation."

Cardinal Cushing Says K's Visit Greatest Victory

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Boston, said Sunday that Americans "baptized" Communism when the United States government recognized it and "canonized it when we invited its leaders to our shores."

Cardinal Cushing told Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev — addressing the world's No. 1 Communist directly during an address prepared for radio broadcast — that his visit to America "is probably your greatest victory in the cold war."

The prelate, appearing on the Manion Forum, said the successors of Karl Marx, Frederick Engels and Nicolai Lenin "have seized two continents and set fire to all others by engineering the most skillfully executed power-grab in human history."

Cardinal Cushing said the spiritual answer to "this monstrous thing," Communism, is Christianity.

"Mr. Khrushchev, guest of our President, It's not too late for you to turn back. That you will do so, I have encouraged millions of people to pray for you and your people during your visit to our country," the Archbishop said.

★ ★ ★

"At the same time, we are praying for the multitudes in your captive nations and for the unnumbered dead whom you sent to premature graves. They will become a nightmare to you as they did to Lenin, Marx and Stalin before they died," he added.

"With your visit to America everything has now been tried to placate you, to convert you. You wanted this visit.

"Having failed in all our efforts to satisfy you, we have turned to our secret weapon — prayer. God grant that it will be effective."

Play Is Translated

TOKYO (UPI)—The Communist New China News Agency said today the first traditional Vietnamese play ever to be translated into Chinese has appeared in Peiping. Its title: "Oysters, Rock Oysters, Snails and Clams."

The 55 certified airlines in the U. S. carried 49 million passengers last year, 1½ billion letters and 500 million ton-miles of freight.

DEAN OF CYCLISTS — Cycle officers are not uncommon, but Police Sgt. Hans Tonne of the Cleveland, Ohio police department, is an unusual one — he's 64 years old. He has been a cycle officer for 29 of his 35 in the department and the 13 men in his unit are mostly in their 30's.

There are now almost 45 million households in the U.S. with at least one television set — an increase of more than 12 million since June 1955.

Best Education

By DR. BENJAMIN FINE and LILLIAN FINE

Most good colleges are overcrowded; they have three or four more applicants for every vacancy. And the situation is going to get worse.

Some prospective students are going to be rejected. Most of them will be the ones with inadequate preparation, low test scores, personality difficulties, and lack of drive.

But some will be average or better than average kids who just don't know how to accomplish the increasingly difficult feat of getting admitted to a good college.

Start thinking about the problem early, especially the financial angle. Banks, insurance companies, mutual funds, and investment brokers all have plans for helping you finance your children's education — if you start early enough.

Make sure your son or daughter really wants to go to college. If in spite of all your efforts, your youngster doesn't like books and doesn't like to study, if he has not done well in high school, it is likely to be a waste of time and money to send him.

Encourage youngsters to begin thinking about college when they are in junior high school. If possible, invite college students to your home during vacations and get them to talk about their experiences. Visit college campuses.

Make sure your youngster is taking the high school courses required for admission.

Encourage him to try the College Entrance Examination Board tests. Several hundred colleges require or "suggest" that candidates for admission try these tests. It costs about $15. Write to Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J., for information about them.

It is usually a good idea to take the tests for practice in eleventh grade to find out any weak spots.

★ ★ ★

There is not enough scientific evidence as yet to suggest that a student can improve his score by cramming. But, if properly tutored, for about 15 weeks, students may be able to raise their score by as much as 100 points.

★ ★ ★

Most colleges now ask that the student who applies be in the upper half of his class, and have an above-average College Board score. The score ranges from 200 to 800. The average is 500. However, your youngster should aim for 600 if he is anxious to get into a school such as Harvard or Princeton.

Get to know the principal and encourage the youngster to have and interview with him about his college plans.

College admission officials take very seriously the information they receive about a candidate from his high school principal.

Marks come first, but extracurricular activities count too. Where competition is severe, such activities may be the deciding factor. However, it's the quality, not the quantity, that counts.

CHILD SHOULD CHOOSE

Before you decide which college to consider, you must know what your boy or girl wants to get out of college and where his vocational abilities lie. Too often high school youngsters do not know these things themselves, which adds to the difficulty.

We recommend strongly that your child, not you, be the determining factor as to the college to be selected.

Are colleges costly? Yes, and getting more so each year. It will cost about $2,000 to send your child for one year to a campus college. The Ivy League colleges charge from $1,000 to $1,400 for tuition alone.

Add room and board, travel, incidentals, books, and other fees and the total figure mounts rapidly. Within two or three years the average college cost will rangs from $2,500 to $3,000.

Some colleges have "work-study" programs that permit a student to earn a good share of expenses. Others have part-time employment bureaus. But lack of money need not deprive a bright, energetic youngster of a college education. Some 15,000 scholarships go begging every year!

RATING A COLLEGE

A good college should have these qualifications: 1. A good general reputation. 2. Accreditation by the recognized regional and professional groups. 3. A good faculty. 4. Good administrators. 5. Recognition by the honor societies. 6. Strong courses in the field of your child's special interest. 7. A liberal scholarship policy. 8. Good library and laboratory facilities. 9. Good placement bureau. 10. A sensible program of extracurricular activities.

A college should be rated on its academic standards and its possible effect on your child, not on its snob approval.

What do you do if your son or daughter receives notice that his application has been rejected by the college that was his first choice? This can be a shattering experience for a youngster who has tried hard and has a good record.

Actually, most such rejections are just plain bad luck. If he has a good scholastic record, almost certainly he will be accepted by another college.

What if his high school and College Board records are not impressive? If he does have real ability, the trouble may be lack of study skills or just laziness. Sometimes a year at a good preparatory school, where classes are small and teachers stern, will bring him up to college standards.

★ ★ ★

Sometimes a junior college is the answer. After two years at a good junior college, many students are able to transfer to colleges that have previously rejected them.

What do colleges look for in an application? A study we made recently of 1000 colleges shows: 1. Grades and rank in class. 2. College Entrance Examination scores. 3. Recommendations from principal or counselors. 4. Personal interview. 5. Extracurricular activities.

Parents should recognize that intangibles also help influence a college's decision. For instance, many admit only a certain number of students from each section of the country.

By the time your children are of college age they are mature adolescents, and should be so treated. Above all, you should instill emotional security, not dependence, into them. More boys and girls fail in college because of an emotional block than for any other reason. Much evidence exists that children from happy homes will do better work in college or high school than those from emotionally unstable or unhappy homes.

Plan Lunar Shot This Fall

Says U. S. Can Hit Moon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Defense Department official said today American missiles are just as accurate as Russia's and can hit the moon.

Dr. Herbert F. York, Pentagon director of research and engineering, made the comment in a copyrighted interview published in U.S. News & World Report.

York said the key to Russia's success in the moon shot was its much more powerful rockets, capable of sending up to a thousand pounds of instruments and guidance equipment over the long space journey.

Last fall the United States was ready to send only 10 pounds of "payload" to the vicinity of the moon, he said.

"Their rockets are certainly bigger and probably more reliable," York said.

However, he said American plans for a moon shot this fall include the use of much bigger booster rockets, namely Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles.

"As soon as we shift to using the ICBM as the basement booster for lunar probes," he said, "then all of these things will be just as easy for us to do as for them."

Summer School Helps Children With Handicaps

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI)—During the past 11 years some 650 youngsters have learned that their speech and hearing problems can be solved.

Each summer since 1948, boys and girls aged 6 to 18 have gone through daily programs of therapy with recreation and special instructio nat Syracuse University.

"We firmly believe that these children benefit immensely from working and playing and living together in as natural a way as possible," said Dr. Charles V. Mange, director of the Summer Residence School for Children with Speech and Hearing Problems at Syracuse University.

For three hours each day the students receive both group and individual attention consisting of lip reading instruction, auditory training, selection and evaluation of hearing aids and language activities.

In addition, the program seeks to help the youngsters overcome the social and emotional problems connected with their handicaps.

Williams Nixes Sheriff's Plea

Local Authorities Still in Charge at Scene of Cross Co. Strike

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—The violence - marked Cross Co. strike entered its 49th day today with local authorities still holding top responsibility for preserving the peace.

Over the weekend Gov. Williams turned down a request from Macomb County Sheriff Harley Ensign that State Police be given the authority for policing the United Auto Workers' strike at the automation machinery plant. Ensign said the strike was "out of control."

Williams, acting from Washington, said "State Police will not be used as strikebreakers or to render special assistance to the union. They will not intervene in the dispute on either side."

A statement in the governor's behalf was issued from his Lansing office after he and aides had consulted on the telephone. Williams was in Washington at a Democratic party meeting.

Ensign said in his request to Williams that he lacked the manpower to handle the situation.

★ ★ ★

State Police have been on the strike scene but only in the capacity of assisting local officers.

Signs Bill to Clarify Property Tax in Business

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams has signed a bill clarifying the authority of local units to tax personal property used in connection with a business conducted for profit.

Rep. Walter H. Nill (D-Muskegon), the sponsor, said the measure was designed to permit taxation of personal property leased by Continential Motors of Muskegon from the federal government and used for profit making purposes.

Has Baby Unexpectedly

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Shirley Lee, 24, had a baby Friday on the front steps of the Army Overseas Supply Agency at Ft. Mason. Mrs. Lee, a communications supervisor at the San Francisco Army station, said the baby wasn't due for another six weeks. She and her six pound, three ounce daughter were later reported doing fine at Chinese Hospital.

Joey Bishop Is Different

You Have to Be Honest

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—Is Joey Bishop for real?

Here's a comedian who's different. He doesn't use dirty jokes in his night club act. He fraternizes with the kitchen crews in those clubs and invites them to his home at Englewood, N. J.

His phone number is in the book. He doesn't flash costly wrist watches, sapphire rings, silk suits or lacy shirt-fronts from the night club floor. He doesn't crack a smile while performing. He doesn't butter up every audience by calling it "the greatest."

In fact, his conversation is devoid of such show business superlatives as "great," "terrific" or "fabulous."

In the face of all these obvious handicaps, how does Bishop, a well-paid but hnugry-looking fellow from Philadelphia, keep working?

And work he does. Besides being a regular on the CBS-TV show "Keep Talking" and a frequent visitor to NBC-TV's "The Jack Paar Show," he is often a guest on the variety hours, makes motion pictures and moves along in high gear on the night club circuit.

It has to do with basic honesty, Joey says. He has endeavored to chip away from his personality and makeup all barnacle-like affections and show business mannerisms that smack of insincerity.

"If I'm tired, I tell the audience I'm tired," said Joey." I try to level with everyone. The other day, I was playing golf and someone said, 'How come whenever some poor slob comes here, he's Bishop's guest?' I said, 'Because I never forget the guys I knew when I didn't have the money to play golf.' "

Joey thinks this approach is as good for the career as it is for the soul. "People respond to a human being," he says. "If a comedian flops on TV, it's because he has never established himself as a human being.

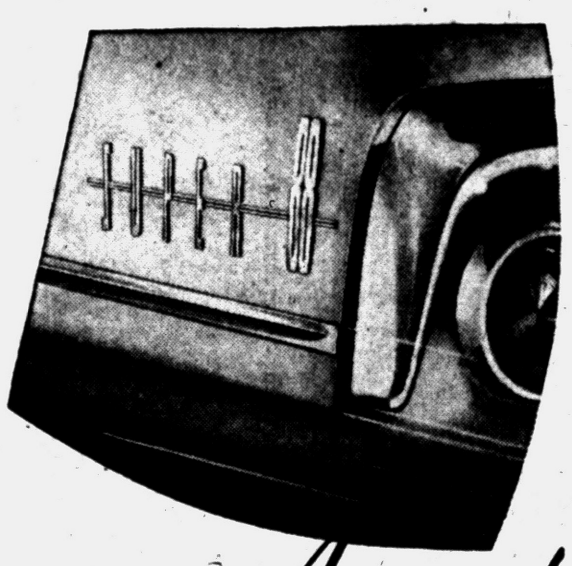

If he shows that he is human, the public is ready to overlook many human failings. I think that is why Dean Martin does so well on TV. He comes over as a human being when he talks about drinking, or women.

"The old-time performers would never have made it if TV was around when they started. They'd stand on a stage and you couldn't tell from your seat if they were sincer or not when they spoke of what a wonderful audience you were, or cried about something.

"They were dishonest. On TV, you can spot a false front in a minute. I don't think they could have stood it. The era of the dishonest performer is gone. People today insist on talent PLUS honesty," Bishop said.

To Work on State Funds

On Saturday Col. Stephen Mack Society CAR members were hosts to the Michigan Society Children of the American Revolution at a state board meeting. Don't You Trust Your Hostess?

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it rude to lock one's door when staying in someone's house. Recently I was a weekend guest in a friend's house and when I went into my room at night I locked the door. The next day my hostess commented on this and said it wasn't necessary to lock doors in her house as everyone respected the privacy of others. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?"

Answer: Locking your door when staying in a friend's home is not actually wrong, but it does indicate that you have not complete confidence in all the others in the house, and therefore is not a very friendly thing to do.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Does a wedding present have to be sent by the store, or by the individual through the mail in order to be proper? May it never be delivered personally, or taken to the wedding?"

Answer: Usually it is sent by the store that you bought it from with your card enclosed. But if you want to take it and leave it at the house yourself, it is quite proper to do so if you take it before the day of the wedding. Do not, however, take it with you to the wedding because the bride will have no chance to see it.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to invite a boy who lives about 50 miles from here to a dance. The only drawback is this: Am I supposed to ask him to my house or take a room for him at a hotel and pay for it? He will be unable to return home that same night."

Answer: Taking it for granted that you are living at home with your parents, asking him to the house would be the proper thing to do. If this is not feasible, then a room should be taken for him at the hotel by your father—or mother—but not you.

Other DAR committee members of CAR in attendance were Mrs. Allan Monroe, Mrs. L. L. Dunlap, Mrs. E. G. Clark and Mrs. Everett M. Peterson.

Will Meet Friends

3 Couples Leave for Princeton

By RUTH SAUNDERS

BIRMINGHAM—Three couples left by car Friday to meet a fourth couple in Princeton, N. J. This is an annual fall get-together and for several years has been a "looked forward to" event.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leinbach of Colonial Court, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Deveraux and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Decker of Detroit will join the Harry Bitners who now live in Princeton.

This is a very special year for Mr. and Mrs. Bitner who will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary with their friends.

Also in Princeton this week were Mrs. R. Jamison Williams and her eldest son "Rick" who entered Princeton University.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cameron Hoffman (nee) Judy Perry announce the birth of a daughter Anne Perry, Sept. 8.

★ ★ ★

Up at Big Paw, on Lake Huron, last weekend was a group of friends including Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Mosby, Mr. and Mrs. Wright Yount, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Archangeli, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Proctor, the Joseph Wellmans and the Malcolm W. Weltys.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Pretz have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. George J. Crimmins of San Francisco who formerly lived in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Crimmins will visit their son and daughter-in-law, the Roger Crimmins, in Birmingham before returning home.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Graham J. Graham of Bloomfield Hills entertained at a buffet Friday evening. Guests of honor were the board of directors and staff of Kingswood School Cranbrook.

A Woman's Needs Change With Time

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (UPI) — Every woman has four needs, a Chicago business woman told the Lake County Teacher's Association recently.

★ ★ ★

"From age 1 to 14 you need good parents and good health," Mrs. Lorraine Blair said. "14 to 40 good looks and 40 to 60 a good personality." But after 60 years of age, Mrs. Blair added, "you need cash."

International Market Success at Cranbrook

By LYDIA ROTHMAN

A "conservative estimate of 10,000" attended the International Travelers Market for Save the Children Federation Saturday. The event, held at Cranbrook's Greek Theater, was termed "highly successful" by a genial and modest cochairman, Mrs. Edward S. Wellock. Mrs. Robert VanderKloot was chairman.

Community development and self help are the basis of the SCF program and it was just that spirit that made the affair put on by area women such a huge success, said SCF president Richard P. Sanders.

FRIENDLY AIR

A festive, friendly air dominated the colorful scene as husbands made as many, if not more, purchases than their wives from the 17th booths that surrounded the pool and theater. Each booth sold goods from Europe, Scandinavia, the Orient, Hawaii and American Indians.

We saw one tweedy, Tyrolian-hatted gentleman engrossed in a shiny Italian coffee pot—"a real bargain," he told us. Mrs. Herbert Reuben was having a wonderful time selecting a snail cooking pan and the David Lees were particularly proud of a barbecue contraption that looked more like a squirrel cage.

★ ★ ★

The antique booth, under the fine management of Mrs. Theodore O. Yntema and her hard-working cochairmen, Mrs. C. E. Dalton, Mrs. William I. James and Mrs. Henry C. Johnson, accounted for the greatest amount of money made. There was everything from the first vending machine (50 cents and you receive a cud of tobacco) to valuable jewels. Before the first hour of the fair, this booth had made more than $5,000.

EXCITEMENT, TOO

And there were some excited grandparents in the crowd. Mrs. Edwin J. Anderson was busy buying toys for her new granddaughter born just the day before to her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Williams.

From out of town were the Eugene Ketterings who had flown 10 of their friends up from Hinsdale, Ill., for the affair. It was Mrs. Kettering who had the original idea of a travelers market and who inspired her friends, Mrs. Wellock and Mrs. VanderKloot.

At 1 p.m. a beautiful smorgasbord luncheon was served. Such exotic delicacies as sild, rejer, fiske rand (shrimp and fish molds) and kaffe loaded the tables of the James A. Beresford home where the luncheon was served.

★ ★ ★

Among the younger set who served the food attired in Danish costume were Mrs. John Dixon, Mrs. James Fox, Nancy Wonnberger and Mrs. Jere Gillette.

Mrs. Robert McIntosh, Mrs. Paul T. Williams, and Mrs. Dean Olds, left to right, were so impressed at the success of the Rochester Junior Women's Club's annual affair they had to pause a moment to take everything in. Fashions for travel, sightseeing, and evening wear helped carry out the "Weekend in New York" theme. Miniature suitcase programs and a stage backdrop of the city's fabulous skyline were featured.

Boredom Is Deadly

Find Out Cause of Fatigue

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If all fatigue could be removed from the face of the earth what fun we would have and how much we would accomplish! However, we probably would fly off in all directions at once or simply explode on the spot from excitement. Fatigue is often nature's warning that we need rest.

Weak arches can make you feel exhausted. There are many kinds of fatigue, and it is important to discover the source of yours.

BUT what sort of fatigue do we have and what kind of rest do we need? Many people are tired when they should not be and chronic tiredness clouds many lives to such an extent that joyful living is impossible.

There are many kinds of fatigue and it is important to discover the source of yours. There is true physical fatigue which comes from physical exertion. This sort is natural and disappears after a reasonable rest.

Then there is the weariness which is due to some malfunctioning in the body or some unhealthy condition. A low thyroid or low blood pressure can make you feel like crawling. Eyestrain can make you feel exhausted; so can weak arches. Some tired folks are being poisoned by diseased teeth or tonsils or sinuses.

Unless you know that your fatigue comes from a definite source, you should have a physical checkup. This ought to be done periodically anyway.

Boredom is perhaps the most dramatic of all reasons for fatigue. I think many persons do not realize that they are bored. They take all of their responsibilities for granted and go through the same routine day after day. They are tired all the time and finally go to their doctor who finds nothing wrong with them physically.

What to do? Change the situation if you can or to what extent you can. Also bring a fresh viewpoint to what you must do. Cooking a meal can be dull or exciting. Listening to children's prattle can be hectic or amusing, and even the dullest job can be enhanced by a bit more self-investment and imagination.

Develop new interests no matter where you are or what you are doing because boredom will certainly age you and I think it can kill you. The person who is weighted down by the terrible fatigue of boredom can change in a moment to the peppiest person imaginable if something wonderful should suddenly happen.

SIMPLE SOLUTION

This something does not have to be extreme, like inheriting a million dollars. It can be an evening of fun for the housewife, an unexpected gift or thoughtfulness. A man may find relief through a new hobby or a sideline career or sport or study.

Breast-Feeding Baby on Bus OK?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for that moron who held up her coat to hide a nursing mother from the eyes of the world.

ABBY

What, pray tell, is so "shocking" and "disgusting" about the sight of a mother suckling her baby? If you must take it upon yourself to cloak the evil doings of others, get busy and look into those parked cars. Or at the back rows of our movie houses. That is where the coat belongs.

"DISGUSTED WITH SHOCKED"

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Regarding "SHOCKED, MORTIFIED AND DISGUSTED" at seeing a baby nursed in public: Adults eat in public, don't they? Nursing a baby is natural and commendable—regardless of where it is done. After all, that's what the "36" in "36-24-36" is for.

DEAR ABBY: Kindly pass this on for "Shocked, Mortified and "Disgusted." You Americans are shocking, mortifying and disgusting with your strange attitude towards feeding a baby. The rest of the world finds breast-feeding very normal and beautiful.

What about the bare thighs and mid-sections you American ladies are showing to strangers on the streets? Is that more proper? Your sense of modesty and decency needs revision.

SCANDINAVIAN BORN

P. S. Please don't tell me to go home. I like it here.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I read your account of the poor "shocked" party who was disgusted at observing a nursing child on a bus. All I can say is that I have seen more nakedness in the girlie magazines than is revealed when a mother nourishes her baby the way God intended. Please, Abby, don't discourage young mothers from giving their babies a good start in life by breast-feeding them. You could do a lot if you would start a movement to take the bosom out of the girlie magazines and put it where it belongs.

"OVER SIXTY"

DEAR ABBY: God bless that mother who nursed her baby on the bus. That busybody signed "Shocked" should be ashamed of herself. Too bad the nursing mother didn't have twins. That could have electrocuted "Shocked." Yours truly,

ELEANOR

DEAR ABBY: Where was this young mother seen breast-feeding her infant on the bus? I didn't know there were any mothers left who bothered to feed their infants the natural way any more. All the young mothers I know are too busy chasing around to be bothered with it. They leave their babies at home and tell the sitter to make the formula and feed the baby.

If you still have this mother's address, please let me have it. I'd like to send her a present.

"GRANMAW FRANNY"

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for that mother who breast-fed her baby on the bus. Babies don't know where they are when they get hungry. What was the poor mother supposed to do? Get off the bus and go hide?

"NOT SHOCKED"

Visit Northern Michigan After Saturday Rites

Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Alfred Wagner journeyed to northern Michigan following their wedding Saturday morning at St. Michael Catholic Church. The Rev. Charles Cushing officiated at the Nuptial High Mass.

The bride, the former Mary Kathleen Cook, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Cook of North Perry street. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wagner of South Edith street.

Of white nylon tulle and Alencon lace, the bride's gown featured a Sabrina neckline embroidered with iridescent sequins. The bouffant skirt was fashioned with alternate rows of scalloped bands of lace and tiny gathered ruffles of nylon tulle and ended in a chapel length train. Her fingertip silk illusion veil was secured by a headpiece of lace with seed pearl and sequin trim, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and chrysanthemums.

The attendants were gowned alike in ballerina length bouffant royal blue dresses in iridescent taffeta enhanced by petal designed necklines, short sleeves, and fitted bodices. They wore royal blue velvet leaf shaped hats offset by satin bows, seed pearl trim, and circular veils. Yellow roses and white chrysanthemums comprised their bouquets.

The bridegroom's brother, Arthur Wagner, attended as best man. Ushers were James Grappin, James Rochon, and George Retsel.

After an afternoon reception held at the Knights of Columbus Hall the new Mrs. Wagner, a graduate of Nazareth College's Division of Nursing, changed to a red wool sheath with red satin trim and black patent leather accessories for traveling. The couple will reside at Ramona Terrace.

Mrs. Cook wore a silk toast colored suit with dark brown accessories and a yellow rose corsage. A green crepe dress with beige accessories and a corsage of yellow roses was worn by Mrs. Wagner.

Mrs. Khrushchev and Family Are Serene, Easy to Know

By FRANCES LEWINE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Serene is the word for Mrs. Nina Khrushchev in the midst of her husband's unpredictable, hectic and free-wheeling tour.

Mrs. Khrushchev is on her first trip to a country of the West. Is she relaxed amid America's top diplomats, officials and movie stars?

"I've never seen her otherwise," reports her official hostess, Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, the tall, blonde wife of the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Boston-born Mrs. Lodge, who moves with polished grace in diplomatic and social circles, calls the tour "an experience I will never forget."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Lodge believes the whole Khrushchev family is enjoying the visit to America, even if at times it may seem otherwise. Here are some of her impressions:

"Almost everything interests Mrs. Khrushchev. She says the countryside, cattle, even the roofing on a house.

Mrs. Khrushchev laughed out loud at the Broadway musical "The Music Man;" liked the farm at Beltsville, Md., best of all. She seems to know a lot about trees and vegetables, spotting them accurately.

The Khrushchevs—that is son, Sergei, and married daughters, Rada and Julia—and Papa Nikita—appear to be a very close family "and I think they have fun together."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Lodge says Mrs. Khrushchev is "terribly considerate" of her husband.

Mrs. Khrushchev and the daughters have looked eagerly at everything but they haven't asked Mrs. Lodge many questions and "I don't ask any questions of them."

Mrs. Khrushchev's English is fine for chit-chat but an interpreter is needed for anything complicated. Daughter Rada speaks very good English.

Traveling with the Khrushchevs is relaxed, Mrs. Lodge says.

"I never feel there's a cold, awkward silence. They're receptive if you talk and they talk back in return."

The wife of the Soviet premier has no maid or anyone special to look after her needs, as far as Mrs. Lodge could see.

WCTU Officers Are Elected

Officers of Anna Gordon WCTU elected and installed at the meeting held Thursday at the First Baptist Church. The officers are Mrs. Edna Matheny, president; Mrs. Frank Dever, vice president; Mrs. E. C. McNaier, secretary; Mrs. Marion Brown, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Ernal Lloyd, treasurer.

Taking part were Mrs. William L. Carls, Mrs. Dever and Mrs. Sadie Patten. The World Day of Prayer will be held at the church Oct. 6 by the Federation of WCTU.

Discipline Means Instruction and Training

Muriel Lawrence is on vacation. This is the first of six articles that will appear during her absence, reprinted by permission of Random House, Inc. from "The Happy Child" by Irene M. Josselyn, M.D. Copyright 1955, by Irene Milliken Josselyn.)

The belief that a child will interpret parental disapproval as withdrawal of love has made many parents hesitant to express disapproval.

It certainly is not wise to confirm a child's fear by threatening to withdraw affection. Ultimately he needs to distinguish between loss of parental love and mere disapproval. As he becomes aware that his parents love him though they may not like his behavior, he also learns to separate his parents from other people.

Other people will not love him if his behavior is unacceptable. He usually learns to identify the uniqueness of parental love after a few disappointing experiences with other people. The greatest shock comes to the child who, never having encountered disapproval in the secure framework of parental love, is suddenly confronted with disapproval by others.

An infant does not know what the requirements of reality are. He does not know wherein lies danger to himself. He does not know what behavior that will cause him to be loved and accepted by others.

Nor does he know how to find gratification for his impulses without risking his acceptability. He does not know what, according to the patterns of his culture, is right and what is wrong.

His parents are his first and most important teachers. They are constantly teaching him and whatever form their teaching takes it is—in its best sense—discipline.

This word, as commonly used, is a much maligned one. Its origin is significant; it is derived from the Latin "disciplna" meanng "instruction and training."

Unfortunately, however, it has come to have the connotation of "punishment," as if learning could be achieved only by such means. Punishment does have a place in discipline but it is only a small part of valid disciplinary methods.

Discipline from without teaches the demands of reality and how they can most constructively be met. For example, the law that a driver may not go through a red light was made to facilitate the survival of as many drivers as possible. When this law's violator is punished, the punishment seeks to protect the culprit equally with his potential victim.

Hostesses were Mrs. A. M. Haglund, Mrs. Dallas Avery and Mrs. Elmer Odden.

Plans were completed for the family night supper to be held at 5 p.m. Sept. 24 for members and friends of the church and for Visitation Day Sept. 22.

Nothing is an annoying as a run in your stockings just when you want to look your best. About the only cure is to tote an extra pair of stockings in your handbag on such occasions.

Sorority Will Host Board

At the Wednesday evening meeting of Beta Mu Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority at Adah Shelly Branch Library, President Elizabeth Rockefeller noted that the chapter will host the state board meeting. This is the first time the board has met in Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Bruce Narrin announced her committee for the first rush party. A "Beatnik" theme will be used with Mrs. Lawrence Hartman in charge of entertainment. Norma Thyle was appointed chairman of the annual rummage sale with Gloria Rameriz assisting.

Two Kinds of Sugar Used in Banana Nut Cake

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

In order to get just the cake she wanted, Mrs. George Jones of Drayton Woods combined several recipes and came up with Banana Nut Cake. She uses both white and brown sugar in her recipe.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Jones is the first president of the newly organized Drayton Woods Women's Club. Sewing and painting are her hobbies.

BANANA NUT CAKE
By Mrs. George Jones

½ cups granulated sugar
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup shortening
3 eggs
2 cups sifted flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup buttermilk or sour milk
2 cups mashed banana
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup nuts

Cream shortening and sugars. Beat eggs until fluffy and blend into creamed mixture. Sift dry ingredients and add. Beat with mixer for 2 minutes.

Add mashed banana, milk and vanilla. Add nuts last. Bake in greased 9x13 pan for about 50 minutes. Cover with this frosting.

1 cup brown sugar
½ cup water
2 egg whites

Cook sugar and water to soft ball stage. Cool. Beat egg whites until foamy, add syrup and continue beating until frosting holds its shape. Flavor with vanilla if desired. This frosting will stay soft.

Miscellaneous Shower Given to Honor Dee Brim

A miscellaneous shower honoring Dee Brim, bride-elect of Roger Rummel, was held last week at Rotunda Inn. Hostesses were Mrs. Elmer Horne, Rosemary Cole, Mrs. Alex Kokins, Mrs. Sanford Craft, Mrs. Ronald Hodge and Mrs. Nuella Moore.

★ ★ ★

Others were Mrs. August Cremer, Mrs. Harley Ross, Mrs. William Kennedy, Mrs. Leon Bumgardner, Mrs. Robert Lenz, Elna Banghart, Mrs. Ivan Wischman, Mrs. Jerry Novonty, Mrs. Keith Vankleek, Mrs. Albert Miller, Mrs. Jeannine Everett, Mrs. Jack Vun Cannon and Mrs. T. P. Farrell.

★ ★ ★

Concluding the guest list were Mrs. Carl Betz, Mrs. Martin Rummel, the bridegroom's mother; Mrs. Melvin Brim, mother of the bride; Mrs. Eugene Swaney, Mrs. Hargis Sisk, and Mrs. Frank A. Wilson Jr.

Deanery Women Set Card Party

The Northwestern Deanery, Detroit Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, will open the fall season with its annual dessert card party Sept. 30 at 1 p. m. at the Guardian Angels Parish Hall in Clawson.

Mrs. William Cox of Clawson is general chairman. Assisting her are Mrs. William Dean of Pontiac, Mrs. Charles Landine of Southfield and Mrs. Cecil Coons.

Tickets and reservations may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Eugene Busha of Ferncliff road, Royal Oak.

Ex-Resident Gives Party for Her Brother

Beatrice Krug, formerly of Pontiac, assisted by Mrs. Henry Schaaf, entertained 20 members of the Senior Youth Fellowship of Holy Cross Lutheran Church at a surprise party honoring her brother, Kenneth Krug, who was home on leave from the U.S. Navy, and Nancy Grey who has returned recently from Europe. The party was held at the Clarence Krug home on Sherwood road in Oxford.

★ ★ ★

Newlyweds Living Here After a Trip to Canada

After a trip to northern Canada, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Lester Lee Stanley are residing on Beverly avenue. The couple exchanged vows Saturday, Sept. 12 at First Christian Church in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Duncan D. McColl before some 50 guests.

★ ★ ★

The bride, the former Inez Joyce Coffel, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross E. Harper of Walton boulevard, Drayton Plains. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stanley of Frankman street in Drayton Plains are the bridegroom's parents.

★ ★ ★

A ballerina length gown of nylon and eyelet lace over taffeta fashioned with a sweetheart neckline was worn by the bride. She held a bouquet of roses and carnations.

★ ★ ★

Bridesmaid Carolyn Stanley of Drayton Plains wore a gown identical to that of the honor maid in royal blue with matching accessories. Both attendants held arrangements of pink roses and white chrysanthemums in baskets.

John Noonan of Drayton Plains was best man. Elmer Close ushered.

MRS. DAVID CREWS

Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Wiscombe of Peacock avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Marlene Yvonne, to David E. Crews, son of Mrs. Allene Crews of Opdyke road and Earl Crews of Walled Lake. The marriage took place at Pilgrim Holiness Church.

Fine Speakers Needn't Be Expensive

High Fidelity 'Box Magic' Confuses

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y. (NEA) —It was, as the ladies who write tedious magazine stories always begin, one of those perfect days in New York — a day when the heart sings (at 8,000 cycles) and the soul rejoices (at 78 rpm).

It began here in surburban Mount Vernon where 53 incensed audio experts arrived at the laboratories of Consumers Union to stop what could be a real mess in American hi-fidelity listening and buying.

Now, Consumers Union is a $3,000,000 non-profit testing organization which buys the things we buy, puts them through scientifically measured paces, and then announces its findings in a journal called Consumer Reports.

"A number of these are priced well over $1,000 and are about as diminutive as a boxcar. Reading the hi-fi catalogs, it is all too easy to accept the myth that really fine speaker systems are large and expensive affairs forever out of one's reach.

* * *

"The catalogs also encourage a primitive belief in 'box magic' — the attitude that cabinet design will endow even a medium speaker with smooth response and a good deep bass."

In acoustics laboratories, CU technicians discovered, for example, that a Japanese tweeter outperformed other tweeters costing several times as much and that the best performing speaker

THERE'S A MARKET for Music to Do Other Things By

The fight was on. For in the world of hi fi — which is three parts fudge and one part solder — hell hath no fury like an expert challenged.

Letters on impressive stationery sizzled on CU's executive desks; the trade press offered jibes and snarls, and consumers, with their check books open and nibs inked, waited.

* * *

In answer, CU invited its audio critics to come, see, listen and ask.

Of all the owners of hi fi equipment worth $300 and more, Bee Angell has discovered — more than 75 per cent never listen.

* * *

These folks use their sound systems only for background music — the kind you can play equally well on your portable radio or record player — while they do housework, have parties, eat dinner, read and do all those things that cannot be interrupted by compelling sound.

There is, the researchers say, a ready market for somebody with a continuous reel for sound tape that will play two hours of background — or adequate fi — music again and again and again.

* * *

A quick check with Fidelipac, an outfit that has been selling cartridges like these for many years years to restaurants, factories, offices and funeral homes, brings out a short gasp.

"Yes. We're setting up new production to sell to the home market," an executive said. "How do you know that?"

Hat Company's Workers Put It Back in Black

AMESBURY, Mass. (UPI) — Little more than half a year ago, the Merrimac Hat Co. was closed down, with some 200 workers drawing jobless pay.

Today the firm is doing a thriving business.

Two months after the shutdown, the workers took over. The United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International Union paid about $300,000 for a controlling 60 per cent of the Merrimac stock.

* * *

Back to work went the hatters. And during the next five months, management working for and with labor was able to realize a $70,000 profit compared with a $144,195 deficit for the corresponding period last year.

Doubleday, War Hero!

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — Maj. Gen. Abner Doubleday, who is said to be the founder of baseball, commanded Union troops whose defense played a key role on the opening day of the battle of Gettysburg.

You Take Manhattan . . . the Dutch Let It Go

NEW YORK (UPI) — The $24 worth of beads and trinkets paid by the Dutch for Manhattan in 1624 couldn't buy one square foot of office space in the middle of that booming island today, according to Life Magazine.

The city with the world's biggest buildings boasts the world's highest rents, and despite constantly rising prices and shrinking spaces, there seems to be no visible end to the procession of companies and individuals who want to move into these new structures.

Massachusetts ranks first in production of emery and emery products.

Has Costly Memory

CASTLETON, Vt. (UPI) — Charles M. Cook, a West Coast meat packing executive, willed this town $15,000 although he had not visited it since he left as a youngster.

Vice Versa, Too

Mr. K Impresses Gotham

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York did not see much of the Nikita Khrushchevs. But it will not soon forget that they were here for two extraordinary days in September of 1959.

A closeup on television was the closest most Americans came to the Soviet Premier and his family.

New Yorkers going about their business in town gathered that Khrushchev was on the roll to one of his many appointments whenever they heard the roar of his 75-motorcycle escort in the distance or when traffic came to a standstill for several blocks, usually by coincidence at the rush hour.

Those who had hoped to see Nikita and his wife Nina Petrovna were invariably disappointed.

★ ★ ★

A glimpse of the Khrushchev profile, the blurred image of a bald head was about the only reward for minutes and even hours of sidewalk waiting.

It is safe to say that no foreign government dignitary has ever made such an impact on the city, or for that matter the country, as Khrushchev.

MRS. K TRIUMPHS

★ ★ ★

The luckiest New Yorkers of all were some 1,400 theater-goers who got a good look at the premier's wife just because they happened to hold tickets for the "Music Man" on the same night as she.

What kind of impact did New York make on the Khrushchevs?

Mrs. Khrushchev called it a "noisy" city.

'FINE CITY'

Nikita, from the top of the Empire State, said it was a "fine" city, but that Moscow was the best city of all. Every man has a special feeling for his home town, he explained.

★ ★ ★

Son Sergei noticed the heavy automobile traffic and then made a beeline for the butterflies at the museum.

Daughters Rada and Yulia were impressed by the shops of Manhattan, especially the five and ten cent stores.

These were all off-the-cuff impressions and they tell very little of what the Khrushchevs really thought of New York City.

Stringent security precautions did not permit casual strolls and mingling with the sidewalk crowds.

No wonder they are not quite sure what New York is all about. There is no doubt though that the Nikita Khrushchevs were struck by the vitality and power of this great city.

The feeling they probably took with them as they flew is that it would be nice, very nice, to come back to New York some day.

FROM MISSILE TO MAN — An Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile and an Atlas topped by a Big Joe capsule are compared above. Only shortly after the bomb-carrying ICBM was declared ready for troops, another versatile Atlas on a peaceful mission hurled a Big Joe capsule out to sea as a prelude to the first manned rocket launching. The nine-foot-long Big Joe, closely similar to the Project Mercury capsule that will carry a man into orbit, successfully re-entered the atmosphere and was recovered intact.

Swift Co. Back at Bargain Table

But Says Meatpacking Unions Refused Good 'Pattern' Settlement

CHICAGO (UPI)—Swift & Co. charged striking meatpacking unions refused a pattern settlement that would have put its 18,000 workers back on the job today.

The company said it offered to "put into immediate effect money gains matching those in other meat industry settlements" but the United Packinghouse Workers and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen Unions rejected the proposal in weekend talks.

As a result, Swift went back to the bargaining table today in another effort to end a strike which began Sept. 4 when Swift workers walked out in 34 cities.

Talks also were continuing between the Pakinghouse Workers and Wilson & Co. A threatened strike by 5,700 workers was averted Saturday when the union agreed to remain on the job for the duration of the talks.

One agreement was reached yesterday between Local 247 of the United Packinghouse Workers and Libby McNeill & Libby, affecting some 400 Chicago plant employes.

'Poor' Widow, 82, Dies; Has $18,000 in Cash

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—An 82-year-old widow who died while pulling a red wagon to the corner grocery was carrying a purse containing $18,000 in cash, police said yesterday.

Mrs. Tillie Janezic had lived alone in an old home since her husband, John, died 20 years ago. She had no known income other than Social Security benefits but police said her husband once owned a tavern.

Princess Grace to Be Regent If Rainier Dies

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Prince Rainier III has made his wife, Princess Grace, the official regent of Monaco in case he dies.

The Prince promulgated an order in the official Palace Journal Sept. 17 setting forth the procedure to be followed should he die before the heir apparent, 18-month-old Prince Albert, is 21.

The order names Princes Grace regent with full powers until Albert comes of age. However, should she remarry, she would surrender legal custody of Prince Albert and Princess Caroline, and the regency would pass to a four-man state council.

State Tourist Council to Ask $600,000

LANSING (UPI)—The Michigan Tourist Council is expected to ask for a $600,000 budget for vacation travel promotion during the 1960-61 fiscal year.

Council Chairman Robert L. Wooley, Mount Pleasant, said the agency's request will be considered by the council at a meeting in Dearborn Wednesday.

Wooley said vacation travel is a 650-million-dollar industry in Michigan and pours about 40 million dollars into the state treasury in taxes alone.

Train in Mediterranean

ROTA, Spain (AP)—Some 125 Naval air reservists from Michigan and Ohio are currently on active duty in the Mediterranean area. The Patrol Squadron 731, which trains one weekend a month at Grosse Ile Naval Air Station, is flying five P2V Neptune bombers on anti-submarine tracking and attack missions from this new air base on the southern coast of Spain. Skipper of the reservist group is Lt. Cmdr. John R. Doyel of Lansing.

Camera Is Eaten by an Elephant; Results Negative

Zoo officials reassured the man, whose name was not disclosed, that there was no harm done.

Head-On Crash Kills 4 on Wisconsin Road

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis. (UPI) —Four persons were killed last night in a head-on crash on U.S.54 near here.

Sheriff's deputies said the victimes were Ronald Carey, 17, Eau Claire, Wis.; George Culleton, 39, Lincoln, Ill.; Edwin Callaway, 55, Springfield, Ill.; Leslie C. Scott, 47, Lacon, Ill.

Deputies said a car driven by Carey jumped a 12-foot concrete highway divider and slammed head-on into a second vehicle driven by Culleton. Callaway and Scott were passengers in Culleton's car.

Garden Club, Queen Floats Win

Thousands Watch Oxford Parade

The approximately 70 entries in the parade were divided into six groups for judging.

Picked as the outstanding commercial float was that entered by the Oxford Chamber of Commerce. It featured "Miss Oxford," Caroline McMillan, riding in the place of honor and several other lovely local girls.

Second place honors were awarded to the Romeo Peach Festival float with Peach Queen Lorelei Hoxie of Armada and her two attendants, Sheila and Cassandra Dahn, of Romeo.

There was a tie for third place in this division between floats entered by two groups of local merchants. One was sponsored jointly by Bossardet Home Furnishings, Coulter and Conley Clothing, the Doris K Shop, Eggleston's Department Store and Sutherland Oil Co.

★ ★ ★

The other was entered by the Cadillac Market, Production Gear and Manufacturing Inc., the Nowels Lumber and Coal Co, Smith Silo and Krogers.

Next was the Holy Cross Lutheran Church float and the third, the Marine Corps League entry. the Oxford Veterans Assn. entry.

They won first place as the best adult marching group.

The Flashing Legionettes of Lapeer was judged the best youth marching group, with the Oxford High School Band and the Stepperettes of Yale tied for second.

Judged the funniest adult in the parade was "Skip, the Clown" from Farmington, and the oldest mechanical entry was the Shelby Township Lions Club's 1926 Nash.

Judges were Nancy Langford, local gift shop proprietor, Ruth Williams, junior and senior high school art teacher, and Ted Pearson Jr., former village president.

Other units that thrilled the crowd as they passed in review were the Chrysler Corp. Highlander kiltie band, the Detroit Edison Co.'s Lamplighters, fire equipment entered by the Northeastern Oakland County Firefighters Assn. and heavy farm and gravel mining equipment.

1 Dead, 1 Hurt in Auto Crash

Car Strikes Bulldozer Clearing Away Dirt From an Excavation

ROYAL OAK—One man is dead and another in critical condition in William Beaumont Hospital today as the result of an auto accident in Warren Saturday evening.

The car in which they were riding rammed into the rear of a bulldozer on 12-Mile road and Dequindre.

Nicolas Chutoras Sr., 72, of 941 W. 14-Mile Rd., Madison Heights, died early yesterday morning of multiple injuries. He was unable to make a statement.

Ballint Szabo, 76, of 926 Whitcomb St., Royal Oak, driver of the car, is suffering from multiple lacerations, fractures of the left leg and jaw and possible internal injuries. He also is unable to make a statement at this time.

Albert E. Nieman, 30, of 37480 Bart Rd., Romulus, driver of the bulldozer, told police he was driving on the wrong side of Dequindre, cleaning up some dirt from an excavation nearby, and that his co-worker was standing to the side of the bulldozer with a flasher in his hand.

Committee to Work on Juvenile Terrorists in New York First

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Juvenile Delinquency Committee will begin an extensive study this week of the nationwide problem of "teenage terrorists."

★ ★ ★

Chairman Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo) said yesterday the first hearings would be held Wednesday and Thursday in New York City, scene of sustained juvenile violence in recent weeks.

Hennings invited New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner to appear before his group to suggest ways the federal government could be of help in combating juvenile crime.

In addition to presiding over the hearings, Hennings has accepted an invitation from Kings County Criminal Court Judge Samuel S. Liebowitz and Foreman Carl F. Feil to meet informally with the grand jury on Friday to discuss New York City's juvenile problem.

In a related development, it was disclosed that teenage delinquency will be the No. 1 question discussed at the White House Conference on Children and Youth called by President Eisenhower for next spring.

Calls Red China 'Outlaw Nation'

U.S. Attacks Peiping in the U.N.; Is Strongly Against Admission

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States today described Red China as an outlaw which has made itself totally unfit for U. N. membership by mass murder, atrocities and aggression.

In a slashing attack on the Peiping regime, former U. S. Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson told the U. N. General Assembly that the seating of the Chinese Communists would be a mockery of the U. N. Charter.

"By every standard of national and international conduct," he asserted, "the Red regime of Peiping is an outlaw.

"It has perpetrated mass murder and slavery upon its own people.

"It has confiscated without compensation hundreds of millions of dollars of the property of other nationals. It has thrown foreign citizen into jail without trial and subjected many of them to unhuman tortures.

Dog Bites Area Man; Rabies Shots Loom

An Ortonville man bitten Friday morning by an unidentified dog at Ortonville High School will have to undergo a painful series of rabies shots unless the dog is found within the next seven days.

John Wenger of 15 S. Church St., told Oakland County sheriff's deputies that the stray mongrel was a little larger than a cocker spaniel and was black with a white head.

The dog bit Wenger's leg as he stepped from his car. Deputies have been unable to find the dog in an effort to see if the animal was rabid.

Ceremonies Mark Dedication of Walled Lake's Post Office

The modern brick and glass building is far different from the one which served area pioneers, according to Gene Schnelz, chairman of Saturday's affair. Early settlers received their mail in 1832 at a building located on what is now the northeast corner of Walled drive and Pontiac trail.

The years marking the area's growth also have seen a change in the postal service. A number of buildings at various locations have housed the post office through the years. The new post office, with 21 employes, replaces a building just dedicated 10 years ago.

Among the speakers was Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County) who pointed out that postal employes are federal representatives at a local level.

He also noted beneficial changes in postal regulations, including a bill which he cosponsored carrying stiff penalties for sending obscene literature through the mails.

PRESENTS FLAG

Outlining progress possible in speeding mail delivery, he said that mail delivery by jet and rocket in the near future was not a mere fancy.

Broomfield concluded his address by presenting Postmaster Henry A. Gready with a flag that has flown over the Capitol and also over the Post Office Department in Washington, D.C.

Arnold C. Petersen, director of the postmasters division at Washington, representing Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield, also stressed recent improvements in postal service with the use of automatic electronic equipment.

He predicted that, before long, mail would be deliveded within one day anywhere in the country.

Local dignitaries participating in the dedication were the Rev. O. A. Gerkens, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, the Rev. Raymond Jones of St. Williams' Catholic Church and Mayor Waldo Proctor.

Also, Ben Z. Schneider, president of the Chamber of Commerce which sponsored the event, and James A. Decker, chief of police, who presented safe driving awards to nine of the mail carriers.

GETS CERTIFICATE

Postmaster Gready received a certificate from Roland Reese of the Birmingham Post Office, on behalf of the Michigan Chapter of the National Assn. of Postmasters.

Adding music and color to the ceremonies were the 75-piece Walled Lake High School Band, under the direction of Helmut Holland-Moritz, and a color guard from the L. A. Sims Post 3952, VFW, which raised the flag while Charles E. Hutton, a local postal employe for many years, sang the Star Spaggled Banner.

Special guests at the ceremony were representatives from numerous civic groups who had worked to make the new post office possible.

Nikita's Preoccupied With Death

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev sounds like a genial undertaker. The Soviet Premier can tell jokes but he has repeatedly talked of death in one form or another since he came here.

A psychologist might find it gloomy that Khrushchev, who switches from humor to anger in a flash and who has the power to turn the cold war hot instantly, dwells so much on corpses, graves, annihilation, burial and death.

★ ★ ★

He told the West three years ago "We will bury you," explaining when he got here that he had meant communism would prove itself superior to capitalism. He said he didn't mean the physical act of burying.

Nevertheless, "bury" must be high in his consciousness.

At the United Nations he spoke of the need to bury a dead man—meaning the Formosan government of Chiang Kai-shek — and urged that the "corpse" be carted away.

'TERRIBLE TOLL'

At one time he mentioned the power of nuclear weapons to take a "terrible toll in human lives" and at another warned they could cause the "annihilation of human beings."

He referred to the colonial system as "moribund," said a question about the Soviet Union's part in crushing the Hungarian revolution was a "dead rat stuck in your throat," an talked of East-West peace as a "question of the life or death of people."

★ ★ ★

He wondered out loud in Los Angeles if he should commit suicide—this was supposed to be a joke—because he couldn't see Disney land, and he called for American-Soviet assurance of peace lest the earth be "covered with ashes and graves."

Khrushchev is not a simple man. Now, having elbowed his way to the top of the Communist heap, he is used to having his way without contradiction. That may explain his sudden spurts of anger when he thinks he is short-circuited or affronted.

But there is another possible explanation: that he is a lot less self-assured than he tries to appear. It would be easy, judging from things he says, to consider him arrogant.

But that may be only a compensation for deep-rooted inferiority.

His repeated boasts about Soviet power and his brandishing of rockets, even on this visit, are not the language of a man truly self-confident that Soviet power is acknowledged and respected.

He spends too much time trying to compel respect—too much time at least for a man who firmly believes he has respect.

QUICK WITTED

He is quick-witted. He's tough. But he is also impetuous—for example, his bad temper with the mayor of Los Angeles—and this raises questions about his stability an his patient endurance under stress.

This is probably a matter of concern for Western leaders in dealing with him. It's possible he's been putting on an act here, using temper, backed by Soviet power, as a kind of blackjack.

But the temper is there. If Khrushchev's performance so far could be summed up in a sentence, this might be it: he lacks the grace of a man who is really sure of himself.

Yet Khrushchev himself, in talking at the U.N., pointed out how disastrous the instability of one man could be at a time when one trigger-pull on a hydrogen weapon could start a war or destroy a city.

He said then: "The world has reached a point where on the strength of no more than some ridiculous accident, such as a technical fault in a plane carrying a hydrogen bomb or mental aberration in the pilot behind the controls, may translate war into reality."

He'll Be Under Legislative Pressure

Johnson in Political Pickle

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has some political due-bills maturing in January which could make the next session one of Congress' liveliest.

Johnson will be under pressure from the Senate's liberal Democrats to wangle passage of legislation to which they can point as progressive when the party delegates sit down to write their presidential campaign platform.

★ ★ ★

The majority leader, who likes to keep to the middle of the road, has some informal commitments which may bring before the Senate such controversial subjects as civil rights, housing, farm, minimum wage and school construction. Johnson himself has proposed a program of 100 million dollars a year of government insurance of loans to college students.

Faced with a string of presidential vetoes, Johnson was forced to narrow the scope of what the Democrats regard as progressive legislation in the session which ended this month.

There is every sign he will face the same kind of White House opposition in the new session beginning in January. Johnson's attitude is likely to be the same as in the past—that it is better to create laws than to create issues.

New York Works On Race Trouble Alarm

Commission officials said yesterday the commission already has begun setting up a daily check of relations between different races in some parts of the city.

Eventually, the commission hopes to be able to get on-the-spot reports of trouble brewing in any of about 800 different neighborhoods. Official agencies and local groups could then move in to calm down tensions before an explosion, the official said.

Dean Look Will Miss Spartan Opener Saturday

EAST LANSING (AP)—Quarterback Dean Look will not play in the Michigan State football opener against Texas A. & M. here Saturday.

Look, Lansing senior converted from halfback, has been figured as the number one quarterback this fall. But he sprained his right shoulder early in Saturday's game-type scrimmage and now is wearing his passing arm in a sling.

"Look definitely won't get into the game at all," Feurig said. "It was a severe sprain and the shoulder is still sore and tender."

Holes Reported in Laos Claims

No Evidence Found by Writer That a Village Was Taken 4 Times

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Western correspondents who returned from Sam Teu Sunday night said the northeastern village, reported scene of five days of fierce fighting, was practically unscarred.

They said the local commander told them the village in western Sam Neua province had not changed hands four times as Brig. Gen. Ouane Rathikone, Laotian armed forces commander, had reported.

Laotian government troops withdrew under attack Sept. 12, they said, but re-entered the village the following morning and remained ever since.

They said government forces suffered two dead and three injured in the fighting.

The only sign of battle in the fort, which overlooks the village from a hill across the Nam Ma River, was two straw - covered dugouts apparenty hit by mortar fire.

How Long Will It Last?

Eleven thousand dollars. That's how much Life insurance the average insured family owns today. It seems to be a lot of money. It is.

But the hard fact is that this protection—even if all of it were on the family income-earner—would continue the average family's income for less than two years.

So, here's a question to ask yourself: How would your family get along if left with the protection you have? Could they live on it until your youngest child graduates from college—or even high school?

Such questions need to be answered, sooner or later. Your Metropolitan Man can chart, and leave with you, the answers that fit your family's special circumstances.

Like most people, you may be surprised to learn how much protection you can have, and afford, when a tailor-made plan is worked out by a man trained to help families to do the most practical kind of financial planning.

Your Metropolitan Man will work out a plan that will take into account not only your Life insurance but also your Social Security, savings and other assets.

He will answer your questions about your family's particular protection needs in the way that makes sense for you.

Possibility of 3-Way Tie for Pennant Exists in Hectic Race

Wow! It's Crowded at Top of NL Standings

Dodgers, Braves Giants Scramble Wildly for Flag

Los Angeles Has Shaky Hold on 1st Following Win Over 'Frisco

By The Associated Press

Los Angeles has wrested the National League lead from the San Francisco Giants but Milwaukee is breathing down the Dodgers' necks only one half game back.

Warren Giles, the National League president, might as well start flipping coins and drawing plans for a playoff. If this race doesn't wind up in a two-way or even three-way deadlock, he will be a lucky man.

The way the Chicago White Sox have been staggering around the American League, they probably would welcome a respite before the World Series—if they make it.

After Sunday's 8-2 Los Angeles victory that knocked the Giants from a first-place tie into third place a full game behind, both the Dodgers and Giants have five games to play, all on the road. Idle Monday, the Giants will play day games at Chicago Tuesday and Wednesday while the Dodgers are playing night games at St. Louis. They will switch opponents for three final games next weekend.

In the meantime, the Milwaukee Braves, 8-5 winners over Philadelphia Sunday, have six to go. They can tie the idle Dodgers tonight if they can beat Pittsburgh at Forbes Field behind Warren Spahn. The Braves also play night games at Pittsburgh Tuesday and Wednesday. After an off day Thursday, they move home for a final three-game set with the last place Phillies.

The Dodgers completed a three-game sweep over the Giants in the final series to be played at Seals Stadium. If the Giants come back to win the pennant, they expect to play the Series in their new stadium.

A two-game Giant lead of Saturday morning melted when the Dodgers took a day-night doubleheader. Sunday's defeat dropped San Francisco out of the lead for the first time since Aug. 4. It was the first time the Dodgers had held undisputed possession since July 29.

With Johnny Podres opposing Sam Jones, the Giants' 20-game winner, Duke Snider got the Dodgers off to an early lead with his 23rd homer. The Giants chased Jones and added another run in the second, two more in the seventh and sewed it up with four in the ninth. Larry Sherry, Sandy Koufax and finally Clem Labine followed Podres, who gave way during a two-run Giant rally in the eighth.

Labine had the bases loaded with nobody out in the ninth but struck out pinch hitter Leon Wagner and got Eddie Bressoud to bounce into a game-ending double play.

It took a veteran from the American League, Mickey Vernon to spark a Milwaukee ninth-inning rally that beat the Phillies. The Braves saw a 5-3 lead disappear when Carl Sawatski hit a two-run homer in the eighth. Vernon's single drove in the first Brave run in the ninth and the second scored when Harry Anderson fumbled the ball. Bobby Avila, another ex-American Leaguer, knocked in the third run off loser Robin Roberts with a single.

★ ★ ★

Hank Aaron's 39th homer in the first and Eddie Mathews' 41st with a man on in the third helped build up a 4-0 lead for Lew Burdette. The Braves' 21 game winner was knocked out in the sixth and Joey Jay held off the Phils until the ninth for his sixth victory.

Pittsburgh clinched fourth place when Vern Law won his 18th, a 10-1 romp over Cincinnati. Dick Stuart led the Pirates with four singles.

St. Louis came from behind with an extra base barrage to whip Chicago 11-4. Hal Smith hit a two-run double and his 12th homer and Stan Musial chipped in with a two-run homer, hit No. 3,200 of his career. Vinegar Bend Mizel was the winner in relief over Don Elston.

In the American League, the White Sox faltered again and failed to clinch at least a pennant tie when they lost to Detroit 5-4 while Cleveland was knocking off Kansas City 4-3. The White Sox lead by 3½. They have four to play, the Indians five. New York downed Boston 7-4 and Camilo Pascual of Washington won his 17th with a six-hit shutout, 5-0 over Baltimore.

Groth's Catch in 3rd Inning Called Key Play

Detroit 'K' Boys Lead Assault Against Four Chicago Pitchers

CHICAGO (AP)—Charlie Maxwell has been a Sunday pain in the neck all season to Detroit Tiger foes.

This time it was a pain in Maxwell's back that thwarted the Chicago White Sox' bid to clinch a tie for the American League pennant.

The Tiger lefthander pulled a back muscle yesterday in the first inning. Johnny Groth took over in the third. He came up with the play that delayed the Sox' pennant express until at least tomorrow.

Two Chicago runners were racing home when Groth made a diving, glove-hand catch of Jim McCanny's whistling liner in left center. The fielding gem retired the Sox in the third, wiping out two prospective runs.

Detroit went on to win 5-4 for its second straight one-run verdict over the White Sox, who usually come out ahead in such games.

Moments before, Groth, a Chicago native and ex-White Sox, had been a goat. He stumbled chasing Nellie Fox' hit and played it into a double. Al Smith singled, driving in Fox.

Smith moved to third on a sacrifice and an infield out. Bubba Phillips joined him on the basepaths when hit by Don Mossi's pitch. But Groth pulled Mossi out of one of numerous jams.

They had the potential tying and winning runs on base in the seventh and eighth innings and the potential tying run on in the ninth. But each time, the six failed to get one of the clutch hits they've been getting all season.

Harvey Kuenn and Al Kaline led the assault on loser Billy Pierce and three succeeding Chicago pitchers. Kuenn had four hits—including his eighth homer—and lifted his pacesetting batting average to .356.

Kaline belted a two-run homer in the fifth, sending the Tigers ahead 5-2. It was the 25th for the centerfielder.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers other two runs came in the first when Luis Aparicio threw away a double play ball with the bases loaded.

Mossi earned his 16th victory, fifth in a row. But the lefthander was hit hard, yielding all Chicago's runs in six innings. One was Sherm Lollar's 22nd home run in the sixth.

Narleski, Lopez' ace reliever on Cleveland's 1954 pennant winners, escaped without score in the seventh after letting the first two White Sox reach base.

In the eighth, he loaded the bases with one out. Dave Sisler replaced Narleski and eased out of difficulty by getting Aparicion on a foul pop and Fox on a grounder.

Jim Bunning pitched a scoreless ninth. He retired Ted Kluszewski and Earl Torgeson—Both home run threats—with the tying run on first.

Slovak President's Cup Winner; Wilson Injured

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mira Slovak, speed loving Czech refugee pilot, had his wise today—a victory in the President's Cup regatta. But the race had a near fatal ending for another daredevil hydroplane driver.

Don Wilson, who won the race last year in Miss U.S. I, was injured on the final lap when he was thrown from his speeding boat.

★ ★ ★

Slovak ripped over the Patomac River at speeds up to 180 m.p.h. on the straightaways and won the final heat yesterday in Bill Boeing's Seattle boat, Wahoo. With that victory Slovak captured the trophy he had been seeking for three years.

The triumph was a sweet one for the dark-haired 29-year-old Czech, who only six years ago fled the Iron Curtain to freedom by commandeering an airliner.

But Wilson's accident marred the windup of the two-day regatta before a crowd of close to 50,000.

Wilson, a redheaded racing veteran at 27, was thrown into the water on the first turn of the last of five laps over the choppy Potomac. He was knocked unconscious, but an alert rescue crew quickly got him to a hospital.

Wilson, a West Palm Beach, Fla., auto dealer, recovered consciousness at the hospital. He suffered a concussion and was gashed about the head and shoulders. An attending doctor said Wilson's condition was neither very good nor very bad but he would be kept under observation for several days.

The boat showed no severe damage.

At the time of the accident Miss U.S. I was the lone boat among five other finalists with a chance to overtake Wahoo in the scheduled 15-mile heat. The race was halted immediately and the contenders placed by position at the end of four laps.

In other behind Wahoo were Nitrogen, driven by Norm Evans for Samuel DuPont of Wilmington, Del., and Washington; Miss Buffalo, manned by Bob Schroeder for a Buffalo, N.Y., group; Miss Detroit, owned and operated by Chuck Thompson, and Bob Gilliam's Kol-Roy of Seattle.

Through the three-heat regatta, Wahoo collected 1,100 points with two first and a second. Then came Miss U.S. I, Miss Detroit, and Kol-Roy.

Newcomers Star for Red Wings

Aldcorn, Cullen Spark Detroit's 7-4 Victory Over Edmonton

★ ★ ★

The new Wings, Gary Aldcorn and Barry Cullen, helped Detroit to a 7-4 triumph over their Edmonton farmhands in the final game of the training season's first phase yesterday.

Aldcorn fired two goals and Cullen one. Both were acquired from the Toronto Maple Leafs during the off season.

Coach Sid Abel has placed Cullen on his top line with Gordie Howe and Norm Ullman. Otherwise, the Wings are pretty much the same outfit that finished a dismal last in the National Hockey League in 1958-59.

The Red Wings wind up training at Olympia Stadium today before going on an exhibition tour. They leave tomorrow for a nine-game trip through western Canada, returning east for four more games.

Detroit opens its NHL campaign Oct. 10 at Montreal.

Former Detroit Tiger great Ty Cobb picks the White Sox to win the World Series, saying they "are going to revolutionize baseball" by placing the stress on one run. He was honored at a Boston award dinner last night along with Jack Dempsey, Benny Friedman, Eddie Arcaro, Jesse Owens, Don Budge, Eddie Shore and Francis Ouimet.

★ ★ ★

Harvey Kuenn virtually wrapped up the American League batting title yesterday with a 4-for-4 day, boosting his average to .356. Al Kaline is a distant 2nd at .325, 13 points ahead of Pete Runnels of Boston.

★ ★ ★

The Philadelphia Eagles dropped veteran end Ed Meadows and rookie defensive back Al Miller Sunday to make room for two new acquisitions. Added were quarterback Bob Newman, cut last week by the 49ers, and Joe Robb, a defensive end and linebacker. The latter had been put on the waiver list by the Chicago Bears.

★ ★ ★

The Yankees and Milwaukee Braves are reportedly anxious for the new inter-league trading period to begin in November. They are said to be set to startle the baseball world with a big swap featuring a front-line pitcher and a star infielder.

Cleveland Still "Breathing"

Magic No. Still 2

By The Associated Press

The magic number in the American League still is 2 for the faltering Chicago White Sox with Cleveland still alive and breathing.

Joe Gordon, already fired as manager of the Indians, is playing out the string. General manager Frank Lane says he stays until the club is eliminated mathematically. Since he said that, the Indians have won three straight.

Just suppose Cleveland wins its last five games and Chicago loses its four. Would Lane let Gordon manage in the World Series? Or would Gordon be entitled to fire Lane?

Of course that's all hypothetical. With a 3½ game lead, all Chicago has to do is win one more and they can do no worse than tie. Any combination of two White Sox victories or Cleveland defeats and it would be all over.

★ ★ ★

However, the schedule runs in favor of the Indians the rest of the way with all their games at home while the Sox are on the road. Coming up Tuesday night is the big one with Chicago at Cleveland in their final meeting of the year. After that single game, Cleveland entertains Kansas City in four weekend games while Chicago plays three at Detroit.

Cleveland squeezed past Kansas City 4-3 with the help of homers by Minnie Minoso and Tito Francona. Actually, Woody Held's single drove in Rocky Colavito with the winning run in the eighth.

Camilo Pascual pitched his sixth shutout and 17th complete game, both tops in the American League, as last place Washington romped over Baltimore 5-0. Rookie Don Dobbek hit his first big league homer off loser Billy O'Dell in the first.

Elston Howard's two-run pinch homer was the big blow in New York's 7-4 decision over the Boston Red Sox, who beat them in the season series for the first time since 1948. The Red Sox had a 13-9 edge in the year's competition with the Yanks.

Cal McLish won his 19th for Cleveland, which rapped Ned Garver for 12 hits including the homers by Minoso and Francona. Bob Cerv, who hit a two-run homer in the sixth, grounded out to end a ninth-inning threat with one runtyonETAOINETAOINUNUN one run in and men on first and third.

Breaks Wrist in Freak Accident

Duren Through for Season

★ ★ ★

At the conclusion of Saturday's game with the Boston Red Sox, he ran out of the bullpen in right-center field and headed for the Yankee dugout adjacent to first base.

★ ★ ★

He tried to dodge away from a youngster who he thought was trying to grab his baseball cap for a souvenir and stumbled, falling heavily on his right hand.

"I thought it was only a sprain" he said Sunday. "I put ice on it and went home. We had guests at the house and I spent the evening talking with them as the pain seemed to get worse. I couldn't sleep and so I called Dr. Gaynor and he sent me to the hospital."

★ ★ ★

X-rays at Lenox Hill, according to Dr. Sidney Gaynor, club physician, showed a broken scaphoid bone, which is on the top of the wrist in the hinge between the hand and forearm. It was placed in a heavy cast and must remain immobilized for two to three months.

★ ★ ★

Duren had a 3-6 record in 41 relief appearances with an ERA of 1.89.

Pontiac Women Take Golf Title

Mrs. Boyer Paces Win in State MRA Tourney at City Course

With Mrs. Phyllis Boyer leading the way, Pontiac's five-member golf squad won the women's Michigan Recreation Association golf crown Saturday at City Municipal golf course.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Boyer captured tourney medal honors with an 85, 10 over women's par, to pace the local ladies to their 2nd consecutive state MRA title and their 3rd in the last four years.

The Pontiac team compiled an 18-hole total of 455 to score a runaway triumph. Six teams competed in the tournament with Dearborn taking 2nd place at 488.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Zadah DeBolt, six-time city champion, was runnerup for the Pontiac quintet with an 89. Mrs. Edith Wright, this year's city champ, placed 3rd at 90. Bobbie Miller posted a 95 and Jewell Hammett had a score of 96 to complete the local card.

Shrine Victor Over Mt. Carmel in Opener

Mike Glynn, Pontiac halfback, led the attack with two TDs, and an extra point. He compiled a rushing total of 129 yards in addition to pass receptions. Other tallies were made by Dick and John Seymour and Dick Whitney.

All-Star Pin Points

AVOID 2-FINGER GRIP
By Ed Lubanski

There are only two or three bowlers I know of who use a two-fingered grip.

★ ★ ★

But since I won the World Match Game title, people ask me about its value. At any match or clinic or during a practice session, it is the first thing those watching want to know about.

A two-finger grip is best — for Ed Lubanski, not the normal bowler. I have one less finger on the ball, making it easier to control. When I snap the thumb out before releasing all I have left is the index finger.

I can't go for fire-away speed. Only one finger is holding the ball so like it or not I have to go for the correct delivery, lift and spin.

Which is fine. After years of use I have a thumb, index finger and right arm built along the general lines of a side of beef.

The average person doesn't have the finger strength to do anything but use a three-finger grip.

That's what he or she should stick with.

UNDER AND OVER — St. Frederick's quarterback, Jim Kennedy, dives under a flock of St. Alphonsus players, and goes over for the Rams' 4th tally, in Sunday's 30-6 opener. "Jumbo" went three yards, to make the score 24-0 at that time. No. 84 is Rams' end, Bob Shell. Pontiac Press Photo

Lions' Next Game Is 'For Real'

Regular Season Starts Sunday Against Colts

Detroit Triumph Over Redskins Saturday Not Really Sharp

"I'm glad the exhibition season is over, I want to play for keeps," said George Wilson after the Detroit Lions defeated the Washington Redskins, 31-17, Saturday night in Briggs Stadium.

No one can blame Wilson for being anxious to get into the regular season. The Lions finished the pre-season schedule with a 4-2-1 record compared to last year's 2-4 mark.

The victory Saturday wasn't actually real sharp against the Redskins, a team which has been pushed around in the exhibition season.

Barr, the ex-Michigan back who has been hailed as the successor to Jack Christiansen, raced 82 yards with an intercepted pass and 85 yards with a punt for a pair of thrilling touchdowns.

Besides Barr's two long gallops, John Henry Johnson broke loose for a 33-yard dash for the third tally in the final quarter.

Washington scored once in the second period and again in the 4th.

★ ★ ★

The Lions needed 23 plays in their first scoring march as Pietrosante scrambled for short yardage without too much blocking.

"A good start is what we need, and a win Sunday could help us psychologically," said Wilson. Tobin Rote will get the starting call at quarterback.

Bears, Cardinals Top Pro Exhibition Race

Chicago Teams Best

By The Associated Press

Chicago's twin entry of the Bears and Cardinals — the only two-team bloc in the circuit — snagged top honors during the National Football League's exhibition season.

With the pro clubs settling down today to final preparations for the league's regular season openers next weekend, the Bears reign as champs in the Western Division with a 5-1 record and the Cards in the Eastern sector with a 5-2 mark.

The Bears had an opportunity to wind up pre-season play as the only undefeated team, but lost to Cleveland 33-31 Saturday when Lou Groza kicked a 41-yard field goal with 11 seconds remaining.

The Cards, meanwhile, concluded on a triumphant note Sunday as they handed defending champion Baltimore its second consecutive loss, 31-17.

In other weekend games, Green Bay edged Pittsburgh 13-10, New York defeated San Francisco 17-13, Detroit walloped Washington 31-14 an dLos Angeles nipped Philadelphia 31-28.

Bobby Mitchell scored twice and Jimmy Brown dashed 70 yards to pace the Browns (2-4) to a 30-14 bulge at the end of the third quarter. The Bears drove back behind Ed Brown's passing and took a 31-30 lead when Willie Galimore scored from the 3 with a minute to go. Then Milt Plum pitched Cleveland close enough for Groza to take over.

The Cards, with John Crow scoring on a 36-yard pass from King Hill and on a nine - yard run, whipped the Colts (4-2) by stalling Johnny Unitas and his vaunted aerial attack. Bobby Conrad accounted for 13 Cardinal points with a TD, a field goal and four extra points.

The Steelers (2-3) had tied it as veteran signal-caller Bobby Layne engineered a 99-yard march with Tom Tracy going the final 12 yards.

Safetyman Jim Patton set up the Giants' (3-3) winning score in the third period when he intercepted a 49er (2-4) pass and lugged the ball 63 yards to the 1-yard line. Joe Morrison rammed it over. Sam Huff, veteran Giant defensive lineman, suffered a brain concussion while making a tackle and was hospitalized.

★ ★ ★

Norm Van Brocklin tossed three TD strikes as the Eagles (2-4) built a 28-7 lead going into the fourth quarter. The Rams (3-2-1) pulled into contention on Ollie Matson's two touchdowns and finally won it as quarterback Billy Wade rambled 15 yards for a score with a minute and three seconds left.

Pontiac's Beach Scores Clincher in Central Win

By United Press International

Central Michigan's skirmish with Western Michigan was billed as the top game of the weekend as the college football season got under way in earnest around the state and the contest lived up to expectations.

It was a thriller in which Central Michigan came from behind to win 21-15 on halfback Walter Beach's one-yard touchdown plunge in the final 55 seconds of the game.

But the surprise of the weekend was a see-saw battle between Hillsdale and Northern Michigan Saturday night.

The veteran-laden Hillsdale squad took a 29-20 victory, but not without some stiff opposition from the underdog Wildcats who had a six-point lead at halftime.

A safety and a 28-yard touchdown run by halfback Frank Stawiarski in the last period pulled the game out of the fire for the Dales, who were co-champions of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association last season.

The 1959 MIAA schedule opens this week with Albion meeting Hope in the feature game of the conference slate. Albion and Hope were the teams that tied Hillsdale for the MIAA title last year.

Both squads won their season openers against out-of-state opponents Saturady. Albion took a 27-6 decision over Ohio Northern as halfback Mike Stone scored all three of the Britons' touchdowns. Hope's Dutchmen whipped DePauw (Ind.) 20-7.

Olivet won its second game in four seasons as it blanked North Park (Ill.) 25-0. Alma routed Indiana Central 42-14, and Adrian edged Defiance (Ohio) 7-6.

Kalamazoo was the only MIAA team to be defeated as it was handed a 27-7 setback by Wabash (Ind.). Michigan Tech, a member of the Northern State College Conference, took a 12-0 triumph over Winona (Minn.).

CHIP HERO—Walter Beach of Pontiac was the hero of Central Michigan's 21-15 victory over Western Michigan Saturday afternoon. He scored the winning TD with 55 seconds to play. Beach is expected to set an all-time rushing mark at Central this year.

Title Within Reach of Seattle 9 Today

The Seattle team is the only undefeated squad remaining in the tournament, which was narrowed down to three teams yesterday when defending champion Glendale, Ohio, was eliminated by Dearborn, Mich.

Dearborn catcher Dick Clements cracked out a double in the 10th inning of the Michigan's squad's game with glendale yesterday to hand the defending champions their second loss, 5-4, in the double elimination tournament.

Victories over both Dearborn and San Antonio would give Seattle the title because both of the other teams have already suffered one loss.

'Horse of Year' Crown at Stake

The race of the year is shaping up at the new 33 million dollar Aqueduct, with Round Table scheduled to oppose Clarence W. Smith's Hillsdale and the Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer. The winner may clinch the Horse of the Year title.

Pitt Edges Marquette; Missouri, Texas A&M Lose

L. S. U. Off and Running Again

By The Associated Press

LOUISIANA State, already over one big hurdle in its march toward a second straight national championship, tangles with tough Texas Christian Saturday as the college football swings into high gear.

Paul Dietzel's Bengals from the Bayou, rated the top team in the country in the pre-season Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscaters, cut down Rice, 26-3, in their opener last Saturday.

The jury still is out on whether this year's edition of LSU measures up to the '58 version which went through the season undefeated, untied, and then went on to win the Sugar Bowl game.

The Bengals were unsteady in the first half and at intermission were behind by 3-0. But their three teams—the White, the Go and Chinese Bandits—got going in the second half when All-America Billy Cannon whipped 17 yards for the first touchdown. That as it turned out, was all LSU needed.

★ ★ ★

Texas Christian won the Southwest Conference title last year and they say in Fort Worth that the Horned Frogs are bigger and meaner this time around. They won't be pushovers, TCU licked Kansas, 14-7, in its opener.

Oklahoma and Auburn, ranked second and third, respectively, in pre-season estimates, also get into action.

★ ★ ★

The Sooners have won the Big Eight championship 11 years running and there is no reason to believe that any other team in the conference will change things this year. But Oklahoma can't return to the Orange Bowl under conference rules, so the second-place battle will be a good one. Meanwhile, Bud Wilkinson's lads play highly regarded Northwestern.

★ ★ ★

This will be the TV game of the week. NBC will televise it starting at 2:15 p.m., (EST). Oklahoma has met Northwestern only once before. That was in 1939 when the Sooners won, 23-0.

★ ★ ★

Other than the LSU victory over Rice, the most important game last Saturday was Clemson's 20-18 triumph over North Carolina. This one could have decided the Atlantic Coast Conference winner. The two teams were co-favorites for the title.

★ ★ ★

Elsewhere, Pitt was hard-pressed to beat Marquette, 21-15; Texas Tech upset Texas A and M, 20-14; Oregon nipped Stanford, 28-27; Navy blasted Boston College, 24-8; Maryland whipped West Virginia, 27-7; Texas shut out Nebraska, 20-0; Washington clubbed Colorado, 21 - 12; Penn State downed Missouri, 19-8; Arkansas turned back Tulsa, 28-0; South Carolina vanquished Duke, 12-7 and Georgia decisioned Alabama, 17-3.

3rd Straight Win for DDGA

District Golfers Beat MPGA

The Detroit District Golf Association's 16-man team retained the Atlas Cup over the weekend at the Country Club of Jackson with a 13-9 conquest of the Michigan Publinx Golf Association squad in their annual challenge match.

★ ★ ★

The private club golfers grabbed a 4-3 lead in Saturday's Scotch foursome matches with one match ending in a tie.

Sunday the DDGA won nine singles matches to six for the public course players with one match ending in a draw.

Pontiac golfers accounted for three of the MPGA's six singles victories yesterday. Wally Smith conquered Frank Jarrard of Flint, 3-2; Roy Iceberg trimmed Dave MacHarg of Dearborn, 4-3, and Charley Barker defeated Dearborn's Bruce Studebaker, 2-1.

It was the District's 3rd straight win over the Publinx players and gives the DDGA a 10-4 edge in the series dating back to 1938.

Bev Hanson Edges Suggs by 1 Stroke

ATLANTA (AP) — Beverly Hanson had the big shot when it counted most and edged Louise Suggs by one stroke in the Atlanta women's open golf tournament yesterday.

Miss Hanson, playing out of Indio, Calif., rode accurate iron shots to a two-under-par 69 and a 289 for the 72 holes. She said it was the best final round she ever shot in a tournament she won.

★ ★ ★

Miss Suggs, of Sea Island, Ga., started the final round in first place, five strokes ahead of Miss Hanson. But the veteran precisionist lost her touch on the back nine.

The Georgian finished with a 75 for 290. Par for the 6,265-yard Continental Colony Club course is 35-36—71.

Kelly Memorial Race at M-59

The first annual "Rusty Kelly Memorial" will be run Tuesday night at the Pontiac Speedway with all the top local drivers entered.

★ ★ ★

Kelly, a long time local favorite, was killed in a flaming crash at the Toledo Raceway last season.

2 Double Winners in WLYA's Races

Frank Hill (thistles) and Chuck Morris (snipes) were double winners Sunday in Watkins Lake Yachting association sail races. Glenn Fries won the morning lightning event, with Dave Green taking the afternoon race.

Harm Gillan and Norm Ledwan were 2nd and 3rd in the early thistle test, reversed the order in the afternoon. Guy Duffield was 2nd, Frank Fleck 3rd in snipes for the morning. Neil Wheeler and Duffield 2-3 in afternoon.

Green was 2nd in the first lightning race, the Bredes 2nd, Fries 3rd in the afternoon.

Rams Win, Mikes Losers

Kennedy Shines in 30-7 'Upset' Over Alphonsus

Leaky Defense Beats Shamrocks as Lakers Take 21-6 Victory

By H. GUY MOATS

For St. Michael it was a disheartening experience. The Shamrocks fell before a power-packed West Bloomfield club, 21-6, on Saturday night. North Siders' coaches had expected a much better showing in this opener for both squads.

In the Sunday afternoon encounter, also on Wisner turf, St. Frederick trampled Dave Kline's St. Alphonsus club from Dearborn, 39-7. The victory compelled Rams' mentor, Tom Kennedy, to revise his pre-season prediction that "We'll be lucky to win even a couple games."

Shamrocks' loose defensive play cost them dearly. Lakers also were plagued at times by the same difficulty. But Art Paddy's crew made fewer mistakes, appeared to also have much heavier "guns" in speedy Jack Newton, Wayne Ross and Tom Moran, along with Denny Alix, who looks like he'll fill Johnny Lucadam's shoes pretty well.

It was mainly Newton, however, who paced the Lakers' win. He was good for first downs when distance was needed, contributed the Lakers' longest run, a 70 yard broken field scamper.

Newton's TD was the 2nd for Lakers in the 1st period. Ross going over from the five for the first one following a 35-yard drive. Tom Moran made it 21-0 early in the 2nd period with a 43 yard dash.

A minute later Pat Campbell electrified the 1,000 or more fans with the best performance of the night for the Shamrocks. Pat took Alix' kickoff on the 20, got some fine downfield blocking, and went all the way, 80 yards, the game's longest gallop.

It was something of a personal victory for the Rams' coach over the Alphs. Visitors mentor, Davey Kline, was a player under Kennedy, at St. Frederick. Kennedy's youngest son, Jim (Jumbo), quarterbacked the Rams, and was the bright, shining star of the afternoon.

"Jumbo" ran over the Alphs for three TD's. Two were on an intercepted pass and a short plunge, in the 2nd period, and the other, a 70 yard kickoff return, midway in the 3rd period, on the first kickoff of the half. Jim had a lot of effective blocking, used a sharp stiffarm to pass the final defender. Kennedy passed to Steve Pose in the 2nd or a 16 yard tally and to Bob Shell for the final counter in the 4th session.

Besides figuring in every TD, "Jumbo" did all the punting, averaging better than 30 yards a boot.

Alphonsus suffered heavily from numerous penalties, got its only counter in the last few minutes when Nick Conflitti went over from the two after a 28-yard drive. Alphs recovered a Ram fumble to start the drive.

He Predicted Nicklaus' Win

Coe 'Calls Shot' in Amateur

Coe, 35, lacking some of his old stamina, was beaten 1-up in the finals Saturday by the sturdy blond belter from Columbus, Ohio.

Coe, upon accepting the runner-up medal, said: "I predicted a year ago that a young man would win the next championship. My prediction was better than my golf today."

Nicklaus, second youngster winner since the tournament began in 1895, edged Coe on the 36th hole—the first amateur championship to go down to the wire since Bobby Sweeny in 1954.

★ ★ ★

Coe's approach shot on the final hole—he said he hit "an easy 8 iron"—overshot the green. "I was afraid I'd do what Charlie did," Nicklaus said, "so I played a 9 iron." The ball stopped about 7 feet from the cup.

A remarkable chip by Coe sent the ball trickling to within inches of the cup but stopped short.

Nicklaus talked over the putt a couple of minutes with his caddy, Ben Valdez, who's been at the Broadmoore 16 years, and then stroked it firmly into the cup for a birdie 3.

Referring to his nervousness, Nicklaus said, "I don't know on what jerk I hit it, but it was the right one."

El Paso Open Won by Furgol

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Veteran Marty Furgol came from two strokes off the pace and won the $20,000 El Paso Open golf tourney by four strokes yesterday.

Furgol, playing what he called his best round in two years, shot a seven-under par final round 65 for a 72-hole total of 273.

Ernie Vossler of Midland, Tex., and Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., tied for second with 277. Furgol, from Coghill, Ill., won $2,800.

Furgol had rounds of 73, 69, 66 and 65 over the 6,691-yard, par 72, El Paso Country Club course.

Hebert had a final round 68, including a 170-yard ace on the third hole. Saturday Hebert scored a hole in one on the 210-yard 10th hole.

Plays Trumpet, Sings

Teen Hero Has Problems: Persistent Female Fans

BY VIVIAN BROWN

Take Frankie Avalon, for instance. The handsome 19-year-old singer and trumpet player was taking Milwaukee by storm when he was almost hit by a tornado—three persistent fans.

Police were escorting him around town to protect him from bodily injury and the loss of clothing snatched by enthusiastic fans, when three girls managed to corner him at his hotel suite.

He and his manager talked to the girls, signed some autographs and advised them to get home at once because of the 10:30 p. m. teenage curfew in Milwaukee. But the law was at hand, and arrived to enforce the rule and Frankie was involved because of his fans' thoughtlessness.

"It had a happy ending though," explains Frankie, who says he almost had a heart attack. "The girls' parents apologized for their actions and the law officers were sorry about it, too."

★ ★ ★

Frankie forgave his fans, having been one himself since the age of 10 when he sent his first fan letter to Frank Sinatra records. He has every record Sinatra made.

"I'm still a fan of his. I idolize him," says Frankie, who gets 1,000 to 1,500 fan letters a day. He describes his first meeting with Sinatra that occurred a few months ago.

"I was in Hawaii and heard that Sinatra was there. I called every hotel to locate him, finally got his manager and told him I'd like to meet him. He said fine, and made a date.

"I was so nervous, I couldn't eat. I knocked on the hotel room door. He said 'come in.' He was sitting down. My legs were trembling, and then he put me at ease by saying, 'Come here son. I've heard a lot about you, sit down and talk awhile.'"

Frankie's 20-minute session with Sinatra is the highlight of his life, and he got an autograph on an old snapshot of his hero.

A further thrill came on the set of "Guns of the Timberland" when Robert Walker said, "You know who was talking about you last night—Frank Sinatra. He thought you were real nice." Frankie beams from ear to ear when he tells the story.

★ ★ ★

His own career started with the trumpet on the Jackie Gleason show at age 11. He'll play the trumpet again on the Ed Sullivan show soon, but it's his singing that has made him a star. His "Venus" record is a million-and a-half seller, and his newest record is a two-sided hit — "Boy Without a Girl," and "Bobby Sox to Stockings."

Frankie's home in Philadelphia where he lives with his family is loaded with special awards—cups, plaques. His fan mail created great consternation there for a while.

"All my sister's friends helped us sort the mail until finally it was taking over the house, and we had no room to walk around. So the entire project was moved to a post office mailing address."

Ink's History Isn't Blurred

Many Methods Used for Its Manufacture Through the Centuries

WASHINGTON — An enormous variety of inks has been brewed in the past 4,500 years, and one of the hardest kinds to make is the pleasant green used on United States currency.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing often rejects batches of green ink as substandard. Manufactured to a secret formula, the ink must resist fading, abrasion, and chemicals. It has to have proper consistency.

The Bureau is as exacting as Wei Tan, a 3rd century Chinese inkmaker, who reputedly beat the ingredients in his ink 30,000 times. Among other things, Wei Tan's recipe called for an ounce of pearls and a half-ounce of musk. The musk masked the unpleasant odor. The pearls probably were thrown in just for show.

The first known inks were concocted by the Chinese and Egyptians around 2500 B.C., the National Geographic Society says. They consisted of lampblack blended with a solution of glue or gums. This was molded into sticks or cakes and dried. It was mixed with water before use.

Ink cakes were valued highly and kept in ornate boxes, though one 10th-century expert, Fung Chi, recommended wrapping them in leopard skins. In Korea, the emperor offered the cakes as sacrifices to the gods.

Extracts and suspensions of many plants, animals, and minerals have been converted into ink, including the indigo herbs, Persian berries, verdigris, pokeberries, ocher, and sepia from squid.

The Romans were among the first to use iron-gall ink. The basic formula has been refined into today's high-quality, permanent blue-black writing ink.

INK STINK

The development of printing created the need for special inks. Many early printers prepared their own inks from boiled linseed oil and lampblack — a process described by a 17th-Century Englishman as "laborious to the body, (and) noysom and ungrateful to the sence. . ."

Some early printing ink makers added wine to their product. One Frenchman tossed in a pound of bread crusts and a dozen onions to absorb greese from the boiled oil.

SINGING RAGE — This is the way Patti Page has always been billed but her first film role may change all that. She will play a choir leader in the movie version of Sinclair Lewis' Elmer Gentry. She will wear clothes along the line of middle blouses and will wear her hair in a bun.

Hollywood Headlines

Patti Page Leads Choir in First Movie Effort

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Now her billing may be the acting rage, Miss Patti Page.

THOMAS

At least the sweet-throated, lovely songstress is making her first movie and there may be more to come. She's singing in her initial effort, but not "Doggy in the window" or any of that jazz. She plays the choir leader in "Elmer Gantry," from the Sinclair Lewis novel about the evangelism in the 1920s.

★ ★ ★

When I visited her on the movie set, she was bereft of the glamourous trappings of her TV self. She wore a severe middie—I guess that's what it was—with her golden hair wrapped in a tight bun. It was her second day of shooting.

"I spent yesterday singing hymns," she said excitedly. "Today, I may say my first line."

GIVES UP 'MINT'

Patti is a girl who could be making a mint in nightclubs and TV. So why does she tie herself up in a long movie at undoubtedly lesser prices?

"Because it's something I've always wanted to do," she remarked. "I've had movie offers before. If they were starring roles, they were usually in cheap pictures. Or if they were better pictures, I was often tied up with other commitments.

"This one sounded interesting, because it gave me a chance to play a real role, without signing. Or at least the singing I do is unlike the kind I have been associated with."

Patti admitted that her dramatic training is slight, though her credits include a starring role in the senior play of her junior high school in Tulsa. She was billed as Clara Ann Fowler then. She did some elocution in high school, but turned to he singing art after that.

GOOD TRAINING

"He told me that singers have excellent training to be actors," Patti said. "His point was that if you can sing love songs and happy songs and make all kinds of audiences believe them, you're doing a good job of acting."

"There are lots of men who have done it, but it may be harder for a girl," she observed. "Only one female singer has mad it to the top in pictures—Doris Day."

But I reminded her of others who have done very well—Julie London, Peggy Lee, Betty Grable, Betty Hutton, etc. Patti may well join them. She has a picture possibility with Producer Joe Pasternak next and others may develop. Television's loss, etc.

At Least Eight Dead in Crash

Loaded Car Rams Into Truck During Attempt to Pass in Virginia

★ ★ ★

All three vehicles piled up on the highway, and at least eight persons were killed.

★ ★ ★

Four of the bodies were found scattered along a 100-yard stretch of U. S. Highway 460 five miles west of here, and an injured eighth passenger in the car was thrown into a bean patch near the highway.

★ ★ ★

Police said the tractor-trailer, after crashing into the car, jackknifed and broke in two.

Actor Rod Steiger, Claire Bloom Wed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Rod Steiger, 34, revealed today that he and Actress Claire Bloom, 28, were married.

The marriage was performed Saturday by Arthur Miller, presiding judge of the Malibu judicial district.

Steiger said Mrs. Jack Wood was Miss Bloom's bridesmaid and actor Clegg Hoyt was his best man. He said it was not a double ring ceremony and that the couple had not as yet exchanged gifts.

A honeymoon was out of the question at this time because Steiger is co-starring with Edward G. Robinson in "Seven Seas," currently filming at 20th Century-Fox studios. Miss Bloom is not engaged in a film at present.

Hungarians Scrap Over Khrushchev

DETROIT (UPI)—An argument over the wording of a resolution protesting the visit of Nikita Khrushchev to the United States broke up a meeting of the Hungarian Freedom Fighters Assn. here yesterday.

The leader of the dissident group, Zoltan Bottykos, read a lengthy paper, written in Hungarian, protesting the wording. He was interrupted by catcalls and cries of "Nazi" and "Facist."

He approached the front of the church where the meeting was held. By this time the Rev. Tibor Toth was talking to the crowd. Bottykos kept on talking.

Finally the argument spilled out onto the front steps of the small church. It broke up when Bottykos and his five supporters drove off in a car, hurling Hungarian epithets at his opponents.

It's an inflatable dome, 17 feet in diameter, to protect radar screens which enable tower personnel to watch traffic on the ground all over the airport despite weather conditions.

Seven Teamster Officials Expected to Surrender

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Seven officials and members of Philadelphia Teamster Local 107 were expected to surrender today to answer indictments charging them with conspiracy to loot the local's treasury.

The seven men were given an almost unanimous vote of confidence Sunday at a closed meeting by 2500 members of the local. Only five dissenting votes were cast as the members passed a resolution authorizing the indicted men to spend as much money as necessary for their defense.

Collect Over $281 Million in Insurance

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Beneficiaries of Federal workers have collected more than 281 million dollars since the Federal Employes' Group Life Insurance program took effect in 1954.

It is the largest single group life insurnace plan i the world, with 12 billion dollars worth of coverage now in force.

The government obtains the insurance through private insurance firms. Each worker who joins the plan gets a policy for an amount approximately his annual salary. He pays 25 cents and the agency he work for 12½ cents every other week for each $1,000.

More than 95 per cent of all eligible employes have joined the plan. By June 30, 1959, a total of 53,235 life insurance claims had been paid. For accidental death and loss of limb or eyesight, there were 4,009 cases amounting to $19,005,737.

Fancy Meeting You . . .

Taik Hart; It's Not U, It's Just the Language

By JOHN D. KENDALL

U say U cud be speled down by a mina berd. Well, taik hart.

According to Dr. James L. Julian, head of the Department of Journalism at San Diego State College, it's not U, it the language.

"Let's face it," Julian wrote in the Catalyst, a publication of the San Diego County Department of Education, "English is an illogical hodge-podge in which most letters stand for different words.

"Note some absurdities: know rimes (also spelled r-h-y-m-e-s) with no, but not with now. Vain, vein, and vane all rime, but comb, bomb and tomb do not. Climb doesn't rime with limb, which does with him and hymn."

Or, he said, take wind, live, lead, bow and read, each of which can be pronounced different ways for different meanings.

★ ★ ★

"The word psychology can be spelled at least 6,480 ways without changing its pronunciation," Juliam went on. "You have to use some odd letter combinations, but in English the pronunciation of psy is the same for si chi, sih, seye, sie and at least six other combinations."

Who's to blame?

The educator said the fault lies with orthographers and lexicographers more tightly bound by tradition than the volumes they edit to tell us how to spell.

Once, Julian said, he knew a fellow named Turner who speled his name "Phthologuyrrh" — the phth as in phthisic, the olo as in colonel, the gn as in gnat and the yrrh as in myrrh.

The trouble, according to Mr Phthologuyrrh's friend, is that English is illogical with no set values for letters.

"Imagine the confusion," he suggested, "if our arithmetic were as imprecise as our spelling. In math it's necessary for a number to have a constant value.

"Thus, 7 always is exactly one unit larger than 6 and one unit smaller than 8. No so in spelling. The letter A represents 9 different sounds in English; the letter E, 7; O, 8; and U, 8.

"Equally illogical are silent letters found in such words as gnat, knee, answer and would."

Julian doesn't think anything will be done to correct the situation but he is adamant in setting the record straight that it's not comic books, television, teachers or parents who are to blame for poor spellers.

"Better spelling skills are not achieved automatically by youngsters who master phonetics in school," he said. "English is such an off language that the spelling of each word has to be memorized.

"This isn't easy considering such oddities as the er sound, which is spelled differently in germ, firm, worm, turn and journey. Conversely, some letters make different words as o-u-r in sour, source and courage."

Habit, the educator added, is the most tyrannical of masters. He described custom as a despot, and concluded:

Halleck Agreeable to No. 2 Post

Would Be Running Mate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Republican leader Charles A. Halleck is available for the 1960 GOP vice presidential nomination.

The 59-year-old Indiana congressman noted yesterday that "you don't run for vice president" but said he would answer "yes" if the party's presidential candidate sought him for a running mate.

Stock Traders Are Nervous

Is Wall Street's 10-Year-Old Bull Slipping?

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Is Wall Street's 10-year-old bull suffering from senility? Or is he just resting under a buttonwood tree till the current business uncertainties are cleared up?

The bull market has had a rough time of it since early August. Stock traders are nervous and many of the nation's 12 million stockholders have seen some of their paper profits trimmed.

There have been other slippery periods like the last seven weeks since the bull market got underway in 1949. And each time it has regained its feet and climbed higher. So the bullish minded say it will gain, as soon as the uncertainties are fathomed.

These are: How long the steel strike will last and how much damage it will do. Whether the cold war will thaw and defense spending be cut and taxes, too. Whether tight money will slow down business expansion and consumer spending.

The bulls think business activity will spurt with the end of the strike. They think corporate earnings will increase in the final months of the year and dividends push up to record highs. The bulls count on all this to send the public and the big investment funds into another common stock buying spree.

The bears—and they are numerous if less vocal—aren't so sure. They think the important things is what kind of a steel strike settlement and when—and the after effects on business and prices.

They think the official tight money policy is sure to put a brake on economic growth and hence on earnings. They hold that the tight money policy may halt further inflation and thus cut the ground out from under those who advocate common stocks as a hedge against it.

And they think cold war tensions will keep everyone guessing for a long time yet.

But their chief argument is the price of stocks themselves. Bears hold that some stocks have been bid up so high that it will be a long time before the companies can earn enough to justify them.

The cautious point to the yields of stocks as compared to bonds. They note that when the bull market started in 1949 top grade common stocks were yielding 7 per cent on average and now only per cent. (Yield means the return in dividends you get on the amount money you spend for a stock.) In the same period the yield of top grade corporate bonds went from 2.7 per cent to 5 per cent. Some government bonds can be bought at prices that yield 5 per cent on the money.

★ ★ ★

Whether the bulls or the bears are right, here is the box score on what has been happening to stock prices:

On August 3 the Associated Press price index of 60 common stocks reached a record high of 235.8. Last Friday it closed at 217.4. This wasn't much above the 215.8 at which it started the year (a record at that time, too).

The 30 industrial stocks in the index touched a record high of 356.6, also on August 3, and closed Friday at 325.7, compared with 313.9 at the start of the year.

The 15 rails hit their peak July 8 at 147.6 and Friday were 129.4, well below 138.7 at the start of the year. The 15 utilities started at 96, made their peak of 102.6 April 20 and closed Friday at 94.5.

★ ★ ★

MSU Students to Get More Driving Rules

EAST LANSING (UPI) —Students at Michigan State University this fall will be under some more up-to-date driving regulations.

Board members were told the regulations were aimed at preventing such things as students driving with cardboard in place of windshields and from having hand-operated windshield wipers on their cars as has happened.

Nixon to Receive Honorary Degree at Thiel College

GREENVILLE, Pa. (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon arrives here today to participate in the dedication of a new science building at Thiel College.

The vice president also will receive an honorary degree of doctor of humane letters at an honors convocation following the dedication of the Thiel Science Hall.

The college said Nixon was expected to speak at both events.

Moonshine for His Wife

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Michael Homich, 64, of Meriden had an explanation today for authorities who seized 15 gallons of moonshine at his home. Homich said he made the whisky for his wife.

Stocks Continue Declining Trend

★ ★ ★

Key stocks fell from fractions to about 2 points. A few issues opposed the trend and made pretty good gains.

The market was lower from the start in active trading accompanied by a late ticker tape. Losses widened as turnover slackened.

Motors were traded briskly. Most showed fractional losses. American Motors, which announced a big expansion program, was down about a point.

Grain Futures Suffer Drop

CHICAGO (AP)— The grain futures market turned generally weak today in early dealings on the Board of Trade with September corn under heavy pressure and down a cent within the first few minutes.

Trading in all September contracts ends today and major interest appeared to be centered in evening up commitments there. However, soybean transactions included the heaviest volume of hedge selling since harvest of the 1959 crop began.

Corn arrivals over the weekend were somewhat heavier with nearly all of it for commercial channels and probably to be used for delivery on September contracts.

After about an hour wheat was unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher, September $1.91⅜; corn ⅛ to ½ lower, September $1.14⅜; oats ¼ higher to ½ lower, September new type contract 66⅜; rye unchanged to 1¼ lower, September $1.29⅝; soybeans ⅛ to ⅜ lower, September $2.05¾.

Emergency School Case Starts Today

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The U. S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals today considers—a month ahead of schedule—the integration case involving Arkansas' rural Dollarway School District.

★ ★ ★

The court will hear arguments on an appeal by the district from an order by U. S. district Judge Axel J. Beck to admit three Negro pupils to an all-white school near Pine Bluff.

★ ★ ★

The case previously had been set for the November docket, but the appeals court gave it emergency handling at the request of attorneys for the district and Arkansas Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett.

Sees Austerity Ahead

LANSING (UPI) — State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown advised Michigan's creditors today to tighten belts another notch. "We're in for another austerity period," Brown said.

City Woman Hit by Car Crossing Street Sunday

★ ★ ★

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Bonnie G. Norton, 64, of 372 East Blvd., was just leaving church when she stepped into the path of a westbound car driven by Joseph E. Galardi, 32, of 4801 Ross Dr., Waterford Township.

$150, Pistol Stolen From Area Market

Thieves broke into the Felice Quality Market, 238 S. Telegraph Rd., Saturday night or early Sunday and took $150 cash from a cash register, said Pontiac Police.

★ ★ ★

Also reported missing were a .32 caliber pistol valued at $45 plus an undetermined amount of merchandise.

Patrolmen said the thieves gained entrance by forcing a lock on a rear door.

Soviet Tidbits . . . Raw Eggs, Gin

Is This Breakfast Menu Regular for Khrushchev?

From Our News Wires

SAN FRANCISCO — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev last night placed an order for his breakfast this morning to be served in his hotel room. He and his family had fresh California orange juice, yogurt, creamed cottage cheese, boiled halved chicken with steamed rice, hearts of filet steak well done, crisp French fried potatoes, flour cabbage fried in oil with whites of raw eggs, new peas sauted in butter, halved cucumbers, whole fresh tomatoes, green and ripe olives, sliced Swiss cheese, white toast, croissants, brioches, sweet rolls, jelly, marmalade, and coffee, tea and milk.

LONDON — Newspapers representing both of Britain's major parties appealed to Americans today to be nice to Premier Khrushchev for fear he might go away mad.

"Give him a break," said the conservative Daily Mail. "It would be a tragedy if Khrushchev were to go home in a huff. The whole world would feel the chill.

"Any fool can pick a quarrel with the Russians for what they have done in the past. The mansized job now is to get an agreement with them for the future."

SAN FRANCISCO — Soviet Premier Khrushchev impressed U. S. labor leaders Sunday night as a very tired man—almost as tired as the San Francisco Giants, said one.

SAN FRANCISCO — Albert Smith, bartender on the special train which brought Premier Khrushchev and his party from Los Angeles, admits he figured the Soviets wrong.

"We stocked up with a lot of vodka," he said. "Evidently that was the State Department's idea. We had 200 little bottles of vodka on ice but we didn't have much gin."

But the Soviets who drank wanted nothing but gin. And Khrushchev is drinking remarkably little alcohol—only where the formality of the occasion or a toast calls for it.

SAN FRANCISCO — Khrushchev blushed when Shirley MacLaine led a leggy chorus in a spirited performance of the "can can" for the Soviet leader and his wife. The pudgy Communist boss appeared indignant after the performance when attempts were made to photograph him in proximity with the scantily-clad dancers and other Hollywood glamor girls, among them Marilyn Monroe. "People look better from the front than from the back," he said, and added that he thought "can can" was tasteless" and would not be shown in Russia.

SAN FRANCISCO — In six days of barnstorming Khrushchev has treated America to a full measure of the famed Khrushchev temper—jollity and wit suddenly flaring into anger and just as quickly subsiding. Everyone was amazed at the 65-year-old Communist's fund of human energy. With the changes in time from Moscow to the East Coast to California, he sometimes worked 18 and even 23-hour days.

CHICAGO — Rep. Roman Pucinski (D-Ill) said today the visit of Premier Khrushchev will have the effect of pulling Americans closer together in the fight against Communism. "I think the whole country is going to be a lot more united in fighting communism after Khrushchev leaves," Pucinski said.

Expect Agreement on Water System

The Waterford Township Board is expected to reach an agreement on operation of a water system with the developer of the Silver Lake estates subdivision, Myron Komer, when the Board meets at 7:30 tonight.

★ ★ ★

Every new subdivision developer is required to keep his water system operating "in the black" until there are enough connections made for it to be a self-sustaining system, according to Township Clerk James Seeterlin.

★ ★ ★

After 65 water connections have been made in the Silver Lake Subdivision, the water system will be deeded to the township which will assume the responsibilities of operation and maintenance.

No other business was scheduled for tonight's meeting, Seeterlin said.

Checker Cab Co. Walkout Ends

KALAMAZOO (AP) — A 100-day strike at Checker Motors Corp., ended today.

The taxicab manufacturing firm was shut down when Allied Industrial Workers walked out only a day after it had started producing a passenger car, the Superba, for the domestic market.

News in Brief

George Andrews, of 161 Oneida St., reported to Pontiac Police Saturday that vandals had cut up his lawn causing an estimated $200 damage.

An 8 mm movie camera valued at $150 was reported stolen Saturday from the Mark Davis Camera Mart, 83 N. Saginaw St., according to Pontiac Police.

James Schwartz, of 30 Neome St., told Police Saturday that someone stole golf equipment valued at $225 from his car while it was parked at Wisner Stadium.

In Drive for Reapportionment

State Senate Assailed by Dem

By GEORGE WEEKS

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Michigan Democrats, who have been sniping at the GOP-controlled Senate for nine months, cut loose with both barrels yesterday.

"These are not human beings," said House Democratic Leader Joseph J. Kowalski (D-Detroit in describing Republican senators during a top level meeting of Democratic office-holders and party officials.

Kowalski's statement was but one volley in a barrage that was fired from the Lincoln Room of Michigan State University's Kellogg Center to condition the public for the Democratic drive to reapportion the Senate.

Democratic state chairman Neil Staebler said Republicans have a "stacked decks" under the present system of Senate districts.

Staebler said if Republicans succeeded in calling a constitutional convention under the present system of electing delegates from Senate districts, they would be having a "tyranny by minority."

Delegates representing less than one-third of the people could "dictate every sentence and paragraph of the new constitution," Staebler said.

Lt. Governor John B. Swainson claimed Republican Senators have "reneged" on a promise to tap the Veterans' Trust Fund to provide stop-gap funds.

State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown said there was a "critical need" for Trust Fund money, in addition to money that would come in under the state tax program.

Brown said, in the next two months the state would collect 74 million dollars, but at the same time will pile up bills amounting to 104 million dollars.

Swainson placed much of the blame for the Republican position on the trust fund on Senator Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo.

"I hope his name will go down in infamy," Swainson said.

★ ★ ★

Senate minority leader Harold Ryan (D-Detroit) predicted a measure sponsored by Morris to wipe out $8,500,000 in new business taxes would not pass.

Democrats were expected to formally open their drive for reapportionment at a Democratic State Central Committee meeting Oct. 17 in Escanaba.

TAKES DAUGHTER HOME — Delighted to be the father of a daughter after five sons, beaming Bing Crosby carries six-day-old Mary Frances as he takes her and his wife Kathy home Sunday from Queen of Angels Hospital, Hollywood. The baby weighed 6 pounds, 15 ounces at birth last Monday.

Business Notes

KINNEY

Elliott S. Kinney, president of Snyder, Kinney & Bennett, Inc., a Birmingham real estate firm, has announced the appointment of three new vice presidents.

Kinney said the addition of H. D. Anderson, Clarence G. Clobset and James K. Flack became necessary due to continual expansion of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills community. The firm is located at 239 S. Woodward Ave.

Anderson, who owns a summer resort in northern Michigan, has had extensive real estate experience in the Birmingham area. He has been an official on the Alcoma County School Board and is currently a member of the Board of Directors of the Birmington Little League.

ANDERSON

Clobset, a charter member of the Birmingham Kiwanis Club was formerly a mental hygiene instructor at Wayne State University and manager of employment at the Hudson Motor Car Co. For nine years he owned and operated a car dealership in Birmingham before entering the real estate business in 1954.

CLOHSET

Flack, a noted speaker and writer on American History, was formerly chairman of the Red Cross Speakers Bureau in New York, national director of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce and has been a member of the Birmingham Real Estate Board of Directors for two years.

Theft at County Home

Thieves broke into the home of Raymond Guzik, 6026 Long Point Dr., Springfield Township, Saturday, and escaped with a $30 radio and $30 worth of fishing tackle, said sheriff's deputies.

Body of Woman Found in Harbor

Secretary Left Boston on Liner Day Before, Met Violent Death

BOSTON (AP)—A winsome and talented secretary of a university professor, returning from the Orient, was victim of violent death on shipboard after the world-girdling vessel left Boston, investigators said today.

The savagely battered body of Lynn Kauffman, 23, pretty Chicago divorcee, was found in Boston harbor Saturday, a day after the Dutch passenger-cargo steamer Utrecht sailed for New York.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Michael A. Luongo, medical examiner, said of the 100-pound, 5-foot-2 victim's death: "the official cause is drowning. However, she had several multiple blunt injuries about the face, head and other parts of the body, also severe brain injuries which were incurred before she drowned. The multiplicity of the injuries makes me go to the conclusion that this is a case of violence. I don't believe they could have been caused by a fall from a ship."

Dr. Luonge said he found no evidence of sex attack.

Capt. Joseph B. Fallon, head of Boston's homicide squad, said he would fly to New York to question members of the Utrecht's crew. This consists of Dutch officers and Oriental seamen.

When Ray Jones of 325 Roslyn St., awoke to find his bed ablaze, he extinguished the flames himself, then went into another bedroom for the remainder of the night.

A 3 this morning, Jones was again wakened by the smell of smoke. Rushing back into his bedroom, he found the entire room in flames.

He woke his wife and two children, then called the Waterford Township Fire Dept.

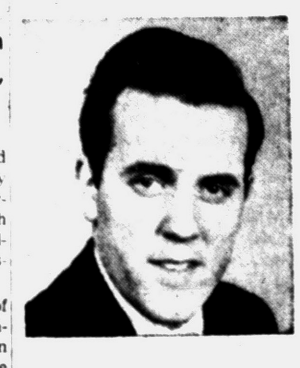

★ ★ ★

Firemen said the earlier fire in the bed had not been completely extinguished and the smoldering mattress had flared up again.

They estimated damage at $1,500 to the $21,000 two-story frame house and contents.

There were 775 female prisoners in Federal penitentiaries at the end of 1958, and 771 in the state prisons of New York alone.

65— LUCKY FOR YOU?

Lots of people are figuring that age 65 will be lucky for them. No more regular duties, time to relax, travel and do a hundred other things. And with enough money to do them. How? First, they have Social Security. Second they have an easy, sensible plan of saving over the years. This way they need not forfeit their Social Security after 65 by having to work. Life of Virginia has a modern plan to make 65 lucky for you. The cost is less than you would guess. Let me tell you about it.

Moon Has No Magnetic Field

Soviets Claim Data From Lunik II Proves This Point

MOWCOW (AP) — Preliminary data radioed by the Soviet Union's moon rocket shows there is no magnetic field in the vicinity of the moon similar to that surrounding the earth, the Soviet news agency Tass said Sunday night.

The absence of such a field, "seems to establish the theory that the magnetic field around the earth is caused by movement of the molten core of the earth since the moon presumably has no molten core," the broadcast said.

★ ★ ★

The question of whether the moon has a magnetic field is one that scientists have been greatly interested in solving.

Tass also said the last stage of the moon rocket soared a direct hit on the moon along with the instrument container.

The Soviets said previously there was a possibility the last stage of the rocket would hit the moon but this was the first announcement that it had done so.

★ ★ ★

The Tass dispatch said this was determined from analysis of tracking data which showed that the instrument contained hit the moon surface "east of the Sea of Serenity close to the Crater Aristyllus, Crater Archimedes and Crater Autolycus."

20,000 Weekly Get Prayers by Phone

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Some 20,000 persons here find themselves "standing in need of prayer" every week. They find their need answered through the Dial-a-Prayer service of the East Cleveland Congregational Church.

"Although the number is unlisted, we get as much business as the two lines can handle," says the Rev. Robert Peters, pastor of the church, who writes the prayers.

When the service was first started, the eight lines then in use handled more than 100,000 calls during the first weekend of September, 1959.

★ ★ ★

Business was good. So good in fact that the exchange was knocked out of commission and thousands of telephones in the area were out of service for a time.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. Peters says the calls are heavy during the morning and night with a noticeable tapering off in the early afternoon. The phones have even been heard ringing at 4 a.m.

Muskegon County in Financial Mess

MUSKEGON (AP) — Shaky financial footing threatened Muskegon County with loss of its sheriff's department today.

The County Board of Supervisors meets in emergency session to determine a program of operations after recently offered budget cutbacks brought a warning that the sheriff's office could not survive.

Sheriff Arthur Davis says he needs extra funds or he will be forced to lay off all his 71 member department except for a cook and a matron to help him operate the jail which now holds 30 inmates.

Cat Bites Hand That Frees Him From Washer

Suddenly there was a strange, bumping noise. The housewife called her husband, an Air Force major, who opened the dryer. Out staggered the family tomcat.

The cat's eyes were glassy, his tongue was hanging out and his fur was standing on end. He could hardly catch his breath.

★ ★ ★

Dr. James R. Kincaid, local veterinarian, withheld the major's name and refused to identify the cat.

But he said the cat would recover. And so would the major.

Army Enjoys Party Intended for Navy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The USO had a big party planned for crewmen of the USS Macon while the ship was anchored off Buffalo harbor in Lake Erie, but bad weather cancelled the sailors' shore leave.

So GI's from nearby Army Nike bases were invited over instead and they finished all 2,000 of the sandwiches and every crumb of the cake intended for the Navy.

BETTY'S NEW SHOW — Betty Hutton plays ex-show girl "Goldie" and rides herd on wealthy wards Richard Miles, Dennis Joel and Gigi Perreau (real names) in her new fall TV show. "Goldie is me," says Betty, of the tears-and-laughter production. It's to be known as "The Betty Hutton Show."

Students Return From Cuba Trip

Say Communism Isn't Major Problem There; They Toured Free

HAVANA (AP)—Almost 200 American students have concluded a week's stay in Cuba with all expenses paid. The Cuban government is understood to have spent $60,000 in providing transportation, food and lodging.

A group interviewed gave as among impressions of Cuba: Communism is not a major problem. Prime Minister Fidel Castro undeniably has blanket popular support. There is some doubt his government will survive its own faults and carry through its program of reform.

The students were guests of Cuba's National University Federation which extended the invitation because of concern over what American students thought of the Cuban situation. High government officials, including Castro, contend a distorted picture is distributed abroad.

"I think the press has done a bad job of portraying the intensity of the popular support behind Castro," said Robert Kiley, outgoing president of the National Student Assn. and a graduate of Notre Dame. "I personally don't believe communism is a major problem here."

When Are Books Like a Harem?

UKIAH, Calif. (UPI) — If you were the sheriff of Mendocino County in California and a local judge asked you to buy him the Taj Mahal and six dancing girls, would you do it?

Judge Oscar K. Klee of the Big River Judicial District made no such exotic request; all he wanted was some lawbooks. But Sheriff Reno H. Barolomie contended that it was the same thing. He said he did not have to buy the judge law books and more than he would have to buy him "the Taj Mahal and six dancing girls."

At this point, the County Board of Supervisors decided to settle the whole thing by setting aside $720 to buy the books. The money came out of Judge Klee's salary.

Plan to Raze Church on Edge of Reservoir

WEST BOYLSTON, Mass. (UPI) — A familiar landmark here — an old stone church on the edge of Wachusett Reservoir — soon will vanish.

In 1902 old West Boylston village was flooded to create the reservoir, and the Baptist meeting house was the only building left standing. Now the stone church, in need of costly repairs, is to be razed.

TV News and Reviews

'Showcase' and 'Young' Neurotic Soap Operas

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP-TV Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—There's this very rich married lawyer who wants to marry another girl. Then there's his wife, who is always taking big handfuls of pills, and her psychiatrist, who is also her lover. Then there is a prowler, who is probably the noisiest burglar in TV history. After a lot of strange talk and prowling, the rich married lawyer is dead, and his wife has lost all touch with reality.

★ ★ ★

That, in a very long paragraph, is, I think, the gist of the first Sunday Showcase on NBC Sunday night. The play was an original—believe me, that's the word—play by S. Lee Pogostin called "People Kill People, Sometimes."

★ ★ ★

I got lost somewhere between the first part when everybody stood around and talked and the last part when everybody stood around and screamed.

Geraldine Page played a very convincing neurotic and so did everybody else, if they were all supposed to be neurotics.

Shortly after the Showcase Loretta Young swept through her door with a special hour-long Show, "The Road," which opened her new season on NBC-TV.

Miss Young plays a very disagreeable, nervous woman with a brain tumor, (but a wonderful mink-lined greatcoat) who is trying to find herself. She does, and also goes back to her husband, after a visit to Lourdes.

The film was made in France, and the Lourdes portion would have been fascinating had the film not been burdened with such a soap-opera plot.

Friday night there was "America Pauses in September," another NBC special. This was notable for Gene Nelson doing a marvelous dance through the streets of Bermuda and all over the ship, Queen of Bermuda. The rest seemed repetitious — from other shows, other times—and a little slow-paced.

"To Tell the Truth," CBS' often amusing panel show, moves to a new time next month, From Oct. 1 on it will be seen on Thursday from 7:30 to 8 p.m. It's old Tuesday night spot will be occupied by a new comedy series, "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis," starting Sept. 29.

★ ★ ★

Tom Poston, now a continent apart from Steve Allen, soon will have his own show—an audience participation program in the late afternoon. It starts on NBC Sept 28.

★ ★ ★

It's early to send out the invitations, but Pfc. Elvis Presley's return to civilian life will be celebrated next May by Frank Sinatra—on ABC with a special, of course.

Who says television is just an entertainment medium? It's going to be used by one swank New York apartment house so that attendants in the lobby can keep an eye on passengers in the self-service elevators.

Cummings Is At Parks Meeting in Philadelphia

R. Clare Cummings, 761 W. Huron St., is attending the 61st annual convention of the American Institute of Park Executives at the Ben Franklin Hotel in Philadelphia, Pa., today through Thursday.

Cummings represents Oakland County, as he has done for the past 14 years, on the Board of Commissioners of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, five-county park and parkway agency serving Oakland, Livingston, Macomb, Wayne and Washtenaw counties.

Two of the most widely known parks of the authority are Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford and Metropolitan Beach on Lake St. Clare near Mt. Clemens.

★ ★ ★

Also attending this park convention are Kenneth L. Hallenbeck, authority director; George Seeley, purchasing agent for the Authority, who resides in Milford; and David O. Laidlaw, superintendent of Kensington Metropolitan Park, also of Milford.

Plan for College but Not for Cost

Many Families Think of Possibility but Can't Pay $1,450 Per Year

NEW YORK (UPI)—Most American parents would like their children to go to college, but not many are prepared to meet the cost, a survey made for the Ford Foundation indicated today.

Sixty-nine per cent of the parents in 5,000 families surveyed expected to send their children to college, but 60 per cent had no savings plan specifically for that purpose, according to the survey conducted by Elmo Roper.

The median expected expense was $1,450 for each year of college per child.

The survey also disclosed that parents expect the expense of a college education to remain about the same as it is now, despite the sharp upswing since World War II.

EDUCATION NECESSARY

Clarence Faust, vice president of the foundation, said the survey indicated that most Americans now feel the college education to be as necessary as a high school degree was a generation ago.

★ ★ ★

"Even discounting for parents' optimism, there is a strong chance that within a decade half the nation's young people will be getting a year or more of college education," he said.

"If so, the current prediction that college and university enrollments will increase from 3,700,000 to 6,500,000 by 1970 may be on the low side.

"But American parents apparently need to know more about the economics of higher education and to adopt a more systematic approach to college savings. In the lifetime of the typical American family, the outlay for college and the buying of a home are the two largest investment expenditures."

TV Would Make 'Personal' Ads Less Smelly

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A watchdog group of the television industry has advised advertisers of laxatives, deodorants and other personal products to make their commercials more "pleasant."

★ ★ ★

The advice was offered by the National Association of Broadcasters' Television Code Review Board after a five-month study.

The study also covered advertising of depilatories, toilet tissue, corn and callus removers, cold and headache remedies and women's foundation garments.

★ ★ ★

The board said most commercials for these products were in "excellent taste." But it noted there had been some "negative opinions of the viewing public" that should be taken to heart.

Waterford Book Battle Grows Hotter

The present proposal to construct and maintain a township library was turned down by a small margin in the spring election.

One faction claims that there are enough libraries, since each school has one, while the other says these libraries aren't open to the general public.

When retired financier Frank Steere donated 17 scenic acres on Pontiac Lake and Highland roads to the township two years ago, he specified that his offer was good only if construction of a $300,000 library were begun by 1960. He later extended the deadline a year.

An 11-member study committee then compiled a detailed report on construction costs, types of buildings and the need for a township-owned library.

★ ★ ★

The chairman of the Waterford Library Study Committee, Rev. Walter Teeuwissen, says that even if the school libraries were open for public use, the books would not fill the demand in scope or number.

There are about 4,800 books available to Waterford Township high school students in their library, with a very small amount of fiction, according to assistant librarian Carroll Lanning.

He said that there is a large back-log of older magazines to supplement both fiction and other work. However, there is a large need for more fiction and up-to-date science books to fill the gaps, he added.

Pierce Junior high school librarian Mrs. Fern Pomeraning said that there are only 1,200 books on the shelves there, and that when the library is opened to pupils Wednesday for the first time this year she expects the shelves will be bared.

Almost every one of the 3,800 volumes of books at the Crary junior high school is put into daily use, according to Miss Mable Double, librarian.

"We have a fine variety here, but because of the demand, could certainly use many more books of all types," she said.

Each newly opened school is given $399 to start its library. After that, $1 per student is allowed annually, according to assistant superintendent James Den-Herder.

★ ★ ★

The group promoting the library says that if voters approve the three proposals to be placed on the ballot next month, it will cost each family about $6 a year for not more than 10 years, and if the township's valuation increases, "not more than five."

State Educator Sees Rough Going Next Year

'Inform Our Legislators on School Needs'

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP)—Michigan's public school chief today advised school administrators to set up meetings between lawmakers and parents and educators before the next Legislature convenes in January.

"Part of our responsibility as citizens and educators is to see that our legislators are properly informed and have the facts with which to work," Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett told the Michigan Assn. of School Administrators.

He said a legislative followup by educators and parents was necessary to determine how the lawmakers voted on school legislation, if they were properly informed on school issues and if they knew the prevailing sentiment on school problems.

Bartlett said the new school law signed Friday was a "very positive step in the right direction" in that it calls for a record high ($205) in gross allowance per pupil.

But he noted that there were negative areas in the new law including the dropping of state aid to adult education, the failure to increase aid for transportation and the cutting of funds for tuition allowance.

Bartlett said the confused tax situation will probably result in school aid payments running behind schedule all year. This means, he continued, school districts will once again have to borrow to keep operating.

He estimated the several school districts paid more than two million dollars in interest last year on the 75 million dollars they had to borrow to keep their doors open.

"The situation may be even worse this school year," Bartlett added.

Quick use of the Veterans Trust Fund is the only answer if school districts are to avoid further borrowing and additional interests costs, Bartlet said.

The school chief said one of his major goals this year will again be the passage of legislation to reorganize all non-high school districts into units which provide education from the kindergarten through the 12th grade.

"We cannot assure the people of Michigan maximum utilization of every educational tax dollar until such action has been taken," Bartlett said.

Soviets Time Labor Bulletin

Say Worker Will Soon Go on 7-Hour Day as Nikita Meets Unionist

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union says her workers soon will have a seven-hour work day and a 40-hour week but as in the case of the moon rocket the announcement is not easily separated from Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to America.

The Communist party's Central the weekend appeared to have been timed for Khrushchev's meeting with United States labor leaders Sunday night in San Francisco.

General wage increases in the future also were announced.

The seven-hour day will be applied at the latest next year in such industries as transportation, communications, state farms and scientific enterprises. Wage adjustments, however, may not be made until 1961.

In the foods industry, stores, public health, culture, civil service, education and other nonindustrial fields, the shorter week would go into effect in the last half of next year. Increases in wages in this category may be deferred until 1962.

The same announcement said the minimum wage will be 4.60 rubles a month, compared with 300 rubles now. The official rate for the ruble is four to the dollar, but the unofficial rate is about 10 to the dollar.

At the present rate of increase the amount of money being spent on highways in the free world will total 135 billion dollars in 1965, more than double the 1958 figure.

Expatriate Soon Sours on Russians

The war veteran from Valley Stream, Long Island, N.Y., renounced his citizenship three weeks ago and proclaimed his intention to stay in the Soviet Union, where "they put square pegs in square holes."

★ ★ ★

But he changed his mind after he found himself ignored by the Russians, friendless, moneyless, jobless and unable to speak the language. He applied to Washington to get his passport back.

★ ★ ★

A new passport, good only for the trip home, was issued to him this morning. The U.S. Embassy made arrangements for an exit permit.

31 States Report Oil Valued Over $9 Billion

NEW YORK (UPI)—A total of 31 states produced petroleum in 1958, according to oil industry statistics.

The dollar value of the oil and gas produced last year came to $9,303,962,000. Texas was far out in front with $3,726,361,000 of the total. Louisana was next with $1,342,309,000, followed by California with $1,152,977,000.

Boy, 10, Arrested . . . Drunk on Wine

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Police reported today they arrested a 10-year-old boy who was caught riding a bicycle through traffic while drunk.

★ ★ ★

The youth told Patrolman Robert P. Knipp he and a 15-year-old friend had been drinking wine, but he was unable to tell where the wine was bought or how they got hold of it.

Knipp described the boy as in an "advanced stage of intoxication from wine" when he made the arrest yesterday.

Juvenile authorities said they were unable immediately to locate the boy's parents so they allowed him to sleep at juvenile hall last night.
