AUTOMOBILE PARKING REVENUE BOND PROPOSITION BALLOT

I hereby authenticate this ballot for the special City Election to be held in conjunction with the City Primary Election designated as a special City Election March 5, 1956.

City Clerk

(Instructions: Place a cross (X) in the square before the words "For the issuance of said bonds" if you desire to vote in favor of said bonds, or place a cross (X) in the square opposite the words "Against the issuance of said bonds" if you desire to vote against the issuance of said bonds.)

Instruction Ballot

AUTOMOBILE PARKING REVENUE BOND PROPOSITION

Shall the City of Pontiac, Michigan, issue "Automobile Parking System No. 1 Revenue Bonds" in the amount of $600,000 as provided in Ordinance No. 1292, as amended by Ordinance No. 1298, of the City ordinances, for the purpose of paying a part of the cost of acquiring off-street automobile parking areas in "Automobile Parking District No. 1", which bonds will not be a general obligation of the city but will be payable solely from the revenues of the city's Automobile Parking System in said district?

☐ FOR THE ISSUANCE OF SAID BONDS

☐ AGAINST THE ISSUANCE OF SAID BONDS

EVERYONE MAY VOTE — Above is an instruction copy of the parking bond issue ballot in Monday's city election. All qualified voters in the city may vote on the parking bond issue.

Primary Campaign Nears End

Two Issues, 16 Candidates Await Verdicts of Electors

An estimated 10,000 Pontiac voters are expected to go to the polls Monday to cast ballots in the city primary.

At stake will be questions of increased municipal parking for the city, nomination of eight candidates from four districts for the 1956-57 City Commission, and a pay hike for city commisioners.

Polls in the city's 44 precincts will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. Since the last election, precinct 22 formerly located at Municipal Court has been relocated to the City Hall.

A five-day weather forecast predicts showers for Monday and generally mild temperatures.

The nomination of the eight candidates from Districts 1, 2, 4, and 7 and the two issues will be decided by a simple majority of those voting out of a 57,530 registered voters in the city.

The biggest issue confronting voters undoubtedly will be the $600,000 issuance of revenue bonds proposed to finance an addition of four new municipal lots to contain 624 five-cent-an-hour stalls. The city presently has 413 spaces.

PETITION FORCES VOTE

The vote was ordered placed on the ballot when an opposition group of private parking operators headed by Sam L. Stolorow gained sufficient valid signatures on petitions in December to force the referendum decision.

Stolorow, general manager of Pontiac's Outdoor Parking Co. and owner of 75 per cent of private lots in the city, opposed the city program because of what he termed its "financial magnitude."

City officials and city commissioners refuted these tax-hike charges by saying no such increase could result because the principal of interest on the revenue bonds would be paid from the net revenues derived from the operation of the system.

On Nov. 22, the City Commission unanimously adopted ordinance 1292 authorizing the revenue bond issue after which the referendum action was taken.

Voters Monday will be asked to mark an "X" to indicate approval or disapproval of the issuance of the $600,000 worth of revenue bonds.

In the race for a place on the April 2 general election ballot, voters will nominate eight of 16 candidates from Districts 1, 2, 4, and 7 for seats on the City Commission.

Rise in Temperature Predicted for Tonight

The Weatherman says that it will be cloudy and a little warmer tonight and tomorrow.

Tonight's low will be near 32 degrees. The high tomorrow will be near 50.

The lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. was 31 degrees. The thermometer registered 44 degrees at 2 p.m.

Packard Recalls 5,500 Employes

10 Per Cent Gain Over February Predicted for Auto Industry

DETROIT (AP) — Around 5,500 of the auto industry's laid off workers have been summoned back to their jobs Monday.

Studebaker-Packard Corp. notified its Clipper Division employes to return about the same time as the labor department announced yesterday in Washington that a special survey showed about 80,000 auto workers had been laid off in seven states since Jan. 1.

Layoffs publicly announced by the industry total around 48,000. At peak levels it supplies jobs to more than 800,000.

Studebaker-Packard's recall of 5,500 was the first major one in the industry, where layoffs and slowdowns have been the rule since Jan. 1.

Ward's Reports, an industry statistical agency, forecast yesterday that March production would top February's by 10 per cent, or 609,800 cars to 554,100. A record March production of 792,436 was set last year.

Auto makers said the cutbacks were to bring production in line with retail sales and to reduce dealer stocks, which have been at record levels this year.

Three Powers Planning Huddle on Glubb Ouster

U. S., Britain, France Fear Crisis Developing After Jordan Move

From Our Wire Services

WASHINGTON — The U.S., Britain and France will hold a crisis conference on the Middle East next week as a result of the ouster of British Lt. Gen. John Glubb from Jordan.

The situation is considered so serious that efforts were made to hold the conference today, but failed.

The fear is that the ouster of "Glubb Pasha" from Jordan means that Egyptian Premier Abdul Nasser has extended his powerful influence into that kingdom.

It was noted that Egyptian newspapers hailed the ouster of Glubb as a major step toward Arab victory over Israel.

Only yesterday, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles refused to give a "yes or no" answer to the Israeli request for permission to buy 64 million dollars worth of arms from the U. S.

The new Alignment of forces in the Middle East may require a review of that position.

The British press said today Jordan's ouster of Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb might swing the whole Middle East power balance against the West and touch off another Arab-Israeli war.

Glubb left Cyprus with his family last night en route to London.

British papers expressed grave concern over the turn of events as the famed commander of the crack Arab Legion headed for London after his abrupt dismissal by Jordan's young King Hussein.

The influential Times of London labeled the ouster a "studied affront" by Hussein and declared it was "the most sinister event which has occurred in the Middle East since the Egyptian purchase of arms from the Communists."

ANTI-WEST PRESSURE?

Informed sources in Amman said Hussein acted under strong anti-Western nationalist pressure. His government informed London the dismissal was not designed to affect Jordan's friendly relations with Britain, but it caused apprehension both in London and Washington.

Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Syria recently offered to pay Jordan an annual grant to support its army, if it would pass up the British subsidy. A top level Arab conference to discuss the proposed grant is expected to take place soon.

Prime Minister Eden conferred at a lengthy emergency session yesterday with Cabinet ministers and other government leaders. Other meetings are expected over the weekend after as first hand report of the Amman happenings is received from Glubb.

Occupants Flee Waterlogged Home

FLOODED OUT — Muddy water swamps this new Commerce Township home, above, which a family of three were forced to abandon yesterday. Friends provided a boat, in which John Head rows belongings to safety. A sudden thaw and inadequately drained rain were blamed.

Family Evacuates House in Face of Rising Waters

A Commerce Township couple and their three-months old daughter were flooded out yesterday. Mother, baby and possessions were evacuated by rowboat.

Twelve inches of water covered the floor of their home at 1910 Hoeft St. Owner John Head, a Detroit factory worker, said inadequate drainage after heavy rain and thaw is to blame. The Heads moved out with the help of Walled Lake Police.

Other families in the FHA approved Trail Acres Subdivision face the same threat. Their homes are located in a low area where more than a square acre is covered by water, in some places 23 inches deep.

A couple at 1922 Hoeft decided to move out with their children ages 3, 4 and 5 before it is too late. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gillis are expecting a baby in a few days.

"The house is not yet flooded, but a heavy rain will put it under," explained Gillis.

Police helped Head load furniture into a truck furnished by businessmen. Head said he moved in two years ago and is afraid that fresh water, provided by a well, is now polluted.

Almont Woman Is Crash Victim

Mrs. Evelyn Hayes Dies Instantly as Car Skids Into Truck's Path

Mrs. Evelyn Marie Hayes, 41, of 4151 Van Dyke Rd., Almont, was instantly killed in an automobile crash about 10 p.m. Friday on M21, six miles east of Lapeer.

Her daughter Susan, 10, is in Lapeer County General Hospital with a back injury and possible fractures of the jaw and left leg.

Lapeer Deputies said the car apparently skidded on an icy spot on the pavement, went off the right side of the road, skidded back on, into the path of a large semi-truck.

Mrs. Hayes' body is at the Baird Funeral Home in Lapeer.

Union Fund Bill Reaches House by a 'Whisker'

LANSING (AP)—A bill that would put a crimp in union fund raising activities for political campaigns staggered into the House today after passing the Senate by a whisker.

Authorized by Sen. Lewis G. Chritsman (R-Ann Arbor), the bill mustered 18 favorable votes in the Senate, the minimum required for passage. Thirteen senators were against it.

Christman and legislative spokesman for labor argued about the bill's scope, with Christman saying it would put a stop to tactics sometimes used by businesses to raise campaign funds.

The language of the bill:

"No person shall be compelled to remain in or join a political party or political committee nor shall any person be required to contribute to a polltical party, political committee, or political candidates as a condition of employment or as a condition of the sales of goods or services."

Boy, 15, Hit by Car; Police Question Two

A 15-year-old boy was struck down by a car late this morning in front of 73 S. Saginaw St.

The driver and owner of the car were being detained at police headquarters, where hit-and-run charges may be made.

The boy was rushed to the hospital after police picked him up from the pavement at about 11:15 a.m. Witnesses said, the car had sped away from the scene. The two men appeared at headquarters about 15 minutes later, police said.

Senate Upholds Seniority System

Mississippi's Eastland Voted to Post Despite Race Views

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Senate yesterday upheld its seniority system and approved Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) as chairman of its judiciary subcommittee despite protests that he "lacks impartiality" on the segregation issue.

The Mississippian was assailed in the Senate by Sens. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) and Herbert Lehman (D-NY) for his opposition to the Supreme Court's anti-segregation rulings.

However, his chairmanship was approved by an overwhelming voice vote with only a smattering of "noes."

The Morse-Lehman move to keep Eastland out of the important committee post was doomed from the start because the promotion had the support of both Democratic and Republican leaders.

The Senate traditionally advances Senators in committee rank according to their years of service.

Sen. Alben Barkley (D-Ky) pointed out that no one has yet found a suitable substitute for the seniority system and that it has been upset only three times in 175 years.

Eastland came under Senate attack mainly because civil rights legislation originates in the judiciary committee.

However, Eastland's state colleague, Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) said Eastland had shown "moderation" in his speeches on the race question, and added:

"He has always cautioned and counseled legal approaches, lawful procedure and orderly conduct."

Believes Cobo May Try for Governor

JACKSON (AP)—State Sen. Haskell L. Nichols said today he was encouraged by a telephone conversation with Mayor Albert E. Cobo of Detroit to believe Cobo could eventually be persuaded to become the Republican nominee for governor this year.

Sen. Nichols, who was an early supporter of a move to draft Cobo for governor, quoted Cobo as saying in a phone chat yesterday, "I am not doing anything to encourage a draft for governor but wish it could be otherwise."

The Republican legislator said he interpreted this as indicating Cobo "strongly wants the GOP nomination but that pressing city problems are continuing to hold him back."

Buss, who started working for $11.54 cents a week in 1906 said, "They told me it would be steady work."

Bad Weather Hampers Hunt Midway Between Iceland and Greenland

From Our Wire Services

LONDON — The weather ship Alpha reported today finding wreckage in the north Atlantic that is probably the remains of a missing U. S. Air Force Globemaster that carried 17 persons.

A United States Air Force spokesman said at London the British had intercepted a message from the weather ship, stating it had "picked up a breathing oxygen bottle with traces of severe burning."

"We know now the Globemaster crashed into the sea," the spokesman said.

The plane had left the Keflavik, Iceland, airport yesterday, bound for New York.

The ship added it will start to comb the area about midway between Greenland and Iceland.

The plane had not been heard from since last night, at which time the crew reported that three engines of the plane had failed 200 miles west of Iceland.

(Officials at the USAF base at Keflavik, Iceland, said there were 17 men aboard the big Globemaster. Four rescue planes searched through last night and were joined early this morning by eight planes and three ships.)

The weather ship was believed near the last given position of the Globemaster. Last Friday the same plane had engine failure while en route from Scotland to Goose Bay, Labrador.

Two engines died. The plane was escorted by rescue planes into Keflavik. A third engine failed while the big, four-engine transport was making the final landing approach.

The plane had been under repair since.

Curtice Outlines Sales Changes

General Motors Head Asks Dealers to Reject Unethical Advertising

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Harlow H. Curtice of General Motors urges automobile dealers to eliminate unethical advertising, bootlegging of cars and price-packing.

Greater emphasis, he said yesterday, should be placed on selling the products "strictly on their merits."

On a closed circuit telecast aimed at 21,000 GM dealers, Curtice also outlined what he termed "revolutionary changes" in their selling agreements.

Complaints recently were aired by dealers before a Congressional Committee.

Curtice predicted "the beginning of a new era—an era of good will—in the relations of General Motors and its dealers.

Under the new pact, a dealer has his choice of one-year or five-year contracts cancelable by the dealer on 30 days' notice and by GM only for cause, or an indefinite term agreement which the dealer may cancel on 30 days' notice and GM on 90 days' notice without cause.

Curtice said General Motors will do its "utmost to see that the dealer gets all the cars exactly as he orders them."

Concerning bootlegging — the wholesaling of new cars by franchised dealers to nonfranchised dealers—Curtice denied this was due to over production at General Motors.

He said "our 1955 sales record and the 1955 model cleanup demonstrate that we did not overproduce."

He described price-packing as a sleight-of-hand practice of making an over-allowance on the used car taken in trade and then increasing the price of the new car by the amount of the over-allowance. He said this should be eliminated by the entire industry.

Says U. S. Needs Less Teachers, Better Libraries

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—I now see no way to cut costs of operating primary or grammar schools. I believe, however, that high schools and colleges will become more efficiently and economically operated. The self-service supermarket will show the way.

DO-IT-YOURSELF MOVEMENT

Some educational experts are urging cities and towns to spend less on buildings, libraries, and equipment and devote more of the total allotment to teachers' salaries. This may be good politics, but it is not in the students' interest. I favor building better schools with better libraries and equipment, but having fewer teachers. Then pay better salaries to these fewer teachers.

The most vital field for a "Do-It-Yourself" campaign is that of education. A parent can buy a set of encyclopedias for $100 which contain more information than is contained in the heads of all the teachers in your community.

Moreover, the training and discipline of self-education is even more valuable than all the facts that can be learned.

Hence, I forecast that the next great movement in education for those above 13 years of age will be teaching students to learn without teachers. I wish that some city would put the managers of its self-service supermarkets on their school boards.

WHAT DOES SCHOOL BOARD KNOW?

To begin with, you probably don't know who are on your local school board. If not, send to your superintendent of schols and ask for a list of the members and the business in which each is engaged and the number of children which each has in the schools. You may be surprised to find how poorly chosen these men and women are for this work.

In too many cities, school board members are interested in getting income for themselves or friends as doctors, builders, insurance agents, bank officials, storekeepers, etc.

These school committee members naturally take the advice of the superintendent of schools who is an honest man but is guided by the colleges which determine what shall be taught and how. The superintendents and school principals are too often judged by the number of students they pass along to the colleges, and promoted accordingly. They are fine men and women; they deserve much better pay, but they have very little freedom.

WHAT IS EDUCATION?

I have just been reading reports of the recent Conference on Education held in Washington. The great demand there was for federal aid without federal interference.

Army Helicopters Drop Supplies for 20,000 Snowbound Koreans

SEOUL (AP)—U.S. Army helicopters darting around cloud-shrouded mountain peaks today dumped food, blankets and medicines to 20,000 snowbound South Korean troops in the rugged Punchbowl area where thunderous avalanches have snuffed out possibly 103 lives.

But rough weather delayed a massive air drop of hundreds of tons of relief supplies. Eighteen U.S. Air Force Flying Boxcars were poised at a base near Seoul, waiting for the weather to clear.

Aground, South Korean army relief teams were fighting through 19-foot snowdrifts along the torturous route into the mountain fastness 100 miles northeast of Seoul.

Thousands of tons of snow roared down the mountain slopes Thursday, burying at least 83 barracks. The South Korean army said 80 soldiers were known dead and at least 23 were missing and believed dead. Fifty-four were injured. The army called their condition "serious but not critical."

"No American troops are snowbound or have been casualties," the U.S. Army said.

Woman Learns Her Boy Friend Not Deductible

DENVER (AP)—A Denver woman discovered yesterday that though boy friends may be taxing on the pocketbook, they aren't deductible.

George H. Allan, district internal revenue director, said the woman presented her 1956 federal income tax form and asked if it was okay.

Under "exemptions for your children and other dependents" she listed a man's name. Under "amount you spent for dependent's support" she had written 75 per cent.

A clerk asked if the man was related to her. Nope, she replied. That's the boy friend. The clerk informed her she could just forget about tat 75 per cent.

FBI, Police Seeking Trail of Bank Thief

PORT CHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The FBI and police throughout the East worked today on the slimmest of clues which could lead them to the slick gunman who yesterday robbed a drivein bank of $188,000.

Aided by a companion, the principal bandit—described only as "looking like a construction worker"—kidnaped a woman teller, quizzed her all Thursday night for data on the bank's layout and used her key to enter the County Trust Co.

The second man did not enter the bank, and police believe he arranged for the getaway by car.

Mrs. Mary Kostolos, 52-year-old widow who was kidnapped from her home by both men, told police that the bandits, although asking countless questions, "seemed to know the answers before I gave them."

Group's Support of Parking Project Not Board Action

Joint endorsement of the city's proposed parking program by 14 local realtors does not imply official support by the Pontiac Real Estate Board, President Vern K. Archer pointed out today.

Referring to a news item in yesterday's Pontiac Press, Archer emphasized that the 14, all members of the board, met informally and made individual decisions on the issue.

The 14 realtors joined Thursday to issue a 7-point statement urging voters to support the plan in Monday's election.

River Dragged for Missing Man

Car of Inkster Resident Found in Nearby Lot; Vanished Wednesday

DETROIT (AP)—Police dragged the Detroit River today after finding the car of a missing television shop owner in a parking lot near the river.

Police said the car belonged to Perry Jenkins, 29, of suburban Inkster, who disappeared Wednesday night, presumably with $1,400 in his purse.

The car was found in the Veterans Memorial building parking lot.

Jenkins was reported missing by his wife, Phyllis, after she returned home from a visit to relatives in Durand, Mich. She had taken their daughter, Patricia, 3, with her.

Mrs. Jenkins said her husband had telephoned her from his shop in Inkster Wednesday morning and told her he was about to leave for Durand in his car. She said he mentioned he had $1,400 from his shop.

Mrs. Jenkins became alarmed Wednesday evening when her husband did not arrive in Durand. She arranged for a brother-in-law to drive her back to Inkster.

She found the house in Inkster in order. There were no signs of a struggle.

Pontiac Deaths

Edna Ruth Bixby

Word has been received of the death in Lake Worth, Fla. of Miss Edna Ruth Bixby. She was a native of Pontiac, born here in April in 1882. She graduated from Lapeer High School and Ypsilanti State Normal College. For many years she taught school in Chicago, until her retirement. She made her home in recent years with a nephew, Neil M. Hilton in Chicago, spending winters in the South. Her body is being returned for service and burial in Rochester. Time and place of the service have not yet been set.

Mrs. Mads Madson

Mrs. Mads (Sigrid Helena) Madison, 92, of 270 N. Broadway St., Lake Orion died at 8:15 p.m. Friday in Blackerby Nursing Home, Lake Orion. She had been ill two months.

She was born Nov. 11, 1863 in Malmo, Sweden, and married in Chicago in 1890.

Mrs. Madson attended private schools in Sweden. Since her husband's death 22 years ago, she had lived with her daughter, Mrs. H. W. Robinson. The Madsons were former owners of the Lake Orion Review.

Surviving are two children, Mrs. C. C. LeForge of Chicago, Mrs. Robinson with whom she made her home, two grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Service will be at 11 a.m. Tuesday from Allen's Funeral Home, Lake Orion with burial in East Lawn Cemetery. The Rev. William C. Hamm, rector of St. Mary's in the Hills Episcopal Church, will officiate.

Auto Skids on Highway, Injures Three Teenagers

Three Lake Orion teenagers, injured when their car rolled over on Union Lake road near Commerce road last night, were released from Pontiac General Hospital after treatment.

The three were Sharon Johnson, 14; June L. Drake, 13; and Charles R. Williams, 15, all passengers in the car driven by Paul Schwier, 16, of Commerce Township.

Schwier told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies he had lost control of the car after hitting an icy patch in the road.

District Boundaries, Precinct Locations, Defined for Voters in Primary Election

The city of Pontiac is divided into seven governing districts which contain the city's 44 voting precincts to which voters will go Monday for the primary balloting.

Each of these seven districts are represented by an elected commissioner who serves a two-year term on the City Commission.

Locations of these districts are as follows:

DISTRICT 1—Bounded generally on the north by Orchard Lake Avenue, on the east by Woodward Avenue, on the south by Asterwood street, and on the west by a line running northwesterly along the west shore of Crystal Lake to the southern boundary of District 3.

DISTRICT 2—Bounded generally on the north by Elizabeth Lake Road, on the east by Dwight Avenue running south down Ottawa Drive to intersection of Orchard Lake Avenue to western boundary of District 1 to southern city limits; on south by the city limits and on the west by the western city limits.

DISTRICT 3—Bounded generally on the north by the Detroit-Grand Haven and Milwaukee Railway tracks southernly to N. Johnson Avenue to W. Howard Street to intersection of Howard with N. Saginaw, on the east by Saginaw Street, on the south by Orchard Lake Avenue and Elizabeth Lake Road, and on the west by the city limits.

DISTRICT 4—Bounded generally on the north by the city limits, on the east by N. Saginaw Street, on the south by Detroit - Grand Haven and Milwaukee Railway tracks, and on the west by the city limits.

DISTRICT 5—Bounded on the north and east by the city limits, on the south by E. Howard Street, Oak Hill Street, along Mt. Clemens Street and Featherstone Avenue, and on the west by N. Saginaw Street.

DISTRICT 6—Bounded generally on the north by E. Howard Street, Oak Hill Street, along Mt. Clemens Street, and Featherstone Avenue, on the east by the eastern city limits, on the south by Auburn Avenue, and on the west by Saginaw Street.

Young Amputee Receives Over $600 in Fund Drive

The plight of a Pontiac youth, 14, whose leg was amputated because of cancer, has brought donations of over $600 from employes of Pontiac Motor Division.

The money will be used by Mrs. Selma Thouin, 1032 Arline St., to help pay medical expenses for her only child, Gary.

Most of the money came from Plant No. Nine, where Mrs. Thouin is an office-worker. But contributions also were made at Plants 7 and 5, according to Robert Gardner, who has headed the drive.

Gardner offered his home at 551 DeSota Pl. as a center for persons wishing to help. He said a number of contributions have been received, mostly anonymous.

Employes of Osmun's Men's Wear store at 51 N. Saginaw St. offered $50 to help in the boy's future need for medical attention.

Better Libraries Asked by Babson

Very little discussion was devoted to what should be taught our children and how. No time was given to discussing lowering the cost or raising the efficiency of schools. The great need today is to tackle the educational problem as we have TB and polio and cancer.

I have in mind a family of four grown-up brothers all of whom attended the same schools and had the same teachers. Yet three of the men are today useful in their communities and hold good positions. One of the boys was a "delinquent" and is now a ne'er-do-well supported by the first three. The question the mother asks is: Did the schools have any effect on the character or "life" of these boys?

TRAVELING TO THE MOON

The books most popular with the youth of today are books on "space travel"—that is, going to other planets. It is said that Washington is having more inquiries about the earth "satellites" which are to be released than about any other subject.

Why is it that young people are so much more interested in other worlds than in learning about their own world and how to live in it? Something is wrong somewhere. Education should teach how to live. It should help parents mold character.

Teachers should be spiritually minded in order to be efficient. Although they should be paid better salaries, yet this salary should not be based upon the degrees which they have received.

Looking back over my school life, it was the teachers with the biggest hearts who won my interest and awakened a desire for knowledge and service.

To get back to my main appeal: One sure way to increase the efficiency and reduce the cost of our schools and truly help our children is to teach children where to find their own answers to questions and awaken in them a desire for more knowledge. We need teachers born with a love for children and trained as helpful librarians.

Youths Suffer Injuries When Auto Strikes Tree

Two teenagers slightly injured in a Waterford Township crash last night were released after treatment in Pontiac General Hospital.

Injured were Bobby Gene Pipkin, 15, of Milford, and Russell Hynes, 16, of White Lake Township, both passengers in the car driven by Robert H. Hickey, 16, of White Lake Township.

Hickey told Waterford Township Police an oncoming car had forced him off Clintonville road near Barkman road, causing him to hit a tree.

2:12 p.m. EST Friday on its apparently fateful, continued flight to Goose Bay. No names of the 17 men aboard were immediately available.

About two hours after takeoff, the Globemaster distress signaled from a position about 240 miles southwest of Iceland. The signal reported two engines had suddenly stopped.

A second radio message about 20 minutes later reported a third engine had failed, and the big ship was rapidly losing altitude over the north Atlantic.

Dispatches from Reykjavik said the Alpha also picked up burned fragments of plywood.

Eight planes scanned the area early today and were joined by eight others at daybreak.

The Air Force sent search and rescue craft from both sides of the Atlantic—from as far east as Prestwick, Scotland, and as far west as Harmon Air Force Base in Newfoundland.

The fact that Iceland has nearly 12 hours of daylight at this time of the year helped in the search, but the weather was described by an Air Force spokesman as "pretty stinking."

Eventual destination of the Globemaster was reported to have been Warner-Robbins Air Force Base in Georgia.

Ancient Romans used iron razors.

Five Persons Hurt in Two-Car Crash

Five persons were injured, one of them hospitalized, in an accident last night on Walton Boulevard near the Dixie Highway.

Hospitalized was Clifford C. Crossman, 40, of 1559 Stanley Ave. Crossman was reported in fair condition this morning in Pontiac General Hospital, where authorities said he suffered severe lacerations.

Crossman was a passenger with Clyde Hallead, 37, of 67 W. Columbia Ave., who was treated for minor injuries. Hallead's car collided with one driven by Jack Putnam, 17, of Pontiac Township.

Putman and his two passengers, Jimmy Blackwell, 15, of 560 DeSota Pl., and Eddie Kelly, 17, of Pontiac Township, also were treated and released from the hospital.

Pontiac post State Police said Putnam was ticketed for failing to yield right of way to Hallead.

Oakland Processes Over 12,000 Papers

County Register of Deeds Orrin McQuaid said today 12,020 papers passed through his office last month, a slight decrease from last year's total of 12,908. The papers brought fees of $18,310.75.

The papers included 2,983 deeds for $4,776.75; 1,421 mortgages for $4,900.50; 1,276 photostats for $852.25; 4,302 chattel mortgages for $4,302; and 2,038 miscellaneous papers for $3,479.25.

Head-on Auto Collision Hospitalizes 3 Women

Three women received minor injuries last night in a head-on collision at the corner of Auburn Rd. and Shirley Ave.

Bernice Standifer, 22, of Mt. Clemens and her passengers, Bessie R Teasley, 15 and Augusta Lee Teasley, 18, both of 640 Luther St., were treated for cuts and bruises at Pontiac General Hospital.

The accident occurred when Kenneth R. Smith, 20, stationed with the Army in Auburn Heights, pulled across the center line to avoid two cars ahead.

Mob Accusation Brings 4 Suits

Lucy Faction Facing Four Million Claim on False Charges

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Three construction workers and a truck driver sued for four million dollars yesterday, claiming they had been falsely accused of being mob members at the University of Alabama.

Four identical suits, each for one million dollars, were directed against the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, three NAACP attorneys, Mrs. Pollie Ann Hudson and Miss Autherine J. Lucy.

All stemmed from charges contained in a contempt of court proceeding filed in federal court by Miss Lucy Feb. 9.

In that court action, Miss Lucy named Earl and Ed Watts and Kenneth L. Thompson, construction workers in Tuscaloosa, and R. E. Chambliss, Birmingham, a truck driver, as members of the mob.

Each now asserts in the civil damage suit that the charges were "false and known to be false" and were the results of a conspiracy by the NAACP and the others named.

Miss Lucy presently is in New York City.

She said she planned to return to Alabama next week to renew her fight to re-enter the university after having been expelled.

City Electors to Vote in Primary Monday

ballot and the candidate receiving the second highest number of votes will be the second nominee.

Under the City Charter, no primary vote is necessary for candidates in Districts 3, 5, and 6 for only two nomination petitions were filed in each of these three districts.

The candidates in Districts 1, 2, 4 and 7 are:

DISTRICT 7—Victor L. Smothers, Benjamin M. Gates, Robert Landry, Gilbert W. Long.

The latter district is the only one in which the incumbent is not seeking reelection (Commissioner Harry W. Lutz has decided against seeking another nomination.)

The second issue to be decided by the voters Monday will be a proposed charter amendment to increase the salaries of the mayor and commissioners. The proposal is the result of a recommendation by a Citizens Compensation Study Committee.

Under the proposal, the six commissioners would receive $25 for every official meeting not to exceed $1,300 for one year. They presently receive $5 a meeting and up to a maximum $300 a year.

The mayor would receive $2,000 a year based on 12 installments under the new plan. He now receives the same pay as the commissioners.

The study committee was composed of three former Pontiac mayors and two past commissioners.

Kite-Flyers Warned of Pastime's Hazards

The season's first handful of kite-flyers appeared yesterday and were quickly warned of dangers in the fun.

Pontiac police emphasized the hazard of climbing utility poles and trees to rescue snagged kites.

Officials advise: Keep kites away from electric wires and television antennas; use dry cotton string, not metal; never use metal on kites or kite tails; never climb poles at any time.

Gotham Bank Robber Presses Luck, Nabbed

NEW YORK (AP)—A man who police said robbed a Bronx bank of $4,000 last October apparently came close to trying his luck at the same spot again.

Detectives seized a man identified as Richard Tedeschi, 34, Bronx, in a branch of the Manufacturers Trust Co. yesterday. They said they found a toy gun on him and a note demanding $7,000.

Police said he admitted holding up the bank last Oct. 20.

2 Waive Examination on Charge of Larceny

Two men charged with larceny from a building yesterday waived examination before Royal Oak Municipl Judge Fletcher R. Renton.

Anthony Trochio, 42, of Redford, and Claude B. Davis, 41, of Detroit failed to furnish bond of $5,000 apiece and were returned to Oakland County Jail to await circuit court arraignment March 12.

The Day in Birmingham

Pontiac Skaters Perform Tonight at Eton Ice Rink

BIRMINGHAM — Eton Ice Skating Rink will have its first skating program tonight, when the Pontiac Skating Club presents its 1956 Ice Review, "Blades on Parade," at 8:30 p.m.

The ice show at the new rink is being directed by Peggy Bowman, and was presented at the North Side Ice Rink in Pontiac during that city's annual winter carnival and hundreds of people attended the event, acclaiming it the best the club has staged to date.

Pontiac's 1956 ice queen, Suzanne Danner, will be feature star in the show's first number. Former ice queens taking part in the performance at Birmingham's artificial ice rink will be Cooleen McEnery, Jackie Dubay and Peggy Bowman.

Kent Mills appearing for the first time this year with the club is another feature attraction as he mixes comedy with flashing blades and twirling baton.

Rose Bowl game pictures will be screened for members of the High Twelve club when they are guests of the Northwest High Twelve club of Detroit tonight at Ionic Temple. Wives are accompanying their husbands to the dinner meeting.

Egypt, Arab countries and Israel visits were described at Monday's meeting by Dr. Chester A. McPheeters, minister of Metropolitan Methodist Church, Detroit, a Knight Templar and 33rd Degree Mason. His talk presented a more complete picture of the turmoil and strife there and of inequities of foreign aid to both factions.

D. F. Adams, local floral expert, will talk to the 12:45 luncheon meeting Monday, of the Women's Fellowship of First Congregational Church. Honors will be paid to women who have joined the church since last May.

"Watch those new license plates," warn Birmingham police who learned that Mrs. R. R. James' new one, GV1039, was taken from her car seat Thursday.

"What's Cooking at Adams," the cookbook issued by the PTA of that school, is still "in print," says Mrs. Albert Bates, editor, who has 30 copies still available at her home. The publication and the recent frolic earned around $1,600 for the parents group.

Hans Phillip Klum

Service for Hans Phillip Klum, 4354 Arden Place, Royal Oak, a member of Birmingham Lodge No. 54, F&AM, will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Manley Bailey Funeral Home. Burial arrangements for Mr. Klum, who died yesterday at his home after a short illness have not been completed.

Born in Germany in 1907, he married Virginia Baslet in 1942 in Detroit. He was a gauge maker in a tool and die firm, Acme Industrial Products Co. at John R and 12 Mile.

Firm Wins Sum in Court Action

Tell Housing Commission to Pay Building Unit in Contract Dispute

An Oakland County Circuit Court jury yesterday ruled the Pontiac Housing Commission must pay the Sorensen-Cross Construction Co., of Flint, $17,450.

Judge George B. Hartrick could upset the decision, however, if he allows a motion by City Attorney William A. Ewart for a directed verdict in the commission's favor.

The Flint company was hired to put up the Lakeside Housing Project building in 1951. A clause in the contract provided if any construction defect arose which could be attributed to the contractor, Sorensen-Cross would pay for correcting it.

An underground stream caused a sewer to fill with sand in 1953. The firm repaired it, then sued the commission claiming it had originally built the sewer to specifications and was not at fault.

The jury found in favor of the company and the commission must pay unless Judge Hartrick agrees with Ewart's contention the firm did not prove it was free from fault.

U.S. Stands Firm on Withholding Arms to Israel

WASHINGTON (INS)—The U.S. stood firm today on its decision to withhold arms to Israel at this time.

Israeli circles said that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles refused to give a yes or no answer to the plea made yesterday by Ambassador Abba Eban.

One Israeli source said: "I guess all we can do is wait."

Dulles, in a letter to Rep. Hugh Scott (R-Pa), made it clear that he does not believe the shipment of American arms to Israel at this time would help the chances of peace in the Middle East.

The secretary said he was doing everything in his power to achieve peace in the Middle East and added " . . . this policy does not exclude sale of arms to Israel although it has been my best judgment that such sales, at least up to the present, would not be conducive to achieving peace. This situation might change."

Father Hurt as Car Crashes on Long Lake

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—A father of three children was injured today as he drove to work from his home near Walled Lake. A skid of 150 feet preceded his car's crash against a tree at Baughan and Long Lake roads, and the driver, David M. Fulton, 52, 2558 Littletell, Pontiac, was thrown from the car.

A motorist who arrived apparently minutes after the crash at 7:35 this morning found Fulton lying on the gound and reported the accident. Fulton was rushed to St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, where he was x-rayed for chest injuries and treated for lacerated forehead. His condition was reported as good in mid-morning.

Beer Stolen From Store

A grocer at 888 Orchard Lake Ave. said two boys stole a case of beer last night.

About 17-years-old, the pair were loitering in the store, said Don Jewell, 4401 Bay Wood Rd. They later picked up the beer and ran, Jewell told Pontiac police.

Trace India's Number Racket

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India's flourishing numbers racket has its roots in New York. It is known as Satta and it pays off on New York cotton futures quotations.

It attracts millions of Indians daily.

Satta was born decades ago in Bombay, with bookmakers there taking bets on what would be the closing quotation for cotton futures on the New York exchange.

Soon the idea spread across India. It was simple gambling. Even the illiterate peasant could try to strike it rich.

In rural India the numbers game has seen farmers betting a pound or two of rice, with the bookies promising to pay "in kind." The odds are generally 8-1.

In the big cities the betting is strictly for cash. Most bets are just a few annas (cents), although sometimes wagers are in thousands of rupees. Gamblers eagerly watch the late news columns of Indian papers for the quotations.

Delhi state legislators are demanding more effective police attacks on Satta. Madras lawmkers hve boosted the fines for gambling, which is illegal, to deter both bookies and their clients. The Madras fine now approaches $200. In Bombay the penalty remains $1.

Lenten Guideposts: Zeal Wins Through

Missionary Aviation School Services Remote Outposts in Foreign Countries

By SIDNEY FIELDS

While serving as the minister of a little church in New York State, Paul F. Robinson heard of a young missionary's plight in the South American jungles. When his wife and newborn baby became sick, he began a seven-day journey by canoe and ox-cart to the nearest hospital. The mother died before they got there. One thought tormented Robinson:

ROBINSON

"If they had had a plane, the journey would have taken an hour, and she would be alive today."

His dream now was to be a missionary pilot, and to prepare himself for it, he began learning to fly. He was then 30.

Three days after his first solo flight, came Pearl Harbor. All civilian pilots and planes were grounded. The door to his dream closed temporarily.

TOO OLD FOR WORK

He joined the Civil Air Patrol, carried on his pastoral duties, and by war's end had both a commercial pilot's and flight instructor's license.

"But at war's end I was 35," he says, "and was told I was too old to pack myself and a family off to the wilds and start learning a primitive language well enough to preach it."

But if he couldn't go himself, perhaps training many others to go was even better. He blueprinted a flight training program for missionaries and sent it to the interdenominational Moody Bible Institute. To his surprise, he was invited to present his plan in person. Two planes were bought by the Moody group.

A few weeks after the first plane was delivered, Paul Robinson stood before three students and opened the first class of Missionary Aviation Training with a prayer.

For the first two years students got no more than 50 hours of flying and were taught to be both missionaries and pilots at the same time. In 1948 the Rev. Mr. Robinson, flying and living among the missionaries of Central and South America, learned first-hand about the harsh realities of their lives.

SCHOOL IN CHICAGO

The Missionary Aviation School is now at Wooddale Airport, 20 miles from Chicago's Loop. Fully approved by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, it has two runways, 12 training planes, eight top instructors, four hangars, and modern flight, engine repair, and radio schools. Of 200 yearly applicants from all over the country and every denomination, only 12 are accepted for the four-year pilot-mechanic course, another 12 for a radio course.

After graduation they take off with their two or four . ,place planes to establish a base, often serving as many as a dozen missionaries in one area and bringing them everything from watermelons and machinery to Bibles and medicines. And thus the missionary is left free to devote his full time and energy to his missionary tasks.

Robinson never did get to be a flying missionary himself.

"The most rewarding thing about it," he says, "is that it follows the great commission of our Lord: 'Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.' Many tribes and tongues and people, who could be reached in no other way, are now hearing the word of God. Souls who have as much right as you or I to hear the Way of Life."

TOMORROW — Red Barber, sports broadcaster, tells how he lost the habit of prayer and then regained it at two crises in his life.

Fire Damages Building

OTSEGO (AP)—Fire Chief Charles R. Cushman reported a fire caused $65,000 damage Friday at a two-story Otsego commercial building owned by Francis Cronen and Kenneth Carlyle. No one was injured in the blaze which was believed to have started with a furnace explosion. The flames destroyed a large stock of electrical appliances at the Elwood Electric Shop and left smoke damage in the second floor office of Dr. George Crocker, a dentist.

Prowling Suspect Shot

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—A 16-year-old youth was reported in fair condition Friday at St. Mary Hospital where he is under police custody after being shot in the legs as a prowler in the Robert Dine home. Dine said he fired a 16-gauge shotgun at a prowler. The youth told officers he had broken into the home previously and also had prowled at other homes in the vicinity.

Paper Firm Plans Expansion Program

WOODLAND, Maine (AP)—The St. Croix Paper Co. plans to break ground March 13 for the start of a 13 million dollar expansion program to step up its output of newsprint.

Henry W. Fales, vice president and general manager, said the first structures will be a newsprint machine building and a grinder building.

First newsprint is expected to roll from the new machines in the late spring of 1957—at the maximum rate of half a mile a minute.

Oakland, Macomb Folks Attend Day-Long Event

UTICA—Crowning of Michigan's rhubarb queen marked the opening this morning of the first annual Michigan Hothouse Rhubarb Festival here.

The festival, sponsored by the Wolverine State Growers Assn. and the Utica Rotary Club, is being held at Utica's American Legion Hall.

Pretty Dorothy Davis of New Haven, 17-year-old winner of the coveted queen title, received her crown from the hands of Michigan Secretary of State Sanford A. Brown in an 11 a.m. ceremony. "Dotty" is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Davis of New Haven. Governor G. Mennen Williams, previously scheduled to officiate at the coronation, was prevented from appearing because of a conflicting engagement.

DOROTHY DAVIS

Residents from many communities in both Oakland and Macomb counties came to visit the show, see the displays and attend the feature demonstrations and entertainment. The affair is attracting plenty of local interest, since both Macomb and Oakland Counties produce about 85 per cent of the hothouse rhubarb grown in the entire country.

MINIATURE HOTHOUSE

A highlight of the display section was a miniature hothouse containing rhubarb in its various stages of growth. A series of movie slides depicting methods of growing rhubarb also attracted many interested observers.

Judging of rhubarb entered by growers was conducted this morning with ribbons given in classifications of "extra fancy," "fancy," and "choice," as well as for the largest single stalk.

COOKING CONTEST

A rhubarb cooking contest was scheduled for this afternoon, with entries to be made in four classifications: (1) pie with 100 per cent rhubarb filling; (2) pie with rhubarb and other ingredients; (3) sauce, all rhubarb or mixed with other ingredients; and (4) the most unique dish other than pie or sauce.

Ribbons were to be awarded in each of the classifications. So that those attending the show might taste as well as see what can be done with rhubarb, entries in the cooking contest were slated to be auctioned off to the highest bidders at 9 tonight.

Another feature of the afternoon activities was the showing of a series of sports films at 4:30 p.m.

Spotlighted for this evening's entertainment is a 7:30 concert by the Utica High School Band, to be followed by an amateur show at 8 p.m. Contestants from throughout the area will present their talents in tonight's show and compete for prizes in the form of United States Savings Bonds, in this final event.

West Bloomfield Church Slates Holy Land Talks

WEST BLOOMFIELD — G. E. Campbell recently returned from Palestine, center of world interest today, will tell of his experiences in the Holy Land and show 700 colored slides which he took there, at West Bloomfield Baptist Church March 6-9 at 7:30 p.m. The church is located at Orchard Lake and Green roads.

Speaking with Mr. Campbell will be Archie McLellan of the Redford Gospel Assembly, radio minister and minister to the Gaspe Peninsula of Canada. The public is invited.

Conspiracy Charges Leveled Against Two

A Hazel Park man and a Van Dyke youth waived examination yesterday in Detroit Recorder's Court on charges they were members of a ring which has allegedly stolen 340 spare tires from automobiles.

Charged with conspiracy were John R. Anderson, 26, of Hazel Park, and Lawrence Morris, 18, of Van Dyke. Recorder's Judge Frank G. Schemanske continued their $1,000 bonds, but did not set a trial date.

Sgt Elmer Dodson of the Auto Recovery Squad said the group stole 340 tires valued at more than $3,000 before their arrest last month.

Three teenagers were named as co-conspirators but not as defendants in the case.

Players Hobby Night Sunday at Romeo

ROMEO — "Hobby Night" will be the theme of the Romeo Players' meeting at 7:30 p.m. Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Evans Jr., 170 Gates St.

Three local hobbyists will speak to the group. They are George Tapley whose subject is photography, Mrs. Frank Webber who will talk on dramatics, and Robert McGuire whose avocation is antiques. Demonstrations will accompany the talks.

Rienstra-Jacob Rite Read by Candlelight

ROMEO — In a candlelight setting of white gladiola and mums, Mary Dean Jacob became the bride of James Paul Rienstra Saturday. The double-ring ceremony was held in First Congregational Church.

The birde is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Jacob of Romeo. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Reinstra of Mecosta are the parents of the bridegroom.

Mary wore a gown of Chantilly lace over satin, of colonial design with portrait neckline. The bouffant skirt of lace was outlined by two wide ruffles of pleated net, forming a slight train.

Her fingertip veil was secured by a cap of lace leaves, and she carried a spray of white roses and gardenias with trailing strands of ivy.

Mrs. Harmon Nine of Hyatsville, Md., served as matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Janet Elizabeth Jacob, the bride's sister; and Irene Mooney of Saginaw. Nancy Ann Moore of Berkley, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Best man was Harmon Nine of Hyatsville, Md. The bridegroom's brother, Richard J. Rienstra, and Donald Orne of Jackson served as ushers.

MRS. JAMES P. RIENSTRA

A reception for some 300 guests was held in the church parlors following the wedding.

The newlyweds are spending their honeymoon in Western Michigan. On their return, the bridegroom will go to Fort Sill, Okla. and the bride will return to Michigan State University. She will join her husband next June, on completion of her college course.

Prankster Spoils Town's Bid to See Itself on TV Show

JUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Practically all 496 residents of this north Texas town were crowded around television sets last night waiting to see the dramatization of last year's Justin State Bank robbery on the nationally televised program "The Big Story."

But just as the program started the town was plunged into darkness by a power failure. M.D. Rash electric company representative, said some prankster pulled a switch on a pole just outside of Justin.

By the time Rash got the power back on, the portions of the program filmed here had been shown and the scene had shifted to New York and professional actors.

Justin residents missed the chance of a lifetime to see themselves on the national television program.

Plans to Shun Dem Convention

Former South Carolina Head Claims No Party Backs States' Rights

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Former South Carolina Gov. James F. Byrnes says he plans to shun the Democratic National Convention. The "platform pledges of the (Democratic and GOP) candidates may result in a third party pledged to preserve" the Constitution and states' rights, he said.

Byrnes said in a statement yesterday that neither of the major parties "could be expected to give support or sympathy to our views as to rights of the states" in the South.

Byrnes, 77, former member of the U.S. Supreme Court and secretary of state under President Truman, said he will not ask the South Carolina Democratic party to appoint him as a delegate to the convention in Chicago next August.

He said he will not attend his county convention, where delegates are nominated.

Hardtop Soars in '55 Market

Climb to Second Place in Sales; Station Wagon Also Forges Ahead

Hardtops and station wagons set new records for popularity among new car purchasers in 1956, according to the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

Hard tops climbed 10 percentage points to capture second place among models sold with 27 per cent of the car market. Station wagons went up to 9.6 per cent compared with 6.3 per cent last year.

Station wagon sales, the AMA reported, have climbed 840 per cent during the post-war period. In 1940 they represented only .7 per cent of the passenger car market.

The two-door sedan, which held first place in 1940, dropped to third in 1955 with 21 per cent of the sales.

The four-door sedan kept its hold on first place with a 38.4 per cent share, while convertible coupes went up half a percentage point to claim 3.03 per cent of total sales.

Man Suffers Lacerations as Car Rams Into Tree

Arlo J. Markestad, 32, of Carleton, whose car hit a tree near Maple Road near Drake Road early yesterday morning, was taken to Fort Wayne Hospital suffering minor lacerations. Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said today.

Markestad told deputies he swerved off the road to avoid a car backing out of a driveway. The car didn't stop, he said.

Jr. Police Group Staging Show

Romeo Girls Set Tonight for Event to Buy New Uniforms

ROMEO—A talent show will be staged tonight in the Village Clerk's office by the 34 members of the newly-formed Junior Police-women's organization.

Chief Noreen Grunow announced today that the show will begin at 7:30 p.m. Proceeds will be used to purchase uniforms for girls who cannot afford to buy their own.

The feminine law enforcement unit is under the direction of Police Chief Gordon Osgood, who was also instrumental in establishment of the Romeo Junior Police. The boys' organization now boasts a membership of 77 between the ages of 10 and 16.

The Junior Policewomen are primarily concerned with keeping local youngsters out of trouble by providing teams of two girls each to keep an eye on children in the larger business establishments during busy shopping hours. Should a misdemeanor be noted one girl reports it to the manager while the other keeps the suspect under surveillance.

The girls have chosen their official badge and khaki uniform, both of which they will wear when on duty.

Other officers of the new organization are Linda Proper, lieutenant; Mary Kleihans, Patricia Walker and Christine Warren, sergeants; and Donna Falk, Joanne Posey and Ann Emmons, corporals.

The girls are divided into three self-governing units which meet Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons with the whole group gathering at the Village Clerk's regularly at 10 a.m. Saturday mornings.

DR. WALLACE WATT

Dr. W. Watt to Speak Tuesday to Council

A meeting of the East Oakland Area PTA Council will be held at Troy High School at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The program on mental health will be presented by Dr. Wallace Watt. Suggestions for local programs will be offered and a discussion will follow the presentation.

Election of PTA Council officers for the year 1956-57 is also on the evening's agenda.

The meeting is being held one week earlier than originally planned in order to accommodate the speaker's schedule. Troy High is located on Livernois near 15 Mile road.

ORA-LEE RANDOLPH

Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Randolph of 25867 Farmbrook Rd., Southfield Township, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ora-Lee, to Harry Daraskavich of 407 Harvard St., Anchorage, Alaska. Harry is the son of Mrs. Anna Daraskavich of Irons, Mich. An April 7 wedding is being planned.

Kids Hold Paper Drive in Memory of Teacher

SOUTHFIELD TOWNSHIP — Children at Angling Road School have lost their beloved kindergarten teacher, but they're going to make certain she is not forgotten.

They're planning a memorial to her—something extra-special to be placed in a new kindergarten room being added this summer, so that others will remember her name. They're out today lugging papers and magazines in a paper collection to pay for their gift.

In addition to their load of papers, the youngsters are carrying, too, a burden of sadness for the teacher they lost.

For Mrs. Doris Sparling, who captured the children's hearts as easily as she captured their minds, died Feb. 16, two days after she held a Valentine party for her five-year-olds. She died of pneumonia.

She was ill the day of the party, but she came to school anyway because she loved her little pupils and wanted them to have a happy time.

Now she is gone.

The 300 pupils of Angling Road School are hoping for the biggest paper collection ever as they canvass homes in the vicinity of Franklin and 11½ Mile Rds.

They have enlisted four dads, who have promised to provide trucks to haul the paper from pick-up points. A waste paper company is sending out a van.

All that is left, say the youngsters, is for everybody to answer the door and give them enough papers to make their memorial what it should be—the best.

N. Branch PTA Names Leaders

Annual Election Meet Thursday; Cubs, Band Entertain

NORTH BRANCH — The March meeting of the PTA, held at the high school Thursday evening, was marked by the annual election, resulting as follows:

President, Mrs. Arnold Smith; mother vice president, Mrs. Lewis Graham; father vice president, Harry Sealey; teacher vice president, Mrs. Cathryn Bugg; secretary, Mrs. Jean Thompson and treasurer, Mrs. Donna Baldwin.

Seventeen Cub Scouts, who held the entertainment spotlight, presented playlets, based on the monthly themes of "Robinhood" and "Pirate Life." Movies of the circus theme also were shown.

Instrumental music was provided by the high school senior band.

A buffet lunch followed the social hour.

Auburn Club Sets Dinner Date in Member Drive

AUBURN HEIGHTS—The Community Club here is holding a dinner Thursday, open to prospective members.

The dinner, to begin at 6:30, will be followed by travel films. Persons planning to attend should make reservations not later than Tuesday by phoning FE 5-0855.

The group, campaigning for new members, sponsors two activities each month: a card party on the fourth Thursday and a dance on the first Saturday. Dinner meetings for members are held the second Thursday of the month.

On Dean's List at Hope

MILFORD—Lawrence N. Lup of 1281 Applewood St. has attained the Dean's List at Hope College for outstanding scholarship during the last semester, college officials announced.

Lup, a student at Hope, also was entertained at an Honors Tea at the college's Durfee Hall.

Revise Church Schedule

WATERFORD — The Sunday School Board of the Waterford Community Church will meet at 5:45 p.m. Sunday at the church, with all teachers and officers attending.

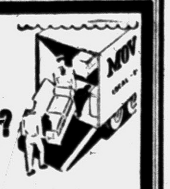

The meeting is the first in a revised schedule of several church groups' meeting times.

Under this new schedule, the Sunday School board will meet on the first Sunday of every second month, at 5:45 p.m.

Sunday School Visitation will take place from 7-8:30 p.m. on the first Monday of every month, beginning March 5. The group will meet at the church.

The Executive Board of the church will meet at 3:30 p.m. on the second Sunday of each month.

Altar Society Names Officers

St. Joseph Group, Lake Orion and Oxford, List Year's Slate

Newly elected officers of the Altar Society of St. Joseph Church, Lake Orion and Oxford, are as follows:

President, Mrs. Anthony Wodek; vice president, Mrs. Gerald Lane; secretary, Mrs. Edmund Proulx, and treasurer, Mrs. Gerald Young.

A book drive is being conducted at this time, to secure children's books for the school library.

A lively slate has been written for this year, including a teenage ball in early April; parish-wide informal dance in May; bazaar and dinner in June and July.

Every Friday and Saturday the various guilds of the society will conduct a rummage sale in the Youth Center, Lake Orion.

Members plan active participation in civic activities, including Red Cross Drive, Blood Bank and March of Dimes.

Mrs. Anthony Wodek, Mrs. Ray Longpre, and Mrs. Henry Angeli will represent the local group at the NCCW Convention being held this month at the Statler Hotel in Detroit. The Altar Society meets monthly in St. Joseph School.

Candidate to Talk at Hunters Creek

METAMORA—The Rev. Charles Vradenburgh of Wheaton, Ill. will be the first candidate for the pastorate at the Hunters Creek Community Church, speaking at both services on Sunday. There will be three others for three successive Sundays.

At 1 p.m. next Sunday there will be a potluck dinner in the church basement. Everyone is invited, the purpose of the dinner being to get acquainted with the guest minister.

The annual church business meeting will be held at the church on Thursday, March 15, at 8 p.m.

The vacancy was caused by Rev. Frank B. Thompson's resignation. He is now pastor of the Baptist Church at Marlette.

Brandon Board to Meet on Assessment Problems

ORTONVILLE — Brandon Township Board of Review will meet in the home of Township Supervisor F.D. Brigham, 194 South St., instead of in the Brandon Town Hall as formerly.

Sessions at which the Board of Review will hear complaints and iron out problems of tax assessments will be held from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. next Tuesday, and on Monday and Tuesday, March 12 and 13, of the following week.

Gwen Verdon Dislikes California Atmosphere

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—What Lola wants Lola gets, but what does Lola want?

Gwen Verdon—who plays the sexy tomato Lola in "Damn Yankees"—wants art museums.

I must say I do come up with some startling facts, don't I? Asquat a chair in her dressing room the other night, leggy red-haired, devil-tamin' Lola looked positively virtuous and almost scholastic — she was wearing slacks — as she revealed this other side of her. Most sides of shapely Lola had already been revealed through her mesh costume.

GWEN

I was allowed to see more of her—mentally.

"I was back in California recently," quoth this lass who was born, bred and bored in Hollywood's back yard — "and I was disappointed.

"They're so lazy there. They're almost mentally retarded.

"Perchance it's the climate," bravely declared this Ohio boy, always eager to defend the fair mental processes of Hollywood.

"It's not that hot, I don't think," retorted Gwen, a fair judge of heat, if you remember "Damn Yankees" is about Hades.

"They don't even have a museum where you can go and look at a painting! Gwen said.

Inasmuch as on my trips to Hollywood, the only works of art I cared to see were Mamie Van Doren and Kim Novak, I hadn't detected this sad lack.

"There's nothing?" I asked.

"Oh," and Gwen shrugged her slacks, "near Santa Ana, they have the brick made by the Hopi Indians. It was a whole day to go down there in a model A when I lived there and nothing's happened since. In Hollywood, you just fall asleep in the sun from drinking beer, and you just don't care.

Gwen's a serious painter.

"I have weeks when I do nothing but paint." Beaming, she spoke of decorating her own house in 78th St.

"The people here have more interests than in Hollywood. If, for no other reason, the change in climate. Here the women have at least one thing to do every year."

"What?" I asked excitedly.

"Get ready for winter clothes!"

Besides an album she recorded, the studying she's done and the appearances she's made, Gwen keeps occupied visiting the art museums. Her son, Jimmy, 13, visits her here when he can. I find her a charming, honest, ambitious, talented young lady who is unscarred by her experience of being married to a Hollywood columnist once.

At a fashion show, she encountered Jayne Mansfield.

The script said, "Miss Verdon undulates."

"Are you going to undulate?" Miss Mansfield asked, and without waiting for an answer, said, "Please do. I want you to teach me."

"I'll try and you don't try," Gwen told Jayne. Gwen told me, "She doesn't know how to undulate any more than Marilyn Monroe doesn't know how."

"All the same," I said to Lola Gwen, "you sound like you've become a longhair."

"I'm afraid so," she confessed.

Trace History of Area Lumber Baron

Editor's Note: Michigan's history is rich and alive. Too often it is lost in the dullness of presentation. In an effort to bring some of these moments to life, the following series was compiled from eyewitness accounts on file with the University of Michigan's historical collections and assistant director F. Clever Bald.

By JOHN BARBOUR

PONTIAC, May 29, 1900 (AP)—David Ward, one of Michigan's wealthiest men who rose from poverty to make a fortune on lumber, died today at his nearby Orchard Lake home.

At 77, he still carried on his own business ventures despite his failing eyesight.

In a recent letter to a friend, Ward wrote that he still composed about 2,000 letters a year, kept his own books, wrote his own contracts and deeds and paid taxes in six states.

Born in Essex County, N. Y., in 1823, Ward was the fourth of nine children. He came with his family to Michigan in 1836. In the 64 years since then, he built an empire in Michigan pine forests.

Reared in poverty and ill health, Ward was scorned by rich relatives and his friends explain that this drove him into the obsession of seeking success in his business ventures.

Working as a surveyor, schoolteacher, pine explorer and commercial fisherman and graduating as a doctor from the University of Michigan Medical School, Ward began his pine empire when he was 29.

He never practiced as a doctor. His friends said that since his earliest days, he had been driven by the ambition to make good.

Working for his father, they say, he made $6.50, bought a yearling calf, raised it and sold it for $13. It was the first transaction he ever made. He was 11 years old at the time.

But the story, now almost legend, of Ward's initial pine buying spree and the race to the government claim office was the start of his fabulous lumbering career.

Locating a claim in the Otsego-Bradford Lakes region, Ward had to beat his competitors to the land office in Ionia. But he was handicapped, not only by his physical stature, but because he had to stop first at Detroit to pick up the money from his backers.

With land selling for only 75 cents to a dollar an acre, the competition was fierce. The weather, after a spring thaw, had turned cold again and when Ward left Saginaw in 1864, the temperature was 30 degrees below zero.

Heading from Otsego to Saginaw, Flint, then to Pontiac, Detroit, Lansing and Ionia, he traveled 500 miles on foot through forest land and 450 miles more by stage, water and livery in six weeks.

Despite legal trouble later, Ward had won the race with his competitors and laid the cornerstone for his sprawling wooded kingdom.

Fire Rules Drawn Up

EAST LANSING (AP) — The State Police Fire Marshal's Division reported it will start distribution of copies of new regulations for the handling and use of flamable liquids. The new code, representing the first revision in regulations in 14 years, will cover all types of commercial and industrial establishments handling inflamable liquids.

SATURDAY, MARCH 3, 1956

Vote "For" Ordinance to Better Pontiac Parking

Pontiac votes Monday.

The City determines whether we have additional five cent parking to relieve the downtown traffic and parking.

All cities face this problem.

City Manager Walter K. Willman declares that the City needs public parking in addition to private parking to handle a constantly increasing number of cars.

By and large, the space provided by the new ordinance will come at a much lower rate than parking on the private lots now in use. The bonds to finance the move, will be paid off by funds from the parking meters. This has been clearly established in spite of counterclaims by the private lot organization.

Changing times constantly present new problems. These must be solved as they arise. Traffic has reached undreamed proportions.

Additional lots are necessary. Here is the answer.

If you seek more and cheaper parking, make an "X" in the space marked "FOR" the Ordinance.

No Reason for Alarm

Back from his world tour, U. N. Secretary General Hammarskjold has some reassuring words about the situation in the tense Middle East.

Nothing he saw in the eastern end of the Mediterranean gave him the impression that war is imminent there. In expanding on this fact, he emphasized at his press conference his belief that there is no reason for panic and that talk of an arms race is premature.

The Secretary General, as ambassador of the 76 U. N. member nations, was in an advantageous position to study the world situation. While he could not criticize any country, he could ask the leaders of all for their views.

Thus he got from spokesmen "a strengthened feeling for opposing sides in the Middle East the balance of judgment shown by some of those who have to work out solutions."

During his trip, Mr. Hammarskjold said he found warm interest in the kind of help U. N. can give. In other words, as he pointed out, "the United Nations is a symbol . . . the guarantee that there is sense in the world and that there is equity in the world . . . a guarantee for the rights of the small nations to a place in the sun."

Be Sure to Vote Monday

Voters of Pontiac have several vital decisions to make in next Monday's municipal primary.

Not in recent years has it been more important that there is a heavy turnout at the polls. Outstanding on the ballots, of course, is the selection of candidates for City Commission seats in Districts 1, 2, 4 and 7.

Contests for seats in Districts 3, 5 and 6 aren't necessary as only two petitions were filed in each. Primaries are needed, however, in Districts 1, 2, 4 and 7 because there are 16 candidates seeking eight nominations.

In addition, the voters are asked to express their will on two special proposals. First of these is a $600,000 parking lot bond issue. The other is the proposed increase in salaries for our City Commissioners.

We favor both.

As primary day nears we hope all qualified electors will remember that exercise of the franchise not only is a priceless privilege, but a solemn duty of citizenship. Self government can't remain as strong as it should be if too many questions are decided by a minority of the registered voters.

The People's Business:

Fresh Appraisal

Newcomer Takes Gander at Michigan Politics

By ROGER LANE

LANSING—Random observations by a newcomer to the Michigan political scene:

The wonder of G. Mennen Williams' firm hold on the governor's chair is that it was achieved almost without patronage, one of the most powerful of political tools.

In Illinois, the governor has upwards of 10,000 jobs—and depending on how he works it, the number can be much higher—with which to reward his friends, punish his enemies and solidify his organization.

A legislator of either party beholden to the governor for a handful, or perhaps dozens, of jobs tends to be amenable to suggestion when the time comes to vote on an important administration bill.

Reformers scorn patronage, one of the oldest devices for political back scratching. But like other powerful weapons, it can be used for good or evil.

One of the most significant of recent Illinois reform measures—reapportionment of the Legislature in 1953 for the first time in 53 years—probably could not have been attained without the judicious use of patronage.

SAME RESULTS

It's hard to understand what difference if any the lobbyist registration law makes on their numbers or behavior.

The representatives of various companies and organizations sent here to look after their interests appear to get about the same results and by the same methods as elsewhere.

By unofficial count, there were 299 eligible to ply their trade in February—or better than two for each legislator.

Puzzling to the outsider expecting to encounter lobbyists for labor organizations by the platoon is to find about the usual proportion for an industrial state and 14 accredited to the Michigan Library Association.

The people of Michigan are blessed by unusually good newspaper coverage of their elected representatives in transacting the people's business.

ABLE REPORTERS

Some of the credit surely belongs to the seasoned, able and aggressive band of reporters stationed at the Capitol to record its events.

Some is due to the many newspapers that give a generous allotment of space to the fruit of their employes' efforts (it is not everywhere so).

And some is due to the many public officials, who, accustomed to having their deeds recounted in the newspapers at home, respond accordingly and fairly well resist the temptation to secretiveness. A major exception here is the tradition of voting on bills in committee behind closed doors.

For a governor with a wide reputation for knowing the political ropes, G. Mennen Williams took a surprising length of time to decide what to say about President Eisenhower's announcement in Washington Wednesday.

His 38-word comment reached waiting reporters about an hour and a quarter after the big news broke.

HANDSHAKING DUTY

While his brief statement was in the making, however, Williams took time off to shake hands with about 50 high school students who paraded through his office and to attend to some other matters.

March, Named for Ancient God, Was Legal Beginning of Year Until 1752

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

This month is named in honor of the pagan god Mars, who is known nowadays as the God of War. It is more than likely, however, that Mars started out quite innocently as an agricultural deity —The God of Vegetation, of growing things. How he got his present evil reputation is difficult to understand.

Legend also says that Mars was the father of Romulus, one of the founders of Rome. It was Romulus who worked out the first Roman calendar. March, in that calendar, was the first month, and remained so until 41 B.C. when the Julian calendar replaced it. Even after January and February were put in ahead of it, March was still considered the beginning of the legal year, and it was not until our present (Gregorian) calendar was adopted, in 1752, that the legal year began to coincide with the calendar.

The old Saxons called March "Hlyd-Monath," which means "boisterous month" or sometimes "Lencten-Monath," which means "the month of lengthening days."

The expression "mad as a March hare" seems to come from the fact that the mating season reaches its peak at this time of year. Although all the animals were somewhat disturbed, the hare's response to the season was especially frenzied.

HELPED EXECUTIONER

The story of St. Perpetua and St. Felicitas covers only a few days. Little is known of their lives. They are remembered after 17 centuries because of the way they died. In all Christian history there is no better example of the unshakeable conviction of the early Christians or the limitless cruelty of those who persecuted them.

Perpetua was a 22-year-old matron of high social positions in Carthage. Felicitas was her slave. When they were arrested for the crime of Christianity they had not yet actually become Christians. They were, however, receiving instructions for Holy Baptism, and they did not think of offering any resistance to the arrest. They were baptized on their way to prison.

Felicitas at the time had a baby in arms; Perpetua was within a month of becoming a mother. Both were sentenced to be thrown to the lions. Before the sentence was to be carried out Perpetua had her baby. Both children, of course, were taken by the officers. What became of them is not known.

The story of the execution is gruesome almost beyond belief. Instead of being fed to the lions the two women were wrapped in a net and exposed to the goring of a savage cow. Felicitas died quickly, but Perpetua lived so long that the crowd tired of the torture and demanded that she be killed by the sword. To make the matter even more heartrending, the swordsman appointed turned out to be a youth just learning to be a gladiator, and his nervous timid stabs did nothing but add to the agony. Perpetua herself finally had to help him guide the blade by which she died.

St. Augustine made a lovely play on the names of these two Saints when he said they are now in "perpetual felicity."

CASTING OF LOTS

The casting of lots, which was referred to in connection with Purim last week, was in ancient times a perfectly acceptable way of finding out the will of God. There are many examples of it in both the Old and New Testaments. The "Promised Land" was divided by lot among the Jewish tribes.

The priests of the Templt determined their assignments by lot: Luke, Chapter I, verse 9, speaking of the priest Zacharis, says, "His lot was to burn incense." The sailors on the boat where Jonah was a passenger cast lots to find out who was bringing the storm upon them.

The soldiers at the foot of the Cross cast lots for the Lord's garments. And the Apostles chose Judas' successor by lot.

We are too sophisticated to rely on such a method today, but there were many centuries during which the lot was considered by serious and deeply religious men to be the voice of God.

Ideal Goal for Retired Clergymen Is in Field of Marriage Counseling

Dr. Fox is a rabbi emeritus who still remains in the harness. He pinch hits for me before my Bible Class when I am out of the city, and serves as an official marriage counsellor. He typifies the ideal goal for all clergymen after they retire from active duty in their pulpits.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case O-390: Dr. G. George Fox, aged about 65, is the brilliant Rabbi emeritus of Chicago's South Shore Hebrew Temple.

He is also a talented orator and a mainstay of our South Shore YMCA of which we are both Board Members.

When I am out of the city on lecture trips that keep me away over Sunday, Dr. Fox often pinch hits for me before my large Bible Class at the St. John's Church.

Incidentally, instead of easing up regarding my Bible teaching in my later years, I find myself becoming even more heavily engaged.

For now I teach a Bible class at 9:30 each Sunday morning at the large St. John's Church on the south side of Chicago, and then hasten down to the Loop to duplicate that task at noon before my Bible class at the skyscraper Chicago Temple.

And I am almost always on the job, if I am in Chicago. Only once in 20 years have I missed teaching my Bible classes due to illness.

But occasionally I am away from Chicago, so good friends like Dr. Fox then take my place and do a better job than I can boast of.

Dr. Fox has a keen sense of humor so he judiciously mixes Bible interpretation with clever sallies.

"I'm the only Methodist Rabbi in captitivity," he laughingly informs the audience, referring to the fact that he obtained his Ph. D. degree at Illinois Wesleyan College.

For many years Dr. Fox graciously opened his large church auditorium to all civic and religious bodies who desired a spacious central meeting place.

For we had no other adequate auditorium in our section of Chicago. Dr. Fox also was the prime organizer of the Ministerial Association of our area, which is composed of clergymen of all dehominations.

Dr. Fox served as president thereof when it first was launched under his enterprising leadership and has been the main sparkplug therein ever since.

He has proved not only a great moral asset to our part of Chicago, but has written several books and has lectured widely all over the U.S.A.

Originally hailing from Texas, he combines the outlook of both the North and the South, and serves as an ideal man to expound Old Testament Bible lessons.

In recent years, since his retirement as the active head of his Hebrew Temple, he has functioned as a marriage counsellor, for which he is admirably qualified.

In fact, I recommend this role to all retired clergymen, for I find that the pastor is generally in better rapport with married folks that is the average physician or attorney.

SALUTE TO CLERGY

Since marriage is a spiritual union and not a mere civil contract, I find that ministers usually have more of the artistic touch when probing into causes for marital feuding.

Our American clergy are also very alert to all modern psychological and psychiatric conditions.

Over 1,500 clergymen write to me every year via this clinical psychology column. And I have personally conducted marriage clinics or furnished sex booklets for hundreds of Catholic, Protestant and Hebrew churches.

As an ideal hobby, therefore, when you clergy retire from active duties in the pulpit itself, I'd like to see you serve as local marriage counsellors.

From your wide training in psychological and moral subjects, you are the best qualified group in the land for advising on family, juvenile and marital problems.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

Final Opinions on Parking Voiced by Press Readers

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

The only reason I am against the present municipal parking issue is that I think several of the proposed parking lots are poorly located and too far from the downtown stores. People go to shopping centers because they have free parking right in front or behind the stores they want to shop.

Better use should be made of the parking lots already downtown. Three or four levels could be put where people could park their own cars for five cents or free if sponsored by the downtown stores as in some cities.

Pontiac has some good regulations requiring that new buildings supply a reasonable amount of parking space, which should ease the problem in the future, but I feel sure a more economical use of valuable land and a better solution could be found to the parking problem today.

V.W.

Please, Pontiac, vote for the five-cent parking. I only shop in Pontiac when I really have to because of the abuse my car takes every time it's left in a lot.

I usually prefer waiting in the Municipal lot for a space than to waiting at the bump shop to remove a ding. And how those lot attendants love to tramp on the gas of a big car. And how close they drive to other cars.

I just don't shop in Pontiac much any more when I can shop at Huron Center, park my car, lock it and walk a few feet to the stores. But Huron center has its limits and I do like to be in on some of Pontiac's sales.

I just want Pontiac to know that we Waterford neighbors are with them and five-cent parking.

From Waterford

Although not a Pontiac taxpayer, I am interested in private enterprise and opposed to government in business. Isn't it better to let private interests provide parking, than to let the government, whether local, state or federal, take over another business?

If the downtown merchants are suffering for lack of parking space, let them provide their own parking, just as the new shopping areas must.

It is completely false to say that the public parking will cost the taxpayers nothing. Maybe it won't show up on the tax bills, but it will cost all the taxpayers money, or it will cut out some of the services which the city now provides.

Believer in Private Enterprise

In regard to parking and who should operate the lots, I say by all means they should have been operated by private business owners. But it turned out like the goose that laid the golden egg.

Greediness killed it for private owners. Now I do not want to condemn anyone for getting as large a price for his services as he can. But by overdoing it, we sometimes get let down hard.

Oh yes, upkeep and wages are high, and taxes, too. But do you call starting an attendant at 65 cents an hour high? Or even wages?

'Don't Think Your Ballot Useless in Parking Issue'

No one will deny that downtown Pontiac has a parking problem. The big problem is how to solve it.

I do not happen to have talked with anyone who is against public parking as proposed by the City Commission. I do know, however, that there is a group, headed by private parking lot operators, who is fighting this project.

The danger is not that someone is fighting this project, because there is probably nothing in the world that can be done without having some disagreement, and that is good and wholesome. The fact that it is on the ballot will give everyone a chance to show the City Commission, labor unions, Chamber of Commerce and most other groups in the city that we can accept their word that this is a good thing for the city and vote for it.

The big danger is that all of us talking to each other will get the idea that everybody is for it and figure that there is no use voting. This is precisely what the opposition would love to see happen.

The best thing that you can do is to figure that your vote is the one that is going to make public parking possible and be sure to get to the polls and cast it. I am going to vote yes and I urge all my friends to do the same thing.

Says Customer Is Played for Sucker by Lot Owner

One thing bothers me in this parking deal. When the city can pay off its debt on five cent parking, how have the parking trusts enough nerve to charge thirty-five cents and even more? We're all used to getting hi-jacked occasionally, but we don't like being played for a sucker, and that's what my neighbors and I have decided the owners must think we are.

Doctor's Advice on Using Ear Drops Finally Brings Some Relief to Reader

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

I had been treated by various eye, ear, nose and throat specialists for nearly four years when I heard of your ear drops. Within three days I had relief and now have wax in my ears, the first time in four years. All I can say is God Bless you . . .(R. W.)

Answer—Anyone, including eye ear, nose and throat specialists, may have the instructions for preparing and using the drop for chronic running ear. Inclose stamped, self . addressed envelope. This will give the OALRs a laugh, but that's all right. I have had so many reports from people who declare the drops have cured their ear trouble that I'm beginning to believe — oh well, there's always old A. J. Coincidence to be reckoned with.

Kindly mail to the following addresses the most comprehensive information you have on deep, or as you call it, belly breathing . . . (S. T. C.)

Answer — Send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for Little Lesson 21, the booklet HOW TO BREATHE.

Network of Red Schools Revealed

PHILADELPHIA (INS)—The existence of a nationwide network of nearly 100 Communist-operated and-subsidized private schools for children was revealed yesterday.

In most instances, parents who send their sons and daughters to these disguised Red schools to learn the language and cultural history of their nationality are unaware of their backgrounds.

Only a small percentage of these "language" schools publicly indentify their affiliation by advertising in Communist publications.

The disclosure came with the filing in the Philadelphia Federal District Court of the first of a series of actions to seize the assets of the schools and so-called "cultural" clubs.

Similar suits were filed by the state of New York in Newark, N.J., and Colchester, Conn., courts.

The New York state insurance department, under a Supreme Court order, has taken over the multi-million dollar International Workers Order, described officially as the "financial arm" of the Communist party.

State investigators discovered the school setup in the process of hunting down and liquidating all the worldwide assets of the I.W.O. The organization, incorporated as a fraternal benefit society under the New York state insurance laws, was ordered dissolved for "exceeding its charter powers."

In New York City and suburban Long Island, INS learned, at least 53 schools were operated by the "national school and cultural committee" of the I.W.O.

The classrooms for indoctrinating of boys and girls in New York and Long Island, however, were "immune" to seizure.

Most of the classes, it was found, were conducted in rented buildings and stores.

Within a matter of days, it was reported authoritatively, court actions will commence in 11 major industrial cities in Ohio, Illinois, Michigan and Indiana to take over and sell schools allegedly run by I.W.O. subsidiaries.

Lengthy investigations are aland "cultural" clubs said to be under the control and "guidance" of the Communist organization in California, New York, Massmost completed against schools achusetts and as far away as Paris, France.

The six Philadelphia suits were initiated for New York state by the law firm of Montgomery, McCracken, Walker & Rhoads, headed by former U. S. supreme court Justice Owen J. Roberts.

Last summer, INS disclosed the existence of at least 13 summer camps for children owned or operated by members and officials of the I.W.O., and its affiliates, all on the attorney-general's subversive list.

Officer to Get $20,000

LANSING (AP) — A Circuit Court jury has awarded $20,000 to Lansing Policeman Kenneth McKay for injuries recieved while he was chasing down Jerry Hargis of Jackson to make an arrest on a traffic violation. McKay said the Jackson driver swerved in front of the police car and that he was injured when the car left the road and hit a tree.

See Efforts to End Electric Strike, Slow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Continued slow progress was reported today in government efforts to settle the 139 - day Westinghouse Eelectric Corp. strike.

There were hints a major break in the talks may come over the weekend, but this could not be officially confirmed. Mediators in charge of the talks kept silent.

They kept mediation sessions going last night until nearly midnight, in the second straight night session.

Red Styles Leave Ample Room for Buxom Figures

By JEANNE B. O'MALLEY

MOSCOW (AP)—The latest from Paris may be Dior's "F" line, but Soviet dress designers this week came out strongly for a "B" line. Their new spring models allow ample room for bosom and beam.

* * *

They resemble American-made stylish stouts. The buxom mannequins at Moscow's Dom Modelle—house of models—stress the natural line by wearing low heels and omitting girdles.

WESTERN INFLUENCE

Before the spring showing opened, the director of Dom Modelle made the surprising disclosure that Soviet fashions are influenced by the West. He said the Soviet Chamber of Trade buys models from France and Britain and from other European countries for reproduction in Soviet factories. Moreover, he said, the designers here study Western fashion magazines carefully.

His statement was supported by the most exciting model in the spring show—an adaptation of a butterfly-sleeved dinner dress that was a highlight of the Fath collection in Paris last fall. A sharp eye also can detect Ballenciga influence in tweed coats and suits including such details as below-the-waist belts popular in France a year ago.

FOR SIZE 40

Soviet designers clearly have no illusions about the average figure they are dealing with. Most of their spring numbers are loose fitting, raglan sleeve styles suitable for size 40. The only dress with a nipped in waistline has zippers on both sides for easier exit.

Dom Modelle is a center for the 16 fashion houses in the Soviet Union and has the most important influence on what the Russian woman will wear. Its models are reproduced in factories, workshops and the sitting rooms of neighborhood seamstresses. They also can be copied by the wearers themselves.

Designers from each of the 16 houses gather in Moscow to discuss styles and trends with Dom Modelle's 40 designers. Madame Gorelyonkova is considered the top designer of all.

All the designs must be submitted to a committee from the Ministry of Light Industry. Those accepted from Dom Modelle then are shown throughout the country.

BUY PATTERNS

Audiences at spring showings are composed mostly of dressmakers who came to select patterns. Anyone with the five-rubble admission fee, however, can see the show and buy patterns for the models they like. The dresses themselves are not sold.

Fashion-hungry Russian women turned out in subzero weather to see the latest show. Huddled in shawls and boots, they watched stoically and offered no applause, although they did gasp with pleasure at that Fath-like dinner dress. It ws one of only two formals in the collection.

They snickered at a white wool wrap that can be transformed from coat to cape by pulling out the sleeves.

FOR MEN, GIRLS

Styles for men and teen-age age girls were shown at the same time. The latter were attractive, imaginative and well fitted to the superior figures of young girls. Western influence is sternly restricted in men's clothes, the tight jackets and wide trouser bottoms still prevailing.

Eyecatchers in the masculine division were an aqua blue dolman coat with a matching plush fedora, and royal blue belted cot worn with a grey plush fedora. There also was s snug suit, the jacket belted in back and the patch pockets pleated—in green.

The announcement was made at the Thursday meeting of the DAR held at the YWCA. Reports from the standing committees were also heard with Mrs. Alan Monroe as Regent.

Alice Serrell was elected to serve the balance of the treasurer's term on the resignation of Mrs. William F. Kalwitz. Mrs. Harry Chapman, conservation chairman, reported that an article and pictures of the Michigan DAR project, Memorial Pines, near Cadillac, was included in the national report.

The formation of 23 Junior American Citizens' Clubs in the Pontiac School System was reported by Mrs. Lloyd Porter. The clubs promote knowledge of American history and loyalty to the country's ideals.

Serving as hostesses were Mrs. G. E. Beardslee, Mrs. Velmar Lewis, Mrs. L. M. Perry and Mrs. William Pelton.

Others were Mrs. Harry Bates, Mrs. Fred S. Lee, Mrs. R. H. Wilson and Mrs. Ivan B. Royal.

Mrs. W. A. Tait of Mercer, Pa. was a guest of the group.

Prayerbook Sharing Not Considerate

Stranger Ought to Let Owner Make First Move

By EMILY POST

A reader tells me: "My sister and I attended church services the other evening at which the congregation read aloud, in unison, from little prayerbooks. I did not have one so I asked the woman next to me if I could look on with her.

"After the services were over and we were leaving the church my sister criticized my behavior. She said that I was wrong to ask a perfect stranger to share her prayerbook, and that the offer should have come from her. I would appreciate hearing what you have to say about this."

Answer: I am sorry to have to say that I think your sister is right. The owner of the prayerbook might have been made very uncomfortable in having to share it at the wrong distance, and the offer should have come from her.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is the mother of the bridegroom expected to write thank-you notes to the bride's parents and to the other relatives who entertained them while they were at their son's wedding? They live several hundred miles away."

Answer: It is, of course, obligatory that she write to the bride's mother if they stayed in her house or to anyone else with whom they stayed. Otherwise, though not necessary, it would be polite if she wrote notes to others who were expecially kind and hospitable.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to push one's chair under the table when leaving a restaurant? Or does one leave it standing just where it is?"

Answer: Usually a waiter pulls it our when he sees you are going to rise, but if there is no one to help you, you would naturally push it out of the way of other people who might otherwise fall over it. If it is not in anyone's way, leave it.

Central WSCS Holds Meeting

Mrs. Colin Houston spoke at the luncheon meeting Thursday of the WSCS of Central Methodist Church. She is the WSCS Conference spiritual life secretary.

Mrs. Percy Jones presented the Lenten devotions. Anouncement of the WSCS Flint District meeting April 6 was made by Mrs. Richard Balmer.

The Mary Reed Unit served the luncheon under the chairmanship of Mrs. Pearl Kline. Assisting her were Mrs. George Fisler, Mrs. Russel Austin, Mrs. Sol Ringler, Mrs. Mark Lemaux, Mrs. Clifford Coe and Mrs. H. T. Rombough.

MRS. CHAUNCEY G. BURKE JR.

Joan Wozniak became the bride of Chauncey G. Burke Jr. in a ceremony performed Feb. 25 at Lauderdale Beach Hotel in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wozniak of Grosse Pointe. His parents are Dr. and Mrs. Chauncey G. Burke of Bloomfield Hills. The couple will reside in Saginaw following a honeymoon on the west coast of Florida.

Dress for the Elements

There's no avoiding the marketing. The family must be fed. So out into the rain, slush, snow and ice goes the intrepid wife, whose dutiful rounds are as demanding as the postman's.

Dressing for this excursion can be a big help or an awful hindrance. Practically decrees the following aids, from the ground up:

Overshoes, if you must. Preferable for all but the most underwater days is a pair of medium heel welted leather shoes. The welted shoe has been with us a long time, but many women have heretofore only appreciated their values for kids' wear. The welted shoe has an extra strip of leather binding upper and sole and helps keep out snow or slush.

Stockings. They may not look like much protection, but they keep down the chapping.

A warm, but not too heavy coat. It should button, not wrap, since you need both hands for the marketing.

GOOD GLOVES

A good pair of gloves. Mittens are clumsy. Many women find fleece or fur-lined leather driving gloves are easy. Find ones that are flexible enough to allow you to put a coin in the parking meter with gloves still on.

A neck scarf or good collar.

Something to cover the head and ears that won't slip or blow off. A hat can be an awful hindrance. A knitted jersey hood is a favorite of many women.

Insulation is one big secret. Your clothes can be less bulky if they are arranged with layers of warm air.

In other words, two light layers of clothing are warmer than one heavy one.

The torso-length "skeet" jacket of this fashionable corduroy suit is lined in printed cotton. A matching cotton blouse completes the "three for the money" ensemble.

Owen Pupils in Program of Patriotism

A patriotic program of songs, games and dances was presented by pupils of Owen School.

"Frosty the Snowman" was presented by the kindergarten. The program also consisted of a Flag drill and a health skit with a ballet by Barbara Nelson, a George Washington song, a Valentine Dance titled "Valentines Come to Life," and "Winter Wonderland" the Story of Victor Herbert and the story of Handel with the songs "Toyland" and "He Shall Feed His Flock" were also presented at the recent meeting.

Mrs. Hazel Gessinger and Mrs. Lucille Tenny accompanied the group on the piano.

Couples' Club Meets at Church

Mr. and Mrs. Don Grothe, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ferris and Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Schramm were host to the Couples' Club of the First Presbyterian Church Wednesday. The group held their monthly cooperative dinner-meeting at the church.

Members and guests were entertained by a magic show following the devotional period.

Guests of the group were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bradley, the Don Nagels, the Thomas Whites and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newill.

Hosts for the March meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gault, Mr. and Mrs. William VanJaarsveld and the Carl Bradleys.

Mrs. George Zahn Feted on Birthday

Mrs. George Zahn of Dakota drive was honored at a birthday dinner Thursday evening on the occasion of her 81st birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Kleber Dusenbury were hosts at the family dinner.

Those attending were George Zahn, their son, Lawrence, their daughter, Mrs. Leonard VanderKooy and Gloria VanderKooy. Her great-granddaughters, Dottie and Karen Dusenbury, also attended.

Guild's Past Presidents Are Feted

All Saints Women Highly Praised by Rev. Widdifield

In paying tribute to the past presidents of the General Guild of All Saints Episcopal Church at the dinner meeting held Thursday evening in Stevens Hall, the Rev. C. George Widdifield said that the church could not survive without women as active and willing workers.

"We would not have progressed as we have had it not been for the interest and devotion of these leaders and without the cooperation of all women under their able leadership."

Past presidents presented silver crosses as a token of appreciation of their services were Mrs. H. H. Faust, Mrs. Whitney Prall, Mrs. J. Standish Sibley, Mrs. Vernon C. Abbott, Mrs. C. Bryan Kinney, Mrs. Gerald Kirkby, Mrs. Raymond L. Cole, Mrs. Homer Harbage, Mrs. Franklin B. Read and Mrs. Robert C. Tricker.

At the business meeting held prior to the dinner, Mrs. Maxwell Shadley told of the plans for the Antique Show to be held in Stevens Hall on April 10-11-12 from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m. each day. Mrs. Bruce Hubbard is handling tickets for the General Guild.

Twenty four members will attend the Institute of Judaism on March 20 at Temple Beth Jacob. Rabbi Sanford Saperstein will explain the customs, ceremonies and ritual music of the Jewish faith.

Following the dinner meeting, a film, "I Beheld His Glory," was shown. It depicted the last years of Christ.

Initiation Held by Stabata Club

Ten new members received their Stabata Club pins Tuesday evening. The formal initation was held at the Elizabeth Lake road home of Sharon Gale.

Sharon Holland, junior sponsor, also assisted with the ceremony. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles Gale following the initiation.

A noted jewelry manufacturer is now introducing a rhinestone hair clip that does the work of an ordinary bobby pin but is, at the same time, a piece of jewelry.

MARY JEAN BROWN

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Brown of South Tilden avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Jean, to Bruce Srigley. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Srigley of Heyden drive. A summer wedding is planned.

Nancy C. Jones Speaks Vows With Trenton Kent

Before an altar decorated with white gladioli, snapdragons and iris, Nancy Christine Jones became the bride of A. Trenton Kent at a candlelight service at the United Missionary Church.

Nancy is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Floyd E. Jones of Joslyn avenue. His parents are the Rev. and Mrs. Lester B. Kent of Oneonta, Ala. The double-ring ceremony was performed Feb. 25 by the bridegroom's father, assisted by the Rev. G. D. Murphy.

The lace bodice of the bride's gown featured long tapered sleeves which ended in points over the wrists. Lace roses, accented with iridescent sequins and pearls, were appliqued around the neckline, and a lace peplum blended into the bouffant, floor-length skirt of nylon tulle.

Ellen Wood, the bride's honor attendant, wore a ballerina-length gown of ruby red crystallette, fashioned with varied width tucks in the bodice, sleeves and skirt. Her velvet headpiece was of camellia pink and she carried a heart-shaped bouquet of pink carnations.

OTHER ATTENDANT

Priscilla Jones, sister of the bride, was her other attendant. Her gown of camellia pink crystalette was fashioned like that of the honor attendant. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a heart-shaped bouquet of red carnations.

Serving as flower girls were Diane Detweiler and Linda Murphy, cousins of the bride. They wore floor-length gowns of pink crystalette and sweetheart bonnets of nylon tulle and velvet.

WHITE AND BLACK

Mrs. Kent chose a gown of white and black lace, a white hat and a corsage of pink carnations for her son's wedding.

When the newlyweds left on their honeymoon trip, the new Mrs. Kent changed to a charcoal knit dress with black accessories. On their return they will reside on Whittemore street.

If you've a short neck, drop earrings are not for you. Leave them to the girl with the swan-like neck. You'll look prettier in some version of the button earring.

Ann M. Patterson Wed in Philippines

A honeymoon trip to Bangkok, Thailand will be taken by Ann Maples Patterson and Lt. (j.g.) Donald Jacques Munro. The couple was married this afternoon in a 3:30 o'clock ceremony performed in the Chapel of the U. S. Naval Station, Sangley Point, Luzon, Republic of the Philippines.

Mr. and Mrs. George de la Roche Patterson of Birmingham are parents of the bride. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Munro of Cleveland, Ohio.

A pendant made from her grandmother's diamond ring was the only jewelry worn by the bride. It accented her white pure silk taffeta gown. Alencon lace beaded with seed pearls trimmed the ballerina-length bridal gown.

Her short veil secured by a cap of rose pointe lace was made from lace worn by her mother for her wedding. She carried a bouquet of orchids.

Mrs. Sherwin Montell served as matron of honor and Lt. (j.g.) Sherwin Montell was best man.

The Officers Club at the Naval Station was the scene of the wedding reception.

For traveling to Bangkok, the new Mrs. Munro changed to a charcoal gray dress. On their return the couple will reside in Cevete City, Luzon.

MRS. DONALD J. MUNRO

Ann Maples Patterson became the bride of Lt. (j.g.) Donald Munro this afternoon at Sangley Point, Luzon. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George de la Roche Patterson of Birmingham and he is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Munro of Cleveland, Ohio.

Joan Crawford Rears Her Four Children With Love and Discipline

(In a final article, appearing Monday, Miss Crawford, one of America's best-dressed women, tells how to be smartly and originally dressed.)

By MAY MANN

Seven rounds of applause clocked at the preview of Joan Crawford's newest picture, "Autumn Leaves," were no more rewarding to her than a compliment to her four children in Switzerland.

The manager of the hotel where they recently sojourned observed, "I have never known better mannered children. They are trained like European children."

"I have always had a strong maternal instinct," said Joan. "My mother had to support my brother Hal and me by running a laundry and by doing all sorts of hard work to make ends meet. At 13 I was self-supporting."

Miss Crawford had just completed repacking a trunk full of her children's clothes. Ski and skating outfits they had purchased and worn recently in Switzerland and which had just arrived.

Miss Crawford had also just finished pressing a dress to wear that evening. She always carries a travel iron.

"After my divorce from Franchot Tone, I applied to an adoption home for a baby," she continued. "First came Christina, who is now 16. And then a 10-day-old boy, whom I was to lose when he was a year-and-a-half old.

"His mother read about my adopting a baby boy, and discovered that my new son was the one she had signed away. For more than a year she insisted on taking him back. In the end I handed him back—with regret and sorrow.

"I whispered to him, 'We'll meet again.' His baby smile seemed to assure me that he knew what I said. He is 15 now and lives far away. I manage to know that he is well and happy.

"My son, Christopher, who now stands 6 feet at the age of 13, and the twins, nine-year-old Cynthia and Cathy, make up the family. There are also our three poodles, Cliquot, Camille and Chiffon. Chiffon was just presented to us by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Strelsin because the children and I feel in love with her."

Chiffon was indulging in a bone Miss Crawford had brought her from 21 earlier in the day. Joan always takes meat scraps from her dinner at a restaurant home in a well - wrapped package to the Crawford poodles.

CHILDREN KNOW

"My children know they are adopted; they know, too, that they are loved as much and even more than if they were of my own flesh and blood. I told them, I had to seek and find each of you. You are special.' 'We're hand-picked,' they say proudly. 'Most mothers don't have that choice!'

"When they do something wrong I am heartsick. I ask myself where, as a mother, have I failed them. I have never turned my children over to a governess or hired help, except when I am on a picture. Even then I talk to each one on the telephone in the morning and at night. And we are together over the weekends.

"The past few years I spent so much time with them that I was urged—by my doctor — to spend a little more time on myself."

Joan has been said to be a strict mother. The perfectionist in her demands high standards in her children. On many occasions I have visited Joan's home and sat and talked informally with Christina and Christopher, Cynthia and Cathy.

RIGHTS OF OTHERS

"Yes, I'm strict in the matter of good manners," Joan says. "I believe children must learn early that they cannot impose selfishness on other people. Sometimes they must be disciplined to learn that they cannot disregard the rights of others and they must assume their own obligations and responsibilities.

"I was always so starved for love myself that I give my children plenty of affection. I am too sympathetic, too concerned, I am told.

"I held Christina's hand when she was on the operating table, also Christopher's, also the babies'. Wouldn't every mother do the same?

"Cathy, one of the twins, used to hold her breath and turn blue and scare us to the point that the nurse thought she'd die. With patience, she outgrew her tantrums. All of my children are adorable.

"Mummie tells us we're special . . . !" That's what Joan Crawford's four children reply when asked if they are adopted. Standing are Christopher, 13, and Christine, 16. Miss Crawford is sitting between twins, Cathy and Cynthia, 9.

"Christiana is my close confidente and pal. Christopher was possessed with a wanderlust. He ran away several times. Taking him to Europe seemed to get that out of his system. He has sen the world; he knows now what it is to pack, unpack and get up early to keep travel schedules. He was thoroughly glad to get back home—and to school. . . .

IT'S THEIR LIFE

"I believe that children should be free, but only as they approach maturity, to choose their own way. It's their life—not yours. If they make a mistake, they can pick up from there with the understanding help of their parents.

"Christina has developed into a lovely young woman. She has a desirable character and personality. She graduates from high school in June. She wants to become an actress in the theater, not in pictures.

"I was always crazy about dancing, acting, movies. I still am. I am all for helping Christina achieve her goal. When I was much younger than she is now, I knew I wanted to be an actress.

"How could I possibly fail to understand her own ambition, and do everything I possibly can to help her? People say, 'It's such a hard life; there are so many frustrations. How can you want that for your daughter?'

"My answer is—the important thing is, she has to do what she wants to do, as an individual. If frustrations are a part of it, all right; she will work through the frustrations to eventual fulfillment and, even if she fails, just in trying she will have enriched her life.

"Christina has expressed her desire to go to Carnegie Tech for dramatic training. She wants to become a serious actress.

CHANGING INDEAS

"Christopher had asked permission to go to the Naval Academy when he is 16. A week later he decided he would prefer to take up aviation and become a pilot. That could change. That was two weeks ago.

"The twins' eyes grew as big as black cherries, seeing all the new sights in Europe. Their big delight was skating in Switzerland and the flying fish, as we passed the Azores.

"Cindy loves to play pranks and, therefore, constantly complicates life for herself. I believe she loves to confess and be forgiven. Cathy is a born femme fatale and quite aware of her feminine charms.

"And the fifth child—I've already mentioned him. You can't give a baby its bottle feeding every four hours through the night, change its diapers and then forget him. There's also the little matter of love.

"I used to worry about the children not having a father. I have tried to make up that lack in their lives by skiing, horseback riding and participating in other outdoor sports.

"I always feared horses, even though I loved them. After I had been thrown by a fast horse and managed to go right back, mount him and ride for an hour, both Christopher and Christina threw their arms around my neck. 'Mummie, we are so proud of you!'

"They call Alfred 'Daddy' (Alfred Steele, Joan's present husband) and take him in stride just as though they'd had him for a Daddy all their lives. This is very wonderful for me. I was always afraid I might marry a man who wouldn't love my children as I do."

Graceful Bodice Drapery Insures Figure Flattery

The tiny sleeves look draped but actually are made with a series of bias folds worked on an undersleeve for easy handling.

The skirt, which is slim and straight in front, has an exciting exit line in its center back treatment, consisting of a godet of released pleats flanked on either side with a folded box pleat.

Most effective in plain or printed silks, novelty cottons, taffeta or peau de soie, it is easy to make in spite of its detail because the pattern is accurately perforated and measured.

34	24	35	10	16½
35	25	36	12	16¾
36½	26½	37½	14	17
38	28	39	16	17¼
40	30	41	18	17½

Size 12 requires 4 yards of 50-inch material for dress and three-eighth of a yard of 35-inch material for interfacing.

To order Pattern No. 1251, state size; send $1; address Spadea Fashions, Inc., P. O. Box 535, G. P. O., Dept. P-6, New York 1, N. Y. Add 25 cents for airmail handling.

You Can Win by Voting!

When election day is here, CAST A VOTE.
If the polls are far or near, CAST A VOTE.
Any local drivers know
Parking lots are needed so.
You're the one who pays the dough. CAST A VOTE.

Though the weather may be bad, GO AND VOTE.
When they're counted, you'll be glad. GO AND VOTE.
When it's cold and wet and dark
And on shopping you embark,
If you want a place to park, GO AND VOTE.

They'll increase the meter cost? . . . STOP AND THINK.
We may ALL be double-crossed! STOP AND THINK!
If the parking issues fail
Parking lots WILL LIFT their scale.
Who will be the ones to wail? STOP AND THINK!

Are you one who cannot drive? VOTE FOR SURE.
Keep the downtown stores alive. VOTE FOR SURE.
If they fail and have to close
'Cause of "shopping center" woes,
Buses don't run out to those! VOTE FOR SURE.

Transportation to the polls? USE THE PHONE.
Makes no difference what your goals. USE THE PHONE.
We'll get ALL the people out.
Then we haven't any doubt
Victory will come about. USE THE PHONE.

5c parking will help you. EVERY ONE.
So you know just what to do. EVERY ONE
Use your democratic right.
End the lack-of-parking plight.

Don't Write the French Off, Advises General

(This is the last of six articles by a famed soldier-diplomat, reporting results of his five-week survey tour of critical North Africa, Spain and France.)

By BRIG. GEN. FRANK L. HOWLEY, USA (RET).
Vice Chancellor, New York University

NEW YORK (INS)—Everybody loves France but business is business, and our business with France is war and the prevention of war.

Paris' revolving door cabinets and what appears to be fluctuating policy have been for Americans and other foreigners interested in our international relations little short of amazing.

"Oh, France used to be a great nation, but now they are fourth-rate," I heard a Washington diplomat exclaim.

Said an American general: "We might as well write them off as a military loss and concentrate on helping the West Germans."

Quick appraisals of France and Frenchmen are very likely to be inaccurate. I think I know the French well enough from my time at the end of the first World War until now—time during which I attended their schools, fought side by side with them during the war, and made an effort to understand their place in the world picture. And I say don't write off the French.

The French peopole are great, the nation is strong. The central government, however, isn't worth a toot. In a way it is too bad that international emphasis upon central governments makes this important. Otherwise, most Americans would agree with the French that the less central government the better.

VITAL RESOURCES APLENTY

Take a plane and fly across France and you will know why France still is a great power. Rich farm lands unfold. More than 26,000 miles of railroads hum with products from busy industries disgorging goods at a rate 75 per cent more than ever done in French history. The same roads, and the elaborate network of highways can be a lifesaver for our military supply system in Europe if war comes.

The late Gen. George Patton, of happy memory, knew this when he told his provost marshal: "Use the Roman highways across France. They are built deep and won't break down under pressure." Roman highways are the basis of the French highway system.

France produces all the food it needs. It could double production if it wanted to. It doesn't want to. The French farmer does not want to change his way of life. He resists introduction of tractors and wholesale farm methods. Yet in his own way he is one of the greatest farmers in the world and among those tilling the richest piece of real estate in Europe.

In France we Americans have great bases for supplies and for air operations. In France is SHAPE the supreme headquarters for the North Atlantic Treaty Organiaztion. It is important to us that France still is strong.

We can expect the Frenchman to introduce a few tractors into his farming, despite his reluctance. We can expect him to consolidate a few of his innumerable retail stores, though he isn't in favor of it. We can expect him to work a little harder, and to give up a little of his joy of life (though he thinks it is ridiculous).

But we cannot expect him to take seriously his central government.

GOVERNMENT DESPISED

This government to him, including the cabinet, is made up of useless bureaucrats who just get in the way handling foreign affairs, when actually the Frenchman cares little for foreign affairs. Proportionately, there are fewer Frenchmen speaking foreign languages than in other major European countries. The same goees for their reluctance to travel abroad. After all, what else is there that one could want except that which one can find in France?

The Frenchman never has favored paying taxes for what he regards as these "spongers" in the central government. That is a reason for the recent vote-pulling power of Pierre Poujade and his tax-righting followers. That is the reason that 71.4 per cent of the Frenchman's taxes are indirect or hidden levies. The central government has plenty of difficulty collecting the 28.6 per cent direct taxes. The opposite situation prevails in the U.S., where 75.6 per cent taxes are direct and 24.4 per cent indirect.

A great body of civil servants still runs France despite governmental ins and outs. But the French despise the central government.

France is prospering but it is questionable if the present unwieldly constitution allows strengthening of the central government, except under stress of great national emergency such as war or revolution.

Conditions may be ripe for a resolution. But the French are almost too smart to go through a revolution, almost too sophisticated to personally fight a war. But let us not be deceived that France is weak. France is booming. Antoinette in the fish market at Marseille and lady "Bobo" in the fashionable circle in Paris never have had it so good.

Brand new taxis have replaced the ramshackle old jobs on Paris streets. Fastest-in-the-world streamlined trains are on the tracks, and France still is a great cultural center. The people themselves are ingenious, educated and competent.

It takes a strong central government to fight modern war if such awar comes. This the French do not have, although in times when the pressure is on, when the national and personal needs are sufficiently great, the French are capable of putting out incredible energy and unyielding determination. This was amply demonstrated during the occupation of France by the Germans.

Aside from our tremendous defense installations in France I believe France is worth fighting for at any time. The preservation of French civilization is as vital to us as it is to the French people themselves.

The Owl That Turns His Head

Here is an owl that turns his head at your direction.

Color the owl and paste the picture down on cardboard. Now cut out the head and body carefully and save the direction sketches to show you how to put him together.

Fasten the head to the body by putting the head on top of the body and fastening them together with a brass fastener or bent pin through the holes in the neck and beak. Now look at the diagrams. Punch holes in the center of the black parts of each eye, and reinforce these on the back with small gummed cloth rings used for notebook holes. Do this with the slits that are shown on the body of the owl. Then thread strong black thread or string through the slits and holes in the eyes as shown in the diagram.

Then you can hold the owl on your left hand, and by pulling on the ends of the string at the back with either hand you can make the wise old owl turn his head. Ask him a question and make him nod at you.

There are many kinds of owls, and all see poorly in daylight, so that they hunt their food, mostly small animals, at night. They are not nearly as wise as their wide-eyed stare makes them seem, but they are useful because they eat rats and mice.

Vote for Wm. G. SPENCE

for City Commissioner from District No. 2

DO YOU WANT?

An Anemic Non-Aggressive Gov't?
A Rubber Stamp Man?
A Penny Wise and Dollar Foolish?

OR

DO YOU WANT?

A Vigilant, Prosperous, Efficient Government?
A Man with Ideas and Ingenuity?
A Commissioner to Serve rather than to be served?

IT IS TIME FOR ACTION!

IF ELECTED I PLEDGE TO:

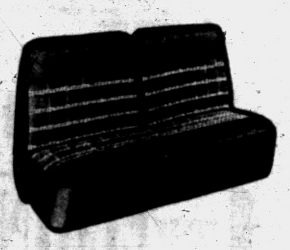

1. Notify the electors of any public necessity project (other than thru the Press.)
2. Meet with any civic organization, church, business group, or union to discuss any district or city problem.
3. Work for an adequate water supply system (in the land of lakes and we can't sprinkle our lawns!)
4. Work for adequate street lighting in residential areas (as opposed to weed cutting.)
5. Work for the proper development of the former sanitary dump and the old mill pond (commensurate with residential area).

WM. G. SPENCE

We, the following, recommend Wm. G. Spence as a candidate for the office of Pontiac Commissioner, District No. 2. We believe he is qualified and will ably represent District No. 2 if elected.

FAVORED More 5c Parking

Here is a group of Pontiac residents, officials and civic-minded people with Mr. Guy Nunn just before Nunn sought answers from them pertaining to the proposed 5c Parking Bond Issue. L-R standing: Charles Yeager, Charles Curry, Walter Willman; George Bergstrom. Seated: Louis Schimmel, Mrs. William Wright, Guy Nunn, Fred Haggard, Dr. George N. Petroff.

FACTS DISCLOSED: THE ISSUANCE OF THE BONDS WILL NOT INCREASE TAXES OR 5c PARKING FEES!

THE BONDS WILL BE PAID FOR from 5c parking meter fees. Taxpayers CANNOT be assessed to pay them off!

OPPONENTS HAVE MISLED THE PUBLIC WITH distorted facts, untruths and scare propaganda.

SHOPPERS NEED MORE SHORT TERM, low-cost hourly parking.

PONTIAC IS FOLLOWING THE EXAMPLES OF OTHER great, progressive cities in establishing parking for its citizens. Examples are Detroit, Flint, Jackson, Ann Arbor, Los Angeles. It has been proven lawful and proper for cities to provide municipally owned parking facilities.

Even Mississippi Libraries Feel Race Segregation

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The dispute over racial segregation has spread to Mississippi libraries.

Approved by the Mississippi House and sent to the Senate is a bill requiring the State Library Commission to buy books emphasizing white supremacy.

One Mississippi legislator, Rep. Walter Phillips, called it "thought control"—a phrase made famous by Japanese police action during World War II.

Gov. J. P. Coleman has declined comment on the two-year-old measure.

In south Mississippi, a Jones County grand jury called for statewide screening of school and library books to cull those critical of the Southern segregated way of life.

No action has been taken on the grand jury request.

Racketeer Joe Adonis on the Move in Italy

AVELLINO, Italy (AP)—Racketeer Joe Adonis who preferred exile in Italy to jail in the United States, is on the move again.

A Naples newspaper reported that Adonis had "disappeared." But police said he had only moved from an aunt's home near Naples to the town of Lucca, near Leghorn.

Parking Bonds Endorsed!

"Scare" Propaganda–Personal Attacks Mis-stated Information of the Private Parking Monopoly Fail to Shake Straight Thinking Believers in TRUTH–HONESTY and a Real Desire to IMPROVE OUR CITY!

The Truth Is:

THE REVENUE BONDS CANNOT BY LAW RAISE YOUR TAXES.

They must be paid for with 5c parking meter fees.

The Truth Is:

THE CITY IS LEGALLY and RIGHTFULLY PERMITTED TO PROVIDE THIS SHORT-TERM PARKING for YOUR USE.

Supreme Court rulings have upheld the city's right to do so in every instance tried with the use of street meter and off-street meter income.

The Truth Is:

THE CITY HAS NEVER SEIZED OR CONDEMNED A SINGLE HOME TO PROVIDE PARKING.

The city's policy has been and is to negotiate with present property owner in all cases.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS there is a serious shortage of space for short-time parking in downtown Pontiac, thus increasing traffic congestion and otherwise inconveniencing the public, and

WHEREAS the Pontiac City Commission has unanimously passed Ordinance No. 1292 to create 624 new 5¢ parking spaces to be paid for entirely out of meter revenue, and

WHEREAS the establishment of these additional parking spaces will be decided by the voters on Monday, March 5, 1956,

THEREFORE we, the undersigned, hereby officially support the action of the City Commission and urge all Pontiac citizens to vote for this much-needed 5¢ parking.

These organizations approve the City Commission's action TO PROVIDE YOU WITH MORE SHORT-TERM PARKING. They have done so by passing the resolution shown above. They urge you to approve this action also by voting Monday "FOR" the bond issue.

Confident Living

Boy's Dauntless Courage Whips Physical Handicap

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

One of the greatest of all human stories is how people with courage and positive thinking overcome the hazards of life.

You have probably never heard of a young man named Ike Skelton. But his story thrilled me, as it has so many down in Missouri, where he is admired and loved.

DR. PEALE

Not too many years ago, Ike Skelton was a happy-go-lucky, normal, healthy youngster in his freshman year at Wentworth Military Academy. Then, suddenly, he was stricken with infantile paralysis. The disease left his arms powerless to do anything but dangle helplessly by his sides. His legs were all right, and he could function otherwise, except that he couldn't move his arms.

Yet this boy came back to school from his illness with one burning ambition — he wanted to make the track team. He went out for track, and the coach told him, kindly, "Why, son, you can't run without your arms; you need them as much as your legs in running."

Nevertheless, Ike Skelton kept at it. He trotted around the track all season, but he didn't make the team. The next year the story was the same. And, in his fourth year, although he kept trying, he couldn't make the grade competitively.

BIG TRACK MEET

Finally, the last big track meet of his school career came, the meet with Kemper Academy, Wentworth's arch rival, and the boy was there, ready to run. He begged the coach to give him a chance, and the coach broke down and did. "Go out there and run," he said, "but promise me you won't be disappointed." Then the coach fastened his arms to his sides so they wouldn't get in his way and started him in the grilling two-mile race.

The crowd spotted this strange runner and had eyes for no one but Ike Skelton. They watched him eagerly, and, when the race was over, they surged down from the stands and lifted him enthusiastically upon their shoulders. There wasn't a dry eye in the crowd.

Had he won the race? Oh, no — he came in last. But he came in, and that's what's important about his story. He didn't win that race, but he is winning the more important race of life through his demonstration of an undefeatable spirit.

He went from Wentworth to the University of Missouri, where he stood at the top of his class and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Sent to the University of Edinburgh in Scotland as an exchange student, he became one of the most popular men there.

Now he's back home, making a brilliant record in Missouri University Law School. He's making progress physically too, able now to move one arm slightly from the elbow. He wrote me a very legible letter.

THINK CONFIDENTLY

What has Ike Skelton got that enables him to overcome his terrible difficulties and live so confidently and successfully? The great psychiatrist, Karl Menninger, answers this question with his statement that men don't break down because they are defeated, but only because they think they are!

Think confidently, live confidently, practice faith in God. Then to confident thinking add work and struggle. That is the formula for victorious living. You can actually gain confidence by practicing it. The more you think and practice it, the more of it you will have.

Bolster your own confidence by the use of some great affirmation, such as this one from the Psalms: "Though an host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear: though war should rise against me, in this will I be confident." You are a child of God; you have His powers in you. Believe in them, draw upon them, and live confidently.

Bethany Begins Easter Season

Rev. Fred Tiffany, Reita Smith, to Hold Classes on Personal Needs

The four Sundays preceding Easter are designated as Easter-Tide Season in bethany Baptist Church.

Special preparation consists in training for daily personal and family prayer with prepared scripts furnished each member of the congregation for table prayers, evening prayers and for dealing with personal problems.

"How Our Religion Meets Your Personal Needs" will be the theme taught by Reita Smith at 9:45 a.m. and by the Rev. Fred R. Tiffany at 6:30 p.m. Sundays. These classes will be held in the pastor's study.

Topics to be presented during t season will be "Does God Care for You?" "How You Can Receive God's Miracle Working Power," and "You Can't Fail With God."

Other subjects include "You Can't Fail With God," "God is Always Successful, Are You With God?" and "God Does Not Die, If You Are With God."

Music for the services will be furnished by the five choirs, Senior Boys', Cherub, Junior and Junior High Girls. Directors are Elda Sutter, Robery Joyner, Mrs. Irene Warden, Martin Wolf and Patricia Yleser.

All classes and services are open to the public.

Minister Conducts 'Fisherama' Project

MUSKEGON, Mich. (RNS)—A "fisherama" conducted by the Rev. Glenn Groth of Bethlehem Lutheran church here in an effort to "make religion a living, personal experience" for his congregation has brought letters of both praise and condemnation from all over the country.

Mr. Groth held an early Sunday service and then led his congregation to Muskegon Lake for an ice fishing expedition. The theme was Christ's appeal to His disciples: "Come unto me and I will make you fishers of men."

The event was conducted in preparation for a "preaching-teaching-reaching" mission the church will hold in March.

OK Women in Vestries

BALTIMORE, Md. — Permission to elect women to their vestries was given two parishes in precedent-breaking resolutions adopted at the 172nd annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Maryland.

Strong opposition to the resolution was expressed by delegates, enough to require a standing rather than a voice vote.

Sacred Concert Slated Sunday

Gospel Songs, Spiritual Included in Repertoire Sunday Afternoon

The Keller-York Party of Seelyville, Ind., a musical team serving in the field of evangelism will present a sacred concert at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at the First Church of the Nazarene, 60 State St.

The group consists of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Keller and Mr. and Mrs. Charles York. Each of the group is a musician, both vocal and instrumental. They will play the piano, organ, accordion, bass viol, vibraharp and guitar.

Their repertoire includes gospel songs, Southern spirituals and religious classics.

Mrs. Keller and Mrs. York are sisters and were formerly members of the Rushing Family Party. The two couples have been assisting the Rev. Kenneth A. Hutchinson, the pastor of the church, with revival services since Feb. 22. The evangelistic services will close at 7:30 Sunday evening.

Seventh Session to Hear Judge Arthur E. Moore

JUDGE ARTHUR E. MOORE

The seventh session of Congregation B'nai Israel series on social and religious problems will be Monday at 8:45 p.m. in the Synagogue social hall. Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore, will speak on "Juvenile Delinquency."

A graduate of the University of Michigan, Judge Moore has served as president of the Michigan Assn. of Probate Judges, chairman of the Probate and Trust Law Committee of the Michigan State Bar Assn. and of Child Welfare of the Michigan PTA.

He was instrumental in the adoption in Michigan of such legislation as "The Visiting Teacher Enabling Act" and the "1944 Code for Juvenile Courts."

Judge Moore has served as first president of the Royal Oak Kiwanis Club, president of the Southern Oakland County Branch of the Detroit Council of Social Agencies, president of Boys' Club and vice-president of Camp Oakland.

He is a trustee of the Royal Oak Methodist Church where his father, the Rev. Eugene Moore, served as pastor.

Following Judge Moore's address, Rabbi Henry Hoschander will speak briefly on the same topic using the Bible and Talmud as source material.

Morris Kampner, chairman of the Institute, cordially invites everyone to attend.

University of Pennsylvania was founded in 1740.

Retirement Age Ripped

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Compulsory retirement of workers at 65 was attacked as an "unsound notion" at the national charities conference of the Evangelical Lutheran Church here.

The Rev. John M. Mason, assistant executive secretary of the ELC's charities department, said a person should continue to work and to live a useful life as long as health permits.

Pick 9th Cleric for Soviet Trip

U.S. Protestant Leaders Head for Moscow; Reds to Return Visit

That ninth member of the deputation of U. S. Protestant leaders who will visit with Russian Christian leaders in Moscow this month will be Bishop D. Ward Nichols, New York, Presiding Bishop of the Church. The deputation is now complete.

Bishop Nichols is secretary of the Council of Bishops of his denomination. He is also a vice president of the National Council of Churches and vice chairman of its governing General board. The ten-day visit will be under Council sponsorship.

The nine churchmen will leave Idlewild Airport, New York, March 9 and will arrive in Moscow late the following night for a series of historic conversations that will mark the first major contact between Christian leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union since the Bolshevik revolution in 1918.

In early June, Christian church leaders in Russia are scheduled to make a return visit to the United States to continue the exchange of views as guests of the National Council of Churches.

The other seven members of the U. S. deputation, as first announced Feb. 1, are: The Rt. Rev. Henry Franklin Clark Fry, New York, President of the United Lutheran Church in America; Charles C. Parlin, New York, Methodist lay member of the Council's General Board; the Rev. Dr. Herbert Gezork, Newton, Mass., president of Andover Newton Theological Seminary; the Rev. Dr. Roswell P. Barnes, New York, associate general secretary of the National Council; the Rev. Dr. Walter general secretary of the National cal Seminary; the Rev. Dr. Walter Van Kirk, executive director of the Council's Department of International Affairs; and Dr. Paul B. Anderson, New York, secretary, International Committee, YMCA.

Donald C. Bolles, executive director of the Council's Office of Public Relations, will accompany the deputation as an aide.

'55 Gold Award Given Spellman

Honor Bestowed on Cardinal in View of Humanitarian Work

NEW YORK (RNS) — Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, was presented here with the 1955 Gold Award of the George Washington Carver Memorial Institute. He was honored for his contributions to the "betterment of race relations and human welfare."

The award is named for the famous Negro scientist and race relations leader who was born a slave.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) made the presentation at a luncheon attended by 200 representatives of the Church, government and Negro organizations. Also present were some foreign diplomats.

Cardinal Spellman said he was proud to be honored by an award named for Carver, "an eminent religious scientist and patriotic humanitarian, who proved religion and science are not enemies."

Spearkrs of both races made frequent allusions to recent race disturbances in the South as they hailed Cardinal Spellman and the Roman Catholic Church for efforts to achieve racial integration.

Scouts Establish Hiking Award for Explorers

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N.C. (RNS) — A special hiking award in memory of Bishop Francis Asbury, pioneer circuit-riding preacher and first American bishop of The Methodist Church, has been established by the Boy Scouts of America.

Called the Asbury Trail Award and comprising a goldplated medal and a certificate, it will be given Explorer Scouts who complete a reading course in the life of Bishop Asbury and hike the old Cataloochee trace between here and Casby, Tenn.

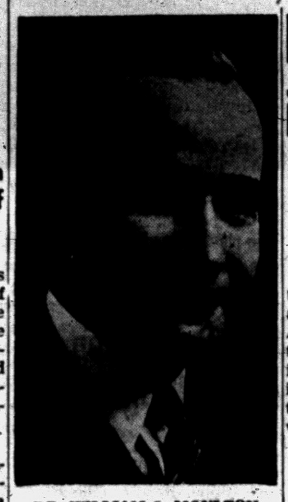

First blazed by Cherokee Indians, the 35-mile Cataloochee trace cuts through rugged wilderness across the Appalachians. Bishop Asbury's journal records that he crossed the then uncharted Appalachians more than 60 times while traveling 270,000 miles to preach 16,000 times between 1771 and 1816.

Moral Teachings in School Asked

Educators' Convention Endorses Plan as Need for Students

ATLANTIC CITY—Nineteen thousand educators attending the annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators here declared that the teaching of moral and spiritual values in public schools "is indispensable to the perpetuation of the American way of life."

In an adopted resolution they also acknowledged their obligation to continue and increase efforts to make young people understand the importance of religion in American culture.

The educators further pledged to explore for themselves and their pupils "the deep spiritual insights" which motivate individuals and nations.

Text of the resolution:

"The teaching of moral and spiritual values, by example and by precepts, in our schools is indispensable to the perpetuation of the American way of life.

"We acknowledge our obligation to continue and to increase our efforts to inculcate in youth a sense of sound values and to help them develop an understanding of the vital role of religion in our American culture.

"With complete awareness that the strength and integrity of our nation are dependent upon the moral stamina of the individuals who comprise it, we pledge that we shall continue to seek for ourselves and our pupils the deep spiritual insights which are the wellsprings of our work as individuals and as a nation.

"Furthermore, we urge the continued and increased cooperation of the schools with other community agencies which strive to make youth sensitive to the value of wholesome living."

Bills Prohibiting Indecent Books Face R.I. Solons

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — Bills to ban the publication, sale or distribution of indecent literature in Rhode Island were introduced in the Senate and House here by administration leaders.

Aimed primarily at combatting the circulation of "trash" literature among juveniles, the measures followed recommendations made a few days earlier by a special legislative commission which studied the problem.

The nine-member commission included a Protestant, a Jewish, and two Roman Catholic clergymen.

The bills would penalize by a fine of up to $1,000 and two years in prison anyone publishing, selling or otherwise distributing to minors any pictures, books, pamphlets or magazines devoted principally to the expoitation of sex.

Jewish Population Up

NEW YORK—The world Jewish population increased 58,557 in 1955 to a total of 11,908,443 or 0.4 per cent of the world population of 2,500,000,000, according to the 57th annual American Jewish Year Book published here by the American Jewish Committee.

Church Building Needs Planning

Architects Advise Men Construct for Century Rather Than 10 Years

AMES, Ia. (RNS)—A panel of architectural experts advised here that today's church should be a beautiful building with facilities to meet the need of expanding Sunday schools and the growing number of elderly parishioners.

The three-man panel spoke at the second annual conference on religious architecture sponsored by Iowa State College.

Panelists were Robert Cerny, Minneapolis architecture; C. Harry Atkinson, New York, executive director of the bureau of church building, National Council of Churches; and Prof. Ralph W. Hammett of the University of Michigan college of architecture and design, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Mr. Cerny emphasized "the need for flexibility" in church building because "it will take years before we have decided on the number of functions for which the church is responsible."

He said it would be wise for churches to plan their building requirements over a century rather than a ten-year period.

The architect suggested that churches might well plan for the inclusion of homes for the elderly within their building area.

Mr. Atkinson said churches are faced with tremendous building needs, "especially if we are to take care of the requirements of our elderly people and the children."

He urged churches to emphasize "quality" in their construction, saying:

"If you cannot build everything, then let's put some character into it. Don't make it just space, but space with a definite character."

Mr. Hammett observed that church construction should always be in the spirit of the times He said:

"Why would we want to build a Gothic church when we do not belong to that period any more—why build a church with a great dome when you need a place of worship and a Sunday school much more?"

Religious 'Job' Drive

American churches are taking steps to increase the volume of religious vocations.

The emphasis is not only on recruiting more young people for the ministry but also for other forms of Christian service both at home and abroad. Among these are medicine, nursing and teaching.

Miss Lohr will bring her four puppets, Sammy, Bennie, Connie and Kathy. They wil participate in the services. A graduate of Fort Wayne Bible College, she has been engaged in youth work several years.

U.S. and Japan Forces Hear Billy Graham

TOKYO — Three thousand members of Japan's defense forces packed Kyoritsu public hall to listen to American evangelist Billy Graham who came here for an eight-day crusade. When Mr. Graham asked for decisions for Christ, hundreds raised their hands.

Later, at the Fryar Gymnasium at Yokohama, the evangelist addressed 4,000 members of the U.S. armed forces stationed in the Tokyo-Yokohama area. Two hundred and seventy servicemen were reported to have accepted Christianity.

Reflections

GOOD MORNING!

J. L. VOORHEES

That greeting is saturated with goodwill. It is as welcome over the back fence, in the office of high finance, in the Corner Grocery as it is when two friends meet. In a crowded bus — that reminds me of Happy Carl:

The nemesis of Bus Operators was the early 7 a. m. run. Passengers were sleepy, surly, cross and pushed, shoved, elbowed their way inside. Operators reflected their attitudes, shoved back, scolded. Complaints poured in. Men were discharged or reassigned. Operators offered their condolences when Carl was assigned to the 7 a. m. run. As usual, as he opened the door, he sang out: "Good morning." Passengers smirked, then smiled. Growls changed to grins. All the way in Carl greeted his passengers as he would neighbors. Letters of commendation came in bundles; Carl left the run — to be a supervisor. His 'Good Morning" was the recommendation.

P. S. "Good morning, neighbor."

'Great Hour of Sharing' to Be Observed March 11

America's three great religious faiths — Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—at this time are making their annual appeals for support of their world-wide overseas aid programs.

On Sunday, March 11, thousands of our Protestant churches will observe "One Great Hour of Sharing," highlight of the United Appeal for overseas relief and reconstruction.

On the same day, in Catholic churches, millions will contribute for similar purposes through "The Bishops' Fund" of Catholic Relief Services — National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Jewish citizens will be aiding the needy through the current Passover Appeal of the United Jewish Appeal, culminating at the Passover celebration, March 27-April 3.

Hundreds of millions of pounds of food, clothing and medicines—including U. S. surplus commodities—will go to victims of war, disaster and famine in many parts of the world through these greatest of America's voluntary overseas relief efforts.

Through them, great supplies of clothing will be processed and distributed, programs of resettlement, constructive development and other assistance for refugees will be maintained, orphanages and hospitals, tuberculosis and other health projects will be supported.

In this sharing through their houses of worship with needy persons throughout the world, our people strengthen the bond of brotherhood and friendship that unites all peoples for peace and good will among men, bear witness to their religious convictions and keep faith with traditional American compassion for those buffeted by circumstances beyond their control.

Seek Educators for Mission Work in Foreign Lands

Specific needs for special term foreign missionaries in 1956 have been announced by the Office of Missionary Personnel of the Board of Missions, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York 11, N. Y.

The missionary pesonnel office is seeking about 50 single men and women for three years of mission service in Japan, Korea, Southeast Asia, Latin America and North Africa. The group will become the "Fellowship of Christian Service" for 1956.

Most of the openings are for educational work — teaching English, physical education, home economics, commercial subjects, mathematics and other subjects in junior and senior high school and college. There are several openings, however, for church and social work, such as rural evangelism and service in urban social centers.

Your Dry Cleaner Is No Magician!

When your take your clothes to your Dry Cleaner, don't expect him to work miracles! He is only human, and may occasionally make a mistake, which he will be glad to rectify. But many cases of unsatisfactory dry cleaning are not his fault. Before you expect too much, be sure that—

- The garments are of sufficiently good quality that they can be dry cleaned without shrinking and without colors fading or running.
- That cloth-covered buttons and stiffening materials do not contain substances that will stain.
- That you have not attempted to remove stains with fluids that will injure the fabric, set the stain or cause fading.
- That your Dry Cleaner is a well-established, dependable local businessman.

Hollywood Headlines:

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—An 8-year-old golden girl named Emmy was being shot at by some well-known marksmen this week.

Emmy is an ethereal-looking gold statuette, a shaply miss in a diaphanous gown upholding an electronic symbol of circles and things. The origin of her name is rather obscure, the best explanation being that it stems from the word "image." She is the younger sister to the 28-year-old Oscar, being the award of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

UNDER ATTACK

This defenseless doll was under attack from such persons as Jerry Lewis, Jack Webb and Liberace, who might be accused of lack of chivalry. Or, some say, modesty. The clown, the cop (oops—officer) and the dowagers' cupcake were beefing about being neglected or misclassified in the TV Academy's eighth annual nominations. This has been termed the greatest case of sour grapes since a Fresno winery produced 16 vats of vinegar.

Come on now, boys. Jerry is hurt because he wasn't nominated. He's on TV four times a year. Should he compete with comics who have to be funny every week?

Webb wants to pick up his marbles because he didn't like the way he was classified. Would Joe Friday abandon a fight?

As for Liberace—didn't Mom teach you to be a good loser?

Having defended Emmy, I will now proceed to criticize—

The dreadful truth, I fear, is that television is virtually unawardable.

Movies are different. The studios make individual films, in which actors act out stories. They are homogeneous. There is a reasonable basis for pictures, actors and other craftsmen competing for individual awards.

But TV is so diverse, so complex, embracing so many forms of entertainment and information that awards make little sense. The academy has wound up with the absurdity of more than 40 different awards. It has tried to please everyone and ended up pleasing few.

Resigns Post in GOP

MUSKEGON (AP) — William C. Snyder Jr. of Fruitport has resigned for "personal reasons" from chairmanship of the Muskegon County Republicans. He was named to the post Feb. 21, succeeding Robert A. Carr Jr., who resigned before completing the term to which he had been elected in August 1954.

George Grays Build Home in Clarkston

background for LIVING

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Mrs. George W. Gray of Clarkston had a rugged afternoon. It started innocently enough when we made an appointment to take pictures of her new home. The Press arrived at the scheduled hour.

Ronnie, aged one and the baby of the family, had napped longer than usual. Dressing him had delayed his mother in her dressing. And Ronnie was out of sorts.

Shortly after we had started on our pictorial interview, Mr. Gray came home. He wasn't expected, but from our point of view it was fine. It meant he could be in the pictures and could give us additional facts about the house.

From Mrs. Gray's point of view it was less convenient. One of the family's dogs had been acting in a peculiar manner. After Mr. Gray talked with the vet, he delegated to his wife the job of taking said dog to the doctor.

Next, a Detroit Edison truck drove up to do some work. They had been expected for several days, but not right now.

Within minutes, another truck drove in. This was an oil delivery, also unexpected at this day and hour.

The dog quieted down. The Edison man and the oil man left. Mrs. Gray could concentrate on the strangers invading her home and asking all sorts of questions about it.

The Grays are a pleasant young couple who are delighted with their new home. Now their four growing youngsters have ample room for living and playing.

Situated on 2½ acres on the outskirts of Clarkston, the property plunges over 500 feet back from the road to a little stream running between Dollar and Middle Lakes. The backyard is unfinished, and nothing has been done to clear underbrush or to fill in swampy areas.

TWO FAMILIES BUILD

The Grays and the Thomas Higgins, next door, started and built their houses at the same time. Mrs. Gray and Mr. Higgins are sister and brother. The two men staked out their homes together and did their own subcontracting. They used stock plans.

The house was started in June. Moving day came after deer hunting season. By now, the six Grays are well settled indoors, if not outside.

The house is set down from Middle Lake road and back a short distance. Built of yellow brick with white trim, it is a 62x24 structure. There is a full basement and an attached two-car garage.

The room in the basement with the large picture window and the fireplace will someday soon be a recreation room. Since the land slopes to the rear, this window is at grade level and commands a nice view of woods.

The front hallway is the hub of the house. Carpeted stairs lead to the second floor. There is the usual coat closet. The living room is at the left, while down the hall to the right is a den.

In here the walls are yellow. The hardwood floor is bare. Yellow and gray curtains have an antique car print. The studio couch is covered in green corduroy.

Behind the coat closet is a small lavatory finished in gray tile and pink walls. The white cafe curtains have a thread of gold in them.

This hall leads also to the kitchen around the corner. Since the garage door is in the kitchen, it is possible to come into the house and upstairs without going through the living rooms.

The 24-foot living room runs from front to back, with windows on both ends. Projecting shelves break the front surface of the ledge rock fireplace. Mantel and hearth are slab rock.

Young Ronnie likes nothing better than to pull open the fire curtain, climb inside and settle down in the ashes to play. His mother must be ever vigilant, especially after there has been a fire in the fireplace.

The walls are cherry bloom pink while the halt is lighter pink. Light modern furniture and beige carpeting provide neutral areas of color. A green sofa and chairs covered in avocado, tan and brown contrast well. The brown rayon draperies have a sparkle of gold thread.

The upper half of the walls between the living room and both hall and dining room is designed as a series of shelves. Choice accessories and souvenirs—like the signed football from the 1954 Rose Bowl game—fill these niches.

The mahogany table is drop leaf. Bone china cups and saucers fill the shelves of the buffet. Spoon racks above the chest hold Mrs. Gray's collection of souvenir spoons. These have been collected by and for her from all over the world.

There is a door in the dining room that leads out onto an unfinished porch. As soon as the carpenter comes back from his winter vacation in the south, he will close it in with jalousie windows.

Like most modern kitchens, this one has two functions. Working is done in the U-shaped area at one end, while across the room the family eats in the dinette. The dividing wall is topped with marble, a durable material and one easily kept clean.

The floor is rose colored, the walls turquoise, the ceiling white. Counter tops are gray, birch cupboards finished in a natural tone. Sheer pink curtains hang at all the windows.

There are four bedrooms and two baths upstairs. One bath is pink and turquoise, the other is beige and yellow. There is both a linen closet and a cedar closet.

Ronnie and Shelley share a room that is separated from their parents' room by a bathroom. Their walls are a deep pink. Bright circus-print curtains give the room a gay air.

The Grays' eldest daughter is eleven and rates her own room. It's turquoise, with flowered curtains and bedspread and a pink chair. Sheryl has a bookcase headboard on her modern bed.

George Jr. is thirteen. His masculine looking room has green walls and hunting print curtains. The bunk beds have beige spreads.

In Mr. and Mrs. Gray's room the walls are a delicate shade of violet. Violet and blue appear in the floral design of the cream colored taffeta bedspread and in the draperies.

In addition to the handsome hardware on the walnut chest and dresser, the drawers rate a mention. They are set off from the darker wood by their antiqued white finish.

Today's family of four children demands a larger house. The Clarkston Grays have both—the larger family and the larger house.

Area Often Determines Preference for Colors

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — Your preference for color, like money, is something you can't take with you — even on this earth.

The colors you find yourself choosing to live with are quite largely a matter of environment, and when you move from east to west or north to south, you'll find your color choices changed in the process.

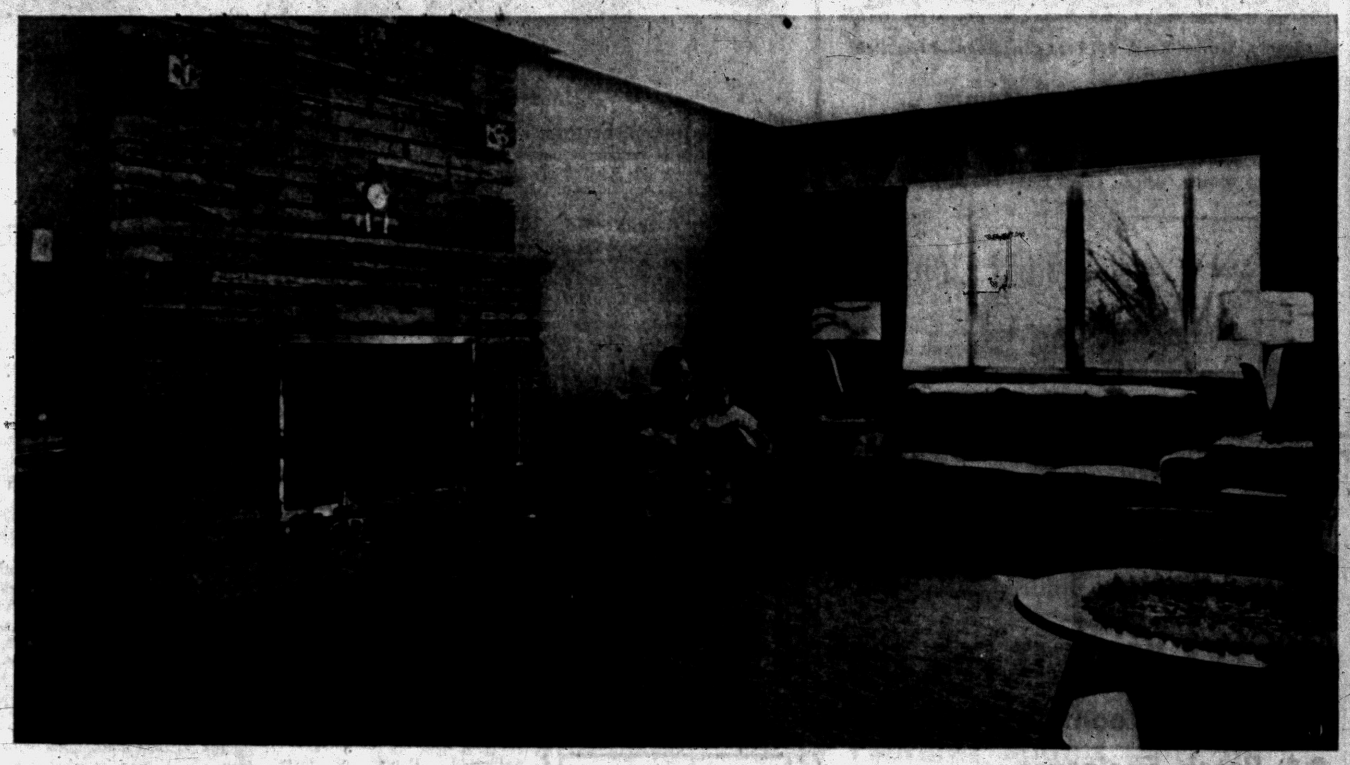

This is the theory of Douglas Harper, an architect with a keen interest in colors who now has his offices in San Francisco after living and working in the midwest, New York, Europe and Los Angeles.

"Environment is vastly more important than people generally believe," Harper says. "They are influenced by environment to a large extent, and this is more evident in the field of color — a person moving from one area to another finds his color choice changing to conform with the preferences of the new area."

He supports his possibily controversial theis with examples.

Each section of America, Harper says, has distinct color preferences.

"Colors on the west coast," he said, "tend to be clearer, airier, than in the east but the west does not show a preference for pastel colors.

DADDY'S HOME! — Mr. Gray came home unexpectedly and consented to sit for his picture with his two youngest children, Ronnie and Shelley. George Jr. and Sheryl were in school. This 24-foot living room has windows on both ends. Carpeting and furniture are light, walls are medium (cherry bloom pink), while the draperies are dark brown. Mr. Gray staked out his house and did the subcontracting himself.

STORY TIME — Although three-year-old Shelley announced in firm tones that she wasn't going to have her picture in the paper, she posed happily for the Press photographer. Shelley and Ronnie share a bedroom. Gay circus animals scamper over the bright curtains. The children share a bathroom between their room and that of their parents.

6013 MIDDLE LAKE ROAD — The George Gray home on the outskirts of Clarkston is attractive and spacious. Sixty-two feet long (including the double garage), the house is yellow brick with white trim. Ledge rock encloses a long section at the front for plants. Note the graceful decorative iron columns in the front and the initial on the garage door.

COLLECTED TREASURES — Attractive cups and saucers, as well as souvenir spoons have a place in the Grays' dining room. The walls are painted cherry bloom pink, the ceiling white. Cupboards above the built-in chests match the wall. All hardware is brass. The furniture is bleached mahogany, with chair seats in green. A door from this room leads out onto a porch which, this summer, will be an outdoor living room.

Stronger Wallpaper

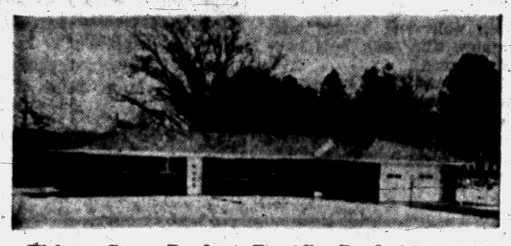

Wartime research in synthetic resins has resulted in wallpapers with startling resistance to washing. Some of these specially-treated surfaces will withstand virtually thousands of scrubbings.

Plywood in A-Sub

Hardwood plywood had a part in construction of the nation's newest atomic-powered submarine, the USS Seawolf, reports the National Lumber Manufacturers Assn.

It was used to make precision patterns of rudders, diving planes and other integral parts of the sub. Hardwood plywood was chosen because of its hardness and stability and because it can be machined to precise measurements.

Basement Family Room Ideal for You — Not Mice

Why turn over a good basement to the mice? You can't blame them for cavorting in a nice uninhabited warm place.

Instead, why not use it yourself?

Your wife, if she runs true to type has probably mentioned a hundred or more times that it is just the place for a family room—where television set, record player and radio may be kept for the amusement of the young set or where Junior's rocking horse, toy trains and games may find a home.

It shouldn't cost much if you use inexpensive materials.

Woodgrained gypsum wallboard is very attractive, combining the beauty of real wood paneling with the advantages of wallboard. Panels of three-eighths inch thickness come in knotty pine, bleached and dark walnut, bleached mahogany, fir plywood and other simulated wood finishes achieved by photographic and printing processes that reproduce the wood finish. The panels are four feet wide and eight feet long.

The wallboard is fireproof because of its gypsum core, and expansion and contraction of the material due to temperature changes is negligible.

Knotty pine effects have square edges which may be butted together to form a fine line that seems to become part of the wood pattern.

Walnut, mahogany and other finishes have beveled edges, making butted "V" joints that become a part of the decoration also. Special nails match the particular woodgrain finish and may be driven in with a rawhide mallet or padded or plastic-head hammer.

You'll need level framework. That means studs or furring strips spaced 16 inches on centers. Nailing begins at the center of the board and works outward, nails being spaced about 6 to 8 inches apart, and not closer than ⅝ inches from the edge of the board.

The board must be supported firmly against the frame while you are nailing so that when nails are being driven in with the right hand, the board must be pressed hard with the left. The nail will not draw the board up.

These panels may be cut with a saw or scored and snapped. A sharp knife may be used for scoring the board.

The panel finish may be protected by occasional waxings. Some handymen prefer applying a protective coat of white shellac first and then a coat of wax for a dull finish or coat of clear varnish for a glossy finish. The surface may be kept clean by simply going over it with a damp cloth.

Once the paneling is up, the lady of the house can take over, adding decorative notes to give it a cozy atmosphere. Inexpensive fiber rugs may go to the floor, some of the attic furniture might be painted in chic colors to lend a gay effect.

When Building Home, Watch Nails in Roof

If you are building, or planning to build, look to the roof. That's the vulnerable point. Don't let the roofer short change you on nails.

If you're using asphalt shingles—and 80 per cent of all houses are using them today—allow six nails for each strip, one nail for each side of the dividing notches. And put a dab of roofing cement, about the size of a silver dollar, under each tab to keep it from flapping up in the wind.

The year of 1915 marked the official opening of the Rocky mountain national park in Colorado.

Burlap Protects

Own a new car? Rust stains from automobile skid-chains can ruin the interior of the luggage compartment. Wrap them in burlap or newspaper and drop them into a galvanized steel pail in the car trunk. The burlap or newspaper will keep them from rattling excessively, and the pail will prevent water leakage from still-wet chains.

FOR YOUR CHOICEST SPOONS AND TEA CUPS PATTERN 231

Maple is probably the best wood to use for these as it takes a fine finish and ages well. Clear white pine would also be suitable. With the tracing guides on this pattern you can reproduce every detail of these quaint racks to make an attractive setting for your cherished antiques. If a jig saw is used to cut out the pieces there will be less work in finishing the edges than if a coping saw is used. The operations in order are tracing the pattern onto the wood; sawing; assembling and finishing, for which directions are given on pattern 231. This pattern is 25 cents or it will be included in the packet of five Early American Reproductions for $1 postpaid. Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., Bedford Hills, New York.

BONNIE HIGHLANDS — The first few of 124 three-bedroom homes are going up in Milford's newest subdivision, Bonnie Highlands. These houses have full basements, wet plastered walls and ceramic tile baths. Lots are 60 feet wide. Paved streets, sidewalks, sewers and water will all be paid for by the builder, Daniel Builders C. Schuett Realty is handling the houses that start at $13,900. These houses are on Summit Street near Commerce Road.

One Level House Safe

The single - story, ranch - type house is less likely to have family accidents than multi-story houses. There's no falling down stairs or being trapped upstairs during a fire. But that's not all. One level is easier to maintain and keep clean; there are fewer odd places where potentially dangerous items can be forgotten. For older folks and children, too, the single-story house is the most safe.

Several Thermostats Aid Equal Heat Distribution

Have you been cutting your children off without a BTU these cold winter nights? The heating experts warn that you can be comfortably cozy in your living room while your children are catching colds in their bedrooms.

Here's how it can happen: You have tucked your children in on a Saturday night about 7:30 so that they'll be asleep by the time guests arrive. You close the door so they won't be wakened. Then you build a fire in the fireplace and turn on a few extra lamps.

Two couples arrive. That makes six persons in all — each generating as much heat as 400 burning wood matches an hour. If you have a single thermostat it has no reason to operate. In fact the fire in the fireplace is probably enough to keep the thermostat from calling for heat.

Near the end of the evening the outside temperature drops and the fire in the fireplace dies out. But by now you are making melted cheese sandwiches and coffee in the kitchen. This plus you and your guests' body heat is just enough heat generated to keep the thermostat from calling for heat.

NO HEAT SUPPLIED

In the meantime, there has been no heat supplied to the children's bedrooms from 8:00 p.m. to 1 a.m. If you turn down the thermostat to a night temperature when you go to bed, it is likely they will not get heat until morning. If you turn the thermostat up to warm their rooms a bit, you would of course be supplying heat to the living area of the house, too — where you don't need it.

This is one reason, say Minneapolis-Honeywell engineers, why many homeowners are turning to use of more than one thermostat. It insures comfort while preventing heat waste.

Rinse Washables With Vinegar for Good Result

Rinse your washables like many women rinse their hair after a shampoo—with vinegar.

One or two rinses in clear water will not completely rinse the detergent or soap from your laundry. Plain water does a good job but not a complete job.

If you take an article of clothing that has been washed, rinsed and dried, and then dunk it back into clear water, you probably will be able to notice the soapy residues dissolving in the water.

To make sure your clothes get a thorough rinse, put a little white vinegar in your last rinse water. About one cup of white vinegar in your rinse water for an average sized family washing will do the trick, whether you use a tub or a washing machine.

Vinegar is about 5 per cent acidity. This is too mild to harm fabrics but strong enough to dissolve the alkalines in the soaps and detergents, giving your washables a better rinse. Commercial laundries use this same general principle in their rinses.

More than 330 reservoirs have been built in northeastern Brazil as an anti-drought protection measure.

Before Finishing Floor, Sand It Three Times

Before a finish is applied to hardwood floors, a minimum sanding job of at least three cuts is a must for satisfactory finish floor appearance.

No. 2 or No. 2½ sandpaper is required for cutting off high spots and joints. Use No. 1 sandpaper for the second cut and No. 0 or No. 00 sandpaper for the third cut.

Reminder: Do all of your sanding with the grain.

Good Year Seen in Real Estate

After only two months of business in 1956, activity in the real estate line seems indicative of a heavy volume year, as compared with 1955.

This is the opinion of Clarence Schuett, a former secretary and director of the United Northwest Realty Association in Detroit, and now a realtor in Oakland County.

This stepped-up activity in real estate is true for both northwest Detroit and for west Oakland County. Detroit residents are moving to the suburbs in a continuous stream.

Areas under development at the present time and popular with Detroit house-seekers are the 1000-acre Lakewood Village at Brendel Lake and the newer Bonnie Highlands in Milford.

At Lakewood Village, where more than 90 per cent of the lots are lake front, all the model homes are occupied. One hundred and nineteen lots have been sold, and the eighth year-round home is ready for construction.

In Milford basements are now in for the first 32 homes. The eighth house is being roughed in. Already, twelve sales have been made. FHA and VA financing are available. There are to be 124 homes in this development.

Plan to Install Snow Melter

Planning on building a new house this spring?

Fine! Why not tell your architect or builder to be sure to include a snow melting system in the blueprints.

It's not difficult to have a system that will automatically melt snow on the walks and driveway, if you provide for it. You will be glad you did, if you live in the area where getting rid of snow and ice is a problem in the winter months.

A snow melting system will do the job for you, automatically, for less than it would cost you to hire a man or boy to do the work.

If you were thinking of shoveling the snow yourself, better think twice about that. Shoveling snow may be a health hazard, particularly to the heart, if you are in your middle years, or older.

Research studies at the University of Illinois have shown that a snow melting system will do the work for as little as $18 a year.

Predict Freezers as Next Built-in Kitchen Appliance

Refrigerators and freezers will be the next kitchen appliances to be built-in in large volume, according to leading manufacturers of wood-kitchen cabinets. Their views on built-ins were obtained in a survey conducted by the industry's trade association, the National Institute of Wood Kitchen Cabinets.

Building-in of refrigerators is viewed by the wood cabinet industry as a logical follow-up to the success of built-in wall ovens and surface cooking units, which mushroomed to popularity in 1955 in both new and remodeled kitchens.

The ability to build-in the refrigerator as well as the cooking units gives designers wide scope in planning for maximum compactness and convenience in modern kitchens. The built-ins require special cabinets, and wood kitchen makers have voiced their readiness to produce the special units in keeping with demand.

A majority of the manufacturers responding to the survey favored vertical built-in refrigerators over the horizonal type. The major reason expressed is that the kitchen design."

The consensus of the cabinet manufacturers is that built-in refrigerators should be designed to fit into base cabinets with a depth of 24 inches, a standard in the industry. Greater depth may complicate installation, adding to the cost, it was said.

Regarding width, it was suggested that some combination of three inches be used, the same modular on which wood kitchen manufacturers determine cabinet widths. Two widths were mentioned specifically — 36 and 39 inches.

Similar dimensions were suggested for the height of the refrigerators. One manufacturer pointed out that a 36-inch-high unit allows for the use of standard size wood storage cabinets both above and below.

Clean Dust Container Aids Vacuum Service

The United States Department of Agriculture says that to get good service from any vacuum cleaner the dust container must be clean.

Two vacuum cleaners of the same make, one with a clean and one with a dirty container, were used on alternate strips of the same rug. The machine with the clean container removed twelve grams of dirt. The one with the dirty container removed only one gram. But when the dirty container was emptied and the cleaner was run over the same surface it had previously covered, eleven grams of dirt were removed.

Sponge Off Stains

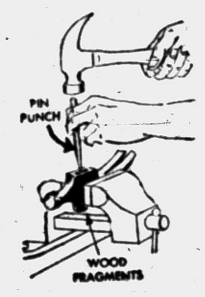

Light stains on "washable" wallpapers can be removed with sponge and clear water. Because of its special protective finish, a "scrubbable" wallpaper will safely take a mild soap and water solution.

Before applying caulking compounds, make sure that the cracks are clean and free from dust and dirt.

Handy Jim's FIXIN-UP TIPS For the Home

There's a simple, effective way to remove the broken off stub of a hammer, ax or hatchet handle. As described in Popular Mechanics, just cut off the remaining portion of the handle next to the head and drive out the balance with a pin punch.

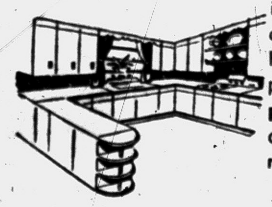

First, clamp the head in a vise. Then drive the punch into the wood at the cut end, making sure to locate it so that the steel wedges will be driven out first. This will loosen the wood, which then can be driven out in fragments.

This method is easier than trying to remove the entire section at one time with a large punch or by burning. The latter method will ruin a tempered hammer or ax head.

Here's the Way to Clean Messy Range Sections

No one likes the job of cleaning those sticky, greasy range parts when spring cleaning time or another scheduled scrub-down arrives. Here's a way to make that unpleasant chore easier and less messy.

Fill a galvanized steel pail with a detergent and ammonia solution, and put the range parts in to soak. It won't be more than a few minutes before you find that most of the grease and soot, usually so hard to remove, has loosened in the detergent-ammonia solution.

A steel-bristled brush or steel wool will easily remove the unpleasant, clinging matter that refuses to come off otherwise. Your range parts will be as bright and clean as new.

The same method on a larger scale can be utilized to clean backyard barbecue grills or even fireplace equipment.

Put the detergent and ammonia solution into a laundry tub and submerge the implements to soak overnight. It's really quite amazing to see how the grease, soot and wood gum dissolve almost like magic in the solution.

Galvanized ware is particularly applicable to such messy household chores as these, because it is very sturdy and cleans easily.

Modern Glass Products Have Many Advantages

Its perhaps impossible to imagine glass fabrics. But you have seen them and know they are made of yarns that deny the expected properties of glass — transparency and hardness.

They behave in a hanging curtain or drapery as other fabrics do, but they have unusual advantages. They can be washed and hung damp at the windows again, wrinkle-free. Glass fabrics resist sunlight and heat and are completely fireproof.

They put up a remarkable defense against stains, shrinkage, rot, and insects. With light shining through them they glow softly in a way all their own.

Fiber glass fabric was put on the retail market only recently. Very recently that is, in textile history, because the last of the thirties brought the first marketed fiber glass products, following the forming of the Owens-Corning Fibreglas corporation in 1938.

But it is said that prehistoric man probably produced crude glass fibers by accident as he poked a camp fire on the sand. That natty sleeveless jacket sketched at upper right made quite a spash as a curiosity, introducing the first fiber glass fabrics at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893.

Now there are more than 4,000 fiber glass products in use. All are doing what glass never did before, and some, what no other textile substance or fabric had ever done. Fiber glass is important, in industry, in building, in war, even in the field of medicine.

And at home fiber glass products are here to stay and increase, with curtain and drapery fabrics, molded furniture, upholstery filling, lamp shades, window screens, air filters, and parts of appliances and electricical systems already well accepted as part of the scene.

Glass fabrics have taken two important new steps with a process called "Coronizing" and the discovery of a method of printing colorful patterns efficiently. The making of glass yarns is unbelievably intricate. Winding speeds are more than a mile a minute, and temperatures soar to more than two thousand degrees.

But Coronizing is added to set the weave of the finished fabric and to make it permanently wrinkle proof. Abrasion resistance is improved and surfaces are softened and smoothed.

Now that the success of printing on glass fabrics is assured, heavier weight drapery fabrics begin to take their place beside the more common curtain sheers.

Room Dividers Very Versatile

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (INS)—Having trouble teaching junior to be neat, or finding a place to set hot dishes before serving or do you want to divide living space into separate areas?

One article of furniture can fill all those needs, though not simultaneously—a room divider. There's one on the market now, for instance, which has four shelves and is four feet long by 4 inches tall.

It is metalcraft, weighs 36 pounds and comes in white or black finish which can be painted over to fit any decor.

In small bedrooms where a child's precious belongings have no specific home, parents sometimes find difficulty in impressing their offspring with the valuable adage that there's a place for everything and everything should be in its place.

But the room divider may grow with junior from the teddy bear stage through the time when he needs a place to display his antique auto models or other hobby paraphernalia.

It you have two children in one bedroom the room divider can not only provide storage space — it also can give the illusion of separate rooms for the two youngsters.

Use Right Plaster Paint

Just after a brick house is constructed, it is estimated that the water in the brickwork and plaster of an average room is about one ton. Even under good drying conditions, many months are required for this water to evaporate completely. For this reason, it is wise to use the type of paint on the plaster that will permit the escape and evaporation of the moisture. When painting is done soon after plastering, a breather-type, water-thinned paint may be used. When adequate drying time for the plaster is allowed, any type of wall paint is suitable.

The growing popularity of baseboard heating is due to the fact that it provides a low-level source of heat that is unobtrusive and does not interfere with furniture arrangements.

Paint Sturdy Shingles

Asbestos-cement shingles of the type that are used for house siding have good weather resitstance and durability. However, the ones that are porous soon become dirty and present a difficult cleaning problem. Their appearance can then be improved by painting. There are now special asbestos-cement shingle paints produced especially for the purpose. For successful results, the directions of the manufacturer should be followed exactly.

MARBLEIZED TABLE — Paul T. Frankl designed this unusual cocktail table which extends for informal living room meals. In closed form it is 32x40 inches. A drawer at either end opens to form the base for two marbleized sections which are placed on the open drawers to extend the table top to 64 inches. Drawers are large enough to store silver, napkins and living room accessories. Base of the table is black lacquer.

Here's How to Dispel Pesky Dust Deposits

When you run a finger over the top of baseboards and find an accumulation of dust you will realize that dust is not selective. As a matter of fact, your walls have their quota of dust and dirt as well as the baseboards. Use the proper attachment of your household vacuum cleaner to remove the dust and brighten the surface.

However, some wall dirt is greasy and will streak. In that case, if the walls are washable, use soap and water; if papered, use wall paper cleaner, removing the bits that fall to the floor with your helpful vacuum cleaner.

Almost 98 per cent of the cement produced in the U.S. is the portland variety.

Countless Uses for Hot Water

Nearly One Hundred Tasks in Home Need Aid of Heater Tank

There are nearly one hundred known uses for hot water in the home, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau in emphasizing the importance of an adequate supply of hot water.

More than 80 per cent of all the gallons of water used in the home is hot. There is hardly any household task which cannot be done more quickly and better with hot water. For many, hot water is indispensable.

Basically a water heater is a form of storage tank to which a means of supplying heat has been added.

It is obvious, of course, that a water heater tank cannot grow. A 30-gallon tank cannot expand into a 40-gallon tank because the demands for hot water in a home have increased.

This highlights the importance of carefully considering present and future needs when purchasing a water heater. Demands for hot water in the home have vastly increased in recent years with the growing popularity of many appliances calling for hot water.

Equally important in stepping up requirements for hot water is the trend toward larger families with the consequent increase in the number of bathrooms.

Handy Drawer Hints

When planning a cleaning cabinet installation in some convenient corner of the home, think about a handy drawer just below, to hold the various small tools used with the vacuum cleaner. Someone even wangled space below the television cabinet.

It is estimated there are 30,000,000 vacuum cleaners in use today.

House of the Week Offers Privacy, Quiet Relaxation

CONTEMPORARY STYLING — This contemporary home uses one story plan, almost square. All the rooms are built around a patio. the smart brick wall in the front to afford maximum privacy. It is a

You can open the heart of your house to the sunshine and the stars when you build around an indoor patio as shown in this smartly economical design, T-601 for The House of The Week.

The central patio of this house provides complete privacy for sunbathing, barbecue picnics and carefree relaxation It makes this an ideal home for the city dweller, whose need for privacy is greater than the suburbanite's and whose building site may be more limited in size.

Yet this house could be adapted easily to a scenic rural site merely by relocating the carport to open that side of the patio toward the view. In the present arrangement the outer brick wall of the carport effectively screens the patio. When the car is out, the carport becomes a covered porch separated from the open-roof patio by a low masonry planting box.

Sliding glass walls open onto the patio from living room and from master bedroom. There is a fireplace on the patio and another in the living room.

High studio ceilings are provided in the living room, front entrance hall and dining room by extending these room heights up to the rafters. Added privacy from street views is obtained by devoting virtually the entire shallow gable end in front to high windows. These windows start above your head at about 8 feet from the floor and extend to the roof line.

SMART FACADE

Petersen & Ebbert, Detroit architects and engineers, have given this house a smart facade. The high brick wall in front is capped with ledge stone and is extended out beyond the dining room on the left where it serves as a high planting box. The front door is flanked by a floor-to-ceiling window. The few places under the roof not occupied by high windows are filled in with striated plywood.

Room arrangement is especially convenient in this house. The entry hall offers access to all parts of the house and makes every room a dead end room thus eliminating annoyances of passage through rooms.

The three bedrooms are secluded in the rear, where standard size windows are set in an outer wall of striated plywood above a brick veneer base.

A large hobby and storage room is located back of the carport. A back door in this room opens to the rear garden. A lavatory opens both from the hobby room and from the master bedroom. Containing a shower stall, this lavatory is handy for cleaning up after gardening or a day at the beach. It also provides a small private bathroom for the master bedroom.

GUEST WRAP CLOSET

A guest wrap closet in the hall near the front entrance is surmounted by an indoor planting box under the ridge of the roof. On the living room side of this closet is a builtin for books with four sliding glass doors on its upper portion and flush wood doors on the cabinets below.

The kitchen is handy to the front door as well as to the carport across the patio. Laundry facilities are located in the utility room adjoining the kitchen. The utility room has a sliding door.

Economical but sound construction is specified for this house. No basement is required. The architects suggest construction on a concrete slab with 12-inch poured concrete foundation walls. Lath and plaster is recommended for all interior walls, although suitable dry wall construction would be acceptable.

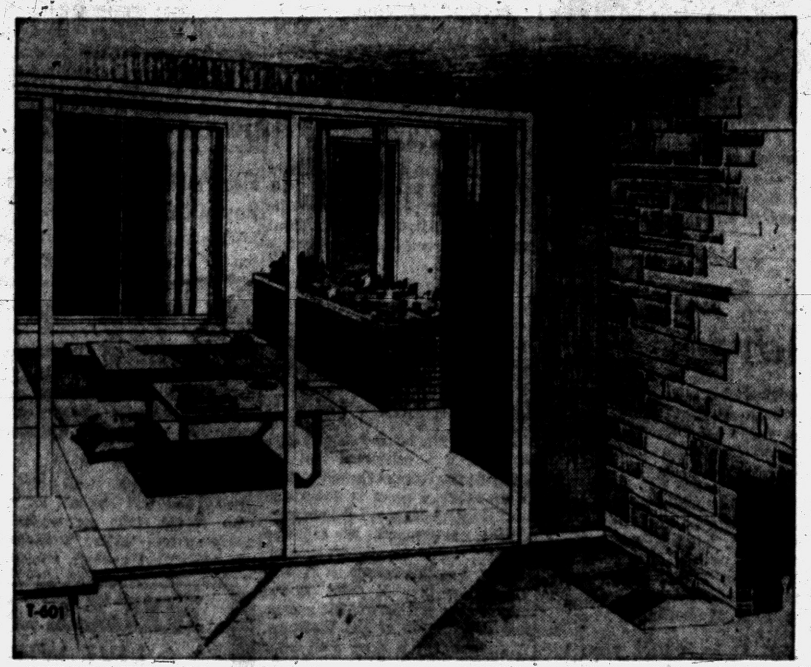

Ceramic tile and acid resisting fixtures are among specifications for both bathrooms.

The exterior of brick veneer is laid up on building felt and insulating sheathing for weatherproofing.

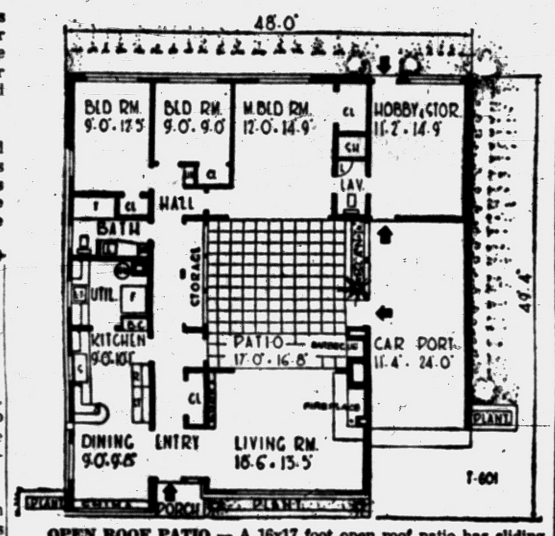

Three coats of paint are called for on all exposed wood surfaces outside with two coats for interior decoration. Inner walls should be sealed before wallpapering. Clear lacquer is used on the striated plywood.

Patio pavement is pitched and drained for rainy weather. This floor can be varicolored flagstones laid on concrete, red quarry tile or plain concrete to match the carport.

ARTIST'S VIEW — This artist's view, as seen from the living room, looks across the patio toward the master bedroom's glass wall. The house covers 1,587 square feet, exclusive of patio and carport.

OPEN ROOF PATIO — A 16x17 foot open roof patio has sliding glass doors that open into adjoining rooms. A barbecue for picnics is included in the plans.

Auburn Ave. Inn Has New Face; Is Remodeled

Phil's Inn, formerly Avon Inn, at 3982 Auburn, Avon Township has recently undergone a complete remodeling, redecorating job, inside and out.

A new, 12-foot brick extension built across the front provides room inside for a new lobby, office and restroom.

The owner, Phil Yuille, has had the structure repainted and reroofed and new neon signs and overhead lights have been installed on the exterior.

Inside, the proprietor has put in a new dance floor and new tile over all the floors.

A plexiglass divider has been installed, separating most of the tables from the bar. Also, Yuille says, heavy new drapes have been hung, cutting off the barroom from the entertainment room, where the floor shows are presented.

Yuille, formerly in business for 15 years with Wolverine Entertainers, Inc., bought the inn last October.

Run Gutter Flashing Up Into Outside Wall

In the case of a built-in roof gutter, flashing should completely line the gutter to a point well beyond the inside of the outside wall and extend up under the shingles for a distance of several inches.

This type of construction prevents water, dammed up by gutter-filled snow or ice, from leaking through to the roof sheathing. Failure to protect a building against the entrance of moisture due to ice dams is the cause of much costly moisture damage.

Generally, in areas where snow falls, a severe snowy winter produces an epidemic of household moisture problems.

Handy Jim's FIXIN-UP TIPS For the Home

In modernizing an attic, don't forget the advantages of a built-in desk, like the one shown in the illustration. Construction is simple, but the framing should be installed before covering the rafters with panels.

Actually, this is a desk plus two storage shelves. The door may be made the same height as the space between the shelves or it may extend above the top shelf. In the latter case, you'll protect the contents of the shelf and have a larger writing surface.

Both the desk door and the shelves are made similarly, by forming frameworks of 1 by 2-inch lumber, fastening them together with corrugated metal, and gluing Masonite 3-16" Tempered Presdwood to both sides.

A permanent material for covering attic rafters is Masonite Panelwood, a hardboard that's easy to work, quick to install and long lasting. Available at lumber yards, it comes in 4 by 8-foot panels which go up in a hurry with a minimum of fuss and muss.

For a free plan showing the desk and other plans for modernizing an attic, write to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 West Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., requesting No. AE-297.

White Favored in Living Rooms

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (INS) — Colors may be replacing white in the kitchen, but white will make it up by more frequent use in other rooms.

That's the prediction of C. D. Robb, sales manager for the Metalcraft division of an Evansville firm.

Robb believes that white and brass form a coming combination that will find its way into American living quarters.

Wrought metal furniture has been easing into wider American acceptance, though for many homes the TV table may be the only entry. Much metal furniture has been black in the past, but Robb thinks the white and brass line will get even wider acceptance.

Tables of many types and sizes, chairs, tea carts, room dividers and bar stools are among the metal furniture items shown in white with brass accents. Other items with this look include accessories such as waste baskets, magazine racks, planters and smokers.

Wrought metal has had a place outside the house for years, widely featured for patio and porch use—but now it's creeping into the living, dining, bed and bathroom.

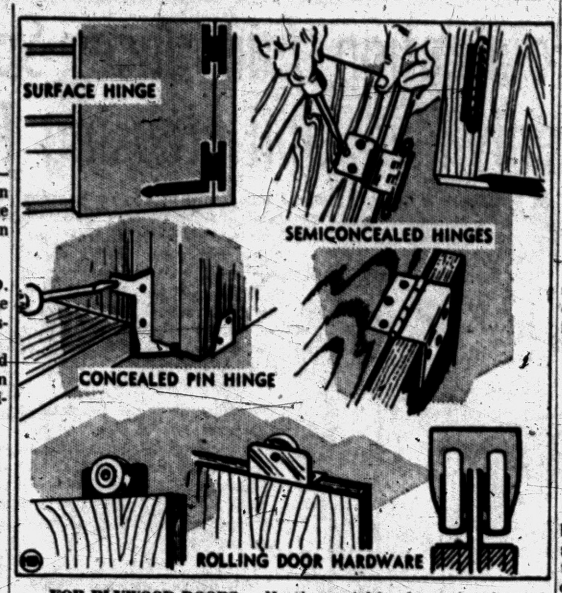

Durability, dramatic arrangement and dual usage are points advanced in favor of wrought metal furniture.

SPACE SAVERS—If two small children use their bedroom for daytime play, they need all the floor space possible. These twin beds have been built of Douglas fir, and one bed has been designed to slide under its mate. If made to match fir wall paneling, the finish can be identical. It can be stained, painted, antiqued or varnished. The wood is tough and durable.

Cuts Down Noise

One of the major advantages of wood kitchens is cutting down of noise. The doors and drawers in modern wood kitchen cabinets and base units are as quiet in operation as those in other fine wood furniture.

FOR PLYWOOD DOORS — Here's special hardware for plywood doors. These hinges have one thing in common — they mount on the flat face grain of the plywood.

Plywood is understandably a favorite material for cabinet doors. It has dimensional stability that resists warp, and it presents a broad, smooth, uninterrupted surface for finishing.

But until special hardware became readily obtainable, hanging plywood cabinet doors was oftentimes a headache to home craftsmen.

They found that hinge screws held poorly in the edge grain of plywood. That ruled out the use of common butt type hinges, which are designed for edge mounting.

That the right kind of hardware seemed to be available to the manufacturers of wood cabinets maddened friend handy man all the more. He shopped his patience thin in the neighborhood stores, looking for duplicates of the factory-installed hinges. Usually the clerks' reply was, "Never heard of 'em."

Not any more. Several different kinds of hinges designed primarily for use on plywood doors are generally stocked by hardware dealers. Or, if not stocked, can be ordered. Rolling-door hardware is easy to come by, too.

Here are some of the hinges recommended by Douglas Fir Plywood Association for plywood cabinet doors (all have one thing in common—they mount on the flat face grain of plywood wherever possible):

SURFACE HINGES—The black, wrought-iron kind look best. They can be mounted swiftly, require no mortising, add an ornamental touch and come in many styles. A pair of H or H-L hinges is sufficient for most doors. For large doors use a pair of H-L hinges and a third H hinge, or use three of the H type.

Tee or strap hinges in black iron help prevent sag in large doors. One or two hinges added between those at top and bottom help to minimize warping.

SEMICONCEALED HINGES — There are two kinds: one is a tight-pin hinge designed for use on lipped doors (often found on kitchen cabinets, these doors overlap the edges of their frames); the other is a loose-pin hinge, one leaf of which is bent in an L shape so that it wraps around door edges.

The tight-pin kind is made for doors of ¾-inch plywood rabbeted to leave a ¼-inch lip. A similar hinge is made for full-surface mounting.

Loose-pin hinges present the same outward appearance as butt hinges when the door is closed, since only the barrel shows. A variation called a chest hinge may be used in the same way.

CONCEALED PIN HINGES — These mount at the very top and bottom of flush doors, and the result is a neat, uncluttered, modern appearance. Only the pivot point of the hinge is visible from the front when the door is closed.

Use a pair for small doors, and three—called "a pair and a half"—for larger doors.

As for rolling-door hardware, one of the simplest consists of two roller brackets attached to door tops, and a double-lipped track fastened to the door frame with screws. Single-lipped track is also made for single doors. The rollers have ball-bearing nylon wheels.

Some rolling-door hardware for closets and large storage units has bottom-mounted rollers. But on tall and narrow doors top-mount hardware is usually smoother in operation.

New Plastic Product Used for Cushioning

Plastic — used from baby cups to radio knobs — now takes a new "seat in the home. Polyurethane — a plastic foam — has made its debut as an inexpensive yet strong and light-in weight cushioning in their newest upholstered pieces.

Found to be odorless and fire resistant and to always retain its shape, the plastic is also buoyant enough to insure ideal seating comfort. Plastic foam has found its way into the home before — though probably not known to most homemakers — as an insulation for refrigerators.

Develop Solution to Aid Cleaning Very Soiled Rugs

WASHINGTON (INS) The Agriculture Department says a solution has been found to the problem of cleaning badly-soiled wall-to-wall cotton carpets.

The carpets, say department research scientists, can now be cleaned during a single home visit, instead of the previously-needed three or more calls by cleaners.

Unlike most conventional rug-cleaning methods, the newly-developed procedure uses large quantities of fresh, clean suds worked through the carpet pile by a specially-designed rotating brush.

After the brush and detergent have loosened the dirt, suds and soil are sucked out of the carpet through a vacuum nozzle at the outer edge of the rotating brush. The carpet next undergoes a rapid-drying operation and the pile is restored by the agitation-type vacuum cleaner.

The department said commercial production of both the cleaning machine and the special detergent necessary for the new method is expected in the near future.

The pearls found in American oysters usually have little commercial value.

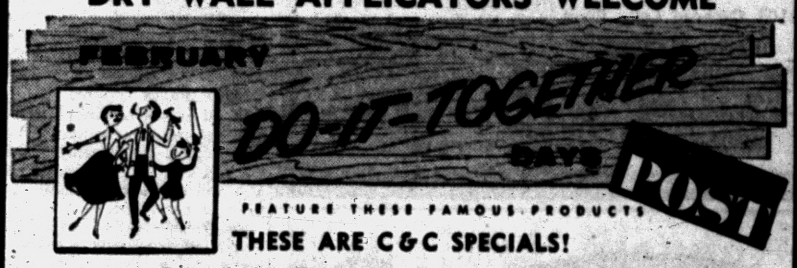

The new Pittsburgh airport opened in 1952, is generally believed to be the second largest in the United States.

Approximately one-third of all the steel supply of the United States comes from the Pennsylvania area.

Timely Planning Will Ease Your Spring Cleaning

One of the major spring housecleaning jobs is washing walls and woodwork. There is no way to make the job really enjoyable, but a little planning in advance will speed up the process and make it less unpleasant.

The simplest method is to clean one room at a time. Complete each room before moving on to the next. That way most of the rooms in the home are kept livable so there is a minimum of inconvenience to the family.

An often neglected step in the wall-washing process — and a very important one — is to assemble all cleaning equipment in one place and take it to the first room to be washed. When the equipment is not in use, keep it together in one place to prevent time-wasting searches for that extra pail, or other piece of equipment.

Necessary cleaning supplies include a stool or small step ladder, two galvanized pails, large sponge, cloths and cleansers. Use one pail for soapy wash water and the other for clear rinse water.

Start at the bottom of the walls and work up when washing walls. Wash one vertical strip, about two feet wide at a time, then rinse that section and move on to the next vertical section. The bottom-to-top method of washing prevents the hard-to-remove streaks which form when water runs down over dirty walls.

Bowling Pins Require Tough Protective Coat

Few articles of sporting equipment are subjected to more drastic punishment than a bowling pin. The formulation of protective coatings for these much-abused items is a challenging task. The finish must be tough enough to withstand both the impact of the ball and sharp contact with other pins.

The paint, varnish and lacquer industry supplies industrial chemical coatings which meet such exacting requirements — in everything from bobby pins to vacuum cleaners.

Homestyle Foundation Announces Specifications for New Twenty-Five Unit Housing Program

Homestyle Center Foundation, Inc. in Grand Rapids, announced that specifications for the first 25 homes are now being written. Preliminary architectural designs and specifications of these homes have been approved. Final drawings and specifications are now underway.

The Homestyle Center Design Committee is now acting to implement the preliminary specifications and diversify systems, materials and manufacturers to assure a thorough representation of the better products of the industry. It will recommend and assign products and manufacturers to be utilized by the design teams of each home.

Manufacturers will be notified of their selection so that they may provide information concerning their product and assist in its specification. As the project opens in 1957, products to be current in that year will be specified wherever possible.

Only building materials, equipment, interior finishes, hardware and appliances of better quality, value and design, will be selected for the homes. These selections will be submitted to the various advising and consulting associations and committees coopperating with Homestyle Center.

Furnishings, appliances and materials will be selected to be appropriate to the display homes. The homes range in price from $8,000 to $250,000. Designs are of traditional, contemporary, modern and experimental nature. The homes are being designed to represent all major regions and climate areas of the nation. Urban, suburban and farm living will be depicted. Various family sizes are being considered.

Each home is being designed by an architect, interior designer, landscape architect and builder team. These teams are located in 16 cities coast to coast. These teams are designing and furnishing the homes appropos to the region and climate of their individual area. All designs are subject to approval by Homestyle Center's Design Committee.

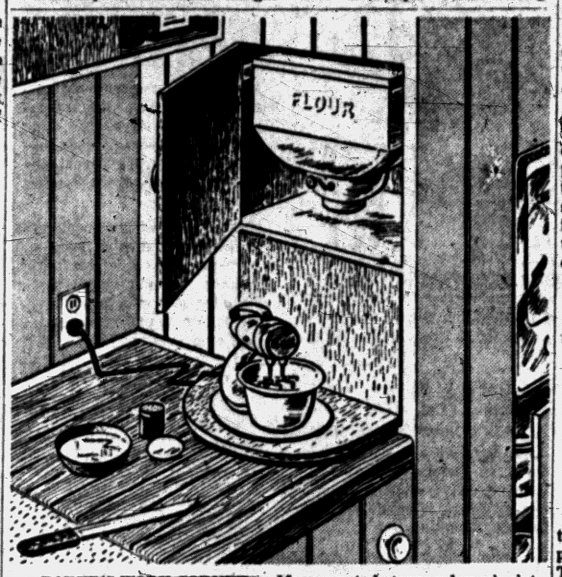

Homestyle Center is the only project of its type in the world. Research and display of the better products of the home furnishings and home building industries will continue yearly.

Twenty-five homes will be built during 1956, ten homes will be added yearly until a total of 50 is reached at the village. Thereafter, ten homes will be removed yearly and replaced by ten new ones to keep abreast of the industry. All homes will be fully furnished and open to the public all year long.

Homestyle Center will combine the best "know-how" and integration of architecture, interior design, landscaping and building for consumers, professionals and manufacturers to visit and evaluate. It will be representative of the nation's home building and furnishings products and will suggest better living solutions.

A million people are expected to visit Homestyle Center in 1957. National coverage by television, newspapers, trade and consumer publications will provide a thorough information media of the project.

BAKER'S WORK CORNER — Many wasted steps and much clutter can be eliminated when a kitchen is planned with definite work areas in mind. Here is a tiny corner for the home baker. The work surface is matched tongue-and-groove hemlock flooring. This will withstand much abuse and wear and the hemlock panel boards add a distinctive touch. Flour receptacle is hidden behind latched door and mixer tips back out of way.

Select Basic Furnishings for Simple Adaptability

It's time for the "white elephant"—who has been trampling furniture budgets long enough—to become an extinct species in the home, in the opinion of furniture designer Gordon Perlmutter.

To rid herself of this household pest—the result of unwise buying—the homemaker has only to find the half dozen or so basic pieces with which she can furnish any room in her house.

Mr. Perlmutter, a young man with a growing family of his own, works on the premise that furniture cannot be called "good design"—no matter what its esthetic qualities—unless it is as readily adaptable to change as the people who own it.

Since modern living is not static, furniture cannot be static either, he insists.

"Acquiring and furnishing a home is a long-range project for most of us," Mr. Perlmutter points out. "Along the way are usually major transitions—like the move from apartment to private house, or the reshifting of furnishings to provide an extra bedroom."

"If the basic furnishings are the kind that look completely 'at home' in any setting—living room, dining room or bedroom—any need that arises in the family can be accommodated without taking a loss on the original investment," this designer reasons.

ANONYMOUS FACTOR

Fortunately, he adds, furniture designers are rising to the occasion by injecting an anonymous quality into more and more pieces. Thanks to this anonymity—which Mr. Perlmutter calls one of the most important contributions current designers have made to the home furnishings field—furniture displaced from one room need no longer be unsuitable for any other.

In one of his own new collections, designed for Brandt Cabinet Works, young Mr. Perlmutter has practiced what he preaches by offering the wherewithal for completely furnishing either a living room or bedoom with the same pieces. Thus the couple to whom the dream house will not become a reality until two, three or five years from now need not risk choosing a permanent living room set to go with a floor plan they haven't yet seen.

In lieu of the conventional sofa and chair set, Mr. Perlmutter suggests a pair of studio couches which lend themselves to interesting wall groupings, and an occasional chair or pair of chairs. To these can be added twin storage cabinets, a pair of step tables with lamps, and one or two simple coffee tables, depending upon floor space.

When the move to larger quarters is made, the homemaker now has her extra bedroom completely furnished, instead of an advertisement in the local paper that says: "Living room set, practically new, for sale. Sacrifice."

To turn the trick, she simply employs the two studio couches as twin beds, with the step tables on either side as nightstands. The coffee tables are then used as bases to bring the twin storage cabinets to the right height for double dressers.

If the room is large enough, the occasional chair can be added, or it can be shifted to master bedroom or den. Not a single piece of furniture has been "orphaned," and every requirement of the well furnished bedroom has been met.

More Living Room ... in Every Room with the new low-priced SPACEMASTER folding door

in your kitchen!
"Spacemaster" doors fold inside the doorway, completely out of the way. Your kitchen is larger, easier to move around in. No cabinet or counter tops lost to swinging doors. No danger of doors standing ajar, or closing on children's fingers.

"Spacemaster" doors fold back on themselves, make better furniture arrangement possible. No "dead" corners, no valuable floor and wall area lost to door swing.

in your bedroom!

All Acoustical Tile Made Very Porous

Acoustical tile or blocks are made of various materials and there are several different types. They have one thing in common—all are highly porous, for the purpose of absorbing sound waves instead of causing them to "rebound."

Accordingly, painting them requires special care in order not to destroy this sound absorbing property. Be sure to check with your dealer or painting contractor regarding the type of paint to use before recoating accoustical surfaces.

Before painting, incidentally, they should be thoroughly cleaned—preferably with suction from a vacuum cleaner attachment. If previously painted, they may be washed with soap and water, followed by a rinsing with clear water.

Have Vacuum Checked to Aid Better Cleaning

How long has it been since you had your vacuum cleaner looked over by the company which made it or by an accredited representative? If you are like some homemakers you probably will be surprised when you realize that you have had your cleaner for, say, more than five years, and cannot remember when you last had it checked.

No vacuum cleaner can keep on forever giving good cleaning results. Its efficiency grows less. You do not realize it until you see how much more dust and dirt a new vaauum cleaner removes.

Vacuum cleaners are improved constantly in design and in construction and, consequently, in efficiency. You may decide that it will be wise for you to buy a 1956 model right now. You owe it to yourself to have the very best protection for your carpets and furnishings that it is possible to obtain.

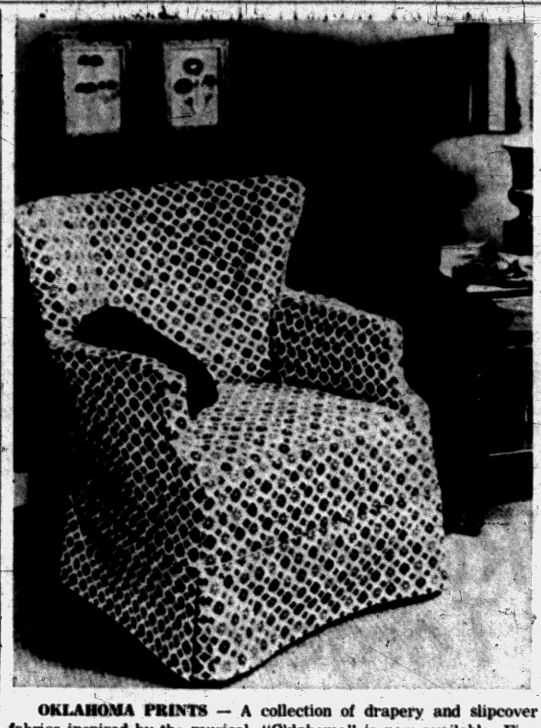

Use Paste Wax Coat to Protect Furniture

Paste wax is often used as a final protective coating on furniture that is being refinished. Many finishers use regular paste-type floor wax. They apply it in a thin coat, let it dry well, then buff it thoroughly.

Sometimes this first coat of wax is applied with a pad of 3-0 or 4-0 steel wool, thus smoothing and waxing the surface at the same time. As a final measure, a second coat of wax is applied and polished.

Proper Venetian Slits

The steel from which Venetian blinds are made is usually produced in a long strip which is painted on both sides simultaneously. Subsequently, the stock is cut into the proper lengths for a blind.

OKLAHOMA PRINTS — A collection of drapery and slipcover fabrics inspired by the musical, "Oklahoma" is now available. Five prints on sailcloth and two coordinated all-cotton solids are being shown. The print used on the chair above is called Laurey's Room and is reminiscent of girl-in-calico days.

Read at Bedtime? Use More Lighting

Bedtime is fast becoming the best time for Americans to catch up on their reading. A recent survey has indicated that reading in bed is now definitely on the increase. This growing trend emphasizes the need for more lighting in the bedroom.

The ideal solution for localized lighting is a flexible fixture which can be easily adjusted for reading. One practical type can be focused from a headboard, a wall or a night-table. Directed on the pages of the book, such a fixture will prevent unnecessary eyestrain. Requiring no special wiring, these flexible portable fixtures also can be placed on a night table or dressing table.

* * *

Snap-on reflectors permit interchanging of colors, adding to the versatility of these lamps and light fixtures.

Deductible Repairs

Did you make any repairs or renovations in your home during 1955? If so, it might be rewarding to check a reliable tax return guide book or to query your Internal Revenue Service office. You may find the money spent on your home can be deducted from your taxable income.

Steel Basket Practical for Laundry Use, Need

A handy and practical laundry basket is a galvanized steel basket. Many housewives have found that such a basket is durable, yet lightweight. Because of its smooth metal surface, there need be no concern about snagging clothing.

The galvanized steel basket—zinc-coated—is rust-resistant, preventing any stains on the wet family wash. The waterproof basket cannot leak and has handles for ease and comfort in carrying.

Ironwood Is Heaviest

The heaviest known wood in the world, according to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, is black ironwood, native to the West Indies and the Florida Keys. The lightest wood is believed to be tano, found in Siam and the Malayan Peninsula.

Construction Contracts Dip 14 Pct. in Michigan

DETROIT — January contract awards for future construction in Michigan were down 14 per cent in dollar volume from January 1955 according to Dodge Reports totals. The January 1956 total was at $79,543,000, stated Marvin J. Brokaw, Detroit district manager for F. W. Dodge Corporation.

Awards in the three basic construction categories for January 1956 compared with January 1955 show: Non-residential, down 44 per cent, at $22,985,000; residential, up 23 per cent, at $41,299,000; heavy engineering, down 15 per cent, at $15,259,000.

NOW'S THE TIME TO GET SPORTS GEAR IN SHAPE!

Chances are you've been putting off getting your equipment in shape. Your fishing gear needs touching up, your canoe, boat or trailer (if you're lucky enough to have one) could probably do with a fresh paint job.

Getting your gear in shape now will give you more fun later on. It's not difficult, either. Matter of fact, it's a mighty pleasant way to spend an evening... or a week end. The main thing is to be careful you use the right paint and varnish.

That's why I'm so strong on new Smith-Valspar Sportsmen's Paint. It's the only paint made especially for sportsmen. And it's outdoor tested to make certain it will stand up well under all weather conditions. Try some, I know you'll like it.

Slippery Season Ends

The "slippery" season has ended for the homemaker—at least in her living room. Upholstery fabrics, even when neatly fitted to chairs or couches at the time of making, usually slip and slide at seat corners, pillows and arms. This is especially true when youngsters are around to give maximum furniture usage.

Temperatures of Madrid range from a low of 10 above zero to a high of 110.

Chiefs Outrun Trojans, Set 2 Marks

By H. GUY MOATS
Pontiac Press Special Writer

Pontiac High School's basketball coach, Art Van Ryzin, last night put away his defensive and offensive patterns of play and sent his club out on the big PHS floor to run with the "racehorse" Saginaw High Trojans.

And for the records (2 new ones were set last night), the hustling Chiefs outran, outshot, and outscored Larry Laeding's club, 92-73.

That whopping total set what is believed to be an all-time high for a PHS five. It is also the biggest team count of the season for the Saginaw Valley Conference. Only one game approached this figure, the 82-68 win for Flint Central over Bay City last weekend.

For Chiefs' ace, Willie Dewalt, the night produced two very shining efforts. Willie's 34 points gave him the Valley individual scoring title and the all-time Pontiac High record. Dick Ayling, now at Alma College, set the former mark at 29 points three years ago.

Dewalt's Valley mark, including last night's total is 203. Blondin, 2nd on the list has 177; Clarence Elliott of Northern, 164 (with 27 last night in Vikings' 70-58 win over Bay City); Jim Kanary, Arthur Hill, 159 (18 against Central, as Indians won 66-52).

In the 3rd period when Dewalt had passed the 24 mark, he was taken out, for a rest.

The big crowd instantly voiced its disapproval of the move. Willie sat the bench for two and a half minutes, was still out as the final session opened.

"We want Willie, we want Willie" the fans howled. Van Ryzin grinned. Willie sat it out for two more minutes, then went back into the fray while the cage "bugs" yelled. He proceeded to bang in 10 points to hang up the new mark.

Dave Diehm, long overdue in his shooting, came with a rush, Friday night and piled up a fine 17-point count. Rod Treais had 10, little Larry Peet 9.

Trojans' Deb Blondin, up to last night trailing Dewalt in the SVC race, collected a very respectable 19 points, along with Ted Pierce's 18, Ron Frost's 14 and Larry Rousseau's 11 points.

Victory gave Chiefs a 6-4 record in SVC, tied with Arthur Hill in 3rd place back of Northern which defeated Bay City Central, 70-58, and Central winner over Arthur Hill, 66-52.

Friday's games ended SVC action for 1955-56. Northern, Central and Pontiac next appear in the MHSAA tourney in Flint, in two weeks.

Chiefs never trailed last night, never were even close in count to Trojans after the opening skirmish.

At end of the 1st period PHS was 6 points ahead, at halftime 17 and going into the finale, 20 points.

'Rumors' Put Kuenn, Torgeson on Block

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Rumors circulated around the Detroit Tiger training camp today that holdouts Harvey Kuenn and Earl Torgeson might be traded.

Nobody took much stock in the report regarding Kuenn, easily one of the league's best shortstops. But some observers figure Torgeson might be peddled if the Tigers could set up a deal for a top flight second baseman or pitcher.

Kuenn is in Lakeland but Torgeson has shunned the camp so far in favor of his home grounds at Bradenton, 60 miles away.

None of the Tiger brass has talked terms with the two players since camp opened officially on Thursday. Yesterday, however, manager Bucky Harris asked Spike Briggs for permission to talk to the two players "like a father." He said he thought he might be able to persuade them to "listen to reason."

The chances of the Tigers being able to set up a spectacular deal for Torgeson don't appear too bright. The first baseman was waived out of the National League only last season and none of the other clubs seemed eager to grab him. He played 47 games for the Philadelphia Phillies and 89 for the Tigers. He hit .283 in the American League.

One other deal did seem to be alive—a straight player swap that would send second baseman Fred Hatfield to the Chicago White Sox for infielder Jim Bridewesser.

Bridewesser never has been a regular although he had Major League experience with the New York Yankees and Baltimore before going to Chicago. He appeared in only 34 games for the White Sox in 1955.

Harris said yesterday he wanted to check some more on Bridewesser's fielding at second base before approving the trade.

With Torgeson missing the Tigers have been using Jack Phillips at first base.

Phillips, a veteran who came back to the majors last year with the Tigers after being named the Pacific Coast League's Most Valuable Player with Hollywood in 1954.

In camp action yesterday a team of Tiger farmhands from Tigertown whipped a Detroit "B" team 6-5.

Buddy Hicks, one of six players promoted from the rookie camp to the main Tiger training base, collected two hits for the losers. So did Wayne Belardi, another first baseman with major league experience.

Big 10 Vote Is Conditional on Bowl Pact

Conference Also Seeks Larger Allotments of Better Tickets

EAST LANSING (AP)—The Big Ten has approved continuance of the Rose Bowl football pact with the Pacific Coast Conference, but not without further negotiations.

The approval came at a joint meeting yesterday of Big Ten faculty representatives and athletic directors. It was by "conditional vote" and by majority rather than unanimity.

The matter now reverts back to the faculties of each institution for vote.

Bill Reed, assistant Big Ten commissioner said that among things to be negotiated with the PCC is the matter of ticket allotment. The Big Ten received 17,000 Rose Bowl tickets for the 1956 game. It would like more and in better locations.

The Big Ten also authorized an affirmative vote approving the 1956 NCAA football television program which now is undergoing a mail referendum of that organization's membership.

Reed and Doug Mills, Illinois athletic director, are to open negotiations for sale of TV rights to five regional football games under a program substantially the same as last season.

Receipts from the program will be divided under a new formula which provides for measuring how much attendance is "hurt" by television.

From the pool of proceeds, $50,000 will be set aside as the maximum amount of "hurt" that can be derived from a telecast of the originating school.

Northville Dumps Milford, 70-64

Loops Over, Playoffs Ahead

All attention of state prep basketball teams now turns to district and regional eliminations as the majority of teams closed the regular season schedule last night.

High flying Northville, unbeaten since the entry of big Clayton Pethers to the lineup six games ago, enjoyed a night of grandeur by spilling Milford 70-64 in the highlight game of the Wayne-Oakland League.

Pethers, who finished the regular season with 177 points in six games, bucketed 28, although scoring honors again went to Milford's Jim Davidson who had 30.

It was Milford's first loss since the opening game of the season and gave the Redskins a 14-2 mark for the regular schedule and 11-1 in the league.

Milford had a 10 point lead midway in the 3rd quarter but with the loss of Green on personals and the firing of Pethers, Northville made it 51-51 going into the final stanza. Pethers hit for 5 of 6 field goals in the 4th quarter.

A surprise win was Holly's 68-64 victory over West Bloomfield. The Broncos held a 37-40 lead with six minutes to play when the Lakers caught fire to make it 66-64 with less than 30 seconds to play.

Frank Rogers who had 28 points got the last 12 points for the Lakers. Freshman George McDaniels, high for Holly with 20, got two free throws in the last 2 seconds to clinch the game.

Clarkston's Larry Parks set a new school record with 38 points to lead the Wolves to a 74-56 win over Brighton. The 5-6 sophomore hit for 13 field goals in his total as Clarkston never fell behind. George Lang added 17 with Piersall getting 24 for the losers.

Birmingham closed out its 1955-56 basketball season with a 72-66 win over Mt. Clemens in an Eastern Michigan League game last night at Mt. Clemens. Victory gave the Maples an overall record of 8-6.

Fifty-two personal fouls were committed, 27 by the Bathers. Bob Isbell collected 29 points for the Maples, 15 from the foul line, and teammate John Flesser contributed 17. Marv Ulman scored 27 points for Mt. Clemens, including 17 free tosses in 19 attempts.

Marvin Ringo tallied 24 points to lead Hamtramck's 72-67 conquest of East Detroit on the Shamrock court. Gary Baltman netted 20 points for the Shamrocks.

Fitzgerald clinched the Oakland B flag by trouncing Clawson 86-41 to finish in the league with a 11-2 mark.

The Spartans, led by Jim Clary's 28 points and 3 others in double figures, had a 14-0 lead before Clawson scored.

Roseville finished its regular season out of the league by losing a 58-57 decision to Eastland.

Walled Lake won its 11th game against five setbacks for the season by dumping Plymouth 70-60 with Larry Hughes hitting 29 points. In his past four games Hughes has scored 103 points.

Plymouth led at halftime 31-29 but a 4th quarter surge with Hughes getting 9 and John Walker 11 settled the matter. Walker finished with 20.

North Branch settled the South Central league by tripping Imlay City 65-60 to finish 6-0 in the league and 15-1 for the season. Jack Griffin led the Broncos with 25 with John Ribner adding 18. Only three Imlay players made up the scoring led by Duane Maison's 20, and Dorow's 18 and Samson's 14.

Ortonville found Flint Dye too much to handle as the Black Hawks fell 76-48. Chuck Graves led Ortonville with 20 points.

Royal Oak gamely fought Border Cities' leader Fordson for three periods before falling 53-46. The Acorns led 26-19 at halftime. Jim Eilerston had 14 and Darrell Harper 10 for Royal Oak.

Shaws, GMC Win

City Loop Playoffs Start

Shaw's Jewelers started the city league basketball playoffs the same way they finished the regular season—on the long end of the score.

The unbeaten Jewelers methodically rolled over Stone Front, 84-58, as the Class A and B tournaments got under way Friday night at Lincoln and Jefferson junior high schools.

Jerry Mofield bucketed 22 points to spark GMC's 85-75 upset victory over Sun Life in the Class A opener at Lincoln. Hal Trott meshed 23 points for the Insurance cagers.

In the Class B nightcap, Felix Brooks notched 19 points and Walt King 17 as the Lakeside Royals defeated the Keego Merchants, 60-56. Keego's Mike Hanes took scoring honors with 24 points.

The double-elimination tournaments continue tonight. Stone Front faces Sun Life and Shaw's meets GMC in "A" games at Pontiac High while "B" action matches the Merchants—Booth Homes and the Royals—Stadium Inn at Lincoln.

Class C tourney activity resumes tonight at Jefferson. Griff's Grill tackles Louie's Tavern and the Independents battle the Trojans. All games begin at 7 and 8:30 p.m.

Weight-Lifting Show Half-Time Feature

Basketball fans at Pontiac High School last night, were pleasantly surprized at the half-time demonstration of weight-lifting by the new PHS club. Al Thomas, instructor, MC'd the show, in which 27 boys took part. There were five groups, using bells, barweights and doing exercises for muscle building.

* * *

Among the young "musclemen" was little Dick Reynolds, who bench-pressed 115 pounds, 40 above his previous mark. Mel Nosanchuk made the difficult two-hand snatch with 150 pounds. He weighs 130 pounds.

Sophs End Season With 1-3 Record

Pontiac had a 5-point lead at one time, was tied at halftime 21-21.

Costa Gets Decision Amid Jeering Crowd

NEW YORK (AP)—Brooklyn's Carmelo (Chubby) Costa today had a lucky, narrow victory over Mexico's Baby Vasquez to his credit and a March 30th date in Madison Square Garden with France's Cherif Hamia.

The 21-year-old, second-ranking featherweight contender, had to come from way behind to squeeze out a controversial split, 10-round decision over the peppety Mexican lightweight king in the Garden last night.

The slim crowd of about 3,000 greeted the verdict with some loud booing which sounded like music to the downcast loser's ears. Only last Dec. 23, Vasquez was the recipient of jeers from the Garden fans for an inept, losing performance against lightweight contender Frankie Ryff.

169 Nominees

Needles Tops Derby List

LOUISVILLE, Ky (AP) — Needles an early-budding star from Florida, headed 169 nominees for the 82nd Kentucky Derby announced today by Churchill Downs.

The eligible list is the fourth largest in history for the Spring Classic, which will be run this year on May 5, the traditional first Saturday in May. The record number was 196 in 1928.

As usual, the three-year-olds will be asked to go 1¼ miles, a rugged run for horses so young. Churchill Downs will add $125,000 to the money put up by owners to nominate, enter and start their hopefuls.

A record purse was just about assurred by the $16,900 picked up via nominations at $100 per horse. A $250 fee is charged to enter and another $1,250 to start.

Reserves Victors in Thrilling Finish

Fred Zittel's PHS reserve squad set the pattern for last night's shining finish of the regular scheduled basketball season with a 60-59 win over Saginaw's reserves. Varsity also won 92-73.

The junior varsity overcame a three point Saginaw lead in the last three minutes, moved ahead with only 16 seconds left. Dick Whitmer's two free throws proved the winning points. Dick also led scoring with 17 points, one ahead of Saginaw's Ty O'Keefe. Charley Barge had 14 for PHS, George Baber 15 for Saginaw.

Each Places 10 Men

U-M, Indiana Pace Track Qualifiers

EAST LANSING (AP) — Greg Bell, Indiana University sophomore, started the record breaking early last night when he shattered the Big Ten broad jump mark by soaring 24 feet, 11⅝ inches in preliminaries of the Western Conference indoor track and field meet.

Bell, 25-year-old ex-serviceman from Terre Haute, Ind., will have three more chances to better his own record in this afternoon's finals.

The broad shouldered Negro topped the former conference distance of 24-7 by Purdue's Jewell Daily in 1949 with his 4th and final preliminary try.

Sharing the early spotlight with Bell was Murray Keatinge of Iowa, winner in two of the six running events that made up other preliminaries to the 15-event finals of the 46th annual meet.

Keatinge took the 1,000-yard run in 2:17.1 and the 880 in 1:57.3. None of the running times approached a record.

Jim Golliday, Northwestern sprint star who has bettered the world record with his 6 seconds flat in the 60-yard dash, was cheated of a chance for an early astounder when the event's preliminary was scratched as coaches withdrew some of their slower runners.

Michigan, favored to repeat its team championship of last year, placed 10 men in the prelims as did Indiana, a threat because of team depth. Other qualifying totals included:

Iowa 8, Illinois 4, Michigan State and Ohio State 3, Wisconsin and Northwestern 2, Minnesota and Purdue 0. Best times in other qualifying events included:

Seventy-yard high hurdles, Joe Savoldi, Michigan State, :08.6; 440-yard run, Don Ward, Indiana, :49.2; 300-yard dash, Bob Brown, Michigan, :31.4; 600-yard run, Caesar Smith, Iowa, 1:13.8.

Buckeyes After 8th Swim Title in Succession

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (INS)—Ohio State seems assured of winning its eight straight conference swimming title today.

The Buckeyes piled up a commanding lead of 45 points last night in the two-day meet which ends today. Michigan is in second place with 30.

A Big Ten record in the 200 yard butterfly event was set when Mike Delaney of Michigan was clocked in 2:15.0, one-tenth of a second faster than the mark set last year by Burwell Jones, also of Michigan.

Iowa and Indiana tied for second place with 24 points each. Michigan State was fifth with 21, then came Illinois, 14, Northwestern, 12, Purdue, 6, and Minnesota and Wisconsin, 0.

Pair Tied After Soggy 36 Holes

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Power-hitting George Bayer and veteran Jimmy Demaret led the way over a soggy golf course today into the third round of the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open.

Bayer and Demaret were knotted at 137 after 36 holes, the halfway mark.

The tall, powerfully-built Bayer, rated one of the longest hitters in golf, tacked a two-under-par 70 yesterday onto his opening 67. The Cincinnati professional missed a chance to take over the lead on the 17th hole, when an approach shot strayed about 40 yards over the green. He took a one-over-par five on the hole.

Demaret, colorful Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., player, had a 69 in the opening round. He started off with a three-under-par 33 on the first nine yesterday and, despite playing most of the last nine in the rain, chopped another stroke from par with a 35 for a 68.

Three players, Ed Furgol of St. Louis, Shelley Mayfield of Westbury, N.Y., and Buck White of Memphis, were bunched at 138.

Furgol was six strokes over his opening 66 with a par 72 over the 6,450-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course.

Mayfield added a 71 to first-round 67 and White fired a 68 after an opening 70.

AAU Now Goes to Court in Effort to Bar Santee

NEW YORK (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union had its turn in court today in its running feud with star miler Wes Santee while other entries in tonight's Columbian Mile in the Knights of Columbus Games watched anxiously from the sidelines.

Attorneys for the AAU went before the Appellate Division of the New York State Supreme Court in an effort to bar Santee from the Madison Square Garden meet. They asked the court to set aside a temporary injunction blocking the enforcement of its lifetime suspension of Santee.

The injunction was granted Thursday, Santee's day in court. His attorney Charles P. Grimes obtained the writ from Justice James B. M. McNally.

That's how it stood when Jay-Ehret Mahoney, AAU attorney, brought his appeal to the Appellate Division at 10:30 a.m. (EST).

"I'll move for a cross-motion to make the suspension of the injunction even stronger," roared Grimes when he heard of the AAU's action. "I'll ask the Appellate Division to clarify the order by issuing an injunction requiring the AAU to inform every athlete that Santee is not under suspension and that they may run against him without injuring their amateur standing in any way."

* * *

The other entries — including Fred Dwyer of East Orange, N.J.; Ron Delany of Villanova; Jim Bailey of Oregon; George King of New York University, and Jim Doulin of Manhattan — merely were hoping something definite would be decided by posttime at (9:35 EST).

Field of 18 Ready to Run in $100,000 Added for 3-Year Olds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The long Eastern racing season gets underway at cool Lincoln Downs in Rhode Island today but the chief interest still will be out West where the $100,000-added Santa Anita Derby will be renewed and in the Deep South where 14 older horses match strides in the $50,000-added New Orleans Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

In Florida the racing scene shifts from Hialeah Park to Gulfstream Park with the $15,000-added Magic City Handicap the opening feature.

The mile and one-eighth of the Santa Anita Derby, which has sent its winners in three of the last four years on to win the Kentucky Derby, attracted a field of 18, all 3-year-olds. But none appears in the class of Hill Gail, Determine and Swaps, who also won the Kentucky Derby.

Chief Swimmers in Valley Meet

A full squad of varsity swimmers will represent Pontiac High School today in the main events of the annual Saginaw Valley meet, at Saginaw.

Tony Simson, diver, last night qualified for today's finals, in his specialty. Gordon Bray, PHS' 2nd diver, just missed. The two were Chiefs' only entries in last night's tests, which also included a relay.

Arthur Hill's powerful squad was the favorite.

House Judiciary Body to Begin Plans on Successor, Should Ike Become Sick

WASHINGTON (INS)—Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-NY) said today his House Judiciary Committee will launch hearings April 11 on the "urgent need" to determine who will run the nation should the President suffer prolonged illness.

Celler said that President Eisenhower's decision to seek a second term makes it imperative that such legislation be enacted.

He declared: "Something must be done here and now since we have a sick President determined to run for re-election."

Among those who will be asked to testify on the issue are former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Herbert Hoover and former vice presidents John N. Garner, Henry A. Wallace and Alben W. Barkley.

Celler stated: "The matter is of far greater urgency than ever before since the commander in chief of the armed services—who could not pass an army physical examination—is going to run for re-election as commander in chief of the armed forces."

BILLS PENDING

The Judiciary Committee has pending before it a variety of bills that would determine when a chief executive would be declared incapacitated and when he could again assume the duties of the presidency. The vice president would serve in the interim.

Celler said: "The President's statement that he is going to run despite a heart occlusion definitely points up the need to remove the apathy and complacency that has always surrounded the constitutional inability of the President."

Two presidents, James A. Garfield and Woodrow Wilson, have suffered long illnesses while in the White House with no one taking over the duties of the office.

Celler asked: "If — God forbid— the President should linger in illness for an undue period of time must we remain without benefit of presidential leadership? Shall the ship of state continue on without a rudder?"

* * *

The chairman also questioned: "During the President's inability to carry on his job, does the office or merely the duties devolve upon the vice president? Does the vice president become president or merely acting president?"

AN OPEN LETTER TO VETERANS

The citizens of Pontiac are faced with an important decision at the City Election, March 5. You will have an opportunity at that time of voting on a proposal aimed at creating four new municipal short-term parking lots, containing a total of 624 spaces for parking at 5c per hour. These lots will be self-supporting and will cause NO increase in taxes.

The creation of these parking lots is vital to the future of Pontiac and but another stepping stone toward the accomplishment of the future we all desire for our city and our loved ones.

We who were once concerned, and fought, for the future of our country must now land together to secure the future of our city. Your city was one segment of that country for which you fought.

It behooves us, as veterans, to lend our support to a proposal so vital to the future of our community. Let us use our American privilege by going to the polls March 5 and voting for the creation of these additional parking lots so urgently needed by our community.

Adlai Blasts Health of Ike

Kefauver Rakes GOP as President's Name Enters Primaries

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Adlai E. Stevenson bore down yesterday on the issue of President Eisenhower's health while Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) raked the Republican administration for what he called its "methods of propaganda, procrastination and postponement."

While the rival candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination followed separate campaign trails in Minnesota and New Hampshire, Eisenhower's name was entered formally in the California and Wisconsin primaries.

In South Carolina former Gov. James F. Byrnes indicated a new Southern states rights party may be formed if the Democrats and Republicans pledged "drastic action against the Southern states" in efforts to court minority voting groups. Byrnes said he wouldn't be a delegate to the Democratic National Convention at Chicago in August.

Stevenson told a Minneapolis audience he understands the condition under which Eisenhower agreed to a second term "is that the special arrangements that were made to accommodate him during his illness and convalescence must be made permanent."

Stevenson, who lost to Eisenhower in 1952, said that to delegate the functions and authority of the presidency "on a scale we have not known in our time presents an issue that is not the personal one of the President's health, but the public matter of how the office of president can and should be conducted."

Kefauver lashed out at the Eisenhower administration for what he termed its failure to meet the nation's needs at home and abroad.

"With its methods of propaganda, procrastination and postponement," he said at Hanover, N.H., "It has waited until its final year in office, and under the pressure of the coming election, before pretending to fulfill its campaign promises."

Approach of Spring Boosts Retail Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—Increased consumer purchases of spring apparel and new and used cars gave retail trade a lift this week, it was reported yesterday by Dun and Bradstreet.

Women stepped up their buying of spring coats, suits, hats, gloves and handbags; men spent freely on lightweight suits. There was a marked decline, however, in sales of men's and women's winter clothing.

Furniture stores reported continued good demand for upholstered chairs and occasional tables; appliance dealers noted increased purchases of TV sets, refrigerators and lamps.

Total dollar volume of retail trade around the country for the week ended Wednesday, Feb. 29, was estimated by Dun & Bradstreet at 2 to 6 per cent higher than a year ago.

Cites Surge of Interest in Engineering Features

The featuring of engineering developments in over 91.5 per cent of auto industry advertising is indicative of a reawakening of customer interest in engineering features, says Herbert L. Misch, chief engineer of the Packard-Clipper division, Studebaker-Parkard Corporation.

"As reliability of cars was established in the early days of the industry, the public turned to styling and comfort as primary criteria in their selection of cars," says Misch. "But today people once again recognize engineering advantages above and beyond product reliability."

Business Notes

DETROIT (AP)—Election of George E. Olmstead, Consumers Power Co. executive, as secretary of the Power Reactor Development Co. was announced yesterday by Walker L. Cisler, president of PRDC and the Detroit Edison Co., one of its member firms. The development company is a non-profit organization of 25 firms which plans to build a developmental fast neutron breeder reactor in Michigan, probably near Monroe.

Two area pump dealers, Frank Franzel of Pontiac and Burt S. Fangel of Drayton Plains, were among 35 who recently attended a training session conducted by the Deming Co. of Salem, Ohio. The school was devoted to instruction on practical hydraulics. The firm manufactures commercial and industrial pumps.

Fred Mason, staff metallurgical engineer for the Chrysler Corp., will address members of the Saginaw Valley Chapter of the Society of Die Casting Engineers at the organization's March meeting Tuesday.

Mason's address will be entitled "Light Metals Automotive Applications." The meeting will take place at the Devon Gables Inn.

Field sales executives of Hudson Motors will convene in Detroit Monday to hear company officials outline plans for spring marketing activity, according to Vice President N. K. VanDerzee. The conferees will include division mangers, zone managers and zone merchandising managers.

4. F. W. Dodge Corporation, Detroit, Flint and Grand Rapids, Michigan, and Chicago, Illinois.

5. Tri-City Builders and Traders Exchange, 107 Hayden Street, Saginaw, Michigan.

A certified check or bidder's bond payable to Henry Longfield, Treasurer, Board of Education, for the sum of not less than five per cent (5%) of the amount of the proposal will be required with each proposal conditioned to secure the Board of Education from loss or damage by reason of the withdrawal of the bid or the failure of the bidder to enter into a contract of performance, if the bid be accepted by the Board.

The Board of Education reserves the right to accept or reject any or all proposals and to waive informalities in proposals.

Separate bids will be taken on the following:

1. General Construction—Project A.
2. Plumbing, Heating and Ventilating—Project A.
3. Electrical Work—Project A.

or the Contractor may, if he chooses, submit a combined Proposal Form—Project A, consisting of the three divisions of work mentioned above.

1. General Construction—Project B.
2. Plumbing, Heating and Ventilating—Project B.
3. Electrical Work—Project B.

or the Contractor may, if he chooses, submit a combined Proposal Form—Project B consisting of the three divisions of work mentioned above.

No bids on Proposal Forms—Project A may be withdrawn for at least 30 days.

No bids on Proposal Forms—Project B may be withdrawn for a least 90 days.

There shall be no combined overall bid, however, for the entire project. Combined proposals will be accepted only on Project A and Project B separately.

The Board of Education desires to award contracts on Project A and Project B to the same Contractor. Such awarding, however, shall be at the complete descretion of the Board of Education. It shall not be assumed or interpreted that any part or statement of the Contract Documents binds the Board of Education to award such construction contracts to the same Contractor.

Card of Thanks 1

MRS. PETE MANNI AND MOTHER of deceased son, Mrs. Joseph Manni wish to express their thanks to friends, neighbors and fellow employes for their kind expressions of sympathy in the recent death of their husband and son, Pete Manni.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR beloved Mother and Grandmother Mrs. Helen Turnbull, who was taken from us 1 year ago March 4, 1955.
You bade us not a last farewell,
You said goodbv to none.
Your loving heart had ceased to beat,
Before we knew that you were gone.
God saw that you were suffering,
And the hills were hard to climb.
And so, He closed your weary eyes
And whispered - Peace Be Thine.
Sadly missed by: Sons, Daughters and Grandchildren

IN LOVING MEMORY OF NORman Ferguson who passed away March 4, 1952.
Dear one, you're not forgotten,
Nor shall you ever be,
As long as life and memory last,
I shall remember Thee.
Sadly missed by wife, May. Son, Bill and Family.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY dear husband Howard Costello, who passed away March 3, 1955.
From this world of pain and sorrow,
To the land of peace and rest.
God has taken you dear husband
Where you have found eternal rest.
Sadly missed by his wife Grace and son and family.

IN LOVING MEMORY OR OUR son, Billie F. Webster, who left us 8 years ago March 3, 1948.
No one knows the silent heartaches,
Only those who lost can tell.
The grief we bear in silence,
For one we loved so well.
Sadly missed by Mother and Dad, Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Webster.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MRS. J. L. Elliott, who died March 4, 1918.
Memory keeps her always near.
Loving husband and daughters.

MEMORIES LOCKED AWAY, ARE gently opened today fro Frank Crittenden, who passed away seven years ago March 4, 1949. Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Green and Grandchildren

Catholic Paper Raps Solons in Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The New Orleans archdiocesan newspaper accuses three Roman Catholic legislators of "usurping the functions of theologians, canonists, administrators, anr teachers of the church."

The lawmakers have proposed placing Louisiana private schools under state laws that ban the mixing of white and Negro children in public schools.

In a recent statement, they said this action does not bring them under church canon.

The newspaper, Catholic Action of the South, had warned that their proposal, if put into effect, might subject them to automatic excommunication.

Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel has indicated he would desegregate the New Orleans parochial schools, perhaps after September 1956.

Actor Bogart Resting After Chest Surgery

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Humphrey Bogart is resting in Good Samaritan Hospital following major chest surgery.

The operation removed a small swelling in Bogart's esophagus. His physician, Dr. Maynard Brandsma, said the swelling was due to inflammation, and was not cancerous.

Jack Webb Gets Praise for Snubbing TV Awards

By JACK OBRIAN

NEW YORK (INS) — Jack Webb's denunciation of the TV "Emmy" awards is what we've said for years. We'd like to see an academy which would have the backing of networks, all TV unions and other responsible groups which now quietly refrain from giving this TV promotion the dignity of official acceptance, as the movie "Oscar" awards enjoy in their field.

The separation of Phyllis McGuire and her husband, "Rocky" Van Ells, means one husband each left behind Godfrey's ambitious singing sisters.

Christine whose private life has been quietest of the trio, was married before her present spouse to a gent named Ashcraft, father of her sons, Asa, about 10, and Harold in his teens.

The movie academy isn't taking ing chances, or maybe chooses to make its own mistakes on the March 21 Academy Awards telecast — Movie veterans Robert Emmett Dolan will produce, George Seaton will direct and Hal Pareira will be art director.

PHIL THE WINNER

Silvers' huge TV success speeds him off to Las Vegas April 9 for four weeks at one of those unbelievable salaries.

Hal March guests on "Quiz Kids" March 8.

Dinah Shore is Perry Como's March 10 guest.

SINATRA SOON

Frank Sinatra just incorporated "Bristol Productions" for TV activity, so he should be with us regularly before long.

Perry Como's St. Patrick's night star guests will be Pat O'Brien and Eddie O'Fisher.

Jean Harlow on ABC-TV's MGM Parade showed how pale and tepid are the so-called screen bombshells today.

Victor Moore with Steve Allen not only was his usual lovable self, but he had that wonderful cheerful crustiness that sets well only on elders of his stature and fine experience.

The Methodist Church's series, "The Way," is distributed with only one restriction — it can't be shown Sunday mornings when folks should be in church instead of watching TV, even such churchly films.

Carol Haney's brilliant dancing on the Ed Sullivan Show brought offers she can't take. She's due on Broadway in the Ziegfield Follies, which means TV gets this fine sprite on Sundays only for the show's duration.

Coed Blasts College Boys

MSU Senior Maintains Males Interested Only in 'Booze, Necking'

EAST LANSING (AP) — College boys are only interested in boozing and necking on dates, a Michigan State University coed charged today.

The irate coed, Letha Brown, East Lansing senior, put in the latest—if not the last—word in a running feud between the sexes being conducted in the "Letters to the Editor" column of the State News, MSU student newspaper.

A letter from Albert Lanor, MSU junior from Jamestown, N. Y., sparked it off. Lanor said he had been in the U. S. for only five years but found American women domineering and overbearing and always expecting adoration and idealization.

Male students, many citing overseas service experience, backed his charges and declared a preference for dating European women.

Miss Brown countered today with a blast at college dating habits.

"Our so-called man (18 and over)," she wrote, "wants to booze it up and, of course, the traditional necking or wrestling match climaxes the evening.

"If a girl decides not to go out with a boy, she is considered a social flop, not only by the boys but by other coeds.

DROPPED FROM LIST

"When a girl doesn't conform to the typical evening (boozing and necking) she is dropped from the available list. Girls are merely what boys force them to be."

In previous barbs from male letter-writers, one group of five veterans termed the typical American coed "a pseudo-sophisticate and pampered adolescent."

"Foreign women," they wrote, "appreciate a male for what he is and not for what he is worth. They have an honest desire to please their men."

Color TV
Back in 1922 a group of us hired the High School Auditorium, and packed it at 25c per person, to hear WWJ put on their first 2-hour radio program.
Now, Sunday, March 11th., at exactly 2:30 p. m., WWJ is putting on a color spectacolor, a 3-hour color TV play starring "King Richard the III."
Admission will be FREE at the new Civic Auditorium at the Pontiac Federal & Savings Bank, 761 W. Huron. There will be door prizes.
Tickets will be required, however, because of limited seats available.
(Teachers and pupils of History, English, or Dramatics might be interested in coming in as a group).
