Scene of Maine Train Derailment

MAINE WRECK—The Maine Central passenger train "Pine Tree Limited" was wrecked by a washout near Augusta, Me. last night. Two milk cars in front of the train fell into the Kennebec River (background). No one was seriously injured, although three passengers were still in Augusta General Hospital early today. Doctors said they were listed as good.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 60 persons were injured, none seriously, in a pair of train wrecks last night. Railroad officials said both accidents were caused by the weather.

At Sauk Center, Minn., all 12 cars of the Western Star, Seattle-Chicago passenger train, were derailed when 14-below-zero temperatures caused a rail to become brittle and break.

Gives Up Hope for Road Ballot

Jackson Solon Urges Colleagues to Consider 'Stop Gap' Proposal

LANSING (AP)—The leading highway advocate in the Michigan Senate said yesterday there is no hope of getting a road expansion program on the April 4 ballot for voter decision.

Sen. Haskell L. Nichols (R-Jackson), chairman of the Senate Highway committee, told the Senate that he had given up hope of placing on the ballot either Gov. Williams' 500 million dollar program or various Republican plans for a referendum on a gasoline tax increase.

Nichols urged lawmakers to study carefully during the Legislature's weekend recess a new plan he submitted which would raise gasoline taxes half a cent a gallon and auto license fees about 10 per cent. This would not require a vote of the people.

Nichols called his plan a "stop gap" until federal aid plans and a current survey of highway needs are completed.

Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville) said, "there is not going to be any bond issue so there is no need to be so hasty about getting something ready for the ballot. The Legislature can take care of this in due time."

And in the House, the fate of the Feltz bill, which requires a referendum, dropped even lower.

This measure would raise gasoline taxes two cents a gallon and allow local governments to use part of the money for their own bond issues.

Rats Take Over Tachen Islands as Pullout Ends

70-Boat Armada Along China Coast Threatens New Formosa Crisis

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Red China massed a fleet of armed motorized junks off the Nationalist outpost island of Matsu today, the Defense Ministry said, in an ominous new threat right on the heels of Chiang Kai-shek's peaceful evacuation of the Tachens with U.S. help.

The appearance of more than 70 armed junks along the China coast near Foochow posed a possible new crisis in the tense Formosa strait.

And on the Tachens, the rats took over today. The twin islands 200 miles north of Formosa are all theirs until the Communists come.

Rats—thousands of them, and some as long as your forearm scurried through the deserted villages as the last evacuation ship pulled away from the mudflats.

More than 25,000 Chinese Nationalist troops and civilians were removed in six days of evacuation under the protective guns, ships and planes of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Except for the rats, the islands lie deserted—low, brown and scrubby. The scene of teeming activity a week ago and a frenzy of loading operation for six days now appeared like a medieval area (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

More Homes Predicted Here

City Engineer Reports Total Will Surpass 800 Built in 1954

An accelerated home-building pace in Pontiac is seen for 1955 by City Engineer Lewis M. Wrenn. Indications are total home construction this year will surpass the 800 mark reached in 1954, Wrenn declares in his annual report, issued today.

But, he warns, "requests for sewers, water mains for undeveloped areas on the north and east sides of the city must be considered soon if these areas are to be developed in the near future."

He points out that sewer expansion in those sections will necessitate construction of a new sewage disposal plant.

In its 1954 public improvement program, the City Engineering Dept. spent approximately $2,421,799, Wrenn reports.

Heading the list of major projects completed during the year are the city's first municipal parking lot, a new $67,700 branch library and an addition to the sewage treatment plant.

Soviet Economy Still Unchanged, U. S. Experts Say

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Department fiscal experts reported a belief today the Russians have made virtually no changes in their economy despite all their talk of a shift back to heavy industry.

This finding is based on current analysis of the new Soviet budget for the 1955 calendar year. The budget was presented last week to the same Soviet parliamentary session which saw Georgi Malenkov succeed by Nikolai Bulganin as premier.

Despite the Soviet announcement of a new emphasis on heavy industry, which is the basis for a heavy war machine, American experts consider the Kremlin has never abandoned its goals in this field under the five-year plan expiring next December. What has happened, they say, is that during Malenkov's regime some emphasis was placed also on consumer goods.

The Russian economists apparently found the double load too heavy to bear. At any rate, consumer goods goals were not met and apparently will be lowered this year.

U. S. Takes Over Job of Viet Nam Training

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—The United States today formally took over the reorganization and training of the Vietnamese national army.

Premier Ngo Dinh Diem announced the program, agreed upon by Viet Nam, France and the United States, will be directed by Lt. Gen. John W. O'Daniel.

The young national army is to be slashed from its present strength of 217,000 to about 140,000. During 1955 an unspecified reserve force authorized by the government is to be established.

The United States will foot the bill for the training and reorganization program.

Lincoln Portrait Displayed

BEARDLESS ABE—A newly-restored portrait of Abraham Lincoln, by George P. A. Healy in 1860, shows the president as clean-shaven. It is said to be the last one painted of Lincoln before he grew a beard. Viewing the portrait, recently placed in the Corcoran Art Gallery in Washington, are Hermann W. Williams Jr., gallery director, and Henri Dorra, assistant. Washington observances of Lincoln's birthday today include the placing of a wreath in the Lincoln Memorial by Maj. Gen. John H. Stokes, commander of the Washington Military District, and a cantata by Carl Sandburg at the memorial later in the day.

Russians Calling for World Talks Over Formosa

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio announced today Russia had called for a conference in either Shanghai or New Delhi on the question of Formosa.

The broadcast, recorded here, said the Russian proposal called for the participation of these countries: China (presumably Communist China), the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain, France and nations of Southeast Asia.

Britain is believed to have already rejected the idea of a Formosa conference without the participation of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalists.

"The rabies control program inaugurated two years ago by the Board of Supervisors has paid big dividends," Dr. Monroe stated. "In 1952 there were 74 positive cases of rabies reported in Oakland County, while in 1954 we had only 17."

The last case was reported in July—over six months ago.

In areas not under the control program—municipalities which conduct their own dog licensing and control program—there were 31 cases of rabies last year.

"The success of the rabies control program can be attributed directly to better control of stray and unwanted dogs," Dr. Monroe asserted, "along with (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

21 Die in Blaze at Chicago Hotel

Sift Debris of Crowded Skid Row Building for More Victims; 14 Hurt

CHICAGO (AP)—A raging fire swept through a crowded Skid Row hotel early today, killing 21 men and injuring 12 tenants and 2 firemen.

Hours after the extra-alarm fire was extinguished, firemen still searched the debris of the wrecked building for other bodies. They had fought the blaze in subzero weather for nearly four hours.

Only six of the dead were identified immediately. Some of the dead were victims of smoke inhalation and exposure. Others were burned almost beyond recognition.

Madison St. fled into sub-zero weather.

Firemen helped scores down ladders and fire escapes from the upper floors. The 365-room hotel occupied the top four floors and an employee said 245 rooms were occupied.

Eight men were hospitalized while several others were treated for injuries in nearby mission houses in the skid row district, about a mile from the Loop.

The extra alarm fire was fought in temperatures of one below zero and with winds of nearly 20 miles an hour. Firemen fought the blaze nearly four hours before it was brought under control.

Anthony Dykes, 45, a janitor at the hotel, told police the first alarm of the fire came from an unidentified man on the second floor. The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Coroner Walter McCarron said he would make a "thorough" investigation of conditions at the hotel. He said he was "appalled" by the fact that 245 persons were permitted to live in the four stories of the hotel.

Mercury Drops to Two Below in Pontiac Today

Temperature Low From Mountains to Atlantic; 25 Reported Dead

The eastern two thirds of the nation fell victim to an attack of numbing cold and zero temperatures today, leaving Pontiac with the coldest weather of the season, a stinging two below zero.

The high today was expected to range between 12 and 16 with a low of near zero tonight.

The weekend forecast for the area calls for slightly warmer temperatures tomorrow with a high of 14 to 18 and a drop to 6 to 10 tomorrow night.

The two below zero reading was the lowest temperature recorded here since Feb. 12 last year when the mercury hit zero. But it was a far cry from the 14 below recorded for this date in 1875.

The Oakland County Road Commission reported this morning that main trunklines were slippery in spots and county roads were mostly slippery.

Officials said high winds had caused drifting in some sections and crews are still plowing and sanding some roads.

The Pontiac Automobile Club reported that they had received nearly 50 calls this morning from motorists who were stalled or needed other service because of the weather.

Precipitation in the area since January 1 is .96 of an inch lower than normal and the temperature since the same date is one degree above normal.

Yesterday's low in downtown Pontiac was 9 degrees and the high was 13. The two below temperature was recorded at 8 a.m. today but the mercury had climbed to 16 by 2 p.m.

The arctic air sent temperatures tumbling from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast.

Much of the South got the full sting of the icy blasts.

Fires caused deaths of 21 men in a Chicago hotel; three aged persons in a nurses' home in Brownwood, Tex., and a father and three children in their cottage home in Kennebunk, Maine.

The cold in the south extended from Virginia, which reported six inches of snow in the southwest area, southward through the Carolinas and Georgia and along the Gulf states to Louisiana. Traces of snow were reported in Georgia and Tennessee.

Pflimlin Starts Cabinet Roster

Bid for Job of French Premier Bolstered by Backroom Conferences

PARIS (UP)—Pierre Pflimlin began forming a cabinet today, his chances of winning National Assembly approval Monday or Tuesday greatly enhanced by a series of backroom conferences with political leaders.

Pflimlin called on President Rene Coty at the Elysee palace shortly after midnight and informed him officially he would try to solve France's crisis by presenting a full cabinet list to the divided Assembly early next week.

He received his greatest boost last night when the radical Socialist party of Pierre Mendes-France, who was ousted a week ago as premier, voted by a narrow margin to support him. He had conferred with Mendes-France during the day.

The Socialists, as expected, said they would not join his government but they did not threaten to vote against him. They also left the door open to future support if he follows Mendes-France's policies in North Africa.

He had the support of his own party, the Catholic Popular Republicans, and probably also the support of Antoine Pinay's Independents although it was the Popular Republicans who torpedoed Pinay's efforts to form a government earlier this week.

Joe Haas Visits Pearl Harbor

Would Like to Meet Kin of Boys Who Died There on His Return

By JOE HAAS

HONOLULU — A day's cruise through Pearl Harbor on a leisurely moving yacht is a positive must for every American citizen visiting here. Nothing in a person's life could produce such mixed emotions. You are both deeply saddened and immensely enthralled.

Without doubt it now is the world's top naval and armed aviation center. No harbor could have more natural advantages. None could have more done for it by man.

It is practically land locked, and large enough to hold our entire navy. It held much of it on that Sunday morning in 1941 when it was left a terrible shambles, and 3,047 of our young men made the supreme sacrifice.

Since then it has been developed in a manner that has cost many billions. There's nothing in the world that now can match it.

Nobody but American citizens are allowed to come within hailing or sight seeing distance of it, and they must individually lay their souls on the dotted line. The catechism through which they are put shows that here is one spot where there can be no more leaks in our national defense.

After you have convinced the officers in charge that you are all that you claim to be, you then are allowed access only to its most remote activities.

Pearl Harbor's present rating in our armed forces is shown by the biggest headlines that today's Honolulu Star-Bulletin could get on its front page: "If there's a war, it will be run from here."

In spite of all this activity, one's thoughts go back to the

Make Statements About $1,100 Unarmed Theft in Local Tavern

Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor William E. Lang yesterday ordered a Detroit man and two women held, pending further investigation of robbery unarmed.

The trio, Arville Anderson, 24, of 1425 Howard St., Eva Springsteen, 39, of 21 1/2 N. Saginaw St., and Mabel Sheek, 46, of 122 Lafayette St., made statements yesterday before Lang.

Harry Sturgis, 33, of 716 Fourth St., identified Anderson in a show-up early yesterday as the man who robbed him of $1,100 in a South Saginaw street tavern.

Pontiac Police arrested Anderson in Miss Springsteen's hotel room where the officers also found $373 hidden under the mattress.

According to statements, said Lang, Anderson admitted strong-arming Sturgis who had quit his job with the city waterworks earlier this week. He said he was going to bank the money which had accumulated in his retirement fund for the past eight years.

Sturgis said he had never seen the two women and Anderson before. The trio was identified by witnesses in the tavern after they left. Sturgis was treated for severe face bruises after he regained consciousness in the tavern's lavatory, said police.

where the entire population had packed and fled from a plague.

The last landing ship carrying a U. S. naval beach party and a few Nationalist soldiers pulled off a mud flat with high tide today, AP correspondent Jim Becker reported from the U. S. amphibious flagship Estes. It had been stuck almost nine hours.

During that tense time, the mighty U. S. 7th Fleet armada of 75 warships and circling planes remained in the area, guarding against any premature attempt by Red Chinese to take over the empty islands.

The Communists, eight miles away on Yiliangshan Island and 14 miles away on the mainland, made no attempt to interfere with the final stage of the evacuation.

The seas calmed and the wind died down as the fleet began to pull out. The weather was brisk.

The windup completed six days of frenzied activity during which 40,000 or more civilians, guerrillas and Nationalist troops were removed from the Tachens, the Yu Shans, 35 miles northeast, and Pishan, 32 miles southwest.

In Washington, the State Department announced that U. S. Navy and Air Forces which protected the evacuation of the Tachens "will now resume their normal operations but will be alert to any concentration or employment of Chinese Communist forces obviously undertaking to facilitate attack upon Formosa and will be prepared to take appropriate military action if required."

MSC Marking 100th Birthday

900 Dignitaries Gather on Campus to Launch Centennial Celebration

EAST LANSING (UP) — Some 900 educators, businessmen, and government officials from all parts of the world gathered here today for the start of a year-long celebration of Michigan State College's 100th birthday.

They marveled at the 570-acre campus which grew from a tiny clearing hacked out of the Michigan woods in 1855.

Speakers praised the concept on which the forerunner of the nation's land-grant colleges was founded: College education for the "common man."

The principal founders' day speaker was Dr. James B. Conant, United States high commissioner for Germany, who delivered the convocation address at 7 p.m.

Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State College, will speak at the Founders' Day awards dinner at 7 p.m.

Other speakers are Gov. G. Mennen Williams; Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan; and Dr. William W. Whitehouse, president of Albion College.

Man Being Held in Hit-Run Case

Oakland County sheriff's deputies and Oxford Police today are holding Gerald K. Davis, 27, of 1430 South Blvd., for investigation of leaving the scene of an accident this morning.

Two motorists, Maxine Brewer of 36 Pearl St., and Douglas Scott of 80 S. Washington St., Oxford, both traveling north on M-24 today, reported their autos had been sideswiped by a third motorist in Davis' car.

Scott told authorities he chased the car to the rear of a tavern where the driver disappeared. Following the incident, police said, Davis reported his car stolen.

Deputies, who said Davis had been drinking, are holding him for further questioning today.

Sheriff's Deputies Probe Stray Bullet Report

Oakland County sheriff's detectives today are investigating a report by Grandt Wood of 2541 W. Clarkston Rd., Orion Township who said a stray bullet shattered his bathroom window.

Wood told police that boys had been in the vicinity with guns in the past week. Police quoted Woods as saying this is the second time someone mysteriously shot at his home. Recently a bullet was fired through the front door when no one was at home.

Pontiac Deaths

Michael A. Bauer

Michael A. Bauer, 80, of 51 Parkhurst St. died at his home this morning.

He was born in Germany June 26, 1874 and married here in 1908 to Mary C. Kallenbach. Mr. Bauer has lived in Pontiac 60 years and was a merchant tailor on N. Saginaw St. before he retired. He was a member of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church, the Holy Name Society and a charter member of Knights of Columbus.

Surviving besides his wife is a son, Dr. Edward G. Bauer of Pontiac.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by the Brace-Smith Funeral Home.

Mrs. Orman R. Beach

Mrs. Orman R. (Myrtle) Beach, 46, of 90 Oakland Ave. died Friday afternoon at Pontiac General Hospital. She had been ill three months.

Born in Birmingham Feb. 6, 1908, she was the daughter of William Cullen and was married here in 1949.

Mrs. Beach has lived in Pontiac eight years, coming here from Keego Harbor.

Surviving are her husband and one son, Billy Barrin of Keego Harbor. A sister, Mrs. Leona Taylor of Square Lake and two brothers, William and Richard Cullen of Keego Harbor, also survive.

Service will be held Monday at 1:30 p.m. from the Hunteon Oak Funeral Home with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Norman G. Cochran

The rosary will be recited Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Pursey Home for Mrs. Norman G. (Marie D. Shagena) Cochran, 27, of 576 Meadow St.

The funeral will be held from the Sacred Heart Catholic Church of Auburn Heights Monday at 9:30 a.m. Burial will follow in Eastlawn Cemetery, Lake Orion.

Mrs. Cochran died Thursday at the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Flint, after an illness of four days.

Forgery Suspect Arrested After Postmaster's Tip

Because Leonard Postmaster Hiram Terry is a conscientious man, a suspected forger and his 15-year-old bride of 10 days are in custody today on investigation of altering postal money orders.

Winnell Harris, 30, who gave his address as 715 Vester, Ferndale, and his wife Anna Pearl, were arrested last night by State Police north of Romeo. They said he admitted forging postal money orders in 15 states in the past three months.

He was arrested on complaint of Terry who said Harris attempted to purchase a 75-cent money order yesterday under the name of Robert Harris. He fled, leaving a $30 bill in Terry's hand, after Terry asked for identification.

Terry said he requested the identification because Postal inspectors, on Harris' trail for several weeks had asked postmasters to check all persons purchasing money orders for small sums.

Harris told police he would buy a money order for 75 cents or a dollar and using ink eradicator to change the amount to $75 or $100.

Harris was being held for postal authorities at Oakland County Jail and his wife, who police said probably will face a forgery charge with her husband, is at Oakland County Juvenile Home. They were married 10 days ago in Tennessee.

Links M'Carthy to Political Lies

Matusow Says Senator Encouraged Him in 1952 to Tell Falsehoods

NEW YORK (AP)—Harvey Matusow, self-described ex-Communist and former FBI informer, says he was encouraged by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) to make false statements during the 1952 political campaign.

Matusow, testifying yesterday at a Federal Court hearing on a retrial motion by 12 convicted Communists, said he made "false statements" during the campaign of three years ago, and added:

"My manner of presentation and my theme was encouraged by Sen. Joseph McCarthy and, in fact, was at the behest of McCarthy and made during the heat of a political campaign."

McCarthy, told in Milwaukee last night of Matusow's testimony, said: "I would have no comment on Matusow at all."

The 12 Communists' appeal for a new trial is based on an affidavit by Matusow that he gave false evidence against them—and with the knowledge of Roy M. Cohn, then an assistant U. S. attorney at their trial on conspiracy charges.

Cohn, also in Milwaukee last night where he spoke before a Republican women's group, commented:

"I won't dignify his pack of lies. He (Matusow) has adequately described himself."

Cohn said he thought Matusow "was telling the truth" at the time of the Communists' trial and that "I still think he told the truth."

Cohn, former chief counsel of McCarthy's Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee, was asked if he expected to be called as a witness in the Communists' hearing, and he replied:

"I certainly hope to."

Cohn added that Matusow's testimony at the trial of the 12 was thoroughly corroborated by other witnesses.

Matusow also testified yesterday he had sent affidavits to the New York Times and to Time Magazine saying he had lied in accusing them of having Communists on their staffs.

His original statements, Matusow said, were based on "conjecture and surmise."

Oscar Nominees Fret at Telecast

Program Tonight Eyed Warily by Stars; Most Will Show Anyway

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie colony, worried about that egg-on-the-face look, will turn out reluctantly tonight for the first telecast in history of the Academy Award nominations.

Jan Sterling "The High and the Mighty" summed up the feelings of all potential Oscar nominees when she asked her dressmaker to whip her up something that would look flashy enough for a winner and subdued enough for a loser.

The telecast will begin at 9 p.m. EST, and will pick up from four spots—NBC Burbank, Ciro's, Romanoff's and the Copconat Grove.

Potential nominees will be scattered throughout all four spots. Judy Garland "A Star Is Born" will be with emcee Jack Webb at Burbank as will Jane Wyman "Magnificent Obsession."

Humphrey Bogart "The Caine Mutiny" will be at Romanoff's. He was supposed to be at the downtown Coconut Grove but he declined.

"That trip's too far to drive back if they don't call your name," explained Bogie. "Besides I'm a stockholder at Romanoff's."

Bing Crosby, a favorite for "The Country Girl," will watch it on TV at home. He's just a few days out of the hospital, where he had a kidney stone removed.

Katy Jurado "The Broken Lance," a favorite among supporting actresses will be at Romanoff's.

Overall there has been some resentment among movie folk about the telecasting of the nominations. Many feel that it takes away too much from the main event coming up March 30.

Others figure 5:30 in the afternoon Pacific time, is too early to go to a nightclub. One top star commented:

"It's bad enough showing up when the odds against you are only five to one. On this one they can be 50 to one."

Marion Brando, "On The Waterfront," is sure to be nominated but so far hasn't indicated whether he will show. The new Brando, who wears smartly tailored suits instead of T-shirts, may surprise everybody and show up.

Grace Kelly "The Country Girl," Audrey Hepburn "Sabrina," Bill Holden "The Country Girl" and Fredric March "Executive Suite" are all out of town.

vaccination of dogs prior to licensing.

"Although a six-month period has elapsed without a single case of rabies, we are strongly urging dog owners to have their pets vaccinated against this disease, preferably by a veterinarian or their own choosing," Dr. Monroe said.

"If such arrangements cannot be made, then they should take advantage of the clinics being set up to have their dogs immunized," he added.

Non-profit clinics where dog owners may have their pets vaccinated for $1.50 each will be set up Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. at the following locations:

Troy Township Fire Hall, 2780 Rochester Rd.

Farmington Township Fire Hall, 21420 Wheeler St.

Lake Orion Fire Hall, 37 E. Flint St.

New Hudson School bus station, Cherry street.

Oakland County Animal Shelter, 1200 E. Walton Blvd.

White Lake Township Fire Hall, M50 at Porter road.

Dates for additional clinics will be announced next week.

"It should be remembered, Dr. Monroe added, "that a bite by a rabid dog means the person bitten must take the Pasteur treatment, which entails a lot of effort, apprehension and expense. With everyone's cooperation, we can stamp out rabies and make this threat to our community a thing of the past."

Infant Is Near Death in Detroit Hospital With Fractured Skull, Ribs

DETROIT (AP)—A young mother who police said beat her 3-month-old baby nearly to death to stop it from crying was held today for investigation of felonious assault.

Police quoted Mrs. Beverly Anderson, 20, of Detroit, as saying she beat the boy in a fit of temper.

Physicians at Providence Hospital, where the baby lies near death, said the child, Johnnie, had suffered a fractured skull and four fractured ribs. X-rays showed he previously suffered two fractures of the arm and a broken leg.

Police said the latest attack took place Wednesday. They quoted Mrs. Anderson as saying:

"He was crying. I got mad and hit his head against the arm of a chair. He wouldn't stop crying so I squeezed him. That was when the ribs were broken."

Mrs. Anderson said she took the baby to a doctor Thursday when he had a convulsion. The doctor called police and sent the baby to the hospital.

Police also quoted Mrs. Anderson as saying she broke the baby's left leg when he was five weeks old and broke his arm in two places when he was three weeks old.

Mrs. Anderson told police yesterday:

"I don't know why I did it. I love Johnnie. I guess it's just that I don't know what I'm doing when I lose my temper."

The child's father, John Sr., was arrested with his wife but was later released.

Giant Freeze Grips East Half of Nation areas. It was near zero in parts of Virginia and Tennessee. The Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi also got the coldest weather of the winter.

It was freezing all the way to the Gulf Coast. Readings were in the 20s in many inland areas only a short distance from the coast.

At least 25 deaths were attributed to the cold and snow. The snow storms, which hit much of the Midwest Thursday, swept into the Eastern third of the nation yesterday. Falls measured more than a foot in upstate New York.

Deaths attributed to overexertion while shoveling snow and to accidents on icy or snow-covered highways included seven in Indiana; five in Michigan; four in Kentucky; three each in New York and Illinois; two in New Jersey and one in Ohio.

The cold front, which dipped into Florida, brought sharp drops in temperatures since yesterday afternoon. Miami, which reported a high of 80 degrees yesterday, shivered early today in readings in the low 40s. The cold weather threatened vegetable and citrus crops. There was a similar threat to winter vegetable crops in the Rio Grande Valley.

A big storm was centered in northeastern Maine and heavy rain and snow pelted much of the Northeast. The cold front headed for all of New England, which was hit by rain and snow yesterday. Snow falls measured up to 10 inches in the western sections.

The coldest weather in the country was in the Northern Plains where temperatures again today were more than 20 degrees below zero. One of the coldest spots was Bismarck, N. D., with -24.

Although Michigan couldn't match the frigid temperatures reported in the upper plains states, the mercury plunged below zero in many parts of the state and flirted with the zero mark elsewhere.

Pellston reported Michigan's lowest overnight reading of 9 below. It was 6 below at Saginaw, 5 below at Sault Ste. Marie, 4 below at Gladwin and 3 below at Flint and Kalamazoo.

The Day in Birmingham

Physicist Lapp Outlines Atom-Age Developments

BIRMINGHAM—"The golden age of peace and progress is ahead if man can but control himself." With these words of Winston Churchill a young atom physicist made his closing remarks at the final lecture in Birmingham's Town Hall series yesterday.

The atom age was in the making as far back as 1895 when a machine with Superman-like qualities—the X-ray machine—was invented. Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, director of the Nuclear Science Service in Washington, told his audience.

Lapp said enormous strides in atomic fission have been made since then, but unfortunately these have been concentrated on destructive uses through necessity. He pointed out that the same achievements would otherwise have been noted by now in industrial usage of atomic energy.

The bomb dropped over Hiroshima was equal to 20,000 pounds of TNT—the bomb available today is equal to 20,000,000 pounds by comparison. He stated, Lapp said the United States now has an atom bomb that can devastate 10,000 square miles.

Atomic energy has a great potential in industry but it is a misconception to think it would be cheap if used to supply power, its biggest virtue is its lightness, he said.

Lapp explained how this can affect world trade—where costs have prevented, because of weight, the shipping of coal to certain countries, uranium can be "air mailed." He added that abundant uranium supplies are available to the United States from the Belgian Congo.

But he said looming into the future as the power of tomorrow is hydrogen power, in which field giant steps already have been taken.

A box lunch with Valentine motif will begin Monday's 1 p.m. meeting of the MOMS Unit 3, at the home of Mrs. M. G. Hillman, East Lincoln avenue.

Few Willing to Testify Against U. S. Supreme Court Nominee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Judiciary Committee aides said today they have received "only a trickle" of responses from persons who had asked to testify in opposition to the nomination of Judge John Marshall Harlan to the Supreme Court.

Harlan, now a U. S. circuit judge in New York, has been invited to sit in Feb. 23 when the committee listens in secret to protests against his confirmation.

There are indications, however, Harlan may pass up this invitation. Committee aides said more than 30 individuals originally asked to be heard on the nomination, but that few of these had responded to invitations to appear.

Some committee members have indicated they want to question Harlan about his position on whether a treaty can override state laws and constitutions—a question raised in a proposed constitutional amendment revived this year by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) after it was shelved by the Senate in the last Congress.

Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore.) told the Senate yesterday he had received 40 or 50 identical letters from Portland, Ore., asking him to oppose Harlan's nomination "for the sake of the Constitution of the United States of America and this country's free men."

Neuberger told his colleagues he thinks "there is an undercover effort underway to discredit Judge Harlan without any reason being given for it." He said such tactics would influence him to support rather than oppose, the nomination.

The senator said all of the letters were under the letterhead of the Crawford and Doherty Foundry Co. of Portland and that "apparently some employees are being dragged into signing the letters."

Pontiac Motorists Warned to Clean License Plates

Pontiac Police today cautioned drivers that a state law requires motorists to keep license plates unobscured by mud and snow.

Lt. Joseph Koren, head of the traffic and accident bureau, said the law states that license plates must be visible at all times for identification purposes by police.

Although there are some extenuating circumstances during heavy snowfalls, said Koren, a motorist should clean off the plates after parking the auto. He added that the law also calls for a penalty citation.

NATO Office Workers Go All-Out for Defense

PARIS (AP)—If you're going in for defense, you might as well go all the way.

The Rev. Robert Gibson, minister to youth of the First Presbyterian Church, has returned from attending the annual meeting of the National Assn. of Directors of Christian Education in Cincinnati, Ohio.

A casual dress dance will be sponsored by the YMCA for teenagers from 8 p.m. to midnight tonight at the Community House.

Even the hot dogs will have a South American flavor at the costume party Village Players will have at 9 tonight at the playhouse.

Entertainment will be a series of Latin dances performed by local Arthur Murray dancers. Prizes will be awarded for the costumes, and dancing and refreshments will follow. February marks the players' 33rd anniversary.

Ticketed by police yesterday for not having her car under control was Mrs. Mary Amos, 37, of 852 Larchlea. Police said she skidded into an auto driven by Mrs. Elizabeth Lane, 52, of 3405

Ona Munson, 48,
Believed Suicide

Overdose of Sleeping Tablets Said Cause of Actress' Death

NEW YORK (U) — Actress Ona Munson, 48, former stage and screen star, was found dead yesterday in her apartment, apparently from an overdose of sleeping pills.

Miss Munson, who climbed to stardom via vaudeville, left a note reading: "This is the only way I know to be free again . . . Please don't follow me."

Police, quoting friends as saying she recently had been ill and despondent, listed her death as suicide pending an autopsy.

She was found dead in bed by her third husband, stage designer Eugene Berman. He had left her in the morning, seemingly asleep, and had returned to their West 86th St., home in the afternoon to take her shopping.

A native of Portland, Ore., Miss Munson started her career at the age of 14 with Gus Edwards' vaudeville troupe.

In 1924, she went on the legitimate stage with a touring company of "No Other Girl."

Two years later her name went up in lights on Broadway as the star of "No, No, Nanette."

From the theater it was a quick step to Hollywood in then-silent films with Joe E. Brown and Ben Lyon.

Years later, as Belle Watling in "Gone With the Wind," Miss Munson gained an Academy Award nomination.

She also broadcast on radio, and had been making occasional television appearances. Her last stage appearance was last year when she appeared in a revival of "First Lady" at the city center theater.

Police Seek Gunman
in $7,000 Bank Job

HOUSTON, Tex. (U) — Police continued the search today for a gunman who took $7,000 from the Heights State Bank here yesterday. The well-timed robbery was pulled less than five minutes after two policemen left the bank.

About 40 people in the bank were unaware of the robbery until the well-dressed clean-shaven man walked out with five bundles of $20 bills he got from teller Harold Schultz.

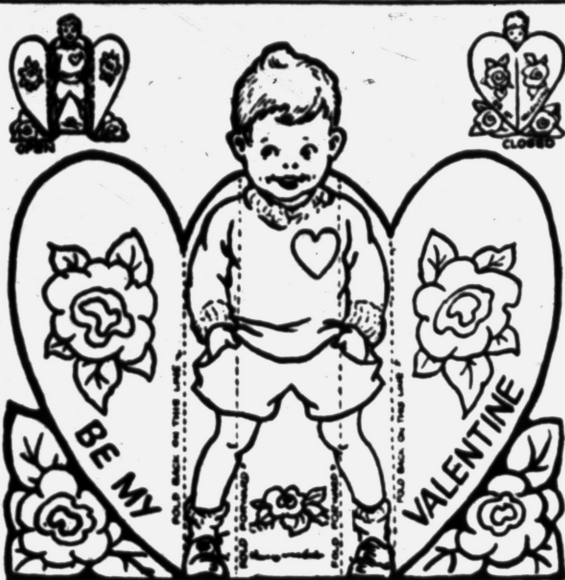

Schultz said the man displayed a .25 caliber automatic and demanded all of Schultz' 10 and 20s. Schultz put the money on the counter, he said, after hearing the pistol's safety released.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, is just the right time to send a special greeting to your mother, sister, or friends. Here is a fold-up, stand-up valentine for a boy to send.

1. Color the background of the three parts of the valentine a bright red. You can make the flowers blue, pink, yellow or leave them white. Put a red heart on the boy's sweater.

2. Paste the picture on stiff paper—red colored paper if possible. Cut it out carefully along the outside heavy lines. Fold the two sides of the heart back along the outer dotted lines, as shown in the small drawing on the left. Then fold forward along the two inner dotted lines.

When the heart is closed, the little boy will peek over the top as in the small drawing on the right. When the heart is open, you can stand the boy up. Either way, he wants to be your valentine.

Smoking, Heart Damage
Linked by Medical Group

CHICAGO (U) — There appears definite evidence, says the Journal of the American Medical Assn., that smoking can damage the heart muscle.

An editorial in the AMA Journal published yesterday said:

"There seems now to be definite evidence that smoking, even though it may not directly affect the coronary arteries, can have a damaging effect on the myocardium (muscular part of the heart wall)."

"No patient with coronary disease should incur the added risk to his heart imposed by smoking without first discussing thoroughly the problem with his physician."

In New York, the chairman of the Tobacco Industry Research Committee commented that his group is "convinced the vast majority of the American public agrees that all questions of tobacco in relation to human health need much more thorough and complete investigation than has been made up to now."

The chairman, Timothy V. Hartnett, said the committee, organized and financed by large tobacco companies, is continuing research into the tobacco-health relationship.

Two other articles in the Journal also discussed the effects of smoking on the heart.

One report, authored by three physicians, found that changes in blood pressure and the heart rate followed the smoking of cigarettes. The authors—Drs. Henry L. Russek and Virgil J. Dorset of Staten Island, N.Y., and Dr. Burton L. Zohman of Brooklyn—suggested that smoking is bad for coronary disease patients because of other effects, such as increases in heart rate and blood pressure.

They said their findings did not prove that smoking presents a "direct danger" to such patients through constriction of heart arteries.

Dr. Isidore E. Buff of Charleston, W.Va., wrote the other article about the effects of cigarette smoking. He said a series of tests showed abnormal changes in 10 per cent of the 400 normal persons following smoking.

Death Remembers
'Forgotten Man'

INDIANOLA, Iowa (U) — Ernest (Ole) Lindquist, 65, the one-time "forgotten man" of the Iowa State Penitentiary, died at his home yesterday after less than three years' freedom.

He had been ill with cancer since last December.

After serving 42 years of a life term for killing a policeman when he was 19, Ole was paroled through the determined efforts of a widow, the former Mrs. Addie Jackson. She corresponded and visited him in prison after learning he never received any letters.

Addie, 71, and Ole were married after he was paroled in 1952. They opened a shoe repair shop here, a trade he had learned at the penitentiary.

Prosperity Cuts
Bonn Emigrants
to U. S. in Half

BONN, Germany (U) — Prosperity at home and the prospect of early sovereignty are drastically reducing the heavy postwar migration of Germans to the United States.

U. S. High Commission officials say applications by West Germans for emigration visas to America are now 50 per cent less than a year ago.

West Germany's annual quota of 26,000 emigrants to America will be filled during the year ending June 30, 1955 but the big rush of Germans to find new homes there is over.

When times were hard a few years ago, tens of thousands of West Germans flocked to American consulates in the hope of emigrating. Now the bustling Germans are basking in prosperity. There are plenty of jobs. Many who have applied to emigrate pass up their chances when their applications are approved.

Police Officer Finds
Body Stiff on Arrival

SALT LAKE CITY (U) — Investigating a burglary, police officer Grant Seeley saw a body lying behind a shattered plate glass window.

He picked up a radio microphone in his patrol car and called for an ambulance. "Someone's either fallen through the glass here, or been shot," he said.

Meanwhile, his partner, officer J. L. Smith, climbed through the window to help the victim. He saw the body had neither head nor hands.

"Cancel the ambulance," Smith called. "It's a store dummy."

BRIDGETOWN, Barbadoes (U) — Princess Margaret prepared to leave the Barbadoes today rested and sunbathed from her stay on this Caribbean Isle.

The Princess went swimming the past two days and peered through goggles at the tropical underwater wonderland as a guest at the waterfront estate of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Tree.

The interlude gave the gay young princess a break from the strain of day and night official functions on her Caribbean tour, now nearing the end of its second week.

Margaret, radiant in a strapless gown of mauve satin, attended a formal reception at government house last night. Wearing a diamond tiara and diamond necklace she strolled about the house gardens pausing to chat with special guests.

A CRUEL HOAX
ON THE BLIND

Cellophane strips from cigarette wrappers have been saved by many people in the mistaken belief that they can be used to provide Leader Dogs for the blind.

THIS IS A VICIOUS NOTION—vicious because it raises false hopes!

No one seems to know where this idea originated, but it has no basis in fact. All the cellophane strips in the world, gathered in one place, would not be of the slightest assistance to a single blind person!

Immortality of Lincoln More Apparent Each Year

One of the clues to ABRAHAM LINCOLN's greatness is that each year many more come to understand his hold on men's minds and hearts.

It is almost 90 years since JOHN WILKES BOOTH mistakenly thought that his bullet fired in Ford's Theater had killed LINCOLN. True, the body of our Civil War President was mortally wounded. But the immortal part of LINCOLN is even more alive today than before BOOTH fired that pistol.

Thanks to a wise Providence, LINCOLN has escaped becoming a legend. More than any other of our great men he remains a warm, intimate and sympathetic personality.

Perhaps the secret of his enduring appeal is that he was both an idealistic statesman and a practical politician. Moreover, he had the priceless ability to recognize crises and meet them courageously.

On this 146th anniversary of his birth, there are two other attributes of the Great Emancipator's character worthy of remembrance—his humility in high office and his boundless love for his fellow men.

As everyone who has read them can feel, it is these qualities which have given such deathless luster to his speeches and writings, particularly his Gettysburg and Second Inaugural Addresses.

Perhaps the greatest inspiration we can get from observance of the LINCOLN anniversary is the knowledge that his influence will go on working for the benefit of all humanity.

Ike's Trade Policy Has Notable Support

It is fitting that the first bill proposed in the House may prove to be the session's most important.

Also fitting is the fact that this measure embodying the Administration's foreign trade policy is receiving distinguished support. Actually, the parade of witnesses testifying in favor of the measure before the House Ways and Means Committee was widely representative.

Besides witnesses from our greatest industries, business and banks, there were the Secretaries of Commerce, Defense, Treasury and Labor. Among the spokesmen for business were representatives of U. S. and International Chambers of Commerce, Committee for Economic Development and the dry goods and shipping interests.

Labor was represented by the CIO, Steelworkers Union and the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks. For farmers, spokesmen of the American Farm Bureau, National Grange and Farmers Union and Co-operative League testified.

Miscellaneous groups represented included General Federation of Women's Clubs, League of Women Voters and American Association of University Women. Also supporting the bill were witnesses for Americans for Democratic Action and the American Veterans Committee.

Perhaps more than any other, the statement of the Committee for Economic Development summarized the favorable testimony in these words:

"... The direction which our tariff policy takes will help to determine whether the free world moves ahead to widening markets and expanding production or whether it moves in the opposite direction, toward intensified nationalism and political division."

MPA Official Resigns

In GENE ALLEMAN's 17 years as secretary-manager of the Michigan Press Association, that organization has grown greatly in strength and influence.

Although MPA was organized in 1868, its stability became greater when ALLEMAN took over. One of his first achievements was to give the association financial standing. From then on its services to daily and weekly newspapers of Michigan increased both in volume and value.

Among other things he put out a monthly newspaper magazine and organized a clipping service.

Mr. ALLEMAN's resignation is a real loss to the association. But it is good to know that he will continue as consultant to MPA and as special representative of a national weekly newspaper organization.

The People's Business

State Waits on Ike GOP Solons Want to Know Federal Road, School Plans

By JACK L. GREEN

LANSING—If a gentleman named Dwight D. Eisenhower down in Washington, D. C., would get crackin', Michigan's Republican legislators would appreciate it mightily.

You see Eisenhower has let it be known he will have a program of federal aid for state highways and Gov. Williams of Michigan also has his own program for fixing up the roads.

And Eisenhower has announced the bare framework of a federal program to help build public schools, just as Williams has suggested it would be nice to do something for the schools, too.

But the trouble is that Williams is right here on the ground and being very specific about what he wants the legislators to do and is standing right there with a big club to whack them with if they won't do it.

But Eisenhower is 'way down there in Washington and is kind of laggard about expressing his ideas of how the boys can get the federal cash to fix up the roads with.

If Eisenhower would kind of shake a leg sort of, the Republicans in Michigan would know whether to say "Go climb a tree, Mr. Williams" or "you got some real bright ideas, Mr. Williams."

For instance, the Republicans and Williams are at odds over whether to spend additional highway revenues on main trunklines or on county secondary roads and city streets.

Now if Eisenhower would just come right out and say how much money he is going to kick into the states, and how much matching money the states are going to have to put up, the Republicans and Williams might be able to settle their differences quickly.

For if it appears that the federal melon is going to be big enough and cut up in the right way, there might be enough coming to Michigan for the secondary roads to make the dispute between Williams and the Republicans merely an exercise in semantics.

The Republicans sometimes wonder if they aren't apt to work out a nice little program and pass it and then have Eisenhower come along a couple of weeks later and make them look foolish.

Or what if Williams wins and plumps down all the money on the trunklines and then Eisenhower starts handing out nice big lumps of federal cash—just for the main trunklines.

Now in the case of the schools, we have a slightly different situation.

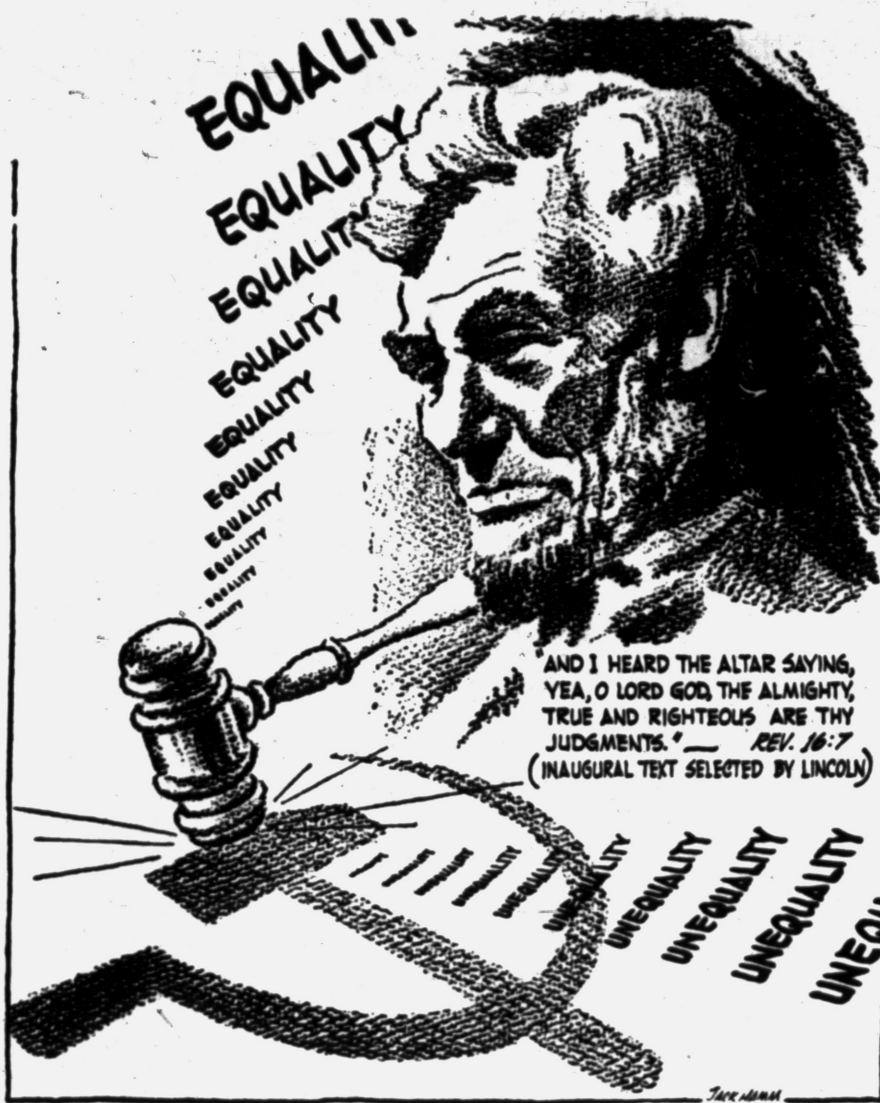

We have Dr. Clair L. Taylor, the state superintendent of public instruction, a Republican, who is running for reelection in April.

Taylor got a head start on this idea of a 200-million-dollar bond issue for school construction and the governor said he thought that was a pretty good approach, too.

So now Eisenhower has announced that he is going to shell out about seven billion dollars for school aid, but he hasn't said exactly how all this might work as far as Michigan is concerned.

But the Republicans would certainly be very appreciative if Eisenhower would send them some detailed blueprints so they would know exactly how to fit his ideas into theirs.

So if any one runs into Eisenhower in the next few days they might mention that out in Michigan the folks wish he would get crackin'.

Tuesday Musicale Duo-Pianists Praised for Fine Performance on Men's Night

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

We've always believed that who-ever created the word "Music" for that divine art, the poetry of the soul, must have thought of Mothers and Children, the sweetest harmony on earth.

After Tuesday night's wonderful performance at Pontiac High School, by two of Pontiac's young mothers as duo-pianists, we know it takes Marm and Chris to make the word Music unusual, superb and inspiring!

Puts Trust in Experts on Fluoridation Issue

I believe all the doctors and scientists who say fluoridation is safe surely know what they are talking about. Those men have spent years studying what is best for the human body and who are we, without the medical knowledge, to dispute their word? These men will drink the same water that we will and I'm sure if it was harmful, they wouldn't drink it.

It's a funny world when people will fight anything that will protect them. It takes us modern people to get things started, then the ones who fought against it are glad to partake.

I also have a small child with bad teeth and if it will help his second teeth to be nice and not decayed, I'm all for it.

Mrs. M. Davis

J. I. Kindel in opposing fluoridation says, "Wake up Americans! Protect your heritage, freedom and American way of life."

Brother Kindel, that's just what we want. The best of everything in America for Americans. So let's fluoridate the water and have the best.

Awakened American

Here are some excerpts taken from the magazine "Organic Gardening and Farming."

"The fluoridation issue is still making news. Here's an indication of what is happening: South Bend, Ind. Council and Mayor voted against fluoridation—declared it unconstitutional.

"Neopit, Wis.—Fluoridation machinery broke down—no good—never repaired. St. Martinsville, La.—used fluoridation short time—then discontinued.

"Des Moines, Ia.—Not legal in Iowa—water board refused fluoridation. New Orleans, La.—fluoridation against law.

"Fargo, N. D.—mottled teeth said to have appeared after only two years of fluoridation.

"San Diego, Calif.—referendum kicks out fluoridation.

"Washington, D. C.—water jugs kept filled with fluoridated water in Washington become so etched inside that they are cloudy looking." (Corrosive fluoride is used commercially to etch glass.)

The case against fluoridation is a strong one.

Toddler's Big Sister Wiser Than Mom in Preparing Boy for Grammar School

Jimmy's sister differs with his mother about sending him to Sunday school. Read this case record closely. Then vote accordingly. And if you are parents, see that your children are socialized by frequent mingling with other toddlers long before they are of grammar school age. This insures higher grades for them in public school.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
 Case N-348: Jimmy G., aged 5, starts to school next year.

"Dr. Crane, Jimmy has never had much chance to play with other children of his own age," his 15-year-old sister informed me.

"Since I read your column every day, I know psychologists urge that children learn to play with others of their own age."

"So I have tried to get Mother to send Jimmy to Sunday school. But she objects. She gives all kinds of excuses not to let him go."

"If only she'd let me take him, I know he would learn how to make friends and play with little boys and girls."

Aunt Het

I feel sorry for Emily. She makes her face up to look like a girl of 20, but her neck still looks like 45.

"Will you please write about my case in your column so my mother can see what you have to say?"

Parents, please heed this case about Jimmy, for the art of getting along with other people is a learned reaction.

Play and laughter are also a result of wide experience with other people. A Robinson Crusoe existence is not a good background for a child who must enter school by the age of six.

Sheltered, inexperienced youngsters don't know how to laugh at the usual social situations which are deemed funny. Nor can they play in group games.

Jimmy is already a social misfit. And his entire future life may be ruined by his mother's failure to see that he is socially prepared for grammar school.

Sunday schools offer every family a wonderful opportunity not only to implant moral ideals and good music in their toddlers, but Sunday schools also prepare those youngsters for greater success in the public schools.

If a shy, inexperienced boy like Jimmy enters public school without previous opportunities of playing with other boys and girls during those preceding years, then he remains aloof and timid. Or he may swing to the other extreme and try to browbeat others and dominate their play.

In either event, he is maladjusted. And his school grades often drop. Many of the children who fail in school marks are not to be blamed unduly, for if their parents don't help prepare the child for school success, then those parents deserve reproof.

It is just as vital nowadays to prepare your child in group play habits and other social experiences with those of his own age, as it is to see that his teeth are properly checked and that he is vaccinated against smallpox and diphtheria.

Yet many mothers forget this important fact. They lavish money on his medical care and on his clothes. They buy him encyclopedias and other educational books or games, which is a fine thing.

Then they ignore his social personality. So Jimmy's sister is far more understanding of Jimmy's needs than his mother.

Even if Jimmy's mother were not mindful of the moral and musical values which he will receive from Sunday school, she should be appreciative of the fact that Sunday school attendance is ideal preparation for public school attendance. It helps socialize little grandstanders!

Every child should be in Sunday school every Sabbath day, barring illness.

And you parents who fail to realize this urgent need, are accessories to the crime of making your youngster the "dummy" in grammar school and even of putting him behind prison bars if he later gets into open conflict with the law.

Days of All Faiths

'Race Relations Sunday' Observance Tomorrow

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Each year on the Sunday nearest Lincoln's birthday comes Race Relations Sunday, a day dedicated by the National Council of Churches to Christian unity among men of all races and colors.

Building this year's observance on the theme "Brethren—dwell together in unity" the Council will provide its member churches with many kinds of materials, all aimed at deepening the people's understanding of the various racial groups living in the United States.

Most Americans are likely to take for granted that "race relations" refers to relations between the white and Negro populations, but the Council's material is much broader in scope, dealing also with the Chinese, Japanese, Indian, and Spanish-speaking groups who live in this country.

The point stressed by the Council is a theological one: that the death of Christ on Calvary created a new people, universal in character, without regard to racial lines, and that this new people must therefore live with all men as brothers.

Negro-white relations are indeed America's largest race problem, and the Council notes in its literature that the Supreme Court decision on school segregation has made the past year particularly significant in this regard. It has been a year of much more than ordinary progress.

The day's theme is taken from the 1st verse of Psalm 133: "Behold, how good and pleasant it is when brothers dwell in unity."

With this Scriptural passage as background, the Council has prepared special prayers, an order of worship for the Sunday morning service, programs for Young People's meetings, study materials, and speakers' information on all the various racial groups living in the United States.

Some say there were two saints named Valentine; some even say there were three. All were martyrs, all are associated with February 14. But it is almost impossible to see why any of them should be connected with the exchange of love messages that has come to be the main feature of February 14.

The reason for the sending of "valentines" today probably is in the date itself rather than in the lives of any of the saints named Valentine. Chaucer tried to explain it by saying that this was the day on which the birds choose their mates.

Actually, however, it is more likely a survival of the old Roman festival called Lupercalia, which was held on February 15 in honor of the goddess Juno, wife of Jupiter and protector of marriage and women.

At this festival the names of young men and women were put in boxes and drawn out, quite by chance. Couples thus paired were sweethearts for the next year.

St. Valentine—one of them, or perhaps all three—was martyred on the eve of this festival, and as Christianity superseded paganism his name replaced the name "Lupercalia," but much of the old sentimental flavor of the occasion continued.

A Valentine Day custom practiced by girls in medieval times was to wrap the names of several eligible young men in clay and drop the clay in water. It was believed that all would sink except the name of the one true love.

St. Valentine—or perhaps Saints Valentine—is the patron of engaged couples and all who wish to marry.

Lovers who put XXX's on their letters are not usually aware that the custom goes back to a time when a cross-mark had all the force of a sworn oath. The cross was, of course, a religious symbol. Not only did it refer to the Cross of Calvary; it was also the first letter of the Greek word Christos, or Christ.

In the days when few people could write, they made their mark—a cross—as they do today, and it was accepted as a signature. But in those times, they always kissed the cross after they made it, as a sign of their complete sincerity. It was this practice of kissing the X that led to its becoming a symbol of a kiss.

Young Adults Who Work Need Eight Hours Sleep

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

THE MAIL BOX

Sleep My Pretty One, Sleep

How many hours of sleep does a young adult doing office work need? (Dorothy M.)

Answer—Eight in summer, nine in winter. Less than that and you'll look less beautiful, lady.

If one has acid urine should one go on a diet and will it cause one to have a headache? (B. T. H.)

Answer—The urine is acid normally. It is foolish if not foolhardy to attempt to diagnose and treat your own ailments, as your question well illustrates. Why in tar-nation are you Yankee Wiseacres so stingy about having medical advice and so stupid about quackery and self-doctoring?

Coccydylate
 Injections of coccydylate. Do you think there is much in the "nerve tonic" theory? (E. E. R.)

Answer—Coccydylate is an arsenic compound. No, the injections are not quack treatment. Only nerve tonic I know is good nutrition.

Everybody Needs Iodine
 Do you know any reason why a person with goiterosis or other thyroid trouble should not take iodine tablets? (Mrs. W. A. R.)

Answer—No, but the attending physician should advise. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope, for pamphlet The Iodine Ration.

Lady Digs Up Orthopedist
 Daughit, backed by high class ortho-pedist of her college, believes it better to sleep with door and windows closed all night to prevent colds. (P. B. M.)

Answer—If he is in a good state of repair perhaps the museum would like to take the orthopedist off your daughter's hands. My advice to any one is, sleep with bedroom open or closed, as you find comfortable, but for heaven's sake don't drag in the remains of any 18th century orthopedists. If your daughter really wants to know, let her send me twenty-five cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope, for booklet "Call It Cri." If she wishes, stamped envelope addressed to the orthopedist and I'll send him a copy with the compliments of your daughter and Ol' Doc Brady. The orthopedist may learn something from it too.

Coughing and Swallowing
 Is it advisable for middle aged adults who have had chronic bronchitis for years and have spells of hard coughing at intervals, to go bathing in lake or ocean?

Answer—I'd go in swimming whenever I wanted to if I had chronic bronchitis and hard coughing spells.

Signs, letters, and more than one page of the words long, pertinent to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

Plain Bodice Background for Jewels

Four Gore Skirt, High Cut Arm Hole Are Attractions

Anne Fogarty, queen of princess dresses, comes up with still another version of her beautifully cut, carefully fitted, figure-enhancing models.

This time, she does what looks like the plainest of plain bodices, except that it is darted and molded to give the lines and outlines for which she is famous. The high-cut armhole and tight sleeve is another new point, all a part of the new upper story simplicity, which makes such an ideal background for jeweled ropes.

The skirt, typically full, has four gores set on the lowered bodice which curves into the waist with perfection. Miss Fogarty originally showed this one in a patterned tweed but it is equally great in faille or brocade for more formal occasions, in any dress-weight wool for general wear.

This pattern is cut to designer measurements, not Standard Pattern Measurements.

Open House Slated by College Council

The University of Detroit Panhellenic Council is sponsoring an inter-society open house to be held Feb. 20 in the U. of D. Memorial Building. The purpose of the event, which begins at 3 p.m., is to acquaint coeds with the functions and objectives of the nine campus sororities.

Alice Hayes of Lowell street, a member of Theta Phi Alpha Sorority, will participate in the open house.

Philathea Class Holds Meeting

The Philathea Class of Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church met recently at the Baldwin avenue home of Mrs. Edna Matheny. Fifteen members were present as Mrs. Park Wagg opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Guy Caswell led devotion. Hostesses were Mrs. John Gemmel, Mrs. Clarence Failing and Mrs. Joe Doyle.

Wilson Turns Tables, Keeps Steve Allen Up

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—I turned the tables on Steve Allen the other night and kept him up. Wherever you go in America today, people complain about Steve's keeping them up—but he also complains about them keeping him up.

Steve has a nap before he goes on "Tonight" on TV at 11:30. "Tonight I fell asleep for 8 or 10 minutes before coming over here," Steve yawned.

"I need 9 or 10 hours," added the "no-tension guy" of TV. Thanks to him, hardly any of his fans ever get that much!

I met the 33-year-old, 6-foot-2 darling of the Midnight Set on stage at the NBC Theater on W. 44th St. The program was only minutes off.

Steve was as relaxed as a busted mattress. As he sat at his desk cleaning his glasses, I asked about his vision.

"An old line of my own," he said, "is that I'm the only man in town who has to wear contact lenses to see his glasses."

MR. AND MRS. STEVE ALLEN

People with worried looks kept hustling up. They pointed at the show's routine in front of him.

"It's all on teleprompter, it's been rehearsed," he'd say.

"I'd better get out of here," I said.

"I've nothing to do but comb my hair," Steve mounted the stairs to his dressing room. En route we saw Skitch Henderson lying down on a cot with his eyes closed. It surely was a nervous crowd!

"I never get stage fright," Steve rubbed on a little makeup. "Sometimes afterward I get worried."

Steve, who always wanted to be a writer—he studied journalism at Drake for a year—told me he usually goes home after the program, chats with his wife, beautiful Jane Meadows, for 20 minutes about the program, and then writes—but not for the program.

"I'm bringing out a book of short stories in September," he said. "Last night I finished a short story about a thing that happened in Reuben's."

"A drunk came over. The title of the story is 'I Hope I'm Not Intruding.' The point is, he was."

It was now air time. I waited until the show went off, then we went to Lindy's. Steve said he'd found out if he'd stick a mike in front of somebody's mouth, they'd open their mouth and start talking.

"Sometimes I may say 'where are you from?' The man gets flustered, says 'Harry Simpson.' So I say 'Is that near Boston?' You can't write jokes funnier than that."

Steve's GBS afternoon show, not greatly different from his present NBC show, was dropped—and Steve has the answer. "I feel funnier at night," he said. "In the afternoon you also get a lot of middle-aged ladies who are still angry about Tom Brenneman having died and annoyed at you for being a young whippersnapper."

Steve, born in New York to vaudeville parents, has lived all over—Phoenix, Des Moines, Chicago, Johnstown, Pa., Allentown, Pa., and Los Angeles—and has the feel of America in his voice.

"I went to Phoenix because I had asthma," Steve said. "It doesn't seem to bother me any more unless I'm around cigars or dogs. The thing that would bother me most is a dog smoking a cigar."

But Steve was patting back a yawn.

"Gotta go home to bed," he said. "Doggone television fans are keeping me up."

Guild 11 Meets in Harbage Home

Mrs. Homer Harbage was hostess in her Lenox avenue home for the Wednesday meeting of Guild Eight of All Saints Episcopal Church.

World Day of Prayer will be

Mrs. Walter Whisnant led devotions and Mrs. Bert Ede was a guest.

Wife Feels Neglected by Brothers

Thoughtful of Them to Include Greeting in Their Letters

By EMILY POST

A husband tells me: "I have two brothers in the service who write me quite regularly. They always address their letters to me alone and begin 'Dear Bill' excluding my wife entirely except for adding 'Give my best to Mary' at the end of the letter."

My wife seems to think they are being very impolite to her by not addressing their letters to Mr. and Mrs. I thought of writing to my brothers about this but would appreciate your opinion on this matter before doing so."

When your brothers write to you there is no reason in the world why they should include your wife. I think giving their best to Mary is sufficient, and to exact that they include her in every letter they write to you is unreasonable.

Dear Mrs. Post: When a finger bowl is served at the end of a meal, it is considered good table manners to dip the end of one's napkin into it and wipe the corners of one's mouth should it be sticky? This question came up in our etiquette class the other day and I was elected to write to you for the correct answer.

There is a definite rule of etiquette against dipping the corner of your napkin into the finger bowl. You are supposed, however, to dip your fingers lightly into the water and run your fingers across your mouth and then wipe it dry with your napkin.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please give the age at which a bride (never previously married) is considered too old to wear traditional white wedding dress and veil?

This depends less upon the years that she's lived than upon her appearance. If she is slim and looks young, she might wear it up to fifty. In any case she could certainly wear it up to 40.

Try It

Wear Hearts on Clothes

Since you are out of school today, you may want to get ready for Monday. It is fun to celebrate special days.

I'll bet that you can see what this Try It is all about by just glancing at today's drawing. It is fun to wear a small heart for February 14th. These hearts may be cut from red paper, felt, corduroy, velvet, or oil cloth.

If you cut them from material, use pinkish sheers since these will keep it from revealing. Decide on the size heart you need, then make a paper pattern, next cut your heart out. Pin the hearts on, paste them on with a dab of paste, or sew on with two or three stitches. Put them on collars, cuffs, ties, socks or hairbows. Make some for your friends too.

Meat Balls Oven Cooked for Buffet

Mrs. Menees Puts Apple and Potatoes Into Casserole Dish

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor Mrs. Robert Menees shares a wonderful recipe you can use when having a buffet supper. It is a glorified meat ball dish that will serve a goodly number of guests. The unusual ingredient is chopped raw apple.

Mrs. Menees has two school age youngsters and a small baby. She works with the Whitfield PTA and is a room mother. Other of her interests include membership in the New Sylvanites club and playing bridge.

MEAT BALL CASSEROLE

By Mrs. Robert Menees
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1/2 pound bulk sausage
1 tablespoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
3 eggs
3 medium potatoes
2 medium raw onions
1 large apple, peeled and cored
1 green pepper, seeded
1 single soda cracker, rolled fine
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1/2 cup water
Fat for browning

Grind together the potatoes, onions, apples and green pepper. Add the meat and cracker crumbs and mix well. Form into balls the size of golf balls and brown in hot fat. Drain off any excess fat and place the balls in a casserole. Add the tomato juice and the water and bake uncovered in a 350-degree oven for an hour. Makes 15-18 meat balls.

Friends cooperated in fixing their gaily decorated box lunches for the annual Box Social held last weekend by the Hoedowners. Mrs. Glenn Hartung of Ridge road holds the box as Mrs. Fred Froede of Summit street puts in a piece of fruit.

Mental Health Speaker's Topic for Meeting

Crofoot School PTA heard Allen Copley speak at the Thursday meeting held at the school. "Mental Health and Aid to All Children" was Mr. Copley's topic.

Mr. Copley said, "As we come to better understand the fundamentals of mental health as we now understand physical health we will be better able to help our children to healthy happy lives."

He emphasized that the PTA can be a major force in helping to cultivate understanding and disseminate information.

Mr. Copley is a visiting teacher in the Pontiac Schools whose services are available to parents who have children who need guidance toward better adjustment.

Maude Spears and Mrs. Edwin Amidon presided at the tea table for the social hour.

Assisting Mrs. Frank Bogner with arrangements for the tea were Mrs. Patricia Sobak, Mrs. Rex Booner and Mrs. Jack Bennett. Valentine table decorations were made by Doris Bennett and Jean Carson.

Couple Speak Vows in Colorado Rite

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Pemberton of Rosshire court are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Sybil Mae, to Hugh Ballantine Jr. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ballantine of Colorado Springs, Colo.

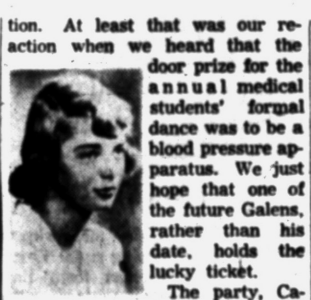

The wedding ceremony took place Jan. 22 in St. Mary Catholic Church of Colorado Springs. The couple is making their home in Los Angeles, Calif.

Caduceus Ball This Evening at U of M

By SUE GILBERT
It sounds like an AMA convention.

SUE
The theme refers to the serpent entwined staff that is the official symbol of the medical profession.

One couple who will be attending the affair are Mr. and Mrs. William G. Underhill of Joy road. They plan to go to the Phi Rho Sigma medical fraternity party before the dance and they will finish off the festive evening with a breakfast at the Phi Rho house.

While the rest of the med students are studying the more academic side of their profession, Bert Larson, Oneida road, is doing his externship in California this semester.

Although the med students refer to the externship as "vacation," it really means that Bert will be doing hospital work there while he is still on the under-graduate level.

The new semester which is just getting under way in Ann Arbor means some added duties for Mary Ann Thomas of Elizabeth Lake road. Besides continuing her duties as assistant night editor of the "Michigan Daily," the campus newspaper, Mary Ann is now the "stringer" or correspondent for the "Asian Student."

The paper is published in San Francisco for the Asian students on the campuses of this country. Mary Ann reports that although she is majoring in political science and not journalism, the experience is proving to be an interesting one for she is getting a chance to meet a great many foreign students.

She also adds that as busy as the coming semester is going to be she was really glad to get back to campus to catch up on some rest. The rest? She needed it after her 6-day vacation in New York City where she saw six plays, besides the usual sight-seeing while she was staying with relatives on Long Island.

The first week of the semester was "Hell Week" for Dwight Allen of Walnut Lake road. This doesn't mean a descent to limbo, but it does mean that during the past week, he has had to carry out tasks assigned by his fraternity, Sigma Phi Epsilon, to prove his qualifications.

Formal initiation after the week's activities was held Friday evening and this afternoon there is to be a banquet for the pledges. Dwight served as president of his pledge class as well as being a member of the Junior Inter Fraternity Council Assembly. This evening he will be attending an informal dance at the Sigma Phi house with Barbara Hahn of Unionville.

Just plain sentimental . . . that's all we can say about the women in the Pontiac area around Valentine's Day.

They delight in having frilly, fancy affairs in honor of the patron saint of lovers . . . and rightly so. We have visited and talked with a number of hostesses and should like to pass along what they are doing.

Last weekend the Hoedowners had their annual Valentine Box Social. The distaff side of each couple worked hard to pack a tempting lunch in a gaily decorated box. Shades of our great-grandmothers who used this device to snare the boy of her choice!

On Wednesday of this past week we spoke to a club meeting. Mrs. Ericson Lewis, the hostess, centered her serving table with a crystal epergne filled with red and white flowers.

Around the base of the epergne she had placed three double red hearts, their edges trimmed with real pleated lace.

Bluebirds, Brownies, Campfire Girls, Girl Scouts — they all jump at the chance to have a party. The Bluebirds who meet with Mrs. A. E. Vaught of First street are no exception.

Only seven years old, the little girls are already experienced in the art of preparing for a party.

We visited with them while they were cutting out and decorating heart sugar cookies for their Valentine's party. They would add ice cream to the refreshment list at the time of the party.

Fathers and sons in the Whitfield school area will go out to dinner

Henry Johnson Claims Bride Friday Evening

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—Mrs. Albert J. Browning and Henry C. Johnson of Bloomfield Hills were married at eight o'clock Friday evening in the chancel of Christ Church Cranbrook by the Rev. Robert L. DeWitt.

The former Dorothy Montagu Browning is the daughter of Mrs. Cecil Rudyard Montague and Mr. Johnson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Willis O. Johnson of Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Mrs. Johnson wore a coffee colored costume of chantilly lace. Her only attendant was Martha Browning and Mr. Johnson's best man was a classmate at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Hervis C. Webb.

A reception for close friends was held at the home of the bride on Quarton road and Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left for a trip by plane to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. They will be at home in Bloomfield Hills after March 15.

Elks Sa-Shay Dances Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schultz were welcomed as new members of the Elks Sa-Shay Quadrille Club when the group gathered Friday evening at the Elks Temple.

Cecil McCallum was master of ceremonies and callers included William Moore, Jack Baker, William Spalding, John Depauw and William Schmiel. Mrs. McCallum presented novelties.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Vanderwalker and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Palazini were guests for the evening. Mrs. Schmiel had charge of the tables which were decorated in a Valentine motif. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Newt Kilgore.

Mother's Day Affair Planned

Betty Lippard opened her home on Oakland avenue Wednesday evening for a meeting of Epsilon Rho Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. Mrs. Ralph Ellsworth reported on a recent city council meeting and other reports were given by Betty Soper and Miss Lippard.

Pat Rose, chapter president, appointed Joyce Perry as historian and Mrs. Ralph Ellsworth as publicity chairman. Mrs. James Beale was appointed chairman of a committee to make plans for an annual Mother's Day breakfast to be held May 1.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Eugene Bona, Nancy Davis and Virginia Lippard.

Child Study Club Has Annual Dinner

Child Culture Club's annual revelation party and cooperative dinner was held Thursday evening in the Auburn Heights home of Mrs. Floyd Crump.

Mrs. Charles Bowers will be hostess in her Barrington road home for the Feb. 24 meeting of the group.

November Group Holds Gathering

Mrs. Donald Humphries of Dixie highway was hostess for the Wednesday evening meeting of November group of First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Phillip Meacham presented the program on India and Pakistan. Devotions were given by Mrs. Ray Bush Jr. and Mrs. A. W. Gault was a guest.

together on Monday night. It is the annual Father and Son banquet put on by the PTA.

Mrs. Arthur Webster, chairman of decorations, described the red and white crepe paper and net hearts set in styrofoam that will center each table. She and her committee have made lace paper dolly nut cups, molded over a glass and held with red cellophane tape.

The only person we could find with a birthday on Valentine's Day is Mrs. L. Raymond Sampson of Watkins Lake. She isn't having a birthday party for herself, but she is entertaining six of the little girls in the neighborhood at a Valentine's party today.

After playing games, the small guests will enjoy open-faced sandwiches, heart-shaped cakes, ice cream, candy and party pink punch. To add interest to the punch bowl Mrs. Sampson has frozen water colored red in a heart salad mold.

Once a month the Rotary Club in Clarkston has a dinner prepared by a group of women from Seymour Lake. On Valentine's Day when they sit down to eat, they will find a most attractive molded salad at each place.

Mrs. Francis A. Mickle, one of the cooks preparing this salad, told us about it. She is using lemon gelatin, red cinnamon candies, apple sauce and crushed pineapple.

After the gelatin has set, it will be cut with a heart-shaped cutter and put on lettuce.

Mrs. Max Fell of Drayton Woods is entertaining twice in the Valentine manner. Last Thursday she was hostess to her missionary group; on Monday she will open her home to her PEO chapter.

When we took her picture, she was getting her table ready for the first group. She had filled a clear glass bowl with ivy and flanked that with tall red candles in silver candlesticks. In front of the ivy she arranged one scarlet carnation in each of four frosted glass swans. Valentine party napkins added another note of color on the exquisite cutwork tablecloth.

Flowers have an important part to play of Drayton Woods used red carnations and in Valentine decorations. Mrs. Max Fell green ivy when she entertained.

"Are they done?" Nancy Gibson, 7, of East Mansfield street tests the Valentine sugar cookies; she has helped make for her Bluebirds' Valentine party. Dorothy Morris, also 7, of East Beverly street looks on while their leader, Mrs. A. E. Vaught of First street holds the pan.

Sometimes the guests are willing helpers, especially when the job is filling boxes of candy. Ten-year-old Judy Winter of South Shore drive, 11-year-old Charrie Parker of home of Mrs. L. Raymond Sampson.

Dance Date Change Told by Society

Mrs. Charles Burke General Chairman of Annual Event

By RUTH SAUNDERS
BIRMINGHAM — Christ Child Society, Birmingham Unit, will hold its annual spring dinner dance April 16 at Bloomfield Hills Country Club. This year the affair will be held after Easter instead of Easter Eve as in previous years.

MRS. BOB HOUSTON

Janet Woodward Weds in Holly Nuptials Friday

Janet Sylvia Woodward exchanged her nuptial vows Friday evening with Bob Houston, before a candle-light altar in First Baptist Church of Holly.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald W. Woodward of Holly and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Houston of Brooks avenue.

Tiffany baskets of flowers and palms banked the altar as the Rev. Harry L. Parker performed the eight o'clock double ring ceremony before 200 guests.

The bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle with bouffant skirt. A princess crown secured her veil of illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses.

Mrs. Dale Hitchcock of Holly attended her niece as matron of honor wearing a shrimp colored floor length gown. Mrs. Merrill Sreca of West Virginia and Lorraine Geller of Holly were other attendants wearing aqua floor length gowns. Each attendant wore a heart-shaped hat.

The matron of honor carried a colonial bouquet of aqua carnations and roses and the other attendants carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations.

Lester Houston Jr. attended his brother as best man and James Woodward, brother of the bride from Holly, and Jack Martin of Lake Orion seated the guests.

Mrs. Woodward wore a blue dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Navy blue tulle with pink accessories and a pink rose corsage was worn by Mrs. Houston.

Following a reception held in the church parlors the new Mrs. Houston changed to a gray suit with red accessories for the wedding trip. They will make their home in Pontiac.

Attendants Gowned in Red Velvet

Betty Jane Sutton, Richard J. Pfeffer Married Today

Red velvet gowned the attendants who preceded Betty Jane Sutton to the altar of St. Vincent de Paul Church this morning when she became the bride of Richard Joseph Pfeffer.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Harger of West Howard street and Reginald H. Sutton of Union Lake road. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Pfeffer of Elizabeth Lake road are his parents.

Three hundred guests attended the 10 o'clock ceremony which was performed by the Rev. William J. Rademacher before an altar decorated with altar baskets of gladioli, stock and calla lilies.

French Chantilly lace over nylon tulle and satin formed the bride's floor length gown. The portrait neckline of the bodice was filled with illusion and featured a lace Peter Pan collar.

Long lace sleeves ended in points over her wrists and the skirt opened in front to show a panel of accordion pleated nylon tulle. A headpiece of lace embellished with seed pearls and sequins secured a fingertip veil and she carried a pearl rosary. Her flowers were a cascade arrangement of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Beverly F. Maguire of Oxford attended the bride as maid of honor and other attendants were Mrs. Charles Crittenden, cousin of the bride, and Nancy C. Dickinson.

Their red ballerina length gowns were fashioned with "V" neckline in both front and back and three-quarter length sleeves. The maid of honor wore a white velvet headpiece and carried a white velvet muff with red roses and shattered carnations forming a heart.

The bridesmaids wore red velvet pillbox hats and carried red velvet hats with heart shaped bouquets of white roses and carnations. Judith Maguire of Oxford was flower girl wearing a red velvet gown similar to the bridesmaids' and a white velvet headpiece. She carried a white basket filled with red Sweet-heart roses.

Basil F. Gaffney served as best man and seated the guests were Thomas J. McHugh and Edmund J. Guzman.

For a reception held at five o'clock in Amvets Hall the bride's mother chose a teal blue crepe gown with pearl trim at the neckline. Her accessories were shrimp colored and she wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Pfeffer wore a navy dress of chiffon and silk satin. Her accessories were navy and white and pink and white roses formed her corsage.

When the couple left for a tour of the southern states the bride was wearing a beige suit with French blue accessories. They will reside on Elizabeth Lake road.

MRS. RICHARD J. PFEFFER

Betty Jane Sutton became the bride of Richard Joseph Pfeffer this morning in St. Vincent de Paul Church. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Harger of West Howard street and Reginald H. Sutton of Union Lake road. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Pfeffer of Elizabeth Lake road.

R. A. Conant Claims Bride

The marriage vows of Mrs. Jean Lenore Busse and Robert A. Conant were solemnized this afternoon at a ceremony performed in Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Thompson of Mark avenue and his parents are the H. A. Conants of Dakota drive.

The Rev. Theodore R. Allebach performed the 3 o'clock ceremony before members of the family.

The bride wore a powder blue faille cocktail length dress. Her jewelry was a gold cross, the bridegroom's gift and she carried a colonial nosegay of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. William B. Thomas was matron of honor and the bride's other attendant was Shirley Conant, the bridegroom's sister.

Mrs. Thomas wore a navy blue faille and crepe street length dress with pink accessories and a colonial nosegay of spring flowers. Shirley's outfit was a pink wool knit street length dress. She carried a colonial nosegay of spring flowers.

Mrs. Thomas was best man and David Katchka of Detroit seated the guests. Bridal music was provided by Mrs. Gloria Luck.

The bride's mother wore a street length (mat colored) rayon print dress with pink and brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

A reception, given by the auxiliary to Cook-Nelson Post 20 was given at the American Legion home on Auburn avenue.

Gold Stars Meet

American Gold Star Mothers, Chapter 9 met for a cooperative luncheon recently in the Michigan avenue home of Mrs. Glenn Waterfield. Members sewed 450 cancer pads during the afternoon.

Joanne M. Colfer Wed to William S. Townsend

A gown of tulle over slipper satin was worn by Joanne Margaret Colfer when she exchanged her nuptial vows with William Stewart Townsend this morning at St. Vincent de Paul Church.

The Rev. Maurice Verser performed the 11:30 a.m. ceremony before 250 guests. The altar was decorated with arrangements of white gladioli and stock.

The bride is the daughter of Robert Colfer of Wall street and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Townsend of Silver Circle drive.

The bride's gown was fashioned with fitted bodice of embroidered tulle in a rose pattern. The embroidered tulle was also used in the peplum which extended down the front of the gown and ended in a short peplum back. The bouffant skirt extended into a cathedral length train.

A crown of seed pearls and white crystal drops formed the headpiece which secured her fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a white orchid surrounded by hyacinths, resting on a prayer book.

The bride's only jewelry was a strand of pearls which was worn by her mother when she was married.

Mrs. D. J. Fons attended her sister as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Margaret Colfer, cousin of the bride, and Lucille L. Yap. Robyn Humphries, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

They wore waist length gowns of soft blue tulle with matching jackets. Their headbands of net matched the gowns. The matron of honor carried a heart-shaped bouquet of red carnations and white hyacinths.

Heart-shaped bouquets of red carnations were carried by the bridesmaids and the flower girl carried a miniature heart bouquet of red carnations.

Ralph J. Schwalm served as best man and seated the guests were

MRS. WILLIAM S. TOWNSEND

Ronald C. Schrubba and Donald E. Tiedmann.

The bridegroom's mother greeted the guests wearing a navy dress with white and navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. A reception was held at the Baldwin Hall on West Pike street.

When the couple left for a motor trip through the southern and eastern states the new Mrs. Townsend was wearing a suit of powder blue with matching coat and champagne colored accessories.

The orchid from her bridal bouquet formed her corsage. Upon their return the couple will reside on South Johnson avenue.

REV. WARD H. CLABUESCH
 Curate at All Saints Leaves for Corunna
 The Rev. Ward H. Clabuesch, curate at All Saints Episcopal Church, will take up his new duties as rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Corunna Tuesday.
 A graduate of Michigan State College, he served in the South Pacific with the Navy in World War II.
 In June 1953, he was graduated from the General Theological Seminary of New York. He then came to Pontiac as assistant to the Rev. C. George Widdifield. His work at All Saints was chiefly with young people.

Everyday Religion
 You Leaders of Men!
 By DON D. TULLIS
 The men of Hassan exclaimed, "We are they who go a step further." Such men are pioneers in every area of human endeavor. They blaze new trails, cultivate the virgin soil, establish new industries, discover new truths, conquer new kingdoms, and sense beyond the limits of liturgy the Spirit of limitless love.
 The "further step" requires a great incentive. They who take it are motivated by something more than dissatisfaction with things as they are. Hambone is addressing the restless folk when he says, "El you finds yo'self in a rut and can't get out, just jump around in it, don't jest set dar."
 But restlessness is not enough. Nor is "settin' dar" the answer for the leaders of men. To the forward urge and the high goal there must be added the will to climb. It is this that sends the student from the class room to the experimental laboratory, transforms the pack peddler into the merchant prince and a Chicago shoe salesman into a mighty man of God.
 It was this will to accomplish His task that moved the Greatest Man of all time to leave His sleepy disciples and "go a step further" in the Garden that He might become the Hope of all mankind.
 They who take this "step further" assume a tremendous responsibility. It is essential to a continuing civilization that they choose the right direction. Herein lies the difference between the high lords of communism and the humble servants of God. The former function in a fog. The latter light the way onward.
 Ben, a young artist in Pilgrim's Inn, painted a herd of deer rushing through a flaming woodland, follow a pure white leader, who finally led them to a safe retreat. There he turned around and the deer saw over his head the form of a cross, blazing with light. Without this light "the deer would not know the direction to take or be able to find the way."
 The world today is struggling through a flaming forest, but in the providence of God there is a way out. You leaders of men, do not be content to "jump around in a rut, or jest set dar."
 Take a "step further" that you may reflect the light from the Cross, and not only show a bewildered world the direction to take, but also ENABLE THEM TO SEE THE WAY.

Catholic Mass Is Televised
 Rev. Herbert Clancy to Give Instructions Fridays at 5:45 P. M.
 SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Instructions on the Roman Catholic Mass are being broadcast every Friday at 5:45 p.m. over WHEN-TV here by the Rev. Herbert Clancy, S. J., of the history department at Le Moyne College.
 Assisting the priest in some of the programs is the Rev. Thomas J. Costello, assistant pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes church.
 In illustrating parts of the Mass, Father Clancy uses a sacristy, altar and other special sets prepared by Socrates Sampson, the station's art director. Topics to be discussed include "Nature of Sacrifice," "Vestments, Linens and Altar-Stones," "Mass of the Catechumens," as well as various parts of the Mass.
 The programs are directed by the Rev. William J. Shannon, television director of the Catholic diocese of Syracuse, and Jean Daugherty of station WHEN-TV.
 The series is part of a continuing daily program, entitled "The Things We Share," sponsored in turn by Catholics, Protestants and Jews.

"Yes...I Condemned THE CATHOLIC CHURCH"

"And you would, too," wrote a non-Catholic recently, "if all the things I heard about it were true."
 "For years, I kept hearing that the Catholic Church was opposed to the Bible and tried to suppress it. I was told that the Church had changed Christ's teaching and practiced pompous pagan forms of worship. It was told to me that Catholics worship statues and images, and that the Catholic Church defied God's law and changed the Sabbath."
 "But now I have learned that these stories and many others about the Catholic Church are not true—and never were."
 Every day, thousands of our non-Catholic friends and neighbors are discovering, as this man did... that Catholic belief, worship and history are widely misrepresented and misunderstood.
 That is why we publish these advertisements... and invite you to write for free explanatory pamphlets. We want you to know us as we are—not as false rumors and slanders represent us to be. We want you to know... if only for your own information... what the Catholic Church actually teaches, and what we Catholics actually believe.
 This enables you to get authentic information about the Catholic Church—to investigate in the privacy of your own home. Then... even though you may not agree with Catholic beliefs and practices... you will at least understand.

The program will include the King's Ambassadors; Ed Mornow, saxophonist; Charles Gregor, baritone and Mrs. Charles Gregor, accompanist.
 Charles Gregor is the business manager of the Detroit Bible Institute as baritone soloist. He has been a member of the Civic Opera Co. for 13 years and is a former director of General Motors Male Chorus. He is now choir director at the Ward Memorial Presbyterian Church and director of the Detroit Christian Male Chorus.
 At the close of the musical program, a short message will be given by Roy Gustafson, Bible teacher who is now holding special meetings at the church.
 Last month 21 churches were represented in the Youthtime program. Everyone is invited to attend.

Church People Asked to Pray

Dr. Eugene C. Blake Goes to Switzerland to Christian Meetings

Church people of the United States were called upon by the National Council of Churches "in this hour when the peace of mankind is imperiled" to pray that the crisis may be resolved without war.

The call to prayer was issued by the national council through its president, Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, on the eve of his departure for Geneva, Switzerland, to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the World Council of Churches.

Dr. Blake said that, as he looks forward to meeting Christian leaders of many countries "he wants them to understand that the people of our American churches are praying that peace and justice may prevail."

The council's statement said: "In this hour when the peace of mankind is imperiled, the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A., through its president, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, calls upon the people of the churches to pray:

"That God's will for justice and concord among the nations will prevail.

"That divine wisdom and understanding may be given the President of the United States and his advisers to the end that the present crisis may be resolved without war.

"That the United Nations will remain steadfast in its purpose to establish the conditions of peace and thereby save the world from the scourge of war.

"That our government will persist in its efforts to find, through the processes of negotiation, a solution which will establish both justice and peace."

Sweetheart Banquet Is Valentine's Day

On Valentine's Day, the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church will hold its semi-formal Sweetheart Banquet at 6:30 p. m. in the church parlors.

Dinner is being prepared by the women of the Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

The program following the banquet will include a vocal solo, "The Desert Song" by Carl Matheny; a trumpet solo by Donald Schultz; a girls' trio number by Mrs. Thomas Mackie, Mrs. Carl Niemi and Gwen Anderson.

The speaker for the evening will be Dr. Samuel C. Weir of the Littlefield Boulevard United Presbyterian Church of Dearborn.

If any member of the church failed to make a reservation, one may still be made by calling FE 4-1430.

St. Paul Lutheran Church to Observe Anniversary

St. Paul Lutheran Church will observe the fifth anniversary of the dedication of the present building Sunday at the worship service at 10:45 a. m. and in the evening with a banquet at 6 p. m.

With a membership of 500 the congregation has decided a larger church is needed. Plans have been made and construction will begin early this summer on the new church which will be located at Joslyn and Third.

At the Sunday morning service, the Rev. George Mahder, pastor, will preach the sermon, "Jesus Prays for His Disciples." The choir under the direction of Paul McMichael will sing "Built on a Rock the Church Doth Stand" and "The Benediction."

The Rev. Theodore Wuggazer Jr. of the Redeemer Lutheran Church of Birmingham will be toastmaster at the banquet Sunday evening and the Rev. H. J. Storm of First Lutheran Church of Windsor, Ont. Canada, will be the speaker.

Mrs. Emil Hagen will lead community singing and Mrs. Elmer S. Greenwald of Drayton Plains will be the soloist.

Serving on the anniversary committee are: M. L. Lorenzen, chairman; Bruce Reigle, Mrs. Hawkins Jr., Mrs. Lloyd Rowden, Mrs. Robert Neff, Sherrie Norman and Don Mann. An invitation is extended to the public to meet with the congregation tomorrow.

Confident Living

Victim of Polio Recovers to Win High Jump Crown

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

When a man named Walter Davis was eight years old, he was stricken with a severe attack of infantile paralysis. It was said that he would never walk again. But a minister from his church came to see him and prayed with him. Then he looked the stricken boy squarely in the eye and said, "You just believe, son, and you will walk again."

The boy's mother stressed the same idea of faith and lovingly she worked over his poor little weakened legs until he got so he could walk and even so he could run. One day, on an athletic field, he saw a man high-jumping. The boy had grown to be over six feet tall and he thought this was a sport he would like to try. He did try it and found that he could do quite well at it. He decided then that he would become the best high-jumper in the world.

He began to turn somersaults of delight. And then, ending one somersault on his knees, there before that crowded stadium he thanked God for his victory.

"The strength of belief" is a wonderful idea and it has motivated not only athletes but people in all endeavors and in all walks of life. It is your key to the self-confidence that each of us needs if we are to meet the difficulties, obstacles and opposition we face in everyday life gallantly and successfully.

There is a text in the Bible which seems to me to be fundamental in attaining self-confidence. I believe that it is so powerful that if you drive it deep into your conscious mind until it sinks into the unconscious and takes possession of you, you can change your life entirely. You will find it in Paul's letter to the Romans: "If God be for us, who can be against us?"

Personalize those words so that they apply directly to you: "If God be for me, what can be against me?" Then bring into your mind a picture of all the things you think are against you. Now bring God into your mind to face these obstacles. How can any of them stand against God? Practice "the strength of belief." Really believe, "If God be for me, what can be against me?" You cannot possibly be fainthearted or afraid, because you will have found the key to self-confidence.

10 Missionaries Bring Message

Rev. David Mortensen Arranges Conference February 13-20

Sunday marks the beginning of the one-year Missionary Conference to be held in the Marimont Baptist Church. Ten missionaries will share in this annual program.

Grady Parrott who served as flight instructor to the U.S. Air Force and RAF during World War II, will speak at Sunday School at 10 and in the worship hour at 11 Sunday morning.

Richard Wolff of the "Back to the Bible" broadcast will address the young people at 6:30 p.m. and will give his testimony on "What Christ Means to a Converted Jew" in the 7:30 evening service. Charles Hufstetter of the Far Eastern Gospel Crusade will serve as the main speaker at this meeting.

The conference will continue on Tuesday evening at which time Ruth Webb of Nigeria, Africa will present an "African Flannelgraph" and Melvin Donald of Sudan Interior Mission in Ethiopia will be the guest speaker.

Wednesday evening, the Rev. Orville Dunkeld of Pontiac will show pictures of his work in South Rhodesia, Africa and the Rev. Nelson Schoen will present the work of the Conservative Baptists in India.

The Rev. T. E. White will show pictures of the Young Life Campaign and William Cameron of Sudan United Mission, Africa will bring the message Thursday.

The conference will close Sunday Feb. 20, with the Rev. Orville Dunkeld and the Rev. Elyn Davies as guest speakers.

The purpose of the week's meetings is to inform and inspire Christians concerning the work of missions throughout the world. According to the Rev. David Mortensen, pastor of the church, all sessions are open to the public.

United Church Women to View Color Films

A program on "India, Pakistan and Ceylon" will be presented at 1 p.m. Monday Feb. 14, at the YWCA on Franklin Boulevard. This is sponsored by the United Church Women.

Discussions on these countries will be led by Mrs. Allen W. Hersee, Mrs. Frank Gray and Mrs. Stanley Kipp.

In addition to the talks, film strips in color of India and Pakistan will be shown. All women are invited.

Michigan State College Marks 100th Anniversary Today

15,500 Students Now Enrolled

Event Commemorates Growth to 8th Largest University in U. S.

EAST LANSING (UP)—Michigan State, the model for America's system of land-grant colleges, celebrates its 100th birthday today.

The event will be commemorated throughout the nation as the anniversary of a new educational concept: college education for the "common man."

For the birth of Michigan State College was the birth of a new theory that higher education, if made available to the children of farmers and laborers as well as the wealthy, could work miracles.

The growth of Michigan State College, which started as a tiny agricultural college in a muddy clearing hacked out of the Michigan woods, parallels the growth of democratic education in the United States.

The law which created the Michigan Agricultural College was signed by Gov. Kinsley S. Bingham on Feb. 12, 1855.

Six years later, in 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signed the Morrill Act granting lands to colleges in every state for the purpose of supporting colleges "where the leading object shall be, without excluding their scientific and classical studies and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and the mechanical arts . . . in order to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes . . ."

Since then the nation has acquired 53 land-grant colleges.

Congressman Justin Morrill of Vermont admitted patterned his idea of land-grant colleges after the college in "Michigan, liberally supported by the state, in the full tide of successful experiment."

On May 14, 1857, 63 students started classes at the tiny agricultural college—destined to become the eighth largest university in the nation. They were greeted by President Joseph R. Williams and four professors.

The college was composed of a main hall, a dormitory and a small brick stable. It was located on 677 acres purchased at $15 per acre in the Township of Meridian and Lansing, Mich.

Today the college has 130 permanent buildings and 1,000 temporary structures with a total value of more than $70,000,000.

More than 15,500 students are taught by a faculty numbering more than 2,000.

The modern East Lansing campus covers 570 acres, plus 3,230,000 acres of adjacent experimental farm land.

Michigan State has experienced its greatest growth in the last 10 years, under the direction of Dr. John A. Hannah who became the school's 12th president in 1941.

In 1945, when the college had a total enrollment of only 5,622 students, Hannah foresaw a post-war education boom and launched a building program which has reached $50,000,000 more than half on a self-liquidating basis.

"Concrete," one observer said, "never sets under John Hannah's feet."

Although Hannah is responsible for many of the changes at the 100-year-old institution, he has clung to the theory of the men who created it in 1855.

"Knowledge," he said recently, "must not be worshipped for itself, as a god, but put to work for the good of mankind."

Moving Trucks Hit Parked Car, House

DETROIT (UP)—Damage was estimated at more than $10,000 today in an accident involving two trucks, a car and a new house.

Police said an apple truck driven by Able Cook, 52, of Louisville, Ky., collided with an oil truck driven by Joe Buono, 20, of Silverwood, at a Farmington Township intersection last night.

Cook's truck ground to a halt after damaging a parked car. Buono's truck clipped off a utility pole and piled into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis C. Allen.

Cook was held for investigation of reckless driving.

'Dear Ruth' Scheduled Feb. 19 in Milford

MILFORD — Norman Krasna's comedy "Dear Ruth," will be presented by a group of Detroit actors at an 8 p.m. performance at the high school on Saturday, Feb. 19.

1955 Winners Announced as Farmers' Week Ends

EAST LANSING (UP)—The 40th annual farmers week ended on a snowy note yesterday as thousands of farmers, many of them pulling livestock, braved slippery roads to return to rural areas scattered throughout the state.

Attendance estimates for the five-day session went as high as 40,000, with many of the farmers leaving the Michigan State College campus early, before the heavy snow struck.

While most animals were on their way back to the barns, "Little Time"—a grand champion steer—was on his way to slaughter.

The 1,095-pound Aberdeen-Angus steer, owned by the Joseph H. Wilkinson and Son farm at Perry, was auctioned off yesterday.

Other winners yesterday: Hogs—A 235-pound Chester White Showby by A. L. Barnhart and Son of Reading brought 45 cents a pound at the auction after being named grand champion market hog.

The Heath brothers, prominent cattle feeders near Gladwin, won the Michigan beef cattle feeding project contest with a shorthorn which gained an average of 2.2 pounds per day.

UNESCO Talk Slated Feb. 21 in Farmington

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Muriel Jacobson, UNESCO official in New York, will be guest speaker during the public meeting to be held Feb. 21, at 8 p.m. in the local high school.

Arrangements for this meeting were made by request of the state council for UNESCO to explain the various plans designed to improve the educational, cultural and scientific level of modern society throughout the world.

Miss Jacobson will list some of the accomplishments of UNESCO, the organization's gift coupon plan, and tell of current projects.

Educational centers have been established in Africa, Mexico, India and Iran, through a community center, work in Korea has consisted of an emergency program.

Local organizations and civic groups have been asked to send representation to this meeting.

Although modern irrigation works in the arid portions of the United States date from 1847, many large irrigation systems that date from periods before recorded history have their remains in the same areas.

Romeo School Board OKs Ground Observer Post Site

ROME — Erection of a ground observer post on the northwest corner of the South Grade School property was authorized by the Romeo Board of Education at a meeting this week.

The request for the site on which the 15x15 foot post will be built by the village was tendered by the Village President Philip Stone and Civil Defense Director Maurice Foltz.

The location was selected by M. Sgt. Donald Kinnas, USAF, of the Michigan Air Filter Center, Grand Rapids, as the best within the village limits.

Following the explanation of the need for a post in Romeo before its membership, the president of the Romeo Rotary Club previously had appointed a five-man committee to work with similar committees from other organizations on establishing a post by the April 1 deadline.

Fred Powers, representative of the Romeo Lions Club, paid $200 to the board Thursday night, to bind the purchase of the Old Athletic Field, prior to a survey and clearance of title by school officials.

The Lions Club plans to develop the property for a community project, with no specific plans outlined yet.

School board members Walter Sewell and Joseph Getach were

Oak Park Will Vote on $890,000 Center

OAK PARK — An $890,000 bond issue to finance the development of a civic center will face voters on the April 4 ballot.

The proposed center would occupy 85 city-owned acres west of Coolidge road at Oak Park boulevard.

Included in the proposal is a library and community house, an indoor-outdoor swimming pool, an artificial ice rink, and a 63-acre city park, according to City Manager Harold K. Schone.

Placed on the ballot by the city council, the proposal has been endorsed by the board of education.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The president of the AFL Agricultural Workers Union called for an all-out drive today to organize full-time farm workers into one of the nation's biggest unions.

President H. L. Mitchell said he hoped the merger of the AFL and the CIO would spark the drive to organize workers on large industrial-type farms.

He said he believed that about two-thirds of the estimated 1,500,000 full-time farm workers could be organized.

Meantime, an advisory committee representing both the CIO and the AFL urged the Labor Department to look into the possibility of setting a federal minimum wage for farm workers.

Mitchell's union now has 50,000 members. He said the total number of U. S. farm workers, including family-type farmers, ranges from a low of about 5,000,000 in mid-winter to a peak of about 8,000,000 during the summer months.

Mitchell said he agrees with AFL President George Meany that it would not be feasible to try to organize all of these workers, most of whom are part-time employees or hired hands on small farms.

Speaker Raps Foreign Policy

Sen. Malone Tells GOP Group U.S. in Too Many Giveaway Programs

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Malone (R-Nev) today told a rally of conservative Republicans that "our foreign policies are largely dictated by so-called allies."

He was teamed up with two other senators—McCarthy of Wisconsin and Dirksen of Illinois—and three other speakers on a day-long program of speeches.

The over-all theme was: "What must the Republican party do in 1955 to preserve the republic and itself?"

Malone, in a prepared address, said no U. S. business or manufacturing interest subject to competition from foreign imports is fully independent. He added:

"The State Department—most of its personnel a carryover from two Democratic administrations—has destroyed the independence of these enterprises by its foreign trade and foreign aid policies."

He said the United States is the only nation "that fights other people's wars and pays for them, too." He stated the Republican party's mission is "to save America by keeping our money and strength at home."

"We must extricate ourselves from all the foreign entanglements the Democrats have involved us in," he said. "We must cease squandering billions on subsidies to foreign competitors for our own markets."

These billions, he added, should be invested in defense.

Aga Khan Reported Heart Attack Victim

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The Aga Khan, sweltering with a high fever since Thursday night, was today reported suffering from a "heart attack."

The ailing 77-year-old spiritual leader of the Ismaili sect flew to Cairo early this week from the winter resort of Aswan for his symbolic weighing against platinum which was scheduled Feb. 20.

Members of the entourage of the multimillionaire religious leader today reported the Aga is in "very bad shape" after a "sleepless, disturbed night."

His wife, the begun, disclosed last night that the Aga was in serious condition.

Air Force Grounds B57s After Crashes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force has grounded its B57 light bombers in what was described as a precautionary safety measure following recent crashes of the twin jet planes.

In its announcement yesterday, the Air Force said the grounding was requested by the Glenn L. Martin Co., builder of the B57 night intruder. Also set down were B57 tactical reconnaissance planes.

The Air Force said it plans investigations of two B57 crashes last Tuesday, one in Maryland and the other in California. There was no mention in the announcement of a third B57 crash in Maryland several weeks ago.

Sneak Preview Indispensable to Film Studios

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Our lesson for today concerns that peculiar Hollywood institution, the preview.

Almost every night, several theaters throughout southern California light up their marquees with "major studio feature preview." Little knots of film executives arrive and talk in the lobby with anxious voices. There is good reason for their anxiety. The theater patrons will soon determine whether millions will be made or lost.

For some info on the preview I went to Mervyn Leroy, long-time box wonder of films. Still boyish at 54, he has been directing pictures for almost 30 years and claims to be the veteran of 2,000 previews.

"Previews are indispensable," he told me in his comfortable studio office. "You can put your heart and soul into a picture, but you never know if it's good until you play it before an audience."

Virtually all producers except Darryl Zanuck preview their pictures. Some of them claim certain audiences around Los Angeles are jaded by too frequent previews and studios go far afield to seek fresh reactions. Leroy scoffs at this.

"All you need is an audience—any kind of audience," he said. "Give me a crowded theater anywhere: that's all I need to find out the worth of a picture."

Waltons of Walton Blvd. Find Country Living in City

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

Casual country living within the city limits of Pontiac is still possible — take the case of the Percy E. Waltons of Walton Blvd.

When their Huron St. residence was sold to make way for the new Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Bank, they had 90 days to decide where they were going to live.

In that period of time, they found a high 10 acre site at 490 Walton Blvd., selected a house plan, dug a well, engaged a contractor, and 70 days later moved into a new contemporary one-story house that is "just what we wanted."

They chose facilities which offer the utmost in convenience and comfort — but they refused to concede that a new house required new furnishings.

"Part of comfort in the golden years is in being surrounded with the things you have had all of your life — the furniture that has grown old with you," explains the gracious, gray-haired Mrs. Walton.

The exterior of the big, ranch-style home is straw colored brick. A bright green shingle for the roof offers color contrast and the wide overhangs which control the sun are painted white. This color, states Mr. Walton, reflects light and serves to give the interior of the house more of natural illumination.

The house measures 66 feet in length and 35 feet in width. It has an extra-sized two-car garage which houses not only the family automobile, but a tractor which plows, cultivates and serves as a snow plow. One side of the garage has long work benches with adjacent pine cupboards that open to reveal row after row of tool storage areas. Other concealed cabinets of the fully plastered garage include a furnace room, a fruit cellar and a garden tool cabinet.

In the ceiling of the garage is a folding stairway. Pride and joy of Mr. Walton who claims this facility allows storage in the attic space with only a "flip of the wrist," he had another one placed in the bedroom hallway leading to that section of the house attic.

The house plan includes a pine paneled den whose star concealed feature is the laundry washer and dryer hidden behind a pair of folding plastic doors.

"Wash days are now a pleasure. The laundry being on the same floor with the rest of the house saves climbing stairs and the dryer eliminates so much handling of heavy, wet clothing," says Mrs. Walton.

One bathroom is located between the kitchen and den. This is tiled in green and has glass block windows with a combination ceiling fan-heating unit.

The kitchen, where Mrs. Walton admits she enjoys spending most of her time, has a semi-circular unit of built-in white enameled cupboards of the metal type. The stove is placed close

EFFICIENCY KITCHEN—Mrs. Walton is shown working in her bright, efficiency kitchen with its well-planned working areas. The cupboards are white enameled metal with gray plastic counter tops.

For color she selected a rose and gray brick patterned paper on one wall. Note the spice cabinet on the right counter which is part of the cupboard. Mrs. Walton uses this for a handy bread box.

SLIDING DOORS CLOSE BEDROOM WING—A comfort feature of the Walton home is the sliding birch doors that Mr. and Mrs. Walton are shown closing. This shuts off the bedroom wing from the remainder of the house and provides quiet and allows a lower temperature for sleeping.

Inventors Learn How to Conduct Hobby Well in Small Apartment

CHICAGO (INS)—Papa may be king of the household but too often the only space he can call his own is a closet.

That limitation has forced many a budding handyman to drop the idea of working with tools but now a young Chicago lawyer has come up with a solution.

Leonard Mehlman has designed a collapsible workshop that hangs on a closet door.

Mehlman came up with the idea to solve his own problems of trying to carry out his home workshop hobby in an apartment. He said: "I got tired of rescuing my tools from my three little girls and my wife got tired of my appropriating the kitchen table for a workbench."

The unit is in a tall, narrow metal cabinet only six inches deep and weighs 41 pounds. The cabinet is 18 inches wide and 40 inches high.

The table folds out on metal legs and the cabinet is lined with metal pegboard and hooks for tools. It also has a goose-necked lamp and two electrical outlets.

The cabinet is mounted with four screws.

The table itself can support 300 pounds.

The miniature workshop will be distributed nationally.

Coffee Pot Fail? Check Fuse First

Many cooking appliances such as electric coffee pots have their own fuse which will blow in the event of trouble or water reaching the heating element.

These fuses are usually located under the bottom plate which can easily be removed. So when one of these appliances won't work, first check the fuse before you take it to a repair shop.

Carrying U. S. mail has been a railroad responsibility for 100 years.

Don't Paint in This Case

If you are troubled with mildew on walls, be careful about painting over wallpaper. The paint seals off the paper and allows mildew to start growing in the wallpaper paste.

to work counters and the sink with the refrigerator at the opposite end of the cupboards.

A kitchen broom closet is placed in one corner, which Mrs. Walton feels should be a standard facility in every kitchen.

To relieve the stark white of her cupboards, Mrs. Walton chose a white with green flecked tile for the wall sections around the cupboards. One wall is papered (along with the soffit) in a rose and gray brick pattern with green ivy. The floor is a rubber linoleum in gray, red and yellow.

The living room, with its wide windows affording an abundance of natural illumination and cross ventilation (a feature throughout the house), has green walls and a white ceiling. L-shaped, the living room has its base designed for a dining area.

A Tennessee marble fireplace is located at the end of the living room. One side has a built-in facility with the top portion glass-doored for book shelves and china curios and the bottom section features a series of built-in drawers for linens. These are concealed with a pair of doors.

Mrs. Walton has gray and rose sculptured carpeting on the floor and draperies with a soft green background in a complementary floral print.

The bedroom section of the house is accessible from two traffic lanes — one from the kitchen and dining area and one from the living room and front doorway. Three bedrooms and a master bathroom, with one bedroom performing the role of a sewing room, are connected with a hallway. Full ceiling-to-floor closets with sliding doors are located in the hall wall.

One bedroom, which the Waltons refer to as the "antique room," has a rag strip carpet and a century-old black walnut bedroom suite. The carpet was woven by her mother and grandmother and the furnishings were a gift of her grandmother while Mrs. Walton was still a little girl.

A soft rose coloring on these walls provides a lovely background for the old pieces.

Another bedroom has apple blossom walls and the sewing room has been painted gray and pink. Hardwood floors are used throughout this section.

The bathroom, with its built-in tiled-top dressing table unit and full-length linen cabinets, has walls of white ceramic tile edged in a patterned yellow.

Two large porches, the front with its decorative wrought iron grill work, and the back with a colored plexiglas roof, will be screened in for summer outdoor living rooms, said Mr. Walton. Both are edged with planters.

In the process of planning the orchard he intends to plant on the remainder of his 10 acres, Mr. Walton will have apple, peach and pear trees. A "green thumb enthusiast," he has already planted a strawberry patch and rows of raspberries. Along the front and side of the house he has designed formal gardens with a variety of evergreens and flowering shrubs. Choice roses are planted in a separate garden.

The Walton house was built by H. W. Heltman of Waterford Township.

Reinforce Concrete Patch

When making patches in concrete floors and walls, it's a good idea to reinforce the patch with a section of chicken wire or hardware cloth set in about the middle of the patch.

Chinese Had Right Word for Crisis or Opportunity

By STEVE ELLINGSON

An interesting old Chinese gentleman visited the pattern ranch yesterday and we got to talking about the Oriental method of writing. He explained that each one of the Chinese characters was more or less a picture of the word or words that it represented. For example, the Chinese character for crisis means at the same time danger and opportunity. It seems that the Chinese people feel that a crisis or problem, when properly handled, may mean an entrance into a great new world.

The old man said that every trouble we experience teaches us new wisdom and every problem that we solve helps us to be that much more successful. If we run out of problems and troubles, then we stop living. He said, "Always remember that trouble is only opportunity in working clothes. If you want to be successful, then find a problem and solve it. The more common and complex the problem is, the greater will be the success for the one who finds the solution."

As the Chinese gentleman was leaving, television star Johnny Warburton came in and we continued the discussion. Johnny said, "Look at Eleanor Roosevelt. She was a shy, ugly duckling and in overcoming that handicap she has become a very famous person. Jimmy Durante had a big nose and for a time he was very self-conscious, but in overcoming that problem he became a great actor. Lincoln failed in many things and was defeated a great many times in running for political offices, but each failure and each defeat made him that much greater as President."

I guess the ancient Chinese people were pretty wise when they made each character in their alphabet to represent the thought behind it. It's not a streamlined way of writing, but the philosophy behind it is interesting.

Since each letter in our American alphabet doesn't picture a thought or an idea, and since it takes a long time to learn Chinese, maybe the sensible thing to do is to get a saw and make a picture out of wood. The picture Johnny Warburton is holding certainly expresses an important thing in life. The cowboy is in love with his girl and the horse seems to be quite taken with the little filly. Johnny, who stars in the Fireside Theater series made this picture in an afternoon. It's to be a Valentine for his bride.

This is an easy project. The full size pattern was designed for the most inexperienced amateur. All you need do is trace the pattern on wood, then paint over the tracings exactly the way the pattern tells you to. After that saw out the unwanted portion of the wood. Next you connect the pictures with leather shoe strings and it's ready for hanging. Many people make these from leather, plastic, copper or even tin. Youngsters like this project as well as older people.

INDIVIDUAL LIVING — Note the plywood cutouts on wall and the sofa without arms for a sense of spaciousness.

Home Can Be a Standout

By VIVIAN BROWN

Are you tortured with the problem of "how to be different" in your development home?

If so, forget it.

It's simple if you'll keep a few basic tips in mind, says James Merrick Smith, Miami decorator. Smith who has just decorated six exhibit homes of ten thousand planned by Harland Bartholomew in Carol City, Florida, says you're in a cinch to be different if you'll just develop a few basic ideas.

"Keep in mind," he says, "that eye space is important in a small room. Select furniture that is scaled to the room size. Large pieces are space eaters."

He suggests choosing open, airy furniture. Such items as open arm chairs, armless divans and open headboards are all good choices.

Give your walls room to breathe. Don't clutter them with pictures. Use your imagination in putting decoration on the walls. Smith employed Florida materials such as shells, sprays of coral and seaweed, dried seed pods of tropical shrubs and trees on walls of these Carol City homes.

One inexpensive device he used on walls is the plywood cutout. Take any design you like from a stylized leaf to a fish. (If you live in the mountains you might prefer a bear or a tree shape.) Cut it out of the plywood. Several of the same shape may be used or a number of different shapes might be grouped together.

Smith suggests a basic color scheme that will float through the house. It will make the house look larger and it won't be monotonous if you emphasize a different color in each room.

For the three-bedroom, one-and-a-half bathroom house in this development, Smith used an all-over color plan of two shades of blue and yellow. All walls were light blue. Yellow was used as the predominant color in the accessories of one room, dark blue in another with yellow and light blue accessories. In the living room the three colors were balanced.

He used lavender blue and gray for the four-bedroom two-bath house. Living room wallpaper is a chalky blue with lavender and silver. Blue dominated the room, gray and lavender were accessories. One bedroom emphasized the lavender shade and another small studio bedroom gave free reign to the gray.

"When you have such a color plan," advises Smith, "you can borrow accessories from one room to another. Or you can have upholstered pieces around without fear that they will clash."

Most of these Florida homes have sliding glass doors leading from the living room to the patio so he carried his color scheme and furniture style right out there.

If you want to use period furniture in your modern ranch style home, don't hesitate—unless of course it is massive Empire, Chippendale or another period which might overwhelm a little house, he says. French

Provincial style was used by Smith in one of these homes and he found that "the style is particularly well adapted to small homes because the furniture is light in feeling and can be used informally."

Area rugs and plenty of uncovered floor space also give a feeling of spaciousness to the small room, he says.

Designer Declares Wallpaper Is Art

NEW YORK (INS) — Wallpaper is many a woman's introduction to art in the home, says a leading wallpaper designer.

Both mural and pattern types of wallpaper, says James Seeman, can add to the family's appreciation of art as well as decorate the house.

And housewives appreciate this, according to last year's winner of the Justin B. Allman Award for the most distinguished and outstanding contribution to the wallpaper industry.

Proof of this, he claims, is the fact that the many women who could get free paint jobs on their city apartments are willing to pay hard cash for wallpapering.

Most Antennas Beat in 2 Years

Tests Show 91 Per Cent of Lost Clarity in Set Is Due to Aerial

PHILADELPHIA (INS) — Television set owners who complain of poor quality reception when the set is "only two years old", should look more closely at their antennas.

That is the advice of Ben Snyder, head of the Snyder Mfg. Co. of Philadelphia, TV antenna makers.

"Too often, set owners blame the manufacturers or the service men because reception quality gets worse after the first 18 to 24 months and continually declines," he said. "What is actually needed is a new antenna."

Snyder pointed out that after two years of exposure to the elements on the roof, an antenna's lead-in plastic cable dries and cracks, connections have taken a beating and cannot possibly be as effective as when new.

"We have made exhaustive tests of this for the past five years," he reported, "and found that 91 percent of all television receivers two years old, which have lost accuracy and top quality, can have the reception quality restored with a new antenna."

The other nine per cent, he said, needed other repairs.

Modern Doors Follow Old Colonial Originals

Many pine panel doors are part of a tradition that goes back, unbroken, for hundreds of years. The panel doors installed on houses built or remodeled today often are exact or close duplicates of the doors on pre-Revolutionary houses in New England, Virginia, and other Eastern states.

In the colonial era, spiritually-minded or superstitious householders had their doors designed so that the sign of the cross was formed by the arrangement of the panels. It was believed that the religious symbol would keep out witches and evil spirits and gain divine protection for the house and its inhabitants. This cross symbol is retained in many modern doors.

The original colonial doors were made with comparatively crude tools by individual craftsmen, who were their own designers. Various woods were used. Although modern colonial doors are similar in design to the original ones, the method by which they are made has changed in keeping with latest technical advances.

Panel doors today are made of ponderosa pine rigidly graded as to quality and appearance and held to a minimum moisture content. Exterior doors are treated with a water-repellent, preservative chemical that guards against warping, swelling, shrinking, and rotting. The parts are machine-cut and precision-fitted.

Another modern door that is heir to a traditional type is the "ranch" door, with three square panels of equal size. Descended from the door used on haciendas of the old Southwest, it is produced today expressly for ranch-type homes. Altogether, there are more than 60 standard styles of pine panel doors. They are identified by stock numbers assigned by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The stationary laundry tub has taken on glamour. Soapstone, porcelain and concrete have given way to fiber glass-reinforced plastic in green, blue, yellow or white. The weight of the tub has been reduced by 90 per cent—so light that a woman can lift it. The prosaic angle-iron stand has been replaced by a graceful wrought iron fixture. The tubs are made of the same material now being used for lightweight bathtubs, sports car bodies and military body armor.

Even Old Refrigerator Shines Up Beautifully

Colored refrigerators are attractive in the kitchen—shiny, new ones, that is—but nothing looks sadder than a refrigerator yellowed with age.

It is a simple procedure to restore such a refrigerator to sparkling whiteness, however.

First, wet sand the entire surface. Use a soapy water solution as a lubricant and extra fine wet or dry sand paper.

When you've thoroughly sanded the refrigerator to a smooth texture, wet sand again with superfine wet or dry sandpaper. This not only removes any rough edges but takes the yellow surface off as well.

Return the gleam by rubbing the surface with a furniture rubbing compound — rottenstone and rubbing oil mixed to the thickness of a cake batter is good. To do this, wad a soft cloth into a tight ball and apply the compound. This will produce a high gloss which can then be cleaned with a furniture cleaner.

Hot Water After Dishes Prevents Clogged Drain

A good way to prevent having a clogged up kitchen drain is to run hot water down it after you have finished with the dishes. The hot water will dissolve any grease in the trap and get it out of the way before it can start to make trouble.

For gymnasium and multi-purpose room floors, the face width of maple flooring most popular with architects who specify it, is 2 1/4 inch.

Neat Commode Is Transformed Into Large Table

A new, space-saving commode transforms almost instantaneously into a sideboard and no-leaf extension dining table, seating up to eight persons. This laminated table top made of bakelite rigid vinyl sheet rolls out smoothly in one piece. A space saver for small apartments, this expandable dining commode also has three full-depth drawers for storing linens and other household items.

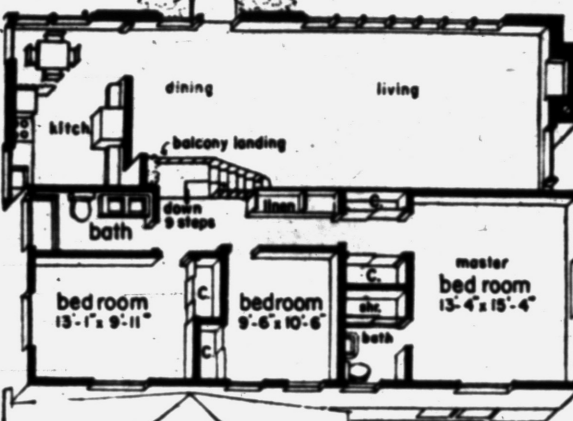

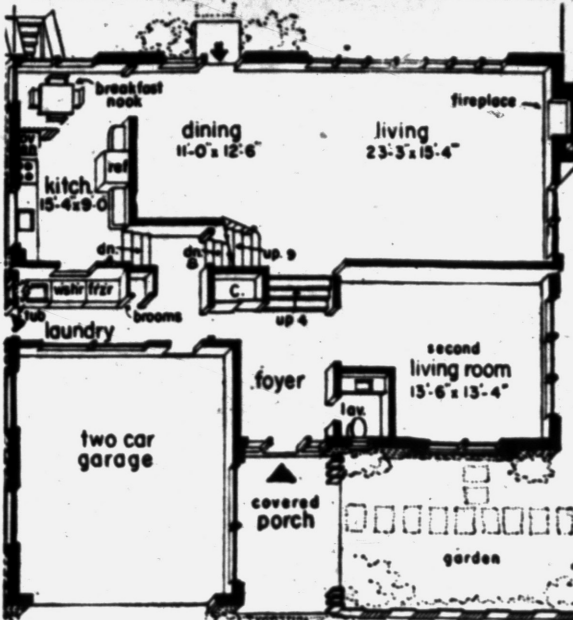

A light, steady pull extends the retracted legs and table top to any desired length for use as a buffet server, dinette or full length dining table. Its non-warping and easy-to-clean top resists staining by spilled foods and beverages such as butter, coffee, milk and chemicals. Telescoping steel slides and sturdy legs support the table surface so that it can bear the weight of a full grown man, according to the manufacturer.

After dining, the table top slides quickly back into a space paralleling the front, back and bottom sides, and becomes again a beautiful commode measuring 42 1/2 inches wide, 21 1/2 inches deep and 31 inches high.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

NEW IDEA—In split level construction, this new idea makes it possible to pack a maximum of floor space in a comparatively small amount of cubic space. Here a high-ceilinged dining and living room with a balcony landing and a second living room suitable for an emergency guest room are among features of a distinctive design. Including two-car garage, basement and covered porch, this house comprises a total of 29,691 cubic feet. There are two bathrooms and a powder room-lavatory. This is plan 9433-3 by Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N. Y.

Storing Paints Properly Saves Money and Time

By HUBBARD COBB

One of the big reasons for doing things yourself is to save money. One of the big ways to save money is not to waste things and next to paint brushes, few things get wasted as much as paint.

When the average character has a painting job to do he runs to his paint or hardware store and gets a gallon and maybe a quart or so extra just in case. When the job is finished he slaps the cover back on the container and sticks it in some spot where it won't be easily found. The next time he has a painting job to do he's off to the paint or hardware store even though he's got enough paint about the house to do the job.

Pretty soon he has a fine collection of partially filled paint cans, some containing usable paint and some filled with a hard useless substance.

The next time you have a paint job to tackle, figure out how many square feet have to be covered. Tell this to your dealer and he'll give you enough paint for the job with a little over just in case. When you have finished, and you find you have some paint left over, pour it into a small clean container.

The closer the paint fills the container the better it will last. Put a label on the container that will tell you what sort of paint it contains, how much is there (filled, half filled, one-third filled, etc.) and the date.

Now store the container upside down where you can find it. By storing it upside down you'll prevent air getting inside and forming a heavy skin on the surface of the paint. The next time you have a painting job, use this paint if possible before you open up a fresh can.

Wait Before Waxing

Just to be on the safe side, allow a freshly varnished floor to dry for about two weeks before you apply wax.

Geranium From Africa

The pelargonium, or geranium was known in England as early as 1690, coming originally from Africa. Plants were brought to this country before the Revolutionary War, according to the American Association of Nurserymen. Here they have been widely developed and planted, as well as in many other parts of the world.

Old Piano Stool Adapting Itself to New Kitchen

An old-fashioned piano stool can be a handy addition to modern kitchens.

It can be raised or lowered easily to the correct height for various sit-down chores.

A coat of washable enamel transforms it for kitchen duty, so it can fit into the decor and be kept spic and span.

Fix Loose Stair Dowel

Loose stair dowels can often be tightened by injecting some wood glue into the joint with an ear syringe. Another method is to drill a small hole at an angle through the dowel into the tread and then drive in a small finishing nail.

CONVERTS TO LINEN CLOSET—First this is a broom cabinet and then it becomes a linen closet. The Homemaker converts her Youngstown steel cabinet into a storage for linens merely by inserting four shelves that come in separate package. Later, if she likes, she switches back by just slipping out shelves.

New Light Switch Glows in the Dark

New mercury switches that operate silently without the usual on and off clicks are now being equipped with lighted handles clearly visible in the dark. A tiny neon light in the toggle handle glows when the switch is off.

Women Wield the Paint Brush

Wives and Daughters Choosing Colors and Painting Indoors

CHICAGO (INS)—More women are wielding a paint brush to give their homes new color schemes than ever before in America's history.

Inside paint jobs are really a family affair these days. The survey showed that wives or daughters did the painting 32.9 per cent of the time, husbands or sons 38.1 per cent of the time and the contract painter or landlord in 29 per cent of the cases.

That's in the city. In the country women do even more of the painting—16 per cent more. Men are still the mainstays in fact than their city "sisters," when it comes to painting the outside of the house, however. But a few women have tried that task, too. Do-it-yourself boys are responsible for 37.3 per cent of the exterior paint jobs, their wives for eight per cent and professional painters for the remainder.

CHECK THIS—Be sure there is a few inches of water in the sink when using rubber plunger.

Do-It-Yourself by Washington

First President Knew How to Paper Walls, Make Home Brew

George Washington believed in doing it himself. In at least two instances he left how-to-do-it instructions in his own handwriting. His directions on how to paper a room and how to make home brew still are available. Although Washington's recipe for beer is not appropriate for modern do-it-yourself fans because of federal and state laws which have been passed since his time, it serves as a reminder that Mount Vernon belonged to an older self-contained economy.

Such big estates made many things for themselves that are now bought in stores. Washington's interest in such operations was indicated when he wrote out the beer recipe. It reads:

"To make small beer—Take a large sifter full of bran. Hops to your taste—Boil these 3 hours, then strain out 30 gallons into a cooler. Put in 3 gallons molasses while the beer is scalding hot or rather draw the molasses into the cooler and strain the beer on it while boiling hot. Let this stand till it is little more than blood warm. Then put in a quart of yeast. If the weather is very cold cover it over with a blanket and let it work in the cooler 24 hours, then put it into the cask. Leave the bung open until it is almost done working—Bottle it the day it was brewed."

He ordered wall paper from France. A very modern touch was injected when he was unable to get a paper hanger in time to do the job before the banquet. And just like today's home owner he did the job himself, helped by his aid-de-camp and Lafayette.

Avoid Accident in the Home

Start Now and Inspect Each Room in House, to Eliminate Hazard

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—More home accidents happen in the winter—simply because we spend more time indoors.

It's a good idea to safeguard your family from the more obvious hazards by running a checklist on your home. Give each room a careful inspection with a view of what could happen when someone is careless.

Start with the kitchen. Inspect appliances, the stove, water heater and electrical equipment to see that all are in good working condition. Faulty equipment can result in scalds and burns.

Furniture should be checked in each room to make certain that it is firm and solid—a fall from a wobbly chair can easily cause a painful injury.

Stair carpeting is an important item on the accident check list—loose stair carpeting can cause a serious accident. Carpets in hall areas should be skid proof.

Provide enough ash trays throughout the house for smokers and visitors so that cigarettes are not carelessly placed down.

Fireplaces should have screens that guard against sparks on the rug, and the entire fireplace—flue, chimney and firebox should be checked once a year by an expert.

The bathroom and kitchen compete for top place as scenes of the most home accidents. It is not enough that poisonous medical supplies be carefully labeled; they should be stored out of the reach of children and in a spot where they cannot be confused with other medicines.

It's a good idea to check your medicine box periodically and toss away medicines no longer used.

A handhold on the bathtub is excellent protection against falls, so are nonslip mats both inside the tub and on the floor beside it.

Workshop Patterns

Whether you live in a udd house or are planning a new one, a place should be found for this cabinet to hold ironing and pressing equipment. With this cabinet complete as illustrated you are ready in ten seconds to do any job of ironing or to press a garment that is in the process of making. Directions for the cabinet and ironing board are on pattern 391. Large diagrams and one-two-three directions for making the small board and ham-shaped cushions which tailors use when pressing sleeves and the shoulders of garments are all on pattern 392. These patterns are 25 cents each and will be mailed the day order is received. For first class mail delivery add 2 cents, or 5 cents for air mail for each pattern ordered. Write The Pontiac Press, Pattern Dept., Bedford Hills, New York.

Surrealist Painter Designs for Shower

NEW YORK (INS)—Salvador Dali, celebrated surrealist painter, has turned to a new field—designing shower curtains.

The curtains decorated by Dali for the Ames Shower Curtain Company show an armless woman with a head of flowers sitting in a pool next to a dying tree. One of Dali's famous "melting" watches hangs from a branch of the tree.

The curtains are made of acetate taffeta and retail around $11.95.

What Will Be Effects of Labor Merger? Unity in Talking to Congress Tops List

FROM THE CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERS

WASHINGTON — Questions pour in to Congress on varied subjects. Here are a few of them with the answers:

Q—What immediate results are expected from the CIO and AFL merger?

A—More coordination in talking to Congress and issuing legislative bulletins is expected. Also predicted is a wider and more effective lobby coverage of Congress and a more thorough mobilization of grass-roots pressure. And unionists plan to work together more closely on local and state legislation.

Q—What's giving the impetus to the drive for unity between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations?

A—Those taking part in the merger drive say that the CIO-AFL non-aggression pact signed about two years ago is probably the biggest stimulus. Since then the possibility of a formal merger has been increased by general agreement on stands on unemployment compensation, social security, health insurance, and other features of labor's program.

Q—Have the CIO and the AFL always been separate organizations?

A—The Congress of Industrial Organizations was formally organized on Nov. 16, 1935, from the Committee for Industrial Organization, a one-time AFL group designed to promote the industrial type of union. The CIO, led by John L. Lewis, was suspended from the AFL in 1936 and was later expelled. Since then, the CIO and the AFL have been entirely separate bodies.

Q—What are the "right-to-work" laws which the CIO and AFL have been opposing, and which Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell has questioned?

A—Seventeen states have "right-to-work" laws, which in effect outlaw the union shop. (Labor leaders prefer to call these laws "anti-union shop," rather than "right-to-work.") Union shop contracts require workers to join unions within a specified period after taking jobs. The 17 states forbid making union membership a condition of employment. The Taft-Hartley labor law permits the union shop, but gives states the right to outlaw the practice. Unions are trying to get Congress to repeal this provision of the law, and also are working at the state level.

Q—How often has the President authorized combat action by U.S. armed forces without a declaration of war by Congress?

A—Counts differ, but one authority, James Grafton Rogers, listed 149 cases from 1798 to Pearl Harbor. The series began with an undeclared war against France in 1798. In most cases, the President acted to protect American rights and property abroad. The Korean war was the most extensive use of military force by the President under his powers as Commander-in-Chief.

The President said he would take military action on his own to defend Formosa if an emergency arose before Congress approved use of the armed forces against Chinese Communist aggression. Doesn't Congress have exclusive power to declare war?

A—Yes, but there's a shadow area between formal war and use of military forces in combat. Besides giving Congress power to declare war, the Constitution makes the President Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces. That's the basic authority on which Mr. Eisenhower would take military action without a Congressional declaration.

Q—I've heard that many of the issues slated to come before the 84th Congress have been debated before. What are some of these?

A—Debate is expected on such familiar issues as military manpower, taxation, foreign aid, reciprocal trade, and public vs. private power. But with many new faces in Congress as result of the Nov. 2, 1954, general election, debate on these old issues may take a new twist in the 84th Congress.

Marine Can Do Better With Trusty Slingshot

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — It is no idle boast when Marine Master Sgt. Frank O. Freeman tells recruits here at pistol practice that he could do better with a slingshot.

In one demonstration, he zipped expended .45 calibre slugs into the target with his sling for a marksman qualifying score.

Red Architects Accused of Being Too Artistic

MOSCOW — Russia's architects want to be classified as artists instead of builders. They have formally petitioned the government that they be transferred to the Ministry of Culture and taken away from the Ministry of Construction.

And this attitude, says Pravda, is one of the big reasons why Soviet building—especially residential—is too expensive, too inefficient and too fancy on the outside and uncomfortable on the inside, the paper says.

The faults of Soviet building were severely criticized at a meeting of builders.

Plat Approval Speedup Sought

McQuaid Seeking New Legislation for Quicker Home Development

Legislation designed to speed up the approval of plats for new home developments will be offered soon in the Michigan Senate, largely through the efforts of Orrin McQuaid, Oakland County registrar of deeds.

McQuaid, who has been working on a plan to ease the present bottleneck in project approvals, returned yesterday from a meeting in Lansing where details of the proposed change in the plat act were completed by the legislative committees of the Michigan registers of deeds and county treasurers' associations.

Sen. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) has agreed to sponsor the bill amending the plat act, McQuaid said, and added that the legislation would have the finished recommendations of the county officials by Monday morning.

"The way the plat act is written," McQuaid explained, "developers planning smaller lots face a terrific obstacle. Where lots are less than 60 feet in width, sewage and water must be in and ready to connect before the plat can be approved."

This, McQuaid said, is what his group is trying to change. If a two-thirds majority of the Legislature votes in favor of the measure it would go into effect immediately.

"Millions of dollars worth of new housing is being delayed by this section of the act," McQuaid added. He pointed out that at least a dozen plats are being held up now in Oakland County for this reason.

McQuaid said he is presently including into the proposed amendment several compromise measures suggested by members of the State Senate with whom the legislation was discussed Thursday. These, the Oakland County official hopes, will speed passage of the measure.

Boy, 5, Hurt as Sled Goes Under Car Wheel

One of two boys, who were playing on their sleds in Independence Township yesterday, slid down a hill and under the rear wheel of an auto driven by Lawrence Meser, 35, of 2905 Grand River, Farmington, Oakland County Sheriff's deputies reported today.

The youngster, Larry Strong, 5, of 205 Mann, Clarkston, was treated for head injury at Pontiac General Hospital. The driver said his auto missed the first boy, but was unable to avoid the accident with the second boy. They were sliding down a hill on Walden Rd. at Buffalo St.

Ford's Expansion Soars to $1.7 Billion

DETROIT (INS) — The Ford Motor Co., has disclosed that the price tag on its nationwide post-World War II expansion and modernization program has gone up to $1,700,000,000 over original estimates.

The latest report on the company's building boom showed that the estimated total cost of the completed program has soared to $1,700,000,000.

The increase was attributed to these developments:

1. The addition to the program of a new multi-million dollar chassis parts plant in Sterling Township, Macomb County, and a major engineering and research building and parts depot at St. Paul, Minn.

2. Increased expenses beyond those anticipated on various building projects now under construction.

3. New projects, the nature of which will not be announced until the necessary land is acquired.

Upper Peninsula Study to Probe Winter Sports

HOUGHTON (UP) — Michigan Tech and the Michigan Tourist Council will make a survey of winter sports and resort facilities in the Upper Peninsula, it has been announced.

The survey will gather information on facilities, tourist expenditures, trends in winter resort travel and use and other factors affecting winter tourist trade.

The survey will be similar to that winter sports survey in which the council and Michigan State participated last year.

Solon Wants Colleagues to Borrow Voters' Trick

WASHINGTON (UP) — A Michigan Republican suggested today that congressmen borrow a trick from their constituents if they want to eat in comfort.

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman urged fellow House members and their employees to send postcards to speaker Sam Rayburn and House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. supporting his (Hoffman's) bill to build a new House restaurant.

OGDENSBURG, Wis. (INS) — The Ogdenburg, Wis., fire department battled a blaze in the Tob Webb sales building one night this week. While they were gone, their own fire station burned down.

Jobless Claims Rise Slightly This Week

Unemployment claims continued to rise this week, due chiefly to model changeover at GMC Truck & Coach Division, the Pontiac office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission reported yesterday.

Listed on the jobless claims roll at week's end were 2,704 persons, an increase of 84 over the previous week.

"Unemployment should start dropping in two or three weeks when GMC goes back," said James H. Dudley, office manager.

Building Permits Hit $55,000 for Week

Building permits totaling $55,000 were issued by the City Building Dept. this week.

O'Neill & Buck Building Co., received six permits for new homes. Five of the structures will be on Scottwood avenue and are valued at $6,000. A sixth, valued at $8,000, will be built on East Cornell avenue.

Shakeup in Kremlin Dominates the News This Week

WASHINGTON (INS) — A "controlled" explosion in the Kremlin shook the world this week. It blasted Georgi Malenkov out as Soviet premier, boosted Marshal Nikolai Bulganin into the job, and boomed Communist Party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev as Russia's new strong man.

Malenkov quit with a self-abasing confession of "guilt" in mismanagement of farm production and foreign affairs. Bulganin's accession to the premiership was accompanied by loud denunciation of the U.S., voiced by the old Bolshevik, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

One man thoroughly unshaken by the political upheaval in Moscow was President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He viewed the surprising events with an old soldier's calm detachment.

Betty Grable's Leg in Bandages

Multiple Injuries Force Star to Cancel Her TV Appearance

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — The most famous right leg in Hollywood is bandaged from toe to knee today, and its owner, Betty Grable, sighed it cost her a lot of money.

Betty's understructure is well known from numerous Technicolor movie musicals and television.

But last week the famous blonde injured one leg so badly she had to cancel a reported $40,000 appearance on a CBS TV "Shower of Stars" program.

"I had to forfeit a lot of money, but I can't say how much," admitted Betty as she hobbled on crutches in her Beverly Hills home.

"The doctor told me I can start trying to walk, but I won't be able to dance for several weeks. The swelling has gone but my leg still is terribly black and blue."

The Grable gam was hurt when she jumped out of bed one morning and twisted her leg because her foot was asleep.

"It was very painful," she said. "I went to the races the next day but I was in agony. My leg looked awful. I called the doctor and discovered I had ruptured a tendon and torn a ligament in my foot and dislocated my knee."

Betty usually doesn't give too much thought to the legs that have earned her a fabulous living for a decade.

"But now I'm wondering if my left leg will look bigger from using it more," she said. "I hope it doesn't."

Betty still will be able to co-star with Sheree North in a 20th Century-Fox film, "How to Be Very, Very Popular," because shooting won't start until Feb. 21. This movie marks the studio's try at doing without Marilyn Monroe (she was suspended after refusing the part), and also the return of Betty to Fox after two years (she was temporarily deposed by Marilyn).

"When I drove through the studio gates for wardrobe tests, the gatesmen got down on his knees," Betty said. "Wasn't that sweet?"

A newcomer will get what may be the break of her career because of Betty's injury. Shirley MacLain, a dancer originally signed for a small role in "Shower of Stars," was handed Betty's routine yesterday.

Hospital Head to Attend Conference in New York

Lauretta Paul, director of Pontiac General Hospital, will attend a five-day conference of the American College of Hospital Administrators starting Monday in New York.

The first of three conferences to be held in 1953, the session next week will be devoted to problems of current administrative functions. A high point of the conference will be a seminar on the general economic situation and its impact on hospitals, said Miss Paul.

Two other conferences this year will be held in Chicago and Berkeley, Calif., on other matters pertaining to American hospitals.

Wants Stores to Return to 'Red Carpet' Policies

DETROIT (UP) — Murray Shoklin president of the New England Advertising Co., said yesterday that commercial establishments should return to the "red carpet" treatment of customers.

Shoklin told the Detroit Adcraft Club that too many businessmen are forgetting to say "thanks."

Malenkov quit with a self-abasing confession of "guilt" in mismanagement of farm production and foreign affairs. Bulganin's accession to the premiership was accompanied by loud denunciation of the U.S., voiced by the old Bolshevik, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

One man thoroughly unshaken by the political upheaval in Moscow was President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He viewed the surprising events with an old soldier's calm detachment.

He said he doubted that Bulganin's promotion from defense minister to Premier and Molotov's harsh language meant a more warlike Russian policy toward the U.S. He observed that while the real significance of the Malenkov ouster is still obscure, "It does express dissatisfaction with what has been going on internally." He said there will be no change in U.S. policy but that "we must be watchful and alert."

The President brushed aside Molotov's claim of Russian atomic superiority as something without

Financier Buys Toronto Paper

Over $10 Million Said Paid for $111-Year-Old Globe and Mail

TORONTO (UP) — R. Howard Webster, 45-year-old Canadian financier, took over today as new owner of the Toronto Globe and Mail, Canada's biggest morning newspaper.

Webster announced last night he was the successful bidder for the 111-year-old paper at a purchase price believed considerably in excess of 10 million dollars. It was reportedly the largest transaction in Canadian newspaper history.

Webster said he planned no changes and expressed hope all employees would remain. Webster, whose family has long been associated with the development of Canada, is a director of many Canadian and U.S. concerns.

The Globe and Mail was put on the block last August following the death of the former publisher, George C. McCallagh.

Among the other bidders was William Loeb, owner of newspapers in New Hampshire and Vermont.

Nixon Setting Out for Guatemala on Tour Windup

MEXICO (UP) — Vice President Richard Nixon prepared to leave Mexico today for Guatemala on the third leg of his goodwill tour of Caribbean countries. U.S. economic aid is expected to be the top subject in his talks with Guatemalan leaders.

President Eisenhower's former personal plane, the Columbine II, was readied to take off with the vice presidential party for the flight to Guatemala City at 10 a.m. EST.

Nixon was expected to face appeals for more U.S. aid to Guatemala. Many Latin Americans and some U.S. senators have criticized Washington for not giving the Guatemalans more help after the Communist-supported government of ex-President Jacobo Arben Guzman was ousted in a revolution last June.

The vice president and his wife wound up their three days of official activities in Mexico last night with officials and newspapers applauding them for what was called a highly successful personal visit.

Injured in Accident

Mrs. Frederick Seitz, 19, of 63 Sylvan, Lake Orion, was treated by a private doctor for minor injuries suffered yesterday in a 2-car accident, Fairview road near Indianwood road in Orion Township.

According to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies, both drivers, Mrs. Seitz and Charles Harris, 17, of 1215 Hemingway, Lake Orion, skidded on ice while trying to negotiate a curve and collided.

Business Notes

In an effort to provide additional working capital to finance installment sales of trucks, cars and other products, General Motors Acceptance Corp. is considering sale of $250,000,000 in debenture bonds to the public. The announcement was made yesterday by President Charles G. Stradella.

Thomas Rowe, dean of University of Michigan's College of Pharmacy, and William Pierce associate director of UM's law school research center, will speak on a proposed new pharmacy act at a joint meeting of Oakland and Macomb county pharmacists and the Michigan Branch of the American Pharmaceutical Assn. The meeting is scheduled for Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Northwood Inn, Berkley.

Fred W. Adams has been appointed director of advertising and merchandising for Nash Motors Division of American Motors Corp. He will be responsible for advertising, sales promotion, sales training and used car merchandising.

Appointment of Wallace E. Wilson as general manager of the Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac Assembly Division of General Motors' Kansas City, Kan., plant was announced today. He succeeds Edward D. Rorert, who was named general manager of GM's Harrison Radiator Division at Lockport, New York.

J. P. Shaupner has been named Assistant Sales Promotion manager of Cadillac Motor Car Division, Detroit.

Pricks Fears of 'Automation'

Chairman of U. S. Steel Claims Mechanization Makes More Jobs

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (INS) — U. S. Steel Corp. chairman Benjamin F. Fairless says that fears of "automation" causing mass industrial unemployment are "just plain silly."

Fairless said in a speech here last night that the time had come to refute what he called "vicious propaganda" that additional industrial mechanization will bring about unemployment.

Fairless also told the Greater Johnstown Chamber of Commerce that the "manufacturing industry on the whole has passed on to its customers and employees virtually all of the savings from increased productivity."

Fairless said that rather than causing unemployment, the increases of industrialization or automation actually have enlarged the number of jobs.

The word automation, Fairless said, conjures up for people who do not understand the word's scientific meaning, "visions of a wholly automatic factory where machines with super-brains will grind out products without any human payroll whatever."

Fairless added that there "are no such factories and no such machines, nor will there ever be either in my time or yours."

He said that among engineers who coined the word, automation is merely the term which "conveniently describes certain mechanical controls and processes. There is nothing frightening about it; nor is there anything basically new about the mechanical principles to which it applies."

2 County Men to Attend Founder's Day Rites

Two Oakland County men are among those invited to attend Founder's Day ceremonies at Michigan State College today.

Dr. Robert H. Baker of Birmingham, president of the Michigan State Medical Society and Louis Schimmel, of 509 W. Iroquois Rd., director of the Municipal Advisory Council, will attend.

Founder's Day initiates a year-long commemoration of MSC's centennial year.

Auto Output Runs 42 Pct. Over 1954

DETROIT (UP) — Automobile production is running 42 per cent ahead of last year, Ward's Automotive Reports said today.

The trade agency said this week's record weekly high production of 167,095 units pushed production for the year to 958,570 new cars, compared to only 673,283 at this time a year ago.

Ward's said this week's record high might be topped in the next few weeks if parts shortages which have been plaguing Chrysler Corp. and Packard are eased.

While car production is up, truck production is trailing 1954. Truck production to date is 121,158 units, compared to 138,691 at this time last year, Ward's said.

Total car and truck production this week was estimated at 181,919 compared to 182,690 last week and 129,898 for the same week a year ago.

Pontiac Pianist to Play on National Radio Program

Vivian Scott, young Pontiac pianist, will play the first movement of "The Emperor Concerto" by Beethoven Monday on Best of All, WWJ-Radio, from 8:15 to 9:00 p.m. Commemorating Negro History week, the program will feature Grace Bumby, contralto and Fred Thomas, baritone and 1951 winner of the Metropolitan Auditions of the Air. Marion Anderson will introduce each participant.

Liberace to Give Away Sister in Rites Today

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — The San Fernando Valley home of Liberace will be the scene today for a marriage between Ann Cole, sister of the pianist, and Thomas Farrell, 36, local building contractor.

Liberace, who will give the bride away, described the wedding as a "quiet family affair." Included on the guest list are Sonja Henie, singer Connie Haines, Van Johnson, members of Liberace's television orchestra, television officials and friends.

This is the second marriage for the bride and the first for Farrell.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. A. J. Soidan of the Village Church of Westwood.

Boy Suffers Bruises When Struck by Car

David Hopp, 6, of 295 Doris Rd., was treated for bruises at St. Joseph Hospital yesterday when police reported the boy darted from in front of a bus into the path of an auto driven by Howard W. MacDonald, 43, of 135 Eastman St., Mt. Clemens, on Auburn Ave. and Doris Rd.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies quoted MacDonald as saying he was unable to stop in time to avoid striking the child who had just left the bus. The bus, which was carrying school children, was not marked as a school bus, police said.

UM Students Change Aims

Business and Teaching Crowd Out Medicine, Dentistry and Law

ANN ARBOR (U) — The time-honored professions of law, medicine and dentistry no longer are the most popular goals of youth. Studies by the Commission on Human Resources and Advanced Training, show that only eight per cent of today's new college graduates have prepared for these professions.

The studies point out that 50 years ago, these three were the most popular.

But with swelling enrollment today's universities report that business administration and education are the most popular courses of study. Why? The study has some answers there too.

Two University of Michigan men, Charles E. Odegaard, dean of the Literary School and Ralph A. Sawyer, dean of the Graduate School, were members of the commission that prepared the study.

They show that college graduation shows the sweeping changes in modern education.

At the turn of the century, only one person in 60 was graduated from college. Now one out of every eight persons earns his degree. In 1900, men outnumbered women 2-1, but they barely outnumber them 3-2 today.

With spring enrollment figures now available at the university, some very short range trends are also available. In the School of Education, there continues to be a rise. There are 141 more students in this school this spring than there were last spring.

The 683 now enrolled in education at Michigan is a new all time record, topping a former peak of 573 in the fall of 1950.

The Engineering College and the Literary College showed gains of 360 and 400 students respectively since last spring.

Only four schools, the university reports, failed to show increases out of the 15 schools on the university campus. They were dentistry, graduate study, public health and social work.

Liquor, Football Betting Thriving in Great Britain

LONDON (U) — The British people drink more hard liquor and bet more on football pools during the 1953-54 fiscal year than ever before in history, the Customs and Excise Department reported today.

Consumption of spirits rose to 10,640,000 gallons compared with 10,220,000 in the previous twelve months. The betting turnover of the nation's 44 football pools was 72 million pounds, up 4 million pounds.

Even Muskegon's Mice Must Be Getting Ulcers

Bares Increase in Large Fires

Group Claims Continent Had 313 Blazes Costing $202 Billion in 1954

BOSTON (U) — North America had more "large loss" fires—those in excess of $250,000 each last year—than ever, the National Fire Protective Association reports.

There were 313 big blazes in the United States and Canada in 1954, which took 408 lives and caused property loss of $202,360,000. This was $72,000,000 less than the record loss set in 1953.

The large loss fires represented only one-half of one per cent of the total but accounted for 10 per cent of the property loss.

The association said an encouraging note was the 30 per cent decrease in the number of manufacturing fires—down to 75 from 105.

Of the 313 large-loss fires, 247 were buildings; the rest aircraft and ships.

The NFPA said that in 70 per cent of the building fires, delayed discovery could be blamed for a major portion of the damage.

Most disastrous "big" fire of the year was the May 21st explosion aboard the aircraft carrier Bennington, which killed 168.

The largest single fire, excluding aircraft fires, occurred in Pekin, Ill., when a group of whiskey warehouses burned, killing six fire-fighters and destroying $1,000,000 of whiskey.

There are 319,000 blind Americans.

State Publisher Buys Fragment of Shooting Star

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (U)—Stuart H. Perry, publisher of the Adrian, Mich., Telegram, now owns the valuable meteorite found on a county road last Nov. 30 by a 60-year-old farmer.

The meteorite is thought a fragment of the same shooting star that struck Mrs. Hewlett Hodges, 31, of Sylacauga, who became the first human being ever hit by such a missile from outer space.

Purchase price of Perry's star fragment was not disclosed, but it was understood it was several hundred dollars.

Charles Cleveland, attorney for Julius K. McKinney who found the object, said yesterday it was the largest amount ever paid for a fragment of that type. The fragment was described as a chondritic meteorite—the most common of the stony types.

McKinney spotted the meteorite in the road when his mule shied at it and refused to continue until McKinney climbed down from his wagon and heaved the object into the ditch.

"I didn't know what I threw away until the next day when I read about Mrs. Hodges getting hit," he said. "I went back and took it out of the ditch. Now, I'm going to buy that there mule the biggest dinner he will eat."

Everything's Going Up

FRANKFORT, Mich. (UP) — This Benzle County community's fire loss during 1954 was 16 times higher than in 1953, fire chief Clarence Gum reports. Fires caused damage totaling $16,525 last year compared to a $1,000 total fire loss in 1953.

Borg Director in Fatal Crash

Expect Release Today of Michigan Man Held in Franklin, Ky.

FRANKLIN, Ky. (U)—Howard E. Blood, Michigan industrialist, faces a technical charge of manslaughter as the driver of a car involved in a fatal accident 2 1/2 miles south of Franklin yesterday.

Blood, of Grosse Pointe Farms, was en route to Florida with his wife when their car collided with a station wagon driven by Mrs. Parnell Deasy, 59, a Portland, Tenn., florist.

Mrs. Deasy was killed. She was thrown from the station wagon. Both Bloods escaped with bruises.

Sheriff L. S. Chauvin of Simpson County called the accident "unavoidable." He said Mrs. Deasy's station wagon spun out of control on the icy highway and swerved into Blood's car.

Chauvin said Blood probably would be released today after a coroner's jury determines the cause of death.

Blood, 68, is a director of Borg-Warner Corp. and is the retired president of the corporation's Norge Division. An internationally known production expert, he is the founder of Norge Corp., which merged into Borg-Warner.

Question Asked Douglas on Slavery Paved Way to White House for Abe

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (INS)—An Illinois historian disclosed today that a missing document has been discovered from the papers of Abraham Lincoln on his historic debates with Stephen A. Douglas.

It is the long-sought portion of a notation containing the "Freeport Question," which Lincoln put to Douglas in debates at Freeport, Ill., and which killed Douglas' chances to become president of the United States.

The first part of the document is contained on a scrap of paper which was given to the Illinois State Historical Library at Springfield three years ago.

The newly found portion contains the rest of the query which threw Douglas into a dilemma. The question in full was:

(First part) "If the people of Kansas shall by means entirely unobjectionable in all other respects, adopt a state constitution, and ask admission into the union under it before they have the required number of inhabitants according to the English bill—some 93,000—will you vote to admit them?"

(Second part) "Can the people of a United States territory, in any lawful way, against the wish of any citizen of the United States, exclude slavery from its limits prior to the formation of a state constitution?"

Douglas had been upholding local autonomy in the matter of slavery. Yet he had tried to avoid challenging the U.S. Supreme Court decision that no territory could be closed to slavery.

Sanitary Fill Use Explained

Residents Are Urged to Observe Regulations at New Location

Regulations for use of the city's sanitary fill on Kennett road near Oakland avenue were announced today by Joseph B. Jewell, Pontiac superintendent of public works.

"Recent infractions of rules at the fill have created an unsanitary condition," Jewell said. "We are asking persons and commercial firms who haul garbage and refuse there to observe the regulations."

"If everyone cooperates, the sanitary fill can avoid the unpleasant smells and littered appearance of a dump, Jewell stated. "By placing refuse properly so we can cover it over with earth each day, it is also possible to keep rats from getting a start."

The city official listed these rules for persons using the sanitary fill:

1. Garbage and trash may be taken to the sanitary fill weekdays between 6 a.m. and 7 p.m., and on Saturdays and holidays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.
2. Place refuse where the attendant directs, and avoid scattering trash over the surface of the fill.
3. Commercial vehicles hauling refuse to the fill must not allow any trash or garbage to fall out, littering city streets.
4. Dumping near the gates of the fill is prohibited.

Jewell urged city residents to make use of the municipal garbage collection system where possible, and pointed out that Pontiac Police have been instructed to crack down on violators of sanitation ordinances.

Auto Trim Transferred to Ionia After Blaze

OWOSSO (U)—Don Mitchell, president of the Mitchell-Bentley Corp., says production of automotive trim has been transferred to the company's Ionia plant following the two million dollar fire that destroyed half of the company's plant in Owosso Thursday night.

The company makes arm rests, seat cushions and other interior trim for the automotive industry.

But Lincoln Lost State Railroad Hired Abe to Fight Early Court Battle

The nation Saturday observes the 146th anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth and the Michigan Railroad Association has gathered hitherto little known facts of his connections with railroads, one of them a Michigan corporation.

Lincoln was a rising young lawyer in Springfield, Ill., in 1851 when he was approached by James F. Joy of Detroit who hired him to get an Illinois charter that would allow the struggling Michigan Central Railroad to cross from Indiana into Chicago. Chicago objected to "railroads from the East" and fought efforts to have the state grant charters to "foreign" railroads.

Lincoln failed to obtain the charter from the Illinois legislature but Joy finally persuaded the Illinois Central to run its tracks to the Indiana border and grant Michigan Central perpetual running rights over them into Chicago.

Lincoln was a railroad man long before he was a national figure. In addition to fighting many cases for them he fostered railroads. As an Illinois legislator he voted for an ambitious railroad construction program without much thought about where the money was coming from to carry it out.

An incident that might have changed the course of Lincoln's career is said to have occurred in the early spring of 1860. In the audience when Lincoln delivered his brilliant political address at Cooper Institute in New York City was Erasmus Corning, president of the New York Central Railroad.

Corning was so impressed by the speaker that he sought Lincoln the next day and offered him the post of general counsel for the railroad at a salary of $10,000 a year. Lincoln declined the tempting offer saying that he wouldn't know what to do with so much money. Had he accepted he might never have become president.

Lincoln took two trips by rail that have gone down in history. One was his journey from Chicago to Washington to become president, a present-day 16 hour trip, that took two weeks and was over most of the then existing railroads. The other was to Gettysburg, in a train with gaily decorated locomotive and four coaches.

Lincoln was the only president for whom a private railroad car was especially built, a bullet-proof, chocolate-brown coach bearing the coat of arms of the United States. Simplicity-loving Lincoln declined to use it, but his body was borne in it from Washington to his final resting place.

Detroit Man Succumbs Following Auto Accident

DETROIT (UP) — Horace W. Webster, 61, Detroit, died at Highland Park General Hospital last night shortly after a car in which he was riding was involved in a collision at a suburban intersection.

Webster was a passenger in a car driven by William G. Walters, 54, Detroit. Police said a car driven by Montgomery Riley, 44, collided with the Walters car after running a stop sign.

Both drivers were hospitalized with injuries.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR daughter, Irene Tunn, passed away Feb. 11, 1955. Always sweet and kind. Always loved and missed. Where all the joy and mirth. And the place you left so empty. No one can fill on earth. Sadly missed by her parents, Mr. & Mrs. Roy Carr.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF JOHN Bridgwater, who passed away Feb. 11, 1955. Always so true, unselfish and kind. Few in this world his equal will find. A wonderful life that came to an end. As if he had lived—everyone's friend. Sadly missed by wife and family. Mr. & Mrs. George Schmidt, who passed away Feb. 12, 1955. Thoughts of you are always near. We who love you miss you sadly. As if you were still here. Sadly missed by his loving family. Mr. & Mrs. George Schmidt.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR dear brother, Amasa Weaver, who passed away Feb. 12, 1955. Gone, but not forgotten. Sadly missed by his Sisters, Niece and Nephews.

Fire Damages Hotel in Dallas

Swank Clubrooms Are in Ruins After Mystery Blaze; Thousands Flee

DALLAS (AP)—Three swank clubrooms were in ruins and much of the rest of the Hotel Adolphus bore scars from smoke and water today, but the hotel owners called themselves lucky.

Only eight persons of an estimated 2,000 occupants, 400 employees and 150 firemen were hurt when a mysterious fire gutted a part of the second floor of the 1,250-room structure yesterday.

The blaze burst from the kitchen of the plush Insurance Club spread by a mysterious explosion. It ate through clubrooms and nearby private dining rooms until put out almost two hours later.

Leo Corrigan, owner of the hotel, estimated damage "somewhere between $50,000 and $100,000. Club officials said furnishings, a total loss, were valued at $35,000. The origin of the blaze was undetermined.

Smoke, so dense that more than 20 persons were overcome, filled corridors of the sprawling building, causing an evacuation order that officials said cleared the building with miraculous calm.

Most persons moved quietly to elevators and were taken past the fire area to the lobby and on outside.

Eartha Will Return to Show Cast Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The press agent for Eartha Kitt, sultry songstress now starring in a Broadway dramatic role, says she will leave her hospital bed today and be on hand again for the show's matinee.

On Thursday night, Miss Kitt walked offstage during her performance in "Mrs. Patterson" saying "I can't go through with it." She entered Doctor's Hospital yesterday for treatment of a kidney ailment, but was back in her role last night at the National Theater. Then she returned to the hospital.

The Negro actress' agent, Virginia Wicks, early today termed "irrelevant" reports that Miss Kitt was having boyfriend or cast trouble.

Asks Mail Ban on Subversive Publications

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposal that subversive publications be banned from the United States mails came yesterday from the House Un-American Activities Committee.

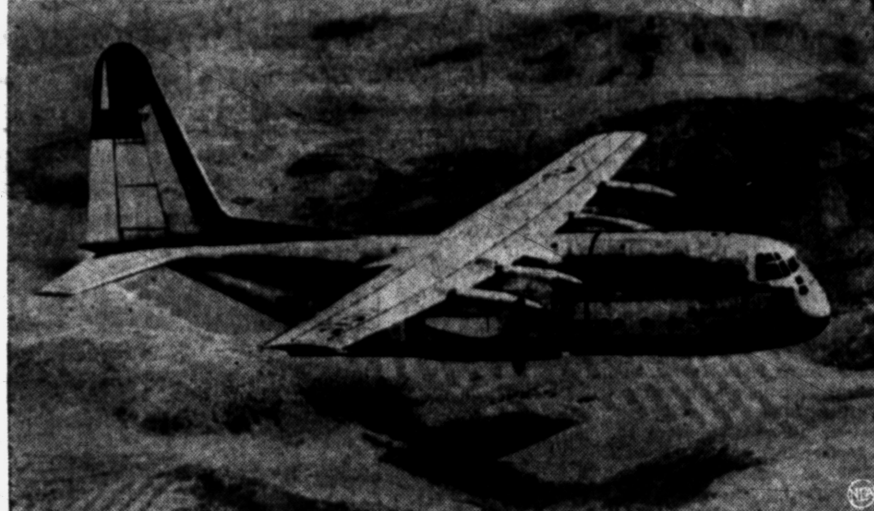

The house committee, issuing its 1954 annual report, also called for laws which would make it a crime for anyone to carry a secret government document in interstate commerce without authorization, and require any person bidding on a government contract to swear he hasn't belonged during the past decade to any organization advocating forcible overthrow of the government.

The Red-hunting committee itself cannot write legislation. It must depend instead on other committees to follow up its recommendations if they see fit. It was headed by Rep. Velde (R-Ill) last year.

The recommended mail ban would apply to "subversive publications"—not specified in the report—whether they come from inside the country or outside. It did not say who should have the authority to declare them subversive. The publications would be denied second-class mailing privileges, under which most newspapers and magazines are mailed.

Life Looks Brighter

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—At the zoo, 40 sun lamps have been installed in the monkey cages.

HERCULES TAKES TO THE AIR—This is the first in-flight photo of the U. S. Air Force YC-130 Hercules, a new turbo-prop cargo carrier built by Lockheed Aircraft in Burbank, Calif. It can take off from short runways with personnel or vital supplies; fly faster and higher than any other military transport; drop paratroops and air-drop cargo to ground troops; land on rough or makeshift air strips to deliver troops and weapons to the front lines; evacuate wounded to rear-area hospitals and serve as a cargo carrier for long-range movements. The airplane measures 132 feet from wing tip to wing tip, 95 feet from nose to tail, and 38 feet in height.

Can You Quote Sentence Abe Lincoln Said or Wrote

NEW YORK (AP) Suppose you were on a quiz show tonight and the master of ceremonies asked:

"What American president was born in a log cabin in Kentucky 146 years ago today? Here are a few hints: His mother was Nancy Hanks. He was nicknamed 'Honest Abe'. He wore a beard. His wife was Mary Todd. He freed the slaves. And—listen closely to this final tipoff—he was shot by an actor named John Wilkes Booth."

But not you. You'd know the right answer—Abraham Lincoln.

Suppose then the MC said: "Wonderful! Wonderful! Now you have a shot at the final $999,999.99 jackpot question. Please listen carefully. Lincoln was one of the most eloquent Americans who ever lived. He wrote or spoke millions of words. Can you repeat just one single sentence ever written or spoken by this famous man who now belongs to the ages? You have 30 seconds."

Well, if you are an average American here is what would happen:

"Sure, that's easy—the old Gettysburg address. I learned that in school. Know it by heart. Couldn't forget it if I tried."

"Just give us one quick sentence then," purrs the MC. "Four score and seven years ago—" You begin, "our fathers. No, I think he said forefathers. Yes, he must have said forefathers. Four score and seven years ago our forefathers... our forefathers... our forefathers... ou."

And then you would simply stand there tongue-tied while the clock ticked away your chances for that $999,999.99.

Maybe your teen-age high school kid could answer the question. But you are an unusual American adult if you can recite a single complete sentence that Lincoln would recognize as his own.

I made the test on five grownups in various walks of life—a writer, a secretary, a skilled workman, a housewife, a Negro maid. The results might be annoying to Carl Sandburg, who has spent more time on Lincoln's speeches than Lincoln did himself. But I think they'd bring a dry chuckle from old Abe.

All five of those polled flunked flatly. None could recall a complete sentence by Lincoln.

"Four score and seven years ago—" nearly all five knew that. But then came the stumbling block. Did Abe say "our fathers" or "our forefathers?" And what did he say after that?

There is probably no other memorable sentence in the English language in quite such a predicament. It is a magic sentence. It begins with a figure—$7—expressed in an odd way that sticks in people's minds. But they forget the sonorous, organ-toned phrase with which that immortal sentence concludes, couching the loftiest idea continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

Naturally, you remember how the rest of it goes. Or do you? Don't bet on it.

Lincoln himself wasn't sure. Five exist in Abe's own handwriting, copies of the Gettysburg address. And the words vary.

The fifth copy, which sold for $54,000 in 1949, is now regarded as the best. Old Abe knew how to take a good thing and make it better.

Japanese Extract Sugar in Making Wood Pulp

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese chemists have perfected a method of extracting grape sugar from lumber as a by-product in the manufacture of pulp.

The announcement is contained in a report of chemists attached to the Asahigawa Forestry Guidance Station on the northern island of Hokkaido. They say they now have a pilot plant in operation.

The grape sugar is not as sweet as ordinary sugar, but is in demand as a medicinal nutrient.

SCOUTS ARE DEPENDABLE

Sir Robert Baden-Powell's life depended upon the dependability, initiative, resourcefulness and stamina of his men; the ones being sent to him in Africa lacked all or most of these attributes. He organized Scouting parties, training these men in the art of self-preservation. He wrote a little book called Aids to Scouting. When he returned to England he determined to make boys in his neighborhood more reliable, more cooperative, more dependable. The idea became popular and he organized the first Boy Scout Troupe during 1908.

J. L. VOORHEES

February 6th to 12th is Boy Scout Week. During these seven days we sincerely salute these young men and especially their leaders; these adults have a responsibility so great it staggers the imagination. It is through their efforts those boys could be sent to a Sir Robert Baden-Powell and be a credit to him, to their organization. We admire the boys, thrill when we see their merit badges, smile proudly as they display handicrafts but back of them, out of sight are the men who make Scouts one of the greatest groups of boys in America. We're proud of all of you.
