He's Angling for a Big One

Pontiac Press Photo

A FAMILIAR SIGHT — One of many Pontiac and Oakland County trout fishermen who got off to a hopeful start on the opening of the state's 1959 season today was Frank Greenwood. A postal employe here, Greenwood, 26, was snapped in a stream near the city. Some 100,000, or more ardent trouters were expected to be out today, most of them on waters in the northern Lower Peninsula.

Conditions Called Ideal Here

State Trout Season Opens Today

By H. GUY MOATS
Pontiac Press Outdoors Writer

A fine day with a slight overcast this morning greeted Michigan's trout-fishing legions on the opening of the 1959 season. Conditions in this area were described by many as ideal.

However, there were few early reports of unusual catches or quick success from the score or more area waters.

As expected, Oakland County's lakes were jammed, with all boats at Elizabeth Lake's livery, at Oxbow and Union Lakes among others taken out by daybreak.

Off Shaw's dock at Oxbow, one fisherman landed a two-pounder. A number of small rainbows were reported from Gregg's at Union Lake by early anglers.

Upstate, the big annual National Trout Festival got underway at Kalkaska, with Judy Perry, 17, Kalkaska High School senior, named queen last night. Walt Nowak of Alpena is the trout king.

The Oakland County and area deployment included many area residents, who for some reason or other would rather try their luck here than undergo the long drive into northern sections. However, northbound automobile traffic, bearing fishermen was reported to be about the same as in other years, promising a heavy northern cencentration of hardy followers of the sport.

On the local trouting front the conditions were regarded as very good. In the opinion of conservation officers of this district, they are much better, and area waters probably will produce more fish for less effort than those of the north country.

"Most streams in this district," said Kendall, "are clear, about normal, with some even lower than usual." Based on reports yesterday, that northern streams were high, heavy and dirty. Kendall figured area anglers "would be smart to start the season at home."

★ ★ ★

Most popular and productive lure was the good old time-tested "garden hackle," plain Mr. Angle Worm. Weather has not been warm enough, even in this section, to bring out fly hatches, giving the "purists" a rather tough time.

Violence in Kentucky

Mine Fire, Blast Bring Out Guard

HAZARD, Ky. (UPI)—For the second time in less than a generation, National Guardsmen were rolling into eastern Kentucky coal fields today to police a violence-punctuated coal strike.

Gov. A. B. Chandler sent some 2,000 troops into the strike area yesterday afternoon after a crowd of more than 500 pickets congregated at a non-union mine at Combs, Ky., and dynamite blasts destroyed property there and at nearby Viper.

Violence flared anew today as the tipple and preparation plant of the huge Ashlo Coal Co., Combs, Ky., was set afire. The fire, which police said apparently was set when mine guards changed shifts at 6 a.m., spread to the Washington plant and the firm's offices were evacuated.

The Ashlo firm, owned by the Sunfire Coal Co., was the site of yesterday's mass picketing which led to the sending of the guard.

Hazard Police Chief R. D. Cisco said, "It looks like they're going to lose the whole thing. A pumper truck from Hazard arrived shortly after the fire began, but the blaze apparently had too much of a start in the coal dust-permeated wood.

★ ★ ★

Chandler described the pickets at the Ashlo mine as "so unruly and so defiant that I feared for the lives of the State Police officers

102 Land Safely as Tires Give

Two Planes Make It Okay at Grand Rapids Despite Blowouts

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — One hundred and two passengers had brief but harrowing frights as their two Capital airliners landed last night at Grand Rapids. One plane came down on a blown tire; the other blew its four main tires in landing.

The plane that landed safely on four of its five tires carried 54 passengers. The one that blew out all four main tires carried 48.

No one was hurt in either landing and neither plane damaged.

Capt. Russell Irwin, flying a four engined DC 4 from Detroit to Chicago found his hydraulic braking system gone when he touched down here. He hit emergency air brakes that snapped the 40,000-pound plane to a stop in 600 feet.

The impact of the braking blew the two sets of giant tires on either side of the fusilage. The nose wheel tire held as the big ship wobbled to a rough stop.

Fifty-four passengers had got down safely about three hours earlier as Capt. Lowell Huff brought in another DC4, this one headed from Chicago to Detroit, with one of its under-wing tires flat.

Thundershowers to Dampen City This Afternoon

FBI Hunts Mob That Beat Negro

Rape Case Suspect Abducted From Jail by Hooded Gang

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (AP)—Hooded night raiders, gloved against fingerprints, dragged a screaming Negro charged with raping a white woman from his jail cell today, leaving few clues for converging FBI agents.

But, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover promised a special effort by a squad of agents from New Orleans even though most officials believed the victim, 23-year-old Mack Charles Parker, already is dead.

IKE INFORMED

The President received information on the case from Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers.

At Poplarville hospital, night nurse Dimple Budge saw what may have been the getaway cars into which the raiders threw Parker, howling and struggling.

Sheriff W. O. Moody said:

"I'm certain he's either been removed from the area or dumped in some water," he told newsmen.

★ ★ ★

Only bloodstains haphazardly scattered around the second floor cell, down the stairs, and along a tiled corridor indicated the path along which the hooded raiders had dragged Parker into the night.

FOUGHT HARD

★ ★ ★

"Why did you do it?" yelled a hooded raider.

"I didn't do it," screamed Parker.

When they dumped Parker into the getaway car, the Negro screamed and howled and renewed his struggle. The car roared away.

★ ★ ★

'Rights' Rider Stymies Vote on Labor Bill

Senate Wrangle Over Substitute Amendment Delays Final Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today substituted a less far-reaching union bill of rights for the original McClellan amendment in the Kennedy labor regulation bill.

The adoption apparently cleared out of the way the last major obstacle to final passage of the bill later today.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bitter row over a compromise for the McClellan "bill of rights" amendment has delayed final Senate action on the Kennedy labor regulation bill.

Another attempt will be made today to pass the bill.

Thursday night the Senate handed McClellan a stinging defeat on a major amendment to the Kennedy labor reform bill by rejecting 52-39 his formula for closing a gap in labor-management relations.

Plans of the leadership on both sides to finish with the measure Friday night evaporated in a big verbal explosion when a substitute for the bill of rights proposal was called up.

★ ★ ★

The furore even included a personal attack on Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), with some senators charging he was trying to force them to vote on a substitute they had not read.

Johnson then suddenly adjourned the Senate until today, despite pleas of some of his colleagues that it be adjourned until Monday.

It appeared the substitute watered down version of the original McClellan amendment would be adopted when the dust settled in the Senate today.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) indicated to newsmen he might well go along with the substitute. He said he was "fully consulted" on it, and that it would meet objections of some of his fellow Southerners to his original proposal.

The Senate met 13 hours Friday and seemed to have settled all the major floor fights except for rewriting the bill of rights amendment.

Merchant, 65, Plays Dumb, Then Lunges

Uses Bandit's Gun to Subdue Him as Son Chases Second Thief

By MAX E. SIMON

Ignoring threats of two armed bandits, a brave 65-year-old Pontiac grocer last night defied death to leap at one of the gunmen, seize his sawed-off shotgun and beat him into submission.

The other holdup man escaped but was captured by Pontiac Police early today along with three other persons who admitted roles in the attempted robbery.

The gunmen entered the Father & Son Market, 856 Oakland Ave., as the grocer, Antonio Craparotta, and his son Vito, 35, prepared to close for the evening.

After wheeling a cart around the establishment for 10 minutes, the bandits went to the rear of the store where the grocer and his son were working.

One drew out a sawed-off shotgun which he had concealed under his blue coveralls, and the other a 38 caliber revolver.

Despite the threat, Antonio inched toward the bandit.

"I speak to him in a soft voice, pretending I don't understand what he talks about," said the Italian-born grocer.

"I ask him what kind of holdup is this."

At the same time, Antonio said, he muttered in Italian to his son to go after the other bandit as he lunged for the man with the shotgun.

'BEAT HIM ON HEAD'

"I grab away the gun from him and beat him over the head until he give up," Antonio said.

At the same time, his son picked up a butcher knife and took out after the pistol-carrying bandit.

"My son doesn't catch the other and is very mad," the grocer said. "If he can, he would kill the one I catch, but I tell him no."

Increased County Budget to Face Rough Sledding

It could be the lull before the storm Monday when the Oakland County Board of Supervisors meets to approve the county's proposed 1960 budget of $13,997,018 for tax allocation purposes.

The storm is bound to come May 20 when the Tax Allocation Board holds its first of six hearings to set 1959 tax rates.

To meet its suggested operating budget for next year the county will require nearly half or 6.52 of the 15-mill taxing limitation which must be split between the county, schools, and townships.

Few expect that the county will get what it is asking.

This year, like last, the townships and schools have prepared their operating budgets on the basis of what they'll need next year. All are expected to show increases due to natural growth and expansion.

So it is obvious here, too, that they will be demanding larger shares of the allocation.

Next year's preliminary budget is $1,711,295 higher than the current 1959 operating budget of $12,285,723.

Again helping inflate the budget are social welfare and hospitalization costs. These costs total $3,745,740, and represent about 3.7 per cent of the $13 million budget.

Set aside is $2,733,700 for welfare and $1,012,040 for hospitalization.

Bomber Nabbed as Castro Talks

Unemployed Man Says Blast Try 'Just for Kicks'; Fidel Unaware

NEW YORK (UPI) — An unemployed riveter who likes to hear loud bangs was arrested last night as he was about to explode a homemade bomb near the speakers platform at a rally for Fidel Castro.

Two policemen nabbed John Gregory Feller, 23, in a roped off area back of the bandstand shell in Central Park where the Cuban Premier was addressing 30,000 enthusiastic supporters.

Feller said he was going to set off the bomb "just for kicks," and denied he intended to hurt anyone.

Police described the bomb as a lethal instrument dangerous up to 300 feet. It was made from an 11-inch section of aluminum vacuum cleaner extension tubing filled with gunpowder, sulphur and zinc, and fused with match heads.

Neither Castro nor the cheering crowd listening to him was aware of the off-stage drama of Feller's arrest. Police whisked Feller to a park police station in an unmarked car so as not to rouse the crowd.

Royal Oak Businessmen Financing Plan to Turn Downtown Into Shopping Mall

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a two-part series telling how a group of Royal Oak businessmen have taken it upon themselves to redevelop that city's downtown shopping district. Already under way, the project is designed to beautify and revitalize the business district, reversing the current trend which has seen downtown shopping on the decline.)

By PETE LOCHBILER

Royal Oak businessmen have undertaken to revitalize their downtown business district through a $2,610,000 plan to be financed by the businessmen themselves.

Already pushed halfway to reality, if the plan wins needed legislative permission and passes a court test, construction turning downtown Royal Oak into a shopping mall could get under way as early as next summer.

The plan has captured the imagination of many key people in Royal Oak, including the city government, which is enthusiastically supporting it.

1. Eliminate vehicular traffic in the shopping mall area.

2. Beautify the shopping district with landscaping effects.

3. Create a vast off-street parking system surrounding the shopping mall.

4. Make the parking free, not metered.

5. Widen nearby streets to handle all the through traffic.

6. Last, but not least, finance the changes through special assessments on the business district itself, not the whole city.

Private initiative got this sweeping plan under way and downtown business seems prepared to pay for it.

Financing would be through 20-year bonds, to be paid off through special assessments on the central business district. These bonds—amounting to $2,610,000—would mostly pay for construction of new parking lots, but in part would cover costs to pay off the $220,000 in existing parking meter revenue bonds which the city has already issued to finance its existing lots.

The city has a bill before the Legislature now which would allow it to change the method of payment on existing parking lot bonds from meter revenues to special assessments, and it's expected that the State Supreme Court will have to rule on the validity of this method.

A little over two years ago, businessmen became actively worried about declining sales and vacant stores in Royal Oak's central business district.

Banded together in their Chamber of Commerce, the businessmen set up what they called a Central Business District Redevelopment Committee, charged to think up a way to revise the business trend.

ARCHITECTS HIRED

The committee hired the architectural firm of Paul Moffett and Associates of Birmingham, which worked up a plan for a four-block shopping mall on Washington avenue in the heart of the business district.

Traffic would be eliminated from the Grand Trunk Railroad on the north to Seventh street on the south, according to the architects' plan.

Some side streets would also be closed in places. For instance, parking plazas would be spotted on Second street east of Washington;

Veteran City Fireman Takes Reins as Chief

In an official ceremony at City Hall, White was sworn in as chief by City Clerk Ada Evans.

White replaces John F. Schroeder, who retired this week after 48 years with the department.

Four others were promoted in yesterday's ceremonies. Capt. Victor Bodamer was promoted to assistant chief, Lt. Joseph Beach was promoted to captain, Fireman Robert Sartell to lieutenant and Fireman Lloyd Benson to engineer.

The new chief has lived in Pontiac all his life. Born in August of 1905, Chief White joined the Department on Nov. 1, 1927, was promoted to lieutenant in June, 1945, to captain in June, 1949, and assistant chief in December, 1955.

He dropped out of Pontiac Central in the 11th grade and enlisted in the U.S. Army in 1923.

After his enlistment ended, White worked for a brief spell at factory jobs and then fulfilled his boyhood desire of becoming a fireman.

LIVED NEAR STATION

Chief White was born and brought up virtually within the shadow of the Central Fire station. He lived at 79 Seneca St. and went swimming in a pond less than a block away from the station.

As a boy he was fascinated by the stories firemen told in their leisure hours.

He was inspired when the horses of bygone days trotted out into the street, waiting for their harnesses to be put on by the firefighters.

Ferris Institute, Big Rapids, was listed on the accreditation list of schools granting bachelor degrees.

Other high schools were Fraser High School, Fraser; Bentley Community, Flint; L'Anse Creuse, Mount Clemens and Riverview, Wyandotte.

the grocery shortly after 10 p.m., they were led by Vito to the back where the gunman was being held prisoner.

He was identified as Billy J. Short, 31, of Harlan, Ky.

At first he said he did not know the name of his accomplice but after more than three hours of questioning by Detective Thomas Mitchell he broke down.

Short said the other gunman was James D. Stroud Jr., 28, of 736½ W. Huron Ave. Stroud and three others involved in the holdup were at a house at 657 Riverside Dr., Short told police.

Shortly after 2:30 a.m. several police cars surrounded the house.

Officers met no resistance, however, as they arrested Stroud, Mrs. Marilyn Morgan, 22, Mrs. Muriel McColl, 22, and Jerry Smith, 30.

"I'm glad underneath that this thing has turned out the way it has," Stroud told police as he was led away.

Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. McColl were living together at the Riverside drive address. Smith gave his address to police as 36 Sanderson St.

Mrs. Morgan told police she was in the process of divorcing her husband. Mrs. McColl, 22, is separated from her husband and moved in with Mrs. Morgan three weeks ago.

Also in the home were Mrs. McColl's two young children, a boy and a 10-month-old girl. They were taken to the Oakland County Children's Home by police.

The five involved in the holdup were booked for investigation of armed robbery.

The two women and the three men became acquainted early this week at a downtown Pontiac bar.

During the week, they all moved into the Riverside drive home where the holdup plot was conceived.

"The idea of getting money was no one person's," said Mrs. Morgan, who weighs 180 pounds. "We were all desperate for money and thought once we got some we'd all go to New Orleans and start life over."

She said that she went to her father's home in Birmingham Thursday and stole the revolver from a dresser drawer in his bedroom.

"He doesn't know anything about this," she told police.

The men said they had no idea what store they would attempt to rob when they left the house last night.

While Stroud and Short went into the grocery, Smith stayed behind the wheel of Mrs. McColl's station wagon.

With Short captured, the other two men sped back to the house with each telling the other: "What fools we've been!"

At first, the four accomplices planned to flee but after driving a short distance returned to the house.

"We all agreed there wasn't any sense in running," Stroud said.

When officers knocked on the door, Mrs. McColl courteously admitted them and led them into the basement where the holdup revolver had been thrown into the garbage.

As Antonio prepared to open his store today, he was informed by the Pontiac Press that the others in the holdup attempt had been nabbed.

"I'm glad to hear that," he beamed.

The fact that last night he was looking down the barrel of a sawed-off shotgun didn't particularly impress Antonio when he opened his store at 9 a.m. today.

County to Have Trouble Getting Higher Budget

Proposed are budgets of $293,064 for the Board of Auditors, $287,025 for the Probate-Juvenile Division, $266,934 for the Circuit Courts, $222,085 for operation of county buildings, $216,310 for social relief administration, $183,453 for the Board of Education, $180,789 for the Treasurer's Office, $179,284 for the Friend of the Court, $161,007 for the Prosecutor's Office, and $128,133 for the County Clerk's Office.

These are the 10 highest budgets among the county's 24 departments.

Included also in the 1960 budget is $250,806 for suggested four per cent pay raises for 1,200 salaried county employes.

Purpose of Monday's budget examination is to give it tentative approval so the Allocation Board will known what the county needs in the way of a tax rate to raise $11,796,018 in taxes to meet the major portion of the budget. The balance will come from $2,201,000 in anticipated receipts to different departments.

Final approval of the budget will come in September when county officials usually have to do some trimming based on the established tax rate and state equalized valuations on which rates are levied.

Paying $5,631,163 in salaries to all county employes makes up a big share of the suggested budgets.

Among $1,213,233 in appropriations are $490,433 to the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, $375,000 to the numerous state institutions to which the county pays for the first year of confinement of county patients, $50,000 for housing mental patients temporarily until permanent quarters are optained, $30,000 for Michigan State University Oakland and $55,000 for soldiers' burials.

Because the recreation authority has asked that participating counties like Oakland pay one-quarter mill, Robert Y. Moore, chairman of the Board of Auditors, has had to add $90,433 to the $13,906,584 budget handed supervisors April 14.

The addition was necessary, Moore said, because he had planned on only a one-fifth mill appropriation—or $400,000—which the county paid last year.

Supervisors will also decide whether establishing of a second probate judgeship should be put to a countywide vote next year, hear a report on new legislation to help out the Department of Public Works, and vote on a new county seal.

Bloomfield Woman Hit by Auto, Dies

The first Michigan traffic fatality of the weekend was recorded in Detroit today when a West Blomfield Township woman was killed at about 2:45 a.m. while crossing Livernois just south of Norfolk.

According to the driver and two unidentified eye-witnesses, Miss LaFleur stepped off the curb just in front of the car.

McKitrick was released after the accident, but was to make a statement today at the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office.

Chandler also was governor 22 years ago when the National Guard was called to put down violence in a Harlan County coal field when violence erupted in a long coal strike.

The troops, wearing helmets and carrying rifles with bayonets in scabbards, marched into Hazard Memorial Gymnasium where they spent the night.

Officials in the coal strike area were cautious in commenting on the governor's action, perhaps because of possible political repercussions during the gubernatorial election year in Kentucky.

The guard was alerted a week ago but was demobilized Monday when mine operators and national UMW officials agreed to hold a third mediation meeting with 26 mine operators.

The negotiations, held in Frankfort, ended in an impasse after three hours Thursday. The main point of dispute was the union's insistence on enforcement of a so-called protective wage clause.

This would require small mines to pay the basic union wage of $24.50 a day, $2 higher than the last contract. Small mine operators say they are unable to pay this much.

The strike began 46 days ago and has idled an estimated 7,000 miners.

Footprints Point Way to Builders Exhibits

The 55 display spaces have long been sold out, according to Clyle R. Haskill, Jaycee president, and the show promises to overflow into special display areas along Water street.

With the traditional emphasis on home building and home improvements, the annual show is the principal means by which the Jaycees earn money to carry on their year-round program of civic improvements.

Jaycees today staged a brief, noontime parade in downtown Pontiac and promise to have some clowns and other attractions on hand Thursday and Friday evenings to amuse downtown shoppers.

Colorful Armada of Ships Opens Seaway Today

MONTREAL (UPI) — The St. Lawrence Seaway, a feat of international cooperation and engineering genius, opened today in a workaday atmosphere of line hauling, order shouting and whistle tooting at the gates of the St. Lambert Locks.

The locks are the first in a 130-mile chain through channels built during the past five years at a cost estimated at between 450 to 475 million dollars. The result is a minimum 27-foot-deep waterway leading to the industrial heartland of the North American continent.

Thirteen feet deeper than the old seaway, the new waterway will permit larger ocean freighters to make their way to inland ports in the United States and Canada.

A 10-nation armada that had been lined up for miles in the harbor during the past few days presented a gay picture of shipping with new flags, freshly painted hulls and bright funnels bearing company emblems.

Two Canadian icebreakers, the D'Iberville and the N. B. McLean, the latter with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and Transport Minister George Hees aboard, led the way into the locks followed by four Canadian lake freighters.

Official from the U.S. Seaway Authority were also aboard the D'Iberville. The group was led by L. G. Castle, administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation. In addition, a party of newsmen representing papers from U.S. seaway ports was on hand.

The Dutch freighter Prins Willem George Frederick, bound for Toronto, Hamilton, Ont., Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, and Sarnia, Ont., with a cargo ranging from iron bars to grass seed, was the first ocean-going freighter in line.

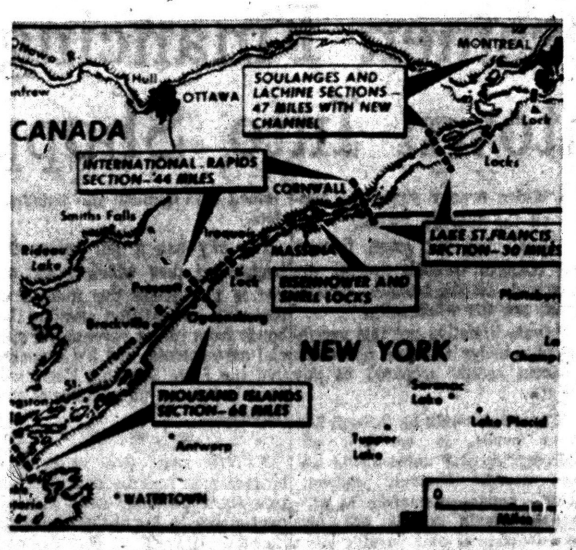

Fifteenth in line was the first American freighter to enter the seaway, the Santa Regina, a Grace Line ship making its first trip to Chicago from New York. It will start a Chicago-Carribean service on its return.

Many U.S. cities along the seaway and the Great Lakes will hold celebrations when the first ships dock in their harbors.

In Buffalo, N. Y., there will be an automobile parade to the docks May 8 to meet the Grace Lines' Santa Alicia, first American flagship expected to dock there. A civic luncheon also is scheduled.

The official opening will take place June 26 with Queen Elizabeth and President Eisenhower presiding. About 5,000 official guests will be invited. An estimated 50,000 persons are expected to be on hand for the ceremonies.

Body of Newborn Girl Found in Romulus Field

DETROIT (AP) — The body of a newborn baby girl wrapped in a white sheet and mattress pad and placed in a cardboard box was found in a field yesterday in suburban Romulus Township.

Sheriff's detective Kenneth Grant said the box was found by a high school youth on his way home from school.

The Day in Birmingham

Wayne State Alumnae Meet First Time Tuesday

BIRMINGHAM — With 120 of its potential Birmingham members already enrolled, the newly-formed Wayne State Alumnae Club here will hold its first meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Birmingham Community House.

Homer D. Strong, director of alumnae relations at the university in Detroit, will speak on WSU's growth and its future.

The local group is the first unit to be formed outside of Detroit, according to Marion Tate, chairman.

She said those assisting in organizing the club are Doris Beauchamp, Ruth Hartman, Peggy Petti, Mary Ritter, Gladys Schlaack, Marjorie Sullivan and Mary Thurber.

Birmingham members have voted to stress education, recreation and community affairs within the club.

Miss Tate said plans already are under way for other new units including one in the Pontiac-Rochester area and another at Royal Oak.

Birmingham Rebecca Lodge 445 will hold a rummage sale Thursday from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. at the former Fisher Wallpaper Store, 1308 S. Woodward Ave. Mrs. Edith Hart, 711 Bennaville St. may be called to have items picked up.

The Rev. B. M. Cedarholm, D. D., president of the Conservative Baptist Assn. will speak at the 10 and 11 a. m. services tomorrow at the Grace Baptist Church on Lincoln avenue. This will be the concluding talk on a four-week missionary conference at the church.

Mrs. Truman Reed

Service for Mrs. Truman Reed, 59, of 1870 Hazel St. will be held at 10 a. m. Monday from St. Columban Catholic Church with burial in White Chapel Cemetery, Troy.

The Rosary will be recited at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home.

Mrs. Reed died Thursday at William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, after a short illness.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Alex W. Alah of Detroit and Lorraine at home; two sons, Donald C. of Redford and David A. of Lake Orion; two brothers; and seven grandchildren.

Robert Millard

Graveside service for Robert Millard, 61, of Toledo, Ohio, a former resident of Birmingham, will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday in Roseland Park Cemetery, Royal Oak.

Mr. Millard died yesterday at Riverside Hospital, Toledo, after an illness of four months.

Mr. Millard retired in March as vice president of the City Auto Stamping Co. of Toledo and a member of Perry Lodge 185, F& AM, Salem, Ohio and of the Scottish Rite Chapter Valley of Toledo.

He was also a member of the Zenobia Temple, Order of the Mystic Shrine in Toledo.

He is survived by his wife, Carrie; a sister, Mrs. Jane Millard of Troy; and a brother, Fred of Royal Oak.

Mrs. Cathryn Thompson

Service for Mrs. Cathryn Thompson, 76, of 19135 Riverside Dr., was to be held at 3 p.m. today from the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. with burial in White Chapel Cemetery, Troy.

Mrs. Thompson died Thursday at her home after a brief illness.

She was a member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist.

the shopping mall would extend one block west of Washington on Fourth and Fifth streets; and Sixth street traffic would be blocked off at Washington.

Architects visualized the mall as a pleasant place where shoppers could stroll leisurely from store to store, with the streetway replaced by gardens, flower beds, pools and fountains.

The inviting shopping area would only be a short walk from the chain of paved, lighted parking lots which the plan recommends behind the main stores lining Washington and Main street, two blocks east.

The number of downtown municipal spaces could be increased from 1,306 to 3,404 by purchase of rear lots and demolition of some old buildings no longer thought fit for commercial service, it is estimated.

Thus, the shopping mall would be able to handle a large turnover of shoppers, it's figured, who would be able to drive downtown from home, park easily, and find the retail goods they seek conveniently near the parking places.

The final traffic aspect of the plan would call for widening Main street by an additional turning lane, so that prospective shoppers could easily make left or right turns towards the parking lots near where they plan to shop.

West street, two blocks west of Washington, and Troy street, four blocks east, would be widened to accommodate the through traffic that formally used Washington.

This is how Royal Oak planners, in part, hope to turn into a reality the principal that shoppers want a pleasant, convenient place in which to make heir purchases.

Does it sound like a pipe-dream? Hard-headed businessman think it's a practical possibility, to the extent that 31 outside businesses have recently sent inquiries to the Chamber of Commerce, asking about the possibility of setting up branches along the shopping mall.

Michigan's Trout Season Opens Today

land county, some half dozen streams and four ponds have been planted with legal-size, or larger fish. So there should be no dearth of finny prizes.

Cliff Fuller at the Drayton Plains hatchery figures that some 11,000 trout, mostly rainbows, were turned loose this spring. Last fall the district "plant" amounted to about 50,000 fish, and many of these were believed to be carry-overs for this year.

Lake fishing probably got most of the early local fishermen, as access to many streams is not too easy. Among waters expected to produce today were Deer lake, Schoolhouse, Union, Oxbow, Orchard, among others. Alderman lake is another good prospect, but unlike others has no boat liveries.

There should also be good fishing (from bank only, and only with flies) at the four area trout ponds, Bald Mountain, Davisburg, and Fenton ponds No. 1 and No. 2

Easier of access than most Oakland streams are Bottoms, Hunters, Kintz and Pine creeks in Lapeer county. Clinton river (far west end), Duck creek, Huron river (above Pontiac lake, and at Proud lake recreation area), Kearsley, Paint, Spring and Trout creeks are good county trout waters.

Then there's Townsend creek in Macomb, Ruby creek in St. Clair and Goodings, and south branch of the White in Tuscola. West branch of the Rouge (near Northville) is another area trout stream.

Pair Arraigned in Safe Robbery

Both Mute to Charge of Walled Lake Theft; Third Man in Hospital

Two of three Oakland County men accused of a Walled Lake safe burglary early Friday morning were arraigned before West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle yesterday afternoon.

Both Ray Schermerhorn, 28, and his brother Robert, 27, of 2716 Woodlawn St., Oakley Park, stood mute to a charge of safe burglary.

Examination was demanded for them and they were returned to the Oakland County Jail with bond set at $12,000 each. Their examination date was set for May 12.

The third man charged in the safe burglary at Jack Cole's Plymouth Sales, 1000 W. Maple Rd., was Carl E. Hess, 18, of 960 Adelaide Dr., Walled Lake.

Hess, who passed out shortly after his arrest by Walled Lake Patrolman Robert Newman, remained under police guard today at Pontiac General Hospital. He is described in satisfactory condition.

Sheriff's Det. Leo Hazen today revealed that the stolen safe contained about $500 cash and more than $3,100 in personal checks.

The three men, police said, were attempting to dump the 700 pound safe in Commerce Lake. They were discovered by Newman who had followed a trail of checks four blocks long left behind them as they dragged the safe to a beach.

State Partisans Outpoll Judges

Officials State Canvass Announces Results of April 6 Election

LANSING (AP) — Entries in the technically non-partisan State Supreme Court race polled only about two-thirds as many votes as partisan candidates in the April 6 election, the official state canvass indacates.

Candidates for the two Supreme Court vacancies collected a total of 1,630,739 votes and those for two seats on the University of Michigan Board of Regents 2,427,169. The spread was typical.

At the same time, Supreme Court Justice George Edward, a Democratic nominee, chalked up the biggest victory margin—268,406 votes over William H. Baldwin, Oakland County attorney, his nearest Republican rival.

Clair White, Bay City college instructor and Democratic nominee for one of two two-year terms on the new Wayne State University Board of Governors, had the closest call. He edged Warren C. Lambert, Republican, by 6,339 votes. DeWitt J. Burton, Detroit Democrat, led them both.

Cunningham was flying the plane to Arizona for its owner, Lloyd Town of the same Clawson address as Hackstock.

Air Force officials yesterday ordered a search when the plane failed to set down at Springfield, Ill., as scheduled.

Electrocution Fatal to Two Oil Workers

HORTON (AP) — Two Mount Pleasant oil workers were electrocuted accidentally last night on a well rig near here.

Carl Dent, 46, and Paul Briley, 32, died when a gin pole they were using struck a live wire. A gin pole is a device used in oil well rigging.

Robert Beach, 21, and Douglas King, 24, both of Midland, rushed to their aid, but were knocked unconscious when they tried to pull them from the wire. The two Midland men suffered slight burns.

All four men were employes of the union Rotary Corp. of Mount Pleasant and were working on wells near this Jackson County community.

A truck carrying diesel fuel for the rigging work was set afire. But flames were put out before reaching the fuel.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—State Department associates of John Foster Dulles have purchased the chair he used at Cabinet meetings as a gift for him.

Associate White House Press Secretary Anne Wheaton said the chair would remain in the Cabinet room, however, for Dulles' use as the newly appointed foreign policy consultant to the President.

Voter Has Long Wait at Polls in Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A man took his infant son with him to vote in the Arizona primary. He was greeted by long lines of waiting voters.

An election official spotted the pair and told the father: "He doesn't look old enough to vote, but he may be by the time you get into the voting booth."

Americans drink an average of one pint of wine per week. By comparison Frenchmen consume about one pint of wine daily.

It Seems to Me . . .

Republican Victory Possible if Current Trend Continues

Even the proverbial puss can look at a king and I'm just back from New York and Washington where I sat at the feet of the mighty in my own profession.

★ ★ ★

At one time, the discourse veered to the 1960 elections and I was intrigued by some of the ideas. These were not expressions of personal preference. They were predictions. A few case hardened Republican publishers unblushingly conceded that a Democratic victory was probable in 1960. And on the other hand, some fourth generation Democrats saw the unmistakable image of a majestic pachyderm in their private crystal balls.

★ ★ ★

A count of 18 noses showed eight forecasting Democratic victory; and 10 a Republican win. (To keep the record straight, your Oakland County scrivener tossed the nod to the Dems.)

★ ★ ★

A composite opinion of those favoring the GOP was challenging and roughly it ran like this:

"If we voted today, the Democrats would win. But there's a shift in the thinking. When the Democrats sailed into Washington, they were confident and eager. Newly elected Democrats were ready to buy practically everything for everyone. The Democratic Congress accepted the demands of the labor leaders as sacrosanct and bills were drawn that promised pie in the sky and it had to be delivered a la mode.

"That was January.

"Today is late April.

"And there have been repercussions. Some of the voters are a bit aghast at costs and future taxes appal. Day after tomorrow's accounting will come due, after all. Hence, a taxpayer's protest could be shaping up now that will smolder slowly and burst into open flame around the Fall of 1960."

★ ★ ★

Is it possible the labor leaders have abused their current position of unchallenged eminence in Washington? Have they gone too far in their demands? Are their own members beginning to protest? And anyway, the union leaders plus all their members lack absolute control. They need Mr. Average Citizen — and his good wife.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps there was a straw in the wind this week. Senator MCCLELLAN (D-Ark) offered an amendment to legislation before the Senate. It wrote a "Labor Bill of Rights" squarely into the middle of JOHN F. KENNEDY's own hand wrought device that ignored the labor union member in favor of the bosses. And as the New York Daily News summarized it:

"The teeth were supplied by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark). They consist of a bill of rights for union members. Among these are equal voting rights in union elections, freedom of speech and assembly, the right to sue union officials, and protection against arbitrary assessments and dues charged and against improper disciplinary action."

This was passed by one vote.

However, Senator KENNEDY did a backward somersault and a SOS went out pronto. The faithful shuffled back into line and the MCCLELLAN amendment went down the drain.

★ ★ ★

Can this be a straw in the wind? Was it all a sign—or a symbol? And here's another. Secretary Robert Anderson's address to the members of the Associated Press this week demanding Federal economy in a time of good business has resulted in a record flood of mail to Washington backing him up. Anderson insisted Congress halt inflation and that the value of the dollar sink no lower.

★ ★ ★

We can only wait — and see. Interesting — yes, very interesting — days are ahead. (Personal message to all subscribers: don't let your subscription to The PRESS lapse).

And In Conclusion . . .

CASTRO, a swashbuckling, cavalier and picturesque crusader will last about a year in the opinion of neighboring newspaper men. But he'll ride the glory trail until his crystal ball bursts. He's a challenging and controversial man.....A 92 year old southern colonel was being interviewed in the north. "And do you favor segregation?" he was asked. "Never," thundered the venerable sage. "An integrationist, eh?" The colonel thumped his cane violently. "Never." The reporter was nonplussed. "What do you want then?" The colonel fairly bounced up and down. "Slavery," he bellowed.

"Not up to now," he finally concluded.....JOHN DALY loses out as the "Voice of Firestone" is stilled and also his news cast ends in a fortnight.....ED SULLIVAN's sponsor will take a walk and it looks as though the Sunday night show will fold for good.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

FAITH AMERICANS LIVE BY—4

The golf pro chased after a caddie who had stolen a box of golf balls and caught up with him just as a minister was passing by.

"I wish you had built your church closer," said the embarrassed pro, "then we could have taken the boys to Sunday school."

"Maybe we can bring the church to them," answered the minister, and the germ of an idea was born.

The Louisville Country Club's unique "ninth hole Sunday school," where caddies gather around a green to hear about God, has been in operation five years now. Members are amazed at the change that has come over the boys.

First, the classes were taught by seminary students. Then one Sunday, Bernard Alwes, a professional sign painter and himself a former caddie at the club, went out to give the boys a chalk talk on faith. He's been doing it ever since.

Bernie admits he is no theologian, but he sets up his easel on the edge of the green and talks to the boys in a language they understand, illustrating his main points with deft sketches.

It's been quite a while now since the pro has had to chase after caddies for swiping golf balls, and there's no doubt that the Ninth Hole Sunday School has had a lot to do with it.

Days of All Faiths:

Why Should Good Man Suffer?

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

How can a man (or a woman) go along for years professing belief in Christianity and then under some stroke of misfortune say, "Why should this happen to me? What have I done to deserve this?"

★ ★ ★

Many a clergyman has been sadly puzzled over this, for nowhere in Christianity does God promise freedom from suffering or even tragedy.

People who think their goodness should insure them against troubles ought to know about St. Peter of Verona, who is remembered Wednesday in the calendar of saints. As a young monk in Lombardy in the thirteenth century, Peter was disciplined and banished from the preaching work he loved so well because of charges against him that were entirely false and unprovable. He had been accused of receiving strangers, even women, in his cell.

Hurt and angry over the injustice, Peter knelt before the crucifix and prayed, "Lord thou knowest I am not guilty. Why dost thou permit me to be falsely accused?" It is a familiar prayer.

The answer made him ashamed of his question. He heard the Lord say, "And Peter, what did I do to deserve my passion and death?"

Rising from his knees Peter set about his work without further thought of receiving justice. He went ahead, preaching truth and denouncing heretics with such effectiveness that his enemies waylaid him one dark night and killed him.

He died praying for his murderer, a man named Carino. Carino repented and finished out his life as a lay brother in the Dominican Order.

PRAYERS FOR THE DEAD

Yizkor—may He remember—is the special prayer of the Jews Thursday. Four times a year, on Yom Kippur, during the feast of Sukkoth, the eighth day of Passover and on the second day of Shabuoth, this special memorial service is held. Normally it is a synagogue service, with the rabbi leading and the people making the responses. However, it may be said at home if one is unable to go to the synagogue.

★ ★ ★

The origin of the Yizkor custom is not definitely known. One speculation is that it goes back to the time of the Crusades, a time when many Jews were cruelly martyred. This would mean that it is only a few centuries old, not really old at all when measured against the 3,000 year history of the Jewish people.

Without attempting to go into any detail about Jewish doctrine, we do want to say that this custom of praying for the dead should give such people cause to re-examine their information on this question.

Wholesale Tonsillectomy Wasn't Really So Cheap

"Even our kids quote Dr. Brady when people comment about their 'insufficient clothing' . . . Wish we'd had a Dr. Brady when our older kids were small—had their tonsils yanked out just because it was cheaper wholesale. . ."

Answer—I'd be delighted to hear from your kids some time—the young ones, I mean. On the question of clothing and tonsils, kids and even some grownups will learn something to their advantage by studying "Call It CRI," for which send me 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Daughter, 6, healthy, a little sensitive, still wets the bed. Physical checkup showed nothing wrong . . ." (Mrs. R. J.)

Answer—"Checkup"—are you speaking of your daughter or your automobile? A bed-wetting child should be wakened to empty bladder at 10 p. m., again at 6 a. m., and in the daytime the child should conform strictly to clockwork schedule for emptying the bladder at intervals of from one-half hour to two or three hours, according to bladder capacity. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope, for my free pamphlet The Habit of Bed Wetting. Anyone who punishes, scolds or humiliates a child for wetting the bed deserves a you-know-what.

"All communicants take a sip of wine out of the common cup. After each drink the pastor wipes the edge of the cup with paper tissue. Will the alcohol in the wine kill any germs that may be left on the cup by a diseased person?" (S. D. H.)

Answer—Probably not.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Offers First Aid for Heart Victims

Active church folks like John seem healthier than non-church people, for teaming up with God lowers blood pressure and slows down the heart rate. Very few deaths from strokes or heart attacks or perforated peptic ulcers or ruptured appendices ever occur among the 50,000,000 people during Sunday morning church services. Do you know why?

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

★ ★ ★

"But, Dr. Crane, I guess my heart is wearing out," he began.

"In fact, I had a light heart attack six years ago and my doctor warned me to take it easy.

DR. CRANE

"That's hard to do when you are a preacher, for I get so enthusiastic in the pulpit that I forget all about the doctor's advice.

"But what scares me a little is the fear that I might suffer another attack when I am alone in the house.

"I might even be unable to reach the telephone. Nobody would know I was stricken for several hours.

★ ★ ★

"Is there anything a heart patient can do to help himself in such an emergency?"

CARDIAC FIRST AID

Yes, and it would be smart for everybody to memorize these simple rules from modern medicine.

But first of all, you should realize that the heart does not obtain its oxygen from the blood that fills its chambers.

No, that blood must be squirted out and then go back to the heart muscles via the two coronary arteries that spread over the outside surface of the heart like two branching trees.

The nearer the end of the branch this occurs, the less danger of death. The larger the area of heart muscle shut off from blood via this plug, the more the heart is hampered in keeping up your circulation.

OXYGEN HUNGER

The sharp pain in heart attack is due to oxygen hunger of the heart muscle that has suddenly been shut off by the plugging of a branch of the coronary arteries.

If your heart thus is crying for oxygen, and you are still conscious, then indulge in rapid, forced deep breathing. Despite the intense pain you may suffer at the moment, grit your teeth and keep up this rapid breathing.

For this strategy utilizes the oxygen in the air and thus piles up a surplus of it in your blood stream to help your handicapped heart.

★ ★ ★

When we doctors arrive on the scene we do much the same thing for you, except we richen the oxygen content of the air by use of an oxygen tank.

But you patients can increase your own oxygen intake right where you lie, just by remembering to breathe deeply!

Also, relax, for if you are conscious, the odds are already in your favor. A bad attack usually knocks you out at once.

And by all means, don't try to stand up or climb stairs or even undress for such exertion puts a greater load on your hampered heart.

Just lie down or slump in a chair. Open your shirt collar. And relax in the thought "I am conscious so the attack is not as likely to be fatal."

Then keep breathing deeply to aid your heart with that extra oxygen you thus pour into the blood stream.

Remember, a little extra oxygen during those first 5 minutes after an attack, are much like a bucket full of water when a fire first starts!

And don't over eat if you are subject to heart attacks. Avoid obesity, too, and by all means leave tobacco alone.

Meanwhile, team up with God Almighty, for this gives you the utmost relaxation.

Fright raises blood pressure and speeds up your heart, but a heart victim needs lower blood pressure and a slower pulse rate. So teaming up with God is still the best medicine for heart patients.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 6c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Commends City Facilities for Recreation and Picnics

Summertime and picnic season is near. Many Pontiac families will be looking forward to family outings and recreation. I wonder if many of them are aware, as I was not, of the number of parks in the City and where they are located.

★ ★ ★

Several times in the past two or three years on Sundays or holidays we have driven miles to parks outside of town only to find them filled. If more people knew of the picnic and recreation areas right at hand they would be pleased. The facilities offered by the City could use some publicity.

★ ★ ★

I commend the Department of Parks and Recreation, the City Commission and the cooperating organizations which donate money for their forward look in providing the many recreation areas that are now in existence or being developed.

'Here's Example of Real Logic'

Some of these Socialist-Labor Party Democrats are as bad as Franklin D. Roosevelt. They're now quoting an old wheeze of his which he used to soft soap the voters with when he wanted more and more money. "Well just borrow it, he said. "After all, we just owe it to ourselves.

That's logic reduced to its most awesome level. The facts are, when you borrow money you pay it back to the people that lend it. And you pay it back or else you're bankrupt, whether you're a nation or a sucker like me.

'Single Girls Are Best Employes'

I've observed that married women are less interested in their jobs than single girls for the married girls have too big interests outside the office. Employers should always give a preference to single girls for the sake of their own businesses and to help girls who need the jobs more than the married ones do.

Take Your Pick of Candidates

There should be a big board of Michigan citizens from all political parties and all groups to back Williams for the Presidency. They should start soliciting money immediately and that money should be spent around the country boosting Williams for President. The whole State would be very proud if he were elected.

Angela

Nixon is out in front but as the GOP looks around and considers the various candidates, I would like to suggest an old Michigander who would make a great President and I refer to Thomas Dewey who "almost made it" and would have done so if the GOP saps hadn't been so satisfied he was "in" that they stayed home from the polls to let George do it. He still is an outstanding citizen and one Michigan could support wholeheartedly.

Ex-Owosso Resident

The shouting has died down in New York State over Rockefeller's newest tax bill, but the voters haven't forgotten and that state will be back in the Democratic column in two years. Slowly the whole country is going Democratic and there won't be any Republican party in a few more years. Well, why should there be?

Andrew

It's interesting to hear the discussions of the candidates for the next President of the United States, but the winner will be Adlai Stevenson. He is the best man and will make the best leader. The idea that he can't win is foolish as any Democrat can win—even me.

And Vigilantes Fight to Keep Santa Fe Unique, Unchanged

Town Has Dust on Her Skirts, Freedom in Her Soul

(In our day of creeping conformity, Santa Fe is a mecca for unconventional, creative souls who consider the right to be different the first freedom. It's a state capital that stands foursquare against modern progress—and if you don't like unpaved streets, go home, dude, go home.)

By SAUL PETT
AP Feature Writer

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—The Vigilantes still ride out of Santa Fe, when it's moonlight on the mesa and the shadows stretch long from the aspen and the cottonwoods.

Thin-lipped, grim, silent, they turn off their television sets, put out their thinking man's filters, slip into their loafers and out of their adobe houses.

Saddling up their station wagons and convertibles, they ride north, jaws set, eyes clear, minds joined in a common resolve to protect a way of life.

Billy the Kid is long dead, the rustlers have all been hanged and the Indians subdued. But there's still work to be done for a man's man in Santa Fe.

There are the billboards on the highway north of town. And people in Santa Fe don't like billboards fouling their scenery. So, at night, they cut them down, burn them down, or smear them up in red paint. They do this several times a year.

★ ★ ★

The billboard Vigilantes are only one symptom of the special syndrome distinguishing Santa Fe. Among cities which have become state capitals, Honolulu may be the newest and Juneau the coldest but Santa Fe is the oldest (1609), the highest (7,000 feet), the most unconventional, the touchiest and the contrariest.

It is a city devoutly determined to be different by remaining the same.

MECCA FOR ARTISTS

It is a mecca for artists and writers and Bohemians who migrated here in search of the freedom to be unorthodox. Many are unorthodox in their manners, dress and private lives, but where the town is concerned they resist change as fiercely as the flat-worlders fought Columbus.

★ ★ ★

Other cities welcome new industry and business and progress in the form of paved streets. Here, these things are resisted, not always successfully but loudly.

In other places, the voice of the artist may cry out alone and unheeded in an attic. But in Santa Fe, the free soul is accepted and respected and, far from being ignored in some Bohemian ghetto, is invited to join civic committees.

Santa Fe, which has a population of 34,000, has no industry to speak of and only enough business to accommodate tourists and legislators, its chief sources of income.

Many of its streets remain unpaved, especially in the residential areas, where narrow lanes wind under fruit trees between the lovely earth-tinted adobe homes with their low flat roofs and dark vigas jutting out under the eaves.

★ ★ ★

In one-third of the town, it is now against the law to build any building, business or private dwelling, in anything but the adobe style An artist aroused can be a tiger.

SCULPTOR ON RAMPAGE

Not long ago some progress-minded radicals managed to push through a paved street in a residential district. The day it was completed an enraged sculptor tore out of his house with a sledge hammer and broke up a long stretch of curb.

Santa Feans can get mad over a variety of things — billboards, paving, street lights, modern buildings of glass and steel, a superhighway cutting across a lovely foothill of the majestic Sangre de Cristo Mountains.

But their most consistent source of irritation seems to come from Texas.

Santa Feans can tolerate Texas tourist money but not Texans. They grumble constantly that Texans are taking over their ski slopes in the winter and their trout streams in the summer.

Recently many people in town were enraged by a published picture showing several hundred skiers from Texas raising the Lone Star flag on a nearby ski slope.

"Such damned gall!" said a dignified lady of Spanish origin, whose language is impeccable on all non-Texas subjects. "Their flag on our mountains!"

In a restaurant the other day, two diners were annoyed by the noises of remodeling work going on at the other end of the room. "Those damned Texans again!" one man said. The second man nodded, as though recognizing a familiar pain.

IT'S TEXAS' FAULT

Neither knew for a fact that Texans were responsible for the noisy remodeling, but in Santa Fe it is assumed that anything unpleasant, loud or harshly modern can be traced to the big neighboring state.

Still, Santa Feans are proud of their communal sense of tolerance.

"We don't care what a man does or how he lives," says Witter Bynner, the poet. "We can tolerate anyone as long as he's interesting.

"We all love the mountains and the surrounding country, the brilliant light and the clear air. But most of us didn't come here for that reason. It's not the altitude; it's the latitude."

Over the years, Santa Fe has tolerated some beauts.

Back in the 30's, there was a writer who got loaded one night, stripped off all his clothes, and rode a white horse around the plaza, the town's central historic square. The writer not only survived that night but has since become a famous novelist.

★ ★ ★

There was the artist, who rarely washed, who painted beautifully but more often than not became too bored to finish a picture. He had a rich mother in New York whom he hated, whose checks he sent back uncashed. He earned his keep in Santa Fe as a gardener.

Now and then he finished a picture, sold it and with the profits threw a big party to which he very carefully invited only people who hated each other.

In Santa Fe, only the Spanish-Americans are referred to as natives. The Indians are called Indians and everyone else, regardless of how long they've been here, are Anglos. Both Spanish and English are spoken in the Legislature, in the courts and political campaigns.

The first families are Spanish. Many claim to be descended from the old Conquistadores who came here in search of gold — an expedition which not only antedated the Mayflower but must have been even more crowded.

Santa Fe's plaza has seen much of the ebb and flow of history. To begin with, it was an Indian pueblo. Then the Indians retook the place Thes the Indians retook the place and held it from 1680 to 1692, until the Spanish recaptured it.

★ ★ ★

It was at the Plaza that the covered wagons coming down from Independence, Mo. on the Santa Fe Trail ended their journey. It was here that ox-drivers, cowboys and gamblers used to raise hell and criminals were locked in stocks or flogged in public. It was in the Plaza that Billy the Kid once sat in chains.

PROUD OF HISTORY

Santa Feans are proud of their history and awfully short with people who get inaccurate about it. The biggest rhubarb in this connection occurred some years ago, before the war. Some details are lacking. But from writer Oliver LaFarge the other resident sources, this picture of the event emerges:

★ ★ ★

The Society of Pioneer Dames was to donate a statue of the "Pioneer Mother" to Santa Fe, to be erected in the Plaza. A mass-produced concrete job, the statue showed an athletic woman in a poke bonnet and full stride, carrying a baby on one arm, a rifle over the other and a plowshare near her ankle.

The statue arrived with a delegation headed by a rising young politician named Harry S. Truman, who was to make the presentation speech.

They were met by a militant band of Santa Fe ladies headed by the late Mary Austin, a novelist. Mrs. Austin told them off: the statue was not only objectionable on artistic grounds, it was grossly inaccurate.

Pioneer women in Santa Fe never dressed that way nor did they push a plow, but they were here 200 years before any Anglo woman in a poke bonnet could ever reach it.

According to another unchronicled version of the event, Truman was actually kicked in the shins before departure by one of the ladies of the reception committee.

They don't fool around in Santa Fe.

Ontario Wages Adoption Drive

Seeks Foster Parents for 11,000 Children, 4 to 16 Years Old

"Roger was born with a slight palsy in his left arm which is gradually responding to treatment. He is not hindered in normal activities.

"This young lad needs adopting parents who are warm-hearted, affectionate and who will accept him as their own."

Interested couples were told to write the Ontario Minister of Public Welfare.

During the next two months, dozens of similar ads will appear in Ontario newspapers as part of a project to find foster parents for 11,000 homeless children in Ontario. Most of them are between 4 and 16, and many have physical disabilities. There are long waiting lists for younger children.

The deputy welfare minister, James Band, has said his department is not trying to sell children, it is "trying to merchandise a child's happiness."

Ontario residents will have first choice of the children, and then parents in other provinces. Band said applications from the United States would pose a problem: Parents would have to conform to the adoptive regulations in their own state and work through state welfare units.

Signs Can Give Warning of Delinquent Behavior

EAST LANSING (AP) — How do you spot a juvenile delinquent?

The education expert told a conference on juvenile delinquency at Michigan State University these signs should be evident to every educator. He broke them into lower and middle class income groups.

★ ★ ★

The juvenile delinquent in the lower class, he said:

Runs with a gang that admires lawlessness.

Has high ambitions but neither the means nor the opportunity to achieve them.

Is constantly in trouble with school and church officials and the police.

Finds excitement in collective stealing and vandalism.

The middle class delinquent, he said:

Does poorly in school and intends to leave.

Has little academic ability and often is a truant.

★ ★ ★

"Schools are obligated to watch for these signs and to take steps against the delinquency they foretell," Kvaraceus said.

MRS. CHARLES NELDRETT

A number of Oakland County citizens will assume leadership positions at the annual Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers convention, April 27-29 in Bay City. Theme for this year's session is "Education in a Free Society."

Most active woman at the convention will be Pontiac's Mrs. Charles Neldrett, president of the 380,000-member MCPT, who will preside at the five general meetings of the organization. Mrs. Neldrett, whose term will expire in 1960, has served as MCPT leader since April 1957.

LOCAL LEADERS

Additional area PTA leaders with program assignments are Clifford Smart of Walled Lake who will submit a committee report on legislation and lead a discussion of "Federal Contributions to Public Education"; Paul Thams who will act as a consultant for a discussion of Michigan's special education program; Paul Carter of Birmingham, consultant for a discussion of social science in the elementary and secondary schools; William J. Emerson who will explain functions of the county board of education for a symposium on "The Local School District"; and Mrs. William Wright, leader for a "How to Build a PTA Program" confab and chairman for a talk on PTA cafeteria programs.

★ ★ ★

Still others who will participate are Dr. W. Ray Smittle, and Mrs. Edward H. Lloyd, both of Southfield; Mrs. Charles Cox, Mrs. Serge Foeller, Paul Harris, and Dr. Daniel Irwin, all of Royal Oak; Dr. Robert M. Frehse, of Birmingham; Mrs. George McCardell of Hazel Park; and Mrs. Michael Wollschlager of Berkley.

★ ★ ★

A series of 14 discussion groups dealing with various phases of public education in Michigan will be held Tuesday.

ELECTION TUESDAY

A highlight of the convention will be the election of three vice presidents on Tuesday. The nominating committee will report at the first general session Monday night and additional nominations may be made from the floor at that time.

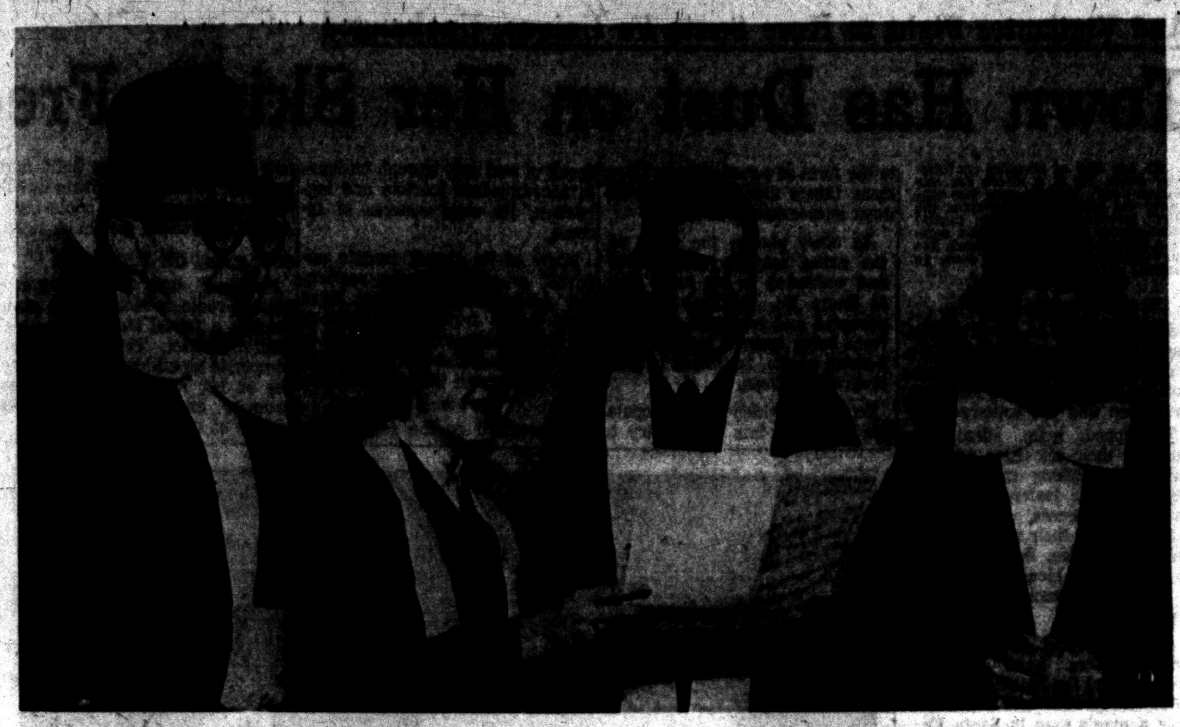

Candidate for District D, which encompasses Oakland, Livingston, Macomb, Genessee, Lapeer, St. Clair, Tuscola, Sanilac, and Huron Counties, is Mrs. Daniel Irwin of Ferndale. The three-year terms of each office in the MCPT, embracing 18 PTA districts of which Oakland County is number six, are staggered so that some leaders are selected at every convention.

Some 33 conferences involving PTA techniques and methods will be held Wednesday.

The convention will serve to summarize the work during 1958-1959 by more than 2,000 PTA units on the "Studying Michigan Schools" project. This subject will be covered extensively at the Tuesday night general session.

Some 3,000 PTA officers and members are expected to attend the annual conclave.

Pontiac Press Photos

Pontiac Central High School's annual spring concert (to be held April 29 and 30 as a matinee and May 1 and 2 in the evening) will feature special selections from numerous vocal groups at the school.

Plan May 6 Supper

The Pontiac and vicinity Retired Teachers Club will hold its annual meeting May 6 at 6 p. m. in the Adah Shelly Library. A cooperative supper will be served.

St. Mary College Set for Festival

The students of St. Mary College at Orchard Lake will present their 17th Annual Spring Music Festival at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the campus auditorium.

★ ★ ★

To commemorate 50 years at Orchard Lake, the students will present a special program featuring selections from the college's Concert Band which will include Handel's "Sarabande" and "Bouree," Liszt's "Les Preludes" and Osterling's "Blue Mist Beguine."

Highlighting the program will be a rendition of "Polandasia," a medley overture on Polish themes, arranged and orchestrated by the Rev. Henry A. Waraksa, director of music at Orchard Lake.

★ ★ ★

The College Choir, directed by Robert Kaszynski, and the High School Glee Club ,under the Rev. John Gabalski, will present a group of lighter selections. The Rev. Walter Ziemba will comment.

The three choral groups and the band will join in the finale "Voices of Freedom," based on Rubenstein's "Kammenoi Ostrow."

Vocal Ensembles to Add Variety to PCH Concert

Adding variety and interest to the annual spring concert, "Say It With Music," to be given next week by Pontiac Central High School's vocal music department, will be several special ensembles.

The Junior Boys will sing "My Evaline" and "Dark Town Strutters' Ball" in the Boys Glee Club presentation of a Dixie Jamboree.

LAZY TUNES

"Lazy Summer Night" and "Down by the Riverside," will be sung by the Senior Boys Ensemble, the other select small male ensemble.

The Song Spinners will be singing a Gershwin tune, "A Foggy Day," arranged by their director A. Michael Dempsey. The Junior Girls Ensemble has prepared "Let There Be Music" by Williams.

The group with the most years of service is the Senior Girls Ensemble, directed by Doreen Voltmann. It will present "Little Lamb, Who Made Thee" by Forest and "Of Thee I Sing," a Gershwin-Wood composition.

Various department soloists will be heard May 1 and 2 for the evening performances, as well as for the matinees on April 29 and 30. Judy Cantarella and Tom O'Brien will be doing a duet, "Almost Like Being in Love" from Brigadoon. Henry Smith will be soloist for the choir's rendition of Malotte's "Lord's Prayer". Tom Schrodi and Elvin King will solo in the boys' Dixieland numbers.

Kay Jerome, Phyllis Suhr, Diane Meyer and Sandra MacDowell will sing the soprano obligato part as the choir sings Hoagy Carmichael's "Lazy Bones."

Soloists who will share appearances between acts for the evening performances will be Barbara Holder, Sharon Pike, Marilyn Vernon, and Dennis Zimmerman.

Accompanists will be Santhy Annas, Deanna Relyea, Gary Relyea and Carol Wargelin.

"DEAR ABBY: My neighbor lady has upset me so bad I can hardly write. My husband has traveled for 14 years and he has always had a wide territory (five states) so he only gets home weekends and sometimes not even then.

ABBY

This friend and I were talking and she said to me, 'You don't really think your husband has been 100 per cent true to you, do you?' I told her I sure did?"

"She said I was kidding myself because no traveling man stays true to his wife. Now she set me to thinking. Do you think I have something to worry about? How can I convince her she's mistaken? Or am I mistaken?"

TRUSTING WIFE

DEAR TRUSTING: Don't let your neighbor lady give you any ideas. If you've trusted your husband for 14 years, he must have earned that trust. Keep right on trusting him and tell your friend (this is a friend?) to go plant her weeds of doubt in somebody else's garden.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: A good friend of mine met a young woman on his vacation. He raved over how beautiful, smart and terrific she was. She is here now (on her vacation) and I was never so disappointed in all my life. She is hard-looking, domineering and loud. Although there has been no official announcement, it looks pretty serious between them. I can't understand what he sees in her. He keeps asking me what I think of her but, Abby, I hesitate to tell him. I wish you'd tell me what to do in a case like this.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: You are wise to hesitate. If it "looks serious between them" this girl could wind up being his wife. Reserve your opinion if you value his friendship.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: The other evening three couples, including my husband and me, went to a restaurant for dinner. The reservations were made in advance. When we got there we were told our table wasn't ready and we would have to wait a few minutes. My husband hates to wait for anything or anybody so he went out and sat in the car like a spoiled two-year-old. The other men went out to try to coax him back but he wouldn't come. He is 53 years old! What would you have done if you were I?"

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: I would have let him sit. He has a lot of growing up to do.

You Need Exercise Regardless of Age

Exercise has become a word denoting a task rather than a pleasure. No matter what the age, every individual needs some form of recreational exercise to stimulate body processes.

Women who at 50 or 60 look 10 to 20 years younger will admit they rely on some form of exercise or massage to keep them in trim.

Brush And Brush

Include Hair in Spring Reconditioning

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

In the first place your tresses will respond happily to the exercise and happy mental viewpoint which I hope this week provides. Also as your health improves with a loss of weight your hair will profit. However there is local and specific care which it deserves.

We all know how important it is to brush our hair or massage our scalp, or both, regularly. BUT, do we do it? I think very few women do so as a habit. For just the next few weeks why not be faithful to this beauty routine? If your scalp and your hair are very dry a few cream treatments at a beauty salon will be most beneficial—or you can give yourself hot oil treatments.

It will also give you a lift to try a new hairdo. Remember a few of the simple rules. A round face is most attractive when the hair is high on the head and close at the sides. A long thin face looks best when the hair is flat on top and fluffy and soft at the sides.

If you have an oval face you can try any style. If you have a broad face avoid a center part and use one which slants. I gave all of these rules a short time ago in this column.

Here is today's exercise. Lie on the floor on your stomach, with your arms resting on the floor in front of you. Ask some kind soul to hold your feet down against the floor as you raise your trunk and arms up as far from the floor as you can. Raise chin a little. Lower arms and trunk to the floor. Continue slowly.

I am giving you Monday's menus today in case you wish to shop early Monday morning.

Breakfast
One-half grapefruit
One boiled egg
One thin dry slice of whole wheat toast
Black coffee

Luncheon
Chicken sandwich (no butter—thin slices of whole wheat bread)
Sliced tomatoes or canned tomatoes

Dinner
Minute steak or chops
Salad of shredded cabbage and carrots
One-half cup spinach-greens or broccoli
One-half grapefruit
One glass skimmed milk

If you would like to have my complete 9-Day Diet in booklet form send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Ask some kind soul to hold your feet down against the floor as you raise your trunk and arms up as far from the floor as you can.

Pigtails Trace Back to the Ancient Chinese

In China, where the men and the women both originally wore their hair long, the pigtail became the sign of slavery after they were conquered by the Manhu, 1644 A.D.

★ ★ ★

But, it wasn't long before the people realized the pigtail had its comforts. Because most of China was agricultural, and people toiled long hours in the sun, the pigtail became very popular since it was cool in the summer, neat and easily cared for.

★ ★ ★

The Chinese liked the pigtail so much, they kept this hairstyle even when it was no longer the law of the land. (The pigtail has been signally honored as the forerunner of not only the school girl's neat pigtails, but of today's ponytail.)

Think Back, Men to Courting Days

By RUTH MILLETT

MEMO TO MEN: When you take your wife out in the evening for a special celebration don't spoil the nice surprise by one small, thoughtless action.

Don't rush her while she is trying to get dressed. Force yourself to sit down and read the newspaper if you are ready first and let her take her time getting pretty for you.

Be gallant enough to open the car door for her. Don't switch the car radio to a bleating rehash of the day's news when you could be carrying on a conversation. Be as chivalrous as you were in your courting days.

Don't stare at every pretty girl who passes or make comments about the cute blonde waitress. Instead, tell your wife how pretty she looks, since she is the one you are trying to please.

If you're tired, don't complain about it. That will make her feel guilty instead of gay, thinking she shouldn't have planned a big evening when you've had such a hard day.

Keep your talk "happy talk." Your gay evening will be a dud if you worry out loud about business problems, the children's finances, or anything else.

And when she thanks you for a wonderful evening—as she will if you've followed the rules set down here—tell her that you've had a good time, too.

A woman likes to hear that her husband finds her a charming companion — no matter how many years they have been married.

Clean Plate Seems More Courteous

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Maybe my parents were old-fashioned, but I was always taught to finish everything on my plate, and I have always adhered to this practice. I have noticed, however, that many supposedly well-brought-up people always leave a part of their food on the plate.

"One person explained to me that it was the proper thing to do and that it meant you had more than enough to eat, and to finish everything on your plate meant that you were still hungry and could eat more. Maybe I have been disgracing myself all these years, but to me it seems such a silly waste of good food. Furthermore, in my opinion, a clean plate indicates that you really enjoyed your food.

Answer: I agree with you thoroughly from beginning to end. Leaving food on your plate on purpose would be very unappreciative of your hostesses food.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Next week I will be dining with a group to celebrate a friend's birthday. The orchestra at this restaurant plays special music on request. To whom would I speak to request a song and am I expected to tip anyone. If so, what would be a suitable amount?"

Answer: You speak to the orchestra leader, or ask your waiter to do so for you. In either case a dollar tip to the leader would be enough unless it is a very expensive restaurant.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have a wager of one dollar on the following question which we would like you to settle. When a man and woman are introduced, is it, or is it not, proper for her to extend her hand in greeting?"

Answer: It is correct for her to proffer her hand, but it would not be discourteous on her part to fail to do so.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

An interesting and dynamic friend of mine amusingly calls himself "a former miserable friend." I suppose a "miserable friend" is a person who makes everybody around him miserable because he is miserable himself.

PEALE

I very well recall that in the case of this particular man, others would come into his presence in more or less jaunty and optimistic frames of mind. In no time at all he could take all the jauntiness out of everyone and drain off the optimism as well.

Strangely enough, he thought of himself as a religious man, but he was supercritical of everyone. He would say of someone, "I try not to say critical things about anybody, but . . . " There was always a "but."

No subject of a positive nature could be broached without his taking a negative position. His natural approach to any question was a negative one. Yet, in a way, this man was a good fellow and you couldn't help but feel that he had real possibilities.

In the course of events he moved to another part of the country and I didn't see him for three or four years. And when I did see him again he was a different man, almost as though he had been reborn.

I asked him how he had achieved this amazing change. "I went on a seven-day mental diet," he replied. Then he explained that someone had given him a little pamphlet called "The Seven-Day Mental Diet" by the late Emmet Fox.

HOW IT'S DONE

Resolved that from a given moment — any minute you select—you will for seven days thereafter watch your every word, and, for those seven days, you will not make a single negative or mean or dishonest statement. You will not make an off-color remark for seven days. You will not voice a depressing concept.

Now, of course, that is a big order! A food diet is easy by comparison.

"I tried it one day and failed," my friend continued. "I tried it again and went two days before I slipped. It was really hard going.

I tried again another week and made a poor start. Then I became annoyed and determined that I would stubbornly keep at it because I knew I had to change myself or real happiness was out for me.

"Finally, I succeeded for one whole week! Not once did I fail. I was so worn out with the effort that I thought I would ease off and slump back a bit into easier ways. But, do you know, actually I couldn't do that.

At first I was pretty nervous living on this upper-level basis, but the more I kept at it the more adjusted I became to the new status. Since then life has been altogether different."

Such mental dieting surely offers great possibilities for self-improvement. It is a fact that we are what we think. A mental diet can make a person strong, happy, effective through the simple expedient of changing one's thought pattern.

At the conclusion he hands Robbie a piece of matzoh, unleavened bread. When the Jews made their flight from Egypt Moses told his people to leave quickly for a long journey and to bake their bread without waiting for it to rise. IT SEEMS

This is the third in a series of articles on the subject, "IT SEEMS." In this series we have been discussing prevalent expressions containing the above phrase in the light of the scriptures. Previously we have discussed two such expressions, the first "it seems as if a man should let his conscience be his guide" and we found it to be inconsistent with the word of God. Secondly, we discussed the statement, "it seems to me that a man should choose his faith and walk in it," and we found it to be untrue. In this article, we wish to discuss the statement, "IT SEEMS TO ME THAT ANY NAME WILL DO IN RELIGION." A study of the Bible reveals, however, that the inspired Luke states to the contrary for in Acts 11:26 we find that the disciples were called CHRISTIANS first at Antioch. Peter says in Acts 4:12, "neither is there salvation in any other," thus ONLY THE NAME CHRISTIAN SHOULD BE WORN. In Acts 11:26, we find the name CHRISTIAN to be of divine origin for the expression, were called is rendered in the Greek CHREMATIZO implying a calling of God. Since the name CHRISTIAN was good enough for the people of God in the first century surely it is good enough for us today, for surely we have not discovered a name superior to that which God has given.

Inform an individual of these things and no doubt you will hear him say, "IT SEEMS TO ME AS IF ANY NAME WOULD BE ALL RIGHT." It may well seem that way, but God says CHRISTIAN and we should remember Solomon said, "THERE IS A WAY WHICH SEEMS RIGHT." Let us notice some of the sayings of prominent denominationalists relative to the name CHRISTIAN. Martin Luther: "I pray you, leave my name alone and do not call yourselves Lutherans but Christians." John Wesley (Methodist): "Would to God that all party names and unscriptural phrases and forms which have divided the Christian world were forgot." Dr. P. S. Henson (Baptist): "Perhaps yet we will go back to the name Christian." In the face of all this evidence, won't you be persuaded to leave party names, sectarian names and obey God by simply being a CHRISTIAN. You can by obeying the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ, for my friend, it may well seem to you as if any name will do but according to the Bible ANY NAME WILL NOT DO. The name CHRISTIAN is of faith and remember Paul said, "Whatsoever is not of faith is Sin." Rom. 14:23. BELIEVEST THOU THIS?

Insult Market Isn't What It Used to Be

By EARL WILSON

BEVERLY HILLS — A clergyman stopped Groucho Marx on the street in his home town and said, "Mr. Marx, I want to thank you for all the enjoyment you've given to the world."

"And I want to thank you," Groucho snapped, "for all the enjoyment you've taken out of the world!"

WILSON

The clergyman, instead of being offended, roared with laughter and asked if he might use the remark in church the next Sunday.

"I spend hours trying to insult people, but they laugh instead," Groucho complained at lunch the other day. My Beautiful Wife and I found him sharper-witted than usual. He gave the B.W. a kiss when they met in the dining room and remarked, "You're the only columnist's wife I kiss."

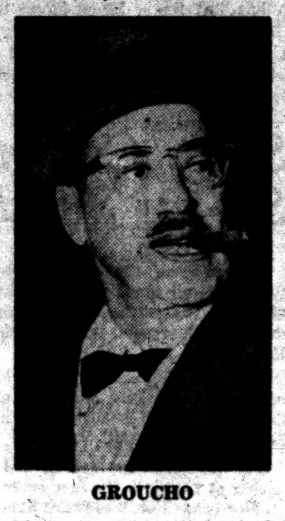

"Is that because you like her more?" I asked.

"No. Because it's dark in here!" he said.

Groucho's TV program hasn't given him quite the amount of expression he wants, so he's written a book, called "Groucho and Me," in which he will really get down to insulting. He explains, "I'm attacking everything—including myself.

"Doctors, for example," he mentioned. "Sometimes they won't even come to see you. They just phone and say, 'You're dying.'

GROUCHO

"I attack the farmers. They have the biggest racket in the world — getting paid for not raising sorghum. I haven't got sore gums but the government didn't give me any money.

"I hate traveling by ship. I was on a boat five days and was privileged to sit at the captain's table every night.

"That gives you the opportunity of being funny five nights for the captain who is hard of hearing from the slapping of the waves.

"I went up on the bridge and talked to the captain. He said, 'I wouldn't tell anybody but you, but I'm sick of this job. I've got a farm in Kansas. After two more trips, I'm going to retire and never see any more water except in the sink.'"

Groucho claims he'd not mind retiring himself.

"I'm the only fellow on TV who wants to get off. I've got so many residuals, I'll inundate the country," he said. "I'll be in Rome looking for a Frascatti."

"What's your secret of lasting on TV?" I asked.

"My secret is nobody knows I'm on," he said.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A man explained how he stopped his son from being late for school: "Bought him a car. Now he has to get there early to find a place to park."

Someone asked what the Bilko "platoon" would do when the show's through, and one of them replied, "We'll get movie jobs, other TV shows, commercials—or there'll be a wave of holdups." . . . That's earl, brother.

Missionary Candidate Surprised by Review of Her Life

MANDON LAKE — A "This Is Your Life-type" program was held last night for missionary candidate Eileen LeCompte, RN, at the Mandon Lake Community Church.

Just out of a Detroit hospital where she was treated for a slight concussion, Eileen was completely taken by surprise.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. LeCompte, and several other relatives and friends were brought here for the occasion which also marked Eileen's 28th birthday.

★ ★ ★

The program reviewed highlights in Eileen's life. It was preceeded by a banquet for over a hundred people at the church.

Mrs. Dorr W. Fockler, wife of the Mandon Lake Community Church pastor, presented a slide projector to Eileen on behalf of the congregation.

She will leave this week, returning to Altoona, Pa., before going to Ecuador, South America in September as a missionary.

★ ★ ★

Tonight, as part of a Missionary Weekend program at the church, a 30-minute, sound film in color titled "Bantu Break-through" will be shown at 7:30. It portrays modern missionary work in South Africa.

★ ★ ★

At 11:15 a.m. tomorrow, a formal recommissioning service for Mabel Cox, RN, missionary home on furlough, will be held. Miss Cox is scheduled to leave for Zulu Land, South Africa for her third term. A farewell service followed by a reception in the church parlor for both Eileen and Miss Cox will begin at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Boy Accidentally Hanged by Tangled Rope in Tree

ALMA (AP) — Seven-year-old Billy Rule was hanged accidentally yesterday when he climbed a tree in a neighbor's yard to untangle a rope swing.

Police said a playmate, Tim Tyler, 8, told them Billy toppled and the rope caught around his neck.

Attempts to revive Billy failed. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rule of Alma.

Aqua-Lung Sea-sational for Actor Lloyd Bridges

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fannie Brice once said of Esther Williams: "Wet, she's a star; dry, she ain't." The same cannot be applied to Lloyd Bridges.

★ ★ ★

He was a noted actor in his own right before going under the briny in the successful TV series, "Sea Hunt." Since strapping on his aqua-lung, his career has boomed.

"The series has certainly brought me more notice than anything I have ever done before as an actor," he remarked. "It has also brought me more money than anything else in my career.

★ ★ ★

"Artistic satisfaction? No, that is lacking. But fortunately, I am able to get it by doing other things when I'm not doing 'Sea Hunt.'"

The 'other things' are TV dramas, films and plays which make more use of his acting talents than the water-soaked TV show.

★ ★ ★

This summer he is touring in the big musical tents as Sky Masterson in "Guys and Dolls."

Can he sing? "I don't know; I haven't really tried."

Last year, he did "The Goddess" in his hiatus from "Sea Hunt." So far, he hasn't found a satisfactory script for a 1959 movie — "The nice part about having a series is that you don't have to take just anything that comes along."

★ ★ ★

It appears that he will enjoy such independence for some time. "Sea Hunt" is going into the last part of its second year of films, and the producers foresee a five or six-year run. The show has been a smashing success in syndication, yet the networks passed it up.

"I guess they were all wrapped up in Westerns," Bridges observed.

The public has shown it is interested in adventure under the water as well as on the plains.

★ ★ ★

Invite Diabetics to Air Problems

Doctors Will Answer Questions at Meeting Wednesday in Detroit

Diabetic patients and their questions concerning the disease and its treatment will take the spotlight at a meeting of the Lay Society of the Michigan Diabetics Association, at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The meeting, to be held in the grand ballroom of the Veterans Memorial Building in Detroit, will have no featured speakers and will be free and open to the public.

Instead a panel of physicians and a dietitian will devote the evening to answering questions submitted at the meeting and gathered in previous meetings.

A skit featuring a diabetic child, a mother and a doctor will depict the benefits of Camp Midicha, special diabetic camp for children from 8 to 15 years old, near Columbiaville, Michigan. The camp will be held this year from Aug. 16 to 29.

The question-and-answer session will cover control of diabetes by diet, insulin and the newer orally-administered drugs such as orinase.

The panel will consist of Dr. George H. Lowry, associate professor of pediatrics at University of Michigan Medical School; Dr. Thomas O. Lohr of Saginaw; Dr. Franklyn W. Baske of Flint; Dr. Keats K. Vining of Grand Rapids and Mrs. Betty Lou Thurman, dietitian at William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak.

Dr. Fred W. Whitehouse, of Henry Ford Hospital, will be moderator. Mrs. M. Elizabeth Vaughn, chairman of the society, will preside.

The society will elect officers at the meeting.

Everyone Wonders: Will Legislature Act?

LANSING (AP) — An uneasy quiet spread over the Capitol today like the count down before the launching of a giant missile.

Top state administrators and the janitors who swept out their offices wondered the same thing: Will the Senate approve relief for the state treasury when it comes back Monday night?

Or will long threatened financial collapse overtake the state treasury, holding up employe pay checks, state poor relief money for counties and settlement of other overdue state obligations?

The next payday for 32,000 state employes is May 7. The due date on next welfare checks for counties is Thursday.

Gov. Williams and his Cabinet struck a watchful waiting pose yesterday after a two and one half hour emergency meeting of the State Administrative Board.

All Democrats, they plainly didn't want to rock the political boat in hopes the Republican-controlled Senate upon its return would pass the bill to allow cashing veterans trust fund securities.

The governor and State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown carefully refrained after the board meeting from detailing the timetable of expected state treasury defaults if the Senate failed to act.

There seemed agreement that if the Senate moved promptly the treasury would be out of the woods —for at least two or three months.

"We're not going to draw up a list of people and say they are not going to get their pay unless such and such happens," said Paul W. Weber, the governor's press secretary.

However, Brown said he was "not backtracking a bit" from what he foresaw Thursday in a special message to the legislature advising that payroll and some welfare obligations could not be met unless lawmakers provided more cash.

All refused to speculate on the specific sequence of events that would follow outright killing of the trust fund bill, which drew only 11 favorable votes to 22 against in its first test.

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it. "We're not crossing it today," Williams said tersely. "There'll be no further comment."

Persistent questioning by newsmen seeking to pin down Brown and clarify several vague points produced no more enlightenment.

"When payrolls and other obligations come due, we'll see if there is enough money to pay them," the treasurer said. "If there is, we'll pay. If there's not, we won't."

Staff members of the state's three largest universities were spared from anxiety shared by poor relief clients and state workers from Ironwood on the Wisconsin border to Adrian near the Ohio line.

Keeping a promise of a month ago, Brown yesterday coughed up $6,700,000 for the three schools, erasing month-end pay worries of teachers, administrators and maintenance workers at Michigan State University and the University of Michigan.

Philip J. May, an MSU vice president, personally picked up a $2,600,000 warrant for his school. W. K. Pierpont, a U. of M. vice president, took delivery on a $3,300,000 warrant.

The payment for Wayne State University, in less serious difficulty, was for $800,000. In each case, the money represented the April installment of 1958-59 state appropriations.

The payments left the state behind 15 million dollars in its obligations to the three institutions, an arrearage exceeded only by the 35 million dollars owed nearly 3,000 local school districts.

No tanks used by the American Army in World War 1 were of American make. They all were made in Britain or France.

Brother, Sister Face Hearings in Slaying

DETROIT (AP)—George Ritola, 48, fugitive from a mental hospital, will be given an examining trial in Recorder's Court Tuesday on a first degree murder charge in the strangling of 5-year-old Marvin Zdanowski.

His sister, Hilda Riotola, 56, will be given a hearing May 4 on a charge of aiding and abetting an escapee.

★ ★ ★

Both were returned to the county jail following their arraignment yesterday before Judge Paul E. Krause.

Assistant Prosecutor Ralph Koury said, "She is a mental case and there are some indications that she may have played a part in this very serious crime."

Maturity's the time of life when, if you had the time, you'd have the time of your life . . . Sometimes a woman gets along with her mother-in-law only because she can't afford another baby sitter. —Earl Wilson.

Takes Crook to Catch Crook

'Perfect Robbery' Foiled by Righteous Indignation

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 29-year-old jobless man stormed into the Hall of Jstice yesterday and complained to officials that someone had stolen all the money he had acquired in a recent holdup.

"You just can't trust anybody these days," said John Clytus in righteous indignation. "I planned this whole thing so beautifully. And if I didn't report this, whoever did it would get away scot-free. . ."

Clytus, who had been collecting a $28 unemployment check every week at the state Department of Employment office here, ment of Employment office here, decided to increase the take April 16 by what he described as a "do-it-yourself project."

He hollowed out a book and inserted a maze of wire and batteries to make it look like a bomb. He presented the device to a young woman behind the employment office counter and threatened to blow up the building if she didn't hand over a good deal more than his usual take.

As a result Clytus went home with $1,500.

He returned to the employment office again last Wednesday for his weekly check, after carefully stashing the previous week's loot in a bus depot locker. That was the last he saw of it.

★ ★ ★

He went to the bus depot to pick up the $1,500 yesterday and found the locker broken open. Inside was a note, reading:

"This locker has been burglarized. Please report your loss to the management and file a claim."

Clytus, who said he had attended several colleges, said he decided to turn himself in because, as he put it:

"I'd rather spend the rest of my life in prison than let this burglar enjoy the fruits of a felonious act like that."

Bengals' Story Same in Kansas City

Even Athletics Feast on Tiger Pitching, 10-1

Billy Hoeft Clobbered as Bob Cerv Drives in Five Runs

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Everything's up to date in Kansas City — just as it is everywhere the Detroit Tigers go.

The Tigers came here looking for fast relief. They found the Athletics as modern and as fearsome as the Cleveland Indians and the Chicago White Sox.

The A's, on whom the Tigers used to feast, looked every bit like the Indians last night and clobbered the hapless Detroiters 10-1.

Ten could be the Tigers magic number. They've allowed that many runs in each of their last three games. Cleveland beat them 10-1 and 10-4 Wednesday and Thursday before the Tigers went into their first 1959 engagement with the A's. The Tigers also have 10 defeats against their one victory.

The pitching staff Bill Norman once said he wouldn't trade for any other in the American League now has given away 44 runs in four games. Tiger hitters—three of whom are in the league's top ten — have responded with seven.

It took the A's four innings to realize the league patsies were in town. They had been fed a steady diet of the White Sox and Indians, too, over the first two weeks of the season.

But Kansas City quickly compensated for earlier errors such as letting Detroit take a 1-0 lead in the first. The A's pounded starter Billy Hoeft and two relievers for six runs in the fourth.

Six hits rattled out before reliever Don Mossi retired the suddenly-come-alive Athletics. Included in the inning were a walk, a balk and an error. The A's batted around.

Doubles by Dick Williams and Bob Cerv produced another run in the fifth. Three more hits accounted for the A's final three runs in the seventh.

The Tigers completed their offensive work for the game in the first. Harvey Kuenn walked with two out and scored on Gail Harris' triple. Detroit loaded the bases before the frame ended. But Ralph Terry got Neil Chrisley to end the threat with a popup.

Terry coasted the rest of the way for his first victory. He allowed eight hits, three by Kuenn.

Hoeft, the Tigers' lone winning pitcher this season, dropped his first decision. He, Tom Morgan, Mossi and George Susce gave up 12 hits.

The Tigers were to try again tonight—there are 143 games left—against the A's. Norman planned to send Paul Foytack to the mound. Ex-Tiger Ned Garver was Harry Craft's choice to pitch for Kansas City.

Harness Track Starts Monday

Racing opens the 1959 season Monday night as Hazel Park begins its 43 night stand.

Through Saturday, June 20 there'll be action nightly at the track which set all attendance and betting marks in 1958. For the track the immediate target will be to top last year's opening night figures which saw 13,513 fans bet slightly more than $487,000.

The best horses in the track's history are on the grounds. Included are more than 130 from California and many top stables from Florida as well as Lexington, Ky. Race Secretary Bill Connors reports the more than 900 horses on the grounds the best the track has ever had.

The feature pace includes Dickie Frost, one of the top pacers on the west coast and handled by Ken Cartnal, Oakland Hills, owned by the Drumbeat Stable of Birmingham, also had west coast experience this spring.

Indians Beat Chisox on Singles, 6-4

Tribe Wins Without Homers

By The Associated Press

Home runs or singles, they're all the same to Cleveland as the surprising Indians pad their lead in the American League race.

Their homer spree was ended by Chicago Friday night — after the Tribe had belted 19 in eight consecutive games — but the Indians won their fourth in a row anyway, coming from behind for a 6-4 decision in their first run-in with the White Sox this season. That gave Cleveland, beaten only once in 11 starts, a 3½ game lead over New York's idle second place Yankees.

It also dropped the White Sox four games behind in a third-place tie with Boston and idle Baltimore. The Red Sox moved up with a 7-2 victory at Washington.

The Indians, with a wild Herb Score going only three innings, trailed 4-1 while getting just two hits off Sox starter Dick Donovan. Singles by Minnie Minoso, Russ Nixon and pinch hitter Tito Francona, who drove in a pair with two out, tied it in a three-run seventh.

Then Vic Power's infield hit, an error, intentional walk and a passed ball broke the tie in a two-run eighth capped by Woody Held's sacrifice fly.

Gerry Staley, 1-1, was the loser in relief. Humberto Robinson, late of the Milwaukee Braves, won in his first AL appearance with two innings of one-hit, shutout relief for the Tribe.

The White Sox scored two in the first inning when Score walked the first four men he faced and Ray Boone hit a sacrifice fly. Score walked seven in his three innings, but allowed just one hit — Boone's solo home run in the third.

★ ★ ★

Vic Wertz, rebounding quickly from a bout with the flu, drove in five runs for Boston. He doubled home two in the first against loser Vito Valentinetti, then counted three in the third with his second home run in two days. Jackie Jenson also homered in the five-run third, with both shots off left-handed rookie Jack Kralick.

★ ★ ★

The Nats managed just six hits off Ike Delock, 2-0, who went all the way for his eighth consecutive victory over the Senators since May 12, 1957. Washington scored on Jim Lemon's third homer, a two-run, 420-foot blast in the fourth inning.

ALL TANGLED UP — Referee Harry Kessler (left) gets tangled up himself as he tries to disentangle Virgil Akins and Don Jordan after the two fighters "wrestled" out of the ropes in the 14th round of the welterweight title fight at Kiel auditorium last night in St. Louis. Jordan won the bout.

9 Records Set in Howell Invitational

Flint Northern Stops Chief Thinclads

Lack of relay speed again worked against Pontiac Central High's track squad as the Chiefs were turned back yesterday on Flint Northern's field. Vikings defeated the PCH squad 63 1/3-48 2/3, mainly by capturing the final two events, the 880 and medley relays.

There were some bright spots, however, including a sweep of the shot, led by Bill Pritchett's 51 feet 3 inch toss; Andy Terry's high hurdle win and Allan Howze's low-sticks victory.

Dennis Wright's 50.8 quarter was a FN field mark.

Nine records were set at Howell's 6th annual invitational yesterday, won by Fenton with 50 1/3 points. Jack Newton of West Bloomfield set marks for the 100 (10.3) and 220 (23.2). Schimmel of Howell also set two records, in the mile (4:47.4) and shared in a 20-4 broad jump distance.

Other team standings were: Durand 41, Milford 30, Howell 28½, Grand Blanc 25 1/3 and West Bloomfield 19.

Another invitational was under way today at Marysville, with 24 schools entered, including Fenton, Romeo, Warren-Fitzgerald, Lake Orion and Troy from this area, in Class B. North Branch, Almont and Imlay City are in Class C.

Bloomfield Hills thinclads won their first meet of the season Friday, at home, taking a triangular with 60½ points. Clarkston had 54 and Holly 22½. The Hills squad had to win the 880 relay, last event, to gain the victory.

Two field records were set. John Leslie (BH) and Gray of Clarkston shared in a 5-8 high jump mark. Bloomfield's Barry Armstrong turned the mile in 4:49.3 for the other new time.

In another area meet this week North Branch defeated Oxford 60½-47½, with Doug Stott of Oxford winning three of his team's first places. Stott took the jumps and shot.

Cranbrook won its 2nd dual of the spring against Ferndale, on the home field, with 8 firsts. There were two double winners, Cranes' John Butzel (both hurdles) and Dales' Bob Palmer (both jumps).

PNH, Rams and Holly Win Golf Matches

Pontiac Northern and St. Frederick had to work plenty hard while Holly was breezing as the trio posted dual golf victories Friday afternoon.

Dick De Lano birdied the last two holes on long putts to finish with a 40 as PNH upset Waterford 183-187 for the school's 1st links triumph at Pontiac Country Club.

Don Davis had 44, Jim Miller 49 and Gary McDowell 50 to complete the Husky scoring. Waterford, weakened by the absence of its top two players, was led by Ron Pulleybank at 41. Marv Barnhart totaled 46, Bob Newman 47 and Jim Morton 53.

St. Fred nipped Walled Lake 175-176 in a tight duel at Edgewood featuring a 43 by Mike Reed.

Holly had no trouble walloping Clarkston 170-306 with Glen Gromett firing a 40, Darrell Kinney adding 42 and 44s for Tom Hadley and Glen Reed.

Waterford clinched its initial baseball triumph in four starts with a two-run 1st inning in downing Van Dyke 4-1 in an Inter-Lakes contest. Dave Ross hurled the win fanning 11. Tony Hiller, Jim Hoke and Mike Giannini slammed two hits apiece—each getting one in the early start.

Mound ace Roland Lashbrook struck out 11 and allowed just two hits as Armada whipped Almont 9-1. A two-run triple by Bill Porte was among the big blows.

North and South Decided Today

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, who came here heralded as a rapidly maturing "boy wonder" of amateur golf, and veteran Gene Andrews, who arrived with no fanfare, met today over 36 holes for the North and South championship.

Nicklaus, at 19, is 25 years younger than his insuranceman rival from Pacific Palisades, Calif. Both are playing in their first North and South.

Nicklaus, Walker Cup team member from Columbus, Ohio, won his semifinal from Bob Cochran of St. Louis, 2-up yesterday. Andrews led from the first hole in a 3 and 2 defeat of tourney-wise Jack Penrose, Miami, Fla.

Nicklaus, a long hitter, had to survive early hooking difficulties to win over the 46-year-old Cochran. But his steady putting from four to six feet on several holes saved him from disaster until he corrected his tee troubles.

Long Ace at Sunnybrook

Detroit's Dick Preston playing a practice round with the Sunnybrook team of the Michigan Publinx Golf Association, fired a hole-in-one Thursday afternoon on Sunnybrook Golf Club's 240-yard 17th hole. It was the 1st ace on that hole in 35 years. Preston carded an 18-hole score of 71.

The 'Skillful Angler'

Akins' Secret Weapon Fails Against Jordan

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Welterweight champ Don Jordan whipped both Virgil Akins and his "secret weapon" in his convincing title defense.

Akins' secret weapon was Harry Kabkoff, former manager of Jordan, who turned up in Akins' corner, rooting for the veteran St. Louis slugger.

"Any time Kabakoff wants to be in the other fighter's corner when Don is fighting, I'll be glad to pay his plane ticket," said Don Nesseth, manager of the young champion from Los Angeles.

"Harry was Don's manager for three long, sad years," Nesseth said. "There is no love lost between them."

The 24-year-old champion, part Apache and one of 19 children, indicated he is anxious to cash in on his title with a big money fight, possibly with former welter champ Carmen Basilio.

Jordan suffered a severely bruised right hand in the second round and said he had to fake the rest of the way. X-rays after the fight showed no fracture. But the hand was badly puffed up.

"I had to change my style a little, keep my head more on the move and do more jabbing and less hooking," the champ said.

His faking was perfect. No one in Akins' corner and none of the newsmen at the fight were aware Jordan's hand was injured.

"He stunned me good in that second round, but I wasn't hurt enough to be in too bad trouble," Jordan said.

It was a double defeat for Virgil. The Internal Revenue Service tied up his purse of more than $28,000 until all his tax obligations are satisfied. His attorney, Norris Shenker, said agents told him Akins owes more than $22,000 in back taxes.

The 31-year-old Honey Bear apparently doesn't have it anymore. He has slipped considerably since his bombing of Vince Martinez for the title a year ago.

Yawitz maintained Akins had won the fight, but he sounded as if he was trying to convince himself. No one volunteered agreement.

Akins simply ran out of gas midway in the fight and was lunging and mauling awkwardly.

His inept, if desperate attempt to turn the tide resulted in the only thing resembling a knockdown which came in the 14th round. Akins shoved Jordan through the ropes and then fell on top of him on the ring apron with writers reaching up to stay both from rolling into the press row.

Jones Qualifies in Two Events at Drake Meet

Wolverine Stars Shine at Penn, Led by Bird's Upset in Broad Jump

From Our Wire Services

Hayes Jones of Pontiac and Eastern Michigan College heads a group of state track stars competing in two major relays which started yesterday and will continue today.

The former city high school star led the 120-yard high hurdles qualifiers with a clocking of 14.1 seconds and also reached the finals in the 100-yard dash at the Drake Relays.

Central and Western Michigan each posted team triumps Friday at Des Moines. The Chippewas turned in the top time of 1:26.5 in qualifying for the finals of the College 880-yard relay. Western won the sprint medley relay title in 3:24.8. Doug Wuggazer of Birmingham was on the Bronco team.

Pete Stanger was another Michigan qualifier. He will go after top honors in the 120-yard high hurdles today.

High hopes for an "M" triumph in the quarter-mile relay were dealt a severe blow Friday when Tom Robinson came up with a slight muscle spasm. He is expected to miss the championship run against Abilene Christian.

The British Empire 220-yard king paced the Wolverines to a qualifying spot before turning up hurt. The team time was 41.8 seconds.

A pair of races between sprint stars Bobby Morrow and Glenn Davis were among the Drake highlights planned today on the meet's Golden anniversary. Former Olympic great Jesse Owens will present the awards to all the winners tonight.

Drake officials were expecting more records to be set. Illinois established a new national sprint medley mark in 3:17.8. Two other meet records were snaped.

Penn State's distance medley triumph was the school's 1st major win in eight years at the Penn event. The Nittany Lions went after three more crowns today in the 65th annual carnival.

Braves Defeat Redlegs, 10-7

Mathews Belts Two Homers

By The Associated Press

After that startling slump in last fall's World Series, Eddie Mathews is back doing what comes naturally — hammering home runs.

It was Mathews who was, perhaps, the Milwaukee Braves' biggest disappointment as they blew a 3-1 lead in games and lost the world championship to the New York Yankees last October. The strong-armed third baseman, who had hit 31 home runs during the regular season, managed just two doubles and two singles in 25 at bats for a .160 average and set a Series record by striking out 11 times.

If there was any suspicion that the Series slump would leave a mark, Mathews has clubbed it away. At the moment he shares the National League home run lead, swatting his fifth and sixth Friday night with No. 6 a grand-slam that carried the first place Braves to a 10-7 victory at Cincinnati.

Mathews' slam, his fifth in the majors, not only gave him a tie with Los Angeles' Don Demeter for the homer lead, but also retained Milwaukee's half-game edge over the second-place Dodgers, who won 3-2 in 10 innings at St. Louis.

Third-place San Francisco stayed close, one game back with a 4-3, 11-inning decision over the Chicago Cubs. Pittsburgs rallied for four ninth inning runs and a 8-5 victory at Philadelphia.

Mathews' first of five RBI came when he and Joe Adcock homered in a two-run fourth inning, bringing the Braves from behind and chasing winless Don Newcombe to a third defeat. Roy McMillan, Frank Thomas and Gus Bell, who hit two, homered for the Reds, who trailed 6-5 before Mathews slammed in the eighth off rookie Jim O'Toole.

The Dodgers twice missed the winning run before Duke Snider got it home with a two-out, pinch single in the 10th. John Roseboro, after breaking a 1-1 tie with a double, missed third base while running for home on Ron Fairly's single in the seventh. And just ahead of Snider's clincher, two walks and a single by Charlie Neal had failed to get a run when Gino Cimoli's peg from center nailed Fairly at the plate.

Johnny Podres (2-1), who gave way for Snider, won it with Clem Labine's 1-2-3 mop up in the 10th. Rookie Howie Nunn (0-1) lost it in relief for the Cards, who tied it 2-all on Gene Green's home run in the ninth.

The Pirates, who counted twice on Dick Stuart's first inning home run, blew a 4-0 lead before Smoky Burgess' two-run double put it away in the ninth.

The Phils, blanked on two hits for five innings by Ron Kline, scored three in the sixth on Granı Hamner's double, Ed Bouchee's triple and a home run by Wally Post. They took a 5-4 lead in the eighth on Carl Sawatski's two-run double. Elroy Face won his second in relief. Al Schroll (1-1) lost it also in relief.

Right fielder Felipe Alou, who doubled the winning Giant run into position for Daryl Spencer's sacrifice fly, also cut off a two-run, tying ninth-inning rally by the Cubs with his throw to the plate. Stu Miller (1-0) was the winner in relief after Johnny Antonelli had held the Cubs to four hits and one run for eight innings. John Buzhardt, third of four Cub pitchers, lost his second.

ABC Winds Up 56th Tourney

National Kegling Test Ends Tonight After 72 Days and Nights

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The 56th American Bowling Congress Tournament comes to a close tomorrow after 72 days and nights of almost continuous competition.

The prospect of any last minute upstarts stealing the show from the current leaders is dim. Most of the contestants in the dwindling hours of the tournament are lower average bowlers.

Marvin Stormer of Belleville, Ill., led Friday's scoring in both the singles and all-events divisions, with 667 and 1,798, respectively. Both scores were a far cry from the 764 and 2,116 totals assembled by Detroit's Ed Lubanski to lead both categories.

Ollie Roessler and Armin Bruehl of Columbia, Ill., paced the day's two-man teams with 1,206. The leading doubles combination is Gib Fsihbach and Barney Vehige of St. Louis who rolled a 1,372 series March 20.

Cole Tire Service of St. Louis knocked off Friday's best booster team score, 2,710. Miami Lanes of Troy, Ohio, leads the 850-and-under average category with 2,848.

There was no action in the open team division Friday. The Detroit average section with 3,243.

Has 4-Stroke Edge for 2 Rounds

Souchak Tops Vegas Field

Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Popular Mike Souchak held a firm grip on first place today as the field of 26 professional golfers went into the third round of the $46,620 Tournament of Champions.

The big fellow from Grossinger, N.Y., had rounds of 66-70 for a 36-hole total of 136 and a four-stroke bulge over his nearest challengers.

The scene is the Desert Inn Country Club, whose 7,073-yard, 36-36—72 course, plus gusts of wind, put a damper on some of the hopes in the second round.

George Bayer was alone at 142, and tied at 143 were Gene Littler, three-time winner of the event, and Arnold Palmer

Trailing behind were such tournament seasoned players as National Open champion Tommy Bolt (151), Cary Middlecoff (145), Bill Casper (147), and last year's winner, Stan Leonard, (144).

The leaders:

Mike Souchak	66-70—136
Julius Boros	70-70—140
John McMullin	68-72—140
Ernie Vossler	69-71—140
Art Wall Jr.	72-68—140
George Bayer	72-70—142
Arnold Palmer	70-73—143
Paul Harney	71-73—144
Doug Sanders	71-73—144
Stan Leonard	71-73—144
Billy Maxwell	72-73—145

Expect Little Agreement on Berlin

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Here's what to count on when the foreign ministers meet May 11, and at a summit meeting, if there is one.

No unification of Germany.

No formal U.S. recognition of — or peace treaty with — East Germany.

A new U.S. approach that could sew the seeds for eventually bringing the Germans together if the Russians will buy it—which they probably won't.

Here's the way they reason:

On Unification—The Soviet Union can't afford a United Germany now, whatever the terms. Inevitably, the strong 55 million West Germans would take over the government of all Germany from the 17 million East Germans.

Russia is now building in East Germany a crucial chemical industry aimed at tying the satellite even more tightly to the Soviet economy. That's why the Kremlin's Mikoyan was dickering for pipe on his recent U.S. trip.

The British, though thumping for a united Germany in principle, look back to two world wars and worry about a resurgent, united Reich. They're subconsciously dragging their heels on union.

On Disengagement — The Russians want disengagement, or almost anything else that will get American troops out of Berlin.

The U.S. has decided firmly in advance of the conference that American troops will not get out of Berlin now under any circumstances.

U.S. troops would only withdraw gradually over a long period of time if a satisfactory agreement could be reached on a united Germany.

The U.S. would agree to put Berlin under the United Nations only with no Russian veto and only with American troops staying in the city.

U.S. officials believe American troops essential if West Germany and the free world are to be convinced the U.S. will back them in case of trouble.

The theory: if the U.S. would agree to move out of West Berlin, the Western alliances would begin to crumble.

On Recognition of East Germany—The Russians want an Allied peace treaty recognizing East Germany. That would give East Germans control over U.S. routes to West Berlin. It would seriously endanger U.S. occupation rights in the city. So the U.S. will not agree.

American officials also believe formal recognition of a divided Germany would lead inevitably to war. Sooner or later one part of Germany would attempt to force unity on the other.

So much for the negatives.

New U.S. Approach—The first-stage American get-Germany-together proposal will be deceptively simple—provide for a handful of all-German technical commissions on migration and movement of labor, customs and trade, communications (telephone, radio, highway, canal, railway, bus), and currency exchange.

These commissions—composed of East and West Germans — would be strictly technical. That's so the big stumbling block — which side gets the most representatives — wouldn't bog things down. On a technical commission it wouldn't matter.

If these commissions work successfully over a period of years, the U.S. would be ready to propose the next step —an East - West German Federation something on the order of the United States.

Individual German states would retain a great deal of power. The central or federal government would have only the amount of power the democratic West German states and the Communist East German states would be willing to give it.

U.S. officials know the Russians won't accept a free all - German vote. So they hope to edge toward a united Germany through this step-by-step method. That's provided Britain and France will go along. And provided the Russians can be sold.

But it's a long way between the cup and the lip. American officials aren't hopeful.

Only Theater Closes

PAULDING, Ohio (UPI)—The recent closing of the only motion picture theater in this town of 2,300 made Paulding County the fourth Ohio county without a movie theater.

Castro's Police Force Clamps Down on Vice

HAVANA (AP) — Havana isn't the wide open town it used to be.

It's still a gay and friendly city, but the earnest young men who run the revolutionary police have put a stop to much of the prostitution. They have chased hundreds of procurers off the streets and cracked down on a big abortion racket which thrived in the days of President Fulgencio Batista.

Prostitution still exists in Havana, but swanky establishments in the good neighborhoods—what the police call "moral zones" — have been shut down. Dozens of hotelitos (little hotels) have been closed.

A sharp crackdown hit the narcotics business, long flourishing in Havana, and a revolutionary military court emphasized it by sentencing one of Havana's marijuana bosses to death. He appealed and probably will wind up with a long jail term.

★ ★ ★

Gambling, for centuries a favorite Cuban pastime has been sharply reduced. Casino operations are limited to the big hotels catering to tourists. Five - and - dime casino operations were banned when the revolutionary government permitted a reopening of the gambling centers after a shutdown for a cleanup.

Free Canadian Ship Aground Near Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (AP)—An unidentified Canada Steamship Lines' freighter was freed yesterday after it grounded in the lower St. Mary's River. The freighter apparently went aground Thursday night off St. Joseph Island.

Meanwhile, the Soo Locks had their busiest day so far this season Thursday handling 31 ships, 21 of them upbound into Lake Superior.

United States Coast Guard officials at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., said shipping is not having any difficulty with ice which is breaking up under favorable winds today.

The icebreaker Mackinaw and the cutters Mesquite and Woodrush are operating in Whitefish Bay aiding ships going in and out of here.

Your Neighbor's House

Roy Remmel Home Emphasizes Light Touch

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

How many lighting fixtures do you have in your house? For that matter, have you ever counted them? The Roy J. Remmels who have a new split level house on Big Trail in Walled Lake have 53 lighting fixtures in their home. There's a reason for it: Mr. Remmel is an area sales representative of a national lighting company.

★ ★ ★

When the Remmels were transferred to Michigan from Illinois, they chose to live in a new subdivision. They were the third family to move into Marotta's Apple Orchard (the residents are in the process of choosing a new name for their subdivision). Because they bought their house while it was still in the building stage, they were able to plan the lighting and have it installed by the builders.

It was a chilly, gloomy day and we drove around to the back to get as close to the house as possible. So we entered through the garage. From here we went through Mr. Remmel's office to the main part of the house. This office is decorated in green.

Off the downstairs hall there is the utility room, a lavatory and a number of storage closets.

The Remmels do most of their living in the downstairs room. They have not yet furnished their upstairs living room — haven't even come to any decision on how they want to do it.

But the birch paneled family room is charming and comfortable. Windows on three sides make it bright. The kitchen is close by.

The floor is corktone tile. The wood walls have a natural finish on them. Curtains at the large windows are beige with a coral, brown and gold design. At one end of the room a gray brick fireplace is built into the side wall.

There's a trio of lights over the coffee table at the other end of the room. The shades are wrapped in twine. Twin lights are mounted on the chimney. Over the table is a traveling brass lamp.

There are bright pillows on the beige sofa. Two arm chairs are upholstered in a plastic fabric and a low coral plastic bench is placed next to the fireplace.

Coral is repeated in the small upholstered armchair near the sofa. The coffee table has a wrought iron frame. Mrs. Remmel has plans to make a mosaic top for it. Working in this medium is one of the hobbies she has taken up since moving to the Pontiac area. The dining table and chairs are bamboo.

In the adjoining kitchen the table is birch. Seats and backs on the matching chairs are yellow plastic with black lines marking off a plaid design.

BIRCH WAINSCOT

Around the eating area there is birch wainscoting. Walls are yellow. Curtains are aqua, yellow and brown on a white background.

Lights in the kitchen include a pull-down brass fixture over the table, a ceiling light and two brass spots over the sink.

The front door is located halfway between upper and lower levels. There is a long window beside the door. Inside this door is painted blue.

Upstairs each bedroom door is painted a different color. The first room is the guest room done in aqua and white. Because the aqua is so vivid it is used on only one wall.

Across the hall is the bathroom. Mr. Remmel said to tell our readers that this is one bathroom with plenty of lights! Fixtures are mounted around three sides of the mirror. The color scheme of the room itself is pink and white. Curtains are white with a gold design.

RANDY'S ROOM

The Remmels' one child is a nine-year-old boy named Randy. He has a room full of boy stuff, on and around the blonde furniture.

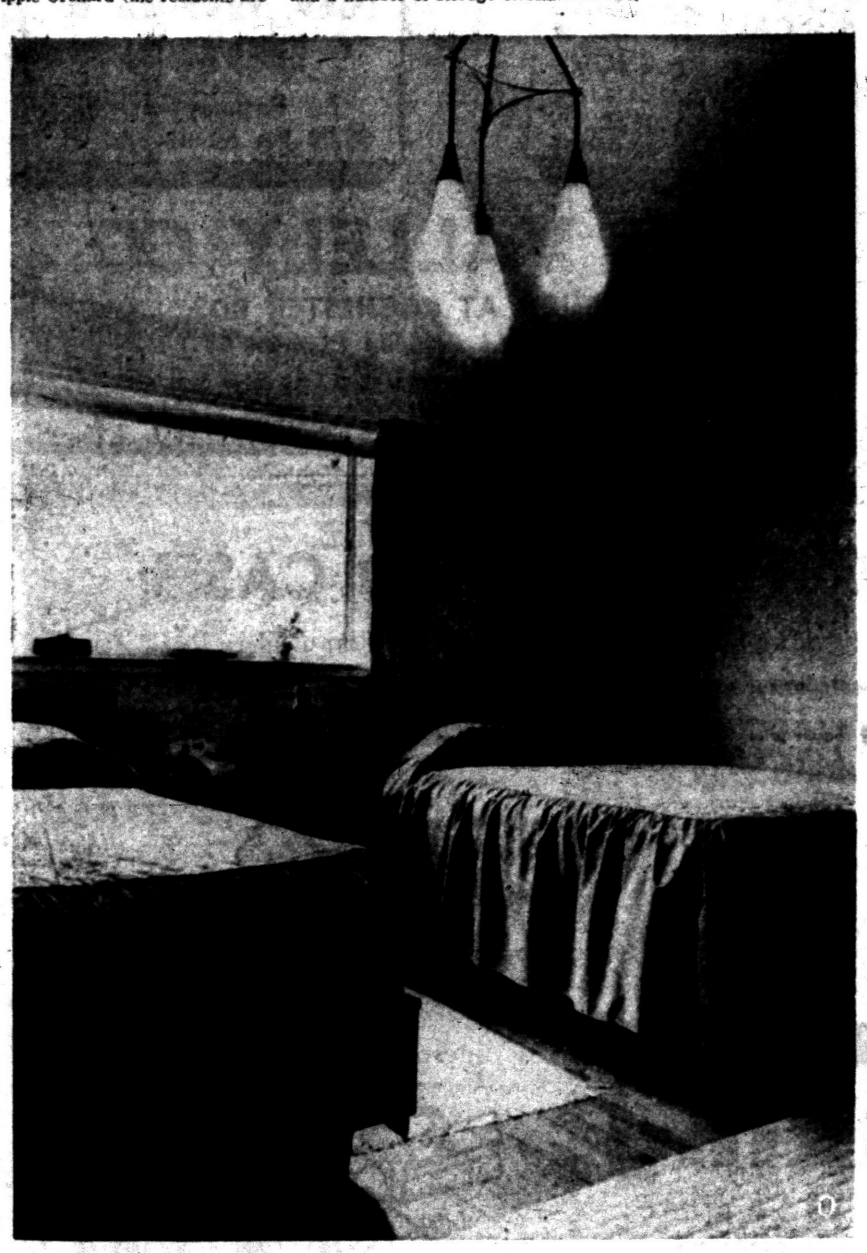

Walls in here are white. The door is yellow. Rugs and bedspread are gray. His light fixture is unusual. Three parchment shades that look from the ceiling. The shades are white, but pastel bulbs used in them make them look colored.

Similar lights are used in the master bedroom. This fixture has three white glass globes suspended from a brass frame. Pink, blue and green bulbs turn the shades a delicate color.

The same colors are repeated in the white curtains. One wall is rose; the other three are white. Rose taffeta quilted spreads cover the twin beds. Furniture is mahogany with a sandalwood finish.

After moving five times during the process of building, the Remmels were happy to get settled in their new house. Now, a year and a half later, they are still pleased with it.

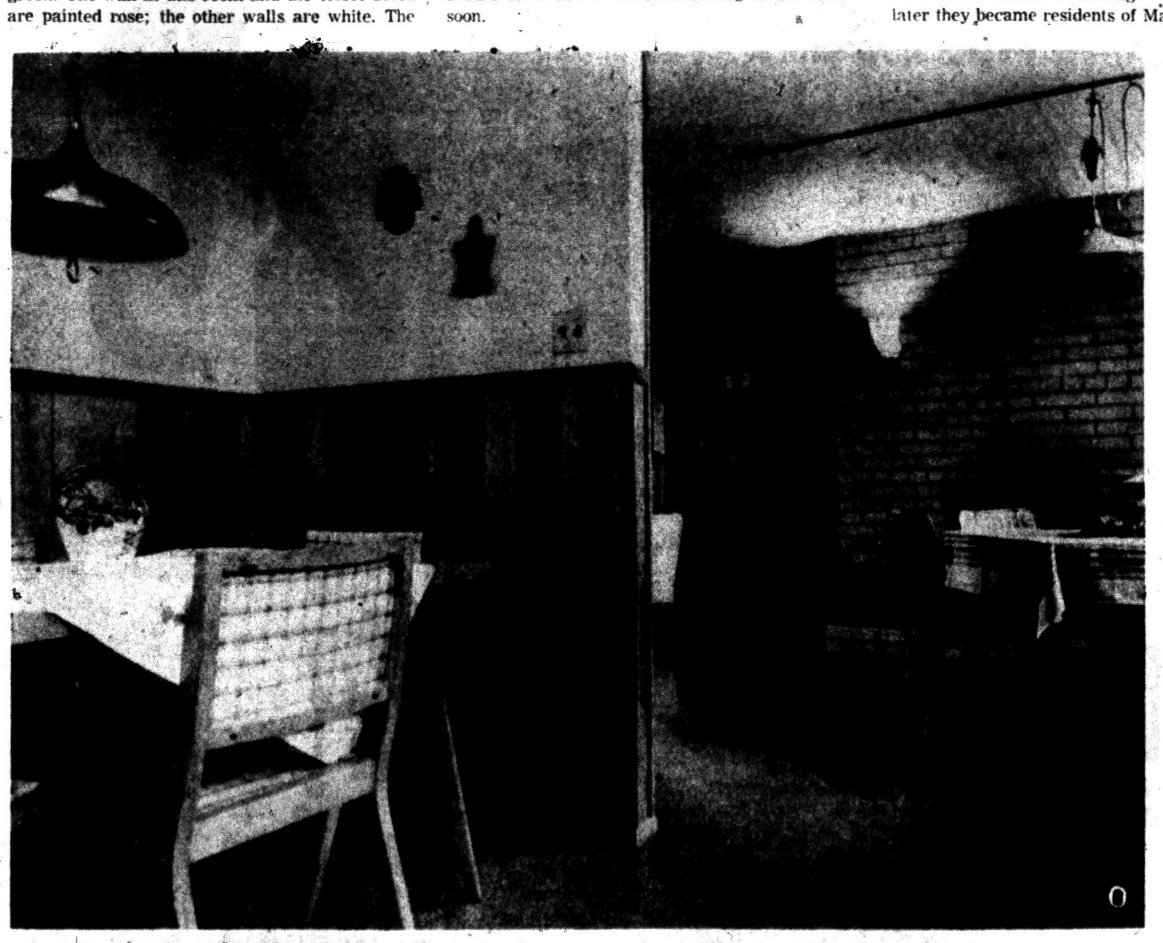

Charles Marotta Building Corporation constructed the Remmel home. The exterior is red brick and redwood. Their lot is nearly half an acre in size.

PASTEL LIGHTS — The shades of this hanging brass fixture are white glass. Pastel colored bulbs turn them into soft tones of pink, blue and green. One wall in this room and the closet doors are painted rose; the other walls are white. The taffeta bedspreads are rose. Curtains have a flower design in blue, pink and yellow. There's an apple tree just outside this window which should contribute some real flowers to the scene soon.

ON BIG TRAIL — The Roy E. Remmels bought this house when they came to the Pontiac area 18 months ago — that is, they bought it from the model. Five moves later they became residents of Marotta's Apple Orchard. The lower part of the house is red brick; the upper level is redwood. The Remmels have more windows in the lower level than most of the homes in this subdivision; they also have more light fixtures. Charles Marotta Building Corporation did the construction work.

BIRCH WAINSCOTING — The walls around the table in the kitchen are paneled in birch. Upper walls are yellow. Yellow plastic seats and backs with black plaid lines carry out the color scheme. Floors on this lower level are corktone tile. The fireplace in the family room is gray Roman brick. Brass fixtures are used over both tables.

Pontiac Press Photos by Tom Gerls

CORAL ACCENTS — Natural birch walls, a cork floor and three pieces of furniture in neutral tones make a good background for bright accents. Mrs. Remmel has used coral. It appears in the figures of the draperies, the bench in the foreground and the pattern of the chair near the stairway. That interesting light fixture over the sofa has shades wound with twine. Mrs. Remmel indulges in one of her new skills — knitting.

Wood Floors Soften Concrete

Modern construction techniques make it unnecessary to forego the comfort and health benefits of genuine hardwood floors in a basementless house built on a concrete slab foundation, builders emphasize.

Hardwood now is widely used for such installations because, in addition to its beauty and other advantages, it possesses resiliency and insulating value. The resiliency, offsetting the extreme hardness of concrete, makes the floors easy on the feet. The insulating characteristic overcomes the coldness of concrete in winter, thus keeping the floors warm.

Economical procedures have been developed for installing hardwood flooring either of the strip or the block style over slabs.

Strip flooring, the kind used in most homes today, is nailed to short lengths of lumber called screeds, which are embedded in mastic on top the concrete. Block flooring is installed in mastic directly over the slabs. It can be laid in attractive patterns to resemble luxurious parquetry.

A moisture barrier "sandwich" of hot asphalt, 15 lb. asphalt saturated felt and another coating of hot asphalt, applied on the concrete before installation of the hardwood, protects the floors against dampness from the slab.

Good Understanding

According to the Southern Pine Association, the most important parts of the house are underfoot. They are the floor joists, pieces of lumber placed parallel and on edge between the foundation sills and the floor. The job of the joists is to support the floor and carry the weight of all house occupants and contents. Properly seasoned lumber is recommended.

May Have to Prepare Ceiling Before Tiling

Either acoustical or decorative ceiling tile can be installed over cracked or stained plaster ceilings by simply mailing or stapling the tiles to a framework of furring strips, or by cementing them directly to the ceiling with a special adhesive.

★ ★ ★

To determine whether stapling or cementing is the best method, the ceiling should be checked carefully. If the plaster is cracked, but still firm and sound, cementing will probably be the most economical method.

★ ★ ★

In this case, small deposits of adhesive are placed on the back of the tile in each of the four corners. The tile is then pressed firmly against the ceiling to assure a close bond with the plaster. Cementing a new ceiling in place can become a family project, with one member placing the adhesive on the tile with a putty knife, and another cementing the tile to the ceiling.

Either the square edge material, or the tiles with a tongue-and-groove joint may be used for cementing the tongue and groove helps to level each tile as it's installed.

If the ceiling is badly cracked and the plaster is falling or sagging, it is best to take the precaution of nailing up a framework of furring strips and attaching the tile to them. Furring strips are inexpensive, light, wooden boards and for this purpose, they should be of 1" x 3" soft lumber. This method is also used for finishing attic and basement rooms, and is preferred by most builders for installing acoustical ceilings in new construction.

★ ★ ★

When the condition of the existing ceiling calls for furring strips, the average home mechanic finds that stapling the tongue-and-groove type of tile to them is easier than nailing. There's usually no need to buy a stapling gun, since they are generally available on a rental or loan basis, frequently from the same dealer who sells the ceiling tile.

Make Hideaway for Folding Cot

A folding cot is wonderful for an extra guest, but where can it be kept out of sight when not in use? Often, a special hideaway closet with a clamp-on door will serve nicely.

Locate the cot closet on a porch, in the basement, hallway or bedroom. Make a lumber framework in a corner and cover it with ¼" hardboard. For a door, make a frame and cover it with masonite. Get friction-type metal fixtures for clamping it into the opening. They are attached to the inside framework. Include finger holes for its easy removal.

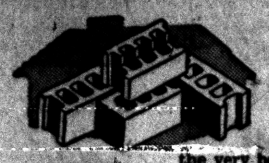

Prime and paint the cot closet. The top can be used as a bookcase or for plants or other decorative items.

Spraying Metal Is Fussy, Messy Job

The fundamentals for spraying wood or metal are the same. However, in spraying metal, you must use extra care to be certain that the area being sprayed is completely free of all oil and grease.

If you undertake a spray job on anything like an automobile, the trick is to follow a system by which the overspray always falls on an uncoated area. Newspapers and masking tape must be used to prevent the spray from falling on the chrome and glass surfaces

Consider Ways, Means of Financing House

How much can you afford to pay for a house? Most authorities agree that there are two rules-of-thumb to keep in mind: Don't buy a house that costs more than two-and-a-half times your annual income; don't load yourself down with a monthly payment obligation that exceeds a quarter of your monthly income.

★ ★ ★

One thing to keep in mind as a prospective homeowners is that your monthly payments must cover more than just the principal and interest on the mortgage. As a homeowner, you have to worry about maintenance, operating costs (fuel, electricity) insurance premiums and property and utility taxes. However, many times the bank includes these in estimating your monthly payments.

While on the subject of money, consider the very heart of the problem: how are you going to pay for the house?

Most people pay a certain amount down in cash and borrow the rest with the house pledged as collateral. Such a loan is a mortgage loan, or simply a mortgage. How do you get a mortgage? Your attorney or real estate broker can help you here, but you can also do it yourself.

Stop in at a local or downtown bank, savings and loan association, building association, mortgage lender or insurance company and simply say you'd like to inquire about getting a mortgage.

The man you talk to will want to know a few things about you—your family income, general financial situation and how big a mortgage you want. You will want to ask him how much money his institution will lend you, at what interest rate, for how long and whether there are any other strings attached.

You should make a special point of asking — especially in these days of relatively high interest rates—whether you'll have to pay a discount. That means that you'd pay interest on and have to repay as principal an amount more than the sum actually loaned you.

Mortgages fall into two major categories—conventionals and those backed by the government—either insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed (for ex-servicemen only) by the Veterans Administration.

Government-backed mortgages have maximum interest rates and repayment period. In the course of qualifying for one the homebuyer gets (and pays for) an expert appraisal of his property.

Government-backed mortgages have other advantages, too, but they also have this major drawback: they frequently involve more paperwork and delay than conventional financing.

New Walnut Lamps Match Furniture

Walnut is not only the favored wood for furniture nowadays but also is being utilized to lend a graceful, luxury look to lamps and accessories.

Attracting much interest at the recent Chicago furniture markets, for example, were lamps of Early American oil-lamp design featuring tapered columns with a hand-hewn look. Modern wood-working techniques enable manufacturers to produce walnut in various sculptured effects reminiscent of treasured antiques.

For those who prefer the modern or contemporary look there were lamps with slender, straight columns of walnut. Both floor and table lamps with rich walnut bases also were in evidence.

You Can Cut This Plan to Fit Your Budget

By DAVID L. BROWN

The long low ranch is engineered so that one end may be:

1. Built first and used as a self-contained one-bedroom apartment while a couple awaits the time when higher income will enable them to build the larger part of the house. The apartment then, if desired, can be converted into a garage.

2. Built first as a garage and converted later for use as an in-law apartment, private rental apartment, or professional suite.

3. Added later either as garage or as apartment.

4. Built along with remainder of house as a finished area, in which case the total room count for the home reaches nine (four bedrooms, three baths).

Architect Rudolph Matern is the creator of this compartmentalized masterpiece, designated X-55 in the House of the Week series.

VERSATILE ADVANTAGE

If the alternate unit is used primarily as a garage, it means the home has a well proportioned mudroom, laundry and a handy extra bath.

If the alternate unit is used as living quarters, it can be partitioned off to provide a living room (with foyer entrance), bedroom, kitchen, bath and outdoor porch. Room divisions can be changed to make it a professional suite. In neither case does it subtract any essential space from the main portion of the house.

The main portion has a gracious entertainment area, with a 20 by 13½-foot sunken living room. A fireplace and built-in bookcase dominate one wall, and a big bow window the other. The "in-line" dining room extends the apparent room length to over 30 feet.

Headquarters for the family is a long family room-kitchen combination across the rear of the house and nearly equaling in space the formal entertainment rooms in the front. The wall arrangement prohibits a view of the family area from the front foyer or living room, providing complete privacy. A glass wall separates family room and outdoor terrace.

The kitchen is laid out in the "U" shape which has been proven most efficient for meal preparation. The nearby laundry and mudroom localize dirt, helping keep the balance of the house clean.

The sleeping area is especially well insulated from noise by banks of closets, basement stairway, halls and bath. The three bedrooms are roomy, and the big master bedroom—made more luxurious by a cathedral ceiling—has a walk-in closet and a full bath.

Fifteen closets and cabinets provide a total of 101 square feet of storage, not counting the 23 lineal feet of kitchen base cabinets. The basement covers approximately 1,700 square feet, any part of which may be used for storage.

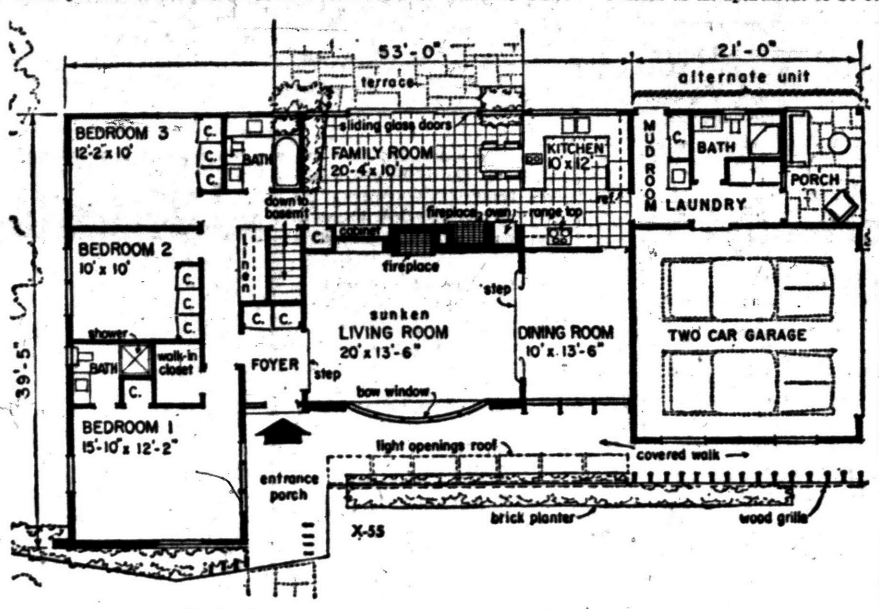

PORTS ADMIT LIGHT

On the outside, sky ports in the front roof allow sunlight to reach the living and dining rooms despite the deep roof overhang. An Oriental grille in front of the alternate unit increases privacy. An important feature is that the garage door on the alternate unit can be substituted for window and door—or vice versa—with little or no framing change.

The main section of the house offers 1,570 square feet of habitable space. The alternate unit has 555 square feet, excluding porch. Overall width is 74 feet and depth is 39' 5".

CHOOSE A SECTION — This ranch home has a flexible alternate unit at one end, which may be built either before or after the main portion of the house. (Dotted lines indicate alternate unit). It can be a self-contained apartment for a budget-conscious couple saving to build the remainder of the home. Later, it can either remain as an apartment or be converted into a garage.

Asbestos Board Ideal for 'You-Do-It' Jobs

"Do-it-yourself" fans, according to building materials dealers, have found a new "friend" in asbestos-cement board, a versatile product known as "the material of a thousand and one uses." Made of asbestos fibers and portland cement, the sturdy board is especially well adapted as a fire-safe wall and ceiling finish for basements and garages. On farms it is widely used for barn exteriors and milk house interiors.

Use Polish Remover

A tipped-over nail polish bottle on the bathroom lavatory needn't be a messy clean-up job. Nail polish remover will quickly and safely remove nail enamel from any porcelain enamel surface.

Two Pails Save Time

New easy-to-clean paneling materials can be washed quickly if two pails are used for the job. One pail should be filled with heavy soap suds and the other with clear rinse water. The tile or predecorated hardboard paneling should be washed with a sudsy cloth, and then wiped clean with clear water.

Wallet Empty? You Can Get Loan to Redecorate

There is no need to deny yourself the pleasure of newly painted rooms just because you haven't the cash on hand. It is always possible to obtain an FHA loan for whatever redecorating you wish to accomplish.

Of course, if you are doing a small job, the cost of painting a room is so moderate you can do it with a minimum of outlay, especially if you do the work yourself. However, if you need a considerable sum, it will pay you to tell your paint dealer about it, and he will explain to you how to go about financing yourself through FHA.

Don't Creep Up on Man

When you visit a friend in his workshop and find him bending over a power tool, don't shout to him or walk up behind him. This is a good way to make him lose a finger.

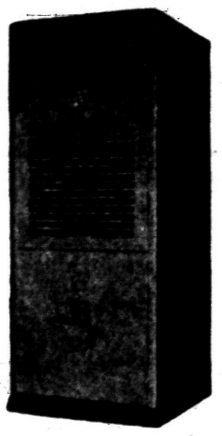

The tool noise will prevent him from hearing your approach, and he may be startled into letting his hands slip into the machine. Wait at the door until he finishes and turns the power tool off.

Plywood 'Skin' Roof California Carport

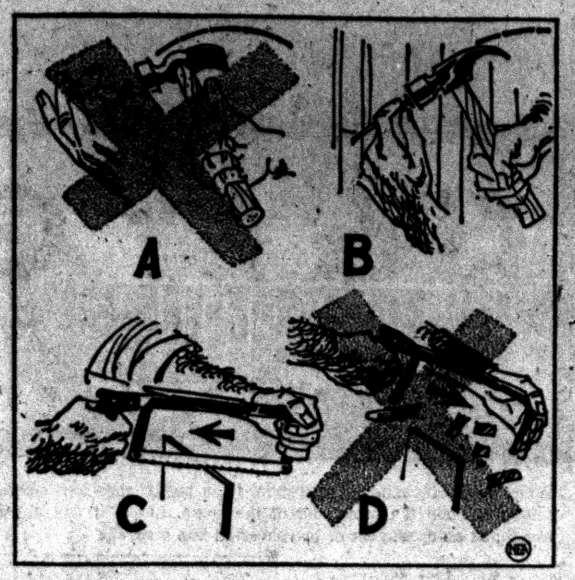

A carport in Oakland, California is a preview of stressed skin things to come. Conventiopal double carports require heavy beams to span the width necessary for two cars. But this carport utilizes stressed skin panels made up with 2x6s and plywood skins to span the entire 20-foot width.

★ ★ ★

The five panels which form the roof of the port are 4x20'. They are supported only at the ends. The panel's 2x6 framing members were covered with ⅜" thick exterior-type (waterproof) fire plywood for the top "skin", and ¼" exterior plywood for the bottom skin. These skins were glued and nailed to the framing.

Since there was no need for the time-consuming construction of conventional roof joists, the carport was erected in a fraction of the time usually required for such a project.

RIGHT AND WRONG — There's a wrong — and dangerous — way to handle any tool. A — Don't strike nail an angled blow when starting it. B — Do hit nail head-on, with force in line with body of nail. C — Do always start hacksaw cut on the back stroke. D — Starting on forward-cutting-stroke can shatter blade and result in injury.

Use Tools Correctly to Avoid Injuries

All the tools represented in a hardware store's inventory will be of little use to you, unless: you use the right tool for the right job, use each tool properly, and keep all tools in good condition.

HAMMERS: Strike nail head with the full face of the hammer. Striking at an angle will cause the hammer's face to slip off the nail. When starting a nail, hold it between the thumb and forefinger near the head of the nail, not near the point.

Keep hammer handles smooth and free of splinters. Handles should be tight in the hammer head. Replace handles that are cracked or otherwise damaged. Rewedge loose handles.

SAWS: Keep saws sharp. Change replaceable blades when they become dull. Support your work on sawhorses. When using a hacksaw, fasten the work in a vise.

SCREWDRIVER: One size won't do for all jobs.

A sure way to get a nasty puncture wound is to hold the work in one hand, the screwdriver in the other hand. And DON'T substitute a screwdriver for a chisel or a crowbar.

POWER TOOLS, portable or stationary, offer their own set of hazards. Electric tools should be grounded.

If you run many power tools in your basement or garage, put them on a separate circuit. Lights and tools should not share a common fuse.

Never use a power saw without a guard over the blade. Watch what you run through a saw. Don't attempt to cut lumber with nails in it.

Repair, cleaning and adjustment should never be undertaken while a tool is running. Turn off and disconnect tool, first.

As you begin to add more tools to your shop, plan their locations carefully. Allow yourself a good three feet around each power tool for maneuvering.

Supply plenty of light over power tools and workbenches. Keep a good fire extinguisher or a bucket of sand within easy reach. Have goggles on hand if you do any grinding in your shop.

'Acoustic Wall' Winning Favor

Hi-fi enthusiasts are credited with an architectural innovation for homes that gives promise of catching on fast — inexpensive "sound conditioning" of a music rooms by means of special acoustical treatments utilizing wood. The treatments permit faithful reproduction of sound equipment.

One popular technique, explains George C. Romeiser, secretary-manager of the American Walnut Manufacturers Asscciation, involves use of fibrous acoustical board with walnut lumber strips fastened vertically or horizontally on the face on 2-inch centers.

The walnut strips, ¾-inch thick by 1½ inches wide, are placed edge down on the board. The two elements then are fastened to thin sheathing plywood by screws placed through the back of the plywood.

Then the assembled units are nailed to the wall studs, the nails being driven through the plywood and acustical board at intervals between the walnut strips.

In formation of the wall assemblies attractive geometric patterns featuring squares and rectangles can be achieved One method is to arrange the strips in alternate vertical and horizontal squares to produce a checkerboard effect. Economical short lengths of walnut, 24 or 36 inches long, can be employed.

ABSORBS SOUND

The acoustic wall, an adaptation of types used in auditoriums and various institutional buildings for some time, serves to absorb sound after it has run its proper course of resonance. It eliminates "boom reflection," a condition in which sounds bounce back and forth from wall to wall, and thus conflict with succeeding sounds being produced.

Another effective acoustic wall treatment, says Mr. Romeiser, involves use of perforated plywood with fibrous acoustical material behind it. Perforated walnut plywood is widely favored for this use not only because of its acoustical value but also because of its striking natural beauty, durability and ease of upkeep.

Make It Lighter

Victorian furniture is in style again. If you are lucky enough to have some of this quaint furniture, you may want to give it a uniform coat of white enamel. All the curlicues and knobs and lattices treated that way assume a whimsicality very pleasing, if combined with faintly green-tinted walls and woodwork, and white chintz printed in green-leafed flowers.

If you want maximum light reflection from the wattage in your rooms, paint veilings white. If you like the beauty of deep-hued ceilings, increase the number of lamps in your rooms.

Questions and Answers

Q—In cold weather, water droplets form on our window frames and the material around the glass (I guess you'd call this the sash). The water runs down over the wall, and after a while ruins paint and wallpaper. It has even damaged our carpeting in the living room. What can we do to stop this? We have storm windows.

—Pardon the pun, but I'm afraid you'll just have to "sweat it out," unless you can afford to install new wood windows all around.

What happens is the material your windows are made of conducts heat rapidly, liwe a wire conducts electricity. As a result, the frames and sash are always cold in winter, because the cold goes all the way through the wall and isn't protected by the storm sash.

Windows of ponderosa pine (most quality wood windows are made of this material) won't form moisture on interior frames and sash, because wood is a natural insulator. Regardless of the cold outside, the interior surface of ponderosa pine remains at room temperature.

Q—Can I paint over rust?

Q—My daughter has a toy electric organ that operates on two flashlight batteries. Is there any way to convert this to house current.

A—It's tricky, but it can be done. Well-stocked radio supply stores will sell you a small transformer for about $2 that will reduce the current to the correct amperage. Ask a radio technician or electrician to draw a simplified wiring diagram for you.

Q—What kind of paint should I use to paint a brick fireplace?

A—Most any flat interior paint will do the job. Generally, however, it's best to use an exterior flat finish designed for masonry.

For materials costing under $75, the amateur craftsman can build for his home a good looking, well designed recreation center that serves also as a room divider.

The unit has three roomy cabinets behind sliding doors, a four-drawer chest, shelves and a bar cabinet. It provides room for a high-fidelity phonograph and speakers. It has a built-in desk for writing letters and for a family business center.

Roof Cement Very Useful

Asbestos or Fibrous Roof Cement is your best bet for repairing leaks and cracks in roofs of all descriptions, whether they are metal, concrete, tin or composition. There are hundreds of uses for this trustworthy commodity. It comes in a thick paste-like form and is usually applied with a trowel.

Glued laminated wood arches and beams are economical parts of the school structure because they do double duty as the structure and decoration.

Well Staged Planning Helps in Remodeling

One way to set the stage for finding modern living space in an older home is to get the man who really knows the job—the architect.

An architect can be doubly important when home owners are planning extensive structural changes in an older home. Since he is an expert in structural design and materials, the architect can prevent costly mistakes that may wipe out any saving that otherwise might be achieved.

If a complete overhaul at one time doesn't fit the family budget, the architect can lay out a long-range plan in properly staged sequences. It might be done in months or, if you prefer, it could be extended over several years.

One of the first steps in extensive remodeling often is replacing outmoded plumbing equipment. Water heating equipment, water lines and old fashioned bathroom fixtures probably will have to be replaced.

Strangling Plant Is Cause of Wood Drape

A parasitic plant known as the strangler fig wraps itself around the mahogany tree early in life and creates a series of bulges during its growth, which causes the cross bands of burlr and swirl figure to develop.

Even Roof Gutters Have Styling

The gutters on your house — if the builder added them—come in various styles. There are two principal types made. One is half round in shape and is called eaves trough. The other is square in cross section with a formed front face. This is called K-gutter, Ogee, or Box Gutter.

The style of gutter used is dependent upon the personal preference. Style K-gutter is generally used when the edge of the roof is flush with the side of the building or if the roof edge extends as an eave and is closed at the bottom and finished with a facia board.

On houses where the edge of the roof extends beyond the side of the building and the overhang is left open, half-round gutter is used. Generally, round downspouts or conductor pipe is used with eaves trough and the square pipe is used with K-gutter.

This is a good time to check the roof drainage equipment on your house and if it needs repairing or if it was not added when the house was originally built, see your sheet metal contractor and he will be able to advise and help you.

Pigeonholes Give Ideal Storage

For miscellaneous storage, pigeonhole shelves are ideal in closets, on worktables and in storage cabinets. They allow simple classifications, such as mittens, scarves, caps, purses and vacuum cleaner attachments.

★ ★ ★

The only tool needed for constructing these useful shelves is a crosscut saw, or an equivalent power saw, when the craftsman uses ¼-inch hardboard to form the pigeonholes.

★ ★ ★

He does this by sawing quarter-inch slots in the panels after they have been cut to fit the space reserved for them on a shelf or table.

Slots then are fitted together, as in eggcrate construction. No wood framing members are required, as the pigeonhole shelving is self-supporting.

A free plan detailing the construction may be obtained by sending a postal card to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill.,

Steel Closet Doors

Bi-fold closet doors that open full width are now obtainable in steel. The steel doors will not warp or shrink and require no dirt-catching floor track.

THIS PLAY EQUIPMENT may be made from stock lumber bolted together. The trick is cutting and placing braces to give the right support. Pattern 367, which shows every step and gives actual-size guides for cutting angles, is 25c. This pattern also is one of five full-size numbers in the Outdoor Play Equipment Packet No. 25—all for $1. Relative Calm Prevails at Mill

North Carolina Strike Quiets Down; Broken Windows Worst

By PHIL CORNER

The worst violence was a steady roll of rifle fire that shattered some mill windows during the night shift. But there were no reports of injuries.

Homebound nonunion workers were greeted with catcalls and minor harassments from about 200 union members outside the mill gates. Said Asst. Police Chief Harold Watkins:

It was nothing like the burst of shooting earlier in the week, nor, police said, was it like what was expected following Mills President John D. Cooper Jr.'s announcement Friday that he would start a third shift next Tuesday night.

Cooper, saying he will not yield "to force and violence," rejected pleas of local and state officials to hold off further nonunion hiring in the six-month-old strike.

Cooper's announcement brought an immediate appeal from Mayor Carroll V. Singleton for a delay in the third shift. Singleton said he would enforce the riot act against any troublemakers.

Police said this and an antiviolence statement by the Textile Workers Union of America AFL-CIO seemed to have a calming effect.

Hold Hope to Check Maladies

'Killer' Rays Probe Brain

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Death ray" killings of 10 monkeys may have paved the way for new advances in the study of diseases of the human brain.

The killer device—an instrument giving off a certain type of ultra-high frequency radiowave—now looks like a good bet for an improved tool to study in animals certain conditions involved in human brain maladies.

That's the word from Dr. Pearce Bailey of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness. Bailey told about the monkey-radio experiments in congressional testimony released Friday. He expanded on the experiments in an interview.

Bailey said that although there is practically no hazard to humans from ordinary radio and radar, the monkey experiment "points to a possible way of testing under what particular conditions ordinary radio and radar could become hazardous."

He said the experiments — in which 10 of 21 monkeys were exposed sufficiently long to kill them —did not alter the picture as to "what little hazard, if any at all, there is in ordinary radio and radar."

Regarding possibilities of using the technique in brain-disease research, Baily gave this outline:

There was no evidence from the experiments that the physiological changes produced in the monkeys' brains were due to heat from the radiowaves.

★ ★ ★

So, he said, it is theorized that the effects produced were caused by "molecular disturbances" in the brain cells produced by the radiation itself, rather than its heat.

"Maybe," he said, "they (the brain cells) resonate with the electromagnetic radiation coming in —but at present, that is only theory."

But he said the evidence so far from the tests is that radiowaves can alter the biological activity of the brain stem, a vital area of the brain, in a way that may be reversible. That is, under certain conditions, the effects produced may ultimately disappear.

Even the 10 monkeys that were killed, he said, showed very few abnormalities of the brain when that organ was examined after death. And the 11 other monkeys all had a "quite complete recovery" from their experience. In the case of the latter monkeys, their exposure to the radiowaves was stopped short of the convulsions which, in the other monkeys, were followed by death.

★ ★ ★

Bailey said the waves that killed a monkey emanated from a radio antenna pointing toward the monkey's head and in line with his brain stem, the central and vital part of the brain. He said the monkey was killed in five minutes. The antenna did not touch the monkey's head.

★ ★ ★

The radio freqency used was 388 megacycles. Radio experts said this is within the frequencies used in radio communication between planes and is also used in some types of specialized television and radar. Commercial radio and television broadcasts are in the frequency band ranging from six-tenths of a megacycle to about 100 megacycles.

UAW Urges Ford to Cut Prices $100

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. has been asked to cut car prices $100 by delegates to the United Auto Workers' National Ford Council.

The 250 delegates urged Ford to slash prices in order to share with the consumer some of the benefits of greater productivity and lead to an expansion of the car market, plus an increase in job opportunities for auto workers. The delegates represent 125,000 Ford workers across the nation.

Ford was accused by the council of false propaganda that union-won gains were responsible for inflated prices.

The council called for a joint labor-management committee to study the results of automation and technological advances on the auto industry.

ROMEO — A 28-year-old Washington man was arrested at 3:30 this morning for reckless driving after trying to outdistance a patrol car at speeds up to 95 m.p.h., Romeo Police reported today.

Donald M. Vick of 58284 Ruth Jean St. was stopped at 30 Mile Rd. and Van Dyke by Patrolman LaVern Yenglin. He is in Macomb County Jail today charged with reckless driving and operating a motor vehicle without a license. It had been revoked for previous convictions.

He was to be arraigned today in Justice Court at Mount Clemens.

Yankus Still Undecided About Move to Australia

DOWAGIAC (UPI) — Dowagiac poultry farmer Stanley Yankus, who quit the United States in rebellion against U. S. agricultural controls, was expected to return here today or tomorrow after inspecting Australia as a possible place to settle.

Yankus left Sydney, Australia last night but refused to say definitely whether he wanted to move to Australia as a refugee from American farm policies. He said he wanted to discuss the situation with his wife before making a decision on his future.

Yankus recently sold his 100-acre farm here in protest against government controls on the amount of what he could grow to feed his chickens and fines he received for exceeding government quotas. He spent the last 10 days looking over Australia and assessing the migration possibilities.

"I like more things about Australia than I dislike," he told newsmen. "I gained the impression that my family would be very welcome here and would feel very much at home."

He praised Australians as pushing hard for private enterprise and being less dependent than Americans on government handouts.

FEARS PROPAGANDA

Yankus said his decision was a hard one to make. He said one problem to face in settling in Australia was the housing shortage. He also said he was afraid the Communists might make propaganda hay that would embarrass the United States if he moved to Australia.

"The Communists might try to poke the finger of scorn at America as a free country if I left," he said.

As a parting shot to newsmen, he said, "I hope to see you again, soon."

Meanwhile, Yankus' wife Mildred, dismissed as "silly" rumors that she might refuse to accompany her husband to Australia.

"A lot of people are talking" she said. "A lot of them are envious and jealous and a lot of them just don't know what they are talking about. Of course I will stay with my husband."

Mrs. Yankus said she had not yet started to pack for the final trip to the land down under. "But if I wasn't going with Stan" she added, "why would I have bought these trunks?"

Mrs. Yankus and the couple's children remained at their farm here by agreement with Dale Douthett, a Three Oaks businessman who bought the Yankus farm.

Mrs. Yankus said she would go along with her husband's decision on whether to go to Australia. Replying to comments that Yankus would leave the matter up to her, Mrs. Yankus said "it is not going to be up to me."

She said she would talk things over with him when he returned. "He is the one who has been to Australia," she said, "and he will tell me about the country when he returns."

Circus Star Badly Injured as Cable Snaps

Victoria Hanneford, 25, of Osprey, Fla., fell 35 feet when a platform gave way after a supporting cable broke. She underwent surgery for a broken pelvis and broken leg.

Ross R. Paul, general manager of Polack Bros. Circus, said Mrs. Hanneford is a seasoned circus performer. Her husband George Hanneford Jr. is a seventh generation member of the famed Hanneford circus family which has been performing aerial acts for almost a century.

The best judge of a female may very well be a female. At least the men of Pontiac Motor Division's Advertising Department will not dispute this statement.

Results of the 1959 contest were published this week and a Pontiac Motor name finally shares the spotlight with other national winners. Miss Jean Widdis of 210 Pioneer, an advertising department employe, took second place in the contest—only two points out of first position.

Miss Widdis, who was most successful in judging photographs of 20 cows in five different breeds, received 10 pounds of specially-aged cheese and a handsomely framed certificate for her efforts.

Pastors Want More Time at Home

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

You'd find that he has many worrisome family problems — and that most of them are caused, unintentionally, by parishioners who expect too much of him.

A revealing glimpse into the "off-stage" life of the typical Protestant clergyman is provided by a survey just completed by the Office of Family Education Research of the United Presbyterian Church. It covered nearly 2,800 Presbyterian ministers, chosen at random from all parts of the country.

Church and community activities make such exorbitant demands on the average minister's time that he has little left over to spend with his family. His wife and children complain, with justice, that they rarely get a chance to do things together like a normal family.

And even when they do plan a day or an evening together, it is likely to be interrupted either by an emergency call or by one of the innumerable functions at which the pastor is expected to "put in an appearance."

The minister's second biggest problem, according to the survey, is that there is almost no one, outside of his own family, with whom he can let down his hair and be himself. He feels imprisoned within a stereotyped "role" that people expect him to play.

He is not allowed, like other men, to have days on which he feels cross, irritable and grumpy. He must even beware of feeling light-hearted, lest someone mistake it for impiety.

★ ★ ★

It should be noted that this problem of being "always on parade" is far more pronounced among the pastors of small town and rural churches than among the ministers of big city and suburban churches. And the survey indicates that it troubles younger men far more than their older colleagues, who seem to get used to the fact that the public expects a man in a turned-around collar to be something more, or less, than a human being.

★ ★ ★

A closely related complaint of many pastors is that their wives and children are expected to be "different." Many a layman holds up for the minister's family a standard of perfection which he would never think of applying to his own family.

One result of this is that ministers' wives are sometimes forced into a far more hectic schedule of churchly activities than is consistent with their own desires or the welfare of their families.

Another possible result, mentioned by a few ministers in the survey, is that the religious life of the pastor's family tends to become somewhat artificial, motivated by the necessity of conforming to public expectations rather than by genuine personal devotion.

The ministers listed in fourth place the personal problem that a layman might have expected them to mention first. That is difficult in making ends meet financially.

Clergymen are the lowest-paid professional men in America. A recent study (which covered ministers in several major protestant denominations) showed their average salary is about $4,500 a year. It also indicated that two-thirds of the nation's Protestant ministers are in debt. Many of them reported that their wives have had to go to work to bring even an austerity family budget into balance.

The Presbyterian survey also shed interesting light on the nature of a minister's work. The pastors were asked to rank various phases of their work according to the amount of time they spend on each during an average week, and to indicate which of their numerous jobs they like best.

The results belie the notion that preaching has become an almost incidental aspect of the modern minister's job. Preparing an delivering sermons ranked first in time spent, and second in the list of "most enjoyable" tasks.

The work in which ministers find the greatest personal satisfaction is pastoral counseling — talking to individuals about their personal problems and decisions. But this activity ranks fifth in the amount of time spent on it.

Visiting members of the congregation in their homes is second to preaching as a time-consumer, and third on the list of duties the minister likes.

Church administration is in third place for the amount of time spent, but at the bottom of list of the pastor's preferences.

Teaching classes, leading groups and advising youth groups ranks fourth both in time and enjoyment.

Col. Stapp, Known as Fastest Human, Jumps From Faltering Jet

WATKINS, Colo. (AP) — Col. John P. Stapp, fastest traveler on earth, parachuted from a faltering jet plane at 10,000 feet Friday and escaped with a sprained ankle. The pilot was killed.

"It was far easier than my sled runs," said Stapp, 49, renowned for whizzing 632 miles an hour on a rocket propelled sled Dec. 10, 1954. That earned him the title "the fastest man on earth."

★ ★ ★

The record sled ride was one of 29 he made in experiments at the Air Force Missile Development Center at Alamogordo, N.M., to determine human reactions to pressures expected in space travel.

After the record run, Stapp said the sleds permitted tests of "violent, prolonged declarations decelerations, such as experienced in high altitude supersonic bailout."

Capt. Harry B. Davis, 36, of Dayton, Ohio, pilot of the T33 jet trainer, fell to death when his 'chue failed to open completely. Stapp said Davis apparently bailed out too late.

The two were on a flight from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton to Denver, 42 miles west of here, where Stapp was scheduled to address a sectional meeting Friday night of the American Rocket Society. He was hospitalized for the ankle injury and could not appear.

"We were flying at 35,500 feet near Watkins," Stapp said, "and saw we had only a little fuel — less than 16 gallons. We came down to 23,000 feet and leveled off. That's when the plane flamed out."

New Oakland Dwellings Drop Off

City Building Permits Hit 4-Year High

Pontiac issued the largest number of building permits in March for any one month since 1955, but the number of new dwellings in Oakland County declined in the first quarter of this year.

In its quarterly report, the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission disclosed that the three-county area of Oakland, Wayne and Macomb issued a total of 4,541 permits for new homes during the first quarter.

This represented an increase of 1,694, or 59.5 per cent more residential permits issued during the first quarter of 1959 than for the first quarter of last year. There were 2,847 permits issued from January through March last year.

But of the three counties, Oakland was the only one that showed a decrease between the two quarters.

Wayne County issued 2,788 this year and 1,296 last year, while Macomb County issued 884 this year and 545 in 1958, the Planning Commission reported.

The city of Madison Heights was the only Oakland County community listed among the top 10 in building permits in the three-county area during the past quarter.

It should be noted, the Commission pointed out, that 58 per cent of the region's first quarter dwelling permit activity took place in March. The average for March since 1955 in 45 per cent of first quarter activity.

Almont Man Beaten, Robbed Last Night

ALMONT TOWNSHIP — An Almont Township man who was having car trouble on Hough road near M53 shortly after midnight this morning was assaulted and robbed, according to Romeo State Police.

The victim was Frederick Dahn, 30, of Kidder road. From his bed in Community Hospital near Almont, he identified John W. Ward, 31, of 7550 Hough Rd. as his assailant.

Dahn stumbled to a nearby farmhouse after the attack and was taken to the hospital. State Police were called.

Police said Dahn had been robbed of $10 to -12.

Ward, an ex-convict, waived examination this morning before Justice of the Peace Herbert King in Lapeer and was bound over to Circuit Court. He remains in Lapeer County Jail today charged with armed robbery and aggravated assault.

Auto Output Down Slightly This Week

DETROIT (AP) — Automobile output from U.S. factories this week will consist of 133,918 cars and 26,260 trucks, Ward's Automotive Reports said.

Last week the factories built 135,934 cars and 26,440 trucks. In the same 1958 week, 58,664 cars and 16,294 trucks were built.

The statistical agency said current schedules indicate 585,000 cars and 115,000 trucks will be turned out this month, compared to the 577,000 cars and 111,000 trucks planned as the month began. In April of last year, 316,503 cars and 74,522 trucks were produced.

Ward's said this week's indicated decline in car assemblies was due chiefly to Chevrolet's cutting back in two eastern assembly plants for inventory adjustment.

But Small Chrysler to Be Conventional

Rear Engine Likely on New GM Car

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Engineering of the smaller General Motors, Ford and Chrysler cars is stimulating considerable guess-work in automotive circles.

Most industry sources expect the new cars to be on 109 inch wheelbase chassis. That would be about 10 inches shorter than the present Chevrolet, Ford and Plymouth wheelbase.

First of the smaller General Motors models — there may be two or three of them—may have engines in the rear. Some sources have said the engine will be of aluminum construction and air-cooled.

Aluminum engines have been tested by GM, Ford and Chrysler. Which of the larger car companies may be first to present the smaller wheelbase car still is uncertain. In each instance preliminary work has been under way for several years.

Probably General Motors, Ford and Chrysler could get the smaller units into production in time for introduction with their other 1960 models. But they are not likely to do that. It would divide interest between them and the conventional type models.

Conventional size 1960 models will be introduced in late September and through October, with the smaller units to appear shortly afterward.

There is little doubt in trade quarters that GM's smaller car, to be assembled at the former Chevrolet transmission plant at nearby Willow Run, will have its engine in the rear. Several foreign makes have engines in the rear.

The new smaller cars are expected to be list-priced at about $2,000. Extra equipment, like automatic transmissions, power steering, power brakes and white sidewall tires, of course, substantially will add to the price.

★ ★ ★

There is varying opinion on how GM, Ford and Chrysler smaller cars will affect imported car sales. Some importers say their major market still will be in an area below the price range expected for the GM, Ford and Chrysler smaller units.

They say the competition will be foreign cars against foreign cars and domestic units against domestic units.

Security for You

None for Husband Killer

By RAY HENRY

From a Tennessee reader: "I'm curious about whether a wife who murders her husband can receive social security payments on the basis of her husband's record? This question came up in a discussion with some friends the other evening."

From J.W.S. Jr. of Charlotte, N.C.: "The social security law says a father or mother can't work for a son or daughter and be covered by the social security system. That is, they don't have to pay any social security tax and they can't collect any benefits for the time worked. I'm wondering if this limitation also applies to a step-mother employed by a step-son?"

Yes. In the eyes of the social security law, step-children are considered in the same status as blood relatives.

From B.P. of Washington, D.C.: "I've been having a difficult time trying to get social security disability payments to which I believe I'm entitled. In a few days, a hearing will be held before a Social Security referee on my case. May I take a lawyer along to represent me?"

Yes, but you don't have to. Incidentally, your attorney can't charge you more than $10 for his services, unless the Social Security Administration authorizes a higher fee upon request.

From E.T. of Wichita Falls, Tex.: "My employer plans to transfer me to Chicago. Should I tell the local Social Security office so my address on its records can be changed?"

It's not necessary. But, a person drawing payments should always let his local office know when he changes his address.

From D.D.R. of Tampa, Fla.: "My brother and I shared the burial expense of my father. Our mother has been dead for some years. My father was covered by social security and a lump sum death payment is due us. Since we shared the expense of burial, can we share the lump sum payment?"

Yes. You both can apply for the payment and receive whatever portion that corresponds to the proportion of the funeral expenses you paid. For example: Suppose you paid ¾ of the burial expenses. You can collect ¾ of the lump sum payment.

In Memoriam 2

Those whom we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts,
Of those they left behind.
Sadly missed by Mom & Dad & Sisters.

Sue 'The Rivals' Author, 2 Claim Idea Was Theirs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two men are suing the author of the Broadway hit, "The Rivals," for $750,000. They say they originated the idea for the play.

Ramon Romero, a writer, and Arthur Kennard, artist's agent, filed suit against Norman Corwin Friday. They said they hired Corwin in 1953 to write a play based on the Abraham Lincoln-Stephen Douglas debates.

Oil was first discovered in the United States near Cuba, N. Y. in 1627. A Franciscan missionary was led to the site by Seneca Indians, who used the crude petroleum that bubbled up in a spring for medicine and as a paint base.

Allies Closing Gap on Berlin

50 Per Cent Agreed on Bargaining Strategy for Talks With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western allies are reported 50 per cent agreed on what their proposals and strategy should be when they meet with the Soviet Union in two weeks to discuss Berlin and Germany's future.

Diplomats are confident, however, the remaining 50 per cent of differences will be resolved and a united negotiating front forged at a Western Big Three meeting beginning in Paris Wednesday.

A team of American British, French and West German officials, however, have failed to reconcile diverging views, particularly on European security offers, at a meeting which ended in London Thursday.

The main conflict appears to lie in Britain's continued insistence on proposing some kind of central European arms control plan, not necessarily linked to progress in achieving German reunification.

The British are understood to be continuing to press for Western agreement on a plan to ask the Soviet Union to accept a ceiling on troops and weapons in a small area covering both parts of East and West Germany.

American, West German and French authorities are reported insisting that any such plan be tied to step-by-step progress in merging the Western and Communist zones of Germany into a single democratic nation.

Diplomats representing the four allies, however, appear to have agreed on these main points:

1. Any new arrangements governing the Allied positions in West Berlin must be negotiated only with the understanding the arrangements in no way alter the Allies' existing legal right to be there. The British are reported to have accepted the view that any new international status would be no safer than the one now existing which is based on their wartime right of conquest.

★ ★ ★

2. No detailed draft peace treaty will be offered the Soviets. State Department officials had proposed this but the idea has been discarded in favor of proposing a set of about a dozen principles which would be later translated into a detailed treaty.

Going Wrong Way

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — A reporter interviewed several persons picked at random on the streets as to their views about life in outer space. Police recognized a picture of one wanted for passing bad checks. He will spend some time in inner space.

Discoverer II Death Plunge Seen Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Discoverer II satellite now is expected to plunge into the earth's atmosphere and burn up sometime Monday.

★ ★ ★

The Air Force previously had estimated that the polar orbit satellite would die over the weekend, but the latest calculations Friday briefly staved off its demise.

Discoverer II was launched at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., April 13. It successfully ejected a capsule that fell back to earth somewhere in the Arctic Ocean — the first time this has been done. The capsule could not be found.

DEVELOPMENT ENGINEERING CENTER — Testing equipment that duplicates Arctic conditions and the searing heat generated by jet engines in flight is among the wide range of machines now in operation at Aeroquip Corporation in Jackson. Expansion of engineering facilities was necessitated by the demands for new products for the jet aircraft (both military and commercial), rocket and missile fields. Pictured here is the engineering department's machine shop where component parts are machined for products under development.

Ex-Showgirl Arrested

Teller Stoops, Foils Theft

NEW YORK (AP) — A bank teller yelled "Holdup!" and hit the alarm button Friday when a frail, graying blonde handed him a threatening note demanding money.

Arrested was 49-year-old Emilie Nolan, a former showgirl with a long narcotics record. At a station house the 5-foot, 100-pound woman told detectives:

"You must remember me. I'm the gal who sat in the fishbowl with no clothes on in the Earl Carroll Vanities."

Police said Miss Nolan walked into the Industrial Bank of Commerce on Seventh Avenue near 35th Street and handed teller Howard Shipman the following note:

"I am a diabetic and cancer victim. I haven't got long to live. There are men all around who have guns and grenades. Give me $5,000 in 10s, 20s, and 50s."

Shipman dropped the note to the floor, stooped as though to pick it up, and sounded the alarm. A bank guard seized the woman. She was charged with assault and attempted robbery.

Father's Will Benefits Only One of 14 Children

The elder Walker, who left a $100,000 estate when he died at the age of 89, said in his will that William had worked with him for many years and was largely responsible for the size of the estate.

Bill Would Repeal Michigan Sales Tax

LANSING (AP) — A bill to repeal the three per cent sales tax will appear Monday in the Legislature.

The sponsor, Rep. Edwin A. Fitzpatrick (D-Detroit), admitted there was little likelihood of it being passed.

"But, I think it should be the first step toward a complete overhauling of Michigan's tax structure," he said. "Maybe it will be the spur necessary to prod diehard legislators into earnest work on a new and equitable tax program."

Fitzpatrick said low income groups bear a much greater share of the tax load under the sales tax than they should on the basis of ability to pay. The lower the level of the income group, he said, the greater proportion of the tax burden they must bear.

LET'S EXPLORE!

The strange, little-used road may challenge our driving technique, handsomely recompense us with vistas of extreme beauty, and reward us with story-book adventure.

A dedicated school teacher takes her pupils over that little-used road, explores facets not set in type, makes answers to simple and complex problems an exciting adventure. Rockets roar into space; the propelling force was synthetic rubber—until a man took that little-used road and found adventure. A wife uses that little-used road to bring peace and harmony into her home. While showing his son a bird's nest dad explains the mysteries of life—an adventure. Children are great explorers as they go on safari in garden shrubbery, play house or keeping store; these simple acts are high adventure, the first step to science.

Key Link for Michigan Commerce

Jackson Has Strategic Position

(This is the second in a series of articles on Michigan's industrial and cultural achievements written by Michigan newsmen as an introduction to Michigan Week 17-23.)

By BOB HOVING
Reporter, Jackson Citizen Patriot

JACKSON — The city of Jackson, as it did in Indian days, stands at an important trade and transportation crossroads.

This position has left an imprint on its history and holds an important key to its future.

Because of its location at the intersection of east-west and north-south trade corridors, Jackson is a key link in the future growth of Michigan.

Jackson was the converging point of several of the great Indian fur trade routes. It was the connecting point of the St. Joseph and Washtenaw trails over which furs and goods moved between the Mississippi river network and the growing population centers of the East.

Some were quick to see the possibilities of the site as a trade and transportation center.

TRAITS CONVERGED

In the decade from 1830 to 1840, the original Indian trails converging at Jackson from the north, the southwest and the northeast became plank and toll roads from Grand Rapids, Ft. Wayne, Adrian, Monroe and Tecumseh. Then came the "iron horse."

When the Michigan Central railroad reached Jackson in 1841, it ushered in a great wave of prosperity which turned the village into a city. For two years Jackson was the terminus of the road.

The Michigan Central had planned to establish its main shops and locomotive repair yards at Marshall in Calhoun County. But instead it built a central "junction" and freight switching yard at Jackson.

Thousands of Jackson families made their living directly or indirectly from the railroads. As the Michigan Central absorbed other lines — the Jackson and Palmyra, the Jackson and Ft. Wayne, the Airline and the Cincinnati Northern — the importance of the Jackson "junction" grew.

INDUSTRY GREW

Because of the transportation advantage, Jackson quickly attained industrial and commercial importance. It sparked the rise of big scale industry in the area between the Civil War and 1900. Jackson was in a strategic spot with the development of the industrial age.

The gasoline engine started Jackson into another phase of development, changing the emphasis from a "railroad town" to an "automobile town." For more than 30 years Jackson has been tied to the production charts of the automotive industry.

Just as the railroads once dominated the city's economy, so later did the automobile and truck industry. But Jackson has found the answer in diversification. Automobile supply firms which superseded the railroads as Jackson's prime economic foundation are giving way to industries of the future — electronics, plastics, missile and aircraft parts and tools to outfit industry in the space age.

The railroad "junction," whose payroll once reached more than a $1,000,000 a month, has been reduced to maintenance of way shops and administrative offices of the Jackson division of the New York Central.

A considerable portion of the city's economy still is connected with the automobile industry. But the gasoline engine has also started Jackson on still another course in its development—as a warehousing and trucking center.

Jackson is "on the corner" of two federal highways, U. S. 12, reaching east and west across the state, and U. S. 127, stretching north and south. Three state highways, M50, M60 and M106 connect the area with all important centers in the state and the Great Lakes area.

Today Jackson has more than 200 industrial firms with approximately 18,200 employes. From 1950 to 1958 Jackson has had an approximate 35 per cent increase in industrial employment. During that period, the number of manufacturing plants in the three-county served by the city has grown about 10 per cent.

Florida Okays Trilck Return

Governor Says Wayne County Can Have Him for Bribery Case

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Leroy Collins yesterday granted Wayne County, Mich., authorities permission to return a Fort Lauderdale builder there to face charges of conspiracy to bribe three policemen.

Russell Trilck, formerly a Lincoln Park, Mich., furniture dealer, is accused of conspiring to bribe the River Rouge, Mich., officers in connection with an alleged numbers racket.

Trilck said it would be illegal to return him to Michigan because he had been granted immunity by a Wayne County grand jury which questioned him about alleged payoffs to the mayor and police chief of suburban Ecorse.

The governor's office said Trilck's only remaining hope of avoiding return would be to seek a habeas corpus writ from the Broward County Circuit Court.

Raymond J. DeRyck, chief trial lawyer for the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, said at an extradition hearing April 13 the questions asked Trilck by the grand jury had no bearing on the River Rouge case and conferred no immunity from the bribery conspiracy charge.
