26 Fires Strike Forests in UP, Oscoda Resorts

New England Also Hit, Calls Emergency Force to Fight Peril

OSCODA (INS) — There have been 26 forest fires in the Upper Peninsula and the northern part of Lower Michigan in the past 48 hours.

One of the state's worst forest fires in years yesterday burned through 750 acres in the Huron National Forest, 13 miles west of Oscoda.

The blaze consumed a 200-acre stand of 25-year-old red pines and destroyed a ski chalet and equipment shed at the ski bowl near Oscoda.

The fire raged out of control to within two miles of Foot Village, a settlement of 50 or more homes and resort cabins.

It leaped the Au Sable river and burned an additional 200 acres of swampland before being brought under control near a dry plains area.

About 450 airmen from Wurtsmith Air Force Base helped battle

May Close State Forests

OSCODA (INS) — State conservation officials may ask Gov. G. Mennen Williams to close all Michigan forests to the public unless rain ends the threat of fires in the next few days.

The blaze after it jumped the river, coming within feet of homes and cottages.

Wind swept the fire into part of the Alpena State Forest.

Upper Peninsula fires, including a 600-acre blaze three miles north of Escanaba, were reported under control. The Escanaba National Guard unit was called out to battle the flames.

Other fires within the past few days were reported near Rosette, Waukegan, Southern Marquette County, Perkins, Crystal Falls, Cisco Lake, Newberry, Menominee County and in Lower Michigan north of a line from Bay City to Muskegon.

BOSTON (INS) — Massachusetts today mobilized an army of men and equipment in a desperate battle against woodland blazes that have swept large areas of the state and forced declaration of a state of emergency.

Little chance of rain to soak tinder-dry woodlands was seen by the Weather Bureau as another hot, dry, windy day threatened to kindle new fires and re-kindle old ones.

Ezio Pinza, 64, Succumbs in Sleep

Opera, Musical Star Dies

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Ezio Pinza, who became a Broadway matinee idol as the middle-aged lover of "South Pacific" after a quarter century of "international opera fame, died in his sleep today at the age of 64.

Death came to the handsome, six-foot grandfather at 2 a.m. at his home here. His wife and children were at his bedside.

His physician, Dr. David H. Fogel, said the former Metropolitan Opera basso, "passed quietly in his sleep."

The doctor said death followed a stroke suffered April 30, after which Pinza "gradually went down hill."

Heart attacks had ended Pinza's singing career which started in his native Italy in 1914.

WON ACCLAIM

From there he went on to win acclaim in opera houses on both sides of the Atlantic.

His romantic lead as the planter playing opposite Mary Martin in the musical comedy "South Pacific," which opened in 1949, made

Civic Groups Back 'Yes' Hospital Vote

Ten Pontiac area civic, labor and business organizations — representing thousands of persons — have endorsed a "yes" vote for the May 20 city hospital election issues.

Endorsements have been made by: Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, League of Women Voters, Pontiac General Hospital Women's Auxiliary, Greater Pontiac Community Advisory Council, the Pastors' Assn., The Rema, the Oakland County Medical Assn., Auxiliary, the Manufacturers' Assn., Oakland County CIO Council and the Board of Directors of the Retail Merchants Assn.

According to Carroll L. Osmun, chairman of a new Volunteer Hospital Committee, the groups have gone on record in recent meetings as favoring passage of three hospital issues on the ballot.

Temperature to Dip, Showers to Fall

Grab rain gear and warmer garb, Pontiac residents. The weatherman has predicted showers and thunderstorms this evening and cooler with a chance of occasional showers tomorrow.

The low tonight will be 46 to 50, with the mercury expected to climb to a high of only 56 to 60 tomorrow, as compared with yesterday's high reading of 80 degrees.

The lowest temperature recorded in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 57. The mercury registered 80 at 1 p.m.

Area Group Protests Taxes

60 Women Claim Snub by Williams

About 60 housewives, mostly from Oakland County, went to Lansing yesterday to complain about taxes, and instead found they had kicked off a political scrap.

The lady lobbyists buttonholed legislators but were miffed when shooed away from the governor's office by an aide.

Gov. Williams immediately offered to shake hands with the women, but added he was only willing to speak with a small committee.

The housewives turned him down and said they would return next week with their numbers increased to 500.

As a result of the visit, Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings (R-Holland) rose on the Senate floor to say:

"At the time the women were waiting, the governor had time to shake hands with 200 visiting school children. How is it he didn't have time to see women interested in economy?"

In reply, Sen. Charles S. Blundy (D-Detroit) said he met the women (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Beck Quizzed on Son, Senate

Evokes 5th Amendment on Junior's Business, 'Insult' to U.S.

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

WASHINGTON — Silent Dave Beck faces another round with the Senate Rackets Committee today. The 62-year-old Teamsters Union President was a subdued witness yesterday while he took refuge behind the Fifth Amendment on questions about his family, his finances, or whether he ever threatened "to blow the lid off" the Senate.

The lid-blowing boast, attributed to Beck, was described by Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) as "an insult to the whole United States Senate."

Although Beck had denied making the statement to newsmen, he refused to testify on whether he made any such remark. He also refused to say whether he knew his son, Dave Beck Jr.

A Seattle beer and liquor distributor, Irving J. Levine, told the committee that Beck used his power to boost his son, Dave Beck Jr., into the presidency of a distributing firm and to secure the franchise for Budweiser in Seattle and other Washington cities.

WHEREABOUTS UNKNOWN The younger Beck, and three others, have been sought by the committee without success.

However, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer reported that three of them—Beck Jr., Joseph McEvoy, a nephew of Mrs. Beck Sr., and Norman Gessart, Mrs. Beck's cousin—were located in Vancouver, B. C. Still unaccounted for was Fred Verschuere, Teamsters Union chief auditor for the 11 western states and labeled a key witness by the Senate Committee.

The Senate committee today pelted evidence an interoffice communication of the Anheuser-Busch Co. describing Dave Beck Jr. as "an overgrown spoiled boy."

Young Beck at the time was a Budweiser beer distributor in Seattle.

Dwight D. Ingamells, attorney for Anheuser-Busch of St. Louis, testified the only inference he could draw was that the firm gave young Beck the beer distribution rights because of the influence of his father, Teamsters President Dave Beck.

In a hearing yesterday, the committee developed that the Teamsters president helped establish Dave Jr. in the beer and whisky distributing business in the state of Washington and Alaska when young Beck left the armed services in 1946.

Taking up the story today, the investigators pressed a line that appeared to be directed toward the question of whether pressures were exerted on the St. Louis brewing company.

Ingamells identified a series of telegrams and interoffice memos from Anheuser-Busch files.

One of the memos said that Levine protested and Beck Sr. insisted that young Beck get $1,000 a month, plus 5 cents a case.

Presidents Chat

OFFICIAL VISIT—President Eisenhower chats with Ngo Dinh Diem, visiting president of South Viet Nam, as they sit together in the rear of an open car at National Airport in Washington. The South Viet Nam president is on a four-day visit to the capital.

Diem Promises Congress He'll Keep Fighting Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ngo Dinh Diem told Congress today South Viet Nam, not yet two years old, is in a more critical position than any other free Asian country.

But he pledged to continue the fight against communism.

In a speech prepared for a joint session of Congress, he thanked the United States for its moral and material aid.

"My people appreciate both its great import and its profound significance," he said.

Diem's appearance before Congress followed a meeting with President Eisenhower at the White House to discuss means to safeguard Diem's strategic Southeast Asian country.

He also was invited to lunch with Vice President Nixon at the Capitol. He arranged to receive Secretary of State Dulles in a mid-afternoon call at Blair House.

Tonight he will be the guest of Secretary and Mrs. Dulles at a formal dinner.

NO LONGER PASSIVE

In his speech, the Vietnamese leader said the Asian people are no longer resigned and passive, but are impatient and eager to reduce their "immense technical backwardness."

"They clamor for a rapid and immediate economic development," he added. "The leaders of Asia, whatever their ideologies, are all faced with the tragic urgency of the economic and social problems of their countries."

He said they are now debating whether democratic or totalitarian methods should be adopted to meet their urgent economic needs.

He said the interests of Viet Nam are identical with those of the free world.

"Your and our fight is one and the same," he said. "We, too, will continue to fight communism."

State Aid Delay, Bond Tie-Up Require Action

Whitmer Says Shortage Results From Slump in Tax Revenues

Delays in state aid and a legal hassle concerning Michigan bond issues will force the Pontiac Board of Education to borrow an undetermined amount to finish out its fiscal year.

The board meets tonight to decide how much to borrow in the form of tax anticipation notes.

Reasons for the money shortage, according to Superintendent Dana P. Whitmer is that the state has not delivered its final quarter installment of school aid.

The state had promised Michigan school districts $190 per child, but sales tax revenue fell far below predictions. The result is the schools are shortchanged from $19 to $24 a child.

School officials, Whitmer said, are anticipating the Legislature will make good the missing funds with a deficiency appropriation tacked onto House Bill 371, which sets aid levels for next year.

ANOTHER HEADACHE

Another headache, Whitmer added, is a legal wrangle which has effectively prevented sale of a $2.7 million bond issue which Pontiac School System had hoped to sell by now.

The matter concerns the legality of a state constitutional amendment under which some local bond issues have been issued.

The Pontiac bonds are not being offered under this disputed action, Whitmer said, but bond buyers are steering clear of all Michigan issues until the matter is settled.

"It will be about a month before the Supreme Court acts on this case which is still in the lower court," the superintendent continued, "and we won't offer our bonds until then."

Without the bond money in hand, the school board lacks funds to pay contractors now working on local school construction, he said.

"We are not as bad off as some school districts," Whitmer added, "because we have a contingency fund to draw on, but we are going to need additional money before everything straightens out."

Other matters before the board tonight will be the choice of inspectors for the school election June 30, and the opening of bids for rehabilitation projects at several older schools.

Otto Hufziger, assistant superintendent, will give progress reports on the new high school, the Franklin road school site and the parking situation near the senior high school.

Presidential Helicopter on Test Flight

NEAR WHITE HOUSE — One of President Eisenhower's much-publicized helicopters hovers above the Ellipse, a spacious park just south of the White House grounds, during a practice flight.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower plans to make his first flight in one of the "whirlybirds" in mid-July during the annual operation alert.

Serving Term in Jackson After '53 Case

New Trial Sought by Convict

By PETE LOCHBILER

Michael J. Gisondi, one of two men convicted of the 1952 "revenge" murder of a Hazel Park tavern owner and his son, has petitioned Circuit Court for a new trial.

A hearing is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Monday before Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland, who four years ago sentenced Gisondi, 28, and his alleged partner, Harold Hummell, 26, to life imprisonment for first-degree murder.

MICHAEL J. GISONDI

Gisondi, of Eagle near Lansing, and Hummell, a former Detroit, were convicted by jury March 2, 1953 of the fatal shooting the previous Aug. 18 of Vidos Vinokurov, 60, and his son, Joseph, 31, in their Oak Gardens tavern, 2130 John R., Hazel Park.

Gisondi's petition, Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor said, is based on his testimony during trial that he was not at the tavern and wasn't involved in the shooting.

GETS HEADLINES

Hummell, whose name returned to the headlines when accused of burning a fellow-inmate to death at Marquette State Prison last fall, gave the same testimony as Gisondi's.

But it was brought out during trial, Taylor said, that this was in contradiction to an earlier statement in which Hummell informed Gisondi.

While on the stand, Hummell explained this contradiction by saying he had originally thought Gisondi had "squealed" on him.

RECALLS SEARCH

Monday's court action recalls the nationwide search following the crime. Both men had escaped he was accused as the leader of an attempted jail break.

He openly boasted about the killings, claiming that the younger Vinokurov had welched on Hummell's share of some racetrack bets.

TELLS STORY

Hummell willingly told the story of his early days as a racetrack stable boy and later as a prize fighter. He said once he would "never be taken alive."

Hummell had been convicted of armed robbery and was serving time in Jackson Prison when transferred to Ionia, where he met Gisondi, the less colorful of the pair.

Gisondi steadily maintained his innocence throughout the criminal proceedings.

However, the 1953 jury's decision against Gisondi was seen as a strong point for Monday's hearing. Taylor said. The court record shows, he explained, that Judge Holland explicitly told the jury not to convict Gisondi unless persuaded beyond a reasonable doubt of his guilt.

REMAINS IN JAIL

While the hearing takes place, Gisondi will remain at Jackson Prison, where he and Hummell were sentenced by Judge Holland.

Hummell subsequently gained a bad prison record and was transferred to the tougher prison at Marquette.

He was charged with throwing an inflammable fluid into the cell of James Wiley Hudson last Nov. 17, while Hudson slept and touching it off with a match.

Hudson, a convicted killer and a leader of the 1952 Jackson Prison riots, died after reportedly naming Hummell as his attacker.

APPEARS IN COURT

Extradited here, Hummell appeared in court as a self-styled cowboy, wearing a western outfit and calling himself a modern-day Billy the Kid.

While in Oakland County Jail, from Ionia State Reformatory less than a month before the killings.

A break in the case came with the story of a 16-year-old Indiana girl that Hummell and Gisondi had confessed the murders to her during their flight from the state.

The FBI arrested Gisondi in San Diego, Calif. early in September and Hummell was picked up in a small Arkansas town a week later.

Area Women Claim Snub by Governor and they had "nothing constructive to offer except they didn't want more taxes."

The women thought differently, however.

Two chartered busloads of them came in a spontaneous movement they said, from several communities, including Walled Lake, Orchard Lake, Novi Township, Birmingham, Pontiac, Bloomfield Township, Farmington and four or five Wayne County cities.

ECONOMY MEASURES

They wanted economy measures instead of higher taxation and registered protests against waste of school money, increasing family tax burdens, and Gov. Williams' proposed corporations profits tax.

A spokesman, Mrs. Norma Popek of Orchard Lake, said the list of interested women had grown to 500, and more would have attended yesterday except that "many mothers had baby-sitting problems."

Mrs. Popek, a mother of four, said originally only two carloads had been planned, but the number increased rapidly when the word got around.

The incident at Williams' office came at the end of an all-day tour.

Women had spoken individually with legislators in the morning, lunched with many of the lawmakers at noon, and then appeared formally in the House and Senate in the afternoon.

When they appeared in the governor's outer office, an administrative assistant, John Sweeney, told them the governor had a busy schedule and couldn't give them an audience.

CHILDREN APPEAR

About that time, the children began marching through to get their quick handshake.

The women's delegation retreated with scathing comments, and Sweeney followed them out into the corridor with offers of a meeting of the governor and four or five women, or else a reception such as the children had.

Both offers were angrily rejected.

"Where do you have to go to meet the governor," one woman remarked, "a CIO picnic?"

Press Secretary Paul Weber said the offers were standard procedure in the office and were made to prevent overcrowding of the limited seating capacity.

Link 2 More Boys to Royal Oak Bomb

A second pair of boys arrested last Monday in connection with the Dondero High School "bombing" at Royal Oak admitted their parts in the plot today.

A 14-year-old told Det. George Tedder of the Royal Oak Police force that he had made gun powder which he tried to sell to the "school bombers."

A second juvenile, 15 informed Tedder that he had exploded several bombs and rockets in vacant fields in Royal Oak.

The first pair of boys, arrested May 1 after a smoking bomb was extinguished in a third floor classroom at Dondero, are in the Oakland County Children's Home. They are scheduled to appear before Judge Arthur Moore.

Two Nominated by City Groups

Policemen, Fire Fighters to Pick Representative in Joint Election

Two men were nominated last night at a joint meeting of the Pontiac Police Officers Association and the Pontiac Firefighters Association to be on the ballot for the two groups joint representative on the civil service commission.

They are Theodore Carlson, present commissioner selected by the fire department and Vance Hanger, retired captain of the Pontiac Police.

The election, held between the two groups, will be conducted sometime this week. A write-in blank will also be available on the ballot.

Since the citizens of Pontiac voted to give the Pontiac Police civil service in the April 1 election, the police will now be governed by the same civil service commission as the firemen.

The commission will consist of one representative selected by the fire and police and one by the city manager. Then these two appointments choose a third man to serve on the commission.

The term of Gerald Guinan, city appointee to the commission, expires Friday.

Charge Against 2 Men Cut to Simple Larceny

The charge of larceny in a building against two men was reduced to simple larceny Wednesday when they appeared before Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum.

Hal Sisk Jr., 29, of 125 N. Perry St. and Andrew F. Hudack, 27, of 499 W. Huron St. were found guilty and each paid a $25 fine instead of five days in jail.

The two were arrested April 27 in a parking lot after William Bennett, manager of Wrigley Supermarket, 45 S. Telegraph Rd., told police he saw the two men leave the store with a sack of merchandise without paying.

40 Years in One Spot, Pontiac Grocer Retires

Sam Christoff, of 92 East Iroquois Rd., who has operated a grocery store in the same location in Pontiac for 40 years, has sold his business and retired.

Christoff has been in this country 54 years and for the past 40 years has operated the Balkan Grocery at 316 Wessan St. With his family he plans to sail from New York next week for four months abroad.

The Day in Birmingham

Classrooms May Be Added With No Tax Increase

BIRMINGHAM—Louis A. Bauer, chairman of the Citizens Committee on Education, has submitted the group's latest report that brings good news to taxpayers in the district.

A survey has revealed the additional classrooms that will be needed over the next three years, can be provided at no increase in taxes. The complete recommendations and findings were accepted by the board of education at its Tuesday meeting.

The board accepted the committee's recommendation that voters be asked to grant authority to sell $6,800,000 worth of unlimited tax bonds at the June 10 election. The building program, through 1960, would thus be financed.

Included in the projected plans would be the construction of a new 20-room elementary school on a site already owned by Westchester Village, south of Maple avenue and west of Cranbrook road.

A new junior high school, to accommodate 1,500 students and planned to take 2000 if needed. This site is yet to be acquired.

Rehabilitation of the 40-year-old Baldwin School to extend its useful life as an elementary school as long as needed, and whatever other uses the board of education designates beyond that time.

A service building on land now owned at the corner of Elton road and Lincoln avenue. This would serve to house buses, store cafeteria and school supplies and the consolidation of service shops.

Calling these the "minimum requirements," Bauer said all are based on enrollment facts.

Baldwin school presents one of the major problems of the plan. The committee reports that some consideration was given the idea of selling it, and using the fund toward other building. The plan was discarded in favor of keeping Baldwin in the system.

Architects have assured the committee that the school can be rehabilitated and put into a condition that will permit its being compared favorably with other schools in the district.

Michigan Intervenes in Courthouse Suit

illegally transferring surpluses to its building fund for a new courthouse.

NO COMMENT

Szymanski was not available for comment. His deputy, Alfred H. Lawrence, said intervention was requested in an attempt to solve a number of controversial issues.

"We would like to have a court decision on just how much money can go into building funds without the express vote of the people," Lawrence said.

One of the issues, he said, is whether the constitutional limitation of .1 mill for building purposes includes only taxed and borrowed money or also miscellaneous county revenues.

"There are many questions that need to be cleared up," Lawrence said, "and we see the Oakland case as a good opportunity to bring up all the facts, if possible."

Oakland County voters approved a new courthouse in 1954, but turned down a tax to finance it. Supervisors have taken the position that voters want them to find the money themselves.

READY TO BEGIN

They have about $1.5 million ready to let contracts and begin construction whenever the legal entanglements are ended.

Kavanagh said he will be represented by Assistant Attorney General James R. Ramsey at the hearing, scheduled to begin next Tuesday before visiting Judge Herman Dehnke of Harrisville.

Soldier Faces Charge of Concealed Weapon

Army Specialist 3-C Robert Strevel, 19, of 1619 Joslyn St., was turned over to Army authorities yesterday after he was arrested by Pontiac state troopers, and charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Strevel, who recently returned from Korea, was on route to Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., yesterday morning when he was stopped by Troopers Joseph Kendzierski and Robert Neigbauer for a speeding violation at Telegraph road and 15 Mile road.

The weapon, found hidden under Strevel's jacket, was a .45 caliber U. S. Army pistol.

Know THE Weather

BY E. H. SIMS

The jetstreams are still something of a mystery but more is being learned about them every year. During World War II, U.S. pilots were surprised to discover they sometimes suddenly encountered fast-moving air currents, or streams, which affected their speed considerably. This was always at high altitude.

These air currents flow generally west to east, like the weather. They sometimes shift south and north, as weather fronts do, changing with the seasons, to different latitudes during different times of the year.

An Air Force bomber, hitching a lift on one of them this year, crossed the country in something over three hours, west to east. In the Pacific an airline found that utilizing an air stream over that ocean eliminated one fuel stop, and cut flying time appreciably.

Just why jet streams form, and how, are still questions not fully answered. But they are up there and often flow at a speed of 100 knots, or better. The airlines plan to take increasing advantage of them. Some experts believe they exert an influence on our weather, or at least represent symptoms of changing patterns of weather.

West Germany, Britain 'Agree'

Macmillan, Adenauer Say Their Main Policy Aims Coincide

BONN (U)—British Prime Minister Macmillan and West German Chancellor Adenauer announced today they are "in full agreement on the main aims of their policies."

A communique issued after two days of talks here made no mention of differences still existing over Britain's plans to cut her forces in Germany. But a diplomatic source said the two government chiefs had moved "much closer together" on the question after starting out "miles apart."

Apparently the West Germans still hope to get a modification of the British plan. The communique said West German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss will visit London soon to "discuss defense questions of mutual interest."

It also said Macmillan and Adenauer had agreed on the "need for NATO to retain an effective deterrent against aggression, including an adequate shield of land, sea and air forces for the protection of the territory of the member states."

The question apparently was what constitutes an "adequate shield."

Britain already has started carrying out its plan for withdrawing nearly 30,000 men from its army in Germany and trimming the supporting tactical air force by nearly half. The move resulted from Britain's desire to reduce defense expenditures and at the same time streamline its forces for the nuclear age.

Adenauer urged a halt to any more troop withdrawals until NATO makes a detailed review of the European defense position. One top German military planner insisted that what is wanted on Germany's attack-vulnerable northern plain is manpower now and not atomic weapons in the future.

Artist Blames Hollywood for Derailing His Career

By HIL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U)—"Hollywood ruined me," said Harry Lachman, a famous painter who became a film director and now at 71 has returned to his brush and easel.

Never heard of Harry Lachman?

Well, he was a pioneer impressionist whose works hang in half a dozen leading museums and won him the French Legion of Honor. Opera singer Mary Garden once bought one of his paintings with a $3,000 check she had just received for singing "Aida." Endorsing the check to Lachman, she said, "Art for art!"

SHIRLEY'S DIRECTOR

Remember "Baby Take a Bow," the picture that springboarded Shirley Temple to stardom? Lachman directed it.

Actually, Lachman, a slender, wry-witted man with fabulous memories, has had five successful careers—as illustrator, photographer, impressionist painter, movie director and businessman.

Born in La Salle, Ill., and orphaned at 4, he never attended an art school in his life.

"But at 19 I was a magazine illustrator selling covers to the Saturday Evening Post and Cosmopolitan," he recalled. Then he switched to the still camera and became one of Chicago's top photographers of children. One of his best portraits was of a sensitive-faced child named Dickie Loeb, later to grow up and become the partner of Nathan Leopold in an infamous murder.

PAINTED IN PARIS

Soon after, Lachman went to Paris where he painted for 18 memorable years as a contemporary of Monet, Renoir, Matisse, Rodin and Modigliani.

Modigliani, slowly starving and soon to die by his own hand, mistook Lachman for a tourist at their first meeting, offered to paint his portrait for one franc.

"At that time he was even giving his paintings away for haircuts," said Lachman grimly. "Now they are priceless."

Lachman sold 45 of the 55 paintings at his first one-man show, including two to the Luxembourg Museum.

He accepted an invitation by director Rex Ingram to help make "Mare Nostrum," then became a director himself.

"Then I am taken to Hollywood, and I am ruined," he said ruefully. "I made a really great picture with Spencer Tracy called 'Face in the Sky.' The critics said it was 'an artistic gem,' a frightful thing to say about a picture then."

NOVELTY MAKER

Lachman then became a successful novelty manufacturer. Last year he took up painting again at the urging of Armand Hammer, a Manhattan art gallery owner, and Mrs. Grace Robinson, former wife of Edward G. Robinson, movie actor.

Lachman, who has an exhibit now at the Hammer Gallery, is exuberant because he feels he has regained his old mastery of the brush.

"It was a mistake ever to give it up," he mourned. "The films were not worth it, I lost 30 years out of my life."

Blossoms Expected to Be in Full Bloom

HOLLAND (U)—City Park Superintendent Dick Smallegange today described park tulips "in fine shape" and said many would be in bloom by the weekend.

Holland, which celebrates its famous tulip time festival May 15-18, maintains about eight miles of tulip lanes throughout the city. Smallegange also predicted the city's Japanese cherry trees would be in bloom for the weekend to provide a colorful preview for festival visitors.

Ike's Alter-Ego Sherman Adams Is Self-Propelled Dynamo of Energy

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
INS Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (INS) — The hardest working, best informed politician in America positively absolutely does not want to be president, thank you!

That's the word from "assistant president" Sherman Adams, who observed cryptically during an exclusive interview today at his White House desk:

"You wouldn't have to be around here very long to see why I wouldn't want the job."

Certainly the frosty-haired, blue-eyed 58-year-old Yankee could not fear the ardors of the world's No. 1 job. No one asks him to put in these back-breaking 11-hour days, six-day-a-week that he promptly assigned himself on becoming President Eisenhower's unique alter-ego more than four years ago.

In the world today, only Sherman Adams knows better than the President himself the exact state of our nation and the world.

Sherm sees everything like sees — from daily intelligence reports to secret defense evaluations to political grassroots samplings — but in their compete form before they are condensed for the President's perusal.

Thanks in large measure to Adams, Ike has time for the golf games that Sherm misses, except for an occasional Saturday afternoon at Burning Tree.

What is it like to live with this dedicated, self-propelled dynamo? Rachel Adams, mother of his four grown children and his devoted helpmate during 34 strenuous wedded years, was quick to answer.

"A temper? Oh my, yes, he has one," she smiled, "but I wouldn't have a man that didn't."

He has to let off steam once in a while, and his home is as good a place as any, for that."

Sherm's normally stern visage softens perceptibly as he talks of his work. With intimates, the icy aloofness softens as he talks zestfully of anything from hi-fi music to the latest dig against him in the press.

"The assistant president" outlined a typical day:

He rises at 6 a.m., tunes in the hi-fi set and devours a New York and Washington paper before attacking a farm hand's breakfast. But that's on the easy days.

stream of callers, sandwiched between cramming sessions on highly secret governmental reports.

Of his pace-killing job, second only in importance to the President's, Adams mused thoughtfully: "Every instruction I give to someone has to be an interpretation of what the President himself would do, if he were giving it."

"I must reflect what his problem able attitude would be on any given subject. Believe me, you have to have a better than 500 batting average on that score!"

Sherm usually knows when 6:30 p.m. rolls around. He's hungry. Except for one or two social engagements a week — this week to Mrs. Merriweather Post's square dance and to dinner with the visiting Viet Nam President Ngo Dinh Diem — his evenings are brief and identical.

Dinner, cooked by his attractive spouse who also does the laundry and housework, is ready when he halts outside.

The hi-fi goes on, the 143-pound Spartan takes on nourishment, and then — just as the glittering dinner party lights begin to twinkle along embassy row — the Adams' lights go out.

The master of the house is asleep.

Police Think Costello Knows Who Tried to Rub Him Out

By ARTHUR W. EVERETT
NEW YORK (AP) — At about 10:30 p. m. last Thursday, racketeer Frank Costello's skull was lightly creased by an assassin's bullet.

Although Costello is one of the nation's most notorious underworld figures, there was no evidence that at that moment he was any less law-abiding than his eight million fellow New Yorkers.

And yet, today, a week later, Costello, who was set upon, is behind bars. And the thug who shot him is free.

It was an unexpected denouement in the life of the man the underworld knows as "Uncle Frank" — a man whose swarthy face is seamed like a waffle iron and whose taste in fine clothes is offset by a rasping voice that still pronounces coin as "kern."

Last Thursday was a quiet day in the life of the 66-year-old racketeer, who came here as a boy from his native Italy.

At noon Costello spent some time with gambler Frank Erickson and racketeer Little Augie Pisano in a favorite hangout, the men's bar of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Later, Costello spent three hours in the Hotel Biltmore's Turkish bath.

In the evening Costello and his wife were dinner guests of Al Miniaci, a cigarette and juke box machine man, at L'Aiglon restaurant on the East Side. Others in the party included Generoso Pope, owner of a weekly newspaper; his wife, John J. Miller, a columnist for Pope's paper, and Philip Kennedy, manager of a modeling agency.

"Later, the party moved to the nearby Monsignore restaurant.

Costello left shortly before 11 p.m. to take a telephone call at home from his Washington lawyer.

Costello left a cab and entered 115 Central Park West, where he has an apartment. As he did so, he heard what sounded like a firecracker and felt a moistness above one ear.

He said he did not hear the gunman nor see him as the thug fled out of the building after the single shot and escaped in a black sedan. Costello's head wound proved trivial.

"I'm sure it was a punk," Costello said, "who wanted to be feared by saying he was the one who shot the boss. But I'm not the boss... I'm out of action."

But police called Costello a liar and Chief of Detectives James B. Leggett declared:

"He recognized the gunman or he knows why someone wanted to kill him. But he's not telling us."

More than 60 detectives were thrown into a hunt for a gunman.

A police guard was placed on Costello.

There was speculation that the police would never get the assassin alive. It was assumed that Costello's trigger-quick cohorts might get to him first.

The district attorney's office gave the police a hand by putting Costello before a grand jury Tuesday. When the racketeer refused to answer questions, he was sent to the workhouse for 30 days for contempt.

Out of these proceedings came an intriguing facet of the investigation. In a pocket of Costello's jacket after he was shot, police found a note which read:

"Gross casino wins as of 4-26-57 $651,284. Casino wins less markers $434,685. Slot wins $62,844. Markers $153,745. Mike $150 per week. Jake 100 per week. L. 30,000. H. 9,000."

The note apparently had something to do with a big gambling operation. "Markers" are the gambling term for IOU's. "Slot" could mean slot machines, in which Costello long has been interested. "Casino" could refer to a gambling center — or it could be a private code word for almost anything.

The note seemed to contradict Costello's claim that he is out of the rackets. Police think that if they can decipher it, they may have a clue in the assassination attempt.

Why Not? He's From Texas!

Midget Rattles Off Big Ideas

NEW YORK (AP) — By all psychological standards, Jerry Kent Nye should be as introverted and repressed as a collapsible opera hat.

Jerry is a circus midget — and he's from Texas. "Not just from Texas, pol'ner," he corrected, rising menacingly to his full 49 inches. "But from Houston, Texas. That makes a difference. Houston happens to be the biggest city in the biggest state."

Even a half-pint from 10-gallon country finds enormous satisfaction in dwelling on the enormity of his native state.

"People say Texans brag a lot," said Jerry, "but that's just not true. I've never yet run into a Texan who truly appreciates the greatness of his home state."

NOT BRAGGARTS

"Instead of being braggarts, most Texans, when the subject of Texas comes up, get to feeling so sorry for people who don't live there that they forget to give half the facts. Just think, now, where would this country be without Texas? Think about it."

"See what I mean?" he asked after a period of silence. "We Texans take a lot of abuse, but when you get right down to it, we're a pretty close-mouthed lot."

Just then a bell summoned Jerry to duty. He put on a fire helmet and red raincoat, climbed aboard a tiny fire engine and raced off to glory.

THOUSANDS CHEER

Thousands cheered as Jerry dashed up a ladder into a burning building and rescued a television set by jumping with it into a net, ignoring its owner still screaming at the window.

Then Jerry and his fire buddies gathered around to watch a TV program as the building burned to the ground and the woman was left to save herself.

BEFORE AND AFTER — Texan Jerry Nye as himself and in circus makeup. That's a Texas-size fireplug he's leaning against.

Jerry performs twice a day, as a midget in the clown act with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

LEAVES TEXAS

Three years ago, he left Texas to join the circus.

"From the time I was 16," he said, "I knew I never would get much bigger. My father is 5 feet 11, my mother 5 feet 9, and my brother, last time I saw him, was getting close to Dad's size. All through high school, I was about 3 feet 10, and my best buddy was 6 feet 6."

Even among midgets, Jerry is a towering figure. At the climax of one of the acts, he winds up hanging from the arena rafters.

"At first it scared me to go up that high," Jerry said. "I didn't like the idea too much. But then I remembered I was from Texas. U.S. on an average of every 24 minutes. And what could I do?"

Approves Continuing Draft of Doctors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee today approved a bill to continue drafting doctors into the armed forces, but on conditions more nearly like those applying to other citizens.

The bill would replace the present act which expires June 30. This law, enacted during the Korean War, was bitterly criticized by professional groups as discriminatory. Among other things, it makes doctors aged up to 46 years subject to drafting, while for other citizens liability ends at 35.

An automobile is stolen in the U.S. on an average of every 24 minutes.

U.N. Secretary Visits Israeli

Hammarskjöld to Hold Talks With Premier Over Unrest

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (U.N.)—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld arrived today for two days of talks with Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion on Arab-Israeli conflicts.

It is Hammarskjöld's first visit to Israel since last autumn's Sinai invasion.

It was thought here the secretary general would seek to revive the 1949 Egyptian-Israeli armistice, which Ben-Gurion says is "dead." Ben-Gurion in turn wants Hammarskjöld to press Egypt to end its state of belligerence against Israel.

Israeli government informants said there is no hope of bringing the old armistice agreement back to life unless some headway is made in getting Egypt to renounce its claim of belligerence rights. Egypt uses the belligerence claim to prevent Israeli ships from using the Suez Canal.

Hammarskjöld told reporters at Lydda Airport he had nothing to say other than "I am glad to be received by the Israeli government."

U. N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche accompanied his chief.

A Japanese coastal ferry picked up Pitcher.

Two other crewmen parachuted to safety.

The 1957 "Horatio Alger" winners are:

Thomas Carvel, president of the Carvel Co., Yonkers, N.Y., who followed carnivals and fairs with an ice cream truck until he developed a new ice cream dispensing machine. Today he has more than 1,000 machines in operation in roadside ice cream stands.

Joyce C. Hall, president of Hallmark Greeting Card Co., Kansas City, Mo., who started out with borrowed capital of $148 to build the biggest company of its kind in the U.S.

Gwilym A. Price, president and chairman of Westinghouse Electric Corp., Pittsburgh, who went to work at 16 following the death of his father, a roller in a Canonsburg, Pa., tin mill, and worked his way up.

Dr. John J. Sheinin, president of Chicago Medical School, who came to the U.S. as a penniless youth from Russia and worked as a laborer until he learned English.

stitute the largest privately-owned water system in the world, serving 21 states.

Russia Wants Japan to Back A-Test Ban

TOKYO (U.N.)—Russia told Japan today it is ready to agree with the United States and Britain on ending nuclear tests. The Soviets asked Japan to join them in urging a ban on the West.

Soviet Ambassador Ivan F. Tevosyan delivered the Kremlin proposal in a 15-minute meeting with Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi. The Russian proposal replied to a Japanese request April 15 for suspension of Soviet nuclear weapon tests.

Kishi promised to study the proposal. He said in a speech last week, however, that Japan would not be interested in joining Moscow in an appeal to Britain and America until "after the Soviet Union ends its nuclear tests."

"As long as Britain and America continue testing weapons, then we must continue also," Tevosyan told Kishi.

Kennedy Kids' Father Keeps Hands Off

(This is the fourth of five articles by a famed reporter on one of America's most remarkable families, the Kennedys of Boston.)

By BOB CONSIDINE

Joseph P. Kennedy, father of the amazing Kennedy kids, including the nation's top young senator, its best known corruption investigator, and the wife of a Hollywood star, says with some heat these days that he is keeping hands off all their lives.

The outspoken former U. S. ambassador to Britain, who freely advised presidents, princes and paupers after becoming a self-made multi-millionaire, is the proudest parent in the land. He regards the seven Kennedy children and a mounting brood of grandchildren as possessions a good deal closer to him than, say the merchandise mart.

He doesn't always see eye to eye with them, being generally more conservative politically. But neither hell nor high water now could move him to intrude in the operation of their lives.

He feels the same way about the way things are being run in Washington. To grasp the measure of his aloofness, during these provocative days, one must dip into Kennedy's past and inspect how moved and articulate he was about events of not too long ago.

Sen. Jack Kennedy, regarded in all polls as of presidential timber and Senate labor management rackets investigator Robert Kennedy, chose public service not long after the father said, at Colby College in Maine on June 17, 1945:

"Preservation of our way of life is not assured by winning the war. We must defend it against cynics who would destroy our ideals and paralyze our aspirations. Utopians who advocate plans to wreck our economic system; those who promote racial discrimination, industrial strife, corruption in public office, and those who would have us shun our responsibilities in a world order.

"Men without training in economics, education in political science, perspective or balance, direct the future of this country because they are the only kind who take the trouble to participate in public affairs. Don't criticize these. Oppose them and all they stand for, by voice and by vote."

Kennedy battled the mounting tax burden before the general hue and cry. He said, on May 25, 1947, "A young man in business today, even if a well paid top executive, can hardly meet living costs, much less save anything for a rainy day. And it is impossible for him to save after taxes enough to provide an estate for his family. Only a life insurance policy stands between his family and destitution in the event of his untimely death."

He could see no sense in the Korean War. He did not hesitate to say so, though a fellow Democrat was in the White House.

Speaking before the University of Virginia Law School Dec. 12, 1950, during the retreat of MacArthur's forces, Kennedy called the Truman foreign policy a "suicidal" one which had "made us no foul weather friends."

He urged that we pull out of Korea, "and any other place in Asia where we cannot hope to hold our defenses." He would have pulled out of Berlin, too. He urged that we spend our defense budget fortifying Canada and Latin America.

"We have no reason to believe that cooperation on their part will not be forthcoming and we can, and should, insist on it." Kennedy was both attacked and lauded, editorially.

Today he would sit back and watch the world go by. (Copyright 1957 by DKS)

Owner Skips Sentiment Trying to Recover Dog

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A dog owner skipped the sentiment and ran this ad in the Arkansas Gazette after his dog disappeared: "If you are smart, you will return the collie dog where you got it . . . as you can be identified by your vehicle license. Is the dog worth two years to you in Tucker State (prison) Farm?" Triplet births occur once in every 9,600 confinements.

Michigan GOP Senators Still Arguing School Aid

LANSING — Majority Republican senators were at loggerheads over what to do about the school aid issue, and planned to huddle on it again late today.

After an hour-long closed meeting on the subject broke up yesterday, Sen. Frank Beadle of St. Clair, GOP caucus chairman, said no conclusions were reached.

Beadle said the session failed to produce enough support for a beer and whisky school aid tax plan approved by the House to get it through the Senate.

Queries Pour In on Dust Control

Calls Swamp Clerk in Waterford Regarding Chloride on Roads

Many people in Waterford Township are calling the clerk's office with inquiries regarding the application of chloride on their roads to control dust, according to Elmer Johnson, supervisor.

"The chloride program does not begin until temperatures are higher than 45 degrees during the night," Johnson said, "and the project is under the supervision of the Oakland County road commission," he added.

Some residents are sending in checks to cover their share of the chloriding operation. Waterford Township people pay two thirds of the cost, the township pays one third and it is applied by the Oakland County road commission.

Applications for chloriding are taken at the clerk's office, then sent to the Oakland County Road Commission and work in the township is systematically scheduled, according to Jim Seeterlin, clerk.

Property owners must pay $30 per thousand feet, for three applications of chloride at the time a work-order is applied for, and the township pays $15. Before each application, the road is thoroughly scraped and conditioned, Seeterlin concluded.

This makes a total of seven awards which our employees have won, including one for supervisor Leslie H. Dean, acting postmaster. "It makes us very proud."

MAPLE NUT LOAF — The maple syrup season is over and the sap has all been made into syrup or sugar. Take advantage of this fresh crop and use some of the syrup in a quick loaf bread. The recipe comes from Vermont, a maple sugar state.

Maple Syrup Flavors Bread

The maple sugar season is always a big event in Vermont. To make that delicious event national, here is a recipe from the heart of the maple sugar country. Mrs. Harry Hornick of Londonderry, Vermont, the cook, says: "At our house," where the tea or coffee pot is always on the stove, a slice of maple nut loaf spread with butter, jam or cream cheese is such a delightful way to spend a few minutes while we enjoy the New England countryside through the kitchen windows."

Maple Nut Loaf

2 eggs, beaten
1 cup milk
1 cup maple syrup
1 cup brown sugar
2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked)
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup melted shortening

Mix together eggs, milk, maple syrup and brown sugar. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add all at once to egg mixture, stirring lightly. Add oats, nuts and shortening, stirring only enough to combine.

Curry in Dumplings Sparks Lamb Stew

"Spring is bustin' out all over" and most of us, bored with dull weather, crave something new—a new hat and huilt, of course—but even more important, we crave something new and different for everyday meals, new dishes to perk our winter-weary appetites. Spring lamb seems to gambol in at just the right time. A Savory Lamb Stew with Curry Dumplings is a meal to enjoy—to relish now—when lamb is at its tender succulent best.

Tart Red Cherries Ideal in Cake Sauce

If you don't feel like baking a cottage pudding, serve this sauce with store-bought sponge cake.

RED CHERRY SAUCE

1 can (1 pound and 1 ounce) pitted tart red cherries (water packed)
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Salt
Brandy flavoring

Drain cherries thoroughly. If necessary, add enough water to cherry juice to make 1 cup. Stir sugar, cornstarch and a dash of salt together in a 1-quart saucepan. Add cherry juice slowly, stirring after each addition until smooth.

Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened and boiling; boil 1 minute. Pour over cherries. Add brandy flavoring to taste. Serve warm over hot cottage pudding.

1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup sliced onion
1/2 cup one-inch pieces of celery
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley

Dumplings

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 cup wheat germ
1/2 cup finely diced pared apple
1/2 cup milk

Roll meat in flour. Brown well on all sides in hot shortening in heavy skillet. Sprinkle remaining flour over meat; add water, salt and pepper. Cover tightly; simmer for 1 1/2 hours.

One-half hour before serving, prepare dumplings. Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar, salt and curry powder. Blend in wheat germ and diced apple. Add milk all at once; stir only until flour is dampened.

Mix vegetables (onion, celery and parsley) into hot stew. Drop dumpling dough by tablespoonfuls on top; cover tightly. Cook gently 20 minutes without lifting the cover. Serve immediately on hot platter.

LAMB STEW WITH CURRY DUMPLINGS — A hearty one-dish meal of tasty Lamb Stew with Dumplings appeals to good cooks and budget-wise homemakers. Nut-like wheat germ, tart apples and flavorful curry powder are combined with the usual ingredients to make these dumplings extra special — with extra flavor, extra goodness, extra nutrition.

It's Time to Freeze Beef

If you're fond of high quality beef, and if you have a freezer locker or home freezer, now is a good time to put beef in the freezer. The Department of Agriculture says this is usually the time of year when grain-fed beef, which produces the most desirable steaks and roasts, is most abundant.

Use a sharp knife dipped into water when you are cutting a meringue pie. Repeat the dipping between cuts. The water may be either warm or cold.

Nonfat Dry Milk Is Boon to Health, Convenience

BY JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Home Editor
Do you use nonfat dry milk at your house? If you don't you're missing a good thing. Yes, yes, we know, you don't like skim milk, and that powdered stuff tastes...

People on diets have had cause to bless this modern product more than once. It is so easy to keep on the pantry shelf and so simple to use.

What we are interested in today, however, are the ways the average family can use nonfat dry milk. We know that many women do not know how to use it. We know that properly used, it contributes to the family's good health and saves money.

You will be giving your family more of the minerals and vitamins that are available in milk. Nonfat dry milk is a rich source of protein, calcium and riboflavin. Only the water and buttermilk have been removed.

We know many homemakers are concerned because their children drink so much milk that the bills soar. By following the above suggestion the children can have as much milk as they like for less money.

Dry milk has other uses. Just the other day we made bread. We used water for the liquid in the bread, then added a heaping half cup measure of dry milk. One-third of a cup is the equivalent of one cup of regular skim milk. We added nearly twice that much, making the bread more nutritious at very little extra cost and no effort. The taste was not affected at all.

You can add a little more dry milk powder to almost any recipe where milk is called for, thus enriching the dish. Try this method with prepared pudding mixes, with muffins and rolls, with cream sauces and with meat loaves. When you fix mashed potatoes the next time, add some dry milk to the potatoes and use the potato water for the necessary liquid. Very simple, yes?

Are your children chocolate milk drinkers? Why not save money by making a prepared chocolate syrup and keeping it on hand for instantaneous mixing?

Chocolate Milk

1/4 cup sugar
Dash salt
1/2 cup hot water
1 square chocolate, melted
1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Add sugar, salt and water to melted chocolate. Mix well. Boil gently five minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool and add vanilla. Pour into jar, cover and keep in cool place.

At serving time mix 1 1/2 tablespoons syrup with 1/2 cup nonfat dry milk. Add one cup hot or cold water to make one glass. This will contain twice the usual milk value.

Chicken Tetrastini is a recipe that appeared in many old cookbooks. It featured sliced chicken in a rich white sauce, combined with spaghetti in a casserole.

A modern version of this recipe uses shrimp in a cream sauce made with nonfat dry milk. There is no reason why you can't substitute chicken if you so desire.

Shrimp Tetrastini

2 (12-oz.) packages frozen shrimp in shell or
2 cups cooked, shelled, and deveined shrimp
1 1/2 cups thin spaghetti broken in 2 1/2 inch pieces
3 cups liquefied instant nonfat dry milk

1/2 cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 (10-oz.) package sharp process cheese, shredded
1 (8-oz.) can broiled mushroom slices, drained
1/2 cup cherry, optional
1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons melted butter

Cook shrimp according to directions on package; shell and devein. Cook spaghetti just until tender; drain well. Pour liquefied instant nonfat dry milk into top of double boiler; sprinkle flour, salt and pepper over surface. Beat with rotary beater until just blended.

Add cheese; cook over hot water, stirring occasionally, until mixture thickens and cheese has melted. Remove from heat; add mushrooms and cherry.

Place spaghetti, shrimp and sauce in 2 1/2-quart casserole; stir gently with spoon until sauce has coated all ingredients. Coat bread crumbs with butter; sprinkle on top of casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 minutes, or until sauce bubbles.

Lemon Coconut Snow

1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk powder
2 (12-oz.) packages lemon flavored gelatin
4 cups hot water
1/2 cup finely chopped coconut

Pour cold water into deep 1-quart bowl; sprinkle instant nonfat dry milk powder over surface. Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until stiff, 8 to 10 minutes.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Chill over ice water, stirring constantly, until the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Stir in coconut. Fold in whipped milk.

Rinse a 2-quart mold with cold water. Pour mixture into mold. Chill until firm, about 4 hours. Unmold. Serve with center of ring mold filled with berries in season, if desired.

FRESH ASPARAGUS—Make the most of the season for asparagus because it is so limited. As a change from your regular butter topping serve this spring vegetable with a paprika-sour cream sauce.

A Sure Sign of Springtime

One of the wonderful things about spring is fresh asparagus. The season is not very long, so let's make the most of it.

COOKED FRESH ASPARAGUS

For 6 servings, select 2 pounds fresh asparagus. Cut or break off each stalk as far down as it snaps easily. Remove scales and wash thoroughly. Cook, covered, in a small amount of boiling water (about 1 inch deep in saucepan) to which 1 teaspoon salt is added for 15 to 20 minutes or until just crisp-tender. Drain. Serve with one of the following sauces:

PAPRIKA SOUR CREAM SAUCE

Saute 3 tablespoons chopped onion in 1 tablespoon butter or margarine. Add 2 tablespoons paprika, 1 cup sour cream, 1/2 cup mayonnaise and 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice. Season with 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon ground white pepper. Serve at once over hot cooked fresh asparagus. Garnish with paprika.

ITALIAN TOMATO SAUCE

Heat 1/2 cup olive or salad oil in a saucepan. Add 1/2 cup diced onion, 1/2 cup finely diced green pepper and 1/2 cup finely diced celery and cook until limp and transparent. Stir in 3 tablespoons chopped parsley, 2 cups finely diced fresh tomatoes, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper and 1/2 teaspoon whole basil leaves and cook until medium thickness, about 10 minutes. Serve at once over hot cooked fresh asparagus.

Delicate Cookies Keep Best in Covered Can

Make a few thrifty cookies!

Meringue Cookies

1/2 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
1 1/2 teaspoons flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 egg
1/2 cup sugar
Grated rind of one-half of a large orange

Stir together the rolled oats, flour and baking powder. Beat egg with rotary beater (hand or electric) until it begins to get thick.

Gradually beat in sugar, then grated orange rind. Fold in rolled oats mixture. Drop level tablespoons of the mixture, several inches apart, on a greased baking sheet.

Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven until tawny colored, about 10 minutes. Remove at once with long side of wide spatula, to cooling rack. When cold, store cookies carefully, because they are crisp and hollow, in tightly covered container. Makes about 18.

Various Fats Differ in Making Pastry

How do butter, margarine, lard, hydrogenated fat and oil compare in pastries?

Home economists at Michigan State University report that research shows butter and margarine give a crisp, crackery pastry. Although the flavor is good, this pastry is not so tender and desirable as that made with lard or hydrogenated fat.

Lard makes a flaky and tender pastry. Because it has greater shortening power, less of it is needed than of other fats to make a pastry of equal tenderness.

Oil gives a tender crust that is less flaky. A good product can be made by using one-third cup of hydrogenated fat, one-fourth cup of oil or one-third cup minus one tablespoon of lard for each cup of sifted all-purpose flour.

Cress Adds Tang to Rolls

It's nice to serve piping-hot Parker House rolls with Water-cress Butter and a sprig of cress slipped into each fold as the rolls emerge from the oven. The Water-cress Butter—good too as a topping for broiled lamb chops or lamb steaks—is 1/2 cup softened butter with a heaped 1/4 cup of snipped crispy-fresh cress leaves and a few drops of lemon juice stirred in.

Sweet Pickles Add Tang to Salad Mold

Emerald Garden is a colorful version of the old favorite, the molded vegetable salad. Chopped sweet pickles and sweet pickle liquid give extra zing to this dish.

Emerald Garden Salad
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water
Green food coloring
1/2 cup liquid from sweet pickles
1 tablespoon lemon juice

1/2 cup finely shredded cabbage
1/2 cup chopped sweet pickles
3 radishes, sliced paper-thin
1/2 cup chopped celery

Soften gelatin in cold water. Add sugar, salt and boiling water. Stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add enough food coloring to make the gelatin an attractive green. Stir in pickle liquid and lemon juice. Chill until gelatin begins to set. Fold in cabbage and remaining ingredients. Pour into four individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce and serve with French dressing. Makes four servings.

Water Chestnut Chews

Drain canned water chestnuts. Wrap each in a portion of a strip of bacon, "pinning" it on with a wood pick. Place on broiler pan after turning lamb chops or in hot oven until bacon is crisp. Serve piping-hot at once as a garnish for the lamb chop platter. Good too as appetizers—any time.

For an early spring salad, combine rings of Bermuda-type onions with grapefruit sections, salad greens and French dressing made with grapefruit juice. Toss in a chilled salad bowl and serve.

Grouchy, Snapping Man Cheats Both Self, Family

His Homecoming Is Low Point of Day for Resentful Wife and Children

By RUTH MILLETT

Memo to men: For your wife and children your homecoming is probably the most important moment of the day.

If you habitually come home with a grouchy, snapping at the kids, ready to let your wife know that you've had a hard day and all you want is a little peace and quiet, your homecoming is important because it is the low point of the day.

Your wife dreads it. The children dread it. The strain your grouchy arrival puts on the family is likely to last all evening.

But if you usually come home with a smile and a hug for the kids, ready to hear what they have to tell you, your family will wait for you each evening anticipating one of the happiest moments of the day.

A man owes that much to his family . . . and to himself. For a man loses, too, when he saves up all his irritation to unload on his family the minute he hits the house.

He has to live in the strained atmosphere he creates. He has to put up with the fear and resentment he arouses in his wife and children. And he is the one who misses the fun and warmth of family life when it is at its best.

All the fun he ought to be a part of will take place when he is away from home.

An habitually grouchy husband and father never gets more happiness than he gives.

Mr. Lee Shows Slides of Japan

Herbert Lee showed colored slides of Japan at the recent joint meeting of the New Citizens' League of Pontiac and Janice Antona's citizenship class.

Scenes of Japan included the marketplaces, sacred temples, gardens and Mt. Fujiyama.

Today's Teenagers Frequently Lapse Into Lassitude

They're Bored, Bored, Just Plain Bored With Life

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert
Youth Research Co.

Most of the nation's teenagers are bored in spite of all the modern entertainment gadgets.

Perhaps they're not bored every minute—but a good part of the day.

Of the boys interviewed in our cross-country poll 78 per cent say they sometimes are bored. The percentage of lasses suffering from lassitude is even higher: 85 per cent.

One girl sighs: "There are moments when I think I will go out of my mind with boredom."

An Arkansas boy says: "My crowd and I often sit in one guy's house for hours looking out of the window. We just can't find that much to do. Of course, if we lived in a big town it would be different."

SAME AILMENT

But a 16-year-old lad from a big town, Chicago, complains of the same ailment.

"I take up new hobbies every couple of months to give me something to think about. But it doesn't work. I guess I'm just a blasé individual."

"Monotonous as they frequently find their existence, 84 per cent of the youngsters we interviewed feel they get as much enjoyment out of life today as their parents did when they were children."

"I guess all kids are bored sometimes," notes Tommy, 15. "I bet Dad did about the same things when he was young as I do now. He must have been plenty bored a lot of the time."

Comparing their lives with those of youngsters a century ago, our young moderns are almost pitying.

MANY ADVANTAGES

They agree they have many advantages today children of a 100 years ago never dreamed of—television, radio, telephones, motion pictures, airplanes, tape recordings, electrical appliances.

Since automation entered the home with pushbutton appliances to do just about every chore, youngsters have their work around the house cut to a minimum.

Transportation is faster, too. Everything seems to give teenagers more time and less activity.

"Machines do all the work," 15-year-old Sandy of Connecticut says. "There is nothing left for us to do. So we just have to sit around—bored to tears."

"Bored" Why, man, that's not keep him busy for an hour a day. Too far from the truth," agrees a Boston lad, 17. "None of the teenagers I know has enough to general ennui. It's conceded that

Today's youths find that canned entertainment and automation merely

Take Weight Off Slowly to Prevent Wrinkled Skin

There's just one safe way to reduce: With a medically approved diet that allows you to take off weight slowly.

Women who brag that they've placed themselves on diets that shed as much as 30 pounds in a month are asking for health problems.

In addition, they don't seem to realize that they're damaging, rather than improving, their looks.

For skin to retain its elasticity, weight reduction must be very gradual. It must be accompanied by careful care of skin and by exercise to keep the body in trim.

If you're planning to, go on a diet, consult your doctor first and make sure that he advises it.

Remember that you need a balanced intake of food every single day and that fad diets will only injure both health and beauty.

Club Lists Winners

North-south winners at the Monday meeting of Pontiac Duplicate Bridge Club were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Guy. East-west winners were Dr. Phyllis Bursey and John Vanderlind.

TV keeps children better informed on world affairs and in most fields of knowledge.

But knowing more leads to sophistication which in turn can make young people blasé. Nothing is a surprise or a thrill any more.

Take the circus coming to town. This used to be one of the year's high spots for a child. Thirteen-year-old Maura says:

"I'll never forget my disappointment when I went to the circus for the first time. Television was much better. You could see the animals closer and that awful smell wasn't there."

In a previous study we explored the fact that participation by young people in sports is steadily declining.

There is an obvious connection between bored teenagers and fewer young people on the playing fields.

THEY'RE NOT IDLE

Youngsters who like sports aren't sitting around twiddling their thumbs for lack of something to do. And the physical exertion keeps them feeling alive, stimulated and interested.

In fact, it has been medically proved that the formative years need strenuous physical activity.

The teens generally are bursting with energy and require sufficient interests and activities to occupy their minds and bodies. Otherwise, they may lapse into lethargy.

Some young people think their humdrum feeling is an inevitable symptom of the growing-up process.

One high school sophomore explains: "Being bored some of the time is simply part of being a teen. Why, everyone I know gets to feeling that way. It doesn't mean a thing. I think it's all a part of becoming adult."

'STATE OF MIND'

One New Haven, Conn., girl, 16, asserts from experience:

"It's all a state of mind. Last year I was always restless and edgy. Since I became a junior I find I am more interested in the things around me and so am rarely, if ever, bored."

This should be a big comfort to 15-year-old Arlene of Mamaronck, N.Y., who complains:

"We're going through a 'state,' say all the adults we meet. Well, I hope the 'stage' passes because it's no fun to suffer from a lack of interest in nearly everything."

Probably the most philosophical approach is taken by Annie Lee, 18, of New York City:

"All normal teens are bored sometimes. Besides, who do you know is bursting with interest and energy every minute?"

'From Fairyland to Farmington'

Castle Object of Interest for Miles Around

By MARY CELINSKE
Farmington Correspondent

"The Castle" on Middlebelt road near Eleven Mile road has probably excited more interest and comment than any other residence in the South Oakland County area.

As seen when approached from the north or west, the building appears to be an ancient castle, lifted in its entirety from a fairy tale and set down upon a local hilltop.

The hill falls away so sharply that the windows of the "castle" look out upon the tree tops in the valley below, and a stream winding along the base of the hill lends the distinct suggestion of a moat.

"The Castle" was built in 1938 by Howard D. Yoder and his family, who did most of the work themselves. Yoder had "always wanted to build a castle"—so he built one; with a round tower, bell tower, parapet, gargoyle, sunken fountain, circular staircase, and many other imaginative features. Yoders lived in the castle until 1950 when it was sold.

The building was then allegedly used as a plush gambling casino until it was raided by police in October, 1952. There appears to be no clear record of what happened to the place after the raid until it was purchased in 1955 by its present owners, Dr. and Mrs. Sylvan A. Broadman.

The entrance to the house is reached from Middlebelt road, up a drive winding through an orchard.

On a wall near the entrance is a knight's shield and battle-axe.

with a helmet superimposed. Beneath this is the owner's name.

The narrow entrance hall, with the coat closet opposite the door, leads to the foyer which is the most striking feature of the house.

Sunk in the floor, in a corner near the living room doorway, is a small blue fountain, with the stark white figure of a child holding a duck in his arms.

Opposite the entrance to the living room, a circular staircase of white ironwork rises gracefully to a balcony at second floor level.

The stairway is wide, the steps broad and low. The conventional rail has been replaced by thick rope covered in wine-red velvet. Mrs. Broadman plans to recover this with needlepoint which she is now engaged in making. On a deep window ledge near the top of the stairs, rests the helmet from a suit of armor.

The foyer is a full two stories high, with a large star cut into the center of the ceiling. The lighted recess above the star is painted midnight blue, creating a striking effect in the all white room.

Walls and ceilings throughout the house are stark white, with the blue in the foyer and the upstairs bathroom the only paint colors used.

Mrs. Broadman chose shades of gray, beige, green and red for every room in her home, and strong colors have been used sparingly. Carpeting throughout the lower floor, stairs and upper hall is sandstone beige.

The living room, so spacious that a concert grand piano in one corner fails to dominate, looks out upon the treetops below the house on the north side. Outstanding feature of this room is the great fireplace with its raised hearth at the east end.

Over the fireplace is the motto "Burn, fire, burn. Whose hands above this blaze are lifted, shall be with magic touch engifted."

The room is furnished in traditional style, with emphasis on charm and comfort.

The study, three steps below the living room, in the round tower, is a perfect circle. The walls are book-lined floor to ceiling, and deep red drapes hang at the four narrow windows. This room, smallest in the house, is carpeted in a rose, beige and green floral pattern. The flush, circular ceiling light bears another motto, "Through seas of knowledge we our course advance, discovering still new worlds of ignorance."

In this day of dinettes and dining elis, the Broadman dining room, two steps above the living room, seems almost baronial in size. Here a full size Duncan Phyfe dining suite, large buffet and serving table are easily accommodated. Mrs. Broadman has brought color into this room in drapes which match those of the living room, and in the deep rich tones of the oriental rug on which the table stands.

IRON BELL IN TOWER

A sun porch, opening from the west end of the dining room, looks out on the swimming pool, and to the left of the pool is the square tower, in the top of which hangs a great iron bell.

The lower part of the tower is used as a bath house and can be entered only from the side nearest the pool. To the right of the sunporch, stone steps set into the steep hillside, lead down to the stream that flows along the base.

KITCHEN MODERN

The kitchen, with its white tile, cupboards and appliances, also holds the automatic laundry equipment. A large alcove off the end nearest the dining room serves as a breakfast room. At the far end of the kitchen, a short hall leads to the basement and attached garage. From this hall a small bathroom opens.

Upstairs, all bedrooms open from the balcony. Eva Lou, the Broadman's nine-year-old daughter, occupies the first room at the head of the stairs. The carpet is sandstone beige, the furniture is blond in color and modern in design.

The children's television set is in this room, and here too, Eva Lou keeps her collection of miniature dolls. These tiny treasures, some only two inches high, were collected for her from all over the world by Mrs. Broadman's brother.

The Broadmans' two boys, Howard, 7, and Alfred 2, share a large bedroom. Here again the walls are white, and the carpeting gray. Colorful patchwork covers the bed, and both walls and windows on the north side of the room are draped in a red, green and gray leaf print. Furniture in this room is modern.

Two steps above the balcony floor, a short hall leads to the master bedroom. On the left a door opens to the children's playroom and the maid's quarters.

The master bedroom is spacious, light and airy, with an alcove at one end for the twin beds. Walls are white, but the doors to the closet and double wardrobe are padded and covered in black velvet with escutcheons in gold. The carpet is blue, gray, and drapes are gray, coral and turquoise on white. In this room, Mrs. Broadman has returned to traditional furniture.

The bathroom is in the upper part of the round tower. This all blue and white room is another perfect circle. The walls are blue tile to shoulder height, with white enamel above. The floor is white tile. All fixtures are white except the bottom of the sunken bathtub, which is blue.

The Broadman family came to Farmington from Detroit. Mrs. Broadman, a registered nurse, is a native Detroit, a descendant of the Beaubiens, one of Detroit's old families.

The doctor, a certified member of the American Board of Pediatrics, is a native New Yorker.

Increase Budget at Walled Lake

Proposal for $90,675 is $12,000 increase; hearing Thursday

WALLED LAKE—A budget of $90,675 has been proposed for the city of Walled Lake councilmen learned at their meeting this week. This is an increase of $12,000 over the present one. A hearing on the budget will be held next Thursday, at 8 p.m.

The resignation of Ray Price as fire chief was accepted and Art Graham named to replace him. Assistant chief is Dick Taylor. Firemen made three runs during the past month. Two were house fires, one a woods fire. During that same period the police noted 640 violations and drove 5,060 miles.

On May 20 the council will open bids on the blacktopping of several streets which are being paid for by special assessment against property owners. They are also asking for bids on the purchase of a police car. Council decided to hire a grader to put roads in condition and they also recommended calcium chloride for gravel roads to eliminate dust.

On Wednesday, May 15, there will be a general pick-up of rubbish and trash in the city as part of the clean-up campaign. Because of the May 20 hearing on the budget, Mayor Robert Thibideau will not go to Mesick for the mayor exchange program. However, the mayor of Mesick has been invited to visit Walled Lake.

The bride wore a ballerina-length gown with white tulle fashioned over net. Her bouquet was of white roses and carnations.

Mrs. Jack Blair was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Carol Ann Campbell and Jeanine Kaliaz. Linda Kaliaz was flower girl.

Best man was Harvey Campbell and groomsmen were Kenneth Campbell and Tom Kaliaz. Louis Campbell was ringbearer.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast for 200 guests was served in the hall of St. John church, Almont. In the evening a reception was held at the Almont Town Hall for 500 guests.

Following a honeymoon at Niagara Falls, the couple will make their home at Almont.
