The governor arrived in time to walk near the end of the 17th annual parade that preceded the coronation. See related pictures and story on Page 4.

Sprinkling Ban to Be in Effect Here Sunday

Shortage of Water Remains Serious; Cooperation Urged

City officials today said that the current 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. sprinkling ban will be in effect Sunday as Pontiac's water shortage continues serious.

Gordon Matthews, assistant water superintendent, emphasized that at this point the co-operation of residents is more important than the weather.

"If citizens do not conserve their use of water, we could have a repeat of last Monday night's episode when the Baldwin Avenue tank went dry," he said. "It wouldn't have to be a hot muggy day. With five wells out of service and the water table so low, it could happen on a relatively pleasant day like yesterday."

Matthews said that the Baldwin tank was full this morning and the city's observation well showed a slight improvement in the level of the water table.

He pointed out, however, that this is not a result of the cooler weather. It's due to industry shutting down for the July 4 holiday.

Fire Chief James R. White offered an example of just how grave the water shortage is.

He recalled the Oakland Theater fire which occurred in October 1960 when the water table was much higher, water demand was lower and there were more wells in service.

"The amount of water we used was so great that had we hooked up one more pump, the drop in pressure could have caused thousands of dollars of damage to plumbing throughout the downtown area."

Damage to plumbing is secondary now. Firemen are more concerned about whether there would be enough water to fight a fire.

News Flashes

JACKSON (UPI) — Three trustees were reported missing from Southern Michigan Prison today.

WASHINGTON (P) — Employment in the United States climbed over 70 million for the first time in history during June, the Labor Department reported today. At the same time the seasonal surge of teenagers looking for jobs pushed unemployment up 800,000 to 4.5 million.

WAITING PERIOD

To iron out details of the temporary agreement, Wirtz called for a 30-day negotiating period beyond the Wednesday deadline, with both sides agreeing that Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds would make a binding decision on any issues not settled during the period.

"I simply can't believe that collective bargaining is inadequate to solve a problem of this type," Wirtz said.

He said his proposal was an effort to establish in the railroad industry the human relations approach which has been successful in steel negotiations and is now being tried in the auto industry.

"We feel that the parties sitting down together over a long period of time with no strike deadline can reach agreement," Wirtz said.

Earlier, Wirtz told the negotiators that, unless the deadlock was broken, there were only two possibilities — a nationwide rail strike or legislation.

BLAST VICTIM — Jerry LaMar, one of three youths injured when a "tube-like object" exploded Wednesday, is in fair condition today at St. Joseph Hospital.

Police Still Seek Clues to Mystery-Tube Blast

Pontiac police are still seeking clues to identify the "tube-like object" that exploded and seriously injured two boys Wednesday.

So far, efforts to find fragments of the object that caused one boy to lose an eye and seriously burned his companion near Lincoln Junior High School have been fruitless.

Jerry LaMar, 13, of 68 Putnam, who lost the use of his right eye and suffered second-degree burns of hands and face, and Charles Bright, 14, who had third-degree facial burns, both are listed in fair condition by the hospital.

The boys told police they found the explosive container about 2:30 p.m. They poured a silvery powder out of it and lit the powder causing the explosion.

Bright required plastic surgery for his facial injuries. Also injured in the mishap was Robert Hubler, 15, of 71 Putnam. He was treated for four hours at the hospital's emergency room and released.

In a firecracker accident yesterday, Leland Gallivan, 14, of 6337 Snow Apple, Independence Township, was hospitalized when shrapnel from an exploding tin can penetrated his left cheek.

Gallivan is reported in fair condition today at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Will Determine Control of Red World Drive

Soviets Are Instructed to Be Firm Against Peking Challenge

MOSCOW (P) — Soviet and Red Chinese delegates opened a showdown meeting tonight over control of the world Communist movement.

The Chinese flew into Moscow in mid-afternoon and were greeted by a facade of friendliness but they were under instructions to stand firm on Peking's challenge to Premier Khrushchev's leadership of world communism.

The two delegations began their talks at a secret location. The Russians made an effort to play down the meeting. There were no Soviet newsmen or photographers at the airport and no announcement the Chinese had arrived.

The outcome could determine the future of hundreds of millions of persons for years to come. The Khrushchev conference was the most dramatic peak in communism's quarrels, far overshadowing the 1948 split between Stalin and President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Despite a last-minute exchange of angry charges, the Kremlin sent the head of its delegation to the airport to meet the Chinese. He is Mikhail Suslov, member of the powerful party Politburo. With him was a large delegation of party officials.

The Chinese delegation was led by the Chinese Central Committee general secretary, Teng Hsiao-ping.

The delegation arrived about a half-hour late aboard a big Soviet TU104 jet airliner.

Also on hand were nearly 200 Chinese residents of Moscow, headed by the smiling Chinese ambassador, Pan Tz'ui.

The Chinese were armed with the plane as it taxied up to the tarmac—children bearing bouquets of flowers leading the way.

The Chinese were armed with instructions to stand firm.

Charges and countercharges of lying, meddling and all-around bad faith apparently doomed the talks before they began, but none of this was evident at the airport.

At stake was Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung's demand that Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence be jettisoned for an all-out struggle, including war if necessary—to bury capitalism. The Russians claim this is a policy of suicide.

West Hits New Strip in Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western powers protested to the Soviet Union today against the new security strip around West Berlin, denouncing the 110-yard cleared zone as illegal and a brutal violation of the Germans' rights.

The United States, Britain and France made their joint protest in identical notes delivered to the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow.

The Reds installed the new security zone on the Communist side of the Berlin wall June 21, shortly before President Kennedy's arrival at the divided city.

ISSUED TEXT

The State Department issued this text of the Western protest: "On June 21, 1963, the East German authorities proclaimed new security measures which imposed draconian restrictions on circulation on that part of the Soviet sector in Berlin situated along the boundaries of the Western sectors."

"The East German authorities have no competence for Berlin and these measures are completely illegal."

AGGRAVATION

"They aggravate the arbitrary actions taken since Aug. 13, 1961, by these authorities in connection with the Soviet government which have cut the city in two by construction of the wall."

"These latest illegal measures constitute a serious infringement of the quadripartite status of Berlin as established in the agreements of 1944 and 1945."

"They not only purport to limit the right of the Allies to circulate freely in Greater Berlin, but also, together with similar measures against Berlin, constitute in their effects another brutal violation of the most elementary rights of the German population."

"I (the envoy presenting the protest) am instructed to inform you that the U.S. (French) government will hold the Soviet government responsible for the consequences which may result in Berlin or elsewhere."

Parks Packed to Overflowing

Public parks and beaches in Oakland County just couldn't absorb the crowds that turned out for the July Fourth holiday yesterday.

Over 100,000 pleasure-seekers poured into the area.

Many were turned away from already overcrowded state parks here.

Park authorities were forced to close the gates as early as 9:30 a.m. at Holly, Highland and Pontiac Lake recreation areas.

Dodge State Park No. 4 began turning people away at 10:30 a.m. Traffic was backed up from the gate as far as the Orchard Lake-Telegraph intersection two miles away.

Six miles of two-lane, bumper-to-bumper traffic snaked along the I-96 expressway as an estimated 50,000 people poured into Kensington Metropolitan Park. Many were forced to turn back for lack of parking space.

Conservation officers counted 15,000 people on the beach and in adjacent picnic areas at popular Dodge Park where crowds rarely exceed 15,000 on busiest weekends.

Park gates were reopened from time to time late in the afternoon when some picnickers and bathers left.

Surprisingly few mishaps were recorded. A woman was slightly injured by a firecracker at Dodge Park.

Thousands Of Others Were Turned Away Yesterday At Parks Such As Dodge Park 4 (Above)

De Gaulle and Adenauer Silent on Major Problems

By CARL HARTMAN
BONN, Germany (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer completed two days of meetings today with no joint proposals to make on major international problems. Spokesmen said that included what has been considered their main problem: What kind of relations should exist between Britain and the West European Common Market? West German officials who attended the meetings said nothing had been agreed upon.

Karl Gürtelhof von Hase, Adenauer's press chief, said agreement exists that the relations should be "natural, loose and non-institutionalized." This much has been agreed since May. Just what should be done next will have to be discussed at a meeting of the foreign ministers of the six Common Market nations at Brussels next week, von Hase added.

A reporter asked whether this meant France would accept a majority decision. Claude Lebel, the French spokesman, replied dryly: "At this stage of development, the Common Market does not take decisions by majority vote."

It was De Gaulle's veto that ended Britain's attempt to gain membership in the Common Market last January.

Von Hase and Lebel said still another study will have to be made of the other main problem before the Common Market—how to get grain prices closer together. German farmers have resisted attempts to drop their high prices toward the lower French level.

The two spokesmen made it plain that Kai-Uwe von Hassel, the West German defense minister, had not made any proposal to halt withdrawal of the French Atlantic fleet from the authority of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. They reported he had only said it would be good if an agreement could be reached that would satisfy both France and NATO.

Lebel said he agreed with this, but added nothing.

Stress was laid on the formation of a new French-West German youth organization. It is to be headed for five years by a Frenchman, with offices in Bonn. Its object is to have a quarter million young French people visiting West Germany and the same number of young West Germans visiting France every year.

This had been agreed in the spring. The formal document was signed today by Foreign Ministers Gerhard Schröder of West Germany and Maurice Couve de Murville of France.

The meeting was the first to be held under the new French-West German treaty of cooperation which went into effect Tuesday.

It says the heads of the two governments are to get together twice a year.

Top West German and French leaders met three hours.

The meeting lasted three quarters of an hour longer than planned. De Gaulle was scheduled to leave late this afternoon for Paris.

Adenauer was smiling as he saw de Gaulle to his car, but other ministers looked discouraged. High hopes had been set on this meeting.

Werner Schwarz, West German agriculture minister, said new studies would have to be made on measures proposed to solve farm problems.

"Anything further has to be done in Brussels," he added. "That is where the decision has to be made."

Foreign ministers and agriculture ministers of the six Common Market countries are due to meet in the Belgian capital next week.

De Gaulle and Adenauer met on this second day of the French president's visit to discuss the kind of relations the West European market should have with Britain, blocked by a French veto from entering the Common Market.

The U.S. government was keenly interested in the discussion. It wants Britain admitted to the six-nation Common Market to keep it in close Atlantic partnership with the United States.

7 Die on Highways; Half of Holiday to Go

By The Associated Press
Separate traffic accidents in Michigan took seven lives before the long Independence Day holiday reached its halfway point.

Also, one drowning was reported in the same period.

Deaths on the nation's highways increased slowly today, but continued to run behind the record-shattering toll of 1961.

The Associated Press death count began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.

Clarence Coleman, 71, of Ludington, was walking home from watching a fireworks display last night when he was struck down by a car. He died instantly.

George Taylor, 27, of Ypsilanti, was killed today when his pickup truck left a road in Ypsilanti and rolled over, crushing him after he was thrown from the cab.

Fred Hill, 76, of Sparta, died today from injuries suffered in an accident yesterday. Police said Hill's car ran a stop sign on a county road at M37 in Kent County and was struck broadside by another car.

British Heads Unworried by Spy Reports

LONDON (AP)—British officials indicate they are not worried by newspaper reports that another major spy scandal is about to break in this spy-plagued country.

British papers said yesterday the arrest of a British air ministry official was imminent and that a second government associate might be involved.

One report said the air ministry man served in Washington during the British-American negotiations which saw the end of the Skybolt rocket program. The Daily Mail claimed American nuclear rocket secrets may have been involved.

Officials in several defense ministries said they knew of nothing to justify the reports.

British officials said investigation showed a flurry of reports about new British spy scandals being circulating in Washington on the eve of President Kennedy's meeting with Prime Minister Macmillan last weekend.

"If anyone was interested in embarrassing London and Washington, they could hardly have chosen a better time," one source said.

Initiate Drive for Stock Sale

Development Group Asks Operation Funds
The newly formed Greater Pontiac Industrial Development Corporation has initiated a drive to sell $100,000 worth of stock by Aug. 1.

Max Adams, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, said it is vital that the corporation become operational by Aug. 1 because options it holds on several properties expire on that date.

"Under state law, we must have $100,000 before we can begin operating as a corporation," he noted. "We are about $67,000 short of that right now."

He said corporation and chamber officials are now calling on all prospective stockholders in an attempt to sell enough shares to make the Aug. 1 deadline.

The corporation was formed to accumulate and improve land within the city with good industrial potential, and then sell it to industrial developers.

The immediate project is a 25-acre industrial park on South Boulevard at East Boulevard.

"Options on some of these parcels will expire unless we have the $100,000 we need to become operational. Eventually, we estimate it will take about $200,000 to buy and improve the whole 25 acres," Adams said.

Shares in the corporation are $100 each.

Adams said that selling the property "won't be a problem. Several parcels are already spoken for. In the past 15 months, we've received more than 100 inquiries from industries looking for this type of land."

TO BE REPLACED — Bids will be taken July 11 by the Oakland County Road Commission for construction of a new bridge to replace this "one-way" span currently out of use on Pontiac Lake Road west of Highland Road. Work on this and two similar bridges on Dutton and Avon roads in Avon Township is expected to begin Aug. 1. Ten such bridges too narrow for more than one car are to be replaced this year with the help of $212,000 in federal matching funds.

Fight Lowering Road

A score of Union Lake businessmen are up in arms because future business growth factors also were important. Powell also said the dip to the north in the village, they say, will also leave their stores "up in the air" as the lowering of the road in the business section was the only thing being done to solve the problem.

The disagreement extends to the length of road involved. Powell says it's 400 feet, but the road commission says only 100 feet.

Nor is it the first time Union Lake businessmen and the road commission have had differences.

In December, the businessmen protested construction plans for widening Union Lake Road because they said their businesses would be ruined by lack of access during construction.

Stab Wounds Prove Fatal to Pontiac Man

Gus Evans, 40, of 436 Osburn, died at 7:35 a.m. today at Pontiac General Hospital from stab wounds suffered in a fight with his brother-in-law yesterday at Evans' home.

Held on an open homicide charge by Pontiac police is Frank Taylor, 48, of 51 Murray.

Police said that Evans and Taylor and their wives had all been drinking prior to the fight between the two men at 6 p.m.

Evans was stabbed in both arms and in the stomach, according to police. Taylor suffered a broken arm in the struggle and was treated at the hospital where police arrested him.

Give Fire Warnings at All State Parks

State conservation officers issued fire warnings at all state parks in Oakland County today.

Wooded and grassy areas are potential tinderboxes due to the hot, dry summer, they said.

Officers urged park users to be extremely careful while smoking and to limit barbecue fires to off-ground grills.

Two grass fires were quickly extinguished at the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area yesterday before flames could reach adjacent wooded areas.

A carelessly flicked cigarette and an illegal ground fire set by picnickers were blamed.

Birmingham Area News Plan School Program for Exceptional Child

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—An experimental program geared for the exceptional child will be initiated in the Bloomfield Hills school system next fall.

Educators here are now making plans for the ungraded room in which 10 children will be taught on an individual basis.

The boys and girls chosen for the class are those whose needs cannot be met in any of the present groupings, according to Mrs. Kathleen Flint, assistant school superintendent for instruction.

"They feel stymied if we aren't challenging them," she commented. "Often they develop poor work habits."

Typical of the students accepted for the program is a boy in kindergarten who already reads on a fifth grade level.

He was unhappy in his first-year group where the emphasis is on nothing more challenging for him than reading readiness.

Although their ages range from six to 12, the children chosen for the experimental program are similar in ability and interests.

The school system has a responsibility to provide a balanced program of intellectual, emotional, social, cultural and physical development for these children, Mrs. Flint said.

"But we don't want to make snobs out of any of them," she added.

They will be taught basic academic subjects in their home room and integrated with others of their own age for special classes such as physical education.

The room will be equipped with many materials to help develop the potential of the creative child, who needs opportunities for expression, encouragement and freedom to experiment, Mrs. Flint commented.

Besides the equipment for all levels of learning, the teacher will have available to him psychological services from Wayne State University.

"None have evidence of emotional problems, unless they're unhappy in their present situation," Mrs. Flint said. "We've been doing everything to see they're as well oriented as possible."

William Schrot, who has a broad background which includes majors in art, science and mathematics, will teach the class.

Before coming to Bloomfield Hills, Schrot taught at Central Michigan University.

Parents too will play an important role in the experiment, at individual and group evaluation meetings.

"We met with all of the parents, and the first 10 accepted," Mrs. Flint said.

Buffaloes Room SF

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Someone opened a gate to the Golden Gate Park buffalo paddock Thursday, and eight bison took the opportunity to head for freedom.

A posse of policemen in squad cars tried vainly to round them up. Then somebody thought of the Police Department's dog patrol.

Sgt. Gus Brumeman and his dog, Tonka, answered a last summons for help. Within 20 minutes, Tonka had the unruly critters back in the paddock.

Annual 4th Celebration

Crowd Sees Utica Parade

UTICA — Thousands of enthusiastic spectators lined two of Utica's main streets yesterday morning to watch beautiful queens, bands, colorful floats and high-stepping marchers pass in review.

The occasion was the parade that highlighted the Utica Lions 17th annual Fourth of July Celebration and Homecoming.

Gov. George Romney arrived just in time to walk the second half of the way—shaking hands and signing autographs as he passed in front of the crowds.

Acting as parade marshal was U.S. Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Utica, who rode in the lead car with Utica Mayor Fred H. Beck.

All of the entries were judged for prizes which ranged from $50 for the most beautiful float to $2 for the most unusual pet.

Top honors for the most beautiful float were awarded to the City of Algoma entry which was pink and white with a huge vase of flowers as the center of attraction.

Second-place money went to the Romeo Peach Festival publicity float which featured a large red heart with white letters reading

Judged best in the most patriotic category was the Betsy Ross float with "Uncle Sam" pulling it on a tractor. It was the entry of the Utica office of the National Bank of Detroit.

SERVICE CLUB FLOAT
First place for service club floats went to the Mount Clemens Lions Club. Indians were dancing on front of a teepee to publicize the club's Pow-Wow Aug. 1.

In the best religious float category, the entry of Trinity Lutheran Church, Utica, was judged the most outstanding. It featured a large gold cross perched on a blue and gold world with the words "Christ Died for All" on the front.

An ox team pulling a hay wagon with children and other animals on it was picked the winner in the most comical float division. It was entered by Bob Elam, 24-Mile Road, Disco.

Picked as the best marching unit was a girls' precision drill team, the Tam-ettes from Roseville.

The parade ended at Waterworks Park in Auburn where Gov. Romney crowned Lady Desy, 18, queen of the three-day festival.

Parade judges were Richard Young and Betty Campbell, both of Birmingham, Dr. and Mrs. Wallace O'Brien of Rochester, Clarence (Bud) Smrcina of Mount Clemens and Glen Alsip of Fraser.

Other features of the Fourth of July program were games and races for children. Climax of the day's activities was a fireworks display at 10 p.m.

The rides and concessions will be open today and tomorrow at the park.

Troy School Study Unit Reports

TROY—The Troy School Study Committee, established last year to study problems that will come with school system expansion, has issued a progress report.

With the help of Wayne State University personnel, County Board of Education representatives, teachers and administrators, the curriculum and program subcommittee defined 29 areas that "offer opportunities for enriching the curriculum."

They include addition of an auto mechanics course at the high school and a long-range expansion of vocational education plus use of lay readers in the high school English program. Ability grouping at all levels, especially the junior high level, and physical education and interscholastic athletics at the junior high also were areas investigated.

Other points mentioned in the report are grade organization (8-4) (6-2-4) (6-3-3), a follow-up study of high school graduates and drop-outs and a comprehensive two-year American studies course as an alternative to all-male studies. "For the most part, the relationship between the history and government now of administration and the personnel in the Troy School System is functioning efficiently and in the best interest of educating the future," the report states.

In the same report, the enrollment and facilities subcommittee recommended "continuous study and appraisal of new data" regarding city growth and educational needs.

Recommendations for the future will be in the group's final report.

Troubled S. Viet Nam Gets New Ambassador

The Press enthusiastically applauds the appointment of HENRY CABOT LODGE JR. as ambassador to South Viet Nam.

This embattled area, with its great geographical and sociological significance, has been considered a key objective in the continuing Communist-democratic struggle for ideological control of Southeast Asia.

Although remote from America and pretty well shrouded from objective appraisal of its interwoven political and military trends, the country has been evaluated—as one to be held at all costs against Red subversion.

Unfortunately, the internal climate has not been conducive to effective achievement of American area-wide goals.

The rule of President Ngo DINH DIEM, though a militant opponent of communism, has nonetheless been marked by so much domestic tyranny and instability, aggravated by religious conflict, as to cause serious disaffection among the populace, with little interest in the long-range concept for national independence and betterment.

Under the circumstances, our new ambassador will find his work cut out for him.

But Lodge is eminently fitted for the exacting post to which he is assigned. The early training as newspaperman, his rugged military experience and qualities of finesse and tough-mindedness, evidenced as the U. S. chief delegate to United Nations, ideally equip him to deal with the secretive atmosphere and rough-and-tumble intrigue awaiting him in Saigon.

Our best wishes for the ambassador are complemented by the comforting conviction that his appointment is a shining but infrequent example of a governmental office seeking the man—and the right man chosen to fill it.

Business Astrologists See Healthy Economy

At midyear, the economic crystal ball holds all kinds of promise for the remaining six months of 1963.

The year that stumped the experts — this was to be a year of recession, remember? — is a lot more vigorous at the halfway point than most hoped — or that some can believe.

The stock market on average has regained most of the ground lost in 1962's first six months, while industrial production, corporate profits, retail sales, employment have all risen to new highs.

Booming auto sales have given the industry that rarity, a second straight big year. And household appliances have shaken off sales lethargy and are again moving well.

The Gross National Product (the total of all production and services) fooled the experts, too. Cautionously estimated at the beginning as a year of little economic growth, the figure is now running at an annual rate of $550 billion — up from $563.5 billion for last year.

Increased personal income, now at an annual rate of $468.2 billion, resulted in both greater spending and savings totals. But there was no rush to stock up in fear of more inflation, nor to retrench in fear of recession. Only flyspecks on the spherical prognosticator are the persistence of the rate of unemployment, just under 6 per cent, the continuing deficit in our international balance of payments accounts, and a jolt to our expectations, thanks to the intransigence of DE GAULLE, for a trade-widening pact between the United States and Europe.

As always, the one imponderable in the realm of economics is public attitude. The fortunes of business and personal well-being rise or fall largely on the tide of public confidence.

For the immediate future, optimism is high.

Year Was Busiest for Highest Court

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Former Justice Felix Frankfurter once said the Supreme Court is not a "dozing audience." The nine justices, not had time for dozing, were busier than ever this year.

A record 2,824 cases were laid in the court's lap for review in the 1962-63 term just ended. This was three times the yearly average before World War II and an increase of more than 1,000 cases over five years ago.

The court, as usual, rejected most of the petitions but gave majority opinions in 110. The previous term the figure was 85. Why the increase in the number of cases?

One reason is that so many more prisoners in state and federal penitentiaries have learned how to write petitions. Another is the population increase, meaning more cases handled in lower courts and, thus, more appeals.

At this point the law clerks' recent graduates of law schools, come into the picture. Each justice has two that stay a year, except Chief Justice Earl Warren, who has three, and Justice William O. Douglas, who always has one.

They are of the utmost importance in helping a justice to do his research.

Justices operate independently, each in a three-room suite of offices, but studies of the court show that over the years, because the problems are the same, the nine justices operate pretty much the same in a general way.

CLERICAL HELP
Since each of the 2,824 cases which reached the court this past term had to be examined individually by each justice — before he could say it did or didn't deserve consideration — the justices rely on their clerks for help.

The clerks examine each application and make a digest of it. The justices read the digests. In some cases they may be enough for a justice to make up his mind.

Otherwise, he reads both the digest and the case.

When the nine meet behind closed doors on Friday they discuss each application for review and vote to accept or reject. A vote of four, less than a majority, is enough to accept. This is only part of the job.

From Monday through Thursday for two weeks each month, the nine justices in open court listen to lawyers argue the cases they voted to accept. The other two weeks are for writing opinions and doing research.

Then in Friday conference the justices can discuss and reach a decision, although there may be variation in this, on the cases they had heard argued in the previous few days. This, however, is considered a tentative opinion.

After the decision is reached, one of the majority is assigned the task of writing the court's opinion. Any of the other justices may write a concurring or dissenting opinion to explain how and why he reached his position.

Only the majority decision has the effect of law.

Then the justices exchange their opinions, particularly the majority opinion. This allows them to criticize or suggest changes. Infrequently, after this exchange a justice may change his mind.

In addition, the justices give a number of lectures a year, frequently at law schools.

David Lawrence Asks:

U.S. Making Deal With Russia?

WASHINGTON — The American people don't always read the fine print in the contracts that their chosen representatives make with foreign governments.

Then, a few months later, the clarifying truth sometimes emerges.

Despite the denial last October that any "deal" was made by President Kennedy with the Soviet

Lawrence, who secured the withdrawal of Soviet missiles from Cuba, it turns out that the Moscow government at least construes it that way now, and announces that it intends to hold the American government to its promises — allegedly a recognition of the Communist-bloc countries, including East Germany, as a military alliance confronting NATO.

The chain of events has all the earmarks of a carefully planned maneuver in diplomacy. First, Premier Khrushchev made a speech at East Berlin on Tuesday of this week in which he said that a test-ban agreement by itself couldn't lessen the danger of a thermonuclear war, and then added:

"That is why the Soviet government believes that, already at the conclusion of a test-ban agreement, it is necessary to take another big step toward easing international tension and strengthening confidence between states: to sign a nonaggression pact between the two main military groups of states — the NATO countries and the Warsaw treaty states."

"A test-ban agreement, combined with the simultaneous signing of a nonaggression pact between the two groups of states, will create a fresh international climate more favorable for a solution of major problems of our time, including disarmament."

American officials were at first said to be "puzzled" by this linking of the two things — the test-ban treaty and the pact with the Communist-bloc countries, including the formal recognition thereby of the puppet regime of East Germany.

But it wasn't until First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan made a statement during a Fourth of July reception at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow that the Russian game was disclosed.

News dispatches from Moscow stressed that Mr. Mikoyan had demanded a "simultaneous" signing of the two agreements, and Deputy Premier Mikoyan pointed out that Mr. Kennedy, had, in effect, agreed to this concept in a letter which the President wrote to the Soviet premier last October during the Cuban missile crisis. It read as follows:

"I would like to say again that the United States is very much interested in reducing tensions and halting the arms race, and if your letter signifies that you are prepared to discuss a definite offering NATO and the Warsaw Pact, we are quite prepared to consider with our allies any useful proposals."

It could be, of course, that Mr.

Khrushchev is stating his highest price now — just before the big conference between East and West on the subject of a test ban opens on July 15 in Moscow — and that he will be willing to accept some variation of the whole plan later on.

But it is evident that he continues Mr. Kennedy's letter of Oct. 27, 1962, as a concession and that, if the "deal" isn't lived up to as he wants it — a recognition of the Soviet conquest of the countries of Eastern Europe — then perhaps there will be a slowing down, if not an abandonment, of the promised withdrawal of the 10,000 or more Soviet troops still stationed in Cuba.

All this could mean a choice between two evils — the continued defiance of the Monroe Doctrine, or American acceptance of an unreliable agreement to ban nuclear tests.

Maybe It Sets a Record for Missing Top Speeches

EN ROUTE HOME — Missed some speeches on the last sweltering day of the Kennedy trip. It may constitute a record of some sort.

It wasn't that I goofed. Showed up on time for each one, but something happened.

Take for example the Pope's little talk to the CONSIDINE White House correspondents in the Clementine Hall of his Pontifical Palace. He had just finished his unusual exchange with the President, in which he had said, in respect to the U. S. South, "We are ever mindful in our prayers of the efforts to ensure to all your citizens the equal benefits of citizenship."

Now he showed the President to the door, made a hard right, and entered the Clementine Hall, where the correspondents had been standing for two hours before an elevated throne at the end of the room.

The Pope came in at the other end of the room and stood on a little red-plush-covered platform. He was in dazzling white.

A great gold and jewel-studded crucifix hung from his neck. His eyes were extraordinarily dark and intense behind his thin-rimmed glasses.

He looked from face to face of the reporters who had come galloping down to that end of the brilliant room, and then opened his mouth.

The exact second he started to speak, the world's worst brass band, the Vatican Band, began to blare a farewell salute to President Kennedy in the courtyard below. It roared as loudly as if it were in the room. It produced more blats than the Indianapolis Speedway.

Only those reporters who had majored in lip-reading at their schools of journalism understood anything the pontiff said. The band simply blasted everything before it. I stood within eight or ten feet of the pontiff and didn't even know he was speaking English until he concluded, "and your families," and gave all who wanted it his blessing.

Next speech I missed was the best one President Kennedy delivered during his trip. I learned later when I read it.

It was his summation of what he had found in Europe, where he thinks "scavenger" communism is doomed to failure.

But the crowd standing in front of him at NATO headquarters was not let in on these jewels. The acoustics were utterly deplorable. Lots of children seemed to be crying, too.

Voice of the People:

Agrees It's High Time U.N. Compels Soviets to Pay Up

I agree completely with the editorial in The Press on the current refusal of Russia to pay her just share of the U.N. costs. It's high time this nation faced the matter squarely and insisted on immediate payment or drop the Soviets and their unfortunate satellites.

As a taxpayer I object to paying Russia's share of anything anywhere. The Soviets are international opportunists without honor and they take particular delight in making this country pay as much of their own costs as they can.

Let's quit being a sucker and let's quit right now.

Claims Gambling Going On in Parks

People keep writing about dogs and cats, but why don't they ever say anything about the park and playground facilities for children and their parents?

A family takes its children to the park and over the hill there is a gambling table. You call the police and they do nothing. Is gambling legal in Pontiac? The way men are doing it, you would think the parks were open houses for gamblers.

'Shouldn't Allow Bikes on Streets'

Why do bicycle riders use the city pavements with the speeding cars? Is there an ordinance that forbids them from using the sidewalks?

If there is, it should be rescinded as there are ten times — yes, fifty times — as many cars as there are pedestrians.

Wondering

'Violators of Ban Should Be Ticketed'

How come I observe the "no sprinkling" request of our city between 8 a.m. and 9 p.m. and yet I see a few of my neighbors and others in the next block sprinkling full blast all afternoon? If they aren't as public spirited as the rest of us, can't they be "given a ticket"?

Long Time Resident

'Not School's Job to Teach Religion'

Why such a fuss over the Supreme Court ruling? If people can't teach the children in the church and at home, what makes them believe the school can?

I don't think the court ruling is any worse than some past decisions forced upon the majority of people opposed to their views.

Not Worrying

'Negroes Not Freed With Emancipation'

President Lincoln proclaimed the Negroes free, but history will record that President Kennedy, 100 years later, actually freed them.

Praises Work Done on Recent Election

I would like to publicly thank Mrs. Mabel Childs and the Oakland County Clerk's office for the fine and excellent help given in recounting the ballots for trustees Loren Anderson and John Verhey.

The election workers for Waterford Township should also be complimented for their excellent help in the recent Township Biennial Election.

'Losing Candidate Should Be Veep'

Both the Democratic and Republican parties put up their best possible candidates for the office of President.

Hence, shouldn't we change present laws to make it possible for the losing candidate to assume the office of vice president, for the express purpose of creating a sort of watchdog committee of one, to assure maximum effort and efficiency on the part of the elected President, in the interest of all?

March Harmful

"Politics isn't geometry, and in a legislative fight the shortest distance between two points is not necessarily a straight line."

especially if that line is a line of march on Washington. Congress doesn't like to be bullied — and rightly so.

If Negro leaders persist in their announced plans to march 100,000 strong on the capital to demand affirmative action on the civil rights bills, they will be jeopardizing their own cause. Their strongest support is an aroused national conscience. But such a march would seem too plainly an appeal not to conscience but to fear. And when fear stalks in, conscience often flees.

One of the Negro leaders who met with President Kennedy claimed such a march is unstoppable; that not even they can prevent it, and that the best hope is to insure that responsible leaders remain in control. But if the nation's Negroes are in such a ferment that they can't be stopped from marching, then what — or who — can be sure of stopping them short of the fragile line between mass protest and mob violence?

The ugly part of this particular mass protest is its implication of uncontrollable violence if Congress doesn't deliver. This is the kind of threat that can make men of pride, which most Congressmen are, turn stubborn.

The civil rights bills merit urgent consideration, which they

Friendship

The Arab News and Views

President John F. Kennedy was urged by the American Friends of the Middle East (AFME) to avoid "any arrangement with a single nation which alters the United States policy of impartial friendship toward all nations in the Middle East."

The appeal came in the form of a resolution adopted in Washington by the directors of AFME, a private non-profit organization dedicated to promoting understanding and goodwill between the American people and the people of the Middle East.

Dr. Alford Carleton, chairman of AFME's board said that the resolution, a copy of which was sent to President Kennedy, was adopted in accordance with AFME's belief that American policy toward the Middle East must remain consistent.

The resolution commended President Kennedy for his recent affirmation that the United States government "has been and remains strongly opposed to the use of force or the threat of force in the Near East and would support appropriate United Nations measures to prevent or stop such aggression."

"In 1962, the governor of Minnesota lost his bid for re-election by 91 votes from a total of more than a million and a quarter. This comes to about one vote per precinct."

"In 1962, seven governorships were decided by five votes a precinct less, while three seats in the United States Senate were won by two votes or less, per precinct."

Air Conditioning Often Chilly

We are in the season when those who have air conditioners turn them on and when all of us find ourselves going in and out of air-conditioned stores, offices, restaurants and theaters. How will this affect you?

Some persons sleep better in a room that is air-conditioned while others, especially if they use a single-room unit, may prefer to get the room comfortably cool before retiring, and then turn off the machine.

In either case, a good night's sleep in hot weather will greatly improve your spirits.

In summer when the relative humidity is high, bringing air into the room from the outside and cooling it will increase the relative humidity and hence the chilling effect.

Many houses in areas near large bodies of water are kept comfortable throughout the summer by means of a dehumidifier in the basement. This requires that the windows be kept closed to exclude the warm, humid air.

TOO DRASTIC
When air conditioning was first introduced, there was a tendency to bring the indoor temperature down too drastically.

It is now recognized that people are more comfortable if the temperature is reduced to only 10 to 15 degrees below the outside official temperature (the official temperature is always taken in the shade), provided the humidity is also reduced.

This holds true even for the hottest days.

One of the chief problems in this regard, and one that is not likely to be solved, is that everyone has his own individual rate of metabolism.

What is comfortable for one person may be uncomfortable for another.

The person who has arthritis, for example, is likely to react with joint discomfort to even a slight chilling of the surrounding air.

On the other hand, air-conditioning is a great blessing to anyone who has heart disease. This is because, when the temperature approaches the normal body heat, the heart must work harder to circulate blood through the skin and thus cool it.

This added burden will be readily accepted by the normal heart, but will embarrass a heart that has been weakened by a coronary attack or a leaky valve.

HELPS ASTHMA

Air-conditioning is likewise a great help to persons with asthma or hay fever because it filters the offending pollens out of the air that is brought inside. This protection lasts, however, only as long as the victim remains in the room where the air is filtered.

Whether you are benefited or made worse by air-conditioning, you can be sure that some form of air-conditioning is here to stay. Every year its use is being extended to more and more facilities, both public and private.

It is wise, especially for women, to carry a light wrap even on the hottest days, and to wear it when going into an air-conditioned store or office where the difference in temperature is too great for comfort. This is especially important for those who must sit close to the cold-air intake fan.

Queen Elizabeth Snags Her Toe, Falls on Face

KENILWORTH, England (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II caught the toe of her shoe on the running board of her car Thursday and sprawled forward on the floor of the vehicle. She was not hurt.

The incident occurred at the annual Royal Agricultural Show as the queen was entering her car. Her husband, Prince Philip, quickly helped her to her feet and asked if she was injured.

"No, no, I'm all right," her majesty replied, a little flushed. The director of the show, Francis Pemberton, said later the queen "slipped like anyone can slip. She did not hurt herself in the slightest."

Chevrolet Sets Sales Record

Dodge Exceeds Mark for Nine-Month Period

DETROIT (UPI)—Chevrolet is still selling new cars like donuts.

General Manager S. E. Knudsen said the division scored its greatest six months sales in history with delivery of 1,384,252 cars and trucks through June 30.

Knudsen said the total — made up of 1,165,436 passenger cars and 218,816 trucks — exceeded by more than 40,000 units the division's previous half-year record set during the first six months of 1962.

Dodge General Manager Byron J. Nichols reported his dealers also were selling cars at a record-setting pace.

Dealers sold 30,548 cars in June to raise the model year total to 276,689. That is the highest for any Oct. 1 through June 30 period in Dodge history.

The Chrysler-Plymouth Division said its dealers delivered 44,236 new cars in June to bring the first half of 1963 to 283,991 units, greatest since 1960.

Cadillac Division said June deliveries totaled 12,229, the sixth successive new monthly sales mark for the division.

American Motors said it posted a new sales record in the first nine months of the 1963 model year with deliveries of 339,139 Ramblers, breaking the old mark of 333,789 sold in the like period a year ago.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—An AWOL chicken has turned up safe.

Sid (Beeswax) Moore, a rodeo specialist star performing at the New Mexico State Fair recently, reported that his chicken was missing.

The chicken involved wasn't any ordinary hen but one that participated in Moore's act.

The missing chick was found by a colleague in rodeo features, Chief White Cloud of archery fame, during a practice session on an Albuquerque bow-and-arrow range.

"I found your chicken," he told Sid. "She's in the back of my truck laying eggs."

"In our world we say of truth that it all depends on the point of view, of beauty that we don't know much about art... of goodness that we must each find our own values."

Their little fables are full of odd adventures and personal triumphs. They rival the yarns of an ancient mariner, the tales of Baron Munchausen, and the lies told at a convention of fishermen.

You wouldn't think it possible so many strange things could happen to so small a group of people on a single holiday in a civilized country. But one thing all these epics of derring-do have in common: the one who tells them emerges as a kind of hero.

Typical experiences you may hear in your own office today:

"I was just lying there reading back in five hours and 58 minutes."

"I was stuck in a 15-mile highway tie-up for seven hours," says the senior salesman. "Four women gave birth before they could get to a hospital. My wife and I helped one lady deliver triplets, and she's so grateful she's going every night next week. And guess what—she's the son of a wealthy lawyer."

OFFICE BOY

The lady office boy limps in with a bandaged ankle, and explains:

"Twisted it sliding into home plate with the winning run in the last of the ninth. Guess I'll be a little slow in distributing the mail for the next few weeks."

"When I looked through my binoculars I couldn't believe my eyes," remarks the office bird watcher. "There were two giant fluffy-crested purple egrets. The Audubon Society says there hasn't been any seen in this vicinity since 1877."

"My kid got his head stuck between two iron bars in the fence at the picnic grounds," boasts the efficiency expert. "The firemen we called didn't know what to do. Finally I poured a bottle of olive oil around the kid's ears, and pulled him out by myself, single-handed."

"I kept my foot to the floorboards all the way and made it 400 miles to my mother's home in six hours," says the sports car fan. "I jumped out, kissed Mom, ate a ham sandwich and drove

Continue Probe of Accident in Which 5 Died

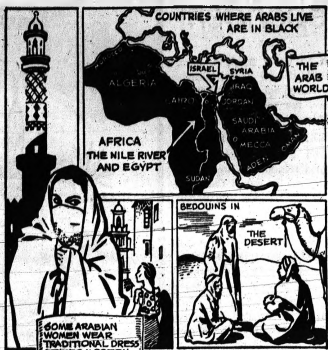

NEW YORK (AP) — Authorities today continued to investigate the puzzling events surrounding the case of Gareth Martinis, cleared Monday of charges arising from a traffic accident which killed five persons.

A three-judge panel deliberated only five minutes before finding Martinis, the son of Criminal Court Judge Joseph A. Martinis, innocent of drunken driving, reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

The acquittal created an unprecedented public uproar and the police department and the Bronx district attorney's office said they were deluged with phone calls, telegrams and letters protesting the verdict.

The police department said it immediately would institute an investigation of contradictory testimony given at the hearing by different members of the department.

Junior Editors Quiz on ARABS

QUESTION: Are the Arab tribes like our American Indians? Do they have their own country?

ANSWER: Much of the country of the Arabs is desert, where many live a nomadic, or wandering life, traveling by camels, sleeping in tents, moving with herds of goats and sheep in search of pasture and water.

This kind of existence has tended to keep them in tribes, each with a leader called a "sheik." Their history is a much more civilized one than the American Indian, however.

It is known that 1,000 years before Christ there were great civilizations in the Arabian Peninsula. Originally, an Arab meant one of the wandering desert people. But even before the time of Christ, some of these had pushed north and discovered more fertile land where great cities developed.

During the 600's and 700's A.D. the Arabs conquered the Middle East and northwest Africa. After 605 A. D. the religions of Islam helped unite the Arab peoples. But the Turks conquered them about 1000.

After World War I, Arab countries regained their independence. Attempts were made to unify Arabians by founding the Arab League; but Saudi Arabia, with a royalist regime, has remained at odds with the United Arab Republic, led by President Nasser of Egypt.

FOR YOU TO DO: Will the Arabs unite in one great nation as Mohammed had hoped, or will Saudi Arabia or Egypt come to dominate? These are important world questions. Watch your newspaper to see what is happening in the fascinating lands of the mysterious Middle East.

Two presidents, Thomas Jefferson and John Quincy Adams, were elected to that office by Congress, having failed to poll a majority of the states' electoral votes previously.

Holland Club Razed by Fire

HOLLAND (AP)—The exclusive Macatawa Bay Yacht Club, a popular retreat for area boatmen since 1930, was destroyed in a $150,000 fire early this morning.

Holland city and township firemen and the Coast Guard fought the blaze for four hours before bringing it under control.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined. No injuries were reported.

LIFELINE FOR MRS. PETERSON

Mrs. Garold Peterson of Kalamazoo will never forget that February day when her telephone line became, literally, her link with life. Here's how she described it in a letter to the Kalamazoo Gazette:

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in Bronson Hospital. On February 6 I had an internal hemorrhage and fainted in my home.

I was alone at the time. When I came to I managed to get to my telephone, but I was not able to sit up, so I lay on the floor and dialed the Operator. I seemed to drift off, but the Operator kept talking to me and she got help.

She stayed on the line with me the full time until my husband arrived from downtown. She also called a sheriff's car and the ambulance.

I don't know her name but I know she is a very wonderful and thoughtful person and I want very much to thank her.

Mrs. Garold Peterson

We hope you will never desperately need the help of an "unknown Operator." But isn't it good to know she's always there?

Mrs. Mary M. Lorenz

Mrs. Judy Letcia

Mrs. Mary M. Lorenz and Mrs. Judy Letcia have been identified as the Operators who worked together to aid Mrs. Peterson. Mrs. Lorenz and Mrs. Letcia are "always thankful" for a chance to help someone in need.

As Stalinization Is Relaxed

Satellites Getting Independent

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

As the Soviet Union and Red China have approached the showdown stage in their dispute over Nikita Khrushchev's policy of co-existence vs. the Chinese hard line, both have sent emissaries throughout the world, seeking support.

Khrushchev lost the support of Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam but won Outer Mongolia. Similarly, he won the support of Fidel Castro but lost the Communist party of Indonesia, largest, outside the Communist bloc.

With less to begin with, Red China seems to have made the great gains.

Most of the Asian Communist parties have lined up on her side and a majority of Communist parties throughout the world at least have Chinese factions.

So, it hardly could have been by accident that Khrushchev, when he decided to help East German strongman Walter Ulbricht observe his 70th birthday in East Berlin this week, also decided to invite along the leaders of Communist Poland, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria, and Czechoslovakia.

Perhaps significantly, Romanian President Gheorghe-Dej did not answer the summons, limiting himself instead to a message of congratulations to Ulbricht.

For Khrushchev, when he relaxed the harsh dictates of Stalinism, not only increased the enmity of the Red Chinese, he touched off an unexpected show of independence among the Soviet Union's East European satellites.

FAR FROM UNITED

With the exception of Albania, all support his de-Stalinization program. But other differences present a picture which is far from the united front sought by Khrushchev.

Romania, showing an unexpected economic vitality and an unexpected independence, recently thumbed its nose at the Soviet leader by sending an ambassador to Albania and signing an economic agreement with Red China.

The Romanians also have published excerpts of a hard-line Chinese letter which the Soviets themselves refused to publish.

Romania, preferring to develop her own economy, has all but withdrawn from the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance (COMECON), which began as a Communist answer to the U.S. Marshall Plan for Europe.

Under COMECON, it was the Soviet plan to allot to each of the satellites production assignments which would be coordinated with the Communist economy as a whole. The Romanians sought to persuade the Russians they should concentrate on oil and oil products and on food supplies.

But the Romanians, with products easily converted to hard cash on world markets, moved instead toward industrialization and worked out trade agreements around the world from India to Brazil.

WORKING WITH TITO

Even before re-establishment of good relations between Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union, Romania was working with Marshal Tito's regime to expand facilities on the Danube.

Poland has been another that has quarreled with COMECON plans and sought hard currency from the outside world instead.

Economic rivalries or differences have created ill-feelings between Czechoslovakia and most of its Communist neighbors. All resent the heavy burdens placed on them by Soviet programs of aid to under-developed nations.

There must be times when Khrushchev thinks President Kennedy's problems look easy.

State Gets Grants of $10 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Housing and Community Facilities administrations have announced loans totaling more than $10 million to six Michigan communities.

Four of the loans were for construction on low-rent homes. They included:

Benton Harbor, $1,354,043 for 100 homes, all for the elderly; Clinton Township, $1,530,444 for 100 homes, of which 54 will be for the elderly; Port Huron, $4,589,296 for 323 homes, of which 202 will be for the elderly; and Battle Creek, $1,330,920 for 159 low-rent homes, of which 50 will be for the elderly.

Renovation of dwellings built originally for defense workers will provide 62 of the homes planned by the Battle Creek City Housing Commission; 18 others will be purchased from the Federal Housing Administration; and the remaining 72 will be constructed.

The Community Facilities Administration grants under the Accelerated Public Works Program, the total cost of the projects in parenthesis, were as follows:

Au Gres, $71,250 ($95,000) to extend and improve the water system, and Cass City, $75,000 ($150,000) to extend and improve the water system.

S. Vietnamese Picket, Asks Removal of Diem

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of South Vietnamese picketed the White House yesterday demanding the removal of their president, Ngo Dinh Diem.

About a dozen persons participated in the demonstration and tried to deliver a letter to President Kennedy that asked the United States to disassociate itself with the alleged repression of Buddhists in South Viet Nam.

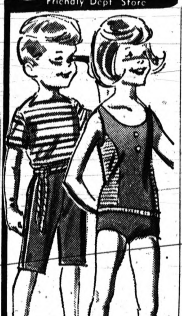

Water consumption by factories, farms and homes has increased by more than 12 per cent since 1956.

Computers Compose While Mortals Sleep

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—Electronic computers have a secret night life. While mortals are asleep, the computers are humming away writing letters, poems, music, and playing games such as checkers or solving chess problems.

They do these things by night because their time is scarce and expensive. Their daytime hours must be put to more practical uses. The latest British computer, Atlas, built by Ferranti and used by Manchester University, for instance, costs $2,000 an hour to hire.

Electronic computers can cope with an amazing range of mathematical problems. They can calculate the stresses on an aircraft's wings while it is still on the drawing board, solve economic problems such as the most economic way of distributing goods from a number of plants, calculate wages, produce life expectancy tables for insurance firms, analyze surveys and predict election results.

Why then, should computers be used to write music, poems, letters and play games in their spare time?

MOSTLY FUN
The late Prof. Alan M. Turing once said the principal motive was the sheer fun of the thing. But it could be justified if need be. For one thing, he said, the experts learn more about what the machines can do and how they can be made to do it while playing. It was a predecessor of Atlas at Manchester University that was taught how to write love letters. Appropriate words were fed into its memory by Christopher Strachey, now a leading computer consultant. He then showed the machine how to string the words together and left it to get on with the job.

One of its efforts:

Interlochen Pupils Perform at Confab

DETROIT (UPI)—More than 100 of the top performers of Interlochen gave a concert for the National Education Association here last night.

They played Rossini's "William Tell" overture and Don Gillis' "Alamo." Twenty-three members of the camp's ballet and modern dance groups performed Stravinsky's "The Firebird" and other numbers presented last summer at a White House performance.

The 36-year-old summer camp is located at Interlochen, near Traverse City. More than 1,400 high school students are studying various fields of the arts there.

Dream Comes True; Dreamer Gets a Fine

RICHMOND, England (UPI)—Harry Marshall was fined two pounds ($5.80) yesterday for doing what every bus rider dreams about.

A judge convicted Marshall of throwing a stone through the window of a bus that passed him up after he had waited 20 minutes at a stop.

affectionate enthusiasm. You are my loving adoration; my breathless adoration. My fellow feeling breathlessly hopes for your dear eagerness. My loveless adoration cherishes your avid ardor. Yours faithfully, M.U.C.

WRITES POEM

A German computer composed a Christmas poem:
"The snow is cold
And every peace is deep
And no Christmas tree is soft
Or every candle is white
Or a peace is cold
And not every candle is pure
And every peace is still—" and so on.

More recently the Stockholm Central Bureau of Statistics set a computer to work at night making up new surnames for people who want to change. It is part of government sponsored scheme to encourage surname diversification. The computer produced nearly a million new names in a night.

One man who has done much work in these special applications of computers is Dr. D. G. Prinz, now employed by Ferranti. Among other things he has put computers to work solving chess problems, composing and even playing music.

"By feeding the computer a program of numbers indicating pitch and duration it can play electronic tunes on its loudspeaker," said Dr. Prinz. "We often

SMART, COMFORTABLE—For downright comfort in the sun, at little or no cost, the chaise longue is an easy project for an amateur do-it-yourselfer. Wheels make it a cinch to move from one spot to another and the pad is standard size which is available in most department stores. To obtain the outdoor chaise pattern number 125, send 75 cents by coin, check or money order to Steve Elling, Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

Contoured Chaise Aids in Taking Life Easy

There seems to be a good deal of activity all over the country. Those who have lain in the sun all winter are shifting to spots where they can lay in the shade all summer.

Not a bad idea either.

Too many people, when they are confronted with an hour of leisure, get panicky. They jump in their car and hurry off in pursuit of some diversion. They want everything to be on-the-go, active and electric.

What the world needs is less action and more observation as we travel along. That's the purpose of the contoured chaise pictured here with NBC's television actress Eileen O'Neill.

TO ENJOY

If you want to enjoy a little traveling, here's what you do: Wheel the chaise under a shady tree in your back yard.

After you have made yourself comfortable, cool the engine with a tall cold drink. Now take a long drive among the fleecy clouds of a pleasant summer afternoon. You'll find it to be a trip that can't be beaten.

Anyone can have a chaise like this because anyone can build it when he uses the full size pattern. All you need do is to trace the pattern on wood, then saw out the parts and finally put them together.

The cost of the materials is slight. It uses a standard size outdoor furniture pad, available everywhere. The wheels make it easy to move and the back is adjustable for reading or dozing.

The pattern lists the required materials and easy-to-understand directions and illustrations.

To obtain the full-size easy-rest outdoor chaise pattern number 125, send 75 cents by coin, check or money order to: Steve Elling, Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

Leave Single Rosebud for Exhibition Bloom

If you want larger rose blooms for cutting or exhibition, it is necessary to remove all but one bud from a stem. In this way, the remaining bud will receive more nutrition and grow larger. Usually the bud at the top of the cane is selected, and the side buds are removed when they are very small.

400,000 Back Rose

The National Council of State Garden Clubs, 400,000 strong in 49 states, with 300,000 affiliates, has gone on record as wishing to make the rose the National Flower of the United States, according to Louise Ballard, Lake Junaluska, N.C., who is projects chairman of the women's garden group. A resolution, H.J. Res. 10, to make the rose our National Flower has been introduced in Congress by Congressman 1.I.Indley Beckworth.

'Silent Spring' Uproar Brings Confusion, Fear

The best-selling "Silent Spring" by Rachel Carson has caused anything but a "silent" reaction.

The book tells a fearful story of poisoning of wildlife by the misuse of chemical pesticides and describes the dire effects of careless mass spraying and dustings.

Although Miss Carson has stated "It is not my contention that chemical insecticides must never be used," and does not claim in her book that home garden use of pesticides cause vast destruction, her book has created widespread fear among many home gardeners regarding the use of insecticides.

CHEMIST'S ANSWER

To help clear up some of this confusion and fear, Frank Sweet, Director of Research for the Black Leaf Products Co., reported on the steps taken to bring the home gardener the safest, most effective chemical products possible.

Mr. Sweet stated "Concern about safety and protection of wildlife is not the result of 'Silent Spring' since chemical producers and governmental agencies have been vitally concerned for many, many years."

He pointed to Black Leaf 40 garden spray as a prime example of the care taken by his company in this regard.

The Black Leaf 40 formula has been developed so that it spares birds and beneficial predatory insects and pollinizers while effectively protecting precious plants against destructive sucking insects.

Fresh Flowers Can Spruce Up Barbecue Table

Cooking up some good ideas for your barbecue parties this summer? When you do—add a dash of fresh flowers from your garden and see how much more tasteful outdoor living can be.

There's no set recipe for arranging flowers and no special talent required. If you can pick flowers, you can make the arrangements shown here.

Fresh cut flowers will last longer if you put them in a pull of deep, warm water and flower preserver and set in a cool place for at least an hour (or overnight if possible).

And when it comes to arranging, use what the professionals use: foam flower holders, made especially for fresh flowers. They absorb water and hold stems just where you put them.

You can even make containers out of items not intended to hold flowers or water.

Blooms Cover Balsam

"Bushes filled with bloom" is a good description of the modern annual balsams. The fully double flowers look like miniature roses and are borne on the top of the plant (quite unlike the old-time balsams which had flowers underneath the leaves).

Don't Forget Back-Yard in Landscaping Plan

The modern trend among many homeowners is to emphasize the back-yard decor at the expense of the front area which, all too often, is left to shift for itself with perhaps only a trim planting of foundation material.

The increased use of decorative trees, shrubs and ornamentals for patio, outdoor living room and other features of gracious back-yard living is all in the good. But the home front "public area" where all who pass can enjoy the view and applaud the owner's good taste should share in this endeavor.

V. A. Hill, field representative of the Davey Tree Expert Co., points out that deciduous trees are still the foundation stones of good landscaping and generally needed to frame the house and soften sharp corners in front areas. And trees, of course, are still nature's best answer to man's shade problem and a main factor in "climate-control" plantings.

Deciduous trees are available in excellent variety. From an almost unlimited list of shade and ornamental trees, the homeowner can start with such old stand-bys as pin oak, sugar maple, Norway maple, dogwood, linden and Japanese flowering cherry. And if they are hardy to the region, such broad-leaved evergreens as rhododendrons, azaleas, holly and Japanese andromeda may be used dramatically.

It is worth remembering that major deciduous trees, if selected carefully and given reasonable care, will increase in value over the years and thereby enhance the value of the home estate. The selection of trees and smaller growth must be governed, of course, by space, location of the home, soil and climate. But even do-it-yourselfers with advanced ideas of their own will do well to consult the professional in making final decisions on plant materials to employ.

HANGING GARDEN — New adventure for flower lovers! A colorful decoration for porch or patio can be made with gourds. Cut openings in dried gourds, remove the seeds, insert a floral foam cylinder and flowers. Make small holes at the tops, string rope through these holes and hang them on a wall or from a rafter.

Nice Gift Is Plant in Clay Pot

The varied beauty of living plants in their natural red clay containers, or in one of the many interesting planters modern designers are creating in such attractive profusion, makes them increasingly popular "home starter" gifts for brides.

It's best to have your plant arrive soon after the newlyweds are established in their own household. In selecting your floral bridal gift, a few suggestions may help.

First, find out a bit about the plant itself. Your florist or garden center people can tell you whether it grows in the shade in its natural habitat and so needs only light in the new bride's home, or whether it grew in the open and prefers a sunny window.

In general, flowering plants like sun; foliage (green) plants prefer shade. Quality plants will be delivered or taken home in clay pots so that plant roots can breathe. Air entering the tiny pores in the clay pot walls aerates the soil. Without this life-giving air, roots easily become suffocated.

A clay pot, which duplicates natural growing conditions of the earth, also allows excess moisture to evaporate quickly.

Snipes Sail Into Lake Angelus Races

Lake Angelus residents have taken up racing. Last Sunday saw the first snipes in competition. Races are scheduled for each weekend during the summer.

Bob Basinger and Catherine Lake, both of Lake Angelus Shores, enjoy the lake breeze as their snipe glides swiftly over the water.

At the dock all hands help secure the boat. From the front are Mrs. Robert Helm, Freeport, Ill.; Mrs. Von Polhemus, Lake Angelus Road; Mrs. Helm's mother; and Nancy Hibbard, Lake Angelus Shores.

It's Proper Announces to Table Hop Chairmen at Reception

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I would like your opinion on the propriety of the bride and groom "table hopping" at the reception. My fiancé thinks it is proper and a friendly gesture on the part of the bride and groom to go around to each table after dinner to greet guests and have a few words with them and wants to do this at our reception.

Evidently this is customary at weddings in my fiancé's home town. I have never heard of this practice and it doesn't sound proper to me. I would like your opinion on this.

A: Going around to speak to the guests at each table is unusual, but it is a friendly gesture and if your fiancé would like to do this at your wedding, it would certainly not be improper.

Q: Please advise me as to the correct way to manage long sleeves at a cocktail party or at dinner in a restaurant. Should I slip the hand part of the glove off and tuck it under the wrist or remove the entire glove? A: At the dinner table, gloves should be removed entirely. At a cocktail party, while not incorrect to remove only the hand part of the glove and tuck it under to eat or drink, it does make an unattractive lump on your wrist and it is better to remove the entire glove.

Q: I would like to know if it would be proper to answer a formal wedding invitation on a Mr. and Mrs. visiting card by writing "Accept with pleasure for Saturday, the tenth of June" underneath the engraved name.

A: Replying in this way is correct only when the invitation itself is written on a visiting card. A formal invitation requires a formal acceptance or regret.

Details concerning the announcing and christening of a baby are described in the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "The New Baby." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Save Life by Medics' Technique

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Medical Association says many of the deaths from drowning each summer could be prevented if someone nearby had known how to apply artificial respiration.

The most important thing is to start immediately. Send a message for help, but don't wait for the ambulance because it will probably be too late.

Also, don't give up. There are cases on record of breathing starting again after a lapse of many minutes, when the rescuer kept steadily at work forcing air in and out of the lungs.

Most first aid experts favor the mouth-to-mouth method of artificial respiration.

The air passages should be cleared by drawing the tongue forward with your fingers. Place the victim's head on a towel and place your mouth over the victim's mouth.

Take a deep breath, place your mouth over the victim's mouth, and breathe into his lungs until you see his chest rise and feel the lungs expand.

In mouth-to-mouth breathing, pinch the victim's nostrils shut while breathing in to his lungs. Remove your mouth and let the victim exhale, applying slight hand pressure between the ribs and navel to expel all air.

Repeat the cycle 15 times a minute. Loosen the victim's clothing and keep him warm, but don't delay artificial respiration to do this.

After the victim revives, be ready to resume artificial respiration if breathing halts again. Don't give up unless you're positive the victim is dead.

It's the Law

Teens, Drink Don't Mix

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our son is 16 and very popular. We finished off our basement so he could entertain his friends there. We put in a TV, stereo and billiard table.

Last Saturday night he had six couples in for a party. We served sandwiches and soft drinks.

We have a rule—no beer or liquor.

The next morning, while cleaning up, I found several empty beer cans and an empty vodka bottle hidden behind the TV.

We questioned our son and three of his friends. One boy admitted to bringing the beer. A girl had brought the vodka from home. We told them it was against the law for minors to drink.

They tried to tell us it was okay if done in a private home. Please print this with your comments in case we need something more concrete to show them—how about the sidewalk?

DEAR MOTHER: It is against the law for minors to drink anywhere. And if you need something more concrete to show them—how about the sidewalk?

DEAR MOTHER: It is against the law for minors to drink anywhere. And if you need something more concrete to show them—how about the sidewalk?

DEAR ABBY: For years I have written all the letters to my husband's relatives. Yet I'm sure he would never write to mine even in an emergency.

And would you believe it, Abby, when we hear from his people all the letters are addressed to him and him alone?

When they close, as an afterthought, they add, "Oh, say hello to your wife." I once got angry and told him to write his own letters. So he got even with me by putting a five- or ten-dollar bill in all the letters, and he knows we can't afford it.

I've just about had it with my husband and his clan of ill-mannered in-laws. Tell me what to do and I'll do it.

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: You are over-reacting to your husband's selfishness. Ignore his needling and it will sting less.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is in his 60s, but sometimes he acts like a 2-year-old. Whenever we go to the big store to do our shopping, and get separated from each other, he hurls up the store manager and says his wife is "lost" and asks to have my name blasted all over the store on the loudspeaker.

Everyone snickers because they start looking around for a "lost" child—and it's me—a gray haired grandmother.

They probably think I'm not all there. How can I break my husband of this foolish habit?

DEAR GRAY: When you and your husband enter a store, agree on a meeting place (under the clock, or at the south door) and have an understanding that if you should become separated, you meet there.

DEAR ABBY: Would you please point out the difference between friendliness and familiarity?

Many of us strongly object to being called "Honey,"

"Darling," and "Dearest" by salespeople, waitresses and those who serve the public.

I know they mean it in friendliness, but I consider it undue familiarity. Let's reserve those terms of endearment for our families and friends. How about it, Sweetie?

DEAR GRACE: The syrup runs both ways, Doll. But it has been my observation that the "public" is more guilty of this type of familiarity than those who serve them.

DEAR ABBY: I had the girls over for bridge last evening. Two of them left together and the third one stayed a little longer.

My husband was sitting in the den reading the newspaper. When it came time for her to go, she said she wanted to call a taxi.

My husband said he would drive her home. She said absolutely not, she wanted to take a taxi.

I got to thinking, why wouldn't she let my husband drive her home? Should I worry?

SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: Yes—but not about your husband. What's bugging you?

Child Is Selfish in Asking for Favors

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My 10-year-old girl will not let her younger sister listen to her records of children's stories. She has a big collection of them which she listens to by herself in her own room. As the record player is in her room, we can't force her to let her sister enjoy it with her. But it is a cause of so much fighting that we were wondering if we should put it away for a while.

Answer: Why is your younger child so determined to listen to her sister's records of stories? How old is she? Can she read? If she is so fond of stories, why doesn't she go to the library, borrow a book of them and so satisfy her literary passion?

What I am saying, of course, is that I don't think she wants the stories, I think she wants to triumph over her sister. Myself, I don't think that parents can indulge such a wish. But this is exactly what you'd be doing if you remove that record player.

That you could even consider the idea of appropriating it to please your younger daughter suggests that you have often indulged the younger one at the older one's expense.

A child does not fight so determinedly for share in another one's property unless she is fairly certain of winning the fight. If her experience of us has taught her that we respect her sister's right to share or not to share her property, she too learns to respect that right. And instead of creating scenes when it is exercised, she goes off to find other forms of self-entertainment. But if we have been vague and sentimental about the moral beauty of kids "sharing" their belongings, our wobbliness will be exploited—and there'll be a row every time one child tries to withhold some property from the other one.

So it may be your own attitude toward "sharing" that requires clarification.

What has your younger child got to offer your older one in exchange for "sharing" her record stories?

We all want something in return for what we give other people. Even saints want God's grace in return for their piety. Your younger daughter seems to have offered her sister nothing but tattling and complaints in exchange for the privilege of listening to those records. That's a pretty uninteresting trade. Were I you, I would give her a hint on the reasonableness of coming up with a better offer.

No-Stick Food Wrap

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I am not mommy's willing helper very often but the other day, through an absent-minded goof, I found that if you put your transparent food wrap in the refrigerator its tendency to stick to itself is dissipated.

I also copy mommy's recipes on two-by-four cards and hang them on a noteboog ring. No more slaving to keep that card clean and readable. Just hang a cup hook on the bottom of the cupboard directly over the work space. This keeps the recipe you want in front of you, out of the way and the other cards are just flipped over.—KATHLEEN

DEAR POLLY — Put up a low clothesline and give the children panties, anklets and short garments to hang as you put laundry on the regular line. They will be delighted to help and will really save you time. — MRS. V.C.

DEAR POLLY — This is in answer to Mrs. J. K.'s request for help with hourglass curtains. I find that by tapering the curtains, top and bottom, from the center out to each end so that each end is about 1 1/2 inches longer, the curtains can be pulled in at the center without causing undue tension on the rods. — MRS. D. M.

DEAR POLLY — I find the following method is best for making hourglass curtains. Cut separate pieces for the top and bottom half of each curtain with a concave curve in the middle (or at one end of each piece) where they would be joined together. The center of the curve, plus seam allowances, would be the length of window or door and the outside edges would be longer. This permits a much tighter pull in the center and the center seam is hidden with the tieback.—MRS. C. J. W.

DEAR POLLY — Next time you are scaling a quantity of fruit for canning or freezing, try a wire bicycle basket. It is handy and large. — MRS. L.C.S.

Use Business Gauge to Split Car Expense

By MARY FEELEY

Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley: My husband and I have been invited to go on a trip west with another couple. We will be using their car and he will be doing most of the driving. How should expenses be divided?

Mrs. L.W.N., Dover, Del.
 Dear Mrs. N.: You might use the gauge many companies use for employees who operate their own private cars for company business, which is eight cents a mile. This is supposed to figure in depreciation, gas and oil and tires. This sum total, of course, you could divide evenly. Or you could simply split the cost of gas and oil, and you and your husband could assume some of the food costs for the four of you, in addition.

As long as your friend will be doing all or most of the driving, you will naturally want to acknowledge this in some fashion — perhaps by paying all the toll charges en route, or playing host on occasion for a special treat.

Have a good time. Pooling vacation expenses like this can take you a lot farther with more fun and less cost.

Dear Miss Feeley: My husband is leading a gasoline station. He went in with $6,000 and has built it up to at least $10,000, which he owns clear. He was doing okay, buying for cash on the line.

But then he bought a truck, radio equipment and other items on the "low payment" plan. Well, things have gotten out of hand.

What we'd like to know is where he could get some professional guidance in his money matters. Working from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily, he doesn't get a chance to read, so he needs someone who could advise him and maybe show him how to control his bills.

Can you tell us who we can see to talk this over with?

Mrs. J. P. McD., Chicago
 Dear Mrs. McD.: Why not ask your local banker if you and your husband can sit down with him and discuss your money troubles in detail. From what you tell me, I'd say your husband is capable and energetic.

Perhaps your banker can steer you over the present hurdles and get your husband back on his feet. He will advise you whether in this particular case, a loan to pay off all the various debts would be the right answer.

Dear Miss Feeley: Could you please help me with my problem before it creates hard feelings between my mother and me. Mother is coming to live with us and I would like to know how much she should contribute to expenses.

There will be three adults and four children, ages 5, 4, 2 and 1. Mom's net income per week is $61. My husband's net income per week is $94. The rent, phone and utilities per month are approximately $142. There is also a car payment of $50.

My husband has always handled the bills and household expense, but now that Mother is coming it was agreed upon by both of them that I should handle things. I just don't know where to start.

Mrs. M. O.C., Santa Clara, Calif.
 Dear Mrs. O.C.: I agree that it's wiser for you to handle the budget under the circumstances, as any discussion is sounder on a mother-and-daughter basis than on a ticklish "in-law" footing.

A good place to start figuring is at the beginning — which is actual expenses. Would $10 for food and $10 for living quarters cover the weekly cost of having your mother with you? From your letter, I cannot tell whether she is employed, or whether her income is from other sources.

If she's holding down a job, she would have specific expense to handle in addition to her room and board.

If she is not working outside the home, then some of the "payments" could be made in helping around the house — cooking, baby-sitting, shopping, etc.

However, I think it would be fair if you asked $20 a week opening the way for discussion of her own personal expenses. This will give her the opportunity to suggest a lower or higher figure, depending on the circumstances.

You might also consider any use she might make of the car, as this, too, should be figured in. There's no reason why you both can't arrive at a fair amount by simply working it out on paper. Be realistic at the start, and you'll avoid trouble later.

For Mary Feeley's budget suggestion booklet, send self-addressed and stamped long envelope to her in care of The Pontiac Press.

Candlelight Ceremony for Couple

A candlelight wedding ceremony, followed by reception, was performed recently in Drayton Plains United Presbyterian Church for Judith Kay Morris and Michael T. Klingensmith. Rev. Walter J. Teeslaasen Jr. officiated.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burl K. Morris, Warren Drive, the bride appeared in sequined white Chantilly lace over tulle. Nylon tulle sweepers formed a chapel sweep. Her illusion veil was held by a jeweled crown and she carried white roses with Stephanol.

Blue-tipped carnations complemented the blue child dresses for the bridegroom's sister, Yvonne Klingensmith, maid of honor, and Mrs. Bennie Pawley, who was bridesmaid.

The bridegroom, son of the Carlton G. Klingensmiths of Anders Street, had Lynn Vanschoick, Lake Angelus, for best man. Bennie Pawley and Gene Morris ushered with Paul Benman, Holy.

After a northern trip, the newlyweds will live in Drayton Plains.

But Many Want Budget Trimmed

Teens Back Tax Cut to Spur Economy

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Teen-agers who will soon be the citizens shouldering tax-paying burdens are taking a hard look at the nation's economic structure.

Right now, they're backing the plan President Kennedy has advocated to cut taxes.

Three-fifths of the 1,177 young people answering our latest nationwide opinion survey agree taxes are too high.

But at the same time the size of the national debt and amount of money the government is spending concerns them, as it does their naturally concerned elders.

TEENS' VIEW

Many agree with Kathy Richards, 18, of Weston, Conn., who goes along with the tax cut "if the budget is cut too."

She adds, "We are a country that collects a fantastic sum in revenue, yet we have a national debt that is unbelievable."

Other reasons given for lowering taxes are:

"Because they are not regulated to fit individual incomes," says Mary Pickford, 16, of Nashville, Tenn.

"Even though the economy is improving, it needs an extra boost," declares Ronald McCord, 14, of Silver Spring, Md.

"In order to stimulate the economy and increase employment," adds Leslie Friedman, 18, of University Heights, Ohio.

SOME JUST DISLIKE WASTE

Some of the young people seem to back the tax cut for "old fashioned" reasons.

Robert Duzan, 14, of Indianapolis, says, for example, "Too much money is being wasted on foreign aid."

And William Schmidt, 18, of Detroit, adds "If we are to have a vital economy, the government must stop spending so much money."

The 35 per cent minority opposing any tax cut also feel strongly about the economic riddle.

"Taxes should be left and the budget cut so there would be an excess to begin paying off the national debt," says

Ryan Dybbald, 15, of Wichita, Kan.

Larry Rabkin, 15, of Silver Spring, Md. adds that first of all existing tax laws should be reformed.

And Judith Sheffield, 18, of New Britain, Conn. feels "The present tax is not too high or low taxes is the way in which the taxes are spent."

SOME WOULD TAX MORE

"We need that extra money for our space program, foreign aid, etc.," declares Geary Samples, 13, of Fayetteville, Ark. in support of present tax rates.

Some teen-agers agree with Barbara Malone, 15, of Richmond, Calif., who fears that if taxes are cut the country's high standard of living will be hurt.

There are some hold-outs for even higher taxes.

Charles Ivory, 14, of Camden, N. J. asserts "Higher taxes are necessary for the development of our nation."

And Tom Hillman, 17, of Lyndon, Kan. says "We are so far in debt now that even an increase in taxes will not help much."

Pro or con the tax cut, these youngsters are becoming aware that the only sure things in life are "death and taxes."

Audience Must Identify

Empathy Key to Interest

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE 1455: Clark G., aged 20, is a journalism student.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I aspire to become a writer, preferably a novelist, though I may work as a newspaper reporter at first."

"So what are the main secrets of human interest? What attracts people most?"

HUMAN INTEREST SECRETS

The secret of human interest is wrapped up in your own epidermis—NOW!

In brief, people are most interested in what is inside their own skin and the present moment of time.

So aim at the focal point of your customer's main interest, namely, at his inner appetites at the present moment.

As an example of the very opposite, I recently heard a clergyman spend 35 minutes expounding on the Bible but he never got within 2,000 years of the present moment.

Thus, he ignored his audience, he ignored his audience, he ignored his audience, he ignored his audience.

When you have empathy, you are thus an identical twin, not just a cousin, so to speak, of the other person.

If you want your audience or readers to identify themselves with your hero, then you must let that hero become a mirror image of the reader.

To do this, employ what we call sensory words—instead of purely factual nouns and verbs.

Add enough adjectives to conjure up vivid color images and other sensory qualities that permit empathy.

For example, look at the sentence: "The boy is walking."

This is a factual statement, devoid of descriptive adjectives.

We need greater use of adjectives to produce empathy, for logic is cold, unfeeling and thus without human attributes.

So notice the progressive degrees of empathy generated by these:

"The boy is walking."

"The little boy is walking."

"The little immigrant boy is walking."

"The little immigrant boy is walking with tears in his eyes, carrying his dead puppy."

So send for my booklet "How to Write Salable Copy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Baby Food Simplifies Making of Prune Cake

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

If you are like some cooks who dislike cake making because frosting is an extra job, you'll be pleased with Mrs. Gerald Wright's Prune Cake.

Mrs. Wright, a veteran member of an extension group, has one teen-age daughter. She does some church work.

PRUNE CAKE

By Mrs. Gerald Wright

1 1/2 cups granulated sugar

1 cup salad oil

3 eggs

2 cups sifted flour

1 teaspoon nutmeg

1 teaspoon cinnamon

1 cup mashed cooked prunes (large jar baby prunes)

1/2 cup butter/milk

1/2 cup chopped nuts

1 teaspoon vanilla

1 teaspoon salt

Put sugar, oil and eggs into bowl and beat well.

Sift dry ingredients and add with prunes, butter-milk and vanilla. Stir in nuts.

Pour into greased 9x13-inch pan. Bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees.

Prepare topping and have ready as soon as cake comes from oven.

1 cup granulated sugar

1/2 cup buttermilk

1/2 teaspoon soda

1/2 cup butter or margarine

Bring to boiling point and boil for 5 minutes. Pour over hot cake and keep pouring until all liquid is absorbed.

This makes the cake glossy on top and moist inside. Keeps well.

Senate Group Hears Park Arguments

FRANKFORT (U)—Poison for some, meat for others and grist for a U. S. Senate Public Lands Subcommittee.

This was the picture remaining today of a Sleeping Bear Dunes national recreation area proposal which subcommittee Chairman Alan Bible, D-Mich., calls a controversy fed by misunderstanding.

Bible, three fellow senators and a congressman flew west today to inspect an Oregon dunes area after presiding over a public hearing here in vacation-weather.

The three-hour session yesterday drew some 1,800 persons to Frankfort High School.

BORE PLACARDS

Many bore placards protesting a bill by Sens. Philip A. Hart and Patrick V. McNamara, D-California led him to believe a Mich., calling for a park of 77,000 acres on the northwestern Lower Michigan lake shore line of Benzie and Leelanau counties.

Interior Secretary Stewart Udall has suggested a 92,000-acre park.

Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., of Traverse City sat at the subcommittee table as did Mrs. Charlotte Reid, R-Ill., who has a summer home nearby and is a member of the House Interior Committee.

Griffin sponsors a Sleeping Bear Park bill calling for nationalization of 37,000 acres without condemnation powers over private holdings.

Bible personally is hopeful of "obtaining a federal recreation area here." He said past experiences at Cape Cod and in California led him to believe a compromise could be effected. He hoped action on the proposal could be taken this year.

Opponents lead by the Sleeping Bear Citizens Council reject the park idea as a government invasion of property rights. They point to 31,600 acres of public lands already in the area exclusive of richly developed summer resorts.

Council Chairman Ove Jensen questioned predictions of an economic upswing by establishment of the park. Also, he said, "there is no justification for taking over 1,800 private homes."

Council attorney Kenneth Thompson of Traverse City charged that the Senate bill would violate basic property rights and challenged its financing proposals. He said funds must come through another bill not yet approved by Congress. It would involve park use fees and a federal levy on gasoline for pleasure boating.

Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, commenting on Thompson's testimony, noted that a Chicago real estate expert estimated government cost of acquiring Sleeping Bear Park lands at $100 million.

State Rep. Don Gordon, R-Traverse City, noted that the state legislature adopted a resolution March 27 which said that if there is to be a national recreation area here, it should be limited to some 30,000 acres and contain adequate safeguards for property owners.

The opponents presented five speakers.

Bernard M. Conboy, newly appointed director of the Michigan Department of Economic Expansion, offered his unit's help prior to presentation by 10 proponents of the park plan.

URGES EXPANSION

His department urged expanded winter use of the area to boost tourist industry revenues now pegged at $60 million a year in Michigan.

W. K. McNally, Jackson banker and holder of property within the proposed park boundaries, said resort operators should aim for a $1 billion annual return and asserted the park could help.

Don Parker, vice president of the Frankfort Chamber of Commerce, said a recent poll of 90 per cent of his city's businessmen who depend largely on summer trade, found all but 4 per cent in favor of a park. But he said few made public their position for fear of economic reprisals.

He said he could document at least two instances of such boycotts.

Still Searching for Lost Ship

MIAMI (UPI)—A host of Navy and Coast Guard planes intensified their search of the Caribbean early today for a ship missing three days with 55 persons aboard.

The ship, the 63-foot Sno' Boy left Kingston, Jamaica, early Tuesday for northwest Cay—a tiny island 80 miles to the southwest. It has not been heard from since.

Coast Guard officials here said they had no information as to the nationality of the passengers on the Sno' Boy, but the ship was believed to be of American registry.

The U. S. Naval Air Station at Guantanamo, Cuba, is coordinating the search with help from the Coast Guard. At least seven planes—two of them from the carrier Wasp and two from Coast Guard bases in Florida—are participating.

The search was confined to within 100 miles of the area of the island until late yesterday when it was branched out toward the Central American coast of Nicaragua "because they might have headed down that way."

Claims Cost for Cats Hits Total of $8,000

OLATHE, Kan. (UPI)—The Johnson County Probate Court had a matter before it today involving an $8,000 claim and 46 cats.

Mrs. Florence Baker asked the money from the estate of Mrs. Clara B. Murlin, who was the original owner of the felines. She sought payment for care of the cats since 1957.

Wild Dog Packs Attack People on Japanese Island

KASAKO, Japan (UPI)—Parents are escorting their children to and from school on Shirashiri Island off the Japanese coast because of roaming packs of wild dogs that have attacked people and livestock.

A 60-year-old farm wife is in serious condition after receiving 50 bites from three wild dogs that attacked her Wednesday. She was saved by a farmer who was passing by.

On nearby Kitaki Island, more than 80 wild dogs are at large. They have attacked farm animals and recently destroyed a flock of chickens.

Kasaka is in southern Honshu, largest of Japan's five major islands.

Hero of World War I Has Quiet Holiday

JAMESTOWN, Tenn. (UPI)—Ailing World War I hero Alvin C. York spent a quiet Independence Day at his farm home in the rugged Cumberland Mountains.

A number of visitors dropped by to wish the Medal of Honor winner good health, but York did not see most of them. He had some soft cereal about 9:30 a.m. and slept until past midnight.

York, who is credited with killing 28 German soldiers and capturing 132 others in the Argonne Forest of France on Oct. 8, 1918, has been ill for a number of years.

Second Place Disputed

'Fireball' Wins 400

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It's official that Glen (Fireball) Roberts of Daytona Beach won the Firecracker 400 and $12,000 in prize money. But Fred Lorenzen, who was second, is disputing the result. Lorenzen would be set back to third and Panch, of Daytona Beach, advanced to second.

It was an all-Ford finish as the three crossed the finish line separated by only one car length after a 400-mile ride.

But it wasn't all "in the family" as Lorenzen and Lorenzen are on a racing team. Panch is with a separate racing organization and the difference between $7,015 second money and $5,110 third prize is at stake.

AVERAGED 150.9 M.P.H. Roberts won with an average of 150.92 miles an hour.

Lorenzen and Roberts both passed Lorenzen passed before he got the caution flag after DeWayne (Tiny) Lund's car blew a tire and wrecked with 15 laps to go.

If not, Lorenzen would have been one lap behind when the green flag went out for the last nine laps. NASCAR rules permit drivers to close up on the leader with the same lap under a caution flag. "I'm conditioned to the rule but I'm not going to say I like the rule," Roberts said.

"Hey, I'm lucky," Roberts added. "The Fourth of July is my day."

This is his third victory in the Firecracker race — winning in 1959 and 1962 — both times at 250 miles. And before that, he won two July 4th races at Raleigh, N.C.

Lorenzen said he just didn't have the extra burst of speed in the final stretch because his car-burner gave trouble all the way after he had a brush with Troy Rutman of Dearborn, Mich., on the 32nd lap. Lorenzen's car scraped the wall and he had to make two extra pit stops for the three-mile course in order to qualify.

McKinley vs. Stolle for Wimbledon Title

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Little Chuck McKinley won America's first Wimbledon men's singles tennis championship in eight years today when he defeated Fred Stolle of Australia, 5-7, 6-1, 6-4.

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Chunky Chuck McKinley of St. Louis, faced Australian bank clerk Fred Stolle today for the Wimbledon men's singles championship with the size of a pro tennis offer riding on the outcome.

McKinley, 22-year-old math student at Trinity (Tex.) University, hoped to become the first native American to win the Wimbledon crown since Tony Trabert in 1955.

And one of the most interested observers of the center court match at the All-England Club will be Trabert himself, now president of the International Tennis Players Association. Trabert said he planned to discuss a pro contract with McKinley, win or lose.

But there was no denying that the prestige of a Wimbledon championship would greatly boost the pro price that McKinley could command.

First, however, McKinley had to face a dangerous, much-underrated opponent in Stolle, who is only the third unseeded player in the 77-year history of the Wimbledon tournament to gain the final round of men's singles.

Stolle is ranked only fifth in Australia, but made a strong impression in the United States last year and in Europe this spring.

Stolle beat McKinley twice on clay this year. McKinley beat him in straight sets in the U.S. Clay courts championships last year.

"I'm a much better player than I was when I lost in the finals two years ago," McKinley said.

The U.S. and Australia also will be pitted against each other in the finals of women's singles on Saturday when unseeded Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., faces top-seeded Margaret Smith of Australia.

MISS MOFFITT, 18-year-old life-guard's daughter, scored her first straight upset of a seeded player when she defeated third-seeded Ann Haydon-Jones of England, 6-4, 6-4, in the semifinals yesterday.

Miss Smith, who will be a heavy favorite, needed only 46 minutes to win her semifinal from fourth-seeded Darlene Hard of Los Angeles, the top-ranked U.S. player, 6-3, 6-3.

The bespectacled Miss Moffitt is only the second unseeded player to reach the women's final since World War II. Although the odds are against her, she thus has a chance to become the 15th U.S. winner of the Wimbledon women's crown in the 18 years since the war's end.

For the 27-year-old Miss Hard, yesterday's defeat probably meant the end of a dream. The California blonde had reached the finals here in 1957 and in 1959, only to lose both times, and she had said that this year's attempt would be her last.

"Fine Day for Swimming" LOS ALTOS, Calif. (AP) — Santa Clara Swim Club men's 400-meter freestyle relay team bettered the world mark in that event Thursday with a clocking of 3:39.9 at the AAU-sanctioned Million Dollar Water Show at Foothill Junior College.

The results moved the White Sox back into second, 4-4, Minnesota, beating the Twins in their home game into third, five games off the pace, and left fourth-place Boston at least twice, 4-3, in 14 innings and 7-5.

In other AL action—Washington swept its first doubleheader of the year, 2-1 and 3-7 over Kansas City, with John Wyatt balking across the winning run in the opener and walking it across in the second game; and Baltimore completed a three-game sweep of Los Angeles, trimming the Angels 7-4.

Ford, winning his ninth straight for a 13-3 record, struck out 12 and did not allow a runner past first base until the ninth inning, when Floyd Robinson homered.

The sixth and last White Sox hit, Elston Howard and Roger Maris homered for the Yanks, who crashed through for six runs in the eighth.

Nelle Fox' first homer of the season with a man on in the sixth was the big hit in Chicago's second game victory. Juno Pizarro, 10-4, was the winner with strong relief help from Hoyt Wilke, Greg Peters of the White Sox and Bill Stafford of the Yanks were the losing pitchers.

Gary Bell allowed just one hit in five innings of relief in the first game at Cleveland and became a winner when Kinecil held Kolden in the bottom of the 14th for a homer.

WINNING RECIPE — Tigers' manager Charlie Dressen found the bill of fare at Tiger Stadium quite to his liking yesterday. Not only did the Bengals win their first doubleheader this season, but the skipper had crabs flown in from New Orleans and he served his specialty, crab fingers and sauce, afterward. The amateur chef's offering was well received, since everything tastes better after a victory.

Aguirre Shines, Dressen Fetes on July 4th

Bengals Eye 8th Place as Athletics Move In to Tiger Stadium

DETROIT (AP)—These days excitement is a novelty at Tiger Stadium.

Almost anything will stir some up—a modest three-game winning streak, winning a doubleheader, beating a left hander, bringing back Frank Lary.

It was quite a Fourth of July for the Tigers and they topped it off with a holiday victory—feast set up by manager Charlie Dressen.

The Tigers just about belted the Minnesota Twins out of pennant contention yesterday with 5-3 and 3-1 victories before 17,444 fans.

At the same time the Tigers put themselves into good position to charge into eighth place this weekend. Perhaps this was the reason the Tigers were shooting fireworks off in the clubhouse.

They start a four-game series with the eighth-place Kansas City Athletics tonight just three games behind.

"We've got a little spirit now, a little more pep," beamed Dressen, who was brought in as manager to arouse the Tigers. "I think we're going a bit."

What Dressen liked most was Hank Aguirre's pitching. Aguirre held the Twins to six hits in the nightcap and gave the Tigers only their second route-going performance in 17 games.

The left hander's strong pitching followed Jim Bunning's victory over the Twins Wednesday. Soutch pitching, especially by the Tigers' two aces, had been one of Dressen's chief complaints.

The Twins' 84 games left, 14 under the 500 mark.

The holiday was marked by an upswing in the Tigers' hitting as well as the pitching. The Tigers collected 11 hits in the first game and 10 more in the nightcap.

RELIEF HELP They started early in both games and hung on. Phil Regan was the first-game winner, but he needed strong relief help from Tom Surdiant, Willie Smith and Terry Fox.

Dressen treated the players and writers to crabfingers, a delicacy he had flown in from the south, and his own special sauce.

The Tigers defeated Jim Kaat in the nightcap. It was their first victory over a southpaw since April 28 when they also beat Kaat. Detroit's record against left-handed pitching now is 3-17.

Rocky Colavito was the Tigers' big hitter, collecting two hits in each game. Norm Cash started them to victory in the first inning of the opener with a two-run single. Bubba Phillips and Regan after singled home runners.

Singles by Jake Wood, Phillips and George Thomas accounted for the scoring in the nightcap when the Tigers had all their runs by the third.

Dodgers Stop Music in National League

By The Associated Press

Stop the music! The Los Angeles Dodgers just pulled the rug out from under that game of musical chairs the contenders have been playing in the National League.

The band stopped playing Thursday night when rookie Ken McMullen cracked a grand slam home run that powered the first-place Dodgers to a 10-7 victory over second-place St. Louis and ballooned their lead to 2½ games over the Cardinals.

Now, riding a sweep of the three-game series with St. Louis, a four-game winning streak and the momentum that has catapulted them from 24 games behind to 2½ in front, the Dodgers have added strong odds to their lead-up in the struggle for the NL pennant.

Since the turn of the century, the team leading the pack on July 4 has gone on to win the pennant 39 of 62 times. However, as the Dodgers know, they led at this point last year. San Francisco played in the World Series.

The Chicago Cubs took over third place, by three games beating the New York Mets 2-1 and 3-0 behind Glen Theodore's pitching.

Milwaukee dropped to fourth place by beating the Giants 6-3.

DOWN, DOWN Houston showed Cincinnati into fifth place with 5-2 and 6-2 victories.

Parrell Jones, winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile race last Memorial Day, set a record of 14:17.4 in winning the stock car class. Al Miller of River, Calif., set a record in winning the sports car contest in 14:27.7.

Paul Kleinschmidt of Colorado Springs was second in the championship class in 13:12.5, followed by Wes Vanderwolf of Colorado Springs in 13:18.

Bobby Unser Wins Pikes Peak Climb

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., holds another record and his seventh victory in the championship class in the annual Pikes Peak hill climb.

Unser drove his car along the twisting 12.4 miles yesterday in 12:30.6 compared with his record time last year of 12:30.8.

Parrell Jones, winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile race last Memorial Day, set a record of 14:17.4 in winning the stock car class. Al Miller of River, Calif., set a record in winning the sports car contest in 14:27.7.

McMullen supplied the fireworks. Before the inning was over, eight runs had poured in and the Cardinals, who came into Los Angeles with a one-hit game lead, left the field with a five-game losing streak.

Jim Gilliam shared hitting honors with McMullen, driving in four runs with a single and double as Ed Roebuck picked up the victory in relief.

The Cubs won the opener in the ninth against Roger Craig, 2-1, as Ernie Banks reached second on an error, took third on a wild pitch and scored on a wild throw by catcher Norm Sherry. Craig has lost 11 straight. The Cubs scored all their second game runs in the first inning on a two-run homer by Billy Williams and Ron Santo's solo shot.

Lee Maye cracked a homer and a 3-1 tie in the seventh inning as the Braves went on to whip the Giants, who had pulled into a tie on a two-run homer by Willie McCovey, his 20th. Hank Aaron also homered for Milwaukee, No. 2.

TIGHT RELIEF Rusty Staub's two-run homer in a four-run fourth inning uprisings and Hal Woodcock's tight relief pitching got the job done for the Colts in the opener. Jim Campbell's grand slam homer in the eighth inning of the nightcap beat Joey Jay, 3-12.

The 11th Frame

Pontiac's Monroe Moore is among 120 professional bowlers who have directed their sights west to Chicago this weekend for the $22,400 Professional Bowlers' Association tournament in the Windy City.

Moore began the summer circuit strong with impressive showings in Baltimore and Warren, O., but his effectiveness has diminished in recent weeks.

The Pontiac sparemaker will be hoping Horace Greely's admonition for young men to "go west" and find success will have application for him. The PBA tour will continue westward the remainder of the summer.

One tour member who found his success East of the Mississippi, however, was a likeable Harry Smith. The veteran St. Louisan picked up considerable greenbacks while competing this side of the Mound City during the spring and early summer.

Latest of his accomplishments was the $3,000 he earned for his efforts last weekend in the PBA's Montreal, Can. stop. This boosted him into third place on the money winning list with a $22,193 total.

Bowling's Masters champion, also, signed his name to a five-year contract worth $100,000 for duties as instructor, clinical advisor and vice president in charge of promotion for the Johnny Unitas Colt Lanes around Baltimore.

Local fans of Chicagoan Carmen Salvino will be glad to know he has climbed to 18th place on the PBA money winning list—his highest spot this year. He has earned $7,757.

The association has announced, incidentally, that its national championships will be Nov. 12-17 in Nassau County, N. Y. The county's bowling proprietors association will sponsor the affair.

The PBA tour will also return next spring to Pontiac's 300 Bowl, although the official winter schedule has not been revealed yet.

The first 300 game reported this summer happened recently at Collier Lanes. Bill Smith of Oxford was the first time perfectionist in the house-run competition.

Not Even Maury Wills Can Claim This Feat!

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Outfielder Rex Johnston of Columbus made history of sorts here in the first game of Thursday's International League double-header with Atlanta.

He stole two bases on one play in the fifth inning. He was on first base and Orlando McFarlane on third. The two executed a double steal. Johnston was already in second when catcher Bill Lefebvre threw to shortstop Jerry Buchek. Buchek threw back to the plate, but McFarlane beat the throw and Johnston raced on to third.

Brooks Swings at .519 Mark

Felix Brooks has the hottest bat in the city Class A baseball league these days. The speedy outfielder of the league leading Clippers is hitting a whopping .519.

As the 'A' league heads into its second half of play, unofficial statistics compiled by the Press show Brooks with 15 hits in 29 official trips at the plate. He is also second in the runs-batted-in category with 12.

In nine games this season, Brooks has been held hitless only twice. One of those came last week when Huron-Airway's Don Sackett broke his five-game hitting streak.

During one stretch this season Brooks had seven straight hits and four RBI to help lead the Clippers to the top of the standings.

Besides Brooks, the pace setting Clippers also have three other's in the top ten hitters. Infielder Chuck Honchell is fifth at .384 average; Steve Haynes ranks seventh at .357; and Larry Douglas is eighth at .346.

Bob Gilmore, Talbot Lumber's versatile pitcher-catcher-infielder, is second in hitting with a .440 average. Gilmore also has eight RBIs, three doubles, and one home run to his credit this season.

Third is Local 594 second baseman Mel Taylor. He is the top RBI man in the league and sports a .440 batting average.

THREE HOMERS

Last year's most valuable player in Class A, Al Barkley, is fourth with a .433. The powerful Huron-Airway slugger is the league's leading home run hitter with three round trippers and is third in RBI with 10.

While Brooks has a commanding lead in the hitting department, a real battle is shaping up for the league's top pitching honors.

The current leader is Cranbrook's Larry Demrick, who has allowed only two earned runs in 23 innings of pitching for a 0.80 earned-run-average. Close on Demrick's heels are Bob Reader of the Clippers and Don Sackett of H.A.

Reader, a recent WTHS grad, has a 0.82 ERA based on two earned runs allowed in 17 innings. Sackett has given up three earned runs in 25 innings for a 0.84 ERA.

Demrick and Sackett are also waging a battle for the strikout leadership. Demrick has 38 whiffs, one more than the H.A. ace.

Fourth of July Big Day for Doc

By OSCAR FRALEY
MIAMI (UPI) — The Fourth was a big sports day and you couldn't have blamed the bed-ridden oldest if he had been lucky.

Team Selected for Contest With 'King'

A 15-man roster of veteran softball players has been selected to oppose the Original Four-Man Softball Team when it comes to Pontiac Wednesday.

"King" Eddie Feigner, the amazing pitcher, and his "court" of infielders Al Jackson and Jerry Jones, and catcher Mike R.

The city recreation department has announced Milt Morse will coach the Pontiac All Stars in the Winner Stadium contest.

He'll have Fats Keith and Jake Mazur for moundsmen and Skin Keith, Arnie Osta and Wes Roberts on the catching staff.

Infielders will include Ed Mullen, Tom Piersall, Russ Hester, Jerry Hesse, Earl Montrose and Terry Sawchuk (without the mask). In the outfield will be Liney Grant, Chuck Oertel, Vern Keebaugh and Lewis Seay.

The VFW Post 1370-sponsored clinic will begin at 8 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Feigner and his mates have won more than 2,500 games while losing less than 150 and tying less than 50 in 16 seasons. He has fanned more than 45,000 batters "asked" by a fast ball that has been clocked at 104 miles per hour.

He has a multitude of deliveries, and usually hurls one in, blindfolded.

TOW BAR TOSS
Stopping on water skis is easy. All you have to do is get rid of the motive power... pull away the tow bar and you'll come to a gentle halt—much quicker and smoother than you will from a comparable speed in an automobile.

If the stop is intentional, toss away the bar and sit down. If you want to make a landing and are near the shore, just shut off the power by releasing the bar.

DEPTH
If you gauge it right you will reach standing-up depth water before you sink.

When you feel yourself beginning to fall and are faced with an involuntary stop, get rid of the tow bar at once.

If the boat is going fast enough it will pull the line forward so there is no danger of your becoming entangled. If not, toss the bar.

Starting, stopping and crossing wakes should keep you busy just as long as it takes to master them. In the process, you are almost certain to fall.

Learning how to fall is important and a phase of water skiing you should master until any needless fear is overcome.

Mantle Set for Return
NEW YORK (UPI) — Mickey Mantle now believes he will be able to rejoin the New York Yankees in Los Angeles on July 11.

Mantle, who has been out of action with a broken foot since he crashed into an outfield fence in Baltimore June 5, phoned the Yankees yesterday that he expects to be able to keep the predicted July 11 return date.

The star centerfielder will not be able to play for several days after he comes back to the team and the Yankees said he will be restored to the active list as soon as he is ready.

On that frenzied Fourth, Kearns was a dapper, bustling 36-year-old who would spit in a tiger's eye.

On this Fourth he plucked at his bedcovers as he lay there in the solitude of his bedroom with arms so thin that they looked like broomsticks, his right arm encased in a cast to hold the wrist broken in a fall when he tried to leave his bed, and fretted over the inactivity despite the fact that next month he will be 44.

For this is a man who still would spit in a tiger's eye. Who else but the Doc would be making plans for the future at a time like this?

"I got to get up out of here and get out to Vegas for the Sonny Liston — Floyd Patterson fight," he said. "They need the Doc out there to get things hummin'."

Then I've got a couple of other deals cookin', and don't be surprised if my new fighter, Jefferson Davis, isn't there tight for the title by this time next year."

The golden hour — July 4 — and you'd think that the man who fostered the million dollar gate would be content by this time to stay with the memories and leave

Kennedy Wants Funds for Bigger Peace Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has asked Congress to appropriate $108 million for an expanded Peace Corps. The bill he sent to Congress Thursday would provide funds to enable the corps to place some 13,000 volunteers in training or abroad by September 1969 — a 4,000 increase over the number expected to be enrolled by the end of this year.

Of the additional corpsmen, 3,000 would go into service in Latin America and 1,000 in Africa, areas where Kennedy said "an historic opportunity is at hand for the United States."

Writer, 70, Begins Lone Raft Voyage

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Writer-lecturer William Willis set a 11-day raft Thursday on a solitary 12,000-mile Pacific voyage. He is trying to prove that older Americans are rugged and need not retire at 65. Willis is 70.

Willis, of New York, expects to reach Sydney, Australia, in four or five months aboard the Age Unlimited, a 22-by-26-foot steel pontoon raft powered only by sails.

He took along two cats but said "It will be lonely."

Man Succumbs While Leaving Crashed Car

John Lee Killoran, 62, of 183 N. Barkshire, died of an apparent heart attack yesterday afternoon after getting out of his car after crashing into a median guard rail on I-75 in Pontiac Township.

Sheriff's deputies found Killoran lying on the shoulder of the road when they arrived at the scene, one half mile west of I-75, about 4:30 p.m. Witnesses said he had slumped to the roadside dazed before slumping to the ground.

MISSING SHIP

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The ship Sno' Boy, missing with 55 persons aboard on a voyage from Jamaica to the Bahamas, has been found safe south of Kingston, the Navy reported today.

A Navy spokesman said that the 63-foot vessel, missing for three days, radiated its position to Atlantic fleet headquarters in Norfolk, Va.

The spokesman said that the ship apparently had been held up because of bad weather and the crew had no problems. (See earlier story, Page 18.)

Gas Furnes Create an Emergency

WOBURN, Mass. (UPI)—Cooking gas furnes filled thousands of homes in this city today when a faulty regulator increased gas pressure. The mayor declared a state of emergency.

Police said they received "several thousand" telephone calls from frightened householders. Fire apparatus rushed to the scene, searching for gas leaks through the city checking out reports of gas-filled homes.

One woman was overcome by gas and taken to a hospital for treatment.

Mayor John F. Gilgun, in declaring a state of emergency, summoned all off-duty policemen and firemen back to their posts. Civil defense workers were pressed into service.

Police broadcast a warning to householders to shut off gas burners as well as turn off gas stoves to prevent an explosion.

Gas company employees from throughout eastern Massachusetts were sent into the area after more than 100 complaints were received within 30 minutes by the Mystic Gas Co.

The gas is manufactured in nearby Malden and piped into this city of 35,000 where the regulator is situated. The regulator was repaired in 1 1/2 hours but fumes lingered over the city.

Woburn is situated 12 miles north of Boston.

Stronger Wording Bounced

NEA Okays 'Softened' Rights Motion

BY GARY THORNE

A softer version of a previously strong civil rights resolution was okayed yesterday by the nation's teachers at the 101st annual convention of the National Education Association in Detroit.

The NEA passed a motion to set up consulting committees to help end racial discrimination in its local affiliates.

In 11 states, separate NEA organizations are maintained for white and Negro members. The resolution urges the removal of these groups.

The committees will advise affiliates in ending the system of dual organizations.

Efforts of some delegates to strengthen the language of the civil rights motion were defeated. Nevertheless, it was the first official step by the powerful 800,000-member NEA to end racial discrimination in its ranks.

AMENDMENTS

The convention ends today. It was indicated that the civil rights stand might still be strengthened. Several delegates said they would propose amendments.

William G. Carr, NEA executive director, praised civil rights motion which had been introduced by the board of directors.

"Not only is the association urging affiliates to speed the end of discrimination in professional associations, but it is suggesting a method of bringing this about," Carr said.

He added: "Never before has the association gone on record with this explicit urging of its affiliates to get on with the removal of racial barriers."

A related issue also was brought to the NEA delegates assembly yesterday. A Virginia teacher proposed that a study be made in Prince Edward County, Va., of what happens to a community when schools are closed.

Charge U.S. Took Part in Saigon Revolt

SAIGON, Viet Nam (U.P.) — Government prosecutors said today they had proof that foreigners—presumably Americans—were involved in an abortive rebellion against President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1960.

The statement came at the opening of a military trial for 19 officers and enlisted men of the South Vietnamese Army who admitted leading the rebellion on Nov. 11, 1960.

All 19 have been in prison since then. They face possible death sentences on treason charges.

Most of the defendants were officers of five rebel paratroop battalions that seized Saigon, surrounded the Presidential Palace and demanded concessions from Diem.

The revolt collapsed in two days as loyal units from the provinces swiftly mopped up rebel units.

The prosecutors brought their charge of foreign involvement before the three-man military tribunal without giving details.

French Farmers Plan Meeting to Protest Prices

PARIS (UPI) — Farmer representatives planned to meet in Avignon today to coordinate protests against falling prices and imports of fruits and vegetables into France.

Riot police moved into southern France to prevent a repetition of violence that broke out in scattered localities yesterday.

In Meyrargues, 27 persons were arrested following a scuffle between demonstrators and national police. Six were released later.

A group of farmers in Mar-seilles, France's third largest city, staged a march to the protest conditions.

Between Coustellet and Cad-enet, 350 tractors and other farm vehicles blocked traffic for hours.

Last Wednesday the government promised to halt imports of farm products. But the pledge failed to stem the wave of demonstrations.

Montana is three times as large as the state of New York. It is equal to the combined area of the United Kingdom, Belgium and Holland.

Denies Claim JFK Unhappy With Mac Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has denied a British newspaper report that President Kennedy found his recent meeting with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan one of the "low spots" of his European trip.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger yesterday sharply refuted the article and said Kennedy found the meeting with Macmillan "most useful and most satisfactory."

A report by London Daily Express correspondent Rene MacColl quoted American sources as saying Kennedy was "disappointed" with the Birch Grove meeting and that the encounter was one of the "low spots" of his 18-day European trip.

Asked to comment, Salinger said: "The views of the Express and Mr. MacColl are well-known and frequently stated. As someone who has spent time in journalism, I have sympathy with trying to state the problem over and over. But I think he'd try other means than quoting mythical American sources to make his point."

Britisher Mourns Loss of American Colonies

RICHMOND, England (UPI) — British businessman Let's ter Phipps flew his Union Jack at half staff yesterday in a reverse salute to the American Independence Day.

"July the Fourth is a day of mourning," Phipps said. "Mourning for all those years ago when we lost the colonies."

Clergymen Arrested

Negroes Protest on 4th

From Our News Wires
Negroes by the thousands yesterday staged antisegregation demonstrations and rallies in at least eight cities from New York to California.

Arrests were made in three of the cities, Baltimore, Md., Hempstead, N.Y., and Chapel Hill, N.C.

At Baltimore, the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, chief executive officer of the United Presbyterian Church, and other Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen were arrested when they attempted to integrate an amusement park near Baltimore in a massive Independence Day demonstration.

A biracial group of 45 pickets was removed bodily from a road at Hempstead, N.Y., when it attempted to block traffic to Jones Beach in a protest against alleged discriminatory hiring practices at the state park beach.

450 MARCH
Around 450 persons marched through Chapel Hill, home of the University of North Carolina, to city hall where they sang "freedom songs." Police arrested three persons.

In other racial news:
● In Chicago, an angry Negro church leader was jeered from the speaker's platform at a Fourth of July rally which gathered an estimated 20,000 persons on Chicago's downtown lakefront.

Daley, boss of the Democratic party in Illinois, led a 3½-mile "Freedom March" through the downtown area sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

● In San Diego, Calif., a singing crowd of about 250 persons, mostly Negroes, marched through downtown San Diego, Calif., and lifted today in the racially troubled city.

● In Philadelphia, Vice President Lyndon Johnson said yesterday the Declaration of Independence must apply to every citizen. The document's meaning to racial problems.

● In Cambridge, Md., limited needs no further interpretation martial law enforced by national guardsmen was scheduled to be initiated.

Kennedys Have Frenzied Fourth

Matters of Urgency Involve 3 Generations

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy planned to relax today along the Cape Cod shore after a frenzied Fourth of July for the Kennedy family.

Three generations of Kennedys were involved Thursday in such matters of urgency as a potential national railroad strike, a birth, an operation, and the President's reunion with his wife and two children after a 10-day trip to Europe.

Today, Kennedy looked forward to nothing more strenuous than routine conferences with some of his staff and an afternoon cruise on Nantucket Sound.

The vacation lasts only until Monday when Kennedy flies back to Washington. But it does provide his longest respite in weeks from wrestling with racial and other domestic issues and from the strain of his visits to Germany, Ireland, England and Italy.

BARELY MADE IT

The President hadn't seen his family since he flew to Europe June 22. And he barely made it here to greet them at the end of the holiday. He conferred at the White House with Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz on the rail strike threatened for midnight Wednesday, then boarded the presidential jet and took off for the cape.

About the same time, Mr. Gen. and Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy were flying by helicopter from Hyannis Port to Boston, where she gave birth Thursday night to a 6-pound 16-ounce boy. He is their fifth son. They also have three girls. The baby is the second of the children born on July 4. The other is the oldest, Kathleen, 12.

For the patriarch of the Kennedys, former ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, it was the 21st grandchild.

falling in the area in scattered showers tomorrow night or Sunday, and again about Wednesday.

Morning northeasterly winds at 10 miles per hour will become light and variable tonight.

The low recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 58. The mercury had climbed to 83 at 1 p.m.

For Showdown Talks

Chinese in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—A Communist Chinese delegation arrived in Moscow today for a showdown battle with Premier Khrushchev over control of world communism.

The outcome could determine the future of hundreds of millions of persons for years to come. The Kremlin conference was the most dramatic peak in communism's quarrels, far overshadowing the 1948 split between Stalin and President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Despite a last-minute exchange of angry charges, the Kremlin sent the head of its delegation to the airport to meet the Chinese. He is Mikhail Suslov, member of the powerful party Politburo. With him was a large delegation of party officials.

The Chinese delegation was led by the Chinese Central Committee general secretary, Teng Hsiao-ping.

half-hour late aboard a big Soviet TU104 jet airliner.

Also on hand were nearly 200 Chinese residents of Moscow, headed by the smiling Chinese ambassador, Pan Tzu-li.

The Chinese swarmed to the plane as it taxied up to the tarmac—children bearing bouquets of flowers leading the way. The Chinese were armed with instructions to stand firm.

Charges and countercharges of lying, meddling and all-around bad faith apparently doomed the talks before they began, but none of this was evident at the airport.

At stake was Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung's demand that Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence be jettisoned for an all-out struggle—including war if necessary—to bury capitalism. The Russians claim this is a policy of suicide.

Rage to the quarrel is the dispute over who—Khrushchev or Mao—should have the right to interpret the rules for communism laid down by Vladimir I. Lenin, founder of the Soviet state.

The Russians and Chinese displayed none of the bitterness that has characterized the heated propaganda blasts between their two capitals in the past few days.

Members of both sides smiled broadly as they shook hands.

Suslov, a stout, scholarly type, displayed a wide grin that ap-

Wirtz Outlines Federal Steps on Rail Dispute

Union, Management Have Not Budged From Old Positions

From Our News Wires
WASHINGTON — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz met today with both sides in the railroad dispute to outline steps the government might take if an agreement is not reached by midnight Wednesday in the strike-threatening situation.

But as they went into the meeting, spokesmen for both the railroads and the unions indicated they had not budged from their long-held positions.

J. E. Wolfe, chief negotiator for the railroads, said the carriers still plan to put into effect work rule changes after the deadline for the current talks ends at midnight Wednesday.

One of the union negotiators reiterated that the five railroad brotherhoods would strike if the companies put the work rule changes into effect.

Both Wirtz and the rail unions scheduled news conferences immediately after today's joint session.

Wirtz, calling the situation deadly serious, held an Independence Day conference at the White House with President Kennedy on the threat of a nationwide rail tieup. He said they discussed specific possibilities, presumably ranging from voluntary arbitration to congressional legislation.

There is "going to have to be something from one or both parties" before a settlement can be reached, Wirtz said.

"It's got to be stopping if there is any way of stopping it."

A strike would affect virtually all U.S. railroads and could idle up to 700,000 workers.

The dispute centers around the announced intention of the railroads to institute new work rules, doing away with thousands of jobs which they say are not necessary. They call such jobs "featherbedding."

BLAST VICTIM — Jerry LaMar, one of three youths injured when a "tube-like object" exploded Wednesday, is in fair condition today at St. Joseph Hospital.

Police Still Seek Clues to Mystery-Tube Blast

Pontiac police are still seeking clues to identify the "tube-like object" that exploded and seriously injured two boys Wednesday.

So far, efforts to find fragments of the object that caused one boy to lose an eye and seriously burned his companion near Lincoln Junior High School have been fruitless.

Jerry LaMar, 13, of 68 Putnam, who lost the use of his right eye and suffered second-degree burns of hands and face, and Charles Bright, 14, who had third-degree facial burns, both are listed in fair condition by the hospital.

The boys told police they found the explosive container about 2:30 p.m. They poured a silvery powder out of it and lit the powder causing the explosion.

Water Ban in Pontiac Continues on Sunday

City officials today said that the current 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. sprinkling ban will be in effect Sunday as Pontiac's water shortage continues serious.

Gordon Matthews, assistant water superintendent, emphasized that at this point the cooperation of residents is more important than the weather.

"If citizens do not conserve their use of water, we could have a repeat of last Monday night's episode when the Baldwin Avenue tank went dry," he said.

"It wouldn't have to be a hot muggy day. With five wells out of service and the water table so low, it could happen on a relatively pleasant day like yesterday."

Matthews said that the Baldwin tank was full this morning and the city's observation well showed a slight improvement in the level of the water table.

He pointed out, however, that "this is not a result of the cooler weather. It's due to industry shutting down for the July 4 holiday."

Fire Chief James R. White offered an example of just how grave the water shortage is.

He recalled the Oakland Theater fire, which occurred in October 1950 when the water table was much higher, water demand was lower and there were more wells in service.

"The amount of water we used was so great that had we hooked up one more pump, the drop in pressure could have caused thousands of dollars of damage to plumbing throughout the downtown area."

Damage to plumbing is secondary now. Firemen are more concerned about whether there would be enough water to fight a fire.

Goldwater, the leading conservative spokesman for Republicans, sat out the festivities on a Palomino horse in Prescott, Ariz., where, dressed in Levis, an old blue shirt and a grey cowboy hat, he led the town's annual Frontier Day program.

But speakers at the rally here, marked by much of the hoopla and fanfare of a national nominating convention, were confident the message would get through to him.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., the best speaker of the night, said Goldwater has unmatched grass roots support for the presidency. And to the whooping and hollering of the crowd, Tower added:

"If the people demonstrate they want him, I am sure he will answer the call."

So far Goldwater hasn't committed himself to running for anything but another term in the Senate.

A Goldwater sweep of the south figured prominently in speakers' election calculations. A map flashed on a screen over the rostrum gave Goldwater 301 electoral votes to 197 for President Kennedy, with 40 in the doubtful column. It takes 270 to win.

Park authorities were forced to close the gates as early as 9:30 a.m. at Holly, Highland and Pontiac Lake recreation areas.

Dodge State Park No. 4 began turning people away at 10:30 a.m. Traffic was backed up from the gate as far as the Orchard Lake-Telegraph intersection two miles away.

Six miles of two-lane, bumper-to-bumper traffic inched along the 196 expressway as an estimated 50,000 people poured into Kensington Metropolitan Park. Many were forced to turn back for lack of parking space.

Conservation officers counted 15,000 people on the beach and in adjacent picnic areas at popular Dodge Park where crowds rarely exceed 15,000 on busiest weekends.

Park gates were reopened from time to time late in the afternoon when some picnickers and leathers left.

Surprisingly few mishaps were recorded. A woman was slightly injured by a firecracker at Dodge Park.

Thousands Of Others Were Turned Away Yesterday At Parks Such As Dodge Park 4 (Above)

Start to Raise Money for Utah Teachers

DETROIT (AP)—A "war chest" fund for Utah teachers who are boycotting the public schools there had a $5,000 kickoff today with predictions it would pass the $1 million mark.

Classroom teachers from across the country, attending the annual convention of the National Education Association, chipped in with $1, $5 and $10 bills in support of the Utah teachers who may be without jobs when school opens this fall.

The Utah teachers have said they will not return to the classroom until their demands for more state aid to education are met. Gov. George D. Clyde of Utah has refused to call a special session of the Utah Legislature and the teacher-state government dispute is in a complete deadlock.

The emergency fund is being raised by the 800,000 members of the department of classroom teachers, the largest and most influential group within the National Education Association. It was started at the department's annual banquet Thursday night.

Liz-Burton Escapade Doesn't Hurt Box Office

DETROIT (UPI)—Apparently the off-screen escapades of actress Elizabeth Taylor and actor Richard Burton aren't hurting gate receipts to their film "Cleopatra."

The movie grossed $35,670 in its first week of operation at the Detroit United Artists Theater. Dillon Krepp, manager of the theater, said this is a first-week record for Detroit.

Claim School Nest for Spies

Lebanon Papers Hit England's Facility

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Stirred up by the unmasking of missing British journalist H. A. A. Philby as a Soviet spy, Lebanese newspapers attacked the British government's Arabic language school today as a spy center.

"Here is the beehive of British espionage in the Middle East," a newspaper headlined. Another asked Lebanese Interior Minister Kamal Jumblatt to produce documents he claims to have proving the school is an intelligence center.

Philby, 51, former first secretary of the British Embassy in Washington, disappeared from Beirut last January and was reported to have slipped behind the Iron Curtain.

The British government said he also tipped off former spies Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean that they were about to be arrested in 1951. Both escaped to Communist territory.

The British government said he also tipped off former spies Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean that they were about to be arrested in 1951. Both escaped to Communist territory.

British newspapers have said Philby had connections with the Middle East Center for Arabic Studies at Shemlan, 15 miles from Beirut. The center teaches Arabic history and political background to British diplomats, oilmen and business executives.

In the past, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, Jumblatt and others have denounced the center as a "spy school" and called for its closure.

The British Embassy said today that "so far as is known, Mr. Philby never set foot inside the center."

"The functions of the center are purely academic," it said. Adding that most teachers there were Arabs, that students of any nationality were accepted and names of all students were available to the Lebanese government.

Cigarettes Start Fires in Allegan State Forest

ALLEGAN (UPI)—Carelessly tossed cigarettes set off two six-acre fires yesterday in the Allegan State Forest in Western Michigan.

One fire was located in Valley Township in Allegan County and the second was about a mile away. State conservation officers put them out.
