Their three children were in family car at top of bluff.

$23 Million Damage Done by 3 Tornadoes in Georgia

ATLANTA (AP)—A small army of soldiers, airmen and civilians today formed a cleanup task force in the wake of weekend tornadoes which killed eight persons in central and west Georgia and did more than 23 million dollars damage to property.

Three separate twisters whirled out of the night Saturday and carried their lethal force into Macon, where three died; to a rural area near the central Georgia city, killing three others; and to Lawson Air Force Base, adjoining Ft. Benning, where two more were killed.

McCarthy Says Only His Group Can Fire Cohn

Senator Rejects Plan to Have Others Probe Dispute With Army

WASHINGTON (INS)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy braced himself today for a fight to keep his dispute with the Army within his own investigations group and to retain Roy M. Cohn as subcommittee counsel.

The Wisconsin Republican interrupted a Western speaking tour to fly back to Washington and angrily rejected suggestions that any probe of charges and counter-charges exchanged between his staff and the Army be made by another committee.

Although such a course was advocated by Sen. Karl E. Mundt, second-ranking Republican on the subcommittee, McCarthy declared that no other committee is "going to investigate whom we hire and fire."

The subcommittee may meet today to decide if a suggested hearing, in which McCarthy himself would testify under oath, should be held Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Cohn said he would also gladly "step down" from his role as attorney for the subcommittee and appear as a witness.

The 72-year-old chief counsel for the group declared on NBC's television "Meet The Press" that he was convinced that one or two persons in the Army "did their very best" to halt the subcommittee probe of possible Red infiltration of the military service.

Cohn also labeled "disgraceful" a Pentagon charge that he had threatened to "wreck the Army" if special favors were not granted to his friend and former subcommittee consultant, Pvt. G. David Schine.

The counsel added that Schine was drafted while still working on an important report and that the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

General Defends Dog House Built at U.S. Expense

FT. DEVENS, Mass. (INS)—Maj. Gen. Roderick R. Allen, commanding general of Ft. Devens, defended today the construction for him, at government expense, of a dog house at Ft. Dix, N. J., when he commanded that station.

The general said a report by a House appropriations subcommittee in Washington that he had a dog house, dog run and fence built at a cost of $1,200.

"I may say that I didn't consider it anything out of the way. I don't believe the fence, run and kennel cost $1,200. In fact, I have built a kennel and dog run here, with the help of my orderly. I used salvaged government material. I think I'm entitled to a dog run and kennel for my dogs. I pay rent for my house."

"I have done nothing wrong. I don't see how the work at Fort Dix could have cost $1,200, not to an ordinary man's way of thinking. I don't know whether GIs or civilians built the kennel and run. It certainly was not an elaborate affair."

Gen. Allen is a former chief of staff for Korean operations in Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Japan. He is a veteran of both World Wars. In addition to being commanding general at Ft. Devens, he also holds the title of commanding general of the New England Sub-Area of the Army.

Phony Roadblock Gets Police Guard

TORONTO (AP)—Even the cops fell for it.

The two barricades, with lamps and red flags, were across Queen's Park Crescent, a four-lane road which swings south around the parliament buildings. Signs told motorists "closed to traffic."

Two police happened on the scene and detoured scores of Sunday drivers.

A news photographer snapped a shot and asked questions. Nobody knew why the barricades were there. But the University of Toronto is nearby.

The work of prankster students, the police decided.

Pontiac Teacher Dies in Accident

Mrs. Harold Dearing in Skid Mishap at Alpena; 4 Suffer Injuries

Mrs. Harold Dearing, (Maxine), 54, of 2240 Pontiac Dr., Sylvan Lake, a Lincoln Junior High School teacher, was killed Sunday afternoon in a two-car collision about 10 miles south of Alpena on U.S. 25.

Mr. Dearing, 58, a Pontiac High School teacher, driver of one of the autos, and Mrs. Henry Loper of 202 Cherokee Rd., a passenger, are reported in good condition at Alpena Hospital.

Occupants of the second car, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wilsey of Hemlock, were treated for minor injuries.

Hospital authorities said Dearing's and Mrs. Loper's injuries were not known early today, pending X-ray examinations.

The Dearings were returning from a visit with their daughter, Mrs. William Ransom (Doris) of Rogers City, when the accident occurred.

State Police of the Alpena Post quoted passengers in both cars as saying the Dearing car skidded on the snow-packed, two-lane highway.

Wilsey's auto struck the Dearing car broadside, according to state police who termed the accident "unavoidable."

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Dearing are pending at the Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home.

Besides her husband and daughter, she is survived by two other daughters and two sons. Mrs. Bruce D. Hayward (Dorothy) of Birmingham, Mrs. Thomas Morse (Margaret) of Biloxi, Miss. David at Bowling Green University, Ohio, and James of Pontiac.

French Bolster Forces to Check Vietminh Attack

Union Troops Counter Bid to Drive Them From Northwest Indochina

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The French parachuted reinforcements today into their Dien Bien Phu fortress as the Communist-led Vietminh hurled thousands more troops into the savage battle to drive the French out of northwest Indochina.

The rebels bombarded the dust bowl fortress with artillery shells before their new series of attacks.

As the violent battle raged out its second day, the French high command in Saigon announced that a battalion of French and Vietnamese paratroopers had jumped onto the Dien Bien Phu airstrip.

Other reinforcements were airlifted from Hanoi.

The French high command in Saigon said the French Union forces had the "situation well in hand" and were holding solidly against the "very violent" rebel attack.

A French spokesman predicted the fighting would last several days.

A three-hour cease-fire interrupted the fighting yesterday morning while both rebels and French carried their dead and wounded from the battlefield. The French claimed at least 1,000 rebels killed in the initial assault Saturday night and early yesterday, and admitted their own losses were "appreciable."

The fighting resumed at noon yesterday with a heavy rebel bombardment of the strongly fortified, French-held plain in the heart of the Thai tribal country.

Then, as they had on Saturday, wave on wave of screaming, bugle-blowing rebel troops surged forward against the bristling barbed wire barricades ringing the French positions.

French mobile artillery, tanks, mortars and heavy machine gun and rifle fire cut down the Vietminh by the scores. Fighters and bombers roared overhead, moving a wide swath in the ranks of the wildly charging rebels.

The legions of Communist leader Ho Chi Minh appeared making an all-out effort to give the French a major setback before the Big Four and Communist China meet in Geneva, Switzerland, April 26 to seek a path to peace in Indochina.

The French for their part hoped to decimate the ranks of the best rebel divisions and perhaps thus break the back of the Vietminh forces.

Your Return May Be Here

MOUNTING FAST—Mrs. Zora Price, internal revenue clerk in the Detroit office, surveys thousands of income tax returns flooding the Federal Building in Detroit today as deadline for filing expires at midnight tonight.

Last-Minute Rush Jams Income Tax Office Here

Taxpayers seeking help with tax forms lined up 50 deep at the U. S. Internal Revenue Bureau's Pontiac office today with the midnight income tax deadline just hours away.

All income tax returns must be in the mail or at the local tax office, 53 1/2 W. Huron St., by midnight tonight.

Anyone whose return isn't postmarked earlier than midnight faces a fine of five per cent of his total tax.

A. M. Menninger, district director of internal revenue, said the office has helped some 55,000 people make out tax forms since Jan. 1.

He said this is "a little" higher than last year's figure, "because more people seem to have made over $5,000." Anyone whose total income is over $5,000 has to figure his own tax instead of using a standard set of figures.

Menninger said the Pontiac office will be open until 8 tonight.

Many taxpayers can get needed help by calling the office, FEederal 4-2541 or FEederal 4-6642.

School Budget Up for Action

Decision on Pay Hikes Also Expected at Board Meeting Here Tonight

Pontiac Board of Education plans to act on the 1954-55 school budget tonight after talking over budget problems at a special meeting Sunday.

Tonight's meeting will start at 7:30 in school offices, 40 Patterson St.

The school board expects to announce its decisions tonight on several pay increases sought by the school system's employees.

Teachers have asked for $400 more a year; other employees, a $33 a month raise; and principals want the teachers' raise plus $300 a year to widen the margin between teachers' salaries and their own.

The tentative school budget of $4,586,561.21, some $151,000 higher than this year's, had none of these raises in it when turned over to the board last Wednesday.

Youth Trapped in Lapeer Barn; Fires One Shot

Aimed at Roof; Claims He Wanted to Be Taken Away by Officers

By ARNOLD S. HIRSCH
Pontiac Press Staff Writer

LAPEER — A 13-year-old boy surrendered to state police this morning after barricading himself in a barn near Brown City and firing a shotgun "at the roof" when a sheriff's officer poked his head through the door.

The youth insisted that he never intended to shoot it out with police and maintained that "I wanted to get picked up by them."

Lapeer Under Sheriff Neil Gass identified the youth as Joseph F. Joe, a ward from St. Clair County.

Joe said he holed up in the barn so police would pick him up because he didn't want to remain at the home of the Henry Krieners of 5380 Black Corners Rd., Brown City.

The boy told deputies that he and his four brothers have lived with the Krieners nine years. The Kriener home is about two miles from the barn on the Henry Highway at 4575 Van Dyke Rd.

Joe said he got up at 3 a.m. today and stumbled over snowy fields to the barn.

Four hours later his oldest brother, Anthony, 17, noticed the boy missing and tracked him to the barn.

"He (Anthony) asked me if I wanted him to call the police. I said, 'Yeh. It's O. K. with me.'"

Gass said the youth was summoned by Anthony and the two of them went to the barn.

When he stuck his head through the barn door, Gass said he heard a shot nearby. He called in Michigan State Police from Flint and they persuaded Joe to surrender after talking to him about 15 minutes.

One of the state troopers said, "We told him to come out and we assured him we wouldn't hurt him. We sent his guardian away and the boy came out."

Under questioning today at the Lapeer County Sheriff's Office, Joe said, "I didn't want to stay where I was staying any longer. I wanted to get picked up by police."

"I really didn't plan to shoot anybody."

Although the four troopers were armed with tear gas, they said they ruled it out when they learned that a boy was holed up in the barn.

The youth's shotgun blew up after the first shot.

He told deputies the muzzle must have become clogged with snow when he fell down while walking to the barn. Deputies said they found 18 live shells in the boy's pockets.

Gass said the youth will be turned over to St. Clair authorities later today.

8 Children Perish as Fire Razes Home

HOGANSBURG, N.Y. (AP)—The eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cree, ranging in age from one to 13, died early today as flames roared through their frame house on the St. Regis Indian Reservation.

The parents fled to safety, apparently from their second-floor bedroom, state police said.

Troopers identified the victims as Doris Susan, 13; Raymond, 14; Francis, 11; Thomas, 10; Merna, 8; Kenneth, 6; Joyce, 4, and Jennifer, 1.

Police said the parents apparently had been sleeping upstairs with their youngest child. The other seven children were trapped downstairs.

Soviets Announce Results of Election

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union had a new parliament—the Supreme Soviet—today. The government said returns from the national elections yesterday "show that the Soviet people voted unanimously for candidates of the Communist and nonparty bloc."

These were the only candidates on the ballots to fill the 1,331 seats in the two chambers—the Council of Nationalities and the Council of the Union.

Approximately 110 million persons were eligible to vote. Formal results—what percentage of the electorate voted and "endorsed the candidates and the program of the Communist party"—will probably be announced tomorrow.

It was the first Supreme Soviet election in four years.

Premier Georgi Malenkov, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, party chief Nikita Khrushchev and other leaders all were candidates.

Meter Proves Car Passenger Hogged Liquor

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Officers, bowing to an unusual request, tested a passenger in a car for drunkenness after giving the routine drunkometer test to the driver.

The passenger explained he and the driver had shared the cost of the bottle and "I want to see if he's getting more of the whiskey than I am."

Found to be twice as drunk as the driver, he returned a dollar of the purchase price, cursing himself for "hogging up all the liquor."

Britons Shun Talks on Chinese Trade

BERLIN (AP)—Trade talks slated to open in East Berlin today between a large delegation of British businessmen and the Chinese Communists have fallen through in the face of British government disapproval.

The Peiping trade mission in the Soviet zone reportedly sent word to an expected 40 British delegates not to come. Twenty of the Britons canceled their air passages yesterday.

Only four or five traders had arrived by last night. They said they would see the Chinese on their own.

The London Foreign Office advised British industrialists to call off the discussions last Saturday. It warned that the sponsor in Britain, the China Trade Committee, was linked with the Communist-front British Council, which existed for "other purposes" than promoting legitimate trade.

Recount Sought in Holly Election

Sticker Candidate Lost by Four Ballots for Village President

HOLLY — A petition has been filed with the Council by Worth Hitchcock, asking for a recount of the ballots cast for president in the village election of March 8.

In this election there was only one ticket in the field, the Union. It was headed by Clare W. Lake who has held the office of president for several years.

Hitchcock made the race for president as a sticker candidate, and according to the election board polled 215 votes, against 219 received by Lake.

In his petition, Hitchcock alleged irregularities in the count. It is his contention that several ballots were not counted for president on account of the manner in which his stickers were attached.

A number of ballots on which his name had been written, also were not counted for him, and he contends that the action of the board in this respect also was wrong.

The whole is a combination of circumstances that have added much interest to the election. In the primary of Feb. 15, Lake and Hitchcock each polled 129 votes, and the former won out in the drawing to determine the nominee.

At a recent meeting of the Village Council, at which the results of the election were to be certified, no action was taken on account of Hitchcock's petition, and the meeting adjourned until some legal advice can be secured.

ANNOUNCING PHILLIPS 66

Flite-Fuel

FOR YOUR CAR

A PHILLIPS EXCLUSIVE! For the first time, you can enjoy the benefits of the super aviation gasoline component—Di-isopropyl (pronounced di-iso-pro-pull). No other gasoline has this super power ingredient. It is available only in Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel.

FROM THE SKYWAYS TO THE HIGHWAYS!

Until recently, the use of super aviation gasoline components was restricted by the United States Government to high octane, high performance aviation gasoline. They were needed to give our planes a tremendous power surge in aerial combat. Now, military authorities have released restrictions on the use of these power-packed aviation gasoline components. So Phillips is able to use not only Di-isopropyl but also HF Alkylate—both originated and first manufactured by Phillips. That's why we can bring you this great new gasoline for your car—Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel.

YOU GET ALL THESE BENEFITS:

- Increased power
 - Smoother acceleration
 - Greater fuel economy
 - Higher anti-knock quality
 - Freedom from stalling
- PLUS
- Famous Controlled Volatility, and the extra clean burning features of Phillips 66 Gasoline.

Let your car's performance tell the story. Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel is waiting for you at any station displaying the orange and black Phillips 66 Shield.

To brother it has meant less, much less, work in helping to take care of the furnace and the removal of ashes.

To little sister it has meant a more comfortable home all Winter long, as 'Little Joe' Stoker coal adapts itself to changeable weather holding a low, steady fire on warmer days and nights, yet it responds readily to automatic furnace controls in giving an abundance of heat when needed, thereby maintaining a steady even temperature.

To Dad the burning of 'Little Joe' Stoker coal has meant a big, big saving on the fuel bill as well as little or no work due to the cleaner burning qualities of this better quality stoker coal... no unsightly soot strings, very little ashes and the extra saving of 25c per ton by ordering in load lots of two ton or more.

Mrs. S. E. Kline Is Hostess

Story of Oil Pots Is Topic

Mrs. S. E. Kline was hostess to the Standish group of First Congregational Church Friday in her home on Oak Hill street.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Harry Manus who used as her theme a story of Elisha in which the prophet advises a poor widow whose belongings had been appropriated by creditors to gather empty vessels and take them to her home.

She found that the vessels were filled with oil and, as the story goes, the more oil she poured, the more she was given.

Oil in the scriptures has always been a symbol of the Holy Spirit and the vessels are individuals, continued Mrs. Manus. God wants us to be filled with this spirit which in turn is used in his service. "The miracle ends just where our faith ends," concluded the speaker.

During the meeting the group served on appetizers for the Delmo Community Center in Lilbourn, Mo.

Mrs. Carl Malkin told about a recent trip she made to California.

Organization Prides Itself on Status as Oldest Group

Locally, Enrollment Almost Doubles in Year and Continues to Push Upward

It is a convenient fact that sewing is part of the training in creative arts which is stressed by the Camp Fire Girls because this national youth organization is "bursting at the seams" with the advent of its 44th birthday this week.

Camp Fire Girls was organized "to perpetuate the spiritual ideals of the home and to stimulate and aid in the formation of habits making for health and character."

It is the oldest girls' youth organization in America, serving ages between 7 and 18. There are local groups in more than 2,700 communities throughout the United States that have served over 3,000,000 girls.

After institution of the first Boy Scout troop, some little girls came to Dr. Luther Halsey Gullick wanting to join it. Although he told them the present program was for boys solely, he immediately realized the need for a like program for girls, and there-after organized the Camp Fire Girls, Inc., in 1910.

Now the Camp Fire program covers America and reaches to England, Japan, Iran and the Philippines. Because different age groups need different guidance and independence, the program was divided into three groups: Blue Birds from 7 to 9, Camp Fire Girls 10 to 14, Horizon Club from 15 to 18.

The elevating part of the program is incorporated in the law of the Camp Fire Girls: Worship God, seek Beauty, Give Service, Pursue Knowledge, be Trustworthy, Hold on to Health, Glorify Work and Be Happy.

The instruction portion of the program is based on seven crafts in which the girls earn honors, namely home, outdoors, creative arts, frontiers, business, sports and games, and citizenship.

The watchword of Camp Fire is "We He Lo" which includes excerpts from the words work, health and love.

An enjoyable part of Camp Fire is the outdoor excursions planned to teach self-reliance, and the sewing of beads, which are given as badges of achievement for each honor earned, on ceremonial jackets of navy blue felt. Each girl plans her own arrangement of beads acquired, therefore each design is a display of personality. Nothing can be worn on this jacket which has not been earned by the wearer.

Locally, Camp Fire has almost doubled its enrollment this year, and could easily double it again next year by the response of girls everywhere except for the fact that Camp Fire requires that the girls be adequately led and sponsored by adult members. Each group must have a leader, assistant leader and sponsor as minimum adult supervision.

day celebrations will be held by groups also during the week.

City Adopts National Electric Code

New Standard Starts April 1

Journeymen to Receive Explanation of Details at Three Meetings

The 1953 National Electric Code will be used as the standard for electrical installations in Pontiac beginning April 1, according to John W. Emerson, city electrical superintendent.

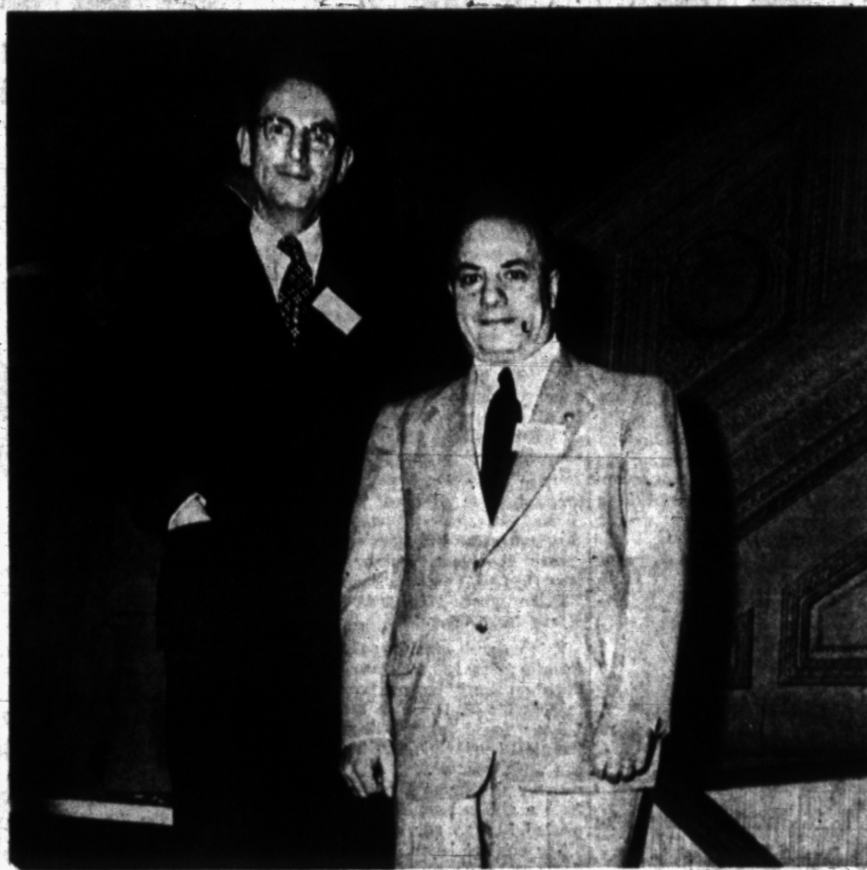

"Because there are many significant changes and additions, some explanation is necessary in order to keep up to date," Emerson said.

Meetings open to licensed journeymen will be held to answer questions March 22, 29 and 30 at 7:30 p.m. in the Consumers Power Co. auditorium, at 25 W. Lawrence St., Emerson announced.

Space will limit registrations for the meetings to 100. A $2 fee should be sent to the Electrical Department, at 35 Hill St., and a program and admission card will be returned by mail.

Each meeting will be conducted as a panel discussion. Discussion leaders will be H. B. Love, Detroit's chief electrical inspector, Ray E. Rider, Dearborn chief inspector, and Kent Stiner, former Detroit chief inspector.

Changes applying to general wiring, dwellings, new equipment and specific occupancies will be studied, Emerson said.

Dentist Debunks Toothpaste Ads

No Evidence Available to Support Producers' Anti-Decay Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—The President of the American Dental Assn. said today an ADA study group has found no acceptable evidence that any toothpaste, now on the market has any special value in preventing tooth decay.

Dr. Leslie M. Fitzgerald, of Dubuque, Iowa, the president, also declared the dental profession is increasingly concerned about possible danger to dental health arising out of certain claims he said were made for toothpastes.

"Many of the claims for these products," he said in a talk prepared for the District of Columbia Dental Society, "tend to discourage such proven dental health procedures as proper toothbrushing immediately after eating and the avoidance of excessive consumption of sugar-containing substances."

Navy dental researchers reported at the meeting they are ready to make first human trials of a device which they figure may largely eliminate at least one source of patients' jitters—the noise of the drill.

It's a tooth-cutting device which employs high-speed, back-and-forth vibrations rather than a rotary motion.

And the vibrations, unlike the whirling of the conventional drill, are not audible to the human ear.

Army researchers disclosed progress towards developing a kind of electrical thermometer designed quickly to detect hidden troubles in the mouth, such as tooth abscesses and inflammations of the nerves, without X-raying the entire mouth.

Legislature Has 8-Day Breather

Committees Taking Up Measures Passed by Opposite Branches

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's Legislature expects a kind of seventh-inning stretch this week.

Committees in House and Senate have eight days ahead in which to clear their desks of bills passed in the opposite house. With this deadline not falling until next week, the pressure was off after last week's hectic round of debate and vote on major measures.

The big issue to be debated and decided this week apparently is bingo—the Andrews proposal to amend the Constitution to legalize "charity" bingo.

This is due for debate in the Senate tonight and could reach a vote tomorrow unless sponsors stall it while they hunt for the necessary two-thirds majority needed to pass it. Legislative gossip says the necessary votes are lacking now.

The House plans a vote Wednesday on the first appropriation bill to ride through the legislative process—the $40 million public welfare bill.

That chamber will debate the $116 million school aid appropriation Tuesday, but there is little the chamber can do to that constitutionally-mandated measure.

The capitol is watching four committees closely for sessions this week.

The Senate Judiciary Committee holds the restless McCune bill to censor beer and wine advertising on television, and the Senate Taxation Committee is wrestling hard with the Cloon proposal for a $500 million highway bond issue.

The House State Affairs Committee must make a decision in the next eight days on the new lobbyist control bill which nearly tore the Senate apart at the seams. The House Labor Committee is deep in the Senate-approved Teahen bill to change unemployment compensation law.

When the lawmakers return at 8 p.m. tonight from their week-end recess, the Senate expects to nearly clear its calendar of 20 minor bills already approved by the House.

At the top in importance is a bill to provide for a permanent chief justice of the State Supreme Court.

Entry Attempt Reported

Waterford Township patrolmen this morning discovered an attempted entry at the LaSalle Market at 2544 Pontiac Lake Rd. The owner, Joseph Stodgel, who lives behind the store said he did not believe anyone entered the store although the front door glass had been smashed.

HOWDY—Herbert Lavier, Midland area farmer, introduces his 3-year-old grandson, Mike, to one of his spring lambs. The lamb's mother looks nervously on as her offspring gets familiar with Mike, who isn't too sure about the whole thing.

SWITCH—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Landauer of Basehor, Kansas, have returned home after a flight to Quebec, Canada, where they intended to adopt a baby boy at an orphanage there. Instead of a boy, they brought back identical twin girls, Denese, left, and Denene. The girls both weigh 15 pounds and both have cut two teeth. The Landauers say they will adopt a boy soon in order to give the twins a brother.

Boston Irish Tie Up St. Patrick to British

BOSTON (UP)—St. Patrick drove the snakes from Ireland and, to hear the Irish talk, he surely had a hand in driving the British from Boston.

The more ingenious Irish historians trace the celebration of St. Patrick's Day in America back to Capt. Myles Standish of the Massachusetts Bay colony in 1620.

Puritan, bodad! Isn't Myles, or Miles, an Irish name and what Irishman fails to mark the day the serpent became extinct on the Emerald Isle?

The saint's day attracted little attention in Boston until the waves of immigration that began with the Irish potato famine of 1847. The tie-up with evacuation day was a long time coming.

It was not until 1901 that the happy coincidence was publicly observed. Then, as now, it was pointed out that many sons of the old sod fought in the Continental Army that drove the British from Boston on March 17, 1776.

The All-Irish South Boston Citizens Ass'n. promoted the first public celebration of the military victory.

The record is dotted with evidence that the celebration—always a one-day break in the Lenten fast—has not always been orderly.

And now, more than a half a century later, the problem still exists. The armed services at first declined to permit troops to march this year because of "abuse" to marchers in the past.

But U. S. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, a Yankee Republican, and Rep. John W. McCormack, the House minority leader, prevailed on the high brass to have the ruling withdrawn.

TV May Take Over Forest Fire Spotting

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UP)—The days of the lonely fire tower vigils of forest rangers may be numbered. Television will do their work better—and also will spot arsonists.

The first demonstration of a TV fire spotter held here showed that one camera, mounted on a swivel that turns it one revolution every two minutes, can do the work of eight human spotters.

The cameras operate on a closed television circuit and one man at a control point simply watches a series of screens for symptoms of a fire.

The new device, called "Detecto-Vision," appears destined to convert fire control towers into silent sentinels on 24-hour duty, constantly scanning the horizons for wisps of white, tell-tale smoke that spell trouble for forests and fire-fighters.

Witnesses to the demonstration here of the system, developed by two Baton Rouge, La. television distributors and a state forestry commission radio engineer, agreed that there are "a few bugs to iron out, but the thing has tremendous possibilities."

Fire-spotting by television is relatively simple, the demonstration showed. An industrial TV camera, operating on a closed circuit, is mounted on a swivel in the Plexiglas-enclosed fire towers scattered throughout woodlands.

An electric motor is attached to the camera to rotate it. At the demonstration here, only two cameras in towers 12 miles apart were used, but this was enough to show that one man, sitting comfortably at the control point, could easily keep an eye on 8 to 10 sets, each receiving images from a radius of about 20 miles.

Howell C. Cobb, superintendent of the Alexandria State Forest, said farmers working in their fields were "clearly visible," and cows grazing four miles away were identifiable.

A three-inch telescopic lens attached to the cameras increased the range far beyond the usual 15-mile limit of the human eye, and filter on the lenses brought the smoke into sharp contrast with the sky background, relaying it faithfully to the sets in the control point.

LEOPARD BOY?—Many citizens of Rome, Italy, were probably startled when they first got a glimpse of this "leopard," but then they remembered it was carnival time in the Eternal City. The youngster's baby face was a dead giveaway to the otherwise authentic-looking costume.

TWIRLING TOT—Maybe it's her smile, or it could be that she's good. At any rate, 4-year-old Linda Kay Bialas is weighed down with medals which she won in baton twirling competitions in a little over a year. The Chicago tot has accumulated more than 25 medals and two trophies while competing in five midwest states.

Three Pontiac Hospitals Given Full Accreditation

Three Pontiac hospitals were included on a list of 2,920 institutions given full accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals in Chicago today.

Pontiac General Hospital, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium were listed among the hospitals which "promote high quality of medical and hospital care... and the maintenance of essential diagnostic and therapeutic services."

According to the commission, there are about 7,500 hospitals in America and Canada. Provision accreditation was also given 428 other hospitals.

Williams Displeased by Jobless Pay Bill

DETROIT (AP)—Gov. Williams said Sunday he will ask for a constitutional amendment to raise jobless insurance if the Legislature fails to increase benefits specified in the Teahen Bill.

Speaking to CIO United Auto Workers Local 2, Williams said that the Teahen Bill, passed by the state Senate, would provide higher compensation benefits for little more than 1 1/2 per cent of the unemployed.

Williams said he would "take the case before the people" with the amendment to the constitution.

He asked communities to join with him "in a bipartisan effort to put a decent standard of job insurance benefits before the people."

He said that what he asked was what President Eisenhower requested when he said that most jobless workers should receive at least half of their take-home pay. He said he would appoint a committee of lawyers to draft the constitutional amendment.

The Teahen Bill is now before the House of Representatives.

Actor in 'River's End' Part Taught by Country Doctor

By JEAN HERSHOLT
Film and Radio Star

A physician recently wrote me: "I have been impersonating you," he said. "Badly, I'll admit. But to the best of my ability. Nor do I offer an apology. It had to be done."

One of his patients, a small girl suffering great pain, kept calling for Dr. Christian. The frantic mother begged him to assume the role. "I adopted a Danish accent," the physician wrote, "and tried to dispense solid, cheerful comfort along with prescriptions. The child recovered."

You see, she had faith in Dr. Christian. And so have I. The good doctor who wrote the confession was not, of course, impersonating me. I am still Jean

Jean Hersholt

Hersholt. Or am I? Is there a time when the character becomes the man, or the man takes on the substance of the character?

For 16 years now I have been appearing on radio once a week as Dr. Paul Christian of River's End, Minn., and in the minds of millions of listeners, I have merged with the character I portray.

Even Via, my patient wife now for 39 years, once introduced me as "Dr. Christian." She says it was a natural slip, as she often feels like a bigamist.

This double life is interesting, but in many ways embarrassing. There was the time I made a speech in a small town near Ogden, Utah. A warm reception was given me by the town's inhabitants, among them two elderly sisters, one with her neck swathed in bandages, her voice evident only as a hoarse whisper.

"What shall I do about this?" she whispered to Dr. Christian. "See your local physician," replied Jean Hersholt, hiding behind his warmest country doctor smile. The two sisters did a sharp about-face, and as they marched off, I overheard one say to the other, "He just won't serve for nothing."

It is on such occasions that my favorite fellow lets me down — Dr. Christian simply has not been able to pass his M. D. on to me. But I have found, even without his technical knowledge, that his faith can work wonders.

Every Christmas I get a card from a girl in New York who depended, 10 years ago, on that faith. The original letter, one of hundreds sent each week to Dr. Christian asking for all manner of help and guidance, came from a young polio victim, bedridden for many months, deeply discouraged.

As with all such letters, I answered it personally. I advised her, as the disciple James once advised in another letter written some 2,000 years ago, "Let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing."

Back came her answer. She would try — but she did so want to see me. Again I wrote: "If you really want to see me, keep that in your mind. When I come to New York in the spring, I am sure you will be well enough to come to my broadcast. I'll send you the tickets myself."

Was I taking a great deal on myself to make that promise? I was standing on the same kind of faith that I have discovered every fine physician knows, for he has seen it work when everything else failed.

Then, too, I knew a good deal about patience; I had her as a companion during the uphill climb in my own profession. Yes, I was willing to stand on faith — and so was the child. She came to the broadcast.

Where did he come from, this country doctor who never was, yet who is such a warm reality to so many people, myself included? I was born in Copenhagen in 1886, the son of actor parents. In 1913 I came to America, worked across the country, and arrived in Hollywood with $20 in my pocket.

For 20 years it was my duty, in the role of a villain, to make life miserable for such stars as Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. Only occasionally was I permitted a lovable part, one of these as a doctor in Men in White. This role, seen by director Henry King, was to change my life.

In 1935 I was preparing for a role in which I killed four people, when an urgent call came for me to report to another studio. The part of Dr. Allan Dufoe in The Country Doctor, famous physician and advisor to the Dionne quintuplets, had been left vacant by the tragic death of Will Rogers.

I was called in to test for this by director Henry King. The following night I breathlessly boarded the train for Canada.

When our first daily rushes went to Mr. Zanuck by air his reply sizzled back over the wire. "Quint's great. Hersholt terrible. Retake everything." What saved me then was Dr. Dufoe. Once he began helping me, the going was easier.

It was from Dufoe that I learned much of the supreme faith, the confidence in man's goodness, the kindly humor, the understanding and common sense which make the life of a country doctor one of daily miracles. Our films caught his spirit.

Dr. Dufoe has been dead some eight years. But my personal hope is that a bit of this Canadian doctor's warmth and wisdom, live on more vibrantly in Dr. Christian, his Danish counterpart.

Has Hersholt, personally, brought anything to Dr. Christian's growth? I should like to think it, yet he is a hard fellow to live up to, the kindly doctor, so patient and wise. We have come very close, through the years; we enjoy the same things: old friends, old pipes, oft-told tales.

But I believe Dr. Christian is still leading — still teaching me how to wait humbly upon God for the small miracles which are a never-ending part of our every lives.

Tomorrow — Len Lohrsted tells the story of the devotional service being held in many business institutions.

Derelict ships, abandoned at sea, form a constant hazard to water travel. Every year, dozens of these wanderers are destroyed, but their numbers do not seem to decrease. Unlike icebergs, which follow a more or less charted course, abandoned ships are likely to appear anywhere at sea.

Family Series on TV Contract

Character Actor Owns Orange Grove Which Is Making Money

NEW YORK — For many years Charlie Ruggles has made a prosperous living as one of Hollywood's most appealing character actors; a fine comedian who radiates subtle charm and sympathy as he goes about his business of winning laughs.

These infectious qualities have been employed to distinct advantage of TV's Kate Smith Hour, where Charlie can be seen once a week portraying the title role in an amusing situation comedy, "The World of Mr. Sweeney."

Ruggles is a native son of Los Angeles, a rarity in the film colony. Directing his steps towards a medical career, Charlie's father, a wholesale druggist, saw to it that he studied chemistry. In spare time, he worked in his father's business.

Intrigued by glowing word pictures of life behind the footlights painted by an acquaintance connected with the theater, Ruggles set out for San Francisco and, surprisingly enough, won a small role in "The Admirable Crichton."

Later Ruggles joined the Oliver Morosco forces and made his first appearance in New York for this producer in "Help Wanted." Although the Broadway venture was not particularly successful, the play had a long run in Chicago.

The following season, Ruggles returned to Broadway in an Edgar Selwyn play, "Rolling Stones," which established him with the New York public.

Other musicals followed; for several years thereafter, Ruggles remained on Broadway.

After many comedies, Ruggles voiced an ambition to play more serious roles. In July 1941, his wish was heeded.

"The Parson of Paniment" definitely placed him in the category of ace character actors. He portrayed the role of a prospector who built a town with his wealth—his first entirely serious delineation on the screen.

In recent years Charlie starred in a network radio show, "Barrel of Fun," and played himself in a family-comedy series on television, "The Ruggles." The latter ran for three years as a network show and now is being syndicated to local TV stations.

Ruggles is married. Dogs and oranges are his most important hobbies. At one time he owned and operated extensive dog kennels which quartered about 100 canines. He has now leased the kennels to someone else. On his ranch in Encino, Calif., Charlie runs a prize orange grove which he has operated "in the black" for several years.

Sailor Thinks Inheritance Gag Ragged Trick

LOS ANGELES — Sailor Bill Cabeca says it's a salty trick to tell a man his rich uncle has left him $100,000.

"All I know is I'm real confused," he said. "I feel pretty low."

William V. Cabeca Jr., 28, a boatswain's mate L.C., told reporters last Tuesday he'd received a letter from a brother informing him a rich uncle died and left one eighth interest in an $800,000 hotel. All he had to do to collect was leave the Navy.

Yesterday Cabeca said he had checked with the brother in Nebraska and learned no such letter had been sent. And in Miami, Fla., his father, William V. Sr., said he knew of no rich relatives, nor of any recent deaths.

Sailor Bill now says it looks like "some kind of a gag."

TV Is Short Cut to Fame for Girl Like Phyllis Kirk

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
NEW YORK — The television camera's insatiable demand for new faces and new talent is casting such people as Phyllis Kirk, a girl of phid-like beauty, into the limelight.

For the 24-year-old Phyllis, television has provided a short cut to the top.

It has taken this bright lass only nine years to realize her teenage ambition to become an actress.

For the girl with the effie expression, television has it all over stage, movie and modeling, fields in which she has had experience, as an acting medium.

"I get much more satisfaction out of working for a live audience," she said, "instead of doing a bit by bit performance as in making a movie. There is more fulfillment for me in learning a part from beginning to end and then going through it without interruption."

Phyllis, born in Syracuse, N. Y., moved to Elizabeth, N. J., and on graduating from high school at 16, immediately began her quest for an acting career.

First stop was New York and a job as a model. "I didn't particularly like it, but it gave me the money to study acting."

Her first Broadway engagement came in 1945 with the Theater Guild, followed by summer stock and then the movies.

Back in the theater briefly, her attention was directed to television, where she made her debut in 1952 with the TV Play.

Air Force Recruitment Program OK'd by Wilson

WASHINGTON — The Air Force, hit by recent drops in enlistment, has won Secretary of Defense Wilson's permission to launch a recruiting system of its own starting July 1.

The Air Force so far has shared recruiting operations with the Army.

U. S. Finds Hungarians Broadcasting Secretly

WASHINGTON — The State Department says the Communist Hungarian legation operated a secret radio transmitter several months ago but was caught at it and told to quit broadcasting.

Thorsten V. Kalijarvi, deputy assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, said in House Appropriations subcommittee hearings released yesterday that many foreign missions have asked permission to install transmitters of their own so they can talk directly to home. But he said U. S. law bars broadcasting licenses to aliens.

Kennan Enters Congress Race

Former Ambassador to Russia Seeks Place in House

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — George F. Kennan, former U. S. ambassador to Russia, has jumped into a three-way fight for the Democratic congressional nomination from Pennsylvania's 19th District.

Kennan won the endorsement of the Adams County Democratic organization yesterday but party leaders in the district's other two counties are supporting their own candidates.

The district, comprising the south-central counties of York, Cumberland and Adams, is now represented by first-term Rep. S. Walter Stauffer, a York Republican. Stauffer won by 6,301 votes two years ago over his predecessor, James F. Lind, a Democrat, when the district was reshuffled following the 1950 census.

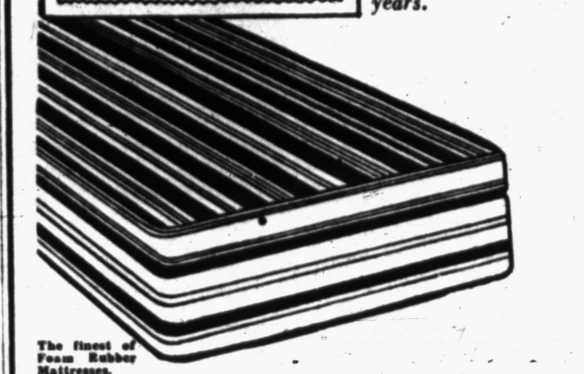

Kennan, who lives in East Berlin, Adams County—near the Gettysburg farm owned by President Eisenhower, voluntarily retired from the State Department in 1952 after being recalled at the request of the Soviet. He is now an instructor at Princeton's Institute for Advanced Studies.

Other announced candidates for the Democratic nomination at the May 18 primary are Maynard M. Small of New Cumberland, Cumberland County, and Earl D. Warner, of Red Lion, York County.
