JFK Again Rejects K's Bid for Summit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy, following a telephone conference with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, has turned down Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's tough new bid for a summit conference to open the March disarmament meeting in Geneva.

Officials said the President, in a note that probably will be delivered in Moscow today, again urged Khrushchev to send Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to Geneva instead of continuing to demand a summit meeting.

The State Department relayed Kennedy's latest message to the American embassy during the night after the President last night approved the text at his weekend headquarters in Palm Beach, Fla. It was expected the text would be made public here as soon as U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson has confirmed he has delivered it.

Police Capture Four Escapees

Cought When Getaway Car Has Collision in Storm

MASSON (U) — Four prisoners who broke jail at least one Friday night were back behind bars today after their 4½-hour flight at freedom ended in the smash-up of their stolen getaway car in a snow storm.

The near-blizzard, a flashing railroad signal and a cup of coffee all had a part in the apprehension of the desperadoes.

A mass break was averted when 24 other prisoners declined to accompany the four in the escape from the Ingham County Jail in Mason, 10 miles south of Lansing.

Clad only in striped prison duds, the four took an unmarked truck, by surprise at 12:30 p.m. grabbed the keys at the point of a machine gun and fled in the van to the basement and escaped through the jail garage.

STOLE A CAR — They stole a car from a user car lot in Mason and headed southwest.

Their hastily constructed plan went to smash shortly before midnight in a minor auto collision on the east edge of Battle Creek in Emmet Township.

Township Patrolman Larry Clarke arrested one of the men, Glen Warren, 29, of Portland, after the van was a brief try at running, then surrendered.

"He was too fat to run fast enough," an officer said of the 5-foot-6, 260-pounder.

Other police, summoned by Clarke, threw a dragline around the immediate area and found the other three hoodlums under a coal car on the Grand Trunk Railroad tracks about a mile from the scene of the highway collision. They surrendered quietly.

One of the escapees, identified by police as the leader of the mob, was Carl Cox, 23, of Lansing, who is awaiting trial on two counts of murder.

RELATE ESCAPE

The other two were Willie Lewis, 41, of Lansing, awaiting sentencing for burglary, and Wilford Fale, 39, of Lansing, awaiting trial for armed robbery.

His own private world — Henry Hall of Farmington, twice holder of the world ski-jumping record in 1917 and 1921, hasn't given up his love for the sport despite his 72 years. He built a 30-meter jump in his own yard and every day weather permits, he uses it. Born in Ishpeming, in the shadow of famous "Suicide Hill," he started ski jumping at the age of 8.

Ex-World Ski Champ Won't Quit

Still Jumping High at 72

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press
Some people have their own putting greens. Others have their own personal tennis courts. And Henry Hall of Farmington has his own private ski jump. It is located on the flat lands and an interesting fact that Hall is a spry 72 years of age.

Born in the big ski jumping country of Ishpeming, Mich., Hall twice held the world's distance record and he was U.S. National champion in 1914.

Hall got his first pair of skis at the same time he found out that he was a skier. He was 8 years old and he was riding the good sized hills around Ishpeming, in the shadow of challenging "Suicide Hill," where he made his mark as a junior jumper.

In his early teens he was part of a ski jumping troupe which made the circuit around the Midwest and East and in 1916 at Glenwood, Minn., he won the National championship and proceeded to win at least once, every meet sponsored in the Midwest.

WORLD RECORD — In 1917 at Steamboat Springs, Colorado, he set the world mark of 283 feet. Two years later Anders Haugen of Norway broke the record. After a stint with the U.S. Army in Europe, Hall came back into competition in 1919. In 1921, while jumping with the Calgary Ski Club of Canada, he set the world record again by soaring 295½ feet at British Columbia. This time the record stood for seven years before a jumper by the name of Nelson went 340 feet.

He recalls a meet at Gory Hill around Chicago in 1925 as one of his biggest thrills. "There were 40,000 people watching the meet, the largest American crowd I had ever seen at a jumping tournament, and I set the hill record of 170 feet," Hall said.

After Nelson set the mark of 340 feet in 1928, Hall tried for a couple of years to get back the record. He came back in 1931 (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., — his name a household word and his face familiar to school children — sought seclusion today. Few Americans including the President of the United States, would blame him.

For nearly three months he has been in the public eye. But in something more than four fantastic hours Tuesday he faced his grim task, and by his skill and the help of men of skill on the ground below, he accomplished it.

Friday he returned his circle to the place where his struggle was born, to Cape Canaveral and to Pad 14 where his Atlas rocket was launched and to Mercury Control where his friends and compatriots had waited and hoped for his safe return.

Probably the squeals and cheers of Cocoa Beach school children still ring in his ears and the questions of newsmen and the glaring lights of television cameras are still in the third threshold of memory.

But there, too, is the first look on the face of his wife, Anna, as he stepped from the plane that brought him to Patrick Air Force Base. And still he must remember the look of expectancy in the eyes of his daughter, Lynn, 14, and his son, David, 16, as he disembarked.

He must remember, too, the pride and interest David had as he peered into the heart of the spaceship that has carried his father three times around the world in a frenzied orbit through space.

OWN WORDS — Glenn could probably remember something of his own words as he explained the equipment dangling, now almost uselessly, inside.

"Our boosters may not be as large as some others," President Kennedy had said, "but our men and women are."

The President had made the remark before presenting Glenn with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Distinguished Service Medal.

After the ceremony in front of Hangar 5, where Glenn had trained him to don his space suit for his adventure last Tuesday, Glenn and his family and a few guests retired into the hangar for lunch.

Fall for Week Is Heaviest in Ten Years

25-M.P.H. Winds Whip Drifts Clogging Drives, Side Roads

Shovel-weary Pontiac area residents faced another 6-inch snowfall this morning with flagging spirits as the six-day total rose to 17 inches, heaviest in 10 years.

Winds of 25-miles-per-hour made the latest fall even worse by whipping it into billowy drifts which clogged driveways and unplowed side roads.

At Pontiac Municipal airport drifts ranged up to 2 feet.

And there's more coming! — Exactly how much, the weather bureau doesn't say. But keep the shovels and snow chains handy. There'll be flurries tonight and tomorrow, even though it appears the storm is moving out of Michigan into Pennsylvania and New York.

By noon, county roads remained mostly snow-covered and slippery in places. More than 50 road commission vehicles were on duty.

In Pontiac, main streets were passable this morning, but the Pontiac area can expect snow flurries and a low of 15 tonight, says the weatherman. Sunday's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies and continued cold. The predicted high for tomorrow is 25. Little change in temperature and more snow is the outlook for Monday.

Today's northerly winds at 15 to 30 miles per hour will diminish Sunday. Seventeen was the lowest temperature preceding 1 a.m. At 2 p.m. the thermometer read 29.

There was the usual rush of non-injury car accidents in Pontiac over a score to the rest of the county. No serious personal injury mishaps were reported.

This morning, drivers who locally blamed their way out on traps of piled-high snow at driveways' edge found streets no fairways. However, dryness of the snow helped in getting traction.

Across the Detroit River, officials at Windsor Airport reported a fall of 8½ inches, the greatest on record. Wind-blown drifts several feet deep in some areas and motorists were warned to keep off the roads.

The Automobile Club of Michigan in Detroit reported more than 1,000 calls from motorists stuck in the snow. Some small communities in the southeastern portion of the state were virtually cut off.

Soviets May Launch Missiles From Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union may have developed a system using manned rocket-planes to launch spaceships, satellites and intercontinental missiles, some U.S. intelligence specialists report.

Their conclusions, based on analysis of available Russian publications, were made public Friday after having been kept in the secret file for nine months.

The accuracy of their findings is not fully accepted by the government. And some sources point out that the system, if the Soviets have developed it, is not completely new.

The United States, they noted, is developing an air-launched ballistic missile, the Skybolt, to be carried by B-58 bombers. The Skybolt would have a range of 1,000 miles.

However, the intelligence analysts said there was reason to believe the Russians already have used the air-launch system in a number of space shots.

APPARENT USE — Here is how the Russians apparently worked it, according to the 169-page intelligence report: Two manned rocketplanes were attached to opposite sides of a powerful rocket engine, thus acting as first-stage rockets for the launching.

Near the fringes of space, the planes detached from the larger rocket and were flown back to earth by their pilots.

The second stage rocket then sailed into space, carrying a third stage that eventually completed the flight on its own.

The reported development could have significance in missile warfare and space programs as the first-stage rocketplanes would be recovered and used again.

The government cautioned, "The publication of this report does not constitute approval by any U.S. government organization of the inferences, findings and conclusions contained herein. It is published solely for the exchange and stimulation of ideas."

The document, entitled, "Comprehensive Analysis of Soviet Space Program, Based on Soviet Open Literature 1958-61," is being distributed by the Commerce Department's Office of Technical Services.

The report said the rocketplane launching system apparently was used in a series of Soviet missile tests over the Pacific early in 1960.

"The literature surveyed had led the writer toward several tentative conclusions which, if correct, may be of considerable significance," said the report.

There are indications that the Soviets have developed a multi-purpose, reusable, winged carrier-rocket as a vertical launch vehicle for spacecraft. The first stage of this vehicle may consist of two piloted rocketplanes powered by wing-mounted, air-breathing engines capable of operating as turbo-jets, ram-jets or rockets.

Each plane, said the report, apparently has four or six engines mounted on the delta-shaped wings.

United Germany Is Predicted by Bob Kennedy

BONN, Germany (U) — Robert F. Kennedy predicted today that Germany eventually will be reunited but conceded the United States "has no magic formula" to bring this about.

"The Soviets have consistently opposed reunification but things can change. There has been a tremendous upheaval in the Soviet Union in the last 10 years, and many changes may take place in the years to come."

Would Bar High Court From Removing Judges

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's Supreme Court would be forbidden to remove a judge for any cause under a provision tentatively adopted yesterday by the constitutional convention.

By a preliminary 54-47 vote in committee of the whole, delegates approved a proposal which declared flatly: "The Supreme Court shall not have the power to remove a judge."

As adopted, however, the proposal does not prevent the high court from suspending a judge while he is being investigated for alleged misconduct or some other reason.

The action came after several hours of debate in which many of the 56 attorneys among the convention's 144 delegates took part.

Debate on recommendations for streamlining Michigan's judicial system, which began Thursday, was expected to last most of the day.

The proposal limiting the Supreme Court's power over judges was offered as a minority report to the judicial branch committee.

It was sponsored by Ann Donnelly, R-Highland Park; Thomas McAllister, R-Bad Axe, and Karl Leibbrand, R-Bay City, a former Circuit Court judge.

They had sought to bar the high court from either removing or suspending a judge, but an amendment was adopted dropping the reference to suspensions.

TEXT OF MEASURE

In recommending the restriction on the Supreme Court, it was declared: "The Supreme Court has ample power, under the framework of its own rules, to enforce its general supervising control over the lower courts."

"Any other public official removed in Michigan for wrongdoing by the governor or the legislature has an appeal to and the protection of the Supreme Court."

"Designating the Supreme Court as the removing body deprives judges of that protection. The Supreme Court becomes judge, jury and prosecutor. There appears to be no reason for this discriminatory action."

Delegates recalled the 1938 case of Saginaw Circuit Judge Eugene S. Huff, who refused to obey a Supreme Court order transferring him temporarily to the Wayne County Court.

Huff eventually complied with the directive after he was declared in contempt and fined $500.

During the debate, several former Circuit Court judges serving as convention delegates cited the Huff case as an example of why they favored restrictions on the Supreme Court's power.

As adopted, however, the proposal does not prevent the high court from suspending a judge while he is being investigated for alleged misconduct or some other reason.

15 Slain in 30 Minutes

ALGIERS (UPI)—A wave of terrorist killings swept over the Algerian working class district of Bab-El-Oued today as French security troops, backed by armored cars, sealed off the areas to prevent reprisals.

Police said at least 15 persons, including five Arabs shot down from a moving taxicab, were killed during a 30-minute period in the section heavily populated by Europeans.

The Algerians killings and scattered violence elsewhere in Algeria raised the nationwide casualty toll since Jan. 2, 1,067 dead and 1,763 wounded.

Police and troops, backed by two armored machine gun carriers, set up a cordon around Bab-El-Oued, one of the city's major violence flash points and a stronghold of the Secret Army Organization (OAS) sympathizers.

SPARKED VIOLENCE

Police officials said the slayings started when a man, reported to be a member of the underground Secret Army Organization (OAS), shot and killed a "Barboux," a member of the government's anti-OAS squad.

France's top man in Algeria, meanwhile, began the difficult task of trying to explain peace to a country that has known nothing but war for more than seven years.

French Delegate-General Jean Marin began talks with civilian appointees and elected officials to spell out French and Algerian rebel terms for ending the war here.

Although a cease-fire is believed near, the war and its attendant terrorism is more than over a reality of life here. Terrorist attacks in Algeria are continuing at the rate of one every 20 minutes.

The explosion of two hand grenades at a high school here—killing one—started a shouting exchange of slogans by Europeans and Arab students. Security forces restored order.

In the eastern part of Philippeville, activity ceased for an hour in a demonstration of mourning ordered by the rightwing underground "Secret Army" for an army captain killed Thursday by a land mine.

WOULD GIVE TERMS

It was believed that during his meetings, Marin would spell out the terms of the agreement reached between French and Algerian rebel negotiators for bringing the Algerian war to a swift end.

Informed sources said the meetings would go on for several days.

It was not considered likely that the details of the agreement would reach the ears of European settlers and native Algerians before the declaration of the cease-fire, now believed imminent.

(The Algerian rebels were meeting in Tripoli, Libya, discussing the cease-fire terms, and were generally expected to approve them within the next few days. The French approved the terms in Paris last Wednesday.)

Pontiac Driver Beaten, Robbed

Loses $174 in One of Two Holdups on South Side of City

A Pontiac man was beaten and robbed of $174 at knife point in one of two holdups which occurred on the city's South Side early this morning.

Ronald J. Gehrke, 22, 685 De Soto Place, told police he was driving on South Saginaw Street near Western Street when he was flagged down by a man standing next to an apparently stalled car at 1:15 a.m.

When he pulled over and rolled down a window, Gehrke said the man produced a knife and ordered him out of the car. A second bandit then ran to the curb and they beat him about the face, Gehrke said.

The holdup victim told police the thugs took his wallet containing $60 in cash and a $114 check.

About an hour later, William E. Jackson, 42, 237 Marlborough Drive, Bloomfield Township, said he was held up at Bagley and Western streets, only three blocks away from the scene of the robbery.

Jackson said a bandit jumped into his car when he stopped for a red light at the intersection. After he was dragged out of his car, the thief fled with $127 from his wallet, Jackson said.

Neither Jackson nor Gehrke was seriously hurt by their assailants, police said.

The Day in Birmingham Young Man of the Year to Be Named by Jaycees

BIRMINGHAM — The area's Young Man of the Year will be named Monday by the Birmingham Junior Chamber of Commerce at its 10th annual awards banquet.

The Distinguished Service Award will be presented by the Jaycees at an 8 p. m. program at the Sylvan Glen Country Club in Troy.

Birmingham School Supt. Otis M. Dickey will be the guest speaker. His talk is entitled "The Field of Education."

Serving as master of ceremonies will be John Coulson, assistant to the sales manager of the Automobile Association of America.

In addition to the DSA presentation, citations honoring outstanding Jaycees and their bosses will be awarded.

The young man of the year has been selected from a field of candidates nominated by area Jaycees. Mayor Florence Willis, Chamber of Commerce Manager Charles Mortensen and Police Chief Ralph W. Mosley.

Donald R. Morris, immediate past president of the Birmingham Jaycees, is general chairman of the awards banquet.

The 1962 National Merit Scholarship qualifying test will be given to 11th grade students at Groves and Seaborn High schools on Saturday, March 10.

All students who wish to be considered for Merit Scholarships must take the test at that time. The test will be administered at both schools at 9 a. m.

The test is a three-day examination of educational development.

Last year, 84 Merit Scholarships were awarded. There are 3,775 Merit scholars attending 400 colleges this year. The result of the scholarship competition which is in its eighth year.

Funds for the scholarships are provided by the National Merit Corporation and sponsoring corporations, foundations, associations, unions and individuals.

Registrations for a new five-week course in gardening are being accepted at the Birmingham Community House.

Mrs. Alice Burlingame will conduct the two-hour class which will begin at 9:30 a. m. Students will be trained in therapeutic gardening.

Mrs. Howard B. Servis II, Service for Mrs. Howard B. Servis, 47, of 475 Squirrel Road, Bloomfield Hills, will be 11 a. m. Monday at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery, Detroit.

Mrs. Servis died at home Thursday following a brief illness.

Her late husband had been a former vice president of the S. S. Kresge Co. He died in 1946.

She was a member of the Congregational Church of Birmingham.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. William R. Russell of Bloomfield Hills and Mrs. Mark B. Covatta of Rochester, Minn.; a son, Robert C. of Birmingham; and 10 grandchildren.

Pontiac Business Damaged by Fire

A fire of undetermined origin damaged the interior of a combined laundromat and snack bar at the corner of South Sanford and Wilson streets early today.

Firemen, who were called out at 4:15 a. m., said the blaze started in a doorway at the U Wash 'N' Dry Laundromat, 490 S. Sanford St.

Flames spread to the adjacent snack bar in the one-story cement block building through an opening between the roof and ceiling. An estimate of damage was not available.

Firemen had the blaze extinguished in 1 1/2 hours.

The owner, Donald Mantell, 571 DeSoto Place, said his loss was not covered by insurance. Flames burned through the ceiling and there was smoke damage inside.

Northeast Hit by Heavy Snow; Traffic Stalls

CHICAGO (AP)—Wind-blown snow whirled across the Northeast today, blocking roads and grounding planes in some areas.

Up to 8 inches of snow piled up in a wide area of New York state. Buffalo and Syracuse airports were closed. Automobiles stalled.

Utica, N. Y., had 8 inches of snow, and Buffalo, 5 inches.

The storm dumped 6 inches of snow on Portland, Maine, and 5 in Portland, N. H. Early morning flights in and out of the Portland Airport were cancelled.

A mixture of snow, sleet and freezing rain put Boston traffic on a hazardous footing. The total accumulation there ranged from 2 to 4 inches.

AF Pilot Falls From His Plane

Escape Hatch Opens in Freak Mishap at 31,000 Feet

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—The commander of an Air Force B52 bomber fell from his plane Friday night while it was flying at an altitude of 31,000 feet over Thule, Greenland.

An Air Force spokesman said the commander was attempting to correct a minor electrical difficulty when the escape hatch was jettisoned accidentally and he fell out.

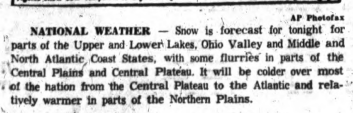

Air Force officials identified the plane commander as Maj. Earl R. Cain, Buffalo, N. Y., and listed him as missing and presumed dead.

The big plane had left Westover Air Force Base on a training mission to Greenland. It was at that time, however, that the signed to the 99th Bombardment Wing.

The controls were taken over by Lt. William E. Gierke, copilot of Buena Vista, Iowa. The plane landed safely at Thule.

Others aboard the plane were Maj. Franklin C. Trumpeter, Buena Vista, Iowa; Lt. Leonard J. Rainman, Euclid, Ohio; Lt. William E. Whitney, Greensboro, Mass.; Staff Sgt. Donald Duncan, Union, Mo.; and Lt. Col. Charles Schofield, San Diego, Calif.

ing again that life begins at 40. Not many 40-year-olds are likely to join in the new kind of American life you pioneered on Tuesday — at least until passengers carrying spacecraft become as ordinary as airplanes.

You're in so much better physical shape than many of us who are even short of 40 — say, 37.

You certainly know a lot more about such things as astronautics.

Just possibly, you're a bit braver.

"NOT A BAD AGE"

But although we can't go whirling around in space, you've heartened at least some of us by showing that 40 is maybe not so bad an age after all.

There were among us, before, those who just could not quite believe that old saw about the age when life gets really rolling. Perhaps some still don't.

John H. Glenn Jr., 40, Lieutenant Colonel, U.S. Marine Corps, is dean of the astronauts.

Because of his age edge, he is in a very informal way their leader. Some have adopted his fitness regimen, which includes daily two-mile runs.

(Think of that. Two miles. Come on, 40-year-olds!)

The astronauts, being pilots, know the value of experience and respect it. Glenn's wealth of it undoubtedly was a big factor in his selection to break tri-continental the untested orbiter barrier for Me country.

For proficiency in being a birdman, there also must be a willingness to keep polishing and learning. This is summed up by a sign, for the benefit of student pilots displayed at some airports:

"As long as you think you're green, you grow. But when you think you're ripe, you begin to get rotten."

STILL GROWING

At 40, Glenn is still growing — along with this business he is in. So his age has not held Glenn back a bit. The maturity probably helped him win this job, as a matter of fact.

His 40-year-old body took the intense stresses of orbital flight in stride. And his 40-year-old mind and nervous system remained calm during an experience that probably would have scared the wits out of an ordinary mortal of any age.

Dr. C. Wesley Depertuis, who helped select the seven astronauts, says Glenn could remain physically fit for space ventures for the next 15 years.

"Each of the astronauts is, of course, well built," he said.

But Glenn inherited the right amount of roundness in the right places to indicate to me that he could relax under great stress.

"Barring injury and if he stays in condition, which I'm sure he'll do, he will be able to stand the pressure of space flights to the age of 55 or more."

For the average American male at age 40, the remaining life expectancy is 25.5 years.

If Glenn maintains his youthfulness at the present rate, his outlook should be considerably better.

DELICATE SUBJECT

This is sort of a delicate subject in some quarters, but the fact must be faced that somewhere around the turn of their fifth decade quite a few men begin putting on a frost. Less politely, a pol.

These trademarks is a belt bearing evidence of several different matches having been used, or trousers under stress at the top.

To some, this is a matter of concern. Some try to do something about it, with varying degrees of success. Others just accept it, and adjust their clothing to their corpulence.

For those desiring to remedy such a problem, maybe Glenn can serve as an inspiration. After he became an astronaut, he took 20 pounds off his 160-lb., 30-inch frame.

All that running and other exercise did it for him.

MILLER AND HIS THIRD — Arthur Miller, 46-year-old Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright and former husband of Marilyn Monroe, and his bride, Ingeborg Morath, 38, Austrian-born photographer, pose outside their home in Roxbury, Conn., after their secret marriage last Saturday was revealed. They were married in New Milford, Conn., by a justice of the peace. It is Miller's third marriage and his bride's second.

Dog's Friendship Proves Too Much

LONDON (AP) — After four years of faithful friendship thrust on him by a liquid-eyed, black mongrel dog, John Shaw has had enough.

The trouble is, he told Westminster Magistrates Court Friday, the dog isn't his.

"I'm fed up with its maudlin affection," said Shaw, 38, a train engineer.

The dog, a 9-year-old crossbred Labrador named Timothy, first became interested in Shaw's mongrel female. But it soon transferred its affection to Shaw.

ALWAYS THERE

"Then everywhere I went, Timothy went," Shaw said. "Everytime I came out of the house, he was there. Everywhere I turned, there he was waiting for me."

The dog let his own home a mile away and hung around outside Shaw's house. At night it would howl under his window.

"He followed me to work," Shaw complained. "He jumps into the locomotive with me. I've even missed work several times because of him."

"You know, I couldn't even go for a drink. As soon as he realized where I'd gone, Timothy would be sitting outside the bar waiting for me and howling."

It was jealousy that finally wrote finis to the friendship.

One day another dog followed Shaw. Timothy got annoyed and attacked the interloper. In the scuffle Shaw was knocked over and Timothy accidentally bit his fingers.

"I know he didn't mean it," said Shaw. "He thinks far too much of me."

Shaw appealed to the magistrates, to order Timothy's owners to keep the dog under control.

The magistrates granted his request.

Lilly Reeve, the mongrel's owner said, "Timothy is just a sentimental old fool really. He is a perfectly normal and natural dog — just too friendly, that's all. It's going to be difficult, though. He's frequently dug tunnels under our fences to get out. We may have to give him tranquilizers."

Mary Tyler Moore Is Granted Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television wife Mary Tyler Moore, 24, has ended her real-life marriage to TV advertising executive Richard C. Meeker, 31.

Her husband resented her career, she testified.

A Superior Court judge granted her an uncontested divorce Friday and custody of their 5-year-old son.

She plays Laura, on the Dick van Dyke comedy show.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

CLINIC

The faith of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio G. Spafford of Chicago enabled them to overcome the loss of four daughters in the sinking of a ship and of a son in fever, and save the lives of others.

Mrs. Spafford "lifted her soul to God in an agony of despair and dedicated her life to His service," and Mr. Spafford "yearned to find peace in service." They went to Jerusalem in 1881 with friends, where they healed, taught and aided the Arab, continuing their service during two wars, during which they nursed the wounded "without distinction of creed or nationality, and in circumstances of danger." They established a tourist hotel, a clinic, a hospital for children.

Today, a daughter, Bertha Spafford Vester, continues her parents' American Colony Aid Association, remembering her fathers' words: "I have come to Jerusalem where my Lord lived, suffered and conquered. I hope to learn to live and conquer. How long we remain here is in the Lord's hands."

Days of All Faiths:

Converts Are Often Best Christians

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

There are two things to be said about Ethelbert, King of Kent at the end of the sixth century, the period when St. Augustine came from Rome, bringing Christianity to Britain for the second time.

Ethelbert illustrated that converts often make the best Christians. This is easy to understand. A person converts to Christianity after thoroughly examining facts which the hereditary Christian takes for granted or even ignores. The convert knows what he is doing and why. Ethelbert was a convert, and a good, sound understanding followed of the Lord.

Ethelbert was also responsible for changing the whole course of British history. This history of England is largely the history of the English Church. But if Ethelbert had been a different kind of person, there might not have been any English Church at all, or what ever church there was might have been in a very different form.

Here is what happened. In 596 Pope Gregory sent Augustine and a group of monks as missionaries to the British Isles. There had been an organized church in those islands in the early times, but in the middle of the fifth century it had been driven back into the hills by the Anglo-Saxon invaders and its effect was now negligible.

Ethelbert had been somewhat prepared (one might say "set") for the arrival of the missionaries by the fact that his wife Bertha, daughter of the King of Paris, was a devout Christian. She had brought a French Bishop with her to be her chaplain in Kent. Christianity was not an entirely strange thing to Ethelbert.

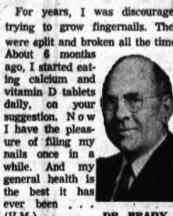

Even so, he started out by being a little wary of these foreigners. To ward off any magic or spells they might plan to use, he insisted on meeting them outdoors. But here again he showed the better chance of protecting him. Reassured by the fact that they tried no tricks, the King told them to go ahead freely and make all the converts they could.

It was not long before Ethelbert himself was converted and baptized, and, of course, thousands of his subjects followed. But here again he showed the kind of understanding that made him a great man and a saint. He refused to use his royal influence on anyone. He knew what many earnest Christians today apparently do not know—that evangelism is by prayer, teaching and example, but never by compulsion, even the mental kind of compulsion that so often masquerades as spiritual guidance.

Voice of the People:

'Why Shouldn't Romney Declare Religious Beliefs?'

In reply to "Also a Christian," Mr. Romney lives his religion 24 hours a day. Prayer and meditation is an integral part of his life. The press would not be giving a clear and complete picture of this man if they failed to report this important aspect.

If more people would declare their beliefs and live their religion boldly, strongly, and unashamedly, it would furnish a light and a guide to the world.

I wish to commend the editorial stating that George Romney is a God-fearing, straight-shooting man of unusual ability and standing. Mrs. Walter C. Schile

Low-Flying Planes Disrupt Family

A jet airport is being pushed on Orion and Oxford home owners. Once it is there, it's too late. Planes from the Pontiac airport fly directly over our home. The large ones shake the house and a great many times we're sure they will come through the roof.

Our three little ones used to sleep upstairs. Just about every night they were scared by the planes. No amount of settling or coaxing would get them back to their own beds. Now they sleep on cots in the living room.

Any airport that flies planes directly over a home should be compelled to buy the property.

One Who Knows

'Accredited Hospital Necessary for Aid'

In the article "Medical Assistance to the Aged," the Oakland County Medical Society neglected to add that the elderly must be admitted to an "accredited" hospital in order to receive any assistance.

If they are old and seriously ill it is not much help to find out you have entered them in a non-accredited hospital in their last hours. Please clarify article 4 on home nursing. As concerns this case, there was none.

The Almanac

By United Press International
This is Saturday, Feb. 24, the 56th day of the year with 310 to follow in 1962.

There is no morning or evening stars.

On this day in history:
In 1803, Chief Justice Marshall ruled that the U.S. Supreme Court had the power to declare invalid any act of Congress which, in the opinion of the court, was unconstitutional.

In 1868, impeachment proceedings began against President Johnson in the House of Representatives.

In 1922, the Frenchman known as "Bluebeard" was executed for murdering 10 of his 13 fiancées.

In 1945, American troops liberated Manila completely from Japanese occupation and control.
A thought for the day: Irish author George Bernard Shaw said, "You don't search to find your own in the world by standing on guard, but by attacking."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

How to Raise Church Attendance

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE L-42: Rev. Duane Hulse, aged about 40, is called "The Flying Parson" of Wisconsin.

He typifies the versatile modern clergyman who develops extra assets to help make contact with various age groups.

For example, he is a talented professional magician and uses some of his time in the sleight-of-hand experiments as DR. CRANE objects lessons for the children's sermons.

"Dr. Crane," he told me at a recent luncheon, "we are starting a new device to stimulate increased church attendance."

"For example, we have a great-by-miraged picture of our church, which is then cut into segments, much like a jigsaw puzzle.

"We mail one piece to each family on our church roster. Then we also include a letter telling them that our church life cannot be complete without their support and attendance."

"So we invite them to be sure to be present at least for one Sunday during the 'attendance contest' month."

"When they arrive, they pin their segment of our church picture in its proper place."

At a glance, therefore, all members of the congregation can see how many families have attended during the month, for those that have not appeared, will be evident by the blank spaces on the jigsaw picture.

"At the side of the picture, moreover, we have each piece numbered with the name of the family holding it."

"This is a novel, but very stimulating contact for encouraging a larger church attendance," Dr. Crane doesn't you think it is a good idea?"

JESUS USED PSYCHOLOGY
Yes, it is an excellent plan to visualize the percentage of church attendance, so I recommend it to all churches, Jewish, Catholic and Protestant.

And don't let an occasional old fogey turn up his nose at the use of modern psychological methods to help the churches.

For Jesus was the world's greatest Christian Psychologist, as you can read in more detail by going to your local library and perusing Chapter 13 of my college textbook, "Psychology Applied."

Therein I explain and document Christ's use of modern advertising strategy.

Briefly, you Bible scholars will recall that Jesus sent the 70 disciples ahead of him, two by two, to act as press agents or advance publicity men, to recruit larger crowds.

Christ also employed polls of public opinion.

Moreover, he was superb at the use of public platform psychology.

Thus, he enlisted audience participation by asking for a coin to hold aloft when he approved the 12 apostles' selection of paying tribute to Caesar.

Our churches are the very best antidotes in America for juvenile delinquency, Communism, divorce and even such medical ailments as peptic ulcer, high blood pressure, etc.

So utilize every legitimate device of modern psychology to help attract children to the churches, where they will obtain at least a little moral instruction.

And send for my booklet "Modern Sales and Advertising Strategy."

Satellite Stock Urged for $25

Sen. Keating Wants Shores Available to All Americans

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., urged today that stock in a government-sponsored communications satellite corporation be sold for as little as $25 so average Americans could share the program.

Keating said that the stock be sold in $1,000 denominations would limit the program to the very rich. "I hate to see the President limit participation in the space communication program to millionaires, when I am sure a lot of less prosperous but equally patriotic and equally space-minded citizens would love to have a chance to support the idea, too," he said.

Convertible debentures might be sold for as little as $25 apiece, Keating said in an address for the Women's Press Club of New York.

TREASURY OBJECTED—Keating said he proposed last year that the government lease space bonds, but the Treasury objected it would mean bookkeeping problems.

Keating said he has asked the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the National Space Council to work out a plan under which small investors could buy shares in the corporation.

Kennedy has asked Congress to charter a communications satellite corporation to build space stations to relay messages all over the world.

JFK'S PLAN—Under the President's plan, the corporation would issue up to one-million shares of class A stock available at $1,000 a share.

Dividend would be paid on class A stock, but they probably would be slow in coming because of the initial output required. A commercial satellite system could cost $300 million or more.

The corporation also would issue up to 10,000 shares of class B stock, which wouldn't pay dividends or carry voting rights.

Lashes Bigotry in North Schools—Negro Attorney Says Desegregation Fight is as Intense as in South

DETROIT (AP)—A young Negro attorney who successfully led a school desegregation battle in New Rochelle, N.Y., believes the battle in northern schools is just as intense as in the South.

"In the South they wear white sheets and in the North they wear suits and ties," attorney Paul Zuber told more than 250 members of the National Lawyers Guild at their silver anniversary conference here Friday.

"Rights in the North they may not be as brutal but they are more sophisticated," Zuber was the main speaker on a panel reviewing legal means of speeding school integration in all parts of the U.S.

Another Negro attorney, Len Holt, of Norfolk, Va., challenged Zuber's statement by saying the North and South, in desegregation terms, are "not even the same world."

"You worry about enforcing your rights in the courts," said Holt. "We in the South have no rights and we would be happy to trade problems with you up here."

Ben Smith, an attorney from New Orleans, described public opinion in the South as "a millstone around our necks," because, he said, courts and politicians tend to follow it. He urged that all efforts to integrate schools start with attempts to "change public opinion."

Beefs Up Hamburger by Police in Thailand—NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner has signed a law to beef up hamburger sold in the city's stores. The measure, signed Friday by the mayor, limits the amount of fat content allowed in chopped meat to 30 per cent.

Kill School Measure—RANGOON, Burma (AP)—A move to nationalize private schools in Burma was withdrawn in Parliament Friday after the minister of education said constitutional guarantees of educational freedom were at stake. Most of the private schools are operated by Christian brothers and nuns.

Gas Dishwasher—A completely new type of dishwasher, the Preway Gas Dishwasher, is now available locally. Water, heated to 180 degrees, is sprayed from the sides of the unit. Tests have shown that all communicable germs on dishes are killed. The unit is an under-the-counter one with a removable front that permits the use of whatever finish the consumer desires. The dishwasher holds up to 12 place settings.

Gas Dishwasher Makes Debut—The first gas dishwasher on the market was introduced in Pontiac this week. This appliance which cost the manufacturer, Preway, Inc. of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., one million dollars to perfect has some revolutionary features. Water heated to 180 degrees is whirled onto dishes in both racks from twin wash arms. For the second rinse the water is heated to 180 degrees. The entire cycle, including heating of the water takes about 45 minutes. A flexible rack arrangement allows easy stacking of dishes and pots and pans. Tests have shown that the 180-degree rinse kills all communicable germs. An automatic wetting agent is added to the final rinse to make the water wetter for spot-free dishes and glassware. The Preway dishwasher will mount under any standard 36-inch counter. It is available locally.

Dominican Chief Goes Into Field—Gathers Volunteers in Effort to Rescue Cane Crop From Fire

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—President Rafael Bonnelly led hundreds of volunteers into the cane fields Friday in an attempt to save the sugar crop from the torches of saboteurs. Bonnelly and other members of his government council went into the fields after announcing leftist Dominicans and followers of the late Dictator Rafael L. Trujillo had already burned about 245,000 tons of cane worth $2.7 million.

Eye New Man for Fire Dept.—Request for Lieutenant to Be Considered by Waterford Twp. Board

A request from the Waterford Township civil service commission asking that a lieutenant be added to the fire department will be considered at the Waterford Township Board meeting Monday night.

Civil service president Charles Zamek appeared at last Monday's meeting asking that a lieutenant be selected from the ranks of the department's driver-engineers.

The commission head stated that ideally the department should have another captain and two lieutenants but added that he realized this request was not feasible at the present time.

If the board approves the new officer, it would mean that an officer would be on duty five days a week.

The fire department pay scale, discussed briefly a week ago, is also scheduled for further consideration at Monday's meeting.

Another item on the agenda for the board meeting is the proposed rezoning of a small parcel of property on Tilden at Elizabeth Lake Road from residential to commercial. The parcel is adjacent to a service station.

Adventists
Ending Drive

Dr. Glenn Bylsma Plans Distribution of Leaflet Entitled 'Survivor'

A drive to secure signatures of one million people on no-smoke, no-drink pledges were concluded this morning at the Pontiac Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Dr. Glenn Bylsma, temperance secretary for the church, said that the Adventist churches across the nation also will participate in the drive.

"The pledges," he said, "will be formed into one large document to be presented before the Seventh-day Adventist quadrennial World Council scheduled for San Francisco this summer."

Dr. Bylsma plans to invite members to take part in distributing a leaflet entitled "Survivor."

He explained that survival does not depend solely on escaping fallout from nuclear blasts but also on escaping the toxic effects of less recognized dangers present in alcohol and tobacco.

There are at least 10 million problem drinkers in America, the leaflet points out, and one out of every 21 is an alcoholic. It also states that for every cigarette a man smokes, he loses off from his life about 14 1/2 minutes or about 5 hours a pack.

Dr. Bylsma said that upon request the church would provide information to assist any who wish to break smoking or drinking habits.

Howard A. Noodel is speaking on "Criticism" at the 5 p.m. Young People's Missionary Volunteer Hour today. Musical numbers include a vocal duet by Linda Bloom and Trudy Lane and a solo by Sandra Saville.

Pastor John P. Erhard will conduct the study of "Pilgrim's Progress" at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Loyalty Sunday
Workers Make Calls on Parishioners, Return to Church for Reports

Rev. Maurice Shackelford, pastor, will preach on "If Jesus Came Today" at the morning services tomorrow when St. Paul Lutheran Church observes its annual Loyalty Sunday.

The visitors and team captains will be commissioned for the task at 10:45 a.m. Following the 12:30 luncheon in the church basement visitors and captains will make calls in homes of parishioners. They will return to the church for reports at 6 p.m.

Loyalty Sunday is the climax of an 8-week stewardship program. Some of the aims of the endeavor are to demonstrate spiritual concern for inactive members and reclaim them for the church; to encourage greater attendance at worship services and Holy Communion; to strengthen Christian family life through daily study of the Bible and through private and family prayer.

The purpose of the program also is to effect greater cooperation between the church and the home in the program of Christian instruction; to intensify the evangelism program through mission activity; and to stress the Christian's time, talent and treasure.

It is also aimed to keep members informed in the work of the church at home and in foreign fields; and to increase enrollment and attendance in educational agencies and service organizations.

St. Paul Lutheran Church, 1000 E. 12th St., will hold its annual Loyalty Sunday services at 10:45 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Sunday. The church is located on the corner of 12th and E. 12th Sts.

Oakland Ave. Stresses Attending Sunday School

With about 725 people now enrolled in the Sunday School, teachers of all classes at Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church are getting ready for a concentrated effort for 100 per cent attendance from March 1 through the end of June.

Special recognition will be given the outstanding classes in this effort in July.

"Blessings From Books" will be the theme of the Pioneer youth group at 8:45 p. m. Sunday, "Tens by Delinquency" will be the Builders topic at the same hour.

At 7 p. m. Jacob DeBruin, international director of Child Evangelism Fellowship, will be guest speaker. The main work of C. E. F. consists of conducting Good News Clubs for elementary school children in homes after school hours.

Special music will include a vocal solo by Bill Coffing and a number by the Crusader Choir.

Wednesday evening prayer meeting will be at 7:30.

Dr. Harry Love will be speaker for the Christian Life Emphasis scheduled from March through 16. Dr. Love is a staff evangelist on the Billy Graham Team. Soloist for the two weeks will be Homer James, "Talent Caravan" contest winner on the radio.

Men Meeting for Prayer Wednesdays at Central

Every Wednesday morning from 6:30 to 7 from now until Easter, men of Central Methodist Church are meeting for prayer services. These prayer meetings are divided into three 10-minute intervals.

The first period is spent in private devotion; the second is for an inspirational message given by a layman; and the third for public prayers.

For those who can remain, breakfast is served following the meeting.

Leading the meetings in successive weeks will be Richard H. Hartstein who is the dean of Long Island University.

Chaplaincy and educators who are interested in joining the 30-day study tour may apply for details at the offices of the committee, located at 515 Park Ave., New York City.

The Inter-University Committee on Israel, organized in early 1961, is a nonpolitical body of American educators seeking to promote a better understanding between America and Israel through the initiation of a dialogue between American and Israeli scholars and religious leaders, and the creation of opportunities for the objective study of Israel's society.

Members of the group will meet with their counterparts in Israel at seminars and conferences.

They will also meet with governmental leaders in an effort to gain insights into Israel's problems in the building of an integrated society of people who have come from widely divergent backgrounds.

Participants will tour the length and breadth of Israel, visit the holy places, important archeological sites, the major academic institutions, and have an opportunity at first hand to explore the cultural and religious life of the country.

Celebrates 138th Birthday

First Presbyterian Church will observe its 138th anniversary of service in the community at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. hours of worship Sunday, Rev. Galen E. Hershey, pastor, will preach on the subject, "Facts, Faith and the Future."

A special anniversary offering will be received to be used for Church School improvements.

It was on Feb. 26, 1824 that the Rev. Eldad Goodman, a home missionary and member of the Geneva Presbytery in New York State, organized First Presbyterian Church in the country home of John and Mary Voorhees on the corner of Opdyke Road and Grand Trunk Trail.

Of the 13 charter members seven had migrated to Michigan from New York. Increasing numbers followed with the completion of the Erie Canal in 1825.

When the Rev. Mr. Goodman left the church it was well organized. The same year Rev. Isaac W. Ruggles came as pastor. His salary was $300 a year with the Geneva Presbytery paying 425 of the amount.

From these humble beginnings First Presbyterian has grown to 1,365 members and last year gave $44,741 to missions.

For the first 20 years, the congregation worshipped without a church building, meeting in homes of members as did the New Testament church. In 1844 a red brick church was built on the corner of Saginaw and Huron Streets.

The next building was a larger structure erected on the corner of Huron and Wayne in 1871. In 1914 fire ruined the building. The present edifice was completed and dedicated in 1924.

FORMS PRESBYTERY
In 1828 First Presbyterian of Pontiac united with First Presbyterian Church of Detroit and the Farmington Church to form the Presbytery of Detroit.

Over the years the local congregation has contributed financially to some extent in the organization of almost every former Presbyterian Church in this Presbytery and has mothered five churches in Oakland County, namely Rochester, Birmingham, Farmington, Troy and White Lake.

A study committee of elders and trustees, in consultation with denominational officials, is developing a long term plan for the future of the church.

Committee members are William Kalwitz, chairman, Robert Anderson, Earl Bartlett, Gordon Doule, Charles Galloway, John K. Irwin Jr., Ted Koelsa and Philip Mench.

Elders Donald Dickerson and Mr. Bartlett will accompany the pastor as commissioners to the night of the day, they cannot yet then be false to any man.—Shakespeare.

Yugoslavian Children Get Lunch From U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lutheran World Relief and Church World Service are sponsoring a school-lunch program in Yugoslavia that has reached 2.5 million children. Harold Hane Land, director of the program, reports.

Lund said the provision of a cup of milk and a piece of bread to each of the children every day is a genuine contribution to their health.

Format Hasn't Changed in 27 Years

3 Million Order Upper Room

NEW YORK (UPI) — The major popular magazines are fighting for readers and advertising dollars, while one of the world's most successful periodicals quietly thrives on the same message and format it presented in its first issue 27 years ago.

The magazine is The Upper Room. Its message is the Scriptures. Its commercials "plug" the Bible. Its readers are everywhere.

The Upper Room was founded by The Methodist Church, but it is non-denominational in content. Three million persons subscribe to the bimonthly magazine. An estimated 10 million individuals read the 40 editions in 34 languages that are circulated in 100 countries.

There are Braille and recorded editions for blind persons, and radio and television devotional transcriptions are carried by more than 1,000 stations.

The Upper Room was founded in 1935 by the Rev. Dr. Grover Carleton Emmons, who put together brief and understandable interpretations of Bible texts, simple prayers and suggested readings.

The first edition was almost ready to go to press before Emmons decided on a name for the magazine. He was attending a morning devotional in Centenary Church, Richmond, Va., when he heard a reference to "the upper room." Minutes later, he sent word back to his Nashville, Tenn., headquarters to make that the name of the new devotional guide.

IMPORTANT ROLE
The "Upper Room" figures importantly in Christianity. It was the room in Jerusalem where the Lord's Supper and the washing of the disciples' feet took place.

It is known as the site of the Pentecostal baptism of the Holy Spirit.

From its first appearance, the publication was a success. The introductory edition of 100,000 copies sold out.

By January 1955 The Upper Room had reached the million mark. Now more than 3 million subscribers are on the magazine's rolls.

Among them are 70,000 churches, some of which subscribe for every member. One church has a blanket subscription for all its 4,000 members.

The Upper Room is published at the Methodist offices in Nashville. There is in the building an Upper Room sanctuary for prayer and meditation and one of the finest Biblical museums and libraries in the country. Not only do daily devotionals appear in the magazine itself, but persons at headquarters often heed appeals for special prayers to be said in the chapel.

MANY CONTRIBUTIONS.
There are no dramatic stories in The Upper Room. Each issue contains a scripture reading, a brief inspirational story of about 175 words and a prayer and a thought for the day.

In one year, as many as 311 writers contribute meditations, which are checked for accuracy and suitability by the 125-member staff.

These devotionals are used as a basis for prayer or study group meetings, for family devotions, in church meetings and by individuals meditating alone.

They appeal to the layman, minister, professor and theologian and are universal enough to have been read by soldiers in foxholes, a Cuban fighting in the revolution that overthrew dictator Fulgencio Batista, prisoners of war and refugees from Communist China.

The price of the magazine has increased only slightly in 27 years. Originally it was 5 cents a copy. Now it is 7 cents. Under the direction of its present editor, Dr. J. Manning Potts, the Upper Room also has a catalogue of 125 titles of devotional material in addition to the bimonthly magazine.

Languages in which the magazine appears include Arabic, Gujarati, Hindi, Ilocano, Marathi, Telugu, Urdu, Ilocano, Santali and Bengali.

Not all the editions are as sleek in appearance as those in some of the major languages. Several foreign editions appear in mimeograph or on typed-carbon sheets. One of these is edited by T. C. Woo, former manager of the Oia Elevator Co. in China and one-time chairman of the board of trustees of Nanking University. Woo, who holds a graduate degree from Columbia University, fled to Hong Kong, where he edits a Chinese refugee edition of the Upper Room. Between 4,000 and 5,000 mimeographed copies appear every other month.

Woo says his effort is "a labor of love."

Christ Lutheran Plans Banquet

Wayne H. Budehammer
Juvenile Section Head of State Police, Speaker

Speaking at the Father and Son Banquet at Christ Lutheran Church Wednesday evening will be Wayne H. Budehammer, head of the juvenile section of the State Police detective bureau. The banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Introducing the speaker will be Charles Sifton, program chairman. Assisting with the affair will be Charles Rolter and John Akala.

Robert Ball will bring a message to the boys and men Terry will give the response to dads.

Following a community singing and a question and answer period, Rev. Wayne Peterson will give the closing remarks.

Mr. Budehammer served at the Clinton and Detroit posts after graduation from recruit school.

He was promoted to corporal in 1954, then transferred to the operations and communication bureau at East Lansing. He was reassigned to the Detroit post in 1958.

In 1958 Mr. Budehammer was assigned to the special investigation squad as head of the juvenile section. He holds four citations for meritorious service.

The Wednesday evening speaker attended Western Michigan University and Kalamazoo College.

Detective Budehammer wrote the booklet, "Law Enforcement and Youth," released in 1961, which is designed as a department policy guide to help officers with juvenile matters.

Serve Rural Families With Mobile Library

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — A group of Southern Baptists has organized a mobile library to serve small rural churches.

The First Baptist Church of Huntsville bought $400 worth of books on subjects ranging from psychology and prayer to Baptist doctrine and family worship.

The library will be taken from church to church in a portable cabinet and members will be able to borrow volumes.

Today the trend is reversed, and the young people want to be a part of the "New Algeria" in whatever form it may develop.

Here, for the first time, is the great opportunity for the development of a strong, indigenous church. Young people are getting the best education possible in order to serve in Algeria and Tunisia, and more young Christian families are forming and settling in these countries.

Research and planning for the new edition was begun in 1956 by the Rev. Dr. Gilbert Darling, now a consultant to the society, but then occupying the post of treasurer. Dr. Darling feared that there was or would be any certain records of the Bible times and undertook to gather the pictures.

These pictures include a record of inscriptions, statues, temples and cities of Biblical times. The Corinth Canal, started by the Jews with Jewish slaves, the pavement where Christ stood before Pilate, excavations of the palace of Herod Agrippa at Jericho, the mosaic of the Last Supper, and the things Jesus, his disciples and Paul saw — are shown.

To facilitate reading, the text is arranged in paragraph form with chapter and verse markings. Many of the photographs are of geographical areas and objects which are virtually unchanged since the lifetime of Jesus and the apostles.

Twenty-one photographs were taken from the air, while others were taken of such items as mosaics, statues, manuscripts, wall paintings, glassware, coins and similar items.

For some photographs, lengthy negotiations sometimes lasting as much as three years, were required. One such picture was of the small volcanic island of Paul, where John wrote the Book of Revelation, and which required the permission of the air ministries of the British and Greek governments. The Greek Information Service and the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board.

The society has distributed more than 100 million volumes of Scriptures since it was founded in 1918. It is a nonprofit organization supported by churches and individuals in the United States.

Print 'New Testament With Pictures'

The New Testament With Pictures, a new, profusely illustrated paperback edition in the King James Version to sell for one dollar was announced Friday by the American Bible Society. A similar edition, in Spanish, was published simultaneously.

The project required more than ten years to develop and was hailed as a "milestone" by society officials. It was produced by roto-gravure, has 256 pages, 8 1/2 x 11 1/2, and contains 566 photographs, nine maps and six diagrams to illustrate and clarify various portions of the New Testament in the light of recent archaeological and historical studies.

There are pictures of Caesarea, Sidon, Cyprus, Myra, Claudia, Syracuse and St. Paul's Bay at Malta, where Paul journeyed by ship, with drawings of the kinds of ships he sailed and the kinds of coins he used.

Council of Men Plan Retreat

Pastor Preaching on
'Beatitudes' at Orchard
Lake Community

The Council of Men of the Orchard Lake Community Church, Presbyterian is sponsoring a retreat for men next Saturday. Breakfast will be served at the church at 7 a.m.

Rev. Edward D. Auchard will present an introduction to the Letter to the Romans. This will be followed by periods of Bible reading and group discussion.

The retreat will conclude at noon with the Sacrament of Holy Communion.

The pastor will continue his series of sermons on the Beatitudes tomorrow with the subject "The Blessed Hunger." The Crusader Choir will sing "Sabbath Bells" by Stainer at the 9 a.m. service. The church choir will furnish music at 11 a.m.

Fred Fuller and Sylvia Pasco will sing "Be Thou Exalted" by Huhn as an offertory duet.

Senior High Fellowship will get together for a study period at 6 p.m. tomorrow. Pastor Auchard will bring a series of Inquirers classes for adults at 8 p.m.

Boy Scouts and their families will meet for a cooperative dinner Monday evening. A Court of Honor will follow dinner.

Rev. Mr. Auchard will speak at the Tuesday meeting of the Women's Association of the Greater Pontiac Woods Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Auchard will be a guest.

On Tuesday evening the Auchards and Charles Unbehaun, an elder, will represent the Orchard Lake Church at a meeting of Presbytery at Dearborn Woods Presbyterian Church.

J.O. Sarto was elected chairman of the board of trustees; William Iron, stewardship chairman; Martin Strahl, secretary; Ros Reeves, house committee; and Martin Helmreich, superintendent of parking and grounds.

Forte-Payne Rites Held at Birmingham Church

A reception in The Kingsley Inn, Bloomfield Hills, followed the vows of Elizabeth Ann Forte to Thomas W. Payne, at one o'clock today in Our Lady Queen of Martyrs Church, Birmingham.

Rev. Robert Wilson of Wendell, N.C., performed the ceremony. Rev. Leslie A. Hubert, pastor, offered the solemn high priestly Mass, assisted by Rev. Charles Sullivan, O.F.M., and Rev. Ray Eiler, O.F.M., both of DePaul University, Chicago.

Daughter of Mrs. Christopher A. Forte of Birmingham and the late Mr. Fort, the bride was given in marriage by her half-brother, Roy John. The Joseph A. Payne of Montrose, Ala. and Coral Gables, Fla., are parents of the bridegroom who resides in Birmingham.

A veil of champagne silk illusion caught by a crystal tulle complemented the bride's floor-length gown of champagne silk bombazine. The fitted bodice of Chantilly lace, embroidered with seed pearls, featured a jeweled neckline and long tapered sleeves. She carried a semi-cascade of white hydrangeas, roses and gardenias.

Mrs. John P. Doherty of Detroit, her sister's only attendant, wore prison-blue tulle silk organza and long over tulle and held a cascade of Yuletide roses.

On the equine side were best man Dr. Edward E. Amis, Miami, Fla., and ushers, Dr. Michael E. Christopher, John P. Doherty and James H. McCormick, all of Detroit, and Dr. Donald B. Schmucker, B. Chas. Shores.

After a honeymoon in New York City, the couple will live in Birmingham. She are graduates of University of Detroit where Mr. Payne also received his law degree.

White cymbidium orchids accented Mrs. Forte's gown of Wedgwood blue lace. The mother of the bridegroom chose beige silk in which she pinned beige cymbidium orchids.

Sorority Holds Social Evening

Members of Beta Beta Chapter, Lambda Chi Omega Sorority were guests of Mrs. Charles Kistner of Ward Road, Bloomfield Township for a social evening Thursday, Mrs. George Silt, Mrs. Georgia Thornberry, and Mrs. Robert Holloway shared hostess honors.

Singing the guest register were Mrs. James Davis, Mrs. John Mack, Mrs. Harold Sells, Union Lake and Mrs. Richard Knapp, Birmingham. National inspection of the group is scheduled for March 3.

Discuss Stewardship at Fellowship Meeting

First Congregational Church Women's Fellowship's Friday meeting centered on a stewardship discussion led by Mrs. Ross Walls.

After studying "The Meaning of Stewardship," the women contributed to the scholarship fund of Piedmont College in Demorest, Ga., one of the church's continuing projects.

Saybrook Group, under chairmanship of Mrs. James Ahoer, served luncheon to some 50 members and guests.

Mrs. Philip Viessch led the group in a study of February's Psalm, and Mrs. Edward Rader offered the invocation and

JUDITH ANN CASTELL

Engagement Revealed

Formal announcement of the engagement of Judith Ann Castell to E. Roger Smith will be announced as a family dinner this evening in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Castell of East Iroquois Road.

Miss Castell attended Michigan State University where her fiancé was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity prior to his graduation. His parents are the E. M. Smiths of Lawrence. The bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Daniel G. Castell and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Nicholls of East Iroquois Road.

Two for afternoon tea can be any time of the year in the original mold of raw silk textured fashions. A silk-like blend of Multi-Cupions and Arvon rayons serves as inspiration for a Far Eastern color theme, using natural silk colors with orange and brown accents for the classic shirtwaist at the left. Slimming vertical bands of these colors pique fashion interest in sheath styling (right).

Tell Your Parents—Abby

Better to Annul Marriage Than Noisy Divorce Later

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am going to school away from home. During the holiday vacation my boy friend (back home) and I were secretly married. No one knows but my mother.

three years before she had this adorable baby.

We are allowed to visit only once a week. When Teddy sees us, he stretches out his little arms to be held, but my daughter says, "No, no, Teddy!" He starts to cry, begging to be picked up, but his mother ignores him and lets him cry because the book says so.

She says she isn't going to have a "spoiled brat" on her hands. This bothers me so much I wonder if we shouldn't stay away and try to forget her and the baby?

ONCE-A-WEEK GRANDMA
DEAR GRANDMA: I don't know by which "book" your daughter is attempting to raise her child, but she should discard it in favor of some old-fashioned common sense. A baby needs to be held, and cuddled, to feel secure and loved.

REGRETS: The next time you see your "husband" tell him honestly how you feel about the marriage. Talk it over with your parents.

If you feel that the marriage was a mistake, better to have a quiet annulment now than a noisy divorce later, perhaps involving children.

DEAR ABBY: I am the broken-hearted grandmother of a precious 13-month-old boy. He is the child of our only daughter, who was married

I try to be polite and I don't want to embarrass my boy, but I would like to keep these nifty girls out of my house. I thought boys went to the girls' houses if they wanted to see them. Have times changed?

MOTHER OF BOYS
DEAR MOTHER: No, times have not changed. Nifty girls have always gone to boys' houses. But boys who don't want to be picked up by their mothers, they know how to discourage them. Don't blame the girls. Apparently your boys have made them feel welcome.

How is the world treating you? Unload your problems on Abby.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50c to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press.

No grandmother can "forget" her own daughter and grandchild. Keep visiting and abide by her rules. She'll grow up with your parents.
DEAR ABBY: I have two teen-aged sons. Every year after school I have GIRLS in my hair. If they don't come home with my boys, they come later by themselves. They hang around and don't know enough to go home.
I have work lined up for my boys to do, but they never get around to it because the girls are here bothering them.

Cosgrove-Weitz Vows Solemnized

White satin bows marked the new in St. Michael Church where Mary Kathleen Weitz exchanged vows with Lawrence J. Cosgrove II of West Huron at one o'clock today. Rev. Charles E. Cushing performed the ceremony at an altar backed with white chrysanthemums, magnolias and gladioli.

Parents of the newlyweds are the Robert Weitzes of Melrose Avenue and the Cecil J. Cosgroves of Whittemore Street.

Alcon lace accented the bride's gown of champagne silk organza styled with beaded neckline, bodiciant skirt and chapel train. She wore pure silk illusion veiling and held a semicascade of gardenias, lilies of the valley and ivy. Maid of honor, Mrs. Peter Lailood of Mt. Clemens, appeared in mulberry red tulle. Yuletide roses and garnet roses with carnations were vested on her white fur muff.

Wearing royal blue taffeta were bridesmaids Rachel Scott, Susan Cosgrove, Carolee Truett, Joan Lehman, Sandra Berrie and Judith Graham. Yuletide roses topped their white fur muffs.

Donald Chase stood as best man. Seating guests were Daniel Kimmel, David Weitz, Lawrence Chambers, Robert Hocking, and Nicholas Pavlakis, all of Pontiac; Raymond Taulbee, Walled Lake; Robert Courtney, Milwaukee, Wis. and Robert Ottman, New York City.

Sheryl Boes, Clarkston, and Daniel Russell, Traverse City were flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

Following a candlelight reception in the Knights of Pythias Hall, the bride donned a yellow wool ensemble for travel to Chicago. The couple will be at home on Murphy Avenue after March 5. Yuletide roses accented Mrs. Weitz's dress of beige silk and blue silk for the mother of the bridegroom.

NLRB Probing Union Election

Teamsters Claim IAM Used Unfair Methods in Vote at Whirlpool

ST. JOSEPH (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board has opened an investigation of charges that the International Association of Machinists (IAM) engaged in unfair campaign practices in a bargaining election at the Whirlpool Corp. plant here.

The complaint was filed Friday in the NLRB's district office in Detroit by Local 28 of the Teamsters Union, which lost to the IAM in a vote among some 1,500 Whirlpool employees last Tuesday.

Thomas Rounell, district director of the NLRB, said his office has already started a probe of the charges. The investigation will delay certification of the election results for at least two weeks, he added.

The Teamsters charged that the IAM's Local 28 had printed and distributed articles derogatory to the Teamsters before the election, and that the company sent employees a letter.

The Teamsters had petitioned for the NLRB election in an attempt to take over bargaining agent responsibility from the IAM, which represents all but 76 of the Whirlpool Corp. plant's hourly employees.

The IAM had charged prior to the election that the Teamsters were trying to upset bargaining negotiations on a new contract to replace one which will expire March 31.

The vigorous campaign reached a climax last Sunday when Teamsters President James R. Hoffa and IAM Vice President Floyd Smith each spoke at mass rallies in support of their union.

PEARL RIVER, N. Y. (AP)—Kenneth Hoyt, a blacksmith who never shod a horse, his wife says, is going to work for an auto company.

The Ford Motor Co. complained recently that it needed a blacksmith in its plant at Mahwah, N. J., but not one was to be found. The company advertised its appeal in newspapers and radio stations Friday.

Not one, but eight blacksmiths responded to the call. One was the 36-year-old Hoyt, a smith for about 12 years. He will work forging special tools for assembly work.

"When people ask me what he does," Hoyt's wife said, "I tell them he's a blacksmith and they say, 'Oh, he shoes horses.' And I say, 'No.'"

"I don't believe he ever put a shoe on a horse," she said, "but he told me once he knew how."

ASTRONAUT'S FAMILY — The family of John H. Glenn Jr. sits on the front row during his news conference at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

It's Too Exciting

Glenns Off for Reunion

By MARTHA COLE
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The wife and two teen-age children of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. kept saying they weren't fired. "It's too exciting," Mrs. Glenn said.

But there was a brief disappearance from the public eye to day and this weekend for the small brunette wife, Ann, 41; and David, 16, and Lynn, 14. They were off for a family reunion at an undisclosed spot.

This family of America's space hero went through all the upsurge of presidential welcome and public acclaim with excitement in their eyes Friday. But they kept their natural friendliness and charm.

"Just awfully nice people," their neighbors back home in Arlington, Va., call them.

Glenn, sometimes with his arm around his wife's waist, guided his family through the welcoming ceremonies at this missile base.

Then at his news conference he introduced his wife as "the real brains and the power in my household." He introduced David and Lynn, too.

SPECIAL PIN

Mrs. Glenn wore a special pin on her cherry-red silk suit—a small oval gold pin engraved with words about the Mercury space project and set with two small rubies.

The astronaut had it "somewhere on him," she said, when he orbited the earth. He gave it to her when they met Friday morning for the first time since his space trip.

Glenn himself passed up a chance to mention this gift to his wife. When someone asked him at the news conference about personal touches on the flight, "None to speak of."

CARRIED CITATION

Lynn carried the presidential citation for her father, and David carried the box in which came the medal President Kennedy pinned on the astronaut.

Lynn, pretty, freckle-faced and more exuberant than her quiet, reserved brother, has red hair like her father and looks like him. She gave a big grin when someone in the crowd yelled at Glenn asking how about a date with Lynn.

"I know you too well," Glenn retorted with a grin. "I wouldn't let my daughter out with you."

Glenn's family had pink noses and windblown hair (except David—he has a crew cut) before the day at the cape in the hot sunshine was over.

They sat, listening intently, on the front row during the news conference. Glenn had briefed his family thoroughly before his flight and they followed it on television at their home.

It's back to their contemporary brick home in Arlington Monday on the presidential jet from Palm Beach, and more public accolade.

For this week-end, Glenn had a chance to tell his family all about the mission that made him a hero to America.

mission, a never-ending progression toward the realization of a dream," he said.

Hill said the schools must be more realistic about what America was, and what it could be.

"Our students," he said, "will not understand their own country, its potential, its needs or its goals by just reading standard texts or tracing Grant South or drawing daisies."

"They need to know what is being proposed for us by politicians, by statesmen, by philosophers, and by crackpots—they need to be able to distinguish between the four they need to know how to evaluate, they need to be able to come up with their own objective conclusions."

Hill emphasized the need for a commitment to quality, and improvement of standards, and a willingness to accept change.

"The new interstate highways are not being built with shovels," he said. "Astronauts are not riding in balloons. Cancer will not be cured with castor oil or aspirin. We need to utilize the best possible techniques, new or old. We need to base our actions on research, not optimism."

Hill said quality education depended on quality teachers. He urged stricter standards of admission to teacher education programs, and more rigorous and extensive teacher training.

About 7,500 high school and junior high school principals from coast to coast were expected for the five-day meeting, which opened today.

The plan was filed in U.S. District Court as a suggested final order in an antitrust case that has been in the courts for 12 years.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in May 1961 ruled that E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. must divest itself of its GM shares—worth about $5.5 billion. It left it up to Judge Walter J. La Bay to hand down the detailed disposal plan.

The Du Pont plan proposed: Divestiture would start within 90 days of the date of Judge La Bay's order—expected soon.

It would be completed in three years.

Du Pont will dispose of its heavy GM holdings by distributing them to Du Pont stockholders "by such methods or combination of methods as the company shall elect."

Red China Says Support by American Military Threat to Peace in Asia

TOKYO (AP)—Peiping charged today that U. S. military support of South Viet Nam seriously affected the security of Red China and Communist North Viet Nam and threatened the peace of Asia.

The United States is already in an undeclared war in South Viet Nam," Peiping said in a state news broadcast by the New China news agency.

Peiping denounced what it called the armed U. S. intervention in South Viet Nam.

'CANNOT CONTINUE'

"This state of affairs cannot be allowed to continue," the Peiping statement said. "The Chinese (Communist) government holds that the co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva Conference and the countries concerned must promptly hold consultations and take appropriate measures to eliminate the serious danger of war in southern Viet Nam."

Peiping said, "Recently, the United States of America has become more and more bold and unscrupulous in its intervention and aggression in southern Viet Nam."

The statement called on the United States to stop at once its armed intervention in South Viet Nam and immediately withdraw all its military men and equipment there."

Peiping said, "The armed U. S. Imperialist intervention and aggression in southern Viet Nam constitutes a direct threat to the security of North Viet Nam and it also seriously affects the security of (Communist) China and the peace of Asia."

The United States has about 4,000 troops in South Viet Nam to train and supply the pro-Western government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

American troops are not regarded as combat forces but have orders to shoot back if fired upon. They go on some military missions with South Vietnamese units as advisers.

Accident surveys among farm people show that during the summer and early fall the accidental death rate is about 23 per cent higher than during the remainder of the year.

Says Education Needs Newer, Higher Goals

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—American education needs new and higher goals, and a good start would be to "stop fooling students and the public about what an education is."

Warren G. Hill, state commissioner of education from Maine, had that blunt message for a national convention of high school principals today.

"Education isn't the three R's, or homework, or unending facts, or a Phi Beta Kappa key, or a high school diploma, or a degree from an Ivy League college," Hill said in a keynote speech to the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

"MUST BE REALISTIC" "Education is a state of mind, a sense of responsibility, a commitment, a never-ending progression toward the realization of a dream," he said.

"They need to know what is being proposed for us by politicians, by statesmen, by philosophers, and by crackpots—they need to be able to distinguish between the four they need to know how to evaluate, they need to be able to come up with their own objective conclusions."

Hill emphasized the need for a commitment to quality, and improvement of standards, and a willingness to accept change.

Your Neighbor's House

Norman Raedeke's Move From Flint to Home on Hummingbird Lane

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

It may have been April first, but it was no April Fool's Day. It was moving day for the Norman Raedeke's. They had a new home on Hummingbird Lane and were settling in after a number of years in Flint. Raedeke had done most of the building except for the ceramic and brick work and the plastering. It had taken him 8 months.

A year and a half before, the Raedeke's started their home. They bought their 100x175-foot lot. At that time there wasn't a house in the area. Now there are over a dozen. (Hummingbird Lane is off Mayhew Road, not far from the Dixie).

The plan they used was a stock one. His father had used and liked it.

The exterior of the Raedeke house is built brick with redwood trim.

You step directly into the living room onto a square of tile flooring. There's a closet here, of course. The living room and dining room are one big room with just a low planter marking the dividing line.

HIGH CEILING

There's a center beam in the cathedral ceiling. The entire ceiling is redwood with a varnish finish. At both back and front there are picture windows. The walls are off-white. Draperies are beige with designs in brown, gold and tangerine. The green carpeting has a rough texture.

In the front corner of the room is a built Roman brick fireplace. Mexican vases are placed on the projecting stone shelves. There are other pieces of Mexican pottery on the raised stone hearth.

The Raedeke's chose contemporary furniture in walnut. The grouping in the window includes two walnut swivel chairs with tangerine upholstery and a low rectangular table. This is walnut with an inlaid wood top.

Part of the sandalwood sectional sofa is next to the fireplace. The rest of it is opposite the front door. This sofa has a metal thread in the upholstery.

Throw pillows are orange and brown.

Walnut lamp tables have white Formica shelves. The lamps next to the sofa are large scale brown and white ones. The bases are white ball-balls ones with walnut shafts.

At the open end of the low planter a pole lamp is mounted. The light fixture over the dining room table is Scandinavian with three drop lights inside frosted white shades.

A buffet is built into the wall on one side. Wall decorations on the side next to the kitchen door are five galloping deer. The dining room set is walnut with textured brown cushions on the chairs.

In the kitchen the spatter floor is white with gray, black, gold and pink. Walls are gray. Cabinets are birch. Curtains are white with lavender flowers.

Refrigerator and range are pink. So is the wall telephone. There's an intercom next to the latter.

The breakfast set is steel with a gray plastic table top. The chairs are charcoal and black. In the den, the floor is oak parquet. The short curtains are beige.

In addition to the desk and TV set there is a bright turquoise love seat and matching chair. The seats are striped in turquoise, purple and black.

The bath is pink and white with turquoise accents. On the floor is a white furry rug.

NEW RESIDENT

Miss Kimberly Ann Raedeke was born Nov. 18. This much-wanted little girl has a room next to her parents. Walls are white; the carpeting a light butterscotch. Her crib is birch. There are nursery rhyme characters painted on the walls.

The master bedroom and attached bath have violet carpeting and gray walls. Curtains are white. The mahogany furniture has a grayed finish and brass hardware. The pink quilted bedspread hangs over a pink striped skirt.

In the bathroom there are fixtures with a marbled appearance; this finish is new. The white tile has a hint of lavender in it. Curtains and walls are lavender.

Resurface Winter Damaged Drive

If winter's frequent freezing and thawing cycles were too much for a tired blacktop driveway, it is a relatively easy job to restore its appearance.

Or if the driveway's once-glistening surface has been spotted or scarred by deterioration, a face-lifting project can be accomplished by a home handyman, says a protective surfacing specialist.

"Winter wear and stains that result from dripping oil or gasoline from a parked automobile can pave the way for additional damage if left uncorrected," warns Ed Klett of Allied Chemical's Barrett Division. "But a push broom and an afternoon's work are all that is needed to put a new surface on a blacktop driveway."

Klett says that a recently developed blacktop coating, that is smooth flowing and does not require preheating, will help seal small cracks and protect against disintegration caused by spilled or dripping oil, gasoline or battery acid. He adds it can be applied without any special equipment.

"Blacktop Sealer is made from a base of coal-tar pitch which gives it a flexibility that frost cannot crack, and it is waterproof and can help solve tricky drainage problems."

"It is also resistant to road salts and other chemicals that eat into and discolor blacktop driveways," he says.

For a driveway that is in fairly good condition, although slightly pitted, cracked or stained, Klett says it is a relatively easy job for a handyman to resurface. Here's how:

1. Sweep it clean and water it with a garden hose.
2. Thoroughly mix the Blacktop Sealer in its container.
3. Apply it directly from its container to the still damp surface and spread it with a push broom.

"If a driveway has cracked or has soft spots, a little more preliminary work may be necessary," he says.

"First, dig out all soaked or soft spots and clean away all the dirt and loose materials from cracks and holes. Fill the holes and cracks with a ready-prepared blacktop patching compound. Tamp the patches firmly in place before sweeping, brooming and applying the sealer."

Klett recommends application of two even, but not too thick, coatings. "Be certain to let the first one dry before the second is applied," he cautions.

A two-coat application requires about one-and-a-half to two gallons per hundred square feet.

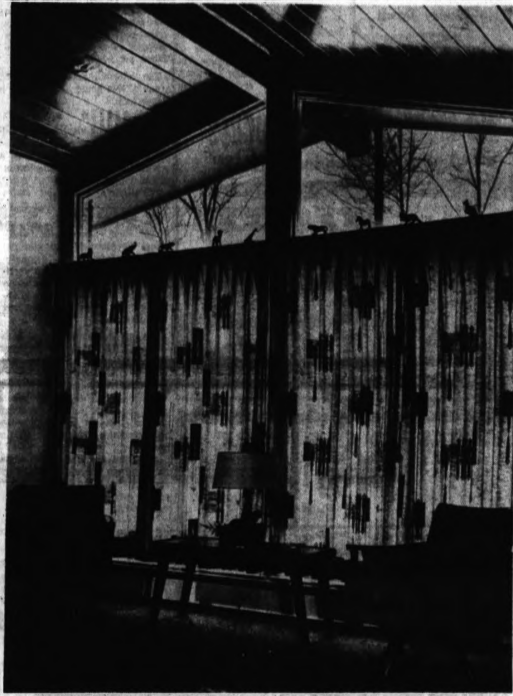

SHE'S A DOLL — Kimberly Ann was 2 months old the day this picture was taken. She's most emphatically the apple of her mother's eye. Mother and daughter posed in front of the corner fireplace in the living room. Vases from Mexico are used as decorations on the hearth and the chimney shelves.

ROOMY — Mrs. Raedeke has good working space in her kitchen. Birch cupboards give her plenty of storage space. Counter tops, appliances and the walls are pink. The spatter print floor has some pink in it.

WINDOW GROUPING — A pair of swivel armchairs upholstered in tangerine is placed in front of the large picture window. Between them is a walnut table with an inlaid top.

Light from outside is reflected in the varnished redwood ceiling. The projection outside cuts the sun's glare in summer. Draperies have some tangerine in them to accent the chairs.

ON HUMMINGBIRD LANE — This buff brick home is in the Clarkson area. The Norman Raedeke's have lived here almost 2 years. Raedeke did most of the work on the ranch home himself. He made a few changes in a stock plan, then worked on the building about 8 months. The Raedeke's lot is 100 by 175 feet. The house has an attached garage.

DINING AREA — Only a low brick planter separates the living room and the dining room. You can see the pole part of the lamp, but no lights. At the left is the built-in birch buffet.

Furniture is walnut. The carpeting in these two rooms is textured and green. The kitchen is at the right.

Pontiac Press Photos by Ed Vandenberg

By 1970 one of every five dwellings will be built for leisure use, according to housing authorities at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division.

Concise Design Provides Ten Rooms on One Level

By JULES LOH

If you're in the market for a three-bedroom house with two baths, living room, dining room, family room, foyer, plus a few extras like a screened porch and patio, you probably already have resigned yourself to a multi-story home in the 2,500-square-foot category.

That's what makes this house so much more of a selection at Home of the Week. It has only one story and only 1,608 feet of floor space.

Architect Samuel Paul hasn't sacrificed either good zoning or good traffic circulation to achieve than an ordinary wall, which separates the living room, dining room and foyer.

The divider is composed of a low platform with a two-pane cabinet above and above the cabinet a decorative grille. It serves as a storage cabinet from the foyer side and a breakfast from the dining room side. This is not only a functional separator, but it also gives the formal area the much sought after open quality.

The exterior presents a balanced facade of stone piers integrated into a stone planter at their base and contrasted against a row of vertically jointed plywood siding. The rhythmic pattern has the effect of elongating the house, gracefully. Two of the stone piers combine to form a living room bay, and the exposed cable ends are treated similarly, to give the house unity.

Undoubtedly most home buyers are more interested in the dollars and cents aspects of a house, but it's difficult to describe this one without calling attention to architect Paul's keen attention to livability.

PATIO

For example, the simple addition of sliding doors off the master bedroom to its own private patio provides an exquisite touch of luxury. Imagine stepping out there with a cool drink on a warm evening before retiring. Friends, that's living.

These doors, incidentally, constitute one of five exterior entrances to the house; and this patio is only one of four. The main patio is off the screened porch, and a smaller patio serves as a similar overflow to the family room. A terrace in front provides a graceful entry as well as a place for old-fashioned porch-sitting.

The informal and housekeeping areas of this house also deserve a closer look.

The kitchen is ideally placed adjacent to the dining room, and at the same time is organized as a separate part of the family room; is convenient to the front entry, service entry and cellar stairs; and affords supervision of the backyard play area.

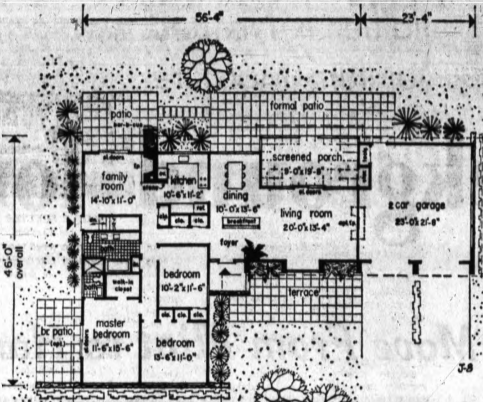

The stone veneer of the family room fireplace is tied into the kitchen, forming a dramatic view from the end of the courtyard, and the rear of the fireplace is exposed in the kitchen between the counter top and cabinets.

The arrangement of the bathrooms so they both use the same plumbing lines is an obvious economic advantage. It should be mentioned moreover that the entire house, including the room sizes, has been planned for stock lumber sizes—an important economy measure that might go unnoticed.

A partial cellar contains abundant storage space plus additional space for a large laundry, hobby room, and a 30-foot-long recreation room.

Heat Basement Too

When electric heat is being installed in a Gold Medal Home, it's a good idea to include the basement. Since each electrically heated room has an individual thermostat, the basement heating unit will operate only when heat is needed there.

FLOOR PLAN—Divider, rather than wall, separates living room, dining room and foyer, thus using every inch of space effectively. Note how no room needs to be crossed to get to any other room in the house; and how formal, informal and sleeping areas are clearly zoned. House contains 1,608 square feet not counting garage, screened porch and partial cellar.

GLAMOR PLUS ECONOMY—Excellent design technique enables this 1,608 sq. ft. ranch to contain three bedrooms, two full baths, foyer, living room, dining room, family room and kitchen, plus screened porch and four outdoor patios. Exterior features stone piers integrated into stone planter at their base and contrasted against narrow vertically jointed plywood siding.

Older Homes Can Have Number of Advantages

detached garage. The Flexalum specialist recommends:

1. Converting the detached garage to a playroom for the children. This will cut down on the noise level inside the home, save wear and tear on bedroom and living room furniture and reduce traffic and cleaning chores.
2. Install a colorful aluminum patio cover on the side of the house to do double duty as a carport. The patio cover will help keep the house cooler in summer, protect the family car during inclement weather and furnish cool shade for outdoor entertaining on hot days. A combination gate-fence in front of the carport will provide additional privacy.

By taking these remodeling steps, Pearson says the family with a limited budget can make maximum use of a small house and a small plot and enjoy the convenience of an established neighborhood.

You Want It Smooth

To get an especially smooth enamel finish on furniture or woodwork, follow this procedure. If an enamel undercoat is used, sand it lightly after it has dried. Then follow on the enamel with a full brush. Before applying a second coat, sand the first one lightly. You'll be delighted with the professional looking results.

Engineered Wood Uses Regular Grades

Standard grades of light framing lumber in Southern Pine are now all-purpose, stress-rated grades.

This means that the same grades are specified for joists, studs, rafters and other items of conventional framing, have been adapted to engineered design. They meet all the strength requirements of wood trussed rafters and other engineered components.

Previously, these forms of "engineered wood" required special and more expensive grades. Hence, the all-purpose grades are a potential source of enormous savings to the construction industry, the Southern Pine Association says.

Winter Garden NOTES

Mrs. Robert Harrington Jr. of 4537 Midland, Dayton Plains, reports that a volunteer petunia plant that started in November now is in full bloom with 10 blossoms. Note that something ignores the snow.

We just received from manager Jim Wilson an advance copy of one of the most attractive seed catalogues ever to come to our attention. It is the Perry-More, (Mountain View, Calif.) 48-page all-color seed directory. Jim said it was the first all-in-color.

The catalogue opens with a Child's Garden of Flowers, designed to lure youngsters into the world of flowers and vegetables, to be started indoors or outdoors. The recommended package includes scarlet runner beans, Four O'Clocks, a Sensitive Plant (Mimosa pudica) that goes down or collapses upon being touched (but soon springs back), balsam (Touch-me-not) which we have planted every spring for 10 years. Sunflower that towers over the garden, pumpkin and Browne's Scout Marigolds.

There are packets of old-fashioned Garden seed mixtures (annual) and California native flowers. A new snapdragon for 1962 is First Ladies in orange, pink, crimson, white and yellow, or mixed. For those who enjoy a herb garden there is a special section.

In the vegetable field, newcomers include Tetr. P.M. asparagus; Broccoli Neptune (first generation hybrid) and additional varieties of eggplant, onions and spinach and squash.

An outstanding feature of the catalogue is the way those who designed it put their flower illustrations in the form of delightful arrangements, basic designs and attractive decorations. Readers will get many ideas to carry into their own gardens and homes. Perry-More has developed a new tetraploid zinnia, with huge flowers and the likelihood of new blends of colors because of the additional chromosomes in the cells of these zinnias.

Your clay-potted house plants thrive best when soil is not allowed to escape. For a long-lasting, rust-proof filter, place a small piece of aluminum screening, bent double, over the drainage hole at the bottom of each clay pot.

Winter is a good time to apply fertilizer. If testing shows that your soil needs it, this is also the time to apply lime, says the Seaboard Lawn Clinic. The alternate freezing and thawing that wintry weather brings opens up the soil and lets lime and fertilizer go to work just below the surface, thus giving maximum benefit to the soil.

You can make sure that your outdoor garden will be enhanced by the varied beauty of caladium by starting dormant tubers indoors in late winter or early spring. Plant several caladium tubers two or three inches apart in clay blub pans set in a pebble or vermiculite-lined tray, which can be heated by setting it over a radiator to insure 70 to 80 degrees bottom heat. Tubers should sprout within four weeks, to go outdoors when spring temperatures top 60 degrees.

Don't attempt to seed your lawn on top of snow. Wait until spring, says the Seaboard Lawn Clinic. A warm spell may melt the snow and dry off the soil surface. The seed is thus exposed to winds and to birds.

Keep your house plants from getting "wet feet" by placing each flower pot on an inch or so of pebbles in a deep saucer or tray and pouring water into the saucer to the top of the pebble layer. Evaporation and capillary action of porous clay pots will give plants the moisture they need without soaking roots.

Humidifier Is Needed to Maintain Moisture

When you water your indoor plants during the winter months do you ever water your plants and furniture?

That may sound like a silly question, but in the winter artificial-heating period, moisture is as important to your household furnishings as it is to your plants. There are countless thousands of dollars worth of damage done by dry air each year to furnishings and furniture.

The startling problems of dry air damage and solutions to them are contained in a special research report from the Walton Institute of Humidification, Montclair, New Jersey.

Higher humidity days, the fibrous During the summer months, with higher humidity days, the fibrous products in your home, such as your wood furniture, piano, book buildings, textiles, rugs, paintings, etc. become filled with moisture. But when the heating season begins and the relative humidity drops to 10 or 15%, this moisture is rapidly pulled from these fibrous products and the result is dry air damage.

Dry air, of course, cannot be seen. Its effect upon your possessions, however, can be readily noticed. Book bindings crack, veneer lift and furniture joints loosen and become unglued.

As one prime example, Dr. William Brand White, in his booklet "Your Piano—Its Preservation and the Danger of Dry Air," writes:

"Thus, it becomes immediately apparent that if this greatest of all musical instruments is to give its best to those who own and use it, this matter of dryness or lack of humidity must be understood and intelligently dealt with."

The cost of maintaining proper moisture in these cherished possessions more than pays for itself in damage prevention. What can be done about this dry air? Part of the answer comes from our own activity: each shower we take, load of clothes that we wash, etc. adds some moisture to the air in the home. But, the Walton Institute has found that much more moisture than this must be added to raise the relative humidity to a desirable point—an average of about one gallon of water per room per day.

This requires the operation of a home humidifier, of which there are currently three types on the market:

Vaporizers: These units use heat to boil off water in the form of steam. Their use is limited, however, because of the prohibitive cost of creating enough heat to evaporate sufficient water for enough humidification.

Evaporators: These units depend upon ordinary evaporation, or the tendency of dry air to pick up moisture from a wet surface. Although their output can theoretically meet humidification requirements under ideal conditions, these conditions seldom exist in the average home.

Atomizers: These units actually atomize water into vapor particles. Featuring low operating cost and the ability to evaporate gallons of water per day without variation, this type is recommended by the Walton Institute as the most effective humidifier.

While a modern home humidifier is "watering" your piano it is also "watering" you and your family. For many of the winter ailments, such as colds, sinus conditions, respiratory problems — and that all too common dry, itchy skin—are all aggravated by dry air—low relative humidity. A humidifier alleviates these health conditions at the same time it is protecting your home furnishings.

Glued Together

"Engineered wood" is a popular term for giant structural sections of glued laminated lumber. According to the Southern Pine Association such sections are all built in the form of arches, beams and columns and there's no limit to their shape or size. "Engineered wood"

is an ideal medium for the strength and natural beauty of Southern Pine lumber.

Make Life Easy

The application of petroleum jelly inside new locks will prevent them from rusting and make it easier to open the lock with one turn of the key.

Replace With Copper

Even if your drainage system is not made of copper, you can replace sections of defective piping with rust-proof copper tube. Amco plumbing specialists point out. Special brass fittings make it possible to connect copper tube to steel or iron piping.

PNH 5 Keeps I-L Rode in State of Suspense

Huskies Topple Berkley, 55-54, With Big Rally

Victory by Northern Prevents Bears From Clinching Title

Pontiac Northern's basketball team has no chance of winning the Inter-Lakes Conference basketball crown this season, but the Huskies played the role of "giant killer" in the final Friday night, non-league game for the past two years but eliminated from all opportunity to successfully defend their honors, the Huskies made Berkley think they were still kings last night.

Spurred by Gary Hayward, Rick Fisher and Ed Wasik, the Huskies staged a tremendous 2nd-half rally to stun Berkley, 55-54, on the Berkley court to keep Farmington's title hopes alive.

Northern's win prevented Berkley from clinching an outright title.

Farmington's 57-53 victory over Walled Lake yesterday and Northern's conquest of Berkley cut the league-leading Bears' margin over Farmington to one game. Berkley now stands 7-2 while Farmington is 6-3.

CAUSE LOOKED HOPELESS

It was Northern's 5th league win in nine starts and dedicated the Huskies with Southfield for 2nd position in the I-L standings. The Jays conquered Berkley yesterday, 54-48.

Northern's cause looked hopeless in the first half.

The Bears shot a torrid 40 per cent from the floor in the 1st half and left the court at intermission with a 27-21 advantage. PNH trailed by a 21-13 margin at the end of the 1st quarter.

Then PNH began its long, uphill climb.

The Huskies enjoyed a 15-7 bulge in the 3rd period and entered the finale only two points behind, 44-42.

SIX QUICK POINTS

Northern scored the first six points of the 4th quarter on field goals by Hayward, Fisher and Wasik to grab a 49-44 edge and the Huskies stayed ahead to the finish line.

Berkley twice came within one point, but the stubborn Huskies refused to yield their lead and went to the dressing room with a cherished victory.

Hayward bagged 15 points to take scoring honors while Fisher collected 14 and Wasik added a dozen.

Bob Kleas scored 22 points to pace the Berkley cause and teammate Mike Williams notched 10. Paul Wierzbowski, normally Berkley's top scorer, made only nine.

The triumph enabled PNH to even its over-all season record at 7-1, Berkley's over-all mark is 5-4.

It's been a long—and certainly discouraging—seasonal season for Avondale and Lakeside Friday night hockey.

The misery continued Friday evening as both went down to defeat in Oakland A League competition.

Avondale was the victim of a second 9-0 thrashing at the hands of the Barons as the Spartans' untold defense was undefeated Oakland A crew.

Lake Orion made a stronger showing last night, but the Dragons still came out on the short end of the score as Oak pulled off a 6-1 victory to tie the Citywolves for third place.

Troy, which had been clinging to faint hopes for a share of the title, enjoyed a 7-6 romp at Mad River, but the Colts were forced to be content with second place.

Dick Bye's Yellow Jackets were never in contention at Fitzgerald as they suffered their eighth league setback in 11 starts.

As being coaches have been heard to remark, the turning point of the game was the opening tipoff.

Fitzgerald had a 16-2 lead at the end of the first quarter and faced an overwhelming deficit at halftime. That was all it took.

Duane Plasek fired 15 points, Tom Dobreznik 11 and Mike Meckl 10 to lead the Spartans to their final Oakland A victory.

All over-all, the Spartans are 13-2.

Not a single Avon player hit double figures.

Orion gave Oak Park quite a battle before dropping a 10th straight game to the trier.

The Dragons of Green Hills, who lost only one victory in 14 games, led the Parkers at halftime, 28-24, and entered the fourth stanza in a 4-2 tie.

Park took control of the final eight minutes. The Parkers scored the first bucket in the final period.

Al Ruyi meshed 23 points and Robbie Goldenberg 21 to pace the Parker triumph.

Jim Upmugrove was high for the Dragons with 19 points.

Dave Perry followed with 14 and Jon Curcuky made 10.

Madison stuck close to Troy for one period, then the Colts cut loose with a 24-16 lead in the third period for a 47-19 half-time lead and they were off and running.

Towering Hank Allen again sparked the Troy offense with 19 points.

Tom Kelly swished 14 and Troy's conference record now reads 9-2. Overall, the Cougars are 13-2.

FOR SCORING: The Bloomfield Hills guard paced the triumph with 21 points.

Unbeaten Northville had a major scare against Holly before pulling out a 53-39 victory. Brighton kept Clarkson from gaining a tie for third 60-56, and Clarenceville left Milford alone in the cellar, 51-44.

Bloomfield Hills moved three games up on the Lakers with one contest remaining on the league schedule. But the Barons didn't win without a struggle.

SHIPPED AHEAD

They crept ahead 34-19 at the intermission and then maintained that margin through most of the second half.

Tregusta's shooting made the difference. He had good floor help from Bill Bennett and John Schweppe turned "in a strong game under the boards for the Barons.

Bill Eliason and Dave Hietrich were good rebounders for West Bloomfield while Bill Robison and Dan Greig were impressive out-courts. Eliason led the Lakers with 22 points and Greig scored 18.

Northville already has clinched the championship, but the Mustangs found themselves trailing 29-22 at half-time against Holly.

A combination of a stronger Northville defense and poor shooting by the Barons turned the tide

Kimball Roadies Maples, East Detroit Tumbles

Birmingham Seaholm was no match for Hoyal Oak Kimball and the Big Reds of Port Huron delayed East Detroit's championship celebration to highlight Friday night's Eastern Michigan League basketball action.

Low Perry's Maples were never in contention as visiting Royal Oak Kimball handed them a 74-50 puted crown next Friday against hapless Hazel Park.

East Detroit's league record is now 10-1 while Port Huron stands 5-2.

Kimball coasted to victory over the outclassed Maples, who left their 9th EML decision in a dozen starts. Kimball led at halftime, 34-21.

Three Kimball players hit double figures, headed by Bill Chibbin's 23 points, Teammates Craig Kirby and Jerry Barick followed with 16 and 10, respectively.

The lone Seaholm cager to hit two numbers was Jay Shutt, who notched 16.

East Detroit held a 34-27 halftime advantage and still clung to a 50-48 edge entering the 4th quarter before absorbing its first EML defeat and 2nd of the season.

Five straight points by Chuck Ingram midway through the 4th period gave Port Huron a 57-54 lead and the Big Reds stayed

Ray and Northville's Jim Judyay were ousted with two minutes remaining in the first half after getting into a scuffle.

Dan Brown led Northville, now 14-0 overall, with 16 points. Cray Bell added 14. Doug Williams topped Holly with 10.

LATE RALLY

A field goal by Dennis Persall and two free throws by Randy Mink in the final 90 seconds broke a 55-41 deadlock and gave Brighton its victory over Clarkston.

Dennis Persall and Jim Armstrong each scored 13 markers for Brighton. Chuck Funk had 17 and Ken Minkon, up from the under way, had 15 for the Wolves. Mike Applegate added 12.

Clarenceville sprinted to a 28-13 half-time lead and then held off a strong second half surge by Millard to break the last point deadlock with Redford.

Bill Wheeler led the Trojans with 17 points. No Millard player hit double figures.

FIGURES LOOSEN UP — These first string pitchers of the Cleveland Indians got busy with some too exercises to loosen up back muscles after reporting to the camp yesterday at Tucson.

It was opening day for pitchers and catchers. Left to right: Barry Lantieri, Gary Bell, Jim Perry and Dick Donovan. The full squad is not due to report until March 1.

Rookie Visitor Flops With Mets

By The AP Sports Writer

John Pappas has lots of hair, brass and ambition. But he has no control. And no contract.

"He's wild enough to hurt someone," New York Mets official Johnny Murphy said after watching the would-be pitcher yesterday.

Pappas is the brash youngster from Long Island who walked into the Mets training camp with a battered glove, sneakers and no experience. He got his tryout, pitching for about 15 minutes while Murphy looked on.

The Mets are not interested in Pappas," Murphy said. "I don't think he could play pro ball in any league."

"I'm not disappointed," Pappas shrugged, and started north while baseball returned to the Moore routine problems involved in getting ready for another season.

MAKES OUT — One of the problems involves Roger Maris, now the only New York Yankee still to sign for the 1962 season.

"I'd like to get this thing settled," general manager Roy Amodeo admitted yesterday. He said he expected to talk with Maris in the next few days.

Maris, who hit 61 home runs last season, became the last unsigned Yankee yesterday when second baseman Bobby Richardson came to terms, for a reported $25,000, an increase of $10,000.

Maris, in Florida filming a movie, originally had planned to take his family home to Raytown, Mo. Monday. But his 12-month-old son, Kevin, was stricken with bronchial pneumonia yesterday and was hospitalized.

Maris has until Feb. 28, the official reporting date, before official reporting date, before official reporting date, before official reporting date.

The record-setting slugger reportedly is asking about $70,000, about $10,000 more than the Yankees are offering.

OTHER SIGNINGS — The Los Angeles Dodgers, the Washington Senators, Boston Red Sox and Baltimore Orioles had signing news.

The Dodgers signed outfielder Wally Moon to a contract calling for about $40,000 — tops on the club, Moon, 31, led the club in hitting, .328, and runs batted in, 88, last season. The Red Sox said pitcher Ike DeLoach had agreed to terms.

The Orioles' Jim Gentile continued to blister batting practice. The left-handed swinger clouted two out of the park, sent another into the centerfield barrier 400 feet away.

For the Senators, the good news was Bob Schmidt. The big catch, obtained in a four-player deal with Cincinnati, underwent a knee operation during the winter. The early reaction is supposed to be important and Schmidt has been going at full speed in the early spring.

With Delany out of the "rule of the year," Beatty will have things all to himself as he shoots to better his own 2-week-old indoor record of 3 minutes 58.9.

"I've had a cold all week," said the 5-foot-8 Los Angeles Track Club ace, "and haven't been able to shake it. I've been training in the rain, so it's understandable."

"I can't make any prediction on how fast I'll go because Coach Mike Igo and I don't set our timetable until just before the race. But it will be a good one."

After Beatty became the first runner to go under four minutes on boards in the Los Angeles Times meet, he followed with a 4:03 effort in the New York Athletic Club meet last week. That was his final warmup in his announced intention of breaking DeLoach's 4:02 record (34 at the mile) indoor streak.

But Delany came up with a sore Achilles tendon in his left foot and had to withdraw. He's finished for the season. Beatty has a modest indoor record of 13 straight victories going into the meet. His rivals, none of whom has gone under 4:08 this season, include Marjorie Cornejo, Pete Cioce and Gary Wiesinger and Jim Irons of Toronto.

Delany wasn't the only hot notch to scratch. John Uelses, the sole member of the pole vaulters' 16-foot club, hasn't recovered from a 3-week spell of the flu and dropped out. Parry O'Brien, who has won the AAU shotput title the last nine years, has an injured finger and won't make it.

With Uelses scratched, the favorite will be Dexter Elkins of Southern Methodist, who has cleared 15-6 1/2 and has come very close to going over 16 feet. He's a member of the fiberglass pole club.

O'Brien would have been the underdog against 19-year-old Gary Gainer of New York University, who is aiming to break his 6-day-old indoor record of 64-11 1/2. He wants to make at least 6 feet. This probably is the best bet for a record.

The closest race could turn out to be the 600 in which both Bill Crothers of the University of Toronto and Jack Yerman, formerly of California, have taken a head of George Kerr's 1:09.3.

JONES AFTER 35 — Hayes Jones of Pontiac, Mich., with a streak of 27 straight indoor triumphs is favored in the 60-yard hurdles, and Frank Budz of Villanova, nursing a 13-race indoor streak, is the choice for the 60-yard dash. Ralph Boston of Tennessee Tech, world king of the broad jumpers, is the class of the field. John Thomas of Boston University, still looking for his first 7-footer of the season, should win the high jump.

Jim Greble of the Los Angeles Track Club, is the No. 1 entry in the 1,000. Other favorites are Ronald Zam of West Point in the mile walk, Sander Daves of Hungary in the 3-mile, Al Hall of the New York A.C. in the weight throw, Villanova's in the sprint relay, St. John's in the mile relay and Georgetown in the 2-mile relay. Villanova appears to be the favorite to win the team title.

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Beatty, the only indoor sub-4-minute milester, runs a lonely race against the clock instead of Ron Delany Saturday night in the National AAU Championships in Madison Square Garden.

Cincinnati's Reign Is on Line Tonight

By The Associated Press

Cincinnati faces the latest key assignment in its long string of victories tonight—winning the Missouri Valley Conference title and second national collegiate championship in a row, could very well show both if they don't handle the Wheatshockers.

Cincinnati and Bradley are tied for the league lead at 9-2, with the Cats closing out their league schedule in the home game tonight and the Braves finishing up the Skyline's NCAA berth, have conference tests.

BIG 10 COUNTDOWN — It's countdown time in the Big Ten and Ohio State should have little trouble in its regional telecast today against Illinois. The Buckies are after their 26th straight win and their 26th straight in the Big Ten as well.

Wisconsin (8-2) still hopes for second place against Northwestern (3-8) while Indiana (5-4) is at Michigan State (2-9) and Michigan (3-4) is at Iowa (4-6) and Minnesota (3-7) faces Purdue (7-4).

NCAA found University of Detroit has a tough assignment in Buffalo against strong Canisius.

But if the Bearcats don't come through tonight—and they were edged at Wichita 53-51 two months ago—it could mean the end of a reign.

Cincinnati-Wichita is only one of the big ones on tap tonight. UCLA can nail down at least a tie for the Big Five championship by beating Stanford at Los Angeles.

The Uclans hatched a step closer to the title Friday night, beating UCLA 64-62. And a victory for Yale against last place Columbia bout clinch at least a share of the Ivy League crown for the Bulldogs.

Yale nipped its closest rival, Cornell, 48-47 Friday night.

Colorado and Kansas State, leading into the stretch of their dual for Big Eight supremacy, warm up for their showdown next week with home games tonight.

Colorado, 9-0 in the conference, takes on Iowa State and Kansas State, 8-1, meets Oklahoma.

In the Southeastern Conference, Mississippi State, while Kentucky, one game back, is at Alabama. Prime games in the Southwest are Texas Tech at Texas and Texas Christian at Southern Methodist. Tech and SMU.

TARGET OF COMPLAINTS — The eye-catching curves of Nancy Dimock (right), new queen of the Los Angeles All-City Employees Association, were fairly well-concealed when she accepted her trophy from last year's queen, Margie Ciccerile. But not in a couple of girlie magazines now on the stands. Female members of the employees group are complaining. "Our queen," they say, "shouldn't be running around like that without her clothes on. It isn't dignified."

More Tourists at White House

Sight-Seers Increase Following Nationwide Telecast by Jackie

WASHINGTON (AP)—The lines of tourists parading through the White House have grown longer since Mrs. John F. Kennedy took the nation through it on a tour by television.

Twice as many sightseers are showing up, according to a White House count.

The week before the telecast—shown by CBS and NBC Feb. 14 and by ABC Feb. 15—the daily attendance averaged 1,333. Since the showing it has gone up to 2,629. And this is the off-season for tourists.

President Kennedy said during the telecast he would like to have twice as many persons see the executive mansion as the record 1.3 million that passed through its doors last year.

Mrs. Kennedy, the White House reported, has received more than 7,000 letters about the telecast. All but a few were reported favorable.

However, the Washington Star reports that the staff is having trouble keeping the White House a showplace. The big problem: Women's spike heels and cigarette stubs.

The sharp heels are scratching the floor of the East Room and causing tears in the Green Room rug. The rug in the Green Room was replaced a month ago by a stronger one with a pad, said the Star, yet after every party, it is said, there's a new tear in it that has to be patched up.

The cigarette stubs, said the Star, were dropped on the floor of the East Room during Tuesday's musical.

Farmington Our Lady played its best game of the season in defeating Waterford Our Lady, 65-52 last night. In another game, Clintondale set a school scoring record and Tom Black set an individual mark in defeating Pontiac Emmanuel Christian, 85-45.

Black with 33 got help from Folsom with 25, while Ralph Wingate was getting 22 for Christian. Waterford Our Lady had trouble hitting from the free throw line although outshooting Farmington. Ol. from the floor by three buckets.

Farmington led 31-26 at halftime and pulled it way out of reach in the final quarter.

Invited to Consecration of New Auxiliary Bishop

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Invitations to the March 6 consecration of Auxiliary Bishop Charles A. Sada have been accepted by 13 Catholic bishops, the arrangements committee reported Friday.

In addition, acceptances have been received from 365 priests, 75 nuns and 159 lay persons, said Msgr. James P. Moran.

The nation's largest tobacco market, which handles up to three million pounds of tobacco leaf daily, opens in Wilson, N. C., each fall.

Oakland Doctors to Address Clubs of Both Parties

Three Oakland County doctors will address clubs of both major political parties through arrangements made by the speakers bureau of the newly formed Oakland Political Awareness Committee.

The committee had been founded in January by doctors, lawyers, dentists and other professional men. Among its purposes is the spreading of information on the present status of medicine and means to pay for this service.

Addressing the Huron Valley Republican Club on Monday will be Dr. Carl H. Bickel and Dr. John R. Yivisaker, both of Pontiac.

They will speak on the general topic of "Medicine in our Changing Times," at 8 p.m. in the Highland Township Hall.

On March 6, at a meeting of the Oak Park Democratic Club, Dr. Everett Gustafson of Pontiac will speak on the same subject. This meeting, he said, is to be held at 8:30 p.m. in the Oak Park Community Center.

Mergers Bother Railroad Unions

Labor Leaders Claim Industry Chiefs Plan Three Major Combines

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP)—Railroad union leaders are concerned by the possibility of not one but three giant mergers of carriers in the East.

The rail union chiefs met with heads of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads, which have proposed amalgamation. The union leaders said privately Friday night that the Penn. and NYC spokesmen outlined plans for combining the Baltimore & Ohio with the Chesapeake & Ohio, and for making the Norfolk & Western the nucleus of a third Eastern railroad combine.

The labor men came away from the meeting more convinced than ever that they will oppose railroad mergers.

Leaders of the railroad brotherhoods have claimed some railroads already are too big. They say also that thousands of jobs would be jeopardized by consolidation of existing lines.

Second Accident Fatal to 2 Men After Crash

SUFFERN, N. Y. (AP)—Two cars collided Friday night in front of a village police station. As the drivers started across the street to report the accident, a bus struck them.

James Fitzgerald, 41, of Mahwah, N. J., died en route to a hospital. Sol Bloom, 55, of Monsey, N. Y., died in the hospital early today.

JFK Again Rejects K's Bid for Summit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy, following a telephone conference with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, has turned down Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's tough new bid for a summit conference to open the March disarmament meeting in Geneva.

Officials said the President, in a note that probably will be delivered in Moscow today, again urged Khrushchev to send Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to Geneva instead of continuing to demand a summit meeting.

The State Department relayed Kennedy's latest message to the American embassy during the night after the President last night approved the text at his weekend headquarters in Palm Beach, Fla. It was expected the text would be made public here as soon as U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson has confirmed he has delivered it.

Police Capture Four Escapees

Cought When Getaway Car Has Collision in Emmett Twp. in Storm

MASON — Four prisoners who broke jail at knife-point Friday night were back behind bars today after their 4½-hour flight of freedom ended in the smash-up of their stolen getaway car in a snow storm.

The four-bladed, flashing railroad signal and a cup of coffee all had a part in the apprehension of the desperadoes.

A mass break was averted when four prisoners declined to accompany the four-wheel drive car to the Ingham County Jail in Mason, 10 miles south of Lansing.

The four-bladed, flashing railroad signal and a cup of coffee all had a part in the apprehension of the desperadoes.

A mass break was averted when four prisoners declined to accompany the four-wheel drive car to the Ingham County Jail in Mason, 10 miles south of Lansing.

Cad who in striped prison duds, the four took an unmarked turnpike by surprise at 7:20 p. m. The car, a 1961 Ford, was a midsize sedan, rode an elevator to the basement and escaped through the jail garage.

STOLE A CAR

They stole a car from a used car lot in Mason and headed south.

Their hastily constructed plans went to smash shortly before midnight in a minor auto collision on the east edge of Battle Creek in Emmett Township.

Township Patrolman Larry Clarke was having a cup of coffee in a roadside restaurant. He went outside to investigate the collision and saw the four fugitives piling out of their car.

Clarke arrested one of the men, Glen Warren, 26, of Portland, and the other three huddled under a coal car on the Grand Trunk Railroad tracks about a mile from the scene of the highway collision. They surrendered quietly.

No shots were fired during the entire episode, police said. Warren is awaiting sentencing. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Still Jumping High at 72

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Some people have their own putting greens. Others have their own personal tennis court, ice rinks and even bowling alley. But Henry Hall of Farmington is different. He has his own 30-meter ski jump in his back yard.

His own private world — Henry Hall of Farmington, twice holder of the world ski jumping record in 1917 and 1921, hasn't given up his love for the sport despite his 72 years. He built a 30-meter jump in his own yard and every day weather permits he uses it. Born in Lapeer, in the shadow of famous "Suicide Hill," he started ski jumping at the age of 8.

Having one's own ski jump may not be unusual for some people living in hilly Upper Michigan, but Farmington is located on the flat lands and an interesting fact that Hall is a spry 72 years of age.

Born in the big ski jumping country of Lapeer, Mich., Hall twice held the world's distance record and he was U.S. National champion in 1916.

Hall got his first pair of skis at the same time his folks got him his first pair of hand-sewn shoes. At the age of 8 he was riding the good sized hills around Lapeer, in the shadow of challenging "Suicide Hill," where he made his mark as a junior jumper.

In his early teens he was part of a ski jumping troupe which made the circuit around the Midwest and East and in 1916 at Glenwood, Minn., he won the National championship and proceeded to win at least once every meet sponsored in the Midwest.

World record holder in 1917 at Steamboat Springs, Colorado, he set the world mark of 203 feet. Two years later Anders Haugen of Norway broke the record. After a stint with the U.S. Army in Europe, Hall got back into competition in 1919. In 1921, while jumping with the Calgary Ski Club of Canada, he set the world record again by soaring 229½ feet at British Columbia. This time the record stood for seven years before a jumper by the name of Nelson went 240 feet.

He recalls a meet at Gary Hill near Chicago in 1925 as one of his biggest thrills. "We had 40,000 people watching the meet, the largest American crowd I had ever seen at a jumping tournament, and I set the hill record of 170 feet," Hall said.

After Nelson set the mark of 240 feet in 1933, Hall tried for a couple of years to get back into the state where virtually all off-the-road were to be found.

Thousands of late movie and theater-goers in downtown Detroit reported more than 100 cars abandoned their cars rather than try to buck the heavy drifts.

The Automobile Club of Michigan reported more than 1,000 calls from motorists stuck in the snow. Some small communities in the southeastern part of the state were virtually cut off.

Here's the story he told: "Ground, as most of you probably know—the ground, telemetry receivers had picked up an impulse that I possibly had a loose heat shield. And for that reason it was deemed advisable to keep the retropackage in place during re-entry so that it would go ahead and burn off, and by that time we would be in a high enough aerodynamic force field to keep the heat shield in place, in case it was, in fact, loose."

"This made pretty spectacular re-entry from the capsule stand-point because as I retained the retropackage and entered into the first part of the high heat area of the reentry, the straps on the retropackage broke loose and I felt a bump on the capsule and thought that the retropackage had jettisoned as it was supposed to do."

BRIGHT GLOW
Apparently this was not true, but I thought so at the time. As I went on into the higher heat, this glow picked up. Outside the capsule was sort of a bright, orange glow outside the window.

"It became apparent that something was tearing up on the heat-shield end of the capsule because there were large pieces—anywhere from pieces as big as the end of your finger, to pieces probably 7 or 8 inches in diameter—were breaking off and falling off the edge of the capsule, and coming up back past the window, and were flaming very brightly."

Fall for Week Is Heaviest in Ten Years

25-M.P.H. Winds Whip Drifts Clogging Drives, Side Roads

Shovel-weary Pontiac area residents faced another 6-inch snowfall this morning with flagging spirits as the six-day total rose to 17 inches, heaviest in 10 years.

Winds of 25-miles-per-hour made the latest fall even worse by whipping it into billowy drifts which clogged driveways and unplowed side roads.

At Pontiac Municipal airport drifts ranged up to 2 feet. And there's more coming!

Exactly how much, the weather bureau doesn't say. But keep the shovels and snow chains handy. There'll be flurries tonight and tomorrow, even though it appears the storm is moving out of Michigan into Pennsylvania and New York.

This morning, drivers who locally blasted their way out of traps

The Pontiac area can expect snow flurries and a low of 15 to 20 miles per hour will diminish Sunday's forecast for partly cloudy skies and continued cold. The predicted high for tomorrow is 25. Little change in temperature and more snow is the outlook for Monday.

Today's northerly winds at 15 to 20 miles per hour will diminish Sunday. Seventeen was the lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. At 1 p.m. the thermometer read 25.

By noon, county roads remained mostly snow-covered and slippery in places. More than 30 road commission vehicles were on duty.

In Pontiac, main streets were passable this morning, but the white stuff still straddled the sides waiting to be picked up or pushed back toward sidewalks.

There was the usual rash of non-injury car accidents in Pontiac over a score in the rest of the county. No serious personal injury mishaps were reported. Many abandoned their cars rather than try to buck the heavy drifts.

The Automobile Club of Michigan reported more than 1,000 calls from motorists stuck in the snow. Some small communities in the southeastern part of the state were virtually cut off.

Here's how the Russians apparently viewed it, according to the 160-page intelligence report.

Two manned rocketplanes were attached to opposite sides of a powerful rocket engine, thus acting as first-stage rockets for the launching.

Now the fringes of space, the planes detached from the larger rocket and were flown back to earth by their pilots.

The second stage rocket then continued into space, carrying a third stage that eventually completed the flight on its own.

The reported development could have significance in missile warfare and space programs as the first-stage rocketplanes would be recovered and used again.

The government cautioned, "The publication of this report does not constitute approval by any U.S. government organization of the inferences, findings and conclusions contained herein, and is published solely for the exchange and stimulation of ideas."

The document, entitled, "Comprehensive Analysis of Soviet Space Program, Based on Soviet Open Literature 1958-61," is being distributed by the Commerce Department's Office of Technical Services.

The report said the rocketplane launching system apparently was used in a series of Soviet missile tests over the Pacific early in 1960.

"The literature surveyed had led the writer toward several tentative conclusions which, if correct, may be of considerable significance," said the report.

"There are indications that the Soviets have developed a multi-purpose, reusable, winged carrier-rocket as a vertical launch vehicle for spacecraft. The first stage of this vehicle may consist of two, piloted 'rocketplanes' powered by wing-mounted, air-breathing engines capable of operating as turbo-jets, ram-jets or rockets."

Each plane, said the report, apparently has four or six engines mounted on the delta-shaped wings.

Soviets May Launch Missiles From Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union may have developed a system using manned rocket-planes to launch spaceships, satellites and intercontinental missiles, some U.S. intelligence specialists report.

Their conclusions, based on analysis of available Russian publications, were made public Friday after having been kept in the secret file for nine months.

The accuracy of their findings is not fully accepted by the government. And some sources point out that the system, if the Soviets have developed it, is not completely new.

The United States, they noted, is developing an air-launched ballistic missile, the Skybolt, to be carried by B-52 bombers. The Skybolt would have a range of 1,000 miles.

However, the intelligence analysts said there was reason to believe the Russians already have developed the air-launch system in a number of space shots.

Here is how the Russians apparently viewed it, according to the 160-page intelligence report.

Two manned rocketplanes were attached to opposite sides of a powerful rocket engine, thus acting as first-stage rockets for the launching.

Now the fringes of space, the planes detached from the larger rocket and were flown back to earth by their pilots.

The second stage rocket then continued into space, carrying a third stage that eventually completed the flight on its own.

The reported development could have significance in missile warfare and space programs as the first-stage rocketplanes would be recovered and used again.

The government cautioned, "The publication of this report does not constitute approval by any U.S. government organization of the inferences, findings and conclusions contained herein, and is published solely for the exchange and stimulation of ideas."

Glenn Seeks Seclusion After Day of Accolades

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. — his name a household word and his face familiar to school children — sought seclusion today. Few Americans, including the President of the United States, would blame him.

For nearly three months he has been in the public eye. But in something more than four fantastic hours Tuesday. He faced his grim task, and by his skill and the help of men of skill on the ground below, he accomplished it.

Friday he returned full circle to the place where his struggle was born, to Cape Canaveral and to Pad 14 where his Atlas rocket was launched and to Mercury Command where his friends and compatriots had waited and hoped for his safe return.

Probably the signals and cheers of Cape Beach school children still ring in his ears and the questions of newsmen and the glaring lights of television cameras are still in his mind.

But there, too, is the first look on the face of his wife, Anna, as he stepped from the plane that brought him to Patrick Air Force Base. And still he must remember the look of expectancy in the eyes of his daughter, Lynn, 14, and his son, David, 16, as he disembarked.

He must remember, too, the pride and interest David had as he peered into the heart of the spaceship that had carried his father three times around the world in a frenzied orbit through space.

Glenn could probably remember something of his own words as he explained the equipment dangling now almost uselessly inside.

"Our boosters may not be as large as some others," President Kennedy had said, "but our men and women are."

The President had made the remark before presenting Glenn with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Distinguished Service Medal.

After the ceremony in front of Hanger 3, where Glenn had trained and donned his space suit he was advancing last Tuesday, Glenn and his family and a few guests retired into the hangar for lunch.

SHOWS HUMOR
At the news conference Glenn's sense of humor came to the fore. He told of seeing the weird "fire" (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Astronaut Had Doubts at Re-Entry

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Col. John H. Glenn Jr. told a news conference Friday that as he made re-entry through the atmosphere "there were moments of doubt whether the heat shield had been damaged."

"This could have been a bad day all the way around if it had been the case," he said.

Here's the story he told: "Ground, as most of you probably know—the ground, telemetry receivers had picked up an impulse that I possibly had a loose heat shield. And for that reason it was deemed advisable to keep the retropackage in place during re-entry so that it would go ahead and burn off, and by that time we would be in a high enough aerodynamic force field to keep the heat shield in place, in case it was, in fact, loose."

"This made pretty spectacular re-entry from the capsule stand-point because as I retained the retropackage and entered into the first part of the high heat area of the reentry, the straps on the retropackage broke loose and I felt a bump on the capsule and thought that the retropackage had jettisoned as it was supposed to do."

BRIGHT GLOW
Apparently this was not true, but I thought so at the time. As I went on into the higher heat, this glow picked up. Outside the capsule was sort of a bright, orange glow outside the window.

"It became apparent that something was tearing up on the heat-shield end of the capsule because there were large pieces—anywhere from pieces as big as the end of your finger, to pieces probably 7 or 8 inches in diameter—were breaking off and falling off the edge of the capsule, and coming up back past the window, and were flaming very brightly."

Oakland Ave. Stresses Attending Sunday School

With about 725 people now enrolled in the Sunday School, teachers of all classes at Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church are getting ready for a concentrated effort for 100 percent attendance from March 4 through the end of June.

Special recognition will be given to the outstanding classes in this effort in July.

"Blessings From Books" will be the theme of the Pioneer youth group at 8:45 p. m. Sunday. "Tears vs. Delinquency" will be the Builders' topic at the same hour.

At 7 p. m. Jacob DeBruin, international director of Child Evangelism Fellowship, will be guest speaker. The main work of C. E. F. consists of conducting Good News Clubs for elementary school children in homes after school hours.

Special music will include a vocal solo by Bill Coffing and a number by the Crusader Choir.

Wednesday evening prayer meeting will be at 7:45.

Dr. Harry Love will be speaker for the Christian Life Epiphany, scheduled from March 4 through 16. Dr. Love is a staff evangelist on the Billy Graham Team. Solists for the two weeks will be "Homer" Jantzen, "Talent Caravan" contest winner on the

Abide With Me

H. F. LYTE

W. H. MONK

INSPIRED BY WALK—Henry Francis Lyte was inspired to write "Abide With Me" in a memorable walk by the sea. A frail, sensitive minister he had been warned to seek the milder climate of Italy as he was a victim of tuberculosis. To live away from the sea and the fisherfolk whom he loved seemed impossible. It was while he was taking his last lonely walk by the sea that this song had its birth. He died three months later. The music for the hymn was composed by Dr. William H. Monk, musical editor of "Hymns, Ancient and Modern."

Celebrates 138th Birthday

First Presbyterian Church will observe its 138th anniversary of service in the community of the Geneva Presbytery in New York State, organized First Presbyterian Church in the country home of John and Mary Voorheis on the corner of Oakdale Road and Grand Trunk Trail.

Of the 13 charter members seven had migrated to Michigan from New York. Increasing numbers followed with the completion of the Erie Canal in 1825.

When the Rev. Mr. Goodman left the church it was well organized. The same year Rev. Isaac W. Ruggles came as pastor. His salary was $300 a year with the Geneva Presbytery paying $275 of the amount.

From these humble beginnings First Presbyterian has grown to 1,285 members and last year gave $44,761 to missions.

For the first 20 years, the congregation worshipped without a church building, meeting in homes of members as did the New Testament church. In 1844 a red brick church was built on the corner of Saginaw and Huron Streets.

The next building was a larger structure erected on the corner of Huron and Wayne in 1871. In 1914 fire ruined the building. The present edifice was completed and dedicated in 1924.

FORMS PRESBYTERY
In 1828 First Presbyterian of Pontiac united with First Presbyterian Church of Detroit and the Farmington Church to form the Presbytery of Detroit.

Over the years the local congregation has contributed financially to some extent in the organization of almost every former Presbyterian Church in this Presbytery and has mothered five churches in Oakland County, namely Rochester, Birmingham, Farmington, Troy and White Lake.

A study committee of elders and trustees, in consultation with denominational officials, is developing a long term plan for the future of the church.

Committee members are William Kalwitz, chairman, Robert Anderson, Earl Bartlett, Gordon Doule, Charles Galloway, John K. Irwin Jr., Ted Koella and Philip Meacham.

Elders Donald Dickerson and Mr. Bartlett will accompany the pastor as commissioners to the Presbytery of Detroit in Dearborn Tuesday.

Men Make Over Prayer Wednesdays at Central

Every Wednesday morning from 6:30 to 7 from now until Easter, men of Central Methodist Church are meeting for prayer services. These prayer meetings are divided into three 15-minute intervals.

The first period is spent in private devotion; the second is for an inspirational message given by a layman; and the third for prayers.

For those who can remain, breakfast is served following the meeting. Leading the meetings in successive weeks will be Richard

Group Planning Trip to Israel

A group of 50 college educators and Christian clergymen will leave for Israel on July 23, on the first annual study tour to be sponsored by the Inter-University Committee on Israel.

The tour is being organized by the committee, headed by Dr. Jacob L. Hartstein who is the dean of Long Island University.

Clergymen and educators who are interested in joining the 30-day study tour may apply for details at the office of the committee, located at 815 Park Ave., New York City.

The Inter-University Committee on Israel, organized in 1961, is a nonpolitical body of American educators seeking to provide a better understanding between America and Israel through the initiation of a dialogue between American and Israeli scholars and religious leaders, and the creation of opportunities for the objective study of Israel's society.

Members of the group will meet with their counterparts in Israel at seminars and conferences. They will also meet with governmental leaders in an effort to gain insights into Israel's problems in the building of an integrated society of people who have come from widely divergent backgrounds.

Participants will tour the length and breadth of Israel, visit the holy places, the major archaeological sites, the major academic institutions, and have an opportunity at first hand to explore the cultural and religious life of the country.

Banquet at Sunny Vale
The Father and Son Banquet is scheduled for 6:30 tonight at Sunny Vale Chapel with a member of the Sheriff's Department speaking on "Crime." Rev. Robert Shelton, interim pastor at First Baptist Church who is born in Burlington from Viet Nam, will also be a guest speaker.
