Squalls Rip State's Southwest

By The Associated Press

A construction worker was killed and three others injured Wednesday as a line of squalls roared off Lake Michigan and cut across southwestern Michigan.

Richard Burnette, 19, of Kalamazoo was killed and his coworkers injured when they were trapped in the ruins of a grain warehouse under construction in Decatur.

The 110-foot-long warehouse, about half built, was blown down by 55-mile-an-hour winds. Falling planks from the unfinished roof buried Burnette.

Raymond Sandberg, 32, of Decatur was in critical condition in a Kalamazoo hospital. Two other men, Carl Harris, 26, and Hoyt Harris, age unknown, received minor injuries.

A Kalamazoo greenhouse was smashed by what the Weather Bureau said may have been a small tornado. Winds up to 75 miles an hour were reported on the Lake Michigan shore at St. Joseph.

The squall line headed eastward across Michigan from the lake, but passed harmlessly over Detroit in midafternoon. Power lines and trees were reported down all along the storm's route. An estimated 3,000 telephones were knocked out in the Kalamazoo-Benton Harbor area.

Rain flooded the Dowagiac Daily News plant in Cass County, halting the presses.

Lightning struck the judges' booth on the harness race track causing some $2500 damage, and a hay-filled barn was destroyed by lightning near St. Clair.

An atmospheric phenomenon known as a seiche (saysh) raised the water level as much as four feet near the southern end of Lake Michigan, but no damage was reported. Swimmers and boaters had been alerted.

A seiche is set off by changes in pressure and winds during storms and pushes the water level down in the middle of the lake, causing it to rise on the edges.

Silent Swainson Holds Future of Secretary Hare

DETROIT (AP) — Ranks-closing was in order for Michigan Democrats today and speculation centered on the fate of Secretary of State James M. Hare, decisively beaten in a bid for promotion.

John B. Swainson, who beat Hare for the gubernatorial nomination, now must beat Republican nominee Paul D. Bagwell in November.

Grounds Spruced Up for 4-H Fair

Some $5,000 has been spent this year on improvements to the building and grounds preparatory to the opening Tuesday of the 1960 Oakland County 4-H Fair.

New wood bleachers to hold 2,400 people have been erected on the west side of the arena in the center of the fairgrounds on M24, south of Walton boulevard.

The quonset exhibit halls and horse barns have been given fresh coats of paint and a new pump has been installed. It will afford the young exhibitors four times more water than in previous years, according to 4-H officials.

The county put up $1,250 for the improvements with the 4-Hers matching that amount, and the state providing the remainder.

Opening day will feature registration of exhibitors, the selection of the 4-H king and queen to reign over the five-day program and the annual freckles contest.

Many 4-H members in the county have made hosts which they will enter in the annual parade in downtown Pontiac Wednesday.

Michigan's Dairy Princess Linda Grinage will be on hand to help with the showmanship contests on Dairy Day, Thursday.

Fair manager this year is Richard Daly of Romeo.

Sun to Shine, Bring Us a High of 82 Friday

Fair skies and a high of 82 are forecast Friday for the Pontiac area.

Tonight will be partly cloudy with the low near 60, the weatherman says.

From 10:15 a.m. yesterday until the same hour today, 40 inches of rain fell in the area.

Sixty-two was the lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The reading at 2 p.m. was 80.

Whether Hare would be slated at the Aug. 27 Democratic state convention for a fourth term was pretty much up to the man who kicked him, Lt. Gov. Swainson. And he wasn't saying.

"Really, we haven't done anything about anything like that," said the boyish-looking but firm-tongued attorney who rocketed to the top in state politics in only six years.

Swainson, with his wife Alice and three children, headed north for a two-week vacation mixed with political strategy mapping and campaign planning at their cottage on Higgins Lake.

The joining-ranks talk in the wake of the primary came chiefly from party organization leaders like retiring Gov. Williams and State Chairman Neil Staebler.

Neither was in the trenches during the closing weeks of primary hostilities.

Staebler told newsmen he was confident of retaining his Democratic ticket leader in 1958 with a resounding victory margin of 303,474 votes.

The tired, dispirited Hare only said that whatever was deemed best for the party was good enough for him.

Enhancing the job's attractiveness for whoever launches on a two-year term in January is a raise voted by the 1960 Legislature that will boost the salary $5,000 a year, making it $17,500.

Observers continued to hark over possible explanations for Swainson's surprising win.

Kefauver Faces Primary Voters

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee Democrats choose today between Sen. Estes Kefauver and Judge Andrew T. Taylor in a Senate primary election fought largely over civil and states rights.

Kefauver, the Democratic vice presidential candidate four years ago, pitched his campaign for a third term on his 22-year record in the House and Senate. He was criticized by his opponent, a circuit judge from Jackson, for supporting civil rights legislation.

Indications were the vote would be close.

Upwards of 650,000 persons were expected to vote, which would be a record turnout for a Senate race in this state.

Kefauver's base strength in his native East Tennessee, while Taylor expected to get a thumping majority in segregation-minded West Tennessee.

This could make the midstate region's vote decisive.

Except for Memphis, the West state vote will be counted by hand and the margin of Taylor strength in that region won't be known until late.

NEGROES TO VOTE

Some 200,000 Negroes were eligible to vote in the primary for the first time since reconstruction days in Fayette and Haywood counties, two West Tennessee counties where they outnumber whites.

Elsewhere in Tennessee Negroes have voted without opposition for years.

The Democratic primary winner is certain to be elected in November. Three Republicans are seeking the GOP nomination, but they have waged no campaigns.

Tennessee's nine congressmen sought renomination today. Two Republicans, Reps. B. Carroll Reece and Howard Baker, were unopposed, as were three Democrats, Reps. Joe L. Ewins, Tom Murray and Robert Everett. Four others, Democratic congressmen had opposition.

Suit Against Detroit OK'd by Supervisors

Oakland Would Force Fulfillment of Sewage Treatment Contract

The Board of Supervisors today authorized a lawsuit against the City of Detroit to force it to live up to a contract for treatment of sewage from the Evergreen-Farmington sewer system.

The legal proceedings were approved by a unanimous roll call vote only if talks with Detroit officials fail completely. It was stipulated.

"Negotiations aren't broken down but they certainly are badly cracked," declared R. J. Alexander, director of the Department of Public Works, to the supervisors.

The lawsuit, which might be in the form of a mandamus action taken directly to the State Supreme Court, would seek to compel Detroit to accept and treat sewage from the $12,657,000 system, which is nearly completed but with no outlet.

Detroit is holding fast to its demands that the county first build a storm sewer along Eight Mile road to stop heavy seasonal rain waters from flowing across the boundary between the two counties and into northwest Detroit homes.

Today's action came amid requests that the action be tabled so as to stir up a fight, a supervisor indicating that Detroit might be right, and a threat of lawsuits against the county by some of its communities for not being able to transport sanitary sewage on a contractual basis anywhere.

Aim Is 3 Pct. Increase Over Last Year's

Campaign to Run From Oct. 6 Till 27; Figure Near 1959 Pledges

A goal of $672,500 has been set by the 1960 Pontiac Area United Fund, S. E. Knudsen, campaign chairman, announced today.

The 12th annual three-week drive will be conducted from Oct. 6 to Oct. 27.

The new campaign goal represents only a 3 per cent increase over the 1959 goal of $647,594, Knudsen said. Contributions will go toward the support of 32 local health and welfare agencies.

The 1960 goal was approved by the United Fund Board of Trustees earlier this week.

Robert S. Nelson, president of the board, said that last year's pledges were taken into account in setting this year's goal.

Pledges last year totaled more than $670,000.

"We felt it was fair and honest to set this year's goal at the amount that was pledged last year," Nelson said.

"We are not asking our campaign leaders and solicitors to reach a goal over what was actually pledged last year."

Salary adjustments in the UF agencies are responsible, principally, for the 3 per cent increase, Nelson said.

Divisional quotas have not yet been announced.

The three major divisions are industrial, headed by Calvin J. Werner, General Motors Corp. vice president and general manager of GMC Truck & Coach Division; the commercial, headed by John Nigemann, vice president of the Community National Bank; and the women's, headed by Mrs. Betty Taylor.

Divisional quotas have not yet been announced.

C. E. Wilson and Son Sold Property in Troy at Big Profit

C. E. Wilson, former secretary of defense and former president of General Motors Corp., and his son, Edward, a Birmingham auto dealer, made a $1,335,500 profit on lands they sold to Chrysler Corp. in Troy, site of the company's proposed technical center.

Wilson told The Pontiac Press that he considered Chrysler made a "good investment."

"They told me they could sell the land for twice what they paid us for it if it were to be used for residential development," he said.

The company's statement, he said, was made in 1956, when Troy was still a township and the Wilsons owned 680 acres in the vicinity of Coolidge and Square Lake roads.

Wilson said he used his land — 114 acres within the area bounded by Coolidge, South boulevard, Crooks and Square Lake road — in connection with a favorite pastime, cattle farming.

Jack Sets Farm Parley; Nixon Urges Civil Rights

Sen. John F. Kennedy announced today he will convene a Midwest farm conference in Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 21 and will attend it.

He said he would visit former President Harry S. Truman at Independence, Mo., sometime the same weekend.

Kennedy announced plans for the conference after a meeting at his Hyannis Port, Mass., summer home with Gov. Herschel Loveless of Iowa.

His purpose, he said, will be to bring together "those immediately concerned with progressive farm policies in the United States" and work out long-range plans for legislation.

The Democratic presidential nominee also announced he is creating a National Policy Committee of Agricultural Progress to serve as a policy committee for the party.

The idea, he said, is to explore the problems of agriculture. "We think if we are successful in November we will be prepared to act in January," when the next Congress convenes.

Meanwhile in Honolulu, Richard M. Nixon, pushing his campaign for the presidency in a state with out problems of civil rights, today called for an end to discrimination throughout the country.

Infant Survives Being Run Over by Dad's Car

An eight-month-old girl was run over by her father's car after she and her brother were jolted out of the backseat as the auto hit a curb in Bloomfield Township Wednesday.

However, both Esther and Benjamin Fleming, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nevada Fleming of Perry, are in good condition today in St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital. Both suffered cuts.

The children were thrown from the car, Bloomfield Township police said, when it hit the curb as Fleming was trying to control the vehicle after his brakes failed at Woodward avenue and Square Lake road.

Apparently the little girl whose back was marked with tire tracks was struck by the rear wheel as it bounced in the air, otherwise it would have crushed her, police said.

Fleming, his wife and another son were uninjured in the accident.

Dem Legislators Reaffirm Union Scorn

Win Without Endorsement

One Soys AFL-CIO Losing Power Grip on Wayne County Voters

By TOM SHAWVER
DETROIT — Eight Democratic legislators who failed in their bid for re-election were ready today to reaffirm their independence of the Union's influence.

All eight all but assured themselves another two-year term in the Legislature by virtue of substantial victories in heavily Democratic Wayne County districts.

Other Democratic candidates for state and congressional office also moved into the Nov. 3 finale without AFL-CIO endorsement.

"This certainly indicates to me that the Union is not the all-powerful force in Wayne County politics that it believes itself to be," said Rep. E. D. O'Brien, one of the incumbents marked by the Union for defeat.

RECORD DOESN'T MATTER

"It's not enough anymore that we have a liberal, pro-labor record in the Legislature," O'Brien said.

"Once the AFL-CIO decides to put one of its own men into office, that's the end of their support no matter what your record is."

"What they didn't count on was labor support we picked up from other sources."

Others who racked up primary victories without AFL-CIO support are Reps. Frank J. O'Brien, Michael J. O'Brien, John J. Fitzpatrick, Michael Novak, Edwin A. Fitzpatrick, John J. Penczak and Alexander Petre.

The Wayne County AFL-CIO suffered other setbacks.

In the 10th Congressional District, Rep. John Leinski was defeated by Rep. James M. DeLoach, Jr., a Democrat, defeating the AFL-CIO endorsed candidate, Carl Stettin, for the Democratic nomination by more than 5,000 votes.

Stettin, president of the huge United Brotherhood of Carpenters & Joiners, also lost out to Leinski two years ago, but without AFL-CIO backing. This time he also gained support from the district Democratic organization.

VANDER VEEN FALLS
Richard VanderVeen, Grand Rapids attorney endorsed by the Michigan AFL-CIO for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, ran second to Rep. T. John Leinski (D-Detroit), five-term House member.

Belton A. Ferency, backed by the county organization for Wayne County's prize seat, lost to James M. DeLoach, Jr., the incumbent, by a 3 to 1 margin.

The Union scored its biggest triumph in the nomination of Lt. Gov. John B. Swainson to succeed Gov. William G. Milliken as Democratic standard bearer in Michigan.

Swainson, who held the Secretary of State's office, defeated the gubernatorial nomination, had no formal endorsement from the AFL-CIO but picked up the largest share of informal backing from key labor leaders.

Recreation Head Gets Reprieve

Survives Waterford Raps

First tottering on the brink of dismissal and later given a qualified vote of confidence, Recreation Director Tom Belton emerged relatively unscathed from the Waterford Township Recreation Board meeting Wednesday night.

Belton, obviously tired of the bickering over his job, opened the meeting with a declaration of his accomplishments and a request that the board give him until next April to prove his ability and correct any mistakes he has made.

In 1958, the year I became director, there were 18 recreational programs with an $18,000 budget, and three of those programs were self-supporting. Now there are 25 programs with a $23,000 budget, and 15 of them are self-supporting."

In 1963 there were 200 children grounds used by 200 children. Now there are 250 children grounds used by 250 children. Belton said.

TAKES OFFENSIVE
"I believe two things," he declared. "One, that I have been doing a good job, and two, that there are certain Board members dissatisfied with my work."

Give me until April to prove my self, and if I haven't done so, then I will tender my resignation."

Lewis Ruelle, elected to the board in December and leader in the opposition to Belton, has criticized his work in two areas — public relations and administration. He said that numerous complaints have come in regarding recreational programs.

With the regular business completed, Ruelle told the board, "We have dragged this particular problem over the last two months. The suggestion had been made that he resign. I would not be willing to go along with his (Belton's) proposed extension period. I believe the board's position on this is clear cut."

To alter this plan, Ruelle indicated, would "reflect on the board's thinking, and I am not ready to admit that I was wrong."

The board then turned the matter over to a decision.

Jack, Dick Working; Campaigns Continue

We could certainly aspire in the United States," Nixon said.

The GOP presidential nominee said desegregation will take time and a new disposition in many areas of the nation.

MUST BUILD IDEA
"It will be the responsibility of the new president to attempt to build in the hearts of the American people the idea that nondiscrimination is not just a legal problem, but a moral problem, not a Southern problem but a national problem, not a government problem but a personal problem."

Nixon also emphasized two campaign themes: That the voters should decide which of the candidates — himself or Democratic Sen. John F. Kennedy — has the necessary experience to run the government and that the federal government should restrict its role in situations with which the individual or the state cannot cope.

A crowd of 2,000 lined the streets of Honolulu and gathered before John Palace, said the 50th state's government, to welcome the vice president.

Atlantic Both are too young, apparently, to realize that most furry and feathered folk make strange companions.

William Shuck, board member, and Waterford Township superintendent of schools, argued that I have received complaints from people involved in the programs.

He also agreed with Shuck, regarding his earlier position, saying, "The board may have placed itself in this ticklish position."

A move by board secretary Edmund Winderler to give Belton a complete vote of confidence was defeated, 3-2.

Marion Novak, Joseph McGee and Ruelle cast no votes, while Winderler and Duane Lemieux voted yes. Robert Allen abstained. Shuck has no vote. Board chairman Irwin Greer also did not vote.

NOT LONG ENOUGH
A move by Ruelle to grant Belton until the first meeting in October to clean up his department was not seconded. Shuck contended the probationary period was not long enough.

Restating his motion, Winderler moved that the board "give him a vote of confidence and further that it recommend that he improve his job performance in a public relations and administration."

Apparently satisfied by the stipulations, Ruelle, in a sudden turnabout, cast an affirmative vote giving the motion a 3-1 victory.

McGee adamantly refused to switch his first vote. Novak and Allen abstained with Winderler and Lemieux again voting yes.

Although saying there was "considerable" talk about this, Alexander emphasized there was nothing in writing.

He warned delay of the authorization of the legal action would be a detriment on Oakland's part and "contribute materially" to damaging the project.

ACTION 8008
Norman R. Barnard, corporation counsel, indicated action might begin as early as next week.

After Yockey's request to table the matter, Carl F. Ingraham, Birmingham supervisor, said his city might independently sue Oakland County and Detroit if Oakland didn't initiate proceedings.

Claude H. Stevens, the county's bond attorney on this and other projects, is with the firm.

The city of Southfield has blocked the drain.

Alexander alleges Detroit is using nonacceptance of the sewer as a club over Oakland's head to get the storm drain built.

The city of Southfield has blocked the drain.

The contract, Alexander said, calls for use of the Detroit facilities at a basic capacity of 30 cubic feet per second at a rate of $11,000 per 1,000 cubic feet of water consumption in areas served by the sewers.

In addition, the county would be charged an annual fee of $2,000 for maintenance of the sewer system.

AGREES WITH RICHARDS
The Detroit Common Council on Monday agreed with Detroit DPA Commissioner Glenn C. Richards that the other sewer be completed before the valve across Eight Mile is opened.

Elect Elliott GOP Chairman

County Nominates Pick Supervisor of Pleasant Ridge for 2-Year Term

County Republican election nominees met yesterday in Pontiac and re-elected Arthur G. Elliott Jr., Pleasant Ridge supervisor, for another two-year term as county chairman.

Nominees will meet again tomorrow to elect the vice chairman, secretary, treasurer and members of the Executive Committee.

One day after they were elected in Tuesday's primary, the nominees—with the exception of two absentees—met principally to elect a chairman as the party's county convention will be held next Wednesday.

Elliott, 41, recently returned from Chicago where he was one of Michigan's 10 delegates at large to the national convention.

He was first elected in the spring of 1957 when former chairman Chad M. Ritchie resigned.

Elliott, whose real estate offices are in Royal Oak, is a former member of the Republican State Central Committee. He resigned this position to become county chairman.

Made Million Profit on Sale to Chrysler

The township soon after the sale did, "to be most sure."

The price to Chrysler was $33,500—a profit of $23,500 for the older Wilson who had paid $24,000 for the land.

The automotive leader said he bought his land in installments, the final one in 1956.

Records in the clerk-registrar's office show that transfer of the deed to Wilson came on Oct. 5, 1956.

This was 35 days after the younger Wilson sold his land to Chrysler and 47 days before the father sold out.

Edward Wilson bought his land from Bruce C. Beaudette, Charles E. Bee, president of the Palmer-See Co. of Birmingham.

Wilson recalled that he purchased the land with funds raised when he sold his General Motors Corp. holdings before taking over the defense post.

"I considered land a good investment," he said.

He said his knowledge of no plans by Chrysler when he purchased the land.

As a matter of fact, I didn't know it was Chrysler that wanted the land when I agreed to sell a real estate office was handling the deal for the company."

Wilson said that before the deal was completed, though, he asked and learned who the purchaser was "for the sake of protecting my neighbors."

GR Passes Flint as No. 2 City in State

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — The "Furniture City" was back on top today as Michigan's second most populous community because of the first successful large-scale annexation vote in 33 years.

Both Grand Rapids and Flint concede there is little chance of ever overtaking Detroit in population, but the two cities are now rivals to hold down the No. 2 spot.

Flint took the honor from Grand Rapids, long known as the industrial capital of West Michigan, when the 1960 federal census gave the East Michigan city a population of 104,046, compared with 116,741 here.

Moreover, Grand Rapids swept ahead again on the strength of Tuesday's election when nine of 11 suburban areas involved with annexation questions here voted to join the city, pushing the population to an estimated 135,471.

Mayor Stanley Davis also says he has discovered 500 persons who were uncounted in the federal census, and he plans to have them added in too.

Joining Grand Rapids were Ada, East Okla., Bechtel, Huff, Michigan Oak, North Park, Oakridge, Ridgemoor and Shawmut Hills districts.

They added about 13 square miles to the city, besides the extra 20,000 population.

The Aquinas College campus now is in the city, plus adding large residential areas and room for industrial expansion—something long sought by Grand Rapids.

Fairview and Yonker's farm districts turned down annexation. But the Fairview vote will be recounted because annexation was beaten by only 15 votes there.

Teen Robs Area Man —With Knife
Sheriff's deputies combed the Milford area this afternoon for a teen-age boy who forced his way into the home of a Milford Township man and took his wallet at knife-point.

Deputies identified the victim as Lawrence Cavanaugh of 1855 S. Milford Rd.

Cavanaugh told deputies the boy, believed to be about 15 years old, came into his home around 11 a.m., pulled out a knife and ordered Cavanaugh to hand over his wallet.

The youth then fled the scene on foot. Cavanaugh said he had 34 and personal papers in the wallet.

Deputies set up a dragnet in the area and were following leads on suspects sighted nearby.

17-Year-Old Is Killed as Car Rams Abutment

BIRMINGHAM — A 17-year-old has retired after 30 years with the company.

His retirement became effective Monday. Since 1930 he has been responsible for the direction of some 4,000 of the company's 10,000 employees.

Williams and his wife Patricia will move to a farm near Arlington, Va.

Since 1938, he has served the U.S. government as area deputy director for the Defense Electric Power Administration.

Williams is a member of the Engineering Society of Detroit, the Detroit Athletic Club, and for 30 years was a member of the Orchard Lake Country Club.

He is a past member of the Bloomfield Planning Committee.

Old Order Perished 46 Years Ago Today

LONDON (AP) — Forty-six years ago today the Old Order ended. As much has happened since the day World War I started back in 1914 that little notice was taken in Britain of the anniversary today.

Only one national newspaper remembered the day officially. There were no observances to mark the end of an era of casual extinction, when people seemed to have no sense of time and European royalty was waited through the children of Queen Victoria.

Europe went gaily to war on Aug. 4, 1914, confident the soldiers would be out of the trenches by Christmas.

Four years the consequences of the tragedy that began with the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand at Sarajevo.

Latest Annexation OK'd for Toledo

TOLEDO (AP) — Lucas County commissioners Tuesday approved annexation by Toledo of 119 acres of Washington Township, which borders the northern city limits. The area, with a tax valuation of $7,314,200, has only 20 residents but includes a large shopping center and drive-in theatre.

Including this area, Toledo has annexed 5,386 acres in the past five years. More than 11,000 residents have been added and tax valuation has increased in excess of $2 million dollars.

Tabiti now is offering tax commissions to attract new hotel capital to Papete.

Tiger Manager Switch Not Team's Answer

Baseball takes some mighty funny twists—especially our Detroit Tigers. Switching managers in the middle of the season is about par for the way the Tigers have been operating for the last few years.

When Walter O. Briggs and his son Spike passed from the Detroit baseball scene the game lost ownership with proven baseball know-how. The new owners were businessmen in lumber, radio, oil and assorted interests.

The results speak for themselves. Put a baseball player behind a desk and hand him a financial statement and his judgment could be likened to the current Tiger ownership.

Who ever heard of a manager trade in mid-season? In the 84 years of our national pastime a deal such as this has never been made. The fans are beginning to wonder where we go from here.

Why not just trade the entire ball club man for man, manager for manager with, let's say, New York. At least we would have a contender and perhaps a pennant.

The Tigers are suffering from lack of pride. They are like a ship without a helmsman floundering around at sea. The players are not to blame. They are the victims of circumstances.

The Tigers are the most colorful team in the two big leagues. They're the "lack luster" champions of all time and yet, oddly, attendance is very high. The management isn't worrying over where they stand. It's too busy counting the money.

Let's hope some strong personality takes over the leadership once more and restores the proper dignity and esprit de corps our old-time Tigers once had.

Legislatures Required to Itemize Spending

Clearing the air on expenses incurred by government lawmakers is a good thing. Some accounting should be made the same as it is in any other well run business.

Legislation has already been approved to require our legislatures to make an itemized report of government money they spend on their travels. Members of Congress are public servants. They have been elected by the people to act in the public interest. Few, if any will squawk at this ruling.

The reason for this is that Uncle Sam's generosity toward junketing legislatures has been badly abused in the past. Not by all, but the few have aroused the taxpayers at home. Some have gone well beyond the limits of common sense.

The job requires travel and much of it is a part of their regular work. They should go first class, assuredly. But traveling as fancy dan is out. Lavish spending of the taxpayers money is not proper and should not be condoned.

The line between comfort and extravagance will be made clear under the new system.

Cabinet Reorganization Strengthens Macmillan

In reorganizing his cabinet and appointing a member of the House of Lords to the responsible post of foreign secretary, Prime Minister Macmillan has strengthened his own position in the British government.

The Earl of Home, a close friend who succeeds the well known and experienced Selwyn Lloyd, is the first member of the Lords to be so named in 20 years. Lloyd now steps up to the key position of Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Labor Minister EDWARD HEATH, who becomes Lord Privy Seal, will assist the new foreign secretary in the House of Commons. This allays both Labor and Conservative criticism of the Home appointment that the holder of the position of foreign secretary should sit in Commons and answer foreign policy questions.

The new share-the-work arrangement of having two officials carry the burden will give the foreign secretary greater freedom to travel to meetings which do not require the presence of the prime minister. It will also have the desirable effect of freeing a top executive from time-wasting routine matters, an urgent need in all governments including our own.

LORD HOME, now 57, had been a member of the Commons for 15 years before succeeding to his family's Scottish title and moving over to the House of Lords. No change in British foreign policy is expected as a result of the reshuffle.

And They May Bring You a Prize of $50 at 4-H Fair

Hubbard: What often is just as hard to find after marriage as before.

Next Tuesday evening at 8:15 at the Oakland County 4-H Fair this column's annual freckle contest takes place. It is open to all young people, and the prize is a $50 U.S. savings bond.

There is no entry fee. All that is necessary is for the contestants to step right up and present themselves when the contest is announced. Everybody with the freckles stands a chance to make them pay off. Competent judges will determine the winner.

Our assertion that Pontiac is the only city with the same name as an automobile stands corrected, (as it should be), by Mr. Margaret A. Cardinal of 295 Elizabeth Lake Road, formerly of Cadillac, which tells you the name of that other city.

A tree near the home of Mrs. E. W. Craddock of Oxford is rushing the season, its leaves having turned a golden yellow, just as it was autumn.

Farmers in the Pontiac area tell me that this hasn't been a year of record breaking wheat fields. Some small fields have run up close to 56 bushels per acre, but the general average is nearer 36 bushels per acre.

At their home near the Dixie Highway in Springfield Township.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Malowski entertained a beautiful cock pheasant the other day. The bird strolled walked around the various rooms, and walked out again. The family dog crouched in a corner when he saw it.

A pair of deer that were fed during last winter in the barnyard of Almond Malletson, out Baldwin Road, now forage the good green forage, and come out of a big woods every day to beg for more food. When it is not given them, they eat the strawberry plants in the garden.

The first official U. S. census of Michigan also showed Oakland County to be second in the state in population. In fact, it was crowding Wayne for first place. The 1960 count gave Wayne 24,173 and Oakland 23,646.

The Bad Medicine Man

David Lawrence Asks: Who Is to Blame for Steel Tragedy?

WASHINGTON—Neither Congress nor the presidential candidates apparently will venture to tackle a delicate but tremendously important problem that is causing hardship to millions of Americans. It concerns the assumed right of small cliques and blocs to hold a club over the economic life of the nation.

The press dispatches of the last few days tell a part of the story. David McDonald, head of the Steelworkers Union, in a joint news conference with Sen. Kennedy at Hyannis Port, Mass., revealed that 100,000 members of his union are unemployed and that 300,000 are working less than full time at present.

"Is the prospect over the long haul very good?" Kennedy asked McDonald.

"Very bad," answered the steel union chief.

But who is responsible for the plight of the 400,000 steelworkers who have been adversely affected and for the unemployment in other industries closely related to the steel industry?

Will any presidential candidate dare to come out in favor of an impartial investigation by a disinterested tribunal so that the interested parties will learn how a small number of men can bring economic distress to millions of citizens?

Here, for instance, is a factual and carefully prepared analysis of the economic aspects of the recent week in the monthly letter of the First National City Bank of New York:

"The economy is still feeling shock waves from last year's steel strike. The extensive buildup of stocks by steel users before the strike enabled metalworking industries to maintain a high level of operations until the final stages of the walkout.

"After the workers returned, steel mills rapidly pushed output well above current steel consumption levels in order to rebuild stocks. Before long, however, minimum working inventories were restored.

"Once prompt deliveries were available and it became clear that higher steel prices were not imminent, steel users began careful policing of their orders for steel to avoid an unnecessary and costly pile-up of excess stocks.

"As steel mills worked off backlogs of unfilled orders, production dropped below the rate at which steel was being consumed by industry.

In July, output of steel dropped about one-tenth from the already low June level—about the usual percentage decline for the vacation period. However, in the holiday

Voice of the People

Nixon, Lodge Victory Would Be Blow to K

No intelligent American citizen would indicate that any remark that Nikita K might make about our Vice President or any of our statesmen or diplomats would detract one iota from their stature or principle.

Amateur Mikoyan on the rostrum from the U. S. made the statement that Nixon was a tough man and hard to fool. The election of Nixon and Lodge would be a blow to the Russian dictators as they prefer someone who will get down and spitfire and whom the dictators manipulate the strings they will dance like puppets.

This Nixon and Lodge would not do. The candidates who stated that Eisenhower should have apologized to Khrushchev would be more in line with Nikita K's choice.

Now the labor leaders blame the administration for unemployment when the fault lies directly in their laps. The first reason is that they have boosted wages so far above those of the European worker that Europe can manufacture everything from hair pins to automobiles for so much less. They can export it over here and sell it for less than goods produced at our plants. The second reason is 15 to 18 million women are working and they are calling for more.

'Jackie Would Make Lovely First Lady'

Why all the fuss about Jacqueline Kennedy's hair style? She seems to be a lady of the best taste, and according to fashion experts, a most interesting person about her appearance.

Since she has been a successful model, I think she should know what style suits her best. It surely is more charming than the teenage type bangs our "over 60" present First Lady wears.

She is very lovely and as beautiful as a "First Lady" and her husband will be capable as our next President.

Mrs. Frank Kurtowski

'Dem Would Make Great Republican'

Joe Haas is a kind man. I am not richer than him. Mildred A. Burns' feelings he would have called her. He always gives people a break. It's Democrats like Mildred that make really good Republicans. Tell Joe to never change. We like him just as he is.

Smiles

About the only thing Mom can't get on time these days is the kids when lunch is ready.

Wild life is decreasing in some of the states because of lack of food. Or, maybe it's the cover charge.

Case Records of a Psychologist: Tactfully Tell Children of Adoption

Ellen can't have any more babies, but she does have a baby, and she does have a little girl. You readers approve of her idea or vote against it? Save this Case Record or mail it to parents of foster children, for it shows the best possible method for informing such children of their adoption.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE CASE F-43: Ellen L., aged 28, has a son who is 4 years old. "But, Dr. Crane," she protested miserably, "my doctor tells me I can never bear another baby."

However, I can adopt a little girl about one year of age, so do you think it would be fair to my son to do so?

ADOPT A CHILD Yes, it would not only be fair, but it would be a wonderful asset to the boy to have a baby sister.

For two children to stimulate each other. They want one another's wits. And the younger child will cause the parents to "lean" up on the older in many ways which that child, responsible for its firstborn.

"Now be sure you look after Sister," they will exclaim, when the two youngsters go forth to play.

"Don't let her get out in the street (or into deep water, etc.)."

The oldest child then becomes trained in accepting responsibility, such marked personality differences between the firstborn and the next child in the family. And never make distinctions between adopted children and those security. So be sure you reassure your youngsters that you love them and will stick by them.

Do this whether they are flesh-and-blood or adopted. And if you parents quarrel, as all married couples tend to do, always apologize to the youngsters. Know your angry words don't reflect your true self.

Human Rights Unit Is Repealed in Flint

FLINT (AP)—Flint voters Tuesday approved repeal of the city's controversial human relations ordinance 28-65-1301. The commission was intended to strengthen civil rights in Flint in real estate dealings and other fields.

The commission, set up by the City Commission, was put out of business early when a group succeeded in putting the question on the ballot.

Opponents said they favored education instead of legislation and feared the penal section of the ordinance. Those in favor said it would promote equal rights and ease intergroup tensions.

On another question, Flint citizens voted 19,107-17,847 to allow dancing in places where liquor is sold. Such activity has been banned.

Civil Aircraft to Be Grounded

FAA Asks Submission to National Action for Military Exercise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Aviation Agency asked today for public understanding and acceptance of the need to ground all civil aircraft for six hours on Sept. 10.

The sky will be swept clear of civilian aircraft during that period for a large-scale training exercise of the North American Air Defense Command.

The FAA said that normally during a six-hour period 1,000 commercial flights would carry 37,000 passengers, and about 700 general aviation aircraft also would be flying.

E. R. Quesada, FAA administrator, appealed to the public, the airlines, and the thousands of private and business pilots for support of the Sky Shield exercise which will ground civil aircraft from 1:00 to 7:00 a. m. Eastern Standard Time.

He described the exercise as a "vital training requirement for our entire air defense system."

Quesada said the time for the exercise was picked to meet military need and result in a minimum disturbance of airline schedules.

Dag to Reassure Katanga Troops Won't Press Claim

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo, (AP) — Dag Hammarskjöld was rushing his deputy to Katanga today with assurances U.N. troops will not try to enforce the central Congo government's claim on the rich secessionist province.

"The secretary general ordered his chief trouble shooter, Ralph J. Bunche, to fly to Elisabethville today after Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe warned U.N. troops will have to fight their way in" to his province, Bunche's trip previously had been planned for Friday.

A U.N. task force was being marshaled to move on Saturday, and the U.N. Command announced: "Our troops are going to enter Katanga as planned."

The Katanga government ordered general mobilization of its able-bodied men in the province, both black and white, to back up the hard core of 500 loyal Congo-less troops serving under Belgian officers.

Hammarskjöld sought to soften the defiance of the Katanga leaders by emphasizing the U.N. troops were not acting as agents for the central government of Premier Patrice Lumumba.

He said in a statement that the U.N. force is not under the orders of the Lumumba government nor can it be permitted to become a party to any internal conflict. The fear he sought to put at rest was stated by Katanga Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo, who said, "We know only too well that the U.N. forces would bring in their baggage the agents of Lumumba."

Tshombe, in declaring Katanga independent of the central government soon after the Congolese army mutinied last month, charged that Lumumba was planning to set up a Communist dictatorship. The provincial premier and other Katanga leaders want the Congo's provinces joined in a loose federation, with their province retaining much of the revenue from its rich uranium and copper mines and its fertile fields and pastures. Lumumba wants a strong central government and looks to Katanga to finance the poorer remainder of the country.

Buried at Sea, Old Car Bodies to Aid Fishing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An artificial reef of old car bodies will be formed off Miami Beach in an effort to improve fishing.

The Metro Commission Wednesday agreed to spend $10,000 on the project. The plan calls for sinking about 1,000 junked automobiles together in groups of five and dropping them along a two-mile line.

The car bodies should become covered with marine life and make an ideal home for small fish which would attract bigger sea specimens.

Wife Makes Old Mistakes, Says Abby

Diaper Pin Pops Ego

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My wife used to be sweet, affectionate and understanding until we had a baby. Now she doesn't even know I'm around any more.

When I come home after a hard day's work, supper isn't even started. She says she's been busy with the baby.

I love my wife as much as I ever did, but I'm lucky if I get a good-night kiss. I used to talk over my work problems with her, and she'd give me good advice.

Now she won't even listen. It's getting so I hate to come home nights. What is a husband supposed to do when he knows he is playing

DEAR SECOND FIDDLE: You don't need advice—your wife does. She is making one of the most foolish mistakes a wife can make: Pry her away from the baby one night and take her on a tour of the cocktail lounges. Let her see all the cute young things gazing over a martini into the eyes of married men whose egos were punctured years ago with diaper pins.

DEAR ABBY: My problem may seem simple but it is annoying. When my husband and I walk together he is always two or three steps ahead of me unless I hold onto his arm. People have told me they saw us on the street together and they wanted to know if we were mad at each other. He is a great big guy and I am small with little short legs, so I can't walk as fast as he can. But I would like to know what in the heck is his big hurry?

THREE STEPS BEHIND

DEAR THREE STEPS BEHIND: Ask him. And in the meantime—hold onto his arm.

DEAR ABBY: When I left my office job to be married, the other girls took me to dinner at a local nightclub. There were eight single girls at our table. The music started and a nice-looking young man came to our table and asked me to dance.

Since I was the guest of honor and my reason for being there was my coming marriage, I didn't feel like dancing with a stranger.

So I told him I would rather not, and I asked him if he wanted to dance with one of the other girls. He replied, "No, I want to dance with YOU."

I told him again I would rather not. He thanked me courteously and went away. Did I do the right thing? How should have I have handled the situation? It was terribly embarrassing.

GUEST OF HONOR

DEAR GUEST: Forget it. You did the right thing.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "EXPERIENCE": No man with a spark of manhood will violate the chastity of the woman he loves. When your boyfriend begins making advances on the plea that "we are going to get married anyway," it is time to get rid of him. He does not love you.

"What's your problem?" Write in Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send 25c and a large, self-addressed envelope in care of this paper.

Little Woman Turns Bloodthirsty?

Lady Writers in Vogue

NEW YORK (AP)—What drives a woman to murder—in a fictional kind of way, of course?

Now that hammock reading is in full swing, many a summer vacationer is discovering what bloodthirsty little imaginations members of the allegedly fragile sex possess.

"Women can write murders well, and do them well," reflects Lewis Thompson, fact crime writer and Executive Vice President of the Mystery Writers of America Inc. "Some of the most fascinating criminals in the world are women. More deadly than the male is right."

What about ladies and lethal literature?

"Women have an important place in mystery story writing," says Thompson. "They certainly are very articulate in our organization. Four are past presidents and Frances Lockridge is sharing the presidency now with her husband, Richard."

The MWA has four chapters in New York, Chicago, northern and southern California, with a diabolically distinguished membership that reads like a who's who in horror.

It also has a conviction that "crime pays—but not enough." That's why Thompson is concerned about distaff dividends.

"Women face a lack of opportunity," he says. "The paperback goes for sex and violence, especially in the originals, and women simply don't write this way. There are no women among the big selling names in the field (always excluding Agatha Christie), although the MWA has given its annual award for the best novel to women four out of seven times."

Then why do women turn their literary fancies to arsenic and assassination instead of old lace and young love?

Says Dorothy Gardiner, a former MWA executive secretary and well known writer who's now editing the letters of the late mystery pro, Raymond Chandler:

"There's no single reason why anyone writes anything. It's perhaps to a great extent economics. That, and getting something out of your system."

"Maybe you're vicariously getting rid of dear aunt Daisy. Or maybe you're interested literally in the psychological reaction of a certain group to a violent death."

"Suppose you're left a widow with two or three small children and all you've got is a talent for writing. Women can run a family, spend two or three hours a day writing and still make as much as they perhaps could with a fulltime outside job."

But why write mysteries? "Allegedly," she explains, "it takes a shorter time to write a mystery than other novels. If pressed financially, you can write two a year. For one not very good murder. If you get it published, you can figure on $3,000 at a minimum. There'll be more if it goes into paperbacks, and foreign sales are unexpectedly good."

"You'll not get rich that way, but you can live on it."

Miss Gardiner is encouraged because the trend in that great murder outlet, the paperback, is toward more "quiet" mysteries. This means more women are being printed—or rather reprinted, since few women are represented by originals in the hardboiled genre, where a private eye comes to grips with blondes, cold diamonds and gangsters.

Find Shared Burden Would Be Lighter

By RUTH MILLETT
With half the effort that Susan is putting into "going it alone" she could have made a success of her marriage.

While she had a husband, she wasn't willing to compromise pitch in and carry her part of the load, or in any way cater to her husband's wishes.

Now that she is divorced she is making all kinds of adjustments she refused to make while she was married.

When she was married, Susan slept until noon and couldn't understand why her husband, who worked all day, didn't want to go to parties every night.

As a divorcee, Susan now gets to a job at eight every morning and is no longer the last guest to leave a party. "I have to get up at the crack of dawn to get to work by eight," she explains.

When she had a husband, Susan never bothered to build up his ego. In fact, she seemed determined to tear it down. But now that she is dependent on a few spoiled bachelors to escort her about town, she couldn't be more considerate or attentive. Each one gets a royal build-up—even though Susan knows that they are all too set in their ways to be good husband material.

When Susan had a husband, she was extravagant in money matters. Now that she is living on alimony plus what she can earn herself, she is a careful spender.

She is spending HER money now—and it does seem to make a difference.

There are lots of Susies in this world, spoiled darlings who find out after they lose a perfectly good husband that they are forced to make more adjustments as divorcees than they were ever willing to make as wives.

Shower Fiancee at Church

A shower honoring bride-elect Stephanie Jones was given Tuesday in the fellowship room of the United Missionary Church.

Hostesses were Mrs. Floyd Hayward, Mrs. Lloyd English, Mrs. Donald Reichard, Mrs. Juliet Baier, Mary Esther Johnston and Diane Williams.

Miss Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jones of Joslyn avenue, will wed Wayne Ostrander, son of the L. V. Ostranders of Chippewa road, Sept. 3 at United Missionary Church.

Among the 38 guests were members of the bridal party: Priscilla Jones, honor maid; Susan Jones and Mrs. Baker, bridesmaids; and Terri Kent, flower girl.

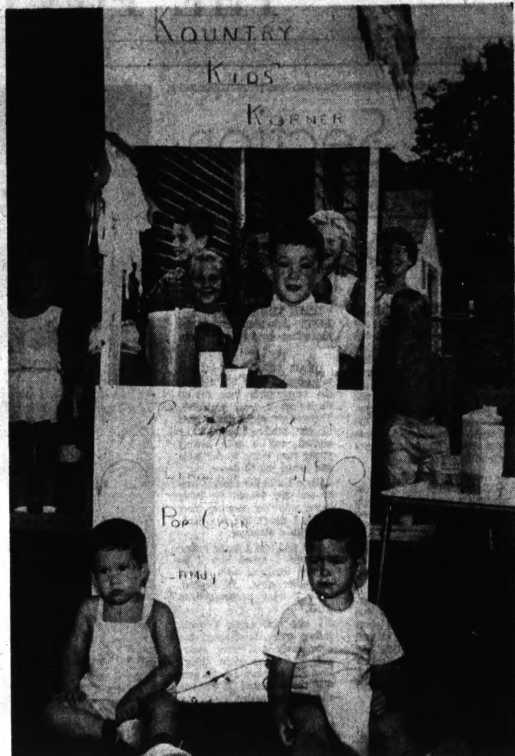

Niblick Club Has Luncheon

After a morning of golf at the Pontiac Country Club Tuesday, 26 members of the Niblick Club gathered for their monthly luncheon and business meeting at the Watkins Lake summer home of Mrs. Arthur Compton.

Following awarding of prizes for July golf was an afternoon of bridge.

Guests were Mrs. William A. VanWile of Wheeling, W. Va., and Mrs. Oscar Eckman of Largo, Fla.

Mrs. Arthur Barnes invited the club to her Motorway drive home for the Sept. 13 business meeting.

Holding back the throng of enthusiastic customers for their wares is lemonade stand proprietor John Rhoads of Canterbury drive. Brothers Jeffery, left front, and Ricky are firmly planned to secure first serving. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Rhoads.

Safety Belts Good Mental Reminders

"Fasten your seat belt, please." When these words are heard aloft, even the most seasoned air traveler experiences a slight quickening of the pulse and an immediate sense of alertness. The plane is about to land, and the mind races ahead to anticipate the landing and all the activities that will follow.

The seat belt, therefore, is not only a safety device but a thought-stimulating influence that causes one to "think ahead."

A woman who recently had a set of safety seat belts installed in the family automobile reports the same phenomenon. She had the seat belts installed because she had studied research reports about their effectiveness in preventing or minimizing injuries from traffic accidents.

The seat belts are serving an additional function, she has discovered. Their presence is a constant reminder of the importance of safety in driving. The driver is reminded, almost upon opening the car door, of the trip he is starting, whether it be to the corner store or to a long vacation.

The first order of business before a trip should be: "Fasten seat belts." This suggestion, according to Allied Chemical Corporation, producers of the Caprolon nylon fiber used in the manufacture of most nylon seat belts, sets off a "chain reaction" of safety consciousness on the part of the driver and passengers.

Passengers begin to think about the purpose of the belt and the injuries which the use of the seat belt minimizes or prevents.

This brings the next link in the "chain reaction" into focus. For as the driver's thoughts are directed to the dangerous possibilities of the trip he is about to make, he increases his caution.

Therefore, as the driver starts out, with seat belts fastened, he is stimulated to drive safely, defensively, and with full respect for traffic laws and the rights of others.

There are additional ways of assuring a safe trip. One way is to make a habit of checking other items of safety equipment before starting out. Look closely at your tires. Wipe the dirt from headlights and tail lights and check windshield wipers and stop lights to see if they work properly.

These actions are advisable from the standpoint of discovering actual defects. In addition, they tend to put the driver in the right frame of mind for driving.

A good start is vitally important to safety on the highway. Confidence in one's safety equipment, and awareness of one's responsibility to drive safely help a driver start out right. And since they seem to go together, they not only assure a good start, but hold the promise of a happy ending.

Future Bride Honored With Kitchen Shower

A kitchen shower given by Mrs. Robert Koelske of Camley street honored bride-elect Patricia Meagher Tuesday evening.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Meagher also of Camley street, Miss Meagher will marry Harry F. Crake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Crake of LaSalle avenue, Sept. 17 at St. Benedict Catholic Church.

Shower guests were Mrs. Meagher, Mrs. Crake, Mrs. Mabel Meagher, Cynthia Moloney, Mrs. Leonard Sundahl, Mrs. Olive Gustafson and Mrs. Warren Bratt.

Others were Mrs. Kenneth Hallenbeck, Mrs. Francis Sutton, Mrs. Robert Vallancourt, Mrs. Maurice Swan, Mrs. James F. Simmons and Katie Sutton.

The bride-elect has named Miss Moloney as honor maid for her wedding. Bridesmaids will be her sister Jean Meagher, the prospective bridegroom's sister Sally Crake, Judy Lyon, Mary Thyle and Mrs. Joseph Bigler.

Attending as flower girl will be Miss Meagher's younger sister Kathleen.

Proper Brushing

(NEA) Proper way to brush your hair: brush top and back hair up, and sides out. Start at hairline and, with twist of the wrist, sweep brush out from scalp.

Keep Mind Over Mercury During Summer Dog Days

The coolest summer in the past several years is now prevailing throughout the nation (New York, usually an oven, hasn't had a day in the 90's), but just you wait. Dog days are coming and that's the time to play it cool.

Many times, controlling your reaction to the heat is merely a matter of mind over mercury. For example: on a really hot day, don't bother to check the weather forecaster every few minutes to verify the gruesome details.

If you must consult a thermometer, keep it in a glass of cool water to be comforted by the low readings.

Avoid all conversations about the weather or even such casual comments as "It's the humidity, not the heat."

DRESS TO BE COOL
Years ago, people believed that clothes of gaudy tied to their fumes kept the heat away. It worked well on the neighbors.

More sound along these lines is dressing to feel cool. Loose fitting, light-colored cotton clothing is best for it absorbs perspiration.

Full skirts are better than sheaths for they allow the air to circulate around the legs and make it possible to go ungrated regardless of your figure type.

Should you have to make a trip to town, plan it at an off-hour when you won't have to travel sardine-style on bus or train. Whenever you're enroute outdoors, walk slowly, don't dash about, on the shady side of the street. Work overtime or dawdle on your way home to miss the evening rush.

There are dozens of theories surrounding what to drink and eat during a hot spell. Advocates of the hot-drink-will-make-you-cool school insist that this is so because hot beverages open the pores. Cold drink quaffers say their theory holds up because cold liquids lower the body temperature. Believe what you like, but remember to eat and drink wisely despite the heat for good nutrition is important regardless of the season.

If possible, try napping during the hottest part of the day. Can't sleep a wink while the sun is up, no matter the time of the year? Submerge yourself in the comfort of an air-conditioned double feature and come out after the sun has set. At night, try a tepid bath before retiring and drip dry to get the maximum cooling effects.

Avoid all controversial discussions — difficult during an election year — until after the temperature falls. Keeping an even temper is part of the trick of staying cool.

If none of these tips work, you might try using your imagination. To set the scene, put on your heaviest silk clothes, ear muffs and mittens. Complain loudly about the cold. In no time at all, a man in the coolest looking white suit will come and take you to the most comfortable soundproof room you've ever seen. There you will be away from the heat, the humidity and the problems of dealing with both.

Sharon Ann Conklin

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Conklin of Keego Harbor announce the engagement of their daughter Sharon Ann to Paul J. Noel. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Noel of State street. The couple plans a March wedding.

Shower guests were Mrs. Meagher, Mrs. Crake, Mrs. Mabel Meagher, Cynthia Moloney, Mrs. Leonard Sundahl, Mrs. Olive Gustafson and Mrs. Warren Bratt.

Others were Mrs. Kenneth Hallenbeck, Mrs. Francis Sutton, Mrs. Robert Vallancourt, Mrs. Maurice Swan, Mrs. James F. Simmons and Katie Sutton.

The bride-elect has named Miss Moloney as honor maid for her wedding. Bridesmaids will be her sister Jean Meagher, the prospective bridegroom's sister Sally Crake, Judy Lyon, Mary Thyle and Mrs. Joseph Bigler.

Wed in Three Rivers

Selvalas on Honeymoon

Honeymooning in Florida and the East Coast area are newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee Selvala. Upon their return they will reside on Tecumseh avenue here.

The couple exchanged wedding vows July 23 at St. John Lutheran Church in Three Rivers before some 250 guests. The Rev. H. G. Seemon, pastor of Messiah Lutheran Church in Constantine, performed the 3:30 p.m. service before an altar banked with vases of white carnations.

The bride, the former Gail Maxine Erickson, is the daughter of the Wilbur Ericksons of Three Rivers. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Selvala of Jackson street are the bridegroom's parents.

The new Mrs. Selvala chose a gown of silk organza with lace applique accenting the Sabrina neckline and bouffant skirt and featuring a chapel train. A Swedish crown secured her brief veil of silk illusion net. She carried a cascade of stephanotis and lily centered with a white orchid on a white Bible.

Serving as maid of honor was Mary Ann Breth of Three Rivers. Her sheath of lavender silk organza featured an organza overskirt. White mums and lavender lavender mums comprised her cascade bouquet.

GOWNED ALONE

Bridesmaids Margaret Selvala of Pontiac, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Cheryl Capistrant of Pontiac; Mary Stamply of Lansing and Jean Crojean of Three Rivers were gowned alike in lavender silk organza sheaths.

They carried cascade arrangements of lavender mums with dark lavender nylon leaf sprays and solid leaves.

Delmar Selvala attended his brother as best man. Ushering were Bob Kent and Norbert Capistrant of Pontiac. Bernie Lucini of Detroit and Walter Poe of Blissfield, Kurt and Ross Erickson, brothers of the bride, and Larry Bearner of Pontiac.

A reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony for which Mrs. Erickson chose a silk organza tunic dress of ice blue accented with white accessories and a pink and white orchid corsage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a beige lace tunic dress with beige accessories. Her corsage was comprised of green and white orchids.

The bride is a 1960 graduate of the University of Michigan.

A design engineer for Pontiac Motors, the bridegroom is also a graduate of the University of Michigan where he was a member of Evans Scholar Association.

The invitation to address the recent annual convulse of Theta Sigma Phi, women's honorary journalistic fraternity, overcame the bride.

As the first woman from overseas to make the main address, she felt uneasy at being an "expert" on newspaper work abroad.

Women in America, she thinks, have a more acute consciousness of being women, in their own right.

"When they organize a business, a welfare project, an association, they organize a woman's affair."

"In Denmark, to draw the comparison, the women simply become members of the all-ready-existing all-male journalistic associations."

Inger Lise says the apprenticeship system is a requisite for a job on a provincial paper rather than journalistic education.

The apprentice is thrown into all types of newsgathering, from deaths to needlework.

Only journalistic course available, at the University of Aarhus, is given after the student has had at least two years apprenticeship.

Les Brown Is at Pine Lake Friday Night

Highlight of Pine Lake Country Club's summer season is Friday evening's "Les Brown Party."

With reservations limited to 450 people, response to the affair has been heavy, according to Public Relations Chairman Carleton B. Spencer.

Among area people who have reservations to dance to the nationally known recording orchestra are the Mile Crosses, the Clyde N. Dearings, Mr. Mrs. Harry Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Major and the Glenn Griffiths.

Baking Soda's a Real Summer Friend

Summer's a time when you want to look and feel your brightest best. You make a noble effort to keep your weight down the better to fit in your swim suit. With more of your skin exposed, you like it looking smooth. You want your teeth their whitest to contrast with your summer tan and your feet fit so that they don't slow you down on your rounds of outdoor activities.

Many household products stand you in good stead in your "summerizing" program. An economical case in point is baking soda. If you happen to ask your dentist, for example, for dental hygiene guidance, chances are he'll suggest you brush your teeth with baking soda. You can use it straight, or if you like a little flavor, add a dash of citralmon, nutmeg or cloves. Mix a jarful using the proportion of a half-teaspoon of your favorite spice to the half-pound of the soda.

The soda alone or your soda and spice concoction, a half-teaspoon of it added to the half glass of water also makes an inexpensive and refreshing mouthwash. Use it, too, as a gargle for the sore throat that accompanies the summer cold or the scratchy throat that accompanies heavy smoking. The baking soda, an antacid, neutralizes the effects of the smoke which is acid.

An antidote for the sun-dried skin is the baking soda bath. Add a half-pound of bicarb to the tubful of warm water, lie lazily back and soak. Since dry skin tends to flake or peel, resist the urge to scrub as that is likely to make it flake or peel more. There's no need to anyway, for soda is mildly detergent, so much so that Irish homemakers living around Lough Erral wash their clothes without soap of any sort for the water contains a large percentage of soda bicarbonate. You'll find this soda soak is also a pleasant and very effective way of soothing the sore red sunburn. Water should be cool.

If your feet object to the stepped up summer activity, soak them in a soda solution, a couple of tablespoons of bicarb to the basinful of warm water. Swelling and soreness subside and feet that felt they couldn't maneuver another step are ready and rarin' to go. If they tend to perspire excessively in hot weather, you can protect your shoes against odors by sprinkling dry soda in them regularly. When outdoor activities take the form of golf, gardening or fishing, you're a likely target for biting, stinging insects. Should you fall victim, the sting or bite will be greatly soothed if a baking soda paste is promptly applied to the afflicted area. This same paste, liberally applied, is equally soothing if you succumb to poison ivy, oak or sumac.

Will-O-Way to End Season

Summer students at Will-O-Way Apprentice Theatre, West Long Lake road, Bloomfield Hills, will stage their free final performances at 8:30 p.m. Friday through Wednesday.

There will also be two matinees Saturday and Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

The students, who range from 6 to 60, will present scenes from plays featuring the classics and modern Broadway shows.

Celia Merrill Turner, director of the school, may be reached for reservations.

Music Clubs Federation Slates Interlochen Visit

The National Music Camp at Interlochen will host state and national members of the National Federation of Music Clubs this weekend.

Presiding at the state board meeting Saturday will be Mrs. Ralph Curtis of Oxford, president of the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs.

At 5 p.m. Friday afternoon and special concert Friday evening featuring federation scholarship winners are among many events planned.

A performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Huddie" will be a highlight Saturday.

Those attending will have an opportunity to examine the recently dedicated Carl D. Greenleaf Memorial organ building.

Part of the permanent Interlochen Academy of Arts campus, the building houses more than a dozen organs.

The result of many contributions from friends and family, the building honors Carl D. Greenleaf, one of the camp's founders.

Planning to attend from this area are state bulletin Editor Mrs. George Wood of Oxford and from Birmingham, Mrs. Herbert Gardner, Mrs. Robert Livsey, Mrs. Philip Flanders, Mrs. B. I. Tate, Mrs. L. W. Robertson and Dr. and Mrs. John Phelps.

Here's Some Encouragement

Still Time to Shape Up

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You have just a little more than eight weeks between now and the end of September, when you will get your winter clothes out of mothballs and perhaps buy some new ones. That's long enough to lose from 15 to 20 pounds—and many inches.

Each August I print letters from some of the women who reduced so successfully with my eight-week self-improvement marathon last January. I do this because I think you will enjoy the letters and also because they may inspire you to do the same, and therefore add pleasure to your fall shopping.

"Dear Josephine: 'Here are my true right-weight improvements: Before Weight 130 pounds Bust 36 inches Waist 27 inches Hips 35 inches. After 115 pounds 36 inches 23 inches 34 inches. 'I am so proud and have a figure now.' At least the boys think so!"

ANOTHER LETTER

"Dear Mrs. Lowman: 'After completing your eight-week self-improvement marathon I have to write to tell you how happy I am with the results. I am 5 feet 2 inches tall. After my fourth baby was born, my weight shot up to 160 pounds. After eight weeks and your booklet I weigh 128 pounds.

"My bust did measure 38 1/2 inches and now measures 36 inches. My waist measured 30 inches and now measures 27 1/2 inches. My hips measured 42 inches, now they're 38 inches.

If you missed marathon last January and would like to see how much you can improve your appearance before fall, you may want my marathon booklet. If so, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

"I am so proud and have a figure now! At least the boys think so," writes one reader who tried marathon. If you want to please the boys, and who doesn't, you may want to try marathon yourself.

Treat Yourself With Respect; Eat Good Food

(NEA)—Women who live alone are frequently prone to snack, to eat badly, to protest that cooking for one is too much trouble. Aside from the lack of respect for oneself that this implies, such hit-or-miss eating is deadly to health and therefore damaging to good looks.

PLAN AHEAD

You should, each week, plan your menus for the week and do your marketing accordingly. Remember that you need meat, vegetables, fish, fruit, eggs, butter and milk in your diet.

Surely, it's not too much trouble to broil a steak or a chop for yourself, to make a leaty green salad with oil and vinegar dressing. Put orange juice on your list and have a big glass every day.

And eat your meals in pleasant surroundings, at an attractive table. Don't fall into the bad habit of slumping down at a corner of the kitchen table. And don't fall into the equally bad and lazy habit of eating TV dinners and the like.

Remember that good food is the basis of good health. Show yourself the respect that you'd gladly show a fellow human.

Angry Letter Wrong

By EMMY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a married woman with a family consisting of my husband and two young children. I have a friend, a school chum, with whom I have kept in contact since my marriage. She is unmarried and lives in a neighboring town. Every once in a while I invite her to dinner and to spend the evening.

I recently wrote to her inviting her to dinner. She wrote back accepting my invitation and asked if she could bring along her married sister and her husband, who could drive her here and back. (Her sister and her husband are strangers to me.)

As I am a shy person I did not relish the idea of entertaining strangers and also it would have meant a lot more work for me. I told her I was sorry, but that I could not have them this time but that I was looking forward to seeing her.

I have heard through other friends that she was very much put out because of this and said she had a good mind not to come either. I was so upset and furious over this that I sent her a "special delivery" letter canceling the invitation. I told her that her actions were entirely uncalled for.

I feel that I was perfectly justified in calling off the dinner invitation under the circumstances. My husband thinks I was wrong and that I should write and apologize for acting in haste and that I should invite her for another time.

Answer: Your friend should not have asked to bring two extra guests to your house for dinner, and you were quite within your rights to refuse. However, you were wrong to write and cancel your invitation to her and I think you should follow your husband's suggestion.

Dear Mrs. Post: We are contemplating a 25th wedding anniversary in honor of our parents and would like to know if we could have the invitations engraved in silver, or must black ink be used?

Answer: Silver ink for 25th wedding anniversary invitations would be permissible.

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancée's parents are giving a dinner party at one of the hotels to announce our engagement. My fiancée is going to wear a cocktail dress and she wants me to wear a dinner jacket. All of the other men will be in business suits.

In view of this, would a dinner jacket be proper for me, or should I wear a business suit? My fiancée thinks that as we are the guests of honor it would be proper for us to be more formally dressed than the others.

Answer: If your fiancée's father as host is going to wear a business suit, you are right in not wishing to be the only man at the dinner in a dinner jacket.

Boys Hit Arms Race and Girls Lash Communism

Teens Suggest Solutions to World's Woes

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert
Youth Research Co.

Teenagers too are well aware of the pressing problems of our times — as well they might be since the problems eventually will land in their laps.

We found that even during summer vacation, young people are concerned about world and domestic affairs—although boys and girls have differing viewpoints.

For example, the majority of boys—41 per cent—feel disarmament is the greatest international problem. But girls say their greatest worry is over Russia and communism along with race riots in Africa.

We asked 953 teenagers to list in order what they consider the most troublesome topics of the day. Here is how the boys responded:

1. Disarmament (34 per cent)
2. Russia and communism (17 per cent)
3. African race riots (16 per cent)
4. Peace (14 per cent)
5. Food shortages (13 per cent).

The girls gave this ranking:

1. Russia and communism, African race riots (24 per cent)
2. Disarmament and peace (18 per cent)
3. Radiation and atomic energy, Cuba, space race (7 per cent).

Expressing the viewpoint of many young people worried about international peace, Frank Piechowski, South Bend, Ind., says: "If there is not a halt in the testing of weapons, there will not be a world fit to live."

SEGREGATION IS TOP
On the national scene, the majority of both boys and girls—47 per cent—agree that segregation is our most pressing problem.

Teenagers also feel that international tension has increased over the problems of radiation and atomic energy, Cuba, the space race and the Berlin crisis.

Ron Meadow, 17, of South Bend, Ind., is concerned over a more individual matter. He says, "Each person is too self centered to worry about the welfare of others."

QUESTIONS CENSURE
Cathy Fischgrund, 17, also of South Bend, questions U.S. censuring of race riots in South Africa "with our own attitude the way it is."

Darwin Doss, 19, of Pocatello, Idaho, reflects the view of many young people in his comment: "The worst mistake of the people have deteriorated so that all other problems, I think, stem from this factor—segregation, racism, juvenile delinquency and corruption."

Bill Guest, 17, of Clark Summit, Pa., believes graft, labor unions and organized crime syndicates are the nation's worst scourges. And Ronald Fournier, 16, of Hartford, Conn. lists over-population.

Our young people have their own ideas on remedies for the world's headaches.

THEIR PROPOSALS
Here are some of their proposals:

Disarmament: Total gradual disarmament of great world powers, beginning with nuclear weapons (Cathy Fischgrund, 17, South Bend, Ind.).

Communism: Educate people to know what and how communism operates and its effects (Elizabeth Trynski, 18, Hartford, Conn.).

African race riots: Force nationwide elections to set up government the people want (Dorothy Hoffman, 17, Missoula, Mont.).

Segregation: Integration starting with elementary grades and increasing gradually (Rosemary Schiller, 15, Factoryville, Pa.).

Farm issue: Less production, government control (Robert Feinold, 18, South Bend, Ind.).

Juvenile delinquency: Give teenagers more freedom, understanding, responsibility (Tom Kelly, 16, St. Louis).

Give Darwin Doss, 19, Pocatello, Idaho:

"Everything is going too fast, our schools are over-crowded, homes are not a place of learning any more. So let's slow down."

Life's darkest moment for Jimmy Buzzard of Bradenton, Fla., occurred when his homemade dream boat sank ingloriously to the bottom. Perhaps he forgot a few small details such as caulking the seams of the craft he built during a school summer program. Old shipbuilders used to say, "They all leak a little at first," if that's any consolation.

scarlet fever, diphtheria and poliomyelitis combined."

However, they said, "with the reduction of the danger of serious bacterial complications through the use of appropriate antibiotics, the mortality rate has been reduced markedly."

Both physicians are affiliated with the department of pediatrics, University of California Medical Center.

New York's Cribb Mountains once were an important center of charcoal production.

Yule Tide's Under Way

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — If the nation's designers and importers of gifts have anything to say about what will be under your Christmas tree this year, you might find a 315-pound solid hardwood ape.

It may be a 4-foot-long paper mache red, yellow and blue tiger; or a doll-sized Hawaiian luau kit; or a preserved banana tree or a Fiberglass waterfall that looks like rock; or — it's the truth — an American-made copy of an original Japanese table bowl set.

These were a few of thousands of gift suggestions shown to more than 10,000 buyers at the 51st annual California Gift Show that closed Sunday. The exhibits contained conventional as well as unusual gift items with which their sellers hope to stock the Christmas shelves of merchants.

More than 575 exhibitors presented their wares, which included gifts made in nearly every state and virtually every country outside the Iron Curtain.

The hardwood ape was one of three animals of that size offered at $550 each.

In the luau kit, which sells for $12.95, the buyer receives complete service for 12, including napkins, plates, place mats, baking shells, caps, shell invitations, decoration shells, reusable toothpicks, a table headpiece of coral, a water jilly, a fish net table covering, a shell dish, cork and glass flasks and 12 large leis.

For the "child who has everything" came an item from Spain. It was a 4 1/2-foot-long hurdy-gurdy, with a toy donkey, that plays six pieces of music on a roll which can be changed.

This little item will set some living parent back to the tune of $65.

Early Shots for Baby Best Bet for Whooping Cough Protection

CHICAGO — A baby's best protection against whooping cough is early vaccination or the immunization of the older children in the family, two San Francisco physicians said today.

Whooping cough (pertussis) remains second to bronchopneumonia as "the most significant infectious disease of infancy," Dr. Stephen Kaufman and Henry B. Bruyn said in Journal of Diseases in Children, published by the American Medical Association.

They said a study of the 199 patients with whooping cough who were admitted to San Francisco General Hospital during a 10-year period showed child-to-child contact within the home was "the most important means" by which whooping cough is contracted.

The newborn can be best protected by adequate primary immunization or booster inoculation of other children in the family before the baby arrives, they said.

THREE SHOTS

The usual method of immunization consists of three shots one month apart beginning at one to two months of age, they said.

"This type of immunization will prevent the disease or mitigate its severity," they said.

Because the greatest sickness and mortality due to whooping cough occurs during the first three months of life, they said, protection against the disease is of "major importance" at that age.

Thirty-eight per cent of the patients in the San Francisco study were under six months of age and 57 per cent were under one year. Almost half of them contracted the disease from another child.

The two physicians said whooping cough is "still a significant and dangerous disease, causing more deaths in the first year of life than measles."

Marks 90th Birthday at Walnut Lake

Members of the Whitmer family recently celebrated the 90th birthday of Albert Whitmer at his home on Walnut Lake where he has lived since 1888.

Although confined to a wheel chair most of the time, Mr. Whitmer enjoys good health, his family relates.

Forty guests from Ohio and Michigan attended the cooperative dinner, presenting gifts and cards to the honoree. A cooperative dinner was served on the lawn.

With the exception of Mr. Whitmer's home and two acres of land, Walnut Lake farm was sold for subdividing several years ago.

Party guests included Mr. Whitmer's son Claude, of Walnut Lake road, West Bloomfield Township, and daughter Mrs. Arthur Wilks, of Redford.

Currently two of Mr. Whitmer's grandsons Hugh and Kenneth Whitmer are touring Europe. Another grandson Walter, lives on Inkster road.

Here's a Preview Peek at America's Cars for '61

By BEN PRILEGAR
AP Automotive Writer
DETROIT—Within the next 10 weeks the 1961 models of 28 American cars will go on sale.

Four of the nameplates will be new. Four others will be a year old or less. The Edsel is gone. The DeSoto is still around, despite reports of its demise.

Considerable change in styling will be noticed, although the changes under the skin are not spectacular.

The cars will be easier to get in and out of, more comfortable to sit in and easier to park. Colors on a pastel trend for several years, will be even more subdued. Chrome and other bright trim, slapped on almost at random during the mid-'50s, will be restrained.

SHORTER, HIGHER
After year by year moves to get lower and longer—the cars suddenly will become shorter and higher—although in some cases, notably with the General Motors products, interior height is increased by lowering the floor, rather than by increasing overall height of the car.

Economic forecasts indicate the year may be rough for the auto-makers. Prices, as yet undecided, will be a tricky factor. Prices remained almost unchanged from 1959 to 1960 and observers are betting the industry will be forced to at least try to hold the line again.

Here's a rundown of what you'll be seeing when the cars enter the showrooms, beginning the third week in September:

BUCIC—Sloping rear fins flatten out. Nose dips, somewhat like the 1960 Ford. Roof line takes on a Thunderbird appearance. Dogies disappear from front doors.

BUCIC SPECIAL—One of three new GM smaller, family cars. This one picked up once-popular Buick series name. Has 112-inch wheel base. All new small aluminum V6 engine.

CADILLAC—Minor changes. Dogie is gone in common with all GM cars. Fins slightly deemphasized but still prominent. Transmission hump reduced.

CHEVROLET—Rear end flattened out. Gull wings disappear entirely. New roof line for top Impala series.

CHRYSLER—Grille undergoes a change. Alternator replaces direct current generator.

COMET—Lincoln-Mercury leaves well enough alone on this fast-selling compact. Will have new grille, optional higher horsepower engine.

CORVAIR—Styling unchanged on outside. More storage space. Reportedly improved heater. Expanded line with station wagons and small trucks, both with rear engines.

DE SOTO—Cut to one series of three models. Similar styling to 1960 but with change in prominent front grille. Chrysler said to be interested in using DeSoto name on 1962 on family sports car of Thunderbird class, or an luxury compact.

DODGE—Another mid-line Chrysler name that drops to single (Polara) series. Fins and front end changed.

DODGE DART—Big volume car of Chrysler in 1960. Dart gets new reduced fin treatment and trogl and styling. Alternator used on Valiant becomes available on all Chrysler products.

DODGE LANCER—Another new compact. Big brother of the Valiant with similar styling. Grille mesh like 1960 Pontiac. Dodge aiming at Comet.

FALCON—Fastest selling of the new 1960 compacts, this car undergoes almost no change. Slightly different grille. More powerful engine option may be offered.

FORD—Considerably recycled to accent front features. Big saucer taillights reappear. A designer's cross between 1959 and 1960 models.

IMPERIAL—Front end changed. Headlights will be mounted outside grille area.

LINCOLN—Cut to single Lincoln Continental series. Shortened considerably. Styled with sports car flavor.

MERCURY—Six-cylinder engine to be offered for first time. Will drop Park Lane series, share body shell with Ford.

OLDSMOBILE—Minor styling changes. Improved, lighter hydraulic transmission.

OLDS F85—Another of the smaller, family cars. This one has an aluminum V8 engine, lots of pep and styled much like big Olds.

PONTIAC—Returns to 1959 divided front grille. Hump reduced with new transmission.

PONTIAC TEMPEST—The

third new 112-inch GM car. New-cut mechanically with four-cylinder engine, virtually flat floor. With new transaxle (trans-solvent) combined with rear axle.

RAMBLER AMBASSADOR—American Motors expects this car to boom if new GM smaller V6 take hold. Most styling changes. RAMBLER AMERICAN—Styling changed for first time since original 1960 introduction. Looks much more like standard Rambler. Keeps 110-inch wheelbase, shortest for U.S. cars.

RAMBLER—Minor styling changes. Has new aluminum engine ready. Will introduce convertible during model year.

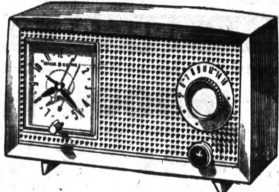

STUDEBAKER HAWK—Low volume sports car will be condensed at least one more year according to reports.

STUDEBAKER LARK—Continues original Lark styling. Minor changes aimed at relieving stubby look. Said to have new six-cylinder engine ready.

THUNDERBOLT—Considerably changed with longer hood, curved glass in side windows, rounded lines.

State Farm Prices Drop Two Per Cent

LANSING, Mich. — The index of prices paid to Michigan farmers dropped from June 15 to July 15, while the national index rose slightly, the office of the agricultural statisticians reported.

The Michigan index dropped 2 per cent and the national index rose by four fifths of one per cent.

In Michigan, there were increases in the price of milk and hops, but declines in the prices of wheat, potatoes, feed crops, beef and poultry.

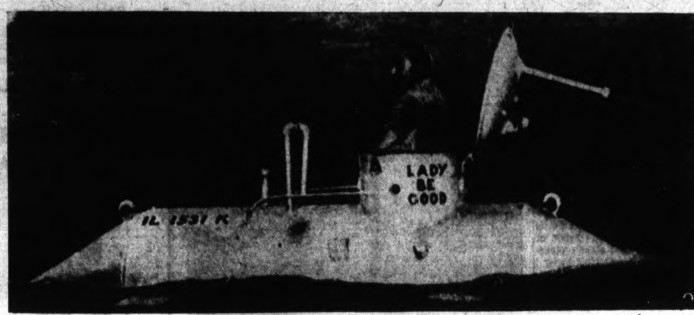

The mid-July national index was 1 per cent below the same period in 1959.

VARNVILLE, S.C. (U)—One disadvantage to the two-car family is that the car you hit may be your own.

That's what happened Monday night to Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Embler of Varnville.

Their cars met on a sharp curve. Both vehicles were wrecked but neither husband nor wife was injured.

IT FLOATS, NOW WILL IT SINK? — Inshore Portnoy perches in the "conning tower" of his homemade submarine as it is launched Wednesday in Lake Michigan near Chicago. The gasoline station owner leaped to make the sub from public library books.

The main structure is made from a 300-gallon tank and the craft is 13 feet long and 3 feet wide. The sub's big test is yet to come — it hasn't been underwater yet.

Gasoline Pumpers Warned of Fraud

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — At least 10 gasoline stations in southern Vermont are selling gasoline from a single tank through differently labeled pumps at different prices. Atty. Gen. Thomas M. DeBoville says.

The difference in price is as much as four cents a gallon. The attorney general warned that such a practice, if done knowingly by attendants, constitutes fraud.

Fantastic Insurance Costs Jolt Industry

Cars Cheaper to Repair Due Soon

By JACK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT — The auto industry has launched an interested, long-range program to build cars that are cheaper to repair.

Auto industry officials said they were always interested in making cars easy to repair but they admitted that, until recently, repairability has taken a back seat to such considerations as styling and engineering.

During the time the auto companies were giving only "after thought" consideration to repairability, repair costs, and consequently insurance premiums, soared.

Last year United States auto insurance premiums climbed to the fantastic figure of $3.4 billion, up a record of $509 million from 1958. The insurance companies became alarmed over this situation because their product was becoming over-priced and they feared government controls.

Insurance officials presented their case to the auto companies and talked led to study programs at General Motors and Ford aimed at finding ways to bring down repair costs without sacrificing styling or engineering features.

Insurance industry spokesmen said there had been some talk in the industry about assigning different rates to cars of different makes, depending upon the ease with which they could be repaired.

"But this is just talk so far and there are no plans to begin such a system," a spokesman said. Auto company engineers said this talk undoubtedly played a role in establishing the new programs.

Insurance company discounts for compact cars and premium rates for cars with windshields that cost more than $100 convinced auto companies that selective rating of Studebaker-Packard recognized the situation and is promoting bolt-on fenders and other easy-to-repair features of its Lark which cut insurance costs.

One of the most ardent crusaders for more repairable cars is William P. Henderson, owner of four auto repair and glass replacement shops in the Detroit area.

About 90 per cent of the damage to rear quarter panels is to the 18 inches closest to the rear, he said. If this section was made separate from the rest of the panel it would often save $100 to $150 in repair costs.

Car windshields are made to "look at, not through," he said. "The more angles glass has, the greater its reflectiveness and poorer its visibility," he said. "Every time you double the area of glass, you double the chances of it being broken and double the cost of repairing it. This results in four times as many dollars spent in repairs."

Army Reveals Plans

Pilotless Plane to Snoop on Enemy Battle Spots

WASHINGTON (U) — The Army plans to use a new instrument-packed pilotless plane to radio information to battlefield commanders about the results of their nuclear missile fire into enemy positions.

Officials said today this was one of the various possible missions for the scout drone which will use radar, infrared and photography—and later television and nuclear detection equipment—to gather information behind enemy battle lines.

Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, Army chief of research and development, says the plane is "the greatest single advance in the art of surveillance since the days of the Army trooper scout."

With it, officials said, the Army will be able to scout a battlefield "without risking a single soldier."

Nothing like us. Army officials emphasized at a news conference that the drone is designed only for tactical use in and back of a battlefield up to the 200 miles where the Army's Pershing missile could reach.

This system has no relation whatever to the U-2, which is a strategic craft. The Army spokesman said when asked whether the drone could be converted to use as a long-range, robot spy plane.

From spy plane. Responding to questions, it became clear that the Army drone will have the range of considerably less than 1,000 miles, and will be designed primarily for endurance flying above a battlefield for periods up to two hours.

The drone can be brought back at Headquarters and its photographs removed to augment information radioed back automatically while the scout plane flew over the battlefield.

The speed of the drone probably is subsonic, although officials declined to discuss exact speed or range.

The Army estimated that each drone, with its elaborate equipment, would cost between $350,000 and $400,000 to produce, and the supporting ground system would cost about two million dollars for each unit.

U.S. Schools Forecast 67 Million Pupils by '76

WASHINGTON — The United States is expected to have 67,000,000 children in school by 1976, when the nation marks its 200th birthday. About 42,000,000 would be in grade schools, 13,000,000 in high schools, and 12,000,000 in colleges.

To handle that many children, the Department of Labor indicates, 500,000 new classrooms and 1,000 new teachers will be needed.

Scrappiest Sub Will Be Just That — a Pile of Scrap

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — An aging, mud-decorated sea veteran of World War II began its final voyage Wednesday to a Manistee, Mich., scrap yard.

The vessel is the submarine USS Tautog, which sank more enemy ships in World War II than any other in this nation's service. It was sold to the John Bullman Dock and Dredge Co. for $45,000 when a campaign to obtain it for permanent display in Milwaukee fell short of its goal.

A tug towed the Tautog from its mooring, where it has been used as a Naval Reserve training craft since 1947.

The Tautog, nicknamed the "Terrible T," sank 20 Japanese merchant ships, two enemy submarines, two destroyers and two smaller naval craft in World War II.

Bob Kennedy Hurls Midwest Challenge

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Democratic Party task force led by Robert Kennedy headed west today, leaving behind a challenge to Midwestern precinct workers and a rebuttal to Republican campaign charges.

At a party "pop rally" yesterday, Kennedy, brother of the Democratic presidential candidate, told some 500 party leaders from six Midwestern states they must "reverse the trend" that led all six states into the Republican camp in 1952 and 1956.

They can do it, Kennedy said, by signing up the estimated 6.5 million currently unregistered voters in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

"The campaign can well be won or lost in the next six weeks," Kennedy said, adding that "seven of 10 new voters will vote Democratic."

Dann Eyes Part in Chrysler Suit

Confers With Lawyers Seeking Damages Over Newberg Affair

DETROIT (U) — Sol Dann, chairman of the Chrysler Stockholder Protective Committee, said he is continuing his conversations with two New York attorneys who filed a stockholders suit against Chrysler.

Dann said yesterday he probably will join with the pair, Herbert Robinson and Robert Markewich, in the suit, which seeks to recover any damages caused by any mismanagement or misconduct of the corporation's officers or directors.

Robinson filed the suit on behalf of Markewich, who owns 100 Chrysler shares, in a New York court last Thursday.

Dann said he spent yesterday exchanging information with the New Yorkers.

"Our conversations are continuing," he said. "We are finding them very interesting. We believe Mr. Robinson is apparently acting in the interests of Chrysler shareholders. This is my objective, too."

At least seven directors of Chrysler, including Board Chairman L. L. Colbert, have been served in the suit and ordered to appear for examination Aug. 22.

The suit followed disclosures by Chrysler that William C. Newberg was asked to resign as president because a company investigation showed he had profited more than $450,000 from interests in outside companies doing business with the corporation.

Dann, holder of 5,100 shares of Chrysler stock, has been attacking Chrysler management for more than two years. He stepped up his activities just prior to the company's annual meeting in April.

Horned lizards often bury themselves in the sand as they lie in wait for their prey, matching the color of the sand or earth backgrounds, and can change from dark to light and back again, in a few minutes.

Forest Rangers Spray 15,000 Acres in 6 Years

KEMMERER, Wyo. (UPI) — If you have trouble spraying your crab grass, pity the poor forest rangers. During the last six years, more than 15,000 acres in the vast Bridger National Forest here have been sprayed to kill sagebrush.

Forest Supervisor Arthur Buckingham said the 240 spray kills off sagebrush and other "undesirable" vegetation and encourages the growth of foliage which provides better forage for livestock.

Buy Used Clothing at Poor's Thieves' Market

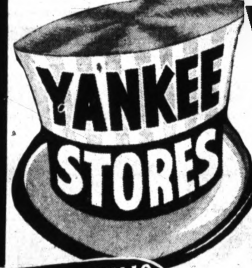

Russ Experts More Destitute Than Iraqis

By WILTON WYNN
BAGHDAD (AP) — In the twisted alleyways of old Baghdad is a bazaar known as the "Thieves' Market."
The Thieves' Market specializes in second-hand clothing — often stolen — and similar shoddy articles. But to Soviets working in Iraq, it is a shoppers' paradise. Swarms of Soviet and Communist-bloc experts were brought to Iraq after the anti-Western revolution of July 1958. These experts showed up in poverty stricken Iraq by Iraqi standards.
HAD ONLY ONE SHIRT
Iraqi tell of the Soviet expert who came with only one shirt and washed it out each night. All market.

many as five Soviet families moved into a single apartment. Half a dozen Soviets would buy a package of cigarettes and divide it among themselves. Three would go into a bar and share a single beer while they played chess. Hotel employees got no tips from the Soviets. Taxi drivers got no fares. The Soviets rode second class on buses or walked.
This only a minor aspect of the general disillusionment Iraqis have had with the Communist bloc in two years. At the time of the revolution, the Iraqis generally felt they had been robbed by the West in the past. They diverted much of their economic and commercial dealing to the Soviet bloc, and in March 1959 concluded a sweeping technical and economic cooperation agreement with the Soviet Union.
The Soviet Union agreed to provide 550 million roubles for an industrialization program. The Iraqi revolutionary regime hastily fired its Western technicians in favor of Soviets. Now the Iraqis are having second thoughts.

peared to be much cheaper than that sold Iraq by the West. But when the agreement was put into operation, the Iraqis found the rate of exchange for the ruble had been placed at far less than the value of the Iraqi dinar.
All this does not mean the Iraqis intend to cancel Soviet aid. But it does indicate the Iraqis now understand that they cannot expect miracles from the Communist bloc.
Mail Battles Weather; Can't Whip Machines

Williams Off, Running Again

Touring Nation, State for Democratic Ticket; Many Talks Lined Up

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams was off and running again today, busy with a schedule of touring the state and nation for the Democratic ticket.

For those who voted for Soapy for governor — sorry, he isn't running, for any office this year for the first time after six terms in the executive office.

Williams checked back into Michigan on primary day. He had to vote by absentee ballot because he was down in Hyannis Port, checking signals, with Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic nominee for president.

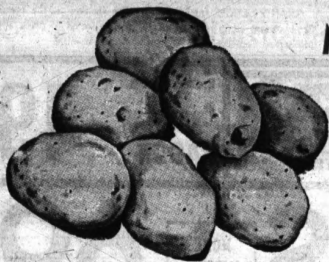

He will go to Cape Cod again Saturday in his role as chairman of the Democratic Nationalities Division to consult with other leaders on campaign strategy.

On the national scene, Williams said, he will talk on peace and disarmament, foreign affairs, civil rights and the development of the social concept of the New Deal as well as military questions.

His schedule includes talks at a national Negro scientific assembly at Pittsburgh Aug. 9; an address at Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 17; a talk before a conference group at Chattanooga, N. Y., Aug. 19; and a talk before a Negro women's professional group in Chicago Aug. 20.

Before he left, Williams set up a Monday morning meeting between the three Democratic aspirants for his office. This includes the winner, Lt. Gov. John R. Davidson and Iowa Secretary of State James M. Hare and Edward B. Connor of Detroit.

Try at Betancourt Is Example

Assassins Going Scientific

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP)—Old fashioned bomb-throwing assassins are becoming obsolete in an age where computing machines and electronic devices are essential tools of day-to-day existence.

The push-button, remote control killer has moved onto the international stage to pose the newest and most deadly threat to government leaders seeking to cope with problems in a tense, troubled world.

In the confidential world of spies, plots and security, the near-silent attempt June 24 to assassinate Venezuela's President Ramulo Betancourt now is being studied intensively as an astonishing example of how killers have refined their grisly work.

Betancourt escaped death while riding in his official limousine when 1½ tons of dynamite, hidden in a parked car alongside the highway, were exploded by remote control.

His would-be killers set off the blast from a safe distance 300 yards away as Betancourt's car drew opposite the dynamite-rigged vehicle.

Blood streaming from cuts on his face, Betancourt staggered out, saved only because he had been sitting in the back seat. Three aides sitting in the front seat of his car were killed. Eight passersby were injured. His automobile was turned into a smashed fiery wreck.

A painstaking, relentless investigation by Venezuelan authorities since then has revealed the full scientific, cold-blooded scope of the assassination plot. The step-by-step details are due to be laid before the foreign ministers of 21 American Republics when they meet in Costa Rica in two weeks.

At that time, Venezuela will offer a mass of evidence aimed at backing up its charges that Dozins were tipped off that Betancourt's car was approaching by an accomplice who waved his sombrero.

The Venezuelan explosion was triggered off by a pocket-size radio-electronic device operated by skilled, technically trained experts who planned the whole operation with rare scientific exactitude.

Amid the 20th Century, scientific approach, however, one home-made Latin-American touch apparently was needed. The assassins were tipped off that Betancourt's car was approaching by an accomplice who waved his sombrero.

March-Stick Modeler Dies of 50 in Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A man who modeled a career out of match sticks is dead at the age of 50.

Earl B. Walsh had constructed a model of a cathedral out of match sticks when he was a child. He built seven more models, each about four feet high and exhibited them around the country.

A recent sandstorm over Judland made the sky so dark that cars had to drive with headlights. He came to Miami from Rock-Copenhagen reports.

State Adventists Open Annual Camp Meeting

GRAND LEDGE (AP)—The 82nd annual camp meeting of the Michigan Conference of Seventh-

Day Adventists opens here tonight. N. C. Wilson of Lansing president of the conference, will be the keynote speaker at the opening service, expected to draw a crowd of more than 8,000.

Medaris Heads Toy Train Firm

Former Missile Chief Quit Army Over Policy—Will Stress Growth

NEW YORK (AP)—Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, former head of the Army rocket and guided missile program, Wednesday became president of a toy train manufacturing company.

Lionel Corp. announced Medaris' new position. He also was elected a director. Lionel has been without a president since last October.

Lionel has long been the nation's largest manufacturer of electric trains and accessories. It also makes other electric and mechanical toys, chemistry sets and sporting equipment.

The company also manufactures an explosive switch with broad applications in bombs, missiles, rockets and mines.

Medaris said he was confident he could contribute to the company's growth in electronics, industry and education as well as defense.

Medaris resigned from the Army in January. At that time he claimed the United States' "reheated dragon" attitude toward space was leading to disaster.

Medaris has had a fantastic career. At one time or another he has been a mail sack heaver, taxi driver, Great Lakes pilot (at age 12), trolley operator, automobile dealer, airplane pilot and management consultant.

Medaris joined the Marines at 16 in World War I. He entered the Army in 1921, resigning in 1927. In 1939 he returned to active duty as a captain.

Last October Medaris estimated the Soviet Union was about five years ahead of America in space accomplishments and said, "The only way to catch up is to go faster than they go, and I don't know how fast that is. I would say we'd better just go like hell."

Mail Goes Through—Even to 'The Big Squirrel'

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP)—The Loveland post office received a letter addressed merely to "The Big Squirrel, Loveland, Colo."

Postal officials delivered it to a firm here which manufactures girdled sprinklers. It was the right address.

HEADS FOR 'HILLS'—Air Force doctor Capt. Thomas O. Nevison Jr. leaves Brooks AFB in San Antonio, Tex., today to climb a mountain. He will join Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Mt. Everest, on his next expedition. The doctor plans to examine Hillary and another Everest climber, Dr. Hugh Griffiths, as they edge their way up Mt. Waskulu in Nepal. Nevison will be conducting experiments on how men perform at high altitudes to give the Air Force a clue on how well space travelers will be able to adapt to this altitudes.

Predicts Stationary Satellites for World Communication Net

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed "stationary satellite" would be a commercial gold mine and could sharply cut charges for sending messages throughout the world.

This estimate came Tuesday from the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., which has made detailed cost studies of the project now planned as a part of the Defense Department's space program.

The satellite would be a radio package orbiting exactly at the earth's rotational speed and thus remaining always above the same spot on earth — but 22,300 miles out in space.

L. Pollack of IT&T told a national symposium on global communications, conducted here by the Institute of Radio Engineers, that entirely apart from its military values, the project could be a highly profitable commercial venture.

WILL COST $20 MILLION

Pollack said the first stationary satellite will cost 20 million dollars, assuming four misfires before a successful launch.

The global network would require three of these satellites, equidistant from each other. Plans are to place them in orbit within three to four years.

One would provide up to 1,000 voice channels in the Atlantic area and link Western Europe, Africa, the Eastern United States and South America, Pollack said.

The second would provide 384 voice channels, serving Hawaii, Australia, New Zealand, Japan,

Philippines to Get 18 Sidewinder Jets

MANILA (UPI) — The United States will give the Philippines 18 Sidewinder jets adapted to carry the deadly Sidewinder missile early next year, it was announced today.

(Delivery of) the 18 aircraft—the nucleus of a truly modern air force with an all-weather air defense capability—marks a major milestone in Philippine air defense," said Maj. Gen. Merrill Daniel, chief U. S. military adviser here.

Daniel said two of the F8D jets will be given to the Philippines "immediately" for use in pilot training. The equipment needed to maintain the new jets will arrive before the end of the year.

Britain has a $27.5 million program to complete the automation of its telephones.

Dura Corp. Acquires Portland, Ore., Firm

DETROIT (AP) — Dura Corp. announced Wednesday it has acquired Page and Page Co. of Portland, Ore., a West Coast manufacturer of heavy-duty transportation equipment.

The Portland firm will remain under present management but will be operated as a division of Dura Corp. The purchase price was not disclosed.

Dura Corp. makes automotive, agricultural, industrial and consumer products.

One Loser Tells Other How Both of 'Em Feel

LANSING (UPI) — A telegram from one defeated candidate for governor to another summed up feelings of both.

Said Detroit Councilman Ed Connor to Secretary of State James M. Moore:

Michigan Peaches Make Bow

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Free Home Editor

If you are planning to can or freeze peaches, this is the time to start thinking about it. The first Redhaves are being picked this week with the peak expected August 10. One local orchard has told us their peaches will be ready August 15. There will be Michigan peaches on the market until the end of September.

With three million bushels expected from this year, you can look forward to a large supply and favorable prices in local stores.

Sunhaven, Richhaven and Fairhaven are three newer varieties of the famous Haves peaches. The first two won't be on the market in volume until next year, but you may find some to try.

Redhaven and Halehaven are the favorites for canning and freezing. Later on will come another new peach, Red Skin and then the Elbertas. These are all freestone.

Because of hydrocooling, peaches are coming to market riper and in better condition. If you want them to ripen still more, leave them out of the refrigerator for a day or two.

Hydrocooling is a process by which the peaches (sometimes in special cardboard cartons) are run through ice water to take the heat of the summer out of them. This process was first used on corn several years ago.

One bushel of peaches will make 32 to 48 pints canned or frozen, depending on size and whether peaches are halved or sliced.

Most cookbooks have standard directions for canning peaches, or you may have sent for a special book on canning. Call us if you need help.

Honey-freezing peaches is a new idea. The honey syrup is a natural for most fruit and is itself delicious.

Honey-Frozen Peaches
Set up 6 quart-size containers in assembly-line fashion. Pour ¼ cup cold honey syrup into each container. Wash peaches quickly in ice water.

Peel one peach at a time and slice directly into prepared syrup. Work quickly until fruit and syrup are within 1 inch of top of container. Be sure syrup is blended with fruit. Cover top with piece of crumpled freezer foil or freezer paper to keep fruit under syrup while freezing.

Cover with lid and freeze. To keep color of peaches just right, always defrost fruit in containers. Serve very cold.

FROZEN FRESH PEACH JAM

4 cups crushed frozen peaches
1 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup sugar

Wash, peel and cut peaches into chunks. Add lemon juice. Crush peaches fine. Put peaches into 4-quart kettle. While stirring slowly add peaches.

Let stand 30 minutes. Stir every 10 minutes to blend peaches. Add lemon juice. Crush peaches fine. Put peaches into 4-quart kettle. While stirring slowly add peaches.

Cook over low heat until just warm to the touch (about 100 degrees). DO NOT ALLOW MIXTURE TO BOIL. Pour jam into jars, but not over 1/2 inch from top. Cover at once. Let stand until jellied.

And here is a somewhat different peach dessert:

GINGER PEACH LEE

1 cup honey
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup finely cut peach meats
1/2 cup finely cut canned sweetened condensed milk
1/2 cup finely cut canned sweetened condensed milk
Combine honey and lemon juice. Peel peaches, cut in half and remove stones. Roll peach halves in honey mixture; place in shallow bowl. Cut side up; pour remaining honey mixture on top to make sure all peaches are covered. Cover bowl tightly and chill for 1 hour.

Meanwhile, combine remaining 1/2 cup honey and 1/2 cup lemon juice. Arrange nuts and ginger around top outside edge to form a border. If desired, top with whipped cream. Serves 4.

Arrange nuts and ginger around top outside edge to form a border. If desired, top with whipped cream. Serves 4.

IT'S PEACH TIME — Michigan peaches are beginning to come into the markets this week and will continue in good supply until the end of September. Pack away some of their golden goodness for next winter's meals. Can or freeze them, make jam and serve them round the clock in any number of interesting ways.

Corn, Other State Crops Come to Market in August

August is the peak month for corn, tomatoes that are even, firm, bright and plump. The color of the tomatoes depends upon the variety. There have been no drastic changes in the meat department. Current prices on broiler-fryers are possible because of twelve percent increase in supplies compared to last year at this time. Even though consumers have demanded large quantities of fryers, these chickens have continued to be very reasonable when compared to many other meat cuts.

WHOLE FRYERS
Michigan's peach season is starting this week. The famous Redhaven variety will lead with volume supplies expected by August 10. Growers in southwestern Michigan report that peak supplies of Redhaves will come between August 10 to 15 in the stores. Local orchards will harvest a few days later.

And did you know? The Redhaven is a yellow freestone peach, easy to separate. It is the best varieties for freezing. It is very resistant to browning.

As you shop this week, perhaps you'll notice that fresh ears of corn have dropped in price. Wayne and Monroe counties are the big suppliers. You can expect better corn quality and flavor than you have yet experienced this year. If not, there has been a failure to keep the corn cool from the time it was picked to the time it was cooked. To can help by refrigerating it quickly and using it the same day.

When buying fresh sweet corn, look for husks that are green and snug. Silk that is dark brown at the end is a sign of well-filled, mature kernels. If corn is sold in transparent wrap, look for Many stores are emphasizing ground beef; round, cube and rib steaks, chuck and corned beef. There are fewer hogs being marketed and fewer people looking for pork at this season. Retail prices have not increased as much as some expected during the summer. Ham and bacon are exceptions of smoked cuts that show little price fluctuation.

Dinner Salad Includes Meat

A crisp, cool meat salad can do a fine job of tempting wilted appetites at the end of a hot summer day. Prepared ahead of time and kept fresh in the refrigerator, it is all ready to serve after a day you may have spent shopping or at a club or social affair.

For a thrifty note, meat in salad is a fine way to use leftovers. In fact, you might well plan ahead in preparing a roast to make sure it is large enough to serve for this second meal.

For a supper menu with the meat salad, serve a hot or cold soup, hard rolls, angel food cake, macarons and cream and used tea.

Tasty Meat Salad
2 cups julienned-sliced cooked beef, meat of lamb
2 slices onion
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup ketchup
1/2 cup finely chopped green onions
1 small clove garlic, finely minced
1/2 teaspoon chopped capers
Lettuce
Cook bacon until crisp. Break into small pieces. Combine mayonnaise, lemon juice, vinegar, onions, garlic and capers. Add to little bit on the outside and little on nothing in the lean. Beef (chill thoroughly). Serve in lettuce-leaves for broiling stay at about lined bowl. Sprinkle bacon on top. The same prices as last week. Yield: 4 servings.

Predicts Billion for Farmers

Stopgap Aid Law Will Not Be Vetoed, Says Agricultural Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of the House Agriculture Committee predicted today the post-convention session of Congress will enact stopgap legislation designed to boost 1960 farm income by one billion dollars.

Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-N.C.), also predicted the legislation will escape President Eisenhower's veto. He said "I don't see how the President could object if he wants to do something about this farm surplus mess."

In other preliminaries to the session: 1. Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, indicated Congress will increase defense funds. He called for the administration to say how the added money should be used. The long list of defense items which Johnson said the session will consider might add billions to the defense budget.

2. Two New York Republicans, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating and Rep. William E. Miller, said they plan to offer legislation covering all of the Democrats' civil rights platform promises. Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) had said Sunday he would seek quick action on the GOP civil rights proposals. But leaders of both parties made it clear they do not intend to bring up civil rights during the session they hope to wrap up by Labor Day.

Cooley, a long-time critic of Eisenhower farm policies, voiced confidence the session will accept a four-point emergency program.

Bagwell for Renaming Stockmeyer Chairman

DETROIT (UPI)—Republican gubernatorial candidate Paul D. Bagwell today urged the re-election of Norman Stockmeyer as Wayne County GOP chairman and said Stockmeyer, if re-elected, would withdraw as a candidate for the GOP nomination for secretary of state in order to devote all his efforts to the fall campaign.

Bagwell said he was backing Stockmeyer "because he measures up to the standards of constructive, forward-looking winning Republicanism."

He said Stockmeyer's re-election as county chairman was "all-important to the success of the campaign."

N. J. Speaks to California Via Moon

HOLMDEL, N.J. (AP)—Two scientists carried on a 400,000-mile conversation Wednesday night, from a soggy New Jersey hilltop to the torrid California desert—via the moon.

"Hi, Walt. Can you hear me?" asked William C. Jakes of Bell Laboratories, from Crawford Hill, N.J.

"Yes, yes, you're coming in fine," answered Walter K. Victor at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory Station, Goldstone, Calif.

The voice of Victor sounded a little hollow—as if he were talking into a barrel. This was caused, two scientists explained, by the irregularity of the moon's surface.

Both voices, translated into radio beams, flashed skyward at the speed of light—186,000 miles per second—and bounced off the moon to be picked up by receivers on the earth.

It wasn't the first such conversation for Jakes and Victor, both 38. They had others during the past weeks in tests of the equipment.

But it was a dramatic public demonstration of the principle in a Bell Telephone plan, outlined recently to the Federal Communications Commission, calling for 50 space satellites around the earth to provide quick worldwide communications.

DETROIT (UPI)—The National Bank of Detroit has attained 12th rank among the 300 largest commercial banks in the United States, according to American Banker, a daily banking trade publication. National Bank recorded $1,861,143,228 in assets.

Formerly, the bank was ranked 11th in the publication's survey. Formerly, the bank was ranked 11th in the publication's survey. Formerly, the bank was ranked 11th in the publication's survey.

New Ore Carrier Biggest Ship on Great Lakes

MANITOWOC, Wis. (UPI)—The SS Edward L. Ryerson assumes the title of biggest ship on the Great Lakes today when it makes its maiden cruise from the Manitowoc shipbuilding yards.

The ship, 730 feet long from the bow to stern and 712 feet long at the water line, hopes to set a new single loading record when it puts in to Escanaba to take on its first cargo of iron ore.

Designed for the haul of the Ryerson, which cost more than $8 million, are 35,000 tons of ore. The present single load record of 33,000 tons of ore was set July 5 at Silver Bay, Minn., by the Edmund Fitzgerald, which now becomes the second biggest ship on the Great Lakes.

The Fitzgerald, owned by the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Milwaukee, is 720 feet long from bow to stern. The Ryerson, owned by the Inland Steel Co., will not have to worry about losing its "biggest" title since 730 feet is the maximum length permitted under Great Lakes navigational regulations.

Larger ships would not be able to navigate the Soo Locks between Lakes Superior and Huron.

Although a cargo craft, the Ryerson has luxury liner appointments. The staterooms for crew and guests are air-conditioned. The floors are heavily carpeted and the rooms are lighted with fluorescent lamps. The gray plastic coated walls will never need painting, only washing.

The staterooms also have attractive draperies and are equipped for television. Officers occupy single rooms with bath; the sailors have double rooms, but also with private baths. Skipper of the vessel is Capt. George W. Fisher, a 35-year-old veteran of 40 years of sailing.

The 3-man crew of the Ryerson is hand-picked, according to First Mate Harry Cheever, 48, of Lansing, Ill. "We think that the plant quarters will attract better men and give us better performance in the long run," Cheever said.

He'll Fall Down On the Job Again—for Research

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—Capt. Joe Kittinger, of Holloman Air Force Base, the man who attained fame by falling down, will take another high dive from the edge of space this month.

Kittinger made parachute jumps of more than 14½ and 12 miles last Nov. 16 and Dec. 11, respectively, from a balloon over this southern New Mexico missile range.

Kittinger would not say from how far up Kittinger will make this attempt. Announcement of the date will be made by the Air Force in Washington.

Purpose of the long jumps is to test the equipment used at such heights and human reactions to them as part of the Air Force's space research.

High School Can Claim Quality, if Not Quantity

GRAND MEADOW, Minn. (UPI)—They pride themselves on quality, not quantity at Grand Meadow's small high school.

The school, which has only 240 students, placed three of its students among the top six individual winners in the 1960 state high school mathematics contest.

CAKE FOR GRAMPs—This was the scene aboard the liner President Hoover in San Francisco Wednesday at a pre-birthday party for former President Herbert Hoover and Joseph R. Knowland, publisher of the Oakland (Calif.) Tribune and father of former Republican leader William F. Knowland. Left to right are retired Adm. Chester Nimitz who is holding Leslie Hoover, 4½; Ralph K. Davies, Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Joseph and Joseph R. Knowland Sr. All the children are Hoover's great-grandchildren. Left to right are Michael, 9, and Stephen Hoover, 10; Aron, 4, and Michael Vowles, 6, Hoover will be 86 Aug. 10 and Knowland 87 Friday.

Son Follows Father: Arrests Same Forger

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Thirty years ago the late Detective Robert Rieckhoff was wounded while arresting Harold Rat for forgery.

Recently Rieckhoff's son, Roy, now a Milwaukee detective himself, took a 45-year-old man into custody on a worthless check charge. It was the same Harold Rat.

Woman Claims Bulb in Daily Use Since '39

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. C. E. Partlowe of Miami says she has a light bulb which has been in almost constant service since November, 1939, at least.

She found it in an attic trash box in that month and has no idea how long it was used before she ran across it. During much of its service with Mrs. Partlowe, the bulb has burned 24 hours a day in a hallway.

City Officials Get Their Street Signals Crossed

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The residents of a Louisville street breathed a sigh of relief when city repairmen finally plugged up holes in the pavement. But they had hardly inhaled again when the signs became gauges.

About four hours after the repairs were through, a bulldozer came along and not only ripped the repairs, but tore up the whole street.

City officials explained they had contracted with a private firm to rebuild the street, but didn't know he was to begin so quickly.

Great Education Chance in Nixon-Kennedy Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—To most people, the proposed television debate between Sen. John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon represent just another way the two men can campaign for the presidency.

But to Dr. Ambrose Caliver they represent the greatest opportunity this country has ever had for a mass approach to adult education. He hopes to involve thousands of teachers and millions of students in a nationwide discussion of national issues facing the voters this fall.

Final plans for the Kennedy-Nixon debates have not yet been worked out, although both candidates have agreed to participate. It is believed they will be carried by all three major TV networks, probably starting in September.

Dr. Caliver, vice president of the Adult Education Association of the United States (AEAUS), outlined his high hopes and his tentative plans today. The plans are far from settled, and it's little wonder: He got the idea only three days ago while recuperating from major surgery, and he is working on it from a hospital bed.

"We want to see discussion groups held in every city and town across the nation," he said. "It is entirely a local problem, and it can be handled within the present framework of adult education programs—in big groups or small, meeting in homes, churches, schools or wherever."

"We in the association plan to provide study guides, which we hope local newspapers will print on the days of the debates."

"We want the American people everywhere to watch and listen to the debates, and then to study and discuss the issues. This can be a great enterprise for citizenship education, and the involvement of citizens in a study of the issues and the fundamentals of our national life."

Dr. Caliver also is chief of the adult education section of the U. S. Office of Education. But he emphasizes he is working through AEAUS and his project has no connection with the government.

He also emphasized that "this idea is approached from a strictly educational and nonpartisan point of view. He hopes to enlist the aid and cooperation of such organizations as the National Education Association, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the League of Women Voters, the U. S. Chambers of Commerce, the American Library Association and the National University Extension Association."

Missile Probe Not Job of 'Space Expediter'

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—The official title of Bill Armstrong's job with the State of Florida is "space expediter." But he doesn't have a thing to do with the missile space probing program at Cape Canaveral.

His job is to determine what agencies occupy what space in the state's jam-packed office buildings. It again needs more room. It tells Armstrong, and he expedites getting it.

Turkey Gobbler Has Real Material Instinct

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP)—John Will Adams says a turkey gobbler on his farm apparently has the material instinct.

The gobbler chased a guinea hen off her nest and has been sitting on the eggs himself ever since, Adams said.

Burlap Sack on Stroll

SAYRE, Okla. (AP)—Highway trooper L. B. Harris did a double take when he saw a burlap sack walking along the road. He stopped and discovered a small pig inside.

The navigational season on the Mackenzie River between Great Slave Lake and the Arctic Ocean lasts about four months.

The world now is eating about 70 per cent more cheese than before World War II, with Norwegians the heartiest cheese-eaters.

REUTHER BACKS JOHNSON — Sen. John F. Kennedy finally won a pledge of support Wednesday from United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther for his vice presidential running mate Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. Reuther said the Texas' record and his backing of the Democratic platform entitle him to labor's support. Monday, another holdout, David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, also pledged his support. Reuther and Kennedy are shown at the presidential candidate's summer home in Hyannis Port, Mass.

NATO Mighty, Norstad Says

Talks to Ike on Berlin; President Will End His Vacation on Sunday

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — West-ern forces in Europe would be augmented by formidable reserve manpower if the Soviet Union were to attack Berlin, says U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Forces.

He made the prediction after a conference with President Eisenhower at the summer White House Wednesday.

Norstad, who started back to his Paris headquarters immediately after his report to the President, said the NATO deterrent power is highly effective and — in his opinion — will become even more effective.

Norstad and Eisenhower conferred shortly after the summer White House had announced that Eisenhower will end his seaside vacation Sunday and fly back to Washington.

He will arrive in the capital the night before the Senate reconvenes. The House, which also reconvenes, will start its session the day after.

Norstad declined to provide any detail regarding his conference with the President.

NEW DELHI — India's Government has authorized a $4,000,000 program of assistance to the domestic tea industry. The plan is designed to enable producers to buy new equipment and machinery.

Machine Gun Shell Found in Dolphin

Observers said apparently the shell had fallen from a military plane doing target practice over a puzzle to this North Carolina coastal area's fishermen—how did it get a .30 mm. machine gun shell in its stomach?

Hopes to Arrive Before U2 Trial

Powers Family Plans to Reach Moscow Two Days Before Start

WASHINGTON (AP) — Francis Gary Powers' family today hoped to get to Moscow ahead of his spy trial even though they won't be allowed to see him until after the trial.

Oliver W. Powers, father of the downed U2 pilot, talked over travel plans after the Soviet Embassy said Tuesday it had okayed visas for the pilot's mother and wife to go to the Soviet Union.

Powers, who got his visa earlier, said the group plans to reach Moscow Aug. 15. The Soviets have announced they will begin the trial of the American pilot for spying on Aug. 17.

The elder Powers said, however, that the Communists have barred the family from seeing the prisoner until after the trial.

He also said "I would rather have an American trial and American lawyers do as the Russians do."

Ceylon Out to Counter 'Slander' Against New Woman Premier

COLUMBO, Ceylon (AP) — An official source today said Ceylon's new government will order sale to the public of a majority of the stock in 14 family-owned newspapers accused of slandering Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, the new woman Prime Minister, and other political leaders.

The order reportedly will extend to three groups of newspapers—eight dailies and six Sunday papers—that the government says are owned by about four families.

The source said the government will not have a controlling interest in the papers but may put a representative on boards of directors.

The papers are accused of regularly distorting news, misrepresenting the political leaders' statements and carrying personal slanders.

The publishers have denied the charges. Mrs. Bandaranaike's Cabinet impounded the Aug. 1 issue of Time magazine, charging that a story in it disparaged her.

New Creation Will Stylize Senior Scouts

NEW YORK (AP)—Messieurs and messieurs, for junior misses aged 14 to 17, this is latest fashion:

A two-piece dress of combed cotton sharkskin in a deep, jeweled green. A button-down jacket to be worn with or without blouse. A hat with embroidered design, a snap-on tuxedo-style tie and appropriate accessories.

It's a cool modern ensemble, the latest restyling in its line in 12 years.

A Paris creation? No sir. It's the new uniform for senior Girl Scouts of America.

Could Stop 20 in Seconds

Army to Down Atlases in Antimissile Test Series

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The Army disclosed plans Tuesday to shoot down Atlas missiles in flight as a means of testing a system of continental defense.

The system will be designed to knock down as many as 20 enemy missiles just short of their targets within seconds.

Dr. Robert S. Morse, civilian director of research and development for the Army, told a news conference at the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences that Nike-Zeus missiles would be used to knock down the Atlases.

The Atlases will be fired over the Pacific from Vandenberg AFB and the Nike-Zeus from Kwajalein Island.

Development of the Nike-Zeus defense system is already under way, although the knockdown tests will not be made for a year or two.

Morse said the system would be able to determine whether approaching missiles carry nuclear warheads, are dummies or are only parts of multistage rockets.

The intercepting missiles would get those with nuclear warheads first.

This discrimination ability, Morse explained, was based on the assumption that Russia might fire 20 or more missiles simultaneously at a single target.

He said an enemy missile, heading toward Washington, would be detected by the system somewhere over the coast of Maine.

In seconds the system would determine whether the missile carried a nuclear warhead and would zero the intercepting Nike-Zeus at its heart.

The Nike-Zeus, traveling at about 10,000 miles an hour, would intercept and destroy the enemy missile somewhere over Baltimore.

Morse declined to go into detail as to exactly what would happen when the missiles met but said there would be no chance of a resulting nuclear explosion endangering the Baltimore area later.

Later tests will be made with Titan and Minutemen as defensive missiles, Morse said.

Voters of Saginaw Okay Bus Lease Plan

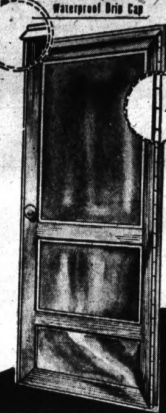

SAGINAW (AP) — By a 7-to-1 margin, voters Tuesday approved termination of the Saginaw City Lines bus franchise to make it effective Sept. 1 a lease-supervisory plan. A 3/5 majority was required.

The plan is similar to one already in effect in Jackson and Kalamazoo, where there are other Michigan properties of National City Lines, Inc., of Chicago.

The bus company leases its equipment to the city, thus taking advantage of the city's tax exemption and saving the company an estimated $12,000 annually.

Dykes Throws a Hitch in Managerial 'Trade'

Jimmie Wants Pact Through 1961 Season

He Threatens to Quit Baseball Without One; Meets Lane Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether the most unusual trade in baseball history becomes finalized depends on today's meeting in Cleveland between Indians General Manager Frank Lane and Jimmie Dykes. Jimmie is one of the pawns involved in Wednesday's unprecedented trade of managers, with the 35-year-old Dykes going to Cleveland and the 45-year-old Joe Gordon to Detroit.

Dykes' Tiger contract expires at the end of this season. Gordon's contract with the Indians has another year to run.

"Hardly had the baseball world recovered from the surprise, when Dykes announced he will insist on a contract through the 1961 season. Failing to get it, he will quit the game," he said.

The new twist took Lane by surprise. The master trader insisted that Dykes had agreed verbally to finish the season with Cleveland. Bill DeWitt, president of the Tigers, who is the mastermind behind this strange transaction, supported Lane.

"I was present during the telephone conversation between Lane and Dykes," said DeWitt, "and I heard Jimmie agree to take over the Indians for the balance of the season. The deal never worked out because Jimmie did not agree to it. I just can't understand his change in attitude."

"I made it perfectly clear to Dykes and he said he would be glad to finish out his Detroit term in Cleveland. I even told him I would pay him, in proportion, the same salary that Gordon was making with us. It meant about $20,000 more to him."

Dykes, who remained in New York, saw a suddenly aroused Tiger team, which had lost nine of its last 11, pound out a 12-2 victory over Yankees Wednesday night. He told newsmen:

"I understood on the telephone I was to get the same terms in Cleveland that I had in Detroit. I thought I was to get the same salary that Gordon was making with us. It meant about $20,000 more to him."

"Unless I get next year written into the contract, I will quit and go home. I can't take a seven-week situation in which the players and the manager know that the manager will get fired at the end of that time."

As Tribe Players See It

Gordon's 'Swap' Viewed as Victory for Piersall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland players see the switch in managers between the Indians and Detroit as a victory for Jim Piersall, center fielder for the Tribe.

Members of the team were confused and amused by the swap that sent Manager Joe Gordon to Detroit in exchange for Jimmie Dykes Wednesday. Either Piersall or Gordon had to go, they figured.

"And the way it happened probably makes both of them very happy," one player commented. Gordon felt Piersall tried to undermine his authority as manager. Piersall felt he was misunderstood and missed by the bench.

Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane referred to this explosive situation in New York last week as an "elimination contest." But that isn't the only reason we made the change," he explained. "The club needs a shot in the arm, and maybe this will do it."

Piersall denied he deliberately undermined Gordon's authority in an attempt to get him fired.

"I know I'll be blamed for it," the center fielder said. "I've been blamed for everything else. But there are two sides to every argument, and I'd like to express mine."

"I always had the feeling that Joe didn't think much of my ability as a player. I think he liked me personally, but not as a player. And that made me mad."

Piersall said it started last year when Gordon "wouldn't even use me in the late innings as a defensive replacement. I thought I could help more by being out there than sitting on the bench."

Piersall, whose antics have caused him to be ejected from several games this season, also said there were a couple of times when he thought Gordon "should have backed me up when I got into an argument with the umpires. I was probably being bush, but if a manager doesn't back you up, who does?"

After dropping some of their last 11 games, eight by one run, the Tigers tore into Yankee pitching to give hurler Hank Aguirre a 4-0 lead at the end of three.

Agurte hurled shutout ball for six innings, allowing only one hit — a sixth inning single — but he was removed in the seventh when his arm stiffened.

The Yankees got four of their five hits off reliever Phil Regan. One of the hits was a home run by catcher Johnny Blanchard following a single by Bob Cerv.

The Tigers scored in the first, third, fifth, and seventh innings, with their big explosion coming in the third when Coates and Duke Adams were raked for five hits and four runs.

Coates' homer, No. 18 for the year, came in the first inning following one of three walks coaxed by the "walking man," Eddie Yost.

Cash, also had a run-scoring single, two walks and a hit; but he was removed in the fifth when he reached base five times. Veal of two singles and three walks and Berberet with a single, double and three walks.

The victory was Aguirre's fourth against two defeats. Coates, the loser, now has suffered three defeats following nine straight victories.

The Tigers are four today as they prepare for a side-game home stand against the Boston Red Sox.

New manager Gordon will be at the helm when the two teams tangle in a night game tomorrow at Briggs Stadium.

DETROIT — Four years of hard work lie ahead for Micki King, 16-year-old Pontiac Central junior, whose aim is the 1964 Olympic games.

Miss King got her first crack at Olympic competition yesterday. She didn't far too well, but she wasn't disappointed.

"I knew I wasn't going to come, but I just wanted the experience of competing against the other girls," she said.

"I had only one good dive, three others were very poor," she added, after yesterday's diving preliminary which saw 30 candidates compete for two positions on the U. S. Olympic team.

"I'm going to work real hard until the next trials. I'd like to find a 3-meter board around Pontiac to practice and get some help on the dives," she said.

Micki got interested in diving about five years ago, getting help from John LaFontaine at the Pontiac YMCA.

"I never really got serious until last season and so I decided to spend the summer diving."

At MSU, while attending a journalism workshop, she received help from Glen Whitten, 4th place in the 1958 Olympics.

In four years Micki will be at the ripe old age of 20. By then she hopes to be a seasoned veteran in diving competition. Her next meet will be in the Water Wonderland meet the next weekend.

In yesterday's diving (finals) Paula Jean Pope scored (first) place with 138.61 points. Patsy Walgren won the other berth with 129.85 points.

LOOKS TO '64 — Micki King, Pontiac Central student who competed in the Olympic diving trials at Brennan pool yesterday, now makes plans to work hard to compete in the Olympic trials of 1964. She is 16 now.

LAST NIGHT, with his body still flat, he tried valiantly with the crowd cheering him on, but the pressure was evident as he lost ground on the turn and missed a stroke at the finish line to end up in third place behind Lance Larson and Hunter.

Larson's time was 35 flat, a new American record. Hunter's time was 36 flat.

Farrell still has hope however in today's 200 meter freestyle event. This will be a much tougher grind. It will mean 200 meters in the preliminaries, another 200 meters in the semi-finals and 200 meters in the final.

There are six positions to be won as a result of this which determines which swimmers will comprise the relay teams. There is no Olympic competition in the 200 meter freestyle.

The tightest scramble today should develop in the 200-meter backstroke as the coaches rate two contenders "as even."

Bob Bennett, who gained prominence when he set an American record in yesterday's 200-meter backstroke prelims will have to face the tough challenges of veteran Frank McKinlay, Charles Blitt and Tom Stock.

A bright spot in the U.S. Olympic hopes is Mike Troy who will be out to break his own world record in the 200-meter butterfly final.

The 19-year-old Indiana University star set the world mark last year and then smashed it last month at the AAU meet in Toledo with a blazing time of 2:14.

The 200-meter butterfly will be the first event in the evening session starting at 8:30 tonight.

There was some disappointment for the Olympic officials in a couple other instances aside from Farrell's elimination.

Earlier, one of the best hopes in the breast stroke, Ron Clark of the University of Michigan, was disqualified in the prelims for shoulder dipping, and Joe Aldire of San Diego, said to be one of our fastest sprint freestylers failed to survive the preliminary heats.

Mrs. Pope of Santa Ana, Calif., and Miss Willard of Mesa, Ariz., took the diving honors from the field of 30 contenders.

Three-time Olympic diver Juno Ingersoll finished 3d among the eight finalists, but she will be a strong contender in the platform event. Sam Hall and Gary Tobian were the men's Olympic qualifiers two days ago.

In the women's 100-meter freestyle, Miss von Salter and Miss Wood, finished 12-13 all the way in the prelims, in the semi-finals and in the final.

Miss von Salter, the 16-year-old American champion, won in a time of 1:02.5.

Somers' winning time in the 400-meter freestyle was 5:25.1, and American President's 1. Laura Larson, 2. Rose Butler, 3. George Harrison, 4. Charles Griffin, 5. Charles Griffin, 6. Charles Griffin, 7. Charles Griffin, 8. Charles Griffin, 9. Charles Griffin, 10. Charles Griffin, 11. Charles Griffin, 12. Charles Griffin, 13. Charles Griffin, 14. Charles Griffin, 15. Charles Griffin, 16. Charles Griffin, 17. Charles Griffin, 18. Charles Griffin, 19. Charles Griffin, 20. Charles Griffin, 21. Charles Griffin, 22. Charles Griffin, 23. Charles Griffin, 24. Midland, Tex. (AP) — Paul Palmer of Phoenix and six other favorites smashed through the third and fourth rounds Wednesday in the seventh International Jaycee Tennis Championships.

Palmer, the No. 1 seed, defeated Bobby Joyner of Lubbock, Tex. 7-6, 1, and Honolulu's Rodney Kops 6-2, 6-2.

Army Sergeant Is Pistol Champion

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP) — Army Sgt. Bill Blankenship of Richlands, Va., won the National Pistol Championship Wednesday, beating a field of 1,362 of the country's finest marksmen with a record-shattering performance. His final score was 2,636 out of a possible 2,700 points.

Miss Lucille Chambliss of Winterhaven, Fla., took the women's crown for the second time with a score of 2,464. She won her first title in 1954.

Finishing second to Blankenship was his Army teammate, M. Sgt. Roy Ratliff of Rockingham, N.C., with 2,607. Others among the top five were Marine Sgt. Larry Hausman of Houghton Lake, Mich., 2,602; Navy Petty Officer Gaspar Defin of Millington, Tenn., 2,601; and Army Sgt. Sam Hunter of Arcola, N.C., 2,600.

Marine Leads 16 Qualifiers in Golf Tourney

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Marine Pvt. Phil Rodgers of San Diego overtook Walter Copper, Tommy Aaron Wednesday and led 16 qualifiers into match play showdown in the Western Amateur Golf Tournament.

Rodgers, the 1958 NCAA champion, shot a 71 and 70 in the 36-hole qualifying windup at par-71 Northland Country Club course for a 3-under 281 for the 71 holes.

Aaron, the Florida University grad from Gainesville, Ga., and Labron Harris Jr., 18-year-old Stillwater, Okla., youth, were two strokes behind.

After leading the first two rounds, Aaron muffed his chances for the qualifying medal with a double bogey 6 on the 71th hole.

City Golf Qualifiers This Saturday

Men's 18-Hole Trials Slated at Municipal

Annual DDGA Tourney Is Under Way Today at Forest Lake

Eighteen-hole qualifying rounds for the men's City Medal Play golf championship are scheduled Saturday at Pontiac Municipal golf course.

Crease Barner, manager of the city links, will attempt a new method of running the trials this year. No definite starting time will be set and play will be conducted on a post-entry basis only.

"As soon as a foursome has collected, they will start their qualifying round and an official scorekeeper will accompany them," Barner said.

"I have a few scorekeepers available for this job, but I still need several more volunteers," Barner added. "There will be 36 holes of free golf offered to anyone who volunteers to be a scorekeeper," he said.

Barner requests all golfers interested in trying to qualify to report to the city links anytime between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The low 20 players plus ties will join defending champion Mike Andonian and all other exempt shooters in the annual City Medal Play tournament on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 12-13.

The city tourney will be conducted over a 36-hole route with 18 holes scheduled each day.

Bob Hausman, last year's qualifying medalist, has been shooting practice rounds at the city course in preparation for defense of his honors.

The Detroit District Golf Association's annual Match Play championship got under way this morning at Forest Lake Country Club.

The low 15 golfers will join defending champion Bud Stevens in match play competition which starts Friday.

'Old Bird' Gives Chisox the 'Bird'

By The Associated Press

Baltimore Manager Paul Richards has a right to be proud of his fledgling Orioles, but he ought to thank his stars that the old bird of them all changed his mind about retiring.

The "old bird" is Gene Woodling, who'll be 38 in two weeks, but doesn't act it. Last Monday he singled in the winning run against Chicago Wednesday night he tripled home the run in the 11th ining that gave the Orioles a 5-3 victory over the White Sox in a three-game sweep.

The triumph extended Baltimore's winning streak to five, moving the third-place Orioles within two games of the American League leading New York Yankees and one game of the second place Sox.

The Yankees were soundly whipped by the Detroit Tigers, 12-2, but hung on to their one-game margin over Chicago, which now has lost 11 of 15 to Baltimore.

Chicago's fourth place Indians defeated Washington 7-4 to advance within six games of the top. The scheduled doubleheader between Kansas City and Boston was rained out.

A single by Billy Klaus preceded Woodling's game winning blow. Gene had entered the game as a pinch hitter in the ninth, when the Orioles rallied for two runs to tie the score. With one run in, two out and Al Pritchett on second, Dick Donovan replaced Gerry Staley for Chicago and served a triple to Jack Brandt. That tied the score 5-5.

Chicago, trailing 3-1, had tied it in the seventh on a two-run pinch homer by Ted Kluszewski before solo homers by Sherm Lollar and Gene Fries in the next two innings gave the White Sox a 5-3 lead.

Woodling, although hitting .267, is one of Baltimore's leading RBI men with 37. At the end of last season, his 14th in the majors, the veteran was thinking seriously of quitting, but reconsidered after talking it over with Richards.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant resumed his mastery over Washington, defeating the Senators for the 15th time in 15 decisions. It was the Indian right-hander's seventh victory of the season, four of them over Washington.

Ken Aspromonte, former Senator drove in three Cleveland runs with a home run and double.

Talbot Routs Merchants, 9-0

West Bloomfield Blanks Oxford to Feature City Baseball Action

Talbot Lumber collected nine hits, two by Marv Holter, for an easy 9-0 shutout victory over the Elizabeth City Merchants yesterday in Class B City League baseball action at Jaycee Park.

Three pitchers joined forces for the Lumbermen to blank the Lakers. Starter and winner Rick Amphere, Chuck Kirken and Jim Lowry whitewashed the opposition on two hits.

West Bloomfield shut out Oxford, 9-0, behind the five-hit batting of Ardis Benson in a Class D game. Another scheduled "D" game between Lake Orion and Pontiac Central was postponed because of wet grounds.

Gary Kraft twirled a no-hitter in the Class E division as JAR Auto Stores walloped the Pontiac Police, 11-1. Also in the "E" division, the Great Lakes Mutual Giants drubbed the Big Shamrock, 29-3.

In the Pontiac Boys Club Federal Savings League, the front-running Red Sox came from behind to defeat the All-Stars, 8-7. Bill Higwood hit two home runs for the Red Sox and Leroy Farnsworth homered for the Stars.

National Cycle Hill Climb Is Slated Sunday

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — A 330-foot sand dune, a field of 30 motorcycle riders and official stop watches share a festive billing next Sunday at Muskegon in the national championship motorcycle hill climb.

About 15,000 spectators are expected at Mt. Garfield, where defending professional champion Joe Heremus of Cumberland, Md., places his record 8.74 seconds on the line, along with amateur king Hans Werner of Easton, Pa., who topped his class last year with a time of 8.08 seconds.

Fifteen riders comprise the professional division with 14 cubic inch power plants. Another 15 with 40 cubic inch motors make up the amateur ranks. All qualify for the national final by compiling points in sanctioned regional events earlier in the year.

Each rider gets two runs up the hill. Only his best time is recorded.

Ace Helps Junior Champ Win Her Quarter-Final

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — National junior champion Judy Reed of Aurora, Ohio, bagged a hole-in-one Wednesday as she marched to a quarter-final triumph in the Women's Western Junior Golf Tournament.

Miss Reed, who ousted Mary Lou Daniel of Louisville, Ky., 6 and 5, scored her ace with a "firon" shot on the par 3, 136-yard, 11th hole at Glen Flora Country Club.

Judy was Sunday for the 13 holes played, firing an even par 37 over the first nine and shooting a birdie on the 10th before her 11th hole ace.

Boyer Goes on Hitting Spree as Cards Win 6th in Row

By the Associated Press
It's no accident that the latest span of the St. Louis Cardinals—six straight victories—coincides with the return to batting form of Ken Boyer.

The slugging third baseman, with Stan Musial beginning to show the weight of his 39 years, has become the Cards' big gun. He got off to a slow start this year, and the team did likewise. A pulled muscle on top of a batting slump benched him for a while.

A week ago, Boyer returned to the lineup and immediately began hitting with his accustomed vigor. The Cards responded by running up a winning streak that now has had them in third place, 3½ games behind league leading Pittsburgh and only half a game behind second place Milwaukee.

Boyer smashed a home run and two singles Wednesday night, scored three runs and drove in two as the Cards outslugged the Braves, 13-8. The hit spree gave him 11 hits in 23 times at bat in the last six games, in which he walked three home runs and had drives in 11 mates. He has raised his batting average to a respectable .375. He also has 23 home runs and 68 runs batted in.

Pittsburgh retained its three-game bulge over the Braves, 8½, though beaten by Los Angeles 5-1. The game was called at the end of seven innings because of rain.

Philadelphia made it three in a row over San Francisco, 6-5, and Cincinnati split with Chicago. The Cubs won the nightcap 4-2, after the Reds had taken the opener 7-3.

A five-run rally in the sixth inning enabled the Cards to snap a 17 tie with the Braves. A pair of pinch hitters—Carl Sawatski and Walt Moryn—delivered two-run hits. Sawatski got a double and Moryn a bases-loaded single.

Five homers featured the slug-ging contest. Eddie Mathews hit his 22nd, Joe Adcock his 19th and Del Crandall his 16th for the Braves. The homer also was the 200th of Adcock's career. Besides Boyer, Musial cracked a four-bagger for the Redbirds, his 11th.

Johnny Podres' seven-hit pitching and Wally Moon's two-run homer, his 10th of the season, led the Dodgers over Pittsburgh, 6-0. Friend, who hasn't beaten the Dodgers since July 27, 1958, was the loser. It marked the 15th straight time that the Pirates' right-hander failed to go the distance against Los Angeles.

Pinch-hitter John Callison's two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth gave the Phils their one-run triumph over the Giants, San Francisco had rallied for five runs in the eighth to overcome a 4-0 deficit. Callison's homer provided Dick Farrell with his second victory in two nights over the Giants. The relief ace has won nine and lost two.

Ernie Banks' 29th home run, with a man on base, was the difference in the Cubs' second game triumph over the Reds. Cincinnati had snapped a six-game losing streak in the opener, largely due to homers by rookie Gordon Coleman and Vada Pinson.

NCAA to Pros: Quit Tampering

DENVER (AP)—The policy-making body of the National Collegiate Athletic Association is demanding professional football leagues state a policy which will prevent interference with "educational and athletic careers" of collegians.

The NCAA officials said there have been "several well publicized cases" of athletes being signed to professional contracts before completion of their college careers. No names were mentioned but apparently the references covered Louisiana State halfback Billy Cannon; Johnny Robinson of LSU, signed by the Detroit Lions; and Mississippi fullback Charles Flowers, signed by the New York Giants.

Spokesmen for both the National Football League and the new American Football League protested immediately that they're already following a policy laid down 35 years ago.

The 18-man NCAA council, winding up a meeting in Denver yesterday, called upon the pro grid-iron circuits "to declare publicly and explicitly what their intentions are with regard to their relations with college students."

1959 Finalist Upset in Junior Amateur

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Maury Finkelstein of Savannah, Ga., upset Mike McMahon, last year's finalist from Orlando, Fla., 3 and 3 Wednesday in the opening round of the 18th U. S. Junior National Golf Tournament.

Finkelstein, a hefty distance hitter, grabbed a 3-up lead by winning the second, third and fourth holes. McMahon was 4 down after 10 holes.

Rain that broke the intense heat in late afternoon caught several players on the course.

Two rounds are scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The final will be Saturday afternoon. The first round losers will engage in an 18-hole medal play tournament at nearby Indian Hills Thursday.

O'Neil Wins Class C Title

O'Neil Realty whipped Huron Bowl twice last night at Beaudette Park to win the Class C City League softball championship.

CIO Local 584 moved into the finals of the Class B playoffs against the Pontiac Police by eliminating Smith Silo, 3-2, Wednesday evening on the Northside diamond.

The Police and CIO battle for the city Class B crown tonight at Northside Park at 7 o'clock. A 2nd game, if necessary, will start at 8:30.

O'Neil annexed Class C honors with a pair of close victories, 2-1 in the opener and 3-1 in the nightcap.

Marv Fuller did the "iron man" stunt for the Realty club, pitching both ends of the doubleheader, and Lloyd Harper did the same for the Huron. O'Neil outbit Huron in the 1st game, 7-2, and each team made five safeties in the 2nd contest. Fuller had two hits in the opener, which O'Neil wrapped up early by scoring three times in the 1st inning. The same hold in the nightcap as the Realty squad failed twice in the opening stanza.

Two runs in the 5th inning gave the CIO its winning margin over the Silo team. Floyd Hicks was the winning pitcher and Roger Voorheis the loser in a battle of three-batters.

The International League's lower bracket playoffs begin tonight on the Beaudette diamond. The Northern Rockets meet the 300 Lounge at 7 p.m. and Rogers Electric faces the Pontiac Retail-Lloyd Harper did the same for the

Loon Lake Inboard Regatta Sunday

When Leaving the Dock.

There are two good ways to leave the dock:

1. In a smaller boat you can push off.
2. Bigger boats — back out.

In no case, if you're parked parallel to the dock should you simply start the engine, turn the wheel away from the dock and accelerate. The bow of the boat might go where you intend, but the stern, which makes a bigger circle in a turn than the bow, will either hit the dock or slide under it.

OVER THE OCEAN BLUE — The Navy's new hydroskimmer takes a trial run in the Pentagon lagoon to celebrate the Bureau of Ships' 20th anniversary. Powered by three 80-h.p. Mercury outboard motors, the unique craft rides on a cushion of air contained within fins on each side and "walls" of water at the forward and after ends. The center outboard motor drives a

Navy Hydroskimmer Uses 'Water Wall' Principle

A new boat, which skims over the water on a cushion of air, has been unveiled by the Navy's Bureau of Ships. This is the first hydroskimmer to use outboard motors for power.

The two-ton boat is also the first to utilize the "water-wall" principle, in which air under compression

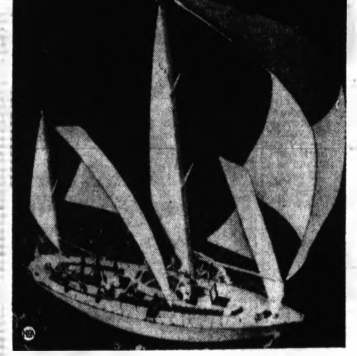

Clean Boat Bottoms Assure Fun Aloft

Along about this time of year, the bottoms of boats mired in salt or brackish and stagnant water are apt to exhibit a lush coating of marine scum, grasses and other growth.

The Mercury outboard people say that right now is the time to give the bottom a good scrubbing, because irregularities or roughness on the hull will slow your boat considerably, particularly if it is designed for high speed.

Haul the boat and start cleaning promptly. If the fouling is allowed to dry out it will become much harder to remove.

An ordinary floor scrubbing brush will usually do the job unless the fouling is dense and tough. If dense fouling clogs the brush, try a rubber squeegee of the kind used to clean windows. It will often slice fouling off neatly, without scratching the hull.

OCEAN RACER — All out in a strong wind, Windrose makes a pretty picture. Yawl, owned by Jacob Isbrandtsen of New York, competed in the Newport-to-Bermuda race.

Pride Factor in Ability to Dock Boat Correctly

A man can take pride in being able to skillfully dock a boat. Once you've mastered the tricks of docking, you'll get a big kick out of your boat and duffing your cap to the applauding onlookers.

The first rule is this: Approach the dock slowly. While you're doing it, determine where you want to dock your boat. Determine too the direction of the wind, current and tide, whichever is strongest at the moment.

If you can, plan to approach the dock into the wind or the current. That way you'll have the greatest control over your boat and the wind or current won't be pushing you into the dock.

When you get near the dock, shift to neutral. When you want a little forward momentum, shift into forward momentarily and then back to neutral. If you want to slow

Not Rodders Unpopular

Who is more obnoxious than a hot rodder? You wouldn't make the street in front of your home a drag racing strip. Don't do it on the water. Show proper boating courtesy to others and expect the same kind of treatment in return.

Put-in-Bay Scene of Weekend Races

"Bay Week," the Inter-Lake Yachting Association's annual regatta, as it is popularly known, gets underway next week end at Put-in-Bay, Ohio. The high point of the yachting season, this year's meet, the 57th, is attracting a record breaking turnout of competing and spectator craft from the association's 30 member club.

Dates for the regatta, most prominent of fresh water, are August 6-11. The traditional "Deep Water" races starting Friday, Saturday and Sunday from Cleveland, Vermilion, Sandusky, Toledo and Detroit, all terminating at the Bay, serve as the regatta's opener. First away will be the Cleveland fleet of cruising and racing sail yachts starting from Rocky River, Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Knowledge of Buoy Could Prove Invaluable

Buoys warn of underwater danger and act as aids to navigation because they are marked on charts. Red buoys mark the right-hand side of the channel going inland, black buoys the left. Buoys with red and black horizontal stripes mark obstruction and channel intersections. If the top band is red, keep right of the buoy going inland. If it's black, pass left.

Black and white vertically striped buoys indicate the middle of the channel. Run close to them. Buoys with white tops have the same significance as those earlier described. White is there to make the buoy easier to see at night.

The first annual Loon Lake inboard regatta sponsored by the Drayton-Waterford Kiwanis will be held Sunday.

More than 35 boats of various classes from 48 cubic inch to seven meter will compete in the races. Activities will start at noon and the area near the Edgewater Beach Hotel and near Slayboughs will be used as primary sites.

An interesting race should develop between Hank Ball and son Terry, both of whom have their own boats.

The father and son have raced against each other five times this year, but Terry has yet to beat his 47-year-old dad.

Both boats are 48 cubic inch hydro. The elder Ball built his boat this year while Terry purchased his craft from Chuck Thompson of Detroit.

Mr. Ball's 47 is called "Wall-M-M-M." He finished first twice, and three times in five races this year. Terry's boat is "S-s-ing." The 18-year-old graduate of Waterford High has finished 3rd three times, taken a 2nd and did not finish in another race.

"He makes it closer in every race," said the father, "and he will be trying to beat me especially this weekend at Loon Lake."

There will be boats from seven states of the 7th region in the regatta.

KEY TO GOOD TIMES—is the comparatively minor investment which can send the novice water skier on the way to the many thrills of the popular sport. Pictured here are three types of ski outfits ranging from the $1,000 unit suitable for the beginners (top) to the fully equipped rig for the accomplished skier (middle) to the tournament approved combination (bottom).

Water Skiing Can Be Enjoyed for Minor Cost

Synonymous with the increase in horsepower and dependability of outboard motors was the marked increase in water skiing enthusiasm all over the world. The comparatively low cost of outboard equipment meant that anyone with the desire could purchase the essential rig for the beginning water skier.

For the person desiring to buy a water skiing rig at the lowest possible cost, Tom Dorwin, water ski advisor for Evinrude Motors, suggests a boat not less than 14 feet in length with good stability and equipped with an outboard of not less than 18 horsepower.

Many such boats are available and the choice lies with the interested person, as does the choice of the motor he will use. The addition of a pair of water skis, a ski tow rope and a life jacket for the skier gives a simple beginning outfit that is sufficient and used by thousands of persons around the country.

Cost of such a water skiing rig, exclusive of a trailer to transport the boat, but complete with skis, tow line and life belt, will run about $1,000.

Contrast this with a fully equipped water ski boat as used by an accomplished skier. The Tom Dorwin, he drives a 16-foot lapstrake boat, powered by a 75 horsepower motor. The extra equipment which what can add to the enjoyment of anyone who becomes fairly proficient on water skis.

For one thing, he has several pairs of skis, including regular slalom skis and turnaround skis. His towing equipment consists of a ski tow bar which attaches to the transom of the boat and comes up over the top of the motor, thus keeping the tow line high and out of possible danger of fouling the propeller.

He has several ski tow ropes, including one of the new "Ski-Talkie" lines which enables the skier and boat driver to converse while underway. Also included in his equipment is a speedometer on the dash so that he can maintain a specified speed for various types of skiing.

Another speedometer is placed so that the stern-facing observer can read it. Also included is a tachometer, which shows the power impulses of the motor while pulling skiers, and gives accurate indication of any possible malfunction of the motor. A boarding ladder makes it easy to take skiers into the boat.

In addition, Dorwin's boat includes all the accessories needed in a boat of that size, including life preservers, fenders, running lights, fire extinguisher, line anchor, boat hook, tool kit and first aid kit.

For tournament use, water ski equipment becomes even more exacting. As shown here, the tournament tow boat is a specially constructed low profile boat which rides across the surface of the water without being disturbed by head winds or cross winds, runners well in tight competitive courses and provides an ideal weight for a competitive skier riding at slow speeds or high speeds.

It is equipped with bucket seats, one for the driver and one for the observer and a stool-type seat for the additional judge necessary in trick riding and slalom events.

It has a water ski tournament.

Highlighted by the first three-gated open challenge trophy event for the show, 7th Annual Lake Orion Horse Show will take place Sunday at the Orion Community Center starting at 10 a.m.

Jim Sheldon, chairman for the co-sponsoring Lions Club, says the show "probably will be the biggest of its kind in the area."

George Miller, president of the other sponsor, the Lake Orion Saddle Club, is an approved Eastern Michigan Horseman's Assn. show. There will be 25 events, including the three-gated feature musical stunts, bending races, horsemanship and speed and action.

Distress Gear a Must

Outboarders who frequent large bodies of water a considerable distance ashore should consider a radio/telescope; flares and a gun for distress signals; life jackets instead of cushions; compass and sea anchor. Many big-water skippers carry a smaller horsepower motor for emergency power use.

Kennedy, Nixon Differ on Extent of Federal Role

Farm Policy May Swing Election

National News—What action should farm programs? What is to be done about the production of farm products? This article on the key campaign issue of the agricultural areas examines the candidates' positions.

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The role of Uncle Sam in agriculture will be a big issue in this year's presidential battle for farm votes. It was an issue four years ago, but the matter has gone unresolved in the only place where it can be settled, and that's in Congress.

Broadly speaking, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic standard-bearer, is lined up on the side of greater participation of the government in the economic affairs of farming. Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his Republican opponent, would have government play a lesser role, although somewhat greater than that advocated by President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson.

This issue could become decisive in a close election. Both candidates plan to spend much time and effort to swing farm voters their way. This campaign will be staged in a traditionally Republican area, which, however, has tended to swing Democratic in recent elections. Democrats contend farmers are ready to revolt from their traditional political stand because of dissatisfaction over a decline in farm prices and income under a GOP administration.

Kennedy perhaps will get the jump with farmers. He has indicated Democrats will press for special farm-aid legislation at the post-convention meeting of Congress. Republicans might find it difficult to oppose such legislation, and President Eisenhower to veto it.

Both candidates—and their party platforms—have expressed identity of views on some aspects of the farm problem—a problem largely of overproduction influenced by agriculture's technological progress and resulting low prices. Both promise to make greater use of food surpluses to help underdeveloped areas abroad and to create strategic reserves for national and international emergencies.

Negroes Invited by State Police

All-White Force Needs 41 New Men; Color Is No Bar, It Says

EAST LANSING (AP)—Negroes are invited to apply in the first state police recruitment drive in three years. There never has been a Negro state policeman in Connecticut, said Joseph A. Childs, said he wants all qualified men, regardless of race, creed or religion, to apply for the force.

State police now have 41 positions to fill because of retirements and promotions. This would bring the strength up to the authorized 1,155. Childs emphasized the career aspect of the force.

"There are many advantages," he said, "including good pay with increases and a very fine pension plan with officers, if they so desire, can retire at half pay after 25 years of service." Childs was questioned about the fact that there never has been a Negro state policeman, although many city forces have Negro officers, some high in rank.

"Color is not an issue," he said. "We had one very fine recruit go most of the way through out school and then he was forced out by a bad foot."

Where would a Negro trooper be assigned—if one makes it? Would he be on highway patrol, on detective duty, Childs was asked.

"He would be assigned to the best job he could do," said Childs. "I know we've never had a Negro state policeman but I hope that doesn't scare away any eligible applicants."

About 600 applicants will be needed to find the required 41 men, police estimated. The requirements are tough, it was explained, and only the best men make it.

Basic requirements are a good record, the equivalent of a high school education, age between 21 and 29 and husky physique. Married as well as single men are accepted.

DONALD DUCK

The GOP theory that such rigid controls can farm families a land retirement program would be aided. Both Kennedy and his party's platform would place greater emphasis on price supports. The Republican platform carries, however, an implied promise to offer, in some cases, higher supports than set by the present administration. Most Grains Firm After Easy Opening

CHICAGO (AP)—Most grain futures prices firmed up slightly today after opening on an easy range on the board of trade.

Although the gains were small, they included all but a few contracts.

Dealers said this may indicate a different resistance to liquidation.

Some commercial business was apparent in nearly all pits but it appeared to be thin and scattered. After some rather broad declines the past few days, soybeans studied somewhat on short covering and a sale of about 375,000 bushels to Denmark.

More Freedom for Dominicans?

New President Makes Offer on Taking Over From Hector Trujillo

CITIZEN TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Joquin Balaguer, the Dominican Republic's new president, told Congress Wednesday that he would be continuing the process of democratization of the country.

Balaguer, who was vice president, succeeded to the presidency when Hector Trujillo, brother of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, resigned on the ground of ill health. Hector has been president since 1952.

Rafael Trujillo, who had promised the country free elections for president in 1962, earlier this year moved out of his office in the National Palace. Some time ago he quit as commander in chief of the armed forces, his last official post, and gave up the presidency of the Dominican party, his powerful political arm.

Withdrawal of the Trujillos from the spotlight was interpreted to calm rising opposition abroad and to try to foster a more friendly-American air on charges that the Trujillos engineered an attempt to assassinate Venezuelan President Rómulo Betancourt.

Betancourt was burned in a bomb explosion and his charges that the Trujillos were responsible are scheduled to be discussed at a meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers in San Jose, Costa Rica, Aug. 16.

S-P Talks Merger With Fedders Corp.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Studebaker-Packard Corp. says it has discussed merger with Fedders Corp. of New York, maker of automatic residential air heater coils and air conditioners.

Harold E. Churchill, president of Studebaker-Packard, issued a statement confirming the talks but declined comment on the status of negotiations.

Roy M. Marshall has joined the Bloomfield Hills advertising agency of MacManus, John & Adams as executive vice president.

A graduate of Wayne State University, Marshall was with Brooks, Smith, French & Dorrance for nine years. He was business manager and account executive when he left to join Ross Roy as account supervisor and director of business development.

Video Now Has Fortune for Very Few in Boxing

BY STEVE KIDNEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Television has provided a glorious pot of gold at the end of the rainbow for a favored few in the boxing industry.

When Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson staged their second heavyweight title fight at the Polo Grounds June 20 nearly a half-million television fans shelled out a record $2,274,682 just for the privilege of watching the live TV screen on giant movie screens in theaters across the nation.

A large slice of that loot rubbed off on Floyd andingo.

But down in the lower echelons of the trade they insist with considerable truth, "TV is killing us."

DEVOURING TALENT

Short-sighted promoters have only themselves to blame but it is true that television has forced scores of small fight clubs—the incubators of talent—to close their doors because of lack of business.

There's only enough left to keep one weekly network boxing show on the air. That one is ABC's Wednesday Night Fight.

Last night, ABC presented from Chicago Stadium a scheduled 10-round bout between fourth-ranking middleweight Henry Hank and Rudy Ellis in a fight that's typical of the day.

Hank, with vastly more experi-

Esther Williams Plans TV Splash

Says Swimming Will Further Story Line of Her 'Princely' Show

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Biggest splash of the dream summer television season comes up Monday night with Esther Williams' water spectacular.

Maidream Williams will dive, swim, water ski and speedboat through an hour-long musical season reminiscent of her dammy days at MGM studios.

So what can Esther do in a swimming pool that she hasn't done before?

- "Lots of things," says she. "The entire show was taped at Cypress Gardens, Fla., where more than half a million dollars was spent for the biggest pool I've ever seen. It's 165 feet long, 90 feet wide and 15 feet deep. "It gives me a chance to swim great distances at high speed, for one thing. And the entire pool was built specifically for shooting under water."
- Most important, according to Esther, the water ballet numbers and other aquatic tricks further the story line.

Unlike past Williams appearances on TV, this NBC special comes complete with plot and music. Esther will play the role of a "Princely" who is a swimming champion in his native Argentina. Esther said, "He plays a Persian prince, complete with a harem of eight wives."

When I was under contract to the studio I had a lot of ideas for pictures, but I was never able to do them. There was always plenty of time for the brass to hold meetings and say 'no.' Because TV is so immediate and so valuable there isn't time for meetings.

"We've finally made a swimming production where the story is more important than the water sequences."

Announcer Jack Drees did a commendable job explaining Hank's tactics as the brief host progressed—"combinations to the body to bring Rudy's guard down"—and then bang!

It was over almost as if Drees had been reading from a script (heaven forbid).

The feature ended so quickly a six-rounder between two comparative unknowns was brought on to fill the void.

The show was a dreary bit of business and presumably only the hottest boxing bugs stayed on the ABC channel.

The Wednesday night show is scheduled to bow out shortly, at least for the rest of the summer.

The old Friday Night Fights will be back Oct. 5 but on Saturday nights this time around.

The Friday night feature, a fixture for years, went off for the summer because of low ratings.

Not an unusual situation in the rest of TV but unheard of heretofore in boxing.

Madison Square Garden, long the principal site in the Friday series, has been running without TV lately.

GATE, BOUTS SAG

The gates have been less than spectacular. So have the fights.

Fighters have slim pickings. Twenty years ago we had 10,000 fighters working regularly in the United States," says boxing historian Nat Fleischer.

"As late as five years ago there were 7,500. But today, because of the fall impact of television, there are fewer than 5,000, and not all of them are working."

There aren't many places to work. In 1952, 22 light clubs were operating on a steady basis in New York State.

Today there are only two. Two others, including the Garden, stage boxing shows only when dates and good fighters are available.

There is plenty of TV gravy to be had but only at the top.

Discriminating viewers now want only the best and they're even willing to pay for it.

Curtain Has Gone Up on 90-Proof Theater

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The idea of allowing theater customers to drink at their seats during the show is being tried out in Chicago—and though I went on a Saturday, only one patron drank too much and tried to out-throat the actors.

"We'll just stay till they ring down the first drink," Hal Block said.

But the news, "Medium Rare," was so fresh with smart material that we found why. It's produced by Robert Weiner, the 24-year-old Broadwayite who co-produced "Tall Story."

Letting the patrons drink was the idea of George and Oscar Marchant, builders of the handsome theater.

Whether they can allow it during a mood show is a question. But, if the actors drink in the Eugene O'Neill plays why shouldn't the customers?

"Medium Rare" is definitely headed for Broadway. Gorgeous Marilyn Maxwell suggested that if they try out the drinking idea in N.Y., they should rename it "Theater on the Rocks."

Jack Kennedy's father, Joseph Kennedy, has been maligned. People are claiming he's worth $200,000,000 to $400,000,000, but I hear from a big financier that he's worth only $50,000,000 — and his sons and daughters have $8,000,000 each, making the whole family pot a measly $100,000,000. I trust this disposes forever of the rumor they're rich!

Randolph Churchill ran in to Roy Cohn and asked him, "Burned any good books lately?"

June Allyson Show Faces Harder Fight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—When CBS June Allyson Show started a year ago, it aimed directly at the female audience.

The anthology series was stuffed with suffering ladies. The clothes were dreamy and the acting good, but the size of the late evening audience was disappointing.

When the season was over, how to elite areas. The sponsor renewed. This year, the improved formula will be continued and expanded; diversity of plot; fast moving and un sentimental — even controversial — themes, and more parts for Miss Allyson.

The series, however, is due for a shift in the CBS schedule. Last season it followed the healthy "Hennessey" on Monday nights. Starting Sept. 27 it moves to Thursday nights at 10:30, following "Fargo to Person," which doesn't have much of an audience rating.

But June isn't worried. I interviewed her almost a year ago, just before the debut of the show, and she was nervous and a bit dubious about television then. Now she loves it, and goes about her work with swift precision and competence.

"It's very hard work — I've lost about 14 pounds over the past year and I didn't want to — but I find television much more satisfying than motion pictures," she says. "You can do so many different things. And you can get them done so much faster."

The response of the public is interesting, too, and sort of wonderful. They get to know you better in television. Nowadays the truck drivers yell, 'Hey, June!' when they recognize you, in the movie days it was 'Miss Allyson!'

June, naturally, is working for Four-Star films, which her husband Dick Powell heads. Because it was the beginning of a new season and an occasion, June took their two children, Pamela, 2, and Ricky, 9, to the studio with her.

The five jet bombers will fly at an altitude of 1,200 feet with the right-wing position of the lead formation vacant to indicate the major's missing aircraft.

Lt. Gen. Francis H. Griswold, vice commander of the Strategic Air Command, and Lt. Gen. John P. McConnell, commander of the 2nd Air Force, based at Barfield, will attend the funeral service.

The RB4Fs making the fly-over will come from Palm's home base, the 55th Strategic Reconnaissance Wing at Forbes AFB, Topeka, Kan. Palm's home was in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS — On the campus of Hope College in Holland Dr. Irvin J. Lubbers, president, looks up to his son and gives him some advice on running a college. The son, Arvid D. He has been named to head Central College in Pella, Iowa, a post the elder Lubbers held from 1935 to 1945.

Peter and Mary Call It Love

Headsy Are Heckled for Giving New TV Series Title Like That of 'Lucy'

HOLLYWOOD (API) — Peter Lind Hayes and spouse, Mary Healy, have finished shooting only two shows on their new series, "Peter Love Lucy," starting on NBC in October. But they are already getting pretty tired of suggestions that the program seems reminiscent of a little TV venture called "I Love Lucy."

"It's that title," said Mary. "We wanted to call it 'Peter and Mary,' but there was some feeling that might cause confusion with another series called 'Pete and Gladys.' Peter suggested they call it 'Peter and Mary.'"

That was just a joke, Mary hastily explained, because Desi Arnaz and Lucille Ball are old friends whom he admires greatly, and it's easy to start a feud out here.

"This type of show," chimed in Peter, "is really quite basic. Harriet and Ozzie have done it. And we did a show about the same idea years ago on TV."

He grimaced, painfully, at the memory.

IT WAS DEAD

"A friend, who mercifully shall be nameless, told me not to know to studio audiences and to put on the kind of sharp, sophisticated comedy shows we wanted without an audience. So we had a live comedy show — and some great comedy stars — without any studio audience."

"It was deadly. Live comedy needs an audience. Nothing paid off—it just laid there in the dead air."

Peter is the comedian in the couple's series. Mary plays a contented housewife, and she won't even sing.

"There," said Peter, "that makes a difference right there."

SPY-IN-SKY MOONS To Go Up Next Year

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force will fire experimental Gemini and Atlas "spy-in-the-sky" satellites from here next year as a result of a step-up in these high-priority military programs.

This was revealed at a news conference Wednesday by Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, head of the Air Research and Development Command. He said several of the launches will be shifted from the Pacific Missile Range, Point Arguello, Calif., because of "high-level pressure to accelerate and expand the programs."

Samos is a reconnaissance satellite system designed to photograph enemy installations. Midas will detect any enemy ballistic missile the instant it is fired and flash the warning to the United States. Both are expected to be operational within two years.

Strangely Wile To Run Against Husband Again

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit woman who sought political revenge against her estranged husband in Tuesday's primary lost. But she's determined to try again.

Ena Fitzpatrick announced her intention to try again in 1962. She sought political revenge, she said, because "Fitz" failed to support her financially.

Files Suit to Slice State Phone Rates

LANSING (AP) — A private citizens' association is not content with holding the line on telephone rates. The Michigan Utility Rate Payors Association has filed suit in Ingham County Circuit Court requesting that the court set aside an order of the Michigan Public Service Commission which raised $4,814,223 annual rate increase by the Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

The suit requests further that the court issue a decree cutting Michigan Bell's rates by $4 million annually.

The suit claims the commission order was "contrary to the overwhelming weight of the evidence" presented against the rate increase earlier this year.

This order was issued Feb. 18. The citizens group is headed by Paul H. Todd, Kalamazoo industrialist and former chairman of the Michigan Public Utilities Commission.

Imagine Him at One of Our Beaches . . .

Aristotle Wouldn't Understand

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — If Aristotle were suddenly transported through time to a modern American beach, what would he think? Glancing around at the sands studded with sprawling mortals slowly reddening under a hot sky, he could reach only one conclusion: "What a strange heathen tribe these Americans are! Obviously they are sun worshippers. But what an odd form their rites take! Instead of sacrificing animals, they anoint themselves with oil, lie prostrate and turn themselves into burst offerings under the terrible eye of their God. What wild gull has driven them to this inhuman self-punishment?"

Wise old Aristotle would regard this as a form of cult madness, and even the most modern present-day physician would easily have to agree with his diagnosis.

FAST BARBECUE PIT
Comes June and millions of Americans quit chasing the dollar, and begin a new mass pursuit—a summer tan. They turn the country into one vast human barbecue pit.

Those who can afford to do so, go to the nearest real beach. Others take off as much clothing as the law allows and spread themselves on the grass or back yard or public park. Still others climb to their rooftops and slowly stew in their own juices on "tar beaches."

But wherever the sun shines, it shines on grub-white limbs and bald pates, on countless miles of human epidermis seeking a chlorine change. People too busy to lie in the sun try to apply instant tan from a bottle.

A light tan is not enough. The goal is to get darker and darker until one matches the color of walnut bark.

The theory behind this zany fad is that a tan makes a man look more virile, a woman more beautiful—and both sexes more healthy.

But, as any doctor knows, 15 minutes in the sun each day will make the average person as healthy as he needs to be for all practical purposes. And, as any cosmetician knows, too much exposure to the sun will in time make the skin beautiful only to one who admires the patina of old leather.

SPANKED 'EM ONCE
Two generations ago any responsible mother would spank a daughter who went out in the sun bare-headed and thereby risked ruining her fair complexion.

Mothers believed then, as poets have sung in all ages, that more beauty lay in pale hands, naturally rosy cheeks, and lilyp-white features than in a hide the color of a sickly limb.

Today, however, grandmas and grandpas, mother and father, not only share this new aberrant form of sun worship—they also expose little toddlers for hours to the fierce rays from on high. The price they pay they do not know.

Rights Crucial Issue

Kefauver Faces Primary Voters

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee Democrats choose today between Sen. Estes Kefauver and Judge Andrew T. Taylor in a Senate primary election fought largely over civil and states rights.

Kefauver, the Democratic vice presidential candidate four years ago, pitched his campaign for a third term on his 22-year record in the House and Senate. He was criticized by his opponent, a circuit judge from Jackson, for supporting civil rights legislation.

Indications were the vote would be close. Upwards of 650,000 persons were expected to vote, which would be a record turnout for a Senate race in this state.

Kefauver's base strength is his native East Tennessee, while Taylor expected to get a thumping majority in segregation-minded West Tennessee.

This could make the midstate region's vote decisive.

Except for Memphis, the West state vote will be counted by hand and the margin of Taylor's victory in that region would be known until late.

NEGROES TO VOTE
Several hundred Negroes were eligible to vote in the primary for the first time since reconstruction days in Fayette and Haywood counties, two West Tennessee counties where they outnumber whites.

Elsewhere in Tennessee Negroes have voted without opposition for years.

The Democratic primary winner is certain to be elected in November. Those Republicans are seeking the GOP nomination, but they have waged no campaigns.

Tennessee's 11th congressional sought renomination today. Two Republicans, Reps. B. Carroll Reece and Howard Baker, were unopposed, as were three Democrats, Reps. Joe L. Ewing, Tom Murray and Robert Everett. Four other Democratic congressmen had opposition.

Predicts Billion for Farmers

Stoppag Aid Law Will Not Be Vetoed, Says Agricultural Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Agriculture Committee predicted today the post-convention session of Congress will enact stopgap legislation designed to boost 1960 farm income by one billion dollars.

Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-N.C.) also predicted the legislation will escape President Eisenhower's veto. He said "I don't see how the President could object if he wants to do something about this farm surplus mess."

In other preliminaries to the session, 1. Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, indicated Congress will create defense funds. He called for the administration to say how the added money should be used. The long list of defense items which Johnson said the session will consider might add billions to the defense budget.

2. Two New York Republicans, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating and Rep. William E. Miller, said they plan to offer legislation covering all of the Democratic civil rights platform promises. Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) had said Sunday he would seek quick action on the GOP civil rights proposals. But leaders of both parties made it clear they do not intend to bring up civil rights during the session they hope to wrap up by Labor Day.

Cooley, a long-time critic of Eisenhower farm policies, voiced confidence the session will accept a four-point emergency program.

Refund Checks Zoom in County

Census Increase Adds Thousands of Dollars to Returns From State

Most of Oakland County's cities, townships and villages today are realizing tangible benefits of their 1960 population census bonus.

County Treasurer Charles A. Sparks has mailed out the first sales tax checks based on the new census apportionment. They are determined on a per capita basis.

Large increases over what the areas received in their last checks from the state in April . . . based on the 1950 census . . . are expected to swell the local treasuries.

Sparks received from State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown a check for $1,332,861.79, which the county treasurer allocated up according to population apportionment among the 24 Oakland townships, 22 cities and 17 villages.

The last previous sales tax check Sparks received was $1,013,264, shows $712,587 less than the present one.

PONTIAC CHECK DOWN
The city of Pontiac, however, noted a decrease in its check as compared with that of April. Although the city noted a 10-year population increase from 73,831 to 81,525, Sparks said the usual population deduction for 1,652 state patients housed at Pontiac State Hospital in the city brought Pontiac a July check for $124,241.

Its April check was for $149,820. The city's benefitting most was Oak Park. Its soaring population jump in April check of $18,000 all the way up to $114,682.

Royal Oak's check went from $97,547 to $180,861.

Altogether, the 27 cities gained by more than $1 million. Sparks said the population here (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Tonight will be partly cloudy with the low near 60, the weatherman says.

Sixty-two was the lowest recorded in the area. The reading at 1 p.m. was 70.

A seiche is set off by changes in pressure and winds during storms and pushes the water level down in the middle of the lake, causing it to rise on the edges.

Hare's Destiny With Swainson — Not Talking

Dems Move to Close Ranks After Surprises in Primary Election

DETROIT (AP) — Rank-closing was in order for Michigan Democrats today and speculation centered on the fate of Secretary of State James M. Hare, decisively beaten in a bid for promotion.

John B. Swainson, who beat Hare for the gubernatorial nomination, now must beat Republican nominee Paul D. Bagwell in November.

Whether Hare would be slated at the Aug. 27 Democratic state convention for a fourth term was pretty much up to the man who kicked him, Lt. Gov. Swainson. And he wasn't saying.

"Really, we haven't done anything about anything like that," said the boyish-looking but firm-minded attorney who rocked to the top in state politics in only six years.

Swainson, with his wife Alice and three children, headed north for a two-week vacation mixed with political strategy mapping and campaign planning at their cottage on Higgins Lake.

The joining ranks talk in the wake of the primary came chiefly from party organization leaders like retiring Gov. Williams and State Chairman Neil Staeble.

Neither was in the trenches during the closing weeks of primary hostilities.

Staeble told newsmen he was confident of retaining Hare. Democratic leader in 1956 with a resounding victory margin of 303,474 votes.

The third, dispirited Hare only said that whatever was done best for the party was good enough for him.

Enhancing the job's attractiveness for whoever launches on a two-year term in January is a raise voted by the 1960 Legislature that will boost the salary $5,000 a year, making it $17,000.

Observers continued to hash over possible explanations for Swainson's surprising win.

N. J. Speaks to California Via Moon

HOLMDALE, N.J. (AP) — Two scientists carried on a 190,000-mile conversation Wednesday night from a cozy New Jersey hilltop to the torrid California desert—via the moon.

"Hi, Walt. Can you hear me?" asked William C. Jakes of Bell Laboratories, from Crawford Hill, N.J.

"Yes, yes, you're coming in fine," answered Walter K. Victor at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory Station, Goldstone, Calif.

The value of Victor sounded a little hollow—as if he were talking into a barrel. This was caused, one scientist explained, by the irregularity of the moon's surface.

Both voices, translated into radio beams, flashed skyward at the speed of light—186,000 miles per second—and bounced off the moon to be picked up by receivers on the earth.

It wasn't the first such conversation for Jakes and Victor, both 38. They had others during the past weeks in tests of the equipment.

But it was a dramatic public demonstration of the principle in a Bell Telephone plan, outlined recently by the Federal Communications Commission, calling for 30 space satellites around the earth to provide quick worldwide communications.

Aim Is 3 Pct. Increase Over Last Year's

Campaign to Run From Oct. 6 Till 27; Figure Near 1959 Pledges

A goal of $672,500 has been set by the 1960 Pontiac Area United Fund, S. E. Knudsen, campaign chairman, announced today.

The 12th annual three-week drive will be conducted between Oct. 6 to Oct. 27.

The new campaign goal represents only a 3 per cent increase over the 1959 goal of $647,594, Knudsen said.

Contributions will go toward the support of 52 local health and welfare agencies.

The 1960 goal was approved by the United Fund Board of Trustees earlier this week.

Robert S. Nelson, president of the board, said that last year's pledges were taken into account in setting this year's goal.

Pledges last year totaled more than $600,000.

"We felt it was fair and honest to set this year's goal at the amount that was pledged last year," Nelson said.

"We are not asking our campaign leaders and solicitors to reach a goal over what was actually pledged last year."

Salary adjustments in the UP agencies are responsible, principally, for the 3 per cent increase, Nelson said.

Divisional quotas have not yet been announced.

Three major divisions are industrial, headed by Calvin J. Werner, General Motors Corp. vice president and general manager of GMC Truck & Coach Division; the commercial, headed by John Nigman, vice president of the Community National Bank; and the women's, headed by Mrs. Betty Tylor.

Grounds Spruced Up for 4-H Fair

Some $3,000 has been spent this year on improvements to the building and grounds preparatory to the opening Tuesday of the 1960 Oakland County 4-H Fair.

New wood bleachers to hold 2,400 people have been erected on the west side of the arena in the center of the fairgrounds on M21, south of Walton boulevard.

The quonset exhibit halls and new barn have been given fresh coats of paint and a new pump has been installed. It will afford the young exhibitors four times more water than in previous years, according to 4-H officials.

The county put up $120 for the improvements with the 4-H's matching that amount, and the state providing the remainder.

Opening day will feature registration of exhibitors, the selection of the 4-H king and queen to reign over the five-day program and the annual livestock contest.

Many 4-H members in the county have made floats which they will enter in the annual parade in downtown Pontiac Wednesday.

Milbigan's Dairy Princess Linda Gronow will be asked to help with the showmanship contests on Dairy Day, Thursday.

Fair manager this year is Richard M. Nixon, ended up with 1,317 votes each in Tuesday's primary election.

Draw in Ballot Battle

SAGINAW (UPI) — William Daly and Len Kenny are about to toss a coin to see who will represent the second District of Saginaw in the state house of Representatives. Daly and Kenny, both Democrats, ended up with 1,317 votes each in Tuesday's primary election.

Dick Presses Civil Rights; Jack, Loveless Huddle

By The Associated Press

Richard M. Nixon, in Honolulu pushing his campaign for the presidency in a state without problems of civil rights, today called for an end to discrimination throughout the country.

"This is the objective to which we should certainly aspire in the United States," Nixon said.

At Hyannis Port, Mass., Sen. John F. Kennedy and a group of farm policy advisers meet today with Gov. Herschel Loveless of Iowa, who many believe may be secretary of agriculture if Kennedy is elected president.

Loveless, declaring he seeks no Cabinet post, flew here Wednesday with his wife, planning to remain for a week's vacation after his talks with the Democratic presidential nominee.

Kennedy has called the troubled agriculture industry the nation's No. 1 domestic problem.

Loveless is one of a group of midwestern governors and Congress members with whom Kennedy teamed earlier this week in a bitter blast at Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican nominee for president.

They accused Nixon of running out on farm policies they said he helped to write, and of trying to blame Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson for these policies, which they lambasted as "disasters."

1ST STOP — HAWAII — GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon and his wife Pat are pictured in Honolulu for the start of the vice president's campaign for "promotion." They are greeted by Hawaii Gov. William F. Quinn. In an interview Wednesday night, Nixon called for an end to discrimination throughout America. He also declared in reference to a Kennedy charge that the U.S. has nothing to apologize for over the U2 incident, saying, "There should be no apology for keeping up our intelligence activity so there will never be another Pearl Harbor."

Math to Be Used in Business

Professors Play for Ford Foundation

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (U.P.)—Twenty of the nation's top business professors are sitting around here this week playing games on Ford Foundation money.

But their game playing isn't merely for fun. It's part of a serious attempt by the Ford Foundation to inject more mathematical concepts into modern business.

The professors, all marketing specialists from the country's biggest business schools, are working with a univac computer in a form of business game that allows the men to run a company for a year — through the magic of modern electronics.

The teachers are part of a group of 40 who have been studying at the Harvard Business School since last September on Ford Foundation grants. They are due to return to their own campuses this fall to spread the gospel of more math in business.

In working with the univac, the men have the task of working against each other in a theoretical attempt to market a new product. Split into separate teams representing different companies, they attempt to introduce their new development into three regional markets.

In theory, the product has been marketed with some success by an older division of the company. The company wants more determined effort, authorizes an unlimited budget and sets up a new division to do the job.

The product is considered to be one that performs an old function in a new way and is sold directly by commission salesmen. Demand forecasts are assumed to have come from a market research consultant.

Competitors are assumed to have approached the same markets under the same conditions.

The business teams then proceed to make decisions aimed at favoring their own positions. The actions are transmitted to the programmed univac computer

Get rich quick schemes are discouraged.

Some of the factors which are considered in such exercises are administrative organizations and procedures, market characteristics which are pre-programmed in the computer, sales effectiveness and business reports.

The teams manage to compress with electronic speed the operations of a major business operation for a year into a single classroom day. They do their work at the Harvard University Computation Laboratory.

NIXON BOMB HOAXER—Leonard Sage, 34-year-old cab driver and ex-wrestler, arrives for arraignment before U. S. District Judge John Ross in Carson City, Nev., on charges of falsely reporting he had put a bomb aboard the plane Vice President Richard M. Nixon was flying to Los Angeles. The incident took place in nearby Reno as the plane stopped en route from Washington Tuesday. Sage was apprehended Wednesday by the FBI. He is the 77th person arrested on bomb hoax charges since the government started a crackdown in April.

World War II Bomber Plane Found Intact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The icy waters of a sierra mountain lake apparently have preserved the bodies of a World War II bomber crew for 17 years, according to a San Francisco newspaper who visited the scene accompanied by a San Mateo skin diver.

Fred Goerner, of Radio Station KCBS, said the bodies of the crew of a B-24 which crashed into the Black Divide Mountain Range were broken and mutilated by the crash, but apparently perfectly preserved.

Goerner made the expedition under the joint sponsorship of KCBS and the San Mateo Times. He said the skindiver, Bob Fischer, reported that the fuselage of the aircraft was still intact although badly smashed by the impact.

"The plane looked like it crashed yesterday," Goerner reported. "The cold waters kept the paint shiny and new and free from rust." The bodies were better preserved than any embalming process could have done," he said.

REUTHER BACKS JOHNSON — Sen. John F. Kennedy finally won a pledge of support Wednesday from United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther for his vice presidential running mate Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. Reuther said the Texan's record and his backing of the Democratic platform entitle him to labor's support. Monday, another holdout, David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, also pledged his support. Reuther and Kennedy are shown at the presidential candidate's summer home in Hyannis Port, Mass.

NATO Mighty, Norstad Says

Talks to Ike on Berlin; President Will End His Vacation on Sunday

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Western forces in Europe would be augmented by formidable reserve firepower if the Soviet Union were to attack Berlin, says U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Forces.

He made the prediction after a conference with President Eisenhower at the summer White House Wednesday. Norstad, who started back to his Paris headquarters immediately after his report to the President, said the NATO deterrent power is highly effective and — in his opinion — will become even more effective.

Norstad and Eisenhower conferred shortly after the summer White House had announced that Eisenhower will end his seaside vacation Sunday and fly back to Washington.

He will arrive in the capital the night before the Senate reconvenes. The House, which also recessed early last month for the political conventions, goes back to work Aug. 15. During these last few days of a vacation which started July 7, the President is enjoying the company of his four grandchildren. They are David L. Barbara Anne E. Susan R. and Mary Jean 4. With their mother, Mrs. John Eisenhower, they arrived by plane from Washington Wednesday. They will return with the President and the First Lady Sunday. Norstad declined to provide any detail regarding his conference with the President.

NEW DELHI — India's Government has authorized a $4,200,000 program of assistance to the domestic tea industry. The plan is designed to enable producers to buy new equipment and machinery.

Dykes Throws a Hiccup in Managerial 'Trade'

Dykes Throws a Hiccup in Managerial 'Trade'

Jimmie Wants Pact Through 1961 Season

He Threatens to Quit Baseball Without One; Meets Lane Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether the most unusual trade in baseball history becomes finalized depends on today's meeting in Cleveland between Indians' General Manager Frank Lane and Jimmie Dykes.

Jimmie is one of the pawns involved in Wednesday's unprecedented trade of managers, with the 35-year-old Dykes going to Cleveland and the 45-year-old Joe Gordon to Detroit.

Dykes' Tiger contract expires at the end of this season, Gordon's contract with the Indians has another year to run.

Hardly had the baseball world recovered from the surprise, when Dykes announced he will insist on a contract through the 1961 season. Failing to get it, he will quit the game, he said.

The new twist took Lane by surprise. The master trader insisted that Dykes had agreed verbally to finish the season with Cleveland. Bill DeWitt, president of the Tigers, who is the mastermind behind this strange transaction, supported Lane.

"I was present during the telephone conversation between Lane and Dykes," said DeWitt, "and I heard Jimmie agree to take over the Indians for the balance of the season. The deal never would have been made had Jimmie not agreed to it. I just can't understand his change in attitude."

"This is a new twist," said Lane. "I made a perfectly clear deal with Dykes and he said he would be glad to finish out his Detroit terms in Cleveland. I even told him I would pay him, and he said he would take the same salary that Gordon was making with us. It meant about $2,000 more to him."

Dykes, who remained in New York, said a suddenly arose Tiger team, which had lost nine of its last 11, pointed out a 12-2 victory over the Yankees Wednesday night. He told newsmen:

"I understood on the telephone I was to get the same terms in Cleveland that Gordon had. What was more, I was to make for me to go to Cleveland just for seven weeks? I could stay out and still get paid for the balance of the season by Detroit."

"Unless I get next year written into the contract, I will quit and go home. I can't take a seven-week stint in which the players and the manager know that the manager will get fired at the end of that time."

Dykes originally planned to join the Indians in Cleveland Friday. Now he has decided instead to confer with Lane today.

"I don't anticipate any trouble with Lane," he said, "because he was very nice to me on the telephone."

Jimmie might be due for a rude awakening. Lane gave no indication he intends to give Dykes a longer contract than the one he originally offered.

Should Dykes take over the Indians, there also will be a swap of coaches. Luke Appling going to Cleveland as Dykes' assistant and Joe White accompanying Dykes to Detroit. The other coaches will remain with their present clubs.

The managerial swap originated three weeks ago as a joke, but was retained seriously 10 days ago when both clubs fell on evil days.

"When your club goes bad," explained DeWitt, "you do one of two things. You either get a lot of new players or you get a new manager. We got a lot of new players and that did it with Cleveland in 1959, and with Detroit last year."

"Obviously Cleveland wasn't satisfied with Gordon, and obviously we weren't satisfied with Dykes. The change in managers might help both clubs. Each one has a different style. Dykes is easygoing, while Gordon is aggressive."

Lane said the change could bring a psychological lift to the Indians, who had become dispirited by their recent failures.

As Tribe Players See It

Gordon's Swap Viewed as Victory for Piersall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland players see the switch in managers between the Indians and Detroit as a victory for Jim Piersall, center fielder for the Tribe.

Members of the team were confused and amused by the swap that sent Manager Joe Gordon to Detroit in exchange for Jimmie Dykes Wednesday. Either Piersall or Gordon had to go, they figured.

"And the way it happened probably makes both of them very happy," one player commented. Gordon felt Piersall tried to undermine his authority as manager. Piersall felt he was misunderstood and misused by Gordon.

Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane referred to this explosive situation in New York last week as an "elimination contest."

"But that isn't the only reason we made the change," he explained. "The club needs a shot in the arm, and maybe this will do it."

Piersall denied he deliberately taunted Gordon's authority in an attempt to get him fired.

"I know I'll be blamed for it," the center fielder said. "I've been blamed for everything else. But there are two sides to every argument, and I'd like to express mine."

"I always had the feeling that Joe didn't think much of my ability as a player. I think he liked me personally, but not as a player. And that made me mad."

Piersall said it started last year, when Gordon "wouldn't even use me in the late innings as a defensive replacement. I thought I could help more by being out there than sitting on the bench."

Piersall, whose antics have caused him to be ejected from several games this season, also said there were a couple of times when he thought Gordon "should have backed me up when I got into an argument with the umpire. I was probably being loud, but if a manager doesn't back you up, who does?"

Steelers Whip Canadian Team

Layne Passes for Three Touchdowns in Rout of Argonauts, 43-16

TORONTO (AP) — Bobby Layne fired three touchdown passes as the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League overwhelmed the Toronto Argonauts 43-16 in an exhibition game Wednesday night.

The Argonauts, of the Eastern Big Four Union, made a game of it in the opening five minutes, but wilted under the pressure of the heavier Steelers. The Steelers led 26-0 at the end of the first quarter, 36-0 at the half and 43-0 going into the final 15 minutes.

Layne, who tossed one touchdown pass to Ken Carpenter, and two to Buddy Dial, completed 15 of 24 passes for 327 yards. He lost only one interception.

Layne passed 31 yards to Carpenter for Pittsburgh's first touchdown at 9:21 of the first quarter, after the Argonauts had scored a field goal. Two minutes later, Tom Tracy scampered 41 yards around right end for another TD, and before the quarter ended, Dial got his first touchdown on a 40 yard pass from Layne.

DEJECTED — A heart-broken Jeff Farrell holds his head in dejection at Detroit's Brennan Pool last night after failing by one-tenth of a second to qualify for the U. S. Olympic team in the 100-meter freestyle. His time was :56.1. Lance Larson won in :55 flat. Farrell, with his stomach still lapped after an operation a week ago, will try again in the 200-meter freestyle.

Snarling Tigers Claw Yanks, 12-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Coach Billy Hitchcock of the Detroit Tigers was removed in the seventh when a 1-2-3 trouping of the New York Yankees last night, while the baseball world buzzed over the unprecedented managerial swap that sent Jimmie Dykes to Cleveland for Joe Gordon.

The aroused Bengals pummeled Jim Coates and three Yankee relievers for 13 hits, including a home run by first baseman Norm Cash. They also received 14 passes.

After dropping nine of their last 11 games, eight by one run, the Tigers tore into Yankee pitcher, who gave hurler Hank Aguirre a 6-0 lead at the end of three.

Aguirre hurled shutout ball for six innings, allowing only one hit — a sixth inning single — but he was removed in the seventh when his arm stiffened.

The Yankees got four of their hits off reliever Phil Rogan. One of the hits was a home run by catcher Johnny Blanchard following a single by Bob Cerv.

The Tigers scored in the first, third, fifth, and seventh innings, with their big explosion coming in the third when Coates and Duke Maas were racked for five hits and four runs. Lou Berberet was scoring double and Out Voul's single were the key hits.

Cash's homer, No. 10 for the year, came in the first inning following one of three walks covered by the "walking man," Eddie Yost.

Cash also had a run-scoring single, two walks and was hit batsman. Veal and Berberet both reached base five times. Veal on a single, double and triple, and Berberet on a single, double and triple.

The victory was Aguirre's fourth against two defeats. Coates, the loser, now has suffered three defeats following nine straight victories.

Micki Sets Goal

'64 Olympics Next Aim for 16-Year-Old Diver

DETROIT — Four years of hard work lie ahead for Micki King, 16-year-old Pontiac Central junior, whose aim is the 1964 Olympic games.

Miss King got her first crack at Olympic competition yesterday. She didn't fare too well, but she wasn't disappointed.

"I knew I wasn't going to make it, but I just wanted the experience of competing against the other girls," she said.

"I had only one good dive, three others were very poor," she added, after yesterday's diving preliminaries which saw 30 candidates compete for two positions on the U. S. Olympic team.

"I'm going to work real hard until the next trials. I'd like to find a 5-meter board around Pontiac to practice and get some help on the dives," she said.

Micki got interested in diving about five years ago, getting help from John LaMotte at the Pontiac YMCA.

"I've never really got serious until last season and I decided to spend the summer diving."

At MMU, while attending a journalism workshop, she received help from Glen Whitten, chief place in the 1956 Olympics.

In four years, Micki will be at the ripe old age of 20. By then she hopes to be a seasoned veteran in diving competition. Her next meet will be in the Water Wonderland meet the next weekend.

In yesterday's diving finals, Paula Jean Pope scored first place with 138.65 points. Patsy Willard won the other berth with 129.45 points.

The other six finalists in the 3-meter springboard were: 3, Barbara McKelvey; 4, Joel Leno; 5, June Lewis; 6, Katherine Hartwig; 7, Patricia Clark and 8, Nigel Henry.

The victory was Aguirre's fourth against two defeats. Coates, the loser, now has suffered three defeats following nine straight victories.

The Tigers are alive today as they prepare for a four-game home stand against the Boston Red Sox. New manager Gordon will be at the helm when the two teams tangle in a night game tomorrow at Briggs Stadium.

DETROIT — Former Birmingham High School swimming star Pete Sintz, who is now a sophomore at the University of Indiana, didn't win any Olympic team berths, but in two events he has proven he is among the top eight freestylers in the country.

Sintz made the 400-meter freestyle finals yesterday with a time of 4:27.1 in the semi-finals.

In the finals, Sintz was 7th among the eight contenders with a time of 4:38.2.

Top Competition in Backstroke Expected Today

Mike Troy of Indiana Breaks Another Record in Butterfly

LOOKS TO '64 — Micki King, Pontiac Central student who competed in the Olympic Diving trials at Brennan pool yesterday, now makes plans to work hard to compete in the Olympic trials of 1964. She is 16 now.

Farrell, who came out of the hospital board after an emergency operation a week ago, was the sentimental choice of the crowd in the preliminaries and the semi-finals when he raced to times of :55.8 and :55.5 respectively.

Last night, with his body still taped, he tried valiantly with the crowd cheering him on, but the pressure was evident as he lost ground on the turn and missed a stroke at the finish. He ended up in third place behind Lance Larson and Hunter.

Larson's time was :55 flat, a new American record. Hunter's time was :56 flat.

Farrell still has hope however in today's 200-meter freestyle events. This will be a much tougher grid. It will mean 200 meters in the preliminaries, another 200 meters in the semi-finals and 200 more in the finals.

There are six positions to be won as result of this event which determines which swimmers will advance to the relay teams. There is no Olympic competition in the 200-meter freestyle.

By BRUNO L. KEARNS Sports Editor, Pontiac Press DETROIT — For nine happy swimmers and divers there was joy at Detroit's Brennan pool last night.

For a courageous 23-year old Kansan, Jeff Farrell, there was bitter disappointment.

The nine berths for the U. S. Olympic team were filled in the final events yesterday in the swimming and diving trials.

Those who qualified were Paula Jean Pope and Patsy Willard in the women's 3-meter springboard event; Lance Larson and Bruce Hunter in the men's 100-meter freestyle; Alan Somers and Gene Leno in the men's 400-meter freestyle; and Bill Mulliken in the 200-meter breast stroke.

Despite several outstanding performances by these qualifiers, U. S. hopes of gaining of its best freestylers dimmed when Farrell missed qualifying in the 100-meter freestyle by one-tenth of a second.

Doctoring Your Golf

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: "My putter failed me in the clutch."

DIAGNOSIS: Irresolute stroking.

TREATMENT: The longer I play and observe this game of golf, the more I'm convinced that the key to good putting is resolution. By that I mean that the golfer must firmly decide on a course of action before starting the stroke, and not waver from this plan during the stroke. This is true of all golf shots and, I think, particularly true of putting.

It is especially true of those highly important putts that come near the end of a match or medal round. It is here that many golfers falter and fail by trying to be extra careful. They try to guard against every possibility—too short, too long, too far right or left. In short, they put themselves in a negative frame of mind.

On all putts, however important they seem to you, get the line and think only of knocking the ball in the middle of the hole. Don't let the mind-stray to the possibilities of missing.

Be resolute about your putts, and resolve to take advantage of a wonderful opportunity.

4 Crucial Mat Matches

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Four matches, all crucial, are on today's abbreviated schedule of eliminations for the U. S. Olympic wrestling team.

Two were ordered after a pair of draws in the freestyle matches Wednesday night. Doug Blubaugh and Phil Kington fought their seventh consecutive deadlock at 160½ pounds. Heavyweights Bill Kerklake and Hallow Wilson also drew.

They are scheduled to meet again this afternoon, but the big stir was expected in the 125½ pound match between Terry McCann and Dave Auble of Illinois, N. Y.

It's the match everyone at the training camp has been awaiting. McCann, three-time AAU champion and considered by many to be Uncle Sam's best bet for a gold medal in Rome, is ranked fourth because he didn't wrestle in the team trials at Ames, Iowa.

Auble, a two-time NCAA champion at Cornell, Iowa, is ranked first. He won the Pan-American Games title and is one of the smoothest, and certainly one of the fastest wrestlers in the nation.

McCann, more aggressive of the two, needs two victories to go to the semi-finals he finished 13th with a time of :56.7.

This was the 8th best in the world among the 82 who competed in 11 heats.

Another Oakland County coach who had a good account of himself was Ed Boothman of Royal Oak Minshull.

Boothman finished 22nd in the men's 48 divers. Unbeaten in high school races, Boothman was a member of The Press All-County swim team last season.

O'Neil Wins Class C Title

O'Neil Realy whipped Huron Bowl twice last night at Beaudette Park to win the Class C City League softball championship.

CIO Local 564 moved into the finals of the Class B playoffs against the Pontiac Police by eliminating Smith Slo, 3-2, Wednesday evening on the Northside diamond.

The Police and CIO battle for the city Class B crown tonight at Northside Park at 7 o'clock. A 2nd game, if necessary, will start at 8:30.

O'Neil annexed Class C honors with a pair of close victories, 2-1 in the opener and 3-1 in the nightcap.

Mary Fuller did the "run man" stunt for the Realy club, pitching both ends of the doubleheader, and Lloyd Harper did the same for Huron. O'Neil bunt hit Huron in the 1st game, 7-2, and each team made five safeties in the 2nd contest.

Fuller had two hits in the opener, which O'Neil wrapped up early by scoring three runs in the 1st inning. The same held true in the nightcap as the Realy squad tallied twice in the opening stanza.

Two runs in the 5th inning gave the CIO its winning margin over the Huron team. Floyd Hicks was the winning pitcher and Roger Voorheis the loser in a battle of three hitters.

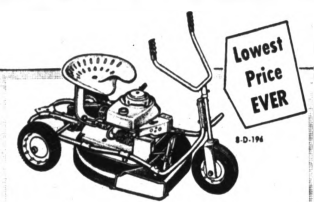

The International League's lower bracket playoffs begin tonight on the Beaudette diamond. The Northern Rockets meet the 300 Lounge at 7 p.m. and Rogers' Electric faces the Pontiac Retail-Lloyd Harper did the same for
