Holiday Traffic Deaths Mount Fast Across Nation

County Delegation Has Deciding Vote at GOP Parley

By JOE HAAS

In the only hotly contested nomination for state offices in the Republican convention at Grand Rapids Saturday afternoon Oakland County's delegation was in the thick of the fight.

Its 141 votes, the largest of any of the 18 Congressional districts in the state, proved to be the turning point in the selection of a nominee for the office of Secretary of State. When they swung over to a dark horse who did not enter the race until late that forenoon, all other candidates for the place tossed in the towel.

In two previous caucuses at the convention the Oakland delegation had voted to give its entire strength to Arthur J. Hannah of Lansing. It seemed that he had a cinch on the nomination.

But when the bandwagon of the new man, Raymond A. Plank of Ludington, started to roll in the alphabetical calling of counties, it had gathered such impetus that when Oakland was reached our folks wisely called another caucus.

It was seen that the Hannah boom had been deflated, and that he would not be nominated anyway.

So, not to be a follower of a lost cause, the 141 votes were given to Plank, which brought on the motion for his unanimous nomination. This was passed and no other counties were polled.

Shrewd political observers in connection with the Oakland delegation quite immediately foresaw that something good might come to our county in the way of appointive offices, should the Republicans win in November, and it was remembered that it was our delegation who cinched the place for him.

On the convention balloting on the other candidates to be nominated, the Oakland delegation stuck by the men they had approved in the preliminary caucuses. However, the nominations were mostly approved and made unanimous before Oakland was reached in the roll call.

While the unit rule was endorsed in the Oakland caucus, it was made plain that no delegate would be deprived of his vote if he dissented on the choice and notified the chairman before the choice was announced in the roll call. While a number of the delegates did not agree on the matter of deserting Hannah, although his nomination was impossible, they decided to go with the majority, when all of the implications and possibilities were explained to them. They are pledged to support the ticket as nominated.

In its every act the Oakland delegation upheld the general standards of the convention. They refused to become engaged in any of the bickering that was incidental to the adoption of some of the planks in the platform.

Like at least 90 per cent of the members of all of the delegations at the convention, the candidacy of Plank, a disc jockey and radio station owner, was a great surprise. First taken as a joke, his backers capitalized on the rivalry among the other candidates, and snowballed him to victory. Hatred for the more populous sections of the state helped put him across.

He also was helped by a growing sentiment in the convention that the best fight can be made with young men, also by the Northern Peninsula delegates who swapped votes for him for votes for their candidate for Attorney General, John V. Clements of Baraga County, who won out.

GOP Ticket Marked by New Faces

By ROGER LANE

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Michigan Republicans, heartened by their peppiest state convention in years, today buckled down for the fall campaign with a state ticket built around new political faces.

Of the four nominess chosen over the weekend none has stumped the state before.

One, John V. Clements, 45, L'Anse insurance man, provided the Upper Peninsula with its first GOP candidate for statewide office in a fall election since 1944. Clements was nominated for auditor general.

And Jason L. Honigman, 54, wealthy Detroit attorney, became the first Jewish leader ever advanced by the GOP for a top office. He was the choice for attorney general.

The other novices picked by 1,500 shouting delegates were Raymond A. Plank, 42, Ludington radio station owner, for secretary of state, and Allan G. Weatherwax, 51, Jackson druggist, for state treasurer.

They will team with three selections in the Aug. 5 primary—Paul D. Bagwell of East Lansing for governor; U.S. Sen. Charles E. Potter seeking re-election, and Rep. Donald A. Brown of Royal Oak, the lieutenant governor nominee.

Bagwell, who got a big hand when he arose for his convention speech, obviously was pleased with the Saturday results.

He had promised an unbossed convention. After Plank won a three-way floor fight for the first nomination of the afternoon, he came to the platform to tell delegates that that was what they were getting.

Plank, who didn't get into the running until a few minutes before the convention was gavelled to order, rocketed past two better known contenders—Arthur J. Hannah of Grand Rapids, a brother of the Michigan State University president, and State Sen. Robert E. Faulkner of Coloma.

Clements also won his nomination after a floor fight—a nip-and-tuck duel with Vincent J. Murray, Detroit unionist.

Earlier, Bagwell had fired the gathering with a slam-bang attack against Democrats generally and Gov. Williams in particular.

He asserted Williams had done nothing in his 10-year reign to "drive out corruption and hoodlumism."

He blamed Williams for alienating business and jobs and taunted him for refusing unlimited face-to-face debate of the election issues.

Police Disclose Link With Mafia, Alleged Bet Ring

Race Results Service of Secret Society Tied to Operations Here

Links between the alleged Pontiac bookie ring and the Mafia were disclosed yesterday by state police detectives who conducted the raids which led to the arrests of five persons Friday.

Officers said the ring which did an estimated $1 million a year in horse betting, subscribed to a race result service controlled by the Mafia.

Tomorrow the five, being held for investigation of conspiracy to violate the state gambling law, will be arraigned in Pontiac Municipal Court. The prosecutor's office is expected to seek warrants for them tomorrow morning.

Still held in the Oakland County Jail are Basil Burke, 59, of 29 Salmer St.; LaRue Gullett, 41, of 301 Dick Ave., and his wife, Gladys, 35; James Pruzor, 54, of 4 S. Saginaw St.; and Charles D. Apley, 44, of 29 Salmer.

Reports that Pontiac Police Chief Herbert W. Straley helped secure a parole for Burke from a 1-5 year sentence for a gambling conspiracy in 1951 caused the chief to give the following voluntary statement to George Taylor, chief assistant prosecutor:

"Yesterday's raids were the culmination of several months of good police work by the officers concerned. The investigations were commenced several months ago after certain information came to the attention of Chief Straley which indicated a gambling operation for which assistance of the state police racket squad was requested through Captain Jack Warner and Lt. Robinson of the state police.

"Discussions were held on the matter at Captain Warner's office at the Redford State Police Post several months ago. Subsequently the state police and Pontiac Police vice squad officers worked together to develop the case which finally brought about the raids and arrests.

"He had confidence that his officers, regardless of whom the principals were engaged in the gambling case, would with help of State Police, break the case.

"The Chapman Hotel was believed to be the location where some of the gamblers hung around. The identity of the principals was kept confidential with the officers working on the case. There were implications that Basil Burke and China Boy Pruzor were involved, but it was left up to the officers to tie them in definitely, as well as all others.

"In matters of this kind, secrecy

110 M.P.H. Winds of Hurricane Ella Menace Jamaica

MIAMI (UPI)—Hurricane Ella stormed between Jamaica and the southwestern tip of Haiti today, threatening to smash Jamaica with her 110-mile-an-hour winds.

The fast-gathering hurricane was located less than 150 miles south of Port Au Prince, Haiti, early today, traveling west-northwestward at 19 miles an hour.

But the capital of the Negro republic was protected by a range of mountains between it and the hurricane's center and less likely than Jamaica to be hard hit.

"It looks now that the hurricane will stay south of Cuba, passing about 100 miles south of Havana, and miss Florida," one forecaster in the Miami bureau said. But he added quickly, "The situation could change momentarily."

Flint Arsonist Dies of Burns

Prank House Firing Costs William Mosley His Life

A 17-year-old youth who severely burned himself in an arson of a vacant house in Holly Township died last night in Hurley Hospital, Flint.

The victim, William Mosley, of Flint, suffered burns over 80 per cent of his body Saturday morning when he and a companion, Robert Guth, 25, of Flint, used gasoline to ignite the frame house.

Guth, in a statement to Chief Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor George Taylor said they set the blaze as a prank.

He said the gasoline fumes exploded as Mosley set a match to a home-made wick.

Taylor said Guth will be charged with arson. The house had been used by Flint area teenagers for parties.

A Thought for Labor Day

Labor Day rolls around again and we pay just tribute to the workingman's vital contribution to the rich cornucopia of American life. Yet—headlines from the nation's capital tell us all is not serene in the House of Labor. Its leaders might recall U. S. Grant's succinct comment: "Labor disgraces no man; unfortunately you occasionally find men disgrace labor."

Labor Day Toll Running Ahead of Estimates

Millions Jam Highways to Average Ten Killed Per Hour Across U.S.

By The Associated Press

Traffic 275
Drownings 61
Miscellaneous 54
Total 390

The nation's traffic deaths, mounting at a fast pace during the late hours yesterday, appeared running at a trend above the estimate for the Labor Day holiday.

Millions of motorists jammed highways in summer's last long weekend and traffic deaths averaged 10 per hour from 3 p.m. yesterday to 1 a.m. today. Earlier, the trend appeared averaging below the estimate of 420 deaths for the 78-hour holiday period which started at 6 p.m. local time Friday and ends at midnight tonight.

The National Safety Council, which had predicted the toll, expressed concern at the sharp upturn in motor vehicle deaths during the late afternoon and night.

If the rate continued, the council said, the total would surpass its pre-holiday estimate of 420. The council said such a toll would be 70 deaths more than the 350 that occur on a weekend in which there is no holiday.

The heaviest traffic of the three-day holiday period was still to come—with millions of motorists homeward bound during the afternoon and evening.

The council, cautioning motorists to use extreme care in driving in the crowded highways, said the increase in deaths was due to the heavy traffic and carelessness by motorists.

Traffic deaths during last year's three-day Labor Day holiday period totaled 445 while the record toll for a Labor Day weekend was 461 in 1951.

In two earlier three-day holiday periods this year, Independence Day and Memorial Day, deaths on the highways totaled 370 and 371, respectively.

In a survey for purposes of comparison, The Associated Press counted 300 traffic fatalities for the nonholiday weekend of Aug. 15-18 in covering the same hours as the Labor Day travel period. There were 78 drownings and 94 deaths from miscellaneous types of accidents, including fires and plane crashes.

One of yesterday's worst highway accidents occurred south of Newport, Ark. Six persons were killed in a head-on collision of two cars.

Nation Honors Working Man

Cleanup Urged for Labor

By The Associated Press

The nation paid its annual respects to the U. S. working man today. But much of the Labor Day tribute was coupled with renewed pleas for action to oust hoodlums and racketeering union leaders from the labor movement.

Congress also was rebuked for rejecting legislation aimed at curbing shady tactics underscored by the Senate Rackets Committee in its investigation of labor-management relations.

At the same time, Congress got a new invitation from President Eisenhower to get busy at its next session and enact laws to halt such abuses.

Eisenhower, vacationing at Newport, R. I., said in a Labor Day message yesterday:

"The members of employer and employe organizations have the right to demand from their leaders and administrators complete honesty, integrity, trustworthiness and loyalty."

The President didn't specifically mention the labor control proposals he recommended to the recently-adjourned 85th Congress.

But in urging guarantees to protect the nation's working men and women from improper labor-management practices, Eisenhower's statement was plainly an invitation to Congress to pass legislation along those lines.

Secretary of Labor James Mitchell said he deeply regretted that Congress didn't act this year to curb racketeering and dictatorship in labor unions.

"I have every hope that the succeeding Congress will see fit to do so," Mitchell said in a statement. "Until such help is available, however, labor's own efforts must continue."

In another Labor Day statement, Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler praised cleanup efforts by unions, saying:

"Courageous labor leadership moved swiftly, without fear or favor, to meet its own internal problems and thus maintain the integrity of the American labor movement."

In Detroit, Walter Reuther blamed the defeat of a labor control bill on "an unholy alliance of big business, reactionary, anti-labor politicians and a few corrupt labor leaders."

Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, was refering to the bill by Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Irving M. Ives (R-NY) which was passed overwhelmingly by the Senate but rejected by the House in the closing days of the session.

Reuther again called on Eisenhower to convene a national conference of labor, management and government leaders to draft a program for full employment and to fight inflation.

AFL-CIO President George Meany touched on a different problem in his Labor Day statement.

Attacking racial segregation in schools, Meany said:

"The segregated school poses an artificial barrier to our nation's progress in education."

Meany also urged a federal school construction program to provide new jobs, higher teacher salaries and government-financed scholarships.

Albert J. Hayes, AFL-CIO vice president and chairman of the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee, said in a television interview, "We can look to the end of corruption in the trade union move-

Bride Proves Over Eager

Where Is the Groom?

WANTAGE, England (UPI)—Eager bride-to-be Gwendoline Arlott, 24, turned up at the registry office with 40 wedding guests here today and found no sign of her intended groom, Albert Ebsworth.

No, Ebsworth hadn't changed his mind. Miss Arlott had simply turned up for the wedding a month early.

"We made a mistake with the date," she said, blushing as her 40 guests drank a toast to her, wedding or no wedding.

Ebsworth, seeing that Miss Arlott was that eager for her marriage took out a special license and rescheduled the ceremony for Tuesday.

Local Holiday Road Toll at 1 as Rush Hours Begin

The number of highway fatalities for the Labor Day holiday in Oakland County remained at one this morning although a Pontiac man died Sunday night of injuries received in a crash north of Lapeer.

Wiley V. Gibson, 42, of 2761 Vendome St., died at Lapeer General Hosiptal Sunday of injuries suffered in an accident 24 hours earlier according to Lapeer County Sheriff's Deputies.

Gibson's car apparently went out of control on M24, about 12 miles north of Lapeer, crashing through five guard rails and smashing into a concrete bridge.

He was alone in the car.

Traffic in the county has been reported "a little heavier than for a normal weekend" since Friday night when a Walled Lake man, John G. Paget, 40, was killed in a Farmington Township collision.

Paget, of 8309 Dickert Rd., was alone in his auto when it collided with another at 14-Mile and Halstead roads. He was dead on arrival at William Beaumont Hospital.

Traffic was reported heavy at all points Friday night as the holiday weekend began. State Police at Pontiac and Redford and sheriff's deputies reported near normal conditions Saturday and Sunday.

Local authorities again voiced their plea to motorists to leave early for home and avoid rushing. "Above all," warned Sheriff Frank W. Irons, "drivers should not mix driving with drinking."

Law enforcers throughout the county reported heaviest traffic up to mid-afternoon Sunday around beach areas. It is expected that the cooling weather will keep people away from swimming areas today.

The auto club advised drivers to put off going home until Tuesday morning if possible.

19,500 Expected in Public System

New Buildings Ready for School Opening Thursday

By SYLVIA de STEIGER

Thursday is back-to-school day for more than 19,500 students who will attend Pontiac public schools this fall, according to Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent. The public school system will operate 29 elementary, five junior high and two senior high schools this year.

It is also the day in which the three city parochial schools, St. Frederick's, St. Michael's and Emmanuel Christian, which enroll 1,760 students, will open.

The city kindergartners will attend their first day of school next Monday.

The anticipated public school enrollment means an increase of more than 400 students over last year's record. Two new schools and a large addition to another will help "barely keep pace with the educational facilities needed in Pontiac," Whitmer added.

For the first time in the history of Pontiac, teenagers will attend two high schools this fall, the former Pontiac High School now named Pontiac Central and the new $3,500,000 Pontiac Northern High School, at North Perry and Arlene streets.

Although the two high schools will have a combined football team this fall, starting with the basketball season, each of the two schools will have their own teams.

One marching band is also scheduled jointly for the two schools this fall. A concert, as well as general band will be organized at each school.

Approximately 1,050 students will attend Northern and 2,100 will go to Central this year.

A new elementary school on Franklin road and Fern street also will open this week. The $450,000 single story structure will provide educational facilities for 360 students. It contains eight classrooms, two kindergartens and a multi-purpose room.

This school, located on an eight-acre site, will relieve the crowded conditions which have occurred at the Whittier Elementary School.

In another building project, five classrooms and one kindergarten, costing $160,000, have been added to the Owen Elementary School.

This addition will enable the removal of the substandard portable classroom buildings which have had to be used to operate the school located on East Columbia and Baldwin avenues.

The Owen school attendance will also increase from 450 to 660 students this fall.

Remodeling has been done at Eastern, Jefferson and Lincoln junior high schools during the summer.

Next spring construction will begin to increase the student capacity at Madison Junior High by 400 and at Washington Junior High by 250 more students.

Approximately 800 teachers will be employed throughout the public schools this year. This includes 130 new teachers of which 28 are from out of the state.

General Officials Report Threats

Say Man Claiming to Be Sullenberger Telephoned Them

Five members of the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees and the newly named supervisor, Harold Euler, reported today that they received abusive and threatening phone calls from a man who identified himself as Dr. Neil Sullenberger.

Euler said the calls started at 10 p.m. Saturday and continued into Sunday morning.

He said that he received two himself. The first, at 12 midnight, was taken by Mrs. Euler and the voice said he was from "Expose" magazine and a story on the fight between Dr. Sullenberger and the hospital staff was going to be published.

The second call, taken by Euler, was at 3:30 a.m. The man said he was Dr. Sullenberger and used abusive, profane and threatening language.

Euler quoted the caller as saying, "I hope I see you on the street so I can take care of you."

Euler said similar calls were received by Willis Brewer, William P. Babcock, James Clarkson and Harold S. Goldberg. He said the board will meet tomorrow morning with its attorneys to discuss what action to take.

Dr. Sullenberg was ousted from the hospital by the board Friday after lengthy hearings on grounds he disrupted the efficiency of the hospital.

Dr. Sullenberger refused to comment by telephone on the calls.

Rocket Expert Von Braun Predicts:

'Man in Outer Space Within Five Years'

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Rocket expert Dr. Wehrner von Braun states he was certain America would have a man in space within five years "and most likely sooner." He said the dangers of the radiation band around the earth had been exaggerated.

Dr. Herbert York, of the Advanced Projects Research Agency, also said that if the radiation belt "were the only thing to worry about in getting to the moon, any of us here would willingly take the risk."

Other American scientists attending the Ninth International Astronautical Congress here believe the Russian timetable for ordering a man in a satellite calls for a first attempt next spring.

Von Braun, hobbling on a cane as a result of a wrenched back, and the crewcut Dr. York, chief scientist of the group which decides the feasibility of the military and civil space projects on which the United States is embarking, gave their views in a news conference.

They restricted the talk to civil space projects because, Von Braun said, Soviet Russia is attending the congress, "and it would be poor taste to talk about intercontinental ballistic missiles."

The questions concentrated on radiation, on ideas which York's agency is studying, and American progress on "re-entry" into the earth's atmosphere, the main problem in manned flight. Puffing a pipe, York parried some questions on the American program.

"Everytime we say we are going to do something, the Russians do it," he said. "We've got too much of a record of talking about things."

"But will you send up anything larger than a mouse or small monkey in your re-entry tests," an interviewer persisted.

"We're going to do it—but not yet," York replied.

The radiation belt has figured prominently in discussions here. One paper speculated it extended from 250 to 40,000 miles and suggested lead shielding for space ships. Another speculated it was an extension of the solar atmosphere 93,000,000 miles wide.

"At the worst, it should be only several diameters of the earth wide," York said, "and a space ship would be through it in several hours, certainly not long enough for a fatal radiation dose from what we know now of the band."

As for re-entry, York said: "From a purely scientific point of view it can be done. But there is a difference between getting 'something' up there and recovering it, such as a nose cone, and getting 'someone' up and bringing him back."

Former Trucker to Head Plants

GM Appoints Nordyke Fisher Body Assembly General Manager

DETROIT (AP) — A former trim department trucker is the new general factory manager of General Motors' Fisher Body assembly plants in Michigan.

The Day in Birmingham

Rezoning Plans Opposed Bitterly by 53 Residents

BIRMINGHAM — By letter and telegram, 53 objections to rezoning a block bounded by Hunter Boulevard, Oakland avenue, Lawndale and Madison streets, have been received by city officials.

A hearing, one of several on the property, will come before tomorrow night's city commission meeting.

Known as the Barton-Comiskey properties, it has already been rezoned to multiple family use. This as well as commercial has been bitterly opposed.

Residents claim commercial zoning will be an added hazard to children attending Adams Elementary School. They also contend it will lower the market values of their homes and say there is no need for stores there since the area is only a few blocks from the downtown business section.

The property owners claim the proximity of the high speed busy Hunter boulevard has made the area undesirable for residential purposes. They maintain the only way they can realize their full value from the land is through commercial zoning.

Norman Wolfe, assistant school superintendent, has been notified by the State Highway Commission, that local ordinances will have to be put into operation to enforce the new school bus ruling.

Wolfe will go before ruling bodies in the communities which make up the Birmingham School District asking them to take action immediately.

Specific signs should be erected and officers instructed to watch for offenders.

The new law requiring traffic approaching a halted bus from either direction to stop goes into effect throughout the state Sept. 13.

Second Night of Terror

London Plagued by Race Violence

LONDON (AP)—More than 500 Londoners fought with knives, clubs and broken bottles last night in a fresh outburst of violence against London's growing Negro population.

In the Robin Hood city of Nottingham, 120 miles from the capital, 1,000 whites moving on the city's colored quarter clashed with police patrols. Twenty-four arrests were made.

Terrified Negro residents of London's Notting Hill district barricaded themselves in their homes as the howling mobs stormed outside, throwing rocks and bottles at the windows.

Thirty squad cars were rushed to the riot area with reinforcements and Alsatian dogs. Three men including a Negro were hospitalized with knife wounds. Eighteen were arrested and charged with various offenses.

The police finally cleared the streets early this morning. Four-man riot squads patrolled the area.

It was London's second straight night of race terror and the worst since World War II. Saturday night some 200 whites and West Indian immigrants battled for three hours at Notting Hill.

The race violence is due to increased immigration to Britain from overcrowded, backward parts of the Commonwealth, coupled with rising unemployment which has made the lower-class worker fearful of competition. There is no restriction on immigration into Britain from the rest of the Commonwealth.

The trouble last night started shortly after the pubs (saloons) closed for the night. A mob of 100 youths armed with sticks, iron bars and knives gathered under a railroad bridge and marched noisily toward streets where many Negroes live.

Soon the streets became a mass of people. Housewives in aprons joined the mob, shouting and waving their arms.

Savage fights broke out in several streets.

DETROIT (UPI) — About 20,000 unionists were expected today to march in the annual Labor Day parade down Woodward avenue.

Faubus Eyes 'Law of Land'

Says White House Forced Statement

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus declared yesterday that his statement that the 1954 Supreme Court integration ruling is the law of the land was forced from him by the White House.

He said Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams and Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) demanded he make the acknowledgement before the White House would consent to a conference on Arkansas' integration crisis.

"Because I said it didn't make it so," the governor said in a nationwide television interview — Face the Nation (CBS).

The conference at Newport, R. I., was held in an atmosphere of tension and bitterness and nothing useful came from it.

At President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters at Newport, R.I., Press Secretary James C. Hagerty today declined comment on Faubus' contention his 1957 statement was forced from him by the White House.

The matter came up at a Hagerty news conference. Hagerty was asked whether he had seen Faubus' remarks, and the exchange with reporters went like this:

Hagerty: "Oh yeah, I have seen what Gov. Faubus says."

Reporter: "What comment do you have?"

Hagerty: "I think the only comment I have is no comment. You wouldn't print my comment I feel like giving."

Reporter: "Well, let me ask you the direct question: Did the White House force Faubus to make his statement?"

Hagerty: "That's all I'm going to say on Gov. Faubus."

The governor further asserted that the "laws of the land" are acts of Congress and not necessarily decisions of the United States Supreme Court.

He said Congress has not acted on the school integration-segregation controversy, therefore it is not a law of the land.

He quoted a 1957 federal circuit court decision on another matter which said a particular ruling was not the law of the case under consideration "nor the law of the land."

Asked if he believed a governor must accept and support a federal court ruling, Faubus replied:

"Abraham Lincoln disagreed with the Dred Scott Case. There are many people in the United States and Arkansas who firmly believe the Supreme Court had no authority for its 1954 decision.

"Many people—millions — think the Supreme Court made a law itself in the case. Even if a law is passed by the legislature to which the people are opposed, it is difficult to enforce."

"If Congress had passed a law," the governor declared, "it would be the law of the land and there would be no question of enforcement."

ROCKPORT, Mass. (AP)—Marjorie Flack, 61, author and illustrator of children's books, died Friday. She was the widow of William Rose Benet, Pulitzer-Prize winning poet and brother of the writer, Stephen Vincent Benet. She was born in Greenport, N. Y.

BOSTON (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Harry Thomas Stock, 66, prominent Congregationalist clergyman, died Saturday after a long illness. He had served as general secretary of the Division of Christian Education, Board of Home Missions of the Congregational Church, since 1938. He was born in Springfield, Ill.

prevails up to the time of the raids. Although the chief was not aware of the actual time of the raids he did know the case would be broken soon. The actual operation of the raids was left to the officers concerned.

"As for the man Burke, the only knowledge Straley has of him is an inquiry made at the request of Burke's wife during the latter part of 1951 regarding Burke's relief from prison on parole, which was understood had been imminent.

"Chief Straley formerly was with the Corrections Department. As chief he did not know Burke and had no connection or association with him since the parole inquiry in 1951.

"The newspaper and radio announcement of an alleged connection or tieup between the police department and-or Chief Straley with gamblers, is absurd, false, and defamatory."

Russia, U.S. Keep Up War Threats

Quemoy Shelling Lessens

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Only light Communist shelling of Nationalist China's offshore islands was reported today. Meanwhile, Russia and the United States kept up a barrage of warnings.

With their new artillery attack in its 10th day, the Red guns around Amoy fired only 366 shells at the Quemoy islands between midnight and 2 p.m. This was a far cry from the record 41,000 rounds Aug. 23.

The latest American word salvo came from Army Secretary Wilber Brucker, who told a news conference in Taipei recent statements by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles were "a definite warning." He said they spoke for the people of the United States and the Communists should not take their words lightly.

Eisenhower so far has committed the United States 7th fleet to defend the offshore islands only if an attempt to take them appears to him to be a direct threat at Formosa itself. But he said last week that Quemoy and Matsu Islands were more important to the defense of Formosa than they were three years ago, and Dulles said an attack on the islands would be a general threat to peace in the far east.

The New York Times said in a dispatch from Manila that the Philippine foreign ministry had learned from sources outside the country that the United States will defend Quemoy if Red China invades. The sources were not identified, and there was no confirmation of the report.

In its toughest challenge to the United States since the latest Far East crisis began, the Communist party mouthpiece Pravda said Russia would give Red China "moral and material help" if there is a clash over the offshore islands.

The paper, whose editorials usually carry the full weight of the Kremlin, accused the United States of preparing to intervene in a Chinese domestic affair and warned that "any aggression by the United States in the Far East would inevitably sharpen the whole international situation and lead to a spread of war."

"Those who threaten today to attack the Chinese People's Republic," Pravda cautioned, "must not forget that they also threaten the Soviet Union because the Soviet Union is bound to the people of China with unbreakable bonds of fraternal friendship and cooperation, the basis of which is their determination to safeguard peace among the peoples and repel aggressors."

Brucker, who wound up three days of conferences with President Chiang Kai-Shek, other Nationalist leaders and American military chiefs in the area, told newsmen the United States intends to supplement American military aid to Chiang's forces. He stressed he was speaking on a long-term basis, however.

"We are allies and partners in the fight for freedom," he said.

Brucker left this afternoon for Hong Kong en route home.

Most of Nation Dry

On With the Parades!

By United Press International

Mild, dry weather was expected over most of the nation today for Labor Day parades and other outdoor activities marking the windup of the long holiday weekend.

Cool air pushed into the North Atlantic states and south to the Ohio Valley during the night, bringing showers along the leading edge of the system. However, most of the rain ended by early today.

Cloudy skies ranged from the Great Lakes through New England while clear skies covered most of the Southwest.

The only major rain area expected today was in the Northwest where a Pacific disturbance ance is expected to spread showers across the Rockies and into the Northern Plains by tonight.

Thunderstorms occurred during the night near the Mexican border, producing .32-inch of rain at Glenwood, N.M., and gusty winds up to 68 m.p.h. at Tucson, Ariz.

Good weather was predicted today for Chicago where the national American Legion convention stages its mammoth parade. The 12-hour parade is expected to see 50,000 marchers step smartly through the Loop.

Weathermen said warmer weather was expected today in the northern and central Rockies, Plains states and the upper Mississippi Valley and Great Lakes regions.

Cooler readings were predicted from Tennessee and the Ohio Valley eastward. Scattered thundershowers were seen for the South Atlantic section.

ment when we are able to end corruption in the country."

Arthur J. Goldberg, counsel to the AFL-CIO and its ethical practices committee, said "where corruption exists in a union, responsibility rests not alone with the leadership, but equally if not primarily, with the union membership."

Addressing a Labor Day weekend forum at Hopewell Junction, N.Y., Goldberg said:

"Union members tend to get the sort of leadership they deserve. Frankly, they often get better leadership than their degree of participation would suggest they deserve."

Many Students Use Installment Plans

Most high school students who want to go on to college are faced with one major hurdle: "How am I going to pay for it?"

With college expenses runing so high — and likely to go higher — more and more of them are turning to that old American standby — the "easy payment" plan.

In some cases this means "go now and pay later." In others it's "Pay now and go later." Bankers and educators have been getting together during the past few years to work out the most practical of both systems.

A survey by the American Bankers Assn. indicates that a student in a state-supported institution pays abuot $1,300 per year for his education, and a student in a private college pays upwards of $2,700.

Another survey, made by the government, indicates a range of from $1,500 to $2,050 a year.

Whichever survey you believe, it's a healthy hunk of money, particularly for those in the lower income brackets.

Scholarships, part-time jobs and short term loans are proving inadequate to meet the college money problem, the bankers say. Here are some of the plans they've come up with:

In Massachusetts, the Higher Education Loan Plan (HELP) guarantees 80 per cent of loans up to $500 a year negotiated by students who have completed their freshman year in good standing.

A different sort of plan is the "College Club," now available in more than 300 banks across the country.

College Club accounts are opened jointly by the parent and the student with a view to building up a college nestegg. Both parents and students are urged to make regular deposits which earn interest just as in any regular saving account.

Lying somewhere between the "HELP" plan and the College Club idea is a deal worked out by the Union National Bank of Charlotte, N. C., and Queens College, a local school for girls.

The contract there is a true installment arrangement, with payments starting while the student still is in high school and continuing up to almost three years after graduation.

A combination loan and grant plan was recently introduced at Columbia University's Graduate School of Business. A student in need of financial aid gets 60 per cent of the amount as a loan from Bankers Trust Co. of New York, and 40 per cent as an outright grant from an alumni aid fund.

The Wisconsin Bankers Assn. has been granting a limited number of loans to college students since 1947. The loans are limited to $500 a year. Monthly payments, carrying 3 per cent interest, begin the second January following the student's gradlation.

Plans similar to these are in effect, or under consideration, in a number of other states and locatities. A high school student who faces rough financial going in college might do well to check the banks in his home town.

Farm Growing Priceless Crop

Research Center Has No Surplus in Increasing Yields for Humanity

WASHINGTON — A farm that breaks all the rules is harvesting one of the most important crops in the United States—or anywhere else.

The farm, at Beltsville, Maryland, near Washington, is the Agricultural Research Center of the Department of Agriculture. The harvest is knowledge, and there is no surplus.

Knowledge produced at Beltsville has increased the yield of food and fiber around the world, the National Geographic Society says. It has brought better health, more leisure, and pleasure to both urban and rural families.

Milk output by the nation's dairy herds has been increased. New research aims at developing cattle strains that will give more milk or beef from less feed.

Turkeys, bred down to convenient size, appear on American tables the year around; there is no need to wait until all the family can converge on a huge tom.

Crops of all kinds offer better yields as their insect enemies and weed rivals fall before weapons forged at Beltsville and other Federal and state stations throughout the country.

Man does not live by calories alone. Beltsville researchers have improved flowers, producing lilies with blooms as wide as trombone bells.

Research has developed grasses that strangle out weeds and crab grass on the home lawn and golf course. If a householder uses the time saved from weeding for a picnic, he can take along tenderer steaks; redder, meatier tomatoes; more appetizing watermelons; and better potato chips—all products of research by the Agriculture Department and cooperating scientists.

Almost everything that grows on farms has been improved by Beltsville's harvest. Even farmhouse design is checked by workers living in test buildings.

Beltsville is situated on 11,000 acres of rolling countryside. The site was chosen 48 years ago. Agriculture Department scouts reported the area was suitable in many respects and cheap, but the soil was worn out and infertile.

Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson blew up. "Anyone can grow a crop on good land!" he said. "Buy it and use plenty of cow manure."

The liability has proved an asset. The once-poor fields and pastures have been a testing ground for better crop-rotation, soil-improvement, and fertilizing practices.

Boot-Hill Type Burial Ground Offered Animals

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — There's a little graveyard here with a flock of markers, called Animal Hill in the manner of the Western badmen's cemetery, Boot Hill.

Ten-year-olds Jerry Williams, Terry Hill and Larry Martin said they got started with a blue joy that forgot to go south for the winter. Now there are crosses for 15 birds, two rats, one hamster and one snake.

"We kept finding the birds," Larry said. "After we started putting up the crosses, other people would bring them." Now there's a painted sign labelling the place.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Stopped In Minutes

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles". It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results — here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids — without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations. This improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*) — discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H.® Ask for Preparation H suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Absolute satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Young Stars Wed Against Agents' Wishes

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Remember those young Hollywood hopefuls whose agents didn't want them to get married?

Well, Andra Martin, a 23-year-old starlet from Rockford, Ill., and television cowboy Ty Hardin, 28, were married Saturday in North Hollywood.

They first planned to marry in Rockford but called it off when their business advisers warned them it might hurt their careers —the teen-age fans, it seems, prefer their stars unwed.

He died soon after being admitted.

Boy, 14, Dies Trying to Protect Family

ABANDA, Ala. (AP)—"Please don't shoot my mom," pleaded the husky farm lad, holding his mother in his arms.

Gordon Crenshaw of Wadley, who would have eaten home-made cake for his 14th birthday a few hours later yesterday, protected his sickness-weakened family for the last time.

As he rushed forward, pleading and still carrying his mother, his sister's enraged suitor took aim and pistol fire illuminated the predawn darkness of the country road.

Young Gordon was killed by a bullet in the heart. His mother, Mrs. Claude Crenshaw, 40, shot in the back, was paralyzed below the waist. Myrtis Crenshaw, 20-year-old sweetheart of the attacker, was shot five times in the stomach.

Both women were in critical condition in a hospital. Three other Crenshaw brothers, all older than Gordon, could do nothing to stop the shooting spree. Two are crippled and the other is blind.

Sheriff J. B. Abney said Madison Strickland, 42-year-old married farmer of near Rock, surrendered about two hours after the shooting.

Strickland, held on first degree murder charges, was quoted by the sheriff as saying:

"Myrtis wouldn't go out with me last night because we'd been having some trouble lately. So I went looking for her."

Labor Day, 1958, Finds Great Activities in City of Pontiac

Labor Lay in 1958 finds Pontiac the focal point of many unexpected developments, some of which have been claiming attention all over the nation.

We're "in the news."

And some of it hurts.

Let's face the facts squarely.

We have just emerged from a strike which idled some 5,000 workers most of last week. Everyone's happy they can resume work tomorrow morning. It's almost traditional that "no one gains by a strike" and that refers to the parties directly involved and to the entire community in addition.

Our strike was nation-wide news.

Also, we have just received a verdict in the SULLENBERGER hospital case. This has dragged much longer than many citizens wished, but apparently there was no method of speeding it up. The doctor is barred permanently from using Pontiac General Hospital.

This is a rough decision on the individual, but the evidence submitted from many sides seemed to indicate that no other course was open. Pontiac has probably suffered statewide through the publicity this has attracted and we hope the end is here.

The Frank Kierdorf case has commanded attention across the country and the original story of the "human torch" was printed throughout the world. This was the result of an incident in Flint but our good neighbors to the north seem to have been lost in the shuffle and all the onus rests on Pontiac.

Friday night state troopers and local officers, after months of patient investigation, swooped down upon several key points in what appears to be a huge horse betting operation.

Thus, Labor Day in 1958 finds our community battered a bit and staggering just slightly, but we have tremendous recouperative powers and passing incidents like these can't stop real growth, prosperity and progress.

The long haul picture is good.

We are building a fine automobile and the 1959 line is positively sensational. The cars are beautiful and are bound to attract widespread attention. No one can control the general market, but Pontiac officials are confident that they will garner their share of the business, whatever it is.

No one can ask more.

Labor Day sees a great, beautiful, new univeristy starting just east of the city and there is comfort and pride in this, even though the building will not be complete and the doors opened until 1959. However, it's a reality in 1958.

There may have been brighter Labor Days, but the current one is much, much better than many we recall and there is nothing basically or inherently wrong. Small ripples on a big sea cut little figure in the end.

"WHEN it comes to ultimate and absolute knowledge, you don't know you're living!" says a metaphysicist. Maybe not, but we feel practically certain we're living, as we don't believe it would cost us anything like what we're paying just to imagine we're living.

"MAN is born into the world squalling and he goes through it discontented," says a Boston Globe editorial writer. And yet man leaves the world with considerable reluctance. It seems he's a glutton for punishment.

"SUMMER is four and one-half days longer than winter," says an astronomer. This is doubtless due to the fact that heat causes expansion.

The Man About Town

Changing Times

The Pontiac Papers Goofed Some on their Predictions

Labor Day: A holiday when labor gets the recognition it so richly deserves.

A perusal of the Pontiac Weekly Post and Weekly Gazette of 60 odd years ago shows that our city was "a national leader in the manufacture of vehicles." A lengthy story about Pontiac's leading industry concludes with, "The future of the horse and buggy never seemed brighter."

They predicted that "the horseless carriage is a mere experiment, and never will beocme popular because it is too noisy and unreliable. So far, its principal ambition seems to be frightening our horses."

The bicycle era gave them some slight misgivings, as "many people now are riding them to work or for pleasure, but most every family will always keep a horse and buggy. Could there be anything finer?"

The tractor, of course, was known, but it evidently was feared that the work horse might find a competitor in the steam power threshing engine, and a story told of a Waterford Township farmer who was pulling his plow with one of them.

But in summing up that experiment it was asserted that "These engines are too noisy and jerky, and the sparks set fire to the grain and buildings. Horses in an adjoining pasture were frightened at first, but later just looked over the fence and laughed."

Badly mixed in his timing is a Plymouth Rock rooster in the poultry yard of

of Drayton Plains. He sleeps through the sunrise and crows at sundown. The other chickens in the flock regard him disdainfully when he starts his evening serenade, and then chase him around so much that he has difficulty in emitting a full crow.

"Don't get too enthusiastic about the hot weather being at an end," phones of Birmingham, who says when he was a Michigan farmer 60 years ago the hottest weather of the year was when he was cutting corn late in September.

Caster bean leaves over two feet in diameter are growing on plants in the garden of

Mrs. Ann Kuhlenfeldt

in Huron Gardens. Some of the plants are seven feet tall.

"My sunflowers do not grow very tall," phones of Rochester, but they have big blossoms. By picking off all flower buds except the one at the top, all of the plant's energy goes to that one flower; and Mr. McLellan has some blossoms 16 inches in diameter.

Orson McLellan

Gladioli plants seven feet tall and with 40 blossoms or buds are from the garden of of Keego Harbor, who has them in over a dozen colors.

David Lawrence Says:

Court Is Disregarding Constitution

WASHINGTON — Those critics who have been inclined to be captious about President Eisenhower's diction — particularly the occasional disorder of some of his sentences in talking off-the-cuff at press conferences —had better take a look at one of the impromptu comments made last week by the erudite Justice Felix Frankfurter, former professor at the Harvard Law School and a master of English-writing.

LAWRENCE

The justice was under the same handicap as President Eisenhower. The stenographers were taking it all down verbatim, and there was no chance to revise what had been once spoken. It all happened at that extraordinary hearing before the entire Supreme Court of the United States last Thursday when the justice asked the Little Rock school board's attorney a question. Here is exactly how it appears now in the stenographic record:

"Justice Frankfurter: Mr. Butler, why aren't the two decisions of this court, the first one which laid down as a constitutional requirement that this court unanimously felt compelled to agree upon, and the second opinion recognizing that this was a change of what had been supposed to be the provisions of the Constitution, and recognizing that and the kind of life that had been built under the contrary conception said, as equity has also said, you must make appropriate accommodation to the specific circumstances of the situation instead of having a procrustean bed where everybody's legs are cut off or stretched to fit the length of the bed, and who is better to decide that than the local United States judges, why isn't that a national policy?"

Despite the odd syntax, there are some novel thoughts expressed by Justice Frankfurter which are perhaps more significant than if the above sentence had been carefully edited afterwards.

When Justice Frankfurter refers to "two decisions," he has in mind the one rendered by the Supreme Court in 1954 saying that equal educational facilities in separate schools were "inherently unequal," and the second, in 1955, in which the court ordered desegregation to take effect "with all deliberate speed."

Justice Frankfurter, in referring to the second decision, speaks understandingly of the recognition by the court of the problems raised during the transition period—from segregation to non-segregation. But it is strange to hear him say that "this was a change of what had been supposed to be the provisions of the Constitution."

The layman will wonder how any suppositious provisions could have ever been inserted in the Constitution and why suddenly what was plainly written there is disregarded by the court itself. For there is no mention of "education" or "schools" in the Fourteenth Amendment which formed the basis for the Supreme Court's decision.

There is, on the other hand, an explicit provision, known as the Tenth Amendment, which is still a part of the Bill of Rights and is also presumably a "national policy." Under this amendment, all powers not expressly given to the national government by the Constitution itself are reserved to the states. Education has always been supposed to be one of the powers "reserved to the states."

Justice Frankfurter conceded that "you must make appropriate accommodation to the specific circumstances of the situation," and then went on to contend that these two decisions of the Supreme Court have become "a national policy."

Dr. William Brady Says:

It's Doctor's Job to Find Cause of Nervousness

"I wish you would tell in your column why so many doctors add phenobarbital to their prescriptions, apparently without regard to the patients' complaint. Is it to dull perception of ache, pain or other distress, so that the patient won't worry about what ails him or her? Many of these patients complain about how dopey or sleepy thy feel all the time, when they come in for a refill. Maybe I'm wrong, but it doesn't seem to make sense. (I. S.)"

DR. BRADY

In some circumstances a barbituate is necessary and helpful, but even so, it is wrong, I think, for the physician to let the patient know just what the medicine is, if he or she can help it. The physician help it easily enough, by dispensing the medicine himself.

JUST PAIN-KILLER?

The pharmacist (I. S.) wonders whether physicians add the barbituate to dull perception of pain or ache, and so keep the patient from worrying about what ails him.

I am afraid that is precisely why so many physicians prescribe or dispense so much barbiturate, acetanilid (otherwise called phenylacetamide), phenacetin (otherwise called acetphenetidin), and acetyl salicilic acid (otherwise known as aspirin).

I repeat, any or all of these drugs may be necessary and helpful in some cases, if used for a limited time only. None of them should be used indiscriminately for a prolonged period or habitually.

Some of the effects of habitual use of barbital, phenobarbital, amytal are lowered morale, mental depression, anxiety or fear neuroses and lowered physical efficiency. Pronounced effects are lethargy, loss of judgment, loss of memory, ideas of persecution or vertigo (dizziness), double vision, loss of appetite, nausea and very slow heartbeat.

The addict may take an overdose of the barbiturate if he or she has a supply of the drug at hand. Unquestionably some fatalities occur because the addict momentarily comes out of drugged sleep and without knowing what he is doing takes still another dose —enough to finish him off.

WHAT TO DO?

Well, then, what's a person to do for a very nervous state?

That's easily answered—consult a physician.

And I don't mean a merchant of medicine. I mean a physician who studies the patient to find out what makes him "nervous" and, if the patient is fairly intelligent, perhaps treat the cause. If it is not a physical ailment, then perhaps refer the patient to his pastor or to a psychologist or to a psychiatrist.

Anyway I'd advise such a patient to have no truck with a doctor who utters inanities about "nerve weakness," strain, fatigue, overwork and the like and dismisses the customer with a prescription for a barbiturate or a sedative.

Or a tranquilizer either.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Hospital Load in Michigan Reaches All-Time High

The Michigan Hospital Assn. has announced that hospital admissions throughout the state reached an all-time high in 1954 with 1,007,288 patients, an increase of 19,852 patients over the previous year's record total of 987,436.

Another record was posted with the birth of 208,063 babies, an increase of 3,699 over the preceding year's high of 204,364.

These statistics were compiled from questionnaires sent to 250 hospitals in the State, 76 per cent of which are members of the Michigan Hospital Assn. listed by the American Hospital Association in its annual directory of hospitals.

The ratio of hospital admissions to population in Michigan outran the total population increase in the 12-year period 1946-1957 at a rate of almost two to one.

In 1957 the rate of admissions to all hospitals was 129 per thousand population as compared to 104 per thousand population in 1946. Had the ratio of admissions to population remained constant, at the 1946 level, there would have been only 813,772 admissions in 1957, rather than the one million reported.

The questionnaires showed that over the 12-year period, the number of admissions climbed 69 per cent, and from 1956 to 1957, over 2 per cent.

The report disclosed that during any day in 1957, there was an average of 58,417 patients and 570 newborn infants in Michigan hospitals.

Hospitals in Michigan spent $314,348,955 in caring for patients and child deliveries as compared to 1956's total of $293,482,409 a jump of almost twenty one million dollars.

In a break down, Michigan's short-term general hospitals, which care for the great majority of acute, short-term cases, spent an average of $30.27 a day, which was $3.46 more than the average daily cost of $26.81 for the rest of the nation. The average expenditure on each patient in these hospitals last year was $224 as against $213 in 1956.

Other statistics released by the Michigan Hospital Association are:

1. The cost of providing a patient day of care climbed 173 per cent between 1946 and 1957 — from an average of $11.10 a patient day to $30.27 last year.

2. The 1957 payroll for all Michigan hospitals rose to $210,619,980 for fulltime employes, while hospital workers earned $210,720,910 in 1956.

3. Michigan's voluntary hospitals required 231 full-time hospital employes to meet the needs of every 100 patients, an increase of 4 employes over 1956, and an increase of 52 per cent over the 152 full-time hospital employes required in 1946.

4. A total of 63 per cent of short-term general hospital expenditures was for payroll.

5. The average Michigan patient stayed 7.4 days in the short-term general hospital.

6. Patients in Michigan's non-profit general hospitals paid an average of 77 cents a day less in 1957 than it cost to care for them.

7. The total income from patients from non-profit hospitals for the last year was $155,827,982 while expenses totaled $159,985,555.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Warns Against Loss of Freedom

Labor—as on a chain gang—avails us little. For we must have freedom in order to enjoy the fruits of our toil. And such freedom is inexorably being gobbled up by our rising taxes and centralized government. Atomic power and new inventions are not lowering taxes, so don't think scientific advances are giving us more freedom. Discuss this case in your club meetings!

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case Z-307: Earlier this year the General Assembly of South Carolina graciously invited me to address its joint session on the topic, "A Realistic View of Education."

Therein I mentioned that it is time to take the "halo" off education and face up to the stark realities that will confront us more acutely with each coming year.

DR. CRANE

For school populations are zooming. College enrollments are predicted to double by 1970 — just 12 years hence!

Taxes are constantly rising until people are already grumbling.

At the present rate of tax increases, says former U. S. Congressman Samuel B. Pettengill, 50 per cent of a farmer's crops will be taken for taxes in 1980.

Likewise, 50 per cent of a miner's coal and oil well's output will go for taxes, as well as 50 per cent of a carpenter's earnings and a doctor's fees.

So we need to take stock of our trend toward socialism, for what shall it profit us to boast of owning title to home or factory or farm if the government confiscates the earnings therefrom?

HEED MONTESQUIEU

"A nation may lose its liberties in a day," warned the French philosopher Montesquieu, "and not miss them for a century."

Then, alas, it may be too late to wake up and reverse the inexorable advance of socialism.

While we are fretting about losing control of the skies to Russia, we better get hep to the serious fact that we are also losing control of our land and factories and other supposedly inalienable rights, all due to the onward encroachment of taxes and centralized government!

Please remember that modern invention and the benefits of atom power are not lowering our taxes at all! Instead, taxes are rising.

We may soon heat our homes with atomic fuel and drive our automobiles by the same source of energy, yet still be veritable slaves to the state!

So don't fall into the restful belief that "God's in His Heavens; all's right with the world."

All is definitely not right with the world! And it requires "horse sense" plus frugal sacrifices to make this world better.

Our free public education, for example, is a late luxury in the history of mankind on this planet.

And it is entirely possible that we may soon need to curtail not only some of our free education but also a lot of our other welfare programs.

Only strict efficiency may permit us to enjoy them much longer, and such efficiency must be started very soon.

SCHOOL EFFICIENCY

To be specific, we can handle our doubled college enrollments without any new buildings, just by running a second educational shift, to begin about 3 p.m., and continue till possibly 9 or 10 p.m.

If necessary, we could run a second shift in grade and high schools, too. In fact, in Chicago we have had some 27,000 youngsters on the double shift this very year of 1958.

Present college faculties are also entirely ample to handle a doubling of total college enrollments ratio from the present 12:1 to the current high school standard of 24:1.

Children used to walk to school, aften as far as two or three miles to and fro. Now buses pick them up in their front yard!

It may be necessary ultimately for kids to walk a mile to a central loading spot, where one bus could then handle twice or three times a many kids, and thus cut down costs.

Please think on these things, for without smart planning, we shall terminate like the Roman Republic in chaos and ruin, without any push from Russia.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Back to School

Prepare Child for Kindergarten

A note of warning and advice for parents whose children are starting school for the first time this fall:

If you haven't already done so, it's high time you started getting Jackie and Mary prepared for the biggest experience of their young lives.

The better prepared a child is for school — both physically and emotionally — the better his chances of a happy and worthwhile education. And the burden of that preparation is on the parents.

Here are some guide lines for parents to follow, suggested by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the National Education Assn. They say that by the time your child starts school he should:

Be able to use a drinking fountain correctly.

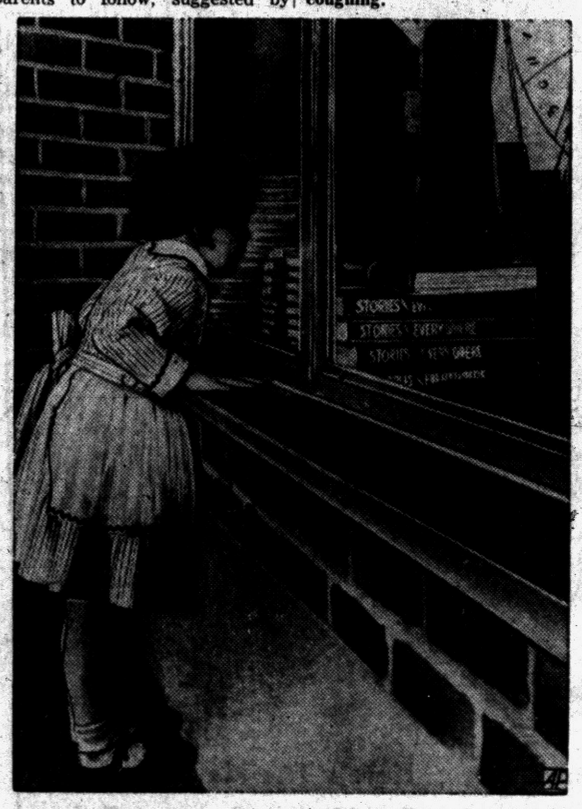

Use the bathroom regularly and independently.

Wash his hands with soap and water after play, before and after eating and after toileting.

Use only his own towel, face cloth, toothbrush.

Take an over-all cleansing bath every day.

Cover his nose and mouth with a handkerchief when sneezing or coughing.

GETTING READY — When this little girl goes to school for the first time she'll be on familiar ground — thanks to trips like this one when she only was on the outside looking in.

Carry a clean handkerchief or tissues to school every day.

Keep his hands away from his mouth, ears, nose, eyes.

Play out of doors regularly when the weather permits.

Go to bed at a regular hour (and that means 10-12 hours of sleep each night).

SET UP SCHEDULE

Well ahead of the opening day of school, set up a routine whereby the child is roused early enough so that he can:

Go to the toilet.
Wash himself.
Dress in clean clothing.
Brush and comb his hair.
Eat a warm, unhurried breakfast.
Brush his teeth.
Put on outer clothes suitable to the weather.

Set out early enough to arrive at the time suggested by your local school.

Give plenty of thought to your child's wardrobe. Remember it should be simple, washable, sturdy, not too tight, easy for him to manage, safe, and labeled for identification.

NO BABY TALK

Help your child learn to think and speak. That means you should speak carefully and clearly so that he will hear words correctly pronounced. You should encourage him to talk slowly in a moderate voice, and not use baby talk.

Supply the words when his tongue trips over an idea, answer all his questions, even the idle ones, and listen intelligently and appreciatively to his comments and stories.

Teach him the things he will need to know in school: courtesy, the fun of sharing things and ideas, respect for the property of others.

Encourage him to face facts as they really are. Teach him that games are for fun, that he can't always win, and that the 'good loser,' is a person to be admired.

As opening day nears, walk to school with him several times, so that he'll know the route. After school starts, turn him loose — let him go alone on foot or by bus.

NO TEARS, MOM!

If you have to go with him for his safety's sake, stop at the school steps, cheerfully tell him goodbye and leave him on his own.

And before he starts school he should have learned his own name, the name of his parents, address, phone number — and be willing to give them when asked.

Teach him all the traffic safety rules — and never to ride with strangers.

Give the teacher a few weeks to get acquainted with your child, then visit the school when it's convenient for both of you. Tell the teacher about your child's special interests and aptitudes at home, fears and emotional troubles, any handicaps she should know about, and his general health habits.

Sorority Honored for Work

The Central Volunteer Bureau of the Pontiac Area United Fund today announced it is honoring the 25 members of Sigma Beta Sorority, Psi Chapter, as its August "Volunteers of the Month."

The sorority was selected for its community service work at Pontiac State Hospital. Its members take turns visiting patients and donating refreshments at the hospital. A minimum of four members visit the patients at least once every month.

The volunteers are used in the hospital's program of "re-socializing" patients who are being prepared for their return to society. A trained hospital Grey Lady acts as a superivsor for the group.

SERVE AS HOSTESSES

The patients act as hostesses, arrange and plan games, visit with their guests and serve refreshments. The sorority sisters feel such a worthwhile volunteer project deserves their faithful attendance. This, naturally, is also encouraged by hospital officials.

Mental health is the nationwide project of Sigma Beta Sorority. The mental health film, "The Key," was financed and produced by the sorority and is available for public showings.

Other sorority activities include an annual donation to the American Hearing Society and financial support for less fortunate Indian children in Arizona who are attempting to complete their schooling.

Any group or organization wishing to do volunteer work is urged to contact the bureau at its new offices in the Community Services Building on Franklin boulevard.

Fit Chair to Person

When you're buying a chair, look for one that fits the person who will be using it most, suggest home furnishings specialists. People come in different sizes and so need different sizes and shapes of chairs for the greatest comfort.

Spare Rod and Raise a Neurotic

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) —Spare the rod and you may have a neurotic child.

"Children like to feel their parents are in charge," said Thomas M. Poffenberger, psychologist at the University of California at Davis.

He reported that youngsters realize they do not have the maturity to regulate their own lives.

Their emotional wellbeing depends on guidance and consistent discipline so they will feel secure, Poffenberger explained. Children want to know what limits are placed on their behavior.

If children are permitted to do as they please, he said, they may begin to wonder if their parents care what becomes of them.

"Perhaps there's no greater human need then to know we're wanted," he said. "We should tell our children that we love them. We verbalize our criticism; why not our praise?"

Aleta Stricklin Wed to W. D. Koehnlein

Aleta Mae Stricklin and William D. Koehnlein Jr. were married Saturday at First Baptist Church. Dr. H. H. Savage and the Rev. W. D. Koehnlein, Methodist district superintendent, the bridegroom's father, officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. W. Wayne Stricklin of Stout street and the Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Koehnlein of Vincennes, Ind.

IN LACE AND SATIN

The bride choose a gown of Chantilly lace over satin featuring a portrait neckline accented with iridescent sequins and filled with illusion. The bouffant skirt was trimmed with sequin clusters and formed a train.

Her veil of French illusion fell from a double crown of iridescent sequins and on a lace covered Bible she carried a white orchid and stephanotis.

Mrs. Clarke Schlabach of Midland, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. She wore a ballerina-length dress of white lace over lavender taffeta and carried a crescent bouquet of lavender glamellias. Her headband was fashioned of ivy and pink roses.

MRS. WILLIAM KOEHNLEIN JR.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Philip Christiansen, the bride's sister, and Mary Koehnlein of Vincennes, sister of the bridegroom. They were dressed in ballerina length dresses of white lace over mint green taffeta and their bouquets were crescents of pink glamellias. They wore headbands of ivy and pink roses.

ASSIST BRIDEGROOM

William Paul of Chicago was best man. Ushers were Clarke Schlabach of Midland, William Gerig, Orvil Schlatter and David Eicher all of Fort Wayne, Ind.

To receive guests at a reception held in the church parlors, the bride's mother selected a street-length dress of royalty blue peau de soie with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a street-length dress of blue printed silk with a matching jacket and white accessories. Both had corsages of pink crimsonette roses.

The couple will spend their honeymoon in California where they will live. For the trip, the new Mrs. Koehnlein selected a gray sheath dress with matching duster and white accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple was graduated from Fort Wayne Bible College, Ft. Wayne, Ind. The bridegroom is a graduate student at UCLA.

Clean Kitchens Are a Must

Cleanliness in the kitchen is the first rule of a conscientious homemaker.

Fortunately hot water plus soap or detergent suds make it an easy rule to follow.

Dirty Copper Pans Can Poison Food

No matter what method, or products, you use to clean copper utensils, be sure to finish with hot soap or detergent suds and rinses. This is a good safety precaution.

The Greater New York Safety Council points out that copper utensils which are not properly cleaned can poison food with which they come in contact.

Dare to be different in an attractive way. Before your busy fall schedule gets under way, you should arrange for a new hairstyle. So perfect for the "chemise" is the bandeau or headband bob. Since the warm weather is still with us, you'll want a short comfortable haircut. If your tresses lack body, you'll want a soft, springy permanent for foundation. Dear Abbie . . .

Can't Faze Elephant With a Peashooter

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: There is a couple who have gotten to be such pests every Sunday (we live near their church unfortunately) that I hate myself for not being able to handle them better. We don't like to hurt people's feelings, so my husband and I leave the church early (we sit in the back) and rush home, go through the back door and hide in the basement. We have to be quiet like two criminals in our own home so as not to be imposed upon by this couple.

ABBY

"For a solid year they 'called on us' every Sunday and sat seven and eight hours until I either cooked them dinner or took them out. How can we get rid of them without hiding?" PESTERED

DEAR PESTERED: You can't faze an elephant with a peashooter. These people are inconsiderate, presumptuous and free-loaders. Tell them plainly that your Sundays are spoken for. If they get mad and never speak to you again, you are lucky to lose them.

"DEAR ABBY: Your letter about the little boy named Jimmy who had his wagon and tricycle run over by the retired Army officer rang a bell with me. You said this was a pretty severe way to teach a boy a lesson. About six years ago we lived in an apartment house where a little boy named Jimmy also lived. He kept his toys scattered all over the place.

"He left a roll skate on the steps and a young mother was coming down the steps and didn't see it. She tripped and fell, breaking her back. She is now paralyzed from the waist down and will be confined to a wheel chair for the rest of her life, never to walk again. Now, was this retired Army officer's 'lesson' too severe?"

JUST WONDERING

"DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother. I am 18 and people tell me I have more brains than my mother. She has been married three times and is now looking for a fourth husband. My father left her some money and the first thing she does when she meets a man is tell him about her securities, holdings and property. Her last two husbands took her for a good ride. How can a daughter advise her own mother not to rush into a fourth marriage?"

WORRIED FOR MOM

DEAR WORRIED: You'd think that after three strikes, Mom would give up the game. A mother is not inclined to take advice from her daughter—at any age. Assign a clergyman, or a respected friend to the task of advising her.

"DEAR ABBY: "How old should a bachelor be to be considered 'eligible'?"

JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST: A bachelor is considered eligible at ANY age. Where there's LIFE there's HOPE—and where there's HOPE, there's LIFE.

"DEAR ABBY: My wife is 24 and I am 33 and we have three kids. She says she wants one night a week out, so I let her go, thinking she will take in a movie with her girlfriend or something harmless like that, but now I find out that she and her girlfriend go out of town and dance with old men. I asked her about this and she said there is nothing wrong with it. Am I old-fashioned or is this the style these days?

QLD-FASHIONED HUSBAND

DEAR OLD-FASHIONED: You are NOT old-fashioned—and this is NO way for a married woman (and a mother of three) to behave if she wants to keep her marriage in one piece.

CONFIDENTIAL TO FRANKIE: You will not find scotch and soda the right "solution" for your problems. Your parish priest has more of the right answers than your bartender.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of The Pontiac Press. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If you want a collection of Abby's best letters and answers in one book, ask your book dealer to get "DEAR ABBY" for you.

Jumper Popular This Season

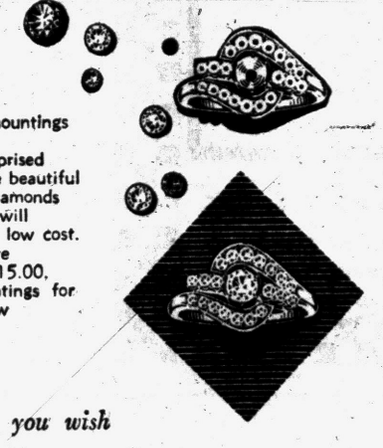

St. Louis designers say this is the season of the jumper for the younger set.

The loosely-belted low waistline — a mere band below the hipbone, or an under-the-bust trim on Empire lines mark the wide range of the waistline in this youthful style. And the jumper can be worn without blouse for late day or night.

Most Complaints Are Women's Own Fault

By RUTH MILLETT

Don't blame anybody but yourself:

If your husband forgets your wedding anniversary. A thoughtful wife subtly reminds her husband of important dates, instead of letting him forget and then acting hurt.

If your husband never wants to take you anywhere. If you make the most of your looks, so that your husband is proud to show you off, and if you are a gay and amusing companion you won't find the TV set and the easy chair unbeatable competition.

If you are bored and frustrated because your life is a dull routine. Nobody but you can shake it up and add a little interest and variety. A bored person is almost always a lazy person, who isn't willing to make the effort to make things happen.

If your husband gives you money instead of going out and selecting a gift for you, himself. If in the past you always received any gift from him with unqualified enthusiasm he would probably not have the feeling that you will be satisfied only with something you pick out.

If your children never accept anything you say without an argument. That's a pretty good indication that you've been afraid to make what you say stick.

MORE ATTRACTIVE

If you feel less attractive than you were 10 years ago. It's a woman's duty to replace youth with such lasting qualities as charm, understanding, new interests and skills. The woman who conscientiously follows this course doesn't grow less attractive as she grows older.

If you are feuding with your in-laws. It takes two to start a fight and keep it going, and a woman can get along peacefully with her in-laws if she is determined that she is going to.

If you feel that you have been a good wife but just aren't appreciated by your husband. Chances are that means you have tried to be what you think a good wife is instead of trying to do the things your husband considers important.

Too Much Clutter Not Effective

Clothes and accessories, no matter how expensive, lose their effect when they give a cluttered look.

This occurs when clothes and accessories are unrelated. Thus they draw attention to themselves rather than giving an ensemble look.

Give Children Toys All Year Round

Parents and doting relatives often overwhelm a child with toys on birthdays and at Christmas and neglect their toy needs during the rest of the year.

It is a good idea to put away a few of their toy gifts and then introduce them one at a time. Children may be confused when they're allowed to play with too many toys all at once, and will grow bored with them very quickly.

Facial Pick-Up Easily Achieved

A quick pick-up after a busy day at home or in the office can be achieved in ten or 15 minutes.

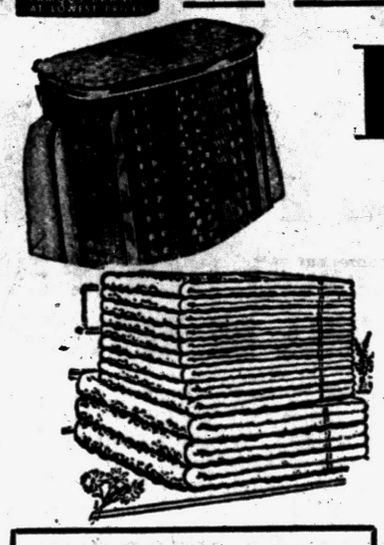

Thoroughly cleanse your face, give yourself a facial massage for five minutes. Then place cotton pads soaked in witch hazel or cold water over your eyes and lie down for another 10 minutes.

Clean Shoe Clips

Shoe clips should be as sparkling as the rest of the shoe. Often it is difficult to get into crevices around gay flowers, beads or jewels. Usually a sudsy toothbrush takes care of this task.

Both Pastors and Priests Wary of Mixed Marriages

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

When a Protestant boy falls in love with a Catholic girl, neither of them likes to be told that an inter-faith marriage is a perilous undertaking.

But that's precisely the advice they'd probably get if he consulted his pastor and she consulted her priest.

"Mixed marriages" are increasingly common in this country, where Protestant and Catholic children grow up in the same neighborhood, participate in the same community events, and often attend the same schools or colleges.

According to the official Catholic Directory, one-fourth of all marriages in Catholic churches involve "mixed" couples. The figure does not include the large number of Catholics who marry non-Catholics in civil or Protestant ceremonies.

Some inter-faith marriages work out fine. But clergymen of both faiths say a difference of religion often becomes a serious source of tension.

This assertion is supported by at least three separate surveys—in Michigan, Maryland and Washington state—which show that divorce and separation rates run about three times higher in mixed marriages than in those where husband and wife are of the same faith.

FAITH PUSHED ASIDE

Pastors and priests also are troubled by evidence that many "mixed" couples solve their problem by turning away from religion altogether.

A Catholic bishops' committee conducted a 10-year survey of this problem. It concluded that about 30 per cent of Catholics who marry non-Catholics are "lost to the faith."

A Methodist sociologist, Prof. Murry H. Leiffer of Garrett Biblical Institute, interviewed more than 400 couples who had married across religious lines. He found that one-fourth of them no longer maintained even a nominal church connection, while another fourth had not attended church in more than a year.

This tendency to sweep the "sore subject" under the rug also is reflected in the children. A YMCA study revealed that in families where both parents were Catholic, 92 per cent of their sons also were practicing Catholics. Where both parents were Protestants, 68 per cent of their sons were practicing Protestants. But in "mixed" families, only 34 per cent of the sons were practicing members of either faith.

Tigers in 'Hex City' After 3-0 Loss to Chisox

Wynn Pitches 2-Hit Shutout to Win Series

Doubleheader With A's Features Morning and Afternoon Games

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Detroit Tigers today were fighting to reclaim some respect in the town where they have received the least of it this season.

A Labor Day doubleheader with the Kansas City Athletics — a morning game followed by a lunch break and then an afternoon game — was the booking.

The Tigers came here to their "hex city" — they had won only one game in KC against seven defeats before today — with the morale handicap of the Chicago White Sox series loss.

Behind the two-hit pitching of Early Wynn, the Sox beat the Tigers 3-0 yesterday in winning the odd game of the series. It was the second shutout of Detroit of the series.

Only injured Harvey Kuenn, as a pinch-hitter in the ninth inning, and Johnny Groth, his relief man in center field, were able to connect safely off Wynn. Each got a single, Groth in the third inning.

The loss, another he didn't deserve, was Jim Bunning's, his 10th against nine victories.

Three singles and a sacrifice fly produced two Chicago runs off Bunning in the first. A hit batsman, a stolen base and another single got the third White Sox run in the third.

Allowing eight hits in eight innings, Bunning failed again in an effort to pitch his first complete game since his July 20 no-hitter at Boston.

Kuenn's single, an infield scratch, enabled him to keep position in his race with Pete Runnels of Boston for the American League batting leadership. Runnels, the leader, has a .328 average against Harvey's .325. Kuenn has been on the bench with pulled muscles in his right arm and shoulder.

Only one Tiger got past second base on Wynn as he hurled the 36th shutout of his career.

The only victory the Tigers could get in Chicago was Frank Lary's 6-3 triumph Saturday in which he helped his own cause with his second home run of the season.

Largest Squads Report at U. of M., MSU and U. of D.

Labor Day for College Grid Teams

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Labor Day means the start of football on the Michigan college scene, and most every collegiate team in the state is spending this holiday with two laboring workouts.

Since Saturday the teams have been going through physicals taking pictures and drawing equipment.

The three largest turnouts today were at the University of Michigan where 77 players reported, followed by 75 at Michigan State and 72 at the University of Detroit.

The squads at Hillsdale, Central Michigan, Eastern Michigan, Western Michigan and other smaller schools all reported today with numbers running between 45 and 65 players.

At Ann Arbor, coach Bennie Oosterbaan embarked on his 11th season as the Wolverines started drills for their 78th campaign. Big task was the repair work needed in the middle of line, between tackle and tackle where sophomores will be expected to play a big part.

To help the situation, fullback letterman Jim Byers has been moved to center position where he will be backed up by Dick Syring, Bay City sophomore.

With ex-Marine Don Deskins at 235-pounds, and Jerry Marciniak at 225 at the guards and 240 pound Willie Smith a tackle, the Wolverines could have one of the weightiest lines in its history.

Fullback John Herrnstein and ends Gary Prahst and Walt Johnson are the strong points of the Michigan camp. A local product, Johnny Walker of Walled Lake, is Herrnstein's closest competitor.

Coach Duffy Daugherty at Michigan State can do something most other coaches in the state are unable to do. He can list his starting lineup with veterans right now.

Of course from now until the season opener any of the veterans could be pushed out by some prospective sophomore.

The fullback slot was solid until Blanche Martin suffered a knee injury in the spring game and he is now unable to play football.

Don Arend and Bob Bercich are back and working at fullback, which is not short of prospects by any means. Senior Mike Panitch is leading candidate at quarterback with Dean Look and Art Johnson at the halves.

Other fullbacks include Bob Handloser, a senior; junior Bob Ricucci of Chicago, sophomore Santo Pasqualucci of Weymouth, Mass., Jim French of Corry, Pa., and Al Luplow of Saginaw.

At Brighton, U. of D. opened camp keen on improving its 6-3 record of last year. From tackle to tackle the Titans look solid, and despite several graduated veterans, the backfield appears strong but not deep in experience.

Quarterback looks sound with Lou Faoro in the primary slot and Bay City's Art Trombley close behind.

Bruce Maher, a classy runner, and ex-quarterback Bill Dando, along with speedy Bill Collins make up a potent running game. Fullback is a question mark but not shy of good prospects.

Coach Wally Fromhart admits more depth on this squad than at any other time in his stay at U. of D.

Michigan's lone 1957 bowl representative, Hillsdale, will still be the class of the state small college ranks.

Muddy Waters is minus seven regulars including quarterback Doug Maison, but Earl O'Shaughnessy of Keego Harbor and Walt Poe, captain from Pontiac, return to pace the running attack.

Jim Larkin of Waterford will help the tackle spot and Jim Reynolds of Walled Lake is a returnee at end.

Central Michigan is boosting Walter Beach of Pontiac for little All-America honors and the Chips are looking up after a disappointing 1957 campaign.

Beach, who rushed for 1,144 yards and 11 touchdowns, will team with speedy Jerry O'Neil at halfback. Beach is a junior and O'Neil only a sophomore.

Coach Bill Kelly has come up with a crop of outstanding names from Michigan prep circles including tackle Jim Samec of Ferndale and Bill Antico, a guard from Clawson.

Kerry Keating, ace back at Eastern Michigan, is gone, as is the rest of the Huron starting backfield. Left hander Gerry Wedge of Birmingham has the inside track at quarterback.

Coach Fred Trosko, former running mate of Tommy Harmon at Michigan, still has a good core of linemen returning.

Western, under coach Merl Schlosser for the second year, has one of the brightest backs in school history in junior Lovell Coleman who scored 10 TDs last year.

Veteran ends, experienced tackles, including senior Bill Watkinson of Birmingham, and a wealth of material at center make the picture bright for the Broncos.

Rolla Anderson at Kalamazoo expects a "green" squad and Olivet, badly beaten in nearly every game last season, will call a one year moratorium on football after this season.

Alma is shy of lettermen; Hope has lost its entire starting backfield, but Adrian is looking up this season.

Wayne State, last school to start with drills opening Friday, Sept. 5, lost several players among second liners but 17 lettermen are still back including halfbacks Don Pentecost and Jim MacMillian and fullback Hartford Smith.

First college teams to see action will be Central Michigan playing Saturday, Sept. 13, at Northern Michigan.

George Washington visits U. of D. Friday night, Sept. 19, to start the major college season in Michigan.

Yankees, Braves Now Mark Time

Turley Wins 20th

By United Press International

A mere .500 pace—12 victories in 24 games—should be enough to put both the Milwaukee Braves and New York Yankees in their second straight World Series.

The Braves reached the Labor Day milestone with an 8½ game lead when Carlton Willey shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-0, yesterday while the Yankees retained their 10½ game spread when Bob Turley scored his 20th victory in a 7-6 triumph over the Washington Senators.

Twelve more wins would give The Braves 89 for the season and mean either the Pirates or San Francisco Giants would have to take 21 of their final 25 games to tie. A dozen wins would increase the Yankee total to 92 and mean the Chicago White Sox would have to go at 23-2 closing pace to tie.

Willey, brought up from Wichita in late June, pitched a five-hitter and struck out nine in raising his record to 9-4. A single by Red Schoendienst, an infield out, Ron Kline's wild pitch and another infield out produced the Braves' first run in the first inning and Wes Covington singled home their other run in the seventh.

Turley became the Majors' first 20-game winner of the season although he was knocked out of the box in the seventh inning. Ryne Duren, Johnny Kucks and finally Murry Dickson were rushed to his relief before the Yankees nailed it down. Hank Bauer hit a two-run homer and Yogi Berra knocked in three runs with a double and a single to lead New York's nine-hit attack.

The Giants tied the Pirates for second place when they crushed the Los Angeles Dodgers, 14-2, the Cincinnati Redlegs swept the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-2 and 7-3, and the Chicago Cubs beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-5, in the other National League game.

In the other American League activity, the Boston Red Sox shaded the Baltimore Orioles, 3-2, and the Cleveland Indians scored an 11-inning, 3-2 win over the Kansas City Athletics.

Bob Schmidt hit a grand slam homer in the first inning and knocked in a total of six runs as the Giants beat the Dodgers for the 13th time in 17 tries.

Harvey Haddix won his eighth game and Don Newcombe his fifth as the Redlegs ran their longest winning streak of the season to six games.

NO. 20 — Bob Turley of the Yankees became the first in the Majors to win 20 games yesterday with a 7-6 victory over the Washington Senators.

Utility Man? — Sure Is, He Plays All Positions

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "Jim Pyburn can do anything."

Coaches said it. Major league scouts said it. Yesterday Pyburn did it.

The versatile left fielder for the Louisville Colonels of the American Assn. played all nine positions in Louisville's final home game of the season.

The last place Colonels lost 6-5 in ten innings to Indianapolis, but not because Pyburn wasn't in there pitching—and catching, and so on.

The rugged 25-year-old bonus player, signed by the Baltimore Orioles in 1955 for $48,000 started on the mound and faced just three men. All popped out to the infield.

In the following innings, Pyburn played catcher, first base, second, shortstop, third, right field, center field and left field. Each player he replaced moved to left field, then back to his starting position in the next inning.

Pyburn had five chances in the field. He made four putouts and one assist.

At the plate, the Birmingham, Ala., ace delivered two hits, drove in one run and scored once.

"We wanted it to go on the record books that Jim had played every position in the park," Manager Del Wilber explained. "This was also an attempt to let Louisville fans see Mr. Utility in the League in action."

"I don't mind where I play, just as long as I'm in there," Pyburn said before the game.

Pyburn gained national fame as a football player at Auburn in 1953-54.

He played end and was selected for honorable mention on The Associated Press All-America team in 1953.

Because of his excellence as a college football player, Pyburn was moved from behind the plate, a position he had played in high school, to the comparative safety of third base on the college baseball team.

The football coach did not want his star end's hands bruised catching a hardball.

After he was signed by Baltimore, Pyburn played a few games at third base, but was soon moved to left field. He played with the Orioles for two years, then was shifted to the minors.

This year with the Colonels, Pyburn is hitting .287. He has hit four home runs and driven in 46 runs.

Hamtramck Entry Ousted

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Miami roared to its third straight victory Sunday night in the PONY Grad World Series for boys 15 and 16 years old. The Florida entry edged Hamtramck, Mich., 2-1.

Miami stands 3-0; Hamtramck has two wins to go with the loss.

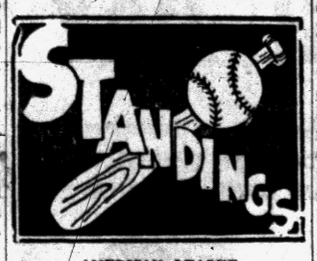

The low scoring battle followed a 7-1 pounding that Proviso of Maywood, Ill., administered in knocking Newburgh, N.Y., out of the series.

Ferree Leader at Vancouver

VANCOUVER, B. C. (UPI) — Bursting with confidence after three consecutive rounds in the 60's, young Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N. C., went to the tee today in the final round of the $50,000 Vancouver Centennial golf tournament holding a four-stroke lead over the field.

The 27-year-old ex-North Carolina collegian is playing such a sound game in this tourney that even his closest competitors predict that he'll win the $6,400 first prize — which would more than double his winnings for the entire year.

Ferree shot a 69 Saturday to go with his second round of 61 and opening 69 for a 199 total after 54 holes—17 under par. That kept him four strokes ahead of Fred Hawkings, El Paso, Tex., who had a third round 65 for 203; and five shots in front of the big names; Billy Casper, Ken Venturi and Dow Finsterwald.

Bears Top NFL Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Anyone around the National Football League who thinks the once feared Chicago Bears are kindly bruins had better do a double - take on the exhibition standings today.

Since George Halas, the original Papa Bear, resumed command they have not lost. Halas has his bruins atop the standings with a 3-0 mark in exhibition play, adding Pittsburgh to the list of victims, 17-10 Saturday.

Halas has returned to the NFL wars after a two year absence during which time Paddy Driscoll took command. When the Bears failed to impress, Papa George jumped back as head of the lair.

In Sunday's only NFL activity San Francisco turned on a awesome display of power, romping over the Chicago Cardinals 55-31 at San Francisco. Philadelphia plays the Green Bay Packers at Green Bay today in the only Labor Day activity.

MacKay Beaten in Net Upset

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (UPI)—Barry MacKay's unexpected early defeat in the U.S. Amateur championships was regarded by officials today as a boost instead of a knock for American Tennis.

MacKay's 23rd birthday and his Davis Cup ambitions both were jolted yesterday when 19-year old Chris Crawford sent him stumbling out of the National in the second round. The tall, blond youngster from Piedmont, Calif., walloped MacKay, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

But U.S. lawn tennis officials, while surprised, weren't too pessimistic as a result of the Stanford resultant lowering of an off-form MacKay's prestige.

Ex-Big League Star, Succumbs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frank Demaree, 48, former big league baseball star, died Saturday night after a long illness.

Hospital attendants said death was due to an intestinal hemorrhage.

Demaree's career in baseball spanned the years from 1930 through 1950. He played for the Chicago Cubs, Boston Braves, New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals in the National League.

WASHINGTON — The Federal Government collected about two-thirds more in budget receipts in the last 10 years than it did in the entire preceeding 159 years. Revenues in the 10-year period totaled 554 billion, or 221 billion more than was collected from 1789 through the 1947 fiscal year.

Ann Blyth Plans Career as Singer in Nightclubs

By JAMES BACON
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ann Blyth, long famed as the screen's "little lady," is embarking on a new career as a saloon singer.

Of course, saloon is only the trade name, as Ann's itinerary includes some of the fancier eating and drinking palaces extant. She kicks off with the Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles, then the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas and then on to New York and Miami Beach.

The fact that she played Helen Morgan in her latest picture had nothing to do with her decision to go into nightclubs.

"All the movie scripts offered wanted me to go to Europe and for such long times," she explains. "I just felt that I couldn't be separated from my family that long."

Ann's husband is Dr. James McNulty, a Los Angeles obstetrician. He just can't pack up his practice and join his wife. She broke in her act last weekend in Phoenix, Ariz., and her husband couldn't even make it for opening night. A baby that arrived a few weeks ahead of schedule interfered.

The nightclub money is big and, with the exception of New York and Miami, all five McNultys can stay together. Ann's husband will take his vacation while she's in Vegas.

"I think long separations, no matter how understanding the husband or wife, have broken up more Hollywood marriages than any other single factor. No script is worth that," she says.

This past summer, the big Las Vegas resorts battled over the influx of nudity in some strip hotels. By coincidence, all the hotels on the east side of U.S. 91 took a stand against nudity while all the nude shows were on the west side.

The eastside Sahara, making a plea for solid family entertainment, induced Ann to get into the nightclub business. That and the European scripts helped her to decide.

Most girl singers in nightclubs nowadays have gimmicks. One even took a bath on stage. Some, like Marlene Dietrich and Zsa Zsa Gaborr, wear transparent gowns that detract from off-key voices.

Ann has the most unusual gimmick of all.

"I just intend to sing," she says. "I think that audiences may find it refreshing for a change."

Public Library Takes a 'Guess' for Inventory

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Public Library has estimated it owns 27,500,000 different items but admits it isn't the slightest bit sure of the count.

Officials describe the figure as an "educated guess," pointing out, for example, that they measured with a ruler to determine that there were 4,570,000 clippings, pamphlets, pictures, maps and other "miscellaneous" items.

The Library also believes it owns 6,400,000 books, 67,000 phonograph records, 34,000 film and microfilm reels, 8,000 microprint cards, 11,000 fine prints, 125 globes and 67,000 Braille and recorded books as well as periodicals and music for the blind.

The "educated guess" included another 270,000 pamphlets and other unbound items, 182,000 unbound music scores, 3,020,000 broadsides, posters, photographs, prints and slides, and 9,003,000 manuscript letters and documents.

Race Track in France on Site of Old Monastery

PARIS—France's most famous race track, 100-year-old Longchamp, lies on a meadow in Paris' Bois de Boulogne near the Seine.

Formerly it was the site of a monastery founded in 1250 by Isabelle of France, sister of St. Louis. On the north edge of the track can still be seen a windmill that served the monastery.

Apples Keep Perfectly

TACOMA, Wash. — Pomologists — apple specialists — have discovered that if apples are stored at 31 to 32 degrees in a humidity of 90 per cent they can be removed from storage several months later as fresh as when picked.

The first European explorer to set foot in New Jersey was Henry Hudson in 1609.

How to Smooth the Way for 'New Kid in Class'

By LEIF ERICKSON

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Are your kids going to a new school this year?

If you're one of the many American families moving to a new job or business assignment for Dad, you'll be thinking—or should be—of how you can help your child get along in his new school.

The impact on children of moving varies widely according to age.

Adjustment is easiest in the primary and elementary grades. Young children probably are the most completely democratic of humans. Unless he proves himself a complete stinker, they'll be interested in a new child and will welcome him.

But if your boy or girl is of junior high school age, you should relaize that children in early teens can be heartlessly exclusive. In their social awkwardness, many children at this age just aren't sure of how to go about making a new friend, even if inwardly wanting to. A newcomer can suffer painful emotional hurt.

High school students are growing or have grown out of the early teeners' lack of social confidence. A new boy or girl probably will find it easier to be accepted than in junior high.

Don't be alarmed by these tribal traits of youth.

School men agree that children, generally, are pretty flexible as social creatures. They likely will adjust more quickly and better in a new community than parents. But Vice Principal Ralph Mason of Palo Alto High School, Vice Principal Dan Stone of Jordan Junior High School, and Principal William P. Johnson of Walter Hays Elementary School say there are steps parents can take to smooth the way.

The essential first step for the parent is to make sure the old school provides a transfer report on your boy or girl to the new school. The transfer report will guide the new principal and with classmates of matching teachers in fitting your child in achievement levels.

A girl once came to Jordan Junior High from her family's overseas assignment in Tokyo without a classifying report on her previous school achievement. She had studied under American teachers there in a school maintaining higher grade achievement levels than a normal public school.

She found herself repeating work she'd already had. She was bored. Her classmates resented her attitude of superiority and rejected her as an unwelcome "brain."

The reverse mistake of a child being assigned to a grade or group beyond his achievement level can cause greater trouble. Students in high school should arrange, if at all possible, to complete their school year or semester before shifting to the family's new town.

Mid-term moves can break up a student's progress in high school subjects, particularly in mathematics or the sciences. Finishing a school term before a move is less important in elementary and junior high school.

Other tips:

The mother, or both parents if possible, should make an advance visit with the child to the new school and meet the principal and teacher.

A mother should check with the teacher or neighbor children on the school's clothes fashions.

If a child shows unhappiness with a new school, try quickly to find out the reason, if you can. Consult the teacher for help in working out a problem while it's still small.

Artificial teeth were considered quite fashionable by early Roman women.

Police Reduced to Tears as He Pulls the Trigger

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (UP) — While on a patrol run, Deputy Sheriff Lowell Spooner accidentally discharged a tear gas gun in the front seat of the police car.

Deputy Leonard Finch hastily ran the automobile onto the highway shoulder and both officers dived out.

"Call for another car," said Finch.

"Call yourself," said Spooner. "I'm crying so hard I can't see our car."

They finally made it tearfully back to the sheriff's office after seven airing-out stops.

Proposal Involves Isolated, Burned Section

Copper Mining in U. P. 'Porkies'?

By EDWIN J. JOHNSON
Ironwood Daily Globe

The proposed exploration for copper ore in the northwest section of the Porcupine Mountains State Park could have no harmful effects on the wilderness beauty of the area.

This unqualified conclusion cannot be avoided by any fair-minded person visiting the area.

The park has an area of 58,046 acres, or more than 90 square miles. The area on which a lease is being sought is 933 acres, or 1.6 per cent of the total. The area extends from Union Bay on the east to a point west of the mouth of the Big Presque Isle River, more than 20 miles along the shore of Lake Superior; and inland from the lake about eight miles.

The writer visited the isolated area in the park recently, in company with several representatives of the Ironwood Chamber of Commerce and three geologists, representatives of the mining company seeking a lease for exploration and mining, if any merchantable ore should be found.

The geologists had been invited to show chamber representatives the exact spot where a mineralized strata of rock is exposed on the shore of Lake Superior.

The geological formation — a part of the Nonesuch Shale—dips steeply under Lake Superior. It is visible for only a few yards on the lake shore, at the water's edge or in the shallow water close to shore.

Any exploration that is done in this formation—by diamond drilling—would have to be in the lake, probably from a rig of the type used by oil companies in offshore drilling. This would be the only way to get a preliminary cross-section of the geological formation, to determine whether there would be enough mineral content to make mining economically feasible.

For the exploration, the Bear Creek Mining Co., subsidiary of Kennecott Copper Corp., has asked for a lease on 5,000 acres of Lake Superior bottom. For the base of operations and for a subsequent shaft and plant construction, the company seeks a lease on 933 acres of land on the shore.

Bear Creek has asked for a lease, but if the Conservation Commission approves leasing of the area, it would grant the lease to the highest bidder, which would not necessarily be Bear Creek.

The acreage sought on shore is now covered with a dense growth of poor quality aspen (poplar), worthless brush, and golden rod and other weeds and grasses in the open areas.

This site is at least six miles from the Lake of the Clouds, which is in the deep valley below the escarpment and is the only part of the park reached by the great majority of tourists, besides the Union Bay shoreline and campgrounds.

What is not generally known to many persons who have been led to believe that the Porcupine Mountains wilderness is one great stand of magnificent virgin timber is that one-third of the entire park area has been logged over and burned over in years gone by.

Actually, one-third of the Porcupine Mountains State Park was logged before it was acquired by the State of Michigan. A great deal of this logged and burned area was on the north slope of the hill, north and west of Highway M107, the dead-end road which tourists travel to reach the escarpment overlooking Lake of the Clouds.

Anyone who pauses to look northward from the vicinity of the old mine adit on the way to the summit can still see great numbers of dead tree stubs, evidences of fire.

The proposed exploration and mining site is approximately mid-way between the mouth of the Big Carp River and Lone Rock, which is a roosting place for herring gulls and is streaked white with their droppings.

Between the lake and the upward slope of the hills which are known as the Porcupine Mountains, is a comparatively flat expanse which geologists say is made up of ancient beaches of pre-historic seas.

A couple of hundred yards inland are openings which appear to be from old logging camp sites or log landings. The tree growth is mostly poplar, much of which is small and scrubby looking.

Foresters have told The Daily Globe that there is little likelihood of any other tree growth for a long time to come and that any new tree growth is likely to be shoots from poplar roots.

It probably would be safe to guess that at least 200 years would be needed for any worthwhile forest growth to develop.

tokfywmid- m ....

Opponents of the proposed mine lease downstate do not realize, apparently, that the people of the western section of the Upper Peninsula have an even greater love for the scenic beauty and the wilderness of the Porcupines than any downstate member of a garden club or bird watchers society.

The people in Gogebic County and the Ontonagen country love this region so much that they have chosen to live here. They know the area and they know that in this particular instance, the possible development of a copper mining and smelting industry is not incompatible with the preservation of the true wilderness of the Porcupine Mountains.

New industry is urgently needed in Gogebic and Ontonagon Counties to provide jobs for the people and to help provide a broader tax base for local governments.

A great deal is being said in Michigan these days about industrial development, industrial climate and the encouragement of new industry.

The proposed exploration for copper is not something to be dismissed as likely to result in only temporary mining activity.

No man can say now how extensive any ore body would be until there has been thorough exploration by diamond drilling.

Power of Love Works 'Miracle'; Mute Speaks

PIETRASANTA, Italy (UPI) — After 14 years as a mute, a young man here recently recovered the power of speech through a "miracle" worked by the girl he loved.

The first words uttered by 22-year-old Mauro Genovesi, who was struck dumb at the age of eight when his family's home was destroyed in an Allied bombing raid, were: "I have come back."

He spoke them to Maria Ciambrelli, the girl who had told him several hours before, "I don't want to marry a mute."

Maria wasn't being cruel. Doctors had told her that Mauro lost his ability to speak because of a shock and that another shock might give him his voice back.

So she decided to supply the shock, by rejecting her sweetheart and telling him: "When you can talk, come back to me. I will be waiting."

It was all that Mauro needed.

Chief's Car Burns Outside Fire House

BODEGA BAY, Calif. (UPI) — A fire in the fire commissioner's car parked outside the fire house disrupted a meeting of th fire department women's auxiliary one night recently.

The vice president, Mrs. S. S. Darling, quickly showed why she had been elected to a position of leadership in the auxiliary of the Bodega Bay Fire Department. Mrs. Darling spotted the flames first, yelled "Fire!", rushed outside and extinguished the blaze.

Smoke (and water) damage was confined to the front seat of the car of Fire Commissioner William Garden, who had been attending the auxiliary meeting to bring the women up to date on fire fighting techniques.

Chaplain Is Mixing Magic With Gospel

FORT CARSON, Colo. (UPI)—Magic, once thought to be the work of the devil, is being used by a chaplain at Fort Carson, Colo., to make his sermons more interesting.

First Lt. Robert Anderson said that while he was a student at Northern Baptist Seminary in Chicago, he enrolled in a course called "Gospel Magic."

While lecturing to church groups and civic and youth organizations, Chaplain Anderson found an occasional trick made the audience more receptive to his message. Later, he tried it at Fort Carson and was an immediate hit.

Bridge at Bay City on U. S. 23 to Close

LANSING (UP)—The State Highway Department announced today that the Lafayette St. bridge carrying U.S. 23 over the Saginaw River in Bay City will be closed for six to seven weeks starting Wednesday.

Traffic will be routed over the U.S. 23 business route to permit reconstruction of the floor of the bridge.

Warning Employers of Personnel Tests

CHICAGO (UPI) — An authority on the hiring of executive personnel warns the nation's industry and business firms to beware of the widely used "Personnel Tests."

Leon D. Barton, President of Cadillac Associates, an executive procurement firm, said:

"So far as I know, no test has yet been devised which can give a potential employer the answer to the question, 'Should I hire this man?' or to the far more important question, 'If I hire him, will he work?' "

Barton believes many business firms use the personnel tests because they are uncertain of their own judgment in selecting men.

With 30 years experience in the field, Barton asserts that personnel tests may reflect a man's aptitudes and interests, but he stresses they certainly cannot determine his personality, his mental attitudes, his drives or his ambitions.

Leads 10 on Long Trip Down Colorado River

SALT LAKE CITY (UP) — Dr. Jesse D. Jennings recently led a 10-man party on a 150-mile trip down the Colorado River, but the jaunt wasn't for pleasure.

Dr. Jennings, head of the anthropology department at the University of Utah, made the trip as part of a long-range project to salvage remains of prehistoric Utah dwellers from an area that eventually will be submerged by waters of Glen Canyon Dam.

They See Them, Too

TOLEDO, Ohio (UP) — Parasiliti's shoe repair shop displays a small aquarium and a sign saying, "See the Invisible Fish." Operator Sam Parasiliti says the aquarium contains only water, but draws countless sightseers.

Georgia is the largest state in area east of the Mississippi river.

Nab Boat, Cars, Man in Parrot Smuggling

Federal agents arrested Dean and confiscated the boat, his car dan a bus allegedly used in the operation.

Policeman Dies of Gun Mishap

Bullet From His Own Revolver Proves Fatal in Accident

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Policeman William Long, who was accidentally wounded by a bullet from his own gun, died yesterday despite five blood changes within 30 hours.

Long, 35, had given his service revolver to Mrs. Wilma Zabel, part owner of a bar who wanted a gun-in-holster picture taken of herself Friday at a Wild West party.

As she drew the gun to return it, it fired.

Police and civilians donated 94 pints of blood after doctors said there was a 50-50 chance Long would live. He had been given 79 pints before he died and 16 are the average human supply.

Long and his wife had taken two unloaded, ivory handled revolvers to the bar but neither would fit the holster Mrs. Zabel wanted photographed.

Steals Policeman's Gun

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Somewhere in the Philadelphia area there is a robber who has a gun and had better be traveling. He broke into the home of Police Commissioner Thomas J. Gibbons, who was fishing at the seashore, and lifted a .38 caliber service revolver.

Queries of Children, Parents Stump Pros

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you bored with the long holiday weekend?

Well, then, maybe you'd like to play a little game to see just how smart you are.

Every year the research staff of "Our Wonderful World," an 18-volume children's reference work, receives thousands of questions from parents and kids.

Some of the questions fascinate the experts who often, for one reason or another, find them a bit hard to answer—adequately, anyway.

Want to test your own knowledge? All right, get out your pencil and paper, and see how you'd do on thse actual sample questions:

"How many grains of corn will a goose eat in 30 days?"

"I am an undertaker. Please tell me how I can attract and keep business."

"Send me information on how to spot a Communist. Please rush."

"How many Adam's apples has a giraffe got?"

"Are there any good uses for lightning?"

"Why does a hypodermic needle have a hole?"

"I would like some information on bugs like mother found in her flour. Are they wheat germs?"

"I have heard that on expeditions in the Himalayan Mountains there were encountered another race of people called the Abdominal Snow Man. Who are they?"

"I want to know what a Democrat or Republican considers himself to be."

"I am to give a report on 'beheading.' Any information you can give me on what actually causes death after a beheading?"

"I would like to ask a question. What does love mean? I am 13 years old. I can't figer it out. Mom doesn't know either."

"How can we know just where to draw the line on worry?"

"Please furnish me with all available information on the following subject: Ways, means and methods used in cheating in the game of poker. P.S. I have been took a few times lately, in a friendly game at the local club, and I want to know how they do it."

"Is fire hot? What are the latest ideas on this?"

"Why does a baby wet its diaper as soon as changed?"

"I would like some information about Vladimir Horowitz, Russian pianist. I would like to know if he does the playing for Liberace."

"What did the people of B.C. call their years? They could not have called it B.C. because they didn't know Christ was coming."

"Describe a typical day in the lives of Adam and Eve."

"I would like a research report on phobias—how many there are and also their names. I have 21, but they tell me there are many, many more."

After you have finished this quiz, do me a favor, will you? Don't send the answers to me. I don't feel up to grading thm. Send them to Harvard.

TV Can Help or Harm—It's Up to Parents, PTAs

Breathes there a man with sou so dead, who to his family has never said: "If you kids don't turn off that darn TV I'm gonna take an axe to it"?

But television is here to stay. Like your mother-in-law, there's little to do but learn to live with it.

Is it good? Dr. Harold G. Shane of Northwestern University thinks so—with reservations.

"Television has brought the world right into the living room, and it's actually changing children's ability to learn. Time and space have been telescoped for the kids. In one evening they can watch the adventures of Robin Hood, and take a trip to the moon with Disney. The Wild West is as familiar to them as the corner grocery store."

HE'S AGAINST IT

Is it bad? Dr. William C. Kvaraceus of Boston University thinks so—with reservations.

"Television," he said, "is a prime example of the new American culture of worklessness. It's the easiest form of entertainment ever devised. You just sit—and absorb sights and sounds.

"Our kids watch television, and it has to have an affect on them. For instance, we know that, even in the so-called adult Westerns, the good guy always wins—but only after he has broken up all the furniture, shot up the joint, and given the bad guys a working over with his fists.

"What this does is show our kids that you can solve your problems with violence."

So what do we do?

The National Congress of Parents and Teachers has been keeping a sharp eye on television for quite a few years. It has come up with some suggested guides for evaluating TV programs, and some ideas on what to do about moraly objectionable programs.

But the PTA says that the appraisal of a TV program should be done on a local level—by parents, children and organizations such as the local PTA's.

Fifty people complaining about a program will exert more pressure on a television station than a committee representing several hundred people.

DON'T TALK—ACT

If you have a complaint, the PTA says, let it be known to the local station and the network, if any. And it adds "be sure to state the station and network over which sponsor, and the hour and date on which the program was received."

Here are some of the guild lines the PTA suggests might be followed in determining whether a television program is all right for your children:

1. Does it appeal to his age level?

It's good if it gives information or entertainment related to real-life interests and situations. It's bad if it's dull, boring, or not related to the child's real life.

2. Does it meet the needs for entertainment and action?

It's good if it deals with wholesome adventure, humor, fantasy or suspense. It's bad if it is emotionally disturbing and overstimulating, if it places unnecessary emphasis on cruelty and violence, or is loud, crude and vulgar.

3. Does it encourage worthwhile ideals, values and beliefs?

It's good if it upholds proper standards of behavior, promotes democratic and spiritual values, respect for law, decency and service. It's bad if it glamorizes crime, indecency, intolerance, violence.

Congregation Quits Brewery for New Church

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The money was raised. The new church is ready.

So yesterday the congregation of The Prince of Peace Lutheran church held final services in its temporary place of worship — a brewery tap room-cafeteria.

Pastor Donald Schneider's sermon said in part:

"To some people it has probably seemed strange that we have worshipped in a brewery and yet the life of Christ is filled with many strange events."

Last week, in brief ceremonies, the congregation thanked brewery officials for use of the room the past two years. The church never owned a buiding until now.

To Try Over-Snow Crossing Next Summer

Soviets Plan Antarctic Exploration

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Soviet Union is making sensational plans for Antarctic exploration in the next summer season according to reports reaching here.

The program includes an over-snow crossing of the Antarctic continent from the present Mirny station by way of the South Pole to the coast of the Bellingshausen Sea, on a route of which the greater part has never been traced. The total distance would be between 2,300 and 2,400 miles.

The United States has a station at the South Pole at which the Russian party presumably would call.

According to other reports, the Russians also hope during next summer to establish a station at the so-called "pole of inaccessibility," never before reached, and a coastal station in a region known generally as Queen Maud Land, somewhere between present stations set up by Norway and Belgium.

The Russian trans-continental traverse, if accomplished, would be of extraordinary geographical and potential political importance because the Bellinghausen Coast is virtually unreachable by marine routes.

The sea is named for Capt. Thaddeus Bellinghausen, leader of a Russian expedition sponsored by Alexander I and the Russian navy in the years 1819-1821.

The Russian expedition did not reach the Antarctic mainland but discovered several islands in Antarctic seas which have since been the historical basis for Russia's active attention to that part of the world.

Consequently, if the Russians reach the Bellingshausen Coast by overland route the event would strengthen Moscow's position if and when the question of territorial claims in Antarctica requires international decisions.

Moscow has not asserted territorial claims on the Antarctic mainland, but her ultimate intentions are not yet known internationally. Meanwhile the large-scale participation of Soviet expeditions in the International Geophysical Year program in Antarctica has given a substantial background of exploration and scientific investigations to whatever position she might take upon territorial claims.

Experts, therefore, believe that Russian Antarctic projects will get the lion's share of international attention during 1959. Twelve nations have revealed either active or potential interest in Antarctica by scientific work during the International Geophysical Year. Officially, the IGY expires Dec. 31.

The experts believe that the political implications of the Russian activities in the 1958-59 Antarctic summer will be greatly reduced if the 12 countires can reach agreement proposed by the United States for an Antarctic conference which would sidestep territorial questions in favor of international scientific cooperation.

President Eisenhower on May 3 announced a co-operation project by which 12 nations especially interested in Antarctic scientific investigations, including Russia, would hold a conference concerning co-operation after expiration of the IGY.

The proposal, in effect, recommended that Antarctica would become a great laboratory open to all nations for scientific or other peaceful purposes. The present legal "status quo" in Antarctica would continue during the life of the proposed treaty.

Preliminary replies to the proposal established a basis for negotiations among the 12 countries which besides the United States were Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Chile, France, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, Union of South Africa, the Soviet Union and the United Kingdom.

Beyond genial indications of hope that an Antarctic conference will meet and reach some agreement before year-end, responsible quarters have been extremely secretive concerning the progress of the negotiations.

6 Muscles Control Moving of Each Eye

ST. LOUIS — The movement of each human eye is controlled by six tiny muscles working together with an intricate mechanism that makes both eyes move parallel to each other, up or down, right or left.

Another wonderful thing about the eye is its ability to perceive colors and dimensions.

If man wanted to duplicate the eye's adaptability, it would take a camera with 40 different kinds of film capable of being changed at split-second intervals.

Rockefeller Tells of Plan to Shrink Irving Estate

TARRYTOWN, N. Y. (UPI) — John D. Rockefeller Jr. has announced plans to tear down 21 rooms of the rambling 41-room mansion on what once was Washington Irving's Sunnyside Estate.

Rockefelelr, who has spent more than one million dollars on Sunnyside as a public shrine to Irving, has decided that the present 41-room structure is not authentic and plans to reduce the building to the 14-room "snuggery" that Irving himself occupied. The other rooms were added by descendants of the writer.

Endorses Aid for Parochials

Noted Catholic Teacher Feels Schools Require State Subsidies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A prominent Catholic educator today endorsed a plan under which state governments would subsidize parochial schools and supervise their secular classes.

Dr. Charles J. Donahue, professor of English at Fordham University, said state subsidization of non-religious courses would be "most realistically in accord with the American pluralistic pattern of handling the question of religion and state power."

Donahue delivered his endorsement in a speech prepared for a symposium of the American Psychological Assn. which is holding its annual conference here. The plan was offered by another speaker, Prof. Robert F. Creegan of the Teachers College of the State University of New York, at Albany.

An authority on religious pluralism, Donahue said the present arrangement under which religious schools receive little or no public financial assistance has caused "inequities and frictions."

He noted that supporters of parochial schools must "pay their full share in taxes to support a state education which they sincerely feel is incompletely suited to the particular needs of their children."

Such taxpayers recognize that state education is "the core of our national educational effort," Donahue said, "and that the common good demands that it dispose of means wholly adequate to its task."

GOOD FIT, YOUR HONOR — Donning the legal robe he will henceforth wear on the Oakland County Circuit bench is newly appointed Judge William John Beer, assisted by John L. Dwyer, court officer for the late Judge George B. Hartrick.

William J. Beer Sworn In as County Circuit Judge

William John Beer, after an earlier "dress rehearsal" has been sworn in officially as Oakland County's new circuit judge.

Beer, 49, benefited from an unscheduled oath taking Thursday morning in order to sit in on hearing a petition for a recommended grand jury.

But later, a formal ceremony was held, complete with a robe (borrowed for the occasion from Judge H. Russel Holland) and a crowd of about 100 to witness the event.

Judge Beer replied "I do" to Chief Deputy County Clerk Wilfred S. Cooney Jr. who administered the oath. Then John L. Dwyer, court officer for the late Judge George B. Hartrick, stepped forward and helped the new judge into his black robe.

Beer, for 28 years a practicing attorney, for the most part in Pontiac, was appointed by Gov. Williams to fill the vacancy created by the death Aug. 12 of Judge Hartrick.

Governor Candidate in New England Dies

BOSTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. George Fingold, Republican candidate for governor of Massachusetts, died yesterday of a stroke. He was 49.

Fingold made his first major speech Saturday after a six-week halt in his campaign caused by a collapse in his office six weeks ago.

His death leaves the party with no candidate with the primary election but eight days away.

Primary ballots with Fingold's name on them already have been printed. Some officials expressed belief there is insufficient time for a reprinting job. Republican voters may have to express their choice by write-in or sticker votes.

OUTWARD TO THE STARS

(13) Man Into Space

By Don Oakley and Ralph Lane

The date could be in the 1960s. For years now, unmanned satellites of varying sizes and types have been circling the Earth. Instrument rockets to and around the Moon no longer make headlines. Improved rocket planes like the X-15 have pushed farther into the fringes of space, achieving near orbital flight. By this time, a man in the nose cone of a missile has possibly been shot into space for a few minutes and landed safely.

Now, at last, the stage is set for the first manned satellite to be launched.

(1) It will probably be a three-stage vehicle, towering some 20 stories in height. Artist's conception above is based upon state of present-day fuels and technical knowledge.

(2) This two-man third stage is essentially a high performance rocket plane, capable of both atmospheric and space flight. Its wings have outer layers of heat-resistant material and inner layers of insulation and refrigerant fluid. Their large area will provide lift in rarefied atmosphere when craft returns to Earth and help dissipate heat caused by friction. Rockets at wing tips swivel 360 degrees. They will be used to correct plane's direction in airless space, for slowing down when craft is ready to drop out of orbit and for acceleration, if necessary, upon landing. Small compressed air or rocket nozzles in nose, wings and rudder will also be used for minor corrections in direction.

(3) Throughout the day and early evening dozens of ground crew personnel have labored to ready the ship. Finally all fuel tanks have been topped off. Each of the hundreds of instruments and parts has been tested and retested. All items check out. The countdown reaches 10...5...4...3...2...1. The first-stage motors thunder and a great blaze lights up the launching area as the first rocket to carry men on a sustained flight into space begins its journey.

Next: Men in Orbit.

Should Girls Start Education Before Boys?

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Should boys and girls start to school at the same age?

Definitely not, says Dr. Frank R. Pauly, veteran Tulsa educator who has explored the question in years of research into the progress of the sexes in grades up to high school.

If Jack is to keep up with Jill in the classroom, Pauly maintains, he should be from five six months older.

Pauly's studies show boys are outmatched by girls of the same age in learning capacity from the start of their schooling through the eighth grade. After that, he says, the girls' supremacy declines and boys finally catch up at college level.

Pauly says his findings call for a more realistic approach to the matter of entrance ages for the nation's schools.

"The fact that ages 5 and 6 are traditional for entrance to kindergarten and the first grade does not make it correct," Pauly declares.

He contends the starting age for boys should be raised, or perhaps that for girls lowered.

"If the entering age for boys were raised six months throughout the country," he says, "it would almost certainly give the boys a better break with respect to school failures during all later years and particularly lessen 'drop outs' in high school."

A school man 41 years, Pauly recently retired as director of research for Tulsa's public schools. He began his study on the significance of sex differences 15 years ago.

He based it on Tulsa results of standardized reading and achievement tests given annually to school children throughout the country. By his calculations second grade girls are 4.89 months ahead of male classmates in their capacity to learn. The girls maintain a margin slightly under that for the next three grades but widen it to a peak advantage of 8.09 months in the eighth grade.

Pauly says indications are that from that point on the boys start gaining on the girls in ability to absorb teaching.

"It is my belief, based on much evidence," he says, "that boys do not catch up with girls by the 12th grade. Data from Educational Testing Service indicates boys have slightly exceeded the girls in tests scores in the first year of college, except in the fields of English and fine arts.

He Befriends Bats to Study Love Life

RICHMOND, Ind. (UPI) — Most people have a dread of bats in any form. But not Professor James B. Cope of Earlham College. In fact, he's making a three-year study of the love life, character, disposition and habits of Indiana bats.

The bat study, said Professor Cope, is just beginning, and since the National Science Foundation has given him $17,000 to finance his study, he has been posting notices all over the state requesting information on the location of bat colonies and individual bats.

The largest colony in Indiana, the professor said, was found in the attic of a 100-year-old house, from which more than a thousand bats have been taken during the past three years.

Fruit Cake Returns Fifteen Years Later

MONONGAHELA, Pa. (UPI) — Fifteen years ago, the Monongahela Businessmen's Association mailed a fruit cake to one of its hometown soldiers stationed at Fort Custer, Mich.

But the soldier, Leroy Gibson, left for the Pacific before the cake arrived. The cake followed him to various Pacific bases but never quite caught up with him.

Recently, the cake arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gomer A. Gibson, the soldier's parents. His mother reported that "it still looked fresh."

One reason not many women win contests is that few of 'em can say anything in 25 words or less . . . A gentleman is a fellow who, when his wife is mowing the lawn, looks in the other direction. —Earl Wilson.

Many Agencies Assist Students

Here is a suggested checklist for students looking for financial help in getting a college education:

HIGH SCHOOLS

Many high schools have a guidance counselor who should have lots of information and literature on available scholarships.

COLLEGES

Since colleges administer about a third of the number of scholarships available, students should write to the colleges in which they are interested, asking for information about their scholarship program.

COMMUNITY

Check with the local library and board of education. Many communities have special scholarshmips for residents.

STATE

Many states have scholarship programs for their own residents. The state boards of education usually have complete information on this. For instance, New York sponsors nearly eight million dollars worth of scholarships, and Pennsylvania more than 6½ million.

PROFESSIONAL GROUPS

A student who knows the field in which he plans to make a career should contact the appropriate professional organization. A would-be doctor, for instance, should contact the American Medical Assn. Your own doctor can probably give you the address, and the same holds for other fields. Most of these professional oragnizations sponsor scholarships.

INDUSTRY

In recent years various industries have been stepping up their scholarship programs. Some are for a specific course of study, such as chemistry, and others have no restrictions. Write for information to the Assn. of American Colleges, 726 Jackson Place, Washington 6, D.C.

VETERANS ORGANIZATIONS

The American Legion and other war service groups offer a number of scholarships, both locally and on a national scale. Try your local post first.

UNIONS

Many labor unions sponsor college scholarships. If you or your parents are members of a union, check at the local headquarters.

CHURCHES

Scholarships are offered by many religious groups. Check with your own church to see what's available.

PRIVATE ORGANIZATIONS

Many service groups, such as the Elks, Masons, Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary, etc., are notably generous with scholarships.

Forced Labor Grows Costly in Red China

HONG KONG (UPI) — "Corrective labor" camps arean't always paying propositions the Chinese Communists have found.

They just haven't got the men to run the camps efficiently.

For instance, in Inner Mongolia, workers in "corrective labor" camps reclaimed about 157,400 acres of wasteland during the past five years, but only two-thirds of the land has been cultivated.

The Communists blamed "bad management," admitting that more than $262,400 had been wasted.

The managements of factories and farms set up in Inner Mongolia to implement the policy of "reform through labor" have been heavily criticized for inefficiency, waste and extravagance.

One report cited the case of three farms at Paotow which allowed 226,000 pounds of fresh vegetables and 133,330 pounds of mediciinal herbs to rot. In addition, livestock valued at about $120,000 died as a result of "improper feeding and insufficient care."

Ever since Alexander Hamilton told George Washington

"Not only the wealth, but the independence and security of a country, appear to be materially connected with the prosperity of manufacturing . . .

"Whence it follows, that it is the interest of a community, with a view to eventual and permanent economy, to encourage the growth of manufacturing."

In these words Hamilton, Secretary of the Treasury, reported to the President and to the Congress on December 5, 1791 . . . and the book of industrial development was opened.

American Legion Has Big Parade in Chicago Today

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Legion stages its big parade along Michigan Avenue today, formally opening its 40th annual national convention.

A Labor Day holiday crowd of some 500,000 was expected to watch the 30,000 to 50,000 Legionnaires march.

The joint opening session of the Legion and auxiliary will be held tomorrow morning. The convention will end Thursday.

Louise Suggs Leads Open Golf Tourney

BURNEYVILLE, Okla. (AP)—Sharp-shooting Louise Suggs, a 35-year-old veteran from Sea Island, Ga., held a commanding position today as the $7,500 Opie Turner Open golf tourney moved into the final 18-holes.

Miss Suggs put together rounds of 76-72 for 148 over the treacherous Waco Turner resort course to best the nation's top professional golfers and some eight amateurs.

Chief challengers as the tournament moved into its final stages were Wiffi Smith, the pudgy ball-hitting girl from St. Clair, Mich., and Ruth Jessen of Seattle, Wash. Both had 150s.

Win Legion Band Title

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Caballeros of Post 199, Hawthorne, N. J., last night won the American Legion's senior drum and bugle corps title.

Smiling Pianist Returns in Fall

High Audience Rating for Half-Hour Daytime Shows Assured

By HAZEL K. JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — He wore a well cut, conservative gray suit and it looked like he has a new barber.

But other than that it's the same old Liberace, candelabra and all.

TAPES SHOWS

Liberace put the first of his new half-hour daily shows on tape recently for fall viewing.

And if the reaction of his studio audience at his "premiere" show is any criteria of success, ABC-TV and the smiling piano player should have a high audience rating quicker 'n you can inquire about George.

One lady was so enthusiastic about Liberace's smooth sounding, opening number that a less enthusiastic woman on her right turned to a companion and asked: "Do you suppose she's his mother?"

"Oh, no, it couldn't be," the companion, a housewife in her 40s answered in a knowing, companionable tone. "I read where Mrs. Liberace won't watch either of her sons' shows since the boys split up."

Liberace's show stopper was his interpretation of that long time favorite, "The Purple People Eater," requested, on cue, by an 11-year-old youngster who out-shouted several ladies at least 50 years his senior.

Judging from the applause, honors for the next most popular number of the show was a toss up between "Prayer Is the Key to Heaven" and a commercial.

The song with the religious theme was skillfully executed and could become a permanent part of his musical repertoire.

The commercial was a borderline case. Half the audience laughed as Liberace accompanied his spiel with snatches of Chopin. The other half looked noncommital although there were a few classical music lovers who appeared annoyed.

Liberace first appeared on television in 1952 and soon became a TV matinee idol. Five years later he had his first movie starring role, "Sincerely Yours," and left television to concentrate on personal appearances.

Five months ago he cut short a tour of Australia after a judge in that country issued a permanent order forbidding the pianist to play any music from "My Fair Lady" during his tour of that country.

International copyright laws prevented any part of the play being performed because it had not played there yet.

SMILING PIANIST RETURNS — Liberace, one of the nation's most famous entertainers, will be back on TV screens this fall. He recently put the first of his new half-hour daily shows on tape. If the reaction of his studio audience at his "premiere" show is any criteria of success, the smiling piano player should immediately have a high audience rating.

Hobo No Longer Part of American Scene

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Do you remember tramps?

Hoboes, they called them, too . . . "bo," sometimes for short . . . bums . . . "fellows on the bum" . . . "riding the rods" . . . beggin' for a handout—"for a free meal"—at your mother's back door.

Do they still exist?

WILSON

We don't have them much in the Big City. A "tramp" in New York is a loose woman you meet with some millionaire in a night club. All this came up at a party the other night where I met somebody who knew my home town, Rockford, O.

That's always a kick in itself. This nice woman, Mrs. William Moore, of Newark, O., was born in Ohio City, O., which metropolis if you please, is seven or eight miles from Rockford and Van Wert, and if you haven't been to those towns, why, you haven't been around much! They're close to Lima, O., and Fort Wayne, Ind., which are right in the middle of God's country.

"My mother" Mrs. Moore said, "used to feed the tramps who got off the freight trains in Ohio City . . ."

And that brought a whole flood of memories. There was "A-No. 1, the Famous Tramp," who was probably the first king of the hoboes. He would distinguish certain box cars by writing his mark on them in chalk. He wrote books.

Jim Tully — who came from around Van Wert, by the way — wrote several fine books about "road kids" (as they were also called.)

He became a darling and biographer of Hollywood.

Panhandling is a lost art in New York, too. There used to be a white-bearded old character who'd sidle up and say, "Would you be willing to assist Junior in the condition of his exchequer? He's looking for work and afraid he'll find it."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "The only business that makes money without advertising is the mint"—Henry Youngman.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: We've seen a lot of definitions about age, but have about decided that middle-aged is what you admit you are when you're really old-aged . . . That's earl, brother.

Two Ex-Sailors Take Long Voyage Home

BELFIELD, N. D. (UPI)—Two former sailors finally got home from the Navy, but they chose the long and the hard way of doing it.

The pair, Patrick Hecker and Elliot Linbo, both 22, arrived at their homes here after riding bicycles on a month-long journey from their discharge point in San Francisco.

Hecker and Linbo said they decided to make the trip by bike so they could get a closer look at the country. They slept on the ground all but four nights and ate their meals in restaurants.

They had their bikes overhauled twice and took a side trip to Vancouveer, British Columbia, to visit relatives.

The rode European bikes equipped with gear shifts to help them pedal up the mountains.

Boston Hospital Finds It's Short on Skulls

BOSTON (AP) — Boston City Hospital is in the market for skulls—animal skulls of any type. This came to light when the mayor received a request from hospital officials for $2,500 to pay for the craniums.

Officials did not specify where they would get the skulls, which would be used to teach anatomy to student nurses and other hospital personnel.

Lutheran School to Open Tuesday

ROCHESTER — The Parish School of Gethsemane Lutheran Church in Brooklands will begin its new school year at 8:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Teaching the upper elementary grades will be Ronald Yungmann, principal. Miss Ada Zehnder will have charge of the primary classes.

The school offers regular secular subjects through the first eight grades, in addition to formal Bible study and application of religion to daily living.

Established and maintained primarily for member families of the church, Gethsemane school also accepts children of non-members when facilities are available.

Better Check Products

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A short circuit in a burglar alarm brought police running, and the false alarm proved embarrassing. It was at the ADT Corporation, installers and servicers of burglar alarms.

We Must Trust Our Teachers, He Believes

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Virgil M. Hancher, president of Iowa State University, believes Americans must learn to trust teachers as they do doctors if they want U.S. schools to improve.

Hancher told a recent convention of the National Education Association here that teachers belong to one of the great professions. But he added that their skills are woefully misunderstood.

"Not many parents would venture to tell a surgeon how to perform an operation, or a dentist how to save a tooth," Hancher said.

"Many parents find it difficult to cope with three or four children for a few hours a day. Yet they feel competent to tell a teacher how to handle 20 to 40 such children during school hours."

Denmark Roads Tops

COPENHAGEN — Denmark's 33,000-mile road network is considered among the world's best.

Appoint Two Professors

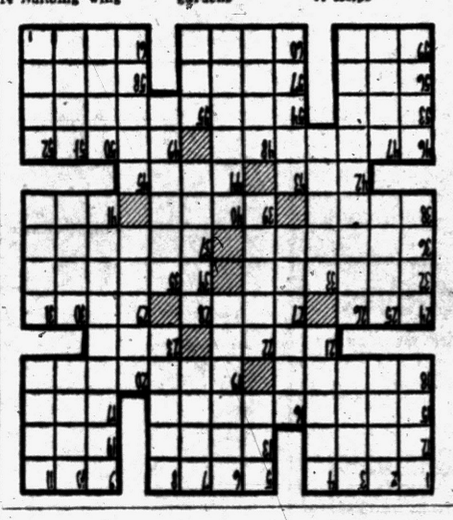

DETROIT (AP)—Wayne State University has announced the appointment of Dr. F. Gaynor Evans as professor of anatomy and Dr. Jacob L. Chason as professor of neuropathology.

377,000 Back to School

DETROIT (AP)—Some 287,000 Detroit children will return to the public schools Wednesday, ending their summer vacations. Another 90,000 will resume classes at parochial schools Thursday.

Bob Considine Says:

Rassling Biggest Phony on Video Screens

NEW YORK—If phony TV shows are about to be investigated, let's begin with rassling.

The passing of Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, inventor of the cyclotron, recalls a couple of stories about that remarkable man.

He was only 29 when he fashioned the first of the atom smashers and became practically the first man in history to look into the soul of matter.

He played an important role in the creation of the atomic bomb; matter of fact, he was so intimately connected with its birth that the security department of the project gave him a code name to conceal his true identity as he went about his work.

He was called Oscar Wilde. Years later I asked Gen. Leslie Groves why the name had been chosen for Lawrence, and he said, "You know . . . 'The Importance of Being Earnest.'"

Then there was the time in 1946 when Dr. Lawrence showed his great Cal Tech cyclotron to a visiting Russian physicist, who was on his way home from witnessing the test of the A-bomb at Bikini.

It was such a huge cycotron that the staff of technicians which operated it called it "Big Bertha," and one of the men had chalked the name on an exhaust pipe.

Suddenly, as Dr. Lawrence showed the Russian around the place, the Muscovite professor froze. He left the lab, and could not be coaxed into attending a dinner of the assembled professors that night.

When asked the reason for his strange behavior, the Russian said, "Dr. Lawrence lied to me when he said his cyclotron was not an instrument of war but of peace. I plainly read its name, 'Big Bertha.'"

I last saw Dr. Lawrence at Acapulco in January. He was depressed and alarmed. The Atomic Energy Commission had withdrawn funds for a study he had anxiously urged — a method of developing enough super-heat to touch off an H-bomb without recourse to the A-bomb which now is its clumsy triggering device. If successful, he saw a day when the incredible power of the H-bomb coud be packaged into weapons small enough to be slung in batches under the wing of a fighter plane. But the research must be halted, he said, and he expressed concern that the Russians might beat us to it.

Now, at 57, and just when we needd him most, we have lost perhaps our top scientist.

Multi-millionaire Nelson Rockefeller inadvertently made a funny the other day when, asked how he expected to fare against multi-millionaire Averell Harriman in the race for governor of New York, replied:

"I'll give him a run for his money."

Fortune magazine gloomily comments:

"The freckle-faced kid of American advertisements, spreading gobs of butter on a slice of bread, may be laying the foundation for a coronary attack in early middle age."

If you see a stoutish gentleman walking around Alexandria, Va., wearing Argentina's Order of San Martin, it must be Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan (ret.). A bill signed by President Eisenhower just before he took off on his vacation grants Vaughan permission to wear the medal he received nine years ago from dictator Juan Peron.

The bill removed from the deep freeze (oops, pardon, general) a long list of foreign decorations bestowed on Americans who were not legally entitled to wear or accept them.

As for General Vaughan, he and Mrs. Vaughan are active in church and charitable work in Alexandria and highly respected in their community.

As for peron . . . ?

Whatever did become of that bum?

Really Exclusive Right Purchased by 2 Men

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two persons have purchased exclusive rights to sell beer in Memorial Coliseum. Police said one paid $1,116 for the privilege and the other paid $1,222. In each case the seller was Paul Wustrack, police say. There's only one hitch: The law prohibits the sale of alcoholic beverages in the Coliseum. Officers are looking for Wustrack.

Pioneered in Lenses

ROME — The Italian artist and inventor, Leonardo da Vinci, thought up the idea of contact lenses to correct poor vision in 1608, but it was not until 1887 that the first ones were produced and worn.

It's All in a Day's Work

Pilots Huge Carrier With Great Finesse

NEW YORK (UPI) — Charles F. Romano, chief pilot for a New York towing firm, recently was in charge of maneuvering the Navy's 62,000-ton aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt from Brooklyn to Bayonne, N.J.

The five-mile trip was through the most heavily travelled waterway in the world. It required passing exactly under the middle of two bridges and skirting a wreck near one of them.

Nevertheless, Romano, with a dozen tugboats under his command brought the carrier into berth in less than half an hour against a rapidly rising tide and strong onshore winds.

Navy officers were so impressed with his work that they invited him to take the Franklin D. Roosevelt out to sea some time.

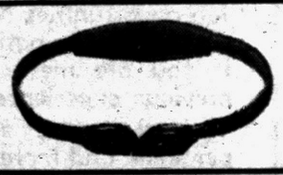

But Romano declined with thanks, explaining, "I would only get seasick."
