Missing Tot, 3, Found Alive

Child Spends All Night Lodged in Tiny Space Between 2 Buildings

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Little Eileen Fahey, 3½, lodged all night in a tiny space between two buildings within a block of her home, was found alive today and apparently unhurt.

CHILD REMOVED

The child was removed conscious, her face tear-stained and dirty, at 10:40 a. m., about an hour and a half after she was spotted by Gerald des Roches, 19, a neighbor, from the second story of a nearby dwelling.

A crowd of more than 500 cheered wildly when workmen broke through the last section of a wall and freed the child.

More than 200 searchers had hunted through the Fox Point tenement district during the night for Eileen, who was reported missing yesterday afternoon.

FOLLOWED CAT

Police theorized Eileen became lodged in the crack between a garage and a barbershop while following a cat.

Her overjoyed father, John Fahey, a New Haven Railroad brakeman, said Eileen, one of his five children, "is a chip off the old block. She's just like her grandmother, who pulled out of many tight spots."

Mrs. Fahey, under sedatives through the night, collapsed when told Eileen was found. She revived quickly when she was told the child was alive.

Police Sgt. Warren A. McQueeney held Eileen's hand while workmen labored to free her. He said the child cried and whispered "I'm cold." McQueeney said he assured her "honey, you'll be all right."

Police said the search was the biggest in the city's history. More than 200 policemen were joined by hundreds of volunteers.

HONORED PICKET LINE

The IMU set up picket lines at the News Saturday to protest what it said was the firing of a number of its members by the News. The Teamsters honored the picket line and the Times and Free Press stopped publication shortly afterward.

DNPA officials also were scheduled to meet today with a 10-man committee representing craft and other unions in the newspaper industry and give their answer to a committee plan calling for immediate resumption of publishing by the three papers.

The plan called for the committee and the DNPA to jointly select an arbitrator to rule on the discharge of 67 mailers by the News. The IMU claims 87 mailers were fired.

While the arbitrator is making his decision, the plan calls for the Times to hire 33 of the fired mailers and the Free Press to take on 34, with mailers from these two papers working at the News until a settlement is reached. No agreement has been reached on the arbitration.

Detroit Boy, 14, Fatally Stabbed Outside Dance

Deadly Fracas Started in Church; Police Hold Youth, Seek 2 Others

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

DETROIT—A 14-year-old Detroit boy was stabbed to death last night by another teenager in a fight outside a church dance.

Norman Holmes, 15, was held for investigation of murder in the death of Lloyd Pennington.

Police said Holmes admitted taunting Pennington inside the church and later stabbing the boy in the street.

Holmes claimed, according to police, that he was handed the murder weapon—a pocket knife—by another boy, Bob Fortin, who is being sought.

Officers also were looking for Ray Garney, 16, who Holmes said also handed him a knife.

Detective Sgt. John Zimmerman said Holmes told him: "He was pounding me with his fists and I lost control of my temper. Then someone pushed a knife into my hand."

Eight other juveniles rounded up at the scene were held by police as witnesses.

Holmes was captured by an unidentified citizen after a long chase following the knife.

Pennington, stabbed once in the chest and twice in the back, was dead on arrival at a Detroit hospital.

Zimmerman said the fight started when Holmes was burned accidentally by another youth's cigarette.

After an argument Holmes and Pennington left the dance and went to a vacant lot across the street with a crowd of youths following. Zimmerman said.

Both boys are white.

Auto Industry Hikes Wages 3c Per Hour

DETROIT—The Big Three auto makers today increased by three cents per hour the cost of living allowance of nearly 700,000 hourly employees, effective with the first pay period after Sept. 1.

Cost of living increases also were announced for 188,000 salaried employees.

The announcements came from the Big Three after the labor department reported the cost of living rose ½ of 1 per cent during July.

General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler increased the living allowances under the escalator clause of their contracts with the United Auto Workers Union.

General Motors and Ford hourly workers will get a total cost of living allowance of 19 cents an hour for the September-October-November quarter. GM has 350,000 production workers and Ford, 140,000.

About 106,000 GM salaried employees will receive a $15 quarterly cost of living allowance, increasing the total allowance to $95.

The allowance for 57,000 Ford salaried employees was increased to $98.80 from the current $93.20.

EXCLUSIVE, TOO—Looks like a not-so-happy birthday party in Denver for three-year-old Wendy Winkler (right) who apparently can't have her cake or eat it, either, as it's held outside the window of her home. But the tears turned to joy later, when the cake was brought inside. For obvious reasons, the guest list was restricted to fellow mumps victims, but there seemed to be plenty of co-sufferers in the neighborhood. The celebrants are (left to right) Debbie Ivey, 3½; Johnny Pens, 3; Willie Small, 3; his brother Benny, 1; and birthday-girl Wendy.

Victim of Blast Fights for Life

Keego Harbor Woman Remains on Critical List at Pontiac General

The victim of yesterday's home explosion was holding her own in Pontiac General Hospital today.

Mrs. Gloria Ann Bray, 23, remained in critical condition with severe burns suffered when exploding gas ripped apart her frame home at 2318 Virginia Ct.

COVERED BY BURNS

First, second and third degree burns cover half her body.

Gas began leaking into the house yesterday when a Consumers Power Co. line was damaged by well-diggers about 8:30 a. m. Mrs. Bray went inside about 9 a. m. to answer the telephone call from her mother. The blast occurred seconds later.

Keego Harbor police, who are continuing an investigation into what touched off the gas, discounted the possibility that answering the telephone triggered the blast.

ANSWERED PHONE

"She had already answered the phone and was talking on it when the blast happened," they explained.

The victim's mother, Mrs. George Long, was wept today from an all-night vigil at her daughter's bedside. Her father, George Long, of 2146 Willow Beach Rd., Keego Harbor, said the phone call had been about "nothing important."

Mr. and Mrs. Long left the hospital shortly before noon today, after learning that their daughter might remain unconscious in a state of shock for another 48 hours. Other relatives remained in the hospital room.

A neighbor girl, Jackie Anthony, 4, of 2923 Virginia Ct., who had been playing near the house yesterday, was the only other person injured. She was treated at the hospital for a minor cut inflicted by flying debris.

Mrs. Bray's daughter, Cheryl, 3, also was playing outside and escaped injury. Her husband, Frederick, was at work at Pontiac Motor Division.

Boy Falls Into Deep Well Hole, Rescued After 5-Hour Ordeal

BIG RIVER, Sask.—A few minutes after a farmer stopped at the 17-foot mark drilling a well test hole last night, his 2-year-old nephew tumbled into it.

Five hours later volunteer rescue workers brought the wailing child out through a tunnel from a trench hastily dug beside the 10-inch hole.

NOT A SCRATCH

The child, Kimdale Smith, didn't have a scratch on him and doctors said he was in "very good condition." Nurses said the lad was cheerful. When his mother momentarily left his bedside in a hurry to get a first aid kit, he moved his head and as he wailed up the hole, his mother told him from above to kick his feet to keep warm in the chilling night air of west-central Canada. Two inches of water filled the bottom of the hole.

CRAMPED POSITION

Because of the cramped position a noose of rope couldn't be slipped over his shoulders and anyway, a Royal Canadian Mount-le said later, it was "too dangerous an operation."

Approximately 100 volunteers with shovels and two bulldozers answered police siren alarms and came to the farm about a mile north of this lumbering and fishing town of 800 persons.

Big River is about 350 miles north of Canada's border with eastern Montana, set in the lake-spectled north-central part of Saskatchewan.

State Trooper Skin Divers Recover Bodies of 2 Boys

The bodies of two youths, presumed to be missing Detroiters, were recovered from the bottom of Walled Lake at 11:30 this morning.

A newly organized skin diving team of state troopers, on their first assignment, located the bodies 35 feet below the surface within a half hour after the underwater search began.

Into Red China

Although families have not yet identified them, the bodies are believed to be those of Richard Malo, 18, and Robert Sego, 16, reported missing yesterday.

A car belonging to Malo was found in Novi Township Park, near the lake shore, this morning. Inside were the youths' clothing, wallets and personal possessions.

State police and sheriff's deputies theorized the boys had gone for a midnight swim and never returned. With daylight they began the search of the lake.

The five troopers from the skin diving unit, organized a week ago, assisted by William Jackson of the Oakland County Sheriff's Dept., started diving about 11 a. m.

The investigating officers also had plans to bring in a helicopter to closely search the shoreline, but this was made unnecessary by the rapid discovery of the bodies.

Malo's parents in Detroit had no knowledge of their son's whereabouts. They said he left the house Wednesday evening without saying where he was going. When he failed to return by early morning, they became alarmed and called the police.

Twin City Ups Bus Fare

ST. JOSEPH—The city commission has approved 5-cent increases in Twin City Motor Coach bus fares, effective Sept. 1. Present rates are 20 cents for adults and 10 cents for children.

Records Show Jimmy Gave Dio Clear Field

Council Aids Teamster to Refresh His Memory
After Denials

WASHINGTON—The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee today heard a 1953 wiretapped telephone conversation in which James R. Hoffa assured terrorist Johnny Dio of a clear field in organizing New York taxicab drivers.

Hoffa, Midwest head of the 1½-million member Teamsters Union, the nation's largest union, sat glumly listening to the recording.

He had just denied that he had sought through Dio to get a foothold in New York.

The recording, made legal by New York police, was of a Hoffa-Dio talk on March 10, 1953. In it, Hoffa said he'd talked "to that Hickey guy."

Thomas Hickey, a Teamsters vice president, was trying to organize cab drivers in a rival drive to Dio's.

Just before the recording was played, Hoffa had denied having any recollection of seeking, as

A transcript of the March 10, 1953, telephone talk included:

HOFFA: "Well, how was the AF of L? Did they—Did they—did they go in to say you still had a charter, didn't they?"

DIO: "Yeah, nobody said anything against it."

HOFFA: "That's right. Because I—Dave Previant (one of Hoffa's attorneys) talked to Beck about three times—"

DIO: "Uhuh."

HOFFA: "Somebody was putting in the rap against you; I don't know who the H— he is—"

DIO: "Uhuh..."

DIO: "Uhuh... So, ahuh—in the meantime, ahuh, did you talk to that Hickey guy?"

HOFFA: "I talked to Hickey."

DIO: "Yeah?"

HOFFA: "He promised me that he would straighten that situation out. There would be no more interference at where you're having elections or anything else if you'll just let him know where, where you're working and he'll keep the H— out of there."

HOFFA: "I think he definitely promised me he'd keep the H— out of it."

DIO: "Yeah. Well in any—any event, I'll get in touch with him tomorrow and give him a rundown just in case so they'll be no mistakes on it...all right, Jim; thanks a million."

suggested by committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy, to "knock Hickey" out of organizing cab drivers counter to Dio's organizing drive.

"I'm astounded at your qualifications to every answer," Kennedy told Hoffa. "Maybe some of these recordings will help refresh your memory."

Hoffa said he did dicker with Dio, who controlled a United Auto Workers Union-AFL local, in 1953 about getting this local into the Teamsters.

But he swore that the only ob-

Defend Plans for Area Drag Strip

Answers to unfavorable comments by a local probate judge and police chief published in yesterday's Press regarding a proposed drag strip came today from four enthusiastic officers of a group pushing the movement.

The organization in question, the Oakland County Timing Assn., and their goal, an organized drag strip, was frowned on by Oakland County Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore and Pontiac Police Chief Herbert W. Straley.

Oakland County Sheriff Frank Irons, on the other hand, has stated his department would help guide plans for the project although they could not sponsor it.

Bill Martin, 21, of 1704 Crescent Lake Rd., Waterford Township, who has participated in legal drag present for approval at the group's next meeting August 29.

They drew up the following: "It shall be the duty of every member to help build this sport by following the by-laws of the association and traffic laws of the state, thus proving to the general public that hot rodding is a safe sport... and strive to change public opinion to the favor of the sport. Our prime objective will be to see that all competition shall be organized and carried on in a safe way."

Both Moore and Straley charged racing is dangerous. Martin claims in the seven-year history of the new sport, "only one person has been fatally injured."

"That was because of the fellow's own ignorance. He was required

The choice of a winner will be made at 6 p. m. in the city hall, and the affair is open to the public.

The car will be presented formally at the huge variety show to be staged Tuesday evening at Wiser Stadium.

Dems Hold Up Foreign Aid Bill

Senate Appropriations Group May Postpone Action Until Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders kept President Eisenhower guessing today over how much of his battered foreign aid money bill may be salvaged. They postponed a showdown in the Senate Appropriations Committee.

With the House involved in maneuvering over the controversial civil rights measure, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas appeared in no hurry to have the mutual security appropriations bill come up in the Senate.

The Appropriations Committee turned to working on an atomic energy appropriations bill amid indications it will put off further action on foreign aid, probably until Monday.

Chairman Hayden (D-Ariz.) said some of the committee members have indicated they want further time to study figures on unspent aid funds available from previous years. These figures were submitted to the committee yesterday, and copies of that transcript will not be available to committee members before tomorrow.

Johnson announced yesterday he will vote for restoration of at least some of the $209,650,000 in new aid funds slashed by the House. Johnson said he believed a majority of the Senate will support an adequate increase over House figures.

But he did not say how high he would go.

Sen. Ellender (D-La.), who favors cutting below the $254,760,000 in new foreign aid funds voted by the House, told a reporter Johnson's stand made the prospect doubtful.

"But I am convinced the committee will not vote a cent above three billion dollars in new appropriations," Ellender said.

Why is it that, in most areas of the country, winter brings with it so many long, rainy spells?

Winter produces more rainy spells of several days' duration than summer for several reasons. One of the main reasons is that winter's colder earth and ever-present cold air creates more of the cloud-forming or cooling action that makes for cloud and rain.

Warm air moving into cold winter air (a warm front) can set up a rainy area for hundreds of miles. Since a warm front moves forward more slowly than a cold front, this mass of cloud and rain takes several days to pass overhead.

Occasionally a warm front or an occluded front will become stationary over an area and in winter this usually means several days of bad, rainy weather. These frontal systems are of long duration but produce little lightning and thunder.

Confidential Investigator Says: Men Involved in 'Affairs' Signed 'Truth' Statements

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Investigators for Confidential magazine substantiated stories about singer Dorothy Dandridge and actress Mae West with signed statements from the men involved, a defendant in the libel trial has testified.

Fred Meade, who with his wife Marjorie operated Hollywood Research, Inc., said yesterday that band leader Dan Terry gave him an affidavit about a purported affair with Miss Dandridge. Meade said this was the basis for a Confidential story entitled "What Dorothy Dandridge Did in the Woods."

And Meade said he and private detective Barney Ruditsky obtained a statement from the late boxer Chalky Wright that he lived in an apartment with Miss West for a year. The Confidential story was titled "Mae West's Open Door Policy."

Meade testified that he interviewed boxers about "Miss West's affinity for prize fighters."

Meade, who is being tried along with his wife and Confidential and Whisper magazines on charges of conspiracy to commit criminal libel, said he also got a signed statement from Hollywood play girl Gloria Wellman that she and five other women cavorted in the nude at the home of actor John Carroll.

PAINTS PICTURE
Meade, 33, painted a detailed picture of Hollywood Research's wholesale shifting of movieland scandal reports.

He said that in the year and a half he and his wife operated Hollywood Research, they checked out about 750 possible stories. "Most of them failed to develop," he said.

PAID DETECTIVE
Meade said he paid a private detective, Fred Otash, $35,000 in 18 months to run down rumors of scandals that had come to his ears.

Under questioning by defense attorney Arthur J. Crowley, Meade denied that he "ever offered any girl or woman anything to go out and entice anyone into an embarrassing situation."

The prosecution charges that Confidential and its agents used "girl traps" to produce scandalous grist for the magazine.

Meade said he had obtained information from prostitutes "only about four times."

Earlier, the defense failed twice in efforts to show that Confidential performed a public service by publishing certain types of stories.

John D. Odum, a member of the Georgia Legislature, was not permitted to testify about stories he had written for Confidential. Judge Herbert V. Walker ruled that he had no connection with stories read into the trial record by the prosecution.

The defense also was refused the right to read to the jury a long list of articles on such subjects as social security, cancer cures, a mink coat racket, telephone blackmailers and the like.

DENIALS ISSUED
Outside the courtroom, two movie stars who were subjects to Confidential stories issued denials.

French actress Corinne Calvet said the story telling of her purported amorous demands on actor John Bromfield when he was her husband and later on actor Jeff Stone was "absolutely untrue."

"Confidential magazine is a malignant growth," she said. "It must be destroyed, and I will be happy to help even if it means some embarrassment."

The defense has said it will call Miss Calvet as a witness, probably when the trial resumes kitchewan where towns begin to become scarce.

For a while after he was found, he was silent. But as volunteers rallied in for a desperate attempt to reach the boy in time, he began a wailing that at least was reassurance he was still conscious. Oxygen was forced down the hole to him.

His mother Mrs. Fred Smith kept up a reassuring conversation with the lad as the rescuers started to sink a shaft parallel to the hole. All others were kept away from the top of the hole to prevent possible cave-ins around the mouth.

The ground is hard clay soil and there was no problem of earth slides or collapsing walls such as have plagued other rescuers in similar emergencies.

With a doctor standing by, the men worked beneath hastily rigged lights to dig down 17 feet. Then they tunneled over to the boy.

Hustled out carefully, Kim was rushed to the hospital and pronounced not much the worse for the experience.

Workers Bring Up Bodies in Tunnel

OSWEGO, N. Y. (AP)—Workers today reached the surface with the bodies of three construction men entombed Sunday in a tunnel under Lake Ontario.

The three were killed in an explosion when they were about 5,000 feet inside the tunnel, preparing for a dynamite blast that was to put the tunnel into use as part of the city water supply system.

During early efforts to reach the bodies, one man perished for lack of oxygen and many other workers were overcome by gas.

The dead were: Phil Ayler, 33, of Aylor, Va., foreman of the tunnel construction; Linwood P. Helms, 47, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., general superintendent; and John Lagoe, of Oswego, an electrician.

The man asphyxiated while trying to reach the bodies was Lloyd Matteson, 32, of nearby Scriba.

Whistler Told to Go Ahead—Later in A.M.

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP)—Chief of Police Ted Swoveland got in touch yesterday with O. A. Batcheller, an instructor at California Polytechnic Institute at Pomona, and told him to go right ahead and whistle—but not too early in the morning.

Neighbors had complained about Batcheller's whistling. Police served him with an abatement order requiring him to stop it.

Things were not so sweet for Chief Swoveland. He started getting telephone calls—persistent, irate, abusive letters, many of them routed through Gov. Goodwin Knight.

Someone asked if he also planned to abate carols at Christmas time.

Chief Swoveland got in touch with Batcheller and lifted the abatement.

"I like to whistle myself, when I'm happy," the chief said. "You can quote me that I haven't been very happy on an occasion such as this."

The Day in Birmingham

Bloomfield Pupils Enroll for September 5 Opening

BIRMINGHAM — Sept. 5 marks the opening of the school term for Bloomfield Hills. Following the Thursday half-day sessions, regular classes for high school grades will start the next day from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Enrollment at elementary schools is now in operation, continuing through Aug. 30. Information sheets and transportation

The teachers' workshop is scheduled for Sept. 3 and 4. School lunches will be served after Sept. 6. Elementary students will pay thirty cents, with junior and senior high school groups paying thirty-five cents.

All sixth graders will be transferred from the Vaughan School to Hickory Grove School to relieve overcrowded conditions.

The latter school has extra classrooms and new equipment and will provide the best in educational facilities, according to Eugene L. Johnson, superintendent.

Johnson reports work is progressing satisfactorily on the new junior high school, with occupancy expected for the 1958 term.

He said, "total bids were under estimated bids, by over $60,000—approximately 5.6 per cent under budget plans."

Johnson added that students no longer will be charged fees for special subjects. This includes chemistry, physics, shop, art, typing, homemaking, physical education and lock fees.

An obliging intruder gave an involuntary assist to Birmingham police last night.

Officers said Ernest J. Morris, 46, of Detroit, was in the Richard Siding home at 936 Larchlea Rd., when he awoke members of the family.

In trying to escape, Morris missed a turn in the stairs and crashed into a wall, knocking himself unconscious. He is being held a police prisoner in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

DEMANDS YES-NO
Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) told Hoffa his reply did not answer the question, and backed Kennedy's demand for a yes or no answer.

Hoffa first contended it was impossible to say yes or no but finally told the committee "I would say the answer could be construed as 'No'" and then gave a flat "No" reply to it.

The committee got back to Hoffa's relations with Dio after a go-around with the witness over union payment of hotel bills for numerous friends of Hoffa who came here during Hoffa's recent bribery trial.

McClellan touched this off by saying he had a report that former heavyweight champion Joe Louis was paid $2,500 to sit at the trial for two hours. Louis is a Negro and the jury was predominantly of that race.

In Chicago Louis said "I didn't get twenty-five nothin'."

The former champion said he and Hoffa had been friends for 10 or 12 years and he had gone to the trial expecting to be called as a character witness. He was not called.

"I wish I had $2,500," he commented.

Bloomfield Man Dies After Car Accident

What appeared to be a minor property damage accident yesterday afternoon at Maple and Telegraph roads, in Bloomfield Township brought death to Charles R. Bartsch, 59, of 5050 West Maple Rd.

Investigating police officers of Bloomfield Hills, after the rear-end collision between Bartsch's auto and a car driven by Joseph Magee Jr., 31, of Detroit, ordered the vehicles removed to the Reeves Service Station nearby.

Shortly afterward, Bartsch complained of chest pains. An ambulance was called and he was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

Attending physicians said Bartsch was suffering from asthma and diabetes, which, coupled with shock, is believed to have caused coronary occlusion.

New Aga Khan Leads Paris Memorial Service

The old Aga died in Geneva last month. Widely known figures of the social, diplomatic and sporting worlds joined with his Ismaili followers in a chanted prayer session organized by Prince Ali Khan the new Aga's father.

The Aga's family took in similar services in London yesterday. The Begum, widow of the late Aga, remained in her Riviera villa where she is reported suffering from a nervous depression.

"We don't want anyone in Washington to wet nurse us out in Oklahoma and tell us how to protect our scenic beauty," he said.

Urban League Meeting Soon

Pontiac Unit Preparing for 3-Day Convention at Detroit

Members of the Pontiac Urban League are preparing for their forthcoming annual National Conference to be held Sept. 3-5 in Detroit.

Headquarters for the conference will be the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel. With some 650 delegates expected to attend, national President Theodore W. Kheel, of New York, says this should be the biggest conference in the league's history.

Theme of the conference will be "Resolving the Racial Crisis—A Challenge to Inter-Racial Teamwork."

Highlight of the festivities will be a Sept. 3 meeting in Detroit's new $5,700,000 Henry and Edsel Ford Auditorium.

Key speakers at the meeting will be Governor G. Mennen Williams and Theodore R. McKeldin, Governor of Maryland. The public will be invited to this meeting.

Jury's Meal Ticket Rather Prejudicial

VENTURA, Calif. (U)—An attorney here, William Selby, recently was discussing remarks of judges that had been held to be prejudicial when appeals were taken.

He recalled that one Los Angeles judge was noted for biting remarks. On one occasion in this jurist's courtroom a jury reported that it was split 11-1 and would resume deliberations after the dinner hour.

Attorney Selby recalled that the judge said: "Balliff, take this jury out and buy them 11 dinners and one bale of hay."

In a subsequent appeal this remark was held to be prejudicial and the verdict reversed.

Soak-the-Tourist Policy Getting France in Hot Water

PARIS (INS)—France is learning the hard way that it doesn't pay to "soak the tourist."

It is finding out that not only are foreign visitors cutting short their stay in high-priced France, but that Frenchmen themselves are seeking vacation time fun beyond their own country's boundaries.

In order to reverse this trend, the French government last week began offering foreign tourists a 20 per cent bonus on the foreign currency they spend in France.

At the same time, it is slapping a 20 per cent surcharge on foreign money bought by Frenchmen traveling abroad.

The "tourist franc" can now be bought at 447 francs to the dollar, against 350 francs for $1 in normal commercial transactions.

Until 1955, tourism had provided France with badly needed foreign exchange, in the form of what is known as "invisible exports."

Last year, 4,305,000 foreigners spent an estimated 130 billion francs (about $73 million) in France. However, this "take" was $78 million less than what French nationals spent traveling abroad.

Officials fear that the amount of foreign exchange obtained from tourists this year not only will be smaller, but that France will end up further in the red in its tourism accounts because of the large number of French people who are spending their summer holidays in foreign lands.

OUTSIDE ATTRACTIONS

Travel experts point out these Frenchmen are attracted not solely by the novelty of foreign lands, but also by lower prices and better service.

For instance, car owners find that gasoline is cheaper in Italy, Spain or Switzerland than in France. Hotels and food also are cheaper.

Offutt Air Force Men Testing Fancy Holsters

OFFUTT AIR FORCE BASE, Neb. (INS)—The airmen guarding the headquarters of the Strategic Air Command at Offutt Air Force Base have gone Continental.

The "SAC Headquarters Protection Force" turned out recently for an inspection in Air Force blue berets and stag-handled .38 caliber revolvers in cross-draw holsters.

Strategic Air Command officers said recommendations or comments will be forwarded to Air Force Headquarters in Washington concerning the test use of the natty gear.

hotel owners is a major cause "scaring off" foreign visitors. A prominent American travel agent said:

"I thought the saying 'soak the customer all the traffic will bear' went out with the age of the railroad barons. It certainly has not gone out in France."

Another travel agent said French hotels now based their room rates on a "breakfast included" formula.

PUSH 2-MEAL PLAN

"Some hotels already are trying to extend this so that the guest will have to agree to take one additional meal in the hotel," he said. "Before long I wouldn't be surprised if leading hotels adopted the so-called 'American plan,' requiring guests to take all their meals at their place."

French travelers already are reacting to this pressure by hotel operators to take at least one meal besides breakfast. Never has outdoor camping been more popular in France than this year, and it is a common sight this summer to see a tourist family picnic beside a highway instead of stopping in a restaurant for a meal.

Hardest hit by the boycott of hotels and restaurants are establishments in the high-price brackets.

The Riviera has reported a sizable drop in the number of "wealthy" tourists, while Biarritz, the Atlantic Coast playground of the well-heeled traveler, also is suffering from an absence of visitors.

Installment Buying Bolsters Economy

Although a lot of worrying is done over the steady increase in installment buying, it is the backbone of a large portion of the U.S. economy.

Some major industries would suffer if people couldn't buy their products on time. From the consumer's standpoint it makes the difference between having and not having the conveniences of life, such as houses, appliances, automobiles, furniture, etc. The purchaser could, of course, save the money in advance but it would be more difficult and not enough people would be likely to do so.

What would happen in case of a depression? The New York World Telegram and Sun recently observed that after the crash of 1929, the leading installment finance companies had losses of less than two-thirds of one per cent on outstanding credit obligations of $941 million.

Americans like credit buying and as the Nation grows and their wants mount they keep on increasing their obligations despite the extra cost. It is a form of enforced saving and there are good reasons for welcoming it as a sound feature of the American way of life.

Old Dobbin Is Galloping Back

Although we are located in the very heart of the automotive industry, the horse population of the Pontiac area is rapidly increasing.

According to the census figures, it reached its peak in 1910, but by 1920 began to feel the impact of the horseless carriage, and commenced to decline as a pleasure proposition.

In 1930 the effect of the truck and tractor began to show on the draft horse population, and the lumbering powerhouse also started down the long trail.

But Dobbin died hard—if he died at all. It was not until 1940 that the horseless vehicles exceeded the horses in this area.

In the 1940-50 period the horse decline was rapid. Dobbin seemed to be on skids. The smell of burning gas almost completely replaced the odor of ammonia. Even the Michigan Horse Breeders Association closed its books.

But around 1950 the worm turned—so did Dobbin. Many people thought it was his ghost.

However, it was a real comeback, and in style. No longer was Dobbin to be the drudge like his ancestors.

The auto had replaced him as a pleasure medium, the truck was transporting the heavy loads and the tractor was the new farm strong boy.

The thrill of riding a horse has been inherited in the veins of a large majority of our people, although at first it added comfort to standing up.

But we pretended to enjoy the hardening and callousing that finally would erase that first unpleasant feeling.

So, in the last few years riding has become a habit, both actually and in dress.

Riding schools, riding clubs, riding shows became numerous.

The horse population of Oakland County has more than doubled in the past five years. Riding stables dot the map.

Then there are the horses domiciled in private stables, or sharing a garage with a car, or even a back porch. Hay and oats have returned to the family menu.

A few of these steeds are expert jumpers, trotters or pacers. But most of them are just plain plodders that pass on an exhilarating and healthful enjoyment and exercise to their riders, and spread happiness and freedom from some temptation that isn't horse fed.

A horse never drinks one for the road, or tries to knock over a tree or another horse. And nature restricts his speed. All around, he has horse sense.

Yes, Old Dobbin is galloping back. Give him a welcoming rein.

About the only thing a person can complain about without being hit over the head by some group or organization is the weather.

This Time Someone Else Is Traveling

David Lawrence Says:

Mixed Marriages Viewed in Movie

WASHINGTON — The news dispatches told the other day of an orderly demonstration by Ku Klux Klansmen in front of a theater at Jacksonville, Fla., where a movie entitled "Island in the Sun" was playing.

The inference was that this was a way of expressing objection to the showing of the film. But, unwittingly or not, the theme of the picture is the most effective argument from the Southern viewpoint that has yet been made against "integration" in the public schools.

MIXED MARRIAGES

For the movie emphasizes intermarriage of Negroes and whites and does it with a technique of plausibility that makes the whole production perhaps the boldest portrayal of color-mixing that has ever been put on the American stage on a national scale.

This correspondent, who saw the movie recently, was impressed by the skill of those who directed it. The action takes place in a British colony in the Caribbean. Though three couples of Negroes and whites are shown in dramatic situations of mutual attraction, not a single love scene of the passionate variety is included in the whole thing.

Indeed, in one of the romantic episodes, the Negro leading man rejects the direct proposal of marriage made to him by a blonde white woman. He says proudly that the people of his color would resent it and that he could not go back on the feelings and ideals of his own folks.

OPPOSITE OCCURS

This argument might as readily have been made by a white man in refusing to enter into marriage with a Negro woman. But in another part of the plot, the very opposite occurs. A white man—a highly educated young diplomat in the British Colonial Service—falls in love with a Negro girl who is employed as a secretary in the office of the governor.

The two characters are not often shown together and, when they are, it is with a certain standoffishness not customary for Hollywood technicians to use in modern movies. But in the end the two go off together, married, and sail for England.

In the third phase of the plot there is much ado about a girl in a prominent white family whose grandfather, it is suddenly alleged, was a Negro. The girl's father is at first distressed to learn about the hitherto unknown relative, but nevertheless becomes a candidate for local office and goes on the stump, professing a high regard for the colored voters, who are, of course, numerous.

His hypocrisy is attacked by the Negro leading man. Finally the father, at a public meeting, having been provoked into an outburst of anger, frankly admits that he doesn't like colored people and rushes away from the political platform.

Whether all this makes sense isn't the point. Southerners in this country have been striving for years to convince the North that the real danger in mixed schools is that it develops social relationships which can lead to intermarriage.

The movie tends to bring out in the open the subject of intermarriage and does it with good-looking people as actors so as to minimize as much as possible the element of revulsion which might have been felt by viewers as a result of less subtle treatment of the whole subject. There is, on the other hand, the possibility that youthful persons—whites and Negroes—now will regard the movie as sanctioning, if not encouraging, intermarriage.

Oddly enough, while censors have arisen in the theatrical world during recent years who changed the words of Stephen Foster's songs so as to cater to the sensibilities of Negro groups of the North, no comparable solicitude for the sensibilities of the white people of the South is exhibited in "Island in the Sun."

Naturally, many persons in the South will object to anything that tends even a remote degree of plausibility to intermarriage between whites and Negroes, but at the same time, viewed solely as a controversy in the court of public opinion, the movie is bound to focus attention on the Southern argument against school "integration."

For the Southerner in the current debate has been handicapped by the refusal of many Northerners to regard intermarriage as one of the inevitable results of school "integration."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Knowledge Can Ease Life in 3 Stages of Womanhood

In my profession, I have been impressed with the great amount of suffering due to ignorance, among (1) girls approaching womanhood, (2) expectant mothers, and (3) middle-aged women.

In my feeble way I do what I can to prevent such suffering, by offering appropriate instruction and advice respectively as follows:

1. Pamphlet on Hygiene for Girls.
2. Booklet Preparing for Maternity.
3. Pamphlet The Menopause.

Either pamphlet is free if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope. If you ask for both in close 25c. For the booklet send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

This is not to imply that ignorance has anything to do with, for instance, "hot flashes"—the most frequent complaint of middle-aged women although I do suspect that better education in physiology and hygiene in girlhood and young womanhood would prevent this distressing complaint in middle age.

Healthy women who know from experience that the menopause is not a "critical" or "dangerous" epoch have an obligation to laugh at the old fishwife superstition whenever they find a younger sister with morbid notions about "change of life."

Whose assurance could be more significant to the ignorant, misinformed or apprehensive woman than that of another woman who is no longer inconvenienced by "the curse" and evidently enjoys being alive!

Whatever names I call readers when I lose patience, I tell you now that I feel the greatest sympathy for any woman who suffers from "hot flashes." For her I offer these four suggestions:

1. Injections of an estrogenic hormone—such as amniotin, estrone, estriol. Of course, this is medical treatment—you can't do it yourself.
2. As an alternative, taking such hormone internally which the physician must prescribe or administer at first.
3. High calcium, low calorie diet.
4. Daily general exercise, equivalent to six miles of oxygen on the hoof.

Signs, letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Defends Value of Talkativeness

Carolyn's debate topic is very stimulating. Since she felt the boys were taking unfair advantage, she asked me for some supporting arguments for her side of the question. Study this case carefully and see if you agree with her side of the question.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case V-364: Carolyn B., aged 17, is a high school senior.

"Dr. Crane, we are having a debate in the young people's meeting at our Presbyterian Church next Sunday," she began.

"The question is: Resolved, that it is better to be a quiet Christian than a talkative one."

"The boy who is president of the group is defending the quiet type. And they have picked me to argue for the talkative Christian, probably because I am a girl."

"I happen to know that he is basing his remarks on a quotation from former President Calvin Coolidge, who said: 'I have never been hurt by anything I did not say.'"

"Well, what can I do to combat the authority of Mr. Coolidge? I need help. Can you offer me any suggestions?"

GOD LIKES TALKERS

Yes, and I referred Carolyn to the fourth chapter of the book of Exodus, in the Bible.

That passage deals with the selection of Moses to lead the Israelites out of Egypt.

Gripes Voiced in Newspaper Make Pretty Poor Reading

Voice of the People is available for people to voice their opinions—not to cause hurt feelings. But often it does because some of you who write in say small and petty things about individuals or a group that, for the most part, no one is interested in reading about anyway.

Everyone has a gripe, but if we all sent them into the newspaper, it would make pretty poor reading.

Next time you begin to write an article belittling someone, stop and think—is this really worth griping about, and whose feelings will I hurt this time.

Report Democrats Cool to GOP Rights Proposal

WASHINGTON — Democratic congressional leaders are reported cool to a new Republican proposal for breaking the deadlock over civil rights.

At the same time, Republican leaders are said to be in the mood to revise their proposal somewhat in an effort to win Democratic support.

There appeared considerable doubt that the two sides would get together, at least for the present, on some formula to get the stalled bill moving toward final passage.

The GOP proposal would give federal judges limited powers to punish for criminal contempt in voting rights cases, without a jury trial.

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts unveiled the Republican plan yesterday after President Eisenhower had told newsmen it was coming. Eisenhower endorsed it.

The GOP proposal would give judges sole discretion to decide whether there should be a jury trial in voting rights cases in which a person is accused of criminal contempt for violating a court injunction.

If the judge tried the case without a jury, he could impose a penalty no stronger than 90 days in jail and a $300 fine. In the event he decided there should be a jury trial the defendant—if convicted—might be imprisoned for as long as six months and fined up to $1,000.

The Democratic leaders, after studying this proposal, were understood to object to it, in part because they felt it would involve prejudgment by a judge of a possible penalty.

The bill, as passed by the Senate, would guarantee jury trials to defendants in criminal contempt cases. This would apply not only to voting rights cases but to cases arising under a wide range of laws. Conviction for criminal contempt would carry a possible penalty of up to six months in jail and up to $1,000 fine.

The House passed a civil rights bill conforming generally to the Eisenhower administration's recommendations. It would authorize the attorney general to seek injunctions against violations of civil rights in general. The House bill contains no jury trial amendment, thus permitting a judge to punish violators of injunctions without a jury trial.

The Senate wrote in the jury trial amendment after limiting the effect of the bill's injunction provisions to voting rights cases.

After the Senate passed its bill Aug. 7, the measure went back to the House, where it now is lodged in the Rules Committee.

Four Northern and Western Democrats started action last Monday to get a meeting of the committee. They filed written notice with the chairman. He had three days to decide, and that time ran out last midnight.

In giving advance word of the new GOP proposal, Eisenhower told his news conference: "To my mind, it will still leave a sufficient effectiveness in the bill so that it would be acceptable to everybody, and yet does quiet any justifiable alarms that others might have as to excessive punishment of any kind."

Martin told newsmen the Republicans were making their offer reluctantly, in order to break the deadlock. But, he said, "we feel that this would make it an effective bill and that it would insure the right of every American to vote."

Hal Boyle Says:

Want to Be an Individualist? Try These Tips

NEW YORK (U-P) Daniel Boone were born again tomorrow, he'd die of claustrophobia before he even became a teenager.

He couldn't survive the eternal sameness of life that is a growing curse in a civilization becoming ever more crowded.

How crowded can one get? Well, I was told the other day of a psychiatrist who now makes his patients lie down on his couch in pairs and tell their troubles together. The doctor allots one of his ears to each patient.

The individual man is getting lost ever more deeply in the mass of mankind. The new fetish words are teamwork and togetherness.

Nobody ever does anything by himself any more. Legend has it that Sir Isaac Newton discovered the law of gravity when a falling apple conked his noggin.

If the same thing happened today, Sir Isaac would have to issue a public statement saying: "Gentlemen, this was a team job in every way. Without the wholehearted and heart-warming support of my silent colleague, the apple tree, this great achievement would have been impossible. No man could have done it alone."

Modern man's crying need is for some form of self-expression, some way to prove his own individuality, the thing that sets him apart from rock, stone, tree and—yes, even all his other fellow men.

He needs, in other words, to be different so that his treadmill days will know the spice of variety.

Here are a few tips on how a poor worm can turn, if he dares to be different:

If your wife tells you to help with dishes, tell her flatly, "No, I'm tired of doing the dishes with you." After a little surprised argument, she will give in. Then you can go into the kitchen and do the dishes all by yourself.

Does the waiter habitually keep you waiting for half an hour before asking your order? Remember, you don't have to take this kind of treatment sitting down. Bawl him out. Then stand up and wait.

Are you bored with getting the same dunning letters from a loan company? Why not borrow from another firm? Then you can get the same old dunning letters over a different signature?

Change your daily habits. If you've been smoking a cigarette with only 20,000 tiny filters, switch to a brand with 20,001 tiny filters.

Pep up your hobbies. If you've devoted some of the best years of your leisure to watching rose-breasted grosbeaks, try watching a new bird, such as the downy-throated dowager. Better yet, forget birds and turn to animals. Study poolroom sharks.

Naturally, the question arises, how about women? Is there no way to make women more different?

Yes, there is—but they probably won't do it.

The best way for modern women to become more different, all experts agree, is for them to become less indifferent.

That'll be the day.

Exchange Gap Tops Earlier Estimate

NEW DELHI — India estimates that the gap in foreign exchange resources during the second five-year plan, ending in March, 1961, will be substantially larger than the original estimate of 11 billion rupees ($2,310,000,000).

The Finance Ministry now expects the total foreign-exchange deficit to amount to 15 billion rupees ($3,150,000,000).

With current foreign exchange resources and a continuation of aid at roughly the present level from the Colombo Plan countries and the United States, total foreign exchange resources in sight come to only about 50 per cent of total requirements.

Americans Masters at Sandwich Making

By PHYLIS BATTLE
NEW YORK (INS) — August is "National Sandwich Month." The reason we are late in mentioning this is that, due to the in-temperate weather in these parts, we have not been able to think much beyond a chef's salad and iced tea.

This week, however, the mercury has fallen heavily — like a hot dog come upon an oasis — and suddenly the significance and sanctity of the sandwich is all so apparent. In thinking back on the sandwiches we have enjoyed, from mother's own peanut butter-and-jelly to Schrafft's special mushroom-giblet-onion-beef spread, we could almost drool.

The sandwich, as anyone knows who reads Webster's dictioary, was named for John Montagu, 4th Earl of Sandwich. Apparently he invented the two-slice system, or at least backed it with some lettuce.

Montagu was British, and what is hard for a true sandwich devotee to understand, is why in its own homeland, the sandwich is such a wizened, miserly affair. To consume a sandwich in London offers one about the same taste treat as one might receive from eating a thin slice of dry bread spread with unflavored cream cheese, garnished with a water-cress leaf.

LOOK, BUT DON'T DRINK

But then, Italy is the home of the martini cocktail, and just look (just look, never drink) at what they do to THAT.

America, of course, takes all the old world creations and makes them bigger, fancier, zippier and tippler — depending on the product at hand. And this is exactly what has happened to the Earl's suggestion for noon and teatime snacking.

Here, in the all-new super-world, we have sandwiches with from two to five slices of bread heavily-laden with the wildest assortment of accessories. They are called "Heroes," "Dagwoods," "Killers," "Burgs," and ad nauseum.

The average U.S. sandwich outdoes the average English sandwich by one pound, 1,000 calories and 15 shillings. In fact, nutritionists would agree that one New York delicatessen sandwich, expected of it, would feed a starving Armenian — if you could locate one nowadays — for a fortnight.

Because some readers in less gluttonous towns may not be aware of the length to which sandwich-makers have gone (not to mention depth and rye bread), we here present some of the current styles which are pulling in top coin in New York:

BURP!

1) The "Double-Barrel"—which consists of dill pickles from the bottom of the barrel where they are briniest, combined soporifically with a bland peanut butter, a delicately flavored mayonnaise, and a crunchy sprinkling of crisp bacon.

2) The "Off-Wow!" — a three-layer model, properly made with hovis' bread for nourishment, and featuring egg salad, sardines, sliced tomatoes, a whiff of capers; the "wow" portion is the final onlaying, by a generous hand, of sliced Spanish onions.

3) The "Garlic Gorilla"—this is a six-layer sandwich composed of two slices of bread, enclosing six layers of sliced garlic. It is especially popular because it tends to conceal the mouth odors caused by smoking, drinking or sea-sen.

There is much to be said about "National Sandwich Month," its causes and defects. But perhaps this will do until the bicarbonate takes hold . . .

Fliers Must Agree to Stay in Service

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)—More than two-thirds of the officers and cadets taking pilots' training at Lackland Air Force Base have signed statements saying they will complete at least four years duty after they get their wings.

A public information officer said the commitment was required by a new order intended to keep combat-trained personnel in the Air Force and increase the percentage of pilots becoming either regular officers or career reserve officers. All 300 cadets signed the commitment and 58 per cent of the 450 officers taking training agreed to the extension.

Almost 40,000 persons die of snakebite each year over the world.

Police Turn Speechless at Penny-Honest Driver

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (INS)—The honesty of a motorist so startled Grants Pass police they failed to get his name.

The man walked into the station, plunked down four pennies and explained he had parked his car in a meter zone for an hour but one penny stuck in the slot all the time, so he figured he owed the city the other four.

Having paid his debt, the man walked out the door, leaving the officers pleasantly stunned and speechless.

Intricate Construction in Capsule

Balloon Flight Took 4 Years to Plan

FARGO, N. D. — Operation ManHigh, the Air Force's project that sent Maj. David G. Simons to a record altitude for manned balloons, was the result of months of work and years of planning.

The project was started four years ago at the direction of Col. John P. Stapp, the man who risked death on a speeding rocket sled.

Winzen Research, Inc., which built Simons' balloon and gondola, began experiments in 1933 with high-altitude flights carrying laboratory animals to test their endurance.

Convinced a chamber could be built and an "artificial atmosphere" created inside it to sustain man at high altitude for long periods of time, Otto Winzen, head of the balloon firm, and Stapp agreed to go ahead with the ManHigh project.

They fabricated a thin polyethylene plastic balloon 280 feet long, capable of holding three million cubic feet of helium; one which would inflate to a diameter of 202 feet.

Winzen's firm built a gondola to be suspended from the big balloon, and a huge cargo parachute for landing.

The gondola, described as a "vacuum bottle" because of its construction, was needed to protect Simons from heat, cold and the deadly lack of air at the 100,000-foot altitude he reached this week.

Installed in the aluminum capsule was an air conditioner, an air regenerator, a device to remove excess moisture and a myriad of instruments to test his physical reactions during the flight.

Fifty pounds of dry ice were carried to cool the little capsule. Heat generated by Simons' body would be suffocating.

On the exterior of the gondola, heavy, crinkled foil was wrapped around to reflect the sun's rays. Since the high altitude flight needed an extra thin balloon fabric and since the flight was the most critical ever attempted, the "aerostat," as balloon and capsule were called, was launched from a deep, open pit iron mine at Crosby, Minn.

The mine, the H. M. Hanna Co. Portsmouth installation, is a mile long, a quarter of a mile wide and 425 feet deep. It provided an ideal launching site.

The balloon thus was protected from possible damage by winds, to the Air Force soon a plan to gondola to altitudes similar to Col. Stapp said he will present send four or five men in a large those reached by Maj. Simons.

Pleads Guilty to Charge

CHARLEVOIX — Mrs. Kenneth Hunt, 40, of Boyne City, pleaded guilty in circuit court of negligent homicide in the traffic death of Mrs. Effie Johnson, 78. She is waiting probation department investigation of her case. Mrs. Hunt was the driver of an auto which collided July 7 in Boyne city with a car in which the victim was riding.

Cincinnati was founded in 1788 by 26 settlers. Population today is about 320,000 in the city proper; 950,000 in the metropolitan district.

Official Takes New Post

GRAND RAPIDS — Clarence Start, treasurer of suburban Wyoming Township, has announced plans to resign to become business manager for the Christian Reformed Church Board of Missions, Indian Field, at Rehoboth, N. M. He expects to leave next month for the new post.

Sweets in Lunch Box Liven Eating Interest

Carrying lunch to school can be a lark for awhile. However, after a few weeks it becomes routine. A sweet tucked into a lunch box helps revive interest. Here is an easy one to make.

CEREAL BAR COOKIES

Nineteen junior-size shredded wheat biscuits; 1 (6 oz.) package semi-sweet chocolate pieces; ¼ cup honey; 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; ½ cup chopped nuts.

In top of double boiler, combine chocolate pieces, honey and butter. Heat over hot water, stirring occasionally, until chocolate melts. Stir in nuts.

Dip junior-size shredded wheat in chocolate mixture until cereal is completely coated. Arrange in greased 8-inch-square cake pan. Chill thoroughly. Separate each cereal bar with knife. Makes 19 bars.

Arizona tree farmers each sold an average of more than $2,900 worth of timber products last year.

GRAND RAPIDS — A bullet wound ultimately became a stepping stone for a career in the South Korean diplomatic corps for Kim Sang Kyu, 31, traveling today toward his home in Seoul.

Kyu was returning with a Master of International Laws degree from University of Michigan.

He credits much of his progress to Dr. John Doyle, a Grand Rapids pediatrician for whom he served as interpreter during the Korean War. Dr. Doyle then was an Army physician.

Their bond of friendship dates back to 1950 when Kyu suffered a bullet wound in the leg and was treated by Dr. Doyle in an Army hospital.

Kyu, who had served five years in counterintelligence work for the Americans, later became the physician's interpreter and informal aide. His service inspired Dr. Doyle to sponsor Kyu in the United States and finance his university studies the past two years.

"He has given me overwhelming financial aid," Kyu says.

Dr. Doyle replies:

"I sponsored him because I felt here was a fellow with the qualifications and ability to add something to that part of the world, but who couldn't get the necessary training there . . .

"Gratitude also played a part—he got me out of numerous tight scrapes." Dr. Doyle explains that Kim always took over whenever they were challenged by jittery ROK sentries.

Kyu recalls Dr. Doyle devoted much of his time to furnish medical aid for hundreds of Korean villagers hit by diseases resulting from malnutrition and lack of sanitation.

"He never spared any efforts to help them," Kyu says, recalling that the doctor once visited needy villagers with his leg in a cast after suffering a broken ankle.

After Dr. Doyle was returned home in 1951, Kyu entered University of Seoul where he earned a law degree.

In 1955 he was one of only four liberal arts students among a group of 800 in competition to receive free transportation to the United States from the American-Korean Foundation.

He lived with the Doyle family while in Grand Rapids.

Kyu will be reunited in Seoul with his wife and three children, who have been staying with his relatives.

24-Hour Production Seen for Vaccine

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (U)—The U. S. Surgeon General hopes that a 24-hour production schedule will make enough Asiatic flu vaccine available for 60 million inoculations by late winter.

Addressing the closing general session of the sixth annual state health conference, Dr. Leroy E. Burney said yesterday that state public health and medical groups will urge the vaccination of key groups according to priorities established by individual states.

"It is hoped that a nationwide epidemic in the winter of 1957-58 can thus be averted," he declared. Authorities have already warned that the flu virus threatens to reach epidemic proportions in this country this winter.

"The vaccine is already becoming available in small amounts for the civilian population and there is real hope that at least 60 million cubic centimeters will have been released by Feb. 1," Burney addressed stated. It was read for him by Dr. David Price, assistant surgeon general.

Dr. Burney advised that the quickest way to avert an epidemic is to promote widespread vaccination.

Set Up Museum for Rail Fugitives

Famous Iron Horses
Expected to Attract Multitude of Visitors

NEW YORK — Fugitives from the scrapyards—the famous iron horses of the railroad industry—are expected to attract tens of thousands of visitors to the Ozarks this year.

The collection of old locomotives and other historic rail equipment stands in a museum—the Museum of Transport—16 miles southwest of the St. Louis Union Station and straddles the original roadbed of the first railroad west of the Mississippi to break through the wilderness over a century ago.

The official publication of American Iron and Steel Institute says the museum was established when officials of five trunk lines gave friendly ear to a proposal by an independent educational corporation to set up a collection of relics, establish a library and encourage research into rail history.

Among the museum's rarities are rails that are pear chipped in cross section and were rolled in Wales in 1851 for the Pacific Railroad coursing west out of St. Louis to the Santa Fe trail.

Visitors also can see strap rail of 1837 from the old Northern Cross, now the Washburn System, along with dining car china of ancient vintage, bells, whistles, lamps, tickets, timetables and engineers' caps and other enticing paraphernalia of the past.

Baruch Watched Nation, World Closely

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
INS Staff Writer

Few persons have watched the affairs of men and nations more closely than Bernard M. Baruch.

And few men have contributed more to their country.

It was lucky that Baruch was able to amass a fortune early in life as a Wall Street financier.

For it enabled him to widen his interests and give much of his valuable time to the service of his government.

President Woodrow Wilson started Baruch off in the role that was to make him famous, that of "elder statesman" and adviser to Presidents.

Wilson, impressed by Baruch's business ability, perception and drive, induced him to become a member of the Advisory Commission, Council of National Defense, in the first world war.

Baruch's advice on governmental affairs was sound and the President began to rely upon him more and more. Wilson nicknamed him "Doctor Facts" because of his ability to get things done and his knack of giving crystal-clear analysis of situations that came within his range.

On March 5, 1918, Wilson appointed Baruch chairman of the war industries board, to run the nation's economic mobilization.

While Wilson was President he often consulted Baruch on important developments. And in the decades that followed, other Presidents turned to Baruch in times of crisis.

In Baruch's opinion, Wilson—though abhorring war—made a great war President.

Baruch believes Wilson was right in his fervent advocacy of the League of Nations. The Senate, however, rebuffed Wilson by keeping the United States out of the League. Baruch says:

LEAGUE IS NEEDED
"The great catastrophe of the second world war and the coming of guided missiles and atomic weapons have made it plain beyond doubt that Wilson's goal of an organization of nations for peace and against war is the absolute essential of survival on this planet."

"You know," said Wilson, "if I had not been stricken, I would have carried through the League, but God has a mysterious way of working. Perhaps the people of the world were not ready for it, and it would not have worked. Some day they will go into it voluntarily and it will bring to the world what I had hoped for . . ."

When war clouds threatened in the 1930s, Baruch was one of the first to sense that Adolf Hitler's policies were drawing the U.S. into another conflict. In 1935, Baruch called Hitler "the greatest menace in the world."

Baruch gave President Roosevelt a program for wage-price controls and elimination of profiteering in war contracts. In 1942 he was selected by FDR to study the nation's synthetic rubber program.

And, two years later, as a special adviser to the Office of War Mobilization, he gave the President a blueprint to speed up war production and ease transition to peace-time economy.

SENT TO U.N. GROUP
In Truman's administration,

Baruch was named first U.S. delegate to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission. He became noted as the author of "The Baruch Plan" for international control of atomic weapons.

Baruch maintained that there should be strict control and inspection of nuclear stocks in various countries before there could be any prohibition of the use of atomic weapons.

Despite Soviet Russia's objections, Baruch stuck to his policies on atomic weapons. He ultimately relinquished his post with the commission.

In spite of Baruch's advancing years, Dwight D. Eisenhower also sought his advice when he became President.

Baruch occasionally drops in at the White House for a chat with President Eisenhower. He was particularly grateful to Ike for coming to New York on Aug. 19, 1953—Baruch's 53rd birthday—to dedicate Baruch Houses, a project named in honor of his father. About one-third of the nation's solid fuel is from some form of lignite.

The elementary school at Twelve Mile and Evergreen has 13 classrooms and will take care of 450 students, including a kindergarten.

Assistant Supt. of Schools Glenn Levey said this morning another elementary school and a 20-room addition to the present high school is planned when the $4 million bond issue approved by voters June 18 of this year is sanctioned by the Municipal Finance Commission, Lansing.

Schools in the city of Lathrup Village also will open on Wednesday, Sept. 4, and full-day sessions are scheduled.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH A. SHARA

Shara-Kohn Rite Solemnized

225 Witness Service

ORTONVILLE — A double-ring ceremony in the Methodist Church here Saturday united in marriage Mary Jane Kohn and Joseph Arthur Shara. The Rev. Isaac McPhee read the service before 225 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Kohn of Ortonville and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shara of Rochester.

For the ceremony, she chose a floor-length gown of heavy lace over tulle, fashioned with three-tiered hoop skirt.

Her fingertip veil was caught with a crown of white stephanotis. Matching stephanotis with white satin streamers adorned the bridegroom's prayerbook, which his bride carried.

Big 10 Idea to Push Michigan Apples

State, County Groups Join for Drive

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Kiwanis Clubs of Oakland, Wayne and Genesee Counties, apple growers, food retailers, restaurants, and the Michigan Apple Commission will soon launch a drive to push the sale and use of Michigan apples.

This cooperative effort will be publicized in many ways. Officials of the various organizations will strive to inform local housewives of the advantages of cooking and eating Michigan apples.

A joint meeting has been set for 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 5, at West Bloomfield Township Hall, 4400 Orchard Lake Rd.

Among those invited are Holland F. Patterson, secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Apple Commission; Edward H. Erwin, president of the Apple Growers and Storage Assn.; Ray Louvas, executive-secretary of Greater Detroit Food Handlers; Maurice Croteau, president of Michigan Food Retailers Association and Josephine Lawyer, who represents the Oakland County Home Extension workers.

Also invited are Ben Mossman, of Wrigley's; Clarence Kersten of National Food Stores; Art Kerkas, of Atlantic and Pacific chain stores; Robert Elliott, of Kroger's; and Joseph Genovesi, of Food Fair Markets.

The group will plan a unified program that is expected to boost sales of Michigan apples.

the Hidden Paradise, located in Commerce Township.

Kiwanis Club officials hope to enlist the help of 1,800 Oakland County home extension workers to aid in the promotion of the contests.

Kiwanians are timing their drive with that of the Michigan State Apple Commission's harvest time promotion to be known as "The Big Ten."

The apple industry's Big Ten program is tied to the name of the Midwest's familiar football college league which bears the same title.

Monday, Sept. 9, this city's estimated 5,000 students will be on full schedule for the first time in three or four years, said Supt. of Schools Dr. James Pepper.

The new elementary Eleanor Roosevelt School at Ten Mile and Greenfield will open, its 15 rooms housing 500 students. Additions to the Francis Scott Key elementary school will be finished.

The new junior-senior high school at Oak Park boulevard and Coolidge will be open, with its staff of 75 teachers and 60 rooms to house 1,300 students. It boasts, among other things, a new library, industrial art shop and auditorium with varicolored seats and seating capacity for 1,000.

Madison Heights

New additions to the Monroe, Vanderburg and Edison elementary schools last spring will make it possible for the anticipated 3,700 students to have full-day schedules when school opens here Sept. 5.

However, Supt. of Schools F. Foster Wilkinson said the junior-senior high school at John R., housing 7th to 12th grade students, will be in session from 8 a.m. to 4:15 p.m., to take care of the overflow of students.

LAKE ORION — The home of the Rev. Marie Rundell was the scene of the Saturday wedding of Margaret Marie Swagert and Jack Leo Visner.

Fined for Violating Commerce Ordinance

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — Hubert Delano, of Carroll Lake Heights subdivision, was found guilty on a charge of occupying a house trailer in violation of a township ordinance last night.

He appeared before John C. Weick, justice of the peace for Commerce Township, at the township hall. Delano was fined $10 and assessed $5 court costs. He was ordered to vacate the house trailer as soon as practicable.

Families and close friends witnessed the ceremony, and 75 attended the reception at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William East of 46 Elizabeth St. and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ouel of 14 Fairgrove Ave.

The bride's gown was fashioned of ice blue nylon, with draped bodice forming the cummerbund and bustle bow. Her corsage was of feathered carnations.

Mrs. Clifton King was her matron of honor and Margaret Harvey was the bridesmaid.

Jack Visner, brother of the groom, from Rochester, was the best man, and Clifton King, of Oxford, ushered.

Killed in 45 Foot Plunge

ROYAL OAK — Marvin L. Ray, 21, of this city, was killed yesterday when he fell 45 feet from an exhaust stack. He was painting the stack at the Northtown Transit Mix Co., 2315 14 Mile Rd. here, when one of the cables holding him slipped and he plunged to the ground.

MR. and MRS. ROBERT TOTTON

Totten-Griffin Rite Read; 400 at Utica Reception

ROMEO — St. John Lutheran Church was the scene of a double-ring ceremony Saturday evening, in which Elizabeth Griffin became the bride of Robert William Totten.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Griffin, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Totten.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a white lace gown fashioned with high scalloped neckline, satin cummerbund and train panel of net forming a wide hem around the skirt. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was fastened to a tiara frosted with sequins and seed pearls.

She carried a cascade arrangement of carnations with rhinestone accents centered with a white orchid.

Maid of honor was Marjorie Streeter. Bridesmaids were Mrs. LaVern Yenglin, sister of the bridegroom, and the bride's aunt, Mrs. Howard Falker.

The best man was LaVern Yenglin, and seating the guests were the bride's brother, Robert Griffin, and Anthony Zellony of Walled Lake.

Cousins of the bride, Beverly and Richard Falker, attended as flower girl and ring bearer respectively.

Following the ceremony, a reception for some 400 guests was held in the American Legion Hall in Utica. After their honeymoon trip through northern Michigan, the newlyweds will set up housekeeping on South Main street in Romeo.

Start Building New Hospital

Steel Construction on Community Facility Will Begin Next Week

ROMEO — Steel for the framework of the new Community Hospital is due this weekend, Romeo Rotarians have learned from hospital board president, Thomas K. Richards of Almont.

He said work on the new medical facilities is proceeding according to schedule with the steel skeleton scheduled for erection early next week.

The new, 30-bed hospital which will be expandable to 70-80 beds is under construction on Van Dyke, (M33) between Romeo and Almont.

Richards also reported that pledge receipts had been "gratifying" thus far and added that he expected the goal of $450,000 to be reached by the building's completion date next March.

He said however, that more money will be needed to equip the building and another drive is planned in the near future.

Of interest to the 13 communities to be served by the new facility was the report that the same floor plan evolved by the local hospital building committee and architects has been adopted by Mason for its new hospital.

Expect Talks on Arms to End

U.S. Officials Doubtful of Reaching Agreement in Next 2 Weeks

WASHINGTON (U.S.)—U.S. officials expect the London disarmament talks to recess in about two weeks without agreement for ending the East-West arms race.

President Eisenhower's new concession to Russia on suspending nuclear tests is regarded here as improving the Western position for negotiating and propaganda. But it does not appear to have broken the basic deadlock.

A White House statement yesterday announced Western readiness to accept conditionally a two-year—instead of a 10-month—suspension of tests. This statement implied that the Soviet Union must now make concessions.

There have been no indications the Soviet Union will make any important gesture soon.

On the contrary, Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin told American, British, French and Canadian representatives yesterday that if they intend seriously to end nuclear tests they must renounce the link between that issue and the Western demand for an agreement to stop production of atomic explosions for military purposes.

Zorin, according to a report to the State Department, welcomed the offer for a two-year test suspension when it was formally presented by U.S. negotiator Harold Stassen with Eisenhower's personal authorization. But news dispatches from London quoted Zorin as saying the new Western proposal contains too many unacceptable conditions. Zorin did, however, promise to give the proposal careful study.

Russia had proposed in mid-June that tests be suspended for two or three years and had then repeatedly attacked the Western insistence on the 10-month period. An Eisenhower statement described the new Western offer as a significant change in U.S. disarmament policy.

The statement emphasized that any suspension of nuclear weapons tests would be agreed to by the United States and its allies only under "certain conditions and safeguards."

Ex-Grimes Suspect Freed in Other Case

DELAND, Fla. (INS)—Edward L. (Bennie) Bedwell, former Chicago skid row dishwasher, was acquitted tonight on a statutory rape charge by an all-male jury of six that deliberated only 23 minutes.

Bedwell, who previously was a prime suspect in the sensational Grimes sisters murder case in Chicago, was tried in Circuit Court at Deland on charges of raping a 13-year-old girl on March 9, 1956.

When the verdict was read before Judge Robert H. Wingfield, Bedwell's mother, Mrs. Ethel L. Bradberry, rushed forward and embraced her son, declaring:

"I knew he was innocent. It was terrible both times."

She referred to Bedwell's arrest in Chicago in connection with the murder of the two Grimes sisters, Barbara, 15, and Patricia, 15, whose nude bodies were found early this year on Chicago's southwest side.

Bedwell admitted the crime, then repudiated his confession and finally was released by Illinois authorities.

Bus Travel Lags

CHICAGO — Passengers carried by railroads in 1956 were seven tenths of one per cent below the 1955 figure while passengers carried by intercity motor buses declined by 6.6 per cent.

U.S. Newsmen Would Go on Trial Basis Expect End to China Ban

WASHINGTON (U.S.)—The Eisenhower administration was reported today to announce soon that about 20 American newsmen will be permitted to go to Red China on a six-month trial basis. The announcement, expected in the next day or so, would end an eight-year blackout on eyewitness news stories written by American reporters operating on the China mainland—provided the Communists still are willing to let them in.

Secretary of State Dulles has worked out a plan after polling newspaper, radio and television executives. This survey produced a list of news agencies which want to station correspondents permanently in Red China. Administration officials called it helpful.

It was understood the 12 agencies which previously had men on the China mainland told Dulles they want to send representatives back again.

These agencies included The Associated Press, United Press, International News Service, Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co., Mutual Broadcasting System, New York Times, New York Herald Tribune, Chicago Tribune, Chicago Daily News, Christian Science Monitor and Time magazine. Eight or so others, not named, requested permission to station reporters in China permanently.

There was another list. It included news organizations interested in temporary correspondents. But Dulles was understood to have decided such a "one-shot" expedition would have to wait until he saw how the others fared during the six-month trial.

If all went well, the 20 or so permanent correspondents could stay on, and other newsmen could be permitted to make visits.

The administration has been under heavy pressure to let American reporters go to Red China. This would mean waiving regulations which ban use of American passports for travel to the China mainland. There also is a ban on travel by Americans to North Korea, North Viet Nam and Bulgaria—all Communist-held areas with which the United States has no diplomatic relations.

Average Death Age Up

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (U.S.)—The Chamber of Commerce wasted no time in picking this one up. A spot check of Bernalillo County records show the average death age in the county at 62 years—up from 40 years during the 1902-10 era.

A-Reactors Study Fund Bill Signed

Ike Passes Measure for Preliminary Work on U.S.-Built Plants

WASHINGTON (U.S.)—President Eisenhower has signed an atomic energy construction bill authorizing preliminary studies on nuclear power reactors to be built by the government.

Senate Democrats had proposed a reactor construction program over administration protests. When the authorization legislation finally was passed Tuesday, it contained no provision for actual construction of the disputed reactors, but only planning authority.

In a statement issued yesterday when he signed the bill, Eisenhower said the measure is a great improvement indeed over bills introduced early in the session to build and operate a number of full-scale power reactors at a cost for construction alone of 400 million dollars of public money.

About the time that statement was issued, the House passed and sent to the Senate an appropriations bill which would provide the actual funds for projects contained in the authorization bill signed by the President.

Over 500 Million Dollars Lost in 1956

Employee Dishonesty Up

BALTIMORE (U.S.)—Employee dishonesty is growing prodigiously as an American business hazard.

B. H. Mercer, head of Fidelity and Deposit Co. of Maryland, estimates American employers lost more than 500 million dollars last year to dishonest employees.

His firm is the country's largest insurer of employee honesty and Mercer is an expert in the detection and effect of embezzlement. Even fire, the traditional first fear of businessmen, takes a back seat to embezzlement, Mercer says.

"Furthermore, the trend of embezzlement is steadily rising." The amount bonding companies are paying out has shot upward nearly 400 per cent since 1944. Last year, Mercer says, they handled about 50,000 separate honesty insurance claims.

Nationally, police estimate embezzlement and fraud arrests have increased 40 per cent in the last five years.

One expert said it was impossible to give any estimate of the number of embezzlers caught since many cases go unrecognized for a number of years and many who are caught make private arrangements for restitution. An employer or auditor can usually put his finger on the culprit when money is missing, however.

The Washington, D.C., Police Department reports that more than 900 men and women were arrested for embezzlement last year, an increase of 20 per cent over 1955.

The American Bankers Assn. reports an increase of 40 per cent in the number of major bank embezzlements uncovered during 1956. During the first six months alone, 35 embezzlements of $10,000 or more were discovered.

One of the most costly cases of 1956 struck at the bank account of a large drug company, a model of efficient management. The firm discovered that three of its trusted, long-time employees had systematically smuggled half a million dollars worth of drugs out of the plant and sold them to distributors at a fraction of their value.

A well-managed Washington, D.C., hospital found it had been taken for $137,000 by its chief clerk.

Why is the picture darkening? Authorities say first of all that embezzlements are bigger simply because everything else has grown—larger businesses handling more money. Then, too, the present scarcity of labor in many fields is forcing employers to be less selective in hiring.

Embezzlement is not a product of "hard times," according to crime experts. They say the person who steals from an employer as a means of solving a real hardship is rare.

In the majority of cases, embezzlements are committed to finance necessities the employees' honest earnings cannot support.

The treasurer of a Tulsa, Okla., credit union went to jail last year for stealing $15,000, part of which went for an air-conditioned car. The bookkeeper of a real estate agency admitted stealing $70,000 for cars, jewelry and an expensive home.

Gambling is the root of many an employee dishonesty loss, Mercer says.

2 State VFW Men Seek Office at National Parley

LANSING, Mich. (U.S.)—The Michigan branch of the Veterans of Foreign Wars said today that two state men will be honored for opening its 58th national convention at Miami Beach, Fla., Sunday.

State VFW officials said more than 500 Michigan delegates were going to the convention to push for the election of Joseph W. Mann of Detroit for national junior vice commander, and Leon B. Buer of Grand Rapids for judge advocate. The Michigan delegation also will push for the election of Mrs. Ben Hutzel of Chelsea for national treasurer of the Ladies Auxiliary, and present an official bid that Detroit be named the site of the 1960 convention.

Helsingborg, Sweden, and Elsinore, Denmark, on opposite sides of Oresund, the strait connecting the Baltic and North seas, plan a joint exposition. The Baltic Exhibition, as it will be called, will occur June 4-23, 1957, in both cities.

Hired, Fired, Rehired Chief Attorney Girard Finally Retained Master Court Straegist

By KAY TATEISHI

TOKYO (U.S.—) William S. Girard, hired, fired and then rehired one of Japan's master courtroom strategists as chief defense attorney for his Japanese trial on charges of killing a woman scrap metal collector.

Itsuro Hayashi, at 64 a chubby, affable connoisseur of fine foods, is rated one of Japan's top trial lawyers. Hayashi himself is confident Girard could have picked no better attorney.

"I am the most capable criminal lawyer in Japan," he says with no trace of conceit. "My record speaks for itself."

Hayashi will mastermind the defense of the 21-year-old Illinois soldier charged with the death of Mrs. Naka Sakai on a lonely firing range last Jan. 30. The trial opens Monday in Maebashi District Court, about 80 miles north of here.

Girard fired Hayashi June 8 on orders from his older brother in Ottawa, Ill., at the height of an international controversy over whether Japan had jurisdiction over the controversial case. The U.S. Supreme Court ruled in favor of Japan and Girard and his legal military adviser, Maj. Stanley Levin, reinstated Hayashi.

Hayashi—fond of sports, which he follows on television—was a swimmer, a marathon runner, and a kendo fencer (Japanese fencing) during his youth. He is married and has an adopted daughter, now married.

Today he maintains a modest law office on the second floor of a big wine shop in the heart of Tokyo. His office is lined with books on Japanese jurisprudence. He himself has never written a book on law, but his prolific pen turns out endless travelogues and essays on food for magazines.

His brother-in-law Hentaro Takuchi says Hayashi regards the Girard case as the most important he has handled.

He does not speak English and has never been outside Japan. He confers with Girard through an interpreter.

Hayashi, who doesn't smoke but takes an occasional drink of sake, first gained prominence serving on a five-member trial counsel defending 12 young military cadet rebels who mutined and murdered Prime Minister Ruyoshi Inukai and a guard May 12, 1932. All escaped with light prison terms.

Hayashi previously has defended four American soldiers, including a friend of Girard's. Hayashi believes this was the primary reason Girard selected him as his defense counsel.

"I will not let public opinion influence my work," Hayashi says. "I will seek a just and fair trial and will defend my client to the best of my ability."

He will be assisted by Shohel Sammonji and Kohel Imama during the nine-session trial scheduled to end Oct. 18.

Dionne Quints' Parents to Move Into Small Home

CALLANDER, Ont. (U.S.—) Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, parents of the quintuplets, say they will move into a new, smaller home before Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Dionne and their two sons still living at home—Victor, 19, and Claude, 11—will leave the 18-room mansion into which the entire family of 15, including the quintuplets, moved in 1943.

The Dionne's new home, now under construction about 500 yards west of the present home in this community six miles southeast of North Bay, is a ranch-style, grey brick bungalow with three bedrooms.

"The present house is just too big for us, now that there are only four of us living in it," Dionne said today.

Two of the four surviving Quints, Cecile, who plans to be married this fall, and Yvonne, are finishing courses as student nurses in Montreal. The other two, Annette and Marie, are also living in Montreal. The fifth, Emilie, died in August 1954.

RICOCHET JOB — Idaho farmer Frank Stevens, tired of bullet-ridden mail, built triangular steel box to thwart passers-by who used his old one for target practice.

Not Hard to Find

BISBEE, Ariz. (U.S.—) A local couple had little trouble locating their missing parakeet when they reported to the Bisbee Daily Review that the bird was easily recognizable by his voice. The parakeet, they said, had a habit of alighting on people's shoulders and saying: "Vive la France! To hell with the Russians."

Southpaw Penmen Seen as Freaks by Japanese

TOKYO (INS)—Southpaws may be considered screwballs in the U. S., but in Japan they're practically freaks.

Rare as a whooping crane is the Japanese who picks up a pencil or a set of chop sticks with his left hand.

CLERKS GASP

Sign your name—left-handed—in a Japanese store. A clerk will gasp an amazed "Ooh," a girl behind you will giggle and before long spectators will queue up to watch the show.

You may throw a baseball left-handed. You may hit a golf ball from the portside. But never, never will you write a syllable left-handed.

Take Shoichi Kaneda, the greatest southpaw pitcher Japan's major leagues have ever seen. Kaneda set a record for the Central League's Kokuteisu Swallows by winning at least 20 games a year for seven straight years—with his strong left arm.

But when it comes to signing a check or wielding a set of chop sticks Kaneda is strictly a right-hander.

Several theories explain the paucity of portersiders in the Land of the Rising Sun.

The belief was widespread—and persists even today in some rural areas—that left-handedness was plain unlucky. Parents would wallop it out of their young.

The feudal Samurai all hitched their swords to the left hip for a right-handed draw. A southpaw Samurai would have been carved

Education President Attends Conference

Vera Mae Adams, president of the Pontiac Education Assn., is attending a three-day fall leadership training conference this week. Miss Adams, a radio speech teacher at Pontiac High School, is among 200 Michigan Education Assn. district presidents who are at the state organization's camp on St. Mary's Lake near Battle Creek. Sessions on membership promotion problems and mechanics, public relations, legislation, ethics, improving local school programs and raising standards of instruction are scheduled for during the conference.

Pillow Fights Capital in Washington, D.C.

ROANOKE, Va. (U.S.—) Twelve-year-old Johnny Grove was one of 185 boys here who went to Washington to take part in a safety patrol parade. He visited the capital, climbed the stairs to the top of the Washington Monument and saw all the sights. His father, Dr. John P. Grove, asked what he enjoyed most.

"The pillow fights," was the reply.

He Gives Granite 'Facials'

(A staff of five men, headed by a maintenance man who is a sculptor, work every year to keep the age from showing on the four granite faces of Mt. Rushmore. A reporter for the Rapid City, S. D., Journal tells of their enormous job.)

By KEN JUMPER

Written for the Associated Press
As a beautician of sorts, Glenn T. Jones has probably the world's biggest face lifting job every year.

Applying his own brand of skin cream, Jones has stuck his feet in the eyes of four of the nation's most famous faces.

The nimble National Park Service maintenance man has the job of giving yearly "facials" to the huge, stony figures of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt that make up Mount Rushmore in South Dakota's Black Hills.

Jones' job is to keep the famous granite memorial in repair—to keep the massive faces looking like a smooth, white, sculptured monument for the million tourists who view it every year from the other side of a valley.

His task takes on impressive proportions. So huge is the "Shrine of Democracy," Jones could take a short stroll on Roosevelt's mustache, stretch out for a nap on Jefferson's eyelid or play a precarious game of shuffleboard atop Washington's powered wig. To wear such faces, a man would have to stand 465 feet tall.

WEATHER PLAYS HAVOC

South Dakota's variable weather plays havoc with the 60-foot faces that were carved in the side of Mount Rushmore two decades ago by sculptor Gutzon Borglum.

Moisture freezes in cracks on the great countenances opening fissures in the granite and paving the way for greater damage and erosion.

Heading a five-man crew that surveys Rushmore every spring, Jones holds the lone classification in the park service of "maintenance man—buildings, utilities—and sculptor."

He is one of the original rock drillers employed when Borglum undertook the herculean task of turning a mountain into a statue.

The work was finished seven months after Borglum's death in 1941.

Jones, sticking close to Rushmore after its completion, is the only man entrusted with working directly on the faces.

Toting a bucket filled with a "cosmetic" made of dry white lead, linseed oil and rock dust, Jones rides a seat resembling a bus's chair over the side of the mountain.

USE WINCHES FOR UPS, DOWNS

He daubs the material into cracks, shouting instructions to other members of the crew, who man winches to raise or lower him.

"The rock dust gives the patched cracks the same color as the natural surfaces so they aren't visible from the public viewing point below," says Jones.

"We try to do two faces a year, but we do the tops of the heads each year."

While Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt get the rock dust treatment on their faces, a thin mortar is used to seal cracks on the tops of their heads to prevent seepage and subsequent further cracking.

Once, there were rumors that made it look like Jones would lose his clients.

Charles Humberger, park service superintendent for Rushmore, said rumors got started several years ago that the faces were about to crumble off the mountain-side. Tourists saw what appeared to be a big crack, Humberger said it was merely a patch of darker rock running through Lincoln's face.

"Since then," Humberger said, "we try to keep the cracks filled with material of the same color of the natural surface."

Notre Dame Creates New Faculty Fund

NOTRE DAME, Ind., (INS)—Notre Dame University has announced creation of a $5 million fund to be used exclusively for faculty development. Nucleus of the fund is the $3,074,000 grant made to the university by the Ford Foundation.

Notre Dame President Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., said that augmenting the Ford grant, is a total of $1,400,000 in alumni and corporate contributions to Notre Dame's faculty development program during the past three years.

He added he is confident the $600,000 balance will be raised in the near future from the university's friends and alumni.

Income from the faculty development fund will be used to increase professors' salaries, to finance their further study, and to support publication of their research and writings.

Select Right Socks to Cut Down on Work

In families with several school children the weekly wash line usually holds enough socks to supply a centipede.

Anklets, half-hose and regulation-length socks are standard garb for boys and girls.

Saving laundry work begins with the selection of the socks. White or color-fast cotton, Dacron, Orion or nylon or combinations of these launder with a minimum of effort.

These socks can be popped into the washing machine with heavy-duty detergent and chlorine-type bleach beads.

For stubborn stains such as mud, leather or grass, give the socks a preliminary 15-minute soak in stain removal strength of the bleach beads and detergent.

Sorting socks has possible shortcuts. Colored threads can be run through the sole of the socks, using a different color for each child, or using a different color for each pair of socks. Another way is to safety-pin pairs together at the ankle before putting them into the hamper.

Oppose Cadillac Project

CADILLAC (P) — A citizens group has indicated it plans to seek a referendum on a Cadillac water system improvement program. City commission approved the sale of $1,200,000. In revenue bonds for the project Monday night, but opponents claim the program cost could be cut by $250,000.

The American people eat half a billion meals daily.

Michigan's First Settlers Indians Named Rivers

ANN ARBOR (P) — The ribbons of picturesquely named rivers crisscrossing the Water Wonderland of Michigan can be traced back largely to the days of Michigan's first settlers — the Algonquin Indians, says a University of Michigan professor.

Prof. Ivan Walton says most of the names have remained the same for centuries since various Algonquin tribes roamed the state.

Among the Algonquin tribes were the Chippewas in the north, the Ottawas in the west central, the Pottawatamies in the south-west and the Hurons and Wyandottes in the southeast.

For instance, the historian says the Saginaw River is derived from the Chippewa word "sag-e-nong." It meant "place of the Sauks." The river was named in honor of an enemy of the Chippewas, the Sauk Indians.

The meandering Shiawassee River is translated from the Algonquin to mean "the river that twists about."

Walton says the Muskegon River comes from the Chippewa word, "Maskigong." It means "at a swamp," Walton says.

The Manistee River is translated to be "crooked river." The word Kalamazoo comes from the Pottawatamie and is translated to mean "bright sparkling water."

Police Catch Up With Woman

Assert Mother Weaved Trail of Embezzlement Since 1939

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A 51-year-old mother, who FBI authorities say weaved a fantastic trail of embezzlement through four states, Canada and Hawaii since 1939, was apprehended here because a doctor's receptionist spotted the woman's freckles.

Mrs. Margaret Lydia Burton was tabbed by the receptionist, Mrs. Juanita Hettwer, 36, as the woman she read about in a local newspaper who was being sought in connection with a $100,000 embezzlement of a Decatur, Ga., medical clinic last month.

Mrs. Burton, who the FBI says has used 22 aliases, was working as a bookkeeper in the doctor's office here for about a week. She called herself Madge Barton in Tulsa.

The woman was arrested yesterday and charged with transporting stolen property in interstate commerce. She was placed in the county jail in lieu of $30,000 bond. Her daughter Sheila Joy Burton, 29, was arrested as a conspirator and failed to post $10,000 bond. Newsmen were not permitted to interview the pair.

The freckles, fibbing about her age, the similarity of her alias and untoward interest in book-keeping matters aroused Mrs. Hettwer's suspicions. She told the doctors about the new employee and they in turn notified the FBI. When pictures of the woman were shown, the identification was complete.

Put County Woman on GOP Committee

Mrs. Floyd Andrews, vice-chairman of the Oakland County Republican committee, has been named to the reservations committee for the state GOP conference next month.

It will be at Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel Sept. 7 and 8. Area Republicans can register through Mrs. Andrews, 36 Church St., Clarkston.

Highlighting the conference will be an address by Meade Alcorn, Republican national chairman. The program is designed to kick off the party's 1958 election campaign.

Wants Iks Vaccinated Against Asiatic Flu

WASHINGTON (AP)—Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney says President Eisenhower should be vaccinated promptly against Asiatic flu.

This was the Public Health Service's reaction to Eisenhower's news conference statement yesterday that he would get an inoculation "just as soon as ordinary people like I am can get it."

Guard Completing Maneuvers as Encampment Nears End

More than 9,000 Michigan National Guardsmen including two units from Pontiac are completing the final days of their 1957 field training encampment at Camp Grayling.

Participating are members of Company M, 125th Infantry and 107th Ordnance Company.

Principal activity this week was "Operation Beachcomber."

The major field operation started at 1 p.m. Tuesday with the first of two phases, covering two days and nights. During the first, or "assembly" phase, Guardsmen organized their bivouac areas.

With their full field packs, they moved out from the main camp Tuesday afternoon and evening. They spent the evening preparing for the "tactical" phase which began at 7 a.m. Wednesday and continued this morning.

The men ate food cooked in field kitchens and slept in their pup tents. During the tactical phase they took part in a march movement to forward assembly areas, occupied attack positions and proceeded with a full scale battle.

The battle itself included a simulated attack, defensive maneuvers, reconnaissance and combat patrol activities.

Let the Guests Assemble Own Sandwiches

Take advantage of the current do-it-yourself craze. Plan an "Invent-It-Yourself Sandwich Feast" for one of your summer entertainments. It's a party idea that is a natural fun-maker.

Set up a buffet table with all the fixings for sandwiches. Invite guests to make up their own combinations and concoctions. Each and every one can build a sandwich to suit himself. There's no danger of anyone ever making a wrong guess on a sandwich filling.

Here are a few tips to make an invent-it-yourself sandwich party a success. Provide a selection of sliced meats and cheese as well as already-mixed spreadable fillings. Bowls of sliced tomatoes and lettuce are "musts," together with pickles, olives and other relishes.

Set the table with a choice of several kinds of bread and rolls. A bowl of softened butter or margarine invites easy spreading. If you like, set up a bread board or similar work area for spreading the bread, complete with a knife, so the sandwiches can be cut.

This kind of menu is the height of informality and guaranteed to keep folks at ease. It's a buffet you can even set up on the kitchen work counter if necessary.

made maximum use of tanks, armor, small infantry units and supporting weapons. The 114 units of the 46th Infantry Division were organized into seven training groups for the operation.

The objective of the entire field exercise is to apply combined arms tactics and techniques under field conditions in the lower levels of command. The Army's new concept of "mobile forces" was emphasized.

After returning from the maneuver this morning, units began preparations for movement back to their home stations Saturday.

Armored units are moving their tanks from the Armored Training Center to the concentration site at the main camp, while other equipment not needed at home stations is also being prepared for storage.

For some, the week's activities have brought a happy satisfaction other than that gained through military tactics. Monday night the 126th Infantry from West Michigan won the Michigan National Guard volleyball title, defeating the 127th Engineer Battalion from the Upper Peninsula two games to one in the finals.

However, the Engineers retained their softball title by whipping the Lower Peninsula Infantrymen 4-3 in nine innings.

The happiest moment will come for all Guardsmen tomorrow when they are to receive their pay and allowances for the 1957 encampment.

A total payroll of better than $900,000 is expected to accompany the Guardsmen as they return home.

Only rain tomorrow will prevent the striking and storing of more than 2,500 pieces of tentage.

Movement to home stations by commercial bus, National Guard planes, and military convoy will be under way well before dawn Saturday. The majority of troops will travel via the Guard's 1,500 vehicles.

Kremlin to Lock Up Disabled Beggars

'Anti-Social, Parasitic' Loafers Face Doing Time in Russian Work Camps

MOSCOW (INS) — The Kremlin said today it is going to toss "anti-social, parasitic" loafers into work camps and also lock up disabled beggars.

Tass said that a bill drafted by the legislative committee of the Supreme Soviet of the Russian Federation, representing most of the Soviet Union, provides for banishment or compulsory labor from two to five years for adults who willfully avoid socially useful work or live on unearned income.

INCOME UNEARNED

The bill's preamble says: "There still are people who lead an anti-social, parasitic kind of life. Such people choose a job for appearance's sake, but really live on unearned income and enrich themselves at the expense of workers or else, being able to work, do not accomplish useful work and live in vagabondage and mendacity, and often commit crimes."

Pronouncement of banishment will be made at general meetings of citizens convened in towns and villages.

Persons incapable of work or only limited work who "maliciously" refrain from entering homes for the disabled and who resort to begging and vagrancy are liable to compulsory confinement in closed homes for the disabled.

OFFICERS REBUKED

At the same time the Soviet Army newspaper Red Star rebuked officers for lack of "contacts with the masses" and cited cases of various barriers "artificially dividing seniors from juniors" in the ranks.

The newspaper also criticized separate dining rooms in officer's messes for different ranks and also generals and colonels who eat alone and swim at private beaches.

The campaign against "loafers" has extended into the Soviet satellite empire.

In Czechoslovakia today the government ordered new stringent measures to check workers' illness claims in an attempt to reduce continue serious absenteeism.

The trade union newspaper Prace complained that absenteeism on the grounds of illness and injury increased strikingly after the introduction of a new welfare plan. It said many allegedly "sick" workers were discovered watching boxing matches or doing gardening at home.

Henceforth factory doctors must visit personally all men reporting they are ill. But that is not all. Special squads of "control" doctors will be organized to check diagnoses of the family or factory doctors.

Prace said that absentees from industry averaged 248,000 daily in the first six months of the year.

Traverse Schools Grow

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — The city's record school enrollment of 5,910 pupils last year is due to be shattered in the 1957-58 term, according to supt. Glenn E. Loomis.

He said surveys indicate a total of 4,106 children will be enrolled in Traverse City schools this year.

Before eating a scorpion, the baboon is always careful to remove the "sting."

Slate School Bond Vote

MARION (AP) — The board of education has set Jan. 13 as tentative date for an election on a $280,000 bonding proposal for school construction projects. Marion voters defeated a bond issue of approximately the same amount last July.

2 Dime Stores in Grand Haven Given Quarters

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — Two dime stores in Grand Haven were 25 cents richer today from reparation made 20 years after a petty theft.

City Manager R. V. Terrill yesterday was intermediary in the case.

He received two quarters in a letter which said the sender took a 10-cent item from a dime store counter in Grand Haven 20 years ago to prove "I was no sissy."

The note concluded: "I'm enclosing two quarters as I understand there are two dime stores in Grand Haven. I do not know which one it was. Please give each one a quarter so I may be sure the right one gets it."

Manito Scout Group Sets District Confab

Manito District of the Clinton Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, will hold a district meeting at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday in Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, Walton boulevard, east of the Dixie highway.

Al Lyon, district chairman, Waterford, and Kirk Francis, vice district chairman, Drayton Plains, desire all persons interested in Scouting to be present to discuss future plans.

The Scouters Weekend, held Aug. 10-11, was attended by more scouters than at any previous weekend. Everyone appeared to thoroughly enjoy the activities and went home with increased knowledge of Scouting.

First words spoken over the telephone were, "Watson, come here; I want you," spoken by Alexander Graham Bell to his assistant.

Major Proposes Weather Posts 19 Miles Above

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A weather station in outer space, 19 miles up, could make accurate forecasts for half the nation, says the man who was there.

Major David G. Simons, Air Force doctor-pilot of a balloon that soared to a record 102,000 feet, told a news conference last night that one forecast at that altitude could accomplish more than scores of ground weather stations.

Simons said that, from his vantage point in the balloon's gondola, he was able to see numerous thunderstorms of which his ground-tracking parties were unaware. He reported earlier having seen the western shore of Lake Michigan from above Brainerd, Minn., a vista of some 450 miles.

The major, fully recovered from the fatigue which showed when he landed the balloon near Ellendale, N. D., Tuesday.

was asked why he undertook such a dangerous assignment.

"I guess I just asked for it harder than the others," he replied. Simons said he thought it would be possible to push a balloon such as he rode into the 120,000-foot level.

A newsman queried whether Simons hadn't felt closer to God, soaring 32 hours in a purple-black sky that turned darker at night.

"This is God — the privilege of being able to contribute to man's progress," Simons said.

Missing Girl Found Lodged in 8-Inch Crack

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Missing 3½-year-old Eileen Fahey was found today lodged in an 8-inch crack between a dwelling and garage.

Officers said the child was still alive and appeared in fair condition. They said she apparently had been lodged in the crack all night.

Workmen were tearing out the garage wall to extricate the child who cried out when a searcher touched her arm.

Automakers Draft Replies to UAW Anti-Inflation Plan

DETROIT (AP)—The Big Three are keeping a tight-lipped silence on what their replies will be to Walter P. Reuther's proposal that they cut prices on 1958 cars this fall and in return the United Auto Workers will go easy on wage demands next year.

Reuther called it a plan to stop and reverse the inflationary trend.

The hush-hush attitude—"nobody is leaking a word"—is a sign of the respect top industrialists have for the forensic and bargaining talents of the UAW chief.

The best talent at General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. apparently is at work on the task of phrasing a reply to Reuther's 6,000-word letter.

In saying no to Reuther, the companies have to convince the public they too are against inflation.

The impression here is that the auto industry regards Reuther's proposal as a clever propaganda maneuver. Reuther says it was a sincere proposal — not a publicity device.

LABOR COSTS HIGH

Industry circles say price tags on 1958 models, when they are introduced this fall, will go higher because of already mounting labor and material costs. They say the present contracts with the UAW have built-in inflation. The contracts provide cost-of-living and also automatic annual wage increases.

The auto industry has spent 1½ billion dollars in styling and engineering for 1958 models. This is the largest investment ever made for model changeovers in a single year.

The replies of the companies to Reuther's anti-inflation plan probably will follow the pattern of their replies earlier this year to Reuther's proposal for joint union-management talks to explore "the many phases of the problems related to the reduction of the work week" and "expansion of purchasing power."

GM said the proposed talks on a shorter work week, with greater take-home pay, amounted to starting new contract talks nearly a year ahead of time. Present three-year contracts run out next June 1.

Chrysler said its rejection was based on "careful consideration of all factors."

Ford's industrial relations chief, John S. Bugas, personally informed Reuther by telephone that Ford didn't care to get into a public debate on the merits of the shorter work week.

New Officers Installed at Pontiac Legion Post

The officers were installed by the 18th district Ritual Team 40 and 8 at the Post hall.

College to Admit Men

DENVER (AP)—Colorado Woman's College plans to admit its first men students this fall. They will be enrolled in a theater workshop course.

Local C. of C. Plans Drive for 150 New Members

A four-day campaign to add 150 new members to the rolls of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce will begin Sept. 10, it was announced today by William L. Belaney, assistant manager of the group.

The 1957 drive will be kicked off at a breakfast Sept. 10, and conclude at noon on Sept. 13.

Two teams of 50 Chamber members, directed by team captains Dr. Lynn Allen and Raymond Storm, will compete to see which team can sign up the most new members from a prospective list of 300. Prizes will go to individual winners.

A similar drive last year produced 100 new members, Belaney said. Chamber membership now numbers 1,100, representing some 800 business firms.

Typhoon Hits Korea; 200 Million Damage

SEOUL (INS)—Typhoon Agnes swerved into the Sea of Japan today after cutting a brief but costly path across Southeastern Korea.

Officials reported two persons dead and three missing, and estimated property damage at 200 million dollars.

Twenty-one boats — including five U. S. Army boats in Pusan — were lost. No U. S. casualties were reported.

South Korean officials emphasized that casualty and damage estimates would run higher, once ruptured communication and transportation lines in the stricken areas were restored.

Agnes, biggest tropical storm of the year, slammed Pusan with 125-mile winds yesterday afternoon and then swept across the Korean Peninsula.

Two companies of U. S. Army troops sped from their outposts near the 38th parallel to the Pusan area, 200 miles south.

See Extra Wrecking

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mrs. Amentris Hooks, 32, and her daughter Yvette, 4, were on the sidewalk watching the demolition of a next-door church. A 105-foot crane boom went out of control and smashed into their house. It knocked off part of the roof and gouged a large hole in the bedroom wall.

Real Reign of Terror Grips New York as Wild Teenagers Roam the Streets

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA)—"The man who walks New York's streets at night is either a fool or a criminal."

These are the words of a veteran city reporter and the sentiment of most law enforcement people.

REIGN OF TERROR
New York City is in the grip of a real terror as wild teenagers—in gangs or in two's and three's—roam the streets attacking each other and passersby without provocation.

There is hardly anybody in this city of eight million who has not been attacked or does not know someone who has been attacked.

I was pushed around by a couple of young thugs on brightly-lit, heavily-traveled Lexington avenue. I escaped serious injury only because I was lucky enough to find an opening in the moving traffic.

LESS LUCKY
But a man who works less than 50 feet away from me was less lucky. Three young hoods in his Brooklyn neighborhood jumped him from behind, beat him, kicked him in the head, took the two dollars he was carrying and fled.

His story is not unusual. This kind of savage assault is reported over and over on police blotters and the pages of local papers.

CRIMES VICIOUS
Here, for example, is the way Michael Farmer was killed—as far as police have been able to reconstruct the senseless and vicious crime:

Seventeen boys—ranging in age from 14 to 18—came upon Farmer and a friend near a public swimming pool in the Washington Heights neighborhood. The gang was armed with brassknives, knives, machetes, belts and bare hands.

Farmer's life ended with severe clubbing, belting, pummeling and repeated stabblings "about the back, chest and limbs." His friend, stabbed twice in the chest, is still in highly critical condition at a hospital.

There was nothing new, unique or unusually vicious about Farmer's death in the annals of today's terror. The inhuman horror lies in the fact that Farmer was a polio-crippled, 15-year-old boy.

Many of the muggings, beatings, gang assaults never get reported in the daily papers: Metropolitan New York is very large and there is other news to be told. But here is a small sampling of one recent week's rampage by some of this city's youth:

The son of a city policeman was caught between two warring gangs and beaten and kicked to death.

OLD MAN BEATEN
An elderly man and his son were beaten and robbed by a 16-year-old boy who later smashed the getaway car and injured three detectives who tried to subdue him.

A 71-year-old woman was ambushed on her apartment house stairs, slammed against the wall and robbed by three young boys.

A young man was knifed and beaten and left to bleed in a gutter by several boys, who police said, were defending the honor of their girl friends.

An 18-year-old reformatory alumnus held off police with a long knife after he had robbed a drugstore. After his arrest he admitted a long series of holdups.

What is the sense behind this brutality by the city's youth? What is the motive, the gain, the satisfaction?

One answer comes from a 14-year-old boy who wanted "to get the feeling of a knife going through bone." It was this boy who drove his knife so hard into the back of crippled Michael Farmer that the blade tip almost reached the chest wall.

For the most part, the reasons for this inhuman terror are stated by the terrorized.

"Kids are like animals," one hears a man in a subway say. Or, "The trouble is in the family." Or, "Everybody's too concerned with making a buck, like the landlords..." Or, "We're taking away the fear of school and the police and we're paying for it."

In the hodge-podge of desperately quick answers one feeling comes through sharp and clear: Fear.

NIGGLING FEAR
It is not a pleasant sensation to walk down the streets of your neighborhood with the nagging fear at your neck that you may be jumped and beaten. It is sometimes terrifying to wait for a subway or bus at a lonely station. And there is a panic that reaches out when you hail an empty taxi only to find that the driver is as frightened as you and will not pick up a fare in the area where you stand.

And the inhumanity that has created this terror spreads itself easily among the "law abiding citizens."

Two middle-aged women walking down a street on the outskirts of the metropolitan area see a gang of young men beating up a boy.

"Please help me," the boy calls. "I don't know these people. Please help me."

The two women quicken their footsteps and hurry to reach the apparent safety of their own homes.

STOCKHOLM—One third of all the automobile driving in Sweden is in connection with business; and, if trips to and from work are included, almost 50 per cent of the mileage falls in the category of duty driving. Swedish Road Association studies show that only 10 per cent of the total mileage is accounted for by autoists on vacation.

WASECA, Minn.—A new sprinkle-on scent for deer hunters has been developed by a Waseca concern, which says its product is so concentrated a few drops on a hunter's clothing will last two years or more. The smell, said to be inoffensive to hunters, resembles that of a doe in mating season.

To Open Bids on Pontiac Lake Dam

Pontiac Lake, which has long threatened to flood its man made banks, may finally be brought under control this fall.

Bids will be opened Friday at the Drain Commission office for an estimated $115,000 construction project involving new levees and a new Huron River dam.

Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry, who has had to let one bidding session slip by this year without awarding any contracts, hopes that action on Friday's bids may be taken Saturday.

He determined that construction will be completed this fall in time to thwart flooding — and the worrisome threat of flooding — during next year's spring thaw.

Pontiac Lake, one of Oakland County's biggest, has risen dangerously near flood stage several times this year. After July's heavy rainfalls, the water pressure against the old dikes and crumbling dam was so great that Barry ordered the water dropped a foot lower than the legal level.

As a result, the increased flow caused flooding throughout the Huron River valley as far west as Milford.

Residents on Oxbow and Cedar Islands Lakes complained their lawns were inundated and basements were flooded. Barry's contention was that minor flooding was not as bad as the catastrophe which would follow a Pontiac Lake flood.

The valley residents, who have always kept a nervous eye on Pontiac Lake's threatening waters, generally agreed.

'Copter Comes Again to Convince Skeptics

KERMAN, Calif. (U)—A year ago a National Guard helicopter pilot—Capt. Paul J. Flotron of Glendale—set his whirlybird down on the farm of Louis Kastorff.

Flotron had lost his way and was low on fuel.

The Kastorffs fed the airman, gave him maps and helped him obtain gas.

But friends of the three Kastorff boys wouldn't believe a helicopter had descended on their farm.

Yesterday Flotron made a return call.

This time the lads took plenty of pictures.

A woman brought her battered car to the garage and the attendant told her sadly, "Lady, we wash cars here — we don't iron them."

An old-timer, asked by a reporter to what he attributed his long life, answered, "Don't know yet — right now I'm dickerin' with two breakfast food companies." — Earl Wilson.

They remembered one stormy night two winters ago when more than 100 volunteers had to rush through snow and sleet to repair breaks in the dike. By the time the rampaging lake was sandbagged in, scores of acres were under water, six feet deep in some places. Actual damage, however, fortunately was slight.

Temporary repairs were made after that flood, but a general reconstruction project was impossible until the dam site was purchased by the county, Barry said.

This was completed in March. But at the first bidding session June 14, the only bid submitted was not accepted. Barry explained that the bid came from an Ohio firm, which was not sure how well it could market drain orders under Michigan law.

The cost of the proposed new construction will be paid for on a five-year assessment basis by residents of Pontiac Lake. The rate is expected to be about $1.28 for each foot of frontage.

Pontiac Lake was created as a subdivision project in 1921, when the present dam and levees were built along its southern border.

Barry said that flooding in the Huron valley "should be considerably reduced" by the new controls, but added the problem will not be completely solved until controls are installed all along the river.

Midget Mule, 5, to Act as Mascot of West Point

KANSAS CITY (U)—Jackson, a 5-year-old midget mule, was put aboard a train yesterday and sent on his way to West Point to serve as mascot at the U.S. Military Academy.

It wasn't as easy as it sounds. Jackson wasn't a bit impressed with his prospective role and balked at entering an express car. It took four men to shove him aboard.

Lt. Gen. Garrison H. Davidson, West Point superintendent, wrote some time ago to a Kansas City friend, James H. Parker III, saying a replacement was needed for Pancho, Army mascot for nearly 20 years.

Parker bought Jackson and sent him to Davidson as a gift.

Asks Negroes' Aid in Reducing Murders

HOUSTON, Tex. (U)—Negroes should take a leading role in reducing the number of murders within their community, a Negro educator says.

Dr. H. A. Bullock, professor of sociology and chairman of graduate research at Texas Southern University, said Negroes comprise about 20 per cent of Houston's population but cause 65 per cent of the murders.

Bullock proposed that Texas Southern University sponsor a classroom-to-classroom, door-to-door, tavern-to-tavern drive for Negroes to police themselves.

Ousted Syrian Won't Go Home

Fired Diplomat States 'Regime Is Changing, Will Stay in Rome'

ROME (U-P) Syria's ousted military attaché in Rome says the regime is changing in his country and that he probably will not return to Damascus to face charges of participating in a purported American plot to overthrow Syria's government.

Col. Ibrahim Hussein was fired from his diplomatic post last week. He said then he would return home and declared he had absolute confidence in his country's justice. But last night he said: "For the time being I will not move from Rome."

He noted reports from Damascus that army officers have been arrested on charges of conspiring with the United States to overthrow President Shukri Kuwaty's government, a charge firmly denied by the U.S. State Department.

"The situation in my country has worsened in the past few days," Hussein said. "Now it is no longer a question of whether I am guilty. The reality now is that in Syria they are changing regime. Tell me what sort of justice I would find there if I decided to go back."

He added that he might seek political refuge in Italy or go to another country, preferably an Arab nation.

He also indicated he felt that Communists had seized power in Damascus. Gen. Affi Bizry, who became Syrian army chief of staff Saturday, has denied reports that his rise to power constituted a pro-Soviet coup d'état.

In Damascus, Salah Tarazi, secretary general to the foreign minister's office, called exaggerated reports in the Western press that Communists have taken over the government.

Indians Approve New Constitution for Reservation

DANIA, Fla. (U-P) Florida's reservation Seminoles have ordained and established a tribal constitution which will bring a new formality to their system of government.

Complete with preamble and enacted in legal terminology, the constitution was approved 22-5. Most of the ballots were cast by reservation dwellers. Eligible to vote were 448 Indians.

The so-called Tamiami Trail Indians, the largest group of off-reservation Seminoles, boycotted the election. They recently won state approval for a constitution of their own.

Only 22 ballots—17 of them absentee votes which are yet to be counted—were cast by Indians living off the reservations. All five of those which were tabulated favored the constitution.

A separate vote with only reservation Indians eligible to cast ballots was held on the question of whether to set up a business corporation to represent the tribe. The plan was approved 218-5. The corporation will be known as the Seminole Tribe of Florida, Inc.

The new constitution provides for election of an eight-member tribal council within 30 days. Council elections will be held every two years. Everyone who has reached 18 will be eligible to vote.

New Vinyl Fabric Will Ease Job of Redecorating

A daughter entering high school probably will want her room overhauled. She can redecorate the room herself, using vinyl fabrics for bedspreads, vanity, draperies, photograph and headboards.

This gives her a feeling of independence and is a creative outlet for restless adolescent energy.

Vinyl fabrics are easy to work. They also resist staining, snagging, scuffing and are wiped clean with a damp, soapy cloth.

A good idea for redecorating is a vinyl fabric bedspread. High school girls spend much time sitting on their beds. Frequently they forget to remove their shoes. A spread that can be wiped clean instead of laundered is a boon.

It is easy to make a vinyl fabric bedspread.

The material usually comes in 54-inch widths—right for a narrow bed. Trim edges with pinking shears and the spread is made. For wider beds add a dust ruffle in vinyl or washable cotton.

Also, a teenage girl's new interest in beauty care calls for a vanity table. An attractive piece can be made from an unfinished table and bench. Cover the surfaces with the same vinyl fabric as the bedspread.

In using this material remember a fabric-backed vinyl is best for jobs requiring gluing or sewing.

Precautions Against Polio Needed Now

With the advent of the peak polio season drawing near, Oakland County Health Department director Dr. John D. Monroe warned the public to take precautions against the disease.

To date, Oakland County can account for nine of the 180 cases of polio in Michigan this year.

With the rise of polio cases anticipated in the next few weeks, Monroe urged county residents to complete their Salk vaccine shots, a series of three. Those who have not had any shots are especially asked to be vaccinated.

"There is plenty of vaccine to be distributed throughout the county. Although one shot does give some protection, the three injections are needed for adequate long-term protection," Monroe explained.

He estimated 60 per cent of all pregnant women and children one to 14 years old who have received Salk polio vaccine injections from either a physician or the health departments have completed the recommended series of three shots.

AMONG 363,000 INJECTIONS

These are among the total of 363,000 injections given to county residents since the vaccine became available several years ago.

During the next three weeks especially, Dr. Monroe advises parents to watch their children closely by making sure they avoid epidemic areas and close groups of people; keep exertion to a minimum; get plenty of rest, more than usual, and eat well-balanced meals. These are precautions to help avoid being stricken by the disease.

To obtain vaccine, persons should contact their own physicians who, for a nominal fee, administer the free vaccine.

Three health department polio clinics are also set up throughout the county to administer injections only to pregnant women and children 1-14 years old.

They are: Oakland County Health Department, 1070 N. Telegraph Rd., and Pontiac City Health Department, both in Pontiac and open 9-11 a.m. on Fridays; and South Oakland County Health Department, 2401 E. Fourth St., Royal Oak, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 1-3 p.m.

The following is a complete breakdown of the types of polio cases reported in Oakland County from Jan. 1 through Aug. 14 in the years 1957, 1956 and 1953.

Of the nine Oakland County cases this year, only one was in Pontiac. Four of the nine cases were paralytic type polio. None was fatal. Of these four, two persons had not received vaccine, one had two shots, and one had three shots. Of the five non-paralytic, two persons had received two shots, two had received three shots, and one person had one shot.

Oakland County recorded 12 polio cases in 1956, and 81 in 1953. Average age of the victims was 12 years.

State Health Insurance Survey Forms Tabulated

Information from more than 12,000 state health insurance survey forms and interviews is now being tabulated and analyzed for presentation next month.

The survey, conducted by the Michigan Health Council and sponsored by the Michigan State Medical Society, was made to determine if Michigan needs revised health insurance coverage to give greater protection of the average family's medical costs on a pre-paid basis.

Dr. Hazen L. Miller, president of the Oakland County Medical Society, said questionnaires were sent to a cross-section of the state's population.

The council said many writers recommended issuing a deductible type policy similar to automobile insurance. In this system, the insured would pay only the first $25 or $50 of the medical expenses.

There were several persons who thought the questionnaire was an attempt to sell a new type of health and medical insurance. Some thought the council was a state agency and refused to answer the questionnaire. They believed the state should not be in the insurance business, according to the council report.

The results of the survey are to be presented to the Michigan State Medical House of Delegates and the public on Sept. 23.

Caution Against Flu Inoculations for All Children

NEW YORK (U-P) The City Health Department warns against indiscriminate administration of Asiatic flu vaccine to children.

The acting health commissioner, Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, yesterday cited the cases of two children, not identified, who suffered severe reactions from inoculations. The youngsters, whose ages were not given, suffered high fever, soreness and swelling of the arm.

Said Kandle: "Such reactions in children do not indicate any fault in the vaccine nor does it mean that the child 'caught flu' from the vaccine."

He said children suffer more severe reactions to influenza vaccine than adults. The question of receiving a flu inoculation, he said, should be left to the child's personal physician.

Junior Editors ANIMAL QUIZ

QUESTION: Why do cows have more stomachs than we have?

ANSWER: Although a cow has 32 teeth, they are not sharp enough to chew its coarse food properly. So this animal has a complicated digestive system which includes four stomachs to help it eat.

When the cow grazes it cannot bite off the grass on which it feeds. Instead it must pull or tear the grass by moving its head from side to side. The cow is able to chew this grass enough to moisten it. Then the grass is swallowed and passes into the first stomach, which is called the paunch. Here the food is moistened further and then passes into a second stomach, known as the reticulum, for more softening.

Then the food returns to the mouth and the cow gives it a thorough chewing. At this stage, the cow is said to be chewing its cud. Then the food passes through a third stomach, the omasum, to a fourth stomach. This fourth stomach is the true stomach and is like our stomach.

FOR YOU TO DO: Next time you're on a farm watch a cow eat and you'll see that afterwards it keeps on chewing its cud.

Do-It-Yourself Kit for Hi-Fi System

Hi-fi is taking the place of teenage high jinks in many areas. College students also are setting up their own sound systems.

This is done, in many cases, through do-it-yourself kits. These are popular because the money goes into sound rather than appearance.

The kits then can be finished nically by a student who can handle a hammer and screwdriver.

Such kits as Tech-Master amplifier and preamplifier and Cabinart enclosures deep costs down. A record changer, already assembled, completes the set.

High fidelity has its own following just like hot rodding. Both stem from youth's desire to build something. Hi-fi, in addition, trains a student's ear for a life of good listening.

Thomas A. Edison was dismissed from a job as a young man for sleeping while on duty.

The U.S. Naval Operating Base in Bermuda is situated on 225 acres of land leased on a 99-year contract granted to the U.S. by Great Britain during the Napoleonic wars when soldiers demanded some means to keep their food from spoiling on long journeys from battlefield to battlefield.

Peaches Delicious in Any Form

Pontiac Press Home Editor

This is a bumper year for peaches. The number of bushels that are expected from Michigan orchards runs into the millions. Oakland county has an important place in the peach picture, especially for local residents.

Last week at the Farmers Market one grower had two kinds of early peaches for sale, the Red Haven and the Golden Jubilee. The Golden Jubilee will follow before too long. It was a lucky day for us consumers when the Hale peaches came into being; they have such a wonderful flavor.

Peaches, like strawberries, really need no dressing up. They may be eaten out of hand, added to cereal, spooned over ice cream or made into any number of tempting dishes. One of the latter is this pudding to serve warm.

Delmonico Peaches

6 medium peaches
4 green apples
Grated rind 1 lemon
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup nutmeg
1/2 cup macaroon crumbs
1 tablespoon butter

Peel and slice peaches and apples. Add lemon rind and mix with sugar and nutmeg. Arrange alternate layers of fruit and macaroon crumbs in a baking dish. Dot top with butter and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 30 minutes. Serve warm, with cream if desired. Serves six.

Ice cream pies are favorites with cooks because they can be made ahead of time and stored in the freezer. The crust for this one is unusual. Top the ice cream with sliced fresh peaches.

Caramel Oatmeal Crust

2 cups rolled oats
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt

1/4-teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup melted butter or margarine

Combine rolled oats, brown sugar, salt, cinnamon and melted butter or margarine. Mix well with spoon or pastry blender. Pack crumbs into 9-inch pie pan covering bottom and sides completely. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 20 minutes. Chill. Yield: 1 9-inch pie shell.

Pack chilled Caramel Oatmeal Crust with 1 quart butter-peach or vanilla ice cream. Top with sweetened peaches just before serving. Yield: 8 servings.

Peaches in gourmet form will be yours if you try this recipe for Ginger Peach Preserves. You'll love serving them with baked ham or vanilla ice cream next winter.

Ginger Peach Preserves

2 pounds prepared freestone peaches
1/4 pound sugar
2 cups water
1 rounded tablespoon silver crystal

Wash ginger (rinsed free of sugar before cutting) in cold water and drain. Use ripe but firm fruit; wash peaches in cold water and drain. Put sugar, water, sliced ginger and salt in a medium-sized kettle and stir over low heat until sugar dissolves; bring to boil rapidly; boil 3 minutes; remove from heat and allow to cool.

To prepare peaches, cover them with boiling water (off heat) for a few minutes; plunge into cold water; drain and strip off skins; cut into halves and remove pits. Weigh peaches.

Add weighed peach halves to cooled syrup and boil gently until softened and partly transparent; add a couple of cracked peach pits just before peaches are removed from heat. Skim off as much foam as possible with a big spoon.

Turn into a shallow container—a heat-resistant glass baking pan about 8 by 12 by 2 inches is fine. Skim off any remaining foam. Cover with waxed paper and refrigerate for 12 to 24 hours—this helps peaches absorb syrup and stay plump.

Remove peaches from syrup and pack loosely, cavity side down, into clean hot jars—half-pint or pint size without shoulders—leaving enough room at top so peaches may be completely covered with syrup. Pour syrup into a saucepan and boil 2 minutes or longer—until about as thick as liquid honey.

Fill jars with boiling hot syrup, leaving 1/2-inch head space. Seal at once, using jar manufacturer's directions. Store a couple of weeks before using.

Fortify Cookies With Baby Food

Your guests will be reaching for more cookies, if you follow this recipe. Save time by chilling mixture thoroughly. "Macaroons" are a good keeper when wrapped in foil. For picnics, bake cookies a bit larger, wrap in 2 or 3 foil packets.

Cherry Nut "Macaroons"

1/4 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2-teaspoons almond extract
1/2 cup sifted flour
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups High Protein Cereal
1 cup chopped pecans
Maraschino cherries, drained well and cut into slices

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and beat until mixture is light and fluffy. Add almond extract. Sift together flour, soda and salt. Add cereal and nuts. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture and mix until well blended. Chill dough.

Shape into small balls and flatten with a fork on ungreased cookie sheet. Top with cherry slice. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) 5 to 7 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove to a rack to cool. Yield: About 4 dozen 2-inch cookies.

Shredded Beets Fill Cucumbers

You can't beat a beet for colorful beauty, intriguing taste and a plus-quantity of vitality-giving nutrients. Budgetwise, it's a unique "two-for-the-price-of-one" vegetable because both its vibrant red roots and gayly green leaves are rich in flavor and food values.

The tender tops of baby beets are pungent and delicious either raw or cooked. One-half cup of cooked fresh beet greens provides 10,000 international units of vitamin A (twice the recommended daily quota) and from 32 to 35 milligrams of vitamin C. The sweet-flavored beet root supplies some of all the common nutrients.

The bright roots can be shredded raw into such imaginative dishes as fresh cucumber boats filled with fresh vegetables.

Raw Beet and Cucumber Boats

4 medium raw beets
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
2 cucumbers, 6-inches long
Salad greens

Wash beets, peel and coarsely shred. Add onion, salt, salad oil, vinegar and lemon juice. Cover and chill until ready to use. Cut cucumbers in half, lengthwise. Cut around edge of cucumbers, loosening the outer part from the skin. Scoop out and dice.

Mix with the beet mixture. Pile into the cucumber shells or boats. Yield: 4 servings.

Chicken Parts Bake in Mincemeat

There's always a new way to cook chicken. This time, surprisingly enough, it's in a spicy mincemeat sauce. Gives chicken a tantalizing new flavor that you'll enjoy.

To cook the chicken, thaw 2 packages (1 pound each) frozen chicken thighs, breasts, drumsticks or wings as directed on package. Combine 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt and dash black pepper in a paper bag; shake chicken pieces in seasoned flour. Brown chicken in 1/4 cup butter or margarine; stir in sauce (given below). Cover; cook over low heat about 45 minutes or until chicken is tender. Stir occasionally.

To make the mincemeat sauce, blend 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed beef broth, 1 cup mincemeat and 2 tablespoons vinegar; heat through. Makes 2 1/2 cups of sauce. NOTE: If dehydrated mincemeat is used, use 1/2 package (9 ounce size) and add 1/2 cup water. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Fudge-type frostings for cakes are usually cooked to a lower temperature than candy because they need to be soft.

Dip Veal Chops in Spicy Coating

Delightful and different flavor when you cook veal chops this way.

Veal Chops Francaise

4 loin veal chops (1 1/2 to 2 inch thick)
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Cut part of fat away from around veal chops. Mix together the flour, salt and ginger on a piece of waxed paper. Dip chops in flour mixture and coat both sides.

Heat butter in skillet (about 10 inches) until it hisses; add chops and brown quickly on both sides—this will take about 10 minutes. If any of the flour mixture for dipping is left over, sprinkle it over chops as you turn them. Turn heat very low; sprinkle chops with lemon juice; cover tightly. Cook slowly until tender—about 35 minutes. If heat can not be turned very low, use asbestos pad under skillet. Makes 4 servings.

ALL SET FOR A FEAST—Little Jimmy Elder of Starr avenue is ready, willing and seemingly able to make a big dent in this basket of Michigan peaches. Jimmie was out at the Oakland County Farmers Market where Bill McKim of the Homestead Orchards on Orchard Lake road had some of the first Red Haven peaches to sell.

Cruets Are Staging a Comeback

Cruets, which almost became as scarce as the whooping crane in our generation, are returning to the American table.

It was only in our mother's or grandmother's time that every table was adorned with a cruet containing vinegar, usually in a set with the other holding oil. Cruets then were as much a part of the table setting as salt and pepper shakers.

Modern homemakers are rediscovering the cruet. Some are rummaging through antique shops to uncover the cut-crystal kind that their mothers or grandmothers used. Others prefer cruets of modern design. There are all kinds, from the old-fashioned out-crustal to the painted pottery type with crossed necks.

Whatever the shape, the cruet is staging a comeback. Today's homemakers are finding that a cruet adds an extra note of graciousness to the table and that the right-at-hand vinegar adds flavor to salads, vegetables, and meats.

Pick Small Eggs for Best Bargain

It is time for small eggs to be popular again. At such reasonable prices, you may feel more generous about using them, suggests the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

Small size eggs are the best egg buy in the market. A dozen small eggs weighs 18 ounces and sells for 35 cents a pound when they are 39 cents a dozen. Compare this to a dozen large eggs which weighs 24 ounces. You'll find that large eggs are between 38 to 41 cents a pound when they cost 57 to 62 cents a dozen.

Coffee Ring Is a Quickie

The neighborhood coffee break seems to be increasing in popularity. In some areas hostesses compete with one another for new things to serve. A coffee ring is an easy thing to make when you use unbaked caramel-nut rolls that you buy in a tube and keep in your refrigerator. It is a nice treat any time.

Caramel-Nut Coffee Ring

2 cans caramel nut rolls
3 tablespoons water
Spread packets of topping around a greased, 9-inch ring and sprinkle with water. Arrange rolls over topping, side-by-side and standing on end. Bake at 375-degrees for 30-35 minutes. Turn out immediately and serve while warm.

CARAMEL-NUT COFFEE RING — Your turn for the neighborhood coffee break? Serve an old-fashioned Caramel-Nut Coffee Ring baked the new fashioned way. You can keep tubes of unbaked caramel nut rolls in your refrigerator and make them up at a moment's notice.

Use Some Underripe Fruit

To make jelly, a fruit must have, in the proper proportions, pectin and acid. These change with the maturity of the fruit; they both decrease as the fruit ripens. So, for best results use a mixture of slightly underripe and ripe fruit, the underripe to furnish pectin and acid and the ripe to contribute flavor and color.

Tangy Shrimp Broiled in Buns

What wonderful sandwiches they make—for lunch, Saturday night supper, a snack before the TV, or at a teen-age swing session!

They're flavorful as can be, with good-sized chunks of tender shrimp, crunchy mushroom slices and salty olives, chopped—blended together with tangy sour cream, mustard, and a suggestion of garlic.

The frankfurter buns are split, buttered, and toasted lightly under the broiler. Then the shrimp burger mixture is generously spooned onto the lower halves and broiled until golden brown. Serve at once, while still warm. Ummmmmm! Good.

Shrimp Boat-Burgers

1/4 garlic clove
1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon chopped olives
1/2 cup chopped mushrooms
1 10-oz. package frozen shrimp, thawed and diced
6 tablespoons butter, softened
6 frankfurter buns, split
In mixing bowl mash garlic. Add sour cream, dry mustard, salt, lemon juice and blend together.

SHRIMP BOAT-BURGERS — Shrimp Boat-Burgers are as crunchy and flavorful as their ingredients. And their ingredients happen to include tender shrimp, sliced mushrooms and chopped olives, enhanced by a dressing of garlic-kissed sour cream. This savory mixture is spooned onto buns, and broiled till golden brown. They make mighty tasty eating!

Stir in olives, mushrooms, and shrimp. Butter wiener buns and toast lightly under broiler. Remove top halves of buns from broiler rack. Spread shrimp mixture on bottom half of bun and broil 2-3 minutes. Place toasted tops on sandwiches and serve immediately. Serves six.

New Flavor for Dressing

'Tis a dressing that adds new flavor to vegetable, meat or fish salads. Dissolve a package of herb salad dressing mix in 1-3 cup tomato juice. Add 3 tablespoons canned lemon juice and 2-3 cup salad oil. Shake well and chill.

Fruits in Preserves Cooked to Hold Shape

A preserve is a mixture made by cooking whole fruit or pieces of fruit in a thick syrup. It differs from jams and conserves in that the fruits are cooked to hold their shape. Fruits commonly used are: Strawberries, raspberries, cherries, peaches, pears and small yellow tomatoes.

Conserves are cooked like jam. They contain a mixture of fruits, generally including lemons and oranges and, often raisins and nuts.

Salads know no season but there is a definite upswing in their popularity during the summer months. Crisp, nutritious, low calorie vegetable salad, meal-satisfying kidney bean salad, and the bright, fruit-of-the-season salad are all favorites. It is a new salad accompaniment, junior-size shredded wheat biscuits, that accent the salad interest.

Cottage Cheese Cereal Biscuits

1/2 cup creamed cottage cheese
1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 tablespoon sour cream
1/2 teaspoon minced onion
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
12 junior-size shredded wheat biscuits

Mix the cottage cheese, salt, sour cream, onion, and Worcestershire sauce together. Spread this on top of the small shredded wheat biscuits. Garnish the tops with chopped parsley or paprika. Makes 1/2 cup cheese mixture. Each cottage cheese shredded wheat biscuit is about 26 calories.

Ham and Cheese Cereal Biscuits

12 junior-size shredded wheat biscuits
4 (5"x1") slices cooked ham

Start oven at 350 degrees. Spread the cereal biscuits with the prepared mustard. Place a piece of cheese on top of each biscuit. Cut the ham slices into thirds and roll each third around a cheese topped small shredded wheat biscuit. Fasten with a toothpick.

Place on a baking sheet and bake for 10 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 12 ham and cheese biscuits. Each ham-cheese shredded wheat biscuit is about 72 calories.

Spicy Raisin Sauce Is New

A sundae sauce that is unusual and yet easy to make is this one that includes white raisins, walnuts and crystallized ginger. Its spicy flavor is especially good on plain vanilla ice cream or may be served on most any of the wide variety of flavors in stores today. The sauce may be served either cold or hot depending on preference, and may be stored in the refrigerator for future use if it is not used at once.

Ice cream is a nutritious dessert and contains most of the nutrients of milk except in different proportions.

White Raisin Sauce for Ice Cream

1 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup white corn syrup
Few grains salt
1 cup white seedless raisins
1/2 teaspoon chopped crystallized ginger

2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Combine sugar, water, corn syrup, salt and cook over medium heat, stirring until mixture boils. As soon as sugar dissolves add chopped raisins, lemon juice and rind. Cook until mixture thickens slightly, about 5 to 7 minutes. Add nuts and blend thoroughly. Serve hot or cold with ice cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Refreshing Punch Starts With Tea

Cosmopolitan Fruit Punch

1 quart boiling water
1/2 cup loose tea (or 15 tea bags)
1 1/2 quarts cold water
1 cup orange juice
1 1/2 cups lemon juice
1 1/2 quarts ginger ale
2 cups simple syrup

Remove boiling water from heat. Immediately add tea. Brew uncovered five minutes. Stir and strain into a bowl containing the remaining ingredients except the simple syrup. Gradually add enough simple syrup until the sweetness of the punch suits your taste. Add ice cubes. Garnish with thin slices of lemon and maraschino cherries.

Angel Cake Sandwich

Slice a bar angel food cake from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department into three even layers. Cut one pint of slightly softened chocolate ice cream and one pint of strawberry ice cream into four even slices each.

Place one layer of cake on plate. Arrange slices of the chocolate ice cream on top. Add another layer of cake and arrange slices of strawberry ice cream on top.

Cover with top layer of cake. Bar may then be cut into two smaller portions, wrapped securely in foil and stored in the freezer until ready to serve.

A New Twist for Bean Salad

Does the man in your house love cold baked beans when he's on a nibbling spree? Why not serve them as a cold main course in a salad? This dish is truly delicious with just a couple of inspirational touches. One of the secrets lies in an abundance of clear, subtle olive oil and the other surprise is to be found in the addition of mushrooms. These three ingredients blend together into an entirely new taste treat that will earn you plaudits for your originality.

Baked Bean and Mushroom Salad
2 cans (1-lb.) baked beans in tomato sauce
1/2 cup dried green pepper
1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
1/2 cup sliced celery
1/2 cup sliced onion
1/2 cup sliced tomato
1/2 cup sliced cucumber
1/2 cup sliced carrot
1/2 cup sliced radish
1/2 cup sliced cauliflower
1/2 cup sliced broccoli
1/2 cup sliced cauliflower
1/2 cup sliced broccoli

Blend ingredients in order given. Chill for one hour if desired. Toss lightly and sprinkle with paprika. Serve on a salad of mixed greens and sliced cucumber. Makes 6 generous servings.

Grenadine Syrup and Fruit Juice Aid Compote

Refreshing fruit dessert.

Watermelon and Green Grape Compote

2 cups watermelon balls
1/2 cup seedless green grapes
1/2 cup watermelon juice or other fruit juice
1/2 cup grenadine syrup

Lightly mix watermelon balls, seedless grapes, fruit juice and grenadine syrup together; chill. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Note: If you do not have a French ball cutter, you can use the 1/2 teaspoon from a set of round-bowled measuring spoons for scooping out the watermelon balls. Grenadine syrup is generally available in food-chain stores and supermarkets. Besides using it in fruit compotes, it can be combined with fruit juices and carbonated water for a cold drink.

EASY DINNER—An easy but tasty repast is Beefaroni served in cornucopias made from bologna and ham. The coleslaw offers a proper crisp contrast.

Canned Macaroni Served in Meat Cornucopias

Summer means a leisurely way of living. And no one appreciates this more than Mother. Light, easily prepared meals are the fashion. And this is where the pantry shelf comes in handy. A ready-made meal from a convenient can can be thoroughly delightful and delicious. And, of course, heat-and-eat foods lend themselves to imaginative ideas.

Beefaroni, a delicious combination of ground beef and macaroni

Freeze Sandwiches but Do It Right

Some sandwiches take to freezing better than others. For best bets, use sliced or ground meats, fish, chicken, peanut butter and cheeses.

When preparing sandwiches for freezing, it's important to spread both slices of bread generously with butter or margarine. This keeps fillings from seeping into the bread, making it soggy. Avoid using mayonnaise or salad dressing as spreads. On freezing they separate and soak into the bread.

Crisp vegetables such as lettuce, tomato, celery and carrots should not be used in fillings for frozen sandwiches. When frozen they lose crispness and change flavor. Add these vegetables just before you serve the sandwiches.

Most sandwiches thaw in about two hours. You can pack them in your picnic basket or lunchbox straight from the freezer. Plan on taking them from the freezer so that just about this time interval elapses before they are to be eaten.

Variety Meats Nutritious

If variety is the spice of life, put a variety meat on your shopping list each week. You may choose liver, tongue, heart, kidney or several others, but in all cases you will be choosing highly nutritious meat at much lower cost than most meat cuts. Most variety meats will furnish 5 servings per pound, except heart which yields 3 or 4 servings. It is always wise to use variety meats the same day you buy them. If you cannot, quick-freeze them in an air tight container.

Cheese Improves Dough

To make cheese-flavored hot breads, add 1/4 cup shredded cheese for each cup of flour in your favorite biscuit recipe or to each cup prepared mix. Add 1/2 cup cheese for each cup flour in making dumplings; 1/2 cup cheese for each cup flour in making waffles; and 1 cup cheese and some crisp bacon bits to your favorite cornbread recipe.

Want that plain bread pudding to be especially flavorful? Add grated orange rind and coarsely broken pecans or walnut meats.

Coffee-Milk Proves Interesting Drink

A delectable and interesting way to serve iced coffee.

Italian Coffee Milk
4 tablespoons instant coffee powder
4 teaspoons sugar
Cinnamon
Can very hot water
1 quart homogenized milk
Put instant coffee, sugar and 4 pinches of cinnamon in a container; 1 pinch of cinnamon is just as much as you can get on the tip of a paring knife. Add very hot water and stir until dissolved. Add to milk.

Fill tall glasses with large ice cubes and pour coffee over; leave room for some of the ice to dilute and chill the coffee-milk. Pass extra finely granulated sugar for those who wish it. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Add chopped burnt almonds to a vanilla ice cream mix (made in your refrigerator tray) for something good. By burnt almonds we mean those that are blanched and toasted brown in the oven.

Uncooked Tomato Relish Good to Eat With Meat

"Tomatoes are cheaper; potatoes are cheaper —" Everybody's singing 'bout food. And probably the closest harmony you can get in a song about food vibrates through the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which is singing about the plentiful supply of tomatoes.

Housewives with an ear for harmony are comparing the supply of tomatoes with their family's eating habits and they generally come up with some beautiful music, as well as good eating.

August is the peak month for home-grown tomatoes and Midwestern housewives are taking the hint by including plenty of fresh tomatoes in their menus.

Although it's a while before tomato canning season gets into full swing, it's not too early for you to include uncooked tomato relish or ripe tomato marmalade on your "things to make while in season" slate.

For really easy preparation with a maximum of savory enjoyment try:

Uncooked Tomato Relish
Combine 2 quarts (12-14 medium chopped, peeled tomatoes), 1 cup chopped celery, 1/2 cup chopped onions, 1/2 cup green peppers, 2 teaspoons salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon mustard seed, 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves, 1 cup vinegar. Stir until well blended. Pour into clean jar and cover. Store in refrigerator or other cool place. Will keep two or three weeks.

Mustard Jelly Sauce Good to Dip Franks

Betty's Dip
1 tumbler (8 ounces) currant jelly
1 jar (8 ounces) Bahama-type mustard
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons American-type soy sauce
Onion powder
Empty the currant jelly and mustard into a small saucepan; add Worcestershire sauce and soy sauce. Stir over moderately low heat until jelly melts and ingredients combine. Serve warm with grilled frankfurters. Use the miniature-size franks if you can get them; if not cut regular size franks into thirds crosswise.

Grill Rock Lobster Tails

For cookouts, try South African rock lobster tails broiled over charcoal. Easy to do—just thaw the rock lobster tails, remove the undershell, grill on the shellside for 5 minutes, turn and broil until the meat has lost its shine. Brush with butter and serve. The small sized,

Accused Red Spy Meets His Attorney

NEW YORK (U)—Accused Russian master spy Rudolf Ivanovich Abel met his court-appointed lawyer for the first time yesterday and had a friendly, two-hour conference.

Abel told James B. Donovan, former general counsel of the wartime Office of Strategic Services, he was worried about his property in the Brooklyn studio where he posed as an artist. Abel, accused of stealing U.S. atomic and military secrets for the Soviet Union during nine years said he was particularly concerned over his paintings, which are still in the studio. Donovan volunteered to place them for safekeeping in his own Brooklyn home.

The meeting—held in the Brooklyn Federal Court Building—originally was to take place in the federal house of detention where Abel is being held. If convicted in his trial scheduled to start Sept. 16, Abel, 55, could get a death sentence.

The victim, William Durant, a deaf mute, died within a few minutes after being shot in the head. Sheriff J. W. Laffey said the boy's mother Mrs. Vera Durant, 46, a widow, was too hysterical to be questioned immediately. She was quoted by the sheriff as saying "I couldn't stand to see him in here."

Mrs. Durant, also the mother of two older sons, was held without charge. Officials at Manteno State Hospital said the boy had been mentally retarded almost since birth.

LEWISTON, Maine (U)— Charles W. Harvey, 26, a 410-pound tape salesman from Nashua, N.H., has challenged State Rep. Albert E. Cote, a 353-pounder, to a weight-loss contest. The first man who loses 100 pounds would be the winner. He said he plans to go on a diet anyway, "so why not make it a contest."

Tea Adds Flavor to Minted Pie

Summertime calls for delicate and interesting desserts. But easy-to-prepare desserts. Here's one that fits pleasantly into that category.

Minted Lemon Tea Pie
Two cups strong tea (1 tea bag)
1 cup light cream or milk
2 packages instant lemon pudding
1/2 teaspoon mint flavoring or few drops peppermint flavor
10-12 lady fingers (separated)
To prepare tea, pour two cups boiling water over seven tea bags. Brew five minutes. Add cream or milk. Cool at room temperature. Pour liquid into mixing bowl.

Use Leftover Rice in Tender Muffins

Tender rice muffins make hot weather menus more appealing. Served hot with salads, they seem to please everyone. Or spread them with your new fruit jams.

Here's one of our favorite muffin recipes. It's unusual because of color and texture contrast of the white rice and yellow batter.

Old Fashioned Slaw Will Charm Family

Coleslaw, sauerkraut, and cabbage boiled, scalloped or creamed are some of the ways you might think of using cabbage which, by the way, is a cousin of mustard. If you feel you're in a salad slump, try some partners to be added to chopped or grated cabbage, partners such as diced celery, diced apples, or chopped nuts.

If regular coleslaw has lost its charm with your family, serve Hot Cabbage Slaw. It will please the most particular eater at your house.

Play up Whiting by Herb Baking

This is the season of the year when silvery whiting are especially plentiful, says the National Fisheries Institute—and therefore among the least expensive of all protein foods. Whiting, also called silver hake, fished from Atlantic waters from Maine to South Carolina, are frozen and shipped to all parts of the United States in many forms: whole, dressed and filleted.

However you like to buy these slim pretty fish, you'll find they have a delicate flavor that combines well with other foods. The recipe below for baking dressed whiting may be adapted to frozen whiting fillets by thawing them

Sauce Starts With Cream

Heat canned asparagus spears, drain, and serve this subtle "mystery" topping on them: To a half cup of commercial sour cream add a teaspoon of sugar, 2 teaspoons wine vinegar, 1/4 teaspoon paprika and 1/4 teaspoon seasoned salt. Heat gently. Fold in a half cup toasted bread cubes and spoon over the asparagus.

Hot Cabbage Slaw

1/2 cup sour cream
4 tablespoons vinegar
Beat egg slightly. Add sour cream, vinegar, beating thoroughly.

Place 3 tablespoons butter or margarine in saucepan, melt. Add 1/2 cup onion finely grated. Add 1 medium sized head of shredded cabbage, 1 teaspoon water and 1 teaspoon salt. Cover, let come to full steam. Remove cover and blend dressing through cabbage using a fork. Cover. Cook 1 minute. Serves 4.

Herb-Baked Whiting

Allow one or two whole dressed whiting for each person. If fish are frozen, let them thaw. Wipe fish with damp paper toweling. Place in greased baking dish. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, chopped parsley and chopped chives or minced onion. Add 1/4 cup white wine or juice of 2 lemons and 1 small can button mushrooms. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Garnish with parsley and serve in the baking dish.

Herbert Hoover is the only man of Swiss descent to be president of the United States.

'Chetana' Wards Off Loneliness

Indian Wives' Club Breaks Strangeness of Washington Life

By ANNETTE DAVIS
(For Jane Eads)

WASHINGTON — Washington can sometimes be a lonely place for wives whose husbands' official duties bring them here from other countries.

To acquaint the newcomer from their land, the women of India have formed an Indian Women's Assn. or, as they call it, Chetana. Translated, this means "awakening" or "inspiration."

The idea originated with Mrs. Hilda Raj whose husband is director of the Asian section of the International Monetary Fund. Before coming to Washington, Mrs. Raj taught anthropology at the University of Delhi and now she is working on a Ph.D. in sociology at American University.

FEELS A NEED

But, she said, despite this activity, she feels the need to meet with other Indian women in the area.

The group was formed, she says, "to give us a chance to forget ourselves and get together as Indian women. Otherwise we might never know one another in Washington."

At present there are 82 members of the association. They meet once a month in the Indian Chancery, sometimes to talk, other times to plan outings.

Last year they toured the FBI, the Pentagon, the museums of Washington, and a flour mill.

CHARITY WORK, TOO

At Christmas they dressed dolls in Indian clothes and sold them for charity to American friends.

Smaller groups within the organization have formed music, drama, and cooking circles.

Mrs. Soudamini Mehta, wife of the Indian ambassador, is president of the group. She has organized several fashion shows to exhibit the brilliant hues of saris worn by Indian women.

The sari is a straight piece of cloth five or six yards long with a designed border along the selvage. It is wrapped around the waist and draped over the shoulder.

Party saris are made of silk woven with gold thread but many of the saris worn in Washington are made of nylon.

Unlike her American counterpart, the Indian woman does not discard her clothes because of style. "The fashion change," Mrs. Mehta told me, "but only in the borders of the sari."

Circle Meets

Naomi Circle of CWF of First Christian Church met Tuesday evening at the Richards street home of Mrs. Ray Patton.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Bolinger of Rochester announce the engagement of their daughter, Polly Lorraine, to Garrett Frank Mehlberg. The bride-elect attended Western Michigan University. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Mehlberg of East boulevard. A Nov. 2 wedding is planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Albertson of Gaylord announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Lee, to Wilfred E. Mitchell. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred E. Mitchell. The bride-elect attended MSU and her fiancé attends Flint Branch of U. of M. A November wedding is planned.

BARBARA ANN KLINE

Schrader of Manistee. William is a graduate of Indiana Technical College of Engineering. The couple plans a winter wedding.

Climber or Genius, Fairbanks Smiles While Making Money, Winning Friends

Editor's Note: A man of many talents, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., an American, has become a favorite host for Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, her husband. While English socialites sneer and call him a social climber, Fairbanks smiles his way through British life, badly making money and winning friends.

BY EDDY GILMORE

LONDON UP—As actor, producer, businessman, amateur diplomat and socialite, 41-year-old Douglas Fairbanks Jr., has one of the best known faces in the United States and England.

The son of the late silent film star Douglas Fairbanks Sr., he has appeared in scores of movies, more than 200 television films and acted in many plays.

Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, have dined as his guest not once, but twice, a double-barreled social accomplishment that turned certain hostesses green with envy.

SINGLED BY ROYALTY

The fact that royalty has singled Fairbanks out in almost unprecedented fashion has churned up a wave of acid criticism in his wake as he sails through London society.

"Social climber?" sneered one envious matron. "Why, the man's the Hillary of them all."

(Sir Edmund Hillary scaled lofty Mount Everest in 1953—but he did it alone.)

"When they call me a socialite," said Fairbanks, "I often wonder what the word really means. I entertain about three times a year. I dine out about once a fortnight. Does that make me a socialite?"

Born in New York City in December 1909, son of the swashbuckling actor and Anna Beth Sully, of Providence, R. I., he made his first trip to Britain when he was five months old.

Over the years he has returned regularly to England. Now he lives here.

Fairbanks is an enthusiastic Anglophile, dedicated to fostering better understanding between Britain and the United States.

His London home is a lovely house in a fashionable section of town. Fairbanks claims it's an unpretentious place, but it has an inside telephone system with 10 outlets.

Fairbanks' detractors—and he has them as any man in his position would—claim that with the house as his base he embarked on a relentless hunt for big social game.

He begged them—unquestionably. But, it is probably unfair to a handsome, charming man with a busy life, a pretty rich wife and three growing daughters, to blame a big, elegantly furnished house on social ambition.

Fairbanks is a busy man. Three film companies list him as director. He's also the director of a camera company and a ball point pen business and runs a consultant company on imports-exports.

"Now and again I do an odd job for the government," he says.

Bruce, Stephen and Hodge. The boys' father is the late Dr. Peter Crabtree. Mrs. Crabtree and sons will return to their home in California next week.

Not Those Half His Age

Astaire Won't Be 'Chased' by Gals!

By JAY AXELBANK

TOKYO (INS) — Actor Fred Astaire is "through" being chased on the screen by girls less than half his age.

"For 15 years I avoided romantic interest pictures like the plague," said the 58-year-old dancer, "then what happened?"

In his latest movies genial, fit-as-a-fiddle Fred becomes involved in screen love affairs with Audrey Hepburn and Cyd Charisse—both in their twenties.

And a couple of years ago Fred was the sought-after hero of Leslie Caron, also in her twenties, in "Daddy Long Legs."

"Funny Face," with Audrey, and "Silk Stockings" with Cyd "are positively the last romantic interest pictures I'm going to make," Astaire said emphatically.

Interviewed in a Tokyo hotel where he is vacationing in Japan with his 15-year-old daughter Ava, Fred snorted: "I don't like love scenes. They bore me. The only reason I took the roles in 'Daddy Long Legs' and 'Silk Stockings' was because in both of them I got chased by the girls. I'm the innocent bystander."

But when asked about "Funny Face," in which Fred is not an innocent bystander but actually woos Audrey, Fred laughed, then said seriously:

"It had to happen sooner or later. This is about the first time in 15 years of running away from movie romance that I have more than a casual interest in the leading lady."

When asked why he wanted to avoid further Romeo reels if he can get away with it, Fred explained:

NO MUSH
"Ever since I broke into movies in 1933 I have never been a big ladies' man or lover in pictures. I would say I never played a mushy love scene in all my years in pictures."

For Fred love was confined to his life off-screen. He married his wife, Phyllis, the same year he broke into movies and they were among the most devoted couples in Hollywood until her death three years ago.

Since then he has lived a lonely life. Practically his only interests outside his career are his daughter and 21-year-old Air Force son, Fred Jr.

Fred said he would like very much to make a picture without dancing scenes but doubted he "could get away with it."

"If I made a picture and didn't dance, the people would say, 'What's wrong with Fred? Is he crippled or something?'" his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. McNerny.

Parties Highlight Hills' Activities

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—Two parties will highlight weekend festivities in the Hills.

Bloomfield Hills Country Club will be the scene of a large dinner dance Saturday evening when hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. George W. Walker of Woodberry drive, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Richardson of Rathmore road.

Guests have been invited to cocktails in the Richardson home preceding the affair.

Bloomfield Open Hunt Club has been chosen for a swimming party and buffet supper party for Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Burgess who are soon moving to Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Poole and Mrs. Jean S. Greene will be hosts at the Saturday evening party.

Mrs. Floyd W. Knox of North Crownwell road entertained at luncheon Monday for Mrs. J. Vinton Birch of Birmingham.

Mary Patricia Flaherty, her parents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Flaherty and her sister, Katherine, will go to Toledo next weekend to visit Mary's fiancé, Norris J. McNerny and at Daphne's coming-out party this summer that the Queen, Prince Philip and Princess Margaret stayed until dawn.

Guests called it the party of the season.

STARTLES SOCIETY

The Queen startled court circles by inviting the Fairbanks to the Royal Enclosure—a place from which divorced persons are supposed to be barred—and telling them how much she enjoyed the party.

Both Fairbanks and his wife have been divorced.

Born in Bluefield, W. Va., 44 years ago, Mrs. Fairbanks was the daughter of a dentist, Dr. Giles Epling. In 1932 when she was teaching kindergarten in Cambridge, Mass., she ran off and married George Huntington Hartford, the 20-year-old heir to a 200 million dollar grocery chain fortune.

In 1938, their childless and well-publicized marriage broke up. In the divorce settlement, Mrs. Hartford reportedly received more than 1½ million dollars. She married Fairbanks shortly afterward.

Fairbanks inherited what his friends say was about $600,000 from his father's estate.

Fairbanks had married Actress Joan Crawford in 1923, and was divorced in 1933.

Fairbanks is a bright conversationalist and a friendly man. He says he has friends in all walks of life, but the signed photographs on his walls include only well-known people.

Looking down on his enormous desk are pictures of Sir Winston Churchill, the late King George and Queen Mary, and former President Truman.

MADE KNIGHT
King George VI made Fairbanks a knight of the British Empire. If he were an Englishman, this would give him the right to be called Sir Douglas and his wife, Lady Fairbanks.

Fairbanks served the United States with bravery and distinction in World War II.

Foreign governments have decorated him with everything from the Southern Cross of Brazil to the Star of Italian Solidarity.

As a naval officer in the war, Fairbanks earned so many decorations that when he wears them it looks as if he's walked through an explosion in a paint factory. They represent an outstanding war record.

Year's Survey Reveals

Typical Joe Teen Wants to Go, Man, Go!

By EUGENE GILBERT

In the busy world between boyhood and manhood, Joe Teenager, as we see him, is a powerful bit of America. His hopes and his values are solid and sure. The role he sees for himself is a mature one.

Surveys during our first year of writing about "What Young People Think" give us a portrait of the average Mr. Teen which is heartening to a generation of otherwise shocked parents.

Our mythical Joe is not afraid of the future and what it holds in the miracles of nuclear energy. He sees in it, instead, a more powerful tool for his strong young hands.

SKY WON'T FALL

He looks, as one Mr. Teen did, at the caution of his elders with impatience: "The sky isn't going to fall down tomorrow but still some people worry about it."

Three out of four of our Joees already have chosen their future careers with the bulk of them seeking vocations different from their fathers'. Only 16 per cent choose to follow their Dads.

The largest draw seems to be the professions — such as medicine, law, teaching — with 32 per cent considering this as a career goal. Only nine per cent aim for engineering.

Out of every 10 Teens, eight think that compulsory military training is necessary for the security of the nation.

PERSONALITY RATES

In picking his girl friend, he searches first for personality. Good looks come next, followed by companionship, good reputation, brains, education and family, in that order.

The average Joe in the 15 to 17-year-old group has had some alcoholic beverage. Eighty-three per cent said they had taken a drink; 53 per cent said they had had it at home.

Parties, bars and night clubs accounted for the rest, but in looking at these figures, it is wise to remember that state laws vary on the regulation of drinking.

Some 76 per cent of the youths said it wasn't proper to drink

Are You a Typical Teen-age Boy?

(Fill in the blanks, then compare your answers with information in the articles.)

I plan to follow my father's vocation. ☐ Yes ☐ No

The military draft should be abolished. ☐ Yes ☐ No

My parents are impartial ☐ or not ☐ between me and my brothers.

With cancer warnings in mind I do ☐ or do not ☐ smoke.

If dared, I'll take a chance ☐ or not ☐ while driving the family car.

My favorite sport is: Swimming, Basketball, Football, Baseball. (which?) _____

without a parent's knowledge.

Smoking is widespread from age 13 and increases as Mr. Teen gets older. Among 13-15 year olds, 49 per cent said they smoked. Among 16-year-olds and older, 74 per cent.

Despite this, Joe seems convinced there is a link between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

Of all the sports, he likes baseball first, football second, basketball third. Swimming rates a poor fourth.

FEELS RELIGIOUS

He considers himself religious. But he admits if it came down to a choice of going on a date or going to church, the date would win out 82 per cent of the time.

Sex education and experimentation seems to be a great problem for him.

Three quarters of the youths asked said they learned something about sex from their contemporaries. Experience teaches 36 per cent; books and magazines another 20 per cent. Three out of four complain that their par-

Mel Nosanchuk (left), president of B'nai Israel Youth Group, Lee Berg and Rick Serwin, cochairmen of the third annual dinner-dance sponsored by the youth group, look over decorations for the Sunday evening event. The affair will be held in Congregation B'nai Israel Social Hall at 6:30 p.m. on Aug. 25.

Plenty Angles for School Set Hat Fashions

The back-to-school set, from kindergarten to college, will be as well-hatted as their elders this fall. Millinery designers have applied their talents to a beautiful collection of hats for all occasions in the lives of busy American schoolgirls.

Important is the beret, which is seen in many versions, ranging from French sailor caps to the new backswep berets. Berets are a favorite for girls of all ages because they go with all hair styles—and of course the wearer can tilt a beret to the most becoming angle.

The fur look is big fashion news, too. The young set can "show their spots" this fall in hats of fake leopard-printed fabrics. Fur-look hats are available in other make-believe as well as real furs, including lapin.

One designer shows a band of monkey fur around a felt cloche, while another shows a raccoon beret for the college girl to wear with her raccoon coat, one of the season's fads.

Another fashion note is the "sweater cap"—a pull-on hat of jersey or wool knit which hugs the head like a sweater and will not only look attractive but keep your head warm when the first cool days of autumn arrive. These head-hugging caps are perfect with casual classroom costumes.

Back interest, a major millinery trend for fall, is featured too in many of the hats for the schoolgirl.

Co-Ordin-Knits Just the Thing for Fall Games

Want something new to wear to football rallies and to the games? Then show up in "co-ordin-knits." They're exactly what the word implies—matching sweater, pompon cap, knit gloves and socks—all made from wool.

Sans outerjacket, the outfit's warm enough for the stadium in late September and October, and it's also perfect later on when worn with the popular hooded wool outerjacket or parka. If you carry enough weight around school, you might suggest to the head cheer leader that the entire student cheering section show up in "co-ordin-knits."

Pick one in a bright ski pattern. Something could be worked out with a football cheer,

Wife Has Good Reason for Liking Mother-in-Law

She's Casual, Happy, Avoids Advice and Never Criticizes Son's Mate

By RUTH MILLETT

Does your daughter-in-law think you're wonderful? You might try checking yourself against a list of reasons one young wife gives for feeling lucky to have the right kind of mother-in-law:

"She never tells any of her married children what they ought to do."

"When asked for advice she gives it, but she makes it clear that what she would do under the circumstances isn't necessarily the one and only right answer. So you are free to take the advice or not—with no hard feelings if you don't."

"She doesn't criticize any of her children or her in-laws behind their backs. So her sons-in-law and daughters-in-law as well as her children have the comfortable feeling that she isn't going to discuss their shortcomings with anyone when she leaves their homes."

"She is a friend. If you need her, she comes. If she needs your help, she accepts it with thanks. So her in-laws never feel she is imposing on them or they are imposing on her."

YOUNG AT HEAT

"She has a smile for everyone and never seems to get upset over little things. She doesn't wear a long face or enjoy talking about depressing subjects. That makes her seem young, even to her grandchildren."

"She is very casual about the gifts she gives and never checks up to see why you aren't using them. Some mothers-in-law get hurt if a lamp intended for a living room is used in a bedroom, or if a gift is eventually replaced by something else."

"She doesn't resent what her sons are able to give their wives or act as though it's a crime that her daughters have to work hard."

If you meet those standards, chances are your own daughter-in-law feels just as lucky.

Mum's the Word

Paula Marie Crowley and Edward J. Bishop were married Saturday morning in Our Lady of the Lakes Catholic Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Crowley, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bishop.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD J. BISHOP

Pair to Reside in Pontiac

White gladioli banked the altar of Our Lady of the Lakes Catholic Church, Waterford, Saturday morning for the wedding of Paula Marie Crowley and Edward J. Bishop.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Crowley of Deer Lake road, Clarkston are the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bishop of L'Anse are parents of the bridegroom.

For her wedding the bride chose a ballerina-length gown of white Chantilly lace over satin featuring a boat neckline and long sleeves. A shoulder length veil fell from a Chantilly heart-shaped crown. She carried an arrangement of white tea roses, carnations and ivy.

Frances A. Crowley assisted her sister as the only attendant. She wore a peacock blue, ballerina length chiffon and satin gown with a matching headpiece. She carried a bouquet of yellow tea roses with white carnations and ivy.

Dominic Peruggi of Pittsburgh, Pa., was the best man. Seating the guests were Joseph Maconey of Scranton, Pa., and David Hertler of Waterford.

For a wedding breakfast at Pontiac Country Club, Mrs. Crowley wore a silver blue silk organza in ballerina-length with navy accessories. Mrs. Bishop chose a violet ensemble for her son's wedding. A reception was held Saturday evening at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club.

For a trip to Northern Michigan the new Mrs. Bishop changed to a beige two-piece suit with brown accessories. The couple will live in Pontiac.

Paris Cool to Japanese. Home Show

By SID WHITE

PARIS (INS)—Paris critics have denounced a display of Japanese architecture and household goods as being "too cold."

The denunciation was sounded in most major Paris newspapers following the showing of a Japanese house at this year's Household Arts Exhibit.

Newspaper critics termed the Japanese house exhibit "too cold," "impractical" and "entirely unsuited to French life."

Unlike the warm reception of Japanese architectural and household styles in America, the Japanese display was viewed with general disinterest by Parisians.

Observers felt the display was presented with little of the spirit and beauty of a genuine Japanese house.

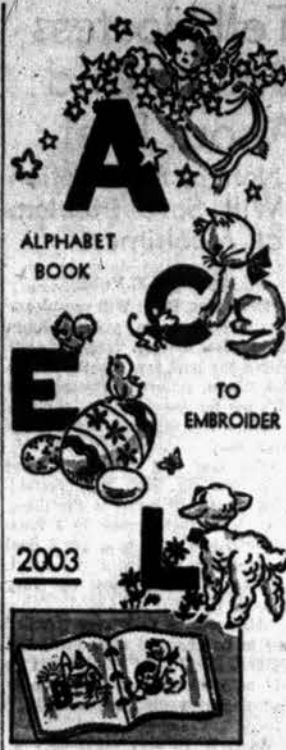

The Paris exhibit, for example, was unlike the exhibit of a Japanese house in New York wherein an entire house, including garden, was displayed.

The Paris house merely consisted of two stripped-down rooms enclosed by a concrete walkway which was lined with clinical and unappealing collections of household goods and pictures.

Paris newspaper critics generally blasted the display, in sharp contrast to expectations.

The criticism was also in contrast to a prevailing Japanese consciousness in Parisian clothing and hair styles and in some furniture and household fixture trends.

Observers felt the introduction of Japanese architectural styles, so widely adopted in modern American homes, would be slow in coming to Paris as a major trend.

This One Found Substitute for Motherhood

Career Girl Needn't Be Frustrated

By ANNE HEYWOOD

In fiction, nowadays, the saddest of all is the unmarried career girl whose friends are married and have children. She is pictured as thin, tense, hysterical and perpetually, tragically, watching the world go by.

Yet the career girls I know, and the ones who write me, bear no resemblance to that picture. I guess truth is not only stranger than fiction—it's more up-to-date!

For example, about a year ago a friend of mine told me about a girl named Kate.

A WONDERFUL GIRL

"She's got the best Saturday job," my friend told me, "and she's such a wonderful girl." Kate did indeed turn out to be wonderful.

"I'm 33," she told me candidly. "I was never very pretty, or terribly popular, but I've always had a job I like and a lot of good friends."

"Don't get me wrong," she grinned. "I haven't given myself up as an old maid! I'm convinced I'll eventually get married, but I may never be able to have children of my own. So instead of just grieving or envying others, I decided to do something about it."

FRIENDS COMPLAINED

"It all started when my married friends began complaining. They all have kids, and it seems that chattering them around, to the dentist and to get shoes and heaven knows what, can be a terrible bore."

"If I could just have one day off, now and then," they kept saying.

"So I thought of a way of giving them a day off: and giving me a day with the kids which I otherwise might not have.

"I offered to use my car and take the children of my four best friends for the day, every Saturday."

"There are six kids in all and, fortunately, they're all about the same age. I pick them up after breakfast and take them to the dentist, barber, shoe and department stores. We always have lunch at a nice cafeteria."

KIDS LOVE IT

"The children love it, because it's a chance for them to be all together with a new grownup."

"The mothers love it because they get a holiday. And I love it because I get an opportunity to play with children."

"The mothers pay me nicely, but," she added, "just between us, I'd do it for nothing."

Now there's a girl who is smart, attractive, contented and calm. She has a good life, which she enjoys. I'm ready to bet that before long she'll have a husband, too, because it's the people who love their own lives who attract others. They make them want to share their happiness.

If you're fond of children, and would like to work with them, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and I'll send you my pamphlet,

"Playing With Children For Profit."

Coleen Niedjelski and Clark Denny O'Brien were married Saturday in St. Michael Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Niedjelski and the Charles O'Briens are the bridegroom's parents.

MR. AND MRS. CLARK D. O'BRIEN

Pair Wed at St. Michael

White gladioli, snapdragons and pompons decorated the altar of St. Michael Church Saturday morning for the wedding of Coleen Niedjelski and Clark Denny O'Brien. The Rev. Michael J. O'Reilly performed the ceremony before 125 guests.

For her wedding the bride chose a ballerina-length gown of French tulle featuring a scalloped square neckline of pleated tulle and short sleeves.

The gown was fashioned with a fitted basque waist and the very full skirt was embroidered in silk with tiny Venice lace appliques encircling the skirt. A fingertip veil of pure silk French illusion completed the bride's ensemble. She carried an arrangement of white rosebuds and stephanotis.

Judith Niedjelski was the maid of honor. Mrs. James Grappin, Mrs. Lawrence Christoson and Nancy O'Brien were the attendants. They were gowned alike in ballerina-length gowns of white crystalite designed in princess style. The gowns featured scoop necklines with tiny cap sleeves and the center panel of the gowns was embroidered in a silk floral pattern. They wore white net picture hats and carried pastel colored daisies.

Best man was Edward Sutherland while Thomas Niedjelski, Jerry Christoson and Gary Christoson acted as ring-bearers.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Niedjelski of Dexter road are the bride's parents, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Brien of Hatchery road.

For an evening reception at the American Legion Hall, Mrs. Niedjelski wore a dusty rose sheath in silk with a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. O'Brien wore an aqua shantung sheath dress with a corsage of pink carnations.

After the reception the new Mrs. O'Brien changed to a navy two-piece sheath dress with a bateau neckline trimmed in white accented with white accessories.

Motor Travel Tip

Here's a travel tip for families on automobile vacations. Take along your oldest undergarments to wear en route. Instead of paying laundry bills for quick service at one-night stops—or coming home with a veritable mountain of dirty clothes—simply throw away the old garments as they become soiled!

For summer wear, a batiste made of dacron and cotton is ideal. It's used for dresses, blouses and lingerie. It's cool, lightweight and quick drying.

Tell Hostess Beforehand About Diet

Note of Explanation Will Save Problem at Mealtime

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please say something in your column about the dieting house guest? Within the past few months I have had three different guests stay with me for several days—each on a completely different but equally strict diet.

"Not one told me beforehand about his (or her) food restrictions until they came to the table. What a disappointment to a hostess who has gone to a great deal of trouble to prepare a nice meal, only to have her guest eat very little of it.

"Also picnics that were planned had to be changed after the guest arrived. Should not the hostess be told beforehand of the situation so that she can plan accordingly?"

Answer: In the situation you describe, it is only courteous and considerate on the part of a dieting guest to write the hostess and say, "I will come with great pleasure if you don't mind my being on a diet. I don't eat starch of any kind (or whatever it is). In spite of this if you would like to have me, I would love to come."

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a boy you have known all your life, but whom you have not seen for several years while he was away at college, returns home to practice as a doctor is it proper to call him by his first name as usual, or should he be called Doctor?"

Answer: Call him by his first name when you see him among his and your old friends. But call him Doctor among strangers.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have enjoyed your column for years but never thought the day would come when I would have to write to you. However, last night at the dinner table after our usual argument, I thought the only way to settle the issue would be to write and have you do it for us once and for all.

The question is: What is the correct way to tilt a soup plate—toward you or away from you. I say toward and my sister says away. What do you say?

Answer: Your sister is right, you tilt the soup plate away from you.

Fall 'Fad' Clothes to Have Neat Angles

What does the high school boy like today in the way of clothes? While it's true that he leans toward the traditional three-button Ivy suit and striped wool sports coat, he is also individualistic enough to look for something different and off-beat. These are usually called "fads," and they've been around ever since school attendance became compulsory. The only trouble with "fads" is that in the past they've tended toward sloppiness in dress.

Let's face the facts. Looking sloppy has had its day with teenagers. It's no longer considered smart to go around looking like a juvenile delinquent. So take some free advice that's given straight from the shoulder, and stick to "fads" that are in good taste, that make you look and feel your best.

Good Nutrition Need Not Be Expensive

Food Important to Health, Beauty

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It is essential for those who wish to remain as youthful as possible for as long as possible to have real thought to their menus. Healthful food need not be dreary food, and the results in good health and good looks are worth serious consideration. Food costs are high and will probably remain that way. Therefore it is of the greatest importance to spend food dollars wisely. Some foods which you may think of as expensive really are not when you consider the values they bring you. Milk is one of these.

Many folks think of milk as a luxury food because they do not believe it to be essential except for growing children and young adults. Most nutritionists feel that an adult should have a pint of milk daily.

This is a splendid protective food because it brings you animal protein, is the best source of calcium, and also gives you phosphorus, iron, vitamin A and some of the vitamin B family. Milk is a bargain in health food.

Because of the current awareness of the possible value of a low fat diet and also because of the interest in avoiding overweight, many persons use powdered, fat-free milk. This may not taste quite so good as whole milk but once you become used to it you take it for granted. I personally like this better than skim milk.

EAT VEGETABLES

When the cream is removed from milk you lose the vitamin A content. However, you will obtain plenty of this vitamin if you eat a well-balanced diet with lots of green and yellow vegetables in it.

The much maligned potato is another inexpensive and valuable food. A baked potato has only around 90 calories and is a splendid source of starch. It also gives you vitamins and minerals.

Only when lots of butter and cream and cheese are added does this food become a dieter's hazard. Of course, when potatoes are fried the same thing happens.

Citrus fruits are important. Cabbage also is a fine health food and it is inexpensive, as are beet, turnip, and mustard greens, kale and carrots. Whole grain products are inexpensive and health building.

MEAT IMPORTANT

Meat is considered a luxury item by many women who must stretch the food budget. However, most experts feel that this is an essential food.

Remember, the cheap cuts are just as nutritious as the expensive ones. You just have to cook them longer and doctor them up more to make them taste like you want them to. They can be delicious.

Tomorrow: "Head, Shoulder Exercises Will Relieve Your Tensions."

Cleans Grills

A brass wire brush with a special steel scraper is now manufactured to clean barbecue pits, grills, and broilers. Cover it liberally with thick soap or detergent suds to remove encrusted dirt and grease from the hardest-to-get-at places.

Mellow Leathers Add Tone to Autumn Attire

The elegance of Fall 1957 will be applied with a soft, rather than a lavish touch. And one of the surest ways to achieve it is with soft leathers rich in texture and mellow in color subtly coordinated in shoes, handbag, gloves—and perhaps belts.

A bag and belt in the same shade of fog gray leather with touches of silver in frame and buckle, above a low-heeled shoe in gunmetal gray leather will make you look as if you'd just stepped out of a limousine.

And on some days you can wind a rope of steel gray imitation pearls with an emerald colored clasp around the wrist of your gray laundercloth gloves.

BRASSY TOUCH

Try a glossy gold-brown smooth leather bag with brass attache-case lock. Add brown or olive green suede shoes with instep strap buttoned down with brass.

Bags have become bigger and fuller since spring, with the easy-looking pouch replacing the slim, geometric shape.

Many bags, in fact, look like luggage in shape and size and have luggage-type metal locks.

The bag that's a smaller edition of an attache case is very popular. With it, of course, you wear a tailored pump in the same aniline leather.

Protects Hosiery

Summer stockings should be washed out promptly to prevent perspiration damage. Suds them inside out, then turn them right side out for another dip into the sudsy water before rinsing.

Ceylon Minister Having Trouble

He Can't Pronounce Name of New U.S. Envoy, Maxwell Gluck

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike said today the newly named U. S. ambassador to Ceylon, Maxwell Gluck, shouldn't be embarrassed about the pronunciation of names.

"I can't pronounce his either. I don't know whether it should be pronounced glick or gluck," the prime minister said. "I shouldn't think it is pronounced in the latter manner because that rhymes with duck."

An American Embassy spokesman here, said Maxwell Gluck, millionaire women's wear chain store proprietor, does pronounce his name to rhyme with duck or cluck.

When asked in a U. S. Senate committee hearing whether he knew who was Prime Minister of Ceylon Gluck replied: "His name is a bit unfamiliar now, I cannot call it off."

This set off adverse publicity for the United States in this part of the world.

Later Gluck said he merely had hesitated because he was not sure how to pronounce Bandaranaike's name.

When the subject of Gluck was brought up during an interview today with the Prime Minister a thin smile came over Bandaranaike's face.

Asked if he felt Gluck should decline the appointment, Bandaranaike said "I am completely indifferent. If the United States is satisfied that this man is qualified to represent their country here it's alright with me."

Michigan to Receive Defense Work Data

LANSING (AP)—The executive office said today that the Army and Air Force have agreed to provide Michigan with continuous information on defense work that might be done in Michigan plants.

The report came from a "task force" sent to Washington by Gov. Williams after the Employment Security Commission reported that about 80 per cent of the state's unemployment is due to a shift in emphasis in defense production.

Leeland M. Uhl, of the Department of Economic Development, said the Army will furnish monthly lists of prime contracts amounting to one million dollars or more and suitable for subcontract.

The Air Force, through its Detroit office, has promised to provide the same information.

At present, Uhl said, the Navy is giving information each month only on prime contracts but hopes to extend this information, at least to the five Great Lakes states, in the near future.

Coast Guard's 'Copter Discovers Missing Boy, 2

NORTHPORT (AP)—A Coast Guard helicopter yesterday led searchers to the recovery of a small boy who had been feared a drowning victim at this Leelanau County resort town's bathing beach.

Fire Chief Orville Kellogg, directing operations, said more than 200 persons joined the hunt before noon for Patrick Rogers, 2½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Rogers of Northport.

The boy had wandered away from his sister, Connie, 10, and brother, Michael, 8, while playing at the beach.

The helicopter, flown from Traverse City by Lt. James Sigman, made several sweeps over Northport Bay before turning inland where the pilot and airman Leon Weigner spotted the lad walking along a railroad track more than a mile south of the community.

Sigman landed his craft near the home of Mrs. Walter L. Christie, who intercepted the young hiker and returned him to his parents.

Bloomfield Township Youth Struck by Auto

An eight-year-old Bloomfield Township boy is in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today after being riding his bike.

Danny Wall, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wall, of 1511 Rotzel St., was riding along the shoulder Lake Rd. when he turned to cross the road and ran into the side of a passing car, said Bloomfield Township Police Chief Clark Green.

Gerald M. Kerry, 29, of Flint, he had no chance to avoid the child. He was not held. The boy was admitted to the hospital with a fractured left leg, and is reported in satisfactory condition today.

Air Force Rushes Stricken Girl to Hospital

ST. LOUIS (AP)—An unconscious 14-year-old farm girl—given a chance only because she has an identical twin sister to supply a kidney—was flown to Boston early today for a rare transplant operation.

The Air Force made available a hospital plane from nearby Scott Air Force Base.

On board were the gravely ill Dolores Huskey; her twin, Doris; their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Huskey of De Soto, Mo.; a doctor, and Air Force crew of seven. Doctors at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis said to the best of their knowledge only five kidney transplants have been successfully completed, all of them at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston.

"It seems like a miracle that she has an identical twin and has a chance," said Victor Huskey, the twins' father.

Doris said she wasn't afraid of the surgery involved in giving up one of her kidneys.

Both of Dolores' kidneys are damaged beyond repair by nephritis, a kidney disease contracted about four months ago. Her condition became critical Tuesday.

Gen. Curtis LeMay, chief of staff of the Air Force in Washington, approved the emergency flight.

"You don't realize what a wonderful country this is until you're in trouble," said Victor Huskey. "Just imagine them doing all this for us."

Huskey has a farm near De Soto, 40 miles south of St. Louis, and works on the side as a farm laborer. He and his wife have six other children, 9 to 28 years old.

The hospital plane was under the command of Lt. Victor Swanson of Woodland, Calif.

Says Ike 'Shoved' Into 1958 Campaign

WASHINGTON (INS)—Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said today that President Eisenhower's political advisers apparently "are shoving him into the 1958 campaign a little early."

Johnson made his pungent remark in response to Eisenhower's complaint that he was "terribly disappointed" that Congress has failed to act on many of his legislative recommendations.

In the wake of the President's comments made yesterday at his news conference, administration sources said he plans to "work like a Trojan" for the election of a GOP-controlled Congress in 1958.

Johnson, referring to Eisenhower's political aides, said: "They are getting a little frantic. It is a little out of character for the President to be passing judgment on Congress. Congress might pass judgment on him."

Eisenhower didn't go into detail in his criticism of Congress, but at another point he urged the Senate to restore "every cent" of the $62 million dollar house cut in foreign aid funds.

Cornea Transplant Enables Laborer to See Again

Murdered Man's Eye Helps Worker

LANSING (AP)—It seemed that no possible good could come from a murder-suicide here last fall. But out of that tragedy has come a new life for John Tarke, a Lansing Oldsmobile worker.

Louis Jensen, 63, shot and killed Lothard D. Bekke, 50, on Sept. 8 as Bekke was entering his bar at Jolita. Then Jensen turned the gun on himself.

CLIMAXED QUARREL—Sheriff's officers said the shooting climaxed a quarrel over a business deal between the two men.

The murdered man's widow permitted doctors to remove his eyes on the condition they could do some good for a living person.

One went to the Kresge Eye

Bank in Detroit. The other was rushed to Lansing for use in a delicate operation to save Tarke's eyesight.

Since 1946, Tarke had been suffering from corneal dystrophy, a degenerative disease of the cornea of his left eye. Doctors said his good eye would probably go next.

At a Lansing hospital, the cornea from the dead man's eye was transplanted to replace the diseased cornea in Tarke's eye. Several weeks of some discomfort followed until the transplant could take hold and tiny stitches could be removed.

But the operation was a success and now Tarke works daily at the Oldsmobile plant, enjoying 20/30 vision in his repaired eye.

"For 10 years, John was in constant pain," said his wife, Frances. "And there was the chance he might go totally blind. It's wonderful to know all that is past."

The doctor who performed the delicate operation asked that his name not be used. But he did urge that more people consent to similar use of eyes, which cannot be removed without the consent of relatives.

"It is just too bad that more people don't know the good they can do by allowing us to remove the eyes," said the doctor. "It means the end of a life of darkness and pain for someone."

Security Jail Work in Ionia on Schedule

LANSING (AP)—Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville) said today he saw no reason why there should be a halt to work on the new medium security prison at Ionia.

Hutchinson said Gus Harrison, state corrections director, had been quoted as saying that work on a 200-inmate section of the prison would be halted Oct. 15 due to lack of funds.

"Work will proceed on schedule," said Hutchinson, a Senate leader. "The department should be able to put 200 inmates there Jan. 1, as planned. I don't understand why this misinformation should exist."

"This new institution will have room for inmates, food service and administration. It could exist by itself if no other prison existed," Hutchinson said. "It is true that the Corrections Department wants education facilities not yet provided, but everything has to start somewhere."

When completed, the prison is scheduled to hold 600 prisoners deemed as medium security risks.

140 Workers on Strike at GM Technical Center

DETROIT (AP)—A strike by 140 workers today threatened to shut down operations at the General Motors Technical Center.

The workers left their jobs yesterday and set up picket lines at entrances to the center to protest the firing of two employees.

Corporation officials termed the walkout a "wildcat strike." The strikers are members of United Auto Workers Union Local 161.

A GM spokesman said the strike might force all operations to stop at the center.

Disabled Vets Membership Hits All-Time High

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Membership in the Disabled American Veterans is at an all-time high, according to the DAV national commander.

Joseph F. Burke of Bayonne, N.J., yesterday told delegates to the national convention that on June 30 195,750 persons belonged to the DAV.

But, he continued, two million veterans were eligible to join and he urged a membership goal of at least 500,000.

In his annual report he asked members to telegraph President Eisenhower asking his approval of a bill increasing benefits to disabled veterans.

The bill, recently passed unanimously by both houses of Congress, would grant increased compensation of 10 per cent to all disabled veterans and 24 per cent to those who are totally disabled.

Russians in Dark on U.S. Arms Plan

LONDON (AP)—The Russian people have not yet been told of the West's conditioned offer to halt all nuclear tests for two years.

Moscow radio's broadcast today covering the U. N. disarmament talks was devoted entirely to remarks by Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin. He attacked the West for refusing to ban tests in advance of a package disarmament agreement.

The Moscow broadcast to Soviet listeners made no mention of the Western plan presented yesterday or of Zorin's reaction to it.

In Marrakesh, Morocco, the "Concourse of Sinners" where sultans once exhibited the heads of traitors is now a parking lot.

Sen. Symington Says New Plan Would End Peacetime Draft

WASHINGTON (U.S. — Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) said today congressional approval of the new military pay plan proposed by Ralph J. Cordiner would "certainly end the peacetime draft."

Cordiner, president of General Electric Co., testified yesterday that an end of conscription and annual savings of five billion dollars could result from the drastic overhaul of present military pay.

Cordiner headed a special presidential commission which has proposed revising present scales to permit substantial pay increases for technicians and skilled personnel who have been quitting the armed services in large numbers.

Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.), chairman of an Armed Services subcommittee holding initial public hearings on the proposal, said Defense Department witnesses would be called for detailed testimony later.

Secretary of Defense Wilson and other top administration leaders who originally asked for the study have deferred action on most of it.

Voice Is 'Squeezed'

LOS ANGELES — A device has been developed that "squeezes" the human voice into a narrow range for improved radio transmission. It is said to satisfy two top-priority military needs—more intelligibility and a 50 per cent longer range in voice transmission in field communications equipment.

Bob Considine Says:

Frick Open Minded on Baseball's Future

NEW YORK (INS) — "The Giants is dead," Chuck Dressen once said, looking down from a height then inhabited only by the Brooklyn Dodgers, which team he managed, and a sprinkling of fellow grammarians.

This immortal apostrophe came to mind at Shor's place the other day when Ford Frick, the baseball commissar (who used to cover the Giants himself) was detected drinking his coffee with cream.

"It should be black," a Giants fan — one of the last — said as he sat down next to Frick.

"That is should," Ford acknowledged, "on account of the demise."

At the next table sat Walter O'Keefe, Joe Byrne, and Owen Murphy, three of the most corrigible alumni of Notre Dame.

"How's about putting Notre Dame's ball club in here, now that the others are leaving?" spoke up a member of the sub-way alumni, who up to this time had taken no part in the conversation.

Frick ignored him and, serious to the core, said to the N. D. group:

"If the Dodgers go to Los Angeles I would like to see Brooklyn declared 'open territory.' No area that embraces 15 million people should be ruled by one club which has veto power over any other club that wants to get in there.

Under baseball law, as it is now written, the Yankees have just that power. I would amend it.

OPPOSES NEW EFFORT

"I would oppose, right now, any effort on the part of the new group to bring a team into the Polo Grounds next year — whether it be a National League team or an American League team," Frick went on.

"Of course, that's academic. We know the city and other interests are taking over the Polo Grounds and that, in time, it will be a housing project.

"But the population trend is toward Long Island. Baseball would be silly to continue to tie its hands in respect to the New York area. Brooklyn should be treated as an entity and declared 'open' for any group that wishes to come in . . . International League, any league.

"It's our job to protect the territorial rights of clubs, within reason, but I don't think it's a long-range view and for the benefit of baseball if a borough as big as Brooklyn is deprived of baseball because of the rules as now written."

Frick would not be opposed to a third major league or the expansion of the two cartels to 20 teams. His interest is the survival and good health of the game. He has taken a bit of abuse in the mails since there has been a threat of departure by the Brooks and Giants and has taken the slings as part of the job.

"There've been some letters saying, 'If Judge Landis was still alive he wouldn't permit the Giants and Dodgers to leave New York,'" Frick said. "But it seems to me that there's certainly nothing detrimental about having league baseball spread to the Pacific Coast. It can only help baseball."

"As a fellow who wrote baseball, I just worry about the boys who can't write it here any more, and the radio and TV fellows, and the ticket sellers, the groundkeepers, the guys who sold peanuts and hotdogs for the Stevens, and so forth."

Frick plans to call a meeting of big league baseball's hierarchy between now and October and give them his thoughts on territorial rights and the ultimate good for baseball, as opposed to the fast buck. He doesn't think the fast buck is unconstitutional or even immoral. He just thinks there's something better.

ABOUT THE FIGHT

Anent the Patterson - Rademacher fight in Seattle tonight, a friend of mine who is fresh back from there, (he shall be nameless, in fact they call him Billy "Nameless" Seeman) says "I've been betting on fights for a long time, but this is the first time I've ever heard of bets placed on the number of SECONDS a fellow would last."

The hardest job Rademacher's sparring partners had was to refrain from knocking him out."

New ICA Chief a Rancher

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Whatever funds Congress finally decides to appropriate for foreign aid this year, the man charged with getting the most for the money will be a poker-faced product of Groton, Harvard, the Navy Air Corps and a ranch in the Rocky Mountains.

He is James Hopkins Smith Jr., who was approved by the Senate this week as head of the International Cooperation Administration.

This isn't the first time the balding, red-head has left the North Star Ranch at Aspen, Colo., for service in Washington. Smith served as special assistant to the Secretary of the Navy from 1951 to 1953, and then as Assistant Secretary of Navy for Air until June of last year.

The new I.C.A. chief—regarded as an "Eisenhower" Republican and internationalist—is convinced that "U. S. foreign aid to other nations is here to stay for some time."

But Smith is nonetheless aware that he is taking on a tough job. As he put it before his confirmation by the Senate:

"I've never set sail on any venture that had so many storm signals flying."

HANGOVER

The nautical talk is a hangover from his days as an Olympic sailing champion while in Harvard and later as a fighter pilot aboard Navy aircraft carriers in the Pacific.

A native New Yorker, Smith lived on the fashionable north shore of Long Island until 1948 when he became a director of a Denver oil company and moved to Aspen.

He served as a vice president of Pan American World Airways from 1948 to 1949 and as a director of Slick Airways from 1949 until he took over as assistant Navy secretary.

A graduate of the Columbia Law School, Smith has never practiced that profession. He is married to the former Nancy Morgan. The couple have a son and two daughters.

Smith is well-liked by his Colorado neighbors who described him as intense, conservative and a "businessman's businessman."

Cargo Aircraft Catches Fire

Odd Takeoff Accident Forces Crew to Leave Spinning Plane

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A big four-engine cargo plane made like a merry-go-round in a freak takeoff accident, spinning on the ground for half an hour before catching fire.

The three-man crew escaped by sliding down a rope while the plane still was circling yesterday. Minor rope burns were their only injuries.

Capt. Mike Moore, 39, San Carlos, Calif., said the American Airlines DC8 had just left the ground at International Airport when the right inboard propeller flew off. "It sounded like a tire blow-out," Moore said.

The propeller ripped into the fuselage and one blade came out the other side and slashed into the left inboard engine nacelle. Moore set the plane down safely on the runway and cut all power. But the left outboard engine continued running. Its controls had been sheared off by the propeller which smashed through the fuselage.

The plane went off the runway and started to spin clockwise while Moore and his crew frantically tried to shut off the runaway engine.

For 25 minutes they struggled. Then the left inboard engine caught fire, and Moore, First Officer Mack Haines, 32, Sunnyvale, Calif., and Flight Engineer I. B. Smithson, 35, San Mateo, Calif., decided to leave—without getting the brass ring.

They slid to safety down a rope dropped from an escape hatch.

The plane continued circling like a top for five more minutes while firemen extinguished the flames. Finally the plane came to a stop—by itself. Why, no one yet knows.

Says Nuclear Tests to Stop in 3 Years

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Testing of nuclear weapons, says a noted German clergyman, will cease throughout the world within three years.

"Public opinion in the next two to three years will be so strong no state will be able to continue nuclear weapons testing — even Russia," Dr. Martin Niemöller said yesterday in addressing a luncheon club.

Niemöller was the churchman who defied Hitler and was imprisoned for nine years. He said he expects to see his native land reunited "in this generation."

"Reunification means Germany will hold all the uranium deposits in Europe," he said. These deposits, in East Germany along the Czechoslovakian border, comprise Russia's sole source of the element, he added.

BRIG. GEN. C. T. EDWINSON

Assumes Command of Air Defense Unit

At official ceremonies Monday at Willow Run Air Force Station, Brig. Gen. Clarence T. Edwinston took over command of the 30th Air Defense Division.

Gen. Edwinston, in assuming command of the division, becomes responsible for the defense of one of America's most vital industrial areas from enemy attack. He has been a member of the military since 1933.

A combat veteran of World War II and Korea, he is rated Command Pilot with approximately 7,000 flying hours in 52 conventional type aircraft plus numerous jet aircraft.

Among his decorations are the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, Commendation Ribbon with one cluster, and the French Croix de Guerre with Palm.

Sgt. York Rests After Exhaustion From Ceremony

JAMESTOWN, Tenn. (AP)—Sgt. Alvin C. York rested at his mountain home today after exhaustion forced his departure from Sgt. York Day ceremonies yesterday.

The 69-year-old hero of World War I was presented a new, black automobile by the 82nd Airborne Division Assn. after words of praise from dignitaries including Gov. Frank Clement. York is the 82nd's only living Medal of Honor winner of the 1917-18 era.

It was the first time the famous sharp-shooting squirrel hunter had left his Wolf River home near here since a stroke paralyzed him almost three years ago. The new car is equipped to carry his wheel chair.

During the final speeches, York's energy wilted and he was taken home in an ambulance, smiling reassurance to an obviously concerned crowd. His condition was not believed serious.

He was the most talked-about hero of the time after singlehandedly killing 25 Germans and capturing 130 in the Battle of the Argonne.

Whether the show Tom Tracy put on in the Detroit Lions' first exhibition game against the Cleveland Browns last week was an explosion which will last or just a one-night outburst, is something coach George Wilson will be aiming to find out tomorrow night in Toledo's Glass Bowl.

The former Birmingham high school star and later a standout at the University of Tennessee, crossed the goal for two touchdowns as the Lions beat the Browns, 20-10 in the pre-season opener at Briggs Stadium.

Against the Eagles tomorrow Tracy is expected to share more of the fullback's duties with John Henry Johnson. His performance against Cleveland was limited to the final quarter only, but it brought kind words from the Lions' coaching staff.

"That was the finest running job Tracy has turned in since he's been with the Lions," said Wilson, "and if he can continue to perform that way, he will really help us this year."

"The Bomb" came to Detroit after leaving Tennessee and playing a year of Canadian ball in which he was named to the All-Star team north of the border.

He was the center of controversy which involved commissioner Bert Bell when the Lions attempted to get him from Ottawa. Later he was released following an injury and finally realized his dream of playing in his "home town."

The Eagles, with a large crop of rookies on the roster, lost their pre-season opener to the Baltimore Colts 17-10 at Hershey, Pa., last weekend.

However several of the top rookies whom the Eagles are counting were missing in that game but will be ready for tomorrow night's encounter.

Billy Joe Barnes, one of the outstanding players on the field for the College All-Stars against the Giants, and Michigan State's Clarence Peaks have recovered from injuries and will see action against the Lions.

Monkey Picks Race Winners Out of Hat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Horse player Francis Palamidas, hasn't had a losing day at the track since he got an assistant — an eight-month-old monkey.

"I was a loser at the tracks for many years," Palamidas said. "The first time I brought GooGoo to Atlantic City he picked the winning daily double with $109.80 last Wednesday."

Yesterday GooGoo had two winners at Atlantic City — L. Audacious, $13.40, in the second race and Fortunate, $9.90 in the fourth. He had Brilliant Gem to place at $3.60 in the fifth.

GooGoo's handicapping isn't complicated. He picks his choices out of his owner's hat and occasionally points to a horse on the program.

Boys' Club Fete at 8

The Pontiac Federal Savings & Loan Building on West Huron street will be the scene of the annual Boys' Club baseball party tonight at 8. All boys who took part in the club's Intramural Baseball League this summer will be fete at the event.

In Comeback Attempt

Dizzy Trout May Sign With Orioles Sept. 1

DETROIT (AP)—Dizzy Trout, 42-year-old righthander who has been out of Major League baseball since 1932, may be given a comeback chance with the Baltimore Orioles.

"I'm thinking of signing him," said manager Paul Richards after Trout impressed him and most of the Oriole players in a batting practice stint before yesterday's game with the Tigers.

"We need a righthander who can pitch a couple of innings at a stretch the rest of this season and he just might be able to do it," Richards said. "I haven't made up my mind definitely yet, but I'll have a talk with him and see what we can work out."

Chances are that if Trout does sign with Baltimore, it won't be until Sept. 1 when the player limit goes from 25 to 40.

With Billy Loes temporarily on the shelf with a sore arm, the Orioles are down to nine pitchers including bonus boy Gerry Walker, who sees only spot duty. Trout, who won 170 games for the Tigers, said he thought he could help Baltimore.

"For a couple of innings, I don't think there are more than five or six guys in this league who can throw harder than I can," Diz said. "I've been pitching every Sunday in a good semi-pro league here in town and I know I can still throw."

Players Group Battling Bell

Football Commissioner Accused of Refusing to Accept Association

CLEVELAND (INS)—Creighton Miller, counsel for the Professional Football Players' Association, has accused National League Commissioner Bert Bell of stalling on his promise of recognition of the Association until after the exhibition season is over.

Miller, a former Notre Dame University star, said that Bell has refused to sign a recognition agreement even though he announced recognition of the group in Aug. 1 testimony before a U. S. House Anti-trust Subcommittee.

Miller has threatened to go to the National Labor Relations Board with a complaint if Bell does not act quickly.

One of the association's major demands is for $50 per player per exhibition game.

In a letter to Rep. Emanuel Celler, chairman of the Subcommittee, Miller said that Bell has so far refused to accept, reject or modify the demands of the player organization.

High School Camps Get Ready

Labor Day - Sure for Preps

By CHUCK ABRAHAM

Labor Day will be no holiday for the majority of Oakland County's high school football players. Instead, they will be beginning the pre-season grid grind as most of the schools start practice sessions on that day.

The list of teams opening hostilities on Sept. 2 includes Pontiac, Waterford, Royal Oak's Dondero and Kinsell, Southfield, Birmingham, Hazel Park, Ferndale, Cranbrook, Lake Orion, Farmington, Walled Lake, Clarkston, Milford, St. Michael, St. Frederick, West Bloomfield, Holly and Oxford.

Troy of the Oakland B League already has a big jump on the field. The Colts began yesterday. Next to start will be Clarkston on Aug. 26. Rochester, Madison, Bloomfield Hills, Oak Park and some of the others get into action Sept. 3.

West Bloomfield High got one of the preliminaries out of the way by giving its grid candidates their annual physical examinations yesterday. The completion of physicals and the distribution of equipment is expected to be finished all around the county by late next week.

The outlook around the area in general is for a rebuilding year with most schools hard hit by graduation. Lake Orion, Clarkston, Walled Lake, Milford, Clawson and Holly make up the few teams who are expected to have several key men back.

Despite the opportunity of starting on a holiday, the coaches will not have too much time to whip their contingents into top form before actual play begins. Some teams, like Clawson which opens at Centerline, ring up the curtain Sept. 12 but the majority get going a week later.

New Pontiac coach Jesse MacLeay has a big rebuilding job to do if he hopes to make the Chiefs Saginaw Valley contenders. Most of last year's veteran linemen have departed.

Waterford has hopes of battling Walled Lake for Inter-Lakes honors despite the loss of such talent as backfield ace Lynn Salathiel. Walled Lake has four regulars back among 11 lettermen with help needed up front.

Carl Lense has only five lettermen returning at Birmingham but is hoping for several reserves to come along. Royal Oak Dondero is counting on a fair starting team but will lack bench strength. The new Clarkston school in Royal Oak is starting from scratch.

More improvement by some capable sophomores could make Southfield tough, while Hazel Park is out to better its 3-5-1 1956 record. The Parkers will build around two veterans.

One of the few optimistic coaches around is Ed Hintz at Clarkston of the Wayne-Oakland. "We may cause some surprises," said Ed looking over his list of 10 lettermen topped by passer - runner Leroy Parks. Four other starters are back but not George Lang.

Quarterback Bob Minewasser and three other starters give St. Michael a good nucleus. Troy has Wayne Figley back to quarterback for his 4th season but is sadly lacking in vets otherwise.

At Milford, the Redskins have 18 lettermen led by Tom Kelly and Jerry Hackett, a transfer from Walled Lake. New West Bloomfield coach Art Paddy has a lot of work ahead with versatile John Lucendam expected to carry the offensive load.

Rochester's lineup will be wide open in early drills with the likes of Dave Peters, Fred Weaver and Dave Edred missing. Avondale could cause some surprises along the Oxford and Orchard Lake St. Mary.

Holly has the makings of a strong team with such talented performers as Amos Bradsher. Hal Haddon and Phil Timson still in school. Clawson has the starting backs returning.

Shell Mr. Softball in Waterford

Remember the Sports Stars of Yore?

(This is the end of a series of articles about former outstanding athletes from Pontiac and Oakland County and what they are doing today. We feature today a former softball star who now ranks with the top diamond managers. Carl Shell of Waterford. Tomorrow we feature one of the all-time greats at St. Michael High, Dick Minewasser, and Saturday the sports star will be Carl Minkoff, the well-traveled director of the West Bloomfield Boys' Club.)

Mention the name of Carl Shell around Drayton Plains or most anywhere in Waterford Township and the conversation will turn to softball.

And it's no wonder. The 55-year-old owner of a home improvement store on Dixie Highway has been connected with the game there for the last 17 years.

He started out as a player and later became an outstanding manager. Drayton Drug's clinching of the state championship in Class C play last summer followed several league titles for Shell.

His efforts as a league official when the Drayton Men's Club operated the former Drayton Softball League are still remembered. The loop was later expanded to enable other teams in the township to enter and became known as the Waterford League. The Township Recreation Dept. has overall charge of the program now.

Meanwhile, Shell and his Drug team keep rolling along like "Old Man River." Drayton is right in the thick of things again this season with two big reasons being an outfielder named Shell and a catcher by the same name.

Yes, they are Carl's sons. Gene, formerly of Pontiac High, is the flycatcher and Hank catches. The latter played at Clarkston. Another son, Dick, is hurling junior softball. Drayton plays in the Owosso "D" regional tonight and goes after Waterford honors next week.

Carl has been managing since 1945 when he hung up his spikes as an active player at the age of 43. He had played a lot of sandlot baseball and softball in his native Gladwin before coming here to stay in 1940. The Shells had lived here 11 years previously before returning to Gladwin in '31.

Carl was active in carpentry and the construction business before starting a store of his own three years ago.

CARL SHELL

There are no plans for retirement for Carl Shell despite the fact he is now heading towards those late 50s. He just looks ahead hopefully for more success for his Drugmen and the Waterford League in general.

3 From State Among Leaders

Pete Green in 6-Way Tie for 2nd for JC Test, With 75

(Special to Pontiac Press) COLUMBUS, Ohio—Birmingham (Mich.) Pete Green yesterday led the Michigan contingent in the International Jaycee Junior golf championship with a 36-39-75. Pete was tied with five others at 75 for 2nd place in the first round of medal play.

Two other Michigan boys were among the leaders, including William Stacey of Grand Rapids, two strokes back of Green (38-39-77). Joe Brissan of Grosse Pointe Woods (39-38-78). Tommy Grace of Lathrup fired 39-37-76 to be one stroke behind Green.

All Michigan shooters were still within range of the leaders at the start of today's 2nd round. Stacey was knotted with nine others, Grace in a 3-way tie.

Tied for the lead were Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, O., and Richard Youngberg of Northbrook, Ill., with 71.

Lane May Receive Title Shot at Brown

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Boxer Kenny Lane, fresh from a victory over Johnny Gonsalves, may get a shot at the lightweight title.

Lane, from Muskegon, Mich., justified his ranking as No. 1 contender for champ Joe Brown's crown as he took an unanimous decision from Gonsalves Tuesday night. Each weighed 139.

Oakland matchmaker Don Chargin yesterday fired an offer of $50,000 or an option of 40 per cent of the gross receipts for Brown to defend his title here.

Shaw's, Drug Resume Bids

Shaw's Jewelers and Drayton Drug, the Pontiac area's only remaining hopes in men's tournament softball, resume their bids for further honors this weekend on foreign battlefields.

The Jewelers invade Midland Friday through Sunday for the Class AA state major tournament while Drayton moves into Owosso tonight for the Class D regional.

While Shaw's and Drayton are seeking glory on distant diamonds, Pontiac will be host to a couple of men's regional tournaments and the women's Class C regional competition. Gingellyville, which finished 3rd in the women's City Softball League this year, will meet the Owosso district winner Friday, Saturday and Sunday at a best-of-three tourney at North Side Park.

Men's regionals in classes A and B are scheduled at Beaudette and North Side Parks starting Friday.

Southfield, Pontiac district champ, plays the winner of the Flint district in a two-team 'A' regional, with the 1st game slated Saturday at 7 p.m. on the Beaudette diamond.

District champions from Mt. Clemens, Port Huron and Flint will clash in the 'B' regional here beginning tomorrow night at 7 o'clock at Beaudette.

North Side Auto Supply, which won the city women's crown last night with a 5-4 victory over Commerce Drive-In Theater, enters the Class A state tourney Aug. 30-Sept. 2 at Coldwater. Runner-up Commerce goes to the 'B' foe.

500 at Stag Day Enjoy Golf, Buffet

With an attendance set at 500, plus perfect weather, Huron-Vale's Lions Club stag day yesterday was a financial and social success. It was the 5th annual event for the H-V club.

Golf was enjoyed, with an exhibition later in the day by three brother amateurs. A fine buffet was served in the Highland GC clubhouse, when awards were made to winners of the links event.

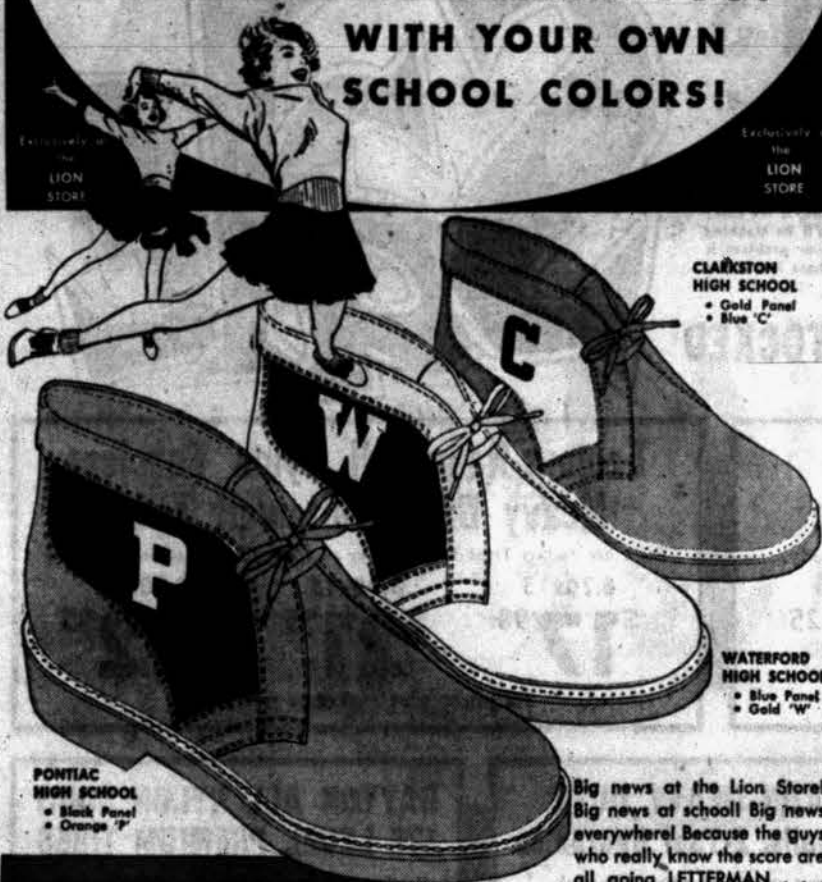

Pontiac's Earl Mastie received a fine lamp, while Detroit's Dewey Schlee was given a $50 radio. More than 100 prizes went to the members of many metropolitan Lions clubs.

Logart Risks Prestige in Bout With Byars

Isaac Logart, the second-ranked welterweight contender who will take on Walter Byars at Detroit's Olympia Friday night, has little to gain and much to lose in this battle. And Logart likes it that way.

Byars, who is currently rated No. 10 among the welterweight title hopefuls, is a dangerous upset artist. His victories over Sugar Hart and Kid Gavilan show that he can be troublesome against any foe.

West Coast Residents Win Acceptance

Life Is Now Brighter for Japanese

By FRANK WEITZEL
SAN FRANCISCO (U) — The dramatic story of a stormy chapter of American race relations is now quietly coming to a happy ending.

The happy ending can be seen in office buildings, parent-teacher organizations, on golf courses throughout the West Coast — where Americans of Japanese descent are finding a welcome unknown in the past.

Mas Satow, national director of the Japanese American Citizens League, sums it up with the flat statement that the Japanese are better off now than ever before.

"People know us now," he says. "Before, we were untried and untested. The war gave us an opportunity to prove our loyalty."

Few people in American history have ever been presented with so trying an "opportunity." The Japanese-Americans had the privilege of demonstrating their loyalty to the United States during World War II while being uprooted from homes in parts of Washington, Oregon, California and Arizona and jammed into settlements one Supreme Court Justice described as "concentration camps."

WAVE OF BITTERNESS

When the Japanese Navy attacked Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, a wave of bitterness against Japanese living in the United States swept the West Coast. After several preliminary restrictions, in March of 1942 the Army declared a large part of the West Coast off limits to all Japanese, aliens and citizens alike, and ordered them to leave.

Although attempts were made to safeguard their property, confusion and fears of the Japanese made fraud and cheating easy. By far the majority of the 100,000 persons of Japanese ancestry evacuated from the coast sold their property at distress prices, gave it away or stored it at their own personal expense and risk. The loss has been estimated at 400 million dollars.

Some "concentration camps"

all of them far from luxurious — had riots and in some anti-American militia organizations sprang up. Eventually thousands renounced their American citizenship.

Many Japanese who had been loyal to the United States became bitter. But most remained loyal.

The legality of the internment, as distinguished from the relocation, has never been ruled upon. After a Supreme Court decision freeing one interned woman in 1944, the Army's Western Defense Command rescinded the order excluding the Japanese from the West Coast.

This order marked the beginning of a stirring comeback by the Japanese. Now it is estimated that 80 per cent have returned to their old homes.

Congress approved in 1948 a law which permitted compensation to the Japanese for actual losses incurred during the evacuation and internment. Satow said 25 million dollars had been collected and the Japanese may get another 25 million before the law runs out.

Fight Against Generalship for Stewart Resumes

WASHINGTON (U) — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine) today takes her fight against a general's rank for movie actor James Stewart to the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Mrs. Smith for several months has blocked committee action on Stewart's nomination to be a brigadier general in the Air Force Reserve. She contends the screen hero and others on an 11-man promotion list did not properly fulfill reserve training requirements.

Nominees for two Pentagon posts—Paul D. Foote to be an assistant secretary of defense and Richard D. Jackson to be an assistant secretary of the Navy — were called for questioning in public. A closed session was arranged for later to consider the reserve nominations.

President Eisenhower on Feb. 23 sent the names of Stewart and 10 other air reservists to the Senate for confirmation as brigadier or major generals. Stewart was a World War II combat pilot and now has a reserve colonel's commission.

Sen. Smith, herself a lieutenant colonel in the Air Reserve and chief sponsor of recent reserve legislation, opposed the promotion from the beginning.

She said Stewart is a friend and she admires his acting ability and wartime service. But she contended the movie star did not meet reserve training requirements until his proposed promotion to general. She said rules for promotion of lower ranking reservists also should apply to nominees for general.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), a former secretary of the Air Force and a personal friend of Stewart and several others on the promotion list, insists that the committee and the Senate should approve all of them.

"These officers have exceptionally fine records both in wartime and in civilian life," he said. "They were selected by a board of generals according to law. I favor prompt approval."

Symington and Air Force leaders said generals should not be selected only on a basis of regular and punctual attendance at reserve training periods or through correspondence courses.

Jiggers, Avoid Chiggers

NEW YORK — There is no creature on earth that can cause more torment for its size than the chigger.

This near microscopic insect will probably cause millions of Americans to suffer anything from mild annoyance to fever and outright collapse, says an article entitled "Jiggers The Chiggers" in a recent issue of a national magazine.

Chiggers are well distributed throughout the U.S., points out the article, and can easily turn up in residential backyards this summer, as well as in the depths of the wilderness.

Some people are not particularly affected by chiggers beyond momentary discomfort, but other victims have allergic reactions that result in nausea and large swellings that look like hives. Once the bite of the insect has been inflicted, one medical expert states in the feature, "cleanliness is necessary to prevent infection."

Bathing the affected area with baking soda solution and diluted ammonia water has some curative value — but no remedy has as yet, proven entirely satisfactory.

The best cure for chiggers, quips the article, is to stay away from them.

Science has, however, come up with some methods of keeping chiggers away from man. For a home owner to discover whether he's unlucky enough to have chiggers around, suggests Dr. D. W. Jenkins quoted in the article, "a piece of dark cardboard or dark china plate should be left on the ground. In a few minutes it will turn red while swarms of chiggers climb aboard."

From that point on, DDT or any of the numerous commercial preparations can do the trick of knocking out the annoying chiggers, and perhaps, enhancing your summer months considerably.

According to the International Labor Organization, the world's labor force increased by 12 to 15 million person during 1955.

Find Body of Woman Missing Since Aug. 1

TRAVERSE CITY (U) — An autopsy was to be held today in an effort to determine the cause of death of a 30-year-old woman whose body was found in a field a few miles from the city limits. The body of Gloria M. Rybolt, a patient at the Traverse City State Hospital, was found yesterday by State Police. Officers said the hospital had listed the woman as being missing since Aug. 1.

They said the body was badly decomposed and estimated the woman had been dead for nearly three weeks.

New York Thruway Ends in Orchard

SILVER CREEK, N.Y. (AP)—New York state's thruway proudly begins its 474 miles at America's metropolis and ends them humbly in an apple orchard.

A 41-mile section in the extreme western part of the state was opened officially yesterday by Gov. Averell Harriman.

The new section, which ends in an orchard at the Pennsylvania state line, brought the thruway's mileage to 474, highest of the world's toll superhighways. A 30-mile section, linking the new stretch with the main line, is still to be constructed.

A highway is to be built in two years that will cross Pennsylvania near Erie to connect with a projected extension of the Ohio Turnpike.

Graham Raps Taste in Books

Says Choices of Nation in Literature Raises Doubts About U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham says America's taste in literature shocks the world and is casting doubts on this country's capabilities for world leadership.

Graham told 16,000 persons at Madison Square Garden last night that no American who buys literature like Confidential magazine "can point a self-righteous finger at anyone in Hollywood." He added, "We as a nation are guilty."

The magazine now is involved in a libel conspiracy trial on the West Coast.

Graham attacked laws so lenient as to allow "the scandal magazines, the sex magazines and the pornographic literature to be sold in almost every part of the United States."

Hollywood, he said, should not be condemned completely. "It is the few who give the many a bad name," he said.

The evangelist said the real problem is with the millions of Americans who derive a vicarious thrill from indecent literature. "Where are the prophets of God to speak out against this sort of thing?" he asked.

At the conclusion of the sermon 530 persons came forward to make "decisions for Christ."

Table Is Inflatable

NEW YORK (AP)—An inflatable plastic table has been developed that can be used also as a carry-all and headrest on summer picnics and beach trips. The manufacturer says the table is about 30 inches square when blown up and keeps food and drinks nearly a foot off the ground.

Two Sing Ezio Pinza Role in Movie 'South Pacific'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Who's singing the Ezio Pinza role in "South Pacific"?

You could answer Rossano Brazzi and Giorgio Tozzi and be right both times. And if you don't mind the observation — both rhyme with hoty-toty.

"I have sung a little bit," Brazzi told me before leaving for the "South Pacific" shooting in the Hawaiian Islands. "Mostly it was on the stage in the earlier part of my career."

"The studio has worked out a method like that used by Deborah Kerr in 'The King and I.' I'll do most of the songs, but Tozzi's voice will be used for the high and low notes. It has worked out very well. Although he was born in Chicago, he sounds like me."

Tozzi is the operatic basso who played the Pinza role opposite

Mary Martin in the local civic light opera run of "Sopac" this summer.

In 1958, California can add five more to the thousands who are coming to live on these shores. They'll be Pat Boone and family.

The crooner said the deciding factor would be how his film career pans out.

There doesn't seem to be much doubt about his film career — Twentieth Century-Fox figures him to be a draw long after the fad for Elvis Presley dies out.

I'm sorry to say that I couldn't care less about Warner's new release, "The James Dean Story." I read that it's well done, but I fail to see the point in it, except to capitalize on the waning and somewhat morbid craze over the late actor.

Marge and Gower Champion are putting on another of their fine shows at the Coconut Grove these nights. Seems to me they got a fast shuffle with their TV show. It had freshness and some wonderful dancing, but got dropped by an impatient sponsor.

Highly recommended: "The Pajama Game," as bouncy and breezy a musical as you'll find this season. John Raitt impresses as a virile singing star and Doris Day is wonderful, freckles and all.

House Resolution May Save Famed Carrier

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House resolution designed to save the famed aircraft carrier Enterprise from the scrap heap was headed for President Eisenhower's desk today.

The measure authorizes the Navy to turn the historic World War II vessel over to an association headed by Fleet Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey (ret). The association plans to maintain the Enterprise here as a permanent national shrine.

Three Estonians Flee Iron Curtain

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Three Estonians in a 16-foot boat have sailed through the Iron Curtain and the far-ranging Russian radar system in the Baltic.

The yacht was spotted yesterday drifting with torn sails in heavy seas southeast of Stockholm. A pilot cutter went out and towed the yacht to the harbor at Dalarna.

The Estonians, two men and a woman, said they left Tallinn three days ago. They had no provisions on board and the first thing they asked for was food. They requested political asylum and are being questioned by police.

Surgical Privileges in Dispute

Hospital Decision Soon

The Michigan Supreme Court is expected to rule Sept. 5 whether six Pontiac General Hospital doctors will win unrestricted surgical privileges at the city hospital.

The doctors, all general practitioners, have asked the high court to grant a writ of prohibition which, if granted, would void certain rules which they say "deprive them of the right to practice their profession freely in a public city hospital."

In a brief filed by William A. Ewart, city attorney for Pontiac, the city, one of six defendants named in the suit, contends the disputed rules are necessary in the "furtherance of the protection of the health, welfare and safety of the citizens of the community."

In the request for the writ, the doctors charge that only the Michigan State Board of Registration in Medicine has the power to regulate their practicing.

The doctors further claim the by-laws of the medical staff illegally limit what operations they may perform at Pontiac General.

Ewart's brief also lists alternate remedies, appeals to Circuit Court, the City Commission, or Board of Trustees of the hospital, which the attorney says must be exhausted before a writ from the high court is granted.

Students at Music Camp

INTERLOCHEN (U)—Seven high school groups, including student bandsmen and baton twirlers, arrived yesterday at the National Music Camp for a week of practice and play. Students represent schools in Ann Arbor, Grand Ledge, Jackson, Lincoln Park, Wayne, Wyandotte and Arlington Heights, Ill.

The group went to the Supreme Court last month when they failed to gain any results from a special

Friends Pitch In to Make Nat Cole's Show Successful

Furnish Talents at Union Scale

Singer Hopes to Prove Negro Can Sustain His Own TV Program

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS) — Nat King Cole, one of the most popular as well as most talented singers in the jukebox arts, is getting wonderfully encouraging assistance from some of the biggest names in TV who want him to make a lasting success of his Tuesday night NBC-TV variety show.

Stars who can get $50,000 and up for in-person shows of their own are joining Nat's cast and working for union scale just to help Nat prove a point—that a Negro can sustain his own TV show.

Meanwhile, Nat is not making any fortune out of his friends' philanthropy — Cole can collect $20,000 a week in nightclub, theater and one-nighters every week, rates high guest fees on TV ($7,500 on the Perry Como Show, for instance). But in attempting to establish on a nationwide basis that there is no color line in the entertainment world, he is working for NBC-TV for $2,500 a week.

Governor Explains Student Conformity

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Gov. G. Mennen Williams says the conformist attitude held by many of today's young people can be understood in the light of the "belly full of controversy" they got in World War II and the Korean Conflict.

The governor, who spoke before the National Student Council at the University of Michigan yesterday, said, however, that "I, for one, do not believe the student of today, despite this environment, has succumbed to the view that the best life involves the least living."

The current opinion "seems to be that today's student prizes conformity above all else," the governor said, but "after looking at the resolutions adopted at your last congress I am convinced that today's student is looking just as we did in our day, for the answers to the problems which still confront our society."

Secret of Success on TV Showmanship and Money Back of Playhouse 90

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — What's the big secret behind the success of CBS-TV's Playhouse 90, television's most honored dramatic show?

Only a few words are needed to answer the question—Hollywood's style showmanship backed by big money — and both are promised again for the show's second year.

In its first season, Playhouse 90 rushed to home screen fame with six Emmys and 15 other assorted major awards. Week after week, in 29 live and 10 filmed shows, the 90-minute program dished up showmanship from every direction.

There were scripts from the works of top authors like F. Scott Fitzgerald, Maxwell Anderson, John P. Marquand and Rod Sterling. There were stars of Hollywood and Broadway—from Tab Hunter to Helen Hayes. There were expensive production, good writing and outstanding TV directors.

But flowering most of all in Playhouse 90's public appeal showmanship was off-beat casting and off-beat stories.

The off-beat casting of Ed Wynn in "Requiem for a Heavyweight," bobby sox idol Tab Hunter playing a Russian spy; Polly Bergen starring as "Helen Morgan"; Mickey Rooney in his highly dramatic role of "The Comedian"; Eddie Cantor tearing your heart out in "Sizemore & Son"; screen horror man Boris Karloff as the lover and attentive husband in "Rendezvous in Black"; Red Skelton in a dramatic role; Art Carney in "Charlie's Aunt"; and Jack Palance first as a sensitive pug and then as "The Last Tycoon."

Can Playhouse 90 repeat this type of audience-trapping showmanship in its second year? The man behind the scenes, Producer Martin Manulis, assured me the show can repeat its first year triumphs.

He's six months ahead on the planning boards because, as 30-year-old Manulis says: "Until you get the story you have nothing."

If one man is responsible for the success of Playhouse 90 it is

Martin Manulis. He learned his ABC's of TV in New York as producer of a Studio One summer series, "Suspense," "The Best of Broadway" and, in Hollywood, as the original master-mind of "Climax."

But the colorful showmanship Manulis has brought to Playhouse 90 started back in 1934 with an acting role in a Columbia University play. His first acting was him a Paramount screen test.

He didn't get a contract but he decided to become an actor anyway. After playing the juvenile lead in "They Walk Alone" on Broadway, he discovered more fun in stage production and became a director. With four years' time out as a World War II lieutenant in the Navy.

Before TV he produced such Broadway hits as "Private Lives" with Tallulah Bankhead; "Laura," "The Men We Marry" and "The Show Off." He was born in Brooklyn, is married to actress Katherine Bard, and they have three children.

His production of one Playhouse 90 show, "Requiem for a Heavyweight," which alone won five Emmy awards, is typical of his shrewd judgment and showmanship.

He gave the leading role of the sensitive, broken-down fighter to Jack Palance, always cast as a heavy by Hollywood. And he gave the clown, Ed Wynn, his first straight dramatic role in TV.

Wynn had turned dramatic actor first for the movies but during the rehearsal period of "Requiem" it often appeared that the old comedian had bitten off more than he could handle. There are no retakes on a live TV show. But Manulis had confidence in Ed and never let the comedian doubt his own ability to play the role. The show, from Rod Sterling's script, swept the Emmy race and gave Ed Wynn a best-supporting-actor Sylvania award—and a whole new career.

New Hospital Program OK'd

Pontiac General to Start Residency Training in Clinical Pathology

A residency training program in pathological anatomy and clinical pathology has been approved for Pontiac General Hospital by the Council of Education and Hospitals, hospital officials have announced.

The addition will be the fourth in the residency training at the city hospital. Others are in surgery, internal medicine, and obstetrics.

The program will be under the direction of Dr. John J. Marra, pathologist and director of laboratories.

Residents who complete this four-year training program will be eligible and qualified to take the American Board of Pathology examination.

At present, Dr. Glenn Bylisma is the first to train under the program, having completed his second year. He will continue for two more years to fulfill the requirements of the American Board of Pathology.

Vivien Leigh, Olivier Quarrel Rumors Persist

LONDON (INS) — Rumors that all is not well between Laurence Olivier and his wife Vivien Leigh continued today.

Vivien spent part of her vacation with her first husband, Herbert Holman, and their daughter, in Italy.

Olivier spent yesterday with his first wife, actress Jill Esmond, and their son, Tarquin.

Olivier denied to London Daily Sketch writer Simon Ward that there will be divorce.

"It's nonsense," he said. "You know there will be no divorce." Olivier said of his visit yesterday with his first wife: "It's quite natural that I should be here. It's Tarquin's 21st birthday. Miss Esmond and I have been friends for years."

The Sketch said that "reports of a disagreement" between Vivien and Laurence continue to grow. It added that folks will be asking "Will they live together?" when they move into their new London residence at the beginning of September.

Glider Pilot's Body Found in Wreckage

LANCASTER, Calif. (INS) — Stanley Graham, prominent glider pilot from Seattle, was found dead in the wreckage of his sailplane, 12 miles south of Barstow, on the Mojave Desert, late today.

The wreckage was sighted by a search plane from Edwards Air Force Base and later a helicopter from the base went to the scene and recovered the body. The body is now at the base.

Graham disappeared last Saturday during a flight from the El Mirage Glider Airport, on the Mojave Desert, to Las Vegas.

Boston Takes Back Seat to Brazilian Bean Feast

By EARL WILSON

RIO DE JANEIRO—Brazil is a bean-lover's paradise. Here they have bean banquets.

My mother-in-law and my mother cook beans as expertly as the chefs at the finest hotels.

But Brazil has a dish that those two ladies must try cooking for me because it's bigger and better.

Yul Brynner almost lived on the black beans during one visit—and I saw Ambassador Ellis Briggs having some at a party—but Brazil doesn't stop with merely beans.

"Feijoada completa" is what they call this feast.

It seems to mean "beans with everything else that's grown"—maybe Boston or Maine has the equivalent, but I've been denied this treat until now.

Well, you start on a pot of beans in which there's also stewed bacon, ham and maybe some chicken.

By now the waiter—who wears a straw hat and is in overalls—brings you side dishes of rice, beef, cabbage, wonderful little peppers which make it almost too hot to eat—and then a special side dish of orange slices.

They're to cool your mouth and sweeten you a little.

I had stuffed myself with beans and the fixin's for 20 minutes, sipping a little beer to cool off the peppers, and was about to give up—when I discovered a sausage in the bean pot.

So I started all over again. I fear the Ohio and Missouri-style beans I've always adored now have competition.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Jayne Meadows is set to sign for a TV series with Desilu. (She'll play a housewife instead of the original govt girl character they planned.) Showgirl Signy Lund left "Happy Hunting" for a H'wood screen test. Miss Arkansas and Miss Ohio of '56 are auditioning for chorus jobs with "Lil Abner." The UN's Dag Hammarskjöld dug the non-controversial jazz at Lower Basin St. Ruby Warshaw, a B'klyn school teacher, won a beauty contest in the Catskills. Lucky school-kids!

RUBY Singer Elise Rhodes will wed Navy Cmdr. S. L. Volter. (A friend says, "I knew it was love when he talked about her the same way he talked about his ship.") Julie Newmar, the six-foot-tall showgal, announced all her boy friends must be taller than she is—thus slashing the list in half...

Spencer Tracy, asked when he'll finish "Old Man and the Sea," reportedly answered, "My birthday is Jan. 15—it'll be then or when I die, whichever comes first."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's true that woman's work is never done—and you can blame it on day time TV.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Allan Drake's son wrote him from camp: "They make me shine my shoes and fold my clothes and make my bed, and if you really loved me you'd send up the maid."

EARL'S PEARLS: It would be easier to make ends meet if they didn't keep moving further apart. That's earl, brother.
