A WATERY EXIT—Persons at a home in the Snohomish Valley west of Snohomish in Washington left by boat Sunday when two rising Northwest Washington rivers surrounded the house. Scores of families had to evacuate their homes because of the flood. Here, O. W. Morris, in plaid jacket, helps Kay Troupe, 15, into the boat as his daughter Ellen waits. The person in the window is unidentified.

Trains Stalled, Roads Flooded in West

Rock Slides Block Traffic

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Massive rain-caused slides blocked major rail and highway routes across Cascade Mountains today and trapped 90 passengers for 10 hours in a stalled train until they got out by bus on a one-way road.

A woman was killed in a mountain pass highway accident.

Flooding rivers forced evacuation of scores of farm families in Northwest Washington valleys.

Three railroads diverted traffic

TRAIN HELD UP

The Milwaukee Road's nine-car Olympian-Hiawatha passenger train was caught between slides Sunday afternoon near Hyak, 60 miles east of Seattle. Buses from Ellensburg, Wash., east of the Cascades, reached the stalled train early today and took the passengers to Spokane for transfer to a make-up train for Chicago.

The Milwaukee, Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads all halted trains on regular routes across the Cascades. They combined to divert traffic on a southern route by way of Pasco and Vancouver, Wash.

Highway traffic piled up on both sides of the Cascades as the major cross-state passes—Snoqualmie, Stevens, White and Blewett—all closed by slides.

Hazel K. Caddell, 64, of Leavenworth, Wash., was killed on Stevens Pass when her automobile crashed into a truck in a slide area.

Several days of heavy rain followed by a warm chinook wind in the snow-covered mountains caused the flooding. Water from melting snow poured down streams, ditches and ravines in the Cascades.

The Snohomish Valley was being flooded by waters from the Snohomish and Stillaguamish rivers. Civil Defense officials requested Coast Guard aid and called for civilian outboard powered boats to evacuate families in the area.

Rivers, already over their banks, were still on the rise and the rich farming area braced itself for more punishment.

Snohomish County Civil Defense Director Harold Peterson, said the situation was "extremely critical."

"There's every reason to think tomorrow will be worse and the next day will be worse than that," he said.

Runs 20 Miles in Britain's Off-Beat Craze

LONDON (UPI)—A 56-year-old woman who says she ran 20 miles carrying a turtle and a hot water bottle headed up the latest list of "marching champions" today in Britain's new off-beat craze.

Dr. Barbara Moore, who lives on fruit juice and herbs, claimed the record time of 28 hours and 30 minutes Sunday to cover 110 miles with her feet wrapped in burlap bags.

Dr. Moore's stunt was the newest feat in marching craze set off two weeks ago to see who could cover 110 miles the fastest on foot.

Witnesses said she was last seen trotting through St. Albans, 20 miles from London, around tea time carrying her pet turtle kept warm by a hot water bottle.

Escapee Surrenders to Pontiac Policeman

Jackson Prison escapee Paul McDonald, 33, voluntarily surrendered to Pontiac Police this morning little more than 12 hours after he and a prison pal subdued a guard at knife-point and disappeared in a state-owned car.

McDonald, a Pontiac man with a long prison record, turned himself in to Officer Charles Chancy at 10:15 a.m., ending a three-state alert.

His pal, Eugene Hobart, 44, had been seized by police four hours earlier in a Detroit bar.

Held for prison authorities at Oakland County Jail, McDonald appeared chagrined, police said.

"Escaping was the stupidest thing I've ever pulled," he told Det. Robert Emery.

Emery was with Chancy when McDonald, according to a pre-arranged plan, drove up to the corner of Hillside and Burt streets in a stolen car and gave himself up.

McDonald's mother, Mrs. Sylvia Stanaback, lives near the corner at 51 Hillside.

She said her son telephoned her about 10 a.m. and asked her to have Chancy, an acquaintance of McDonald, meet him at the corner in five minutes. Roused from sleep at home by a telephone call from Mrs. Stanaback, Chancy was a few minutes late for the rendezvous.

Police had watched Mrs. Stanaback's house last night for McDonald. Mrs. Stanaback said she spent a sleepless night, anticipating that her son would contact her.

"I knew he'd want to turn himself in when he came to his senses," she said.

McDonald said he and Hobart, a Detroit gunman under sentence as an habitual criminal, stole the car in East Lansing last night. He said that earlier they had driven from Jackson to East Lansing in the plainly-marked state-owned vehicle and left it there near the Michigan State University campus.

HE TURNED BACK

McDonald said that this morning, he first drove Hobart to the Detroit bar in the stolen car, then turned back to Pontiac to surrender.

Don McLeod Joins Parade of Fallen Spinners

Tom Clay, Dale Young Also Without Jobs as Record Probe Grows

DETROIT (AP)—Disc jockey Don McLeod of Detroit resigned today from radio station WJBK, the third performer to leave the station within 36 hours.

Disc jockey Thomas Clay was fired Saturday night and Dale Young, who had a record program on the station's television outlet, WJBK-TV, announced his resignation yesterday.

Harry Lipson, vice president and managing director for WJBK radio, said McLeod's resignation was effective immediately. He declined further comment. McLeod, 34, was not reached for comment immediately.

McLeod had a daily show from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday. He had been with the station since October 1948.

Clay, who was fired as part of the station's "fine-tooth comb" probe into payola.

He admitted he had been paid $6,000 to plug records and he explained he did this "because I am human and wanted to give my wife and family security."

His statement came shortly before Young announced his resignation. Young declined to reveal his reasons for resigning.

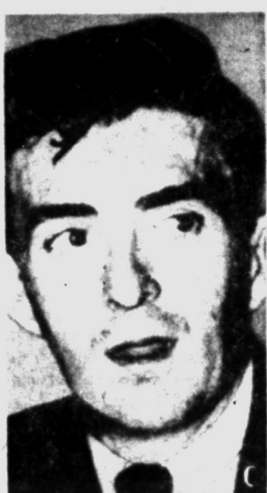

Clay's statement came shortly before Dale Young, who has a record program on the station's television outlet, WJBK-TV, announced his resignation. Young declined to reveal his reasons for resigning.

TEEN-AGERS' FAVORITES

Clay was a favorite with Detroit area teenagers and Young was master of ceremonies of the popular Detroit Bandstand. Both men are 30 years of age.

Station officials declined to comment on Clay's dismissal. One said, however, that Storer Broadcasting Co., which owns WJBK and WJBK-TV, is investigating payola, if any, at its five television and 12 radio stations.

Orion Girl, 14, Is Among State's Weekend Fatalities

Violent death stalked Michigan's highways, waterways and woods over the weekend.

Among 10 persons killed in traffic accidents was a 14-year-old Orion Township girl, who died this morning from injuries. She was in a head-on collision which killed a Flint woman Sunday south of Fenton.

Two hunters were shot to death accidentally, six young boys drowned and 51 persons—40 of them children—narrowly escaped death in separate fires at Flint and Port Huron.

Georganna Matteson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Matteson of 4316 Lakeside Dr., Orion Township, died shortly after 3 a.m. at McLaren Hospital, Flint.

Matteson, 38, one of the drivers, was reported in fair condition.

A son, Charles, 16, was admitted with serious injuries, said State Police at the Brighton Post.

Killed instantly in the collision on U.S. 23 in Livingston County was Mrs. Reba M. Allard, 54, of Flint. She was in a car driven by her husband, Charles, 63, who was admitted to Flint Hurley Hospital.

The hunter deaths brought to six the number of persons who have died by gunshot in the state's nine-day-old deer season. In addition, 21 hunters have suffered fatal heart attacks, five have been asphyxiated and one died of an undetermined cause.

Eleven youngsters fled from their home at Port Huron when fire broke out. At Flint, 40 persons, 29 of them youngsters, fled from a burning three-story apartment.

Three youngsters drowned when they plunged through ice on a pond near St. Joseph. Another boy fell into the Black River near his South Haven home while playing and drowned.

The body of one of two Saginaw brothers who disappeared from home Friday night was found in the Saginaw River and police feared his brother suffered the same fate.

Another boy drowned when he fell through ice on a lake near his home northeast of Grand Rapids.

The St. Joseph trio drowned Saturday night when a makeshift raft plunged through ice on a frozen pond near St. Joseph Saturday.

Berrien County sheriff's deputies identified the boys as Dale Schultz, 9, his brother Anthony, 7, and Ricky Rogers, 11. They were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Schultz and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rogers.

The bodies of the boys were found beneath the raft in 20 feet of water.

The body of Walter Stockford, 13, one of two Saginaw brothers missing from home since Friday, was recovered Sunday from the Saginaw River. Police feared his brother Terry, 12, also was drowned, and they planned continued dragging operations.

Terrance Parks, 8, of South Haven, drowned Sunday in the Black River near his home. Police said he was standing on a concrete pier tossing stones when he tumbled into the water. His body was recovered. He was the son of Mrs. Peggy Harrington.

2 Die, 3 College Men Hurt in 2-Car Crash

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP)—Two men were killed and three young college track stars critically injured today in a two-car collision about a mile south of Mount Pleasant.

The dead were identified as Frank Thompson, of rural White Cloud, and Warrens Hook, 45, of Rodney. Kenneth Lintemuth, who was riding with them, was seriously injured.

In critical condition were Leroy Zimmer, 20, of Unionville, and Yotham Muleya, 19, of Northern Rhodesia, and John Winter, 25, of Southern Rhodesia.

Zimmer is on the track team at Central Michigan University. Muleya and Winter both are track men in their native countries and were here on a visit as part of the State Department's educational exchange program.

Cuban Labor Shunning Reds?

Electon Leaves Out Organized Party, but Sympathizers Picked

HAVANA (AP)—The Cuban Confederation of Labor today elected an executive committee made up entirely of members of Fidel Castro's revolutionary party and rejected a Communist party bid for posts on the labor high command.

Despite the rebuff to the organized Reds, informed sources said the 13-man group elected early today by the 10th National Labor Congress included several former Communists and some Communist sympathizers.

Heading the group is Secretary General David Salvador. Castro's choice installed last Jan. 1 when the revolution triumphed and an outspoken critic of the United States.

The election by a roaring voice vote ended the congress after a tumultuous final session of wrangling which lasted most of the night.

Earlier the congress withdrew the Cuban Confederation from the anti-Communist Inter-American Regional Organization of Workers and set out to organize a new "Revolutionary Confederation of Latin American Workers."

A congress resolution charged the IAROW was under the control of "American imperialism, which has consistently supported all dictators."

The Inter-American regional organization was formed nearly a decade ago. It is a branch of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions. The Free World's rival to the Communist-led World Federation of Trade Unions.

The congress appealed to other Latin-American labor groups to join it in forming the new "revolutionary confederation."

The delegates also proposed a handful of other resolutions bristling with attacks on the United States.

These included a denunciation of U.S. "monopolists and the State Department" for "opposing just efforts of the Latin-American people to achieve their rights."

Another assailed Latin-American dictatorships "who are supported by the United States."

Dream of Spring Will Continue Another Day

Light showers today or early tonight are forecast for the Pontiac area.

Mild weather will continue with a high of 58 today and a low of 38 tonight. Tuesday's high is expected to be 45.

Southwesterly winds 12 to 20 miles per hour will become westerly tonight, it is predicted.

Temperatures rose Sunday to a springlike high of 55. Wind velocity at 10 a.m. was southwesterly at 18 m.p.h.

Rock 'n' Roll Pioneer Freed Fired in N.Y.

Radio Station Boots Him for Refusing to Answer Questions

NEW YORK (AP)—Disc Jockey Alan Freed, a pioneer in the rock 'n' roll craze who has been fired by a New York radio station, meets today with officials of a television station here to talk about payola.

While congressional investigators probed payola—under-the-table payments by record companies to disc jockeys for plugging certain records on their programs—some stations took quick action.

In New York, radio station WABC fired Freed Saturday after he refused to answer questions put to the station's record spinners. Freed insisted he was honest and it was an insult to ask him.

Officials of WNEW-TV here, which carries a Freed show, asked the disc jockey to meet with them today.

"We want to know what the situation is," said WNEW-TV general manager Bennett Korn. "We don't believe in prejudging a man. On the other hand, we don't intend to be soft or ostrich-like in our decision."

Freed was not available for comment.

The payola probe drew comment from Federal Communications Commissioner Robert E. Lee, who spoke at a breakfast here Sunday. Lee said payola disc jockeys might cause their stations to lose their licenses.

"Irrespective of the licensee having knowledge of the same the violation exists and, depending on the circumstances attendant on each case, jeopardizes (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Scandal Transfers Officers

ROME (UPI)—Thirteen American officers, the entire U.S. command at the NATO base at Izmir in Turkey, have been relieved of the jobs following an investigation of alleged blackmarket activities, it was learned here today.

The case stems from an investigation carried out by Maj. Gen. Joseph Carroll, attached to NATO headquarters in Paris, following the arrest by Turkish authorities of four American enlisted men last August on charges of illegal currency dealings.

At least two of the men said they were beaten by Turkish authorities and held in a "dungeon-like" prison.

The men still are awaiting completion of their trials.

The arrests caused high indignation among Americans here and set off a chain of investigations and transfer of officers and men that now amount to 23 persons.

Many of the officers transferred strongly protested the manner in which the American enlisted men were treated by Turkish secret police and the alleged unwillingness of the U.S. State Department and the Pentagon to do anything about it.

The 13 officers transferred or ordered transferred include every unit commander in Izmir, headquarters of Allied land forces in Southeastern Europe.

Ten Army and Air Force sergeants also have been ordered transferred, including the secretary to U.S. Army Lt. Gen. Paul D. Harkins, commander of the Allied land forces in Izmir. Reliable information reached here said that before the affair is finished "some 40 to 50 officers and sergeants will have been transferred out of Turkey."

Fireman Faces Closed Hearing

Lt. Raymond R. Foy's Job Under Discussion at 7:30 Tonight

The job of a Pontiac Fire Department lieutenant will be at stake when the Civil Service Commission meets tonight to consider dismissal charges against the officer, Lt. Raymond R. Foy.

A veteran of 13 years with the department, Foy, 35, is charged with conduct unbecoming an officer in failing to maintain good behavior and giving the department unfavorable publicity.

Charges against Foy, who faces examination on a felonious assault charge in Orion Township Justice Court Dec. 1, were prepared by Public Safety Director George D. Eastman and Fire Chief James R. White. They were submitted by city manager Walter K. Willman.

Foy has asked for a closed hearing before the three-man commission. It will begin at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall.

The officer was arrested Nov. 6 after he allegedly went to the home of William H. Whitmire, 19, of 3715 Grafton St., Orion Township, armed with a shotgun.

He had demanded to see Whitmire's brother, answered the door, and slammed it in the officer's face.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies arrested Foy when he lost control of his pickup truck near the Whitmire home and ran into a ditch.

He was suspended from the Fire Dept. Nov. 9 by White.

Father of Sheriff Dies in Hospital

Alfred H. Irons, longtime county resident and father of Oakland County Sheriff Frank W. Irons, died Saturday at the age of 86.

Irons had been at Otsego Memorial Hospital, 1- Gaylord, since suffering a stroke last week. He had a home in Atlanta, in Montgomery County, but spent most of his time living with his son in the sheriff's quarters at the Oakland County Jail.

Service will be held tomorrow at Green's Funeral Home, in Atlanta, at 2 p.m. Mr. Irons is a native of Atlanta and burial will be there.

Aside from the sheriff, he is survived by sons Charles, of Lake Orion, John, of De Tour, and Floyd, of Atlanta; daughters Mrs. May Biltz, of Berkeley, Mrs. Lottie Worthing, of Imley City, and Mrs. Aima Schmier, of Atlanta.

He also had 18 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

Wrigley Head Dies at Southfield Home

Chairman of ACF Wrigley Stores Inc., Nathan W. Lurie, 63, died of a heart attack at his home in Southfield last night.

Lurie and his brother, John, started a hole-in-the-wall grocery store in Detroit in 1924, and parlayed it into one of the nation's larger grocery chains.

Nathan Lurie also was chairman of Supersol Ltd., which opened Israel's first supermarket at Tel Aviv Aug. 28, 1958.

He was a native of Covington, Ky., and came to Detroit 52 years ago. Survivors include his widow, Ireta; his brother, John; a son, Richard, and a daughter, Mrs. Melvin Yoffee, all of Detroit.

Funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at noon at Detroit's Temple Beth El.

drowned Saturday when he fell through a film of ice on Ratigan Lake near his farm home northeast of Grand Rapids. A sheriff's deputy recovered the body.

Fred, the youngest of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. John VanDriel who operate a farm near the lake, walked out on the ice with a companion while on a "hunting" trip with BB guns, officers said. The companion, 9-year-old neighbor Bruce Biddinger, scrambled from the neck-deep water and ran to the VanDriel home for help.

In the hunting mishaps, Clifford Sanders, 30, of Albion, was shot in the back about 30 miles northwest of Baldwin, and Bernard A. Degris, 68, of Jackson, apparently shot himself in the head while hunting five miles north of Jackson.

John Green, 31, of Grand Rapids, was quoted by Lake County sheriff's deputies as saying he heard Sanders moving in thick brush and fired, thinking he had heard a deer.

Twenty-one hunters have died of heart attacks and five have perished by asphyxiation from gas heaters in their trailers since the season opened Nov. 15.

Near Flint, the 40 persons, including 29 children, were evacuated from a burning three-story apartment house in suburban Burton Township. The brick and frame structure was destroyed, firemen said. Fire started when grease on a stove caught fire and spread, shooting flame 100 feet into the air.

At Port Huron, the 11 children fled their home when a fire broke out in a second-floor bedroom. Police said the children's mother, Mrs. S. F. Petosky, was not at home and their father was believed working in Chicago.

Firemen said the fire damaged the second floor of the house. The cause was not determined.

Mrs. Eleanor E. Wright, 33, of Detroit, Mrs. Mattie Dickerson, 33, River Rouge, and Clark Clinton, 33, of Ecorse, were killed Sunday when the car in which they were riding missed a curve and struck a tree in Melvindale. They were passengers in a car driven by Ike Austin, 58, of Detroit, who was injured critically.

Joseph Raikovich, 62, of Highland Park, was struck and killed by a car Saturday night on a Highland Park street.

Five Missing in Hotel Blaze

Peoria Fire Is 2nd in 24 Hours; Believe Both Linked to Arson

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI)—Fire raged for four hours in the Arion Hotel today and five persons were reported missing.

It was the second Peoria hotel fire in 24 hours and arson was suspected in both.

Authorities said two or three persons leaped to safety from upstairs rooms in the Arion and other residents made their way through the burning building to safety.

Ronald Peyton, a bartender in a nearby tavern, told authorities he heard an explosion and rushed out to find the hotel ablaze. Peyton said he smelled kerosene.

Two taxi drivers also told authorities they had detected kerosene fumes at the scene.

Mrs. Betty Woodrum, a resident of the Arion, said she had left her four-month-old child inside the building in the care of another woman. The child was among the persons missing.

Earlier fire destroyed the Parkview Arms Hotel, which had been converted from a hospital.

Gasoline tins and steel drums containing flammable fluid were found inside the building. It was planned to open for Negro residents in a fringe area not yet settled by Negroes.

Fire Destroys Barn in Springfield Township

SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP — A large barn was destroyed here last night by fire, leaving only the silo standing.

Township Fire Chief Charles Hillman said that the barn was nearly gone by the time the fire department arrived, and the only thing that could be done was to see that sparks didn't ignite the home of the owner, Thomas Graves, 10655 Rattalee Lake Rd.

Hillman said that the fire, fed by hay stored in the barn, caused damage estimated at $3,500.

City to Honor 16 Employees at Retirement Banquet

Sixteen Pontiac city employees, including three department heads will be honored at a retirement banquet next month.

All the employees will have retired by the end of the year. Many already have.

Seven will leave their jobs Dec. 31 under the new retirement policy adopted this year for both hourly and salaried employees. It sets 67 as the mandatory retirement age.

The policy affects the retirement of Lewis M. Wrenn, city engineer; Joseph B. Jewel, superintendent of public works; and W. Ray Ransom, city assessor.

Wrenn and Jewel have worked for Pontiac since 1932; Ransom since 1934.

WILL FETE SCHROEDER

Among those to be honored at the banquet will be retired Fire Chief John F. Schroeder, who ended 48 years with the city earlier this year.

Garden City Man Dies After Accident

Service for a 23-year-old Garden City man who died yesterday as the result of injuries suffered in a construction project accident early in October will be held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in the First Presbyterian Church, Pontiac.

Dan A. Booth, 873 Oxbow St., suffered the injuries when hit by the boom of a power crane while working on a sewer project in the City of Dearborn. He was an employee of Roy D. Baker Contractor Inc. of Detroit.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Royal Oak William Beaumont Hospital at 2:20 a. m. yesterday.

Mr. Booth's body will lie at the Donelson-Johns Funeral Home until noon Wednesday.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin R. Booth; his wife, Nancy, two children, Charles M. and Cindy; three sisters, Mrs. Lloyd N. Birnbaum of Redford, Mrs. Frank Dickie of Sylvan Lake, Catherine at home; and a brother, Marvin.

Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

in the state car when they made their break yesterday evening.

The pair was working on a Christmas project at the prison which required them to take photographs at several prison farms a few miles outside the walls.

Authorities said the two men were on their way from one farm to another when they pulled knives on the guard, Kenneth Grow, and the driver, Leon Thompson, another trustee.

They forced Grow and Thompson out of the car and tied them to trees, then drove off in the car, state police said.

McDonald was serving a 24-15 year term for entering without breaking. He was sentenced last August from Tuscola County Circuit Court.

A native of Pontiac, McDonald had been sentenced three times previously in Oakland County Circuit Court.

In 1949, he was placed on one-year probation here for grand larceny. Two years later, he was sentenced to 24-10 years in Jackson for assault with intent to rape.

Paroled in 1953, McDonald was sentenced to Jackson again in 1957, this time a 24-15 year term for breaking and entering. He was paroled in March of this year, only to be convicted again five months later in Tuscola County.

In 1947, MacDonald was placed on three years' probation in Los Angeles for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Hobart was serving 25-40 years on a 1949 conviction stemming from an $83 robbery in Detroit. He had had two previous convictions and was on parole at the time of the robbery.

Gerald Hansen, assistant to the Jackson Prison warden, explained that the two trustees had been assigned to a traditional season project.

Inmates within the prison and the farms are permitted to have their pictures taken to send to their families, he said. This year, McDonald and Hobart were assigned to take the pictures, he explained.

President of Philippines to Honor Mrs. Murphy

BIRMINGHAM — University of Michigan Regent Mrs. Irene E. Murphy, 444 Bonnie Briar Rd., will be honored Dec. 4 in Manila by Philippine President Carlos P. Garcia for her work in starting the Community Chest there.

Mrs. Murphy, who will not arrive in Manila until a week after the formal presentation, has sent a letter of acceptance of the presidential award to be read on that day.

Mrs. Murphy will leave Detroit Sunday to travel to Tokyo, Manila, Hong Kong, Bangkok, New Delhi, Beirut, Athens and return to New York Jan. 24.

After a three-week stay in Manila, where Mrs. Murphy will follow up the work she did in community development for the United Nations from 1949 to 1951, she will travel to Bangkok, Thailand, for an official inspection of the University of Michigan's Language Institute project there.

Mrs. Murphy's trip will also include meetings with University of Michigan clubs in Manila and Taipei, Formosa.

City Manager L. R. Gare will recommend to the City Commission at its regular meeting tonight that alleys on either side of Woodward avenue from Lincoln avenue to 14-mile road be paved, and the business property fronting them be assessed the cost of the improvement.

He said during the past several years, numerous complaints have been received by the city on both the appearance and conditions of the alleys.

"Normally, where an alley abuts business property on one side and residential property on the opposite side, the procedure is to place that portion of the assessment, not carried by the city, against the business property and place no assessment against the residential property," Gare said.

"To my knowledge, this is the way previous assessments within the city have been made and I feel it is equitable."

The Ruth Shain Class of International Affairs will meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday with the subject, "What Holes Did You Find in the Iron Curtain?"

Classes are held on the second floor of the Birmingham Community House.

Mrs. F. G. Garrison, Mrs. Russell Barnes and Mrs. Shain, all class leaders and residents of Birmingham, will participate in a three-way conversation on impressions they received while visiting Russia last summer.

Mrs. Shain said the public is invited with no admission charge.

Mrs. Jess Miller Service for Mrs. Jess Miller, 75, of 828 West Lincoln Ave. will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Manley Bailey Funeral Home. Burial will be at Roseland Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Miller, a Birmingham resident 45 years, died Saturday after a short illness in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

Surviving are her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Ernest J. Robinson, Birmingham and Mrs. Clarence Wright, Pontiac; two grandchildren; a great-grandchild; and a sister, Mrs. Louis Wellingham of Essex, England.

A Time magazine article Nov. 16 accused the networks of ignoring a story in a 1957 issue of Time which hinted some quiz shows were rigged. NBC Board Chairman Robert W. Sarnoff Sunday retorted that several Time-owned stations also ignored the article.

Weston C. Pullen Jr., vice president for broadcasting of Time, Inc., promptly conceded that Time, Inc., should have dropped the quiz shows from its stations.

"I regret that we did not," said Pullen. "Like Mr. Sarnoff and others, we learned a lesson."

The Day in Birmingham

President of Philippines to Honor Mrs. Murphy

BIRMINGHAM — University of Michigan Regent Mrs. Irene E. Murphy, 444 Bonnie Briar Rd., will be honored Dec. 4 in Manila by Philippine President Carlos P. Garcia for her work in starting the Community Chest there.

Mrs. Murphy, who will not arrive in Manila until a week after the formal presentation, has sent a letter of acceptance of the presidential award to be read on that day.

Mrs. Murphy will leave Detroit Sunday to travel to Tokyo, Manila, Hong Kong, Bangkok, New Delhi, Beirut, Athens and return to New York Jan. 24.

After a three-week stay in Manila, where Mrs. Murphy will follow up the work she did in community development for the United Nations from 1949 to 1951, she will travel to Bangkok, Thailand, for an official inspection of the University of Michigan's Language Institute project there.

Mrs. Murphy's trip will also include meetings with University of Michigan clubs in Manila and Taipei, Formosa.

City Manager L. R. Gare will recommend to the City Commission at its regular meeting tonight that alleys on either side of Woodward avenue from Lincoln avenue to 14-mile road be paved, and the business property fronting them be assessed the cost of the improvement.

He said during the past several years, numerous complaints have been received by the city on both the appearance and conditions of the alleys.

"Normally, where an alley abuts business property on one side and residential property on the opposite side, the procedure is to place that portion of the assessment, not carried by the city, against the business property and place no assessment against the residential property," Gare said.

"To my knowledge, this is the way previous assessments within the city have been made and I feel it is equitable."

The Ruth Shain Class of International Affairs will meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday with the subject, "What Holes Did You Find in the Iron Curtain?"

Hart Favors Laws Against Influencers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) said today Congress should try to work out legislation that will put to rest any public concern about back door approaches to federal regulatory agencies.

Hart is acting chairman of a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee which is conducting hearings on a bill to outlaw undisclosed attempts to influence decisions by such agencies.

The bill was introduced at the request of the American Bar Assn. and was the outgrowth of a House investigation last year. Its ban would apply to members of Congress as well as anyone else.

UCLA Repays Mice With 'C' in Doughnut

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Hughes thought he'd do something nice for his school, the University of Southern California. So Friday he painted 200 mice red and gold — USC's colors — and set them loose in the UCLA library.

He sat back and watched the coeds scream. Now it so happens that UCLA and USC, traditional rivals, clash in their annual football game today. And things like this happen during the week of Los Angeles' big game.

To show their hearts were in the right place, the members of UCLA's School Spirit Club, Kelps, reciprocated. They caught Hughes after he released the mice and carted him off to a fraternity house.

Hughes punishment: his scalp was shaved in the shape of a doughnut.

Official state flower of Indiana is the zinnia.

Snakes to the Irish?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Officials of the Washington Zoo admit they don't know what St. Patrick would think of their latest project. The Washington Zoo has a surplus of snakes, and is shipping the extra reptiles to the Dublin, Ireland zoo.

Wants AFL-CIO to Aid Steel Men

Donald C. Rarick Plans to Write Meany for New Strike Fund Help

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (AP)—Donald C. Rarick, who in the past has found fault with United Steelworkers' leadership, said today the AFL-CIO should set up a fund to assist steelworkers if they strike again.

Rarick gained prominence in 1957 when he unsuccessfully opposed USW President David J. McDonald's bid for re-election. He also headed a dues protest committee that fought against an increase in the USW membership dues.

Rarick, now president of the USW local at U.S. Steel Corp.'s Irvin Works in McKeesport, said he plans to write to George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, and recommend that a strike fund be formed immediately.

McDonald has my full support in the USW effort to win a new labor contract with the steel industry," Rarick said, referring to a 116-day strike that was halted Nov. 7 by a Taft-Hartley injunction.

"As conditions now stand there seems no other course but to renew the strike when the injunction expires Jan. 26," he added. "But the AFL-CIO should bear some of the burden and aid the steelworkers if the strike is renewed."

Rarick said he plans to ask Meany to make plans for establishment of a strike fund which would guarantee steelworkers some weekly income if the strike is renewed.

NEW YORK — An average telephone central office requires as much as 150,000 feet of cable, and each cable may contain from six to 312 units to provide for necessary service connections.

Finally Crack Fake; Who Loses?

Liked the Army so Well He Stayed After Discharge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pvt. Lemuel King liked the Army after 14 years, and when he was discharged in 1958 for misconduct, he just didn't want to leave. So he stayed.

His story is told in records of the U.S. Court of Military Appeals here.

When King was ordered discharged, a friend at the Army Training Center at Ft. Ord, Calif., fixed him up with fake orders assigning him to active duty in Germany. The friend also made him a sergeant 1st class.

King, 38, of Seaside, Calif., traveled to Ft. Dix, N. J., drawing $194 in travel pay. From there he was shipped to Frankfurt, Germany, and made a food supervisor.

For five months King drew a sergeant's pay and quarter's allowance. There was no KP. Then he went AWOL, was picked up and the story came out.

He was court martialed and sentenced to dishonorable discharge and one year hard labor at the U. S. disciplinary barracks at Lompoc, Calif.

But King wrote the judge advocate general of the Army here protesting that he was a civilian — he was discharged back in 1958 — and civilians can't be court martialed.

The Army said he placed himself under military justice by "effect-

Jackson-Bay City Run Thing of Past by Rail

LANSING (AP) — The New York Central Railroad has been authorized to abandon its two daily Bee-liner passenger train runs between Jackson and Bay City.

The State Public Service Commission sanctioned the end of the runs as of Dec. 24 after the railroad cited declining patronage and revenue.

The Bee-liners had also been making regularly scheduled stops at Lansing, Saginaw and Owosso.

New Graduate Level Approved for MSU

EAST LANSING (AP) — A new graduate program between the master's and doctoral level has been approved by the Board of Trustees at Michigan State University.

MSU President John A. Hannah said the program was aimed at students who wish to obtain proficiency beyond a master's degree but who do not necessarily plan to complete a doctoral degree.

The experimental plan will offer a diploma for "advanced graduate study."

Provost Paul Miller said only a small enrollment is expected in the program which is not widespread among the nation's universities.

Miller figured the most interest in the program would be drawn from teacher education and possibly some industrial fields.

Cornell University's forestry school was the first of its kind in the United States.

Truck Light Ordinance May Not Affect Tourists

DETROIT (AP) — The Automobile Club of Michigan says it has been told that Tennessee does not plan to enforce a state law requiring special lighting for extra-wide cars driven by motorists from other states.

Jerry Fisher, the club's touring manager, said he had been informed that Tennessee Gov. Buford Ellington said "the highway patrol will not enforce the over-width car law on tourists."

The state recently said it would enforce a law requiring vehicles over 80 inches in width to be equipped with special side-lighting devices. Many 1960 autos exceed the width limitation.

BRUCE TOWNSHIP — Service for C. Fred Thompson, 85, of 5400 37 Mile Rd., will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Wilbur's Funeral Home, Romeo. Cremation will be at White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy.

Mr. Thompson died Saturday at the Community Hospital after a prolonged illness.
Sole survivor is a nephew, Charles L. Thompson of Washington.

The Nebraska State Legislature has only one house. Its members are classed as senators.

The nation's public debt is 1958 averaged $1,587 per person.

LAPEER — Funeral service for former Lapeer resident Roland G. Freeland Jr., 30, who was killed by an unknown hunter's stray bullet Saturday, will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Requiem Mass will be sung at the Church of the Immaculate Conception here. Burial will follow in Watertown Cemetery near Fostoria.

Mr. Freeland, of Detroit, died instantly Saturday when shot in the chest while driving in Baraga County.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Baird Funeral Home here.

Surviving are his wife Nanette; two sons, Lavern and Thomas, both at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Freeland Sr. of Lapeer; two brothers, Everett of Vassar and John of Auburn Heights. Two sisters also survive.

Deaths Elsewhere

NEW YORK (AP) — Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, 67, who ruled the women's tennis world before and after World War I, died Sunday in Stockholm, Sweden, after a long illness. Her stepson, Stanford C. Mallory said she had gone to Sweden in July to visit a sister. She was born in Norway and came to this country in 1914.

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Sara M. Jordan, 75, world famous surgeon and cofounder of the Lahey Clinic died Saturday of cancer. Dr. Jordan, who was regarded as one of the world's authorities on internal medicine, retired in 1958.

Las Vegas businessman Max Chasen posted the money for Miss Barr's bail Saturday, but he refused to say what his connection with the shapely dancer was.

Miss Barr returned immediately to the El Rancho Hotel here to perform her three-times nightly act. She is awaiting outcome of an appeal to her conviction of illegal possession of narcotics in Texas two years ago. She faces a 15-year prison sentence.

Cohen claimed he had nothing to do with withdrawal of the bond and said he was trying to have it reinstated.

Castro Grabs Funds of Catholic Church

BOSTON (UPI) — Catholics in Latin America have been dealt a hard blow with impounding of "funds of the church" by the regime of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston warns.

"The Castro government has impounded the funds of the church, in effect closing the seminaries and missions for lack of funds," the prelate said in an extemporaneous speech before parishioners of St. Andrew the Apostle Church at a Holy Name Communion breakfast yesterday.

He said that from observation of news reports, Castro's administration seemed sympathetic toward communism.

"The church in Cuba today is a silent church," he said. That designation usually is used by the Catholic hierarchy in describing the church's lack of activity behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains.

In the address, Cardinal Cushing did not mention the amount of church funds impounded in Cuba nor how it was done.

If Steel Strike Resumes, Both Sides Beware

When the current 80 day hiatus in the steel strike expires, Congress will be in session and both sides better beware after the ides of January.

If the nation faces the prospect of plunging back into another gloomy economic decline because of steel, we're constrained to guess that Congress will get in there and pitch.

There'll be no warning. Lawmakers will lay it on the line—but good.

No sympathy will exist in Congress and the members will evaluate the situation in accordance with what they heard at home over the holidays, and they'll lay down laws accordingly.

The people have had enough.

Remember, 1960 will be an election year. Congressmen know the voters are not in sympathy with this gigantic attempt to make an economic football out of the nation's living and they will enact stringent statutes that terminate anything that blocks national prosperity.

This applies to both sides. There's too much at stake.

New York Daily News Praises Supreme Court

Almost since FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT took a free, swinging blast at the Supreme Court and contemptuously labeled it "the nine old men," that body has been moving leisurely downhill in the minds of many Americans.

We note a current comment in The New York Daily News, possessor of the largest circulation in the United States—more than two million. The News says:

"It isn't often that we feel called on to applaud the EARL WARREN Supreme Court. But the court can't be wrong 100 per cent of the time; and we think it made two good decisions recently.

"One of these was a refusal to monkey with Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts' appointment of three monitors to go after James R. Hoffa and his teamsters' union. "Given this go-ahead, the monitors already are renewing their efforts to unhorse James and some of his louder-smelling colleagues, Hoffa, by the way, is only provisional president of the union these days, because of previous monitor attacks on him.

"Hoffa won't be out soon. But at least the Supreme Court has given clearance to the monitors to do their best—which is a gain for honest labor unionism."

Egypt and the Sudan Agree on Sharing Nile

Egypt has reached an agreement with the Sudan for division of Nile water before proceeding further with the construction of the Aswan Dam. Pres. NASSER also has agreed to pay the Sudanese $43 million for lands in the Wadi Haifa area which will be flooded by the dam. Water will back up for 227 miles, 100 of which will be in the Sudan and will displace 50,000 Sudanese.

Both countries have been under pressure to reach a settlement. Egypt has an area of 386,000 square miles but its 25 million people are compressed into the 14,000 square mile Nile valley. On the other hand the Sudan's 12 million people are spread out in an area of 967,500 square miles.

Since 1929 both countries have been operating under a British negotiated treaty which sharply restricted the Sudan's share of Nile waters. Last year when that country rejected union with Egypt and tried to get funds for its own Rosieres Dam project, Egypt retaliated by cutting off trade. Now a new $30 million trade agreement has been signed.

Estimated flow of the Nile is 84 billion cubic meters annually. Under the new agreement the Sudan will use 18.5 billion, Egypt 55.5 billion and some 10 billion will be lost by evaporation. The Aswan Dam is expected to save 32 billion cubic meters annually which otherwise would flow into the Mediterranean.

This new economic co-operation is welcomed in Washington. It means better distribution of water in relation to people and a badly needed increase in food production.

The Man About Town Some Game Notes

Regarding Open Season on Wild Life in This Area

TV: An insidious method of slanting the news.

A doe deer is invading the Pontiac city limits, according to Mrs. George Funston and some of her neighbors, who have seen it several times in the vicinity of the corner of Baldwin Ave. and Walton Boulevard. It appears quite tame.

Since none of the remaining entries in our football contest predicted that Michigan would win Saturday's game, when they scored an upset and defeated Ohio, the seven remaining contestants carry over until next Saturday's Army-Navy game. In this, five pick Navy to win and two favor Army.

A young spike horn deer that comes to the home of Anson Brearley near Clarkston for semi-daily feedings has a shattered front leg.

The wild ducks that usually make a migration stopover until around Thanksgiving near the home of Harry Alterman at Cass Lake took off for the south last week when their cove froze over.

Performing their usual trick, some squirrels chewed their way into the Roscommon cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Emery Pelliston of Walled Lake, and a kitchen cupboard with nuts and acorns. The Pellistons discovered the situation when they went north deer hunting.

"If anybody finds a deer carcass on the Dixie Highway just north of Pontiac, 'It's mine,' phones

Robert Ainsworth of Birmingham, who lost it from the top of his car. But somebody else is quietly eating his venison.

A turkey in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Grierson of Rochester that has been made a great pet by the children was scheduled for Thanksgiving dinner. But, by unanimous vote, the children prefer pork and beans. The parents allege undue influence in the vote, as the turkey was present when it was taken.

Experienced tulip raisers will be quite in agreement with

John J. Haslett of Waterford, who writes me a letter explaining that the ground in which the bulbs have been planted should not be covered with leaves until after it is frozen. The purpose of the leaves is to keep the ground from thawing out in winter warm spells, which causes the bulbs to be lifted from their sleeping positions.

"Glad to see your column plugging this area as a skiing section," phones

Elmer Grayson of Birmingham, who asserts that we "have everything, and going north is just a case of following the Joneses." But, Elmer, you'll find most of the Joneses taking the falls right here in Oakland County.

David Lawrence Says:

Stiffer Student Pledge Law Asked

WASHINGTON — Congress has appropriated $31,000,000 a year under the National Defense Act for loans to needy students for their education provided they sign an anti-Communist affidavit in supplement to an oath of allegiance to uphold the government of the United States.

But 12 universities and colleges, out of 1,370 institutions which have been participating in the program, now refuse to continue under it.

The colleges are required by law to provide only one dollar of their own funds for every nine dollars furnished by the Federal government for student loans, but LAWRENCE the educational institutions say nevertheless that they are obliged to act as trustees or agents of the government in allocating the money.

Most of the institutions which have declined to cooperate in the program can finance needy students in other ways. John F. Morse, administrator of the loan fund in the office of education here, says:

"This act was passed for the benefit of needy students, not for the institutions. Wealthy institutions may well provide these benefits from other sources, but there are a number of institutions which, if they were to take the stand Harvard, Yale and others have taken, would literally force students out of college."

Some of the college executives say they don't object to the taking of the oath of allegiance by the students, but they do not want to see an anti-Communist affidavit included. They argue that it is unnecessary and singles the students out as a class.

To this, several senators reply that to take the oath and refuse to sign the anti-Communist affidavit is a contradiction.

Sen. Bridges, Republican of New Hampshire, for instance, says the students should deem it an honor to sign the document in question.

TOUGHER LAW COMING?

The net result may be the passage by the next session of Congress of a different law which in some respects will be stiffer.

Amendments have been offered by Sen. Russell of Georgia, Democrat, and Sen. Mundt of South Dakota, Republican, which would repeal the existing provision and substitute language that would make it a felony hereafter for anyone to accept a loan under the program and then participate in Communist organizations or advocate the overthrow of our government by illegal means.

This section of the proposed law would be ordered printed on every loan application form furnished.

The Country Parson

nished to any student. He would, in addition, be required to take the same oath of allegiance which is prescribed for members of the armed forces, for members of Congress and for employees of the Federal government generally. As one senator pointed out, the students enrolled in the Reserve Officers Training Corps in the colleges have always had to take a loyalty oath.

The temper of the majority in the Senate was reflected in the debate last summer over the proposed repeal of the "loyalty" section of the student-loan program, which motion was defeated by a 49-to-42 vote. Sen. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican leader, said:

"What about the boys who are training at Colorado Springs (Air Force Academy)? ... what about the boys at West Point? They held up their hands. They do not seem to mind doing it; the taking of the oath did not seem to bother them at all."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Abundance of Vitamin D Cuts Need for Calcium

We should keep in mind the physiological fact that calcium is as essential for sound blood, glands and nerves as it is for elastic muscles, strong bones and good teeth.

Nutrition authorities and some physicians are aware that even an adequate daily intake of calcium, in food, food supplement or medicine will not be utilized unless the individual gets an adequate daily ration of vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin.

A British authority, May Mellanby, concluded from research, laboratory and clinical studies that the amount of calcium and phosphorus necessary for perfect development, calcification and preservation of the teeth may be comparatively low if the individual gets an abundance of vitamin D the year around.

Most good physicians today prescribe a daily ration of vitamin D in one form or another for infants and young children, because it is practically impossible to get enough vitamin D from foods suitable for young children. There just isn't enough of it in milk, cream, butter, egg yolk, sardines and canned salmon (pink or red) — the richest food sources of D.

Infants, children or adults may get enough vitamin D to insure good utilization of calcium (good metabolism) from exposure to sunshine or skylight — daylight in the shade or when there is little or no sunshine.

No matter what the particular manifestation of calcium deficiency may be in a given instance — periodic sick headache, spasmodic asthma, giant hives, hay fever or other allergic sensitivity, chronic "sinus" trouble, real or spurious, eczema, nocturnal leg cramps, hot flashes, rheumatism, fatigue, posture or spinal curvature, weak ankles or potential flatfoot or so-called "growing pains," let no one try calcium tablets and delude himself that he is following my suggestions.

I do not advise the use of calcium tablets. To prevent or, if it is not too late, to relieve or cure any of these ailments, I advise

Sen. Johnston of South Carolina, Democrat, said:

"In the subcommittee on internal security, we have found a pattern. The Communists use the students within the college to further their purpose."

"If we let one such person into a college ... he will be protected to a certain extent because the student body will say that he is attending the college because of payments he is receiving from the government of the United States, and that tends to turn suspicion away from that individual."

To the argument that Communists lie anyhow and hence the oath is superfluous or ineffectual, many senators have replied by referring to the case of Alger Hiss. Because of technicalities, he couldn't be prosecuted for Communist associations under then existing laws, but was jailed for perjury because he lied under oath to a congressional committee.

Case Records of a Psychologist: Calls Blushing a Personality Asset

Doris really owns a social "gold mine" but doesn't realize that fact. So she is trying to get rid of it. Thousands of boys, as well as girls, are in the same boat with her. Get the new perspective outlined below and then capitalize on your former stumbling block. It can be a valuable stepping stone to popularity.

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, diet, dress, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

ready well launched on the road to popularity if you will just capitalize on your natural advantage!

Instead of viewing your flushed skin as a stumbling block, use it as a stepping stone to greater popularity. Remember, too, that boys usually tease only those girls whom they like!

If they dislike you, they generally stay away. They don't ask you for dates. They don't flock around you. So be grateful you blush.

Doris thus has an advantage at the very start over other girls.

HOW BLUSHING OCCURS.

Our blood vessels are surrounded by tiny circular muscles, not subject to voluntary control.

When it is chilly, these muscles contract and make the skin white. In hot weather, they relax until we are all flushed of face. But occasionally a child will make some faux pas and become the object of kidding, ridicule or laughter.

The chief muscles operating at that moment may then become "fixated" with reference to this type of social situation.

If a child thus makes a slip of the tongue, the resulting laughter may cause him to stutter, for his vocal muscles were operating at that moment and they get "fixated."

Other people get flustered and hot. As their skin turns rosy red, somebody may call attention, by exclaiming: "Aha, see how Doris is blushing!"

And this focuses the victim's attention on the skin. Thereafter, this person may blush in a social group whereas the stutterer will show his similar agitation by difficulty in starting a sentence.

Teenager Defends Wars as Necessary Sometimes

Neither Wilson, Roosevelt or Truman wanted war. They did their best to keep us out of it.

However, they believed in the principles this country stands for. I have no respect for a person who wouldn't fight for his beliefs. A person like Shot At would probably let communism take over the world before he'd fight another war.

I wouldn't want a war, but if it were necessary I'd be all for it.

I say three cheers for the judge who gave those juvenile criminals solitary confinement sentences. That's a lot better than tossing them in with a lot of older and more experienced crooks, criminals and burglars.

Misguided people who criticize that judge make it harder for all judges. Those folks that find fault with the judge are the ones that complain the loudest over the "conditions among the young people." And then they attempt to block proper corrective measures.

Chamber Sees Boom

WASHINGTON — The economy of the United States will climb to its greatest height next year, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce predicts. But it notes that there could be a hitch.

Both the record and the possible hitch involve the steel strike.

This is the reasoning: 1. A 1960 recession would have been in the cards if 1959 had been a good year. The steel strike, by hurting 1959 business, has postponed the chance for a recession possibly until 1961.

2. But, if the strike resumes in January, the economy will be damaged seriously.

This report was presented by Emerson P. Schmidt, the chamber's research director. It summarized reviews of six major sectors of industry, made to the chamber's annual business outlook conference.

In the weekend report, Schmidt said prosperity will reach a record rate of 525 billion dollars by the end of next year. As the economy rebounds from the steel strike, he continued, it will make rapid gains, then progress more slowly during the fall.

The report also predicted for 1960: Tighter credit and higher interest rates, more consumer price increases, serious steel shortages, and some increase in exports.

Ontario Sets Inquest in Anderson Shooting

TORONTO (UPI)—Ontario provincial authorities said today an inquest would be held into the fatal shooting of Harry W. Anderson, 67-year-old retired vice president of General Motors Corp.

Anderson was fatally injured last week while hunting at a private camp with former General Motors President Harlow H. Cur-tice. Cur-tice told authorities Anderson stood up suddenly just as Cur-tice fired at a flight of ducks from a blind near St. Anne Island.

No date was set immediately for the inquest, which authorities termed "routine."

American Wine Good in Punch

Light, mellow beverages are always in demand. Here's a golden smooth flavored one, "Harvest Punch." This is a combination appealing to everyone and a recipe that can be doubled or tripled as the occasion demands.

California Muscatel or white Port wine blends with fruit juices and fresh lemon juice, sparkling water or ginger ale into one refreshing beverage. Fresh lemon juice gives an appetizing tang that's appealing and refreshing.

Harvest Punch
1 (12-ounce) can apricot whole fruit nectar
1 (12-ounce) can unsweetened pineapple juice
2 cups Muscatel or white Port wine
1 cup fresh lemon juice
2 cups sparkling water or ginger ale
Chill all ingredients. Combine and pour over ice. Makes about 2 quarts.

Time to Sleep
Spices and herbs used in uncooked foods — such as tomato juice cocktail or salad dressing — should be added a few hours before serving to allow the pungent flavors to penetrate.

Make Your Own Thanksgiving Relishes

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Cranberries are available this week for all who want them. But we know many homemakers who are looking for a substitute for the Thanksgiving dinner table.

Just in time to lend color to your turkey menu is the new Michigan

Cocoa Cereal Dots Meringue Cookie

White and Brown Kisses
1 large egg white
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup coarsely chopped pecans
1 cup cocoa-flavored crisp rice cereal

Beat egg whites until they hold soft peaks. Gradually beat in sugar, then vanilla; continue beating until very thick. Fold in pecans and cereal.

Drop heaping teaspoonfuls of mixture, a couple of inches apart, onto a lightly buttered cookie sheet. Bake in very slow (275 degrees) oven 20 minutes or until firm. Remove at once with spatula to wire rack to cool. Makes 30.

jellied cherry sauce. Made from ripe, red Montmorency cherries, pure cherry juice and citrus pectin, this sauce can be sliced after it has been refrigerated. It has a delicious tart flavor and contains about half as many calories as most jellied sauces.

You can make your own relishes and have mighty good eating. Here's one you can make with grape jam.

Feasting "Purple"
1 20-ounce jar grape jam or grape jelly
1 cup orange marmalade
1/2 cup seeded raisins
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup chopped walnuts or pecans

Cook all except walnuts together over medium heat to desired thickness. Remove from heat, add nuts. Cool. Store in refrigerator to season and chill.

With a can of apple sauce you can have an interesting relish for poultry or ham.

Orange-Apple Relish
2 cups canned apple sauce
1 cup chopped or ground oranges
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 to 3/4 cup toasted almonds

Combine apple sauce, oranges, rind, sugar and almonds. Mix well. Chill. Makes about 3 cups. Keep in refrigerator.

Packaged Danish Dessert will make an unusual and interesting

Thanksgiving sauce. As you know, the dessert contains currants and raspberries so it will be appealingly red. Making it takes only minutes.

Thanksgiving Relish
1 package Currant-Raspberry Danish Dessert
1 orange
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 1/4 cups water

Grind unpeeled orange. Stir dessert mix into water. Bring to a boil; boil for 1 minute only, stirring constantly. Cool.

Cherry Cream Fills Nougat Baskets

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cherry nougat baskets make a festive dessert.

To make 8 servings, combine 1 cup of sugar with 2 tablespoons of lemon juice and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until golden brown. Stir in 1 1/2 cups of chopped walnuts and heat to boiling.

Press into 8 (3-inch) greased pans and fill with cream mixture made by mixing 1/4 cup of chopped, well-drained maraschino cherries (about 10 cherries) into 1 cup of heavy cream, whipped.

Curdle-Free Soup
Want homemade tomato soup to be curdle-free? Then warm the tomatoes and cream sauce separately; stir the tomatoes into the milk (NOT the other way around) and reheat but do not boil.

U. of M. Sets Racial Policy

Regents Adopt Bylaw Banning Discrimination; Eye Allied Groups

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — The University of Michigan's Board of Regents spelled out the university's policy on discrimination at its monthly meeting.

The regents adopted a bylaw stating that the U. of M. "shall not discriminate against any person because of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry."

Further, the bylaw states, the university will work for elimination of discrimination in private organizations recognized by the U. of M. and in outside areas involving the school's students and employees.

James A. Lewis, vice president for student affairs, said the university has always practiced a strict policy of nondiscrimination in all areas, but is now in a better position to work actively against discrimination.

It was expected that a prime target of the university's efforts would be discriminatory clauses in the constitutions of some fraternities and sororities and in other housing.

Scholarship Fund to Honor Music Dean

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — The University of Michigan's school of music today launched a $100,000 scholarship campaign in honor of Dean Earl V. Moore, composer of the school's famed "Varsity" march.

The scholarship fund, named in his honor, will provide financial assistance to talented students enrolled in the school of music.

Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, will serve as honorary chairman of the campaign.

Moore, director of the school of music since 1923, came to the university as a freshman in 1908, joined the faculty four years later, and has taught here continuously ever since.

Shah of Iran Will Wed Farah Diba, 21, Dec. 21

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi with of Iran today announced his engagement to 21-year-old Farah Diba and set Dec. 21 as their wedding date.

Miss Diba will be the third wife of the 40-year-old ruler. He divorced his other two because neither gave him a son. Only males can inherit the throne of Moslem Iran.

The imperial court minister with great pleasure informs the public of the news of the engagement of His Imperial Majesty

The engagement ceremony was to be held later today at the Shah's private palace.

The Shah's choice of Miss Diba had been known for weeks. She returned home Saturday from buying her trousseau in Paris.

Sunday the monarch and his fiancée attended the wedding of his sister, Princess Fatemeh, to the commander of the Iranian air force, Gen. Mohammed Khatami. Fatemeh, 29, was divorced last September from an American, Vincent J. Hillier, formerly of Los Angeles.

Miss Diba is tall, sharply and a former student of the Ecole des Beaux Arts (School of Fine Arts) in Paris. She is a step-daughter of Mohammed Mossadegh, the nationalistic old former premier who once drove the Shah briefly from the country.

The Shah's first wife was Princess Fawzia of Egypt, sister of the then King Farouk, whom he married in 1939. He divorced her in 1949 after she bore him two daughters.

In 1951 he married Soraya Esfandiary, whose father is now Iranian ambassador to West Germany. The Shah and Soraya became a devoted couple, obviously very much in love. But she gave him no children, and in April 1958 he tearfully signed divorce papers. Soraya now lives in Europe with her family.

Considers Plan to Save Cars From Corrosion

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—The City Commission is considering a proposal that Grand Rapids motorists pay $1 each toward the purchase of anti-corrosion chemicals to be used in the city's ice and snow removal program.

The suggestion came from a local printing firm, which said its employees backed the idea. "We believe every driver would be willing to do the same thing because it would be of immeasurable benefit to all," the company said.

A number of Grand Rapids motorists have complained that the chemical mixture used by the city to clear streets after a snowfall has a corrosive effect on their cars.

Old Files Clear Mystery Over Louvre Painting

PARIS (AP)—A search of old files has cleared up the mystery of the huge painting stored in the Louvre Museum.

The painting, which was done on an estimated 9,600 square feet of canvas, was the work of Jean-Pierre Alaux and represents Westminster Abbey, the French Culture Ministry said Saturday.

The information was found in an inventory left by Louis Philippe, who became king of France in 1830.

Culture Minister Andre Malraux disclosed Tuesday in the French National Assembly that there was a huge painting in the Louvre and that no one knew what it was or how it got there. It is too big to be unrolled and hung in any of the Louvre galleries.

It was reported by Malraux's aides that another painting by the same artist and about the same size had also been found in the sprawling museum. This one, according to Louis Philippe's records, shows the interior of St. Peter's in Rome.

The mystery painting had been rolled up like an unused rug in an attic storeroom in the Louvre.

Earlier this week Curator Germain Bazin told newsmen "for years curators have passed it along in their inventories, but no one has seen all of it."

Stubborn Customer Upholds Her Fire Teller Over Error

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. James Walsh says she'll gladly give $4,000,022.75 to a certain bank if it will rehire a fired teller.

The teller, Miss Ann Halliwell, reportedly was fired because she mistakenly gave a bank check for that amount to Mrs. Walsh.

Mrs. Walsh had gone into the Hadley Falls Trust Co. for a bank check in the amount of $22.75.

Miss Halliwell hit a wrong gimmick on the check writing machine and it came out to $4,000,022.75.

Mrs. Walsh, wife of an Air Force sergeant, said she would have surrendered the check immediately had it not been for a threat that if she didn't someone would call on her husband's commanding officer.

Added Mrs. Walsh Sunday night: "Then when I found out they were going to fire that girl, I decided to hang onto it."

"I will not give it up until the bank rehires her. Maybe I'm stubborn, but I feel everyone makes mistakes, even bank presidents."

George V. Wallace, president of the bank, had no comment.

Mrs. Walsh said she gave the home "in a day or two." The matter will rest, she added, until his return.

Westover Air Force Base, Mass., and Goose Bay, Labrador—which may set a new altitude record for a kited check.

Sgt. Walsh, his wife said, is due home "in a day or two." The matter will rest, she added, until his return.

Would Drop College Summer Vacation

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Go to college for a whole year? What's wrong with the present nine-month stint?

For one thing, says the Florida Board of Control, it wastes space in a time when a growing enrollment is threatening to burst the seams of college buildings.

Under a 12-month plan, a student could be graduated in three years instead of four.

But how feasible would a 12-month operation be? The board has directed a study in Florida's state-supported universities to find out.

The presidents of the universities and Dr. Broward Cupepper, executive director of the board, will make the study and report next June.

Waterford Twp. Man Attacked by Teens

Wayne Orr of 6889 Elizabeth Lake Rd., Waterford Township, has told police he was attacked while returning from a drive-in last night at 10:30.

A car carrying four teen-agers forced him off the Elizabeth Lake road and one of them demanded he get out, he said. When Orr refused, the teen-ager reportedly smashed the window with his fist. Orr then sped away to inform township police.

Orr said he could think of no reason for the attack.

2,000 Start Parade Back to Kennecott Copper

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The first of about 2,000 steelworkers of Kennecott Copper Corp. returned to the plant today following ratification of a new two-year contract.

Acceptance of the company offer by the five Utah locals was by a "practically unanimous" standing vote.

The back-to-work procession was expected to be completed by the end of the week.

The company package was estimated at about 22.3 cents an hour over the two-year length of the contract. It includes an across-the-board raise of seven cents an hour for each of the two years.

"It's certainly a union victory as far as I'm concerned," Angelo Verdu of the union bargaining team said.

"We hope this will be a basis for the other Kennecott unions to settle," Verdu said.

'Country Store' Is Theme for Webster Cubs

A program centered on the theme "The Country Store" highlighted the recent meeting of Cub Scout Pack 6 of Webster School.

Planning for the event was done by Den 3, under direction of Den Mother Mrs. August Hoyt, with Den 4 assisting.

Food for the "Country Store," donated by the cub scouts and their parents, was turned over to the Salvation Army for needy families on Thanksgiving.

Bobcat pins were presented to Lee Parrin and Gary Featherstone.

A letter to Den 6 from the Oakland County Children's Home was read, thanking den members for begging on Halloween and taking the goods to the home.

Waterford Township Studies Development

A questionnaire on community development is being sent this week to PTA's, churches, township officers, the postmaster and ministers by the Waterford Township Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The project is being sponsored by the National Jaycee and American Motors to explore future development in the community.

The survey will cover economy, appearance, health facilities, educational centers, and over-all needs of any growing center.

Old Circuses Never Die

Don't Just Fade Away Either—Ringling Revival Proves It

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — You can't kill off the circus.

Three years ago the biggest one of all, Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey, appeared dead. It said it was quitting because it couldn't make money.

Now the Ringling organization is apparently set to operate on a more solid basis than ever.

And it will probably be here, where the circus has had its winter quarters — and its home — since 1927.

Folks here love the circus. It is believed unlikely they would turn down a proposal made by circus Gen. Mgr. Arthur M. Conello.

ASKS FINANCIAL AID

He wants some financial help in building a major tourist attraction which would be many things in one: the circus' permanent quarters, its general offices, a circus museum and a showplace for its rehearsals and hoped-for television performances.

Three years ago the circus said it was quitting for good because it could not put its books in the black.

Then eight months later it said it had changed its mind, that it would continue under a modern format by folding the "big top" and performing in auditoriums and arenas.

Under that formula, it has been successful.

Now it has proposed that it set up on 100 acres at the Sarasota-Bradenton Airport with a cheap long-term lease of $1 a year from the two counties involved.

Across a busy tourist highway adjacent to the airport is the famed Ringling Museum of Art, a circus museum and the Ringling home.

Local chambers of commerce and government officials are still pondering. But the public apparently is behind the play.

Form State Group on Park Financing

EAST LANSING (UPI)—A committee to help improve state park financing has been formed by the Michigan Parks Assn.

The association, organized last month to promote greater citizen interest in state and local parks and their financial problems, held its first board of directors meeting at Michigan State University last week.

The financing committee will work to alleviate the crisis in state park land acquisition and development in the state.

Genevieve Gillette, Ann Arbor landscape architect, is chairman of the committee.

Steel Union Member Heads Michigan FEPC

DETROIT (UPI) — Alexander Fuller, a member of the United Steel Workers Union has been chosen chairman of the Michigan Fair Employment Practices Commission.

He succeeds Harry J. Kelley, Grand Rapids industrialist and personnel consultant.

Fuller has served two years as vice chairman.

Also elected were Mrs. Arthur B. Cook, of Greenville, as vice chairman and the Rev. John F. Finnegan, of Detroit's St. Brendan's Catholic Church as secretary.

But They Range From $1 to $14 Monthly

$3.50 Is Average for Union Dues

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The typical American union member pays monthly dues ranging from $1 to $14 a month with the average coming out to $3.50, an AFL-CIO survey showed today.

The poll also indicated that 69 unions pay strike benefits ranging from $10 to $70 a week. Most of the payments run about $25 weekly.

AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer William F. Schnitzler, who made the figures public, said they were based on replies to questionnaires sent to 112 unions accounting for 84 per cent of the federation's membership.

The report said the average local union has considerable leeway in establishing monthly dues. In more than half of the reporting unions, however, the international union sets a minimum dues rate.

Sixty-three of 88 unions which answered the questionnaire said their dues payments ranged from $2 to $5 a month. Dues were less than $2 a month in only four instances.

Schnitzler and other AFL-CIO leaders recently warned that rising costs of running a union would force dues increases in the future.

In 12 unions with monthly dues of $6 or more, the union usually pays for pension, strike or death benefits. Craft unions, with an average of $4.75 a month, generally set higher dues than industrial, white-collar or government unions.

More than two-thirds of the unions reporting on strike benefits said their members were entitled to these payments as a matter of right, not need, if they were involved in a work stoppage.

A one- or two-week waiting period is customary before the payments begin in the great majority of the unions. Usually, strikers must perform picketline duties, be a member in good standing and have their strike authorized by the parent union before they are eligible for benefits.

The survey also showed: —Union initiation fees averaged $7.50 a month in 78 unions, but craft unions charged new members an average of $25.

—Only 17 of the 106 unions police had levied a special assessment on their members in the past three years. The majority of such levies were for less than $10 a year. The highest yearly assessment reported was $48.30.

—Per capita tax paid by locals to parent unions ranged from 32 cents a month to $14 per month. A tax of between 50 cents and $2 was most common.

—Eighteen unions have set up strike funds during the past five years, bringing the total of such funds to 48.

A LA MODE MINCE — A novel kind of pie a la mode — a mince meat filled pie, hot or cold, topped with an ice cream filled crust. It's good and it's unusual, and it's sure to leave a happy memory with everybody.

Sweet Potato Good Source of Vitamins

The average-sized sweet potato should provide all the vitamin A needed by an adult for one day. In addition, it contains some vitamin C and a good supply of iron and Vitamin B1. To conserve the sweet potato flavor as well as the vitamin and mineral content, it is best to cook them without peeling.

Stuff your baked sweet potatoes with leftover ham chopped into cubes or leftover pork roast. And you'll be delighted at what crumbled, crisp bacon will do for a baked sweet potato.

Pork sausage patties become a main dish when you broil them atop halves of baked sweet potatoes. Be sure to split the potatoes lengthwise so you'll have more space over which to spread your sausage.

If you have leftover baked sweet potatoes, leave them in their jackets and store in the refrigerator. They are easily reheated. If they have been peeled, place them in a covered dish to store.

Mince Special a Holiday Treat

An all-winter-long pie achievement, specially suitable for holidays, is this double-decker a-la-mode mince meat special!

It's as easy to make as an ordinary mince pie, and that is really easy with instant mince meat. The big one-pound, 12-ounce jar has enough for a big pie. Line a pie plate with crust, fill it with mince meat, and bake until edges are golden brown, as a one-crust pie.

Roll the rest of the crust out and fit it into a smaller pan. Prick well with a fork to keep from buckling. Bake and chill thoroughly. At serving time fill the smaller crust with ice cream and place on top of the mince meat-filled lower crust.

Besides being an eye-opener, this novel pie has distinct advantages in keeping the ice cream from melting.

Chocolate, coffee, vanilla, pecan or walnut ice cream all combine temptingly with mince meat. To add to the size, and flavor, of the pie itself try adding chopped walnuts and diced orange to the mince meat.

Double Decker Mince Pie

1 recipe pie crust
Mince meat from 1 pound, 12 ounce jar
Instant mince meat
¾ cup chopped walnuts combined with
¼ cup coarsely chopped orange
1 pint, or more, ice cream

Add nuts and orange to mince meat. Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry. Fill with mince meat mixture. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) 30 minutes, or until crust is golden brown. Bake smaller pie shell at same temperature for shorter time, until golden brown. Chill. At serving time fill with ice cream and place on top of one-crust mince pie.

Camp Fire Girls in Pontiac began their annual candy sale today to raise funds for their camp. Enthusiastic Blue Birds, the Camp Fire age 7-10 group, Gayle Verwey of East Mansfield avenue, Ellen chill November winds for their annual neighborhood goodies sale, they join Camp Fire Girl Mary Ellen Hill of Colgate avenue.

Camp Fire Girls to Sell Candy for Camp

The Pontiac Camp Fire Girls will be visiting homes throughout the area through Dec. 13 as they begin their annual candy sale to raise funds for their camp.

Blue Birds, age 7-10; Camp Fire Girls, 10-14; and Horizon Clubbers, 14-18, are selling the peanut butter puffs and chocolate peanut clusters.

Proceeds will be used to improve facilities at the girls' 120-acre Camp Owaki near Clarkston. The camp is supported by candy sale profits and civic donations. A percentage of the sale profits is returned to the group for its charities.

Through their day, group and pioneer camp activities, the girls study nature and learn outdoor cooking, swimming, boating, tenting and archery, according to Mrs. Charles Uligian, candy sale chairman.

With this year's proceeds the Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls plans to equip the building it recently purchased from the Pontiac Board of Education.

Persons wishing to be contacted by the girls may call the Camp Fire offices at the Community Services Building on Franklin boulevard.

Be Frank With Family About Gifts

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I married into quite a large family several years ago, and it keeps getting larger each year. Herebefore we all exchanged Christmas gifts, but this year with prices so high and a shrunken income, we simply cannot afford to continue this practice. Please tell me just how to go about this situation in a tactful way."

Answer: Tell each member of the family that in order to try to nearly balance your budget, you are going to have to cut down on Christmas expense, and would he (or she) please help you by agreeing not to exchange your usual presents to each other.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I did not give my bridesmaids copies of the group picture of my wedding and now I find myself being criticized for this. I realize that they went to much expense to take part, but I thought the practice of giving pictures was a nice gesture, but certainly not necessary. Will you please tell me if I have been wrong about this?"

Answer: You are not wrong. When the bride's family are very well-to-do they are usually generous in giving pictures to their daughter's attendants. But when they are not at all well off, all those who would like pictures order them from the photographer and pay for them themselves.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancé and I are planning to be married in our church on a Wednesday at seven thirty in the evening. I will wear a short white dress and veil and will have two attendants. I had planned a very simple wedding with about fifty guests or even less.

My fiancé wants the men to wear tuxedos. I do not think tuxedos would be in keeping with such a simple wedding. Wouldn't dark business suits be more appropriate?"

Answer: If the men want to wear them, tuxedos will be correct and quite suitable even at a simple wedding.

The Peppermint Stick Girls of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital dispense cheer with their services. Helping Rodger Mihay of Hobson street with his model

Peppermint Stick Girls Lauded

The Peppermint Stick Girls of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital have been chosen as the November Volunteers of the Month by the Central Volunteer Bureau, a member agency of the Pontiac Area United Fund.

The girls, 16 years and older, all attending area public and parochial high schools, spend from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. every Saturday as volunteer workers under the direction of Marie Hickey, supervisor of nurses at the hospital.

PEPPERMINT PINAFORES

Six girls work each Saturday for three months, then a new group comes in.

All are volunteers who have passed a physical examination and have their parents' permission to apply.

The unique name, Peppermint Stick, comes from the white pinafores with peppermint stripes they wear on duty.

Many of the girls use their school colors when making their pinafores.

According to Mrs. Arthur Kinney, public relations director of the hospital, the girls do a variety of tasks during their five-hour day.

Included are stripping the beds of released patients, handling errands for nurses, doctors, and patients, feeding patients and handling routine clerical work.

Mrs. Kinney emphasized that everything the girls do is under the direct supervision of the nursing staff. The girls do not give medication, she added.

Instituted in the fall of 1956, the program includes 25 to 30 girls a year.

Miss Hickey has high praise for the girls. "This is a real education program for them. They learn by doing and we have a group of very fine young ladies."

"We certainly enjoy the cheery note on which they do their work. We just plain enjoy having them."

Offers Sparkling Technique in Organ Recital

Philip Steinhaus Plays Bach Music

By CHRIS GAENSBAUER

The second in a series of organ recitals at All Saints' Episcopal Church was given Sunday afternoon.

Philip Steinhaus, organist and choir director of the church, played a fine program devoted to the music of Johann Sebastian Bach.

The traditions of the German Reformation reached their highest manifestations in the music of Bach and this is reflected in his writing for the organ, the instrument at which he was the supreme master possibly of all time.

Mr. Steinhaus plays Bach with a straightforwardness, faith and exaltation that the composer must have intended and that denotes a devotion to the great composer.

The program began with the "Prelude and Fugue in B Minor."

Mr. Steinhaus' registration made for a stirring and grandly piercing performance of the stately Prelude with the wonderful growl of the pedal speaking assertively, leading into the swiftly moving Fugue, brilliantly played.

Contrast in tone color and dynamics marked the "Trio Sonata in E Flat Major" which followed.

It also demonstrated the dexterity and sparkling technique of the performer.

The Prelude and Fugue in D Major, although not as soul searing as the B Minor, opens with repeated scale passages beginning in the pedal.

Mr. Steinhaus has an agile and clean pedal technique which was displayed in this as well as most of the other compositions.

One was also aware that the emotional impact of the performance was coming from the music itself and not through sentimentalizing in tempo and dynamics. Dramatic effects were realized from the rise and fall of the music and imaginative use of added registrations until an avalanche of tone would produce a thrilling climax.

Some of Bach's most personal musical expressions were his chorale preludes.

Hymn tunes known to peasants were woven into beautiful improvisations with the theme moving from voice to voice.

Mr. Steinhaus played two examples, "O Lamb of God Most Holy" and "Farewell I Gladly Bid Thee."

The latter is a Fantasia in four parts with theme in the pedal and was played with interesting tonal color contrasts.

"Fantasia and Fugue in G Minor" completed the recital. The magnificent opening of this work impresses with its almost unbearable power and vigor, and the familiar theme of the Fugue comes as a relief. But again the intricately weaving themes, played with great clarity by Mr. Steinhaus, build to a climax.

The work ends on a glorious note with the theme in the bass.

Mr. Steinhaus possesses superior organ technique and knowledge of the many tonal shadings available to the organist.

In addition, he is a fine interpreter of Bach.

An hour with the two of them is neither restful nor reflective, but provides the listener with an uplifting and profound musical experience.

It is regrettable that a larger audience does not take advantage of these fine concerts.

The next will be Dec. 20. Guest recitalist will be Bertha Hagarty, organist - choir-master at Fort Street Presbyterian Church, Detroit.

Her program will consist of music appropriate to the Advent and Christmas season.

Council president Mrs. Carl E. Rehm was general chairman. Hostesses were council officers Mrs. Richard McKivier, vice president; Mrs. Duane La Turneau, recording secretary; Mrs. Richard Behnam, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Walter Bozman, treasurer.

Officers for Phi Alpha Kappa chapter are Rosela Chavez, president; Barbara Frasa, vice president; Bonnie Bouford, treasurer; Joanne Burkhart, recording secretary; Judith Carline, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. McKivier, advisor.

Mrs. Robert Tuson is Phi Beta Eta president. Working with her are Constance Ladd, vice president; Sharon Moore, treasurer; Carol Skelton, recording secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Halpin, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Rehm, advisor.

Mrs. Robert Terry and Mrs. Vincent Schneider presided at the tea table.

dent; Mrs. Kenneth Halpin, corresponding secretary; Constance Ladd, vice president, and Sharon Moore, treasurer.

Barbara Frasa, vice president of the newly formed Phi Alpha Kappa chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, presided at the tea service when City Council of Beta Sigma Phi members held their Preferential Tea Sunday at Hotel Waldron. New chapters of Nu Phi Mu: Phi Alpha Kappa and Phi Beta Eta were honored. In line are Bonnie Bouford, Phi Alpha Kappa treasurer, and Joanne Burkhart, recording secretary.

Fit for a Star

Speaking of her New York City apartment, musical comedy star Mary Martin says that the powder room is "the most elegant room in the house."

It features a Renaissance style marble wash basin, with elaborate silver taps, and a period couch and lamp fittings.

Henpecked Husbands Start Saying 'No!'

By RUTH MILLETT

MEMO TO HENPECKED HUSBANDS: It may come to you as a great shock, but your wife doesn't really like having her own way all of the time.

If she is running things at your house, it's because you've not only let her, you've forced her into it by your own reluctance to make decisions.

But don't think she is happy having everything her own way. Decision-making gets tiresome. So does having one's own way all the time without any opposition.

If you don't believe it, just try saying "no" flatly and firmly, the next time your wife tries to make you do something you don't really want to do.

Obviously, Mary Brown has been waiting all these years for her henpecked husband to put his foot down and make her like it.

So what have you got to lose by taking a lesson from Bill Brown? Nothing at all — except the unhappy title of henpecked husband.

It's a safe bet that she'll be meek as Moses once she really understands that you've actually put your foot down.

It's also a safe bet that she'll look at you with a new respect shining in her eyes.

To give you confidence, if you still need it, let me tell you about a wife (we'll call her Mary Brown), who ruled the Brown roof for years.

Evidently Bill Brown finally got fed up with being henpecked, for recently Mary Brown has been saying, "Bill said 'no' and there's absolutely no budging him."

The interesting thing is that Mary Brown makes that statement with as much pride as though she were announcing that Bill had bought her a mink stole. Never in all the days when she used to say, "I told Bill this," and "I told Bill that," was there ever that happy gleam in her eye.

Obviously, Mary Brown has been waiting all these years for her henpecked husband to put his foot down and make her like it.

So what have you got to lose by taking a lesson from Bill Brown? Nothing at all — except the unhappy title of henpecked husband.

Others were Mrs. W. L. Ott, Mrs. Helen Tietgen and Mrs. Arthur Selden.

Girl Scouts Hold Ceremony

Dedicate Camp Addition

An addition to the facilities of Rainy Day Lodge at Camp Sherwood was opened at a formal ceremony Saturday by the Girl Scouts of Northern Oakland County.

A new kitchen storage room, entry and winterizing of the building will permit increased use for troop camping in the winter and arts and crafts programs during the summer resident camp season.

In charge of planning were Mrs. Kenneth Carman, chairman, and the troop camp committee.

Funds for the expansion are raised by the girls themselves through their annual sale of cookies.

Representing the board of directors at the ceremony were Mrs. Fred Bisballe, president; Mrs. Elwyn Tripp, vice president;

Mrs. Albert Latendresse, general camping chairman; and Mrs. Richard Balmer, camp development chairman.

Mariner Troop 71 led by Dorothy Hollister and Bernice Dennis presented the opening ceremony.

Veteran campers, they were spending the weekend at the camp completing a conservation project.

Carmen Webber spoke briefly on what camping has meant to her and the history of the lodge was related by Joan Davis.

A song composed especially for the occasion by Miss Hollister and Miss Davis preceded lighting of the council fire.

Other Mariners taking part in the ceremony were Lois Arndt, Evelyn Amidon, Janet Johnson, Margaret Cole, Kay Gaddis, Meredith Cascaddan, Jerry Ann Roach, Jane Tripp and Sharon Edgley.

Old Inner Tube on Door Lets Tots Out, In

Keep children from locking themselves in the bathroom or other rooms with a cleverly designed rubber shield made out of old inner tube.

Cut a strip of rubber from the tube long enough to stretch from knob to knob. It will cover the latch and keep the door from clicking shut.

Cut a hole in each end of the strip so that it can be fitted over both knobs.

'Rolling in Wealth'

Japanese and Chinese ladies judged wealthy by the amount of hair rolls on a lady's head. Their hair was dressed every morning by slaves, who pinned up each large curl with long jeweled pins — then painted the whole head with lacquer to hold the curls in place.

From the fall and winter 1959 collection of Susy Perette — this dress of softly molded beige jersey with a tightly fitting midriff in stitch detailing that curves upward beneath a gathered top with wide-cuffed three-quarter sleeves.

Self-Dissatisfaction Source of Nagging

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

On Saturday morning as she hauls the vacuum cleaner from one plug to another one, Amy's mother pauses only long enough to call upstairs: "Why's the piano all messed up with your music again? You didn't practice yesterday. I don't know why we go on paying for lessons."

"And what about that torn sheet? Did you put it in the hamper for me to find as well as mend when I get a minute's breath?" Sometimes this nagging produces results, but only after prolonged resistance when Amy finally comes downstairs to pick up her music in sullen and resentful silence.

Yet the pressure mother puts on Amy is swan's-down to the kind mother puts on herself.

As she piles the vacuum cleaner, her conscience hounds her far more remorselessly than she nags Amy. Though she's expending all the strength she's got, it demands more, whispering:

"You'd better get at that tear in the bathroom curtain or it will go to pieces in the laundry. Why didn't you keep your promise to get that cake to the church bazaar last night? And you forgot to tell the cleaner about the stain on Bill's coatsleeve, too. Bill will be mad if he misses it."

"Boy, what a mess you are! You don't do anything right. Your children don't like you; and as to Bill—well, who knows about that?"

Yes, the nagging we deliver to children is simply an overflow of the persistent self-nagging that goes on in ourselves.

So, if children accuse us of nagging them, we are stupid to respond with indignation. We need this accusation to become aware of our unending demand for bigger and better performance from ourselves.

With this awareness we are ready to ask ourselves, "Why am I never satisfied with myself and what I do?"

We're not born nagging. We are made into naggers by childhood association with authorities who, instead of being content with what we were, constantly complained that we ought to do better. After a while our conscience took over for them, and in their behalf continues to urge their dissatisfaction upon us.

If you don't believe me, just check yourself when you start nagging your youngsters. The probability is, you'll find your self-dissatisfaction is reaching one of its periodic climaxes.

Around the World With 2,000 Earrings

By ELIZABETH ASHLEY

VALDOSTA, Ga., (AP) — Tibet and Nepal have something unusual in common.

They are the only two countries in the world not represented in an earring collection owned by Mrs. Alice Lindsey, wife of an Air Force colonel.

Mrs. Lindsey says her collection consists of more than 2,000 pairs, most of them gifts from friends who travel. Several gets were contributed by governments who wanted to be represented.

In her 20 years of collecting earrings, Mrs. Lindsey says she lost only one pair — one of her most precious. They were made from a pair of onyx rings given to Mrs. Lindsey by her mother, Mrs. H. S. Young of Nashville, Ga.

The earring collection is mounted on four boards 5 feet long and 2½ feet wide. She uses one for each season to decorate her bedroom wall.

In her collection is a pair of tiny compasses set in silver. They came from the Sahara desert where such earrings were worn singly by women of the Bedouin Tribe as a wedding gift from their nomad husbands.

From the princess of the Tass Indian Tribe came a pair of tiny silver bell earrings. They are presented by the daughter-in-law to her mother-in-law and warn when the mother-in-law is coming.

A pair of small ermine mice earrings was contributed by Lichenstein, smallest country in Europe. When worn by women of that country, they signify that the husband is away, carrying out the old proverb, "When the cat is away the mice will play."

Mrs. Lindsey's collection contains a pair of rice bell earrings from Latvia. The clear crystal balls are set in gold and contain grains of rice. When worn they denote that wedding vows have been taken.

One of the loveliest pairs came from Formosa. Legend has it that when the engagement of a daughter is announced, the most talented member of the groom's family carves in pearl the image of the groom-to-be. The earrings are given to the bride by her parents to be worn on their wedding day.

Some represent typical international and American holidays — clocks for the New Year and hearts for Valentine's Day.

Take Slide Rule for Marketing

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — Are you supermarket patrons confused by the super-terminology? Terminology like jumbo size, economy size, personal size, giant size, and bath size? So was H. P. Taylor, an engineer.

Result: He's made a circular slide rule for harried housewives who hope to be helpful homemakers.

The gadget also answers little questions such as: "If three cans of dog food cost 43 cents, how much is saved by buying a case of 24 for $3.20?"

Sigma Beta's Psi Chapter Observes 21st Anniversary

The 21st anniversary of the installation of Psi Chapter of Sigma Beta National sorority was observed Thursday evening at the Clintonville road home of Mrs. William Spalding.

Assisting were Mrs. Thomas Thornberry and Mrs. William Dewman.

Mrs. Wallace Williams and Mrs. Morgan Siple Jr. elected to national office at the recent national convention, were honored.

Mrs. Williams was re-elected national recording secretary. Active 11 years, she has served as national treasurer and finance chairman, as well as president of the local chapter.

Mrs. Siple, who will serve as governor of Province I, will spend much of her time visiting chapters in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. She has been an active member seven years.

The chapter received two awards at the convention, the Charity Award for the largest contribution per member to the national charity fund and the Expansion Award for sponsoring new chapter Beta Omicron in Milford.

Queen Mary Section Elects New Officers

Officers were elected when the Queen Mary Section of Needlework Guild met Thursday afternoon at the South Shirley street home of Mrs. Jean Harper.

They are Mrs. Andrew McKerrrow, president; Mrs. Walter Galbraith, vice president; Mrs. John Gemmell, secretary; and Mrs. Henry Milligan, treasurer.

Also serving are Mrs. George Bickley, historian; Mrs. Harvie Little and Mrs. David Bickerstaff, welfare committee; Mrs. Charles Clarke, sewing chairman; Mrs. Alex Joss, knitting chairman.

Mrs. Bickley will entertain the group at her Mechanic street home Jan. 7.

Tidy Beauty Tools Often as House

Each week when you check through the family laundry and see the house is neat as a pin, consider your make-up equipment.

Wash sponges, puffs and brushes in soapy warm water. And every time you shampoo your hair, clean brushes and combs first. Using dirty brushes on clean hair makes the shampoo worthless.

Be Yourself

Retain Your Individuality

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Have you unconsciously mimicked the usual pattern for one of your age and situation? Are "your" opinions really another person's? Are your emotions and interests only echoes?

Why do you think as you do and do the things you do? Are your thoughts and speech actually you? Do you live the way you do because you want to or because it is expected of you?

If you will observe the people in any age group or financial bracket, or any social class you will, with a few exceptions, find them disturbingly alike. The human mind and heart and soul are capable of infinite variety, but so often the exciting stamp of individualism is missing. Those in any certain classification are apt to be as alike as peas in a pod. We know that they will look and act and taste like peas.

It seems to me that folks so often WASTE their precious stores of energies on things which have little or no real meaning for them and which do not reflect their own personal approach to life. By this I do not mean to suggest that we should neglect our responsibilities or think only in terms of ourselves.

However, if our hearts and minds are really to touch life and leave their imprint on it, we must not lose our individuality in the natural tendency to mimic others. We must bring a little bit of OURSELVES to every day existence if we are to enrich the lives of others, and discover for ourselves an excitement in living which had been missing before.

It is wonderful to want the best for our family and everyone wishes to "belong" to be popular. It is fine to be helpful to others but there is danger of becoming so classified that we lose ourselves, our best contribution to life.

We are bemused into negative situations because it is easiest to do what is expected of us and to accept the ideas of others because they (whoever they are) think we should. It takes courage to be ourselves. And sometimes, in dedicating ourselves to others, we rob those we wish most to serve of the very best gift we could possibly give them—a happy, tolerant, understanding, warm and integrated, friend, wife, husband, parent or relative. Even those with whom we have a more casual relationship feel the impact of our inner satisfaction.

Tomorrow: "Those In Best of Health Are Apt to Abuse Selves."

We must bring a little bit of ourselves to every-day existence if we are to enrich the lives of others, and discover for ourselves an excitement in living which had been missing before.

Need to Talk? She Gets Paid for Listening

INDIO, Calif. — Mrs. Peggy Scott gets paid for listening to other people tell of their troubles.

She calls herself a "professional listener." She has no particular training for her work and doesn't try to assume the role of psychiatrist or psychologist.

"If you're like a lot of people, you have problems you can't discuss with your friends and you feel the need of someone who is interested, but not personally interested," Mrs. Scott says.

"You need to talk it out. I'll listen."

She offers no advice — "People don't want it. They want to be able to think it through for themselves. You've got to do that."

"By talking out our problems the answers just seem to come to us and sometimes we find we know the answer almost before our problem is off our lips."

When she feels the "talker" needs professional help, she'll tell him she can do nothing for him and recommend that he see a psychiatrist or psychologist.

Her limit for listening is three one-hour sessions. In that time, the person should have been helped, she says. And, she boasts, "either all of my customers have been helped or are being helped."

Officers Named by Lyon Group

Mrs. Carl Bolten was chosen president when the Mary Lyon Group of the First Congregational Church met at the DeSota street home of Mrs. Duane Shaw Wednesday night.

Mrs. William R. Foster was named vice president; Mrs. Clifford Berry, secretary; and Mrs. H. Thomas Riley, treasurer.

Members discussed plans for the Dec. 3 Christmas bazaar and dinner.

Ancient Housing

A bath with every bedroom is a pretty old idea — Egyptian excavations 3,500 years old show that an apartment consisted of a living room, bedroom, bathroom, and clothes closet.

Use 'Em as Drapes

New Snap Bead Tricks

Beads that snap onto one another have been put to a new use — to form pictures, tapestries, and even room dividers or draperies.

The product comes in boxes containing beads, rod and pattern to form a picture, or separately in packages of 500 or 1,000 in any of 15 colors.

The package - and - pattern sets are easy to follow, and promise good rainy day diversion for children. There are 23 subjects, ranging from 8½ by 14-inch owl, peering through big white eyes, to an 18½ by 24-inch impressionistic young girl. Included are a number of little animals and nursery characters.

Sold separately, they are not cheap. A package of 1,000, which makes about one square foot, costs around $5.

Used for a room divider, they could be graduated from black opaque, through smoke pearl to white pearl. Or as drapes they could range from dark blue pearl through horizon blue to light blue.

When used as drapes or room dividers, the beads hang from a ceiling track. The manufacturer says they can be washed in a mild detergent and are fade-proof in bright sunlight.

Nina Is No Beauty but Has Charm

Nina Khrushchev is, no matter how you look at it, no beauty. But no one expected that she should be. She is a plain, grandmotherly woman who has made a far better impression on the American people than her tantrum-tossing, baby-kissing husband.

Why? Because she has exerted a certain quiet charm in spite of the intense activity about her. She has not thumped, shouted or childishly insisted on her own way, so possibly some of her charm lies in her marked contrast to Nikita.

She is, of course, no fashion plate. She wears her gray hair long and, according to our customs, not dressed at all. But it's significant that one male reporter covering Mrs. K was moved to say that, though he found her pleasant, he thought she'd look twenty years younger if she lost some weight, bought a good foundation, used some make-up and had her hair done.

This was not sharp or carping criticism; it was recognition of the fact that all of us appreciate seeing a woman look her best at any age.

Tell the Police—Abby

Controversy Flares Among Readers on Peeping Toms

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I agree with your statement that Peeping Toms (and others guilty of moral offenses) should be reported. But I don't think they should be reported to police. They should be reported to their wives and families so they can get the psychiatric treatment they need instead of the shame and disgrace they get when reported to the police. You wouldn't report him to the police if he had cancer would you?

DEAR S. W.: "Peeping" is a symptom of a mental illness which often results in rape, murder and violence to small children and unsuspecting women. Police records show that almost every sex offender has had an early record of "peeping."

While "peeping" itself may not be a serious crime, it is only fair to society to let the police know who these offenders are. Wives and families cannot always be depended upon to get the sick person to the psychiatrist in time.

DEAR ABBY: The Peeping Tom letter brought back memories of an experience I had years ago.

I spent many nights home alone as my husband traveled. One night I heard noises in the bushes outside my window. When I looked, I saw the figure of a man crouching there. I called the police, but by the time they arrived he was gone. Later that summer I heard a strange noise at my back door. I crept quietly into the kitchen in time to see a man's hand cutting my screen door. I quickly connected my flat iron which was standing handy, and just as he was about to unlock the screen door, I pressed the hot iron to his hand. He fled.

The next morning, my neighbor told me that her husband had burned his hand badly while trying to fix their heater. He was one of the most respected family men in town.

GOOD MEMORY

DEAR ABBY: I was tickled to death to see that item in your column about PEEPING TOMS. I was a police reporter for twenty-two years and I know from experience that a guy who hangs around windows trying to get a thrill is a dangerous character. Sooner or later he gets himself worked up to a pitch where somebody gets hurt. You should run that letter again, Abby, and have it set in sixty-point type so nobody will miss it.

"COOP" (Cicero, Ill.)

DEAR ABBY: I think your answer to that Peeping Tom business was all wrong. What's so bad about looking in a window and watching a lady undress if her shades are up?

I think if you are going to report the man who is looking, you should also report the lady who gives him something to look at.

NO DOPE

DEAR ABBY: I know a young woman who is 36 years old and is still wearing her sorority pin. Everyone laughs at her because she wears it on every dress and suit she owns. I think it is quite childish, but I feel it is her business. Some of the girls say that because I am very friendly with her I should tell her to put it away. Should I? Or must I defend her every time someone makes fun of her when her back is turned?

NOMINATED

DEAR NOMINATED: To each her own. If your friend wants to wear her sorority pin on her NOSE, let her. Don't permit the other girls to "stick you" with the job of wising her up.

VENISON MINCEMEAT

By Mrs. Art Lane

4 pounds chopped venison, boiled (fat cut off)

- 1 pound suet
- 3 pounds chopped apples
- 3 pounds raisins
- 2 pounds currants
- 3 pounds brown sugar
- 3 teaspoons cloves
- 10 teaspoons cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons nutmeg
- 2 teaspoons pepper
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 1 gallon cider

Grind all ingredients together and let simmer slowly for 2½ hours. Seal in sterilized jars. If meat is salted when cooking, use a little less salt in recipe.

Says Reds Set to Shoot at Sun

Mikoyan Tells Mexico Soviets Will Increase Missile Lead Over U.S.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan says the Soviet Union is preparing to increase its space missile lead over the United States by launching a rocket "to visit the sun."

Mikoyan, the highest Soviet official ever to appear in a Latin American country, told a dinner given in his honor by city officials Friday night that the Soviet Union has surpassed the United States both in the scientific and in economic areas.

"Who gave the United States a monopoly on occupying first place in the world?" he demanded in a shouting, hand-waving speech that drew frequent applause and shouts of "Viva."

Mikoyan said that when he first visited America in 1936, "they were very much ahead, no doubt about that. But we have overtaken them."

The Deputy said he was not trying to spread Communist propaganda. "We are not egotists," he declared. "We are proud of our success, as we are of the successes of other countries."

Mikoyan, here for a 10-day visit during which he is expected to push for more trade with Mexico, implied that Latin American countries no longer have to follow U.S. leadership.

After 65 Years in Hospital Content to Be Bedridden

VIENNA, Austria (UPI)—Marie Schubert, 83, gave thanks today that the 65 years she has spent in a hospital bed has made her life "rich and beautiful."

Miss Schubert was stricken with osteomyelitis, a bone infection, when she was 18 and sent to the House of Mercy Hospital in Vienna. That was back in 1894. She has been there ever since.

"My life is rich and beautiful," she said from her bed.

"Wars have upset the world. Envy and ambition reign. Inside these hospital walls peace reigns forever."

"Here one chooses one's friends according to their human values and not according to the position they hold or might hold in the future."

"I have had time to think all these things over in my mind; other people never have time to think because of their daily life and financial problems."

"Thousands of times I was able to see day defeat night and be happy about that fact. Never did an alarm clock remind me of office hours in the morning. Never was I forced to fight for money all day long."

"I was able to write poems, although I have absolutely no talent at all. I could read interesting novels and literature. Even small little presents make me happy. And I don't have to worry whether my fur coat is as flashy as my neighbor's."

"To put it briefly, destiny has permitted me to be myself while the average human of the 20th century is forced to play the part demanded by those around him. Is that not enough to make a lifetime rich and beautiful?"

Antitrust Action Against Builder

Federal Suit Would Order Concern to Drop 7 Firms Acquired in '59

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government antitrust lawyers have asked that National Homes Corp., the nation's largest maker of prefabricated homes, be ordered to stop buying up competing firms.

The suit, filed Friday at Lafayette, Ind., headquarters of the company, said National Homes should be required to divest itself of seven prefabricated firms it has acquired in the past year.

The acquisitions, the Justice Department complaint said, "may substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly."

The federal court petition said National made about 25 per cent of all prefabricated houses in the country in 1958, and by buying the smaller companies had increased this share to 38 per cent.

In Lafayette, James P. Price, National Homes board chairman, said he had not studied the complaint but "it appears to be based on the mistaken idea that National Homes and its subsidiaries compete only with other manufacturers of prefabricated homes."

"The fact is that we compete with all house builders, and our share of the total housing starts in the United States, even after the mergers, is not large enough to have any substantial effect upon this competition."

Nikita Keeps Pledge—Pair U.S. Bound

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev apparently is keeping at least one personal promise to allow some Lithuanians to join their American relatives here.

Other Khrushchev pledges may still be honored.

Paulius Leonas, a Chicago real estate broker, said Saturday he has heard from his son and daughter that they will be allowed to come to America.

"It's possible they may come before Thanksgiving," Leonas said. "Wouldn't that be a big turkey? They'll be here before Christmas anyway."

Fronzizi Calls Alert Against Another Plot

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—President Arturo Fronzizi, who has survived 22 crises since taking office 18 months ago, had his security forces alerted today for another possible antigovernment plot.

Fronzizi's office announced Friday night that precautionary measures had been taken because of "acts of terrorism and insurrectional activities of some Peronist sectors linked with Communists."

The President emphasized in a communique, however, that "the situation throughout the nation is absolutely tranquil and there have been no acts of violence."

City Coordinator Defends Reader

Elementary School Textbooks Too Rosy?

By HARVEY ZUCKERBERG

Youngsters exposed to first and second grade readers depicting average families in comfortable domestic scenes are being disillusioned and misled, according to some critics of school text books.

One such reader is being used in Pontiac elementary schools, as it is in hundreds of others across the nation.

Gerry White, coordinator of elementary education, blames the attack on "people who don't know the facts."

Said White: "The objection is that the pictures used are not realistic to kids who live in rather poor neighborhoods."

VERY TIDY HOME

One picture, a colored illustration in the first grade reader, "On Cherry Street," written by Dr. David Russell of California, shows mom standing on the porch of a neat white home handing her boy his mittens.

The father is on the lawn, landscaped prettily with shrubs. He has a bright red sled. All appear well dressed.

Under the picture, the text reads in part: "Tom! Take your red mittens. Put the mittens on now. Have a good time!"

Misleading? Harmful? Not so, said White. "It is my feeling that the less fortunate children enjoy seeing these pictures," he says.

"I don't see how having pictures about shabby homes and run down neighborhoods in the primary reading books would help children to read any better."

This is but one example of penetrating scrutiny directed toward school text books.

CONSTANT PROBLEM

But the elementary school coordinator, like educators throughout the country, is aware that "text book lack" is a constant problem with which to be reckoned.

Steps are being taken by publishers and school systems to remedy legitimate occurrences of "out of date" and "misleading" texts.

White said the reader and language series in the Pontiac school system is "excellent."

"Science texts rapidly become out of date, however," he acknowledges. "And books become obsolete to some extent."

The Pontiac school system faces the problem with preventive and corrective measures in a method of checks and balances.

Consideration of a new series of texts or the reliability of one in current use can be submitted for action by a committee.

Teachers, principals or administrators can initiate formulation of a study committee on text books. The committee is organized when the need arises, with each school represented by a staff member chosen by the principal.

"When a new series comes on the market or a revision of an old series, I call it to the attention of the principals," White said. "A committee is formed to study the situation and a decision is reached."

"Any recommendation of the committee requires the approval of the superintendents and the Board of Education."

$30,000 BUDGET

Basic adoption of a new series of first readers from primary through all elementary grades on any one subject can cost from $15,000 to $25,000. The annual budget for elementary texts has been $30,000.

When supplementary books (those other than text series) are needed, it isn't necessary to have a committee decide upon their purchase.

These books may be requisitioned by individual schools and are subject only to White's approval.

One or more programs, including reading, spelling, writing, arithmetic, language and others, are reviewed each year.

"At this time, the text series is subject to approval for continuing its use or replacement," White said.

"There are about 10 large publishers who market education text series."

"Some smaller houses specialize in only one field of educational text and some of the larger companies specialize in elementary or secondary texts while other areas may be lacking.

"We choose the best series in each program. We don't buy all our texts in a package from one publishing house."

White said there are approximately 1,000 books from which to choose.

The Pontiac elementary schools are using 150 texts and supplementary readers. These don't include library collection books in each school.

REVIEW EVERY 10 YEARS

Said White: "When we study a program, we may decide to stick with the present series and accept a revision to it to bring it up to date rather than purchase a new one."

Publishers revise their books about every 10 years, according to White.

"Usually each publisher has an elementary school consultant who is sent to us to present the books," White said. "If we adopt the series, the expert comes back to us many times to help integrate the series in our program."

The science and social studies programs here are built around science units (physical science, rocks and minerals, aviation and many others), wherein many different science books are used in place of a basic text series.

White said this gives children practice in research, locating information and evaluating what they find.

"Our reading texts and science and social studies books are excellent," White said.

"But most arithmetic texts on the market are rapidly becoming obsolete."

"From reading periodicals, observing experimental programs and other means of research, we have come to the conclusion that the present arithmetic program in Pontiac elementary schools is too limited in the various grade levels."

"We are studying programs which would be an improvement."

A step already taken in this direction has been establishment of an all-city arithmetic committee.

THREEFOLD PURPOSE:

Its purpose is threefold:

1. To see what is being done in the present arithmetic program.
 2. To form a policy statement citing what a modern arithmetic program should contain.
 3. To examine new arithmetic materials and texts to find a series that will meet present needs.
- "The present texts are too limited," said White. "But at least one publishing company is doing something about it."

Group Will Aid Farmers in Setting Up Crop Prices

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Farm Bureau Federation is quietly completing plans to set up a new organization designed to give farmers a stronger hand in bargaining for the prices of their crops.

The farm group's new marketing and bargaining subsidiary will start out in a small way.

It is expected to begin operations next year with a one-man staff concentrating on service to local and area-wide farmer co-operatives which sell fruits and vegetables to processors.

But this relatively small start does not disguise the fact that the nation's biggest farmer organization is stepping into an area of growing importance in the fast-changing farm and food industry.

The Farm Bureau subsidiary, not yet formally named, will be working with farmers who contract for the sale of their crops without going through local or central open markets. In many cases, contracts are signed before the crops involved are even planted.

Contract marketing has been widely used in the past by farmers producing crops for canning, sugar beets and several other commodities. Farm Bureau officials now see signs that the system will spread to other major crops that have, until now, been sold mostly in bulk through open markets.

Farm Bureau spokesmen said that after their new subsidiary gets started on its program of aid to local bargaining groups in the fruit and vegetable field, the next step is likely to be expansion into poultry marketing. After that, they said, may come the same type of activity in marketing hogs, cattle and other livestock.

The farm group said its bargaining subsidiary would not do any nationwide bargaining of its own. It is not going to be a device for getting a monopoly for any food or for fixing prices, officials emphasized.

The main job of the new organization, these officials said, will be to strengthen the hand of local and area farmer bargaining groups by giving them as much information as the buyers have. "Farmers need a device to re-

Crane Worker Topples 30 Feet

Farmington Man Hurt Critically in Clearing Wires for Machine

A Farmington man who was toppled 30 feet from a crane to the street below was listed in critical condition today at William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak.

Gordon J. LaFond, 38, of 3090 Orchard Lake Rd., was standing on top of the crane as it was being towed down 10-Mile road. His job was to lift overhead wires clear of the crane boom.

Southfield police said LaFond evidently missed one wire which caught him in the neck, throwing him to the asphalt street below.

He is suffering from a fractured skull and internal injuries, hospital authorities said.

The truck, owned by LaFond's employer, Nelson M. Sharron Co. of Marine City, was being driven by Luther Waugh, 34, of Warren, from a construction project at 10-Mile and Southfield road. The accident occurred just west of that intersection.

LaFond is married and has a 13-year-old daughter.

John White Jr., son of the folk singer, made his stage debut at the age of 9 in "How Long Till Summer," in which his father starred.

Commission Will Note Petition Against Strip on Farm Tonight

TROY—Petitions bearing 75 signatures protesting location of an airport or landing strip within the city limits will be discussed at the Troy City Commission meeting tonight.

Clerk J. L. Lockhart said today that he has received the petitions signed by homeowners in Hills Acres subdivision, between 18 and 19 Mile roads.

The signers say they are protesting an airstrip, airport, private airport club or any "ascension or descension of planes" on the Roy Moore farm in that area.

The clerk added that to his knowledge no city commission or board has had official notification of the landowner's plans to construct a landing strip.

"The Moore farm and adjacent property is zoned residential for single family homes, and any change, such as for the location of an airstrip would necessitate a zoning reclassification," Lockhart said.

Some residents say they have been told Moore and Robert H. Lash, the flier, would lease the strip to other pilots. This is a rumor, city officials report.

Whatever the size or character of the strip, it will be subject to scrutiny by city commissioners tonight.

Troy has two commercial airports. One is Berz airport on 15 Mile road near Crooks road, which has drawn complaints from Royal Oak residents.

The other is a strip owned by industrialist Jim Robbins beside Stephenson highway between 14 and 15 Mile roads.

Two years ago an airport was under consideration for the north-west corner of nearby Sterling Township. It was to be a large international airport capable of handling jets. Local opposition and lack of funds caused plans for it to be abandoned.

ANNAPOLIS — There are more than 800 Navy schools which specialize in a myriad of subjects, which are geared to the complete education of a sailor in the service of the United States Navy.

BAGS A BEAUTY — Despite the fact that he is tied to his job at the Community Hospital near Almont, Laboratory Director Jack Vowels found time to shoot this 10-point buck behind the facility Saturday afternoon. He had been trying to get a bead on the grandpappy of the herd with a bow and arrow, but turned to a shotgun to make the kill.

Almont Archer Uses Gun Back of Hospital

He Bags Buck With His First Shot

ALMONT — On-the-job deer hunting proved fruitful Saturday for Jack Vowels, laboratory director and x-ray technician at the Community Hospital near here. He bagged a prize 10-point buck with his first shot only a few hundred yards from the hospital.

An ardent sportsman since the age of 15, Vowels, now 32, felt frustrated when he found himself with no time off to go hunting this year.

So with the opening of the bow and arrow season Oct. 1, he began taking a few minutes from his 'round-the-clock duty to go out shooting.

His quarry was a herd of 7 to 9 deer whose habitat is a swampy area about a quarter of a mile southeast of the hospital.

"As the weeks went by," Vowels said, "I got to know the animals' habits pretty well, and I could almost set my watch by their exodus from the woods."

Vowels and other hospital personnel had a system worked out so he could have a few minutes to hunt on days when he wasn't too busy.

When he went out with his bow and quiver of arrows to shoot on the rear of the hospital property, it was arranged that his car horn would be sounded if he were needed in case of emergency.

Vowels' hunting appetite was whetted last Tuesday evening when he missed hitting the grandpappy of the herd by inches. The animal wheeled suddenly at the sound of the bow's snap and whir of the arrow, he said.

"It was then I decided to get more serious and use a gun."

The same big buck came within 15 yards of Vowels Wednesday night, but he couldn't get an "open shot," he said. He didn't hunt Thursday or Friday because he was too busy, but Saturday evening he was ready with his 16-gauge shotgun.

"LUCKY," HE SAID

He got the 190-pound buck with the first shot, "Lucky," he said modestly.

Vowels plans to mount the head and give the meat to the Almont Archery Club, of which he is a member, for a venison banquet.

"The members may feel it's sacrilege to eat deer meat shot with a gun, but I don't think they'll mind enough to turn it down."

MEXICO CITY — The walled terraces of Inca farms represents an investment of about $18,000 an acre in terms of modern labor costs, it is now estimated.

The women took up arms this week when School Superintendent William Medlyn informed them that the Novi School District will be forced to borrow money to meet its December payroll — or close the schools.

Medlyn said the school has just about enough money to meet this week's payroll. However, the school has about $7,000 in outstanding bills, not including $25,000 it borrowed last summer for operations.

Under the state aid program, Novi is supposed to receive between $16,000 and $17,000 six times a year for school operations.

UNDER 75 PER CENT

However, this year, the state has been paying less than 75 per cent of this aid.

Its last payment to Novi was 53 per cent.

Topic of AAUW Is Economic, Social Issues

A resume of the social and economic issues that are a part of the American Assn. of University Women's program was given at the November meeting of the Union Lake Branch.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harold Estep, the problems of aging, automation, mental health, integration and conformity were discussed.

Those taking part in the program were Mrs. Robert Sommer, Mrs. Duane Fisher and Mrs. Don Donigan. Group discussion followed. Guests at the meeting, held in the home of Mrs. Donald C. Smith of Williams Lake road were Mrs. David Worl, Mrs. Wally Edwards and Wilma Harmon. Mrs. Allen Miserez assisted the hostess.

Demanded Repairs on Stolen Article

MILWAUKEE — When Llewellyn Culbert discovered the record player he gave his wife for her birthday was not in working condition, he hastily demanded that a department store service department repair the machine. Repairs were made, but the only trouble, according to police, was that Culbert had stolen the machine from the store. He was found guilty of theft.

Troy School Rifled by Thieving Vandals

TROY — School officials and Troy police are investigating vandalism at Colerain Elementary School, 4970 John R., discovered by officers early yesterday.

The intruders broke a window to gain entry, threw a desk chair through another window and took $6 or $7 from paper and pencil vending machines.

A teacher's and the school secretary's desks were rifled, and papers were strewn on the floor. A bottle of mercurochrome also was overturned on the hall floor, and the library door window was broken.

The thieves apparently were looking for money, according to Principal Lawrence Hamilton. They overlooked two turkeys in the freezer, and the one hot dog they did take was found only half-eaten on an overturned locker.

CAN'T MISS IT — A huge sign measuring 48 feet long and 6 feet high has been installed on one of the most-used community centers in Oakland County. The Waterford Township Community Activities, Inc., on Williams Lake road, accommodates more than 10,000 people weekly for banquets, instructional courses, sports, library, dance parties, and is used for meetings by many community organizations. The Recreation Department has new quarters on the second floor of the huge cement block building.

Ike Flies Back to Washington

To Finish Preparations for World Journey—but First, a Little Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower flies back to Washington today to complete preparations for a good-will trip overseas such as no President ever has attempted.

Take off time for the capital was an indefinite mid-afternoon. Eisenhower wanted to get in a final round of golf—the 12th in 12 days.

The President's three-continent swing to 11 nations starts Dec. 3. To try to get government affairs and himself into shape for the journey, Eisenhower holed up from Nov. 12 on in the Augusta National Golf Club. The pattern has been work in his office above the pro shop in the morning and 18 holes of golf in the afternoon.

The President looked ruddy, bouncy and fit when he and Mrs. Eisenhower attended services Sunday at Reid Memorial Presbyterian Church. They heard what the first lady called a beautiful prayer that good will come from the trip and that the Lord give her husband strength for it.

Tides Dash Dreams of Faraway Romance

LOWESTOFT, England (UPI)—Full of romance, 13-year-old Janice Bushell wrote a note appealing for a pen pal, sealed it in a bottle and tossed the bottle in the sea.

Her message washed ashore only 200 miles away. A fellow named George Pulver picked it up. Pulver, a retired house painter, is 69.

'Big Brother' Will Watch Lose TV Guard Protest

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of apartment house dwellers, including singer Harry Belafonte, have lost a battle to the television age.

Occupants of a luxury apartment at 300 West End Ave. protested a management plan to substitute a television guard system in the elevators for elevator attendants.

Local rent administrator Joseph Goldberg ruled yesterday that the Elba Management Corp., owners of the building, could replace the manually operated elevators with automatic elevators and a closed-circuit television system.

The television screens will be watched by a lobby attendant who will be able to see all that goes on in the building's two elevators and hear all conversations from microphones.

Belafonte particularly protested against the microphones saying he would feel as though he were being watched by "big brother." This was a reference to George Orwell's novel "1984" in which the daily doings of people are watched and supervised by television.

Doctor Charts a Speedy Path to the Cemetery

LONDON (UPI)—A famous doctor has given six simple steps to an early grave.

Sir Daniel Davies, a physician to Queen Elizabeth, told the Chest and Heart Assn.'s meeting here that the six rules for qualifying as a member of the "coronary thrombosis club" were:

—Work every evening, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. Do not let personal considerations interfere.

—Take your office work home if you can't finish it during the day.

—Never refuse invitations to parties and the like and committee meetings no matter how tired you feel.

—Don't let meals interfere with your job. Try and work through them. Take phone calls during lunch, for example.

—Always carry responsibility yourself. Don't let anyone else deprive you of taking the blame.

—If you have to travel away from home on a job, go overnight. You'll be able to do so much more work.

Is Nationalism Panama Woe?

Anti-Americanism Not Blamed by Many; Fear New Rioting

PANAMA (AP)—Many Panamanians say nationalism, rather than anti-Americanism, inspired the current crisis in U.S.-Panamanian affairs. There is fear of renewed rioting in the Panama Canal zone next Saturday.

The visit here of Livingston Merchant, U.S. deputy undersecretary of state, is one sign of the diplomatic activity on both sides to avert what many Panamanian leaders fear might be a worse outbreak than that of Nov. 3 when 82 persons were injured.

Nov. 28 is the anniversary of Panama's independence from Spain. Reports from the provinces say hundreds are planning to parade to the capital that day. Feelings whipped up over the issue of sovereignty over the Canal Zone could get out of the control of either President Ernesto de La Guardia Jr., or the opposition chief, Aquilino Boyd.

Maj. Gen. William E. Potter, U.S. governor of the zone, indicates an orderly, peaceful parade with flags will be permitted next Saturday, but police and troops will be ready to prevent disorder.

Some members of Panama's national assembly have suggested that Panama's flag flown alongside the Stars and Stripes would satisfy the country's sovereignty claims without affecting U.S. jurisdiction.

Humphrey Seeks Hike in Antidisease Research

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) called today for more federal support for "pure research" to study the basic processes of life in a search for methods to fight disease.

Humphrey, chairman of a Senate government operations subcommittee studying international health organizations, made the recommendation in the foreword of a 96-page report on activities of the National Science Foundation.

A 27-million-dollar airport is planned for Baghdad.

Library Dedicated to Pope Pius XII

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—The 4-million-dollar Pius XII Memorial Library here, containing microfilms of the Vatican Library, was dedicated Sunday, less than 14 months after the death of the Pontiff.

A group of Catholic dignitaries, educators and civic leaders attended the ceremonies, part of a two-day celebration that includes founders day events today.

Now—good drivers can save cash on their auto insurance...

ADULT DRIVERS

Think of it! If you have driven without an accident or claim during the past two years you can, under our good-driver plan, insure your car at an initial discount that means a large reduction on our new thrifty rates. And you have the further opportunity of earning additional discounts for each succeeding accident-free and claim-free year! You are not penalized for traffic violations. With the broad Family Auto Policy, which is part of MMLC's good-driver plan, you can pick and choose the coverages you need most—want most.

Michigan Mutual Liability Company proudly announces a new and exclusive plan that rewards the good driver... provides sound protection for all members of the car-owning family... lets careful young drivers earn reduced rates, too!

YOUNG DRIVERS

All qualified young married couples as well as all single male drivers between the ages of 23 and 25 are now eligible for savings of 10% for each accident- and claim-free driving year. Under our good-driver plan these 10% annual discounts will accumulate until they reach the regular adult rate. Male drivers under 23 who own their own cars, and whose parents are insured by us, are also eligible for the same plan and savings for each accident- and claim-free driving year. We insure female drivers in the same age group at our thrifty adult rates.

ENTIRE FAMILY

Enjoy complete protection for your family, too. Our new good-driver plan continues to afford you the same wide choice of coverages and protection previously offered by our Company. Unlike some plans with Merit Rating, ours does not restrict your choice of coverages or limits of protection. You enjoy the same broad protection we have always provided. For instance, under medical payments, you will still receive payment for losses sustained by members of your family injured in any accident involving an automobile. Some of the newer policies now being offered severely restrict such payments.

NEW PAYMENT PLAN

Our new Buyer's Choice Pay Plan lets you pay for your auto insurance by the month... spread your auto insurance costs over as many as ten months. The only "extra" is a forty-cent per month service charge and even this small charge can be eliminated by paying the balance in full. This convenient way to pay for needed insurance coverage lets you arrange your payments to suit your budget.

But Nation President Will Visit Is a Proud One India's 392 Millions Face Starvation

By United Press International
India is half the size of the United States, has twice as many people. One of the world's oldest civilizations, it became a nation nine years ago. Seventy per cent of its people are farmers; its major problem is starvation.

These contrasts set the scene for President Eisenhower's visit to one of the most over-populated, varied, historic, proud, individual nations on earth.

It is the land of Gandhi, the Ganges, the Taj Mahal, cobras and elephants, Vishnu and Kali, tigers and "untouchables" and child brides and rajahs. A land of a polygot people whose number one task is staying alive.

India is a huge triangle whose point is in the hottest regions near the Equator and whose base is in the arctic climate of the Himalayas.

Its people speak more than 200 languages and share at least a dozen major religions. Alexander the Great invaded it in 326 B.C. The Chinese Communists invaded it in a small way in November 1959.

HAS 392 MILLION PEOPLE

Nobody knows exactly how many Indians there are. The latest estimate is 392,000,000, about one-fifth of the human race. The population grows so fast food production can't keep pace. Without superhuman increases in agriculture, India faces mass famine by the middle 1960s.

India has a history 5,000 years long, but not until the British took over in the 1700s did the sub-continent take the shape of a nation.

The British started India on the road toward the modern world. Revolts failed to dislodge them — until Mohandas K. Gandhi invented non-violent civil disobedience and led a 40-year campaign which finally threw the British out.

Jawaharlal Nehru, 70, Gandhi's political disciple and heir, has been India's prime minister since India became free. He inherited Gandhi's abhorrence of violence and of totalitarianism. He has campaigned endlessly for democracy, a non-religious state, social equality, industrialization, modernization.

His all-powerful Congress Party has fought communism at home in its own way, the "Gandhi way" of peaceful resistance.

Slowly, India emerges from the past. Its five-year-plan begun in 1957 concentrates on providing hydroelectric power for the industrialization to come.

Iron and steel production, communications and transport, textiles and metals, oil and chemicals all are being vigorously expanded.

Communist China's incursions on India's northern frontiers present a new problem to a land which already has more than its share of problems.

The basic one, of feeding, educating, clothing and housing its massive and exploding population, remains.

Sanity Hearing Slated for Slayer of Sister

ANN ARBOR (AP)—James Vogel, 17, accused of the Oct. 24 shotgun slaying of his 14-year-old sister, Gwendolyn, has been ordered to face a sanity hearing.

Circuit Judge James R. Breakey entered a plea of not guilty on the first degree murder charge when Vogel stood mute on arraignment in Circuit Court Friday.

The Sanity Commission will be named Dec. 4.

Police said Vogel shot and killed his sister in a squabble over the family easy chair in front of the television set. Two other persons, including a local policeman, were injured.

Aspiring Policemen Better Go Home Early

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI)—Members of the Niagara Falls police department who want to get ahead on the force will have to leave early from the annual policeman's ball.

The department picked the morning after the gala event to hold examinations for patrolmen seeking promotion.

May Fulfill 'Doctor' Dream

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — John Willie Covington, the medical aide without credentials who always dreamed of being a doctor, may yet get the chance to put M.D. after his name.

An East Orange builder said he would start a drive today to raise $10,000 for putting Covington through undergraduate and medical schools.

Covington, 23, worked as an assistant in the Martland Medical Center's emergency room for six weeks before the hospital discovered he had no qualifications. He was fired.

The builder, Daniel R. Morse, put up $500 bail Friday so Covington could go free until his arraignment on a bad check charge. Police said Covington had passed a bad $10 check last month to rent a dinner jacket so he could sing with a church choir. Covington said he later had made good on the check.

"This boy deserves a medal, and instead he is put in jail," said Morse. "He has harmed no one, and he has helped many."

DOES GETTING UP NIGHTS
MAKE YOU FEEL OLD

Thousands are now discovering how much stronger and better they can feel by combating ordinary Kidney or Bladder Irritations. These irritations often occur after 35, and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent, burning or itching urination both day and night. Secondly, you may lose sleep and suffer from headaches, backaches and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, OTVEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in strong, acid urine and by giving analgesic pain relief. Safe for young or old. Get OTVEX at drugstore. Feel better fast.

Master Your Tensions

GEORGE S. STEVENSON, M.D.
and HARRY MILT

Henry was an energetic man with a great capacity for hard work. The tougher the job and the tighter the deadline, the better he liked it. When he went to work in the engineering department of the Power Co., he noticed that the other men appeared to be under a great strain. "Terrible pressure on this job," they told him.

At first Henry could find nothing to support this complaint. But a few weeks later, he too was starting to feel the pressure. His work was off schedule and the approaching deadline made him feel panicky. When his project was finished, he resigned and went to another job.

Henry was an engineer, not a human relations specialist, or he might have noticed:

The atmosphere around the office was cold and forbidding. There was very little personal contact between staff members. The department heads were snobbish and aloof. No one cared how the men felt.

Henry's employees — and many others like them — had not yet learned the basic psychological principle that people don't stop being people the minute they enter factories or offices.

Work in itself provides many basic satisfactions. But for the great majority of people, there must be also the satisfaction which comes from warm, personal relationships.

Even more important are the relations with foreman and supervisor. The boss is a very important person in an employee's life, not only because of his power over the employee's livelihood.

The workers expect him to tell them what to do, to show appreciation, and to help them out with their problems. If the boss should fail them they feel let down.

APPRECIATION FIRST

Ignoring the employees' human needs damages their self-respect, morale, and peace of mind. Ruth worked as a secretary for one of the partners in a legal firm. She had a fine reputation as a very capable worker.

When she was transferred to another partner, however, he soon complained to the office manager: "She takes dictation very poorly and has to retype most of her letters. She has severe headaches and backaches, and four times during the past eight weeks, she's been out with colitis."

He insisted Ruth be given a talking-to, and perhaps outright dismissal. But the office manager knew where the trouble lay.

The girl's former supervisor had been a kindly person. The new supervisor was a tactless snob. Ruth's morale and health were saved by placing her in another job, where her symptoms disappeared.

We place the major burden on

EMPLOYEES ARE PEOPLE, TOO.

1. Show Your Appreciation.

2. When They Complain, Listen.

3. Keep Them on 'the In.'

management because it is they who make the rules. First, we want to ask this question: What conditions do you think employees consider to be most important for their satisfaction and good performance?

Given a list of 10 conditions, one large group of employees rated "good wages" as fourth, "job security," fifth, and "good working conditions" eighth. Ahead of these they gave first place to "full appreciation of work done," second place to "feeling in on things," and third place to "sympathetic help with personal problems."

A FEW RULES

You can improve human relations and reduce tensions in your place of business if you

1. Show your appreciation, with adequate wages, increases, promotions and job tenure, but also with personal indication that the work is appreciated.

2. Keep them on "the in." A person works best on a project when he knows all about it from beginning to end, when he's got a personal stake in it. Call your staff together, explain the project, and ask them to discuss it. Not all the brains are in the front office. A strong, secure supervisor will encourage his men to come up with new ideas.

3. When they complain, listen. Complaints and complainers are hard to take. They mean friction and trouble. A complaint may mean having to resolve a personal dispute between employees, and that can be messy and unpleasant. Or it may mean having to go to the higher-ups to squeeze out some concession which will make the complaining employee happy.

Yet, a complaint just cannot be brushed aside. If an employee is denied a hearing, he'll continue to harbor the original gripe, plus a great deal of additional resentment.

Quite often, complaints are unjustified. This is most apt to happen when an employee is having trouble off the job, and comes to work worried and irritable. So, if one of your employees comes to you with an unjustified squawk, listen sympathetically. After he's had a chance to talk for a while, he himself will see the absurdity of his complaint.

Even if he doesn't, you can point it out to him, once he's gotten rid of his strong emotions. The discussion may also help him recognize what it is that's really bothering him.

Even the complaint that's directed against you personally should be taken with tolerance and understanding.

Mark C. is that kind of an objective supervisor. For 15 years, he's been traffic manager for a manufacturing firm. But before that he worked as a laborer, truck-driver, drill-press operator and salesman.

So he knows both sides of the story. His assistants have no hesitation in coming to him and saying: "Mark, you're working us too hard." He'll listen, and his men admire and respect him. Sometimes supervisors are the butt of complaints which have nothing to do with them.

Employees will often express against a supervisor a hidden resentment they once felt toward their own father, and which they continue to harbor.

The person carrying on the rebellion against the "father-supervisor" is seldom aware of the real reason for his action.

EMPLOYEES RESPONSIBLE

Also employees will compete with each other for a supervisor's affection, reenacting the childhood conflicts between brothers or sisters. Or the supervisor may become a substitute target for an employee's resentment against wife or husband. Female employees who resent the domination of a husband may carry this battle into the office. Male employees who are henpecked at home may resist being ordered around by the boss.

Now we'd like to talk to the non-supervisory employees. Remember that your supervisor is an employee too. He gets more pay and more privileges than you, but he also has more responsibility.

You get the pressure from above — but he gets it from below and above. He's got to be concerned about you and your welfare, and also be worried about meeting impossible deadlines and quotas, operating short-handed, moving ahead against conflicting orders, etc.

Your supervisor is human like you, with the same kinds of personal problems, the same kinds of unreasonable tensions.

He is as much in need of sympathy and understanding from you, as you are from him. Cooperation, understanding and support will bring an end to much of the tension which now exists on the job.

Laos Planning to Back Down

Bows to Dag and India on Withdrawing Charge Against North Viet Nam

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Laos is reported planning to withdraw her complaint to the U.N. against North Viet Nam in an effort to ease her relations with that Communist country and Red China.

Authoritative diplomatic sources said both India and U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld had urged the Laotian government to withdraw its charges that the North Vietnamese committed aggression by their aid to Communist Laotian rebels.

The informants said Laos could send Hammarskjöld a letter within two weeks saying conditions no longer were as they were on Sept. 4, when Laotian Foreign Minister Khamphan Panya cabled Hammarskjöld that his country faced "flagrant aggression" from North Viet Nam.

This would enable the Security Council to strike the Laotian case from its standing agenda.

Hammarskjöld for all practical purposes took the matter over recently when he made a flying inspection trip to Vietiane, the Laotian capital.

The council, acting on the Laotian complaint, sent a fact-finding subcommittee to Laos. The group reported evidence that North Viet Nam had supplied arms to Laotian rebels but said it did not find that North Vietnamese troops had come into Laos. This failure to support the key Laotian allegation made any further council action unlikely.

District Agent Reports Bumper State Apple Crop

TRAVERSE CITY (UPI)—Clarence Mullet, district horticultural agent, reported that the six-county region around Traverse City had the largest and finest apple crop in recent history in 1959.

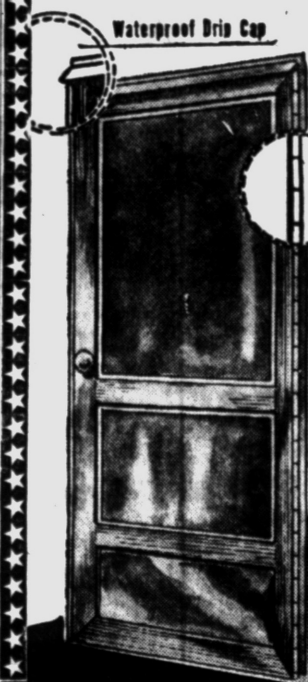

An apple harvest of 1½ million bushels was estimated for the area.

Mullet also reported that 200,000 to 300,000 bushels of apples wasted on trees because the early arrival of winter caught growers with an incomplete harvest.

Mullet said this year's crop puts the Grand Traverse area ahead of other apple producing regions in the country.

Stops Constipation
Due to "Aging Colon"
New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity.

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge. Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new COLONOID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

(1) COLONOID moisturizes dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONOID's unequalled rebulking action helps restore flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONOID acts gently, on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon. COLONOID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. And COLONOID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONOID today! Introductory size 43¢.

Lions Make the Errors and Bears Capitalize to Win, 24-14

Costly Fumbles Give Chicago 3 Early Scores

Detroit Again Fails to Take Advantage of Opportunities

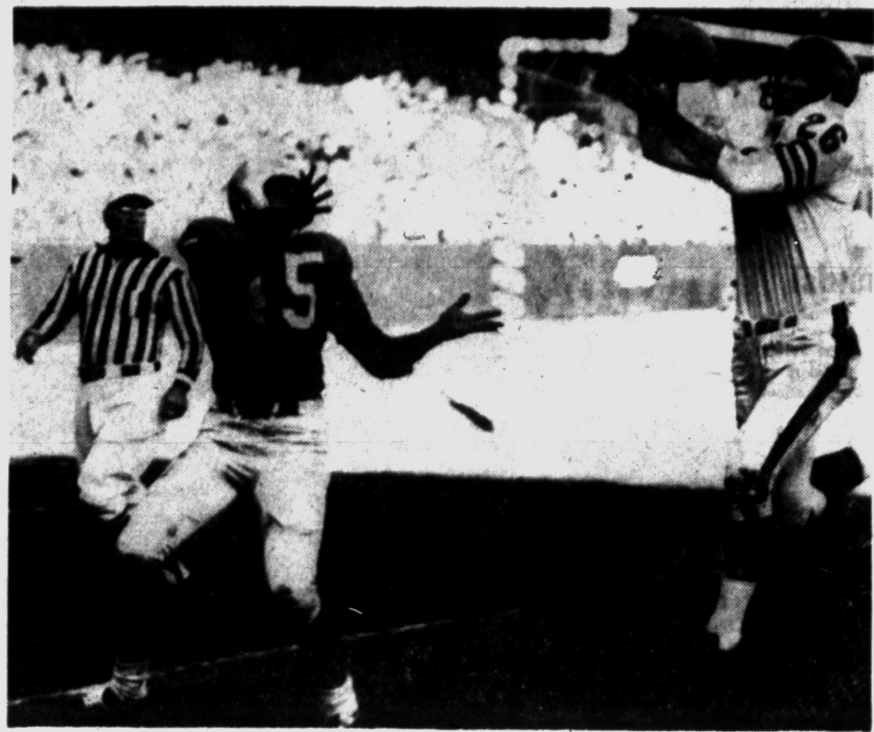

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

The Detroit Lions made the greater number of errors and the Chicago Bears obligingly cashed in on four of them in winning a 24-14 verdict at Briggs Stadium before 54,059 fans yesterday.

Three fumbles meant three scores as the Bears led 17-0 at halftime and it was 24-0 early in the 4th quarter before the Lions caught fire for two quick touchdowns.

"Can't give up the ball eight times and not expect the other team to take advantage of it," said coach George Wilson.

Wilson commented on the Lions' quarterbacking. "Morrall didn't play badly in the first half, we gave the ball away too often."

SURPRISE! — Detroit Lion halfback Danny Lewis (45) was as surprised as anyone in the second quarter when a pass he hoped to catch ended up in the hands of Chicago Bear halfback Charlie Sumner (26). Sumner intercepted on the five and returned the ball to the 13, to stop a Detroit scoring threat. The Bears won, 24-14.

In the second half, all the plays were called from the bench and Wilson said he used Jerry Reichow with "the hope of giving the team a lift."

The Lions won all the statistics and the Detroit defensive line out-charged the Bears all the way, but it just wasn't in the books for the Lions.

The complexion of the game could have been entirely different if the Lions had been able to capitalize on the breaks in the early moments of the game.

On the first play from scrimmage, Rick Casares fumbled and the Lions had the ball on the Bear 28. Interference put the ball on the Bear 19 and two running plays carried to the six.

But holding cost the Lions 15 yards and on the next play, Morrall's pass was dropped by Terry Barr at the goal line. Jerry Perry's try for a 17 yard field goal was partially blocked by Eric Barnes.

Jimmy David's temper cost the possession of the ball in the first quarter.

The Bears had a 4th down and 10 to go on their own thirty-one, but a personal foul was called on David and the Bears then had a first down on the 46. Three running plays failed and on 4th down and 26 a Bear punt was nullified and David was again called for 15 yards.

Thus, the Bears again took over for a first down at midfield but the unrelenting Lions' defensive line again held on downs and finally got possession on the 20 after a punt into the end zone.

The Lions then started on their spree of fumbleitis. Morrall took a reverse from Hopalong Cassidy but he fumbled on the 50 where Fred Williams recovered.

Ed Brown took over at quarterback from Zeke Bratkowski and as the first quarter ended the Bears were on the Lions' eight. Brown passed to Willie Galimore for an 8-yard TD with only 10 seconds gone in the second quarter. John Aveni converted.

After the kickoff, Morrall surprised the Bears by going into a spread formation. Jim Gibbons coming around from left end, took a shovel pass but he fumbled after four yards with Ollie Spencer recovering for Detroit. On the next play, Doug Atkins smeared Morrall and a fumble resulted with Bill Bishop recovering on the Lion 16. Casares went 11 yards on the second play and it was 14-0 with Aveni's point.

The next two Lion offensive threats were killed with pass interceptions, and on the third series exchanges Yale Lary fumbled a punt and the Bears again had possession on the 28. The Lions held three plays but Aveni connected on a 29 yard field goal just before the half ended to make it 17-0.

The only penetration in the third quarter was Detroit's move to the Bear seven. Morrall's pass intended for Cassidy was intercepted by J. C. Caroline in the end zone who returned to the four.

Just as the quarter ended Jerry Reichow, the third quarterback for the Lions, hit Dave Middleton for 32 yards and a first down on the Bear 44.

But Barnes intercepted and the Bears didn't take long to score. Casares raced 47 yards to the one and Brown went over on a sneak to make it 24-0.

The Lions finally held on to the ball long enough to cover 65 yards in seven plays with Johnson going over for a one yard score. The big play was a 41 yard pass play from Reichow to Cassidy.

Things looked up when a minute later Gene Cronin stole the ball on the Bear 13 and three plays later scored with Nick Pietrosante diving over left guard to make it 24-14 with Perry's point.

Hold Rites Tuesday for Ring's Merry Jester

Heart Attack Ends Max Baer's Life

NEW YORK (AP)—To a sport that is often grim and sometimes cruel, Max Baer contributed laughter. He was boxing's merry jester, always playing the part of a Madcap Max, the California clown.

There was the night he won the heavyweight crown in a wild scramble with Primo Canera. Time after time Baer's smashing right sent Canera to the canvas. In the tenth round a Baer swing not only dropped Primo but sent Maxie tumbling to the canvas on top of him.

"Last one up is a sissy," said Max to Primo.

There was the night he attempted to halt the progress of a rising young Detroit heavyweight named Joe Louis. Some 80,000 spectators sat in New York's Yankee Stadium to see what would happen when Baer's mighty right fist smashed against the young Brown Bomber's jaw.

Baer never got to throw it. He was too busy defending against the incessantly pounding fists of the young Louis. Then, in the fourth round, Max had enough. Dropped to one knee by a sizzling left hook, Max paid little attention to the referee's count. Instead he calmly raised his glove hand and smilingly waved goodbye to the crowd.

"It was good for a laugh," Max told reporters.

Tomorrow they bury the merry mad cap of boxing in Sacramento, Calif., Baer's home base for 30 of his 50 years. He died of a heart attack in Hollywood, Calif., as he lived, with a quick quip.

He became ill while shaving in his hotel room and telephoned for a physician. Asked by the switchboard operator if he wanted the house doctor, Max replied: "No, I'm not a house. Call me a people doctor."

Boxing writers, who loved Max because he never failed to make good copy, always said that Baer was as good a fighter as he wanted to be. When he was good he was great. His major failing as a ring performer was that he rarely wanted to be good. He seemed more eager for the laughs of the customers than for the defeat of his foes.

There was the night of his first Madison Square Garden fight against the master boxer, Tommy Laughran. Max was unable to lay a glove on the light heavyweight champion. Finally somebody in the gallery yelled: "Hit him Max, hit him."

Baer dropped his hands, looked into the upper regions of the Garden, motioned to the heckler and said: "You come down and try."

On the night he won the heavyweight championship he seemed invincible. One year later he clowned his way through 15 rounds and lost the title to Jimmy Braddock. He didn't seem to mind the loss of the crown. He was satisfied that he had given the fans some chuckles.

And so it was with Max Baer, in or out of the ring. Most fighters try to leave their opponents flattened. Max Baer was happy if he could leave the customers laughing.

Baer is survived by his widow, Mary; two sons, Max Jr. and James; a daughter, Maudie; two sisters, Mrs. James Young and Mrs. Louis Santucci; and two brothers, Jacob Henry (Buddy) and Augie.

Australians Trip Yank Stars Again in Golf Show

SYDNEY (AP)—Australia's Peter Thomson and Kel Nagle repeated their Canada Cup golf victory over America's Sam Snead and Cary Middlecott in a 36-hole charity exhibition Sunday at the Kensington Golf Club.

Snead shot 71-72-143 over the par-72 course to beat out Thomson by a stroke. Thomson shot 69-75-144 while his partner Nagle had 70-75-145. Middlecott continued the erratic play which marked his Canada Cup performance and finished with 76-81-157.

The Australians beat the Americans by 11 strokes—300-289—one more than at Melbourne in the Canada Cup tournament.

Abel's Strategy Pays Off for Wings

Howe Line Nets 3 Goals in 5-3 Rout of Rangers

New Yorkers Have Yet to Beat Detroit in 5 NHL Meetings

NEW YORK (AP)—Coach Sid Abel's plan to team a pair of young newcomers on the same line with veteran Gordie Howe has become a get-rich-quick scheme for the Detroit Red Wings.

The Wings downed the New York Rangers 5-3 last night with the new first line netting three goals. Howe and his linemates, Gary Alcorn and Murray Oliver, each tallied once.

The line made its premier Saturday at Boston and accounted for two goals. Oliver, brought up from Edmonton last week, got his first National Hockey League goal and Howe also scored in a 3-3 tie with the Bruins.

The weekend's work gave the revived Wings three of a possible four points. The second-place Detroiters trail the surging Montreal Canadiens by six points. Detroit's next game is with Montreal Thursday.

Howe's shot in the first period put the Wings ahead of the Rangers to stay. He scored after New York's Ken Schinkel and Detroit's Billy McNeill matched early markers. Warren Godfrey's goal edged Detroit ahead 3-1 before the end of the first stanza.

There was a wild flurry of scoring in the first two minutes of the second period. Oliver scored at the one-minute mark. Then the Rangers bounced back on two tallies by Andy Bathgate in the next 55 seconds. But it was New York's last gasp.

Alcorn, drafted from Toronto before the season, added an insurance goal for Detroit midway in the final session. He deflected a long shot by Howe past goalie Gump Worsley in the Ranger nets. Alcorn was credited with an assist on Oliver's goal.

It was another busy night for Detroit netminder Terry Sawchuk, who kicked out 33 New York shots. Detroit is unbeaten in five games with New York. The Wings have won three and tied the other two.

Noble's 26 Total Paces Pistons' Move to Top

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons seem to find a different man to supply the big lift in every game and it's been a magic solution to their problems.

The Pistons — often troubled and ridiculed as "that other pro team in Detroit" — are in first place in the National Basketball Assn's Western Division.

It was unsung Chuck Noble, a normally light scorer, who was the springboard last night as the Pistons reached the top. He scored 26 points in Detroit's 115-105 victory over the New York Knickerbockers.

Detroit hasn't been in first place in more than two years except for a brief stay after this season's opening game triumph. Two years ago, shortly after they moved here from Fort Wayne, Detroit was first. But it also was brief.

"This has been a tremendous team effort," said Coach Red Rocha after last night's triumph. Detroit's sixth in its last eight games. "We don't have a star, just a bunch of guys who keep hanging in there."

The upstart Pistons' ride into first place was aided by the Cincinnati Royals. The Royals toppled St. Louis 106-100 yesterday, giving the Pistons their chance to climb over the Hawks. Detroit started the ascent Saturday night with a surprise 109-107 victory over the Hawks on Gary Alcorn's two free throws with 44 seconds left.

Noble got 19 of his 26-point production in the first half when the Pistons jumped to a solid lead over New York. Detroit led 67-54 at halftime and opened a 17-point bulge in the third quarter. That was enough to halt a late Knick uprising.

As usual, Detroit had a balanced attack, a feature of their rise to the top. Walter Dukes had 18 points, Shelle McMillon 17, Gene Shue 16 and Bailey Howell 14. Willie Naulls topped New York with 23.

Detroit risks its new laurels to tomorrow night against the Royals.

Michigan State University's Oakland County Alumni Club will stage its annual football banquet on Wednesday, Dec. 9, at Devon Gables. Members of the 1959 Pontiac Press All-County grid team will be the honored guests.

The Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department will conduct its final meeting for managers or representatives of Class D City League basketball teams tonight at 7:30 in City Hall. Teams must be represented to be considered for entry and the deadline for entry fees is Friday, Nov. 27.

Leroy Rapischak, junior center from Ironwood, has been elected captain of next year's Western Michigan University football squad.

Entries for the Oakland County Kennel Club show Saturday, Dec. 5, and Ingham County show the following day close at noon Tuesday. Entries should be sent to the Bow Dog Show Organization, 4461 Jefferson West, Detroit 9, Mich.

The Detroit Red Wings have added the Junior Wings to their list of sponsored clubs. Detroit general manager Jack Adams has announced. The Junior Wings, only American team in the Border Cities League, thus become the 1st U.S. amateur hockey club to be sponsored by an NHL team.

Jerry Oster, 22-year-old Detroit, upset all-star Len Torricce, 674-653, in the weekly television Bowling Champions match at Eastland Bowl. Oster rolled games of 233-201-232, while Torricce had 193-255-205.

Y. A. Tittle, San Francisco's veteran quarterback, will be lost to the team for next Sunday's game at Cleveland because of a calf injury in yesterday's battle with the Baltimore Colts.

Saturday Victory Happy Finish for 'Bump' Elliott

Senior Backs Shine in Win Over Ohio State

Quartet Does Scoring in 23-14 Triumph; Final Record 4-5

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Coach Bump Elliott of Michigan's football team can hardly be blamed if he isn't worrying about next season just yet.

The 34-year-old Wolverine grid mentor, who saw his scrappy squad jolt Ohio State 23-14 Saturday, probably would like to savor that thrilling occasion a little longer before turning to the future.

The triumph boosted Michigan into seventh place in the final Big Ten standings and gave Elliott a 4-5 record in his first season.

"It's too early to tell about next season," Elliott said. "But I can say this has been an encouraging and enjoyable year. We were able to give almost every team we played a real contest."

If Elliott is hesitant to turn immediately to next year's problems, it may be that he's wondering how to replace his all-senior starting backfield which turned in its finest effort of the year against the Buckeyes.

The four seniors—quarterback Stan Noskin, halfbacks Darrell Harper and Fred Julian and fullback Tony Rio—formed an outstanding quartet in their last act on the Michigan gridiron stage.

These four scored all of Michigan's 23 points and accounted for all but 69 yards of the team's 306-yard offensive output.

A stroke back were Jon Gustin, Gladwyne, Pa.; Walter Burkemo, Franklin Hills, Mich.; and Johnny Pott, Shreveport, La., with 283, good for $900 each. Another stroke back at 284 were John Barnum, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Joe Campbell, Knoxville, Tenn. The latter earned $725 each.

The victory enabled the 28-year-old Casper to continue golf's hottest streak of the year. He now has won four of the last five tournaments he has entered, including last week's Lafayette, La. Open. He now has won 13 tournaments since he joined the pro tour in 1955.

It also raised his earnings for the year to a little over $35,000 and jumped him from sixth to third place among top money-winners of the year. He now trails only Art Wall Jr., and Gene Littler, neither of whom played here.

Badgers Will Get Chance to Avenge 1953 Setback

Wisconsin Voted to Rose Bowl

By The Associated Press
Wisconsin's long-awaited chance to avenge its Rose Bowl loss of six years ago has arrived.

The Badgers clinched their first undisputed Big Ten title in 47 years and the bowl bid by coming from behind Saturday to defeat Minnesota, 11-7.

While Wisconsin was struggling with the Gophers, Northwestern's hopes were obliterated at Illinois, 28-0. Purdue retained the old oaken bucket with a 10-7 victory over Indiana and Michigan downed Ohio State, 23-14.

Outside the conference, Notre Dame edged Iowa, 20-19; Marquette made it three straight with a 30-12 whipping of Holy Cross and Michigan State lost to Miami of Florida, 18-13, Friday night.

Wisconsin, which became the first team to win the title with two conference losses, finished with a 5-2 league mark and 7-2 for the season.

The Badgers opened with an impressive 16-14 victory over Stanford and closed with a squeaker against Minnesota. An 80-yard drive in the fourth quarter, spearheaded by Dale Hackbart, was the payoff.

Along the rocky road, Wisconsin lost to Purdue 21-0 and to Illinois 9-6. Badger victories came over Iowa 25-16, Ohio State 17-3, Michigan 19-10, Northwestern 24-19 and Minnesota. Wisconsin's other non-league triumph was a 41-6 massacre of Marquette early in the campaign.

Coach Milt Bruhn, following the Minnesota clincher, said the Gophers were "as good as any team we've played all season."

Bruhn admitted the entire schedule proved to be "frustration all the way. We never knew just how things were going. We were a little scared (against Minnesota).

We weren't as sharp the last two or three games as a month ago."

Wisconsin's 7-0 loss to Southern California in the 1953 Rose Bowl game was the Big Ten's lone defeat in the current series which began in 1947 and ends New Year's day against Washington.

Last May, Big Ten faculty representatives failed to renew the contract. However, there is no ban against Big Ten teams playing in the Rose Bowl and any school receiving a bid has the right to accept.

Big Ten teams are prohibited from competing in other post-season bowl games.

Wisconsin Athletic director Ivan Williamson, coach of the Wisconsin team defeated in 1953, immediately accepted the bid after Big Ten athletic directors had selected Wisconsin Sunday.

Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson made the announcement and said the vote was "not unanimous." Wilson would not reveal the breakdown in voting.

Lorenzen Repeats as Racing Champ

CLOVIS, Calif. (AP)—Fred Lorenzen, Elmhurst, Ill., driver who holds the 1958 U. S. Auto Club stock car racing championship, nailed down the 1959 title Sunday by winning the 100-lap stock car race at Clovis Speedway.

Lorenzen took the lead on the 97th lap when the leader, Elmer Musgrave of Des Plaines, Ill., crashed into a retaining wall. He was not injured.

Rodger Ward, winner of the 1959 Indianapolis 500-mile race, had led for 94 laps when he went into a spin, losing the lead to Musgrave. He finished second.

Men are more fortunate than women when it comes to wearing apparel for bowling.

We are able to wear our regular trousers, provided they are comfortable, do not bind and allow for complete freedom of movement.

The bowling shirt for men should be equally comfortable. Specially made shirts come with pleats in the back and under the arms so that there will be no restriction of movement while delivering the ball.

Most professional bowlers wear shirts with half-sleeves and a sport collar. They are also made with full sleeves and a more dressy collar which may be worn to work, with a tie, on your bowling day.

Socks should fit well and be neither too heavy, like gymnasium socks, which could cause painfully blistered feet, nor too thin. Socks too thin may make your shoe too loose and hamper your footwork.

By the Associated Press
Old guy Charley Conerly and youthful Johnny Unitas are steering their teams toward a replay of last year's sudden death struggle for the National Football League championship.

The 38-year-old Conerly, a veteran of 12 pro football campaigns, fired a New York second half rally with two touchdown passes yesterday as the Giants whipped Chicago's Cardinals 30-20 and took over sole possession of first place in the Eastern Conference.

Still hobbled by the ankle injury that had sidelined him for two games, Conerly pitched 33 yards to Frank Gifford for one TD and arched a 45-yarder to Bob Schnelker for another score to erase a 14-13 Cardinal lead.

The 26-year-old Unitas extended one NFL passing record and closed in on another while leading Baltimore to a 45-14 thumping of San Francisco. The triumph enabled the defending champion Colts to deadlock the 49ers for the Western Conference top spot.

Unitas, instrumental in the Colts 1958 23-17 playoff victory over the Giants for the NFL title, threw two scoring heaves. He now has 24 for the season — two shy of Sid Luckman's record. It also marked the 34th consecutive league game in which Unitas has connected for at least one TD.

The Giants now lead the Eastern Conference by one game over Cleveland and Philadelphia, who are tied for the runner-up position with 6-3 records. The Browns were kayoed by the spoiler Pittsburgh Steelers 21-20.

The Eagles edged Los Angeles 23-20.

The Colts and 49ers, both 6-3, are a game up on Chicago's fast-rising Bears, 24-14 conquerors of Detroit. Green Bay held fourth with a 21-0 blanking of Washington.

Conerly had to share star billing with field goal specialist Pat Summerall, who turned into the entire Giant offense while Conerly was out. Summerall kicked three against the Cards (2-7), making it 16 for the season—seven short of Lou Groza's record. The Chicagoans had pulled ahead on a spectacular 74-yard punt return by Bill Stacy and a one-yard plunge by John David Crow before Conerly took command.

Unitas, scoring once himself, hit Ray Berry with a 20-yarder and Lenny Moore with a four-yarder to pace the Colts. Moore also scored on a 31-yard scamper and Alan Ameche chipped in with two on short plunges. The 49ers suffered a blow late in the game when quarterback Y. A. Tittle suffered a calf injury. He'll be lost for next week's game with Cleveland.

The Steelers (4-4-1) pulled it out against the Browns just as they had against the Giants last week. With 40 seconds left before the day's largest crowd—68,563—Bob Layne passed 17 yards to Gern Nagler to tie it up. Layne then kicked the winning conversion. That made a missed conversion attempt by reliable Lou Groza stand out. Cleveland wasted a fine performance by Milt Plum, who threw scoring aeriols of 70, 30 and 27 yards to Ray Renfro.

Paige Cothren's third field goal for the Eagles, a 14-yarder with 20 seconds remaining, beat the Rams (2-7).

Hassle on With NFL Over Twin Cities

Meredith First Pick in AFL Draft

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A temporary reprieve for the pro football future of Minneapolis-St. Paul got the American Football League off on a bewildering start today in its struggle to go into action by 1960. An 11th hour attempt to swing the Twin Cities into the National Football League failed, for the time being at least, to dislodge the Minneapolis-St. Paul entry from its membership in the new league.

Armed with a pledge by the cities' principal backers that they will stick with the AFL and field a team next year, league organizers went ahead with plans for a player draft begun last night. But the possibility that a National League team may be operating in the Twin Cities in 1960 hung uncertainly in the background. The situation was tangled by unanswered questions about obligations and financial backing.

The American League sounded its challenge to the durable and successful NFL by drafting some of the most renowned names in college football in the opening round of its selections.

All undoubtedly will be drafted by the NFL also, raising the signal for an inevitable bidding fight to sign them to contracts. The first player selected by the AFL was Southern Methodist's star quarterback Don Meredith, picked by Dallas.

Houston drew halfback Billy Cannon of Louisiana State and Buffalo drafted quarterback Richard Lucas of Penn State. Quarterback George Izo of Notre Dame was picked off by the New York Titans in a coin flip with Los Angeles and Minneapolis-St. Paul. The Twin Cities hassle developed after Charles Johnson, executive sports editor of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, disclosed that 10 of the National League's 12 clubs had agreed to accept a request by Minneapolis-St. Paul for membership in the NFL. Johnson has acted as the negotiator for local football interests. In revealing results of an NFL membership poll by the Chicago Bears' George Halas, chairman of the league expansion committee, Johnson made it clear that the approaches had been made by Minneapolis-St. Paul and not the NFL. In Philadelphia, acting NFL

Midget Matmen Here Next

Professional wrestling's most widely traveled men — midgets — will highlight the next mat card this Wednesday night at the Pontiac Armory on Water Street. The midgets, whose antics frequently border on the hilarious as well as the unbelievable, are generally considered among the world's best athletes on a pound-for-pound basis. It is not unusual for midget wrestlers to lift three times their own weight or jump higher than their own height. Sky Low Low, the midgets' strongest man, and a little toughie named Fuzzy Cupid will join forces to meet Pancho Lopez and the Brown Panther in an Australian tag team bout to highlight Wednesday's program.

Top Non-Pro Rookie

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Oklahoma State's Dick Soergel was named "Rookie of the Year" today for non-pro baseball. The National Baseball Congress said Soergel was picked from 500 players in the National Non-Pro Tournament as the young player most likely to reach major league stardom. His pitching was a major factor in winning third place for the Cherokee Chiefs, Oklahoma champions.

Baugh 'Gray' Coach

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Coach Sammy Baugh of Hardin-Simmons yesterday accepted an invitation to coach in the 22nd annual Blue-Gray football game Dec. 26. Baugh will be the Gray's backfield coach. He helped coach the victorious 1957 Gray squad.

Several Bowl Questions Still Remain Unanswered

By The Associated Press

The 1959 college football season, an unpredictable and confusing thing from the start, heads into its final stages with almost as many unanswered questions as a soap opera's last act.

Will Louisiana State and Penn State decide today to accept the bowl invitations that already have been proffered?

Can Syracuse, after an extra week of viewing with alarm, survive the really potent threat of UCLA and finish the season as the only unbeaten and untied major team?

How will the deciding games in Ivy League and the Southern, Missouri Valley and Southwest Conferences come out Thanksgiving Day? And what effect, if any, will they have on the post-season bowl set-up?

And will Saturday's 60th Army-Navy game in Philadelphia retain its attractiveness and glamor in spite of the mediocre records of the two teams?

So far, only one of the major bowl games is set with two teams. Three others have firm acceptances from one team and one, the Gator Bowl, has a conditional acceptance.

Washington will represent the West in the Rose Bowl after its thumping of Washington State 20-0 last Saturday. Wisconsin, surviving an 11-7 squeaker against Minnesota while Northwestern was taking a 28-0 beating from Illinois, became the first two-time loser ever to win the Big Ten title. The Badgers were selected yesterday, though not unanimously, as their conference's representative.

Royals Whip Hawks

Wilt Tallies 37 in Victory

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Rookie Wilt Chamberlain overwhelmed Syracuse Sunday night by scoring 37 points, to lead the Philadelphia Warriors to a 114-103 victory in a National Basketball Assn. game.

The 7-foot-1 Chamberlain also grabbed 24 rebounds to help the Warriors end a three-game losing streak.

Paul Arizin dunked in 16 points in the first half, helping Chamberlain put the Warriors ahead 54-41 at halftime.

The Nationals rallied in the closing seconds of the third period and narrowed the lead to 83-73. But Chamberlain scored seven points in the first four minutes of a 94-82 edge.

Syracuse had accepted a Cotton Bowl bid a week before its ninth straight victory, a 46-0 breeze against Boston University. Syracuse is idle this week before meeting UCLA, which knocked Southern California from the unbeaten list 10-3.

Missouri earned a place in the Orange Bowl by beating Kansas

12-9 to take second place in the Big Eight behind Oklahoma, which won its 12th straight title. Texas Christian accepted a bid to play in the Dec. 19 Blue Bonnet Bowl at Houston after whipping Rice 35-6.

Arkansas, discounting its changes for an undisputed Southwest Conference title and an automatic bid to play Syracuse in the Cotton Bowl, already has committed itself conditionally to the Gator Bowl Jan. 2.

Texas can tie Arkansas in the conference by beating Texas A&M Thursday and TCU can do it by whipping Southern Methodist Saturday. In the event of a tie, Texas has the bowl call.

Penn State, despite its surprising 22-7 loss to Pitt, still is first choice for the Dec. 19 Liberty Bowl in Philadelphia and Louisiana State is No. 1 on the list for the Sugar Bowl, which is contemplating a replay of the LSU-Mississippi game. LSU players are slated to vote on the matter this evening.

Georgia, the Southeastern Conference champion, and Clemson, Atlantic Coast Conference winner, Miami, Fla., Alabama, South Carolina are some others being considered to round out the bowl lineup.

Georgia still has to face its old and dangerous rival Georgia Tech, winner over Michigan State last Friday, must get past Florida to win Orange Bowl attention. Clemson, after clinching ACC honors in a 33-31 thriller against Wake Forest, winds up against Furman.

Among the non-bowling conferences, Pennsylvania has to beat Cornell Thursday to take the Ivy League title from defending champion Dartmouth, which kept its chances alive with a last minute 12-7 decision over Princeton. Virginia Tech and Virginia Military are due to settle the Southern Conference race at Roanoke, Va., Thursday.

The Missouri Valley race, as close as the Southwestern, can wind up in a three-way tie among Tulsa, Houston and North Texas if Tulsa beats Wichita Thursday. Sun Bowl bound North Texas has ended its season while Houston winds up against Washington State. Wyoming clinched the Skyline Championship, regardless of the outcome of Thursday's game at Denver, when Brigham Young upset Colorado State U. 14-13.

Last, but by no means least, comes Army 4-3-1 and Navy 4-4-1. They're not going anywhere except into the usual bitter struggle against each other. But they'll draw the usual 100,000 crowd at Philadelphia and probably the season's top television rating as well.

Dressen Maps Plans to Beat Former Mates

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Charlie Dressen, who left a comfortable coaching job with the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers to become manager of Milwaukee, already is mapping plans to beat his old mates.

"I know a few things about the Dodgers," Dressen told Wisconsin sports writers and sportscasters last night at a dinner. "We'll try and disturb them a little bit next year."

The 61-year-old veteran, who piloted the Dodgers to pennants in 1952 and '53 long before the club's move to the West Coast, predicted the Braves would have a much better team next season—and will win the pennant if they can stay healthy.

Faucet Shuts Off on Hawaii's Fiery Kilauea Volcano

HONOLULU (AP) — Like a giant faucet turned by an invisible hand, spectacular Kilauea volcano has abruptly ceased flowing.

Activity stopped Saturday night after a week of natural fireworks in which a fiery fountain of lava spouted to heights of more than 1,200 feet.

Volcanologist, Jerry Eaton could offer no explanation for the sudden halt in the eruption which attracted thousands of sightseers.

Lava still flowed close to the surface yesterday but the possibility of a renewed eruption narrowed by the hour, Eaton added. He said it would take decades for the 100-acre lava bed to cool.

Motorist Is Released From St. Joseph Mercy

A 26-year-old West Bloomfield Township motorist has been treated for minor cuts and released from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital after being injured in a three-car accident.

Garry L. Shore, 6930 Playfair St., was injured while driving north on S. Saginaw street Saturday. His car sideswiped another driven by Robert D. Green, 30, of Oak Park, moving south, then hit the rear of a car driven by William D. Whitman, 35, of 480 N. Perry St. Whitman had stopped for a left turn.

TENDER MOMENT — Millie Perkins, as Anne Frank, and Richard Beymer find a rare, solitary moment together in the first flush of young love in "The Diary of Anne Frank," now playing at the Oakland Theater. The story relates the last two years of the young girl's life spent hiding with her family in an attic to escape the Nazis during the invasion of the Netherlands.

Quiet Party for Ex-Vice President

John Nance Garner Turns 91

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — Former Vice President John Nance Garner—the once crusty but now mellow Cactus Jack—marked his 91st birthday here Sunday with a huge cake and a quiet party given by old friends.

There was one solemn moment at the informal party during which Garner waxed sentimental or humorous as he swapped jokes and political yarn-spinning with his neighbors.

TRIBUTE TO WIFE

with a portrait of the late Mrs. Garner, who was the former vice president's chief administrative aide and advisor in his long political life. The portrait was painted by Garner's only grandchild, Mrs. John Currie.

Obviously moved, Garner said "I know you men have wonderful wives but not one of you has a wife as good as mine was."

Garner, who retired from politics in 1940 after a historic break with Franklin D. Roosevelt over the third term and the Supreme Court issues, said only that he wants to live to be 92 so that he can square off his years of public and private life. Garner spent 46 years in public service.

After the early-morning birthday party, there was a quieter family get-together later in the day. It included Garner's great-grandsons, John Garner Currie, 15, and Tully Robert Currie, 12. The birthday cake was an 18 by 36 inch pastry and candy replica of the log cabin where Garner was born in Red River County.

"That log house did me more good in politics than anything I ever said," Garner commented.

Defense Lawyer for Scopes Dies

ROCKWOOD, Tenn. (AP)—Dr. John R. Neal, 83, chief defense counsel in the celebrated Scopes trial at Dayton, Tenn., in 1925, died in a hospital here today.

Neal gained worldwide fame by getting a young schoolteacher, John T. Scopes, to agree to be prosecuted to test a Tennessee law that forbade the teaching of the theory of evolution in public schools.

Four famous attorneys, Clarence Darrow, Arthur Garfield Hays, Dudley Field Malone and Bainbridge Colby, joined Neal in the defense. They all served without fees. William Jennings Bryan came to the aid of the prosecution.

Scopes was convicted, and the presiding judge, the late John T. Raulston, assessed a $100 fine, the minimum provided by the law. Later, the judgment was reversed.

Neal served in the legislature and was a candidate for governor and U.S. senator.

U.S. farmers today own seven million motor vehicles and 4.5 million horses and mules, compared with 5.6 million motor vehicles and 11 million horses and mules 10 years ago.

"It was real. It is a fact that I lived there for seven years and I remember it well."

"That's all I have to do these days," Garner said.

Fail to Catch Space Capsule

Air Force Is Puzzled by 5th Mishap in Key Scientific Experiment

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force Sunday night ended the search for the missing capsule of the Discoverer VIII satellite. What happened to it is still a mystery. It separated from the orbiting rocket over Hawaiian waters Saturday and dropped toward the ocean. Air Force planes had hoped to snare it as it parachuted down, but the chute may not have opened.

The planes missed it, and so did a search vessel — although both planes and the ship received radio signals from the capsule's transmitter.

The recovery project is described as an important step in learning how to send a man into space in a satellite — and then bring him back safely to earth. Four previous recovery tries also failed.

The Discoverer VIII rocket will orbit perhaps two more months, spokesmen said. It was launched here Friday.

Vandals Steal Nothing, Mess Up Vacant House

Vandals ransacked the home of a Brandon Township couple, overturning almost every item of furniture in the home but apparently stealing nothing, Oakland County sheriff's deputies reported yesterday.

Broken into was the home of Elwyn Yonkers, 5005 Hummer Lake Rd. Deputies found a stove, refrigerator, deep freeze, television set, and household furniture overturned, and several windows broken.

Walls and fixtures were also damaged by the culprits, said deputies. The Yonkers are living in Bradenton, Fla. for the winter.

D'Amato Finds Licenses Gone

Athletic Group Revokes Two; Also Suspends One for Rosensohn

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Athletic Commission today revoked Cus D'Amato's licenses as a manager and second, and suspended promoter Bill Rosensohn's match-making license for three years. D'Amato is the manager of former champion Floyd Patterson.

Previously the commission revoked the license of Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc., which holds the contract for the return bout between world heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson of Sweden and Floyd Patterson of New York.

The commission announced its decision today after conducting a three-month inquiry into alleged irregularities in the promotion of the first Patterson-Johansson title fight at Yankee Stadium.

D'Amato, 50-year-old New Yorker, was found guilty on four of the five charges placed against him by the commission.

An attorney for Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc., headed by New York lawyer and politician Vincent J. Velilla, had said he planned to test the commission's jurisdiction and take the case to the New York State Supreme Court.

The action against D'Amato may knock out the Johansson-Patterson return fight.

Hearing Will Be Held on Subdivision Lights

A public hearing, to listen to any protests on installation of street lights in Waterford Township's Golfview Park Subdivision, will be the only scheduled item of business for the township board tonight.

Since some residents have petitioned for the new lights, Township Supervisor Elmer R. Johnson said it is required that a public hearing be held.

Affected by the project will be 257 property owners in the subdivision near Elizabeth Lake and Cass-Elizabeth Lake roads. They would be assessed $2.40 a year for operational costs while the township will pay 10 per cent of these costs, Johnson said.

The Detroit Edison Co. will pay for installation of the lights.

He Better Look Twice

MALINES, Belgium (UPI) — Barkeeper Henri Verbruggen joined an expedition to deflate the tires on cars of motorists who refused to join a strike against a new gas tax. Police said they picked up Verbruggen while he was preparing to deflate the tires of an automobile he had failed to recognize as a police car.

Investment Fever Sweeps Japan

By RONALD P. KRIS
TOKYO (UPI) — Investment fever is sweeping Japan today. Nearly everyone, from the humble rice farmer to the timid housewife, seems to be infected by it.

According to the Finance Ministry's latest estimate, there were between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 individual stockholders in Japan in 1938.

This is something of a revolution. It means that as many as one out of every 25 persons in this nation of 92,000,000 has money in the stock market.

In another age farmers packed their savings in suitcases and housewives tucked away whatever they could spare under the tatami matting. Now the farmers turn their harvest money into stocks and housewives save up coins for a plunge into the market.

"The investing public has become far more gigantic than might be supposed," reports the giant Nomura Securities Company, Japan's biggest, in its quarterly Investors Beacon.

The thing that surprises brokers most of all, however, is the big role women are playing in the market.

"There are housewives, shop girls and office girls, all very eager to invest in stocks and trusts," says Yoshio Torasawa of Nomura's foreign department.

"This is a very big change in women's economic knowledge. Before the war, they had no idea of investing money."

Japan's 578 securities companies bombed prospective clients with direct sales talks, mailed brochures and a high-pressure advertising campaign.

Only three industries — pharmaceuticals, electrical appliances and textiles — spend more than the securities companies on advertising.

The advertisements make a familiar pitch. Stocks are a hedge against inflation, they say; stocks grow with the economy.

"Further expansion is in store," says Investors Beacon. And if anybody still is in doubt, the guidebook points to stocks like Matsushita Electric, which has grown 427 times since 1949, and Toyota Motors, which has grown 114 times.

To handle the buying boom brokerage firms have opened "consultation offices" in thousands of spots throughout Japan.

There's one at nearly every major railroad station or shipping center in Tokyo, for example, where housewives en route home from the department stores can put down their parcels for a few minutes and check on their investments.

In June and December thousands of stock salesmen go after salaried workers to persuade them to convert their semi-annual bonuses into stocks. At harvest times they fan out to rural areas to catch farmers with cash in their pockets.

The stock exchanges have reflected the boom. On narrow Kaito-cho, "Helmet Street" the Tokyo Stock Exchange handles an average of 60,000,000 shares a day, two-thirds of the volume in all Japan. More than 600 stocks are listed on the Tokyo exchange, and they are currently valued at more than $9 billion.

In 1949, when the Tokyo exchange reopened for the first time since World War II, the average turnover was 2,000,000 shares a day. There was near-paranoia if trading got heavier, for clerks working with abacuses could barely keep pace.

Now the exchange is equipped with a new Univac electronic brain and automatic punching machines to handle the staggering volume.

When an awesome 140,000,000 shares were traded one day in June, 1950, for the exchange's all-time record, clerks found they could handle this turnover with relative ease.

Spectators watch from galleries above the high-ceiling room and in a booth overlooking the floor, half a dozen broadcasters from

Everything works on a system of hand signals, and mistakes can mean losses of thousands of dollars.

A telephone clerk in a booth along the edge of the room receives instructions on a direct line from his office. He shouts to his company's trader at one of 12 horseshoe-shaped counters on the floor, each of which handles 50 different stocks, and tells him with hand signals what stock to buy or sell, how many shares and for how much.

One example of a hand signal is the one for Keori, the Japan

Woolen Textiles Company. "Ke" means hair in Japanese so the telephone clerk simply pulls his hair to indicate the stock he means.

With 602 different stocks to handle, the traders must learn what amounts to a complete new language. Akira Yamagishi, floor chief for Nomura at the exchange, says new men spend six months to a year learning the signals.

"Every once in a while one of them makes a mistake," Yamagishi says. "Surprisingly, they almost never get the name of the stock wrong, or the price, or the number of shares."

"When they do get fouled up, it always seems to be that they buy instead of sell, or vice versa."

Grain Futures Firm Slightly

CHICAGO (P) — The grain futures market started off toward weakness today but reversed the general trend within the first several minutes and developed some firm spots.

Soybeans led the advance with gains of a half cent or more. New crop wheat and rye were in moderate demand.

The buying appeared to be largely short covering and replacement of long positions in the market. Dealers said commercial demand was on the light side and that export business over the week end apparently was absent.

Wheat was 1/4 cent a bushel lower to 1/2 higher near the end of the first hour, December $1.98 1/2; corn 1/4 to 1/2 lower, December $1.10 1/2; oats 1/4 to 1/2 higher, December 76 1/2; rye unchanged to 1/4 higher, December $1.32; soybeans 1/4 to 1/2 higher, January $2.20.

Policeman Gets Help After Target Mishap

RICHMOND, Va. (UP) — When Policeman J. Waverly Applewhite wounded himself with a pistol while target practicing, his greatest worry was about six acres of corn ready for harvest.

A Boy Scout troop offered to pick it on a Saturday. A man offered a tractor and farm wagon and a member of Chesterfield County's board of supervisors brought over a mechanical corn picker.

Ford's Theater, scene of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, also was the site of a later tragedy. In 1893, the interior collapsed, killing 22 persons.

Michigan's Money Mess Still GOP Senators' Worry

LANSING (UP) — The spotlight and political heat will be on Senate Republicans again in the Michigan Legislature's 40th week of squabbling over taxes.

There was no sign that Gov. Williams had any plan to attempt immediate intervention. Aides argued there was nothing reasonable he could do while GOP senators tried to re-form split ranks.

With deer hunting in full swing and Thanksgiving Day falling on Thursday, a short work week was in store. The Senate wasn't due at the Capitol in force until Tuesday night.

Facing the Senate GOP majority was a choice between sticking with its 73½-million-dollar nuisance tax plan or swinging behind a corporate profits tax, perhaps coupled with an income tax.

Other possibilities appeared extremely remote.

At one point last week about a dozen GOP senators reportedly were ready to back a corporate profits levy. Their ranks had thinned by Friday morning.

However, three senators who might be amenable to this solution and who were absent Friday are expected to be on hand this week. Sens. Perry W. Greene of Grand Rapids, Haskell L. Nichols of Jackson and Lloyd Stephens of Scottville.

Crystallized agreements by 11 would be enough to open the committee gates that currently bar a corporate profits tax or combined personal-corporate income tax from floor consideration.

Apparently it will take 18 GOP votes to put through the emergency nuisance tax package. Guesses on firm supporters for this course range as low as six.

While the uncertainty goes on, the state sinks deeper into debt at the rate of about one and a half million dollars a week and is due to pass the 93 million dollar mark by Nov. 30.

In addition, State Controller James W. Miller estimated $5,000 to $7,000 a day was being lost in discounts on purchases and in interest payment to suppliers.

Miller said some of the interest money was concealed in higher bids on state business by suppliers who knew they would have to wait for their pay.

"That figures about $1,800,000 a year," he said.

Miller said intangible factors that couldn't be priced were probably far more important and may hurt the state for years to come.

"Firms which have dealt with the state are feeling more and more that 'There's enough business, we'll go somewhere else,'" he said.

"And don't forget state colleges and universities have to compete for brains in the national market. There's damage there, too."

She Gets Baby Shower From County Jail Pals

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UP) — The young mother, expecting her third child, got a baby shower just like anybody else — only hers was held in the Madison County Jail.

The woman was awaiting transfer to the women's prison following her conviction on a charge of forgery. "We felt sorry for the girl even though she committed a crime," said a jailer.

4 State Hunters Narrowly Miss Asphyxiation

LANSING (UP) — Four hunters lived today to tell of their brush with death during a hunting trip in a house trailer.

Edward Sickler and his brother, Robert, and William van Wormer and his son, William Jr., returned to their homes during the weekend after escaping death by asphyxiation in the Upper Peninsula.

They said they became ill two nights in a row and were barely able to get out of the trailer the second night.

They said they were nearly unconscious when they realized fumes were being thrown off by a bottled gas heater they had in the trailer.

The men said they at first thought they were sick because their food had spoiled.

The trailer was not equipped with the Thurm heater which has caused five asphyxiations of hunters during the current Michigan deer season.

Scared His Small Car Was Shrinking in Rain

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP) — Policeman Lyle Bigley parked his small foreign car at the police station and went to work on his beat.

The officer entered the police station and asked the duty lieutenant for a tarpaulin.

"The rain's shrinking my car," he said.

A statue of George M. Cohan, the Broadway great, stands in New York's Times Square.

Music and Lights Start Yule Season in Detroit

DETROIT (UP) — The city's "official Christmas season" will be open tonight when Mayor Louis C. Miriani lights the city's Christmas decorations.

The Central Business District by major airlines.

Assn. has urged all downtown area stores to leave the lights burning until 10 p.m. and a 1,000-voice choir will usher in the season today with a choral program in Grand Circus Park in the center of the city.
