

Round Trip Moon Rocket Possible by 1964

MAKE OVER PAGES

LONDON (UPI)—Two American scientists disclosed today they had completed preliminary studies for a giant rocket which, by 1964, could be carrying a two-man crew to the moon — and back.

M. W. Rosen and F. C. Schwenk of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington said the powerful engines required for such a journey already were being developed, while the fuels already were in use.

The rocket was described as being 300 feet long—the length of a football field. Constructed in five stages, it would employ a cluster of rocket engines capable of developing 1,500,000 pounds of thrust each and would require 9,000,000 pounds of thrust for the takeoff from earth.

Rosen and Schwenk, in a paper prepared for delivery at the Congress here, said their project would appear "fantastic" only to those whose thinking has not caught up with engineering advances of the past years.

Both men argued for making manned flights to the moon as quickly as rocket technology would allow, rather than waiting for a decade or more of "probing the moon by instrument."

"The argument that we cannot afford the risk of human life to explore the moon is historically unsound — moreover, it is economically unsound," they said.

"The attempt to duplicate with instruments what could be accomplished by a few men on the moon would be immeasurably more expensive."

The scientists drew this picture of their proposed moon shot:

First, an unmanned rocket would be fired to the moon before the manned attempt to provide a "spare" for the two-man crew should its rocket be damaged on landing.

Next, the manned rocket would be fired, probably from somewhere in the Pacific. Three of its stages would propel the rocket on its 240,000-mile journey to the moon. The fourth stage would help it land safely. The fifth would be all that was needed to send the rocket back to earth because the thin atmosphere of the moon requires relatively small take-off thrust.

The scientists figured the journey would take 60 hours each way. The crewmen would stay on the moon 12 days doing "the thousands of things instruments cannot do."

The rocket could alter its course in flight, somewhat, by the use of control jets. Once it returned to earth's atmosphere, the crew would break out a large parachute at 30,000 feet and the capsule that contained them would float gently to the ocean.

"We believe feasibility has been shown," said the scientists. "There remains now the intriguing task of doing the job."

GOP Leaders Vow 'No Income Tax'

RUDY IS GONE — There won't be any more cigarette butts for Rudy, the housebroken deer who lived with the Victor Betts family on a farm near Clarkston. He has been banished by State Conservation officers to life in the northwoods. The pet deer is sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Betts and their four children.

Somewhere in Michigan Wanders a Lonely Deer

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Somewhere in the wilds of northern Michigan wanders a lonely deer, and, on a farm near Clarkston, there is a broken-hearted family.

Rudy, the deer who appeared to love people better than animals, was taken from the Victor Betts family at 6310 Shappie Rd. by State Conservation officers and turned loose to fend for himself in the Upper Peninsula.

Officers explained to the family that their pet had reached an age where it could be expected to turn mean, posing a threat to the children it customarily romped and played with.

But neither Mr. and Mrs. Betts nor their four youngsters could believe this.

One Conservation officer fed the domesticated buck a cigarette while the other inoculated the animal with dope. Rudy staggered over to Betts and fell at his feet. Betts freely let the two men hoisted the deer into a station wagon to begin his long sojourn of no return.

Rudy was turned loose in the woods near Houghton.

Next week when the big school bus pulls up to take Rudy's young friends away, he will not be able to put on his customary show of kicking and nipping at the tires, and throwing himself in the air in indignation.

Nor will he sit on the Betts' sofa, look out the window, or pick up scraps from the dinner table after the family has finished.

Instead, he perhaps will think of the time he kicked off one of his newly-grown horns in fright when unthinking boys lassoed him around the neck.

Betts, who was out of work at the time, managed to scrape $8 together so a veterinarian could come and mend the damage.

When Betts first found Rudy, he was a tiny fawn, laying half dead in a clover field, the victim of a moving machine. The farmer picked the baby deer up, brought him home to his wife and children Jack, 10, Ruth Ann, 14, Lena, 13, and Helen, 16.

Pontiac to Get More Showers Through Night

Occasional showers will continue through tonight in the Pontiac area, ending Thursday morning, the weatherman says.

Tomorrow's outlook calls for partly cloudy skies and less humid weather with little temperature change. The mercury will dip to a cool 66 tonight, rising to a high of 78 Thursday.

Northwesterly winds 12 miles per hour, recorded at 10:30 a.m. today will become southeasterly tonight, shifting to westerly tomorrow. This morning's rainfall reading was nine tenths inches for the past 24 hours. Precipitation will total one half to three-quarters inches in showers and thundershowers tomorrow and again this weekend.

The lowest thermometer reading in downtown Pontiac preceding 3 a.m. was 64 at 7 a.m. By 1 p.m. the mercury had reached 77.

City Could Lose Federal Funds

Current State Deadline for Sewer Construction Will Cost Pontiac

Pontiac today was in a calendar tangle over possible federal aid in construction of the new sewage treatment facilities ordered by the Water Resources Commission.

The city stands to lose out on any federal funds available for construction of the $3,300,000-plus project, said City Manager Walter K. Willman.

As a big city, Pontiac is eligible for a grant of up to $250,000, the maximum amount available.

"The mixup is the Water Resources Commission's fault," Willman charged. "They have given us construction deadlines that don't jibe with deadlines the city would have to meet to be eligible for federal help."

Pontiac (and other Michigan cities) must apply within two weeks for any federal funds it hopes to get for construction during the period ending next June 30, the Water Resources Commission announced today.

If the mixup in deadlines isn't untangled at a meeting of city and state officials next Tuesday, the city may find itself financing new (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

1960 Pontiacs Roll Off Line; Workers Return

Two Shifts Slated for All Plants Within Week as Changeover Ends

The first gleaming 1960 Pontiac in regular production rolled off the assembly line at Pontiac Motor Division today as some 300 hourly rate employees came back to work in the main assembly plant.

The model changeover layoff came to an end and officials say that all plants should be working on a two-shift basis within a week.

During the past two weeks a partial crew of 4,800 hourly rate employees have been working in the pressed metal and chrome plating plants.

Today, with the addition of assembly plant workers, the number jumped to 5,100. All plants will continue on their present one-shift basis until next Tuesday, officials said.

Then the foundry, engine, pressed metal, axle and chrome plating plants will begin working on a regular two-shift basis. The assembly plant will follow suit next Wednesday.

day, bringing the estimated total manpower to 9,400 employees. The new Pontiac is scheduled to go on display in showrooms across the country Oct. 1.

The first new car in regular production was started on its way down the assembly line at 6:30 this morning.

Workers filed through the main gates in a steady rainfall, happy to return to their jobs despite the dismal weather.

Fisher Body workers began producing bodies for the new cars Aug. 24. They will gradually increase production during the coming month.

Full production will begin booming after the break for Labor Day. The increase will bring a total of about 4,300 workers back to their jobs by the end of next week.

DISCUSS TAX SUIT BRIEF — Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams, left, expresses his views on the suit against the new state use (sales) tax to Charles Lockwood, center, Detroit attorney who filed the suit, and Don Winters, supreme court clerk. Stores throughout the state began collecting the additional cent on sales yesterday.

Wording Flaw Holds Up Cash

Schools Must Wait Till Date Error Is Corrected for Promised Monies

LANSING (UPI)—Michigan's school districts face still another delay before they can expect to receive a promised 326 million dollars in state school aid.

A joker has been discovered in the state aid bill that would have prevented districts from borrowing against the anticipated funds for the rest of the year.

The flaw also will prevent any early token payment this month of state aid money.

It had been anticipated that at least 10 million dollars could be divided among the cash-hungry districts.

The bill was pulled back yesterday as it was about to go to Gov. Williams for signing.

Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, said legislative leaders were contacted and agreed to correct the measure when they return Sept. 16.

Bartlett said the error was unintentional and blamed it on the frantic atmosphere surrounding the push for a tax settlement last week.

Language in the bill required that school borrowings be repaid by Sept. 1 of the year in which they were made. This would have automatically canceled any borrowings against state aid in December, October, November and September.

The wording will have to be changed to specify repayment of borrowings by Sept. 1 of the fiscal year following the one in which the money is borrowed.

The error was discovered by Claude H. Stevens and Charles R. Moon, Detroit, bonding attorneys.

School districts already have missed out on an aid payment of about 40 million dollars due in August. Many have been borrowing against anticipated taxes and primary interest money.

Car Dealers Angry Over Back-Dated Tax

LANSING (UPI) — Car buyers who closed their deals before the 4 per cent use tax went into effect at midnight Monday won't have to pay the extra cent on a dollar.

Deputy Secretary of State Billie Farnum said the situation was cleared up today, reversing an informal decision announced yesterday that dealers would collect the 4 per cent regardless of date of notarization of sale.

Farnum said it was decided that a deal closed, with papers signed and notarized, would not be subject to the added penny tax even though the sales had not been reported to the Secretary of State before yesterday.

Car dealers in the Pontiac area and the rest of the state are up in arms against having to charge the new four per cent use (sales) tax on deals closed before it became effective at midnight Monday.

John A. Noreen, business manager for Matthews-Hargreaves, Inc., said auto dealers were being "discriminated against" by having to levy the new tax on August sales.

"I challenge their right to charge the four per cent on deals made in August," Noreen said.

According to Noreen, the Pontiac office of the Secretary of State's office received a telegram Tuesday morning, based on a ruling by Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams saying not to accept any transfers of car titles unless the four per cent charge had been levied, regardless of when the deal was closed.

Noreen said his office staff worked late Monday night to close 10 late August car sales in order to get under the wire on the old three per cent levy.

(Unlike other businesses, who pay their sales tax collections to the Department of Revenue on the 15th of the month following closing of a month of business, car dealers must pay theirs by way of the Secretary of State Office when each title transfer is made.)

However, when the 10 Matthews-Hargreaves transfers were taken over to the local Secretary of State's office Tuesday morning they were refused, based on the telegram from Lansing.

"If we would have charged those people who bought their cars in August the four per cent they would have blown their stacks," Noreen said.

Adams' office Monday night advised Secretary of State James M. Hare to collect four per cent on all deals no matter when they were written. Hare said "It's the only way to stop back-dating."

Hare previously had said that (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Claim Adams Causing Trouble by Court Test

If Levy Is Thrown Out, Oakland's Lodge Holds Substitute Plan

From Our News Wires

LANSING — Michigan will not get an income tax even if the new use (sales) tax is declared unconstitutional. Republican leaders vowed today.

At the same time, they suggested Attorney General Paul L. Adams may be violating at least the spirit of the law by asking the Supreme Court to throw out the new use tax boost.

One leader said Adams has "jeopardized" this usefulness.

"If it's thrown out, said Sen. Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo), who championed the use tax, 'the Democrats still won't get the income tax.'"

One of the alternatives still alive should the Supreme Court toss out the use tax increase as unconstitutional is a proposal by Oakland County Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, a Republican.

Still resting with the Senate Taxation Committee, Lodge's bill would impose a so-called transaction tax on stocks, bonds, contracts, real estate, mortgages, options and other business transfers.

No rate of the tax is included in the bill, and no amount of possible income from it can be determined because it depends on how much such business is transacted in a year's time, Lodge said.

Some lawmakers were interested in a wholesaler's tax that was proposed but dropped earlier in the session. It would amount to a sales tax because it could be passed on directly to the people.

With the Use Tax Act under the cloud of the Supreme Court suit, early adjournment of the Legislature lay in doubt.

The high court yesterday set Sept. 15 for a hearing on Detroit Attorney Charles C. Lockwood's suit to throw out the penny tax increase as unconstitutional.

Filing of the suit brought a pre-

Save Those Sales Slips, in Case . . .

LANSING (UPI)—Save your sales slips, mother, they may be good as gold.

Consumers may be able to collect rebates on the one-cent use (sales) tax boost which went into effect yesterday if the levy is declared unconstitutional by the state supreme court.

A suit challenging the tax has already been filed and the high court will hear it on Sept. 15.

The deputy state revenue director, Clarence Lock, had some advice for those who want to take a chance that the levy will be ruled illegal.

He suggested getting a receipt for every purchase and making sure that the vendor signs and dates it.

Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams reported the state would retain most of what it had collected if the court throws out the new law.

But, Adams said taxpayers could make a recovery if they furnished sales slips and other receipts substantiating the amount of taxes paid.

The attorney general added that he did not expect the court to hand down a ruling before six weeks at the earliest.

A Jovial Ike Reminisces With British Comrades

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP)—President Eisenhower had a happy reunion in a reminiscing atmosphere Tuesday night with British comrades of World War II.

The President was a laughing, joking host, quickly putting at rest any tenseness that might have been felt by those of the guests who have criticized his war strategy in their memoirs.

By coincidence, the stag dinner was held on the 20th anniversary of the German invasion of Poland, which set off World War II.

Eisenhower cordially greeted Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, whose critical comments nettled Eisenhower so much that he snubbed a card from Montgomery last Christmas.

When the evening was over,

Montgomery left beaming and waving enthusiastically to a cheering crowd outside Winfield House, the residence of U. S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney where the dinner was held.

At dinner Montgomery sat with in talking range of Eisenhower. He placed in an honored seat just five feet across the table. What was said during the meal was not disclosed.

But Eisenhower was in high spirits and in no mood to raise past antagonisms.

He placed in an honored seat at his left Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke, who also has had a few criticisms of his wartime leadership. Alanbrooke was Britain's top commander during the war.

Field Marshal Earl Alexander, commander of Allied ground forces in North Africa and later in Italy during the war, sat at Eisenhower's right.

Wearing dinner jacket and black tie, the President greeted each of the 25 British guests at the door. The President put his hand under 81-year-old Sir Winston Churchill's elbow and led the party into a large foyer for a group picture.

When the photographers crowded around for a closeup, Macmillan seemed momentarily startled. But Eisenhower was amused and told the prime minister, "Now you can see the whites of their eyes."

The President then assisted Churchill to his feet and stood aside to let the aging statesman lead the way into the dining room. Whitney sat opposite the President with Churchill on the ambassador's right.

Pontiac Could Suffer Loss of Federal Funds facilities without federal help, Willman warned.

MAY UP DEADLINE

One solution Willman saw would have the state moving up the deadline for letting construction contracts from July 1, 1960 to sometime earlier next spring.

The present July 1 deadline set by the state conflicts with a May 1 deadline set by the federal government, Willman said.

If municipalities are to be eligible for federal aid next summer, they must have construction contracts signed by May 1, he explained.

"According to our present plans it looks as if we'll miss the federal deadline by three or more months, unless the state moves up its deadline," Willman said.

City officials tacitly do not plan to meet the state's deadline for letting contracts. They plan instead to let the deadline go by so that the state in turn can go to court and get legal authority to order the city to issue general obligation bonds to finance construction with out a vote of the people.

partment last spring approved the city's $3,300,000 expansion plan as sufficient to abate pollution, it recently indicated that more money would have to be spent.

"Pontiac's pollution problem is apparently worse than we suspected last spring," said Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner.

The official order stated that Pontiac's existing plant is inadequate for the heavy load it carries, with the result that it fails to treat all the city's sewage adequately.

The resultant pollution to the Clinton River is a health hazard and a public nuisance, the order said. The city is killing fish and plant life in the river, it asserted.

The time-table by which Pontiac was ordered to abate pollution contains these interim deadlines:

Dec. 1 of this year—approval of expansion plans by the State Health Department; July 1, 1960—letting of construction contracts; Dec. 31, 1961—completion of the new facilities.

County Cancer Unit Bolts ACS

Pledges Support to State Group in Wake of Suspension

The North Oakland County unit of the American Cancer Society today declared it has officially severed all connections with its mother organization.

It has instead pledged full support to the autonomous Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Local units concurred with the state organization in refusing to reconsider its stand on fund raising issues after being ousted from the ranks of the ACS July 21.

The society had revoked the Southeastern Michigan Division charter when the division defied a national edict forbidding participation in federated fund-raising campaigns.

The Southeastern Michigan Division has been an agency of the Pontiac area United Fund and the Avon Township Fund for the past several years.

Official confirmation of the split came last night when the Board of Trustees of the North Oakland County unit voted unanimously to stand with the Michigan Division Board in accepting revocation of the American Cancer Society charter.

"We believe that local option should be allowed in the matter of fund raising," says Dr. John J. Marra, president of the Oakland unit.

"Our yearly allotment received from the Pontiac area United Fund has always been generous and we wish to continue as a member of that agency."

Dr. John D. Monroe, director of the Oakland County Health Department and a trustee for the Michigan Cancer Foundation, said:

"As a member of the medical profession, I can only say that the change in name will make no difference whatsoever in the professional education afforded the doctors. Neither will it affect the splendid cooperation physicians in North Oakland provide in our cancer control program."

LOOK OUT CRIMINALS — For here comes Anthony F. Stiel, chief investigator for Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem, as he leaves Ziem's office to trace many of the criminal complaints which come into the office.

NEEDS COURT ORDER

Apparently, the city won't be in financial position to sign construction contracts until it is armed with a court order to issue bonds, since there are no plans at present to seek voter approval of bonds again.

But the court action may not be wrapped up until a couple months after the state deadline for construction contracts has passed.

This means that the state deadline may have to be moved up to as early as January in order to get the deck cleared legally in time to sign contracts by the federal government's deadline in May.

There was no mention of the deadline tangle last night when city commissioners accepted and filed the official state order for Pontiac to stop polluting the Clinton River.

The Commission accepted the order with almost no comment.

"Without a vote of the people approving construction bonds, we are certainly going to be in default of the order," said Willman.

He said next Tuesday's meeting in Lansing may give an indication of how much more than $3,300,000 the city will have to spend.

WILL COST MORE

Although the State Health Department last spring approved the city's $3,300,000 expansion plan as sufficient to abate pollution, it recently indicated that more money would have to be spent.

Lonely Deer Roams Somewhere in State

on the deer, administering first aid. A split was taped to his broken leg, and, after a time, Eudy became a frisky lovable pal to all the children in the community.

From that time on, the deer lived with the Bettis' inside the house, summer and winter. He was housebroken, gentlemanly, and the neighbors came to love the animal as much as the Bettis.

Friendly wagers were made that when spring came, the little buck deer would surely get the urge to go bounding out into the woods as all yearlings do. But Rudy again fooled his unbelievers by ignoring the call of spring. He continued to reside peacefully and contentedly at the Bettis'.

The Bettis family didn't know they were breaking the law when they took Rudy in. They presumed that as long as the deer acted friendly and neighbors did not complain it was all right to keep him.

Peels Eye for Crooks and Baseball Players

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL Jr.

If he's not out rounding up bad check passers, Anthony F. Stiel has his eyes peeled for some young ball players in this area who might someday provide the spark the Detroit Tigers need.

The 32-year-old chief investigator for Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem doubles as a scout for the Tigers in his spare time. He's assigned to police Pontiac sandlots for prospects.

But his real police work aids in corraling characters that not even the Bengals would have on their team. Tony goes into action anytime Ziem or any of his assistants need some sort of investigation before a criminal warrant is issued.

Bad checks seem to be keeping the former Birmingham, Sylvan Lake, and Orchard Lake policeman the busiest. Added to his itinerary are cases ranging from simple assault to brutal murder.

However busy Tony is kept he still manages to keep up with baseball doings. "I'll never lose my love for the game," Tony says.

Because of an arm injury he received on a double play collision while a shortstop on a farm team in 1948, Tony's playing days are over. But the know-how of the game is still his. He just coaches his Knights of Columbus team to championship of Pontiac's Class A League.

As his minor league experience carried him to teams in Wausau, Wis., Pine Bluff, Ark., and Muskogee, his $5,500 job as sleuth for Ziem's office keeps him on the move across the country after criminals wanted on numerous charges in Oakland County.

To get Tony's crewcut ruffled just call him a "sleuth" or "private eye." "That's for the television people not me," he'll respond.

Stiel, the father of six children, ages 8 months to 10 years, has been around lawyers so long that the field has rubbed off on him. He's currently attending University of Detroit night school working toward a philosophy degree. Some day he hopes to get his law degree, he said.

While most of the office's assistant prosecutors get the headlines, Tony is usually right in the thick of things. That's the type of job he has.

His most memorable case? "I'll never forget the Kierdorf case last year," he answered with out hesitation. He worked 196 over-time hours, he said, trying to solve the mysterious fatal burning of the Flint Teamster.

There's one facet of the case Tony would like to forget. He was the one assigned to the Willow Run Airport on the night that Herman Kierdorf supposedly was going there to meet his wife, but instead disappeared for 13 days.

"I felt sort of lost out there," Tony recalls.

Although he missed "Uncle" Herman, now in prison, that night, the chief investigator did nab Charles Oertel off a Pontiac baseball squad and got him signed with the Baltimore Orioles, the first major league team, he scouted for. Oertel, now with Miami of the International League, was Stiel's first find.

Another memorable event — to him and probably not to the lady he stopped — occurred when a Birmingham patrolman he issued the first ticket in Michigan under the radar speed control system.

Tony, who makes his home with his wife and children at 195 Draper Ave., likes nothing better than a bull-session over baseball. The sports pages are his first target when he gets his Pontiac Press.

However, his job and coaching side line don't prevent Stiel from seeing the Tigers play in Detroit. Like others, he doesn't see this year as being a bright year for the home team.

At home he does manage a peek once and awhile at some of television's who-done-its. He says if any get near portraying the real life of a detective or investigator, Joe Friday on "Dragnet" is "probably the closest."

"My job but without the dum-dum-dum," the three-year veteran in Ziem's office joked.

Scott-Union Case Hits Technicality

representing the International, attempted to explain this questionable section. Judge Beer said:

"All the by-laws should be given their simple plain English meaning and nothing else."

The section states that Union members convicted of violating any part of the constitution shall be fined the first time, and if convicted more than twice for the same offense, shall be suspended.

Under questioning by Judge Beer, Siegel and Sachs admitted that Scott was guilty of but one offense.

Yet the 33-year-old former officer of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 was booted out because the Union supposedly found him guilty of "dual-unionism" in that he once was a lobbyist for the rival State Barbers Association, Inc.

SEEKS REINSTATEMENT

Scott claimed yesterday that Elmer Albrecht, secretary-treasurer of Local 352, and one of the officers being sued, was now trying to "force me out" as treasurer of the State Board of Examiners of Barbers, his present position.

Sitting yesterday with Albrecht and other Union officers was Matthew B. Hammond of Berkley, former vice president of the old county CIO Council.

He said Scott should be removed from the state board because of his attempts to destroy unionism by organizing the rival association.

Scott seeks reinstatement in the AFL-CIO Union, and $150,000 damages.

In an attempt to iron out differences over the section of the constitution, the judge called all attorneys into his chambers. They came out 20 minutes later and the judge announced the trial was recessed until 9 a.m. Thursday.

All four attorneys said they agreed not to tell the press what went on in the chambers, although one said new motions might be made when the trial resumes.

The Day in Birmingham Local Architect Enters WHO Design Competition

BIRMINGHAM — World-famous architect Eero Saarinen of 91 West Long Lake Rd., Bloomfield Hills, is one of 15 architects from 13 countries chosen to submit designs for a new World Health Organization headquarters building.

The 15 who will enter the competition are from Italy, the Netherlands, France, Switzerland, Finland, Brazil, Japan, England, the Federal Republic of Germany, Denmark, and the U.S.S.R. and the United States.

The other architect from America is Hugh Stubbins of Cambridge, Mass.

The invitation to enter the competition was issued by Dr. M. G. Candau, director-general of WHO. The executive board of the health organization named five international architectural experts to select the architects or firms of architects to submit building designs.

A jury of seven outstanding architects and WHO officials will choose the winning design next year.

Health organization officials said WHO's present headquarters in the Palais des Nations in Geneva are inadequate. They have already had to move some of their services to 80 offices outside the Palais.

Approval of the new headquarters must be voted upon by the 15th world health assembly when it meets next year in Geneva. If approved, WHO hopes to have the new headquarters ready within the next two or three years, Dr. Candau said.

The site will be donated by the Swiss Confederation and the Republic and Canton of Geneva.

Due to Labor Day, the next meeting of the Birmingham City Commission has been postponed until Sept. 8.

Jack Sanders of 1415 Epping Lane, Bloomfield Hills, attended the 10th course in Industry Defense and Mobilization held recently at the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization Staff College in Battle Creek.

Sanders was a member of a group of 78 executives, civil defense coordinators, military officers, safety inspectors, industrial specialists and plant managers taking the course.

He is secretary and assistant sales manager of Fred Sanders Confectioners, Detroit.

The course served as a forum and clearing house of information on emergency planning, disaster control and civil defense preparedness for industries, plants and factories.

The course, sponsored by the OGD, was the third given this year. A similar course is scheduled for Nov. 16-20.

Mrs. Eugenie O. McKie

Service for Mrs. Eugenie O. McKie, 86, of 238 Townsend St. will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday from the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery in Detroit.

Mrs. McKie died Monday at Grove Crest Manor Convalescent Home following a short illness.

Sole survivor is a great niece Mrs. Wayne Andreae of Birmingham.

The Rev. Robert DeWitt, pastor of Christ Church Cranbrook, will officiate at the service.

Paris Jammed to Welcome Ike

De Gaulle at Airport; Begin Talks in Warm, Friendly Atmosphere

PARIS (AP)—President Eisenhower made a happy and triumphant entry into Paris today, riding beside his war-time comrade, Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Packed crowds jammed the center of the city, cheering, as the World War II leaders drove past in an open car on their way to conferences crucial to the Western alliance.

It was a greeting reminiscent of the day in 1944 when Eisenhower was cheered as liberator of Paris. Unofficial estimates put the crowd at half a million or more. Officials and newsmen said the turnout appeared greater than the one for Eisenhower's arrival in London.

Eisenhower is the first American president to pay a state visit to France since Woodrow Wilson came after World War I.

From the moment of their reunion at the airport, Eisenhower and De Gaulle exchanged warm and animated conversation although each is awkward in the other's language.

They got down to business just after noon at a luncheon conference at De Gaulle's Elysee Palace.

The conference began in a "good and encouraging atmosphere."

Both men described the first talks in that manner. White House press secretary James Hagerty said.

Hagerty said "it would be safe to assume" that the problems of Algeria and NATO would come up during the talks.

PART OF PROTEST

Noreen said photostatic copies of the 10 transactions in question, amounting to $225 in sales tax, were being made as part of a protest on Adams' ruling.

Arnold K. Jerome, president of the Pontiac Automotive Trade Assn., said he hadn't heard of any such complaints yet.

Henry E. Gotham, president of the Pontiac Retail Store, said his office was adding a line on all bills of sale saying the added one per cent was being paid under protest in case the Supreme Court declares it unconstitutional.

Noreen emphasized that it wasn't this possibility that angered him, but rather having to pay the new rate on sales enacted before the four per cent went into effect.

County Cancer Unit Bolts ACS

Official confirmation of the split came last night when the Board of Trustees of the North Oakland County unit voted unanimously to stand with the Michigan Division Board in accepting revocation of the American Cancer Society charter.

"We believe that local option should be allowed in the matter of fund raising," says Dr. John J. Marra, president of the Oakland unit.

"Our yearly allotment received from the Pontiac area United Fund has always been generous and we wish to continue as a member of that agency."

Dr. John D. Monroe, director of the Oakland County Health Department and a trustee for the Michigan Cancer Foundation, said:

"As a member of the medical profession, I can only say that the change in name will make no difference whatsoever in the professional education afforded the doctors. Neither will it affect the splendid cooperation physicians in North Oakland provide in our cancer control program."

on the deer, administering first aid. A split was taped to his broken leg, and, after a time, Eudy became a frisky lovable pal to all the children in the community.

From that time on, the deer lived with the Bettis' inside the house, summer and winter. He was housebroken, gentlemanly, and the neighbors came to love the animal as much as the Bettis.

Friendly wagers were made that when spring came, the little buck deer would surely get the urge to go bounding out into the woods as all yearlings do. But Rudy again fooled his unbelievers by ignoring the call of spring. He continued to reside peacefully and contentedly at the Bettis'.

The Bettis family didn't know they were breaking the law when they took Rudy in. They presumed that as long as the deer acted friendly and neighbors did not complain it was all right to keep him.

Peels Eye for Crooks and Baseball Players

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL Jr.

If he's not out rounding up bad check passers, Anthony F. Stiel has his eyes peeled for some young ball players in this area who might someday provide the spark the Detroit Tigers need.

The 32-year-old chief investigator for Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem doubles as a scout for the Tigers in his spare time. He's assigned to police Pontiac sandlots for prospects.

But his real police work aids in corraling characters that not even the Bengals would have on their team. Tony goes into action anytime Ziem or any of his assistants need some sort of investigation before a criminal warrant is issued.

Bad checks seem to be keeping the former Birmingham, Sylvan Lake, and Orchard Lake policeman the busiest. Added to his itinerary are cases ranging from simple assault to brutal murder.

However busy Tony is kept he still manages to keep up with baseball doings. "I'll never lose my love for the game," Tony says.

Because of an arm injury he received on a double play collision while a shortstop on a farm team in 1948, Tony's playing days are over. But the know-how of the game is still his. He just coaches his Knights of Columbus team to championship of Pontiac's Class A League.

As his minor league experience carried him to teams in Wausau, Wis., Pine Bluff, Ark., and Muskogee, his $5,500 job as sleuth for Ziem's office keeps him on the move across the country after criminals wanted on numerous charges in Oakland County.

To get Tony's crewcut ruffled just call him a "sleuth" or "private eye." "That's for the television people not me," he'll respond.

Stiel, the father of six children, ages 8 months to 10 years, has been around lawyers so long that the field has rubbed off on him. He's currently attending University of Detroit night school working toward a philosophy degree. Some day he hopes to get his law degree, he said.

While most of the office's assistant prosecutors get the headlines, Tony is usually right in the thick of things. That's the type of job he has.

His most memorable case? "I'll never forget the Kierdorf case last year," he answered with out hesitation. He worked 196 over-time hours, he said, trying to solve the mysterious fatal burning of the Flint Teamster.

There's one facet of the case Tony would like to forget. He was the one assigned to the Willow Run Airport on the night that Herman Kierdorf supposedly was going there to meet his wife, but instead disappeared for 13 days.

"I felt sort of lost out there," Tony recalls.

Although he missed "Uncle" Herman, now in prison, that night, the chief investigator did nab Charles Oertel off a Pontiac baseball squad and got him signed with the Baltimore Orioles, the first major league team, he scouted for. Oertel, now with Miami of the International League, was Stiel's first find.

Another memorable event — to him and probably not to the lady he stopped — occurred when a Birmingham patrolman he is-

The section states that Union members convicted of violating any part of the constitution shall be fined the first time, and if convicted more than twice for the same offense, shall be suspended.

Under questioning by Judge Beer, Siegel and Sachs admitted that Scott was guilty of but one offense.

Yet the 33-year-old former officer of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 was booted out because the Union supposedly found him guilty of "dual-unionism" in that he once was a lobbyist for the rival State Barbers Association, Inc.

Scott claimed yesterday that Elmer Albrecht, secretary-treasurer of Local 352, and one of the officers being sued, was now trying to "force me out" as treasurer of the State Board of Examiners of Barbers, his present position.

Sitting yesterday with Albrecht and other Union officers was Matthew B. Hammond of Berkley, former vice president of the old county CIO Council.

He said Scott should be removed from the state board because of his attempts to destroy unionism by organizing the rival association.

Scott seeks reinstatement in the AFL-CIO Union, and $150,000 damages.

In an attempt to iron out differences over the section of the constitution, the judge called all attorneys into his chambers. They came out 20 minutes later and the judge announced the trial was recessed until 9 a.m. Thursday.

All four attorneys said they agreed not to tell the press what went on in the chambers, although one said new motions might be made when the trial resumes.

County Clerk Hits Apathy

Oakland County may run out of jurors before the upcoming jury terms in Circuit Court are through — and at a time when the court is faced with a heavy load of criminal and civil cases.

The fault lies with Mr. and Mrs. Citizen, said Daniel T. Murphy Jr., county clerk-registrar.

Murphy, who is preparing to draw names Thursday for the first term beginning Sept. 22, said some 350 citizens mailed prospective juror questionnaires have not returned them.

"Many of these people apparently don't think much of their responsibility as citizens in seeing that justice in our courts is fair," Murphy said.

He was equally critical of some unnamed city clerks who have faltered in their duties of sending in four names of possible jurors for each voting precinct in their city.

The young Republican county official evaluated the serious situation as some attorneys continued to protest jury panels which they charged each year are full of so-called "professional jurors" — or those that come back time and time again even though the law specifies that jurors can serve only every two years.

"We're only following the law," Murphy said. "And our job is made that much more difficult when we don't get our full quota

Heavy rains flooded southeast Michigan through the night and morning hours, flooding basements and again halting traffic on Detroit's two main expressways.

underpasses on the John Lodge and Edsel Ford Expressways, forcing cars to a stop. Some motorists climbed to their car roofs in fear of being flooded.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the showers were touched off by a low pressure system moving across the state. Rainfall ranged from .6 inch at Detroit Metropolitan Airport up to three inches in other areas. The rains were expected to continue intermittently through Thursday morning.

Detroit police got more than 200 calls about flooded basements.

Roads in Allen Park, River Rouge, Ecorse, Taylor Township, Dearborn and Highland Park were flooded but the water drained off when the rain stopped.

The Lodge and Ford Expressways were snarled with water debris and mud. At one time police said up to 3.0 cars were trapped on the two roads. However, the Lodge Expressway was open its full length to both north and south bound traffic this morning.

Rain kept a soggy grip on much of the Eastern two-thirds of the country Wednesday. The West continued to bask in fair weather.

Showers and thunderstorms east from Texas hit in wake of violent storms which battered parts of the area Tuesday and Tuesday night.

Wet spots were scattered all along the Mississippi River and west through parts of central Missouri into Oklahoma and central Texas. There was more rain in the early morning from the Lower Great Lakes southeastward.

dictation from Sen. Frank D. Beach (R-St. Clair). GOP Senate majority leaders, that the Legislature would wind up its marathon session when it reconvenes.

Lawmakers probably will take care of matters left hanging when they adjourned last Saturday until Sept. 16.

After that they may recess until the court hands down its tax decision, he said.

Effective date of many new laws which can't go into operation until 30 days after the Legislature adjourns would be set back as a result.

The Supreme Court dominated by Democrats, thus was confronted with one of the most important and eagerly awaited decisions in its history. No decision is expected before late October.

COLLECTING TAX

Merchants across the state started collecting what amounts to a four cent sales tax yesterday and will continue to do so unless the court orders otherwise.

Officials in the State Revenue Department, a defendant in the suit, waited uneasily for the decision.

Should the new tax be tossed out, the department would be forced to revert immediately to the old sales tax system, scrap revised forms and possibly handle thousands of requests from consumers for refunds.

Clarence W. Lock, deputy state revenue commissioner, said taxpayers who keep receipts of taxes paid probably would be able to recover them.

They 'Disappeared' 207 Years Ago Today 11 'Lost' Days Foul Up Calendar

By WARD CANNEL
NEW YORK (NEA) — Comes presently the strangest anniversary in the history of this country — and all of civilization. So strange, in fact, that there is neither a way to remember it nor a way to forget.

For between Sept. 2 and Sept. 14 in the year 1752 not one American child was born and not one sparrow fell.

Not a breath, not a sunrise, not a mealtime, bedtime or tomorrow during these days that vanished while time stood still.

And while it can all be explained by simple addition, it is still the kind of mess that makes philosophers, millionaires and neurotics — in short, civilized man.

Now, it makes things a lot easier to begin the story 2,637 years ago in Rome, a bustling little town that operated on a 10-month year — 304 days long.

But it soon became obvious that spring was arriving earlier and earlier each year. So two new months were added, bringing the total year to 355 days. An extra month was used in alternate years to keep spring in line and increase taxes, rents and interest payments.

But by the time Julius Caesar assumed power six centuries later, time and the seasons were out of joint again. Caesar hired an Egyptian astronomer to make the necessary adjustments.

His first year was 441 days long. All succeeding years were 365 days long with an added day every fourth year. It worked as long as Caesar lived. But after his death the tax assessors found it more profitable to have leap year every third year.

Consequently, the leap years between 8 B.C. and 8 A.D. were abolished by decree and things went back to their normal — and wrong — course: for Julius Caesar's Egyptian astronomer had miscalculated the year by .0078 of a day.

And within a thousand years the first day of spring dawned on March 15 — and would eventually have dawned on Christmas if nothing had been done about it.

And so, promptly 500 years later, Pope Gregory XIII called the council of Trent where interested parties and astronomers cleared the air with the order that the day after Thursday, October 4, 1582, would be Friday, October 15, 1582. That took care of the lost time. And to rectify the original miscalculation of .0078 of a day, Gregory ordered that no century year could be a leap year unless it were divisible by 400—1,600, 2,000, 2,400.

But sophisticated politics being what they are, England did not attend Gregory's Council of Trent. And for 170 years London, and then Boston and New York, tagged along 10 days behind everybody else. By the time they got around to changing their calendars, they had lost another day.

So this country has no history between Sept. 2 and Sept. 14, 1752. You can see right away what this does to George Washington.

If you celebrate his birthday on Feb. 11, the actual date of his birth, you are 11 days off. If you add the necessary days and come to February 22, you are actually celebrating the date when he was 11 days old.

And that is a rather peculiar custom. And so is getting to Europe in seven hours by plane; or to Moscow in 22 minutes by missile; or to the moon at all. It wastes an awful lot of money and time.

National Debt Hits $290 Million

Expect Figure to Climb Near Legal Limit by Mid-December

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury said Tuesday the national debt now exceeds 290 billion dollars.

The debt passed that mark last Thursday but, because of a lag in gathering such statistics, this wasn't determined until yesterday.

As of Thursday, the gross public debt was $290,306,000,000. The portion subject to the legal ceiling was $289,890,000,000. A part of the debt, made up largely of obligations incurred before World War I, is not subject to the legal limit.

Treasury officials expected the debt to continue climbing until mid-December, when it will approach the temporary legal ceiling of 295 billions.

The debt normally increases between July and December because this is a period of lean tax collections.

State Tax on Sales Hits Record

LANSING (AP) — Michigan chalked up the highest sales and use tax collections in history last month, State Revenue Commissioner Louis M. Nims reported today.

The two levies, considered a good indicator of business activity, brought $28,969,000 for the month, a reflection of improving economic conditions in Michigan.

"This looks pretty good," said Nims "in five of the eight months this calendar year we have had collections the highest ever reported for these months."

Nims said motor vehicle sales for 1½ million dollars of last month's increase, retail sales the rest.

August collections last year totaled $25,257,000.

Civil Rights Bill Still in Doubt

Threatens to Hold Up Congress' Hope to Quit by Sept. 12

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate action on civil rights legislation appeared today to be posing the biggest threat to an adjournment of Congress next week.

Party leaders gave every sign of confidence that a half dozen other vexing issues can be compromised before a prospective Sept. 12 quitting date. But the fate of politically explosive civil rights proposals remained in doubt.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican leader, forecast Senate passage of what he called a "skeletonized" bill against which Southern Democratic opponents might complain loudly but not at such great length as to delay adjournment.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas obviously was not quite so hopeful. But he has told associates he expects motions to be made to bring the civil rights issue before the Senate and hopes that some legislation can be passed.

Dirksen said he hopes a bill can be passed continuing the life of the Civil Rights Commission, directing the preservation of voting records, providing for federal schooling of children of service personnel where classrooms are closed to avoid integration and making it a federal offense to cross a state line to escape prosecution for a bombing.

Southerners might be willing to accept all but the school provision without a last-ditch fight. They have made it clear they will battle to the end any mention of school integration in such legislation.

Pilots Will Watch TV as They Fly

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A television screen may replace the instrument panel in the airplane of the future, delegates to the Army-Navy instrumentation symposium were told Tuesday.

Douglas Aircraft Co. of Los Angeles has two such devices among displays at the symposium.

One being built for the Navy's A2F jet fighter has an upper screen showing what looks like a highway. The pilot follows the hills and curves on the simulated highway to stay on course. A lower screen shows a time airplane moving across a map, allowing the pilot to check his position at any time.

A second cockpit features a glass screen on which is projected a picture of the horizon and the earth. The pilot can follow the picture even in zero visibility.

Douglas' chief equipment engineer, A. M. Mayo, said the second cockpit will be operational in the mid 1960s.

Tries Another Action to Save Sight, Life

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Charlene Butts, 41, is trying in another court action to obtain consent for a brain operation that may save her life.

Her attorneys petitioned Wyandotte County Probate Court Tuesday for appointment of a guardian for the girl.

A guardian could authorize the surgery. Physicians say the girl has a tumor that will make her blind in two years and take her life in four or five years.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butts of Oswego, Kan., have refused to consent to the operation. Mrs. Butts declined to say why. Charlene has said they are opposed to the operation because a masseur who examined her said surgery wasn't necessary.

Boy Calls Police to Settle Dispute, Gets Bet, Lecture

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—"Is it against the law to shoot birds with slingshots in the city?" a youthful voice asked police dispatcher Jerry Mathis.

Mathis said it was.

"That's what I thought," the caller said. "I won a 50-cent bet."

"Did anyone ever tell you it's against the law to gamble, too?" Mathis asked.

The caller hung up.

Ask a Stupid Question and Get Court Laughter

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Dignity disappeared quickly in Municipal Court Tuesday when a defense attorney asked a question.

Judge Cecil Edwards, court officials, witnesses and spectators roared when the attorney asked his client "What color was the red light when you went through it?"

A DOG'S LIFE.—Contemplating a 90-day stay in his master's bomb shelter, three-month-old puppy Teddy fails to be interested in a game of ball by Mark Reichert, 4, and the boy's father, of Battle Creek. Reichert has housed the pet in his giant $35,000 shelter since he was sentenced to pay $250 costs and spend 90 days on probation for allowing the puppy to run at large.

Master Disgusted With Court Puts Pup in $35,000 Dog House

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—Taddy, a three-month-old puppy, is going to live in a $35,000 dog house.

His home for the next three months will be a 20 by 40 foot underground bomb shelter. Teddy was excited to the shelter by his owner, Earl W. Reichert, president of a steel fabricating and construction company.

Reichert was fined $25.00 and placed on three-month probation after pleading guilty to permitting Teddy to run loose. The law says dogs must be kept on the owner's premises.

"I only pleaded guilty because I heard the guy in front of me get a fine of $5," Reichert said. "I thought to myself, why fight it for $5? I later found out the fine was for a different offense."

Reichert later complained to the city commission about the questions he said his probation officer asked him.

"I wound up in a probation office with some guy asking me my mother's maiden name, how much I make and if I ever had a venereal disease," he said.

Court officials said they were working on a simplified questionnaire for probationers such as Reichert.

Reichert built the expensive bomb shelter as a protection for his family in case of an enemy attack.

"It is living insurance," he said. "Now it is insurance to keep me out of jail as a probation violator. Teddy is going to stay there at least for the next three months—except when he is out on a leash."

Many Hit for Drunkenness

Fifty-Five in County Lose Right to Drive

Fifty-five Oakland County persons had their driver's licenses revoked or suspended during the past week, according to the Michigan Secretary of State's Office.

Ordered to furnish financial responsibility for revocation of license for driving records for reexamination.

Others losing their licenses were Roy W. Newton, 101 Mechanic St., Pontiac, and William H. Thompson, 1910 Austin Dr., Walling Lake, both for unsatisfactory driving records and failure to appear for reexamination.

Ordered to furnish financial responsibility for drunk driving and unsatisfactory judgment were Vernon C. Vorce, 214 St. Clair Street, Pontiac.

Walter L. Rubel, 105 Iva St., Walling Lake, and George J. Waggoner, 13211 10-Mile Rd., Oak Park, had their licenses revoked for driving with a suspended license.

Also losing the right to drive was Robert K. McIntosh, 4791 Westwood St., Royal Oak, for violation of license restrictions.

Edward W. Newton, 101 Mechanic St., Pontiac, and William H. Thompson, 1910 Austin Dr., Walling Lake, both for unsatisfactory driving records and failure to appear for reexamination.

Attempt to Escape Havana Prison Fails

HAVANA (AP)—An attempt by an unspecified number of convicts to break out of Havana's Principe Prison during a rainstorm yesterday was frustrated by guards.

Sounds of firing from the prison yesterday, combined with the imposition of extreme security precautions on the neighborhood, gave rise to a belief that at least some prisoners had escaped.

Warden Jose L. Gallo said how ever, that a roll call last night confirmed that all of the prison's inmates were in their cells.

Son in Camp Mails What Mother Requests

FELLHOLD, N. J. (AP)—When Douglas Holden, 10, went to camp his mother wanted to make sure he heard from him—so she gave him a stamped addressed envelope and inserted a blank sheet of paper.

Tuesday Mrs. Holden got the envelope. Inside was the blank sheet of paper.

That Bond Interest Bill . . . and Foreign Aid Ike Threatens Congress of Extra Session

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has told Republican leaders he may call Congress back into special session this fall if it fails to lift the interest ceiling on government bonds.

The President also has made it clear to the party chieftains he will consider such a session call if Congress cuts foreign aid funds below what he regards as a minimum level for national security.

The possibility of presidential action came to light as leaders of both parties gave up hope of winding up the current session this week.

Democratic strategists were setting Sept. 12 as the earliest possible date for an adjournment—without any action on the interest rate issue. Republicans were saying that Congress may still be in session when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrives Sept. 15.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois took pains Monday to squash a proposal by Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) that Congress recess before Khrushchev's arrival and come back in October.

Eisenhower's concern over the interest rate matter was emphasized when Treasury officials urged Chairman Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) of the Senate Finance Committee to seek action to lift the ceiling.

Because the House originates such bills, Byrd has felt his hands are tied. He could offer the proposal as an amendment to a House-passed bill but there is almost no chance the House would accept it.

Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson apparently is hopeful Congress eventually will agree to take the interest ceiling off all government bonds. Savings bonds pay 3½ per cent. The present limit on bonds maturing after five years is 4½ per cent. These are too low to attract heavy investments, and the Treasury is forced to pay higher rates on short-term borrowing.

Violation-Prone Drivers to Get Lectures From State Officials

LANSING (U) — Thousands of "violation-prone" motorists will be called in for lectures by state safety experts under a new campaign to cut down on mounting highway fatalities and accidents.

Secretary of State James M. Hare will outline the program today to the state safety commission, which he heads.

"We've got to do something," he said. "State Police report 254 persons have died in traffic accidents in Michigan since the first of the year. That's 34 more than in the same period last year."

Starting this month, drivers who have chalked up nine, 10 or 11 points under a point system for weeding out bad drivers will be called in for lectures. A 12-point motorist is called in automatically for an interview which may lead to suspension or revocation of his operator's license.

Hare said early hearings probably will be scheduled in Detroit, Lansing, Grand Rapids, Flint and Saginaw. Later, they will be held in other areas.

Errant drivers probably will be called in groups of 30 to 40 to be told about the purpose of the state's driver improvement program, operation of the point system, the state's deteriorating traffic fatality picture, and drivers' rights and obligations under the law.

Hare warned that three points will be added automatically to the driver's record if he fails to show up for the mass interview.

Conviction on a charge of reckless driving is one of the violations that brings a six-point penalty. Three-point penalties include failure to stop for a school bus, drag-racing, disregarding a red light and others.

"It is our belief that if we bring the packaged story of what we are trying to do in our cooperative, educational, engineering and enforcement program to violation-prone drivers who are on the brink of being grounded, they will see the wisdom of improving their driving habits before they reach the suspension and revocation level."

The state's traffic safety drive, launched in 1955, has cut Michigan's highway death toll from more than 2,000 four years ago to under 1,350 last year.

One Dead, Four Injured, Near Port Huron

Reporter Witnesses Bloody 2-Car Crash

(John Brown, police reporter for the Port Huron Times Herald, is on vacation. His vacation was ended Monday when he witnessed a fatal accident near Port Huron. Here is his account of the accident.)
 By JOHN BROWN
 Port Huron Times Herald
 PORT HURON, Mich.—I was driving west on M21 about 16 miles from Port Huron near the M21 and M19 intersection Monday when a 1957 auto with three occupants in it passed our car at high speed.

We were driving at 50 miles an hour . . . I know because my young cousin, an 11-year-old, said, "See, look at how fast that guy is going." I then checked my speedometer.

 Seconds after the car passed us we heard the screech of tires and a terrible collision. A sudden cloud of dust obscured the intersection in front of us.

I saw the body of a woman come flying out of one of the cars.
 We pulled to the side of the road.

When the dust cleared, five bodies were strewn over the highway shoulder and ditch near the point of collision.

Other motorists had stopped and were rushing to the scene to give what help could be given.

SILENT ONE WAS DEAD

Both cars were smoldering from the impact. A gas station attendant with a fire extinguisher washed down the steaming and smoking engines on both cars.

The injured moaned and screamed as blood ran from their wounds.

All but one begged for help. The silent one was dead.

He was later identified as Fred H. Wobig, 71, Port Austin. Wobig was in his car with his wife, Cecilia, who was taken to Yale Community Hospital in critical condition.

The driver of the other car was the Rev. Simon Terpstra, 38, Fruitland, Ont., who was stretched out a few feet from his car.

Two passengers in his car, William Dowsatt, 20, Ottawa, and Owen G. Sharp, 21, Aimer, Quebec, were on the ground close by. They were all taken to Yale Hospital.

The Wobigs were driving to Detroit to spend the day and Terpstra was driving his two passengers to Flint at the time of the accident.

The crowd that gathered numbered about 75.

Cars lined both sides of the highway as an unidentified man stood in the middle of the highway and frantically tried to direct traffic away from the injured.

The sheriff's department was notified and ambulances were summoned.

The injured were covered with blankets and coats as they lay helpless.

AMBULANCES SPEED IN

Women who gathered at the scene to get a glimpse of what happened wept for the injured.

Moments after the injured had been given blankets the sound of the ambulance sirens could be heard in the distance speeding to the scene.

The seriously injured were placed into ambulances first and sped to the hospital.

For one, help had come too late . . . ambulance attendants covered his body with a blanket and turned to the next victim.

A few of us were still standing near one of the guard posts that had been knocked down in the accident . . . A pair of broken glasses from one of the victims lay at the base of the post.

A car driving down the highway pulled over and asked one of the persons standing near the wreckage scene what had happened. He replied: "Death was here a few minutes ago."

Sailors Brew Up Names?

MIDDLETOWN, R.I. (AP)—The town council held a hearing Friday night on charges that a local bar served beer to two minor sailors on July 4. The sailors were Rodney Brewer and Reid Tippler.

Motorist Really Takes Number of Bus Driver

LONDON (UPI)—An irate motorist really meant it when he told the driver of a bus "I'll take your number!" during an argument over the right-of-way.

The bus driver, said the motorist, wrenched the metal plate showing the bus's route number and the driver's number from the bus and drove away.

'Institutionalized Child' Topic

Tells Girls' Needs

The "Institutionalized Child," was Mrs. Thomas C. Smith's topic at the opening meeting of Opti-Mrs. Club held Tuesday evening at the Ottawa drive home of Mrs. Richard Wolfe, treasurer.

Mrs. Smith, girls head supervisor at Oakland County Youth Home and Children's Center, emphasized the problems and needs of teenage girls, most of them from broken homes, who live at the home.

Volunteer workers are always needed at the home as well as donations of clothing, cosmetics and small luxuries which are taken for granted in many families, Mrs. Smith said.

Program chairman Mrs. Roland Smith introduced the speaker and Mrs. Harold Davis, new club president, conducted the meeting.

Other new officers are Mrs. Roland Smith, first vice president.

Nothing looks quite as dejected as a once handsome cashmere sweater that has lost its shape. Hot water and generally bad laundering habits may cause it to look older than its years, but hold on, don't despair for it may still be possible to "stretch out" months of wear.

A spool of elastic thread and a large-eyed needle will provide a simple and inexpensive method of increasing the sweater's longevity. Here's how you do it.

Turn the sweater inside out, and blind-stitch several rows of elastic thread around the cuffs, spacing rows as necessary.

Mrs. Orrin Huntton, second vice president; Mrs. Ray Brash, secretary; and Mrs. Wolfe, treasurer.

Mrs. Leon Bigg and Mrs. Charles Manz were co-hostesses.

Teenage Chorale Returns After Good Will Concert Tour of Europe

The Michigan Chorale — one hundred teenage singers — returned to Detroit Tuesday after a good will concert tour in Europe. They will be presented in a concert in Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor Sept. 13 at 3 p.m.

Local members of the chorale include Marilyn Vernon of Pontiac; Larry Erdman and Gwen Fett of Birmingham; Dennis Garrels and Kathryn Olmstead of Orchard Lake, and Shawnee Smith of Birmingham.

The Michigan Chorale, conducted by Lester McCoy of the University Musical Society, began its overseas itinerary June 24 with a ten-day stay in northern Ireland where they received enthusiastic receptions in Belfast, Bangor, Ballymena and Coleraine.

They then toured England singing in Keswick and Royal Tunbridge Wells. Concerts followed in Stolberg, Germany, and in Paris where they performed at the American Cathedral — and in Amsterdam. Concerts followed in Berlin, Denmark, Sweden, Finland and Norway.

The concert Sept. 13 will be sponsored by the University Musical Society of the University of Michigan in cooperation with the Michigan Council of Churches, sponsor of the Michigan Chorale in the Youth for Understanding Teenage Exchange Program.

Forty communities of southern Michigan are represented by chorale members. The concert in Ann Arbor will be their only post-European tour concert.

The ALCW will hold a fellowship dinner for all members and friends of the congregation Sept. 24. Guests Tuesday evening were Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. J. A. Brown of Waterford and Mrs. Ryden of Pontiac.

Karen Elisabeth Yeager was married to Keith Weston Barker Saturday evening at First Baptist Church in a ceremony witnessed by 300 guests.

MRS. KEITH W. BARKER

300 Witness Marriage at First Baptist Church

Karen Elisabeth Yeager and Keith Weston Barker were married Saturday evening at First Baptist Church. Dr. H. H. Savage officiated at the ceremony before 300 guests.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Reinold Yeager of East Howard street and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon E. Barker of Osage, Iowa.

The bride wore a dress of imported silk organza with a Sabrina neckline and a Chantilly lace bodice scattered with sequins and pearls. A lace panel formed the chapel length train and a Juliet cap accented with pearls and sequins held her finger-tip veil. Her headpiece and veil were scalloped like the neckline of her gown and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis and white roses centered by a white orchid.

Judith Yeager was her sister's maid of honor. Kathleen Yeager was bridesmaid and Martha Yeager was junior bridesmaid. Both are sisters of the bride.

They wore dresses of white embroidered nylon over cascade pink taffeta slips and featured scalloped necklines and hemlines with pink taffeta cummerbunds. They also wore identical pink taffeta picture hats and carried double ring arrangements of pink sweetheart roses.

Larry Barker of St. Paul served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Leigh Barker of Osage, another of the bridegroom's brothers; Richard Brandt of Flint; Jerry Holzman of Detroit; Junior Heikes of Wheaton, Ill.; and Delmar Ryan of Osage. Junior groom-man was David Yeager of Royal Oak.

A reception was held in the church parlors.

Versatility for Tableware

A combination of elegance and convenience is what the American housewife wants in her tableware. She is still in love with fine old-fashioned china for company and special family occasions, but likes earthenware.

pottery and plastic for in-between use.

Many women like to mix-and-match odd pieces to add color and variety to the table, while others like the idea of three or more sets of different kinds of dishes for every possible use. One thing is clear: the ladies want more dishes, budget permitting.

Nerves Trigger Migraine

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It has been estimated that from eight to 10 million people in the United States alone suffer from migraine headaches and that there are that many or more who are troubled by "migraine variants."

According to doctors this type headache is easiest to diagnose. Before the onset of pain there usually are disturbances in vision such as flashing lights and blind spots.

When the pain comes it is severe and on only one side of the head. Nausea may be present and the pain may spread to a larger portion of the head.

It seems certain that temperament and emotions play an important part in such headaches. Migraine victims usually are driving, ambitious, tense people, who cannot relax. They often are perfectionists. In some instances feelings of inadequacy drive them on to far overextend themselves.

Many severe headaches which do not respond to the drugstore type pain killer come from tension and may or may not belong to the migraine family. Doctor Arnold P. Friedman, director of the Headache Clinic at Montefiore Hospital, New York City, coined the term "tension headaches." This is the type most often seen by physicians.

Sometimes this is called "nervous headache." Both of these terms reflect emotional conflicts. If the stress is prolonged, the tension headache may merge with the migraine. Many of these headache-prone folks are far above average in energy and accomplishment.

SEE PHYSICIAN

Let me impress on your mind the wisdom of seeing a physician if you have frequently recurring or severe headaches. You should do this for safety as well as comfort. The modern physician will give you a thorough physical examination to rule out any serious trouble and with new drugs will be able to give you relief.

Marilyn Joyce McArthur Wed in Candlelight Rites

MRS. JACK VUN CANNON

A candlelight ceremony at Bethany Baptist Church Saturday evening united Marilyn Joyce McArthur and Jack S. VunCannon. Parents of the bride were Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm R. McArthur and Walter Maidens and the late Mrs. Maidens.

The bride wore a tiered gown of Chantilly lace with a Sabrina neckline. The bouffant skirt was accented with a back panel of white satin forming a chapel-length train. A crown of seed pearls held her fingertip silk illusion veil. She wore pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations centered by a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Floyd Robinson was matron of honor. Carol Joyce Dexter, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid and Linda Kay Fier of Detroit, another cousin, was flower girl.

The bridesmaid and matron of honor wore matching ballerina-length dresses of yellow chiffon over satin with Sabrina necklines and full skirts. They carried white satin fans of yellow carnations and wore matching headbands with yellow tulle veils.

The flower girl wore a dress of white nylon with a white lace hat accented with pink rosebuds. She carried a basket of white and yellow rose petals.

Floyd Robinson was best man. Ushers were Bruce Dexter Jr., cousin of the bride, and Glen P. Fier, uncle of the bride from Detroit.

After a reception in the church parlors the new Mrs. VunCannon changed to a turquoise sheath dress with a white and turquoise plaid fitted jacket. She wore white accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride's mother, Mrs. McArthur, wore a dusty-rose lace sheath dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

The couple will live on Lakeview avenue in Pontiac.

The trench coat and the Hollywood wrap coat are both back in fashion this fall. Really luxurious versions come in cashmere and some offer deep notched collars of mink.

Garst Family Awaiting Khrushchevs

By DON MITCHELL
COON RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—An Iowa farmer who has visited twice at the home of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev says the wife of the Soviet leader is a gracious, delightful hostess.

Rowell Garst, whose flourishing business is producing and selling hybrid seed corn, will get a return call from the Khrushchev family this month at his modern, central Iowa farm.

Rambling like his farm, Garst told today of an evening at the Khrushchev villa on his first visit in 1958 when he was selling seed corn.

"I had dinner at their home," he said. "One of the daughters, I think the older one (Nadezhda, in her 40s) was there. She was as gracious as her mother. I think she was the older one because Mrs. Khrushchev didn't speak English then, and neither did this daughter, but the younger one (Julia, 30) was studying it."

"Mrs. Khrushchev showed me her garden and the trees around their house. She loves to garden, but I wouldn't say she was the outdoor kind."

"She impressed me as a normal housewife," Garst said. "I don't notice too much, I'm just a farmer."

Does Mrs. K. keep her own garden like Mrs. Garst?

"Oh no. She doesn't do her own. They are way out of our class."

said Garst, reputed to be a millionaire.

He described Mrs. K. as about 5 feet 2 inches tall and farm-fed healthy—actually not unlike Mrs. Garst.

"Mrs. Garst never got to meet Mrs. Khrushchev. When we were there last year Mrs. Khrushchev was away with her daughter who was having a baby. I think the younger one."

Does Mrs. Khrushchev talk and joke with her strongman husband?

"Well she didn't talk as much as she probably would have liked. When men who like to talk as well as myself and Mr. Khrushchev get going, nobody else has a chance."

Mrs. Khrushchev is a sparkling conversationalist and now speaks English, he said.

Garst said he and his wife would like to show some Midwest hospitality for the whole Khrushchev family and are particularly counting on Mrs. K.

Slater-Doyle Ceremony Before Flowered Altar

MRS. JAMES SLATER

The altar of St. Benedict Church was banked with white gladioli for the wedding this morning of Joanne Doyle and James Slater.

Parents of the couple are

Mrs. Susan Doyle of Chalmers street and the late Thomas Doyle and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Slater of East boulevard.

The bride wore a gown of imported hand clipped rose-point lace and tulle with scalloped lace and seed pearls outlining the portrait neckline. The full skirt was accented with pleated tulle ruffles and lace panels and formed a chapel train. She carried a bouquet of carnations, lily of the valley and ivy centered by a white orchid on a white prayer book.

Carol Soules was maid of honor and the bride's sister, Mrs. Stephen Ernst was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Karla Stoddard and Mary Lou Blair.

They wore dresses of white dotted nylon parchment over aqua and coral taffeta with scoop necklines and cap sleeves. The maid of honor carried a cascade arrangement of aqua and white carnations. The other attendants had cascade bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Flower girl Stephanie Ernst was dressed like the maid of honor and carried a basket of aqua and white petals.

Donald Cox of Lake Orion was best man. Ushers were Lee Hess of Keego Harbor, James Lowery of Union Lake and Robert Howe. Ringbearer was the bridegroom's brother, Steven Slater.

A reception was held at AMVETS Hall. Before leaving for a honeymoon to Niagara Falls and New York the bride changed to a red silk sheath dress with white accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. They will live on Pike street.

The bridegroom is attending Detroit College of Applied Science.

Mrs. Doyle wore a rose pink lace sheath dress with pink satin panels and matching accessories. Mrs. Slater was dressed in a brown sheath with embossed beige flower insets and matching accessories.

Preparing Fall Show of Fashions

September is the busy month of the year for the women of Forest Lake Country Club. Mrs. H. A. Swigert and her committee are working on their Reflections in Autumn Fashion Show and luncheon that will take place Sept. 16. Davidson's of Birmingham will provide clothes for the show.

Assisting Mrs. Swigert are Mrs. Ward Brown, Mrs. A. C. Yost, Mrs. B. E. Eynon, Mrs. C. W. Suchner, Mrs. R. W. Walls and Mrs. R. R. Norris.

SANDRA K. HENDERSON

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Henderson of Waterford Township announce the engagement of their daughter, Sandra Kay, to Rodney L. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin White of Auburn Heights. A May wedding is planned.

Shake Corduroy

When laundering wash and wear corduroy, shake the garment thoroughly a couple of times during the drying, and give it a light all-over brushing. This method helps restore the original velvety texture.

This fall, the jumper is designed along sheath lines for both daytime and cocktail wear. It's done in wool jersey, wool plaid and black velvet for the campus crowd.

Important to Accept Child's Curiosity

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

"We adopted our 7-year-old girl when she was a baby," writes Mrs. S. "For some time I've noticed her interest in the sex of puppies and kittens. Yesterday, neighbors brought over a young mother and baby. While the mother was changing his diaper, Elly stared so that the other women noticed it and told me I should take her to a psychiatrist. Does she sound mentally unbalanced to you?"

No. But you can't rely on my opinion, as yesterday, for instance, I found myself staring at a woman teetering along the street on backless pumps with four-inch heels.

When I was Elly's age, I stared at lightning bugs, my friends in new dresses, naked boy babies and elephants in the zoo. So, as a starrer myself, my own sanity comes into question here and makes my opinion of Elly's undependable.

Under these circumstances maybe Mrs. S. better consult a psychiatrist.

Indeed, I urge her to. For I expect that her adopted child was born out of wedlock, and that Mrs. S. is struggling with fear that Elly is the inheritor of her natural parents' sinfulness. This fear, I think is what makes Elly's interest in naked boy babies so worrisome; and as it is not a rational fear, a psychiatrist might help her get over it before it does serious harm to her and Elly.

In the meantime I offer her some words by Dr. Irene M. Josselyn, a noted psychoanalyst of children who writes: "The child's first awareness of bodily differences comes most easily in Parents' naturalness in accepting infant nudity gives a casual ness to the experience that helps the child absorb what he sees."

But if, like Mrs. S., we resist his curiosity in the sex of babies, kittens and puppies, we make it impossible for him to absorb what he sees. Sensing our disapproval, he's too distracted by it to absorb what he sees. So his sex curiosity remains unsatisfied.

As a result, he'll work out one of two solutions for himself. Either he'll satisfy it in guilty secrecy or start pretending he doesn't feel it. Both solutions have made much trouble in this world.

Teeth Possess Many Uses

Through the ages teeth have been used for many things besides chewing and biting. According to a dentifrice company's researchers, teeth have been ground into drugs, worn as charms, or fashioned into jewelry.

One old Hindu remedy for whooping-cough called for the ground tooth of a tiger. African natives, troubled with sleep-walking, have worn wolf's teeth as a protective charm. Elephant's teeth are worshipped in Ceylon.

Must Nudge Fate to Keep Life Exciting

By RUTH MILETT

Nice things happen to us unexpectedly once in a while. But the happiest people are those who plan for nice things to happen, make them happen, and know all the fun of anticipation.

In her book, "Stop Feeling Tired and Start Living," Dora Albert advises people who are always feeling tired, even though they are in good health, to plan at least one activity they can look forward to each week.

That is, of course, sound advice. For it starts Monday off not as the beginning of another dull routine string of days — but as a week when something nice is going to happen.

Such plans don't have to be elaborate. They can be as simple as having an old friend over to spend the day; getting a congenial crowd together for a Dutch treat party; or getting a babysitter in to give a busy mother complete freedom for an afternoon to take in a movie, shop leisurely, visit friends, or get a perky new hairdo that will lift her morale every time she looks in the mirror.

In addition to these short-term dividends a person plans for herself, there should always be some long-range plan to work for, too.

It might be a trip, or detailed planning of the kind of house she hopes to have someday, or embarking on a course of study in anything that especially interests her.

The important thing is, that enjoying living, a person has to make good things happen. There is fun in such planning. Fun in anticipation. And enjoyment in making a dream come true.

Dear Abby Cries:

Get That Chip Off Your Shoulder

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: After being married for eleven years and bearing five children for my husband, he still says he is going "HOME" when he goes to visit his parents.

It is a little town about 60 miles from here and he makes the trip about once a week.

I know it is natural for a man to want to see his parents, but it makes me very angry to hear him say, "I am going HOME."

Don't you think that after 11 years where his wife and children are should be called home? This may seem like a small matter to you but it is big to a woman whose husband feels more at home with his mother than with his own wife and children.

SECOND CHOICE

DEAR SECOND: Don't jump to any hasty conclusions. "HOME" to most people is the town they've grown up in. It's simply habit and doesn't indicate that your husband feels more "at home" with his mother than he does with you. Remove that chip from your shoulder.

DEAR ABBY: To "OLD FASHIONED" who wants to know "Where all those lovely teenage girls who used to sit with children for the joy of it?" May I say, "When parents start raising children who are a joy to sit with, perhaps teenagers will again sit for the joy of it."

Yours Truly,
FORMER SITTER

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is being married soon and be-

This Once Be Nice to Her

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's parents will soon celebrate their golden wedding anniversary and his sister and her husband are giving a large reception at their house for them. We received an invitation to this party. However, this sister-in-law and I never got on very well and I haven't seen nor spoken to her for some time. My husband does see her on occasion.

"He would naturally like to go to this reception but says he will not go without me. I do not think it would be proper for me to go and accept the hospitality of someone with whom I am not on friendly terms, but he thinks it would be far more improper for him to go alone and that my absence would be noticeable and hard to explain to those who do not know the circumstances. Will you please give us your opinion on this matter?"

Answer: On such a special occasion I think your absence would be very much noticed by everyone who knows the family and I think you owe it to your husband to go. It certainly should be easy enough to greet your sister-in-law quickly and say politely, "How do you do" and pass on.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend's aunt, whom I have never met, has invited us both to Sunday dinner at her house. I would like to know if it would be proper for me to take her something, such as a box of candy or some flowers. Please advise me as I do want to make a good impression."

Answer: No, don't take any present. Make your good impression by being your own natural sweet self. Be attentive to everything his aunt says and show interest in her. And most important, go prepared to like her.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When dining in a restaurant and one orders French pastry for dessert and a tray of assorted pastries is brought to the table by the waiter, does one help himself (or herself) to the pastry of his (or her) own choice, or does one make his (or her) choice known to the waiter and have him serve it?"

Answer: The waiter serves the pastry selected.

Some husbands like to have a TV set in the kitchen. It lets 'em watch their favorite shows while they do the dishes. . . . Thrift is a great source of income. (Said by Cicero, 2,000 years ago). — Earl Wilson.

fore I announce her engagement I would like some advice. Our town has a habit of putting on huge showers for brides. Four or five women get together and invite everybody in town whether they know the bride or not.

In my opinion it is just a racket to collect as many gifts as possible. Then when the wedding and reception list is made up, many of the guests are the same women who have brought a gift to the showers. How can I get it across to my friends that I do not care for this wholesale kind of affair?

MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR MOTHER: Inform any friends who offer to give a shower for your daughter that you prefer they do not for the above-mentioned reason, which is as sensible as any could be. People are pretty sick of being soaked at showers.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WONDERING": Of course you should ask how "ALL" the children are. A retarded child's health and progress is particularly important to his parents. Only a very ignorant or thoughtless person would intentionally avoid mentioning the retarded child when inquiring about the family.

Well, she was hired. Which was a great tribute either to her beauty or to her courage. And told to take a refresher course — tres pronto.

Now she gets hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of travel a year in the super-luxurious 707 jets (she was one of the select stewardesses to fly the Intercontinental Press plane that accompanied Vice President Nixon to Russia) and gets paid besides.

"You know," she said wistfully, as she served up the port du salut. "I would recommend this life to any girl who can take it. I don't mean the work. The work is fun, especially in the jets because it doesn't last long, and it's always above the weather so nobody gets ill.

"But the bad part about being a stewardess on foreign routes is your constant bout with your will power. Or rather, lack of it. You fly to these incredible beautiful places and every place you come to, you want to stay.

"Like Lisbon. I dread going to Lisbon because it breaks my heart every time all over again to leave it. I want a houseboat there. And there's a little village called War-graves on the Thames where I'd like a cottage. And Pakistan. It's filthy in a way, but it would be exciting to have an apartment there. Ah, and Bangkok — if you could see Bangkok at sunset . . .

"To really enjoy beauty and yet be detached, this is a trait a stewardess must cultivate. But it is very, very hard—loving everywhere and living nowhere."

Ambassador Unable to See Castro in Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal has been trying to see Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba for almost three months. Castro hasn't been available.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said Bonsal's last meeting with Castro was June 9.

Bonsal isn't the only ambassador having trouble seeing Castro. Even ambassadors from countries on better terms with Cuba than the United States have been unable to get an interview.

The subject came up after White discussed a report by the Chicago Tribune Press Service that relations between the United States and Cuba were at a dead end.

During Mr. K's Visit, Solons Urge 'Let's Mourn Red Victims'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three senators and two House members joined Tuesday in urging a period of national mourning during the United States visit of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The suggestion came from Sens. Styles Bridges (R-NH), Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) and Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.); and Reps. John W. McCormack (D-Mass.) and Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.).

They proposed that religious services be held in each city Khrushchev visits "as one means of mourning for the victims of Communist terror and of expressing America's dedication to worldwide freedom."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said today he still hopes that Congress will wind up its work by Sept. 12, three days before Khrushchev's arrival.

This would forestall any invitation to Khrushchev to address a joint session. Some members have said they would refuse to attend such a meeting or would move for adjournment if the invitation should be accepted.

Egypt Shifts Economics

CAIRO (UPI)—The United Arab Republic yesterday announced sweeping economic plans to increase much-needed foreign currency reserves and to strengthen the Egyptian pound abroad. Among the steps to be taken was a ban on all cotton barter deals and the re-exporting of Egyptian cotton.

Maintenance Workers,
Clerks Threaten Nov. 2
Walkout if Talks Fail

WASHINGTON (AP)—A threat of a strike by 600,000 clerks and maintenance workers looms for the nation's railroads.

The strike could come Nov. 2 if the railroads and 11 unions do not change their present stands.

The unions, representing those rail workers who do not actually operate the trains, Monday night announced a joint demand on the railroad industry. They want a 25-cent hourly pay boost and an increase in welfare benefits equivalent to seven cents an hour. The average worker now makes $2.30 an hour.

When the unions earlier asked for holiday and vacation improvements, the railroads responded by proposing a five-cent hourly pay cut.

George E. Leighty, spokesman for the unions, said the strike probably will take place Nov. 2 if the railroads continue to insist that the present three-year contracts extend beyond Nov. 1.

Leighty said a strike might come in mid-January, after mediation is exhausted. Mediation steps are compulsory under the Railway Labor Act.

Railroad industry spokesmen declined comment.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "For that kick, 30 days," said the judge, sentencing a woman to jail for her resistance to eviction from the site of the Los Angeles Dodgers' new baseball stadium.

Municipal Judge Byron J. Walters also fined Aurora Vargas, 38, $500 Tuesday and ordered probation for three years after the jail sentence.

Mrs. Vargas was alleged to have kicked sheriff's deputies after being carried from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Arechiga. A jury convicted her of three misdemeanor charges of battery and one count of disturbing the peace. She was released on $1,000 bond pending appeal.

Equator Exists

Fossil Ridge in Pacific Follows Man-Made Line Drawn to Divide Globe

NEW YORK (AP)—The equator is not just an imaginary man-made line drawn around our earth.

It actually exists as a ridge or line on the Pacific Ocean bottom. It is made out of fossils and skeletons of things which once lived in the sea, then sank when they died.

This rain of material makes a narrow, detectable line right where man drew the equator for convenience to divide his globe into northern and southern hemispheres.

With it, he could also draw lines of latitude from the equator to the poles to help tell him where he lives or where he is sailing.

Now the equator line on the sea bottom is being put to use to tell whether the north pole has gone wandering around in the past. It also promises clues to causes and kinds of ice ages.

This fascinating story was described to the first International Oceanographic Congress by Prof. Gustaf Arrhenius of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, La Jolla, Calif.

They Plant
Turtle 'Crop'
in Back Yard

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — The John Simco family planted the 30 little things in the back yard, watered them a couple of times and—guess what—grew—turtles.

That's right. Mrs. Simco took the 30 small eggs her teenaged daughter, Joan, found during a mid-June vacation in Wisconsin and planted them.

The incident became a family joke; except to Jimmy, 12, who displayed a faith not shared by his elders.

Last week's hot weather set Mrs. Simco to thinking. "With all the 95-degree weather and the hot sun, all I could think of was fried eggs. I finally dug up one of the eggs last Friday and cracked it. There was a live baby turtle in side."

The first born died. But Saturday eight turtles climbed out of the sand and Sunday there were six more.

Jimmy took the creatures down to the Illinois River where they appeared right at home.

"I sure wish we could have kept them," he said. "They'd make keen pets."

Mrs. Simco was content to let things be. "Wouldn't that have been lively?" she said. "Fourteen pet snapping turtles."

The family asks the memorial contributions be made to the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Building Fund or the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Baseball's Song Writer Dies at 80

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The man who wrote baseball's own song—"Take Me Out to the Ball Game"—died Tuesday night. He was Jack Norworth, 80, song writer, actor and sports fan—once known as "the King of Vaudeville."

He died of a heart attack at his home in this seaside resort.

Norworth wrote "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" in 1908. He liked to recall that he had never seen a baseball game then and got his inspiration from an advertisement about a game at the Polo Grounds while riding the New York subway.

A baseball executive once said that Norworth's song did more to popularize and sentimentalize baseball than any other single factor in the game's history with the possible exception of Babe Ruth's fabulous bat.

Another of his famous songs was "Shine on Harvest Moon."

Wild rice is a major food of Indians in the upper reaches of the Mississippi River in Minnesota.

Easy Life Bad for Americans

Need More Exercise to Condition Heart, Says Professor

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—Easy living is killing many Americans, according to Dr. Wilhelm Raab, a professor of experimental medicine at the University of Vermont.

He urged the establishment of nationwide re-conditioning health centers because, he said, "the lack of muscular exercise is contributing substantially to the enormous death rate from heart disease."

Raab, who spent three years studying the nervous mechanisms which chemically injure the heart metabolism in physically inactive persons, said "the ultimate answer lies in a nationwide program of expanded physical exercises."

Working with nearly 350 healthy-appearing men, Raab subjected them to an elaborate test designed to reveal the state of balance between the two mutually opposed nervous systems, the sympathetic and the vagus, which govern the metabolism and function of the heart.

The vagus nerve, in well-conditioned athletes, exerts a favorable influence on the metabolism of the heart by saving on oxygen. This results in high energetic efficiency.

Unless balanced by the regulating vagal systems, the sympathetic nervous system wastes oxygen and causes, ultimately, degenerative changes in the heart muscle.

The occupations of the test group ranged from sportsmen and manual laborers to businessmen and college students. Raab used only men because, he says, women are less susceptible to degenerative heart diseases.

He said that as exercise habits decrease there is a "clear cut shift from the favorable vagal to potentially injurious sympathetic preponderance, even in younger men."

Raab said "young men who shun exercise become candidates for earlier heart disease and cardiac death than those who, by constant physical activity, keep their hearts in good shape."

Conducting tests on the heart conditions of some University of Vermont students, Raab concluded that "the students' hearts improved 'distinctly' after a few weeks of training and exercise."

The human heart pumps enough blood in a single hour to equal about three times the body's weight according to medical calculations.

Lucky He Wasn't Killed!

A true story based on an actual case

When my 4-year old son was struck by an automobile he suffered a slight concussion—we were relieved it wasn't worse. Since I had a Hartford Automobile Liability policy with Extended Medical Payments coverage, medical bills totalling $61.60 were promptly paid under my policy.

When you buy Auto Insurance, make sure it's Hartford Automobile Liability Insurance with Extended Medical Payments Coverage. Then you'll not only be protected against damage suits, but you'll be protected against medical expense if you or members of your family are injured in an automobile, or as pedestrians.

Lion Vets Must Perk Up for Eagles Thursday

Gedman to Test Knee Tomorrow in Toledo Tilt

Ex-Local College Aces in Philadelphia Lineup Against Detroit

Detroit Lions' coach George Wilson isn't worried about the talk that there is a "lack of spirit" in the team's training camp at Cranbrook.

"This camp is like all other pro camps," said Wilson, "the guys have been cooped up and tired."

"The veterans will have to perk up and get themselves up to a point for the games, but I'm sure it'll be okay when we break camp," he added.

The squad ran through a listless workout yesterday morning and Wilson promptly ordered another session in the afternoon for the offensive ends and backs. He ran them through pass patterns in the first two-day workout the club has had in more than two weeks.

With the release of center Johnny Allen, obtained from the Redskins, Charley Ane was back at his old spot.

Ane has been shuffling back and forth between tackle and center. He was at center when the Lions got Frank Gatski two years ago, and then was moved to tackle.

When Gatski retired, Ane went back over the ball, and this year he has been playing tackle while Allen was on the squad.

The coaches planned a light drill today in final preparation for Thursday night's game in Toledo's Glass Bowl against the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Lions will be in top physical condition for their 5th pre-season scrap. Gene Gedman will get back into the lineup and this may be the test which decides Gedman's career.

Gedman did not respond to contact work after a knee operation prior to training camp, and the next game or two may be a deciding factor in his status with the Lions.

A crowd of 15,000 is anticipated in Toledo. Michigan fans will get the chance to see a couple of local college products with the Eagles. Walt Kowalczyk, ex-Michigan State star, will be in the Eagles' starting offensive backfield. Lee Riley, former U. of D. griddler, is starter on the defensive unit as a halfback.

Clarence Peaks, another MSU product from Flint Central will team up with Kowalczyk in the backfield.

Idle Giants Up Lead as Jackson Blanks LA, 3-0

Dodgers Thwarted by Cards

By The Associated Press
You'd think those Los Angeles Dodgers have a mental block when it comes to closing in on the National League lead.

Nonsense? Give a look.

Start in May. They were tied for first in mid-month, then lost five in a row and fell to fourth. It took 'em more than a month to get back, finally moving within a game of the top on June 28 after winning nine of 10. But then they lost four out of five.

They were only a half-game shy at the first All-Star Game break. But then lost five out of seven. Twelve days later, they were just a half-game behind once more, only to lose three out of four.

Want more? They were first by a half-game July 29, then skidded to third. On August 8 they again were only a half-game from first. But then they lost three straight.

Now they've missed again. After winning four of five, including two out of three from San Francisco, they had a chance to close within a half-game of the idle first place Giants last night.

So what happens? Old nemesis Larry Jackson shut 'em up with a two-hitter and St. Louis was a 3-0 winner, dropping the Dodgers 1 1/2 games behind.

The Giants made hay all around. Philadelphia cracked third place Milwaukee 5-3, on pitcher Don Cardwell's two-run homer in the ninth. That left the squeeze bunt.

Braves three games behind and just a half-game ahead of Pittsburgh's Pirates, whose game with Cincinnati was rained out.

In the American League, Detroit's Jim Bunning blanked Chicago 4-0 with a three-hitter, cutting the White Sox' edge over rain-idled Cleveland to five games. New York beat Baltimore 5-0 and Washington defeated Boston 7-4.

Jackson, 28, a right-hander with only a 51-50 record in the majors, upped his career record against the Dodgers to 12-5 while handing them their fifth shutout, low in the majors. He walked two, struck out four for a 12-12 season mark, giving up only a third-inning single by Maury Wills and a seventh-inning double by Duke Snider.

The Cards had only four hits, but two were home runs. Ken Boyer's 26th, a second-inning shot that extended his hitting streak to 20 games, ended Johnny Podres' winning string at four. Podres (12-8) also gave up Alex Grammas' No. 3 homer in the fourth inning and a double in the sixth by Don Blasingame, who stole third and scored on Grammas' third and scored on Grammas' squeeze bunt.

The other Cardinal hit, a seventh-inning single by Bill White, was off reliever Stan Williams. Don Drysdale pitched the ninth for the Dodgers, fanning White to give the Dodger staff a total of 832, bettering their own NL strike-out record of 891 set in 1937. The major league mark is 896, set by Detroit in 1946.

Cardwell, who had managed just one hit in 43 at bats this year, discarded his regular 30-ounce bat, picked up a 40-ounce cannon and tagged Bob Buhl's first pitch for the tie-breaking homer at Milwaukee. His only other home run in the majors came when he was a rookie in

Daugherty Puts Spartans Through Heavy Workouts

EAST LANSING — Duffy Daugherty had his players running in the their tails were dragging in the first day of full workouts for the 1939 Michigan State football team.

Daugherty put his squad through long sessions of wind sprints to end both the morning and afternoon practice sessions yesterday.

"We want to be a running team, so you can expect plenty of this," he warned.

The first injury — a minor one — developed in "agase's agony corner" — the section of the field bossed by offensive line coach Lou Agase.

During a two-on-one drill for linemen, sophomore guard Leo Hughes of Newton, Mass., suffered a severely bruised shoulder. Most of the day was spent in basic work on the defense. Coaches explained the spring session had been devoted mainly to teaching fundamentals of the new double wing "T" offense.

The squad count grew to 70 as sophomore end Roland Kerkoff checked in, explaining he had car trouble en route from Attleboro, Mass.

Also reported on his way to join the squad was sophomore fullback Ron Hatcher of Carnegie, Pa., the only other player missing on opening day.

The team moved over from Spartan stadium — scene of the picture-taking during Monday's press day — to the working practice field.

The enclosed secret practice field with fences covered by canvas, was doubled in area this summer to permit the entire squad to work out in privacy.

Just about half on this year's squad — 35 players — is home grown Michigan material. Detroit is the top contributor with six.

Zucco Suffers Injury

Bears' Rookie Promoted

By United Press International

Rookie Richie Pettibon now is helping the other guy make the headlines.

A star quarterback at Tulane last season, Pettibon so impressed George Halas with his defensive work against Pittsburgh last week-end that the Chicago Bears' coach has promoted the newcomer to a defensive half-back post for Saturday night's game with Washington.

Pettibon, 6-foot, 3-inch, 205-pounder, went into the Steeler clash when Vic Zucco suffered a fracture of his collarbone. His defensive work, especially on passes, played a big part in maintaining the Bears' undefeated exhibition record as they walloped Pittsburgh 54-17.

Green Bay, with defensive half-back Bobby Dillon coming out of a brief retirement, went through a rugged full-scale drill Tuesday in preparation for the Saturday night engagement with the New York Giants.

At Moraga, Calif., coach Red Hickey sent his San Francisco Forty-Niners through a light workout as the team readied for next Sunday's exhibition clash with the Chicago Cardinals. Both clubs have won two and lost one.

At California, Pa., Charley Tolar, a 5'11-foot halfback who played for Northwestern State, La., was dropped from the Pittsburgh Steelers football team Tuesday, primarily because of his size.

"Those big Bears were just jumping over him Saturday night," commented one coach in describing Tolar's showing in the exhibition game with the Chicago Bears during the weekend.

Maverick Runs in Buffalo Race

Officials Hoping Miss Supertest Will Also Be in Sunday Event

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Powerboat race fans are hopeful America's top hydroplane, Maverick, will get a return chance against Canada's Miss Supertest III Sunday in the Niagara River.

A select field of the fish-tailed racers, including the American and Canadian champions, are entered in the Buffalo Launch Club's two-day international regatta this weekend.

Miss Supertest III, owned by James Thompson of London, Ont., outraced Maverick last Friday in Detroit to win the Harmsworth Trophy for the first time for Canada.

Launch Club officials have no confirmation the Canadian boat will race this week.

Maverick, from Lake Mead, Nev., won the Silver Cup and was shipped to Buffalo, along with three Seattle entries. They are Kol-Roy, Miss Bardahl and Thrift-way.

The big race is scheduled to start at 2 p.m., EST.

Harriers Get Equipment

Members and new hopefuls for the 1939-40 cross-country squad at Pontiac Central High will be issued equipment on Thursday at the PCH gymnasium. Coach Dean Wilson said the boys can get their material from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m. Wilson wasn't certain when he would begin regular drills.

Pontiac Northern was expected to issue harrier equipment sometime next week.

Miami Seeking AFL Franchise

DALLAS — Lamar Hunt, the Dallas oilman who is organizing the American Football League, met Tuesday with one of the three parties seeking a franchise for Miami, Fla.

The AFL already has six members — Dallas, Houston, New York, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Denver and Los Angeles — and Hunt has said it is virtually certain to add two more.

Hunt did not reveal who the man was but said he represented one of the Miami groups that wants to get in the AFL. The Orange Bowl already has been placed at the disposal of the group that gets the franchise.

Hunt will go to Houston Wednesday to talk to a representative of the third group. He interviewed the first one here last week.

The next meeting of the AFL will be at Los Angeles Sept. 12-13 at which time Seattle is expected to be voted a franchise. Seattle needs only to obtain use of the University of Washington stadium to get in.

Widings Ready for 240-Mile Dash Holly Pair Optimistic

In fine physical condition, and Grayling to Oscoda. They finished with their new canoe fully tested, 3rd a year ago, but are co-favorites. The Widings brothers (Albert and LeRoy) were looking ahead to the big Au Sable River "world" championship event this weekend. They were optimistic over their chances of a top spot in the grueling 240-mile paddle from Race starts Saturday at 8:30 p. m. and the entire Widening clan will be there to cheer them on. One younger brother, Pat, is also among the racers, teamed with Flint's Ron Frosh.

Dad Henry Widening, another son, Henry Jr., and members of Al and LeRoy's families, will follow the paddlers all the way, providing food, which Mrs. LeRoy Widening says "is quite a job."

The Holly racers feel their toughest competition will be from the Tawas team, Steve Kolonich and Larry Kendall. It was expected that 50 or more teams would be entered. One Virginia pair has been listed.

Distribution of starting numbers gave the Widings No. 13. They had No. 12 last fall. The Tawas team carries No. 23.

The Au Sable is high, says the Holly men, a condition which they regard as very favorable. They have made several short practice runs this week, found the going very satisfactory.

Pointers Run in 2-Day Test

One of the fall's big gundog trials is the two-day weekend (Sept. 26-27) AKC point field trial for the German Short-Haired Pointer club of Michigan. The trial will be run over the interesting terrain of the Highland Recreation Area.

Draw will close Sept. 21 at 9 p. m. and entries may be obtained from, and filed with Floyd Breagh, 17816 Lochbuie Dr., Birmingham.

Puppy, derby, open all-age, gun dog events will be on the program. Judges in the saddle, for the gundog and derby will be well-known S. J. Cheras of Niagara Falls and Jim Baker of Toledo. Lance Spencer of Detroit and Jack Schmidt of Saginaw will judge the puppy, derby and limited stakes.

Chet Crites will do the shooting of live pheasants in the stakes other than puppies, where quail will be used in the bird field.

Irish Setter Club of Michigan has a field trial Sept. 19-20 at Pontiac Recreation Area. Judges will be named within a short time.

Area dogs figured among the winners in recent shows, including Frison Noir II, poodle, owned by Mrs. B. F. Watson (Farmington), top in Wolverine Training Club show and Mall's Star Dust, Boston terrier (R. L. Perso, R.O.), in Detroit Boston Terrier Club Show.

Oakland County Kennel Club holds its annual fall picnic and barbecue at the Gordon Park farm, Sept. 5, beginning at 5 p. m. Site is on Salem road, 1 1/2 miles west from Telegraph on Six Mile road (half mile from Six Mile on east side of Salem road).

Trowhill Wins East Michigan Archery Title

PORT HURON (UPI) — Don Trowhill of Port Huron and Mrs. Fran Lozon of Marine City walked off with the top prizes in the 4th annual Eastern Michigan Archery Tournament at the Blue Water Sportsmen's Association ranges during the weekend.

Trowhill won the men's division with 945. Carl Heinrich, Richmond, recently crowned national field archery instinctive champion, was third with 911.

Mrs. Lozon won the women's title for the third straight year with a 689 score.

Simpson Class A Champ
Giles Archery Club reports that Glenn Simpson, Giles archer, was winner of the Class A title in a recent state shoot.

OTTAWA — The latest report from Ducks Unlimited of Canada indicates that the 1959-60 waterfowl season may not be as bleak as previously forecast.

Press Contest Ends on Labor Day

5 Days Left in Fish Derby

There are just five days left for prospective contestants in The Pontiac Press 1959 "Big Fish Derby."

This summer-long Angling contest began in June comes to a conclusion on Labor Day, Sept. 7. However, fish taken during the holiday weekend may be entered not later than 12 o'clock, noon, on Tuesday, Sept. 8. No entries will be received during the holiday.

Because of the 3-day period, probable leaders should be weighed and measured at any market where standard scales are available. Weight slips must be signed at that time by the weigher, the angler and one disinterested observer of the weighing.

Three U.S. Savings Bonds of $50 each await the winners, one each for the heaviest black bass, northern pike and bluegill.

Only full-time Oakland County residents are eligible, and all fish must be taken from county waters.

Leaders of each division, as of today are:

Black bass — 6 pounds, largemouth, taken by Arden Beckett, on Lake Louise, June 24.

Northern Pike — 9 1/4 pounds, taken by Winfred Baker, on Schoolhouse Lake, July 6.

Bluegill — One - pound, 4-ounces, taken by Howard Gordon, on Round Lake.

CARROTS BECOME LURES — The "raw" material, a "pilot" fishing lure carved from the carrot (usable, too) and the beautifully made (by plastic injection into a mold) "Go-Gettums" lures, are displayed in Pete Sturman's hand.

The carved carrot is standing on its tail and with the others are about twice the size shown in the picture. The three anti-like flyrod lures, just below, are one-half inch long, believed to be the smallest "plugs" ever made for fishing.

SCULPTOR AT WORK — Here is Pete Sturman, Utica model-maker and creator of about the finest fishing plugs ever, at work making a model lure from a crisp carrot, grown in a neighbor's garden. Lures on the table are also Pete's work, and the several hundred letters at left include many offers for manufacturing the lures and requests for purchases. None is for sale, all Pete's output going (free) to friends.

Application Cards in Mail

LANSING—Conservation department workers have begun mailing application cards for special deer hunting permits to some 4,200 license dealers.

Distribution should be completed by Sept. 15, giving hunters until midnight, Oct. 10, to submit their applications to the department's Lansing office.

Approximately 100,500 special permits are offered covering 18,457 square miles in 39 food shortage and crop damage areas.

Some 60,500 permits will be available for "any deer" shooting in northern Lower Peninsula, while 35,000 permits will go to hunters above the Straits.

Although several changes have been made in the application card's form, the procedure of applying for permits will remain the same as last year.

State Again Gathers Lake Trout Spawn

LANSING — As ground work to Michigan's cooperative role in replenishing the Great Lakes' lake trout population, Conservation Department workers will again collect spawn this fall from lake trout in Torch, Elk, Crystal, Glen and Higgins lakes.

Banking on experience gained last fall when approximately 700,000 eggs were taken from these lakes and employing better equipment, department men expect this year's operation to be more extensive and successful.

Utica Angler Something

By The Press

There's something new in Utica. It's not something that can (at least) be procured for money.

Like tiny sculptures, with a haunting to an old-time lure titled the spook, the carved plastic "Go-Gettums" have created a sensation among Michigan bass, pike and anglers. They are the creation of genial, model-maker Pete Sturman of Utica.

Pete, never quite satisfied with his beautiful, effective lures, is a perfectionist, always trying for something better. He's an avid fisherman, tests all his lures himself, but has never taken a dime for any of the more than 500 he's made for friends and acquaintances.

PETE STURMAN

MANY OFFERS FOR MARKETING LURES

Many of the letters contained offers for putting the lures on the market, but Pete rejects them all. "Some day," he remarked during this observer's visit to his home recently, "I may make 'em for sale."

Sturman's first lure was made in Europe when he was 11. He's been carving model lures from various materials for some years but only recently developed the plastic ones. All are based on the "Go-Gettums" design, and every change he makes is first tested on a prototype carved from a fresh carrot.

Pete even makes special lures he wishes to try out, from the crisp vegetable, and has taken some fine pike and bass with them. "Of course they're just one-fish lures," Pete explains.

The 54-year-old Utica lure-maker is a top model maker for the Sundberg-Ferer Model Shop, Detroit. He has also worked as an expert pattern-maker, and a tool-maker.

Latest of Sturman's lures is a one-half inch long job suggested by this writer, for flyrod use. They'll get a test soon.

FEWER FISHERMEN IN AREA—LICENSE SALES DOWN

Maybe the current slack in reports of good fishing on area lakes could be laid to the fact that there are fewer fishermen. Conservation officer Howard Johnson made the suggestion, and at the same time said he believed pheasants should be about static in most sections; up somewhat in the north, down in South Lyon area.

A Kent Lake sports storeman, who has been keeping records for the last six years, says fishing license sales have been off for the last three, down considerably this year.

A weekend check of a number of area waters confirmed the report of fewer fishermen.

On the other hand, a survey of game conditions for the country at large, involving 42 states and Canada, indicates one of the finest game outlooks in a decade, this fall and winter.

You're the Skipper

By JOHN BOHANNON
Syndicated Boating Writer

September is the month when boating families take advantage of the free courses in boat handling and coastwise navigation offered by the United States Power Squadrons and the Canadian Power Squadrons. These organizations have units almost everywhere today, and the skipper who wants to get everybody into the act is smart in signing up for himself, his wife and children.

Like any other sport, the more you know about your craft, its equipment, performance and the bodies of water where it is to be used, the more fascinating it becomes.

The beginners' course of the USPS and CPS is called the pilot-boat class. It covers such important subjects as how to read charts, how to use the compass, rules of the road, safety equipment, government rules and regulations, knots and splices, yachting manners and customs.

There is no charge for the instruction. The only cost is for printed material outlining the weekly lessons; charts, textbooks and whatever instruments you may need such as a pair of dividers and a course protractor or parallel ruler.

Families can have a lot of fun working the weekly assignments at home, and when rivalry develops between a husband and wife or a brother and sister the competition produces better students.

You can go as far as you like with Power Squadron instruction.

including the excellent elective courses such as Sailing, Motor Maintenance and Weather.

Information about the USPS pilot-boat course in this area can be obtained by writing to: Detroit Power Squadron, 18804 Conant Ave., Detroit.

TRAINS ARMY DOGS — Liking dogs, largely through his use of them in hunting, and interested in the training of the animals, Glen Thomas (Tom) Harding naturally gravitated to the U. S. Army K-9 corps (in the Air Force) when he entered service two years ago. He has two years to go. The sign shows Tom's home base, at Bangor, Me., and the dog at his knee is one of his pupils. Tom, son of ace golfer Glen and Mrs. Harding, was a cage and baseball player at St. Michael HS from which he graduated in 1957.

WALK WITH CARE — Ever stepped on silver-blue mink? Anyone who rides in Tucson, Ariz. tobacco heir Jay Bullen's car does just that. Bullen, a custom car fancier, was looking for something different for his special '59 Cadillac. The answer: at least $2,300 in matched mink skins for the floorboards, foot rests, arm rests and door straps.

Need Detection Systems Fire Stations Burn, Too

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — An official of the International Assn. of Fire Chiefs revealed today that about 25 fire stations go up in smoke every year.

"Because many, many fire stations have no fire detection system," said the official who asked not to be identified. He is attending the fire chiefs' 86th annual convention here.

"As a result of not having a detection system, if a fire breaks out on the roof of a fire station the watchman on duty often doesn't find out about it until someone who has spotted it from the street comes running into the station," he said.

The official said he is a strong believer that every fire station in the U.S. should have either a sprinkler system or a dry pipe fire detection system which would sound a gong "After all, we should set the example for everyone else," to warn the firemen their building is on fire.

Uncle John Lennons Complete Hoax

No Scottish Millions;
Widow Has No Cancer;
Entire Story Denied

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The reported two million dollar inheritance of a Pittsburgh woman, who says she will die of cancer within a year has turned out to be a hoax. Who did it was not clear today.

Mrs. Jean Naccarelli, 46, of the city's Mt. Washington district, said Monday that her "Uncle John" Lennon had died in Aberdeen, Scotland, last week willing her his estate.

Two aunts, sisters of Mrs. Naccarelli's mother, allegedly sent cablegrams from Aberdeen informing the "heiress" of her new-found wealth.

But a check in Aberdeen has turned up only one person named Lennon, a widow whose husband died several years ago. No deaths were reported there recently where the estates had been bequeathed to an American.

A medical source, meanwhile, indicated that Mrs. Naccarelli is not ill with cancer, but the source would not elaborate.

Mrs. Naccarelli, who claimed she was Miss Pittsburgh in a 1932 beauty contest, also told newsmen Monday that John Lennon was a ship designer and had helped design the Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth. But the firm which built the ships, John Brown Ltd., said no one named Lennon ever was in its employ.

Sergeant Hears Plea for Life, Then Shots

DETROIT (UPI) — "Oh, God, Oh, God . . . No!" the woman's voice cried over the sheriff's telephone. The plea was followed by two shots — then silence.

Sgt. Herbert Haslam, who took the call, sent a Wayne County sheriff's car racing to a home in Nant Township yesterday.

Officers found Mrs. Beverly Lane, 22, dead on the kitchen floor with a bullet in her chest. The body of her estranged husband, Melvin, 22, lay beside her, his throat pierced by a bullet.

Officers said Lane shot her husband and then took his own life.

Thieves Swipe Enough Cigarettes for Duration

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Thieves who broke into the National Food store here last night must have been chain smokers. They stole 700 cartons of assorted cigarettes. A stock man, who reported on duty about midnight, heard a noise at the rear of the store, and when he went to investigate, the thieves fled. He found a bathroom window open, township police said.

The store is located at 48075 Van Dyke.
