French Optimistic as Algiers Votes

ALGIERS (AP) — French officials beamed optimism today as the crucial referendum on President Charles de Gaulle's self-determination plan for Algeria entered its second day.

A voter turnout averaging 62 per cent Friday in 600 rural communities bolstered official hopes for approval of De Gaulle's plan and four years of strife in this French territory.

De Gaulle has pleaded for a heavy "yes" vote and rebel leaders have called for a boycott of the polling places. French officials frankly believe a heavy vote of approval would give the Gaullist a greater chance to achieve a solution for the bloody Algerian question.

The French army maintained a vigilant watch today as about 200 communities voted. The army was ordered to prevent abstention.

Moslems generally disregarded orders from the rebel National Front of Liberation (FLN), officials stressed, and went to the polls.

A major test—the possibility of violence—comes Sunday when residents of urban centers, tense with agitation by Moslems and rightwing European settlers, cast their ballots.

The settlers violently oppose De Gaulle's plan for making Algeria an autonomous state and giving the Algerians themselves political self-determination at a later date.

De Gaulle warned Frenchmen the referendum will be their last chance to solve the Algerian problem. There is a risk, he said, that world events will sweep it out of their hands.

Thousands of battle-equipped troops took positions at strategic points in and around Algiers at the time of the vote.

Kennedy Said Eager to Sound Khrushchev Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-Elect John F. Kennedy is believed to be considering sending a special emissary to the Soviet Union. The mission: To sound out Premier Nikita Khrushchev on what ideas he may have on improving Soviet-American relations.

Presumably, the emissary would be W. Averell Harriman, ambassador to the Soviet Union during the Truman administration.

Harriman, who later served as governor of New York, was named a week ago by Kennedy to be his ambassador-at-large.

Of late, Khrushchev has been claiming he can do business with Kennedy. The special mission would try to find out if Khrushchev is engaged on another propaganda campaign or if there are hard facts behind his claims.

The emissary report circulated here today as Kennedy remained in Washington for a tight schedule of conferences on politics, national and international affairs.

He leaves later on what will apparently be his last extensive trip before coming to Washington for his inauguration. Even this visit to his headquarters is overshadowed by gloomy problems in Cuba, Laos and other parts of the world.

Swiss Take Over for America

CHANGEOVER IN CUBA — Daniel M. GMC Deliveries Rise 19 Per Cent During 1960

Gain Amplified by Fact That Truck Industry Sales Were Down

Domestic retail deliveries of GMC trucks in 1960 totaled 84,845 units, an increase of more than 19 per cent over 1959 figures, it was announced today by Calvin J. Werner, vice president of General Motors and general manager of GMC Truck and Coach Division.

GMC Truck made the substantial gain in a truck market that was off slightly in domestic retail deliveries in 1960, he said.

"Truck buyers have recognized the value of the product features by GMC in its 1960 models," Werner said. "We have in the GMC light line proved the efficiency and reliability of our V6 gasoline engine design and the riding comfort of independent front suspension."

"In the GMC heavy duty models, truck operators have found greatly increased flexibility in meeting particular hauling needs through a broad selection of conventional and tilt-cab, single axle and tandem axle units in a choice of V6 and V12 gasoline engines or V8 and V8 GM Diesel engines."

S. E. Knudsen, GM vice president and Pontiac Motor Division general manager, yesterday announced last year's sales of Pontiac automobiles were the highest since the record year 1955.

Pontiac sales in 1960 totaled 406,657 units, representing a 5 per cent gain over the previous year, Knudsen reported.

Michigan One of Slowest Reporting Election Returns

In an effort to make election results more quickly available to the citizens of Michigan, The Associated Press has launched a study of the slow voting returns in Michigan during the recent presidential election.

According to AP figures, Michigan had reported 6 per cent of its votes at 11:06 election night, compared to Arkansas' 40 per cent, Florida's 61 per cent, and Maryland's 80 per cent. Other states and their percentages at that time were Illinois, 22; Kentucky, 51; Mississippi, 57; New Jersey, 60; New York, 10; North Carolina, 54; Ohio, 57; Oklahoma, 45; Pennsylvania, 45; Texas, 55; and Wisconsin, 29.

AP Bureau Chief Clem Broesser said that six counties—Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Genesee, Kalamazoo and Ingham—contain 52.8 per cent of the state's vote. They have voting machines in 91 per cent of the precincts, but by 11 election night, their reported results were meager.

Yet Kent County had 46 per cent in at 11 p.m. And Kent County is not a sparsely populated area—it ranks fourth in population in the state with 381,145, compared to Wayne with 2,098,244, Oakland, with 887,611, and Macomb, with 465,386.

14-Mile Road Take-Off Hurts Pilot

A Bloomfield Township man was injured when his light, single-engine plane crashed as he attempted to take off on a 14-mile road shortly before dawn today.

The victim, Stephen Kaan, 43, of 7323 Bingham Road, was undergo facial surgery today at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

His condition was described by his wife as "not serious." Hospital authorities refused to comment on his condition.

Mrs. Kaan, the mother of three daughters, said her husband brought his plane home recently to perform minor repairs. And arose early this morning to fly it back to the airport.

The low-wing craft apparently hit a patch of ice on the road and swooped into a ditch along 14-Mile Road, near Grimsby Road, before take-off, state police said.

They were investigating the crash in the sparsely settled area, along with a representative from a federal aeronautics agency.

Kaan is a self-employed consulting engineer. He has been flying for business and pleasure for about 15 years, his wife said.

Kaan had towed the plane home behind his car with the wings disassembled, according to his wife.

Bloomfield Township Police Chief Norman Dehnke said Kaan asked him yesterday for permission to take off on Telegraph Road, near 14-Mile Road.

"I told him I had no authority to permit it, and if I did I wouldn't let him," said Chief Dehnke.

Castro Continues Wooing of JFK

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime cracked down today on Cubans trying to flee the country and foisted another plea for reconciliation with the United States after President-Elect John F. Kennedy takes office.

The government froze issuance of new exit permits for all Cuban and foreign residents but said tourists will not be affected.

American residents leaving will not require new permits in leave unless they intend to return.

NOT RESPONDING

In currying the Castro regime's wooing of Kennedy further, Guevara emphasized that Kennedy said Wednesday he would not assume responsibility for the breakdown of diplomatic relations until he took office Jan. 20.

This, Guevara said, is "important in that it injects a note of uncertainty on the issue. This means Kennedy is responsible for all and that there are certain differences."

"The United States should never feel small in discussing reconciliation with us," he said. "We always are willing but on terms of respect for Cuba's sovereignty."

But Guevara also referred to Kennedy's presidential campaign statement that the United States should encourage anti-Castro forces.

"We cannot say Kennedy has changed," he said. "We must be watchful."

Guevara said Cuba's sale of sugar behind the Iron Curtain after the United States closed its markets was the "result simply of a political action."

"Obviously we couldn't ask the Socialist Communist world to buy our sugar at those prices and base our pricing on economic motives," he said. "The reason is really there was no reason within world commercial terms for such purchases."

He said Cuba is willing to sell the United States 3 million tons of sugar at "reasonable" U.S. market price. Cuba then would buy U.S. products in exactly the same amount paid for the sugar.

Before President Eisenhower closed U.S. markets to Cuban sugar, the Cubans were paid a price higher than the prevailing world price as a form of economic aid.

4th Quarter Second-Best for Car Sales

DETROIT (AP)—A year-end buying fever, which sent auto sales soaring in the last 10 days of December, kept 1960 in their second-best fourth quarter volume in history, Ward's Automotive Reports said Friday.

Sales for the Dec. 21-31 period jumped 16.6 per cent above mid-month totals, the statistical agency reported.

The surge gave entire 1960 a year-record level of 4,142,290 sales of domestic-built cars, 11.9 per cent above 3,698,172 in 1959 and second only to 4,468,400 in peak year 1955.

Ward's said December sales totaled 488,168 units, comparing favorably with the best volumes for that month since 1955.

Daily sales during Dec. 21-31 period soared to 29,686 from 17,422 daily for Dec. 11-20.

The statistical service credited the industry's 1960 sales upsurge to widespread Big Three entry in the compact car field.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler dealers sold 1,126,100 compacts in 1960, their first full, fledgling year in the market, according to Ward's, pushing the industry's compact sales to 1,696,300 units or 7.1 per cent of total car sales.

The industry's compacts took 21.4 per cent of December auto buying, topping the previous peak of 20 per cent set in November.

Winter to Return to Pontiac Area With 18 Degrees

Winter will flow in tonight with 18 to 30 mile-an-hour northwest winds, bringing scattered showers or snow flurries and a low temperature of near 25.

The weatherman said Sunday will be cloudy, with snow flurries and colder temperatures, the high ranging from 25 to 30 degrees. Monday will continue cold.

Thirty was the lowest thermometer reading in downtown Pontiac at 8 a.m. The mercury had climbed to 31 at 2 p.m.

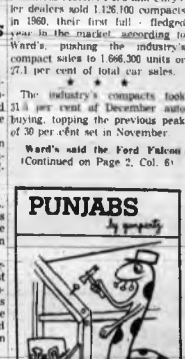

Suspects Russia Outspent U. S. in IGY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A member of the U.S. Committee for the International Geophysical Year reports that Russia may have spent more than America on this "greatest cooperative enterprise for peaceful purposes in all human history."

Capt. Elliott B. Roberts of the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey estimated, in a report published Friday by the Smithsonian Institute, that 66 nations had contributed about $2 billion to IGY.

He said Russia and the United States each have spent more than a half-billion dollars on IGY projects and the Russian effort "may have exceeded" that of the United States.

Wrong Kind of Wings at Miami Airport

IT'S DANGEROUS, BY GULLY — For centuries, man tried to find out how birds fly. Now, the tables are turned. The birds are intent on finding out how man flies. Or so it would seem from the feathered activity at some of the nation's major airports. Miami International is plagued by swarms of seagulls which are a menace to jet airliners. The helicopter has been unsuccessful in routing the "spies," so a special spray designed to sicken the birds without harming them is being considered. A flock of starlings was blamed for the fatal crash of an Electra jet-prop airplane last year in Boston.

- The last ten governmental units in this area to have their returns in with number of precincts and time indicated were:
1. Wixom, (2) 10:13
 2. Rose Township, (1) 10:27
 3. Holly Township, (2) 10:35
 4. Springfield Township, (1) 10:37
 5. Kellogg Harbor, (1) 10:40
 6. Walpole Lake, (1) 10:50
 7. Addison Township, (3) 11:01
 8. Oxford Township, (3) 11:37
 9. Bloomfield Hills, (2) 11:39
 10. South Lyon, (1) 11:47

This latest precinct was set up during the summer to conform to the state's 1,400 maximum of registered voters per precinct. But City Clerk Myrtle Chamberlain says heavy registration in the fall boosted the figure to 2,200.

She diverted an additional voting machine to the precinct, but there were still hundreds of people waiting in line at the 8 p.m. closing hour.

Mrs. Chamberlain said the city's 10 other precincts had reported their totals by 2 a.m., but Precinct 11 didn't come through until 3:45 a.m.

According to Oakland County Clerk-Register Daniel T. Murphy Jr., state law requires the division of precincts containing more than 1,400 registered voters. The law also establishes the limit of 600 registered voters per machine.

Absentee ballots must be cast on the machines after the polls close, Murphy added, and they can only be cast on one machine.

Commenting on the make-up of the election boards, Murphy said they are named by the township or city clerk, on a partisan basis, with an even split of Democratic and Republicans.

American Legion Selects Las Vegas Over Detroit

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—The American Legion's 10-member convention site committee has selected this desert gambling center for the organization's 1962 convention.

Recommendation of the San Diego, Calif., committee is tantamount to approval, Legion officials said.

Committee Chairman Harry L. Foster said Friday the Legion's executive committee would vote on the recommendation May 23 in Indianapolis, Ind.

Detroit, Mich., original site selected for the 1962 convention lost out when it was unable to guarantee 7,000 first-class rooms. This city was able to guarantee the necessary rooms and has pledged $50,000 to underwrite convention expenses.

Drinker Booked in Frisco Fire

Faces Manslaughter for Hotel Blaze That Took 19 Lives, Injured 38

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A headstrong, penniless, face-masochist charges today for the second worst hotel fire in San Francisco history — a blaze which killed 19 persons and injured 38 others.

"I didn't do nothing," insisted Raymond Gorman, 62, when he was booked at a police station.

The fire began in his room in the 40-year-old Thomas Hotel at Sixth and Mission before dawn Friday. The blaze was thought quenched once, but sprang into deadly new life within minutes and spread flames and dense smoke throughout the five-floor structure where 135 tenants slept.

The first of five alarms came at 5:10 a. m. and by the time the first of 40 pieces of equipment and 250 fire fighters arrived, the death and injury toll had started to climb.

Screaming tenants, almost all of them elderly and many of them crippled, poured out of the front entrance, jumped into firemen's nets, or were carried down ladders. Near-freezing, 36 degree weather added to their misery.

The drunks who died in their beds or tumbled out windows to the pavement. Many jumped down the hotel's four floor highwell.

From the chaos, emerged no serious cases of homicide.

The first two policemen on the scene were credited with saving at least 30 lives. Patrolmen Peter Cappadona, 35, and Don Taylor, 35, found 15 men milling around in the lobby unable to find their bearings in the thick black smoke. They formed a single-file rescue line to lead them out.

Others, including crippled and aged persons, were carried out on the backs of the policemen.

This Crime Means More to City Police Detective

Pontiac police Detective August B. Martineau is especially helpful that fellow officers solve a crime which occurred yesterday.

Martineau reported his topcoat, valued at $15, was stolen from a coat rack while he lunched at a Pontiac restaurant.

Colder Weather Swoops Toward Parts of Midwest

By The Associated Press

Continued mild weather prevailed over most of the country today but a return of colder, more seasonable temperatures was forecast for parts of the Midwest.

Below - freezing temperatures early today were generally limited to the Northern Appalachians, extreme Northern Minnesota, and Northern North Dakota southward into the Iowans and portions of the Central Plains.

The forecast of colder weather was favored for the Northern Plains, Upper Great Lakes, the Upper and Middle Mississippi Valley, and western portions of the Ohio Valley.

The Weather

PONTIAC AND VICINITY—Increasing cloudiness and mild but becoming windy and turning colder late this afternoon. High 48. Cloudy, windy with scattered showers changing to snow flurries and colder tonight, low 25. Variable cloudiness with snow flurries and colder Sunday. West to southwest winds 12-20 miles becoming 18 to 30 miles tonight and Sunday.

Dog, Verwoerd Confer

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP)—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld today began closed-door talks with Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd on South Africa's racial segregation policies.

Bob Hope Back in Bed; Dropped Out of Tourney

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comedian Bob Hope, 56, who dropped out of a golf tournament after a spell of dizziness and fatigue, had another date with his doctor today.

Hope was up and around Friday after his sudden withdrawal from a pro-amateur tournament at El Rancho course Thursday, but his doctor ordered him back to bed. Hope said he was fatigued by his recent holiday tour of U.S. bases in the Caribbean and subsequent chores.

Q. We have had a desert turtle for 25 years. Now we are moving from an altitude of 5,600 feet to an altitude over 5,200 feet above sea level. Will this move affect our turtle? Mrs. C. Dear, Lansing, Calif.

A. Anyone who has had a turtle for 25 years is certainly a devoted animal lover. I fully understand your apprehension.

The desert turtle thrives in its own environment but usually does not do too well when taken to a different climate. Apart from altitude, we have to consider such factors as change in humidity, temperature and quality of the water.

Unless you have facilities to simulate climatic conditions of the turtle's present home (moisture, humidity, etc.) taking her with you would be a risk.

Three MSU Professors

To Join in AGU Confab

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State University has announced three of its professors will participate in the White House Conference on Aging in Washington, D.C., Jan. 8-12.

Dr. Gordon J. Aldridge, Dr. Theolina Porter and Dr. Dona Cederquist will be among the participants from 15 states and U.S. territories, the university said.

Dr. Aldridge is director of the school of social work. Dr. Porter is dean of the college of home economics, and Dr. Cederquist is a professor and head of foods and nutrition at MSU.

The conference is designed to all phases of the problems facing old folks.

Nanette Fabray Told

To Rest for 3 Days.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Nanette Fabray is recovering at home from what her doctor terms exhaustion and laryngitis.

A spokesman said the comedienne will remain in bed at least three days. She was ordered to bed Friday after working continuously for six weeks on her new television series.

Report Couple Pays $100,000 for JFK Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—A young couple is reported to have paid more than $100,000 for President-Elect John F. Kennedy's Georgetown house.

Mrs. Perry Aubrook, the former Dale Kimble, confirmed Friday that she and her husband had bought the house, but she refused to reveal any details. Nor would Kennedy spokesmen.

Mrs. Aubrook is the daughter of Herman Kimble of Ocean City, N.J. Her father is the former president of the Kimble Glass Co. of Vineland, N.J., taken over in 1946 by the Owens-Illinois glass Co. He now is a director of Owens-Illinois.

Aubrook, also of a wealthy family, is a young lawyer with the Development Loan Fund. They have two children.

Kennedy bought the house at 3309 "N" St. for $70,000 in 1957.

Year's Polio Count Lowest Since 1938

WASHINGTON (AP)—There were 3,271 polio cases in the United States in 1960, the lowest for any year since 1938 when there were 1,703.

Reporting this Friday, the Public Health Service said the total of 2,556 paralytic polio cases previously reported for last year may rise closer to the 2,499 listed for 1957.

The 1957 paralytic total is the lowest for any year since separate records of paralytic cases were started in 1952.

The 1959 figures were 8,557 polio cases, of which 5,709 were paralytic.

A large percentage of the inhabitants of the Congo's secessionist Katanga Province are immigrants, brought in to work in a wholly owned Crampton subsidiary.

The development was announced Friday by William A. Teigel, Crampton president. He said the 50-year-old Plainwell firm, which produces steel cabinets, benches, tables, utility carts and seating for bus and school and industry now becomes 15 New Year's celebrations. Immigrants were declared a luxury to be avoided now.

Fire-Scarred Carrier Structurally Sound

NEW YORK (AP)—A naval officer who conducted a detailed survey of fire damage on the aircraft carrier Constellation, says the ship is still structurally sound.

This finding was reported Friday by Capt. Donald Furlong, planning officer of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, to the naval court of inquiry investigating the Dec. 15 fire on the Constellation. The blaze took 30 lives and caused about $48 million damage. The 60,000-ton ship, originally scheduled for completion in May, is now expected to be finished in December. It has been under construction since 1957.

Tiny Girl Keeps 3-Day Vigil With Dead Mother

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—For three days in their locked apartment Mary Spence, 3 years old, kept silent vigil beside her dead mother.

Police broke into their home Friday night to find Mary weeping and frightened, huddled in bed with her mother's body. Mary is deaf and dumb.

She had kept herself alive with slices of bread and a bottle of milk left on a table.

Mary had been trying to feed her mother the small amount of food that she was able to eat.

Police, called by neighbors, found that Barbara Spence, 27, separated from her husband, had died of a heart attack.

"Be ashamed to die until you have won some victory for humanity," said Horace Mann, who developed our great public school system. Over 100 years ago, he fought for better teaching and better-paid teachers. He proposed duty, affection, love of knowledge and truth as cornerstones of school discipline, rather than authority, force and fear. He suggested that apparatus be used as a science teaching aid and introduced school music. He urged that students be taught to think, envisioning much that is taken for granted, or hoped for, in schools today.

"God's laws abide forever and we abide forever under them," he said. "When I think, after the experience of one life — what I could do — better than I have ever done, for — humanity — temperance — peace — breaking the rod of the oppressor — higher education — I would enlist for another 50 year's campaign, and fight it out for the glory of God and the welfare of man."

Voice of the People
Reader Calls City of Detroit
Disgraceful, Full of Crime
Detroit is so crime ridden and so infested with thugs, murderers, holdup men and teenage hoodlums, my family and I leave before dark when we visit there occasionally.

Central Park in New York was supposed to be the most dangerous area in America after dark, but Detroit is in the same class and that means the whole city and not just one spot. Detroit officials put on extra officers and the thugs actually step up on their murders and beatings.

Detroit is the Number One disgrace of the United States of America. I hate to live within 25 miles of this crime jungle.

Nation's Aviation Development
Progresses While Ours Lags

Increasing attention is focused on all air developments. Investigations of two bad accidents plus a part, but authorities are almost frantic in their struggle to keep up with the swift upward trend in speed, volume of passengers and number of flights.

Pontiac has a stake in this. Our own airport lags.

We had the first A-1-A setup in the country. It was ideal. But the expansion has swept far, far beyond us in every way. Local airport authorities have done well in the circumstances. Primarily, they've had no funds of any consequence in proportion to the national progress. Many airports have spent tens of millions where we've spent tens of dollars.

We're that far behind. And we're losing ground.

We can't handle one of the "big" passenger planes of ten years ago. And these have been superceded by the turbojets, the pure jets, the stepped up jets and now 1961 brings the superjets that cruise faster than 600 miles an hour.

The problem is entirely too big and too expensive for Pontiac. Our airport is supported by 80,000 taxpayers and it is used by three-quarters of a million. It's really an Oakland County deal.

The City of Pontiac alone can NEVER afford to develop this airport as it should be. In spite of some new and commendable activities out there, each month we lose more ground than we gain.

This newspaper tried to interest a big private corporation in locating its home operations here. They surveyed the situation carefully and said:

You lack a north-south runway.

Your east-west runway is too short.

Your airport isn't easily available by car.

There were other objections but these came first.

Enlarging our airport appreciably would mean closing a road or two. This isn't anything new in airport development. Across the nation it has been done repeatedly and just recently a Press editor landed at a big airport where the highway had been rebuilt beneath a heavy, cement-runway that was designed for superjets.

The only adequate solution to the local problem may be to join with the county. Oakland serves three-quarters of a million people. It won't be long until this number is a million. Most of them have a stake in an acceptable airport—or they will in the future.

Some authorities say Willow Run and Metropolitan will eventually become "jet only" airports. That will force an enormous amount of traffic to seek another landing spot.

We're the closest.

And we have a start.

DELOS HAMLIN and other air-minded supervisors have shown a friendly interest in the Pontiac City Airport and have evinced a willingness to study the situation. Perhaps the city and county could operate the airport jointly. Perhaps they should name an independent commission. Perhaps the county should take over and handle it alone.

And there may be better solutions.

Residents adjacent to any airport anywhere will object to greater operations. But the complaints from enlarging an established airport will be appreciably less than those that would arise from an entirely new location. Oakland County is too far settled to find huge areas where no one lives.

Airports that were no larger than ours a few years ago have spent millions of dollars. If we want to go forward with the nation's aviation development, we must move now. Otherwise we sit on the sidelines and leave the advancement to others.

How About Them?

NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV greets the United Nations Assembly's resolution calling for the termination of colonialism with cheers—the bum.

And he roundly supported the section urging imprisoned peoples to revolt—the tramp.

And he promised Russian aid to those that did—the two-faced hypocrite.

How about the iron-heeled captives Russia holds? Yes, how about those millions of unwilling slaves that bow before the iron fist of communism? Yes, how about them.

And in Conclusion . . .

Days of All Faiths:
Christians Honor the Holy Family

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER
The three holiest people that ever lived, Jesus, Mary and Joseph, lived together. The Church and the world honor them separately on many occasions, but it is also logical that there should be this one day, Jan. 8, on which they are thought of together as the Holy Family, living their beautiful family life for all those years in the house in Nazareth. The Sunday after Epiphany (Jan. 6) is Holy Family Sunday in the Roman Catholic Church.

The day is well placed. Epiphany has important family aspects. It follows closely upon the celebration of the Lord's birth, and upon the Circumcision, at which time the Child was named. These are big events in any family.

It is rather strange that it was not until the seventeenth century that devotion to the Holy Family as a family began to appear in any sizable proportions. Of course, the first stirrings were in Europe, but the honor of holding the first festival in commemoration of the Holy Family goes to the New World, where it was first celebrated in 1675, by Bishop Laval, first Bishop of Quebec.

STIMULATED BY SOCIALIZED Nothing spectacular happened for a century and a half after that, but in 1865 Belgian church authorities, alarmed by the growth of socialism in their country, established the Society of the Holy Family, with membership open only to workmen. By 1893 Pope Leo XIII recognized the Belgian group and expressed a desire for the establishment of similar societies everywhere.

The reasons for combating socialism with devotion to the Family of dedicated workmen are not now a primary consideration. Honor to the Holy Family no longer has any economic purposes. Since 1921, the festival has been a world-wide observance in the Roman Catholic Church.

cent DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER's Christmas remembrance, a picture of a Bavarian Church he did himself. I think one of the best things I ever saw that EISENHOWER did was a copy of STUART's "George Washington." The original of this famous masterpiece belongs to Mr. and Mrs. ALFRED G. WILSON and I should think The Pontiac Press would photograph that and EISENHOWER's copy for the benefit of our readers.

City Murder Case Brings Comments

To clear up a misunderstanding caused by a report that Keith Hamilton was "licensed to preach by the Wesleyan Holiness Association," I wish to state that this association is in no way connected with the Wesleyan Methodist Church of America, of which the local Wesleyan Methodist Church is a part.

Other groups that have taken the name "Wesleyan" are not in any way affiliated with the Wesleyan Methodist Church in this city, or with the denomination.

J. M. Kavanagh, Pastor First Wesleyan Methodist Church 63 N. Lynn St.

I am very upset over The Press' coverage of the shootings by Keith Hamilton. He was a sick man and the police knew it. When he kept getting in trouble leading up to

'Recent Church Ad Wasn't Explicit'

In a recent Saturday issue of church news, I noticed an advertisement for the Crescent Hills Baptist Church with the following caption above the church name: "Waterford Township's American Baptist Church."

I am wondering what the word American means. Would a foreigner be welcome or is it restricted to Americans? The words "everyone welcome" did not appear in the ad as it does in most church ads.

Just Wondering

'Police Department Needs Weeding Out'

A local policeman is protesting the orders of his superior and "wants to go to court" or something. This is still a hangover of the impossible civil service mess we got sucked into several years ago. Can you imagine a corporal in the army wanting to "go to court" because he was transferred? We need a weeding out process as well as transfers.

Case Records of a Psychologist:
Teen-Agers Basically Idealists

Oldsters grow cynical and disillusioned, but young folks in every generation are easy fodder for song box orators if the latter sell their own basic selfish interests under the guise of "well-lure" projects or even "nationalism."

Psychology in the Professions

When I was first told about Dr. Howe's assignment, I guessed that most of the students would select the chapter on "How to Improve Personality."

For it contained many helpful sections about carrying on interesting conversation, doing school work, the horn by sincere commitments, and other data of pertinent concern to 18-year-olds.

But it was wrong.

The overwhelming preference of the students (90 per cent) was the chapter concerning "Psychology & Religion."

It pointed out how Jesus was the world's greatest Applied Psychologist and listed the many contributions of religion to human progress.

So Dr. Pierce is quite correct in saying that American young people are basically idealistic.

IDEALISM IS YOUNG

Remember, too, that this college was not a seminary nor a school for preparing missionaries or nurses for altruistic careers.

No, it was a typical private college of the Liberal Arts type.

Young people are basically idealistic. And it is why they champion many unworkable radical causes that appear to be of the Good Samaritan variety.

Honest Working People Can Eat Fried Foods

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY
Are foods fried in butter or vegetable oils hard to digest or harmful to health?—(I.P.O.W.)

Ans.—Such food is as wholesome and digestible as food cooked in any other way. People who live by their wits or as parasites may find fried food a little more nourishing than their digestive organs can handle, but this is no reason why honest working people or those who get enough exercise should not eat fried foods.

—So you believe, in the 50 per cent salt-tine and 35 per cent salt balance of foods for the correct diet?—(E.W.T.)

Ans.—I never give it a thought. But I'm a luscious food lover.

Mother, 70, has Parkinson's disease and is very deaf. She insists that you eat it not harmful to take a bath in the morning, and she says she has always done it and never took cold that way.—(M.W.L.)

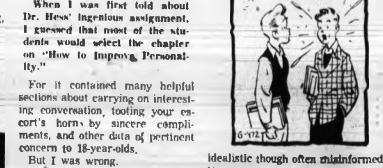

Ans.—Mother knows best. I wish to high heaven there were 10 million more like her.

Contracted diphtheria working in cafeteria last year—throat culture OK before I began work there. After several months there my throat culture was found positive, although I had no illness. Health board quarantined me three weeks, used penicillin and other things, but culture still positive. Now they want to remove my tonsils, although they say even that has failed in many cases. My own doctor says my tonsils seem OK but that removal of tonsils is the usual procedure.—(Mrs. C.L.M.)

Ans.—Your own doctor should advise you whether the risk in the major operation is warranted in the circumstances. In your place I'd have the ultrasound treatment (of course by physician skilled in such work) and if that failed to radiate the diphtheria bacilli I'd wait for 12 electrocution treatments. These are safe.

I sent for your pamphlet on nocturnal leg cramps, three months ago. I had been suffering with leg cramps for a long time. Have been taking the calcium capsules regularly, and I want you to know how grateful—but two slight attacks still.—(H.M.S.)

Recently Dr. J. W. Howe was head of the psychology department in a leading college in Michigan.

He used my college textbook "Psychology Applied" as the basic text, and toward the end of the course, he gave a unique homework assignment to the students.

He asked them to pick out the one chapter in the textbook which they appreciated most, and then they were to write a short theme telling why.

Since this college text is intended to open the eyes of students to all the many practical fields where psychology will per-

WHAT MUST I DO TO BE SAVED?

Never was a more important question couched in human language. It involves the eternal salvation of every human soul, because salvation is a personal matter and must be answered in the first person. This question is not "what must I FEEL, TO BE SAVED?" because feeling is the result of conviction. It is not "what must I DO, TO BE SAVED?" because doing is the result of belief. It is the question "WHAT MUST I BELIEVE OR EXPERIENCE?" to be saved. What MUST I DO? That one must believe in reality accept Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior. But there is more to being saved than believing in the burden of this message. Does the New Testament answer this question? All would agree that it does, yet man will rely more upon their feelings, their imagination, what their preacher has told them, what their creed says, or what their parents have done for them when they were a baby or some other unscriptural and fallible answer rather than a "thus saith the Lord." We are concerned with no answer but the one given by inspiration of the Holy Spirit. Turning to Acts, chapter two, we learn that Peter preached Christ to the Pentecostians. He proved convincingly by infallible proofs that Jesus was the resurrected Christ. This evidence was so convincing they believed it and this faith prompted them to ask "Brethren what shall we do?" Acts 2:37. Peter said unto them, repent ye, and be baptized every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. Acts 2:38. Remember, this is addressed to all who are already believers in Christ. Two things yet one of you. Acts 2:38. Therefore, we must conclude, if one has not repented and been baptized, he is still in need of salvation and his faith is inadequate. This answer corresponds perfectly with the commission under which Peter was laboring. The Lord had said, "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved. Mts. 16:13, 16.

Evangel Temple to Show Film 'Discipleship' Sunday

"Discipleship," an inspiring full-color motion picture portraying the Sermon on the Mount and the Lord's Prayer along with related events will be presented at 7 p.m. Sunday at Evangel Temple.

One of 12 episodes in the series of films on the life of Christ, the film shows Jesus choosing the 12 men whom He names Apostles.

The Rev. Geoffrey Day said the public is invited to see the pictures as well as other showings in the weekly series.

Sunday evening is also "Sunday School Night." The pastor will honor Sunday School superintendents, officers and teachers. A gift will be given each teacher with 90 per cent of her class in attendance.

The brilliantly lighted chart for the contest, "Devil or Angel" will be demonstrated and the rules explained.

BALDWIN EVANGELICAL U.B.

The Rev. Myron R. Everett will install Sunday School teachers and officers at the Sunday morning service in Baldwin United Brethren Church, 212 Baldwin Ave. The pastor will preach on "Facing the Future."

At 7 p.m. his sermon theme will be "God Helps Us."

The annual church meeting of the congregation will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Reports will be presented and plans made for the future.

TRINITY

Dr. Joseph W. Moore will preach on "The City Had 12 Gates" at the 11 o'clock service in Trinity Baptist Church Sunday morning. Church School will be at 9:15 a.m. with Junior Church following at 10:15.

The Trinity congregation will worship with Providence Missionary Baptists at 3:30 p.m. Sunday when the church observes the Luther's anniversary service.

Officers will be installed at 7 p.m. with the congregation of New Bethel Baptist Church as guests. The Rev. Amos G. Johnson of the visiting church will preach and music will be provided by his choir.

CRESCENT HILLS

"Let Us Rise Up and Build" will be the theme of the Sunday service.

Here for the 21-day building fund drive will be J. Kenneth Halliday of the Michigan Society Capital Fund Raisers Committee.

ST. MARY'S IN THE HILLS

Daniel Christie, a licensed lay reader of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, will preach at the Epiphany Festival of Lights service at 7:30 Sunday evening at St. Mary's in the Hills Church.

The service will symbolize the light of the gospel taken into a dark world. The church will be in darkness at the beginning of the service.

At that time an Old Testament prophecy will be read from the rear of the church and the gospel candle on the altar lighted. The church lights are put on during the service and extinguished again at the close of the worship period.

Individual candles held by participants and congregation are then lighted from the gospel candle with members of the congregation taking the lighted candles out into the dark as they leave the church.

NEW HOPE

The Rev. Thomas H. Holt Jr. will preach on "Differences" at the 11 a.m. worship hour in New Hope Baptist Church Sunday. At 3:30 p.m. the Rev. Mr. Holt will preach in Detroit at the New Light Baptist Church. There will be no evening service at the local church.

FIRST CHURCH OF GOD

Representatives of the First Church of God will attend the lecture concerning the Richard's Record System at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Christian Literature Sales. The church is currently using the system.

Maybe the Dog House, but Not This

K(9) Rations Certainly sn't a Dish to Ser Before the 'King'

By ARIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am a snappy person, but I see canned dog food in my sister-in-law's cupboards, and they don't have a dog.

She feeds my brother lots of chili, steaks and meatloafs and I am wondering if maybe she isn't using some of this canned horemeat in her cooking.

ABBY
My brother hasn't looked lately, so if she is using that stuff on him, could it do him any harm?

JUST WONDERING
DEAR JUST: While dog food was not meant for human consumption, many have eaten it (accidentally) and suffered no ill effects. The next time you spy dog food at your sister-in-law's, ask her who the lucky dog is.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and can't let my boys come to my house because there's no place for them to sit. You see, my father has been in poor health for a long time and now he is home all the time. He sits in the living room watching TV from the time he gets up until he goes to bed. This is Daddy's only pastime.

We don't have a dining room or den. Mamma sews in the kitchen at night and uses the table to cut patterns.

I don't want to start slipping around to meet boys on street corners like some girls I know. What should I do? Sign me, DISCOURAGED

DEAR DISCOURAGED: Perhaps your mother could cut her patterns in the bedroom one night a week? Or your family could save up and buy a portable TV for Daddy's bedroom. It's very important for a girl your age to entertain her friends at home. Your parents will cooperate when they understand your problem.

DEAR ABBY: I have a slight hearing defect. At times I am unable to hear the telephone at the first ring. My fellow employees treat me like a deaf person. They shout when they talk to me. And when they come up behind me they tap me on the shoulder, instead of calling me by name.

This is very unnecessary and is becoming most annoying. I like these people otherwise.

How can I let them know how I feel?

CAN HEAR
DEAR CAN: Confide in the person with whom you are friendliest at your place of work. Tell her (or him) that you would appreciate it if the word were passed around that your hearing is only slightly defective. By the way, have you visited a specialist in this field lately? You would be wise to try to solve your problem at its source.

Local Chapter 61 Years Old

Observe DAR Birthday

Forty-one members and guests of the Gen. Richardson chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, observed the chapter's 61st birthday celebration with luncheon Thursday in Ted's Restaurant.

Regents Mrs. Robert D. Wilk, long-time of Plymouth-Northville chapter, Mrs. Newell Allen of Birmingham and Mrs. Francis A. von Schen of Royal-Oak were guests, as were Lella Thorpe of Pontiac and Mrs. Henry Sage of Royal Oak.

Organized on Jan. 4, 1900, the Gen. Richardson chapter was the 11th to be chartered in Michigan. It was named for a former Pontiac resident and hero of three wars. Maj. Gen. Richardson fought in the Seminole war, won honors in the Mexican uprising and gave his life in the Civil War.

Guest speaker Daniel Skoen, senior at Michigan State University, East Lansing, and a member of the honors college, was one of a group of 14 young men and women from the United States called "Operation Crossroads Africa."

Seeking to establish bonds of friendship with Algerian natives, the group worked, studied and discussed problems with the African students. A market place was built entirely by the young people of the two countries.

Members were urged to write to Washington, protesting the move to abolish the House Un-American Activities committee.

Mrs. Eleni Greenberg has been accepted to active membership in the chapter.

The committee of hostesses was headed by Mrs. Lucius Howlett. Assisting were Mrs. Louis L. Dunlap, Mrs. W. F. Todd, Mrs. Harry E. Windstar, Mrs. E. B. Wallace and Mrs. Ray W. Kemp.

Costumed to represent the 60 years of the existence of the Oakland County Federation of Women's Clubs, these representatives of their clubs appeared in a pageant "The Decades Speak" Friday afternoon at First Baptist Church in Birmingham. Seated is Mrs. Irvin Weiss of Birmingham. With her (from

City of Nice Gears for Rousing Mardi Gras

NICE, France — This French Riviera city is gearing itself for a rousing two weeks of revelry that will mark this year's Mardi Gras festival, beginning Feb. 4.

From then until midnight Feb. 14, the 250,000 "Nicois," as the citizens of Nice are called, and their thousands of visitors will leave all earthly things behind them as they parade together through the "Realm of Fancy" — theme of this year's celebration.

Among the many programs on tap for the 1961 "March Through Madness" will be the traditional floats and fireworks of the opening day procession to greet His Majesty King Carnival, and the colossal grand parade which will follow the next afternoon.

The parades won't stop after these two great processions, however — they'll go on for the full two weeks.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS
At the same time, visitors to the flower-bedecked Riviera city will also be able to witness these other famous attractions:

BATTLE OF FLOWERS. On

Feb. 9, French beauties will show; each other, as well as their admirers, with thousands of colorful and fragrant blossoms as part of the first "Battle of Flowers."

Two others will be held in the Riviera city after Lent: one Feb. 16; the other April 3, the Monday after Easter.

COSTUME BALLS: Three major dances will be held in the Municipal Casino, one a phantasmagoric costume ball that will last the entire two weeks of the festival.

Other balls will be Feb. 9, 12 and 14, but the most exciting of all, perhaps, will be the one under the stars on the main Promenade des Anglais and all the other streets and avenues in the city.

Although the Carnival in Nice is France's largest and oldest Mardi Gras festival, it is by no means its only celebration of this holiday. In fact, some 50 others have been scheduled in various parts of France.

CHARIOT IN DUNKIRK

In Dunkirk, for example, "Reuze Papa" will ride about the city in a Roman chariot for the three days preceding the beginning of Lent.

City of Nice Gears for Rousing Mardi Gras

Across the country in the Alpine town of St.-Claude, the medieval pastime of "devil chasing" will once again become the favorite pre-Lenten hobby of the townspeople.

As in any hunt, weapons in the "devil chase" are limited — in this case, to minuscule bellows.

Meanwhile, other provinces will be celebrating their own style of Mardi Gras, based on folklore of their areas.

In Nantes, for example, King Carnival will be dressed in Breton costume, while a Norman monarch promises to rule over festivities in Granville.

Other cities with their own version of the Mardi Gras monarch of merriment include the Catalan town of Amelieles-Bains, in Southwest France; Angers, in the Chateaux country, noted for its Corpus Christi procession; and Biarritz, near the Spanish frontier.

DIES VIOLENT DEATH

All these celebrations have one thing in common, however: King Carnival will die a violent death — as he has throughout his centuries-long history.

The actual execution of this symbolic monarch of madness has been traced to primitive times, when tribesmen sometimes killed their king at the end of a loved term — to the general merriment and laughter of all his subjects.

Mardi Gras itself seems to be the Christian descendant of the Roman Saturnalia and Greek festivals of bread and wine. It is, literally, the "Fat Tuesday," which precedes the Lenten fast.

In its present form it dates back to at least the Middle Ages, when Geoffrey, the historian, described how Charles II, king of Naples and Provence, participated merrily at the Nice Carnival.

In those days, however, the Battle of Flowers would have been described more accurately as a "Battle of Eggs. Soot, Beans and Mud" — and there's no mention of any young French strikers.

Toward the middle of the last century, however, when the carnival became a highlight of the social season for the bulk of European royalty, eggs and mud were replaced by confetti, paper streamers and flowers.

500-TON PROBLEM

Today, in fact, these scraps of colored paper, along with masks, spangles, tin horns and paper hats, amount to a 500-ton-per-year problem for Nice's Municipal Cleaning Department.

Decorative operations, like the cleanup procedure, also are more organized, thanks to efficient direction of the "Comite des Fetes de Nice" which was established in 1913.

Among its many functions is selection of the carnival theme and the personality of the giant king.

The comite must also choose the carnival anthem, main theme of singing and dancing, and supervise the work of "carnivalers" who make the giant floats, some of which weigh as much as eight tons.

Actually, "carnivalers" are skilled craftsmen who have inherited their trade over generations. Their work, however, keeps them occupied throughout the year.

For as soon as the 1961 carnival is over, and the city of Nice has once again returned from the "Realm of Fancy" to the "realm of reality," the "carnivalers" will begin the work of fashioning a new papier mache king who will assume his brief two-week reign a year from now, in February 1962.

Nancy Crawford
in Royal Oak

After a wedding reception in the Pontiac City Club, Kenneth B. McConnell and his bride, the former Nancy Louise Crawford, left for a honeymoon at Mont Tremblant Ski Lodge in Quebec.

The Rev. John Shults performed the single-ring candle-light ceremony Dec. 30 in St. John Episcopal Church, Royal Oak.

Parents of the Birmingham couple are the Thomas J. Crawfords of Gaylord and the late Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McConnell of Arthur, Ont.

Styled along Empire lines, the bride's gown of white bouquet taffeta featured a portrait neckline, butterfly bustle bow and sweep train. Alencon lace and seed pearl applique enhanced the molded bodice which extended into wrist-length sleeves.

A shell cap of Alencon lace secured the veil of silk illusion. The bride carried a bouquet of lilies, anemones and ivy.

To her Elizabeth Crawford, her sister's honor maid, appeared in a short Empire dress of Peruvian blue clustered satin styled with scoop neckline and cap sleeves. An Old sash fell over the bell skirt. Stiffened veiling was attached behind matching satin everted flared train.

Denise Baldwin of Birmingham, in an identical ensemble, served as bridesmaid.

They carried ivory Fujii chrysanthemums, with blue pompons accenting the honor attendants' bouquets.

On the square side were W. Gerald Warren of Grosse Pointe, best man, and ushers Mrs. J. W. Warren of Grosse Pointe, brother of the bride, Patrick F. Plunkett of Detroit and Terrence Fitzgerald of Toronto, Ont.

An aliphant corsage of cymbidium orchids and roses adorned Mrs. Crawford's sheath dress of French blue silk crepe, with a wide side drape and panel neckline of Chantilly lace. Mrs. E. H. Sine of Detroit, aunt of the bridegroom, also had a sheath dress of navy blue silk crepe, variegated flowered hat and orchid corsage.

The bride, a graduate of Breaux College in Women, Gainesville, Ga., chose a wool costume suit of blue lavender and purple for traveling. She is affiliated with Alpha Delta Pi Sorority.

An alumnus of University of Michigan Law School, the bridegroom also holds a B.A. degree from Hope College. He is a member of Delta Theta Phi Fraternity.

After Jan. 15, the couple will be at home in Birmingham.

WCTU to Give
'Pay the Piper'
Movie Sunday

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will sponsor a film showing of "Pay the Piper" following Sunday evening services at First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Walter L. Wilson of Murphy Avenue will open her home Tuesday for a business luncheon for members of the Dora B. Whitney Unit.

Mrs. Frances Zalant, director of the Alcoholism Information Center of Pontiac Public Health Department, will speak.

The WCTU Federation will meet for family night dinner Tuesday at the Christian Temple on Auburn Avenue. Each group will provide one dish and those attending should bring individual table service.

The Rev. David Martin of the Crusade for Christ TV program in Detroit will be guest speaker.

Personal News

Mrs. John Braid, formerly of Green Street, was honored on her 80th birthday Sunday at a family dinner in the home of her son-in-law and daughter the Donald Bronsons on Lone Pine Road.

Assisting were the John Braids and Mr. and Mrs. Carrol C. Braid.

Among the 28 guests were Mrs. Braid's brother and sister-in-law the Ogden Chamberlain of Morgan, Mont.

They have been visiting his daughter and son-in-law Dr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Jeffers of Valley Vista Road, Birmingham.

Pvt. Betty Jane Arnold has returned to Fort Knox, Ky., after a holiday turlough with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Arnold of North Tasmania Avenue.

Carol Ann Esser, daughter of the Richard Essers of Onieda Road has returned by plane from Westchester, Pa., where she was a houseguest of Jerry Sauter over the New Year holiday.

Jerry is a student at Cornell University and Carol attends Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Dr. and Mrs. John P. Wood of Rudgate Road, Bloomfield Hills, left early this week for their apartment in Redington Beach, Fla. She will stay for three months and Dr. Wood will commute for brief vacations.

Recent house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Omar E. MacNutt of Neome Drive were Dr. and Mrs. LaMar MacNutt and daughter Alicia of Jacksonville, Fla., Leah MacNutt of Colorado Springs, Colo., Mrs. Q. R. Mahan and daughter Delta of Clearwater, Fla., and James Haysett of Indianapolis, Ind.

A family dinner for 38 was a highlight of the holiday season.

The birth of a daughter, Laura Eunice, Dec. 29, in Riverview Osteopathic Hospital, Trenton, is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. McVean (Heleen Ann Drake) of Wyandotte.

Grandparents of the infant are the Duncan E. McVean of East Beverly Avenue and the Manley A. Drake of Pinegrove Avenue.

Mrs. Grover Kile of Scott Lake Road left by plane Thursday for a month's vacation with her sister, Mrs. Francis Gardner of Orlando, Fla. She will then fly to Montgomery, Ala. for another month-long stay with relatives and friends, returning home about March 1.

Honking
Horn Rude to Hearers

By The Emily Post Institute

Question: Whenever I go to my bridge club meeting my husband usually comes for me and drives me home. I am the only one in the group who lives on the other side of town and as I have no one to go home with, my husband has kindly volunteered to pick me up.

We usually stop playing at a certain time. Rather than have my husband get out of the car and come to the door to fetch me, I told him to back the horn three times when he arrives so that I will know he is there and leave.

I overheard one of the women criticize him for honking in the horn and said that it was bad manners. Under the circumstances, I see no objection in his honking the horn and think her criticism very unfair. I would like your opinion on this.

Answer: Your having told him to do so, excuses him from any rudeness to you personally, but honking his horn unnecessarily was nevertheless disturbing, and therefore rude, to everybody else who heard him.

Question: I am a widow in the late sixties and live alone. I have a small house of my own here in Florida. My late husband's brother who is in his early seventies plans to spend a month here to get away from the cold weather. Would it be proper for him to stay in my house as a guest or should he go in a hotel?

Answer: It will be entirely proper for him to stay in your house.

The Emily Post Institute is sorry it cannot answer personal mail.

Jane Underhill Wed This Morning

Orchard Lake Country Club was the setting for a reception following the marriage of Jane Underhill and Paul E. Gibbons this morning at St. Hugo of the Hills Church, Bloomfield Hills.

The Rev. Francis T. Stack officiated.

Parents of the newlyweds are the Carl A. Underhills of Cranbrook Road, Birmingham, and Dr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Gibbons of Westwood, Mass.

The bridegroom of pale ivory satin was designed with scoop neckline, ribbon-length sleeves and bell skirt that swept into a chapel train.

LACE ADDS ACENT

Gouture lace applique accented the fitted bodice and unpressed pleats of the full skirt.

The bouffant veil of silk illusion was caught by a small crown of the rare lace. The bride held a crescent of white pearls.

Barbara Underhill attended her sister as maid of honor, with her sister-in-law Mrs. Carl A. Underhill Jr. and Judith Frost, also of Birmingham, bridesmaids.

Other attendants were Mrs. David F. Meyers of Bloomfield

Hills and Mary Gibbons of Westwood, Mass., the bridegroom's sister.

Their dresses of mat padee sole in beauty red were styled with square necklines, draped bodices and bell skirts with unpressed pleats.

Veiled headpieces matched their dresses and they carried white poinsettias.

The bridegroom had Richard Mulhern of Westwood, Mass., as best man.

MASSACHUSETTS USHERS
Coming from Massachusetts to serve as ushers were the bridegroom's brother William of Westwood, William Lynch of Dorchester, Daniel J. Daley Jr. of Brookline, William C. Hamilton Jr. of Malden and Donald Vahey of Mattapan.

Also seating guests were the bride's brother Carl A. Underhill Jr. of Birmingham.

Gold accessories complemented Mrs. Underhill's dress of kelly green satin styled with bell skirt, worn with matching satin hat.

The bridegroom's mother appeared in beige Alencon lace over satin with matching accessories.

After a 10-day honeymoon of skiing at Mont Tremblant, Quebec, the couple will live in Watertown, Mass.

Mrs. Douglas Menzel will be hostess for the next business meeting.

Assure Homemaker Lot of Carpet for $$

CHICAGO—Homemakers shopping for new carpet this year will find that they will be able to buy "a lot of carpet" for their money.

This happy report can be made from a preview of the new carpet styles being introduced at the Winter Home Furnishings Market, which opens here tomorrow at the Merchandise Mart.

Brilliant colorings, heavy textures and many elegant designs translated into "healthy hunks" of carpet pile will be available at "pocketbook-fitting" prices ranging from $7 a square yard and up, the new lines reveal.

The broadening of the carpet color spectrum that has developed during the past 10 years gets another boost in the 1961 offerings. This has been accomplished not only by the use of more, deeper pigments, but also by the clever use of texture to achieve unique tones and shades.

"Texture for color's sake" is a good way to describe the design techniques being employed to create these subtle coloring effects. Handcrafted textures, swirling light looped designs, bulky curl-loops, "wood-grain" ripple tones, wavy striated multilevel piles and long shaggy yarn-looped and uncut—have been utilized by the carpet stylists and manufacturing engineers to develop the new hues.

For example, a yellow-green dye used in tight, velvety pile glows a vibrant gold-green. The same dye applied to a heavy, shaggy texture takes on a deeper olive shade.

The carpet stylists, however, have not been content to create new colors solely through texture. Dramatic colors now brighten the palette. A number of these have been created simply by reverting to "pure" colors, such as red, yellow, true red, true green and even a true gold.

In some lines, formerly muted tones have been boldly deepened. The purples, for example, have been given a strong bluish cast as a departure from the lavender or

Cliff Dwellers Live It Up

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—In small towns, where everyone knows everyone else, socializing is as easy as reaching for the telephone.

But in the lonely impersonality, loneliness is the malady of many who came to the big town to make their mark, have made it and still sit alone nights.

Numerous are the ways of conquering loneliness—the good book, the TV set, the neighborhood movies, and the cocktail party circuit. If you can stand the pace once you're on the endless list of invitations.

Or, there is an organization called "The Cliff Dwellers," whose major purpose is pleasure from each member's company.

I first heard of the Dwellers from John Cronin, a member, who runs a skin-diving equipment center in Manhattan.

Cronin said, "Boy, the Dwellers enjoy life. A party every five days. Call up Bill Boal if you want to know more about them."

Boal, 29, turned out to be president of the organization which has its beginnings in a conversation among him and a few friends one evening in the spring of 1959. "We were trying to figure out how to build an audience for a magazine, before and after you started one," said Boal, who has experience in the magazine, the theatrical producing and acting fields.

The group decided to aim for New York's "young successful"—the single set between ages 20 to 40 mostly in the advertising and communications world, in Wall Street, fashion and the professions.

Invitations for a first party went out to a list of 1,500 "friends of ours, friends of friends of ours, and friends of their friends," said Boal in an interview. "Five hundred people showed up, much to our amazement."

"Cliff Dwellers has been growing like Topsy since," continued Boal, a native of Chicago. "There now are 3,000 members in New York and affiliated branches in Miami, Boston, Washington, Toronto and Buffalo. We hope to open another branch in Chicago in February."

MAGAZINE DEBTS

Now Boal has two associates helping him run the organization—Arthur Bernstein, a free-lance television writer, and Ted Sleg, an industrial designer. The organization also has that hoped-for magazine, called "The Cliff Dweller," naturally.

Several members have married, he said.

Boal said the number of men and women members runs about 50-50—"the proportion's self-evident. If one party produces a surplus of girls, you'll find the next one has a full stag line."

Cliff Dwellers stages a dance or cocktail party once every 10 days. And now, Boal said, special interest groups are also planning their own gatherings with gatherings.

Some members are gourmets and meet regularly to try food in a famous or a new restaurant. Others are skindiving hobbyists and gather at hotel swimming pools for practice. Still others like to ski, so plan ski weekends in New England.

And, Boal said, some are helping on capitalization for a new play he is producing and planning to open in London in early March. Still other Cliff Dwellers want to travel, and last year a group chartered a plane for three weeks vacation in Europe.

"The vacation cost each one about half what he'd have paid as an individual," said Boal. "That's one of the things the club does... helps us collectively to afford what we could not otherwise."

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Once human beings decided to get up off their four legs, the foundation was laid for varicose veins. The blood must then flow back to the heart against the pull of gravity. The strength of the veins you inherited has much to do with whether or not you develop varicosities.

In this way varicose veins are inherited. The work you do also has an influence.

If you are on your feet for long hours, your veins may not be able to stand the strain. On the other hand, exercise is good for this condition in its early stages.

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here are a few suggestions: Do not wear garters. Do not sit for long periods of time without getting up and walking about.

Always rest your feet up on a stool or chair, or with pillows under your feet if you are lying down. This is especially important during pregnancy when the blood vessels are subjected to an extra strain.

If you have any reason to believe that you are getting varicose veins, see a physician immediately. Early treatment is important and can save you lots of trouble later on.

Elastic stockings not only give support, but help control the condition. Your doctor should prescribe them for you.

Walking and swimming are splendid exercises for the woman who has this trouble.

If neglected, varicose veins can be painful and crippling. However, so much has been learned regarding their treatment in recent years that they can be controlled.

If you would like to have my head "Superficial Hair and Varicose Veins," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 53. Address: The Pontiac Press.

Will Exhibit Weaving, Photography

CRANBROOK—A one-man show of weaving and photography by Marianne Stengell will be at Kingswood School Cranbrook Jan. 16 through Feb. 10. The exhibition opens with a preview tea Jan. 15.

Miss Stengell is head of the department of weaving and textile design at Cranbrook Academy of Art.

While Kingswood presents her work, fabrics by Miss Stengell who are being featured at the Brooklyn, N.Y., Museum of Art in a 10-man invitational show of artist-craftsmen.

A noted fabric designer, Miss Stengell was born and educated in Finland and worked in Europe a few years before making her home in the United States.

DIVERSITY OF WORK

Throughout her career in Europe and the U.S., she has worked widely with architects, designers and industrial firms.

Her many commissions include woven fabrics for the General Motors Fiberglas Building in New York, the General Motors Technical Center in Warren and United Air Lines jets, as well as automobile fabrics and designs for the open line in home furnishings.

Miss Stengell has had more than 60 one-man shows, a traveling show in Scandinavia and numerous group exhibitions. In addition, she uses her talents as a lecturer and writer to further interest in art fields.

In 1957 she toured around the world with her husband, architect Olav Hammarstrom, lecturing in 14 countries on developments in U.S. architecture, arts and crafts.

One highlight of Miss Stengell's career is her work with the U.S. government.

In 1951 the International Cooperation Administration sent her to Japan and the Philippines as technical adviser on weaving and textile design, to help re-establish fabrics as a cottage industry.

Public hours for the Kingswood exhibition are Mondays through Fridays, 4:15 to 5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 2 to 4:45 p.m.; closed Saturdays.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER J. BEAUREGARD

A dinner in West Bloomfield Township Hall marked the New Year's Day golden wedding anniversary of former Pontiac residents Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Beauregard of Cheboygan. The 85 guests included four of the couple's eight children: Mrs. Nelson White, Blaine Street; Mrs. Ernest Lucier, Geringville; Everett Beauregard, Hazel Park; and Mrs. Vernon Reynolds, Keep Harbor. Other sons and daughters are Chester Beauregard, Auburn Heights; WO Ralph Beauregard, Winthrop, Mass.; Mrs. William Wilson, Atlanta; and Mrs. Arthur Boyce, Cheboygan. There are 25 grandchildren.

Suggests Simple Pattern for Sewing Fur Fabrics

Fabric sales include bolts of fur in many stores, and the reduced prices may encourage a seamstress to whip up a jacket, hat or stole. Since fur fabrics are bulky, they prevent some special sewing problems.

Dorothy Eiler, clothing specialist at Michigan State University, suggests a simple pattern with a minimum of darts, tucks and seams. Furlike fabrics do have nap and sheen, so all pieces must be cut in the same direction according to the pattern guide for "fabric with nap."

Most fur fabrics also have some shading or swirling effects which should be considered in placing a pattern. Front pieces should be matched, with some consideration for the design effects at the back and sleeves, Miss Eiler explains.

The clothing specialist suggests you use sharp pins to attach the pattern firmly to the fabric, and cut the fabric with sharp shears. For facing, a less bulky fabric, such as firmly woven wall, taffeta or satin can be used along with an interlining or interfacing.

Fake fur is actually fabric, so curved edges should be stay-stitched to keep them from stretching. Sections should be basted together firmly to prevent slipping and machine stitching with size 14 to 16 needle at 8 to 10 stitches per inch. Heavy duty thread may be needed for some fabrics.

Darts can be slashed and opened to eliminate some bulk. Some fibers used in fake furs are damaged by pressing or steaming, so the label on the bolt should be checked for specific instructions.

Miss Eiler says it may be well to test a small sample of fabric before pressing the actual garment.

To hold facings in place, the seam can be opened and the facing stitched through all seam allowances. This keeps the seam line from rolling outward. Seam edges may be caught, stitched loosely to the garment. Large hoods and eyes, hand loops or frogs may be used for closings.

Only Milford Stands in Holly's Way in W-O

Missed Free Throws Hurt Oxford Quintet

Failure to make free throws hurt Oxford's bid to upset Lake Orion last night.

The Dragons won the nonleague tussle, 42-33.

A poor fourth quarter cost Oxford the game. The Wildcats were guilty of missing eight free throws, more than half on the first attempt, a one-and-one, and blew two layup shots. The Wildcats converted only 13 of 32 free tosses in the game.

Lake Orion's margin of victory was not greater if the Dragons hadn't missed over half their free throws from the line. They made 13 of 32.

The loss gives Oxford a 0-4 record on the season. Lake Orion upped its overall mark to 3-2.

James Tamm-Ross had another good night for the winners. The 83 senior took game scoring honors with 19 points. Buckey Craven, Orion's fine guard, clipped in with 13. Ray Converse scored Oxford's 12.

Clawson kept Madison in the Oakland B cellar by posting a 47-41 win.

Jerry Mattoon of Madison was high with 16 points. Craig Shoup scored 11 for the winners.

Milford's Bob Oaks was the top man in all league games last night as he hit for 28 points with 10 field goals of 15 attempts. The 6-4 senior grabbed 11 rebounds.

Dave Hill had 15 and Randy Moxley 10 for Brighton as no other Milford player hit in double figures.

Art Tregeza was high man for Bloomfield Hills with 18 as the Barons led 27-23 at halftime. Northville got within three in the final quarter, but never took the lead. Craig Bell and Dan Brown each had 14 for the losers.

Nine of the 10 Clarencville players scored but only Ridding hit double figures with 11.

Milford's lone league loss was at the hands of Holly, but the two teams will meet again February 19.

Bohnet broke his school's scoring record by swishing 40 points through the nets in leading the Bulldogs to an 89-61 victory over Detroit Tech.

Ferris encountered no difficulty in rolling to its seventh win against two setbacks. The Bulldogs enjoyed a 44-33 halftime lead and continued to pour it on in the second half.

Bohnet set his record with 17 field goals and six foul shots.

Two other Michigan league quintets dropped out-of-state destinations.

Central Michigan was whacked by Illinois State 81-53 for its seventh defeat in eight starts. And Michigan Tech absorbed an 88-63 defeat at the hands of Winona State of Minnesota. It was Tech's third loss against one triumph.

In two other games, So Tech blasted Goshute Community College 82-40 and Alpena JC whipped Port Huron JC 38-33.

Broncos Trim Clarkston to Stay Unbeaten

Wayne-Oakland Race Narrows: Down to 2 Teams Now

Unbeaten Holly rolled to an easy 35-13 victory over Clarkston last night to keep its first place position in the Wayne-Oakland League just ahead of Milford which defeated Brighton, 61-47.

The Broncos led 23-24 at halftime and hit the hoop for 41 per cent as Don McKenke collected 11 and Ron Moran 19.

Except for Milford, the W-O race already appears to be out of reach for the other six teams.

Bloomfield Hills made its league record 2-3 by defeating Northville (2-3), 56-32, and Clarkstonville won double figures with 11 in defeating West Bloomfield (2-3), 59-37.

Fifth Straight On Road

Pistons Easy for Celtics

DETROIT (AP)—Tom Heinsohn two free throws for a four-point lead and Bob Cousy paced the Boston Celtics in their fifth straight victory—all on the road—as they scored and the Celtics stretched their Eastern Division lead to 1½ games over the Philadelphia Warriors.

In dropping their fourth in a row, the Pistons played minus regulars Archie Rouseff, their top scorer, and Archie Dees, both are sidelined with injuries.

Heinsohn scored 31 points. Cousy had 19 and secured on nine layups as the Celtics stretched their Eastern Division lead to 1½ games over the Philadelphia Warriors.

Local Rivals Clash Tonight After Thrillers

Sub Rice Hits Jacket Clincher; Rochester Falls, 50-49

By CHUCK ABRAH

Many of the Avenidae and Rochester basketball fans may be short on sleep when the local rivals clash tonight on the Falcon court after screaming throughout wild 1961 openers for their teams Friday.

The Yellowjackets won out in a big Oakland B battle besting previously unbeaten Oak Park 51-49 at home while Coach Gene Conley's crew was dropping a 50-49 verdict to visiting St. Clair Shores Lakeview.

Unbeaten junior reserve Bill Rice was the hero. With the score tied, 20 seconds to play and Oak Park in possession, he stole the ball at midcourt and calmly dribbled in for an easy layup. A quick foul violation ruined any Parker hopes for a final shot as the Aven boys held the ball.

Rice had seen spot duty in earlier Jacket games but his basket was his first victory points.

It was Avenidae's 3rd triumph in four starts—all in the Oakland B. Each victory has been by two points. The latest one drew a comment of "I can't take much more of this" from Mrs. Marion Bay, wife of winning boss Dick Bay.

Now about her husband's basketball team.

The Oak Park setback tightened the race considerably. Fitzgerald moved into the lead by beating Troy 51-39. The Parkers beat Avenidae now share 2nd.

Clarksville won the Oakland B by winning 67-41. Lake Orion was idle in league play.

The big Oakland B duel was a tight one all the way with a short-lived six-point edge the biggest difference. The score was tied 11 times and the lead changed hands on 14 occasions.

Holding the advantage on the boards, Oak Park led 15-12 after one quarter. An eight-point spree, four by Tim Burt, gave Aven 25-20 margin late in the opening half but the losers had evened the count at the intermission. Two successive Aven baskets made it 29-25.

Aven to lead 43-39 starting the last period.

The victors appeared in trouble when star Jim McDonald fouled out on the 1st play of the 4th quarter but Rice and Roger Van Conant helped take up the slack. Oak Park went in front 41-41 and then 47-41 but a three-point play and a Bourdo foul tied it with 2:29 left. Fine Parker guard Stan Drexler earned two fouls but Bourdo's goal matched them. Both teams missed shots before Rice came through.

Bourdo topped the scoring with 27, rebounding very well in the last half.

Rochester came from behind to go ahead 32-24 at the end of the 3rd quarter and stayed in command until the last two minutes. Lakeview broke the spell but Chuck Kelly quickly regained the lead with 1:18 to go. Two free throws gave it back to the winners. A missed layup after a steal was Rochester's final futile bid.

A big 21-point effort by Phil Kiser went to waste as the Whites record dipped to 2-4.

Np. 6—Baseball's Unforgettable Games

The Fantastic 26-Inning Game in 1920 Still Has Baseball Historians Amazed

By JOE REICHLE and BEN OLAN

Almost any well-versed baseball fan knows that the longest game ever played in the major leagues was the 26-inning, 1-1 tie between the Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Braves at Braves Field in Boston.

The changes are, too, that almost all fans will know the two pitchers involved in the marathon affair—Joe Oeschger of the Braves and Leon Cadore of the Dodgers, both of whom started and finished the fantastic game.

However, there are facts about the four-hour contest played in Boston, on a Saturday afternoon, May 1, 1920, which still amaze baseball historians.

They take a second look at the "At Bat" column, which shows that a couple of Boston players, Tony Boeckel and Charley Pick, had 11 official trips to the plate.

They gaze in awe at the long string of zeroes which stretches unbroken for 20 frames after the first 6 innings, when Boston pushed a man across to equal the score that Brooklyn had picked up in the fifth.

They're stunned by the fact that each team used only 11 players. Brooklyn substituted for an out-fitter and its catcher, Boston replaced its catcher, Mickey O'Neil, with Hank Gowdy after O'Neil had been removed for a pinch hitter in the ninth.

The game entailed a slug ganging of some 4,000, many of whom were unaware that Cadore, who had been in the Braves' lineup in an 11-inning game in Brooklyn two weeks earlier, with Cadore winning, 1-0. Cadore had been a 13-game winner in 1919, and Oeschger, who had won 15 in 1919, was in his best season, was apparently embarking on a comeback after a drab 4-1 record in 1919.

It was drizzling when Umpire Ben McCormick called "Play Ball." But the rain stopped abruptly at the close of the first inning, and customers settled down to watch three more scoreless innings pass.

In the fifth, however, Brooklyn catcher Ernie Krueger got a base on balls. Cadore then bounced back to his rival pitcher. It was a perfect double-play ball, but Oeschger let it pop out of his glove. By the time he recovered, the only play was to first base to retire the batter. Krueger moved to second and scored when Olson singled over shortstop Rabbit Maranville's head.

Boston scrambled to even the score. In the half of the sixth, right fielder Wally Cruise tripped in the foot of the scoreboard to enter. Tony Boeckel drilled a single to center and Oeschger came home to tie the score at 1-1.

The crowd, huddled in its rain coats, settled back then and watched the double row of stars build up on the scoreboard. Both Cadore and Oeschger were pitching wearily.

Batters on both sides were trying for the one long hit that would break up the game. The harder they tried, the easier it was for Cadore and Oeschger to get them out.

With one out in the ninth, Boston came within a whisker of scoring. The bases were full. Leslie Munro hit a grounder to Olson, who tried to tag Charley Pick heading into second. He missed and threw to first to get Mann as Rabbit Maranville crossed the plate with what appeared to be the winning run. Base umpire ruled the run invalid, however, because Pick had left the base line to avoid being tagged.

Finally, in the 17th, Brooklyn loaded the bases on Oeschger, with only one out. Harold (Rowdy) Elliott grounded to Oeschger, whose throw to Gowdy forced Wheat at the plate.

Gowdy's toss to first baseman Holke was wild, and Holke barely knocked it down. Ed Konetchy tried to score on the play but was tagged out by Gowdy, who took Holke a hurried throw and threw himself into the spikes of the sliding Konetchy.

The pitchers completed the 18th in good shape. Then the 19th and 20th. When they completed the 21st inning, they broke the National League record for number of innings played in any game.

The tension was tremendous. They finished 21 innings, then breaking the major league record

It was a disappointing anticlimax when umpire McCormick called them one at the end of the 26th because of darkness. Olson hushed out and said, "Wait one more inning. I want to be able to tell my grandchildren I played the equal of three nine-inning games in one afternoon." McCormick refused to listen.

The pitchers' duel added some remarkable new statistics. Cadore had 12 assists. Oeschger 11. Holke made 42 put-outs. Konetchy 30. And the whole incredible 26 innings had taken only 3 hours and 50 minutes.

As the players struggled out of the park, fans shook their heads and muttered, "Cadore and Oeschger will never be the same after this." Somehow that idea has persisted to this day, but while it's true that Cadore never had a winning year after 1920, he did win 13 games for a fifth-place team the next year. Oeschger, on the other hand, had his best year in the majors the following season, when he won 30 and lost 14.

Underdog Lions Duel Browns

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Cleveland Browns, runner-up in the Eastern Division, and the Detroit Lions, Western Division second-place club, meet today in the Orange Bowl in what amounts to a playoff for third place in the National Football League.

The incentive for all concerned, however, is money, money, money. Players on the winning team will get $500 each, and each loser will receive $100. And 40 per cent of the net proceeds will go to the players' pension fund.

Regardless of the money angle, the event means have been taking the contest as seriously as if they were fighting for the title, and haven't slanted in their preparation.

Dan McNamara, Orange Bowl ticket manager, said he would be disappointed if a crowd of 50,000 failed to show up, pointing out that an exhibition game between the Baltimore Colts and Pittsburgh Steelers here last September drew 39,000 in unfavorable weather.

The Browns, featuring the power running of Jimmy Brown and the adept passing of Milt Plum, ruled a 5-point favorite despite the fact the Lions have a big edge in meetings over the years, both in regular season play and in exhibition games.

Orion Skaters Have Two Sunday Contests

The Lake Orion Hornets will play a pair of fast hockey games Sunday.

At 11:00 a.m. the Hornets meet Hillman in Detroit at Haynes and Gratiot and at 1:00 p.m. they come up to Pontiac's Nordaqua rink to meet Wallaceburg from Canada.

All hockey games slated for today have been called off because of the warming spell.

Your Neighbor's House

There's Room to Grow in Jacobs' Home

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Young couples who build homes have to plan for the years ahead. If there are just two or three in the family when the house is built, two bedrooms will be enough. But let the family grow in size and the house starts bulging at the seams.

The William E. Jacobs, who live on Lakeview Court think they have anticipated their future needs. They have built a home that fits their needs perfectly right now. When the children become teen-agers, they will complete the lower level.

There are two boys and two girls in the Jacobs' household. Edward—more commonly known as "Bo"—is 11; John is 8; Anne is 5; and Cathy is 3. Then there's Teeny, the German Shepherd.

The Jacobs have a wonderful lot sloping down to Vnay Lake. There is the lake for swimming and skating. There are trees to climb. There is even a hill for tobogganing and skiing. Except for a smaller terraced garden space near the house, the land is left free for the children to use.

Ease of maintenance was another must with the Jacobs'. The whole family has too many interests to spend excess hours keeping the house clean.

Take the kitchen, for instance. Even the cupboards are made of Formica in a wood grain that had your home editor fooled at first. All counters have plain white Formica on them. Window sills are marble. The beige linoleum floor has gold speckles in it.

The range is in the counter separating the kitchen from the breakfast room. Walls in the latter are yellow green. Green, brown and yellow fruit is printed on the draperies.

The plastic topped table has bronzed metal, Danish modern chairs are a combination of bronzed metal, walnut and beige plastic. There's a plastic-topped free-form desk in one corner of the room.

Between the breakfast room and the front hall is the family room. This is the "African" room. Mrs. Jacobs' parents travel a great deal and bring back interesting souvenirs.

The floor is corkstone tile. Walls are painted a color known as "maple sugar". Draperies, woven by Mrs. Jacobs' mother, are semi-sheer white ones.

In one corner is a red brick fireplace with a raised hearth. Light fixtures are brass. Doors to the front hall are lowered. Above the green sofa is an interesting wall hanging showing African natives. The colors are brown and orange on a patterned background. Rugs are brightly colored ones made in South America.

Next to the low white Formica coffee table is a wooden chair with woven seat and back. Cushions are bright coral. Across the room is a tall backed white leather chair with a walnut frame.

The spacious entrance hallway has a slate floor. At the right of the front door is the stairway to the lower level.

MANY WINDOWS

There are 9 windows on the lake side of the house in the dining room and living room. These are curtained in green. Walls are a pale green. The floor is polished oak.

A three-way fireplace is built back to back with the fireplace in the family room. On the lower level there's a third fireplace in the future recreation room.

Made of white brick, the upstairs fireplace is set 6 bricks above the floor. It is built where it can be enjoyed from all parts of the living room and the dining room.

The light fixture over the dining room table is composed of three cones suspended from a three-pronged piece of walnut.

A beige linen sofa is placed so that occupants of it have fine view of the lake. At the end of the room opposite the dining room there are two coral leather armchairs. A pair of overstuffed green chairs stands in front of the windows.

Between these chairs is a beautiful Oriental teakwood table inlaid with mother-of-pearl. The lamp on it is unusual too; the base is an old wallpaper roller which printed the design on paper long ago.

In the girls' room the walls are sandalwood. Furniture is maple. Curtains are brown and chartreuse. Spreads are green.

The boys sleep in a blue room. They also have maple furniture.

The master bedroom at the front of the house has an attached green and ivory bath. Bedroom walls are ivory. There's a hooked rug on the floor. Furniture is maple.

White cafe curtains and blue and white draperies dress the windows.

Downstairs in the full basement we saw where future rooms are planned. As the children grow older this space will be divided into separate rooms. The Jacobs' will have a large bedroom and bath at one end; the girls will then take their present bedroom.

The exterior of the Jacobs' house is pinkish brick. Trim is crossbanded wood. All windows are thermopane. A bright orange front door makes it easy for strangers to find the house.

John A. Allen, AIA, of Farmington was the architect. J. L. Cook of Bloomfield Hills was the builder. It's been about a year since the Jacobs' moved from their old home in Birmingham to this new one.

orange print depicting African natives. The rugs, woven in bold primitive colors, came from South America. Walls in this room are a maple sugar color.

TWO-LEVEL SIDE—The William E. Jacobs' home is built on sloping ground with room for a second level at the back. Although the lower level is not finished inside, windows for the rooms planned were installed in the right places. The future bedroom, will be at the left with the library next to it and the recreation room under the wood trim. John A. Allen, AIA, of Farmington was the architect. J. L. Cook of Bloomfield Hills was the builder. The pink brick house is on Vnay Lake.

DINING AREA—A three-way fireplace marks the division between dining room and living room. Oriental rugs are used on the oak floor. The drop leaf table is mahogany. Green and blue striped material is used for chair cushions. Beyond the table is a slant-top desk under the windows.

Steel Sinks to Be Colored

Half the nation's sinks will be stainless steel in another 10 years. This is the year-end prediction of a pioneer manufacturer of stainless steel sinks, Karl Jensen, president of Jensen-Thorsen Corp. of Addison, Ill.

Jensen said his forecast was based on the stepped-up interest in stainless steel sinks which continued to be evidenced during the past year, as well as new developments such as the introduction of color to stainless steel—which will make stainless steel even more versatile in kitchen decor.

"Manufacturers of stainless steel will soon introduce the metal in a variety of colors," Jensen said. "Shades of brown and black have already been tested and will be on the market soon, while rainbow colors such as blue, green and red, as well as shades of gray, are in the test stage now."

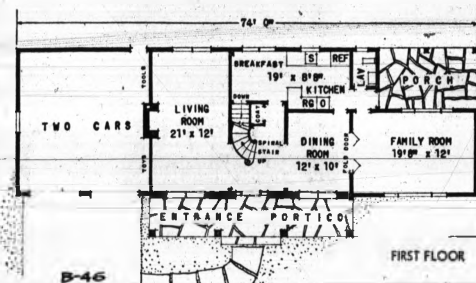

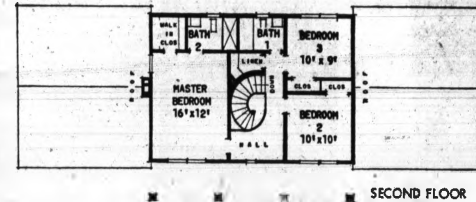

"This colored stainless steel can be used in sinks. And this means that the stainless steel sink will offer homemakers a wider choice than ever before in kitchen decor. Even without the development of color, all evidence indicates that stainless steel sinks would continue to climb in popularity," he continued. "Already they account for nearly 20 per cent of the sink market, and the year-by-year increase is a steady one."

Concrete Inside and Out

Among the new types of concrete masonry now being used inside homes as well as out, the most striking is probably grille block. These units with open spaces in geometric or free form design are not only attractive to look at but perform a useful function by giving privacy without completely cutting off the view. They are especially suitable for use in room dividers, carports, patio and garden walls.

SOUTHERN SUBURBAN — Here's an adaptation of traditional Southern architecture to the demands of the present. The home is luxuriously large in some rooms, yet it's total living area is only 1,697 sq. ft., a modest size for a two-story.

FLOOR PLANS — Note the immense stretch of the entertainment area starting in the living room and flowing across dining room through folding doors into the long family room. Upstairs there are three bedrooms and two baths.

Exterior Is Old Style Interior Spells 1961

By DAVID L. BOWEN

The South may have lost the Civil War, but its architecture has won the test of time.

When you think of gracious hospitality and living in a comfortably grand manner, you may well conjure up in mind a picture not too much different from the artist's rendering of this House of the Week design.

Outside, B-46 has a graceful entrance porch with columns rising 17 feet to the broad hall on the bedroom floor.

The home was designed by Architect Lester Cohen, who sought to capture the gracious and expansive mood of Southern architecture.

One of the areas of special success is the tremendous stretch across the front of the house. As guests fill up the living room, in this home, they can spill out across the foyer, across the dining room and into the family room — an unbroken distance of 52½ feet from wall to wall.

Despite the luxurious size of some rooms, this is no mansion. Living area on the first floor is 982 sq. ft., with another 715 on the second bringing the total to 1,697.

The kitchen at the back has an adjoining breakfast nook comfortable for family meals and beyond the lavatory at the service entrance is a covered porch.

Over-all dimensions with a two-car attached garage are 74 feet in width by 27'8" in depth.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

The living room extends the entire depth of the house, with true through ventilation windows at the front and back. Across the foyer to the right, the dining room opens through a wide arch.

Folding doors separate the family room from the dining room. Family room has a wide window at the front and immediately behind it a picture window overlooking the porch.

The kitchen is handy to both formal dining room and the casual relaxation area. There's provision for everything a homemaker would want for easy and efficient operation.

Glide up the curving stairway to the upper hall and you reach the bedrooms. The master bedroom, with walk-in closet and shower bathroom, takes up the left side of this level. The family bathroom is at the back of the main hall convenient to the children's bedrooms. In addition to the garage and basement for household storage, there are adequate closets throughout the home. Especially notable is the oversize linen closet next to the upstairs bath.

Pure Play Area in Basement

Winter's a good time to check your basement for potential play space. It can be the best, and least expensive, area to remodel as an activities room.

The basic structure is already there. Much of the work of remodeling can be done by anyone handy with hammer and saw. And the noise of boisterous youngsters at play won't carry through to the remainder of the house.

First, of course, any damp condition in the basement must be corrected. This is a good policy in any case, for moisture will cause wood walls to rot. Cracks in masonry should be filled and walls water-proofed.

Study the floor plan carefully. Decide how you can partition off certain sections — for the bathroom and the laundry room — so that maximum space will be left for the activities room.

Select materials for floor and walls carefully. One of the most satisfactory for floors is ceramic tile, since its wide range of colors and patterns can do away with the need for rugs. And children can even roller skate on a ceramic tile floor without marring or damaging it.

Wood panels and knotty pine are two of the more popular finishes for walls. They look good, but not too dressy for a recreation area. Locate your cabinets and storage spaces so that they will close in such awkward features as meters and vertical pipes. Build in plenty of storage, so you may keep bridge tables and play equipment out of sight when not in use.

Check Following Details in New House Kitchen

In planning for the kitchen in a new home, you should ask yourself these questions: 1. Will I have ample storage space? There should be about 100 square feet of storage space for every member in the family. 2. Will the room be surfaced with a durable yet easily cleaned material such as ceramic tile? Real tile's fireproof quality is also important. 3. Will there be a large window? The window area should be at least one-tenth as large as the floor and preferably should look out over the children's play area.

Do Over Range Center First

If the holidays have left you in an unholly daze, perhaps it's time you resolved to do something about the kitchen.

Even if you resolve to do something about the budget first, no conflict need arise if a permanent material like ceramic tile is used for kitchen walls, floors and counters. Spreading the cost over the long years of trouble-free service makes the economy of real tile as clear as freshly washed glasses.

Furthermore the kitchen can be improved in stages. The important thing is to work out a program and assign priorities. For example, the three main work centers — sink, range and mixing areas — can be tackled in order of need.

Taking the range center as an arbitrary beginning, analyze your kitchen and plan improvements or this year:

1. Function. The purpose of the range center is to provide facilities for surface cooking, baking and broiling and a convenient place for serving hot foods.

2. Location. The range center should surround the range, mixing center, not too far from the sink center and should be as accessible as possible to the dining area.

3. Equipment. The type and capacity of the range depends on the amount of cooking done and the fuel obtainable. The work counter should surround the range, holding food removed from the oven or surface burners and for serving food just off the stove. Ideal for surfacing the counter is ceramic tile, because it is acquirable.

Moisture Meter for Wood Valuable to Industry

Among the many innovations by the United States Forest Products Laboratory, was the first moisture meter for measuring the moisture content of wood. This device has been invaluable to lumber manufacturers and home builders alike since it permits a precise gauging of the results of the seasoning process.

By seasoning (drying), lumber is "pre-shrunk." So important is the process regarded that proper seasoning is mandatory for all grades of Southern Pine framing, paneling, flooring, siding and the like.

Plenty of Closets in White House Now

WASHINGTON — President-Elect and Mrs. John F. Kennedy will find the White House a "far more comfortable place" to live in than it was before its restoration-for-safety during the Truman administration.

Anyone who thinks the family rooms of the Executive Mansion provided the tops in livability over the years, should talk to Lorenzo S. Winslow. He was the White House architect for 19 years, including the period of the 1949-1952 rebuilding of the interior.

Winslow said that the "average new home today, even a small one, offers more in comfort" than did the family quarters of the White House before its remodeling.

The major improvements for comfort, he told the National Association of Home Builders, were the building of sufficient closets, more bathrooms and additional storage areas.

Many first ladies apparently have had storage problems. Winslow said that once there was only one small closet on the whole second floor, the main family quarters.

He explained that when the White House was built in the 1790s, closets generally were omitted because in those days, wardrobes were used to hold clothes. But the massive, often ornate, cases long ago ceased to be adequate.

Winslow said the recent rebuilding gave each of the White House bedrooms one or two big closets. Space for closets was obtained by replacing some thick interior walls with thinner steel construction and by cutting down the size of big, old bedrooms. In addition, storage rooms were built on the top floor.

There were no bathrooms in the White House when President and Mrs. John Adams became its first occupants in November 1800. Eventually, one bathroom was built. Others were added over the years. The remodeling of 10 years ago gives the two private, residential floors a total of 19 bathrooms.

MORE COMPACT
The old bathrooms were big, and, according to Winslow, often cold and drafty. He said they were "difficult to heat." Now they are compact, "heatable" units with marble, tile, noiseless toilets and glass-enclosed tub-showers. The bathrooms on the upper floor are smaller than those on the floor below.

The Truman administration restoration was undertaken to make the White House safe. Its floors were sagging and the interior construction was on the shaky side. This was the result of various changes made in the building in the 19th century by the occupants. But the changes were not always made with regard to structural strength.

Winslow said that the remodeling not only has made the mansion safe and more comfortable, but also more attractive. The living room, he noted, has new built-in bookcases and "nice architectural detail."

He believes that of all the rooms in the Executive Mansion, the sun room on the upper floor would be the ideal nursery for the Kennedy's baby, John F. Jr.

Winslow pointed out that there is a small kitchen adjacent to the sun room. Built as a diet kitchen, it could be used to prepare the baby's food. President Eisenhower has used this kitchen for the cooking he enjoys doing for a few close friends.

The sun room is the place where President Franklin D. Roosevelt had his lunch during the war years. For these meals, where Mr. Roosevelt had a sandwich or a light snack at his desk. But with the outbreak of World War II, the White House physician urged "FDR" to get away from his desk for a short time in the middle of the day, as a tension-breaker. The then President complied by having his lunches in the sun room.

It is a polygonal metal room with a great expanse of glass that provides a magnificent view extending to the Potomac River.

When Mrs. Bess Truman, then first lady, showed a group of women reporters through the family living quarters after the renovation, the sun room stood out as a bright and cheerful place. It had bamboo furniture and blue-green walls.

Winter Garden Notes

A hallway planter or an area too dark for anything except artificial plants is the place to try Aglaonema, the toughest of them all. Chinese evergreen is the common name of this plant which is becoming very popular because it is the answer to every housewife's prayer. It is practically indestructible and presents attractive foliage throughout the year, even in recessed corners.

Lance-shaped leaves resemble polished leather with a beautiful dark green gloss, spotted with gray along the veins. When placed in brighter locations it will produce a flower that somewhat resembles that of the calla lily.

It will grow slowly in dark areas, but remain compact and sturdy. The native habitat of Aglaonema is the floor of the jungle where little light penetrates. It needs a rich organic planter mix made with lots of peat moss and fir bark. Fertilize once monthly with plant food tablets. Keep the planter mix moist at all times.

Congress Hears Nixon's Farewell

Surprises Solons After Official Proclamation of Kennedy-Johnson Win

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a dramatic moment Friday, Vice President Richard M. Nixon announced formally his presidential election defeat, after presiding over the canvassing of the electoral vote in a joint session.

It was no surprise that the final vote count showed Democrat John F. Kennedy with 303 electoral votes and Republican Nixon with only 219.

The surprise came when Nixon used the occasion for a farewell to Congress.

Congratulating Kennedy, Nixon said, "No matter how close the election may turn out to be, those who lose accept the verdict, and support those who win." He offered "heartfelt best wishes" to Kennedy and Vice President-Elect Lyndon B. Johnson.

TO QUESTION ROBERT

Soon after the vice president said farewell, the Senate Republican leader, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, promised detailed and lengthy questioning for Robert F. Kennedy, 35, designated by his brother to be the next attorney general.

"We have a duty to establish a complete record," Dirksen told newsmen, adding that he was not "a completely open mind" on the appointment of the younger brother of the president-elect.

Another echo of last fall's presidential campaign was heard in the Senate when Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., introduced legislation designed to encourage television debates between major political candidates in future campaigns.

The Nixon-Kennedy debates last fall were made possible by temporary suspension of a law network said would require them to give equal air time to splinter party candidates. Magnuson proposed to make the suspension permanent.

Delinquency Study Center Eyed at MSU
EAST LANSING (AP)—A proposal for a juvenile delinquency study center at Michigan State University is among a dozen proposals to be presented to the legislature, said Rep. Harry A. De Maso, R-Battle Creek, head of a legislative study committee on juvenile delinquency.

DeMaso outlined the proposed bills at the annual meeting of the Michigan Probate and Juvenile Judges Association at MSU Friday. He said the committee would ask for the center along with a $30,000 appropriation to be set up in connection with the MSU school of police administration.

Another bill, he said, would establish four types of youth camps: a military-type setup under the Michigan National Guard, youth conservation camps, summer work camps and regional county-supported camps.

GOP Zeros In on City Dems

Forming Task Force to Probe Machine Politics in Urban Areas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans pointed their guns toward the big city Democratic machines today as they repaired gaps in the GOP organization defeated in the presidential election.

National Chairman Thurston B. Morton called on Ohio State Chairman Ray Bliss to head a task force charged with probing "the practicalities of big city politics" and "telling Republicans how to win in these areas."

Bliss, whose organization carried Ohio for Vice President Richard M. Nixon in November, is a potential successor to Morton.

Morton accepted a unanimous invitation of the committee Friday to remain as chairman. But he said he will resign later in the year to begin campaigning for reelection to the Senate from Kentucky.

Morton, named Bernard M. Shanley, former White House chief of staff, to devise a "pretext security program" aimed at making it certain only authorized voters are cast and that they are counted correctly.

As an echo of Republican charges of irregularities in some states such as Illinois which Nixon lost by narrow margins, Morton asked for a model election law of "fair equity" to recommend to state legislatures. He picked Harley B. Markham of Idaho to head a drafting group.

These actions, combined with a drive to register voters now, added up to an early start to the 1962 campaign for control of Congress. President Eisenhower told committee members Friday they can win the House if they work hard enough.

To Divert $44 Million for Penny Jobs

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Gov. David L. Lawrence today signs legislation diverting $44 million from state employees and school teachers retirement funds into Pennsylvania's public relief fund, which is almost exhausted.

Lawrence says the diversion is necessary to keep the relief fund from going broke at midnight Monday. The state now has 9.3 per cent of the labor force out of work.

British Ford Forced Onto 3-Day Week

LONDON (AP)—A further fall in the demand for its automobiles at home and abroad has forced the Ford Motor Co. of Britain to put 18,000 workers on a three-day week.

The men have been working a four-day week since November. The new cut takes effect at the end of January. It will slash wages to approximately 10 pounds ($28) a week.

A company spokesman said the resulting 17,000 Ford workers will continue on full time.

The spokesman said all passenger car models have been affected by the drop in sales.

It is estimated that the latest cut in production will amount to about 1,500 vehicles. Early last year the company was rolling out some 2,000 cars a day.

Sen. Kuchel Spurns Trade With Nixon

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Republican National Chairman Thurston B. Morton has suggested that Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California step aside in 1962 and let Richard M. Nixon run for his Senate seat, the Los Angeles Times said today.

In a dispatch from its Washington bureau, the Times quoted Kuchel as saying: "I am much too old to play musical chairs, socially or politically."

Kuchel holds second position in the GOP Senate floor leadership. The Times said it was presumed — although Morton didn't say it — that Kuchel would run for the California governorship if he is not re-elected to the Senate.

Japan, U.S. Still Disagree How Many Were Killed by 1st Two A-Bombs?

TOKYO (UPI)—More than 150,000 people are believed to have been killed by the first atomic bombs plunged down on the Japanese cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

To this day no one really knows how many persons died in the blasts, the first and only instances of atomic power being used in war.

Perhaps no one will ever know. Difference in official Japanese casualty figures from official American figures for Hiroshima alone were more than 300,000.

Almost every office agreed in Japan discloses different A-bomb death figures.

OK $200 Million in School Work

Nearly 500 Projects
Get State Approval
During 1960

LANSING UP—The Department of Public Instruction last year approved school construction projects costing nearly $200 million. Its year-end report showed today.

Public and private schools obtained approval of nearly 500 projects providing 4,877 classrooms, the most since the record of more than 4,400 set in 1957.

Additionally, the department authorized 463 auxiliary projects for gymnasiums, auditoriums, swimming pools and other facilities.

The department is empowered to approve or reject construction of all elementary and high schools, both public and private, and room construction at all colleges and universities except the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

Popular Wayne County topped construction approval last year with 167 projects. Next, in order, were Oakland County with 81, Macomb with 54, Kent with 51, Lapeer with 31, Ingham and Saginaw with 18, Calhoun with 12 and Berrien, Kalamazoo and Washtenaw, all with 10.

The list includes only those on which architects were employed and which cost more than $15,000.

The department noted a nearly universal trend toward one-story school buildings. Last year 96 per cent of all elementary construction and 90 per cent of high school construction were of single-story design.

Interior Design Wins Buick Unique Citation

BUICK Motor Division today awarded a citation for "distinguished car design and outstanding contributions to interior comfort" by the American Institute of Decorators.

It marked the first time the AID, a national association of America's foremost interior designers and decorators, has singled out an automobile in its annual design award program.

Edward D. Rollert, general manager of Buick and vice president of General Motors, accepted the citation from the AID at the Lincoln Chamber, national president of AID, at the Institute's annual international design awards dinner in Chicago.

Sportsman's Request Honored by Town

CHIATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UP)—Soon after Dexter Van Zant, Tennessee softball commissioner, died recently, Chattanooga sportsman Ernest Hill approached the City Commission with a request.

Would they not award the name of Hill Field—named for Van Zant Field, in honor of Van Zant, a veteran Chattanooga News-Free Press sports writer? The commission complied with Hill's sportsman-like request.

Clamps Better on New Trailers

Transom Type Can Be Used in Place of Old Style Tie-Down

By United Press International
Many of the newer trailers have transom clamps that can be used in place of the conventional tie-down.

For some persons, taking a boat across country on a trailer can be a nerve-wracking experience.

Every dip in the road, every curve, every strange noise or bump seems to spell disaster.

Most of this worry is needless, but only if you have selected the right trailer, loaded it correctly, and pay attention to a few fundamental driving rules.

First, the trailer should fit the boat, with frame and springs heavy enough for the weight they carry. And this means combined weight—trailer, motor, boat and contents.

Justice of the Peace Eugene Galassi held Mardock over for county court when he entered a guilty plea and posted $200 bond.

Proposes Military Academy of Science

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., Friday introduced a bill to establish a U.S. military academy of science to help stave off a growing short- age of doctors.

Walter said in a statement that the proposed medical academy would serve the needs of both the military establishments and the civilian population. His statement said the proportion of doctors to the fast-growing population of the United States is declining steadily and has reached the dangerously low average of 119 physicians per 100,000 popu- lation.

Under Walter's bill, the medical academy would be open to 1,475 college graduates for a standard four-year medical course followed by 10 years' service in the armed forces.

College Must Accept Two Negro Students

MACON, Ga. (UPI) — A federal judge Friday ordered two Negroes admitted to the University of Georgia.

It carried out it would mark the first integration at the institution since its founding in 1865. The decision was handed down by Federal Court Judge W. A. Battle.

He ruled that two Negro ap- plicants, Charlyne Hunter and Ham- ilton Holmes, were fully qualified for admission to the state univer- sity.

He said the two apparently would have been admitted previously ex- cept for their race.

Rests After His Stroke

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Gen. Cernel Gursel, the chief of state who is recovering from the effects of a slight stroke suffered last month, failed to appear Friday at the ceremonial opening of the new constituent assembly.

Harriman May Go on Mission to Moscow

French Optimistic as Algiers Votes

ALGIERS (AP) — French officials beamed optimism today as the crucial referendum on President Charles de Gaulle's self-determination plan for Algeria entered its second day.

A voter turnout averaging 62 per cent Friday in 600 rural communities bolstered official hopes for approval of de Gaulle's plan to end six years of strife in this French territory.

De Gaulle has pleaded for a heavy "yes" vote and rebel leaders have called for a boycott of the polling places. French officials frankly believe a heavy vote of approval would give de Gaulle a greater chance of achieving a solution for the bloody Algerian question.

The French army maintained a vigilant watch today as about 570 communities voted. The army was ordered to prevent absenteeism.

Muslims generally disregarded orders from the rebel National Front of Liberation (FLN), officials stressed, and went to the polls.

A major fruit—and the possibility of violence—came Sunday when residents of urban centers, tense with agitation by Muslims and rightwing European settlers, risked their ballots.

The settlers violently oppose de Gaulle's plan for making Algeria an autonomous state and giving the Algerians themselves political self-determination at a later date.

De Gaulle warned Frenchmen the referendum will be their last chance to solve the Algerian problem. There is a risk, he said, that world events will sweep it out of their hands.

Thousands of battle-equipped troops took positions at strategic points in and around Algiers after a 10 p.m. curfew silenced the city Friday night.

Troops camped in front of government buildings and street-lit patrolled crisscrossed the streets.

Five plastic bombs planted by anti-Gaullist right wingers had exploded in the city earlier in the day.

Michigan One of Slowest Reporting Election Returns

In an effort to make election results more quickly available to the citizens of Michigan, The Associated Press has launched a study of the slow-voting returns in Michigan during the recent presidential election.

According to AP figures, Michigan had reported 6 per cent of its votes at 11:00 election night, compared to Arkansas at 40 per cent; Florida at 61 per cent; and Maryland at 80 per cent. Other states and their percentages at that time were Illinois, 22; Kentucky, 31; Mississippi, 37; New Jersey, 60; New York, 10; North Carolina, 34; Ohio, 27; Oklahoma, 45; Pennsylvania, 45; Texas, 55; and Wisconsin, 28.

AP Bureau Chief Clem Brosnan said that in counties—Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Genesee, Kalamazoo and Ingham—contain 52.8 per cent of the state's vote. They have voting machines in 91 per cent of the precincts, but by 11 election night, their reported results were meager.

Yet Kent County had 40 per cent in at 11 p.m.

And Kent County is not a sparsely populated area—it ranks fourth in population in the state with 361,145, compared to Wayne with 2,668,244, Oakland, with 807,611, and Macomb, with 466,356.

In Oakland County's 46 voting units, townships and cities, individual precinct chairman supposedly cut off the line to vote at 8 p.m., letting those in line at that time cast their ballots.

After this, the absentee ballots are cast, then the totals taken from the machines. Each precinct then reports this total to either the township or city clerk, the precincts are added together and the clerk sends a total figure to the county clerk.

- ### TOP TEN LISTED
- The first 10 governmental units in this area to have their returns in with number of precincts and time indicated* were:
1. Wixom, (2) 10:13
 2. Rose Township, (1) 10:27
 3. Holly Township, (2) 10:35
 4. Springfield Township, (1) 10:37
 5. Keego Harbor, (1) 10:40
 6. Walled Lake, (1) 10:50
 7. Addison Township, (1) 11:01
 8. Oxford Township, (3) 11:37
 9. Bloomfield Hills, (2) 11:39
 10. South Lyon, (1) 11:47
- The last ten governmental units were:
1. Avon Township, (8) 2:05
 2. Novi Township, (2) 2:05
 3. Waterford Township, (18) 2:20
 4. Oak Park, (20) 2:28
 5. Farmington Township, (10) 2:27
 6. Pontiac, (44) 2:29
 7. Clawson, (5) 2:30
 8. White Lake Township, (3) 2:37
 9. Grosse Pointe Township, (1) 3:30
 10. Madison Heights, (11) 4:32
- In Madison Heights, latest in the county to report its 11-precinct total, voters in one precinct were still balloting at 11 p.m., three hours after poll closing time.
- This latest precinct was set up during the summer to conform to the state's 1,498 maximum of registered voters per precinct. But City Clerk Myrtle Chamberlain says heavy registration in the fall boosted the figure to 2,200.
- She diverted an additional voting machine to the precinct, but there were still hundreds of people waiting in line at the 8 p.m. closing hour.
- Mrs. Chamberlain said the city's 10 other precincts had reported their totals by 2 a.m., but Precinct 11 didn't come through until 3:45 a.m.
- According to Oakland County Clerk-Register Daniel T. Murphy Jr., state law requires the division of precincts containing more than 1,498 registered voters. The law also establishes the limit of 600 registered voters per machine.
- Absentee ballots must be cast on the machines after the polls close, Murphy added, and they can only be cast on one machine.
- Commenting on the make-up of the election boards, Murphy said they are named by the township or city clerk, on a partisan basis, with an even split of Democratic and Republican.

Kennedy Said Eager to Sound Khrushchev Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-Elect John F. Kennedy is believed to be considering sending a special emissary to the Soviet Union. The mission: to sound out Premier Nikita Khrushchev on what ideas he may have on improving Soviet-American relations.

Presumably, the emissary would be W. Averell Harriman, ambassador to the Soviet Union during the Truman administration.

Harriman, who later served as governor of New York, was named a week ago by Kennedy to be his ambassador-at-large.

Of late, Khrushchev has been claiming he can do business with Kennedy. The special mission would try to find out if Khrushchev is sincere or if there are hard facts behind his claim.

The emissary report circulated here today as Kennedy remained in Washington for a tight schedule of conferences on politics, national and international affairs.

He leaves later on what will apparently be his last extensive trip before coming to Washington for his inauguration. Even this visit to do haunts is overshadowed by glooming problems in Cuba, Laos and other parts of the world.

Arriving from New York Friday night, Kennedy went straight from the airport into a bus and a half conference with his secretary of state designate, Dean Rusk. He told newsmen later their talk covered the two trouble spots and "the whole spectrum" of foreign affairs.

He gave no details, but did announce a change in his plans for a full week away from Washington. Instead he will return here for a short stay Tuesday which will include more conferences with Rusk, the treasury secretary, of the treasury, Robert B. Anderson, and others.

Kennedy's first appointment today was for breakfast with the Democratic national chairman, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington.

He arranged to receive later reports from two of his task forces, one on India and the proposed peace corps of young Americans to serve abroad, the other on natural resources.

He had appointments also with Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania and Matthew McConkey, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

Finally, Gov. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina was invited to lunch.

14-Mile Road Takeoff Hurts Pilot

A Bloomfield Township man was injured when his light, single-engine plane crashed as he attempted to take off on 14-Mile Road shortly before dawn today.

The victim, Stephen Kuan, 45, of 7233 Bingham Road, was taken to a local hospital where he is being treated for injuries.

His condition was described by his wife as "not serious." Hospital authorities refused to comment on his condition.

Mrs. Kuan, the mother of three daughters, said her husband brought his plane home recently to perform minor repairs, and arose early this morning to fly it back to the airport. She did not know which airport.

The low-wing craft apparently hit a patch of ice on the road and swerved into a ditch along 14-Mile Road, near Grimsby Road, before taking off, state police said.

They were investigating the crash in the sparsely settled area, along with a representative from the Federal Aviation Board.

Kuan is a self-employed consulting engineer. He has been flying for business and pleasure for at least 15 years, his wife said.

Kuan had towed the plane home behind his car with the wings dismantled, according to his wife.

Chief Norman Dehnke said Kuan asked him yesterday for permission to take off on Telegraph Road, near 14-Mile Road.

"I told him I had no authority to permit it, and if I did I wouldn't let him," said Chief Dehnke.

Wrong Kind of Wings at Miami Airport

IT'S DANGEROUS, BY GULLY — For centuries, man tried to find out how birds fly. Now, the tables are turned. The birds are intent on finding out how man flies. Or so it would seem from the feathered activity at some of the nation's major airports.

Miami International is plagued by swarms of seagulls which are a menace to jet airliners. The helicopter has been unsuccessful in routing the "spies," so a special spray designed to sicken the gulls without harming them is being considered. A flock of starlings was blamed for the fatal crash of an Electra jet-prop airplane last year in Boston.

Swiss Take Over for America

CHANGEOVER IN CUBA — Daniel M. Bradstock (left) of Grand Rapids, U.S. Embassy charge d'affaires in Cuba, hands over interests of the United States in the Castro-controlled nation to Swiss Ambassador Walter Bossi. Bossi will take over a chronic problem: How to affect the release of American citizens held by Cuban police. Four members of the Columbia Broadcasting System were picked up Friday by police on undisclosed charges.

Castro Continues Wooing of JFK

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro's regime cracked down today on Cubans trying to flee the country and floated another pitch for a reconciliation with the United States after President-Elect John F. Kennedy takes office.

The government forbade issuance of new exit permits for all Cuban and foreign residents but said tourists will not be affected.

American residents leaving will not require new permits to leave unless they intend to return.

NOT RESPONSIBLE — In currying the Castro regime's wooing of Kennedy further, Guevara emphasized that Kennedy would not assume responsibility for the break-off of diplomatic relations until he took office Jan. 20.

This Guevara said, is "important in that it injects a note of uncertainty on the issue. This means Eisenhower is responsible for all that and there are certain differences."

"The United States should never feel small in discussing reconciliation with us," he said. "We always are willing but on terms of respect for Cuba's sovereignty."

But Guevara also referred to Kennedy's presidential campaign statement that the United States should encourage anti-Castro forces.

"We cannot say Kennedy has changed," he said. "We must be watchful."

Guevara said Cuba's sale of sugar behind the Iron Curtain and in the United States closed its markets was the "result simply of a political action."

"Evidently we couldn't ask the Socialist Communist world to buy our sugar at those prices and have our petition on remittance money," he said. "The cause in reality there was a reason within world commercial terms for such purchases."

He said Russia and the United States each have spent more than a half-billion dollars on IGY payoffs—and the Russian effort "may have exceeded" that of the United States.

Winter to Return to Pontiac Area With 18 Degrees

Winter will blow in tonight with 18 to 30 mile-an-hour northwest winds, bringing scattered snow, or snow flurries and a low temperature of near 25.

The weatherman said Sunday will be cloudy, with snow flurries and colder temperatures, the high ranging from 25 to 30 degrees. Monday will continue cold.

Thirty was the lowest thermometer reading in downtown Pontiac 8 a.m. The mercury had climbed to 42 at 1 p.m.

Capt. Elliott B. Roberts of the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey estimated, in a report published Friday by the Smithsonian Institution, that 66 nations had contributed about $2 billion in IGY.

He said Russia and the United States each have spent more than a half-billion dollars on IGY payoffs—and the Russian effort "may have exceeded" that of the United States.

GMC Deliveries Rise 19 Per Cent During 1960

Gain Amplified by Fact That Truck Industry Sales Were Down

Domestic retail deliveries of GMC trucks in 1960 totaled 84,845 units, an increase of more than 19 per cent over 1959 figures. It was announced today by Calvin J. Werner, vice president of General Motors and general manager of GMC Truck and Coach Division.

GMC Truck made the substantial gain in a truck market that was off slightly in domestic retail deliveries in 1960, he said.

Truck buyers have recognized the value of the product features by GMC in its 1960 models," Werner said. "We have in the GMC light line proved the efficiency and reliability of our V8 gasoline engine design and the riding comfort of independent front suspension."

"In the GMC heavy duty models, truck operators have found greatly increased flexibility in meeting particular hauling needs through a broad selection of conventional and flat-bed, single axle and tandem axle units in a choice of V6 and V12 gasoline engines or V8 and V8 GM Diesel engines."

S. E. Knudsen, GM vice president and Pontiac Motor Division general manager, yesterday announced last year's sales of Pontiac automobiles were the highest since the record year 1955.

Pontiac sales in '60 totaled 409,667 units, representing a 6 per cent gain over the previous year, Knudsen reported.

4th Quarter Second-Best for Car Sales

DETROIT — A year-end buying fever, which sent auto sales soaring in the last 10 days of December, gave new car dealers their second-best fourth quarter volume in history, Ward's Automotive Reports said Friday.

Sales for the Dec. 21-31 period jumped 16.6 per cent above mid-month totals, the statistical agency reported.

The surge gave entire 1960 a near-record level 6,141,500 sales of domestic-built cars, 11.9 per cent above 5,468,172 in 1959 and second only to 7,668,659 in peak year 1955.

Ward's said December sales totaled 488,168 units, comparing favorably with the best volumes for that month since 1953.

Daily sales during Dec. 21-31 period surged to 20,500 from 17,732 daily for Dec. 11-20.

The statistical service credited the industry's 1960 sales upturn to widespread Big Three entry in the compact car field.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler dealers sold 1,178,100 compacts in 1960, their first full, frigid year in the market, according to Ward's, pushing the industry's compact sales to 1,666,300 units or 27.1 per cent of total car sales.

The industry's compacts took 31.5 per cent of December auto buying, topping the previous peak of 30 per cent set in November.

American Legion Selects Las Vegas Over Detroit

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The American Legion's 10-member convention site committee has selected this desert gambling center for the organization's 1962 convention.

Recommendation of the San Diego, Calif., committee is tantamount to approval, Legion officials said.

Committee Chairman Harry L. Foster said Friday the Legion's executive committee would vote on the recommendation May 23 in Indianapolis, Ind.

Detroit, Mich., originally site selected for the 1962 convention, lost out when it was unable to guarantee 7,000 first-class rooms. This city was able to guarantee the necessary rooms and has pledged $30,000 to underwrite convention expenses.

Drinker Booked in Frisco Fire

Faces Manslaughter for Hotel Blaze That Took 19 Lives, Injured 38

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A heavy-drinking pensioner faced manslaughter charges today for the second worst hotel fire in San Francisco history — a blaze which killed 19 persons and injured 38 others.

"I didn't do nothing," insisted Raymond Gorman, 62, when he was booked at a police station.

The fire began in his room in the 40-story Hotel at Ninth and Mission before dawn Friday. The blaze was thought quenched once, but sprang into deadly new life within minutes and spread flame and dense smoke throughout the five-floor structure where 135 tenants slept.

The first of five alarms came at 5:30 a.m. and by the time the first of 40 pieces of equipment and 250 fire fighters arrived, the death and injury toll had started to climb.

Screaming tenants, almost all of them elderly and many of them crippled, poured out of the front entrance, jumped into firemen's nets, or were carried down ladders. Near-freezing 38 degree weather added to their misery.

The unlucky ones died in their beds or slid out windows to the pavement. Many jumped down the hotel's four floor lifelines.

From the chaos, emerged numerous acts of heroism.

The first two policemen on the scene were credited with saving at least 30 lives. Patrolmen Peter Cappadona, 35, and Don Taylor, 29, found 15 men milling around in the lobby unable to find their bearings in the thick black smoke. They formed a single-file rescue line to lead them out.

Others, including crippled and aged persons, were carried out on the backs of the policemen.

Bug Prevents Usual Donations

Flu Drains County Blood Bank

Flu has hit the Oakland County Blood Bank.

A critical shortage of whole blood in the Red Cross regional blood bank at Detroit was noted yesterday by Mrs. Mildred Benoit, Oakland County executive director of the American Red Cross.

She blamed the shortage on the influenza surge currently gripping many persons in the area, and urged others who have not been hit by the flu to donate blood.

"At least 100 pints of blood are needed immediately to adequately restock the regional blood bank which serves Oakland, Wayne and Washtenaw counties," she said.

According to Mrs. Bennett, there is only 60 pints in the bank at this time when there should be a minimum of at least 150 to meet the requirements in the next few days.

She said flu attacks have prevented many persons in the county from making blood donations during the past month.

A period of approximately 60 days must elapse after overcoming the flu before donors can give blood.

As of today we are unable to supply blood to local hospitals except for emergencies, and we are fast reaching the end of the line altogether," said Mrs. Bennett.

She urged persons to donate blood to the local Red Cross at the Elks Temple, 134 Orchard Lake Ave., where facilities will be open from 2:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Present combined rates are $5,000 to $7,000 a year income, $7.50 monthly for a single person, $12.75 for a couple and $20.00 for a family. $2,500 to $5,000 a year, $11.30, $17.30 and $18.90, up to $2,500 a year, $6.75, $10.50 and $17.74.

Community Health Association, which recently opened the Detroit hospital medical field in competition with Blue Cross Blue Shield, has a single rate structure for all, regardless of income, for $8 monthly for a single person, $18.00 for a couple and $26.00 for a family.

No participating doctor can charge a fee in addition to that paid by Blue Cross.

CHA also includes physical checkups, immunization, home nursing care and home calls by nurses in its protection package.

The Blue Cross-Blue Shield plans do not include any of these features.

Believe Blue Cross to Ask 20 Per Cent Rate Increase

DETROIT (AP) — There was speculation today in usually well-informed quarters that Michigan Blue Cross will ask an increase of 20 per cent or more in its hospital bill insurance rates.

The same source estimated Blue Shield, a companion doctor-bill insurance plan, likely might ask 10 per cent more.

Both Blue Cross and Blue Shield disclosed Friday they will file next week with State Insurance Commissioner Frank Blackford for increased rates. Both reported they operated in the field in 1960.

Neither, however, would disclose how much increase they will ask.

Colder Weather Swoops Toward Parts of Midwest

By The Associated Press

Continued mild weather prevailed over most of the country today but a return of colder, more seasonal temperatures was forecast for parts of the Midwest.

Below - freezing temperatures early today were generally limited to the Northern Appalachians, extreme Northern Minnesota and Northern North Dakota southward, west into the Rockies and portions of the Central Plains.

The turn of colder weather was forecast for the Northern Plains, Upper Great Lakes, the Upper and Middle Mississippi Valley and western portions of the Ohio Valley.

The Weather

PONTIAC AND VICINITY — Increasing cloudiness and mild but becoming windy and turning colder late this afternoon. High 48. Cloudy with scattered showers changing to snow flurries and colder tonight, low 25. Variable cloudiness with snow flurries and colder Sunday. West to southwest winds 12-20 miles becoming 18 to 30 miles tonight and Sunday.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Bradie

Voice of the People: Reader Calls City of Detroit Disgraceful, Full of Crime

Detroit is so crime ridden and so infested with thugs, murderers, holdup men and teen-age hoodlums, my family and I leave before dark when we visit there occasionally.

Central Park in New York was supposed to be the most dangerous area in America after dark, but Detroit is the most dangerous and means the whole city and not just one spot. Detroit officials put on extra officers and the thugs actually step up on their murders and beatings.

Detroit is the Number One disgrace of the United States of America. I hate to live within 25 miles of this crime jungle.

It Seems to Me . . . Nation's Aviation Development Progresses While Ours Lags

Increasing attention is focused on all air developments. Investigations of two bad accidents play a part, but authorities are almost frantic in their struggle to keep up with the swift upward trend in speed, volume of passengers and number of flights.

Pontiac has a stake in this. Our own airport lags.

We had the first A-1-A setup in the country. It was ideal. But the expansion has swept far, far beyond us in every way. Local airport authorities have done well in the circumstances. Primarily, they've had no funds of any consequence in proportion to the national progress. Many airports have spent tens of millions where we've spent tens of dollars.

We're that far behind. And we're losing ground.

We can't handle one of the "big" passenger planes of ten years ago. And these have been superseded by the turbojets, the pure jets, the stepped up jets and now 1961 brings the superjets that cruise faster than 600 miles an hour.

The problem is entirely too big and too expensive for Pontiac. Our airport is supported by 80,000 taxpayers and it is used by three-quarters of a million. It's really an Oakland County deal.

The City of Pontiac alone can NEVER afford to develop this airport as it should be. In spite of some new and commendable activities out there, each month we lose more ground than we gain.

This newspaper tried to interest a big private corporation in locating its home operations here. They surveyed the situation carefully and said:

You lack a north-south runway.

Your east-west runway is too short.

Your airport isn't easily available by car.

There were other objections but these came first.

Enlarging our airport appreciably would mean closing a road or two. This isn't anything new in airport development. Across the nation it has been done repeatedly and just recently a Pazzes airport landed at a big airport where the highway had been rebuilt beneath a heavy, cement runway that was designed for superjets.

The only adequate solution to the local problem may be to join with the county. Oakland serves three-quarters of a million people. It won't be long until this number is a million. Most of them have a stake in an acceptable airport—or they will in the future.

Some authorities say Willow Run and Metropolitan will eventually become "jet only" airports. That will force an enormous amount of traffic to seek another landing spot.

We're the closest. And we have a start.

DELOD HAMLIN and other air-minded supervisors have shown a friendly interest in the Pontiac City Airport and have evinced a willingness to study the situation. Perhaps the city and county could operate the airport jointly. Perhaps they should name an independent commission. Perhaps the county should take over and handle it alone.

And there may be better solutions.

Residents adjacent to any airport anywhere will object to greater operations. But the complaints from en-

"He ashamed to die until you have won some victory for humanity," said Horace Mann, who developed our great public school system. Over 100 years ago, he fought for better teaching and better-paid teachers. He proposed duty, affection, love of knowledge and truth as cornerstones of school discipline, rather than authority, force and fear. He urged that apparatus be used as a science teaching aid and introduced school music; or, hoped for, in schools today.

"God's laws abide forever and we abide forever under them," he said. "When I think, after the experience of one life—what I could do . . . better than I have ever done—for humanity—temperance—peace—breaking the rod of the oppressor—higher education . . . I would resist for another 50 year's campaign, and fight it out for the glory of God and the welfare of man."

Days of All Faiths:

Christians Honor the Holy Family

By DR. HOWARD B. HARPER

The three holiest people that ever lived, Jesus, Mary and Joseph, lived together. The Church and the world honor them separately on many occasions, but it is also logical that there should be this one day, Jan. 8, on which they are thought of together as the Holy Family, living their beautiful family life for all those years in the house in Nazareth. The Sunday after Epiphany (Jan. 8) is Holy Family Sunday in the Roman Catholic Church.

The day is well placed. Epiphany has important family aspects. It follows closely upon the celebration of the Lord's birth, and upon the Circumcision, at which time the Child was named. There are big events in any family.

It is rather strange that it was not until the seventeenth century that devotion to the Holy Family as a family began to appear in any sizeable proportions. Of course, the first stirrings were in Europe, but the honor of holding the first festival in commemoration of the Holy Family goes to the New World. It was held in Quebec in 1675, by Bishop Laval, first Bishop of Quebec.

STIMULATED BY SOCIALIZED Nothing spectacular happened for a century and a half after that, but in 1884 Belgian church authorities, alarmed by the growth of socialism in their country, established the Society of the Holy Family, with membership open only to workingmen. By 1893 Pope Leo XIII recognized the Belgian group and expressed a desire for the establishment of similar societies everywhere.

The reasons for sustaining socialism with devotion to the Family of dedicated workmen are not now a primary consideration. However to the Holy Family no longer has any economic purposes. Since 1961, the festival has been a world-wide observance in the Roman Catholic Church.

dent DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER's Christmas remembrance was a picture of a Bavarian Church he did himself. I think one of the best things I ever saw that EISENHOWER did was a copy of STUART's "George Washington." The original of this famous masterpiece belongs to Mr. and Mrs. ALFRED G. WILSON and I should think The Pontiac Press would photograph that and EISENHOWER's copy for the benefit of our readers.

City Murder Case Brings Comments

To clear up a misunderstanding caused by the report that Keith Hamilton was "labeled to preach by the Wesleyan Holiness Association," I wish to state that this association is in no way connected with the Wesleyan Methodist Church of America, of which the local Wesleyan Methodist Church is a part.

Other groups that have taken the name "Wesleyan" are not in any way affiliated with the Wesleyan Methodist Church in this city, or with the denomination.

'Recent Church Ad Wasn't Explicit'

In a recent Saturday issue of church news, I noticed an advertisement for the Crescent Hill Baptist Church with the following caption above the church name: "Waterford Township's American Baptist Church."

I am wondering what the word "American" means. Would a foreigner be welcome or is it restricted to Americans? The words "everyone welcome" did not appear in the ad as it does in most church ads.

Just Wondering

'Police Department Needs Weeding Out'

A local policeman is protesting the orders of his superior and "wants to go to court" on something. This is still a banger of that impossible civil service mess we got stuck into several years ago. Can you imagine a corporal in the army wanted to "go to court" because he was transferred? We need a weeding out process as well as transfers.

TV Commercial Placed in Low Spot

We vote Danny the Bartender as the silliest and most ridiculous TV commercial of 1960. It had stern competition but my friends and I unanimously put it in the lowest spot.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Teen-Agers Basically Idealists

Dr. Pierce brings out a point on which there is often a lot of debate, especially when we read headlines stories concerning modern delinquency.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE G-472: Dr. Robert Pierce is a famous pastor in Detroit and one of the leaders in our Scientific Marriage Foundation.

When I was first told about Dr. Pierce's ingenious assignment, I guessed that most of the students would select the chapter on "How to Improve Personality."

For it contained many helpful sections about carrying on interesting conversation, tooting your own horn by sincere compliments, and other data of pertinent concern to 15-year-olds.

But I was wrong.

The overwhelming preference of the students (90 per cent) was the chapter concerning "Psychology & Religion."

It pointed out why Jesus was the world's greatest Applied Psychologist and listed the many contributions of religion to human life.

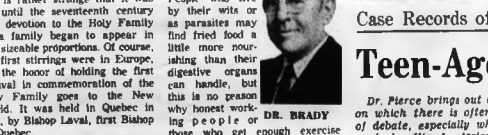

So Dr. Pierce is quite correct in saying that American young people are basically idealistic.

IDEALISM IS YOUNG

Remember, too, that this college was not a seminary nor a school for preparing missionaries or missionaries for altruistic careers.

No, it was a typical private college of the Liberal Arts type.

Young people are basically idealistic, which is why they are so many earnest radical causes that appear to be the Good Samaritan variety.

Honest Working People Can Eat Dried Foods

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

Food is fried in butter or vegetable oils hard to digest or harmful to health? (F.O.W.)

Ans.—Such food is as wholesome and digestible as food cooked in any other way.

People who live by their wits or as parasites may find dried food a little more nourishing than their digestive organs can handle, but this is no reason why honest working people who get enough exercise should not eat dried foods.

Do you believe in the 80 per cent alkaline and 20 per cent acid balance of foods for the correct diet? (E.W.T.)

Ans.—I never give it a thought. Diet's a few-budget affair.

Mother, 70, has Parkinson's disease and is very deaf. She insists that you said it is not harmful to take a bath in the morning, and she says she has always done it and never took cold that way. (M.W.L.)

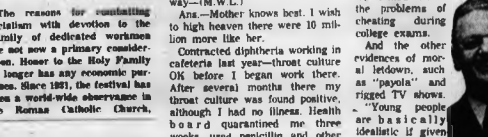

Ans.—Mother knows best. I wish to high heaven there were 10 million more like her.

Contracted diphtheria working in catelene last year—three months OK before I began work there. After several months there my throat culture was found positive, although I had no illness. Health board quarantined me three weeks, used penicillin and other things, but culture still positive. Now they want to remove my tonsils, although they say even that has failed in many cases. My own doctor says my tonsils seem OK but that removal of tonsils is the usual procedure. (Mrs. C.L.M.)

Ans.—Your own doctor should advise you whether the risk in the major operation is warranted in the circumstances. In your place I'd have (1) ultraviolet treatment of tonsils by physician skilled in such work and (2) if that failed to eradicate the diphtheria bacilli I'd settle for (3) electrocoagulation treatment. These are safe.

Sent for your pamphlet on nocturnal leg cramps—three months ago. I had been suffering with the cramps for a long time. Have been taking the calcium capsules regularly and I want you to know how grateful—but two slight attacks since. (H.M.S.)

Ans.—Thank you. Name for the night cramps is tetany. For the pamphlet on Adult Tetany and stumped, self-addressed envelope. Signed letters, not more than one page, will be answered. Will be answered by Dr. William Brady, and sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Copyright 1961)

Teen-agers want to do right and have a great inner urge even to lay down their lives to make this world better.

It is in the teens when we usually make our lifetime resolves, both as to vocation and marriage partners.

Evangel Temple to Show Film 'Discipleship' Sunday

"Discipleship," an inspiring, full-color motion picture portraying the Sermon on the Mount and the Lord's Prayer along with related events will be presented at 7 p.m. Sunday at Evangel Temple. One of 12 episodes in the series of films on the life of Christ, the film shows Jesus choosing the 12 men whom He names Apostles.

The Rev. Geoffrey Day said the public is invited to see the pictures as well as other showings in the weekly series.

Sunday evening is also "Sunday School Night." The pastor will honor Sunday School superintendents, officers and teachers. A gift will be given each teacher with 90 per cent of her class in attendance.

The brilliantly lighted chart for the contest, "Devil or Angel" will be demonstrated and the rules explained.

BALDWIN EVANGELICAL U.S.
The Rev. Myron R. Everett will install Sunday School teachers and officers at the Sunday morning service in Baldwin United Brethren Church, 212 Baldwin Ave. The pastor will preach on "Facing the Future."

At 7 p.m. his sermon theme will be "God Helps Us." The annual church meeting of the congregation will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Reports will be presented and plans made for the future.

TRINITY
Dr. Joseph W. Moore will preach on "The City and 12 Gates" at the 11 o'clock service in Trinity Baptist Church Sunday morning. Church School will be at 9:15 a.m. with Junior Church following at 10:15.

The Trinity congregation will worship with Providence Missionary Baptists at 3:30 p.m. Sunday when the church observes the 150th anniversary service.

Officers will be installed at 7 p.m. with the congregation of New Bethel Baptist Church as guests. The Rev. Amos G. Johnson of the visiting church will preach and music will be provided by his choir.

CRESCENT HILLS
"Let Us Rise Up and Build" will be the theme of the Sunday sermon of the Rev. Robert L. Adams at Crescent Hills Baptist Church. Eugene Main will speak on "Our Church Plan."

Here for the 21-day building fund drive will be J. Kenneth Italiday of the Michigan Society Capital Fund Raising Committee.

ST. MARY'S IN THE HILLS
Daniel Christie, a licensed lay reader of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, will preach at the Epiphany Festival of Lights service at 7:30 Sunday evening at St. Mary's in the Hills Church.

The service will symbolize the light of the gospel taken into a dark world. The church will be in darkness at the beginning of the service.

At that time an Old Testament prophecy will be read from the rear of the church and the gospel candle on the altar lighted. The church lights are put out during the service and extinguished again at the close of the worship period.

Individual candles held by participants and congregation are then lighted from the gospel candle with members of the congregation taking the lighted candles out into the dark as they leave the church.

NEW HOPE
The Rev. Thomas H. Holt Jr. will preach on "Differences" at the 11 a.m. worship hour in New Hope Baptist Church Sunday. At 3:30 p.m. the Rev. Mr. Holt will preach in Detroit at the New Light Baptist Church. There will be an evening service at the local church.

FIRST CHURCH of GOD
Representatives of the First Church of God will attend the lecture concerning the Richard's Record System at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Christian Literature Sales. The church is currently using the system.

Providence Missionary Baptists to Trinity Baptists

The Rev. Joseph W. Moore, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, with his choir and congregation will be guests at the 3:30 Sunday afternoon service at Providence Missionary Baptist Church. The Usher Board will be in charge of the service at 7:30 p.m. when Holy Communion and the rite of Holy Baptism will be observed. Walter Richardson is president of the board. The pastor is the Rev. Claude Goodwin.

EFFICIENCY—All the modern materials possible have been used to make this kitchen efficient and easy to care for. Formica covers the counter tops, forms the top of the breakfast table and

Your Neighbor's House

There's Room to Grow in Jacobs' Home

By JANET ODELL,
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Young couples who build homes have to plan for the years ahead. If there are just two or three in the family when the house is built, two bedrooms will be enough. But let the family grow in size and the house starts bulging at the seams.

The William E. Jacobs, who live on Lakeside Court, think they have anticipated their future needs. They have built a home that fits their needs perfectly right now. When the children became teenagers, they will complete the lower level.

There are two boys and two girls in the Jacobs household. Edward—more commonly known as "Bo"—is 11; John is 8; Anne is 5; and Cathy is 3. Then there's Teeny, the German Shepherd.

The Jacobs have a wonderful lot sloping down to Vaux Lake.

There is the lake for swimming and skating. There are trees to climb. There is even a hill for tobogganing and skiing. Except for a smaller terraced garden space near the house, the land is left free for the children to use.

Ease of maintenance was another must with the Jacobs'. The whole family has too many interests to spend excess hours keeping the house clean.

Take the kitchen, for instance. Even the cupboards are made of Formica in a wood grain that had your home editor fooled at first. All counters have plain white Formica on them. Window sills are marble. The beige linoleum floor has gold speckles in it.

The range is in the counter separating the kitchen from the breakfast room. Walk in the latter are yellow green, tieren, brown and yellow fruit is printed on the draperies.

The plastic topped table has brunzstone legs. Danish modern chairs are a combination of brunzstone metal, walnut and beige plastic. There's a plastic-topped free-form desk in one corner of the room.

Between the breakfast room and the front hall is the family room. This is the "African" room. Mrs. Jacobs' parents travel a great deal and bring back interesting souvenirs.

The floor is corkstone tile. Walls are painted a color known as "maple sugar". Draperies, woven by Mrs. Jacobs' mother, are semi-sheer white lace.

In one corner is a red brick fireplace with a raised hearth. Eight fixtures are brass. Doors to the front hall are louvred. Above the green sofa is an interesting wall hanging showing African natives. The colors are brown and orange on a natural background. Rugs are brightly colored ones made in South America.

Next to the low white Formica coffee table is a wicker chair with woven seat and back. Cushions are bright coral. Across the room is a tall backed white leather chair with a walnut frame.

The spacious entrance hallway has a slate floor. At the right of the front door is the stairway to the lower level.

MANY WINDOWS

There are 9 windows on the lake side of the house in the dining room and living room. These are curtained in green. Walls are a pale green. The floor is polished oak.

A three-way fireplace is built back to back with the fireplace in the family room. On the lower level there's a third fireplace in the future recreation room.

Made of white brick, the upstairs fireplace is set 6 bricks above the floor. It is built where it can be enjoyed from all parts of the living room and the dining room.

TABLE FROM INDIA—The octagonal table between a pair of green club chairs is made of teakwood, inlaid with mother-of-pearl. On it is a lamp that has an antique wallpaper roller for the base.

The light fixture over the dining room table is composed of three cones suspended from a three-pronged piece of wall-plug.

A beige horse sofa is placed so that occupants of it have fine view of the lake. At the end of the room opposite the dining room there are two coral leather armchairs. A pair of overstuffed green chairs stands in front of the windows.

Between these chairs is a beautiful Oriental teakwood table inlaid with mother-of-pearl. The lamp on it is unusual too; the base is an antique wallpaper roller which printed the design on paper long ago.

In the girls' room the walls are sandalwood. Furniture is maple. Curtains are brown and chartreuse. Spreads are green.

The boys sleep in a blue room. They also have maple furniture.

The master bedroom at the front of the house has an attached green and white bath. Bedroom walls are ivory. There's a hooked rug on the floor. Furniture is maple.

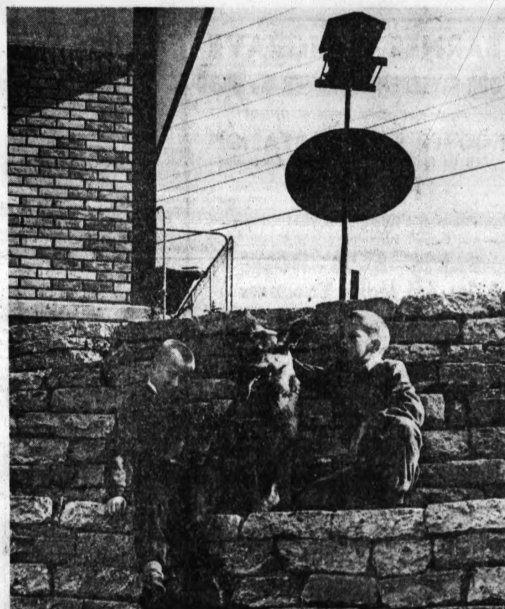

White cafe curtains and blue and white draperies dress the windows.

Downstairs in the full basement we saw where future rooms are planned. As the children grow older this space will be divided into several rooms. The Jacobs' will have a large bedroom and bath at one end; the girls will then take their present bedroom.

The exterior of the Jacobs' house is pinkish brick. Trim is a crooked wood. All windows are thermopane. A bright orange iron door makes it easy for strangers to find the house.

John A. Allen, AIA, of Farmington was the architect. J. L. Cook of Bloomfield Hills was the builder. It's been about a year since the Jacobs' moved from their old home in Birmingham to this new one.

LITTLE MOTHERS—Anne watches her younger sister, Cathy, tend her doll. The girls are in the family room. Behind them is a green sofa on a wooden frame. Above is a brown and orange print depicting African natives. The rugs, woven in bold primitive colors, came from South America. Walls in this room are a maple sugar color.

TWO-LEVEL MUD—The William E. Jacobs' home is built on sloping ground with room for a second-level at the back. Although the lower level is not finished inside, windows for the rooms planned were installed in the right places. The future bedroom will be at the left with the library next to it and the recreation room under the wood trim. John A. Allen, AIA, of Farmington was the architect; J. L. Cook of Bloomfield Hills was the builder. The pink brick house is on Vaux Lake.

DINING AREA—A three-way fireplace marks the division between dining room and living room. Oriental rugs are used on the oak floor. The drop leaf table is mahogany. Green and blue striped material is used for chair cushions. Beyond the table is a slant-top desk under the windows.
