

Texas and 'Bobby' Go to War

By The Associated Press
Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy's comment that the U.S.-Mexican war of 1846-48 was unjustified has touched off a war of words—with Texan rebuttal the strongest.

This was a campaign which won territory from the Rio Grande to the Pacific for the United States.

Mexico opposed U.S. annexation of Texas, which threw off Mexican rule in 1846, and resisted when the U.S. sent troops into a disputed region between the Nueces River and the Rio Grande.

The Mexican War was brought up by a student at Jakarta, Indonesia, during Kennedy's visit.

The student mentioned the war in connection with the Dutch-Indonesian dispute over West New Guinea.

SAID KENNEDY:

Said Kennedy: "I would say that as far as the war with Mexico, although there might be some from Texas who disagree, I would say we were unjustified."

"I don't think that this is a very bright page in American history."

Commented Gov. Price Daniel of Texas: "I cannot believe that he (Kennedy) intended to leave the impression that he disapproved of the heroic fight for freedom and liberty which was made by Texans in 1836 (year of the Alamo and Texas independence) and the subsequent annexation agreement and defense thereof by the United States."

SAID DANIEL:

Daniel noted that eight Mexicans died fighting on the American side of the Alamo. David Donald, a history professor at Princeton, and a Pulitzer Prize winner in mid-19th century American history, commented that, 25 years ago, most U.S. historians would have agreed with Kennedy, but not now.

The diary of President Polk, Donald added, has been discovered and there has been better research into internal Mexican affairs.

Donald said the war was "made almost inevitable" by American expansion and the fact that Mexicans wouldn't negotiate long-standing differences—such as claims by U.S. citizens vs. Mexico, and boundary disputes. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Cuba's Charge Against U.S. Quickly Killed

United Nations Throws Out Key Parts Claiming 'Interference'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Cuba's charge that the United States is plotting to invade her shores wound up on the U.N. scrap heap today after the General Assembly's main political committee roundly defeated a Communist resolution supporting Fidel Castro's claims.

The committee rejected both paragraphs of the resolution by Czechoslovakia and Romania calling on the United States to halt alleged interference in Cuba's internal affairs.

Defeat of the resolution was seen as a triumph for the United States.

"This country had labeled the 11-day debate a Red propaganda show staged to detract attention from the action of the Organization of American States excluding Cuba from the inter-American system."

With the two operative sections knocked out, the committee chairman, Mario Amadeo of Argentina, declared the whole resolution defeated.

As a result, no further balloting is needed on the issue. The General Assembly, which is expected to meet Monday, will probably just note that the resolution was killed in committee.

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Sorin, who had fought hard for the proposal, angrily told the committee after the vote that it proved many delegates did not believe in adhering to the principles of the U.N. Charter calling for noninterference in the affairs of sovereign states.

The committee voted 59 against 9 and only 11 for the paragraph which would have had the assembly appeal to the United States "to put an end to the interference" in the internal affairs of Cuba.

PROTESTS VOICED — This is a portion of the group who protested plans for a jet airport near their homes and businesses at a meeting last night at Lake Orion High School. Orion Township officials later voted to bring suit to halt the airport plans.

Board Gives OK Despite Efforts to Delay Action

Spectator Group Silent as County Supervisors Report Options Held

By DICK HANSON

Voting on a proposed major airport, the Oakland County Board of Supervisors today voted 69 to 9 in favor of spending $362,710 for the initial 445 acres of that airport in Orion Township.

The step was taken over Township Supervisor John Lester's efforts to refer the proposal back to committees.

His motion was made in an attempt to give persons living in the area involved more time to learn about the proposal, Lester explained. When Township Supervisor Cyril Miller seconded the unanimous motion, it was killed by a 69 to 18 vote.

The board had received the $25-million-plus airport proposal 10 days ago. That was the first public announcement of the plans.

At that time the motion to appropriate the $362,710 was tabled until today. Pontiac Mayor Philip E. Rowston, as head of the board's aviation committee, reintroduced it.

Spectators, many of them participants at a township meeting on the airport proposal last night, thought today's proceedings in silence.

They heard the board agree to transfer the sum from reserve funds into a newly-established airport fund.

The money will be spent to acquire 445 acres forming a nucleus within the proposed 3,000-acre general site a mile north of Pontiac in Orion and Pontiac townships.

Part of this nucleus is the Allen Airport, a private field presently in operation.

GOP Leader Disagrees With Idea That Party Controlled by Business

SPECIAL TO THE PRESS
Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., last night predicted victory for Governor W. Romney but took exception to the gubernatorial candidate's claims that big business dominates the Republican party.

"The reverse is true," said the voice of the conservatives in a speech at Detroit's Masonic Temple. "We can't even get the businessmen off their chairs."

Romney had said on a national television program that the trouble with the Michigan GOP is that it is dominated by businessmen. He said the Democrats were influenced too strongly by labor.

Goldwater made no reference to Romney in this part of his speech but said at an afternoon press conference he had watched the program.

Area Homeowners Hit Airport Plans

Nearly 1,000 homeowners and businessmen strongly protested plans for a major airport in Pontiac and Orion Township last night, and Orion Township officials later approved legal action to stop the project.

The meeting at Lake Orion High School was called by supervisors of both townships to hear opinions of citizens in the area.

It started with County Planning Commission Chairman J. Robert F. Swanson explaining reasons for selecting the proposed 3,000-acre airport site north of Pontiac.

The reasons — a projected need for a major jet airport in the general Pontiac area by 1975, based on the Landmark Report, accessibility from the I-75 freeway, suitability of the terrain, and a sparse population — were bemoaned by a parade of protesters from the angry audience.

On the shoulders of Delos Hamlin, chairman of the county board of supervisors, fell the task of answering the complaints. He was given silent support by members of the board's aviation committee seated beside him.

WOULD OPPOSE PLAN
Pontiac Township Supervisor Elmer Davis stated that he would oppose the airport plan when voted on today by the board of supervisors. Orion Township Supervisor John Lester remained uncommitted until later in the evening.

Boss rose from the crowd when it was revealed that neither supervisor had been informed of the airport proposal before Jan. 22.

Off-voiced cause of discontent was canceling the plans from the public until 10 days ago.

Hamlin explained that this was done so that options on a nucleus of the proposed site could be secured quietly without a resultant soaring of land prices.

Reginald Sheppard, president of the Orion Area Junior Chamber of Commerce asked: "How long do we have to stop this fiasco — 'til tomorrow'?"

"You have the next 10 or 15 years," Hamlin replied. "This airport (Allen Airport), which is part of the nucleus will not be expanded of tomorrow."

All together some 24 persons took the rostrum to oppose the airport, because of the adverse effect they felt it will have on their homes and the surrounding area.

Their questions included: "How do the county officials plan to circumvent township zoning laws without the consent of the surrounding property owners?"

"By what right does the county appropriate tax money paid for one purpose and use it for another?"

"How come there are taxes available for airports and new courthouses but not for the cure of mentally retarded children?"

The second of these questions was answered by Hamlin. He said the county has the right to draw from reserve funds for capital improvements.

West Defies Reds With Berlin Flights

From Our News Wires
BERLIN — Western planes defied the Russians and flew the air corridors to Berlin without interference today despite a new Soviet demand for the exclusive use of one lane for their own aircraft.

On the ground, a young mother and her 2-year-old child dashed to safety through Communist gunfire. West Berlin police said Communist border guards fired more than 20 shots at the fleeing pair and at West Berlin police helping them. No one was hit.

The planes backed high winds and rain today to maintain normal traffic in the Berlin-Hamburg air corridor, challenging a Russian claim to exclusive rights to it for three hours up to 7,500 feet.

There was no evidence that the Soviet Union's MIG fighters, which had pursued buzzing tactics for two days, actually again went aloft.

NO PLANES SPOTTED
"There have been no reports of any Soviet aircraft sighted," Western spokesmen announced after expiration of the three-hour period which the Russians had specifically demanded be set aside for them.

Western military and civilian aircraft dived through the wet and gusty weather on the route between this isolated city and Hamburg, in the British zone of West Germany. That corridor is the northernmost of three linking West Germany and Berlin across Communist East German territory.

Allied transports deliberately flew in the lower altitude spaces which the Russians wanted to monopolize.

A Russian embassy spokesman served notice that the harassing Russian flights would continue.

The Western Allies ignored the Russians today as they have five times previously in the last nine days and sent their aircraft through the three vital corridors to and from Berlin. They specifically defied the Russians in the Hamburg corridor.

A British Royal Air Force spokesman in West Germany said: "We sent a Beverly (a military air transport) through the Hamburg corridor at the height the Russians reserved for themselves at the time they reserved. There was no incident."

Eye Gossett as Possible Atty. General
From Our Wire Services
DETROIT — William T. Gossett, who resigned Wednesday as Ford Motor Co.'s general counsel, today was mentioned as a possible candidate for the Republican nomination for state attorney general.

Gossett, 49, Goodhue Road, Bloomfield Hills, would share a spot on a Republican ticket to be headed by George W. Romney, now American Motors Corp. vice chairman, who this far is unopposed for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

When questioned, Gossett said: "Put it that I am not disinterested in becoming a candidate."

However, he emphasized that he would not be what he termed a "self-starter" and would not be come a candidate unless asked to do so by Republican leaders.

Gossett said he has not yet been approached on the subject of his candidacy by Romney or other GOP leaders.

George Van Puseum, GOP state chairman, was not available for comment Thursday. His Lansing office reported that he is ill.

Ann Harding in Hospital

DETROIT — Veteran actress Ann Harding was under hospital treatment today following her collapse Thursday night while appearing in a new play, "General Seeger," at the Shubert Theater.

Miss Harding, 57, fainted in a dressing room during the intermission of the two-act play but was revived, and completed the final act. She collapsed again at the close of the play, however, and was unable to answer the curtain call.

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — A member of the household of U.S. assistant military attaché Lt. Col. Helen D. Stogner was arrested today on suspicion of killing his employer, a U.S. embassy spokesman said.

The suspect is believed to be the houseboy of Col. Stogner, who was a resident in his home in Leopoldville last night in the presence of a friend, Miss Elizabeth Thring, 22, of Washington, D. C.

The spokesman, press attache Robert Behrens, said the suspect is being held by United Nations Nigerian police.

Behrens refused to give further details and said the "proceeding might be prejudiced" if a full statement was made now. He insisted the embassy had no official comment to make on the investigation by Congolese security officials, assisted by the U.N.

Stogner employed a Congolese man as cook and housekeeper. The man reported to work every day, but lived in his own home in the African quarter of Leopoldville. He was normally not on duty at night, and embassy officials said he was not working on Wednesday evening.

Similarly, a night watchman Stogner employed was not on duty Wednesday. The officials explained Stogner had apparently sent the watchman home, saying he would be remaining in all evening himself.

Watch for Snow — Only Flurries; 25 on Saturday
Snow flurries and colder tonight and Saturday is the weatherman's prediction for Pontiac and vicinity. Tonight's low will be 20 and tomorrow's high will reach 25.

Winds variable 10 to 20 miles will become northerly tonight.

Temperatures for the next five days will average near the normal high of 34 and normal low of 28. Sunday and Monday will be warmer and there will be little change through Wednesday.

Precipitation will total about one-fourth of an inch in some rain or snow mostly Sunday night or Monday.

The lowest temperature recorded in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 24. The mercury reading at 2 p.m. was 35.

Glenn Orbit Shot Called Off Again Until Tuesday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States' effort to rocket an astronaut around the world is now off until next Tuesday — at the earliest — because of bad weather in the Atlantic recovery area.

And Marie L. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. will still be the astronaut despite the procession of delays which might have cracked the confidence of the average.

Glenn has shown no signs of tension that might affect his performance and there is no basis for considering his replacement. Dr. William Douglas, personal physician to the astronauts, said today.

Her 'Private' Trip Turns Public

Our First Lady to Be Guest of Maharajas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy will take her first public trip to India and Pakistan, the White House said today, as she will be the first American first lady to visit the subcontinent.

She will be treated to color, pomp, and oriental ceremony, spending virtually the entire month of March abroad.

The venture will not be exactly the private and personal sightseeing visit Mrs. Kennedy first envisioned, especially with a corps of reporters and photographers following along.

And, although top dignitaries will turn out to honor her, the schedule apparently does not have room for some of the famous cultural sites which art-loving Mrs. Kennedy might have been expected to see.

At one point in the planning, the White House said Mrs. Kennedy was delaying her trip so that it could include the famous caves of Ajanta and Ellora, rock-carved temples dating back to the Fourth Century, lavishly decorated with frescoes and carved in the finest of Indian art.

Mrs. Kennedy, 32, who is paying her own way, will leave Washington about March 1, fly to Rome and then to India's capital, New Delhi, to start her "semi-official" visit.

During 17 days in the vast subcontinent of India she will go to seven cities—as far north as Mysore—travelling Washington springtime for 95-degree heat.

In five days in Pakistan, she will see the old and the new capitals, Karachi and Rawalpindi, en route to the Khyber Pass—the strategically important gateway to the plains of India.

She'll make a stop at the exciting annual horse show at Lahore, a natural eight-seeking must for Mrs. Kennedy, a devoted horsewoman.

Mrs. Kennedy will be accompanied by her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, 28, of London.

The First Lady will be entertained by India's Prime Minister, Lal Bahadur Shastri, and Pakistan's President, Ayub Khan.

Indian sources say New Delhi is planning to dedicate a "Jacqueline Kennedy Park," a children's playground area, while Mrs. Kennedy is there.

Jet Mechanic Granted Worker's Compensation

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—An airplane mechanic who said he lost his hearing because of daily exposure to the roar of jet engines is entitled to worker's compensation, the Georgia Court of Appeals ruled Thursday.

The State Board of Workmen's Compensation and a lower court had rejected the claim of E. L. Shipman, a flight line mechanic for six years at Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in nearby Marietta.

Legislators Argue Location of 19th District

LANSING (AP) — All the legislators agreed there should be a new 19th congressional district in Michigan, but just where it should be is a subject of angry debate.

The jump in the Michigan census count gives the state another congressman — 19 instead of the present 18.

"Just leave us people in the Upper Peninsula alone," said Sen. Charles O. McManis, D-Doughton, of the Morris plan to reduce the Upper Peninsula congressional representation. "Sometimes it is claimed our senators and representatives represent just pine stumps and jack rabbits. But we have a lot of people and territory up there to represent."

"We should have a plan both parties can buy," he said. * * * Meanwhile, House Republicans agreed generally in caucus Thursday to back the Folks proposal. There was indication that the six Upper Peninsula Democrats would go along with it, too, in a move to block the Morris bill, which would reduce Upper Peninsula representation. "We want to leave things as they are in the UP," said Rep. Russell Hellman, D-Dollar Bay.

The legislature had to designate the new district, otherwise there will be a congressman-at-large, representing the entire state.

Debate on a plan proposed by Sen. Carlton H. Morris, R-Kalamazoo, became hot and heavy and at some times very personal in Senate.

Morris was charged again with trying to create a district where he could run for Congress and be assured of election.

Sen. John H. Stablin, R-Belling, candidate for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor made the accusation.

"You've got it set up so you can run," Stablin declared. "I have a bear by the tail and I know it," Morris responded. "I see again that they are attacking the man and not the plan."

Morris, who has refused to say if he would be a candidate for Congress if his plan went through, said it was not designed to favor any political party.

CUT DOWN UP

His plan would cut the Upper Peninsula representation from two to one, reshuffle many other districts, create a separate district in Macomb County and split Oakland County into two districts, one taking the northwestern part of Wayne County. Opponents claim this would give Morris a chance to run in a district dominated by Kalamazoo County.

A substitute bill introduced by Sen. Thomas F. Schweigert, R-Petoskey was rejected by the Senate in a close 18-13 vote. His measure was patterned after one introduced in the House by Rep. James N. Folks, R-Horton.

The Schweigert proposal would leave the Upper Peninsula its two congressmen and create the 19th district in St. Clair and Lapeer counties, taking in four townships in Genesee County and the cities of Davignon, Flint and Grand Blanc. Following defeat of the substitute bill, the Senate moved up the Morris measure for final debate Wednesday.

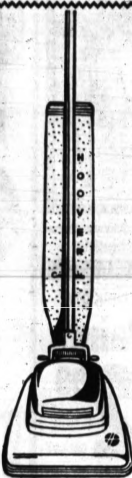

"This places the new seat in Congress where the people are, in the southeastern part of the state," said Schweigert of his proposal.

Unity of Western Europe Looking More Favorable

Europeans are viewing the Common Market and the trade impact it may have on us as a possible steppingstone to political unity.

The idea of a United States of Europe is not new. As a matter of fact, Sir Winston Churchill tried to promote such an idea right after World War II. Any such unified progress is bound to be slow.

Past history has proved that the economic barriers between countries have been their chief obstacle in getting together for political unity. If this is true renewed efforts toward achieving economic integration is a major step forward for a practical basis for getting together politically.

Any long range solution such as this takes time and it would be utterly senseless for us to assume that European unity was just around the corner. The corner may be in sight, but it is still a long way off.

France is a problem. President Charles de Gaulle's idea on unity does not coincide with some of the other countries in the area. He is more inclined to favor a loose knit federation or coalition.

Any such plan finds little support in Holland and Belgium for their fear domination by their larger rivals. These countries are small, yet they are important industrial nations. They would really like a close knit unity patterned after the United States. What they are seeking is a voice for the small as well as the large.

This is understandable when you think of West Germany, France and perhaps Britain joining together. Actually, the exact makeup of a unified Western Europe is still far from settled.

However, the possibility that a solution is in sight improves the chances for some political unification.

Russia Far Behind U.S. in Tractor Industry

Without question the Soviet economic challenge to America is real. But reports from Pravda show that "production-wise" they are not gaining as some of our alarmists would have us believe.

Pravda reports that with all the ted tape in the Russian tractor industry, 16 years have elapsed since a new tractor model was introduced.

American tractor makers report that during this same period we have marketed 75 new models by the three major companies. For comparison the 1962 American make tractor is about as superior to a 1946 model as a 1962 car is superior to a 1946 car.

The Russians are also far behind in this particular field that it is pathetic. During this 16 year span horsepower per tractor has increased 65 per cent. With this increase in power it is quite obvious that a farmer could operate more kinds of machines, bigger machines and faster ones.

The new tractors provide gear boxes with a variety of take off speeds which make it possible for doing all kinds of work with stationary farm equipment.

Another improvement over the older models is the ride which is considerably more comfortable enabling older farmers to continue to work. We could go on and on with the list of improvements in our American made tractors.

Actually, we are only attempting to show the difference of a free enterprise type government as against government control which is the Soviet method.

State owned factories in Russia have no competition, consequently they can drift along at their own sweet pace. This is not true here where our tractor firms, like all manufacturing, has to continually improve the product or accept the penalty of losing customers to a competitor.

The Man About Town

Also a Winner

Beautiful Clarkston Plans to Progress With Times

Wedded bliss: What too often turns out to be wedded bliss.

Another Pontiac suburban village that keeps up the appearance of its business and residential sections, while others let them deteriorate and run down, is Clarkston. It refuses to admit that the small town is doomed.

Few communities of its size can show a better development in the last few years, both within the village limits and the area contiguous to it. Its schools and churches have kept pace with the challenge of the times.

Blessed by nature with a heritage of hills, dunes, streams, lakes and other God given features that tend to an ideal landscape, its residents have engendered an inherent pride that makes them keep their property in a manner worthy of it.

While the business interests of some villages groan, moan and surrender to the ironies of so-called modern merchandising, in Clarkston they fight fire with fire. The great F. W. Freeway skirts Clarkston in a manner that will add much to its attractiveness, both as a commuter's residence town and otherwise. Its continuance and growth on a healthy state is assured.

Most of us will agree with Preston Leveon, that Birmingham year-round baseball fan, who phones that the Detroit Tiger management had better hand

Norm Cash a blank check, and allow him to fill in the amount.

The ground hog has gone nuts, as that woodchuck expert,

Ferry Miles, who lives among them in the hills just north of Rochester, tells of a pair who stayed out after their trial day on Feb. 2, now are coming to his kitchen, begging for food.

When celebrating his 57th birthday, Florio C. Lightfoot of Walled Lake tells of his boyhood school near Big Rapids, which enjoys a rather unique distinction. It has a continuance of a nine months school year for 53 years.

Between 40 and 50 years old, the Christmas cactus of Mrs. Alex Howey of 84 East Howard St. has never missed blooming.

A peach tree in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. George Sappington of Waterford defies the zero weather. It now is in full bud.

Largely on account of the good record of the administration of Michigan's Highway Commissioner,

John C. Mackie, the bonds covering the construction of the great freeways in the Pontiac area are selling at the lowest interest rate on record.

A letter drifts in from Charles J. Remington of 387 North Paddock St., now sojourning in Bradenton, Fla., which tells of the many good things to be free in Pontiac, but not free in Florida.

I like that folder about outdoor recreation that calls the Pontiac area "The Playtime Country."

Many of us will agree with Mrs. Mercedes Fallon of Rochester, who phones that the boys in the con-on at Lansing rarely show symptoms of constructively working on a new constitution for Michigan.

Mrs. Lydia Felt of 81 East Tennyson St.; 64th birthday.

Mrs. Laura Russell of 1097 Boston Ave.; 82nd birthday.

Mrs. and Mr. Ernest Kirebover of Rochester; golden wedding.

Something for Nothing?—Ha!

Groups Must Clarify Their Goals

Washington — Mass meetings to espouse a cause are not only legitimate as an expression of the "free speech" idea in America, but they give a chance to publicize movements that sometimes have a hard time getting attention. Last autumn, the "Young Americans for Freedom" started planning for a rally to be held on March 7 in Madison Square Garden in New York City.

It was planned as a manifestation of the interest of the younger generation in the cause of anti-Communism. But lately it has been getting some unfavorable publicity because some of the persons designated to receive awards have not accepted the invitations.

As with some other new organizations venturing into the domain of public rallies, mistakes have been made in the planning of such events.

In the first place, only one Democrat and several Republicans in Congress were invited to speak. This caused Sen. Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut, a Democrat, to withdraw his acceptance. He said: "I regard the anti-Communist cause as one which, if it is to succeed, must function as a bipartisan movement which is neither dominated by nor identified with any political party or any political faction."

When I received your initial invitation, I had the expectation that the award presentation was to be a bipartisan meeting for the purpose of honoring a diverse group of Americans for contributions to freedom and anti-Communism.

Then Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, Republican, who had also been invited to speak, wrote that it would be politically embarrassing for him to be there. He said this was because Gen. Edwin A. Walker—who had been announced as a speaker—was a candidate in the Democratic primary for governor of Texas. So the invitation to the general was withdrawn.

Invited THORNTON Another unfortunate episode occurred. The organization invited Morris Thorne, the leader of the secessionist movement in the Congo, to appear and receive a citation. But the Congress leader hadn't been able to get a visa from the U.S. Department of State for his passport.

The State Department said Thursday that a visit by Thorne at this time would be "unfavorable" to the efforts to unify the Congo.

Where the planners of the mass meeting of the "Young Americans for Freedom" made their error was in combining a controversial rally in behalf of Thorne with an award-giving ceremony to Americans, among them persons prominent in party politics.

Those invited to accept awards may look askance at possible misinterpretations that could ensue from their presence at such ceremonies.

A vast amount of literature on public affairs has been circulated by various organizations in recent months—ranging in subject matter all the way from partisan politics to attacks on religious denominations.

Perhaps the persons who have engaged in this kind of warfare have themselves been misled either by impassioned lecturers or through lack of an irresponsible kind.

It is, therefore, very important that "cause" groups—which do come out in the open and number among their sponsors people in positions of responsibility in business, the professions or in the educational world, whether they be conservative or radical—should be especially careful to disclose fully their basic purposes and personnel.

For the public often cannot judge the merits of a movement just by its name—the people can have confidence in an organization as a rule only when they recognize the names of sponsors whose characters and positions in public affairs are known to them. (Copyright, 1962)

Smiles

Aviators usually stand a nerve test before going up very high. Landlords don't need one.

In a husband a woman has a definite asset, says a writer. And the husband often has a liability.

Women's gloves are what hubby goes back to look for after he has left a movie with his wife. When a man promises his prospective bride to be faithful to the last who were the others?

Dr. Harold Hyman Says:

'Case of Nerves' Often Resented by Patients

Q—I am 35 years old and have three children. Since the birth of the youngest a year ago I have had pains in my chest and lower ribs very often. I've had X rays and have seen my own doctor and several specialists and they all agree it's "just nerves."

This really has me down, especially since the last specialist I saw said he wouldn't do any more tests or see me again because he'd rather have me spend my money on my children than on any more investigations. I still have pain and I'm not really a nervous woman. Isn't there something I can do?

A—I should not, perhaps, presume an opinion about your distress but I am tempted to go out on a limb and suggest that you press the painful areas and see if you can discover a "trigger point."

Too infrequently the spread of the lower ribs, especially in the eighth month of pregnancy, and the later readjustment that takes place after childbirth result in dislocations of the "floating ribs."

Then, under certain circumstances such as bending over in an awkward position, the ribs end clash, producing acute pain. Often you can reproduce that pain by pressure.

If you can, injection of a local anesthetic solution may help solve your problem. Anyway, I hope it proves so. The diagnosis of "just nerves" is one that's justifiably resented by most patients.

Q—For three years I have suffered from sore gums and a burning tongue. I've had all sorts of tests, including blood counts and all sorts of diets and vitamin shots but I'm no better. Sometimes I think I'll go crazy for I get no relief between meals and each meal is agony. Have you ever heard of anything like this?

A—If, as you say, all your examinations normal, including blood counts, and nothing has given relief, there may be the possibility that you are allergic to something that enters your mouth—definitely mouth wash, lipstick, denture, etc.

If it hasn't previously been suggested, why don't you eliminate all these for a few days to a week and note the effects? If you are improved, restore the different products one at a time.

If a flannelgown, you'll know what the culprit is and you can scratch it off your list.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

'Force' May Cause Bad Reaction

Even before birth, it has been found that the usual position of the fetus in the mother's womb tends to hamper the action of its left hand.

Since it can thus move the right more freely prior to birth, the balance between the two hands is thus more likely to be upset in favor of the right.

DON'T YELL AT HIM If, however, your child is one of possibly 5 per cent who still favor the left hand, that is no serious problem if you don't yell at him and make him jittery.

Just lead him with his right hand and offer him toys on that same side.

For if the two hands have been used 100 times apiece, they are balanced, so if you offer him a desirable object midway between them, he may then take it with either.

But if that left hand has been used even 101 times to 100 for the right, he will tend to employ the hand that has been used more often.

Since this will be the left, he will now build up the Left-Right ratio of 102-100, so you begin to entrain the left-hand tendency.

Just favor that right hand, however, by making it easier for him to use it, and soon you will tip the scales in favor of the right.

RIGHT IS EASIER

Because the one-arm type of school chair is made for right-handed folks, as are certain musical instruments and women's tools, it is generally more convenient to become right-handed.

My brother John was this left-handed but learned to use his right for writing. But he still throws left-handed.

'Museum or Art Gallery Needed in Our City'

Since Pontiac is becoming a major hub city, now is the time to add an art gallery or museum to the expanding public services. Because of its location, space and availability, the old courthouse would be ideal. Being city or county operated would facilitate loans or exchanges with the Detroit Institute. All people are in need of beauty, especially the young need the opportunity to view more than television.

Many in this area are interested in community betterment. I'm sure support would be given. If admission or donations were necessary it would be the museum to Detroit. It would be the public service. The Press would print the hours and locations occasionally of Detroit art galleries. Instructors advise students to study other paintings and it's difficult around Pontiac. However, things are looking up culturally. Let's not overlook the moving and inspiring world of art.

Award Sponsorship Is Appreciated

Many thanks to The Pontiac Press for the sponsorship and presentation of the Pontiac Press Outdoor Science and Conservation Award that was presented to the Walled Lake Public Schools. This certainly was an honor to the many teachers and administrators who have worked so hard during the year in impressing upon youth the importance and significance of the conservation and wise use of our national and human resources.

'Indiana's Tax Setup Doesn't Top Ours'

In answer to Mrs. Gerald L. Evans, Indiana has four different state taxes—real estate, personal property, gross and automobile.

Personal property consists of furniture, clothing, food allowance, electric appliances, etc. Your automobile is an asset at the license bureau. You have to have your personal property taxes paid before you can get your plates. Gross taxes you paid from your check are just like our federal taxes, with one exception, they aren't as high.

Maybe Mrs. Evans never owned anything in that state. If she did she never would have written.

I'd much rather dig deep for a few pennies when I buy than to go hungry two or three months a year.

'City Would Benefit With Free Parking'

With the opening of another fine shopping center with free convenient parking, Pontiac is hurt. There is yet time to correct this situation. The one drawback to the modern and the privately owned parking lots.

Some way must be found to provide free, curbside, convenient parking lots for would-be customers in the Pontiac central area. This must be made one of the agenda of our city leaders.

The Almanac

By United Press International Today is Friday, Feb. 16, the 47th day of the year with 318 to follow in 1962.

The moon is approaching its full phase. There are no morning or evening stars.

On this day in history: In 1868, the Ellis Club was founded in practice chiefly, but first, brotherly love and fellowship.

In 1938, Austrian Chancellor Kurt Von Schuschnigg bowed to Nazi pressure and agreed to admit Austrian Nazis into his cabinet.

In 1945, American paratroopers started to land on Corregidor in the Philippines and raised the U.S. flag over a half-mile stretch of land.

In 1959, Fidel Castro took the oath of office as premier of Cuba.

A thought for the day: Gen. George Marshall said: "If man does find the solution for world peace it will be the most revolutionary reversal of his record we have ever known."

And southpaw pitchers are often in great demand. But few boys will ever learn a living as southpaw baseball pitchers, so it is usually more efficient to re-train left-handers into use of the right hand.

You need not fear any dire results if you are casual and often "coax" instead of "force" the youngster into greater use of his right hand.

Send for my booklet on the "Common Sense Behavior Problems of Children," enclosing a stamped, return envelope plus 30 cents.

Almanac is sold by Gen. Post, Pontiac, Michigan. It is a 100-page, 10-cent, stamped, self-addressed envelope and is sent to those trying and writing to whom you send for your psychological charts.

A City of Hate, Born of Fear

Oran... Full of Bullets, Knives and Blood

ORAN, Algeria (UPI) — Blood-spattered Oran is a city haunted by fear.

It also is a city of ferocious, uncontrollable hatred. Since the beginning of the year more than 350 Europeans or Moslems have died in this port city of 400,000 people in western Algeria.

Today you can almost smell the fear of the gunman's bullet, the plastic bomb or the sudden flash of a knife.

And hate, born of fear, faces you at every turn — particularly if you are a newsmen.

Take one recent incident, typical of life in this tragic fear-ridden city.

A crowd of 200 European youths stand watching a house from which rises a column of smoke. The house belongs to a Moslem and they have just set fire to it.

As firemen fight the flames a sudden shot rings out. No one knows who has fired it or against whom.

Angry shouts go up that "that was another Moslem shooting at us."

Suddenly the crowd sees a small group of newsmen and photog-

rappers and there is a hushed silence.

SMASH CAMERAS

European youths grab the photographers' cameras and smash them.

Several youths try to strike the newsmen. An elderly man wearing the rosette of the Legion of Honor in his buttonhole, spits out, "There are some Frenchmen who are trying to work against other Frenchmen. They'll be killed before the Moslems."

Europeans here insist, bitterly that all newsmen "write nothing but lies." The press photographers, they assert, are hand-in-glove with the police because any demonstrator recognized in a newspaper photograph is arrested at once.

"Barbouzes" — literally "bearded ones" — is the word they use for all newsmen, the same epithet they use for the government's secret police.

HATE TROOPS

A patrol of crack Zouave troops drives up and is surrounded by angry, shouting demonstrators. The troops are hated, too, because they are on the side of the government which wants to end French rule in Algeria.

Elsewhere a patrol of two helmeted mobile gendarmes, with rifles slung from their shoulders, strolls slowly along the streets.

As they approach, there is sudden silence. In sidewalk cafes the card players stop playing and stare at the gendarmes as they pass.

In Bensoud Square, where European and Moslem quarters meet,

several army trucks stand parked most of the time. On the roof of each a young soldier lies sprawled on his stomach, clutching an automatic rifle and eyeing the crowd closely. Other soldiers stand beside each truck with rifles at the ready.

 This is a district of violence and fear and the government takes no chances.

The fear and hatred persist, even though the citizens of Oran long have become familiar with sudden death. Grenades are thrown, shouting out, the strangled scream is heard of a man with a knife in his back.

That is life today in Oran, the city of fear and hate.

Most of Stockholm is built on and around 13 islands.

Wayne Area Land Goes to 5 Lindbergh Children

DETROIT (AP)—A will filed for probate here Thursday provides that the five children of Brig. Gen. Charles A. Lindbergh will divide the $96,000 estate of their great-uncle Charles H. Land of Durbin, Conn. He died in Switzerland last October at the age of 82.

Wayne County Probate Judge Thomas C. Murphy said the petition was filed here because the property involved in the estate is located in Wayne County.

West Faces Beastly Situation

Monster Gap Widening?

By ROBERT MUSSEL

LONDON (UPI)—A man who has seen the Loch Ness monster with his own eyes suggested today that the West make a valiant attempt to find the beast before the Russians capture and exhibit their own lake monster.

Moscow opened at least the possibility of an East-West monster race this week by announcing that a team of geologists had seen a beast more than 30 feet long displaying itself in plain view in the Lake of Laba Kul in Eastern Siberia.

The man who saw the Loch Ness monster with his own eyes is this correspondent—and few other journalists can make this claim.

I acquired a proprietary interest in Nessie in the early evening of July 11, 1960, as I stood in front of the Foyers Hotel on the shore of the lake with some Scot visitors. The time was approximately 5:30 p.m., but it was still light and a breeze carried a silver pattern on the waters below.

Suddenly, the patch of silver developed a dark area roughly the size of an overturned rowboat. The shiny head of what I took to be a large seal appeared at the ground-end of the dark patch, in the middle of the mile-wide lake, and began moving through the waters, trailing a stable wake.

'COULD SEE BODY'

I was quite willing to accept that it was only a seal or a giant otter, but some scientists, who were watching from the other side of the lake at the same time, said they could see a body about 10 feet long in the water.

They thought it could be the monster, and who am I to argue with scientists?

It comes to a boxoffice duel between Nessie and his Siberian challenger, the Scots veteran will be at a disadvantage. He is harmless, well-behaved, bashful and silent. The Laba Kul beast charges about in a flurry of foam, eating dogs, frightening fishermen and tossing about a body as round and glistening as a metal barrel.

When he first heard about the Siberian monster, hotelier Hugh Roward put into words the general feeling around Loch Ness. "When," he said, "does the Russian tourist season open?"

Seminary Alumnus, 95, Dies in Eastern State

ORCHARD LAKE — The oldest alumnus of SS. Cyril and Methodius Seminary here, the Rt. Rev. Magr. John S. Gulez, died yesterday in Wilmington, Del.

150 Residents to Study College

Group Will Prepare Plans for County Community College

An estimated 200 Oakland County residents filled the Bloomfield Hills High School cafeteria last night to organize the Citizens' Community College Advisory Committee.

The committee will study and prepare plans for a countywide community college system proposed by the County Board of Education.

The group was addressed by County Supt. William J. Emerson who explained the study is to determine how a countywide system of community colleges might be established.

Dr. Gerald W. Bolcourt, who directed the larger "Six-County Study of Community College Needs" completed in 1960, outlined how the study group would be organized and proceed.

Dr. Bolcourt is on leave from Wayne State University to provide full-time technical guidance for the study.

He said about 150 persons among the audience, who signed up for one of five committees, would be assigned to the committee of their choice wherever possible.

The listing of committee members is to be completed within two weeks, he said.

ENDORSE PLAN
Clifford H. Smart, speaking for the Oakland County Superintendents' Association, and George Combs, for the Oakland County School Boards Association, told the group of their organizations' endorsement of the countywide plan and the necessity of the study.

Smart is the superintendent of the Walpole Lake Consolidated Schools, Combs, a trustee of Birmingham's Board of Education, is chairman of the legislative committee of the county's School Boards Association.

Chairman of the meeting was Fred D. Leonard, vice president of the county board of education.

Find Limestone Deposit
KARACHI (UPI) - A geological survey has located a 15 million ton deposit of limestone in the Sylhet District of East Pakistan. The deposit is said to extend nearly 3 1/2 miles, 30 to 60 feet below the ground surface, and to a depth of 400 feet.

Woman Suffers Head Injuries in Auto Crash

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP - A 38-year-old woman is in fair condition in William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, with head injuries resulting from an automobile accident here yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Blanchard of 20158 Fiddlers Green suffered the injury when her car was struck from the rear as she attempted to make a turn from Middle Belt Road onto Kilbuck Street.

Both Mrs. Blanchard and the driver of the other car, Jean J. Schrenk, 31, of 2626 W. Long Lake Road, West Bloomfield Township, were traveling north on Middle Belt.

Schrenk and Mrs. Blanchard's passenger, her daughter Pamela, 13, sustained only minor injuries. The accident occurred about 6:45 p.m.

Japan Plans to Boost Cultured Pearl Output

TOKYO (U) - Japan plans to produce 18 million cultured pearls in the year starting April 1. The government said today the figure represents an increase of 42 million over the preceding 12-month period.

The expansion in pearl production was set in view of soaring pearl exports. Japan in 1961 exported 61 tons of cultured pearls worth $35 million, a 23 per cent boost over 1960.

State Highway Dept. Finds Cash in Disposal of Left-Over Property

LANSING (AP) — Although the State Highway Department defines its job as roadbuilder for Michigan citizens, it also operates in the area of property disposal and real estate.

The Highway Department grossed more than $1 million from the sale of excess property left over after state highways had been constructed last year.

Land and property purchased for the right-of-way of a new road is sold at public auctions when it no longer can be used by the highway department.

The department reclaimed about $250,000 from nearly 3,000 buildings and another $800,000 from 525 parcels of land last year.

Even the timber along the right-of-ways is cut and sold by the state.

The department has recovered more than $3 million since it started its disposal program in 1959.

Graham Will Visit Poland and Hungary

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—Billy Graham said Thursday night he has accepted invitations to visit Red Poland and Hungary.

"I cannot say yet when I will go," Graham said.

The American evangelist, who will preach at two revival meetings here this weekend, was expected to call on President Jorge Alessandri today.

Chile is Graham's last stop on a Latin American tour.

He was entertained Thursday at parties given by U.S. Ambassador Charles Cole and by a group of Chilean legislators.

Deer Crashes 2 Glass Doors in Fire Station

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—"I thought the place had exploded," said fireman Earl Sootsman Thursday, and indeed both the front and back glass doors of the new downtown central fire station in this city of 90,000 had.

A 140-pound doe deer exploded them.

The deer, plunging through the rear door, running down a long hall and crashing out the front, injured herself. Four firemen, giving chase, ran the doe into a dead-end street, where one of them managed to lasso her.

Tying the injured deer to a tree the firemen called State Conservation Department agents. They ordered the deer destroyed.

The deer apparently had strayed into town from outlying wooded areas.

Skiing Calls for Relaxing in Northern Michigan

Mrs. James McHugh of Birmingham lends an assist to Noyce Strait, West Iroquois Road, who is dipping cheese at the traditional cheese fondue party in the White Pine Room of Otsego Ski Club.

Midwinter madness—the big bad twist was one of the most popular evening sports. Here, Mrs. Howard H. Fitzgerald II of Birmingham takes a lesson from her ski instructor, Lynn Mead. On the slopes the same instructor taught Mrs. Fitzgerald parallel turns instead of a twist.

Getting together in the Log Mark after a day of skiing on the picturesque hills of Otsego Ski Club are Dr. Donald Barger of Bloomfield Hills and Mrs. James McHugh.

Snow Bunny Mrs. Fred Poole of Watkins Lake is dressed appropriately for the costume party at the River Cabin that climaxed a week of fun for Pontiac area skiers.

Don't Be Afraid to Mix

Gives Tips on Shipboard Social Life

By GAY PAULEY
NEW YORK (UPI) — You take a cruise to get away from it all — on shore. Not to go into hiding once at sea.

This bit of advice comes from a travel agency, which polled cruise and social directors, shore excursion managers, shipboard lecturers, travel agents and former passengers for some suggestions on how to get the most from a cruise.

YOU'LL MAKE IT
While at it, the agency, American Express, remarked that the number of persons taking cruises grows each season. So if this is not your year for the Caribbean or Mediterranean or around the world, stow the tips for another time. Statistically, it looks as if you'll make it one day.

The agency said that the cruise business is almost double what it was five years ago, with spending increasing from $55 million then to an estimated $100 to $110 million for the current winter cruise season.

Now, about that way to get the most out of a cruise — as shown by the talks with the ship personnel and if you don't mind, some observations from this reporter who was a passenger last winter.

"DON'T BE SHY"
"Don't be shy about entering into all activities," said Ronnie Norton, a cruise director. "Don't wait until the end of the trip to entertain at a private party, as so many women tend to do. Shipboard entertaining should not be a paying off gesture, but a spontaneous desire to bring people together for fun."

"DON'T HIDE AWAY ALL DAY"
"Don't hide away all day, emerge at night and expect to have a good time," said Ann Dickens, a senior social director. "And don't be shy about introducing yourself at shipboard parties — that is why parties are given."

In turn, make friends slowly, advised Vaughn Rickard, a cruise director. "Circulate and meet everyone," he said. "Don't succumb to the temptation of joining a too closely knit group at first. It may cut you off from wider acquaintances. No one can make you have a good time, so extend yourself in order to get the most out of the voyage."

AN ADVANTAGE, BUT . . .
American Express said at least 25 per cent of the passengers on major cruises are traveling alone. Often, they said, this is an advantage because a loner is able to move from group to group and circulate freely.

True, but what the cruise people don't say is that the single man is a target of the time he walks up the gangplank.

"This assures him the gay life, if he wants it, because he is on the list for cocktail parties, for shuffleboard, for deck tennis, for shore trips — and for the bar check if he's not careful."

NEAT WAY OUT
One male veteran of cruises has a polite way around this. Invited to join a group of unescorted women at a table in the lounge, he does. He sits exactly five minutes, gets up and excuses himself.

"That way," he said, "I've been courteous, but I've not gotten hitched for a whole evening."

If you're a woman and single, don't jump for the nearest male. Cruise personnel won't be quoted on this, but privately they admit that some women take cruises for one purpose — to catch a man. With women outnumbering men, as they do on most cruises, this makes the competition rough.

"The men like being outnumbered but say 'let us do the chasing.'"

It seems that the rules of courtship apply at sea as well as on shore — although the time for using them is shorter.

Wever Group Sets Fire Station Visit

The Wever Pre-School Study Group has completed arrangements for the afternoon kindergarten class, preschoolers and their parents to visit a Pontiac fire station 12:30 p.m. Tuesday. Transportation will be provided. Because of the afternoon trip, there will not be an evening meeting this month.

Group to Meet

Waterford Book Review Group members will meet 1 p.m. Monday in the Watkins Lake Road home of Mrs. Karl Kreitz. Mrs. William J. Ladanyi will assist the hostess.

Hills News Bits

By RUTH SAUNDERS
BLOOMFIELD HILLS—This afternoon the home of Mrs. Gordon Getzinger was the setting for a tea given by the Bloomington College Alumnae Association. Assisting: Mrs. Getzinger as hostess were Mrs. Roy G. Lettich Jr., Mrs. Eliot Robinson, Mrs. Weldon MacDonald and Mrs. Harry Winston. Mrs. Winston is a Bloomington trustee.

Sally Wolter, a Bloomington student showed slides of the campus, gave a short talk to juniors and seniors of local high schools who are interested in the college and highlighted distinctive features of Bloomington such as individual class work with tutorial help, nonresident terms, and explained the wisdom of early decision plans for admission.

Miss Wolter will be the weekend house guest of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Saunders of Pierce Street. Mrs. Saunders is chairman of the Detroit Alumnae Association.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hart, Jr. of Bloomington, plan to spend this weekend at Otsego Ski Club.

Early planners for spring vacation are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wardrop and their three daughters. Alison, who attends Westover School in Virginia, will fly to meet her parents and sisters Constance and Stacy in Texas and they will proceed to the Gallagher Ranch where they have spent many vacations.

Mountain Mrs. Wardrop is an ardent skater and skier and often works in several hours at Cranbrook's Gillette Rink or nearby Grampian ski tow.

Still starry-eyed from a weekend in Chicago are "Boo" Egan and her friend Jill Harcke. Boo's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Egan of Franklin Park Drive, flew over with the girls to the Drake Hotel where they had headquarters and started out for several interesting projects. One of the most thrilling events was helping actress Florence Henderson celebrate her birthday after Saturday night's performance and meeting Dick Haynes who is also playing in Chicago. Both are old family friends of Mr. and Mrs. Egan.

It's an Excuse, Says Abby

Greetings on Teary Side

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having a heated argument about the length of skirts. I am 55, am 5 feet 6 inches tall, and I contend that a woman of my age and height should not wear her skirts so her knees show, and he thinks I should. I think that skirts about 2 inches below the knee look better on me. What is your opinion on this?

MRS. X

DEAR MRS. X: Wear your skirts at whatever length you think they look best on you! I think your husband is pulling your leg—right up to the knee!

DEAR ABBY: What has happened to the lovely tradition of sending Christmas cards with cheery greetings? Last Christmas we got several "newsletters" from friends with pages of information about their doings of the past year. One was the pay-off.

It was a 12-page mimeographed story beginning with how they had a flood in their basement. Then their dog was hit by a car. All their children were down with the bumps at once.

"Grandpa Drexel" had his teeth extracted and "Cousin Israel," who had been a widow for 12 years, was "still lone-some."

We didn't even know these people. My husband had been in the service with this man years ago. We received another one. It was all about a kidney operation. I ask you: Is this your idea of a Christmas message?

BUCKET OF TEARS
DEAR BUCKET: Indeed not. It's only an excuse for not having written for a year and a device to keep in touch. Good intentions, but usually boring.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very perplexing problem to which I must have the answer immediately. My fiancé and I are about to be married and we were discussing furniture.

He says he wants twin beds so he can sleep alone. He says he has never slept with anyone and, if he tried, he probably wouldn't be able to get any sleep.

I feel pretty bad about this because that is not the way I imagined it would be. Should I let him have his way or should I give him an argument?

BED TROUBLE
DEAR TROUBLE: Tell him to surrender. If he hasn't tried it, he shouldn't knock it.

How is the world treating you? Unload your problems on Abby.

Ready for Fashion Show

City Federation of Women's Clubs members are completing arrangements for a benefit card party and fashion show at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Madison Junior High School.

A patriotic theme "Women's Day U.S.A." will be featured at the affair with spring fashions by Pontiac's DeCoe Shop. Entertainment will be by Sandra Friedrich, Pontiac Northern High School senior, who will play piano selections.

Mrs. M. D. Petrie is general chairman of the event, assisted by Mrs. Paul Gorman, housing; Mary Veazey and Mrs.

William Belaney, program, fashion show and decorations; and Eva Dyer, tickets.

Others helping are Norma Crawford, hostesses; Mary Hensley, Mrs. Joseph Phillips, Mrs. Ann Stapp, Mrs. Richard Paschke, Ruth Cramer, Mrs. Leslie Langford and Mrs. Russell Jacobson, prizes; Mrs. Russell French, Mrs. Mervie Humphries and Vera Bassett, refreshments; Pauline Pratt, Frances Marx, Becky Laotile and Lenta Stanley, serving.

Card party proceeds will go for play equipment at Pontiac Boys Club.

Mrs. D. Richard Veazey, Delaware Drive, who visited the boys' center recently, pause to watch an intently played game of pool by Richard Hickmott, 13, (left) and Peter Pratt, 11, both of North Edith Street.

Give Aged and Ill Someone to Talk With Friendly Visitors Are Making Life Easier for Lonely—

By MADEIRA DOEREN
An inscription over the swinging glass doors of the Community Services Building on Franklin Boulevard could very well read: "Under these portals pass some of the most dedicated persons in Oakland County."

For the very essence of a volunteer worker is personal sacrifice and a high degree of acceptance of people on whatever level of society they happen to be.

The story of The Friendly Visitors opens in 1938 when it was originally established as a subcommittee of the Pontiac Volunteer Bureau of the Pontiac Area United Fund.

Reorganized in February 1961 with seven women visitors, it now includes 25 men and women visitors and functions as a separate committee of the Women's Division of the Pontiac Area United Fund. They serve an area population of some 160,000.

SERVED ON COMMITTEE

Committee members included Mary Pauli, director of the Visiting Nurse Association; Mrs. William Couleaux and Mrs. Ben Hawkins, chairman.

The purpose of the program is one of visiting. Although slanted primarily toward relieving loneliness of older citizens, the program is flexible enough to provide a means of contact with the ill, the friendless or neglected person or anyone in need of a friendly call.

Without the compatibility of the visitor and the visited, together with frequent visits either in person or by telephone, and above all, the personal touch of understanding friendship, the program would fail.

Over hot coffee and frosted sweet rolls Thursday morning in the Bureau headquarters, the Friendly Visitors reported their visitation experiences.

They were an enthusiastic group from various walks of life. There was the jovial retired electrical company salesman, retired teachers, one or two members of the American Association of University Women, part-time workers facing retirement, grandmothers housewife for distant families, housewives with an hour or two to spare.

Language is a barrier to one visitor who calls on a very lonely Armenian woman. Instead of conversation, they have luncheon downtown or go for a drive. Another calls on a mother of eight who is a double amputee and receives very little help from her older children.

Still another brings cheer to an elderly woman who lives in Highland and one of the men volunteers takes medicines and runs errands for a heart patient who has also been a double amputee since 1950.

The response to the program has been very rewarding, not only for those who anticipate the visitor's call but to participating agencies and visitors as well.

By using agency referrals, duplication of the professional programs and services carried out by other agencies is avoided. Questions or problems that arise can be properly channeled to the referral agency.

MAKE REFERRALS

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac General, Visiting Nurse Association and the Family Service of Oakland County have participated in these referrals, feeling that there are many who no longer need professional assistance but who would benefit from a casual visit.

The Friendly Visitor encourages and if possible, shares hobbies with those visited, writes letters for them, suggests taking them to church or for a drive, tries to send greeting cards for all holidays, help shop or even shape for them, reads to them and gives them much imagination.

So strong a friendship bond is sometimes established that while the visitor is worrying about a delayed call, the person to be called is wondering what has happened to the visitor. The happy swap recipes, sometimes exchange needs or bulbs for window-air gas-dening thereby finding a common interest.

The volunteer arranges his or her own hours which is quite possible with some types of volunteer work, refrains from discussing religion, politics, racial or personal problems. No attempt is made to change living standards, and no personal AID is given. In all, a Friendly Visitor is in no sense an investigator but a very special person with a special gift... love.

Exercise Reduces Waist

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "What exercise can I take to reduce my waist?"

A. This is a good one: Stand tall, with your feet comfortably separated. Place both hands on top of your head. Now bend to the left, and try to touch your left elbow to your right leg. Raise your trunk. This time bend to the right and try to touch your right elbow to your right leg. Raise trunk. Continue, alternating left and right.

Q. "Please tell me what causes bad breath. This is a great handicap to me both socially and in the business world."

A. Halitosis may come from diseased teeth, tonsils, adenoids or sinuses. Decayed teeth do not necessarily cause pain, and sinus trouble may be chronic but not painful. Digestive trouble may also be the cause.

Of course, poor mouth hygiene can lead to bad breath. Unless the teeth are brushed carefully, decaying food particles may cause the breath to be unpleasant. One reader discovered that she must brush her tongue as well as her teeth. This solved this problem for her.

Q. "Please answer my letter. I am 13 years old, and am too heavy. I am 5 feet, 7 inches tall and I'm ashamed to say, weigh 165 pounds. I would like to lose as much as I can before attending a dance I'm looking forward to. I would like to look like something. I would appreciate having you tell me what I should weigh and how to lose especially around the hips. Please answer fairly fast."

A. I am afraid it is too late for the dance you mentioned, but there will be lots more, so get ready for them. You should lose about 30 to 35 pounds.

I think when you have that much to lose you should see your family physician and ask his help. You can begin by eliminating cakes and candies and soda fountain temptations. Eat only fresh fruit between meals, and this doesn't mean six apples or oranges—one only. Do not take second helpings.

You need a well-balanced diet and a sufficient amount of food, especially at your age when you are growing and developing so rapidly. Be satisfied with a gradual loss.

If you or any other readers would like to have my leaflet, "Popularity," which was planned for teenage girls and gives diet suggestions, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Q. "I would like to find a product to cover grey hair without going through the bother of real dyeing, especially bleaching. I have used different products, but found that they didn't last very long. I do not have very much grey hair, just at the hairline. What I want is a temporary cover for the grey between hair colorings."

A. There are some splendid new products on the market which do a very good job, but are not real dyes. If you would like the names of some, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Couple Weds in Rites At Sylvan Lake

Church of Christ
Scene of Nuptials
for Miss Latherow

The Sylvan Lake Church of Christ was decorated with white chrysanthemums, carnations and gladioli for the Saturday evening wedding of Gerald Irene Latherow to Samuel T. Childers, solemnized by Pastor Clyde Balderson Jr.

Daughter of Mrs. William Neldrich, Keego Harbor, and the late Carl Latherow, the bride was given in marriage by her stepfather, a master-type veil of silk tulle touched with sequined Chantilly lace complemented the floor-length bridal gown of white nylon organza over tulle. The fitted bodice was styled with oval neckline and long tapered sleeves. A Dior bow accented the waistline. White roses rested on the bride's white Blithe.

Matron of honor Mrs. Troy Childers wore pale blue embroidered organza over powder blue taffeta and a corsage of white roses.

Flower-girl Karen Neldrich appeared in bouffant pale pink nylon styled with puffed sleeves. Her brother George carried the rings.

Troy Childers stood as best man for his brother, formerly of South Fiddlers Street. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Childers, Whittier, N.C. Bruce Harris and Ewalt Quarles, nephews.

Mrs. Neldrich, who was hostess for the reception in her home, wore an avocado green textured silk sheath dress. Her corsage was white roses.

The newlyweds are at home on Augusta Avenue.

Bowling's Real Ball

By SHARON KAY METZGER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Top professional bowlers, who roll more games in competition in a week than most league rollers do in a month or more, are on the lanes constantly practicing.

Dick Weber, national doubles champion, tells me it is not uncommon for these fellows to roll as many as 30 practice games a week. During practice, the bowler can explore new methods, try different grips or hand positions, concentrate on footwork and coordination.

When the professionals practice, they don't keep score. There's always a temptation to see if you can beat your average, but invariably a bowler will tighten up when he starts to keep a record because he then is in competition. Practice the shots you need to master to round out your game. Concentrate on a particular problem until you have it licked. Make practice enjoyable. Relax. Concentrate on taking the bugs out of your Street will be March hostess.

Gold Star Mothers Meet for Luncheon

Fourteen members of Chapter 4, American Gold Star Mothers, were guests of Mrs. Lewis A. Young at a pre-Valentine's Day luncheon, Tuesday, in her home on Draper Avenue. Mrs. Edna Omstead was cohostess. Cancer drawings were made. Mrs. Henry C. Hight of White-croft was guest of honor. The next meeting will be March hostess.

Pronounce the Name Correctly

By the Emily Post Institute

Q: My youngest brother was married recently and his wife pronounces our family name (her new name) differently than we do. When pronounced correctly it sounds foreign, which it is, but she has Anglicized it.

A: I, as well as the rest of my family, resent this very much and feel that she is ashamed of the name. I am married and no longer carry this name, but am still proud of it. When introducing this sister-in-law to strangers, must I introduce her by the name she calls herself and thereby mispronounce my family name, or do I pronounce it correctly? I would very much appreciate hearing from you on this matter.

A: Let her pronounce her name the way she wants to. It would be introducing her, especially to those who know its proper pronunciation, you should pronounce it correctly.

Q: What is the proper procedure for crumpling the table during the meal? Must a special brush be used or will something else do just as well?

A: Before the dessert course is to be served, the table is "cleared." That means that unused flat silver, bread and butter plates, pepper pots and salt cellars, etc., are all removed. A napkin folded to convenient size used to brush crumbs from the table onto the serving tray held close beneath the table's edge. If you happen to have a crumpling brush or a silver "crumb scraper," it would, of course, be proper to use it but in a great many houses the folded napkin is used.

Q: When cheese is served with pie, is it proper to pick up the piece of cheese with the fingers or should it be eaten with the fork?

A: Correctly, it should be eaten with a fork; but, if it is a piece of dry Cheddar that has not touched the pie filling, it may properly be eaten with the fingers.

Q: Will you please tell me if a white tablecloth is absolutely necessary for a rather formal dinner party, or may a colored cloth be used?

A: White would be necessary for a strictly formal dinner party, but not at all so for one only "rather" formal. Do the bridegroom and others walk together? For the answer to this question as well as others concerning wedding etiquette, send for the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Formal Wedding Procedure." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin, to cover cost of handling, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute care of The Pontiac Press. (Copyright, 1962)

Presbyterian Women's Units Hold Meetings

The Marbach Group of the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church met Monday in the home of Mrs. Robert C. Anderson on Silverdale Drive, Waterford Township. Cohostesses were Mrs. John McGrath and Mrs. Donald Kemsamer.

Mrs. Elmer Barker gave the Bible study on the Gospel of Romans, and Mrs. George Bonchamps read a report on the Least Coin Collection of the World. Mrs. Robert Irwin led the hymn sing.

The September-October Group tied two quilts at a recent morning workshop at the church. Rev. Helen E. Hershey and Elmer Kellogg were guests. Luncheon was served by Mrs. Elaine Malone and Mrs. William Kerkow.

A luncheon reception in the Old Mill Tavern, Waterford, followed the vows of Maureen Elizabeth Leveque to Airman Appreh. Charles M. Schram, USN, repeated at noon Saturday to Rev. Francis T. O'Connell in St. Michael's Church.

Parents of the bride couple are the Maurits A. Leveques of North Johnson Avenue, Mrs. Ralph Hills of Melrose Avenue and John Schram of Raeburn Street.

Jongliff yellow carnations and ivy, arranged in a colonial cascade, complemented the bride's ballerina-length gown of French Chantilly lace over accented-pleated ruffled tulle. The fitted bodice featured fingertip-length sleeves and a fabric neckline. A Swedish crown of lace and pearls caught her bouffant illusion veil.

Mrs. James Robertson, her sister's honor matron, and Mrs. Robert LaBarge, the bridegroom's sister, who was bridesmaid, wore lavender silk brocade with deep purple accessories and carried colonial bouquets of purple and lavender carnations.

James Robertson was best man and Jack Schram ushered at his brother's wedding.

After an evening reception at the Robertson home on Williams Lake Road, the newlyweds left for a motor trip through the South. They will live near Pensacola where the bridegroom is stationed.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Leveque chose magenta rose velvet with rose velvet accessories. The mother of the bridegroom appeared in a beige brocade sheath dress worn with green accessories. Their corsages were mint green carnations.

Church Unit Sews Pieces for a Quilt

Members of the Esther Group of St. John Lutheran Church sewed pieces for a baby's quilt at this week's meeting in the home of Mrs. Charles Colberg on Owego Drive. Mrs. Edwood Holmquist assisted the hostess. Pastor Colberg led, devotion and Bible study. Mrs. Herman Holmquist was a guest for the evening.

Summer vows are planned by Sharon Ann Burkhardt, daughter of the C. E. Burkhardt, Louisville, Ky., to Donald Picmann, son of the A. E. Picmann, Birmingham. She was graduated from Holy Rosary Academy, Louisville. Her fiance is an alumnus of Michigan State University.

SHARON ANN BURKHART

Uncle of Bride Assists in Marriage Service

Candlelight vows of Margaret Ann Miller to Gerald D. Willis were exchanged Saturday evening beneath an arch of palms and white chrysanthemums in Central Christian Church, Dr. Donald Longie, uncle of the bride, assisted Rev. G. W. Gibson who performed the ceremony.

After receiving some 200 guests in the church parlors, the newlyweds left for Fort Lauderdale, Fla. where they will make their home.

The bride is the daughter of the Max L. Millers of Maynard Court and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Willis of Edison Street.

Scalloped schiffli embroidery appliqued accented the bride's princess-line gown of white nylon organza over tulle and her bubble veil of silk illusion, fitted to a crown of pearls and crystals. She wore organza gauntlets and carried a white Bible topped with white rosebuds and carnations.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Leighty, wearing gold tulle, carried a nosegay of tangerine carnations. Susan Green, her cousin's bridesmaid, appeared in a royal blue and gold silk print and carried blue-tipped white carnations.

Eugene Willis stood as best man for his brother, Clifford McClelland and Al Kroppin ushered. Pink sweetheart roses accented Mrs. Miller's sheath dress of royal blue satin. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in toast lace to which she pinned yellow sweetheart roses.

You can't help but feel, after looking at some girls, that they can't be as bad as they're painted. . . Aggravating thought: Why are walls so thin when you're trying to sleep, and so thick when you're trying to listen? — Earl Wilson.

MRS. GERALD D. WILLIS

Will Show Movies at Pontiac Church

Walter Fredericksen, of Baldwin Avenue will show full color movies "Northwestern Holiday," featuring scenery and wildlife from the Straits of Mackinac to the Pacific Ocean tomorrow beginning at 7 p.m. at the Baldwin Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church. A free-will offering will be taken with all proceeds going to the Educational Building fund. A coffee hour will follow to be served by the Co-Worker's Bible Class, sponsor of the affair. The event is open to the public.

Honeymoons at Nassau

Bridget Reilly Marries

Bridget Reilly, daughter of the Denis Reillys of Tralee, Ireland, became Mrs. Philip L. Cahill Jr. Saturday noon in St. Vincent De Paul Church. The bridegroom's uncle, Rev. Patrick Cahill of Northern Alexandria, La., officiated.

After a luncheon-reception for some 200 guests in Romania Inn, the newlyweds left for a 10-day honeymoon at the new Dolphin Hotel, Nassau, in the Bahamas.

The bride who makes her home with the Patrick Reillys of Washington Street, was given in marriage by her uncle.

Appique of Alencon lace enhanced the bridal gown of traditional white satin, designed with portrait neckline, full skirt and cathedral train. Short bouffant veiling of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls. The bridal bouquet of white carnations and lilies of the valley rested on lemon leaves.

Margi Reilly, her cousin's maid of honor and bridesmaid Mary Parle, Kathy Benkman, both of Pontiac and Rosalinda, Bay City, wore peacock blue tulle with matching bell overskirts and tulle pillow hats. They carried garnet miniature roses.

John Cahill stood as best man for his brother. They are the sons of the Philip Cahills, White Plains, N. Y. Michael O'Grady, Long Island, N. Y., Donald Byrnes, Rochester, N. Y., and David Wolski ushered.

The bride attended Marygrove College, Detroit, and her husband holds an engineering degree from University of Detroit, where he is affiliated with Delta Psi Epsilon fraternity. They will live in Nutley, N. J.

For her niece's wedding, Mrs. Reilly chose a beige brocade sheath dress, royal blue accessories and corsage of white carnations and roses. The bride wore a beige linen dress for the mother of the bridegroom.

Twin Mothers to Hear Talk, Go on Tour

Ted Panaretos, director of community relations, Pontiac State Hospital and Frank Chishman, of the child psychology department, will address the Twin Mothers Club, March 8 at 8 p.m. in the conference room of the hospital. The talks will follow a tour of the emotionally disturbed children's unit.

At the February meeting in the Community Services Building, Mrs. Dallas Hilton was named chairman of the committee to select a mother-of-the-year from club members.

James B. Henderson of the Roch-

Kent-Thorne Nuptials

Honeymoon in Florida

White gladioli and potted palms formed background for the candlelight vows of Dena Thorne to Robert Kent, Saturday evening in the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church, Rev. Theodore R. Aliebach officiated.

The Russell L. Thorne of Washington Street are parents of the bride and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ross Kent of West Ypsilanti Avenue and John Kent of Perry Avenue.

For her wedding and the reception in Annets Hall on Oakland Avenue, the bride chose white Chantilly lace over tulle, styled along Empire lines with chapel train. Sequins and pearls defined the Sabrina neckline and were repeated in the tiara which held her fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried white carnations.

ATTENDANTS IN GREEN

Attendants in emerald green satin bell-shaped frocks wore matching satin headbands and carried green carnations. Nancy Thorne served her sister as maid of honor and bridesmaids included Linda Pickering, Mrs. Garner Gorman and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Kenneth Pantone.

Wade Stallons, Detroit, was best man. Ushering were Donald Verrier, Troy, Raymond Meyer and Gary Thorne, brother of the bride.

Flower-girl Linda Jean Hammond, Kergo Harbor, the bride's niece, wore lavender nylon overskirt and Kenneth Pantone carried the rings.

Returning from a two-week honeymoon in Florida, the newlyweds will live in Pontiac.

White carnations and Mary Jo roses accented rose lace over tulle for the mother of the bride and powder blue lace for Mrs. Kent.

Better for Baby
When decorating baby's nursery, a soothing color is better than glaring white. Also, Venetian blinds may be better than shades — which may frighten baby if they suddenly spring up or flap in the breeze. To protect new offspring against soil and germs, make sure that the entire nursery is washable — furniture, walls, curtains, floor, and rug.

Rudyard Kipling's 'Kim' Quiets Children

BY MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

My 10-year-old son is very resentful because he cannot stay up until 11 o'clock and see the big TV shows through to the end as his older brother does. There are scenes over his bedtime practically every night, and over and over that he doesn't fall asleep until 11 anyway. We have been wondering whether we should give in and let him stay up until his brother goes to bed. There's always been jealousy between the boys.

ANSWER: Instead of trying to give him what his brother's got, let's see if we can make what he's got more valuable to him.

I wish you'd go to your bookstore and buy a book called "Kim" by Rudyard Kipling. It comes in an inexpensive edition. Read it first yourself. Then propose to share it with your younger boy by privately reading him a chapter from it every night before his bedtime.

It is the best bedtime tranquilizer I know for children of his age.

Not that it lacks excitement and suspense. It possesses them both, being the story of a quick-witted Irish orphan boy who grew up on the loose in 19th century India and whose search for his identity involves him with espionage, with violence and friends which include everyone from a red-bearded Afghan horse trader to a British hypnotist.

What gives the book its peculiar tranquilizing influence is its supreme character—the old, gentle Tibetan lama who shares in Kim's adventures. From the boy's beloved Holy One there radiates such a spirit of simple goodness that no juvenile turbulence can survive in its presence.

There is nothing I know of which can compete with Kim's lama for comforting a child to entrust himself to sleep.

Sometimes we cannot ourselves reach an irritable youngster with reassurance of our affection. Intent on feeling himself abused, he can't listen to us. That's when we need the gentle old abbot of the remote Himalayan monastery.

As we read about him to our angry child, we remind him indirectly that love still waits through the world and make a communication that is much more effective than our anxious protests. In drawing the child to Kim's Holy One, we really draw him back to us.

Indeed, I have comforted a 2-year-old simply by telling him the story of the lama's encounter with the cobra.

"Kim" is a book that merits much wider use and appreciation by American parents.

Parker-O'Shea Rites

Marry in St. Benedict

White carnations and red roses banded the main altar in St. Benedict Church Saturday for the nuptials of Kathleen O'Shea to Louis Parker solemnized by Rev. Father Dunstan of the Carmelite Order.

The John C. O'Shea of Merry Road, Waterford Township, were hosts at a wedding breakfast in the "300 Bowl" following the ceremony. Some 300 guests attended a buffet dinner-reception in St. George Roman Hall. The bridegroom is the son of the Charles Parkers of East Beverly Avenue.

For her wedding, the bride chose floor-length white rose points. Chantilly lace over net, styled with long sleeves and a pearl-embroidered neckline. Fingertip veiling of silk tulle fell from a pearl tiara. She carried white orchids, carnations and stephanotis.

White peppermint-stripe carnations and red roses complemented emerald green chiffon over tulle for honor maid Gail Battiford. Vivian O'Shea, her sister's bridesmaid and Sheila Mellick, also in emerald green, carried white carnations and red roses.

Jerry Bedovich was best man and guests were seated by Byron Arnold of Flint, and Gerry McNeive.

Kimberly Anselmi and her twin brother Kim were flower girl and ring-bearer respectively.

Returning from a honeymoon at Lake Odessa, the newweds will live on Harriet Street. For her daughter's vows, Mrs. O'Shea chose a blue silk ensemble with printed bodice. The mother of the bridegroom appeared in a silver beige sheath dress with matching coat, blue hat, shoes and gloves. Both mothers wore white orchids.

The reserves of natural gas in the U.S. were set at from 70 to 100 trillion cubic feet, according to estimates of the national resources planning commission.

MRS. LOUIS PARKER

Theorizes on Lack of Women Doctors

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal official has suggested that one reason so few American women become doctors is that they are reluctant to bring to their future husbands a "reverse dowry."

Women will not take loans to finance their medical education "because they are afraid they will come to marriage with huge debts to pass on to their husbands," Asst. Secretary of Welfare Wilbur J. Cohen said Friday.

He testified before the Senate-House Economic Committee on the problems of pursuing a medical education in this country. Cohen argued for some outright federal scholarships for promising students.

Elect, Announce New Leaders of Pontiac Central High Clubs

BY WADE WILKINSON

New officers were elected in many of Pontiac Central High School's organizations for the second semester.

The a cappella choir's new officers are Mary Lou McLaughlin, president; Wade Wilkinson, vice president; Margaret Melrose, secretary; and Eric Warren, treasurer.

Retiring first semester officers are John Kimball, Ed Bradley, Sue Putnam, and Marilyn Colfing.

Wade Wilkinson was re-elected president of the Senior Boys Ensemble while the officers of the Senior Girls Ensemble newly elected were Karen Brown, president; Jeanette Wright, vice president; and Margaret Melzer, secretary.

NEW OFFICERS

The Linemen Society elected a flock of new officers for the second semester.

The guiding forces for this semester will be Jim Hile, president; Jane Bigler, vice president; Virginia Norvell, secretary; Helen Ramsdell, treasurer; Marilyn Morris, librarian;

Tom Jackson, sergeant-at-arms; and Donna Darro, reporter.

Bradley Spencer, graduate from University of Michigan, is the new advisor for the Tomahawk, Pontiac Central's student paper.

Thomas Kreitmeyer, the former advisor, will now devote his efforts to the problems of students in the counseling department. Besides assisting the student staff in production of the Tomahawk, Mr. Spencer will teach journalism classes for the English Department.

As the debate season draws to a close, Central debaters are entering in the District Debate Tournament.

Two students chosen from the following list of debaters will compose the team entered by Central. They are: Bill Graves, Steve Wynan, Andrea Tynan, Judy Jekett, and Dick Taylor.

Twenty students of Pontiac Central High School will visit Michigan University Saturday. These are some of the students interested in attending WMU at a later date. Instructor Jean Smith is accompanying them.

The new addition to the Pontiac Central History Department, Asian History, is moving rapidly along its planned study lines. Numerous guest speakers familiar with the Asian continent and its peoples have received the attention of the group with slides and lectures.

Ski Club's Preparing for Fun-Filled Weekend at Lone Pines Lodge

By MARY KAY STEEZELECKI

Destination—Caberfae. Waterford Township High School's Ski Club is heading there this weekend for a fun-filled weekend.

The Lone Pines Lodge is where the 35 students and sponsors will be staying for the weekend. Total cost of the weekend is $24 which includes rooming, food, ski low, and gas. During the day from 8-5 they will ski on the Caberfae slopes. On Saturday night a dance is to be held for the ski club.

Posted recently was the third marking period honor roll. Seniors on the all "A" honor roll are Diane Clark, Jennifer Marion, Patricia Platz and Kathy White. Juniors on the all "A" honor roll are Laura Sue Grile, Cheryl Jones, and Barbara Lake, while the sophomores are Jean Ott and Sherry Zannoch.

Freshmen are Marilyn Cadman, Pamela Clark, Karen Coleman, Paul Dumas, Kenneth Main, Cynthia Smith, Martha Roper, Sylvia Smith and Margaret Wilson.

A total of 120 senior, junior, sophomore and freshmen achieved "A" and "B" honor roll for the third marking.

St. Mike Observes 1962's Book Week

By SHARON RODDEN

"Roots of Freedom, Faith, and Knowledge" was the theme of Wednesday's assembly centering around this year's Catholic Book Week at St. Michael's High School.

Seniors participating in the program were: Bill Hettlin, chairman; Dana Hestokos, Kip Fraser, Rita Heddison, Tom Chaschalla, Shannon Densley and Mercedes Marasquique.

The St. Thomas Aquinas Chapter of the National Honor Society was organized this week under the direction of Sister Mary Euphrasia.

ELECT PRESIDENT

Elected to act as president of the seven member group is senior, Dana Hettlin. The other chapter members are: Shannon Densley, Bob Flammigan, Pat Hogan, Jim Harren, Judy Lamphere, and Sharon Rodden.

These students were chosen by members of the faculty on the basis of outstanding scholarship, service, leadership, and character for the purpose of promoting and stimulating these same ideas in youth in our high schools and junior high schools throughout the world.

The Society's most rewarding benefit, among many, is that of the "scholarship fund."

During the last 16 years, the society has aided many of its members by having administered a fund amounting to a cumulative total of $36,750 and providing scholarships, awards, and certificates of merit to outstanding students en route to college.

Senior members who belong to the Society upon graduation will have the extra privilege and honor of wearing the "gold" tassel on their caps.

Started in 1921, the National Honor Society has grown to over 11,000 senior chapters, including the 1962, 11th and 12th grades and to over 2,500 junior chapters, including grades seven through ten.

There are chapters in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, in all United States territories, possessions and dependents, and the American schools in Argentina, Cuba, England, Finland, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Lebanon, Mexico, Nicaragua, Philippines, Spain, Thailand and Turkey.

The National Honor Society is a membership of honor students united together under one name of significance and world-wide prestige, performing useful and purposeful services both in the school and the community, and striving for higher and better education.

'63 Class Rings Arrive at PNH

Juniors, Seniors Hail Valentine's Day Treat Signifying Seniority

By FAN MOORE

Wednesday proved to be a special Valentine's Day Treat for juniors and seniors of Pontiac Northern High School.

The 1962 and 1963 classes received their class rings. Northern class rings have a unique emblem designed by the Terryberry Company of Detroit. The ring shows a large "N" supported by a pillar. On top of the pillar shines a star which symbolizes the star which the school paper is named.

Percy Guest of the Terryberry Company took the orders and delivered the rings.

The Reverend Jack Largent spoke to senior Pilot Program students about Indonesia. Mr. Largent is a field missionary there.

Pat Largent, senior at Northern is the sister of Reverend Largent.

Pontiac Northern students rated very well at the District Solo and Ensemble Festival last Saturday.

Receiving first divisions at the instrumental contest in Ferndale were Doug Ingamells, Ron Course and Pam Morris.

In local competition at Wayne State University the Crystalles received a superior rating and the Scarlettens received an excellent rating.

The Parents, Teachers, Students Association is sponsoring a chicken dinner tomorrow evening from 5:00 until 8:00. The meal includes a complete chicken dinner with homemade pie.

The price is $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for children. The dinner is the chief money making project for this year's PTSA. Funds will be used to sponsor the 1963 foreign exchange student.

Basketball's Wonderful—Chris Flehmig

Rochester Introduces Exchange Student

By KATHI GENTLE

Rochester Senior High School has a visiting student from West Berlin, Germany. While living in Rochester, Chris Flehmig, 16, is staying at the home of Judy Mallory, Judy, who was last year's foreign exchange student from RHIS, stayed in Chris' home when she went to West Berlin last summer.

Chris, an only child, attended the Herder School in Berlin. The classes she is taking during her semester at RHIS are English, French, American History, student council, and government.

Although she arrived here only last Sunday, she has already taken an active part in the American Field Service interlocking drive and attended her first basketball game which she thinks is "wonderful."

When asked what she thought of our school, she said simply and enthusiastically, "I like it very much." She was very impressed by our "modern" school, and the students who are "so kind and nice and always say hello."

Everyone welcomes Chris, and we all hope she has a wonderful time while she is here.

Two members of our school were recently given musical awards. Sue Letts received an "superior" rating for a flute solo of the concerto "Dyres," and Pam Capaldi received an "excellent" rating for a violin concerto at the Junior Music Festival in Detroit at the Wayne State University building.

RECEIVE AWARDS

Both girls received award certificates from the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs. Sue will also get a special certificate from the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Saturday night from 9 to 11 a civil defense panel discussion will be held in the Rochester Municipal Building.

Two representatives from RHS, sophomores Mary Lickert and Mary Boulton, two representatives from Central Junior High, and the Oakland County Council discussed questions such as the position of the teenager in CD, what the teenager can do to assist in training for Civil Defense and if there should be regular courses on this subject in schools. Admission was free for this program open to the public.

Other business matters including does, programs, and future activities were discussed at Ruth Chamberlain and Beulah Smith, Literary Club sponsors, conducted the meeting.

Seniors interested in securing jobs filed on application cards from the Michigan Employment Security Commission this week.

After the results of the job survey, most seniors will take a two hour test on March 12.

Emmanuel Pupils Vying for Title Likely to Succeed

By JANIE MERCER

Students at Emmanuel Christian High School are all vying for the title of "The Person Most Likely to Succeed." Getting good grades isn't the only thing that counts in making a successful person.

In this contest he must qualify in four different areas: physical, spiritual, social, and academic.

Each student was given a list of things they must accomplish. Among them were: a bicycle trip from the school to the Detroit city limits, guess the approximate time for painting a Pontiac coming off the assembly line, and proof of having been on radio or television.

Literary Club members of WKHS listened to a review of the book, "An African Tragedy," written by Theodore Dreiser, during their "Student Night" meeting Tuesday.

W. Kettering Senior Places Third in State Youth Leadership Contest

BY SHERYL LEIGH

Taking third place in the statewide judging of the Youth Leadership Contest is Waterford-Kettering High School senior, Tom McClum.

Tom entered the local Elks Youth Leadership Contest last November with three other students from Kettering.

Competing against those representatives from WKHS and those from twelve other high schools in the Pontiac area, Tom placed first, receiving a $100 savings bond and a $25 savings bond for the school.

PLACED THIRD

After winning the area contest, Tom entered the statewide competition and placed third. In May, Tom and his parents are invited to attend a banquet in Kalamazoo for the top ranking winners of the Elks contest. Here he will receive his award for third place.

The contest, sponsored by the Fraternal Order of the Elks was judged on the basis of leadership, citizenship, appreciation, perseverance, resourcefulness, and sense of humor.

Installing Waterford-Kettering High School thespians members of troop 229 were the Waterford Township High School thespians members of troop 95, during Monday evening's Dramatics Club meeting.

PUBLIC EVENT

The ceremony was open to the public as the formal installation of the WKHS troop and the initiation of the thespians members was performed by consoling.

Thespians is an honorary dramatic organization of which Patty Looman is the sponsor at Kettering. President of the club is Ray Strohlein, with Andre Anderson serving as vice president, Marlene Colgrove as secretary-treasurer, and Sue Jackson as postmistress.

Here's what QUALITY has done:
At last count there were 1,499,927 Chevrolet trucks over 10 years old still working—424,381 more than any other make.

1962 CHEVROLET JOBMASTER TRUCKS

built better...work longer!

When Chevrolet builds a truck, it builds a quality truck. This policy makes sense. Chevrolet trucks work a long time...cost less than many other makes to operate and maintain over the years...consistently bring a higher trade-in price...and, as a result, are bought by more people.

We invite you to come in and examine this quality closely and to take a 1962 demonstrator out for a good long test drive. Note the cab comfort, the good visibility, the smooth ride, the solid feel of its quality. Compare Chevrolet truck features with those of other makes. Then decide which are your wisest investment. We're sure it will be Chevrolet's.

See your Chevrolet dealer for trucks that keep running and running!

So Many Graduates at So Great a Cost

Canaveral, an Ivy-Covered University of Rocketry

By BOB CONSIDINE

CAPE CANAVERAL — This place is beginning to grow ivy on its halls of spaceology. It has graduated quite a number of rocketry products at a cost that reaches into the billions.

Earlier this week we watched the very last Atlas-E pass its test. It took off with a great whoosh of flame and shot 4,000 miles down the range with a nose-cone filled with instrumentation to increase America's knowledge of what its war-heads would be asked to withstand, on re-entry. If they ever had to be used.

The Atlas-E will not be fired again, except in anger. It is now officially operational . . . in place . . . ready.

Two weeks ago the last Titan I was test-fired from here. Now there is no longer any question that its many operational counterparts, buried in silos in California and elsewhere, will work — if called upon.

The Minuteman is in what amounts to its junior year here. It skipped the sophomore phase, this superb solid-fuel ICBM.

It has shown the faculty of old "Canaveral University" enough as of now to convince it that, with this baby, we may not only have closed the military missile gap but taken a striking lead over the Russians.

Before these three were the Polaris, the Thor, the Jupiter, the Redstone, the Winged Gnat, Matador, Mace and others. It is getting to be a considerable alumni.

Some, like the subsonic Snark, have already outlived their usefulness.

The super-dependable Redstone, that bigger and better German V-2 ship which drove Hitler and Gus Grissom's ride to fame, is by the process of being replaced in the U. S. rocket inventory by the solid fuel Pershing, which still is too big for its beltches.

Just as the 16-engine B36 was developed and produced and became the No. 1 deterrent of World War II, only to wind up in the junkyard of obsolescence, so will some if not all of these wondrous missiles listed above.

The Atlas-F will be capable of being stored and all but forgotten until needed.

MORE SPEED

The new Polaris missile will fly 1,200 nautical miles instead of 1,300. The Polaris after that one will fly 1,700.

The next Minuteman is expected to be such a marvel of automation that its ground crew will consist of two majors or colonels. Since bolt-tightening and other tinkering will have been completely eliminated, the Minuteman "sitters" probably will be given an opportunity to study for their masters degrees.

The Russians are coming in now, and most of them are over-powering. The "acut back" of the new frust team seems to be the Air Force's Blue Scout, which looks something like a pencil from any great distance.

There aren't many good pictures of the take-off of one of these multistage solid fuel experimental rockets. One doesn't take very good pictures of a shell coming out of a moude. It can get Out There pretty far.

The third stage of one Blue Scout splashed into the Atlantic just off Accotun Island. The fourth stage hit in just about the same spot exactly 24 hours later. The earth had turned around once while the stage was coming back.

There's failure, of course — Von Braun's magnificent machine. We didn't have a million-pound thrust (plus) engine, so Von Braun and his associates literally clustered eight Redstone engines as the first stage of this forevermore of lunar exploration. Clever's Last Stand, they call the monster hero-shot.

And beyond the Saturn series lies Nova, the unhappily named Behemoth (it means "exploding") planned to stand two-thirds the size of the Washington monument.

Nova's greatest period has been problems in the hope that U. S. space engineers can come up with something more compact to do its postgraduate job. But if they fail, Nova has room for its take-off, Canaveral's can of its are.

The first U. S. auto road race was between Chicago and Libertyville in 1895 over a 100-mile course.

Claims Gall Stones
Factor in Cancer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A surgeon told the MidSouth Postgraduate Medical Assembly that there is substantial evidence that gall stones are an important factor in cancer of the gall bladder.

Dr. George G. Finney, associate professor of surgery at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, recommended on Thursday that "when stones are present, the gall bladder with the stones should be removed."

"The attitude of some members of the medical profession that gall stones are harmless unless they give definite symptoms will not help reduce the death rate," he said.

Help-Yourself
Boxes for Poor

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—For the down and out, help-yourself poor boxes.

Police said Thursday two poor boxes have appeared in the city one attached to a tree, the other to a telephone pole.

Each contains a slot for money. Painted across the top, in neat, black letters, are the words: "Help for the destitute." Underneath is the word: "Donations."

A small door at the bottom reads: "If you are hungry or sorely in need of assistance, help yourself."

The door contains no lock. A check of one of the boxes showed 85 cents. A later check showed empty.

No Action by Watford
in Review of Rec Budget

The Watford Township Recreation Department budget for the fiscal year 1962-63 was reviewed by the Watford Township Board of Education Thursday night, but no action was taken.

It was indicated that board members would like to have the opinion of School Supt. William A. Shunk and two of the school board members, who are also members of the recreation committee, before acting on the school district's portion of the budget.

Shunk was out of town Thursday evening and Robert Fields and Duane Lemann—both school board—and recreation board members—had to leave the meeting early to keep speaking engagements and missed the budget portion of the agenda.

The total proposed recreation department budget is $30,625.04. The Township Board and School Board are both being asked to appropriate $20,201.27. The remaining $10,223.50 will be raised through activities of the department.

An increase of approximately $1,500 each is being asked from the township and school district in this proposed budget over the current budget. Comprehensive liability insurance and workers' compensation coverage as well as the fact that fire insurance comes due this coming year account for the main portion of the increase. A provision for the possible hiring of an additional sports supervisor is also included in the budget.

The proposed budget was presented to the Township Board Monday night but action was deferred pending further study. Recreation director Robert Lawyer appeared at both meetings to answer questions.

Business, Industry Give
$178 Million to Education

NEW YORK (AP)—Corporate gifts have risen to a new annual level of about $178 million, an increase of more than 30 per cent in two years, says the Council for Financial Aid to Education.

Business and industry not only are giving more money to education, the council reported Thursday, but they also are giving education a bigger share of their total contributions.

Anniversary Passes Unnoticed in Home

ADAMS, Miss. (AP) — The 12th birthday anniversary of the late B. Anthony, pioneer crusader for equal rights for women, passed practically unnoticed here Thursday.

The only public recognition was a bouquet of flowers placed beneath her portrait in the Adams Free Library.

Miss Anthony was born Feb. 15, 1850, at Bowen's Corners in the Anthony household, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Richardson Jr.

Found Hanged in Cell

MUSKOGEEON in — Death by strangulation was the post mortem report Thursday in the case of Milton Armstrong, 37, of Muskogee Heights, found hanged in his cell Wednesday at Muskogee County Jail. Emergency efforts failed to revive the youth who was arrested Tuesday night on a morals charge while free on bond to await trial in a larceny case.

CHARACTER ACTOR DIES — Vladimir Sokoloff, veteran Hollywood character actor, died of a stroke at his Hollywood home at the age of 71. He is pictured as he appeared in his most recent role, that of a Conack chief in "Tarns Bulba," a new film still unreleased.

Actor Sokoloff Victim of Stroke

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Vladimir Constantine Sergievich Alexeev, Sokoloff, who once estimated that he had portrayed 35 nationalities during his 50-year acting career, is dead of a stroke at 71.

The Russian-born performer, once a pupil of the famed Stanislavsky, died in his sleep at his West Hollywood home Thursday.

The veteran character actor was the last of what Hollywood called "the classic Europeans."

Sokoloff was associated with the Moscow Arts Theater as an actor and director from 1914 to 1937. He began his acting apprenticeship under Stanislavsky, stage name of the creator of the "Method" school. Sokoloff later said he didn't approve of this type of acting for Americans.

His method called for actors to lose themselves completely in their portrayals.

Sokoloff once told a newsman that if Stanislavsky were alive, his favorites would include none of the so-called practitioners of the Method.

Sokoloff added: "His favorites—and I know they would be—would be Frederic March, Alec Guinness, Julie Harris, Michael Redgrave, Anne Bancroft, John Gielgud, and Ralph Richardson."

Of Marlon Brando's adoption of the method, Sokoloff said: "Brando, while a great actor, allows his own personality to dominate the role. Stanislavsky always insisted that the actor submerge himself in the role."

NAMED HUSTON

Prior to Stanislavsky's death in 1938, Sokoloff asked him to name the greatest actor of the time.

He said, "Walter Huston—and I agreed with him," Sokoloff related.

After leaving the Soviet Union, Sokoloff joined Max Reinhardt.

Success on Broadway led to his movie debut in "The Life of Emile Zola." He had other prominent parts in "For Whom the Bell Tolls," "Juarez," "Royal Scandal," "Baron of Arizona," "Macao," "Two Smart People," "Back to Bataan," and many others.

Musical Publisher Dies; Had Long List of Songs

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis Bernstein, president of the music publishing firm of Shapiro, Bernstein and Co., Inc., died Tuesday in his home after a long illness. He was 83.

Among the songs he published were: "Sunny Side of the Street"; "Wagon Wheel"; "School Days"; "Let Me Call You Sweetheart"; "My Melancholy Baby"; "The Prisoners Song"; and "Emmett Like You."

Compromises on Home Rule Issue

LANSING — A compromise today for modified county home rule, since the legislature could still pass laws placing limitations on the type of local self-government allowable.

its preliminary stamp of approval, Thursday on a provision giving the legislature the final word on the granting of home rule to the state's 83 counties.

In a series of votes which followed heated party lines, Democratic attempts to liberalize the proposal were knocked down. The convention will vote at least two more times on the provision before it goes into the proposed new constitution.

As adopted, the section provides that any county may "frame, adopt, amend, or repeal a county charter in a manner and with powers and limitations to be provided by general law."

DEMS PROTEST

Democrats protested that the provision did not permit true home rule, since the legislature could still pass laws placing limitations on the type of local self-government allowable.

But most GOP delegates closed ranks to support the compromise after heated the session, however, brought together two divergent groups which earlier had converged from the local government committee deliberations with separate proposals.

One group, headed by D. Hale Brake, R-Stanton, leader of a conservative faction, sought to retain the constitutional status and election of the prosecuting attorney, sheriff, clerk, treasurer and register of deeds.

The other group—led by Glen Allen, R-Kalamazoo, and Mrs. Dorothy Judd, R-Grand Rapids—had asked that counties be given freedom to decide for themselves whether they wished to make all or any of their county officers elective or appointive.

The two sides also had disagreed on whether the structure of boards of supervisors should be flexible or specifically prescribed by the legislature.

In backing the compromise proposal, Brake declared that he did not feel that the legislature would be "any less sensitive to protecting the rights of the people" than the constitutional convention.

CHANGES FORUM

"This proposal asks the legislature to adopt county home rule and, in effect, transfer our dispute to the legislature," Brake said, adding:

"It's a compromise that sacrifices no principles but merely changes the forum for the argument."

But William D. Ford, D-Taylor, condemned the provision as "not really a compromise at all."

He said:

"Brake and his people think they have influence with the legislature, and if they don't get what they want, they'll bottle it up in committee."

"And unless the legislature acts, there will be no home rule."

Democrats Tom Downs and Adelaide Hart, both of Detroit, said they would like to retain on an elective basis the offices of prosecuting attorney and sheriff, with the system of naming other officials being optional.

In other action, convention president Stephen S. Nisbet, R-Fremont, said the delegates are much more concerned with drafting a good document than in meeting a deadline.

Nisbet made his comment in replying to a letter from Secretary of State James M. Hare which suggested that the convention might forget its self-imposed March 31 target date for adjournment.

URGED SEPARATION

Hare said he feared that the candidacy of delegate George Romney for the Republican gubernatorial nomination would make calm consideration of the new constitution difficult — if not impossible. As a solution, Hare suggested that the document go on the ballot next spring and thus separate it from the election for governor this November.

Nisbet received another letter Thursday — this one from former Supreme Court Justice George Edwards, now Detroit police commissioner.

Edwards criticized a proposal submitted by the judicial branch committee which recommends that Supreme Court justices be elected by district rather than on a statewide basis.

"Such sectionalization of the highest court of the state seems to be most undesirable," said Edwards. "The Supreme Court should command the talent of the best which is available in the bench and bar of the state, regardless of where the individual justice resides."

Googan Helms Red Wings---as a Ranger

Win Lets Detroit Tie New Yorkers for 4th, Montreal 9-1 Victor

By BILL CORNWELL

DETROIT — The Detroit Red Wings, desperately trying to gain a spot in the 1962 National Hockey League playoffs, received an unwilling assist from former teammate Pete Googan last night.

Googan, recently traded by Detroit to New York for defenseman Noel Price, drew a roughing penalty in the 7th minute of the 3rd period with the score tied at 3-3.

Twenty-eight seconds later — 6:44, to be exact — Norm Ullman clinched a power play with his 22nd goal of the season to give the Red Wings a 4-3 triumph over the New York Rangers, before 18,984 patrons at Olympia.

The victory enabled the Wings to dislodge New York for 4th place, the NHL's final playoff spot. Each team now has 40 points.

Montreal's rampaging Canadiens added their top lead to 11 points by crushing the cellar-dwelling Boston Bruins, 9-1, at the Montreal Forum in Thursday's other NHL game.

MUFF 51 LEAD — Detroit led a 5-1 advantage slip through its fingers before Ullman connected to rescue a hard-earned work.

Another ex-Red Wing, Johnny Wilson, gave New York a 1-0 edge in the 7th minute of the 1st period with a shot that slid past a very surprised Hank Bassen in the Detroit net.

Seven minutes later Alex Delvecchio scored the count at 1-1 by knocking Warren Goettfry's rebound past startled Ranger goalie Gump Wenzel, back in the New York cage after a six-game absence.

It was Delvecchio's 21st goal of the campaign and his 6th in the last seven games. He now has scored in Detroit's last five starts.

Detroit earned a 3-1 margin in the 2nd period on goals by rookie Larry Jeffrey and veteran Bill Gadsby. Jeffrey's tally at 16:30 came with New York's Eric Spence penalized for holding. Gadsby's counter was a blazing 10-foot shot on a perfect pass from Gordie Howe.

RANGER TOWEE — Gadsby drew a roughing penalty at 19:43 and it took the Rangers only eight seconds to complete the power play. Dean Prentice chipped the puck into the net at 20:00 at the end of the 2nd stanza.

Guy Gendron, standing near the crease, battled home Andy Hebenton's rebound. Gendron's 22nd session to even the score at 3-3. That set the stage for Googan's penalty and Ullman's game-winning goal.

Howe assisted on three of Detroit's four tallies to gain three points on New York's Andy Bathgate in the NHL scoring race. Bathgate, the current leader, was shot out yesterday. He has 50 points, followed by Howe with 64.

Worsley, tending goal for the first time since Feb. 2, was credited with 34 saves. Bassen had 28. Five penalties were called, three against the Rangers.

Eight different Canadiens broke into the scoring column in their rout of the hapless Bruins. Bobby Rousseau was the only player to score twice, including a penalty shot in the final period.

Single Montreal goals were tallied by Claude Provost, Don Marshall, Bernie Geoffrion, Ralph Backstrom, Billy Hicke, Dickie Moore and Henri Richard. Boston's lone goal was made by Eddie Westfall in the final stanza.

ABC Tournament Opens on Saturday

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—The 1962 American Bowling Congress tournament, expected to attract more than 27,000 bowlers to Des Moines before it ends a 6-day run, gets underway Saturday.

Iowa Gov. Norman Erbe will help with opening ceremonies after the first squad of Des Moines bowlers initiates the 40 new alleys installed in Veterans Auditorium.

Bowling groups already have assured the ABC of more than $25,000 in pre-tournament ticket sales.

With a prize fund of $480,110 to be shared by 5,392 teams, the tournament has attracted such name bowlers as Don Carter, Eddie Labanski, Buddy Bonar, Billy Weir, Buzz Fazio and Steve Nagy. They will compete in the Classic Division for top bowlers, which was introduced in the tournament last year.

Most of the entries, however, will be once-a-week bowlers who will battle in the regular and booster divisions for prizes in singles, doubles, all-events and team competition.

Des Moines leads cities in number of teams entered with 549 and Iowa leads the states with 2,183. Only states not represented in the tournament are Idaho, Mississippi, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Wink Named Coach of Year

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP)—Jim Wink, who in three seasons built Ferris from a pushover to one of the state's strongest small college teams, today was named Michigan NAIA basketball coach of the year.

Wink's teams have 47 victories and 11 defeats in the three seasons since he went to the Big Rapids institution after a successful coaching career at Highland Park High School. This year Ferris has the best mark of any Michigan team.

Named on the first all-star team were Tony Palmer and Don Dobrowski of Ferris; John Bradley of Lawrence Tech; Ken Van Dyke of Central Michigan and Bob Armstrong of Northern Michigan.

The second team consisted of Bernard Kilpatrick and Mike Bolmet of Ferris; Dave Nelson of Central Michigan; Dick Groh of Olivet and Cliff Turner of Hillsdale.

Moore Eyes 8th Spare Crown; Gals in National

Monroe Moore will have revenge in mind for the 2nd straight week tomorrow night when he bows his 8th appearance on the televised "Make That Spare" program.

He will be facing Carl Richards, a fellow who eliminated him at the ABC Masters tournament a few years ago. The winner will get $1,000 and a shot at the jackpot spare worth $4,000. "He" avenged an earlier setback to Ray Blunk last Saturday.

City women stars Shirley Pointer and Gerry Hints are in McKees Rock, Pa., awaiting the National Team battle Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. Pointer is the only local member on the Huron Bowl team. Mrs. Hints is competing with Great Lakes.

EAST LANSING — Top-ranked Ohio State rolls into town this weekend hoping to devour its second straight Michigan based basketball team and extend its Big Ten winning streak to 25 games.

Michigan State coach Fordy Anderson said today his last place team was not going into the game Saturday conceding defeat, however.

Ohio State has won all 19 of its starts this season, nine of them in the Big Ten. Its worst record in the last three years, since All-American Jerry Lucas joined the varsity, is 11-4.

A sell-out crowd of more than 12,500 is expected for the clash. All reserved tickets were sold weeks ago.

Purdue's Terry Dischinger will try to expand his league scoring lead in an afternoon regionally televised game at Illinois.

The contest is a choice one on a full Big Ten basketball slate as Dischinger tries to fatten his 31.7 point average against a team he has had scoring luck with throughout his career.

Second place Wisconsin (7-1) will try to gain revenge for its only Big Ten loss in a return match with Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich.

In other games Iowa (3-5) is at Indiana (3-4) and Northwestern (2-7) at Minnesota (2-7).

Syrons Plan to Build New $1 Million Links in Akron Keg Tourney

By BILL CORNWELL
The Syrons have bought additional stock in Pontiac's thriving golf business.

Frank Syron, pro-owner of Pontiac Country Club since 1941, said today that the family plans to build another 18-hole golf course with preliminary groundwork slated to start this spring.

Syron announced the purchase of 240 acres of rolling terrain in the Watford Township on the Dixie Highway, a half mile north of Waterloo Boulevard.

The property includes Woodmill and Eagle lakes and the proposed links will be bounded on the north by the Clinton River.

Syron said that they will invest more than a million dollars in the new venture and the entire project is expected to be completed in five years.

NO NAME YET

Steps are being taken to procure an architect for the designing of the layout. No name has yet been selected for the club, but Syron hinted that it might be called Watford Country Club.

"This will be a championship course," Syron declared. "The minimum yardage will be 6,800 with a probable par of 72 and we plan to make our tee 100 yards long," he continued.

Syron emphasized that the venture was a family project among his wife Elizabeth, sons Lloyd and Frank Jr., and himself, with the two boys sharing the long-range dividends.

"It's chiefly a joint project for Lloyd and Frankie," Syron said. "The original idea was theirs and we decided to support them in their desire to give Pontiac area golfers another much-needed golfing site."

To squelch erroneous reports, Syron also pointed out that this will be a second course and not a replacement for Pontiac Country Club.

STORMS FLYING
Wild rumors were flying around that the Syrons were selling P.C.C. in order to undertake the new project.

"This is definitely not so," Syron stated. "Lloyd and Frankie will operate both courses, Frankie serving as pro and Lloyd as manager."

Like P.C.C., the new course will be run on a semiprofessional basis.

Claim Seven Medals

Austrian Skiers Dominate

CHAMONIX, France (AP)—An amazing Austrian ski team that treats the Alps as a backyard playground is turning the world ski championships into a monopoly.

The Austrians have won everything, but their success has become so monstrous that the other competitors are becoming discouraged.

Before the championships started the Austrian women and French men were heavy favorites, with the Americans rated as outsiders with a chance to upset the predictions for any race.

With four of the six races already run, the Austrians have claimed three gold medals, two silver and two bronze. France has won one first place and one second place. The best American showing has been a third place. No other nation has broken into the top three.

In Thursday's giant slalom, the Austrians swept the first three places. Buddy Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., led the four Americans, finishing fifth.

Egon Zimmerman swept down the twisting, 920-foot course in 1 minute, 38.97 seconds and finished just ahead of favored teammate Karl Schranz, who finished in 1:39.12. Werner, in fifth, was more than a full second back.

Jim Hagen of Tahoe City, Calif., was 12th. Billy Kidd of Bowler, Utah, was 13th and Bill Mariot of Aspen, Colo., 19th.

The Americans have offered no excuses. The comment usually heard has been: "We didn't go fast enough."

The Austrians now seem assured of winning both gold and silver medals for the combined event, based on cumulative points in the special slalom, giant slalom and downhill.

The championships have a full today with only practice sessions scheduled. The downhill races for both men and women will be run Sunday.

After the East German team was denied entry to come to France, the council of the International Ski Federation (FIS) ruled that the competition could not be billed as world championships.

The races went on as the World and entrance to the hilly acreage will be off the Dixie Highway.

A spacious clubhouse will be constructed and swimming facilities are planned to furnish patrons with extra recreational privileges.

Work will begin as soon as weather permits, Syron said.

The widening program on Elizabeth Lake Road may cause a slight reworking of the 8th and 18th holes at P.C.C., Syron said, although this is still not a certainty.

LOSING 17 FEET
Elizabeth Lake Road, which parallels the 18th fairway, is being widened 17 feet to the golf course side, forcing the removal of a two-year-old protective fence and possible alteration of Nos. 8 and 15.

"The 18th hole may be shortened 25 yards, but we're still not sure about this," Lloyd claimed.

Syron has served Oakland County golfers longer than any other pro. He's now entering his 22nd year at P.C.C., preceded by 14 years as pro at Orchard Lake and seven years as Bloomfield Hills caddy-master—all in all, a consecutive 35-year stretch in the area.

Lloyd, 25-year-old Notre Dame graduate and one of Michigan's best amateur golfers, won the State Amateur title in 1957. Frank Jr. is 22.

Asks Deadline for Nats to End Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Herbert Zelenko, D-N.Y., asked Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall Thursday to set Monday as a deadline for the Washington Baseball Club to end the racial discrimination he says the club is practicing at its Florida training camp.

"If by that time nothing has been done, I shall request the government to prohibit the use of the Washington Stadium by the Washington ball club," Zelenko said.

Donato Maintains Lead in Akron Keg Tourney

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Joe Donato, Schenectady, N.Y., maintained his lead after the first 10 qualifying games last night in the $25,000 Akron Open Bowling Tournament, sponsored by the Professional Bowlers Association.

Donato rolled a five-game series of 1046—245, 168, 205, 233 and 155. Combined with his five-game series of 1,152 plus he took the lead with 2,203. His 10-game average was 220.3.

Don Carter, St. Louis, closed his series with games of 288 and 225 to total 2,187 for the first 10 games.

Each member of the 144-man field will roll another 10 games Friday and then the field will be reduced to the high 32 for the finals on Saturday.

It's All Part of Growing Up

Teach Child Responsibility Is His Own

By LESLIE J. NARON, E.D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

Adults are responsible for their own actions — and the consequences of them. It's part of being grown up.

Children must learn to accept responsibility, too, even though they make mistakes while learning. They gain strength by overcoming these obstacles.

But they need help and understanding in order to stand in order. DR. NARON is following the bitter medicine of failure that comes with learning to accept responsibility.

A child must be shown that HE made the error — not the school, not his parents, not the teacher. At the same time he must be shown that failure is not tragedy. Just say: "So what? Better luck next time."

Education serves to produce self-disciplined adults. It is the ability of this self-discipline is the ability to accept responsibility for one's own actions.

If a student relies entirely on teachers for direction, he is establishing habits that will lead him to stop learning as soon as he is out of school.

Students who form the habit of self-direction never stop learning. Parents must encourage children to gain this habit. Here are some ways to help.

Expect your child to be responsible for the care of his room and belongings. The responsibility should increase gradually as they grow older.

Give him some responsibility for household chores — not for rewards, but just because they must be done.

See that he learns to use his time properly. He must plan time for homework and other necessary activities. And must take the responsibility for these jobs or accept the consequences.

But parents can do too much to help their child. Take the case of Sam, who wasn't doing well in school.

Sam's parents tried many things to get him to make good grades. They hired tutors, they moved him from public school to private school and back to a different public school.

They provided him with a place and time to study. His mother saw to it that he spent the allotted time in the study area. She also told him which homework to do first, helped him write themes, corrected his spelling, helped him with math problems. She saw that he went to school on time, homework in hand.

Sam's problem was that his parents had accepted his responsibility.

When his parents became convinced that Sam must take the responsibility for his own education and discipline himself, they had taken the first step toward success.

It took a year of the hardest work his parents had ever done. They let Sam struggle with his own problems, make mistakes, and work his way out of them. It isn't easy for parents to let their children make mistakes!

At the end of a year Sam was doing acceptable work in school. At the end of two years he was doing superior work.

To avoid such crises, parents must carefully plan to give children more and more chance to develop self-discipline as they are growing up.

(You may write Dr. Naron in care of The Pontiac Press. He will discuss questions of general interest in his columns.)

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR
For Saturday

"The wise man controls his destiny... Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): You create misunderstanding by forcing your way. Though common sense may be on your side... associates, friends may not be willing to listen to REASON. Appeal, instead, to EMOTIONS.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Be strictly practical in appraisal of new acquaintances... tendency to be romantic, idealistic, could lead you off right track. See persons, situations, as they actually exist... be realistic.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Good for making social contacts which, eventually, could become valuable in your professional life. This leads to suggest indifference... but to recommend that you keep eyes, ears wide open.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Arguments over who was first... do little but create friction, waste energy. Confine creative energies to reading, collecting. Treat friends as valued persons... save battles for enemies.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Valuable day if you are willing to put forth best efforts. Cycle at peak... you could come across knowledge which serves great purpose in future. Be diplomatic... accept favors graciously. Good!

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Your cycle is moving on upgrade. You leave "hurry" about a number of things in recent days. Now, come down to earth... and realize assets. Tell loved one how much you REALLY care. Live and love!

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Tendency toward self-pity could come to abrupt end this week. Today, certain secrets... factors... which make you feel that you are, indeed, fortunate. Take steps in stride. Stress materiality. Scored (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Moon aspect to your sign stresses CHALLENGE. If you are seeking easy path, or know-it-all stage... you have a lot of looking to do. Depend upon your own resources. Accept advice... but act CAUTIOUSLY.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Your tendency to want to know answers... "no matter what"... could lead to a surprise. Be sure you are prepared for further startling responses. Otherwise, ignorance may really be bliss.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Money matters... argue.

Holly to Decide Monday on Two School Issues

HOLLY — A proposed $300,000 bond issue and a two-mill tax increase will be decided Monday by voters in the Holly School District.

Additional voters will be asked to renew a six-mill tax for operations.

Bond Issue Due at Huron Valley

May 1st Election Will Decide School Building Finances

MILFORD — A $300,000 bond issue to finance the construction of 18 new classrooms and two multipurpose rooms will be decided by voters in the Huron Valley School District in a special election May 1.

It is expected it will be necessary to levy nearly two mills to retire the bonds but the exact amount has not been determined, said Supt. Erwin Johnson.

Plans for construction are a 18-room addition to the Brooks Elementary School and an eight-room addition and multipurpose room at the Johnson Elementary School.

Also proposed is a multipurpose room at the Duck Lake Elementary School.

The additions to the six-room Brooks and seven-room Johnson schools would more than double the enrollment capacity at both facilities.

Both would have a total capacity of about 300 students.

The election is the first for the school district since May 15, 1961, when voters rejected a proposed $1.5 million bond issue for new construction and a three-mill operating tax increase.

Another request for extra funds for new construction was turned down by voters nine months earlier. At that time the school board asked approval of a $725,000 bond issue.

Parole Officer Will Address County Law Assn.

Arthur E. Hahn, an Oakland County state parole officer, will be the guest speaker at the Tuesday meeting of the Oakland County Law Enforcement Association.

Hahn, who is with the Bureau of Pardons and Paroles, Department of Corrections, will discuss "Police-Parole Relations." He also will explain the difference between parole and probation.

"Police often inquire about the parolee's obligations while he is under supervision, particularly concerning parole rules, and technical violations," he added.

"Since the police normally view parolees in a negative light, I also will discuss the positive side — those parolees who never come in conflict with the law while under supervision."

The dinner meeting will be held at the Kingsley Inn, 1185 Woodward Ave., Bloomfield Hills, and will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Pastor of 3 Churches Moving to New Posts

LAPER — Elder Raymond Hamstra, pastor of the Laper, Otter Lake and Inlay City Seventh Day Adventist churches will leave here March 1 to assume leadership of the Farmington and Livonia churches.

Married and the father of five children, he now lives at 1235 Baldwin Road.

Taking his place in the Lapeer-area churches will be Elder Jack Price of Fort Worth, Tex.

Fifth and sixth-grade children of the school will sing songs appropriate to the occasion.

An open house will follow the dedication program.

NEW ROCHESTER SCHOOL — Opened last September, the new Howard L. McGregory Elementary School will be dedicated Feb. 25. Accommodating 370 children in kindergarten through the sixth grade, the 14-classroom building was completed at a cost of about $471,000. Architects were O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach Associates, Birmingham, and contractors were the Leslie Construction Co., Ferndale.

The remodeling would mean the relocation of four of the classes on the fifth and sixth grade levels, that are now using space in the junior high.

These four classes would have to be moved into the proposed elementary school as soon as it is completed.

Currently there are only two elementary schools in the district, the 13-room Davidson School and the 26-room Holly School.

LEONARD — The Leonard Community Group will sponsor a record hop from 7 to 10 p.m. tomorrow at the Leonard School.

Chairman of the affair is Mrs. Claire Schields. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

SHOW FAIR PRIZES—Attractive stuffed animals that will be offered as prizes at the Pine Knob School Fair from 6 to 10 p.m. today in Clarkson are displayed here by game committee chairman and school officials. Seated (left to right) are Mrs. Marie DeNise, school secretary, and Mrs. Lyle H. Brown, chairman of the games committee. Standing are David Westland, assistant principal, and Mrs. Carl Lindahl, cochairman of the games committee. The Parent-Teacher Association-sponsored fair will feature cake and doll wares, white elephant and bake sales, a country store, games and cartoons.

Teacher Appeals to FEPC on Religion

Claims Bias in Utica

UTICA — The Michigan Fair Employment Practices Commission has set Feb. 27 as the date to discuss charges of religious discrimination in a Utica School Board order that all teachers must participate in patriotic programs.

A complaint was filed with the commission last month by Charles McManis, Sterling Junior High School band and music teacher. He alleges that the board's policy discriminates against members of his religion. He is a Jehovah's Witness.

According to Walter R. Greene, field representative for the FEPC, the commission cannot reveal information about a case during the early stages of an investigation.

McManis has told the board he would not comply with the policy requiring him to lead the band in "The Star Spangled Banner" at school programs.

Schools Supt. Fred M. Atkinson recommended that the board not renew the 27-year-old teacher's contract for next year on the basis of his stated intentions not to follow the policy.

McManis has told the board he would not comply with the policy requiring him to lead the band in "The Star Spangled Banner" at school programs.

Protest Sales of Liquor Sunday

State Committee Head Gets Letters Objecting to Plan for Detroit

LANSING — A proposal to permit Sunday liquor sales in Detroit and allow bars to stay open until 4 a. m. has unleashed a flood of protest letters to the chairman of the House Liquor Control Committee.

The measure has yet to be introduced, but Rep. Edward A. Borman, R-Grand Rapids, said he is receiving an average of 200 letters a day from voters commenting on it. Opinion is running about 100 to 1 against the proposal, he said.

Borman said he is "unenthusiastically" opposed to it.

"I'll do all I can to defeat it," he said. "I think it is an insult to a city to say that it is to be able to sell more liquor to solve its financial troubles."

"Here we have one bill to prohibit Sunday retail sales and another bill to permit Sunday liquor sales. It doesn't add up."

Rep. Walter G. Nakula, R-Grand Rapids, chairman of the House Liquor Control Committee, said he would introduce the legislation in a move to make Detroit more competitive as a convention city.

A number of Detroit officials have pressed for the enabling legislation, which would permit Sunday sales only with approval of the voters.

Some legislators have talked of extending the option privilege to outstate areas.

Opening Office for Car Plates at Union Lake

A temporary branch of the secretary of state's office opened today at the new Grant's store, 3020 Oakley Lake Road, Union Lake.

The office, to be in operation until March 5, will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Saturday.

Only passenger car license plates will be issued at the temporary branch, said Ben Z. Schneider, branch manager of the Wallick Lake Secretary of State's office.

The Wallick Lake branch at 314 Pacific Trail handles all business connected with the secretary of state. The hours are the same as those at Union Lake.

The card bore the name John M. Sprague.

The name Juggo Chukin's policeman's memory.

"You're wanted in North Dakota, aren't you?" Chukin said.

"No," corrected Wright, "South Dakota."

Then he fainted. He was revived with ice water. In court he was waived extradition on an unauthorized charge — from Pennsylvania County, South Dakota.

He allegedly failed to return a record car he had to travel around in during the off-season as a construction worker.

"Since the proposal was submitted to us only at the last council meeting," Dicke said, "the council has not yet had a chance to study it."

He said he would not comment pro or con on a 2.3-mill tax increase proposed in the document until he had time to read and thoroughly study the reasons for the request.

Time of a public hearing will be announced at a later date.

Study Dental Radiation

LANSING — A radiation safety survey of all dental X-ray equipment in Michigan is being conducted by the Department of Health and the Michigan State Dental Association. Purpose of the survey, Health Commissioner Dr. Albert E. Heunis says, is to find out if radiation exposure is harmful to the patient.

Director Is Miffed Over Con-Con Deal

Raps Romney, Too

LANSING — The executive director of the Michigan Township Association complained yesterday that townships are getting a poor deal at the constitutional convention.

The convention appears to be setting up two classes of citizens, said Joseph A. Parisi Jr., in an editorial in the Michigan Township News.

They are, he said, "those who live in cities and villages, with everything going to them along the lines of self-determination, and those who live in the townships, who will continue to be subjugated and harassed by the self-styled leaders of centralization."

Because of the efforts of a few delegates representing rural areas, Parisi said, "the fate of the township is being decided by a few delegates who have not yet been wiped out of the constitution."

In an obvious reference to George Romney, convention delegate and newly announced candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, Parisi asserted that "the convention is now being used to quite some degree as a publicly supported arena for the political ambitions of one of its leaders."

There can be no doubt that, on at least some of the major items of discussion, solutions will be sought in the interest of political expediency," he said.

Partly for this reason, he said, the convention cannot complete its work by its self-imposed March 31 deadline for adjournment, and still do a good job.

Parisi said Romney was piling the two- and three-day sessions on a return flight to Lansing from Indianapolis.

Witnesses said they heard two blasts before the aircraft plummeted toward the ground, trailing flames and smoke. It exploded again when it crashed in a cornfield. The resulting fire consumed the bodies before rescue operations, police said.

Investigators could not learn immediately what caused the explosions, but said they apparently came without warning because Frasier had made no radio contact with surrounding airports.

'Religions Need Understanding'

By LOUIS CARROLL
United Press International
America's Protestants, Catholics and Jews have learned to live together with a minimum of religious bigotry. They now have an opportunity to "move beyond tolerance to understanding."

So says a leading Protestant theologian, Dr. Jaroslav Pelikan of Yale Divinity School.

Dr. Pelikan scents the new trouder in interfaith relationships in a brief but provocative little pamphlet entitled "Platform of Good Will."

It is being distributed by the National Conference of Christians and Jews for use in connection with "Brotherhood Week" observances which will be held next week in thousands of American communities.

SPECIAL U.S. PROBLEM
The problem of maintaining harmony among different religious groups exists in many countries. But it is of special concern to Americans. This is the only nation in the world where large numbers of Protestants, Catholics and Jews live side by side under a government that shows no official preference among them.

Dr. Pelikan notes that it has taken Americans a long time to achieve a reasonable degree of "order in the house." At one time or another in the nation's history, members of every religious group have been subjected to discrimination or persecution.

And even today, there are occasional outbreaks of mutual intolerance.

But "notable achievements" have been made, particularly during the present century, in building up a national tradition which condemns bigotry whenever it crops up.

Today, Dr. Pelikan believes, Americans are in a position for the first time, "to think about going beyond mere tolerance to genuine understanding."

"Tolerance," he explains, "is at best a negative virtue. It may mean only that you don't have very strong convictions on a particular subject, and are therefore indifferent to what the other fellow believes or says."

Understanding, however, involves a positive respect for another person's views on a matter about which you care deeply.

How can Protestants, Catholics and Jews move beyond tolerance toward understanding?

SHOULD GET INFORMATION
"The first step," says the Yale theologian, "is to acquire information about one another that is historically accurate and religiously sound."

"Much of what we know about other traditions than our own simply is not so, or represents only a part of the whole."

Another necessary ingredient is "plain good will."

"The commandment, 'Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor' is in all our Bibles," says Dr. Pelikan. "Yet do we not find ourselves unconsciously comparing the best in our tradition with the worst in another?"

"We suspect that behind the smile of a Roman Catholic stands the grand inquisitor, or that the cordiality of a Jew merely veils the hard heart of a Pharisee, or that the 'tolerant' modern Protestant would persecute Catholics if he ever had the opportunity. And we do this despite our knowledge that these historical stereotypes are all caricatures."

A third hallmark of genuine understanding, he says, "is the practice of candid criticism."

Today, says Dr. Pelikan, "We're afraid that criticism may seem 'intolerant' and somehow un-American." But "one difference between tolerance and understanding is that we become less touchy and more tough in our contacts, developing the freedom and security with one another that enable us all to speak fraternally and frankly."

"This is not a matter of 'shake hands and come out fighting,'" he concludes, "but of facing each other critically just because we are brethren."

Bunche's Teacher Recalls 'C' Mark

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (U.N.) Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche and the school teacher who nearly flunked him in department 47 years ago were reunited Thursday.

Bunche and 82-year-old Miss Emma Belle Sweet got together at a breakfast reception held under the auspices of the Gold Key Association, which has named the undersecretary "Citizen of the Year."

"I remember Ralph as an outstanding pupil," said Miss Sweet as she and Bunche sipped coffee in the U.N. dining room. "But I can't seem to recall why he only got a 'C' in deportment."

"Miss Sweet is trying to protect me," Bunche smiled. "I got that 'C' because of my waggling tongue and my fondness for throwing spitballs."

It was one of the few meetings they have had since Miss Sweet taught Bunche and 64 other sixth grade pupils in Albuquerque, N.M. Their last reunion was in Albuquerque 10 years ago.

Occasion for the get-together was announcement of the Gold Key award for outstanding teaching ability which Miss Sweet will receive from Bunche Saturday at the convention of the American Association of School Administrators in Atlantic City. Bunche was named Citizen of the year, who in the words of the citation "has contributed significantly to the national welfare."

Bunche is the seventh winner of the "Citizen of the Year" award, first given in 1956. Other citizens elected former President Eisenhower, Gen. Maxwell Taylor and Beardsley Ruml, noted economist.

Name Grows With Each Visit to the Hospital

TAMPA — He's only 6 months old, but he's a hardy little fellow with a name that just keeps growing.

He's Martin Ben Manuel Julio Luis Berger.

It began with the measles. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Berger, caught them at the age of four weeks and was taken to Centro Espanol Hospital.

Next he suffered a dislocated arm, then a severe intestinal disorder that required an operation. Then he had to have his appendix removed.

Martin pulled through them all, and so captivated three doctors that they gave him their first names—Manuel, Julio and Luis. And they placed a slip of paper on his crib reading: "Martin Ben Manuel Julio Luis Berger, adoptive son of Centro Espanol."

"I'm going to see to it that his name is legally changed to include the names given to him by the doctors," his mother says.

Fish Bait Is Added to Exclusive Mail List

LONDON (UPI) — British fishermen were told by the Post Office that they may send through the mails "small quantities of live worms, ragworms, earthworms, lugworms, caterpillars and maggots," but they must first obtain post office permission to do so.

The only other living creatures which may be sent by post, the announcement noted, are bees, termites, allworms and certain parasites.

Japanese Hurt Indian Tribe's Souvenir Trade

MACY, Neb. (UP) — To the Omaha Indian tribe, trying to build up a local industry, the idea of making Indian souvenirs looked like a natural.

An adult education class in arts and crafts started the business last year and made a profit doing a kind of handwork through local outlets.

But when the Indians branched out they found the market glutted with "Indian" souvenirs — made in Japan.

"They're just able to make things cheaper than we can," said craftsman Wilson Wolfe.

The Indians haven't given up, though. With some of the white man's sales promotion and a shift to low-cost items, the Omahas hope to boost sales this year.

The souvenir business is part of a self-help program designed to get the Omahas away from their dependence on agriculture.

West Continues Berlin Runs

Defy Soviets on Flights

BERLIN (AP) — Informed sources said Western military airmen, backing up a protest to Moscow, flew to isolated Berlin today in a corridor whose lower levels the Russians wanted to reserve for their own planes. The weather was bad.

This time the Hamburg-Berlin corridor, northernmost of three such links, was involved. It runs across Communist territory to Berlin from the area of the British zone.

At least one U. S. military plane was reported to have made the flight from Hamburg. Commercial planes kept regular schedules. They generally fly above the altitude the Russians set for their lower level operations. There was no immediate report of any incident.

The Western Big Three were reported to send fighter patrols into the corridor unless Soviet MIGs stop buzzing Allied military and civilian traffic. The Soviet pressure tactics, which began Feb. 7, were disclosed by Allied spokesmen a week ago today.

BALK AT ATTEMPTS

The United States, Britain and France balked at what they called illegal attempts to reserve parts of the corridors at specified hours for exclusive use by Russian airmen.

The Russians were reminded that four-power agreements call for each plane to be scheduled separately. Soviet officials maintained their right to make block reservations merely by notifying the West about them at the Berlin air control center.

The Russians' claim to an exclusive right today to flights in the Berlin-Hamburg lane up to 2,500 feet caused concern in Western diplomatic quarters, coming as it did on the heels of the Western protest to Moscow.

Diplomatic sources in London said privately continuing Soviet air harassment tactics could endanger the prospects for negotiations on disarmament opening in Geneva March 14 and even summit talks sought by Premier Khrushchev.

A spokesman of the Soviet embassy in East Berlin said: "We will continue to request the use of the corridors in the way we have been doing as long as we feel it is necessary."

Emphasizing a point that the West does not challenge, so long as the rules are followed, he said: "We (the Russians) have just as much right there as anyone else."

In Mud-Clogged California

GOING, GOING, ALMOST GONE — This hillside home in Encino, Calif., is only one of a number that are slowly collapsing as the result of landslides in southern California from the heavy rains. The state had more rain today and a new 6-inch snowfall blanketed the Midwest.

Mud slides are blocking roads in Los Angeles and San Francisco. So far this season, Los Angeles has had 15.5 inches of rain. One rockslide in Feather River Canyon blocked three freight cars and delayed trains for 12 hours.

Cuba's Charge Against U.S. Quickly Killed

United Nations Throws Out Key Parts Claiming 'Interference'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Cuba's charge that the United States is plotting to invade her shores wound up on the U.N. scrap heap today after the General Assembly's main political committee roundly defeated a Communist resolution supporting Fidel Castro's claims.

The committee rejected both key paragraphs of the resolution by Czechoslovakia and Romania calling on the United States to halt alleged interference in Cuba's internal affairs.

Defeat of the resolution was seen as a triumph for the United States.

This country had labeled the 11-day debate a Red propaganda stage staged to deflect attention from the action of the Organization of American States excluding Cuba from the inter-American system.

RESOLUTION DEFEATED

With the two operative sections knocked out, the committee chairman, Mario Amadeo, of Argentina, declared the whole resolution defeated.

As a result, no further balloting is needed on the issue. The General Assembly, which is expected to meet Monday, will probably just note that the resolution was rejected in committee.

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zarin, who had fought hard for the proposal, angrily told the committee after the vote that it proved many delegates did not believe in adhering to the principles of the U.N. Charter calling for noninterference in the affairs of sovereign states.

The committee voted 50 against 8 and only 11 for the paragraph which would have had the assembly appeal to the United States "to put an end to the interference" in the internal affairs of Cuba.

Goldwater Sees Romney Victory

GOP Leader Disagrees With Idea That Party Controlled by Business

Special To The Press — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., last night predicted victory for George W. Romney but took exception to the gubernatorial candidate's claims that big business dominates the Republican party.

"The reverse is true," said the voice of the conservatives in a speech at Detroit's Masonic Temple. "We can't even get the businessman off their chairs."

Romney had said on a national television program that the GOP is that it is dominated by businessmen. He said the Democrats were influenced too strongly by labor.

Goldwater made no reference to Romney in this part of his speech but said at an afternoon press conference he had watched the program.

HITS IDEA — If the Republican Party is dominated by big business how can we explain the fact that the Republican party has imposed

Texas and 'Bobby' Go to War

By The Associated Press
Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy's comment that the U.S.-Mexican War of 1846-48 was unjustified has touched off a war of words—with Texan rebuttal the strongest.

This was a campaign which won territory from the Rio Grande to the Pacific for the United States.

Mexico opposed U.S. annexation of Texas, which threw off Mexican rule in 1836, and resisted when the U.S. sent troops into a disputed region between the Nueces River and the Rio Grande.

The Mexican War was brought up by a student at Jakarta, Indonesia, during Kennedy's visit.

The student mentioned the war in connection with the Dutch-Indonesian dispute over West New Guinea.

SAID KENNEDY: "I would say that as far as the war with Mexico, although there might be some from Texas who disagree, I would say it was unjustified."

"I don't think that this is a very bright page in American history."

Commented Gov. Price Daniel of Texas: "I cannot believe that he (Kennedy) intended to leave the impression that he disapproved of the heroic fight for freedom and liberty which was made by Texans in 1836 (year of the Alamo and Texas independence) and the subsequent annexation agreement and defense thereof by the United States."

SAID DANIEL: Daniel noted that eight Mexicans died fighting on the American side of the Alamo. David Donald, a history professor at Princeton, and a Pulitzer Prize winner in mid-19th century American history, commented that, 25 years ago, most U.S. historians would have agreed with Kennedy, but not now.

The diary of President Polk, Donald added, has been discovered and there has been better research into internal Mexican affairs.

Donald said the war was "made almost inevitable" by American expansion and the fact that Mexicans wouldn't negotiate long-standing differences — such as claims by U.S. citizens vs. Mexico, and boundary disputes. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

GOP Nominee for Atty. General?

Eye Gossett for State Post

From Our Wire Service
DETROIT — William T. Gossett, who resigned Wednesday as Ford Motor Co.'s general counsel, today was mentioned as a possible candidate for the Republican nomination for state attorney general.

He would share a spot on a Republican ticket to be headed by George W. Romney, now American Motors Corp. vice chairman, who thus far is unopposed for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

When questioned, Gossett said: "Put it that I am not interested in becoming a candidate."

However, he emphasized that he would not be what he termed a self-starter and would not become a candidate unless asked to do so by Republican leaders.

Gossett said he has not yet been approached on the subject of his candidacy by Romney or other GOP leaders.

NOT AVAILABLE — George Van Pearson, GOP state chairman, was not available for comment Thursday. His Lansing office reported that he is ill.

In another development involving Romney's candidacy, Wayne County Republican Chairman Norman O. Stockmeyer claimed today he has been "snowed under" with offers of volunteer help to run Romney's campaign.

But the requests have had to be put on file, Stockmeyer said, because Romney has not yet organized his campaign headquarters.

When Romney stepped down last Monday as American Motors Corp. president and board chairman, he said he would begin immediately looking for a campaign headquarters here.

Area Homeowners Voice Protest to Airport Plans

Nearly 1,000 homeowners and businessmen strongly protested plans for a major airport in Pontiac and Orion Township last night, and Orion Township officials later approved legal action to stop the project.

The meeting at Lake Orion High School was called by supervisors of both townships to hear opinions of citizens in the area.

It started with County Planning Commission Chairman J. Robert F. Swanson explaining reasons for selecting the proposed 3,000-acre airport site north of Pontiac.

The reasons — a projected need for a major jet airport in the general Pontiac area by 1975, based on the Landrum-Brown Report, accessibility from the I-75 freeway, suitability of the terrain, and a sparse population — were berated by a parade of protesters from the angry audience.

On the shoulders of Delos Hamilton, chairman of the county board of supervisors, fell the task of answering the complaints. He was given silent support by members of the board's aviation committee seated beside him.

Fear K Trying to Push Kennedy Into Summit

Believed Explanation for Harassing Tactics in Berlin Air Corridors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American officials said today Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev may be trying to stampede President Kennedy into a summit conference by increasing tension over Berlin.

That could be one explanation, they said, for Soviet harassment of Allied air traffic to the city at the very time Khrushchev is planning for a top-level meeting to establish better relations.

The United States, Britain and France warned Russia Thursday they would take "necessary action" to insure the safety of their planes unless Soviet fighters stop "aggressive and dangerous" passes in the three air corridors from West Germany to Red-controlled West Berlin.

In identical notes, the three Allies said Russia was running the "gravest of risks" by trying to exclude Allied traffic from the corridors during specific periods.

Kennedy said Wednesday he would think a summit conference worthwhile only if it promised real progress on critical issues or "if there was a major crisis which threatened to involve us all in a war."

PRESSURE TACTICS

Some diplomats felt Khrushchev's current strategy might be directed toward bringing pressure on both points mentioned by the President.

Officials said two other possible explanations for the Russian efforts to restrict Allied air traffic also occurred to them.

—Khrushchev may be trying to see whether Allied preoccupation with a multitude of other matters has caused the Western powers to relax their firmness on Berlin.

—The Russians may be trying to build a record of incidents as a basis for charging the West with violation of safe flying procedures in the corridors.

No matter what the Russian motives, American officials made it clear the United States would fight if necessary to preserve its war-on-right of access to West Berlin.

Believe Houseboy Suspect in Congo

Hold Servant in Aide's Murder

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — A member of the household of U.S. assistant military attaché Lt. Col. Hubert Stogner was arrested today on suspicion of killing his employer, a U. S. embassy spokesman said.

The suspect is believed to be the houseboy, Col. Stogner, who was shot in his home Wednesday night in the presence of a friend, Miss Elizabeth Thring, 27, of Washington, D. C.

The spokesman, press attaché Robert Behrens, said the suspect is being held by United Nations Nigerian police.

Behrens refused to give further details and said the "proceeding might be prejudicial" if a full statement was made now. He stated the embassy had no official comment to make on the investigation by Congolese security officials, assisted by the U.N.

Stogner employed a Congolese man as cook and housekeeper. The man reported to work every day, but lived in his own home in the African quarter of Leopoldville. He was normally not on duty at night, and embassy officials said he was not working on Wednesday evening.

Stogner, 38, of El Paso, Tex., was shot from the window of his suburban Leopoldville house. It was Miss Thring who raised the alarm. Stogner's wife, Elizabeth, is in El Paso.

An embassy spokesman continued to plead ignorance of possible motives for the crime. Pending police investigation, aided by United Nations security officers, the embassy has refrained from official comments.

The American flag outside the modern embassy building hung limply at half staff today, and arrangements were being made to send Stogner's body home to the United States.

Ann Harding in Hospital After Detroit Opening

DETROIT (AP) — Veteran actress Ann Harding was under hospital observation today following her collapse Thursday night while appearing in a new play, "General Seeger," at the Shubert Theater.

Miss Harding, 57, fainted in her dressing room during the intermission of the two-act play but was revived and completed the final act. She collapsed again at the close of the play, however, and was unable to answer the curtain call.

West Faces Beastly Situation

Monster Gap Widening?

By ROBERT MUSEL
LONDON (UPI) — A man who has seen the Loch Ness monster with his own eyes suggested today that the West make a valiant attempt to find the beast before the Russians capture and exhibit their own lake monster.

Moscow opened at least the possibility of an East-West monster race this week by announcing that a team of geologists had seen a beast more than 30 feet long displaying itself in plain view in the Lake of Laba Kul in Eastern Siberia.

The man who saw the Loch Ness monster with his own eyes is this correspondent — and few other journalists can make this claim.

I acquired a proprietary interest in Nessie in the early evening of July 11, 1960, as I stood in front of the Foyers Hotel on the shore of the lake with some Scot visitors. The time was approximately 7:30 p.m., but it was still light and a breeze etched a silver pattern on the waters below.

Suddenly, the patch of silver developed a dark area roughly the size of an overturned rowboat. The shiny head of what I took to be a large seal appeared at the bow-end of the dark patch, in the middle of the mile-wide lake, and began moving through the waters, trailing a sizable wake.

"COULD SEE BODY" — I was quite willing to accept that it was only a seal or a giant otter, but some scientists, who became elated from the other side of the lake at the same time, were not so sure.

Helicopter Units to Stay 18 Months

Extend Duty in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Units of the U.S. Army, Marine and Navy helicopter units are under the same orders applying to all U.S. service personnel in Viet Nam, according to a spokesman here. The units have been extended for 18 months from six, an informed source said today.

Technically, the men involved had been here on temporary duty for a period of six months. The extension, reportedly probably applies only to key personnel in helicopter companies, such as the pilots themselves.

The informant emphasized that a "lengthened term" would not apply to most of the estimated 4,000 U.S. servicemen now in South Viet Nam.

About three-quarters of the servicemen here are assigned on temporary duty, presumably to avoid advertising the United States military buildup to be charged with violating the 1954 Geneva peace agreement.

AFTER ACCUSATIONS

That agreement ended the Indochina war. Technically, only 600 foreign military personnel were to be stationed temporarily in South Viet Nam under the agreement, and similar restrictions were placed on foreign forces in North Viet Nam.

The United States decision last December to increase its forces here substantially above the Geneva limit came only after accusations that Communist North Viet Nam had flagrantly violated peace terms for years, allowing a buildup of Soviet and Communist Chinese forces there.

Since the United States decision to increase forces here, the number of servicemen and quantities and types of military equipment have been classified as "made secret or confidential or restricted information."

Information on the extension of the tour here, the helicopter personnel also was classified.

Michigan Getting the Works: Snow, Freezing Rain

By the Associated Press

Michigan residents were reeling today under a barrage of Old Man Winter's heaviest punishment.

Up to four inches of snow fell overnight in the western Upper Peninsula and three more inches covered most part of northern Lower Michigan.

And more snow, freezing rain and sleet were expected today. The State Highway Department reported at 6 a.m. that northern Michigan highways were in fair condition, although snow-covered and slushy. Highways in the eastern Upper Peninsula were clear, the department said, but fresh snow left highways slippery in the western Upper Peninsula.

Temperatures ranged from 18 at L'Anse in Upper Michigan to 30 at Detroit, and there were no below zero recordings reported.

Clouds Hold Up Bob Kennedys

Couple Forced to Land in Central Part of Java in Soviet-Made Plane

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP)—Heavy clouds today forced U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and his wife to make an unscheduled landing in central Java because the Soviet-built plane could not fly over the clouds.

Kennedy was en route from picturesque Bali to the Java city south of Jakarta. But Kennedy's Indonesian pilot had to land his Ilyushin 14 transport at Semarang, about 225 miles east of Bandung.

The Kennedys are using the Ilyushin because it is the aircraft reserved by the Indonesian government for distinguished visitors. There was no word immediately whether Kennedy would continue the flight to Bandung or go on to Jakarta where he is due Saturday.

Ex-Professor Says He'll Keep 'New' Life

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UPI)—A former Syracuse University professor was back at his $130 an hour job today even though he was offered a $200,000 a year position. The professor, who mixes pigments in a paint factory, is known as "Verne Hansen" to fellow workers. It was disclosed this week he actually is Dr. Carl Vernon Holmberg, who disappeared from Syracuse, N.Y., home in 1955, leaving behind a wife and three children.

In Lansing Holmberg's sister said today she hoped to be reunited with her brother.

Mrs. Dorothy Lively, an employee of the State Highway Department, said she last saw her brother, Carl Vernon Holmberg, on Thanksgiving Day in 1954.

"I haven't made any definite plans yet but I would certainly go anywhere to meet him," Mrs. Lively said.

Terrorism Continues in Algeria

ALGERS, Algeria (UPI)—A terrorist searched a school at the village of Fernandville, near Oran, today for the school principal, then shot him dead in front of his frightened class.

The terrorist fled.

The death of William Hassan, a European, and three woundings in Oran, pushed the 1962 terrorist casualty toll to 850 dead and 1,520 injured.

Police speculated the killing of Hassan was part of a campaign to stir terrorism among Algerians.

Four OAS plastic bombs burst in Bone today but police reported no casualties.

The new outbreak of violence came amid fears that the announcement of a French-Algerian cease-fire ending more than seven years of war would touch off widespread bloodshed.

GOP Eyes Gossett

calls for people who never worked on a campaign before.

"I've been sound under by requests from people who want to help Romney," Stockmeyer said. "It's too early to give them specific assignments and we will have them later."

Romney's announcement also stirred speculation as to who would run his campaign.

Romney said Monday he hadn't yet selected his top advisers. He said there were no definite plans to enlist anyone from AMC but it was possible "one or two" might eventually work on the campaign.

Two officials from Ford Motor Co. have been mentioned often as men who will play important roles in the campaign. They are Charles F. Moore Jr., Ford vice president for public relations, and William T. Gossett, who just resigned as general counsel of the company.

'NO TRUTH AT ALL'

Moore, however, scoffed at the reports. Asked whether he would resign to help run the campaign, Moore said, "There's no truth to it at all."

The same applied to Gossett. Moore said Gossett would devote more of his time to activities of a public service nature but not in the political field, Moore said.

Moore is a neighbor of Romney in Bloomfield Hills. He was active as a speechwriter and strategist during the Eisenhower administration. Presumably, he might do the same thing again for Romney, according to reports.

Probably the two men closest to Romney politically are Richard C. Van Dusen and Arthur G. Elliott Jr., known as the "Mutt and Jeff team."

Van Dusen, a tall attorney from Oakland County, rooms with Romney in Lansing where he is head of the constitutional convention's rules and resolutions committee.

Elliott, former Oakland County GOP chairman, also is a co-conspirator. He's head of the common law government committee.

The Day in Birmingham

Culture Course Starting at Baldwin on March 7

BIRMINGHAM—Conversations in the Arts, 1962, beginning its fourth year as an activity of the Baldwin Public Library, will offer a six-week course on literature at the Baldwin Public Library beginning March 7.

The conversation, led by Seymour Riklin, lecturer for the Wayne State University Center for Adult Education, will attempt to answer how today's writers create the creative demands of their craft.

Readings and discussions will illustrate how literature is shaped by contemporary pressures and implications. Focus points for study will be the books of C. P. Snow, Graham Greene, Anthony Powell, Saul Bellow, Albert Camus and J. D. Salinger.

The fee for this conversation, which will meet Wednesday nights, is $10.

The programs are self-supporting activities of Detroit University which is cosponsored by 19 cultural institutions of Detroit.

The Monday meeting of the Birmingham Alumnae Chapter, Alpha Xi Delta Sorority, will feature a talk on "Interior Decoration of the Home" by Mrs. Robert Hagan, who conducts classes in interior decorating at the Birmingham Community House.

Hostess for the evening meeting will be Mrs. C. J. Meschery, Royal Oak. Mrs. R. J. Monahan and Mrs. K. A. Berman will assist.

Oran . . . Full of Bullets, Knives and Blood

ORAN, Algeria (UPI) — Blood-spattered Oran is a city haunted by fear.

It also is a city of ferocious, uncontrollable hatred.

Since the beginning of the year more than 350 Europeans or Moslems have died in this port city of 400,000 people in western Algeria.

Today you can almost smell the fear of the gunman's bullet, the plastic bomb or the sudden flashing knife.

And hate, born of fear, faces you at every turn — particularly if you are a newswoman.

Take one recent incident, typical of life in this tragic fear-ridden city.

A crowd of 200 European youths stand watching a house from which rises a column of smoke. The house belongs to a Moslem and they have just set fire to it.

As firemen fight the blaze a sudden shot rings out. No one knows who has fired it or against whom.

Angry shouts go up that "that was another Moslem shooting at us."

Suddenly the crowd sees a small group of newsmen and photog-

rappers and there is a hushed silence.

SMASH CAMERAS

European youths grab the photographers' cameras and smash them.

Several youths try to strike the newswoman. An elderly man wearing the rosette of the Legion of Honor in his buttonhole, spits out, "There are some Frenchmen who are trying to work against other Frenchmen. They'll be killed before the Moslems."

Europeans here insist blindly that all newsmen "write nothing but lies." The press photographers, they assert, are hand-in-glove with the police because any demonstrator recognized in a newspaper photograph is arrested at once.

"Barbouzes" — literally "bearded ones"—is the word they use for all newsmen, the same epithet they use for the government's secret police.

HATE TROOPS

A patrol of crack Zouave troops drives up and is surrounded by angry, shouting demonstrators. The troops are hated, too, because they are on the side of the government which wants to end French rule in Algeria.

Elsewhere a patrol of two helmeted mobile gendarmes, with rifles slung from their shoulders, strolls slowly along the streets.

As they approach, there is sudden silence. In sidewalk cafes the card players stop playing and stare at the gendarmes as they pass.

In Bensoud Square, where European and Moslem quarters meet,

several army trucks stand parked most of the time. On the roof of each a young soldier lies sprawled on his stomach, clutching an automatic rifle and eyeing the crowd closely. Other soldiers stand beside each truck with rifles at the ready.

This is a district of violence and fear and the government takes no chances.

The fear and hatred persist, even though the citizens of Oran long have become familiar with sudden death. Grenades are thrown, shots ring out, the strangled scream is heard of a man with a knife in his back.

That is life today in Oran, the city of fear and hate.

Most of Stockholm is built on and around 13 islands.

whether applied to nuclear or conventional weapons. Soviet objectives, meanwhile, have remained consistent. These have included removal of U.S. forces from the continent of Europe, the permanent division of Germany, and opposition to rearmament of West Germany.

Within recent days, the Communist party newspaper Pravda said the Soviet Union never would alter its stand on the question of inspection and controls.

Nor has there been any indication that Soviet objectives have changed.

What then did Premier Khrushchev hope to achieve with his proposal that next month's 13-nation disarmament conference begin with a summit meeting of the 18 heads of government?

WOULD AID, LITTLE

The conference is to be attended by five Western nations, five Communist nations and eight theoretically noncommitted. World military power is concentrated in the United States and the Soviet Union.

Obviously, the time-consuming oratory in such an unlikely session could contribute little toward hard decisions which must be reached by the big powers.

There remains the propaganda value of such a forum.

There have been no indications of any new Soviet proposals, but it may be that Khrushchev hoped to create a favorable propaganda atmosphere with a tactical switch on the Berlin or German situation for trading purposes.

It seems probable that in their "no, but—" rejection of the Khrushchev summit proposal, Western leaders considered a third possibility.

The Communist Party Central Committee meets in Moscow just a week before the scheduled opening of the Geneva disarmament conference.

A Khrushchev able to report a summit meeting in the offing might be in a better position than Khrushchev able only to discuss the Soviet Union's agricultural ills and its quarrel with Red China.

CD Office Sets Medical Course
Five Classes Sponsored by Health Dept. Slated in Next Two Weeks

During the next two weeks the Oakland County Office of Civil Defense and County Health Department will hold five classes in the Pontiac area to instruct persons in medical care needed in case of natural or enemy disaster.

"The course trains the student to act intelligently in any home or community emergency as well as offering him or her an understanding of emergency hospital procedures," said Mrs. Marie Rodriguez, director of training for the CD department.

The classes are taught by doctors and registered nurses with special training in disaster techniques.

The schedule follows:
Feb. 20 — Bloomfield Village School on Lahar Road in Birmingham, 8 p.m.
Feb. 21 — Pineknob School in Clarkston, 8-10 p.m.
Feb. 22 — Isaac Crary Junior High School in Waterford Township, 8 p.m.
Feb. 23 — Blanche Simms School in Lake Orion, 8 p.m.
Feb. 28 — Holly High School, 8 p.m.

Flood-Plagued Idaho Seeking Safe Water
POCATELLO, Idaho (AP)—Restoring safe water supplies in four villages was the major task facing flood-battered southern Idaho today.

Health authorities found water supplies contaminated at Soda Springs, Bancroft, Inkom and Lava Hot Springs.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie toured flood areas Thursday and estimated the damage at more than $15 million in a 16-county area. "It is certainly Idaho's most expensive natural disaster in modern history," he said.

Moscow Printing Suppressed Book
MOSCOW in—The official military newspaper Red Star today published a chapter of a previously suppressed book by Marshal Mikhail Tukhachevsky, who was executed in 1937 during Stalin's purges.

Tukhachevsky was accused of conspiring with foreign governments. After Stalin's death the charges were declared false.

One of the main points in the chapter published today was that the philosophy of the Soviet soldier had been to "wait for orders" and not take the initiative.

Red Star praised Tukhachevsky as a military thinker and said "It should be kept in mind Tukhachevsky wrote the book 30 years ago."

Third Prince of Church Dies in 10 Days

Expect Creation of More Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The death of Aloisius Cardinal Muench, the third cardinal to die within 10 days, heightened expectations today that Pope John XXIII will soon call a conclave to replenish the College of Cardinals.

Vatican sources said the Pope may raise the college's membership to a new all time high before Easter to bulwark it for the heavy work of the Roman Catholic Church's Ecumenical Council opening here Oct. 31.

Cardinal Muench, 72, a Wisconsin-born former bishop of Fargo, N. D., and the only American cardinal in the Vatican Curia, died in Rome's Salvador Mundi Hospital Thursday night.

Italian-born Gaetano Cardinal Ciconnani, also a member of the Vatican Curia, and Portuguese-born Teodoro Clemente Cardinal de Gouveia, died last week. The three deaths reduced the number of cardinals to 77, eight below the high established by Pope John.

MIGHT REACH 100

Vatican sources said the expected conclave might be called to create 10 or 12 new princes of the church. There also has been speculation that Pope John might increase the college's membership to 100.

The death of Cardinal Muench reduced the number of American cardinals to five: Richard James Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston; James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles; Albert Gregory Cardinal Meyer, archbishop of Chicago; Joseph Cardinal Ritter, archbishop of St. Louis; and Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York.

Cardinal Muench had suffered from Parkinson's disease for several years. Last week complications set in. He appeared to rally for a time and last Friday received an unexpected visit from the Pope. But Thursday his condition turned grave. He died shortly after receiving a special blessing from the Pope and the last sacrament of the church. Death was attributed to a circulatory cardiac collapse.

The cardinal's three sisters from Milwaukee, Mary Herrick, Miss Teresa Muench and Dorothy Ott, and his personal secretary, the Rev. Raymond Lennard of the Fargo diocese, were with him at the end.

Cardinal Muench was ordained in 1913 and was named bishop of Fargo in 1935. The late Pope Pius XII sent him to Germany in 1946 and gave him the personal rank of archbishop in 1950. Pope John elevated him to cardinal in 1959. Cardinal Muench spent 13 years in Germany, first as apostolic visitor and then as nuncio or ambassador. During his first three years he headed the papal commission for displaced persons in Germany. West Germany awarded him the Grand Cross of Merit in 1957.

After his appointment to the Vatican Curia, Cardinal Muench served on the Vatican's Congregation of Rites and Congregation of Religious and also in the Office for Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs.

Trying to Determine Sizes

Says Twist Began in Grocery

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Food and Drug Administration is not the type of agency you would ordinarily expect to get information on the origin of the twist.

It is true that the FDA protects consumers generally, but its concern generally is limited to things intended for internal consumption.

Nothing in the Pure Food and Drug Act can be construed as extending its jurisdiction to contaminated chockeryphry.

I was a mile started, therefore, to hear a witness from the FDA inject a reference to the twist into testimony presented Wednesday to a Senate antitrust subcommittee.

The subject was introduced by Mrs. Carla Williams, director of FDA consumer programming, who appeared at a hearing on deceptive packaging and labeling practices in the food industry.

IT'S NOT NEW

"You may all still believe that the twist was invented in that now famous Peppermint Lounge in New York," she told the subcommittee.

"But let me tell you," she added, "that shoppers have been doing the twist for the last five or ten years."

Mrs. Williams said that housewives must waste a lot of time twisting packages on supermarket shelves in an effort to determine whether a "king size" box is as big as the "giant size."

Warning up to her subject, she asserted that the battle of boxes, brands, and balloons has turned the supermarkets into a "jungle of gelatin, jingles and jumbo quarts."

As you can see, Mrs. Williams goes in heavily for alliteration.

It so happens that I have been foraging in the gelatin jungle quite a bit recently, owing to the fact that the regular shopper in my household has been preoccupied with an influenza epidemic.

The experience prompts me to believe that Mrs. Williams may have correctly pinpointed the birthplace of the twist, but misjudged the manner in which it originated.

I find that the twisting I do in supermarkets stems not so much from comparing box sizes as from trying to avoid being run down by push carts.

But regardless of how the twist got started, I give Mrs. Williams credit for an important discovery. She was the first to establish an evolutionary link between supermarkets and night clubs.

Clerk Goes to Lunch With Firm's Money

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — On Feb. 5 James T. Patrick, 22, went "out to lunch" from his job as a payroll clerk in a Berkeley manufacturing company.

Thursday Berkeley police were asked to check Patrick's financial background by a Las Vegas, Nev., gaming club. Officers checked. They said they found Patrick owed $3,002 to his company.

Officers said the $3,002 apparently disappeared along with Patrick 11 days ago. They added Patrick is being held by Las Vegas authorities.

14 Activate Reserves Like It, They Enlist

FT. LEE, Va. (AP)—Fourteen reservists recalled to active duty here during the Berlin crisis have decided to stay—they enlisted.

The 14 completed their first full day in the regular Army Thursday and were honored at a retreat ceremony.

'Quarter' Fetes Birthday

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — John Michael, Anna Mary, Barbara Rose and Bernadette Elizabeth Zavada celebrated their 14th birthdays Thursday with a small family party. The quadruplets have a younger sister and an older step-brother. Their father, Andrew Zavada, is an inspector and packer at the Latrobe Die Casting Co.

Hills Residents to Study College

150 Sign Up to Work on Active Committees for Community Need

An estimated 200 Oakland County residents filed the Bloomfield Hills High School cafeteria last night to organize the Citizens' Community College Advisory Committee.

The committee will study and prepare plans for a countywide community college system proposed by the County Board of Education.

The group was addressed by County Supt. William J. Emerson who explained the study is to determine how a countywide system of community colleges might be established.

Dr. Gerald W. Boicourt, who directed the larger "Six-County Study of Community College Needs" completed in 1960, outlined how the study group would be organized and proceed.

Dr. Boicourt is on leave from Wayne State University to provide full-time technical guidance for the study.

He said about 150 persons among the audience, who signed up for one of five committees, would be assigned to the committee of their choice wherever possible. The listing of committee members is to be completed within two weeks, he said.

ENDORSE PLAN
Clifford H. Smart, speaking for the Oakland County Superintendents' Association, and George Coombe, for the Oakland County School Boards Association, told the group of their organizations' endorsement of the countywide plan and the necessity of the study.

Smart is the superintendent of the Walled Lake Consolidated Schools. Coombe, a trustee of Birmingham's Board of Education, is chairman of the legislative committee of the county's School Boards Association.

Chairman of the meeting was Fred D. Leoshard, vice president of the county board of education.

Woman Suffers Head Injuries in Auto Crash

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — A 38-year-old woman is in fair condition in William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, with head injuries resulting from an automobile accident here yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Blanchard of 30158 Fiddlers Green suffered the injury when her car was struck from the rear as she attempted to make a turn from Mickle Belt Road onto Kiltartan Street.

Both Mrs. Blanchard and the driver of the other car, John J. Schrenk, 31, of 2826 W. Long Lake Road, West Bloomfield Township, were traveling north on Mickle Belt.

Schrenk and Mrs. Blanchard's passenger, her daughter Pamela, 13, sustained only minor injuries. The accident occurred about 6:45 p.m.

Japan Plans to Boost Cultured Pearl Output

TOKYO (AP) — Japan plans to produce 138 million cultured pearls in the year starting April 1. The government said today the figure represents an increase of 42 million over the preceding 12-month period.

The expansion in pearl production was set in view of soaring pearl exports. Japan in 1961 exported 61 tons of cultured pearls worth $96 million, a 23 per cent boost over 1960.

Changes Fractional in Key Stocks

Mart Uneven on Moderate Day

NEW YORK V—The stock market was uneven in moderate trading early today.

Fractional changes were the rule among key stocks. Thursday's advance was on declining volume and thus lacked conviction, encouraging traders to take profits.

The January decline in industrial production showed hesitation in the business recovery, rising department store sales, auto assembly and rail carloadings, however, tended to counter that news.

Chrysler, Thursday's most active gainer, was heavily traded against, adding a fraction. General Motors and Ford showed little change.

Bethlehem edged upward fractionally but other major steelmakers showed scant change as feeling was optimistic about reaching a labor agreement in time to avoid a steel strike.

General American Oil steadied and rose a point after Thursday's decline. Exchange with Thursday's United Aircraft, Boeing and Douglas Aircraft were steady to a higher but less pickup truck sitting for two hours in front of 568 S. Sanford St. When he came back at 10:30 p.m., a vacuum cleaner of undetermined value was missing, he told police.

Employee Ideas Bring $37,000

GM Workers in Pontiac Receive Awards for Plant Suggestions

Gentlitz Motors Corp. employees in Pontiac received more than $37,000 in awards for submitting suggestions that made their jobs easier or safer or improved plant operations last year.

This was part of more than $5 million awarded to GM employees through the corporation's suggestion plan, according to Louis G. Seaton, vice president in charge of the personnel staff.

GM employees submitted 491,540 suggestions last year. Some 116,871 were adopted for which employees received $15,139,541 — a new record.

There were 4,936 suggestions accepted from the three Pontiac plants. Of these, 27 brought awards of $1,000 or more and two, both from Fisher Body employees, won maximum awards of $5,000.

Seaton said that the suggestions were the result of a "super agency" in labor-management disputes.

"Voices are being heard now depicting that free collective bargaining is adequate to deal with today's industrial relations problems," he said.

He did not identify the voices, but said "they are calling for a super agency of some sort which would function presumably to be a contributor to a superior brand of wisdom in collective bargaining situations where the going gets rough."

Brannett said collective bargaining is the joint responsibility of management and labor, and intervention by government or a third party should be resisted.

Two Dangers — In a talk at a conference sponsored by the American Management Association, he said there were two dangers to the future of free collective bargaining.

Five GM plants achieved an employee participation rate of 100 per cent last year.

Holly to Decide Monday on Two School Issues

HOLLY—A proposed $500,000 bond issue and a two-mill tax increase will be decided Monday by voters in the Holly School District.

In addition voters will be asked to renew a levy mill tax for operations.

March 1st Election Will Decide School Building Finances

MILFORD—A $500,000 bond issue to finance the construction of 18 new classrooms and two multi-purpose rooms will be decided by voters in the Huron Valley School District in a special election March 1.

It is expected it will be necessary to levy nearly two mills to retire the bonds but the exact amount has not been determined, said Supt. Edwin Johnson.

Planned for construction are a 10-room addition to the Brooks Elementary School and an eight-room addition and busstopover room at the Johnson Elementary School.

Also proposed is a multipurpose room at the Duck Lake Elementary School.

The addition to the six-room Brooks and seven-room Johnson schools, would more than double the enrollment capacity at both facilities.

Both would have a total capacity of about 500 students.

The election is the first for the school district since May 15, 1961, when voters rejected a proposed $3.15 million bond issue for new construction and a three-mill operating tax increase.

Another request for extra funds for new construction was turned down by voters nine months earlier. At that time the school board asked approval of a $725,000 bond issue.

Parole Officer Will Address County Law Assn.

Arthur E. Hahn, an Oakland County state parole officer, will be the guest speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Oakland County Law Enforcement Association.

Hahn, who is with the Bureau of Pardons and Paroles, Department of Corrections, will discuss "Police-Parole Relations." He also will explain the difference between parole and probation.

"Police often inquire about the parolee's obligations while he is under supervision, particularly concerning parole rules, and technical violations," he added.

"Since the police normally view parolees in a negative light, I also will discuss the positive side—those parolees who never come in conflict with the law while under supervision."

The dinner meeting will be held at the Kingsley Inn, 1455 Woodward Ave., Bloomfield Hills, and will begin at 6:45 p.m.

Pastor of 3 Churches Moving to New Posts

LAPEER—Elder Raymond Hamstra, pastor of the Lapeer, Otsego and Imity City Seventh Day Adventist churches will leave here March 1 to assume leadership of the Farmington and Livonia churches.

Married and the father of five children, he now lives at 1235 Baldwin Road.

Taking his place in the Lapeer area churches will be Elder Jack Price of Fort Worth, Tex.

The bond issue would be used to finance the construction of a 13-room elementary school north of the village; a seven-room addition to the Holly High School; and the remodeling of the Holly Junior High School.

It would not be necessary to increase taxes to retire the bond issue, according to Supt. Raymond Barber. The two additional mills being requested are for the operation of the schools.

The continuation of the six operational mills is necessary because this tax expired in December. The total eight mills are needed to meet the increased cost of education, said Barber.

LESS THAN 24 MILLS

The school tax in the district would be less than 24 mills for each $1,000 of state equalized valuation if the two additional mills are approved and the six mills continued.

The cost of the proposed elementary facility is $420,000. The high school addition would cost approximately $300,000. The remodeling of the junior high school would cost $140,000, which includes $65,000 to meet fire code requirements of the state fire marshal.

The junior high school was built in 1912, with two additions constructed later, one in 1928 and the other in 1952.

The remodeling would mean the relocation of four of the eight classes on the fifth and sixth grade levels, that are now using space in the junior high.

These four classes would have to be moved into the proposed elementary school as soon as it is completed.

Currently there are only two elementary schools in the district, the 13-room Davisburg School and the 20-room Holly School.

Dedication Set at Rochester

Howard L. McGregor School Ceremony to Be Sunday, Feb. 25

ROCHESTER—Plans for the dedication ceremonies of the new Howard L. McGregor School Feb. 25 were announced today by School Supt. Donald C. Baldwin.

Guest speaker on the 3 p.m. program will be Dr. Daniel McLaughlin, regional director of Michigan State University extension services for the Detroit metropolitan area.

Henry I. Purdy, president of the Rochester Community Schools Board of Education, will introduce members of the planning commission, school board, the architects and contractors.

Howard L. McGregor Jr., president of National Twist Drill & Tool Co., will attend the ceremonies. His father, the late Howard L. McGregor, donated the 10-acre site at 1011 First St. for the building.

Ronald B. Kevern, principal of the new school, will introduce members of the faculty. The dedication of the building will be led by Earl Cargill, president of the school's Parent-Teacher Association.

Fifth and sixth-grade children of the school will sing songs appropriate to the occasion.

An open house will follow the dedication program.

SHOW FAIR PRIZES—Attractive stuffed animals that will be offered as prizes at the Pine Knob School Fair from 6 to 10 p.m. today in Clarkson are displayed here by games committee chairman and school officials. Seated (left to right) are Mrs. Marie DeNise, school secretary, and Mrs. Lyle H. Brown, chairman of the games committee. Standing are David Westlund, assistant principal, and Mrs. Carl Lindahl, co-chairman of the games committee. The Parent-Teacher Association-sponsored fair will feature cake and doll walks, white elephant and bake sales, a country store, games and cartoons.

Teacher Appeals to FEPC on Religion

Claims Bias in Utica

UTICA—The Michigan Fair Employment Practices Commission last month, by Charles McManigal, Sterling Junior High School band and music teacher. He alleges that the board's policy discriminated against members of his religion. He is a Jehovah's Witness.

According to Walter R. Greene, field representative for the FEPC, the commission cannot reveal information about a case during the early stages of an investigation.

McManigal has told the board he would not comply with its policy regarding him to the band in the Star Spangled Banner at school programs.

School Supt. Fred M. Atkinson recommended that the board not renew the 27-year-old teacher's contract for next year on the basis of his stated intentions not to follow the policy.

NOT NOTIFIED—The board, however, has not yet notified McManigal of its plans to end his contract. Atkinson said the board is waiting until a complete account of the reasons for this action has been prepared.

Under State Tenure Commission procedure, the board must notify the teacher of the contract termination at least 60 days before the end of the school year.

McManigal would then have from 20 to 45 days to ask for a private or public hearing on the charges. If the hearing fails to satisfy him, he has the right to appeal the board's decision to the State Tenure Commission.

Atkinson said the board has not yet decided whether to hold a hearing.

One-Day Blood Bank Set in Walled Lake

WALLED LAKE—A one-day community blood bank will be conducted here Thursday from 2 to 8 p.m. at the Walled Lake Methodist Church, 313 E. Northport St.

Those wishing to donate blood to the Community Township Blood Bank can make an appointment by contacting the local blood bank director, Mrs. Edward Genack, of 3861 Beinstein Road.

Blood donors must be between the ages of 18 and 55. Those under 21 must have written parental permission.

Study Dental Radiation

LANSING—A radiation safety survey of all dental X-ray equipment in Michigan is being conducted by the Department of Health and the Michigan State Dental Association. Purpose of the survey, Health Commissioner Albert E. Hevitt says, is to find out if radiation exposure is harmful to the patient.

The high court rejected their move to force the company to dismantle the dock but ruled that they could sue the company for any damages to their property caused by the installation.

SUITS PENDING

A number have suits pending in Losco County Circuit Court. The bill would authorize sale of a 600-by-1,100-foot section of submerged land for upward of $5,000.

"The company needs to have clear title to that property to conduct its loading operations properly," said Rep. James F. Muehle, R-Whitmore, the chief sponsor.

"We have some of the finest gypsum in the world in that area and it is one of our most important industries," he said. "We should do all we can to encourage it to stay there and expand."

Property owners complained that the dock damages valuable lakeshore property, eroding beaches and piling up waste material on the shore. The state, adding with them, argued that the company built the dock without legal authorization.

at a cost of about $471,000. Architects were O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach Associates, Birmingham, and contractors were the Leslie Construction Co., Ferndale.

Protest Sales of Liquor Sunday

State Committee Head Gets Letters Objecting to Plan for Detroit

LANSING—A proposal to permit Sunday liquor sales in Detroit and allow bars to stay open until 4 a. m. has unleashed a flood of protest mail to the chairman of the House Liquor Control Committee.

The measure has yet to be introduced, but Rep. Edward A. Borgman, R-Grand Rapids, said he is receiving an average of 200 letters a day from voters commenting on it. Opinion is running about 100 to 1 against the proposal, he said.

Borgman said he is "unhappily" opposed to it. "It is to all of us to defeat it," he said. "I think it is an indictment of a city that it has to be able to sell more liquor to solve its financial troubles."

Here we have one bill to prohibit Sunday retail sales and another to permit Sunday liquor sales. It doesn't add up."

Rep. Walter G. Nakkula, R-Gladwin, chairman of the House Tourist Industry Committee, said he would introduce the legislation in a move to make Detroit more competitive as a convention city.

A number of Detroit officials have pressed for the enabling legislation, which would permit Sunday sales only with approval of the voters.

Some legislators have talked of extending the option privilege to outstate areas.

Opening Office for Car Plates at Union Lake

A temporary branch of the secretary of state's office opened today at the new Grant's store, 800 Cooley Lake Road, Union Lake.

The office, to be in operation until Feb. 21, will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Only passenger car license plates will be issued at the temporary branch, said Ben Z. Schermer, branch manager of the Walled Lake Secretary of State's office.

The Walled Lake branch at 314 W. Main St. is connected with the secretary of state. The hours are the same as those at Union Lake.

14th District Loser Almost Sure

DETROIT—Republican Robert E. Waldron probably won't seek a recount in the close special election race here to Democrat Harold M. Ryan in the 14th Congressional District Tuesday.

Waldron, a state representative, won this Tuesday after the official canvass increased State Sen. Ryan's thin margin by three votes—to a total of 747. More than 60,000 votes were cast.

"I am almost certain I won't ask for a recount," Waldron said. "I know of no real irregularities and the figures appear to be accurate."

Meanwhile, Ryan's narrow victory in the normally Democratic 14th sparked more argument between party leaders over control of the vote.

SEES GOP GAINS

This took place at Washington headquarters of both parties where experts of their candidates for the well-worn of the National Gypsum Co. on Tawas Bay.

The measure brought a warning from J. Richard Newman, East Tawas attorney, that opposition can be expected from property owners near the dock.

Newman represents a group of cottage owners who staged a legal fight with the company that carried to the State Supreme Court.

The high court rejected their move to force the company to dismantle the dock but ruled that they could sue the company for any damages to their property caused by the installation.

Amateurs Given Tips in Photography Book

NEW YORK (UPI)—Amateur photographers not only will get some useful information but a lot of laughs out of a recent booklet, "Photography Without Fear," published by a camera company.

The booklet, an A-B-C of amateur photography, is designed to show amateurs how successful photography can be when the picture-taker doesn't have to bother with light meters and other gadgets.

Two Wounded at Rally

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina—Two persons were wounded at a Peronista rally today in northern Argentina Thursday night, Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo announced. He blamed the trouble on the "communist element."

The Peronist leader, Juan Peron, was reported to have suffered slight injuries.

Raps Romney, Too

LANSING—The executive director of the Michigan Township Association complained, yesterday that townships are getting a poor deal at the constitutional convention.

The convention appears to be setting up two classes of citizens, said Joseph A. Parisi Jr. in an editorial in the Michigan Township News.

They are, he said, "those who live in cities and villages, with everything going to them along the lines of self-determination, and those who live in the townships, who will continue to be subjugated and harassed by the self-styled leaders of centralization who might possibly throw a crumb or two to the townships."

Because of the efforts of a few delegates representing rural areas, Parisi said, "Townships were not or at least have not yet been wiped out of the constitution."

In an obvious reference to George Romney, convention delegate and newly announced candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, Parisi asserted that "the convention is now being used to make some degree of a publicly supported arena for the political ambitions of one of its leaders."

Eye Nomination to Council Seats

Romeo Primary Ballot Lists 5 Competitors for 3 Seats Monday

ROMEO—Five candidates will vie for nomination to three seats on the Village Council in Monday's primary election here.

Incumbent councilmen Jack MacPadden and Tony F. Gask, both completing their first two-year terms, are challenged by Norman Engel, 131 Tillson St.; Bernard Desmond, 440 N. Main St.; and James Reynolds, 287 Morton St.

Present office holders who are unopposed are Wayne N. Black, president; Mrs. Dorothy Clark, clerk; Mrs. Elaine Hooser, treasurer; Elgin Anger Sr., assessor; and Mrs. Coleman L. Davidson and Mrs. Clyde Spencer, library board members.

All candidates are Republicans and the winners in Monday's primary will be listed on the ballot in the March 12 general election.

The polls in the Washington Township Hall, 155 S. Rawles St., will be open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday.

Michigan Men Killed in Crash

MARION, Ind.—Two business executives from Michigan were killed last Thursday when their light airplane was ripped by two explosions in flight and crashed in flames in a rural field.

The victims were James Frazier, 38, of Fowlerville, president of the Spartan Aviation Co. of Lansing, and Joseph Murphy, 46, of St. Clair.

Police said Frazier was pilot-in-command, and was on a return flight to Lansing from Indianapolis.

Witnesses said they heard two blasts before the plane plummeted into the ground, trailing flames and smoke. It exploded again when it crashed in a cornfield. The resulting fire burned both bodies beyond recognition, police said.

Parts of the plane were scattered over the cornfield and police said the ground indicated the engines had been revved up to capacity.

Investigators could not learn immediately what caused the explosions, but said they apparently came without warning because Frazier had made no radio contact with surrounding airports.
