Scholle Belabors County Democrats

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

A smoldering feud over who controls the Democratic organization in Oakland County has erupted with a top labor leader calling the organization here a "sorry excuse" for a Democratic party.

August (Gus) Scholle, president of the Michigan State AFL-CIO and resident of Royal Oak, made the charge at a meeting of several Democratic clubs in the southern part of the county.

Scholle today denied he was casting any aspersions on Carlos G. Richardson, county chairman, or anybody else in the organization with the critical remark.

"I only said it to get action on the part of everybody to help out in order to get the Democratic organization off the ground in Oakland County," Scholle said.

However, it was no secret at the February Democratic state convention in Grand Rapids that Richardson was ready to denounce what he said was Scholle's "control" over the Oakland organization. Scholle is a precinct delegate from his city.

But the union leader also denied Richardson's allegation then that the Oakland delegation of 125, one of the single largest at the convention, had to check with Scholle before votes were cast.

"At no time during the convention in Grand Rapids do I know of anyone consulting me on how they were to vote," he said.

Oakland, the second largest county in the state, failed to get a single Democratic candidate on what some delegates said was a union "hand-picked" slate of 14 nominees.

Richardson, a Waterford Township dairy owner, today was contemplating calling in his executive committee to study Scholle's allegations.

The twice re-elected county chairman was reluctant in making any further comment.

"I have no argument with Gus Scholle," Richardson said. "His was one man's opinion and I don't think the party should wash its linen through the newspapers."

He said he hopes to call a meeting of executive committee shortly, but not for the express purpose of discussing the Royal Oak delegate's attack on party organization.

Hopefully, the chairman said the incident might do just what Scholle said his criticism was intended for — to stir some action into the local party.

"If Carlos Richardson had heard all of the discussion," Scholle said, referring to his talk to the club, "I don't think that he would have had anything but gratitude for what I said."

He said he had no intention of wresting control of the county party away from Richardson and others. The party has failed for years to penetrate Republican control here.

At a closed meeting he urged top party leaders to go out and sign up unregistered Democrats in order to turn the trick in next year's election.

Because of the county's tremendous population, Oakland Democrats have had "very difficult problems of organization," declared Staebler today.

"However," he added, "the county's rate of improvement has exceeded that of most counties in the state."

He cited Oakland votes for secretary of state — the traditional

'Nothing Wrong Here'

BY THE HANDFUL — George P. Olsson, president of the National Cranberries Assn., wants the nation to know that as far as he is concerned there is nothing wrong with this year's cranberries from Massachusetts, where half the nation's crop is grown. The ruckus started when the government declared that berries grown in the West were tainted with a cancer-producing weed-killer. Larry Cole, a grower, offers the bag to Olsson.

Says Tainted Berries Won't Harm Humans

NEW YORK (UPI)—The chemist whose laboratory experiments disclosed that a weed killer used on some cranberry crops produced cancer in rats said last night the tainted berries were not dangerous to humans.

Dr. Boyd Shaffer, a toxicologist for the American Cyanamid Co., said his experiments with aminotriazole produced cancer in rats only after "continued administration over the lifetime of the rats at a relatively high dosage." He said similar experiments with dogs produced no cancer.

". . . If you ask me whether the very small amount of residue presented (in tainted cranberries) is dangerous to people, I steadfastly maintain the answer is no!" he said.

Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, expects to have a report late next week on possible contamination of cranberry crops in six states.

Flemming told a news conference last night his inspectors should complete their reports on

This would allow housewives five days to buy cranberries in time for the Thanksgiving holiday Nov. 26.

Flemming also defended his statement Monday in which he warned that a portion of the cranberry crop in Washington and Oregon had been contaminated by a weed-killer that caused cancer in rats.

Shaffer said a human "would have to eat 15,000 pounds of cranberries a day for many years" before he would suffer any ill effect from consumption of the chemical residue.

The McGraw-Hill magazine Chemical Week in an editorial prepared for the Nov. 28 issue supported Shaffer's view.

The magazine said a person would have to eat large amounts of the berries every day for more than 20 years to reach the feeding-test levels at which the weed-killer first proved harmful.

"And nobody, but nobody, eats that many cranberries," Chemical Week added.

Snow On the Way as Temperatures Dip

Occasional snow has been forecast tomorrow for the Pontiac area as temperatures continue to drop.

From a high of 48 degrees at 8 a.m. yesterday, the mercury dipped to 26 this morning. Tonight's low is expected to be near 28, the weatherman said.

Southwest winds at nine miles an hour at 1:15 p.m. will become light, variable tonight and easterly at 10-18 miles tomorrow.

The humidity reading was 65, and 30.3 was the barometer registration.

Many Amendments in Effect Tomorrow

Labor Law Changes Due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Six major changes in U.S. labor law sharply curtailing unions' rights to picket and conduct boycotts against employers go into effect tomorrow.

Attorneys for organized labor, business groups and government agencies differ widely on the precise impact of the changes in the Taft-Hartley Act.

But they do agree that it will be years before the courts and administrative rulings spell out exactly what a union can and cannot do under the new statute.

"The new amendments occupy less than five printed pages but . . seldom has legislation packed so many apparently close and difficult questions into such a small amount of type," one member of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) said recently.

Unions did win some concessions in the new law they have generally condemned as anti-labor.

The building trades will benefit by revisions to permit greater union control over hiring. All unions won a point in another section authorizing discharged strikers to vote in representation elections, within limits.

But most of the changes appear certain to hamper union activity. The major revisions include:

Abolition of the so-called "no-man's land" by allowing state courts and agencies to handle labor-management disputes where the NLRB declines to assert jurisdiction.

Broadening the present ban on secondary boycotts and outlawing "hot cargo" clauses whereby an employer agrees to stop doing business with another firm having union troubles.

Banning picketing for recognition or in organizing drives at plants by unions not certified as bargaining agents for the workers, except under limited conditions.

Permitting unions in the garment and construction industries to protect union standards by making contracts which restrict subcontracting despite the general ban on secondary boycotts.

Giving replaced economic strikers the right to vote in NLRB elections if they are held within one year after the strike began.

Allowing pre-hire contracts, hiring halls and agreements providing a worker must join a union within a week after he's hired in the construction industry.

Other parts of the new law dealing with reports on trusteeships, bonding and regulations barring ex-convicts from holding union office already have gone into effect.

Urban Renewal Area Warned

City Residents Told to Shun Ill-Advised Home Improvements, Sales

Residents of the proposed urban renewal area have been strongly cautioned against ill-advised home improvements or sales.

Robert A. Stierer, project coordinator, said there have been reports that householders have been urged to make improvements in order to increase the value of their homes in case they are purchased under the urban renewal program.

Other reports, Stierer said, indicate some landowners have been urged to sell out now in order to get top money for their property.

Either move on the part of homeowners would probably be ill-advised and result in financial losses instead of gains, Stierer said.

NOT AUTHORIZED

Stierer said that in two instances, the advice reportedly came from persons representing themselves as officially connected with the project.

"No authorized person would give this kind of advice," said Stierer. "These people apparently were interested only in financial gain at the expense of uninformed homeowners. They had no connection with the city."

City officials cautioned urban renewal residents in a letter that reached homes yesterday.

Selling at less than the fair market value would be unwise, Stierer said, since this is the price the city intends to pay for the land it acquires.

Remodeling or improvements may be unwise, too, he said.

"Improvements in a home to be acquired may not add as

Brunt of New Burden Set on Drinks, Smokes

LANSING (AP)—Senate Republican leaders signaled full speed ahead today on their stopgap, 72½ million dollar nuisance tax plan for meeting Michigan's cash crisis.

However, final action on all measures was not possible before Tuesday. Then the package, if passed, would go to the politically-divided House.

Minority Democrats, quick to label the program "revolting and obnoxious," promised not to block it. Gov. Williams agreed. But an attempt to enlarge the revenue yield appeared certain.

In brief, the GOP Senate caucus emerged yesterday after 2¼ hours behind closed doors with this set of proposals:

1. New or increased taxes on cigarettes, beer, cigars and pipe tobacco, liquor, telephone calls and telegrams and auto and appliance repair, dry cleaning and other service industries, all with a Dec. 31, 1960 cut off.

2. Republicans will insist on a statewide vote in November, 1960 on a "permanent" tax solution—lifting the existing three per cent constitutional lid on the sales tax to four per cent.

3. In return for needed Democratic votes, the GOP will agree to a second ballot proposition to specifically grant lawmakers power to levy an income tax, in any form, on persons and corporations.

Sen. Frank D. Beadle of St. Clair, GOP majority leader, said release of the veterans trust fund, worth 40 million dollars cash, was not mentioned at the caucus. The Senate has clung to the fund since March.

Gov. Williams regards its prompt use as a must. Many, but not all, Republican Senators agree but are unwilling to let go of the fund, until a final tax settlement is reached.

CONDITIONS RIGHT

After an informal huddle of Senate Democrats, Sen. Harold M. Ryan of Detroit, floor leader, indicated conditions might be attached to acceptance of the GOP sales tax resolution.

Ryan said the feeling was the Republican tax package must be "adequate" and there must be agreement on veterans fund release. Democrats have set stopgap revenues needs at 110 million dollars, the amount lost Oct. 22 by the Supreme Court use tax decision.

In addition, Ryan said, Democrats want to tailor the second ballot proposal. Republicans want to use it to test an income tax with voters. Democrats primarily a corporation profits tax.

Republicans, although outnumbering Senate Democrats 21 to 11, will require two Democratic votes to put through the constitutional resolutions which require a two-thirds majority in each chamber.

Beadle said Republicans were agreed "in essence" on these temporary tax measures but after further thought might want to make minor adjustments:

1. A penny increase in the five cents a package state cigarette tax, making it six cents—$8,500,000.

2. Doubling the present four per cent excise tax on whisky—$6,000,000.

3. Putting a new levy, based on 20 per cent of the wholesale price, on cigars, pipe tobacco, snuff, chewing tobacco and "roll-your-own" makings—$4,000,000.

4 Tripling the beer tax, making

Governor in 2nd Day on 'Facts'

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Is the state's cash crisis as serious as we've been told?

Can schools legally close if we don't have the money to operate?

What can we do?

Chalk and charts in hand, Gov. Williams is parrying a barrage of questions like these as he crisscrosses the state in his "Save Our Schools" campaign.

The barnstorming governor moved into Grand Rapids today on the second day of a 10-city air tour to rally public support for a new 110-million dollar tax program.

In this normally Republican stronghold, he was barred by school Supt. Benjamin J. Buikema from using a Grand Rapids school for his meeting. Buikema said it involved "too much politics" and would disrupt school routine.

So the Democratic governor scheduled his session in the suburban Godwin High School. Other meetings are slated in Lansing and Detroit.

Gov. Williams said "the only politics involved in this meeting and others through the state is the politics of survival."

An audience of nearly 150 persons was on hand for the governor's appearance.

Last night Williams said: "I'm not trying to start a rebellion, I merely want to lay down the facts."

Audiences totaling more than 1,000 listened to the governor's prepared pitch on state finances yesterday in Kalamazoo, Ann Arbor, Bay City and Flint.

There were students and college professors, school administrators, school board members, businessmen, parent-teacher groups and a sprinkling of local Republican and Democratic Party leaders.

But aside from a mild set-to with Rep. George W. Sallade (R-Ann Arbor) at the University of Michigan, the governor managed to steer clear of political hassling. GOP listeners kept their views to themselves.

Airport Faces $90,000 Cut

Federal Grant Falls Short of Anticipated Funds for Project

Pontiac Municipal Airport officials today were faced with a possible $90,000 slash in next year's contemplated expansion program at the airport.

It was reported today in Washington, D.C. that the Federal Aviation Agency planned to trim $50,000 from the appropriation which Pontiac asked for under the federal-aid-to-airports program.

The report came from Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland), who said the agency would officially announce tomorrow that it was granting only $128,250 to Pontiac.

The city, working through the State Department of Aeronautics, had asked for $178,000.

Matched half-way by both state and local funds, this would have

Hospital Patients Get So Tired of:

'Joe, Better Quit Your Stalling!'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that hospital patients get tired of hearing —or overhearing:

"Just between us, Joe, why don't you quit stalling and get back to work?"

"Is that all the bigger yours were? My cousin had gallstones as big as hen's eggs."

"Now, remember when we get inside—no matter how he looks, tell him he never looked better in his life."

"The gossip in the corridors is that your surgeon left a sponge in somebody the other day. You been feeling particularly thirsty?"

"This little pill is to help your appetite. This little pill is to help you sleep. This little pill is to balance your hormonal anxiety. And this little pill is—"

"Oh, don't worry about your hospital bill now. You'll have plenty of time."

"Now, let me tell you about my operation."

"Of course, you've got only yourself to blame. If you'd only taken proper care of yourself, the whole thing wouldn't have happened."

"Your nurse seems like a real friendly person. When does she get her old age pension?"

"Boy, you ought to see the nurse the guy down the hall has. What a knockout!"

"Your friends can bring you all the bourbon they want, but you can't drink it here."

"A number of patients are contributing $250 each for the new hospital wing, and we wondered while you were here if—"

"Don't worry about your job. The boss is letting Fred do your work in his spare time."

"You know I admire your wife. Even in a period of trouble such as this, she can still go out and have a good time."

"I just read an interesting magazine article. It said a great many of today's operations are completely unnecessary."

"We're so crowded we'll have to move another patient in with you. He's a teen-ager here for an acne operation, and he brought his rock 'n' roll record collection with him, so you'll have plenty of music."

"Glad you liked the flowers from the office. I took up the collection myself. It came to $2.87. It was like pulling teeth."

"I knew a fellow with the same thing, and for a year afterward he had to live on nothing but buttermilk and liver—or was it sauerkraut and egg yolks? Anyway, he lost 50 pounds and looked awful."

Fire Chief Says Matches in Shed

Ford Thinks Troy Boys' Playing Started Blaze Causing Death

A flash fire that killed two boys playing in a tool shed Tuesday in Troy apparently was kindled by the young victims themselves, Troy Fire Chief Lauren Ford said today.

Upon completing the investigation along with State Police Lt. Willis Myers of the Redford Post, Ford theorized that David Geer, 13, and his friend, James MacKinder, 10, must have been playing with matches and accidentally lit some inflammable materials stored in the shed.

The flimsy 8 by 5 foot shed burned to the ground within a few minutes, trapping its young victims inside. Their charred bodies were found 30 inches from the door.

Death was attributed to suffocation in both cases by Oakland County Deputy Coroner Isaac J. Prevette.

Constant companions, the two boys often played in the imitation brick-covered shed behind the Paul Geer home at 101 Birchwood St., but no one knew they were in the building when it burst into flames just before dinnertime.

A neighbor called the fire department. When firemen arrived, Mrs. Norman MacKinder of 71 Birchwood St. screamed, "The boys are in there," though she wasn't sure.

Fire Chief Ford disputed the theory that the blaze was started by a trash fire nearby. "It had nothing to do with it," said Ford.

Sen. Mansfield Rebuffed by Ike

Turned Down in Bid for Confidential Report on Aid to Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today turned down a request by Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) for a confidential document on the Administration's foreign aid program in Viet Nam. The President said furnishing the report to the senator would not be compatible with the national interest.

In rejecting Mansfield's request, Eisenhower cited "the historic doctrine of separation of powers between the three great branches of our government."

Eisenhower added that throughout the nation's history presidents have withheld information when they found "that the disclosure of what was sought would be incompatible with the national interest."

In a letter to Mansfield made public by the White House, Eisenhower added:

"Although I have forbidden the furnishing of the evaluation report requested by you, I wish to make it clear that this has not been done for the purpose of preventing the disclosure of any facts shown by the report. Such facts will be made available to you as promptly as possible."

Mansfield is chairman of a Senate Foreigns Relations Subcommittee on State Department organization and public affairs. In that capacity, Mansfield recently requested a 1957 report entitled "Evaluation of Viet Nam Program."

To Increase Help at State Hospital

Program Praised as Big Asset to Mental Patients Here

The volunteer program at the Pontiac State Hospital has proved so effective that plans are under way to double the number of Oakland County residents now aiding mental patients, according to the hospital's recently appointed medical superintendent.

Dr. Walter H. Obenauf told members of the board of the Oakland County Chapter, Michigan Society of Mental Health yesterday that he hopes the 500 volunteers serving at the hospital can be increased to 1,000 within the next two years.

"The work of these dedicated persons has become so much a part of the life of our patients," Dr. Obenauf said, "that we hope to double their number. They now serve as recreational therapists and in other capacities outside of actual nursing. They augment, but do not replace state employes."

Commenting on the "open door" policy, the speaker said that 732 of the 3,100 patients at Pontiac have "grounds privileges." There are seven wards which remain unlocked during the daytime.

"Most patients have one great need, and that is to recover their self esteem. Most of our therapy is designed to help them do this and to help them assume responsibility even though at first it is only within the structure of the hospital."

Dr. Obenauf predicted that future development of mental health facilities will be in the direction of small hospitals serving individual communities, rather than toward large institutions.

"I believe you will see these smaller hospitals established as the center for all mental health problems. They will handle long and short-term patients, and outpatient care as well."

He added that many administrators believe mental hospitals should be no larger than 500 beds.

"We have seen the emphasis in mental care change very greatly in recent years," he stated.

"There was a time when the major emphasis was placed on the protection of the community. Now the emphasis is properly on the care of the patient and on returning him to a useful place in society."

Demery's to Build Store in Birmingham

Demery's has announced plans to build a $2,500,000 second store in Birmingham.

Completion of the modern, fully-air conditioned department store is scheduled for next spring, C. A. Peck, president of Demery's, Inc. announced today.

It will be constructed at the corner of Woodward avenue and Hamilton street on a site now occupied by the Birmingham Eccentric weekly newspaper and the Averill Press.

Demery's also has a store on Woodward at Milwaukee in Detroit.

George W. Averill, managing editor of the Eccentric said the newspaper and job printing firm will move into a $250,000 plant to be constructed on the north side of Bowers street, across from the newly-opened A&P market.

The new, trilevel Demery's store, complete with large display windows on three sides will encompass 75,000 square feet.

"Medium-to-better lines of merchandise" will be handled by the new Demery's, said Peck, "with special attention to brand names and nationally advertised lines now being carried at the department store in Detroit."

The Birmingham store, being designed by Allen H. Dahme Associates, Inc., Detroit architectural firm, will feature escalators, recessed lighting, a covered pedestrian way, and custom-made counters, fixtures and store interior. Delivery service and charge accounts will be available to customers.

Demery's will have an S and H Green Stamp gift center and all mechanical and utility equipment will be located in a penthouse.

Demery's Birmingham will employ about 250 persons and be slightly larger than the Detroit store.

Birmingham customers will have access to approximately 225 parking spaces in municipal lots.

Planning for the future will enable the addition of a third floor to the new store, said Peck.

Alfie Pike Replaces Watson as Ranger Coach

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Rangers announced today that former Ranger star Alfie Pike has been appointed to replace ailing Phil Watson as coach of the Rangers.

Watson, currently in Polyclinic Hospital where he will undergo surgery for a peptic duodenal ulcer, will become supervisor of the New York farm system when he regains his health, which is expected to be in about two months.

The Day in Birmingham

Franklin Church Women Plan Imaginary Bazaar

BIRMINGHAM — An Imaginary Bazaar with "would have" contributions is planned by the WSCS of the Franklin Community Church.

What are "would haves?" They are the cash that would have been spent on baby sitters, gas, materials and probably tranquilizers by the church women if they were to stage a church bazaar again this year.

So, with the general consent of the women and often their husbands, WSCS members are gift-wrapping the cash and contributing to the church fund instead of holding a bazaar.

The contributions will be offered at a special dedication service at the church Nov. 20 at 1 p.m.

Mrs. F. G. Garrison, president of the Oakland County chapter of the American Association for the United Nations will discuss "Middle East Meanderings" at the monthly meeting of the AAUN at 8 p.m. today in the Community House.

The meeting is opened to the public. High school students have been invited.

Mrs. Garrison recently completed an extended tour of Europe and the Middle East.

The First Church of Christ Scientist, 355 East Maple Rd., will hold open house from 3 to 8 p.m. Nov. 22 at the reading room to acquaint the community with the available facilities.

Members of the reading room staff will be on hand to welcome visitors and explain available publications.

The Child Study Club of the Congregational Church of Birmingham will hold its annual election of officers at a luncheon 12:30 p.m. Nov. 19 at the home of Mrs. William Coleman, president, 2140 Charwood Rd.

"The Joys of Reading" will be discussed by guest speaker, Mrs. Helen Williams.

GM Car Lines Completely Still

Shutdown Will Last Until Brisk Steel Flow Appears Again

DETROIT (AP) — All auto assembly lines in the vast General Motors empire stood silent today, stilled by lack of enough steel to turn out even one more complete passenger car.

Production of autos ground to a halt Wednesday night at the world's largest manufacturing firm. Shutdown of GM's last operating assembly line was the climax of a series of halts caused by the national steel strike.

The shutdown will last until enough steel can be obtained and parts processed to fill supply lines at assembly plants. GM has declined to estimate how long this might be but industry sources expect the shutdown to last up to four weeks.

Normally, at this time of year GM's five car-making divisions would be turning out more than 80,000 units a week.

The final auto line was closed at Willow Run, outside Detroit, home plant of Chevrolet's new compact car, the Corvair.

Most GM lines have been down for 10 days and production was curtailed even before then by parts shortages. GM has laid off 220,000 hourly employes out of a normal work force of 320,000.

Ford Motor Co. is operating on curtailed work weeks but plans to step up production by the end of November. Ford makes almost half of its own steel.

Chrysler Corp. also has cut back production but will build all lines of cars through at least next week. The firm has laid off 5,850 hourly workers.

President Off for Augusta

Plans Rest, Work, Golf on 24th Visit to Haven Since He Took Office

WASHINGTON, (AP) — President Eisenhower flies to Augusta, Ga., today for an indefinite period of rest, work and golf.

He arranged to take off from National Airport's MATS terminal for his 24th visit to the Augusta National Golf Club since his 1952 election.

Mrs. Eisenhower will follow later by train. She delayed her departure to keep a luncheon engagement at the Capitol Hill Club.

White House officials said that Eisenhower wanted to get in some rest before he undertakes a strenuous 11-nation goodwill tour beginning Dec. 4.

While in Augusta, however, work in preparation for the January session of Congress will continue. Several government officials, including Budget Director Maurice H. Stans, will be going down for conferences on the 1961 budget and possible new legislation.

There's a woman's birthday club out west that suspended meetings. Most of the members said they didn't plan to have birthdays for awhile . . . A farmer explained why he raised hogs instead of wheat: "Hogs don't have to be hoed." —Earl Wilson.

Costa Rica Sells Guns for Tractors

NEW YORK (AP) — Costa Rica is negotiating a deal to sell her surplus arms to a U.S. firm in return for farm tractors, the New York Times said today.

The U.S. Military Mission in San Jose reportedly was the intermediary between the Central American republic and the International Arms Corp.

Costa Rican President Mario Echandi Jimenez told the Times in San Jose that his government is disposing of several thousand weapons stored away after the policing.

"In our small way we are making history as a Latin-American country sending arms to the United States," he said.

A spokesman for the military mission said Costa Rica expects to get 30 to 40 tractors for the rifles, submachine guns and machine guns.

Can't Tell Tenors With Program

Quick Changes at the Met

NEW YORK (AP) — Zany quick-change acts at the staid old Met?

That's precisely what went on Wednesday night before the astonished eyes of conductor Erich Leinsdorf — and it saved the performance of "The Marriage of Figaro."

Tenor Charles Kullman, recovering from a cold, lost his voice while waiting to go on.

With frantic gestures and much hoarse croaking he rushed to the dressing room and burst in on Gabor Carelli, waiting to go on later.

Carelli got into costume and made it on stage for Kullman.

In the audience was Met tenor Robert Nagy who realized something was amiss and dashed backstage.

The saves went unnoticed to most of the audience, but not to the conductor.

PO Building Rate 6 a Day

Summerfield Hopes to Construct 12,000 New Offices by 1965

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said today the Post Office Department is signing contracts for new post offices across the country at the rate of six a day.

He said in an interview that the rate will increase to 10 contracts daily by 1960, toward the department's goal of putting 12,000 new or modernized post offices into operation by 1965.

Under Summerfield's program, the department surveys each community requesting a new post office, then invites bids from private industry to construct the building according to department specifications. The department then rents the building for a period of from 10 to 30 years.

Summerfield said the system works to the advantage of everyone concerned.

The department rents the buildings for 94 to 95 cents a square foot, the lowest rental charged any government agency, he said, and is assured of being able to move if different quarters are necessary.

The landlord pays local taxes on the property. A new post office at Kalamazoo produced $25,000 a year in taxes, Summerfield said, and this was typical of such returns in cities of comparable size.

He said the building program also is an incentive to slum clearance.

MSU Receives Grant for Science Teachers

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University today announced receipt of a $294,100 grant from the National Science Foundation for a teaching center for science instructors.

The grant will be used to conduct an institute for advanced study for secondary school teachers of general science during the 1960-61 academic year.

Smoking Risks Campaign Set

American Cancer Unit Prepares Drive Aimed at Young People

CHICAGO (UPI)—An American Cancer Society official said today that the ACS was preparing a nationwide educational program "to inform young people of the risks involved in smoking."

Walter G. James of New York, the ACS director of public education, said the program was based on results of a study of smoking habits of more than 20,000 high school students in Portland, Ore.

James told the Illinois division of the ACS "statistical studies by the society and others have shown an unmistakable cause-and-effect relationship between cigarette smoking and lung cancer."

He said the society's program "will attempt to reach teen-agers and inform them about the attendant health hazards before they have acquired the smoking habit."

"The society will conduct no 'antismoking campaign' among teen-agers or any other groups," James said.

"Its efforts will be limited to research studies and developing a more intensive program in the field of education for both physicians and the public, but with special emphasis on young people."

Red China Using Whip to Hang On to Communes

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China's rulers are telling the people of China:

Just because the people's communes did not work in the Soviet Union is no reason to scrap them in China. Anyone who favors the policies of the Soviet Union in opposition to the current Chinese Communist line is a "rightist opportunist."

These outspoken statements were laid down in significant newspaper editorials that have reached Hong Kong from two important Chinese provincial capitals.

The editorials are part of a new nationwide campaign to force China's peasants and workers to accept the communes, the giant labor camps into which China's peasants and workers were first herded two summers ago.

Opposition to the communes late last year forced China's leaders to relax controls and abolish some of the harsher features of communal life during the first half of 1959.

The period of reappraisal and relaxation is over. Red China's rulers have apparently decided the people's communes, in a somewhat modified form, provide the most effective whip to drive millions to greater labor.

The threats and exhortation in any such campaign are two-edged. They show that opposition to the communes last year was deep, widespread and reached high into party circles.

And they admit that many party officials argued that communes couldn't work in China because they had not worked in the Soviet Union.

Florida Utility Regulator Is Appointed to CAB

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Wednesday named Alan S. Boyd, of Miami, Fla., to be a member of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Boyd's recess appointment—forecast for several weeks—is subject to Senate action when Congress reconvenes.

Boyd now is chairman of the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission. He ha been a member of that body since 1954.

Boyd, 37, a lawyer and a Democrat, will succeed another Florida Democrat, Louis Hector, who resigned last September. His appointment is for the remainder of Hector's term expiring Dec. 31, 1962.

Golden Age Club to See Slides Tomorrow Night

The third meeting of the newly organized Golden Age Club in Waterford Township will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Community Activities Center on Williams Lake road.

"Arm chair" travel of western U.S. parks via slides will be conducted by Walter Baumgartner. The remainder of the program will be spent on organized table and card games.

More than 115 of retirement age have registered with the club. Many come from the Sunset Club in Pontiac and the Clarkston Pioneer group, according to Robert Bauer, assistant recreation director, who is the group's advisor.

A temporary slate of officers was elected at the last meeting. They are C. S. Baker, president; Mrs. Harry McFarland, vice president; Mrs. Tom Moore, secretary, and James Puglise, treasurer.

The group has set up future plans for card parties, bingo, pot-luck suppers, Christmas party and dancing. It meets every other Friday.

The only requirements to belong is "to have an interest and be 60 years or older."

measuring stick of party strength —which went from 32.6 per cent in 1946 to 52.3 per cent last year.

Scholle, like Staebler, pinpointed the registering of potential voters —"not to wait for George to do it"—as the first step in capturing the county. Scholle insisted that was the basis for his strong criticism of the organization.

Apparently disturbed with Scholle's criticism, Richardson referred to a member of the Democratic State Central Committee as "one of Scholle's henchman."

Reference, Richardson was quoted as saying, was to a special registration committee headed by Harriett Phillips, State Central Committee member and former Huntington Woods supervisor.

Mrs. Phillips said she was "upset" over Richardson calling her a henchman of Scholle.

She praised the role of "clean unions," being careful to strike out Jimmy Hoffa's scandal-riddled Teamsters, in Democratic politics.

Michigan Republicans for years have charged that a Democratic-UAW alliance has enabled the Democrats to keep their grip on the state.

"But for the union and liberal elements," Mrs. Phillips said, "one should never be able to differentiate between the two major parties.

The Huntington Woods housewife said she didn't expect State Central to enter the dispute. "It is for the people of this county to solve," she said.

Willis M. Brewer, influential county and state Democrat, who was county chairman seven years before Richardson succeeded him in 1955, sided with Richardson.

"Sure, Gus had control," Brewer said. "He certainly has influence with his own (union) people, but not over all the delegates."

Richardson is doing a good job and has a good organization, the branch manager of Pontiac's Secretary of State's Office and county road coordinator claimed.

City Airport Project Faces $90,000 Cut

amounted to $356,000. The city has already promised to set aside its share of $89,000.

Under the federal aid formula, both state and city shares drop if the federal portion is trimmed by $50,000. State and city shares drop to $44,700 each, making a total of only $267,000.

Apparently left out of the federal appropriation were matching funds for a $137,000 apron for parking, loading and unloading aircraft in front of the new terminal building and a taxi-way to it that would carry subsidiary traffic from the commercial hangars without interfering with main traffic from the east-west runway.

Without federal funds, the city would have to finance the ramp by itself, or with state help, or go without.

Approved by the FAA were funds for construction of a 1,500-foot extension to the main, east-west runway, bringing it up to 5,500 feet in length.

Also approved were funds for strengthening the existing 4,000 feet of the east-west runway and for improving its lighting facilities.

Senate GOP Molds Stopgap Tax Plan

ft $3.75 a barrel instead of the present $1.25; this figures out a total of a little over a penny a 12-oz bottle as compared with the present one-third cent—$14,000,000.

5. A three per cent levy on telephones, telegraph, leased wire and similar services—$10,000,000.

6. Applying the three per cent sales tax to auto and appliance repair, dry cleaning, laundry and other service industries not now covered—$30,000,000.

Beadle said flatly the extension of taxes on services would not reach physicians, dentists or lawyers.

Also apparently excluded were haircuts, shoe shines, beauty treatments, manicures and taxicabs, but clarification of precise coverage awaited reduction of the proposal to bill form.

Asked about uncertainties in the tax lineup, Beadle said there was some thought of jumping the cigarette tax two cents a pack, instead of one, and only doubling instead of tripling the beer tax.

Birmingham Man Held in Hit-Run

A Birmingham man is being held in the Macomb County Jail today for investigation of felonious driving and leaving the scene of an accident Tuesday.

A warrant charging him is expected today by Macomb County Sheriff's Department.

Eric F. Kerry, 28, of 1989 Webster St., was picked up in a restaurant at Fraser Tuesday night by the Macomb Sheriff's Department after he had been traced through his license plate.

Police said that Kerry struck a motor scooter driven by a Clinton Township boy on Groesbeck highway. The youth was seriously injured and another boy riding with him is in fair condition today.

Frank Bono, 16, the driver of the scooter, underwent emergency brain surgery at Detroit Osteopathic Hospital Tuesday night. He was still in a coma today.

State Grape Juices Are Best in Years

LANSING (UPI) — State analysts pronounce juices from Michigan's 54,000-ton grape crop the sweetest and best quality in years.

The State Agriculture Department said 90 per cent of production is reduced to juice for ultimate use in wines, grape juice, jams and jellies.

Urban Renewal Area Gets Status Warning much value to the home as the cost of the improvement," he explained.

"Furthermore, for property not to be acquired, the improvements may not conform to the rehabilitation standards established for the project and may result in wasteful spending."

Homeowners have been repeatedly warned against unnecessary improvements and this advice was repeated again.

SHOULD SEEK ADVICE

If homeowners want to go ahead with a property improvement, however, they should first seek the advice of planners in the City Plan Commission Office at City Hall, said Stierer.

"There, good advice is available as to whether money will be wasted or not," said Stierer.

It is expected that the $4,000,000 project will be approved by the end of the year, homeowners were told.

Before the City Commission acts to make the project official, a public hearing will be held.

There will be a 30-day notice of this hearing and during the interim period project plans will be available in the plan commission offices.

At present, Stierer said, the urban renewal plan is back in the hands of city planners for minor revisions and more data.

It was submitted to the federal government for the first time in August.

Spain Believes Ike Visit Means an OK by West

MADRID (UPI) — Spaniards today cheered the news of President Eisenhower's impending visit as proof positive that Spain has found acceptance in the Western family of nations.

Not since Generalissimo Francisco Franco held border talks with Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini in 1941 has Spain been approached by a world leader of Eisenhower's stature.

The announcement yesterday that the President would add Spain to his intinerary on his December European and Asian tour came as a surprise to Spaniards. But it was a welcome surprise.

Sports Big in China

TOKYO (UPI) — The Chinese Reds go in for sports in a big way, radio Peiping said yesterday. It said mass sporting contests now being readied across the country include a 100-day bike race with 300,000 contestants and a skating championship with 80,000 entries.

Americans use a billion pounds of salt yearly for seasoning.

Blaze Still Mystery

Probe Plum Hollow Ruins

Southfield police detectives, fire officials and State Police today were still investigating the charred ruins of the clubhouse of the Plum Hollow Golf Club in an attempt to determine cause of the blaze.

"We haven't come up with anything of value yet," said Southfield Fire Chief Alfred Kruck.

"As far as we know now, it could have been anything, a cigarette or maybe overloaded service wires. We do know that the fire started in the grill."

Ironically, a new club home was in the planning stage when a six-hour blaze leveled the Plum Hollow clubhouse early yesterday. Damage was estimated at $750,000.

WILL MEET TONIGHT

"We were going to discuss a new building at our annual meeting scheduled for tonight," said Harold Oldham, club president. "We will still hold our meeting tonight at Birmingham Country Club.

Oldham said a committee had been studying the matter for a year and has had proposed plans drawn up. A recommendation was to be made whether to rebuild now or later.

"There's no question now," says Oldham.

It Was Plain to See

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Doug Hearn, an inmate at the Shelby County Prison Farm, was sent out to milk the cows yesterday, but headed for home instead. Somebody noticed the cows didn't get milked. When Hearn got home, four officers were waiting for him.

Berlin Radio Plans Disturb Russians

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Russians told the Western Allies today that West Germany plans to build a new radio station in West Berlin may hinder negotiations on the city's future.

The Soviet government, in a protest note, charged setting up the radio would be unlawful and was designed to "step up subversive activity and hostile propaganda."

The protest, quoted by Moscow radio, was sent to the United States, Britain and France, which share control of West Berlin.

The Russian move was sparked by proposed legislation by West Germany on radio and television policy. The plans include a transmitting station, Deutschland Funk, in West Berlin.

Vote on Incorporation Looms in Norton Twp.

MUSKEGON (UPI)—A possible vote looms on proposed incorporation of suburban Norton Township as a fifth class city.

The Muskegon County Supervisors Board has referred to its legislative committee 12 petitions filed last June asking the incorporation. An election date must be set by the supervisors if the petitions meet legal requirements.

Socialist Party Fades in Wake of Prosperity

The decline of socialism in Western Europe is emphasized by the Labor Party's recent defeat in Britain.

Today only the Scandinavian countries are Socialist. In Austria and The Netherlands the party shares power. In other parts of Europe and in Japan, too, Socialists have lost election after election and their ranks are divided.

One faction of Britain's Laborites claims the party is not radical enough. Other leaders, including Hugh Gaitskell, say that times have changed and traditional causes are obsolete and slogans meaningless.

Britain's Labor publication Forward expressed the view that the word "nationalism" had become damaging and that there should be no further efforts in this direction. It also urged that the party should no longer use phrases such as "the militant working class and working class solidarity."

In our own prosperous country Socialists are politically unimportant. Both major parties absorb liberals and progressives. Only in some of the new and undeveloped nations of the world does socialism have any meaning.

Little Four Meeting Has Own Problems

While the Big Powers are readying for the summit meeting, a little four conference already has taken place in Graustarkian splendor.

At Vaduz, Lichtenstein, 62 sq. mi., pop. 13,571, on the upper Rhine foregathered representatives of San Marino, 32 sq. mi., pop. 13,500; of Monaco, .59 sq. mi., pop. 20,202, and of Andorra, a smuggler's paradise in the Pyrenees, 191 sq. mi., pop. 5,321.

Economic matters such as tourism and postage stamps were discussed but the question that split the house had nothing to do with survival in this atomic age. It was whether the central European principality of Luxemburg, 1,800 sq. mi., pop. 500,000 and the Channel Island of Sark, 2 sq. mi. pop. 506, should be included in future meetings.

A dispatch from Vaduz says that Andorra's representative sat silent when the vote was taken and that it was believed he had not exactly understood the question. Lichtenstein's Baron Eduard von FalzFein doubted that the island existed. "I have been unable to find it on the map," said he grandly, "I am quite satisfied that it does not exist."

In 1945 Andorra abolished universal suffrage and restored election through the male heads of families. Sark is ruled in the feudal manner by the Dame of Sark. Now there just could be some connection. However, no one can quarrel with the little four's slogan—"Peace Through Tourism."

Do Our 'Three R's' Hold New Meaning

Not long ago a young man looked for a job that offered challenge to his interests and abilities, and reasonable opportunity for advancement. Given that, he expected to rely on his capabilities and initiative, confident the rewards would be commensurate with his contribution to the job.

Now more and more employers are faced with blase youth asking little or nothing about the job itself. The questions are: "How often do I get a raise?" "When do I get three weeks vacation?" "What are the retirement benefits?"

One study of office girls revealed their main concern revolved around the type of clothes allowed and the number of eligible young men in the office.

Where are those eager young people who ask only the opportunity to show what they can do? Have leisure and guaranteed security become our only goals?

The Man About Town

History of County

Start Made in Waterford Gets Favorable Comment

Getting old: When a person no longer objects to being told that he said the same thing a few minutes ago.

The recent article in this column about the Waterford schools laying the foundation for a county history has brought many favorable responses, and some definite action in other townships. They grasp the importance of the idea.

Several people already have volunteered to assist in the work. Among them is of 129 Edison St. He has been a resident of Pontiac for nearly 50 years, was city engineer three years, and has otherwise been in a position to know what's going on. He appreciates that we are sadly lacking in a history that would cover the area's greatest growth and development.

By securing a copy of the Waterford history, other townships can see the great possibilities that are within their grasp. A concerted action will lead to the compiling of a history of the entire county at a minimum cost.

The Plum Hollow Clubhouse fire Tuesday night illuminated the skies to such an extent that of Fenton, 40 miles away from it, called up and asked if it was at Holly, less than four miles from Fenton.

Many devious and peculiar ways are used to gain publicity for a product, but I can hardly agree with of Waterford, who phones that the cranberry industry probably started this fuss. He makes the prime suggestion that Michigan cherries be substituted for them.

Local followers of the bang tails assert that the building of that three million dollar race track near Fenton will divide their attention with the Detroit circuits.

Home from a tour of European countries,

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Andrews of Bloomfield Hills say that the financial plight of Michigan's state government is common news there.

Congratulations on this column's "sensible approach" to farm news comes in a letter from

of Commerce. Well, Orson, I was raised on one, have never lost touch with the work, still enjoy getting my hands into the soil, and am proud of it.

Another pet cricket in the home of

Harry Byrd Jr. Reports

Recent Events Cloud Cuban Hopes

Editor's Note: Harry F. Byrd Jr., publisher of The Winchester (Va.) Evening Star, has been a close student of Cuban affairs. When things popped in Cuba recently, Editor Byrd hastened to the troubled scene and drove 620 miles through the interior. His conclusions are interesting, accurate and significant.)

By HARRY F. BYRD JR.

HAVANA — Civil war in Cuba may be less than a year away.

The opposition to the government of Fidel Castro has increased substantially during the past three months, and has resulted in Castro reinstating the firing squads.

Fear and uncertainty which were apparent in July have been multiplied many times in November.

Firing squads in January to execute officials of the corrupt Batista regime were considered a necessary evil; but ordering them in November against revolutionary heroes, such as Castro threatens in regard to Major Hubert Matos, is having an alarming reaction.

Two weeks ago Matos wrote Castro a letter pledging his personal loyalty to Castro and to the revolution, but resigning his commission because he was convinced the government had become infiltrated with Communists.

Castro publicly denounced Matos as a traitor, had him imprisoned and used this case as a reason for reinstating the firing squads. If Matos is executed it would appear that Castro would be compounding the errors he has made in recent months—and the day for widespread bloodshed would be hastened.

As opposition mounts, Castro intensifies his appeal to the mob. To combat the rising tide of resentment against his leftist policies, Fidel Castro has promised that Cuba will be turned into an armed camp. Major Raul Castro, minister of the national revolutionary forces, has promised "a rifle to every citizen" loyal to the revolution.

A campaign to buy combat planes and arms by public subscription is in progress. I drove 620 miles from Havana southeast to Santiago and in almost all of the 53 towns and villages I passed through my car was stopped with the request that I contribute to the arms buying program. The masses in Cuba are fanatical in their support of their one-man government. To them (and to himself) Castro is a messiah.

I lunched at a restaurant with Jules DuBois, Latin American correspondent of The Chicago Tribune, and Russell Jones of the Columbia Broadcasting System. The waiter recognized DuBois, whom Castro has repeatedly attacked for writing what Castro says are "lies" about the revolution. The waiter, with fanatical zeal, engaged in a controversy with DuBois. A few minutes later, when I paid the bill, he refused my $2 tip with these words: "I will not accept a tip from any one who has lunch with DuBois."

Honesty in government—financial honesty, that is—is Castro's keynote. And in this respect he differs sharply from Batista. But his dictatorship is as complete and, indeed, more fearful in many respects.

Ironically, if Castro eventually is overthrown it will be done by the same groups which formed the basis of his support in the beginning. It was Batista's corruption that brought to Castro's side the businessmen, the professional groups, the university professors and the idealists. It was they who financed and aided Castro prior to Batista fleeing on Jan. 1. But shortly after taking over the government Castro charted a leftist course centered around what he called Agrarian Reform, a dividing up of private property. And then came the reinstatement of the firing squads. Most of his original backers are now bitter in their disillusionment.

Today the strong man in the government and Fidel's constant companion, along with his brother Raul, is Che Guevara. Major Guevara is an Argentine-born professional revolutionary and universally regarded as having close ties with international communism.

The trend leftward has been rapid. In July Che was visiting Red China and, although the Castro government was obviously leftward bent, I found little to substantiate the assertions it was Communist dominated. Today, with Che in charge of all industry, a Communist government along the line of Marshall Tito's Yugoslavia seems to be emerging.

Castro's course seems so extreme, and he is pushing his revolution so rapidly, that vast bloodshed appears inevitable. To date, opposition is divided and no strong figures have emerged around whom his opponents can consolidate. To an outside observer, at least, it seems too soon for effective counterrevolutionary activity.

In the long run Castro is likely to stand or fall on whether he is able to fulfill his commitments to the workers and the peasants, his promise of a more prosperous way of life. But the course he is charting is leading to less desirable economic conditions for all, including those he is committed to help.

A reduction in American sugar quotas could bring about a serious economic hardship. America actually is subsidizing the sugar industry, Cuba's largest. This is done by paying her 5½ cents a pound for the sugar she sells in the United States, while the world price is only three cents.

Castro's course of action has virtually restroyed, for the time being at least, Cuba's number two industry—tourism. With the anti-American feeling Castro is deliberately cultivating and with his emphasis on firing squads and the arming of the citizenry, tourists generally feel that Cuba is a good place to stay away from. And they have been staying away in droves.

"When will the revolution come?" I asked an unusually astute Cuban small businessman. His answer: "Not until Castro has taken away all of the money of those people who have saved anything, and all the property of those who own anything."

Whether or not this view is too pessimistic is debatable, but the view this small businessman expressed is widespread.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Don't Tamper With Diet to Regulate Cholesterol

In a recent discussion of the significance of lowered cholesterol levels in the blood, by five of the foremost researchers in the field, publication of which was authorized by the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Assn., I find this candid statement of the truth:

DR. BRADY

"The etiology (medical lingo for cause) of atherosclerosis" (literally soft or gruel-like degeneration of the arteries) "remains unknown, but . . . suggest that it may be . . . Drugs and diets" (that purport to lower the level of cholesterol in the blood) "are still in their experimental phase and probably should be left to the investigator."

Last year the National Academy of Sciences — National Research Council, Washington, D. C., said in Publication 575:

"Until it is clearer which fats are more desirable nutritionally and which, if any, are undesirable, major changes in American dietary habits are not to be recommended."

Cranberry 'Scare' Brings Reactions From Readers

Why are people making such a fuss about the cranberries when they go right on smoking those cigarettes? I'll have my cranberries for Thanksgiving.

Non Smoker

Cranberry growers all over the country are getting a very dirty deal. This is a government responsibility and the men that brought in the nationwide scare should be compelled to clean up their mess some way so the 99 per cent that are innocent will not suffer because of the bungling of some stupid government officials.

Van Doren Still Takes Spotlight

A writer wants to "forgive" Van Doren. Then why not forgive all criminals and empty all the prisons?

Van Doren has a much better perception of right and wrong. He had the education and breeding. If you forgive him, then how can you fail to forgive the small time man that stole a purse with $130, or $130,000. The last is Van Doren's embezzlement.

The sob sisters are one of the big bars to justice and they always have been. To forgive is divine, but can you forgive Van Doren and not the lesser fortunate and the lesser trained and the lesser educated? The "forgivers" want the world to forgive them and their friends and their idols and run rough shod over the people they don't know. What a perverted sense of justice.

Allen Shansby

The country is shocked and disillusioned by the news of men of integrity, intelligence and culture with avarice for wealth. This is caused by our present day materialistic philosophy.

Since man began his stiff uphill climb to civilization, those that gave him the greatest pull and push to the present level were poor in earthly possessions. Such men were Confucius, St. Paul, Spinoza, Shakespeare, George Fox, Thomas Payne and Beethoven, to name a few. They and hosts of others were God-inspired great thinkers and were justly esteemed as great.

Abundance or lack of wealth didn't affect the scale in which greatness was measured. But since the amount of money one has became the yardstick of greatness, since man's spiritual degradation is so low that a great religious thought, "In God we trust," became a sacrilegious thought, and in this material god we trust, then we can understand why the hunt after the filthy lure is so ruthless.

I. Roth
74 Auburn Ave.

Perhaps it's considered there is no right and no wrong anymore, no good and no evil. Van Doren's participation in a rigged contest is certainly dishonest, isn't it? Therefore, shouldn't he be subject to disrespect and punishment just as anyone else? This type of dishonor is especially deplorable in an educator who essays to teach.

I feel that in a way Van Doren is emerging a hero. The fact his students at Columbia are picketing for his return should not be taken seriously. Students like excitement and merely follow whims.

If the president of some college sympathizes with Van Doren's plight and wants to offer him a position, he should do so quietly, not dramatically. And Dave Garroway's public breakdown did not touch me in the least.

Mrs. N.

Maybe Van Doren was underpaid at Columbia, but our entire system of honor will fall apart if we excuse everyone on that basis. I understand the temptation, of course, but where will civilization be if we pardon every crime because the "temptation was too great." What crime or fraud isn't committed for that reason?

His intelligence and good family compound the deceit. We expect such a person to set a far better example than if he had come from the wrong side of the tracks or hadn't been bright enough to know or care about right and wrong.

I might have succumbed to the same temptation, or if not that one, another just as bad. But civilized society expects certain standards and we all know what they are. If we willingly and knowingly flaunt those rules, the least we can do is accept the consequences.

The biggest mistake Van Doren backers make is thinking because an act is understandable from the standpoint of human frailty, it is therefore excusable. And, too, I can't help thinking his soul-purging confession would have been more heart-rending if it had come before he was faced with legal prosecution. Lying to a grand jury is not "yielding to temptation."

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

My son, keep your father's commandment, and foresake ant your mother's teaching. — Proverbs 6:20.

No principle is more noble, as there is none more holy, than that of a true obedience.—Henry Giles.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Wise Teen-ager Consults Outsider

Paul's problem was probably faced by many of the sucessful lawyers and doctors and business leaders of your city when they were young. For most Americans have been infatuated during the teens. Those who follow their Brain instead of their Heart, usually occupy the top jobs in your town and enjoy the best living standards, so get hep, young folks.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

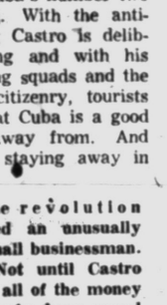

Case C-494: Paul G., aged 17, will graduate from high school this term.

"Dr. Crane, I feel terrible," he spoke morosely, "and I am slipping in my grades because I don't know what to do.

"I am in love with a classmate. But she wants us to get married right away.

"However, I have no job and realize I should go on to college.

DR. CRANE

"When I tell her that, she insists I don't love her. And now she has started dating an older fellow in our town.

"Last week she told me they were engaged and plan to get married soon.

"Well, I love her with all my heart, so I can't eat or sleep. And I can't concentrate on my books at all.

"She said she'd run off and marry me, even yet, if I'd elope with her. That's what I want to do more than anything else in the world.

"But I just couldn't support a wife, could I? I'm going crazy! Please tell me what to do."

PAUL IS SMART

Teen-agers, when you are madly in love, you need to imitate Paul. Seek outside advice. Consult your clergyman or physician or school counselor or write to me.

For older advisors are much like the road maps you would consult if you were planning an auto trip into strange country. They tell you what's ahead.

We older advisors also have no reason to delude you. But we have seen cases like yours by the hundreds if not thousands. So listen to our mature counsel, since it is correct.

Infatuations like Paul's are terrifically upsetting. You then feel as if you'd rather be dead than go onward without your sweetheart.

Or as if all joy and laughter would leave you forever. You even get a dull ache in your solar plexis region and walk around in a daze.

But follow the advice of your mature counselors. Let your Brain be Captain. Don't let your unruly emotions mutiny against it.

During infatuations, your brain is still a better guide than your heart.

FACTS ABOUT LOVE

Although you feel as if you can never love anybody else, just remind yourself that millions of Americans have felt exactly as you do.

Yet they have fallen in love again and been even more ecstatically happy with the second sweetheart than with the first.

Your Heart says this cannot be true, but your Brain coldly reminds you that it will actually happen again. So don't stampede because of a romantic moon and the erotic thrills of a lush thrush who tries to coax you into an elopement.

Without a good job (or the technical skill to earn a living, you would soon end in divorce. Most of these teen-age marriages do!

That is a cold fact, so don't evade it! And your future unborn children would be cheated out of a happy home by such a teen-age elopement.

For you and your wife would start fighting over unpaid bills. You'd live in second rate quarters, unable to afford even a cheap jalopy.

So be smart. Paul will snap out of this romance inside of a few months and will be glad he used his brain.

Many of the successful lawyers and doctors and engineers and business leaders have had to make the very same decision Paul faces.

Now they are happily married and living in pretty homes. Get hep. Use your Brain, not your Heart!

Cranberries Rugged Example of Government Guard Over Food

WASHINGTON (AP) — The events that have raised the cranberry from the bog to the nation's headlines spotlight the power of the government in guarding the nation's food supply.

For half a century this power has existed, but "the cranberry episode," as Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming calls it, marks one of its most sweeping applications.

Formal court actions, filed this week in San Francisco, asked seizure of two small shipments — a total of 14 tons — of allegedly contaminated West Coast cranberries. But the incident is affecting, at least temporarily, an entire crop.

There were these developments:

1. Ocean Spray Cranberries, Inc., a major grower cooperative, says it is moving quickly to assay crops grown in Massachusetts, Wisconsin and New Jersey, about which no question was raised, as well as those in the West Coast. It hopes to clear uncontaminated cranberries of suspicion in plenty of time for Thanksgiving Day Dinners. Expanded forces from the Food and Drug Administration also were checking the berries.

2. The Army and Navy suspended use of cranberries grown in Washington and Oregon, but will permit use of those it can prove grew elsewhere.

3. The New Jersey Farm Bureau said it will seek government payments to farmers for sales they have lost as a result of the controversy. The bureau's president, Carleton Heritage, criticized what he called "rash and unnecessary scare statements" from secretary Flemming.

4. The National Grange, meeting in Long Beach, Calif., demanded that federal officials appear and explain why the crackdown was ordered.

5. One government official said the government is "morally obligated for damage to the innocent," but added that "just what the government will do, I cannot say at this time." That comment came from Asst. Secretary of Agriculture E. L. Peterson in Seattle, where he is looking over the situation for Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

The government suits, announced Wednesday, were filed Tuesday in San Francisco — a day after precautionary statements were issued here.

The episode had its origins in 1957 when some cranberry growers adopted a new weapon in their unending war against weeds.

It was Aminotriazole (pronounced a-meen-o-try'-a-zole), a synthetic chemical killer that was still undergoing some tests by its manufacturer and had not yet been registered with the Department of Agriculture.

After the cranberries were harvested, inspectors for the Food and Drug Administration found one-third of the berries grown in Oregon and Washington showed traces of the pesticide. So did a small amount from Massachusetts.

At that time it was not known what effect, if any, Aminotriazole might have on humans. So until the information was obtained, the growers agreed to keep the berries off the market.

In 1958 the weed killer was registered with the Department of Agriculture for use under specific conditions. For cranberries it was specified it be used only after the crop was harvested.

Meanwhile, the manufacturer, American Cyanamid Co., conducted tests to see if Aminotriazole would have any dangerous effects if absorbed by humans. The long, painstaking studies were finally completed last May.

Rats, fed steady quantities of the chemical, developed cancer of the thyroid. The concentrations fed to the rats were much stronger than those found on the tested berries. No tests were made of the chemical's effects on human beings, but the conclusion, based on the experiment with rats, was that Aminotriazole might be a cancer-causing agent.

A few weeks ago the Food and Drug Administration perfected a more precise method for detecting residue of Aminotriazole on cranberries and began applying it to the newly harvested 1959 crop in the Northwest.

Last Friday the FDA received word that two of seven shipments tested showed definite contamination by the chemical. These are the shipments the government went to court to seize. Monday Flemming called a press conference and the cranberry story was out.

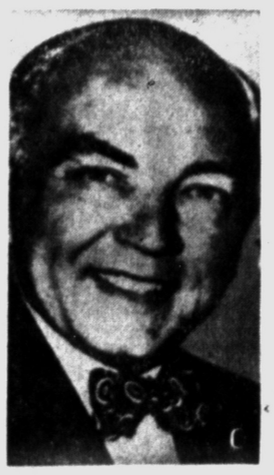

The basic legislation under which the government acted goes back to 1906 when the original Food and Drug Act was passed. But in the cranberry episode the FDA is relying mainly on an amendment passed by Congress in 1958 which forbids the use in goods of any chemical that produces cancer in test animals — as the Aminotriazole did in rats.

In the wake of the government's action there has been widespread discussion as to whether similar steps could be taken against cigarette manufacturers, inasmuch as some laboratory tests of nicotine and cigarette tars have caused cancer in animals.

The answer is that tobacco is not classified as a food or a drug and therefore does not come under any existing FDA legislation.

$250 Million Put Into Antarctic

Ex-U. S. Commander Sees Major Role of Area for Space Age

WASHINGTON—Four years and $250,000,000 of Operation Deep Freeze have produced a striking list of United States accomplishments in the frozen Antarctic.

Rear Adm. George J. Dufek, recently retired commander of naval forces who set science up in business there during the International Geophysica' Year, described the work of Deep Freeze in National Geographic Magazine.

"Now that our stations are established, they appear to be there to stay," Adm. Dufek writes. "The United States has proposed a treaty to preserve the continent for scientific research."

He believes women eventually will come to "prod, probe and climb with the rest of us." Then tourists will arrive also to see the wonders of that lonesome, awesome, beautiful land at the bottom of the world.

REMAINS STATIONARY

Adm. Dufek believes the Antarctic will play a vital role in the Space Age. The continent is a platform that remains stationary while other parts of the world rotate.

Thus a satellite in polar orbit could be observed from the South Pole every time it passed around the earth.

"Such satellites, when eventually manned, could be controlled better from the South Pole than from any other spot on the earth's land surface," Adm. Dufek wrote.

"By 'controlled' I mean given instructions for the pilot to break out of orbit and land."

A small runway has been built on the mainland of Victoria Land, across McMurdo Sound from the Navy's main base at Hut Point. Eventually an airstrip of at least 5,000 feet will be built.

Rural Phone Money Needs Seen Doubling

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The head of an Agriculture Department advisory committee predicts that the need for rural telephone loan money will double in the next fiscal year.

In the present fiscal year, the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) has authority to approve 104 million dollars in telephone loans.

However, Harold L. Ericson, of Hector, Minn., head of the Minnesota Central Telephone Co. and advisory committee chairman, said 200 million dollars will be needed in the next fiscal year beginning July 1, 1960.

REA Administrator David A. Hamil agreed that the need for loans would go up next year but he said he thought Ericson's estimate was too high.

Ericson reported that the advisory committee also discussed administration proposals to raise interest rates on REA loans. A formal report is expected later.

Brashness With Ike Startles Others

U.S. Newsmen Puzzle World

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON — Backstairs at the White House:

The staff of President Eisenhower is well aware that during his forthcoming 20,000-mile trip to Asia and other points, some areas of the world will be exposed for the first time to one of the truly unusual aspects of democracy, American style, in operation—the White House reporters and photographers.

These men and women are specialists in their work and they do not always endear themselves to people in strange lands who simply cannot understand why a world leader of presidential stature would suffer himself to be questioned in public by commoners.

Eisenhower held an open press conference in Bonn, Germany, last August and the German reporters were highly reluctant to ask questions, even after the President stopped in the middle of the conference and invited the Germans to speak up. Only two or three of them did so, and then quite uneasily.

On the forthcoming trip, Eisenhower may be moving so rapidly as to rule out press conferences along the way. He'll have more time in India than about any other place, but there is as yet no indication of a press conference in New Delhi.

The people of Asia—India, Pakistan and Afghanistan—may find it hard to understand when the Washington reporters who work with Press Secretary Jim Hagerty day in and day out question him rather penetratingly.

In London last September, the British reporters—some of them, at any rate—commented in print on the cheek of the American reporters in addressing Hagerty to his face as "Jim."

Hagerty and a group of White House staff members are over in the Mediterranean area today, making a planning visit at every stop to be covered by the President on his trip.

In every country visited thus far by the President, Hagerty always has seen to it that at least one carload of reporters travels within two or three car lengths of the President's limousine, particularly in processions.

In this way, the reporters in the "pool" car can hear and see crowd reaction to the President. Later they report to their colleagues who must proceed in other vehicles nearer the rear of the motorcade.

The British reporters last summer were utterly astonished by this arrangement. British officialdom from the crown on down has a haughty attitude toward newsmen and will not permit these men to clutter up their public appearances.

French officials felt much the same way last summer until they saw the American system in operation. The British and French reporters loved the idea.

Even in the United States, many average American citizens take their daily newspapers for granted. They want their news fresh, accurate and up-to-date. But as spectators, they frequently have difficulty in understanding why a Washington reporter races to a telephone to transmit something the President said or did.

The loud American cry for telephones and telegraph wires will ring out from Rome to New Delhi next month and invariably, the local residents will wonder why the crazy Americans are in such a hurry.

All across America, millions of citizens will know within minutes by newspaper, radio or television, what the President saw, what he said and what he did.

And they'll accept it as a matter of course. The news from Afghanistan might be a mite slow in getting out, however. There the long distance telephone to London operates only on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and Eisenhower will be there on a Wednesday.

Heart Gives Out Despite Device to Regulate Beat

FAIRMONT, W.Va. (AP) — Hoy Walter Smith, one of the first men in the nation to have his heart "wired" for life-giving electric stimulus, died Wednesday in a Fairmont hospital. He was 77.

Smith was a retired coal miner from nearby Barrackville. His physician said he died from a heart disease. The doctor added that the Pacemaker machine, which provided an electric stimulus to keep Smith's heart beating, was operating perfectly but the heart just gave out.

Smith underwent an operation last August to attach to his heart small wires from the battery operated apparatus which fits on the chest and regulates the heart beat.

SHE GOT A TAG — Pittsburgh's Carnegie Tech coed Betsy Matthews shakes her fist at ATO fraternity men who lifted her car on blocks and stuffed it with newspapers in retaliation for a cake Betsy sent them which was iced with chocolate laxatives. This has been a long running feud which started when the men put her car on the sidewalk and she was given a ticket.

Testify on State Conditions

Senate Jobless Group to Hear Reuther, Scholle

DETROIT (AP)—Two labor leaders with proposals for programs to assist jobless workers were among 30 witnesses expected to testify today before a special U. S. Senate committee hearing on unemployment.

Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, and August Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO, issued prepared statements to the committee presenting suggested solutions to the unemployment problem.

The committee, headed by Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn), will spend two days here listening to testimony from industrial, labor, civic and government spokesmen.

10-POINT PROGRAM

Reuther, in a prepared statement, proposed a 10-point program which he said would "assist unemployed workers and their families and help restore depressed communities to economic health."

Among the UAW president's suggestions was early retirement with full social security benefits for older workers laid off and not likely to be rehired.

Scholle's prepared testimony urged adoption of federal standards to assure jobless pay of 39 weeks' duration and other minimum standards for the present state unemployment systems.

The state AFL-CIO leader also recommended unlimited duration of jobless benefits. He suggested that a national program be set up to provide unemployment coverage for the entire period a worker is laid off.

Detroit Mayor Louis Miriani was to lead witnesses today with an outline of unemployment problems in Detroit. Mayors of a dozen other Southern Michigan cities also were scheduled to testify.

Industrial leaders scheduled to appear include Louis G. Seaton, General Motors vice president; K. D. Cassidy, Ford Motor vice president; and John D. Leary, Chrysler vice president.

Michigan Gov. Williams and other state officials also were expected.

U.S. May Study Blast Detection

Huge Research Plan on Underground Tests Would Start in 1960

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Official sources said today the United States will start a multimillion dollar research program early next year to work out, if possible, a nearly cheat-proof system for detecting underground atomic explosions.

Chances of an East-West agreement to ban nuclear weapons tests may hinge, it was said, on the program's results and the speed with which they are obtained.

Weapons tests on the surface or in the air are fairly easy to detect because of the telltale radioactivity they produce and the sound and electromagnetic waves they emit.

Even in airless space above the atmosphere, atomic explosions would be hard to conceal. So the real test of a detection system is its ability to spot underground explosions.

Officials hope that eventually Russia will join Great Britain and this country in staging underground atomic blasts to test detection equipment.

In the meantime, the United States plans to go ahead with test shots using up to five tons of conventional high explosives.

Teacher Rigs Class Quiz

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — Is honesty the best policy?. A high school class here evidently thinks so—now.

The students at Freehold Regional High School were taught a lesson by their American history teacher, Melvin C. Willett.

The class held a discussion on rigged television quiz shows, and in the words of Willett:

"As we discussed the subject, I became perturbed at the attitude of most of the students. They felt that because of the big money prizes involved and because it was not illegal, it was all right for quiz contestants to accept answers."

So Willett made up a real whopper of an American history quiz. He hinted to nine of the students that he wouldn't mind if they looked at the answers lying on his desk. They did.

Then Willett revealed what he had done.

"They all objected violently," he said, "complaining about the unfairness of the situation. 'All right,' I told them, 'we will now have another discussion on rigged TV quiz shows.'"

Bissell Open House Brings 1,500 Guests

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — In production since last July, the new $3,500,000 Bissell, Inc., plant in suburban Walker Township attracted about 1,500 visitors Tuesday at a public open house.

The firm employs about 500 workers in the production of carpet sweepers and allied items. It originally operated from a factory in downtown Grand Rapids. Officials expect the new plant's work force to reach 675 within a year.

Still Arguing About Empire

Portugal, India in Court Over Three Patches of Coastal Land

The colonial fragments—Goa, Damao and Diu—are patches of land on India's west coast. They cover 1,619 square miles and are inhabited by 673,000 people.

Portugal has contended before the court that India illegally denies passage of Portuguese troops and officials between the widely separated possessions. India wants to end foreign occupation of what it regards as Indian territory.

Goa, with 1,400 square miles, is the largest and most important of the pockets. It embraces several islands and a hilly, river-cut mainland 250 miles south of Bombay.

Both the original capital, Old Goa, and the new one, Nova Goa, which governs all Portuguese territories in India, stand on a large island between the Mandovi and Zuari rivers.

FOUNDED BY HINDUS

Founded centuries ago by Hindus, the city of Goa became a prosperous seaport and a great emporium of the East. Gold, teak, exotic spices and rich fabrics departed by the shipload. The city had its own army and navy, currency, mercantile laws and customs officers.

Moslems captured it in the 14th century, and it became a meeting place for the faithful embarking on pilgrimages to Mecca.

Alphonso d'Albuquerque, an aristocratic Portuguese adventurer, sailed his fleet to Goa in 1510 and wrested it from the Sultan of Bijapur.

The capture was aided by an old legend that prophesied conquest by invaders from a distant land. The disheartened residents surrendered without protest.

The Portuguese spread their influence from "Golden Goa." Trade flourished more than ever. Scores of churches, several cathedrals, palaces and many fine homes were built.

In its heyday, 200,000 persons lived in the capital. Colonial life was gay; dandies always appeared in public with a retinue of richly adorned slaves and servants.

CHURCH GAINED

St. Francis Xavier went to Goa as a missionary in 1542. Under his leadership, the Church gained thousands of converts.

Today, nearly half the residents of the Portuguese colonies in India are Christians. The other residents are mostly Hindus, but a few are Moslems.

The body of St. Francis Xavier rests in Old Goa's Church of Bom Jesus.

Student in U.S. on Scholarship Just 'Play Boy'

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Ufuk Berk of Istanbul, Turkey, doesn't have to pass any tests to maintain his scholarship. In fact, he gets by easily being just a "play boy."

But it's all perfectly legal. He's attending school here on a "foreign student scholarship" given him by the Beth Israel nursery.

Four-year-old Berk also may be the youngest student in the country now attending school on a scholarship.

The nursery board set up the scholarship when it found itself with a vacancy in the four-year-old group.

It was awarded to a foreign student so that the other children in the nursery could associate with a child from another country.

The boy is in this country with his father, an engineering student at the University of Michigan.

TOOLS OF PROGRESS — Noted scientist, author and educator C. G. Schelly shows a "big slice" of the history of cutting edges and tools in a program coming to Pontiac Nov. 19. The show, titled "The Cutting Edge," is compiled and presented by the Educational Research Dept. of the DoAll Company of Des Plaines, Ill., of which Schelly is director. The program, to be held at Pontiac Central High School, is sponsored by the Oakland County Chapter of the American Society of Tool Engineers and Detroit branch of American Society of Quality Control.

Cutting Tool Exhibit Due in Pontiac

The important role of cutting edges in the American way of life will be demonstrated in "The Cutting Edge," an industrial show to be presented next Thursday night at the Pontiac Central High School auditorium.

The program will be sponsored jointly by Oakland County Chapter 69 of the American Society of Tool Engineers and the American Society of Quality Control, Detroit.

Besides being entertaining, "The Cutting Edge," a presentation of the DoAll Co. of Des Plaines, Ill., is designed to appeal to all engineering, educational, management and technical society groups.

C. G. Schelly, nationally known scientist, educator and author, will direct the show. It is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. A meeting of the two societies will precede the show at 7:30.

Persons interested in attending the traveling educational exhibit, which consists of a 43-foot historical panorama, an illustrated slide talk and displays of actual production parts, should contact Brown for full information.

Two previous touring exhibits are now housed at the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago and the Hall of Progress in Des Plaines.

Brown said the current presentation strives to provide a broad background of the historical significance of cutting tools from bone to modern carbides, the technical considerations for their efficient use and the potentialities for future progress.

'War Murderer' Gives Up to Police

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Dr. Werner Heyde, wanted on charges that he directed Hitler's mass murder of mental defectives, surrendered today.

Police had been looking for him since last Saturday, after it became known that he was living in Flensburg under the name Dr. Sawade.

Heyde's trial probably will take place in Wuerzburg where he had lived for 20 years and headed Wuerzburg University's neurological clinic from 1939 to 1945.

The Nazis' euthanasia program called for the liquidation of mental patients in order to improve Germany's racial stock.

Chicago Setwell Firm Goes to Traverse City

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — The Chamber of Commerce has announced that Setwell Co. of Chicago plans to move with its subsidiary Timber Products Co. of Beulah to Traverse City.

The move will consolidate both firms in a former manufacturing building which has been vacant for two years. Setwell is a leading manufacturer of wooden coat hangers.

The new operation is scheduled to open early next January with total employment anticipated at 165 persons. The chamber announcement yesterday said an available work force and native timber in the area were determining factors in the Setwell move.

France Not Second-Rate to Him

Bold De Gaulle Takes Over

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle, iron-willed at 68, acts like a man determined, if he has to, to take over the leadership of the West. He has already asserted a lot of it.

This week the Frenchman, so proud he dislikes using reading glasses in public, dictated to his Western partners and the Soviet Union the time and conditions for a summit conference.

At an extraordinary news conference De Gaulle, who heads a second-rate power but persists in thinking of it in terms of grandeur, put on an amazing show of memory, calmness and strength.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's attitude toward a summit meeting has been: The sooner the better. President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev have seemed to favor such a meeting sooner rather than later.

But De Gaulle, after taking over a sagging France and giving it more stability than it has had since World War II, decided by himself that haste was unwise. He even put a stiff "if" on any summit conference at all.

Before there's a summit, he said, he must meet with Khrushchev in March; there must be an improvement in the international climate: and the Western partners must be agreed on how to deal with Khrushchev.

ANOTHER CONFAB

And, just to be sure, he told Eisenhower and Macmillan his pre-summit get-together with them in December should be followed by another after he talks with Khrushchev in March.

PRESIDENT DE GAULLE

In the end De Gaulle may have proved extremely wise in insisting upon complete preparations for the summit. Otherwise, he warned, the summit may turn into disaster.

B. J. Cutler, the New York Herald Tribune's Paris reporter who attended the news conference, said that because De Gaulle does not want to use reading glasses in public, he memorized his 14-minute opening statement to the 700 correspondents invited to hear him and ask questions. He also memorized 45 minutes of statistic-packed answers to questions he had anticipated. It was a fantastic memory feat.

Eleanor Claims Nixon Easiest Man to Beat

JACKSON (UPI)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said again yesterday that she believes Vice President Richard M. Nixon would be the easiest candidate for Democrats to defeat in the next presidential election.

Right now, she said, Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller make "interesting sparring mates." But she said Nixon is a "more clear cut conservative" and would draw "a little clearer line for the voters" to make a choice.

MITCHELL EATS HIS HAT — Because the number of jobless failed to drop below three million last month as he predicted, Labor Secretary James P. Mtichell publicly ate his hat on the steps of the Labor Department building Wednesday. The "hat" was a fedora-shaped cake. He blamed the steel strike for crossing up the jobless guess he made last spring.

They Have Home Where Buffalos Roam With Cows

OGDEN, N. Y. (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. James Ryan, owners of Shamrock Farm, assured the passing motorist he wasn't seeing things — there really are buffalo grazing on their land.

The bison, one male and one female, were purchased along with a herd of Holstein cattle by Jerome Miller of Spencerport, who rents part of the Ryan pasture.

Miller said the man who sold them to him said they were three years old and had been given to him by a zoo when the animals were still calves.

Miller said he bought the bison because "they're something different." They were tame, he said, since they had been raised with cows.

Farmer Ryan reported that the other cows on his farm were startled when the bison were first sent into the pasture, but "they get along fine now."

Wanted to Imitate TV Hero

Killed by Modified Rifle

DIGHTON, Mich. (AP) — Robert Kanouse, 13, wanted his .22 rifle to look like the "Mare's Leg" carried by the hero of a popular television Western.

He filed down the stock, sawed off the barrel and handed the gun butt first to Bill Barber, 16, who had helped on the project.

The weapon went off. The shot struck Robert in the forehead. He was dead when State Police arrived at his home in this western Michigan community.

Barber told officers he and Robert wanted the gun to look like the short, lever-action rifle carried in a hip holster by the star of their favorite television show ("Wanted Dead or Alive"-CBS).

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, who will be 78 years old Nov. 25, Wednesday urged several thousand persons at a general audience to respect old folks.

New Cross Violence: Rocks, Bombs Fly

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — Paint-filled light bulbs and rocks shattered windows in the Macomb County homes of three Cross Co. employes today and last night.

A rock was hurled through the front window of a fourth house but police said they thought it was intended for the home of a Cross foreman who lives a few doors away.

Cross Co., a Fraser automation firm, has been the scene of various picket line incidents since it was struck by the United Auto Workers last Aug. 4 in an organizational dispute.

Rocks followed by paint bombs crashed through picture windows at the homes of Eldon Balle, East Detroit, and Paul Claverilla, of Roseville. Both work at the Cross plant.

Jerome Waleke of Roseville told police two large rocks were flung through his picture window and a paint bomb was hurled against the side of his house. Waleke said he has been laid off by Cross since the strike began.

THREATENING CALL

All three reported that interior furnishings were smashed and spattered by the paint.

Claverilla told police he received a threatening telephone call a month ago in which the caller told him his house was going to be bombed.

James E. Belisle of Mount Clemens, who does not work for the Cross Co., said a rock was thrown through his window. Two Cross foremen live on the same street and police said the rock probably was thrown into Belisle's house by mistake.

Waleke's wife said she saw a heavy-set man approach the house shortly before the rocks and paint bomb hit.

UAW Local 155 and members of Cross management met yesterday in another effort to settle the strike. No progress was reported. Talks had been recessed Friday after the UAW accused Cross of "foot dragging."

The Union struck in August, charging that Cross management refused to bargain on a new contract.

ORDERS RECOGNITION

The Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati later ordered Cross to abide by a National Labor Relations Board ruling that UAW 155 was bargaining agent for the firm's employes.

The Macomb County Circuit Court later found the UAW local and several members guilty of contempt in failing to observe an injunction limiting pickets and ordering peaceful picketing at plant gates.

New Xway 'Designed for Death'

British Abuse Highway

LONDON (AP) — Is Britain's first superhighway a death trap or a dream road?

It has been called both in its first 10 days of use.

Practically every motorist within reach has taken the family car out for a trial run on this 72-mile highway. They have broken about every traffic rule in the book.

"That road is designed for death," says British-born Gerald McLindon, who has worked as a designer of American superhighways for nine years.

"Without controlled speeds, it's a slaughterhouse. The 15-foot dividing strip between the highway's two roadways is not wide enough. It's too straight, too monotonous."

A major trucking firm has told its 100 drivers to stay off the highway. Two of its drivers were the road's first fatalities.

The firm will go back to using the slow, traffic-clogged roads which it abandoned for the six-lane expressway.

THEY GO SO FAST

"I was frightened when I saw drivers using the road," said Marples. "I have never before seen cars going so fast, and ignoring all traffic rules and regulations."

British motorists are accustomed to choked lanes and winding country roads.

In Parliament, Laborite Arthur Lewis has called for a formal expression of concern from the ministry of transport warning motorists of dangers they can expect in wide open driving.

The new highway has fulfilled its prime purpose. Travel time between London and the great industrial center of Birmingham is now two hours instead of four.

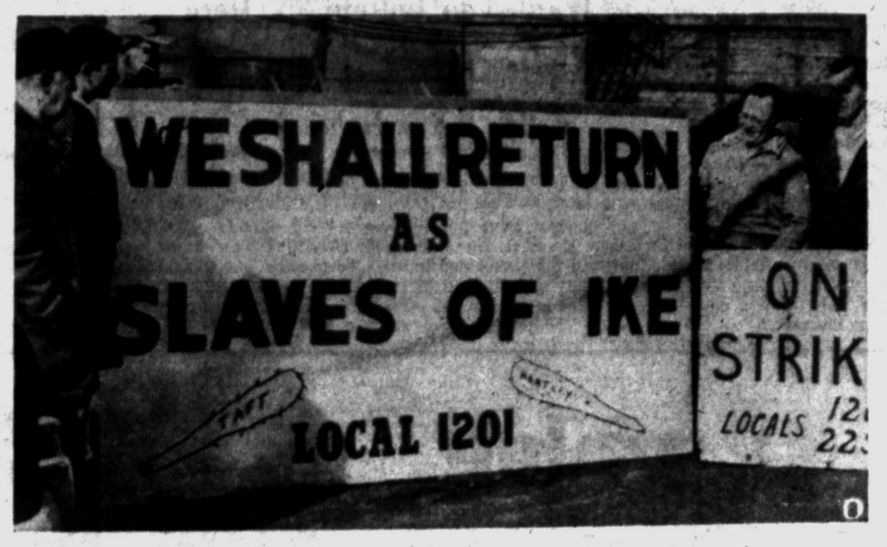

Officials hope it will be the first link in a nationwide highway system from the Scottish Highlands to the English Channel.

Faulty vision causes five per cent of all industrial accidents and 15 or more per cent of traffic accidents according to safety surveys.

Hustler Hustles Along at 1,260 Miles an Hour

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—An Air Force B58 Hustler bomber "recently" streaked from Seattle, Wash., to Fort Worth, a distance of 1,680 statute miles, in 80 minutes, it has been disclosed.

A spokesman for the Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp., which makes the Hustler in Fort Worth, said it averaged 21 miles a minute or 1,260 miles an hour.

The Hustler that made the flight is one named "Little Joe," which earlier flew 1,400 miles to California at 700 miles an hour, 500 feet above the ground to test the bomber's ability to avoid radar detection.

Move to Establish Chief Rabbi for U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—A movement has started to establish an office of chief rabbi of America to preside over the three million Orthodox Jews in this country.

Rabbi Joel H. Laks of New York said Tuesday 48 rabbis throughout the country are sponsoring the movement.

"It would be a means of resolving many of the present differences that harass Jewish life in America," Rabbi Laks said. The post has final authority in ruling on religious controversies for Jews who recognize the office.

7 Willow Run Airlines May Use Metropolitan

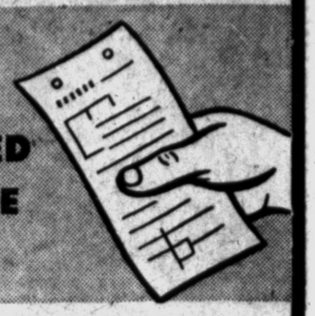

DETROIT (AP) — Seven airlines now using Willow Run Airport have promised decisions this month on whether they will use Detroit Metropolitan Airport instead.

The commitments are being sought by the Wayne County Road Commission which operates Metropolitan. Six airlines already have moved from Willow Run to Metropolitan.

The seven airlines presently considering the move are Capital, Lake Central, Eastern, North Central, Mohawk, United and TWA.

The commission plans an additional $15,300,000 in improvements at the newer, closer-to-Detroit Metropolitan Airport. They would include another new terminal with parking space for 32 aircraft.

TESTS CRANBERRIES — Milton Wilderman, a chemist for the Federal Food and Drug Administration, pours cranberries into a separator as part of tests to find out what portion of the crop is safe. Tests will show whether the berries contain traces of a chemical weed killer that caused thyroid cancer in rats. The FDA assigned 100 inspectors and about 60 chemists to determine how and to what degree the weed killer aminotriazole has been used on cranberries and other crops.

Blasts Federal Farm Controls

EAST LANSING (AP)— Michigan Farm Bureau delegates issued a final blast against all federal farm controls before winding up their 40th annual convention here yesterday.

They also took note of the current cranberry clamor by calling for a study of laws relating to chemicals used on crops.

A unanimously adopted resolution declared farm price supports would not solve farm surpluses.

"We affirm our desire to move as rapidly as possible toward the elimination of government controls over farm operations to allow the law of supply and demand to govern prices of farm products," the resolution declared.

The 700 delegates, representing some 70,000 farm families, also came out against federal aid to education and compulsory health insurance.

They adopted a resolution that federal law should ban strikes not approved by a majority of a union membership in secret ballot.

Avon Township Board Reverses Its Decision

AVON TOWNSHIP—Avon Township Park, which was to be closed because of vandalism will remain open.

That is the decision made by the Township Board last night after members learned that vandalism on the property has ceased since they voted to close the facility Jan. 1.

Supervisor Cyril E. Miller said the recent apprehension of a group of boys, ranging in age from 13 to 16, for the destructive acts which had occurred at the park apparently has brought an end to the problem.

He added that the special deputy who has been hired to patrol the property has been removed, and that after Dec. 1, the township will resume acceptance of reservations at the park.

Rochester police who apprehended the youthful offenders believed that they had done the damage just for something to do, with no malicious intent.

Investigating officers said the boys seemed to be unaware of the cost involved to replace smashed street lights, windows, window frames and other equipment.

No charges were preferred against the youths, Chief Samuel Howlett said.

Miller said a part of the township recreation fund could be used for the project. He added that township residents may be asked to approve millage each year to cover cost of the annual skating program.

The Board accepted a recommendation from the Oakland County Coordinating Committee setting lot and house size requirements in Section 4, an area between Dutton and Tienken roads, west of Livernois road.

The amendment sets the lot size at a minimum of 12,500 square feet with a minimum of 9 0feet at the building line. It further states that the house size will remain the same as in Residential classification.

Township Treasurer Helen V. Allen asked for extra help during the tax collection period. Her request was discussed during an executive session following the regular meeting. No decision was reached.

Hits Lack of Enforcement of U.S. Antitrust Laws

"Ineffectual" enforcement of antitrust laws are allowing the big corporation giants to crowd small business into a dark corner, George J. Burger charged yesterday in Pontiac.

The vice president and national legislative director of the National Federation of Independent Business spoke to Oakland County business and professional leaders at the Elks Temple.

Among those present were Mayor Philip E. Rowston, circuit judge-elect and County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem and Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County).

In effect, Burger said it would no longer be a "David and Goliath" battle if small businessmen, would keep up the fight seven days a week.

Industry already is under attack on two fronts by Burger's organization which boasts the largest membership (150,000) of any business group.

The 71-year-old leader stated that:

1. Retail outlet stores of big producers are exempt from paying excise tax until the goods are sold, while small independent businessmen must pay the tax upon acquisition of the commodity.

2. Industry sells its product to its own retail outlets at a cheaper price than it gives the independent business and is not required to disclose the prices.

"The small businessman can't compete with the producer's retail outlet when the price is kept secret," said Burger. "He's ruined before he starts."

At the federation's initiation, Congressman Alvin Bentley (R-Owosso) has authored an "Equal Price Bill" now before committees in the House and Senate, he said.

But, the greatest injustice, according to Burger, is that corporations in violation of antitrust laws simply are paying "insignificant" fines and going their own merry way, continuing monopoly practices and fixing prices.

CAN'T JAIL IT

"When the judge was asked if the fine was the best that could be done, he replied 'I can't send a corporation to jail.' "

"Officers of corporations should be removed from their positions when their corporation is found in violation of antitrust laws," he said. "When they find their jobs are in jeopardy, they will move a little more carefully," Burger said.

"All the problems of small business boil down to one thing," said Burger, "and that is the failure of the state and federal governments to enforce the antitrust laws.

The Pontiac chapter of the federation has some 300 members, while there are approximately 3,000 in Oakland County.

Corn Mark Set; Michigan Crop Yield Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's corn crop was estimated at 134,460,000 bushels today as the harvesttime report by the agriculture department forecast this year's crop on a national scale at a record 4,402,476,000 bushels.

The national figure is 26,678,000 bushels below last month's official forecast. It also compares with last year's crop of 3,799,844,000 bushels and with a 10-year (1948-57) average of 3,251,046,000 bushels.

Corn—60 bushels per acre and production 134,460,000 bushels.

Dry beans—1,150 pounds per acre and 6,164,000 hundredweight.

Sugar beets—16.5 tons per acre and 1,238,000 tons production.

Apples—12,000,000 bushels (production only).

Potatoes—120 hundredweight per acre and 840,000 hundredweight production.

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Civil service hearings in the case of suspended Fire Chief Clyde Schmidt have been adjourned to Dec. 2.

Six rebuttal witnesses were heard Tuesday night when the hearings resumed in the Township Hall. They supported Schmidt's contention that he had not done all the things he had been accused of doing by Township Supervisor Steve Skula.

Skula has charged the fire official with eight counts of inefficiency, insubordination, discourtesy and mismanagement. They stemmed from an investigation of the fire department made by township officials in September.

The Tuesday night session lasted for two hours, during which time Schmidt's attorney, John J. Goetz of Mount Clemens, put several rebuttal witnesses on the stand.

He said he had 14 in all to examine. The remainder will be questioned on Dec. 2, which, all participants hope, will conclude the hearings started early last month.

Dairy Surplus Lowest Since 1952; No Butter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department said today it had no surplus butter or nonfat dry milk and only about 13,650,000 pounds of cheese at the end of October.

These stocks are the lowest since 1952. The department said this would allow dairymen to move into the heavy production season without a big government surplus stock to depress their prices.

Price support purchases during October came to about 3,800,000 pounds of cheese and 17,700,000 pounds of nonfat dry milk. No butter was purchased in the price support program last month.

New Rochester Church Opens Doors Sunday

ROCHESTER — The climax to nine years of labor and planning will come Sunday when members of St. Paul's Methodist Church worship for the first time in their new church at 620 Romeo St.

After 40 years, the last service in the old colonial-styled building at 316 Walnut St. was held Sunday.

The new church is contemporary in design but with many traditional church architecture lines, according to the Rev. J. Douglas Parker, church pastor.

The edifice has 13 classrooms, as well as a music room, offices, parlor and chapel.

Among outstanding features are a new pipe organ, a 50-bell carillon, a total building communication system and a host of modern educational conveniences.

A community open house and organ recital is slated for Nov. 29, and the formal consecration of the edifice with Bishop Marshall Reed as officiant is set for Dec. 13.

Farm Asset Values Rise Six Pct. in Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The total assets of American farmers rose again this year, mostly because of rising land values, the Agriculture Department said today.

At midyear, the value of farm real estate was six per cent higher than it was one year earlier, the department said.

Laos Problems Said Concern of U.N.

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold said today "Laos is faced with problems which are the concern of the United Nations."

He declared these problems "are the first duty of the United Nations to solve."

Hammarskjold made the statement as he arrived aboard a special Laotian army plane from Bangkok. He said he planned to stay here a week "to gather knowledge as complete and independent as possible" on the situation in this troubled kingdom.

Laotian girls and about 100 townspeople bearing silver bowls of flowers—the Laotian "welcome in beauty"—greeted Hammarskjold.

Symington to Push 'Family Farmer' Bill

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) told a nationwide farm organization today he will introduce a six-point farm bill when Congress meets again in January.

The purpose of the bill, he told the National Grange, is to bring the "family-sized farmer" a return on his investment comparable to returns received in other segments of the economy.

He said his legislation would:

1. Give farmers and their organizations a greater voice in establishing agricultural programs.

2. Balance supply with demand by using unit as well as acreage controls.

3. Base price supports on production costs and modern technology.

4. Maintain long-term conservation programs.

5. Set up a food program to promote worldwide peace.

6. Create a new agency within the Agriculture Department to aid "the two million farm families of chronic low income."

"Since 1952," the senator told delegates to the Grange's 93rd annual convention, "while total national income has increased one-third, farm income has declined one-third." He added "the theory behind the farm policy of the present administration is that lower price supports will reduce production." And, he said, "we know that the program has been bad for the farmers, bad for the consumers and bad for the taxpayers."

Sex Skirts Iron Curtain but Weddings? Treason!

BERLIN (UPI) — He was a handsome West Berlin boy. She was a beautiful East Berlin girl.

So they married and lived happily ever after as fugitives from justice.

When the great powers divided this city after the last war they gave it a split personality in love as well as politics.

In the west half, under the Allies, life went on pretty much as before the war which is fairly free and easy by Puritan standards.

But in the Communist east half the divorce rate jumped 100 per cent and illegitimacy went up 50 per cent.

PLANS CHANGE

West Berlin boys were quick to detect that the bars were lower only a short local train ride away from the Kurfuerstendamm, the main drag of the Allied sector. But some who went to proposition also proposed, for love laughs at ideologies as well as locksmiths.

This raised the sort of problem that could arise only in so ludicrously serious a regime as East Germany. In order to stop the drain of manpower fleeing to the West (120,000 people a year) a law was passed inflicting sentences of up to three years for inciting Communists to defect.

The West Berlin boy who captures the heart of a girl on the wrong side of the line is regarded under this statute as any other agent provocatuer except that his lure is a home and a wedding ring instead of freedom and a job.

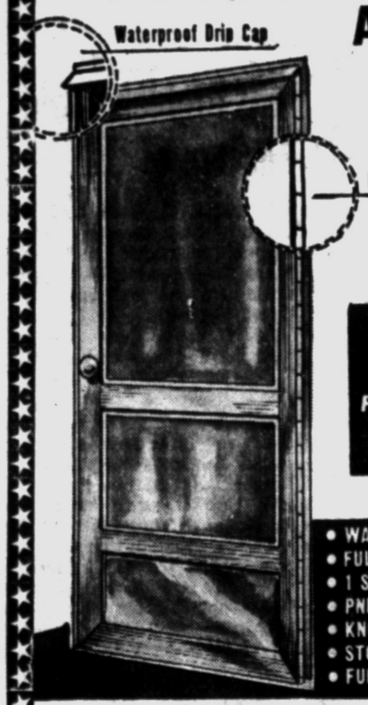

The girl is just as guilty for listening to wedding bells instead of the tiresome propaganda of the tireless East German orators.

Not that the favorite four-letter word of Communism — Marx — is all that one hears under the East German symbol of the hammer and compass. For people supposedly devoted to building a brand new order they seem to have a remarkable preoccupation with that three-letter word of the decadent West—sex.

They talk about it, write to newspapers about it, hold youth club discussions about it and, from the illegitimacy figures, obviously practice what they preach.

Working Hard in Spiritual Way on New Play

Mary Martin Is Like Christmas

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Mary Martin is something like Christmas.

She is special, spirited, spiritual. Once you know her, the adjectives in your mind become flowery, the verbs outrageously bouncy, and you simply cannot be objective on the subject.

Only Ethel Merman has been known to use restraint. Asked what she thinks of Miss Martin, Miss Merman said:

Miss Martin is about to return, for the first time in four years, to Broadway. The show is Rodgers & Hammerstein's "The Sound of Music," (opening Nov. 16) and since the advance box office sale is a record whopping 2½-million dollars, she is almost certain to be with us for at least two years.

"I love it — I love everything about it," Mary said backstage in Boston several days ago, communicating again that special warmth that doesn't need footlights to ignite it.

"I've been thinking about this show, thinking and talking about it, for three years. Do me a favor, will you?"

'COME TELL ME'

She blushed, a little embarrassed at her request. "If you like it, come back afterwards and tell me. If you don't, just don't say anything. I love it so, I can't bear to hear anybody say anything. . ."

Mary Martin's new musical drama is the story of the famous Trapp family.

She plays a young Catholic postulant who comes into the household of the austere Capt. Georg von Trapp as a governess to his seven children. It is a two-way love story, between Mary and the children, and later Mary and the captain.

"It's such a family unit, the whole show. There is so much happiness in the company, both backstage and onstage, that I think it gets over to the audience," Mary said.

"The children are fabulous. And the real Baroness von Trapp says that Theodore Bikel (who plays the captain) is the closest man she has ever seen to the real Georg. The music is lovely, and Oscar's lyrics have never been more beautiful, I think."

WHY THREE?

Mary was sitting in one of the three dressing rooms she maintained at Boston's Shubert Theater during the out-of-town run. Asked why she needed three dressing rooms, she said; "Well, I thought this show was going to be a cinch, after the strenuous parts in 'South Pacific' and 'Peter Pan'—but I was wrong.

"I have 14 changes of costume, and I'm in 18 scenes, and there have to be dressing rooms placed around the stage in appropriate places.

"So I don't fall and break my neck, I have an adorable young man named Tom who never leaves my side backstage. He meets me with a flashlight whenever I come off, and I go with him to the right dressing room, where there's someone else to be sure I get into the right dress."

RESTED IN BRAZIL

To prepare for her strenuous, potentially long Broadway run in "Sound of Music," Mary and her ever-present and equally-special husband Dick Halliday spent two months at their jungle home in Brazil. They call the remote acreage in South America "our insurance policy. Where we get our health and energies back. Where we forget the theater—and then remember it, and come back rarin' to go."

"We had heard from Janet Gaynor and (the late) Adrian about their home in the jungle, and though it was many, many miles from anywhere we went to have dinner with them. We just stayed that one night, but when we were leaving we said if you hear of any more land for sale, call us.

"A few months later, they called us. They had to fly 5,000 miles to the nearest phone, but they called us. We told them to buy as much as they could get for us."

Mary and Dick hired a native family to look after their property. In four years, it has increased to a staff of 35. "Every time we go down there are more little boys and girls—it's delightful," says Mary.

It was suggested that, by the time she finishes the long run in "Sound of Music," there may be hundreds more.

"Wouldn't that be wonderful?" said Mary gently. "I hope you are right."

Personnel Down; Pay Figures Up

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The federal government's civilian employment has dropped 3 per cent since the Korean War, but it's dollar payrolls are up 30 per cent, a congressional committee reported Wednesday.

Its explanation: Pay increases.

The summary was prepared by the Senate - House committee on non-essential federal expenditures. The group is headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, an outspoken economy advocate.

The committee's summary showed that employment of civilians by the federal government averaged 2,436,164 in the year which ended June 30, 1954 and the payroll was $4,865,000,000.

Employment averaged 2,352,242 in the year which ended June 30, the subcommittee said. But the smaller number of civilian employes cost the government $12,330,000,000—an increase of $2,877,000,000.

Holding Company Head Frank Belgrano Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank N. Belgrano Jr., president of the board of TransAmerica Corp., died Wednesday in a New York Hotel.

Belgrano, of San Francisco, was a past national commander of the American Legion. TransAmerica is a holding company controlling several large insurance firms and real estate developments.

The Black hills of South Dakota are reported to be the richest 100 square miles in the world, producing one-twelfth of the total gold output to be found in the U.S.

Governor Debating Senate Appointee

FARGO, N. D. (AP) — Gov. John E. Davis says he will not resign to get himself appointed as successor to Sen. William Langer (R-ND), who died Saturday night.

But the 46-year-old governor, a decorated World War II hero, remains the most likely choice for the Republican nomination in a special election to fill the vacancy.

A strong Republican buildup was shaping behind Milton Rue, Bismarck contractor and former GOP national committeeman, as an interim appointee by Davis to serve until the special election.

Davis said last night he will announce early next week what action he will take on the Senate vacancy. He added his early enthusiasm for a special election as early as January has waned, but that he has not discarded this as a possibility.

He left no doubt he is interested in the Senate seat himself. But if he gets it, he said, it will have to be by election.

Russian Scientist Claims Earth Has 'Comet Tail'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The earth wags a 62,000-mile tail.

This is the word from Russia by way of Hungary by way of the Commerce Department's office of technical services.

The tail, according to Hedervari, consists of air particles constantly being lost to space from the earth's atmosphere.

Hedervari, a member of the International Lunar Society, discussed the earth's tail in an article distributed here this week by the office of technical services.

Fesenkov, the article says, proved in recently completed studies that the earth loses about 11,000 tons of air each day.

This, says Hedervari, does not mean that we'll all soon be gasping for breath.

Since the earth's atmosphere is estimated to total 5,200,000,000,000 (5.2 trillion) tons, he says, "the amount lost daily is insignificantly small."

The lost air streams away from the earth like the tail of a comet. And like a comet's tail, according to the article, the earth's appendage always points away from the sun.

This is because of the repelling effect of the sun's radiant energy, which drives the lost air particles as wind drives smoke.

So, although the earth's atmosphere rotates along with the planet's solid body, the tail does not, according to Hedervari.

Presumably the earth's tail consists of nitrogen and oxygen atoms which somehow have acquired enough velocity to escape from the planet's gravitational field. Escape velocity is 25,000 miles an hour.

Literary Effort Can Mess Up Your Promotion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The "last minute literary spurt" can kill off a man's chances for promotion, officers and others who rate airmen for promotion at Lockbourne Air Force Base here have been warned.

Lt. Col. Robert D. Elliott, director of administrative services, referred to these examples from recommendations received in the last promotion cycle:

" . . . a divided asset to this organization."

" . . . definitely qualified beyond qualification."

" . . . the U.S. Air Force will be none the looser for it."

Women Outlive Men 6 Years in Britain

LONDON (UPI) — Today's women and female infants in Britain can expect to live six years longer than men, according to a government statistical report.

Based on the mortality rates for 1956, 1957 and 1958, the report said women can expect to live to the age of 73.53 and men to 67.85.

It noted also that 8,051 out of every 10,000 females born today could expect to reach the age of 65 but that only 6,811 out of 10,000 males would have this life expectancy.

Seek to Raise Water Level

Watkins Lake Group Wants to Know Cost of Pumping From Clinton

Residents of Watkins Lake in Waterford Township — concerned over the lowering of the lake level —have taken another step to do something about it.

Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry said his office has received a deposit of $600 from some residents to make an estimate of how much it would cost to raise the level to normal by pumping from the Clinton River only when it is at seasonal high levels, so as to not upset present flow of the river.

Barry said he'd probably have the cost estimate in two to three weeks.

Then, he said, it would require additional deposit to determine the assessment district to pay for the project.

After that, the commissioner went on, it would take a petition signed by at least two-thirds of the property owners abutting the lake, who must by law own at least two-thirds of the front footage of Watkins Lake, to get the project under way.

Then necessary funds based on the total cost estimate would be required.

Residents of the lake back in July submitted an application asking for the work to be done and setting up the assessment district.

Master Your Tensions

Try Escaping for Awhile

By George S. Stevenson, M.D. and Harry Milt

When things go wrong and tensions mount, don't stand there and suffer. Escape for awhile.

Act while you are still able to decide for yourself, instead of waiting for your emotions to make some wild decision for you. Remove yourself bodily from the scene of conflict. If you don't you may not only be tense but sorry.

Elaine, a timid, gentle person, found herself in court one day on a charge of striking a child. Almost prostrate with fright and embarrassment, she managed to get out her story. It had been "one of those days." She had been up all night with her own feverish youngsters. Then, struggling against exhaustion, worry and a blinding headache, she had pitched into her chores.

The washing machine broke down and she had to do every piece by hand, running back and forth meanwhile to tend her patients. Canvassers kept ringing her doorbell and people kept calling on the phone.

Just then the neighbor's boy decided to have some fun by ringing her bell and running away. After he had done this three or four times, Elaine grabbed him and thrashed him.

The judge understood and merely gave her a warning. But it took Elaine months to get over her feelings of guilt and degredation.

Elaine could have kept herself under control had she called a relative or friend and arranged to be relieved for awhile. Then she could have gone to a friend's house, the library or for a walk.

Will getting away settle the problem? Of course not. But you'll be amazed how it shrinks after you have left it awhile.

The thing to do is to watch for the first signs of irritation and tension and, if they don't let up, to take action.

TAKE A BREAK

Sometimes it isn't so simple to walk out on a situation. If you can't right away, await the first opportunity, or make an opportunity. If you're concerned lest you incur someone's displeasure, remember that criticism or even the loss of a day's pay may be less costly than the trouble you may cause if you stay. If you can't manage a few hours, then take an hour. Even a five minute break is better than nothing.

What do you do when your tension is caused not by exaggerated problems, but by real ones with very serious consequences — when the situation is really "impossible"? It is especially this kind of a situation that calls for an escape. Anyway, there actually is no such thing as an impossible situation. No matter how bad things are, there is always a way out. There may be losses from which it is difficult to recover, but they never mean "the end."

Escaping does not necessarily mean walking out.

Suppose you come home after a problem-filled day and can't get your worries out of your mind. Walking out won't help because your worries will walk with you.

The thing to do is to let your mind escape for awhile. Get hold of a book, or turn on your television. Or go to a movie. Lose yourself in an absorbing whodunit or love story. Let your fantasies carry you away.

If your mood has taken a brooding turn, seek out the company of other people. Visit the most lighthearted and jovial among your friends. Or visit an interesting person who can catch your attention and hold it. If you can't manage a visit, telephone.

ACTION, NOT REST

The situation may require more than a temporary escape. If practical, a change in scenery may be good for you.

But probably the most useless advice given tension-ridden people is: "Go away for a rest." For physical exhaustion this advice has value. But most often this is not the case, and it should always be remembered that the normal outlet for tension is action.

Escaping for awhile does not mean throwing up your hands and walking out on your problem.

Willie, a New York bus driver, did that. One morning, Willie and his bus turned up missing. Two days later he was spotted in Florida and arrested. Brought back, he told police he had started his 2,000-mile flight for freedom on impulse. Fed up with his job, hounded by loan sharks, he just wanted to get lost.

His employer refused to press charges and even put him back on the job, and Willie became a symbol.

But while he tried to get away from it all, he too had to come back and face it. Every day people try to escape by deserting their families, walking out on their jobs or taking to drink. The trouble is, these aren't escapes at all. Instead of solving problems, they create worse ones.

There is enough tension, nevertheless, in the average person's life to warrant a planned, periodic, brief escape. This is true for men and women with routine jobs as well as those with exciting, pressure-filled jobs. And it certainly is true for women who have to take care of households and children. Not many men have to put up with the nervous wear and tear to which some mothers are subjected.

This comment will probably arouse quite a bit of discussion in your household, and we hope it does.

RECREATION A MUST

Says he: "What does she do all day?"

Says she: "What a lark he has on the job."

If husband and wife would do some honest talking—and listening — both would soon realize how little appreciation each has for what the other is going through. And they might take action together.

It doesn't have to be complicated. It can be as simple as arranging for grandma to come in one day a week, so that mother can get relief during the day, and both father and mother can get away together at night.

We need relief not only from pressing problems but also from the monotony of existence, and from the repression of creative impulses. Our day-to-day lives should have built-in opportunities for temporary escape.

There is one word for this — recreation. A person who spends five or six days a week working with ideas, books or figures needs the kind of relief provided by such things as gardening and carpentry, or tennis or bowling. A person who does hard physical labor can open up for himself an entire new area of relaxation in such activities as painting, music or stamp collecting.

The choices are limitless, nor must the recreational activity necessarily be the opposite of what you do on your job. It may be similar, the difference being that as recreation, you do it because you want to, not because you have to.

Hobbies also make it possible for you to indulge in an activity you may once have wanted to make your full-time occupation, but couldn't for one reason or another.

Recreation is a must for people who tend to be tense. Yet it is they who are least apt to be getting it. They are generally too busy "getting ahead," "toeing the mark," or "sacrificing for others." If you are one of those people, it may be necessary for you to get your recreation as a "duty."

Get someone to schedule your recreation as you would schedule a business appointment, and have that someone push or pull you out to the golf course, concert, or whatever. Once you've done this a few times, the habit will become automatic, and you won't need your crutches.

Dems Sidetrack Kennedy's Help

Industrial Union Group Condemns All Senators Okaying Griffin Law

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A powerful union group sidetracked a resolution praising the role of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and five other Democrats in the fight over the new labor reform law.

The outcome was seen as an attempt to keep a behind-the-scenes clash over Kennedy's actions from erupting into a floor fight Tuesday at the AFL-CIO Industrial Union Department Convention.

Opposition to the resolution was spearheaded by officials of the million-member machinists' union. It favors condemnation of all congressmen — including Kennedy—who voted for the law on final passage.

Auto Workers President Walter Reuther and his backers wanted to hail the work of Kennedy and five others on the Senate-House conference committee who modified some of the more drastic provisions in the Landrum-Griffin bill.

"Our friends did not betray us," was the theme of one Reuther-inspired resolution. The resolutions committee bypassed that statement at the request of the machinists and voted instead to reaffirm the AFL-CIO's strong stand against the new law.

The five other congressmen were Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich), Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W Va) and Reps. Carl Perkins (D-Ky) and Frank Thompson Jr. (D-NJ).

New Pregnancy Test Is Highly Accurate

CHICAGO (UPI)—A highly accurate test for pregnancy that merely involves swallowing pills was described today by a medical specialist.

Dr. Harold A. Schwartz, former chief of obstetrics and gynecology at the Baroness Erlanger Hospital in Chattanooga, Tenn., said the test is more accurate than the rabbit, frog or other animal tests used extensively for the last 25 years.

The test, he said, proved 100 per cent accurate on 66 patients, 30 pregnant and 36 nonpregnant.

The Ozark Mountains at no point rise above 2,000 feet elevation.

Medical Relief Agency Badly in Need of Funds

DETROIT (UPI)—The director of World Medical Relief, an agency which distributes surplus medical supplies to clinics and missions in underdeveloped lands throughout the world, said Tuesday the program will have to be cut drastically unless it receives additional money.

Mrs. Irene Auberlin said the organization had less than $880 in cash on hand today to meet its five-person payroll and pay warehouse rent and utility bills.

She said a truck driver and two craters would have to be laid off Nov. 20 unless additional money is obtained. She said the organization needs $2,000 immediately to continue its program without a cutback until Jan. 1, when it will receive the first half of a yearly $12,000 check from Catholic Relief Services.

Voters Approve Bond for Saginaw Area School

SAGINAW (UPI) — Voters in the Bridgeport-Spaulding school district south of here have overwhelmingly approved a $2,225,000 bond issue for a new high school to serve the two townships.

School board members said a new high school for the townships will be a necessity by 1962 because Saginaw has ceased accepting tuition students from Bridgeport and Spaulding townships and the other area school, Frankenmuth, is becoming overcrowded.

"PAT 'EM ON THE BACK"

November 9th to 15th

Youth is not all rock and roll. Our junior citizens have sound ambitions and serious thoughts. Credit them where credit is due during Youth Appreciation Week.

Take the time to spend an evening with your children during Youth Appreciation Week. Show your children that family participation and respect for youthful accomplishments are a part of your code of living. Soon this feeling of mutual respect and affection will spread throughout the other 51 weeks of the year.

Teen-ager-juvenile delinquent. Are these terms synonymous in your mind? Check over the facts. See for yourself that 95% of our teen-agers are good citizens. Give them a pat on the back.

Only 5% of our youth are delinquent, yet an entire generation has been labeled by the actions of a few. Can you imagine an entire profession being condemned because a few in the ranks fail to live up to adult society's accepted standards. Let's reconsider our young people . . . give them a pat on the back.

DELAFIELD, Wis. (AP) — A moving van that had rested on the bottom of Lake Nagawicka for 38 years was reclaimed by Ray Saleutine, a garage operator.

Salentine used a winch an cable to pull the 1912 Packard truck out of 35 feet of water. The vehicle, empty when found, was badly corroded, but Salentine hopes to restore it and add it to his collection of antique cars.

Lawmakers to Ask About Mortgages

LANSING (AP) — An investigation of the practice of charging discount points in the home financing of mortgages and land contracts will be asked by two lawmakers.

Reps. William A. Romano (D-Warren) and Harvey J. Beadle (D-Detroit) said they will file a resolution for a three-man legislative probe.

"Legally, the home seller is required to pay the discount points in the sale transaction of a home," Romano said. "In practice, however, it is the buyer who actually pays for the points which are usually piled on top of the sales price, the commission to the seller and the interest."

Romano said the investigation would focus primarily on whether or not constitutional requirements on usury are being evaded.

Bid for Detroit Water Gains

Motor City Board Has Begun Conversion to Metropolitan System

Oakland County's bid to buy water from Detroit was strengthened today when the Detroit Board of Water Commissioners took initial steps to convert the city's waterworks into a metropolitan system.

On the recommendation of Gerald J. Remus, water department superintendent, the four-member commission voted:

1. To request supervisors of Oakland, Wayne and Macomb Counties to send representatives to weekly meetings of the commission as honorary commissioners.

2. To ask city voters at a primary election in 1960 to amend the city charter so tri-county representatives could become members of the commission.

City voters rejected a proposal which would have placed three more persons on the water commission a year ago.

The two steps were requested by a special Oakland-Macomb committee negotiating for the purchase of Detroit water to supplement dwindling ground supplies.

Oakland officials have favored a Detroit plan over one proposed by the Southeastern Michigan Water Authority, which has proposed to pipe in a Lake Huron supply.

R. J. Alexander, newly appointed Department of Public Works director and chairman of the special three-member Oakland water committee, said contract provisions between Oakland, Wayne Counties and Detroit would probably be drawn up by next month.

South, East Worried Over Water Scarcity

(Water Problem III: South and Eastern Seaboard. Last of three articles on the national water problems.)

By PAUL SIMMONS

ATLANTA (AP) — The South, with heavy but capricious rainfall, has water problems in both traditional and modern patterns. Aggravating each are new demands for constant, dependable water supplies as new industries move in and old cities spread out.

Northward along the Eastern seaboard, there are few problems today but the threat of future shortages as populations boom in the dense belt of coastal cities from Delaware to Connecticut.

The traditional troubles in the South range from lowland floods in spring to blistering drought in late summer. Among new worries are a dangerously threatening drop in underground water level at a few inland locations and salt water seepage in fresh water supplies of some seaside cities, a problem which also occurs at some spots farther north.

Southern summer drought can bring mental torture as well as heavy economic loss. In 1954, after a third straight crop failure, a Georgia farmer killed himself. Crop losses that year in Southeastern states ran in the hundreds of million dollars.

NO RAIN IN '54

No rain fell for weeks. Chickens dropped dead of heat. Corn died in the tassel. Streams dried up or fell to unbelievably low levels. Wells went dry. Many communities faced the specter of a water famine.

U.S. Geological Survey engineer M. T. Thomsom says the hardship and damage need not have been so severe. He emphasizes that the over-all problem for the South is not one of water shortage, since annual rainfall averages nearly 50 inches. It is a matter of will and know-how to control, conserve and use the ample total supply.

The south has made progress in this direction and can point to a great array of public and private dams patterned after those of the Tennessee Valley Authority providing power, water supplies, flood control and recreation.

The problem for water conservationists is public apathy during periods of good rainfall. Everybody is enthusiastic about plans for a new reservoir during a drought, but when the emergency passes so does the enthusiasm.

Another hazard to community water supplies in some spots along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts is salt water seepage into fresh water wells when consumption surges to high levels. J. T. Callahan of the Geological Survey's ground water branch says this can be overcome with artesian wells or supplies from uncontaminated areas nearby.

He says artesian water, accumulated over the ages and beyond the reach of any drought, is available in abundance in the coastal plain areas, which take in most of Florida and sizable strips of other states.

IRRIGATION IS PROBLEM

Only in a few places inland, reports Callahan, has the Southern water table shown any sign of dropping sharply and permanently as it has in some other parts of the nation. Among these danger spots are rice growing districts in Arkansas and Louisiana where there has been excessive pumping for irrigation.

Water problems north along the Eastern seaboard into New England are mainly those of making best use of water that is really available for most communities.

One of the most complex problems along the seaboard is the division of the Delaware River basin's water among the states of Pennsylvania, Delaware, New York and New Jersey. The waters of the basin serve 21½ million — ⅛ of the U.S. popuation — and the heaviest concentration of industry in the nation.

After a two-year study, a group of Syracuse University political scientists reported the basin has sufficient water for at least the next 20 years. But the researchers made a strong pitch for a basin-wide agency—with the backing of the federal government — to administer a comprehensive program for storage and orderly division.

The Army Corps of Engineers recently unveiled a proposal for 17 major water storage projects in the Delaware watershed, first fruit of a two-million-dollar study authorized by Congress and due for completion next year. The finished study is expected to contain recommendations that will solve the Delaware basin's water problems up to the year 2010. No price tag has yet been set.

Warns Panama to Calm Down

U.S. Probing Charges Local Police Ordered Out of Demonstrations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has told Panama to stop trying to pick a fight.

The U. S. government is also trying to find out whether it is true that Panamanian police were ordered to stay away from the American Embassy when demonstrations were being made there Nov. 3 and 4.

The U. S. statement, given Tuesday to the Panamanian charge d'affaires, Arturo Morgan-Morales, said Panama should end "inflammatory public allegations" arising out of the demonstrations.

The State Department said mob action and particularly desecration of the American flag at the embassy "transcended the norms of courtesy habitually existing between countries which maintain friendly relations."

Panamanian extremists have been agitating for taking over the canal, which is operated by the United States in the Canal Zone it has rented "in perpetuity" from Panama.

Water Hookup Plan Is Sought

Willman Asks Study so City System Will Be Ready for Change

City Manager Walter K. Willman has called upon consulting engineers for an up-to-date plan to hook the city's water system into an outside source.

The move is in anticipation that the city, along with most of Oakland and Macomb counties, will soon sign up with Detroit for water.

"It's virtually certain Pontiac will be getting its water from some outside agency," Willman said. "We should be prepared to distribute the water whenever it reaches our city limits."

The manager has conferred with the consulting firm of Jones, Henry and Williams and asked for an expansion of its 1955 study on Pontiac's water supply.

Currently, water enters the mains at a number of independent wells.

The problem is to revamp the distribution system so that it could handle water from a single source, Willman said.

The Detroit Board of Water is currently in negotiations with the Southeastern Michigan Water Authority for water contracts. Willman recently was appointed by the authority to serve on a three-member negotiating committee.

The water board has proposed building a 54-inch pipeline to Pontiac's eastern city limits. The line would also serve communities in eastern Oakland County and western Macomb county.

Willman believed Jones, Henry and Williams would have a tentative plan ready for presentation to the City Commission in aboout two months.

It has been estimated that the cost of revising the distribution system plus construction of necessary storage and pumping facilities would be around $4,000,000.

If improvements are made, it is planned they will be financed through revenue bonds based on a small increase in water rates.

Calls Chemical War Perilous

Scientist Claims Foe Could Enslave Nations by Deafness, Paralysis

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation must be ready for a type of chemical warfare that could stun or incapacitate troops and civilians without killing them, an Army scientist said Wednesday.

He said this would permit a would-be conqueror to subdue the people until he had captured their territory—but without destroying their ability to work for him later as prisoners.

Lt. Col. Douglas Lindsey, director of medical research at the Army Chemical Center, near Ft. Meade, Md., told about this possibility in an address prepared for the Assn. of Military Surgeons of the United States.

He indicated that the United States possesses — and assumes the Soviet Union does also—the unidentified chemicals that might be needed. These would have capabilities of temporarily causing such things as a form of blindness, impairment of hearing, paralysis, rigidity, tremors, convulsions, or other ailments.

He said there also are psychochemicals capable of producing a temporary condition of insanity or inducing hallucinations, or tranquilizing a foe.

The United States has an effective antidote for at least one type of temporary incapacitation, Lindsey said, and is carrying on considerable research in the whole field of chemical warfare and its countermeasures.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four major airlines have presented federal agencies a plan of reduced tariffs for government overseas traffic to enable them to take over some of the Military Air Transport Service traffic.

The airlines — Pan American World Airways, Northwest Airlines, Seaboard and Western Airlines and Trans World Airlines — said the proposal was submitted following Defense Department requests for increased long-range cargo airlift capacity.

1st-Class Letter May Cost Nickel or More in 1960

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — It may cost you a nickel or more to mail a first-class letter in the United States next year, a top Post Office Department official said Wednesday.

Hyde Gillette, assistant postmaster general in the department's bureau of finance, said Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield will ask for another rate increase when Congress reconvenes in January.

He hinted that Summerfield, turned down last year in his request for a five-cent first class rate, would ask for an even higher rate in January.

Gillette said the Post Office Department ran $650,000 into the red this year. That, he said, is what the taxpayers will have to pay in addition to revenue derived from postal services and stamp sales.

"There's no two ways about it," he said. "We will have to get a rate increase or else we'll sink

Senate Aging Talks Due in Grand Rapids

WASHINGTON (AP)— Problems of Michigan's 600,000 older citizens will be discussed at a two-day Senate hearing next week in Grand Rapids.

Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich), chairman of the Senate subcommittee on problems of the aged and aging, is scheduled to preside at the hearing set for Monday and Tuesday in the public museum auditorium.

A subcommittee announcement said Grand Rapids Mayor Stanley Davis would head a long list of Michigan witnesses from the fields of health, public welfare, labor and industry.

The hearing will include two "town hall" sessions, designed to give interested older persons a chance to testify directly and discuss their problems with McNamara or the subcommittee staff. The subcommittee has scheduled other hearings on the same problems for Detroit on Dec. 10-11.

What About the Bright One?

Dull Child Gets Attention

(Last in a series on special education in Michigan.)

By NORMA GAUHN

DETROIT (UP) — When Johnny can't or won't read, how much should we spend trying to teach him?

It's a question that arises in the field of special education, which tries to solve the problems of retarded, bright and physically and emotionally handicapped children.

A survey on what is offered in Michigan for the retarded and exceptional child found a growing program for the retarded but with much yet to be done. It's up to individual school districts to provide advance classes for bright kids.

The state reinmburses school districts for special education of the retarded, and a number of counties also have earmarked millage increases for the purpose.

But general education needs money too. How are available funds to be divided?

MANY PROBLEMS

On emotional grounds alone, it's hard to say no to youngsters on the short end of learning in conventional classes through no fault of their own.

But educators themselves raise the question of whether there should be a ceiling on the budget. They don't propose to answer pointblank — but they point out the problem.

Esther Middlewood, head of state mental health education, notes half day classes in regular schools, the lack of special texts for brilliant children, shortages in laboratory equipment.

She notes people may wonder how big an investment can be made in the mentally retarded, who can never have a matching earning capacity.

As for youngsters in the genius or near-genius group, the average citizen may figure they have no need of special facilities — "If they're so smart, they'll get along all right."

But enlightened educators feel the alternatives are far too costly —children who could be helped forced into state institutions, bright youngsters disrupting the community for lack of an outlet for ability.

That's the view of Taylor Township school Supt. Orville Jones, who has promoted special education in the Detroit suburb despite a lack of big tax-paying industries to help foot the bill.

Jones says, "Parents of the retarded pay as much in taxes as parents of normal youngsters. They have a right to an education for their children."

Under director Edward Divine, special education in Taylor Township has advanced within the past five years to where it compares favorably with older, outstanding programs in Lansing, Dearborn, Detroit and East Detroit.

Such programs offer both special classes for children of subnormal mentality and individual lesson plans and counseling for youngsters considered as borderline cases. At the high school level, there is a start in a few cities of on-the-job training for retarded young people.

PERSONNEL NEEDED

But Divine says effective programs face three major problems. One — the shortage of trained personnel — is constant and virtually insoluble.

The other two problems are parents and teachers.

"Parents are reluctant to accept the fact they have a mentally retarded child," Divine says. "They feel it reflects back on them and it can sour a whole family."

But once the need is felt and accepted, he says, the pressure is off at home and the retarded child has a good start in the special school program.

Divine says teachers can hamper the program because they may be anxious to get rid of a problem child by dumping him in a special class whether he is actually retarded or not.

"We are extremely careful before we put a child in special education," Divine says. "In some cases it may take a year of testing and evaluation by teachers, psychologists, the visiting nurse and school superintendent.

"The emotionally disturbed child may function as retarded and vice versa. We don't want to make mistakes."

Divine sees special classes for the retarded winning generally good acceptance wherever they're in effect. His school system is turning its attention next to a study of what can be done for exceptionally smart children.

Divine sees the post-Sputnik emphasis on education as a fine thing for his program in all ways. He said, "This may be the year for the dawn."

Army Reshuffles Berlin Command

BERLIN (UPI) — The United States Army has taken advantage of the Berlin breathing spell to change its Berlin commandant.

Maj. Gen. Barksdale Hamlett had been scheduled for reassignment at the height of the Berlin crisis last May. But the Army did not want to change command at that time.

Hamlett stayed on because the Army considered his knowledge and experience here too valuable to lose at a time when the city was threatened by the Soviet demand the Western Allies get out.

Now that pressure on the city has relaxed for the time being, Hamlett is getting his long overdue reassignment.

The Army announced yesterday Hamlett will leave Berlin Dec. 15 for a top Pentagon post. He will be replaced by Maj. Gen. Ralph M. Osborne, a veteran negotiator with the Communists.

Fraternity Ousts Seven Members

Chapter Is Suspended Indefinitely Over Paint Hazing Incident

EAST LANSING (AP) — Seven Michigan State University students have been expelled from the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity for the abduction and paint-daubing of two freshmen pledges from Detroit.

The hazing incident had led the University's inter-frafernity council to suspend Zeta Beta Tau's charter for an indefinite period.

Marvin Liberman, a trustee of the MSU chapter of the national fraternity announced the expulsions yesterday. He said the trustees were "horrified" at the incident and expressed hope the charter would be reinstated.

A spokesman for the men's division of student affairs also indicated that university action might be taken against the students.

Two 18-year-old pledges, Michael Kukes and Martin B. Schutzer, said they were seized by fraternity members near the campus Saturday. They reported they were bound with tape, doused with paints and shellac, and dumped beside a country road in near freezing weather.

East Lansing police said the seven expelled fraternity members admitted the hazing.

Liberman identified them as Robert Appel and Irwin Elson, both of Detroit; Jack Kerner, Flint; Lloyd Wexler and Clifford Kleinbaum, both of New York City; Lawrence Milman, Long Beach, N.Y.; and Lawrence Ginsberg, Baltimore, Md.

U.S. and India Agree on Small Tax Rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has signed a treaty with India which would exempt American investors from paying any taxes on part of the income they earn in India.

The treaty, subject to ratification by the U.S. Senate and the Indian Congress, is designed to spur American investment in India.

Its key provision would allow U.S. businessmen to receive credit against U.S. taxes on a portion of income from operations in India, even though the Indian government exempts the same income from taxes.

STUMPS FOR TAXES — Gov. G. Mennen Williams spoke to 200 at Western Michigan University yesterday on his whirlwind, three-day tour of the state to gather support for a 110 million dollar tax plan, which he deems necessary. Republicans have accused him of spreading fear and say that his real purpose is to drum up backing for a state income tax. Seated beside the governor is Supt. of Public Instruction Dr. Lynn Bartlett.

Cranberry Fears Aids Firm

State Cherry Sauce Gains

TRAVERSE CITY (UPI)—Cherry Growers, Inc., has tripled its production of cherry sauce today in the wake of the cranberry scare.

Cherry Growers General Manager Wynn D. Klozbach said, "We are not trying to capitalize on the cranberry growers' hard luck, but we could not stop the flood of business to our doors if we wanted to."

The Traverse City firm is the only producer in the country of cherry sauce, which is similar to cranberry sauce except for the basic ingredient.

Following the announcement earlier this week that some cranberry crops had been sprayed with a cancer-producing chemical, Klozbach said cherry growers began getting mounting orders.

"They want our cherry sauce at 10 times the rate we have been making it," he said. "We put on two extra shifts yesterday, and that's about the best we can do.

Mortgage-Bond Plan Criticized

Rep. Rains Says Swap of GI Contracts Is Bad Tax Money Giveaway

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Albert Rains (D-Ala) has denounced an Eisenhower administration plan to swap GI home mortgages for treasury bonds as "a giveaway of the taxpayers' money."

Rains, chairman of the House banking subcommittee on housing, told Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson in a letter yesterday that the "misguided" move could hurt the mortgage market and was contrary to congressional wishes.

The treasury offered Oct. 20 to exchange treasury bonds for $150,000,000 worth of GI home mortgages held by the Federal National Mortgage Assn. (FNMA).

The mortgages pay 4 per cent interest while the bonds pay only 2¼ per cent. The aim would be to reduce outlays by the mortgage agency.

Democratic critics in Congress have argued this would make mortgage money tighter in general. The Senate earlier this year voted 51-38 to oppose the proposed swap but the House did not act on the resolution.

Meanwhile, presidential assistant Don Paarlberg indicated the administration has no plans to ease the tight money pinch for home buyers.

Paarlberg said in a speech yesterday that the special "vulnerability" of home building to high interest rates was one of the "inescapable results" of the government's anti-inflation policy.

Navy Is Skeptical About Red A-Subs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Navy is more than skeptical about Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's reported claim that Russia has nuclear submarines twice as fast as the American models.

A Navy spokesman said today Khrushchev may have been talking about subs that haven't been built, haven't been completed, or haven't yet gone to sea. He said America has no evidence that Russia is operating an atom-powered sub.

Khrushchev's claim was reported in an interview with Maj. Salah Salem, former Egyptian minister of defense, published in the Cairo newspaper Al Gomhouria.

Cook the Hunter's Prize Well

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Your weary hunter comes home in triumph. He's had fun, he's tired, and he's produced a treat for the family.

Right now that treat might be pheasant. In a week it will be venison. Are you planning how you'll cook the prized meat?

We should like to remind all our readers that two excellent free bulletins on the cooking of game are available from the Co-operative Extension Service, 1260 West Boulevard, Pontiac. One, number 252, is called "Good Eating from Woods and Fields." The other, number 253, is entitled simply "Venison."

Let's talk about pheasant first. Since the season ended on Tuesday, you may still have a bird waiting to be cooked. You may have one in the freezer.

Because pheasant is apt to be dry if it is not basted during the cooking process, you will want to have some liquid in the pan. The following recipe calls for the unusual combination of beer and bouillon.

Roast Pheasant

1 to 3 pound young pheasant
Salt and pepper
1 bay leaf
3 celery tops
1 slice lemon
1 thick slice onion
4 bacon slices
½ cup beer
½ cup chicken bouillon

Sprinkle pheasant inside and out with salt and pepper. Place bay leaf, celery tops, lemon and onion slices in cavity. Tie legs; turn wings under. Place in roasting pan; cover with bacon strips.

Pour beer and bouillon over pheasant. Roast in moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 minutes per pound, basting frequently. Serve with wild rice. Yield: 4 servings.

Wild duck is good served with a sauce. An honest-to-goodness American combination would be duck with maple syrup sauce. The orange juice cuts the sweetness a bit.

Maple Syrup Sauce

⅓ cup 100 per cent pure maple syrup
2 tablespoons cornstarch
⅓ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon grated orange rind

Combine first four ingredients. Cook over low heat, stirring gently, until thickened and transparent (about 4 minutes). Add rest of ingredients. Pour over roasted duck just before serving or serve as an accompaniment.

Now we'll say your hunter comes home with a young deer. You can have a thick steak broiled just as you would a beef steak. Serve it with baked potatoes, tart jelly and a tossed salad.

Venison Steak

For a large steak, use a 2-inch thick cut from the leg of a young deer. Remove all fat. Pierce the meat at 2-inch intervals with a long, thin knife and push thin strips of chilled larding pork into the incisions. If desired, rub surface with cut clove of garlic.

Place steak in broiler pan and broil 3 inches below heat sauce, basting frequently with a generous amount of butter and turning once. Time required depends on doneness desired and thickness of cut. A 2-inch steak cooks to medium rare in 15 to 20 minutes.

Season with salt and pepper. Serve with baked potatoes, a green salad, tart jelly. Makes 4 servings.

If all the game you receive consists of a few squirrels, you can have a bowl of hearty Brunswick stew. This is an Early American favorite which in our mind is connected with movies about the Northwest Passage. Here's the recipe.

Brunswick Stew

3 squirrels, cut in serving pieces
3 quarts water
½ cup diced bacon
¼ teaspoon cayenne
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1 cup chopped onion
2 1-pound, 3-ounce cans tomatoes, drained
2 cups diced potatoes
2 cups lima beans, fresh or frozen
2 cups corn, fresh or frozen

Place squirrel pieces in a large kettle. Add water. Bring slowly to boil; reduce heat and simmer 1½ to 2 hours, or until squirrel is tender, skimming surface occasionally. Remove meat from bones and return to liquid.

Add bacon, cayenne, salt, pepper, onion, tomatoes, potatoes and lima beans. Cook 1 hour. Add corn and continue to cook 10 minutes. Spoon into soup plates and serve with corn bread and cole slaw. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Puff Mixture Encases Shrimp

Shrimp is one of the most versatile foods known to cooks around the world—in homes and restaurants. One proof of this is that there's a word for shrimp in almost every language. And as shrimp are high in protein, vitamins and minerals and low in calories and cholesterol, they are pretty nearly an ideal food.

Americans are showing how well they like these little shellfish by eating 200 million pounds of them in soups, appetizers, cocktails, salads, sandwiches and main dishes. It is in October that the shrimp catches reach their peak. Here's a new recipe, especially developed for this season—Shrimp Fiesta Puffs.

Shrimp Fiesta Puffs

1 cup water
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup flour
4 eggs, well beaten
Pinch cayenne
2 teaspoons paprika

Shell shrimp, leaving tail shells on. Butterfly shrimp by cutting deeply, but not all the way through, along backs of shrimp. Bring water and butter to boil in small saucepan. Add flour all at once, stirring vigorously until mixture leaves sides of pan. Remove from heat, and add eggs, beating until smooth. Stir in cayenne and paprika.

Dip shrimp in mixture and fry in deep hot fat (375 degrees), turning once, about 3 minutes, or until golden brown. Drain and serve immediately. Shrimp may be fried in advance; then reheated for 3 to 5 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees). Makes 3 servings.

If You Can Afford Steak Cook It With Great Care

Here are a few tips from the American Hotel Association for cooking steaks and chops. To get good color and flavor, use HIGH heat on both sides for a short period of time. If the steak is frozen, be sure to defrost slightly at low heat — then brown at high heat and finish at low heat. If you brush with seasoned oil, it gives flavor and a succulent brown color.

And ladies, if you must use a fork to turn the steak, stick the prongs in the fat along the edge. If the prongs are jabbed in the meat itself, precious juice escapes. Rather than a fork, use long tongs as chefs in the American hotels do.

Can of Mushrooms Makes Delicacies

Mushrooms With Pate

1 can (6 ounces) broiled whole mushrooms
1 can (3¾ ounces or ⅓ cup) truffled pate foie gras
Tiny parsley sprigs

Chill mushrooms and pate. Drain mushrooms; very gently (with your fingers) remove short stems from caps. Dry caps with a cloth; put a dab (about ¼ teaspoon) of pate in each cap cavity. Perch a sprig of parsley in center of each. Cover and chill until serving time. (Makes about 2½ dozen.)

Chop mushroom caps fine and mix with remaining pate; cover and chill; serve with small crisp crackers or a thinly sliced French flute (long narrow French bread).

Apples Will Help

Add one cup of freshly peeled and grated apples, tart and tangy, to each four cups of a bland, seasonal vegetable, such as mashed squash, sweet potatoes, rutabagas, or parsnips, to impart flavor and flair.

You Can Glaze Yams With Jam

"Jam Yams," yams glazed in a quick, easy way, are sweeping the country. They're simply Louisiana yams flavored with a variety of your favorite jams and jellies. The mildly sweet flavor of these golden yams is perfectly matched with the sweetly tart flavor of the jams and jellies, such as those made with apples, grapes, pineapple and oranges.

Whether you're preparing the Thanksgiving feast, an everyday meal, or for last-minute company, just reach for your favorite jam or jelly and prepare "Jam Yams."

Louisiana "Jam Yams"

4 medium-sized Louisiana yams

Cook yams, covered, in boiling salted water 30-35 minutes, or until yams are tender. Drain, peel yams. Cut yams in half. Serve yams topped with one of the following glazes:

CURRANT ALMOND GLAZE: Combine ¼ cup currant jelly and ¼ cup blanched almonds. Cook over low heat to boiling point, stirring frequently.

ORANGE GLAZE: Combine ¼ cup orange marmalade and 4 orange slices. Cook low heat to boiling point, stirring frequently.

GRAPE GLAZE: Combine ¼ cup grape jelly and 4 slices of lemon. Cook over low heat to boiling point, stirring frequently.

PINEAPPLE GLAZE: Combine ¼ cup pineapple preserves and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Cook over low heat to boiling point, stirring frequently.

APPLE GLAZE: Combine ⅓ cup apple jelly and ½ teaspoon cloves. Cook over low heat to boiling point, stirring frequently.

One-fourth to ½ teaspoon of salad dressing mix added to a baked potato with butter makes it extra tasty.

Cheese 'n' Onions Go in Sandwich

The ways to use cheese are endless, and you probably have your own favorite recipes. However, if you haven't tried cheese 'n' onion sandwiches, you've not only missed something good but passed up the opportunity at a real quickie meal. Here's how simple it is:

Top buttered slices of dark rye bread with alternate layers of cheddar cheese and sweet onions. Use mild, flavorful or robust cheddar and slice the cheese to the thickness you desire. The number of "layers" will, of course depend upon how hungry you and your family are.

Sprinkle each layer with salt and add a crispy lettuce leaf and mayonnaise if desired. Then top with another slice of buttered bread and serve with tall glasses of well-chilled milk.

YAMS IN APPLE SHELLS — Colorful and delicious are Yams Baked in Apple Shells for fall mealtimes. Serve with savory pork chops, stalks of celery, and a loaf of rye bread with butter.

Bake Apple Shells Stuffed With Yams

The fall atmosphere inspires the savory supper of yams and pork chops. These golden mellow yams, now in season, are mashed and enhanced with raisins, nuts, spices and chopped apple, and stuffed into crisp hallowed out apple shells for baking. Here is a meal your family will love. Not only is it flavorful and nutritious, this combination brings a welcome glow of color to your autumn table.

Years of research have greatly increased the Vitamin A in this southern yam which accounts for its deep golden, almost copper color. The stringiness usually associated with the sweet potato is not present in Louisiana yams. A moist, tender texture is one of the distinguishing features of this bayou vegetable, which makes it extra good tasting and easily digestible.

Yams Baked in Apple Shells

3 medium-sized green apples
4 medium-sized yams, cooked, peeled and mashed, or 1 can (1-pound) yams, drained and mashed ½ cup chopped walnuts
½ cup seedless raisins
Nutmeg
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Core apples and cut apples in half. Remove centers of apples leaving 1-3-inch shell. Chop centers. Add yams, walnuts and raisins to chopped apples; mix. Turn yam mixture into apple shells. Sprinkle with nutmeg.

Place in 9-inch square baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 1 hour, or until apples are tender. Pour butter or margarine on top. Serve with pork chops, as desired. Serves six.

Plantation Yams and Turkey

1 can (1-pound) yams
2 cups diced cooked turkey
2 medium-sized oranges, peeled and sliced
1 medium-sized onion, chopped
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Drain yams; reserve liquid. Slice yams. Combine yams, yam liquid and remaining ingredients; mix. Turn into greased 1½-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 40 minutes. Makes four servings.

Pork Continues to Hold Bargain Spotlight

Marketings from the big spring pig crop continue to be heavy for poor weather for field work is forcing farmers to bring the hogs to market. Almost all cuts are good values. Little change has occurred in the supply or price of other red meats although some stores are offering attractive features. Fryers have increased fractionally in price.

PORK: With a hog supply about 15 per cent above a year ago, cold weather and snow in the north and west last week prompted farmers to drive hogs to market. Pork prices have declined sharply and there are special prices on both fresh and smoked cuts in all markets.

Loin roasts and chops, Boston butt roasts and steaks, spareribs and bacon are all lower in price. Bacon is an unusually thrifty buy for this season. A few budget items such as neck bones, pig feet and pork liver are also being featured.

BEEF: The cattle market is basically unchanged but prices are being held down by the competition of the low pork prices. Demand for the chuck roasts is great but several markets are offering them at lower prices. The delectable standing rib roast is also a good buy this week and lower prices are anticipated in hind quarter cuts.

POULTRY: Although production of frying chickens is somewhat smaller, the prices in some markets are still extremely attractive and wholesales have again reached a depressed low. Fryer parts and whole birds are being featured. All turkey prices are up and Toms appear to be relatively scarce.

FISH: The fish catch is also much as it was a week ago with plentiful supplies of fresh lake perch and ample smelt. Prices on shrimp are down as much as 20-25 cents a pound because imports in the first 7 months of 1959 were 49 per cent more than a year earlier—more than offsetting the 5 per cent decline in the domestic catch. Whitefish and trout are scarce and high in price due to weather conditions which have delayed heavy freezing and use of winter fishing equipment.

EGGS AND DAIRY: Medium size eggs are still the better values by weight. Cottage cheese and a wide variety of the cheddar cheeses are being featured this week.

FRUITS: Heavy supplies of Michigan apples are available from a crop which is in unusually good quality this year. Inspectors report a larger number grading fancy instead of Number 1. Prices are still low though most of them are now coming from storage.

Banana importations continue to be unusually heavy for this season and costs per pound are low in most markets. Grapefruit prices also continue to edge downward as supplies arrive from large crops in both Florida and Texas. California is still shipping Valencia oranges and Florida shipments are large as the harvest of all varieties is expected to be heavier this year.

California navels are anticipated in 10 days to 2 weeks. Avocados are in good supply and reasonable in price.

VEGETABLES: Winter squash varieties and such root vegetables as rutabagas, parsnips and carrots still offer the lowest cost per serving in "cooking" vegetables. Volume shipments from overlapping producing areas coupled with damage by recent rains is causing low prices on head lettuce. But caution must be taken to find quality.

Michigan mushrooms are also in peak supply and offer an opportunity to plan tasty and economical menu variety. All potatoes are up slightly in price as many potatoes are still undug due to bad weather. It is the latest harvest in many years.

The first of the kiln-dried sweet potatoes are arriving and those prices may be fractionally higher —but the shelf-life is considerably improved. Brussels sprouts are also slightly higher in price as the season approaches its end and recent freezing weather has depleted the stocks of homegrown cabbage.

Cornstarch Does Job as Gravy Thickener

Turkey gravy thickened with corn starch has a smooth consistency and a translucent quality. To make corn starch gravy, pour the fat from the roasting pan into a cup.

For each cup of gravy desired, return 1 tablespoon fat to the roasting pan. Add 1 cup of water or stock for each tablespoon of fat and stir to loosen the browned juices from the pan.

Now for each cup of liquid added to the pan, blend 2 tablespoons corn starch with 2 tablespoons cold water and gradually stir the mixture into the hot liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until the gravy comes to a boil. Taste and season as desired.

DISCOVER THE DIFFERENCE WITH ROMAN BLEACH

MOLASSES BREAD — Women the country over like to enter yeast breads in county and state fairs. Molasses Bread, pictured here, has long been a favorite entry. You'll like the different taste the small amounts of cornmeal and molasses give this loaf.

Molasses Gives Bread Slightly Different Flavor

From pioneer times right on down to today, women of America have been proud of their bread baking skill. One hundred years ago women were getting together at county and state fairs to compete in bread baking contests, and to enter other foods — cakes, jellies, preserves. This past year saw more than 1,000 fairs going strong from coast to coast, with bread contests an important feature.

A simple recipe like this one for molasses bread, seemed to be a favorite with many women who entered their breads for competition. Its "slightly different" flavor idea is a cornmeal-molasses combination, and one that seems to be a big favorite with the men and children in the family — as well as with fair judges.

Molasses Bread

2¼ cups milk
2½ teaspoons salt
¼ cup shortening
¾ cup light, mild molasses
¼ cup warm, not hot, water
2 packages active dry yeast
1 egg, beaten
7 cups sifted enriched flour
1 cup yellow cornmeal

Scald milk, remove from heat. Add and stir in salt, shortening and molasses. Cool to lukewarm. Measure warm, not hot, water in a mixing bowl, sprinkle in active dry yeast. Add lukewarm milk mixture. Add egg. Sift together enriched flour with cornmeal.

Stir in half the flour mixture, beat until smooth. Add and stir in remaining flour mixture. Turn dough out on lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl and brush top lightly with shortening.

Cover and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours.

Punch down and divide in thirds. Shape into loaves and place in greased 9x5x3-inch pans. Cover and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake in a moderate oven at 375 degrees about 40 minutes.

Sixth High Fever Follies Opens Before Full House

To Repeat Benefit Tonight

By MARJORIE EICHER

A full house greeted players at the opening performance of High Fever Follies. The show will be repeated tonight at 8:30 at Pontiac Northern High School.

Proceeds from this sixth annual Follies will be used to purchase beds for the pediatrics department of the Pontiac General Hospital.

Especially noteworthy were the dramatic effects achieved in many of the scenes with the use of fluorescent lighting.

The opening scene was set on a space platform "two million miles to the left of Saturn." Much of the cast made its appearance on the colorful set at a reception for arriving VIPs from Earth.

First act highlights were two lost souls, Bonnie Davidson and Snuffy Smith, who discovered in song, dance and pantomime that they still had each other, though little else.

Mrs. Bert Anselmy's hula in the Miami Beach scene was excellent. Rhythmic and in good taste, it was backed by a chorus effect done entirely with arm movements. Here again, the changing lights enhanced the whole.

Mrs. John Nicolls delighted the audience with her spinster characterization in the catchy Bean Town: Boston number, as did Mrs. Donald Redmond, Mrs. Edward Dalton and Bessie Dawe in the scrub woman sequence.

Songs were catchy. The audience particularly enjoyed "You Can't Chop Your Mama Up in Massachusetts" from the Lizzie Borden number.

The charming backdrop in the Mississippi showboat number was one of the many scenic effects done by local people under the chairmanship of Mrs. Thomas Hollis and Joseph Cox. It was a fitting setting for one of the best coordinated chorus numbers in the show.

A very young chorus line zipped through the Indian number with admirable precision. The talent committee should be congratulated for pulling in such a broad range of ages and talents — all local.

Most hilarious part of the evening was the balloon-busted male chorus who must surely have dreamt something was slipping . . . All prominent Pontiac men, they obviously were enjoying themselves, and so was the audience.

One of the best numbers in the show was the television western which became confused with opera. Lynn Walker contributed another excellent characterization as Alfredo the gunman, and was well-supported by Margaret Harths as Brunhilde; Jerry Namowicz, the bartender and Dr. George Berberian, marshal.

Understated, and effective because of its simplicity, was one of the last numbers, "All About Autumn" with beautiful lighting and transparent umbrellas. Fred Fuller's rendition of "September Song" was memorable.

THE QUESTION

Everyone wants "The Best of Everything"—but everyone differs as to what it is. What's your idea of "THE BEST OF EVERYTHING"?

WHERE ASKED

THE ANSWERS

Caroline, just graduated from Radcliffe, played by Hope Lange: "I can't answer till I've tried everyting. If not the best, I'll sure as Satan have the most!"

Mike, Executive, played by Stephen Boyd: "Escape. In a bottle, or maybe with a girl, provided you don't get too involved."

Gregg, young actress, played by Suzy Parker: "To be part of the producer — that he'd as soon stop breathing as let me go!"

Barbara, secretary, played by Martha Hyer: "Just one man who'll understand that a divorcee isn't always on the make!"

April, secretary, played by Diane Baker: "A wedding — any kind, any place, just so long as it's quick and legal"

Mr. Shalimar, publisher, played by Brian Aherne: "To have the office cuties I've got, with after-hours dictation privileges."

Dexter, man-about town, played by Robert Evans: "Girls! Is there anything else?"

David Savage, producer, played by Louis Jourdan: "Anybody, to stimulate my creative urges. I'll give them everything short of myself."

Time to Do Homework?

When should your child do his homework? The answer to this question involves important needs of the boy or girl which should be considered.

For instance, children need freedom for active, outdoor play after being confined in school for hours. Study periods right after school are therefore not recommended. A good time for homework may be just before or soon after dinner.

Leaving the study until the last thing before going to bed is questionable. By that time, the child is weary from the day's activities. Besides, relaxation of the mind and body before retiring is as important for a sound sleep as a good mattress.

Sculptress Delights Town Hall

By RHEA E. VIETOR
Women's Editor
The Pontiac Press

The appearance of Fiore de Henriquez at the Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall Wednesday morning was not a performance, it was an upheaval.

The sculptress took possession of the stage the moment she entered and in minutes had completely won the large audience.

Wearing blue gabardine trousers and a loose shirt to match, with blue socks and brown oxfords, she strode onto the stage and began explaining in a powerful voice why she was late.

She explained her appearance first. "I haven't worn a skirt in years," she said. "Once I had a skirt 'built' and I looked positively terrible."

She went on to amuse her listeners by telling how her mother made her a blue velvet suit and stitched her into it the night she was to share a box with Princess Margaret at the ballet in London.

CLAY 'HUMAN, HUMBLE'

Turning serious, she said, "I want to tell you about clay very much. What a human, humble thing is clay . . . it is the heart of the earth."

During her talk, which covered everything from the subject of love — "Love is the only thing in the world that can make you accomplish anything" — to Winston Churchill, she walked back and forth on the stage, gesturing with her expressive hands.

Though her talk was punctuated with humor and a ready laugh, her purpose was serious and she managed to convey her very deep and sincere convictions about art and beauty.

"An artist is a slave to beauty and to people, but it is the most wonderful kind of slavery," she exclaimed.

She believes that today people are neglecting artists and said artists everywhere need love, understanding and help.

She gave an example of her work, by modeling a head of Mrs. Paul A. Kern, president of the Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall series.

She answered questions as she worked and sang a few snatches of Italian songs.

Her tremendous vitality was evident in the way she manipulated the heavy clay and her immense love of life and people could be felt back to the last row.

She explained that when she is doing a bust of someone, it is the first half hour that counts.

"You spend the rest of the time trying not to spoil what you captured in the first half hour," she said.

"The human face is the most beautiful thing on earth," she remarked. "Lots of people don't have faces — they are afraid to let their character show through."

WORKS 6 MONTHS

Miss de Henriquez works on commission for six months of the year, the rest of the time she works to please herself.

Usually that means sitting on a street corner and modeling various faces she sees.

She said she had made a bust of her mother, who is living with her in London, but "mother is very naughty. She gets up at night and smooths out the wrinkles in the clay."

There was a large crowd in spite of the dismal weather and Mrs. Cecil McCallum reports the last series ticket has been sold.

Dr. Roy J. Alexander, dean of students at MSUO, introduced the speaker.

Anyone who attended this second program in the new series Wednesday was most fortunate. Women who have the tremendous earthy vitality, love of life and humor that this noted sculptress displayed are rare.

LONG REMEMBERED

She will be remembered a long time by those lucky enough to see and talk to her.

About 190 attended the celebrity luncheon after the program at Pine Lake Country Club and were further amused and delighted by Miss de Henriquez' spontaneous humor.

Mrs. D. B. Eames was in charge of the luncheon.

Might Try Walking a New Puppy

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Because of my husband's job we moved into a completely strange town about five months ago. Since that time not even one neighbor has been over to visit us. I am terribly lonesome as we are several hundred miles from home and I don't know a soul here. Would it be improper for me to take the initiative and go and visit some of the neighbors, or might they consider me forward?"

Answer: It will really not be proper for you to visit these neighbors until they have called on you, or asked you to come to see them. You might get to know them by joining a church, working for charities or by taking part in other activities in which they are interested.

I have sometimes suggested to others with your problem, and not at all jokingly, that a beguiling puppy is an excellent way of getting people to talk to one.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My nephew was married five months ago. In the past I have always remembered him at Christmas by giving him a very nice present. This was always something for his own personal use.

"Now that he is married I would like to know if it is necessary to send his wife a present too. Would it be discourteous to send him a present and not her? I would appreciate your advice on this matter."

Answer: To avoid any possibility of hurt feelings, find something they would like to have for their house, and send it to them both.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it necessary to invite the wife of the officiating clergyman to a house wedding where the guest list is limited to the immediate families and fewest friends of the bride and groom? The ceremony will be followed by a buffet supper."

Answer: Under usual circumstances she is always included. But if the wedding is very small and she happens to be unknown to you, it would not be considered discourteous to invite the clergyman to remain alone after the ceremony.

They Produce It Themselves

Even the Blind Find Art Satisfying

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Once each week in this city, a dozen men and women gather for an art class which at first glance could be any adult education course in any town.

They talk art — its history, its techniques, its masters. They work art — sculpting in clay, etching, molding ceramics, painting in oils or water colors.

But nature has set this class apart. All members are visually handicapped; some are totally blind, some have only partial sight.

There is no self pity among the 12; only the desire to know and express beauty through touch and sound, now that the other sense is cut off.

RELIEVES MIND

"This takes things off the mind and puts them in the fingers," Edward Sadek, 70, told me one evening when I sat in with the class. Sadek is retired and is sculpting in clay the things he remembers before glaucoma struck.

The non-sectarian New York Guild for the Jewish Blind sponsors the unique art class as one of its more than 70 workshop and recreation courses. Some members are painting for the first time; others had art experience before they lost sight. All are amateurs, except Mrs. Minna Blau, 70, who for 35 years taught in the New York public school system.

But all get professional instruction from Yasha Lisenco, a sculptor on the staff of Columbia University Teachers' College; Abraham Danoff, an oil painter, and Joseph Jochnowitz, a ceramist. Volunteer workers help the students to gather their paints, crayons, papers and other materials.

Last year, the first year of the class, the "graduation" gift was a public exhibition of the students' works, and some of them repeating in this year's class happily reported some sales.

"Well, you know what they say about idle hands," said Earl White, a former railroad mechanic, who was molding a bust in clay. White helps earn his living by making leather accessories.

"I was not such a good tailor," he said gently. "Maybe I'll be a better artist."

DEVELOPS METHOD

From her experiments with materials, Mrs. Freda London, 60, a Bronx housewife totally blind, has developed a medium which other sightless now are using.

She places heavy art paper on a backing of resilient cork board. Working with various colors of ball point pens, she sketches landscapes. Large pins are used to mark centers of things and gauge distances, as they are used by those working in oils. Mrs. London can feel her art by turning the paper over; the ball point leaves a braillelike imprint. Adhesive strips mark each pen, so she can determine its color.

"This class has been a Godsend," said Mrs. London. "Before I went blind, I had done some sketching. I love nature . . . Flowers. The visions still are in my mind."

Mrs. Libby Day, a tiny, gray-haired woman who said "I'm 39 and a-half" when I asked her age, was having trouble with colors for a stream she was adding to a landscape in oils.

I asked Mrs. Day, who can distinguish colors, whether she had a family. "Lord, honey," she laughed, "I've been widowed so long I feel like an old maid."

Creativity is not confined to art with some of the blind. Sadek writes poetry. So does Mrs. Blau, whose views on life sum up pretty well the cheerfulness of the whole group.

"One view is closed,
"But others are more clear to see,
"And so, dear friends, the world
"Is still wide for me."

Enjoy Everything From Bird Watching to Rockets

Most Teen-Agers Keep Busy With Hobbies

By EUGENE GILBERT

In this day and age there are probably more organizations and agencies devoted to keeping young people busy in their spare time than at any other time in history.

The theory is that if you can keep them busy they will stay out of trouble.

But it's surprising to learn that most young people manage to keep busy on their own with no organized help or adult supervision—and of course most of them keep out of trouble.

Hobbies are still as popular as ever, and more than 70 per cent of the youngsters we interviewed in a cross country survey professed to having one or more.

The list of hobbies pursued by the 600 youngsters interviewed would include venerable pastimes like stamp collecting, bird watching and model making, and such offbeat items as cave explorations, canoe construction and, for the boys, cooking.

"And I don't mean backyard barbecuing either. I use a regular kitchen range whenever Mom lets me."

BOYS BETTER HOBBYISTS

In general, boys seemed to be more avid hobbyists than girls. Among the boys, 78 per cent said they had a regular hobby, compared with only 66 per cent of the girls.

How did they first get interested in their hobbies?

The answers were as varied as the hobbies: through friends, school, Scout work, "out of sheer boredom," from reading newspapers, from hero worship, even as one girl commented "as an escape from all those group activities . . . I want to do something by myself for a change."

Others said that their hobbies seem to run in the family, and judging from the answers to our next question will probably be handed down to the next generation.

The question that elicited this conclusion was: "Do you expect to keep up your hobby even after marriage?"

More than 90 per cent of the youngsters answered with a resounding yes.

"I grew up liking my hobby," said Bill Buchan, 19, of Dayton, Ohio, "and I expect to follow it forever."

Many youngsters, particularly those interested in art and music, intended to make a professional career out of their hobby.

"I began collecting butterflies at camp two seasons ago," commented a Chicago boy, "and now I expect to follow biology and entomology as majors in college."

Others felt that the need for a hobby would be even greater in the adult world.

Sandy Bisso, 15, of West Islip, N. Y., says she will stay with her hobby "to entertain myself and keep from cracking under the pressure of worries in married life."

OFFSETS DELINQUENCY

The minority who have no hobbies listed such reasons as "lack of time," school interests, laziness, too busy with boy or girl friends or, most frequently, that they just "never thought of it."

But most teen-agers (85 per cent), whether they had a hobby or not, were in favor of other youngsters having hobbies.

Asked if they noticed any new hobbies that seemed to be gaining in popularity among teen-agers, the youngsters cited sports cars, bowling, water skiing and skin diving.

"Boat building with those do-it-yourself kits is having a big vogue in our set right now," said a 15-year-old Baltimore sailor. "Last year it was skin diving."

A San Diego, Calif., lad said he noticed a sudden revival of the ancient art of "kite flying . . . maybe it's because of the interest in aviation and rocketry."

And, to be sure, quite a few youngsters listed rocket launching as one of the up and coming hobbies.

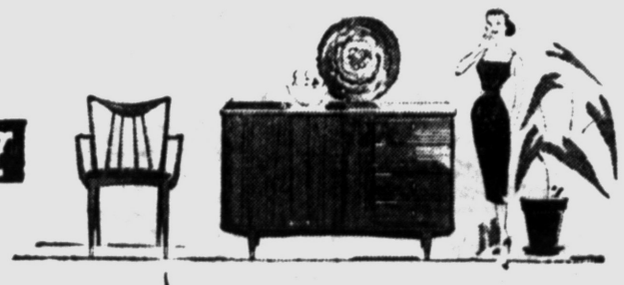

"We haven't got one off the ground yet," confided a Newark, N. J. scientist, aged 15, "but we expect to any month now."

Solo Eaters Have Problem

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I often have mentioned in this column the fact that many people who live alone and many older folks do not eat properly. Malnutrition is a real threat to them. It is easy to see why this is apt to be true.

In the first place there is not much incentive to preparing wonderful, full meals for yourself only. You constantly must remind yourself that you require the same food essentials you did when you lived with your family.

Actually a good meal, attractively served, provides a psychological lift for the person who lives alone. I know one woman who always reads as she eats her evening meal. I know another who eats by candlelight and listens to music. In any event you are endangering your health if you do not get a well-balanced diet.

The older person is likely to shortchange himself or herself on essential nourishment because of missing teeth which make it difficult to chew, or because of waning appetite or a small food budget. If it is possible, missing teeth should be replaced. If this is impossible, the baby foods are a great help. While they may not be so appetizing as other foods they do have the same elements of good nutrition.

The Institute of Home Economics of The United States Department of Agriculture is making a study of the diets of older folks who are drawing social security. It is feared that many in this group do not eat adequately. The survey is still incomeplete but some facts already have been gathered.

If you live alone, malnutrition is a real threat. You must constantly remind yourself that you require the same food essentials you did when you lived with your family.

It has been found that the older citizens spend only about two-thirds as much on food as average buyers. All those investigated were past 55 years of age, the average age being 72. The average age amount spent on food in this survey for a two-person family was $16.44 as compared to $24.83 for all other two-person households in the same territory. The average weekly food bill for those one-person homes in the survey was $8.27 while the average for other one-person homes was $12.35.

Of course older people do not need as much food as younger ones, they do not entertain as much usually, they do not eat away from home as often, they may not have as much appetite because of lessened physical activity and they do not have as much money to spend. However, it is believed that the study will show that one reason for the lower food bills is the fact that many older folks just do not take the trouble to prepare well-balanced diets.

MRS. WALTER J. BOZMAN

Lora Lynn Sparks Bride

Wearing a white velvet gown with a chapel train, Lora Lynn Sparks became the bride of Walter J. Bozman Saturday at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church.

The Rev. Thompson Marcero performed the rite before some 150 guests. Chrysanthemums and pompons banked the altar.

She is the daughter of Loren M. Sparks of South Paddock street and the late Mrs. Sparks. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Bozman of Highland Park.

A Sabrina neckline and three-quarter sleeves enhanced the bride's gown. She wore a Swedish crown with a fingertip veil and held an arrangement of anthericums.

Pati Govenis was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Raydith Sparks, the bride's sister, and Betty Apigian. The attendants were gowned alike in blue velvet street length dresses and carried Fugi chrysanthemums.

Frank Skoniecny of Detroit was best man. Ushers were Vincent Bozman of Highland Park, the bridegroom's brother; Russell Sparks of Woodbridge, Va., the bride's brother; and Dave Courtney of Royal Oak.

Mrs. Bozman wore a blue lace dress with matching hat and white orchid, carrying a black beaded clutch bag.

A wedding breakfast at Aunt Fanny's Restaurant followed the ceremony. After a reception held later at the bride's home, the couple left for a honeymoon in northern Michigan.

The new Mrs. Bozman was wearing a pale blue wool dress with matching accessories. The couple will reside in Ferndale.

Mr. Bozman attended Wayne State University. Mrs. Bozman is a member of Nu Phi Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

Parks Department Sets Family Night Sessions

Family Night again will be sponsored at the Wever School by the Pontiac Department of Parks and Recreation.

This was announced by Mrs. Keith Pawley, president, at the executive board meeting in the school Tuesday afternoon.

The first of these sessions will be Nov. 18 from 7 to 9 p.m. with the Owen and Hawthorne schools participating.

The five-week sessions will include gym for everyone, quiet activities, general arts and crafts, cake decorating, flower making and instruction in knitting, needlepoint and crocheting under Mrs. Oscar Norgren.

Proceeds from a cupcake and candy sale in conjunction with open house this afternoon will launch a fund for additional playground equipment.

Men's Hats Are Lighter, Brighter

More men are tipping cloth hats. The National Cap and Cloth Hat Institute reports that men are going for hats of cotton, wool, silk, madras, poplin, flannel and Dacron.

Watch Sleeves in Adolescence

Teen - agers can get through the stage of feeling gawky and long-armed by dressing carefully. During this period wear full sleeves for dress-up and select three-quarter length sleeves or sleeves halfway between the elbow and shoulder for casual wear.

Dear Abby Says 'Take the Bull by the Horns!'

Man, 73, Likes His Women Friends

By ABIGAL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am an old woman who is married to an old man with young ideas. He is 73 and has three women on the string. He was to a doctor and the doctor said he had the constitution of a horse. One of his sweethearts is the girl next door. She is 50 and has no brains.

ABBY

We have children and grandchildren and I am too old to start over. How old does a man have to get before he is too old to be wicked? I am tired of waiting for him to settle down.

OLD AND GRAY

DEAR O. AND G.: Eventually Father Time will blow the whistle on Mother Nature. When the doctor examines your husband again, ask him to include his head. If your husband is mentally as well as physically fit, then he obviously has a moral deficiency. Nothing straightens out an aging delinquent faster than the suggestion of "separate maintenance." Try it.

DEAR ABBY: I am at Fort Leonard Wood taking my basic training. As if that weren't bad enough, I have an aunt who keeps giving my address to strangers. She does this because she thinks I am lonely. I am NOT lonely. They get us up at 5 a.m. and by the end of the day I am so dead tired I have all I can do to get my shoes off and hit the sack. I know it's rude to ignore letters written by people who want to "cheer up" a serviceman. But, Abby, I don't even know these people and I haven't the time to correspond with them. How can I get my aunt to quit digging up "pen pals" for me without hurting her feelings?"

BEAT

DEAR BEAT: Where did you get the time to write to me? Dash off a "thank you" post card and tell them you'll write when you have more time. Save those addresses, Buster. You might find yourself on the Isle of NOTHINGSVILLE, and a letter will look awfully good to you.

DEAR ABBY: I went out with a guy last Saturday night. He is 18 and I am 16. My mother says she doesn't want me going out with him any more. She has never met him, but she says he can't be much good because she knows his family and they are no good.

When this guy took me out, he was very polite and didn't try any funny stuff. In fact, he acted a lot nicer than some boys I know who come from better families. My mother won't listen to me. She won't even meet this fellow. Don't you think she is being unfair to judge him by his family's reputation? STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: It IS unfair to judge a person on anything other than his own conduct and record. But no mother can be blamed for trying to keep her daughter away from a boy whose family has a bad reputation. With two strikes against him, this boy will have to work doubly hard to establish himself as a solid citizen. Go along with your mother's decision (prejudiced as it is) until the lad proves by his own achievements that a rose can bloom in an onion patch.

McDaniel - Herron Vows Spoken in Candlelight

Beverly Kay Herron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Herron of Dick avenue, became the bride of Robert McDaniel, son of Robert A. McDaniel of Marshall street, Saturday evening at First Presbyterian Church.

Vows were spoken before the Rev. Galen Hershey at a candlelight service before 150 guests.

White gladioli, chrysanthemums and palms decorated the sanctuary.

Vocal music was offered by Sharlene Groves.

The bride's floor length gown of chantilly lace over white satin was enhanced by a Sabrina neckline set with seed pearls and sequins, long sleeves and a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil was held by a pearl crown, and she carried white roses, carnations and lilies of the valley.

Following a reception at the Oakland avenue Amvets Hall, the bride changed to a red velvet dress with black accessories.

Medical Assistants to Start Member Drive

The Oakland County Medical Assistant's Society met Wednesday to begin its annual membership drive at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Nurses' Home.

A cooperative dinner will be sponsored by members for those interested in the society.

The group is composed of women employed by a member of the Oakland County Medical Society, as assistants, secretaries, or laboratory technicians.

It promotes honest, loyal and efficient service to doctors, to the profession and to society which they serve.

The society's board of directors has formulated programs for the coming year. The annual scholarship donated by the medical assistants has been approved for Highland Park Junior College.

Lectures by Dr. James Frygole and Dr. George Evseeff have been planned for 1960. The annual Christmas party is scheduled for Dec. 9.

Gifts are donated and wrapped by the members of the society to be sent to the Oakland County Infirmary. The annual Boss' Night will also be held.

November Group Meets for Dinner

The November Group of the First Presbyterian Church met at Villa Inn Wednesday for a dinner meeting. Officers installed were Mrs. Lester Carlson, chairman; Mrs. Clyde Herring, vice chairman; Mrs. John Abel, secretary; and Mrs. Lowell Armstrong, treasurer.

Mrs. L. V. Kline was welcomed as a member and Mrs. William DeRoo was a guest.

The group discussed a Christmas pageant to be presented for the church women's association.

Says Tests Support Expressway Safety

DETROIT (UPI) — State Highway Department officials said tests showed Wednesday that construction specifications are being fulfilled on the Chrysler Expressway.

Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said tests showed construction standards were "more than adequate" and no reconstruction will be required.

The tests were ordered after a former inspector, Alfred Gray, who quit his job, charged he had been ordered to change the results of tests on a retaining wall of the expressway.

His superior said the only changes made were to correct errors in arithmetic and that Gray apparently was disgruntled at being transferred off the expressway project.

Mackie said tests showed that although one section tested was "slightly below our specifications" it was "more than adequate for the job."

Why is it that a woman who can put a tiny thread through the eye of a needle has trouble getting a small car into a big garage? . . . A Texan is a guy who can smile while making out his income tax. —Earl Wilson.

Nixon for President Office Opens Today

CONCORD, N.H. (UP)—The nation's first full-time "Nixon for President" headquarters will be opened here today.

U. S. Republican Sens. Styles Bridges and Norris Cotton are expected to attend.

Stewart Lamprey, speaker of the New Hampshire House of Representatives, is serving as field director for the Nixon drive in this state, which will hold the nation's first 1960 presidential primary next March 8.

English Ford Anglia Will Cost $22 More

DETROIT (UP) — A $22 price increase of the imported English Ford Anglia has been announced by Ford Motor Co.

The completely restyled Anglia will carry a new suggested retail price of $1,583 at east coast ports of entry. The price is $329 less than the Falcon, Ford's new compact car.

Price of other English Ford imports will remain the same.

Castro Eyes Czechs for Jet Plane Order

LONDON (UP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro has assigned a Cuban air force captain to survey prospects of buying Soviet MIG jet fighters in Czechoslovakia, Cuban sources reported Wednesday night.

The informants said Capt. Victor Penza Coardozo was in Vienna early this week on his way to Prague.

They said Cardozo's mission was primarily to investigate the possibility of buying MIGs and he has no power to conclude any deal.

Britain and the United States have placed an embargo on arms sales to the Caribbean until tension eases in the area. Castro has declared he will look elsewhere for arms if he cannot get them from the United States and Britain.

Construction of Plant at Saginaw Starts Soon

SAGINAW (UPI) — Dr. Earl Warrick, who will head the proposed Dow-Corning plant west of Saginaw, said construction of the installation is scheduled to start shortly after the first of the year with completion by midsummer next year.

Warrick said initial employment of the plant will be about 40 persons. The plant will produce a "miracle metal" made of silicone.

'Rarest' Stamp Has African Dam Inverted

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (UP)—A New Brunswick, N.J., schoolboy has discovered what may be one of the world's rarest stamps.

Herman Herst Jr., a stamp expert, said the stamp was issued by the British African possessions of Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika. It bears a portrait of Queen Elizabeth II and Owen Falls Dam. The picture of the dam is inverted.

Herst said the stamp was issued in 1954, but no previous example of the dam inverted had been discovered.

The schoolboy found it on a letter and showed it to Vincent Labar, a stamp dealer of New Brunswick, who submitted it to Herst.

The boy was not identified.

Herst said the error occurred when the paper was reversed in the printing process.

A U. S. stamp showing an inverted airplane was once circulated after 100 copies had been printed. The last price at which one was sold was $6,125.

Says Americans to Spend Heavily Despite Ravages of Steel Walkout

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — The steel strike has not damaged the average American's willingness to spend money, 110 of the nation's top economists were told today.

Eva L. Mueller of the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center said in a speech prepared for the university's seventh annual Conference on Economic Outlook that the steel strike will not interfere with the rise in spending over the long run.

"The strike may well have created some uncertainty, but when the contract is really settled, a large majority of people will again see good times ahead and make spending decisions accordingly," she said.

"If anything, the upward trend in consumer spending will be stretched out by the steel strike and sustained over a longer period of time," Miss Mueller said.

"The combination of rising income and growing consumer optimism prior to the steel strike offers a basis for further expansion of consumer demand, once production is back to normal," she said.

Another university economist, Thomas G. Gies, said consumer spending for cars, refrigerators and other durable goods would reach record levels next year.

In a talk to the Michigan Consumer Finance Assn. meeting in Detroit today, Gies said his forecast was based on the advance in already high consumer incomes, and the university's Survey Research Center studies, which showed how more consumer confidence in the economy and satisfaction with prices now than at anytime in the past three years.

He cautioned, however, that this prediction was tied to the premise that there would be no more major work stoppages in the country.

Airline Will Inaugurate New Link to Chicago

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — North Central Air Lines announced today it will inaugurate round-trip flights between Grand Rapids and Chicago via Benton Harbor about Jan. 1.

Edward F. Strick, North Central manager here, said the airline authorized the new route on a temporary Civil Aeronautics Board order issued late last month.

Expect U.N. A-Test Protest

Move Asking France to Call Off Sahara Shot Seen Failing

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—The U.N. Political Committee was expected to approve an Asian-African resolution today asking France to call off plans to test fire her first atomic bomb in the Sahara Desert.

As the vote approached, the French made clear they will go ahead with the test despite criticism from the United Nations.

The ballot was expected late today after a final round of speeches on the Asian-African resolution and a rival proposal sponsored by Britain and Italy.

Jules Moch, veteran French disarmament negotiator, acknowledged during debate Wednesday that the Asian-African resolution would probably win. But he reiterated that his government was within its rights in holding the test.

Hollywood Headlines:

Tired, Blase Movie Folk Fall for French Couple

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The movie colony, not easily impressed, has fallen for the charms of a remarkable French pair, Simone Signoret and Yves Montand.

Last weekend they were feted at two big parties given by the Jules Steins — he is chief of the talent agency giant, MCA —and the Kir': Douglases. On Monday night, Montand opened his one-man show at the Huntington Hartford, with another big turnout of the glamor crowd. He already had drawn raves on Broadway for his singing, dancing and mimicry.

THOMAS

Signoret is an amply-proportioned blonde who looks much younger than she was portrayed in "Room at the Top," her most notable film. She speaks with disarming frankness in excellent English.

Montand looks like an advertising account executive—slim, ruggedly handsome, well-tailored. But when he speaks, the words come fast and impulsively and often have to be interpreted by his wife.

How do they manage two such successful and diverse careers and still stay happy?

"Perhaps it is because we have a continental attitude toward marriage," she volunteered. "Where he goes, I go. He is the boss. I have made only one picture in two years, so I can be with him all the time."

Would they like to make some Hollywood films?

"Yes, of course," she answered. "But the important thing is that we find something that is right for us. Fortunately, we do not have to grab whatever comes along. I don't have to work, because I have my husband to take care of me."

After playing a week here, he goes on to San Francisco and Montreal and does a special performance for the French Embassy in Washington. Then they head for home—one of their three in Paris, Normandy and the south of France. But they'll be back. Hollywood will see to that.

Fired After 30 Years as Chief of Schools

FLINT (UPI) — Mrs. Daisy Howard, county superintendent of schools 30 years, was fired Tuesday night by the Genesee County Board of Education. She was told to vacate her County Building office by Friday night.

The 5-0 vote at a closed meeting climaxed three years of wrangling between the superintendent and board members.

Mrs. Howard refused an offer to pay her $12,000 annual salary to next April 1 if she would submit her resignation. The alternative was summary dismissal.

The board refused Mrs. Howard's request to remain in her office until Saturday.

Mrs. Howard's contract runs to next June 30. She was permitted to confer by telephone with her attorney at times during the closed board meeting.

Some board members accused the superintendent of altering teacher reports, not keeping regular office hours and refusing to carry out board directives.

The timber in the Philippines covers an area roughly equivalent to that of the state of Nebraska.

Lucille Ball Is Angry at Marital Rift Gossip

She also denied reports that Desilu Productions, the 20-million dollar television and motion picture production firm, was up for sale. She and Arnaz own 49 per cent of the stock in the firm.

"I'm not too well informed about the business end of Desilu, but I do know that if the studio were going to be sold I would have been told about it.

"And I have been told no such thing," she said.

"As for these rumors that my marriage is breaking up—they are cruel and absolutely false."

Reports that Miss Ball and Arnaz were breaking up gained impetus this week when the board chairman of National Theaters and Television, Inc. announced that preliminary negotiations were under way for buying controlling stock in Desilu.

B. Gerald Cantor said a preliminary report on negotiations was expected to be presented today at an NT&T board meeting here. It was reported a firm price might come from the conference.

Desilu, which acquired Hollywood's old RKO studios, grossed nearly $20,500,000 in the last fiscal year.

Miss Ball said that "when there is a sale we will be the first to announce it."

"We have had many offers from many corporations in the past few years but we haven't considered any of them," she said. "We are a going concern and everybody wants to buy in.

"Let me say also that rumors our marriage is breaking up are untrue. Desi is in Europe on business, and when he returns to this country around Dec. 1 he will come home and live here with his family as he always has."

Crash Into Pole Fatal

DETROIT (UPI)—Frank J. Rhode, 56, of Detroit was killed today when the car in which he was a passenger crashed into a utility pole.

Dead Birds, Squirrels Due to Beetle Spray?

DETROIT (UPI) — A fight against invading Japanese beetles in the Detroit area has turned into a battle for the birds.

Agricultural authorities have found themselves in the middle of a scrap with bird lovers who contend that insecticide used by low-flying airplanes in dusting against the beetle is killing birds — and even squirrels.

Angry members of the Detroit Audubon Society yesterday blamed the bug-killer — aldrin— for dead birds found in their yards over the weekend. They demanded the spraying be halted.

Dr. Joseph G. Molner, city health commissioner, insisted the spraying had little to do with reported deaths of birds in beetle-hit areas of the lower West Side and Dearborn.

Teamsters Fear New Rulings

Will Not Urge Drivers to Respect Picket Lines and Refuse Deliveries

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Teamsters' spokesman said Wednesday the union has decided not to encourage its members to cross or not to cross picket lines because of legal doubts about the new labor reform law.

This policy could have wide repercussions in the labor movement because of the Teamsters' strategic role in shutting off deliveries that can either make or break another union's strike.

The spokesman said Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa has set no fixed policy on observance of picket lines. The international union has advised its regional and local bodies to check with attorneys before doing anything in this regard.

The new law, effective Nov. 13, sharply restricts the right of unions to picket for recognition or to conduct secondary boycotts against neutral third-party firms.

New curbs on "hot cargo" agreements—contracts providing an employer will not do business with another employer in trouble with a union—are expected to limit the Teamsters' operations.

However, the new law provides also that it is legal for any union member to refuse to cross a picket line where a primary strike is in progress.

The spokesman commented on reports that Teamsters Vice President John T. (Sandy) O'Brien ordered locals in the Chicago area to ignore all picket lines, even those of sister Teamster locals, until further notice.

State Doctors Choose Ann Arbor Physician

DETROIT (UP)— Dr. C. Howard Ross of Ann Arbor has been elected president of the Michigan Academy of General Practice.

He will succeed Dr. Howard Rees of Detroit next year. Dr. Ross was to be installed today as president for the coming year.

Other officers elected were Dr. E. Clarkson Long of Detroit, secretary; Dr. Lyle W. Korum of Detroit, treasurer; Drs. J. R. Dehlin of Gladstone and Fred C. Brace of Grand Rapids, directors; Dr. A. Carl Stander of Saginaw, speaker; Dr. John W. Rice of Jackson, national delegate, and Dr. Clark W. Royer of Battle Creek, alternate delegate.

Quiz Investigator Defends Ethics of His Article

WASHINGTON (AP) — An investigator for a House committee that exposed rigging of TV quiz shows said Wednesday he sees nothing improper in writing a magazine article about the inquiry and being paid for it.

The investigator, Richard N. Goodwin, declined to say how much he was paid by Life Magazine for his story of the inquiry.

"I refused to let them use the title 'The Inside Story,'" Goodwin said. "I did not want to give the impression that any special inside information was being made available . . . anybody who sat through the hearings could have put a similar story together."

He disagreed with criticism suggesting a similarity between a committee member using his special position for profit and quiz contestants being provided with special information to enable them to win.

Computer Will Diagnose

Push-Button Medicine On Way

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A small black box may some day enable your doctor to consult with the world's best medical minds and avoid many of the pitfalls that now lead to improper diagnosis and treatment.

The latest research, which now sifts down through scientific journals to doctors who sometimes are too busy to read them, will be at your physician's fingertips.

This Utopian world will come about through the use of the "black boxes" popularly known as electronic brains.

NEW USES

They now guide space rockets, automate factories and regulate traffic. Their ability to store tremendous amounts of information, analyze it and reach decisions may soon be put to work combating disease.

When this day comes, you will walk into your doctor's office and tell him your symptoms. He then will feed this information plus all that he knows about you — your case history—into a small, electronic data-coding machine.

This machine will relay the data to a giant central computer which in turn is linked to other computer centers all over the world. The compiled knowledge of the best medical minds on how to treat your case will flash to your doctor's office to guide him in restoring you to health.

A glimpse of this application of the wizardry of computers is contained in a paper read before the Operations Research Society meeting here this week. The authors, Robert S. Ledley and Lee B. Lusted of George Washington University, said computers will make the physician's task harder, not easier.

"He must learn how to communicate with the computer and how to evaluate the information obtained from it," they said.

Dr. William Karush of System Development Corp., Santa Monica, Calif., disclosed that his firm has been working on the project for more than a year in collaboration with doctors in the Veterans administration.

When will such a system be ready?

No one is ready to pin down the date. But Ledley and Lusted said, "The advantages are well recognized and present technological capabilities are more than adequate."

Fraternity Charges Ike's Too Secret

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — President Eisenhower's administration has been called the most secretive in U. S. history by Sigma Delta Chi's advancement of Freedom information committee.

The committee reported yesterday "federal officials from the President on down have resorted more and more frequently to the vague claim of 'executive privilege' to withhold information from the public, the press and Congress."

The report was made at the opening of the journalism fraternity's 50th annual national convention.

Norway has a population of about three million.

Negro Teachers Renew Charge

Ask Court to Review Decision That Race Did Not Rule Out Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court has been asked to review a school integration case which some lawyers contend may affect the future of 100,000 Negro teachers.

The high court was expected to decide soon, perhaps Monday, what action it will take.

At issue, according to the appellants, is what will happen to thousands of Negro teachers when schools in the 17 border and Southern states become fully integrated.

Before the court specifically is the case of Naomi Brooks and 10 other colored teachers who lost their jobs when the schools in Moberly, Mo., were desegrated.

The teachers claim they were denied jobs in the integrated school system because of their race and that this was a violation of their constitutional rights under the 14th Amendment.

But a federal district court and the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis ruled otherwise. Both courts agreed with the Moberly School District that race was not an issue when it hired teachers following integration.

The Moberly schools were integrated at the start of the 1955-56 school year. The 11 Negro teachers were employed at Lincoln School in both elementary and high school grades the previous year.

Appointment of Viscount Ends Speculation on Meg

LONDON (UPI) — Speculation that Princess Margaret might be named governor-general of Australia ended today when the government announced that the Viscount Dunrossil, former speaker of the House of Commons, would get the post.

Dunrossil, 65, who will succeed Field Marshal William Slim, was speaker of the House until the Oct. 8 general election when he retired and was created a viscount.

'Know Values! You Have Right to Turn Off TV'

BOSTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell said today he opposed any new government regulation of television as a result of the TV quiz show scandals.

Mitchell said the best action would be "self-regulation" by the TV networks and individuals in the industry.

Speaking before alumni of Boston University, Mitchell said "every person is at liberty to turn his television set off — shoot a hole in it with a shotgun if he wants."

The labor secretary took a dim view of the public cry for more controls on TV when perhaps the real trouble is "an educational system that teaches the prices of everything and the values of nothing."

Egg Output Down More Than Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Egg production has dropped faster than government experts expected.

The Agriculture Department had been predicting that production through the end of 1959 would continue above 1958 levels.

A report shows, however, that production during October came to 4,784,000,000 eggs, down 1 per cent from the same month in 1958.

The drop apparently was the result of low egg prices through most of this year, the department said.

Commissioners Laud Willman

"A tribute to Pontiac more than just an honor for me," is the way City Manager Walter K. Willman describes his recent election as president of the International City Managers Assn.

"Without the help and cooperation of the city and its commissioners this honor would never have come to me," said Willman last night after receiving formal congratulations from the City Commission for his election.

In a formal resolution, commissioners thanked Willman for the new prestige he brought to Pontiac.

The resolution cited Willman's "outstanding qualities of leadership, ability and fine human relations."

"It has been a privilege to serve this city the past 10 years."

The organization which Willman will head during the coming year represents managers in 1,665 cities, including 33 in this country and 35 in Europe with populations of 100,000 or more.

"I've taken on a tough job," said Willman.

Commissioners, in other business, heard a message of thanks from Samuel A. Baker, president of Local 100, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes. He thanked the Commission for its approval last week of revisions in the city's working agreement with the local, which represents about 250 employes in the public works, recreation and water departments.

A public hearing was scheduled for Nov. 17 on the special assessment roll covering a sidewalk on the west side of Lake street from the southern end to the Michigan Airlines Railroad near the Bethune School.

There were no objections at a hearing on the assessment roll covering new curbs, gutters, grading and graveling on East Beverly avenue, Fuller to Arlene.

The assessment roll for a new sidewalk on the north side of Walton boulevard at Stanley avenue was confirmed.

Declared a public necessity on motion of Commissioner Floyd P. Miles was a combined sewer on Cherrylawn drive north of Kennett road. Although a petition for the sewer was reported signed by only 40 per cent of the affected property owners, the majority of householders apparently wants it, Miles said.

New Car Sales Spur National Retail Jump

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A surge in new car buying in October caused the first increase in retail sales across the nation in three months, the Commerce Department said.

Retail sales of all goods last month totaled $19,024,000,000, up 2.7 per cent from September and 7.8 per cent from a year ago, the department said. New car purchases jumped 17 per cent.

PCH Plagued by Injuries; PNH Underdog Again

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The original Humphrey, star of the famous comic strip, has the solution for anyone who wants to take off excess weight.

"When I weighed 900 pounds a doctor suggested that I go on a diet so I quit him," said Humphrey, "I figured why should I torture myself with a diet. Instead I decided to undergo an operation and they took 200 pounds off my stomach."

Humphrey accidentally fell against the referee at the Armory wrestling program last night and the poor official who weighed only 150 pounds, nearly choked.

When he finished his bout against the two Australian tag rasslers, Humphrey slid sideways through the double doors and sat down to rest on a couple chairs.

"I'm not a fat man," said Humphrey, "I was at three Universities and these medical people say I'm a giant. I come from a family of giants."

Humphrey was one of nine brothers and three sisters, the smallest girl weighing 210 pounds. His dad, who is 6-3 at 285 pounds, is smaller than any of the boys.

Humphrey, who stands 6-3 and weighs 750 pounds, has a neck measurement almost the size of this writer's waist. He goes 31 around the neck, 86 around the waist, 54 around the thigh, 29½ around the biceps and 24 around the ankles.

At birth he weighed 22½ pounds. He was 150 pounds at the age of three, 480 at the age of 10, and 595 at the age of 15.

Food content isn't a problem for Humphrey, it's the cost. He eats away about $35 worth every day. His 130-pound wife prepares a breakfast of three dozen eggs, two pounds of bacon, loaf of bread, one gallon of milk and a half gallon of coffee, with possibly a dozen or so rolls.

"I like to eat three hearty meals a day, and usually a few snacks in between," says Humphrey, "and I sure love steak." A normal steak dinner is about 14 pounds, he says.

Humphrey got his experience wrestling as a youngster in Macon, Ga., by tangling with his pet bear who stood 7-feet and weighed 580 pounds. He decided to get into professional wrestling six years ago at the age of 20 because of the great demand to have him appear publicly as his popularity grew with the comic strip.

"No one first believed I was the original Humphrey of the comics," he said, "because of my dark hair. So I dyed it red at the request of the author of the comic strip."

After winning his bout against the pair of tag wrestlers, Humphrey showered and got in to his car—of all things a Volkswagen. He took up one side of the car and his chauffeur the remaining little portion behind the steering wheel.

"Isn't it tight," we asked. "Oh no, it's fine sideways, but my stomach is a little tight against the dash board," he complained. Fortunately the car had reinforced springs.

Brown, Howze Are Hobbling in Practices

Joe McCauley Returns to Fullback for Game at Flint Central

By BILL CORNWELL

Injuries to key players are causing great concern in the Pontiac Central football camp as the Chiefs prepare for Friday night's Saginaw Valley Conference struggle with Flint Central at Flint's Atwood Stadium.

Charley Brown, versatile guard-fullback-linebacker and leading all-state candidate, and halfback Allen Howze, a workhorse in the PCH offense this year, are both limping badly on the eve of the final game of the 1959 season.

Each boy has been receiving heat treatments during the week, but neither is responding to the first aid in satisfactory fashion.

Brown injured his leg late in the 2nd quarter of last Friday's battle at Wisner Stadium when the Chiefs upset previously unbeaten Bay City Central, 12-7. He saw no offensive duty at all after intermission and played only occasionally on defense.

Howze suffered his injury in the same contest. The fleet-footed ball carrier was visibly slowed down in the 2nd half by leg and hip bruises and the effects have stayed with him this week.

Coach Jesse MacLeay has indicated that Brown and Howze will see only limited action tomorrow evening when the two teams line up for the 8 o'clock kickoff.

MacLeay doubts that Brown will see any offensive work and only occasional defensive duty. Howze, of course, is in the same boat.

Joe McCauley, hampered throughout the season by a banged-up knee, will start at fullback tomorrow, the position he held at the beginning of the season. MacLeay hopes that Joe's knee, which has forced him to miss virtually half of the campaign, will hold up under contact.

Dick McCauley, Joe's brother, also has an ailment, in his case an ankle. Dick has been one of Central's steadiest offensive and defensive performers and it was his pass interception in the last two minutes of play that halted Bay City's final bid to score. Dick will start at left halfback, bad ankle and all.

The Chiefs enter Friday's contest with a 6-2 record for their finest effort in many years. They can clinch 3rd place and possibly gain a share of 2nd by toppling the troublesome Indians.

Flint Central has a 4-3 mark, but the won-lost column is deceiving. After a slow start, the Indians have improved rapidly under coach Bill Doolittle and they command the respect of every opponent.

The Indians divided the Valley grid title with Bay City a year ago, then saw their 1959 forces riddled by graduation plus the transfer of several talented boys to the new Southwestern High School when the city zoning was changed.

Scores 41 as Warriors Slam Pistons Before 9,121

Wilt Lives Up to Notices

DETROIT (AP)—Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain has given the sagging Detroit Pistons a lift in the attendance department.

A crowd of 9,121 packed University of Detroit's Memorial Building last night to see the 7-foot-1 giant toss and catch a basketball. It wasn't the biggest crowd to see a pro basketball game here, but it was the biggest ever collected by the Pistons.

The former Kansas star gave a convincing performance. He scored 41 points in leading the Philadelphia Warriors to a 119-105 victory. The crowd seem to agree that the Stilt is worth his reputed $40,000 a year salary as a pro rookie.

The Pistons' seven-foot Walter Dukes, as long as he was in the game, did a creditable job of containing Chamberlain. But Dukes was rested in danger of fouling out in the third quarter when Philadelphia was leading by only two points. The Warriors broke loose and scored 12 straight points and turned the game into a rout. During this surge, Chamberlain was held to two points. But while the Pistons were centering their attention on the Stilt his teammates, Paul Arizin and Tom Gola, took turns scoring.

Dukes, playing only his second game since rejoining the Pistons after a three-week holdout, had boasted he could handle the Stilt. Chamberlain was held below average only on rebounds. He made only 17 rebounds, compared to his average of 34 per game prior to last night.

Dukes scored 22 points and made 15 rebounds. Gene Shue scored 16 points for the Pistons in the first period but was held to four points the remainder of the game.

In the third period, the Warriors meshed 16 of 30 tries from the floor for 53 per cent. The Pistons made only five baskets in 21 tries.

It was the Warriors' sixth victory against one defeat and left them only a half game behind Boston in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Assn.

It was the fifth defeat for the Pistons in their last six games. The Pistons have a 3-7 record in the Western Division. They will play the Minneapolis Lakers in New York tonight.

Football Bust Nov. 30

DETROIT (AP) — Tom Harmon, former halfback and one of Michigan's all-time football greats, will be the toastmaster Nov. 30 when the University of Michigan holds its 39th annual football bust in Detroit.

STILT READY TO MOVE — Big Wilt "The Stilt" Chamberlain maneuvers his way to go up for a shot while Detroit Piston Walter Dukes gets set to stop the high scoring star of the Philadelphia Warriors. The Pistons failed to stop Chamberlain who got 41 points and the Warriors defeated Detroit, 119-105.

Nelson Fox Is Voted American League MVP

BOSTON (AP) — Nelson Fox, the Chicago White Sox' gritty little second baseman, today was named the American League's Most Valuable Player for 1959.

Fox edged Luis Aparicio, the shortstop half of Chicago's brilliant double play combination, in balloting by a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America.

Fox and Aparicio, who provided Chicago with vital up-the-middle defense in the White Sox' drive for their first pennant in 40 years, were the only two players listed on all ballots. They divided all the first place votes between them.

Fox polled 295 points in the voting, while Aparicio had 255. Early Wynn, Chicago's burly right-hander, drew 123 points as the White Sox swept the first three places.

It was the first such award for Fox, a quiet, unassuming 32-year-old veteran whose huge cud of tobacco is almost as much a trademark as his consistent, determined play. It also marks the first time a White Sox player has been selected since the basball writers took over the award in 1931.

Fox' selection gave Chicago a sweep of the MVP awards, only the fourth time a single city has had both American and National League most valuable players.

Other principal American League vote-getters were Cleveland's Rocky Colavito and Tito Francona, Al Kaline of Detroit, Jim Landis of Chicago and Harvey Kuenn of the Tigers.

Fox contributed 191 hits and a .306 average to Chicago's pennant drive. But it was his play in the field, as much as anything else, that brought him the honor. One of baseball's most coveted annual awards.

The little (5-feet-10, 160 pounds) keystone man handled 827 chances with only 10 errors for a sparkling .988 fielding average, and the Fox-Aparicio defensive play around second is generally considered a major factor in the winning effort.

Fox played in 156 games this season, boosting his consecutive game mark to 669, a major league record for second basemen. He has 1,902 hits in his 13-year major league career, second only to Boston's Ted Williams among active players.

He was listed first on 14 ballots, and shared four other first place selections with Aparicio. He was listed no lower than third on all ballots.

Kaline, Landis, Kuenn, who led the league in hitting with a .353 mark, Sherm Lollar of Chicago and Jackie Jensen of Boston, last year's MVP, rounded out the top 10.

AP to Pick Top Players for All-State Teams

DETROIT (AP) — State sports editors and writers will convene in Lansing to gather complete data on Michigan's top high school football players.

Ballots were mailed to more than 700 high school coaches, writers and broadcasters by the Associated Press. The AP all-state teams in classes A, B, C and D will be announced early in December.

The AP All-State squad, more complete and authoritative than any other, has included all the top names of Michigan Collegiate Football.

Hillsdale Nears Top in NAIA Grid Ratings

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lenoir Rhyne College of Hickory, N.C. holds a slight edge over Hillsdale (Mich.) College this week in the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics football ratings.

Hillsdale, runner-up in 1957 playoffs by a single point, was second by 42 points a week ago. But the Michigan college, with an 8-0 record, has shaved this to a slim 9 points. Lenoir Rhyne has a 7-0 record for the season.

Western Illinois (8-0) jumped into third place after Presbyterian of Clinton, S.C., took its first loss in eight games. East Texas State, with a 21 mark, went from fifth to fourth.

MacKay and Partner Gain Tourney Final

TOKYO (AP)—America's doubles team of Barry MacKay and Myron Franks swept through the quarter and semifinal rounds of the men's doubles match in the Japan's national tennis championship today.

The Americans will meet Atsushi Miyagi and Yoshihisa Shibata, both members of the 1959 Japanese Davis Cup team, Sunday in the final.

Huskies Close First Football Season Friday

Both coaches have nothing but kind words toward each other. "They are a fine ball club," said PNH coach Ed Heikkinen, "the record speaks for itself."

"Northern's quarterback Bruce Norton does a real good job and we'll have to be at our defensive best to stop that offense," said Thomas.

In four years the Bobcats have compiled the outstanding record of 31 wins, one loss and three ties.

In each of the past three years, Grand Blanc has held a lofty position in the state polls, currently holding down the 7th spot.

A victory for PNH would more than assure coach Ed Heikkinen of a highly successful campaign of six wins in nine starts; but the Huskies will be up against a highly experienced quarterback and a couple speedy breakaway backs.

Fullback Larry Aagesen, a 175 pound senior, gives the Bobcats power up the middle, while halfbacks Bart Vaughn and Ron McCullick turn on the speed in the wide plays.

"I guess you would say we have been a control-type ball club this year," said Thomas, "most of our touchdowns have come after long sustained drives."

With the great experience on the team, Grand Blanc works well with the unbalanced line and uses the multiple offense.

Pontiac Northern, with the loss of fullback George Graves and the limited service of Jan Lawrence, will again move Larry Bland into Graves' position and Bill Cox into the halfback slot.

Regardless of the outcome of Friday's game, Heikkinen said he was "extremely pleased with his players who have done a remarkable job this year."

"No one expected us to win very many this year, and we want very much to win Friday, but in either victory or defeat we are proud of our kids," he added.

Grand Blanc with a record of 6-0-2 suffered its only loss in four years in a close decision to Flint Kearsley early last season.

Ivory Visit Saturday

The appearance of the John F. Ivory bowling team at Elks Lodge 810 will be Saturday at 7:30 p.m. instead of Thursday as previously announced.

Off The Grape Vine

We say adios to the prep gridders this week, but the Swami Association will keep checking the crystal ball for the big games on the college and pro fronts.

The Grapevine is split on Grand Blanc and Pontiac Northern, and also on Pontiac Central and Flint Central.

Wayne gets the nod all the way against Waterford and there is a lone dissenter in the Rochester-Avondale battle and Romeo-Utica shindig.

Michigan May Find Indiana at Best

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Bitter complaints by coach Phil Dickens of Indiana, who thinks his team was ruled out of legitimate touchdowns at Michigan State and Ohio State, are heard with pleasure by Hoosier fans.

It isn't that Indiana partisans like controversy. It's just delightful to have Hoosier football improving to the point where one enemy touchdown makes any difference!

If Indiana had managed to tie Michigan State instead of losing 14-6 and had beaten Ohio State instead of tying 0-0, Dickens' team would stand 2-2-1 in the Big Ten and still have faint chance in the race.

The point is that Indiana doesn't win 'em all in the new era started by Dickens last year—but it isn't likely to be humiliated 40-0 by anybody.

Michigan, the Hoosiers' guest Saturday, was an 8-6 victim of Indiana last year. It probably will find I.U. at its top efficiency this season.

After chewing up the officials for not crediting fullback Vic Jones with a touchdown on a one-yard plunge, Dickens said of the Ohio State affair:

"All the way around, it was our best game of the season. We did not have any big mistakes. We played it close to the vest and did not gamble as much as we have been doing.

"Toward the end, we were trying to run out the clock, necessarily. We were trying to get to the 45-yard line and then throw. We did not want to gamble until we reached midfield."

While saying some kind words for Ohio State's Jim Houston, Dickens declared that Hoosier Ted Aucreman "is the best end who ever stepped on a football field."

John Henry Jackson, Indiana sophomore tailback, has thrown five touchdown passes this year, yet the Hoosiers attempted only two passes at Columbus — both by Capt. Ted Smith. Both were incomplete.

Eleven different men have scored for Indiana in seven games and Earl Faison, a huge end, is high with three touchdowns and a two-point conversion on a pass.

Indiana may stay on the ground again Saturday, but it might not be wise for Bump Elliott to count on it!

Bald Eagle Wins Title in Rough International

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—It took an international incident to give Bald Eagle his American name and it took an international horse race to make him world famous.

Bald Eagle, an American-bred 4-year-old who went adventuring in England early in life and disappointed as the future-book favorite in the 1958 Epson Derby, gained world-wide acclaim yesterday when he whipped the equine prides of eight other nations in the roughly ridden $100,000 Washington D.C. International.

But for the Suez Canal closing which created international tension in 1956, the son of Nasrullah might well have raced under the name of Nasser. Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim, owner of the Cain Hoy Stable, originally called the rugged bay colt after Egypt's premier.

The colt, however, never raced under the name. By the time he arrived in England for his 2-year-old debut, his name was as American as the hot dog.

Bald Eagle won the eighth International by a comfortable 2½ lengths over France's Midnight Sun while other contestants behind him knocked each other for a loop.

The jockeys on horses from Venezuela and Australia jolted each other from their seats about halfway through the race.

Russian jockey Nikolai Nasibov, up on Garnir, rode most of the way with a bloody nose and said "this is not a race, it is more like a football game. They ride like they do not have brains." Garnir finished fifth.

Rochester Seeks Revenge at Avon

By CHUCK ABAIR

Some of the most outstanding attractions of the season are on tap for tomorrow as the prep football teams around Oakland County close out another year.

League honors have been decided on most fronts so old rivalries will take over the spotlight on the slimmed-down final schedule.

Several teams with poor or mediocre records can do a lot to save face by beating some traditional opponents on windup night.

The biggest interest is certain to be centered on Auburn Heights where Rochester and Avondale go into battle. The Falcons and Jackets have been two of the top teams in this sector all fall.

Lake Orion is guest of Holly and Romeo and Utica continue their feud in two other big battles. Others will have Clarkston at Ortonville and Royal Oak Dondero vs Kimball of that city.

Fitzgerald should have little trouble finishing unbeaten at Roseville, Imlay City plays at Swartz Creek and Country Day meets Lutheran East in other non-league affairs.

On the league level, Ferndale goes to Hazel Park seeking to better its Eastern Michigan record with the title all wrapped up. East Detroit and Port Huron meet in the other loop final. Oxford is host to Millington completing play in the South Central.

Rochester had a five-game victory string snapped by Pontiac Northern last week while Avon was being bombed by Fitzgerald in the Oakland B championship game so both teams should be ready to bounce back.

The Falcons, Tri-County victors, were upset by Frank Croswell's Jackets 7-6 a year ago but they rate as slight favorites once more. RHS takes a 6-2 record into the annual classic. Avon is 6-1-1.

Waterford can finish 4-5 by downing Wayne which currently is 4-4. The Skippers always have trouble with the other WHS and this time should be no exception.

Birmingham will be favored but Southfield is mighty hungry with only one victory all fall. The Maples are seeking a 6-2 finish.

The games at Holly and Utica figure as tossups. Orion has been unpredictable all the way. The Dragons have won two straight. Holly is 2-4-1 but fresh from a good showing against strong West Bloomfield. Romeo and Utica seem to take turns beating each other and it is supposed to be the Bulldogs' turn.

Clarkston should have no trouble winding up above .500 in Tom Taylor's 1st year. Dondero is expected to have too many guns for Kimball.

Oxford and Millington will be out to settle 2nd place. They tied earlier.

Celtic Firepower Blasts Royals

Boston Rolls Up 151 Points Against Cinci for Season High

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The fire power of the Boston Celtics is such in pro basketball that they can "skip" a quarter and still roll up a score approaching record proportions.

The Celtics scored only 19 points in the second period of last night's National Basketball Assn. game with Cincinnati. But they blasted in 132 in the other three and wound up with a season-high in a 151-118 victory over the Royals.

With 41 points in the first period, 48 in the third and 43 in the fourth, the Celts had an easy time protecting their one-game Eastern division lead over Philadelphia, which downed Detroit 119-105 in the league's other game.

Boston, leading only 60-53 at the half with Cincinnati's Jack Twyman in the midst of a 49-point night, pulled well away as Bill Sharman scored 15 points and Bob Cousy and Tom Heinsohn added 10 apiece in the third period. Sharman wound up with 32 points, Heinsohn with 22 and Cousy with 16. The Boston total still was 22 under the record NBA mark of 173 the Celts set last year.

No Further QB Hunt by Brown

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Paul Brown says he won't be looking for a quarterback in the annual draft in Philadelphia at the end of the month. Shaky at quarterback after Otto Graham retired in 1956, the Browns now are satisfied with Milt Plum.

What impresses Brown most about the 24-year old Plum is his ability to avoid interceptions. Only four of his aerials have been picked off by enemy defenders this year.

"That's a vital factor to me," Brown said, adding:

"It gives me a chill when passes are intercepted.

"Milt is moving ahead in other ways, too. Now he does things that can come only with poise and experience."

110,000 Whitetails Expected to Fall

Hunters Moving Into North Country

By JERRY CHIAPPETTA
United Press International

Anxious deer hunters began pouring into the north country today to prepare for the 6 a.m. Sunday opening of the Nov. 15-30 season that will see 110,000 to 114,000 Michigan whitetails fall before the guns.

Traffic was reported building up at the Mackinac Bridge, with peak periods of travel expected Friday afternoon and early Saturday and continuing Saturday night.

Clutching an estimated $32,000,000 in their fists, the 450,000 hunters will probably find hunting "spotty," according to early reports.

Last year's heavy snow and severe cold weather no doubt took a heavy toll of deer, but conservation department experts found this spring that the herd started to bounce back.

Tomorrow The Pontiac Press will present an up-to-the-minute, United Press International survey of the most popular deer hunting areas of Michigan.

Northeastern Lower Michigan will carry the biggest load of hunters with over 30 gunners per square mile in Montmorency, Oscoda, Roscommon, Ogemaw, Gladwin and Lake counties.

About 25 per cent of all Michigan hunters will tramp the woods of the Upper Peninsula, but about half of those who hunt above the Straits also live there. Last year there were 452,900 gun hunters. Of these, 108,300 hunted in the U.P., 313,320 in the northern Lowern Peninsula and 31,280 spent their time in the "shotgun" country below the Bay City - Muskegon line.

There is no doubt these figures will be about the same again this season, with the Northeastern area again loaded with hunters. This, however, is not entirely because of the fine hunting found there. While the area does have excellent sport, it is also very handy to the big population centers of Detroit, Flint, Pontiac, Saginaw, Bay City and some of the larger Ohio cities.

Grand Rapids and other Southwestern Lower Michigan nimrods diffuse throughout the remainder of the state.

Because of the large numbers of hunters in the Northeast, most of the buck deer, naturally, are hauled out of this country. However, this does not mean that the hunter success ratio is best there.

Actually, the western half of the U.P. is best — and produces the greatest number of big bucks with "rocking chair" racks. The farm country at the other extreme also comes up with an occasional monster of a trophy. Your chances of scoring in the U.P. are, generally better than 1-to-5.

"Down with all figures," some say. "Big bucks are like gold — they are where you find them."

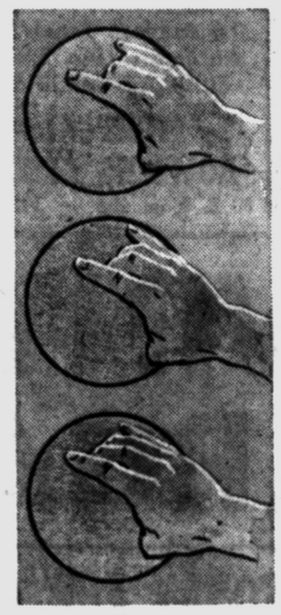

While the department said "about 450,000" hunters will be on hand opening day, this figure can be knocked down or up by many factors. Some feel that the short work weeks in auto plants and other factories will boost the figure since many workers will have long weekends and the season opens on Sunday.

All-Star Pin Points

USE COMFORTABLE GRIP
By PAT PATTERSON

The three most common grips are the conventional, the semi-fingertip and the full-finger-tip.

For the novice and once-a-week bowlers, the conventional grip is recommended. The fingers are placed in the holes fully up to the second joint. This gives you a natural, balanced feeling in the ball and serves as a fine introductory grip.

In a semi-fingertip, the fingers go up to between the first and second joints and in the full-fingertip, only the fingertips go into the holes.

These two types are favored by most of the top name bowlers because they impart more spin. They are used only after many years of constant practice and experimenting, require very strong fingers to execute, and are extremely difficult to control.

So, stay with the conventional grip unil you have fully mastered the fundamentals and can experiment with fingertip grips and other variations.

Select the grip most comfortable for you.

McIlhargie Rolls 288 in Montcalm League

The big showing gave McIlhargie a 647 series following games of 179 and 180.

The Pontiac Table Tennis Association will have its showdown match in league play tonight when Newberry Market, defending champion, (23-1) meets Capital Barber Shop (23-1) at Pontiac Central.

Both teams boast a number of table net stars headed by Newberry's Floyd Finkle, present city champion; Jim Reed, 3-time state champ, and Howard Heckman, state novice runnerup.

The big feature will be the match between Capitol's Carol Ryan, women's state champ, against Gloria Hartman state runnerup in singles.

Perc Secord and Paul Collis will meet Finkle and Reed in the doubles highlight.

Agase Brothers Rivals on Saturday

If so, a brother against brother battle will decide the Michigan State-Northwestern Big Ten football scrap here Saturday.

Lou Agase, sometimes called "the monster" by the charges he sweats through practice, is offensive line caoch for Michigan State.

The brother act played on the 1946 Illinois team that won the Big Ten title on a 6-1 record and creamed UCLA in the Rose Bowl 45-14. Alex was a right guard and Lou a left tackle.

"The Northwestern line has more size and experience but we'll go after them," promised Lou. "It'll be David against Goliath."

The five Wildcat interior linesmen are all seniors, Lou said. Opposing them will be two seniors, two sophomores and a junior.

Carl Charon is lost for the season with a broken ankle. Blanche Martin, the senior starter, was jogging around the field yesterday but has not yet tried hitting with his sprained shoulder.

Park Baker is still tentatively on call as starter. Jon Marx, shifted from halfback to bolster the position, went to the hospital with the flu last night to further complicate the picture.

Duffy Daugherty kept his charges working until dark on the practice field. There was no contact work in the session devoted to an overall polishing of offense and defense.

Big Things Stirring, Predicts Ole Hoople

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Pigskin Prophet

Egad, my loyal followers, there will be big things stirring in the football world this weekend.

Having applied the various Hoople formulas to the intersectional and conference classics, I have arrived at some quaint conclusions. In a season fraught with upsets, this weekend promises to be a banner one.

By the way, speaking of upsets, did you observe that your celebrated handicapper was one of the few to forecast that Harvard would oust Pennsylvania from the ranks of the unbeaten?

A great number of readers have written to congratulate us on such amazing predictions as the Harvard victory, and to ask how we do it. Please, dear readers, don't ask us to divulge our secrets. The bookmakers, you know, must earn a living, too. (Ed. Note: The Major has a few friends among the bookies.)

In leading intersectional clashes, Oklahoma will recapture some of its lost glory turning back the favored invader, Army. Southern California, one of the nation's great teams, will thrash Baylor.

For those who wish to wager a bob or two on a longshot, we have three gilt-edged specials.

Georgia Tech 14, Alabama 7
Arkansas 15, So. Methodist 6
Oklahoma 25, Army 19
Auburn 33, Georgia 13
So. Calif. 22, Baylor 15

Crippled Wings on Road Swing

Detroiters Play Four of Next Five Games Away From Home

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, crippled by injuries, were on the road today for their most concentrated period of hockey this season. They have four games scheduled in the next five days.

Left in Detroit yesterday were center Jerry Melnyk and defenseman Lou Marcon. Both have knee injuries and will be out of the lineup for a week.

Barry Cullen was included in the traveling squad, although he too is ailing and has seen only limited play recently.

Coach Sid Abel has 11 forwards, five defensemen and goalie Terry Sawchuk for the trip.

Melnyk injured his left knee in a skating drill Tuesday. The injury was diagnosed as a sprain. Marcon has been out a week with a similar injury.

The Wings meet the Bruins at Boston tonight. They play Saturday at New York and Sunday in Chicago. Following a home game against the Black Hawks Monday, the Wings will leave again for another three-game road trip.

Crane Booters Win

The Cranbrook soccer team finished its season on a happy note yesterday by blanking Chatham of Ontario, 4-0. Capt. Larry DeWitt led the way with three goals. Tim Morgan added the other to complete a 6-1-2 season.

Trading Active in Atom Stocks

NEW YORK (AP) — Space age stocks made additional strides while the general stock market edged ahead narrowly on average early this afternoon. Trading was active.

An irregular upward pattern showing gains and losses of fractions to a point prevailed among the key stocks.

The electronics - missile - rocket stocks surged forward vigorously from the start, were clipped a bit by some profit taking, but maintained gains going from 2 to more than 3 points.

The industrial section of the market was up moderately on balance with gains by some pivotal chemicals, motors, electrical equipments, mail orders and farm equipments helping along.

The "glamor" stocks continued to respond to talk in Washington of increased spending on space projects and also to the fact that several of these issues had shown upside "breakouts" on their chart patterns, which many traders study.

Ampex leaped about 4, Zenith around 3 and Raytheon more than 2. Motorola dropped a fraction in mild profit taking on its latest upward surge. Thiokol rose about 2 and General Instrument more than that. Radio Corp., Philco and Sperry Rand were fractional gainers. General Tire, which has a rocket subsidiary, rose more than a point.

A 2-point rise by Eastman Kodak beefed up the average. Fractional gains by Chrysler, International Harvester, Johns-Manville, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric and Public Service Electric & Gas also helped.

U.S. Gypsum added about 2. This producer of building supplies was helped by a prediction of the federal housing boss that the tight money situation in mortgages should be easier by spring.

Eero Saarinen Designs Pair of Yale Colleges

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale University today announced approval of plans for two residential colleges.

Their designer, famed archiect Eero Saarinen of Bloomfield Hills, says they were conceived as "citadels of earthy, monolithic masonry . . . whose interiors of stone, oak, and plaster would carry out the spirit of strength and simplicity."

The residential colleges would cost $7,500,000. They will be located adjacent to the present Yale campus. Each will contain living and working room for 250 undergraduates, along with offices and quarters for instructors, seminar rooms, student lounges, libraries and dining rooms.

Construction is expected to start this winter, said Yale President A. Whitney Griswold. The buildings will be ready for occupancy by 1963.

Grain Futures in Weak Trend

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain futures prices started off generally on a weaker trend today on the Board of Trade although there was a little early firmness in corn.

At times during the first several minutes it was the only grain on the plus side of previous closes. Dealings were slower than they have been for several days.

Commercial factors were minor and the only export business was a small amount of soybeans to Japan.

Wheat was ⅛ cent a bushel higher to ⅛ lower near the end of the first hour, December $2.01½; corn ⅛ lower to ½ higher, December $1.12⅝; oats unchanged to ⅞ lower, December 78; rye ¼ to ⅜ lower, December $1.33¼; soybeans ⅞ to 1⅝ lower, November $2.19⅞.

To Be Examined in Shooting of Estranged Wife

Austin Stewart, 50, of Pontiac, charged with shooting his estranged wife in a family argument Saturday night, has been granted an examination. He was arraigned yesterday on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

Municipal Court Judge Maurice E. Finnegan scheduled the examination for Nov. 25. Stewart, of 182 Elm St., was being held at the Oakland County Jail, unable to post $10,000 bond.

His wife, Rosalie, 40, remained on the critical list at Pontiac General Hospital with bullet wounds of the back and leg.

Nixon to Honor an Old Friend

Will Give Testimonial for Rep. Melvin Laird; Is in Midwest 2 Days

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis. (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon flies to Wisconsin today to begin a two-day Midwest visit in which he will help honor an old friend, lunch with college presidents and address a convention of newspapermen.

Nixon will arrive from Washington this afternoon to speak at a testimonial for Rep. Melvin Laird (R-Wis), an old colleague when both were in the House of Representatives.

The vice president was scheduled to remain here overnight, then fly to Appleton tomorrow for a brief speech and question and answer session at Lawrence College.

The luncheon with Wisconsin college presidents was set for noon tomorrow in Appleton. Afterwards, Nixon will fly to Indianapolis, Ind., to address the golden anniversary convention of Sigma Delta Chi, the professinal journalism fraternity.

Sponsors of the Laird dinner were frankly surprised at the political interpretation which has been placed on the Nixon visit.

Gov. Rockefeller Plugs Freedom

Touring California, He Says U.S. Goal Higher Than Outfoxing Soviet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said today that the United States has a higher goal than frustrating the ambitions of the Soviet Union.

That goal, he said, "is to make sure that the emerging international order will serve, indeed will save, the aspirations of all mankind for a life of freedom, dignity and justice."

Rockefeller — widely mentioned as a probable candidate for the Republican presidential nomination but still not ready to confirm or deny it — arrives here today to open a fast-paced, four-day speaking tour of the West.

The New York governor heads north after a day in Los Angeles. He will make stops in Northern California, Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

His trip has no announced political purpose. But the general suspicion is that travel is not the principal motivation.

If the handsome New Yorker is trying to find out which way the wind blows in Southern California, he may detect a favorable breeze behind him — and a formidable storm brewing up ahead. For this is the home territory of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, generally conceded to have the inside track to the GOP nomination.

Rockefeller's busy first - day schedule included a press conference, television interviews and a reception in the morning, and an address, another television interview and meetings with leaders of four different Republican groups in the afternoon.

These include congressmen and other prominent participants in the Western States Republican Conference tonight.

In a text prepared for delivery to the Los Angeles World Affairs Council, he said:

"The tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union should not and must not obscure our awareness of the great and affirmative challenge before us, and the resisting of Soviet aggression is only a part, a necessary but a negative part, of our great task as a nation.

"We are not simply striving as a nation to heal the wounds opened by the so-called cold war. We are striving to make man himself — the commonwealth of nations — healthy and strong . . ."

Education Means Discipline to Pontiac Student

By NANCY GOLDINO
Lincoln Junior High School

What Education Means to Me:

Education . . . it is just a four syllable word, but it means so much to me.

It is the source of discipline and teaches one to obey rules and regulations on and off the school grounds.

This helps one now and in later life to be a good citizen.

It also implies preparation for one's role in society, both as a worker and a citizen.

Since education is compulsory and available to all, we should be glad that we have fine teachers to make it so enjoyable.

Killed by Auto of Envoy's Son

Kin of Ambassador From Ireland Claims Washington Immunity

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pedestrian was killed Wednesday night by a car driven by the son of the Irish ambassador, police said. But 21-year-old David Patrick Hearne claimed diplomatic immunity and no charge was placed against him.

He is the son of ambassador John J. Hearne. The district coroner, Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, said he had arranged with the ambassador for young Hearne to appear at an inquest Friday morning in spite of his diplomatic immunity.

Killed was Jossie Hamlin, 54, of Washington. Police quoted Hearne as saying a pedestrian had just crossed the street in front of his car, and while trying to make sure he had missed him his car struck a second pedestrian. The victim was thrown 41 feet and was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Last month, young Hearne and two companions were taken to a precinct station after a fracas with police in a restaurant in the Chevy Chase area of the District of Columbia. The ambassador's son claimed diplomatic immunity and no charge was filed against him. The other two were charged with disorderly conduct.

Luxurious Small Cars May Lead to Compact Bankrolls

By JACK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT—Several months ago a national magazine carried a cartoon showing a board meeting with the speaker saying "Let's build the longest, lowest, sleekest and most luxurious compact car."

At the time the cartoon was funny. But it is no longer a joke.

Chrysler Corp. already has started advertising its new Valiant as the most luxurious of the new compact cars.

Ford Motor Co. already has announced plans to introduce another compact car, the Comet, during the "spring selling season" as the "aristocrat" of the economy cars.

General Motors is preparing compact cars for introduction in its Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac lines which will make them "luxury compacts."

The circle might be considered completed by auto industry reports that Chrysler Corp. is preparing a luxury model of its "luxurious" Valiant for introduction in its Dodge line.

But the trend apparently has gone even farther.

COMPACT CONTINENTAL

Ford, according to industry sources, is testing a new Continental, which will be a six-passenger car styled like a Thunderbird and powered by a 440 horsepower engine. This could turn out to be the ultimate in compact cars.

Even American Motors, the company that started the trend toward compact cars in the United States, is reported to be considering introduction of a new, more luxurious compact car styled along the lines of the Thunderbird.

This trend apparently reflects the auto industry's conviction that the American public wanted something smaller than American manufacturers were offering, but still wanted the luxury of an American car.

Chrysler Corp., for example, is proud of the fact that it offers power brakes and steering on its Valiant, a four-speed automatic transmission and a manual shift with the shift lever on the steering wheel instead of on the floor.

These are all features of a bigger car, not a compact vehicle. Chrysler is proud of them because it feels the motorist still wants the features of a bigger car and only the parking ease, lower initial cost and greater operating economy of a smaller car.

Many of these features also will be offered on the new luxury compacts to be introduced by the industry later in an attempt to offer the public more little car features while maintaining the luxury standards of the larger American cars.

Although the new compact cars are still a novelty, the auto companies already are trying to outdo each other in adding luxury features to them.

Assembly line grindings:

—It might surprise many Cadillac owners to discover that they are driving the narrowest standard-sized car manufactured by General Motors, just as it probably would surprise most Chevrolet owners to learn they are driving the widest car made by GM. The width of the new Cadillacs, depending on the model, range from 79.1 to 80.2 inches. The width of the new Chevrolets is 80.8 inches. Buick and Pontiac both have 80-inch widths while Oldsmobile is 80.6 inches wide.

School Plans to Be Presented

Waterford Twp. Board of Education Gets Data on 3 Buildings Friday

At a special meeting of the Waterford Township Board of Education 7:30 p.m. tomorrow, architects will present specific plans for the second high school and two additional elementary schools.

Preliminary plans for the schools were approved by the Board at its latest regular meeting. Tomorrow it will review blueprints pertaining to the sites and mechanical, electrical and architectural specifications.

The $2½ million high school, designed to accommodate 1,500 students, will be built on a 50-acre site at the end of Bender street near Hatchery road. It will be patterned after the John D. Junior High School, according to Superintendent William Shunck.

Specifications for a 12-room elementary school on Merriroad costing some $300,000 fully equipped and the plans and specifications for a 14-room unit on Pontiac Lake road to cost $350,000 will be studied.

With this construction, overcrowded conditions at Leggett, Covert and Waterford Center schools will be relieved, Shunck said.

At present, children are being shifted to other schools until the new ones are completed.

The school board also will consider a request from parents of children attending the McVittie school to help pay for the cost of a walk on the side of adjacent roads.

Another Prof Admits Rigging

Says He Won $4,000 on 'Name That Tune' After Song Preview

NEW YORK (AP)—A faculty member of a municipal college here has disclosed that he won $4,000 in 1957 with the help of special "warm-up" sessions before appearing on the CBS television program "Name That Tune."

"Maybe some might say I was lacking in civic conscience," said Robert Haton Wednesday. "I was manipulated and I'm not proud of it."

Van Doren admitted to a congressional subcommittee last week that he accepted help from the producers to win $129,000 on NBC's show "Twenty-One."

Hayton emphasized that he had never made a secret of the fact that he had received help before going on before the TV cameras.

"I figured that since I'm a low-paid academician we could use the $100 I'd get even if I lost in the first phase of the program," he said.

"The second and third time I was on the show," he added, "all five songs I had to identify were inserted into the warm-up session before going on the air."

He conceded that he had not told Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan about that, "because no one asked me."

4 DR STATION WAGON. AN IDEAL UTILITY FOR THE DEER HUNTER. BIG FAMILIES AND JOBBERS WILL ALSO LIKE THIS IDEALLY SUITED WAGON.

HAS RADIO, HEATER, AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION, POWER STEERING & BRAKES AND A BEAUTIFUL TU-TONE WHITE TOP WITH BLUE BODY. WHITE TIRES ALSO MAKE IT SUITABLE FOR A TOWN CAR.

WE HAVE EXPENDED CONSIDERABLE TIME AND MONEY TO BRING THIS CAR UP TO ALMOST PERFECT CONDITION AND THE ONLY DEFECT WE CAN FIND IS A SLIGHT WHINE IN THE POWER STEERING THAT COMPLETELY DISAPPEARS WHEN THE CAR WARMS UP. IT HAS BEEN ON OUR LOT MUCH TOO LONG SO WE ARE LETTING THIS CAR GO AT FAR LESS THAN ITS ACTUAL WORTH. ONLY.

Output of Meat to Go Up in '60

Population Growing, so Each Consumer to Get Six Pounds Less

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The agriculture Department predicts that meat production will go up in 1960 to an all-time high of more than 28 billion pounds.

Production for this year is expected to total about 27,200,000,000 pounds.

There will be no new record next year in per capita supply, however, The population is bigger.

The 1960 supply is expected to give the average American about 161 pounds of meat during the year, six pounds less than the record year of 1956.

The department said the housewife also can expect lower meat prices, first on higher-cost cuts in the winter and spring, and then on lower-cost cuts like hamburger next summer and fall.

Lower retail prices for practically all pork cuts are forecast for the first half of 1960. The outlook for the last half of the year depends on the size of the spring pig crop.

Meanwhile, the department reported that net imports of meat will set a new record this year, going over one billion pounds for the first time in history.

Imports will account for more than 9 per cent of the nation's meat supply this year. Meat imports during 1960 are expected to remain heavy but not quite as large as this year.

Oil Will Stay Tops, MIT Prof Believes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Oil will still be the world's chief source of energy in the year 2000, according to a Massachusetts Institute of Technology professor.

Walter G. Whitman, chairman of chemical engineering at MIT, said solar energy will come into its own, as will nuclear energy, but cost factors will prevent nuclear fission from assuming any sort of significant role in the energy picture for at least 30 years.

TV News and Reviews

CBS Should Feel Proud for Cracking Word Barrier

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — Television discovered some new words last night: Abortion, birth control, contraceptives.

These are words that have been kicking around for a while, but normally don't show up on prime TV network time.

Yet, the hour-long documentary in the CBS Reports series, "The Population Explosion," took a chance and assumed it had grownups in the audience.

The network is still in business today, at last report, and I should think CBS is feeling a bit proud of itself for presenting this memorable hour.

The highly controversial subject of family planning received a thoroughly engrossing, professional presentation. It was filmed mostly in India.

The network made it clear that it didn't wish to become embroiled in the birth control arguments, merely wanted to stir up more public debate on the subject.

There were no scenes of large, well-fed Indian families on this show; only forlorn-looking groups.

It was a memorable show and helped restore my confidence in this beat-up new TV business.

Louis Jourdan, a Frenchman who has seen fit to discard most of his accent, presided over a lackluster NBC-TV special that originated from a hotel in Miami Beach last night.

Confined to a badly lit stage, fighting poor acoustics, the performers rushed through an hour that offered a bare minimum of freshness, style or entertainment.

Bobby Darin, a boy who has transposed Mussolini's balcony style to the pop singing field, wiggled through "Mack the Knife" for the umpteenth time and Abbe Lane also wiggled through her songs.

I think Darin out-wiggled her.

Jane Morgan also sang.

Jerry Lewis had an off night as a comedian but was entertaining when dancing. Jourdan managed to smile and be pleasant through it all. Stout fellow.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: Marlene Dietrich, besieged with TV offers through the years, has made up her mind. She'll start filming a one-hour color special, "Dietrich in Paris," on Nov. 27. Orson Welles will produce the show in Paris for Bartell TV Productions. Negotiations are in progress for a sponsor, network and air date.

NBC-TV plans to repeat Ingrid Bergman's "The Turn of the Screw" next spring. . . . Bob Denver, who played "Beatnik" Maynard Krebs on CBS-TV's Dobie Gillis series until drafted in real life, has been released from service and rejoins the Gillis crew any episode now.

Next Gleason Project May Be Behan's Life

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Eddie Fisher looked so cheerful having dinner with Liz Taylor that somebody said, "What's he so happy about? He's not on TV any more." A shrewdie said, "That's why!" . . . The Jacks Webbs and Joan Crawford saw "The Miracle-Worker," then they got little Patty Duke's autograph. "For our kids," they explained.

Jackie Gleason was pouring at a party at his Peekskill Round House (for Milton Berle, Buddy Hackett, and others) and didn't get to watch himself and Brenden Behan on "Small Wonder" when the Irish playwright appeared to be stinko. Gleason taped it a month ago. He assured me this crack "He's coming through fine here—100 proof" was said as a joke: "I couldn't hear him very well and didn't know it if he was loaded," J. G. insisted. Gleason wants to do Behan's life story on B'way. "I want to do something dramatic and his life's certainly been dramatic," Gleason said.

New Package Tax Plan Hits Smokers, Drinkers

LANSING (AP) — The average Michigan family would shell out $36.25 in new taxes under the emergency revenue plan proposed by Senate Republicans, an informal calculation showed today.

There would be a substantially lower figure in families where one or both parents do not smoke or drink.

When the estimated net yield of each item in the package is divided by the state's eight million population figure and then multiplied by the four persons in the average family, this breakdown results:

Cigarettes, $4.25; liquor, $3; beer, $7; cigars and pipe tobacco, $2; telephone and telegraph, $5; and extension of the sales tax to services, $15.

Cigarettes, 1-cent-a-pack increase	$ 8,500,000
Liquor, 4 per cent increase	6,000,000
Beer, $2.50 a barrel increase	14,000,000
Cigars and pipe tobacco, 20 per cent on wholesale	4,000,000
Telephone and telegraph, 3 per cent	10,000,000
Auto and appliance repair, dry cleaning, laundry and other service industries, 3 per cent	30,000,000

To Demonstrate Audio Setups

Perfection Showing to Follow Meeting of Rochester Kiwanis

ROCHESTER — The perfection of audio systems will be demonstrated at North Hill Elementary School at 7:30 p.m. Monday following the regular Kiwanis meeting.

Because of the nature of the program, the school was chosen for the meeting, club officials said.

Carl Bacon of Pontiac and Rochester Kiwanian John Boeberitz will be hosts.

ONLY ONE CALLED

In many cases, he is the only audio engineer most large theaters throughout Detroit and Michigan will allow to service their equipment, Boeberitz said.

Bacon is letting the local club hire furniture movers to transport some of his large Altec Lansing speakers from his home in Pontiac to North Hill School for this special show.

The program calls for presentation of several tapes and records with a few comments and explanations on how to choose proper sound equipment for the home.

The number of people attending the show will be limited, Boeberitz said. Admission will be free with the presentation of Kiwanis invitations at the door.

These invitations are available at Houghten and Sons, Inc., store and Purdy's Drug Store and will be distributed on a "first come" basis.

Costa Rica passed a social security law in 1943.

Detroit-Muskegon Xway Link to Open

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—A nine-mile stretch of U.S. 16 limited access highway on the Detroit-Muskegon expressway will be opened tomorrow from Whitneyville road east to the Ionia County line.

The new section of four-lane road will extend the expressway in an unbroken line from about 10 miles east of Grand Rapids to 10 miles west of Lansing. The opening also will leave only a two-mile stretch of two-lane highway between Grand Rapids and Detroit.

The new nine-mile link in the expressway was built at a cost of $3,175,402.

3 Deputies Fired for Jail Relations

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The sheriff has fired three deputies accused of having intimate relations with women prisoners at the county jail.

Furthermore, Sheriff M. A. Hinds said others may be fired by the time he completes the investigation touched off by the "case of the pregnant prisoner."

Two of the deputies protested bitterly. Kenneth Mattox, 22, and David Climer, 27, said they were falsely accused. They said they were refused a lie detector test.

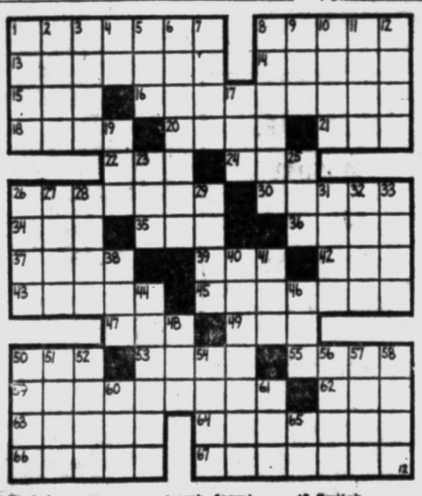

Hinds said the discharged men were not involved with Lela Fay Fleck, 22, whose embarrassing pregnancy started it all. It was a separate matter involving two other women, he added.

Mrs. Fleck, serving one to five years for robbery, is in city hospital awaiting the birth of her baby.

From the start of the "Louisiana Yam Supper Season" on Jan. 1 to the "Give-and-Serve-Meat-for-Christmas Month" which goes out with the last leftovers about New Year's Eve, we're going to celebrate more days, weeks, months and seasons than you can find on the calendar.

There's a "National Mother-In-Law Day" which, by coincidence or otherwise, falls during "Good Human Relations Week."

There's a "National Do-It-Yourself Week," closely followed by "National Correct Posture Week." There's a "Domestic Rabbit Week," a "National Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool Week," a "Break-a-Cold Month," a "National Mothproofing Month" and a "Baking Soda Bath Season."

These and nearly 400 other special months, weeks and days are listed in a "Promotion Almanac for 1960," just published here (by Advertising Requirements).

Gastronomically, the almanac shows, we will run the gamut.

Take July alone, for example. It is "Summertime Pie Month," "National Hot Dog Month," "National Picnic Month," "National Iced Tea Time" and "Kraut, Salad Season."

If you're kraut inclined, you may also wish to plan special observances of "Kraut and Frankfurter Week" or "Kraut, Pork 'n' Apple Dinner Season."

There's an International Pizza Week and national weeks devoted to pimiento, peanuts, rice, honey, raisins, pickles, wine, donuts, macaroni, honey, pretzels, frozen foods, and fish 'n' seafood.

With May comes "I Scream, You Scream, We All Scream for Ice Cream Month" and — lest you forget — the American Dairy Association dips up another scoopful with "Remember A La Mode Month" in August.

There's a "National Weight Watchers' Week" early in the year for those who can't afford to indulge in too many epicurean celebrations. For those who can't but do anyway, "National Indigestion Week" is recommended.

The sartorial minded also have their weeks—"National Tie Week," "National Bow Tie Week," "National Sweater Week," "National Slacks Week." Even a "National Denim Week."

For the gay at heart, there's a happy assortment—a "Comedy Week," "Humor Week," "Clown Week," "Smile Week" and an out-and-out "Laugh Week."

May 14 to 21 is "Let's Go Fishing Time" and Oct. 1-31 is "Let's Go Hunting Time," although it might be a good idea to check your own state's game and fish laws.

Here and there through the year, we'll have weeks in which we can boat safely, appreciate youth, know your America, be kind to animals and clean up, paint up and fix up.
