The motto, Seguir Virtute E Canoskenza, has a very distinguished origin, Canto XXVI, 1. 120, of Dante's Inferno. These are the final words of Ulysses' great speech to his men urging them to sail on and on in pursuit of knowledge and experience of the world—even beyond the pillars of Hercules, traditionally the frontier and limit of legitimate exploration.

This is the three-line stanza:

*Considerate la vostra semenza
Fatti non foste a viver come bruti
Ma per seguir virtute e canoskenza.*

*Consider your birth
You were not made to live like brutes
But to follow courage and knowledge.*

Recessional

*This is the world premiere of the "Academic Festival Processional" by Professor Stanley Hollingsworth, composer-in-residence. The work was commissioned by Oakland University in honor of its 25th anniversary, and is dedicated by the composer to Professor David Daniels, Chair, Department of Music.

The audience is requested to remain standing during the precessional and recessional.

On Academic Regalia

An edifying note contributed by a certain anonymous doctor of philosophy

On at least two solemn occasions during the academic calendar—spring and fall commencement—the faculty of the university publicly displays its full academic regalia and participates in the liturgy of processional and recessional, that curious coming and going that symbolizes the ceremony of commencement. The purposes of commencement are well known, but the reasons for the peculiar garb of the celebrants and their odd order of march are often as obscure to the audience as they are, in fact, to the faculty itself. This note may serve to explain academic dress and the professional pecking order it costumes.

Contemporary academics are descendants of clerical schoolmen in the universities of medieval Europe. Like the clergy, members of the bench and bar, and other learned professions, the medieval scholar clothed himself in heavy robes to stay warm in unheated stone buildings. Like all members of an hierarchical society, the medieval faculties rejoiced in visible insignia of rank. These outward signs of accomplishment and authority were tailored into the robes. Although the need for such voluminous garments to keep the scholar from freezing is long past, the use of them as emblems of dignity remains.

You will observe that all caps and gowns worn by our faculty are black, with certain disturbing exceptions. Black was the color adopted by mutual agreement among American universities at the end of the nineteenth century. In Europe each university has its own distinctive gown, varying in color and cut from all others. A European academic assemblage is a far gaudier occasion than its counterpart in America. Recently, certain universities in this country rashly broke the agreement and authorized robes in their own colors: for example, the crimson of Harvard and the green of Dartmouth may be seen in our ranks. This unsuitable spontaneity has been frowned on by sister institutions, yet the mavericks not only persist in their madness, but gain adherents to their ranks with each passing year.

There are three basic academic degrees: the baccalaureate or bachelor's degree, the master's degree, and the doctorate. A special style of robe is prescribed for each. The bachelor's gown is sparsely cut, neat, but a bit skimpy and unadorned, as befits apprentices. The master's gown is still simple, but fuller, sports a sleeve of extraordinary design impossible to describe, and has a hood draped from the shoulders down the back. Once used to keep the frost from the tonsured heads of medieval clerks, the hood now is solely a badge of a degree of scholarly achievement. The master's hood is small and narrow, but displays the colors of the institution that awarded the degree. If you knew the colors of American universities, you could easily identify whence came our masters. The doctoral robe is the most handsome of academic raiment. Generous of cut, of fine aristocratic stuff, it is faced with velvet and emblazoned with velvet chevrons on the ample sleeves. You will note that most of the velvet facings and chevrons are black, but that some are of other colors. According to personal taste, the doctor may display the color of his doctoral degree on his sleeves and facings: light blue for education, pink for music, apricot for nursing, orange for engineering, and many more. The royal blue of the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) is the most commonly seen in a liberal arts institution such as Oakland. The doctor's hood is the most elegant of all academic appurtenances. Large and graceful, it is lined in satin with the colors of the university that awarded the degree and is bordered with the color of the degree itself. Most academic costumes include the square cap called a mortarboard; the doctor's tassel may be either black or gold—tassels of all other degrees are black and stringy.

To instructed eyes, the order of march in the processional and recessional reveals the standing of individuals in the institution's formal hierarchy. In the processional the order of entrance into the hall is, quite fittingly, from most junior to most senior. The baccalaureate candidates enter first, followed successively by the masters and doctoral candidates with the whole separated from the faculty by a decent interval. In the faculty order, the instructors precede the assistant professors who in turn are followed by the associate professors. The august full professors bring up the rear. After a respectful distance come the deans who in turn are separated by a significant space from the awful majesty of the platform party, the president, the vice-president, and the members of the board of trustees. All remain standing until the board is seated. After the ceremony, the order of recessional is the reverse of the processional. The greatest dignitaries stream out of the hall first, with the artfully organized ranks of priority wallowing in their wake.

It is hoped that these notes may make more intelligible the spectacle you are witnessing today. A discerning intelligence may detect in it many clues to an understanding of the academic profession as it confronts the ambiguities of the future with ancient wisdom and dignified confidence.

HONORARY DEGREES

James J. Blanchard, your sixteen years of public service to Michigan and to the nation tell the story of swift and well-deserved progress to the highest seats of governmental responsibility. Your vigorous administration as governor of our State has responded with speed and strength to awesome challenges. Among these are: the challenges offered by the economic realities of our time and place; the particular challenges presented by momentous technological transformation in an industrial economy; and the very special challenges set by the need to educate a citizenry facing such changes at the individual and human level. Oakland University was born a quarter-century ago in response to very similar challenges. Because we at Oakland have committed our University to engage these pressing problems; because we aim to nourish in ourselves an abiding sensitivity to the special academic, cultural, economic, technological and social needs of the communities among whom we work; and because we see in you an exemplar of the experience, wisdom and courage which the times will require of us all; we find it fitting to honor you to day, James J. Blanchard, by conferring on you the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

Marvin L. Katke, your extraordinary service to education and the arts and your continuing and thoughtful devotion to social and philanthropic causes have raised you to eminence among citizens of our State. Of many agencies and institutions in Michigan, public and private, which have reaped the benefits of your energy and kindness, Oakland University counts itself especially—and proudly—in your debt. You were a powerful friend of our University even before Oakland won its autonomy in 1970. Beginning in that year, you served as a charter member of Oakland's Board of Trustees and as the Board's first chairman. Continuing for twelve years your diligent participation in our Board, you have also been a leader in building and increasing community support of the Meadow Brooks, the President's Club and the Oakland University Foundation of which you are now President. As donor to the University, as unstinting patron of fellowship programs, library collections, music, theater, athletics and more, you have shared your financial resources with the same generosity which has guided your long and loyal service to Oakland. In your company we are honored, Marvin L. Katke, to proclaim and to fortify our proud association with you, and we hereby confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Humanities, honoris causa.
