Ike Is Exuberant at NATO Results —Returns Today

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

PARIS — An exuberant President Eisenhower, happy with results of the NATO summit conference and his own personal triumph in Paris, flies home today.

He is expected to arrive in Washington aboard the Columbine III about 6:30 A.M. (EST) tomorrow, after leaving Paris at noon today.

The Chief Executive and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will report to the American people on the results of the summit meeting in a nationwide radio-television broadcast Monday night.

President Eisenhower and other NATO government chiefs ended their summit conference today with a firm decision to arm Western Europe against Russia's nuclear missile might, and an appeal to Moscow to resume disarmament negotiations with the West.

Blame for the decision to base American medium-range missiles and stock U.S. nuclear warheads in Europe was put squarely on Russia. A communique said the Soviet Union is giving the most modern weapons to its armed forces, and so the West must do so, too.

IKE LEAVES TONIGHT

The conference, which began Monday, ended after a final session lasting 2 hours and 45 minutes. President Eisenhower, who leaves here tonight, was present throughout.

★ ★ ★

The summit session called for a conference of foreign ministers with Russia to resolve the East-West deadlock on disarmament negotiations.

"Soviet leaders have made it clear that the most modern and destructive weapons of all kinds are being introduced as a means of warfare," the communique said.

"We are therefore resolved to achieve the most effective pattern of NATO military strength.

PARIS (AP) — President Eisenhower said today the decisions of the NATO summit conference should make war less likely, peace more sure.

Hoffa's Jury Calls Timeout

Stops Deliberations for Courtroom Reading of Prosecution Testimony

NEW YORK — Jurors in the wiretap conspiracy case against James R. Hoffa and two other persons took time out from their deliberations today fr a courtroom reading f testimny by a prosecution witness.

★ ★ ★

The reading was expected to take about two hours.

On trial with Hoffa in New York's Federal District Court were Owen B. Brennan, president of Detroit Teamsters Local 337, and Bernard Spindel, a professional wiretapper of New York.

The trio was accused of conspiring to tap phones illegally in the Teamsters' Detroit headquarters building in 1953 to learn whether union subordinates were "leaking" information to rackets investigators.

The defendants faced possible sentences of one year in prison and fines of up to $10,000 each on conviction.

About an hour after the jury received the case, it requested and was given sections of the testimony given by Bernard Chamine, a key witness. He allegedly helped Spindel install the listening and recording devices for the two Teamster officials.

Later, the jurors called for all documentary evidence connected with Hoffa's alibi that he and his wife were registered in a Seattle, Wash., hotel when the wiretap apparatus assertedly was demonstrated in Detroit.

The defense case for all three men consisted entirely of this alibi.

Confidential Guilty, to Pay $5,000 Fine

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Confidential and Whisper magazines have been convicted by a judge of having conspired to publish obscene matter and have been fined $5,000 each.

The maximum fine — a quiet ending to a once sensational case —was imposed yesterday by Superior Judge H. Burton Noble. The bench trial was agreed upon by the state and the defense after a hung jury ended an earlier trial.

Confidential and Whisper were tried alone without a jury on the basis of the first trial's transcript and only on the obscenity charge. Charges against 11 individuals, including publisher Robert Harrison, were dismissed.

Harrison agreed in return to revise the magazines' format and stop publishing scandal stories about celebrities.

Sunday Arrival Evens Score—9 Boys, 9 Girls

Smiths Rejoice Over 18th Child

By LAOMA SANFORD
Lake Orion Correspondent

The boys were outnumbered in the Truman Smith home in Lake Orion, until Sunday.

Sunday was the day of reckoning for the female majority, and it was quite a reckoning. Mrs. Smith gave birth to her 18th child, and evened the score at nine boys and nine girls.

All 18 children are alive and healthy, making a full and happy household at the 354 E. Flint St. address of the former Pontiac woman and her husband, who are both 39 years old.

Smith is sales manager of Graceland Cemetery Assn. in Flint.

The latest arrival is Philip Andrew Smith, who was delivered at home by Dr. W. W. Oliphant. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wardell of 48 Center St., and Frank Smith of Royal Oak.

When Ernestine Wardell became Mrs. Smith at the age of 18, she had the know-how of managing a large family. She was the eldest of 12 children.

Two of the 18 children are married and living away from home, but that still counts up to 16 children and the two parents sitting down to a meal—no mean task for even a swing-shift of cooks.

The Smiths use a two shift eating method, with the youngest being fed first. Using many one-dish type meals stretches the budget and decreases the number of hours in the kitchen.

The family uses about 100 pounds of potatoes a week, shops in quantity for economy, and utilizes a large home freezer for storage.

MORNING SCHEDULE

Getting 16 youngsters and a husband up and going in the morning can be chaos without a system. Father is heading for Flint; Joyce to Oxford for her job; and Sandra catches the 7:15 bus to Lake Orion High School.

★ ★ ★

Truman, Paul, David and Faith step off to Lake Orion Junior High, and Daniel, Timothy, Thomas, Dawn, Bell and Becky depart for Blanche Sims Elementary School.

The rest wave. It could be like Grand Central station, but order prevails.

How would you sleep 18 in one house? There's not a bunk bed in sight. The large farm-type home with four huge bedrooms and a large sunporch provides room for two and three beds to a room.

BALL TEAM AT HOME

Surprisingly enough, there's no need for a buddy system to check in members of the family. During the idle hours, they play in their own back yard — no need to go to the neighbors when there's a ball team plus substitutes at home.

Speaking of helping hands, when all the family decides to travel by car, son Gary, of Orion, now married and the father of a two weeks old daughter, and daughter Marcia, now Mrs. Bernard Hotchkiss, of Lapeer, and the mother of two boys, can be depended upon to help.

Once however the family went to the Detroit Zoo — all packed in their own car. They all agreed it was merry, — but never again.

What every family this size needs, of course, is a dog. Shep is not neurotic.

The bustle of the bulging house fails to disturb him, and he can curl up on the living room floor and fall fast asleep without the slightest qualm that one of the many pairs of feet tripping through the house will stomp on him.

PROUD MOTHER — Mrs. Ernestine Smith holds her latest addition, Philip, who evened the score at nine boys and nine girls in the family.

U. of M. Chief Beneficiary of $714,000 Milford Estate

A $714,000 price tag has been placed on the estate of the late Mrs. Della M. Noble, widow of a wealthy Milford attorney.

Under a final settlement of her will, University of Michigan will be the beneficiary of almost all of the money.

Mrs. Noble, who died last April, was the wife of Donald F. Noble, who had built up large real estate holdings in Milford, Pontiac, Highland and Commerce Townships.

Appraisers who finished their work last month said these holdings represented almost $377,000. Included are large tracts of land on and near M59 in Highland Township and a number of Pontiac residences.

The rest of the estate was in stocks and securities, banks, land contracts and mortgages.

Under the settlement, Mrs. Noble's two nephews and four nieces will receive $10,000 each.

The Milford First Presbyterian Church was willed another $5,000.

These were the only beneficiaries named besides the university. Mrs. Noble's son by a previous marriage, Edward J. Thornhill, also died last April.

Donald Noble, a 1896 graduate of the University of Michigan law school, practiced in Milford more than 45 years and was one of the community's leading citizens. He died in 1949.

Area Accidents Kill Child, Man

Girl, 6, Struck Leaving School Bus Near Her West Bloomfield Home

A 6-year-old school girl was fatally injured by a car yesterday afternoon as she left a school bus near her West Bloomfield Township home.

In addition, an East Lansing man was killed when his car skidded into a freight train engine one mile east of Imlay City.

The girl, Joy King, daughter of Mrs. Pauline King of 2469 Ogdon Rd., was injured when she dashed from behind the bus into the path of the auto at Middlebelt and Fieldbrook Roads. She was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital.

The driver, William McCall of 2271 St. Joseph Rd., West Bloomfield Township, was headed north on Middlebelt past the bus, which had stopped at the corner heading south.

McCall said he was going 35-40 miles per hour and did not have time to stop before hitting the girl. He was released after giving police a statement.

Fog and rain combined to play a part in the car-train collision. The driver, Wilson J. Scott, 34, of East Lansing, skidded 126 feet before smashing into the engine and damaging it so badly that it was unable to proceed.

Scott, alone in the car, was dead on arrival at Lapeer County General Hospital.

The train was operating on a seldom-used track of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad.

BRAINTREE, Mass. (AP)—Patrolman James Foti reports he was attacked with a bow and arrow by a 15-year-old boy listed as a runaway. The boy then ran off into the woods. The search for the young runaway continued.

Army Launches Jupiter in Incomplete Test Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Army test-launched a fiery, thundering Jupiter rocket from the missile test center near here last night.

From the moment of flaming takeoff until the torch dimmed out high in a starry sky some four minutes later, it appeared to be a most successful launching.

But the Defense Department said later that the missile failed to complete its full flight because of technical difficulties.

What that meant in terms of range, speed and accuracy was not explained.

The Jupiter is an intermediate range ballistic missile designed to deliver a nuclear warhead upon a target 1,500 miles distant. In one launching a Jupiter traveled 2,200 miles.

It is one of the most spectacular of all the missiles in the volume of light, heat and noise it produces.

IMPROVED TYPE

There were reports that last night's Jupiter was of a new, improved type called the Jupiter 4.

The Defense Department gave no indication of this. It said merely that the test firing of a Jupiter IRBM had been "successfully carried out" at 7:08 p.m.

The announcement added that the Jupiter was under development by the Army, and the test was one in a series of IRBM and intercontinental ballistic missile flight tests being conducted here.

The mighty weapon, towering 60 feet and gleaming white in bright floodlights, rose slowly and clum-

Illinois, Indiana, Missouri List Loss at Millions

20 Communities Struck in 'Tornado Alley' Area, Scene of '25 Disaster

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. — (INS)—The Tri-state area in Illinois, Missouri and Indiana known as "Tornado Alley" counted at least 11 dead and 250 injured today from a series of devastating twisters that wrought havoc to more than 20 communities.

Rescuers feared additional victims may be found when they complete their search of the tornado-battered area which was cut off for hours from communications and power facilities by the storms. Telephone service now has been partially restored.

Hardest hit was the southern Illinois town of Murphysboro which listed 9 dead and 174 injured, four of them critically. One person was killed at Sunfield, Ill., and another at Farmington, Mo.

Property damage was immense and officials said it would be days before a complete estimate could be made. State police believe the storms that struck late yesterday caused "millions of dollars of property damage."

The 150-mile belt where the tornadoes struck was alerted by the Weather Bureau in advance of the storm. It is almost the same section hit by twisters March 18, 1925, when 742 persons were killed and 2,771 injured. Murphysboro counted 225 dead and 100 injured then. It was at that time that the name "Tornado Valley" was given to the region.

At Mount Vernon, Ill., at least 50 persons were injured, five of them seriously, but no deaths have been reported.

Police Sgt. A. W. Fairchild said between 75 and 100 homes were either destroyed or badly damaged in the immediate area of Mount Vernon.

Christmas Near, but Weatherman Doesn't Know It

Continuing warm weather may make it difficult for Pontiac residents to believe Christmas is only six days away.

The U. S. Weather Bureau reports occasional rain will begin again tonight and continue through Friday. The low tonight will be 36-40 degrees.

Friday night will be partly cloudy and a little colder, with an expected low of 33-37. Saturday will be mostly cloudy and somewhat colder.

An unseasonable 47 was the lowest temperature recorded in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. At 2 p.m. the mercury stood at 54.

Animal Kingdom Offering Many Presents for Yule

By JANET ODELL

Today we're going to the dogs! As the Christmas snooper, we have been impressed with the attention paid to pets in the gay and giddy shopping world.

First, of course, are the real pets you can buy. One large variety store offers parrots, cockateels, Minah birds and African love birds. They also have spider monkeys for sale. The love birds are beautiful creatures.

If you already have a dog, get him some dog "Jamas" for the holidays; that's a fancy name for a dog sweater.

Some stores are carrying special packages of goodies for different kinds of pets. We saw two, one for dogs, the other for birds. Dogs love squeaky toys, while cats go for catnip mice.

Going from the live to the stuffed variety, we saw a stuffed pooch that was meant to be autographed; he was called a "scribble hound." One of the most charming stuffed animals we have seen is a stuffed llama.

Teenagers, far from outgrowing the stuffed toy age, get in it all over again. One company manufactures what they call "teenage cudde pillows." There was a handsome leopard waiting to grace some young girl's bed.

They're not live; they're not stuffed. But many a feminine recipient would love a fur collar for her sweater. They come in fake fur and in real fur, at any price you want to pay.

Wonder About Christ's Beginnings Is Spur for Search

Luke Gains First Light on Nativity

(Until Luke wrote the gospel bearing his name, the story of the Nativity had not been committed to print. Here is a recounting of how the systematic physician may have set out to erase the unknowns about Christ's arrival on earth.)

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Wonder is the spur to knowledge.

This was the compelling call that drew Luke into the greatest reporting assignment of all time.

He was out to probe a divine mystery — the advent of his Lord.

During a period while his comrade and spiritual mentor, Paul, was a prisoner in Caesarea on the Mediterranean east coast from about 57 to 59 A.D. Luke had the time to pursue his monumental inquiry.

There would be no better chance, and he was near Jesus' home territory.

WANTED FACTS

There was a store of documents for his preliminary scrutiny. Many persons, as he wrote, had "undertaken to compile a narrative" of Jesus. But to Luke, a doctor trained in factual analysis, they were far from complete.

★ ★ ★

None gave a precise description of the Lord's arrival—no adequate explanation of an occurrence that would amaze men ever after.

Luke, the polished, observant physician, went to work. What he was to learn would be caroled through the centuries at Christmas.

In earnest prayer, devotion and with a clinical scrupulousness to get, as he said, an "orderly account," he set about to examine the records, and to consult surviving witnesses who had first-hand information.

To start his research, the bits of scrolls and parchments that circulated guardedly among the congregations were

Jurors Test Drunkometer Machine

Give Tipsy Endorsement

DETROIT (AP)—A machine, the "drunkometer," designed to distinguish the drunk driver from one who has had only a couple of Christmas cocktails drew tipsy endorsements from three Traffic Court jurors here yesterday.

Each juror was given several shots of 100 proof whisky. Then they blew up balloons and the device measured the alcoholic content of air in the balloons.

They agreed that the machine was more than fair. Each juror admitted feeling high. They felt they were too drunk to drive safely.

But the machine in each case showed the alcoholic content of their blood to be less than .15 per cent which would mean an almost automatic drunk driving conviction in states where such tests are legal evidence.

The jurors—Miss Virginia Archer, Miss Anne Amsden and Conrad Praski—took part in a drunk driving case last week which is being appealed to the State Supreme Court to test legality of the machine in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

With the warm glow that comes from performing a public service, the three jurors were driven home by Traffic Court officials.

Bethune School Site Defended

Superintendent Testifies in Henry Suit Charging Segregation

The law suit charging segregation in Pontiac public schools moved into its second day in Detroit with Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, school superintendent, taking the stand to defend the location of Bethune School.

He was questioned by Herman Stallings, Pontiac attorney representing Milton R. Henry, who brought the suit, as to why the school wasn't located on Golf drive instead of its present Lake street location.

Dr. Whitmer answered that the school was designed to relieve overcrowding at Bagley School and serve students in the Lakeside Housing project.

At one point in the trial, Federal Judge Theodore Levin scolded Henry for speaking out of turn.

Henry and his wife charge the Board of Education discriminated when it ordered the transfer of their eight-year-old daughter Shannon to the new school near her home. They are seeking $1,000 damages from each of the eight board members and redress of constitutional rights.

Stallings today also asked Dr. Whitmer why white students living north of Orchard Lake in the Indian Village area, a half mile from Bethune School, were not sent to the school.

Whitmer answered by saying they would be faced with a safety hazard in having to cross Orchard Lake avenue.

"And why aren't the white students living in the Woodward Terraces not attending Jefferson Junior High School although it is within the so-called school attendance boundaries?" Stallings questioned Dr. Whitmer further.

"Most of them go to private and parochial schools," he answered.

Board of Education president Glenn Griffin testified yesterday that the school board builds schools where there is a need, and draws attendance boundaries on the basis of pupil distance from school, safety factors and geographic barriers.

The Day in Birmingham

Fellow Officers to Honor Retiring Police Lt. Timm

BIRMINGHAM — Fellow officers tomorrow night will pay tribute to retiring Birmingham Police Lt. Henry Timm, who is leaving the department after 29 years of service.

Members of the Lions Club honored Lt. Timm at their meeting this week when they presented him with a gift, plus a purse of 29 silver dollars, one for each of his years of service.

Timm has worked closely with the Lions Club in the school district's Safety Patrol boys program. Seven of his 29 years as a police officer in Birmingham have been spent with the juvenile division.

With the assistance of other service clubs in the city, the lieutenant has conducted the bicycle inspection and licensing program. His work has been credited by the service clubs with saving many young lives.

Lt. Timm said he feels today's youngsters are no worse than they have ever been.

"Our juvenile delinquency problems are receiving wider publicity than they have in the past, which makes it appear the youngsters are far worse than their parents and grandparents were.

"A number of the boys who came before me as problem children have turned out all right. Now, as grown men, I still hear from them. They're holding down responsible positions and I have all the faith in the world in their future," Timm said.

Birmingham for the first time in its history has a one-way street in the downtown area.

A temporary route for westbound traffic on Martin street, from Bates to Chester streets, has been arranged to permit a greater flow of traffic and customers going to the Post Office.

Parking is permitted on both sides of the short block.

In his November accident summary, Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley raps drivers who continue their right-of-way violations. This alone accounted for 25 of the 62 reported accidents last month, he said.

There were 14 personal injury accidents, resulting in injuries to 15 persons, Moxley reported. He said following too closely was the second high violation.

Joy Ann King

Service for Joy Ann King, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. King, 2460 Ogden Rd., Orchard Lake, will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co.

She was killed when struck by a car yesterday afternoon on Middle Belt road, near her home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Surviving besides her parents are her brother, Billie at home; her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Thomas E. King of Steger, Ill., and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Stelling, of Gobels.

Bernard R. Reese

Service for Bernard Reese, 70, of Orlando, Fla., who died Monday in Orlando, will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home, Birmingham. Officiating will be the Rev. Robert Dewey of the Congregational Church of Birmingham. Burial will be in Forest Lawn Cemetery, Detroit.

A real estate dealer in Florida for 13 years, he leaves his son, Bernard F. of Birmingham.

Tot Swallows Quantity of Aspirin Pills, Dies

DETROIT (AP) — Daniel Ferrante, one and a half years old, died yesterday after he and a sister swallowed a quantity of aspirin pills found in the purse of an aunt.

★ ★ ★

His sister, Deborah, 2, was reported in critical condition. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ferrante.

Their aunt, Mrs. Beverly Palazzola, noticed that the children seemed "sluggish" and called a physician. The hospital to which they were taken diagnosed their condition as "an overdose of ferrous-sulphate and aspirin."

As it climbed from the launching stand through early evening darkness its tremendous, scorching tail sharply illuminated miles of the east Florida seacoast in this area.

In part because it was launched after dark, the Jupiter was much more sensational in takeoff than was the Atlas ICBM launched from here one day earlier.

The two major launchings in two days emphasized America's stepped-up program to outstrip Soviet achievements in the missile field.

Know Way Around Bar

DETROIT (AP) — These burglars knew their way around, Robert Akers, night manager of a Detroit bar, told police somebody took $1,200 from a box hidden behind the bar, $900 from a liquor closet, $1,000 from a hiding place in a sleeping bag in the basement and $150 from a cigar box.

Need More Funds to Arm NATO Allies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials said today no money for arming West Europe with intermediate range rockets is budgeted in the $3,940,000,000 foreign aid bill being readied for Congress.

They said several hundred million dollars may have to be added to the request to pay for the 1,500-mile-range Jupiter and Thor missile—if the European nations decide they want them.

The 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance summit conference at Paris yesterday accepted unanimously the principle that NATO as a whole should have the weapons.

Britain and Turkey agreed to accept them. Only the Netherlands among the Continental European allies said yes immediately. However, the United States is not expected to have intermediate range missiles ready to deliver overseas until late next year.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Do ocean currents swirl to the right in this hemisphere or is this sailor talk, weather folklore?

Ocean currents, just like air masses, swirl or veer to the right in the northern hemisphere. They swirl to the left below the equator.

This is thought to be caused by the rotation of the earth. The effect this rotation has on large bodies of water and the sea of air above the surface of the earth is recognizable. But a hot controversy is likely when one claims that this Coriolis Force, as it is sometimes called, extends its power to such minor things as tub water, sink water, etc.—which way the water will swirl when the stopper is removed.

And whether Coriolis Force causes drunks to fall or not is highly debatable. It is probably still safe to assume it is the beverage consumed.

IVAN L. WILES

Retirement Dec. 31 for GM Official

DETROIT — Retirement of Ivan L. Wiles as executive vice president of General Motors was announced today by President Harlow H. Curtice.

The retirement, elected by Wiles under provisions of the General Motors retirement program, will be effective Dec. 31. He also is retiring from membership on the General Motors board of directors and from the operations policy and administration committees.

"Mr. Wiles has served General Motors with distinction in many important positions during the last 30 years," Curtice said. "He leaves with our highest regard and best wishes."

Appointment of Wiles in 1956, as executive vice president in charge of dealer relations capped a distinguished General Motors career that began in 1928 when he joined Oakland Motor Car Co., predecessor of GM's Pontiac Motor Division, as an accountant. In three years he rose to assistant comptroller of Oakland and in 1932 moved to the Buick Motor Division.

fense in case of need. In view of the present Soviet policies in the field of new weapons, the Council has also decided that intermediate-range ballistic missiles will have to be put at the disposal of the supreme commander allied forces in Europe."

The chiefs of government said they had decided to coordinate the development, research and production of the best modern arms in Europe.

On other major issues, the NATO chiefs made these comments:

MIDDLE EAST — We affirm the support of our governments for the independence and sovereignty of states in the Middle East. The stability of this important area is vital to world peace.

AFRICA — We hope the countries and peoples of that continent, who are disposed to do so, will cooperate with the free world.

They expressed concern over recent events in Indonesia.

The NATO leadership expressed their desire to promote disarmament negotiations with the Russians, preferably within the framework of the United Nations. But should the Soviet Union refuse to participate in the work of the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee, the communique continued, "we would welcome a meeting at the foreign ministers level to resolve the deadlock."

Russia announced during the recently concluded U.N. Assembly that it would no longer negotiate in the five-nation subcommittee because it was stacked 4-1 against her. Subsequently the Assembly agreed to expand the parent 12-nation disarmament commission to 25 nations, but the Soviets said the West and its allies still outweighed it.

The communique also stated NATO's willingness to examine any proposal from any source for controlled reduction of arms of all types.

Balmy Weather in State May Stay Several Days

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unseasonably warm weather settled over most of Michigan today, six days before Christmas.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Detroit said the balmy weather, almost springlike in some sections, would stay several days.

Accompanied by light rain, the gust of warm air up from the Gulf of Mexico sent temperatures rising to 49 at Detroit, 39 at Pellston and Traverse City, 41 at Sault Ste. Marie and 34 at Houghton.

The weather bureau said it expected a steady but slight drop in temperatures through Saturday.

A mass of arctic air is forming over Canada and may bring a sudden end to the balmy temperatures next week.

Skies cleared in the storm-battered sections of southern Illinois and eastern Missouri today after a series of out-of-season tornadoes dealt death and destruction to nearly a score of towns.

As skies cleared last last night in the storm area, the thunderstorm activity moved into Tennessee.

Although heavy rain and moderate winds were reported in some north central areas, the tornado threat appeared to have ended at least temporarily.

Scattered areas of rain or snow were reported in other parts of the country but there were no violent storms. Rain and drizzle sprinkled sections from Lake Superior southward into northern Illinois and southeastward into the Mid-Atlantic Coast States.

Bound Over on Charge of Attempted Murder

Terrance F. McGowan, 59, of 370 S. Edith St., charged with the demolition of his estranged wife's home, was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday at his examination before Municipal Court Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

McGowan is scheduled to be arraigned on Dec. 23. He was returned to the Oakland County Jail, with bond continued at $5,000.

McGowan was arraigned on attempted murder charges Nov. 18. He was arrested shortly after some dynamite had been thrown into the basement of his wife's home on Nov. 15.

Luke Gains First Light on Parents of Christ

And by cross-checking, he found, some could be ignored as colored inventions.

Two of Luke's best sources were certainly the aging apostle, Matthew, and John Mark, both authors of gospels. The earliest gospel was Mark's. Both Luke and Matthew made use of it.

But it didn't satisfy the questioning Luke.

While he lived in Caesarea, Mark came there briefly to renew his service in Paul's far-flung missionary work. Mark had timidly withdrawn from the risky venture before, but in Paul's present trouble, he returned.

Luke then was staying at the hospitable stone house of Philip, a seasoned evangelist with four spirited, cultured daughters. Like Luke, they spoke Greek and Hebrew. The young convert Timothy and other co-workers also were there.

TALKED WITH MARK

It was an ideal opportunity for Luke to confer with Mark, who had been closely associated with the saintly, big-hearted old Peter.

Mark, for his literary assistance, was called the chief apostle's interpreter.

Surely, Peter had related all manner of things about Jesus. Could not Mark pass on some clarification of the early period?

As they conversed—the clean-shaven Greek and the bearded Jew— they strolled, perchance, along the paved promenade beside the city's man-made harbor.

Luke rubbed his chin, glancing sidewise at Mark.

Had he obtained no details about the birth of Jesus? For truly, this was the core of the whole movement, the incarnation of God as man.

Mark's brow furrowed, his gaze on the sea. No, no he was not certain. Peter did not dwell on those first things. Perhaps he had mentioned it. But . . . Mark shook his head.

LUKE PERSISTED

Luke persisted. But have you not asked the first apostle about this wonder? Can you offer no light on our Lord's infancy and childhood? Being a man as well as our redeemer, he must have grown up, even as you and I?

Mark spread his hands. No, alas, he had nothing, nothing definite.

Shortly thereafter, Mark was sent by Paul to work in Colossae. From his cell, Paul dispatched an introductory letter for him.

Mark, who had been a lad, the son of a wealthy widow of Jerusalem when Jesus was crucified their, recounted in his short gospel only the days of Jesus' adult ministry — the phase shared and known well by Peter—nothing else!

Luke used much of his material — 330 of Mark's 661 verses —some of it condensed and improed in phraseology and medical particulars, all with exacting accuracy.

CONTINUED SEARCH

But Luke also sought the fuller record.

Through the apostle, Matthew, the one-time tax collector, Luke secured considerable guidance, obtaining data from an old "collection of saings" by Jesus, which Matthew had, and which now is often called the "Q" document (for the German "quelle" or source).

The result is reflected in 238 verses common to the gospels of Luke and Matthew.

Matthew also provided some insight into the beginnings of the holy visitation, the mystical aspects which had fascinated Luke.

The apostle told of Joseph's worried perplexity in Nazareth when Mary became heavy with child, and of his eventual understanding of her condition as an act of God—that she had conceived "of the holy spirit."

But in terse, restricted passages that cry out for amplification, Matthew specifies only that Jesus was "born in Bethlehem," and promptly, skips a year or two ahead—to the visit and gifts of the wise men.

He also sketches King Herod's panic at reports of the Eastern magi about the display of a great star; and tells of the Herod-ordered massacre of Bethlehem children, of the baby Jesus being spirited to Egypt, and eventually back to Nazareth.

SUPREME MOMENT LOST?

That is all. Of the majestic, supreme moment, when God took on the guise of a human infant, of the instant when heaven and earth met there was nothing else.

Luke's dissecting mind thirsted for a more thorough picture of it a'l.

Why was the birth in Bethlehem when the couple lived in Nazareth? What was the year? No hint was given—only that it was sometime in the 37-year reign of Herod. The record of such a prodigious event was all too scanty.

Was the birth altogether normal? Who was there? Was it in a palace or a hovel? Had the mother known of the miraculous circumstances — consequences? What secred did she bear? What did she do? What was the child like?

In the guest chamber of Philip's house, where Luke maintained a small, temporary infirmary, he packed his supplies in a leather pouch, and prepared for a journey.

He himself, before it was too late, would have to track down the facts.

Purr in Engine Is Cat

HELENA, Mont. (AP)— At first Mrs. Fred DeWolf thought the peculiar noise was her car acting up. On closer inspection she found a cat entangled in her fan belt, meowing mightily. Police extracted it, harmlessly for all concerned.

Officer Threatens Action in Civil Service Promotion

Legal action against the Pontiac Civil Service Commission and the city were threatened last night by an attorney representing Acting Lt. John DePauw.

★ ★ ★

DePauw, who placed fourth on the eligibility list for lieutenants, charged that his acting rank was confirmed under the State Civil Service Act when he was not given notice in writing that he would be returned to the rank of sergeant within six months after his appointment as acting lieutenant.

His attorney, Howard I. Bond, said he would seek a temporary injunction to halt any promotions to lieutenant rank until DePauw could get a clarification of his rights from the circuit court.

The commission certified the results of the civil service examination for lieutenants with the following sergeants qualifying in the order given:

William Hanger, Fred Goines, Raymond Meggitt, John DePauw, Ted Goines and Frederick Wirth.

The commission said that in accordance with a resolution of a previous meeting, Acting Lts. DePauw and Carl P. Colando were immediately returned to the ranks of sergeant.

Chief Herbert W. Straley took issue with the board's position that promotion must be made from the eligibility list, starting from the top.

He said that under the Civil Service Act, the commission had the duty to investigate the performance of those who passed the test and to use its own discretion on promotion from among them.

Board members raised several questions as to why there were no promotions being made from the eligibility lists.

Chief Straley said that none would be made until the department was brought up to strength. It now lacks 15 patrolmen. He termed the recruitment program "at a standstill."

Chairman Theodore Carlson asked who was responsible for the delay in processing applications. Straley and Inspector Clark Wheaton said they had only received four applications from the personnel director and none stood up under reference checks.

★ ★ ★

Carlson said the city manager would be asked to expedite the processing of applications by the personnel director and to authorize a more extensive recruitment campaign.

Electric Power From the Atom

World's First Station Entirely Commercial Opens at Shipping Port

SHIPPINGPORT, Pa. (AP)—Atom-generated electricity surged from the world's first full-scale completely commercial nuclear power station today.

Jack Waugaman, 37, of nearby Hookstown, Pa., was the "man of the hour" when the historic 110-million-dollar plant produced its first electricity for homes, shops and factories from splitting uranium atoms.

Waugaman closed the switch on an intricate control panel that sent power flowing from the station's turbine generator into Duquesne Light Co.'s regular system yesterday.

"It was my job," said Waugaman matter-of-factly when asked his reaction. "I didn't analyze my feelings at the time. Maybe I was just too busy, but come to think of it that must have been a pretty significant thing."

"You know, there's no difference between the electricity here and any other," he added. "And the generator coptrols are much the same as in a regular coal plant."

Called a switchboard operator, Waugaman mans the plant's electrical control board on the midnight to 8 a.m. shift. His chief job is seeing that the power flows into the company's lines properly, a highly technical operation.

★ ★ ★

A switchboard operator for about five years, he began training at Shippingport a year ago. He joined Duquesne Light 16 years ago as a laborer.

When Waugaman first touched the control switch at 12:39 a.m., only 5,000 kilowatts of electricity pulsed into Duquesne Light's system.

During the day this was stepped up to 20,000 and a company spokesman said full operating capacity of 60,000 kilowatts is to be reached in a few days. That is sufficient to supply the residential needs of a community of 250,000 population.

★ ★ ★

Shippingport, 25 miles northwest of Pittsburgh, is the nation's only large-scale atomic power plant and the second in the world. The other is in England. It supplies commercial electricity but its main purpose is production of plutonium for military uses.

Prince Charles Skillful Boxer, Marbles Player

LONDON (INS) — Young Prince Charles demonstrated during his first semester at Cheam School superior skill as a boxer and marbles player.

Boys returning to their homes for Christmas vacation from the exclusive prep school told how the 9-year-old prince fought twice during the semester and won both times.

That wasn't too surprising because he had received boxing lessons from a professional coach before starting school, but he had to learn about marbles on the Cheam playgrounds.

The big bag of marbles he carried back to the palace yesterday proved how well he had learned the ancient English game.

Bird Formation Useful

WASHINGTON — The familiar V-shaped formation of migrating birds, such as Canada geese, gives the rear birds an unobstructed view while their leader guides them through the air, the National Geographic Magazine says.

Front Line Changing in '58

Civil Rights Dispute May Shift to Texas

By BEM PRICE

There is a strong possibility that the front lines in the South's continuing battle against racial integration in the public schools will shift in 1958 from Arkansas to neighboring Texas.

Houston, which operates the largest segregated school system in the nation, now is under court orders to admit children without regard to race, though Federal District Judge Ben C. Connally has fixed no time limit for compliance.

NO PLAN YET

In Dallas, school officials so far have not come up with a plan for compliance with another federal court's order to begin desegregation in mid - January. They are caught between the court order and a new state law which requires a voter referendum before beginning integration.

Neither Houston nor Dallas has yet made plans for such a referendum. Dallas is seeking a court interpretation of the state law. Under the law, if integration is carried out without such a referendum the offending school district loses it state funds and school officials are subject to a $1,000 fine.

In all probability both Houston and Dallas will seek delays in the the execution of the court orders through further litigation. Prosegregationists in East Texas are looking to Dallas primarily for guidance.

ADMIT NEGROES

It was under this new state law that Pleasanton, a South Texas town of 5,000, voted 343 to 88 to admit 36 Negroes to classes containing 1,460 white students.

Little Rock was, of course, one of the top stories in 1957. So great was the furor that it obscured the fact that in Arkansas there were already nine school districts among the state's 423 operating on a desegregated basis. Actually these figures are somewhat misleading, for only 228 of the 423 districts contain potential Negro students.

The Little Rock episode also obscured the fact that among the 8,832 school districts in Southern and border states, there are only 3,008 with potential Negro students and of these 761 have begun desegregation.

The Republican party dates back to its organization sometimes in 1854.

Overlapping Sports Open for Debate

JOE KUHARICH, coach of the Washington Redskins recently proposed that major league baseball end its regular season by Labor Day so that professional football could start play in September.

★ ★ ★

KUHARICH is not alone with this idea. Some sound thinking along these lines might make quite a lot of sense. As it is today, we have a great deal of overlapping in most of of our sports.

★ ★ ★

Under the suggested plan of Kuharich, the World Series would start right after Labor Day. This seems to be sound reasoning since the summer weather is really over.

★ ★ ★

Professional football would then have a chance to play three league games in September, finishing the season the first week in December.

Extending football to Christmas means playing a number of games in extremely bad weather conditions. Rain, ice, snow and freezing weather are bad for the game. It hinders top notch performance by the players. In some cases, it really makes mockery out of good football.

Playing on a frozen field and in freezing weather will many times cause a game to be won on breaks, rather than performance. Also, injuries mount during the bad weather.

This year it could have been possible to be playing the National Football League championship game in 1958. If the game were to be played in the Midwest, weather might well decide the winner. Also, fans can't really enjoy a game played in subfreezing weather.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps a review of all major league sports might be in order. Football overlaps hockey; hockey runs into the baseball season and baseball is still being played in the chilly October football weather.

★ ★ ★

The reason behind the long overlapping schedules is dollars and cents to the team owners. Most fans realize this and want them to be successful enough to remain in business. Perhaps if the three major sports, hockey, baseball and football, coincided their scheduling so as not to overlap, a better overall patronage could be expected.

★ ★ ★

Today professional sports are running in competition with each other. A re-evaluation of the seasons and careful consideration of schedules could possibly eliminate this. At least it is a question that is open for debate.

New Chemical Found for Lamprey Control

Invasion of the upper Great Lakes by the sea lamprey nearly 30 years ago was the start of a battle which still is going on.

As a result of lamprey depredations, commercial fishing for lake trout and some other valuable fish has all but disappeared. In the early days the State Department of Conservation did most of the basic work for a control program.

Later the Fish and Wildlife Service took over and, with the help of the Conservation Department, experimental weirs were set up at the mouths of rivers and streams emptying into the Great Lakes. This method aimed to kill adult lampreys going upstream to spawn.

From a recent meeting of the International Great Lakes Fisheries Commission held at Sudbury, Ontario, comes word of a new chemical method of killing sea lamprey larvae. This is said to be much less expensive than electric barrier systems now in use and much more effective.

The chemical, developed and tested at a Michigan plant, is deadly poisonous to lamprey larvae but not to lake trout or other game fish. North Shore commercial fishermen were told that the cost would be about $200,000 yearly in contrast to the $1 million annually for maintenance of the present system.

Commission members assure the public that use of the chemical is safe. Fish taken from treated waters had been eaten with no ill effect nor change in the taste of the fish.

If this new control should prove the answer to lamprey depredations, it would restore a great natural resource and be a boon to those fishermen whose livelihood had all but disappeared with the lake trout.

Found a Cutter?

Very Unique Way of Baby Transportation Is Missing

Youth: A generation knocked by some people because they don't belong to it.

A snow vehicle of the past century, called a cutter, is missing. Fourteen years ago it was secured by

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Hoffman

of 40 Miller St., and converted into a means of winter transportation for their baby son.

Ted Hoffman,

now a Pontiac Press carrier. Since then three other Hoffman children have been pushed around in it, surely a rather unique and somewhat regal stunt.

But the cutter is gone. Somebody stole it from the family yard the other night. It was painted white with red trim. And its return is quite essential—there's a new Hoffman coming next month.

Keep off the ice in our lakes until we have another spell of cold weather. When they're safe, due notice will be given in this column.

A litter of four, recently delivered by the family dog of

Mr. and Mrs. Bryson Delehanty

of Lake Orion, bear unmistakable and incontestable hereditary evidence. The father is all black and the mother all white. The pups are all white with no spots, except that they all have black feet, tails and ears.

A Plymouth Rock hen in the flock of

of Pontiac Lake laid an egg that weighed 12 ounces, and had only one yolk.

Several of the Pontiac area cities and towns have gone all out on the Christmas decorations in their business sections. After checking over a few of them, I feel like giving first place to Oxford, with a number of others breathing on its neck.

In phoning me about the theft of a Christmas tree from his yard,

David Harlman

Verbal Orchids—

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Paris in Winter

David Lawrence Says:

European Hesitancy Angers U.S.

WASHINGTON — A Gallup poll made in England says that the majority of people there don't want to permit American missile bases on their territory. Norway, Denmark and West Germany are doubtful, too.

LAWRENCE

The NATO conference has agreed to go ahead "in principle" with the idea of putting missile bases and nuclear stockpiles in Western Europe, but to discuss details later. There is a noticeable hesitancy on the subject among some of our allies.

Is European public opinion really informed about the true feelings of the American people concerning all this doubt and hesitation? Most Washington correspondents of European newspapers look only in a few metropolitan papers in the East for quotes to send abroad. They do not seem to realize that there is a vast "hinterland" which is also a part of America and which influences Congress.

READ EDITORIAL

All Europeans might well read an editorial which appeared this week in "The Morning Tribune" of Tampa, Fla. It seems to this correspondent to reflect accurately the widely held opinion in America today. Under the title "The American Mood," the full text of the editorial follows:

"Sitting here in a country which hasn't felt the invader's boot since 1812, perhaps an American is in a poor position to understand why some of our European allies seem to get the shakes when Russia warns them against agreeing to put NATO missile bases on their soil.

"But there is one thing the American understands quite clearly:

"He and his fellow taxpayers in the United States have been carrying the main part of the burden in the defense of the free world since the end of World War II.

MAINTAINED FORCE

"American billions perfected and maintained the atomic bomber force which, like a 24-hour cop on the corner, has kept the Soviet bandits in check. American billions rebuilt and refueled the broken-down economy of every country which offered its friendship, even those who were against us in World War II. American dollars still pour out, at the rate of about 3½ billions a year, to help sustain the armies and industries of our allies around the world.

"No nation in history ever has been so generous to its friends and former foes. Self-interest? Of course there was and is self-interest. In helping fight poverty in Italy, the United States thereby hopes to save an ally from the clutches of communism. In giving millions to modernize the industries of a backward Spain, the United States strengthens a strategic military base. But no nation ever asked so little in return: The cooperation of the beneficiary in saving itself from Soviet slavery.

"Knowing these things, the American is apt to feel his temper rise when he reads that West Germany or France or Italy or some of the others who have gladly taken our aid now are hemming and hawing on the proposal to establish missile bases on their soil.

AFRAID OF ATTACK

"They are afraid they might invite Soviet attack in event of war, goes the explanation—as though they wouldn't be attacked by Russia anyway unless they promptly held out their wrists for the shackles.

"They think we ought to talk to Russia again about settling all these problems, they say—as though Russia has given the slightest evidence, in all the conferences that have gone before, of possessing any real desire to settle anything.

"There is, we suppose, no necessity for an immediate decision on the missile bases, since the United States doesn't yet have the missiles ready. A few months of quiet consultation won't hurt.

"But there's something that our friends on the European continent ought to understand.

"The American is in no mood to watch the people he rescued from economic ruin and protected from Communist conquest now demur at lending the ground on which to place the latest weapons of defense; defense for them."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Daily Minimum of Iodin One of 7 Keys to 'Vite'

A young person in good nutritional condition, whose physical education has not been neglected, feels just fine and dandy all the time.

DR. BRADY

I can't imagine a better feeling or a livlier sense of wellbeing than a person with "vite" enjoys.

Vite is no vain flight of fancy. It is the superior health and functional efficiency one attains and maintains through good nutrition and physical education.

The educators look upon these two subjects with contempt. High schools and colleges have no interest in or time for such trivialities. And so most Americans do not attain vite.

They figure they do not need it—if they feel tired, anxious, weak, worried, discouraged, blue, nervous, despondent or unhappy, they need only take a dose or two of aspirin, acetanilide, barbiturate, tranquilizer or alcohol and right away they'll feel better "fast," as hucksters say.

Feeling better in that way means only that these foolish persons are less conscious of their troubles while under the effects of the drug.

ALL NEED IODIN

I have harped incessantly on iodin deficiency, which prevails extensively throughout southern Canada and northern United States, from the Pacific to the Atlantic. (Formerly I spelled it iodin without the final e, to indicate that I was talking about nutritional iodin; i-o-d-i-n-e with the final e, to indicate that it was medicinal iodine, the mild 2 per cent tincture commonly used as a first aid disinfectant for minor wounds. But a professor of chemistry tells me i-o-d-i-n without the final e is correct spelling, no matter whether one speaks of nutritional or medicinal iodin.)

It is true, man, woman, or child needs but little iodin. It is equally true that even in areas in the goiter belt where people use iodized salt in place of ordinary salt, a great many men, women and children still suffer from iodin deficiency — though noticeable goiter is far less frequent among these people than are the other manifestations of iodin deficiency, which I describe in the pamphlet The Iodin Ration. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the free pamphlet.

The Iodin Ration is one of the seven keys to vite. The other six keys are described in the booklet The 7 Keys to Vite, for which send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Voice of the People

'Jails Were Never Meant to Be Like Luxury Hotels'

What's all this talk about the County Jail? Since when is a jail supposed to be a luxury hotel? As for the bathroom facilities, the ones we had at college were as crowded as that, and we thought we were living pretty high. If it's good enough for college students, prisoners shouldn't gripe.

And besides, no matter how bad it is, those people know what they can do to stay out of jail. Why should taxpayers scrimp and save so law breakers can lead the life of Riley? Maybe if we stopped making jails such cheery places, we'd have less people who need to be sent there.

'What Will They Think of Next?'

What next? Now they're trying to decide who owns outer space? We can't handle what we already have, and we're getting concerned about the stratosphere. Just to get the jump on everyone else, why don't we start working on a deed to some of the other universes? Wouldn't it be funny if there were people on other planets trying to decide which of them owns the earth?

Man Reminisces of Good Old Days

I hate to keep looking back to the "good old days," but when I think of the peace we used to know back then, it seems mighty pleasant. Nobody ever worried about Russians or missiles or such things. As per always our allies are with us to our last man. And he's back again with Pandora's portfolio.

First gimmick to settle is the lunar satellite. Pease on earth and goodwill to moon.

Next is our international caper of presenting arms to the twin Bedouins. The French regard that as our Persian-Maltese policy. A slap in the puss.

This conference isn't getting anywhere with the same old U. N. interpreters. They should get a two-platoon team with happier ears.

You cannot blame our allies for thinking we are playing both ends against the middle like an idiot on a flute.

But we're the Blondie of the dotted lines and we'll sign anything.

We're hoping for better results this time with our cards on the table and all our chips on the windowsill.

Smiles

Sometimes a man is called college bred after just a four-year loaf.

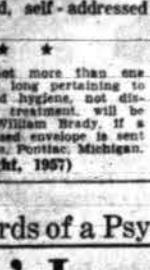
Teens' Loud Music Drains Energy

Ada is like millions of other teenagers, for there is a constant feud between parents and their children regarding music. Kids want it loud. Parents like it soft. Kids want it fast. Parents prefer the slow waltz time. Kids want to make music a form of melodic calisthenics. Parents like to hold hands and dream to music. Why? Scrapbook this case record for future use.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case W-376: Ada F., aged 16, is a high school junior.



DR. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I yell at her a lot of times," her father admitted, "but I can't stand loud music.

"Yet Ada will sit within three feet of our radio with the power turned on full blast and never seem to mind it at all.

"Why, the racket is so terrific you can hear it half a block down the street!

"Kids are supposed to have older folks, so why do the teenagers usually turn the radio or TV on full blast?

"And why do they crave so much rock 'n' roll and other gymnastics with their music?"

TEENAGE MUSIC

Well, youngsters have so much excess energy that they are very uncomfortable when they can't keep it drained off rapidly.

★ ★ ★

"I feel as if I'd blow my top," said the young soldiers in World War II when they were likewise pent-up and unable to expend as much energy as was being created.

So they developed the cigaret habit as a means of indulging in one-sided callisthenics. For the act of waving a cigaret around in one hand for five or ten minutes, lets them drain off a little nervous energy from the brain.

Kids like loud music because lound sounds are more fatiguing than soft ones. Older folks haven't much surplus energy, so they prefer soft music.

★ ★ ★

Teen agers MUST get rid of their excess energy. And loudness helps fatigue them faster, so they subconsciously want blaring radios and turn the TV far higher than do their parents.

CHURCH MUSIC

Young people also complain about the slow tempo and funeral nature of many church hymns.

For kids want fast action so they can release more energy. Thus, they will almost invariably pick which hymn below, if given a choice?

"Nearer My God to Thee."
"Onward Christian Soldiers."

The marching tempo and faster time of the second hymn will appeal far more to youth.

"Please sit still," Mamma may whisper to Junior at church.

But Junior simply cannot sit still. He is like a steam boiler in a locomotive with a roaring fire under it.

If the train has stopped and is not dissipating the steam pressure by pulling loaded freight cars, the pressure rises alarmingly.

Steam engines are thus equipped with safety valves. Soon the excess steam shoots out in a hissing blast.

Children let off steam at church or in school by chewing their fingernails or picking hangnails. Chewing gum is likewise a good safety valve.

WHY RECESS?

We offer kids recess periods in grade school to help drain off pent-up energy via leg action.

For the hands and arms don't dissipate such energy fast enough during the seat work of the classroom. Recess periods are steam safety valves, as it were.

And music is used by teenagers as a form of rhythmic athletics to get rid of pent-up pressure. Hence, the old "Charleston;" then the "Black Bottom" and the jitterbug craze, followed recently by 'rock 'n' roll and calypso.

Don't criticize kids too much, for they MUST get rid of steam. Music and organized athletics channel it off constructively. Otherwise, it breaks out in juvenile delinquency. So — give kids music to avoid mischief!

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

LONDON (INS) — Queen Elizabeth II probably will learn this week that her son and heir, Prince Charles, is about average at his studies and an enthusiastic athlete.

Charles' first end-of-term report from Cheam School, which began the Christmas holidays Wednesday, is a top-secret document shared only by Headmaster Beck and the royal family.

But it will reflect accurately the not-so-secret views of the largely middle-class boys at Cheam—who have been watching Charles' progress at prep school with equally objective and interested eyes. And their yardstick of judgment is perhaps a bit more demanding than the headmaster's.

Charles' report probably will show that his conduct and cooperation have been good. Moreover, he is taking his time in getting rid of his shyness, although he has been joining in the dormitory rough - and - tumbles in recent weeks.

★ ★ ★

Headmaster Beck will not have much to say about sports except that Charles is an eager participant, but the other boys could tell the Queen that her son is developing into a promising fullback at soccer.

BOYS MAY TELL ALL

No special instructions have been issued to any of the boys about what they may or may not tell their parents about Charles' first term. In more than 90 homes, including the Queen's, Charles' progress will be the main topic of holiday conversation.

The Cheam boys naturally are excited about the end-of-term. School breaks up today with a Christmas feast and then the boys leave for home.

★ ★ ★

A royal car was to pick up Charles after lunch and take him to Buckingham Palace for the start of his month's vacation. On Saturday he will travel with the rest of his family to Sandringham, the Queen's Norfolk estate.

"Veto" comes from the Latin word meaning "I forbid."

Dr. Vannevar Bush Declares:

Satellite Proves We Must Revise

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The overriding lesson which the American public should take from Russia's startling earth satellite development is the discovery of the dire need to revamp the system of recruiting and training young scientists in the U.S.

This is the opinion of Dr. Vannevar Bush, one of America's top scientists, presently chairman of the corporation of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"The really significant aspect of Russia's scientific progress is the method they use for finding and educating their best scientific talent," he said in an exclusive interview with NEA Service.

"Their education system is geared to seek out from all over the country the youngsters with the most promise for succeeding in the sciences," he added. "They just don't let a smart young man or woman slip through their fingers.

"Then when they get hold of these youngsters they make sure that nothing interferes with educating them right through the doctorate stage. But that's only if they prove that they really have the early ability they showed. They don't waste time, like we sometimes do, trying to educate persons without ability."

DR. VANNEVAR BUSH: They don't let a smart one escape.

* * *

In recent years, the 66-year-old peppery, plain-talking Dr. Bush has devoted more and more of his time to trying to improve the caliber of scientific education in the U. S. Before taking his present position with M.I.T. he served as professor, dean of engineering and vice president of the famed institution.

During World War II, Dr. Bush was director of the Office of Scientific Research and Development and the first chairman of the Research and Development Board which was created after the war. During the war he was a key figure in guiding the development of the first atomic bomb.

From this vantage point Dr. Bush has seen a steady deterioration of the recruiting and training of U.S. scientists, he pointed out.

"One of the first things we do when we find a promising young man in college is put him in the Army," Dr. Bush said. "And that doesn't make a scientist out of him."

* * *

Dr. Bush has long been a sharp critic of draft laws and regulations which don't give young scientists a chance to continue their education uninterrupted by military service.

He claimed that a root of the whole problem can be found in the secondary schools of the nation:

"In Russia they are getting better secondary school teachers and giving them better training than we do in the United States. A secondary school teacher in Russia is a person with prestige in the community and with authority to channel his promising students into scientific education.

"The first thing we've got to do here is somehow give our secondary school teachers more prestige and something like the authority with talented pupils which they have in Russia. And I deliberately place this as the first requisite.

"Secondly, we must pay our teachers more."

Dr. Bush has also been a severe critic of the lack of unified scientific research and development in the Pentagon, which he has said in the past stems from a lack of adequate unification of the services.

He said he does not want to comment on that aspect of Russia's apparent leadership in the scientific-military field at this time.

Girard Returns to Illinois Home

Gets Army Discharge; Refuses to Tell Type; Says Verdict Unjust

FT. SHERIDAN, Ill. (AP) — William Girard has his Army discharge, but what type—honorable or less than honorable—the Ottawa, Ill., ex-GI and the Army aren't saying.

Girard, whose slaying of a Japanese woman created an international incident, was discharged three hours after arriving at the Army separation center here yesterday.

He told newsmen it was his "personal business" which of the five classes of discharges he received—honorable, genera, dishonorable, bad conduct or undesirable. Army officials declined to discuss the discharge.

He then left with his Japanese bride Haru, 23, and members of his family for what his brother Louis called a "quiet family gathering" in Ottawa. Girard said he plans to spend Christmas at the family home, but has no other plans.

Hundreds crowded around the 22-year-old Girard as he arrived by train in Chicago before being whisked to Ft. Sheridan in an Army vehicle.

He said a Japanese court which found him guilty of the equivalent of manslaughter was "unjust." The court gave him a three-year suspended sentence for the killing on an Army firing range in Ja

"I'm a U.S. citizen and I should have been tried by a U.S. court," he said.

Asked how he felt about the Army, Girard said he had no comment, and added he had "no bitterness against anybody."

As the Girards faced one of the largest groups of newsmen in Chicago's history, Mrs. Girard, called "Candy" by her husband, hid her face and fought back tears.

"Don't be scared, honey," Girard said.

Did she like the United States? "I like it good," Candy replied. "I don't speak English so good."

Girard was wearing civilian clothes and clutching his discharge when he left for Ottawa and a reunion with his mother.

Poor Housekeeping

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Who ever was responsible for cleaning the Bethlehem Lutheran Church here 44 years ago missed a place. Wrecking contractors, dismantling the 75-year-old church, found a grey substance inside the base of the pulpit. It was mud left from a 1913 flood.

Trujillo Agent Gets Jail Term

Federal Judge Imposes 8 Months to 2 Years on John J. Frank

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Joseph Frank today was sentenced to serve from eight months to two years in jail for acting illegally as an agent of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo and the Dominican Republic.

★ ★ ★

The sentence was imposed by Federal Dist. Judge James R. Kirkland.

The judge turned down a plea by Frank's attorney, Edward L. Carey, that Frank be given a suspended sentence and placed on probation.

The sentence is far short of the maximum Kirkland could have imposed.

William H. Huntley, a Justice Department attorney, had asked for a "stiff sentence" and told Judge Kirkland that he spoke for the Justice Department.

Each of the four counts of the indictment against Frank could carry as much as five years in prison plus a $10,000 fine.

But Kirkland, remarking that Frank and his wife have "accumulated very little," said he would not impose any fine.

Kirkland imposed a sentence of eight months to two years on each of the four counts, but stipulated that they be served concurrently.

Kirkland also allowed Frank to remain free under $10,000 bond pending the outcome of an appeal.

Frank was indicted last May by a jury investigating the disappearance of Jesus Maria de Galindez and Gerald L. Murphy.

Thieves Loot Toy Shop of $120 Tuesday Night

Pontiac police today investigated the theft of approximately $120 from the cash box of the Top Hat Toy Shop, 56 Wayne Street sometimes Tuesday night.

The means by which thieves entered the building was not immediately apparent. The owner, Jack Greenwood, said the missing money was in change and bills.

Shoppers Menaced by Purse Snatchers

Purse snatchers are becoming a growing menace to Christmas shoppers, Pontiac police warned today.

As a safeguard, women should be careful not to carry large sums of money in their purses, Det. Insp. Clark M. Wheaton said.

★ ★ ★

The latest victim was Mrs. Blanche Klarbe of 60 Douglas St., who lost her purse and $13 while walking on Huron street near Douglas yesterday. She said a youth about 16 years old grabbed it and ran away.

Pay Raise Approved

FLINT (AP)—The Genesee County Board of Supervisors has granted pay increases of $100 a year to 620 county employes. The action came as the board gave final approval to a 1958 operating budget of $5,386,239.

FBI Nabs Ex-Convict Carrying Bank Loot

DETROIT (AP) — The FBI said today it has arrested a Tennessee ex-convict in connection with the $4,590 robbery of the First State and Savings Bank of Grand Blanc.

Charles Brown, agent in charge of the Detroit FBI office, identified the man as William Tidwell Cross, 40, a native of Chattanooga, Tenn. Brown said Cross was picked up by FBI agents on a street in Covington, Ky., this morning.

Cross was arraigned before a U.S. commissioner and is being held in a Newport, Ky., jail.

Brown said Cross was carrying $1,904 in American currency and $187 in Canadian bills when he was arrested. He was armed with a .38 revolver, Brown said, but offered no resistance.

The Grand Blanc loot included $1,040 in Canadian currency. The Robbery was staged about 2 p.m. on Dec. 5 by a gunman using a .38 revolver.

Wayne State to Bar Non-Degree Pupils

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne State University will end its non-degree students program at the end of this semester. Almost 4,000 students will be affected.

Clarence B. Hilberry, president of Wayne, said the action was taken because the university felt a mixing of academic and non-academic students was an unsound program.

The action barring students not working for a degree was taken by the Board of Governors last night.

Lonely Hearts Letters Lead in Santa Mailbox

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— It's beginning to look like Santa will get more adult lonely hearts mail than letters from youngsters, at least at the special City Hall mailbox here.

★ ★ ★

The special Santa Claus mail receiving center was set up last Friday. In the first batch deposited was a blunt request from a lonely widow for a male companion. It got considerable publicity.

★ ★ ★

Since then says the city recreation director, Nick Barack, about 30 letters have been deposited. Sixteen were from youngsters asking Santa for toys, and 14 from men in four states, trying to woo the unidentified widow.

★ ★ ★

Barack said he doesn't know why there are so few letters from youngsters, but he said the men who replied to the widow have urged her to call them long distance collect, mentioned their salaries, and even outlined their qualifications for marriage.

★ ★ ★

Shuddering at the thought that the special service for children may turn into a matrimonial bureau, Barack reported that a woman who said she has been deserted for 22 years wrote, implying that if there is an eligible bachelor left after the widow is accommodated, she would like one, too.

Skin Divers Hunt Missing UAW Man

ST. CLAIR SHORES (INS) — A special team of four State Police skin divers methodically searched Lake St. Clair today for Ralph Winstead, the missing chief investigator for the United Auto Workers Union.

★ ★ ★

The 63-year-old man is also a key figure in a $4.5 million malicious prosecution suit brought by Carl Renda, a Detroit junk dealer, against the UAW and Detroit and State Police.

The skin divers began their search today as Assistant Attorney General Wilbur de Young produced in court "secret" files on the 1948 shooting of UAW President Walter P. Reuther.

★ ★ ★

The search for Winstead, also a defendant in the lawsuit, was centered in the lake of St. Clair Shores, where police said a woman saw a man walking on the ice about the time Winstead vanished Sunday morning.

Get Into Christmas Spirit by Sewing Gleeful Stockings

Here's a smart idea for pepping up the living room mantle, a way to make sure it has plenty of color even before Santa arrives to fill the stockings.

★ ★ ★

To make the "Choo-Choo and Tree" (left in the picture) you need 1-3 yard green felt, white felt scraps, and a variety of bright thread.

Cut two, stocking-shaped pieces from bright colored felt, following pattern given below.

Transfer the candy cane designs to one felt stocking. Using the decorative stitch attachment on the machine, stitch the candy canes.

Transfer the "cho-choo" train design to a piece of white felt. Decorate the train as desired. Place the train on the stocking and applique around its outside tracing. After applique is completed, cut away extra felt.

Next, transfer the tree design to a piece of white felt, and position this between the top and center rows of candy canes. Applique around the tree and around the outside edge of the block design. Cut white felt entirely out of the inside of the tree; and cut away extra material all around outside edge of the appliqued block.

Place the wrong sides of the two stocking pieces together, and stitch around the outside edge of the stocking.

To make the fox (center in the picture), you need ¼ yard black or bright felt, a scrap of tan or light brown heavy cotton fabric (for the fox design), braided brown yard or soutache braid, a blue bead and a scrap of wire for "eye" and "eyeglasses."

Cut two pieces from the felt, following the pattern given below. Place the fox fabric over a piece of the felt, with right sides up. Place the paper pattern for the fox over both, and stitch through all three pieces, following the pattern outline. When finished tear away the paper.

Apply the braid or yarn around entire edge and in loop design around tail using either the underbraider or the topbraider on your sewing machine. Then trim away the excess cotton fabric.

Make the "ear" with a few outline stitches by hand. Sew the bead in place for the eye. Bend wire to form glasses and tack into place. Make necktie from bias scrap or binding, tack into place.

To make the golden doodles (right in the picture) you need 1-3 yard felt in green or other bright color, and some gold soutache braids. After cutting stocking-shapes from felt, sketch a "doodle" on one piece and—setting your machine for a medium stitch — stitch the braid into place using either underbraider or topbraider. Then put front and back together as with the other two stockings.

★ ★ ★

To make stockings easy to hang, a brass curtain ring should be sewn to their top left corners. A bit of ribbon will give them additional charm.

Hungarian Group Sends Grim Christmas Card

NEW YORK (INS)—A grim Christmas card is being distributed this week by the federation of Hungarian former political prisoners in New York.

★ ★ ★

"We wish you a Christmas merrier than ours," says the message on the front of the folded card, beneath a drawing of sad-faced, prison-garbed men behind barbed wire.

Inside, when unfolded, the card displays a Christmas tree with the Soviet red star on top, and decorated with missiles, bombs, warplanes, the Laika Sputnik.

A verse, in Christmas red, reads:

"Rest ye not, merry gentlemen—
"Act, ere it be too late—
"Of Reds beware—
"Else ye may share
"Our sad and sorry fate."

Below this verse, in bold black print, appears the signature, "Political Prisoners of the Soviet Union."

The rear of the card shows a two-headed infant, with Khrushchev's face, saying out of one month, "Peace on earth, good will to man" and out of the other, "We shall bury you!" Clasped in the infant's hand is a bottle labeled "Vodka."

Squirrels Are Biting Into Phone Company

CHICAGO (INS — Squirrels—the little rodents with the big teeth—are rated Public Enemy No. 1 by the Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

They are putting the "bite" on the company to the extent of several thousand dollars yearly.

The money is spent repairing damage caused by the animals which for some reason, take great delight in nibbling on the lead sheathing of telephone cable. Once this protective coating is pierced, moisture finds its way inside. A short circuit develops and phones may go dead.

Hotel in Florida Forgets to Obtain Liquor License

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UP) — The 20-million-dollar Deauville Hotel, ready for a gala opening tomorrow, is in for a spiritless holiday season.

Somebody forgot to obtain a liquor license from the City Council. According to the law, management would be subject to a $1,000 fine and 90 days in jail for selling liquor without a license in the hotel's Cyrano Room, Musketeer Room, Casanova Room, Richelieu Room or Patio Bar.

Thirsty Deauville guests can go next door to the gleaming new Carillon Hotel. The Carillon people asked for and got their liquor license yesterday at the City Council's end-of-the-year meeting.

Red China Endorses East-West Talks

HONG KONG (UP)—Red China, to the surprise of no one, today endorsed Russia's recent proposals to the West for a top-level East-West conference, a neutralized Central Europe and a halt Jan. 1 to nuclear weapon tests.

★ ★ ★

In Peiping's first official reaction to Soviet Premier Bulganin's letters to the NATO and U. N. governments, the Red Chinese radio said Mao Tze-tung's government "fully endorses and gives all-out support to these proposals of the Soviet government."

Police Search for Man Who Ran Down Woman

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Police today hunted for a 35-year-old Negro who they said killed his girl friend by running her down with an automobile. The man was identified as Ellis Riley of New Orleans.

★ ★ ★

Police said witnesses told them Riley chased Alma Modica, 27, also of New Orleans, onto the sidewalk with his car and crushed her against an iron fence. Riley fled on foot.

★ ★ ★

The incident, officers said, apparently followed an argument that caused the victimt to leave the car.

Kids Celebrate Double Yule

Old Christmas Marked on Jan. 5 by Inhabitants of Hatteras Island

RODANTHE, N.C. (AP) — Christmas means two things to the children of Hatteras Island — Santa Claus and Old Buck, a kind of bovine anti-Santa.

That's because the kids, and old old folks too, celebrate two Christmases, old and new.

CLOUDED HISTORY

History clouds the origin of the local festivities, although two theories seem to predominate. One relates the celebration to the arrival of the Three Wise Men at the manger of Christ. The other stems from the loss of 11 days when Great Britain and the American colonies shifted from the Julian to the Gregorian calendar in 1752.

Islanders let the "mainlanders" wonder about the origin. They, themselves, dismiss it as of no consequence. "We celebrate Old Christmas on Jan. 5 because that was the date our fathers and their fathers celebrated," one said.

OLD BUCK IN REPLICA

The modern day celebration of Old Christmas here features a big oyster roast, a square dance and entertainment at the community house. A canvas and barrel stave replica of Old Buck the bull appears during the evening. Adults distribute gifts for the children and the children vie for a chance to ride Old Buck.

As misty as the origin of the celebration is the origin of habitation on Hatteras island itself.

It is believed that its first inhabitants were crews of 18th Century sailing vessels lost in the "Graveyard of the Atlantic," as this treacherous coastline is known. The island's written records date from the middle of the 1700s.

Sputnik Orbits Into Dictionary at Record Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Sputnik has orbited into an American dictionary in record time.

★ ★ ★

"Some new words take yeats to get into the language," reports Clarence L. Barnhart, editor of a lexicon which includes the word in a just-issued edition.

★ ★ ★

Produce Vitamin-Rich

MIAMI — Fruits and vegetables annually account for more than 90 per cent of the total United States supply of ascorbic acid (vitamin C). These foods also give us 50 per cent of our vitamin A, 21 per cent of iron, 12 per cent of calcium, 46 per cent of folic acid (one of the B vitamins), 18 per cent of carbohydrates, and 7 per cent of proteins.

Parking Violator Gives Financial Statement

BUFFALO, Wyo. (AP) — When City Clerk Carl Kaltenbach opened a letter, out dropped an overtime parking ticket, 21 cents and this note:

"This is all the money I had. Please appreciate the fact that I lost a quarter in a pinball machine, bought a cup of coffee, pushed my car out of town and am now in the process of selling it. Thank you. I owe you .29 cents."

More than 150,000 persons are regularly employed in the extensive coal industries located in Pennsylvania.

Cedar Posts Tell Story of Long Endurance

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — Ten red cedar fence posts set into the ground at the Agronomy Farm at Colorado State University in 1917 are still in good condition after 40 years.

The posts were treated in hot and cold baths of gas-tar creosote before being driven into the earth. A check this fall below the ground line showed no signs of insect damage or decay.

His Newspaper Grows Along With Waistline

ABERDEEN, Miss. (AP)—Reviewing his first five years at the helm of the Aberdeen Examiner, editor Roy Steinfort recalled the various improvements he had made in the newspaper plant.

★ ★ ★

Farm Output at Peak Level

A Few Bumper Crops Push Agricultural Yield to Match Records

WASHINGTON (INS) — Bumper crops of only a few commodities pushed farm production to record levels this year.

The final 1957 Agriculture Department crop production report, issued yesterday, showed that total output of America's farms matched the previous record highs set in 1948 and 1956, although total planted acreage was the lowest since 1919.

But the increase came from a handful of crops. Sorghum grain, at 562 million bushels, was two and one-half times as plentiful as last year. Hay was up 13 million bushels to 131 million. Soybeans, barley and sugar beets set new records.

Corn—at 3 billion, 403 million bushels—was above average, but off slightly from 1956. A long list of crops, headed by wheat and including cotton, rice, tobacco, peanuts, dry beans, and many fruits was actually below average.

The yield index set a new high in 1957—again because of a few spectacular gains. The average corn acre produced 46.8 bushels this year—compared to an all-time average of 37.8. Oat yields went up from an average 34.3 bushels to 7.4. Sorghum grain was almost 29 bushels to an acre—10 bushels more than average.

Agriculture Department officials admit that weather was a strong factor in raising the average yields, particularly in the Plains States where the long drought ended.

But the overall growing picture of 1957 is not entirely good.

Plantings were very late in many areas, and much of the corn is still in the fields because the autumn was too damp for harvesting. Badly-timed rains and an East Coast drought hampered production during the growing season.

Teen Traffic Court Has Practice Session

"Tell them what they did wrong, the probable dangers involved, and then make them write a theme about what they should do." This is what a Pontiac teenage jury ordered yesterday after hearing three teens tell their story of how they got a traffic ticket.

The court session was held in the City Commission chambers here, as a dress rehearsal for the first Pontiac Teenage Traffic Court, scheduled for Jan. 15.

The jury of sophomore, junior or senior members of the Pontiac Central High School Student Council, decided the defendant in each case was guilty.

★ ★ ★

Purpose of the session was to acquaint students with the procedure, functions and duties of the court. The defendants were also council members who portrayed a teen who had received a moving traffic violation.

SERIOUS SESSIONS

In questioning the defendants, the jurors showed serious and sincere attitudes in their attempt to discover the facts and educate the defendant on traffic safety. Each hearing took approximately 45 minutes to complete.

★ ★ ★

In a further effort to educate the the teen traffic violator, a Teenage Correctional Clinic, consisting of four two-hour meetings, will be held for those who are ordered by the jury to attend.

George H. Stewart, Pontiac Central High School driver-education teacher, will conduct the class under the sponsorship of the Pontiac Exchange Club.

The court, organized last month, was set up under the authority of Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore on an educational and voluntary basis. Not all teen traffic offenders will be heard by their fellow teenagers. Sessions will be closed to the public.

Tells of Flier's Last Moments

Pilot for Trans-Canada Hears Message From Missing Chicagoan

TORONTO (AP)—A Trans Canada Airlines pilot yesterday told of an intercepted radio message describing the last moments in the life of Chicago businessman Richard West.

★ ★ ★

Capt. Cliff Killips, 36, of Toronto, picked up West's distress signal Friday about four minutes before West was forced down in Lake Erie.

West was flying his twin-engined plane from Rochester to Detroit and was over Lake Erie when his engines failed, probably because of icing.

A pair of plane wheels found on the shore Saturday have been identified as his and RCAF and United States aircraft currently are searching the lake for his body and the plane. He had logged more than 4,000 hours flying time.

Capt. Killips, an 11-year veteran with TCA, was 8,000 feet over Toronto waiting to come down on a flight from Sault Ste. Marie when he heard the airway distress signal: "Mayday, Mayday." The time was 6:51 p.m.

HE STOOD BY

"I answered and told Toronto airways control his airplane was in distress. They couldn't pick him up and I stood by to relay the messages," said Capt. Killips.

★ ★ ★

"His first signal was, 'I'm at 3,000 feet with both engines out and going down.'

"Then he reported, 'I'm at 2,000 feet and going down in a northerly heading.'

His normal course to Detroit would have been wst and he evidently knew he was over the water, said Capt. Killips. When he ran into trouble he evidently started north and tried to glide to shore.

"He kept transmitting, figuring we might be able to get a radio fix. 'I'm at 1,000 feet, still going down, both engines out.'

"It was a dark night. I guess he couldn't see the water until he was at 200 feet. He sent one more message, then stopped transmitting. It was 6:55 p.m.

"He said it softly. He said, 'Damn it.'"

Dairy State Senators Hit Order to Cut Price Support

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dairy state senators today promised an all-out battle against the decision of Secretary of Agriculture Benson to lower price supports on milk and other dairy products next April 1.

The Benson announcement yesterday also brought protests from some House members. Two farm groups expressed criticism.

Benson told a news conference dairy supports will be cut to the legal minimum of 75 per cent of parity. These supports now are at 86 per cent of parity for milk, and 80 per cent for butterfat. Parity is a legal standard for measuring farm prices as fair in terms of farmers' expenses.

COSTLY TO TAXPAYERS

The secretary said supports have been so high that dairy surpluses recently have cost taxpayers 375 million dollars annually. And he bid for consumer backing for the reduction by saying the move would cut retail butter prices by about 2½ cents a pound, and reduce the cost of milk by about half a cent a quart.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis), usually an administration supporter, bluntly told Benson he would ask the Senate Agriculture Committee to veto the cutback.

Sen. Proxmire (D-Wis) promised a "finish fight" against what he called a "shocking injustice." He said he would ask Congress to set the support level at 90 per cent of Parity.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn), a member of the Agriculture Committee, said that if Benson thinks the new order "will work he is an economic illiterate." Referring to the nearness of Christmas, Humphrey added: "Mr. Benson has taken the place of Scrooge."

DAIRYMEN KICK

The National Milk Producers Federation estimated Benson's action would reduce dairy farmers' income 250 million dollars a year.

"It is apparent," the federation said in a statement, "that dairymen must look to Congress for any favorable action on price supports."

Forest Fires Stunt Growth 25 Years

MADISON, Wis. — A woodland specialist for the Wisconsin Conservation Department, Bill Jipson, reports that the efforts of a forest fire on timber growth may last more than 25 years.

Jipson said a stand of timber in Wisconsin that was swept by fire in 1932 is growing low-grade trees today at the yearly rate of less than 150 board feet an acre compared with 300 board feet for another stand, on the same type of soil, which has not been touched by fire during the last 50 years.

The loss of productivity is directly due to the destruction of organic matter in the soil by forest fires, Jipson said. Organic matter, consisting mainly of soil humus and a shallow layer of forest litter, is the primary storage bank for soil nitrogen.

Closed School Districts Eyed

Opinion by Kavanagh Covers Annexation to Operating Areas

LANSING (AP)—A detailed opinion covering the annexation of closed school districts was issued today by Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh.

The opinion, aimed at clarifying the 1955 school code, also outlined procedures for appeal from such annexations.

Kavanagh said that the annexation of a closed school district to an operating district by order of a county board of education becomes effective as of the date of the 90-day appeal period unless a later date is specified in the order.

In the event of an appeal, he said, the annexation takes effect upon entry of the order by the State Board of Education unless the board specifies a later date.

Prior to the effective date of the annexation, the opinion held, the closed school district continues as a municipal corporation subject to its obligations as such, including that of providing for the education of children of school age in the district.

The terms of officers of the closed district end as of the date of the completion of the transfer of funds and property of the district pursuant to the order of annexation, Kavanagh said.

In the event of failure or refusal of the county board of education to enter its order providing for the annexation or attachment of the property of such a closed school district to one or more operating districts, mandamus is the proper remedy to require the board to enter its order, the opinion stated.

Think Escapee Fabricated Tale

Carolina Officials Find No Proof That Convict Bribed Guard

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—South Carolina officials seem thoroughly convinced that lifer George Leroy Page, 28, fabricated a story that he bribed a state penitentiary guard to help him escape two years ago.

After being brought back here from Honolulu last September, Page told of paying $700 to arrange his 1955 escape.

Chief J. P. Strom of the State Law Enforcement Division said an investigation has failed to verify any point of Page's story.

Since being returned to the state prison, Page has undergone a series of mental examinations and was declared sane. He now occupies one of the penitentiary's maximum security cells.

Page was convicted in 1946 of slaying a Charleston taxi driver he had engaged to drive him to Columbia. After his escape he turned up in Port Huron, Mich., as a refrigerator specialist, and married Dorothy Fitzner.

She obtained an annulmennt after he left her in California to go to Honolulu, where he gave himself up after consulting with a priest.

Page contends his conviction was on a confession he signed without reading and that he says was incorrect.

★ ★ ★

He could be tried and sentenced to two years for escape. But because he is a life termer it is unlikely charges will be pressed.

'Airy' Cocktails Buck Up Diners in Paris Eatery

PARIS — In an oxygen bar, customers of one Paris restaurant now order oxygen as an appetizer instead of a cocktail. The bar in restful pastel colors, adjoins the dining room.

Eight customers at a time lie on couches, with the foot end raised above the head level. An attendant masks the customer and turns on an oxygen tap. There one lies for 15 minutes. "After the oxygen cocktail (price $1.40) I felt as if I had just taken a mountain walk," said one neophyte. "I was much hungrier than usual.

The manager, M. Roger Grass, recommended raw vegetable salad as hors d'oeuvres. It must have weight nearly a pound. After I ate that and curried chicken with mushrooms, I still felt hungry."

Said M. Grass: "My customers say the oxygen makes them feel as strong as Popeye."

Madison Heights Man on 9-Day Spree

Parolee, 25, Held in Holdup

ROYAL OAK — A 25-year-old Madison Heights parolee from Ionia State Reformatory is being held today by Royal Oak Police following a holdup of a Johnson Milk Depot, 4132 N. Woodward, Royal Oak yesterday morning.

The nine-day crime spree of Edward C. Knight, 25, of 27850 Dartmouth, Madison Heights ended when two Royal Oak patrolman, acting on a hunch, arrested the robber as he walked past another Johnson depot across from the Clara Barton School, N. Main street, Royal Oak.

Detective Sgt. Philip Deckebach of Royal Oak said Knight got $162 in one robbery and two holdups and stole four autos in a tour that took him through Toledo, Chicago, Grand Rapids, Jackson and Bowling Green, Ky.

Knight held up Mrs. Margaret Busby, 26760 Barrington, Madison Heights, clerk in the milk depot, at 9:20 a.m. yesterday. He escaped with $17, police said.

Hearing the clerk's description of the holdup man and his car on their car radio, patrolmen Richard Oakes and Cass Gaska, said they had a hunch he would attempt to rob the other depot.

Just 16 minutes after the first store was held up, a car, answering the description given by the clerk, drove past the depot. When Knight got out, they arrested him. He offered no resistence, officers said.

Knight, in a statement to Assistant Prosecutor William E. Lang, told how his spree began Dec. 9 when he stole the pistol and $90 from his employer, the C. & C. Service, 1200 E. 7-Mile Rd., Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Sgt. Deckebach said Knight told him he studied psychology while serving five years at Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson and at Ionia. Knight said he just had "an urge to steal," Deckebach said. He was paroled last month.

MMPA Head Raps Benson

Says Order to Cut U.S. Milk Products Support Hits State Farmers

DETROIT (AP) — Glenn Lake, president of the Michigan Milk Producers Assn., says Secretary of Agriculture Benson's order reducing federal support prices on some milk products "will hit Michigan dairy farmers right in the pocketbook."

Lake's comment was in reference to an Agriculture Department order cutting the support price on butterfat and milk used for manufacturing purposes to 75 per cent of parity, April 1.

Lake said yesterday his group plans to file a protest against the order with the department and added that the MMPA will seek a congressional ruling unless Benson modifies his order.

Manufacturing milk, used for such products as cottage cheese and ice cream, now is supported at 83 per cent of parity. Butterfat is supported at 80 per cent. The MMPA previously urged that both be raised to 90 per cent.

In issuing the order, Benson said the new prices would result in lower consumer prices for butter, cheese and milk.

Cancels Passports of 24 China Visitors

WASHINGTON (INS)—The State Department announced Wednesday it has cancelled the passports of 24 young Americans who visited Red China in defiance of a U.S. ban and still have not returned to this country.

The passports of 17 other youths who have returned to the U.S. or are in transit home already have been invalidated.

The department said the 24 are now in various European countries and India. It emphasized that they are still under the protection of this government but their passports are valid only for a return to the U.S.

Bird Stores Acorns

WASHINGTON — The California woodpecker carefully stores acorns in holes that it drills in trees and telephone poles. One pole was studded with 1,500 acorns. A large sycamore held 20,000. Occasionally the bird's instinct goes wrong, and it tamps in pebbles instead of nuts.

Lathrup Schedules Special Election

LATHRUP — A special election will be held here Feb. 18 on the proposed $696,000 bond issue to provide funds to construct a storm sewer system in Lathrup.

Residents also will vote at the same time on whether to repeal the city's one-year downspout ordinance.

The city has signed a contract with Oakland County Water Resources Commission for treatment of the city's sewage, City Administrator Leonard Watchowski said. This qualifies Lathrup for a federal aid grant of $36,000 which will go towards the approximate $330,000 it will cost for the city's sanitary sewers, he said.

Approval has been given by the council for the sanitary trunk sewer plans, as designed by Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May. The project will cost more than one and a quarter million dollars, Watchowski said.

Dems Call Agreement at NATO 'Face-Saving'

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) said today President Eisenhower got only "face-saving" results in the NATO agreement on establishing missile bases in Europe and exploring possible new disarmament talks with Russia.

Humphrey's skeptical reaction to the Paris summit conference developments was shared in part by Senators Fulbright (D-Ark) and Sparkman (D-Ala). But all three members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee joined in urging the administration to put its full weight behind renewed disarmament efforts.

At the same time, Sen. Curtis (R-Neb) said it would be a waste of time for the United States, Britain, France and Canada to discuss arms limitations with the Soviets. These were the Western countries that took part in London disarmament talks that ended in failure last fall.

"I think any agreement with the Russians could not be relied on," Curtis said in a separate interview. "We wasted a lot of time and energy in the London disarmament talks and I see no value in renewing them."

The NATO conference agreed in principle to the U. S. plan to set up European bases to be equipped with intermediate (1,500 - mile) range missiles capable of hitting Russia with nuclear warheads.

Several rountries are leery of accepting such missile bases for fear they might be prime targets for Russian rockets.

Coupled with the agreement on bases was American assent to cautious overtures to Russia aimed at finding out whether any new disarmament talks might be fruitful.

Terming this compromise a "face-saving" move, Humphrey said: "Acceptance in principle does not mean fulfillment in details.

"What is more, because this administration has methodically—if unwittingly — permitted our military position to be weakened, we do not have the missiles to furnish them.

"President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles went to Paris with only one objective, to establish missile bases in Western European countries to strengthen the military alliance. They did not go there with any objective of further negotiations with the Soviets, but our allies insisted on it.

"I hope they (Eisenhower and Dulles) will now reconsider their flat refusal, even if that letter was a propaganda effort, to take a good look at Bulganin's letter. We must at all times be prepared to negotiate with Russia. We must re-examine our disarmament proposals and make up our mind what we want."

★ ★ ★

Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin proposed new East-West talks in a letter to Eisenhower on the eve of the NATO conference.

Fulbright said he thinks Eisenhower and Dulles erred at Paris in trying to "overemphasize the military aspects" of the NATO alliance.

"There is no reason why we can't negotiate while we continue to build up our strength," he said.

"I think it is worthwhile to discuss the Bulganin proposals to find out if the Russians really mean it."

Sparkman said he was glad the Western Allies had insisted on linking the missiles base agreement to further disarmament talks.

Celebrates Launching of Atlas ICBM

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

A youthful, blond-haired engineer from Alabama has reason to celebrate because of the success of the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile.

He is James R. Dempsey, 36, director of the Atlas ICBM program and manager of the astronautics division of Convair, was in Washington for an Air Force association meeting Tuesday when the big missile made its successful flight from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The astronautics part of Dempsey's title can be considered prophetic. To the extent that the U.S. has a space flight program, and Convair does the building, Dempsey will be the industry man in charge.

Dempsey was born in Red Bay, Ala., Oct. 4, 1921, and at one time was started on a military career.

After two years at the University of Alabama he received an appointment to the U. S. military Academy, where he was commissioned in 1943.

Following World War II he took a master's degree in aeronautical engineering at the University of Michigan, earned in courses emphasizing guided missiles and has continued in that field.

While at West Point he met and married Dolores Barneu of Long Island. They now live at La Jolla, Calif., and have three children—Susan, 10; David, 8; and Ann, 6.

Dempsey says the Atlas, which has been his charge since its inception in 1954, hasn't left him much time for hobbies.

He does, however, occasionally play golf, and has a woodworking shop in his garage which he says comes in handy as a place to fix things that get broken around the house.

Lottery to Swell Coffers of Largest Soviet State

MOSCOW (INS)—A state lottery with jackpot prizes of Volga cars or 5,000 rubles in cash will be introduced next year to the citizens of the Russian Federated Republic, largest of the Soviet states.

★ ★ ★

The lottery, a game of chance designed to make paying taxes fun, will take the place of bond issues by which the republic has raised money in the past.

Profits, which will amount to a nice fat 60 per cent of the turnover, will go into the budget of the republic and its local regions, including the city of Moscow.

Ticket sellers, who will be spotted strategically in subway stations, government offices and even theater box offices throughout the republic, will keep 2 per cent of their cash sales.

The lottery, which will amount to one billion rubles, will offer 100 Volga cars, 300 little Moskvich cars, 500 pianos, 1,500 motorcycles and also "radioalas," tape recorders, cameras, wrist watches, sewing machines, refrigerators and women's fur coats.

Te prizes will cost 398,000,000 rubles, leaving the remaining 602 million to go into the state pocket.

QUESTION: Where did the Wise Men come from?

ANSWER: St. Matthew, who tells the story of the wise men in his gospel account of the birth of Christ, refers to them as coming from the East to Jerusalem, guided by a brilliant new star. He does not say how many there were, whether they were kings or priests, or where they came from. Most early authorities, believe that the magi, as the wise men were called, came from Persia, Syria and Babylonia. Some early writers say there were three, others say two, eight and even 12. Artists have usually pictured them as being three kings of the Orient, and tradition says their names were Gasper, Melchior and Balthasar. Since they had to travel some 1,200 miles by camel and foot through rugged territory, they probably arrived in Bethlehem when Christ was a year old or perhaps a little older. In Matthew's account, they fell down and adored the Child, and "offered Him gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh," all mostly treasures in those days.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: The wise men are a colorful and inspiring addition to your Christmas crib. Cut out the figures, color them and add them to the stable and other cut-outs in this series. New figures will be added tomorrow along with an overall plan for assembling your creche. By the end of the week you will have a complete Nativity scene to decorate your home during the holiday season. If you missed any of the earlier parts in this series, try to obtain them from your newspaper office or a neighbor.

Loyola Professor Suggests Plan:

We Must Alter Tax Attitude

KANSAS CITY (INS) — A professor at Loyola University, Chicago, says Americans must change their "antagonistic attitude" toward paying taxes.

★ ★ ★

—Abandon the adverse attitude toward revenue agents.

—Abandon the idea of tax dollars versus our own dollars.

—Abandon reticence to sell securities, because we can't afford to pay the taxes.

—Abandon the psychotic drive to convert everything to capital gains.

—Revamp the almost unbelievable overstatement of travel and entertainment expenses.

—Raise to a patriotic level our feeling of payment of taxes, particularly in relation to our families and children.

Whittier Popular Campaigner in Politics

New VA Director Known for Initiative, Dramatics

More than 500 guests stood uncertainly in the darkness.

But not for long because the bridegroom hustled to the cellar, changed the fuse and brought back the lights.

The incident, recalled by his friends today, illustrates the enterprise of the new director of the Veterans Administration, an agency of 176,000 employes, controlling 174 hospitals and 67 district offices throughout the United States with a $5 billion budget, third largest in the federal government.

Whittier for 20 years had been a man of great initiative, an indefatigable campaigner in Massachusetts politics. He lost only twice, the last time in his bed as the Republican candidate for governor to succeed Christian A. Herter, now assistant secretary of state. Whittier served two terms as lieutenant governor under Herter.

Whittier's energy in political life rewarded him with a term in the Everett common council, half a term as alderman in that city, state representative and state senator for five terms.

His work on Beacon Hill was interrupted by a 2½-year hitch as a naval officer.

With a flair for the dramatic, nurtured through Everett High School and Boston University, Whittier was always a formidable opponent in legislative debate.

He is the author of numerous sonnets and other poems, several of which were published under the title "Forgotten Threads." He was editor-in-chief of his Everett High School paper and yearbook. He worked on the Boston University paper and a Boston daily as cartoonist-reporter.

The center of population in the United States in 1790 was determined to be in or near Baltimore, Maryland.

India to Survey Site for Pakistan DPs

CALCUTTA — Just to be sure that it does not settle displaced persons from Pakistan on rich mineral lands, India's Government is making a mineral survey of the Dandakaranya district of West Bengal, Calcutta reports.

The area is known to have deposits of limestone, iron, mica and bauxite and if refugees were settled on land later found to contain minerals of economic importance, they would have to be uprooted and settled elsewhere, it is pointed out.

Also, there would be waste in the building of a refugee townsite in a place from which it would have to be moved.

Asks Adult Trial for 5

PETOSKEY (AP) — Sheriff Glenn Rose of Charlevoix County said Wednesday he will ask the Probate Court of Otsego to waive jurisdiction over five teenage boys held in the shooting of a dog, so they can be tried as adults. The youths, also accused of shooting dogs in Antrim and Otsego Counties, said they shot the animals "for thrills," Rose said.

Dearborn Hikes Pay

State Officials Protest to FCC

Williams and Mackie Object to Withdrawal of Radio Wave Length

LANSING (AP) — Action by the Federal Communications Commission taking away a radio wave length alloted to the State Highway Department has drawn a joint protest from Gov. Williams and Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie.

★ ★ ★

The two officials wrote John C. Doerfer, FCC chairman, yesterday asking the commission to rescind the order and reassign the wave length or allocate a new one.

Mackie said the ruling blocks a Highway Department plan to set up a radio communications system linking its various offices and field maintenance units.

Radio communication between offices and field units is needed to speed Michigan's five-year, 1¼-billion-dollar highway building program, he said.

Mackie said the Federal Civil Defense Administration had agreed to split the cost of setting up the system, making it available to civil defense on a statewide basis for any emergency.

The FCC also took away radio wave lengths in 11 other states, Mackie said.

Seeks Reinstatement in Court Battle

Ex-Policeman Suffers Setback

A former Pontiac patrolman, who is the only police officer to be fired by the nine-months-old Civil Service Commission, suffered a setback in Circuit Court yesterday.

Legal counsel for Louis Romeos, 28, was denied a chance to place civil service commissioners on the stand for questioning about an off-the-record session they had with the officer during an otherwise public hearing which led to his dismissal.

Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams took Romeos' appeal for reinstatement under advisement, after ruling that no additional testimony could be taken in the case.

"The appeal must be based solely on the record of the civil service hearing," he ruled.

Romeos' attorney, Paul Merideth, who is legal counsel for the Pontiac Police Officers Assn., objected.

"The written record only covers the public portion of the hearing," he said. "What was said in private should also be considered here."

VIOLATES RIGHTS

Romeos' was fired July 9 on charges of insubordination and failure to obey orders. He contends that the secret session violated his rights.

"If the Civil Service Commission had based its decision on the public hearing only, I do do not think there would be sufficient evidence to suspend Romeos," Merideth said.

City Attorney William A. Ewart, speaking in behalf of the commission, argued that it was within the commissioners' discretion to talk privately with Romeos if the officer was willing.

FACTS SOUGHT

"The commissioners were simply trying to get the facts in the case straight so they could render their best decision," he argued.

The question turned yesterday's hearing into a test of strength, with the commission's policies being scrutinized for the first time in a court of law.

The commission so far has considered itself as primarily an administrative body, possessing the wide powers of discretion that go with administrative function.

CITY AGREES

The city has agreed with this position.

The police association, on the other hand, has felt that the three-man board is at least quasi-judicial in nature, and therefore should be bound by a strict, legalistic procedure.

One commissioner, Theodore Carlson, has sympathized with the latter position, while Gerald Gulman and Stuart Austin, the other commissioners, have favored the first.

Much of the controversy that has surrounded the commission in its initial stages has revolved around the issue.

It was considered a possibility that the issue might be settled on the basis of Judge Adams' decision in the present case.

★ ★ ★

Dow Chemical Sued by Couple

Contend Their Property Ruined After Salt Brine Line Ruptured

BAY CITY (AP) — A Midland County couple has brought suit for $1,340,000 against the Dow Chemical Co., contending that property they owned was ruined when a Dow salt brine line ruptured.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Davis of Lee Township claim in a suit entered in U. S. District Court here that 235 acres of peat bog they purchased in 1954-55 is unfit for use as a sub-division because of the brine.

They said they had planned to sell the peat, build a lake and build houses around it.

The Davises said when the line, which traverses the land, broke two million gallons of brine were let loose.

The couple said that as a result vegetation upon which fish would feed was killed and the rest of the area rendered unfit for building.

Newport News Soon to Expand

3 Communities to Unite, Forming Largest City in State of Virginia

WASHINGTON — Next year Newport News will become Virginia's largest city in size. It will be the Old Dominion's third most populous city, surpassed only by Norfolk and Richmond.

★ ★ ★

At present the seaport — with its huge shipyards and enormous export flow of coal and tobacco — crowds 50,000 people into a tight little area of four square miles. Beginning in mid-1958 the city will have more than double this population and 18 times as much area in which to expand.

VOTERS RESHAPE BOUNDARIES

Three polls in the past 12 months have reshaped the reationship of Newport News, Warwick, and Hampton, the urban trio at the tip of the historic finger of land between the estuaries of the James and York Rivers. The first poll defeated the proposal for all three to merge into one. The second found voters in Newport News and Warwick favorable to a two-city union. The third, last September, decided that the combined city shall be called Newport News.

Though it dates from 1621, Newport News barely survived as a fishing village until chosen as the seaboard terminus of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company in 1882.

Four years later the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company began business. The railroad piers, stretching for two miles along the James River, handled 24,000,000 tons of export coal in 1956.

The shipyards, with nearly a mile of waterfront and, at current payroll of 12,450 employes, have built 450 big ships of peace and war. These include the United States, fastest ocean liner afloat, and giant aircraft carriers — the Forrestal, Coral Sea, and Midway.

Exact origin of the port name is uncertain. Some hold that Sir William Newce, coming from Newcetown, Ireland, dubbed it New Port Newce. Others believe the name bespeaks good news brought from England to disheartened colonists by Sir Christopher Newport. A compromise view is that it was named for Newport and Newce.

Mariners' Museum, in a large park on the James River in Warwick, holds the renowned Huntington collection of 45,000 ship models, figure-heads, marine engines and instruments, volumes, and charts.

Newest in the rapidly developing road system of the area is a 60-million-dollar bridge-tunnel opened November 1, linking the peninsula with Norfolk. Other new roadstead links are planned.

Warn Against Science Panic

Well-Rounded Program Urged by Educators to Meet Soviet Challenge

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan educators have agreed there must be no panic in the planning to catch up with Russian scientific strides.

The schoolmen met yesterday at a planning meeting for regional science conferences held at Michigan State University.

Dr. Roger Leatherman, assistant director of the Phoenix Project at the University of Michigan, stressed the need for a well-rounded educational program producing well-rounded scientists and citizens.

"We dare not lose sight of two major 'Don'ts,' he said, listing these as:

1. Do not lose the principles inherent in a democratic education in a free society.

2. Do not panic in an attempt to win rapidly a race in technology.

Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, said this country must take immediate steps to meet the Soviet challenge.

"To do less would, in effect, be handing the world of tomorrow to the Communists," he said.

"We know now, the reemphasis on school curriculum is essential to our survival. This we must do. We must also keep in mind that we are educating boys and girls to live in a democracy, not in a country controlled by a ruthless autocracy.

★ ★ ★

"I am certain," Bartlett said, "our democratic way will prove equal to the situation."

Detroit District to Vote on Carey's Successor

DETROIT (INS) — A special election will be held tomorrow on Detroit's East Side and the only ones showing any excitement are the candidates.

Called by Gov. G. Mennen Williams to nominate candidates to succeed Councilman-elect Ed Carey in the legislature, the election will be restricted to the Third Legislative District.

Election officials said that of the 81,000 registered voters in the area, about 5,000 are expected to cast ballots.

Rules Out Plan by Bridge Body

Kavanagh Won't Allow Authority to Run Own Fiscal Affairs

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh today threw cold water on a plan by the Mackinac Bridge Authority to heap new powers on its executive secretary.

Kavanagh, in an opinion asked by the State Administrative Board, also told the authority it couldnt hire a controller to handle its fiscal affairs. State law, he said, delegates that right to State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown.

The authority, headed by former U. S. Sen. Prentiss M. Brown of St. Ignace, operate the newly opened 100-million dollar Straits Bridge. It adopted the suggested changes in its bylaws at its meeting last September.

Under the plan, Lawrence A. Rubin, the executive secretary, would have been empowered to act on behalf of the authority, executing all its contracts, documents and legal papers. The controller would have had general supervision of its financial affairs.

"It would have amounted to giving the executive secretary absolute power," Sanford Brown asserted. "It makes your hair stand on end to think about it."

The treasurer said he probably would invite Rubin, Prentiss Brown and other authority members to Lansing to try to wirk out a more workable financial operation complying with the law setting up the authority.

Persons praised for original gift ideas have a little trick. They match a gift to the receiver's hobby, interests or home and travel plans.

GIFTS COLORFUL

Extra soft, supple leather bags this year make colorful gifts for any woman, especially the resort-bound. In both suede and smooth leather, these handbags come in amethyst, wisteria or mauve pink colors.

An active clubwoman needs added surface space in her home for entertaining. A sturdy scratchproof card table meets buffet or bridge club needs. It doubles as a work table because it won't stain or burn.

Popular, easy-to-grow flowers are good stocking stuffers. These include bachelor buttons, petunias, annual larkspur, annual pinks, cosmos, moss roses, alyssum, zinnias and marigolds. An ardent gardener will appreciate starts of rare plants or bulb gifts for early spring transplanting.

Some lucky woman will have to fight off the family to use her new foot massager. Soothes and relaxes leg and foot muscles after a shopping spree or a day of housecleaning.

Surprise gifts or thank-you items for holiday hostesses are wall accessories for treasured knick-knacks. Wall brackets in squares or diamond shapes of brass and glass add decorative unity.

And don't forget the woman golfer. A par-pak that attaches easily to golf caddie cart has space for score card, pencil, tees and cigarettes.

Uganda Girl Lashed for Witchcraft

ENTEBBE, Uganda — Witchcraft almost closed a school in Uganda. Thirty pupils and their parents were bewitched because the children had made fun of a new pupil, a judge in Entebbe was told by the principal.

The girl went home crying and her parents called in the local witch-doctor. Next day, when the teasers started again, they went into a cataleptic trance. The girl demanded money before she would release them from the spell — by sprinkling wet leaves on their heads.

When the principal threatened to call the police the girl promptly made a pass with her hand and 30 pupils went into seizures. When she pointed at anyone, he was seized with a mania. The judge sentenced the girl's parents to five years in prison, under Uganda's anti-witchcraft laws, and the girl to 12 lashes. The school is peaceful again.

Obeys Siren's Wailing, Gets Taken by Thieves

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A Tulsa motorist heard a siren last night and thought he should obey by pulling over to the side of the road.

Hurley Mitchell told the sheriff's office two men pulled up in a late model car after sounding the siren. One asked for his driver's license and when Mitchell handed it over along with his billfold containing $123, the man said: "Well, you're not the one, but I'll just keep this."

There wasn't much to do, Mitchell said, because the man pointed a pistol at him, then drove away in the car with his companion.

Most adults cannot remember things that happened in their lives before they were 4 or 5 years old.

Missile's Brain: Inertial Guidance

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If you think you're a good driver mull over this one:

You're on a huge, flat, concrete slab. You have a map showing a point of destination 500 miles away. All windows are covered. You have only a compass, watch and speedometer which does not show total miles traveled.

The watch and speedometer give you enough information to tell you where you are at any moment. The compass tells you how to correct for getting off course.

Theoretically you could pull up to your destination by accurate use of the "inertial guidance" method. Tom Barnhart, an expert of the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company says, "it's simply a matter of knowing where you are because you know where you started from, how far you've moved since then, and getting where you're going with this information."

But multiply the complexity of this simple inertial guidance problem by about several thousand and you'll have a small idea of what the electronic brain in a long range missile must do in thousandths of a second, with no error, to hit its target.

MISSILES USE IT

Inertial guidance systems are used in the Jupiter, Thor, Atlas, Polaris and other long-range missiles. Minneapolis - Honeywell is the largest producer of such equipment.

In the simplest of terms this is how an inertial guidance system works:

Before a missile is fired it is told where it is on the earth, plus the exact location and distance of the target. This data is fed into its electronic brain. After firing, the brain is completely on its own.

By constantly computing where it is in the atmosphere the brain always know the distance and direction it still has to travel to get to the target. Actually, in the case of ballisic missiles, the "target" is a spot in space, with the nose cone positioned in an arc which will allow it to fall freely to the real target on the ground.

Tom Barnhart explains:

"Sir Isaac Newton's definition of inertia states that once an object is set in motion by an external force, it continues to move in the same direcion at the same speed until another external force is applied to it. These forces can be measured, and by computing the measurements and by converting them to speed, direction and distance, a vehicle's instantaneous position can be calculated."

LOTS OF RELATING

Measuring these forces, relating them to one another, and using this information to conntrol the path of a huge missile hurtling through space at a speed reaching 18,000 mph, is a neat trick. Here are some problems this sytem must consider in the process:

★ ★ ★

Varying degrees of air friction, as the atmosphere gets thinner, must be accounted for. A rocket's flight involves three separate axes or directions—pitch, yaw and roll—which must be computed.

A missile's speed and direction can change due to a "cough" in the engine, buffeting winds or shifting weight as the fuel supply decreases.

Then there are the three complex factors associated only with space flight, called oblateness, Coriolis effect and centripetal force. Oblateness means that the earth is not quite round, but egg-shaped. Coriolis effect means that the earth is moving under the rocket as it moves over the earth. And centripetal force tends to pull a rocket traveling in an arc in toward the earth's axis of rotation.

DETAILS SECRET

These three factors differ depending on the part of the earth the rocket is flying over.

Details of the components of Honeywell's inertial guidance brain and how they work are secret. But they are also meaningless to the average person because they are so complicated. And the difficulty of making such devices is almost as great as understanding how they work.

One component, for example, requires more than 200 metal surfaces to be ground to a fineness of 10 millionths of an inch or less. Another component must measure accelerations as small as .00001 of one gravity (an acceleration of 32 feet per second per second) or as large as 10 times the force of gravity.

★ ★ ★

A gadget in the system called the hermetic integrating gyro is so sensitve it detects movements 3,000 times slower than the motion of he hour hand on a watch.

★ ★ ★

All of this information from such components is fed into a miniaturized electronic calculator and analyzed. The results are in turn fed into tiny rockets and air jets on the sides of the main rocket, and to the rocket engine itself, to control the overall path of the missile.

EVALUATION TECHNICIAN — He runs "drift test" on miniature integrating gyro to determine what error gyro will cause in developmental inertial guidance system for long range missiles.

Our Population Up, but Not Farm Acres

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The nation's population is increasing but its farm acreage is not, said Robert S. Stevenson, president of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co.

★ ★ ★

The country's farms use 55 per cent less hired labor than 20 years ago, producing more food with fewer people, he said. By 1970, the United States will have a population of some 200 million people with only 500 million acres from which to feed them—an average of about 2½ acres per consumer, the same as in Europe, he pointed out.

★ ★ ★

There are currently 4½ million tractors on American farms, he estimated. He pointed out that tractors last about 10 years and therefore production of 450,000 tractors a year is needed for replacement alone—somewhat above the industry's output level the past five years.

Navajo Rugs Potential Gifts

If You're in Arizona This Winter, Find One With 'Eye Appeal'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (INS)—Memo to Arizona winter visitors:

If you're looking for the unusual in a Christmas gift, shop around Phoenix for authentic, hand-woven Navajo Indian rugs.

★ ★ ★

And one man to see on your shopping tour is Bill Walter whose shop (Little Bridge Trading Post) in the shadow of Camelback Mountain is piled high with the multi-colored products from Navajo looms on remote New Mexico and Arizona reservations.

"Eye-appeal," says Walter, "is the most important factor in buying a Navajo rug.

"Remember," he adds, "a Navajo rug is made to last and chances are you'll be handing it down to your grandchildren as an heirloom."

Other Navajo rug-shopping tips Walter stresses are closeness and intricacy of weave, straightness of borders, workmanship and quality of wool.

Walter's kaleidoscope of stock ranges from small saddle blankets priced as low as $4 to nine-by-twelve floor rugs tagged as high as $850.

The biggest sellers, however, are the three-by-sixes which range in price from $25 to $50.

Walter's qualifications as an expert on Navajo rugs? He began traveling the Indian reservations in 1932 as a fur buyer and this year was the sole judge of Navajo textiles and weaving in competition at the annual Gallup, N.M., Inter-Tribal Ceremonial.

See Americans Buying 660,000 Trash Grinders

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans will buy 425,000 automatic dishwashers and 660,000 garbage disposers in 1958 at a total retail cost of more than 180 million dollars, a leading manufacturer estimated today.

Bertram F. Given, president of Waste King Corp., Los Angeles, said dishwasher sales will move up 9 per cent.

He attributed the prospective gains to improved product performance and design and growing consumer acceptance.

Bell System Boomed in '57

More Gabbing Possible

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's communications industry spent a record 2⅞ billion dollars of expansion in 1957.

★ ★ ★

During the year a total of 3,438,000 new telephones were added, bringing the nation's total to almost 62 million.

★ ★ ★

Americans now make an average of 238 million telephone calls daily—up 22 million a day from 1956.

★ ★ ★

American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the world's biggest public utility, spent 2½ billion dollars on its network of wires, cables and radio-telephone systems. AT&T, which operates just over 80 per cent of the country's phones through its giant Bell System, opened a 37-million-dollar telepohne cable to Hawaii this fall.

★ ★ ★

Already it is drafting plans for its second trans-Atlantic cable to be finished in 1959 at a cost of 40 million dollars.

Two Sites Already Offered in Europe

Plan International High Schools

NEW YORK (INS)—Young men of free world nations may soon be going to international high schools in the countries of the Atlantic powers.

British Air-Marshal Sir Lawrance Darvall already has been offered facilities for the first two schools in North Germany near the Baltic Sea and on the Greek island of Corfu.

The marshal, in an interview in New York, said sponsors believe such schools for boys from 15 to 18 years old could do "more than anything else to ensure understanding and cooperation in the future. . . "

PLANS FIRST SCHOOLS

He hopes first to set up schools in the U. S., Canada, England, Germany, France and in the Mediterranean area. He said funds might be raised through the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

"We ought to get some funds from governments," he added, "some from foundations and some from public spirited persons."

Sir Lawrance recently retired from the post of commandant of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Defense College in Paris. At that college, he said, senior officers and diplomats of NATO nations "learn to examine their prejudices and to discard many, to experience that different points of view need not necessarily lead to dispute, and that any and every human being can become a friend if you succeed in understanding his ideas and in conveying yours to him."

DISTINGUISHED SPONSORS

Sir Lawrance discussed the plan for the schools and the Atlantic Education Foundation that would sponsor them with officials at the U. S. State Department, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, President Nathan M. Pusey of Harvard, Lewis W. Douglas, former ambassador to Great Britain, and former Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson.

He pointed out that Sevenson has said that Russia, by launching two satellites, has come to stand "in the eyes of the majority of the members of the world's population as more skillful, more powerful, yes, and ironically, more peaceful than we are."

Sir Lawrance added, "If our growing youth does not develop as physically strong and as morally robust as the Russian youth is idle to try to match Russia in military and economic power."

One way to help make youth fit, he said, is through the plan for international high schools. If all goes well, Sir Lawrance hopes to have the first of the Atlantic Foundation schools operating by the fall of 1958.

Under the plan, each of the Atlantic nations would send boys to each different school. The contingents would average about 18 to 20 boys, but the exact number of each group would be roughly equal to population proportions.

Committees in each country, Sir Lawrance said, would select students "more for character than education and without regard to financial resources."

Experience has shown that after selection about 30 per cent of the students would be able to pay their own fees, about 30 per cent would need help in scholarships and the remainder would need complete financing.

Sir Lawrance explained:

"Each school would be situated near the sea and the mountains, to obtain the opportunity of the challenge of adventure. Lifesaving and cooperative social work together would civilize and humanize the young. Each school would have a cross-section from each country.

"Each would have a library and house and the like typical of that country. Each area, North Sea, Mediterranean and America and Canada would have a sailing ship. Each school would have activities additional to games to allow a much wider series of interests to be available than is normal in most schools.

"Each school would teach in the language of the country where the school was situated, but a second language would also be in constant use and a third as a recreational medium.

"In three and a half years in these conditions the only privilege would be the privilege of such an education. The only prejudice the certainty that every one can understand and cooperate if he is given the chance. . . "

Power Mower Sales Top 3 Million in 1957

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Annual sales of power lawn mowers which totaled 100,000 in 1947 soared to 3,300,000 in 1957, David M. Lilly, president of Toro Mfg. Corp., said today.

The outlook is bright, he said, because with only half the potential market sold, replacement sales already account for more than 50 per cent of total volume. Another sales booster is indicated in a prospective seven per cent increase in housing starts.

Generous Man Yule Symbol

Trouble-Shoots for Santa

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Christmas is Charles Dickens. It is Hans Christian Andersen's "The Fir Tree" and O. Henry's "The Gift of the Magi." It is twinkling frost, great smears of red, green and gold, dazzling lights and ice blue stars.

It is also Russel Hopkins.

Hopkins is a middle-aged man with a boy's heart and a Christmas spirit as vast as that of any man, real or storied. He is in the glass business, but his true job is trouble-shooting for Santa Claus.

Hopkins has been doing that for 27 years.

Each year he buys, wraps and distributes thousands of toys and thousands of pounds of candy among children of the poor. In order to do the job properly, he starts on the project months before Christmas. This season he expects to give away more than 6,000 toys and at least 3,200 pounds of candy.

★ ★ ★

Why so generous?

His answer comes easily, in a burst of joviality: "I just like kids and that's it."

By the end of this week hundreds of children will have flocked to Hopkins' place of business in downtown Philadelphia, the vanguard of an eager, clamoring and sometimes pathetic host of boys and girls.

Repeaters there are, of course. Hopkins doesn't mind. "When you have so little," he said, "what kid wouldn't try to get another toy?"

In addition to national holidays, Texas also observes Texas Independence Day, San Jacinto Day, and the birthdays of Robert E. Lee and Jefferson Davis.

Latest Cards for Youths Have Clever Themes

The latest Christmas cards for children have been designed on a "pay or play" theme.

Either they are clever presentations of money gifts, perfect for the child who has almost everything, or else they provide some sort of game along with wishes of good cheer.

One card features a Santa laden with a drawstring bag of cloth in which folding money or coins can be enclosed. Another money card features Santa's reindeer, with dimes attached as collar ornaments to Dasher, Dancer and the rest.

A card which combines active participation of the child with the true significance of Christmas is called "Pilgrimage to Bethlehem." The card traces the route of Mary and Joseph from Nazareth to the scene of Jesus' birth.

Another greeting provides all the colorful pieces — eyes, nose, ears, etc.—needed to transform a shiny red apple into a gay holiday character.

Hal Boyle Says:

Train Trip Reveals Varied Scenes, Colors

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP) — To several generations of Americans the most romantic sound they heard in their growing years was the sound of a train whistle crying in the night.

It was a lonely sound, throbbing through the darkness, stirring youthful imaginations to dream of travel in far places.

To one who remembers that sound well it seems a shame that a new generation of kids has grown up without knowing it. The raucous hoot of a diesel horn holds none of the magic of the old steam engine's cry, wailing across the prairies, echoing in the hills, sending little shivers up the spine of all who heard it and felt a desire to be aboard a train hurtling through the blackness to some place distant and new.

These are dire days for the railroad buffs, who feel that the greatness of the age of the iron horse is over. It was bad enough to see the passing of the steam engine. But now there are mutterings that the era of long-distance passenger travel by train is ending.

You can now hear predictions — even among professional railroad men — that in another 25 years the pullman conductor will be as out of date as the cigar store Indian.

Frankly, don't believe it. And my hero of the week is A. E. Stoddard, president of the Union Pacific. In an ad he answered those doom-criers with the statement that his railroad has no intention of going out of the passenger business and more new equipment is on order.

The main reason I feel that the iron horse won't go the way of the stagecoach or the Mississippi River steamboat — that is, in its role as a passenger carrier — is because it really hasn't been outmoded.

The airplane, as a means of travel, is fast losing its original glamor and becoming just another efficient means of mass transportation.

You can't beat it if you have to make a long journey in a hurry. You get there faster, but you're bored on the way, and you arrive tired. You don't have much to do but wonder what you are doing way up there in cloudland, higher even than an eagle flies. You have a deepdown unasy feeling that only an angel belongs up there, and you know you're no angel.

But many times there is more to a trip than merely getting from one place to another. There is the excitement of going, the thrill of seeing new things along the way.

That is why the train, far from losing its glamor, is regaining it. It teaches you as you travel. You feel and see the changes as you go.

Take a long trip by car today on our modern highways and what happens? You see an endless ribbon of concrete before you, and very little else. You eat food almost as standardized as the gasoline your car consumes. The restaurants and filling stations look alike, and too often they serve the same menus — one for the car, one for you.

Take a long trip by air, and what happens? The dear face of America, seen from above, is a checkerboard that looks like a modernistic painting — if you can see the land at all. It is too patterned.

But take a long trip by train, and what happens? Well, I did that this week for the first time in many months. I rode here from New York.

The trip took nearly 35 leisurely hours, but there wasn't a boring moment. The great panorama of America, the tremendous spectacle of varied faces and changing landscapes, rolled by outside the train window by day.

And at night, lying in my berth, I kept the shade up until after midnight, watching the small towns swim by, the deep pine forests, the harvested fields, the isolated country churches with small spires gleaming in moonlight above the dreamless dead in their graveyards, the snow giving way to greenery, the bare bough to the palm tree and the hanging Spanish moss.

It came to me that I hadn't really felt the impact of my native land in quite this mystic way for a long, long time, and as the wheels of the iron horse went clickety-click on the steel rails I had a grateful feeling.

Wood Industry Strong in State

LANSING (AP) — There's an encouraging revival under way in Michigan's wood producing and wood processing business.

Breakfast food cartons in Battle Creek, shipping containers manufactured in Kalamazoo, wallboard, various types of paper including Kleenex and newsprint — all are depending more and more on pulpwood mills in Michigan's northland.

FIGURES IMPRESSIVE

Paul A. Herbert, head of the research division of the State Economic Development Commission and formerly head of the forestry department at Michigan State University, supplied some impressive figures on the industry.

According to industry figures, Herbert said, the use of Michigan-produced pulpwood will have more than doubled between 1954 and 1960.

"This means more jobs and more income for the Upper Peninsula and the northern Lower Peninsula," he said.

"With better fire protection and better forest management, wood products will play an increasingly important part in Michigan's future."

In 1954, Herbert said, there were five pulpwood mills in the Lower Peninsula and four in the Upper Peninsula. One more small mill was added in the Lower Peninsula in 1956.

By 1960, it is planned to have four more mills in production, two in the Upper Peninsula and two in the Lower Peninsula.

The consumption of pulpwood in these Michigan mills totalled 413,000 cords in 1954. The industry predicts that if all the mills get into production, about a million cords a year will be used in 1960.

FEED MILLS

In addition, by 1960 it is figured that around half a million cords will be shipped into Wisconsin to help feed the 30 pulp mills operating in the neighboring state.

As a yardstick of measurement, a cord of wood would be more than enough to keep the average family fireplace burning for a year.

Even under present practices, Herbert estimated that Michigan's commercial woodland could produce about 1,800,000 cords for pulpwood by 1960—enough to supply two more pulping mills.

If the available acreage were all used under intensive forestry, he estimated this production could be upped to around four million cords.

One important boost to the industry, he said, is the use of aspen —formerly thought of as a weed tree—for pulping.

Intensified cuttings of aspen are an aid to conservation, also, he said, since the young sprouts are a favorite food for deer.

Looking toward the more distant future, Herbert said that opening of the Straits of Mackinac Bridge, expansion of the St. Lawrence Seaway and the midwestern population increase all will create new markets and new demands for Michigan wood products.

★ ★ ★

"Also, there will be no danger that logging will ever again deplete the supply of timber," he said. "The planning now is for a sustained yield that will mean more jobs the year around, both in the forests and the wood-using plants."

1 Person Glad His Birthday Falls on Yule

By CARROLL ARMOND

"Your birthday's on Christmas? What a shame to lose out on presents that way."

There's a remark I've heard altogether too often.

I cannot speak for other Christmas-birthday folks like Clara Barton, Sir Isaac Newton, Gladys Swartout or Conrad Hilton. But for myself (Dec. 25, 1900) I must say I do as well at unwrapping time as one whose birthday is, say, July 25.

Never has anyone handed me a package and said, "This is your Christmas and birthday present." If it's a year for ties, I get two, one specifically a Christmas gift, the other a birthday present.

Once, as a small boy, I got the only present a neighbor gave at Yuletide. As an Orthodox Jew she did not recognize Christmas. But she stopped in to hand m. a package, stressing, "It's for your birthday."

A birthday forgotten is one of the pangs of heart I've never suffered. It is just about impossible for anyone within the gift-giving or card-sending perimeter not to remember a birthday falling on Christmas.

The only real doubling up occurs in greeting cards. In the last few years that industry has catered to a limited market by producing some attractive combination Christmas-Birthday cards. It is gratifying to receive one of these. It shows the sender, while possibly mass-buying cards for his other friends, took special pains in singling out one for me.

Birthday parties are no problem whatever for us on Dec. 25. Christmas always brings families and friends together. At our house the dinner menu always has been roast turkey and trimmings followed by plum pudding. / nightfall the birthday party begins with the same guests digging into cold turkey and birthday cake illuminated, lately, by as many candles as fire regulations allow.

NAME SOLVED

The arrival of a baby on Christmas has a blessing often overlooked. It can solve the painful problem of what to name the child without offending rich Uncle Ebenezer or Grandma Brunhilda. As the saying goes, a Christmas baby brings his name with him.

In my case the choice demanded no coin-flippi:. Carrol is the Gaelic form of Charles.

If this Christmas you're looking for this Christmas Carroll to offer condolences on being cheated out of a birthday, I should be easy to find. Look for me at a stack of packages twice as big as yours.

Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

He found himself in an underwater palace.

SYNOPSIS: Richard escapes from the Green Ghoul and takes the golden thread back to Santa Land. Now, said Santa, he must bring him the black diamond from the third finger of the Phantom of the Sea.

Chapter 14
THE PHANTOM

Richard was no longer happy. The very thought of the Phantom of the Sea caused his knees to tremble and his heart to pound.

"It will take a smart, brave boy to bring back that diamond," taunted Patrick Tweedleknees, "and anyone can plainly see you're dumb and scared. Better go back where you came from and play with rubber balloons like the baby you are."

★ ★ ★

He tossed an unfilled balloon at the boy. Richard picked it up and put it in his pocket. He swallowed hard and turned to Santa. "I guess I'll be going," he mumbled.

"I told you so!" shouted Tweedleknees.

"I am going to get the black diamond," went on Richard unhappily. "Please tell me the way."

Santa smiled. "Go into the setting sun until you come to a red sea. That is where the Phantom lives."

Richard did as he was told. For two days and a night he trudged westward. Late in the afternoon of the second day he saw ahead of him a great sea whose waters boiled red under the setting sun.

As he came closer the sun sank lower and lower. At last it dropped into the red sea and all the land was black.

"Who are you and why have you come to my sea?"

Richard tried to speak but he could not find his voice. He wanted to turn and run but he could not move his legs.

The phantom voice blared again. "Speak! I command you!"

Richard opened his mouth. "I am Prince Richard," he said in a very small voice. "I have come to see the black diamond on your finger."

"That is an evil errand," howled the Phantom. "You shall suffer for having thought of it."

Richard felt a warm breath against his face. He threw out his hands and felt the slimy body of the Phantom. He twisted back the Phantom's arm and held him locked in his grip. He caught the Phantom's hand and felt the diamond on the third finger.

But even as he began to draw off the diamond the sea boiled up and the waves rolled in and swept him off his feet. He tried to let go of the Phantom but he was locked against him and dragged into the sea.

He gasped for breath. The water swept into his mouth. His eyes bulged. His ears rang. He felt that in another instant he would be no more.

Then suddenly he was free from the Phantom.

He opened his eyes and found himself in a red palace deep in the sea. Though he was under water he could breathe and see. He gazed in astonishment at the splendid furnishings of the palace and at the fish which swam lazily around his head.

At the end of the hall he saw a creature on a red throne. He knew it was the Phantom.

The Phantom was round and long and slippery. His head was pointed and his eyes bulged. On his feet were giant flippers.

He looked at Richard. "Never before," said he, "has anyone twisted the arm of the Phantom. As a punishment I sentence you to spend the rest of your days in this palace under the sea!"

Police Kept Busy in Kashbah of Paris

PARIS — Paris police have been busy this year trying to keep down terrorism in an area of the city where death lurks in every corner. This is the Kasbah, the Arab quarter of Europe's glamour city, where 1,200 Algerians, 8,000 Moroccans and 3,000 Tunisians have their homes, rear their families, smoke their hashish—and plot.

Over 600 Arabs have been arrested this year. 50 accused of murder or attempted murder. Four hundred were accused of carrying or hiding arms.

The Kasbah lies around Boulevard Barbes and its center has the title of La Gouette D'or (The Drop of Gold).

But danger lurks not only for the white man who strays into the narrow street but also for the French Moslem who tries to live a life of peace, devoid of politics—amid poverty, dirt, hate and terroism.

School Budget Up for Action

Waterford Board Also Expected to Act on Debt Retirement Fund

When the Waterford Township Board of Education meets at 7:30 tonight, it is expected that it will take action on the 1958 budget and debt retirement fund for the high school football program.

Another important item on the agenda will be a report from the building committee relative to building sites for the proposed senior high school and the Thomas Cooley and Laura Haviland elementary schools.

Funds for the two elementary schools and for the purchase of the high school site were included in a 3½ million dollar bond issue approved by residents in the February, 1956, election and will not bring a raise in the present tax rate, according to superintendent William Shunck.

A recommended attendance area for the John D. Pierce junior high school, now under construction on Hatchery and Crescent Lake Roads will be presented by Shunck, for the board's approval.

There will be a discussion regarding a request from Waterford Township Clerk James Seeterlin for acquiring the use of additional school buildings for voting purposes.

Due to the large increase in population, almost every precinct in the township is overloaded, making a division move necessary, according to Seeterlin.

Antarctic Expert Reports on South Pole Life

Paul Siple -- 'Born Scientist' -- Returns

WASHINGTON (INS)—Big Paul A. Siple returned to Washington last week after spending a year on ice and finding out, among other things, that the South Pole is land.

★ ★ ★

The 43-year-old Antarctic expert has been station scientific leader of the United States Polar Station for the International Geophysical Year.

Washington was freezing when the explorer, geographer, lecturer and author arrived home. But he told newsmen it was one of the warmest days he's seen.

During one month on the Pole, he said with a grin, the temperature averaged 80 degrees below zero. At the lowest it was 102.4 degrees below zero.

But Siple said, "We kept pretty comfortable. Man is a comfort-loving creature. When it is cold he does something about it."

Paul A. Siple, better than any other man, knows how to do something about the conditions of the frozen polar regions. A big, heavy-set man, he has spent more time on the southernmost continent than any other man—now a total of about five and a half years.

Like all explorers, he has his peculiarities, and they have been formed most by what he has done. He loves the freezing wildness of the Antarctic.

SOMETHING SPECIAL

"Once you've been there," he says, "there's something a little special about you—everyone feels it, and so do you. I think this may be what draws people down there, and even though they hate it, they feel it's worth buying with a little time and a little discomfort. It will last them a lifetime."

Siple was only 19 years old—and picked from thousands of Boy Scouts—when he was taken by the late Admiral Richard E. Byrd on the 1928-30 Little America expedition.

He took on the job of collecting penguins and seals for the American Museum of Natural History, taught himself to become an expert taxidermist and learned such Arctic lore as how to handle a dog team.

BORN SCIENTIST

Byrd, who recommended him for the South Pole command before his death, said of Siple, "A born scientist . . . the best-equipped man there is for this kind of work."

When he returned from the first expedition, young Siple wrote a book, went back to school, became a geographer and met and married Ruth Johannesmeyer. They now have three daughters.

At the same time he cultivated his wanderlust with tours—off the beaten tracks—in Europe, North Africa, and the Mideast, went to the Arctic again on the 1933-35 expedition, returned for more studies, made a third trip to Little America III, helped the Army develop cold weather gear and took part in the Navy's 1946-47 cold weather training exercise.

He has received all kinds of awards, but perhaps one of his proudest achievements has been commanding the year-long operation that set up special seismograph instruments to determine the depth of ice and land beneath the South Pole.

He and his scientific cohorts found, about two weeks before he left, that the ice is about 8,000 feet deep. Beneath that is a thousand feet of land above sea level.

Doesn't Even Raise Ripple in Moscow

Russians Calm About Atlas Launching

MOSCOW (INS) — The first successful firing of the U.S. intercontinental ballistic missile didn't even raise a ripple in Moscow.

The average Russian hadn't heard of the American exploit and most doubted that it was true.

THEY DOUBT IT

One man hurrying to the theater said, "America fired an ICBM? I doubt it."

Another evening stroller on Moscow's busy Gorki street said, "It was probably a publicity maneuver to bolster NATO. How do we know it hit the target."

Another Russian's opinion was: "This doesn't mean America has caught up with the Soviet Union. The Soviet ICBM was fired last August, and since then we fired several Sputniks. Where are the American Sputniks?"

One woman interviewed seemed genuinely upset over the development. "This means if war ever comes it will mean the end of the world," she said.

Diplomatic quarters in the Soviet capital thought the firing was the shot in the arm needed for the morale of NATO countries. At the same time it was expected to have a sobering effect on those Soviet planners who thought Russia had at least one or two years armaments advantage.

The belief is that the American success came much sooner than expected and will cause some readjustment and re-evaluation of tactical, strategic and diplomatic planning by the Soviets.

Big Change in Methods

CLEVELAND — From antiquity until the last quarter of the 19th century, all glass containers were formed by hand and lung power. Today high-speed automatic machines blow and shape jars and bottles as fast as 250 a minute.

Sound travels faster in warm air than in cold.

Horse at Aircraft Plant

DALLAS, Tex. (INS) — Plant guards cruising among the 7,000 cars parked on the Chance Vought aircraft factory lot were somewhat surprised to spot a horse tied to a signpost. Turned out the animal belonged to a night shift worker who had ridden to the plant to pick up his check.

NORFOLK, Va. (INS) — The oft-discussed monorail transportation system has been derailed here. A seven-man, fact-finding commission said it isn't practical because the city's population is too small.

PROUD DOLL MOTHER — Puts finishing touches on elaborate coiffure. Intricate bodice and skirt detail of chiffon dress typify elegance of this season's fashion conscious glamor dolls.

New Duke Pleasing as TV Straight Man

LONDON — Britain's new Duke of Bedford is rapidly becoming one of the best known dukes outside the Royal Family.

Faced by death duties amounting to some $11,000,000 after his father's death he decided to open the family's Woburn Abbey to the public as a 35 cent stately home.

He unpacked the furniture, modernized the zoo in the spacious grounds, provided car parking and then set out to publicize his venture.

★ ★ ★

He appeared on radio and TV programs and made a hit by his quiet wit and avoidance of any ducal aloofness. He even appeared as a "straight man" to a television comedian, slipping in various "puffs" for Woburn that must have brought him thousands of visitors.

Swedish Yards Launch Less Ship Tonnage

STOCKHOLM — Ships under construction or on order at Swedish yards at midyear totaled 2,150,000 tons compared with 2,150,000 tons the year before. Most of the orders received this year have been for big tankers.

In '57 Than Ever Before

Spending More on Food

NEW YORK (AP) — Hungry Americans spent more money on food in 1957 than ever before.

★ ★ ★

Total food consumption expenditures hit a record 75 billion dollars this year, estimates Paul S. Willis, president of Grocery Manufacturer of America Inc. Nearly two-thirds of this went for home consumption with the balance spent in institutions, restaurants, bread and milk routes, and the like.

★ ★ ★

The figure compares with 71 billion dollars in 1956, 16 billion in 1939 and a forecast of 79 billion next year.

★ ★ ★

Grocery manufacturers are investing upwards of 100 million dollars a year in product and marketing research, he says. Willis estimates that two-thirds of today's grocery sales are products which are either new or basically improved since 1946, and added that half the 1958 sales could come from items non-existent today.

Food costs, as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics' figures, increased during the year. The bureau's food index (1947-49 equals 100) stood at 116.4 in October compared with 113.1 in October 1956 and with 117.9 in August of this year.

Teen Girls Dictate Lives of Their 'Steadies'

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — It seems that teenage women (a girl becomes a woman these days as soon as she learns to stalk) are virtually running the lives of teenage boys.

Not only do they handle the boys' monies, whether they be $2.00 allowances or $100 paychecks, but they tell them when to go to bed at night, what clothes to buy, and, in general, exactly where to go.

SURRENDER FREEDOM

In fact, "teenage boys in the United States are surrendering many of their pre-marital freedoms at an increasingly alarming rate," according to Lester Rand, head of the Youth Research Institute, which takes surveys on the habits and thinkings of the nation's 12 to 20-year-olds.

★ ★ ★

Gone, apparently, are the days of my youth when a shy lad would as soon stay after school in detention hall as risk having to carry your books . . . when mothers had to give a boy cash, and fathers had to force upon a boy the family car, before he'd get himself a doll for the prom.

Today's youth goes steady early, as all thinkers — and worriers — are aware.

ALL TURNED OVER

Often, shortly after starting this terribly earnest togetherness the boys turn over their allowances and earnings to their girls, who place the boys on a budget. "Girls think they are better money managers than boys, and have little trouble convincing youths of it," Rand says.

Holding the money, and also having influence in the boys' family charge accounts, the older teen femmes accompany their steadies on clothes-shopping expeditions, telling them pretty much what to buy. What's more alarming, the boys later brag about the taste of their girl friends, admitting they wouldn't make a move in haberdashery circles without female help.

"Once they feel confident, girls force boys to cut down on sweets and smoking, and go so far as to tell them at what time they should be in bed," Rand's surveys show.

The worst of it is that all this stern supervision, under the guise of young love, comes at a critical time when boys are just beginning to balk at maternal control. It's the traditional age when a young boy grows into a very young man, and begins to feel the healthy power of planting his feet on independent ground.

★ ★ ★

Under the new "steady" social setup, many a young boy may never be transformed into a normal decision-maker and free thinker. He may kid himself that in switching his allegience from one woman to another, he is growing up and shouldering a new kind of family responsibility . . .

★ ★ ★

But actually, it's the same old story: He's a slave to the whim of a woman. And what difference is there, actually, if he takes orders from the firmly positive voice of his mother, or the seductively positive voice of his intended?

In either case, the woman grows dominant, the male meek.

I feel sorry for the "steadies" of today — more so for the female than the male. One day, when she has her own youngsters to lavish maternal instincts on, she will start looking at her husband as a man.

★ ★ ★

Hauled Granite for Bunker Hill Shaft

Boston Asks to Preserve Oldest Railroad in U.S.

QUINCY, Mass. (INS) — Part of the Granite Railway, America's oldest railroad, has been uncovered by bulldozers during work for the new southeast expressway and today a move is underway to save the ancient section.

The railroad was built in 1826 to haul granite for Bunker Hill Monument in the Charlestown section of Boston. The railway ran three miles from Bunker Hill quarry to the Neponset River.

It also helped haul granite for construction of the custom house in Boston, Minot's Ledge lighthouse and the now-razed Charlestown state prison.

The railroad section was partly excavated by an amateur archeologist, Richard J. Muzzrole of Quincy, who discovered it during bulldozer work for the superhighway.

As a result of a plea by Edgar P. T. Walker of the Boston National Historic Sites Commission, Michael Verrochi, head of the contracting firm working at the scene, ordered a halt in operations.

Muzzrole arranged for an inspection of the site by Mayor Amello Della Chiesa and other officials.

Backers of the move to save the railroad section hope it can be saved and will become an historic attraction. They said a 100-car parking lot could be located nearby.

The railroad was built by Gridley Bryant of Scituate. Muzzrole said he hopes to uncover in the same area the world's first railroad turntable, which was invented by Bryant. Muzzrole said:

"I've a strong feeling that it hasn't been destroyed. I'm working on some leads now where I might run test holes."

Uses Parking Meters to Raise Orphan Fund

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The parking meter, which is found on main streets all over the country, has been turned into a fund-raiser for orphan boys at the lake home of a Tulsa engineer.

★ ★ ★

G. E. Nicholson has six meters in the backyard of his place at Lake Fort Gibson and houseguests are expected to pay. If they forget, he writes a "ticket" and "fines" them $1. When the meter coin boxs are full he collects the nickels and dimes and turns it over to the Tulsa Boys Home.

Gift-Car Rule Eased

OSLO—The Norwegian Ministry of Commerce has eased regulations for receiving gift cars from persons abroad. The chief requirement now is that recipient and donor must be directly related.

STRUCTURAL STEEL—Buildings will go up quickly this Christmas. Junior has just about finished a new office building.

Unappetizing Encounter

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—When Police Officer Leonard Baber stopped Raymond T. Camoras, 23, for a minor traffic violation he found him trying to eat his driver's license. "Why?" asked Baber. "My license was suspended a year ago and I just have to drive a car," was Camoras' puzzling explanation.

ALGIERS—Algeria has an area of 850,000 square miles, about three times the size of Texas. Some 742,000 square miles of the country are in the Sahara Desert zone.

Annual Trouble Starts: Chicago Lake Diversion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The annual battle over Chicago's diversion of water from Lake Michigan has jumped off to an early start, with action likely both in Congress and the Supreme Court.

★ ★ ★

Six Great Lakes states opposed to the diversion were scheduled to ask the court this week to curtail sharply Chicago's use of lake water. The city seeks to use more water for operation of its sewer system and for improved navigation on the Illinois waterway.

The Senate Public Works Committee will have before it when Congress reconvenes next month a House-passed bill to permit more diversion.

Chances for success of either of the opposing maneuvers were not considered very bright, with the strong possibility of a continuance of the status quo.

Government sources regarded the anti-diversion court attempt primarily as a counterattack against the pro-diversion legislation. And a state department spokesman said Canada has not budged in its opposition to greater diversion.

President Eisenhower was prompted primarily by Canadian objections in vetoing water diversion bills passed by Congress in 1954 and 1956.

A 1930 Supreme Court order limits Chicago to diversion of 1,500 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan. This does not include from 1,700 to 1,800 cubic feet a second diverted for drinking and other domestic uses.

ASK CASE REOPENED

The anti-diversion Great Lakes states want the court to reopen the 1930 case and order Chicago to return to the lake the 1,700 to 1,800 cubic feet pumped for domestic uses and not divert that water to the Illinois waterway.

The bill pending in Congress would boost the 1,500-cubic feet limitation to 2,500 cubic feet.

Announcement from Lansing, that the anti-diversion petition had been prepared by the Attorneys General of Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Minnesota and Wisconsin surprised government officials here who have been close to the situation.

They said an order that would force Chicago to turn back water and purified sewage into Lake Michigan would necessitate a complete change in the city's mammoth sewerage system.

In the past, the diversion controversy has centered about the 1,500 cubic feet of diversion permitted for navigation purposes on the Illinois waterway. The domestic pumpage had not been questioned.

★ ★ ★

All Great Lakes states with the exception of Illinois and Indiana have contended that Chicago's diversion of water from Lake Michigan creates a hazard to shipping and hydroelectric projects. Indiana has not taken a strong position on either side of the controversy.

What Language Men to Speak on Moon Eyed

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — What language will the first human on the moon speak?

This unlikely question came up yesterday at a news conference with 17 physicists from 10 nations attending a science meeting at Stanford University.

The scientists were quick with the answers:

★ ★ ★

M. M. Levy from the University of Paris in France suggested, "Broken English is a good guess."

Countered L.R.B. Elton of Kings College in London.

"Perfect Russian is at least as good a guess as broken English."

Fire Department Has to Get Rid of Teens

SPENCER, W. Va. (AP)—Spencer's volunteer fire department is growing up. Adults are being added to the department, previously manned entirely by teenage boys.

★ ★ ★

The State Inspection Bureau, which sets insurance rates, warned that adults would have to be taken into the department if Spencer was to retain its favorable fire rates.

Veteran Santa Discusses Children's Requests

Dolls, Cowboy Suits Top List

SANTA CLAUS, Ind. (INS) — A veteran Santa Claus said today that dolls and cowboy suits remain perennially favorite gifts among children, but that "Rudolph" has nosed out Dancer, Dasher, and their companions as the favorite reindeer.

The Santa is Jim Yellig who has been playing the year-around role of the jolly gentleman in Santa Claus, Ind., for nearly a quarter of a century. He took time out from his confidential conferences with small fry to answer some questions for International News Service.

Question: Do children expect more Christmas gifts now than they did during the depression years of the 1930s?

Answer: "I don't think so, although the things they ask for cost more. Some children mention only one toy. Most stop at three. There are exceptions who have a long list they have made out, as if they were going shopping in a grocery."

Q. Do the requests reflect childish ideas of what they will become in adult life?

A. "Yes. I've had many children tell me since Sputnik that they want to be scientists. They may not know what one is, but they have heard grownups talking about them and how important they are."

Q. Is there any one gift boys and girls request perennially?

A. "Dolls for girls, cowboy suits for boys. But among the old favorite new ones appear. Typewriters, accordions, chemistry sets and telescopes were frequently requested this year."

Q. Do children ask many questions about your family or your reindeer?

A. "Quite a few ask where Mrs. Claus is, and where are the brownies and elves. But the only reindeer children ask about any more is Rudolph. Nobody seems to care about Dasher, Dancer, Prancer, Vixen, Comet, Cupid, Donder and Blitzen."

Q. Do children to whom you have talked seem aware of the religious significance of Christmas?

A. "This comes out more often in letters than in personal talk. Children often ask that boys and girls who have nothing be remembered. Some close their letters by saying they pray for baby Jesus, or they go to church, or other religious service."

Q. What would be your comment if you met the British churchman who wants to abolish Santa?

A. "Many ministers have come to me and thanked me for the good they say I have done. From what I can judge, children connect Santa, Father Nicholas, Father Christmas, or whatever name you use, with the birth of Christ but they do not confuse the two. Santa is a sort of list-collector of the things they want. The meaning of Christ varies according to what they have been taught, but they know the difference."

Missiles' Instruments Put Through Paces

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — The Air Force has been testing instruments used in missiles during manned aircraft flights over a range between Holloman missile center and Phoenix, Ariz.

The public information officer at Holloman said details on the Arizona-New Mexico range cannot be released.

He did say that there have been no free missile flights in the corridor but missile instruments have been tested in manned aircraft.

Canvass Nets $1,966

According to William J. Brown, Pontiac area chairman of the recent muscular dystrophy campaign a total of $1,996 was collected by 250 marchers in a two-hour period, topping the 1956 total by over $400.

The Hawaiian language contains only 12 letters, fewer letters in a complete alphabet than any other known language in the world.

Planned Retirement Gives More Choice

By RAY HENRY

Retirement is something many people don't do much planning for until they meet it face-to-face. By that time, they usually have little choice but to shake hands and hope they don't get thrown by it.

Take, for example, the word of a group of people who had retired from a large Eastern company within the past five years.

The company got the word when they asked the people some questions to try to help their present employes plan their retirement. The questions were asked in an anonymous questionnaire.

Although most of the questions involved possible changes in company policy, two of them were general:

Before you retired, what kind of plans did you make for your retirement?

If you had it to do over again, would you have done more advance planning?

About one out of three said they had done very little or no retirement planning.

And, about one out of three said they would do more if they had another chance.

★ ★ ★

These answers no doubt are a good reflection of how the questions would be answered by all of today's retired people. Thus, they indicate a common failure by many of us who do little or no retirement planning.

What planning should be done?

This wasn't one of the questions asked of the group of retired people in the questionnaire. But, they were given a chance to comment about the question of whether they would do more advance planning if they were again approaching retirement.

Summed up, the comments amounted to this: They would have tried to set aside more money.

Here were some of the comments:

"I should have saved more money from my salary. It is not what you make, it is what you save for old age."

★ ★ ★

"While I saved what I thought was enough on pension, I find a few more dollars coming in would be very nice, and while I could have saved more, I just didn't do it."

★ ★ ★

"If I had given a little more thought at age 35 to retirement, I would have carried a larger annuity."

"One thing I didn't consider in my retirement plans was the increase in cost of living expenses from year to year."

"I should have set aside more money each pay day so that I could have retired with more savings. With more finances, I could have made a choice between traveling around the country or locating in a new area permanently."

★ ★ ★

Besides setting aside more money for retirement, many of the retired people had some advice to offer to people who were still working for the company.

★ ★ ★

Running through almost all the advice was the idea that things could be better if more thought to retirement were given earlier. As one person commented:

★ ★ ★

"Retirement is like death in that most of us hate to face the inevitable and discuss it. Better get ready for it while you have time."

(Auestions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

Venerable White Oak Growing in Maryland

Some of the world's most magnificent specimens of white oak grow on Maryland's Eastern shore.

When the first European settlers arrived three centuries ago, they built their homes in the shade of trees that were already venerable, says the National Geographic Magazine.

Perhaps the most famous is Talbot County's Wye Oak, a giant 95 feet high with a 165-foot spread and a trunk nearly 28 feet around.

Professor Says Reds Pay Scientists Better

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP) — Dr. Cyril Bryner, professor at the University of British Columbia, says the Russians won the race to launch an earth satellite because "their scientists are better paid." He told students that a scientist in Russia receives 10 times as much as a Russian plumber.

Western European Diplomats Show New Independence at Paris Talks

By GEORGE McARTHUR

PARIS (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles found new life and new independence in Western Europe's statesmen at the NATO summit conference.

Old friends and a new face posed problems U.S. diplomacy has not had to face in Europe so long as America alone could guarantee defense against the Russians.

★ ★ ★

The men who made the key moves in the talks were Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen and two old pals of the United States—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Here is what they did—and the probable reasons why:

GERHARDSEN—Made the first suggestion by a Western government leader that Washington and Moscow try direct, two-power negotiations to try to end East-West tensions.

He insisted the door be kept open to give the Russians a chance to prove they want peaceful coexistence between capitalism and communism.

He urged postponement of the decision to accept or reject American medium-range missiles until the weapons were actually ready for delivery, a year or more from now.

★ ★ ★

He also asked that NATO state that it is equipping itself with superweapons only because the Soviet challenge in this field made it necessary.

★ ★ ★

Why did he take these stands? Gerhardsen is a Socialist, and Europe's Socialist parties generally favor more talks with the Russians. His country is on the Soviets' northern doorstep, and probably could be overrun easily, as it was by Hitler in World War II. But Gerhardsen does not want to close the door on all the protection NATO can give Norway ultimately.

★ ★ ★

ADENAUER—Operating mainly from his hotel suite, the West German Chancellor wanted political problems given equal rank with military issues at the meeting. There is still a strong element in his country that, after the horrors of World War II, fears Germany will be the battleground for World War III.

★ ★ ★

His Socialist opponents continually insist that German rearmament precludes Soviet concessions that might mean reunification for East and West Germany, still the major issue in the divided country. With no visible progress toward reunification, even some Adenauer followers are beginning to feel that concessions must be made to the Russians.

★ ★ ★

The West German Chancellor adroitly couched a plea to other European government chiefs to sound out the Russians on a cold-war truce — and then worked on the Americans to go along.

★ ★ ★

MACMILLAN—Came to the conference firmly opposed to the idea of high-level talks at this time with the Kremlin bosses because he feels nothing can come of them.

His immediate goals were:

1. To preserve the special British-American relations forged in his Washington conference with Eisenhower and at the same time to assure the Europeans there was no Washington-London axis within NATO.

★ ★ ★

2. To insure the Americans that nuclear weapon bases will be set up in Europe as a means of bolstering Allied security against Russia's new space-age challenges.

★ ★ ★

3. To pull some sort of rabbit out of the NATO hat with which to confound his opposition in the British Parliament's foreign policy debate beginning tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

In his speech to the conference, Macmillan came out in favor of new discussions and debates with the Soviets, and at the same time for a restatement of the Allied position. He thus went along with the Continental desire for further negotiations, and at the same time agreed with American ideas that nuclear missiles must be stationed

SLOW DOWN AND SMILE — The Florida Highway Patrol has found a way to make even traffic tickets pleasant, at least around Pensacola, Fla. She is Trooper Andree Couture. Although the face of the man receiving the ticket can't be seen in this picture, he is probably smiling. After all, who could get mad at such a pretty officer?

Blamer Saved Thief From Behind Eight Ball

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—For a while, a 21-year-old Newark man was behind the eight-ball.

Police said he stole one of the traditional trouble-balls from the rack of a West Side poolroom.

But no theft charge was filed—poolroom operator Joseph Blamer didn't live up to his name.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Florida Gov. Leroy Collins has announced he will appoint a committee to study the needs of this area around the government's missile test center.

Collins, who toured the center yesterday, said he would set up a group to study conditions and make recommendations, particularly as to highway congestion and school shortages.

The population of Brevard County, in which both the test center on the cape and the air base 11 miles away are located, has increased from 25,000 in 1950 to about 85,000.

★ ★ ★

A series of luxurious motels, many with swimming pools, has grown up along the miles of beautiful beaches facing the cape. It is possible to watch launchings in comfort from the rooms of some of the motels.

★ ★ ★

Traffic clogs the narrow highways, particularly at the hours when men are driving to or from work at the cape. Schools are so crowded that one group of youngsters attends classes in the morning and another in the afternoon.

Tax Laws Favor Sin

LONDON (INS) — A Conservative party member of Parliament has complained bitterly that sin pays under the present British income tax laws. Brigadier O. L. Prior-Palmer claims that many couples live together without benefit of matrimony because tax loopholes favor single people.

Knight Rival Quits U.S. Senate Race

can Robert C. Kirkwood — first candidate to announce for the U.S. Senate race next year — withdrew yesterday and said he would seek re-election as state controller.

★ ★ ★

That left three candidates for the Republican nomination—Gov. Goodwin Knight, Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco and Edwin Atherton of Stockton.

Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, Democratic candidate for governor, called the withdrawal "part of a ridiculous Punch and Judy show — the worst this state has ever seen."

He referred to Knight's recent decision to run for the Senate instead of for re-election. That left the GOP nomination for governor to Sen. Knowland, who announced he would not ask re-election.

Brown also predicted Christopher would withdraw, virtually assuring Knight of nomination. Atherton is not rated a strong candidate.

Did He Get License?

ANTLERS, Okla. (AP)— The worst possible thing happened when Jerry Rosenthal went out with examiner Lester Tidwell to take his driving license test. The car ran out of gas. Tidwell had to walk back to the courthouse.

At Holiday Parties

Hot Soup Punch Served

The happiest parties of the teen-ager's year often come at the end—the holiday festivities through the Christmas and New Year season. Guests find everyday rooms transformed and a gay madcap mood captures their spirits.

★ ★ ★

Try a pungent hot soup intriguingly presented in a heatproof punch bowl with punch cups and ladle ready beside it. Serve a dish-ful of sliced butter or margarine resting on ice cubes so the guests can float a pat of butter on each cup of soup.

One quarter pound of butter is enough for 12 to 16 pats. The butter will cut more easily and evenly if you slip a small wax-paper cover over the knife blade.

Eight cans (10½-ounce) condensed tomato soup; 8 soup cans water; ¼ cup lemon juice; ½ teaspoon cinnamon; 1 teaspoon whole cloves; butter.

Combine liquid ingredients and spices. Stir until well mixed. Heat and simmer for 15 minutes to develop flavor. Serves 10 to 12.

Make sandwiches of a variety of breads—white, whole wheat, rye, hamburger rolls, hard rolls, buns; combine a dark bread bottom with a white top.

MAINE SARDINE CUCUMBER SANDWICHES

Two 3-ounce packages cream cheese; 2 cans (3¼ or 4-ounce) Maine sardines in mustard sauce; 2 tablespoons real mayonnaise; 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; 1 small cucumber, scored and thinly sliced; 12 slices whole wheat bread; 12 slices white bread.

★ ★ ★

Mash cream cheese and add Maine sardines, mayonnaise and Worcestershire sauce. Mix well. Spread on 12 slices whole wheat bread. Top with thin slices of cucumber. Cover with slices of white bread. Makes 12 hearty sandwiches.

John Morgan, 65, of Schenectady, and his sister, Mrs. Florence Johnson, 71, of Asbury Park, N.J., were separated in 1902 when they lived at the Albany Orphan Asylum.

They met last Sunday at Asbury Park through Mrs. Johnson's inquiries to the Asbury Park Police Department, which traced Morgan through orphanage records.

Mrs. Johnson will join her brother at his home for the holidays.

Two Killed as Jet Crashes Into Cars

ALBANY, Ga. (INS)—Two persons were killed Friday and one was seriously injured when an F-100D sabre jet plane crashed into two parked cars at Turner Air Force Base near Albany, Ga.

The dead included the pilot of the plane and another airman, who was sitting with his wife and 11-year-old son in one of the cars when the plane went out of control on a takeoff.

Witnesses said that the family group apparently tried to run for safety in different directions when they saw the plane approaching. The boy escaped unhurt, but his mother was injured seriously.

Finish Line Only Year Away

Waterway Spurting Into Home Stretch

By ROBERT ELICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway is spurting into the home stretch. The finish line and royal acclaim is just little more than a year away.

Seaway experts say they'll complete their five-year, billion-dollar job on time, ready for the queen's formal opening in late April, 1959.

SAIL TO LAKEHEAD

That's when big ocean freighters are to sail 2,000 miles from the Atlantic to the lakehead, converting the five Great Lakes into an eighth sea for world vessels.

For this, Canada and the United States are spending $400,000,000-plus on seven new concrete locks, four canals and related river dredging. Ontario and New York State are spending another $600,000,000 for a power dam and two control structures to produce 2,200,000 horsepower of electricity.

The new seaway, 27-feet deep into Lake Ontario, renders obsolete the old system of 14-foot-deep canals that accommodates special canal boats and small 250-foot ocean ships.

The year 1958 will see some startling changes.

In July, sluice gates in the power dam at Cornwall, Ont., will swing shut, and Lake Ontario will flood 40,000 acres on both sides of the broad St. Lawrence River. The seaway power dam, neatly bisected by the international boundary, will start crackling electricity over new high-tension lines.

The 35-mile-long lake, stretching west from Cornwall, will flood seven old Ontario towns. The old north-shore canals will be underwater as far as Iroquois.

Three seaway locks, two of them on the United States side of the river, will start operation — but only for ships of 14-foot draught. Full use for 27-foot-draught vessels won't begin until 1959.

WORK TO PRESS ON

Work will press on at the other lock sites, and as the great concrete structures are completed, emphasis will shift to installation of machinery to operate them.

Ten new bridges — mostly small but costly structures spanning the locks — will be put in place as the year draws to a close. Dredges will continue deepening the channel where the seaway route swings through Lake St. Louis and Lake St. Francis.

This part of the work, says Seaway President Charles Gavsie, may have to be kept up after the seaway is operating. It won't interfere with navigation. Gavsie is resigning the job in January to join a Montreal law firm.

Aside from construction, 1958 will see the announcement of a toll schedule, an event long awaited by shippers and shipping lines and their customers. It will aim at setting fees on cargoes and ships low enough to attract business and yet high enough to pay seaway costs in 50 years.

The Welland Canal, sidestepping Niagara Falls, is part of the seaway, and it is being deepened at a $22,000,000 cost to match the 27-foot depeth. This is expected to be finished by 1959, too.

As the new year ends, manpower at the giant seaway project — some 15,000 workers at its peak — will begin to dwindle. Millions of dollars worth of machinery — bulldozers, cranes, trucks, drills and other equipment — will be diverted to other projects.

He'll Be Home for Christmas . . . in Jail, That Is

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Edmund R. Jackson of Tulsa says he's spent the past 20 Christmases in jail instead of with his family—and it looks like next Wednesday will be No. 21.

★ ★ ★

Jackson faces a larceny charge at Tulsa, but last week he talked District Judge W. Lee Johnson into delaying his trial until Dec. 27 so he could spend Christmas at home. Yesterday he was back in jail, this time at Oklahoma City where officers said he was a prime suspect in three recent burglaries.

Grandma's a Top Cookie Baker

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

With thirteen grandchildren coming to visit at one time or another over the Christmas holidays, Mrs. Roy Bennett has been busy making up fancy Christmas cookies. When we saw her last Saturday she had a huge tray of stars, trees, Santa Claus' and reindeer. All were beautifully decorated.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Bennett also has a way with fancy cakes. One of the nine grandsons had a sixth birthday on Sunday, Grandma made him a cake with a chocolate frosting Rudolph on top.

Carol Bennett, daughter of the Jack Bennetts of Holly; Cynthia and Christine Fater, daughters of the Floyd Faters of Lake Orion, were on hand to sample their grandmother's cookies. Here's her recipe.

ROLLED COOKIES

By Mrs. Roy Bennett

½ cup soft shortening
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
1 tablespoon milk or cream
1 teaspoon flavoring
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Mix shortening, sugar and egg together thoroughly. Stir in milk and flavoring. Sift dry ingredients and stir in.

★ ★ ★

Chill dough. Roll 1-16 inch thick. Cut into holiday shapes. Place on lightly greased cookie sheet. Sprinkle with sugar if desired. Bake 5-7 minutes at 425 degrees. Maks 5 dozen.

Toast Treats Add Joy to Holiday Meal

Christmas morning is a time when the whole family really expects "surprises" — large and small. And here's an extra one—a tray of toast treats, easy-to-prepare and pretty to serve, for you to bear proudly to the breakfast table.

★ ★ ★

To make the treats you'll need a large loaf of sliced enriched yeast-raised bread, butter, cinnamon, powdered sugar, marmalade or other yellow colored jam and red and green jelly. You may wish to use bits of candied fruit or nuts, and even powdered sugar icing, too.

★ ★ ★

With a cookie cutter or a sharp knife and your own ingenuity, fashion slices of enriched yeast-raised bread into many shapes. Christmas trees, stars, diamonds or angels are all favorites. Place these on a large cookie sheet. If you wish to leave these overnight before toasting, spread the top of each shape lightly with butter and wrap the whole sheet closely with waxed paper or aluminum foil.

To toast, place in a pre-heated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Turn and finish toasting. Remove from the oven and decorate with your assortment of jams, jellies and fruits.

You might give a star a red jelly center and a powdered sugar border. Butter, cinnamon and sugar will turn out a copper star. Use dots of red and green jelly and yellow jam to decorate a Christmas tree. Bits of candied fruit and nuts will make diamonds appear to be "real jewelry."

Baby Fruit Flavors 'Shaker' Pudding

Behold another of the "shaker" puddings that make use of modern convenience foods usually found on the home shelf. Just 3 ingredients, only 1 minute.

Peach Pudding

1 tall can (1⅔ cups) evaporated milk
⅓ cup Strained Peaches
1 package vanilla instant pudding mix

Combine the 3 ingredients in a quart, jar or container. Cover and shake briskly 1 minute, or until well mixed. Pour into serving dishes and chill. Garnish with shaved chocolate curls. Serves 4.

Add Sherry to Chiffon Pie

For any festive occasion during the holidays serve a light and delicate chiffon pie. It is a combination of chiffon pie filling and sherry wine. Cranberry juice may be substituted for the wine.

SHERRY CHIFFON PIE

1 package strawberry or lemon chiffon pie filling mix
½ cup boiling water
¼ cup cold water
¼ cup sherry or ¼ cup cranberry juice
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon almond extract
1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled
Toasted almond slivers

Place mix in a large deep mixing bowl. Add boiling water and mix thoroughly. Add cold water and sherry or ⅓ cup cranberry juice and beat vigorously with rotary beater or at highest speed of electric mixer until mixture is foamy—takes about 1 minute. Add sugar and beat until filling stands in peaks—takes 1 to 3 minutes. Fold in almond extract.

★ ★ ★

Pour in pie shell. Chill until set, about 2 hours. Sprinkle with toasted almond slivers. Or, if desired, garnish with whipped cream, then sprinkle with almond slivers.

SHERRY CHIFFON PIE — The holidays call for something different in the way of pies. Choose a chiffon mix, then add enchantment with sherry wine. Top with whipped cream and sprinkle with toasted almond slivers.

Pot Roast Leg of Veal for a Change

A leg of veal is a meaty cut with a small amount of bone. It is delectable when oven roasted with a covering of bacon or salt pork if its natural fat trimming is lacking.

It is also delicious when cooked by braising as in this Swedish version, which suggests cooking the delicately flavored meat with bouillon and vegetables and serving it with a cream gravy.

Swedish Veal Pot Roast

5 pound leg of veal
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 cup bouillon
4 carrots, sliced
4 medium onions, sliced
1 cup light cream

Roll veal in flour and brown in hot fat. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and add bouillon and vegetables. Cover pan and cook at 325 degrees F. or over low heat on top of the range 2½ hours or until meat is tender.

Remove meat from pan and strain drippings. Thicken with a flour and water paste and cook, stirring, until thickened. Gadually add cream, while stirring, and continue cooking gravy until blended. 8 to 10 servings.

Plentiful Foods Mix in Chowder

Chowder is basically a soup made from milk and vegetables, plus whatever else you care to add for flavor, aroma, and romance. Home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture looked over the list of foods which are plentiful at this time of year, and have suggested a chowder which makes use of three different items from the Plentiful Foods list: cheese, canned tuna and peas.

There are four principal steps in making chowder. First, cook the vegetables in butter to make them tender. Starting with three tablespoons of butter, cook ¼ cup of chopped onion and 1 cup each of chopped carrot and chopped celery.

Step 2: add liquid, made by dissolving 2 bouillon cubes in 2 cups of boiling water, and cook the mixture for about 35 minutes.

Step 3: add 2½ cups of milk, 1½ cups of grated cheddar cheese and a little thickening, made by stirring 3 tablespoons of flour in ½ cup of milk. Add this to the mixture and cook and stir until it is slightly thickened.

Step 4: Now you're ready to add 1 can of chunk style tuna, or solid pack tuna broken into bits and 1 cup of canned peas.

That's your chowder. Heat to serving temperature and you have a half dozen servings of Tuna-Cheese-Vegetable chowder, a one-dish meal that is lip-smacking in its goodness, satisfying in its tummy-filling qualities, and leaves you with a minimum of dishes to wash afterward.

welcome relief from the heavier foods served in the late fall and winter.

Hearty Salads Just as Good in Wintertime

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (INS)—Colorado State University home economists point out that main-dish salads do not have to be exclusively a summer dish.

If the menu features a salad, start the meal with something hot—a cream soup or hot tomato juice, and finish with a heavier dessert.

Breads are served with a salad meal and the choice is almost limitless.

Green Noodles Right for Now

Colorful green noodles are right in the spirit of the season. The delicate spinach flavor of the noodles teams skillfully with Swiss cheese and a flavorful onion sauce in this casserole that rates repeat performances.

Swiss Green Noodle Bake

4 ounces green noodles
½ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup finely chopped onion
½ cup enriched flour
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
6 ounces Swiss cheese, sliced
½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Add 2 teaspoons salt and noodles to 3 cups boiling water. Boil rapidly, stirring constantly, for 2 minutes. Cover, remove from heat and let stand 10 minutes. Meanwhile, melt butter or margarine in saucepan. Add onion and cook slowly about 5 minutes. Stir in flour, salt, paprika and pepper. Add milk gradually and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Rinse noodles with warm water and drain well.

★ ★ ★

Arrange about half the noodles in bottom of well-greased 8-inch square baking dish. Cover noodles with a layer of cheese slices. Top cheese with half of onion sauce. Repeat layering once more. Sprinkle buttered crumbs over top of sauce. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Mix a Wassail Children Can Quaff

When kith and kin gather on a holiday afternoon, surprise them with iced Ruby Punch — cranberries floating on an amber sea of lemon and orange juice. It's a winning wassail bowl, a Christmas drink that children as well as grown-ups can joyously quaff.

Ruby Christmas Punch

2 cups (½ pound) fresh cranberries
3 cups water
1½ cups sugar
1½ cups fresh lemon juice
2½ cups fresh orange juice
8 cups cold water
Cracked ice
Fresh orange and lemon slices for garnish
Fresh mint leaves for garnish

Wash cranberries and place in a saucepan with the 3 cups water. Cover and cook 10 minutes or until skins pop. Strain, add sugar and mix well. Chill and mix with remaining juices and cold water. Pour into a punch bowl over cracked ice. Float orange and lemon slices over the top and garnish with fresh mint.

Yield: 3 quarts.

Melt Jelly for Glaze

Glamorous glaze for turkey, ham, breads or tarts: melt a glass of currant jelly over a low flame. Beat it with a fork, then brush over surface to be glazed.

Ice Tiny Bars of Fruit Cake

Petit fruit cakes are the perfect answer for easy entertaining at holiday time. Rich fruit cake laden with fruits and nuts from all over the world is a traditional holiday delight that is particularly popular because it's so easy to keep on hand for party dessert or refreshment for unexpected guests.

To make petit fruit cakes, slice old English style fruit cake from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department into finger slices; cover with butter or orange flavored frosting, and top with slivered candied cherries or toasted almonds.

Frosting for Petit Fruit Cake

¼ cup butter or margarine (room temperature)
2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar (½ pound)
2 tablespoons cream or undiluted evaporated milk
½ teaspoon vanilla or 1 teaspoon orange rind as desired
Dash of salt

Cream butter or margarine. Add remaining ingredients and blend until smooth and fluffy. Cut fruit cake into bars ¾-inch thick, ¾-inch wide and about 2 inches long. Frost tops and decorate as desired with cherries or almonds. Makes frosting for about 18 bars.

Tangy Pickle Sauce Scores on Fish Cakes

In between the busy times of the hectic holiday season, there are times for snacks. Set up a simple supper with "sauced-up" seafood, made like this.

Blend 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of celery or cream of mushroom soup with ¼ cup milk, 2 tablespoons drained sweet pickle relish, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard and 1 hard-cooked egg (chopped). Heat over low heat. Pour generously over hot fish cakes or fish fillets. Makes 1¾ cups sauce.

Tips on Holiday Foods Offered by Mktg. Expert

With less than a week before Christmas, it is high time to plan your holiday dinner. The cook's corner will be a busy one, and a happy one, too, if you plan the Christmas menu early. Last minute rushing may spoil holiday fun, so shop early and prepare some foods before the big day.

MEATS FOR CHRISTMAS — Turkey and ham will head the list of holiday meats, but there are many other choices if your family prefers. Both turkey and ham will be featured by many stores.

Ham is expected to be a few cents higher than last Christmas due to smaller pork supplies this December. Turkey is expected to be several cents more per pound than at Thanksgiving when the largest supplies of the year came to market.

If you are buying ham, read all the labels. Don't hesitate to ask questions. You will find fresh ham, short-cured and long-cured smoked hams and canned hams. You may choose a whole, half or portion. Hams may not be cooked, may be partially cooked or fully cooked. Hams are sold with bone, semi-boned or boneless. This naturally creates a great variety in prices and makes your decision more important.

Semi-boned and boneless hams yield more servings per pound than regular hams and have the added advantage of easier carving.

Is turkey your meat choice? Plan on one-half pound of ready-to-cook bird for each serving if the turkey weighs over 12 pounds. The large toms weighing over 20 pounds will be the most economical buy—will cost less per pound and will have more meat in proportion to bone.

During these few days before Christmas, let the meats on the menu be ones "quick to do." Let fryers, ground beef, frozen fish or a roast that does not need to be watched while cooking head your pre-holiday menus.

PRODUCE — Low Florida temperatures will make a difference in the quantity and price of fresh vegetables and fruits from that area. It is estimated that 25 to 40 per cent of some crops are damaged. This means price increases in the produce department, according to the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

Red apples, oranges and tangerines are Christmas stocking fare. The large demand for California Navel oranges, especially the large size, is expected to increase prices. Because there are good supplies, bananas are very reasonably priced.

Changes in fresh citrus prices may encourage more price comparisons, for citrus is our most valuable source of Vitamin C in winter. The following amounts will give 12 servings: 1½ dozen medium juice oranges; 2 six-ounce cans of frozen concentrate; and 1 46-ounce can of canned juice. Of course you will consider quality, convenience and family preferences in addition to price.

Onions, potatoes and cabbage will be easy on the pocketbook. They too can be dressed up for Christmas. Why not serve onions glazed or creamed? A salad that looks like Christmas may be made from a combination of shredded cabbage, diced pineapple, maraschino cherries, chopped nuts and marshmallows with a mayonnaise-cream dressing.

Filberts and Pineapple Dress Up Leftover Fowl

Filberts are easily available this time of year, so we included them in Turkey-Pineapple Bake. When the filbert support runs out, use almonds. This is a wonderfully good-tasting way to use leftover turkey. In this casserole, as in many others, you can substitute an equal weight of macaroni or noodles for the spaghetti, if you prefer.

Turkey-Pineapple Bake

1 can frozen pineapple chunks
6 ounces elbow spaghetti
1½ cups condensed cream of chicken soup (10½-ounce can)
⅓ cup water
⅓ cup pineapple sirup
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon vinegar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Dash mace
½ cup coarsely chopped filberts
2 cups chopped cooked turkey

Thaw pineapple chunks according to can directions. Drain thoroughly and reserve sirup.

* * *

Add 1 tablespoon salt and spaghetti to 4½ cups boiling water. Boil rapidly, stirring constantly, for 2 minutes. Cover, remove from heat and let stand 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, heat soup in large saucepan. Add water and sirup, mixing well. Stir in sugar, vinegar, salt, pepper and mace. Rinse spaghetti with warm water and drain well. Add pineapple chunks, filberts, turkey and spaghetti to soup mixture.

* * *

Clean Pot Is Insurance Against Bad Coffee

By International News Service

The clean coffee pot turns out the best coffee.

Wash the pot thoroughly after each use and rinse it in water at least 120 degrees in temperature. Add a small amount of water softener to the first rinse to help remove two spoilers of good coffee — detergent and coffee oil residue.

Old England Lives Again in Fireplace Accessories

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — It's going to be an English winter.

Fireplace accessories in the spotlight at the fireside shops concentrate on brass, gleaming and embossed with figures and scenes of Merrie Olde England.

* * *

Sturdy firetools of the highly polished metal offer stands with handles shaped as Drake's sailing vessels, fox hunters, or country inns. Smaller designs are repeated on the handles of the ember shovel, hearth brush and firefork.

A handy bellows to prod the fire into action catches a jolly pub crowd on its brassy sides.

Reproductions of Robin Hood lore decorate the front and sides of an amply proportioned brass log and kindling box. Twenty-two inches high, the box also serves as a fireside seat.

* * *

For added cheer to the fireplace wall, hanging within convenient reach, there's a long-handled nut roaster. After a popcorn session, it can do double duty as a bedwarmer.

Wall plaques vary from 35 inches in diameter to 15 inches with country scenes and coats-of-arms.

Other choices in brass for decorative and utility use include tankards, pitchers, candlesticks and trivets. All pieces are lacquered against tarnish.

Try Making Twin Loaves

Instead of shaping each loaf, when you make bread, divide the dough for one loaf in 2 parts. Then round up each into a ball and put the two balls into your bread pan. In this way you will have twin loaves which are interesting and very quickly shaped.

For the best flavor, keep butter closely wrapped or in a tightly covered container and refrigerate.

Puree Cranberries to Color Applesauce

MADISON, Wis. (INS) — You'll be finding a new canned product on grocery shelves soon — cranberry applesauce.

And just in case it doesn't appear in time for the holidays, here is how to make it as developed by the food research laboratories at the University of Wisconsin:

Just add one quart of cranberry puree to three quarts of applesauce, sweetened to your family's taste.

To make the cranberry puree, wash and cook the cranberries until the skins pop and put through a fine colander or sieve to remove the seeds.

Both Beet Tops, Roots Used by Thrifty Cook

CHICAGO (INS) — Beets are really dual-purpose vegetables.

The green tops are a tasty vegetable, according to home economists for the U. S. Dpartment of Agriculture. Boil them, add a little salt or vinegar for flavor, and cook just long enough to make tender.

To retain the color and flavor of beets, the home economists recommend leaving an inch of the stem and the entire red root, adding a little vinegar or lemon juice to the water. Boil for 30 to 45 minutes, pop into cold water and the skin will come off readily. Serve beets with butter or sweet-sour sauce.

Almond Sticks Are Swedish

In Sweden they "say it with cookies" — God Jule, that is — meaning Merry Christmas. No self-respecting Swedish housewife would ever be caught without "seven kinds of sweets" to serve with coffee.

Truly, the cookie jar is never empty—but at Christmas time it overflows . . . with such tasty tidbits as Chokladbrod (a molded cocoa butter cookie) — Spritzer ("spritzed" through a cookie-press)—Pepparkakor (spice cookies cut in Christmas shapes and decorated) — Krum Kaka (wafers baked on a Krum Kaka iron)—Broomstock Cookies (lacy and crisp; shaped while hot on a broom handle)—Finsker Brod (sugared almond sticks).

Characteristic of Swedish baking habits are the interesting means of shaping cookies — the broom handle, the Krum Kaka iron, the cookie press, and the hand molding, as described in the Finsker brod recipe.

Sugared Almond Sticks

½ cup unblanched almonds
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup sifted all purpose flour
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
1 egg, separated
¼ teaspoon almond extract

Grind almonds. Mix 2 tablespoons of the almonds with sugar; reserve. In mixing bowl combine remaining almonds with flour, sugar and salt. Cut in butter until particles are fine. Add egg yolk and almond extract; mix well to form dough.

Divide into six portions; roll each with floured hands on a lightly floured surface to a strip 12 inches along. Place strips side by side. Brush generously with slightly beaten egg white; sprinkle with reserved almond-sugar mixture. Cut across strips to make 1½-inch pieces.

Separate the cut pieces of each strip; place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 14 to 18 minutes until light golden brown.

Bread and Cheese Rolled in Bacon

Bacon-cheese puffs can be rolled early in the day, and refrigerated until just before serving time. Twenty minutes of baking in a hot oven puffs the little snacks, which are a combination of the cured pork, thin-sliced bread and shredded sharp cheese.

Bacon Puffs

6 slices thin-sliced bread
12 slices bacon (about ½ pound)
½ pound sharp aged Cheddar cheese (about 2 cups)

Cut crusts from bread and cut each slice in half. For each puff, place two halves of bread, end to end, on a strip of bacon. Sprinkle with 3 tablespoons shredded cheese. Roll up and secure with cocktail picks.

Place rolls on end on a rack in a shallow baking pan. Bake in a 400 degree F. oven 20 minutes, or until lightly browned. Serve hot. 12 puffs.

Cranberries Just Right With Turkey

Cranberry Chutney Salad Mold

1 package apple flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 (1-lb.) can whole cranberry sauce
2 tablespoons light brown sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
¼ cup seedless raisins
¼ cup finely chopped almonds
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
⅛ teaspoon red pepper

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Chill until partially set. Combine remaining ingredients and fold into partially set gelatin. Pour into 1-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce.

★ ★ ★

Cranberry Salad Supreme

1 can (1-lb.) jellied cranberry sauce
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup diced celery
½ cup chopped pecans
½ cup sliced stuffed olives

Crush jellied cranberry sauce with a fork. Soften gelatine in cold water. Dissolve over hot water. Add to crushed cranberry sauce and beat with rotary beater to blend thoroughly. Add lemon juice. Fold in celery, pecans and olives. Pour into 6 invididual molds and chill until firm. Makes 6 servings.

Want an Unusual Pie?

For an apple pie like Grandmother used to make: Stir 2 tablespoons cream sherry, 1 tablespoon lemon juice into the sugar, join with apples and a few flings of cinnamon. Unbelievers add nutmeg.

Share Christmas Baking With All Your Friends

"But I heard him exclaim, ere he drove of sight,
"Happy Christmas to all, and to all a good night!" "

What better way to send season's greetings to your neighbors than with a gift from your kitchen. Home baked cookies or a loaf of fruit-nut bread carry such a personal message. Tuck in the recipe if you wish, and wrap in your gayest Christmas paper.

★ ★ ★

Perfect for Christmas giving are these Festive Date Fills made with toasty rolled oats and a filling of dates and nuts. Another welcome gift is this Happy Christmas Loaf filled with chopped fruit, nuts and nutritious rolled oats to keep it moist and flavorful. Both of these are tasty additions to party platters for impromptu entertaining.

Happy Christmas Loaf

1 egg
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup sifted enriched flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 cup oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
¼ cup chopped candied pineapple
¼ cup chopped dried apricots, uncooked
¼ cup chopped candied cherries
½ cup chopped nutmeats
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Beat egg until light; add brown sugar gradually, beating until well blended. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt; add all at once to egg mixture. Add remaining ingredients, stirring only until blended. (Batter should be slightly lumpy.)

★ ★ ★

Bake in greased paper-lined loaf pan (1 lb. size) in preheated oven (350 degrees) 50 to 60 minutes. Store one day for easy slicing. Frost and decorate. Makes 1 loaf.

★ ★ ★

FESTIVE DATE FILLS

Filling:

2 cups pitted dates
½ cup granulated sugar
¼ cup water
Grated rind of 1 small orange
½ cup chopped nutmeats

Base:

1 cup sifted enriched flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup melted butter or margarine
1 cup oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)

Combine dates, sugar, water and orange rind. Cook over low heat until thick, stirring frequently. Cool. Add nutmeats.

Heat oven to moderate (350 degrees F.). For base, sift together flour, soda and salt. Add brown sugar, melted butter and oats, mixing until well blended.

Tightly pack two-thirds of oats mixture into greased 8-inch square pan. Spread date filling over oats mixture. Cover with remaining oats mixture, packing lightly. Bake in preheated oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Cool and cut into bars. Makes 36 bars.

HAPPY CHRISTMAS LOAF — Christmas is merrier when you break bread with friends and relatives over cheery cups of coffee. This Happy Christmas Loaf will convey your greetings even as you serve it. In the background there's a plate of Festive Date Fills, a layered date and oatmeal bar.

Don't Exclude Meat Products From Diet

CORVALLIS, Ore. (INS) — Dieters who cut meat out of their fare to restrict calorie counts are only short-changing themselves in safe nutrients?

So warns Mrs. Ruth Klippstein, extension nutritionist at Oregon State College.

Mrs. Klippstein said old food tables are being revised for meat because a study shows that meat eaten today has more protein, fewer calories and less fat. She said many of the former diets were not adequate in protein.

She reported that producers are raising more meat animals to meet the demand for leaner meat.

At the same time, the nutritionist reported that food needs have changed since the 1930s because labor-saving devices mean less exercise and a need for fewer calories.

★ ★ ★

But, she said, protein, vitamins and minerals still are needed to help the body function properly and withstand diseases, and meat is "an excellent source" of body-building protein.

CHANUKAH LATKES — Chanukah Latkes, or Potato Pancakes, are being served this week in Pontiac Jewish homes. Mrs. Israel Goodman, wife of the Rabbi, prepares this typical treat in her kitchen on Oneida road. Pontiac Press Photo

Chanukah Potato Cakes First Made in Wartime

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Ancient folk lore tells of Jewish women mixing little flat cakes of potatoes behind battle lines during the time the Maccabees were winning the war for re-dedication of the Temple. Since that time potato pancakes—or Latkes—have been a typical treat of Chanukah.

★ ★ ★

The first candles for this Festival of Lights were lit on Tuesday evening. Each evening another will be added through Wednesday, December 25. In addition to the potato cakes, sweets of all kinds are prepared for the children. Honey is widely used as a sweetener.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Israel Goodman, wife of the Rabbi of Congregation B'nai Israel, gives us her recipe for Chanukah Potato Pancakes.

POTATO PANCAKES
By Mrs. Israel Goodman

2 cups raw grated potatoes
2 whole eggs
Pinch of baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon flour, bread crumbs OR matzo meal

Peel large potatoes and soak several hours in cold water. Grate and drain. Beat eggs well and mix with rest of ingredients. Add a dash of pepper.

★ ★ ★

Drop by spoonfuls on a hot, well greased skillet in small cakes. Turn and brown on both sides. Serve with apple sauce.

Add Turkey to Eggs for Holiday Sandwich

For a St. Nick brunch or a quick lunch, Turkey Scramble Sandwich is a tasty dish.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in skillet. Add ¼ cup chopped onion and brown lightly. Beat 6 eggs. Add ¼ cup milk or cream, ½ teaspoon salt, dash pepper and 1 cup cooked chopped turkey. Pour into skillet and cook over low heat, until eggs are thickened, stirring gently.

Spread 12 slices of toasted enriched bread with butter or margarine. Spread egg mixture on 6 slices toast and top with remaining toast. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Sliced radishes give a salad made from cooked green beans welcome crispness.

Liquid Smoke Helps Barbecue Chicken

There's a new product that many people seem to like to add unusual extra something to the flavor of chicken. It's commonly called "liquid smoke." Just as the name suggests, it's a liquid with a rich smoky flavor.

In preparing a smoked chicken barbecue, split each broiler chicken in half, down the back. Baste each half chicken with about a teaspoon or a little more liquid smoke. Then put it under the broiler far enough away so it will cook slowly.

★ ★ ★

Have a warm barbecue sauce made from salad oil, lemon juice, salt, brown sugar, and hot pepper sauce. Use this sauce for repeated basting, but once is enough with the smoke sauce. Turn the chicken so both sides are evenly cooked and so the skin is a light brown.

Use Chicken's Bony Parts

Save the so-called bony pieces of a chicken; the neck, back and wings of an ordinary fryer will provide enough meat for about two servings of chicken ala king, or chicken salad, or for a couple of sandwiches.

Yule Goodies Possible on Sugar-Free Diet

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

In all the flurry of Christmas recipes we are not unmindful of the many readers who must restrict the sugar in their diets. We print so many rich, sugar-laden recipes that we're sure some of you throw the paper down in disgust. This article is especially for you.

In a little booklet titled simply "Saccharin" (which is available for the asking from Monsanto Chemical Co., St. Louis 4, Mo.) there are a number of sweets. One of them is Fudge.

CHOCOLATE NUT FUDGE

14 saccharin tablets (1¼ grain each)
1 teaspoon water
2 tablespoons evaporated milk
2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon cocoa
2 teaspoon butter
2 teaspoons melted paraffin
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup chopped nuts

In a small saucepan dissolve saccharin tablets in water. Add milk, gelatin and let stand for 5 minutes. Add cornstarch, cocoa and butter.

Cook and stir over low heat until mixture is smooth and thick, then add melted paraffin. Cook and stir until mixture boils. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla and chopped nuts. Pour into small round dish about 5x1 inch.

Chill until hard, about 2 hours. After it is hard, candy will stay firm at room temperatures. Cut into 9 pieces.

Cinnamon cookies make good holiday eating. Each one contains 30 calories; 2.8 carbohydrate grams.

CINNAMON COOKIES

8 tablespoons butter
1 cup sifted flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons sucaryl solution OR 16 tablets, crushed
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 tablespoon milk, fruit juice or coffee
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Cream butter until light and fluffy. Blend in sifted flour and baking powder, mixed together.

Mix or dissolve sucaryl in combined vanilla and milk or other liquid. Stir into flour mixture and mix thoroughly. Sprinkle cinnamon over dough and knead in so there is a streaked appearance.

Shape dough into balls, about ½ inch in diameter and place on cookie sheet. Flatten balls with a fork dipped in cold water. Bake in 375-degree oven 15 minutes, or until edges are nicely browned. Makes 30 cookies.

Pretty enough for a party including non-dieters, this molded Christmas dessert is also made with sucaryl. Garnish its pink and white loveliness with artificial holly leaves.

CHRISTMAS SNOW

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
¾ cup boiling water
4 teaspoons sucaryl solution or 32 sucaryl tablets
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 egg whites
12 maraschino cherries, chopped

Soften gelatin in cold water. Add boiling water, sucaryl and salt, stirring until dissolved. Add lemon juice and rind; chill until thick. Beat egg whites until peaks form when beater is raised; add to thickened gelatin mixture. Place this bowl in a bowl of ice cubes and continue beating until mixture holds peaks when beater is raised.

Place half the mixture into a 6-cup mold and chill until almost firm. Add cherries to the remainder and spoon over bottom layer; chill until set. If desired, garnish with cherries.

Makes 6 servings. Each serving contains 33 calories; 2.6 grams protein; 0 fat; 9.5 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each serving would contain 129 calories.

One pound of butter equals two cups. If the pound comes in four sticks, each stick equals a half cup.

Low Calorie Dressing

Combine 2 tablespoons white vinegar, 2 tablespoons bottled lemon juice, 1 tablespoon onion, chopped fine, 1 tablespoon sugar, salt and pepper and a dash of dry mustard. Shake well and allow to cool in refrigerator. Calories per serving: 16.

Dear Abby—

She's Gone Overboard for Boys in Sailor Suits; You'd Better Tow Her in and Drop Her Anchor

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Every time my wife sees a fellow in a sailor suit she flips. We have been married almost a year now and it is the same at it always was. Even on our honeymoon she would leave me to go over and talk to a sailor.

ABBY

She is a friendly girl and says her brother was a sailor once and she knows how lonely sailors can be, so she wants to do what little she can to make them feel welcome in a strange port. She writes to about four of them. Do you think this is right? STAN

DEAR STAN: Your wife may mean well, but she has gone overboard. She's married now . . . so tow her in, and drop her anchor.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when you are 14 and know that the only reason your parents are staying together is because of you? That's the way it is with me.

Pop drinks and Mom goes uptown to get him and when they come home they have the most awful fights. He beats her and they throw things around and I am in the middle.

I tell my Mom that a divorce would be best but she says as long as I am a minor she won't get one. Please help me?

UNHAPPY GIRL

DEAR UNHAPPY: No woman needs to put up with a man who beats her. If she doesn't want a divorce — she can get a separation.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I have been married nine years and my father is giving me a bad time because he is all the time getting my husband to go out on me. I can't go because of the kids, and they know it, but what am I going to do?

My mother died and my father is alone, but that is no reason he should pick up my husband every night and take him from one gin mill to the next.

I love my husband and I also love my father but I am not going to stand for being left alone while they make the rounds. Can you help me?

LEFT ALONE

DEAR LEFT: You can begin by telling your father not to lead your husband into temptation, and you can finish by telling your husband to stay home. You and your husband should have friends of your own and so should your father.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My next-door neighbor is a nice quiet little person and she has children a little younger than mine.

I know they don't have too much and wonder if you think it would be all right if I were to offer her my children's outgrown clothes. They are too good for a rummage sale.

NEIGHBOR LADY

DEAR NEIGHBOR: By all means, offer them to her.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PICKED ON": If you were a "self-starter" your boss wouldn't be a crank.

★ ★ ★

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Wives of Envoys and U. S. Officials Join for Benefit

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Wives of foreign diplomats and American officials agree there is no better way to promote world understanding and get to know each other than to work together on a money-raising project.

★ ★ ★

"We all experience the same headaches and frustrations and reap the same satisfactions, whether the benefit is an international tea, a bazaar, or a fashion show," explains Mrs. Mastin G. White, wife of a commissioner on the U. S. Court of Claims. "A bazaar is a bazaar in any language."

GRATIFYING WORK

Mrs. White, chairman of a recent benefit at the local YWCA in which Embassy Row wives from 30 different nations joined, says the women who worked together many long hours planning and staging the event, found the effort "gratifying and interesting."

★ ★ ★

Preceding the affair the women putting on the international buffet luncheon, a bazaar, fashion show and tea met informally to discuss decorations, prices, quantities and timing.

Many of the diplomatic wives cooked up native dishes in their embassy kitchens to be featured on the round-the-world menu.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Hassan A. Dawood, wife of the counselor of the Egyptian Embassy, brought two whole roast stuffed lambs.

There were Belgian biscuits, Dutch chocolate, Korean rice cookies, German star cookies, Italian eclairs.

"The wives were helping to do what women do all over the world," said Mrs. White, who gave a post-benefit "Texas coffee" in her home to initiate the foreign wives into a typical bit of regional Americana.

Kitchen Wallpaper Should Wash Well

The Health Department in Peoria, Ill., says that the main point to consider when choosing paint or paper for kitchen walls is washability.

Grease and smoke discolor walls in short order, so easy sudsing is an important factor. The department also states that other kitchen factors to bear in mind are light, layout and orderliness.

Shopping Centers Make Women Forget Grooming

They're Careless About Appearance When Visiting Neighborhood Stores

By RUTH MILLETT

Neighborhood shopping centers are a great convenience to the housewife.

But they have also made her careless of the way she appears in public.

★ ★ ★

A woman who wouldn't think of going downtown to shop without making herself presentable will go to a shopping center without taking the hardware out of her hair, putting on lipstick or changing dirty jeans or faded shorts for a neat, clean dress.

The reasoning seems to be that since going to a shopping center is an errand, rather than an occasion, it doesn't matter how you look.

But it is still a public place, and a woman who goes into a store in a neighborhood shopping center is making a public appearance.

It's a mystery why a good-looking woman will spend hours and maybe days getting just the right costume together to wear to a party and then on the day of the party will appear in public in hair curlers, too tight jeans, her husband's shirt and scuffed shoes.

★ ★ ★

Let's not kid ourselves that it's a matter of time. It's either a matter of not caring, or of just forgetting that the impression a woman makes when she is looking her worst is fully as lasting as the impression she makes when she is looking her best.

YVONNE EDWARDS

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Edwards of Maynard court announce the engagement of their daughter, Yvonne, to William S. Schleh, son of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Schleh of Williamsport, Pa. Both young people are studying at Nyack Missionary College, Nyack, N. Y. A spring wedding is planned.

Children Love Giant Blocks

Big, colorful blocks that serve as building toys, or seats to watch TV, have wonderful appeal for youngsters. They're specially designed to nest, one into the other, for tidy storage.

These giant blocks are plastic coated, sturdy enough to sit on, and are washable with hot soap or detergent suds. Any child on your gift list, aged one to six, would love to find these gay blocks under the Christmas tree.

Dress Up on Christmas With Apron or Overskirt

It's fun to dress up on Christmas day in a completely frivolous apron, overskirt or blouse that is meant to be worn only once a year.

* * *

This year textile designers have produced all kinds of gaily printed Christmas fabrics with cheerful designs of holly, poinsettias, Christmas bells and such that lend themselves ideally to holiday accessories.

These are inexpensive, washable cotton fabrics, so you don't need to feel extravagant about making something that comes out only at Santa Claus time.

You can get several yards for a dollar, and most of the fabrics are sanforized against shrinkage.

* * *

One bright idea suggested by local sewing center experts is a gay Christmas overskirt, to wear over your indispensable little black sheath dress on Christmas day.

A BORDER PRINT

They recommend a border print design of red poinsettias with green leaves on a black background, made with a commercial pattern with inch rulers printed on it, so you can be sure to get the border print at the right point.

* * *

The overskirt itself has a border at the hemline and another strip of border print is used for a wide shirred cummerbund. Just in case you don't own the basic sheath dress, the envelope includes a pattern for making one.

If you own a white wool dress, you might consider a holiday border print with a red background for an overskirt, or a white background print with red and green holly wreath motif.

While you're basting the turkey, you can just turn the overskirt around to make an apron. Since the fabric is washable, you'll have no worries if you get a gravy spot on it.

It doesn't have to be mink to be Paris chic. Leopard beret and stole are dashing over colored dresses and also with black.

This is the time to spice up your wardrobe with the pixie-like leopard beret and stole which can be worn for all daytime occasions and over dress, coat or suit. Leopard, like mink, has always stayed in fashion.

Buy Basic Shoe Styles for Children

URBANA, Ill. — A University of Illinois health education specialist says, when buying back-to-school shoes for your children, it's best to stick to the basic style that is straight on the sides and flaring at the toes.

The toe structure should be boxy and soft, leaving enough height to keep the toes from rubbing on the top of the shoe, according to Pauline Brimhall. The heel should also grip the foot well, and the shank should fit up into the arch

Miss Brimhall said the length of a shoe should be one-half to one inch longer than the longest toe. The widest part of foot, of course, should come at the widest part of the shoe and it should allow a slight pinch-up of leather over the ball of the foot.

A child's bones are soft and pliable so he may not complain when his shoes are too small. According to Miss Brimhall, if pink spots show on his toes immediately after taking off his shoes and stockings, the shoes or stockings may be too short.

This Estevez gown is of white pique with a bell-shaped skirt featuring a single long-stemmed rose. The skirt has a petal hemline shaped by two overlapping curves from the waistline.

India was freed from British rule in 1947, when the dominions of India and Pakistan were established.

Packaging Important to Women

"Women are lazy. They look for convenience, and they have a lot of ideas about improving packages."

So said Dorothy Diamond, who writes "The Woman's Viewpoint" for a business magazine, addressing a recent symposium of the Package Designers Council, for which she acts as a judge in annual packaging awards.

* * *

Here, she told the packagers, are the things women look for:

1. Ease of storage. (She feels the long aluminum foil package is difficult to store.)
2. Ease of opening. (She commends the new zip-off cereal packages and the new flip-off lids.)
3. Effectiveness after opening. (Packages for brown-and-serve rolls, she says, are hard to re-close.)
4. Packages attractive enough to be used on the table. (She applauds the apothecary jars for vitamin pills, decorative spice containers and foods packaged in serving dishes.)

* * *

Miss Diamond listed, among pet gripes, lipstick cases which tarnish before the lipstick is used and sealed cookie bags which are hard to re-seal.

She said women would be grateful to the manufacturer who packages foods for the school box in unit servings.

Gibson Tells Women Off—and Gets Paid for Doing It

CHICAGO (INS) — In a matter-of-fact voice, Paul Gibson has been telling women off for years and getting paid for it.

For at least an hour a day since 1942, Gibson has been calling wives "useless" and husbands "abused," slipping in commercials and topics ranging from current news to the origin of the calendar and what made George Washington tick.

This radio stint (over station WBBM) nets him an annual income of about $100,000 and 1,500 to 5,000 letters weekly, Gibson estimated in an interview.

A former newspaperman, Gibson peppers his audience with such jibes:

"Women are educated far beyond housewifely needs. You don't need a diploma to be a vacuum cleaner jockey."

★ ★ ★

"In the United States, husbands obey wives—this is the ugly place in the world where husbands are spouse-broken."

"No nice person is even vaguely related to your wife."

REVERSE PSYCHOLOGY

Gibson, a suavely mannered man in his 40s, calls his technique "reverse psychology." He said:

"Instead of being bored, women get mad and start to count up what they do accomplish — like running the house, bolstering their husbands' egos, bringing up the kids, cleaning up the neighborhood and the community."

"When a woman begins to boil, she stops feeling sorry for herself and starts thinking," he said.

Gibson can't estimate how many letters he has received over the years from irate housewives. But, he said, "usually the gals simmer down by the last paragraph and mention they will keep on listening."

He added that many sponsors on his five-times weekly broadcasts have come from his audience — husbands.

"Executives call me up, tell me they have been listening for years and wind up being my sponsors," he said, grinning.

THE ONLY VICTIM

Gibson calls himself "the only victim" of his radio career. He has been married six times, but now is resigned to bachelorhood. He said:

"None of my wives has been able to keep from taking my broadcasts personally. Even though, I insist, none of my comments is ever made with any particular woman in mind."

He wound up the interview with a typical Gibson comment:

"If I ever do marry again, it will be one of my ex-wives. That's because I've got to marry a rich woman."

Old Faithful geyser in Yellowstone national park throws 250,000 gallons of steaming water each time it erupts on its schedule of about once during every hour.

Tactless Question

"Nothing makes me feel so old," says a woman whose hair is only partially gray, "as to have someone ask me, 'What color did your hair USED to be?'" Such questions are as unnecessary as they are tactless.

The Delaware river forms a natural boundary for part of four eastern states which are New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania.

Ask, How Much?

"He overcharged me. I'll never hire him again," said the woman about a repairman she had hired. She didn't ask the cost before she hired him. So she runs the man down to others and feels she was cheated. There's nothing wrong in asking "How much?"

Youngsters Flub Simple Quiz About the Bible

Religion Fails to Attract Teenagers in Spite of America's Spiritual Revival

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert Youth Research Co.

At this time of the year, when religious sentiments are so fervently linked with the spirit of Christmas, it might be well to examine the attitudes of young people toward religion and church going.

In an earlier survey, we found that teenagers in grammar and high school expressed a keen interest in religion and for the most part practiced their faith with some degree of regularity.

But what about young adults? Do teenagers tend to change their religious tendencies as they grow older and approach manhood?

There has been much talk lately of a religious revival in America, a mass return to God in a time of international tension.

* * *

Church membership is at an all time high of 100 million. Religious news and religious radio and television programs are attracting large and faithful audiences.

ALL AGE GROUPS

This is the picture for the country as a whole, taking into account all age groups.

* * *

But from surveys we have completed among maturing young people in the 17 to 22-year-old group in various cities and towns across the country, it would appear that this spiritual renaissance has encountered a major roadblock in reaching the generation now approaching adulthood.

Evidence of a spiritual stampede on a national scale must be weighed against these conclusions reached by our researchers:

1. Most young people, both boys and girls, know very little about their religion—or any other religion. Less than 30 per cent could manage a passing mark on a grade school level Bible test.

* * *

2. A majority of young Protestants (68 per cent) and young Jews (86 per cent) and a hefty majority of young Catholics (24 per cent) do not attend church regularly.

3. Less than 28 per cent of the Protestants and 26 per cent of the Jews look upon themselves as "a religious person." Catholics scored 72 per cent on this question.

NO HELP WANTED

4. An overwhelming majority (91 per cent) of young adults of all faiths said they would never think of turning to a clergyman for help in solving life's problems.

* * *

5. Only three out of 10 Protestant boys and two out of 10 Jewish boys "thought often" about the 10 Commandments. Girls scored slightly higher in both faiths.

Among Catholics, 5 out of 10 boys and 6 out of 10 girls said they "thought often" about the Commandments.

Perhaps nowhere was this lack of interest among young people in religion more evident than in their absymally low scores on the simple Bible test.

The test was conceived after consultation with the International Council of Religious Education in Chicago and others.

SIMPLY WORDED

In general, the questions were worded simply and based on such standard Biblical tests as the famous Laycock Test, prepared by S. R. Laycock of the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, Canada.

* * *

Some might have got by—and probably some did—on their knowledge of the Bible as literature.

It is interesting to note that those who claimed no church affiliation scored only a few points below the already low average for the church-going group.

Yet, for all groups and all faiths, the simplest questions evoked the most shocking displays of ignorance. Only 3 out of 10 knew that Paul was the Apostle of the Gentiles or that Thomas was known as The Doubter.

* * *

Less than half knew that Moses led the children of Israel out of Egypt. Not 1 in 10 could name Pontius Pilate as the official who turned Christ over to his crucifiers, and not 1 in 15 could name the Biblical character who saw the handwriting on the wall or the one who sold his birthright for a mess of pottage.

The Christmas spirit, at least, helped to bring up many of the scores. Seven out of 10 knew that Jesus was born at Bethlehem and that the Romans controlled Judea at the time of His birth.

In general, New Testament questions brought a higher percentage of correct answers than questions about the Old Testament.

The only major exception to this was Noah, with 68 per cent correctly identifying him as the builder of the ark.

There was one ray of hope shining through an otherwise murky picture. Young people of all faiths scored about 8 per cent higher this year than their predecessors did in 1949 when the same Biblical test was given to a similar representative sample.

In both cases, Catholics tended to score higher, with 46 per cent correct answers on the questions in 1949 and 48 per cent in 1957.

The Catholic rate of increase in passing marks, however, was lower than the Protestant (up 12 per cent) and Jewish rates (up 10 per cent).

READING THE BIBLE

Bible reading habits shed some light on results of the Bible quiz. Among Catholics, 11 per cent said they read the Bible frequently, 42 per cent read it sometimes and 47 per cent answered never.

Among Protestants, 19 per cent read the Bible frequently, 39 per cent sometimes and 42 per cent never. Among Jews, 14 per cent read the Bible frequently, 57 per cent sometimes and 29 per cent never.

Young people of the Jewish faith led the list in Bible reading but placed last in church attendance. Catholics, who are required to attend Mass on Sunday, and thereby led in church attendance, scored the lowest in Bible reading.

The implication seems to be that regular church attendance was more of a factor in answering the quiz than regular or sporadic reading of the Bible.

It is also interesting to note that girls of all faiths thought more often about the 10 commandments than boys.

Affirmative answers to this question came from 60 per cent of the Catholic girls and only 51 per cent of the boys; 32 per cent of the Protestant girls and 29 per cent of the boys, and 27 per cent of the Jewish girls and 21 per cent of the boys.

Girls also scored much higher on this significant question: "Does thinking about religion and church prevent you from doing things you should not do?"

Yes, answered 47 per cent of the Catholic, 21 per cent of the Jewish and 20 per cent of the Protestant girls, as opposed to 31 per cent, 14 per cent and 16 per cent of the boys in these respective faiths.

The general indifference among young people to going to church and their appalling lack of interest in and knowledge of their religion brings up the question of whether the churches are failing our impressionable younger generation.

Factories Adopt Feminine Colors

LOS ANGELES (INS)—Factories are spinning their color wheels as the gals on the assembly line increase.

★ ★ ★

Even the air blower fans for factory air-conditioning and ventilating equipment have had a paint job and emerged with a flamingo pink blower housing.

Painting the housings pink makes them psychologically more attractive for women workers in pants, according to a big equipment manufacturer.

"Studies show that women work better and harder in esthetically pleasing surroundings," explains manager Vance Smith. "Plant color is a step in that direction."

★ ★ ★

EUB Church Holds Christmas Dinner

A turkey dinner and Christmas party was held by members of the Baldwin Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Mr. and Mrs. William Killen were program chairmen for the affair. Participating in the program were Danny McQueen, Ronnie Bell, Danny Lovse, Candy Lease, Carol Richardson, Susan Killen, Carolyn Gaddes, Mary Sue Ritter, Ronnie Johnson, Lois Johnson, Patty Horner, Nancy Pickering, Debbie Killen and David Kirby.

Yule Party Held

Mrs. John Stoppert opened her Drayton Plains home Tuesday for a Christmas party for Modern Homemakers Extension Club. After a cooperative dinner gifts were exchanged.

Wash Woolens Without Fear

If you are leery about washing woolen garments for fear of injuring the fibers, keep this fact in mind. Every bit of wool in your garment has already been washed — not once, but twice — on its way from the sheep's back to yours.

Raw wool is given a series of sudsings to remove the natural grease and dirt that comprise at least a third of its shown weight. Then, after it is woven into fabric, finishers wash the yardage to remove oil and other impurities before it is pressed and rolled onto bolts.

Obviously, wool does take to soap or detergent and water, so don't be afraid to wash any woolen item that is marked washable. You can do it successfully if you follow directions carefully.

Designers Say Farewell to Bosoms, Hello to Legs

New York's Leading Stylists Predict Unfitted Silhouette for Next Year

NEW YORK (INS)—Bosoms will be de-emphasized, legs will be spotlighted and the silhouette of 1958 will be 'unfitted, subtle and suggestive."

★ ★ ★

That's the consensus of fashion to come from 12 of New York's top designers. The majority said flatly that next year's silhouette will be unfitted — which means here come the chemises and out go the petticoats and full skirts.

IT'S STAYING

"The unfitted silhouette is not only coming in—it's in and it's staying," says Larry Aldrich. "We have seen the end for now of tightly cinched waists and magnified bosoms."

★ ★ ★

"No more pinup girls in tight sweaters and satin sheaths," adds Evelyn Dawson of Suzey Perette. "The unfitted outline will inaugurate a delicious new guessing game . . . and men will love it."

Lilly Dache is equally blunt. She says in 1958, it's "hello to beautiful legs," and adds:

"You can expect less and less to be said and seen of bosoms."

Slimness as a fashion must for 1958 is predicted by Harvey Berin, Mollie Parnis and Adele Simpson. Berin foresees the end of "fussiness" and a new era of clothes "that make women look taller."

Miss Parnis expects a year "in which we adopt uniform slimness in daytime clothes."

EASE AND SOFTNESS

Mrs. Simpson looks for the "end of the conservative look and the beginning of ease and softness in clothes that will look sleek."

★ ★ ★

The 1958 fashion will emphasize fabric and detailing. Ben Zuckerman expects a revival of silk fabrics for tailored clothes, in "textures that look like wool but feel like silk."

Luis Estevez also predicts "clothes with strong difinition in patterned fabric or striking detail." He thinks "the clear outline and accent will count."

★ ★ ★

Pauline Trigere expects "contrasting accessories that break the costume into separate segments," but Roxane of Samuel Winston feels it's "going to be a year of self-determination in dress—when a woman's own taste will decide whether she goes beltless or belted."

One designer, Hilda Altmark of Branell, casts a vote for "hipline emphasis" in 1958. She thinks the year will see the end of the "baby doll look in clothes and makeup."

MYSTERY DRESS

And Ceil Chapman, who's famous for curvy clothes, clinches the 1958 predictions by saying:

"Entering fashion is the 'mystery' dress which will reveal by suggestion, not by a frank showoff of curves. We're going away from bouncy, petticoated skirts, the tight sheath and the pointed bosom."

Make Shower More Refreshing

Shower baths are excellent for cleansing provided they are taken properly. Don't just jump under and out of the shower, however, and call yourself clean.

Soap yourself thoroughly and turn on moderately warm water. Lather freely, and scrub with a brush or washcloth while the warm water is running. Then slowly cool the shower until all the soap is rinsed away and you feel tingly and refreshed.

Get Apron to Lure Man Into Kitchen

By DOROTHY ROE
Women's Editor

If you want to lure the man of the house into the kitchen at dish-washing time, try making him a handsome he - man apron from some of the decorative printed linen dish towels available these days.

Some of the best textile designs of the market are turning up on dishtowels nowadays, and it's simple as falling off a log to use them in many ways — for aprons, place mats, cafe curtains or even casual skirts.

The modern dishtowel, in fact, is almost too pretty to use for drying dishes, so local sewing center experts suggest you take them to your sewing machine to whip up items for gifts, bazaars or for your own use.

A couple of gay, decorative aprons can be made in practically no time — one for your husband, one for you. His apron is made by simply sewing cotton twill tape on the dishtowel to serve as neckband and ties. Choose a bold design of green and white scallions on a black ground for this one — he'll be so proud of it he'll be meek as a lamb when you lead him to the dishes in the sink.

For your apron you might choose a dishtowel with a striking corn - on - the - cob design. Pleat across the long way of the towel and secure with a double row of stitching. Knot the ends of a length of white cotton cord and whip across the top of the apron. That's all there is to it.

Outstanding designs available in department stores include red strawberries on a pink background colorful vegetables in baskets and many other bright and whimsical motifs.

Hostesses Cooperate for Parties

Woman Objects to These Elaborate Mixed Affairs

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: It seems to be a growing custom in this community for several women to band together and give one party. In fact, invitations from a hostess alone are becoming a rarity. I personally prefer several parties to a single, much more elaborate one with nothing left over to look forward to for another day.

"However, I would like to know how you feel about this. It does seem to me that when the guest lists of each hostess are different it brings together mixed groups of people who are not very congenial."

Answer: I agree with you all the way through. I like one-hostess parties best, probably because I like little parties better than big ones. Moreover, such collections of people are too likely to suggest the pieces of a patchwork quilt that have not been put togther.

On the other hand, if their friends are the same and together they can give a dance or other party that would be too expensive for one of them alone, this would be a plainly sensible reason for several hostesses giving a party together.

"Dear Mrs. Post: After 10 years of living in apartments, we have finally bought our own house and we are very proud of it. I would like to send out announcements to our friends and relatives.

"Is such an announcement possible, and, if so, how can it be worded? I had thought of having pictures taken of the house and sending them to our friends. What is your opinion of this?"

Answer: I think it would be a charming idea. Write: "We're at home here. Do come and see it and us soon."

"Dear Mrs. Post: The father of one of our office workers has just died. We know the family could use money and someone suggested taking up a collection and, instead of sending flowers, sending the money either to her or to her mother, who is a stranger. Would money be permissible and to whom should we send it?"

Answer: The giving of money is a rather delicate question. But under these circumstances, I would suggest that you take the contribution to the daughter and say that the sum was intended for flowers or any other purpose that she might prefer.

Love Means More Than Costly Present

Give Some of Yourself for Yule

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Whenever I write about Christmas gift suggestions, I always think of those who do not have much money to spend.

★ ★ ★

Some folks do not have any because of hard luck or illness or a chain of circumstances. Many more cannot spend a lot.

Let's face it! Living costs are very high and taxes are high, and even on an average income, there is not much left over. This is especially true when there are children, and even more especially so, if the children are in college.

Every person wants to remember those she loves at this season and everyone would like to send lovely things as a token of affection. I am sure it must be frustrating to look at the beautiful store windows and not be able to spend money on your favorite people. Don't let it be!

The most gorgeous present, wrapped expensively, is not necessarily the nicest gift.

Be consoled by the thought that the very best gifts cannot be bought. Love and not forgetting are the gifts beyond pricing. The most gorgeous present, wrapped most expensively, might not mean nearly so much as a letter you could write to someone or a telephone call you could make, or a brightly polished apple with a red bow on it.

I must admit that I am childish in my excitement when receiving pretty things, but I think the Christmas remembrances I have valued most have been letters I have received from some who were fond of me but could not afford a gift. They wanted me to know that I was not forgotten when everyone else was remembering those they like and love.

If you are having a difficult time financially, don't miss the spirit of Christmas because of it. Think of ways in which you can remember others without spending money. They are unending if you put your mind and heart to it.

For instance, this occurs to me as an example. Imagine, if you can, what it would mean to a tired young mother if you gave her two dozen babysitting hours. Many young folks simply cannot afford much of this.

There is so much of ourselves we could give that no one in the world should think, "I wish I could give Christmas gifts but I do not have the money." You, wherever you are, can be a giving part of Christmas even if you do not have a dime. So, take heart!

Low Belts, High Hems Advocated

NEW YORK (INS) — America's top designer is advocating low belts, high hemlines and wide shoulders for spring.

Norman Norell, who's won more prizes than any other U. S. designer, has hiked hemlines up to 18 inches from the floor. At the same time, his belts or "waistbands" have dropped to the hips.

"You've got to have short skirts with the loose silhouette," explains Norell. "Narrow skirt hems, too, or you lose the body proportions."

Exact details of Norell's collection are hush-hush until spring, but Norell himself makes no secret of the radical change in silhouette he's backing. It's "easy or comuletely loose—soft fabric slithering over a natural body."

This loose silhouette also calls for wider shoulders — either by padding or cut — "to make the hips look narrower."

Bosoms will look a lot narrower, too. Bras have to be "normal" or non-existent, says Norell.

He doesn't say what we'll need in the way of legs, but an 18-inch hemline stops exactly at the knee.

Chocolate Frosting Recipe Corrected

In the recipe for Marshmallow Fudge Bars, published recently, the ingredients for the Easy Chocolate Frosting should read as follows:

⅓ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ cup water
2 squares chocolate
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups sifted confectioners sugar

Foods Protected

Besides being decorative, air-tight metal canisters protect your foods from insects. Jars also may be used to store such items as flour and cereal which attract insects.

Automatic Tuning

Now there's a device that automatically tunes the picture every time you switch channels on your TV set. The new tuner adjusts the picture as you switch from one channel to another.

MR. and MRS. EDWARD PROKSCH

Married Saturday were Judith A. Cotterman and Edward G. Proksch. Leland Koch is the bride's father, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Proksch.

Judith A. Cotterman Wed in St. Trinity Ceremony

Judith Anne Cotterman and Edward George Proksch of West Huron street were married Saturday evening in St. Trinity Lutheran Church. The Rev. Ralph Claus performed the ceremony before 350 guests.

* * *

The bride is the daughter of Leland Koch of Drayton Plains, and the bridegroom's parents are the Edward Proksches of Marion, Ind., formerly of Pontiac.

For her wedding the bride chose a floor-length gown featuring a Chantilly lace top, tulle skirt and ice blue petticoat. The princess-style gown was fashioned with a slight train, a Sabrina neckline and long sleeves. A crown of iridescent sequins held her fingertip veil, and she carried an arrangement of yellow roses, white carnations and lilies-of-the-valley.

Helene Prizant served as maid of honor wearing a baby blue ballerina-length gown featuring a scooped neckline and flared skirt. She wore a feather headpiece to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations. Bridesmaid Carolyn Proksch, a sister of the bridegroom, was gowned like the honor attendant.

* * *

Paul Proksch of Marion, Ind. served as best man and Richard DeShetler and Ronald Sandage seated the guests.

For receiving guests at a reception in Gingellville Community Center Mrs. Koch chose a gown of champagne beige lace over taffeta with a red rose corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue dress with a corsage of pink roses.

Before leaving on a trip to the Upper Peninsula the new Mrs. Proksch changed to a blue and gray suit with rhinestone accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The couple will live on Washington street.

Mission Belles Meet at Church for Yule Party

Dianne Beach sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Holy Night" when members of Mission Belles of St. John Lutheran Church met Tuesday in the church parlors for a Christmas party.

* * *

Mrs. J. J. Shaffer participated in the Christmas program. Gifts were exchanged, carols sung and donations made for a Christmas basket for a needy family.

* * *

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Arthur Mann, Mrs. Jessie Redus, Mrs. Lillian Quayle and Mrs. Gene Erickson.

Better to Wash New Dustcloths

New dustcloths and cleaning cloths should be washed before their first use. Pre-sudsing will wash away the cloth's factory finish — called "sizing" — which may scratch furniture, and it will also make the cloth more absorbent.

Scouts Aid Needy

Gifts for their parents and for needy children were brought to the Christmas meeting by members of Cub Scout Pack 17 of McCarroll School. The group met at the school Monday.

Woman's Club Holds Yule Tea

The annual Silver Christmas Tea of the Pontiac Woman's Club was held in the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building. Proceeds of the tea are to be used for Christmas baskets for needy families.

* * *

The chairman of the day, Mrs. William Bedard, presented Percy Wally, educational director at Bethany Baptist Church, who sang several solos accompanied by Mrs. Walter Willson. Mrs. Robert K. Boggs, president of the Story Tellers League, presented two Christmas stories, "Christmas Donkey" and "The Birthday."

Donations were voted for state and county nursing scholarships to be given to Girls' Town at Belleville, which is sponsored by the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs, and to the Girls' Ranch of Oakland County. The group also sent a gift to Carla Stoddard, student nurse at the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Forrest Brown, county federation president, announced the next meeting will be held Jan. 10 in Royal Oak.

* * *

Assisting Mrs. Bedard were Mrs. I. M. Lewis, Mrs. Ray Haertter, Mrs. Arthur Nicholie, Mrs. Charles Potham, Mrs. Alfred Cole, Mrs. Charles Lloyd, Mrs. James Gilchrist and Mrs. Clarence Smith.

Tea chairmen for the Monday gathering were Mrs. Turris McCully, Mrs. Earl Eddy, Mrs. Aaron Fox, Mrs. Leon Vogel, Mrs. Irene G. Bowen and Mrs. William Wright.

Signs Point to Last-Minute Buying Binge

Yule Business Disappointing Merchants

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—"Man, we're hurting," a Los Angeles merchant asserts. And he adds wistfully: "Santa Claus is going to disappoint a lot of Los Angeles kids."

A retailer in Milwaukee confidently proclaims: "It's going to be a good, old-fashioned Christmas, despite a slow start."

A Dallas store official says: "This Christmas season is going to be better than we had first thought. It's really encouraging."

These comments are indicative of the mixed feelings of department and specialty store executives who are battling furiously to equal the record sales figures of Christmas 1956.

Christmas business isn't shaping up as well as many merchants had hoped. It may not reach the high-flying totals of 1956. But by any other standards it will be plenty big. Signs point to a last-minute buying binge. Rumors of a so-called buyers' strike are apparently without foundation.

Merchants are gloomiest where cutbacks in aircraft and other industries have added to unemployment. Many shoppers in these areas have been laid off. Many employed now, wonder if they'll still have jobs next year. This makes them cautious—an attitude that's quickly reflected in retail sales receipts.

A Los Angeles retailer complains: "Things had better start moving soon or we're going to take one heck of a shellacking."

Elsewhere, smaller-than-expected Christmas sales are blamed on a combination of circumstances and events ranging from Sputnik to a later-than-usual Thanksgiving holiday and poor shopping weather.

Consumer psychology comes in for a hefty share of criticism.

Gerald Wise, who manages three department stores in the Baltimore area, declares: "If there's anything wrong with this country it's 99 per cent psychological. People are just cantankerous. . . . They're critical, but they don't know why."

A California banker is more specific. Says he: "Possibly there has been too much emphasis placed on such disturbing things as the President's health, the government economy program and Sputnik."

One thing most merchants agree on is that people are shopping more carefully this year. "Freak" gifts are available (there are Chinese back-scratchers made of 24-karat gold) but people are passing them up in favor of practical items.

If there's any scrimping, it's on luxury goods. Toys (except possibly in Los Angeles) are going like a house afire.

DAPPER DAN — That's what he'll be in this new shirt, belt and slack set. Tartan shirt and belt are no-iron cotton, slacks flannel.

Stores are fighting harder for Christmas business. Boston merchants have persuaded the New Haven Railroad to grant reduced round-trip fares for travel into the city on Saturdays. A Spartanburg, S. C., store has instituted a stag night program. Women customers are barred from the store while imported movie stars and beauty queens boost the morale of male shoppers. F. & R. Lazarus & Co. in Columbus, Ohio, has a special gift shop for children. Accompanying adults must wait outside while the moppets go in and buy surprise gifts for parents, aunts and uncles.

★ ★ ★

Fragmentary reports from a few cities indicate that the last-minute shopping surge merchants had been hoping for may finally be under way.

★ ★ ★

In New York, shoppers who had held off during a subway strike converged on the city's big department stores Saturday. Business at Macy's New York, which stayed open until 9 p.m., shot past the two-million-dollar mark, reportedly scoring the biggest total ever rung up by a department store in a single day. Gertz in Jalaca, N.Y., reported terrific Saturday volume; L. Bamberger & Co. in nearby Newark, N.J., had its first million-dollar day.

Dsepite the 11th hour spurt, New York stores have little hope of making up the six million dollars in business they lost in the first five days of the transit snarl. Transit strikes have also hurt sales in Los Angeles and Pittsburgh.

In the nation's capital, Arnold Fine manager of Hecht's, told The Associated Press: "We're a little behind last year, about 4 or 5 per cent. But sales have been picking up in the past few days and if this late buying surge continues we ought to finish up the shopping season with sales pretty close to last year."

Here's a rundown of other cities:

DETROIT — Christmas business, according to the Retail Merchants Bureau, will be down 3 to 5 per cent.

ATLANTA — One leading merchant says: "We'll have to work hard the rest of the way to top last year's volume."

★ ★ ★

SEATTLE, Portland and San Francisco-Oakland — Sales down somewhat, chiefly because of defense cutbacks.

INDIANAPOLIS — Merchants' estimates range from same as last year to behind but not very much.

PITTSBURGH — Retailers hope to do as well or better than last year, despite steel layoffs and a crippling transit strike.

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Merchants outwardly optimistic but seem to be "whistling past the graveyard."

MIAMI — Business off to a good start, despite higher prices.

ST. LOUIS — Looks as good or better than last year, but more people buying on the cuff.

CHICAGO — Merchants say business is good. Bankers say sales are down and buyers cautious.

Supervisors Court Courthouse Problem

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP)—A courthouse still is a court house to Assistant County Supervisor Frank B. Peers.

He raised the question of spelling before a meeting of 34 other supervisors who could not offer help.

The dictionary, he said, calls it the "courthouse"—one word.

But there are many people who insist it is the "court house"—two words.

And then, he added, you look outside and at the east door of the builing a huge sign says it is the "County Building."

What's So Special?

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A drug store here with a "special" on chocolates had a sign reading: "One pound $1.60; two pounds $3.50."

High Schools List Math, Science, Reports U. of M.

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The vital subjects, necessary to train American youth for scientific futures, are offered in at least 90 per cent of Michigan's accredited high schools, the University of Michigan declares.

A report submitted to University President Harlan Hatcher disclosed that the 668 accredited high schools, at least nine out of 10 have courses in Algebra, Plane Geometry, Chemistry and Physics.

The report was prepared by the University's Bureau of School Services with the aid of other U. of M. agencies.

Bureau Director Kent W. Leach said, contrary to prevailing opinion, science and mathematics are not slighted in high schools. He said, however, the arts, foreign language, social science and physical education are.

Most of Michigan's secondary schools attempt to organize their science and math courses around the abilities, needs and plans of the students, Leach said. He added that schools endeavor to offer these important subjects to superior and gifted children.

Hands Full Borrowing Money to Keep Creditors Happy

Uncle Sam Struggles to Stay in Debt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average American in 1958 will do his best to pay off his bills and get out of debt. Not so Uncle Sam. He'll have his hands full just borrowing the money to keep his creditors happy so he can stay in debt.

Between now and the end of next year, 54 billion dollars worth of government securities come due. At best not more than a billion or so of this debt can be wiped off the books. The balance will have to be refinanced by borrowing new money to pay off old obligations.

In addition to this 54 billion dollars, there is the $1,700,000,000 which the government borrows every week on 91-day bills. In other words, the government borrows it this week and pays it back 91 days later on freshly borrowed money. All this represents a debt of about 22 billion dollars which is "rolled over" or refinanced every 13 weeks, or four times a year.

Even that may not be the end of it. If tax receipts don't keep up with government spending, Uncle Sam will have to borrow more money to keep going. No one can predict at this point just what that situation will be.

The interest rates the government has to pay on its national debt securities take a big bite out of the budget every year. For fiscal 1958, which ends next June 30, the government figures to spend nearly eight billion dollars on such interest charges. For fiscal 1959 the figure will probably be just as high, perhaps a bit higher.

The ideal solution, from the standpoint of the treasury debt experts, would be to get all the debt into long term securities, at a low interest rate. In recent years, however, there just hasn't been a market for that type of security.

Along with everything else, the price of refinancing the national debt has showed a steady climb during recent years. The average annual interest rate of all outstanding securities was 2.2 per cent in 1950. By last June 30 it had reached 2.730 and it was 2.893 in late November.

Agreement Which U.S. Reached With Allies Not Favored by Dulles

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — No matter how much of a success it is called now, the agreement reached in Paris between this country and its NATO allies yesterday was the very kind Secretary of State Dulles previously said he didn't favor.

★ ★ ★

Just eight days before the agreement, he said he didn't favor it because it was the kind which he had felt long ago would never get anywhere.

The main purpose of President Eisenhower and Dulles in going to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting in Paris — when Western Europe and even this country face the threat of Russian missiles—was this:

To get the allies to accept American nuclear weapons and missiles which would be set up within their borders.

★ ★ ★

When Eisenhower and Dulles arrived they found some of the Allies wanted no part of the missiles because of their fear of Russian reprisal if war started.

The Paris meeting was split for two days. Then yesterday the 15 Allies agreed—but only in principle — that the NATO nations should accept the new American weapons.

That "principle" doesn't mean anything unless it's put into practice. And this what must come first:

1. This country must have the missiles to deliver. It is not expected to have them before the end of 1958.

2. The allies must actually agree to accept the missiles in fact. Since now there's only agreement in "principle," any of the 15 can refuse to permit American missiles inside their territory when the rockets are ready.

Earlier this month, before Dulles went to Paris, it was clearly known some of the allies didn't want the weapons.

Because much of the negotiations were going to be handled by diplomats — who are experts at making the unpleasant sound nice —there was a chance they might reach an agreement that sounded bigger than it was.

At a Dulles' news conference here Dec. 10, the secretary was asked if he felt there "should be an agreement in principle on missile bases at the NATO meeting." This was just before he set out for Paris.

Dulles answered: "No, I would not think so, I don't favor a great deal these so-called agreements in principle."

He recalled that he had been at the 1919 Paris peace conference and that whenever he heard there of some proposition being accepted in principle, he said, "I always felt discouraged because I knew it would probably never get anywhere."

Newsprint Supply to Bulge in 1958

By WALTER BUSSEWITZ

NEW YORK (AP) — American newspaper publishers have an ample supply of newsprint, in sharp contrast to the shortage which has plagued them much of the time since World War II.

This situation has come about through a steady climb in production and a lull in demand, particularly in the past six months.

What's the outlook for 1958?

There should be an even bigger bulge of supply over demand, says the Commerce Department.

★ ★ ★

"Newsprint consumers are having no trouble in obtaining all the newsprint they want," says a department report. "In fact, supplies are of such magnitude that some Canadian and Northern U.S. mills have been forced to reduce operations recently."

Stocks of newsprint held by member papers of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. (ANPA) going into October amounted to 781,000 tons, a jump of 160,000 tons over the same time a year ago and 320,000 tons more than two years ago when there was a bad shortage.

North American production of newsprint rose around 2½ per cent over 1956, while U.S. consumption was about ½ per cent under the year ago pace.

Consumption, which had been running at record levels, began to dip in mid-summer, reflecting a decline in newspaper advertising. By September, some of the larger mills were cutting back output as inventories mounted. At the yearend, the Canadian industry said eight per cent of its capacity was standing idle.

Newsprint currently is selling on a contract basis in New York at a delivered price of $134 a ton. The last general price boost of $4 a ton was put into effect in March, 1957, and was the fifth increase in seven years.

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Recently, the minor league all-star teams were announced, and the Tigers had 19 farm hands named to post season honors.

It is an encouraging note in as much as this was the largest total of players ever selected from the Tiger system.

We don't feel there was anything spectacular about the trade made with Kansas City, in fact even the recent proposed trades with Cleveland could hardly be called earth-shaking.

Why all the anguish when Reno Bertoia was mentioned for a deal? No matter what has been said about Harvey Kuenn we would hardly agree that Bertoia should be the untouchable of the two.

One big problem will still be at first base. Among the minor league all-stars is a first sacker with at least a better pair of knees than Ray Boone's, and the way first basemen have been shuffled about, a youngster by the name of Kent Hadley could have warmed the bench as well as the other four which started the 1957 season.

Last spring in Tigertown there were nothing but raves for Hadley. Shortly afterward he was at Augusta and that's where he stayed with his .312 average.

One always wonders how the Yanks always manage to come up with a Kubek-type rookie so often. A simple explanation would be that the Yanks, when they think enough about a kid, give him the chance to show his wares with the "varsity" and not the "reserves."

DITTOS FROM THE PRESS BOX

It's no surprise that Bob Calihan, University of Detroit coach, is being considered as a top candidate for the Piston job. General manager Fred DeLano has been known to say often that he considers Calihan one of the best in the business.

Calihan was offered pro basketball coaching jobs in the past, but the Titan coach was more reluctant at leaving the Motor City than he was about leaving the college post.

Now that the Pistons are in Detroit, Calihan could very well be lured to the job without changing homesteads.

It's also no surprise that Joe Schmidt was named the "most valuable player" on the Lions' squad. We've always maintained that Schmidt will go down in NFL history as one of the greatest pro linebackers.

For those who wish to send an encouraging note to coach Muddy Waters and Hillsdale for tomorrow's bowl game, it can be forwarded to sports publicity director Mickey Briggs at the Soreno Hotel in St. Petersburg.

Mickey, incidentally, is the son of Spike Briggs, who certainly needs no introduction around here.

MISSOURI COACH — Former Michigan State assistant coach Dan Devine, was named yesterday head coach of the University of Missouri. He leaves Arizona State to take the job.

Devine Heads for Missouri

Ex-MSU Grid Mentor Quits Arizona State to Coach Tigers

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Dan Devine, whose 1957 football team at Arizona State of Tempe led the nation in scoring, is the new coach at the University of Missouri.

Devine, 33, was appointed yesterday to succeed Frank Broyles, who resigned to become head coach at the University of Arkansas.

★ ★ ★

"We consider him the outstanding candidate," said Missouri Athletic Director Don Faurot. "I'm real elated with the choice."

★ ★ ★

Devine got a three-year contract with an option to renew it for two more years. His salary was not disclosed, but it is believed to be about $15,000 a year.

★ ★ ★

Devine's Arizona State team last season was undefeated in 10 games, and scored 397 points, the nation's high. State, ranked 12th nationally by The Associated Press, also finished fifth in defense. But, unlike Broyles, who stressed defense and the kicking game, Devine emphasizes the offense.

Vols Stress Defense for Tilt With Aggies

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Defensive-minded Tennessee will stress defense in preparing for its Gator Bowl football game with Texas A&M Dec. 28 at Jacksonville, Fla. Coach Bowden Wyatt said today.

Wyatt said a study of movies of Aggie games had convinced him the Texans have an explosive offense. For that reason he said, he will emphasize defense in drills starting Monday.

★ ★ ★

Wyatt and Aggie Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant exchanged films of four games to study in preparing their squads for the post-season game.

Christmas Leave Given Navy 11

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Navy's football team had scattered for Christmas leave today, and the biggest homecoming was in store for fullback Ray Wellborn.

Wellborn had a day of activity lined up by Navy alumni in Houston, Texas, his hometown. He'll be in the Tars' backfield when they take on Rice in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas on New Year's Day.

Wellborn will be playing opposite some of the Rice gridders with whom he banged heads as a freshman. The Middie fullback later transferred to the Naval Academy.

Lions Confident of Victory

Both Teams Keyed for Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "You can throw out the results of those first two games they don't mean anything now."

Detroit Lion coach George Wilson referred to the prior meetings this season of his club with the San Francisco 49ers.

Coming up Sunday is the rubber game at Kezar Stadium with the championship of the National Football League's Western Conference at stake.

In their first meeting here, the 49ers came from behind on a 41-yard pass from quarterback Y.A. Tittle to flanker R. C. Owens for a touchdown with 11 seconds left to win 35-31.

Back in Detroit, the Lions squared things by overpowering San Francisco 31-10.

"The results of those games don't mean a thing today," declared Wilson. "Everything changes fast in this business. San Francisco had a good team." Then he adds:

"But our boys want this one. They mean business and can smell money."

Sunday's winner will meet Cleveland for the NFL championship with each player in that one due to receive $3,000 to $4,000. For the Detroit-San Francisco battle, the players get game pay, or about one-twelfth of their contract salary.

Wilson reported 265-pound tackle Charlie Ane, the former Southern California star from Hawaii, would probably miss the game. He twisted a knee in last Sunday's victory over Chicago.

Defensive back Jim David has a bad ankle, but Wilson said, "We think it will be all right by game time."

Ken Russell, a 238-pounder and John Gordy at 238 are available for Ane's spot.

"There are the fellows to fill in, but any time you take away the No. 1 tackle, there's a loss," the coach commented.

With regular quarterback Bobby Layne out, the job of running the offense falls on Tobin Rote, and fans recall him well from Nov. 10.

With a minute gone in the fourth quarter, the 49ers led 28-10.

Then Tobin pitched touchdown passes of 31 yards to Jim Doran, 13 to Steve Junker and 8 again to Doran to give Detroit a 31-28 lead. It took the Tittle pass in the final seconds to offset Tobin's great throwing show.

"The team has as much confidence in Rote today as it had in Layne," declared Wilson. "He can do the job."

In addition to passing for 892 yards this season, Rote is the team's second leading rusher with 306 for an average of 4.9.

'Frisco People Must Leave to See Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When the San Francisco 49ers meet the Detroit Lions Sunday in their Western Division NFL title playoff, thousands of fans will hit the highways or airways for distant places to see the sellout game on television.

The game will be blacked-out locally.

All tickets to the game in 60,000-seat Kezar Stadium were gobbled up Monday.

Stations in Chico and Fresno, Calif., and Reno and Lake Tahoe are carrying the game.

Special bus caravans are being set up to Reno and Lake Tahoe. Hotels in Reno have agreed to a weekend reduction in double room rates to entice the partisans.

Lion Fullback Looks Ahead to Brown Game

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—All the Detroit Lions with the sole exception of halfback John Henry Johnson were looking at one target today — the San Francisco 49ers.

Johnson, an ex-49er who lives in Oakland, came from Detroit for the Lion-49er NFL Western Division playoff game carrying only an overnight bag.

Johnson explained confidently:

"Why bother to pack? We'll be back in Detroit next week, playing the Cleveland Browns for the championship. Plenty of time to pack up after that."

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

"We're not looking over anybody's head," Wilson said after running the Lions through a secret drill at the Stanford football practice field.

★ ★ ★

The 49ers likewise are thinking only about next Sunday's playoff game at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium.

★ ★ ★

"First things first," said 49er coach Frankie Albert. The 49er mentor had nothing to say about the Cleveland Browns who are waiting to meet the winner of the Lion-49er scrap for the 1957 national football league crown.

Hornsby Named to Coach Cubs

CHICAGO (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, rated baseball's greatest right-handed batter of all time, today was signed by the Chicago Cubs as a coach and chief batting instructor.

Hornsby, who reigned seven years as National League batting champion and had a lifetime average of .358, resigned as a youth program director for Mayor Richard Daley to accept the Cub job.

John Holland, Cub general manager, said Hornsby will serve on Manager Bob Scheffing's coaching staff during all-home Cub stands, specializing in hitting instruction. When the Cubs are on the road, Hornsby will visit the Bruins' eight farm affiliates to work with managers in improving the batting of young prospects.

East, West All-Star 11's Start Training

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—East and West football teams opened training yesterday for their annual Shrine charity game at Kezar Stadium Dec. 28.

The West turned out full force for two hours of offensive patterns. Oregon State Coach Tommy Prothro threw out his sacroiliac while tying his shoe.

The East, training at nearby University of Santa Clara, was missing four players who were delayed by final examinations.

Successor to Eckman May Come From Owner of Pro Team

DETROIT (AP) — Fred Zollner, Detroit Pistons owner, is expected to announce his decision today on a successor to coach Charley Eckman who resigned yesterday.

Eckman, whose Pistons have won only 9 of 25 games this season, told newsmen at his Glen Burnie, Md., home yesterday: "Resignation is a nice way to put it. We weren't winning. That's all there is to it."

Speculation about his successor centered around three men: Bob Davies, formerly with the old Rochester (N.Y.) Royals; Jim Pollard, former National Basketball Assn. star and now coach at LaSalle, and Bob Calihan, University of Detroit coach.

Zollner, a millionaire Fort Wayne, Ind., piston manufacturer, indicated he will announce his decision in Detroit this afternoon or tonight.

Eckman and Zollner were known to have had differences on team policy in recent weeks. Zollner said in a statement issued from Miami Beach, Fla., yesterday, however, that "I have the highest personal regard for Charley Eckman and I hope we can work out some arrangement where he can be helpful to our organization."

Zollner did not indicate if his remark meant that Eckman would be offered another position with the club.

The 36-year-old Eckman's letter of resignation to Zollner read in part:

"I am herewith submitting my resignation as coach of the Detroit Pistons . . . with the feeling that this action is for the good of both you and all the members of the Detroit Piston team."

"During the period that I have acted as coach of these players, they have all been very cooperative and have given their best effort to win."

"I certainly have a high regard for all of these players and am especially proud of the teams under my direction winning the Western Division championships for two successive years (1954-55, 1955-56)."

The Pistons currently are in third place in the NBA's four-team Western Division and have won only 3 of 11 games on their home court in Detroit's Olympia Stadium.

The team came to Detroit this year from Fort Wayne because gate receipts weren't high enough to keep the club going. Since moving to Detroit, attendance has been reported considerably below the average 6,000 Pistons officials say they need to break even.

Eckman was an NBA referee when Zollner appointed him head coach of the Fort Wayne Zollner Pistons in 1954. Eckman said he will be paid to June, 1959, on his $12,500-a-year contract for the 1959-60 season.

Eckman's overall record for his three and one-third years of Pistons coaching was 134-131 in regular season and playoffs competition.

Kentucky Event Begins Friday

Three Unbeaten Teams Battle Host Wildcats in Tourney

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Top-ranked North Carolina means business in the power-packed University of Kentucky Invitational basketball tournament Friday and Saturday.

Facing the challenge of three other members of the nation's top 10, the Tar Heels flew in last night and immediately held a workout even though their flight was delayed an hour by bad weather.

Minnesota, another unbeaten power, arrived after 11 hours in the air—and terminals—and also worked out last night.

West Virginia, the third undefeated club in the field against host Kentucky's twice-beaten Wildcats, is to arrive today.

The pairings make it certain two teams will fall from the unbeaten list. And if Kentucky should win its own tournament for a fourth time in its five-year history, none will emerge undefeated.

Defending national champ North Carolina opens play Friday night against 10th-ranked Minnesota, with No. 8 West Virginia meeting fifth-ranked Kentucky in the nightcap.

Rangers Whip Canadiens for 4th Time This Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If the rest of the National Hockey League clubs can follow the New York Rangers' example, Montreal may yet find itself forced to battle for another league title.

Called "the greatest hockey team in the world" by even New York Coach Phil Watson, the powerful Canadiens have lost only six of 29 games played so far in the NHL round robin. But against the second place Rangers they're merely human, losing four of six while winning but one and tying another.

★ ★ ★

Three straight times the Rangers have whipped 'em on New York ice, the latest a rip-roaring 5-4 victory last night that saw hockey subordinated to a dilly of a second period fight. Just to make it complete, the Rangers also won the fist-slinging, with defenseman Lou Fontinato landing four or five punches to the jaw of Montreal's Tom Johnson in the featured set-to of the melee.

★ ★ ★

Little Camile Henry, now the NHL leader in goals with 16, scored twice for New York including the winning goal with about 11 minutes to play. Andy Bathgate, Andy Hebenton and Danny Lewicki were New York's other scorers while Don Marshall, Bert Olmstead, Bernie Geoffrion and rookie Gene Achtymickuk, who also had two assists, clicked for Montreal.

★ ★ ★

The net result of the victory, both in skill and slug, was to move the Rangers to within seven points of the league leaders.

Pompey or Hinnant Due for Good Bout

CHICAGO (AP)—Yolande Pompey of Trinidad or Clarence Hinnant of Miami, who fought a bruising 10-round light heavyweight draw at the Chicago Stadium last night, is due for a good bout in the near future.

It all depends on the New York bout next month between Yvonne Durelle and Tony Anthony.

In last night's televised bout at the Chicago Stadium, referee Bernie Weissman voted for Pompey 47 points to 46. One judge, Lou Capparelli, saw Hinnant winning 46 to 45. The other judge, Harold Marovitz, called it a 47-47 draw. The AP card had Pompey a 47-45 winner.

This was a hard-punching, gruelling match in which clinches were few and the infighting rugged.

Comiskey Battle Bursts Open

Sox Owners Feud

CHICAGO (AP) — A smoldering feud in the hierarchy of Chicago White Sox burst into flame last night when Mrs. Dorothy Comiskey Rigney accused her brother, Charles Comiskey, of using "rule or ruin" tactics in an effort to control the baseball club.

Mrs. Rigney, White Sox Secretary-Treasurer, issued a public blast at her brother, a White Sox co-vice president, after he contended she has been the "victim of some bad advice."

Comiskey has been battling his sister in Probate Court in an effort to get personal control of 1,781 shares of White Sox stock willed to him by his mother, the late Mrs. Grace Comiskey. Mrs. Rigney, as executrix of her mother's estate, has control of the 4,062 shares held by the estate. Mrs. Comiskey, who died a year ago, was president of the White Sox.

Probate Judge Robert J. Dunne late yesterday restrained Mrs. Rigny from voting the stock for 60 days. The ruling forced cancellation of the annual White Sox shareholders meeting scheduled for today, which could have resulted in a showdown.

The ruling left the rival factions sharing, at least for two months, the helm of baseball club that finished in second place in the American League last season.

Mrs. Rigney contended that her 32-year-old brother's charge of "bad advice" was directed at Roy J. Egan, White Sox attorney who has represented her in the Probate Court hearing. She said:

"I wonder if my brother feels I was ill-advisd when, after my father's death in 1939, it was through the ingenuity and untiring efforts of Mr. Egan, as attorney for my mother, brother, deceased sister and myself, that we were able to retain the White Sox in the Comiskey family.

"I will admit I was ill advised after my brother tried to push my mother aside so he could become president of the club in 1952 and then resigned when he was unable to do so, and Mr. Egan urged both my mother and me to reinstate him when he was unemployed.

"I will also admit I was the 'victim of bad advice' when he unjustifiably entered into a dispute with Frank Lane because of his ambition to 'rule or ruin' the White Sox in 1955, and I did not take a more firm stand at that time.

"I will admit I was ill-advised when, after Frank Lane resigned I accepted the suggestion of Mr. Egan to both my mother and me that my brother be permitted to participate in the operation of the affairs of the White Sox . . .

"In my opinion ingratitude is an unpardonable sin."

M-MSU at Peace on Schedules

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The annual squabble between Michigan and Michigan State over a home-and-home schedule for their traditional football game appears ended.

This yearly backyard donnybrook will shift sites from now on in alternate years. A year ago, Michigan State athletic director Biggie Munn threatened to break off gridiron relationships with its downstate cousin because the Wolverines didn't want to play in Spartan Stadium every other season.

But the enlargement of the MSU arena from 60,000 to 76,000 has caused Michigan athletic director Fritz Crisler to change his tune.

"I'm agreeable to play Michigan State home-and-home once our schedule is cleared up to permit it," Crisler said. "I have no animosity with the number of seats there now."

The Wolverines and Spartans already are scheduled to meet on a home-and-home basis through 1961. The game, which always is a guaranteed sellout, will be played in East Lansing on even numbered years and Ann Arbor on odd seasons.

However, a scheduling bottleneck at the Big Ten's meetings last week in Chicago is holding back plans for the 1962 slate. As Crisler said, once this problem is settled, Michigan will announce its plans to visit Michigan State in 1962. The conference athletic directors will meet in March at Champaign, Ill., to clear up the tabled 1962 schedule and make plans for 1963 and 1964.

Crisler said the original 1962 schedule, as proposed at the Chicago conclave, would have left Michigan with five conference games on the road and only two in its 101,001-seat stadium. It is just the reverse for 1961.

"While we were out to lunch, '61 was transposed to make up '62," Crisler said. "This was unacceptable to Michigan, so we played around with it for awhile and couldn't work it out. Everybody wants us to go to their place."

When the Chicago meeting broke up, Iowa and Purdue each had five leave games tentatively arranged for 1962. This is one below the Big Ten Minimum. Both play Michigan at Ann Arbor in 1961. Presumably, these were the schools creating the schedule jam, neither agreeing to visit Ann Arbor again in 1962.

The 10-game schedule, which the athletic directors approved at Chicago, will not become law until passed unanimously by the Big Ten faculties, Crisler doesn't think it will pass.

"It would make too long a season," he said.

Crisler added he is "unalterably opposed" to a round-robin schedule within the Big Ten.

"A conference game every week is too tough for the coaches and the players," he said.

Illinois Is College Cage Surprise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Is this the season Illinois crashes back into the big time of college basketball? Or is that just another almost-but-not-quite bunch of Illini which coach Harry Combes has going for him?

Combes, a worrier who once had hair, has had something of a phenomenal record in his 10 years at Illinois. Only twice has he lost more than five games in one season — both 14-8 years, in 1950 and 1956.

Still the Illini have made the nation's top 10 in the final Associated Press rankings only once since their runnerup finish in 1952 while Indiana and Iowa dominated Big Ten conference play.

Now the as-yet unranked Illini are 5-0, pulling away in the last 4 minutes last night for an 85-82 victory over well-regarded Rice of the Southwest Conference. The Owls (3 - 2) are rated 14th nationally.

It was the second consecutive defeat for the Owls, who were unbeaten before they left home, but oddly enough they outshot Illinois in that cozy gymnasium at Champaign. The Illini wrapped it up by hitting 23 of 29 free throw chances, breaking a 75-all tie with 4 minutes left after Rice had recovered from a 12-10 Illinois kick.

Don Ohl, a veteran, topped the scoring with 29 points, including four clutch foul shots in the last 2 minutes, for the Illini, who again got a good game from sophs Govoner Vaughn (17) and Mannie Jackson (12).

Temple Tucker, Rice's big man at 6-10, scored 28 and counted 12 in 4 minutes as the Owls took a 57-53 lead early in the second half.

Only two other ranked clubs were in action last night. Maryland (No. 6) made it 5-0 with an 88-58 breezer over Navy, but Virginia tumbled UCLA (No. 13) from the unbeatens 83-68 with a second half fast break.

Sophomores Charley McNeil, who scored 22, and Jerry Bechtle pushed Maryland into a 19-point edge with nine points apiece in a 4-minute spurt after the Terps had missed their first 10 shots in the second half. Jim Bower, a soph making his first start, matched McNeil with 22 for Navy.

UCLA, now 4-1, hit half its shots in the first half, but blew a nine-point edge after the intermission. Don Lock's two free throws gave Wichita the lead at 62-61 with 3 minutes left. Al Tate of Wichita and UCLA's Ben Rogers led scoring with 19 points each.

Dartmouth stayed unbeaten (7-0) with a comeback 69-64 victory over Holy Cross thanks to Chuck Kaufman, a soph who scored 17 points—all in the last 8 minutes after Holy Cross had taken a 47-39 lead.

Jerry Dupont,—6-10 guy, scored 23 points and hauled down 29 rebounds as Louisville took charge in the second half for a 73-65 decision over Marquette.

Missouri rolled with ease behind Sonny Siebert's 20 points for an 82-61 victory over Texas. Vanderbilt led by 10 at the half, then opened up to rout the Citadel 90-61.

Buckeyes Leave Early Saturday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Rose Bowl-bound Ohio State Buckeyes will leave for the West Coast early Saturday. Coach Woody Hayes said he expects to put his charges through a workout after arriving in Pasadena later that day.

★ ★ ★

The Bucks went through their last practice here yesterday in preparation for their invasion of the Rose Bowl Jan. 1 against Oregon. It was the seventh of 16 allowed practices for the bowl game.

★ ★ ★

Hayes had 39 of his 40-man team working out in yesterday's two-hour session. Don Clark, OSU's junior halfback who was injured in the Purdue game, still is confined to the training room for treatment of an injured groin muscle.

Aiding Opponent Wins Sportsmanship Award

BOSTON (AP)—Tony Salvo, Boston University yearling football center who aided an injured opponent, today was the first freshman and only the second lineman to win the Swede Nelson Sportsmanship Award.

The 18-year-old lineman from Fall River Mass., was named winner of the 12th annual award last night after being a strong choice among 36 nominations received from 110 writers, coaches and college representatives throughout the country.

Spartan Gridders Spark Opening North Workout

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Twenty-two North all-stars breezed through a 90-minute drill here yesterday in their first workout for the Shrine's Christmas night football game in the Orange Bowl.

★ ★ ★

"These boys have tremendous spirit, even for this late in the year," said coach Hugh Daugherty of Michigan State, who directed the practice. "They like to play football."

Most of the passing was done by Jim Ninowski of Michigan State and Jim Van Pelt of Michigan to ends Dave Kaiser and Bob Jewett of Michigan State and halfback Chuck Shea of Stanford.

In the backfield with Ninowski and Shea were left half Kenneth Mikes of Purdue and fullback Ray Nitschke of Illinois. Van Pelt had a backfield that included Dale Smith of Illinois, Ed Coffin of Syracuse and Kaiser, who will play two positions.

Two Notre Dame players, Dick Lynch and Dick Prendergast, will join the North squad today.

Fight Trainer Dies

TIME RUNNING OUT — One of the most improved members of Pontiac Central High's swimming squad is nearing the end of his prep career as a diver. Johnny LaMotte, above, has come up rapidly in the last two years in one of aquatics' most difficult events. He will be lost to coach Bob (Des) Voyce's team at midterm, and there's no capable replacement.

Pontiac Matmen in Weekend Tourney

A four-match schedule tonight and the Southeastern Michigan tournament Friday and Saturday presents a busy schedule for Oakland County Wrestling teams in the final mat action before Christmas.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac, with a 1-1 record in dual meets, will be among the three county entries in the weekend tourney slated for Detroit Thurston. The others are Farmington and Hazel Park.

The Chiefs have bowed to Cranbrook and walloped Fitzgerald in two starts. A postp emotdach n two starts. A postponed match with Waterford made it possible to enter the tournament.

Pontiac has several veteran performers and could be a strong threat in the weekend event despite the strong opposition.

Farmington won a tuneup for the meet last night and Hazel Park hosts Ann Arbor tonight so both should be in top form. It will be the opener for the Vikings although they took part in the Lansing Invitational last week.

In other action tonight, Dondero and Kimball of Royal Oak will tangle in a city battle, Fitzgerald should be easy pickings for county power Berkley, and Southfield travels to Thurston.

The Dondero-Kimball tussle will be the 1st try at wrestling for both schools. Southfield will be seeking its 2nd straight victory.

Farmington posted its 1st win after two setbacks by edging Livonia Bentley 26-22 last night.

Farmington, with all its strength in the smaller weights, had built up a 21-3 advantage early featuring pins by Don Margherini, Randy Jordan and Jerry Cassell. Jim Marsh and Tom Peckham took decisions.

Ailing Mississippi Star to Play in Cotton Bowl

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP)—Senior halfback Billy Lott, hero of Mississippi's victory over Texas Christian in the 1956 Cotton Bowl, will play against Texas in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day.

Lott broke his collarbone against Tennessee late in the season. Coach Johnny Vaught said yesterday Lott is ready for action.

Vaught drilled the team for an hour and 45 minutes with emphasis on play assignments, ball handling and blocking. The squad also drilled on passing offense and defense.

Baltimore Has 31 Spring Exhibitions

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles listed today 31 pre-season exhibition games next spring with the San Francisco Giants, Chicago Cubs, Cleveland Indians and Cincinnati Reds.

★ ★ ★

The Orioles will discontinue the usual barnstorming games and come directly to Baltimore after breaking camp at Scottsdale, Ariz., on April 9. They will complete the training season at home with three games against Cincinnati on April 13.

★ ★ ★

The Cubs will be met 15 times, the Giants seven, and the Indians six in Arizona.

Warriors Lose to Minneapolis

Cellar-Dwelling Lakers Gain 108-102 Decision for 6th Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Minneapolis Lakers won a game and the Detroit Pistons lost a coach in the National Basketball Assn. yesterday, surprising developments in both cases.

The Lakers, able to win only five of 24 games, whipped the stumbling Philadelphia Warriors 108-102 for No. 6 a few hours after Charley Eckman, who guided the Pistons to two division titles in three years at Fort Wayne before the move to Detroit, resigned under pressure.

Minneapolis, trying to find its way out of the Western Division cellar, dropped 12 free throws in the last four minutes to settle the only game on Wednesday program.

Vern Mikkelsen, with 23 points, and Bobby Leonard, with 20, were the top scorers for the Lakers. Neil Johnston, still playing with a brace protecting his broken jaw, took game honors with 30 for Philadelphia, which ranks last in the Eastern Division with a 10-14 record.

Michigan Skaters Fall to Denver, 4-2

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Denver edged Michigan, 3-2, last night with a goal in sudden-death overtime and swept an all-important two-game Western Intercollegiate Hockey League series.

It was the slumping Wolverines' third straight loss in league play against one triumph. They dropped 2½ points off the pace set by league - leading Denver.

Jim Brown fired the winner at 1:32 of the extra period, slipping a 15-footer past goalie Ross Childs.

Marines Seek Cage Title

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—The Quantico Marines go after the championship tonight for the third straight year in their own Christmas invitational basketball tournament against Providence College of Rhode Island.

The Marines wore down Belmont Abbey of North Carolina 71-53 and Providence whipped St. Michael's of Vermont 68-53 in semifinals action last night.

Chief Tankers Entertain Flint Central, Friday

Last competition for 1957 for Pontiac Central High's natators takes place in the West Huron street pool, Friday at 4 p.m. Flint Central's aquatic Indians provide the opposition, and a close match is anticipated. Chiefs have lost to Arthur Hill, while Indians bowed to Bay City Central in their last outing.

The Pontiac meet is the only SVC action of the weekend.

When action is resumed after the holidays, time will be running out for Pontiac's only letterman, Johnny LaMotte and the team's only good diver. Johnny graduates at midterm.

Other area meets today include Birmingham at Hazel Park opening the Maples' EML action; RO Dondero at Southfield.

Western Michigan Loses

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Western Michigan staged a late-game rally but was unable to catch up with Toledo's smooth-moving rockets who went on to score a 66-62 mid-American conference basketball victory last night.

The triumph was Toledo's fourth in as many games. The Broncos now have a 3-3 record.

Wilt Nation's Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain, the 7-foot junior from Kansas, started out fast again this season to lead the nation's major college basketball scorers with an average of 32 points per game for the first five contests.

★ ★ ★

Individual scoring figures through games of Dec. 14 showed that Chamberlain had tallied 61 field goals and 38 free throws for a total of 160 points. As a sophomore, he also started out fast but ended the season in fourth place with a 29.6 average. Two graduated seniors, Grady Wallace of South Carolina with 31.2 and Joe Gibbon of Mississippi with a 30.0 average, led the list.

Third place for the 1956-57 season went to Seattle's Elgin Baylor with 29.7, and the West Coast player is in ninth place this week with 25.7 for three games.

Sooners Polish Offense

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The University of Oklahoma football team polished its offensive maneuvers in a 90-minute workout yesterday, pointing for the final workout in Norman Friday.

The team will go home for the Christmas holidays then meet here Dec. 26 for the flight to Miami and a few days of practice there prior to the Orange Bowl game with Duke Jan. 1.

Flint Central Old Pontiac Rival

Chiefs, Indians Clash for 55th Time in Series

League Lead at Stake as Teams Meet Friday at Ballenger

Oldest rival on Pontiac's athletic schedule is Flint Central, and whether it be football or basketball the results have been as unpredictable as the weather.

★ ★ ★

The Chiefs and the Indians meet on the basketball court for the 55th time in their long series, and if past records are any indication Flint Central will be as tough to beat on its own court Friday night as it has in every game in the past.

Last year was one of the very few occasions which Pontiac was able to beat the Indians twice in a single season. It happened before only three times, in the 1939-40 season and in the 1947-48 and 1948-49 campaigns.

Several times in the past few seasons, the highest point total scored against Pontiac were at the hands of Flint Central on the Indians' home court.

Most points scored against Pontiac during the 1955-56 season was 80 points by Flint Central, and in 1954-55 the 78 also was by Central.

This year Flint Central has shown great scoring power with nine lettermen, and even though the Chiefs will have the height advantage, the Indians will probably be the fastest opponent Pontiac will face this year.

"We've come along faster than I expected," said Flint Central coach Joe Dowdy, "and we will have our best shooting night against Pontiac."

Since the final season game of the 1955-56 season, Pontiac has won 12 straight SVC regular season games. The Chiefs were pressed to the final seconds before winning at Ballenger fieldhouse last year, and the player who caused the scare, Felix Miller, is back again.

Miller a 6-foot guard is the leading scorer in the league at this point with 75 points in Flint Central's 4-2 mark.

With Miller, Central has several strong shooters in Chuck Hyslop, Dave Jeffes, Don Bradley and John Kirk.

MSU Icers Upset NCAA Champs

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State's underdog hockey team took a big bite out of top-dog Colorado College with a 6-4 victory last night.

The score was surprising because Colorado is the Western Intercollegiate and NCAA champion while MSU was last in the Western League standings last year.

Colorado casually skated past state by a 7-2 score just the evening before.

★ ★ ★

The surprising Spartans banged in one goal in the first period and added five more in the frantic flurry of second period scoring. The champs had only one in the second frame.

Six MSU skaters shared in the scoring honors.

Biggest daily double payoff in 1955, when Joymaker and Advice Pimlico's history came Dec. 1, combined for a $5,932.20 reward.

STRIKES AND SPARES

By Joe Wilman

I've been preaching how confidence is necessary for successful spare-shooting. Yet, you may ask, how can I be confident when I have to shoot at those right side spares such as the 10, the 6-10 or the 3-6-10 which we show today?

The only way I know to build confidence when facing these spares is to practice them until they no longer give you much trouble. I'm sure most of you don't worry as much about the 5-pin spare as the 10-pin. That's because it's a bit easier. Yet, if you practice enough on turning in the 10-pin, it can become just as 'easy.

The 3-6-10 spare, which we show today, can be tough unless you've practiced making it. You must shoot this from the center or just to the left of center, aiming your ball so that it comes in between the 3 and 6 pins. The 6-pin should deflect back into the 10-pin. But it's easy to miss this one and leave either the 3 or the 10-pin standing unless you practice it.

Sanders Leaving Bruins?

UCLA Coach, Aggies Visit

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Henry "Red" Sanders, whom UCLA obviously would like to keep as its coach, talks with Texas A&M officials today on the question of coming here to replace Paul Bryant as football head man of the Aggies.

* * *

Sanders, a 15-year veteran of big-time coaching with a most successful record, flew in yesterday afternoon and had an informal chat with the athletic council. They get down to brass tacks today.

* * *

Over at the football field Bryant was training the team for an engagement with Tennessee in the Gator Bowl Dec. 28, after which he will go to Aabama as coach.

Sanders said "I'm glad to be here. I don't know if I'll stay."

* * *

It all seemed a trifle uncertain what with Dr. Chris Groneman, chairman of the athletic council, admitting that he had contacted Forest Evashevski, coach of Iowa, and that several other coaches had been approached. But A&M lost one prospect yesterday when Dan Devine, coach of Arizona State, signed to go to Missouri.

* * *

"We've helped a lot of coaches raise their salaries at their home bases but we still haven't got one," said Dr. Groneman.

* * *

At Los Angeles UCLA students got 6,000 signatures to a petition urging the university to give Sanders a longer and more highly remunerative contract. Sanders already makes $18,000 a year and has six years to go on his contract.

* * *

Dr. Groneman said A&M would offer a $15,000 annual salary and the use of a house. He said the house was bought for Bryant for $30,000.

No Favorite as Carrousel Cage Tourney Begins

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—A basketball tournament without a red hot favorite, the third annual Carrousel, opened a three-day schedule here today with afternoon and night doubleheaders.

* * *

Today's first round schedule got under way with a 2 p.m. (EST) game between Tennessee and Bucknell. Alabama and Clemson followed at 3:30.

* * *

Royals, Shaw's Rout Foes

The Lakeside Royals and Shaw's Jewelers, Pontiac's two leading powers in the Class A City Basketball League, were overwhelming winners Wednesday night at Pontiac Central High.

The Royals, defending city champions, placed four eagers in double figures as they plastered the Knights of Columbus, 70-54.

Levi Pilgrim sparked the scoring parade with 14 points, followed by Rudy Hill's 12. John Keller was high for the Knights with 20 and teammate Hal Trott notched 13. It was Lakeside's 2nd victory in as many starts.

Shaw's, defeated by the Royals on opening night, broke into the win column with an 83-53 rout of Southfield. The Jewelers also had four players in double figures, with Ernie Wagner's 23 points leading the way.

St. Vincent de Paul shaded Jack's Bar & Grill, 30-27, in Class D action at Lincoln Junior High. Martin Hastings netted 16 points for the winners, who trailed at halftime, 11-9. Bill Sekulich was tops for Jack's team with 11.

In the other scheduled "D" game, Bill Lee rang up 18 points to pace the Bowen Arrows to a 64-24 romp over Home Lunch.

Class A at Pontiac Central

8:30—UAW-CIO Local 594 vs Southfield.

Class B at Pontiac Central

7:00—L. C. Anderson vs. Boys Club.

NCAA Violations Group Convenes

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Assn.'s committee on infractions opens a 2-day meeting here today.

Walter Byers, NCA executive director, said several cases are under study, but he declined to disclose them.

Under NCAA procedure, he said, all such cases are treated confidentially until a formal report is made.

Stan Musial Selected 'Sportsman-of-the-Year'

NEW YORK (INS) — Stan Musial, seven-time National League batting champion, has been named "sportsman of the year" by Sports Illustrated Magazine.

The 37-year-old St. Louis Cardinal great was named as one of the "genuinely great hitters in the history of baseball, one of the game's most durable players, and in every way a man who has most laudably exemplified the American ideals of sportsmanship.

Crucial Game for Avon Tonight

By BILL CORNWELL

By 10 o'clock tonight, Dick Bye, head basketball coach at Avondale High School, should have a much clearer view of his team's chances this season in the Oakland B League title race.

Avon, which divided Oakland B honors with Troy last season after a wild chase right down to the wire, meets a veteran Fitzgerald quintet this evening in an important league struggle at Avondale.

The Avondale - Fitzgerald clash raises the curtain on a full Oakland B schedule. Lake Orion entertains Clawson and Troy visits Madison in Friday night games to round out the circuit.

Fitzgerald, rated Orion's top contender for the conference crown in pre-season forecasts, will probably answer a lot of questions for Bye, the talented young mentor who year in and year out produces highly respected teams at Avondale.

Avon will have all it can handle against Fitzgerald, which was one of the loop's stronger clubs at the close of the 1956-57 campaign. The Spartans started slowly a year ago, but progressed rapidly and finished with a rush.

Bye's cagers looked anything but contenders Tuesday at Rochester while bowing to the Falcons, 40-30, for their 1st defeat of the season after two victories. Fortunately, it was a non-league contest.

The Jackets were freezing cold in that game, hitting only 13 of 58 field goal attempts for a feeble 22 per cent shooting average, and Bye is probably trying to convince himself that a team can't be that frigid twice in a row.

Undoubtedly, the friendly confines of home will aid the Avon cause. The Jackets won their league opener last Friday, a 49-47 squeaker over Clawson, while Fitzgerald also took its conference inaugural, swamping Madison by a 61-24 margin.

Unitas Named for Thorpe Trophy

NEW YORK (NEA) — A lean-shanked sandlot graduate who was turned down by two universities and one professional team and overlooked by 10 others has been acclaimed professional football's Player-of-the-Year.

The third annual Jim Thorpe Trophy, presented by A. G. Spalding Bros., has been awarded to John Unitas, quarterback of the Baltimore Colts.

In a poll taken by NEA Service of the players of the National Football League, Unitas received 244 points to beat out Y. A. Tittle, the guiding genius of the San Francisco 49ers and his closest competitor at 185 points. Jim Brown, Cleveland's recruit fullback, was third with 118.

Unitas, the first quarterback to receive the trophy perpetuating the name of professional football's first great performer, is a bona fide Cinderella boy who drove the Colts to their first winning season in history and had them in contention until the last day of the regular schedule.

Two years ago he was dodging rocks on a skinned Pittsburgh field, picking up a few bucks every Sunday playing semi-pro ball. He had been turned loose by his home-town Steelers without ever getting into a single play of an exhibition game.

A graduate of St. Justin High in Pittsburgh, Unitas wanted to go to Notre Dame but was thumbed down for lack of size. He next tried Indiana and again got the cold shoulder. So he settled for the University of Louisville, played four years of varsity quarterback and sprouted to 6-1 and 190 pounds.

He might have been through with football after his abortive 1955 trial with the Steelers if Don Kellett, the general manager of the Colts, hadn't been leafing through some old waiver bulletins.

"Hmmm, Unitas," he mused. "Wasn't he a No. 9 draft pick?"

Unitas first arrived in Baltimore on a dismal spring day in 1956 for the Colts' annual audition open to all-comers. Even in the murk, he threw the ball well enough to pique the brass.

Aggies Ready to Go

Mulloy, 44, Battles Mackay for Davis Cup Team Spot

MELBOURNE (AP) — Gardnar Mulloy is not giving up his place on the United States' Davis Cup team without a battle.

Faced with the possible loss of his doubles berth in the challenge round to younger Barry Mackay, the 44-year-old Miami veteran has intensified his practice and sounded a warning that he will be hard to overlook when the time for a decision comes.

"Naturally, I will be disappointed if I do not get to play," Mulloy said today. "But I won't be bitter.

"Billy Talbert must consider the age factor and I will abide by anything he says. But I am in good shape."

Talbert, the U.S. captain, said he already had made up his mind about the doubles combination but he refused to make the decision known for fear of killing off the players' enthusiasm.

"I want to keep them hungry," he said.

It is known, however, that Talbert leans heavily toward the team of Vic Seixas and Mackay.

Mackay, although only 22 and never in a cup match, has the big service and volley which figures to cause trouble for Australians Mal Anderson and Mervyn Rose in the challenge round beginning a week from today.

★ ★ ★

Mulloy was a disappointment in the interzone match with Belgium when he and Seixas lost in doubles to Jackie Brichant and Philippe Washer. But he figures there were contributing factors.

★ ★ ★

For days in advance, he had been kept on edge by the possibility he would be thrown into the singles because of the illness of Herbie Flam. Also, he and Seixas had little chance to practice doubles because of the emphasis put on Mulloy for the singles.

★ ★ ★

"I've never been in better physical condition," Mulloy said. "I'm beating everybody on the team in practice, including Seixas. But there is no denying I'm 44 and might be slowed if I had to play three hard days of tennis. I could play one day—doubles—and never feel it."

★ ★ ★

Swedes Plan Reactor Using Ordinary Water

STOCKHOLM — Sweden's atomic-energy projects include construction of a reactor using enriched uranium and ordinary instead of heavy water, the first of its kind in Sweden.

Also on the program is a uranium plant with an annual capacity of 120 tons, to be built either at Kvarntorp, in the center of the shale-oil industry, where uranium is already being extracted, or at Ranstad, where the shale deposits have a higher uranium content.

HOME RAILROADERS — They set up shop with an O-gauge electric train kit. Youngsters, and those slightly older, can put parts together from locomotive to caboose with screwdriver and tube of plastic cement.

Women Holding Throttles

With this warning, model railroading bowed to the onslaught of "Casey Janes." After, according to Lionel experts, trainmen decided today's women do just about everything a man does, so why not have trains for girls? As a result, train sets this Christmas will come in pink frosting, robin's-egg blue, lilac, buttercup yellow and sky blue.

For hobby-minded adults Santa will carry exact scale HO-gauge trains. They're less than half the size of conventional model trains and carry the colors and markings of real railroads. For father or son there will be complete kits of electric trains to assemble.

On the accessory side will be a lumber mill that feeds logs in one end and sawed boards out the other. Operating cranes to load and unload culvert pipe, stations to load coal, a rocket launcher, a cow on the track, atomic cannon and "Honest John" rocket bring home railroading up to date.

Street Urchins of Naples Evoke Pity

Yule Eve Was Birth of Idea for Boys' Town of Italy

By MSGR. JOHN PATRICK CARROLL-ABBING
Founder of the Boys' Towns of Italy
(Written expressly for INS)

It was Christmas Eve, 1944. Naples was shrouded in fast-approaching darkness. On the docks activity had ceased. The long lean liberty ships could be seen only as dark masses etched against the sky.

As I walked through the deserted streets I heard a clatter of feet behind me. A boy ran past, a typical "scugnizzo," his rags flapping about him; then another panting child, then two more and finally a smaller boy, his eyes starting from his head, blood trickling down his cheek. The boys melted into the shadows, the pattering of their feet died away. Silence once more.

★ ★ ★

Who were they? What had they done? Where had they come from?

They were the children of the war. Did it matter whether only a year before one of them had lived with his mother in the sheltered protection of his little cottage home in the mountains; that another one had followed the allied armies from Sicily; that another had lived in a little country town near Salerno?

These were things of the past; now their homes were destroyed, their mothers dead, their fathers prisoners of war. They were an insignificant part of the vast army of homeless children, marching the roads of Italy, infesting the port cities, seeking but one thing; to ward off starvation.

The day before, I had been in the little town of Fondi; the dismayed villagers had told us of the gangs of youngsters who passed by. "Every day they come through on their way to Rome, whole groups of them." Cynical, tough—even the smallest of them—they were a social menace.

I walked up the hill, stepping off the sidewalk every now and then to avoid treading on the youngsters huddled together in sleep with a sack and old rags pulled over them.

After supper I sat beside the blazing fire with the U.S. Army colonel attached to the AMG and the captain of the port police whose guest I was, and we talked of the events of the day.

★ ★ ★

The captain spoke of the gasoline drums that had been found floating in the bay. "We discovered that the kids were riding them down the sewers into the port. Until then we hadn't been able to understand how they were getting past the sentries at the gates."

The colonel was opening a package from home: A box of candy, a woolen sweater and a letter. He pointed to the kisses scribbled at the end. "My kids," he said.

★ ★ ★

We looked into the fire. It was Christmas: The feast of a child who was born in a stable. The angels were singing: "Glory to God in the highest and peace on earth to men of goodwill." All over the world men were killing each other and children with no mother's love to warm them were sleeping out in the cold.

"What is a little Irishman doing in Italy if he can't solve a tiny problem like this?" 'It was the colonel, gruff and polemic as he usually was when he was deeply moved.

As I lay in bed and looked up at the painted canvas ceiling which billowed and flapped in the darkness, I thought that the colonel was right: What were any of us doing in the world if we could not try, each one in his own little way, to do something for the children who had no one to love them?

★ ★ ★

Did I dream that night? If I did I certainly did not dream that out of the little organization, which I started soon after to feed and clothe the street boys, would grow the nine beautiful Boys' Towns of Italy. I did not dream that it would be the men and women of the United States without distinction of national origin or creed who would make this possible and so give to thousands of children across the seas love, care, hope and a new chance in life.

(Next: Congressman Clarence Cannon goes back through the years to an unforgettable Christmas in a small Missouri town.)

Make All Your Yuletide Trims

Card Holders, Guest Towels, Door Hangings Can Be Made

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) —Make it-yourself kits offer family fun for holiday decorators.

All types of Christmas trim, from door hangings to Yule guest towels, can be finished for home use or for gifts.

A felt skirt for the Christmas tree comes in a package with iron-on appliques, metallic yarns to embroider holiday designs and sequins and braid for extra glitter.

Hemstitched linen guest towels have patterns for cross-stitch embroidered Santas and Christmas angels.

Other Santas to assemble for the mantle or centerpiece have plastic foam bodies, red flannel suits, pipecleaner arms and sequin eyes.

Thank you . . .

May we take this opportunity to pledge, to our many friends, the same high standards for the coming year, that we have set as our goal in the past.

Ed Sullivan's Ulcer Is Acting Up Again

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Ed Sullivan's ulcer kicked up and he'll undergo an examination to find whether surgery's required . . . Milton Berle took the wrong pills and woke up thinking he was dying. He summoned his friend, Gagwriter Jay Burton, who, Berle later said, "saved my life."

Sonja Henie gave a black-tie party, but I didn't know it was black-tie and was in a business suit. 'Twas near midnight. I couldn't phone Slug—he was at his first formal party in his first tux. I rushed to Times Sq. to buy a black-tie, but the boss man, George Gordon, said, "You can't go to a Sonja Henie party like that!" He quickly decked me out in a dinner jacket, formal shirt with ruffles, studs, etc., although I had to wear my own pants. The store which supplied this midnight service was named—believe it or not—Ripley.

NAACP Blasts Alabama Action

Roy Wilkins Suggests That State Be Allowed Fewer Solons

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A drastic step to preserve white supremacy in Alabama's farm belt has brought a verbal blast from the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

★ ★ ★

Alabama voters Tuesday in a referendum authorized the Legislature to abolish Macon County rather than risk Negro capture of its local political offices.

A legislative committee created in the amendment to study abolition possibilities is expected to meet in January.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, said in New York last night: "Now that Alabama's continuing policy of depriving Negro citizens of the right to vote has been confirmed by this drastic state action, it would seem that the Congress should proceed to reduce the number of its representatives from Alabama in compliance with provisions of the 14th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution."

★ ★ ★

He described passage of the Macon County amendment as "an extreme effort to curtail the voting strength of Negro citizens . . ."

Macon County is in central Alabama, in the heart of the "black belt," so-called because of the region's fertile soil. White voters now outnumber Negroes 2-1 in Macon, although Negroes have a 7-1 advantage in population.

In Gadsden, Rep. Rains (D-Ala) called Wilkins' statement "silly and asinine."

★ ★ ★

The congressman said, "There is no doubt that Alabama will have its same number of representatives, Roy Wilkins notwithstanding."

Yule Shoppers Flee Variety Store Fire

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—A downtown variety store, quickly cleared of Christmas shoppers, was destroyed last night by fire. One fireman was killed and two others were injured.

★ ★ ★

Killed was Frank Otto, a Linn, Mo., volunteer fireman who happened to be in town and offered his services. He apparently was overcome by smoke.

★ ★ ★

His Bond Not Continued, Man in More Trouble

ELIZABETH, N. J. (AP)—James Z. Smith's bondsman decided not to post bail any longer for the 20-year-old Jersey City man and brought him to police headquarters to surrender bond. He had been charged with larceny.

★ ★ ★

At headquarters, police made a routine search of Smith's pockets and found a pair of brass knuckles an improvised jimmy, a kitchen knife and a can opener.

Smith was charged with carrying concealed weapons and held for arraignment.

Hollywood Headlines

Yule Gift to Jimmy Woolf —Right to Film Top Chiller

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — For five years Agatha Christie's murder mystery "The Mouse Trap" has been doing the biggest business on the London stage, so little wonder Jimmy Woolf thinks he has the best Christmas present he could get — the film rights to this chiller. Agatha herself has consented to write the script for this Romulus production.

Woolf, who has been in Hollywood, tells me he leaves for his home in London next week to start activating his "prize" property and if his luck holds he hopes to have Joan Collins and Richard Burton as his stars.

Just as Miss Christie's "Witness for the Prosecution" has a surprise ending, "Mouse Trap" turns out in an unexpected manner — and Jimmy tells me the same kind of a campaign will be staged to keep it a secret.

Shortly after director George Cukor bowed out of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," I asked him his reasons. George said it was entirely because he didn't like the script of Tennessee Williams' sordid play.

"I am not sure the public will like this play or understand it," he said, "I couldn't do an emasculated version, and I don't see how the movie itself could be properly presented. All of Williams' plays require special types and fine actors and actresses to correctly interpret them," George added.

I wondered at the time MGM bought this play, why they spent good money on a property that even though it won a Pulitzer prize, is so unpleasant in theme and idea.

The New York doctor Ava Gardner consulted told her it was imperative that she have surgery on her face and begged her not to wait, but at the last minute she decided against it. She returned to Madrid last Saturday with her face no better. Her lip and one side of her face is completely numb and disfigured.

I am told she telephoned Frank Sinatra just before she left, and he advised her to listen to the doctor. But so great was her fright that she returned to Spain no better, but no worse than she was when she arrived in this country.

One of the five-year-old twins of Ingrid Bergman is very talented—she sings and dances like a professional. She wants to be an actress like her famous mother and she will get her way.

Ingrid has agreed to let Isobel make her stage debut in Milan next summer with her uncle, Renzo Rossellini, a brother of the little girl's father, Roberto Rossellini. Renzo, a composer-conductor, is completing a new opera and there is a small role for a child.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: December 28 is the date of Natalie Woods' marriage to Bob Wagner.

Bing Crosby will make one of his few appearances at the opening tomorrow night (with Kathy, of course) of "Bridge on the River Kwai." There will be no television and no radio in the lobby.

Gov. Knight and Sen. Knowland are among the big names who have accepted invitations. Sam Spiegel flew in, but William Holden will not be among those present. He didn't finish his picture in London in time, due to bad weather.

Wearing a filmy dress of white lace over blue, Sandra Dee made her appearance at Maggie Ettinger's open house pre-Christmas party with Ross Hunter and Jacque Mapes.

Shirley Jones who was there with Jack Cassidy, spent a lot of time talking to Sandra, and so did Margaret Lindsay who looked so well.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Use Them in Pizza

Combine Yule Leftovers, Prevent Holiday Waste

A groaning Christmas dinner table often brings groans from family members days later.

To serve 4-6 persons, prepare pizza mix. Place dough in pan or on cookie sheet, and while it is rising, add half teaspoon powdered garlic and half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce to pizza sauce. Spread on dough.

On top of pie arrange ¼ pound sharp cheese, turkey, ham, green pepper and pimento (if desired). To add festivity, cut pimento into star shapes. Bake in oven at 425 degrees F. for 20-25 minutes until crust is brown and filling bubbling hot.

LEFTOVERS — Remains of Christmas hams and turkeys make good toppings for homemade pizza snacks.

U.S. to Give Missile to Japan's New AF

TOKYO (AP)—The United States is going to equip Japan's fledgling postwar air force with the Sidewinder missile, an air-to-air rocket which homes itself on an enemy plane.

★ ★ ★

The decision was announced today by the U.S.-Japan Security Committee after its fourth session, lasting five hours.

Japanese Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujiyama, cochairman of the committee, said the first delivery probably would be made next spring.

Italian Christmas Shows American Gifts, Trees

ROME (INS) — Italy now celebrates Christmas a la Americana.

Christmas "cards" flourish with masterpieces of Michelangelo and the long list of Italian greats of art. Italy's postoffices are over-run with this American trademark.

It was not always so in Italy.

Twenty years ago, Italians would merely doff their hats to neighbors and wish them well at Christmas time. If a friend or relative were to live in another town or city, he would send a simply illustrated post-card.

There was comparatively little exchange of presents. And Christmas trees only began to become popular at the turn of the century. Now, the firs are a Christmas household standard.

There is not the slightest doubt that the United States has tremendously influenced the Italian Christmas. The fact is openly admitted by businessmen as well as the Italian people in general.

Some Italians now insist they must have a Christmas bird, even a goose or a turkey.

Commercialism mars the true significance of Christmas in Italy as well as in the United States. Toy Sputniks this year are challenging children's interest in the birth of Christ.

However, in all of Rome's 475 churches, in all other cities and in the humblest home, there is a crib for the Christ Child. There is even a greater amount of rivalry and competition among churches and homes as to who will have the finest crib.

Overtime Parkers Get Police Christmas Cards

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J. (AP)—Instead of tickets, overtime parkers are getting Christmas cards from police during the holiday season.

The cards read: "We know you are doing Christmas shopping and this violation is an oversight on your part. We shall appreciate your cooperation in the future. Best wishes for a merry Christmas."

Alaskans Tops in Per Person Phone Calls

NEW YORK (AP)—Alaska tops the world in "average per person" telephone conversations, according to a survey.

★ ★ ★

"World's Telephones," an annual study released yesterday by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., says Alaskans averaged 630 phone calls per person last year.

★ ★ ★

Hawaii, first last year, was second with an average of 531. Canada had 481, Sweden 455, and the United States, 426. The world average was 51.

Michigan Statistics Show Results of Enforcement

Highway Patrols Keep Driver Alert

(Fourth of five articles on highway safety in Michigan)

LANSING (AP) — An out-of-state visitor to Michigan, traveling on U.S. 16 between Detroit and Lansing, encountered half a dozen shiny blue cars with yellow lettering on the side during his 85-mile journey.

"How's a guy to show any speed in this state?" the visitor asked glumly. "You've got state cops at every intersection."

His remark drew pointed attention to one of the big weapons in Michigan's war against traffic accidents, injuries and fatalities. The more police patrolling the highways, the theory runs, the less hell-for-leather driving, the fewer smash-ups, broken bones and funerals.

Ordinary, law-abiding motorists, too, only need a glance at a police squad car to remind them to keep an eye on the speedometer and drive with care. Double the number of squad cars and their awareness of highway law is heightened that much more.

That was the thinking of the Michigan Legislature in 1955 when it appropriated money to add 200 men to the state police force. With the state's traffic fatality toll for the year rising past the 2,000 mark and with cars and drivers ever on the increase, lawmakers hoped more state policemen would deter slaughter on the highways.

Statistics best bear out their thinking.

The state police force, Michigan's biggest law enforcement agency outside Detroit, now stands at 1,155, including 168 authorized last year. Nearly 60 per cent of its efforts are devoted to traffic.

With more men on road patrol, state police arrests jumped 51 per cent last year over the year before. The number of men on patrol on an average day went up from 721 to 922. Total miles traveled rose to 10 million, a 33 per cent increase. From 261 in 1955, squad cars now used for traffic control total 371.

Michigan's death count in traffic has fallen by 23 per cent since 1955 and traffic experts give state, county and community police high credit for helping to lower the toll.

With strong backing from local safety groups, the number of city police and deputy sheriffs on traffic duty also has risen in the past two years, tightening up enforcement that much more.

A holiday weekend now will find nearly 4,500 state police, national guardsmen and sheriff's deputies patrolling the highways.

State police officials also set out to station men where and when they were needed most. Records on thousands of traffic accidents, compiled and analyzed at State Police Headquarters in East Lansing, showed the way.

"We try to assign manpower to areas where accidents occur most frequently," says Commissioner Joseph A. Childs. "Also we try to get men there when traffic is heaviest and at the time of day when driving is most dangerous—at twilight for instance. Our idea is to anticipate and prevent accidents before they occur."

Patrolling with semi-marked and unmarked cars, experimentation with roadside timing devices to detect speeding motorists, a constant search for new and improved techniques of traffic enforcement, on survey after another on such phases of traffic as school bus accidents—all of these figure in the state police campaign for traffic safety.

Childs says he will ask the Legislature next year for another 100 men, all to be assigned to highway patrol.

"But our biggest help is public support of law enforcement and law enforcement personnel," says Childs. "When we've got civic leaders and other citizens behind us, we've got the most powerful weapon we know."

Group Life Insurance Extended to Whalers

TRONDHEIM, Norway — Under a group-insurance plan negotiated by Norwegian and British whaling companies, 7,200 Norwegian whalers' lives will be insured for 5,000 kroner ($700) each.

A similar plan, covering Norwegian seamen in foreign traffic, went into effect January 1, 1957.

State's Saving Firms Pass $3.5 Billion Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Assets of New York state's 234 savings associations exceeded 3½ billion dollars in 1957, a rise of more than 312 million dollars over 1956, according to the Savings Assn. League of New York.

Savings account balances rose to $3,104,672,180, an all-time high and 1.6 per cent over the 1956 total.

Mortgage investments slipped to 579 million dollars, however, because of a reduced demand for housing. This was 34 million dollars less than 1956.

California Hamlet Beats Monopoly

Town Named Santa Claus

SANTA CLAUS, Calif. (AP) — For a long time Indiana had a monopoly on the title "Santa Claus" as the name of a town.

In fact Congress said that no other post office in the United States could use the name.

But in Southern California is this coastal hamlet with the name Santa Claus. How did they get away with it?

Well, something of a technicality was used. More than 100 years ago the town in Indiana was named Santa Claus to give children a thrill when they got letters with that postmark at Christmastime. Congress decided the Indiana town was entitled to exclusive use of the name for a post office.

But here the village is not classified as a full-fledged postoffice. The sign above the office reads: 'United States Post Office" and underneath that "Santa Claus Rural Station." And the stamp cancellation reads: "Carpinteria, Calif., Santa Claus Rural Station."

Frank Simpkins, a Santa Barbara College student who is the entire manpower for the tiny post office, says it wasn't easy to get the name but it was finally worked out. The idea was started by Gene Augur back in 1948 when there was just a mailing station in an organge juice stand.

Simpkins said the mail rush begins here about Dec. 1. During the weekends before Christmas about 2,000 letters are mailed out bearing the "Santa Claus" postmark. On weekdays thre are about 400 letters per day. Many persons send whole boxes of cards and letters to be mailed from here. Quite a few letters came from small folk who hope to get an answer. A special arrangement has been made to answer such letters in an optimistic vein.

From an orange juice stand Santa Claus, Calif., has grown into a small cluster of shops. There is a Santa Claus shop, a toy shop and a miniature train to give the kiddies rides.

Stocks Down in Early Trades

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock Market drifted irregularly to the downside in quiet early trading today.

Key stocks were off from fractions to around a point. There was an assortment of fractional gainers among leading issues.

★ ★ ★

U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet and General Motors were down only fractions, but it was enough to tilt them to new lows for 1957.

Bethlehem and Republic Steel gained a little. United Aircraft dropped a point while Douglas Aircraft rose a good fraction and Boeing held firm.

Steels, motors, rails, oils, building materials, electrical manufacturers and aircrafts were irregular and several pivotal stocks were unchanged.

★ ★ ★

Standard Oil (New Jersey), Texas Co., Loew's and Westinghouse Electric were fractionally higher. General Electric, New York Central, Goodyear and U. S. Rubber were off fractions.

Du Pont dropped around a point as did Goodrich and U.S. Gypsum.

Opening blocks included U. S. Steel off ¼ at 48¾ on 6,000 shares; Studebaker-Packard up ⅛ at 3⅛ on 10,000; General Motors off ⅛ at 33⅜ on 3,500; and Bethlehem Steel, up ⅜ at 34¼ on 3,800.

Despite Many in Financial Trouble

Americans Save Plenty

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—This may come as a shock to the host of citizens who are having a hard time making both ends meet. But a government agency says that this year Americans are socking away some 19 billion dollars in savings.

★ ★ ★

This is amazing in this year of high cost of living. Also the big trouble with any plan for saving isn't the intentions, which are usually good, but the personal and family emergencies that have a tendency to pop up all too frequently.

The Securities and Exchange Commission puts accumulated personal savings of all kinds at 680 billion dollars in its latest report.

Personal debt has been climbing too. It is now well over 200 billion dollars—and a lot of folk find it easier to swell this total than the one for savings.

Nearly 200 billion dollars of personal savings are readily changeable for cash by withdrawal, redemption or sale. These include: 52 billion dollars in commercial bank deposits; 31 billion in mutual savings banks; 40 billion in savings and loan associations; 3 billion in credit unions; 1½ billion in postal savings; 49 billion in U.S. Savings Bonds; 19 billion in other U.S. government securities.

Individuals also hold billions of dollars worth of corporate stocks and bonds, of mortgages, and of state and local government securities with which they could raise cash.

Economists watch the rate of savings closely. It has a bearing on retail trade. It forms the reservoir of funds for investment to be tapped by corporations to build plants and carry inventories. The rate of saving often can foretell coming economic trends and can help to correct extremes.

Te Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va., notes in its December review that the factors that were driving up the cost of living and making money tight and interest rates higher at the same time led people to try to save money by spending less.

"This increase in financial saving provided some moderating influence on the price pressures in the economy by increasing the supply of funds to the capital markets and, at the same time, withdrawing funds from the markets for consumer goods," it says.

TB San Offers to Cut Budget

Would Divert $84,900 for Operating Annex to Children's Home

The Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium has offered to cut its budget by $84,900 next year, with the recommendation that the money be used for operation of the proposed Children's Home annex.

★ ★ ★

The board of trustees yesterday indicated that the money represented what it had budgeted for operation of the annex as part of the sanatorium.

The offer was made at a hearing yesterday by the Board of Supervisors' ways and means committee, which completed plans to convert the annex to handle an overflow of children from the crowded Children's Home.

A recommendation that the change be made will be placed before the Board of Supervisors Monday.

In addition, supervisors will be asked to make a $40,000 appropriation to remodel, furnish and isolate the annex from the sanatorium proper.

Isolation involves erection of a dual fence between the two buildings, construction of a new access road to the annex, and a safety door in the tunnel connecting the buildings.

An initial appropriation for the annex's operation also will be sought. In addition to the offer of $84,900, the Children's Home has said it can transfer about $44,225 from its present budget because of the decreased load at the Children's Home proper which the change would bring about.

★ ★ ★

The juvenile affairs of the Board of Supervisors estimated that it will take a total $217,000 a year to operate the annex for the children.

Chemical Industry Sets Records for Total Sales

NEW YORK (AP) — The chemical industry, which claims third place among the nation's largest manufacturing groups in terms of assets, set new records for total sales and capital investment in 1957.

Sales are estimated at $34,400,000,000, an increase of seven per cent over 1956's previous record, by the Manufacturing Chemists' Assn., which represents 90 per cent of the industry's productive capacity.

Capital investment is estimated by MCA at $1,800,000,000. This compares with $1,400,000,00 in 1956 and previous high mark of $1,600,000,000 in 1953.

How about 1958?

The trade group looks for sales in the first half of next year at about the present rate and an overall increase of five per cent for the full year. Investment in new plants and equipment will be cut back sharply, but still should exceed a billion dollars, just as it has in every year since 1945.

The profits picture in 1957 was not as rosy, however. Rising costs, chiefly labor and distribution, pared profit margins to 7.8 per cent after taxes in the first half of the year. For the corresponding period of 1956, the figure was 8.3 per cent.

Plane Crashes on Mt. Palomar

3 AF Officers Perish in Fiery Plunge Near Biggest Telescope

PALOMAR MOUNTAIN, Calif. (AP) — A fiery bomber crash in fog about a quarter-mile from the 200-inch world's biggest telescope has left three Air Force officers dead.

The six-engine B47 Stratojet plowed into this 6,000-foot peak yesterday while returning to March Air Force Base, 50 miles to the north, from a training flight.

Flames shot 100 feet high and live ammunition went off, an observatory official said.

Flying debris nicked the dome of a smaller telescope, the 48-inch Schmidt.

The victims all lived at Riverside. The Air Force gave their names and home towns as:

Maj. Tim Esmond, Austin, Tex., the plane's commander, of 15th Air Force headquarters, March AFB; Col. Frank W. Ellis, Covington, Ky., the pilot, 15th Air Force director of operations; and Capt. Frank Harradine, Alameda, Calif., flight surgeon, stationed with the 22nd Tactical Hospital, March AFB.

The plane came to rest in a pile of boulders 30 feet from the observatory power house. In that structure were Harley Marshall, observatory office manager; his son Bill; and two other men.

"The building shook like an earthquake had hit it," Marshall said. "Then we heard an explosion. I ran out and the whole place seemed engulfed in flames. They were at least 100 feet high. Live ammunition began going off, so we ducked down for a while."

None of approximately 20 persons at the observatory, including wives and children of some personnel, was injured.

Mayors Plead for Tax on Earnings or Income

EAST LANSING (AP)—Widespread sentiment for bolstering city finances through some form of local earnings tax or state-shared income tax developed at a Michigan mayors conference called by Gov. Williams.

★ ★ ★

Several of the city heads complained yesterday they are reaching the end of the revenue rope and that local residents were strong in resistance to any additional property tax load.

When the session ended, Williams said he saw little hope of relief from the 1958 Legislature, which he said probably will give first thought to saving its own financial skin.

A large state treasury deficit is foreseen by mid-1958 when the current fiscal year winds up, and legislators are not expected to vote major new taxes in an election year.

R. James Harvey, mayor of Saginaw, tied the two main threads of the conference together when he said a local income-profits tax voted in 1951, but upset in the courts, would have provided revenue relief and at the same time struck a telling blow to the fringe problem.

TECHNICALLY INVALID

The so-called Saginaw earnings tax was invalidated by the State Supreme Court on a technicality.

Harvey said that the earnings tax now offers "virtually the only alternative" to a severe fianancial pinch because the state has preempted other local revenue fields.

It has the advantages over the property tax, he said, of adjusting better to fluctuations of the economy, better reflecting ability to pay and spreading the burden of financial support more equitably, reaching "daylight citizens" who live beyond the corporate boundaries.

He said Saginaw presently faces a serious problem in attempting to bring in fringe areas through annexation.

★ ★ ★

"If that tax in 1951 would have stood up, the outside people would be crying to come in," Harvey said.

★ ★ ★

As it is, however, they fear that they would have to pay higher property taxes if annexed, and this generates resistance, he said.

CITES RISING COSTS

Finance Director Olney Craft of Flint, where a 1956 earnings tax proposal ran into legal objections, cited rising costs of city services and said they were being met with increasing difficulty.

★ ★ ★

Mayor Quincy Leslie of Cheboygan pleaded for enabling legislation to clear the way legally for a "local individual income tax."

Spokesmen for Muskegon Heights, Oak Park and Holland all directly urged a broadening of the revenue base for cities, and the matter was mentioned informally by several other officials.

Mayor David R. Calhoun of Huntington Woods and other speakers dwelt on the fringe problem and the difficulties of meeting demands for water, sewer and other services from suburban residents who don't pay their share of city government expenses.

★ ★ ★

In most cases, they agreed, changes in the state annexation laws that would strengthen the position of cities held the best hope for an answer.

Wheat Futures Take Plunge

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures, with the exception of wheat, held about steady on the Board of Trade today.

★ ★ ★

All futures started lower, extending yesterday's downturn, but some support appeared later and prices of most grains steadied.

★ ★ ★

New crop July and September deliveries of wheat started as much as a cent a bushel lower on the outlook for a huge production next year, while the nearby contracts lost fractions.

Corn was mixed in a light trade. There was some selling of the maturing December delivery against spread orders. Soybeans showed little change in early dealings with a processor selling the January. Other than that the trade was mostly mixed.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was ⅛ to ⅜ lower, Dec. $2.17; corn ⅝ lower to ⅛ higher, Dec. $1.13¾; oats unchanged to ⅛ higher, 66⅝; rye ⅛ to ⅜ lower, Dec. $1.31¾; soybean unchanged to ¼ lower, Jan. $2.25⅝; and lard was unchanged Jan. $11.70 per hundred pounds.

CD Leader Lauds Pontiac Survival Plan

Pontiac is out in front of other Michigan cities in the preparation of a state civil defense survival plan, an official of the Michigan Civil Defense Dept. said Wednesday.

"I've seen the plan," said William C. Powell, chief of field services for the department. "It's a fine plan and contains about 90 per cent of the information our workers will need in our project."

★ ★ ★

Powell was in Pontiac yesterday to brief about 70 Civil Defense officials from nine Southeastern Michigan counties on a proposed survival project plan for the entire state.

"It won't be just one of those reports for your file," Powell told the officials. "This one will save a maximum number of lives in case of enemy attack, with a minimum number of problems of rehabilitation afterwards."

"But this will only be possible with your 100 per cent cooperation," he repeated throughout the briefing.

FINANCED BY U. S.

The plan is to be financed by the Federal Civil Defense Administration (FCDA). It will provide $304,020 for the plan which, under a contract, must be completed July 1, 1958.

★ ★ ★

It will be a state-controlled operational plan "for automatic action without any guidance," designed on the belief that it might be weeks before orders come from heads of government.

"So, in case of attack, political subdivisions will not have to sit and wait wondering what to do," the state official explained.

The plan will be based on the belief that Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids and Lansing will be the primary target areas of enemy bombs or missiles.

MAJOR AIMS

Several major purposes behind the plan will be to prepare for continued operation of government, command and control, evacuation, shelter, reception and care, communications, and radiological precautions.

Whether it will be best for a city such as Detroit or Pontiac to evacuate or take shelter has not been determined as yet. Studies during preparation of the survival plan are expected to produce an answer, Powell said.

He cited reception, care and evacuation as the "big problem" facing civil defense officials in this area because of the expected flow of evacuees from Detroit and other southern Michigan cities.

COOPERATION VITAL

"If one area falls down in its duties under the plan, the whole thing falls down," the speaker emphasized.

He remarked that the weak spot in today's civil defense preparedness is the warning down to the lowest levels of government. Warnings will be an integral part of the new plan.

Looking at the overall preparedness picture, Powell criticized those who blame public apathy for not stirring more to action.

★ ★ ★

Forty-two other states now have or are preparing similar survival plans, Powell said.

DAVID SUSSKIND

Blames Filming for Dull Shows

David Susskind Sees Early Return to More Live Programs

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — An avalanche of mediocrity. Grade Z movies. A fifth-run movie theater.

★ ★ ★

That's what television has largely become, since Hollywood and other film-makers have taken over, says David Susskind.

He's head of Talent Associates, the firm that produces many top shows like the Armstrong Circle Theater and Du Pont Show of the Month. His company also created "Mr. Peepers" and the old Philco Theater.

His motto is a simple one: "Bring 'em back alive." He thinks there's nothing much wrong with TV this year that couldn't be cured by putting it back where he says it belongs—in front of a live camera.

★ ★ ★

He is, incidentally, optimistic about his motto coming true. He says already he's been approached by "at least two" advertising agencies, who are disgusted with the film shows they're stuck with and plan to drop them by the end of the year.

Susskind and his organization are even now creating live shows to take their place.

MORE BY JANUARY

"By January," he says, "there will be a good deal more live programming on television than there is now."

★ ★ ★

Why is he so dead set against film?

"It robs TV of its excitement," he says. "Perhaps the man in Dubuque doesn't honestly know if a show is live or on film—but he can tell if a show is exciting, electric, stimulating or not. He knows when a show is dull and lifeless, and a filmed show is that way. Look at the reviews."

As Susskind sees it, TV has gone to film because the film-makers advanced three arguments which were heeded by advertising agencies and sponsors:

1. Film would broaden the scope of programs, take them out of the studio and let them use on-the-spot locations. (Susskind's answer: "That's a lie—films come off a production line like so many automobiles. The producers haven't time to go on location. They use stock shots and shoot in the studio.")

★ ★ ★

2. Film would enable the star and the producers to make millions of dollars through reruns. (Susskind's answer: "Nuts. Outside of perhaps 'Dragnet' and 'I Love Lucy,' film reruns are going begging. Why should any TV station buy reruns when they can get old Grade A movies just as cheap or cheaper?")

3. Film would attract big name stars who won't do live TV. (Susskind's answer: "Stars don't mean success on TV automatically. Why the biggest film successes have involved actors who were not big names when the series started—Lucille Ball and Jack Webb were far from being top stars.")

SPECIOUS ARGUMENTS

"The three arguments," he says, "are specious. And I think advertising agencies, sponsors and even networks are coming to realize it."

He says one great trouble with film is that it can't be fixed once it's made. When a live program starts, if certain phases of it are bad they're eliminated the next week. And, if the public seems to like other angles, those are played up the next week.

On his own "Mr. Peepers," the parts that meant fame and fortune for Marion Lorne (Mrs. Gurney) and Tony Randall (Harvey Weskit) were originally minor bits. It wasn't until the public responded enthusiastically that these were built up to star proportions.

"But on film," he says, "you can't do that. Look at a sponsor who sees the first few episodes of his new film series. He doesn't like it—and he doesn't like the reviews he's getting. Right away there's a panic meeting. What'll we do? Let's change this and that, he says.

"Well, he finds out he can't. There are 10 or 12 already shot, in the can. He's stuck with them, unless he wants to shell out a lot of money and re-shoot."

GRIN AND BEAR IT

"Few sponsors feel like doing that. Instead, I think many of them this year will grin and bear it, until the stuff in the can is used up—then drop the show fast."

★ ★ ★

That's why he predicts "there will be the highest mortality rate ever this year." He thinks January will see an amazing number of new shows.

Believes Sputnik to Fall to Earth in January

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The world's first man-made satellite, Sputnik I, is due to fall to earth early in January, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory predicted yesterday.

The Soviet moon was launched Oct. 4. It is a 23-inch, 184-pound sphere.

The final stage rocket that launched Sputnik I plunged to its end Nov. 30, according to Smithsonian Director Fred L. Whipple.

Editor Sells Interest in Dearborn Independent

DEARBORN (AP) — George O. St. Charles, editor of the Dearborn Independent over the newspaper's colorful 35-year history, has sold his interest to his co-publisher, William L. Mills. St. Charles leaves the Independent at the end of this month.

★ ★ ★

No price was announced in the sale, but Mills said the weekly plans an expansion program that will change the publication date from Friday to Thursday, beginning Jan. 9.

★ ★ ★
