

State Weekend Road Toll 25

By The Associated Press
Twenty-five persons lost their lives on Michigan highways during the weekend. The Associated Press count of weekend fatalities began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight yesterday.

The victims:
Timothy Swan, 3, of Owosso, when an auto smashed into the family pickup truck which was parked in the street, and careened into the driveway where Timothy was standing with his mother and brother Saturday night. The latter were injured.

Mr. Henry Webber, 69, of St. Charles and his wife, Florence, 67, when the car in which they were riding collided with another auto yesterday afternoon at an intersection in Lakeland Township in Saginaw County.

Paul E. Rabine, 39, of Mount Clemens, when his car ran off the road and rolled on U.S. 31 in Mason County near Freesoil Township yesterday evening.

Joadele L. Bor, 29, of Hillsdale, whose auto collided with another car making a left turn off M39 in Reading Township, Hillsdale County.

Amelia H. Martin, 53, of Mount Pleasant, when the auto in which she was riding collided with another auto at the intersection of U.S. 131 and M20 in Big Rapids.

Joseph Fong, 67, of Detroit, Saturday in a Detroit hospital of injuries suffered Friday night when he was struck by a car in East Detroit.

Archie Reinhardt, 53, of Birch Run, yesterday when his car ran off Woodward Avenue in Bloomfield Hills and struck a tree.

TWO-CAR CRASH

James Shepherd, 20, of Windsor, Ont., Saturday night in a two-car crash on U.S. 23, a mile south of Linwood, Mich.

Margery Peterson, 75, of rural Leroy, a passenger in a car which collided with another auto yesterday at a U.S. 131 intersection in Osceola County, south of Cadillac.

Jerry Hardley, 25, of Grand Rapids, who died in a Grand Rapids hospital Saturday of injuries suffered earlier in the day in a two-car smashup on the U.S. 131 expressway in Grand Rapids.

Len J. Ferrell, 19; Richard M. Underwood, 16; and Paul D. Underwood, 19, all of Taylor Township, a Detroit suburb; and James Ferrey, 13, of Lincoln Park, who were killed when a car hit the rear of one in which they were riding in Taylor Township Saturday.

PLUMMETED 30 FEET

Ralph Raymo, 32, and his wife, Pat, 30; Maurice Trombley, 50, and Clifford Barhydt, all of White Cloud, killed Saturday near Morley when their car crashed through a guard rail plummeted 30 feet into the Muskegon River. They drowned.

Charles Hoyt, 68, of Pullman, killed Saturday when his bicycle swerved into the path of a car and was hit on a rural road near Pullman in Allegan County.

Ernest D. Britton, 22, of Highland Park, whose car struck a pole on a Detroit freeway exit ramp Saturday.

Dorothy Jean Denning, 41, of North Adams, Friday night when her car overturned north of Hillsdale.

FATALLY INJURED

Willerton Dotson, 22, of Detroit, fatally injured in a two-car collision in Detroit Friday night.

Michael P. Muma, 18, of Grand Rapids, Friday night when the car in which he was riding overturned in James Township, Kent County.

Vanda M. Winegarden, 68, of Muskegon, Saturday in Muskegon when she was thrown out of a car in a two-car collision and then run over.

TOMMY MANVILLE DIES — A heart attack has claimed the life of playboy Tommy Manville, 73, heir to an asbestos fortune. The 11-times-married millionaire took his first wife, a chorus girl, in 1911 when he was 17. His marriages and divorces made headlines for almost five decades. His wives are (from top) Florence Huber, Lois Meoan, Avonne Taylor, (bottom two rows, from left) Marcelle Edwards, Bonita Edwards, Wilhelmina Boze, Macie Marie Ainsworth, Georgina Campbell, Anita Frances Roddy-Eden, Patricia Gaston and Christina Erdlen. Manville died in New York. (See story, page A-2.)

Hopefuls Eying County's New Judicial Posts

By JIM LONG
Although details of establishing a district court system are far from being worked out, it appears that there won't be a lack of candidates in Oakland County for the new judicial positions.
Early indications have revealed that a number of justices of the peace, who will automatically be put out of a job Jan. 1, 1969, and some municipal judges already are eying a seat on the new bench.

In Oakland County as many as 22 new district judges will have to be elected in November 1968 to assume to a greater degree the duties of the 45 justices, and possibly the municipal judges, they will replace.

The State Legislature, convening this week for a special session, will undertake the task of coming up with a measure reorganizing the lower court system that will satisfy all concerned.

"We are faced with a very difficult situation, and the solution must be something that will be acceptable to two-thirds of each House," lamented State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford Township.

PUBLIC HEARINGS

Lodge is vice chairman of Senate Judiciary Committee, which last Friday ended in Pontiac two weeks of public hearings around the state.

Rainy, Cool Outlook

Umbrellas and topcoats will be the order of the day through tomorrow as occasional showers and cool winds are expected in the Pontiac area.

Tonight's low will fall in the 40-to-46 range.

Precipitation probabilities today, tonight and tomorrow are 30 per cent. Low temperature reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 46. By 2 p.m. the mercury inched to 49.

Continued cool weather and cloudy skies are on the agenda for Wednesday. The five-day forecast indicates that a warming trend is likely Friday or Saturday.

Dues Hike Bolsters UAW for Long Strike

DETROIT (P) — Armed with a dues increase that will pump $20 million a month into its union's strike fund, United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther says the 34-day-old strike against Ford Motor Co. could stretch into the industry's longest.

The longest automobile strike lasted 119 days in 1945-46 and was called against General Motors Corp. by the UAW to support wage demands.

It was UAW wage and fringe demands in the new contract which triggered the strike at Ford.

A special UAW convention yesterday voted an emergency increase in dues from $5 to $25 monthly for most of its 1.4 million members.

Asked at a postconvention news conference if the strike fund was being beefed up to support a General Motors strike later, Reuther replied: "It's not directed against any specific corporation, but it could include GM."

Reuther also told the news conference that "if there is no significant change in the company's attitude in the next week or 10 days, Ford Motor Co. will have made a policy decision to force a long strike."

And in that case, he said, "it might equal or exceed the one we had at General Motors."

Dem Loyalty Oath for Confab Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—Western Democrats moved today to write into their 1968 Chicago convention rules a loyalty oath pledging delegates to support the party presidential nominee.

Aimed primarily at Vietnam war critics—some of whom want to dump President Johnson—the proposed pledge also would affect civil rights dissenters in the South.

California National Committeeman Eugene L. Wyman said representatives of 13 Western states, meeting in advance of the National Committee's formal ratification of the choice of Chicago for the convention site, voted unanimously to back a loyalty oath under which individual delegates would have to give their word that they would support the ticket in the general election.

Junior Journalists Mark Week

This is National Newspaper Week and there are at least 38 persons in the Pontiac area for whom this has considerable significance.

The 38 comprise The Pontiac Press high school correspondent staff — one in each of 38 area schools.

They write articles that appear each Tuesday and Friday on the school page. Each fledgling reporter relates the most significant happenings at his or her school in genuine newspaper style.

Mrs. Jody Headlee, school page editor, is particularly proud of this community-oriented program and announced a new internship program for promising students.

Starting next summer the top two senior correspondents will be offered a summer training-employment period in the newsroom of The Press.

UNUSUAL PROGRAM

The winners will perform newspaper tasks for the summer prior to entering college.

Mrs. Headlee said this was an unusual program in that it reached down to the high school level to assist in professional newspaper training.

After four years of directing the school page, Mrs. Headlee said she has noticed "a vast increase in the ability of the high school correspondents."

Fledgling newspaper writers face deadlines and assignments, much like their professional counterparts.

FIRST CONTACT

A correspondent's first contact with The Press would come with selection by school officials, such as a principal or journalism teacher.

The beginner would then attend a fall workshop presented by Mrs. Headlee where matters of style and content would be explained. This is where the writer's first copy comes under scrutiny, and contact with the editors and photographers is established.

Columns are then filed with The Press

during the entire school year, except for the winter holiday break.

WORKSHOP WINNERS

Also announced will be winners in a summer workshop program. The workshops, for high school papers and yearbook work, are held at Michigan State University and the University of Michigan. Students in their sophomore or junior year are eligible.

Pins and special awards for performance and years of service are also presented.

Mrs. Headlee pointed out that the school page program is a basic part of The Press trainee policy. During the summer, college students in journalism are also employed.

Red Sox Hoping to Stay Alive

ST. LOUIS (P)—The weather bureau changed its outlook today and predicted clearing skies instead of overcast for the fifth critical game of the World Series.

However, the forecast called for chilly temperatures, in the lower 60s, and a westerly wind 7 to 15 miles per hour.

An earlier forecast predicted considerable cloudiness.

The St. Louis Cardinals blanked the Boston Red Sox, 6-0, yesterday to run up a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Series. A St. Louis victory today would end the Series.

Red Sox Manager Dick Williams said if his team won today, Gary Waslewski would start the sixth game in Boston.

Trial Starts for 18 in '64 Rights Deaths

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — Jury selection begins today in the trial of 18 men charged in the deaths of three civil rights workers at Philadelphia, Miss., in 1964.

A special 350-member venire was summoned to federal court. About 200 were expected to remain after routine exemptions.

The charge, strongest possible under federal law, accuses the 18 of conspiracy to violate the civil rights of Michael Schwerner, 23, and Andrew Goodman, 20, both white New Yorkers, and James E. Ray, 21, a Meridian Negro.

Maximum punishment under the 1960 Reconstruction-era law, 10 years in federal prison and a $5,000 fine. No federal charge of murder can be brought except when the deaths occur on federal property.

No state charges ever were brought in the case.

Defendants include Neshoba County Sheriff Lawrence Ray, 43, Chief Deputy Cecil Price, 28, Sheriff-Deputy Ethel Glen "Hop" Barnett, 47, all of nearby Philadelphia, and Sam Holloway Bowers Jr., 42, of Laurel, described as the imperial wizard of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox, who dismissed the charges once only to have the U.S. Supreme Court overrule him, set strict procedures for newsmen and photographers covering the trial.

Among the restrictions on newsmen is that they cannot enter or leave the courtroom except during recesses when they are ordered that photographs could not go onto the block where the courthouse is located, in the downtown post office building.

Signs on all corners tell newsmen that the area, including the sidewalk, is off limits.

John Doar, the Justice Department's chief civil rights counsel, heads the prosecution. The government had about 100 witnesses ready to testify.

Both the prosecution and the defense were armed with a background study on each prospective juror.

The government said Deputy Price arrested the three victims on a speeding charge on June 21, 1964, held them at Philadelphia about four hours, then released them where they could be seized and murdered.

The FBI dug the victims' bullet-riddled bodies from a new earthen dam on a farm about eight miles southwest of Philadelphia 44 days later.

WITNESS PROTECTED

Jordan has been whisked in and out, under FBI protection, to testify before the federal grand jury which returned the indictments.

The indictment charged all 19 with conspiring "to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate" the trio "in the exercise and enjoyment of the rights and privileges secured to them by the 14th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

"It was a part of the plan and purpose of the conspiracy that Deputy Price while having the trio in the Neshoba County jail would release them from custody at such time that he, Price, Jimmy Arledge, Horace Doyle Barnett, Travis Maryn Barnett, Alton Wayne Roberts, Jimmy Snowdon, Billy Ray Posey and Jerry McGrew Sharpe could and would intercept, Schwerner, Chaney and Goodman upon their leaving the area of the Neshoba County jail, and threaten, assault, shoot and kill them," the indictment said.

Others named included: Bernard L. Akin, Olen L. Burrage, James T. Harris, Frank J. Herndon, Edgar Ray Killen, Herman Tucker and Richard Andrew Willis.

ELMER H. REYNOLDS

Death Claims City Retailer

One of Pontiac's pioneer businessmen, Elmer H. Reynolds, died yesterday at the age of 85.

Mr. Reynolds was co-owner with his son of the Pontiac Glass Co., 23 W. Lawrence, one of the city's oldest downtown businesses. The company, founded in 1900, was the original glass retailer and glazing contractor in Pontiac and Oakland County.

A Pontiac businessman for 50 years, he served on the Salvation Army's Board of Directors for 42 years before his death. Reynolds was honored for his service last April.

He was also a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Pontiac, Exchange Club, the board of trustees of Clinton Valley Boy Scouts and the old Oakland Motor Car Co. band where he was drum major.

Service for Reynolds, 21 Elizabeth Lake, will be 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at Donelson Jones Funeral Home with burial at Oak Hill Cemetery.

SURVIVORS

Surviving are his son, Gordon E. Reynolds of Pontiac; one sister, and one grandson.

The family requests that memorials be made to the William H. Marbach Memorial Fund of the First Presbyterian Church or to the Salvation Army.

Birmingham Area News

Hearing Slated Tonight on Ann Street Relocation

BIRMINGHAM — A proposed route Ann Street around this last section in order to have the relocation of Ann Street between Land and Lincoln has been strongly opposed by several property owners, and a hearing on the matter will be held tonight at 8 p.m. in the commission room of the Municipal Building.

The relocation is proposed by Charles Patterson having business property facing on Woodward as well as property just across the east side of Ann Street. Patterson wants to re-terminate at Birmingham.

The objections charge that Patterson would be the only benefactor of the relocation.

At the City Commission meeting tonight Birmingham residents will hear the announcement of a Michigan Public Service Commission hearing regarding the continuance of a Detroit-Pontiac Grand Trunk commuter train begun on a trial basis last April and the addition of four new trains to terminate at Birmingham.

The hearing is set for Friday in the Detroit County of Appeals, 900 First Federal Savings and Loan Association Building, Detroit.

ADDITIONS PETITIONED

The railroad is petitioning to add four trains leaving Detroit at 8 a.m. and 2 p.m., and leaving Birmingham at 9 a.m. and 2:40 p.m. These are planned speedup trains to prevent commuters from going faster than 80 or 90 miles per hour.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal highway safety chief, who suggested that automobiles be built in the future with speed governors to prevent them from going faster than 80 or 90 miles per hour.

Haddon, who administers federal auto safety standards, said a built-in speed governor "would have considerable safety payoff, particularly in those cars where a bunch of kids who were either jayriding or trying to get away from police either kill themselves or someone else."

In a copyrighted interview with U.S. News and World Report, Haddon said it was technically possible to equip a car so that it would perform normally up to very close to the speed limit built into the car.

"The technology would be similar to that now widely used in controls available as an option on some models that drivers use to set and sustain high way speeds," he said.

Haddon said he could see no reason why passenger cars should be designed to run at speeds far in excess of any legal speed limit in any part of the country.

NOT MATURE

"A foreign manufacturer recently bragged that his car would do 170 miles an hour. I do not regard that as a mature behavior on anyone's part, driver or manufacturer," Haddon said.

Other safety features the government some day may require for all automobiles built in the United States, include roofs which will not collapse when a car rolls over, taillights of a different color than brake lights, auto seats for infants, headrests to prevent "whiplash" injuries, and more padding on the inside of cars, he said.

Eventually, he predicted, cars will be made so safe that death or serious injury would be averted at speeds of less than 50 miles per hour.

U.S. Envoy Leaving Ecuador Under Fire

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Wymberley DeLoach prepared to leave Ecuador today after the Ecuadorian government requested his withdrawal for what it called "publicly and openly criticizing" President Otto Arosemena Gomez.

Ecuador's complaint was over a speech in which Coerr, 54, defended the Alliance for Progress and called it a success in Ecuador. Arosemena had criticized the American program in a speech two weeks ago.

Coerr, a career minister and member of the Foreign Service since 1939, spoke Friday at the American School in Guayaquil, Ecuador, to leave Washington Saturday to have him out of the country by tonight.

Coerr, a career minister and member of the Foreign Service since 1939, spoke Friday at the American School in Guayaquil, Ecuador, to leave Washington Saturday to have him out of the country by tonight.

REQUEST 'UNJUSTIFIED'

The U.S. State Department said that sudden departure made it impossible for him to say good-bye to "my colleagues and good Ecuadorian friends."

Coerr's speech did not name the Ecuadorian president but it did quote a number of remarks made by Arosemena as published in Ecuador's newspapers.

Arosemena had complained about high interest rates for loans, high costs for materials that had to be bought in the United States and the cost of the services of U.S. technicians under the Alliance for Progress.

In his speech, Coerr said interest rates were 1 per cent in the first year and 2.5 per cent thereafter. He said that of the total of $216 million in alliance loans to Ecuador, only $26.5 million had to be spent in the United States and only half of 1 per cent was needed to pay U.S. technicians.

DR. HAROLD SPONBERG

2 PAUF Units Start Drives Wednesday

The commercial and manufacturing divisions of the Pontiac Area United Fund will kick off Wednesday, with a noon luncheon at the Elks Temple, 114 Orchard Lake. The total goal of the two divisions is $323,969.

Some 400 commercial and manufacturing solicitors will hear the feature speaker, Dr. Harold E. Sponberg, president of Eastern Michigan University.

Dr. Sponberg, a national orator, writer and an author, has been active in civic work since 1952, when he received his doctor's degree in philosophy at Michigan State University.

Daniel T. Murphy, commercial division chairman, will be master of ceremonies at the luncheon which is sponsored by local business firms.

Under the leadership of the manufacturing division chairman, Wallace B. Schroff, are vice chairmen Joseph Fitzgerald, Henry Gohar, Fred Robertson, T. Gordon Scuphohn and Wayne Michelson.

Vice chairmen appointed by Murphy for the commercial division are: George Slout, chapter plans; Richard Fitzgerald, small teams; John Pagen, education; John Witherspoon, professional.

This year's total United Fund goal is $1,130,000 which will help operate 55 local, state and national agencies.

4 Motorcyclists Shot, 25 Arrested at Party

YPSILANTI (AP) — Four motorcyclists, including one woman, were shot and wounded Sunday night in a gun battle which climaxed an all-day party of several motorcycle clubs.

Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas Harvey said 25 persons were arrested at the scene of the shoot out, an abandoned farm about four miles north of Ypsilanti. Eight women and two juveniles were among those arrested. Their ages ranged from 16 to 35, he said.

Charges of felonious assault were expected to be filed against several of them, police said. Sheriff's deputies, Michigan State Police and Ypsilanti police converged on the scene after three men rushed up to two city patrolmen at a drive-in restaurant and shouted, "They're shooting. Three are shot already. We need some help."

When officers arrived, shots rang out from the farmhouse. Police returned the fire, then threw a spotlight beam on the house and ordered the people out.

"We'll come out if we're sure you're police," a voice came from inside. "Show us the gum ball scout car roof light."

A red light was flashed, and the motorcycleists came out. The wounded were found in a nearby barn, which apparently had been the target of gunfire from the house before police arrived. They included a woman whose leg was shattered by a shotgun blast.

U.S. Jets Hit N. Viet Airstrip

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy fighter-bombers struck a North Vietnamese MIG airstrip near Haiphong Sunday, the sixth in a series of raids on the installation hit in five straight days of raids on targets ordered by the Pentagon as out of bounds of U.S. warplanes. The strike that dug wide craters into the French-built jet strip at Cat Bi left untouched only two bases in the North capable of launching MIG interceptors.

In the ground war, an American platoon fought out of a surrounded position in rainforest jungles and Communist mortars poured fire on the major U.S. Navy base in the Mekong Delta.

Nearby in the delta, a 50-year-old Buddhist nun burned herself to death, a Saigon newspaper said, the second suicide by fire in a week during the intense military Buddhist protests to force the government to abandon a charter recognizing a moderate faction in the church.

The Cat Bi strike damaged a Soviet-built liaison plane, but the U.S. Command said the carrier-based jets found no MIGs on the ground as they flew in "virtually unopposed."

MONSOON RAINS

The raid was part of a maximum U.S. effort to cripple the North before the monsoon rains start this month and cut flying time by as much as 75 per cent. Since Wednesday, U.S. planes have also hit three bridges on supply routes from Red China and two fuel dumps, all previously barred as too sensitive to attack.

The two major MIG bases still on the forbidden list are the Gia Lam installation and the big Phuc Yen base, which houses the North Vietnamese air force's major operations center and serves as headquarters for the air defense command. Both are near Hanoi.

Fire Hits Bar-Hotel in Waterford Twp.

A fire which led to an estimated $3,000 to $4,000 loss at Jayson's, Dixie Highway at Hatchery is being investigated today by the Waterford Township fire marshal.

Firemen were called to the combination bar-restaurant and hotel about 7 p.m. yesterday. The blaze is believed to have started in a linen closet of the bar, which is closed on Sunday.

Jay Beres, the owner, said fire damage was not severe, but water and smoke damage contributed to his estimate of the loss.

Manville Dies; Had 11 Wives

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy Manville, playboy of the Roaring '20s and Depression '30s whose marriages and monetary settlements made headlines for almost five decades, died yesterday of a heart attack. He was 73.

With him at the end was his 11th and last wife, the former Christina Erdren, 26, at their home in Westchester County residence in Chappaqua, some 30 miles north of Manhattan.

Manville took his first wife, a chorus girl, in 1911 when he was 17, and his last in 1960. He remarried twice, was divorced 10 times, and widowed once.

He was heir to a $10-million asbestos fortune, and his divorce settlements cost him in the neighborhood of $1.5 million.

"Marrying Manville" was no misnomer for the son of the founder and chairman of the Johns-Manville Corp.

PENCHANT FOR SHOWGIRLS

He had a decided, and oft-announced, penchant for showgirls, squiring dozens and marrying five of them.

For his settlements, the tireless man-about-town remarked, "Manville is not cheap. At least I keep my money in circulation."

He spent other millions maintaining what he called his "honey-moon cottage," a luxurious estate in New Rochelle called Bon Repos-Good Rest. He sold it in 1955.

He often said that, in addition to the millions his father left him, he had "lots of shares" of Johns-Manville, and added: "That's where I got most of my dough."

Girl, 3, Hurt as Shotgun Is Fired at Home

A 3-year-old girl was injured by a shotgun blast fired through the front door of her home early yesterday, it was reported to Pontiac police.

Investigators said Tina Tover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Tover of 259 S. Anderson, shot and fired a head wound when someone shot into the house from outside about 2 a.m.

She is reported in satisfactory condition in Pontiac General Hospital.

Trimi Rodriguez, 16, of Utica told police he was holding the child in his lap when the shot smashed through the front door window, wounding Tina and showering glass around them both.

He suffered superficial cuts, officers said.

Police, who are continuing an investigation, said they could not determine how the assailant fled the scene.

Firemen Begin Safety Drive

The Pontiac Fire Department is launching a year-round campaign for fire safety in conjunction with the start of National Fire Prevention Week today.

Officials described the continual program as a concentrated effort to teach fire prevention principles.

Firemen will visit city elementary schools during the week, showing a film to students and delivering a talk, according to Fire Chief Charles Marion.

The same type of program will be available to civic groups and other schools throughout the year.

As part of the same policy, which Marion said is aimed at "making the public more fire safety conscious," voluntary home inspections by firemen will be initiated in the coming months.

"This way we get the younger set more interested in fire prevention and we also give the parents the opportunity to have their homes checked for possible trouble areas," Marion said.

Autopsy Set in Fatal Crash

Archie Reinhardt, 63, of Birch Run was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital following a one-car accident on Woodward north of Lone Pine at 5:15 p.m. yesterday.

According to Bloomfield Hills police, witnesses said Reinhardt, who was northbound on Woodward, slumped at the wheel, and his car went off the road and struck a tree.

An autopsy is being performed to determine if he might have suffered a heart attack.

British Mourn Former Leader

LONDON (AP) — The ashes of Clement Attlee, father of the British welfare state will be placed in Westminster Abbey, burial place of the nation's sovereigns and statesmen.

Attlee, prime minister from 1945 to 1955, died yesterday in a London hospital after a long illness. He was 84.

Tributes continued to pour in from all over the world today.

The Queen said Attlee "made an enduring place for himself in the history of our country and the Commonwealth. In war and peace he served his sovereigns well."

MIXED FEELINGS

Verne C. Boewe, a municipal judge in Warren and president of the Michigan Municipal Judges Association, said that this would be the case as far as he was concerned.

"There are mixed feelings among members of the association, and we have passed no resolution in connection with the matter," said Boewe.

"Generally a judge in a large city that could comprise one election district believes he is assured election," Boewe explained. "It's a different story up north where one district may take in several counties and any number of municipalities."

Waterford Township Justice of Peace Kenneth Hempstead, expressing a desire to be a candidate, recommended that the committee change its earlier proposal to allow judges' offices to use the word incumbent on the ballot.

Firemen Begin Safety Drive

The Pontiac Fire Department is launching a year-round campaign for fire safety in conjunction with the start of National Fire Prevention Week today.

Officials described the continual program as a concentrated effort to teach fire prevention principles.

Firemen will visit city elementary schools during the week, showing a film to students and delivering a talk, according to Fire Chief Charles Marion.

The same type of program will be available to civic groups and other schools throughout the year.

As part of the same policy, which Marion said is aimed at "making the public more fire safety conscious," voluntary home inspections by firemen will be initiated in the coming months.

"This way we get the younger set more interested in fire prevention and we also give the parents the opportunity to have their homes checked for possible trouble areas," Marion said.

Autopsy Set in Fatal Crash

Archie Reinhardt, 63, of Birch Run was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital following a one-car accident on Woodward north of Lone Pine at 5:15 p.m. yesterday.

According to Bloomfield Hills police, witnesses said Reinhardt, who was northbound on Woodward, slumped at the wheel, and his car went off the road and struck a tree.

An autopsy is being performed to determine if he might have suffered a heart attack.

Fire Hits Bar-Hotel in Waterford Twp.

A fire which led to an estimated $3,000 to $4,000 loss at Jayson's, Dixie Highway at Hatchery is being investigated today by the Waterford Township fire marshal.

Firemen were called to the combination bar-restaurant and hotel about 7 p.m. yesterday. The blaze is believed to have started in a linen closet of the bar, which is closed on Sunday.

Jay Beres, the owner, said fire damage was not severe, but water and smoke damage contributed to his estimate of the loss.

Several tenants living above the bar left the building when they smelled smoke. No one was injured.

Rapid expansion of such new techniques of learning are vital, told an International Convention Johnson said, if educators hope on the World Crisis in Education to "train a young man's eyes to Sunday night, 'man has spent absorb learning as quickly as literally trillions of dollars on we can train his finger to pull a the machinery of death and trigger."

The ultimate question, he said, is "how to shape a world disease which come with war," in which men employ their minds in projects of peace—instead of sacrificing their bodies on the field of battle."

He told the 200 educators from 54 nations the world must face the shocking contrast of the fact that in an era of unparalleled affluence "most people end their lives unable to write 'cat' or 'dog'."

S. Viet Bans Magazine Issue

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government has banned an issue of Newsweek magazine for an article that the military regime says "constitutes a deliberate and extremely grave offense against the armed forces of the Republic of Vietnam."

The order, which does not affect copies sold in official American establishments, came after most of the 2,000 copies of the Oct. 9 issue received here were sold. Newsweek's article criticizing the army was titled, "Their Lions, Our Rabbits."

A government communiqué conceded that the South Vietnamese armed forces could be improved but said "freedom cannot condone press sensationalism at the expense of men who fight and die on the battlefield."

Solution to Oxford-Lake Orion Disposal Problem?

Paint Creek Sewer Interceptor Proposed

By JEAN SAILE

A new leg for the proposed Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor?

In the eyes of one area engineering firm, an immediate addition is "the logical long-range solution to the sewage disposal problem of the (Oxford-Lake Orion) area."

A detailed study of the proposed new leg — the Paint Creek Interceptor — has been forwarded to the Oakland County Department of Public Works for study and possible action.

Prepared by the Waterford Township engineering firm of Johnson and Anderson, Inc., the report was made on the combined request of the township and village of Oxford.

It advises that immediate steps be taken to secure capacity in the Clinton-Oakland Sewer and that application be made for federal planning assistance.

Asked to study three means of sewage disposal, engineers have opted for the interceptor over a purely local solution or one designed to also include the village of Lake Orion and Orion Township.

"An interim solution by one or more communities which excludes any part of the area will stunt the excluded communities' growth and will not give adequate pollution protection to the area," reads the report.

As suggested, the new interceptor would hook onto the proposed Paint Creek Arm of the Clinton-Oakland interceptor north of Rochester in Avon township.

It would proceed northwesterly along Paint Creek through Oakland and Orion townships to Lake Orion then westerly and north to connect with the planned location of the Oxford arm of the interceptor along Draher.

Johnson and Anderson, Inc., have recommended that it be built to accommodate the population of the area in the year 2000.

A 42,000 population by the year 2000 in the Oxford-Orion area is foreseen as opposed to the current 12,600. However, engineers have plotted an ultimate population for the area at 215,000 people.

Constructed to meet the needs of the year 2000, the cost of the interceptor is plotted roughly at $3,447,888. This sum does not include the necessary right-of-way purchases.

If it were to be built for the ultimate needs of the area, Johnson and Anderson, Inc., figures the cost would run $7,056,812.

The main interceptor — the Clinton-Oakland — is currently waiting approval to sell $16.9 million in bonds and a contract with the Detroit Water Board is being drawn up by the Oakland County Department of Public Works. Acquisition of easements is continuing.

It will empty through the Macomb County Interceptor now in the process of preparing construction to Detroit treatment facilities.

It has been the aim of Oakland County planners to build the northerly Paint Creek arm in about 10 to 20 years, after the Clinton-Oakland was functioning. Hard-pressed by citations from the State Water Resources Commission in regard to pollution of Paint Creek and area lakes and nudged by an ever-expanding population, the northerly communities are faced with the need to find a sewage solution immediately.

The disposal of sewage upstream from Lake Orion and the interconnected lakes is extremely difficult, according to the engineering report, since there is no continuing stream flow to which treated waste may be discharged.

For that reason two other solutions were studied for the Oxford area. They included the lagoon system with disposal by spray irrigation and the lagoon system with disposal into Paint Creek.

The large amounts of land needed for such operations were counted against the feasibility of their use. The further method of discharging effluence into Paint Creek would call for further refinement of the sewage than is possible in a lagoon system, engineers reported.

160 ACRES NEEDED

In combining its study with Lake Orion, the engineers found that 160 acres would be required for a holding pond and treatment plant.

A report of high operational costs due to the need for chemical treatment for nutrient removal and the estimate of a 24,000 to 26,000 population as the maximum which would be served and still not pollute Paint Creek has caused the latter solution to be rejected in favor of the interceptor.

While the details of financing the solutions were not made a part of the report, it was noted that an Oxford village and township treatment facility would run about $1,430,164 at an annual cost of $129,000.

The combined Oxford-Orion system was pegged at $3,496,341 with a total annual cost to the four communities of $294,000.

INTERCEPTOR COSTS

The interceptor, designed for the year 2000, estimated at $3,447,888 would cost the participating communities $224,000 a year.

The Paint Creek Interceptor, if constructed, would pass through Oakland Township and would be available to them for possible service.

Johnson and Anderson report that the extent of the latter's needs has not been determined at this time.

The report continues, "It can be assumed, however, that Oakland Township participation would be to the mutual advantage of all concerned since additional capacity can be provided at little or no cost."

It concludes, "We have not stressed the advantages to the village of Lake Orion and the township of Orion. However, we believe that the problem of sewage disposal is area wide and that individual community disposal systems can only be stop-gap measures which must eventually be abandoned in favor of an areawide solution."

Fire Chief Takes $11,200 Salary in Shelby Twp.

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Fire Chief Clyde Schmidt has accepted a salary of $11,200 retroactive to July 1. Twice last week he asked for $12,000 and the Township Board refused.

The fire chief said he wasn't satisfied with the offer but had no further comment.

The $11,200 offer was made by the board at a special meeting last Monday night and again at the regular meeting on Tuesday.

Both times Schmidt flatly rejected the offer claiming that the traditional salary is based on a 50 per cent increase over the lowest firemen's pay, which is $8,000.

Township Supervisor Kirby Holmes was the only board member voting against, even the $11,200 pay which gave Schmidt a $1,200 increase over his present salary.

MAKES COMPARISON

Holmes argued that Schmidt shouldn't get the $12,000 because he only has 17 men under him while the Warren Police Chief with 167 men gets $12,732.

Schmidt's acceptance will probably reflect the salary of Police Chief Robert W. Smith who has also asked for $12,000.

Action was delayed on Smith's raise since the police budget isn't set yet whereas the fire budget is.

Schmidt's new salary is a 12 per cent hike compared to an average of 15 per cent for the men under him.

He has been fire chief for 10 years and is the president of the Southeastern Michigan Association of Fire Chiefs.

UP FROM ASHES—An attractive mansard-roofed cedar shingle building has risen from the burned-out area on Oxford's Washington Street. Now occupied by Acheson Jewelers, the new building will be host to a grand opening this weekend.

Oxford Business Battles Back

OXFORD — What local businessmen can do without outside help has been amply demonstrated here.

Faced in January 1966 with a $250,000 fire which destroyed two stores and damaged a third along Washington Street, the localities saw the area sit in disrepair until last January.

At that time four men, Francis Baldwin, owner of the Party Shop, Gerald Olrich of the Oxford Lumber and Coal

Co., Dr. Rodman Jacobi and William Matus, executive director of Camp Oakland, decided to do something about it.

They purchased the property at 28 S. Washington and have succeeded in erecting a mail-type cedar shingle building containing a total of 7,200 feet of floor space.

A sewer problem was solved with the construction of septic tanks under the mall.

Acheson Jewelers has moved into the front lower half of the building and the Oxford Board of Education has signified it will occupy the top floor beginning Nov. 1. The rear of the first floor, abutting the mall, remains unoccupied.

Acheson Jewelers is looking forward to its grand opening in the new location Friday and Saturday.

An Oxford establishment since 1928, the jewelers have relocated from their previous address six doors north of the new building.

A remodeling job in the third store adjacent to the new building has provided a furniture outlet for the Gamble Store, whose headquarters remain across the street.

Deadline Nov. 7 in Avon's Charter Commission Race

AVON TOWNSHIP — Would-be city charter commission members for the proposed city of Avon have until 4 p.m. Nov. 7 to file petitions with the county clerk's office.

Township Clerk Mrs. Thelma Spencer said such petitions must bear 20 signatures of registered voters and be accompanied by an affidavit of identity. Papers are available at the township office.

The names will be on the ballot with the question of incorporation for the township in the Jan. 15 election.

Mrs. Spencer said the last date for registration to vote in the election is Dec. 15.

Keith PTA to Meet

The Parent Teacher Association of Keith Elementary School, 2800 Keith, West Bloomfield Township, will hold open house and its first business meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. A film on the Helping Hand Program will be shown.

Novi Councilman: Decision on Quitting to Be Surprise

NOVI — Councilman Joseph Crupi, the village's former president for some six years, said his decision on whether to resign from the council "will be a surprise."

He said he had no further comment.

While angrily opposing recent council approval of a method to levy sewer fees, Crupi had said he would resign.

However, Crupi's resignation isn't effective until he submits it in a registered letter to the village clerk and the council acts upon it, said Village Manager Harold Ackley.

"The village office has neither heard from nor seen Crupi since the Oct. 2 council meeting," Ackley reported.

AMENDMENT APPROVED

The other four councilmen unanimously approved Oct. 2 an ordinance amendment, for a graduated sewer availability connection fee.

The original ordinance had set up a uniform $300 fee per property owner.

After the resolution was made to accept the amendment, Crupi called the council "stupid" and walked out, recalled Ackley.

Crupi had criticized Village Attorney Howard I. Bond's wording of the amendment.

'VERY CAPABLE'

"Mr. Bond is very capable of preparing ordinances," Ackley asserted.

Crupi also objected to "the failure of the council to uniformly apply the original ordinance."

"Some people had to pay and others did not in substantially the same situations," he said.

There is much more to these objections, which "would take several hours to explain," Crupi said.

2-YEAR CONTROVERSY

Ackley said that this controversy has been brewing for two years. "It is the problem over the method of levying sewer charges for residents not in a special assessment district," explained the village manager.

Property owners served by sewers in a special assessment district have already paid their share for the sewers, said attorney Bond.

The $300 uniform fee was set in April 1965 after the Michigan Supreme Court ruled that special assessments couldn't be levied for sewer mains already in the ground, said Ackley.

Residents outside a district can hook into the mains financed by the special assessment.

However, the previously uniform fee does not allow for sewer installation cost differences due to varying land conditions and nearness to interceptors, explained Ackley.

The council will use special assessment levies — which reflect the varying costs — as a guide in determining the graduated fee, said Ackley.

The specific guide would be the levy in the assessment district nearest the property owner who is going to be billed, said Ackley.

Bond estimates that the new fee will begin at $300 per property owner. He said that the highest special assessment district in the village has an assessment of $2,200 per property owner.

The new method of assessing persons outside a district should "equalize fees in that particular area," said the attorney.

Different areas can't help but have different tap-in fees to the main interceptor, Bond said. These fees are included in a special assessment.

Home owners can pay the fee to be set by the council at once or over several years. Businesses must pay the total fee at once, said Bond.

Sesquicentennial Fete Ends in Utica

UTICA — The city wound up its week-long Sesquicentennial Celebration yesterday with a huge 175-unit parade down Cass and Auburn. It was viewed by some 10,000 area residents, whose enthusiasm remained undampened by a cloudburst.

Sesqui Chairman Jerome Donahue issued his thanks from the committee to everyone who participated and gave their time to the celebration.

"We are very pleased with the overall result — the cooperation was great, and we think the activities helped weld the community together. The weather was great all week, too, except for a little rain yesterday."

Yesterday's parade at 2:30 p.m. was marshaled by Congressman James O'Hara and leading off was the new Adlai Stevenson High School band in its first public appearance.

Mayor Fred Beck and city councilmen appeared in a horse-drawn wagon.

Sesqui Queen Mrs. Dorothy Kaiser and her court rode in one of many floats entered by schools, churches and clubs. Antique cars, fire trucks, many bands and clowns made up some of the other entries.

Farmer's Almanac Seer Sees Snow

DUBLIN, N. H. (UPI) — Venerable forecaster Abe Weatherwise predicts a "whopper" of a white Christmas followed by a leap year only skiers will love.

Couched between yellow covers in the pocket-sized 176th edition of the old Farmer's Almanac, the 1968 predictions of old but able Abe include a hurricane for New England in mid-September that "may come in from the Carolinas."

Nonbelievers take note:

Abe predicted last January's big blizzard in the Midwest and the summer deluge which ended the drought in the East.

Abe's predictions for 1968, which also includes the winter of 1967, are not encouraging.

He envisages a "major coastal storm" this November while the last week of December "will keep a lot of people home for Christmas." The new year will experience snow until April and a cool August with bad storms.

NOTE OF OPTIMISM

But there is one note of optimism. Abe suggests holidays be taken in July because it "will be the best month for vacations."

Having proven himself a success with New England weather predictions for well 'nigh over a century, for the second consecutive year Abe has extended his forecast to cover eight climatic regions of the country.

He predicts two heavy snow storms for the Midwest early in the year, "a dangerous storm of rain and wind" for the East except New England in mid-April, heavy rainfall in mid-April, heavy rain-fall in late August for the Great Plains and May rain-storms in the Pacific Northwest.

In the South, "it looks as if both Florida and Texas will be hit with hurricanes this year (1968) at least once." Tornadoes are predicted for early March and April.

The 148 - page, 50 - cent weather bible contains more than the nuances of sun, wind and water, however.

While sitting under a tree on one of the sunnier days of the year, there is an opportunity to leaf through Edgar Allen Poe's "The Raven," complete with woodcuts.

Or, if in a different mood, there is always the "origin of the shrunken head" to which to turn, or a table about the proper time to mate the cow, female buffalo, the boar or the stallion, etc.

Mishap Is Fatal

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Peter Marcum, 24, of Detroit died Sunday when his car went out of control and overturned into a canal in a remote section of South Florida's Everglades, the Florida State Highway Patrol reported.

In 1960, 29 per cent or 487,000 persons in Detroit were Negroes. At present, 33 per cent of the total population are Negroes.

Air Travel Has Come a Long Way

By DICK KLEINER
LOS ANGELES (NEA)—Coast to coast commercial air service is 40 years old this year and it has come a long way in just four decades. Hardly anybody has to wear a parachute and hold a mail bag on his lap any more.

In these days of champagne and lobster and miniskirted stewardesses, a flight from one coast to the other is pleasant and commonplace. But in 1927 it was a rather uncomfortable adventure.

Nonstop? That first passenger, whose name is lost forever, made 15 stops between New York and San Francisco. The time for the trip — a zippy 32½ hours.

There was, of course, no airline which had that flight on its timetable. In those days, the few commercial carriers were more interested in transporting mail than people; there was more money in it.

But in July of 1927 Boeing Air Transport began regular service from San Francisco to Chicago, using a plane called the Boeing 40-A which had room for two passengers. The fare was $204. The time was 22½ hours.

ROOM FOR ONE

Then, in September, National Air Transport got a contract to carry mail between New York and Chicago. They had a fleet of ten Douglas M-4 biplanes which had room for one passenger in and among the mail bags. They charged $200 for the trip, coast-to-coast travel was then possible.

Tickets on both lines were sold with the understanding that if the plane became overloaded with mail, the passenger would be bumped. The passengers were provided with flying suits, helmets, goggles and parachutes—but nothing to eat. It was recommended that the traveler invest in a sack lunch.

National and Boeing, together with two other airlines, joined forces in 1934 and became United Air Lines. From then on, air travel gradually grew into the may-

AIRLINER OF THE DAY — Back in 1930, the Boeing Monomail carried six passengers in a cabin forward of the pilot's open cockpit. This was an improvement over the 1927 Boeing which carried two passengers who were likely to be bumped by the mail, but nobody could guess how far the airlines would continue to progress.

From New York, the stops were: Bellefonte, Pa.; Bryan, Ohio; Cleveland, Chicago (to change planes), Iowa City, Des Moines, Omaha, North Platte, Cheyenne, Rock Springs, Wyo., Salt Lake City, Elko, Nev.; Reno, Sacramento, Oakland and, finally, San Francisco.

Sometimes, in those pioneering days, the plane wouldn't work or the mail load was so heavy the passenger was positively eliminated. The airlines had a policy about this. They would take the passenger to the railroad station, see that he got stave off thirst, for this was a long trip.

Weather, too, delayed the flights frequently. Very few passengers made the trip in the advertised 32½ hours. But thing improved rapidly and, by 1931, flying was luxurious. Note the words of this description of flight then:

"The enclosed cabin with its wicker chairs and sliding windows for proper ventilation is very comfortable. The fact that the cabin is enclosed makes conversation possible in an ordinary tone of voice."

From there, it's only a step to the coffee-tea-or-milk paradise that is air travel today.

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting recital are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

THE 'THIN' DEFENSE

The limited antimissile system with a $5-billion price tag proposed by Defense Secretary McNamara would be capable of countering an expected Communist Chinese threat by the early 1970s but not a massive Soviet attack. The plan calls for a radar network (1) to detect incoming hostile missiles while still several hundred miles from the U.S. coast. Spartan missiles would be launched to intercept the target by Sprint defensive missiles (3). It would take a $40-billion system to block much more numerous Soviet missiles soon to be equipped with multiple warheads. One big missile would be capable of launching a cluster of nuclear warheads (4) at widely scattered targets.

U.S. Plans 'N-Shower' Missile

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is planning to build and deploy over the next few years a new type of offensive missile that would be able to shower down nuclear warheads on several targets at once.

The Pentagon gradually is taking the wraps off the plan, a major development in nuclear warfare.

It would be an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) that would separate into numerous public record used the official warheads, all of which would strike targets that could be several hundred miles apart.

One missile, therefore, could strike several cities at once.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told a United Press International editors conference at San Francisco earlier this month that in the future "many multiple warheads."

MIRV is strategically important in two ways:

• It is intended to make it much more difficult for a Soviet antiballistic missile system (ABM) to shoot down a significant number of warheads, even assuming Russia goes ahead with a "heavy" ABM deployment.

He confirmed what has long been known unofficially, that the United States is buying MIRV for its Minuteman III missiles, soon to be added to the ICBM that in the 1970s will replace Polaris missiles on submarines.

MIRV is strategically important in two ways:

• It is intended to make it much more difficult for a Soviet antiballistic missile system (ABM) to shoot down a significant number of warheads, even assuming Russia goes ahead with a "heavy" ABM deployment.

• It is designed to do a better job of putting the right number of megatons on a given target. If a target can be destroyed with one megaton, little is gained by using 20. In Defense Department figuring, five separate megaton blasts may accomplish the destruction of one 20-megaton bomb.

A total of 8,500 licensed physicians was added to the United States medical profession in 1966, bringing the number of physicians in the nation to 300,376.

Oakland County Airport Seen Bursting Its Seams

It seems as though the future of Oakland County's airport can be almost limitless. Progress in air travel on all levels beggars description. The volume today is tenfold over what it was not too long ago; and the future is — Who knows? But see what forecast at all? Who can forecast at all?

reactivated and re-done on much more ample lines. Today both are inadequate. Newark helps—but it's insufficient. Southeastern Michigan is working into the same spot. Willow Run solved the problem originally but it was too far out to be practical; and Metropolitan was opened. Big, sprawling and handsome it was supposed to handle the problem indefinitely. But those days are gone.

The Odd Couple! David Lawrence Says:

Fund Stalemate Is Unparalleled

WASHINGTON — An unprecedented situation in American history has developed between the President and the Congress. It emphasizes a significant weakness in the existing system of government. For, despite the fact that the President's own party has a big majority in both the Senate and the House, the executive has been unable to obtain by vote of the national legislative body the funds he deems necessary for the welfare of the country.

Congress today has worked out a program for which it can be held responsible at the polls. Each side is guessing what is "popular" and what the people's reaction will be in November 1968 if prices have skyrocketed and the purchasing power of the dollar has been further curtailed.

Rights and Freedoms . . .

speech and the rights of open assembly. How about the rights of everyone else? America is full of people who would just love to see loudmouthed radicals tossed in the housegown. Don't the President and the public have their own rights and their own freedom?

Astounding Comparison . . .

Just recently The Chicago Tribune computed the cost of a phone call from there to Los Angeles and compared it with the postal rates since 1932.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter: Bookies have taken a horrible beating the last two or three weeks in football results. In the light of all the violence we've seen, high circles are worried over the safety of presidential candidates one year hence.

Junior Editors Quiz on RADIOCARBON

QUESTION: How can scientists use radiocarbon to date ancient things?

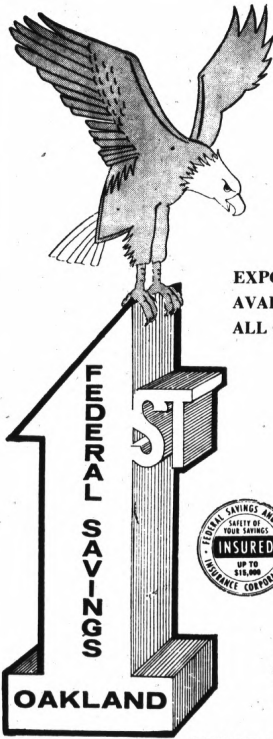

ANSWER: Atomic particles called cosmic rays continuously decay at once, sending out disintegration rays—this also smash certain atoms, causing them to change to radiocarbon. Every living thing takes in this radiocarbon, which starts to decay at once, sending out disintegration rays—this is radioactivity.

While plants and animals are alive, the loss caused by radioactivity is replaced by the intake of more radiocarbon. But when they die, no more radiocarbon comes in; disintegration rays, however, still go out, at a definite, known rate.

A man, while living, gives off 918 disintegration rays every hour for each gram of radiocarbon his body contains. Now, assume he dies. After 5,800 years, a gram of radiocarbon from his skull would be giving out 659 rays an hour; after 11,000 years, 229 rays and after 44,000 years, about 3 rays an hour.

Using a Geiger counter, it is possible to count the rays being emitted. So if we find 3 rays an hour per gram coming from a human skull; we know it is 44,000 years old.

Before testing, however, a scientist must reduce a sample of the object being tested to pure carbon; it is from this that the test is made.

Checks and plaids: very fashionable, very right, and handsomely expressed by Eagle in an exciting collection of menswear at HHS. The emphasis centers on the grey/black tones, although Eagle also shows the popular black/white, brown/black, and blue/black shades. The fabrics, in pure wool and wool-silk blends, are styled in art one- and two-button models... in checks that are subtle and refined... in plaids that are clear or muted. One-trouser suits (below right) are priced from $115; two-trouser suits (above right) from 139.50. (Below left) A striking two-button, black-and-white check sport coat with slanted flap pockets and side vents, at 69.95. (Above left) An elegant four-button (two-to-button) double breasted sport coat in a black-and-white Glen plaid, at $75. The Eagle collection of suits, sport coats, and topcoats in checks and plaids is one of fall's freshest fashion stories... and it's at HHS right now.

No More Pinched Toes

It's the New Squeezé on Fashion

DEAR ABBY: Some years ago I remember reading in your column a lot of letters from ladies who wanted the shoe manufacturers to get rid of high-heeled pointed shoes, and if I recall you were on their side.

Well, they did think they were, and I think the shoe makers are terrible looking. So you ladies who wanted them to go ahead and wear them and may the Lord bless you. Me? I'm still with POINTED TOES AND PENCIL HEELS.

DEAR POINTED: You are correct. My voice was among the loudest in protest of the pointed-toe, spindle-heeled shoes. But after a while, I became accustomed to them. (Yet, they ruined my feet.) Now that the baby-doll, Cuban heels are back, I admit they look as strange to me as the pointed-toes looked at first, but I am wearing them. And I must confess, I LOOKED better in the old crumples, and I FEEL better in the new ones.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for almost six years, and we have two beautiful children. My problem is my mother-in-law.

She refuses to admit to me the kind of person my husband's ex-wife was. I know that she knows because she has toiled other people, but every time I bring up her name, she defends the woman as though she were a saint. (Believe me, she isn't.) Please print your answer as this is getting me down.

DEAR PEEVED: Forget your husband's ex-wife, unless you want to reveal your own insecurity. For that more than anything else, is what is really "getting you down."

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from the lady who signed "Hurt In Eugene," I have to speak up for the sitters. I agree, it wasn't very nice for that teen-ager to have left the note, "CLEAN UP YOUR FILTHY HOUSE, PLEASE," but, Abby, I honestly know how she must have felt.

I am 15 and I was asked to sit for a lady whose husband was out of town. She was going to a juan and called me at the last minute. If she hadn't driven off as soon as I set foot in her house, I would have walked right out the door.

When I say her house was filthy, I am not kidding. The kitchen looked like a cyclone had hit it. The sink was piled high with dishes, and there were pots and pans on every inch of counter space, and even on the floor, which looked like it hadn't seen a mop in a year.

I tried to lift a bowl from the table and it stuck! There were even ants crawling around. I didn't even want to sit down in that house.

The lady was gone for seven hours, during which time I had to give her children dinner and put them to bed. She left no instructions, but told me to fix them "anything" they wanted to eat.

She said nothing about bedtime, so when I suggested "going to bed" I had a terrible time with all of them. These are so-called upper middle class people, Abby.

When the lady got home, she apologized for being late, underpaid me, until I corrected her, and drove me home. I wish I had the nerve to leave her a note telling her to clean up her filthy house. Thank You.

Mrs. Carlin Speaks Before DAR Chapter

Mrs. Leslie O. Carlin, state first vice regent, was speaker at the recent meeting of General Richardson chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Miss Sarah Van Hoesen Jones and Alice Serrell opened their Romeo Road home for the afternoon event.

Hostesses included Mesdames: Earl McHugh, R. J. Ruggles, Robert Wilson, Lewis Anscomb, Duncan McVean, Maxwell Doerr, Charles Gregson and S. A. Baillo. Mary J. Doerr was also a hostess.

Sixty-five years ago, Wilma Sayers Milliken and Timothy J. Wiscaver were wed in a make believe "Tom Thumb Wedding" play. Saturday, Mrs. Milliken, Waynesburg, Pa.'s first woman mayor and Wiscaver of Charlotte N.C. were married for real. They renewed their friendship last year after their mates died. They were four-year-olds when they appeared in the play.

Michigan History Topic of Meeting

The annual fall luncheon of the Parliamentary Study Club was held recently at the First Federal Savings of Oakland.

Michigan Bell Telephone Company representative, H. Robert Kull, traced the history of Michigan for the group as represented in the paintings of Robert A. Thom, Birmingham illustrator.

Mrs. Ervin Christie and Mrs. David Saks cohosted the affair, assisted by Mesdames Harry Vernon, John McNeely, Vivian Tubbs and Ross Elliott.

Area women interested in parliamentary study are welcome to join the group. Guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Fred Froede, Mrs. Cameron Clark and Mrs. Creston Tooman.

Early Start Is Given on Holiday Decoration

Christmas decorations made from cones and greens were displayed by Mrs. H. W. Schoenlein of Ferndale during her address to Brookside Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association.

The recent meeting took place in the Watkins Lake home of Mrs. L. Raymond Sampson. Cohostess was Mrs. E. P. Sammut, new president of the group.

Mrs. Harry Bender of Bloomfield Hills attended as a guest. The branch's Pontiac Mall Flower Show chairman, Mrs. Carl Bird, gave a report on the show.

Three Pontiac Groups

Join Federation Confab

Representatives of the Pontiac Woman's Club, the Pontiac Literary Club and the Round Table Club will attend the 49th annual convention of the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs, Southeastern District, Tuesday and Wednesday in Royal Oak.

The Royal Oak Woman's Club, hostess club for the convention, will be assisted by 30 member clubs of the Oakland County Federation.

The Royal Oak Junior Woman's Club will greet registering delegates at a coffee hour scheduled for 9 a.m. at the Royal Oak Woman's Clubhouse. Mrs. William Meyerhoven is handling reservations.

The theme of the convention is "Broadening Horizons for Tomorrow's World."

Mrs. Hans Schjoen of Stoneybrook Lane, president of the Oakland County Federation, will extend the official welcome to the delegates.

Sen. Robert J. Huber of the 16th District will be guest speaker at the Tuesday banquet. Judge Keith Leenhouts of Royal Oak will give an address.

dress at the scheduled Girlstown Luncheon.

Other speeches in connection with an open forum on "Observation will be by G. William Hughes, staff member of the Division of Information and Education, Michigan Department of Public Health, on "Air-Pollution Control" and William G. Turney, regional engineer in the enforcement division of the Michigan Water Resources Commission on "Pollution Abatement."

A skit will be presented by members of the Oakland County group.

Auxiliary Elects Mrs. J. H. Mueller to Head Position

The Drayton Plains Nature Center's Women's Auxiliary met recently at the Center and elected new officers as follows: Mrs. J. Herbert Mueller, chairman; Mrs. Charles Wood, secretary; Mrs. Daniel Hosler, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Lomerson, volunteers chairman.

Mrs. Mueller said there are many ways in which interested women may be of assistance to the Nature Center in its projects and programs.

These include performing clerical duties, answering the phone, correspondence, painting, cleaning, fund-raising, assisting with study classes, caring for the grounds, etc.

She suggests that this might be an excellent way for women to develop undiscovered talents or abilities. A pressing need is for volunteers to be at the Center when groups of schoolchildren tour.

Two hours work at a time, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. or from 1 to 2 p.m. is all that is asked of a volunteer.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Mueller or Mrs. Lomerson, or through attendance at the next meeting of the Auxiliary at the Center, slated for Nov. 7.

Busy Time for Jaycee Auxiliary

A benefit sale will be held Friday at the home of Mrs. W. H. Landis on Preston Street, sponsored by the Pontiac Jaycee Auxiliary.

At a dessert meeting the group discussed plans for raising scholarship money to be awarded to the Junior Miss contest winners.

A bake and boutique booth is planned for the Pontiac Federation of Woman's Clubs bazaar Nov. 16.

The auxiliary will cooperate with the Pontiac Jaycees in a pumpkin sale Oct. 21.

The auxiliary is interested in receiving nominations for the outstanding young woman in the Pontiac area. She must be between the ages of 21 and 35 and be active in community affairs.

Guests at the meeting were Mesdames Richard Abbott, John Tolbert and Michael Hamel.

Canterbury Club Has Opening Gala for Five New Couples

Five couples were welcomed as new members of the Canterbury Dance Club at its first dinner dance this year. The gala was held Saturday evening in Edgewood Country Club.

The five newcomers were the Howard Deeters, the junior Adolph Magnus, the Charles Opies, Mr. and Mrs. William Rogers and the Morgan Siples.

New officers assuming their posts are Robert Hasse, president; William Doerr, treasurer; Mrs. Donald Weiss, secretary; Mrs. Lloyd Fay, house chairman; Carl Rose, orchestra chairman; and the hospitality trio, Mrs. James Wilkinson, Mrs. John Gibson and Robert Papen-guth.

Office Gossips Might Consider This 'Meaty'

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just taken a position with a large firm, and a particularly attractive young lady has been assigned to me as my secretary. Since the atmosphere in this company is far more formal than in the smaller firm where I was employed before, I would like to know if it would be proper to take this young lady to lunch? — Ken Buckley

Dear Mr. Buckley: The question isn't whether the firm is big or small, formal or informal. The fact is that forming a personal relationship with a young girl who works for you, spells TROUBLE. If you feel like dating a secretary, fine, but find one who works for someone else so the gossips will have no reason to bother you, and your work won't suffer from emotional complications.

EVENTUALLY REPAYED

Dear Mrs. Post: We are often invited to very large "Open House" and cocktail parties. We wonder how these invitations can be repaid, whether we accept or not. I was taught that all invitations required repayment in kind.

However, we do not have the space or the ability to give this kind of party, preferring small groups of eight or 12 for cards, etc. Can these invitations be repaid in other ways? — Rita H.

Dear Mrs. H.: Invitations should, as you said, always be repaid if possible, but not necessarily in kind. An invitation to an Open House does not impose as strict an obligation as, for example, one to dinner, because it may come from a mere acquaintance and does not imply a close relationship.

But even then these should be returned eventually, and you should try to include those who have invited you in one of your dinners. Or if that is difficult, you might plan a couple of small cocktail parties to repay this sort of invitation.

Five Area Couples Speak Recent Vows

MRS. D. BLOODGOOD

MRS. J. KOTZIAN JR.

MRS. W. TAYLOR JR.

MRS. G. ISLAS

MRS. M. D. DeVAR

The First Baptist Church was the setting Saturday for vows exchanged by the Douglas Cotton Bloodgoods (nee Kathryn Ann Cross).

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cross of Rochester and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bloodgood Jr. of Grand Rapids.

For the evening nuptials, the bride chose a white satin floor length gown accented with Alencon lace. Her silk illusion veil was secured with a matching lace headpiece embroidered with seed pearls.

She carried a bouquet of Stephanotis and white roses with ivy.

Following the ceremony, the bridal couple and their honor attendants, Mrs. Phillip Townsend and Thomas Bloodgood III, greeted guests in the church parlors.

Other members of the wedding party were bridesmaids Mrs. Thomas Thompson, Mrs. Michael Burrill, Mrs. Charles Monique and Judy Jeltma.

Ushers were Thomas Thompson, Phillip Townsend, Kerry Cross, John Steltz and Carl Shook.

Charles Thompson and Thomas Bloodgood IV were ring bearers with flower girl Wendy Jo Townsend.

Following vows Friday evening in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. John Joseph Kotzian Jr., greeted guests at the Middle Straits Community Association building.

The bride is the former Pamela Gray, daughter of the Richard Grays of Applewood Street, White Lake Township.

Parents of the bridegroom are the senior Kotzians of Pontiac Street, Commerce Township.

The new Mrs. Kotzian wore a white organza gown with a detachable court train. Her ensemble, which featured tiny seeds pearls at the waist, was accented with Alencon lace.

A petal headpiece made of crystals and seed pearls capped her shoulder length veil. She carried white chrysanthemums.

Members of the wedding party were Mrs. Joan Harrington, matron of honor, Dennis Gearardo, best man and bridesmaids Michelle Gray and Thomasine Czach.

Gerald Gray and Michael Kotzian ushered.

For her wedding day, 25 years ago, Mrs. Marquis V. Young chose a cream satin floor length gown with long fitted sleeves and pointed cuffs.

Friday evening the gown was worn a second time, by her daughter, Mary Catherine, as she became the bride of William Arthur Taylor Jr.

The couple exchanged vows in the Church of the Precious Blood, Detroit.

The new Mrs. Taylor's gown was accented with Alencon lace. Her chapel train was edged with matching lace.

A satin floor headpiece held her shoulder length veil. The bride's bouquet was made up of Phalaenopsis orchids and Stephanotis.

Honor attendants were the bride's sister, Elizabeth, and Richard Thompson. Susan McGregor and Constance Sprauer were bridesmaids.

Other members of the wedding party were ushers Edward Elkins and Rodney and Robert Alton.

Following a reception at the Whittier Hotel, Detroit the newlyweds left for a honeymoon in Trinidad.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. William A. Taylor of Birmingham and the late Mr. Taylor. The Youngs are from Lathrup Village.

A Wisner Tour

A tour through the Wisner Home preceded a recent meeting of the Home and Family Child Study Club which took place in the Emerson Street Home of Mrs. Bud Millime.

Consumers' Power Company will be the site of the November meeting.

Vote Monies

The Wisner Home, the Birmingham Historical Society, the National Trust and the White House Preservation Committee each will receive a contribution from The Heritage Society.

The group met at the Sashabaw Road home of Mrs. Donald Filmore.

A lecture on antique guns and swords by John E. Schwarz of Birmingham is planned for the November meeting at the Pontiac YWCA.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Walter Obenauf and Mrs. Charles Hutson.

The former Yolanda Villarreal became the bride of Gilberto Islas in a double ring ceremony Saturday in St. Michael's Catholic Church.

Following the mid morning vows, the bridal couple and their guests gathered for dinner at the First Federal Savings of Oakland.

An evening reception was held at the CAI building.

Parents of the newlyweds are the Jose Villareals of Caga Islas and Mr. and Mrs. Blas Islas of Mercedes, Tex.

The bride wore a floor length gown accented at the bodice and sleeves with lace. Her layered detachable train was edged in matching lace.

The tiered veil was secured with a pearl embroidered headpiece.

Her bridal bouquet was made up of pearls and glass flowers.

Honor attendants were Rafaela the bride's sister, and Chris Siller. Bridesmaids were Noelia Morales, Maria Garza, Anita Garcia and Velma Mejia.

Margie Garza was flower girl with Jeffrey Morales as ring bearer.

Ushers were Philip Cortez, Robert Stubbfield and Dennis Castillo.

The newlyweds are honeymooning in Niagara Falls.

Bearded Lady Shaves It Off

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (UPI) — Few women qualify for Lola Conklin's job and fewer still would want it.

Miss Conklin is a circus bearded lady.

She has been on the road with circuses, carnivals and vaudeville troupes for 45 years and claims to be the original bearded lady in the business.

Miss Conklin, now 60, bears no bitterness at the quirk of nature that made her different from other children. She was born with three sets of teeth, her heart is on the right side of her body and even as a child she had to be shaved at least once a day.

She grew up in Hawaii where she was born, the daughter of an Hawaiian girl and an English sailor.

During the winter, when the circus lays up until the next season, Miss Conklin stays at her home in Tarpon Springs, Fla. and designs clothes.

SHAVES

When she's not on tour, she shaves twice a day. Otherwise, she keeps her beard trimmed at about three inches in length.

During tours, Lola finds it preferable to stay in her trailer quarters much of the time.

"People see you on the street and they don't know what to make of it," she explained.

She watches television a lot. "That's about the only relaxation I get," she said.

Wearing a terry-cloth apron when you see a any kind of slippery material will keep the material from sliding off your lap as you work.

Several Units of Sorority Discuss Plans

Members of Iota Nu chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will have an opportunity to work with "Resuscitation Susie," a full size doll used in mouth-to-mouth respiration training. The doll reacts as a human would to the life-saving technique.

Mrs. Robert Lally is in charge of arrangements for the demonstration.

Joann Blain hosted the group's meeting in her Le Grande Street home.

Xi Gamma Delta

A "Las Vegas Phi" is in store for the members of Xi Gamma Delta chapter on Oct. 21. Final plans were announced at a recent meeting in the Woodshire Drive Union Lake home of Mrs. Edward Welver.

"How to Be a Real Person," was the topic presented by Mrs. Earl Kreps.

Guests were Mrs. Clyde Haskell and Mrs. A. Byron Barnes of Zeta Eta chapter.

Phi

"Poise and Charm" was the topic discussed by Mrs. Doyle Thompson, assisted by Mrs. Albert Padar, at the fifth birthday meeting of Phi chapter.

Mrs. Charles Grynner was a guest at the meeting held in the home of president, Mrs. John Nord of Colrain Drive.

Zeta Eta

Several parties are planned in the near future for members of Zeta Eta chapter.

Mrs. Jerome Yates hosted the group's business meeting recently in her home on Lawrence Street, when it was reported that plans are complete for a theater trip Oct. 17.

A women's party is slated for Oct. 24 in the home of Mrs. Clyde Haskell, plus a Halloween party on Oct. 28 which will be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Byron Barnes.

The chapter has been chosen to handle reservations for the Pontiac City Council Annual Founders Day dinner.

Mrs. Joseph Galardi was co-hostess for the evening.

YWCA Pledged Aid by Sorority

Iota Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in the Manson Street home of Mrs. Lindel Bridges.

The YWCA will receive the proceeds of a current fund-raising project.

A guest at the meeting was Judith Perkins.

Outside or Mini

The ordinary-looking watch is replaced either by oversized models or ones with minidials. Bands on the big ones dwarf the wrist. Watch also for color on dials and straps and with numerals looking like telephone dials.

Top Living U.S. Ace Planning to Retire Soon

WESTHAMPTON BEACH, been one of the most interesting N.Y. (AP) — Col. Francis S. Gabreski, the nation's top living during these times we live in." He is credited with 37½ enemy aircraft during World War years' service.

Gabreski said today, "It's II and the Korean War.

Gabreski, 48, has been commander of the 52nd Fighter Wing at Suffolk County Air Force Base here on Long Island since August 1964. The base provides air defense for the New York metropolitan area.

Gabreski—who has more than 3,000 hours of flying time—will be honored in a ceremony at the base Oct. 31. He will become assistant director of public relations for Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. at Bethpage, Long Island.

Gabreski will be succeeded at the base by Col. Jack K. Gamble.

Gabreski, whose Army flying career began in 1940 at Maxwell Field in Alabama, has won the Distinguished Service Cross on September 1947, when he began Army decoration, the Distinguished Service Medal, which is awarded by both the Army and Air Force, the Distinguished Flying Cross with 12 oak leaf clusters and several foreign decorations.

Gabreski was credited with downing 28 aircraft and destroying three planes on the ground in the European theater during World War II, before he was shot down over enemy territory in July 1944.

He was sent to Korea in June 1951 and, while serving as commander of the 51st Fighter Interceptor Wing, he became history's eighth "jet ace" and one of seven who became aces in two wars. He was credited with shooting down 6½ MIGs in Korea before he returned to the United States in June 1952.

After starting as a flier in Alabama in July 1940, Gabreski served in Hawaii and later was transferred to England. There he was liaison officer to the Polish air force, and flew 20 combat missions with it.

In February 1943, he was assigned to the 56th Fighter Group and after 166 combat missions he was shot down. He was a prisoner of war until May 1945. After being liberated, Gabreski served as a test pilot at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio. In April 1946 he left the armed forces to take a position with the Douglas Aircraft Corp.

RECALLED TO DUTY
Gabreski was recalled to active duty in 1947—the year the Air Force was created as a separate branch of the armed services—and was named commanding officer of the 55th Fighter Squadron, Shaw Air Force Base, S.C. He served there until

Ship Is Freed From Bridge

ZILWAUKEE (AP) — The limestone carrier J.F. Schoellkopf Jr. was freed from the Zilwaukee Bridge Sunday, ending four days of confusion which had tied up traffic on southbound I-75 in Bay County.

The State Highway Commission said a tugboat helped free the 332-foot ship which had rammed the bridge Thursday when her steering mechanism reportedly failed.

The ship, which suffered only slight damage, moved under her own power into Saginaw Bay.

Highway officials said temporary repairs have been made on the southbound lane of I-75, but emphasized that only one lane would be open to traffic until permanent repairs can be made in about two months. The southbound lane had been closed ever since the incident and traffic was routed on a 13-mile detour through Bay City.

AUTOGRAHS BANNER — Michigan's Gov. Romney autographs a "Romney in '68" banner during a visit to Perry, Iowa, over the weekend. Romney again noted that he hasn't committed himself to seek the Republican presidential nomination next year. He spoke at Perry, Newton and Iowa City during the one-day trip to Iowa.

Officers Elected by Editorial Writers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Paul McKalip, editor of the Tucson Daily Citizen, is the new president of the National Conference of Editorial Writers. McKalip was elected to succeed Wilbur Elston, associate editor of the Detroit News, during the group's 21st annual convention Saturday night.

William D. Snider, editor of the Greensboro N. C., Daily News and Record, was elected vice president. Paul Ringler, associate editor of the Milwaukee Journal, was elected secretary.

WOMEN SUFFER WITH BLADDER IRRITATION

Common Kidney or Bladder Irritations affect twice as many women as men, often causing tenderness and nervousness from frequent, burning, itching urination. Secondly, you may lose sleep and have headaches, backaches and feel older, tired, depressed. In such cases, CYSTEX usually brings relaxing comfort by curbing germs in acid urine, and easing pain. Florida Teen Saves Tot, but 3 Drown as Car Sinks

SOUTH BAY, Fla. (AP) — A girl from a sinking car that carried a 3-year-old child plunged into the waters of a 25-foot deep canal Sunday and rescued a 3-year-old.

Bridesmaid's Gown a Shroud

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dressed in the pink broadcloth gown that she was to have worn as a bridesmaid, Sareta Gail Bryson, 20, will be buried Wednesday in the south Philadelphia neighborhood where she lived and where she was murdered.

George B. Goins, 27, of Philadelphia was jailed without bail, awaiting a hearing Oct. 17 on a charge of homicide in the stabbing Friday — the day before Sareta was to have been a bridesmaid at her best friend's wedding.

On Sunday, Goins' mother, Mary Goins, attended church and said she wanted to meet Sareta's mother.

"I want to see her because I'm sorry," she said. "I feel sorry for her daughter and I want to tell her how sorry am, how sorry it happened. She's hurt, and I'm hurt, too."

BUTCHER KNIFE

Police accused Goins of stabbing the girl with a butcher knife after he had been drinking. Sareta had gone to a store to buy some hair spray and was returning when she was attacked about six doors from her home.

Police said Goins, an employee of the city streets department, surrendered to police through a clergyman Saturday night.

Reelect LBJ, Teddy URGES

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has urged President Johnson's reelection on the ground no Republican can match the President's ability.

"There is no Republican on the horizon with the skill and the training and the heart to take on the burdens of the Presidency in a time of peril, as has been done by Lyndon Johnson," Kennedy told Democrats at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner Saturday.

Bar Trade PlummetsBritain Tests for Drunk Drivers

LONDON (AP) — Curbside breath tests to catch drunk drivers began today amid complaints from British motoring organizations and reports from bar owners of a sharp drop in business.

The tests were pushed by Transport Minister Barbara Castle, who had already irked drivers by clamping a 70-miles-an-hour speed limit on the nation's previously unrestricted highways. Mrs. Castle does not drive.

London police with "breathalyzers," plastic bags containing chemical crystals that change color when exposed to alcohol fumes, made their first test in front of Buckingham Palace, the Queen's home. The driver passed and was let go.

But for three of 13 other drivers who were stopped and asked to breathe into the bags during the night, the devices gave readings of more than 80 milligrams of alcohol per 100 milliliters of blood.

FURTHER TESTS

Under the new law, this means a trip to the police station for a blood or urine test. A too-high reading in these tests can be used as evidence in court.

Ba's in many parts of Britain reported a sharp drop in business Sunday night. Traffic in London's normally busy West End nearly disappeared.

There was a surge of sales of soft drinks and beer and liquor to be taken home.

The automobile association reported six calls from motorists fearful they might not be in condition to pass a breath test. It gave them telephone numbers for taxis.

Motoring organizations have criticized the tests as inaccurate.

rate, claiming that the effects of alcohol vary in individuals according to age, weight, physical condition and other factors. One newspaper said even the vinegar on fish and chips could change the crystals from white to green.

Other critics have called the new law an infringement on civil liberties.

Police and the Transport Ministry emphasize that the breath test is not by itself sufficient to convict a driver of being drunk. Mrs. Castle commented Sunday, "The law is tough but not harsh. A driver who has been drinking can park his car and arrange to go home by other means."

Because of the possibility of error in testing, police were expected to give motorists the benefit of the doubt during the first few days.

U.S. May Plant N-Mines in Viet Zone--Republican

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The ranking House Republican on the joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee suggests the administration may be planning to bury nuclear land mines to reinforce its anti-infiltration barrier across Vietnam.

"Is this the next logical step in the Johnson administration's shifting nuclear attitudes and changing nuclear applications?" Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., asked in a statement yesterday. "What has evolved from 1964 to date gives reason to believe so."

The Pentagon had no comment on how the anti-infiltration barrier just below the demilitarized zone would be built, but a spokesman noted that Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara was on record repeatedly in the past as saying "I can foresee no use of nuclear weapons in Vietnam."

But Hosmer quoted McNamara as saying recently that a Turkish proposal for sowing its Soviet frontier with atomic land mines to thwart invasion should not be considered provocative because the mines could only be used for defense.

"If the mines are deemed effective against potential Soviet invaders, why should they not be deemed equally effective against actual North Vietnamese invaders?" Hosmer asked.

RAISE QUESTIONS

"The administration's moves and pronouncements raise these questions and they ought to be answered, one way or the other."

Viet Nun Dies in Protest; Dispute May Be Near End

SAIGON (UPI) — A high-ranking nun burned herself to death in an antigovernment protest, it was announced today. The dispute she gave her life for appeared on the verge of settlement.

The nun was identified as Thich (venerable) Nu Tri Chon, 50, a leader of the nuns who follow militant Buddhist Thich Tri Quang, now in his 12th day of a sit-in on the lawn outside the Independence Palace office of President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu.

"I am very sorry to learn of the loss of another life," Tri Quang said. "It is a great misfortune."

But the militant leader said he plans to continue his personal protest until Thieu gives in and withdraws a charter recognizing a more moderate faction as South Vietnam's official church.

In the latest of a series of conciliatory letters, Thieu urged Buddhist leaders to call off their struggle, promising that their demands would be met soon.

CANCELLED MARCH

Buddhist leaders gave the letter as their reason for calling off a march yesterday to Tri Quang's side.

At the same time, however, police threw barbed wire barricades across all streets leading to the palace and surrounded pagodas from which the march was to have started with concertina barbed wire rolls.

Police earlier had announced new get-tough tactics, warning that no more than 20 monks and nuns would be allowed to "visit" Tri Quang. The warning came on the heels of anti-demonstration directives that subject violators to loss of civil rights and draft age youths, including students with deferments, to immediate military draft.

In the past few days police have sent to the military at least 15 students involved in antigovernment protests, including the head of the powerful Saigon Student's Association.

Observers felt the tough police action may have broken the back of the dissident students.

The death of Nu Tri Chon was announced by Thich Nhat Truong, chairman of the militant Monks and Nuns Committee for the Defense of the Charter. He said she burned herself at Sadec, a Mekong Delta city about 80 miles southwest of Saigon.

On Tuesday, a few hours after Thieu's election was validated by the provisional National assembly, a 20-year-old nun burned herself to death at the Delta city of Can Tho.

Meanwhile, sources said it appeared that Tri Quang may have gained two of his short-term goals but has made little progress toward a long-term goal, the overthrow of Thieu.

SHORT-TERM GOALS

The short-term goals are recognition of the charter that recognized the moderate faction headed by Thich Tam Chau as the nation's official Buddhist church, and to assure that some of his followers will be on the ticket Oct. 22 when the nation votes for a new National Assembly.

Candidates loyal to Tri Quang were disqualified during the election for the 60-man Senate Sept. 3, the same time as the presidential election.

Several militant Buddhists have been approved as candidates for the national assembly in central Vietnam constituencies. Observers said this might not have happened if Tri Quang had not started his public protest.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Thieu said he has not yet chosen his new prime minister who will replace premier Nguyen Cao Ky, the vice president-elect.

NY Suspect Is Arrested in 2 Hippie Land Slayings

NEW YORK (AP) — A 26-year-old man was arrested today in the bludgeoned murders of a teen-age daughter of a wealthy Greenwich, Conn., family and a long-haired, tattooed man, whose bodies were found Sunday in the boiler room of a hippie land tenement.

Donald Ramsey, who lives in the building, was ordered held for booking on a homicide charge by Asst. Dist. Atty. Daniel Harris.

The couple's nude bodies, about 10 feet apart, lay face down on a concrete floor. Their heads had been severely battered. Bloodstains were on the floor and walls.

The girl was identified by a stepister as Linda Fitzpatrick, 18, daughter of Irving Fitzpatrick, president of the Knickerbocker Mills, a tea and spice import firm at Totowa, N.J. Her home was a 30-room mansion.

The man, who had a police record in both New York City and New England, was identified as James Leroy Hutchinson, 21, of Central Falls, R.I.

By late Sunday night some 50 detectives working on the case had questioned more than 100 persons in the lower East Side area.

Near the victims lay a brick wrapped in a pair of men's trousers. The couple's clothing lay folded on the floor near the door.

Dr. Elliott M. Cross, who performed the autopsies, said the couple died of multiple blows on the head "with a blunt instrument consistent with the brick." Cross said he was unable to determine immediately if the girl had been raped.

FOUND BODIES

Freddie Wright, assistant superintendent of the five-story building on Avenue B, between 10th and 11th streets, found the bodies.

Hutchinson kept a room near-by on 11th Street, police said.

The Fitzpatrick girl's family said she was attending school in New York but did not identify the school.

The master builder of the V-8's introduces the fourth great V-8 engine design in motoring history.

Here's what it means to the man at the wheel:

Automotive critics are enthusiastic about the 1968 Cadillac and their entirely new 472 V-8 engine. It is unquestionably the largest, smoothest engine ever put into a production passenger car. Its quiet operation is remarkable, its response in traffic surprising, its stamina on the turnpike truly amazing! The torque, or usable power, surpasses any other passenger car engine.

This unmatched combination of performance and smoothness is in no way compromised by the operation of Cadillac's usual conveniences. Even air conditioning is handled with ease by the new 472.

The debut of the completely new 472 V-8 engine marks the fourth time Cadillac has led the industry with a major V-8 engine development. The first time was in 1914, when the first V-8 that could be reproduced in quantity was lowered onto a Cadillac chassis.

Each of the eleven new Cadillac models is equipped with the celebrated 472 V-8. If you'd like to get in on the celebration, test-drive one. Then you'll know what elegance in action really means. Your authorized Cadillac dealer will be pleased to assist you in this exciting discovery. See him soon!

Len Dawson 'Ad-Libs' in Chiefs' 41-0 Win

Len Dawson, Kansas City's conservative quarterback, was at his ad lib best but Bob Scarpitto, Denver's impromptu punter, would have been better off sticking to his script.

Dawson hurled five touch-down passes, touching off the spree with a 77-yarder on a broken play, as the Chiefs bombed Miami 41-0 in the American Football League Sunday.

Scarpitto, trying to run from punting position on a fourth down, was swarmed under by Buffalo defenders, giving the Bills possession and setting up Buffalo's 17-16 victory over Denver.

In Sunday's other game, San Diego rallied behind John Hadl for a 31-13 tie against Boston Saturday night, New York knocked off previously-unbeaten Oakland 27-14.

Garrett lateraled to Dawson and the quarterback threw for Taylor. "I was going to run with it," he said, "but I saw Taylor.

Dawson, the AFL's all-time leading passer, has often been criticized for sticking too firmly to the game plan and not innovating on plays.

But he was unconventional enough for the Chiefs on their first TD, a razzle-dazzle maneuver that left the Dolphins stunned for the rest of the day.

"It was an off-tackle play," explained Dawson, who started the move by handing off to Mike Garrett. "But Mike got stopped.

I hollered for him to throw me the ball."

Otis Taylor, whose assignment on the play was to block the safety man, wound up with a TD instead. "I saw Mike was in trouble," said Taylor, "so I heard Lenny hollering for the ball, so I just turned around and started running downhill."

figured he could make more yardage than I could."

Dawson was right. The play made 77 yards and was the first of five scoring pitches for the veteran quarterback. Over-all, he completed 13 of 23 for 259 yards as the Chiefs buried Miami.

Scarpitto, who had pulled off six straight successful runs from punting position, had the string broken but good by the Bills.

Denver was leading 16-10 in the fourth quarter when Scarpitto gambled and lost in a fourth and 11 situation. A 15-yard penalty for piling on the poor punter pushed the Bills back to Denver's 44 but six plays later Keith Lincoln barreled in from the tying touchdown and Mike Mercer kicked the decisive extra point.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers, presented with a 20-0 lead in the first half, blew it in the third quarter but came back in the final period Sunday to beat the Los Angeles Rams out of the thinking ranks of unbeaten teams in the National Football League, 27-24.

San Francisco took advantage of numerous fumbles and pass interceptions to build up their lead in the first two quarters.

THREE TIMES
The Rams, as boots turned to cheers, scored three touchdowns in 10 minutes, three seconds to go ahead, 21-20 after three quarters.

The Rams added three more points on Bruce Gossett's 32-yard field goal early in the fourth period.

But quarterback John Brodie went to work on the Rams and the 49ers stormed 69 yards in eight plays, capped by a 26-yard scoring strike to Sonny Randle for the winning touchdown.

MSU Roms to 35-7 Victory

Spartans Lift Gloom by Routing Wisconsin

By FLETCHER SPEARS
EAST LANSING — Happy days are here again.

The cloud of gloom that had enveloped Spartan Stadium for the past couple of weeks was lifted Saturday as Michigan State ripped Wisconsin, 35-7.

Looking like the Spartans of old, MSU played it straight for the most part with a crunching ground game that rolled up 296 yards, although coach Duffy Daugherty did toss in a couple of tricky little maneuvers that should give the Michigan coach head staff something to stew over the week. MSU and 'M' met sophomore-dominated offense and a senior-dominated defense.

The win was MSU's first after losses to Houston (37-7) and Southern California (21-7), and it was the 15th straight in Big Ten Conference action for the Spartans who are looking for their third title in a row.

The last setback for the Spartans in Big Ten play came at the tailend of 1964 when Illinois took a 16-0 decision.

Except for a brief flurry by Wisconsin in the second period, MSU held the upper hand all day over the Badgers with a senior-dominated offense and a senior-dominated defense.

And while the old hands were the steady factors in the offense, one of the two sophomores on the first string was a bit in his first starting assignment.

LaMarr Thomas, a 6-1, 195-pounder from Markham, Ill., scored once and passed for one touchdown and rambled for 106 yards in 14 trips with the ball, and his runs around and through the Badger line made it look as though All-American Clinton Jones had returned. Thomas and tackle Ron Saul, a 6-2, 226-pounder, are the only sophomores on the first string offensive unit, while nine of the second-year players have gained spots on the first and second defensive units.

The Spartans struck quickly, taking the kickoff and moving 63 yards in six plays with moving halfback Dwight Lee of New Haven racing off right tackle 12 yards for the touchdown. Mitch Pruett kicked the first of his five extra points and a 7-0 lead.

LEE SCORES

A time-consuming drive of 16 plays ended early in the second quarter with Lee diving the final yard of the 89-yard drive.

showed their only punch mid-way in the second period when they rolled 85 yards in 14 plays with quarterback John Ryan sneaking the final yard. Full-back Wayne Todd picked up most of the yardage in the drive with off tackle slants.

Thomas capped an 80-yard drive with a five-yard burst off the left side behind a block by tackle Tony Conti making it 21-7.

Moments later, following a short punt by the Badgers, Thomas took a pitchout from quarterback Jimmy Raye and headed around the right side. It pulled the defense in and he floated a pass over the defenders to end Al Brenner at the 15 yard line and he romped in to complete a 44-yard scoring play. Southern Cal scored the winning touchdown on a similar play against MSU last week.

The reserves put the final tally on the board. With Bill Feraco, a junior quarterback from Pennsylvania, quiding the attack, the Spartans moved 61 yards in eight plays with half-back Frank Waters diving over left guard for the final two yards.

PASSES WELL

Feraco completed passes of 16 to sophomore end Frank Foreman and 20 yards to Waters in the drive, and his tossing was the only bright spot in the MSU aerial attack.

Raye had little success with his passes, hitting on only four of 12, so Feraco, playing most of the fourth quarter, may be seeing more game time as the season progresses.

The MSU defense held the Badgers in check, giving up only 48 rushing and 77 in the air.

Defensive end George Chatlos is the only senior on the first string defense which continues to improve with each game.

OU X-Country
Runner Breaks
Course Record

Care's Louis Putnam led Oakland University's barriers to their best showing ever Saturday as the Pioneers won a triangular meet with Wayne State and Olivet.

Putnam became the first man to break 22 minutes on the four-mile OU course and the Pioneer took 7 of the first 12 places while compiling 24 points.

Wayne State had 39 and Olivet 71. Putnam's 21:59 timing was 36 seconds ahead of the old record set by teammate Don Colpitts of Walled Lake.

Colpitts finished third Saturday with 23:06, three seconds behind Pioneer teammate Mark Dutton of Royal Oak.

Bruce Anderson placed eighth, Tom Merchant was 10th, Randy Petuprin (Pontiac) 11th and Don Balkwell (Walled Lake) 12th to round out the OU (93) scoring.

Ann Arbor — Navy invaded Ann Arbor Saturday afternoon and the Middies had a battery of offensive weapons with passer John Cartwright, receiver Bob Taylor and kicker John Church, leading the Academy to a 25-21 triumph over the Big Ten Wolverines.

Michigan had just one explosive play when a 35-yard pass from Johnson to tight end George Hoy was intercepted by the Wolverines.

Johnson set an all time Michigan rushing record with 270 of the team's 308 ground yardage. 20.

Cartwright had only 13 of 28 passes, but the Michigan defense was caught napping on the lead as Cartwright drove several occasions as 6-2 his team 80 yards to score in end Taylor was left in seclusion often on the sidelines.

FIRST TOUCHDOWN

Johnson scored on Michigan's second play from scrimmage on a 62-yard power sweep but the Middies came back to take a 10-7 lead on a 3-yard run by Jeri Babby, who led Navy runners with 86 yards in 25 carries, and a 31-yard field goal by John Church.

KALAMAZOO — After losing two in a row, the Broncos of Western Michigan have shown they can win where it counts in their campaign for a second straight Mid-American Conference football title.

Western Michigan held off an early threat by Bowling Green Saturday to beat the Falcons 47 after an onside kick-10-6 Saturday on the Ohioans' home ground.

The Falcons were inches from a 71-yard touchdown in the fourth quarter but were stopped by a 35-yard pass from Cartwright to end Mike Clark.

Church's field goal was set up by Ernes Carr, who recovered the first of three costly early turnovers by Bowling Green Saturday on a 33-yard field goal try.

After the field goal, Michigan drove 71 yards in seven plays with Johnson accounting for all the yardage, including a 35-yard pass from Cartwright to end Mike Clark.

Fullback Jim Majerle put the Broncos on the scoreboard first in the second quarter and Navy when he plucked across from came back to score on Cartwright's one-yard line late in the night's 15-yard pass to end first half. Dale Livingston added Bob Taylor to take a 17-14 half the extra point, then booted time lead.

A 26-yard field goal in the fourth period for insurance.

"We don't think anyone can cover Taylor one-on-one," said Navy Coach Bill Elias.

Taylor caught seven passes for 87 yards, taking advantage of the inexperience of Wolverine cornerbacks George Hoy and Mitch Pruett.

N. Michigan Pacing State 11s

By the Associated Press

The Wildcats of Northern Michigan University led the ranks of state college unbeaten with five straight football victories to their credit.

Eastern Michigan University and Alma share 4-0 records while Wayne State University hasn't tasted defeat in three clashes.

Northern Michigan's latest triumph Saturday was a 35-8 routing of Hillsdale, which suffered its second straight loss.

The Wildcat offense was sparked by a touchdown by the state's leading rusher, Lonnie Holton.

Eastern Michigan chalked up its biggest victory margin in 11 years when it steamrolled Western Reserve 47-0 on the Illinois-Chicago Circle and the Ohioans' home ground. Seven different players scored touchdowns for the Hurons as they handed Western Reserve its day, Olivet downed Albion, 24-7, second loss in as many outings, while Adrian walloped Kalamazoo 40-0.

Alma came close to tumbling down, 14-3, in Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association thriller with games, Central Michigan

Firebirds Withstand Dayton's Rally to Win, 21-12

FOOTBALL SCORES

Goldsworthy, Apisa, West Reach Paydirt

Harris' point was blocked by Izer.

The last eight minutes of the final quarter had the 3,400 fans on their feet.

Mike Fryer intercepted a Dayton pass, but then a bouncing punt by Bill Apisa for 65 yards pushed Dayton back to its own 20.

Miko hit Keith Smith for 15 yards, but then on fourth down, Smith's punt was blocked by Ron Bemis and Izer recovered for Pontiac on the Dayton four.

When three running plays failed, Motzer lined up for a field goal with Tim Jones holding. Jones quickly stood up and flipped to Apisa in the end zone for Pontiac to close the gap to 14-12.

The Firebirds played a sterling defensive game and capitalized on the breaks when they were presented offensively.

The win was costly however, as starting halfback Larry Goldsworthy, former Emmanuel Christian High griddle, suffered a fractured ankle in just a few minutes after he made a 32-yard touchdown run in the first quarter. John Motzer added the point and it was 7-0 after four minutes of action.

Tim Jones, Lions' taxi quarterback who was bedridden with the flu for several days, started the F-Birds on a 65-yard march after Goldsworthy's injury with eight minutes left in the quarter.

A 17-yard screen pass to Bill Apisa and a broken pitchout play which forced Apisa to pass to Mickey Blazitz for 20 yards moved the Firebirds to the Dayton 35.

A penalty and 15 yards lost passing, pushed Pontiac back to its own 45, but two plays later Jones hit Sam West perfectly in the 20 and the little receiver scampered the distance for a 45-yard TD play. Motzer made it 14-0.

CALLBACK

Early in the second quarter, a pass interference penalty gave Dayton the ball on the Pontiac 7. Pete Mikolajewski fumbled at this point and big Dan LaRosa picked up the ball and rammed 80 yards to the goal line. But the play was called back and Pontiac was handed an offside penalty.

It was second down from the three and Dayton made three tries at the stubborn Pontiac line. With the ball just 1 1/2 inches from the goal line, Mikolajewski tried a sneak and the entire Pontiac line led by big Tom Vody, Jon Izer, LaRosa, John Gerometta and just about every Firebird on the field stopped the Dayton qb.

Pontiac had to punt out after three plays and again Dayton recovered the ball to the Firebird 32 after Willie Turner's 20-yard return.

Again Pontiac held its own 15 and had to punt out after 14 seconds. This time Dayton scored a pass to Roosevelt Mell for 25 yards and another interference penalty put the ball on the Pontiac two.

An offside pushed Dayton back, but Mell went over three yards to make it 14-6 as Dave Harris' kick failed.

In the third quarter Dayton got the ball on a pass interference and again on a fumble. Pistol Pete started connecting and in four plays from the Pontiac 32, Mell hit paydirt from the three and it was 14-12.

SCRAMBLING — Tim Jones, Pontiac Firebirds' quarterback, has Dayton defensive tackle Bill Sealey (76) closing in on him in their game Saturday night at Wiser Stadium.

Jones passed for two touchdowns as Pontiac defeated the Colts, 21-12 in a Midwest Football League contest.

Gridiron Plot Thickens

By the Associated Press

Southern California, which is the top-ranked college football team in the country, and Notre Dame, which used to be, rolled to convincing victories Saturday, setting up their clash this week as one of the top contests of the season.

The Trojans remained unbeaten by knocking off Stanford 30-0 on touchdown passes of 28 and 29 yards from Steve Soggo to Earl McCulloch and the running of O. J. Simpson.

Raiders Boost Title Prospects

North Farmington's hopes for the Northwest Suburban AA grid title remain bright but Oxford's Central Suburban chances suffered a jolt in Saturday afternoon action.

Oxford was jolted by Madison Heights Lamphere, 40-0, as Bill Watson passed for two touchdowns and ran one over from the five. Pat Wooley and Tom McComb each crossed the goal line twice. Both teams are 1-1 in the circuit.

North Farmington remained tied with Livonia Franklin and Wayne John Glenn by trimming Oak Park, 35-6, with Rick Knock and Mike McCoy grabbing two TC aerials each from Norm DeCourcey.

Franklin outlasted Detroit Cranbrook, 13-7.

Cranbrook upset its mark to 2-1 with a 28-0 romp over Detroit Country Day. Dirk Deiters led the Cranbrook run and Mark Steiner went one yard.

Craig Tuohy and John Waldemar had the other TD's.

Kimball Rolls to X-Country County Crown

Royal Oak Kimball rolled up 81 points to capture the Oakland County Cross-Country championship Saturday on the Oakland Community College course.

Mike Koerner of Cranbrook won the race in 10:35, pacing his teammates to a third-place finish with 115 points. Hazel Park was second at 88.

Hazel Park's Warren Kreuger was second in 10:40 and Pontiac Central's Larry Hurst grabbed third at 10:50.

Captured Document Tells Cong to Forget 'Illusions of Peace'

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. have revealed themselves to be mission made public today that it said was a 10-month-old captured Vietnamese directive telling Communist cadres and troops to chase from their mind "the illusion of peace" and reaffirm their determination "to win at any price."

The mission said the directive was issued Jan. 20 by the political staff department of the "South Vietnam Liberation Army."

"Each individual should remain firm in any circumstance of the revolutionary struggle, chase from his mind the illusion of peace, endure difficulties and hardships and stay behind the party," an American translation of the document read.

In its introduction, the document notes what it calls "thousands of countless examples of sacrifice and gallantry" by Communist cadres and troops. Then it goes on to say: "However, besides such heroic examples, there still are in various and then shortcomings in our areas. These failings include confusion of mind, fear of hardships and protracted war, lack of heroism and loss of revolutionary pride."

FRUCTIONS APPARENT

"Noticeable frictions have also appeared from time to time in relations between cadres and fighters. Certain of those cases

"These deficiencies have created great obstacles that have impeded the execution of our tasks and limited our victories. In the days to come, the U.S. imperialists will make changes in their strategy."

"We should control and severely criticize on decidedly correct the following signs of passive rightism:

- "Fear of hardships and a fierce, protracted war, escapism and demoralization.
- "Lack of determination to seek and fight the enemy.
- "Overestimating the enemy, and becoming subject to his psychological warfare; dreams of an illusory peace and the slackening of alertness for enemy propaganda; signs of weariness and the inclination to enjoy some rest."

Russian Paper Raps Reagan

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda attacked Gov. Ronald Reagan of California today as a "movie star with a hawk's profile."

Besides denouncing Reagan for backing U. S. military escalation in the Vietnam war, Pravda described him as an ultra rightist who has taken up the "warm banner" once carried by Barry Goldwater. It suggested the American people will reject him for president if they heed the facts.

The article, written in Moscow by staff writer Boris M. Orehov, was the first lengthy attack on Reagan in the Soviet press.

Pravda told Soviet readers how in movies Reagan used to play nice guys who didn't get the girl. Then, it said, during World War II he was an Army captain but stayed in Hollywood making documentaries.

"Maybe the governor likes making bellicose speeches so much because he never smelled real gunpowder," the Communist newspaper said.

The first U.S. president to use the telephone for campaign purposes was William McKinley in 1896.

SIGN OF SUPPORT — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson walks in a procession with Williams College President John B. Sawyer at dedication ceremonies yesterday for the Center for Environmental Studies and Planning at Williams College in Williamstown, Mass. The sign in the background is in support of her husband's Vietnam policy. About 60 persons walked out on Mrs. Johnson when she addressed a 1,000-member audience at fall convocation ceremonies at the college. Circulars distributed beforehand said a walkout would be held to protest the President's Vietnam policies.

Youth Slain, Date Raped; California Police Hunt 3

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Three young killer-rapists are being sought as police retrace activities of a 19-year-old college student and his newly met companion before his slaying.

Charles Louis Kaufmann Jr., a Santa Rosa Junior College freshman from Alexandria, Va., was shot from behind three times early Saturday—once in the head and once in each shoulder. His companion, an 18-year-old girl estranged from her husband, was forced from her car parked on a lover's lane just before Kaufmann was killed and then driven to a nearby area where, she told police, she was repeatedly raped.

Kaufmann was the son of Charles L. Kaufmann, an officer of the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) now

Paris Writer and Historian Dead at 82

PARIS (AP)—Andre Maurois, whose humor-filled interpretations of British character launched him on a literary career, died today. He was 82.

Maurois had undergone surgery for intestinal blockage two weeks ago. He was taken from a hospital this morning and died at his home nearby.

Born into a family of Jewish textile-makers, Maurois was well on the way to becoming an industrialist when World War I changed the course of his life. He served as a liaison and intelligence agent with the British forces and was quickly adopted into their ranks.

From his associations with the British officer corps came his first book, "Les Silences du Colonel Bramble." His sympathetic accounts of the only barely fictional Col. Bramble, outwardly calm and taciturn under fire, were an immediate success in France.

SECOND NOVEL

Another work "Les Discours du Dr. O'Grady" was in the same theme and established Maurois as a best-selling novelist.

Maurois took a different role in World War II when, after joining Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Free French forces, he went to the United States and became a principal spokesman for French culture and civilization.

From 1942 to 1944, he crisscrossed the United States on lecture tours. He taught French literature for a period at the University of Kansas City.

Maurois' prolific output of novels, biographies and histories gained him membership in the prestigious French Academy, an exclusive body of distinguished citizens.

ADOPTED PEN NAME

Maurois was born Emile Herzog July 26, 1885. He took his pseudonym when he began to write and officially changed his name in 1947.

He plunged into the family business for 10 years, using his spare time for reading and writing. After World War I, he turned to biography, writing of Shelley, Disraeli and Byron.

stationed in Washington. The parents flew here Sunday to claim the body.

Police Chief Melvin Flohr said the girl, questioned Saturday and Sunday, has retold her story with no significant changes and was unable to provide additional clues.

MET AT PARTY

He said the young man first met the girl, whose name was withheld, at a party Friday night. They drove to Proctor Heights, a fashionable area about 1½ miles from downtown. The girl told police they had been parked about an hour when another car drove up. Two men from it approached, one on each side of the car. As one brandished a gun, the couple was ordered out.

She said her sweater was pulled over her head and she was forced into the rear seat of the other car.

Flohr said the girl told of hearing scuffling noises and then three shots.

1 Killed, 500 Hurt in Tokyo Protest

TOKYO (AP)—About 800 students rallied at four Tokyo universities today to protest "police brutality" at a leftist demonstration Sunday that left one dead and 500 injured. The incident was the worst in Japan since violence in 1960 caused the cancellation of a visit by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Government officials began investigating means to prevent possible new eruptions triggered by leftists opposed to Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's coming visit to South Vietnam.

Sato arrived in Jakarta on the first leg of a five-nation swing and began talks with Indonesian government officials on financial assistance for the coming year.

18 Arrested in Detroit Area Gaming Raids

DETROIT (AP) — Police and Internal Revenue agents arrested 18 men in raids on 10 alleged gaming places over the weekend, seized thousands of dollars in cash and checks and cracking an alleged football and horse racing bet ring.

One of those arrested was Edward J. Vitale of Livonia, an ex-convict and Irish Sweepstakes winner who once allegedly worked as an undercover agent for the IRS.

Vitale was one of 12 men arrested in suburban Warren in the suburb's police who used a fire department ram to smash through a heavily reinforced door Friday.

Lt. Walter O'Bea of the intelligence division of Warren police said his men confiscated four loaded revolvers, $165 in cash, poker chips and cards.

DEMAND EXAM

Emergy Volpe, 53, of Detroit demanded examination at his arraignment Saturday on a charge of operating a gaming house. He was freed under $500 bond pending examination.

The others, including Vitale, were charged with frequenting a gambling establishment and freed under $100 bonds each. No date was set for hearings.

Lawlessness and the Public—7

Enforcement Is 2-Way Street

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the seventh in an eight-part series on crime and its impact on the public and law enforcement.)

By MEL NEWMAN
Aside from the payment of taxes to maintain a police force, the contribution of the public to law enforcement may come out of a citizen to carry out this responsibility.

Whatever direction these contributions take, they are made meaningful by one force—opinion.

If the public wants specific changes in the restrictions on law enforcement agents, it must apply pressure for interpretation of process-of-law requirements which are less restrictive.

If the public wants legislation changing criminal laws and the law process, it must press its legislators into action.

And the public itself must take the initiative in self-protection.

WITNESS SUFFERS
Crimes that go unreported cannot be investigated. When no witnesses step forward to aid an investigation, the witness himself suffers.

"Each citizen should regard any criminal act within his community as a personal affront," in the words of William K. Hanger, Pontiac chief of police.

And it may take some time current sources as well as those and inconvenience on the part in this community.

Now Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids And Promptly Stop The Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

New York, N. Y. (Special): A discovered a medication which has the ability in most cases — to actually shrink hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from the itching, burning and pain. Then this medication starts right in to gently reduce the swelling of inflamed, irritated hemorrhoids.

Tests conducted on hundreds of patients by leading doctors in New York City, in Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so.

And it was all accomplished without narcotics or stinging astringents of any kind. The secret is Preparation H — an exclusive formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids. There is no other formula like it! In addition to actually shrinking piles and relieving the painful distress — Preparation H lubricates, makes bowel movements less painful and soothes the irritated tissues. It also helps prevent further infection. Preparation H comes in ointment or suppository form. No prescription is needed.

Bakhsheesh on Way Out in Pakistan

KARACHI (UPI) — The gentle art of greasing the wheels of government by judicious application of bakhsheesh may be grinding to a halt in Pakistan.

The major worry seems to be whether the wheels of government will likewise grind to halt without the bribes that are an accepted way of life.

The government of President Mohammad Ayub Khan has strengthened cleanup commissions to sweep out corruption and is drafting new methods of controlling and checking on the wealth of officials.

A Pakistani matron commented that "backdoor blessing is a way of life in this country and if you close that door the whole administration will collapse."

Not everyone is that pessimistic — but backdoor blessings are indeed a part of the fabric of life in Pakistan and no one can estimate how much money is involved and the consequences of its removal.

Bakhsheesh ranges from the policeman who extends a hand for a bit of folded "persuasion" to the highest ranks of government where mountains of red tape can be snipped in a second — for the right price.

Hollywood and the Stars-1

Much-Criticized System on Way Back

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first article in a two-part series on the movie industry's much-criticized star system.)

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The star system, much assailed and berated through film history, is staging a comeback.

There is no chance that a studio can advertise, as did MGM in its heyday, that it has "more stars than there are in the heavens." Long gone is the era when film companies kept 50 to 100 stars under contract and could cast them in never-ending combinations. Not a single star is under exclusive contract to a studio today.

But the general movie business prosperity has increased production and the need for name players. "I haven't seen it this good in years," says a top actor. "The studios are more than willing to pay top money for stars who can deliver a performance. Most of my clients have more offers than they can handle."

$1-MILLION FEES
Prices for stars have risen correspondingly, and million-dollar fees are no longer unusual for the likes of Julie Andrews, Elizabeth Taylor, Elvis Presley and Audrey Hepburn. Even Barbara Surisand in her first movie, "Funny Girl," is drawing a million.

But there's a limit. It is expressed by Robert Evans, new production head for Paramount and himself a onetime actor.

"Stars can no longer guarantee box office for a picture. A movie loaded with stars can flop if it has a poor story."

"Today the story is the biggest star. A good story can be enhanced by star names. But good stories filmed by gifted directors can also be successful with unknown actors."

The latter factor has also contributed to revitalizing the star system. Producers can afford to take chances on new performers, and if the film is a hit, a star is born. Examples: Albert Finney in "Tom Jones," Lynn Redgrave in "Georgy Girl," Sandy Dennis in "Up the Down Staircase."

FANS CREATED STARS
In the beginning there was no star system. Primitive film makers used whatever actors they could find—legitimate stage actors scorned employment in the "flickers"—and players got no billing.

A movie goes themselves created the stars, as they do today. Patrons of nickelodeons made favorites of performers with the most appeal. One of the earliest was a beauty known only as the Biograph Girl, after the company for which she toiled.

Shrewd little Carl Laemmle, fighting the monopolists who controlled the new industry, hired The Biograph Girl away from her employers and publicized her by her own name, Florence Lawrence. The star rush was on.

By 1914, Adolph Zukor was paying the immensely popular Mary Pickford $2,000 a week. In 1916, Charlie Chaplin had won a $670,000 contract for a year's work; a year later, he was earning a million dollars.

TREND CONTINUES
The trend of high salaries for a few top performers continued through the 1920s. This was the time of the superstar, when the industry was dominated by a handful of personalities: Pickford, Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks, Lillian Gish, Gloria Swanson, Rudolph Valentino, Harold Lloyd, Buster Keaton, John Gilbert, Ramon Novarro.

The sound era brought further flowering of the star system. The great popularity of the talkies brought a demand for more product, and each studio began pouring out a picture a week.

This brought the need for a large reservoir of acting talent, tied to contracts which assured availability at salaries that weren't too excessive. Nowhere was the star system more fully developed than at MGM in the 1930s and 1940s. Under the leadership of Irving Thalberg and Louis B. Mayer, the studio amassed a galaxy never equaled. When Thalberg year-old Western Michigan University to dazzle audiences with variety junior from Clark Lake power, he needed look no further than MGM's contract list homecoming queen, Linda Todd to cast Greta Garbo, John and Lionel Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery, Jean Hersholt and Louis Stone for "Grand Hotel."

After Thalberg's death in 1936,

Mayer continued development of the star list. He enjoyed being photographed with the players: Greer Garson, Clark Gable, Katharine Hepburn, Spencer Tracy, James Stewart, Fred Astaire, Robert Taylor, Elizabeth Taylor, Judy Garland, Red Skelton, Esther Williams, Mickey Rooney, June Allyson, dozens more.

The creation of stars was often long and painstaking. A hundred young players were kept under contract and nurtured through musical and dramatic lessons, then cast in bit roles. Most were never heard from again. But some—Ava Gardner, Van Johnson, Debbie Reynolds—developed into stars.

The revolution in film economics beginning in 1948 struck a severe blow to the star system. Beleaguered studios could no longer afford the heavy overhead of contract lists. Stars were dropped as their options came due, and many later were hired back for individual films at far more than their contract salaries.

Beet by a falling market due to television and other competition, the film companies could no longer afford to develop new stars; they continued to hire the veterans. That, too, was self-defeating, because audiences were demanding new faces. Gradually, in recent years, the situation has been brightening. Creative young directors of Europe proved that films can do business with unknown performers.

Henry Ford, Auto Maker, Plays Role of Auto Taker

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — Henry Ford and we do mean THE Henry Ford—no substitute—was at El Morocco the other morning, and so entranced by the ways of the doorman there, that Mr. Ford borrowed the doorman's cap and went through the motions of helping him park cars.

And not Ford cars, either, which must have depressed him.

But Cadillacs, Rolls-Royces, Jaguars, Lincolns, cars like that.

He didn't really spend much time at it. When he gave the doorman his cap back, Mr. Ford buried inside the famous club and jiggerbugged madly and expertly.

As we write this, Juanita Hall, the original "Bloody Mary" of "South Pacific," is gravely ill, after a brave fight.

Miss Hall, who suffered diabetes, uremic poisoning and near-blindness, had made great gains after readers of the column donated generously to the Juanita Hall Fund. She even left the hospital and went to live in a friend's apartment. But then she took a critical turn, went back to the hospital and had been receiving transfusions.

Marlene Dietrich insists upon a special stagedoor watchman for her one-woman show, to protect a gown allegedly costing $50,000. Advance word is that she's so good and lovely, that "she performs for an hour and 20 minutes, then takes bows for 40 minutes."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .
Secret Stuff: That big Mr. and Mrs. Hollywood star split-up is blamed on many things, including a foreign male star. . . . Ex-Yankee Whitey Ford saw the World Series over the weekend — on TV at Grossinger's. . . . If Shirley Temple doesn't make it to Congress, David Black will offer to star her in a B-way play.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A starlet at the H-wood Beachcombers: "I can tell when my husband drinks — his face starts getting blurred."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "When she found that first gray hair, she thought she had nothing to live for. . . . so she dyed it." —Kay Lederle.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "He knew the precise psychological moment when to say. . . nothing." —Oscar Wilde.

EARL'S PEARLS: Flip Wilson's not saying Ronald Reagan has his eye on the presidency, but he hears he's already designing a marquee for the White House.

"Romeo and Juliet" looks sort of funny now—men in mini-skirts. . . . That's earl, brother.

Pay TV Faces Congress Static

FCC Chairman Called Before House Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pay television faced static that could be ruinous today in its latest airing on Capitol Hill. Chairman Ross H. Hyde of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) was called before the communications subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee to explain a pending FCC proposal to give the go-ahead to pay TV, with some restrictions.

When the full committee learned from the FCC last March that it was moving toward a decision that could authorize permanent pay TV, Chairman Harley O. Staggers exploded.

"I think you are really trying to pull a fast one on the Congress and this nation," he said.

Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., chairman of the subcommittee conducting the hearings, commented that there were "many opponents to this in the Congress."

EXPRESSED CONCERN
He also expressed concern that the FCC was moving ahead without consulting Congress first.

While other members of the committee reserved their final verdicts, the going was expected to be harsh for pay TV or subscription TV.

An added hitch lies in the imminent final enactment of a "public television" bill to support a wide range of educational, cultural and special programs to broaden free television fare.

The proposed restrictions would limit pay TV areas with at least four free commercial stations. Anticipating that pay TV would depend mainly on movies and sports events, the three commissioners also proposed:

- Limiting pay TV to films less than 2 years old, except for up to a dozen "old" movies more than 10 years old.
- Prohibiting pay TV from showing any sports events that had been regularly televised within the previous two years.
- Forbidding commercials.

Boredom, Drunkenness: Big Soviet Problems

Photos showed the ballet troupe, the opera company, the symphony orchestra, the Shakespearean theater and other sophisticated diversions for the one million residents on the Siberian frontier. It was an impressive display for foreign visitors.

About the same time recently, the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda wrote that drunkenness was increasing in Novosibirsk.

The reason, Pravda said, was the habit of drinking on payday million which will be celebrat-

Begorra! What a Surprise Chris Got in New World

DUBLIN (UPI) — Two Canadians hoped to follow the route of today with which they hope to prove that American Indians bade Christopher Columbus a "top o' the morning" in ancient Gaelic when the Italian explorer stepped ashore in 1492.

"I am a great admirer of Columbus but no one with real knowledge of history or geography could believe he was the first to reach North America," Louis Lourdais, 46, said.

Lourdais and his companion Vintian Lloyd, 26, say they believe Irish navigator St. Brendan and other Celtic voyagers landed in the Americas hundreds of years before Columbus.

The two adventurers made one attempt to prove their theory in August by trying to sail the Atlantic in a 22-foot canoe. Their frail boat was ripped to shreds by the seas off the Irish coast and the pair wound up swimming ashore.

At the moment they are looking for money to finance a second attempt. They said they had been told $200,000 of which used by the Indians before Columbus landed showed a Celtic flavoring, he said.

They pushed off in their timber and canvas canoe from Fenit Harbor, birthplace of the Irish saint. Hundreds of villagers cheered as they sailed out.

HURLED ON ROCKS
Two days later their tiny craft was hurled against the rocks. All their equipment was lost and the two had to swim for shore.

Lourdais was undaunted. "No one has ever told me St. Brendan and his monks made it on the first effort," he said.

Eric Murray and Sammy Kehela of Toronto running second. "A study of the hands from the finals shows that we appear to have outbid the Italians while they won on superior play."

Jim: "I think that maybe our team tired while the Italians seem to be indefatigable."

Oswald: "So it seems. On the very first hand of the match of Alesio and Pabstici of Italy reached a reasonable four heart contract on the bidding shown in the box. The American West opened the three of clubs. D'Aleio rose with dummy's queen and proceeded to make his contract to score plus 420."

Jim: "A trump lead would have beaten the contract but we can't really blame our West play. Give East the black queens instead of the spade king and club jack and a club lead might have been essential."

Oswald: "The sad feature of the hand came when America sat North and South. They reached the safe contract of three diamonds. West opened the ace of spades and continued. South decided that West was underleading the king and rose with dummy's queen."

This took away all chance to get rid of his losing club. Then Edgar Kaplan of New York, South led a heart to dummy's jack and Garozzo of Italy ducked. The next play was a diamond finesse which lost. For- quet of Italy led his second heart and Garozzo gave him a ruff. Italy still managed to get a club trick and America was down one at the safe contract."

Patient Sets Fire in Hospital

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Patients at the county hospital were led to safety Sunday after a woman patient touched off a two-alarm fire in a locked mental ward.

Head Nurse Mary Davis said the woman was one of two patients in a second-floor ward of Duval Medical Center. The other patients from that floor were attending a lecture, she said.

Miss Davis said the patient set fire to eight beds then blocked the door with a bed.

She said nurses got the two women out of the room and evacuated patients from the third floor. About 50 patients were in the wing at the time. None was reported injured.

Patients were returned to the hospital and beds were set up in a lecture hall.

Parents' Irresponsibility Is Reflected in Hippies

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League

One of the most publicized aspects of the current scene is the "hippie" movement.

The sight of thousands of young people, most of them from middle-class homes, dropping out of society for a life of bohemian irresponsibility is widely reported and discussed.

A popular explanation of the movement is that they are rejecting the values of their middle-class parents. I wonder. In some ways they remind me of their parent's irresponsibility.

Hippies, for example, say they want no part of politics. While they are superbly integrated and without overt prejudice themselves, they say they don't care about the Negro's efforts to secure equality. Meaningful social action doesn't concern them. How does this differ from their parents' attitudes?

They, too, reject involvement in society's problems. They, too, including many who say they are "liberal," have abandoned meaningful efforts to join with Negroes to secure a better society.

So in this respect at least, both the hippies and their middle-class parents don't want to become involved in the world around them. The hippies "drop out"; their parents just turn their backs.

One hippie told a reporter: "When this many people decide a society is worthless, it's something to think about." He should have said: "When so many people decide a society is worthless, they should work to change it into something better, rather than running away from it."

It's too bad these youngsters don't share the idealism and courage of the thousands of young men and women who also turn their backs on middle-class values, or lack of them, to work in the slums and ghettos of our nation to help war on poverty.

It is disturbing that they don't get a tenth of the publicity given to the hippies. In fact the whole War on Poverty effort is under attack from citizens seeking to escape from responsibility.

Some of the things I've heard about the antipoverty effort sound very much like excuses not to support it.

One such comment I've heard is that the War on Poverty doesn't matter because riots occurred in cities like Detroit, which got all the federal money it wanted.

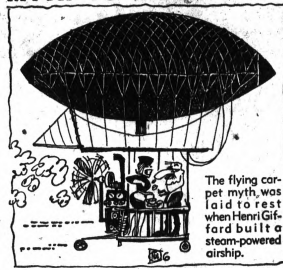

I don't know how that idea got around, but nothing could be further from the truth. The Office of Economic Opportunity, which administers the War on Poverty, said that Detroit only got 14 per cent of the funds it asked for. Some big cities got even less; New York only got a tenth of its needs.

I've also heard stories about all the antipoverty workers who were supposed to have taken part in riots. But the facts are that only six antipoverty workers in the whole country were arrested. That's probably less than the total number of policemen charged with misconduct during the riots.

Cuba-Bound Jet Makes Repair Stop in San Juan

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — A jet airliner carrying 40 persons from Spain to Cuba made a safe emergency landing in San Juan, P.R., Sunday after losing one of its engines over the Atlantic Ocean, the Coast Guard said.

No one was reported injured on the DC8, an Iberian Airlines flight from Madrid to Havana.

The plane radioed a distress that one of its four engines had gone out and it was losing hydraulic pressure. An amphibious Coast Guard plane from San Juan flew to meet the jet and guided it into San Juan as the crippled plane's crew had requested.

The 30 passengers were taken to the U.S. Immigration Office to wait for the plane to be repaired. Ten crew members were aboard.

Doctors to View Faith Healer

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine Medical Association sent a team of doctors today to observe the activities of Antonio Agapao, self-proclaimed faith healer who is treating 108 American and two Canadian invalids.

Agapao, a grade school dropout who once was convicted of illegal medical practices by Philippine authorities, is meeting with his patients at a beach resort in the northern town of San Fernando.

Agapao claims he can perform surgery without the aid of instruments and cure sick people through the power of prayer.

the faith healer. The girl was identified only as "Lynn."

Medical authorities here say they cannot prevent anyone from seeking out the faith-healer but that court action can be taken to stop him from administering cures. There was no immediate sign of such a move over the weekend.

Initial reaction on the part of newspapers was to criticize what one termed "dangerous hocus pocus." Agapao was denounced as "an impostor with a gimmick."

A columnist warned Sunday that, unless action were taken, the Philippines would become known as a land of quack doctors and fakes.

Another newspaper commentator, noting belief in such shrines as Lourdes, France, argued for "humanity's right to dream and hope for relief from suffering, sickness and even death itself."

EFFORTS FRUSTRATED

Efforts by officials and newsmen to witness the faith-healing operations have been frustrated by reluctance on the part of both patients and healer.

Dr. Pacifico Marco, president of the Philippine Medical Association, complained that his representatives "were driven away by burly men" guarding the cottages where Agapao and his patients were staying.

Joseph Ruffner, 47, a steel plant worker from Detroit, is leading the group. He says Agapao cured him of a back ailment during a visit here last week.

The Philippine News Service says it has learned that groups of Germans and British are planning to make similar trips to Agapao's cottage "happy and seemingly cured."

The agency said that according to the witness a girl, 16, who was suffering from loss of speech was able to utter a few words after being treated by

BIRTHDAY GIRLS—Miss Barbara Floer and her granddaughter, Gale Ann Sander, both celebrated their birthdays yesterday—the 10th for Miss Floer and the first for little Gale, who seems pretty solemn about it all. They got together at a home for the aged in Lancaster, N.Y., near Buffalo, where Miss Floer lives. Gale's home is on nearby Grand Island.

Night to Boost Scouting Oct. 17 at Area Schools

A special school night to promote scouting programs will be held in several area schools at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 17.

Boys interested in becoming a cub scout, boy scout, or explorer and their parents are invited to attend, according to the local scout council.

The evening is sponsored by the Clinton Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, to show people the Scouting activities.

The council includes 33 townships in Oakland and Macomb counties and the cities of Pontiac and Mount Clemens.

The council also operates two large camping facilities, Camp Agawam near Lake Orion and the new Lost Lake Reservation near Clare.

Boys who are at least 7 and in the third grade, are eligible for Cub Scouting. Boys 11 years of age and older may become Boy Scouts. High school boys 14 and older may become explorers.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Prince Charles, Britain's future king, began his college career as a freshman at Cambridge yesterday and was greeted at the main gate by Lord Butler, master of Trinity College.

A crowd of about 1,000 persons, mostly women and girl students from nearby schools, shouted, "Good old Charlie Boy" to the 18-year-old prince.

Trinity's 700 resident under-graduates are all men.

His senior tutor, Dr. Denis Marrian, said, "We will treat the prince as normally as possible. I am sure he will be accepted easily."

Charles will study archeology and anthropology for at least two years at Cambridge. Once the domain of the rich, the university now gets the majority of its student body from state schools.

On Monday, Charles will sign the college's admission register, which bears the signatures of his grandfather, George VI, and great-great-grandfather, Edward VII.

Astronaut Dedicates Home Town Airport

Astronaut Neil Armstrong returned to his home town, Wapakoneta, Ohio, yesterday for dedication of the new Auglaize County airport, named after him.

Armstrong, command pilot of the Gemini 8 mission in 1966, told a crowd of 2,500:

"I little dreamed 20 years ago when I was learning to fly here that, at any time, would an airport be dedicated in my name."

The Pennsylvania Democrat made public during the weekend the text of a speech he planned to deliver in the Senate today. He contended that the "thin" missile shield approved by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara "essentially contributes nothing to this country's security."

Clark quoted McNamara's own statements to the effect that the proposed ABM would be "ineffective against a sophisticated Soviet offense," and challenged the idea that it would protect the United States against relatively primitive Red Chinese missiles.

He suggested that if the Chinese really wanted to risk an attack on the United States they could deliver nuclear bombs from submarines or even in suits-cases.

County Drivers to Get Awards

Road Commission Banquet Tomorrow

The Oakland County Road Commission will honor 205 of its drivers at a safety awards banquet tomorrow night at the Pontiac Elks Temple, 114 Orchard Lane.

The drivers, 81 of them with perfect safety records the last seven years, represent 965 years of safe driving experience.

Each will receive a wallet-sized award card and a lapel pin from the National Safety Council, cosponsor of the program.

Frazer W. Staman, chairman of the road commission, will be the keynote speaker.

Road Commissioner Sol D. Lomerson will present plaques to three retiring employees, and Commissioner Paul W. McGovern will give the safety suggestion award.

RECIPIENT

Receiving the safety suggestion award will be William Burt, 2657 Judah, employed in the electrical department.

Burt will receive a $25 savings bond for suggesting the fluorescent strapping be attached to baskets on booms of traffic signal repair trucks.

The eye-catching device serves as a warning to truckers with high vehicles who may not see the suspended basket.

Injured Milford Boy Listed Satisfactory

A 6-year-old Milford boy is in satisfactory condition after being hit by a car Friday afternoon, reported a Pontiac General Hospital spokesman.

Michael Sientz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sientz, 764 Manor, was injured when he apparently walked out from the shoulder of the road and in front of a car, said Milford police.

The accident occurred on Summit near Squire Lane.

Driver of the car was Mrs. Joseph Luckson, 543 Washington, White Lake Township, said the police.

Peace Prize Winner Dies in England

LONDON (AP) — Sir Norman Angell, 94, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1933 for his many books and lectures on behalf of peace, died Saturday.

His best known work was "The Great Illusion," in which he tried to show that the damage winner and loser alike brought and brought no real economic advantage.

More than a million copies of the book were sold after its publication in 1910. For his views, Angell was accused of lacking patriotism after the years before World War I. He had no doubt, however, that Britain was right in resisting Nazi Germany.

Angell was knighted in 1931 and served briefly as a member of Parliament after his election in 1929 as a Labor party candidate.

Born in 1872, Sir Norman spent much of his early life in the western United States, first ranching and prospecting and later newspaper work. He returned to Europe in 1898 as correspondent for several American publications and served for nine years as general manager of the Paris edition of the London Daily Mail.

Violent Youths Overrun Frisco Amusement Park

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A break it up. He was quickly surrounded by a racially mixed throng Sunday night at Playland Amusement Park at the beach, and police sealed off six blocks for two hours before they stopped the bottle-throwing crowd.

Police arrested four adults and 12 juveniles for assault and resisting arrest, then herded the unruly youths into municipal buses and sent them back into the city. At least twice boys got off the buses and started all over again, but these local disturbances were quickly quelled.

Trouble started when two Negro men got into a fight and a motorcycle policeman tried to

Michigan's Weekend Toll

Traffic Claims Lives of 25

By The Associated Press

Twenty-five persons lost their lives on Michigan highways during the weekend. The Associated Press count of weekend fatalities began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight yesterday.

The victims:

Timothy Swan, 3, of Owosso, when an auto smashed into the family pickup truck which was parked in the street, and careened into the driveway where Timothy was standing with his mother and brother Saturday night. The latter were injured.

Mr. Henry Webber, 69, of St. Charles, and his wife, Florence, 67, when the car in which they were riding collided with another auto yesterday afternoon at an intersection in Lakeland Township in Saginaw County.

Paul E. Rabine, 39, of Mount Clemens, when his car ran off the road and rolled on U.S. 31 in Mason County near Freesoil Township yesterday evening.

Joadale L. Bor, 29, of Hillsdale, whose auto collided with another car making a left turn off M39 in Reading Township, Hillsdale County.

Amelia H. Martin, 53, of Mount Pleasant, when the auto in which she was riding collided with another auto at the intersection of U.S. 131 and M20 in Big Rapids.

Joseph Fong, 67, of Detroit, Saturday in a Detroit hospital of injuries suffered Friday night when he was struck by a car in East Detroit.

Archie Reinhardt, 53, of Birch Run, yesterday when his car ran off Woodward Avenue in the Detroit suburb of Bloomfield Hills and struck a tree.

TWO-CAR CRASH

James Shepherd, 20, of Windsor, Ont., Saturday night in a two-car crash on U.S. 23, a mile south of Linwood, Mich.

Margery Peterson, 75, of rural Leroy, a passenger in a car which collided with another auto yesterday at a U.S. 131 intersection in Oscoda County, south of Cadillac.

Jerry Hardley, 25, of Grand Rapids, who died in a Grand Rapids hospital Saturday of injuries suffered earlier in the day in a two-car smashup on the U.S. 131 expressway in Grand Rapids.

Len J. Ferrell, 19; Richard M. Underwood, 16; and Paul D. Underwood, 19, all of Taylor Township, a Detroit suburb; and James Ferrey, 15, of Lincoln Park, who were killed when a car hit the rear of one in which they were riding in Taylor Township Saturday.

PLUMMETS 30 FEET

Ralph Raymo, 32, and his wife, Pat, 30; Maurice Trombley, 50, and Clifford Barhydt, all of White Cloud, killed Saturday near Morley when their car crashed through a guard rail plummeted 30 feet into the Muskegon River. They drowned.

Charles Hoyt, 68, of Pullman, killed Saturday when his bicycle swerved into the path of a car and was hit on a rural road near Pullman in Allegan County.

Ernest D. Britton, 22, of Highland Park, whose car struck a pole on a Detroit freeway exit ramp Saturday.

Dorothy Jean Denning, 41, of North Adams, Friday night when her car overturned north of Hillsdale.

FATALLY INJURED

Willerton Dotson, 22, of Detroit, fatally injured in a two-car collision in Detroit Friday night.

Michael P. Muma, 18, of Grand Rapids, Friday night when the car in which he was riding overturned in James Township, Kent County.

Vanda M. Winegarden, 68, of Muskegon, Saturday in Muskegon when she was thrown out of a car in a two-car collision and then run over.

Dues Hike Bolsters UAW for Long Strike

DETROIT (AP) — Armed with a dues increase that will pump $20 million a year into the UAW's treasury, Walter P. Reuther says the 34-day-old strike against Ford Motor Co. could stretch into the industry's longest.

The longest automobile strike lasted 119 days in 1954-56 and was called against General Motors Corp. by the UAW to support wage demands.

It was UAW wage and fringe demands in the new contract which triggered the strike at Ford.

A special UAW convention yesterday voted an emergency increase in dues from $5 to $25 monthly for most of its 1.4 million members.

Reuther returns to the bargaining table with Ford today in search of a new contract he hopes to carry later to GM and Chrysler for matching or bettering.

NEEDED TO WIN

More than 2,400 convention delegates cheered when told the emergency increase was needed to win at Ford and "possible strikes at Chrysler, General Motors and other large companies." They passed the dues increase overwhelmingly.

Asked at a post-convention news conference if the strike fund was being beefed up to support a General Motors strike later, Reuther replied: "It's not directed against any specific corporation, but it could include GM."

'68 Dem Confab' to Be in Chicago

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats officially ratify today President Johnson's decision to forge a beachhead in the politically hostile Middle West with an August 1968 presidential nominating convention in Chicago.

The party's national committee scheduled speedy acceptance of a site committee's proposal to meet in a state with a Democratic governor and a city with a Democratic mayor — but in an area where the Republicans are in resurgence.

National Chairman John M. Bailey predicted Johnson would be renominated unanimously at the four-day extravaganza opening Aug. 25.

In a fight talk today, Bailey summoned the Democrats to back Johnson's Vietnam efforts "to prevent World War III."

The choice of Chicago for next year's convention came after Miami Beach, Fla., and Houston, Tex., made opposing bids.

Miami Beach, which will have the Republican nominating convention starting Aug. 5, turned up $50,000 short of the $750,000 cash and $150,000 in fringe benefits offered by Chicago.

Reuther also told the news conference that "if there is no significant change in the company's attitude in the next week or 10 days, Ford Motor Co. will have made a policy decision to force a long strike."

The emergency dues increase will be continued until new contracts are reached with the Big Three auto makers and the union's strike fund that had been built up to at least $25 million.

UAW members who make $3 or more an hour will pay $25 a month. Those making between $2 and $2.99 an hour will pay $15 a month and the handful making less than $2 an hour will pay the current $5 rate.

Earl Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, reported that the international strike fund, which stood at $67 million at the beginning of the Ford strike Sept. 7, was down to $51.6 million Oct. 6.

CLEMENT ATLEE

British Mourn Dead Ex-Leader

LONDON (AP) — The ashes of Clement Attlee, father of the British welfare state will be placed in Westminster Abbey, burial place of the nation's sovereigns and statesmen.

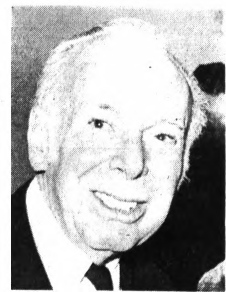

Attlee, prime minister from 1945 to 1951, died yesterday in a London hospital after a long illness. He was 84. Tributes continued to pour in from all over the world today.

The Queen said Attlee "made an enduring place for himself in the history of our country and the Commonwealth. In war and peace he served his sovereigns well."

Manville Dies; Wed 11 Times

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy Manville, playboy of the Roaring '20s and Depression '30s, whose marriages and monetary settlements made headlines for almost five decades, died yesterday of a heart attack. He was 73.

With him at the end was his 11th and last wife, the former Christina Erdlen, 26, at their Westchester County residence in Chappaqua, some 30 miles north of Manhattan.

TOMMY MANVILLE

Manville took his first wife, a chorus girl, in 1911 when he was 17, and his last in 1960. He remarried twice, was divorced 10 times, and widowed once.

He was heir to a $10-million asbestos fortune, and his divorce settlements cost him in the neighborhood of $15 million.

"Marrying Manville" was no misnomer for the son of the founder and chairman of the Johns-Manville Corp.

PENCHANT FOR SHOWGIRLS

He had a decided, and oft-announced, penchant for showgirls, acquiring dozens and marrying five of them.

As for his settlements, the tireless man-about-town remarked, "Manville is not cheap. At least I keep my money in circulation."

He spent other millions maintaining what he called his "honeymoon cottage" — a luxurious estate in New Rochelle called Bon Repos-Good Rest. He sold it in 1955.

He often said that, in addition to the millions his father left him, he had "lots of shares of Johns-Manville," and added:

"That's where I got most of my dough."

school page, which appears twice weekly. In the background are other editors and school officials taking part in the program.

Junior Journalists Mark Week

This is National Newspaper Week and there are at least 38 persons in the Pontiac area for whom this has considerable significance.

The 38 comprise The Pontiac Press high school correspondent staff — one in each of 38 area schools.

They write articles that appear each Tuesday and Friday on the school page. Each fledgling reporter relates the most significant happenings at his or her school in genuine newspaper style.

Mrs. Jody Headlee, school page editor, is particularly proud of this community-orientated program and announced a new internship program for promising students.

Starting next summer the top two senior correspondents will be offered a summer training-employment period in the newsroom of The Press.

UNUSUAL PROGRAM

The winners will perform newspaper tasks for the summer prior to entering college.

Mrs. Headlee said this was an unusual program in that it reached down to the high school level to assist in professional newspaper training.

After four years of directing the school page, Mrs. Headlee said she has noticed "a vast increase in the ability of the high school correspondents."

Fledgling newspaper writers face deadlines and assignments, much like their professional counterparts.

FIRST CONTACT

A correspondent's first contact with The Press would come with selection by school officials, such as a principal or journalism teacher.

The beginner would then attend a fall workshop presented by Mrs. Headlee where matters of style and content would be explained. This is where the writer's first copy comes under scrutiny, and contact with the editors and photographers is established.

Columns are then filed with The Press

during the entire school year, except for the winter holiday break.

The year finishes with a June banquet at which awards are presented. At the banquet next year will be announced the winners of The Pontiac Press internships for the following summer.

WORKSHOP WINNERS

Also announced will be winners in a summer workshop program. The workshops, for high school papers and yearbook work, are held at Michigan State University and the University of Michigan. Students in their sophomore or junior year are eligible.

Pins and special awards for performance and years of service are also presented.

Mrs. Headlee pointed out that the school page program is a basic part of The Press training policy. During the summer, college students in journalism are also employed.

Hopefuls Eying County's New Judicial Posts

By JIM LONG

Although details of establishing a district court system are far from being worked out, it appears that there won't be a lack of candidates in Oakland County for the new judicial positions.

Early indications have revealed that a number of justices of the peace, who will automatically be put out of a job Jan. 1, 1969, and some municipal judges already are eying a seat on the new bench.

In Oakland County as many as 22 new district judges will have to be elected in November 1968 to assume to a greater degree the duties of the 45 justices, and possibly the municipal judges, they will replace.

The State Legislature, convening this week for a special session, will undertake the task of coming up with a measure reorganizing the lower court system that will satisfy all concerned.

"We are faced with a very difficult situation, and the solution must be something that will be acceptable to two-thirds of each House," lamented State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford Township.

PUBLIC HEARINGS

Lodge is vice chairman of Senate Judiciary Committee, which last Friday ended in Pontiac two weeks of public hearings around the state.

Rainy, Cool Outlook

Umbrellas and topcoats will be the order of the day through tomorrow as occasional showers and cool winds are expected in the Pontiac area.

Tonight's low will fall in the 40-to-56 range.

Precipitation probabilities today, tonight and tomorrow are 30 per cent. Low temperature reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 46. By 1 p.m. the mercury inched to 50.

Continued cool weather and cloudy skies are on the agenda for Wednesday. The five-day forecast indicates that a warming trend is likely Friday or Saturday.

Red Sox Hoping to Stay Alive

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Considerable cloudiness and chilly temperatures were forecast for today's crucial fifth game of the World Series. However, the weatherman took some of the sharp edge off the gloomy prediction with "some sunshine possible" and little chance of rain.

The St. Louis Cardinals blanked the Boston Red Sox, 6-4, yesterday to run up a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Series. A St. Louis victory today would end the Series.

Right-hander Jim Lonborg, a 22-game winner who pitched a one-hitter in the second game, which the Red Sox won, 5-0, in Boston, will start for the visitors.

Card Manager Red Schoendienst assigned left-hander Steve Carlton, who had a 14-9 record in season play, to start for St. Louis.

Red Sox Manager Dick Williams said if his team won today, Gary Walewski would start the sixth game in Boston. Schoendienst was considering either Dick Hughes, the second-game loser, or Nelson Briles, winner of game No. 3 in St. Louis.

Astronaut Burial Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine Corps Maj. C. C. Williams, the eighth American astronaut to die accidentally in the past three years, will be buried today in Arlington National Cemetery.

THE CAMPAIGNER—President Johnson reaches for the outstretched hands of well-wishers at the Williamsburg, Va., golf course tonight before boarding a helicopter for his return to Washington. The executive was in the Virginia city to address an international education conference. Others in the picture are members of the Secret Service.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Police clashed twice with open housing demonstrators in Milwaukee's virtually all-Negro inner core Sunday night. Thirty persons were injured, including a policeman hit by a rock.

Police arrested 20 marchers. Among them was Negro comedian Dick Gregory, a leader of the protests, now in their 3rd day.

The violence was the first to flare in this racially troubled city since mid-September despite nightly marches, and counter-marches by opponents of open housing.

A shotgun blast shattered the windows of a police car in the neighborhood of the disturbances. The officers in the car escaped injury. No arrests followed the incident.

CENTER OF STREET

Most of those arrested, including Gregory, were seized after about 400 marchers moved from the sidewalk into the center of the street in opposition to police orders.

Earlier, police moved in on the demonstrators when they attempted to approach a band of white opponents of open housing also marching in the inner core where most of Milwaukee's 86,000 Negroes live.

Three open housing marchers were arrested in that clash. The rival groups had been parading on opposite sides of the same street.

A Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. Russell Witon, a hospital chaplain, was among those in the white march.

At a rally on the virtually all-white south side after the march, Father Witon told about 90 demonstrators: "We're not going to stand by and let any savages move into our neighborhoods even if it takes force. Until we have organization, you will be under the black law of rabble-rousing no gooders."

Milwaukee's Common Council four times in the past has rejected open housing ordinances.

Johnson Deplores War in Speech to Educators

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—President Johnson stepped from his helicopter into Virginia's elegantly restored colonial capital and deplored a world in which "We have fought among ourselves like animals."

"In this century," Johnson told an International Convention on the World Crisis in Education Sunday night, "man has spent literally trillions of dollars on the machinery of death and war... nearly 100 million people have died in the maiming and disease which come with war."

He told the 200 educators from 54 nations the world must face the shocking contrast of the fact that in an era of unparalleled affluence "most people end their lives unable to write 'cat' or 'dog.'"

The best minds of the present age can be made available to all through educational television relayed through satellite communication, the President suggested. The cumulative knowl-

S. Viet Bans Magazine Issue

SAIGON (AP)—The South Vietnamese government has banned an issue of Newsweek magazine for an article that the military regime says "constitutes a deliberate and extremely grave offense against the armed forces of the Republic of Vietnam."

The order, which does not affect copies sold in official American establishments, came after most of the 3,000 copies of the Oct. 9 issue received here were sold. Newsweek's article criticizing the army was titled, "Their Lions, Our Rabbits."

A government communique conceded that the South Vietnamese armed forces could be improved but said "freedom cannot condone press sensationalism at the expense of men who fight and die on the battlefield."

Solution to Oxford-Lake Orion Disposal Problem?

Paint Creek Sewer Interceptor Proposed

By JEAN SAILE

A new leg for the proposed Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor?

In the eyes of one area engineering firm, an immediate addition is "the logical long-range solution to the sewage disposal problem of the (Oxford-Lake Orion) area."

A detailed study of the proposed new leg — the Paint Creek Interceptor — has been forwarded to the Oakland County Department of Public Works for study and possible action.

Prepared by the Waterford Township engineering firm of Johnson and Anderson, Inc., the report was made on the combined request of the township and village of Oxford.

It advises that immediate steps be taken to secure capacity in the Clinton-Oakland Sewer and that application be made for federal planning assistance.

Asked to study three means of sewage disposal, engineers have opted for the interceptor over a purely local solution or one designed to also include the village of Lake Orion and Orion Township.

"An interim solution by one or more communities which excludes any part of the area will stunt the excluded communities' growth and will not give adequate pollution protection to the area," reads the report.

As suggested, the new interceptor would hook onto the proposed Paint Creek Arm of the Clinton-Oakland interceptor north of Rochester in Avon township.

It would proceed northwesterly along Paint Creek through Oakland and Orion townships to Lake Orion then westerly and north to connect with the planned location of the Oxford arm of the interceptor along Drahtner.

Johnson and Anderson, Inc., have recommended that it be built to accommodate the population of the area in the year 2000.

A 42,000 population by the year 2000 in the Oxford-Orion area is forecast as opposed to the current 12,600. However, engineers have plotted an ultimate population for the area at 215,000 people.

Constructed to meet the needs of the year 2000, the cost of the interceptor is plotted roughly at $3,447,888. This sum does not include the necessary right-of-way purchases.

If it were to be built for the ultimate needs of the area, Johnson and Anderson, Inc., figures the cost would run $7,066,812.

The main interceptor — the Clinton-Oakland — is currently waiting approval to sell $16.9 million in bonds and a contract with the Detroit Water Board is being drawn up by the Oakland County Department of Public Works. Acquisition of easements is continuing.

It will empty through the Macomb County Interceptor now in the process of preparing construction to Detroit treatment facilities.

It has been the aim of Oakland County planners to build the northernly Paint Creek arm in about 10 to 20 years, after the Clinton-Oakland was functioning.

Hard-pressed by citations from the State Water Resources Commission in regard to pollution of Paint Creek and area lakes and nudged by an ever-expanding population, the northernly communities are faced with the need to find a sewage solution immediately.

The disposal of sewage upstream from Lake Orion and the interconnected lakes is extremely difficult, according to the engineering report, since there is no continuing stream flow to which treated waste may be discharged.

For that reason two other solutions were studied for the Oxford area. They included the lagoon system with disposal by spray irrigation and the lagoon system with disposal into Paint Creek.

The large amounts of land needed for such operations were counted against the feasibility of their use. The further method of discharging effluence into Paint Creek would call for further refinement of the sewage than is possible in a lagoon system, engineers reported.

160 ACRES NEEDED

In combining its study with Lake Orion, the engineers found that 160 acres would be required for a holding pond and treatment plant.

A report of high operational costs due to the need for chemical treatment for nutrient removal and the estimate of a 24,000 to 26,000 population as the maximum which would be served and still not pollute Paint Creek has caused the latter solution to be rejected in favor of the interceptor.

While the details of financing the solutions were not made a part of the report, it was noted that an Oxford village and township treatment facility would run about $1,430,164 at an annual cost of $126,000.

The combined Oxford-Orion system was pegged at $3,496,341 with a total annual cost to the four communities of $294,000.

INTERCEPTOR COSTS

The interceptor, designed for the year 2000, estimated at $3,447,888 would cost the participating communities $224,000 a year.

The Paint Creek Interceptor, if constructed, would pass through Oakland Township and would be available to them for possible service.

Johnson and Anderson report that since the extent of the latter's needs has not been determined at this time, effect of their participation in cost to the other communities.

The report continues, "It can be assumed, however, that Oakland Township participation would be to the mutual advantage of all concerned since additional capacity can be provided at little or no cost."

It concludes, "We have not stressed the advantages to the village of Lake Orion and the township of Orion. However, we believe that the problem of sewage disposal is area wide and that individual community disposal systems can only be stop-gap measures which must eventually be abandoned in favor of an areawide solution."

Fire Chief Takes $11,200 Salary in Shelby Twp.

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Fire Chief Clyde Schmidt has accepted a salary of $11,200 retroactive to July 1. Twice last week he asked for $12,000 and the Township Board refused.

The fire chief said he wasn't satisfied with the offer but had no further comment.

The $11,200 offer was made by the board at a special meeting last Monday night and again at the regular meeting on Tuesday.

Both times Schmidt flatly rejected the offer claiming that the traditional salary is based on a 50 per cent increase over the lowest firemen's pay, which is $8,000.

Township Supervisor Kirby Holmes was the only board member voting against even the $11,200 pay which gave Schmidt a $1,200 increase over his present salary.

Holmes argued that Schmidt shouldn't get the $12,000 because he only has 17 men under him while the Warren Police Chief with 167 men gets $12,732.

Schmidt's acceptance will probably reflect the salary of Police Chief Robert W. Smith who has also asked for $12,000.

Action was delayed on Smith's raise since the police budget isn't set yet where the fire budget is.

Schmidt's new salary is a 12 per cent hike compared to an average of 15 per cent for the men under him.

He has been fire chief for 10 years and is the president of the Southeastern Michigan Association of Fire Chiefs.

Troy Adult Workshop on Parties Is Renamed

TROY — The Troy Adult Education workshop called "Facets of Sparkling Entertainment," has been renamed "Party P's and Q's."

The six-week program which begins tomorrow at 7 p.m. in Troy High School room 120 is new to the schedule this fall.

The course is offered through the co-operation of the Oakland Community College under the direction of Dorothy Thomson. The fee is $10.

UP FROM ASHES—An attractive mansard-roofed cedar shingle building has risen from the burned-out area on Oxford's Washington Street. Now occupied by Acheson Jewelers, the new building will be host to a grand opening this weekend.

Oxford Business Battles Back

OXFORD — What local businessmen can do without outside help has been ably demonstrated here.

Faced in January 1966 with a $250,000 fire which destroyed two stores and damaged a third along Washington Street, the localities saw the area sit in disrepair until last January.

At that time four men, Francis Baldwin, owner of the Party Shop, Gerald Orlich of the Oxford Lumber and Coal

Co., Dr. Rodman Jacobi and William Matus, executive director of Camp Oakland, decided to do something about it.

They purchased the property at 28 S. Washington and have succeeded in erecting a small-type cedar shingle building containing a total of 7,200 feet of floor space.

A sewer problem was solved with the construction of septic tanks under the mall.

Acheson Jewelers has moved into the front lower half of the building and the Oxford Board of Education has signified it will occupy the top floor beginning Nov. 1. The rear of the first floor, abutting the mall, remains unoccupied.

Acheson Jewelers is looking forward to its grand opening in the new location Friday and Saturday.

An Oxford establishment since 1928, the jewelers have relocated from their previous address six doors north of the new building.

A remodeling job in the third store adjacent to the new building has provided a furniture outlet for the Gamble Store, whose headquarters remain across the street.

Deadline Nov. 7 in Avon's Charter Commission Race

AVON TOWNSHIP — Would-be city charter commission members for the proposed city of Avon have until 4 p.m. Nov. 7 to file petitions with the county clerk's office.

Township Clerk Mrs. Thelma Spencer said such petitions must bear 20 signatures of registered voters and be accompanied by an affidavit of identity. Papers are available at the township office.

The names will be on the ballot with the question of incorporation for the township in the Jan. 15 election. Mrs. Spencer said the last date for registration to vote in the election is Dec. 15.

Keith PTA to Meet

Novi Councilman: Decision on Quitting to Be Surprise

NOVI — Councilman Joseph Crupi, the village's former president for some six years, said his decision on whether to resign from the council "will be a surprise."

He said he had no further comment.

While angrily opposing recent council approval of a method to levy sewer fees, Crupi had said he would resign.

However, Crupi's resignation isn't effective until he submits it in a registered letter to the village clerk and the council acts upon it, said Village Manager Harold Ackley.

"The village office has neither heard from nor seen Crupi since the Oct. 2 council meeting," Ackley reported.

AMENDMENT APPROVED

The other four councilmen unanimously approved Oct. 2 an ordinance amendment for a graduated sewer availability connection fee.

The original ordinance had set up a uniform $300 fee per property owner.

After the resolution was made to accept the amendment, Crupi called the council "stupid" and walked out, recalled Ackley.

Crupi had criticized Village Attorney Howard I. Bond's wording of the amendment.

'VERY CAPABLE'

"Mr. Bond is very capable of preparing ordinances," Ackley asserted.

Crupi also objected to "the failure of the council to uniformly apply the original ordinance."

"Some people had to pay and others did not in substantially the same situations," he said. There is much more to these objections, which "would take several hours to explain," Crupi said.

2-YEAR CONTROVERSY

Ackley said that this controversy has been brewing for two years. "It is the problem over the method of levying sewer charges for residents not in a special assessment district," explained the village manager.

Property owners served by sewers in a special assessment district have already paid their share for the sewers, said attorney Bond.

The $300 uniform fee was set in April 1965 after the Michigan Supreme Court ruled that special assessments couldn't be levied for sewer mains already in the ground, said Ackley.

Residents outside a district can hook into the mains financed by the special assessments.

However, the previously uniform fee does not allow for sewer installation cost differences due to varying land conditions and nearness to interceptors, explained Ackley.

The council will use special assessment levies — which reflect the varying costs — as a guide in determining the graduated fee, said Ackley.

The specific guide would be the levy in the assessment district nearest the property owner who is going to be billed, said Ackley.

Bond estimates that the new fee will begin at $300 per property owner. He said that the highest special assessment district in the village has an assessment of $2,200 per property owner.

The new method of assessing persons outside a district should "equalize fees in that particular area," said the attorney.

Different areas can't help but have different tap-in fees to the main interceptor, Bond said. These fees are included in a special assessment.

Home owners can pay the fee to be set by the council at once or over several years. Businesses must pay the total fee at once, said Bond.

Sesquicentennial Fete Ends in Utica

UTICA — The city wound up its week-long Sesquicentennial Celebration yesterday with a huge 175-unit parade down Cass and Auburn. It was viewed by some 10,000 area residents whose enthusiasm remained undampened by a cloudburst.

Sesqui Chairman Jerome Donahue issued his thanks from the committee to everyone who participated and gave their time to the celebration.

"We are very pleased with the overall result — the cooperation was great, and we think the activities helped weld the community together. The weather was great all week, too, except for a little rain yesterday."

Yesterday's parade at 2:30 p.m. was marshaled by Congressman James O'Hara and leading off was the new Adlai Stevenson High School band in its first public appearance.

Mayor Fred Beck and city councilmen appeared in a horse-drawn wagon.

Sesqui Queen Mrs. Dorothy Kaiser and her court rode in one of the many floats entered by schools, churches and clubs. Antique cars, fire trucks, many bands and clowns made up some of the other entries.

UNIFORM MUSIC — Tooting their horns for the 8 p.m. presentation tonight by the U.S. Marine Band at Rochester Senior High School are three students who hope to get new uniforms from the proceeds. Ginni Foss (left), who wears one of the new uniforms, directs David Jones and Martha Pixley in a warm-up session. Tickets are available at the door.

Team Sent in Philippines

Doctor to Watch Faith Healer

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine Medical Association sent a team of doctors today to observe the activities of Antonio Agapao, self-proclaimed faith healer who is treating 100 American and two Canadian invalids.

Agapao, a grade school dropout who once was convicted of illegal medical practices by Philippine authorities, is meeting with his patients at a beach resort in the northern town of San Fernando.

Agapao claims he can perform surgery without the aid of instruments and cure sick people through the power of prayer.

Unconfirmed reports from San Fernando, some 100 miles north of Manila, say Agapao has been attending to some 15 persons a day. Two unconfirmed "cures" — involving a 1-year old boy and a 16-year old girl from Michigan — were reported.

The invalids, accompanied by half a dozen relatives and friends, include children and elderly persons suffering from tumor, eye, heart and other afflictions. Many are considered incurable by doctors.

Each paid $1,350 for the trip. The first report of a cure was carried Sunday by the Philippines Herald, whose correspondent in the Northern Beach area of San Fernando said a Roman Catholic priest, uncle of a boy, 14, crippled by polio, told him that Agapao had made it possible for the boy to walk again without crutches after 11 years.

The Herald said the Rev. Joseph Keroske, identified as parish priest at St. Aloysius Catholic Church in Romulus, Mich., reported that the faith healer, had helped William Keroske bend his knees, one at a time.

"I prayed to God in my own way, and he (Agapao) prayed in his own way," the priest was quoted as saying.

The report said the boy later was seen walking without crutches.

WALKED PREVIOUSLY
But, in Michigan, the boy's mother, Norma Keroske, said her son had been walking this past summer and at times he could climb the stairs in their home.

"There's just not enough information to be able to tell if he's better or not," she said. "His situation has changed quite a bit from time to time. For awhile this summer he was even cutting the grass."

Philippine News Service said an "eyewitness who declined to be identified had reported seeing patients emerging from Agapao's cottage "happy and seemingly cured."

The agency said that according to the witness a girl, 16, who was suffering from loss of speech was able to utter a few words "after being treated by

Night to Boost Scouting Oct. 17 at Area Schools

A special school night to promote scouting programs will be held in several area schools at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 17.

Boys interested in becoming a cub scout, boy scout, or explorer and their parents are invited to attend, according to the local scout council.

The evening is sponsored by the Clinton Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, to show people the scouting activities.

Those interested in attending the school night should contact the local scout center, 132 Franklin Blvd., for location of the nearest participating school.

Cub packs, Boy Scout troops and Explorer posts and their leaders will be at each participating school to explain scouting, demonstrate activities and provide information materials.

COUNCIL PARTICIPANTS
The Clinton Valley Council has approximately 10,000 males taking part in scouting in more than 250 units.

The council includes 23 townships in Oakland and Macomb counties and the cities of Pontiac and Mount Clemens.

The council also operates two large camping facilities, Camp Agawam near Lake Orion and the new Lost Lake Reservation near Clare.

Boys who are at least 7 and in the third grade, are eligible for Cub Scouting. Boys 11 years of age and older may become Boy Scouts. High school boys 14 and older may become explorers.

New Zealand Bars in Uproar
AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Angry scenes, with customers serving themselves, greeted a new drinking law today.

After 50 years of 6 p.m. closing, pubs and hotels stayed open to 10 p.m. for the first time—but there was no one to serve the thirsty customers.

Bar staffs went on strike at 7 p.m. demanding higher wages. In many hotels, managers and their families tried coping with the rush but were swamped by celebrating crowds.

An "honesty box" was placed on the bar of one Auckland hotel. Said the manager: "Serve yourself and leave a fair payment."

"It's a great idea," one woman drinker declared.

Dem Clark Raps Missile Defense
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., claims the proposed $5-billion U.S. anti ballistic missile (ABM) system is "a very expensive flying erector set."

The Pennsylvania Democrat made public during the weekend the text of a speech he planned to deliver in the Senate today. He contended that the "thin" missile shield approved by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara "essentially contributes nothing to this country's security."

Clark quoted McNamara's own statements to the effect that the proposed ABM would be "ineffective against a sophisticated Soviet offense," and challenged the idea that it would protect the United States against relatively primitive Red Chinese missiles.

He suggested that if the Chinese really wanted to risk an attack on the United States they could deliver nuclear bombs by submersibles or even in suitcases.

County Drivers to Get Awards

Road Commission Banquet Tomorrow

The Oakland County Road Commission will honor 205 of its drivers at a safety awards banquet tomorrow night at the Pontiac Elks Temple, 114 Orchard Lake.

The drivers, 81 of whom with perfect safety records the last seven years, represent 985 years of safe driving experience.

Each will receive a wallet-sized award card and a lapel pin from the National Safety Council, cosponsor of the program.

Frazier W. Staman, chairman of the road commission, will be the keynote speaker.

Road Commissioner Sol D. Lomerson will present plaques to three retiring employees, and Commissioner Paul W. McGovern will give the safety suggestion award.

RECIPIENT
Receiving the safety suggestion award will be William Burt, 2657 Judah, employed in the electrical department.

Burt will receive a $25 savings bond for suggesting that fluorescent streamers be attached to baskets on booms of traffic signal repair trucks.

Injured Milford Boy Listed Satisfactory

A 6-year-old Milford boy is in satisfactory condition after being hit by a car Friday afternoon, reported a Pontiac General Hospital spokesman.

Michael Slenz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Slenz, 764 Manor, was injured when he apparently walked out from the shoulder of the road and in front of a car, said Milford police.

The accident occurred on Summit near Squire Lane. Driver of the car was Mrs. Joseph Lucynson, 543 Washington, White Lake Township, said the police.

Violent Youths Overrun Frisco Amusement Park

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A break it up. He was quickly surrounded by a racially mixed violence Sunday night at Playland, where groups of young men broke in, breaking concession stands, windows and looting cash registers.

Police sealed off six blocks for two hours before they stopped the bottle-throwing crowd.

Police arrested four adults and 12 juveniles for assault and resisting arrest, then herded the unruly youths into municipal buses and sent them back into the city. At least twice boys got off the buses and started all over again, but these local disturbances were quickly quelled.

Peace Prize Winner Dies in England

LONDON (AP) — Sir Norman Angell, 94, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1933 for his many books and lectures on behalf of peace, died Saturday.

His best known work was "The Great Illusion," in which he tried to show that damaged winner and loser alike and brought no real economic advantage.

More than a million copies of the book were sold after its publication in 1910. For his views, Angell was accused of lacing patriotism during the years before World War I. He had no doubt, however, that Britain was right in resisting Nazi Germany.

Angell was knighted in 1931 and served briefly as a member of Parliament after his election in 1929 as a Labor party candidate.

Born in 1872, Sir Norman spent much of his early life in the western United States, first ranching and prospecting and later in newspaper work. He returned to Europe in 1898 as correspondent for several American publications and served for nine years as general manager of the Paris edition of the London Daily Mail.

Astronaut Dedicates Home Town Airport

Astronaut Neil Armstrong returned to his home town, Wapakoneta, Ohio, yesterday for dedication of the new Auglaize County airport, named after him.

Armstrong, command pilot of the Gemini 8 mission in 1966, told a crowd of 2,500: "I little dreamed 20 years ago when I was learning to fly here that, at one time, would an airport be dedicated in my name."

A man on a municipal bus was attacked by one group of the boys after the main disturbance was over. His arm was twisted and his shoulder dislocated. He was taken to Park Emergency Hospital.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Prince Charles, Britain's future king, began his college career as a freshman at Cambridge yesterday and was greeted at the main gate by Lord Butler, master of Trinity College.

A crowd of about 1,000 persons, mostly women and girl students from nearby schools, shouted, "Good old Charlie Boy" to the 18-year-old prince.

Trinity's 700 resident undergraduates are all men.

His senior tutor, Dr. Denis Marrian, said, "We will treat the prince as normally as possible. I am sure he will be accepted easily."

Charles will study archeology and anthropology for at least two years at Cambridge. Once the domain of the rich, the university now gets the majority of its student body from state schools.

On Monday, Charles will sign the college's admission register, which bears the signatures of his grandfather, George VI, and great-great-grandfather, Edward VII.
