McCarthy to Enter Primaries

UAW Setting GM Deadline; Walkouts Loom at Chrysler

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers today was busy on two fronts — setting a strike deadline for bargaining with General Motors Corp. and preparations for local walkouts at five Chrysler Corp. plants.

peetied to be approved by the union's national General Motors council when it meets here tomorrow.
Bargaining to gain a contract for GM's 372,000 UAW production workers has been conducted at the subcommittee level for the past two days.
UAW President Walter Reuther was expected to return to GM after the strike deadline is set and negotiators know how much time they have left to arrive at a settlement and avert a walkout.

EUGENE MCCARTHY

Ties Candidacy to RFK's Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy launched his presidential campaign today on a platform of opposition to U.S. policy in Vietnam. He said there is "a good possibility" someone other than President Johnson will be the Democratic nominee in 1968.
McCarthy told a news conference if he is not the man, it could be Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

In fact, McCarthy said, had Kennedy been willing to make the race, he probably would not have entered himself.

The senator from Minnesota announced he will enter four, possibly six, presidential primaries in 1968.

McCarthy said he will seek support also in states where conventional electoral delegations to the Democratic national convention.

He said there is a possibility favorite son Democrats may challenge the President in Indiana and South Dakota.

KENNEDY LINK DENIED
McCarthy denied he is entering the primaries as a stalking horse to clear the way for Robert Kennedy. But he said Kennedy might fall heir to support built up by his campaign.

McCarthy said there would be nothing outside the tradition of American politics should Kennedy step into the presidential picture at a later stage.

The primaries McCarthy said he will enter: Wisconsin April 2, Nebraska June 14, Oregon May 28 and California June 4.

McCarthy is to announce in two or three weeks whether he will enter the primaries in New Hampshire March 12 and Massachusetts April 30.

MASSACHUSETTS PLAN
He said his Massachusetts plans hinge on outcome of a meeting of the Democratic State Committee this weekend.

Schedule problems could keep him out of New Hampshire, first of the primaries, McCarthy said. He plans a trip overseas which may include a visit to Vietnam.

Michigan Democratic State Chairman Zoltan Ferenczy said today he is delighted McCarthy has decided to challenge Johnson.

"I'd be happy to lend any assistance I might render," said Ferenczy. He added there was little that could be done outside primary states except to "encourage people to support him and rally public opinion in his favor."

Head Start Funds for County Nixed

The application for Head Start funds for programs in 17 county school districts has been rejected, it was reported last night by James M. McNeely, executive director of the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO).

Request was made for $28,000 for programs next summer that would have involved 724 preschool children.

The application had been presented to the Chicago office of the Office of Economic Opportunity by the county's executive committee.

However, McNeely interrupted the announcement that the application had been made to say he had received word it had been rejected because of lack of funds.

"It appears there will just not be any Head Start programs at these schools this summer," he said.

FACING CUTS
All national OEO programs are facing cuts next year in appropriations with some programs terminated and some reduced.

McNeely explained that some $520,000 has been appropriated for year-end preschool programs at some school districts. These funds are to last until June.

However, it now appears no money will be available for summer programs, he said, unless some change is made by Congress.

Applications rejected in the Pontiac area for the stated number of children include: Avondale, 30; Farmington, 47; Huron Valley, 30; Lake Orion, 30; Oxford, 15; Rochester, 15; South Lyon, 48; Troy, 30; Walled Lake, 12; Holly, 30.

'Cuts Too Few' for Tax Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee told the Johnson administration in effect today that the economies it proposes are not enough to justify a tax increase.
Mills gave his views in a question-and-answer dialogue with top administration fiscal officers who were uniting in backing President Johnson's request for a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes, coupled with spending cuts estimated at $4.1 billion, including $1.5 billion already made by Congress.

Mills, an Arkansas Democrat whose committee controls tax legislation, sprang on Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler a question as to what would happen if Congress passed a bill including the tax increase but providing that it take effect only when spending is cut to the 1967 level.

"Don't you think this means the tax increase would never go into effect?" Mills persisted.

"I think that's right," Fowler replied.

BENCHMARK FIGURE
Other questions by Mills indicated he might not be insisting on reducing expenditures for every agency to the 1967 level.

But he said if this was done wherever possible, "and we use as a benchmark the figure actually spent in 1967, I think we could reduce the spending below the level indicated by your figure by another two or three billion dollars."

AT 34 BARGAINING UNITS

At Chrysler, where a national agreement was reached Nov. 8 to cover production workers, the union still has to reach settlements at 34 of 138 bargaining units.

The agreement to cover 8,000 salaried workers, which was reached early Monday, was unanimously endorsed yesterday by the UAW's Chrysler subcommittee and its ratification was urged.

Douglas A. Fraser, head of the UAW's Chrysler department, said yesterday that strike authorization has been given to locals at five plants, including Detroit Universal, 1,200 workers, with a strike deadline at 10 a.m. tomorrow; and Eldon Avenue axle plant, Detroit, 3,500 workers, 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Both the union and GM have indicated there should be little difficulty in turning the economic packages gained at Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler into an agreement at GM.

WILLING TO ACCEPT

GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton, who heads the company's bargaining team, said Monday the company is willing to accept the $1 an hour increase in wages and fringe benefits worked out earlier at Ford and Chrysler.

But non-economic issues and local plant settlements could hold up a complete contract agreement at GM.

'Mass Poisoning Possible in U.S.'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A U.S. pesticide expert says it is a miracle that mass poisoning by an insecticide, similar to the poisoning of scores of persons in Colombia last week, has not occurred in this country.

"It could happen," says Dr. Samuel W. Simmons, chief of the U.S. Public Health Service's pesticides program at the Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta.

At least 76 men, women, and children in Chiquiquira, Colombia died last weekend after eating bread poisoned with a deadly insecticide whose effects are similar to nerve gas.

Another 86 Colombians are reported in critical condition despite antidotes rushed to Colombia from the United States.

More than 50 state and local health officials are meeting with Simmons in a conference on the investigation of chemical poisonings such as those in Colombia.

Commenting on the possibility of similar deaths in the United States, Simmons said in an interview there is little real regulation of the purchase or the transportation of pesticides.

"Take the loading of pesticides aboard ship, for instance. Ships are supposed never to load food with pesticides or poisons. But the list of poisons is not kept up to date. A pesticide not on the list simply isn't considered poison," he said.

The recent deaths in Colombia, as well as poisonings in Mexico, Arcadia, Fla., and St. Louis, Mo., show the need for training state and local health officials in modern techniques of investigating chemical poisonings, Simmons said.

GI's Grit Ends Drag by Tiger

SAIGON (UPI) — A tiger yanked a U.S. Marine from his foxhole and dragged him 300 yards before the leatherned fought the beast off with his bare hands, military spokesmen said today.

The Marine escaped with "minor wounds" and was undergoing a series of precautionary shots for rabies, the spokesmen said.

The attack occurred last night one-half mile southeast of the "Rockpile," a leatherned outpost just south of the North-South Vietnam border.

The "Rockpile," a small mountain of boulders, is literally smeared with the dried blood of men who have died there in some of the war's bloodiest fighting.

The spokesman said the Marine was grabbed by one arm. But he flailed at the tiger until the animal dropped him in a stream and fled.

The Marine's name was withheld pending notification of relatives.

Vietnamese tiger hunters have reported that during 20 years of war many of Vietnam's large tiger population have become man-eaters.

They grew casualties to eating the flesh of battle casualties, the hunters said, and are attracted by the sound of gunfire which they associate with dead bodies.

Hunting tigers for sport, once common in Vietnam, has all but disappeared because of the war. The tiger population has increased as a result, according to the hunters.

Conservatives Fear COG Threat to Local Self-Rule

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last in a four-part series on the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, a projected regional association of local governments in a six-county area.)

By L. GARY THORNE
Assistant City Editor-Suburban

Metropolitan government and the consequent loss of local self-rule is the big fear that scares conservatives and terrifies ultraconservatives. Hence, the proverbial jaundiced eye is cast on the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (COG).

Those with a right-wing political bent see a real threat in COG.

Sen. Robert J. Huber of Troy, a conservative Republican spokesman, does not entirely rule out the idea of a conspiracy, which is the most extreme charge leveled against COG.

"There's not much question the democratic processes are cumbersome. A lot of those involved in COG think the ends justify the means and would like to streamline things," he said, pointing out that a basic idea of "1313" is administrator rule.

"I'd be happy to lend any assistance I might render," said Ferenczy. He added there was little that could be done outside primary states except to "encourage people to support him and rally public opinion in his favor."

(1313 is an address on East 60th Street in Chicago where various professional organizations for municipal employees are located.)

CURB ATTEMPT
This latter idea Huber attempted to curb in a substitute Senate bill that would have specified the areas COG could govern itself with and also stipulated that only elected officials serve on the council.

The bill is bottled up in the House. There is a subcommittee and it is expected to stay there.

Huber, who has emerged as the main critic of COG, explains his effort as an attempt to keep local problems at the local level.

Huber's substitute bill set 16 areas that COG could take up.

"Rubbish collection," he explained, "is a local problem, but rubbish disposal is a regional problem, and a serious one."

Huber contends the council must be in the hands of the people.

Based on a cross-country tour of nine areas with some form of council of governments, Huber said these councils tend to start out as a loose paper federation, but more and more powers are added.

"There is no question that the ultimate goal is metro government. I don't know

Cyprus War Threat Said Over as Peace Envoys Head Home

ATHENS (AP) — The peace makers headed home today, reporting that the threat of war between Turkey and Greece over Cyprus is over.

U.S. envoy Cyrus Vance flew from Cyprus to Athens and a reliable source said he would return to Washington shortly, having completed his mission.

Secretary General Manlio Brosio of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization told newsmen substantial understanding between the Greek and Turkish governments had been reached and the danger of conflict no longer exists.

"My mission is over," Brosio said as he left for his headquarters in Brussels.

The third peace seeker, Jose Ratz-Bennett of the United Nations, left for New York.

President Johnson's special envoy hurried into conference with Greek Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinelis, who later told newsmen a communique announcing a final agreement with Turkey was being drawn up. However, he said he did not expect it to be completed today.

Vance came to Athens after seven hours of talks during the night with President Makarios of Cyprus. There were indications Makarios was at least delaying a Greek-Turkish agreement to avert war over his island nation.

But Vance told newsmen in Athens he was "very hopeful peace will be preserved."

SETTLEMENT RUMORED — Diplomatic sources had reported earlier that Greece and Turkey were ready to announce a settlement ending Turkey's threat to invade the island's 40 miles off Turkey's southern coast.

Vance had flown to Nicosia before dawn Wednesday, reportedly to get a quick yes or no from Makarios on the proposals. But it was early today before he emerged from meeting with the leader of the island's Greek Cypriot majority.

"I have had informative and constructive discussions with Archbishop Makarios and that is all I have to say," Vance told newsmen.

"I endorse that statement," added the president, who had been reported objecting to keep demands made by the Turks.

Smiles on the faces of the two men plus Vance's cautiously positive statement seemed to indicate a feeling that the Cypriot president's objections could be worked out.

Fast OK on Request for Peace Bid Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speedy Senate passage seems assured for a resolution formalizing President Johnson's request to seek United Nations action aimed at ending the Vietnam war.

Sponsored by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, the resolution comes up for floor debate today with the announced backing of more than half the body's members.

The resolution notes that more than 100 U.N. member nations have expressed concern over the war. Mansfield has accused the world organization of shirking its duty in not directly dealing with the Vietnam conflict.

Suspect Held in Kidnap of 2

An Avon Township man suspected of kidnapping two persons from a Detroit bar and taking them on a terror-filled ride yesterday was captured 12 hours later by Romeo State Police in Rochester.

One of the two victims, Veronica Sandacki, 27, a belly dancer, told Detroit police the armed gunman released her and Peter Uznajewski, 39, of Detroit in Macomb County in the area of 24 Mile Road and Dequindre.

Shelby Township, after a four-hour ride in Uznajewski's car.

Dennis Lee Eisenhardt, 27, of 2411 Enmons was arrested with a struggle at 5:30 p.m. yesterday by police who had a stake-out near his girlfriend's house. Eisenhardt was turned over to Detroit police.

Found with a loaded 22-caliber pistol, he was charged with kidnapping and carrying a concealed weapon.

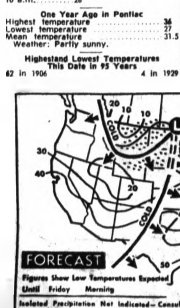

Peter Petkovich, 55, bartender at the Washburn Bar on East Jefferson in Detroit said that the gunman returned to the bar after earlier being refused service.

He fired two shots from his revolver into the ceiling and fled. Returning for the second time, he forced the man and woman to accompany him.

71 From GM Truck Complete Program

Seventy-one GMC Truck and Coach Division employees received diplomas last night upon completion of a comprehensive basic management training program at Oakland University.

Martin J. Caserio, vice president of General Motors and general manager of GMC Truck & Coach, and Dean Lowell Eklund, head of the university's Division of Continuing Education, addressed the graduates in the ceremony at Oakland Center.

The three-semester program, pioneered by GMC Truck & Coach and presented by university educators, is designed to provide supervisors and other qualified employees with basic management principles, written and oral communication techniques and industrial economics.

This is the second year of the program. Last year, 52 divisional employees participated.

In congratulating the men for volunteering their time and efforts to complete the study, Caserio said a successful manager is one who cultivates a continuing desire for knowledge and sets his goals for personal growth and achievement beyond his immediate reach.

STUDENT ATTITUDE — "Most things of value owe their existence to men stretched beyond their normal capacity—men who worked longer and harder than others," he said, pointing out that such men possess a "perpetual student" attitude.

Caserio cited the management program as one of the steps being taken by GMC Truck & Coach to encourage the perpetual student concept among employees.

Dean Eklund also lauded those who volunteered for the training program and stressed the importance of self-development to better adapt oneself to the ever-changing forces of change which impinge on every aspect of our lives today — professional and personal.

The graduates, mostly engaged in manufacturing operations at the division, enrolled in the program last Feb. 27. Classes were held Wednesday evenings and Saturday mornings to permit the men to attend following their regular work shifts.

EXES PRESENT — Among the executives and educators present at the graduation ceremonies were S. C. Barker, education and training supervisor at GMC Truck & Coach, and Dr. Russell E. Edlitz, assistant dean for professional development programs under the Division of Continuing Education. Both men were instrumental in organizing and launching the management development program.

Ass't. Prosecutor Ronald E. Covault will ask Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn at a hearing Monday to set up a sanity commission which would determine if Gravin is capable of assisting his defense attorney.

Gravin was arrested Sept. 29, 1964, after his wife, daughter and five stepchildren were found dead in their home at 2121 Garson.

MAIN INTENT — He pointed out that one of the main intents of the center would be to provide the community with a facility which residents could identify with.

Urban Design Associates, which has also served as consultants to school systems in New York City and Chicago, will perform the following work at a cost of $25,500:

• Investigate sites for the center and make recommendations to the board of education by mid-February. Studies would include demographic trends, racial balance, traffic, land use, relocation and development of a comprehensive city and education plans.

• Prepare full architectural preliminaries by mid-April. They would include educational specifications, cost estimates, preliminary plans for development of each phase of construction.

Whitmer said that $25,000 of the $25,500 bill could be applied toward the architectural fees if the school board eventually decided to hire Urban Design Associates as the architect for the center.

Likewise, if the new Pontiac Area Planning Council hires UDA, $15,000 for conducting detailed area studies for the school board would be deducted from UDA's total fee of $25,500.

Lewis will speak to the Board of Governor of the planning council tonight on urban planning.

Cranbrook Teacher Honored

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — William Schultz Jr. has been named the fourth recipient of the Independence Fellowship at Cranbrook School, said Headmaster Robert M. Sandoe.

The award is made possible by grants from the Independence Foundation of Philadelphia and carries with it the highest teaching salary at the Cranbrook School for Boys.

Schultz succeeds Carl Womberger, who retired last June, as holder of the fellowship.

Schultz came to Cranbrook in September 1930 and has been in the science department ever since.

The Kingswood and Cranbrook school students together are enlisting the help of seven independent schools in the area in an all-out effort to raise funds and contribute time to assist some 285 families displaced by last July's Detroit riots.

PROJECT SOUL — The combined student cabinet headed by co-chairmen Jim Brooks and Mary Duryea hope to be able to provide these families with money and goods to help finance, move and maintain homes. The project is called "Homes for Christmas."

The Birmingham Composite Squadron Civil Air Patrol now will hold its recruiting on Dec. 6 instead of Dec. 8. Young men will be held at 3:45 p.m. in Shain Park and women aged 13-18 are welcome to attend the meeting to be held at St. Anne Hall near Franklin Village Band will perform Harmon and Woodlawn.

Junior Miss Hopefuls Prepare for Big Day

Pontiac Junior Miss candidates are busily preparing for Saturday's pageant, sponsored by the Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce.

They completed the first phase of the contest with interviews last night.

The final round takes place at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Little Theater at Pontiac Northern High School. Tickets are $1 at the door. The public is invited.

Contestants from Pontiac Central High School are Beth Ellen Vershure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vershure, 1856 Sherwood, Sylvan Lake; and Diane Cheal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cheal, 219 Cherokee.

Entering from Pontiac Catholic High School are Kathy Slabinski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Slabinski, 1515 Kirtz, Troy; and Maria Bora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bora, 287 Judson.

From Pontiac Northern High School are Cathy Dalby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dalby, 2135 Richmond; Patricia Guy, daughter of Clarence Guy, 386 Maxwell; and Teresa Deans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dean, 138 W. Mansfield.

The girl selected Pontiac's Junior Miss will have demonstrated physical fitness, creative talent and scholastic ability. She will, in the opinion of the judges, be alert and poised.

She will receive $250 in scholarships, and the runner-up will receive $100 in scholarships and merchandise awards from local firms.

The judges will be Mrs. Margaret Demetrak, assistant editor of the Inter-Lake News and Lakeland Tribune; Mrs. Delores Donahue, manager of Hudson's Hair Fashions Salon at the Pontiac Mall; and Fred W. Beaudoin, history teacher and president-elect of the West Bloomfield Education Association.

The new Junior Miss will be crowned by Johanna Lynn Warren, last year's Pontiac Junior Miss. The winner will advance to the state pageant to be held in Pontiac the last weekend in January, also to be sponsored by the Pontiac Jaycees.

RELISHING HIS JOB — Jim LaVergne, in charge of the Pontiac Junior Miss contest, straightens his tie and looks forward to Saturday night's pageant. Looking on are two hopeful-Junior Miss candidates, Beth Ellen Vershure (left) and Patricia Guy.

Conservatives Fear COG as Threat to Local Self-Rule

If this is good or bad, it may have to come some day if people shrink their responsibilities as citizens.

REAL ISSUE? — "This is the real issue to come in the coming years, but they (COG advocates) are not telling the whole truth."

Christian Powell, chairman of the district 19th Congressional District Republican Committee, agreed somewhat with Huber.

"I definitely believe it would be a step toward metropolitan government once they get a toe-hold," Powell said of COG.

Powell, who said his GOP committee has not yet issued a policy statement on COG, claimed that much of the regional cooperation — the area planning efforts — was already being accomplished.

"COG, I think, will accomplish little more," said the local attorney.

ELECTED OFFICIALS — Powell added that unless all of the local representatives to COG were elected, the council would not be responsive to the people.

"This is another layer of government, it adds a tax burden."

Meanwhile, those who support the council call Huber's bill "too restrictive," claiming COG is a "voluntary" association — a co-operative group with no powers.

DeLoe Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors and an early COG advocate, described the council as a reorganized Supervisor's Inter-City Committee.

DISCUSSION UNIT — "COG is a vehicle of communication and actually it's SICC with a broader base," said Hamlin.

The county board chairman rejected the idea that school districts not be included. "Schools, is for you."

illustrating the importance of regional review, Hamlin said that Monroe County recently had five projects rejected by the federal department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for the lack of being part of a regional plan.

Hamlin also answered criticism that COG's executive committee would dominate its assembly.

"I'm never concerned about this. If on a cooperative basis, you can't have a consensus you're not going to do it."

He pointed out that COG would function through a contractual basis.

Despite the loud debate, COG in all likelihood will begin operating Jan. 1. The controversy also appears likely to remain.

Huber, for one, expects to reintroduce his bill to restrict COG at the next legislative session, assuming, of course, the present bill remains locked in the House committee.

Meantime, it remains a matter of personal opinion—at least until COG has operated for a time—whether it is a lamb or a lion.

25 Local Units Have Joined So Far

Oakland County, under the proposed structure, is to have 94 members on the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (COG). To date, 25 local units have signed agreements to join COG. In addition Oakland County itself has joined.

Of the 25 units, four are school districts, seven are townships, and 14 are cities or villages.

School Districts: Royal Oak, Berkley, Ferndale, Oakland Schools.

Townships: Farmington, Bloomfield, West Bloomfield, Commerce, Royal Oak, Brandon, Milford.

Cities and Villages: Milford, Walled Lake, Pleasant Ridge, Keego Harbor, South Lyon, Wixom, Orionville, Quakertown, Farmington, Beverly Hills, Huntington Woods, Hazel Park, Ferndale, Oak Park.

Foreign Press Looks at Americans Abroad

LONDON (AP) — Who are the Americans? Who are the Americans? The Italian Communist party newspaper L'Unita said a survey of schoolchildren in Florence showed: "The Americans who contain radioactive minerals are those with the pistols in Texas... The Americans are those who make washing machines." The Americans are those who make washing machines.

The paper said one 7-year-old answered, "The Americans are those who burn babies." The survey was conducted on the day a Communist-sponsored march against U.S. policies in Vietnam passed through the city.

To some other commentators outside the United States the Americans are those who try to occupy Brazil's Amazon jungle area, those whose world travels indicate trouble spots, and those who have won a major Vietnam war victory at Dak To.

Artur Cesar Reis, former governor of Amazonas State, held a news conference in Rio de Janeiro on the Amazon jungle issue, which has received vast attention in Brazilian newspapers.

Newspapers quoted him as saying the Amazon is being infiltrated "as part of a plan directed by the Hudson Institute of New York, at the service of the Pentagon, to install a physical base in order to maintain U.S. defense policy in the continent." He said a U.S. Air Force aerial mapping project in Brazil aimed at photographing land borders in the United States in two centuries, resulting in the creation of a powerful nation which humanity can and should be proud of," Reis said.

To Surprise Her or Not... That's Ringing Question

This season of mistletoe magic and special sentiment is a time when most girls receive their engagement diamonds.

When the time of betrothal arrives, many couples are uncertain as to the etiquette attending their pledge and its symbol — the diamond ring.

For men, first comes the question of whether to surprise a girl with her ring or ask her to help select it. There is no firm "rule" for this. He should do whichever he thinks would make her happier.

Many girls like to help choose this important piece of jewelry.

On the other hand, there seems something specially romantic about producing the proposal and the sparkling diamond in the same moonlit or lamplit or sunstruck moment.

PRICE SELECTION If he decides to take his fiancée to the jeweler with him, he should visit the store first by himself, to pick out a few rings which he likes and which are in his price range.

Many French disapprove of America's Vietnam policy. On Thanksgiving Day, Jacques Jacquart-Francillon, Washington correspondent for the independent Figaro mentioned what Americans have to be thankful for but added:

"The heart is not in it." UNMERCIFUL ACCOUNT

"How can they have an appetite for the traditional stuffed turkey and sweet potatoes when, hour by hour, the little television screen moves with new images, getting more poignant all the time, of the hell of Dak To, and that, underlined by the grave voice of the announcer, the cruel little scoreboards, always with renewed figures, keep unmerciful account of the rising figures of human losses of the battle while it is being fought, like the score at a baseball game."

Discussions in Washington of increased American troop strength in Vietnam led Viktor Meier of Germany's Frankfurter Neue Presse to assume that the Americans have succeeded in laying the foundation for a military victory and political stabilization in South Vietnam.

But Heinz Barth of the Hamburg newspaper Die Welt saw it as a "political show" opening President Johnson's 1968 election campaign.

The Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung declared that even "so stiff an opponent to the President's Vietnam policy" as Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., "now concedes that obviously progress is being made in Vietnam."

In the British weekly Spectator, Ferdinand Mount wrote from New York: "During a recent coast to coast odyssey, I ventured the proposition that Lyndon Johnson is the most unpopular president of modern times. Whether on radio and television, on campus or the golf course, around the cocktail cabinet or in the coffee shop, never a voice was raised in dissent."

Another British visitor, Graham Hutton, wrote in the Daily Telegraph that "American life to foreigners seems a mixture of race riots, demonstrations, murders and hippies."

But he said he found a boom in America's Midwest and additional "However troubled today, the American atmosphere is lightened by a strange sense of startling breakthroughs just ahead."

Grant Boosts Independence Library Plans

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Word of a $38,546 federal grant for public library construction has spurred plans for the proposed new Independence Township Library building.

The State Board of Education has announced that the Independence Township project has been included in its recent distribution of $874,000 in federal monies.

Mrs. Philip Smith, librarian, said, "We will probably be able to get moving now."

Plans are to construct 4,500 square feet of a two-story building on Board of Education land located on the Clarkston-Orion Road opposite the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection. The initial stage would be five times the size of the present library.

A $100,000 local fund drive launched in February has netted about $60,000 in pledges, Mrs. Smith reported.

PRESENT LIBRARY

The present library is housed in a small building next to the township center in Clarkston. Its facilities have been deemed inadequate to serve the growing community.

Santa to Arrive at Rochester in Saturday Parade

ROCHESTER — Santa will come to town in a parade at 2 p.m. Saturday. He will be escorted in the Hills Theater lobby immediately afterwards and be available for consultation with youngsters of the community.

The parade — the 16th annual Christmas parade — will have about 1,700 participants this year, according to Chamber of Commerce chairman, Jerry McComb, Jack Upton and Richard Seitz.

Twenty-one floats will be competing for five trophies to be awarded.

A new feature this year will be a service offered by the Hills Amateur Radio Society.

Relatives having complete addresses of soldiers serving overseas (APO's and serial numbers) will be allowed to tape Christmas messages at no cost for delivery to the GIs.

A trailer for this purpose will be parked at the Municipal Building, according to Dale McGorman, radio chairman.

Lake Orion OKs Bid to County for Trunk Sewer

LAKE ORION — A resolution requesting the Oakland County Department of Public Works (DPW) to proceed with construction of a trunk sewer along Paint Creek has been adopted by the Village Council.

Similar resolutions are in the hands of the village of Oxford and Oxford and Orion townships. Only Oxford has acted upon the resolution, with the two townships having it under consideration.

The sewer — to be known as the Paint Creek Arm of the Clinton-Oakland Interceptor and tagged at a cost of $5.5 million — has been proposed as a means of answering State Water Resources Commission citations of pollution. Only Oxford Township of the four areas has remained undecided.

The resolution authorizes the DPW to proceed with engineering there are hopes of obtaining a federal grant to assist in payment.

In other business the Lake Orion village council increased its employee hospitalization insurance policy benefits.

NEW BENEFITS

A new minimum of $16 a day hospitalization was approved, granting employees a $10 a day increase in benefits. Cost to the village was put at $480 a year.

The council has approved a proposal for engineering and resurvey work at Eastlawn Cemetery as presented by Kieft Engineering of Clarkston. Cost of the project was put at $3,810.

Farmington Twp. Supports Merging

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has unanimously approved a resolution proposing consolidation of the 36-square-mile Farmington area.

The resolution involving the township, Farmington City and the villages of Wood Creek Farms and Quakertown, was introduced by Township Trustee Earl E. Opperthaus several weeks ago. The board had tabled it for further consideration.

The resolution is expected to be acted

Imlay City Forms Historical Group

IMLAY CITY — In anticipation of a centennial celebration in 1970, the Imlay City Historical Society has been formed here.

Harold Muir, 470 Bancroft, has been elected chairman.

The society was formed recently by the Village Council.

Muir said that it is expected that the centennial year will be 1970 since the first settlement in the area was in 1870, although actual incorporation did not take place until 1873.

He added that the group is interested in restoring the Town Hall with its old opera hall on the top floor as one of its projects.

OFFICERS

William E. Knight was elected vice president and Mrs. Neil Taylor, secretary. The next meeting is scheduled for Jan. 8.

Avon Girl, Romeo Boy

Two Teens Take 4-H Honors

Two Pontiac area teen-agers, Donald Campbell and Romeo and Karen Rose of Avon Township, have won recent 4-H honors.

The National 4-H Service Committee has announced that Miss Rose, 18, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwin Rose, 670 N. Adams, has been judged best in the state for her sheep project.

Winner of a wristwatch from Wilson & Co., Inc., she has come a long way from her first time in the show ring. She remembers she grabbed her lamb's neck wool too tightly and when the animal, inexperienced in being shown, fell down. Down she went too.

A freshman at Suomi College, Hancock, she has been a senior showman

Planned Subdivision Gets Rezoning Okay

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Rezoning for a subdivision planned at Oakwood and Baldwin has been approved by the Oakland County Coordinated Zoning and Planning Committee.

The 13-acre parcel is in an area presently zoned suburban farms which requires five acres per lot.

Developers seek in their rezoning bid to change requirements to that of single-family development for which 12,000-square-foot lots are required.

The county committee's recommendation that the rezoning be granted will be presented to the Oxford Township trustees at a later date.

Vandals, 'Pot' Top Problems

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — School vandalism and marijuana smoking appear to be among the top problems shared by school and police officials, according to a meeting here yesterday between the respective agencies.

Vandalism was touched on first since only the night before West Hills Junior High School was broken into and three electric typewriters were stolen.

"I expect these break-ins will increase in the future due to our expanding school system," said School Supt. Eugene Johnson.

Bloomfield Township Police Chief Newton F. Tubbs explained that what is needed are detection devices which can alert the police to a break-in. This, however, was noted by school officials to be a high expense because every door and window would have to be covered.

Another suggestion by Lahser High

upon by the other municipalities in the Farmington area.

If the resolution is approved, the governments will probably appoint representatives to work together for a consolidation election next November, said a township official.

The intent of the resolution is to preserve the present governments until a study of the area is completed.

MSU BID

The Future Farmington Area Study Committee is awaiting the bid of the Michigan State University Institute for Community Services to conduct the study.

If this bid is accepted, the study should be done by next Fall, said committee chairman Dr. John H. Richardson.

Earlier this month, the board had tabled a resolution from Farmington City proposing that the township set up a moratorium on incorporation activities. The City Council had already declared a moratorium on annexation activities until the study is completed.

In other action, the Township Board agreed to put in a request for a federal planner from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

BRIGHTEN AREA

This request came after the board heard a report from a HUD representative on the generally brightened lower southeast portion of the township. The area about one-half mile square is bounded by the township's eastern boundary, Inkster Road, Shawassaw Road and Grand River.

Representatives from HUD have been investigating the area for several months upon the request of the township. The township is seeking federal funds to help improve the area.

The McGrans Offer A Warm Reception To Pilots At Their Orion Area Airport

Happy Landing at Orion Strip

By JEAN SAILE

ORION TOWNSHIP — It's like coming home when a pilot settles in at the small Allen Airport at 4251 Giddings.

Presided over for the last 21 years by Wilfred E. "Lefty" and Ethel McGran, their combined airport office-home radiates the smell of fresh coffee and good conversation.

Even on a poor flying day, it beckons people who drop in just to talk.

Lefty, who looks as though he should have been born in Texas, has been instructing at the airport since 1949. He and Mrs. McGran purchased the field in 1954. He counts hundreds of fliers among his former students.

In 1961 county officials purchased the 120-acre field plus 320 acres surrounding it. The McGrans stayed on as managers. Actually born in Ireland, the tall lean McGran came to Avon Township when he was two years of age. He took his first flying lessons in 1935 at the then Pontiac Municipal Airport and went on to fly during World War II and to ferry planes for the Air Transport Command.

Hearing Tonight for Police Chief

WOLVERINE LAKE — At a closed meeting tonight, the police chief here who has been asked to resign will answer charges of misconduct.

The charges were made Monday by the Village Council against Donald Vickery, 38, who has served as chief one-and-a-half years and is now temporarily suspended.

Village Manager Clifford Cottrell and former Village President Clyde Johnson asked for Vickery's resignation Nov. 6.

Vickery, under village and state law, requested, and is entitled to the hearing.

The board also agreed to pay a $4,000 share in the asphalt repaving of Union and George streets in Milford Village.

The project will be paid by special assessments, not yet approved by the residents.

The board's participation in the project is optional, although it owns property on the roads.

General Location for School in Huron Valley Is Okayed

The fourth elementary school for the Huron Valley School District will most likely sit in the northern part of the school district, somewhere south of Clyde Road.

Although the board of education picked the location of the school at a recent meeting, a site hasn't yet been purchased. The school is slated to open in September, 1969.

RATIFIED BY BOARD

Ratified by the board was its first collective bargaining contract with the schools auxiliary personnel — cafeteria workers, custodians, bus drivers.

Some 100 employees are organized as the Metropolitan Council No. 23, Local 92 of the American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees.

The local group has yet to vote on the contract which includes salary increases and fringe benefits. Representatives for both parties have been negotiating since March.

The board's vote on the contract was 4-3 to approve the pact. Those who voted "no" were questioning the board's ratification before the union representatives had a chance to examine the final wording of the contract, explained Schools Supt. Truman Owens.

The board also approved a projected New York trip for graduating seniors in May.

McNamara Resigns Pentagon Post

Generally considered its ablest secretary since the Defense Department was established 20 years ago, ROBERT S. McNAMARA's resignation came as a surprise to Washington officialdom and the Country at large. He will continue in government service, however, since he has been named president of the World Bank.

McNAMARA

The seven-year tenure of the former president of the Ford Motor Co. was the longest of any of his predecessors and marked the second Michigan man to fill the post.

As head of a department whose personnel numbers 4.5 million supported by a $80-billion budget, McNamara administered the most exacting cabinet office as he worked 12 to 18 hours a day streamlining and improving the Nation's military establishment.

Noted for his "computerized" thinking, the secretary saved American taxpayers millions of dollars by standardization of interservice procedures and elimination of waste and duplication of functions. Additional economies accrued from deactivation of outmoded and superfluous military installations across the land.

No war minister ever served under more demanding and trying circumstances than did McNamara, subject as he was in the conduct of the Vietnam war to the top-policy decisions of President Johnson.

Robert McNamara leaves the Defense Department an eminently stronger arm of government than when he assumed its direction, and the Nation is indebted to him for his selfless dedication to its welfare.

It May Take More Than A Couple Of Aspirins!

David Lawrence Says:

U.S. Can Press France on Debt

WASHINGTON—Maybe the time has come for the United States government to become as hard-bodied in its relations with the French government as President de Gaulle has revealed himself to be in his attitude towards this country.

His inspired LAWRENCE that American military forces get out of France last year, and now is seeking to repulse what he regards as an economic and financial "invasion" by the United States.

America can, however, become realistic, too, and ask France to pay back the money borrowed from this country in World War I and World War II. Members of Congress are urging this. The unpaid bill runs as follows:

• World War I debts of France to the United States include $4.1 billion of original loans and $3.2 billion of interest charges. There has been a repayment of only $486 million, made mostly in the early 1920s. So the total bill to date is nearly $8.9 billion.

• Of the foregoing sum, $5.1 billion is past due and in default, and principal payments of $1.8 billion are payable in future years.

• In the period after World War II, France borrowed $2.5 billion from the United States, most of it before 1950. Of this sum, $2.2 billion has been repaid, some of it in advance of the due date, so there is only about $300 million of World War II debt outstanding.

Contrary to the general impression, the debts owed by France for money borrowed in World War I have never been canceled by the United States, though a deferment was granted during the Hoover administration because of the international financial crisis.

The last French payment of World War I debts was made in 1931. Up to that time, France had paid off about $228 million of its debt, leaving $3.9 billion of loans still to be paid. There the situation has remained ever since, with no payments on principal or interest.

France has given as the reason for nonpayment the fact that Germany did not pay its World War I reparations to France. The United States government, however, has always maintained the position that there is no connection between the two debts.

Some $2 billion in loans to France have matured and are past due, plus interest. The United States considers this a valid obligation.

It would help the balance-of-payments problem of this country if the French government paid its debts to the United States government. Due to the outflow of gold, all sorts of restraints are being placed nowadays on the export of funds by American businesses to Europe.

Since de Gaulle has made it clear that he wants to pursue an independent course, economically as well as militarily, it would seem logical for the United States to ask the French government to begin to pay its debts and help establish in the world a sounder financial condition. For much of the French gold should flow to the United States, which is legally and morally entitled to it, especially since this country's loss of gold is due to a philanthropic interest in Europe.

This deserves at least some of gratitude on the part of France.

Bob Considine Says:

Brains, Brawn of Coup Discuss Greek Situation

ATHENS—Two rugged revolutionists run Greece today. Col. George Papadopoulos and Brigadier Stylianos Patakos. In the new setup—the umpteenth in a long series of revolving-door governments—they are, respectively, the minister to the prime minister and the minister of the interior.

The colonel outranks the brigadier. In the coup of last April they were, in order, mastermind and implementer.

Papadopoulos, a psychological warfare and intelligence expert in the Greek army, was chief architect of the take-over.

Patakos, a rough, tough tank commander whose legendary hero was Gen. George Papanicolaou, was instrumental in turning off the spigot.

"They must be blind to Communist ways. They are playing into Communist hands. It's a great pity they adopted such a policy. But now I think I see the beginning of a change. They are becoming fed up with that policy."

The brigadier's tanks and fast cars sealed the success of the take-over in less than three hours. "We were expecting a lot of opposition from the start and through the next two or three months," he said.

"We moved too fast for the Communists. We have 2,500 of them detained," he added, referring to a little black book he plucked from an inner pocket of his neat business suit.

"It would be approximately the same as what would happen if a person had his head cut off," he said in time. "His body would be dead. The consequences would be so tragic that personally I would rather not think of it even as an improbable hypothesis."

"Greece would be behind the Iron Curtain, because the only other organized power in Greece today, aside from our own, is communism."

Brigadier Patakos is bald—created with gray temples and ink-black eyebrows. He has two nephews serving with American forces in Vietnam, a brother in Salt Lake City and a sister in Sioux City, Iowa.

But the brigadier is sore at the United States for criticizing the April coup and shutting off certain military and other aid that had been promised. "They hurt themselves, not me," he said of the State Department and congressional figures instrumental in turning off the spigot.

"They must be blind to Communist ways. They are playing into Communist hands. It's a great pity they adopted such a policy. But now I think I see the beginning of a change. They are becoming fed up with that policy."

'Disagree With Letters Placing Blame on Police'

I disagree with those who criticize the police for pursuing a suspected automobile thief at high speeds. The suspected thief crashed into a car and killed an innocent young lady who had much more to live for, causing great sorrow to all who knew her.

It is an axiom of law that any deaths or injuries caused in committing a crime or attempting to escape rest upon the shoulders of the person committing the act. Shame on you writers who would throw the blame on our police who continually risk their lives to protect our lives and property.

Comments on Defeat of Millage Proposal

Waterford Education Association president, Mrs. Floyd, is quoted as being appalled at the results of the Waterford millage proposal. We have stood behind our school system and given them almost everything they asked for but with the rising costs they'll have to pare their budget along with the rest of us. Our Township board has raised property taxes for this year, the State levied an income tax, food costs are up along with everything else and we cannot take on more.

For the most part we are laboring people and it's an increasing struggle to make ends meet. Teachers who cannot remain, let them seek placement elsewhere. I'm sure there are more than enough dedicated teachers interested more in children and their education than in having Utopian conditions in which to teach.

TAX POOR

I voted against the Waterford school tax increase. I favor an adequate education for children and realize that it is becoming more a necessity, but I believe some present and proposed extras can be eliminated without seriously affecting a desirable scholastic achievement. It would be interesting to know what important part of education will be lost to the children as a result of this recent rejection.

Many senior citizens cannot afford constant increases in local, state and federal taxes and the additional costs for basic necessities. We have been required to adjust our expenditures to a fixed income and it is time some of our elected officials and public servants learned the same lesson.

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP TAXPAYER

I woke up to reality concerning the millage increase in Waterford Township—the reality that I pay 6 per cent tax to the State, my license fee goes up, and I pay school tax. This is enough reality to be glad the millage increase was defeated. I'm for getting some of this money back for the school system and leave the toll on "Big Mac" to help highway expense.

B. MARSH

3082 AGUARINA, DRAYTON PLAINS

To all who voted "no" to the millage for Waterford Township, the money which the millage would have provided was badly needed. The news of the defeat was disappointing to a lot of students at the new Mott High School.

LYNNE ROSE

MOTT HIGH SCHOOL

Regarding the school millage in Waterford Township, it is about time we do what we already have. If the millage were to be raised, I suggest we have a base rate for the residents who do not have children and a graduated millage for residents having one, two, three, four, etc. Thus, residents who have all these children in school, and want the very best, pay for it.

Two Comment on Press Support of Romney

Your editorial on Governor Romney's announcement certainly hit the nail squarely on the head. The Republicans will not nominate Richard Nixon. He is a good man but he is a loser. Those poll votes for Nixon are really "wait and see" votes.

ROBERT H. GORSLINE

906 E. BUNO, MILFORD

I must admire your courage for still standing behind Governor Romney (wherever that is). Brace yourself, though, as I see it Saint George is already trying to make the press a patsy for "misquoting" his contradictory statements.

'We Will Be Rescued From Corrupt System'

The day of the "millennium" is about to dawn. A certain "white knight" riding a shiny snow-white steed is galloping to our rescue out of the west. Our days of slavery to a corrupt "political system" with its attendant confusion of riots, murder, arson and all the ills imposed on the human race by the "system" are about to come to an end. The "knight" has so decreed. Who is this "knight"? Put two and two together and form your own opinion.

Question and Answer

I've lived on Crosby Lake Road 14 years. The logs are sticking out of the street. It's graded once in a while, but there's no gravel to grade. It can't be lack of funds, because they just built a new County garage.

TIN LIZZY

REPLY

Mrs. Loomis of Oakland County Road Commission says he is aware many roads are in poor condition, but lack of money prevents taking care of all of them. Money for such township-county joint projects must come partly from the townships, and secondary roads with highest traffic volume are usually given priority. The problem was further complicated by last year's heavy snows and bad spring breakups when six months' money was spent in four months. As for the County garage, Mr. Loomis says it was a necessity, and no funds available for roads went into the building.

Nonfood Purchases at 'Food' Stores on Rise

Food prices are rising again, but it should be remembered that the total bill at the stand of a supermarket is a poor gauge of food prices. The house organ of a large retail chain store system pointed out the reasons for this when it reported that one tenth of the housewives' total supermarket bill represents nonfood items—shampoo, magazines, aspirin, kitchenware, and many others. "Her 'food' bill is bigger because she's buying more non-food items at the grocery store," it was pointed out.

Moreover, despite rising food prices, the long-term trend in the percentage of family income that goes for the purchase of food has been declining markedly for more than 20 years.

According to a study of food costs conducted by a nationally circulated magazine, feeding the family took 25.7 per cent of personal income after taxes in 1947. In 1967, it is taking 17.6 per cent.

Another thing that is important for all of us to remember is that profit margins of the supermarkets have been squeezed thinner and thinner—from 1.2 cents on each dollar of sales in 1957 down to an estimated .8 of a cent in 1967.

The cost of food, like the cost of everything else, is directly related to the spending and fiscal policies of government. The long decline in the value of the dollar, which pushes up wages and all other costs, also pushes up the price of food.

As long as the prevailing philosophy of government is spend and spend regardless of debt, and voters sanction it, prices will go up and up, and the hardships of inflation multiply.

Longevity Suffers From White House Residence

The presidency of the United States has been called the toughest job in the world. In terms of life expectancy, the vital statistics of the presidents seem to bear this out.

There have been 28 presidents who died a natural death. They lived an average of 70.7 years, or an average of 1.5 years less than their normal expectancy at their inaugurations, says Metropolitan Life.

A statistical case can also be made that the burdens of the office have increased in modern times.

The 15 presidents from WASHINGTON to BUCHANAN lived an average of 74.2 years, or about 1.3 years beyond their expectancies. But the 13 presidents following LINCOLN who died natural deaths lived an average of only 66.6 years, or nearly five years less than expected.

Despite its actuarial liability, however, life in the White House continues to hold enchantment for a multitude of U.S. politicians.

Hawkish Stand Gaining Strength

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is more of a hawk in this war than the Johnson administration has been—so far. Eisenhower said he would approve invading the Demilitarized Zone in Vietnam, pursuing enemy forces into Laos and Cambodia, and even chasing enemy planes into Red China.

He spoke Tuesday night in a CBS television interview which was taped last Friday, three days before the news leaked out that Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, who has a much more restrained view of the war, is leaving President Johnson's cabinet.

There have been repeated reports in recent months of conflict between McNamara and U.S. military leaders who wanted a much tougher war.

Johnson and his top civilian advisers, who included McNamara, have been persistent in continuing the war against North Vietnam but have been waging it, and speaking about it, in more cautious terms than Eisenhower's.

LESS THAN ALL-OUT

Eisenhower sounded more like the Senate preparedness subcommittee which last August was sharply critical of McNamara's less-than-all-out ideas on fighting the war.

It recommended an immediate increase in bombing of all important military targets in North Vietnam, even if it risked war with Red China. It has long been taken for granted the Johnson administration did not want to give Red China an excuse for coming into the war by an American invasion of North Vietnam, or American pursuit of North Vietnamese planes over China.

But Eisenhower discounted the possibility of major intervention by Red China or the Soviet Union if his views were followed. The former president said the United States can win the war and should do so as quickly as possible.

The preparedness subcommittee, which listened to testimony from McNamara in August, said: "What is needed now is the hard decision to do whatever is necessary, take the risks that have to be taken, and apply the force that is required to see the job through."

VITAL TACTICS

The subcommittee conceded the war could not be won alone by air or bombing attacks but insisted these tactics are vital to a successful ground war in South Vietnam.

The senators, in a report on their hearings, stressed sharp differences between McNamara and what the subcommittee said were the unanimous recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and other top military leaders.

While more targets in North Vietnam have been removed from the administration's restricted list in the past year, McNamara was against bombing Haiphong's docks and up until now the administration has backed him up on that.

The Eisenhower statements and the McNamara departure, coming so close together, may have been sheer coincidence. But the most interesting question left is this: With McNamara out of the way, will Johnson move over to the Eisenhower-Senate subcommittee view and start making this a lot fiercer war?

British Spy-Setup Mystique May Fade

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff Correspondent
LONDON (NEA) — Every American schoolboy knows who J. Edgar Hoover is, the same as he knows that the Green Bay Packers don't really pack anything.

But here the name of Sir Martin Furlival — Jones, Britain's top spy-catcher, was a carefully guarded secret until a magazine let the cat out of the bag recently.

The magazine not only identified Furlival — Jones as the head of British Security (M15), but it named the head of British Intelligence (M16) as well. He is Sir Dick Goldsmith White.

The article will probably result in an overhaul of voluntary press censorship system here whereby such information is kept from the public.

In America things are different. Not only are J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI well-publicized, but even the Central Intelligence Agency has its own public relations officer and is listed in the Washington telephone book.

CIA head Richard Helms, appears before congressional committees regularly and is even free to make public statements.

Here you would search the London telephone book in vain for any listing of the Secret Intelligence Service (M16), which is the British counterpart of the CIA.

As for Sir Dick Goldsmith White, he isn't even listed in Who's Who.

He is the mysterious, faceless individual always referred to in James Bond books as "M."

HOPPING MAD

Although the government is hopping mad that the identity of its two top spy chiefs has been leaked, it is regarded in other quarters as a healthy sign. For the government's hush-hush policy has created an "almost pornographic public curiosity" concerning the intelligence services, as the Observer points out in a recent editorial.

By contrast, the American policy is an open-handed one.

In Washington, for example, any visitor can go on a conducted tour of FBI headquarters.

A guided tour of M15 would be unthinkable in Britain.

In the first place, no one is even supposed to know that M15 has headquarters in Curzon Street, Mayfair.

In the second place, the headquarters themselves have the sinister look of Bernardo's Hideaway. Some of their windows are bricked up. Big-muscled chaps in fawn-colored raincoats come and go.

At British Intelligence (M16) headquarters in Queen Anne's

Gate the muscles are not so noticeable. Fawn-colored raincoats, too, are in shorter supply.

Until now the identities of Britain's security chiefs has been protected by voluntary press censorship known as the D-Notice system. (A government committee issues D-Notices to newspapers listing subjects that should not be publicized in the national interest).

But now that system has broken down, and many newspapers feel that it should be scrapped altogether.

The Observer feels that the government should take the public into its confidence: "Let them admit that we have our equivalents of the CIA and FBI. Let the chiefs of these services become publicly known personalities. And let these chiefs explain their function in broad terms . . . as they do in America."

Practical Luxuries Feminine Favorites

Santa's stumped? Here's how to please Miss or Mrs. Claus in one easy lesson: Wrap up a fashionable Christmas.

Homemaker, hostess, mother, career girl, glamor girl, active sportswoman, more — one woman plays many roles. Into all of them she brings her awareness of the ever-evolving world of fashion.

She's equipped, too, with a dual (at least!) personality. From a practical point of view, she makes fashion work for her. Then, with an appreciation of all that is pretty and pleasing, she counts on fashion to decorate and dramatize her way of life.

Considering all this, it's far from surprising that her wardrobe is never complete. She wants to enlarge it — and will appreciate help from Santa.

Santa, and all gift givers, should be practical about selecting what she really needs. A miniskirt, a maxi evening dress and a midi (mid-calf length) coat are all perfectly fashionable items, yet they may be entirely wrong for her taste and mood.

ACCESSORIES

Fashion accessories — stockings, scarves, gloves, handbags, jewelry and such — are gift choices both wise and safe.

To be completely wise, Santa should check such things as glove and stocking sizes, color and style preferences.

As for "safe" gifts, too much caution can be dangerous. Even the simplest, most basic gifts should have a touch of flair, either in the gift itself or in the manner of giving.

For instance, classically sheer or modestly textured stockings are useful and appreciated — but they'll be more appreciated if they include a pair or two of glitter stockings for evening, or perhaps some colorful panty hose.

Separates and sportswear generally please, because of their practical versatility and fashion importance.

Since Christmas is a festive time, fashion basics alone are not enough. Santa should consider gifts with the touch of luxury, too.

More often than not, these combine practicality and glamour. A thoroughly practical handbag, for instance, takes on added glamour when the choice is a style more luxurious and costly than she might buy for herself.

Sports Season Yule Presents

Spare-Time Activities
Inspire List Makers

At Christmas, sports gifts for men are in season. Winter and winter - vacation activities inspire gifts ideas for skiers and surfers, for ice skaters and golfers.

Even if his favorite sport is in the hot-stove-league category during the cold-weather months, a gift to fit the sport will fit the season.

While winter has him side-lined, a man who is a sports enthusiast will be thinking, dreaming and planning for active days of spring and summer.

So go ahead. Give him the gear for fishing, hunting, boating, tennis, golfing — as well as for traditional winter sports and or indoor pastimes such as bowling and billiards.

Whatever his favorite sport, chances are it offers ideas for more than one kind of gift. First thought will probably be for equipment — rods and reels for the fisherman, rifles and ammunition for the hunter, clubs and balls for the golfer, balls and rackets for the tennis man — to mention a few.

SPORT APPAREL

Equally gifted ideas come from the clothing he wears while he's pursuing his sport. Here, a wealth of special shoes and boots, jackets and slacks, shirts and shorts is available for practical, and pleasing, gift giving.

After the basics, there are noteworthy novelties with usefulness built in — for instance, this season's new battery-operated socks, to keep toes toasty during outdoor sports excursions.

Other inspirations come from variety of accessories that every sportsman needs. These range widely, from the tackle box for the fisherman and the bowler's ball carrier or tote bag to more elaborate ideas—a golfing cart or, for many sportsmen, powerful binoculars.

Camping, a family activity, opens the way to gifts for all.

A Real Feet! Slippers for Whole Family

For a warm and wonderful Christmas, why not out-foot the family in soft, smart slippers?

New leather slipper styles look equally well lounging about living room, bedroom or den, and should suit everyone on the list right down to the ground, notes Leather Industries of America.

Slippers meet Mother's every mood and need. For her glamorous moments, there are mules and sandals in smooth, suede, embossed and patent leathers. Carry little heels, bows, feathers, bright or pastel colors add foot flattery.

For easy-going hours around the house, the choice for her might be tailored styles — simple leather scuffs or closed slippers, to go with her robes and lounging clothes.

Bright, breezy teens usually take to booties, perhaps cozily lined in shearling, or styles sporting chain trim or outsized zippers.

BOOT LOOK

For the teen male, the boot look is appreciated — as are new casual versions of the monk-strap slipper.

Idea for Dad might be the bedroom boot, shearling-lined, or the sleek-looking opera slipper, for comfort with classic simplicity.

Keeping the kids' feet shod at those long-playing bedtimes or on cold winter mornings is often a problem.

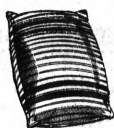

Coax them to wear their slippers, with gifts of gay and colorful styles in smooth or brushed leather.

FAVORED STYLES

Boys favor boot types or slippers that look just like Dad's, while little girls like such motifs as dolls' faces or pretty bows. Travelers might appreciate a pliable pair of leather slippers that fold into their own case.

For any trip, long or short, these practical packages are ready to be tucked away into suitcase or traveling bag. They make a fine gift for the away-at-college student, too.

Fur Remains in Top Place as Luxury Gift

From her first capelet or stole worn to proms and other special occasions to the ultimate luxury of a full length fur coat, fur fashions meet the approval of every girl.

Thus, the irresistible allure fur holds for all women makes it a naturally wise gift choice of Santa.

Even the lucky owner of several furs is likely to find the new fur fashions so exciting that she'll welcome the wardrobe addition of a '67 fur gift.

Chances are, she doesn't already have, but might like, one of these: little furs or full-length furs in sparkling "white Christmas" hues; a walking-length coat, with fit and flare; a trend-setting mid-length coat; a belted-look coat.

If she really has everything in the way of fur coats and wraps, then the gift idea might be fur apparel of another sort — a hostess robe, a pantsuit or even a dress of fur.

FIRST FUR

First fur gifts to fit Santa's budget might be one of two types — the important little fur, including capes, jackets, stoles, or the fashionable fur furs so popular with college girls, career girls and smart homemakers.

Easy time payment plans help Santa pay for fur gifts with a minimum of worry. And these plans usually begin after Christmas.

Unless he knows exactly what she pictures as the "fur of her dreams," Santa better trust the selection of a fur gift to his lady.

Gift certificates to a furrier or fur department allow her to make the right selection.

Tool Sharp Gift for Mr. Fix-It

Shop for Him and Help Home Budget

Let's face it. Every man is a Mr. Fix-It at heart. To him, holiday happiness is a new tool or tool kit, so he can make it, repair it or decorate it himself — and "it" might be almost anything around the house.

Since the fix-it specialist is proud and pleased to receive gifts of tools, the woman who gives them may be excused for any ulterior motive she may have. But she probably does select tools with the thought that home and budget will certainly benefit from all the maintenance and modernizing jobs that gifted man is going to do.

The majority of men have a section of the house reserved as a workshop, where they already have an assortment of tools, but there are always the new ones they've been meaning to get. Of course, they're delighted to receive the most modern ideas in equipment.

New portable power tools perform with versatility and are easy to carry to the job. Many are made with speed controls — the newest sabre saw, for instance.

Mr. Fix-It: an dial a slower speed for sheet metal, steel and hard materials or intricate design work; a faster speed for plastics, brass, aluminum and softer metals; and high speed for cutting wood and related soft materials.

MAINTENANCE TOOLS

For the man who wants to move in on maintenance jobs and fix-ups, there are drills, orbital sanders, saws of every variety. Whether it's putting a new set of cabinet hinges in the kitchen, refinishing a table or chest, or cutting a pocket in a new sink top or vanity, these tools offer excellent flexibility and value.

Basic hand tools are all-important, both for the beginning handyman now outfitting his workshop and the experienced home workman who is ready for some replacements. Screwdrivers, hammers, rules, chisels, levels and others can be bought individually, as low-cost gifts from the children. On a larger scale of giving, these basics come in complete kits, which might be a from-the-family present.

Survivor Recalls Lake Huron Tragedy

HARBOR BEACH (AP)—The lone survivor of the ill-fated freighter Daniel J. Morrell will never forget the terror-filled night of a year ago.

"How lucky I am," recalled Dennis Hale, 27, of Ashtabula, Ohio, in a telephone interview. "I lost a lot of good friends. It was a terrible thing..."

On that tragic night, 28 of the three crewmen who died back to the maritime trades. Hale is attending school to train for machinist work in a program arranged through the Ohio Vocational Rehabilitation Department.

He said he is feeling good. He suffered severe frostbite and lost 25 pounds during his ordeal in storms. And he is not going much time on their feet, Hale is pointing now toward the inspection end of machinist work.

The species rodentia, from which the rat originated, first appeared on earth 50 million years ago and so are 50 times older than man.

Early Tin Mines

As early as the 4th century B.C., tin from Cornwall, England, was traded in the Mediterranean.

Most of Cornwall's tin mines are now abandoned but two remain in operation. In one shaft extending under the Atlantic, miners can hear water rolling huge boulders on the sea floor above them.

Romney Son Due in N.H.

NASHUA, N.H. (AP)—Scott Romney, son of Michigan Gov. George Romney, was expected to be accompanied by his wife, Ronna. They live in Waterford, Mass.

Today's schedule called for campaigning at factory gates, shopping and business centers in Nashua and the Hillsboro County towns of Milford, Wilton, Greenville, New Ipswich, Brookline, Hollis, Hudson, Pelham, Windham and Derry.

Fund to Cut Big Mac Toll May Be Short

LANSING (AP)—State Treasurer Allison Green says money allocated for retirement of Mackinac Bridge bonds may not be enough to lower the bridge toll as much as was intended.

The $3.5 million earmarked for the Mackinac Bridge Authority from a gasoline tax hike will be "cutting it close," Green said.

The proposed toll reduction, created again or the appropriation would have to be increased over the $3.5 million, he said.

about $1.50 for the same trip, was based on the idea of an annual bridge traffic growth of five per cent, plus the projection that the toll reduction would increase bridge traffic another 10 per cent, Green said.

If the traffic growth does not develop as anticipated, the tolls would either have to be increased again or the appropriation would have to be increased over the $3.5 million, he said.

SURE TO STUPEFY — When this versatile vehicle takes to the water, it's sure to create a tidal wave of curious onlookers. The sensation is renewed as the amphibious car clambers ashore. The Amphicar is manufactured in West Germany and distributed by Ranchero Motors, Carlstadt, N.J.

Car by Land, Boat by Sea, Amphi Has 'Shock' Appeal

By BOB COCHRAN and DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DAVIS PARK, Fire Island, N.Y. — When we drove the car down the boat ramp and into Great South Bay there were, as you might imagine, a few stunned bystanders. "Look, daddy," we heard one tot scream "There's a car in the water."

Daddy, we noted, seemed about to tell us that cars can't swim as he turned to look in the direction of sonny's finger. But we think he gagged on his cigarette, because all he could say was something like "Heeeyagghh!"

We smiled knowingly as we engaged the twin propellers and chugged into the harbor, radio blaring and hand tapping the horn button. The car happened to be a boat, too.

The surest way to stupefy the stinkpot set and the canvas crowd is to buy an Amphicar. And even though this neat little amphibian can barely manage 10 m.p.h. at sea and 65 on land, it creates at least as much attention as a Chinese junk in the middle of Lake Lyndon B. Johnson.

GERMAN-MADE

Amphicar is manufactured in West Germany by Werke Karlsruhle, part of the giant combine which also produces such ordinary vehicles as Mercedes and BMW. Its American distributor is Ranchero Motors, Carlstadt, N.J.

Amphibious vehicles are, of course, nothing new. Big Army ducks have been lumbering around since World War II and old vets may remember seagoing Jeeps (but not fondly since they had a tendency to sink).

Amphicar, powered by a four-cylinder, 43-horsepower Triumph engine, is unsinkable. An electric bilge pump can push unwanted water out of the innards at the rate of six gallons a minute.

Although one of the men at Ranchero Motors told us he has driven the car off an eight-foot pier without drowning the engine or the occupants, our test of the car was not so reckless.

MINIBATTLESHIP

We drove it into Great South Bay at Patchogue, N.Y., and headed for Fire Island, about three miles across a moderate chop. At full throttle, the engine gives the twin screws sufficient power to create a wake to rival a minibattleship.

Since the craft is really more of a car than a boat, the sailing sensation is somewhat like plowing down a turnpike in a heavy rain. The weight (2,300 pounds) and the bargelike bow means a flat ride. One does not ride with the swell, one chops through it.

Because of its curiosity value, Amphicar is the Pied Piper of the bounding main. Pleasure boats will veer off course for the second look, thus creating sizable wakes near the car, thus drenching occupants.

Clambering out of the water is surely as great a thrill as clambering in. The pilot merely points the Amphi at a likely looking beach, throws the land transmission into first, bringing power to the rear wheels, and simply churns ashore.

NOISE COLLECTS

On land, the car has a trucklike feel and, because the engine is watertight, the noise collects in the passenger compartment. It is considerable.

Yet, for $3,000, the owner eliminates the need for a boat, trailer and car. He has all three in one. Admittedly, Amphicar does not match speedboat performance at sea or Cadillac performance ashore. But when did you last see a Cadillac in Lake Michigan? Or a speedboat on Route 66?

Now, if they can only get it to fly . . .

SPINOFFS: Can you really save money if you buy a car in Europe at tax-free prices? Auto-Europe, Inc., one of the country's largest firms specializing in the sale of cars in Europe, says, understandably, yes.

You can save $190 on a Volkswagen and $3,000 on a Silver Shadow Rolls-Royce, although the chances are you'll find something closer to the center of the scale.

If you're tempted by, say, an Austin-Healey, you'll save $479—more than enough for a round-trip air ticket to Europe.

Firms like Auto-Europe have simplified the procedure for purchasing a car. They also take care of all the details in having it shipped back to the States. The cars are registered, insured and are "Americanized" with the right equipment and specs.

Man-Made Species Devised

New Grain Could Avert Crisis

WINNEPEG, MANITOBA (NEA) — Dire predictions about the world's food crisis may have to be revised if the new species of grain reaches the potential its Canadian developers believe it will.

This first man-made grain could virtually double the world's supply — if properly used and accepted by grain-growing nations.

The significant announcement was made today at the University of Manitoba where scientists have been conducting intensive research on grain synthesis for 13 years.

The grain, called triticale, is a cross between durum wheat and rye but it is not just another variety of wheat, any more than a tangerine is a grapefruit or a cashew is a walnut.

It is a new grain, not a hybrid of an old one. It differs in content, durability and yield and is able to reproduce itself.

Although modest scientists at the University of Manitoba point out that the new grain is not the miracle that will fill the stomachs of the world's hungry, it can "make a significant contribution in terms of alleviating the world's food problem," says Dr. L. H. Shebeski, dean of the faculty of the agriculture college.

"We feel," he adds, "that the only way to properly feed the world's population is to curb overpopulation."

That food problem is very real. Experts now agree that unless world food production increases significantly by 1985, as President Johnson put it, "all the combined production, on all the acres, of all the agriculturally productive nations, will not meet the food needs of the developing nations."

The Canadian scientists therefore feel that their triticale can help save the lives of millions.

GROWS IN DRY AREAS

The grain appears to grow better than wheat in very dry conditions — in the arid countries where people today suffer from chronic food shortages.

It may also be of interest to American wheat growers in five states producing 30 per cent of the nation's wheat — Kansas, Mexico and Texas — where a current drought is expected to reduce the 1967 yield drastically.

If a farmer can raise 55 bushels of triticale on an acre of ground where he could otherwise raise 40 bushels of wheat, he is providing that much more food. This ratio of yield has been proven in Canadian test plots.

But better: If the farmer can raise 40 bushels of triticale per acre in a drought year when wheat could manage 20 at best, as was the case here in 1961, the contribution of this new grain is considerable.

SUPERIOR PROTEIN

Plus the fact that it contains up to 4 per cent more protein than wheat. The protein quality is superior to wheat.

Reason for this massive increase in yield per acre is the fact that the triticale head — the part which is used for food — is at least twice the size of the head of a standard wheat plant.

The Canadian scientists have recently discovered that triticale apparently grows better when planted in close rows about six to eight inches apart.

Since wheat rows are normally spaced 12 inches apart, that much more triticale can successfully be planted on an acre. Though unknown to even the average wheat grower, triticale is no stranger to plant scientists. Experimentation has been conducted since 1883, when wheat and rye were first crossed.

From the two Latin names of its parents—triticum (wheat) and secale (rye) — came the name for the offspring, triticale.

But after this first breakthrough, efforts to develop the new grain effectively were discouraged for the next 75 years. Research programs on triticale opened and later folded for lack of positive results.

The early triticale grain was anemic-looking and shrivelingly tall — over a man's head — making it a problem to harvest.

YIELDS LOW

Yields and fertility were low. And it was highly susceptible to ergot, a fungus disease that can cause both humans and animals to abort.

Birth of the modern triticale began in 1954 at the University of Manitoba, when a chair in plant research was established in the name of Samuel Rosner, by the family of Samuel Brofman, his son-in-law.

Triticale was chosen as the subject of the research by Dr. Shebeski. The first commercial variety of triticale will be called Rosner grain.

As progress in development of the grain became apparent, support was added.

More money for research was provided by the Manitoba Department of Agriculture, and the Rockefeller Foundation.

Test plots were opened in Mexico to speed the program with growing tests in winter as well as summer.

The entire project has an international flavor. The success of the Manitoba experiments are partly a result of collecting samples of the strongest triticale strains developed around the world, and crossing them.

Winnipeg scientists incorporated strains of their own, and a useful grain began to emerge at last.

Size of the stalk shrank, but the seed itself lost its dry, shriveled look and swelled to a plump, healthy-looking kernel.

Development is not yet complete, any more than civilization remained satisfied with the scrawny ears of Indian corn. Yet triticale could be on the market as a seed grain as early as 1974.

Its greatest potential at present appears to be in use as an animal feed.

No Such 'Man Who Has Everything'

What about that legendary "man who has everything"? Does he really exist?

Many women, shopping for gifts to please men, would firmly insist that he does exist — that he is, in fact, the average man.

Asked what he wants for Christmas, he'll shyly mumble, "Don't bother about me, I don't need anything."

The thoughtful shopper, who considers a man's tastes and interests, can come up with all sorts of useful, lively, appreciated gifts. But some gift givers like to go one step further. They like to choose an extra-special gift that is, at the same time, really necessary and really different.

The different, unusual gift may turn out to be an essential that he didn't know he needed — perhaps, that he didn't know existed. This kind of gift is to be found among new products, a new kind of tool for his home workshop, a new accessory for his car, a new item in sporting goods.

HEATED SOX OFFERED

New this year, for instance, are "heated" socks for the foot comfort of the winter sportsman or outdoorsman. These knit socks, heated by a single flashlight-sized battery, sell for under 10 dollars.

New versions of "old" ideas inspire unusual gift ideas. If he's a golfer, give him the opportunity to polish up his game this winter, with new tough versions of the practice golf game.

"Something different!" for the traveling man might be a jewelry roll, to hold the cufflinks that french-cuffed shirts are bringing back.

Current developments in his apparel fashions can lead to a number of gift ideas. Even a sport shirt, more colorful than any he's worn before, might fit the "something different" category.

Though men only are under consideration here, this approach looking for the new or the old made new — can solve problems of gifting both men and women, of all ages.

RARE DOLL CROP — Minipro dolls (top left), each only six inches tall, feature uniforms with authentic colors and insignia of teams in the American and National Football Leagues. When you wind these dolls, the Scrambling Quarterback "scrambles" and the Dancing Cheerleader dances. Every child's own little brother comes to life with That Kid (lower left). Pick up his right arm, he says, "Hey! That's my pitchin' arm."

Pick him up and hug him, he says, "Put me down. You're funny lookin'!" And there's more. He talks a blue streak. Plushiest pair of pals for teen-age swingers are Cheestah the Cat and Go Go Mouse (top right). These are dressed in the latest discotheque fashion. Baby Crawlalong (lower right) does just what her name indicates. Her young mistress controls her movements.

Gallant Old Gentleman Gets His Christmas Reward

By EDWIN FULLER

The well-dressed old man turned around abruptly at the sight of a girl who looked both funny and pathetic under the load of a big Christmas tree. "Could I help you, my dear?" he said. She let the bushy part of the tree drop to the ground, while still holding the trunk part with both hands.

"It sure is heavy," she panted. "I didn't realize things were so difficult. I mean like getting a Christmas tree home."

"It can be a trial without a car," he said as he gently took the tree from her. "I tell you what, let's get a cab. The driver will grouse a bit but if I tip him enough he'll come around to the fact that it's Christmas Eve."

"Do you think we could?" she said rubbing her chafed hands.

STRATEGY PLANNED

"It won't be easy, but we can try," the old man said. "The thing to do is hide the tree and when I get a cab we'll spring the problem on the driver. It will be a bit late for him to refuse."

He dragged the tree to a darkened store entrance, returned to the curb and raised an arm against the streaming traffic headlights. Watching for a lighted taxi sign, he also glanced at the girl who had retreated to guard the tree. She was only 18 or 19; her clothing seemed too elegant for the circumstances.

He made a mental note that it would be worth the price of a cab to find out where such a girl would be lugging a Christmas tree through the cold New York night.

VAST DISTANCE

The distance between them precluded conversation and the old man imagined she was sizing him up in the same way he was making mental notes about her. Probably thinks I'm an ancient masher hoping for a miracle, he thought, but I wouldn't expect such a miracle even on Christmas Eve.

Finally a cab pulled up, spraying the salted slush on the old man's well creased trousers. He opened the rear door and said in a staccato tone: "I have an unusual problem, driver. Can you help me get a young-woman and her Christmas tree home?"

Without waiting for an answer, he called the girl over. She jumped in while he dragged the eight-foot balsam toward the cab.

The driver got out and said, "Now, Mac, where do you think we can put that?"

"We could tie it on top if we had a piece of string," the old man said.

"I ain't got a truck, Mac," the driver snorted.

BRIBERY

Dropping the tree trunk, the old man fished through some bills and handed the cab driver a five.

Cow Is Hungry

BOMBAY, India (U—Prime Minister Indira Gandhi told a public meeting here she is worshiped in India, so totally neglected.

She said stray cattle roam the streets, but no one bothers to see they are fed.

"Maybe we could get it in the trunk," the new friendly driver conceded. Five minutes later the cab started down Lexington Avenue, with the trunk lid resting lightly on the protruding matters is to get to help people, and perhaps to know them." Then he was sorry he had revealed the loneliness of a wealthy old bore.

"Where we going folks?" the young woman answered, peered at the street signs as they then said to the old man, "This cab barreled along, then said very kind of you—it's some to the driver.

"Fifty-four Sixty-ninth," the young woman answered, but she did not respond to the cab driver asked cheerily.

"Drop me at Sixty-ninth and Second. I'll have to walk from there."

"But you," . . . here she squeezed his arm . . . "were gallant and I did not ask you for help . . . now did I?"

"We're having this benefit party of the Junior League," she explained. "Part of the deal is drawing for these wild assignments. If we don't complete them, we have to double our contributions. Roger wanted to send the chauffeur to follow me-but that would have been cheating. The old man looked at her quizzically.

"Now you must let me pay for the cab," the young woman said.

"You may, my dear," the old man said wearily.

He sat mutely while the driver extracted the tree from the trunk. She paid the fare and began the half-block journey to the smart apartment address where the party was in progress.

"Where to?" the driver asked.

"To the nearest bar, son," the old man said. "I want to have a drink and read Dickens' Christmas Carol. This time I think I might get Scrooge's point of view."

To Indulge Her Cravings

Stores Are Full of Girl-Spoilers

By PATRICIA KING

NEW YORK (NEA)—After everything's in place, pretty packages, a decorated tree and kiddies bedded down, it all seems so simple; but the effort that makes this happy scene possible requires good planning, energy and money.

"I'll be different next year. I'll start my Christmas shopping in August. You promise yourself this after waiting your turn to be helped and then finding that they are out of stock in your size, the elevator door closing on your nose, more than a bit of shoving and kids' high-pitched screams in your ears.

However, these are part of the joys of Christmas shopping.

Personally, I've always felt that little girls (and big ones, too) were made to be spoiled and there is so much in the market today with which to do it.

If you're out for mini-gifts you'll have no trouble in selecting small silhouette handbags for either daytime or evening wear. Chain handles and detachable shoulder straps give a new flexibility to the bags.

OPULENT ACCENT

Glittering lames in gold and silver, ribbed silks and jewel-encrusted filigrees put an opulent accent on the scene. For sheer dazzle, snakeskin or mirrored are the most.

A hairpiece or cluster of curls is the gift desired by "girls" any age. If you can steal a snip of hair from the gal who will receive the top curls you will be guaranteed the right color. Hair ornaments add romance as well as fashion to your evening coiffure.

Diamonds are still a girl's best friend but this year the accent is on brightly enameled, frankly fake or the real stuff.

Gone is the concept of the single ring finger. Just like the ancient kings of Spain, today's fashion-conscious chick is wearing as many as four rings on one hand, two or three on one finger.

SWISS WATCH

One way to indulge her craving for beautiful things is by giving a smashing Swiss watch.

The array runs from exciting cuff bracelets, dangling at the wrist from a chain belt or even pecking from the outside pocket of a handbag. Time needn't be only on her hands.

Fragrances and beauty aids are always welcome. If you don't know her favorite scent, select one of the newest and hope for the best.

For the set she wants, when she wants it, an instant hairsetter is the answer for the student or traveler.

FACIAL SAUNA

Both accessories are important luxuries females welcome but seldom buy for themselves and an extra special gift would be a facial steam bath unit.

At home entertaining can be done in the grandly sophisticated manner and this is the year for elegant gift-giving in this department.

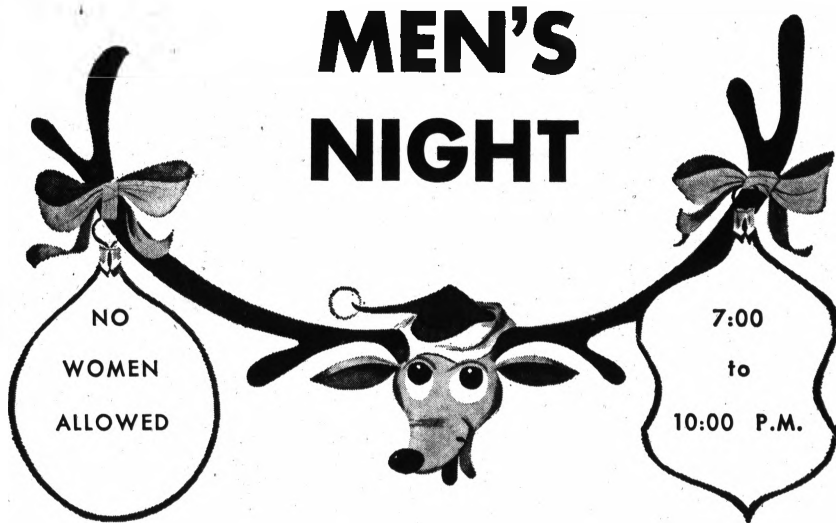

Caftans, culottes with ruffly organdy blouses and hearth-side skirts with snug sweaters are what's making holiday news.

Heavily encrusted with jewels or simply combining a sunset of colors, these fashions can even go toasting next door.

STOCKING STUFFERS

Glittering, shimmering stockings, pens to match your wardrobe, pomander balls, light-footed holiday sluffs in brocade or velvet and zodiac paperweights are but a few ideas if you're really stumped.

And for the Goldlocks who thought she had everything there's always the 24 K gold wig that sells for a mere $35,000.

AT JACOBSON'S MONDAY, DEC. 4th

It's become a tradition at Jacobson's, and in Birmingham, to dedicate an evening to men and their Christmas shopping!

As usual, everything has been arranged to assist the man in solving those "what-to-give-her" problems — there will be gift wrapping on the spot, demonstrations and helpful suggestions. In fact, everything will be done but placing the gift under the tree on Christmas morning.

Men's Night provides an opportunity for you to shop for everyone on your gift list. Jacobson's Men's Store, the Children's Shop, and Jacobson's Home Decorative Shop will also be open and ready to assist you.

So gentlemen, come to downtown Birmingham next Monday night and enjoy leisurely shopping unhampered by any of the fairer sex.

Several Friends Plan Attendance at Wedding

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

Several Cranbrook classmate alumni will be present Sunday in Quincy, Mass. at the wedding of Dr. Donald A. Young III and his bride-to-be, Elaine Ann Hurney. She is the daughter of Mrs. Michael J. Hurney of that city and the late Mr. Hurney.

Leaving on Friday for Boston will be Mr. and Mrs. Carl-Gunnar Karlstrom, Mr. and Mrs. David Andree, the Owen Fettes, and Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Prendergast.

HIS PARENTS

Dr. and Mrs. Donald A. Young Jr., of Birmingham, parents of the bridegroom to be, will give the rehearsal dinner Saturday evening at the Aquarium located on Boston's historic waterfront.

Also present will be Sue Young and her fiancé Charles Sterling, and Dr. Young's other sister, and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roderic Wiley, who will be coming from Downers Grove, Ill. as well as Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelley of Birmingham.

The University of Detroit presented "Great Moments in Music" last Sunday evening in the Ford Auditorium. It was their alumni concert and many from this area showed their interest by attending the concert as well as by being patrons of the event.

The beautiful opera and concert singer, Dorothy Kirsten, appeared with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra under Valter Poole's direction.

Frank R. Gerbig Jr. was the general chairman and among those assisting him from this locality were Leo J. Linsmeyer, John Ferris, Robert J. Bedford and Donald Naughton.

Others in the audience were Mrs. Alfred G. Fisher with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Costello, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Keating, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Newberg, the Robert Taylors, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Townsend, and Mr. and Mrs. John Turrell.

Tragedy of 'King Lear' Topic for Discussion

Shakespeare's tragedy, "King Lear" will be discussed at Friday's 8 p.m. meeting of the Waterford Great Books Group. Members and guests will meet in the CAI Building to hear the talk led by Mrs. Arnold Simson, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Lausten.

Arts Council Meets for Election of Officers

Pontiac area residents declared themselves for the cultural arts Wednesday evening when the Pontiac Area Community Arts Council came into being.

Officers were elected, a board of directors chosen and a statement of purpose was made.

At the meeting in the YWCA, George Putnam, supervisor of secondary vocal and instrumental music in the Pontiac schools, was named president.

Serving with him will be William Shirley, vice president, Mrs. Elwood Bigler, secretary, and Mrs. Maxwell Shadley, treasurer.

Named to the board were Mesdames William Emerson, Lea Garriss, Laurene Johnson, Ernest Harris, Carmi Odell, Hortense Riddick, Richard Veazey and Raymond Hayes.

Male members are John Carlisle, Harry Denyes, Fred Harroun, Ralph Merkowitz, Harold Owen, Gene Stanley and Dr. Leo Wasserberger.

In January of this year, Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. asked Putnam and Mrs. Shadley to represent Pontiac at a meeting of the Michigan Council for the Arts in Lansing.

At this meeting, they learned that local communities are encouraged to form their local arts councils to combine all efforts towards more culture in the area.

In June these two representatives met with Mrs. Veazey, Mrs. Odell, Carlisle, Mrs. Emerson and Earl Kreps of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

Articles of incorporation were drawn up and the group became a non-profit organization under law.

In September, the area's first cultural calendar was published with funds given by The Pontiac Mall.

Twelve thousand copies of this calendar were distributed. It listed most of the cultural events taking place in the area throughout December.

Shortly after the first of the year, a second calendar will be published, this time with funds from General Motors Corp. Mrs. Veazey is the chairman of this project with other volunteer assistance.

The Pontiac YWCA is the official headquarters of the council. Here, a master calendar is kept so that any organization may make note of its important events open to the public.

Individuals may call the YW for information about organizations listed in the calendar.

Last evening, membership requirements were discussed briefly. The group broke up into committees for the various arts which are communication, environmental (architecture), dance, literature, music, museums, theatre and visual arts.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn H. Griffin of Ogema Road announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Joy, to Brian Hitsky. The bride elect is a graduate of the University of Michigan where she held memberships in Alpha Chi Omega and Theta Sigma Phi sororities. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hitsky of Detroit, attended Wayne State University, and was affiliated with Delta Chi fraternity. Mid-May vows are planned.

This Fiendish Uncle Not So Funny to Teen With 'Ticklish' Problem

By ARIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl with a big problem. Please don't laugh, Abby, but my problem is that I am ticklish.

And I mean like if someone just tickles me a little bit, I practically go into hysterics.

Of course nearly everyone who knows me knows about how ticklish I am, but my uncle in particular takes advantage of this, and he will get a hold of me and tickle me until I am so played out from laughing and screaming that I always end up crying.

My parents aren't much help, Abby, and I can't handle this alone. Please tell me what to do.

TICKLISH DEAR TICKLISH: Being ticklish is no laughing matter, and I sympathize with you. Your uncle sounds like a first class nincompoop, who's probably sadistic to boot. When you see him next, give him fair warning that if he so much as puts a hand on you, you will clout him with a lamp, or whatever is handy. Then go ahead and do it. No jury would convict you.

DEAR ABBY: I am 38, have four practically grown children, and I have a problem, the likes of which you've never heard. I guarantee you.

Six months ago I married a 47-year-old man also divorced with three children. I had been a divorcee for six years. My husband assured me I had nothing to worry about because he had had an operation nine years before that made it IMPOSSIBLE for him to father any more children.

Naturally I took his word for it. Well, something went wrong because I am four months pregnant. My doctor confirmed it. I am just furious, Abby. My husband went back to the doctor who performed that operation on him, and the doctor said that the operation is 100 per cent foolproof, there are no failures, and if I am pregnant, the baby can't be my husband's. Abby, I KNOW the baby can't be anybody else's.

Tell me, are those operations on men always successful? If so, how come I am PG? Can a blood test prove that my husband is the father of my baby? If he is, can my husband sue his doctor?

PG AT 38 DEAR PG: The operation your husband had is called a "vasectomy." If properly performed, it IS 100 per cent foolproof, but unfortunately it is not always properly performed. If your husband IS indeed your baby's father (and I believe you when you say he is) then he should go to a urologist for a "sperm test."

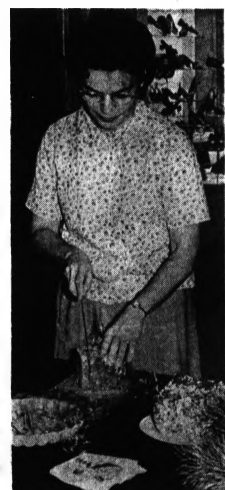

This will show beyond a doubt whether he is able to produce children or not. A blood test can be taken only after the baby is born, and can determine only who the baby's father is not. NOT who he IS. Your husband CAN sue his doctor. Whether he can collect is another question.

A presale display of decorative holiday items which will be offered for sale at the annual Greens Market of Waterford branch of Woman's National Farm and Garden Association Dec. 8, was set up Wednesday in the fashion corridor of The Pontiac Mall. Mrs. Richard M. Gorman of Orange Grove Avenue, cochairman with Mrs. E. L. Windeler, of Hatchery Road, adjusts a door swag on the backboard. Sylvan Lake and Holiday Farms branches are participating with the Waterford group in this year's market.

Orders were taken Wednesday for decorative holiday items which will be sold at the CAI building Dec. 8 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mrs. James C. Reason, president of Holiday Farms branch, WNFGA, straightens a candle in its bed of Christmas greens and baubles. Luncheon will be served at the Greens Market by the Waterford Women's Club from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Reason lives on War Bonnet Drive, Commerce Township.

Mrs. George Tozer of Sylvan Lake branch, WNFGA, cuts samples of stollen which will be sold along with other goods baked by the branch's members, at the Greens Sale.

Coronation Leftovers Are Hot Item in London

LONDON (AP) — Buckingham Palace swooped on swinging Carnaby Street to stop a boutique selling five-inch metal replicas of the royal coat of arms.

A letter from Queen Elizabeth's lord chamberlain, Lord Cobbold, demanded that boutique owner John Paul stop the sales within 48 hours.

Paul said his shop, called "I Was Lord Kitchener's Valet," had bought 3,000 of the coats of arms at a government surplus sale a year ago and had sold all but 200.

Case No. D-542

Use Your Imagination

By Dr. GEORGE W. CRANE
 CASE D-542: Lonnie B., aged three, is a ball of fire. "Dr. Crane," his weary mother began, "Lonnie gets into all sorts of mischief."

"He seems to be unduly full of energy and very high-strung."

"So his daddy scolds him and often spansks him yet I feel Lonnie isn't altogether to blame."

"How can I reduce Lonnie's excessive energy without giving him tranquilizers?"

"My neighbor in the apartment across the hall gives her two little boys tranquilizers every day, just before their daddy gets home to make them sleepy and quiet. 'But isn't that wrong?'"

MOTHERS, BEWARE

Yes, it is barbaric to give children tranquilizers just to save you parents the head-work of evolving legitimate outlets for their excess energy.

First of all, if you live in city apartments, get a tricycle so your child can ride back and forth till he thus expends much of his extra energy via such leg action. Remember, "seat work," as with blunt scissors and crayons, will exercise mainly his arms and hands.

They don't weigh more than five or 10 pounds, so they consume far less energy than leg action, where his legs carry his full 40 or 50 pounds of weight.

So figure out games and recreation that lets your child run and romp.

When you take him to the store, let him push the cart at the supermarket. Then ask him to help carry groceries home.

Buy a little express wagon and WALK to the grocery, instead of riding the few blocks in your car. For when you walk, you can let Junior pull the wagon and haul all the groceries. This will help fatigue him.

If anybody is to ride in the empty wagon, you mothers should get in and let your kiddies serve as the horses!

Yet most parents reverse that procedure and pull their children. Which saves the energy of the youngsters and overfatigues mamma! Then the kiddies become balls of fire in the house while you are irritable, due to your extra fatigue.

Also, enroll Junior in a Nursery School so he can play with other kiddies of his age and learn the social give-and-take.

Urgo your local church to start a Nursery School, if none is nearby.

If you live in a suburban home, buy Junior a puppy, which will romp with him and thus help wear him out before daddy gets home at night.

Take him to the park and throw a ball, after which ask Junior to run and bring it back.

This is often done with dogs but pays far better dividends if you thus let Junior serve as the "dog." And take your kiddies to the playground or park for picnics, wading, etc.

Also, give Junior a baby brother or sister by the time Junior is two years old, for kiddies help wear each other out and thus save parental nerves and energy!

To keep the children's socks matched, write the size number with an indelible marking pencil on each pair of new socks before they are washed.

Anyone on your "hard to please" Christmas may enjoy an unusual present this year in the form of art work. The students at Cranbrook Academy of Art opens at 7 p.m. next Friday in the Art Galleries. From left: David Rocha, Royal Oak; Skip Holbrook, Clawson; Evelyn Anderson, Houston, Texas and Chris Sublett of Birmingham display Rocha's charcoal "Extension of Value" as one of the available selections. As in the past, 20 per cent of the total proceeds will go towards student scholarships.

Polly's Pointers

Try Weighting Them

DEAR POLLY — You can't not leave the plant out in the sun as that might bleach the leaves. — POLLY

Mothers with several children cannot ignore bargain sales of children's clothes. To make them wear longer and get your money's worth out of them, restitch every seam on your sewing machine before they are worn. The seams will not sag or pull out.

When decorating, always store cans of paint, thinner, varnish and other inflammables, as well as oily rags, being used in a sturdy, galvanized container with a tight fitting lid. As an added precaution, set in the garage until ready to use again. This helps eliminate the danger of fire. If a fire should ignite in the garage, it can be more easily contained and not cause major damage. — BLANCHE

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Mrs. E. R. that I always carry my big plastic plant out of doors and spray it with the garden hose. Before starting to spray, I wrap foil around the trunk of the tree or plant and spread it over the container so water will not get into or on the tub. — MARGE

DEAR POLLY — In answer to Mrs. E. R.'s question, I want to say that we had a big plant in the office where I worked. Once a month we wiped baby oil on each leaf to clean off the dirt and keep the plant looking shiny bright and real looking. — JO ANN

DEAR GIRLS — Ella also wrote that she washed her plant out of doors but, after washing, she wiped off each leaf until dry. This is important or the plant could look like a dusty car that has had the hose turned on it and then was left to dry without wiping. Ella also wished to remind Mrs. E. R. and oth-

A Question on Policy Borrowing Today

By MARY FEELEY
 Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley: Due to high expenses after a recent illness, I decided to call my insurance company about taking my dividends and cash value from my policy. At that time, my agent told me the cash value of my policy was $425.00, which I might borrow at five per cent interest and not pay back at all. The above sum would then be deducted from the original amount of $10,000 at death.

Is there any advantage to taking this amount, if it does become necessary, as against taking money from our savings account. Also after taking this money from the insurance, does a cash value accumulate again?

Dear Mrs. P.F.: You seem to be using two values of your life insurance policy interchangeably: dividends and cash values. They are two different things. Dividends accrue when the company's underwriting experience costs less than the safety margin which is built into its premium rates.

The company each year credits the difference to participating policy holders in different ways. You may take it in cash, use it to reduce the premium, use it to buy small additional amounts of paid-up insurance, or leave it to accumulate at interest with the company.

Evidently you have elected the Cash values are something else again. These are the reserves which are built up by the permanent insurance policies. They hold down the cost of insurance and keep the premiums level throughout the life of the policy, even though, technically, the cost of insurance rises as the policyholder gets older.

At the same time they are available to the policyholder as loan or surrender values. Borrowing it out is a simple matter, and cash values will begin to accumulate again behind your policy, but the face value of it will be reduced by the amount of the loan.

You need not repay the loan, but every year you have to pay the 5 per cent interest, which would amount to $21.25 on the $425 cash value of your policy.

Since this is a simple interest loan with no repayment plan arranged, it can become an expensive way to borrow, if you let this annual interest charge go on and on. Fortunately, you do have another alternative, and the money from your savings would be a wiser choice.

Dear Miss Feeley: I hold a 30-year-paid up veterans life insurance policy amounting to $5,000. The policy states the cash value for the first 30 years, and also specifically states that the government must pay the cash value of the policy plus any reserve that has accumulated.

This policy is now 45 years old. I am wondering if the Veterans Administration is still setting up a reserve on these old policies? P. L., Clarence, Iowa

Dear P.L.: Reserves haven't stopped accumulating on these old policies, and they are included in the cash value. It's estimated that after 30 years, the reserves increase the cash value of the policy about $60 every five years for $1,000 worth of coverage. Here's how they have been affecting your policy:

25th year cash value $3130

30th year cash value $3400

35th year cash value $3730

40th year cash value $4002

45th year cash value $4302

Sharon Good Speaks Vows

Mr. and Mrs. William Klay Good of Winderbolt Street announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Sharon Lynn, to William Howard Dean.

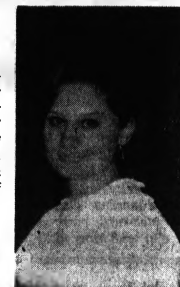

The bride, attired in a two piece silk suit and carrying orchids, was attended by Mrs. Jose Hernandez.

Mixing Household Cleaning Agents Is Risky

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The author of the following article is a Pontiac Press staffer who pre-fer to remain anonymous. But her experience could have had more serious results. Never, never combine any of the following cleaning compounds. You could kill yourself.)

The weekend was half gone and so many things still had to be done.

I sprinkled the bathtub gen-

A faint whiff of fumes arose and I turned my head to the side and continued to scrub. The odor was stronger with the next breath. I held my breath and scrubbed faster.

QUICK REACTION

The next inhalation was deeper. I choked and coughed. My throat and nose burned. I dropped the rag and groped for the faucet through tight-squeezed eyes. The water splashed out full-force.

The vapors seemed to increase and follow me as I rose and side of the window. Pushing the panes aside, and almost bursting with the effort not to breathe, I left the bathroom and closed the door.

My chest was constricted, sore. My eyes ran. I coughed as if racked with bronchitis. After a time, I gathered together some clothes that needed cleaning and took off for the laundromat.

ANTIDOTE

I am told that that was the right thing to do. Fresh air is the antidote for the poisonous gas.

The scouring powder was a chlorine product. The label of the toilet bowl cleaner announced that it contains hydrogen chloride.

Of hydrogen compounds, the encyclopedia says: "Chlorine in the mixture after turning on burns in hydrogen to form a water, thereby avoiding colorless gas, hydrogen chloride burns. (HCl). Solutions of hydrogen chloride in water are known as hydrochloric acid."

Hydrochloric acid, says the encyclopedia, is "highly corrosive and can cause serious burns. It is also known as muriatic acid."

I consider myself very lucky not to have put my hands back

Other symptoms developed later. I had a deep cough. Copious quantities of phlegm formed in chest and head, and, when ex-

My nose developed an annoying condition of spurting and tingled with blood.

These side effects gradually diminished and I am now com-

How could I have avoided this? Even had I read the labels, which I did not, neither said "do not mix with..." and, being totally ignorant of chemistry, I could not have figured it out for myself. So - "?????"

Kindergartners often have trouble in finding their wraps. To remedy this, embroider the child's name on a piece of cloth and sew this to the lining of his coat or sweater, preferably at the back of the neck.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer,
You always help the gals, how about helping the guys? I know I'm not the only man running around with holes in his pockets. What's the solution?
Larry Z.

Dear Larry Z.:
I couldn't help but laugh, and blush at the same time because this has come up in my own family many times. My husband had a solution one time, but it was slightly embarrassing to me. He had his secretary staple the pocket all across the bottom, just above the hole. It made the pocket shorter, but it did work for a while longer.

When pockets do begin to wear out, just stitching or patching doesn't help too much, the fabric has become weak and actually worn. Did you know that there is a product on the market that is the answer to all single men, (as well as men whose wives don't seem to get around to these little patching jobs)? You can buy a package that contains replacement pockets that require no stitching, just pressing.

One tip, be sure to cut the correct amount of the original pocket off before placing the new pocket on, or you might have to reach down to your knees for your change! Thanks for writing; it would be interesting to hear comments from more men.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Robert Keim, Endicott, N.Y., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.
"A knit dress with slightly bloused bodice and lined skirt, posed the old familiar problem of pulling at the waistline seam below the belt. My solution worked so perfectly for me, I hope it will also be of interest to others.
"I cut a piece of velcro tape about one and one-half inches long and attached one section of it to the dress directly below the waistline seam at the center back, the other section to the under side of the belt. I've had no problems ever since. This could also be done in several places at the waistline if necessary."

Dear Eunice Farmer,
It seems like the more sewing I do, the more stupid things happen to me. I just finished a new dress and was delighted with it, when a friend asked me why it buttoned in the wrong direction. Sure enough, I looked and it was buttoned in the direction of a man's coat. It was an odd pattern and the two front sections had to be cut separately. How could I have avoided such a mistake?
Mrs. H. M.

Dear Mrs. H. M.:
You have done the one thing that does happen frequently, even to the gals who obviously know better. When you tell me that the two fronts had to be cut separately, it gives me the clue to your problem. They weren't cut exactly the same, perhaps of the way they lapped over each other. Without knowing the exact pattern, this is the conclusion I have come to.

Ordinarily, it doesn't matter whether your pattern is right side up or right side down or whether your fabric is folded right side out or right side in. Whenever your pattern says the words "cut one" or the word "right" or "left," it means that these sections differ from each other and must be cut with the right side of the pattern up. This section of the pattern must be placed on the right side of your fabric.

You have reversed these causing the garment to button in the wrong direction. However, you can't go back and do much about it now, just pass it off as a copy of something you have seen in a magazine, or a special foreign designer's idea. At any rate, don't let your friends know that you have made a mistake!

NEW CHRISTMAS LEAFLET

I have prepared a special leaflet to give you five ideas you can make quickly for Christmas gifts. The leaflet is Boutique Christmas Gift Ideas to Make.

John Heaton of Tangent Street wears a new gadget that enables him to hear his guitar playing without blasting the ears of others around him. Parents whose teenagers are dyed-in-the-wool guitar players might consider this a Christmas gift that would benefit the entire family.

Headphones to the Rescue of Mom's Ears

The rock 'n' roll revolution has turned a number of things upside down.

The traditionally feminine female strives for a boyish look: in pantsuits and ragged levis; the masculine element of the teen-age set is characterized by flowing locks, bracelets and fancy shirts; and Mom can't get junior to stop practicing his ever-lovin' guitar.

Music lessons are "in" — even to the extent of almost driving Mom "out" — "way, way out!" But help is available. A new gadget is on the market.

According to M. H. Goodman of Edward's Music on North Saginaw Street, it is a set of headphones with built-in amplifiers, that allows a youngster to turn up the sound to ear-splitting levels, while peace and tranquility prevail in the ozone around him.

MUSIC-MINDED

Goodman says "today's youngsters are more music-minded than any other generation." This point is proved by the prevalence of the basic rock 'n' roll instrument, the guitar, now second only to the piano in overall popularity.

Goodman figures a certain percentage of youngsters who are led to music lessons through rock 'n' roll are going to wind up playing the classics because they like them.

"Once they get hooked on making music, you know what direction their talents and interests will take?" he asks.

Nowadays, the kid with a classic bent gets reader acceptance than would have been the case with an earlier generation. They can't dismiss him as a "long-hair."

Goodman concludes, "Mothers should give rock 'n' roll another look. It's on their side."

Toys and small objects won't drop through furnace registers in the floor if you wire a piece of window screen to the underside of the grating.

Tells of Cancer Survey

A preliminary report on the results of the house-to-house specific hormone-related cancer survey of last April was presented at the annual volunteer leadership training conference held recently in East Lansing by Dr. Michael J. Brennan, president of the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Dr. Brennan congratulated the volunteers on their work and reported that 50 per cent of the questionnaires returned were complete, resulting in accurate computing of 40,000 individual surveys involving approximately 200,000 persons.

He said this project "marks a gigantic stride toward the eventual determination of possible predisposing factors or family characteristics of women with lung cancer in cigarette smokers."

He noted that the answer to survey work, he said, "is to find a group of persons with a high probability of developing the disease for comparison with another group for whom the risk is low.

The survey has identified a small number of families with multiple cases of breast cancer in each of three generations.

"Confirmation of the history of these high risk families by detailed interviews and correspondence with physicians and hospitals is required, after which careful X-ray, biochemical, genetic and virus studies aimed at understanding the reasons for their differences in risk, are made."

The research department of the Michigan Cancer Foundation may be analyzing these surveys for the next four years.

The Michigan Cancer Foundation is an agency of the Pontiac Area United Fund and maintains a volunteer-staffed office at 84 West Lawrence Street.

It is open Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and functions as a service and information center for residents of the North Oakland County.

'Soviet N-Development Threatens U.S.'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson today termed recent Soviet nuclear developments a "serious challenge" to the missile superiority he said the United States counts on to maintain world peace.

Jackson, chairman of Senate Armed Services and Atomic Energy subcommittee, said the Soviets have nearly doubled their operational intercontinental ballistic missiles and are providing them with warheads larger than the United States power on which our defense planners have counted to maintain political stability and to keep the peace."

In addition to developing the capability to orbit nuclear bombs, the Washington Democrat said the Soviets are planning expansion of their anti-ballistic missile system.

Adding that Communist China is emerging as a nuclear power, Jackson said: "These recent developments constitute a serious challenge to the strategic superiority of U.S. nuclear forces."

Surgeon General Warns of Polio

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Surgeon General William H. Stewart, noting a rise in reported complacency about the threat of polio, said the United States would be in for a very dangerous situation if complacency about the threat of polio became widespread.

Figures made public by the National Communicable Disease Center showed that cases of polio, unlike most other infectious diseases, rose during 1966 to 1967, compared with only 61 in 1965.

In 1966 Japan and Red China exchanged goods worth a record $621 million.

No Handicap for Bowling

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Marty Jones, crippled by polio as an infant, now enjoys a 97 average in women's bowling league.

Mrs. Jones first began bowling from a chair at the foot line. Finding this arrangement too difficult, she started bowling with crutches, and has been "bowling off and on ever since."

The 22-year-old mother of two small children says bowling has been an outlet for her.

2 State GIs Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Wednesday that one Michigan man has been killed in action in Vietnam and another, previously reported missing, has been found dead of combat wounds.

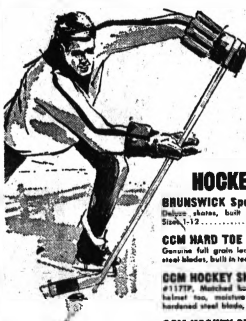

Killed in action was Army Sgt. Thomas C. Mays, son of Mrs. Catherine Mays, Hamtramck, Mich. Mays, 21, was killed in action in Vietnam, husband of Mrs. Martha J. Moore of Battle Creek, was changed from missing to dead.

Inspection Halts Hazards at U.S. Doors

WASHINGTON (AP) — An eagle-eyed federal inspector at Eagle Pass, Tex., spotted a raw potato on the top of a car radio antenna.

Dismissing the driver's plea that the spud improved his radio reception, the inspector confiscated the potato as representing a potential hazard to the nation's food supply.

Although more unusual than most, the suspect potato was just one of more than half a million items seized by govern-

The antenna-borne potato, for instance, might have spread the destructive microscopic nematode pest.

Other potentially hazardous items were found in travelers' baggage, cargo, mail, cars, ships and planes arriving from foreign nations. Examined in all were 46 million pieces of baggage and nearly 57 million pieces of mail from abroad.

Not all the inspections were so routine.

In New York, for instance, inspectors confiscated from a youthful Asian traveler his "special charm" against smallpox. The charm, a bundle of twigs wrapped in leaves, was found to bear several foreign insect pests, including a highly destructive citrus blackfly.

U.S. Increasing Vigilance Against Livestock Disease

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. officials have stiffened this country's long-standing system of defense against foot and mouth disease, which is devastating livestock herds.

The United States has been free of foot and mouth, one of the world's most dreaded animal ailments, since 1929. In fact, the entire North American continent has been officially classified as free of the disease since Dec. 31, 1964.

Government officials and farmers want to keep it that way.

Customs inspectors and agricultural agents who man normal defenses against foot and mouth invasion at ports have been instructed to adopt an extra tactic — one used only when a severe outbreak of animal disease is raging somewhere in the world.

Returning travelers are being asked if they have visited England. Those who have are screened by Agriculture Department agents to determine whether they visited areas where the disease is raging.

OBJECT OF SCREENING
One object of the screening is to determine whether a tourist might be wearing shoes which recently tramped through a part of the English countryside where foot and mouth has broken out.

An unnecessary precaution? Not when you consider the stakes.

Where foot and mouth disease becomes firmly entrenched, Agriculture Department experts estimate, economic losses may run as high as 55 per cent of the total value of the livestock industry of a nation.

To the United States, this could mean losses mounting into billions of dollars and resultant higher grocery bills for consumers.

DISEASE COMMON
The disease, caused by one of the smallest viruses known, is fairly common in Europe, Asia, Africa and South America.

Under favorable circumstances, the virus can live for long periods in animal carcasses, straw, bedding and even pastures.

It can be spread by animals, vehicles and innocent travelers. And it can spread fast.

Early in 1947, after an outbreak which began a few months earlier, the disease spread through a wide area of Mexico at the rate of about 500 square miles a day.

Just what is foot and mouth disease (also known as hoof and mouth disease)?

It is a highly contagious member of the family of "vesicular" diseases, which produce vesicles, or blisters, in its victims.

The disease rarely affects humans. Even with repeated human exposure, the Agriculture Department says, few authenticated cases of human infection have been reported.

But in cloven-footed animals, which are almost the only victims, the effects are serious.

Infection can strike cattle, hogs, sheep and goats. It may also hit deer, antelope and buffalo.

When the disease strikes, blisters develop around the mouth and toes of affected animals and on the teats of females.

Healthy mature animals seldom die, but they may go lame and lose weight and productivity. Death rates however are often high among very young, very old and very fat animals, and new born calves of black and white cows often die because their mothers cannot produce enough milk.

Vaccines can produce temporary immunity to one or more of the seven known types of the foot and mouth virus, experts say.

But officials in the United States, Britain and several other countries say vaccination alone has never eradicated the disease. They rely on "stamp-out" programs based on slaughtering infected animals.

Since 1930, the United States has maintained a ban against importation of livestock on fresh, frozen or chilled meat products from countries classified by government officials as affected by the disease.

Electric Aids Please All Year-Round

Good things come in small packages. Small appliances especially, put the finishing touches on Christmas by combining usefulness, while keeping costs low.

And these gift specialties are blessed with the rare quality of coming in handy all year-round!

For Mom's everyday convenience, think of an electric can opener or food blender.

Food or bun warmers and servers, in new styles to match table setting, can add excitement to food serving, over the holidays and throughout the coming year.

Don't overlook the basics, such as a new coffee-maker, in regular, extra-large, or new "petite" capacities. Many other kitchen appliances make functional, glamorous gifts — from electric mixers to toasters and skillets.

GROOMING IDEAS

For her personal pleasure, there are many grooming gift ideas that come to mind — hair dryers, shavers, automated manicure and complexion care equipment.

She might like one of the new hair dryers styled specially for teens.

U.S. Nazis on Last Jack-Booted Leg?

By TOM TIEDE
NEA Staff Correspondent
ARLINGTON, Va. — The phone number for American Nazi party headquarters is 504-3478. There is one ring. The answering voice is sluggish and suspicious.

"Who's calling?"
"I'm a newspaper reporter."
"What do you want?"
"An interview."
"Sorry. No interviews."
"Why not?"

NOT SET UP
"We... uh, we're just not set up for interviews right now."

The dialogue continues into a mild argument. The reporter insists on speaking to somebody in charge. The Nazi becomes irritated, takes a deep breath, blurts that "there ain't nobody in charge" and slams his phone on the hook.

Altogether the brief conversation is fruitless, with one exception. It serves to justify growing convictions that there really is "nobody in charge" at Nazi headquarters these days and the indications are the whole muddled stormtrooper corps may well be standing on its last jackbooted leg.

Observers believe that the bullets which murdered ANP "leader" George Lincoln Rockwell late in the summer may also have fatally wounded further meaningful existence for his watch dog organization.

NAZI WATCHERS
The speculation is widespread among Nazi watchers. The FBI, local police authorities and Anti-Defamation League officers are on record as predicting the end "for all practical purposes" of the Hitleresque movement in the United States.

An Arlington police detective, Sgt. Walter Kadel, speaks for many when he says: "The party was never very big, you know—maybe a hundred or so members. Now it's even less. Therefore we consider it just a routine local nuisance."

An FBI spokesman agrees and adds: "We expect them to continue stirring up trouble from time to time. But it's fairly evident they are fading. We think they have a bleak future."

Even some Nazi sympathizers are doubtful the ANP will ever survive present deterioration. A check of a half-dozen former members indicates their principal reason for resigning was, as one says "to get the hell off a sinking ship."

MATT KOEHL

The reasons for the present state of affairs are well-documented. There is, for one thing, no money in the vault. Publicity contributions are nickels and dimes. And many of Rockwell's sugar wells dried up with his demise.

There is, for another thing, a restless, ungratified membership. They are a motley crew: some sadistic, some homosexual, some on drugs. Empires aren't built on added brains.

But the chief woe at party headquarters these days is leadership. There is very little of it and what there is is porous. Rockwell, for all his sickness, had personal magnetism. There seems no one around to take his place.

The current heir apparent is somebody called "Major" Matt Koehl, a 32-year-old hate preacher who joined the party in 1960 and won his promotions for berating Negroes in Milwaukee and intimidating Jews in Chicago.

'DERANGED,' SAYS FBI
At best, Koehl is unimpressive. His most noteworthy personal achievement is a high school diploma. He is not married, state of affairs are well-documented. There is, for one thing, no money in the vault. Publicity contributions are nickels and dimes. And many of Rockwell's sugar wells dried up with his demise.

Tips to Gls' Fiancees on Hawaii Wedding

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Newswriters

WASHINGTON — If you're engaged to a serviceman in Vietnam and planning a wedding while he is on rest and recreation in Hawaii, here are some guidelines to save you delay and disappointment.

There is a four-day waiting period after application for the license, but this may be waived by the Honolulu district court.

Applicants under 20 need the consent of both parents and if they are 21 or younger, a birth certificate. A physician's examination and blood test are required.

If you want more detailed information, write the Research Planning and Statistics Office, Marriage License Section, P.O. Box 3378, Honolulu, Hawaii, 96801.

Hawaii is reported to be the favorite reunion spot for Vietnam soldiers and their wives. Australia is becoming a popular spot too, and will be even more so in the months ahead, but you may find the cost prohibitive.

REDUCED FARES

Some American and Australian airlines have reduced fares from the West Coast to Australia to about $750. This is in contrast to the special round-trip fare from the West Coast to Hawaii of about $165.

The Army Community Service recently surveyed more than 1,000 wives in Hawaii and a sample of wives on the mainland, and most found the Hawaii R&R generally well-run.

Some wives suggested that because of the expense involved their husbands get two weeks in the islands instead of one. And a big problem was communications between husbands and wives beforehand.

The Hawaii Visitors Bureau estimates more than 82,000 military men will take R&R in the islands this year and will be joined by about 61,500 dependents.

Changes in the Rules

The Army now is making it easier for enlisted men and officers to qualify under the rule that a man with less than 90 days service after service in Vietnam can get out immediately. Most of these will be junior officers and draftees who were sent to Vietnam six to nine months after entering the Army.

Previously, if you had more than 90 days and less than six months to go, you could qualify for the early out by staying in Vietnam for at least one-half of your remaining tour of service. Now you can extend just long enough to qualify — even one day only.

Another new Army rule says a man can be assigned to overseas duty if he has only six months of his hitch left and his rank is sergeant or above. This is a reduction from the nine month requirement for short tour areas other than Vietnam and 12 months for long tour areas.

The Air Force has shifted some of its policies to maintain its practice of not sending an officer to Southeast Asia for a second involuntary tour until persons of similar skill have served there.

IN 12TH MONTH

In addition, the Air Force no longer requires that a man assigned to Southeast Asia return to the United States by the end of his 365th day. Previously, this meant his duty would end a month before rotation.

Now men are being returned in the 12th month following departure from the United States, which enables it to use a man there seven to ten days longer and provides an overlap of key supervisory personnel.

The Air Force also has designated more than 100 additional airman skills as necessary for Southeast Asia. This will prevent assignment to other areas of men with these skills who have not served in the war zone.

The Navy and Marine Corps have extended selective deferment of the voluntary retirement and resignations of officers needed in Vietnam. However, this will not affect their normal length of tours in Vietnam unless a man voluntarily extends.

POW Savings

Congress has passed legislation to permit the Defense Department to set aside in savings accounts, with 10 per cent a year interest, the payments due U.S. servicemen missing or held prisoner.

Madame General

This country will soon have its first woman general and admiral. A new law permits the heads of the women's military services to get flag rank. This means the women's services of the Army, Air Force and Marine Corps can become generals and the commandant of the WAVES an admiral. Previously, the highest rank held by these women was colonel, or captain in the case of the WAVES.

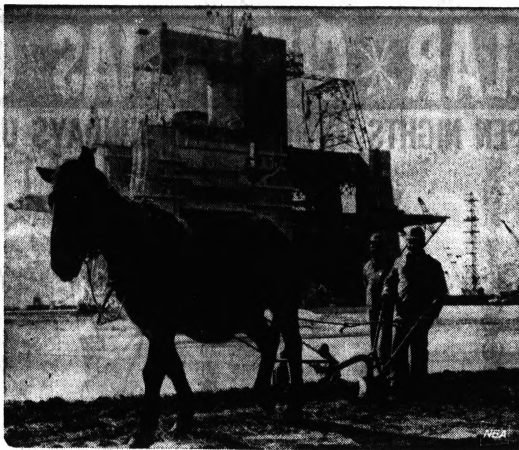

Gripe Poll

The Pentagon is making a sample survey of about 50,000 enlisted men of all services to find out what they think of the promotion system — including what they know about it and how they get information on it.

G.I.Q. Box

Dear Jerry: My son completed high school but failed to graduate because of one subject. He enlisted in the Navy and immediately took the course through it passing with a high grade. He tried to get a high school diploma only to be told he had to wait until he is 21 — which is four years. This was in Illinois. Is there any way a serviceman can obtain a diploma without waiting, or is this a rule only in some states.

Mrs. TMK: The armed services education program offers no promise of a diploma. It gives courses and it is up to each state to decide whether to issue a diploma or a certificate or equivalency. The rules vary from state to state.

MULE POWER—It'll never get off the ground, but this one-mulepower outfit plays a part at a NASA Mississippi test facility, where power is measured in millions of pounds of mule thrust. For example, a test stand at the GE-operated facility (in the background) fires a 160-million horsepower booster engine. Construction personnel have found the mule and plow superior to machines for digging certain shallow piping trenches in the test area.

Yule Tidings Go by Yacht in Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — For the 18th season Christmas tidings will be carried to Seattleites by ship this year.

The 104-foot yacht Valkyrie, gaily festooned and carrying choral groups, will serenade homes along the shores of Seattle's Elliott Bay and Lake Washington.

The program, started in 1949, is financed through public donations.

The Motors Are in the Road...

Visitors to Disneyland's new edition of "Tomorrowland" ride on a new concept of mass transportation: the "PeopleMover." The Good-year-designed system is an outgrowth of its earlier belt-type transportation systems and the "WEDway," a Walt E. Disney Enterprises development. Entering the ride "hole in the doughnut" style, passengers step from moving, escalator-like belts to a stationary circular platform, and from it to the outer ring of the "doughnut," a moving, 90-foot-diameter ring. It, in turn, is synchronized with the speed of arriving trains. Motors at intervals in the roadway drive wheels which make contact with the bottoms of the cars, boosting them at times to 7 m.p.h. all along the 1/4-mile route of insulating track through "Tomorrowland." Commercial uses in the future are envisioned in shopping centers, airport terminals, short transfer-type subway hops.

Motors are in the roads, not in the cars, on the "PeopleMover." Over 500 motor-driven wheels in the road-railway give cars a series of gentle boosts over the route through "Tomorrowland." There are 62 four-car trains in continuous operation. Nearly 5,000 passengers an hour can be handled on the "PeopleMover," which is guarded by numerous safety devices.

Passengers for "PeopleMover" cars, right, step from a moving, 90-foot-diameter ring on which they're standing, into the cars. Ring moves at a steady, synchronized-with-the-cars 1 1/2 m.p.h.

Sterling Silver Is Luxurious and Practical

Many a man faces a common dilemma at Christmastime when he considers the gifts on his list: should the gift be elegant and glamorous, or should it be practical?

Happily, there's one gift that combines both qualities in rare degree. Sterling silver flatware is not only luxurious, but its practicality has been proven by generations of women who've found that its beauty actually increases with constant use.

And sterling is right for every woman, no matter what her age. It appeals as much to teenagers and grandmothers as it does to brides-to-be and career girls.

The girl in high school is apt to be just a few short years away from marriage — and many a young girl has already dreamed of the day when she can start collecting her favorite sterling. An appropriate gift for her might be a spoon or two, a serving piece, or even a six-piece place setting.

This most functional setting consists of place fork, knife, and spoon; teaspoon; salad fork; and spreader. A five-piece, or even a four-piece place setting can also be given. If it's the latter, the spreader and place spoon can be given as birthday or graduation presents later on.

BRIDE-TO-BE

The wedding may not be until next June, but sterling silver ranks high on a bride-to-be's list of most-wanted Christmas gifts.

For the parents of the bride-to-be, the holiday presents an excellent opportunity to give the gift that has been the traditional one of the bride's parents down through the ages — sterling silver flatware.

Other relatives and close friends may want to give additional place settings, or may choose individual serving pieces or accessory place pieces.

Many a girl is busy these days fixing up her own apartment, while she's career-bound. She takes much pride in being able to entertain friends at dinner, and here, her very own sterling flatware is an asset.

NICEST GIFT

The gift of precious sterling is one of the nicest presents she could hope to get this year.

Chances are, the homemaker didn't receive all the sterling she wanted at the time of her marriage, and would delight in receiving any one of the pieces she lacks — a ladle or serving fork, for instance, or perhaps a flat server or iced beverage spoon.

Students Caught in Draft of Soaring College Costs

By DICK ROBINSON

Many of the millions of high school seniors who are now preparing college applications do not realize that four years of college today can cost nearly $11,000.

What makes things worse is that by the time this year's freshman becomes a senior he can expect to pay an estimated 15 per cent more for tuition, fees and room and board.

State universities and colleges and private institutions are caught in a spiral of rising costs and changes to students.

Surveys show medians of total charges to students for a normal year, including tuition, fees and room and board are at:

• State and other publicly supported coeducational schools, $1,113.50 for in-state students, up 6.5 per cent from 1966; $1,516 for out-of-state students, up nearly 8 per cent.

- Private coeducational, $1,976, up 9 per cent.
- Private men's colleges, $2,273, up 8 per cent.
- Private women's colleges, $2,199, up 9 per cent.

A representative survey of colleges this year showed expenses for one year averaged $2,700. This included an average of $1,200 for tuition and fees, $800 for room and board and $800 for books, clothing, transportation and incidentals.

COMMUTERS SAVE

Students who commute to colleges, such as to Oakland University or Oakland Community College, will save substantial fees for room and board as the following chart indicates:

*A flat $500 has been added to the room and board figure to cover laundry, travel, books, clothes and other student needs.

†Reflects fees for out-of-state students in colleges where tuition is either free or reduced for students who reside in the same state as school.

Four-fifths of the nation's public colleges and universities, including 18 out of 11 in Michigan, increased tuition and other fees this year, according to the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

Oakland and Michigan State Universities are the most expensive state institutions for Michigan residents with the adoption of a controversial sliding-scale tuition plan. Michigan is the most expensive for out-of-state students.

Even increased fees still do not meet the full cost of educating a student, authorities say. Nationally, tuition covers only about 40 per cent of college instructional costs.

RISING COSTS

Many institutions said they had to raise charges because state legislatures failed to appropriate enough funds. Others cited rising costs of food, labor and construction.

But in any event, parents now have cause for real concern for financing their child's college education.

Even the over-all climb in charges to students by state universities appears to cloud the future of public education in the United States.

The land-grant colleges (Michigan State was the first one) and state universities were founded as publicly supported institutions where in-state students would be able to obtain a college education for minimum rates.

VARIETY OF AIDS

But nearly six million students managed to overcome the financial barriers this year through a variety of aids — working, scholarships, savings and loans.

These students have realized that, even while costs have become so burdensome, higher education has become increasingly vital.

College graduates earn, on the average, 65 per cent more than high school graduates and the salary gap is widening.

Great Expectations for the Unexpected

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — "One who aspires to the presidency should be confident that he can be useful and capable of providing the needed leadership, said Gov. George Romney of Michigan, declaring himself a candidate.

If anybody here was surprised by that event or those words, please stand up and be counted. In fact, if anybody is surprised by what anybody says nowadays, kindly come up to the podium and pick up your prize.

Not that we object to Gov. Romney's candidacy or declaration. It is just that we are getting a little tired of people being just what you expected.

Maybe we are having the year-end blues or a virus. But it seems to us that life would be much more hopeful and exciting if somebody would step out of character once in awhile.

Actually, we would settle for once only . . .

JUST FOR A CHANGE

PHNOM-PENH — Prince Norodom Sihanouk today denied rumors that he had sold Cambodia to Jacqueline Kennedy.

"All she has," the prince said, "is the tourist concession at Angkor Wat."

WASHINGTON — Dr. Benjamin Spock announced tonight that he was leaving the peace movement and returning to private practice as a general practitioner because of the shortage of doctors and medical care in the nation.

ADD ROMNEY . . . The governor went on to say that "one who aspires to the presidency should be confident that he can be useful and capable of providing the needed leadership. I do not feel either confident or capable and will not run."

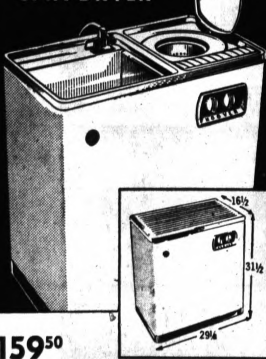

PARIS — Beloved actress Lee Bouvier revealed today that she was leaving her theater career for "personal" reasons.

"My personal feeling," Miss Bouvier said, "is that I have no talent in this field."

ADD ROCKEFELLER . . . the governor reading from a prepared statement, went on to say that he felt confident that he could be both useful and capable of providing the needed leadership as president of the United States.

Glue Gun Can Prove Useful

Big Asset in Making Pillows for Christmas

Say, "I made it by hand," and the value of the appreciated gift soars.

Say, "I glued it myself," and the explanation is likely to raise a few eyebrows.

"Glue-it-yourself" gifts can be expertly and quickly made this Christmas, with the help of an electric glue gun, a handy pistol-shaped tool.

Introduced last year, the Thermogrip electric glue gun can be used not only as a repair aid but for almost any kind of bonding.

Even more surprisingly, some of the "glue-it-yourself" gifts are of a type more commonly associated with sewing. Take pillows, for instance.

USEFUL HELPER

Since the glue gun can be used to keep fabrics together, to apply fabric decorations and even to insert zippers, it's a useful helper in creating decorative accent pillows that require each of these applications.

Constructing square pillows with the gun is a simple matter of gluing two pieces of fabric together. Just glue three sides together, inside out, and add tassels, if desired — glued on, of course.

Then turn the pillow right side out and glue in the zipper, on the fourth side.

NOT INTRICATE

Designs should be uncomplicated with appliques bold and not intricate.

Felt is easiest to work with, since edges never fray. Assorted trims such as ribbon and fringe are good for decoration.

For the square or round pillows, designs can be glued into place after pillows are glued together.

Unusual, and therefore a bit more complex, is a tubular pillow made with the electric glue gun method.

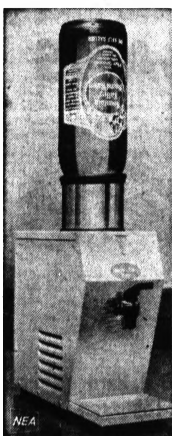

TUBULAR PILLOW

Decorations for the tubular pillow should be applied before gluing into bolster shape. Shape can be made from a piece of fabric about 21 inches square.

Opposite ends of the pillow are glued to round pieces of fabric, about six inches in diameter, which have quarter-inch notches placed at two-inch intervals.

Polyfoam can be used to stuff pillows.

Easiest way to work is on an ironing board, pressing each "seam" about one-half inch prior to gluing, to provide a guide line on which to apply glue. A warm press of an iron over glued area will further secure the bond.

COOL WATER—Why not a private water cooler for that special executive? There'll be no more excuses for fraternizing around the office cooler with this desk model cooler by Mountain Valley.

The number of children 5 to 13 years old in the United States is estimated to be 35 million — 18.6 per cent of the total United States population.

Gifts for Home Offer Variety

Combine Warmth,
Love and Usefulness

Will this Christmas find big bright gifts or small special gifts beneath the tree?

There should be both, and there can be, when gifts selections begin with Christmas treasures for the home.

Presents for the home, chosen from the heart by and for the entire family, fulfill the supreme joy of giving, combining warmth, love and lots of usefulness.

Putting heads together, and deciding on gifts as a family project, can bring about inspiring ideas on how to make this Christmas an extra special one.

If ideas for big gifts ring bells, a first thought might be of new carpeting, for the living room perhaps.

COMFORT, LUXURY

This could add an extra helping of comfort and luxury that the entire family will appreciate.

If the present home seems to need more space, Christmas may be a good time to give the family an extra room — recreation room or study.

Growing families especially enjoy finding a home improvement project "under the tree."

A new dining room set — contemporary or classic — tunes in to the bright mood of this entertaining season.

READY FOR ASSIST

The living room, a warm and welcoming place, might be ready for an assist, with the charm of a new sofa, occasional chairs or tables.

On a smaller, but equally pleasing, scale are certain little specialties.

From clocks to closet accessories, from lamps to throw rugs, useful and decorative extras bring enjoyment for all.

Especially with mom in mind, there are the big gifts that make home lovelier and more comfortable, and the smaller gifts that help her with her homemaking.

NEW DRAPERIES

The possibilities range from new draperies or an area rug for the living room to modern cooking utensils to get her out of the kitchen quicker.

For her bedroom, a boudoir chair, bedside table or new head-board are gift choices to please.

Especially with Dad in mind, an inviting easy chair could be just the thing — one suited for rest and after-dinner newspaper reading.

JUST RIGHT

Or, how about the desk itself? A handsome desk, with its own chair, could be the right big gift.

Stocking Up on Hose Can Help Giver

Perplexed Santas shopping for a gift to please student, career girl and/or homemaker may find a trip to the hosiery counter a superb inspiration.

The wide range of new styles in stockings suggests a gift to delight every special girl on his list.

Opaque stockings, tights, pantyhose in new darker shades and super vibrant hues, for day and night, measure up to the most in gift magic.

Textures in every fashionable pattern — from pin stripes to ribs, checks and fishnet — make a pretty surprise to place under the tree.

Prints as well as texture add leg interest.

EVENING GLAMOR

For evening glamour, lacy or sheer black, white stockings and tights in many patterns clothe her legs in splendor.

The glitter gift of gold, silver, gold-silver combinations and new copper shades in stockings and tights promise to add a gain touch to her date-time ensemble.

Toyland Points Way to New Kind of Play

Toyland, 1967, is crammed full of surprises geared to new play directions. This Yule season, Junior is more likely to be flipping hamburgers on an electric - light - powered grill or turning out posters on a Color-matic copying machine than to be chasing double agents.

There's significant resurgence of interest in new home-making and craft toys for both junior and his sister and an ebb in deering do.

There's a stronger emphasis on purposeful operation and broader scope for creativity. Space-oriented toys are booming, and there are fewer replicas of military materiel.

In Toyland's transportation section, there's emphasis on advanced designs such as a snorkel fire truck that operates hydraulically in six positions and, when adapted to the garden, hose, shoots water 20 feet.

Advance in technique is provided the junior couturiere with the Knit-O-Matic, a new kind of automatic knitting machine that operates like giant mill looms. Kits provide patterns and materials for making accessories such as mittens, toboggan hats, scarves, turtle-neck sweaters — even three-piece suits.

COOKING THRILLS

New thrills in purposeful cooking toys are a prime focus of interest in Toyland. The Big-Burger grill is beamed to interest boys as well as girls. This grill, operated on an electric light bulb, can produce a complete range of dainties. In treats including grilled cheese sandwiches, home fries, pancakes and hamburgers complete with rolls.

A special joy for the junior sweet tooth is provided by a new candy-bar set that makes real candy bars with peppermint, butter pecan and maple centers and chocolate or cherry vanilla covers.

Easy - bake ovens have extended their repertoire to include bubble gum and honey cakes inspired by Winnie the Pooh. There's an easy-pop corn popper, too, for junior cooks, and a pizza set.

Freeze Queen gives the junior culinary expert the makings for curly top cones, sundaes, shakes and sherberts. Just put a pre-frozen canister into the machine, add Freeze Queen mix and push the mixing handle. There's a new kit for making peanut butter, and a variable speed blender with a mixing pitcher.

To make clean-up activities fascinating to the junior cook and chef is the aim of jet-action Easy - Wash dishwasher, which, unlike mom's, has a transparent cover, so kids can watch how the jets of water and detergent clean the dishes and silverware. This attaches to a conventional faucet.

Color Is Key to Choosing Greeting Card

Sentimental or sophisticated, nostalgic or humorous, Christmas cards of many moods do seem to have one thing in common — and that is color. Radiant hues abound on cards of reverence as well as on those in a lighter vein.

Crisp, cool colors as well as pastels cover cards of winter scenes, while the hot hues of Mexico have been used to give a warm glow to cards featuring designs symbolic of the heritage of the season.

A blue-green combination vies with traditional red and green, in one group of cards, and a new series dubbed "Santa International" employs the brightest colors in the spectrum.

In this series, there are 10 traditional Santas, with corresponding dialects and phonetics. The red and green Irish card, for instance, features a green that is more like shamrock than holly, and the message, "Begorra, It's Christmas" is followed up, inlaid, by, "Only two and a half months till St. Pat's Day!"

New ideas in greetings include "Shake-a-Box" cards, jumbo cutouts of Christmas characters with movable heads.

PETER FONDA

Suicidal Depression 'Erased by LSD Trip'

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD — From the neck down, he is conservative — a dark suit, white shirt and carefully-knotted tie. But that's the only conservative part of Peter Fonda. North of the neck, Fonda is the now generation personified. His hair is moderately long, he sports a pale, droopy mustache and the ideas that emerge from his mouth are from the conservative norm.

His latest film, "The Trip," deals basically with a man's experiences with LSD. (It is Fonda says, much more than that, but LSD plays a major part in the plot.)

"My own position on LSD," he says, "is good. At least it was good for me."

The story pours out of him, then, in a steady, unembarrassed stream.

"I used to be in a bad way under severe stress. I was

Jewelry Joys
Sure to Make
Santa Twinkle

Concentrating on what to give the man in the red flannel suit? Look around the jewelry store, for an array of gifts ready to keep Santa twinkling all year, suggests Jewelry Industry Council.

The return of flair and dash to the masculine wardrobe has seen an upsurge in cufflinks to dress up smart French cuffs. Diamond, pearl and semiprecious stones set in cufflinks and tie bars or studs are handsome gifts for Santa.

Small accessories such as a gold key chain, money clip, pocket knife, sterling silver belt buckle — perhaps with his initials — and silver-backed brushes give Santa an impressive appearance and a well-looked-after feeling.

Surprise Santa with a wardrobe of watches to carry him elegantly or sportingly through casual and dress affairs. A new watchband for his favorite timepiece is a surefire Santa pleaser, too.

Leather accessories make for manly gifting on Christmas morn. Wallet and key case sets, pocket secretaries and desk accessories are the attractive choice here.

Outdoor Fun Is Moving In

Energy, as any mother knows, is a quality which preschoolers possess in abundance. Indoors or outdoors, winter and summer, the before-kindergarten set is always busy and active.

That's one reason that most parents, planning Santa's gifts for the youngsters or counseling with generous grandparents, include toys to "work off that excess energy" on the Christmas list.

Today, child study authorities have confirmed parents' wise instincts for encouraging active play and physical development.

Physical and mental coordination do indeed go hand-in-hand for the preschool youngster, according to Playkool Research.

The youngster who learns to coordinate his muscles is also establishing patterns of mental coordination, learning spatial relationships and seeing and dis-

what the dictionary would call 'manic-depressive.' But 'depression' doesn't really convey what I felt. People say to me, 'Yeah, I know, I've been sad, too,' and I say to them, 'Man, you don't know what it means at all.'

"Depression is one thing. But what I had all the time was something else. I was suicidal. Suicidal about everything. I was so depressed all the time, there's no describing it."

"One trip and it was all over. No more suicide thoughts, no more depressions, no more drinking. The trip was a guided trip (with someone at his side) but not a doctor — I didn't want that. I can't even remember the details of the trip, only the results."

He paused for a moment and then began again.

"I'd recommend it," he said, "for somebody with problems, much more than I'd recommend the shrink's." ("Shrink's" is Fonda explains, a hippie expression for psychiatrists.)

BE PREPARED
"But not alone, not without preparation. It's like a 707 jet — you just can't step into one of those things without knowing how to fly. Same with LSD — you're taking your soul for a ride and you have to know how to fly, you have to be prepared."

Fonda believes that the conservative public, or at least a large segment of it, will misunderstand "The Trip" and automatically label it a dirty picture.

"The Trip" isn't a dirty picture," he says. "There is no such thing as a dirty picture and there are no dirty words, either. There's nothing I wouldn't show my children (a 3½-year-old girl, a one-year-old boy) and nothing I wouldn't say to my children."

"They've seen my wife and I without clothes; they've seen people go to the bathroom. Why not?"

TV WORSE

"I think television is far worse than the so-called pornographic movies. During the Middle East crisis, we watched the U.N. in session, and how can you expect to teach a child the difference between lies and truth when they see that?"

covering his world from different perspectives.

MIND-AND-MUSCLE

For Christmas '67, very special gifts to assure the year-round mind-and-muscle development of the energetic preschool set have been created.

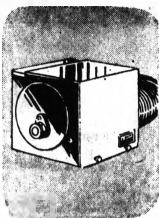

Now tools for active play are not confined to the out-of-doors. A complete line of indoor physical activities equipment is scaled for the reach and stride of children one-and-a-half to four years old.

A teepee gym, jungle gym, rocking boat, gym slide and teeter totter give youngsters an inside-the-house chance to climb, sit, crawl, jump, slide and rock.

Each is sturdily constructed, yet takes little more space than the area usually confined for small-toy play.

Large Red Force Baited Into Severe Mauling

BU DOP, Vietnam (AP)—battalion from the U.S. 1st Infantry Division stalked out at night and heavy mortars, a large bait. The Communist assault unit attempted to die at a big concrete cross in a Roman Catholic cemetery 50 yards from the American lines. Using tactics that have cost them heavily this year in fighting north of Saigon, the Communists attempted again to overwhelm well dug-in American positions, but American infantrymen, artillery and air power hurled them back and inflicted heavy casualties.

Twenty enemy bodies were found on the battlefield, and one wounded man was captured. But the fleeing Reds carried away many more dead.

Seven Americans were killed and 13 were wounded. One 122mm enemy rocket scored a direct hit on an American bunker, killing the three men inside and burying them under five feet of dirt.

MORTAR CREW HIT

A mortar crew fighting valiantly in the open was wiped out by a direct hit.

The attack came at 10 p.m. as

Many Americans slept in the open while their comrades kept watch. The first salvo of 122mm rockets sent men scrambling for their sandbagged bunkers. Mortars and antitank rockets began dropping in, making bright orange-yellow flashes in the night and spewing thousands of pieces of shrapnel.

"Doc! Doc! Hey, where's the medic?" a man called as he dodged among the bunkers.

Moments later machine guns began spraying the American positions.

A mortar round hit a rubber gasoline storage dump set up for helicopters and a sheet of flames shot several hundred feet into the air. The fiery tails of Communist rockets arched through the night sky.

ROCKETS LAUNCHED

Ground fire intensified as the enemy massed for a ground attack. Antitank rockets were launched at the forward American bunkers but failed to knock any out.

More firing touched off another part of the gasoline dump. American artillery fired point blank into the edge of a rubber plantation 100 yards away where the Communists were massing. Helicopter gunships with machine guns and rockets joined the fighting at 10:38 p.m. but the enemy mortar and machine gun fire continued without letup.

The U.S. artillery was exploding so close to the American positions that bits of shrapnel fell within the lines.

Men called to neighboring bunkers to check on their buddies. Calls to the northeast corner bunker went unanswered. It was the one wiped out by a 122mm rocket.

WAIVED BY FLARES

A necklace of flares dropped by Air Force planes allowed the infantrymen on both sides to aim their weapons accurately.

At the battalion aid station, the battle to save lives was under way.

One man had been hit in the mouth and was strangling. Capt. Samuel Kalush of Lockport, N.Y., performed a tracheotomy on the dirt floor of the tent.

A medic, Pfc. Thomas Torres of Houston, Tex., reported he had found a man with a head wound and had begun carrying him to the aid station.

"But he stopped breathing and I lost him," Torres said, "I tried, I did what I could."

On the east perimeter, the flames from the gasoline fire silhouetted a seven-foot cross in a Roman Catholic graveyard. Americans in the bunkers could see movement in the rubber trees beyond and called in more direct artillery fire.

FIERY DEATH

Air force jets dropping cluster bomb units, napalm and large bombs repeatedly seeded the area with explosive and fiery death.

Shrapnel chipped away at the big cross and smaller ones nearby in the cemetery.

Spec. 4 Marly Cardines of Des Moines, Iowa, grinned and reported he had hit one of the attacking troops in the chest with his m79 grenade launcher.

"It just lit him all up and blew him away," he said. "Man, they tangled with the wrong outfit this time," a buddy said with gusto.

Communist troops still moved in the shadows, retrieving their dead, as dawn came.

STEPHEN POLLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Assistant Atty. Gen. John M. Doar is leaving the Justice Department after more than seven years of arduous and often dangerous work in the civil rights field.

His departure at year end as chief of the department's civil rights division was announced by the White House yesterday. Stephen J. Pollak, 39, now a special assistant to Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, was named to succeed Doar.

Doar, 45, said he was resigning to return to private law practice.

Pollak, who was Doar's top aide during 1965 and 1966, was not expected to make any major changes in the nature of the Justice Department's civil rights enforcement effort. He is known to share Doar's preference for quiet, thorough and vigorous action in the field.

Doar distinguished himself in the streets and courtrooms of the South as a front line participant in the 1960-1963 era when the first federal efforts to assure Negro rights were often met with violence.

CONTRVERSIAL CASES
In the courts, Doar argued the cases that led to the conviction of the accused killers of three civil rights workers in Philadelphia, Miss., and the conviction of the killers of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo of Detroit after the Selma-to-Montgomery march.

Piano Teacher Dies; Pupils Had Crippled Hands

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Eve V. Welbourne has died at the age of 49. She taught pupils with crippled hands, remnants of hands and sometimes no hands to play the piano.

Often they played well enough to perform at special concerts. Mrs. Welbourne taught her pupils to play in the way easiest for them, and she didn't pamper them. Some used the sides of their hands, some used the stumps of amputated limbs and some without fingers, using "strap-on" fingers she devised.

Mrs. Welbourne died Tuesday at a hospital here.

Fish Properly Cooked, Has Great Appeal

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Most of the food associated with the holiday season is rich. Much of it is sweet. Because of that, I like to offer recipes for simple dishes as an antidote. You may want to serve fish as a contrast to all that poultry and ham.

Fish may be baked, broiled, poached or fried. Just remember not to overcook it.

One of the world's most famous fishes is the sole. Gourmets insist that only sole from the Dover Straits is true sole. However, good sole is now available in frozen form, whether it be Dover sole or not. To prevent drying out during broiling, sprinkle sole fillets with instant seasoned meat tenderizer before cooking.

SOLE AMANDINE

6 small or 3 large sole fillets, fresh or frozen
Instant seasoned meat tenderizer
1/2 cup melted butter
Juice of 1 lemon
1 1/4 cup slivered almonds

Place sole fillets evenly on both sides with instant seasoned meat tenderizer as you would salt; do not add salt.

Place fish on broiler rack (lined with aluminum foil for easy cleaning). Brush with mixture of the melted butter and lemon juice; sprinkle with basil.

Place in preheated broiler 4 inches from source of heat. Total broiling time should be 6 to 8 minutes. Do not turn; do not overcook.

Sprinkle with slivered almonds during last 2 minutes of broiling. Serve immediately with stuffed tomatoes and broccoli.

Poaching fish is an excellent way to cook firm textured fish like halibut. Any liquid, such as milk, water, wine or a sauce may be used.

In the following recipe it's water with celery, onion and herbs added.

PIQUANT POACHED HALIBUT

2 pounds halibut steaks, fresh or frozen
1 quart water
1/2 cup onion
1 stalk celery, sliced
2 cloves garlic, bruised
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 slice lemon

Four water into large skillet or heavy cast iron pot. Add vegetables, seasonings and lemon. Bring to a boil and simmer for 3 minutes.

Lower halibut steaks into the water, return to boil, then cover and simmer for 5 to 8 minutes until fish is completely white and flaky. Add more water, if necessary, to barely cover fish.

Remove fish from stock with slotted spatula and place in shallow refrigerator dish. Serve hot with Dilly Sauce.

Dilly Sauce

1 cup sour cream
1/2 cup peeled, seeded, minced dill pickles
1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon frozen chopped chives
Combine all ingredients. Serve with poached halibut. Makes 1 1/2 cups sauce.

Any type of fish fillets may be simmered in a vegetable sauce. This gives you fish "à la jardinière" which means "with young vegetables." Sounds elegant, doesn't it?

FISH FILLETS JARDINIÈRE

1 pound fish fillets, fresh or frozen (flounder, cod, sole, haddock or ocean perch)
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cups finely minced carrots
1/2 cup finely minced celery
1/2 cup finely minced leeks, white part only (optional)
1 package frozen broccoli, stems removed and finely minced; flowerets cut into smaller pieces
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar

If fish is frozen, let partially thaw on refrigerator shelf or at room temperature.

Melt butter in a large skillet; add minced vegetables except broccoli flowerets, and 1/2 teaspoon salt and sugar. Simmer over low heat until lightly browned. Cover with hot water and add broccoli flowerets. Cover and cook 10 minutes.

Sprinkle fillets with remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt and lay them in the bottom of another large skillet. Pour vegetables and liquid over; simmer 8 to 10 minutes until fish is white and flaky.

Drain off excess liquid and serve on a large platter. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Then there's codfish, New England codfish. Again, with modern methods of freezing, this eastern seaboard specialty is available all over the country.

Crumbs, Eggs Top for Beans

Place 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen French-style green beans in saucepan with 2 tablespoons margarine and 2 tablespoons water. Bring to a boil; cover and cook until tender, 20-25 minutes.

Meanwhile, brown 2 tablespoons fine bread crumbs in 2 tablespoons margarine.

Combine 1 finely chopped hard-cooked egg and 2 tablespoons chopped parsley. Place green beans in serving dish; top with egg mixture, then bread crumbs. Makes 7 servings.

New Sauce for Fish Has Spinach Base

The romantic era of the early wind-driven fishing fleets and their crews of rugged fish-seamen is over. Yet ahead lies still greater excitement and adventure for the fishing industry.

Today, scientists are joining the fisherman in his search for food from the seas. The fish and shellfish we so enjoy are being planted, farmed and harvested in much the same way as landlocked crops.

Underwater research is in its infancy and scientists are hard at work to discover more about the habits of fish and the possibilities of finding new fish and plants for food.

What with populations on a sharp up-swing, aquaculture will play an ever important role towards feeding our future generations.

Fish and shellfish prepared dinners of all kinds are available to us no matter what part of the country we call home thanks to modern processing quick-freezing and jet air freight.

The end result of such a catch from your freezer case are dishes like this Sea Green Sauce Fish. Breaded frozen fish portions, tender and flaky inside, crisped to a golden brown outside, are nestled into a bed of steaming hot rice and topped with a rich spinach sauce.

Sea Green Sautéed Fish

6 slices bacon
1 package (10-ounce) frozen chopped spinach
1/2 cup chopped parsley
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 cup water
1 package (2-ounce) white sauce mix
1/2 cup cold water

NORSE MIXED GRILL

Drain two cans of Norway sardines. Roll the sardines, four small fillets of sole, four jumbo shrimp, eight scallops and four tomato halves in bread crumbs. Place on broiler with four mushroom caps. Sprinkle with olive oil (or salad oil) and broil golden brown. Serve in a ramekin or on a platter with sardines between two tomato halves at each end, fillets in the center covered with the shrimp and scallops. Top tomatoes with mushroom caps. Sprinkle parsley butter over all and garnish with parsley and lemon sections. Makes four servings.

Pecan Pie Is Given New Taste of Wheat

"Wheat Pecan Pie," says are a favorite ingredient in southern Kansas where so many of them are grown.

Wheat Pecan Pie
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup margarine, melted
1/2 cup dark corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup rolled wheat or old fashioned oats
1/2 cup pecans, coarsely chopped
1 (8-inch) pastry shell, unbaked
Beat together eggs, sugar, margarine, corn syrup and vanilla. Stir in cereal and pecans. Pour into unbaked 8-inch pastry shell.

Beans Ready After Stay in Mustard Mix

Whether it's cakes or pickles, food that you put up yourself always rates something special with your family and friends. One dish that merits your creative talents is the relish tray. If you want to do something more than just set out the usual olives, pickles, carrot sticks, celery, etc., try your hand at this easy-to-prepare, mustard bean relish.

You don't have to get out the canning kettles and jars for this recipe. Just let the mustard beans marinate in the refrigerator overnight.

The result is a wonderfully tasty relish that can also be served as a meat accompaniment or as an ingredient in a salad.

Zesty Mustard Beans

1 cup sugar
1/2 cup cider vinegar
3 tablespoons prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon instant minced onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 can (1 pound) yellow wax beans, drained

In a saucepan, combine all ingredients, except beans. Bring to a boil, stirring mixture until sugar is dissolved. Add beans and simmer uncovered 5 minutes. Cool. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Serve sticks, cloves and blades of chilled. Yield: 4 to 6 servings, max.

To Mull Wine Heat, Flavor

Mulled wine tastes wonderful on a cool rainy night — especially if you serve it to guests gathered around the wood-burning fireplace!

To make the wine, simply heat dry red wine with sugar to taste and a bag of cinnamon sticks, cloves and blades of

Heap Almonds in Mushrooms

Delight the gourmets you know with "Stuffed Mushrooms Almondine." It's almost unbelievable how the combination of only six ingredients results in such a palate-pampering vegetable creation.

The baked fresh mushrooms, filled with roasted diced almonds, cheese, tartar sauce and green onion, are particularly good with meat courses.

They may be stuffed ahead of time, refrigerated and then oven at the last moment.

Stuffed Mushrooms Almondine
12 large fresh mushrooms
1/4 cup roasted diced almonds
1/4 cup grated Muenster or Jack cheese
1/4 cup tartar sauce
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
Salt to taste

Wash mushrooms, cut off stems and arrange mushrooms cup-side up in shallow baking dish. Trim and chop stems.

Mix chopped stems with 1/4 cup almonds, cheese, tartar sauce, onion and salt; spoon into mushrooms. Top with remaining almonds and bake in 425-degree (hot) oven 8 to 10 minutes.

Serve while hot. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

If you want a delightful raisin sauce to serve with ham, one that is different, add strips of candied or syrup-preserved ginger to the sauce.

CHILI QUESO AND MEXICAN DIP—Here are two unusual snacks to serve as the cool-weather entertaining season starts — mild-spicy cheese-roll slices on crisp crackers, or avocado sparkled with chili powder as a dip.

Use Soup Cans for Little Loaves

Date and nut bread is always eye-appeal and showing you a special treat in the lunchbox, off as a very creative cook.

As a party food, a TV snack, breakfast sweet or after dinner baking date and nut bread; those from condensed soups and juice concentrate are excellent — but variety is the key.

When using cans, place a small amount of butter in the bottom of each, letting it melt for a few minutes in the oven before filling with the batter.

Plain date and nut bread is also something special when it is moist and fresh and full of raisins and pecans and rich imported Borden diced dates.

The following recipe for date and nut bread may be prepared in two greased loaf pans. For variety, however, it can be baked in cans of various sizes, giving the finished product add-

1 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons soft butter
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
1-1/3 cups flour
1/4 cup chopped pecans

Place diced dates and raisins in covered bowl. Add soda and boiling water. Cover and let stand. Cream butter and sugar. Add vanilla. Add egg and beat well. Add flour, mix until moistened.

Pour in fruit mixture, including liquid, and pecans, and mix gently to prevent crushing the fruits. Pour in 5 condensed soup cans. Bake in preheated 325 degree oven for 45 minutes, or until cake tests done. Remove from can while still warm.

DATE AND NUT BREAD
1 cup (8 oz. package) diced dates
1/2 cup raisins
1 teaspoon baking soda

Two New Hors D'Oeuvres

Chili Powder Defines Taste

The yen for hors d'oeuvres goes way back to Roman days when banquet tables spread with such flavorful tidbits as olives, oysters, eggs, etc., greeted the guest.

In more modern times Russians called them zakuski, a car being their most distinguished "what."

Germans esteem their various spiced fish and cheese snacks as Vorspeise; the Italians serve antipasto before the pasta.

What makes chili powder such an ideal seasoning for appetizers of all kinds is that, at one reach, we have chili peppers, oregano, garlic, cumin and salt. Depending on brand there may be also ground cloves, allspice or powdered onion.

How much chili powder to use depends, of course, on the type of food.

Six servings of southwestern-style chili con carne would require as much as 3 tablespoons, while a Mexican Chili Avocado Dip needs no more than 1/4 teaspoonful of the aromatic blend. Note the varying amounts used in these appetizer recipes from the test kitchens of the American Spice Trade Association.

Mexican Chili Avocado Dip
1 large ripe avocado
2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
1/4 cup finely chopped peeled tomato
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon instant onion powder
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon instant garlic powder

1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
1-1/2 teaspoon cayenne

Peel and dice avocado. Add lime juice and put through sieve or blender. (There should be 1 cup puree.) Add remaining ingredients and blend well. Serve in bowl as a dip for crackers or chips. Yield: 1 1/4 cups.

Chili Queso Roll
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
1/2 pound sharp Cheddar cheese, finely grated
2 tablespoons chili powder

1/4 teaspoon instant garlic powder
Dash ground black pepper
1 cup finely chopped walnuts
Cream together cheeses, 1 tablespoon of the chili powder, garlic, pepper and mix in chopped walnuts. Shape into one large roll, about 2 inches in diameter.

Roll in the remaining 1 tablespoon chili powder sprinkled on wax paper. Wrap in transparent wrap and chill. Slice into rounds and serve with thin crisp crackers. Yield: About 80 appetizers.

Use as Topping or in a Parfait

Beat 1/4 cup soft butter or margarine with 1 cup almonds, ground, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon almond extract and 1/4 teaspoon salt until crumbly and rather moist. Add more ground almonds if mixture is not dry enough. Use to top puddings or to bake on cake batter.

For a festive parfait, layer with whipped cream in canisters; pour a fine stream of Cherry Heering or other liqueur down the side of the glass.

Does that recipe call for 4 tablespoons of butter or margarine? Use half a stick.

LBJ Handling of McNamara 'Ouster' Stirs New Storm

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has stirred a new political storm by his performance in assigning Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to the presidency of the World Bank.

If there was anything Johnson didn't need at this point it was a controversy over the retirement from his Cabinet of the last influential dissenter to the military chiefs' advice to go all out in the effort to win the Vietnam war quickly.

President's turning of a once-favored adviser into a banking monk who could no longer offer any opinions on Vietnam policy left Johnson open to political accusations that he was unwilling to entertain even mild dissent to what his opponents had characterized as a heading course.

Johnson's observation of the protocol that the 20 World Bank directors must approve the rather embarrassing a faithful slump again in the popularity polls as a result of this flap, politicians will be greatly surprised.

Johnson's explanation that all of this started with Wood's approach to McNamara last spring emphasized that the defense secretary said then he was interested in the job as an opportunity for continued public service. The President added that when he talked to him, McNamara said he believed the Defense Department would benefit from the appointment of a "fresh person."

In neither the President's nor McNamara's explanation was there any timetable given for these various exchanges.

There seemed little doubt the President's political instincts concurred in the defense secretary's belief the "fresh person" might relieve the President of some political liabilities in next year's campaign.

McNamara was a prime target in the Republican's successful drive in the 1966 congressional elections and seemed likely to again next year. A new secretary would bring into the campaign the record of McNamara's optimistic forecasts of progress and victory in Vietnam for which he has been under intense political fire.

In his statement Wednesday of the events leading to the changeover, Johnson tried to disabuse those who thought McNamara had been pushed out because he had bridled the generals and admirals and had argued against the kind of escalation in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam that now seems almost inevitable.

The President said the American course is firmly set, that major policies are clearly defined. He suggested the successor he will appoint will follow McNamara's lead in the Defense Department "without loss of momentum or effectiveness."

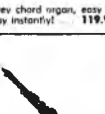

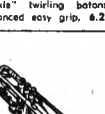

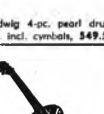

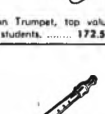

None of this changed the minds of Johnson's war policies critics that they had lost a once effective—but less so now—advocate of moderation where it counted most. They compared McNamara's exit with the retirement several months ago of George W. Ball, a Vietnam dissenter, from the State Department. They concluded there is almost no one of importance left to argue within the administration against the adoption of stringent war measures.

Arab Shelling Wounds Child Near Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab terrorists fired nine mortar shells and wounded a child late Wednesday night in Petah Tikva, a residential suburb only 6 miles from the heart of Tel Aviv.

The attack was the closest to Israel's largest city reported since the June war. Security forces went after the raiders and set up roadblocks.

It was the second mortar shelling of the Tel Aviv area in a month. Half a dozen shells burst Nov. 9 on the outskirts of Kfar Sava, seven miles to the north.

Both raids were blamed on El Fatah, the Syrian-backed terrorist organization.

PEACE MISSION

At U.N. headquarters, meanwhile, sources in a position to know said they expect the new U.N. special representative to the Middle East, Gunnar Jarne, to delay his peace mission until after the Arab summit conference scheduled to start Dec. 9 in Rabat, Morocco.

They said U.N. officials advised a delay because the meeting is supposed to establish a joint Arab position toward Jarne's mission seeking settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

The Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar said Saudi Arabia and Tunisia have asked for postponement of the summit until after Jarne arrives. But word of his plan to delay was taken in Cairo to mean that the meeting would open next week.

State Pay Hike Faulted

LANSING (AP) — Union representatives of state employees have found some faults with more-than-$20-million pay-rise proposal being considered by the State Civil Service Commission.

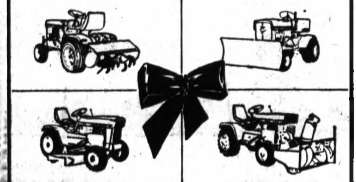

The Michigan State Employees Association, representing 37,000 of the state's 41,000 classified workers, said it viewed the proposal with mixed emotions.

"We are pleased because recognition was given to some classes of state employees, but we are disturbed by the fact that civil servants who were bypassed," said Roy Babb, association president.

The commission staff has recommended an average 6.3 per cent pay hike that would cost $18 million more a year. This would mean $200 more a year for the average state worker.

Think Twice—Gift in Gift Carries Double Message

Smart Santas, sparked with imagination, may introduce their sweethearts to the latest in fashion news in a truly splendid way.

Wrap a gift within a gift, and Christmas carries a double message of love to Mrs. Santa.

The "big gift" plus gaily-wrapped stocking stuffers that delight her eye make fine gifts when they complement each other. Choose two partners-in-style and send them on their way to her heart.

Loungewear leads a double life for at-home entertaining, or night sport whirling. Pin a pretty pin to a dynamic jumpsuit and watch her glow.

With the emphasis on legs, stockings and tights play an important role in the race for fashion rightness.

She'll delight in finding textured looks in every color tucked into a slick, vinyl tote bag.

For evening, gift stockings a double hit.

A colorful paper dress carries a girl through the day with nary a care! Plant it secretly in that handsome handbag she's been dreaming off, and place it under the tree.

Gay, print designer scarves live up to a lady's neckline. The one loosely round the collar of a gift blouse or shirt. Separates don't stick to one male this year, so she'll wear both gifts in any number of ways.

WARM ROBE
A warm robe for those cold nights ahead lends itself to a great idea. Place fur-lined gloves in a sleeve of the robe for a big bonus.

Lingerie, the wonderfully feminine gift, whispers romance softly with ruffles, graceful designs.

Add a pair of slippers to a ribboned package and create a double hit.

Christmas Purse-Matcher on Most-Wanted List

This Christmas, be a purse-creamy, colorful leather texture — grained and smooth, on the list a leather handbag, genuine patent, suede, brushed or embossed and saffian leathers — handling organizers — with coordinated bag brighteners available in the same leather, reports Leather Industries of America.

For an everyday bag, there are trim small-to-medium envelopes, satchels, totes, pouches in grained, brushed and antiqued leathers, with lots of brass, strap-and-buckle effects and stitching.

These bags hold more than their scaled-down dimensions might at first indicate, because of softer construction, double capacity.

If she's addicted to the really big bag, choose a roomy tote, satchel, swag or "shopping" bag. For shoulder bag fans, there are shoulder-strappers in small and large sizes, casual and dressy styles.

These bags hold more than their scaled-down dimensions might at first indicate, because of softer construction, double capacity.

There are purse accessories aplenty to add impact to her Christmas handbag — French purses, wallets, keycases, eyeglass cases, cosmetic cases, cigarette-pack holders and lighters.

Sunday Rental Now Unlimited

Responsible organizations—not only church groups—may now rent Pontiac school facilities on Sundays for "legitimate purposes."

The board of education last night changed its policy which had stated, "School buildings will not be rented on Sundays except to church groups for lectures, conferences or concerts."

Schools Business Manager Vera Schiller explained the reason for the unlimited use this way:

"Requests for Sunday use of school facilities by nonchurch groups appear to be growing. The rule was originally established to limit the number of occasions when school operating personnel would be required to work on Sunday."

But the board approved that the following prohibitions on Sunday use remain in effect:

RESPONSIBLE RENTERS
• Renters must be "responsible organizations located in the school district" or from a "group of at least seven responsible citizens 21 years of age or over of the school district."

• Facilities will not be rented to "subversive groups for unlawful uses, for activities that might be a nuisance to the area, for public dancing, for professional wrestling or for activities that might cause damage beyond normal use."

In other business, school trustees waived the rental fees—$42 to $61 each day—for the Michigan Association for Children With Learning Disabilities (MACLD) three-hour swim-gym programs on Saturdays.

Lee W. Haslinger, city director of physical education, athletics and recreation, made the request to waive the fees.

He is president of MACLD, a nonprofit organization of parents and professionals to help parents understand the learning problems of perceptually handicapped children.

Detroit Police Recruit, Train Reserve Unit

DETROIT UP — The Detroit Police Department is recruiting and training an emergency volunteer reserve to assist the regular 4,388-man force in emergencies such as last July's riot.

The 1,000-man auxiliary force will be used only in case of serious disasters to assist firemen, guard public utilities and control traffic and crowds. The volunteers will be trained in the use of firearms, including shotguns and rifles, but will only be issued weapons under special circumstances.

The department already has 250 men, who were formerly with Michigan Civil Defense and who will serve without pay, undergoing training at the Detroit Police Academy.

PRECINCT RECRUITS

Additional volunteers are being recruited at the precinct level, and the department says it hopes to have 600 more ready for training in January. The volunteers will receive two-hour courses once a week for seven weeks in routine police work and an additional eight hours of specialized training in the use of the rifle and the shotgun.

Police Commissioner Ray Givardini told the Common Council Tuesday that the regular police force needs more men and money.

Future Dim as Biafra Marks 6th Independent Month

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Biafrans, head of Nigeria's military today completed its first six months of government, in an effort to restore independence and put Nigeria together again. The next six months may be the hardest and last.

Nigeria's former Eastern region, which seceded in May after a year of tribal suspicion and murder, so far has survived the "swirl, surgical operation" of Africa's newest but still unrecognized republic.

News from the area is scarce but there are few signs of crackling, despite the federal army's major exports include Nigeria, Portugal, from where it is believed planes loaded with military equipment fly to Biafra. A government claims are being ity offered at half price, 10 shillings via the Portuguese island post- $1.40 to the pound. These pay session of Sao Tome off the African for the major imports, weapons can coast.

It has an advertising agency, Ruder and Finn, in Manhattan, as well as an agent in the United States. Its diplomats continue to move relatively free through Great Britain and several East African countries.

County Dealer Sends GIs Noted Armor-Plated Bible

DETROIT (UPI) — The famous armor-plated Bible of World War II has been pressed back into service for another war and is finding its way to Vietnam as a Christmas gift for servicemen.

In answer to many inquiries, a suburban Ferndale book dealer is having shipping hundreds of the New Testament Bible, with its armor plating, to Vietnam.

Don Wanner, manager of Dickson's Bible and Book House, said many parents and steel will stop a bullet. "I'm no ballistic expert."

Ike Sets Stage for Escalation

Good Weapon if LBJ Should Invade North

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has done a nice piece of downfield blocking for President Johnson should the administration decide to carry the ball across the Demilitarized Zone into North Vietnam.

To date, direct U. S. assaults on the North have been exclusively by air. American planes support targets in North Vietnam for 21 months, but U. S. ground forces have been careful not to step across the line.

But Gen. Eisenhower's proposal for a limited ground invasion to knock out Communist artillery shelling U. S. forces just south of the DMZ is very similar to the course urged on Johnson by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

So far, the President has not taken this advice.

Should he change his mind, Eisenhower's prior endorsement of such a "hit-and-run" operation would give Johnson a considerable weapon with which to defend himself against charges that he was irresponsibly widening the war and risking Red Chinese intervention.

PRIZE ASSET
The backing of the man who led the Allied armies to victory in Europe in World War II is a prize asset.

There is evidence that Eisenhower was floating a trial balloon for the Johnson administration when he made his suggestion this week that a limited ground action would not be an actual invasion but "simply removing a thorn in our sides."

Nevertheless, administration officials will be watching closely to see what the reaction is here and abroad.

Service Teams Clash Saturday

Army-Navy Grid Marks to Fall

They may not rank with the 10 top teams in the country and neither side had a player figure prominently in the Heisman Trophy voting but after Saturday's Army-Navy game the page containing football records at the two academies will have to be rewritten.

Navy has two record wreckers in quarterback John Cartwright and split end Rob Taylor and Army has its own version of Taylor in split end Terry Young who still has another year of football ahead of him.

As a junior last fall the 185-pound Taylor rewrote Navy's season records for pass catching. He caught 55 aerials, gained a record 727 yards and set a single game mark with 130 yards on six catches against Pitt.

In the Navy game he will have a chance to better one or two of these marks. Cartwright has been unfortunate in his three years at the Naval Academy in that not once can the Middles show a winning record. It's still hard to realize he has a chance to pass most of the records set by All-American quarterback Roger Staubach, his predecessor at Annapolis.

Staubach held four season and three career records for his three varsity seasons on the Sevens. Cartwright has already passed Staubach's marks for career passes attempted and total plays. He also has broken George Welsh's career mark of 28 touchdowns.

Back in early October Army's Terry Young broke the Military Academy record of 65 pass catches made in 1959 by Lonely End Bill Carpenter, one of Army's Vietnam war heroes.

WORKHORSE

The real workhorse of Army's team however is fullback Charley Jarvis of Cornwells Heights, Pa. He has led the Cadets in scoring the last two seasons and the 200-pounder is just about the best fullback Army has had since Doc Blanchard's days. Jarvis this season is averaging 5.5 yards per carry and Navy has nobody near this mark. Jarvis is a real workhorse, especially when short yardage is needed. He often gains more than necessary for a first down.

Army has a few other stars in quarterback Steve Lindell who missed part of the season with an ulcer condition. In the game against Utah Lindell had the wind knocked out of him.

As he lay on the ground at Michie Stadium, West Point, Coach Tom Cahill sent in Jim O'Toole, No. 2 quarterback. However, Lindell got to his feet and waved O'Toole back to the sidelines.

On the next play, Lindell tossed a 27-yard pass to 6-foot-5 end Gary Steele, Army's first Negro football player. Steele made a backward catch on the 10 and went in for Army's first touchdown just before the half ended.

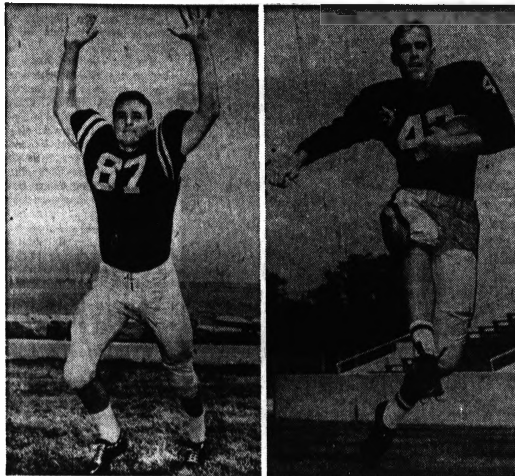

Lindell often does the unexpected. He mixes up plays well on the pass-run option and, even with a receiver open, he often elects to run the ball. For every two passes he throws he can be counted to run once.

Carl Woessner is another fine Army ball carrier and place kicker. Nick Kurkula has put many points on the board with placements and field goals.

Navy stars to watch besides Carpenter and Taylor are halfbacks Terry Murray and Jeri Balsy and kicker John Church.

The game may resolve into a defensive battle with Army having the upper hand. However, with records in sight and two veteran option free signal callers at the controls you can look for anything to happen between the service academy teams.

To them this is the only game that counts.

OPPOSITE SIDES — Navy team captain Bill Dow will lead the Midshipment against Army and its star runner, Carl Woessner.

Saturday in Philadelphia. Army will attempt to post its second straight win in the annual classic.

Titans, St. Mary, Lakers to Start Loop Play

Pontiac Catholic and Orchard Lake St. Mary will attempt to enter the win column in their Northwest Catholic opener Friday night after unsuccessful non-league outings Tuesday.

The Titans will make their debut at home against Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows on the Madison Junior High School court. The one-game experience and a stronger core of returnees make the Pontiac Catholic unit the favorite.

Farmington OLS had one of the strongest squads in its history last year but lost one of its five games to St. Michael (now combined with St. Frederick to form PCHS), plus it without four regulars from that team.

Led by the close-in gunning of sophomore Sam Brady, the Titans showed scoring punch in their opening loss, but coach Walt Wyslenski has defensive lapses to correct.

OL St. Mary will start the defense of its share of the title against a potentially dangerous St. James' quintet on the Dales court.

The return of 6-4 Jim Leary and 6-0 Dave Burt should give St. James scoring punch. Mike Masterson (6-5) may help around the backboards, while Gary Johnson and Dan Woodgate are back to provide experience at both ends of the floor.

SCORING DUO

Greg Fior and Tim Megge spark the Eagles' potentially potent attack. Waterford Our Lady of Lakes — not rated a strong contender by many in the league — will try to start its season successfully against another downgraded squad, Detroit St. Rita.

The Lakers will be favored to record a home court victory due to the presence of two-year letterwinner Dennis McCulloch and 6-3 returnee Dan Sloma.

Coach Mike Boyd is hoping a rapid recovery by Dan Fabigren (who has a back injury) and the development of a positive attitude among the players will offset the lack of experience and over-all height.

Another Northwest League contest will find St. Francis de

Mary at Royal Oak.

Big Ten Teams Open Against Non-League Foes

Purdue Given Little Chance Against Powerful UCLA Five

CHICAGO (U) — Big Ten slated to become an all-time chance against UCLA and Alabama this week with Purdue having a crack at defending national champion UCLA and the against UCLA but is expected to be far off form.

Chances of the Bolgermakers pulling off a major upset at Lafayette, however, have been things we had to teach him in which produced such great as minimized because of an injury cluding defense," says Purdue. "If he Cazzie Russell of Michigan, has suffered by super Soph Rick Coach George King. "If he Cazzie Russell of Michigan, has had't had this injury, I think we would have had a better in preseason polls.

"We're better than they think," says Wisconsin Coach John Erickson, and "we'll change their thinking," vows Michigan State Coach John Bennington.

"We're not strictly a football conference," claims Indiana's Lou Watson. WEEKEND SLATE It will all unravel in preseason games which get underway Friday with California

State at Michigan State and California Davis at Ohio State. Saturday's schedule finds Northern Illinois at Indiana, Bowling Green at Iowa, Kentucky at Michigan, South Dakota at Wisconsin, UCLA at Purdue, DePaul at Wisconsin, Illinois at Butler and Northwestern at Ohio University.

All three have a strong nucleus of veterans. Mount, if he's supposed to be, could blow Purdue into national prominence. Wisconsin has a veteran team returning in hopes of enhancing a fourth-place finish last year. Indiana also has most of the personnel which helped the Hoosiers tie Michigan State for the Big Ten title last season.

Hoeket who will be aided by rebounding strength. Hoeket was the fourth highest scorer in the conference last season.

Larry Glass, Northwestern's coach, puts it this way: "When we'll be a good team, I don't know. That we'll be a good team, I have no doubt."

This leaves four teams apparently out of the running including defending co-champion Michigan State.

The Spartans lost the heart of their club in Matt Aitch but Lee Lafayette, Steve Rymal and John Bailey will be back to help John Bennington form another winner.

Minnesota has Tom Kodla, the league's leading scorer, returning, but the Gophers had Kodla last season and still finished ninth.

Michigan finished tenth and last in the 1966-67 season and might escape the cellar only because of Illinois' current plight.

Illinois stripped of its strength because of the slush fund scandal of a year ago, has Dave Scholz back. From then on incoming Coach Harv-Schmidt has a king-sized job to perform.

Hope to Renew Sports Rivalry

AAU After U.S.-Soviet Dual Competition

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Amateur Athletic Union is pondering the possibility that the United States and Russia may resume dual sports event rivalry.

David A. Matlin, AAU president, said a proposition had been received from Russia for the repayment by Russia, over a period of years, of the some $125,000 in losses to the United States due to cancellation of the 1968 dual track meet at Los Angeles.

Russia said its athletes backed out of the meet as a protest against U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

Matlin said the situation will be taken up by various AAU committees in track and field, swimming, basketball, wrestling, boxing, gymnastics and other sports.

However, Donald F. Hull, AAU executive director, said the 1968 Olympics in Mexico preclude any all-out Soviet-U.S. dual competitions until 1969, at the earliest.

The AAU's 80th annual convention here ends Saturday.

Coho Will Have 1-Day Switch to Coho Hall

LANSING (AP)—The name of Detroit's Coho Hall will be changed to Coho Hall for one night, Jan. 10, to honor Michigan's newest game fish—the Coho salmon.

The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce said it will sponsor a nationwide celebration in observance of the outstanding success of the Coho salmon planting in the state.

"The Coho salmon program in Michigan is one of the outstanding events in the history of conservation," said chamber President Harry Hall.

Governors and fisheries representatives from Oregon, Washington, Alaska, the Great Lakes states and Ontario will be invited to attend. The western states will be honored for their contribution of salmon eggs to get the Michigan planting program under way.

Crane Skaters Win Opening Game, 6-0

Cranebrook's hockey team opened the season yesterday with a 6-0 victory over Grasse Pointe University School with Norm Lerchert and Greg Joysey each hitting for two goals.

Pete Robinson and Mark Steiner had the other two. The Cranes play at home Friday against Catholic Central.

N. Michigan Dominates All-State 11

By The Associated Press
Led by Little All-America half-back Lonnie Holton, Northern Michigan's Wildcats dominated the 1967 Small College All-State Football Team announced today by The Associated Press.

The Wildcats, who finished with a 9-1 mark, placed nine players on the 22-man squad chosen by Michigan sportswriters who are members of the Michigan Associated Press Sportswriters Association.

The team's lone loss came at the hands of Fairmont, W. Va., in the NAIA football playoffs last Saturday.

Five MMU players were named to the offensive unit. Besides Holton, end Ron Stump, tackle Gerald Lutri, guard Jim Meyer and center Dick Abramo made the offensive team.

End Jim Kemp, linebacker John Spuler and defensive backs John Christant and Phil DePerro rounded out the Wildcat contingent on defense.

Central Michigan placed four men on the team, Olivet had three selections, Alma and Eastern Michigan two each and Wayne State and Albion one apiece.

Rounding out the offense were split end Greg Hoefler and half-back Craig Tefft of CMU; tackle John Schmidt of EMU; guard Dick Parrella and halfback Karl Wilson of Olivet and quarterback A. J. Vaughn of Wayne State.

Alma placed defensive back Gordon Hetrick on the squad along with tackle Jim Clori. Other defensive selections included tackle Bill Sinkule and cornerback Bruce Cameron of CMU; end Gordon Lofis of Olivet, middle guard Joe Reed of Albion and linebacker Ivory Hood of Eastern.

Vaughn, one of 10 seniors on the squad, was the key man in Wayne State's best football season in 20 years. He was one of the top total offense leaders in the nation with 1,282 yards. He rushed for 789 yards and passed for 1,083.

2 Youths Found Slain in Florida

By CHARLES S. ALDINGER
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Authorities turned to "Eastern high schools" in six states today in an effort to identify the bodies of two youths found beside Florida's busy ocean highway where motorists apparently ignored them for hours, thinking they were sleeping hitchhikers.

Investigators also were hopeful that fingerprints sent to the National Crime Laboratory in Washington might identify the youths, who were shot to death, possibly while hitchhiking to Miami to find jobs.

"We haven't much to go on now, but we expect to identify them before too long," said chief investigator Ray Cass of the State Attorney's office.

Autopsies were to be performed today as well as ballistics tests made on the bullets recovered from the bodies.

The youths, in their late teens or early 20s, "might be brothers," according to Sheriff B. A. Edmonson.

They had no identification other than a class ring inscribed "Eastern High School, Class of 1967." It had no initial inside. Edmonson said a check of the ring manufacturer revealed there were "Eastern high schools in Missouri, Kansas, Maine, Washington, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

The bodies, one shot twice in the face and the other once in the right temple, were sprawled in a cypress grove just off the paved grass right-of-way of U.S. 1.

Edmonson said the youths apparently had been shot elsewhere and dumped beside the four-lane highway, about 25 miles north of Daytona Beach.

Found beside the bodies, near the virtually abandoned turpentine processing camp of Favorita, were a GI sleeping bag with "Jim Moore" inked on it, two blankets, one an old Navy issue, and a bloody pillow.

"One boy had an advertisement from a Miami newspaper calling for an electronics technician or an electronics salesman, I don't remember which," said Cass.

"The boys might have been hitchhiking and were picked up by somebody who did it, or the other way around," he said.

Marks near the bodies, Edmonson said, indicated the youths had been dragged from a car. "That must have been an awful bloody car," he said.

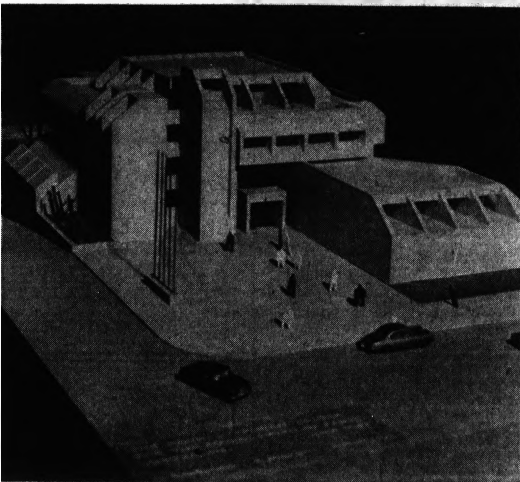

The sheriff estimated the youths were killed late Tuesday night or early yesterday.

He said "Boy No. 1" had reddish-blond hair and gray-blue eyes and wore only trousers. "Boy No. 2" had reddish-brown hair and blue eyes, was fully clothed and wore the class ring. Both were about 5 feet, 10 inches tall.

The bodies were beside the northbound lane of the highway, an artery from Miami to Jacksonville and the north, and within sight of motorists.

One driver, Betty Jo Strickland of Bunnell, about six miles from the scene, said she saw the reclining youths around 11:15 a.m. yesterday and decided to report to the police.

"There's some hitchhikers sleeping by the road," she told Deputy Sheriff Joe Kelley. "You'd better investigate."

PEACE CENTER — Symmetrical lines of the Harry S. Truman International Center, for the Advancement of Peace, under construction in Jerusalem, are shown in this scale model displayed yesterday in the former president's office at the Truman Library in Independence, Mo. Completion of the center is scheduled in time for Truman's 84th birthday May 8, 1968.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be a principal speaker at a Dec. 11 campaign fund-raising dinner for New York Sen. Jacob K. Javits, a leading Republican liberal.

Nixon, a presidential favorite of the GOP's conservative wing, will be joined as a speaker by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Mayor John V. Lindsay.

The $125-a-plate dinner affair will honor Javits' 21 years of public service as well as raise money to help keep him in the Senate another six years.

Laehr Recovering From Bout With Pneumonia

Broadway comedian Bert Laehr was in satisfactory condition today as he continued his recovery from pneumonia.

A spokesman at New York's Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center said yesterday the 72-year-old Laehr was admitted Nov. 21 for treatment of a back ailment and then developed pneumonia.

Laehr was "seriously ill from that infection" but has since returned to a normal temperature, the spokesman said.

New Sinatra Costar Replaces Mia

Jacqueline Bisset, a young English actress, has been signed to replace Mia Farrow as Frank Sinatra's costar in "The Detective," according to 20th Century-Fox studio.

Shooting of the film has been halted since Nov. 22 when Miss Farrow, 22, and the 51-year-old actor-singer announced a trial separation.

For Miss Bisset it will be the second starring role in her career. The first was in the unreleased "The Sweet Ride."

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

CHAPTER ONE

Many years ago there lived a man who had an extraordinary love for children.

He was always giving them little gifts—especially at Christmas. He was so good and kind a man he was made the patron saint of children. He is called St. Nicholas or Santa Claus for short and he is the spirit of all our Christmases.

No one knows how it came. He carved tiny wooden toys and about that today Santa Claus gave them to the children. He lives at the North Pole and has scarcely had time to do his flying reindeer and is able to real work which was to make bring toys to children all over shelves and chairs and beds the world. No one knows but to sell to the villagers.

Many stories are told, and here is one of the most interesting.

Claus, as he was then called, lived in a village on a mountain-side in a far-away land. He and his wife had no little ones of their own but their house was always filled with boys and girls.

Santa Claus liked it that way. He told stories. He made up songs. He kept the cookie jar filled. He carved tiny wooden toys and about that today Santa Claus gave them to the children. He lives at the North Pole and has scarcely had time to do his flying reindeer and is able to real work which was to make bring toys to children all over shelves and chairs and beds the world. No one knows but to sell to the villagers.

People could not understand how Claus could spend so much time playing with the children. He never seemed to worry about making a living.

Then one day some boys playing in Claus' attic found a fat black purse. The purse clanked when the boys shook it. They went home and told their parents that Claus had a treasure of gold in his attic.

Now gold had never been seen in that far-away place and everyone was amazed. All the villagers, men, women and children, went to Claus' house and told him what they had heard. They asked if they could see the treasure and merely feel the gold with their fingers.

"I have no gold!" exclaimed Claus.

"But the purse?" urged a villager. "Can't we even see the purse?"

PURSE BULGES

Claus went to the attic and came back with the black leather purse. The sides bulged and the contents truly jingled like gold.

"If it's not gold, what is it?" asked an old man eagerly.

"I do not know," said Claus. "Many years ago a traveler stayed the night in my father's house. He left the purse and said he would return for it some day.

He made my father promise never to open it. My father kept his promise. When he died he made me promise the same thing and the purse has been forgotten all these years."

"Open it!" cried the villagers. "Surely such a promise was not meant to stand forever!"

"For me it was," said Claus stubbornly.

ONE LITTLE PEEK

The village elder spoke up slyly and said, "But Claus, we didn't make any such promise. Surely I can open the purse just for one little peek."

"Yes, why not?" cried everyone, moving closer. "Yes, yes!" chorused the children. "Just a peek!" And suddenly the elder leaned over the purse and opened the flap.

There was a hiss and a screech. The lamps sputtered. A strange warm breeze blew through the house. The villagers stumbled back against the walls and Claus cried out, "Mercy Me! What have you done!"

Student Fund Drive Halts College Merger

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — would continue on its own for the next year but added that a guarantee for the future was difficult.

Highbaugh, a real estate developer who personally contributed $800,000 to the drive last week, said that additional pledges might be obtained more easily now that the current uncertainty had ended.

With finals just a week and a half away, the students are disbanding their "Save our School" movement and have begun turning over their records and money to the administration, saying they'll still help out in any way they can.

'DRIVE WORTHWHILE'

It was a long, four-hour wait as some 200 of the 800-member student body sat outside the board meeting for the second time in four weeks, again waiting word. They sang "To Dream the Impossible Dream."

BOARD DECISION

Then, L. Leroy Highbaugh Jr., chairman of the board, stepped out, and silence prevailed in the hallway as he told them that remaining independent would have some effect on their pocketbooks.

Several students said it was worth it and broke into tears. Highbaugh said the school

Winston Parker, 19, the freshman from Oradell, N.J., who racked up a $150 personal telephone bill at the beginning calling Johnny Carson and others for help—won't have to worry. The trustees said they'd take care of the bill, due this week.

Cleanness Saves Cafe From Blaze

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — As fire raced through his six-room frame house, about four miles north of here, Walter Sawchuck fretted about his nearby cafe.

The fire had knocked out power to his water pump and Hot Springs firemen said they couldn't come outside the city limits.

Sawchuck lost his house, but quick thinking saved the cafe. He and some volunteers clambered onto the roof and wet it down — with several cases of soda pop and beer.

Half of Brain Lost, Boy Almost Normal

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — A hemispherectomy — the surgical removal of half the human brain — has left almost normal a 5-year-old boy who suffered from a massive tumor for several years.

Three neurosurgeons at Fresno's Valley Children's Hospital worked eight and one-half hours to perform the operation, which they had never done before, on Tony Salas of Porterville, Calif.

"There are only about 15 cases such as this reported in a given year," said one of the doctors, who asked that his name not be used. "They are few and far between. Most doctors never see candidates for this operation. If they do — maybe only once or twice."

Before the operation Tony suffered painful headaches and impaired vision and could not walk by himself due to a 50 to 75 per cent paralysis of his left arm and leg.

When he left the hospital, he limped out under his own power and now walks with the aid of a single cane. Tony attends school an hour or two a day and recently scored in the normal range for his age on an I.Q. exam.

FEW VISIBLE MARKS

The operation leaves few visible marks, except for a scar. The cavity from which the brain portion was removed fills with fluid and membranes.

A hemispherectomy performed on an adult presents a problem because it is more difficult for the brain to compensate for the loss of one of its halves.

"An adult usually cannot match the recovery potential of a child," the doctor said.

He explained the child's control centers still are being established, while the adult's are already deeply entrenched.

RECOVERY CHANCES

"If one of the major control centers in the child's brain is lost, the remaining portion can set up other means to compensate for it. In adults this is seldom the case," he said.

"Once an individual is over 12 years of age, chances of recovery fall off sharply. In Tony's case the brain is organized to take over the missing portion's tasks."

The surgeon said the right half of the boy's brain, which was removed, had been diseased for several years. It was "extremely fortunate" for Tony that the left side of his brain contains his speech center and controls his reading, writing and mathematical ability.

The recuperating process should take from two to three years and then improvement usually stops.

"The mortality rate for hemispherectomy patients is high," the doctor said. "Of those that do survive, only about 25 per cent show the ability to recover as Tony did. He has the capacity to lead a normal life now — or almost normal under the circumstances."

Newest U.S. A-Sub, Aspro, Is Launched

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP) — win of Vern Vernon, N.J., wife of the Navy's newest atomic-pow- of the former undersecretary of the Navy.

The new vessel will be able to dive to depths of 400 feet and travel at speeds of 20 knots beneath the ocean's surface.

The Aspro, a member of the sturgeon class which is the Navy's deepest diving nuclear-powered submarine, was christened by Mrs. Robert H.B. Baldwin.

Loan Collection of Art Displayed

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Bank and Trust Co. showed off the contents of its vault area Wednesday night — not the money, stocks and bonds, but a priceless loan collection of modern paintings.

Hanging in a white-walled gallery just outside the basement sales were works by Claude Monet, Marc Chagall, Maurice Utrillo, Edouard Vuillard and Alfred Sisley and a sculpture by Sam and Dave Auguste Rodin.

Bob From Waldorf Stage, Calls Phyllis Favorite Nut

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — When he merely took his seat at a table at the Waldorf Empire Room, Bob Hope was saluted with a chorus of handclapping . . . and it was well over an hour later when he arose from the same seat and took center stage to applaud "your favorite nut and mine," Phyllis Diller.

Bob spotted Joe E. Lewis in the audience, and recalled their earlier days in the Chicago saloons.

"If they liked you, they let you live . . . They took intermissions, to reload . . ."

"Phyllis went with me on my last trip to Vietnam. I'll never forget the effect she had. She scared hell outa both sides . . ."

Bob's son Tony, an executive with 20th Century-Fox TV in Hollywood, is getting married in Defiance, O., Saturday, to Judy Richards. She's a lawyer, and the daughter of a retired Methodist minister. They'll go to Toledo for the wedding reception the same day.

"The reason Tony's getting married now," Bob said, "is that we didn't get invited to the other wedding."

"My son is such a dull clod—he didn't come in at midnight and wake me up and crawl into my bed and tell me about it."

"One airline is preparing stewardesses for the new 500-passenger jets," says Bill Shelly of St. Petersburg. "The gals are being issued track shoes."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

The Internal Revenue Service has been checking the stock transactions of a Congressman at brokerage houses here . . . Robert Merrill was offered 6 months in Las Vegas starring in "Fiddler on the Roof" but can't accept due to Met commitments, etc.

It happened the other night up in heaven. St. Peter had a big benefit, "A Night of Angels," all ready, with Al Jolson, W. C. Fields, Wil Rogers, Sophie Tucker, Fanny Brice, and the other super-stars scheduled to do 10 minutes each. Suddenly there was a pause call. "You can't use that talent for nothing!" said a voice which turned out to be Satan's. "Who says I can't?" asked St. Peter. "Who says you can't?" snarled Satan. "Some pretty important guys who happen to have come to live with me instead of you—all their agents."

By DICK ROBINSON
"There is a responsibility on us to make Pontiac a city with every building to be built."
These are the words of Dr. David Lewis of a Pittsburgh consulting firm the Pontiac Board of Education last night officially hired to work on what probably will be the most imaginative project the school district has ever undertaken — a Human Resources Center.

What Lewis meant by the above statement is that every new building should fit into a master plan which will make Pontiac a better city in which to live and work.
"The Human Resources Center will be more than a school, more than an educational park," Lewis commented in an interview yesterday afternoon.

Lewis, an architect and urban designer
Related Stories, Page C-19
In Urban Design Associates (UDA), described the center as one which could be more "community focused and dyamic than a conventional education park."

Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer indicated that the plan is to have the first phase of the multimillion dollar center to replace three elementary school in southeast Pontiac open in two years.
Both Lewis and Bernard Berkin, director of education and community relations of UDA, explained how the center would be more than just an architecturally striking structure.

"The center will be used as a catalyst in the city's urban renewal," said Lewis. "It will be a lever to examine such things as traffic, housing and open spaces."
Berkin emphasized that adults in the community would be establishing new roles for parents in education just as school children and teachers would be part of new advances in education.

Plans for rejuvenation for the neighborhood around McConnell, Central and Wilson schools are not at the schools administration building but are in the community, Whitmer said he has told some residents of the three-school area.

UAW Setting GM Deadline; Walkouts Loom at Chrysler

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers today was busy on two fronts — setting a strike deadline for bargaining with General Motors Corp. and preparations for local walkouts at five Chrysler Corp. plants.
The union, which resumed negotiations with GM on a national contract Monday, called its International Executive Board into session to set the bargaining deadline against the world's largest corporation.
The IEB's course of action was expected to be approved by the union's national General Motors council when it meets here tomorrow.

Bargaining to gain a contract for GM's 372,000 UAW production workers has been conducted at the subcommittee level for the past two days.
UAW President Walter Reuther was expected to return to GM after the strike deadline is set and negotiators know how much time they have left to arrive at a settlement and avert a walkout.
AT 24 BARGAINING UNITS
At Chrysler, where a national agreement was reached Nov. 8 to cover production workers, the union still has to reach settlements at 34 of 138 bargaining units.
The agreement to cover 8,000 salaried workers, which was reached early Monday, was unanimously endorsed yesterday by the UAW's Chrysler subcommittee and its ratification was urged.
Douglas A. Fraser, head of the UAW's Chrysler department, said yesterday that strike authorization has been given to locals at five plants, including Detroit Universal, 1,200 workers, with a strike deadline at 10 a.m. tomorrow; and Eldon Avenue axle plant, Detroit, 3,500 workers, 2:30 p.m. Saturday.
Both the union and GM have indicated there should be little difficulty in turning in the economic packages gained at Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler into an agreement at GM.
WILLING TO ACCEPT
GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton, who heads the company's bargaining team, said Monday the company is willing to accept the 11 an hour increase in wages and fringe benefits worked out earlier at Ford and Chrysler.
But non-economic issues and local plant settlements could hold up a complete contract agreement at GM.

EUGENE MCCARTHY

'Mass Poisoning Possible in U.S.'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A U.S. pesticide expert says it is a miracle that mass poisoning by an insecticide, similar to the poisoning of scores of persons in Colombia last week, has not occurred in this country.
"It could happen," says Dr. Samuel W. Simmons, chief of the U.S. Public Health Service's pesticides program at the Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta.
At least 71 men, women, and children in Chiquiquira, Colombia died last weekend after eating bread poisoned with a deadly insecticide whose effects are similar to nerve gas.
Another 86 Colombians are reported in critical condition despite antidotes rushed to Colombia from the United States.
More than 50 state and local health officials are meeting with Simmons in a conference on the investigation of chemical poisonings such as those in Colombia.
Commenting on the possibility of similar deaths in the United States, Simmons said in an interview there is little real regulation of the purchase or the transportation of pesticides.
"Take the loading of pesticides aboard ship, for instance. Ships are supposed never to load food with pesticides or poisons. But the list of poisons is not kept up to date. A pesticide not on the list simply isn't considered poison," he said.
The recent deaths in Colombia, as well as poisonings in Mexico, Arcadia, Fla., and St. Louis, Mo., show the need for training state and local health officials in modern techniques of investigating chemical poisonings, Simmons said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy announced today he will challenge President Johnson on the Vietnam issue in four Democratic presidential primaries and possibly two others.
"There is growing evidence of a deepening moral crisis in America," the Minnesota Democrat told a crowded news conference.
He said he will enter primaries in Wisconsin, Oregon, California and Nebraska.
He will decide within two weeks on Massachusetts and New Hampshire, McCarthy said.
He said his determination to challenge Johnson "has been strengthened by recent announcements from the administration of plans for continued escalation and intensification of the war in Vietnam."
On the other hand, he continued, there has been an "absence of any positive indications or suggestions for a compromise or negotiated political settlement."
He expressed concern that "the administration seems to have set no limits on the price it will pay for military victory."
McCarthy said he did not see his opposition to Johnson as a threat to the unity and strength of the party.
"The issue of the war in Vietnam is not a separate issue but is one which must be dealt with in the configuration of problems in which it occurs," McCarthy said.
He said he was not advocating peace at any price but wanted "an honorable, rational and political solution to this war."
McCarthy acknowledged the task of wresting the nomination from an incumbent President is virtually impossible.

Head Start Funds for County Nixed

The application for Head Start funds for programs in 17 county school districts has been rejected, it was reported last night by James M. McNeely, executive director of the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCOE).
Request was made for $238,000 for programs next summer that would have involved 724 preschool children.
The application had been presented to the Chicago office of the Office of Economic Opportunity by the county's executive committee.
However, McNeely interrupted the announcement that the application had been made to say he had received word it had been rejected because of lack of funds.
"It appears there will just not be any Head Start programs at these schools this summer," he said.

FACING CUTS
All national OEO programs are facing cuts next year in appropriations with some programs terminated and some reduced.
McNeely explained that some $520,000 has been appropriated for year-round preschool programs at some school districts. These funds are to last until June.
However, it now appears no money will be available for summer programs, he said, unless some change is made by Congress.
Applications rejected in the Pontiac area for the stated number of children include: Avondale, 30; Farmington, 47; Huron Valley, 30; Lake Orion, 30; Oxford, 15; Rochester, 15; South Lyon, 48; Troy, 30; Walled Lake, 120; Holly, 30.

Tax Hike Hopes Continue Dim

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are no signs the Johnson administration's last-ditch push for quick enactment of a tax boost has started the measure rolling through Congress.
"Psychologically the need is to do something and do it fast," Chairman William McClellan of the Federal Reserve Board told the House Ways and Means Committee.
But at the opening hearing yesterday, no committee member said anything that challenged Chairman Wilbur D. Mills' proclamation that passage of a tax measure before Congress adjourns for 1967 would be impossible.
Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, one of the few committee members who has publicly spoken of the need to raise taxes to reduce the federal deficit, asking Budget Director Charles L. Schultze whether it would not be wise to wait until the time for drawing up the new budget — probably late January — before deciding on a tax increase.
Vanik suggested Americans might resent a tax increase justified largely by effects of devaluing the British pound.

GL's Grit Ends Drag by Tiger

SAIGON (UPI) — A tiger yanked a U.S. Marine from his foxhole and dragged him 300 yards before the leathernose fought the beast off with his bare hands, military spokesman said today.
The Marine escaped with "minor wounds" and was undergoing a series of precautionary shots for rabies, the spokesman said.
The attack occurred last night one-half mile southeast of the "Rockpile," a leatherneck outpost just south of the North-South Vietnam border.
The "Rockpile," a small mountain of boulders, is literally smeared with the dried blood of men who have died there in some of the war's bloodiest fighting.
The spokesman said the Marine was grabbed by one arm. But he flailed at the tiger until the animal dropped him in a stream and fled.
The Marine's name was withheld pending notification of relatives.
Vietnamese tiger hunters have reported that during 20 years of war many of Vietnam's large tiger population have become man-eaters.
They grew accustomed to eating the flesh of battle casualties, the hunters said, and are attracted by the sound of gunfire which they associate with dead bodies.
Hunting tigers for sport, once common in Vietnam, has all but disappeared because of the war. The tiger population has increased as a result, according to the hunters.

Occasional Snow Forecast for Area

Light snow may fall occasionally on the Pontiac area today, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau forecast.
Tonight will be a little colder with skies partly cloudy.
Temperatures dropping to 20 to 26 during the night will head for the mid-30s tomorrow.
Cloudy with a chance of rain showers is the outlook for Saturday.
Precipitation probabilities in percent are: today 40, tonight and tomorrow 20.
Twenty-six was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The mercury climbed to 33 at 12:30 p.m.

Another Offense Charged to Farmington Twp. Doctor

A Farmington Township doctor, accused of manslaughter and under investigation for the deaths of at least five other patients, was charged yesterday with another offense.
The new charge, authorized by Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson, alleges that Dr. Ronald Clark, 56, failed to notify a medical examiner when a death occurred under unusual circumstances.
Clark is in his clinic at 30735 Grand River.
The charge, a high misdemeanor arises from the death of Mrs. Grace Neil of Livonia on Nov. 3. Mrs. Neil was a nurse who worked part-time for Dr. Clark in his clinic at 30735 Grand River.
When an autopsy revealed that she died from an overdose of sodium pentothal, Bronson issued a warrant Nov. 15 charging Clark with manslaughter.
Clark is in the Oakland County Jail pending his preliminary court examination Monday before Farmington Township Justice Byron Walter at 1 p.m. His bond is $50,000.
The investigation into Clark's practice was touched off when a Farmington Township policeman became suspicious

Milk Price Hike Near

DETROIT (AP) — Milk prices are going up again in the Detroit area, and dairy firms say the price hikes are forced by higher labor costs as a result of recent contract negotiations.
Starting Monday, Sealtest Food says it will charge milk customers one cent more a quart, and there will be corresponding increases in prices of other Sealtest products.
Sealtest said its recent settlement with Dairy Workers Local 93 "paralleled the automobile contract settlement" and "caused immediate increased production and delivery costs."
HARRIMAN TO REPORT
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Roving U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman left today for Washington to report to President Johnson on his talks with Yugoslav and Romanian Communist leaders.
Harriman described his talks as "interesting, useful and constructive." He said his conversations with Nicolae Ceausescu, chief of the Romanian Communist party and Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer covered "bi-lateral relations and international issues of interest for our two countries."

of a hearse parked outside the doctor's office. A check showed that authorities had not been contacted regarding the death.
Bronson said the new charge was issued because a "very important part of the coroner's code was violated, which makes it a crime not to contact a coroner or a medical examiner within 38 hours."
Since Clark's arrest, Bronson's office has received numerous requests to examine the deaths of persons who had been treated by the doctor.
He said that the ones being studied are those Clark listed the death cause as "therapeutic misadventure," "coronary thrombosis," or "reaction of infection."
Bronson declined to list specific cases.

Conservatives Fear COG Threat to Local Self-Rule

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last in a four-part series on the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, a projected regional association of local governments in a six-county area.)
By L. GARY THORNE
Assistant City Editor-Suburban
Metropolitan government and the consequent loss of local self-rule is the big fear that scares conservatives and terrifies ultraconservatives. Hence, the proverbial jaundiced eye is cast on the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (COG).
Those with a right-wing political bent see a real threat in COG.
Sen. Robert J. Huber of Troy, a conservative Republican spokesman, does not entirely rule out the idea of a conspiracy, which is the most extreme charge leveled against COG.

"There's not much question the democratic processes are cumbersome. A lot of those involved (in COG) think the ends justify the means and would like to streamline things," he said, pointing out that a basic idea of "1313" is administrator rule.
(1313 is an address on East 60th Street in Chicago where various professional organizations for municipal employees are located.)
CURB ATTEMPT
This latter idea Huber attempted to curb in a substitute Senate bill that would have specified the areas COG could concern itself with and also stipulated that only elected officials serve on the council.
The bill is bottled up in the House (lawns and counties committees and is expected to stay there.

Huber, who has emerged as the main critic of COG, explains his effort as an attempt to keep local problems at the local level.
Huber's substitute bill set 16 areas that COG could take up.
"Rubbish collection," he explained, "is a local problem, but rubbish disposal is a regional problem, and a serious one."
Huber contends the council must be in the hands of the people.
Based on a cross-country tour of nine areas with some form of council of governments, Huber said these councils tend to start out as a loose paper federation, but more and more powers are added.
"There is no question that the ultimate goal is metro government. I don't know

Cyprus War Threat Said Over as Peace Envoys Head Home

ATHENS (AP) — The peace-told newsmen a communique makers headed home today, reporting that the threat of war between Turkey and Greece over Cyprus is over.

U.S. envoy Cyrus Vance flew from Cyprus to Athens and a reliable source said he would return to Washington shortly, having completed his mission.

Secretary General Manlio Brosio of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization told newsmen substantial understanding between the Greek and Turkish governments had been reached and the danger of conflict no longer exists.

"My mission is over," Brosio said as he left for his headquarters in Brussels.

The third peace seeker, Jose Rolz-Bennett of the United Nations, left for New York.

President Johnson's special envoy hurried into conference with Greek Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinelis, who later

Vance came to Athens after seven hours of talks during the night with President Makarios of Cyprus. There were indications Makarios was at least delaying a Greek-Turkish agreement to avert war over his island nation.

But Vance told newsmen in Athens he was "very hopeful peace will be preserved."

SETTLEMENT RUMORED
Diplomatic sources had reported earlier that Greece and Turkey were ready to announce a settlement ending Turkey's threat to invade the island 40 miles off Turkey's southern coast.

Vance had flown to Nicosia before dawn Wednesday, reportedly to get a quick yes or no from Makarios on the proposals. But it was early today before he emerged from meeting with the leader of the island's Greek minority.

"I have had informative and constructive discussions with Archbishop Makarios and that is all I have to say," Vance told newsmen.

"I endorse that statement," added a president who had been reported objecting to keep demands made by the Turks.

Smiles on the faces of the two men plus Vance's cautiously positive statement seemed to indicate a feeling that the Cyprus president's objections could be worked out.

Fast OK on Request for Peace Bid Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speedy Senate passage seems assured for a resolution formalizing a request for President Johnson to seek United Nations action aimed at ending the Vietnam war.

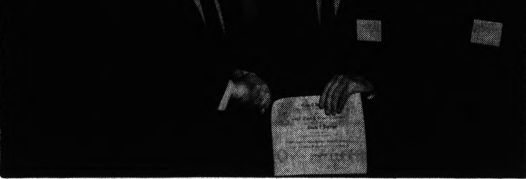

Sponsored by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, the resolution comes up for floor debate today with the announced backing of more than half the body's members.

The resolution notes that more than 100 U.N. member nations have expressed concern over the war. Mansfield has asked the world organization of shirking its duty in not directly dealing with the Vietnam conflict.

Found with a loaded .22-caliber pistol, he was charged with kidnapping and carrying a concealed weapon.

Peter Petkovich, 55, bartender at the Washbar on East Jefferson in Detroit, said that the gunman returned to the bar after being refused service.

He fired two shots from his revolver into the ceiling and fled. Returning for the second time, he forced the man and woman to accompany him.

LEADERS LEARN — Diplomats were handed out last night to graduates of the basic management training program at Oakland University. Taking part in ceremonies were (from left) Martin J. Caserio, general manager of GMC Truck and Coach Division; Dean Lowell Eklund, head of OU's Division of Continuing Education; and diploma recipients Claude Barringer of 5909 Olympic Parkway, Waterford Township, and Leon Johnston of 80 Parkhurst, Pontiac. Barringer and Johnston are foremen at GMC Truck and Coach.

Firm Is Hired to Undertake School Project

"A primary purpose of the studies in connection with the Human Resources Center will be to understand the city, not to tell it what to do," Whitmer attested.

In talking about education as opposed to a human resources center, Lewis indicated that hardly any city can build a large-scale campuslike conventional education park because too much change is involved in a neighborhood.

School districts in some 85 cities in the country are thinking about or doing something about the idea of clustering schools and their services into a single site.

FACILITATE DESEGREGATION

Both the Human Resources Center and educational park concepts embody the idea that the creation of new larger schools will permit an expansion of attendance areas to facilitate desegregation and at the same time permit the consolidation of resources and facilities.

Thus, it is suggested that both concepts will permit substantial improvements in the quality of education for all children.

Lewis said Pontiac is analogous to the situation in Pittsburgh where UDA designed a plan to replace 17 high schools with five large-scale "Great High Schools."

"Pontiac has particular local problems involving such things as racial and traffic configurations," he remarked. "It is wholly a local situation; the same thing happened in Pittsburgh."

MAIN INTENT

He pointed out that one of the main intents of the center would be to provide the community with a facility which residents could identify with.

Urban Design Associates, which has also served as consultants to school systems in New York City and Chicago, will perform the following work at a cost of $52,500:

- Investigate sites for the center and make recommendations to the board of education by mid-February. Studies would include demographic trends, racial balance, traffic, land use, relocation and development of a comprehensive city and education plans.
- Prepare full architectural preliminaries by mid-April. They would include educational specifications, cost estimates, preliminary plans for development of each phase of construction.

Whitmer said that $25,000 of the $52,500 bill could be applied toward the architectural fees if the school board eventually decided to hire Urban Design Associates as the architect for the center.

Likewise, if the new Pontiac Area Planning Council hires UDA, $15,000 for conducting detailed studies for the school district would be reduced from UDA's total fee to $37,500.

Lewis will speak to the Board of Governors of the planning council tonight on urban planning.

Seventy-one GMC Truck & Coach Division employees received diplomas last night upon completion of a comprehensive basic management training program at Oakland University.

Martin J. Caserio, vice president of General Motors and general manager of GMC Truck & Coach, and Dean Lowell Eklund, head of the university's Division of Continuing Education, addressed the graduates in the ceremony at Oakland Center.

The three-semester program, pioneered by GMC Truck & Coach and presented by university educators, is designed to provide supervisors and other qualified employees with basic management principles, written and oral communication techniques and industrial economics.

This is the second year of the program. Last year, 32 divisional employees participated.

In congratulating the men for volunteering their time and efforts to complete the study, Caserio said a successful manager is one who cultivates a continuing desire for knowledge and seeks his goals for personal growth and achievement beyond his immediate reach.

STUDENT ATTITUDE

"Most things of value owe their existence to men stretched beyond their normal capacity—men who worked longer and harder than others," he said, pointing out that such men possess a "perpetual student" attitude.

Caserio cited the management program as one of the steps being taken by GMC Truck & Coach to encourage the perpetual student concept among employees.

Dean Eklund also lauded those who volunteered for the training program and stressed the importance of self-development to better adapt oneself to the awesome forces of change which impinge on every aspect of our lives today — professional and personal.

The graduates, mostly engaged in manufacturing operations at the division, enrolled in the program last February. Classes were held Wednesday evenings and Saturday mornings to permit the men to attend following their regular work shifts.

EXECS PRESENT

Among the executives and educators present at the graduation ceremonies were S.C. Barker, education and training supervisor at GMC Truck & Coach, and Dr. Russell E. Elliott, assistant dean for professional development programs under the Division of Continuing Education.

Both men were instrumental in organizing and launching the management development program.

Cranbrook Teacher Honored

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — William Schultz Jr. has been named the fourth recipient of the Independence Fellowship at Cranbrook School, said Headmaster Robert M. Sandoe.

The award is made possible by grants from the Independence Foundation of Philadelphia and carries with it the highest teaching salary at the Cranbrook School for Boys.

Schultz succeeds Carl Womberger, who retired last June as holder of the fellowship.

Schultz came to Cranbrook in September 1930 and has been in the science department ever since.

Junior Miss Hopefuls Prepare for Big Day

Pontiac Junior Miss candidates are busily preparing for Saturday's pageant, sponsored by the Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce.

They completed the first phase of the contest with interviews last night.

The final round takes place at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Little Theater at Pontiac Northern High School. Tickets are $1 at the door. The public is invited.

Contestants from Pontiac Central High School are Beth Ellen Vershure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vershure, 1856 Sherwood, Sylvan Lake; and Diane Cheal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cheal, 219 Cherokee.

Entering from Pontiac High School are Kathy Slabinski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Slabinski, 1515 Kirts, Troy; and Maria Bora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugeniusz Bora, 207 Judson.

FROM NORTHERN
From Pontiac Northern High School are Cathy Dalby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dalby, 2135 Richmond; Patricia Guy, daughter of Clarence Guy, 386 Maxwell; and Teresa Deans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dean, 136 W. Mansfield.

The girl selected Pontiac's Junior Miss will have demonstrated physical fitness, creative talent and scholastic ability. She will, in the opinion of the judges, be alert and poised.

She will receive $250 in scholarships, and the runner-up will receive $100 in scholarships and merchandise awards from local firms.

The judges will be Mrs. Margaret Demetrak, assistant editor of the Inter-Lake News and Lakeland Tribune; Mrs. Delores Donahue, manager of Hudson's Hair Fashions Salon at the Pontiac Mall; and Fred V. Beaudoin, history teacher and president-elect of the West Bloomfield Education Association.

The new Junior Miss will be crowned by Johanna Lynn Yansen, last year's Pontiac Junior Miss. The winner will advance to the state pageant to be held in Pontiac the last weekend in January, also to be sponsored by the Pontiac Jaycees.

PROJECT SOUL

The combined student cabinet headed by co-chairmen Jim Brooks and Mary Duryea hope to be able to provide these families with money and goods to help finance, move and maintain new homes. The project is called "Homes for Christmas."

BIRMINGHAM — This Saturday at 3:45 p.m. in Shain Park Santa Claus will arrive via fire truck and shortly thereafter the Franklin Village Band will perform a Christmas concert in the cold.

The Birmingham Composite Squadron Civil Air Patrol now will hold its recruiting on Dec. 6 instead of Dec. 8. Young men and women aged 13-18 are welcome to attend the meeting to be held at St. Anne Hall near Harmon and Woodlawn.

Lathrup Man Killed Today in Troy Crash

A 41-year-old Lathrup Village man was killed early today when his car ramed the rear of an unoccupied parked truck on the shoulder of southbound I-75 in Troy, according to police.

Dead on arrival at William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, was William N. Fletcher of Lathrup Village.

Troy Police said there were no witnesses to the accident which occurred at 5:34 a.m.

Grant Boosts Independence Library Plans

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Word of a $38,546 federal grant for public library construction has spurred plans for the proposed new Independence Township Library building.

The State Board of Education has announced that the Independence Township project has been included in its recent distribution of $874,000 in federal monies.

Mrs. Philip Smith, librarian, said, "We will probably be able to get moving now."

Plans are to construct 4,500 square feet of a two-stage building on Board of Education land located on the Clarkston-Orion Road opposite the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection. The initial stage would be five times the size of the present library.

A $100,000 local fund drive launched in February has netted about $60,000 in pledges, Mrs. Smith reported.

PRESENT LIBRARY

The present library is housed in a small building next to the township center in Clarkston. Its facilities have been deemed inadequate to serve the growing community.

Santa to Arrive at Rochester in Saturday Parade

ROCHESTER — Santa will come to town in a parade at 2 p.m. Saturday. He will be enthroned in the Hills Theater lobby immediately afterwards and be available for consultation with youngsters of the community.

The parade — the 18th annual Christmas parade — will have about 1,700 participants this year, according to Chamber of Commerce chairman, Jerry McComb, Jack Upton and Richard Seitz.

Twenty-one floats will be competing for five trophies to be awarded.

A new feature this year will be a service offered by the Hills Amateur Radio Society.

Relatives having complete addresses of soldiers serving overseas (APO's and serial numbers) will be allowed to tape Christmas messages at no cost for delivery to the GIs.

A trailer for this purpose will be parked at the Municipal Building, according to Dale McGorman, radio chairman.

Lake Orion OKs Bid to County for Trunk Sewer

LAKE ORION — A resolution requesting the Oakland County Department of Public Works (DPW) to proceed with construction of a trunk sewer along Paint Creek has been adopted by the Village Council.

Similar resolutions are in the hands of the village of Oxford and Oxford and Orion townships. Only Oxford has acted upon the resolution, with the two townships having it under consideration.

The sewer — to be known as the Paint Creek Arm of the Clinton-Oakland Interceptor and tagged at a cost of $3.5 million — has been proposed as a means of answering State Water Resources Commission citations of pollution. Only Oxford Township of the four areas has remained unacted.

The resolution authorizes the DPW to proceed with engineering there are hopes of obtaining a federal grant to assist in payment.

In other business the Lake Orion village council increased its employee hospitalization insurance policy benefits.

NEW BENEFITS

A new minimum of $36 a day hospitalization was approved, granting employees a $10 a day increase in benefits. Cost to the village was put at $400 a year.

The council has approved a proposal for engineering and survey work at Eastlawn Cemetery as presented by Klett Engineering of Clarkston. Cost of the project was put at $3,810.

Farmington Twp. Supports Merging

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has unanimously approved a resolution proposing consolidation of the 36-square-mile Farmington area.

The resolution involving the township, Farmington City and the village of Wood Creek Farms and Quakertown, was introduced by Township Trustee Earl E. Opperthaus several weeks ago. The board had tabled it for further consideration.

The resolution is expected to be acted

Imlay City Forms Historical Group

IMLAY CITY — In anticipation of a centennial celebration in 1970, the Imlay City Historical Society has been formed here.

Harold Muir, 470 Bancroft, has been elected chairman.

The society was formed recently by the Village Council.

Muir said that it is expected that the centennial year will be 1970 since the first settlement in the area was in 1870, although actual incorporation did not take place until 1873.

He added that the group is interested in restoring the Town Hall with its old opera hall on the top floor as one of its projects.

OFFICERS

William E. Knight was elected vice president and Mrs. Neil Taylor, secretary. The next meeting is scheduled for Jan. 9.

Avon Girl, Romeo Boy

Two Teens Take 4-H Honors

Two Pontiac area teen-agers, Donald Campbell of Romeo and Karen Rose of Avon Township, have won recent 4-H honors.

The National 4-H Service Committee has announced that Miss Rose, 18, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwin Rose, 670 N. Adams, has been judged best in the state for her sheep project.

Winner of a wristwatch from Wilson & Co., Inc., she has come a long way from her first time in the show ring. She remembers she grabbed her lamb's neck wool too tightly and when the animal, inexperienced in being shown, fell down. Down she went too.

A freshman at Suomi College, Hancock, she has been a senior showman the respective agencies.

Planned Subdivision Gets Rezoning Okay

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Rezoning for a subdivision planned at Oakwood and Baldwin has been approved by the Oakland County Coordinated Zoning and Planning Committee.

The 13-acre parcel is in an area presently zoned suburban farms which requires five acres per lot.

Developers seek in their rezoning bid to change requirements to that of single-family development for which 12,000-square-foot lots are required.

The county committee's recommendation that the rezoning be granted will be presented to the Oxford Township trustees at a later date.

Vandals, 'Pot' Top Problems

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — School vandalism and marijuana smoking appear to be among the top problems shared by school and police officials, according to a meeting here yesterday between the respective agencies.

Vandalism was touched on first since only the night before West Hills Junior High School was broken into and three electric typewriters were stolen.

"I expect these break-ins will increase in the future due to our expanding school system," said School Supt. Eugene Johnson.

Bloomfield Township Police Chief Newton F. Tubbs explained that what is needed are detection devices which can alert the police to a break-in. This, however, was noted by school officials to be a high expense because every door and window would have to be covered.

Another suggestion by Lahser High

upon by the other municipalities in the Farmington area.

If the resolution is approved, the governments will probably appoint representatives to work together for a consolidation election next November, said a township official.

The intent of the resolution is to preserve the present governments until a study of the area is completed.

MSU BID

The Future Farmington Area Study Committee is awaiting the bid of the Michigan State University Institute for Community Services to conduct the study.

If this bid is accepted, the study should be done by next Fall, said committee chairman Dr. John H. Richardson.

Earlier this month, the board had tabled a resolution from Farmington City proposing that the township set up a moratorium on incorporation activities. The City Council had already declared a moratorium on annexation activities until the study is completed.

In other action, the Township Board agreed to put in a request for a federal planner from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

BLIGHTED AREA

This request came after the board heard a report from a HUD representative on the generally blighted lower southeast portion of the township. The area about one-half mile square is bounded by the township's eastern boundary, Inkster Road, Shiawassee Road and Grand River.

Representatives from HUD have been investigating the area for several months upon the request of the township. The township is seeking federal funds to help improve the area.

CAMPBELL

winner at the county and Michigan State Fair and state 4-H show.

Campbell, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. Campbell, 15295 33 Mile, has been awarded an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Campbell excelled in the entomology project sponsored by Hercules Inc. He has become an expert on spiders, raising them, studying their habits, experimenting with them and preserving their webs.

"Watching something alive is worth a million preservations," he said.

A freshman at Oakland University, Campbell hopes to become a biology teacher and credits his 4-H project for his decision.

State Road Travel Put at 33.5 Billion Miles

LANSING (AP) — Motorists traveled an estimated 33.5 billion miles on Michigan highways during the first nine months of 1967—representing a 1.9 percent over the same period in 1966, the State Highway Commission reports.

Principal David Cook appeared to meet with general approval of both school officials and police — to have either a dog or a full-time custodian on the premises at night.

"CONSISTENCY LACKING"

"I think one of the biggest problems in the area of school and police cooperation is the lack of consistency between the different schools," said Chief Tubbs.

He explained one school will release a student 17 and over to police for questioning without a warrant or let police talk to individual students on some matters while other schools won't release students until parents are present.

School officials agreed to aim toward consistency, while police will research legal aspects of juveniles' rights while in school.

Chief Tubbs said the police were the

The McGrans Offer A Warm Reception To Pilots At Their Orion Area Airport

Happy Landing at Orion Strip

By JEAN SAILE

ORION TOWNSHIP — It's like coming home when a pilot settles in at the small Allen Airport at 4261 Giddings.

Presided over for the last 21 years by Wilfred E. "Lefty" and Ethel McGran, their combined airport office-home radiates the smell of fresh coffee and good conversation.

Even on a poor flying day, it beckons people who drop in just to talk.

Lefty, who looks as though he should have been born in Texas, has been instructing at the airport since 1949. He and Mrs. McGran purchased the field in 1954. He counts hundreds of fliers among his former students.

In 1961 county officials purchased the 129-acre field plus 320 acres surrounding it. The McGrans stayed on as managers. Actually born in Ireland, the tall lean McGran came to Avon Township when he was two years of age. He took his first flying lessons in 1935 at the then Pontiac Municipal Airport and went on to fly during World War II and to ferry planes for the Air Transport Command.

HE DOESN'T FLY

Mrs. McGran, a pleasant blue-eyed motherly type, does not fly. "I just tell them what they do wrong," she reported.

She's quick to point out that if she ever did decide to learn to fly, it would be Lefty who would teach her.

McGran has had some success with what he calls a "pinch hitters' course for wives of pilots. He instructs the women to fly from the right side of the plane, so that if any emergency should occur on a trip they would be qualified to take over.

So far he hasn't convinced his wife. Nevertheless, both McGrans live, eat and breathe flying.

HOME FOR 76 PLANES

Owners of a pleasant Avon Township home, they haven't been able to tear themselves away from the airport to move into it as yet. Childless, they have adopted the whole group of fliers who keep 78 planes stationed on the field.

"I worry about them," Mrs. McGran admits. "They call me the mother hen. If there's a car left out in the parking lot on Sunday night, I want to know why."

Keepers of two frisky dogs and two fat and contented cats, the McGrans have carved a satisfying life from what was once a farmer's field and now is the Oakland-Orion Airport.

The field now has two approximately 2,500-foot sod runways, but McGran admits that there's something of an incline on the east-west runway.

THE OLD SOD

McGran, who can remember going along on barnstorming tours in the 30s, likes the sod runways.

"When you're landing in a crosswind on sod, you don't even know it," he draws.

The instructor, now starting on his second generation of students, admits there have been considerable improvements in planes and methods of instruction since he learned to fly.

"The radios and the blind flight instruments are the biggest new safety factor," he reported. "Airports have improved a good deal. It used to be that private airports were just a plain farmer's field."

GREATER ACCEPTANCE

Along with the improvements have come greater public acceptance of flying, he notes.

"It used to be that just a few of the more mechanically inclined learned to fly. Now it doesn't matter what anyone does for a living, they can and do learn to fly."

There have been many experiences over the years that the McGrans can recall. Probably one with the happiest ending is the story of the yellow, flying blind, whose plane ran out of gas and he landed right next to the pumps at the airport.

"He had no idea where he was," Mrs. McGran recalls.

Hearing Tonight for Police Chief

WOLVERINE LAKE — At a closed meeting tonight, the police chief here who has been asked to resign will answer charges of misconduct.

The charges were made Monday by the Village Council against Donald Vickery, 36, who has served as chief one-and-a-half years and is now temporarily suspended.

Village Manager Clifford Cottrell and former Village President Clyde Johnson asked for Vickery's resignation Nov. 6. Vickery, under village and state law, requested, and is entitled to the hearing.

"bad guys" in the eyes of many students. School officials and parents need to help create a more favorable image toward police, he said.

SMOKING UNSTOPPABLE

Student smoking was acknowledged as almost impossible to stop by these at yesterday's session.

"What about marijuana smoking?" asked Lahser principal David Cook. "I can't believe the high percentage figures rumored lately."

"I read about marijuana not being habit-forming, but regardless I believe that many students think it's harmless," said Andover High School Principal Dick Spleen. "It's illegal to possess marijuana and the use of it leads to irrational acts."

"It's around," said Chief Tubbs, "and it's apparently easy to get."

General Location for School in Huron Valley Is Okayed

The fourth elementary school for the Huron Valley School District will most likely sit in the northern part of the school district, somewhere south of Clyde Road.

Although the board of education picked the location of the school at a recent meeting, a site hasn't yet been purchased. The school is slated to open in September, 1969.

The board also agreed to pay a $4,000 share in the asphalt repaving of Union and George streets in Milford Village. Project will be paid by special assessments, not yet approved by the residents.

The board's participation in the project is optional, although it owns property on the roads.

In other action, the board approved a shortening of the school day from 7:30 to 2:30 p.m. for elementary special education students. The some 25 pupils at tend classes at Johnson Elementary School.

The Milford PTA invites youngsters and parents to Santa Land tomorrow from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Baker Elementary School, 716 N. Union, Milford. The affair includes Santa Claus, moose, baked goods, a toyland, a spook house, a cakewalk and a gift shop. Supper will be in the multipurpose room.

Cochairmen for the annual fund raising event are Mrs. George Cronin and Mrs. John DeWitt.

RATIFIED BY BOARD

Ratified by the board was its first collective bargaining contract with the schools auxiliary personnel — cafeteria workers, custodians, bus drivers.

Some 100 employees are organized as the Metropolitan Council No. 23, Local 92 of the American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees.

The local group has yet to vote on the contract which includes salary increases and fringe benefits. Representatives for both parties have been negotiating since March.

The board's vote on the contract was 4-3 to approve the pact. Those who voted "no" were questioning the board's ratification before the union representatives had a chance to examine the final wording of the contract, explained Schools Supt. Truman Owens.

The board also approved a projected New York trip for graduating seniors in May.

Utica School Official Resigning as of Jan. 5

UTICA — Art Woodhouse, assistant superintendent of the Utica Community Schools for the last 14 years, has submitted his resignation to the board of education.

A board spokesman said that Woodhouse is leaving Jan. 5 in order to accept a position in charge of client relations with the firm of Spaulding and DeBecker, municipal engineers in Birmingham. No replacement has yet been named.

Suicidal Depression 'Erased by LSD Trip'

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD — From the neck down, he is conservative — a dark suit, white shirt and carefully-knotted tie. But that's the only conservative part of Peter Fonda.

North of the neck, Fonda is the now generation personified. His hair is moderately long, he sports a pale, droopy mustache and the ideas that emerge from his mouth are from the conservative norm.

His latest film, "The Trip," deals basically with a man's experiences with LSD. (It is, Fonda says, much more than that, but LSD plays a major part in the plot.)

"My own position on LSD," he says, "is good. At least it was good for me."

The story pours out of him, then, in a steady, unembarrassed stream.

"I used to be in a bad way under severe stress. I was

Jewelry Joys Sure to Make Santa Twinkle

Concentrating on what to give the man in the red flannel suit? Look around the jewelry store for an array of gifts ready to keep Santa twinkling all year, suggests Jewelry Industry Council.

The return of flair and dash to the masculine wardrobe has seen an upsurge in cufflinks to dress up smart French cuffs. Diamond, pearl and semiprecious stones set in cufflinks and tie bars or studs are handsome gifts for Santa.

Small accessories such as a gold key chain, money clip, pocket knife, sterling silver belt buckle — perhaps with his initial — and silver-backed brushes give Santa an impressive appearance and a well-looked-after feeling.

Surprise Santa with a wardrobe of watches to carry him elegantly or sportingly through casual and dress affairs. A new watchband for his favorite timepiece is a surefire Santa pleaser, too.

Leather accessories make for handy gifting on Christmas morn. Wallet and key case sets, pocket secretaries and desk accessories are the attractive choice here.

Outdoor Fun Is Moving In

Energy, as any mother knows, is a quality which preschoolers possess in abundance. Indoors or outdoors, winter and summer, the before-kindergarten set is always busy and active.

That's one reason that most parents, planning Santa's gifts for the youngsters or consulting with generous grandparents, include toys "to work off that excess energy" on the Christmas list.

Today, child study authorities have confirmed parents' wise instincts for encouraging active play and physical development.

Physical and mental coordination do indeed go hand-in-hand for the preschool youngster, according to Playbook Research.

The youngster who learns to coordinate his muscles is also establishing patterns of mental coordination, learning spatial relationships and seeing and dis-

what the dictionary would call 'manic-depressive.' But 'depression' doesn't really convey what I felt. People say to me, 'Yeah, I know, I've been sad, too,' and I say to them, 'Man, you don't know what it means at all.'

"Depression is one thing. But what I had all the time was something else. I was suicidal. Suicidal about everything. I was so depressed all the time, there's no describing it."

"One trip and it was all over. No more suicide thoughts, no more depressions, no more drinking. The trip was a guided trip (with someone at his side) but not a doctor — I didn't want that. I can't even remember the details of the trip, only the results."

He paused for a moment and then began again.

"I'd recommend it," he said, "for somebody with problems, much more than I'd recommend the shrink." ("Shrink" is, Fonda explains, a hippie expression for psychiatrists.)

BE PREPARED
"But not alone, not without preparation. It's like a 707 jet — you just can't step into one of those things without knowing how to fly. Same with LSD — you're taking your soul for a ride and you have to know how to fly, you have to be prepared."

Fonda believes that the conservative public, or at least a large segment of it, will misunderstand "The Trip" and automatically label it a dirty picture.

"The Trip isn't a dirty picture," he says. "There is no such thing as a dirty picture and there are no dirty words, either. There's nothing I wouldn't show my children (a 3½-year-old girl, a one-year-old boy) and nothing I wouldn't say to my children."

"They've seen my wife and I without clothes; they've seen people go to the bathroom. Why not?"

TV WORSE
"I think television is far worse than the so-called pornographic movies. During the Middle East crisis, we watched the U.N. in session, and how can you expect to teach a child the difference between lies and truth when they see that?"

For Christmas '67, very special gifts to assure the year-round mind-and-muscle development of the energetic preschool set have been created.

Now tools for active play are not confined to the out-of-doors. A complete line of indoor physical activities equipment is scaled for the reach and stride of children one-and-a-half to four years old.

A teepee gym, jungle gym, rocking boat, gym slide and teeter totter give youngsters an inside-the-house chance to climb, sit, crawl, jump, slide and rock.

Each is sturdily constructed, yet takes little more space than the area usually confined for small-toy play.

Sunday Rental Now Unlimited

Responsible organizations — not only church groups — may now rent Pontiac school facilities on Sundays for "legitimate purposes."

The board of education last night changed its policy which had stated, "School buildings will not be rented on Sundays except to church groups for lectures, conferences or concerts."

Schools Business Manager Vera Schiller explained the reason for unlimited use this way:

"Requests for Sunday use of school facilities by nonchurch groups appear to be growing. The rule was originally established to limit the number of occasion when school operating personnel would be required to work on Sunday."

But the board approved that the following rentals on Sunday use remain in effect:

RESPONSIBLE RENTERS
Renters must be "responsible organizations located in the school district" or from a group of at least seven responsible citizens 21 years of age or over of the school district."

Facilities will not be rented to "subversive groups for unlawful uses, for activities that might be a nuisance to the area for public dancing, for professional wrestling or for activities that might cause damage beyond normal use."

In other business, school trustees waived the rental fee — $42 to $61 each day — for the Michigan Association for Children With Learning Disabilities (MACLD) three-hour swim-gym programs on Saturdays.

Lee W. Haslinger, city director of physical education, athletics and recreation, made the request to waive the fees.

He is president of MACLD, a nonprofit organization of parents and professionals to help children with learning disabilities. The group has been having problems of perceptually handicapped children.

Bids Exceed Estimates for New School

Bids for a new elementary school next to Lincoln Junior High School have exceeded cost estimates by more than $85,000, it was reported to the Pontiac Board of Education last night.

Architect Harry Denyes of Pontiac said he needs additional time to confer with school officials and bidders before he issues a recommendation on the awarding of contracts.

Low bids totaled more than $1.2 million, according to Schools Business Manager Vera Schiller who reported the figures to the board.

The school, yet to be named, is planned for occupancy next September. It would hold 600 students and would relieve overcrowding at nearby Wanser School.

Features of the school will include air-conditioning, facilities for closed-circuit television, connecting courtyard corridors, cafeteria (cafeteria and auditorium) and a conference room next to each classroom.

Ike Sets Stage for Escalation

Good Weapon if LBJ Should Invade North

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has done a nice piece of downfield blocking for President Johnson should the administration decide to carry the ball across the Demilitarized Zone into North Vietnam.

To date, direct U.S. assaults on the North have been exclusively by air. American planes support targets in North Vietnam for 21 months, but U.S. ground forces have been careful not to step across the line.

But Gen. Eisenhower's proposal for a limited ground invasion to knock out Communist artillery shelling U.S. forces just south of the DMZ is very similar to the course urged on Johnson by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

So far, the President has not taken this advice.

Should he change his mind, Eisenhower's prior endorsement of such a "hit-and-run" operation would give Johnson a considerable weapon with which to defend himself against charges that he was irresponsibly widening the war and risking Red Chinese intervention.

PRIZE ASSET

The backing of the man who led the Allied armies to victory in Europe in World War II is a prize asset.

There is evidence that Eisenhower was floating a trial balloon for the Johnson administration when he made his suggestion this week that a limited ground action would not be an actual invasion but "simply removing a thorn to our sides."

Nevertheless, administration officials will be watching closely to see what the reaction is here and abroad.

Detroit Police Recruit, Train Reserve Unit

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Police Department is recruiting and training an emergency volunteer reserve to assist the regular 4,389-man force in emergencies such as last July's riot.

The 1,000-man auxiliary force will be used only in case of serious disasters to assist firemen, guard public utilities and control traffic and crowds. The volunteers will be trained in the use of firearms, including shotguns and rifles, but will only be issued weapons under special circumstances.

The department already has 250 men, who were formerly with Michigan Civil Defense and who will serve without pay, undergoing training at the Detroit Police Academy.

PRECINCT RECRUITS

Additional volunteers are being recruited at the precinct level, and the department says it hopes to have 600 more ready for training in January.

The volunteers will receive two-hour courses once a week for seven weeks in routine police work and an additional eight hours of specialized training in the use of the rifle and the shotgun.

Police Commissioner Ray Givardis told the Common Council Tuesday that the regular police force needs more men and money.

County Dealer Sends GIs Noted Armor-Plated Bible

DETROIT (UPI) — The famous armor-plated Bible of World War II has been pressed back into service for another war and is finding its way to Vietnam as a Christmas gift for servicemen.

In answer to many inquiries, an suburban Ferndale book dealer has been shipping hundreds of the New Testament Bible, with its armor plating, to Vietnam.

Don Wanner, manager of Dickson's Bible and Book House, said many parents and relatives wanted the Bible as a Christmas gift.

The Bibles are encased in a simulated leather case with a sheet of 22-gauge stainless steel mounted inside the front cover.

Etched in the stainless steel is the Biblical quotation "... My presence shall go with thee..." — Exodus 33:14.

"I don't know if the stainless steel will stop a bullet," Wanner said. "I'm no ballistics expert."

Future Dim as Biafra Marks 6th Independent Month

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Biafran leader, head of Nigeria's military today completed its first six-month government, in an effort to months of independence amid put Nigeria together again.

Nigeria's former Eastern region, which seceded in May after a year of tribal suspicion and distrust, so far has survived the third of the 29,000 square miles of Africa's newest but still unrecognized republic.

LA Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, the bearded Oxford history graduate who declared independence at 8 a.m. on May 30, still governs a going concern. Its major exports include Nigerian bank notes which the federal government claims are being used to finance Biafran operations.

Although unrecognized, Biafra maintains a busy office in Lagos, Portugal, from where it is believed planes loaded with military equipment fly to Biafra via the Portuguese island position of the pounce. These planes of Sao Tome off the African coast.

It has an advertising agency, "Routledge and Pinn," in Manhattan, as well as an agent in the United States. Its diplomats continue to move relatively free through Great Britain and several East African countries.

Alexander the Great was born in Europe, died in Asia and was buried in Africa.
