France Moves for Stable Rule in North Africa

Expects to Establish New Regime Within Next Two Weeks

PARIS (AP)—New negotiations with Moroccan nationalists are planned by France in a drive to set up a stable, home-rule government for the North African protectorate.

Important changes in the Moroccan political picture appeared imminent but there was no announcement of details.

The French Cabinet completed a two-day discussion of Moroccan policy yesterday and announced steps would be taken to establish a new government within two weeks.

Pierre July, minister for Tunisian and Moroccan affairs, predicted that "the obstacles which still confront us will be overcome."

Premier Edgar Faure earlier this month called for establishment of a new Moroccan government by Sept. 12.

July told a news conference the full Cabinet endorsed Faure's general Moroccan policy and authorized further talks with Moroccan leaders. He said efforts would continue to bring the Istiqlal party, the protectorate's strongest nationalist faction, into a representative government.

July gave no date for resumption of the talks with nationalist leaders which began last week at Aix les Bains.

One expected change is the replacement of Resident General Gilbert Grandval. French colonial residents blame his moderate policies for the violence during the weekend of Aug. 20 in which more than 1,000 persons died.

The man most frequently mentioned as his successor was Gen. Pierre Boyer de Latour, resident general in Tunisia. A career officer, he helped formulate self-government agreements for Tunisia and might be acceptable to Morocco's nationalists.

Faure also hopes the general can attract some support among Morocco's colonial residents. He served several years there under Marshal Alphonse Juin, idol of many colonists, and gained a reputation for sternness.

If shifted to Morocco, Boyer de Latour's first task presumably would be to engineer the replacement of the present Sultan, Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafat, by a regency council.

Freak Accident Kills Woman, 64

Mrs. Mary Schneider Dies Under Wheels of Own Car

A 64-year-old West Bloomfield Township woman was killed yesterday when she was run over by her own car as it rolled out of her daughter's driveway.

Dead as the result of a fractured skull and internal injuries was Mrs. Marie Katherine Schneider, of 6596 State Park Blvd. Michigan State Police officers said the woman was dead when they arrived at the scene.

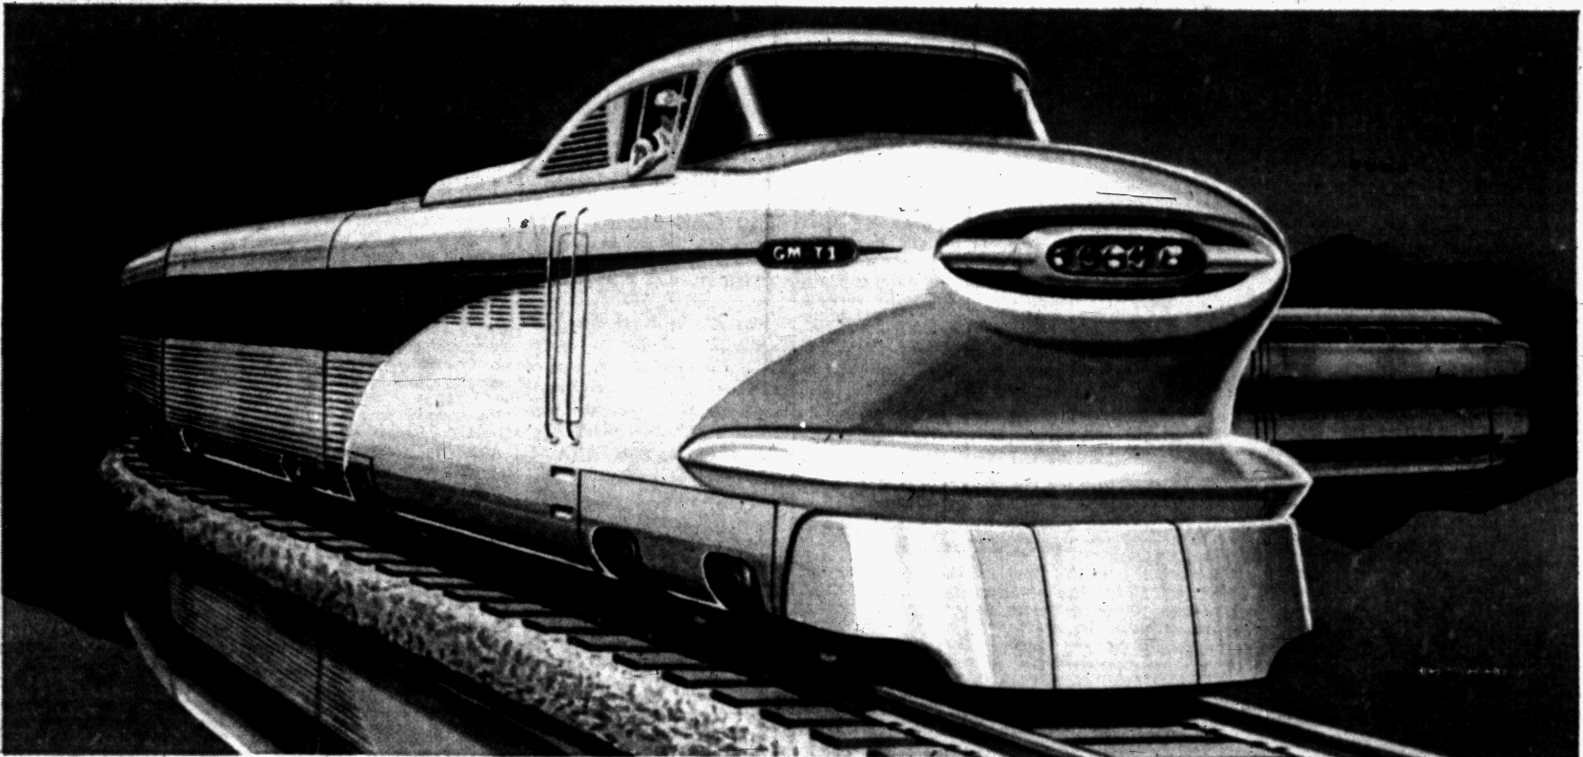

They said the woman had just arrived at her daughter's home at 7056 State Park Blvd. and parked her car in the driveway. The car began to roll down the incline and as she attempted to stop it, she apparently fell and was knocked underneath and pinned there when her clothing snagged.

The car rolled out of the driveway across the street 66 feet, stopping when it rolled over an embankment, officers said.

Mrs. Schneider's daughter, Mrs. Juliana Bader, was talking on the telephone to Mrs. Schneider's husband, Henry G. when the mishap occurred.

GM Aerotrain Will Pioneer New Trend in Rail Travel

Chicago Hails GM Powerama

Aerotrain Highlights 26-Day Exhibition of Power Development

CHICAGO (AP)—The place of Diesel and gas turbine power in the nation's industrial economy will be dramatized at a 26-day exhibition opening here tomorrow.

It is General Motors' Powerama or "World's Fair of Power."

Staged on the lakefront, some 250 exhibits will demonstrate the uses of mechanical power in the operation of sawmills, cotton gins and oil drilling rigs, the application of Diesel power to railroad trains, plowing and other industrial and farm implements.

The new revolutionary lightweight train built by General Motors at the request of a committee of railroad presidents will get its first public showing.

At a press view today, invited guests saw these exhibits along with scrapers and tractors, the world's largest dump-truck, road building equipment, fighter planes, tanks, guided missiles and other defense weapons.

They also saw a Navy submarine, General Motors' gas turbine powered automobile and a half a dozen conventionally powered "dream cars" shown earlier this year at General Motors' automotive shows.

Entertainment is provided in a "technological circus" with dancing.

The "Aerotrain" and a counterpart now nearing completion will be turned over to eastern and western railroads sometime after Nov. 1 for operating tests.

General Motors' new experimental passenger train, known as the "Aerotrain" will be unveiled tomorrow at the GM Powerama in Chicago. The train is a product of the corporation's Electromotive Division, at La Grange, Ill., with the GMC Truck & Coach Division here building the modern type of cars.

In addition to the train which will be seen in Chicago through Sept. 25 a second is under construction.

tion will be ready by the end of September. They are expected to be placed in service on two major lines for a year of test runs.

The ten-coach trains, driven by a one-unit Diesel locomotive, are expected to set new standards in passenger travel. The new trains are lighter and less expensive than trains of the past and are designed for minimum operating and upkeep cost.

Japan Wants 'Solid Partnership'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Japanese Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu said today the time has come for America and Japan to "review our defense relationship, and put it on a solid partnership basis."

Shigemitsu said that under the existing security treaty between the two nations the major burden for Japan's defense has been placed on the United States. Japan, he declared, has been a topic of his conferences today with Secretary of State Dulles and other top U. S. officials. American authorities have been critical of Japan's slow pace in building her defense forces.

WARNS ON REDS

But he made plain that he believes the two countries must stand together to maintain peace in the Pacific and East Asia, and he declared that Japan "must beware of Communist peace-offensives which aim at creating difficulties and dissensions among free nations."

Shigemitsu said Japan felt her technical state of war with Russia should be ended. Moscow and Tokyo have yet to sign a peace treaty ending World War II. But he gave assurance that Japan "will not undertake anything that will prejudice in the least our dynamic partnership with your great country."

He also noted that Japan is maintaining diplomatic relations with the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa and this "precludes our entering upon formal relations with Communist China."

But he said neither Japan nor the United States can escape the reality that there are two hostile Chinese governments exercising control over two separate areas.

He said Japan is anxious that neither side aggravates the situation by resorting to violence.

Frank X. Martel Dies; AFL Labor President

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP)—Labor mourned today the death of Frank X. Martel, president of the Detroit and Wayne County AFL Federation of Labor.

The 66-year-old labor leader died of a heart attack yesterday attending the Michigan Democratic conference at Mackinac Island.

He was checking on his reservations for a banquet in honor of former President Harry S. Truman at the Grand Hotel when he collapsed.

Martel's death brought expressions of condolences from Truman, Sen. McNamara, Gov. G. Mennen Williams and a host of labor leaders.

Truman said Michigan labor and the country had suffered "a great loss."

"He was what I would call a labor statesman," Truman said.

The veteran AFL chieftain was stricken after an uphill walk from the Straits of Mackinac ferry dock. Despite the fact he had been under a doctor's care for some time because of a heart ailment he had insisted on carrying the equipment bag of a Detroit newspaper photographer.

Since 1919 Martel had been president of the Detroit Federation of Labor, local central body of AFL unions in the area. Intra-union disputes in recent years, however, have cut sharply into federation membership and influence.

Martel was born Oct. 19, 1888 in Merrill, Mich., near Saginaw. He was one of seven children.

He was a printer for Detroit newspapers in his early years. He went from a post in the International Typographical Union to the Wayne County Federation presidency.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Clear Skies, Cool Is Area Forecast

Clear skies coupled with temperatures in the low 80's is the weather bureau forecast for this area tomorrow.

Tonight, the mercury is expected to drop to a chill 58 to 62 degrees.

In a long range forecast, the weatherman today said temperatures will average below normal from two to four degrees, climbing slightly Saturday and Sunday. Additional showers are expected Friday.

Today in downtown Pontiac, the thermometer registered a cool 66 degrees at 8 a.m., showing a 11-degree rise to 77 by 1 p.m.

Wind Bothers Skeet Gunners

Scores Drop at OCSC in National Shoot; Title Matches Begin

By H. GUY MOATS
Pontiac Press Sports Editor

Strong winds following a heavy thunderstorm early today were giving shotgunners in the National Skeet Shooting championships at Oakland County Sportsman's Club a really rough time.

Consequently, there was a lot of complaint from the competitors, and scores skidded. Shooters used to running 96's and 100's were hitting far below those figures in early squad returns. Targets failed, soared, dipped and dropped unpredictably.

However, as national skeet shooting association officials pointed out, "It's either shooting under windy conditions, or having things held up by rain. And I guess they'd all rather be off the field."

Second day of the nationals, the country's biggest skeet shooting competition, found marksmen firing in the first regular championship.

Both men and women were on the ranges today, shooting the sub-small gauge .410's during the morning. This afternoon will mark the start of the sub-junior and women's junior championship. The firing will be with the big 12, or smaller guns, in those events. Both are 100 target competitions.

Only one squad had reported completing its round at 11:30 a.m. today.

Overpass Saves Time

DETROIT (AP)—Motorists commuting to Detroit's northern suburbs estimated today that an overpass opened yesterday at Woodward Ave. and Eight Mile Road saves them 10 minutes in driving time.

State Dems End Rally at Mackinac Spurred for '56 Campaigns

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP)—Some 800 Michigan Democrats packed up their political hopes today and left for home, confident of state and national victories after a rollicking three-day rally.

Harry S. Truman, who held the spotlight during the conference, left the Pellston Airport at 10:30 a.m. for his home at Independence, Mo.

The former President, full of fight on his current "Give-'em-Hell" campaign, will return to Michigan Sunday for a Labor Day speech in Detroit.

Truman was given an ovation as he blasted Republican policy at a banquet in the swank Grand Hotel last night.

His peppery speech, which climaxed a four-hour-long program of songs, speeches and introduction, was punctuated continually by the cheer of Democrats who packed the banquet room.

Looking vigorous himself, despite his 71 years, Truman praised Michigan Democrats for their "pep, vim and vigor."

"You, in Michigan, are building a good, solid, hard-hitting political organization from the ground up," he said.

"You have a very able and outstanding leader in Gov. Williams."

Democratic National Committee Chairman Paul M. Butler challenged the state party members to achieve greater accomplishments in 1956, than ever before.

"I predict during the next two or three years Michigan will become one of the strongest Democratic states in the nation," Butler said.

"It was this concern," Butler said, "that prompted the Republican national chairman to make highly intemperate remarks about Truman."

Hall had said Sunday that Truman's current speeches "sounded like a bitter, frustrated man."

In a 20-minute speech introducing Truman, Williams praised the former President as "one of the great Americans of the 20th Century."

The governor said the Republican Administration may well boast of prosperity "because it is the first prosperity this nation has known under Republican leadership in nearly two generations."

CLAIM CREDIT

"Where the present administration can honestly claim success, it must acknowledge that it is only carrying out policies initiated by the Democratic administration of Harry Truman," Williams said.

Throughout the conference, Democrats repeated the theme that the present administration is a party dominated by "business" and "special interests." The charges were made in the speeches of Sen. Patrick V. McNamara (D-Mich), Truman and Williams.

Also hard hit were the issues of public versus private power, Republican money policies and farm support.

For the fight for the control of the state legislature, Democrats were warned to prepare to speak out on highway safety, mental health, taxes and schools.

From top state officials to precinct workers party members beamed confidence on their chances for victory on both a state and national level next year.

The Democrats prophesied almost unanimously that they will return a Democrat to the White House and meet Gov. Williams' target of a Democratic majority in the state House of Representatives.

Red Farming—One Man's Opinion

Russian Women Used as Agricultural Drudges

Editor's Note: This is the second of six articles describing conditions behind the Iron Curtain on the farms of Soviet Russia. The author, who headed the 12-man U.S. delegation to the U.S.S.R., is dean of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

By DR. W. V. LAMBERT
During our tour of Russia, I was constantly amazed—perhaps I might say even shocked—by the number of women doing the hard and menial job on the farms.

Farm women are the unsung and almost forgotten heroines of Soviet agriculture. They make up practically half of the total labor force on collective and state-owned farms.

In addition to working—hard—for eight to ten hours a day in the fields, they have to do their housework and cooking for the family.

This hard work takes its toll. They age rapidly. Few would qualify as village belles after passing their thirtieth birthday. In fact, by the time they are thirty, they look ten to twenty years older. They appear to be happy—and for the most part healthy and strong.

Housework is made all the more difficult because the homes have few if any modern conveniences, but they have the help of the nurseries.

As soon as baby is two months old, he goes into a nursery if the mother is working. From then until he is seven years old when he enters the primary school, the nursery is his day time home. Only on Sunday is he at his parents' home the entire day.

A TYPICAL HOME

Come into a typical Russian farm worker's house with me.

Outside, we see it's made of clay or adobe brick. This thick wall means it's warm in winter and cool in summer.

In some areas, the houses are extended to provide shelter for the farm animals. But this house is a typical small one. Three rooms, each about ten feet by ten feet plus a small kitchen.

The floor is wooden. The walls are whitewashed and clean, often decorated with pictures.

Here in the room that serves as kitchen and dining room, there is no stove. Cooking is done on a fireplace or hearth. This also heats the house in winter. There is a table and a few chairs and in each room there is at least one bed.

Kerosene lamps provide the source of light in the homes on most collective farms.

Russian women are generally not well-dressed. Clothing is expensive. A good dress costs a month's wages.

During our tour, we found Russian farm women to be rather shy. They seldom asked us questions. When they did question us, it was to ask how many children we had, or to question if American women worked on farms.

When we told them that American women seldom if ever worked on farms, they took it rather stoically.

MEN ARE CURIOUS

But the men pounced us with questions. They wanted to know: "How many people do you use on a three hundred acre farm in America?" "Do the American farmers have private autos?"

"What does the average farmer earn in America?" "What is the size of the average farm in the United States?"—Usually they were surprised by our answers. In some cases they simply refused to believe us.

In every case, they were absolutely astonished when we told them for example, that an American farmer and three hired hands would run a seven-hundred-acre livestock farm.

One collective farm manager said he refused to believe four men could do the job, whereupon one of our delegation invited him to visit Iowa and see for himself. This won the point.

Deadline Set for Pollution

Birmingham, Township and Hills Must Act by End of 1957

The cities of Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills and the township of Bloomfield have been given until the end of 1957 to stop polluting the Rouge River and its tributaries with sewage and waste.

Visiting Circuit Judge, Lila M. Nuenfelt issued decrees ordering the cessation of pollution deadline Monday.

The action came as a result of suits filed by the State Water Resources Commission against the three governmental units. Judge Nuenfelt issued no orders in similar suits against the city of Lathrup Village and Southfield Township.

The decrees order the three "to proceed immediately and continue with due diligence to do all things and take all steps which are necessary to abate pollution of the waters of the state as soon as reasonably possible."

Before May 1, 1956, they must notify the Water Resources Commission which of three plans will be used to end the pollution. The options offered by the decrees are:

- 1 - Individual construction of sewers and sewage treatment facilities by each defendant community.
- 2 - A municipal authority in which two or more governmental units would join forces and resources.
- 3 - Another means of the defendant's own choosing which would be satisfactory to health and water resources officials.

The decrees also establish a schedule of dates for submission of plans, the beginning of construction and completion of construction. All pollution definitely must end by Dec. 31, 1957, under the orders.

It has been charged by state officials that the pollution is being caused by the discharge of raw or inadequately treated human sewage and wastes into the Rouge and its tributaries.

Abatement of pollution has been under discussion for three years and the five units involved have been under commission orders to halt pollution for more than a year.

The communities cited have been cooperating in a plan for jointly solving the problem by means of a sewer-the Evergreen Interceptor—which would funnel sewage from the area into the city of Detroit's sewage treatment plant.

The $2,740,000 project has been delayed for a year, however.

Southfield Township, which originally held up the plan when its voters refused to approve an expenditure for its share of the cost, is again holding up action.

Southfield is in the process of changing from a township to a city and no action can be taken until its residents vote on a city charter, probably in October or November.

Pontiac Men Offer Plan to Curb Illegal Drivers

Three Pontiac men are in Lansing today to offer Secretary of State James M. Hare a solution to the problem of taking dangerous, many-violation drivers off the highway.

The proposal stems from a system that Oakland and adjacent counties have been using since 1951 in justices courts.

Loren Anderson, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee on traffic, Leslie H. Hudson, state representative from the second district, and Gerald Terrien, Oakland County Board of Supervisors' auditor of the justice courts are scheduled to discuss the plan with Hare today.

During the past two years, Terrien has completed and put into operation a streamlined, one-form method of justice court records. The possible solution to removing dangerous drivers from the highways lies in one of the several carbon copies of the court record that the justices fill out after each case.

This copy of the violation, if placed in a central file agency open 24 hours a day, would allow justices and municipal judges to check an offender's past record of convictions with one or two telephone calls.

The calls would be local, and would not burden the secretary of state's office in Lansing. Terrien has pointed out. If a justice intends to check into the past record of a driver before him now, he must check with the Lansing bureau, which is often inconvenient.

Through his accounting work, Terrien already has records of justice court appearances for the past 18 months. These could be put into immediate use by setting them up on a 24 hour day availability basis.

Hare has estimated that there are some 30,000 Michigan motorists who should not be on the road. This followed an Automobile Club of Michigan survey which revealed that half of the state drivers who have had their license revoked are still driving.

Genesee, Kent and Macomb counties have adopted Terrien's accounting system. It would be quite easy to combine the files of the adjacent counties, and come up with a master file for much of the highly populated area of the state.

The central system would also give an index record of other crimes, and could be useful in rounding up known sex offenders, it has been pointed out.

Men Save Girl From Drowning

Take Turns Holding Friend Afloat in Cass Lake After Capsizing

Four persons narrowly missed drowning late last night in Cass Lake after the 18 foot speedboat in which they were riding capsized and sank in 40 feet of water. Sandra Rogers, 19, of Detroit, a passenger who could not swim, was held up for about 20 minutes by Raymond Benach, the boat owner, and two other passengers.

She was treated for bruises of the right arm and shoulder at Pontiac General Hospital and released. The others escaped injury.

Benach, 22, of Detroit, told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies that the boat was in the center of the lake when it suddenly went out of control and capsized, pitching all four occupants into the water. Benach said he did not see anything in the water in the path of the boat before the accident occurred.

The other passengers were, Aubrey Golde, 36, of Detroit and Renee Better, 24, of Keego Harbor.

After the craft went down, the three took turns holding the 19-year-old girl from submerging. Benach said he held the girl by her hair and began swimming toward shore when a boatload of searchers, aroused by the victims cries for help, picked them up.

Pistol Mishap Kills City Man

Police Say Victim, 26, Pointed 'Unloaded' Gun at Himself

Warned by his friends that an "unloaded" revolver might be loaded, a 26-year-old Pontiac man shot and killed himself when he jokingly pointed the gun at his chest.

Pronounced dead of a self-inflicted .32 caliber bullet wound in his chest was Manuel Garcia, 12 Whitfield St., a Pontiac Motor Division employee.

Witnesses to the shooting at 346 Osburn St. told Pontiac Police officers that Garcia had been pointing the revolver at them and pulled the trigger twice but no shots were discharged.

After they warned him to put the pistol down, witnesses told police Garcia held the pistol to his chest and fired the fatal shot. Garcia was pronounced dead by Dr. I. C. Prevette and his body was taken to the Hutton Funeral Home.

Pontiac Police said the pistol was registered in the name of Otis Gillette of 149 W. Colgate St. in 1953. Further investigation revealed no record of registration exists.

GM Working on A-Power

President Curtice Talks at Powerama, Tells of Company's Research

CHICAGO (INS) - General Motors Corp. revealed today that it was doing research on atomic power.

However, GM President Harlow H. Curtice would not say whether the research was applicable to the use of automobiles, trucks, airplane equipment or "just what," he declared.

"When the proper time comes, if we have something to announce in the application of atomic energy to a vehicle of any kind, we'll let you know very quickly."

"I will say, in very general terms, that we are not overlooking any fields that are open to us that are productive of power. We are producers of horsepower and users."

Curtice issued the statement at a press luncheon which was a preliminary to the GM Powerama, which celebrates the production by GM of the 100 millionth diesel horsepower and also the corporation's progress on gas turbine engines.

Referring to the use of gas turbine engines in automobiles, Curtice said:

"Gas turbine engines are a little closer than they were two years ago when we produced the experimental Firebird, but they are not in the immediate future."

Police Probe Breakin at City Gas Station

Solons to Hear Proposals for Defectives' Aid

Sen. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) said today he will present two recommendations aimed at providing care for mentally defective children to a State Senate committee tomorrow.

The first will urge that the state consider an institution in Oakland County to house about 1,000 of the youngsters. Broomfield's second proposal will carry to the Senate a proposal for a State Institute for the Mentally Defective to Governor Williams.

It calls for providing immediate temporary care for the approximately 1,200 defective children now awaiting care and treatment by placing them in vacant state institutions or in foster homes, with the state sharing the cost.

Murder Suspect Arraigned Here

Roy Goff Stands Mute at Court Hearing; Examination Set

After standing mute during arraignment yesterday in Justice Court, Roy Goff, 32, was ordered to appear Sept. 8 for examination in the first degree murder of pretty Flint divorcee, Rita Cummings.

Goff, also of Flint, appeared with his head swathed in bandages covering a self-inflicted bullet wound, and was ordered held in Oakland County Jail without bond by Springfield Township Justice Emmett J. Leib.

The accused killer was brought from Pontiac General Hospital where he has been under guard since the slaying of the 27-year-old mother of three eight days ago on a lonely road near Holly. A suicide note linked the pair romantically.

Dressed in a white shirt opened at the throat and light blue slacks, the former factory worker sobbed intermittently during the short arraignment in Sheriff Frank Irons' office.

The examination was set tentatively for 2 p.m. in the Oakland County Probate Court chambers.

90 PHS Gridders Drill Monday

Fundamentals Stressed by Graybiel and Staff in Opening Practice

A total of 90 aspiring Pontiac High School football candidates reported to head coach Ed Graybiel and his staff at Monday's opening workouts in Wisner Stadium. Fifty prospects were from the varsity and the rest represented the reserves.

Yesterday's session was devoted chiefly to conditioning, which involved calisthenics and wind-sprints. Fundamentals were stressed by Graybiel and his coaching cohorts with the ambitious Gridders engaging in blocking and tackling drills on dummies. A similar pattern of activity is planned for today, according to Graybiel.

Four plays were presented to Pontiac's gridders yesterday, two from the T-formation and two from the single wing. It was just intended to get them into the swing of things, Graybiel said.

Graybiel commented that a few of the boys seem to remember well from a year ago, but added that many others are "green." Good size is evident, he said, but the majority comes from the reserves and hence is an unknown quantity. "We do have some fast backs," Graybiel stated.

Unless the weather becomes unbearably bad, the PHS gridders are slated for another busy workout today. If it proves necessary to retire from outside, Graybiel plans skull practice and motion pictures.

Big Carrier Forresteral Getting Rough Tests

ABOARD THE CARRIER FORRESTERAL - The 60,000-ton carrier Forresteral was at sea today awaiting rigorous tests that will determine whether this mighty war ship is ready to join the U. S. fleet.

The supercarrier, biggest fighting ship afloat, steamed away from her Newport News, Va., moorings late yesterday, headed for four-day sea trials of her great engines and virtually every piece of machinery with which she is equipped.

The Day in Birmingham

City Calls for Estimates on Third Parking Lot Site

BIRMINGHAM - Steps were taken at last night's City Commission meeting to further efforts toward construction of the city's third proposed parking lot, to benefit the northeast business section.

Lawmakers advised City Manager Donald C. Egbert to secure accurate acquisition costs for the parcels involved, namely:

Land for a 160-car space lot (lot A) between Ferndale and Park streets north of Hamilton avenue and south of Oakland avenue frontage; and property on the south side of Hamilton (lots E and F) extending 250 feet east of the alley adjacent to Birmingham National Bank.

The latter would provide 87 car spaces and include a 6 1/2-foot strip of land to allow for foot traffic through to East Maple avenue.

Egbert also was authorized to investigate finances regarding construction of a multiple, or double-decker, structure on lot A. This could for the present eliminate the need for acquiring lots E, and F.

He will also check the possibility of providing a buffer strip for the protection of Oakland avenue residents, which would mean reducing the parking space in lot A.

While most of the affected property owners are willing to accept lot A, they are "pretty much opposed" to the lot on the south side of Hamilton, "mainly because of the expense of acquiring," John Maynard told the commission.

Maynard is representing property owners on Park, Hamilton and a portion of Ferndale avenues, who would be assessed for lot A.

Of concern to all who may be assessed for any of the city's off-street parking lots was the announcement that the probable ratio of financing any municipally sponsored lots would be 60-40 per cent, the city paying the larger figure.

This will be decided at a Sept. 12 public hearing, the date set last night for confirmation of a revised assessment roll for the Pierce-Merrill parking lot.

Golfing at Springdale Park will take on new interest in the next few weeks when men and women vie for top honors in their respective leagues.

Tournament play in the Men's League began today, with two matches scheduled both this week and next, and the playoffs on Sept. 11. Competing will be 32 members.

Season's play ended last week, with the team of Tom Stinson and Tom McDaniel leading the way with a score of 67. Second and third were the teams of Bob Gent and Charles Moore, and the father and son team of Virgil and Mickey Hartkopf.

In the Ladies' League, 32 women will compete Sept. 13 in a medal tournament.

In league play which ends today, Mrs. Jack Lindley and Mrs. Robert Wyatt top the list with a score of 59. Next is the team of Mrs. Nell Hollingshead and Mrs. Richard S. Dixon.

Flight winners in the junior tournament which ended last week were John Shelly, age 14; Tom Rutledge, 15; Paul Simmons, 12; and Jo Fauteck, 9. Their respective scores were 38, 46, 55 and 96.

Devany Wins First Test at Birmingham

Defending champion Pat Devany came through her first match unscathed today in the Women's District Golf Association Tournament at Birmingham Country Club. Miss Devany downed Mrs. Jane Israel with ease, 6 and 5.

Former titlist Mrs. Don Weiss survived her first test with a crushing 7-5 victory over Mrs. R. E. Leahy, but another ex-champion was a casualty. Margaret Russell, twice a winner, fell victim to Ann Arbor's Mrs. Susie LeClair, 6 and 5. Five other matches are incomplete.

Drive to Improve Waterford Athletic Field Makes Headway

$5,000 Pledged Since Thursday

Students Seek 'Loans' to Finance Floodlights and Fencing

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — A spot check reveals that over $5,000 has been pledged in the five days since the campaign started to finance floodlights and fencing for the Waterford Township High School athletic field. Goal of the pledge drive is $25,000.

Only half of the 30 members of the student council who are promoting the drive were contacted, according to Howard Bennetts, student council advisor. He indicated a full report probably would show a higher pledge figure.

Within a few hours after the campaign started Thursday, $1,000 had been pledged. Jerry Kruskie, student chairman of the project, reported.

He stressed that although outright donations are being accepted, the project really is an opportunity for people to invest their money with a guaranteed return.

PAY IN 1960
The pledges are being taken as loans in $50 and $100 denominations, to be retired at the rate of $1,500 per year beginning in 1960. They will bear one per cent interest.

Critical expenses within the school district prohibit spending regular school funds on the athletic field. Thus far, the student council has paid all the expenses incurred by the improvement project.

The students hope to get sufficient pledges to begin the installation this fall, in time to hold some night football games during the coming season.

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS OLDENBURG

Glenda R. Burkhardt Wed to Richard L. Oldenburg

Glenda Rae wore a floor-length gown of nylon lace and tulle over satin, with a veil of illusion. Her cascade bouquet was composed of white roses and stephanotis, centered with a white orchid.

Marian Pickering of White Lake road was her maid of honor and Mrs. Charles Smith of Milford acted as bridesmaid.

Charles Smith, Leon DeGarmo of Highland and Melvin McKeachie of White Lake Road attended the bridegroom.

A reception was held afterward in the Davisburg Masonic Temple, Davisburg. The couple left for a tour of Northern Michigan and plan to live at White Lake upon return from their honeymoon.

Hollywood Headlines

Vivacious Ginger Rogers Plans to Sponsor Starlets

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD — Ginger Rogers, normally a conservative girl, is fomenting a Hollywood revolution that could shake the ranks of her sister glamour queens to the dark roots of their platinum tresses.

It started quietly a few weeks ago when a Hollywood group, consisting of Ginger, director George Sidney, bon vivant Jim Henaghan, and producers Jack Cummings and David Hempstead, decided to revive the old Wampas baby stars idea.

Now it was the Wampas that gave the publicity kick to stardom to such as Joan Crawford, Clara Bow, Dolores Del Rio, Loretta Young and others. The Wampas was an organization of publicity men. It was significant, one of the members recalls, that established feminine stars of the era gave the group nothing but resistance.

The new group, tentatively called the Hollywood Sponsors' Circle, will select 13 baby stars—all girls—on Oct. 28. Ginger will be one of the judges who will spend an entire day listening to five minute auditions from the young lovelies.

On the surface, this sounds like a good publicity stunt for Ginger but it's one that most of the established glamour queens want no part of.

It's no trade secret that the older feminine stars often blue-pencil fresh, shapely—and young—talent. It's even hard for a cute starlet to get in the same still picture with a big star, let alone a movie.

Maria English, one of the most photographed of all the young beauties, reveals that several of the top stars have been downright mean to her when photographers tried to pose them together.

This practice is an accepted pattern for survival in the dog-eat-dog existence of Hollywood.

Ginger, who always talks straight from the shoulder, argues, "It's time someone started sponsoring the young players in this town. I had lots of help when I got started and it meant a lot to me."

The always-vivacious Ginger has one lament:

"I think the men newcomers should be included too but I was outvoted four to one."

Then a cynical reporter decided to put Ginger to the big test. "Will you pose with the girls?" he asked. She did it without hesitation.

Preserving First U.S. Protestant Monastery

EPHARATA, Pa.—When Johann Conrad Beissel, founder of a sect of Seventh-day Baptists, came to live on a bank of Conaco Creek in 1828, his followers settled nearby. They started the Society of the Solitary and the Cloister at Ephrata.

This was the first Protestant monastery in America. The cloister, still intact, is now maintained by the Pennsylvania Historical Society.

Union Leader Returns Home as Mate Relaxes Her Opposition

CHICAGO — An indignant housewife and her striking husband are together again today.

Mrs. Esther Quigley, 35, was reunited with her husband Andrew, a 220-pound steward for the CIO United Auto Workers, last night after nearly a week of dispute.

She told newsmen, however, that the reunion resulted in "no kissing, no hugging, no tears, no nothing."

Mrs. Quigley had loudly opposed the strike of Local 1214 of the CIO-UAW at the Harrison Sheet Steel Co. During the work stoppage she had barred Andrew from their home.

She contended the strike was illegal because the union contract had not expired when the workers struck.

A union spokesman said the membership, consisting of 350 of the company's 450 employees, yesterday unanimously approved a contract agreement reached Saturday with the company.

Mrs. Quigley said she was happy about the settlement and had been awaiting Andrew's return.

"Andy is a good guy and I hope we can get back to normal," she said.

She added that her husband did not want to talk to anyone.

Dead and Alive Birds Surround Recluse's Body

BILOXI, Miss. — The scantily clad body of an elderly recluse was found yesterday amid a pile of possessions and debris that included four live and four dead parrots and canaries.

Officers said Mrs. Alice M. Parker had been dead a week. The date of death was set at Aug. 22 by a coroner's jury, which also ruled death resulted from natural causes.

Neighbors who noticed a strong odor coming from the house notified officers, who entered through a screened window and picked their way through a confusion of suit cases, empty boxes, paper bags, canned food and stacks of newspapers.

Along the walls and under tables were stacks of canned food. The room also contained several flashlights, a couple of dozen flashlight batteries, a half-dozen pairs of shoes that apparently were never worn, a portable typewriter and countless other articles. No official explanation was given for the varied collection.

Officers said her only known survivor was a sister, Mrs. Adal Blum of Cincinnati.

Steel Industry Lowers Disabling-Injury Rate

NEW YORK—According to the American Iron and Steel Institute, the nation's steel industry's disabling-injury frequency rate was lower in 1954 than ever before and about half the United States' all-industry average. The rate for the steel industry was 3.85 injuries per million man hours worked. The average for all industries was 7.22.

Canadians Plant Fish

OTTAWA — It "rained" fish in Ontario last spring. Lake trout, speckled-trout fingerlings, Kamloops trout, and other game fish were dropped by airplanes from altitudes of 500 to 1,000 feet in the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests' aerial fish-planting program. Biologists say nearly all the planted fish survived the drops.

Motor Bicycles Spread Death Through Holland

THE HAGUE, Netherlands — Alarm is spreading in the Netherlands about the nation's wild traffic. The auto-bike, called here "bromfiets," is public enemy No. 1.

Traffic accidents claimed 1,500 Dutch lives in 1954 and the rate is increasing. There were 42,222 accidents and 500 deaths in the first five months this year, compared to 36,121 accidents and 456 deaths in the same period of 1954. Figures for June, July and August, the government says, will also be considerably higher than in 1954.

Five million ordinary bicycles and half a million bromfietsen jostle each other on roads in a country the size of the state of Maryland. In 1954 there were 100,000 accidents with damage estimated at 32 million dollars. Insurance has gone up 30 per cent since World War II.

The government now is considering ways and means of reducing the toll, among them: Reintroduction of the now nonexistent speed limit, boosting the number of traffic police and lights and granting local municipalities greater autonomy in enforcement of traffic regulations. Dutch newspapers are demanding that manufacturers install governors on the bromfietsen to hold the speed to under 20 miles an hour. They now attain 30.

Drinker Threatens Nixon Via Phone

BOSTON — A man, who police said had been drinking, called Vice President Richard Nixon's hotel room yesterday and threatened to kill him.

The man was not identified. He was questioned and released.

Police said the man called Nixon's room from a booth in the hotel lobby and told a Nixon aide, whom he apparently believed to be the vice president, that:

"I'm coming up to get you. I've got a gun. I'm going to kill you."

The hotel switchboard operator, instructed to listen to the first words of a call to Nixon's room, quickly summoned security police.

The man was apprehended in the phone booth and searched. Police said he was not armed but had been drinking.

Nixon is in Boston attending the Veterans of Foreign Wars encampment.

JUNIOR EDITORS

The Chimney Sweep

In Denmark, Junior Editor tourists see hundreds of people, young and old, traveling on bicycles.

One of them wears a tall hat and a tight suit. His sleeves are tied tightly at the wrists and his trousers are bound at the ankles. He is a chimney sweep — the man who cleans the chimneys.

Fastened to his belt is a long rope. Around his arm and shoulder is a wire to help clean the soot out of the chimneys. Tied on his bicycle are his brushes.

To add to your collection, color this picture with crayons, and paste it down on thin cardboard. The chimney sweep's clothes are dark. His bike is red and brush handles blue.

Cut out the circle. Then cut the upper part of the man, following the dotted lines. If you fold back the upper part of the circle, you will see the chimney sweep on his bicycle traveling down the streets of Copenhagen.

Soldier Taken From Troopship to Attend Burial

NEW YORK — The Army slashed through red tape and displayed a warm, sympathetic heart yesterday in getting a private off an outbound troopship so he could go home to his mother's funeral.

A Red Cross telegram arrived at the Brooklyn Army Base three hours after Pvt. Roger A. Greiner, 20, Collectionville, Iowa, had sailed aboard a troop-laden transport for Germany. The telegram told of his mother's death in an auto accident five hours earlier.

The transport was then 60 miles beyond Ambrose Lightship, which guides vessels into New York harbor. Officials at the Army base told the Navy they wanted Greiner returned.

The Navy quickly ordered the transport to turn around and meet an Army tug at the lightship. Greiner was brought back to port, where his emergency furlough, leave pay and an airline ticket were ready.

Seven hours after the telegram arrived here he was on a plane headed for home.

Audie Murphy Wins His Battle With Peace

NEW YORK (AP)—What is a war hero like 30 years after he leaves his last battleground?

Ten years ago Audie Murphy, still too young to vote or grow a mustache, came home as America's most decorated soldier of World War II. His 24 decorations included the Medal of Honor and a Purple Heart for each of his three battle wounds.

The fanfare of a nation's acclaim first bewildered the 20-year-old kid from Texas, then made him a bit resentful.

"All I wanted was some peace, and time to think things through," he recalled.

Audie, one of nine children of a tenant farmer, wanted to forget

He has now appeared in 15 pictures. His latest, Universal's "To Hell and Back" — based on his own fabulous career — has brought him to the top again. He has married happily, and has two children. His future looks secure.

"I still wish I could have gone back to school," he said a little wistfully, "but it has been better this way—at least financially."

"I average about $2,000 a week now and have a six-year contract. In another five years I should be independent. By that I don't mean I'll be a millionaire. But I'll be able to have a ranch or a farm and enough put by to send my children to college."

Audie, part of whose right hip was shot away, draws $93 a month pay as the result of a 50 per cent disability rating. For three years, until he joined the Texas National Guard as a captain, he refused the money. Now he feels it is fair to take it.

Murphy still holds a steadfast love for the Army and says the war didn't disillusion him.

"War is like a giant pack rat," he remarked. "It takes something from you, and it leaves something behind in its stead."

"It burned me out in some ways, so that now I feel like an old man but still sometimes act like a dumb kid. It made me grow up too fast."

"You live so much on nervous excitement that when it's over you suddenly fall apart."

"That's what war took from me—the excitement of living, getting a thrill out of the little things in life. That's too bad, for it's a great asset to get a kick out of little things. I still get more kick out of seeing other people have fun than looking for it myself."

"I don't get excited. The biggest thrill I have now is coming home and wrestling with my kids—the little devils. But usually I go to bed before they do."

Audie, who weighed only 117 pounds when he enlisted, has grown three inches taller and gained nearly 40 pounds since then. He feels this is what he gained from the war:

"It taught me how to get along with people, not to be selfish. War is a pretty good course in public relations."

"The first time you see a man topple over in combat you learn that the war isn't just yours—that you have a responsibility to the guy on your left and the guy on your right. It's the same way in peace. Peace doesn't give you the same comradeship as war. It can't. There isn't the sameness of purpose. But you still have a responsibility to the guys on your left and right."

His studio biography says Audie slew 240 enemy soldiers in combat. And the question he hates most to be asked is, "how does it feel to have killed 240 men?"

"To begin with, I didn't kill that many," he said. "And anyway, how the hell does anyone think it felt? It didn't feel either way, good or bad. Feeling wasn't a luxury in the infantry."

Audie still likes to go skin fishing but has lost his zest for hunting.

"I don't mind shooting fish, but somehow I don't like to shoot animals anymore," said the 30-year-old ex-soldier, and added wryly: "I'm just a chicken-hearted slob now."

or bad. Feeling wasn't a luxury in the infantry."

Audie still likes to go skin fishing but has lost his zest for hunting.

"I don't mind shooting fish, but somehow I don't like to shoot animals anymore," said the 30-year-old ex-soldier, and added wryly: "I'm just a chicken-hearted slob now."

PROGRESS

With a rapidly expanding population, Pontiac must expand its business horizons. Pontiac can no longer think in terms of a single, compact, highly congested shopping area. This is Pontiac's answer to Northland.

Water Skiing Fans Love to Skim Across Lakes

MAKE OVER PAGES

All set for a day of water skiing at Watkins Lake are (left) Bob Neuman, 12, and his brother, Ron, 14. The boys have spent most of their leisure hours in the water since moving with their parents, the Donald O. Newmans, to their new home at the lake.

Happiness Attracts Friends to You

By ANNE HEYWOOD
"The worst thing about being a widow is the feeling of total loneliness," Mrs. L. told me.
"It's not only that I miss John—which of course I still do, frightfully—but it's being the extra wheel everywhere I go."
"The couples we knew continue to ask me for dinner, of course, but I'm always the extra woman and it's awkward. We don't seem to have much in common any more, either."
"Where can I go to meet other people in my position—men, especially?"
Mrs. L.'s problem is all too common and one that many women try to solve in the wrong way.

NO GOOD TO HUNT

It will do no good to go searching for places where widows and bachelors congregate. There's no use taking up chess, golf or courses in electrical engineering—unless you are really fascinated by chess, golf and electrical engineering.

Because if you do it just to meet men, it will be immediately apparent.

The wise woman plans a campaign for making the most of her own life, because she knows that this is the very first step toward attracting.

When you reach the stage where life is so interesting that you don't desperately need new friends and men companions, they'll flock around you.

First of all, go to your local university or community service for a vocational analysis.

Find out what talents and interests you have. Perhaps you've been so busy you've never found them.

Take courses. Do some volunteer work which uses your new-found talents and interests.

Little by little, your life will gain new meaning and richness and will become worth living for its own sake.

And the next thing you know, your happiness will attract people to you in droves.

Feet Killing You?—It's No Joke

"My feet are killing me" is no joke. It is very difficult, however one may try, to allow feet to rest long enough to recover from a severe beating.

So whether it's corns, a broken toe or a blister from new shoes, the battered feet have to go on doing their hard work, carrying one's weight about.

Some women, when they're suffering from a foot ailment, decide the best thing to do is to wear open sandals.

So the foot, covered with adhesive, corn plasters or whatever is visible to all who care to look. It's not becoming.

But in addition to this fact, it's not smart either. Most open sandals rub the toes or feet some place and while the little toe and its corn may get a rest, new blisters are working their way up.

A sensible gambit for women who now and then have trouble with feet is to have a pair of really comfortable shoes to hide out in for the duration of the trouble.

Fall Fashions Emphasize New Neckline Loveliness

PARIS (INS) — Girls will look muffled up and dressed to the teeth outdoors next season. But there will be plenty for the boys to whistle at once the toppers go off.

Some of the new Dior décolletés on "Y" or "X" dresses are far from dull. For after dark they branch in a wide V from shoulder to shoulder and look particularly sophisticated with long sleeves.

For girls who want the "Y" look as soon as possible, here are some hints straight from Dior's latest show.

Wear a short-sleeved turtle-necked sweater under a street costume in the morning. Dior shows a black one in a rib-knit worn with a tweed suit.

BROWN AND GREY

If you own a dark grey flannel suit, wear it with a feminine styled, chocolate brown chiffon blouse. Dior uses less grey this season but he does have one short jacket suit with a dark brown chiffon blouse, draped over the bust and worn with brown, short gloves and a brown fur toque hat.

For the real "Y" effect you will need a basic sheath dress with a high, collarless neck and a very short or very long jacket with slightly drooped shoulder seams, a bit of upholstery and a high muf-fling collar.

And since Dior says that hats are essential, you can wear a hat or turban practically around the clock.

Maggy Rouff likes peek-a-boo effects. One is a triangle hole under a V neck on a black crepe cocktail dress. And so the boys won't miss it, she trims each corner of the triangle with a sparkling jewel pin.

"Whoa there, wait for me," Bob Sligh Jr. calls to the group of Pontiac residents doing some water skiing recently on Lake Huron. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sligh of Holland. Mr. Sligh, one of the top leaders in water skiing in America, has participated in ski events all over the United States.
