Orchard Lake Crash Kills 2

Pacific Storms Ravage 3 Areas Leaving 50 Dead

Rains Flood Formosa; Typhoon Reels Japan; Gales Wreck Kauai

From Our News Wires

Over 50 dead, more than 100 missing and damage in the millions have been left in the wake of three Pacific storms.

Torrential rains have loosed floods over wide areas of Formosa, killing 42 persons. Newspaper reports said more than 100 are missing.

Typhoon Ellen, packing center winds of 60 m.p.h. swept a destructive path across southern Japan today, killing at least 9 persons, injuring 8, and damaging hundreds of homes.

Thousands of acres of farmland were flooded.

And in Hawaii, Acting Governor Edward Johnston has asked President Eisenhower to declare hurricane-hit Kauai Island a major disaster area.

Dispatches from Formosa report more than 15 inches of rain fell in Taichung, 70 miles southwest of Taipei, within 24 hours Friday. It was central Formosa's worst rainstorm in 60 years.

Gen. Chou Chih-jou, governor of Formosa, took charge of relief operations and ordered Chinese Nationalist air force planes out to search for survivors and drop supplies to marooned areas.

The floods struck heaviest in central and southern Formosa. Washouts disrupted rail traffic on the island's main trunk line.

Some low-lying streets in Taipei were flooded but the damage in the capital was negligible.

Hurricane Dot moved well north of the Hawaiian Islands today and weakened into a tropical storm.

But her 75 mile an hour winds had flooded and ravaged the island of Kauai at the northern end of the Hawaiian chain.

RIPPED OFF ROOFS

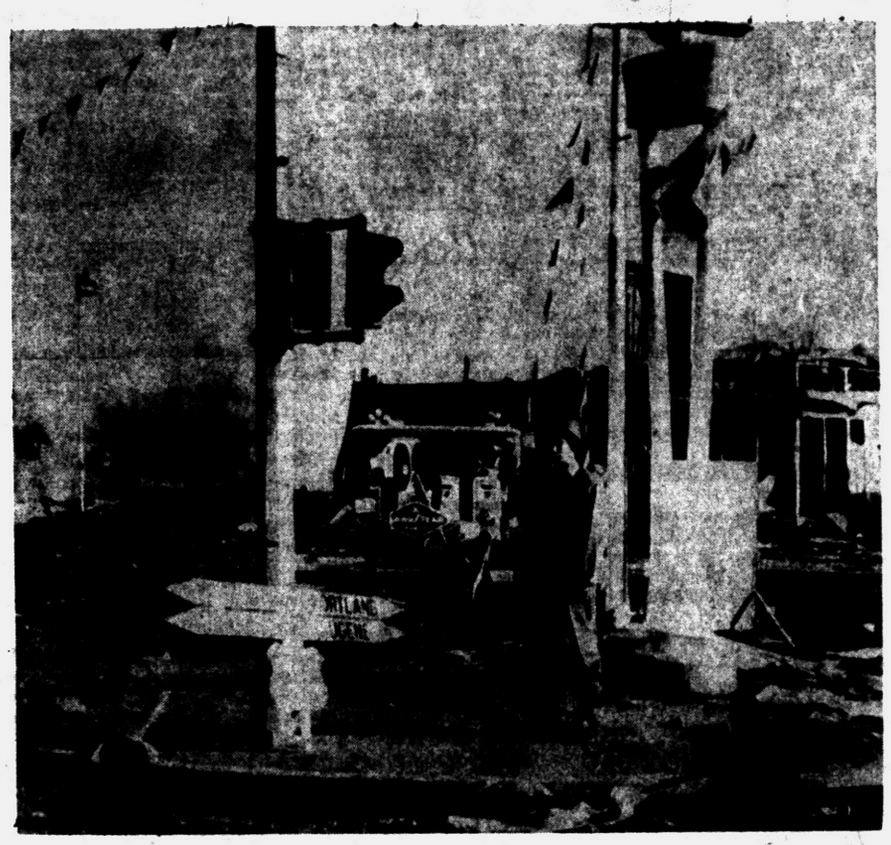

Dot's howling gales ripped roofs off houses, wrecked old frame buildings, flattened sugar cane, knocked down power and telephone lines and sent 1,000 tourists and residents to high ground.

No casualties were reported.

Following a personal tour, Johnston told the President damages would exceed a million dollars.

Official estimates for the damage in Hawaii ranged up to six million.

ON DUTY AT EXPLOSION — An Oregon National Guardsman stands on duty in downtown Roseburg where a big explosion early Friday wiped out several blocks of buildings and caused extensive damage throughout the town. More than 11 are believed dead with at least 100 injured. Damage will be in millions. The truck dynamite blast was caused by sparks from a nearby burning building.

Slam Into Tree Returning From Beach Party

4th Person in Vehicle Flies Through Window, Not Seriously Injured

Returning home from a beach party, two young men from Detroit were killed and another critically injured when their auto ripped into a tree in Orchard Lake Village at 3:30 this morning.

A fourth youth was hurled through the windshield of the car, but escaped serious injury.

Orchard Lake Police identified the dead youths as Henry P. Lutz, 22, of 8494 Montlieu St., and Melvin Mueller, 19, of 8538 Montlieu.

Edward Chojnowski, 20, of 8550 Montlieu, suffered extensive head injuries.

He was in surgery at Pontiac General Hospital from 8 a.m. until after 1 p.m., a hospital spokesman said.

Lawrence Kowalski, 19, of 8450 Montlieu, was treated for minor injuries and released.

Beer bottles were found in and around the wrecked auto, police said.

Evidence, including medical examnaitions, indicated some of the victims had been drinking, police said.

Lutz and Mueller died instantly.

Orchard Lake Police sergeants Jack Nicholson and Max Nevells, said the auto, driven by Lutz, shot off Pontiac Trail at an "S" curve, smashed into a tree and traveled 80 to 100 feet before coming to a stop.

It evidently had been traveling at a high rate of speed over a series of "S" curves about a mile and a half west of Orchard Lake road, the officers reported.

"They made the first one and missed the second, Nicholson said.

The roof had been sheared off. Meuller and Lutz were pronounced dead at the scene by Oakland County Deputy Coroner Dr. D. A. Haddock of Orchard Lake.

Officer said Chojnowski and Mueller were riding in the back seat. Kowalski, the least injured, sat next to the driver.

Assisting Orchard Lake Police were officers from Sylvan Lake and Keego Harbor, along with sheriff's deputies.

Lorelei Hoxie Wins Peach Queen Crown

Eighteen-year-old Lorelei Hoxie of Armada received her most exciting birthday present just one day late. It was the Romeo Peach Queen crown which she won last night.

Tears filled the sparkling brunette's eyes when the judges' decision was announced. She quickly wiped them away as she approached center stage to receive her bouquet and the plaudits of the crowd of more than 300 in the auditorium of Romeo Junior High School.

Lorelei won the title over a field of nine other contestants, all title holders in their home towns.

The 1959 queen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Hoxie, 74241 Burk St., Armada. A 1959 graduate of Armada High School, she plans to attend business college next fall and become a secretary.

Recovering her composure, Her Majesty breathed, "I'm so happy. I never expected this."

Capture Slayer Mike Gisondi

Killer of Two Men in Hazel Park Escaped Prison 9 Days Ago

MARQUETTE (AP) — An intensive nine-day manhunt in Michigan's north woods ended today with the capture of fugitive life-term killer Mike Gisondi 43 miles west of Marquette.

Gisondi had been hiding out in Upper Michigan woods and swamplands since his escape from the maximum security State Prison at Marquette July 31.

A native of Ellwood City, Pa., Gisondi was serving a life term for first degree murder in the slaying of a bar owner and his father at a bar in Hazel Park. He was convicted in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Marquette County Sheriff Thomas Jernstad and State Police Detective Sgt. Tony Spratto caught the 29-year-old convict on the Peshekee Grade, a gravel road three miles north of U.S. Highway 41. The road leads into dense swamp country.

The officers slipped up on the fugitive as he was attempting to break into a hunting camp about 8:30 a.m.

The wiry little 135-pound 5-foot-4 criminal gave up meekly when he was trapped at the camp. He was taken to the State Police Post at Marquette.

Sgt. Grant C. Berry of the Marquette Post said Gisondi was captured about two miles north of where he was sighted last night.

Charles Platenberg of Champion, owner of the cabin, reported he encountered the man as he returned from a shopping trip. Platenberg said the man fled when he approached.

Oregon City Sealed Up After Blast

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP)—Eight business blocks of this southern Oregon city, seared and shattered when a truck load of explosives blew up like a bomb, were sealed off by the National Guard today while searchers sought more victims.

At least 11 persons were killed early Friday when the 6½ tons of dynamite and other explosives detonated after fire spread to the parked truck from a nearby building blaze.

MORE DEAD

Coroner C. H. Babbitt said he was certain that there were other deaths. He said ashes, believed to be the remains of humans, were found in a charred rooming house near the blast scene. The ashes are being sent to a laboratory for testing.

Some 100 persons were injured by the blast, 52 of them requiring hospital treatment.

The explosion, which eyewitnesses said sent a column of flame hundreds of feet into the air, caused extensive damage to an eight block section on the edge of the main business district. Buildings in some 22 blocks around the blast scene were damaged to a lesser extent. Firemen said they had reports of windows being broken as far away as seven miles.

DAMAGE IN MILLIONS

Arlo Jacklin, mayor of this city of 12,200, said property damage would probably total 10 to 12 million dollars.

The truck, loaded with two tons of stick dynamite and 4½ tons of

Terminal, Library Plans Readied for Construction

Within a few days, the wheels should start rolling on two of the city's big construction projects — the new main library and the new airport terminal.

The two pay-as-you-go projects are scheduled for fall construction and completion in 1961.

During the coming week, it is expected that architects will deliver final plans for the library and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) will approve plans for the terminal.

Plans for the $500,000 library have been drawn up by O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach Associates of Birmingham.

The airport plans were prepared by William C. Zimmerman Associates of Pontiac.

The later drawings have been under study by the federal agency for more than two months.

L. C. Andrews, chief engineer for the Michigan Department of Aeronautics, said approval is expected next week.

MUST BE APPROVED

He said that construction bids will be sought by the state two to three weeks after federal okay. Both the City Commission and the FAA must act on the state's choice of contractors.

Final contracts for the $380,000 terminal project are to be signed by the city. Because three-quarters of the construction costs will be paid through state and federal funds, planning and construction of the new terminal is being supervised by the state.

The cost breaks down into $300,000 for the building and $90,000 for outside developments, such as parking lot, entrance road and service drive.

The FAA plans to spend another $110,000 installing equipment in the control tower, which it will operate.

The one-story, glass and brick library will be located on S. Parke street across from City Hall in the Civic Center.

The city has already budgeted $400,000 for the library and plans to set another $200,000 aside next year out of capital improvement funds. It is figured that it will cost $100,000 to equip the building.

Bids on the library construction will be sought after plans have been studied by the city's building department and city commissioners have given approval, said City Manager Walter K. Willman.

Straley Counsel Talks to Judge

Representative of City Also Meets Ionia Jurist Hearing Ouster Case

The judge, who will decide whether former Pontiac Police Chief Herbert W. Straley wins his battle to regain office, yesterday met with attorneys representing Straley and the city of Pontiac. No immediate decision on Straley's appeal of his April 4 ouster by the Civil Service Commission is forthcoming, it was indicated.

Ionia County Circuit Judge Morris K. Davis said City Attorney William A. Ewart and Clarence L. Smith and Phillip Pratt, Straley's attorneys, will file supplemental briefs.

Judge Davis informally discussed the case with the opposing parties in his chambers at the Ionia County Courthouse. There was no formal hearing.

WAITS FOR BRIEFS

"I hope to begin working on the decision as soon as the briefs arrive," the judge said. He set no deadline for submitting the supplemental arguments.

Judge Davis was assigned the case after Straley was granted a change of venue by the Oakland County Circuit bench. He contended the trial had received too much publicity locally for him to get a fair trial here.

Straley's firing came after two years of feuding between the chief and the Pontiac Police Officers Assn.

The Civil Service Commission found Straley guilty of inefficiency and incompetency, insubordination, lack of leadership, failure to maintain good behavior and neglect of duty.

Judge Davis said there are three major issues in the case:

1. Whether the state Civil Service Act under which Straley was fired conflicted with the city charter.
2. Whether the charges against Straley were filed by the proper party.
3. Whether there is evidence to sustain the ruling of the Commission.

"I do not weigh the evidence, but merely determine whether evidence exists," the judge explained.

Navy Develops a Super Radar

New Setup Could Spy Across Oceans, Detect Missile Launchings

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new radar device to spy across oceans and give a quick report on ballistic missile launchings is being developed, the U.S. Navy says.

The radar also could be used as one means of uncovering sneak tests of nuclear weapons in violation of any international agreement.

Dr. William J. Thaler of the Office of Naval Research and "father" of the new radar setup called Project Tepee, said Friday night:

"I would hope you could double the warning time."

This would mean that the United States would have almost 30 minutes instead of 15 minutes—possible under the U. S. system now being built — in which to launch counter-weapons. Military men figure it would take about 30 minutes for a missile fired in the Soviet Union to reach the United States.

Thaler, 33, talked to newsmen about the project. Asked if the Navy had tested the device against Soviet ICBM testing launchings, he replied "no."

Rising Number of Marriage Breakups Shock Oakland Judge

There'll Be No Easy Divorces in His Court

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

As far as Circuit Judge William J. Beer is concerned, Reno, Nev. has little edge on Oakland County when it comes to being a haven for easy divorces.

"We out-Reno Reno," Judge Beer declared.

But things are going to be different in his court, the judge promises. "I want to serve notice that people aren't going to get easy divorces in this court," he said.

The judge, himself the father of three sons, produced figures from the County Clerk's and Friend of the Court's offices which, he said, should send some divorce seekers to reading their marriage vows again.

Last year in the county there were 3,660 marriage licenses applied for. During the same period there were 2,386 applications for divorce.

Dockets covering divorces sitting in the clerk's office show the rapid tide of divorces continuing this year.

Although he admits being "shocked" by the number of divorces in relation to marriages in the county, Judge Beer is even more alarmed when he takes into account the number of children affected by these divorces.

W. Cadman Prout, Friend of the Court, reported to the judge that 3,055 children became what Judge Beer terms "orphans of divorce" last year.

"Just think of it," the judge exclaimed. "That's 300 more than last year's total enrollment of Pontiac Central High School."

Judge Beer, who is noting his first year on the local bench this month, said he believed "too many people are getting married today in the manner they go to a ballgame."

"They seem to think they have an automatic rain check for divorce if trouble arises and they want out," he said.

Attorneys and many couples alike are finding out that these "rain checks" aren't valid before Beer.

One attorney, apparently sure he could easily gain a final divorce decree for his client, walked into the judge's chambers the other day after Beer had denied the divorce.

"Judge, I'm stunned," the judge quoted the attorney as saying.

Beer had an answer for the lawyer, one which he considers the key to his policy. He explained that divorce under Michigan laws may only be granted on grounds which have entirely destroyed the marriage relationship.

He walked to his cabinets jammed with law books and extracted this excerpt which he promises to follow in ruling on divorce suits. It read:

"The law does not permit courts to sever the marriage bond, and to break up households, merely because parties, from unruly tempers or mutual wanglings, live unhappily together.

"It requires them to submit to the ordinary consequences of human infirmities, and of unwise selections, and the misconduct which will form a good ground for a legal separation must be very serious, and such as amounts to extreme cruelty, entirely subverting the family relations by rendering the association intolerable."

Whether the divorce is contested or uncontested, or whether there are children or not, this law will apply, the judge stressed.

Some 25 years ago, he said, as an attorney he pushed for a law which would have disallowed divorces until children had reached 17 years and were capable of supporting themselves. It failed.

In affirming his strict adherence to divorce laws, Judge Beer emphasized that he was not intending to cast dispersions upon his fellow jurists in Pontiac.

With one-third of our marriages collapsing into divorce," he said, "it's about time people realize this is more serious than Mr. K (Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev) or the atomic bomb."

He said those who believe morals can't be legislated were "absurd." "The human race has always needed discipline, and we've had it ever since the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount."

Despite pleas from unhappy husbands and wives who claim they

Will Enter Colt in 4-H Fair

Horse Cheers Sick Boy

By HARVEY ZUCKERBERG

A Pontiac Township boy enjoys the admiration of parents, friends and acquaintances for his "squared off approach" to things.

Thirteen-year-old Donald Hay 575 Amberwood Dr., has looked death in the eye on more than one occasion.

He can fix gazes, too, with a "wicked eye" horse and come out the master.

Donald's mother, Mrs. William Hay, explains the boy's life has been marked by successive battles against disease. Through the struggle, though she doesn't know why, he found a kinship with horses that he wasn't able to have with other friendships.

"We needed a lot of other things, but Don was sick," says Mrs. Hay. "My husband took $150 of our vacation money and bought Don a pony. All his life he's wanted one.

"Don had meningitis when he was only three months old and we didn't expect him to live. He had polio when he was four and still takes treatments for his nerves.

"Five years in a row he had convulsions and we had to rush him to the hospital. He's had pneumonia a number of times.

Four-feet three inches tall and weighing only 75 pounds, the boy "still forgets easily" and spends his school days in special education classes.

He was happy with the pony his father bought for him, but what he really wanted was a colt to care for, the responsibility of raising a horse himself.

So last Christmas Don's father, a factory worker at Pontiac Motor Division, traded in the pony plus an additional $6 for a colt.

And since the boy got "Tammy," his greatest ambition is to win a ribbon at the 4-H Club County Fair next week in Pontiac.

"He got the colt right after it was weaned," says Mrs. Hay. "He keeps it at Howard Morris' farm. He would go up to see that colt early in the morning before school in the winter no matter how icy or cold it was.

"Don can handle horses that trainers wouldn't go near because they had the wicked eye," says Mrs. Hay. "When the colt is out in the field, Don can clap his hands from yards away and Tammy will come running in to him. That boy is up there continually."

A KINSHIP—Donald Hay, 13, of 575 Amberwood Dr., Pontiac Township, will be entering his colt, Tammy, for the first time in the 4-H Club County Fair next week. Donald, who has had his share of misfortune, wants nothing better than a 4-H ribbon for Tammy.

Westwood Church Pastor Resigns for Professorship

BIRMINGHAM — The pastor of Westwood Baptist Church in Beverly Hills has resigned to become a full-time college professor, it was announced today.

The Rev. David E. Gillespie will assume the position of assistant professor of educational psychology at Stout State College in Menominee, Wis., Sept. 14.

Meanwhile, the church, located on 13-Mile near Evergreen road, is being served by supply ministers.

The Rev. Mr. Gillespie had been a part time instructor at Wayne State University during his seven years with Westwood Baptist Church.

The Rev. Robert W. Gibson, minister to youth at First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham since January 1954, has accepted a pastorate at First Presbyterian Church of Joliet, Ill.

The appointment is effective Sept. 1.

In recognition of his service, the General Session of the church has announced a reception at 11 a.m. Aug. 30 in the church immediately following the worship service.

In its most important business for Monday night's weekly meeting, the City Commission will consider closing and vacating an alley approximately 100 feet east of Pierce street, running north and south from 14-Mile road to Bird street.

Associated with this proposal is a request by Norman J. Michael to rezone lots 92-94 of Indian Village Subdivision from the present single-family residential to multiple family residential.

The three lots are located on the south side of Bird street, 120 feet east of Pierce street. According to Michael, if the three lots were rezoned, the property on the southeast corner of Pierce and Bird streets could be developed in conjunction with them.

He says that the 20-foot alley could be vacated, with proper easements retained, allowing multiple family units to be placed on either side of the alley.

A new maintenance agreement between Troy and Birmingham for repair of Adams road from Buckingham road north to the Troy city limits will be reviewed by the Birmingham Commission.

Objectionable clauses in the previous agreement caused both cities to turn it down.

Under the new agreement, Birmingham would maintain routine road repairs, including snow and ice removal, with Troy agreeing to pay $350 a year for the services.

Troy would also pay half the costs for any repairs on the Grand Trunk viaduct crossing Adams road.

In other business the Commission will consider requests by the Birmingham Kiwanis Club to sell peanuts from 4 to 6 p.m. Sept. 25, and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sept. 26, in its annual fund-raising project.

Jean Caldwell of 646 N. Glengarry Ct. and William E. Koehler of 4416 Far Hill Dr., both of Bloomfield Township, are among more than 2,000 college students enrolling at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., under the advanced enrollment program for new students, according to the university's office of admissions.

Jean will study home economics and William will enter the college of engineering.

Romeo High School's "Rhythm Rascals" provided the musical background for the contest. Mrs. McLean was contest chairman.

Peach Festival Chairman Herbert A. Miller opened the ceremonies with a brief address of welcome. He urged the crowd to return to Romeo for the 27th annual celebration to be staged over Labor Day weekend Sept. 4-7.

During the month preceding the festival the queen and her two maids of honor will make numerous public appearances to publicize the forthcoming celebration.

Her Majesty was given a modeling course at Patricia Stevens Finishing School in Detroit, and the gown she will wear in the coronation ceremonies Sept. 6 and in the floral parade on Labor Day.

All of the nine other contestants, who now will make up the queen's court, also receive formal gowns for the coronation and parade. They will live in private homes in Romeo during the four-day event.

In addition to the three top winners, other candidates were Veachel Bilyeu, 19, "Miss Ortonville"; Gwendolyn Beer, 17, "Miss Utica"; Pat Borowy, 18, of Warren, "Miss Macomb County Amvet;" Diana Roberts, 17, "Miss Orion"; Sonja Schultz, 18, "Miss Dryden"; Sheila Dahn, 17, "Miss Romeo," and Caroline McMillan, 18, "Miss Oxford."

Gordon Predicts a Bright Future

Tells GM Institute's Grads Auto Industry to Pass 7 Million by 1965

General Motors President John F. Gordon said last night that the automobile industry will reach an annual production level of more than seven million cars by 1965.

Addressing the 32nd graduating class at General Motors Institute in Flint Gordon said the industry "has good grounds for anticipating an annual level of sales in the United States of about 7¼ million passenger cars by 1965, compared to the current level of six million cars."

He added, "In a market that holds out such promise of growth and expansion there will be no lack of opportunity for the company whose people are dedicated to the proposition that nothing must be left undone to serve the customer always better."

Gordon, who has served as a member and chairman of the Institute's Board of Regents, warned of the dangers inherent in indiscriminate job-jumping.

"So many young fellows not long out of college waste valuable time, switching from job to job, starting from scratch each time, simply because the grass looks greener on the other side of the fence," the GM president observed.

He said that as GMI graduates and General Motors employes "you are not likely to make that mistake, since you should already have passed the undecided stage."

Gordon asserted that exceptional opportunities are available for university graduates with GM because of the fundamental General Motors policy that "people are our most important asset."

He said GM offers excellent individual growth opportunity because of "the broad diversity of our operations and products; our emphasis on development of new and improved commercial products; our advanced position in missile and other defense work; our decentralized operations, our policy of promoting from within."

Concerning this promotion policy, Gordon pointed out that every month countless numbers of men in GM's higher echelon reach the corporation's mandatory retirement age of 65 and as these changes occur "a chain reaction of promotional opportunity is set in motion" that can reach to the bottom of the ladder.

Promotions in General Motors do not come simply by spending time, declared the GM executive.

"While we promote from within, we promote only for merit."

Feeling of Futility Enters Michigan Tax Deadlock

LANSING (AP)— A feeling of utter futility over prospects of ending Michigan's war of attrition over taxes settled on the Capitol today.

It was relieved only by a background crackle of political recriminations, mostly with a broken record sound.

A Republican tax bargainer chided businessmen for not rallying public sentiment behind the Republican position against a tax on business even faintly smacking of the ability to pay (income) principle.

And a Democratic negotiator credited auto makers and "one of the major chemical companies" he did not name with an important role in exploding a near compromise that blew sky high on Thursday.

The House-Senate Conference Committee set up to adjust interchamber differences on taxes agreed to meet a seventh time on Wednesday, although none of the six members had a clear idea of what there was to talk about.

The committee's sixth session yesterday broke up without as much as a hint of a hopeful sign and with haggling over whether any purpose would be served by a resumption of talks.

Sen. Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo), top Senate strategist, and Rep. T. John Lesinski (D-Detroit), chief House spokesman, each said the next move was up to the other side.

Morris repeated GOP Senate refusal to talk about anything embodying the principle of adjusting the business tax burden to profits.

Lesinski would consider no plan that neglected to take this principle into account.

With a 1 per cent use (sales) tax agreed on, the area of discussion was limited to a business tax component to round out the package.

The House, which approved a 2 per cent surtax on corporate profits emphatically rejected by the Senate, is unwilling to swallow any tax deal that does not put some of the burden on business, and at the same time grant relief to low-profit or profitless concerns.

As Senate spokesman, Morris said only that he was willing reluctantly—to add one mill to the 6½ mill business activities tax, and make it apply to all firms subject to the levy, whether profitable or not.

Red War Forgotten

Laotians Very Excited Over Coming Wedding

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Excitement over an impending royal wedding diverted Laotians' attention today from the threat of Communist troops to this little Buddhist kingdom.

Diplomats and Laotian officials began leaving for Luang Prabang, jungle-rimmed ancient capital of what once was called "the land of a million elephants," for the marriage Monday of Princess Dala Znaf.

She is the pert 24-year-old granddaughter of King Ssisavang Vong, who ascended the throne of this tiny Buddhist nation in 1904. Temple-spired Luang Prabang is some 100 miles west of the battle area of Samneua where Communist troops have penetrated 50 miles inside Laos from North Vietnam and occupied two towns.

Latest reports from the front showed Red troops — bodrer area tribes people with some Vietminh officers — thrusting into Laos in four prongs in Samneua and Phongsaly provinces. The Communists reportedly have heavy strength in the valley stretching from the Vietnam border below the Red regimental headquarters at Dien Bien Phu to within 35 miles of Samneua city. The situation was last reported calm with no troop movements by the Communists or royal army.

For the moment, the main interest in this tree-shaded capital on the banks of the Mekong was not the Communist disturbances but the wedding.

Princess Dala, second daughter of Crown Prince Savang Vatthana, is marrying Prince Souphanouvong, director of civil aviation in Laos, also a grandson of the king.

"Soviet missile and satellite firings have been monitored for the last several months from locations within the boundaries of the continental United States."

The newspaper also said:

"The system can also determine the location of missile-launching sites and can evaluate the performance of a rocket thousands of miles away. Such information has already yielded important guide lines on the state of the Soviet missile program."

If the detection equipment will spot a missile within seconds or brief minutes from the firing time at a range of more than 5,000 miles, it would appear to be better than the Air Force's Ballistic Missile Early Warning System (BMEWS) now being built in the far north. That conventional although long range radar system is designed to detect missiles at distances of about 2,000 or 3,000 miles — after they are well on the way toward target.

The new device carries the name of "high frequency ionospheric back scatter radar."

It detects ionized gas, those particles of electrons which appear in temperatures of thousands or millions of degrees after a nuclear explosion or in the exhaust trail of rocket motors on ballistic missiles.

Ordinary radar, like that used in BMEWS and conventional aircraft warning systems, works as does television—in a straight, line-of-sight. The beam won't bend around the curve of the earth, so anything below the curve is hidden to the radar's eyes.

Oregon City Seals Business Blocks the explosive mixture of ammonium nitrate and oil had been parked near the Gerretsen Building Supply Co. building for the night by its driver, George Rutherford, 47, of Chehalis, Wash.

It is believed that a fire started in trash cans and then spread to the Gerretsen structure. Firemen were fighting the fire — which spread quickly—when at 1:15 a.m. the truck blew up with a deafening roar.

Rutherford said he heard the sirens and rushed to move the truck. It exploded when he was a block away. He was thrown to the ground. Gerald Butler, a Eugene, Ore., insurance man who came to Rutherford's aid, said Rutherford screamed "Let me go. Let me go. I've got to go down there and see how many people I've killed."

The blast scattered embers over a wide area and a number of smaller fires were started.

Judge Clamping Down on Divorces have tried everything to reconcile their differences, but can't, the judge believes it's better for them to live apart than divorced.

"When they have children," he added, "they should remain married and not have the opportunity to consummate new marriages which so often result in neglect of children from the first marriage."

Besides his firm stand on divorces, the judge has also cracked the whip on fathers who fail to live up to fulfilling support orders. Many have gone to the Oakland County Jail.

"In nearly every case where I've had to send a father to jail for non-support I've found out he's been remarried and had a second set of kids," Judge Beer said.

BANDITS GROUNDED—Haste makes waste—and in the case of these two bank bandits—a showdown with that old saying, "Crime does not pay." The two were fleeing a police car after being spotted leaving a Dearborn bank holdup. Their car crashed. Both were captured. Robert Switaj (left) is pinned to the floor after trying to slug a photographer. His partner, William J. Verrette (right) is brought out of a room after questioning.

2 Men Caught After Bank Holdup

Believe 'Three-Minute' Bandits Nabbed

DETROIT (UPI)— Police said today they believe a bank robbery which went full circle from holdup to bullet-punctuated chase and capture within 10 minutes has ended a rash of robberies plaguing Detroit-area banks for more than a year.

Two men believed to be the notorious "three-minute" bank bandits who have been operating in this area were caught yesterday minutes after they held up a bank in Dearborn and fled with $8,026.

They were captured after their stolen car swerved on rain-slicked pavement and crashed into a sign post.

PRINTS MATCH

Det. Sgt. Paul Clor of the Detroit Police Identification Bureau said partial fingerprints on a pair of sunglasses, on a bank counter and on a stolen car link Verrette with three other bank robberies.

He said the sunglasses were dropped by a bandit fleeing from a bank in Warren. Another print was found on the counter of a Harper Woods bank, and the third partial print was found in a stolen car used in the holdup of a Detroit bank.

Switaj and Verrette robbed the Bank of Dearborn yesterday at gunpoint. They were foiled when an employe signaled to another returning from lunch, who hailed a passing police officer.

The officer, Cpl. Stanley Silver, parked his scout car, came up behind the bandits and shouted for them to surrender, firing a warning shot.

The two leaped into their car as Silver fired four more shots. Silver took up the chase in his car.

When the bandits' car crashed, they fled on foot. More police arrived and a house-to-house search began.

CAUGHT FACE-DOWN

Verrette was caught lying face-down in a rose bush with the bag of stolen money beneath him. Switaj was captured as he was running down a street.

The series of bank robberies started with the $7,000 holdup of the Warren City Bank April 30, 1958. Three Detroit Bank and Trust Co. branches were held up for similar amounts between the time of the Warren robbery and July 9.

In each of the robberies, the cars used had been stolen from downtown parking lots and were later found abandoned about a mile from the scene.

The one used in the Dearborn robbery was stolen yesterday morning.

Arrest Several Over Explosions

More White Men May Be in Jail in Connection With Negro Home

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Seven white men have been arrested in connection with the first of two explosions that ripped through a Negro home.

Delaware State Police Capt. John Herbert said after Friday's announcement of the arrests that officials expect more to follow.

Herbert did not explain whether they might be in connection with the first blast last April 7 that caused $3,500 damage or the latest explosion last Sunday that completely wrecked the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Rayfield. The Rayfields and their teenage daughter were not at home at either time.

The Rayfields were the first and only Negro family to move into the previously all - white nearby community of Collins Park last January.

At the start they were plagued by demonstrations. Then things quieted down until the explosion April 7.

There were no other demonstrations or violence until Sunday's explosion which completely ruined the $13,500 home.

The Rayfields are staying with relatives here. They plan to move soon into a rented house.

The Rayfields were not immediately available for comment, but earlier in the week when asked how they felt about Sunday's explosion, Mrs. Rayfield had said:

"How would you feel?"

Her 14-year-old daughter, Geraldine, was more bitter, saying:

"I can't explain the hatred in my heart."

Manufacturer Withdraws Request

Addison Township Loses New Plant

ADDISON TOWNSHIP — A request for rezoning here to permit construction of a new industrial plant has been withdrawn, it was announced yesterday.

The request was to rezone 40 acres of a 157-acre parcel on Lake George road from agriculture to light manufactuing.

It was submitted and now has been withdrawn by George A. Pelizzari, head of R.O.W. Sales Co. of Ferndale, manufacturer of windows for national distribution.

The company had intended to build a pant employing about 50 people in the production of metal stripping and fixtures for the window industry.

A LOT OF TROUBLE

But in view of delaying action prompted by some 30 residents living in the area of the proposed change, the firm has decided against the business venture here.

We don't wish to go through a lot of trouble for permission to build here when it would be far simpler to locate the plant elsewhere, said Pelizzari.

In his letter to the Addison Township Zoning Board and the Township Board of Supervisors, Pelizzari stated:

"We had, in error, presumed that people in your township would welcome our property improvement program and the creation of jobs and income in the area.

"We have been offered free building sites and long-range tax-advantage programs in other areas. Some of these offers come from Michigan communities. More come from Ohio, Kentucky and other states.

"These invitations must contribute to the general trend of industry leaving Michigan. We would prefer to stay within a reasonable distance of Detroit and purchased the Addison Township site with this in mind.

"We had also anticipated that several of our executives would buy or build homes in the immediate area. Altogether this would have involved expenditures upward of one half million dollars in Addison Township.

'ANTAGONISTIC ATTITUDE'

"Certainly the antagonistic attitude of several people attending the hearings came as a decided shock to us.

"The primary explanation given for opposition was that Addison Township is predominantly an area of agricultural estates and that no change was wanted.

"We had thought that additional jobs and tax relief for the general public would be welcomed.

"Perhaps the group of property owners appearing at the two public hearings does not reflect a true cross-section of township opinion, but business hesitates to locate in an unfriendly location.

"The enthusiastic determination to keep industry out may be ill-advised but it appeared to be very real.

"Since the railroad bisects our land, the proposed use was quite natural. Replacing the present dilapidated farm buildings with extensive landscaping along Lake George road would certainly have been a visual improvement.

300 FEET BACK

"The small proposed modern plant (120 ft. by 160 ft.) was to have been built some 300 feet back from the road and while barely visible and definitely not audible from the road, the beautification of the entire area would have been quite a dramatic improvement.

"No obnoxious smoke, odors or other nuisance factors would have been involved.

"The impartial attitude of township officials is appreciated. Our mistake may have been in making no attempt to shape public opinion.

"We sincerely extend our best wishes for the future harmony and prosperity of Addison Township."

Xway Barrier Ready to Fall?

Southfield Council to Take Up 11½ Mile Rd. Link Monday Night

The bottleneck holding up the 11½ Mile road expressway link may be cleared up Monday night at a meeting of the Southfield City Council.

State Highway Department officials will be there, hopeful they will be given their way in laying out 1.8 miles of the road through Southfield.

Southfield City Manager Robert J. McNutt said the city's expressway committee might give "conditional consent" to the highway route "dependent on getting the route we wish on the interstate route east of Telegraph."

Still in doubt is the short leg of the proposed 9.5 miles of the expressway which will begin at the new Farmington-Brighton Expressway and head east to link up with Northwestern highway.

It is an "integral key to the integrated" 1,000 miles of expressway in Commissioner John C. Mackie's first five-year program of super highways throughout the state, according to Irving J. Rubin, Mackie's executive assistant.

Southfield has held out approving the section of the road through its area in numerous conferences with Mackie and Rubin, wishing first to be assured of where the road east of Telegraph will go.

"They have said the road can go any place between 10 and 11 Mile roads east of Telegraph," McNutt said,

"They can't, however, tell us precisely because they haven't finished their studies."

Prophet Jones Promises:

No More Sunday Teas

DETROIT (AP) — Prophet Jones promised his Detroit neighbors yesterday there would be no more Sunday tea parties in his back garden.

The Rev. James F. (Prophet) Jones was taken to court by neighbors who complained that a tea party July 26 created a public nuisance. Loud group singing, lengthy sermons over a public address system, organ music and the talk of 200 guests was slightly annoying, they said.

Besides, the neighbors said, arriving guests created a traffic jam and took all the parking places in front of their homes.

The Prophet, dressed in a light green suit, dark green suede shoes and bright yellow gloves, came to court but remained mum.

But one of the princes of his Negro religious kingdom spoke up. He said the tea party was staged by Mrs. Ophelia Kemp, chairman of the Universal Missionary Church, which the Prophet heads.

The prince said the tea party was held in memory of the Prophet's mother, Lady Catherine, who died in 1951. And there were only 40 guests, not 200, he said.

At the suggestion of traffic and ordinance Judge John D. Watts, the Prophet and his neighbors held a private meeting in an unused jury room. Attorneys said the Prophet agreed to hold no more Sunday tea parties.

Satisfied, the neighbors withdrew their complaint.

Charge Father of Frozen Girl, 15, Raped Her

PAINTSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—On a bitter December day in 1957 searchers found a frail, 15-year-old girl who had been missing five days in the snow swept eastern Kentucky mountains.

Both her frozen legs had to be amputated below the knees.

The girl said she had been on a walk with her father and decided to run away. She said she did not know what prompted her to run away, nor could she recall what happened during the five days.

Friday, her father was arrested on a charge of raping her two years ago.

"I'm being framed by my family," said Halford Auxier, a disabled coal miner and father of 15. "I'm innocent."

Rosella Auxier made the statement to police which resulted in her father's arrest. Police entered the case after Rosella's 19-year-old sister, Mary Elizabeth, disappeared but was found shortly. She told police her father had been drinking and "I was afraid of him."

60 Chicago Police Watch Race Tension

CHICAGO (AP) — Sixty uniformed policemen ranged through a quiet residential neighborhood on Chicago's west side today alert for new rumblings of race tension which erupted from rock-throwing crowds earlier in the week.

Lt. Michael Nolan, in charge of the special police detail, said the all-white residential area was peaceful and there had been no reports of tension since Thursday night.

Some 3,000 persons milled around the area Thursday night, throwing rocks and stones and an occasional bottle at police officers. About 1,500 persons thronged around the 4300 block on Washington Blvd. Wednesday night.

Doctors Save His Foot

BAY CITY (AP)— Doctors said Friday they will be able to save the foot of a railroad worker who was run over by a boxcar. The accident occurred Thursday at the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad yards. Sale Woodward, 28, of Midland, a signal - maintenance man, ran in front of a car being switched from one track to another. He stumbled and fell. A boxcar ran over his left foot. He underwent five hours of surgery.

Under Hypnosis She Knows

'It's Going to Be a Girl'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Los Angeles psychiatrist says that under hypnosis, 360 of 402 pregnant women correctly designated the sex of the baby they were carrying.

Leslie M. Lecron reported his findings to the Society for Clinical and Experimental Hypnosis. He emphasized that he was presenting no more than a statistical study of research begun five years ago. All the women tested were in their fifth to seventh month of pregnancy.

"I do not pretend to understand it," Lecron said. "I am certain, however, that the subconscious of the mother carries this information. It may be transmitted hormonally. I don't know."

Three of the women correctly designated the sex of both twins, according to Lecron.

It Seems to Me . . . .

Death of Alfred R. Glancy Brings Out Unknown Facts

One of the most assertive men in the formation of Pontiac's industrial and economic development has passed on to his ultimate rewards.

ALFRED R. GLANCY was a key figure in the preservation of local industry at a crucial and critical time in Pontiac's history.

In the middle twenties, the Oakland Motor Car Company had a run of 61 consecutive months in red figures. For more than five years, the local firm was operated at a steady loss. It was a disheartening picture and the parent corporation was discouraged to the point of surrender.

A. R. GLANCY had just liquidated a plant in Janesville, Wisconsin, and ALFRED P. SLOAN summoned him.

"Go on out to Pontiac," he said, "and look at that Oakland operation. It needs the same treatment."

GLANCY studied the situation and finally reported back to the boss. "There's a new motor kicking around in the G.M. Engineering Department. No division has claimed it. I'd like to put it in a new car and offer the product experimentally in the New York Show."

SLOAN shrugged. "Go ahead."

And so Pontiac was born.

Glancy's original selection for a name was the "GM Six." This was presented to the directors but the head of a sister unit protested violently. "Let this new car win its own way," he said. "Why should it take a free ride on our coat tails?"

And so, "GM Six" died right there.

The Pontiac Press had strongly urged Glancy to consider the name "Pontiac" pointing out the picturesque and colorful possibilities in this fine old Indian word.

Mr. Glancy agreed.

This was his second choice.

Hence, when the directors harkened to the scorn of a corporate rival, "Pontiac" was offered next. The directors agreed.

What a break for us.

The name of this city has been carried all over the world as a result and Pontiac is known wherever men and women can read and write. The car became an overnight success and went on to great heights and its current position of eminence in the automotive world.

A. R. GLANCY wasn't particularly well known down town as he kept pretty much to his office in the plant. He possessed a keen, analytical mind and was an outstanding business man and administrator. He could have stood as the personification of the woodsmen who "hewed to the line and let the chips fall where they may."

Later he told me that he realized he hadn't pulled a fair oar in civic affairs and I've often wondered whether a true appreciation of that fact may not have been accountable for his philanthrophy in starting the memorial hospital in Georgia. Even this bore the successful Glancy imprint in that he devised a way to "meet the deficit" out of other activities. Georgia profited through this subsequent "catching up" for his later years were an exemplification of a man working for the good and betterment of others.

News stories canonized his industrial triumphs and his contributions to the war effort in a General's uniform. Always he was a doer. However, I'm more interested in other facets of his career. To me his life epitomizes two particular things: primarily, he saved the City of Pontiac in an industrial and economic sense. We are everlastingly in his debt.

Secondly, I'm interested in the metamorphosis that found an early stranger to civic activities devoting the closing years of his life to that end.

Mr. Glancy was an imposing figure. Tall and well proportioned, he carried himself erectly and with dignity and poise. He was a picturesque figure — in uniform and out. Alfred R. Glancy is a typical product of the United States of America and our system of free enterprise in its many ramifications. Could anyone actually prefer the Russian version of life here below?

And In Conclusion . . .

Movies across the country are having a fine spurt of business. Operators think it is because of the great pictures of the last few months . . . . . Steel is coming into the U. It was the 40th reunion. Old JOE arrived last but he came in a Rolls Royce with complete entourage. The Presidential Suite had been reserved: "JOE," said one of the boys timidly, "weren't you the one the class voted the least likely to succeed?" Joe nodded. "I'm no good, I'm just lucky. I ran across this gadget I manufacture and it sells like hotcakes. I'm a half million orders behind. It only costs a dollar to make and I sell it for four dollars." He look out the window. "Boys, that three per cent sure adds up." . . . . . When you read this, your peripatetic reporter will be high above the Atlantic en route to Russia. W. D. MAXWELL, editor of The Chicago Tribune and I spend tomorrow night in Berlin and then leave for a brief visit in Warsaw, Poland. Two weeks in Russia follow and we plan to talk to newspaper men in leading cities. After that we will converse with Mr. Average Citizen. Your reporter will be back in two weeks. S'long.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

Max Conrad made headlines recently when at the age of 56 he broke records by flying a light plane non-stop from Casablanca to Los Angeles. There was considerable stir about his remarkable feat but few knew of the greater obstacle Conrad had surmounted, through determination and faith.

I visited this grandfather, an old time stunt flier and the father of ten children, in his San Francisco home. His soft blue eyes and warm smile gave no indication that 30 years ago he lost his speech and memory as the result of a head injury.

That did not stop him. A gifted athlete, he drove himself to recovery with such firmness of purpose that he became an American entry in the 1932 Olympics high jumps.

Conrad was a barnstormer who engaged in many spectacular flights and who has ferried planes across the Atlantic scores of times. Yet he did not recover completely until recent years from his injury.

In the lonely flights at night, over a period of two years, he composed the words and music for The Flyer's Rosary. It goes like this —

By night on swift enchanted wings I fly,
Bright stars above become my Rosary;
Each star a lonely prayer which bids me try
To live in Faith and Hope and Charity.

Jews to Observe Festival of Ab

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Thursday is the ninth day of the Jewish month of Ab. Known as the "Fast of Ab," this day is the peak of a period of mourning and fasting over the two times—in 586 BC and 70 AD, 656 years apart—that the Temple at Jerusalem was destroyed by heathen hordes. The season of mourning, which began on the 17th of last month (Tammuz) comes to its climax and end today.

Fasting is an ancient practice among the Jews. In their system of religious thought one purpose of fasting is to give concrete expression to the repentance upon which God's forgiveness is conditioned.

Without repentance even God is powerless to forgive. In a fast that has the national significance of this one, the individual Jew sees himself as responsible for national calamities and assumes his own personal share of the nation's penitence.

(This is a principle Christians have inherited from Judaism. In both faiths it is a basic belief that God works through the group or community. With the Jews the community is the nation; with Christians it is the congregation or the whole church.)

In either, the individual is a part of a total unit, and his personal attitudes and actions either strengthen or weaken that unit. Therefore he has a responsibility for what happens to the whole, he has a share in making it useful or useless to God's purpose.

The three weeks between Tammuz 17 and the 9th of Ab are now complete. Since the first day of Ab, the intensity has been increased and the mourning has been as though a member of one's own family had died.

No food or drink may be taken Thursday until the stars appear.

'Wild Steer' Sends Man Head-On Into Window

DR. BRADY

"I have never fought and I do not even watch prize fights, but a year ago I began having dreams of being in a fight. Two months ago I dreamed I was being chased by a wild steer jumped out of bed and put my head through a large pane of glass."—(B.R.A.)

Answer — I sympathize, but I don't know how to prevent such dreams.

"I drink six raw eggs beaten every morning. Is this of any special benefit?" — (J. L.)

Answer — No. More benefit from eating, one, two or maybe three eggs cooked as one prefers. Maybe you have been told something.

"I have had a heavy whitish or yellowish coating on my tongue for several years. Prescriptions from various doctors have had no effect." — (J. E. P.)

Answer — 1. Take more time to eat, and masticate your food thoroughly. Have your teeth put in good condition by your dentist.

2. Substitute for most of the items of diet made chiefly of white flour and sugar, things made of plain wheat. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Wheat to Eat.

3. Eat a third of a head of lettuce, several raw carrot sticks, some cole slaw, radishes, celery, and raw turnip daily.

"Research should be able to come up with something that will correct bad breath." — (D. J.)

Answer — you may find the answer in the chapter "Every Breath Has an Oder" in the booklet How to Breathe, for which send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Is it possible for a person's hair to turn gray overnight through fright?" — (R. E. G.)

Answer — It is as likely to happen as a mouse's nest in the cat's ear.

"Would the daily use of rubber ear stoppers, the type used by swimmers, be harmful, I use them to protect my ears from the noise in a ship's engine room."—(S. G.)

Answer—No. In fact some protection is advisable to use when exposed to so much noise.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Voice of the People

Parents Fear Type Future Innocent Life Must Face

Before the arrival of our baby girl and as we look at her now we experience a heartbreaking fear! Into what sort of future are we plunging an innocent life As young parents and citizens of America we wonder how much worse this world will be for our children and grandchildren.

Upon finishing school, my husband will find very few places where he will not be compelled to join a union. With such strongholds on the people and our securities, how can we even hope to bind together to form a strong wall against Communism?

What has happened to the American pride and self satisfaction, when we would rather strike and push against one another for more benefits and wages, in return for less work, instead of doing our best in return for equal worth in earnings?

What is becoming of us when we no longer consider individual worth, but judge only by political standings, racial heritage and personal gain, obtained from one another.

Is the damage already beyond repair? Are we the only parents wondering what we have brought a small life to face or do other parents also harbor such fears?

Fearful Parents

'Divorced Man Is Never Free'

I agree with Mr. Hills. A divorced man in Michigan is never free right or wrong. The ex-wife has an income for her and the husband for eighteen years, while you and your family suffer to pay it. If you leave the state you will be free until they find you and lock you up. I am going to be free.

Comparative Hints by City Shopper

I was amazed at reading a letter in this column recently complimenting the Pontiac merchants on beautifying the downtown shopping center.

Wooden pails of geraniums don't do a thing for the center, except serve as something on which to snag your nylons.

With more expense, of course, why couldn't the business men provide for flower boxes like those at Tel-Huron and a bench or two like those in Peoria, Ill., which has seating facilities at every downtown bus stop. The cement triangle at Saginaw and Oakland could be decorated with colored lights and flowers, similar to Northland. Even cool drinking fountains could be considered.

A small development plan would be nice now for several years is a long time to wait for a pleasant place to shop.

Visit Exchange Fine, but Won't Solve Berlin Crisis

By PIERRE J. HUSS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Crystal ball gazers at U. N. are looking at the sudden new era of "person to person" diplomacy and their forecasts are that the swing through the United States by Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower's visit to Russia will serve to ease tensions but fail to solve the Berlin dispute.

They see a rash of East-West handshaking and "peace" speeches, and over-riding public interest in Russia and the United States in their distinguished visitors, and perhaps too much tendency to assume that there is a thaw in the cold war. Such a picture is out of focus, and carries with it inherent dangers.

In perspective, the hard facts are that when the tumult and shouting on both sides has died down, the four powers again will have to face the inevitable test of strength and showdown on Berlin. Vice President Nixon's tour has demonstrated that all the give-and-take affability of Khrushchev and friendliness of the Russian people failed to extract the slightest concession on any of the major cold war deadlocks.

Khrushchev can hardly be expected to toss away his threat to sign a peace treaty with East Germany for the sake of applause on his U. S. visit. He can make promises wrapped in generalities, but ironclad Soviet foreign policy in Central Europe leaves no room for retreats. Consequently, the West must stay on the alert and be prepared at all times for a test of strength such as a sudden transfer by Moscow to the German Communist authorities of the right to shut off Allied access to Berlin.

Western plans for meeting this fateful moment are known to exist but no crystal ball gazer can penetrate the secrecy necessarily cloaking this operation. Khrushchev's barnstorming in the U. S. and his most lavish hospitality to Eisenhower in Russia will not affect this plan.

Let us therefore leave aside for the moment the Eisenhower-Khrushchev personal diplomacy and look at realities:

The paramount quesiton stemming from any test of strength is: Will the Soviet Union risk war by supporting with force any resistance put up against Allied armor by the East Germans? The concensus of experienced U. N. diplomats is that Khrushchev will back away from anything which could explode into a global atomic war.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Don't Neglect Child's Spiritual Food

Melvin's mother is very smart. She is nourishing the soul of her son and buoying up his spirit for all the years to come. Mothers, don't get so concerned with vitamins and orange juice that you forget your obligation to feed the soul of your child. Use the reward method outlined below and you can fill your child's mind with 100 choice quotations within a week or two.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-412: Melvin O., aged 10, is a brilliant 5th grader.

"Dr. Crane," his mother began, "Melvin knows all the TV programs and can identify almost every trademark.

DR. CRANE

"But when I tested him for quotations, I found he was very ignorant of many choice maxims that I had memorized in my school days.

"With all due respect to TV slogans, I knew these would not inspire his soul in later years, so I decided to kill two birds with one stone.

"Melvin has been wanting more spending money. So I sent him to our public library and asked him to get a copy of your college textbook on psychology, where you had listed those 200 famous quotations.

"He did so and copied the 25 that he liked best. So I told him I'd pay him 25 cents for every one that he would memorize.

"Since they were all rather short, he had them memorized within two days and could name the author and recite the quotation exactly.

"That meant that I owed him $6.25 for his work. He was delighted and has now asked me to let him go to the library and get 25 more quotations!

"In addition, I am paying him $5 for memorizing certain passages in the Bible. Maybe some folks will feel it is unduly commercial to pay for such mental work, but don't you feel the end justifies the means?"

CHILDREN NEED MONEY

Melvin's mother is a clever woman and has enriched her son's mind for all future years.

In fact, when he is old and gray, he will look back with increasing respect and gratitude to his mother for this wise investment in his spiritual nourishment.

Too many modern mothers fail to realize their vital role as feeders of the soul of their youngsters! They spend money lavishly on vitamins and milk and other desirable nourishers of the human body; then neglect the soul.

A healthy body can house a monster or produce a Frankenstein unless you mothers nourish the spiritual needs of your child. So encourage every boy and girl to memorize rich gems of literature with an inspirational flavor.

Start with the Bible. Can your child recite the Ten Commandments?

How about the 23rd Psalm? And the Beatitudes?

Does your child know John 3:16? Can he quote John 14:1-3?

Even if you paid him $25 per chapter, it would be a sound investment to have him memorize the 6th and 7th Chapters of Matthew.

My mother had my brother and me memorize those chapters when we were 8 years of age, for they contain the greatest moral document on record, namely, the Sermon on the Mount.

Our American Constitution is rooted in it and so are most of our other great institutions, like hospitals and colleges, churches and other humanitarian organizations.

PAY FOR JOBS DONE

Children are motivated better when you pay on a piecework basis and hand over the money at once. Don't defer wages to kids.

So send your child to the library, like Melvin, and have him copy some of the 200 quotations I have listed at the bottoms of many pages in my college textbook, "Psychology Applied."

Then give him his pay for each quotation he can recite, with the name of its author attached thereto.

But be sure he has really memorized it, so pay him 50 per cent as a down payment and the remaining 50 per cent one week later when you test his retention.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

'The Chief' Will Be 85 Monday

Shortage of U.S. Engineers Worries Hoover

By ROBERT EUNSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Being an engineer himself, Herbert Hoover's main concern for his country is that the United States is falling behind the Soviet Union in the training of engineers.

Sources close to the former President, who celebrates his 85th birthday on Monday, say he keeps constant tab on comparative figures and is alarmed that while America will be turning out about 25,000 engineers this year, Russia will put 90,000 into the field.

Close friends of "the chief," as they still refer to the man who defeated Al Smith for the presidency in 1928 and then lost to Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932, says he blames this lack of technically-minded young men in America on poor training in the high schools.

Hoover feels high schools are still under the spell of progressive education and that a boy of 14 is not likely to choose the hard road. He thinks more effort should be made to interest high school students in algebra, trigonometry and other subjects qualifying them for technical schools.

Many years ago Hoover passed the technical examinations for Stanford with ease, but admits he had to be tutored three months to get by what he calls "other subjects."

Hoover has been a sports fan since he was manager of the baseball and football teams at Stanford university, so it was not surprising that he accepted an invitation to celebrate his birthday with the New York Yankees, who plan a party for him at the stadium Sunday.

Hoover chuckles over his own short career as a baseball player at Stanford. After one practice session, the coach came to him and said, "You know, Herbert, I think you'd make a better manager than a shortstop."

PROMOTED RIVALRY

As manager of the football team, he helped promote the first pigskin rivalry between Stanford and California, an annual contest which has become known as the BIG GAME.

At 85 years of age, Hoover still recalls every detail of this day, down to the fact that when kickoff time approached, both captains came looking for him in a rage because he'd forgotten to buy a game ball.

"We rushed out and got one in a hurry," Hoover tells friends now with a twinkle in his eye.

Hoover hasn't changed much in physical appearance in the past few years, although the silver hair is thinning and his hearing has worsened. He now wears a hearing aid, such as his son, Herbert Hoover Jr., has depended on for years.

When the chief starts a conversation, he takes the hearing aid out of his pocket and with some reference to these "Confounded contraptions" places it on a table or desk so that it won't pick up the scratching sound of the metal against his clothes.

He goes in for dark suits, dark ties and white shirts. He smokes a pipe and lights it every few minutes with stout kitchen matches.

RISES AT 7 NOW

Hoover has quit rising at 6 a.m., because he feels a man getting older should take it easy. Now he gets up at 7 a.m.

He still writes out his own speeches in longhand and says radio and television have brought about the modern phenomenon known as the "ghost writer."

Friends say he still muses over the fact that he made nine speeches during the 1932 campaign while Roosevelt was delivering a hundred.

Hoover seldom refers to Roosevelt, but always speaks kindly of Al Smith, the Democratic candidate in 1928.

A Quaker by birth, Hoover always has been a religious man and believes our main spiritual problem today is the inability to guide character building in large institutions of learning. A small liberal arts college can carry on a well organized character building program, Hoover tells friends, but this is lost in mass institutions.

The Boys Clubs of America have become one of Hoover's chief interests these days.

While he is in California, Hoover stays at the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco. He prefers a suite on the 17th floor, overlooking the city he has called home since student days.

He and Mrs. Hoover kept a beautiful house on the Stanford campus for years, but since her death in 1944 he has given the hilltop home to the university as a residence for the president.

Predict Control of Labor Sure

House Debate on Bills Due Tuesday; Ike Likes Tough One

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of three different labor control bills agree that the House this year will pass some kind of bill aimed at labor racketeers.

A week of debate on the bills begins in the House on Tuesday. One of them has the support of President Eisenhower, who appealed to the nation on radio and television Thursday night to erase what he called the national disgrace of labor-management gangsterism.

The President supported the toughest of the three, the bill sponsored by Reps. Phil M. Landrum (D-Ga) and Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich).

The House also is considering a bill sponsored by Rep. John F. Shelley (D-Calif). This measure has the support of the AFL-CIO. Another bill voted out by the House Labor Committee has the support of Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex).

The committee bill is a watered-down version of a bill passed by the Senate in April.

Landrum and Griffin said the President's appeal meant that Congress would pass a labor control bill.

"If we don't enact some legislation, those responsible must answer directly to the people now," Landrum added.

Shelley said that "the temper of the Congress is such now that there's going to be a bill this session."

But he continued:

Private Fashions Flag for General's Review

CAMP McCOY, Wis. (AP) — Pfc. Jerry Rubin of Chicago earned the title of "Betsy Ross" during a two-week Army Reserve encampment.

When it was discovered that no flag was available to denote the rank of a major general who was coming to camp for a review, Rubin was told to devise one.

Rubin found two of the one-star flags used for briadier generals, removed the stars and then sewed them both on a pillow case.

SET A KEYSTONE

J. L. VOORHEIS

Youth has his eyes on a horizon, there will always be a tomorrow. To them friends are like a mammoth river falling over a dam; that water is inexhaustible. We know better; friends are accumulated one at a time, through trial, sickness and joys, over the years and can be lost in an instant.

M. E. SIPLE

To build the arch of friendship we must set a keystone to make it enduring. That keystone is understanding, acceptance of faults and virtues, strength and weakness. Without that wedge our arch collapses.

The longer we live, the higher we build, the more important is that Keystone. Man cannot endure without friends; his temple is only as secure as its arches—and that keystone. Security, for the days and years ahead, be measured by the Keystones we have set.

Set a Keystone.

Was Hard to Be Beautiful in 1859

Before you could even get started on your beauty tasks, hours of labor had to go into concocting preparations that often were heavy, greasy and therefore not very satisfactory.

Send One Invitation to Guests

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am a Protestant and am marrying a man who is of the Jewish faith. In order to satisfy both families, we will have two services, one in my church for my family and friends and one in his church for his family and friends. Both services will take place on the same day and a large reception will be given later for everyone.

"This being a rather unusual situation, I am completely at a loss as to how to word my invitations. Would two separate church invitations be sent out, or would one invitation do, and if so, how should it be worded?"

Answer: I have never heard of two ceremonies, but if you have the permission of both churches, I think one invitation to both services would be best and guests could take their choice as to which service they would like to go, and some may even like to go to both. The wording would be:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Green request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Mary Elizabeth
to
Mr. John Sterling
on .....
at ten o'clock
Trinity Church and a second service at eleven o'clock
Temple Emanuel

"Dear Mrs. Post: Last weekend I went to visit some friends who live in the suburbs. On Saturday afternoon I drove to town with my friend who had to pick up a few things. I noticed a great many of the women walking through the stores wearing shorts. I thought this in shockingly bad taste. I have no objection to shorts, but certainly do not think them proper when shopping. Do you agree, or am I just plain old fashioned?"

Answer: Maybe I too am old fashioned because I most certainly agree with you.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it required that every invitation to a social function be returned even though it is impossible or impractical to accept all invitations?"

Answer: According to etiquette, an invitation even though not accepted incurs an obligation which ought to be returned if you can.

Ornate Beds Gone; Bedding Is Better

French craftsmen in Renaissance Europe designed beds as though these pieces of sleeping equipment were monuments to eternal beauty. They used a dozen different woods delicately carved and inlaid with stones and metals for the basic parts of the bed. From the canopy they hung satins and silks embroidered with jewels and shining threads.

Regardless of the comfort of the mattress, the occupant of these masterpieces must have had pleasant dreams. Today, however, restful sleep is not left up to chance. Good mattresses are made with smoothness and buoyancy in mind.

Steamy Bath Adds Glow to Make-Up

Here's a special grooming trick which many beauties use to achieve a glowing, velvety look. Scrub your face with soap and water. Do this carefully in order to remove all dirt and stale makeup. Then apply fresh makeup.

After this, step into a warm bath. The steamy vapor will produce a special, dewy look under the make-up that adds radiance to your complexion.

Watch That 'And' . . . Abby

Latch On With Full Nelson Now!

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband sells soft drinks at the arena where they put on boxing and wrestling matches. He used to come right home from work. But lately he's been coming home at 3 and 4 in the morning. He told me that he's been driving a lady wrestler home and she invites him in for: "coffee and." I told him I didn't think this was right. He said I didn't have to worry. What do you say?

ABBY

SLIGHTLY JEALOUS

DEAR SLIGHTLY: Don't worry about the coffee. It's the "and" that could give you the trouble. Get a full Nelson on your marriage and insist that your husband come directly home from work.

DEAR ABBY: Please settle a family argument once and for all: My husband has six married brothers and two married sisters. On different occasions we wives have to introduce one another to friends. I know that my husband's sisters are my sisters-in-law, and my husband's brothers are my brothers-in-law. But what about the women who are married to my husband's brothers? And the men who are married to my husband's sisters. What are they to me and how should they be introduced?

EVELYN

DEAR EVELYN: Technically, only your husband's sisters are your sisters-in-law and the wives of your husband's brothers are your husband's sisters-in-law. But people who point out this fine distinction in making introductions, appear eager to remove the relationship as far away as possible. The wise wife accepts her husband's sisters-in-law as her own.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think this question is too stupid to answer. I am a married man of 33 with black hair, brown eyes and dark complexion. My wife is 31 and she also has black hair, brown eyes and dark complexion. Our youngest child has blond hair, blue eyes and a fair complexion. The child is three years old. Is it too late to find out through a blood test whether this child is mine or not? Or does the blood test have to be taken when the child is an infant?

IN DOUBT

DEAR IN: A blood test can be taken any time with equal success. The blood type of an individual never changes.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to "CONVENTION WIDOWER" who complained because his wife was a "convention hound":

If a woman had a husband who made her feel as though she had an alert mind and gave her a few words of praise for jobs well done, there wouldn't be so many women looking for conventions.

Conventions are loaded with women who have a common problem — the desire to be needed, recognized and applauded.

I ought to know because I am one of those women. But I would gladly leave the conventions alone if only my husband would satisfy that need in me. Sincerely yours,

"ANOTHER CONVENTION HOUND"

DEAR ABBY: I have been wanting to write you my problem for a long time but I have been told that if I do not sign my name you cannot accept or answer my letter. My problem is so very personal that I would not want to have it printed anywhere. Please tell me through the paper if you accept letters without names. And what do you do with the letters after you get them?

DEAR MISS: I accept letters with or without names. I never print a person's name without permission. If a writer wants a personal reply to his letter he need only to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. All letters are strictly confidential and are destroyed after being answered.

WHAT'S your problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Very Few Gals Qualify for the Pale Face Look

Unless you are a melting blonde with creamy skin and sapphire eyes, better skip this whole business of the so-called pale look. For the truth is that a bit of paint dresses a girl up, creates color where there wasn't any, puts sparkle in the eye and a glow in the cheek.

That's what cosmetics were meant to do. Not one woman in a hundred looks like a beauty with pale cheeks, pale lips and pale green eyeshadow. She's much more likely to look like something just helped from her coffin.

But that doesn't mean that you have to give up the pale look entirely if this fad pleases you. The whitened lipsticks do very well over a deep red or deep pink shade. But please, make sure you start and don't go overboard on use of the white lipsticks.

Remember, you don't want to look as if you're in need of a massive dose of vitamins.

Fried Foods Play Havoc With Skin

Fried, fatty and starchy foods play havoc with most complexions. Most individuals can enjoy such foods in their diets occasionally.

But if you include them in three meals a day, it is asking for complexion problems. Try balancing your diet by including large amounts of green vegetables and fruits.

Talk About Kids

Women Could Solve Summit Tug-of-War

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

If the women of the world could get together over a quilting bee or a covered-dish supper, there soon would be little need for summit conferences and diplomatic tug-of-war.

There are some things that all women instinctively understand and enjoy, whether in Iowa, the Soviet Union or Timbuktu. That's conversation about children, recipes, kitchens and clothes.

Striking proof of the common international language of women was the sensation created by Pat Nixon during her recent visit to the Soviet Union and Poland with the vice president.

Newsmen accompanying the Nixon party reported that when Pat and her husband took a stroll down a Moscow street, they practically stopped traffic. Women gathered to stare at Mrs. Nixon's fashionable pointed shoes, her smart suit, her attractive hairdo and modish hat.

AMERICANS NICE

In her own sight-seeing about the city, the friendly, personable Pat probably did more to convince the Russians that Americans are nice people than could years of diplomatic exchanges.

Women the world over know how to size each other up, whether they speak the same language or not. And the women of Moscow had only to look at the vice president's wife to see that here was a friendly, happy, cultured woman. They also saw her as one who had access to more attractive clothes and cosmetics than are available to Mrs. Ivan.

Similar instances have been reported again and again after the many trade fairs in which the United States has participated around the world during the last few years.

Representatives of food manufacturing companies and appliance manufacturers have brought back reports of the fascination of foreign women for such things as an electric blender, a modern range, or a packaged angel food cake mix.

When people of other countries can taste American home-cooked food, can see how American kitchens work, can take a trip through an American supermarket and talk, even in sign language, with American women, understanding grows by leaps and bounds.

You can't hate somebody with whom you've just exchanged recipes for cornbread or pizza.

Need for 'Wiggle' Space in Hosiery

Foot comfort depends on many things. One of them is the fit of your stockings.

Beware of the too-small stocking because all stockings tend to shrink from perspiration. So, buy a size that gives at least a half-inch of wiggle space from the big toe.

To err is human, but you'd better think up a better excuse.

Every Girl Should Be Trained for Job

RUTH MILLETT

"We can't seem to make our daughter see the importance of equipping herself to earn a living," writes the mother of a high school graduate.

"When we talk to her about going on to college or taking a business course she simply says, 'If I want to be a housewife and am not interested in a career, why should I bother?' Can you give us an answer to that? We're stumped completely."

Get your daughter to list all of the married women she knows, both old and young and put a star by the names of all of them who are now working or have had to work sometime after they were married.

Get her to notice the many reasons why they continued to work or went back to work. Husband not making enough to support a family. Husband ill. Husband dead. Wife bored after children are gone from home. Wife separated or divorced.

The number of wives she knows who are working or have had to work some time during their marriage should be an eye-opener to your daughter.

So should the many and varied reasons why they found it necessary to earn a pay check.

Still another eye-opener should come from having her compare the types of jobs of those who were "trained to earn a living" with those who married right out of high school with no particular job training at all.

It shouldn't take her long to figure out that today marriage is no guarantee that a woman will never have to earn a pay check. And that when a woman has to work she has a far better chance of getting a good job that pays well if she has training that fits her for a certain kind of work.

Nervous Eating

Beware Emotional Obesity

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

When I begin printing letters from women who created new figures for themselves with my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon last winter, I become so enthusiastic that it is difficult not to publish all of them. Of course I cannot do that but here are a few last excerpts which you will be interested in.

"I have been dieting and exercising for one week. Following your chart my doctor worked out a diet for me. He examined me today and is as pleased as I with the results.

"I have lost one inch from the waist, ½ inch from the stomach and one from the hips.

EMOTIONAL OBESITY

"My doctor has explained to me that I don't gorge from hunger but from nervousness. He says I have been trying to solve problems and release tensions by eating. This chronic eating habit is why we are both so happy over the progress I have made in just one week. I am not even tempted to break over now."

It is a well-established fact that there is such a thing as emotional obesity, or finding comfort in food when unhappiness descends. Overeating also can be partly just a nervous habit such as nail biting, foot swinging or smoking. Women always have to be aware of this. When life brings problems and disappointments a woman may lose interest in the way she looks, and at such times is apt to gain extra pounds.

There are many success letters to quote from. Another reader says, "Dear Josephine Lowman: I just want to tell you that your Marathon booklet did wonders for me. Without the help of your booklet and that of a wonderful friend and neighbor I never could have done it!

"This friend of mine was pregnant and her doctor did not want her to gain too much weight! It was really your booklet that started us talking about calories. We talked about them so much that we dreamed about them.

"My friend now has a wonderful baby boy weighing seven pounds and I am enclosing the last page of the Marathon booklet which has the chart to show you my progress."

This reader lost 23 pounds, and many inches from her measurements. I think that my readers are very gracious to write to tell me of their success.

If you missed Marathon last January and would like to have the Marathon booklet which gives you all necessary directions for a lovelier you eight weeks from now, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Soviets Even Use Vodka on Skin

Maybe the Russians should peddle this skin lotion to thaw the cold war.

The Glycerine Producers Association reports that a Soviet woman's magazine offered this suggestion on skin care: "It is desirable to rub the skin once or twice a day with fortifying substances, e.g. 2 g. hydrochloric acid, 10 g. glycerine, 70 g. mint water and 30 g. vodka."

Crescent Hills Baptists to Build

Membership Purchases Parsonage, Land for New Church

The Rev. Benjamin A. Bohn, pastor of Crescent Hills Baptist Church, has announced that plans have been made for the construction of the first unit of a church and the purchase of a parsonage.

Sponsored by Bethany Baptist Church of Pontiac, the Crescent Hills Church is affiliated with the American Baptist Convention.

The new building will be erected on an acre of ground adjoining the parsonage property at 288 Crescent Lake Rd. The sanctuary will seat 200 and the full-size basement will house educational classes.

The main building of concrete block will be 75 by 34 feet with an annex 22 by 31 feet for the vestibule, church office, heating plant and rest rooms.

The main entrance will be through the annex with a grade door at the front of the building. The rear wall will be of frame construction which may be removed when the second unit is added.

The parsonage is a six-room modern home with white aluminum siding.

Currently the congregation is worshipping in the Monteith Elementary School on Crescent Lake Road.

World Youth Work Camp to Be Established in 1961

ANDERSON, Ind. — Establishment of a world youth work camp, possibly in the mountains of Lebanon, has been approved by the Church of God for the summer of 1961. Participants are expected from 15 nations.

Alen Egly, director of youth work for the sponsoring national board of Christian Education, has been named to plan and direct the camp, according to Dr. T. Franklin Miller, the board's executive secretary.

Besides the United States, participants would be invited from England, Ireland, Germany, Holland, Denmark, Switzerland, Lebanon, Egypt, Kenya Colony, Greece, Canada, Mexico, Trindad and Jamaica.

Dr. Miller said the world work camp, with youth actually constructing its facilities, would "focus attention of Church of God youth fellowship groups in the United States on the possibilities of Christain action in the world society and contribute to a feeling of mutual inter-dependence among countries under one God."

The Christain education leader observed that top youth leaders of the 15 nations would "grasp more significantly the brotherhood of all men through Jesus Christ" as they found opportunity for interchange of thoughts and ideas from different cultures.

COMMON RELIGIOUS TEACHINGS NOT ENDORSED BY THE BIBLE
Roosevelt Wells
In this series of articles, the writer is aware of the fact that he will be "going against the grain" as far as the majority is concerned, and contradictory to public opinion. It possibly should be clearly understood by the readers of this article that as I write, my major concern is not with popular opinion but rather with "thus saith the Lord." I trust that you will keep in mind as you read this article and others that the acceptance of a thing by the majority nor the practice of a thing by the public nor the teaching of that thing by the masses does not mean that the thing under consideration is right or endorsed by the Bible the word of God.
The common religious teaching which I want to discuss in this article is that of faith only. Here we use the expression "faith only" as its advocates constantly use it, that is, to mean that faith is the one and only prerequisite of salvation and the moment a person believes he immediately and instantly becomes a Christian or a child of God. I am aware of the fact that this is a very popular and prevalent doctrine and taught by almost every denominational church but in these articles I have already pointed out that denominationalism is not endorsed by the Bible, therefore it should not be strange that the teaching which are peculiar to them are not endorsed by the Bible.
Possibly it should be wise to state here that I believe the Bible to teach salvation by faith or as it has been put; justification by faith and any passage which may be cited to prove such, I believe, but what I do not believe is salvation by "faith only" or "faith alone," for the Bible does not so state. Preachers, let us not "muddy the waters," for salvation by faith, which I believe should not be supposed to mean "salvation by faith only."
To the teachers and believers of this unsupported, unscriptural doctrine, I ask these questions:
1. Where is the passage in the Bible which states emphatically and conclusively that men are saved by "faith only."
2. Should any man presume to speak for God? He says by faith. Who assumes the right to add only.
3. Does an alien sinner become a child of God or a Christian today immediately at the point of faith? If so, please give the passage.
4. Is the expression "saved by faith only" a scriptural expression? If so state the passage, if not I believe Bible speaking people will refrain from its use.
That we are saved by faith only is not as some have put it a "very wholesome doctrine and very full of comfort." Believeth thou this?

MISSIONARY FROM NASSAU — Kathleen Fairweather (right), a Jehovah Witness missionary from Nassau, Bahama Islands, and Mrs. William P. Strong of 2500 Rosewood Dr. are looking over baskets and place mats brought from Nassau. A native of England, Miss Fairweather is spending several weeks in the United States visiting the Gilead Training School and the Strongs.

Missionary With Motorscooter Visiting Pontiac Area Friends

Kathleen Fairweather, known to hundreds of people in Nassau as the lady on the motorscooter with the shiny white hair, is in the Pontiac area for several days as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Strong.

For more than 12 years Miss Fairweather has been a missionary of Jehovah's Witnesses New Providence Island, one of the chief pleasure resorts of the world.

Prior to her present work, she was a librarian in Ilford, Essex, England.

When she decided to become a missionary, she sold her home and all her possessions and came to the United States where she studied at the Gilead Training School at South Lansing, N.Y.

Miss Fairweather travels by motorscooter to make house calls and conduct Bible study all over the island.

Natives of Nassau, more than 85 per cent colored, live in what is known as the over the hill area in two or three-room homes.

"From a ridge south of the city, the view includes not only the city and harbour but the whole inland of Providence.

"Above the city on Mt. Fitzwilliam is the imposing white building of Government House, the motorscooter lady said.

The people are wholesome, courteous and spotlessly clean. The women serve as maids, waitresses and cooks in the resort section of the city.

The men are butlers, chauffeurs, chefs and do other work connected with the vacation land. They also trap lobsters, make shell jewelry and baskets.

Honeycombed coral rock constitutes the island with little vegetation. Soil is imported for a few vegetables, fruits, and lawns.

CRAB GRASS IS LUXURY

Crab grass is a luxury in Nassau. Sand is placed in rock crevices and topped with a little soil. The crab grass is then placed in the niche and the result is a fine cushiony lawn, the missionary said.

The calcareous rock forms an admirable stone for building as it can be sawed into blocks of any size and hardens on exposure.

Nearly all homes and buildings are painted in shades of blue, green, turquoise or brownish pink and always with white trim.

Temperatures average near 74 degrees from November through May and rise to the 80's from June through October.

"I really love the people, the place and the work." said Miss Fairweather. "It is a rewarding work with a future not only in this world but in the new world just ahead."

Wheaton College Senior to Speak on 'Two Ways'

John Peter, a graduate of Moody Bible Institute and a senior at Wheaton College, will speak at the 11:15 a.m. worship service Sunday at the United Presbyterian Church in Auburn Heights.

Mr. Peter is assistant at the Drayton Plains Community United Presbyterian Church this summer. His topic will be "Two Ways."

Elder Wayne Rose will also participate at the worship hour.

A film, "None for the Road" will be shown at the Youth Fellowship meeting at 6 p.m. Leading the discussion on alcoholism will be Mrs. Frances Zalants of the Pontiac Alcohol Information Center.

A group for post high school youth will meet Sunday evening at 7:15 with Bill Vancil, chairman.

Local at Cross Wants to Talk

Judge Lifts Injunction; Union Urges Contract at Fraser Plant

MOUNT CLEMENS (UP) — United Auto Workers Local 155 renewed efforts to open contract talks with the strikebound Cross Co. yesterday after the company lost its appeal to oust the Union as bargaining agent.

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) in Washington upheld a regional office ruling that denied a segment of Cross workers its petition for a new certification vote.

The UAW began its strike at the nearby Fraser automation machinery plant Tuesday after the company refused to bargain on a new contract. The old agreement expired last October.

Cross officials contend a majority of its employes want to vote to oust Local 155 at their bargaining agent. The NLRB said statutes bar a representation election within a year of the last vote. Local 155 was recertified in November 1958.

Macomb County Judge Alton H. Noe met yesterday with Livingston and company attorneys on a company bid to continue an injunction against mass picketing by the Local.

After the meeting, Judge Noe lifted the injunction. He said the Union agreed to permit free entrance and exit to the plant and to refrain from violence or intimidation.

Earlier in the week the plant was the scene of demonstrations by hundreds of UAW members. Sheriff's deputies and non-strikers clashed with pickets which led to several arrests and injuries.

Mrs. Conant joined the legion in 1945 after her release from the Waves. Her father, the late Russell D. Thompson, was a commander of the same post and of the 17th district.

Other post officers being installed are Orrin P. Huntoon Jr., senior vice commander; James E. McKee, junior vice commander; L. C. Hadden, adjutant; Burton Black, finance officer; Ayers M. Miller, chaplain; and William L. Mayne, sergeant-at-arms.

The ritual Team of the 40 et 8, Oakland County Voiture 811, will install post officers while the 8 et 40 Oakland Salon 224 Ritual Team will install auxiliary officers.

The joint-ceremony is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at the post home, 206 Auburn Ave.

Among invited guests will be William Plummer, new 18th District commander from Royal Oak, and his wife, and Mrs. Ralph Bogart, district president from Drayton Plains, and her husband.

Steel Contract Stays Bogged

Washington Dems Sign Resolution Urging Ike to Speed Up Settlement

NEW YORK (AP)—The 25-day-old steel strike seemed as far away from settlement as ever today, and pressure was mounting in Congress to have President Eisenhower intervene.

Friday, Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald joined company spokesmen and mediators in saying that recent reports of progress were unfounded. Negotiations will resume Monday after a weekend recess.

In Washington, 32 Senate Democrats have sponsored a resolution urging Eisenhower to try to speed a settlement in the strike, which experts estimate has already cost both company and workers more than a billion dollars in wages and orders.

The resolution was offered Tuesday by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) who has asked that it be left open for other signers until next Tuesday, when it will be referred to the Senate Labor Committee.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), the Senate Majority Leader, has indicated he is taking no part in pushing the resolution, but 31 senators have joined Symington in signing it.

The strike has idled half a million steelworkers and shut down almost 90 per cent of the nation's steel production. It is estimated that more than 100,000 workers in transportation and mining have been thrown out of work as a result of the strike.

Ukrainians to Protest Peacefully

WASHINGTON (AP)—A leader of Americans of Ukrainian descent promises that demonstrations by his followers against Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will be peaceful.

Dr. Lev. E. Dobriansky, chairman of the Ukrkainian Congress Committee, said in a statement Friday:

"Upon the arrival of the hangman of the Ukrainian Congress our groups will join with other Americans, churches, veterans in peaceful demonstration of protest and righteous condemnation against the hangman.

"The tolling of church bells, and wearing of black bands in mourning of the millions the hangman has sent to their graves will be urged.

"We call upon all to pass the word. No violence but no approval."

Dobriansky said his committee represents 2½ million Ukrainian Americans and has branches in New York, Boston, Pittsburgh, Newark, Philadelphia Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Minneapolis.

Police Try Out Old Trick Against Unruly Juveniles

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Connecticut state police are going to use an old schoolteacher's trick in dealing with unruly juveniles.

Letters will go to the children's parents, says Commissioner Leo J. Mulcahy.

Juveniles who break the law will still be arrested and prosecuted, he said. But the parents of children who are questioned by police in connection with drinking, gangs or the like will receive letters.

Mulcahy said he hoped the plan would combat delinquency "through preventive measures as well as performing a service to parents."

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China said today the Geneva Big Four foreign ministers' conference did a great deal of useful work, but hailed it as a victory for the Soviet Union.

The comment, appearing in the official newspaper Peiping People's Daily which reflects Red Chinese Communist Party policy, was broadcast by Peiping Radio.

Translator's Job Tough During Nixon's Travels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Would you know what Nikita Khrushchev meant if he said "the best way to get rid of bedbugs is to pour hot water in their ears?"

That was one the puzzlers for Alexander Akalovsky, who served as interpreter on Vice President Richard Nixon's trip to the Soviet Union and Poland.

Khrushchev used the Russian proverb about bedbugs to ridicule complicated kitchen gadgets at the U.S. Exhibit in Moscow. It was during the explosive Nixon-Khrushchev argument.

Akalovsky says he translated it: "Why use simple methods when you can use complicated ones?"

The Yugoslavian-born translator, 35, said it was quite a task to avoid pitfalls when translating the comments of Khrushchev and Nixon.

He recalled that Nixon gave him a hard time by using a phrase that sounds simple enough in English: "The pioneer spirit of Novosibirsk." The trouble is that in Russian, pioneer means something like Boy Scout.

So Akalovsky, instead of informing the people of Novosibirsk that Nixon thought they had a fine Boy Scout spirit, told them Nixon praised their "spirit of conquering new horizons."

The translator confesses he once convulsed a students' meeting by interpreting a Soviet speaker's plea for banning nuclear weapons "so the people of the world could rest in peace."

Akalovsky has been in the State Department's languages service division four years, has interpreted discussions of everything from the habits of fur seals to hydrogen bombs.

When the Nixon plane landed here, there were signs in Russian saying "Welcome Home" and "Congratulations on Your Success." They weren't for Nixon, however.

They were from Akalovsky's fellow linguists at the State Department, welcoming him home from a tough assignment.

Congressmen Plan to Peek at U. S. Exhibit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several curious congressmen plan to join curious Soviets soon at the United States Exhibit in Moscow.

The six members of a House Appropriations subcommittee will leave Aug. 22 for a two-day stay in Moscow.

"We have been spending a lot of money on this exhibition and will be called on for more funds," the chairman, Rep. John J. Rooney (D-NY), said Friday. "We want to see if we are getting our money's worth and if the exhibition is having a good effect on the Russian people."

Four days earlier, Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio), perhaps accompanied by Rep. Frances P. Bolton (R-Ohio), may leave for Moscow. Both are members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Bromfield's 'TV Widow' Prefers to Stay Home

By EARL WILSON

Her husband, John Bromfield, the "U. S. Marshal" on TV, tours the country two months a year, lecturing to high school students on safety, or meeting with his sponsor's dealers—and she stays at home, meaning Philadelphia, or Hollywood.

WILSON

Only John's more rabid fans know that Larri is a gifted dancer who was on Fred Astaire's Emmy-winning show and is in the Bing Crosby-Debbie Reynolds movie, "Say One for Me."

But the tour was over and both John and Larri were here at the Desert Inn, where Larri insisted that she wasn't at all disappointed at not traveling with her handsome husband.

"If an actor is attractive and virile, and his wife goes along with him on tours, standing at his side and glaring, it takes the wind out of the sails of his admirers," Larri said.

"I don't know what pleasure the wife could get out of these things anyway," Bromfield commented.

"She'd never have a normal dinner . . . all you do is talk about the show . . . that takes you to midnight."

Larri, in a white bikini, sat up on the beach chair. "I did a tour with 'Guys and Dolls' as a Goldwyn Girl," she said, "and it was hard work even though I had all the best of it."

Bromfield, a South Bend boy and a distant cousin of the late Louis Bromfield, and formerly married to Corrine Calvet, feels that his tours have given him an excellent cross-section of TV tastes.

"I think westerns are slipping," he said. "I can feel it. I had a feeling for a while that we were going to have cops and robbers coming in. If somebody could come up with some good idea, they'd give westerns a lot of trouble."

LARRI & JOHN

Bromfield quickly explained, of course, that "We're not western — we're modern adventure.

"We don't have any horses," he explained. "We use station wagons. Unless we have to go in the mountains sometimes to get the bad boys."

Larri said she has fairly definite opinions on the show —and that if she made the tour with John, she might express them at the wrong time.

Bromfield, whose "Cochise" series is also running on TV, is a little annoyed at some of the western actors for constantly complaining that they want to do something different.

On his tour he was asked, "Are you one of these guys who is unhappy about your job?" and when he said he wasn't, the next question was "Why not? What's wrong with you?"

"These guys are pretty lucky — half of them never did anything before," Bromfield exclaimed. "Dick Boone is not beefing about his job.

"Half of these are spoiled little kids who got their money to fast."

Hollywood Headlines:

Tom Tully Quits Setup but Cashes In $50,000

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tom Tully has turned in his San Francisco police badge and cashed out for $50,000.

The gruff, able actor no longer will be ferreting out hoods on "The Line-up," the CBS crime series.

THOMAS

"I didn't like the new setup," he said. "They wanted to put me and Warner Anderson in supporting roles. After five years as stars of the show, I didn't think this was right. I had no objection to using new people, if it was handled intelligently. But they were killing the whole idea of the show."

"The line-up" ran into trouble last season from the fast-moving "77 Sunset Strip," an hour-long whodunit that opposed the Tully-Anderson sleuthing in many time zones. CBS decided to fight fire with fire and expanded "The line-up" to an hour for the fall.

"I didn't want to go on an hour show unless it was done in big style," Tully added. "I suggested moving the locale to different parts of the country. One story could show Anderson in Washington, D.C., working with the FBI while I was pursuing the same case at the home base, San Francisco. Or I'd be in Boston and he'd be in San Francisco.

"They seemed to like my idea, and the authorities in the other cities offered their support. But then the network fell for some poll taken in the East. The poll said that we couldn't compete with '77 Sunset Strip' unless we got some juvenile leads.

"After five years as star, I wasn't going to be carrying papers in the background. I told them 'No, thanks; I'll quit while I'm ahead.'"

So he settled his contract for 50 grand. He still retains 25 per cent of the 183 half-hour shows that he made.

"Sure, I'm passing up some security by leaving the show," Tully commented. "But when a man loses faith in his own ability as an actor, that's when he should quit and go into the real estate business or something."

Tully has no plans to become a realtor. He's going to do "Death of a Salesman" in summer stock in northern California and would like to return to Broadway. He hasn't been back since 1943. Since he announcedhis break with "The line-up," he has had five offers for other series—"and I could write my ticket for any of them."

July Good for New Homes

Contractors Build 95 Family Dwellings in Pontiac

July was a bumper month for new homes in Pontiac.

Contractors took out building permits to construct 95 new family dwellings, a record number this years.

Total cost of the new homes is estimated at $768,725. Carl Alt, city building inspector, said the new homes will be scattered throughout the city.

There were a total 194 building permits issued last month involving $901,967.

Included was a permit for a $20,000 remodeling project at the GMC Truck & Coach Division plant. Train sheds are being modernized, said Alt.

The Department of Parks & Recreation took out a permit to build a $6,000 park shelter at Hawthorn Park.

Breakdown of other figures in last month's building statistics:

Thirty-one residential garages, $24,617; 52 residential alterations and repairs, $48,675; three commercial alterations and repairs, $28,777; and two new commercial buildings, $16,000.

Queen Vacations at Balmoral Until October

BALMORAL, Scotland (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II began vacationing today with her family to recover from the strain of her Canadian tour and to rest up for her third child.

The 33-year-old Queen arrived at Balmoral Castle Friday, with Britain's press in a sentimental tizzy over the coming happy event. Messages of congratulations flooded the tiny village post office near Balmoral.

Behind the gray walls of the castle built by Queen Victoria in 1854, Elizabeth with Prince Philip and their two children were effectively screened from the excitement let loose by the impending royal birth.

By long custom, royal vacations at Balmoral are held in the strictest privacy. And with her release from public engagements the Queen is now free to enjoy the seclusion of her Scottish home until late October.

ONLY DAILY NEWSPAPERS SELL SOFT DRINKS FROM BOTTLER TO BUYER

THIS YEAR more than 35,000,000,000 bottles of soft drinks will be sold in the U. S. and Canada. The average consumption will reach 183 bottles per person. The amount spent for this sea of soft drinks will be well over $1,500,000,000!

Daily newspapers play a sparkling role in the steady growth of this billion dollar business. National soft drink companies find the daily newspaper's qualities uniquely helpful in solving their many marketing problems. And the daily newspaper's flexibility helps them adjust their advertising to regional and seasonal sales differences.

Local, regional and franchise bottlers, and retailers of soft drinks depend on the daily newspaper to reach the greatest number of consumers in their market. Last year local advertisers, including retailers of soft drinks, spent $2⅓ billion in newspapers – six times more than in radio; nine times more than in TV. Every day people buy 58,000,000 copies.

If you want to quench your thirst for sales, use the Total Selling daily newspaper. It sells products nationally and locally – all the way to the consumer.

background for LIVING

TROPHY ROOM — The Walker family's love of sports is honestly come by. Look at all the trophies Mr. Walker has won for racing boats. This is the family room on the lower level of the house. Bright plaid curtains are pleasing to look at, in contrast to the plain block walls. The floor is corktone tile. Take particular notice of one small dog seated on the right side of the hearth. That is Mr. Astor, a very important member of the family. He's a miniature French poodle. Both Home Editor and photographer succumbed to his charm.

LIGHT AND SHADOW — With picture windows on both sides of the house, there is always an interesting play of light and shadow in the Walker living room. The picture window overlooking the lake is at the left, outside of picture range. The metal banister on the stairs casts interesting shadows on the wall of the stairwell. At the extreme right is the planter half wall separating vestibule and dining room. Carpeting throughout this area is textured beige in two shades.

Your Neighbor's House

Sports-Minded Family Lives at Lake

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

In a county that has 432 natural lakes we have people who construct artificial lakes, making them out of swampy areas filled with springs and little creeks. Such an area became Lake Sherwood, Oakland County's largest man-made body of water.

A community of attractive homes is growing up on the shores of this lake, halfway between Commerce and Milford. In summer it is the scene of competitive water skiing. Small islands entice the residents to have picnics. In winter tremendous fish are caught and ice sports are the order of the day.

The Harold Walkers moved to a new home at Lake Sherwood about a year ago. Former Dearborn residents, they chose their new location because of the opportunity for water sports. Harold Young built them a tri-level brick home. The exterior is buff color with white trim and yellow garage doors. Their lot on the west shore of the lake is about ¾ of an acre.

Three daughters constitute the Walker family. Sharon, 18, graduated from Huron Valley High School in June and plans to go to Dearborn Junior College this fall. Jeannie is 16 and attends the same high school. Pam is 13.

Mr. Astor, a miniature silver French poodle, is a most important member of the family. But he'll never trust photographers again. Just as his picture was taken in the recreation room the flash bulb in the camera exploded, scaring the poor pup half to death.

The living room, of course, overlooks the water. Floor-length white draperies can be pulled across the picture window. Walls are aqua. The carpeting combines two shades of beige in a textured fabric.

Set in a wall of white Roman bricks, the fireplace has a raised stone hearth. A black sunburst clock is the only decoration on the chimney. There is no mantel.

The sofa in front of the windows has brown upholstery with black nubs and a gold thread. In one corner there is a white leather chair with wrought iron legs. Bright orange and aqua pillows put color in this corner.

The coffee table is bleached mahogany. A planter with a large green plant flourishes near the window.

The beige carpeting extends into the dining room and up the stairs to the bedroom level. Two walls in the dining room are aqua; the other two are papered. Draperies match the poper — a white background with diamonds of black, pumpkin and gray.

The furniture which includes a desk on the inside wall is honey maple. Over the drop leaf table is a pull-down lamp. Seats on the chairs are aqua with a gold thread.

Only a planter wall separates the dining room and kitchen. Out there the walls are white. There are pumpkin and gold spatters on the white linoleum floor. Curtains are white with black, pumpkin and pink designs.

All the birch cabinets have steel handles. Counter tops and splash backs are pumpkin Formica. The drop leaf table has a Formica top resembling birch. Chairs are plastic covered in avocado.

In the bathroom there is cocoa colored paper with a pink design above the pink tile. Fixtures are pink. Curtains are cocoa.

ROOM FOR TWO

Jeannie and Pam share the first bedroom. Floors in all the bedrooms are polished oak. Walls are white. Curtains are semi-sheer with beige and gold stripes on white.

Both quilted spread and ruffled underskirt on the bed are rose beige chintz. The girls have a blonde desk.

Sharon's room has peach walls. Her curtains are sandalwood. Peach and brown combine in a plaid for her bedspread. Her furniture is maple.

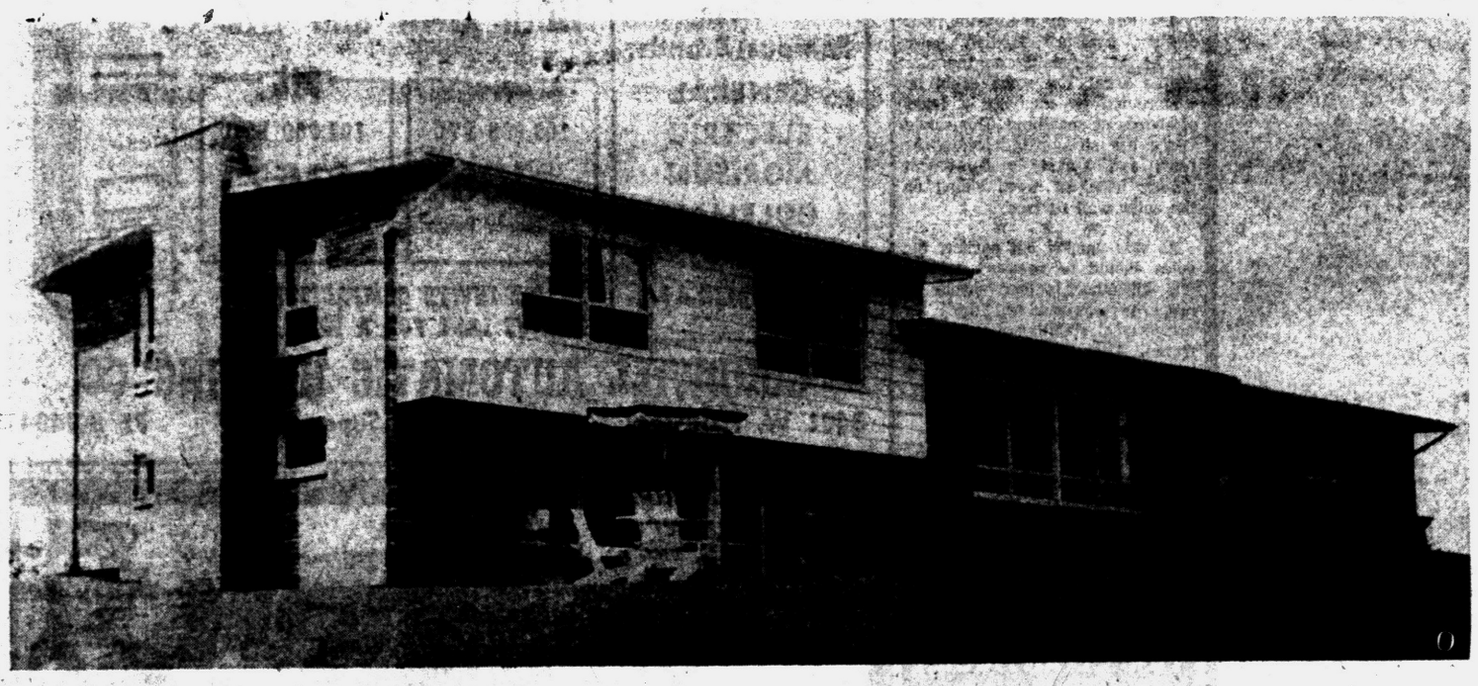

WATER COLOR

In the master bedroom the walls, throw rugs and bed covers are aqua. The bed skirt has two shades of aqua. Curtains are white. There is brass trim on the oak furniture. This room overlooks the lake and has windows on a second side as well.

If Mr. Walker wins any more trophies for racing boats, he'll have to extend the mantel in the recreation room. It's about as full as it can be right now.

Down here the fireplace is beige brick. The floor is cork tone tile. Curtains on all the small high windows, as well as on the picture window, are plaid. The walls are painted cement blocks.

A comfortable bamboo couch has yellow leather upholstery. One chair is yellow. There is a second sofa, this one maple with a small print upholstery. Outside this room is a patio.

ALL THREE LEVELS — From the lake side of the Harold Walker house all three levels are visible. The bedroom level is white while the main part of the house is beige. The patio, located just outside the door of the family room, is shady in late afternoon. Up on the hill at the right is a picnic table with a bench on one side. This is a spot where the girls did some of their studying before school was out. Harold Young built the house for the Walkers who have been residents at Lake Sherwood for a little over a year.

Popular Wood Deck Easy to Construct

With summer in full bloom and temperatures hitting the high marks, home life is apt to get pretty casual.

The main concern in summer living is comfort. What every homeowner needs at this time of the year is a restful spot where he can kick off his shoes and relax unmolested.

For most householders, this means a patio which has been designed and outfitted to cater to their pleasure, and one which takes a minimum amount of fuss and fixing to keep it in shape.

Along these lines, the wood deck has been claiming a lot of attention. Because of its construction, a wood deck can be built on the same level as floors in the living area of the home, even if they are a full story above the ground. This feature, of course, endears the deck to the hearts of folks who don't want to walk more than three steps to their outdoor easy chair.

Building a deck is easy. Sturdy posts of 4x4 inch Douglas fir are the vertical supports, and framework should be 2x10 or 2x12 inch fir. Deck boards can be 2x4, 2x6, or 2x8 inch fir and should be laid with a quarter-inch spacing between each.

If possible, there should be access to the deck from the kitchen, as well as from either family room or living room. This will save a lot of footwork in serving meals or party refreshments.

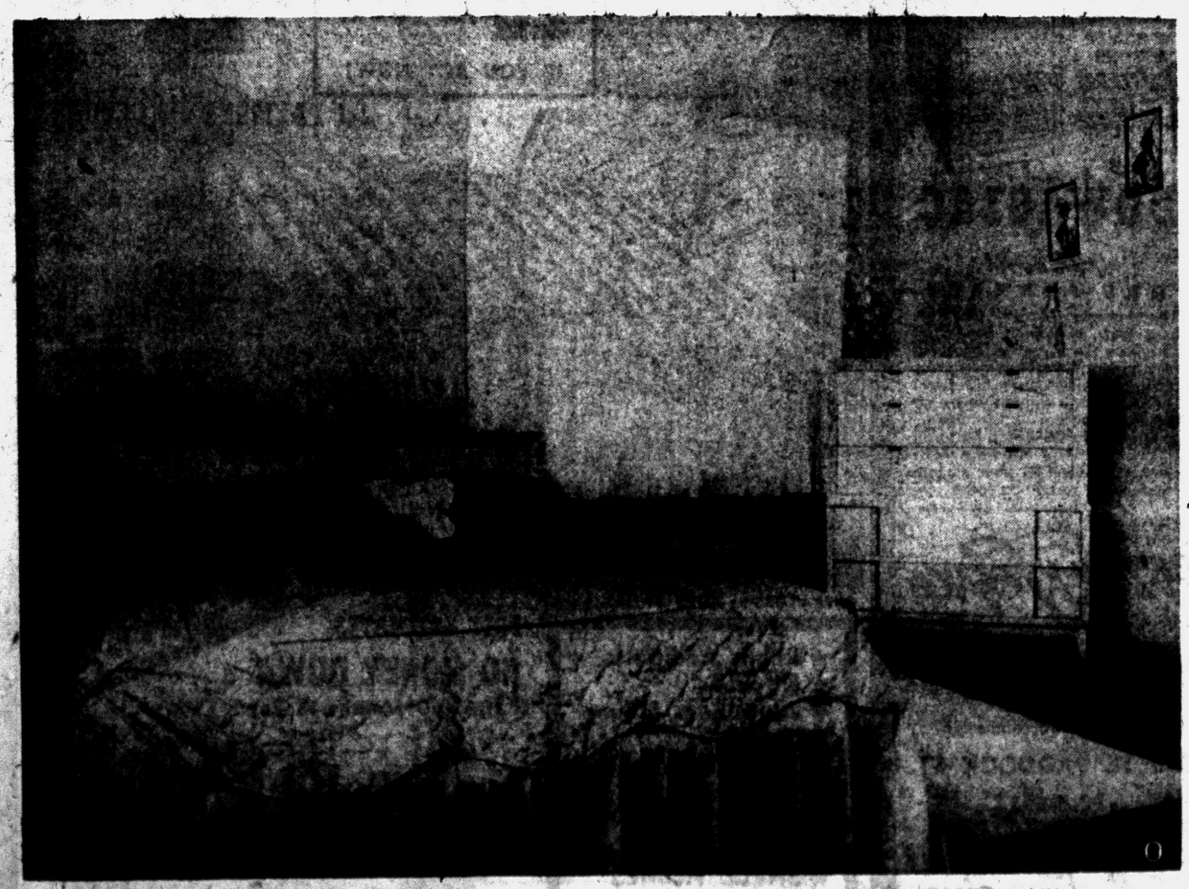

Care for a wood deck consists of a slight-of-hand trick done with the garden hose and a stream of water. A few seconds' time leaves it clean as a wolf whistle.

Smart homeowners save on building costs and maintenance by leaving the fir deck boards entirely natural rather than painting them. In the weathering process, the fir decking becomes an elegant silver, a striking shade which compliments gaily colored patio furniture. Some folks, however, help the weathering process along by giving the decking one coat of driftwood stain, letting it weather from there.

OTHER SHAPES

Although most decks are designed in a simple rectangle, using other geometric figures assures an individual note. Trapeziums, rhomboids, triangles, and half moons are interesting possibilities.

A simple railing or one which features a built-in bench puts the finishing touches on the deck. Planters filled with distinctive shrubbery or bright flora are also popular for deck edges.

AQUA ROOM — A black and white picture fails to do justice to the varying shades of aqua used in this master bedroom. It is the perfect shade for a house built near water. Only the curtains are white. The furniture is oak with brass trim. All the bedrooms have polished oak floors and sliding door closets.

OPEN DINING ROOM — Half walls separate dining room from the vestibule and the kitchen. The kitchen planter wall is papered on this side to match the wall and the draperies. The background of the paper is white with black, pumpkin and gray diamonds. Furniture is honey maple. The aqua chair seats match two of the walls. In the kitchen the predominating color is pumpkin.

Cutting Stops Fraying

Friction tape can be kept from fraying around the edge of the roll by making a few light knife cuts on the sides of the roll. Cut radially in several places. The cuts will keep frayed edges from building up as you unroll the tape, but won't hurt the tape.

Ease of Pole Frame Construction Appeals

Home Building seldom is thought of in terms of the do-it-yourself trade.

But believe it or not — the expert home handyman could actually do most of the work himself and build his own dwelling—thanks to "pole-frame" construction.

This new-found ability won't exactly put the home builders out of business. Homes are still too complex mechanisms for the amateur to undertake the whole tasks save in rare instances. Nonetheless, "pole-frame" has propelled the home handyman into an entire new orbit of operations. Major additions to existing homes are notable examples.

The ease and economy of this form of construction stems from the fact that no masonry foundations are required. The wood poles are pressure treated and hence immune to earth moisture and decay. They are simply driven directly into the ground at measured intervals to form the outline and main wall structure of the building. The framing is completed by nailing standard lumber to the poles.

With only four poles and wood decking for a flat roof, you can construct a carport. The requirements would be equally simple for a shed or workshop. The beauty of it is you can do the work with ordinary tools, and with a minimum of perspiration.

Seventy-five per cent of all treated poles turned out in the U. S. are Southern Pine, because of the ease of treatment this species affords. The strength of Southern Pine — it is the strongest of structural woods — is of equal value in the lumber that completes the streamlined structure. A lumber dealer should be able to satisfy all your material requirements.

"Pole-frame" construction was first popularized in farm building, since it gave farmers the chance to fulfill most of their own construction needs. The fad spread next to beach homes. Extending all the way to roof level, the poles gave great rigidity to the beach house structure — no small consideration in areas subject to hurricanes.

Now the system is moving inland to the towns. Pole-frame homes are making their debuts in cities, although these are constructed by home builders rather than home handymen.

As an example of how easy the system is, let's see how it would work out in adding an enclosed playroom to the back of your house. For the main framing, four or six pressure treated poles should do depending on the size of the area. The walls could be constructed by applying a layer of boards as sheathing. This would brace the structure, insulate the room and provide a convenient nailing base for wood siding on the outer wall surface.

As was pointed out earlier, the poles should be pressure treated and all other lumber should be properly seasoned or "dry" for dimensional stability of your rigid frame. When Southern Pine lumber is grade-marked, the user is assured that it is properly seasoned.

The natural color of Southern Pine is a vivid gold. To retain this in wood paneling, a natural finish should be used. Other types of finish change the hue to deep sea blues or distinguished grays without obscuring the wood grain.

'Planning to Paint' Offers Advice to Amateur

A house with a fresh coat of paint lets the world know that you take pride in your possessions and in the appearance of your community — it's almost a tribute to you, the homeowner. Color gives your home new beauty, new styling, and distinction — even the most humble home can have its own individuality through color. The right color will make your house seem at home in its natural surroundings; it will radiate charm. You'll benefit from the longer more durable lasting freshness that a new coat of paint has to offer.

For helpful suggestions about painting send your name, address and request for the free booklet Planning to Paint? to the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association, 1500 Rhode Island Avenue, N.W., Washington 5, D.C.

Long Island Railroad Is Nation's Most Colorful

The Long Island Railroad — the nation's busiest commuter line — uses up some 21 tons of paint every year. That's over 5200 gallons of paint, give or take a few quarts.

The LIRR's station painting program accounts for the biggest percentage of the new paint total. Each of the line's 160 stations gets a complete repaint inside and out every four to six years. The statisticians figure that the average station needs about 90 gallons of paint, and that the required gallonage amounts to 2800 a year.

Very little of this gallonage, however, is in the railroad's traditional colors of cream and green. That's because of a democratic ruling by the LIRR's president, Thomas M. Goodfellow, who decided back in 1957 that the citizens of a given community should select their own color schemes for their local station. By the end of this summer, some 54 local stations will have been painted in colors decided by popular vote.

The net results proves that commuters, despite comic strip arguments to the contrary, are as unalike in their color tastes as they are in their vocations and avocations. The good citizens of Ronkonkomo, for instance, voted for a combination of five colors: pale beige, dawn green, sandalwood, sea spray green and turquoise.

This provides a dramatic contrast with the final color choices of the Easthampton set, where a stark white building with black trim was decided upon by a wide margin of votes. Not to be outdone in the field of conservatism, the neighbors in nearby Bridgehampton selected medium gray with white trim.

Blues, yellows and reds—in various combinations — are by far the popular color choices. Some communities have even engaged color consultants to guide them, a procedure which produced mystifying results in at least two cases. The color experts recommended cream and green. And that, some say, is proof that a railroad knows just as much about colors as its passengers.

The tons of paint not used on its stations are mostly absorbed by the railroad's rolling stock: 1300 passenger cars and 75 diesel locomotives. Some 60 passenger cars a year get the complete paint treatment in the railroad's own shop, each requiring some 40 gallons of white, gray and red paints for interiors. A dozen locomotives are also painted annually, each utilizing another six gallons of exterior paint.

Signal towers, road crossing gates, signs, bridges, station columns and office buildings consume more hundreds of gallons of paint yearly. And then there are the LIRR boats, a mighty fleet (for a railroad) of three tugboats which haul freight and freight cars on floats from Jersey City (N.J.) to Long Island City.

Neither snow nor rain keep these boats of the railroad's navy from their appointed tasks of hauling cargo. All three require periodic coats of anti-marine fouling paints, but the LIRR keeps no gallonage statistics, since the work is done by a private drydock company.

All in all, it's not just the busiest commuter railroad in the country. It is, by far, the most colorful . . . thanks to the worlds of paints, varnishes and lacquers.

Don't Expect Miracles rom Cooling System

Dont't shut off a thermostatically controlled cooling system on a cool day. You don't gain anything thereby, for the thermostat will operate the unit only as necessary to keep you comfortable anyway and requires no help. Set the thermostat at a level agreeable to your family and leave it there.

Don't be disappointed if the temperature gets a few degrees warmer than its thermostat level on a very hot day. Most residential cooling systems are designed for maximum cooling that will maintain temperature 15 or 20 degrees below the outdoor temperature and they cannot do much better than that.

Don't open doors more often than necessary and then for as short a period as possible. It usually costs more to cool a house with children who are running inside and out at frequent intervals because each time the door is opened warm air comes in.

Don't use a shower curtain that absorbs water. Use one of plastic or other non-absorbent material. A shower bath releases more heat and moisture than a tub bath.

Don't expect your air conditioning system to perform miracles. Designed to keep you and your family comfortable, it shouldn't be blamed if it is not able to keep an additional 10 or 15 people comfortable at a party on a very hot day. Also, you will find that it's better for your health if you keep the inside temperature not more than 15 to 20 degrees below that outside—rather than trying to maintain an inside temperature of 65 or 70 when it's 95 outside.

REFRESHING INNOVATION — Here's how X-70 looks from the street. The home, inspired by the architecture of Spain, has three bedrooms and two full baths. It is built on a slab.

FLOOR PLAN — All utilities are concentrated in the central core between bedroom wing in front and entertainment wing in rear. Note how pool is tied in with terrace, terrace to family porch, family porch to house interior.

This House Is Modern Spanish and Spacious

By DAVID L. BOWEN

This house has a proud Spanish past and demands an owner with equal pride in his convictions about beauty and convenience.

It's not a house for timid types who want a home looking just like the Joneses', except for a bigger picture window. The Joneses will never put up a house like this, but look what they're missing:

1. Textbook-perfect division of the sleeping, working and entertaining sections.

2. Excellent connection of indoor areas with related outdoor space, including a rear terrace with swimming pool.

3. The economy of a slab foundation, plus step-saving convenience of ranch design.

4. The long, low lines of a Spanish hacienda, complete with beautiful Spanish grillwork and a lovely entry court.

Designer of X-70 in the House of the Week series of distinguished homes is Architect Samuel Paul, who spent several weeks of research in Spain.

"Sunlight, cooling breezes, the movement and reflection of clear water—all are captured and used as elements of the total design," explains Paul. "These intangibles are utilized in this home in the same manner as tangibles like concrete, wood and other building materials."

The structural heart of X-70's design is a utility core which contains kitchen, utility room, all the plumbing, and an entry foyer.

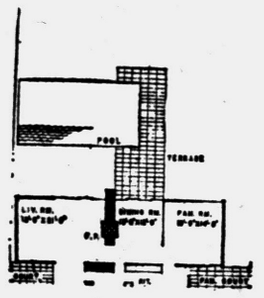

Other rooms and courts revolve around this core. Facing the rear garden and swimming pool are living room, screened family porch and dining room. On the street side of the core is the bedroom wing.

ENTRANCE ELEGANCE

Main approach to the house is an entrance court with a fountain pool and flower beds, well shielded from the front. A high wrought iron gate brings the visitor into the court. Entry into the house itself is through a set of glass doors with metal grillwork.

The large living room opens to the left of the entrance foyer. At one end is a sculptured stucco fireplace, with vertical panes of glass on either side giving it a free-standing effect.

A screened family porch starts from a point inside the living room and extends outward nearly to the pool. The porch is separated by glass walls from living room on one side and dining room on the other. Sliding glass doors in the center provide wide access from house to porch, terrace or pool.

ALTERNATE PLAN: This is an alternate treatment of entertainment wing.

Location of the kitchen in the utility core makes it handy to both dining room and family porch. It is 9 by 15 feet, and contains space for a small dinette.

An exterior door leads to the utility court, convenient for children's play or other activities requiring supervision from the kitchen. Adjoining kitchen are laundry and utility closets.

On the opposite side of the utility core is the sleeping wing. It has three generously proportioned bedrooms—one with a full private bath.

X-70 has three distinct structural units: the sleeping wing, entertainment wing and the connecting service core. This center section has a flat roof, covered with white marble chip. In front and behind this center section, the Spanish Terra Cotta tile roofs of each separate wing pitch downward toward front and rear.

The house has no basement and and no attic.

A two-car carport is attached to the entry court and contains both general and garden equipment storage closets. The habitable area is 2,081 square feet, including screened porch. The carport covers 570 square feet. The enclosed house is 49'6" wide by 45'8" deep.

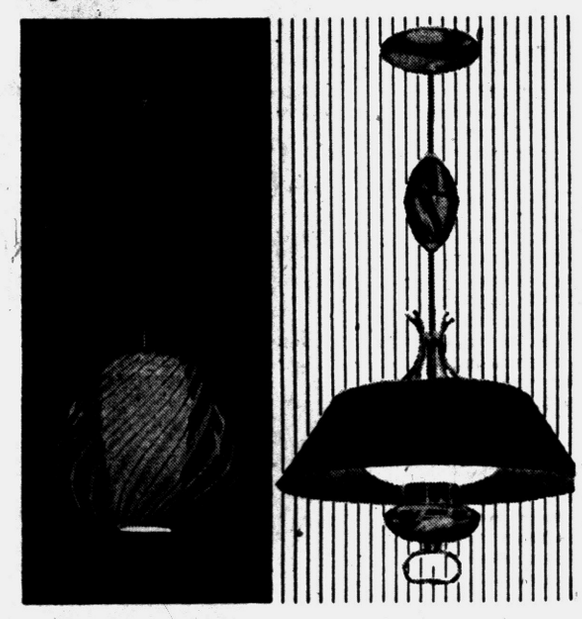

Brighten Halls With Paneling

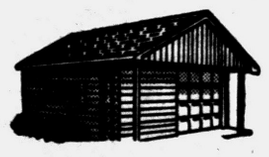

Not many people think of a hallway as having any decorative possibilities, but this is only because not many folks make an effort to dress up the halls in their home. Attention to the "hidden" areas of a home, like the halls, completes a home, and this is what makes one home more outstanding than another.

Leading decorators say that the most distinctive and easiest way of embellishing a hallway is to panel it in a handsome wood. For an unusual, textured effect, halls can be paneled with a Douglas fir white pocket lumber, a wood which has tiny pores scattered over the face of the panel.

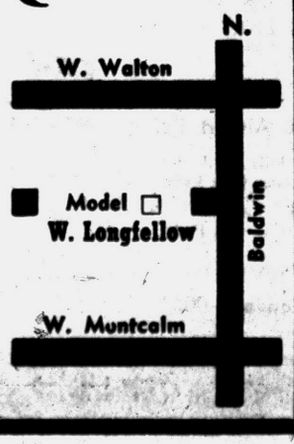

The paneling can be finished with a coat of sealer to bring out the fir's tawny gold coloring, and should be followed by several coats of clear lacquer or rez. Waxing completes the job and makes removal of fingerprints a simple task.

WHICH ONE? — Whatever his special requirements for paint or painting tools, there's something in the market for the home handy man.

Grandpa Couldn't Have Used Many Modern Paints

Grandpa was a pretty smart duck and it's no reflection on him to say he couldn't have used the paints his grandson applies to the home and its furnishings. He couldn't, because about 85 per cent of the paints formulated today did not exist before World War II.

Today's protective coverings have greater hiding power, go on easier and serve explicit purposes so well that the home handy man has at his disposal, through paint and hardware outlets, something for any painting job. And the specialized tools to handle the job, too.

More importantly, the know-how is built right into the pain. Elbow grease and common sense are the only additives needed.

Let's consider some paints new in our time:

MULTICOLOR: Several colors can be applied simultaneously from one container, when using a spray gun. Basically, those paints consist of two or more colors of lacquer or other paint base, suspended in a water carrier. Non-lacquer types are odorless.

The droplets of color are large enough to stand out separately in the final film. For example: in a black-and-white mixture, colors do not blend to a gray. Depending on the formula, coat of paint will be either white specks on black, or black specks on white.

Thus, texturelike, color-flecked, "custom" finishes are within the skill range of the handy man. Touchups do NOT show. This type of coating has unusual hiding power, for beat-up walls.

A second type of multicolor paint requires application of a primer coat of the desired color. Once this dries, the color flecks are sprayed, rolled or brushed on.

"GEL" PAINTS are exactly what the name reads like. Of a gelatinous consistency, they liquefy under pressure of roller or brush as they're applied. Dripless, they're ideal for ceiling work, and they can't spill if can is knocked over. Ideal for messy types.

WATER-THINNED latex paints are known under a number of names, such as emulsion, plastic, rubberized or latex paints. Some manufacturers identify their product with the chemical name of its chief ingredient. Examples: butadiene-styrene, polyvinyl acetate, vinyl, acrylic.

Some latex paints contain more than one of those substances. In each case there are other ingredients, of course.

Regardless of the name, such paints have these common characteristics: they dry quickly, are nearly odorless, can be brushed or rolled; some can be sprayed.

Touchups don't show. Tools clean in warm, soapy water.

The latex paints generally require no primer. Exceptions: new wood, which requires an enamel undercoater; bare metal, which needs a primer. They cover non-bleeding wallpaper well, and are naturals for use over vinyl wall coverings.

Some of the latex paints can be used on stucco, cement, cinder block, outdoors. There's even a germicidal latex paint. And, most recently, floor and deck enamels, interior and exterior, have been added to the latex paints.

ENAMELS: Exterior and interior enamels made today, use synthetic alkyd resins. Since, technically, enamel is a colored varnish, use of those resins permits formulation of gloss, semigloss and flat-finish types that can't be beat for use where a finish will get really rough-and-tough wear.

The enamels and solvent-thinned paints of all types, have superior covering, washability, resistance-to-scrubbing-and-spotting values usually.

SPRAY PAINTS, the bug bomb-types, are wonderful for touchups and for small painting jobs. Basically, they're not intended for room painting or for painting an entire house. If you want to use 'em that way, go right ahead. But sit down and figure the cost, first.

Each type of apint performs well in its own field, for the purposes in mind when it was formulated.

All paints must be applied according to instructions, and surfaces must be prepared properly, if paints are to deliver maximum satisfaction.

If this department knew of a paint that covered everything with no preparation, lasted indefinitely, cost less than nothing and required no work to apply you wouldn't have read the column.

The conductor would be out selling the stuff, by the carload.

Make Test Application, Then Paint Wallpaper

Before painting over wallpaper, make sure that the paper adheres firmly at all points. Before applying paint, it is wise to make a test application on a square yard of the papered area. This will tell you if the coloring matter in the paper bleeds into the paint, if embossed patterns show through, or if the paint will loosen the paper. If any of these occur, it is best to remove the wallpaper with a steamer, then wash off remaining paste with water.

Houses Going Upward Again

A new look at an old favorite—the multi-story home—is predicted by a home specialist for a leading building materials manufacturer.

Jay Simpson, supervisor of insulation products for Allied Chemical's Barrett Division, reports that builders are giving two-story and other multi-story designs renewed consideration after concentrating on one-story dwellings for the past 20 years.

One of the principal reasons for this revived interest, Simpson says, is the fact that land close to large cities has already been utilized for building and, as a result, acreage in even distant suburban locations is selling for many times its former value.

"To keep home prices down in the face of rising land costs and other cost increases, at least a partial return to multi-story homes is imminent, Simpson predicts.

Simpson points out that a two-story home provides approximately the same living area as a one-story home on about one half the land. Other savings are possible in roof and foundation construction.

"The multi-story home has been an American tradition since pre-revolutionary war times," Simpson adds, "It still offers more living area per dollar than any other design. For the prospective home buyer with a limited budget, a two-story home with an unfinished upstairs may prove especially attractive today because of the availability of low-cost do-it-yourself finishing materials."

To help the multi-story home compete with the sweeping lines of one-story dwellings, architects are coming up with some design assistance, Simpson also reports.

The use of roof shingles with extra-wide tabs will help create a more pronounced horizontal effect, the Barrett specialist says. Another technique to modify the "box" look of many two-story homes is to extend planters for several feet beyond the sides of the house.

Avoid clumsy situations by making your painting equipment as controllable as possible. Tape a small diameter, rather tall food tin, to the side of your paint pail. It will hold your smaller brushes intact. It will be especially handy when working at the top of a ladder.

Owner Stuck With House — It's Unmovable

In this era of new expressways and other highways springing up in all parts of the country, the question of a home's mobility can become an important issue to the owner.

A Texas man discovered this to his considerable sorrow.

He had built a lovely basementless $50,000 home on a slab. Shortly after its completion he was notified that a highway was to be re-routed through the home site. The authorities offered him $10,000 to move the house. He owned several acres of adjacent land where the structure might have been re-located.

But since the house was built on a slab foundation, it could not be moved. At last reports he was contemplating the problem, with dismantling as the only solution offered.

Builders explain that had the home been of conventional joist-and-sub-floor construction, either with a basement or with crawl space beneath, it easily could have been moved to another site.

The nation's "homestead laws" have accounted for the disposition of about 286 million acres of land in the public demain.

Good Mulching Stuff

After finishing a home improvement that requires rock wool insulation, don't throw out any left-over insulation. Rock wool makes an effective mulch to protect young shrubbery against the weather.

No. 2 Common Oak Is Good Attic Flooring

Attic conversions, among the most popular home improvements nowadays, can be accomplished at surprisingly little cost when home owners plan ahead carefully.

One important point of possible saving frequently occurs in the floor construction. And the saving can be achieved without sacrificing true quality. A genuine oak floor can be installed far more economically than the average home owner probably realizes.

Key to the saving is the use of No. 2 Common grade oak, which is available at substantially less cost than top grades. Lumber dealers explain that No. 2 Common is distinguished by interesting variations of grain pattern and coloring which make for an attractive floor. In durability and all-around serviceability it differs little if any from the less economical grades.

Additional savings often can be effected through use of a construction shortcut: the subfloor can be omitted, provided joists are spaced no wider than the conventional 16 inches. For this method the flooring must be the tongued and grooved type.

Should the pocketbook grow fatter in time and a top grade oak floor be desired, it can be nailed right over the No. 2 Common, with the latter then serving as a subfloor.

ALL-AROUND TOOL — Fastening screens, insulation and back edges of stair treads are but a few of the many uses for home shop staplers.

You'll Find Stapler All-Around House Tool

The heavy-duty gun tacker, or stapler, is a kissin' cousin of the office and household stapler. With the desk model, fastening is accomplished by pressing down on the top with the hand.

The heavy-duty equipment has a squeeze handle that triggers a spring which in turn thrusts a blade forward with a staple in front of it.

With a gun stapler you can save time installing wallboard, shingles, screening and insulation. Some smaller jobs can be handled successfully with small desk staplers that open so that they can be used for tacking.

Instead of using super-small upholsterers' tacks and a tiny hammer next time you re-cover a chair seat, use a double-duty desk stapler.

You can, in fact, use it wherever you fasten a lightweight material onto a surface that's not hard (wallboard, softwood paneling.)

Staples are U-shaped bits of wire. They range from ¼-inch to 9/16-inch in length. The job determines the size. Shingles require a heavy-duty staple, wall-to-wall carpeting a medium size.

Mom can use the very lightest if she's tacking a note to the kitchen bulletin board.

The gun stapler is easy to use and accurate in performance.

Sloppy work is generally the result of careless handling.

Set the gun against the material to be stapled so that the base of the gun and the work surface are flush. Hold the gun firmly against the work as you squeeze the trigger.

If a staple jams DON'T attempt to force the staple out. Open the gun and remove the unused staples. The jammed staple can usually be fished out with a thin-bladed screwdriver.

Oil moving parts lightly. Use only the staples recommended for the particular gun.

Sizes vary greatly, as do prices of the staplers. Pick one that will do most of the jobs you'll be doing yourself—putting up weather stripping, making furniture repair, fastening screening.

Heavier guns for heavier jobs can be rented. Don't hesitate to use one in place of a hammer and nails. Such staplers are fast and easy to use; they require just one hand to use them.

That means the other hand is free to hold the work—or to steady yourself if you're perched on a ladder.

And don't forget a plain desk stapler in its roles as both stapler and as a lightweight tacker.

Oriental Touch Given Fences

Americans are voracious consumers of home and garden ideas—both foreign-produced and home-grown.

A favorite subject for summertime scrutiny is fencing. Here, a householder sometimes bogs down in trying to choose among the many patterns and finishes available for fences. A good rule of thumb to apply is first to decide the purpose of the fence, then to select a style which will both do the job and compliment the home.

The case of the courtyard fence is a good example. Something to provide privacy is the prime requisite. Yet, it must be decorative. Screens, designed with a delicate touch in the manner of the Japanese, have proven popular for this situation. While insuring the sanctity of the yard, the screens have an airiness which prevents a wall-like appearance.

Built in four- or six-foot sections, the screens are made of 1x1 inch western red cedar strips nailed on a stout framework of 2x4 inch cedar. Four-by-four inch cedar should be used for the posts.

It's always a smart idea to shun straight lines, particularly in the case of a courtyard where fencing is erected on two or more sides. Instead, the screens can be placed in offset fashion or the height of the sections varied for eye interest. Another idea is to alternate panels of fencing with clumps of tall, leafy shrubbery or bamboo groves.

Choosing the correct finish for the screens is easy. If the house features siding of western red cedar stained in either a cedar tone or driftwood, the fencing should match. White fences are the smartest choice for white painted homes. Colored siding calls for either white or natural wood shades in fencing.

One essential to good fence design is that it look as native to the site as possible. Planting greenery of various dimensions along the fence line turns the trick, also giving homeowners a means of incorporating a personal touch into the plan.

Have you ever wondered how the tile-setter is able to install a wall of bright, durable ceramic tiles and manage to keep them so evenly spaced? Well, most glazed ceramic tile made in America comes with lugs — spacers — on all four edges which automatically and uniformly space the tile for mortar joints.

Fibreboard Now 45 Years Old

Sometimes you see it and sometimes you don't, but visible or invisible, more and more fibreboard is being used in the home.

Fibreboard (also called insulation board) was first manufactured 45 years ago, according to H. Dorn Stewart, president of the Barrett Division of Allied Chemical Corporation. Current production is estimated by Stewart at three billion square feet a year.

Stewart, whose firm operates automated fibreboard plants at Sunbury, Pa. and Dubuque, Iowa, predicts increased use of fibreboard in the home—in the form of sheathing for the exterior, and planks, wallboard and tiles for finishing interior walls and ceilings.

"The key to fibreboard's success," Stewart said, "is its versatility. It can be used to provide structural strength, for insulation and as a finishing material."

Fibreboard is made of wood fibres formed and pressed into a rigid board ranging in thickness from ⅜" to two inches depending on the use.

As sheathing, fibreboard panels measuring 4 x 8 feet or 4 x 9 feet are nailed to the framework of a home and serve as a base for the exterior finishing materials. Approximately one out of three new homes today are sheathed in fibreboard, Stewart reported. In 1920, the number was one out of 25.

Recent development of a ½ inch high density fibreboard sheathing that eliminates the need for corner bracing of framing and will hold nails for direct application of economical sidings will increase fibreboard's acceptance among builders, Stewart adds.

An even greater potential for fibreboard can be expected in the growing use of accoustical and decorative fibreboard ceiling tiles and pre-painted fibreboard wall planks. Popular with do-it-yourselfers for finishing basements, attics and recreation rooms, these materials are now being used more frequently in new home construction.

"The fibreboard industry," Stewart said, "is one example of how scientific research, combined with modern production techniques, is producing quality products for home construction that are relatively low in cost and can be installed rapidly."

Folding Doors Hide Pantry

Storage of canned and packaged foods always has been a problem, even in kitchens with plenty of cabinet space. Little cans get lost behind big ones in the cavernous cabinets, and small packages hide behind larger boxes.

An ideal solution has been devised by Jonathon Aley, editor of House Beautiful's Building Manual, for the kitchen of his home in Rowayton, Conn., shown above.

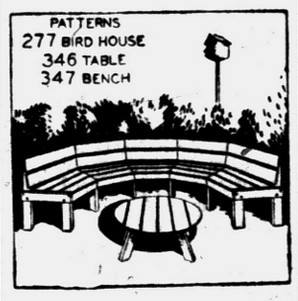

Aley built rows of shallow shelves carefully sized to hold the varying array of foodstuffs, paper napkins, towels, and the like. The shelves are hidden with narrow folding doors of ponderosa pine.

The panels give the appearance of rich wood paneling when the doors are closed, and harmonize with the Colonial decor of the Aley home.

Aley built the folding doors himself, using two stock panel doors of ponderosa pine picked up from his local building material dealer. The two doors are cut lengthwise down the center of the middle stiles. Special folding door hardware lets them open and close easily without jutting out into the room.

Building material dealers also stock ready made folding panel doors, complete with hardware, and ready to install. These come in a number of sizes, and are ideal for food pantries and closets in any part of the house.

Particularly delighted with her new storage space is Aley's wife, Janet. "Now everything is in easy reach," she says, "and I can tell at a glance what I need when I'm making out my shopping list."

A FRIENDLY SPOT for conversation, snacks or just sitting may be made with this semi-circular bench and matching table. Patterns 346 and 347 are 35c each. If you are interested in yard tables and benches, patterns 346 and 347 are included in Packet No. 60 of four unusual designs all for $1.

Thinnest Coating Protects Home Appliances

All your modern kitchen equipment and home appliances would look drab and unkempt without a protective coating. Great dependence for durability is placed on the sleek, thin coatings that protect almost everything found around the house. The coatings are only 3/1000 of an inch thick, but what a difference they make in the preservation of surfaces, in the control of bacteria and grems, and in the contribution of color and beauty to a room.

For further information about coatings send your name, address and request for the free booklet WITHIN 3/1000 OF AN INCH! to the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association, 1500 Rhode Island Avenue, N.W., Washington 5, D.C.

Lumber and building supplies is a $10-billion business.

Putty Is So Valuable

After you have prime-painted all uncoated surfaces during a paint job, make sure you fill in all cracks and nail head indentations. Any other unfilled opening should be puttied to keep out moisture, which could be the source of costly damage later on. Use a stiff, wedge-shaped putty knife, about three inches wide. After the opening or crack has been filled, level off the surface with the edge of the knife blade.

Always Read the Label

Every paint can has instructions or directions printed on the label. These are for your own protection, to make sure you have the right paint for the job at hand and to insure a satisfactory paint job. The manufacturer knows his product and how it should be used, so it's wise to take just a minute to read his directions, and then follow them.

Adjust by Chain

When stretching rope or a light cable, as putting up a clothesline, you can save later adjustments with a shrort length of light chain. Fasten the line to the chain, then hook a link over the anchor point. Adjust by simply moving the hook to another link.

Terrazo Floors Get Care With Special Wax

Terrazzo and marble, for all their apparent hardness, need care just as other types of flooring do.

Because marble is of limestone formation (terrazzo is marble chips in cement) it is dissolved by acids and absorbs alkaline cleaning solutions which crystallize and expand as they dry, breaking down the walls of the pores and creating rough dull spots. For this reason strong cleaners should never be used on such floors.

Varnish or lacquer cannot be used as sealers as they discolor the marble. Marble and terrazzo need sealing, however, to prevent stains and, in the case of terrazzo, prevent dusting or powdering of the cement through wear.

A new product is made especially for such floors. It is a mixture of waxes, resins and a slip-retardant ingredient in a solvent base. It acts as a sealer on new terrazzo floors and prevents dusting. It is water-resistant and protects the floor from water-borne stains.

Weatherstripping Built Into Doors

An important new development in home building today is a new door frame with built-in weather-stripping.

The new door frame, made of ponderosa pine, has weather-stripping of fabric-covered wood along both sides and the top. The strip is backed by a hidden metal tension spring that keeps it in constant weather-tight contact with the door, sealing out cold drafts in winter, heat in summer, and dust all year around.

The new weatherstripping presses against the interior face of the door at its edges, permitting the door to fit more closely into its frame and avoiding wide, unsightly cracks.

This new frame is available in units consisting of frame and weatherstripping alone or as a complete entrance with jamb, sill, weatherstripping on all four sides and door ready-hung with hardware. It can be installed in less than 15 minutes.

Stuck Window Can Be Freed

One minor repair job familiar to most homeowners is the periodic need to "free" a hard to open window without damage to the glass or frame.

Double-hung sash, widely used in homes today, usually begins to stick for two reasons, both having no connection with the quality of the window itself. Either the sash has absorbed moisture and expanded, or paint has been allowed to get between the sash and frame.

According to experts at Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company, rubbing the sash grooves with paraffin or beeswax will often eliminate the trouble.

In more severe cases, lasting results can be obtained by removing the strips which hold the edge of the window down until it moves freely in the frame. A coat of linseed oil will prevent any further absorption of moisture.

A sash stuck by paint can often be made to move by running a sharp knife around the seam where sash and frame meet. Then take a block of wood and gently tapping it with a hammer, move the block around the framework, including sill on both sides of the window.

To avoid damage to both the sash and sill, never try opening a problem window by prying it with a screwdriver or chisel. They will sometimes do the job but the results are evident in permanent unsightly scars.

FIBERGLAS SCREEN — Now you can convert your garage into a patio for indoor-outdoor living with a Fiberglas screen enclosure developed by the Norton Screen Company, Inc. of Chicago for use with overhead doors. Costing $60 the screen enclosure can be rolled up with the door when not in use.

Zip Up Garage, Convert to Patio

With today's emphasis on outdoor living and cooking, the family garage can be easily converted into a patio or indoor-outdoor family room with the use of a new concept of screen enclosure now being manufactured and distributed by Norton Screen Company, Inc., of Chicago, Illinois.

The enclosure, designed for garages with overhead-type door, sells for $60 for a standard two-car garage. The screening is easily fastened to the top of the door and to the door frames with extruded aluminum bars.

Double zippers on each side of the screening permit easy entrance to and exit from the garage. When the door is to be used the screen can be fastened to it with snappers. And when the door is raised the screen goes along and is up and out of the way.

The screening used in the Norton enclosures is made of vinyl coated fibrous glass yarns, a product of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation. The screening will not dent, rust, corrode, is fire-safe and never needs painting. Handling of the zip-in portion of the enclosure is facilitated as the screening is non-metallic.

Some of the advantages listed by the manufacturer are: expanded living area for eating or relaxing; an all-purpose extra room; benefits of outdoor living with indoor protection and privacy; healthy insect-free area for adults and children; saves wear and tear on home furnishings; lawn furniture serves double purpose . . . yard by day, screen-enclosed garage patio by night; protection from the elements and simple installation with sreening impervious to damage by mildew, water or leaning agents.

The sreen enclosure, simple to install and easily removed for storage, is manufactured in all garage door sizes.

It's Easy Matter Now to Clean Oak Floors

How do you clean your oak floors? If you use the soap and water scrubbing routine, it's time for a change.

That treatment is—or should be—a thing of the past, according to home maintenance specialists. They point out that it's not only hard work; it's unnecessary and it's bad for the floors.

Modern materials and methods for floor care make oak floor upkeep a simple matter. Furthermore, they're much kinder to the floors, keeping them clean and sparkling and extending the life of the finish over a long period

Repeated soap-and-water scrubbing, the experts explain, tends to raise the grain of the wood and roughen the surface. It also can mar the finish and shorten its span of serviceability.

The new easy way to clean oak floors is to use one of the modern liquid wax base preparations which clean and wax at the same time.

There are two basic types of such preparations, one having about three times as heavy wax content as the other. Functioning in the same way, they remove dirt, stubborn marks and old, soiled wax far more efficiently than soap and water. Additionally, they leave a protective coating of wax which can be polished to a pleasing luster.

Directions for using them may vary slightly among different manufacturers. The following procedure however, is typical:

Pour a little of the liquid on the floor, covering just a small area at a time. Spread it around thoroughly with a soft cloth or a long-handled applicator. Then soak up the loosened dirt and residue with a clean dry cloth. After wiping the floor dry, polish lightly.

Some authorities, such as the National Oak Flooring Manufacturers' Association, point out that when the cleaner with the light wax content is used, it is a good plan to follow up with a separate application of paste wax or liquid rubbing wax. This affords greater protection to the finish.

TWICE A YEAR

In the average home the cleaning-waxing treatment need be repeated only about two or three times a year. Heavily trafficked areas can be touched up more often if necessary.

Occasional polishing between treatments renews the sparkle. And a quick daily once-over with an untreated dust mop helps prevent dirt and dust from being ground into the finish.

Builders say that the ease and effectiveness of this upkeep routine account in part for the overwhelming popularity of oak floors today.

Paint manufacturers have developed new floor stains in 12 colors which can be applied to wood floors without hiding the natural beauty of the grain.

FOR PLEASURE AND CONVENIENCE ADD A ROOM

Divider Can Suit Children

When two children share a room, parents often rig a room divider, to give each child a corner of his own.

Such a practical, yet decorative item can be simple and inexpensive and which the whole family can join in making.

The La Page Home Crafts Council suggests that basically the divider consists of several wide planks, held together by a baseboard and secured to the ceiling. Between the planks arrange colorful cutouts, made of felt and glued to a stiff backing.

When there is only one window in a room, an open room divider is a must so that air and light can penetrate to the far half of the room. The planks should be set about a foot apart — four or five planks will be enough — and they should be painted to blend with the colors in the room.

If a boy and a girl share the room, the planks on the boy's side might be left in a natural wood tone and the planks on the girl's side might be painted in a soft pastel tone.

Most pattern companies have transfer patterns for entrancing cutouts, such as penguins, rabbits, poodles, whales, seals and other motifs. Use various colors of felt to make these cutouts.

Let the children do the tracing and cutting on a rainy afternoon, while Pop rigs up the boards. Glue sections of cutouts on a felt backing, using an all-purpose glue which dries clear.

After each little picture is completed, the felt should be glued to a backing of plywood or wallboard. These sections may then be tacked or glued to the boards.

The boy will probably appreciate selecting his cutouts of rockets, automobiles, planes and similar subjects.

Protects Paneling

A scrap of hardboard will protect paneling materials while you nail them in place. Drill a hole in the scrap bigger than the nail head; slip it over the nail while you drive it in. If you miss, you won't mar the paneling. Lift the shield out of the way when the nail is driven, then finish with a nailset.

Better Do Some Checking on Roof Gutters Now

Before the leaves swirl down under autumn's winds is the time to give your gutter system a good look-see.

Assuming, for a starter, that you have either no gutter system installed as yet, or that your present gutter system is a complete wreck, you could do worse than to investigate the possibilities of a brand-new gutter material. Fiberglas-reinforced plastic is used in its construction.

Once in, brother, it's in to stay. The material can't rot, dent, rust, corrode or split-freeze. If someone manages to crack or knock a hole in the stuff, one of the epoxy resin patching materials in the market will make a permanent repair.

It can be painted, but painting is not necessary for purposes of preservation.

Gutter sections have a molded-in flashing that nails directly to roof under shingle line, and helps prevent ice back-up and consequent water damage to walls. There's no danger of water seeping between gutter and flashing, because the two are incorporated in the one unit. Because flashing nails to roof, no hangers are needed.

Downspout sections snap into a base section, or channel, that nails directly to the siding. Sections can be snapped out for easy cleaning.

Ice load in winter is not apt to damage the gutter. Someone in a laboratory has gruesomely calculated that the gutter will support the weight of a 200-pound man standing in the trough. Such shenanigans aren't recommended for other than mountain goats, of course.

Downspout connections are bonded with a plastic substance and become an integral part of the gutter. Material can be sawed or cut with heavy shears and custom-made fitting to roof contour can be made on the spot.

Let's get back to gutter systems now in place.. If you live where leaves are a yearly problem and have no gutter guards installed, shame on you. They're not expensive, nor are they hard to place. If ladder work is not your strong point, you can have them installed for a not-too-steep sum by a roofer.

Painting gutters gives them years of added life. If finish has worn away to where the galvanized metal shows, use a zinc dust primer. It gives a good, hearty base for finish coat of paint. Discourages rust, too.

Check gutter hangers and renail, where necessary. Check, too, cement caps on drain tiles where downspouts empty and fill in the cracks. In a pinch, you can use calking compound if you don't want to whip up a batch of cement. That, of course, just postpones a more permanent repair.

If holes have rusted through gutters or downspouts, they can be tinned, of course, but a quicker and less technical repair can be made with one of the epoxy resin patching kits in the market.

Safe Spray Paint

Spray cans now hold paint that is free from lead pigments and safe for children's furniture and toys. The cans hold 16 ounces of interior or exterior paints in nine colors. They dry to the touch in minutes and to a hard finish overnight. (Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.)

Sawing Angles

Tigers Give Another One Away, 4-3

Narleski's Wild Pitch in Eighth Scores Clincher

Rally for Deadlock in Vain at Boston; Zernial Homers

BOSTON (AP)—The "on-and-off" Detroit Tigers and relief pitcher Ray Narleski had another off night last night and the Boston Red Sox defeated Jimmie Dykes' crew 4-3.

The loss continued a Tiger pattern of winning and losing without making any appreciable headway in the American League pennant race.

Narleski who relieved Tiger starter Jim Bunning, let go a wild pitch in the eighth inning allowing Gary Geiger to score the Red Sox' winning run.

Rookie Bill Monbouquette went the distance for Boston giving up eight hits. Boston collected five hits off Bunning and Narleski.

The Tigers had tied the game at 3-3 in the eighth inning on a sacrifice fly by Al Kaline.

Geiger was on third following a double steal when Narleski uncorked a throw which bounced in front of the plate and hopped over Catcher Red Wilson's head, rolling to the screen.

Boston scored three runs in the first inning off Bunning.

Pumpsie Green opened the inning with a single. Bunning walked Pete Runnels and gave up a double to Geiger scoring Green and Runnels. Geiger moved to third on Stephens' infield out and scored on a sacrifice fly by Jensen.

The Tigers scored in the first on singles by Harvey Kuenn, Kaline and Red Wilson.

Gus Zernial gave Detroit its second run in the fourth with a bases-empty home run and the Tigers collected their final run in the eighth on a walk to Yost, a single by Charlie Maxwell and Kaline's sacrifice fly.

Dykes nominated Frank Lary for today's second game of the series. Lary, seeking his 15th victory against seven defeats, will be opposed by Al Schroll, currently 1-2 for the season.

Stars Have Power at Fullback Spot

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Fullback will be one position the College All-Stars need not worry about when they face the Baltimore Colts in Soldier Field next Friday night.

The power position will be held down by Larry Hickman of Baylor and Nick Pietrosante of Notre Dame.

Assistant Coach Johnny Sauer is very high on Hickman. "Both in our own scrimmage and the one against the Chicago Bears, I saw Hickman disappear in the middle of the line and thought he was stopped," says Sauer. "Then all of a sudden there he was, away down the field."

White Sox, Indians Win

By The Associated Press

Herb Score must return to his 20-game winning form if the Cleveland Indians are to contend for the American League flag. Isn't that what they said last spring?

Well, here it is with more than two thirds of the season gone and Score still struggling to get half those 20 victories.

And the Indians? They're not doing too badly . . . only a game and a half out of the league lead.

As has been the case in recent weeks, Score failed again last night but the Indians won. They defeated the Baltimore Orioles 8-5 to stay close on the heels of the Chicago White Sox who whipped Washington's Senators 4-1.

The New York Yankees wrested fourth place from Kansas City by defeating the Athletics 3-0 and Boston nipped Detroit 4-3 to drop the Tigers into sixth place.

Score failed for the seventh straight time to notch his 10th triumph although his Indian mates staked him to an early 7-3 lead. After giving up three runs in the first inning, he was knocked out of the box in the fourth and the victory went to his successor, Al Cicotte.

The 26-year-old 20-game winner of 1956, who was limited to two victories in each of the last two seasons because of various injuries, has lost nine games, including his last four. Although he leads the league with 137 strikeouts, he has a high 4.29 earned run average.

A four-run third at the expense of starter Jerry Walker, in which Minnie Minoso, Tito Francona, Rocky Colavito, Jim Baxes, Score and Jimmy Piersall hit singles, turned the tide for Cleveland.

Billy Goodman supported Buck Shaw's eight hit pitching with three run producing singles in the White Sox' victory over Washington. Goodman also tallied the fourth run to participate in all of Chicago's scoring. Shaw, who lost his shutout in the eighth, won his 11th game in 14 decisions, his fifth in a row.

Whitey Ford, recovered from a sore elbow, pitched his first victory since July 19 although he needed help from Ryne Duren. The Yankee southpaw struck out 10 and allowed only five singles before giving way to Duren with two out and two on in the eighth. Duren halted the Athletics threat and fanned the side in the ninth to preserve Ford's 11th triumph against six defeats.

Bud Daley was the loser, giving up home run balls to Hank Bauer and Yogi Berra. The Yankee catcher needs only one more to enter the exclusive 300 homer club.

EASY STEAL — Frank Malzone has no trouble reaching 2nd base safely on a steal in the 6th inning of last night's 4-3 Detroit loss to Boston as catcher Red Wilson's throw took a wild bounce and sails way out of the reach of Frank Bolling and the cameraman.

Schweig Hits Ingemar's Argument

NEW YORK (AP)—Now heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson is catching the verbal punches.

Yesterday he was throwing them from his home in Goteborg, Sweden. He threatened, among other things, to pull out of his rematch title fight with Floyd Patterson, tentively set for Sept. 22.

He wanted, he scowled, a complete accounting of what happened to the money he earned when he won the crown from Patterson on June 26.

"I don't know what he's talking about," Patterson's attorney, Edwin Schweig, said today. "We seem to be dealing in a vacuum and the situation is getting silly.

"There is over $400,000 in a bank here, the receipts from the fight, and not one cent of it has been touched except for expenses. Johansson can come examine it any time he wants.

"His lawyer made two dates with me to come look the books over but broke them. All Ingemar has to do is name an escrow agent and he can look at the books. An accounting had to be made to the New York State Tax Commission and the New York State Athletic Commission, so how could there be any irregularities?"

Schweig said he had sent Johanson a cable expressing shock at some of the champ's threats.

Irving B. Kahn, president of the TelePrompTer Corp., which handled all the radio, television and motion picture rights, also said he was mystified at Johansson's demands. He, too, pointed out that Ingemar could have an accounting for the asking.

He also took a potshot at Bill Rosensohn, who promoted the Johannson-Patterson fight and who since has been deposed, Kahn thinks Ingemar's confusion stems from the fact that his contract with Rosensohn gives him 20 per cent of the promoter's share of the television receipts.

"But," said Kahn, "Rosensohn failed to inform Johansson that the promoter, in fact, would not share the television receipts."

Rosensohn, vacationing in Cannes, France, also had a few words of advice for all concerned.

"Basically," said Rosensohn, "Ingemar wants to fight. But all this difficulty over the purse is making him mad. People should stop threatening him and try to fix up the rematch."

The last remark was in reference to a statement by Vincent Velella that he would sue Johansson if the champ refuses to go through with the Sept. 22 bout. Velella, a New York lawyer, now controls Rosensohn Enterprises, which holds the contract for the return.

Confusion in Men's Pan-Am Tests

Blondes in Spotlight

EAST LANSING (AP)—A pair of pert blondes took the women's honors while confusion ruled in the one men's finals in the opener of the four-day Pan American swimming trials here yesterday.

Chris Von Saltza of Santa Clara, Calif., bettered her own American record of 1:05.0 in winning the women's 110-yard free style. She had times of 1:03.4 in the preliminaries and 1:04.6 in the finals.

Barbara Dudeck, a pony-tailed recent bride representing the Detroit Athletic Club, won the women's three meters springboard diving with 354.8 points. Paula Jean Meyers Pope of Los Angeles, who was ahead on points at the time, got a bad takeoff and plopped on the water in her last dive to place second with 348.50.

Navy's Jeff Farrell, former Oklahoma University swimmer from Wichita, Kan., won the disputed men's 110-yard free style. The first four swimmers were clocked by judges in an identical :57.3. When judges couldn't agree, their decisions were thrown out and places were decided by a timing machine.

Elton Follette, New Haven Swim Club, was ranked second; Bill Woolsey, Army, third and Ron Kauffman, Flourtown, Pa., fourth.

Eugene Lenz, Santa Marie, Calif., did 4:33.5 in qualifying for the men's 440-yard free style. This bettered the American record of 4:39.6 by John Marshall, New Haven Swim Club, in 1958. Seven other swimmers in the same event also turned in faster times than the existing American record.

Finals in five events were scheduled for today's competition to make the American team to compete in the games at Chicago Aug. 27-Sept. 7.

Events to be completed before athletes take a Sunday holiday included men's springboard diving, women's 220-yard freestyle and 110-yard butterfly, and men's 110-yard backstroke and 440-yard free style.

Antonelli's 16th Victory Adds to 'Frisco Lead

By The Associated Press

San Francisco fans have waited nearly two years but they're finally seeing the real Johnny Antonelli, the one who pitched the Giants to their last pennant—in New York.

Now 29 years old, the former bonus baby is en route to matching and perhaps topping his best year. Antonelli was the best southpaw in baseball when he won 21, lost only seven and posted a league leading 2.29 earned run average for the pennant - winning Giants in 1954.

Last night Johnny pitched the Giants to a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds that increased San Francisco's first - place lead over the idle Los Angeles Dodgers to a game and a half. The Rochester, N.Y. native doled out four hits and went the route for the 14th time, the sixth in his last seven starts.

The victory was Antonelli's 16th, which makes him the top winning pitcher in the major leagues. Lew Burdette, Warren Spahn and Sam Jones, his closest pursuers, all have 15. Anty has lost only six.

Chicago's Cubs snapped a fourth-place tie with Pittsburgh, shutting out the Pirates 4-0 and the St. Louis Cardinals moved into sixth place, one percentage point above Cincinnati, defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 3-1. Milwaukee joined Los Angeles on the sidelines.

The Giants blew an early 2-0 lead and had to stage a ninth inning rally to win. The winning run was knocked in by Willie Mays, who collected three of the Giants' seven hits off lefty Jim O'Toole and Brooks Lawrence. Mays also came up with the fielding gem of the game, robbing Johnny Temple of an extra base hit in the fourth with a leaping catch. Willie crashed into the barrier and was shaken up, but he held the ball.

With the score tied 2-2 in the ninth, Lawrence, who had replaced O'Toole, hit pinch hitter Leon Wagner. Then Lawrence threw Antonelli's bunt wildly, attempting a force play at second, and pinch runner Felipe Alou raced to third. Jimmy Davenport struck out, but Mays singled sharply off Lawrence's chest to score Alou with the winning run.

A two-base error by shortstop Eddie Bressoud and Gus Bell's two-out single enabled the Reds to tie in the eighth.

With a crowd of 22,794 watching, rookie sensation Willie McCovey went hitless for the first time in his eight major league games, but he drew a pair of walks from O'Toole. Bressoud drove in the first Giant run with a double in the second. Another run came in on Bob Schmidt's infield out.

Stan Musial crashed a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth to snap a 1-1 tie for the Cardinals' victory over the Phillies. Lindy McDaniel, who replaced starter Wilmer Mizell in the ninth, was credited with the victory. Homers by the Cards' Ken Boyer (No. 20) and the Phillies Wally Post (No. 13) accounted for the earlier runs.

Pittsburgh, which amassed 23 hits against St. Louis Thursday night, scoring 10 runs in the ninth, was shut out by Moe Drabowsky who handcuffed the Pirates with five hits.

The Cubs also got five off loser Ronnie Kline but two of them were home runs. They were hit by Ernie Banks and Art Schult. It was homer No. 31 for Banks, giving him the league lead. It was homer No. 1 for Schult.

Finsterwald's Golf Tip:

Progress to Long Clubs

By DOW FINSTERWALD
PGA Champion

I start warming up with a short iron such as the No. 8.

The swing is short and body motion is minimized. As you progress to the longer clubs such as the driver, the backswing and follow through become more extended with a resulting increase in body activity.

Four clubs are adequate in the practice area. The No. 8, 5 and 3 irons and the driver are a satisfactory assortment. If you use the fairway wood with more than average frequency, you may derive better results by using the No. 7 and 4 irons and the No. 4 wood and driver.

Fifteen minutes is the minimum for an effective session. To finish pre-game preparation stop at the putting green and stroke balls for a couple of minutes.

Almost every professional on the tour has some device which he believes aids him in scoring more consistently. In my case it's a specially-weighed cover or warm-up mitt, as it's commonly known. When weather conditions or lack of time prevent practicing, I find a place indoors where I swing a wood with this weighted cover on it.

Let me caution you not to confuse the warmup with a corrective or experimental session intended to iron out difficulties.

If you hook or slice practice shots, do not try then and there to make a change in your game.

Ten Sophomore Lions in Action Today vs Rams

All Will Start as Exhibition Season Opens

Gordy, Glass Could Hold Key to Detroit Comeback Hopes

BOULDER, Colo. — Ten sophomores figured on for key roles in the Detroit Lions' 1959 rebuilding plan will get thorough tests as the Detroit club opens its exhibition season today against the Los Angeles Rams.

Detroit coach George Wilson, trying to get his football machine revved up once more after a faltering campaign that produced only four victories a season ago, figures most of the sophomores for first-string roles.

Included in the group are six offensive performers and four defensive specialists.

Wilson will have all of them in action today as the Lions meet the Rams at Boulder (kickoff time 4:30 p.m., EST).

Wilson believes his sophomore crop matches any other group in the National Football League. He is especially high on offensive tackle John Gordy and defensive tackle Bill Glass.

Gordy returned to the pro ranks this year after sitting out one season while assisting in the coaching at the University of Nebraska. Gordy was ready to give up pro football but decided to give it another try.

Wilson helped Gordy change his mind, and now the coach feels Gordy has been one of the most outstanding players in training camp.

"He's almost 20 pounds heavier

WAYNE WALKER

(now 255) than when he played with us in 1957 and he handles the weight well," said Wilson.

The Lions are depending upon Gordy to handle the tackle spot left vacant by the retirement of veteran Lou Creekmur.

Glass, the divinity student from Baylor, was switched to defensive tackle from offensive center and Wilson believes he will be one of the league's best at his new position.

That gives the Lions two youngsters at the tackle spot, with Glass pairing with sometimes-wrestler Alex Karras, a hulking giant from Iowa.

Other sophomores counted on heavily in the Detroit team's rebuilding are offensive backs Ken Webb and Dan Lewis, ends Steve Junker, Jim Gibbons and Tom Rychlec, linebacker Wayne Walker, defensive back Dave Whitsell and Karras.

Junker apparently has fully recovered from a knee operation and Gibbons was one of the team's strongest performers last year after he was obtained from the Cleveland Browns.

The Lions hope Lewis has overcome his bad case of first-year fumbleitis. The former Wisconsin sprinter was used sparingly in his rookie year, but averaged 5.2 yards in 25 rushes.

Late arrivals Tom Catlin, a linebacker, and tackle Frank Fuller of the Chicago Cards are expected to be ready for next week's exhibition against Detroit at Norman, Okla. Rick Casares of the Bears was running at top speed yesterday following a toe injury.

Former Michigan Staters Clarence Peaks and Walt Kowalczyk showed good running power along with Billy Barnes in another Philadelphia scrimmage. Rookie end Jerry Richardson starred again yesterday in a Baltimore drill.

Pete Cooper Continues to Top Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND (AP) — Golfdom's gay young blades have been giving old man par a beating in the first two rounds of the $25,000 Cleveland Open, but they haven't been able to do much with old man Cooper.

The latter is Pete Cooper, 44-year-old recent operator of a pitch-and-putt course in Lakeland, Fla. With the four - day, 72-hole medal play going into the second half today, Cooper still was keeping out in front.

In the first round, Cooper fired a 67, four under par for the 6,966-yard, par-71 Seneca course. That tied him with veteran Jim Ferrier of Burbank, Calif., another 44-year-old, a stroke ahead of a field of 152.

Yesterday, in the second round, there were some amazing deeds among the younger set. Paul Harney, 30, the 1957 winner from Worcester, Mass. carved out an eight-birdie 63. Gene Littler, 29, of Singing Hills, Calif., had an eight-birdie 64. Big Mike Souchak came in with 65, and Doug Sanders and Jay Hebert had 66.

Altogether there were 27 subpar rounds fired, but when the smoke cleared, "Old Pete" was still out in front by a stroke. Harney, Littler and Souchak were deadlocked for second with 135, seven under par.

Cooper, his putter still red hot, merely duplicated his opening 67 and was all alone at 134. Ferrier slipped to 71 for 138, two back of 26-year-old Sanders and tied with Bob Goalby, 28, of Crystal River, Fla., and Bert Weaver, 27, of Beaumont, Tex.

Thus it was Cooper and his experience against a brigade of youthful challengers as they went into today's third round. The field was down to 71 professionals and 10 amateurs—the play - for - pay group who scored 149 or over being eliminated.

Most of the good ones were still in, but the cut-off line casualties included such stalwarts as Dave Ragan, Bruce Crampton, Hillman Robbins, Marty Furgol, Lionel Hebert, Bob Toski, Jim Turnesa, and Al Besselink.

The leaders:

Pete Cooper	67-67—134
Paul Harney	72-63—135
Gene Littler	71-64—135
Mike Souchak	70-65—135
Doug Sanders	70-66—136

County Tennis Tourney Slated

Rec Department Sets Next Weekend Dates for Open Meet

An Oakland County open tennis tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday August 15-16 at the Pontiac Central courts under the sponsorship of the Pontiac recreation department.

Events will take place in men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles.

A trophy fee of $1.00 per person per event is cost of entry.

Registrations should be made with the recreation department by calling FE 3-7131. Deadline is Wednesday, August 12.

In addition, a novice tournament for those taking part in the tennis clinic which is now going on, will be held Thursday and Friday next week.

The novice players can enter by registering at the courts or at the recreation department. There is no charge for the novice tourney.

Waterford Playoffs to Begin Monday

A Monday night doubleheader will open two weeks of playoff action for Waterford Township softballers.

The Arrows and Dobski's Bar of the National League will meet at 7 while champion Nonne's and Spencer Floor Covering of the AL tangle at 8:30.

National winner Lakeland Pharmacy will meet the Monday victor for the title of what is being called the Gold Medal division Tuesday at 8:30 following a Sno-Bol vs. Drayton Drug American game.

The American and Gold Medal champs will represent Waterford in district tournaments starting Aug. 17.

Pan-Am Water Polo

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Athletic Club's "A" team, national indoor champions, defeated San Francisco's Olympic Club, national outdoor champs, 7-4 in the feature match of Friday's opening of the Pan-American Games water polo trials.

Rest Ordered for Maria Bueno

Tennis Star Collapses

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Maria Bueno of Brazil, the Wimbledon tennis queen, today was under orders to rest "a few days" after collapsing of physical exhaustion in the Eastern Grass Court Championship.

"My next tournament is the U.S. doubles, which starts a week from Monday in Boston," said Miss Bueno suffered an attack of physical exhaustion after losing the first set, 6-4, to Belmar Gunderson, Chambersburg, Pa., yesterday in a quarter-final. Later she was pronounced "all right" but ordered to rest.

Miss Bueno's illness overshadowed the men's tournament, sparked by U.S. Davis Cuppers Alex Olmedo and Earl Buchholz, and a pair of upset specialists, 18-year-old Chuck McKinley of St. Louis and Mike Green of Miami.

Detroit Crews Share Role of Favorites

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit and Philadelphia crews share the favorite's role in today's first events of the U. S. National Rowing Championships and Pan-American games trials on the Detroit River

The three-time defending champions from the Detroit Boat Club take on crews from the Philadelphia Vesters, Buffalo West Sides and Lake Washington Rowing club of Seattle in the two-day trials.

The Detroit entry captured its third straight title last year at Philadelphia. Should Seattle win the Barnes Trophy, it would be the first time the title has gone West of Detroit since the meet started in 1916.

Crews will compete over a 2,000-meter course. Muggy weather was forecast for the two-day competition.

Pontiac Speedboaters Do Some 'Exploring'

Two Pontiac speedboat enthusiasts left today, trailering their new 17-foot Chris-Craft, for a week to 10 days "exploring" trip to Indian River, Bois Blanc Island, and at Burt and Mullet lakes. They will do some water-skiing and fishing, too, in the crowded program. This will be the 3rd trip for Carl Widdis, 210 Pioneer Dr., and Ray Meier, Judson St.

The pair's boat is powered by a 130 h.p., 4-cylinder inboard motor.

3 Coast Boats Get New Tests for Gold Cup

SEATTLE (AP)— Three Washington state boats were given another chance today to qualify for the Gold Cup race for unlimited hydroplanes, to be held on Seattle's Lake Washington Sunday.

Thirteen speedboats had qualified when the scheduled time ran out yesterday. Still on the beach were the Miss Seattle, Coral Reef of Tacoma and Miss Tri-Cities of Pasco. An extension was granted.

To qualify for the 90-mile classic, boats must circle a 3-mile course three times at an average speed of 95 miles per hour or better.

638 Entries Set New PKC Mark

Cockers Lead Breeds, Sporting Dogs Is Top Group for Aug. 16

When entries closed yesterday, for the Aug. 16 Pontiac Kennel Club's fall all-breed dog show, a new high mark had been set for PKC shows. There were 638 entries for a total of 627 individual dogs, comprising 64 breeds.

Biggest single breed entry was for cockers, with 55, followed by boxers, with 48. Great Danes had 43, for the 3rd largest breed entry. The sporting dog group led the six divisions with 180.

Outside the regular judging, the top feature of the show, set for the 2nd year at Waterford Township High's athletic field on M59, is competition for the best-in-show trophy, an annual award made by The Pontiac Press.

Junior Leader Lugs Own Bag

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Larry Lee is the only kid who packs his own bag in the National Junior Golf Tournament but it doesn't seem to hurt his scoring.

The blond, 17-year-old Spokane, Wash., par buster threw a 2-under-par 69 at 14-year-old Mike Riley of San Diego in the quarter-finals yesterday and set himself up today as the favorite in this battle for the teenagers' national championship.

It was a good thing the lean, bespectacled Lee was two under, for Riley finished with a 1-under-par 70.

In taking the match 2-up, Lee pulled a fantastic 5 iron shot over two towering oak trees on the 18th, stiff to the pin. He ran the 3-footer down for a bird.

Ortega Beats Paret on a Split Decision

NEW YORK (AP)—Gaspar Ortega, the long and lanky Indian from Mexicali, Mexico, had a decision over Benny (Kid) Paret on his record today, but he probably wasn't too proud of it.

The fifth-ranking welterweight contender got the votes of Judges Mike Parisi and Tommy Dolan in the 10-round main event at Madison Square Garden last night, but Referee Teddy Martin gave his nod to the unranked Paret, a stocky, muscular battler from Santa Clara, Cuba.

"They stole it from him (Paret)," wailed Paret's manager, Manuel Alfaro. "The commission should revise the decision. I'll protest the decision to the commission Monday even if it costs me my license."

But Moscow Is No Paris

Russia Opening Up to U.S. Tourists

(Editor's Note—U.S. tourism in the Soviet Union is growing by leaps and bounds. Here, from a newsman who has traveled extensively in Russia, are some helpful hints for the tourist, and a line on what to expect.)

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—Some 15,000 Americans are expected to take the big plunge in 1959 and visit the Soviet Union—something which would have struck most of them as a frightening prospect a few years ago.

How should the tourist act in the Soviet Union?

First of all, don't be nervous. Just take things in your stride and your tour won't be half bad. It can be informative. And it's likely to be a bit frustrating, too.

It needn't be very expensive, although you can spend a lot of money here as you can anywhere else. But you won't find a lot of knickknacks to buy, which saves you money.

Intourist, th big Russian travel of an agency working with Intourist on shepherding tourists around the country, has done much to ease travel here. Much remains to be done.

Once you get your visa you can fly in, come in by ship, car or bus. If you come under guidance of an agency working with Intourist, you will be picked up at the airport or railway station and hauled to your hotel. Don't bother to fight for a room in any particular hotel. Take what comes. The difference isn't worth the scuffle. None of them will be quite like home.

Your guides will pass you the formal line of peace, progress, friendship. Mostly they won't discuss politics with you except to tell you in Russia there is freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and times are much better than they were. The last certainly is true.

EAGER TO TALK

Your big frustration will come when you try to talk to Russians about the other things. In Moscow they tend to be a bit standoffish. Elsewhere they will be eager to talk to you. But they probably won't understand your language.

Intourist will provide a guide, but usually he is interested in getting you around to the scheduled things to see, such as art galleries, new blocks of apartments, a tractor factory and the local statue of Lenin.

There's a growing scarcity of hotels, despite a building program. In addition to the 15,000 Americans expected this year, there'll be about 5,000 Englishmen and numbers of Frenchmen, East and West Germans, and others. Intourist figures some 70,000 tourists will visit the Soviet capital.

You can't walk in just any place and get a good meal, as for example in Paris. There aren't one tenth as many restaurants in Moscow as in Paris. The good food here is Russian, of course, and you won't mind it. Fairly hearty. If all else fails, ask for ham and eggs.

Tourists receive terrific priorities in sightseeing. That goes for all sorts of visiting groups, from doctors to farmers. Your guide will take you to the head of the inevitable queue; Russians also are tourists and there are many of them.

But a mere mention of the word "delegation" gets you ahead—whether you want to see the bodies of Lenin and Stalin or the set of china Napoleon sent to the Czar just before he attacked.

Silver Dollars Clinking at Tahquamenon Falls

HULBERT (AP)—Business on Ken Slater's excursion boats is so good he uses a wheelbarrow to carry his money around.

Slater's two converted LST's ply on the Tahquamenon river taking tourists to see the famed Tahquamenon Falls.

Early this summer he started to make change using silver dollars. His purpose was a two-fold in that he hoped it might be a way of tracing where and how much money tourists spend in this area.

His other purpose was to make it less bothersome and to elimate mistakes resulting from handling paper money.

To start the venture Slater gathered all of the silver dollars he could get from banks in Sault Ste. Marie and Newberry.

Tourists started to swap and exchange paper money for other silver money with the idea of taking it home for keepsakes of their trip. Families try to get dollars matching the number of their wedding anniversaries and birthdays or exchange just to take home a token of their trip.

On arrival of a shipment of silver dollars from the Federal Reserve Bank, Slater got to wondering just how big a pile they would make. The shipment included twenty thousand dollars and filled a wheelbarrow to near overflowing. Then he wheeled it away as a publicity gag.

Leaflets Mailed in Germany

Americans Being Sent Pro-Red Scare Letters, Warn of Destruction

HEIDELBERG, Germany (UPI)—American families in Germany are being bombarded with pro-Russian scare propaganda, the U.S. Army has announced.

Leaflets mailed to Americans whose names apparently are chosen from the telephone book warn of Russia's "weapons of great destruction" and say that war with the Reds "can only result in mutual destruction."

Before the mailing campaign began, the leaflets were scattered around U.S. bases or slipped under the windshield wipers of parked American cars. In all, about 20,000 leaflets have been distributed.

The U.S. Army is not greatly concerned about the campaign, which has been dismissed by German police as "completely amateurish."

"Most of the propaganda is such crude stuff that our people would have to be morons to believe in it," said a spokesman at America's European headquarters.

"In any case, we are working with the German police on tracking it down. We hope to nail the culprits very soon."

The spokesman said American and German investigators are trying to establish a mailing pattern for the leaflets as a means of tracking down their source.

Farmers Decreasing

The number of farmers in the U.S. has dropped from 6,500,000 in the late 1930s to about 4,700,000 today.

Flynn to Film 'Wicked Ways'

His Autobiography Will Be Out in Fall; Picture to Be Made in Europe

NEW YORK (UPI)—Actor Errol Flynn said today he planned to make a movie of his autobiography, "My Wicked, Wicked Ways," scheduled to be published this fall.

The motion picture would be made in Europe, he said, and would include a part for his "good friend," Beverly Adland, who had a role in "The Cuban Rebel Girls," which Flynn produced in Cuba.

The actor and the starlet have been a twosome ever since they returned from Cuba. But they denied having any plans to wed.

"Beverly has some very unique ideas about marriage," Flynn said. "That's why I haven't discussed it with her."

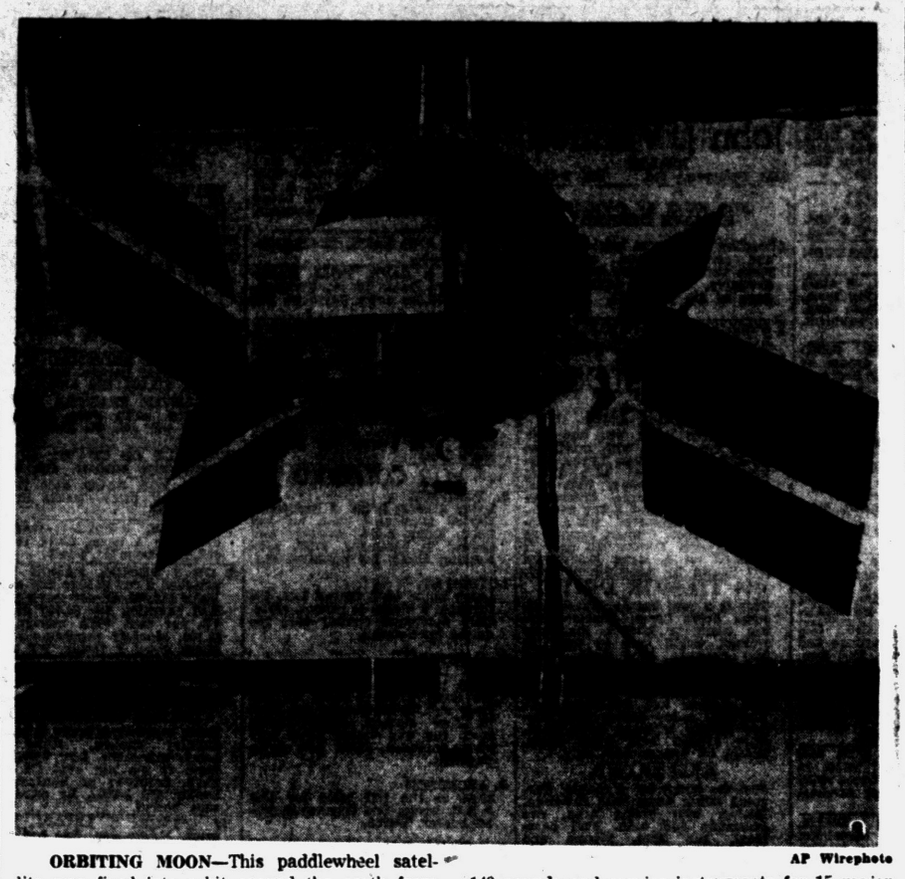

"He means that I think anybody who gets married is a complete idiot," Miss Adland said. "He's a wonderful actor and a wonderful man and always has treated me like a lady."

Flynn said he did not think it logical to discuss marriage "since I'm already married." However, he said he was trying to work out a divorce agreement with his estranged wife, Patrice Wymore.

Flynn said he considered Miss Adland "quite attractive."

"It's amazing," the 50-year-old actor said. "Sometimes she looks as though she's 12 years old, and sometimes she can look 35."

Miss Adland said she was "over 21."

Smart Satellite Collecting Vital Space Information

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Paddle-wheeled Explored VI, the most advanced American satellite, orbited in a wide sweep around the earth today and collected scientific data that may ease man's way into space.

The spheroid, sporting four paddle vanes trying to catch energy from the sun, was launched Friday at the missile test center here. A Thor-Able rocket, 90 feet long and in three stages, sent it aloft.

Soaring 25,950 miles from earth at its highest point and coming 152 miles above earth at its lowest, the satellite had the longest orbit of the six artificial moons now in space. It also takes six times as long as any other satellite to make a trip around the earth—12½ hours.

Packed in the 142-pound satellite was the most comprehensive scientific package ever orbited by the United States, enough instruments to perform 15 experiments.

INSTRUMENTS WORK

The National Astronautics and Space Administration in Washington, getting reports on signals transmitted by the satellite on 108.06 and 108.09 megacycles and on an undisclosed high frequency, reported that every instrument tested was working perfectly.

Most of the experiments are designed to provide vital information for sending a man into space. In summary, the instruments would:

1. Measure the intensity and length of the deadly radiation in the Van Allen belts that hover around the earth.

2. Demonstrate whether the four paddle vanes can convert enough of the sun's rays into electrical energy so that a future space ship could send radio messages from 20 to 50 million miles in space.

3. Scan the earth's cloud cover and transmit radio signals that might be converted into pictures that could help weather forecasting.

4. Measure the density of micrometeorites or cosmic dust to see how a space ship would hold up under their bombardment.

5. Chart the earth's magnetic field.

6. Study the behavior or radio waves to learn more about communications far out in space.

Scientists expect Explorer VI to orbit for more than a year. Four of the other present artificial moons are American. The sixth is Russia's Sputnik III.

Moscow radio told the Soviet people Friday night about the successful launching by carrying an official announcement from Washington without comment.

DETROIT (UPI) — The annual race between Ford and Chevrolet for first place in new car sales headed toward the wire today in a photo-finish.

Unofficial figures indicated that Ford was leading in total 1959 cars sold, but that Chevrolet was ahead in the number of '59 cars sold since Jan. 1.

The difference is that Ford scored a big jump in the race during the last three months of 1958 following introduction of its 1959 models and had a big assist from the United Auto Workers.

Last year all the auto companies signed new contracts with the UAW following long-drawn-out negotiations. Ford settled first and was the first to get back into production. General Motors was tied up by negotiations over local plant issues for weeks after Ford was in full production.

For the full model year to date, the unofficial figures showed Ford had sold some 1,144,000 cars to 1,120,000 for Chevrolet.

Since Jan. 1, Chevrolet has sold about 920,000 to 891,000 for Ford.

Chevholet had been consistently out-selling Ford each month from January through June, Ford sold approximately 125,000 cars compared with 110,000 Chevrolet sales.

Although many plants throughout the nation have shut down for changeovers to 1960 models, both Chevrolet and Ford are still producing 1959 models. Chevrolet has shut down operations of its truck assemblies, but not its passenger car assemblies.

Probably George or Elizabeth

What Will Name Be?

LONDON (AP) — If it's a boy it will probably be George. If it's a girl it is likely to be Elizabeth.

A check of the royal family tree shows those are the names most favored for British monarchs' babies since the turn of the century.

At least six royal children since 1900 have had George among the usual royal string of christian names, including the Queen's father and her son, Prince Charles.

The Prince's full name is Charles Philip Arthur George.

At least four girls have been named Elizabeth, including the Queen and her mother.

Second to George as the most popular boys' name is Edward, (4), and Albert,(3). For the girls, Alice, Victoria, and Louise share second place with three each.

It would cause no great surprise if the Queen and Prince Philip veered slightly from tradition as they did when naming Charles and Anne. Both names had been rarely used for royal children in recent years.

Two other names now being mentioned in London are Andrew — after Prince Philip's father — and Marguerite —Queen Mother Elizabeth's second name.

City Man Faces Beating Hearing in Grand Rapids

A Pontiac man who admitted he beat his wife's former husband in a Grand Rapids hotel room Aug. 4 faces examination in Grand Rapids Municipal Court Wednesday.

Herbert O. Wilson, 30, of 607 Granada St., demanded examination at his arraignment before Judge Edward Burleston. He is charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

Wilson is being held at Grand Rapids City Jail. He was unable to furnish $10,000 bond set by Judge Burleston.

Wilson's victim, Jack Levandoski, 35, of Grand Rapids, was reported in poor condition this morning at St. Mary's Hospital, Grand Rapids. He was beaten on the head with a table lamp.

Police in Grand Rapids said they found a note on Wilson which read:

"I plan to kill Levandoski. There must be some good I can do in this world."

Wilson admitted beating Levandoski in a signed confession at the Kent County prosecutor's office.

He was arrested early Aug. 5 by Pontiac State Police troopers.

Judge Dumps Bid for Florida Mixing

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Florida's pupil assignment law cleared its second major legal hurdle Friday when a federal judge dismissed a public school integration suit brought by a group of Tampa Negroes.

The action by District Judge George W. Whitehurst virtually eliminates any chance of Negro pupils entering all-white schools this fall.

Whitehurst, a 68-year-old jurist born at Wauchula, Fla., upheld the defense contention that the Negroes should have taken their problems to the county school board before filing the suit.

'Stock Scandal' Tied to Business Leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department asserted today that "droves of corporation executives" have become millionaires through what it termed "the stock option device."

This is a practice condoned by the tax laws under which corporation officers or others can take options on stock at a specified figure even though the stock may multiply swiftly in value.

The AFL-CIO agency said it had sent a study titled "The Stock Option Scandal" to all affiliated unions, presumably for use in collective bargaining negotiations.

It said the study examined in detail stock option plans of Goodrich Rubber Co., Aluminum Corp. of America, Ford Motors, U. S. Steel Corp., General Electric and General Foods.

It said that while all plans differ in detail, "all in common have been used by corporation executives to amass huge fortunes without risk."

CITES 1950 LAW

It cited a 1950 tax law which freed stock option gains from taxation as ordinary income and declared them capital gains. "In December, that year," it added, "Goodyear Rubber wasted no time in taking advantage . . . 38 officers and other key employes were granted options for 38,000 shares.

"As a result of stock dividends and stock splits, each share purchased has been transformed into four more shares.

"Currently the value of all shares purchased ($42,100,000) is 963 per cent greater than the price that was actually paid for them ($3,096,000)."

Going farther, the department said Goodyear executives still are able to exercise options on stock selling at about $140 a share for as little as $50.88.

It said Goodyear President E. J. Thomas received an option for 9,000 shares at $59 in 1950, exercised his option in 1952-55 at a cost of $531,048 and the stock today is worth $5,800,000. It said it had increased to 41,317 shares in number.

The department said the study showed that while many of the stock market reforms of the 30s "still stand as protective ramparts, careless administration and lack of legislative vigilance have permitted some serious erosions."

'STOCK MARKET ABUSE'

As a result, it continued, "practices such as stock options have created a new crop of millionaires whose activities have left a trail marked by special privileges, hypocrisy, tax avoidance, inflationary pressures, and stock market abuse."

It suggested restoration of the tax provision in effect before 1950 and claimed it would raise 100 million dollars in additional revenue.

Other stock option cases cited by the department on the basis of the study:

"I. W. Wilson of Alcoa exercised his option for most of 10,000 shares at a cost of $697,201 in 1953-54. Today the stock has a market price in excess of three million dollars."

"Ernest Breech of Ford Motors excercised a stock option on shares costing him $1,900,000, and saw the value grow to $6,300,000 by last May. Thus Breech had an average gain (after taxes) of more than a half million dollars for each year since the grant."

Others named as gaining big profits were "Messrs. Bugas, Davis, Duffy and Yntema of Ford; Ralph Cordiner of General Electric; and G. G. Mortimer of General Foods."

"U.S. Steel's Roger Blough," the statement added, "is another who turned the trick and became a millionaire via the stock option route."

GIANT RISE

It said in this connection that after steel wage contract talks began May 5, U. S. Steel stock rose 4⅝ points and "as a result, potential profits for a few hundred (option) shares rose from $126,169,000 on May 8 to $135,596,138 on May 19."

In conclusion the AFL-CIO agency said "the manner in which stock option plans are born and administered raised a serious question of ethics!"

Small Autos Could Be Costly to State Income

LANSING (UPI) — Small cars planned for production by the big three could put "a big crimp" in the state's weight tax income, secretary of state James M. Hare said Friday.

Hare said experimental four-door Corvairs registered with the state weigh 2,394 and 2,442 pounds, which brings a tax of $8.40 compared with the $13.30 tax on a 3,780-pound Chevrolet sedan.

The state could lose millions of dollars on the compact cars "as long as they last," Hare said.

Card of Thanks 1

THE FAMILY OF BEATRICE Healy wishes to than many friends, neighbors, and relatives for their sincere kindness, cards of sympathy, and floral offerings, during the recent bereavement of our mother and grandmother. A very special thanks to Rev. Horace Thurston, The DeWitt Davis Funeral Home, and palbearers. Our expression of sincere gratitude can never be fully expressed in words.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR baby daughter and sister Cathy Lynn Walker who passed away August 8, 1958.
There's a new star shining in heaven
One so precious and bright.
God needed our darling Cathy,
To make us a guiding light.
Cathy darling how we miss you,
Our hearts are filled with pain,
Our arms ache for to hold you,
And kiss you just once again
Although you've one so far away,
You're still within our hearts.
Some day we'll be together again,
Never more to part.
Sadly missed by mommy, daddy, brothers, sisters and relatives.

Long Refusing to Pay for Plane

Air Force Sends Bill of $4,251 for Trip to Mental Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has given Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana 30 days to pay a $4,251 bill for unauthorized use of National Guard planes.

But the governor apparently is in no hurry to pay the bill which may cover the flight on which Mrs. Long and others took him to a mental clinic in Texas.

He told newsmen Friday that he would leave a down payment on the bill "in my will."

"I will look it over and give it careful consideration," Long said in New Orleans.

"All I can keep from paying, I will.

"I want to see some congressmen and other people billed. When they pay, I pay. I don't believe I'll have to pay all that."

The Air Force sent the bill to Long as the governor and therefore the head of the National Guard in Louisiana. It did not say that he had ordered the flights.

The planes were used for 45 hours and 45 minutes sometime in April, May, June and July, the Air Force said, without being more specific. Long was taken to the clinic in Galveston on June 30. Those on the flight included Maj. Gen. Raymond Hufft, adjutant general of the Louisiana National Guard.

An Air Force spokesman said the misuse of the planes mostly involved unauthorized passengers. Regulations prohibit the use of National Guard planes except on Guard business or in the interest of national security.

Dangerous Out There

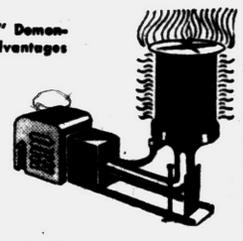

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—Francis Peno, 35, said at times he prefers jail to public life. The newly-made "trusty" was sent on an errand and struck by a car while crossing the street. He suffered minor injuries.

WOULD YOU TRUST YOUR HEALTH TO A "QUACK"?

Of Course Not!

DOES YOUR MONEY COME EASY ENOUGH TO . . .

trust your TV tubes to a "do-it-yourself" tube tester, which in many cases is not capable of properly checking many of the multi-element tubes that are found in most TV sets. Remember, there is absolutely no regulation that requires the owner of these "tube testers" to keep them in good working order. There is no standard it must meet . . . in reality these "tube testers" are a joke compared to the testers independent television servicemen use.

It is our belief that "do-it-yourself" tube checkers MAY be designed to sell tubes. We know of no establishment repairing TV sets that uses one of these "do-it-yourself" tube testers.

Try this simple comparison and find out for yourself . . . bring any tube that has tested "bad" on a "do-it-yourself" tube tester to your nearest local TV repair shop and make sure. There is no charge, of course.
