Midwest Flattened by Storm

By The Associated Press

Thousands of Midwesterners were stranded. Schools closed. Glazed highways turned into parking lots. Several persons died shoveling snow.

That was the bleak picture today as snow and ice storms thundered out of the Great Plains, across the Midwest and into the Ohio Valley.

The snowstorm to the north hit Chicago with a knockout punch, blanketed southern lower Michigan and northern Indiana and thrust eastward.

The ice storm followed a parallel course to the south turned roads into sheets of glass, and left town after town without electricity or telephones.

FOOT OF SNOW

The storms dumped a foot of snow across northern Missouri and Kansas.

As they came charging across Illinois they clogged everything north of Peoria and Springfield with snow and bombarded areas to the south with ice.

At midnight, 16.4 inches of snow had fallen on Chicago. The 24-hour record, set Jan. 30, 1939, had been 14.9 inches.

Snow was still falling today, and 63-mile-per-hour lakefront winds whipped up a stinging mist of snow.

Two hundred students were stranded overnight at the University of Illinois' Chicago circle campus.

Public and parochial schools were closed in Chicago and in nearby suburbs. Many area colleges and universities canceled classes.

FIREBIRD DEBUT — Billed as Pontiac Motor Division's entry in the personal sports car field, the Firebird was officially introduced today. The new model, scheduled to go on sale Feb. 23, will be available in both hardtop coupe and convertible styles. John Z. DeLorean, division general manager and a GM vice president, described the Firebird as a "new approach" to the long-hood, short-deck styling theme.

Johnson Leads Treaty Signing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surrounded by ambassadors representing nations around the world, President Johnson presides today at a special White House ceremonial signing of a treaty aimed at preserving outer space for peaceful purposes.

By early today, more than 40 envoys had signed their intent to commit their countries to the 2,000-word, five-language treaty at the late afternoon ceremony in the East Room of the executive mansion.

The treaty was signed early today in Moscow at ceremonies attended by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson and British Ambassador Sir Geoffrey Harrison signed it at Spiridonov Palace, site of the signing of the 1963 limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

A signing was also scheduled for London.

More than 100 nations are expected to sign up eventually.

321 'E' Models to Be Recalled by GMC Truck

GMC Truck and Coach Division today reported it is recalling 321 "E" model trucks for steering modifications.

A spokesman said modifications will correct two conditions that could cause interference with steering components. The recall notifications asks that the vehicles be returned to dealers for correction.

The division said that during a full right turn the power steering pressure line, running to the power cylinder on the frame could be damaged, resulting in loss of power assist but not in steering control.

It also would be possible during the full turn for the left front tire to contact a ball stud socket or its clamp and become chafed. This could result in a tire failure.

No accident reports have been received by the division as a result of either condition. The recall action is being taken as a precautionary measure, the division said.

New Pontiac Firebird Joins Sports Car Field

Citing the personal sports car field as the "most rapidly growing" in the industry, Pontiac Motor Division today unveiled the Firebird, its own entry in the field.

John Z. DeLorean, division general manager and a GM vice president, said the new car is aimed at buyers wanting "something extra in styling as well as performance."

Built to sports car proportions with what company officials call a "new approach" to long-hood, short-deck styling, Firebird will go on sale Feb. 23.

It will be available in two styles — a hardtop coupe and convertible. Five engine choices include a standard overhead six and optional 400-cubic-inch V8.

Standard equipment are bucket seats, three-speed manual transmission (with four-speed manual and two-speed and three-speed automatic optional), all-vinyl interior trims and the safety items previously announced on the 1967 Pontiacs.

IDENTITY MAINTAINED

The Pontiac identity is maintained with a wide peripheral

front bumper and accented vertical center framing two deep grille openings.

Horizontally mounted dual head lamps are set in the outboard ends of the grille opening and chrome framed parking lamps are on the lower valance panel. Pontiac block lettering appears on the left grille face.

The side appearance includes a full-width rocker moulding and six vertical louvers on the front of the rear quarter, rear of the door opening.

All models have an identification name and Firebird crest

Weatherman Has No Hart

HART (AP) — A snowmobile derby planned for Saturday in this Western Michigan community has been postponed.

The reason: not enough snow. Muskegon, 25 miles to the south, has 19 inches of the stuff. But instead of being moved to Muskegon, the derby has been moved to next Saturday.

Preliminary OK to OCC Loan $500,000 for Building of a Student Union

A $500,000 reservation loan to Oakland Community College for construction of a student union building has been given preliminary approval by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Announcement of the loan was made today by Congressman Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District.

The college plans to build a student union containing kitchen and dining facilities, a book store, snack bar, lounges and student activities' area.

The loan, according to McDonald's office in Washington, D.C., has been established on the basis of the preliminary application for assistance under the college housing program.

It is contingent upon final approval by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, McDonald said.

The loan, if given final approval, will be supplemented by $2,368,000 of the college's own fund.

If the college cannot sell $500,000 worth of bonds at less than 3 per cent interest, the government will buy the bonds.

County Nearly Paralyzed by Huge Snowfall

Roads Are Blocked,
Cars Abandoned and Travelers Marooned

More of the same!

Heavy snow — 3 to 5 more inches — whipped by strong winds is the weather warning for nearly paralyzed Oakland County and southeastern Michigan.

Already ground to a halt by 10 inches of snow, sleet and rain, the Pontiac area will get more of the same with blowing and some drifting.

The snow is expected to diminish to flurries tonight.

Belted a bruising blow by the overnight storm, this area is still fighting the initial effects of:

- Blocked roads.
- Stuck and abandoned cars.
- Marooned workers and travelers.

Roads were termed "very bad" by an Oakland County Road Commission spokesman, who said most of the main thoroughfares were passable although snow-covered.

ALL-NIGHT BATTLE

Two hundred men — some working 24 hours — battled all night to clear the main roads.

Secondary roads with few exceptions were "practically impassable," according to the road commission.

Expressways in the county were open, but entry and exit ramps were blocked with stuck cars this morning.

The storm boosted local snowfall even more beyond last year's total. Some 23½ inches fell during the last winter season. (Continued on Page A-2, Col. 7)

Teens Dance Up a Storm —Literally

By L. GARY THORNE
Asst. City Editor—Suburban

"Paak Parties Are a Panic" is the slogan a Pontiac area teen-age band uses, and last night's party at the Silverbell Ski Lodge in Pontiac Township proved the point.

At one time more than 400 teen-agers were marooned at the lodge by the snow that blanketed Oakland County.

James Barnowsky, 28, of 132 E. Russell, manager of the band, "Panic and the Paak," said 75 teens and about 8 to 10 adults were still stuck at 9 a.m. today.

Stranded with little food and heat, the youngsters have danced to keep warm and have kept hunger pangs down with a few leftover potato chips and one small can of badly burned beans.

The latter was consumed with the aid of steak sauce and catsup, said Barnowsky.

LIKE JAWBREAKERS

"They taste like jawbreakers," commented Robert E. Pelmar, 16, of 359 Gateway, Waterford Township.

Barnowsky said the kids have been lined up in front of the phone to call worried parents, who have besieged area police department with phone calls.

He said the youngsters are in good spirits despite their plight.

Even this morning there was no word of when snowplows would open roads to the lodge.

"We'd appreciate some Care packages" laughed Mrs. John Humphries, 196 Dover, Waterford Township, mother of one of the band members.

SNOW — Ten inches of snow meshed with sleet blocks Pontiac side streets, forcing use of the snow shovel to "unpark" cars. Most area subdivisions were impassable for all but a lucky few this morning. Conditions likely will get worse before they get better with 3 to 5 more inches of snow predicted.

Soviets Hike Guard Along China Border

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union is toughening its defenses against Red China because of serious border problems between the two nations, reports Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Breaking a long administration silence on the Sino-Soviet dispute, the defense chief noted that "while an outbreak of hostilities between China and the Soviet Union does not appear probable at this time, the tension on the borders is likely to continue."

McNamara depicted the Soviet Union as more "self-confident" and said this attitude is reflected in its open renewal of the ideological dispute with the Chinese.

"Although the Soviets have not succeeded in reading China out of the international Communist movement," he said, "only current U.S.-Soviet arms negotiations break down, McNamara said the Pentagon now is 'undertaking a very comprehensive study of a new strategic missile system.'"

He also revealed the United States expects to maintain a significant lead in Intercontinental missiles over the Soviet Union until well into the 1970s, and again emphasized this nation's reliance on offensive weapons, and not defensive systems, to deter a nuclear war.

McNamara's comment on Red China took careful assessment of the recent upheavals. One result "has been a temporary reduction in Chinese interest in the outside world," he said.

FIREBIRD HARDTOP—The hardtop coupe shown above is half of Pontiac Motor Division's dual entry into the personal sports car field. Named the Firebird after an Indian symbol for action and youth, the new car features what company officials term "a fresh approach" to sports car styling. Engine options include both the Pontiac 326 and 400-cubic-inch models.

CONVERTIBLE FIREBIRD — Companion to the new Firebird hardtop coupe introduced today by Pontiac Motor Division is this convertible. Options available for both models include a deluxe steering wheel, an instrument panel assist bar and deluxe wheel discs. Standard equipment includes pushbutton seat-belt releases in both front and rear.

son, while this year to date 39 inches have fallen.

Pontiac postmaster William Donaldson said mail would be delivered today only on a limited basis with most sidestreets inaccessible.

Charles B. Woodhead, public relations manager for the Pontiac district of Michigan Bell Telephone Co., reported "no unusual breakdowns in phone lines" in the Pontiac area.

"However, some people were having trouble getting calls through due to the abnormally heavy number of calls made this morning."

"The difficulties stemmed from an overload on central office equipment."

Woodhead said Michigan Bell appealed to the public just before noon to try and limit their phone use to necessary calls.

Although hard hit, Oakland County fared better than areas to the north. Lapeer County and Flint reported 20 inches to two feet of snow.

ALL ROADS BLOCKED

The Lapeer County Sheriff's Department said this morning that "all" roads in that county were blocked. The entire force was kept on duty as it was still snowing.

Oakland County Sheriff's Department reported numerous property damage accidents yesterday afternoon and evening, as motorists slid into each other trying to get home.

The auto of William E. Corvete of Flint was demolished by a train when it became stuck on the Grand Trunk Railroad tracks on Fish Lake Road in Holly Township.

Grand Trunk Engineer Thomas E. Fisher of Durand said he saw the car as he came around a curve, and applied the brakes, but couldn't stop in time. Corvete was not in the car.

LOW READING

The low temperature prior to 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 24.

The thermometer registered 27 at noon.

Widespread school closings were reported of those not already slated to be closed because of the semester change.

Also closed were Waterford Township and county offices. Pontiac City Hall was open.

Some sporting events slated for tonight were called off.

Local auto plants were either shut down or reduced to limited operations because of the snowstorm.

Fisher Body plant was not working at all today, but Pontiac Motor Division was trying to operate with a skeleton crew.

GMC Truck and Coach Division reported absenteeism high, but said the plant was open. At 9:30 a.m. the lines were not running.

A few departments at Pontiac Motor will work both the second and third shifts today. They are: plants 14 and 15; department 975; heat treating plants; department 1068. The service parts warehouse will work both today and Saturday.

Arrangements have been made for day shift employees to pick up pay checks in their plants today and until noon Saturday.

Most observers — official and unofficial — did not think the storm was up to the blizzardlike snow of February, 1965.

No power failures were reported in the county and only one possible heart attack victim was attributed to the snow.

Pontiac firemen reported a rash of 10 inhalator runs since yesterday, but said none were related to the weather.

County and city road crews were manning every piece of equipment from hand shovels to graders today in a giant attempt to open roads. The work began with the snow shortly before noon yesterday.

"We've got everything out that we can beg, borrow and rent," explained Clyde Christian, chief of the Pontiac Department of Public Works.

John Anderson, assistant manager of the Pontiac office of Automobile Club of America, said road service was an average of six hours behind in answering calls from stranded motorists by mid-morning.

He said some service stations were as much as eight hours behind due to the heavy load of calls.

"Many are being kept busy just handling emergency towing where there is an accident involved," said Anderson.

Pushed by a strong wind, the storm whipped out of the west and staggered the lower half of the state. Travelers in the western part of the state sought refuge at schools, fire halls and even a supermarket.

Hoffa Claims Senators Ponder Course Against Air War Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fighting to stay out of prison, James R. Hoffa has told the Supreme Court he and two of his lawyers were subjected to widespread Justice Department eavesdropping and telephone tapping during his 1964 jury-tampering trial.

And, attorneys for the Teamsters union president claim, an assistant director of the FBI suggested to a newspaper publisher that Hoffa's lawyers ask the Justice Department to conduct an investigation of wiretapping in connection with Hoffa's trials.

The allegations were in papers filed with the court Thursday in an effort to convince the justices to reconsider Hoffa's conviction and eight-year prison sentence. These were upheld by the high court Dec. 12 — before "direct evidence" of the eavesdropping was obtained, Hoffa's lawyers said.

The Justice Department should be directed to respond to the allegations, they told the court.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Re-told the Senate Thursday "it would be better to terminate hostilities" than to continue the may go directly to President Johnson with their complaints about the restrictions imposed on U.S. pilots operating over North Vietnam.

And Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., forecast a campaign to mobilize public opinion and seek relaxation of the rules.

Dominick said senators who contend that target restrictions are preventing aerial success in the war will press their case with the administration, and may seek to do so at the White House.

"I see that as a possibility," the Colorado senator said. He said Johnson is keeping close rein on the air war "on the grounds that this is a political war."

License Sales Gain as Deadline Nears

Vehicle license plates are being sold at a brisker rate in Pontiac than a year ago. The sale for 1967 plates also is gaining momentum at the new secretary of state office in Waterford Township.

Neck and back injuries suffered in a three-car accident and two weeks in the hospital have not kept Pontiac secretary of state branch manager Mrs. Lucille Marshall from an unusual distinction.

Early reports indicate her office at 96 E. Huron is one of the few in the Detroit metropolitan area where license sales are running ahead of last year.

"We've got 20 or 25 people in here now — and the rate has been constant for about two months," Mrs. Marshall said.

"I'm still bringing our books up to date (she was discharged from the hospital yesterday), so we won't have a numerical breakdown on plates for a few days.

AHEAD OF 1966

"Our sales are definitely ahead of 1966, though — and the number of uninsured motorists seems to be way down.

"Very few people are paying the $35 fee, although the state requirements for proof of insurance are much more strict this year than last."

Even with a seemingly fast start, long lines of muttering latecomers can be expected, she said.

"Some people are going to wait until the last minute no matter what you tell them or how many times they've been through it before."

OPEN DAILY

The Pontiac office is open daily from 9-5 and Saturdays from 9-1.

Patrick K. Daly, manager of the Waterford Township secretary of state office at 4520 Pontiac Lake, noted that sales of 1967 license plates have been slightly brisker this week than previously.

However, he added that sales on a statewide basis are generally behind last year's pace.

6,800 PLATES

Earlier this week approximately 6,800 Michigan license plates had been purchased at the Pontiac Lake Road facility.

Of these, 5,000 were for passenger cars, 1,200 for commercial vehicles, 550 for trailers and 50 for motorcycles.

Daly recalled that there was a spurt in sales the first few days of November.

OFFICE HOURS

Office hours at the Waterford Township office are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

Daly is awaiting permission from the secretary of state to open substations in White Lake Township, Independence Township and Keego Harbor to make it convenient for residents of those communities to buy license plates during the 11-hour rush period.

Deadline for purchasing 1967 plates is Feb. 28.

Skeptical Teller Foils Attempted Bank Robbery

ST. CLAIR SHORES (UPI) — A woman bank teller who didn't believe she was being held up foiled an attempted bank robbery in this Detroit suburb yesterday afternoon.

Teller Beverly Hill said a man drove up to the drive-in window at the St. Clair Shores National Bank and handed her a note.

"This is a holdup," the note said "I have a bomb in here that can blow up the whole building."

Miss Hill said she handed the note back to the man and said: "You've got to be kidding."

The man drove away but was being sought by police to find out if he was a prankster or an easily discouraged bandit.

Official Quits Post on Tourist Council

LANSING (UPI) — Arthur D. Underwood resigned, effective today, as deputy director of the Michigan Tourist Council, a post he has held for nearly four years.

Underwood said he would announce his plans for future employment following a two-week vacation.

Underwood was bureau manager in Lansing for United Press International in 1961-62. He later served as a campaign aide to Gov. John B. Swainson and as a staff assistant for the Democratic State Central Committee before joining the tourist council staff.

Lake Orion Confab Set on Growth

LAKE ORION — In line with the formation of the village's first planning commission, the Chamber of Commerce has called a meeting to study future growth of the area.

Invited to the open meeting called for 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Intermediate School is an impressive list of experts in the field of future planning.

Problems in the areas of water, housing, industry, parking, etc. will be aired, according to John Reed of the Chamber.

Attending will be the University of Detroit's dean of the school of architecture, Bruno Leon, plus three of his professors, C. Don Davidson, Robert Tucker and Lou Michael.

John Loss, professor in structural engineering at the university, will also be present.

WILL ATTEND

Paul Masseron, president of Urban Research Coordinators Inc., and Royce Downey, city manager of Walled Lake, have also signified their intentions to attend.

Dr. Richard McNeil, chairman of the new planning commission, has said his group must take into consideration all phases of community life.

"We must have long-range projected planning much as General Motors or Ford Motor Co. has," he said.

"We have to take into consideration the economics, recreation, health and welfare of the whole community."

"If there had been planning in 1900 like there is now, our big city slums would not exist," he added.

"It's up to us now to keep Lake Orion rebuilding in a way conducive to future beauty and productivity," McNeil said.

Teachers Ask Pay for Thefts

TROY — A legal question regarding theft of teachers' property that may eventually be of interest to all school districts has been raised before the Troy Board of Education.

Three teachers have reported thefts and asked the school board for compensation.

Although the amount of money is not large, the school board has asked its attorney, Carl Forsythe, to determine if it is legal to use public funds for this purpose and "what sort of proof of loss should be required."

Dr. Rex B. Smith, superintendent of schools, pointed out the board has an agreement with the Troy Education Association, an affiliate of the Michigan Education Association, that states a teacher "may apply" to the district for loss or damage to clothes or personal property due to theft, vandalism or assault.

Dr. Smith said "The contract says the teacher may apply, but it doesn't state the board has to pay. There is also the question of the maximum amount for which the schools would be responsible."

SET PRECEDENT

"This will set an important precedent and the board wants to be careful before rendering a decision," he added.

The legal opinion is expected to be in the board's hands for its next meeting, Feb. 14.

John Foltz, Romeo's Bedridden Fireman

Disabled Fire Fighter

By JEAN SAILE

ROMEO — The living room at the John Foltz home, 235 S. Main, is different these days.

A set of roccoco furniture has been moved down into the basement and in its place sits a hospital bed.

"It's not going to be here long," said John. "This week I walked with my new leg brace and pretty soon I'm going to be outside."

And probably pretty soon, he's going to be chasing fires again.

No broken leg is going to keep him quiet for long.

ASSISTANT CHIEF

John is Romeo's assistant fire chief, and from the brass antique "Fire Company" plaque on the front door to the fire call monitor that sits within listening distance of the bed, you know that he takes his volunteer job seriously.

A constant stream of visitors finds John perched up in his hospital bed — one shoe on to accommodate the brace — and informed on everything that's happening in the village.

Partly it's because his bed sits directly in front of the living room window expanse and looks out on Main Street, but mostly because John is just plain interested.

He's interested in everything — from fire departments to ambulances to antiques. The latter the Foltz's sell from a house next door and with which they furnished their fine old Dutch colonial home.

ROLLED DOWN ON HIM

It was last Sept. 26 that John was running an end loader — that's a bulldozer with a loading attachment on front — when a tree that he was lifting rolled down the loader and broke his leg at the thigh.

For eight weeks he was in traction and then it was a cast which kept him immobile.

Now it's the leg brace and learning to walk all over again with the aid of crutches.

"I'm going to get a job as dispatcher down at the police station as soon as I can," John said.

BELOVED DEPARTMENT

And when that time comes, he'll once more have active participation in his beloved fire department.

John sort of discounts the fact that he's done all their paper work ever since he's been sick.

"If they ever kicked me off the department," said John, "I'd still go to fires — and over 75 per cent of the department feels the same way."

"Why the tone sounds on the monitor and some of our boys can make it to the station in the 30 seconds it takes to punch the whistle," he boasted.

'THEY'RE DEDICATED'

"They guys are on the department because they're dedicated," he said.

Foltz' wife, Marilyn, serves coffee and sits nearby listening to the conversation.

She's a fireman's wife and while she admits she doesn't always like the sound of the monitor, she accepts it for John. The couple have four children, two of whom are still in school.

Oxford Fire Dept. Reports Village, Township Losses

OXFORD — Fire losses amounting to $102,806 in the village, including last January's loss of six downtown buildings, were reported by the Fire Department in its annual total.

Orion Twp. Dems to Host Dinner

ORION TOWNSHIP — The Democratic Club of Orion Township will host a dinner at Alban's Country Cousin at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

George Gogasian, Oakland County Democratic chairman, will speak and Joseph Davis of the Oakland County Committee for Good Roads will show slides entitled, "Michigan's Highways Are in a Jam."

The report, made to the Village Council last night, showed losses amounting to $16,590 in the township.

Total runs were placed at 32 in the village and 67 in the township.

The council agreed to pay a maximum of $1,150 for an Oakland County Department of Public Works survey in regard to sewers for the area.

An amendment to the zoning ordinance which would require the filing of site plans for all but single family residences was referred back to the planning commission for clarification of wording.

Village Manager Robert Smalley was given permission to attend a traffic seminar next month in Lansing.

Orion Twp. GOP Reelects Its Leader

ORION TOWNSHIP — Bruno Jandasek, 900 Indianwood, has been reelected president of the Orion Township Republican Club.

Jack Coleman was named vice president and Mrs. Tull LaSwell second vice president. Mrs. Willard Stephen was reelected secretary and Mrs. Martin Parker treasurer.

Mrs. Porter Harris was reelected director of Precinct I, O. F. Foster, director of Precinct II, and Mrs. Thomas Murray, director of Precinct IV. Rowland McKenzie is the new director of Precinct III.

Holly Woman Is State Booster

HOLLY — A campaign by state women to sell the attractions of Michigan has been announced by Mrs. William Scramlin, 3694 Jossman.

She is chairman of the Michigan Week council of women's organizations. The campaign is to begin in February. Women's groups and individuals will be asked to join Michigan Minute-men and adopt projects to promote Michigan Week which is May 21-27.

Talk Set at MCC

AVON TOWNSHIP — Michigan Christian College will be host to Don Lonie, one of the nation's outstanding high school lecturers, at 8 p.m. Feb. 10 in the college cafeteria.

The program, featuring the popular teen authority, has been opened to the public at no admittance charge.

TB Tests Set in Walled Lake

Due for High School Students and Staff

WALLED LAKE — All students and staff members at the senior high school will be required to take a tuberculosis skin test on March 1.

The tests will be given, free of charge, at the school by the Oakland County Health Department.

The board of education voted to require the tests after a high school boy was hospitalized recently with an advanced case of TB.

In other recent action, the board has decided not to join the Committee of One Hundred at this time.

DRAWINGS OKAYED

The committee is a voluntary organization of governmental units in the greater Detroit metropolitan area.

The board also approved preliminary drawings for a special education facility which will now be made in working drawings.

Two weeks ago the board sent the drawings back to the architect for revision of the roof design. Board members objected to the pagoda look of the building.

The board also voted to ask the PTA Council in cooperation with the Special Parents Unit for Retarded Children to recommend names for the new facility.

RECOMMENDATIONS

The PTA Council is to be asked to recommend five names for a new elementary school.

The board is continuing its study of portable classrooms to relieve anticipated overcrowding next year.

Before making a decision, board members are viewing similar rooms in use in other school districts.

Portable classrooms were informally chosen as the best solution to the problem instead of half-day sessions or extended day sessions.

For Holly Twp. Boy

'Beach Trip' Eventful

By ED BLUNDEN

"I went to the beach, I went to the beach," is the only thing 2-year-old Peter Beltemacchi of 201 Park, Holly, remembers about his brush with death, his mother, Mrs. Peter Beltemacchi, said yesterday.

Police Chief Omer Teeple remembers it differently. He got a call from the frantic woman Tuesday saying her boy was lost in the Holly Township Beach area near her home.

A dangerous swampy area is adjacent to the beach approach.

He said he found the boy in the swampy part, his foot trapped under a piece of broken concrete.

"I was lucky in finding him. He could have died, either by drowning or by exposure," Teeple said.

FRONT OF HOME

Mrs. Beltemacchi said about 11 that morning, she and her boy were in front of their house. She walked around the side of the house to dump some trash.

"I could hear him talking to his dog. Then, suddenly I didn't hear him any more."

"A neighbor told me later she saw the boy and his dog chasing a squirrel toward the beach," she said.

"I went down there and called for both him and the dog, but neither one answered," Mrs. Beltemacchi said.

SAW THE DOG

She then called police. Chief Teeple said it was the dog, a German Shepherd, that helped him find the boy. "I saw the dog coming out so I thought he must be down there," he said.

"Sure enough, there he was. He was trying too hard to wriggle free, his pants came down and his bottom was showing," the chief said.

"I got all wet, but I'm glad it turned out all right," Teeple said.

Teeple has been chief in Holly since last September. He retired from the Detroit Police force after 25 years. "I've hunted for a lot of lost kids and I've got a pretty good idea where to look," he said.

Utica Adopts Sewer Service From Detroit

UTICA — The city is the first in Macomb County to adopt a sewer agreement between the county and the Detroit Water Board.

The agreement calls for Detroit to bring sewer mains to Utica at Detroit's expense, with Utica responsible for bringing the waste to the points of intersection with the mains.

The proposed rate of the service is $1.30 per 1,000 cubic feet.

Utica has a three-year-old $344,000 sewage treatment plant and still owes $130,000 on it — due to be paid by 1938. Cost of operation has been put at $25-$30,000 a year.

Officials are hopeful that it might be incorporated as part of the Detroit system or that some other compensation may be allowed.

Smorgasbord Set at Legion Home

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Hill Gazette Legion Post No. 143 Past Presidents' Club will conduct a smorgasbord from 5 to 8 p.m. Feb. 10 at the post home, 96 Churchill.

The group will meet again Feb. 14 at the post with Mrs. Walter Leitner and Mrs. Ralph Bogart serving as hostess.

Rochester Church to Get New Rectory

ROCHESTER — The purchase of a new rectory for St. Philip's Episcopal Church at 124 Charles has been unanimously approved by the parish, according to Rev. Wilbur R. Schutze, pastor.

The group has voted to dispose of the present rectory at 301 Charles and the old vicarage at 110 Romeo.

With completion of the transactions the church will own the complete block on Romeo between Main and Charles.

Five new members have been elected to the vestry. They are Gifts of a carillon and air-conditioning were accepted and acknowledged by the parish.

The carillon was given by Harold Stuart in memory of his wife, Dorothy.

AIR-CONDITIONING

Gifts from Mrs. Charles B. Stiffler, Mr. and Mrs. Langley Smart and others will provide the church and office wing with air-conditioning to be installed before next summer.

The unit is a memorial to the late Charles B. Stiffler, former vestryman.

Senior Citizens' Club

ROCHESTER — The town's oldesters are apt to be unavailable for baby sitting come Feb. 7.

It might be expected that their social calendars will pick up and stay active for some time to come.

The reason? A Drop-In Center for senior citizens will officially open Tuesday with a free luncheon provided by members of the Rochester Junior Woman's Club.

Located for now in the Avon Park Pavilion, its backers have hopes of a more central location soon, and a housing committee is currently searching the downtown area.

The Center, to be open each Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from noon to 4 p.m., will offer cards, snacks, movies and TV, crafts and dances.

BACKING

Begun as an idea of the Junior Woman's Club, the Center has received the backing of George Cherry, of the Oakland County Office of Economic Opportunity. Cherry has promised a salaried director, paid by his office.

A Rochester man is now being sought to fill that position.

Junior Woman's Club members feel OEO cooperation was obtained largely through wide community backing of the idea.

BESIDES

Besides the use of the pavilion which has been granted without charge by Avon Township, there has been community representation from the village council, the office of Urban Renewal, the Heart of the Hills Senior Men's Club, the Rochester Lion's Club and the Oakland County Senior Citizens' Council.

8-Point Peace Plan

MIAMI (UPI)—Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., proposed last night an eight-point program as a means of ending a "cruel" war in Vietnam.

The program would include negotiations between the United States and the Vietcong and an American pledge to withdraw troops from South Vietnam.

The eight-point program, which he said would lead to "eventual restoration of peace in Vietnam," included:

• Urge the South Vietnamese government to seek peace negotiations with the Vietcong, and if necessary, tell South Vietnamese leaders that "continued American support will depend upon the energy and good faith which it undertakes to negotiate a ceasefire with the Vietcong."

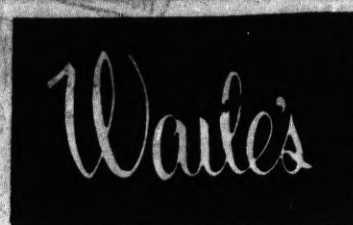

• Propose a four-sided peace conference that would include the United States, South Vietnam, the Vietcong and North Vietnam, aimed at a ceasefire and plans for South Vietnamese self-determination.

• Stop bombing North Vietnam and reduce the scale of military operations to the "maximum extent consistent with the security of American forces while peace negotiations are under way."

• Make a "forthright" pledge to eventually remove American military forces in Vietnam.

• Convene an international conference to guarantee the arrangements made by the four belligerents and conduct a referendum in South Vietnam with all parties agreeing to abide by it whatever the outcome.

Veteran City Planner Bows Out

When Pontiac's City Planning Commission meets next month, it will be considerably poorer for the loss of a veteran member.

WILLIAM F. DAVIS is stepping down after nearly 18 years of service to this city.

DAVIS

DAVIS, owner of the WILLIAM F. DAVIS Funeral Home, submitted his resignation to the City Commission last week. He had served the planning commission devotedly since first being appointed March 1, 1949. Only one other member of the present planning commission can match him in years of service.

The job is a thankless one. There is no pay. There are many hours of meetings. Making decisions which may often affect the value of land demands men of high character and integrity. Davis qualified all the way.

He attended two 10-week seminars on municipal planning at Oakland University during his stint on the commission. He was also present at many meetings of the Detroit Metropolitan Regional Planning Commission and Michigan Society of Planning Officials.

Bill Davis is the type of man which a community pins much of its hopes on when it looks toward the future. City Hall will miss him.

Protect Social Security Against Excesses

Few, least of all us, will fault in principle President JOHNSON's proposal to increase pension benefits by 15 per cent and otherwise revise the Social Security structure.

Our retirees who over the years have contributed to the fund from which come the benefits are entitled to the best the Country can afford.

Many thoughtful citizens, however, question just how much the American economy can stand in the way of Security pension increases and how much the burden of increasing taxation on wages can be borne in support of the program.

They are also concerned by indications that Social Security is becoming a political expedient to lock in an increasingly large number of voters.

A 7 per cent increase in pension benefits was voted in 1965. If the Administration's proposal passes Congress intact, it would represent a 22 per cent increase in pension payments over a three-year period.

Such a rate of increase appears unrealistic (the cost of living has risen but 14 per cent since 1958) and if continued could well bring the United States to the brink of economic collapse—as has occurred in many other countries having similar security programs.

It will be to the best interest of retirees to view this and subsequent proposals for pension hikes in the light of their over-all effect on the national economy, while restraining the common tendency to reach for more and more personal benefits from Government.

Otherwise, the fine concept of Social Security may prove to be a snare and a delusion.

Top Soldier Rebuts Home-Front Critics

Opponents of American bombing in North Vietnam raise two objections: that it kills civilians and that U.S. bombs are having little effect on North Vietnam's will or ability to carry on the fight.

The critics are right on the first point, wrong on the second, according to Gen. EARLE WHEELER, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, just back from the Vietnam theater.

He reports that the Hanoi government has cynically moved military supplies and antiaircraft weapons into civilian areas hoping that this will make these centers off-limits for U.S. bombers. It is inevitable that, under the circumstances, civilian casualties will result when these vital targets are bombed.

Stressing that the enemy's strategy has indeed provided immunity from attack in many situations, the general concludes that Hanoi's desperate resort to it is proof positive that our air attacks are having telling effect.

It would seem that these balanced conclusions of a professional soldier would tend to silence the criticism and unschooled advice of our self-appointed armchair "military experts," 10,000 miles away.

Johnson Budget a Big Order

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Most people won't read President Johnson's budget message — it's such a swamp of figures — but from it jumps the picture of an America bulging with prosperity and self-confidence.

The self-confidence part of it shows up earliest in MARLOW Johnson's promises: "In Vietnam, as throughout the world, we seek peace but will provide all the resources needed to combat aggression." That's a big order.

But when Johnson mentions aggression, he undoubtedly means Communist aggression.

And this promise to stop Communist aggression anywhere is consistent with American policy in Vietnam.

Johnson and others in his administration from time to time have given what sounded like noble reasons for American involvement in Vietnam, such as preserving democracy there, although the people never really had it.

ANOTHER REASON

But running through all the Johnson explanations, there has also been another reason — American self-interest — that the forcible spread of communism is a menace to this country's national security.

Nevertheless, the commitment made in Johnson's budget message could keep this country involved in foreign wars — where there is Communist aggression — for countless years to come.

Yet, while Johnson in one sentence is promising such a sweeping and ambitious foreign policy, in the very next sentence he is urging caution about what is to be done at home: "In our urgent domestic programs, we will continue to press ahead, at a controlled and reasonable pace."

Thus, while his total budget request to Congress is a record-breaking $135 billion to take care of all the government's present programs and commitments, he goes easy on the idea of new ones.

WELL AWARE

Here recognizes that the country is still trying to digest some of the programs he set in motion the past couple of years.

But the sense of bursting prosperity glistens through the message and, at the very moment he urges caution, he provides a catalogue of progress and increasing affluence.

It includes: Gross national product up nearly 5.4 per cent; unemployment below 4 per cent; more than 3 million new jobs found in 1966; income and corporation income in the same year up about 8 per cent.

His budget makes clear the end is not in sight. Johnson is thinking in terms of limitless prosperity although he knows from past history that the economy could get out of control and plunge.

'You Fellows Have The Wrong View Of Vietnam!'

LBJ Economic Reports Political

WASHINGTON — There is one figure missing from the pile of economic and financial reports that President Johnson has sent to Congress this week.

It's how many people will ever read the volume of material or be able, even after analyzing the data, to get a clear impression of what is going on in the United States and to know whether or not bad times are coming.

All of the President's reports were prepared, of course, by economic experts, but have been touched up with the political phrases that proclaim the present era as unexampled in prosperity and contentment.

The messages to Congress dealing with economic conditions tell of rising expenditures and growing deficits. The theory that the government can thrive and the nation can prosper indefinitely on borrowed money is defended by some of the President's advisers as normal in a huge economy.

Making ends meet in the federal budget is only one of the many dilemmas. The budgets are no longer made up the same way as heretofore. Changes have been introduced which Republicans emphatically denounce as "dishonest."

Again and again in the history of the world, the monetary unit of many a country has been gradually diminished in its purchasing power, and eventually either devalued or replaced.

TWO CENTURIES AGO

Adam Smith, famous economist and author of "The Wealth of Nations," wrote nearly two centuries ago that this was a way to "cheat" the people.

Today the dollar is steady.

ily declining in purchasing power in this country as well as in its value among bankers abroad.

What is not generally realized in America is that the government has undertaken the task of managing the economy without using the lawmaking process to stabilize wages or prices.

The net result is that the group with the biggest political influence — labor unions — rules the roost, and the

OPTIMISTIC SIDE

President Johnson's messages and reports to Congress are on the optimistic side.

If things go bad, he will be able to say that he made all kinds of proposals to Congress and suggested expenditures of many billions of dollars to strengthen the economy but that either Congress didn't cooperate or strong economic forces in the country prevented the achievement of his aims.

2nd Part of JFK Series Proves a Real Shocker

NEW YORK—William Manchester's second installment of "The Death of a President," which appears in the current Look magazine, is a choking shocker.

With extraordinary reportorial skill and a clinical detachment that can only add to the total impact, he transports the reader into the death car.

Gov. John Connally, hit in four places by Lee Oswald's ricocheting first bullet, which had first passed through the president's neck, is screaming, "No, no, no, no—They're going to kill us both!"

Secret service agent Kellerman, riding in the front seat, thinks he has heard the president say, "My God, I'm hit!" Mrs. Connally begins to shriek.

Jacqueline Kennedy, in a daze, wonders why Connally is shouting.

HOLDS COURSE

Secret Service agent Greer, driving the topless Lincoln, glances over his right shoulder and continues to hold a steady course, instead of taking evasive action to avoid any subsequent shot.

Manchester dismisses the debate over whether two or three bullets were fired, but has no question in his mind that the trigger-puller was Oswald alone.

Manchester is unable to clear up one of the major questions that linger in the wake of the tragedy: Why did Jacqueline Kennedy leave her shattered husband and crawl out on the trunk of the Lincoln as Greer finally reacted and began to race away from the assassin?

Secret Service agent Clint Hill, who had bounded out of a security car behind the presidential car the moment he heard the first shot and saw that the president had been hit, was trying to clamber aboard the Lincoln.

Its sudden and belated burst of speed tore his foot from the metal step on the side of the car's spare tire. He was in danger of being forced to fall off and scrape along the roadway.

"Mrs. Kennedy pivoted toward the rear and reached for him; their hands touched, clenched, and locked," Manchester writes. It is impossible to say who saved whom.

Hill pushed her back into the seat and spread-eagled on the trunk as the car careened toward the hospital.

"He knew it was mortal, knew the Secret Service had failed; and in anguish and frustration, he hammered the trunk with his free hand," Manchester writes.

A shocker.

'Refunds for Medical Services Are Delayed'

If Johnson thinks he is helping the old folks, his ideas are wrong. I've paid $250 to doctors besides the $50 deductible. Receipts for money I paid doctors in September and October are correct as far as anyone can see and the doctors' staffs are honest and accurate, yet Medicare sent the receipts back for more information. We have $3 taken from our Social Security checks before we receive them. How can we stand this when our incomes are too low to last until we get our refunds? Imagine one trying to live on $90 a month and buy medicine and pay doctor bills.

Justified Bombing?

The Daily Telegraph, London

Military installations in North Vietnam have been bombed by the Americans; there is no controversy about this. Have women and children been killed and wounded? The Americans may have hoped not; some may even have believed not. Yet, alas, military targets and civilian residential areas may be inextricably mingled. Even where they can be distinguished, human or technical error remains possible.

On a more profound level, it is legitimate to doubt whether in modern warfare, which Hanoi is willfully waging, a firm line can be drawn between military and civilian activities at all. In view of all this, the Americans are surely wise to withdraw from untenable assertions that their quarrel with North Vietnam can be conducted without injury to anyone there who is not directly and actively involved against them.

If war is evil, then bombing must be evil, too; so also incidentally, must be the terrorism of the Viet Cong. Yet if there can be just wars there can also be just bombing — at least if bombing can ever be shown to hasten the victory of the just.

Yet if in this case the American technicians are right, then bombing will have been justified as having hastened the return of peace. Is this not to be desired?

Surely it is; but it is still legitimate to ask why innocent people should suffer for a good end. The answer is perhaps a harsh one: that those who actively support or passively acquiesce in the aggressive aims of the North Vietnamese government cannot be considered wholly innocent until these aims have been abandoned; nor can the retribution which they arguably deserve be confined, unfortunately, to them alone.

The North Vietnamese government put its citizens at stake; those who support it put their loved ones, their wives and families, at stake.

Doubtless, like the Nazis before them they hoped to conquer bloodlessly, by bluff alone. Alas, their bluff was called as Hitler's was, and irresponsible aggression must face its nemesis. This is sincerely deplorable; but let us be clear that the blame for the shedding of innocent blood lies not in Washington but in Hanoi.

GI's Letters From Home Provide More Than Cheer

NEW YORK (U) — Almost a year ago, Marine Cpl. Richard A. Mazzochi Jr., 21, who was serving in Vietnam, received about 4,000 letters after writing his home town newspaper that his fellow Marines were not receiving any mail.

Mazzochi distributed the letters to his buddies, but decided to take some for himself, even though he was receiving mail from his family. One of them was a cheer-up letter from Margaret Bai, 18, who like Mazzochi is from the New York City Borough of Queens. He had never met her, however. She was one of 10 girls to whom he decided to write.

Mazzochi has long since forgotten the others. Today, he and Margaret are married.

After a regular exchange of letters since last March, Mazzochi returned home last Nov. 19, and called Margaret at Queen of Apostles College in Harriman, N.Y., where she was a freshman. He then drove there to keep a date with her.

KISSED ME

"All of a sudden Margie came running out of the building," Mazzochi recalled. "She ran right up to me and kissed me. And I knew who she was."

They were married Dec. 16 by a judge. They kept their marriage secret for a few weeks, then told their parents.

Thursday, the newlyweds left for the Marine Air Base at Beaufort, S.C., where Mazzochi will be stationed for the remaining 58 days he has to serve before becoming a civilian. His wife has dropped out of school.

"She didn't want to stay away from him," said Mazzochi's mother, Mrs. William Cooper.

FIND APARTMENT

When Mazzochi returns, he and his wife will stay with Mrs. Cooper until they find an apartment and he establishes himself in a job. He also plans to attend college on the GI bill while working.

Mazzochi's mother said that he wrote a letter last February to the Long Island Press, where he once worked as a carrier, complaining that his buddies did not receive mail and it depressed them.

They would much rather receive mail than have chow, he wrote.

Then came the letter from Margaret.

Winner Asks Advice on Toasting

By ELIZABETH L. POST
The following letter has been chosen as the most interesting one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to the writer.

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the proper thing for a person to do who has conscientious scruples against the use of alcoholic drinks—or is an alcoholic and dares not touch it?

When a toast is offered, as is often done at a wedding reception, should he raise his glass without tasting it, seek a glass of water to use, or is something else proper? One desires to offer no discourtesy to the couple honored, or to even inferentially rebuke them for drinking, but has, for himself, made a pledge to refrain from such drinks.

I believe there are others who would like to know what is the correct thing to do. E. J.

Dear E. J.: The very best solution would be to quietly ask a waiter to bring you a champagne glass filled with ginger ale as the appearance is so similar to champagne that it arouses no question or comment. If that is impossible, there is always some soft drink or even water available.

Failing any chance of getting a substitute for the wine, simply raise the glass toward the person being toasted and then toward your mouth as if to sip. Believe me, no one will notice that you are not drinking. May I congratulate you on upholding your convictions?

ABSENT HUSBAND

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband is in the Army, stationed in Germany. When I send cards to people we know, such as sympathy or wedding cards, how do I sign them?

Should I sign both our names, even though everyone knows that he is not here, or should I sign my own name?

Mrs. M. Coen
Dear Mrs. Coen: I would sign my husband's name too, if I were you. But if you feel that that seems strange, say something like "John wishes he could be here to send congratulations himself, etc.," and then sign your name alone.

Dear Mrs. Post: After having an affair with a married man, having a baby by him, and giving the baby away, is it all right (a few months later) for the girl to marry another boy in a church wedding, or should she be married at home with just a few friends. Wondering.

Dear wondering: For the sake of everyone involved in the unfortunate affair, she should definitely be married quietly at home, or, if she prefers, in a private ceremony in a chapel.

OU's New Theatre Attracts More Than 10,000 Playgoers

Over 10,000 people have attended performances at Oakland University's Meadow Brook Theatre.

Edgar A. Guest, public relations director of the John Fernald Company, says the group has been playing to 75 per cent capacity.

The theatre opened Jan. 3 with an invitational preview audience that filled the 600-seat Matilda A. Wilson auditorium. The first public performance was given Jan. 4.

Even last Sunday evening when fog blanketed most of the Detroit metropolitan area, there were over 400 persons in the audience, and last night there were more than 100 present.

Actors, says Guest, have a theory that "the worse the weather, the better the audience." Only dedicated theatre goers make the effort.

Compared with current shows running on Broadway, Meadow Brook Theatre is doing better than 17 of them.

STUDENT GROUPS
College and high school audiences have filled the house at every performance scheduled for them. The actors especially enjoy these groups which have few inhibitions about showing their reactions to the action on stage.

Friday and Saturday nights continue to be the most popular ones.

But there are good seats available for all other performances — Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday nights and Saturday matinees.

SECOND SHOW

Final rehearsals for the second production, "Love's Labour's Lost" by Shakespeare, are in progress this week.

Of the play, one of Shakespeare's earlier comedies, which will open Wednesday evening, John Fernald says "the play has a hint in it of the love-poetry of 'Romeo and Juliet' as well as of the great clowning in 'The Tempest'."

Shakespeare deals delightfully with the main theme of the play which is: should young men refrain from dating girls in order to develop their minds?

The story of "Love's Labour's Lost" revolves around the King of Navarre and his court of studious young men who vow to forego the company of women, eat but one meal a day, and sleep no more than three hours a night.

They follow this routine for three years in order to devote themselves to study.

The princess of France and her beautiful ladies-in-waiting descend upon the King's court, learn of the vows, and then plot to break the willpower of the men.

Terence Scammell will portray the role of the king and George Guidall, Victor Holchak and Booker T. Bradshaw Jr. are the studious young men.

FEMININE LEAD

Barbara Caruso has the role of the princess of France. Her ladies-in-waiting are Roni Dengel, Jill Tanner and Angela Wood.

Most of the cast will be familiar from their roles in the first production of the season "The Caucasian Chalk Circle." Miss Dengel is a newcomer to the Fernald Company.

"Love's Labour's Lost" will run for four weeks. Tickets and information are available at the Meadow Brook Theatre box office.

Women to Meet

The Pontiac Symphony Orchestra Women's Association will meet Monday at 1 p.m. in the Ottawa Drive home of Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald.

The Don P. Luthers of New England Drive, Avon Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Norma Olivia, to Seaman Rec. Richard Lee Claxton, son of the B. B. Claxtons of Briar Drive, Shelby Township. He is stationed at Great Lakes (Ill.) Naval Center. Late August vows are planned.

Tri Deltas Set a Date

The Birmingham Tri Delta Group II, will meet Feb. 7 in the Royal Oak home of Mrs. Paul Smith. Mrs. W. J. MacAdam will be cohostess.

Valentine favors for patients at Pontiac State Hospital will be made during the evening.

Any area Tri Delta alumnae interested in joining this group may contact Mrs. Calvin Moore of Birmingham.

But Not the Right Kind

He Thinks About Figures

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Last April an accountant "friend" (I thought) made a pass at me. I told him off, but I didn't tell my husband as I didn't want to start trouble. I've told no one of this incident as the accountant has a very nice wife, children, and a flourishing practice.

ABBY

Now I am already worrying about the next time we will be filing our income tax. I don't want to work with this man again as the sight of him makes me cringe. I'm afraid if I suggest changing accountants my husband will say, "Why? — I like so and so."

TROUBLED
DEAR TROUBLED: Tell your husband to line up another accountant — one who appreciates the business and will keep his mind on it. He'll catch on. And if he takes his "friend" apart, it might improve the old boy's manners.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and last year I was engaged to a boy named Bernie. We broke up, and then I started going with Ernie. We plan to be married in a couple of months.

While I was engaged to Bernie I made a terrible mistake, although it was the first and last.

As my wedding date is approaching I am afraid to tell Ernie about Bernie because Ernie thinks I am a "nice" girl. (I am, except for that one time.) Should I tell Ernie now, or should I wait until after the wedding? Or do I have to tell him at all? I am so dumb about things like that.

DON'T KNOW
DEAR DON'T: If Ernie asks you — tell him the truth. If he doesn't bring it up, don't you. He may never ask.

Mrs. Overstreet Gets a Pin

Mrs. E. N. Overstreet, North Genesee Avenue was given her 50-year pin at the founders day celebration of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority Wednesday evening in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Overstreet's granddaughter, Adrienne Gault, a sophomore at the University of Michigan and member of the sorority there presented the pin to her grandmother.

A recent luncheon-shower in the Earl J. Hensel home on Vanden Drive, White Lake Township, honored their daughter, Constance Mae, of Royal Oak, who will become Mrs. David Paul John, Saturday, in St. Patrick's Church.

The hostesses were Mrs. Patrick Newkirk and Mrs. David Hensel.

Showers were also given by Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain of Utica Road; Mrs. Joseph Hur-

Mrs. L. W. Martin entertained at a luncheon-shower in her Pleasant Ridge home.

Mrs. Victor P. John of Pleasant Ridge introduced her future daughter-in-law at a cocktail party and was hostess for the rehearsal dinner, Thursday, in Bedell's Restaurant.

Mrs. Richard Evans, Airway Drive, won the third sewing machine at The Pontiac Press Cooking School Thursday night. With her is Dave Porter of Rich-

An open house in the Congregational Church of Almont Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. will honor the Harold Waltons of Almont on their golden wedding anniversary. Their children will host the event. They are Mrs. Alvin Kaflik of Whims Lake, Oakland Township, Mrs. Fred Eschenburg and a son Robert, both of Almont. The Waltons, who were wed Jan. 31, 1917 in Lapeer, have eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Former area residents Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Mildebrandt of Lewiston will observe their golden wedding anniversary tonight at a commemorative service and buffet supper in the Gethsemane Lutheran Church in Avon Township. Their children will host the event. They are Mrs. Raymond Engel of Milford, James of New York, Thomas of Phoenix, Ariz. and Otto of Grant Street, Avon Township. The couple, wed Jan. 30, 1917, have ten grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah J. O'Leary, West Walton Boulevard, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Sunday at a 3 to 5 p.m. open house in their home. Married Jan. 30, 1917 in Detroit, the O'Learys have three children, Jerry of Pontiac and Mrs. Albert J. DeSantis and Mrs. Sylvester V. Schmansky of Waterford Township. They have nine grandchildren.

Pictures Are Color Key

The decorating emphasis of a picture grouping can highlight an individual piece of furniture or accent an entire room.

Framed reproductions of favorite paintings, original art, framed photographs, even framed needlework samples or hobby collections can be combined for an attractive grouping. Any wall space, suitable in size for the pictures, may be used for a grouping.

PICTURE DECOR

The key to arranging a picture grouping is a "key" picture — the largest or most colorful one in the grouping. To assure a pleasing wall arrangement, the Picture and Frame Institute recommends grouping the pictures on the floor before hanging them. These are the steps suggested by the Institute for planning a wall grouping:

- Place the key picture on the floor first.
- Arrange and rearrange the other pictures around it until deciding on a grouping which is pleasing to the eye and suitable to the wall space. The key picture need not be in the center of the arrangement, but should be the focal point of the grouping.

Save This Item if You Sew

Put this down in your household notebook — and the next time you want to buy material to make a new spread for your bed, you will have it at your finger tips without the bother of measuring over again.

To make a spread for a full sized bed with straight lines you will need 6 yards of 50-inch material, and 9 yards for pleated sides.

Why Grow Old?

by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The song "Walking Happy" which I heard in the play by that name made me think of this column. I have written about this many times before but seeing the things I know to be true, vividly dramatized on the stage, activated me again concerning this subject.

There is a happy walk, a sad walk, a determined walk, an indifferent walk, a nervous walk, a tired walk, a contemplative walk and an angry walk. Few people realize how clearly our moods and outlook are reflected in our walk, in our posture, in the way we move about or sit or stand.

When we are tired or discouraged we are very likely to let our shoulders droop, in fact, to droop all over. We are almost sure to look down as we walk rather than straight ahead or up. Many a case of round shoulders and dowager's hump developed during times of emotional or physical strain.

STRIDE ALONG

On the other hand, when we are enthusiastic, optimistic, eager or self confident, we are almost sure to stride along in a breezy manner, with head held high and face alight.

This is somewhat like the old question of which came first, the chicken or the egg. It is also true that our posture can affect our mental attitude. The very act of straightening up, toward the sky, and lifting our chest and our chin can make us feel better. This is true for physical as well as psychological reasons. Our internal organs have more room, and we breathe more deeply.

Our posture and the way we walk have a terrific influence on the impression we make on others, whether we appear successful or not, eager or bored, vibrant or dull, friendly or unfriendly.

Let me review the tenets for a lovely walk; spine straight, abdomen pulled in, hips tucked under, chin parallel to the floor, knees and shoulders relaxed, and reach forward from the hips with each step.

The commonest element in the universe is hydrogen.

Old Store Stays Same

SOUTH BEND, Neb. (AP) — Little has changed in the small country store, now run by Bill Rosencrans, since the building was constructed 100 years ago.

Most of the counters and shelves still in use were installed back in the 1860s, and the post office which occupies a corner of the store dates back to the 1870s. Against the wall is the first telephone booth installed, constructed of thick oak boards fitted together with hidden nails.

The meat cutting table is a solid piece of sycamore, and Rosencrans still gets his bacon in slabs.

What Was That About Women?

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — Traffic accidents kill at least three males to each female, and even more in the age groups from 15 to 34, according to Dr. Irmagene N. Holloway, Safety Program Specialist in Accident Prevention for the Public Health Service. In the 15 to 24 age group, the ratio is 3.6 men to every woman, and in the 25 to 34 age group, 4 men to each woman.

3 at WTHS Win Band Honors

By MARY JERGOVICH
Waterford Township High School band members Jim Herington, Dave Lindsay and Mike Reeds have been selected to try out for the All-State Band.

The band is made up of outstanding high school musicians in Michigan.

To be in it, one must be a member of a high school band, nominated by a committee of student band members and recommended by the band director and principal.

They also must be approved by a panel of six impartial band directors from different schools.

Jim plays tuba, Dave, french horn, and Mike, coronet.

BHHS Exams Prime Interest

By DIANE LAMB
This week students at Bloomfield Hills High School have been "coming and going" with semester examinations.

"Coming and going" is exactly the phrase, for students only report at those times when they are scheduled for tests.

Semester exams started Tuesday for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd hours and continued Wednesday with 4th, 5th, and 6th periods. Thursday was reserved for make-up exams.

Monday is the ninth orientation. Prospective sophomores for the year of '67-68 will follow a high school procedure.

Seniors have the day off and underclassmen will be dismissed at 11:30.

Lake Orion Debaters Await Tournament

By LINDA DAVIS
The steadily improving Lake Orion Community High debaters are awaiting the district tournament at Royal Oak Kimball High School tomorrow.

Their general topic for the meet is whether the United States should limit its foreign aid to nonmilitary assistance.

Under the coaching of faculty member Mrs. Pat Krauss, the team finished the regular season with an improved record of seven wins in 16 debates.

The Lake Orion debaters participated in the West Oakland Debate League as well as the state league this year.

This allowed the debaters to participate in 16 individual debates instead of just the eight that the state league offers.

LITTLE EXPERIENCE

Debating for the Orion team was only one experienced member, Ross Miller, a junior.

Ross' partner, the other negative team member, is sophomore Roland Selvidge.

Roland aided the team with bits of debating knowledge that he had acquired in Guam, his home country.

The affirmative team was composed of sophomore Jack Martin and Pam Houston, a junior.

LOCAL LEAGUE

On the local league level, Lake Orion met Waterford, Walled Lake, Southfield, Pontiac Northern, Farmington and Waterford Kettering.

In the state league, Lake Orion hosted two debates with Flint St. Johns Vianney and Milford. They traveled to Flint Gamady and Waterford Kettering.

SPEECHLESS — When the fourth member of the Lake Orion Community High School debate team, Roland Selvidge of 185 Cayuga, Oakland Township, had to resort to sign language, his fellow team members

Student Teachers Special

By KIM SEROTA
Student teachers come and go at Groves High School just as they do in many other schools. But to the students of Groves, these teachers are very special.

Four student teachers have just left the school to follow their careers.

All are Michigan State University students and have either returned to State or begun regular teaching.

Pat Harche, a Groves' graduate, has returned to finish her art education studies, and Pam Grubbs to complete her work for a degree in English.

***

Paul Lipa has gone back to MSU to finish his senior year. After graduation he is planning to teach music.

TEACHING MATH

Randy Sims has completed her training and is now teaching mathematics at Berkshire Junior High.

The new student teachers have just completed their first week at Groves and seem to be impressed with the school and the students.

Said Lillian Fajardo, a chemistry student from Wayne State University, "I expected to have some discipline problems, but there weren't any."

Also impressed was Mrs. Deborah Loupee, a biology student from WSU, who stated that she would like to teach in Birmingham.

WSU GRAD

Other student teachers include Mrs. Muriel Straight, a graduate in library science from WSU.

Shirley Smith, who is studying German, and Linda Dofner, a history student, are both from Michigan State.

Paul Engel, a French student

DOMINICANS Plan Charity Bake Sale

"Ricky," the March of Dimes poster boy, has inspired a bake sale at Dominican next week. Seniors are donating the food, and all proceeds will go to the charity.

Seniors are also holding a raffle on a cosmetic kit. The winner will be personally tested for the right shade of makeup. Profits will be placed in the senior trip fund.

The destination of the senior trip is still uncertain. New York, Montreal, Chicago and the Jack & Jill Dude Ranch are being considered.

Two Avondale Boys

By HELEN LOWERY
"High" futures are in store for two Avondale High School students. Sherman Blamerg son of Mr. and Mrs. Sven Blomberg of 2767 Grant, Avon Township, and Randy Connop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Connop of 633 Nichols, Pontiac Township, have an unusual hobby which they hope will lead to a permanent career.

The difference between these boys and the average teenager is that flying takes precedence over driving a souped-up automobile.

Sherman and Randy agree that there is nothing more thrilling than soaring through

SAY IT ISN'T SO — Members of the Walled Lake High School ski team (from left) Midge Mitich of 2253 Robell and Sue Rotramel of 1543 Grinshaw welcomed yesterday's heavy snow warning. Both are residents of Commerce Township. The girls with 8 skiing companions are leaving today for the northern slopes and a weekend of skiing.

HIGH FLIERS — Their heads in the clouds, Avondale High School students (from left) Sherman Blamerg of 2767 Grant, Avon Township, and Randy Connop of 633 Nichols, Pontiac Township, take time out to talk shop on the ground. Avid aviation fans, both teen-agers hope to complete the requirements for private pilot's licenses by next summer.

High Hopes for Flying Careers

By HELEN LOWERY

The clouds. Their paths never crossed while learning to fly, yet their mutual interest gives them something in common that not many can share.

Sherman's interest in flying dates back to his junior high school days when he was an avid model airplane builder.

Randy's father, an ardent flight fan, started him in the field of aviation.

LICENSE

Requirements for a private pilot's license call for 40 air hours, half of which are spent in dual instruction and half in solo flights. They hope to complete these by next summer.

"Please Help Me!" This is a plea heard from many children throughout the world.

Avondale's Student Council is at work to help these little folks.

The March of Dimes committee consists of Carol Dellerba, chairman, with assistants Diane Churchill and Gertrude Nawrocki.

JA HONOR

Four of Avondale's Junior Achievement executives were guests of the Detroit Economic Club at their recent luncheon held in Detroit's Cobo Hall.

Dennis Lambert, James Ison, Troy and Dennis Darch, were guests of William J. Young, Jr., president of the Detroit Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

"Sentimentalists" — describes three of Avondale's student leaders, Chuck Devereaux, Larry Davis and Roger Davis. Monday, they attended an assembly at the junior high honoring Lawrence Scherer, junior high principal.

GOOD WISHES

He showed these boys the ropes throughout junior high, and they wished him well on his new assignment.

Avondale students had an opportunity to add a touch of culture to their lives Thursday when they attended the dramatic presentation of the Avondale Chalk Circle at Oakland University.

More outside activities will be attended by our students throughout the remainder of the year.

***

JUNIOR PROM

On this night, the junior class will host its annual junior prom. The theme of "Red Roses in the Night" was accepted by all and together with the full moon, it should make quite an evening for everyone who attends.

We Who Are hand and for the first time a king, queen and a court have been selected.

King of the Junior Prom is Roger Davis. The queen has been selected, but will not be known until the night of the prom.

PROM PLANS

Arrangements for the prom were handled by junior class officers.

Storm Cancels Events

Many basketball games and activities have been canceled because of the snowstorm. Consult your schools for their status.

Trip North, Team Contest for Walled Lake's Ski Club

By ANNE PERSSON

Many ski enthusiasts of Walled Lake High School are spending their semester break on northern ski slopes.

Today 40 students, anticipating better skiing conditions than those found locally, left for the Shanty Creek ski area in Bellaire.

They will stay at the Watomie Pines Motel until Sunday.

The ski trip was organized by the Ski Club whose sponsors are Harold Estep, biology teacher; Cynthia Moloney, physical education teacher; and Dave Smith, physical education teacher.

COMPETE

Ski team members, who will also be on the trip, will compete in a nonleague, informal race tomorrow at the Caberfae ski area against the ski team from Cadillac High School.

The annual student talent show will be held Feb. 8, during the school day.

Students who want to participate in the show must audition Tuesday or Thursday. The auditions will be held from 2:30 until 4:00.

A new Drama Club, which meets on Thursdays, has recently been created by Jacquelyn Bowers, speech teacher.

COMEDY

The club, which incorporates the drama division of the Arts Guild, will present a comedy at the Arts Festival, March 10-11.

Other Schools in Area Hum With Activity Oxford

By CATHY OBERG

Although the heat wave hit Oxford High School, the skiers were not deterred from their trip preparations.

Wednesday afternoon, as soon as exams were over, they loaded up the luggage and headed north for three days of skiing.

This year, the skiers skied at Thunder and Boyne Mountains near Petoskey.

HOMEMAKER

Nancy Reitano has been selected as the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow. She was chosen on the basis of a homemaking test given all senior girls earlier this year. Nancy will represent our school in the national competition.

Monday the annual March of Dimes Peanut Sales will begin. Sponsored by the Future Nurses Club, this sale will raise money to help crippled children. Last year $70 was taken in.

An auction will be held by parents of seniors of Oxford. The date has been set for Feb. 6, and it will take place in the junior high school auditorium.

Its purpose is to raise money for the senior trip. Prepare Bermuda! Oxford seniors will be there in 44 days.

Our Lady

By CONNIE MAYWORM

The friend and mascot of everyone at Our Lady of the Lakes High School, Thumper, became the proud father of seven fuzzy bunnies this week.

Although Thumper is white, only three of the litter were white; the others were black.

The general feeling around school about Thumper's new family seems to be summed up in this quotation from one of the teachers: "We're bound to get the championship now that we have twenty-eight extra rabbits' feet bringing us luck."

The senior class' Valentine dance is next Friday. Entitled "Heart Attack," it will feature the Psychotic 4 Plus 1.

St. Fred's

By TIM HALL

The junior class at St. Frederick High swings with the beat world by presenting its long awaited dance, "Psychotic Reaction."

Slated for Saturday night from 8 to 11, the event will feature the Psychotic 4 Plus 1 as entertainment.

West Bloomfield

By MARGIT MISANGYI

West Bloomfield High School is now taking applications from families interested in having an American Field Service (AFS) student next year.

Interested families should call the school office by Feb. 1, so processing can get under way.

Northern Debaters Win Honors

By Debbie Killen

The Pontiac Northern Debate Team was recently awarded a plaque. This award is given to those debate teams who have won 75 per cent of their debates on a varsity level.

The Debate Team also won the Inter-Lakes Novice Debate Trophy for first place in the novice league.

The JV Debate Team won the West-Oakland JV Debate Trophy, placing first in that league.

Members of the novice team are Aloma Julian, Pat Griffin, Kathy Douglas, Hans Kummert, Cindy Kiels, Debby Talbot, Ann Herzog and Pat Adomitis.

One of the outstanding debaters on Stanley Rogell's debate team is Bob Han. Bob established a record by remaining undefeated in competition while changing partners weekly.

SKI CLUB

Northern's Ski Club has been taking full advantage of the weather.

The Ski Club, under the direction of Mrs. Bruce Neely, has a membership of approximately 100. Ron Pepper and Mike Davis are present and vice president of the club respectively.

During the weekend of Feb. 10-12, the Ski Club will ski at Caberfae near Cadillac. Fifty-two students have signed up for the excursion. Ten faculty members plan to accompany the group.

MOCK TRIAL

In a mock trial, Jim Corr was found innocent of the charge of being absent without excuse four days from speech class during fourth hour.

Pat Adomitis, prosecuting attorney, failed to substantiate the charge of four days absences.

Judge Debbie Talbot released the prisoner when the members of the jury, Carol Deaton, Roy Sorrow, Debbie Copple, and Linda Gillette, found him not guilty.

The defense attorney, Pete Lauinger, proved that Jim was in order all four times: two days were excused for singing in the choir, he was ill one day, and was present the other.

Stanley Rogell was so occupied with matters of the debate team that he missed Jim during the taking of the role (as was explained by defense attorney).

Rogell admitted that it was difficult to determine whether Jim was present or not because he is often late.

Jim Corr is a member of the wrestling team in the heavy-weight division. His excuse for being late was that he must stop in the cafeteria to get a bite to eat to keep up that weight.

This trial was used as a teaching device for Rogell's speech class.

Semester Tests at Emmanuel

By LINDA WRIGHT

Students of Emmanuel Christian School had a chance this week to find out how much they did or did not learn this semester.

Monday was a general review day and class tests were scheduled for either Tuesday or Wednesday with school dismissal at 1 p.m.

There was no school yesterday or today and the new semester will begin on Monday.

The junior class is beginning to settle down after the excitement of receiving its long awaited class rings.

The main feature of the '68 rings was the addition of the school name around the store.

BANQUET

Eyes are now turned toward the plans for the Junior-Senior Banquet which will be in May.

Under the leadership of class President William Stouffer, juniors have been busy selling candy and arranging other money making projects to reach the goal of $600.

Singer Loses, Kills Himself

SAN REMO, Italy (AP) — Pop singer Luigi Tenco killed himself today after he was eliminated from the San Remo Festival, Italy's biggest song competition.

Police said he fired a shot into his head in his hotel room after writing a brief note lamenting that he had "devoted the five best years of my life" to singing and writing songs.

"Everything caves in around me," he wrote.

The singer, 27, was paired in the festival with French-Italian Dalida. They both presented a love song "Ciao, My Love, Ciao."

ELIMINATED

It was the last of 15 songs on the first night program of the big annual festival. An hour later 15 juries of 15 jurors each scattered through Italy selected the seven first-night songs which will enter Saturday's finals along with seven more songs to be selected tonight.

Tenco and his song were eliminated.

Others eliminated American Connie Francis and Tenco's partner, Dalida. American Gene Pitney was among those named to the finals.

Tenco became popular in Italy in the past five years. He was unmarried and lived with his mother.

Relatives Count in Election Tally

EAST ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Republican nominee Pat Pullano figures it may be easier, relatively speaking, for him to win in the March Village Board election than other candidates.

Although this village has 8,500 residents, 150 are Pullano's relatives, most of voting age.

Stolen 'Drugs' Are Deadly, Peril Thieves

COOLEEMEE, N.C. (AP) — Two bandits may be carrying around some deadly loot — thinking they have a supply of drugs.

Druggist Edgar Hoyle said he found two masked men trying to open a safe in his drugstore Thursday. One of the men pointed a gun and ordered him out of the store.

Hoyle said the men then scooped about three dozen small bottles from a shelf and fled.

"They apparently thought they were narcotics," Hoyle said, "but all contained poison — atrophine, Strychnine, arsenic, and the like."

What's Happening in China—5

Anxious World Eyes Struggle

(EDITOR'S NOTE — What's ahead for China? In this article, last of a series, an AP specialist in Communist affairs looks at some of the strains in the wind and weighs the impact.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The outcome of the slugging match between contending forces in Red China is a matter of tremendous concern for the rest of the world.

What will it mean for the future of Chinese-Soviet relations, now at their ebb? What impact will it have on China's march toward status as a full-fledged nuclear power? What will it mean to the Chinese people and their economy? Is China facing a new economic disaster because of the profound upheaval now in progress?

All these questions and many more are involved in the struggle, but the answers can be little more than speculation.

There is always a possibility, for example, that China would make some sort of peace with the Soviet Union if the forces of Mao Tse-tung and Defense Minister Lin Piao lose the battle. All the so-called "revisionists" in China are in the other camp.

NOT OPTIMISTIC

The Russians aren't betting on that, however. Their comments on the China scene leave the impression that they have little expectation of a victory by any pro-Soviet faction.

There is a possibility, too, that a Chinese leadership in a death struggle to maintain itself might be prompted to take some sort of adventurous course as a desperate measure to attempt to unify the country. This could take the form of a military feat toward India or involvement in Vietnam.

Clearly, the Russians are worried about this, and display the worry frequently in their press comments on the China struggle.

The struggle has been going on for years. What is happening now is only a new — though probably decisive — phase of it. Meanwhile, it has failed to impede China's march to membership in the nuclear club, which she now claims by virtue of five explosions, including one which married a nuclear warhead to a missile and brought China's neighbors within range. Although scientists are required to be indoctrinated Communists in China, both sides in the struggle have had a tendency to seal them off from the political wars of Peking, to permit them to concentrate on their job of pushing China toward the rank of major power.

MAY TOUCH VIETNAM

Some impact of the struggle may yet be felt in Vietnam, since China is one of the two chief sources of help for North Vietnam and the Communist cause in the south. Disruption of the Chinese economy can mean also disruption in the flow of supplies to Hanoi.

Another result could be a lessening of direct Chinese pressure on Hanoi to fight to the last Vietnamese. Preoccupied with its internal struggle, Peking is in no position to be preoccupied with Vietnam, and this could leave Hanoi some leeway should it want to respond to a peace overture.

The most serious consequences of the struggle are likely to show up in the Chinese economy, already weak and austere. China is a nation of 750 million, growing at the rate of 15 million a year. A half billion are peasants. Food already is short and rationed. Living standards are low.

Now the "great proletarian cultural revolution," by which Mao evidently intends to secure his place in the pantheon of Communist gods and insure against a new generation straying from the orthodox path, has reached to the hinterland peasants. This is dangerous for China if it interferes with spring sowing and the next crops.

DAMAGE DONE?

But serious damage must already have been done, if even part of the reports from inside China are true.

A mammoth struggle has been going on to command an important base of power: the urban proletariat in the factories and at the work benches.

Correspondents of a number of nations, reporting from inside China, including Japanese and the Communist bloc, supply some hints. So do broadcast reports of the Red Chinese themselves, and documents coming out of the country. They tell of things like these:

• Defense Minister Lin Piao, apparently seeking to deliver the coup de grace to his opponents, including President Liu Shao-chi, has ordered a Red Guard revolutionary onslaught among the labor unions. He has abolished the party-dominated Trade Union Federation and replaced it with a "federation of revolutionary rebels." This has caused bloody clashes.

• In Nanking and Shanghai, both vitally important industrial cities, water and power supplies were cut off for some time as the teen-age Red Guards met armed resistance from workers.

• Rail traffic between cities often is cut. When the trains run, they often are the scene of wild disturbances. Already overcrowded trains are boarded by swarms of Red Guards without tickets, who throw others off, and beat up crews.

• Canton, another highly important industrial city, has been hit by a wave of strikes. Shanghai, China's largest city and hub of her commerce, is experiencing a desperate shortage of coal because dock workers refused to unload ships. Factory production in many cases has ground to a halt.

• On Chushan Island, off Shanghai, 6,000 farmers attacked Red Guard units and wrecked a radio station.

• In Peking, a clash at an airplane plant halted production.

• In some areas, the Red Guards made propaganda attacks on the police as "a claw thrust out" by the supporters of President Liu. Police are helpless anyway, and just look on while the Red Guards rampage.

• Fukien Province, a Mandarin language broadcast said, would have "very grave problems" soon if the cultural revolution did not prevail. Large numbers of workers there left the factories, it admitted — with a charge that the opposition was plotting to blame the consequences on the cultural revolution.

• Local "responsible party persons" at provincial levels are being called "monsters, freaks and rascals" because, it is alleged, they are inciting strikes and threatening total stoppage in many enterprises.

• The "monsters and freaks" are practicing "economism," which is a peculiarly Communist sin. It means promising workers a better deal. This will "corrupt the masses," the Peking radio says.

BITTER YEARS

There are elements in China who evidently feel that the nation should pull in its horns, become less bellicose and pay more attention to the internal economy. They see a prospect only of long, bitter years of hardship for the whole people under present policies.

This might mean, should that side prevail, some sort of reconciliation with Moscow, although in any case it likely would be an uneasy one.

Nevertheless, by all the signs coming out of Moscow, the Soviet Communist party is preparing its own rank and file for a long struggle against Peking policies.

The Soviet Union is not alone in its worries about what the Chinese "great cultural revolution" may produce in the future. Nations on China's border and elsewhere watch in fascinated awe as the spectacle of the great upheaval unfolds. It could lead in almost any direction. That is the danger.

86 new 1967 cars just went through their first competitive performance tests. In public.

Here are the 9 winners.

Daytona Beach, Florida—Meet the winners of the 10th Annual Union/Pure Oil Performance Trials. The men who build and sell them can be proud. These new cars just passed the meanest tests of 'em all. With flying colors.

The Trials tested the new cars for economy, acceleration, and braking. All on the up and up. No tricks. No frills. All cars competed against others in their same class. So it was a fair contest for the people who build the cars. And a handy comparison for those who are going to buy them.

The Trials were sanctioned and supervised by NASCAR (National Association for Stock Cars, Inc.) and sponsored as a public service by Union Oil Company of California and its Pure Oil division. All entries were picked up right from the showroom floors, examined and broken in under strict NASCAR security. And kept under 24-hour guard until their last run in competition.

Here's how the cars were tested: 1) Economy—a special auxiliary fuel system tested them for gasoline economy: how far did they go on a gallon of gas? A highly accurate "fifth wheel" measured distance traveled. 2) Acceleration—cars were tested for passing ability—acceleration from 25 to 70 mph. Automatic electronic equipment measured the elapsed time. 3) Braking—test demonstrated car's ability to make a high-speed emergency stop in a single traffic lane. After severe brake usage, a car's tendency to swerve due to hot brakes is brought out.

If you'd like to know more about the Trials, fill out the coupon and send it in. We'll mail you the Official Results Handbook. ## Icebox Mishmash Is Food for Thought

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON — As often as not when I go to the kitchen for my nightly dram of barley water, I find a bundle of laundry in the refrigerator.

Once, a year or so ago, I asked my wife why she did this. I don't remember now what her answer was, but I do recall that the explanation sounded fairly logical.

At any rate, I am no longer startled by it. Laundry in the refrigerator is one of those things you learn to live with. And, on the theory that what you don't know won't hurt you, I make a point of never looking inside the washing machine.

I mention this by way of illustrating my text for today, which concerns icebox conformity.

SURVEY LAUNCHED

At heaven knows what expense, Republic Molding Corp., which manufactures plastic food containers, recently underwrote a survey on refrigerator organization.

More than 500 home efficiency experts were asked to state whether in their opinion the average refrigerator in this country was well-organized.

The response was a big surprise: overwhelmingly negative.

Leftovers, which have been defined elsewhere as "bits of food kept in the refrigerator until they are old enough to be thrown away," were rated the main contributor to refrigerator higglermug.

OTHER PROBLEMS

Wasted storage space, "mystery" packages and poor distribution of contents were among the other problem areas listed. (Laundry, incidentally, was not mentioned.)

If, as I suspect, those who participated in the survey were sitting in judgment on refrigerators other than their own, then I submit that their findings are of no social value.

I have peeked into a few strange refrigerators in my time and I have unfailingly been confused and befuddled by the arrangements of their contents.

It is almost as bewildering as peeking into strange bathroom medicine cabinets.

'HUNT THE MUSTARD'

But that does not necessarily mean they were poorly organized.

Say you are a house guest and you have occasion to play "hunt the mustard" in the refrigerator.

You finally find it on the second shelf behind yesterday's lamb stew and beneath a camouflage of celery stalks.

You would be inclined to mark that down to poor organization on the part of your hostess when actually it is a matter of your own disorientation.

You are accustomed to your own refrigerator where the mustard is usually found on the bottom shelf under a bundle of laundry.

Tax Relief for Fairs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., has introduced a bill which would give relief to several Michigan fairs which have been penalized in recent years by federal unemployment taxes.

Hutchinson's bill would amend the federal unemployment tax act to exempt short-term employees of agricultural or horticultural fairs.

Exempted from the act would be those whose wages total less than $250 per year or those whose services are performed on fewer than 15 days.

Hutchinson said that several Michigan fairs have been severely penalized in recent years by being required to pay federal unemployment taxes for employees retroactive to 1961 and providing refunds for taxes already paid.

Here's what owners have to say about White Sale Fords bought in previous years:

Michael Trupiano, Detroit, Mich. Price sold me—my '66 Custom 500 was a good buy. You can tell the car is solidly built by the way it feels.

George Jagodzinski, Toledo, Ohio. I liked the appearance of the car, the way it was equipped, and the price. It's a '66 Custom 500. Very reliable.

Ruth Nichols, Farmington, Mich. I like the economy of my '66. All the extras, too. With these Fords, you know you're getting value.

Jack F. Carr, Marion, Ohio. When you drive 30,000 miles a year, you appreciate a quiet ride. My '66 is air-conditioned and it's a great road car.

H. George Roller, Southfield, Mich. Everybody likes a bargain and my '66 looks like a much more expensive car. The extras sold me.

Robert Cunningham, Livonia, Mich. It's very well built—the quality is there, you can tell. Even the '390' V-8 in my '66 uses regular gas.

John F. McPherson, Findlay, Ohio. My '66 was an excellent buy. Special trim gives it a different look. Vinyl seats are made for travel with kids.

Harold Wagner, Delphos, Ohio. Nothing like the '352' V-8 in my '65 for pulling a 19-ft. travel trailer. And with kids, you need vinyl seats.

Edna M. Beck, Chelsea, Mich. I've taken two trips to California in my '65 Custom. It's a pleasure to drive—holds the road even in a prairie crosswind.

A. C. Lenhard, Livonia, Mich. My last two cars were Fords but the '66 has the best ride. The vinyl interior is childproof, too.

Larry Moore, Defiance, Ohio. It was a buy. My '66 saves on gas and the ride is smooth, even on rough back roads.

Robert C. Arrick, Jr., Ypsilanti, Mich. It's a lot of car for the money. I've got 51,000 miles on my '64. It always starts and it's easy on gas.

He Had Use for Hunting Knife

By TOM TIEDE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

BONG SON, Vietnam — When Bardon Blizzard bought a bulky, 16-inch hunting knife here a few months ago, everybody laughed.

"What good is it?" they asked.

"I'll find a use," he answered.

But at first he didn't. When he practiced throwing it into a wooden platform, a colonel chewed him out for defacing U.S. property. When he took it into the officers' mess, irate seniors heaved him out.

* * *

So, mostly, the Bethesda, Ohio, officer just wore it. He affixed the scabbard to his belt, tied the point to his leg and walked around the First Air Cavalry grounds looking, as a companion said, "like an idiot."

USED TO ABUSE

Blizzard cared little, though. He was used to abuse. As the youngest first lieutenant in all of Vietnam at 20, he was criticized for everything from his attitude (too serious) to the way he wore his hair (shaved clean).

Then, the other day the abuses stopped. The fact is Bardon Blizzard cut them off with his knife.

The lieutenant and some others were engaged in a prolonged fire fight with scores of well-bunkered and hidden enemy soldiers.

* * *

CUT OFF FROM MAIN BODY

By midmorning it was determined that at least one GI had been cut off from the main body. A sergeant told Blizzard the man had been spotted about 150 yards out front, well into Communist territory.

"Anybody try to get him?"

"No sir, impossible."

"Is he still alive?"

* * *

The sergeant didn't know.

Quickly, Blizzard removed his heavy gear. He dropped his field pack, his rations and his rifle. He kept his knife. Then he crawled toward the abandoned soldier.

SNIPER ROUNDS WHISTLED

It was spooky going. Sporadic sniper rounds whistled from his flank and his front. He maneuvered to and from his only protection — logs, scrub brush and mounds of earth.

Rain drizzled down his collar and mud clung to his fatigues. From time to time he glanced up for direction but saw nothing. Often he halted completely, stopped breathing and listened for sounds.

He had gotten about 100 yards when he saw and heard an enemy soldier. The man, peeking over a trench, was facing the opposite direction and firing a rifle off to Blizzard's left.

* * *

The lieutenant unbuttoned his knife. He changed direction slightly and began to crawl again, silently, the knife ready.

NEVER KNEW WHAT HAPPENED

The enemy soldier never knew what happened. Blizzard rose up behind, grabbed the guerrilla's face with his left hand, swung his blade to the throat.

Death was instantaneous.

Then to his right Blizzard saw the isolated GI. He was sprawled in a hole. He was dead. Blizzard picked him up and pushed and pulled the lifeless soldier out of reach of the enemy.

* * *

Moments later, the lieutenant dropped the body in friendly lines and slumped to earth himself. He had not been hit nor wounded, but his head ached and his body was wet with the blood of others.

His knife, too, was smeared. He turned it carefully in his hand, wiped it on the leg of his trousers and put it inside his belt.

The men of his unit watched in silence, eyes wide, mouths open, skin twitching.

"Well," Blizzard said, "I found a use."

* * *

Junior Editors Quiz on DINOSAURS

QUESTION: What was the strongest dinosaur?

ANSWER: The strongest animals are generally the largest. So if you think of a creature 80 feet long and weighing 50 tons, it must be very strong indeed. This length and weight refers to the animal marked as the biggest in our picture, the Brachiosaurus, largest of the extinct dinosaurs, so tall it could look over a three-story building.

Even longer was the Diplodocus, about 90 feet, although, with a more slender body, it weighed less than Brachiosaurus. Though so huge and powerful, these two dinosaurs were rather inoffensive. They ate plants and spent most of their time in the water, which buoyed up their enormous bodies.

Of course for most powerful dinosaur is the mighty flesh eater shown in front. Tyrannosaurus, who lived by eating other dinosaurs and consequently needed enormous strength to kill them and tear them apart for food. Some 50 feet long, with a huge head armed with savage-looking teeth, Tyrannosaurus is usually considered the strongest and most savage animal which ever lived.

Workshop for Teachers of Whites

Interracial Relationships Are Explored

Equal educational opportunity involves white children, too, a group of Pontiac teachers was reminded yesterday.

The teaching staffs of LeBaron and McCarroll elementary schools held an afternoon workshop to explore ways to make interracial relationships meaningful to their pupils, all of whom are white.

Intergroup relations constitute "the most crucial issue facing public education today," keynote speaker Dr. Edward Leibson said.

A member of the Wayne State University faculty, Leibson was director of a summer seminar the university sponsored on problems incident to de facto school segregation.

He cautioned his listeners against making false assumptions regarding the civil rights movement.

IMPLICATION

"Ask the Negroes here today," he said. "I'm sure they'll tell you they don't want you to do anything FOR them — they want to do things WITH you."

The human relations approach, with its assumption that "everyone will be nice, good and cooperative," too often carries the implication that white people are doing Negroes a favor, he said.

"In general, the Negro is seen as disadvantaged and the white man advantaged," he said, commenting it is further implied that the white man must give up something if the Negro is to realize any gains.

"Unless we get rid of the idea that someone wins and someone loses, we'll all lose," he said.

CONTACT AREAS

School racial contacts can be made in three areas, he said—with improvement needed in teacher distribution, curriculum materials and pupil encounters.

Noting that white children seldom have Negro teachers, Leibson said teachers should make certain their contracts have equal opportunity clauses and should then "spread the word that your district is an equal opportunity employer."

Using Pontiac's social studies textbooks as examples, Leibson discussed the "distortions and serious kinds of omissions" in the books children read.

"You have the responsibility for representing things as they really are," he said.

KNOWLEDGE URGED

He urged them to be knowledgeable about Negro history, use poetry written by outstanding Negroes and make certain their bulletin boards are representative of the population.

Leibson also suggested that the teachers call upon Negroes in the community to serve as resource persons for classroom work, inviting them to discuss topics other than those related to race.

He commented that simply bringing Negro and white children together often is not enough to insure interaction.

"This only comes if they share experiences over extended periods of time," he said.

One idea along this line was explained by the other workshop speaker, Mrs. Edyth Cole, director of Wayne County's shared learning experience program.

In the program, schools from small suburban communities are paired with inner-city schools.

The pupils exchange pen pal letters and then get together to work on a project related to their regular classroom studies, she said.

The third resource person for yesterday's meeting was Dr. Arnold Glovinsky, WSU instructor who is a staff member for human relations workshops at the university.

Opposing Chinese Forces Girding for Long Struggle

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung and his foes appeared today to be girding for a protracted struggle.

Japanese reports from the mainland told of wall posters in Peking reporting that Premier Chou En-li had informed Mao "the recovery of authority has only started."

Other wall posters said that Mao's chief purge administrator, Chen Po-ta, had complained that Red Guards in the capital were "falling behind the rest of the country."

Mao's own propaganda outlets indicated the shape the struggle was taking. There was growing emphasis on the military, and the New China News Agency poured out thousands of words claiming that army support at the "decisive moment" had routed anti-Mao forces in Shansi Province and the Manchurian industrial city of Pinking (Harbin).

STRONG OPPOSITION

But in reporting pledges of support from pro-Mao forces in other parts of the country, NCNA appeared to be indirectly disclosing that his opponents, led by President Liu Shao-chi, were entrenched almost everywhere.

Japan's Kyodo news agency and the Tokyo newspaper Sankei reported from Peking that a wall poster told of a meeting between Mao and Chou earlier this month. Mao was said to have asked Chou how the "recovery of authority" was progressing.

The pictures were taken during a raid by the South Koreans into Vietcong near the village of Thach Khe. The Koreans killed seven and captured three Vietcong.

Reuther Raps Economic Body

Hits Council Claim on Living-Cost Clauses

DETROIT (AP)—United Auto Workers president Walter Reuther Thursday denounced a suggestion by the Johnson administration that cost-of-living escalator clauses contribute to inflation.

The suggestion came from President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, which declared:

"Arrangements which automatically tie wage rates to changes in consumers price indexes will contribute to inflation... (Escalator clauses) would become a vast engine of inflation, which once it began to roll, would continue to gain speed."

Reuther issued a statement in which he reminded the council that "escalator clauses remain inoperative—no worker gets a penny out of them—unless prices rise first."

The UAW, said Reuther, has worked hard to get and keep the cost of living clauses and does not intend to permit any tampering in 1967. Negotiations on new labor contracts in the auto industry begin this summer.

Reuther added: "We will not depart from the escalator principle in this year's negotiations, nor will we tolerate any weakening of its implementation."

The UAW president reiterated his contention that the auto companies could reduce prices to consumers, provide increased wages and benefits to workers, and still earn "more than satisfactory profits for stockholders."

the singer and actor who until about three years ago owned 50 per cent of the Cal-Neva Lodge at North Lake Tahoe.

His questioners Thursday were three government attorneys. His audience was 20 working men and housewives — a federal grand jury investigating reports that some casino officials have not reported their full income for taxes.

Sinatra, who spent 45 minutes before the jurors, was the 100th witness in the investigation which began Nov. 25. The jury is now in recess for about a month. More testimony will be heard later.

APPEARS RELAXED

The singer appeared relaxed and confident as he stepped from a limousine in which he arrived with his attorney, Milton Rudin, and two government attorneys.

In October 1963 Sinatra sold his half interest in the Cal-Neva and a small share of the Sands Hotel here after the state brought action to revoke his gaming license.

The State Gaming Control Board alleged he entertained a Chicago underworld figure, Sam Giancana, at the lodge for more than a week during the summer of 1963.

Giancana is one of 11 men listed in the board's "black book" of persons who are not allowed to frequent casinos or their environs.

Sinatra never formally answered the charges, but sold his interest in the casinos and faded abruptly from Nevada gambling. He still owns the property and buildings at the Cal-Neva, but has no say in operation of the casino.

Graham Defends Crusaders

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says some of the crusaders for Christ at the Berkeley campus of the University of California "get a bit zealous" but he prefers that to "cold, frigid" efforts.

This was Graham's reply Thursday to criticism in the campus newspaper of some methods of crusade workers. The new debate came as the 27,000-member student body was still rocked by the firing of Clark Kerr as president of the nine-campus system.

Graham, who speaks today on the campus, came at the invitation of the Campus Crusade for Christ.

The 600 delegates of the nationwide, nonsectarian organization began last Monday to telephone thousands of students and invite them to soul-searching conferences.

OVERSHADOWED BY RALLIES

But the religious activities had been 'overshadowed' by campus rallies in protest of Kerr's discharge by the university regents after more than two years of intermittent turmoil over free speech and campus rules on political activity.

Then as the tempo of the religious drive increased, the campus newspaper, Daily Californian, printed a critical editorial Thursday.

"Numerous complaints have been made by students who have been awakened early in the morning or accosted on the street or in restaurants by people offering to help the re-prodino, Calif., businessman who founded the Campus Crusade for Christ in 1951, disputed the Bill Bright, 45, a San Bernar-

We don't approve of North's bid of three spades. We don't like to raise a partner with two small trumps even after he has rebid his suit. In this instance South had overcalled with one spade and raised two diamonds to three, thus North had no reason to expect his partner to hold a six-card suit.

Perhaps South should have passed three spades but this was the next to last round of the American team trials and no one was hanging one trick short of game.

In any event, a stop below game would have been a loss-ing action. Two North-South pairs climbed to three no-trump and had no trouble making an overtrick because everything broke well for them.

Dummy's ace of hearts won the opening lead and a spade was led. Edgar Kaplan, sitting East, ducked. South won and led a diamond to dummy's queen. Edgar ducked again. He saw no reason to take his aces in great hurry. However, when a second trump was led from dummy Edgar rose with his ace.

As in any good partnership, Edgar had been watching Norman Kay's low card plays. Norman, had dropped the eight of spades on the first trump lead and the four spot on the second. This trump echo shows three trumps. With only two trumps, Norman would have played the four spot the first time.

Therefore Edgar played

3 Years Change Viet but Not General

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — When Gen. William C. Westmoreland arrived on the Vietnam scene three years ago today the war still was a comparatively small conflict costing a million dollars a day. Fewer than 1,000 American casualties had been taken.

Today the war is 57 times more costly per day, and American casualties have increased 50-fold.

But the three years of heavy responsibility have changed little the outward appearance of the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, chief architect of American strategy here, and confidant of President Johnson. Westmoreland seems to be thriving on the ever-enlarging conflict. He is far more outspoken. When he arrived he was reputed to be a man who slavishly followed administration policy. Nowadays he seems to be making it.

At 53, his chiseled features are a little leaner and they freeze more often into a mask of reprimand for recalcitrant field commanders these days than they used to, his aides say.

PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER

Westmoreland's obvious confidence befits the most powerful American ever to serve in Vietnam, the commander of a U.S. Army larger than that which fought in Korea, and a man mentioned in some quarters as potential presidential timber.

Westmoreland's critics are to be found mainly in the U.S. civilian agencies in Vietnam. As they see it, he deliberately built up his base of power by calling for American troop deployments in Vietnam when his job was to build up the Vietnamese army to fighting pitch.

"He kept telling the Pentagon that the Vietnamese were fighting well but needed bolstering by American forces because there were not enough Vietnamese available," one civilian official says. "Actually, Westmoreland knew the Vietnamese were not doing the job. Now U.S. troops are doing what the Vietnamese should be doing."

The U.S. Command, with a combat force amounting to eight full divisions, now writes off the Vietnamese army as at best a pacification force, the civilians charge.

The civilian agencies, troubled about being submerged by the burgeoning U.S. military establishment, argue that at one time the Vietnamese military could have been improved if a major coordinated effort had been made by Westmoreland and his predecessors.

President Johnson seems to lean upon Westmoreland, rather than Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Deputy Ambassador William J. Porter, as the best hope for real progress in Vietnam. There has been talk that Westmoreland may take over the whole American structure in Vietnam this year.

The four-star general's backers deny that he deliberately built up his power. They claim he took over command at a time when the Communists decided to escalate into the "third" stage, open warfare, as the final move to destroy Saigon's armed forces.

Because of this, the American commander had no choice but to call for reinforcements from home, his backers assert.

Westmoreland's rise to prominence has been swift.

He stepped out of a military aircraft at Saigon Jan. 27, 1964, into a sultry, 95-degree afternoon.

In his hometown, South Carolina drawl he told newsmen: "I'm glad to be here."

He was unknown to the public. He had received his third star only the year before when he commanded the 18th Airborne Corps at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

Five months after arriving in Vietnam, Westmoreland received his fourth star when he took over command of U.S. forces from Gen. Paul D. Harkins, becoming the fifth U.S. military chief here since the country became independent in 1954. The others were Lt. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, 1954-55, Samuel T. Williams, 1955-60, and Lionel G. McGarr, 1960-62.

Vietcong strength was 100,000 and rising rapidly as guerrilla units blossomed into death-dealing battalions and regiments.

The concept of counterinsurgency disappeared under the flail of enemy attacks. Washington's new ambassador, Maxwell D. Taylor, was battling with the political histrionics of the Nguyen Khanh regime.

A U.S. official said at the time: "We are operating in a box. We must expand the box."

Westmoreland opened it up as American forces began flooding in at his request in 1965. In the meantime, he learned about Vietnam's realities.

With a U.S. advisory force of only 16,000 to command, the general had become interested in pacification, and late in 1964 launched the "hop tac" — cooperation — program in five provinces around Saigon.

The idea was to concentrate forces in one area to drive the Communists out. Westmoreland was enthusiastic about the program and wanted to enlarge it. Lack of Vietnamese interest and the deterioration of the war in the central highlands doomed this pacification scheme.

With the increasing arrival of American forces, Saigon discussion centered around the possible establishment of a joint command of U.S. and Vietnamese to insure coordinated military operations. Westmoreland has never favored a joint organization, and time may prove him right.

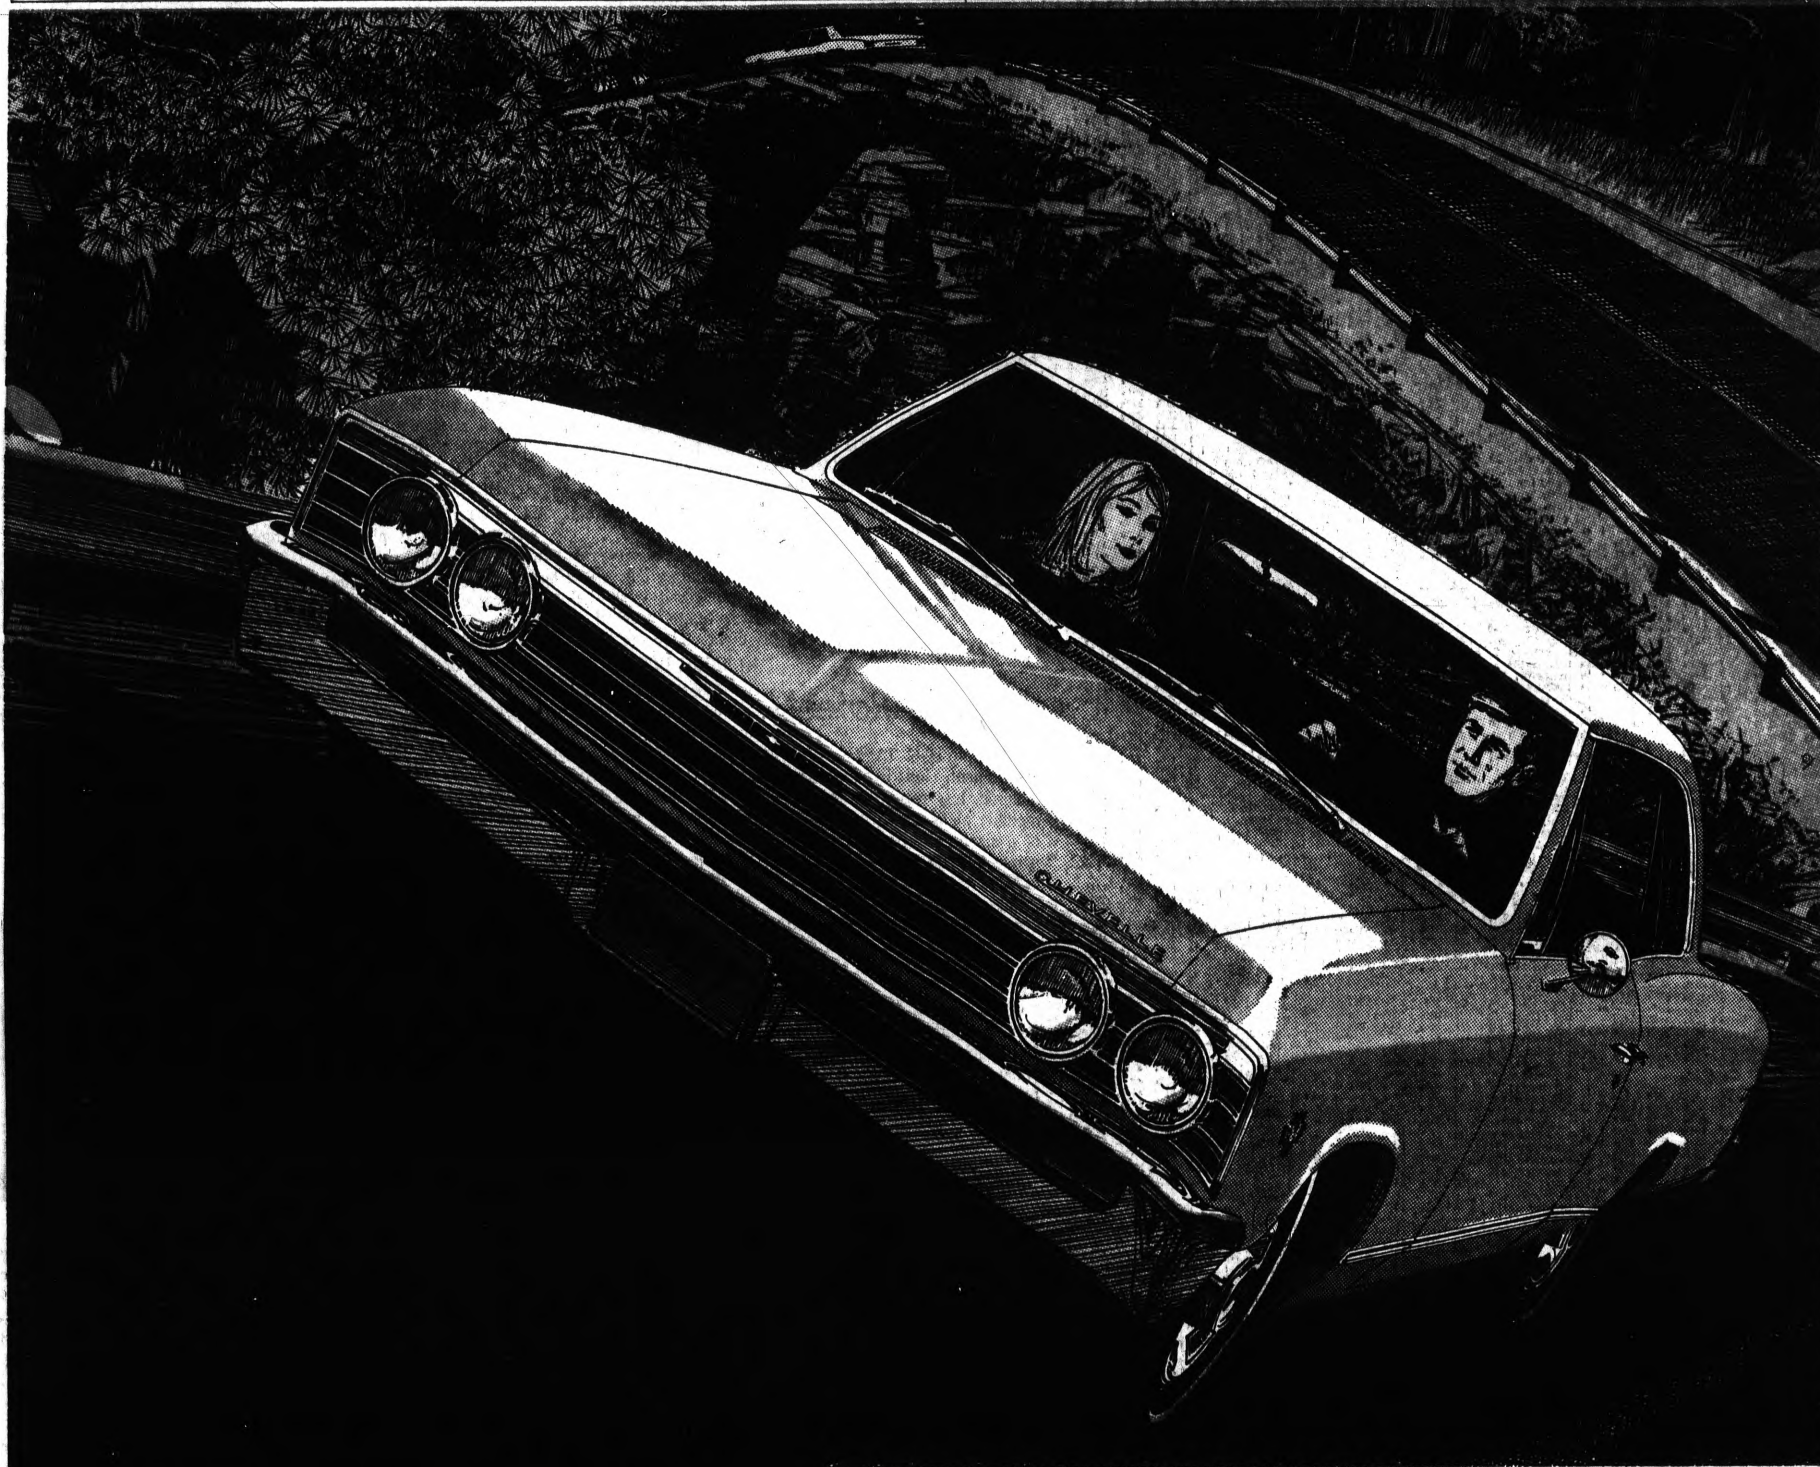

Most American military operations in Vietnam are now launched independent of the Vietnamese, thereby insuring maximum security and rapidity of movement. Westmoreland has advisers with the Vietnamese joint general staff, but his attitude appears to be: "Don't meddle with my operations, and I won't meddle with yours."

This policy applies also to disputes between Vietnamese commanders and their American advisers. Westmoreland has made no real attempt to force the ouster of the commander of the Vietnamese 25th division, Brig. Gen. Chinh, who publicly insulted his senior U.S. adviser in an order of the day read to his troops. His division is the most inactive in the country but Chinh remains commander.

Westmoreland's seeming reluctance to come to grips with the problems of the Vietnamese military system is seen by his critics as his greatest weakness of command, and possibly a fatal weakness for Vietnam if a negotiated settlement should move troops out sooner than expected.

Westmoreland acts as though negotiations were not in sight. He forecasts no early end to the war, and evidently sees 1967 as a year of no great change in the status quo. He is sure of one thing: He wants more American troops deployed over here.

His critics see Westmoreland as an ambitious general with aspirations to become what has jokingly been called "commander in chief, world." His backers see Westmoreland as a hard-pressed commander doing extremely well what has to be done.

Seaholm's Game With Ferndale Is Postponed

Northern Still Slated to Play Farmington '5'

Snow Forces Changes in Schedules; Area Catholic Tilts Off

Birmingham Seaholm's Southeastern Michigan Association basketball title game with Ferndale scheduled for tonight has been postponed. All Birmingham public school events are off and new dates will be announced.

The basketball champion of the Southeastern Michigan Association is likely to be crowned tonight.

The team that claims the title should be the winner of the Ferndale-Birmingham Seaholm clash slated for 8 o'clock on the Ferndale court.

The heavy snow has caused several games to be postponed, including Mt. Clemens at Waterford.

The first meeting between the two back in December went to Ferndale by a 50-48 score and the return match is likely to be a tight one.

AFTER REVENGE

Seaholm hasn't lost since bowing to the Eagles and the Maples may be looking for a little revenge this evening.

Other games in the SEMA have Berkley at Hazel Park and Royal Oak Kimball at Southfield.

The biggest game on the local docket is slated for the Pontiac Northern court where the Huskies will entertain the Falcons from Farmington in Inter-Lakes League contest.

Farmington is unbeaten in 1-1 play at 4-0, while PNH will go into the game with a 3-1 mark.

The Avondale-Madison Oakland A game has been called off.

Others on the O-A slate have Rochester at Clawson, Warren Cousino at Lake Orion and Troy at Warren Fitzgerald.

Birmingham Groves has a home date against Wayne John Glenn and the Falcons will be trying to stretch their winning streak to 10 in a row. Livonia Franklin visits Detroit Thurston and North Farmington is at Oak Park in other Northwest Suburban League games.

All Catholic League contests have been postponed. Following is the list of postponements as of 10:30 a.m.

Barnum Shares 1st in Seniors Event

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI) — They call him "Big John" Barnum. He is big, and one of the biggest things about him is his swing, which put him in a two-way tie Thursday for the lead in the PCA Seniors golf championship at two-under-par 70.

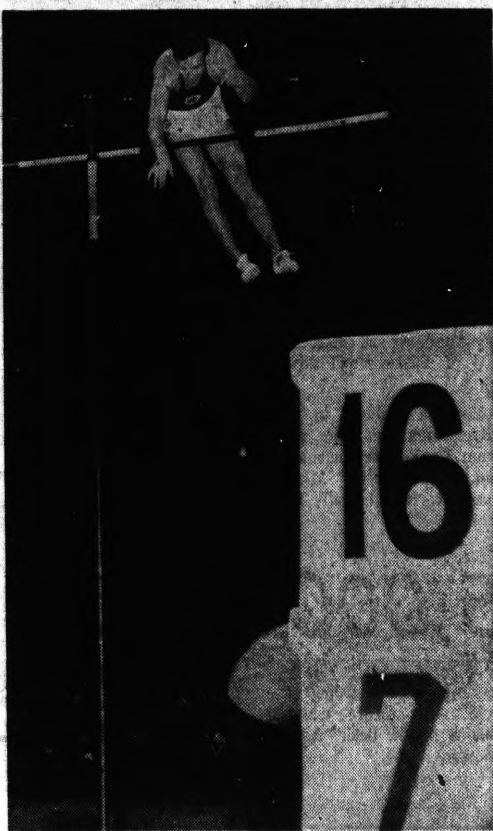

With him was Marty Furgol, who matched Barnum's booming drives with hairline accuracy.

Barnum's long tee shots put him on the road to five birdies, but they also led him into the water in a 33-37 round. The Belmont, Mich., pro who finished second in this $40,000 event last year, scored a double bogey on the par four 13.

Hull's Slap Shot Sinks Wings, 4-3

DETROIT (AP)—"It was a rough one to lose," Detroit Red Wings Manager-Coach Sid Abel said.

The Chicago Black Hawks beat the Red Wings 4-3 Thursday night on a slap shot goal by Bobby Hull. The loss cost the Red Wings a chance to gain on fourth-place Montreal, which lost to Boston, 4-1, in the only other National Hockey League game.

Hockey's Patrick Award Goes to Detroit's Howe

NEW YORK (AP) — Gordie Howe, the National Hockey League's all-time scoring king, today was named the second winner of the Lester Patrick Trophy for outstanding contribution to hockey in the United States.

Howe, who has scored 703 goals in 21 seasons with the Detroit Red Wings, was the unanimous choice of a six-man selection committee headed by NHL President Clarence Campbell. The 38-year-old right-winger will receive the trophy at the second annual Lester Patrick Award Dinner in New York Feb. 20.

The award is presented in memory of Patrick, one of the game's great names as a player, coach and manager of the New York Rangers. Last year's recipient was Jack Adams, who guided Detroit to 12 regular-season championships and seven Stanley Cup titles as coach and general manager of the Red Wings.

Adams, incidentally, signed Howe, then 16, to his first professional contract and was Gordie's pilot for 16 seasons.

Campbell, in announcing Howe's selection, said: "I've been associated with hockey for 40 years. In that time I can think of no man who surpasses Gordie Howe in skills and who has done more to elevate the image of hockey in the United States."

"He has been an uncommonly great hockey player and has been a credit to the game. The record he has achieved in 21 years is his greatest testimony."

Howe, a 6-foot, 204-pound native of Floral, Sask., has played

Val Fonteyne had tied the game for the Wings in the third period. With less than five minutes to go, defenseman Gary Bergman drew a penalty. On the Chicago power play, Hull took a pass from Pierre Pilote in front of the Detroit goal and blasted the puck past Roger Crozier.

"I got a good chunk of it and it went in," Hull said. "It was a pretty good shot. I try to get them up on Roger. I just shoot it, and sometimes it happens."

It was Hull's second goal of the night and 30th of the year. Twelve of his goals have come against Detroit.

WRONG SIDE

Hull was partially screened on the shot. "I looked this way down on it and it went by on the other side," Crozier said.

The Wings jumped to an early lead as Alex Delvecchio raced in from right wing during a power play, took a pass from Andy Bathgate and drove it past Denis DeJordy.

However, Detroit drew a penalty and Hull, turning on the spot, raced in alone on Crozier and scored.

In the second period Crozier made a great save on Ken Hodge, who broke in alone, but the Wings failed to clear the puck and Hodge skated back in front of the net and drilled it home.

Detroit got the tying goal when a shot bounced off Denis DeJordy and Bruce MacGregor jammed the rebound past the Chicago goalie.

PROPER BILLIARDS
by Jim Lidey

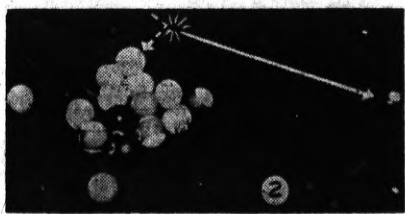

Straight pool—often called 14-1—is the most exacting of all pocket billiard games. It is used in all tournaments. When you are able to master this game, you will excel in any other game played in pocket billiards.

The secret of playing better-than-average straight pool requires an almost complete control of the cue ball in order to position yourself for each succeeding shot.

After 14 balls have been pocketed, the 15th ball remains intact while the 14 balls are re-racked. The player who pocketed the 14th ball then proceeds to try to pocket the 15th ball (illustration No. 1) and break the re-racked balls at the same time (illustration No. 2).

When one player misses a shot, his opponent then shoots from where the balls are positioned. Games usually continue until 50 points are made.

In Millrose Games

Track Stars Beat Handicaps

NEW YORK (AP) — There was smoke in Kerry O'Brien's eyes, novocain in Bob Seagren's back and an elbow in Dave Patrick's ribs.

O'Brien, the Australian distance runner, and Patrick, the collegiate mile champion from Villanova, managed to overcome their handicaps at the Millrose Games Thursday night. But Seagren, who threatens his own indoor pole vault record of 17-1 victory every time he steps out on the runway, ended up a little frustrated.

The 19-year-old University of South California record-holder had to settle for a best vault of 16-7, which was still good enough to set a Madison Square Garden record.

Seagren arrived late and in hurrying through his warmups, pulled a muscle and had to submit to a shot of novocain in the dressing room.

"It's really not an excuse," said Seagren. "I should be able to do 17-2 with my eyes closed."

For O'Brien, however, the meet was far more encouraging. The 20-year-old resident of Adelaide arrived in New York Tuesday and not until he stepped up to the start of the two-mile, had he ever so much as seen a board track.

Countryman Tony Benson, whose baptism on the boards in Boston earlier this month was frustrating, warned O'Brien what he might be in for. But with 2½ laps left in the race, O'Brien ran away from Benson and the rest of the field, winning in 8:36.6, a Millrose record.

Detroit Pistons Down Royals

Dave Bing Scores 32 in 118-110 Triumph

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — After the last two nights, Oscar Robertson almost qualifies as a one-man selection committee for the National Basketball Association rookie of the year.

Wednesday night, the Big O got a view of fast-improving Cazzie Russell of New York as he and Russell duelled each other. The Royals won despite Russell's last half heroics and 17 points. Russell came to New York from the University of Michigan where he was an All-America player.

Detroit's Dave Bing did even better Thursday night, notching 32 points in a head-to-head battle with Robertson as the Pistons beat the Royals 118-110 in Cleveland in the only NBA game of the night.

The Detroit rookie scored 27 of his points in the second half as the Pistons overcame a one-point halftime deficit and took a 83-75 lead into the final period. Bing hit 16 points in the third quarter and then added 13 more in the finale, matching Robertson basket for basket.

Sluggish Mota OKs '67 Pact With Pirates

Free-swinging Manny Mota, the No. 2 man in baseball's No. 1 platoon, is set for another assault against National League pitchers.

Mota, who hit .332 for Pittsburgh last season while sharing center field with NL batting king Matty Alou, returned his signed 1967 contract to the Pirates Thursday.

The 28-year-old Dominican appeared in 116 games, rapped five homers and drove in 46 runs for the Pirates. He led the league in batting for most of the season but did not compile enough at-bats to qualify for the title, won by Alou with a .342 mark.

NOT ENOUGH

While Mota and pitcher Steve Blass signed with Pittsburgh, veteran first baseman Norm Cash joined the Detroit Tigers' fold for a reported $43,000 and 20-year-old Jim (Catfish) Hunter, one of Kansas City's pitching prodigies, agreed to terms and received a "good raise."

Club Homer Title Near for Al Kaline

DETROIT (AP)—If Al Kaline hits 28 home runs this season he'll become the greatest home run slugger in Detroit Tiger history.

Hank Greenberg had 306 round-trippers while in a Detroit baseball uniform.

Norm Cash could take over third in the Tiger all-time home run race with 31. This would push him past Rudy York, who hit 239 as a Tiger.

Kaline, with 10 more games, would become fifth in the standings in games played. With 94 at bats, he'd become fifth in at bats. Three runs scored will put him fifth in all-time Tiger standings, 23 doubles will make him fifth and 181 total bases will put Kaline fourth.

"I was surprised how fast my time was," said O'Brien. "The cigarette smoke pinched my lungs real bad." He was rewarded by being named outstanding athlete of the meet.

As for Patrick, he survived a bad start in the mile in which somebody emplaned an elbow in his ribs and, after a false start was called, came off the blocks the second time and set a meet record for the mile with a 4:03.7.

Another satisfying victory went to Bill Crothers of Toronto, who won his third Millrose 880. Crothers, a 26-year-old druggist, caught Georgetown's Ricardo Urbina just before the wire with a torrid finishing kick, winning in 1:53.2.

Meeting Lew, UCLA

Illinois Eying Upset

By the Associated Press

Dave Scholtz says Lew Alcindor isn't perfect so maybe underdog Illinois will spring college basketball's upset of the season tonight by defeating the unbeaten and top-ranked UCLA Bruins.

A sellout crowd of 18,000 at Chicago Stadium is expected to watch the fighting Illini try to stop Alcindor, UCLA's agile 7-foot-1 super-sophomore, and snap the Bruins' 14-game winning streak.

Scholtz, a 6-7 soph, has been assigned to guard Alcindor.

"He's not perfect," Scholtz said. "I watched him play during the Los Angeles classic at Christmas time and I have a definite plan on what to do against him."

Scholtz didn't give any details about his plan, but he isn't awed point deficit late in the second by Alcindor's reputation. As for half to beat the Sun Devils.

Alcindor "I don't know what to expect, but as long as they're not hanging on me all the time I can play my game."

UCLA's invasion of the midwest to play Illinois tonight and Chicago Loyola Saturday night highlights increased activity in the college dribble sport after a lull for mid-year exams.

Texas Western, the defending national champions and currently ranked sixth in the Associated Press poll, came from behind to defeat Arizona State 56-50 at El Paso in Thursday night's top game.

The Miners, who meet Brigham Young in Chicago Saturday on the same bill as UCLA-Chicago Loyola, erased a six-day point deficit late in the second there Saturday.

Nebraska moved into a four-way tie with Kansas, Colorado and Kansas State in the Big Eight Conference by beating Oklahoma 97-78 at Lincoln.

League - leading Northwestern, clipping along at a 95.57 point per game average, confronts Ohio State Saturday, the finest defensive club in the Big Ten basketball race.

The Wildcats, 3-0 in conference competition, are scoring at a 95.7 pace. More than a quarter of their points has been scored by Jim Burns who has a 25.7 point average.

Saturday's limited conference schedule also includes Minnesota, 1-3, at Purdue, 1-2, and Wisconsin, 2-1, at Michigan State, 2-1. Illinois faces No.1 ranked UCLA in Chicago Stadium Friday and meets Notre Dame there Saturday.

"Sticks and stones may break my bones, but names will . . ." Most everyone knows the ending of this rhythmic little saying.

For Edwin J. Anderson, however, the man who initiated the purchase of the Detroit Lions as a civic venture, there have been times when a less dedicated person would have retreated into a shell during the unhappy days.

"Andy" has been subjected to name calling, criticisms, effigy-hangings, organizational problems and proxy fights.

But these are the things people remember and they occur in most fields of athletics and when a period of success is followed by a losing era.

"In the early fifties when the Lions were the greatest team in pro football, the problems were few and those that did arise were overlooked.

"We were winning, enjoying the greatest success on the field and at the gate of any team in the NFL and everybody was happy.

"But look back at the history of athletic teams, especially in professional sports, and there are the frustrations of losing which erupt and cause most of the problems."

FIRST MOVE

From 1947, when the first step was made to buy the Lions from Fred Mandel, a Chicago businessman who reportedly lost $800,000 during his ownership from 1940 through 1947, which was the last championship season, there were no serious dissident problems with players, coaches, general managers or presidents.

Four divisional and three world championships in seven years were the rewards which made everyone happy.

The first shift of gears from the winning cycle came in 1957 when coach Buddy Parker made his famous "I quit" speech at the Lions annual banquet.

Anderson had just finished praising Parker and all the great victories.

"I was as startled as anyone," Anderson recalled, "but I felt Buddy had said this often in the past and we could have resolved his problems. The thing was, however, in that time Buddy said he was quitting in a public statement, and it was a matter of pride for him to stick by his decision."

After the 1957 title with George Wilson at the coaching helm, the Lions started to skid. The cycle not only turned, but did a complete about face.

"No one was really to blame when the losing years started. The Lions had been intact for many years and it was a matter of rebuilding, and everything was going along smoothly because we had good teams in 1960-61-62, but then other factors crept into the picture and they certainly had an effect on the over-all picture," Anderson said.

PROXY FIGHT

"The proxy fight in 1961 was unfortunate. It was not a protest of our success, it was just a fight to gain control, something that happens in many big businesses," Anderson explained.

Hoping to salvage all past harmony which existed and remove any personality clashes because of the proxy fight, Anderson stepped down as president. He nominated and received approval of the board of directors in naming Bill Ford as president.

In 1962, came the heartbreaking loss to Green Bay and subsequently the title; in 1963, the NFL gambling probe worsened the Lions' morale.

"There was no doubt of the serious effect these had on the team," said Anderson, "but no one in the organization was going to lie down and die."

It was hoped that sole ownership by Ford would resolve the problems, but Ford and the coaching years of Harry Gilmer became circumstantial victims.

It has been 10 years since the cycle made the turn from victories to defeats. There were slight fluctuations but never strong enough to turn the tide.

Anderson has been only one of many who has been subjected to that reverse cycle.

He is also one of many who hasn't quit thinking positively, feeling sure this is the advent of the new cycle.

SNAPPER — At Beloit College in Wisconsin, Edwin J. Anderson was a 175-pound center for three varsity years. He received all-Midwest honors.

Purchased Lions for $165,000

Part II—

Pioneering is a risk, whether it be land speculation, business or athletics.

It took pioneering courage in 1947 when Edwin J. Anderson, Lyle Fife, Spike Briggs Jr., Chick Fisher, Phil Hart and other civic minded men decided pro football would be a community asset to the city of Detroit.

Fred Mandel, a Chicago businessman who was known to have lost $800,000 from 1940 to 1947, didn't hesitate to show his interest when a "feeler" offer was made to buy the franchise.

"I had some association with the Lions for several years," said Anderson. "In 1942 our company (he was president of a Detroit brewing company) had the Lions' radio broadcast rights.

"One day Harry Wismer suggested in a joking way that I buy a football team and become more actively involved in sports.

"I laughed at first, but then the idea sounded better the more I thought of it," Anderson continued.

"I went to Spike Briggs because he had a stadium. I went to Chick Fisher because he was a banker. I went to Phil Hart because he was legal counsel and before too long we made Mandel an offer and he accepted for $165,000.

"These men were all sports-minded. They never expected any big profitable returns. We didn't want to lose money, but we wanted a self-sustaining program for the community.

Football has been life for Edwin J. Anderson.

He just didn't happen to become associated with football.

From his high school days in Rockford, Ill., where he won all-state honors in football and basketball, "Andy" yearned for a profession in coaching.

He enrolled at the University of Illinois and among his teammates on the freshman team was the name Red Grange.

But after the freshman semester, he returned home.

"Like a lot of kids who've never been away from home I guess I was homesick, but I wanted to stay in football and also get my degree so I went to Beloit College."

Part I—

This was only 18 miles from his home.

He played three varsity years as a 175-pound center majored in economics and still had that burning desire to go into football coaching.

In those years, schools like Beloit, Carthage, Carlisle, Bethany and Washington-Jefferson were among the top football teams.

"We played Notre Dame and Northwestern among others and our varsity had only a dozen players," he recalled.

In 1925, Notre Dame under Knute Rockne went to Beloit for a game. The Irish were termed 60 point favorites by some of the experts.

At halftime Beloit led 3-0 and when it was over Notre Dame won a 19-3 decision.

Looking ahead with excitement of a coaching career, he agreed to take a job at St. John's Military Academy as coach. But the dean at Beloit told Anderson point blank, "Stay out of coaching. It's not for you. You'll be better off in business."

"I respected the advice, even though it hurt," Anderson said, "so after a while I gave up the job at the Military Academy and entered the field of business and advertising."

Various positions in the advertising field took him from Chicago to Vincennes, Ind., Indianapolis, Michigan-Ontario and finally Detroit in 1938.

Anything to do with football, however, was still in Andy's heart.

"He's made the most unbelievable trips and has done the most unbelievable things for a football game," said Isabelle "Sunny" Anderson, his wife.

"Why, I almost jumped off the hospital bed to bop him when our first daughter Susan was born, and he felt I should have presented him with a football player," said Mrs. Anderson.

It didn't take much to persuade Anderson to venture into football when the opportunity with the Lions came up.

"Sunny knew better than to even try to talk me out of it," he said, "and now she agrees that despite the up and down cycles of football, I could never have been happy in something else."

"In 1951, my life in football turned the bend," said Anderson.

That year, the Lions under new head coach Buddy Parker, finished only a half game behind divisional champion Los Angeles. "If one ever saw frustration, anger, dejection that was the year," he remembered.

"We just defeated LA on the coast and the title was ours by defeating a so-so San Francisco team the next week. We lost 21-17, and it was one of the longest plane rides home I could remember."

Since then however, Andy has learned to accept the long and short plane rides around the league.

Championships in 1952-53-54-57, along with those second place finishes of 1961 and 1966 gave the Lions one of the most dominating eras in pro football.

"Even with all the championships, I guess the most memorable game for me was that playoff with San Francisco on the coast in 1957," he said.

"How we came back from a 24 point deficit in the third quarter, with a team loaded with injuries, was more fantastic to see than to believe.

LONG TRIP

"I can remember turning to Bill Ford in the press box in the third quarter and telling him what a long ride back we should prepare for."

"I don't think the people of San Francisco have ever forgiven us for that game."

"The only thing uninjured on that Lions' team was the heart. We all know what they did to Cleveland, 59-14 in the championship."

There have been five head coaches since the franchise shift in 1948, Bo McMillin, Buddy Parker, George Wilson, Harry Gilmer and now Joe Schmidt.

"This isn't bad for 20 years. Some teams have five coaches in as many years."

As for the Gilmer era, Anderson said, "I have tremendous respect for Harry as a coach and a gentleman. And he deserves the best breaks to be had in football."

"As for now, how can we feel anything but excitement to have Joe, one of the finest ever to play the game in the NFL, to do the coaching."

With this Andy interjected his always-positive thinking by saying, "the cycle started in 1947, started to change after 1957, and this is 1967."

signed as president of Goebel Brewing Company in 1958 to assume sole duties as president of the Lions.

Since the $165,000 purchase in 1948, the Lions, along with pro football, have been the most fantastic product on the market. William Clay Ford bought the franchise for $6-million in 1964, and the franchise value in pro football is indicated even more when the San Diego franchise of the American Football League was sold just last summer for $10 million.

Have team problems in this losing cycle discouraged Anderson to pull out of the football picture?

"Did Daniel Boone decide to stay in Illinois because a wagon wheel came off and slow his trip west?

"We didn't give up when the franchise was losing money and when we were losing on the field before 1951. We've won the battle of stabilizing this franchise; it's the matter of turning the cycle with some winning seasons on the field," Anderson said.

Part IV—

After football, then what for Edwin "Andy" Anderson? Trout fishing, that's one of his great loves.

"I'm also a very avid golfer, and I expect to start golfing even more in the near future," he said.

"Right now give me a few days with rod and reel and a trip about 85 miles northwest of Ottawa, take a boat trip, a walk through some swamps, another row boat trip and I can be in the most super-super deluxe trout fishing spot anywhere," he said.

"At home in the summer, I'm a garden putter-arounder and then there's the pleasure of being with the children and grandchildren at the family summer area near Bellaire."

The oldest daughter, Mrs. Harold (Susan Jane) Stenglein and children Harold III and Jane, reside in Saginaw.

Mrs. Richard (Marynell) Williams with children Isabelle and Edgar live in Birmingham.

When a guest comes to the Anderson home near Lone Pine Road, most everyone knows Mrs. Anderson as "Sunny." To provoke a little startling humor, "Andy" suggests to greet his wife as Isabelle.

"Very few know her name, and I'd suggest you get ready to duck," he jests.

PRIZED SOUVENIRS

Souvenirs and mementos of 20 years of Detroit Lions' football are among his many prized possessions.

In his office he has a large picture of the famous No. 37, that of Doak Walker.

"I guess this picture means so much to me because Doak gave it to me himself, the only thing I ever received from a player without asking."

On the enlarged photo are inscribed the words, "My very best wishes to the man to whom I will always be indebted to for bringing me to Detroit. Your friend always, Doak Walker."

Another priceless possession is the silver plated football from the 1952-53 season given to him by the Lions' board of directors with the inscription, "To an All-Time champion in sports and business."

These are memories in Anderson's life which can never be taken away . . . whether the seasons be winning or losing.

Andy's Aim—Major Sports for Motor City

Part III—

Pioneering solely for profits for people like William Clay Ford, Edwin J. Anderson, Ralph Wilson Jr., all active in professional football, is hardly the primary thing in their minds.

Keeping Detroit as a major league city in athletic competition with all the big cities of the country is the reason why they and five others have formed the Detroit Soccer Co., Inc.

Just like the NFL, NHL, NBA, AFL or the AL and NL, all pro major leagues in football, hockey, basketball and baseball, there is reason for them to believe that soccer, the old and world wide sport, will find a place on the American sports scene.

NEW PIONEERING

With John Anderson II (no relation to Edwin) as president, Max Fisher, Wendell Anderson, Ted Ewald and Ernie Kanzler among the others in the corporation, pioneering of this new enterprise for Detroit has started.

"We expect to have a complete team start league competition in Detroit. We hope to have the nickname finalized, possibly the Cougars; we hope to have the coaching, the staff, the playing site and all other essentials ready for league play in a few months," said Anderson.

"At my age, money is certainly not the motive in pursuing this soccer franchise. I feel like I did in 1947. It's civic pride to want to give Detroit a competitive place among our country's great sports cities."

DUET — Mrs. Edwin J. Anderson is the pianist in the family, but "Andy" manages to sneak in a few measures of the Swedish National Anthem. Mrs. Anderson didn't explain what she meant when she said, in jest, "He plays like he sings."

TIME OUT FOR KID'S PLAY — When grandchildren Edgar and Isabelle Williams visit the grandparents' home, "Andy" and Sunny Anderson, like many grandpas and grandmas, must drop everything and give the kids their attention. They are the children of the Anderson's youngest daughter, Mrs. Richard (Marynell) Williams of Birmingham.

NEWEST COACH — In 20 years during Edwin Anderson's association with the Detroit Lions there have been five head football coaches. The newest head coach to lead the Lions on the field is All-Pro Linebacker

Joe Schmidt (right) who was chosen recently to replace Harry Gilmer. In the background are the maze of football pictures in the Lions' lobby.

Leaders Rip City League Cage Foes

Leaders in two of Pontiac's recreation basketball leagues maintained their unbeaten records in action last night.

In American League play, Perry Drugs ran its season mark to 6-0 with a 67-53 triumph over Booth Homes (2-4), while Oxford Hills (2-3) downed Oxford Merchants (0-6), 67-57.

John Hooper poured in 19 points to spark the Perry attack. Larry Hughes collected 13 and Gary Wilkoff 12 for the losers.

Oxford Hills jumped off to a 21-2 lead and rolled past the Merchants. Robert Tuck tossed in 15 points and Felix Brooks and Robert Mills contributed 14 apiece for the winners. Cal Darbee led the losers with 13.

In the National League, three players hit double figures as Amigos Club (6-0) romped past the All Stars (3-3), 75-56.

LEADS ATTACK

Rob Rebban paced the Amigo triumph with 13 points, followed by Vernon Ellis (11) and John Herrington (10). Frank Williams grabbed scoring honors for the All Stars with 16 points.

The Packers were in front 33-12 at halftime and were never threatened. Willie Holloman tossed in 18 points and teammate Jeff Meyers pushed in 16 to lead the winners. Gary Pashal led the losers with 10.

Scoring Ace Sparking Clarkston's Title Bid

One of the nice things about having the best shooter in Oakland County is that he's likely to lead the team to a basketball championship.

Clarkston's Dan Fife leads the scoring parade with an average of 32.4 through 10 games, and he's sparked the Wolves to a 9-1 record over-all and an 8-0 mark and first place in the Wayne-Oakland League.

The 6-2 Fife, a sixth grader after college prospect, has collected his 324 points on 111 field goals and 102 free throws.

Cage Ruling Leaves Pistons Holding Bag

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association has spoken, and now it's Rudy LaRusso's turn.

The 6-foot-8 forward said Thursday night he will have an announcement in Los Angeles today at 4 p.m., EST, that might shed a bit more light on the attempted three-team trade that would have sent LaRusso to the Detroit Pistons.

At present, the deal and the Los Angeles veteran hang in suspension after the NBA Board of Governors said the trade was a "binding and valid transaction."

The trade sent LaRusso to Detroit, Ray Scott to Baltimore and Mel Counts to Los Angeles. Both Baltimore and Detroit protested LaRusso's reinstatement by Los Angeles and the Lakers' claim that the deal had been voided.

League President Walter Kennedy said no qualification was made before the deal concerning the possibility of one of the players retiring. Therefore, he said, if LaRusso did go through with his retirement, Scott still would go to Baltimore, Counts to Los Angeles and Detroit would be left holding the bag.

LaRusso said earlier he would retire rather than report to Detroit and was suspended by the Lakers. However, the Lakers then reinstated him and claimed the deal had been voided.

WITH PISTONS

But the Board of Governors nullified the reinstatement because since the time of the trade, "the contract of Rudy LaRusso has been the property of the Detroit Pistons."

"Under our player contracts, either the club he is with or the club to which he's going can suspend a player if he fails to report," said Kennedy. "But his old club cannot lift the suspension."

Clubs Putting Soccer on TV

Two-Month Season Opening in May

NEW YORK (AP) — After kicking things around during a two-day meeting, the fledgling North American Soccer League disclosed some of its plans for the introduction of its product this year. They include national television and a two-month regular season schedule.

After the meetings ended Thursday night, Dick Walsh, commissioner of the 12-team circuit, said that season competition will start late in May with teams imported from nine foreign countries. Each team will play a 16-game schedule in a two-division setup ending late in July.

Three playoff games will be held in August, the first two between the first and second place team in each division and the championship game between the divisional playoff winners.

The cities in the new pro league are Cleveland, Washington, New York, Boston, Chicago, San Francisco, Detroit, Houston, Dallas, Los Angeles, Toronto and Vancouver. The teams representing them will be imported from England, Scotland, Italy, Ireland, Czechoslovakia, Mexico, Brazil, Holland and Portugal.

"We will have a national television game once a week," said Judge Roy Hofheinz, owner of Houston's soccer and baseball teams, and chairman of the new circuit's TV committee. He refused to identify the network with which the NASL is negotiating.

So you awoke this morning and after looking outside decided you'd like to leave home for someplace like Miami Beach.

But you can't afford to take the family and as the man of the household, you just can't take off without a reason (despite that "Winter Water Wonderland" greeting)?

Quite a few area men beginning in March will be embarking for Florida's so-called sun and fun capital without the wife, kids and family pets. They'll be heading for the 64th annual American Bowling Congress Tournament.

Bowling's most popular competition will begin Mar. 4 at Miami Beach's Convention Hall. All the weekend spots in long tournament were filled months ago but weekend openings still exist.

However, the entry deadline is Wednesday. So, if your team captain hasn't entered you and your teammates, and isn't sure he can have the forms in the mail y' midnight Wednesday, perhaps you enter zip down there to the tournament office this weekend.

Since the average bowler can afford only one trip a year to Florida with his family, undoubtedly it would be best to take them this trip and then go on the team journey without any home companionship. But don't tell 'em where you got the inspiration!

SPARE PINS
Pontiac's 700 Club members wasted no time inducting Gary Hintz into the local chapter. No sooner did he hit a 702, his first Monday in the West Side Classic than they held a special ceremony and made him a member.

Thus he's eligible for Sunday's "700" Singles at Airway Lanes. The men are expected to begin their three-game rolloff at 1:30 p.m. The $5 entry fee includes a buffet meal for the bowler and a guest after the competition.

Bean Hunter Made Happy— Bags Bean Dish in Curacao

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I found a new bean dish down in Willemstad, Curacao, which made life sweet.

Some people go pilgrimaging around the world seeking art treasures . . . there are aficionados who spend their lives hunting the true poets of bullfighting. But all I want on this big roulette wheel of life is the tastiest bean dish invented.

WILSON

As a boy I ate Lima beans in Lima, O. I then pursued the frijole to Mexico and Cuba, the fejoada to Brazil, the pasta e fagiolo to Rome, the cassoulet to Toulouse in France, and, of course, the baked beans to Boston. I've loved white, black, brown and red beans — even green beans — and, down in the Carolinas, black-eyed peas for breakfast which couldn't fool me by hiding under an assumed name.

* * *

Once in Brussels, I asked a waiter for beans. "Not possible," he said. "It would take four hours."

"I'll wait," I said, and did.

In Puerto Rico the other day I was driven out to the new hotel, El Conquistador, by a chauffeur who said he was going to make a dash for the kitchen and have some black beans, rice and ham, which the kitchen help have every night. Just my luck — we had to go to dinner and have filet mignon and champagne.

Four Students Arrested in School Protest

GROSSE POINTE (UPI) — Four students were arrested by police in this Detroit suburb yesterday afternoon after a crowd of 300 students at Grosse Pointe High gathered around the school to protest having to attend school today.

Junior high school students get a holiday today because of a break between semesters.

Police said the four youths, who were not identified, were arrested for disorderly conduct and then released in the custody of their parents.

Edward McKinney, Grosse Pointe High assistant principal, said the students gathered in a parking lot after school and hurled snowballs at "anyone who was in authority."

McKinney said there had been some talk among students of boycotting classes today to protest not getting the one-day break given to students in junior high. He said he expected normal attendance.

Soupy Sells Himself but Needs a Play

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP)—Shucks, kids. Soupy Sales, that nice television funnyman, went over to Broadway Thursday night to entertain grown-ups in a play called "Come Live With Me," at the Billy Rose Theater. His first stage show, too, but not very good.

He's not really to blame, though. Golly, he's doing just lots of those things like jumping way up, hurling breakfast crumpies all over his head and once in a while smiling that gee-whiz grin to make everybody laugh.

But there's not even one of those squashy cream pies around that he likes to hit people in the face with. Maybe a few might have helped.

"Come Live With Me" has a lot of other things wrong, mostly the fault of writers Lee Minoff and Stanley Price, Director Joshua Shelley and maybe two or three of Soupy's companions.

STORY LINE
The kind-of story is about Chuck Clark, a movie scripter from America who lives all alone in a London flat because Soupy is very sloppy, like throwing unopened letters under the sofa, so he keeps hiring housekeepers.

They all turn out to be young cutesies in miniskirts, and he has to make believe he's still married so they won't bother him while he's trying to write this film about Hannibal and 600 elephants and Sophia Loren.

Then after awhile he really, truly falls in love with one of them, but his wife from before turns up and she's wearing a miniskirt also.

The problem, boys and girls, is that everybody has to say a lot of silly little jokes which sometimes you can't hear good because of all the different accents. Finally Soupy gets a chance to act drunk and he falls all around the place like he was back on TV.

OTHERS
If anyone asks you, the other people up there on stage include Hanne Bork, Yvonne Constant, Nan Martin, Marion Gray, Sorrell Bookie and Michael Allinson. Soupy was best but "Come Live With Me" wasn't. Tell mom and daddy no.

What other press critics said: The Times, Walter Kerr; "Come Live With Me" has no doubt been produced on Broadway in order to introduce us to Soupy Sales. Now that we've met, it would be nice to see him in a play.

World Journal Tribune, Norman Nadel: "If someone tells you that the play wouldn't be much without Soupy Sales, you have my permission to answer that it isn't much with him, either."

Daily News, John Chapman: "The younger members of the first audience enjoyed him

'MINIMUM OF HILARITY'
Richard Watts Jr., Post: "A lot of activity, but, despite the star, a decided minimum of hilarity. Soupy Sales is a game and likable fellow."

Forecast of Snow Means More Area Woe

Midwest Flattened by Storm

By The Associated Press

Thousands of Midwesterners were stranded. Schools closed. Glazed highways turned into parking lots. Several persons died shoveling snow.

That was the bleak picture today as snow and ice storms thundered out of the Great Plains, across the Midwest and into the Ohio Valley.

The snowstorm to the north hit Chicago with a knockout punch, blanketed southern lower Michigan and northern Indiana and thrust eastward.

The ice storm followed a parallel course to the south turned roads into sheets of glass, and left town after town without electricity or telephones.

FOOT OF SNOW

The storms dumped a foot of snow across northern Missouri and Kansas.

As they came charging across Illinois they clogged everything north of Peoria and Springfield with snow and bombarded areas to the south with ice.

At midnight, 16.4 inches of snow had fallen on Chicago. The 24-hour record, set Jan. 30, 1939, had been 14.9 inches.

Snow was still falling today, and 63-mile-per-hour lakefront winds whipped up a stinging mist of snow.

Two hundred students were stranded overnight at the University of Illinois' Chicago circle campus.

Public and parochial schools were closed in Chicago and in nearby suburbs. Many area colleges and universities canceled classes.

FIREBIRD DEBUT — Billed as Pontiac Motor Division's entry in the personal sports car field, the Firebird was officially introduced today. The new model, scheduled to go on sale Feb. 23, will be available in both hardtop coupe and convertible styles. John Z. DeLorean, division general manager and a GM vice president, described the Firebird as a "new approach" to the long-hood, short-deck styling theme.

Johnson Leads Treaty Signing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surrounded by ambassadors representing nations around the world, President Johnson presides today at a special White House ceremonial signing of a treaty aimed at preserving outer space for peaceful purposes.

By early today, more than 40 envoys had signed their intent to commit their countries to the 2,000-word, five-language treaty at the late afternoon ceremony in the East Room of the executive mansion.

Still more were expected to join the roster during the day.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson and British Ambassador Sir Geoffrey Harrison signed it at Spiridonov Palace, site of the signing of the 1963 limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

A signing was also scheduled for London. More than 100 nations are expected to sign up eventually.

321 'E' Models to Be Recalled by GMC Truck

GMC Truck and Coach Division today reported it is recalling 321 "E" model trucks for steering modifications.

A spokesman said modifications will correct two conditions that could cause interference with steering components. The recall notifications asks that the vehicles be returned to dealers for correction.

The division said that during a full right turn the power steering pressure lines, running to the power cylinder on the frame could be damaged, resulting in loss of power assist but not in steering control.

It also would be possible during the full turn for the left front tire to contact a ball stud socket or its clamp and become chafed. This could result in a tire failure.

No accident reports have been received by the division as a result of either condition. The recall action is being taken as a precautionary measure, the division said.

New Pontiac Firebird Joins Sports Car Field

Citing the personal sports car field as the "most rapidly growing" in the industry, Pontiac Motor Division today unveiled the Firebird, its own entry in the field.

John Z. DeLorean, division general manager and a GM vice president, said the new car is aimed at buyers wanting "something extra in styling as well as performance."

Built to sports car proportions with what company officials call a "new approach" to long-hood, short-deck styling, Firebird will go on sale Feb. 23.

It will be available in two styles — a hardtop coupe and convertible. Five engine choices include a standard overhead six and optional 400-cubic-inch V8.

Standard equipment are bucket seats, three-speed manual transmission (with four-speed manual and two-speed and three-speed automatic optional), all-vinyl interior trims and the safety items previously announced on the 1967 Pontiacs.

IDENTITY MAINTAINED

The Pontiac identity is maintained with a wide peripheral

front bumper and accented vertical center framing two deep grille openings.

Horizontally mounted dual head lamps are set in the outboard ends of the grille opening and chrome framed parking lamps are on the lower valance panel. Pontiac block lettering appears on the left grille face.

The side appearance includes a full-width rocker moulding and six vertical louvers on the front of the rear quarter, rear of the door opening.

All models have an identification name and Firebird crest

Weatherman Has No Hart

HART (AP) — A snowmobile derby planned for Saturday in this Western Michigan community has been postponed.

The reason: not enough snow. Muskegon, 25 miles to the south, has 19 inches of the stuff. But instead of being moved to Muskegon, the derby has been moved to next Saturday.

Preliminary OK to OCC Loan

of a Student Union

A $500,000 reservation loan to Oakland Community College for construction of a student union building has been given preliminary approval by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Announcement of the loan was made today by Congressman Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District.

The college plans to build a student union containing kitchen and dining facilities, a book store, snack bar, lounges and student activities' area.

The loan, according to McDonald's office in Washington, D.C., has been established on the basis of the preliminary application for assistance under the college housing program.

It is contingent upon final approval by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, McDonald said.

The loan, if given final approval, will be supplemented by $2,368,000 of the college's own fund.

If the college cannot sell $500,000 worth of bonds at less than 3 per cent interest, the government will buy the bonds.

County Nearly Paralyzed by Huge Snowfall

Roads Are Blocked,
Cars Abandoned and Travelers Marooned

More of the same!

Heavy snow — 3 to 5 more inches — whipped by strong winds is the weather warning for nearly paralyzed Oakland County and southeastern Michigan.

Already ground to a halt by 10 inches of snow, sleet and rain, the Pontiac area will get more of the same with blowing and some drifting.

The snow is expected to diminish to flurries tonight.

Belted a bruising blow by the overnight storm, this area is still fighting the initial effects of:

- Blocked roads.
- Stuck and abandoned cars.
- Marooned workers and travelers.

Roads were termed "very bad" by an Oakland County Road Commission spokesman, who said most of the main thoroughfares were passable although snow-covered.

Two hundred men — some working 24 hours — battled all night to clear the main roads.

Secondary roads with few exceptions were "practically impassible," according to the road commission.

Expressways in the county were open, but entry and exit ramps were blocked with stuck cars this morning.

The storm boosted local snowfall even more beyond last year's total. Some 23½ inches fell during the last winter season. (Continued on Page A-2, Col. 7)

Teens Dance Up a Storm ---Literally

Asst. City Editor—Suburban

"Paak Parties Are a Panic" is the slogan a Pontiac area teen-age band uses, and last night's party at the Silverbell Ski Lodge in Pontiac Township proved the point.

At one time more than 400 teen-agers were marooned at the lodge by the snow that blanketed Oakland County.

James Barnowsky, 28, of 132 E. Rundell, manager of the band, "Panic and the Paak," said 75 teens and about 8 to 10 adults were still stuck at 9 a.m. today.

Stranded with little food and heat, the youngsters have danced to keep warm and have kept hunger pangs down with a few leftover potato chips and one small can of badly burned beans.

The latter was consumed with the aid of steak sauce and catsup, said Barnowsky.

LIKE JAWBREAKERS

"They taste like jawbreakers," commented Robert E. Pelmar, 16, of 359 Gateway, Waterford Township.

Barnowsky said the kids have been lined up in front of the phone to call worried parents, who have besieged area police department with phone calls.

He said the youngsters are in good spirits despite their plight.

Even this morning there was no word of when snowplows would open roads to the lodge.

"We'd appreciate some Care packages" laughed Mrs. John Humphries, 196 Dover, Waterford Township, mother of one of the band members.

SNOW — Ten inches of snow meshed with sleet blocks Pontiac side streets, forcing use of the snow shovel to "unpark" cars. Most area subdivisions were impassable for all but a lucky few this morning. Conditions likely will get worse before they get better with 3 to 5 more inches of snow predicted.

Soviets Hike Guard Along China Border

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union is toughening its defenses against Red China because of serious border problems between the two nations, reports Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Breaking a long administration silence on the Sino-Soviet dispute, the defense chief noted that "while an outbreak of hostilities between China and the Soviet Union does not appear probable at this time, the tension on the borders is likely to continue."

McNamara depicted the Soviet Union as more "self-confident" and said this attitude is reflected in its open renewal of the ideological dispute with the Chinese.

"Although the Soviets have not succeeded in reading China out of the international Communist movement," he said, "only Albania among the ruling Communist parties still remains exclusively aligned with China."

POSTURE REPORT

The remarks came in McNamara's annual posture report to Congress, a long summation of the U.S. defense position given on the eve of congressional hearings on the administration's said.

GRAND FINALE — Mrs. A. W. Nicholls, 1250 Edgecourt, braved the snow last night to attend the final session of The Pontiac Press Cooking School. She was rewarded when her name was drawn as winner of a Crown gas range from Consumers Power Co. With her is William Freshour of Consumers. Some 500 were in the audience at Pontiac Central High School. (Additional pictures on page A-8.)

NATIONAL WEATHER — Rain is forecast for both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Snow is expected in the Rockies, the lower Great Lakes and northern New England. Colder temperatures are predicted for the eastern third of the nation and the Great Basin region.

On the other hand, McNamara warned, "there has been no diminution in their support of the Communist efforts in Vietnam and Thailand. And, they are still active in supporting 'Chinese' factions in the Communist movement in other parts of the world, in some cases, with military materiel."

He listed other top trouble spots as Burma, the Republic of China (Taiwan), and South Asia.

The defense chief also gave a reassessment of Red China's potential nuclear threat and concluded that despite a recent successful series of tests, "there has been no basic change in our estimates."

Head of Unit for Romney Encouraged

LANSING (AP) — The leader of a group backing the possible Republican presidential candidacy of Gov. George Romney told the governor Thursday that he was "most encouraged" by weekend meetings with party leaders in New Orleans.

Robert J. McIntosh, unofficial leader of Romney Associates, met with Romney to report on meetings at the Republican National Committee convention where he met with delegates to determine possible Romney support.

"We were most encouraged by the results of contacts and discussions we had," said McIntosh, a former congressman and Romney-appointed official who resigned in November as director of the Michigan Commerce Department to work for Romney's candidacy.

"There was no place in the United States where party leaders did not express interest," McIntosh said.

REACTION

"Of course these people are party leaders with responsibilities to fulfill to party organizations," he added. "They are not in a position to be making declarations for anybody."

Asked Romney's reaction to his report, McIntosh said "he seems very happy today. I don't know whether it relates directly to my efforts or not."

Poverty Efforts to Be Studied

A decision to evaluate the relationship between the county's antipoverty effort and the NAACP and Urban League was prompted by two communications to the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCOE).

Carl F. Ingraham, OCCOE chairman, Wednesday night told commissioner he would appoint a committee to meet with representatives of the Oakland County NAACP chapter and the Urban League of Pontiac.

The communication concerning the Urban League was sent to the commission by Frederick Smith, representing the Pontiac Alumni Graduate Chapter, an organization of Negro college graduates.

Ingraham read the letter which took issue with criticism of the Urban League from OCCOE Executive Director James M. McNeely in reply to criticism of the OCCOE operation by Clarence Barnes, Urban League executive director.

McNeely's comments that the Urban League's function was vague and that it didn't serve the poor were criticized in the letter.

SUGGESTS TALKS

Thomas Fowler Jr., chairman of the OCCOE education committee and first vice president of the Urban League's board of directors, suggested that the two groups "sit down and discuss their relationship."

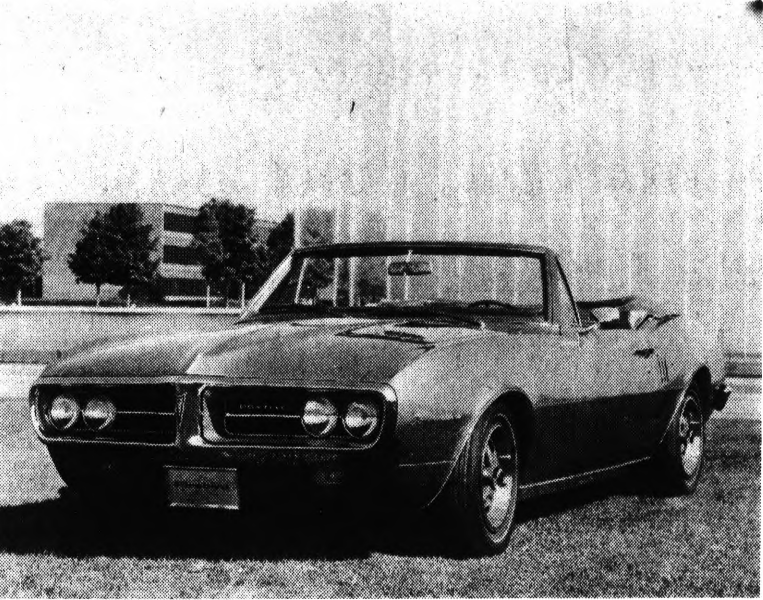

Then James Dyer, president of the County NAACP Chapter, read a lengthy statement and asked that the OCCOE reevaluate its accomplishments, procedures and policies.

"This will give our organization and others the opportunity to fully work cooperatively with you in a meaningful, decision-making capacity," Dyer said.

FIREBIRD HARDTOP—The hardtop coupe shown above is half of Pontiac Motor Division's dual entry into the personal sports car field. Named the Firebird after an Indian symbol for action and youth, the new car features what company officials term "a fresh approach" to sports car styling. Engine options include both the Pontiac 326 and 400-cubic-inch models.

CONVERTIBLE FIREBIRD—Companion to the new Firebird hardtop coupe introduced today by Pontiac Motor Division is this convertible. Options available for both models include a deluxe steering wheel, an instrument panel assist bar and deluxe wheel discs. Standard equipment includes pushbutton seat-belt releases in both front and rear.

Hoffa Claims Justice Dept. Spied on Him

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fighting to stay out of prison, James R. Hoffa has told the Supreme Court he and two of his lawyers were subjected to widespread Justice Department eavesdropping and telephone tapping during his 1964 jury-tampering trial.

And, attorneys for the Teamsters union president claim, an assistant director of the FBI suggested to a newspaper publisher that Hoffa's lawyers ask the Justice Department to conduct an investigation of wiretapping in connection with Hoffa's trials.

The allegations were in papers filed with the court Thursday in an effort to convince the justices to reconsider Hoffa's conviction and eight-year prison sentence. These were upheld by the high court Dec. 12 — before "direct evidence" of the eavesdropping was obtained, Hoffa's lawyers said.

The Justice Department should be directed to respond to the allegations, they told the court.

Senators Ponder Course Against Air War Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Peter H. Dominick said today critical senators may go directly to President Johnson with their complaints about the restrictions imposed on U.S. pilots operating over North Vietnam.

And Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., forecast a campaign to mobilize public opinion and seek relaxation of the rules.

Dominick said senators who contend that target restrictions are preventing aerial success in the war will press their case with the administration, and may seek to do so at the White House.

"I see that as a possibility," the Colorado senator said. He said Johnson is keeping close rein on the air war "on the grounds that this is a political war."

ANGRY ROUND

Tower and Dominick, both members of the Senate Armed Services Committee, made their comments in interviews after an angry round of Senate debate over the targeting restrictions. Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo.,

told the Senate Thursday "it would be better to terminate hostilities" than to continue the air war under targeting restrictions he called "abnormal and unprecedented."

Informed sources reported a day earlier that the Johnson administration has forbidden American air operations within five miles of the center of Hanoi. The Pentagon would neither confirm nor deny the report.

Tower said the question of restrictions on air operations near Hanoi has come up this week during Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's appearances before the Armed Services Committee.

But Tower would not discuss the matter. "I can neither confirm or deny it because we're getting into classified areas," he said.

Pontiac postmaster William Donaldson said mail would be delivered today only on a limited basis with most sidestreets inaccessible.

Charles B. Woodhead, public relations manager for the Pontiac district of Michigan Bell Telephone Co., reported "no unusual breakdowns in phone lines" in the Pontiac area.

"However, some people were having trouble getting calls through due to the abnormally heavy number of calls made this morning."

"The difficulties stemmed from an overload on central office equipment."

Woodhead said Michigan Bell appealed to the public just before noon to try and limit their phone use to necessary calls. Although hard hit, Oakland County fared better than areas to the north. Lapeer County and Flint reported 20 inches to two feet of snow.

ALL ROADS BLOCKED

The Lapeer County Sheriff's Department said this morning that "all" roads in that county were blocked. The entire force was kept on duty as it was still snowing.

Oakland County Sheriff's Department reported numerous property damage accidents yesterday afternoon and evening, as motorists slid into each other trying to get home.

The auto of William E. Corvette of Flint was demolished by a train when it became stuck on the Grand Trunk Railroad tracks on Fish Lake Road in Holly Township.

Grand Trunk Engineer Thomas E. Fisher of Durand said he saw the car as he came around a curve, and applied the brakes, but couldn't stop in time. Corvette was not in the car.

Veteran City Planner Bows Out

When Pontiac's City Planning Commission meets next month, it will be considerably poorer for the loss of a veteran member. WILLIAM F. DAVIS is stepping down after nearly 18 years of service to this city.

DAVIS

DAVIS, owner of the WILLIAM F. DAVIS Funeral Home, submitted his resignation to the City Commission last week. He had served the planning commission devotedly since first being appointed March 1, 1949. Only one other member of the present planning commission can match him in years of service.

The job is a thankless one. There is no pay. There are many hours of meetings. Making decisions which may often affect the value of land demands men of high character and integrity. Davis qualified all the way.

He attended two 10-week seminars on municipal planning at Oakland University during his stint on the commission. He was also present at many meetings of the Detroit Metropolitan Regional Planning Commission and Michigan Society of Planning Officials.

Bill Davis is the type of man which a community pins much of its hopes on when it looks toward the future. City Hall will miss him.

Protect Social Security Against Excesses

Few, least of all us, will fault in principle President JOHNSON's proposal to increase pension benefits by 15 per cent and otherwise revise the Social Security structure.

Our retirees who over the years have contributed to the fund from which come the benefits are entitled to the best the Country can afford.

Many thoughtful citizens, however, question just how much the American economy can stand in the way of Security pension increases and how much the burden of increasing taxation on wages can be borne in support of the program.

They are also concerned by indications that Social Security is becoming a political expedient to lock in an increasingly large number of voters.

A 7 per cent increase in pension benefits was voted in 1965. If the Administration's proposal passes Congress intact, it would represent a 22 per cent increase in pension payments over a three-year period.

Such a rate of increase appears unrealistic (the cost of living has risen but 14 per cent since 1958) and if continued could well bring the United States to the brink of economic collapse—as has occurred in many other countries having similar security programs.

It will be to the best interest of retirees to view this and subsequent proposals for pension hikes in the light of their over-all effect on the national economy, while restraining the common tendency to reach for more and more personal benefits from Government.

Otherwise, the fine concept of Social Security may prove to be a snare and a delusion.

Top Soldier Rebuts Home-Front Critics

Opponents of American bombing in North Vietnam raise two objections: that it kills civilians and that U.S. bombs are having little effect on North Vietnam's will or ability to carry on the fight.

The critics are right on the first point, wrong on the second, according to Gen. EARLE WHEELER, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, just back from the Vietnam theater.

He reports that the Hanoi government has cynically moved military supplies and anti-aircraft weapons into civilian areas hoping that this will make these centers off-limits for U.S. bombers. It is inevitable that, under the circumstances, civilian casualties will result when these vital targets are bombed.

Stressing that the enemy's strategy has indeed provided immunity from attack in many situations, the general concludes that Hanoi's desperate resort to it is proof positive that our air attacks are having telling effect.

It would seem that these balanced conclusions of a professional soldier would tend to silence the criticism and unschooled advice of our self-appointed armchair "military experts," 10,000 miles away.

Johnson Budget a Big Order

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Most people won't read President Johnson's budget message — it's such a swamp of figures—but from it jumps the picture of an America bulging with prosperity and self-confidence.

The self-confidence part of it shows up earliest in Johnson's promises: "In Vietnam, as throughout the world, we seek peace but will provide all the resources needed to combat aggression." That's a big order.

But when Johnson mentions aggression, he undoubtedly means Communist aggression.

And this promise to stop Communist aggression anywhere is consistent with American policy in Vietnam.

administration from time to time have given what sounded like noble reasons for American involvement in Vietnam, such as preserving democracy there, although the people never really had it.

ANOTHER REASON

But running through all the Johnson explanations, there has also been another reason—American self-interest—that the forcible spread of communism is a menace to this country's national security.

Nevertheless, the commitment made in Johnson's budget message could keep this country involved in foreign wars — where there is Communist aggression — for countless years to come.

Yet, while Johnson in one sentence is promising such a sweeping and ambitious foreign policy, in the very next sentence he is urging caution about what is to be done at home. "In our urgent domestic programs, we will continue to press ahead, at a controlled and reasonable pace."

request to Congress is a record-breaking $135 billion to take care of all the government's present programs and commitments, he goes easy on the idea of new ones.

WELL AWARE

He recognizes that the country is still trying to digest some of the programs he set in motion the past couple of years.

But the sense of bursting prosperity glistens through the message and, at the very moment he urges caution, he provides a catalogue of progress and increasing affluence.

It includes: Gross national product up nearly 5.4 per cent; unemployment below 4 per cent; more than 3 million new jobs found in 1966; income and corporation income in the same year up about 8 per cent.

His budget makes clear the end is not in sight. Johnson is thinking in terms of limitless prosperity although he knows from past history that the economy could get out of control and plunge.

Thus, while his total budget

LBJ Economic Reports Political

WASHINGTON — There is one figure missing from the pile of economic and financial President Johnson has sent to Congress this week.

It's how many people will ever read the volume of material or be able, even after analyzing the data, to get a clear impression of what is going on in the United States and to know whether or not bad times are coming.

All of the President's reports were prepared, of course, by economic experts, but have been touched up with the political phrases that proclaim the present era as unexampled in prosperity and contentment.

The messages to Congress dealing with economic conditions tell of rising expenditures and growing deficits. The theory that the government can thrive and the nation can prosper indefinitely on borrowed money is defended by some of the President's advisers as normal in a huge economy.

Making ends meet in the federal budget is only one of the many dilemmas. The budgets are no longer made up the same way as heretofore. Changes have been introduced which Republicans emphatically denounce as "dishonest."

Again and again in the history of the world, the monetary unit of many a country has been gradually diminished in its purchasing power, and eventually either devalued or replaced.

TWO CENTURIES AGO

Adam Smith, famous economist and author of "The Wealth of Nations," wrote nearly two centuries ago that this was a way to "cheat" the people.

Today the dollar is steady.

ily declining in purchasing power in this country as well as in its value among bankers abroad.

What is not generally realized in America is that the government has undertaken the task of managing the economy without using the lawmaking process to stabilize wages or prices.

The net result is that the group with the biggest political influence — labor unions — rules the roost, and the

"managed economy" inevitably becomes unmanaged.

OPTIMISTIC SIDE

President Johnson's messages and reports to Congress are on the optimistic side.

If things go bad, he will be able to say that he made all kinds of proposals to Congress and suggested expenditures of many billions of dollars to strengthen the economy but that either Congress didn't cooperate or strong economic forces in the country prevented the achievement of his aims.

Bob Considine Says:

2nd Part of JFK Series Proves a Real Shocker

NEW YORK—William Manchester's second installment of "The Death of a President," which appears in the current Look magazine, is a choking shocker.

CONSIDINE

With extraordinary reportorial skill and a clinical detachment that can only add to the total impact, he transports the reader into the death car.

Gov. John Connally, hit in four places by Lee Oswald's ricocheting first bullet, which had first passed through the president's neck, is screaming, "No, no, no, no, they're going to kill us both!"

Secret service agent Kellerman, riding in the front seat, thinks he has heard the president say, "My God, I'm hit!" Mrs. Connally begins to shriek.

Jacqueline Kennedy, in a daze, wonders why Connally is shouting.

HOLDS COURSE

Secret Service agent Greer, driving the topless Lincoln, glances over his right shoulder and continues to hold a steady course, instead of taking evasive action to avoid any subsequent shot.

Manchester dismisses the debate over whether two or three bullets were fired, but has no question in his mind that the trigger-puller was Oswald alone.

Manchester is unable to clear up one of the major questions that linger in the wake of the tragedy: Why did Jacqueline Kennedy leave her shattered husband and crawl out on the trunk of the Lincoln as Greer finally reacted and began to race away from the assassin?

Secret Service agent Clint Hill, who had bounded out of a security car behind the presidential car the moment he heard the first shot and saw that the president had been hit, was trying to clamber aboard the Lincoln.

Its sudden and belated burst of speed tore his foot from the metal step on the side of the car's spare tire. He was in danger of being forced to fall off and scrape along the roadway.

"Mrs. Kennedy pivoted toward the rear and reached for him; their hands touched, clenched, and locked," Manchester writes. It is impossible to say who saved whom. Hill pushed her back into the seat and spread-eagled on the trunk as the car careened toward the hospital.

"He knew it was mortal, knew the Secret Service had failed; and in anguish and frustration, he hammered the trunk with his free hand," Manchester writes. A shocker. A choking shocker.

Justified Bombing?

The Daily Telegraph, London

Military installations in North Vietnam have been bombed by the Americans; there is no controversy about this. Have women and children been killed and wounded? The Americans may have hoped not; some may even have believed not. Yet, alas, military targets and civilian residential areas may be inextricably mingled. Even where they can be distinguished, human or technical error remains possible.

On a more profound level, it is legitimate to doubt whether in modern warfare, which Hanoi is willfully waging, a firm line can be drawn between military and civilian activities at all. In view of all this, the Americans are surely wise to withdraw from untenable assertions that their quarrel with North Vietnam can be conducted without injury to anyone there who is not directly and actively involved against them.

If war is evil, then bombing must be evil, too; so also incidentally, must be the terrorism of the Viet Cong. Yet if there can be just wars there can also be just bombing — at least if bombing can ever be shown to hasten the victory of the just.

Yet if in this case the American technicians are right, then bombing will have been justified as having hastened the return of peace. Is this not to be desired?

Surely it is; but it is still legitimate to ask why innocent people should suffer for a good end. The answer is perhaps a harsh one: that those who actively support or passively acquiesce in the aggressive aims of the North Vietnamese government cannot be considered wholly innocent until these aims have been abandoned; nor can the retribution which they arguably deserve be confined, unfortunately, to them alone.

The North Vietnamese government put its citizens at stake; those who support it put their loved ones, their wives and families, at stake.

'Refunds for Medical Services Are Delayed'

If Johnson thinks he is helping the old folks, his ideas are wrong. I've paid $250 to doctors besides the $50 deductible. Receipts for money I paid doctors in September and October are correct as far as anyone can see and the doctors' staffs are honest and accurate, yet Medicare sent the receipts back for more information. We have $3 taken from our Social Security checks before we receive them. How can we stand this when our incomes are too low to last until we get our refunds? ## Broomfield to Offer Bill on Tax Sharing

(Special to The Press)

WASHINGTON — A "No strings" plan to return an estimated $2.2 billion of federal income tax collections to states, counties and local communities will be introduced Monday by Congressman William S. Broomfield, R-18th District.

The bill, which will be sponsored with other Republicans, calls for a return of 3 per cent of the federal personal income tax collection in 1968. It would increase during the next four years to 5 per cent.

"It's time we started eliminating some of the waste and duplication of the 'Great Society' and begin concentrating on strengthening state and local governments," Broomfield said.

Under Broomfield's proposal, one half or nearly $1 billion would be split among the states to be used for any purpose they desire.

Nearly $1 billion more would be returned to the states for distribution to local units of government, including school districts. States would control how that portion of the money would be allocated.

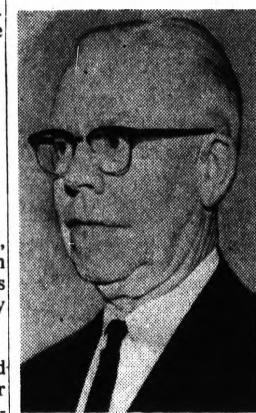

There are 4,061 local draft boards in the nation.

Girl Reported Kidnaped Is Found in Attic

MUSKOGON (UPI) — Muskegon County authorities planned to question a 15-year-old girl today who was reported kidnaped yesterday morning but turned up unharmed in the attic of her home.

Lynn Kanaar, a blonde Laketown Township ninth grade student, was reported kidnaped by three men in a car as she waited with other students at a school bus stop. Blockades were set up throughout Muskegon, Ottawa and Kent Counties.

The report of the kidnaping was turned in by Lynn's 13-year-old sister, Ruth. Other children at the bus stop described the car to police.

Lynn turned up about four hours later in the attic of her home but police said they would not release details until they have finished their investigation of the incident.

"I don't believe this was any kind of joke," Steve Kanaar, Lynn's 18-year-old brother, said. "Lynn is not the kind of girl who would joke about a thing like this."
