Senate OKs Osteopath School Unit

PLAN CONSTRUCTION—Pontiac Motor Division will construct a new administration building (A) on a two-block site south of its engineering building on Joslyn. Two additions (B) to the engineering building were announced earlier this year. The new administration building and the engineering building will be interconnected with an enclosed walkway. Cross-hatched areas show new parking locations, which will provide 800 parking spaces for employes in the new administration building and 550 parking spaces for engineering building employes.

Vote in House, Possible Court Test Lie Ahead

Lawmakers, Kelley in Long Exchange Over Legality of Measure

Pontiac's projected osteopathic college moved a giant step forward yesterday with Senate passage of a bill to create a 10-man osteopathic college authority.

However, the measure still must pass several hurdles, including a House vote and a possible court test of its constitutionality.

Amid debate over the question of control of higher education in Michigan, the Senate voted 22-7 in approving the bill setting up the college authority.

The authority is designed to make it easier for the proposed osteopathic college to acquire federal construction funds. The bill now goes to the House.

★ ★ ★

COLLEGE AUTHORITY

The bill creates a 10-member osteopathic college authority to construct, operate and maintain such an institution.

Kelley, in a letter made public yesterday, declared the legislature "is without power to enact a statute establishing such a college or university without the prior determination, advice and recommendation by the state board of education."

The reading of the letter unleashed a storm of reaction typified by Senate Majority Leader Raymond Dzendzel's declaration:

"If you hold to Kelley's letter, you abdicate your duties. If you think the State Board of Educa-

THE 'OKAY' SIGN — President Johnson makes a confident gesture at the White House today — the day before he undergoes an operation for removal of his gallbladder. The President flashed the "okay" sign at a ceremony for a bill providing federal aid for water and sewage facilities in rural areas.

LBJ Keeping Busy as Operation Nears

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson kept busy with a heavy work load today — eve of his date for surgeons to remove his gallbladder.

His working day began with a ceremonial signing of a bill for up to $50 million a year of federal aid for water and sewage facilities in rural areas.

And his schedule ran on into the evening, to be capped by a reception for all members of Congress — and finally departure for Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital where tomorrow morning he is to undergo surgery.

His doctors say he should stay in the hospital 10 to 14 days.

If the 57-year-old President was feeling any tension over the necessity for the operation, it was not evident — unless it was to be drawn from a small incident in the forenoon.

★ ★ ★

Despite a light rain, Johnson walked out on the front portico of the White House about 11 a.m. and headed down the drive.

With him was one of his top assistants, Jack Valenti.

They strolled down the semicircular drive, along Pennsylvania Avenue for a few yards, and turned into West Executive Avenue alongside the White House.

By that time reporters came galloping up and Johnson told them:

"Just want to take a little walk and get some exercise without your drawing any conclusions on why I'm doing it. Will you please go back?"

Johnson took a similar but longer walk yesterday and there was published speculation that he was trying to demonstrate his vigor and good condition aside from the gallbladder problem.

Luna to Make Soft Landing?

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet moon rocket Luna 7 took dead aim at the lunar surface today amid growing speculation a soft landing was planned.

★ ★ ★

The feat would be a first in unmanned space shots.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, announced that the 3,000-pound package of instruments was "functioning normally" and would reach the moon at 1:08 a.m. Moscow time tomorrow (5:08 p.m. Pontiac time today.)

"Communication with the probe is stable," Tass said. "There have been 12 communication periods since the start of the flight. The trajectory of the station's flight is close to the planned."

★ ★ ★

Although the Soviets did not spell out the exact mission of the project or flatly say that a soft landing was planned, the general belief here was that such an attempt would be made.

Luna 7 was launched last Monday.

New GM Building for Pontiac

Plans to construct a new, multistory Pontiac Motor Division administration building on Joslyn south of the engineering building were announced today by John Z. DeLorean, a General Motors vice president and general manager of the division.

The proposed 300,000 square-foot structure will be four times larger than the 39-year-old present administration building on Oakland which will be used for storage and warehousing when the new unit is completed.

Bids on the new building will be let next spring with completion estimated in early 1968.

The administration building project is separate from a series of local plant improvement and expansion projects already launched, which were part of a $2-billion General Motors Corporation capital improvement program announced last year.

The new building and parking facilities will occupy approximately 15 acres of an area bounded by the engineering building on the north, Joslyn on the east, Kennett to the south and the large employe parking lot on the west.

1,000 EMPLOYES

Nearly 1,000 employes will move into the new building when it is completed, in a consolidation of many staff functions now dispersed in various locations.

Departments to be located there include sales, accounting, data processing, purchasing, production control and public relations.

Attractively landscaped grounds will surround the new building and it will be topped by a 21,000 square-foot building service "penthouse" which will contain all ventilation and air-conditioning equipment.

★ ★ ★

Interior features of the new high-rise structure will include modern dining and cafeteria facilities and a large conference room which can also be used as an auditorium seating nearly 300 persons.

CONFERENCE ROOMS

Conference rooms for office and staff meetings will be located on each level of the building.

Other interior features will include a large lobby and reception center designed for car displays and exhibits and escalator and elevator service to all levels.

Ample and readily accessible parking space will be provided outside the building which will be physically connected on the ground level with the engineering building.

★ ★ ★

Heat resistant tinted window glass will be utilized.

★ ★ ★

Final plans for the building design have not yet been approved.

City, Waterford School Enrollment Up

Total school enrollment in Pontiac and Waterford Township public and parochial schools has nudged past the 42,000 mark, according to official figures released today.

The count shows 42,077 students are enrolled in school this year, an increase of 1,159 over last fall's total of 40,918.

The most noteworthy changes were recorded in the public school systems.

Waterford Township's enrollment went from 15,613 to 16,305 —a 692 increase—while Pontiac recorded a rise of 496, jumping from 22,276 to 22,772.

The township system has shown significant growth annually, but Pontiac increased by only 235 students a year ago.

CITY ENROLLMENT

The official fourth Friday tally lists 13,787 pupils in the city's elementary schools, 4,963 in junior high schools and 4,022 senior high students.

Waterford Township tabulations list 9,754 elementary school pupils, 3,611 junior high pupils and 2,940 high school students.

Total combined enrollment for the two public school systems is 39,077 compared with 37,889 last fall.

★ ★ ★

Total parochial school enrollment showed a slight decrease —from 3,029 to 3,000. However, gains were realized in one of the schools.

PAROCHIALS DIP

Although Pontiac's four parochial schools dipped from 1,682 a year ago to 1,630, Waterford's two nonpublic schools increased from 1,347 to 1,370.

In Pontiac, St. Michael School decreased in enrollment from 684 to 660 and St. Frederick School dropped from 616 to 609.

Emmanuel Christian School and St. Trinity Lutheran also have fewer pupils this year, Emmanuel Christian dropping from 284 to 272 and St. Trinity Lutheran from 98 to 89.

Our Lady of the Lakes School showed the only increase among the six parochial schools surveyed, rising from an enrollment of 651 to 704.

Waterford Township's other Catholic school — St. Benedict —fell from an enrollment of 696 last fall to the present 666.

This morning, he reported light rain or showers for tonight and tomorrow; partly cloudy and mild Saturday.

Winds southerly at eight to 16 miles per hour will be about the same tonight.

Fifty-two was the low recording prior to 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. The mercury registered 55 at 2 p.m.

Twins and Dodgers May 'Swing' in Rain

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick ordered the gates opened and said the second World Series game definitely would be played today barring further rain.

Batting practice was canceled while the grounds crew labored with weed blowers and other equipment to get the field in shape after an all-night rain.

The weed burners, which throw flames with a blowtorch head in front of them, were used on the dirt area around the dugouts. They could not be used on the grass.

According to the weatherman the storm had passed the area and clearing skies were expected by game time.

Sandy Koufax, the Dodgers' 26-game winning ace, was to face Jim Kaat, 18-11, in a battle of left-handers as the Twins tried to make it two straight and the Dodgers strived to get even. Minnesota won yesterday's opener 8-2.

If the game should not be played, it would be played tomorrow afternoon at Metropolitan Stadium. Under the current schedule, tomorrow will be an off day for travel and the third game will be played Saturday in Los Angeles.

Beating Victim Died of Internal Injuries

Results of an autopsy yesterday indicated the death of a beaten 38-year-old Avon Township carpenter Tuesday night was caused by internal injuries, according to Capt. Leo Hazen of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Hazen also said the report suggested the victim — John Arnett, of 3471 Dunning — might have survived if he had sought medical attention sooner.

Arnett died one day after a scuffle in which he told deputies he was kicked and beaten by 23-year-old Herbert Harris.

Harris of 3044 Eastwood, Avon Township, was ordered held without bond yesterday after arraignment on a charge of first-degree murder in Pontiac Township Justice Court.

★ ★ ★

MOTIVE UNCLEAR

Motive for the beating was not immediately clear.

"John and Herbert knew each other and always got along as far as I know," said Paul Arnett, also of 3471 Dunning, a brother of the victim.

"John's been dating Herb's mother (Mrs. Henrietta McDougald) for quite awhile — she and John thought quite a bit of each other," Arnett said.

★ ★ ★

Arnett said the victim returned home with blackened eyes and bruises Monday night after the scuffle, which he said took place in front of an Avon Township home about two miles from the Arnett residence.

TOOK HOT BATH

"He took a hot bath and said he was feeling better," his brother said.

"The next day (Tuesday) he was up and about . . . then he had something to eat and drank some orange juice around dinner time and got sick."

The victim was then taken to Avon Center Hospital, where officials notified the Oakland County Sheriff's Department he was in critical condition.

★ ★ ★

Transported in an ambulance to Pontiac General Hospital, Arnett was listed as dead on arrival.

Sanity Hearing in 2 Slayings

An emergency sanity hearing will be held tomorrow for an Addison Township woman charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of her former husband and his wife.

★ ★ ★

Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn ordered the 9 a.m. hearing for Mrs. Jane Kendall, 45, of 1480 Noble on the request of her attorney Malcolmn Sutherland, Detroit.

Asst. Prosecutor Bernard Paige agreed to the hearing.

The woman's conduct in the Oakland County Jail prompted Sutherland to petition for the hearing, according to Page.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Kendall is accused of killing Glen Kendall, 45, and his wife, Lucille, 46, of Detroit early Saturday morning.

ADMITS SHOOTING

Sheriff's deputies said that Mrs. Kendall told them that she shot the two when they attempted to break into her home to get her daughter, Laurie, 13.

★ ★ ★

Thorburn appointed Birmingham psychiatrists, doctors Edward M. Wisniewski and Jay Van Zoeren to examine the woman. They will testify as to her condition.

Act on School Services Law

Hold Up Funds if Not Obeyed---House Unit

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Education should withhold funds from any school district that fails to extend auxiliary services to non-public school students, a House committee ruled Wednesday.

The House Policy Committee acted over the objections of one legislator that the auxiliary services law was unclear, yet "we are now ordering school districts not to be confused."

★ ★ ★

The committee-approved resolution does not have the force of law, but does express legislative intent. It still must win the full approval of the House and Senate.

The resolution, by Reps. John J. Fitzpatrick, D-Detroit, and E. D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, is intended to express "the clear intention of the legislature that this act should be carried out with urgency and without discrimination or delay."

The 1965 act in question extends non-classroom service offered by local districts to students in non-public schools on an equal basis.

The services include crossing guards, visiting teachers and counseling for mentally retarded and mentally and emotionally disturbed children, remedial reading and health services.

★ ★ ★

The new law has met with some grumbling from public school officials—primarily over the timing. State regulations implementing the new law took effect after the school year's programs already were operating or set to operate, and long after the year's budget had been approved, they said.

Rep. Charles Conrad, D-Jackson, objected to the law, the rules and the resolution.

"I am not opposed to the extending of these services to these children," he told the committee. "But I feel we acted in such haste the law is unclear."

Fitzpatrick said the resolution was prompted by the Detroit Board of Education's publicly expressed doubts about the legality of the new law. The board reportedly said it would not fight, but that it hoped some "public-spirited" citizen would.

The resolution is, "not a threat — it just shows that we want it done and done in a hurry," Fitzpatrick said.

Conrad said "these districts were told of this late this summer, while they drew up their budgets last March or April.

Now they have to cut back programs for the public school children to make sure an equal proportion of non-public school students get the services."

DRIVE CHAIRMAN

Chairman of this year's drive was Harvey Kresge, 500 E. Long Lake, Bloomfield Hills.

The Community House is a nonprofit organization which depends solely on contributions for support.

Prosecutor's Chief Aide Dies at 55

Oakland County Chief Assistant Prosecutor Robert D. Long, 55, died early this morning at the University of Michigan Hospital after an illness of several months.

Presiding Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn today expressed the regret of the bench and the courts over the "passing of a fine lawyer and faithful servant of Oakland County for many years.

"He was respected by those who knew him. All men who knew Bob Long had a great affection for him."

Senate Okays Osteopathic College Bill

ON PROVISION

Kelley based his letter on the background of the constitutional provision establishing the elected eight-member board "as the general planning and coordinating body for all public education, including higher education, and shall advise the Legislature as to the financial requirements in connection therewith."

Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, chairman of the appropriations committee, retorted with a reading of the constitutional provision declaring, "the legislative power of the State of Michigan is vested in a Senate and a House of Representatives."

He argued that "this doesn't say I have to take instructions from a board of education."

★ ★ ★

Board President Thomas Brennan declared later he would stand firm behind Kelley's opinion. "If we don't have authority here, we don't have it any where," he said.

★ ★ ★

He called the opinion "very significant" but said the board would rather work with the legislature than take legal action.

But if the education board, Legislature — and probably university board officials, too —don't reach any agreement the ultimate resolution of the conflict almost certainly will come in the State Supreme Court, which will have to decide just who and to what extent has the higher education planning power.

Gov. George Romney obtained a copy of Kelley's letter but had no statement. His Constitutional Convention arguments quoted by Kelley tended to support the letter's position, however. If Romney vetoed the osteopathic bill, its supporters would have to find four more votes to override the veto.

★ ★ ★

SENT TO COURT

Sen. Basil Brown, D-Detroit, who voted for the bill, suggested it be sent to the Supreme Court for a ruling on constitutionality.

That idea was derided by Sen. George Fitzgerald, D-Grosse Pointe Park, who added that "if the Supreme Court tells us the Board of Education has the power to stop us from passing a law, we might as well forget about the House and Senate and get a new Constitutional Convention that will recognize legislative power and its roots in our Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence."

Supporters of the bill argued the Board of Education had ignored the osteopaths' wish to discuss the matter with them.

★ ★ ★

But Brennan, in asking for a delay on the bill, said the board had asked the committee April 22 for an opportunity to discuss the matter and hadn't been answered.

MERITS SECONDARY

As the fight progressed, merits of the bill grew secondary. Lane said it had become "a vehicle now to show we're still a legislative body."

Bowman said he'd vote for it regardless of merits to show that "a letter from the attorney general is not binding on us."

Dzendzel, at the start of debate, said the osteopathic college is needed "because our state is far below the national average in the ratio of physicians per 100,000 population."

He said osteopaths are only 22 per cent of the state's doctors but provide the basic health care for one-third of Michigan's population.

GROUND BROKEN

Ground was broken for the school in August on a 164-acre site in Pontiac. When completed its cost might run to $60 million, Dzendzel had said Tuesday.

About $4 million has been pledged by osteopaths and application for a $16 million federal grant is pending.

The bill has no financial implications for this year but will have in the future, said Lane and Dzendzel.

★ ★ ★

Dzendzel said later that he has no idea how the bill will to come in time for the federal grant deadline of Dec. 31, the bill would have to be passed by next week—the end of the autumn legislative session.

APPEARED LOPSIDED

Although the 22-7 count in the Senate appeared lopsided, the bill had only two more votes than the minimum of 20 needed for passage. Nine senators were absent or did not vote on the issue.

GOP Needs John Birch Like Another Trunk

The Republicans in the '60s are suffering from the same kind of infection as did the Democrats in the '30s — the infiltration by extremists who purportedly share the ideals of the party but who in actuality are working to destroy them.

The most basic of these ideals is the one called "democracy," which has to do with the free and open interplay of competing ideas, majority rule tempered by a loyal opposition, compromise, fair play.

★ ★ ★

Democracy is a dirty word to the rightist John Birch Society, just as it is, in its true sense, to the Communists. The guiding principles of the Birch Society founder, Robert Welch, could have come directly from the lips of Lenin.

The John Birch Society is an authoritarian structure. Orders come directly from the top, with none of this nonsense about democratic discussion. Every member of the society acknowledges the right of the leader to oust him at any time without explanation.

The most fantastic and insidious thing about the Birch Society is that it does not hurt its ostensible enemy, the Communists, in the slightest. It does not even pay much attention to liberals. Its most bitter venom is directed against responsible and respected American conservatives.

Clearly, as Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan has said, "There is no place for it in the Republican party."

Sure Winner Is Seen for the World Series

Metropolitan Stadium, home base for the Minnesota Twins, American League World Series opponent of Los Angeles, is situated in Bloomington—a suburban community of 60,000 near the rival Twin Cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

But amid all the Series fanfare, the drum beating of the adjacent municipalities, the frenzied publicity pitches centering on participating dignitaries, there is one group who couldn't care less about all the hoop-de-do.

It is Assumption Catholic Church of Bloomington, which is just happy that the play-off is being staged there. Reason: The church's men's club earns money by cleaning Metropolitan Stadium after ball games.

Under a contract of $25,000 a year, the men begin sweeping at 5 a.m. following a night game and work until about 7 a.m., when their wives take over. The day games present no problem, since the churchmen can tidy up the park after conclusion of their regular employment.

★ ★ ★

About one-third of the church's 7,000 members take part on a rotation basis. And the extra games of the World Series will mean extra funds for the church.

Investors Show Faith in U.S. Capitalism

Over 20 million citizens are investors in the productive enterprises of this country. They own shares of stock in the corporations that are the backbone of our free market economic system.

The increase in the number of shareowners during recent years has been little less than spectacular. While shareownership has been growing apace, leaders in the financial community have worked to increase public knowledge of the principles of sound investing.

★ ★ ★

A recent release of the New York Stock Exchange describes the Investors Information Program that has been conducted in 100 cities throughout the country.

To date the program has sponsored forums in 26 cities for groups ranging in size from 600 to 6,000. These forums serve an important educational function.

★ ★ ★

The significance of the growing number of shareowners reaches far beyond the statistical indication of expanding affluence. When a person owns shares of stock in a company, he becomes a capitalist. Private property rights and personal liberty under representative government take on new meaning. As an investor, he learns firsthand how the private enterprise system works. His knowledge makes for a stronger nation.

The Stock Exchange and its members are to be commended for these services.

House Restless After 9 Months

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three recent legislative setbacks for President Johnson—one of them a major defeat—have started administration congressional leaders wondering if it isn't time to adjourn while they're still ahead of the game.

★ ★ ★

After nine months of docility, during which key parts of the President's program were enacted with votes to spare, the legislators are showing signs of balkiness. They already want to go home to sound out sentiment at the grass-roots level.

Many of them are chafing at repeated Republican taunts that Johnson's first Congress since his election last year has been famous for its willingness to rubber-stamp White House legislation.

There are indications that Republicans, outnumbered more than 2 to 1 in the House and better than 3 to 1 in the Senate, plan to stress the "rubberstamp" charge in their bid to regain seats in the 1966 congressional elections.

★ ★ ★

Disclosing plans for a slowdown of the legislative machinery in the next few weeks, a high Democratic leader summed up what apparently is the thinking of many of his colleagues.

GETTING RESTLESS

"The animals are getting restless," he said. "They want to go home and find out first-hand what their constituents are thinking. A few more setbacks like we've had in the past few days might persuade the President to suggest that we call it quits while we are way ahead in the win column."

The first sign of an incipient rebellion on Capitol Hill came last week when the House defeated the President's proposal for home rule for the District of Columbia.

The House followed that slap at the President with another jolt. Over White House opposition it sent to the Senate by a vote of 370 to 7 a bill to give federal employes a pay raise that would cost $1.5 billion over a two-year period. The President, favoring a more modest increase, described the bill as "disastrous."

★ ★ ★

Late last month another administration proposal went down the drain in the House. It called for approval of a $227-million hydroelectric project on the St. John River in Maine.

HOUSE MOOD BAD

While the Senate may try to pick up some of the legislative pieces, the mood of the House is not good. Many members feel that they have done enough for one session and it's time to go home.

★ ★ ★

If they keep feeling that way, the session may end soon with some major legislation shunted aside as unfinished business for next year.

David Lawrence Says:

Disability Plan Not Total Answer

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's need for a surgical operation has dramatically focused attention on the weakness in the American system of government with respect to presidential succession.

Many members of Congress have thought that the pending constitutional amendment, which prescribes that the vice president shall take over certain functions in the case of a president's temporary disability, would solve all problems. But, unfortunately, it is not a complete answer to existing defects in the American system.

The assumption now is that a vice president can take over the duties of the president temporarily and that he is equipped to do so. Actually, he usually has only a cursory knowledge of what is going on inside the government.

This becomes even more serious when a vice president succeeds to the office of president, as did Vice Presidents Coolidge, Truman, and Johnson.

★ ★ ★

Of all the vice presidents who have become president during a presidential term, Lyndon Johnson happens to have been the best trained, because he was the majority leader of the Senate for many years.

NOT IN KNOW

But no vice president, including Johnson, could possibly have known as much about the day-by-day activities of our government as the members of the British Cabinet today know about their government.

Under the British parliamentary system, there are 21 members in the Cabinet. They are not only officials of the executive branch of the government, but they also hold seats in Parliament.

If a prime minister becomes seriously ill, there is really no problem of transition, for the Cabinet can continue to function by selecting one of its members as the presiding officer.

★ ★ ★

The British system has another advantage. All the members of the Cabinet are chosen from the party which won a majority of seats in the House of Commons, and this means party discipline.

RISK OF OUSTER

If any members in the legislative branch differ from their colleagues, they run the risk of being ousted from the party.

The most significant factor in the British system is the unity that exists between the majority party leaders in parliament and the Cabinet, for the two are identical. There is little chance for any enduring factionalism within a party.

Basically, the value of the British system is that the members of the Cabinet are familiar not only with the legislative problems but with the functioning of the executive departments.

Also, there is no interval between elections and the assumption of power. The victorious party takes office almost immediately after its election.

DRAWS ATTENTION

The hospitalization of President Johnson, it is hoped, will be short, and he is expected to resume office soon after his operation.

But the incident draws attention to the fact that the problem of transition has by no means been solved. It probably never will be as long as America has a single executive, instead of a cabinet government, and at times allows responsibility to be diffused, with one party in control of Congress and another party in office at the White House.

Johnson Offer to Cubans Contained Touch of Irony

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—There was a touch of irony in President Johnson's offering asylum to additional thousands of Cuban refugees Sunday when he signed a new immigration bill into law.

★ ★ ★

This is because the only provision in the bill that was designed to benefit Cuban refugees in this country was eliminated before its final approval by Congress.

Secondly, both the Senate and the House committee reports on the legislation called for a halt to the use of the authority under which most of the 270,000 Cuban refugees have been admitted to the United States since Castro came to power.

As first passed by the Senate, the bill would have permitted Cuban refugees to apply for adjustment of their status — from refugees to aliens admitted to permanent residence — in order to become eligible after five years to seek U.S. citizenship.

★ ★ ★

The House had no similar provision in its bill, and in the compromise worked out by a Senate-House Conference Committee this Senate amendment was jettisoned.

DIRECT BENEFIT

The effect was to wipe out the only provision of direct benefit to the Cubans, although the legislation does call for a study of their situation by a special 15-member commission on Western Hemisphere immigration.

Some members of Congress expect the commission to recommend special legislation to make the Cuban refugees eligible for adjustment of their status, as was done in the case of Hungarian refugees paroled into this country in 1956 after an anti-Communist uprising was crushed by the Soviet Union.

As finally passed, the legislation bars all Western Hemisphere aliens who enter this country as nonimmigrants, such as visitors, students or refugees, from applying for permanent resident status after they get here.

★ ★ ★

The Cuban refugees, like the Hungarian refugees, have been admitted to this country under authority which the McCarran-Walter Act vested in the attorney general to parole aliens into the United States. This provision was not changed by the new legislation.

EMERGENCY CASES

But the Senate and House committees that handled the new immigration bill said this parole authority was intended for use only in individual, emergency cases — for example, an alien requiring immediate medical attention.

Their reports, which are not legally binding, said it should not be used "for the immigration of classes or groups outside the limit of the law."

I think remarks in a recent Voice of the People letter about Lapeer were unnecessary and a cruel hurt to many parents with children there.

The people in charge of Lapeer do understand and care about these children and are highly qualified to handle them. I do not condone my parents' sending my brother to Lapeer—I love them more for it.

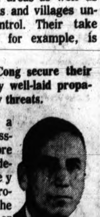
Threats Aid V.C. 'Contributions'

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A Vietnamese source has passed on the Viet Cong tax schedules for one South Viet Nam province.

Communist guerrillas collect these taxes, called "contributions," in government-controlled and contested areas as well as in the hamlets and villages under V.C. control. Their take from Saigon, for example, is great.

The Viet Cong secure their collections by well-laid propaganda and by threats.



CROMLEY

They warn a Saigon businessman his store will be destroyed. They tell a Hue professor that he or his wife or children will be kidnapped. They let a farmer or wholesaler knows his goods will be hijacked on the way to market. They carry through on their threats. A bus line or restaurant that doesn't pay taxes is bombed. An "uncooperative," well-to-do man finds he must ransom his children.

★ ★ ★

Many Vietnamese are so afraid of V.C. terrorism they don't dare refuse these requests, which are carefully tailored according to the size of the enterprise or the wealth of the man.

The standard V.C. rate schedule in this province calls for all goods shipped out to Saigon and elsewhere to be taxed 5 per cent in cash.

V.C. agents watch the roads, collect the tax in goods if the farmer-transporter doesn't have cash. If they think he's been trying to evade their collectors, he pays a penalty.

★ ★ ★

This export tax applies across the board — to rice, cassava, taro, peanuts, water buffalo, oxen, pigs, chickens, ducks and fish.

Imports from Saigon (beer, soft drinks, liquor, crackers, toilet soap, perfume, cigarettes and whatever) are taxed 5 per cent of the Saigon price.

Farmers pay production taxes which range from 6 per cent of the crop to 28 per cent and up.

Any family producing 120 bushels of rice pays a quarter of his output in tax.

★ ★ ★

The only farmers who pay the low 6 per cent rate are those who produce less than 12 bushels.

Transportation taxes of 10 to 50 per cent are levied on bus lines, barges, "motorized" boats, trucks.

Note that rice shipped to Saigon, for example, is taxed four times — the production tax, the export (to Saigon) tax, the transportation tax, the import (into Saigon) tax. That doesn't include the tax on the wholesaler who buys it from the farmer or the merchant who sells it in Saigon.

Industrial, business and commercial taxes range from 10 to 50 per cent, depending on the size of the firm. These taxes apply to barbershops, dentists, restaurants, stores, egg hatcheries, blacksmith shops and small neighborhood rice mills and boat yards as well as to larger businesses.

Merchants who cooperate with the Viet Cong and act as their suppliers or transporters are given a tax reduction of 20 per cent.

The Viet Cong also tax workers. Those who earn less than $24 a month are asked to "contribute" 5 per cent of their pay. Those who earn $47 are expected to turn over 8 per cent. A 10 per cent "contribution" is asked of those who earn $80.

★ ★ ★

The V.C. have their own trained corps of tax collectors and inspectors who travel from hamlet to hamlet and to the cities.

The taxes quoted above are basic rates in one province. In emergencies, the "contributions" asked for may be doubled, tripled or even quadrupled.

Viet Cong taxes vary considerably from area to area.

QUESTION: Do animals have voice boxes like we do?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: The higher animals do have a voice box, or larynx, to make sounds with. It is situated in the throat, as ours is, and is a kind of enlargement of the windpipe.

Inside, the vocal chords are stretched across and vibrate when air is passed over them, creating sound.

The cavities of throat and mouth enlarges the sound, like the hollow box of a violin's body enlarges the vibration of the violin strings. The big lion has a large voice box and amplifying area which makes for a deep sound, as the big bass fiddle makes a deep sound too.

But the little cat, with its much smaller voice box and vocal chords, produces a higher-pitched sound, much as the small violin does.

Birds sing by using a special "song box" of their own called a syrinx, in which vibrating membranes take the place of vocal chords.

No matter how the voice boxes of the animals may resemble ours, there is a gigantic difference between what they can do with theirs and what we do with ours.

For we can modify the sounds coming from our voice boxes, turning them into speech to convey every shade of meaning.

That is only possible because of the amazing development of the human brain.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Remember you have a voice box which will give you more than just words — you can sing with it! You may not be an opera star, but sing just the same. It will make you feel happy.

Catholic Club Goes Ecumenical

DE KALB, Ill. (AP) — A sign of the times hung this week at the entrance to the Catholic chapel at Northern Illinois University. It read: "Yom Kippur services downstairs."

"We like to show the ecumenical spirit," said Mike Frolik, 21, of Sycamore, Ill., president of the Newman Club, the Catholic students' organization on campus.

* * *

The Newman Center loaned its assembly hall to Jewish students who were looking for a place to hold Holy Day services.

"A lot of townspeople came, too," Frolik said in an interview Wednesday night. "They don't have a synagogue."

200 PARTICIPATE

Some 200 Jewish students participated in the services Tuesday and Wednesday, he said. It was the first time Yom Kippur services had been held on campus by the group.

There was no rabbi. "The whole thing was thought of and engineered by students," said Frolik.

* * *

He said the unusual sign on the chapel door provoked little comment from Catholic students who saw it. They're old hands at showing the ecumenical spirit, he said.

"We've held joint retreats with the Wesley Society (a Methodist student group) for two years," said Frolik. "And last year Hillel (a Jewish student organization) had a Hanukkah-Christmas party with us."

Northern Illinois University has 14,688 students.

Nebraska Prison Hanky-Panky Is Revealed in Trooper's Report

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — A rollicking tale of beer parties, burglary and female companionship inside a Nebraska prison farm has been unfolded in the report of a special highway patrol investigator.

The report of inmates at the Mead, Neb., Prison Farm cutting up in the corn belt was made by Trooper D. E. Mayhew, an 18-year veteran of the highway patrol who spent two weeks at the prison talking with prisoners.

George Morris, director of state institutions, said today he read the report and plans to ask for a more specific investigating. The original probe was ordered by Warden Maurice Sigler.

In his report, Mayhew said he was told:

- Three inmates used a guard's car to drive to Omaha for a beer party.
- Two inmates took a few hours off, left the prison farm to pull a burglary and came back loaded down with beer, cold cash and other merchandise not readily available in prison.
- A majority of the inmates had been entertained by "unauthorized guests" and that two or three of the guests were found to be pregnant after their visits.
- Inmates and guards joined hands in stealing between $350 and $400 worth of copper from the prison farm and sold it to salvage yards.
- Although only 30 inmates occupied the compound, they often enjoyed all the comforts of home. Groceries for 60 persons were sometimes ordered and delivered.

"Actually this report involves a lot of minor things," Morris said today. "There was only one thing wrong with this . . . we are talking about guards working with inmates to circumvent the law."

Morris said two guards who cooperated in the shenanigans were John Flagle, 53, and Robert Chester, 34, both of whom were recently charged with petty larceny.

Side Effects of Aspirin Are 'Temporary'

By Science Service

BOSTON — Arthritis patients and others who take unusually large doses of aspirin to overcome pain often complain of ringing in the ears, loss of hearing or vertigo.

A team of Harvard physicians reports that these symptoms are only temporary, however, and disappear soon after the medication is stopped.

This is in contrast to other drugs, the researchers say. Permanent hearing loss can follow excessive use of neomycin, dihydrostreptomycin and kanamycin, they warn.

"One of the most remarkable features of deafness produced by salicylate (aspirin) intoxication is the speed with which hearing returns to normal," they report in the Sept. 9 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

★ ★ ★

A 40-year-old woman came to the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, a Harvard-associated teaching hospital, in which Drs. Eugene N. Myers and Joel M. Bernstein are residents, complaining of hearing loss and ringing sounds.

DAILY DOSE

She had been taking 20 aspirin tablets a day for two years, but when the salicylate was stopped, and a substitute pain killer called Darvon was given, her hearing returned to normal.

A hearing loss of 20 decibels (decibels measure sound intensity) had been shown by audiometer tests.

Seventeen of 21 patients studied after being given increasing doses of aspirin showed hearing losses of 30 to 40 decibels for pure tones.

Their hearing became entirely normal within two or three days after the drug was withdrawn.

CLOSE RELATIONSHIP

Aspirin may alter enzyme activity in the inner ear, the doctors believe.

A close relationship was noted between the hearing loss and the level of salicylate in the blood plasma.

Dr. George Fostiropolous, formerly a clinical fellow with the arthritis unit, Massachusetts General Hospital, and now at the Medical School, Birmingham, England, assisted in the study.

Start to Study Transportation

State Group Named for U. S. Research

DETROIT (AP)—A committee has been named and grants awarded in the first steps toward a major study of transportation in American Academy of Transportation said Wednesday.

Herbert Norder, academy president, said the grants will be given five Michigan universities for use by graduate students in preparing date to determine what research has been done on transportation. Amount of the grants was not revealed.

* * *

The newly-named, five-member research analysis committee is the first of a number of key committees that will undertake the complex study, Norder said. It has five members, one each from the universities given grants.

Purpose of the committee, Norder said, is to make the academy knowledgeable on existing transportation research.

NEW RESEARCH

He said the academy then will conduct any needed new research and formulate programs "to increase the efficiency of today's transportation and lend order to the design of American transportation for the year 2000."

* * *

Named to the research analysis committee were Dr. Eugene Y. Huang, professor of transportation engineering, Michigan Tech; Dr. John D. Nystuen, professor of geography, University of Michigan; Dr. John L. Hazard, professor of marketing and transportation, Michigan State University; Dr. Eugene E. Flamboe, professor of biology, University of Detroit, and Dr. E. S. Gurdjian, professor of medicine, Wayne State University.

* * *

The academy is a nonprofit organization which says its goal is to find "solutions to the increasingly complex problems that beset Twentieth Century transportation." Its members include, among others, some prominent scientists and business leaders from throughout the United States.

Jug of Water Causes Fire in Car's Back Seat

PUEBLO, Colo. (UPI) — A fire in the back seat of a car was caused by a jug of water, firemen said.

The jar in Mrs. Lolita Stacy's car caused the sun's rays to magnify, setting the upholstery on fire. She drove to a fire station where the blaze was extinguished.

Illegal Sales of LSD Drug 'Frightening'

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors are concerned about a spreading black market in powerful "consciousness - expanding" drugs that they say can lead to schizophrenia or suicide if improperly used.

Dr. Max Rinkel, who introduced the drug popularly known as LSD to the United States, says its dangers when obtained on the black market are frightening.

★ ★ ★

"I have a number of patients who took LSD at parties and who suffer from panic, anxiety, feelings of unreality, illusions, hallucinations or delusions," he said.

Dr. Rinkel, affiliated with the Massachusetts Mental Health Center, said in an interview such drugs as LSD, the proper name of which is deithylamide, and peyote, psilochbin and lysergic acid are called consciousness - expanding because they "allegedly provide a greater awareness of self and environment.

EFFECT ON BRAIN

"But the truth is we don't understand the chemical effect on the brain," he said.

Some of the hallucinations are eerie and lurid, he said. A young woman who took LSD after obtaining it illegally told of seeing people decompose in the street, and a boy saw himself smother his baby brother.

Rinkel said he and other doctors have learned that the drugs have become readily obtainable in student areas or artist colonies.

Sugar lumps drenched in LSD may be bought at Harvard Square for $5, he said, adding "some students take marijuana with the drug and some also take narcotics like heroin. So far as we know, LSD does not make a person an addict."

But he said the dangers of LSD and the other drugs are "multiplied when obtained on the black market, dangers such as a suicide, persistent hallucinosis and frank schizophrenic."

The drugs are used occasionally by artists who hope to sharpen their creative senses. One artist, Hyman Bloom, took LSD in an experiment conducted by Dr. Rinkel.

★ ★ ★

"There is no doubt that the drug put him in ecstasy," Dr. Rinkel reports. "But the drawings he produced were mainly unformed, and when formed were of monstrous creatures."

LSD, first used in the United States in 1949, "has proven an effective tool for research to study the nature and treatment of mental illness," he said.

FORMAL PLAN

There is only one manufacturer licensed to make LSD. Anyone who plans to use it for experiments must file a formal research plan with the Food and Drug Administration.

A paper called "leaves of grass" circulates in Cambridge, Dr. Rinkel said, in which "students are given interesting details such as the current market price of hallucinogenic drugs, tips about hiding drugs from the police, and how to behave in case of arrest."

TIRED SUSPECT—Elton Winchester, 25, of Cincinnati is led from a farm field yesterday by Indiana State Police following a bank holdup in Mount Summit, Ind. Winchester walked out of the field waving a handkerchief, saying he was "too tired to go on." Bank employes identified two men as the robbers. The second suspect is still being sought.

Baseball No Excuse

DENVER, Colo. (UPI) — District Court Judge James C. Flanigan refused yesterday to delay the start of a theft trial because a key witness for the prosecution was in Minneapolis to watch the World Series.

Halt Mock Funeral for Slain Arab Boy

ADEN (UPI) — Police used tear gas today to break up an anti-British demonstration by 300 school children who staged a mock funeral procession to the grave of a youth killed in last Sunday's riots.

★ ★ ★

The demonstration was held in Crater Town a few miles from this British colonial seaport on the southern tip of the Arabian peninsula.

★ ★ ★

Dozens of other students assembled later at the grave of Hisham Zokari and piled flowers atop it. In Aden proper, Arab shops remained closed and boarded up against the possibility of new rioting. British troops patrolled the streets.

'Tibet Guerrillas Harass Reds'

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Tibetan tribesmen are trying to block a Chinese Communist supply line along the border with Sikkim by guerrilla tactics, the government's All-India Radio claimed today.

The radio and Indian news agencies said about 5,000 Khampa tribesmen were involved in the operation, aimed at blocking the Szechuan Highway linking Peking with Tibet, and were proving "a big headache" to the Red Chinese.

The unofficial reports said several sections of the road already had been wrecked by the guerrillas.

The newspaper Express reported today Pakistani naval vessels shot up two Iranian navy ships Sept. 22 in the Arabian Sea. The incident occurred one day before the United Nations cease-fire in Kashmir went into effect, according to the report.

* * *

"Pakistan promptly suppressed details of this embarrassing naval clash with its Iranian friends and proudly announced that the Pakistani fleet had sunk an Indian frigate in a sucessful action at sea," the New Delhi paper said.

The report claimed that after the error was discovered, the damaged Iranian ships went into Karachi for repairs.

Mexico News Exec Dies

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Ramon Beteta, 63, director-general of three major Mexico City newspapers, died Tuesday of a heart attack.

Ex-Aide to JFK Opposes U. N. Admitting China

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Admission of Red China to the United Nations or recognition of Red China by the U.S. at this time would be a "grave mistake," Theodore C. Sorensen, special counsel to the late President John F. Kennedy, said last night.

Sorensen, who recently wrote a book about the late president, said in an address at Drexel Institute of Technology that this country can expect "no final accommodation" with Red China in the next 20 years.

"They are still in the Stalinist stage of communism," he said, "still convinced that military aggression is the principal means of attaining their ambitions."

To Shift Officers From Obsolete B47s

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force will shift almost 1,250 bomber pilots and navigators to new jobs flying transports, fighter planes and reconnaissance jets, it was disclosed today.

The pilots and navigators have been operating B47 jet bombers which will disappear from the U.S. air fleet by next June.

* * *

The Air Force said that over the next eight months 952 pilots and 291 navigators will be transferred from the Strategic Air Command to the Military Air Transport Service, the Tactical Air Command and the Air Training Command.

BREAKDOWN OF TRANSFER

Of these, MATS will receive 493 pilots and 100 navigators, TAC will get 401 pilots and 191 navigators and ATC will receive 58 pilots.

The B47, a six-jet nuclear bomber, has been on the way out gradually for six years.

* * *

The plane became obsolescent with the rise in importance of intercontinental ballistic missiles and higher performance bombers. Only 200 are still on duty, compared with a peak of 1,400.

When the B47s are all retired, the United States still will have about 630 eight-jet B52 heavy bombers and 80 supersonic B58 bombers into the 1970s.

SHARP INCREASE

In recent years, the government has put on a drive to increase sharply the ability to airlift troops and equipment overseas.

The fleet of transport planes has roughly doubled since 1961.

* * *

Also, with the growth of U.S. conventional ground forces and the advent of the war in Viet Nam there has been a rise in the importance of tactical air — fighter planes, reconnaissance craft and the like.

While the B47 has been retiring, the Air Force also has been replacing propeller-driven KC97 tanker planes with jet power KC135 tankers of longer range and greater speed.

* * *

The Air Force said that shifting of air crew members to transport, tactical air and training duties "will not change any of the previously announced base closure or unit inactivation dates."

Pilots and navigators will be transferred from Lincoln Air Force Base, Neb.; Pease Air Force Base, N.H.; Selfridge Air Force Base, Mich.; Mountain Home Air Force Base, Idaho, and Plattsburgh Air Force Base, N.Y., the Air Force said.

Easy Street Is Out

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Newark won't put its city offices on Easy Street. The City Council decided this week to rent quarters in a former furniture store while a new $1.2 million city hall is built. It had been considering building temporary quarters on a city-owned lot on Easy Street.

'Mad Sprayer' Sought

KNOXVILLE, Tenn (AP) — Irate motorists have told police that an unidentified driver has rigged a spray gun beneath his rear fender. When a car follows too closely, the motorists say, he lets loose with a dose of paint covering the body and windshield of the second vehicle.

Women Often Use Weird Diet Methods

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

Many of the features of this malady, wrote Sir Robert McCarrison, M. D., in his famous monograph "Studies in Deficiency Disease," referring to "mucous colitis," or what is better called colon derangement, "as seen in nervous constipated women, were reproduced in deficiently fed monkeys. The state of anemia, unhealthy skin, loss of weight, lassitude, backache, colicky pains, bouts of diarrhea alternating with constipation, mucous stools, and the neurotic condition. Even the congestion of uterus and ovaries . . ."

The monkeys can't help it — they have to worry along on the restricted diet the scientific investigator prescribes.

Women, however, usually select their own diet, although in many instances they harbor quaint notions born of ignorance of nutrition and follow weird dietary habits, and without concern about malnutrition.

Malnutrition? That's an inoffensive way of saying starvation or not enough to eat, isn't it? Don't try to tell Mrs. Gotrocks it is more prevalent among the well-to-do than among the poor in America.

In the aggregate the most injurious to most people is the notion that plain wheat is not quite fit for human consumption as it comes from the thresher.

GOOD TO EAT

"Born and raised here among huge elevators and granaries overflowing with wheat," writes a Kansas reader, "we never realized it is good to eat until we learned from your pamphlet how to use it in the everyday diet . . ."

Remember this, folks, when you think of wheat — it is the best food source of vitamin B. And remember McCarrison's teaching: "One of the most constant results of food deficient in vitamins is colitis. It is so frequent that it may rank as a cardinal sign of vitaminic deficiency. It may arise as a result of the absence of vitamin B alone . . . or of vitamins in general."

And remember, everybody: What you eat everyday as a substitute for the staff of life yields more than half of the calories you need but no vitamins to speak of.

So, for the sake of health and functional efficiency, I beg you to send me 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlet, "Wheat to Eat."

AN ADVENTURE

It may enable you to give your family an adventure in good eating and a new level of vitality — to say nothing of the economy and better living.

People obsessed with morbid notions about food make ideal customers for charlatans.

They follow freak diets calculated to prevent putrefaction in the colon — being unaware that putrefaction is a normal occurrence in a healthy digestive tract. They go to absurd extremes to avoid what a persuasive charlatan has called wrong food combinations — unmindful of the fact that the Creator provided protein and carbohydrate in the staff of life.

They accept as "common sense" an "arthritis" expert's assertion that cod liver oil goes to the joints and "lubricates" them so they'll work better without friction, etc. although physiologists know that no oil or fat can lubricate a joint when taken as food or medicine.

Oil or fat of any kind is completely changed into fatty acid and glycerin before absorption.

Space Walks to Equal Flight

By Science Service

HOUSTON, Texas — If Astronaut David R. Scott's Gemini 8 flight goes as scheduled next year, the United States will have spent more total time walking around in space than Russian Cosmonaut Yuri Gagarian spent aboard the world's first orbital space flight in 1961.

Maj. Scott's planned space walk, a full orbit or more long or at least 96 minutes, will add up to an hour and 56 minutes when combined with Astronaut Edward White's 20-minute foray from Gemini 4. Gagarian rode the Vostok 1 for eight minutes less than that, even including his launch and descent.

Maj. Scott's pilot, Neil Armstrong, has never been in space, nor has Scott, but as an X-15 pilot he came within 57,000 feet of being eligible (at 50 miles) for his astronaut's wings. However, as a civilian, he could not have received his wings anyway.

Unless the Soviet Union launches one, there will be no more space walks until Gemini 8. Gemini 6 and 7 are both docking practice flights involving separately launched Agena target vehicles.

VIET MEDAL DESIGN — The Defense Department yesterday released this design for a Viet Nam Service Medal to be awarded to U. S. Military personnel who are serving or who hve served in Viet Nm. At left is the front view showing a cluster of bamboo trees superimposed on a traditional Oriental dragon. The reverse side shows a crossbow surmounted by a flaming torch above the words "United States of America."

Yanks Enter New Viet Area

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. forces have entered the fighting around Qui Nhon and killed 18 Viet Cong, a U.S. spokesman announced today.

U.S. paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Brigade combed rice fields just north of the coastal city in central Viet Nam Wednesday and killed 17 guerrillas, the spokesman said.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Army's 1st Cavalry Division also was reported in action in the Qui Nhon area, killing one Viet Cong and detaining two suspects about 10 miles west of the town.

It was the first direct entry of U.S. troops into the continuing fighting between the Vietnamese army's 22nd Division and elements of four Communist regiments north of Qui Nhon. The Reds there have suffered heavy casualties in several major battles in the last two weeks along Highway No. 1 and around the Phu Cu Pass.

TROOPS ARRIVE

Meanwhile, the rest of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division began arriving in Viet Nam to swell the total number of American troops in the embattled country to more than 140,000.

In Washington, the Defense Department disputed Peking's claim that a U.S. Air Force jet was shot down over Communist China Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

The South Vietnamese army claimed its forces killed 13 Viet Cong in one operation in Vinh Binh Province, 75 miles southwest of Saigon. Enemy action during the past 24 hours was reported sparse in comparison with the series of battalion-size attacks in the Mekong Delta and along the cen tral coast earlier in the week.

The U.S. spokesman said the paratroopers operating north of Qui Nhon Wednesday picked up 54 Viet Cong porters, all of them over military age, and 10 suspects. One of the bearers led the Americans to 10 tons of hidden rice.

LIGHT CASUALTIES

The spokesman said American casualties in the operation were light. No casualties were reported by the air cavalry troops west of Qui Nhon.

The spokesman said U.S. and Vietnamese planes flew 198 sorties against suspected Viet Cong concentrations in South Viet Nam in the past 24 hours. More than half were in the 3rd Corps area surrounding Saigon.

★ ★ ★

The carrier Oriskany sent 16 skyraider bombers on missions over North Viet Nam during the night. The spokesman said army barracks 65 miles south of Hanoi were among the targets destroyed.

Other U.S. planes loosed 880,000 propaganda leaflets over the Gulf of Tonkin for wind currents to carry them over the Red River delta east of Hanoi, the spokesman said.

About 2,300 men of the 1st Division landed at Vung Tau, 45 miles southeast of Saigon. Nearly 9,000 more were on the way to join the 4,000 members of the division already in Viet Nam. U.S. officials said landing operations would go on for some time.

The new arrivals came from Ft. Riley, Kan., after a 19-day voyage from Oakland, Calif.

★ ★ ★

"Most of us got seasick coming over," said Sgt. Raymond Kenniebrew, 23, Cleveland, Ohio.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, greeted the first man ashore, Sgt. Willie Gobel of Gadsden, Ala.

GLAD TO ARRIVE

"It's good to be here," Gobel said.

"It's good to have you," Westmoreland replied.

Seventy-five Vietnamese girls threw leis around the necks of the soldiers as they came ashore. Transport planes flew the men to Bien Hoa, 12 miles north of Saigon, where the units of the division which arrived in midsummer are stationed.

Gen. Hunter Harris, commander in chief of U.S. Pacific air forces, arrived at the Da Nang air base today on what he called a routine visit and said his command was anxious to meet any additional air requirements in Viet Nam.

"We have the capability," he told newsmen.

Asked if additional air power had been requested, he replied: "That I don't think I can answer."

★ ★ ★

Harris said that the almost daily raids by B52 bombers of the Strategic Air Command have been "quite effective."

"We may find later on they are more effective than we think. It will take time to tell," he added.

American's Trial Set in Two Slayings

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. mission employe Robert Kimball of Salt Lake City, Utah, will go on trial Oct. 27 for the slaying of his boss and a pretty Vietnamese secretary, it was disclosed today.

Kimball was turned over to Vietnamese authorities after the July 23 shooting of Jack Ryan, 44, chief of the public safety division of the U.S. operations mission in Viet Nam, and Mrs. Nguyen Thi Hai, 27, a mission employe.

Vietnamese police called the double slaying a "crime of passion."

American officials waived Kimball's diplomatic immunity and he became the first U.S. citizen handed over to Vietnamese courts.

A justice ministry source said the trial would begin Oct. 27. Kimball could be sentenced to from five years to life in prison if convicted.

Ryan, a onetime FBI agent, and Mrs. Hai were shot to death from ambush as they drove up to Ryan's villa. Kimball surrendered July 25 after an intensive manhunt and police said he subsequently confessed killing Ryan and the Vietnamese woman.

'Fast' UFO Is Reported Over State

COLDWATER (AP)—An unidentified flying object, described by a deputy sheriff as "the fastest thing I've ever seen moving," was reported racing across the Michigan night sky.

Branch County Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Burch said he and fellow sheriff's men Bob Mann and Bill Luck observed a bright steady light in the sky through binoculars late Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Two other deputies, Larry Frazer and Keith Weage, saw similar phenomena Monday Burch said.

Burch said he and the other two men went out to investigate after a rural Coldwater woman reported something "hanging over the county park."

NO SHAPE

"It was a sort of yellowish white light with no shape to it," Burch said. "It moved a little, then stopped again, then moved again.

"Finally it took off straight up and east," he added.

Burch said it was "a good deal faster than an airliner."

"It was the fastest thing I have ever seen moving," he added. "It was gone within five or ten seconds. It didn't make any noise whatsoever."

"I wouldn't even start to say what it was," he added.

Burch said other people in the area had reported seeing similar objects before in the area in recent days.

Bitter Fighting Reported in Central Java

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — Bitter fighting was reported in central Java today between Indonesian rebels and army troops loyal to President Sukarno. Radio Malaysia said there were heavy casualties on both sides.

Reports of the fighting reached here as Radio Jakarta announced that Indonesian air force Commander Omar Dani had issued an ultimatum giving anti-Sukarno elements in the air force 72 hours to surrender.

Radio Malaysia said at least 70 loyalists were killed and 60 captured in clashes with rebel forces near Jogjakarta, the former Indonesian capital in central Java about 300 miles southeast of Jakarta.

Heavy losses were also reported on the rebel side.

The Malaysian account gave no source for the report, but the Indonesia radio claimed yesterday that loyalist forces under the command of Brig. Gen. Surjo Sumpeno had "liberated" Jogjakarta and were in full control of the cities of Semarang and Magelang.

REPORTED IN HIDING

Lt. Col. Untung, the palace guard officer who led last week's anti-Sukarno rebellion in Jakarta, was reported to be hiding out in central Java with rebel forces.

In his ultimatum today, air force Commander Dani said air force disidents involved in the "30th of September Movement" against Sukarno would be "hunted down and severely dealt with" if they did not surrender within the 72-hour period.

An earlier broadcast reported the arrest of some volunteer air force officers who had been undergoing training at Halim Air Force Base about 20 miles south of Jakarta.

The bodies of six army generals and a lieutenant who were murdered by anti-Sukarno rebels were found at the base last week.

NO CONFIRMATION

Cables from Jakarta contained on confirmation of the reported fighting in central Java, but the government-owned Garuda Airlines canceled all flights to Jogjakarta yesterday and Tuesday. Garuda personnel said they were told the Jogjakarta airport was closed.

In Jakarta itself, a dusk-to-dawn curfew and martial law remained in effect, although only occasional tanks or amored cars were seen in the city today.

Traffic was normal to Bogor, 30 miles south of the capital, and guards at military checkpoints ignored most cars.

Anti-Red Campaign by Generals Rapped

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno and the leaders of Indonesia's army appeared today to be locked in dispute over the future of Indonesia's big Communist party.

Sukarno told his Cabinet Wednesday he disapproves of the army's campaign against the Communist party — PKI — for its alleged involvement in the abortive coup last Thursday which resulted in the slaying of six army generals.

★ ★ ★

Sukarno's position was reported by First Deputy Premier Subandrio after the 3½-hour Cabinet meeting at the president's summer palace in Bogor, 40 miles south of Jakarta.

Subandrio, who is also foreign minister, said he himself believed a PKI statement Wednesday that it was not involved in the rebel movement. Leaders of the PKI appeared in public for the first time since last weekend and claimed that the party had nothing to do with the attempted coup, which it called "an internal affair of the army."

NOTICEABLY ABSENT

Two Communist Cabinet members attended the Bogor meeting, but D. N. Aidit, leader of Indonesia's 3 million Communists and a Cabinet minister without portfolio, was noticeably absent.

The army command began cracking down on the Communists after it crushed the Jakarta coup attempt and issued a state-of-war proclamation last Saturday.

The army charged that Communist youths, disguised in uniforms, tortured and then killed the six generals, including army chief of staff Achmad Yani. Their mutilated bodies were found in a common grave near the Halim air base outside Jakarta.

The army has reported arresting some 200 Communists and seizing a large number of weapons.

STEADY FIRE

In Kuala Lumpur, Radio Malaysia reported that the army-controlled Jakarta radio was keeping up a steady fire of anti-Communist broadcasts, including a report that six big Moslem organizations had demanded the arrest and execution of Communist rebels and the banning of the PKI and its affiliates, including the big Sobsi trade union.

Diplomatic observers in Jakarta concluded that Sukarno apparently is determined to maintain the PKI in the face of the army's anti-Communist campaign.

★ ★ ★

Sukarno allowed the PKI to gain strength until it became the best organized political party in the country. He considered the Communists a good counterbalance to the army's power.

Sukarno criticized "the appeal for vengeance of one group against the other," Subandrio reported, but he said the president also does not condone the murder of the generals.

NUMEROUS REDS

In addition, Sukarno "does not condone the establishment of a revolutionary council" last Thursday by the coup leader, Lt. Col. Untung, an officer in the presidential guard. Those named to the short-lived council included a number of Communists.

The PKI said Wednesday that its members named to the council were "not notified" nor had they given their approval to the use of their names.

★ ★ ★

The PKI did not mention that its organ, the newspaper Harian Rakjat — People's Daily — came out last Saturday in support of the rebels. The army has since banned it and other Communist publications.

The War on Poverty—2

New Haven's Ahead of Game

Editor's Note — This is the second article in a five-part series on "the War on Poverty" and its effects.)

★ ★ ★

By TOM NOLAN

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (NEA)—"New Haven is the greatest success story in the history of the world," said Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz.

"The country has come to think of New Haven in the sense of accomplishment . . . in this assault on poverty in a way that is not happening anyplace else.

It's been nearly a year and a half since Wirtz made this statement.

The "assault on poverty" is now happening elsewhere because other communities are patterning their antipoverty programs after New Haven's.

★ ★ ★

But, today, this city may well represent what the remaining battlefields in the $1.5 billion-a-year war on poverty will look like in 1967, since New Haven began work more than two and a half years before the Economic Opportunity Act was passed.

HUMAN SIDE

The program is planned and coordinated here by Community Progress, Inc. (CPI), originally formed to run the "human side of urban renewal."

In three and a half years, it has secured and spent nearly $9.5 million — two thirds of it in federal funds.

CPI concentrates its efforts on education and employment, delivered through a neighborhood services program. But it also has its fingers in housing, health, recreation and civil rights.

★ ★ ★

CPI has reduced the city's unemployed bv more than 1,500 in two years through a network of neighborhood employment centers.

FOR DROPOUTS

For the dropouts whom the centers can't legitimately recommend to employers, CPI has set up a work crew program.

Six hours a day, five days a week, crews in groups of five to eight go out with a leader. Four hours are spent in hard work, one hour in counseling, another in basic education.

CPI estimates that of 600 enrollees this year, 260 will have jobs within 12 months, 35 will return to school and 105 will quit the program The remaining 200 will stay on, until their leader feels they're ready for steady employment or specialized training.

★ ★ ★

CPI channels money to New Haven's Board of Education for special programs, pays for special personnel and ties school programs into an all-encompassing neighborhood approach to curing poverty.

COMMUNITY SCHOOL

Key to this concept is the "community school," of which there are currently seven.

"We want the school to become a place where children and their parents can come — and want to come — all hours of the day," says a staffer.

Open until 10:30 p.m., the community schools offer sports, games, clubs, evening classes for children and adults.

★ ★ ★

One has a senior citizens' center. Others have offices for legal aid, visiting nurses and social workers.

TOWN HALL

Like the community schools, the neighborhood employment centers are run on a kind of town hall basis.

They're staffed mainly with local people with a few state employment service officers and psychological and social workers brought in by CPI.

Their aim is to get every member of a needy family involved in antipoverty projects.

★ ★ ★

How this approach works can be shown by the case of a 42-year-old woman — call her Mrs. Charles Davis.

AUTO MECHANIC

Her husband is an auto mechanic who spends most of his time drinking beer and gambling. He earns just enough to keep off the welfare rolls.

Generally, there's enough money to feed Mrs. Davis and her five children, but the rent money is sometimes hard to find.

Almost two years ago, her oldest son dropped out of high school to find a job which never materialized. Her 11 and 13-year-old daughters hated school. Her 9-year-old boy lisped badly and — though he'd been in school for several years — could not read.

GAS CUT OFF

The gas company had suspended services for non-payment of the bill and the weather was turning cold. Mrs. Davis was using a hot plate to cook on.

Her landlord was threatening to evict her because the rent hadn't been paid.

In desperation she stopped by a CPI employment center.

★ ★

A staffer quickly put her in touch with a legal aide, who stalled the landlord until another CPI worker located a house in a nearby neighborhood at less rent. CPI volunteers helped her family move.

VOLUNTEERED

Grateful, Mrs. Davis volunteered to help CPI distribute toys to needy children in cooperation with the Marine Corps at Christmas. Gradually, she learned more about CPI.

Her two daughters joined recreation classes at the community school during the evening. They're now top students.

After a few weeks of counseling, her eldest son returned to school. (He later dropped out again, but CPI promptly got him on a work crew where he now earns $20 a week.)

★ ★ ★

Her 9-year-old boy was enrolled in special speech therapy and remedial reading classes. Today, he's a normal 11-year-old.

AT NO PAY

Mrs. Davis became a neighborhood volunteer herself — at no pay. She became active in the PTA and the community school. She helped organize local slum dwellers into a cooperative to bargain with landlords for better heating and more maintenance.

This June, Mrs. Davis was hired as a full-time worker by CPI shortly after her youngest son entered a summer prekindergarten class. She now earns $4,500 a year — more than her husband.

A few weeks later, Mr. Davis attended his first meeting at a community school.

Mason Police Trespassers

Attorney Questions Headquarters Sale

MASON (UPI) — City fathers are faced with the rather startling prospect that the Mason Police Department may be trespassing in its own headquarters.

The seven-man City Council was shocked this week when informed by City Attorney John O'Brien that the $52,500 purchase of a building now housing police headquarters was apparently illegal.

O'Brien pointed out that the building, a former garage and new car showroom, was purchased without a necessary appropriation in the budget.

In addition, the purchase was not certified by the city finance officer, which is an apparent violation of the Municipal Finance Act, he said.

To further complicate matters, the building was purchased without prior consent of the voters.

DOWN PROPOSAL

In balloting last February, the townspeople voted down a proposal that the building be put to use as a combination city hall and fire department.

However, the bonds had already been secured for purchase of the structure, so the city moved the policemen in instead.

The possibility that the whole transaction was illegal has split the council.

There are those who believe the city has an obligation to local banks to make good on the bonds and those who believe the whole thing should be dropped because the people don't want the building.

The thorny problem was tabled at the council meeting and was scheduled to be picked up again when the council meets next week.

Coast Guard's State Plan Told

Shore Station Setup to Be Doubled in Size

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Coast Guard plans to double its shore station operations in Upper Michigan in the next 10 years, Rep. Raymond F. Clevenger, D-Mich., reported yesterday.

He said plans outlined to him by Rear Adm. William Childress, chief of Coast Guard operations, indicate the need for 16 new Coast Guard stations and a 239-man increase in personnel to keep pace with the rapid increase in pleasure boating in Lake Michigan, Lake Huron and Lake Superior.

★ ★

Clevenger outlined these plans for Coast Guard additions in the 1th Congressional District of Michigan, all subject to change:

ALPENA — A 22-man Coast Guard station will replace the Alpena Light Station by 1968.

PRESQUE ISLE — A 12-man station to replace the Presque Isle light by 1975.

HAMMOND BAY — A new 10-man station by 1972.

CHEBOYGAN — Expansion of the 4-man light station to a 23-man operation by 1969.

CHARLEVOIX — A two-man increase in the 24-man station by 1971.

BEAVER ISLAND — A new 10-man station by 1970.

ESCANABA — An expansion from 4 to 16 men by 1969.

ST. IGNACE — Transfer of the Mackinac Island station to St. Ignace in 1966 with a 2-man increase in the 14-man crew.

CORYELL ISLAND — Construction of a 10-man houseboat station near Cedarville by 1970.

DETROIT — A 10-man houseboat station by 1975.

SAULT STE. MARIE — The 55-man Sault Ste. Marie station to be combined with the Sault Ste. Marie Coast Guard Base probably in 1966. The base crew will be expanded from 48 to 70.

WHITEFISH POINT—Expansion of the 5-man light crew to an 18-man station by 1972.

GRAND MARAIS — A 3-man increase in the 9-man crew by 1973.

MUNISING — A 12-man station to replace the 4-man light crew by 1971.

BIG BAY — A new 10-man station north of Marquette by 1975.

CHASSELL — A 14-man station to replace the 3-man light by 1975.

LAC LABELLE — A new 10-man station by 1975.

EAGLE HARBOR — A 12-man station to replace the 4-man light by 1972.

Ex-U.S. Treasurer in California Race

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For eight years or more, everyone with a dollar bill in his pocket had Ivy Baker Priest's autograph.

In that neat hand learned in a mining town school at Bingham Canyon, Utah, she signed the nation's currency as Treasurer of the United States during the entire Eisenhower administration.

★ ★ ★

Now she lives in California, and has the optimistic expecta-

AP SPECIAL REPORT . .

tion that her well-known autograph will help elect her to another office — treasurer of the nation's most populous state.

"Many people said to put my experience as treasurer to work and I said 'Why not'," explains the mother of three grown children.

MARRIED IN 1961

Widowed while the nation's treasurer, she married Los Angeles real estate man Sidney Stevens in 1961.

But when she meets the voters of California, she's just Ivy Baker Priest — the lady who used to sign the money.

★ ★ ★

Today, Mrs. Stevens is the only announced candidate for the Republican nomination for treasurer. Party leaders expect her to win the nomination in next June's primary. They think she has a chance to take the job away from the soft-spoken Democratic incumbent, Bert Betts, now in his second term.

If she wins, the dollar bill will have played a big part.

MONEY HANDLER

"I think I can safely say that I have handled more money than any woman in the history of the world," she tells her audiences.

And to emphasize the point, there are dollar bills in her campaign kits, all bearing Ivy Baker Priest signature.

★ ★

In her trips throughout the state, Mrs. Stevens has a kind word for everyone and a polished manner developed in years as Utah's national GOP committeewoman, assitant Republican national chairman and in other party positions.

★ ★ ★

Has her opponent done a bad job in his six-year administration? "I'd rather not get into that," she replies — adding it's too early in the campaign to criticize him.

GOLDWATER FAN?

Democrats claim she's an archconservative, noting she was a member of the Barry Goldwater delegation at last year's GOP national convention.

"I've never been a hyphenated Republican," is her quiet answer.

Mrs. Stevens won't even tell her age, saying "I was born in an appropriate time in history." Who's Who lists her birthdate as Sept. 7, 1905.

★ ★ ★

If she wins, it will be a precedent-setting victory. Californias have never elected a woman to a state constitutional office.

Ford Backing Engine Study

LONDON (AP)—Ford Motor Co. indicated Wednesday it plans to enter Formula One racing competition in 1966 with the Jimmy Clark-Colin Chapman Lotus team spearheading its drive.

Ford announced a $280,000 research project with the ultimate aim of producing a new Grand Prix engine for a new Lotus racing auto.

★ ★ ★

Ford initiated the project with Lotus and Cosworth Engineering to study the design and development of new Formula Two and Formula One racing engines. The Formula Two engines will be made available to all racing teams but the Grand Prix units will be developed specifically for a new Lotus vehicle, said a Ford announcement.

★ ★ ★

An area of the $28 million Center under construction in Esses, England, will be set aside for the project.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne are searching for an undiscovered author with a new play.

"Mr. Lunt and I want a young man to write a new play for us," Miss Fontanne said last night in Milwaukee, Wis. "We haven't worked in over a year."

The husband and wife acting team, both in their 70s, last appeared on stage together in "The Visit."

"Actors, when they are out of work, feel they will never work again," said Miss Fontanne.

Humphrey Gives Advice at Ball Game

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who threw out the first ball in the opening World Series game, yesterday in Bloomington, Minn., later tossed some advice to winning Minnesota Twins pitcher Jim Grant.

HUMPHREY

Humphrey, a Minnesotan who still maintains a home there, disclosed last night that he called Grant over to his box near the Twins dugout after the eighth inning yesterday.

The vice president said, "I told him 'You're doing great.'

"He said, 'Mr. vice president, I haven't got my curve today.'

"And I said, 'Jim, just keep whooshing them in.'"

The Twins beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-2.

Danes May Increase Princess' Salary

The Danish government has proposed a pay increase for Princess Margrethe, the unmarried heiress to the throne.

Parliament is expected to approve the increase, which amounts to $9,285 and would bring the princess' salary to $36,451 a year.

Her father, King Frederik IX, is paid $543,000 a year, including living allowances.

New Book Tells Wit of Prince

LONDON (AP)—"The trouble with senior management," said Prince Philip to a meeting of senior industrial managers, "is that there are too many one-ulcer men holding down two-ulcer jobs."

This is one of his sayings included in a book called "The Wit of Prince Philip," published this week.

Month in, month out, the handsome husband of Queen Elizabeth II probably gets more laughs than do the nation's top comedians.

His detractors say he really isn't as funny as he seems. They claim the things he says gain their funniness largely from the fact that a person of Prince Philip's position is saying them.

★ ★ ★

His remarks and asides frequently startle the queen. When they are particularly outrageous, she often gasps and says to the person nearest her:

"Oh dear, you know Philip."

HAULED DOWN

As the Union Jack was being hauled down for the last time in Kenya, Prince Philip turned to President Jomo Kenyatta at the Independence celebrations and asked:

"Are you sure you don't want to change your mind?"

To the 150th anniversary dinner of the Royal Society of Medicine, he quipped:

★ ★ ★

"I don't know anything about medicine, but I can claim to be an expert on anniversary dinners."

He has addressed them by the dozen.

HONORARY MEMBER

Addressing the Society of Tropical Medicine, he remarked that many medical associations have made him an honorary member. Letting that sink in, he added:

★ ★ ★

"But this does not necessarily mean that I know what I'm talking about."

Funny or not, he gets a lot of laughs by his self-depreciation.

Back Development Program

Experts Seek Way to Forecast Quakes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The great San Francisco earthquake of 1906 occurred nearly 60 years ago.

California's geological structure and history indicate the state has a really big earthquake every 50 to 100 years.

Hence, according to Dr. Frank Press, most U. S. earthquake scientists (seismologists), figure California may expect a powerful shaking-up "in the not-too-distant future."

This is earthquake forecasting of a sort, but it is not good enough. "In the not-too-distant future" could mean tomorrow, or 50 years from now.

★ ★ ★

And exactly where in California will the big quake occur, if at all?

The enormous value of a good earthquake prediction system, in terms of lives saved and damage prevented, is obvious.

You could empty schools and factories, turn off the gas, alert fire companies, clear beaches where tidal waves might strike, get people out of the streets and into places of refuge.

So a panel of experts, headed by Dr. Press of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is recommending a 10-year, $137-million federal program to develop such a system, if possible.

★ ★ ★

The same program would include a $20-million engineering research project to perfect buildings and other structures—waterworks, gasworks, and power, communication, and transportation systems — capable of surviving the titanic forces released when the earth's crust heaves and shakes.

DO NOT KNOW

At the moment, scientists do not know what causes earthquakes. But they do know a lot about what happens when quakes occur.

And they have reason to believe quakes may be preceded by certain premonitory signs such as outbreaks of "micro-earthquakes," tilting of the earth's crust, accumulation of strain in rocks, and subtle changes in magnetic and gravitational fields.

These could provide the basis of an advance warning system.

★ ★ ★

A sound prediction system plus sensible building codes in seismic regions could save the lives of 80 of every 100 persons who now would die in a major quake, Press said.

History shows that a major earthquake can destroy thousands of lives and cause property damage in the billions.

So even if accurate prediction hours, days, or weeks in advance turns out to be impossible, development of quake-resistant buildings and proper building codes would constitute a fine dividend on the cost of the proposed program, Press said.

The panel was organized by Dr. Donald F. Hornig, director of the White House Office of Science and Technology, after the Good Friday Alaskan earthquake of March 27, 1964. Its recommendations were made public yesterday.

The Alaskan quake, according to Hornig, was "the biggest geophysical event of this century." It generated about twice the sheer energy of the 1906 San Francisco earthquake.

10,000 H-BOMBS

When the earth's crustal rock, subjected to strain from still unknown sources, finally reached the limit of its strength and snapped, the sudden energy released was equal to the power packed in 10,000 H-bombs each equal to 1 million tons of TNT.

The quake was felt over an area of more than 400,000 square miles, produced vibrations on the face of the entire globe, raised all of continental United States a fraction of an inch, killed 114 persons, and caused damage it will take $300 million to repair.

The Alaskan quake was a great disaster. But if it had occurred in a more densely populated region, such as California, it would have been unimaginably appalling. A lesser quake at Niigata, Japan, last year, caused vastly more destruction.

★ ★ ★

Many of the apparent warnings of quakes to come have been reported by reputable Japanese scientists who have a 10-year research program of their own under way.

NEW INSTRUMENTS

The U. S. panel proposes the salting of earthquake-prone zones of the United States, particularly in California, Nevada, and Alaska, with incredibly sensitive new instruments to detect and measure whatever changes occur in the earth before a quake.

Between the Japanese and and American programs, scientists hope to catch a major earthquake building up and observe everything that can be observed before and after.

Such an earthquake is almost bound to occur; the problem is to have the right instruments on hand to take its message.

★ ★ ★

This message, recorded electronically and analyzed electronically, conceivably could tell human beings how to save themselves and their belongings on those comparatively rare — but still all too frequent — occasions when the seemingly placid earth suddenly goes into convulsions.

Lightning flashes detected in the clouds rising from the volcano near Iceland that formed a new island have been reported recently. They are believed caused by the ejection from the volcano into the atmosphere of material carrying a large positive charge.

Negroes Nix School Truce

Georgia Drive Said Desegregation Key

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Taliaferro County's civil rights drive and a planned march to the Georgia capital, in the words of a Negro leader, are aimed at "raising once and for all, the school desegregation issue."

This objective was disclosed Wednesday night in an interview with Hosea Williams, the director of political education for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. The SCLC earlier had rejected a truce move by Gov. Carl E. Sanders.

★ ★ ★

"I don't know of any other way to raise the issue," Williams said. "The civil rights campaign here would raise the school desegregation issue — tokenism — as the campaign in Selma, Ala., dramatized voting rights and produced a federal law."

Rejecting the governor's appeals for a halt to demonstrations, Negroes led by Williams marched to the courthouse Wednesday night for a rain-soaked rally. They told Negro schoolchildren to be ready for another effort at boarding buses with white pupils today.

INVESTIGATION

The significance of the struggle, triggered by the wholesale transfer of white pupils to other counties, was evidenced by a scheduled investigation by Richard D. Batchelder of Newton, Mass., president of the National Education Association.

Batchelder said he will be in Crawfordville today to look into the situation as a possible prelude to NEA action.

★ ★ ★

Sanders met for about eight hours Wednesday with Negro leaders and both state and local officials in a fruitless attempt to settle the issue.

Williams said afterward that Sanders had erred in not including the SCLC in the talks. He said that an SCLC member, Calvin Turner of Crawfordville, met with the governor only to deliver a message.

100-MILE WALK

Williams said Negroes would march the 100 miles from here to Atlanta unless integration demands are met. These include desegregation of the schools, rehiring of six Negro teachers and other Negroes who have lost their jobs in the racial dispute.

The situation became one of grave concern, Williams said, when all the white pupils transferred to other counties to avoid integration and their school was closed. Now the issue is full integration as opposed to tokenism — which Williams said might have been preserved if county officials had not allowed the mass exodus.

Williams said the governor had been misled and was trying "to choose the Negro leadership'—a reference to Sen. Leroy Johnson of Atlanta, one of the men who met with the governor.

House GOP Plans Last Try on Bridge Refinancing Bill Before Passage

LANSING (AP) — A little more water flowed under the Mackinac Bridge controversy Wednesday — but it was virtually assured today of making only one more small splash before it passed the House.

★ ★ ★

Republicans planned to fight for what they considered a safety clause in the amended refinancing bill. "But we're not going to jeopardize the bill by insisting on it," said Rep. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena. "If necessary, we'll pass it — pork barrel and all."

★ ★ ★

The House approved an amendment to transfer the $100 million structure to the general supervision of the highway department once the bonds are paid off, and to transfer current bridge employes to civil service and the highway department at that time.

★ ★ ★

The amendment presented a compromise between Reps. Elnar Erlandsen, D-Escanaba, and Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, on one side, and Swallow on the other.

SEPARATE DIVISION

Jacobetti and Erlandsen wanted a separate division within the highway department to administer the bridge. Swallow called this "a political pork barrel."

He intended to continue the current bridge authority with its separate services and administrative posts in existence.

★ ★ ★

"There's no question about the bridge workers' positions. Civil service will be able to take them in and the highway department will need them no matter how the administration of the bridge is set up," he added.

★ ★ ★

With three members out for a Jewish holiday, House Democrats postponed debate on the graduated income tax resolution — which requires a two-thirds majority for passage.

In 1900 only 4.1 per cent of the nation's inhabitants were over 65 years of age. By 1960 the proportion had risen to 8.8 per cent. The total is expected to reach 9.2 per cent by 1970.

Judge Orders Forfeiture of Bond on West

DETROIT (AP)—The $10,000 bond of missing former Democratic State Rep. Daniel L. West, charged with income tax fraud, was ordered forfeited Wednesday.

U.S. District Judge Thaddeus Machrowicz said in ordering the forfeiture that the money would be returned to West's bondsman if West were found within a reasonable time.

★ ★ ★

A bench warrant for West's arrest was issued after he failed to appear for his trial July 6.

Bondsman Henry Savage told the court that all efforts to locate West had been in vain despite a reward of $1,500 for his apprehension.

West, denied his House seat after he had borrowed the identity of a deceased New York lawyer of the same name, faces 117 counts of income tax fraud. He is accused of falsifying clients' income tax returns.

GIs Still on Guard at Korean Border

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The crew-cut American private sat crosslegged on the grassy slope, his rifle across his knees. Before him, to the north, stretched the empty no-man's-land of Korea's demilitarized zone.

Beyond, fading into row upon row of hills dusted with blue haze, lay North Korea. Behind the private lay the farmlands and crowded cities of South Korea — and 50,000 American troops.

* * *

These troops, says Gen. Dwight Beach, commander of U.S. forces in Korea and the four-nation United Nations Command force, "are the northern anchor in Asia. The southern anchor is Viet Nam, where things are very active."

STILL INACTIVE

He added, somewhat wistfully: "Hopefully, the northern anchor remains inactive."

How inactive the powerful North Korean army remains may well depend on the number of U.S. forces standing fast in South Korea.

* * *

The South Korean government recalls that when U.S. forces began pulling out in 1950, North Korea struck suddenly, and unexpectedly. With this in mind, the South Korean government asked renewed assurances that U.S. forces would remain in strength before a Korean combat division was shipped to South Viet Nam.

Beach, conscious that Red China's two-million-man army is a potential threat anywhere is Asia, comments:

THE SAME WAR

"It is really one war, Korea and Viet Nam. There is an uneasy peace here and fighting action in Viet Nam."

South Korea's president, Chung Hee Park, echoed Beach's statememt:

"The Vietnamese situation is directly linked with the security of our nation."

The shield of security for South Korea lies both in the 600,000-man South Korean army and the 50,000 U.S. troops.

TWO DIVISIONS

The American forces—the 2nd and the 7th infantry divisions which comprise the 8th Army—are scattered the length and breadth of Korea.

But the bulk of the divisions are deployed over two historical invasion routes into the capital of Seoul: Chorwon Valley and Imjin River.

To the northeast of Seoul, stretched along the brown hills overlooking the Imjin River, is the 2nd Infantry Division. One of its big jobs is patrolling the tense, 2.5-mile-wide demilitarized zone dividing North and South Korea.

Although this area has been quiet since 1953, troops there have been attacked several times by hit-and-run North Korean agents.

DENSER LINE

To the north and east, astride the twisted Chorwon Valley, is the 7th Infantry Division. The division is primarily a second line of defense.

In its area, Korean troops patrol the demilitarized zone. But close behind it are 7th Division units.

On the other side stands the North Korean ground force, estimated at 330,000 men. Behind it stands the hordes of China. Although North Korea produces its own small arms, it depends on the Soviet Union and Red China for more sophisticated weapons.

The 8th Army is equipped with Honest John rockets which can be nuclear armed, plus Nike and Hawk missiles.

* * *

A greater threat to South Korean forces lies in the North Korean air force which includes MIG 21s, 17s and 15s. The best of these can cover all of South Korea in less than 25 minutes from their bases.

* * *

The U.S. Air Force maintains a squadron of F100 Super Sabres and a squadron of F105 Thunderchiefs in South Korea. The South Korean air force recently received several F5 Freedom fighters.

Settlement Bid in Times Strike Gets Rejection

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiators for the 2,200 members of the AFL-CIO New York Newspaper Guild on strike against the New York Times rejected today a settlement formula proposed by Theodore W. Kheel, Mayor Robert F. Wagner's special mediator.

The 25-member negotiating committee of the Times unit of the New York Guild said Kheel's recommendations for settling the 22-day-old strike were unacceptable.

The rejection was announced shortly before 3 a.m., several hours after Kheel presented 30 pages of recommendations to management and union negotiators Wednesday night.

Residents Fight Postal Change

TROY — Residents in several North Adams communities have carried the fight to maintain their Birmingham mailing address all the way to Washington.

The Birmingham North Adams Homeowners Association has sent a telegram to President Johnson asking him to stop postal authorities from changing their mailing address from Birmingham to Troy.

They claim they are being deprived of their "constitutional rights without due process of law." They also claim that the change will result in a loss of $4 million in property valuation.

The area involved is a one-mile wide corridor between Derby Road and South Boulevard populated by 1,370 families.

★ ★ ★

The reason for the switch, according to Donald Swanson, regional postal director in Chicago, is increased efficiency and decreased costs.

GIVE PROTESTS

The protesting residents, however, claim they are closer to the Birmingham Post Office, that it would cost Troy more to service their area, and that they have been assured that their section does not constitute an overload on the Birmingham Post Office.

Troy Postmaster Sherwood Shaver said he feels the move is a logical one.

"The Post Office tries to keep the mailing areas contiguous with city boundaries," he said. "I think this is what they are trying to do.

★ ★ ★

"We get a lot of mail for these people misdirected here. It's addressed to Troy because it is in the city of Troy.

SPACE AVAILABLE

"We have the space available here, and it won't cost more for us to deliver the mail to these people."

He said three of Birmingham's mail trucks will be delivered to Troy this weekend. He also said that if they chose to, four employes will be transferred to Troy.

The residents are still waiting to hear from Sens. Patrick V. McNamara and Philip A. Hart regarding telegrams sent them last week.

★ ★ ★

They would like a public hearing so residents can state their views.

★ ★ ★

Order Halts Action on Lake

Attorneys to Argue Terms of New Law

A temporary order restraining any action in connection with the rehabilitation of Wolverine Lake was issued yesterday by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore.

Moore said that all parties involved agreed to the order until such time that attorneys can present arguments relating to the power and controls of the relatively new state statute, the Inland Lake Improvement Act.

Moore said that the court will have to clarify the law, because in its present form it does not spell out the exact nature of how lake restoration projects can be carried out.

"This is a pioneer project," said Moore. "One that I think is of tremendous importance."

★ ★ ★

"There are several hundred lakes that could be involved in the decision," Moore said.

ORDER SIGNED

Moore signed the order following a hearing requested by attorney Paul Valentino, who is representing the Wolverine Lake Rehabilitation Association, Inc.

Valentino objected to a three-member board of determination holding hearings on the necessity of the project before a special assessment district is established.

Members of the board of determination were appointed by the Oakland County Drain Commissioner, Daniel W. Barry.

According to Moore, all parties are vitally concerned in having this matter settled by the court and will probably return with arguments on the case in two or three weeks.

★ ★ ★

Moore said that there would be no more public hearings on the matter until after the court interprets the new statute.

14 Mile Road Paving Sought

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Although there apparently isn't much hope for their cause, residents of Kimberly North subdivision are trying to get 14 Mile Road paved.

Petitions signed by 354 residents of the subdivision were presented to the Township Board last night.

They request the board to initiate action for paving 14 Mile from Northwestern Highway east to the township limit.

Board members are holding the petitions, which are unofficial, in abeyance.

★ ★ ★

They have "half committed" themselves to the paving of Walnut Lake Road between Drake and Farmington roads, Township Clerk Mrs. Dorothy Chamberlain noted.

SPECIFICATIONS

Specifications now are being drawn for that work, which will consume township road funds for the next two years — even with financial help from neighboring developers.

Cost of matching county funds for the improvement of 14 Mile would have to be split between West Bloomfield and Farmington townships.

Mrs. Chamberlain noted Farmington Township, not yet developed on the south side of the road, has never indicated it was interested in such a project.

Hearing Set Nov. 30 on Street Lights

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — A proposed street-lighting project, affecting residents of four subdivisions, will reach the public hearing stage Nov. 30.

The date was set Tuesday night at a meeting of the township board.

Township Clerk Howard Altman disclosed that the special assessment district project would cover a 1,350-lot area near Walters Lake.

Three subdivisions of Sunny Beach Country Club and Thendara Park Subdivision are included in the plan.

★ ★ ★

The board also announced Tuesday night it will apply for membership in the Genesee Valley Utility Authority.

WATER SUPPLY

As a member of the authority, the township could eventually be linked to a proposed water supply field.

In other action Tuesday night, the board approved two rezoning requests and approved an application for an entertainment permit.

An 11½-acre area on the corner of Maybee and Clintonville, east of I-75, was rezoned from suburban farm to residential district.

★ ★ ★

Previously recommended for approval by the township planning commission, the land will be used to build homes.

LAND REZONED

A parcel of land on the east side of Reese between Oak Hill and Rattalee Lake Road was rezoned from residential to suburban farms district.

★ ★ ★

Six property owners are involved in the conforming use change.

The entertainment permit application was requested by Nicholas Manzella, owner of a bar-restaurant on Dixie Highway near I-75.

Hougen study a model of Maple Road Elementary School, which will be West Bloomfield School District's fourth elementary unit. Ground-breaking ceremonies were held yesterday on the 11-acre site for the school, on the south side of Maple between Orchard Lake and Middle Belt.

Ceremony Starts Building of New W. Bloomfield School

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — With a new secondary school now in operation, West Bloomfield Board of Education members yesterday broke ground for the Maple Road Elementary School.

The 11-acre site for the unit, the district's fourth elementary school, is on the south side of Maple between Orchard Lake and Middle Belt.

Expected to cost $600,000, the building will be completed by July, 1966, according to Schools Supt. Dr. Leif A. Hougen.

The one-story structure was designed by Tarapata-MacMahon Associates, Inc., of Bloomfield Township.

Representing the architects at the groundbreaking ceremony were Peter Tarapata and Richard K. Albyn.

AT CEREMONY

Also present were board of education president Mrs. Axel B. Kjolhede, vice president Kern Murphy, secretary Mrs. Frances M. Leaf, treasurer Don Somers and trustees Paul Rich, Frank Marriott and Jack Shuler.

General contractor E. E. Powell, president of the Pontiac firm bearing his name, also participated.

Designed to accommodate 480 students, the building will contain 14 classrooms, an art room, multipurpose room and a library.

★ ★ ★

Funds for the construction were included in a $1-million bond issue approved by district property owners in December, 1964.

Vote Possible on Water Issue

Lapeer Manager Eyes Comparative Costs

LAPEER — A proposal to buy water from Detroit may be put to a vote next spring, according to City Manager Arnold Whitney.

★ ★ ★

Whitney will obtain data on comparative costs of supplying water or purchasing it from Detroit. He has suggested that the question be put on the ballot after he completes his studies.

Whitney said that current rates for communities tapping the Detroit-to-Flint water line are $2 per thousand cubic feet.

Present average water costs for 4,500 gallons of water a month used by the average family are $3.70, according to Whitney. He said an equal amount of Detroit water would cost $5.07 a month.

★ ★ ★

On the other hand, he said, local water softening costs would be reduced by at least 75 per cent. He said this is a reduction of $2.93 a month.

ALREADY APPROVED

The commission has also given approval for the Detroit-to-Flint water pipeline to pass through Lapeer. The agreement, which was partially revised by the commission, is subject to approval by Detroit.

As part of the agreement, the commission wants the street along which the pipeline will be constructed to be completely resurfaced.

Detroit has indicated that the street would be restored to its previous condition.

★ ★ ★

Whitney said that after details have been worked out with Detroit, he will probably request a special commission meeting.

Salvage Expert Dies

WETTINGEN, Switzerland (AP) — Martin Schaffner, 39, who made millions of dollars recovering crashed warplanes and unexploded bombs from Swiss lakes, died Tuesday.

Marubo Menu

It's White Man a la Carte

BENJAMIN CONSTANT, Brazil (AP) — Brazil's Marubo Indians are fond of the white man, preferably roasted on a spit over a bed of hot coals.

The Marubo is a hunter who prefers the vast upper Amazon jungle to the relatively limited confines of the river's muddy tributaries.

★ ★ ★

A cannibal from the Stone Age, his diet consists of meat of any kind. Jaguars, ocelots and wild pigs are the staples.

White settlers in the area are prone to resent this, particularly when the Marubo's more conventional food supplies run low.

UNDECLARED WAR

The two races have been fighting an undeclared war for decades along the twisting Rio Curuca, 90 minutes by plane south of this upper Amazon trading post.

Lately, the white man has been getting the better of the jungle warfare. The Marubos, some 2,000 strong, have elected to stick to the bush.

★ ★ ★

Settlers tell this story:

Years ago, when the whites were fewer along the Rio Curuca, Marubos would raid a farm and kill everyone except young daughters. Those they would carry back to their villages.

Eventually the Brazilian armed forces got into the act.

First the air force bombed the Marubo villages in an effort to wipe them out. The villages suffered but others sprang up and the raids continued.

GROUNDS SHELLED

Then the navy sent in a gunboat which shelled Marubo hunting grounds along the Rio Curuca. The jungle vegetation and chattering monkeys took a beating, but the navy apparently hit little else.

Finally the army dispatched a force which systematically slaughtered several thousand Marubos.

★ ★ ★

The armed forces deny this, saying they have taken only protective measures in an effort to guarantee settlers' safety.

Few white men other than an occasional hunter have ventured into Maruboland alone and walked out alive.

WEAR NO CLOTHES

Those that have report that the Marubo is about 5 feet tall and hairless except for the top of his head. Both men and women wear no clothes, not even a loincloth.

Life expectancy seems to be about 30 years.

But life expectancy among whites who try to civilize the Marubo is no more than sundown, the settlers claim.

Hunter's Shot Hits Engineer

PALMDALE, Calif. (UPI) — A 53-year-old railroad engineer was in serious condition today from a gunshot wound suffered when a hunter fired a rifle to check out its sights.

The engineer, Joe Meeks, Bakersfield, Calif., was guiding a freight train over the Alpine Springs crossing about three miles south of here yesterday when he was struck in the chest.

Investigators said the train's fireman took the controls and avoided an accident.

Los Angeles County sheriff's detectives said the bullet was one of two fired by John C. Price, 54, a resident of an Alpine Springs trailer park.

Price, who was taken into custody and then released, told officers he did not see the train, which was passing about three-quarters of a mile from where he stood.

PRETTY PUNSTER—High school student Tessa Tracy, 17, of Santa Barbara, Calif., answers mail from all over the country after a recent wire service story spread her fame as a "Miss Malaprop." Tessa's puns and fractured English were written down by her mother and given to the local newspaper.

Fractured Language Brings Teen Fame

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Schoolgirl Tessa Tracy's mangled maxims have made her a sudden celebrity.

★ ★ ★

Tessa, 17, is an attractive blonde long famous among family and friends for cunning puns and fractured phrases like:

"Where there's a ways, there's a means." "He's nothing but a liar and prefabricator." "It's so rheumatic to eat by candlelight."

Through the years her mother took notes and recently the Santa Barbara News-Press printed "The Collected Sayings of Miss Tessa Tracy . . . a Born Malapropist."

GETS LETTERS

The Associated Press carried them, and now Tessa's getting letters from appreciative readers from all over the country.

★ ★ ★

A professor of urology at the University of California at Los Angeles wrote "Dear Con Tessa" that it was a "red leather day" for him when he read about her.

★ ★ ★

"I almost got historical," he professed. He appreciated her estimation of somebody — "She's just a bladder-mouth."

The professor sent "best wishes for your continued excess."

TESSA REPLIES

Tessa replied:

"Dear fiend:

". . . I've been charged with insult and battery upon the smother tongue and I don't even know what I did to preserve it.

"It feels as if I'd been caught in a mix masher, or, words, a traffic jamboree.

★ ★ ★

"All this motoriety has churned my entire life potsy curvy and it's making me as fruity as a nut cake. Sudsenly I am overwhelped with fan tail, and all because my mother got an expiration.

"She makes me so spurious, it's driving me to distinction. I'm still in a transom and it's hard to consecrate on my homework — too many detractions."

LOT OF FUN

Actually, Tessa says, her abrupt fame is "a lot of fun."

She closed her letter to the professor with a P.S. "Is urology myology, too?"

★ ★

An Arizonan wrote her from Phoenix:

"I have been so set-up and nerval recently that I think the only real smart alecdote for my malady is to inscribe to your service." He enclosed a $3 check "for one year's inscription" to Tessa's witticisms.

She returned the check, saying it wouldn't be "honoerous" to keep it because she hadn't "yearned" it.

MIAMI LETTER

A Miamian wrote of Tessa's talent:

"This in my opinion is a wonderful attribute, especially in these troubled times when real humor is so scarce.

★ ★ ★

"Would it possible to get a pamphlet or book of these says by this brilliant young lady?"

Regrettably, no.

★ ★ ★

Tessa, who attends Marymount Girls School, want to be, successively, a social or Peace Corps worker, an airline stewardess, an interior decorator and eventually a writer and a wife.

Green Onions Flourish on Civic Center Lawn

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — When city officials imported rich farm topsoil for the new Civic Center lawn, they got more than they bargained for.

The sproutings seemed long and broad for fine grass, and a sampling proved they were fresh green onions. Hundreds of them are flourishing in the new lawn.

U.S. Suspends Rocket Tests in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The United States today suspended practice firing of Little John rockets in the foothills of Mt. Fuji at the request of the Japanese government.

The government asked that the firing, scheduled to resume today, be suspended to avoid clashes with demonstrating farmers.

★ ★ ★

Nearly 2,000 farmers assembled near the target area with placards saying "American military murderers go home."

An Army spokesman said the artillery unit would return to Okinawa.

TOKYO (AP) — Four Japanese, including a Socialist member of Parliament, were convicted today of leading the riot that greeted former U.S. presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty at Tokyo airport five years ago.

The Tokyo District Court gave the defendants prison terms of four to six months but added a two-year stay of execution.

★ ★ ★

The riot occurred when Hagerty arrived in Tokyo to prepare for a visit by President Dwight D. Eisenhower. The "Hagerty incident" came at the height of leftist demonstrations against ratification of the U.S.-Japan security treaty and was a chief cause for cancellation of the presidential visit.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Conservative party called again today for admission of Communist China to the United Nations. At the same time the Tories blamed Peking for "the immediate threats to peace" in Asia.

In its first policy statement since Edward Heath became party leader, the major British opposition party also attacked the Labor government's reluctance to promise future British association with the European Common Market.

★ ★ ★

The Tories said Britain should join the six-nation economic community "when the present difficulties and uncertainties in Europe are resolved." France blocked Britain's bid to join the Common Market in 1963.

POTSDAM, East Germany (AP) — Airman I. C. Thomas L. Voss has received the Air Force's highest noncombat award for his single-handed defense of the U.S. military mission in East Germany against a Communist mob.

The mission's chief, Col. Paul G. Skowronek of Pittsburgh, Pa., pinned the Airman's Medal on Voss, 22, of Milan, Ind., at a ceremony Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Voss was the only American in the mission last June 1 when a mob of about 200 Communist party members tore down the Stars and Stripes and broke every window in the building with rocks and bottles. East Germany police dispersed them after more than an hour.

★ ★ ★

During siege, Voss made continuous telephone reports to the office of the U.S. commander in Berlin, escorted two German employes into a room secured by an iron gate and pushed an East German invader out of a window.

The Soviet Union repaired the building's damage.

'U-M Pianist Performs in Armenia's Capital'

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass reported yesterday that Robert Jamkochan, 18, a student at the University of Michigan, has played his piano concerto in the Armenian Philharmonic Concert Hall at Yerevan, Armenia's capital.

★ ★ ★

The news agency said the Armenian State Symphony orchestra accompanied him. It quoted Conductor Vagan Aivazyan as saying the concerto was "noted for its sincerity and youthful ardor."

Display Signs of Happiness to Returning Soldier Son

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Can you help settle an argument? It is between my husband and me and I hope you won't think it's too dumb to bother with.

ABBY

Our son has been away in the service for two years. He served his last eight months in Viet Nam, and we just got word that he is coming home. He was awarded three medals for bravery and we are very proud of him.

I had my brother paint some "WELCOME HOME" signs which I want to put up on our front lawn with flags all around. My husband says it will look like we're showing off for the neighbors and if we want to put up signs inside the house, it's okay, but not out in front of the house.

Abby, I planned a big party with all our friends and relatives, and his friends, too, and thought the signs on the lawn would give our boy a thrill when he first catches sight of the house.

What do you say, Abby?

PROUD MOTHER

DEAR PROUD: I say put the signs on the lawn, and if you can line up a brass band — that's all right, too!

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago my husband took our sitter home and was gone longer than usual, so I asked Vernon what kept him so long.

He said he'd given Laura a driving lesson. (Laura is a cute teen-ager and the daughter of friends of ours.) Well, that burned me up because Vernon is so fussy with his car he won't even let ME drive it. I let that pass.

Now somethng else involving Laura came up. Vernon heard she was looking for a job, so he volunteered the information that there would soon be an opening at the place where he works. Do you think I have something to be worried about?

Maybe you can put my mind at ease. I am —

"JEALOUS"

DEAR JEALOUS: Only Vernon can put your mind at ease. Don't let these suspicions build up inside you. Tell Vernon you are jealous, and let HIM tell you why you have nothing to worry about.

Proceeds are used to help provide rehabilitation services and job training programs for handicapped men and women at Goodwill Industries of Greater Detroit. There is an outlet store in Pontiac.

Approximately 50 antique dealers will feature Early American, some English and French furniture and Oriental art. Collectors should be intrigued by the clocks, guns, buttons, fine jewelry, dolls and other specialties.

Among those enlisted as committee members are Mesdames: James T. Barnard, John S. Hart, William H. Bagley Jr., William A. Reid, George Dixon, Hugh T. Barber, Robert A. Radtke, Robert Burton, George H. Souter, Carl S. Abbott, Robert C. Awrey, Eric G. Horst and George T. Wilde.

Mrs. Scheiwe and Mrs. Green are cochairmen.

Some Women Take These Fashions Literally

By JEANNE NELSON

Oakland Hills Country Club may become famous for its couture fashions after the debut showings of Wednesday.

It was hard to tell who had the most fun, the audience or members of the club who modeled the COURAGEOUS fashions.

★ ★ ★

The do-it-yourself evening gown shown by Mrs. Donald Buchanan featured a white cheesecloth sheath (floor length) with printed instructions showing the wearer how to cut a modest, plunging or bold V-neck.

Once the owner tires of this model, she can simply snip around the bottom and presto, a street length dress.

For man hunting, Mrs. Boyd Stockmeyer showed a black sheath with clusters of pheasant feathers strategically placed.

CHANEL? STYLE

A real show stopper was a Chanel number worn by Mrs. James E. Rather. Her box jacket was exactly that. Its vintage was "Old Smuggler."

Mrs. Stuart Ross modeled with an eye to the "lady on the run" in her nylon A-Go-Go ensemble.

This dress was tiered with row upon row of nylon hose and as Mrs. Ross Hanson, commentator and coordinator for the show quipped, "It dries on the drip."

Not one to get into hot water with her outfit was Mrs. John Piceu who appeared in a tea dress. This was a basic sheath covered with tea bags.

With the Granny Dress fast becoming the IN look, Mrs. Louis McGowan was right in style with her version. This was a frock with four inch border hem of lollipops and a hat in matching goodies.

PREPAREDNESS

Designed for the traveler was the bathroom tissue faille worn by Mrs. Walter Kuckelman. Needless to say, preparedness is the word here.

Mrs. Piceu appeared again in a wedding gown.

You've all heard of versatility. Well, this number is about as practical as you could get.

Her veil becomes the kitchen curtain. A reversible peplum turns magically into a stole and her short (and we do mean short) gown was designed to take the show at the next tennis match.

Even her flowers were artificial and already put in a vase for those newlywed dinners.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. David B. Demarest and Mrs. John L. Denman were the chairmen of this fun fashion and luncheon event.

Designers included Mrs. D'Angelo, Mrs. Demarest, Mrs. Denman and Mrs. Hanson.

Pontiac Press Photo

Members and guests at the Oakland Hills Country Club luncheon and "Fashionscope" Wednesday will long remember these original fashions. The little check number on the left is modeled by Mrs. Gary B. Hogan of Bloomfield Village. Commentator, Mrs. R. C. Hanson of Wayne (center), gets in the mood to describe this frock with the one on the right, tagged "the Cardin sophisticate" and worn by Mrs. Harvey W. Ewald of Birmingham.

City Official Talks Before Law Group

Parliamentary Study Club members gathered for a fall luncheon Wednesday at Maurice's on Edison Street.

Mrs. Merrill Petrie, program chairman, introduced guest speaker City Manager Joseph Warren. Mr. Warren reviewed projects under way to improve the city and to provide new services. A question and answer session followed his talk.

Mrs. Warren and Mrs. William Haley of Birmingham also were guests of the club.

★ ★ ★

Seven past presidents were recognized. They were Mrs. Robert McLaren, Mrs. C. W. Mossey, Mrs. Russell French, Mrs. Paul Gorman, Mrs. John McNeeley, Mrs. Lester Oles and Mrs. Lee Hill.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Joseph Panter, one of five charter members and Parliamentarian Emeritus, has moved to Chicago.

ARRANGEMENTS

Arrangements for the luncheon were made by Mrs. Charles Crawford and Mrs. Henry Simpson.

★ ★ ★

The next meeting will be Oct. 20 at the Masonic Temple on East Lawrence Street.

★ ★ ★

Guests may attend the club's meetings at 1:30 p.m. the first and third Wednesdays of the month.

OU's Continuum Center for Women Counseling Service Open

The Continuum Center for Women, designed to provide counseling services for housewives and mothers who seek to return to education or go into meaningful volunteer work or employment, opens this week on the third floor of the library building at Oakland University.

The Center is receiving major support from a three-year, $150,000 grant made to the Division of Continuing Education by the Kellogg Foundation.

Counseling will be available in the areas of psychological assessment, educational advising, volunteer placement and employment advising.

Appointments of John R. Bellefleur as educational adviser and Miss Helen E. Zdeba as employment adviser were announced this week by the University. Also announced were the names of University staff members who will serve with the Continuum Center.

★ ★ ★

Priscilla J. Jackson (Mrs. Walter), director of conferences, will also be director of the Continuum. She developed a series of women's conferences conducted at the University during the past three years out of which plans for the Continuum Center evolved. Mrs. Jackson was author of the proposal to the Kellogg Foundation for the Center.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Kenneth Coffman, director of psychological services, will be psychologist to the Center and in this capacity developed and is conducting the psychological assessment course in which 138 women are enrolled.

Barbara E. Bryant (Mrs. John H.), of the Division of Continuing Education, is in charge of community information for the new service. The Center is part of the Division of Continuing Education directed by Dean Lowell Eklund.

FROM WSU

Bellefleur comes to Oakland University with six years of experience in educational advising. He was formerly academic adviser, College of Liberal Arts, Wayne State University, and prior to that, financial aid officer in the Division of Student Personnel at Wayne.

★ ★ ★

He holds both M.A. and B.A. degrees from Wayne, and is a member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association and its division, the American College Personnel Association.

★ ★ ★

Miss Zdeba has been in the personnel department of Winkelman's stores, Detroit, for a number of years where she did recruiting, screening and testing of prospective employes, handled employe records, and did personnel research and administration.

TYPICAL

Also appointed to the Continuum staff are two women who are representative of those whom the Center will serve.

They are Eleanor Driver (Mrs. William) who will be receptionist, and Margaret Twyman (Mrs. Harold) who will be secretary.

Mrs. Driver studied voice for two years at the University of Illinois, sang a season with the Chicago Civic Opera Chorus and then retired to raise a family.

Mrs. Twyman has been associated with The Village Store, Birmingham, in recent years and prior to that was a housewife active in PTA and other community organizations. Both women have teenage children.

Pontiac Press Photo

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Borst, Nelson Street, will be honored at a family gathering Sunday. They marked their 60th wedding anniversary last week. Married Oct. 2, 1905 in Shiawassee County, the Borsts have two children, Mrs. Bert Craft (Anna) and Cyril, both of Rochester; five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The Unwed Father Can Suffer Too

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: A 16-year-old girl — a classmate of our daughter — has left town with her family because of the scandal arising out of her pregnancy. But the boy involved, also a high school student, is getting off free.

He goes to parties and drives around town as though he had no responsibility at all for the tragedy he has caused. A group of other mothers and I have forbidden our youngsters to invite him to our homes but think that this ostracism should also include not speaking to him. Why should the girl be the only one to suffer?

ANSWER: How do you know he isn't suffering?

Shame has been defined as the "wish to make ourselves invisible." Feeling it, this girl and her family have tried to make themselves invisible by leaving town. But people also try to deny their shame's wish to make themselves invisible. They will put on denying acts of blustering defiance of shame, going to parties, for instance, in the effort to be challengingly visible.

It's Victorian melodrama that sheds all its tears over the unwed girl-mother and hisses her male betrayer off the stage as the unfeeling, hardened villain of the piece.

Authorities on this kind of teen-age sexual tragedy tell us that boy partners may suffer even more serious hurt than the girls. At the age when respect for their masculine powers should be firming up, fathering an unwanted baby makes those powers the subject of public gossip, of family excitement, of friends' awed but frightened curiosity.

As a result, the powers become the cause of humiliation to him and his capacity for sexual love may be lastingly damaged.

Warm Bath Is Blissful

NEW YORK (UPI) — Why is a warm bedtime bath prescribed as an effective treatment for occasional insomnia?

"Today's Health," a magazine published by the American Medical Association, says it is because the temperature of air outside the body never is constant. In contrast, temperature inside the body rarely varies.

When the body is immersed in a warm bath, the water shields it from the fluctuating air temperature, providing a feeling of buoyancy and inducing a blissful state of relaxation.

Avoid Overdoing Check-Writing Habit

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

Help! I take care of the money and it doesn't seef to work out too well. Will you tell me what's wrong?

My take-home pay is $213 every two weeks. There are five of us—my wife and three children, the oldest five years.

MARY FEELEY

We have a checking account, and I've been putting $130 in it every other check. I used to put the alternate check in the checking account also, but often found I didn't have enough left for the $129 mortgage payment when it was due. I now get a money order for the mortgage.

I give my wife $60 for food money out of each check. We recently purchased a refrigerator-freezer. We buy meat about every six or seven weeks, approximate cost between $40 and $50 each time.

I just added up my monthly expenses and find I spend $22 more a month than I put into the checking account!

I have an $18.75 bond taken out of each check and approximately $300 in a savings account. I also have $10,000 life insurance, G.I. I would appreciate any suggestions you might offer.

E.F.M., Levittown, N.Y.

Dear E.F.M.:

The first budget hazard you have to lick is getting paid every two weeks. Actually, there's nothing wrong with that system — except I find that a lot of people have a hard time getting the picture, when so many bills come in by the month, quarterly, or annually.

On a four weeks' basis you actually take in $426. And from the expense list you gave me with your letter, your fixed costs are $387 — leaving $39 monthly for running expenses. And that just doesn't go as far as you're trying to stretch it.

★ ★ ★

You made one smart move when you decided to send a money order for the mortgage payment with that alternate paycheck. You've evidently been too free with the check-writing habit. So I'm going to suggest two more moves:

Drop one of the savings bonds per month — you can't drop anything else right now.

Set yourself up on a cash basis for 30 to 60 days.

These may seem drastic moves. But your budget, as you outlined it, didn't provide anything for medical expenses, personal day-to-day expenditures. Some of the small items mount up and you forget to allow for them.

But when you have to pay cash for everything you buy, including a pair of socks, you begin to see where the money goes. Get out of the habit of writing so many checks, because the tendency is to spend part of your future income. And you just can't afford to keep on that way.

Another thing: while buying meat for the freezer in bulk is generally assumed to be the most economical way to shop, nevertheless this is one way you're upsetting your very tight budget. It takes you too long to recover from an outlay of $40 to $50 at one time.

For the time being, settle for paying cash and see if it doesn't work out.

Take Your Pick of 3 Cheese Dishes

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

One of the recipes I promised to bring you from the food editors' conference was for cheese cake made with noodles.

This cake has no crust. If you serve it, don't tell your guests what they're eating until they're through. Let them guess.

Cheese Noodle Cake

4 oz. medium egg noodles
2 eggs well beaten
⅛ cup honey
⅓ cup sugar
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups cottage cheese
½ cup light cream
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
¼ teaspoon salt

* * *

Cook noodles in 1½ quarts salted water for about 6 minutes, or until tender. Drain and place in buttered 9-inch spring-form pan.

Mix together all other ingredients and pour over noodles. Bake at 325 degrees for about one hour or until firm. Chill well before serving. Makes 8-10 servings.

Half of our readers will react with distaste when they read this next recipe. But as a teen-ager once told an audience, "If you haven't tried it, don't knock it."

Cheese pie gets a Pennsylvania Dutch touch with the addition of peanut butter. It will give the pie a hint of nut-like flavor.

Peter Pennsylvania Cheese Pie

3 packages (3 ounces each) cream cheese, at room temperature
½ cup smooth peanut butter
2 eggs
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
9-inch graham cracker pie crust

Sour Cream Topping★

Combine cream cheese, peanut butter, eggs, sugar, vanilla and cinnamon in electric mixer; blend smooth at low speed. Turn into pie crust. Bake at 350 degrees (moderate) oven 30 minutes.

Spread on Sour Cream Topping.★ Bake 10 minutes longer. Cool and refrigerate.

★To prepare Sour Cream Topping (makes about 2 cups): Mix together 2 cups dairy sour cream, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla and ⅛ teaspoon cinnamon.

* * *

Sharp Cheddar cheese is an important ingredient in most kitchens. It gives zest to a simple luncheon or supper dish like cheese rarebit.

You'll notice that powdered non-dairy creamer is used to make the sauce. This is a convenience food well worth trying.

Mushroom-Ham Rarebit

¼ cup butter
½ cup chopped scallions
¼ cup flour
1 cup non-dairy creamer
¾ teaspoon dry mustard
2 cups boiling water (or white stock)
1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ pound sharp cheddar cheese grated
½ pound mushrooms, sliced and sauteed
2 4½-ounce cans deviled ham
12 slices toast
6 slices tomato

* * *

In heavy-bottomed saucepan, melt butter over low heat until frothy. Add scallions and cook until tender and golden. Blend in flour; cook and stir 1 minute without coloring. Add powdered creamer, mustard, then boiling water (or stock) all at once, and beat with wire whip to blend.

Increase heat to moderately high; cook and stir until sauce comes to the boil and thickens. Remove from heat and blend in Worcestershire, salt, pepper, cheese and sauteed mushrooms; stir until cheese melts.

Spread a tablespoon of deviled ham on each slice of toast. Place one slice in bottom of each of 6 individual ramekins. Top each with a slice of tomato.

Cut remaining slices of toast into quarters and arrange around edge. Cover with hot rarebit. Sprinkle with paprika, if desired. Place under broiler a few minutes until bubbling hot. Makes 6 servings.

Toadstools Are Poisonous

KENNETT SQUARE, Pa. — Mushroom industry leader Walter L. Gmuer today voiced agonized protest over the use of the word "mushroom" in references to this year's big rash of "toadstool" poisonings.

"Every fall people will go into the fields and woods and gather wild toadstools and every fall a certain percentage get sick or die and the papers write up these unfortunate events, said Mr. Gmuer.

"The hundreds of mushroom growers who spend an entire year scientifically cultivating luscious hot-house mushrooms suffer unnecessarily because these events are referred to as mushroom accidents. They are not. They are toadstool accidents."

* * *

Mr. Gmuer who is executive director of the Americah Mushroom Institute continues, "The cultivated mushroom is 'agaricus campestris' and has been grown from laboratory seed in this country for one hundred years. There are hundreds of wild toadstool varieties and with all the wonderful cultivated mushrooms waiting in the markets I cannot understand why people feel the overwhelming urge to gather wild toadstools."

"Hundreds of mushroom growers in all parts of this country grow millions of pounds of cultivated mushrooms in specially constructed houses under scientifically controlled conditions," Mr. Gmuer noted. "These wonderful mushrooms can be eaten raw or cooked They're wonderful either way."

REGENCY TARTS — Pictured is the ultimate in excellent eating. Regency tarts, made from chocolate covered almond candy, are as smooth and creamy as satin. Served in cream cheese tart shells, they offer the perfect ending to a meal.

Chocolate Candy Gives Tarts a Rich Flavor

Regency Tarts, a frozen fantasy, have chocolate covered almond clusters as their key ingredient. They are combined with miniature marshmallows and milk, then melted, providing matchless flavor and rich texture you can achieve no other way.

And the cream cheese pastry is superbly tender, shapes beautifully and has a delicate piquancy that compliments the luscious filling.

Regency Tarts

2 4½-oz. boxes chocolate covered almond clusters
2 cups miniature marshmallows
½ cup milk
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
8 to 10 baked tart shells (see Cream Cheese Pastry)

Heat chocolate covered almond clusters and marshmallows with milk in double boiler, stirring until well blended. Chill until slightly thickened; mix until well blended. Fold in whipped cream.

Pour into tart shells; freeze. Garnish with whipped cream if desired.

Cream Cheese Pastry

2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 8-oz. package cream cheese
1 cup margarine

Combine flour and salt; cut in cream cheese and margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Form in ball and chill. Divide dough; roll on lightly floured board or pastry cloth to fit tart shells. Trim, flute edges and pick crust with fork. Bake at 450 degrees, 8 to 10 minutes. Cool.

Wine Is Something to Enjoy

There is something wonderful about drinking wine. Served at the dinner table, whether it be a simple weekday supper on a fancy company affair, a bottle of wine can make your meal a joyous occasion.

Wine is a pleasant beverage that can be enjoyed no matter when it is served, how it is served, or which kind of wine you select. It's actually less complicated than carving a roast. A simple California table wine served at a family meal is relaxing and fun.

The glass in which the wine is served can be as uncomplicated as the wine itself. The California wine growers recommend as an all-purpose glass one with a slight tulip shape.

If the top is a little narrower than the widest part of the bowl, this will help retain the wine's aroma and bouquet in the empty space above the wine. A large size allows you to pour the glass only about half full.

One type will be sufficient for any wine, and even a tumbler could be used if necessary.

Clear glasses are generally preferred because they allow you to appreciate the color and clarity of the wine. And there's a reason why most wine glasses have stems. They keep your hand from warming the wine.

There are also no rigid rules stating that certain wines be served with certain foods. You'll enjoy experimenting with different flavor combinations. The "correct wine" is the one you like best.

Through experience, you'll probably discover that a red wine tastes best with spaghetti and a white wine with fish. Many prefer red wines with steaks, roasts and chops . . . white wines with seafoods, chicken and light dishes. But you may like a red California Burgundy with chicken and a white Sauterne with pork chops.

* * *

If you like your wine chilled, serve it that way. However, the full-bodied flavor of a red wine is said to be best at cool room temperature. White and Rose' wines are generally chilled in the refrigerator 1 to 3 hours before serving and sparkling wines 4 to 6 hours.

Canned Pie Filling Is Answer to Quick Treat

Do you suffer from breakfast blues at your house? Take a package of yeast dough mix and a can of fruit pie filling — raisin, blueberry or cherry will do nicely — and go to work.

A fruit-filled tea ring or braid is your final objective. Nothing like a freshly-baked treat to make folks hustle down to breakfast!

For Tomato Juice

Dried crumbled tarragon leaves in one of your herb jars? Add a little of the herb to tomato juice and chill for a few hours before serving.

Canned Fried Onions Pep Up Steak Stuffing

That well-known route to a man's heart, whether you hope to get there or remain there, becomes a one-way expressway with no stops or detours, when Onion-Stuffed Steak is the vehicle for the trip.

Just as with roast chicken, traditionally as good as its stuffing, stuffed steak is distinguished, naturally, by the stuffing it features. That's why Onion-Stuffed Steak has such an urgent appeal — the stuffing is unique!

Onion Stuffed Steak

1½ cups bread stuffing mix
1 can (3½ oz.) french fried onions
1 can (8 oz.) water chestnuts, chopped
3 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon black pepper
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
1 cup water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ to 2 lbs. round steak, cut ½-inch thick, bone removed
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons shortening
1 cup beef bouillon consomme

Combine stuffing mix, three-fourths of the onions, water chestnuts, 1½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, parsley flakes, water and lemon juice. Toss lightly to moisten dry ingredients. Let stand.

Score steak lightly on both sides. Combine flour, 1½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper, and sprinkle over both sides. Pound flour into meat with a mallet or edge of saucer. Place stuffing in center and pack firmly.

Roll the steak and secure with skewers or tie with a string. Brown in shortening. Pour off drippings. Add bouillon or consomme. Cover tightly and cook over low heat for 1½ hours, or until tender.

Remove skewers or string before slicing. Use remaining onions as garnish. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

These Mushrooms Go on Relish Tray

Combine 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 tablespoons salad or olive oil, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon parsley flakes and ½ teaspoon prepared mustard in small saucepan. Bring to a boil; add two 4½-oz. jars whole mushrooms which have been drained.

Cool; then chill thoroughly several hours, stirring occasionally. Serve skewered on toothpicks. Yield: About 1 cup mushrooms.

For extra-delicious mashed potatoes, add sour cream (instead of other liquid) and crumbled blue cheese.

ONION STUFFED STEAK—Onion stuffing packs this steak with a fragrant flavor that's irresistible to any man—or any woman or child, for that matter!

FROSTED PUMPKIN DOUGHNUTS — Homemade doughnuts are unchallenged champs for after school or party refreshments. Covered with an orange flavored frosting, Frosted Pumpkin Doughnuts are sure to bring a crowd all ready for "seconds."

These Doughnuts Are Golden

Why does the doughnut have a hole? They've been made that way since the middle of the nineteenth century — let's not change it now!

However, Frosted Pumpkin Doughnuts have brought a change to the doughnut world. With the addition of canned pumpkin puree, a spiced homemade doughnut becomes a golden autumn masterpiece.

Traditionally used only for pumpkin pie, canned pumpkin puree brings out the best in many baked goods. Doubly rich evaporated milk adds whole milk nutrients that are so important to good health and well-being.

Orange Frosting tops these doughnuts, but they are equally good with a light touch of confectioners sugar. Either way, served with a tall glass of milk, Frosted Pumpkin Doughnuts are a sure treat for autumn appetites.

Frosted Pumpkin Doughnuts

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter, softened
1 cup canned pumpkin
4 cups sifted regular all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup evaporated milk

In large bowl of electric mixer beat together eggs, sugar and butter. Beat in pumpkin. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add lemon juice to evaporated milk. Add dry ingredients to egg-sugar mixture alternately with evaporated milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Blend well after each addition. Cover and chill 2 hours. Turn dough out on well floured pastry board or cloth. Knead 5 or 6 times. Roll dough to ¼ inch thickness. Cut with floured doughnut cutter.

Fry in deep hot fat (375 degrees) until golden, about 3 to 4 minutes turning once. Drain on absorbent paper.

Frost while still warm with Orange Frosting or dust when cool with confectioners sugar. Makes approximately 2 dozen doughnuts.

Orange Frosting: Beat together until smooth 3 cups unsifted confectioners sugar, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 2 tablespoons orange juice and 1 tablespoon evaporated milk. (Add additional sugar if frosting is too thin.)

Jiffy Cobbler Made With Rolls, Pie Filling

Cobblers are always good, especially when they're this easy to make. Spoon blueberry pie filling into a baking dish and top with rolls from a package of refrigerated Danish orange rolls.

Bake until the rolls are golden brown, cool slightly and frost with orange icing that comes with the package. Good!

To Use Later

Don't throw away left-over bread and bread crusts. Cube it and freeze it, for stuffings, and croutons for soups and salads.

NOW: a sure fire way to remove RED-IRON STAINS from your wash, wash bowls, toilet bowls, tubs and kitchen sink...

Diamond Crystal
REDOUT* NUGGETS

next time you recharge your water conditioner... use new Diamond Crystal REDOUT nuggets!

Your water conditioner often needs extra help to remove all the iron from your home water supply. Iron stains plumbing fixtures and laundry, is harsh to your skin, and spoils the taste of tea and coffee. To help your water conditioner work at peak efficiency, Diamond Crystal developed REDOUT nuggets—a new, exclusive salt-base product (patent applied for) that recharges your conditioner and completely removes iron deposits from the resin bed. In addition REDOUT gives you and your family these important benefits:

- Easily replaces ordinary salt, at no extra effort.
- No need to backwash your conditioner before laundering. REDOUT keeps the conditioner in top shape, ready for action at all times.
- No neutralization of chlorine in your water supply. Chlorine is added to your water as a special protection—some iron-removing agents destroy its usefulness.
- REDOUT preserves the effectiveness of the chlorine.
- No professional help needed in restoring an iron-fouled conditioner — REDOUT will clean the resin bed automatically and easily. Used regularly, REDOUT will keep it clean.
- Longer life for your water conditioner—because REDOUT keeps the unit operating smoothly and efficiently.

Treat your family to a better way of living, starting right now. REDOUT nuggets cost a few cents more, but are well worth it. Once the red iron stains have disappeared from your home, you'll be glad you got acquainted with this amazing new product.

Hike Unlikely in '65

Wage Bill Outlook Dim

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The odds now are running against House action this year on a bill to boost the minimum wage.

★ ★ ★

Democratic members of the House Education and Labor Committee hoped to nail down a decision today on legislation which would increase the present $1.25-an-hour federal wage floor.

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., told newsmen after a meeting with speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass. and other House leaders that he would try to find a formula that a substantial majority of the committee's 20 Democratic members would support.

Powell already has said the measure approved by his committee — raising the minimum wage to $1.75 an hour and extending new coverage to 7.5 million workers — was too much to get through the House.

★ ★ ★

He was expected to suggest to the caucus a measure which would boost the minimum wage to $1.60 by mid-1968 and extend wage-hour law protection to about 5.2 million workers.

STUMBLING BLOCK

Powell's requirement of a substantial Democratic majority before he will call up a bill Monday appeared to be the major stumbling block.

The Democrats are all but unanimous in favor of a higher wage floor, but badly split on the proper tactics to achieve it.

One group believes that it is too late in the congressional session this year to seek approval of any major piece of controversial legislation.

Another faction holds that it will be tougher to pass a minimum wage bill next year, after the special interests offended by the legislation have had months to apply pressure on members.

★ ★ ★

McCormack has said several times that he is ready to recognize Powell Monday to call up the committee minimum wage bill. The meeting yesterday ended with a decision to let Powell and his committee decide whether to go forward with the bill.

Negro Employment on Rise in Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State Personnel Commissioner Walter Gattis says state employment of Negroes is up about 33 per cent since Dec. 1, 1961 — from 900 to about 1,200.

★ ★ ★

Gattis told Gov. Edward T. Breathitt in a report that white employment in the same period has risen from 18,000 to 21,500, about a 20 per cent gain.

N. Y. Bingo Profits at $10-Million Mark

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Bingo Control Commission says organizations conducting bingo games in New York State made more than $10 million profit on them in the six months ending March 31.

This was an increase of $22,947 over the previous six months, the commission said. Bingo was legalized in New York in 1959.

Gun-Toting Pilots Set for Unexpected

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — He sat on the bench, reached across his belt buckle and jerked a snub-nosed revolver from its shiny holster. He did it again, again.

Fast-draw artist? Cop? No. Airline pilot.

* * *

The drill is part of a training program for pilots of Bonanza Air Lines to deal with the unexpected aboard F27 passenger planes.

Some of the pilots are friends of Pacific Air Lines Capt. Oscar Cleal, shot and blinded five years ago as he sat in his cockpit at Chico, Calif.

PACIFIC TRAGEDY

Another Pacific tragedy sparked the program: the crash of a twin-engine F27 near Concord, Calif., killing all 44 aboard May 7, 1964. A federal investigation indicated the crash was caused by the shooting of the pilot and copilot.

* * *

"That upset a lot of us," says Gene Swarmer, 34, a pilot for 13 years. "We decided we needed some sort of protection."

"Carrying a pistol gives us at least an equal chance," adds another pilot, Lee Payne, 49, a veteran of 34 years flying.

COMPANY POLICY

The pilots must — company policy — complete a 12-hour target course given by Las Vegas police Sgt. George Reed, 33.

As their weapon, the pilots chose a light, easily concealed, snub-nosed 32-caliber revolver.

* * *

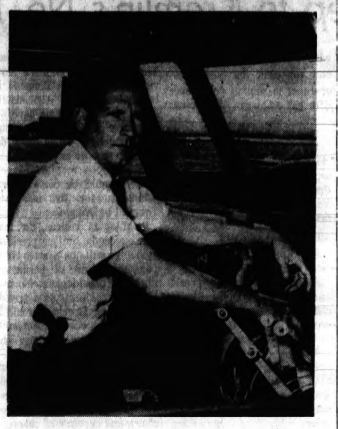
A company regulation says the bullets used must be blunt, not armor piercing — "so the plane won't be damaged by gunplay," an official says.

"The main idea," says Payne, "is by carrying guns we lower the odds of something happening. The big thing is our being able to bring the plane and its passengers down safely."

DETERRENT

"We look on the guns as a deterrent," says Swarmer.

"In the Pacific crash," says another pilot, "if the pilots had been armed maybe only one would have been killed in the shooting before they got the guy."



AP Photofax

FLYING PERSUADER—Bonanza Airlines Capt. Don Worley, a snub-nosed revolver holstered at his side, is one of 25 Bonanza pilots trained in the use of firearms. The company believes the measure will deter suicide-insurance plots and skyjacking, enhancing passenger safety.

Bonanza officials say there have been no incidents to test the new safety measures.

* * *

In Los Angeles, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Agency said airline crews are exempted from regulations against possession of firearms but he knew of no other line which has adopted the practice.

Woman's Will Lists U. of M., Rhode Island

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Miss Mary A. Weber, who died last April at age 83, has left more than $15,000 to Rhode Island College, where she taught for 28 years, and an equal amount to the University of Michigan, where she earned her bachelor's degree.

* * *

Miss Weber left a personal estate in excess of $280,000 through personal saving and investment, and her will called for splitting holdings, after taxes, with the two institutions.

Voting Twice Not Nice

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Edward L. Williams was convicted yesterday on a charge of violating the state election code. He said he missed some elections, and thought it would be "okay" if he voted twice for President Johnson last November.

Cincinnati Exchange in Membership Split

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The Cincinnati Stock Exchange has announced a three-for-one membership split. The exchange now has 12 regular members and 15 limited members.

* * *

Board Chairman John E. Tobias and Charles H. Steffens, president of the 80-year-old exchange, said each regular member will have three membership certificates instead of one. Some of the certificates are expected to be offered for sale.

Boost Role of Objectors to All War

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Many members of the Vatican Ecumenical Council want the Roman Catholic Church to accord a new positive status to sincere conscientious objectors.

Some of the bishops say the Church should recognize that convinced conscientious objectors have a special vocation, or calling, like men called to the priesthood.

* * *

The issue of conscientious objection has come up in the document on modern world problems now before the council. Some countries recognize the right of men to be conscientious objectors in time of war. Others prosecute them.

The text of the document on modern problems touches on the issue only briefly. It says states may properly enact "opportune legislation" to allow for those who refuse in conscience to do military service.

CHRISTIAN DUTY

More and more bishops are asking that the council do more than this, that it strengthen the statement to recognize that sincere conscientious objectors fulfill a Christian duty to their consciences and to the world by refusing to take up arms no matter what the national danger or provocation may be.

Coadjutor Bishop Gordon Wheeler of Middlesbrough, England, says: "The witness of the conscientious objector is something to be valued and welcomed as a special factor in modern life, even by those of us who cannot be classed as conscientious objectors."

* * *

"Some conscientious objectors may in fact really be prophets of a truly Christian morality," says Benedictine Abbot Christopher Butler, another leading British cleric.

The Rev. Enda McDonough, a moral theology expert from Ireland, speaks of a growing feeling among churchmen that true conscientious objectors have a genuine calling.

He says these churchmen are convinced that people willing to risk all rather than fight are important for the entire Christian concept.

Pickle Recruiting Due Review by Michigan Farm Labor Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Wednesday the Michigan Farm Labor Panel will review this year's experience in recruiting farm labor for the state's pickle cucumber crop.

Wirtz said the study of the panel, headed by Prof. Charles C. Killingsworth of Michigan State University, would be of great value in helping the Labor Department develop plans for next year's farm labor recruiting program for the state.

The Michigan panel was set up May 7 to make findings and recommendations regarding applications for use of foreign workers to harvest the crop.

The panel originally recommended the importation of 5,000 Mexican workers, but recruitment of U.S. laborers under a new policy this year removed the necessity for using foreigners, the department said.

12,000 MEXICANS

Last year, before the new Labor Department policy, more than 12,000 Mexicans were used in Michigan.

Some growers in Michigan and other states have complained Americans are unable or unwilling to do the hard stoop labor of farm harvesting and that some crop losses resulted. But the Labor Department said there was no evidence of any such losses.

The department's policy of sharply restricting the use of foreign farm labor came after Congress allowed to die a law under which hundreds of thousands of foreigners were brought into this country in peak harvesting seasons of previous years.

Foreign farm workers must now come in under the Immigration Act with certification by the secretary of labor that they will not adversely affect wages and working conditions of U.S. workers.

The Labor Department has allowed a limited number of foreign farm workers into the country this year where not enough Americans could be recruited to do the work.

The Voice of America is the world's biggest radio network. It broadcasts 800 hours of programs weekly in 37 languages.

May Follow Khrushchev's Path

Brezhnev Takes Step to Kremlin's No. 1 Position

By FRED COLEMAN

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid Brezhnev, following a pattern set by Nikita Khrushchev, has taken what could be the first step toward becoming undisputed No. 1 man in the Kremlin.

At last week's session of the Supreme Soviet — the Soviet parliament — Brezhnev got a government post in addition to his duties as first secretary of the Soviet Communist party.

* * *

Eventually it could help him, like Khrushchev, to consolidate his power at the top of both party and government.

Or it could help him shift into the largely ceremonial post of Soviet president and turn the party leadership over to a younger man.

MIKOYAN HINTS

The first hint of which way Brezhnev will turn is likely to come from President Anastas Mikoyan, who will be 70 next month and is rumored about to retire.

As party first secretary, Brezhnev now holds the top job here. The party runs the government and Brezhnev heads the party.

* * *

But Brezhnev still shares his power with the "collective leadership" that succeeded Khrushchev, most notably with Premier Alexei Kosygin, who runs the government.

Both Brezhnev and Kosygin are on the 12-man presidium, highest organ of the party.

NO HIGH POST

Until last week, Brezhnev had no high government post. Now the party chief is a member of the presidium of the parliament.

The immediate effect is to give Brezhnev a position from which he as well as Kosygin can represent the Soviet government in summit conferences with Western government chiefs.

This is what Khrushchev did.

As party chief alone, Khrushchev would not have been able to represent the Soviet government at the summit. This role would have gone to then-Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

ATTENDED SUMMIT

But Khrushchev, like Brezhnev, had himself made a member of parliament's presidium. In that capacity Khrushchev attended the Big Four summit conference in Geneva in 1955 with Bulganin.

At that conference Khrushchev's name was listed second to Bulganin. But in 1958 Bulganin was out and Khrushchev was both party chief and premier.

Khrushchev also used his parliamentary post to make state visits in 1955 with Bulganin to India, Burma and Afghanistan. Brezhnev and Kosygin have not yet traveled outside the Communist camp. When they do, they can now go as a pair.

* * *

There could be two other explanations for the new post awarded to Brezhnev.

If Mikoyan retires, the man who succeeds him as president probably will be chosen from the presidium of parliament since the president is chairman of that presidium. As a presidium member, Brezhnev would be eligible to succeed Mikoyan as president, a post Brezhnev once held before.

Brezhnev could then be both party chief and president. This, however, appears unlikely since the presidency involves time-consuming ceremonial chores.

Brezhnev is only 59 but has had a heart attack, and there have been unconfirmed reports that he is anxious to move to a less demanding post.

* * *

Under this line of thinking he could give up the party chairmanship and take over as president again. So far there has been no evidence that Brezhnev has such plans. The first Soviet Communist party congress since October 1961 is scheduled for next March 22. The only leader listed to speak besides Kosygin is Leonid Brezhnev.

Soviet Economic Battles Just Begun

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

MOSCOW — "The battle has just begun."

With those words, a respected Western economic expert here described the quiet but desperate struggle that lies ahead to put the Kremlin's radical, far-reaching economic reforms in effect.

Except for occasional salvos fired through the press, it will be a secret battle, fought mostly in dusty offices and across prefab-covered conference tables beneath portraits of V. I. Lenin. The weapons will be paper and pen, persuasion and persistence.

The stakes are prestige, power, influence — and the future of the Soviet economy.

The antagonists, according to experts, will be Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and the reform-minded "new men" of the Kremlin hierarchy, and the well-entrenched members of the Soviet bureaucracy.

THREE YEARS AGO

The struggle began three years ago with suggestions to loosen and liberalize Russia's bureaucracy-clogged economy.

Izvestia, the government newspaper, gave a rare peek behind-the-scenes recently when, discussing the reforms, it reported that "there are attempts now to go back to the old, to administer as before . . . This must not be permitted."

The first stage ended at the late September meeting of the Communist party's Central Committee.

* * *

There, Kosygin laid down guidelines for an economy based on profits, for individual responsibility for businessmen freed of detailed state orders, and for a new Soviet price system.

OBVIOUS IMPLICATIONS

The implications for Soviet bureaucrats were obvious. If the reforms go through, men who have spent their lives telling industry what to do and how to do it will suddenly find their power trimmed. In some cases they may lose their jobs.

The bureaucrats, for instance, used to dictate output, work force, average wages and total wages for each factory. Under the reforms, these four areas of power will be cut back to just one — the wage fund.

The fact that Kosygin delivered as strong a speech as he did proves he has won many of his preliminary battles, the experts said. But there were indications he also lost a few.

* * *

For instance, the central committee plenum was postponed from July to September to permit settlement of many arguments beforehand, sources said. And Kosygin only mentioned in passing one widely predicted reform — the elimination of the old state marketing system in favor of direct contacts between factories and stores.

OPPOSITION AT TOP

This casual treatment indicated high-level opposition to the direct contact system, possibly from the state middlemen whom it would strip of power.

* * *

"There is a lot of unfinished business, including the direct-contact squabble," one expert summed up. "There will be much petty interference from medium- and lower-level bureaucrats. They have no real power — but they can obstruct and delay the reforms for years."

More enlightenment and a clearer drawing of the battle lines are expected when Russia's next five-year plan is published next March.

W. Europe General Tells of Russian Might

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — Russia maintains enough armed might along the border to attack western Europe at any time, U. S. 7th Army commander Lt. Gen. William W. Quinn said yesterday.

Quinn told a group of editors at Radio Free Europe facilities here that the Russians maintain 20 tank and motorized infantry divisions in East Germany, plus two divisions in western Poland and four in Hungary.

City Planners Urge Denial of 4 Rezoning Requests

Negative recommendations were passed last night by the City Planning Commission for four rezoning requests.

In a split 4-2 vote, city planners voted to recommend denial of commercial rezoning for the southeast corner of West Huron and Miami. The rezoning was requested for an office machine sales and service use.

Denzil W. Lougheed and F. Keith Hills cast the dissenting votes. Neighbors opposed the rezoning, which reportedly would violate deed restrictions.

One rezoning request, personal service for 30-44 Green, received a recommendation to deny because of a 3-3 tie vote.

* * *

Voting to recommend denial were Basil Brown, Robert C. Irwin and Daniel R. Veasey.

NO SPECIFIC USE

Three homeowners sought the rezoning for their lots adjacent to the medical building at 35 S. Johnson. The motion to deny was offered because there was no specific use intended for the rezoned property.

Commercial rezoning requested for 37 W. Yale received a recommendation to deny after objections were raised by nearby residents.

A similar recommendation passed for commercial rezoning proposed for the southeast corner of Woodward and the proposed East Boulevard extension because no site plan was presented.

* * *

Developer Charles L. Langs has proposed a neighborhood shopping center there.

ALLEY RELOCATION

The vacating and relocation of an alley northeast of the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church, 404 Oakland, received a favorable recommendation last night. A church addition is planned.

A single lot near the northeast corner of Auburn and East Boulevard was recommended rezoned to commercial last night. A garden and nursery business use is planned.

A routine favorable recommendation was attached to a request to vacate part of the alley network within the Tel-Huron Shopping Center.

* * *

The site plan for a projected 15-acre shopping center in the vicinity of Baldwin, Montcalm and Merrimac was approved. City planners will recommend City Commission approval of the commercial rezoning.

ACTION HELD UP

Action on rezoning for a 580-unit apartment complex in an area bounded by the railroad, Cherrylawn and Ypsilanti was held up pending efforts by the developer to work out proper access to the site.

A protest petition, signed by about 60 residents, was also submitted.

2 Studebaker Prices Are Cut

Standard Equipment to Hike Basic Cost

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Studebaker Corp. announced price cuts on two of its 1966 cars today, but basic prices will be higher because of standardization of previously optional equipment.

The firm said it was cutting the price $52 on its 1966 Wagonaire station wagon and $55 on its Daytona two-door sports sedan and holding the line on other models.

* * *

However, a safety package at $44 to $52 was made standard, along with a Climatizer heater at $85.

Studebaker said the wagon and Daytona sedan prices were cut because of a change in trim on the Wagonaire and a different front seat installation on the sports sedan.

SAFETY PACKAGE

Gordon E. Grudy, president of Studebaker's automotive division, said the safety package price is several dollars under the 1966 industry pattern because Studebaker's 1965 models already offered a large share of the industry safety package as standard equipment.

The safety package includes padded interiors, seat belts and dual master cylinder brakes.

The Commander Six two-door sedan will sell for $2,215, plus dealer and transportation costs and taxes. The top-priced car is the Wagonaire station wagon with sliding roof and V-8 engine, which will go for $2,902, plus extras.

Pontiac Boy, 16, Ordered to Stand Trial for Murder

A 16-year-old Pontiac boy charged with the fatal shooting of his brother-in-law was ordered to stand trial for second-degree murder.

Luther Curry, 317 Hughes, pleaded innocent to the charge when he was arraigned before Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn.

* * *

No date for the trial was set and Curry was relased when his $500 bond was continued.

He is accused in the death of Hasting Martin, 25, of 459 Highland. Martin was found dead Sept. 11 on the roadway in front of 357 Branch at 2:57 a.m.

2 Ore Trains Collide in Mine; 1 Man Killed

BOURBON, Mo. (AP) — Two ore trains collided last night 1,825 feet below ground at the Mermamec Mining Co. Pea Ridge Mine, killing one engineer.

4 Are Charged With Maiming

Texas Students Linked to 'Senseless' Attacks

DENTON, Tex. (UPI) — Four North Texas State University students — one of them the son of a district attorney — have been charged with the "senseless and unprovoked" maiming of other students, one of whom lost an eye.

Chief of Police Wayne Autrey said Michael D. Portman, 19, of Dallas lost the sight of his left eye. Portman, along with Joe Bourn Jr. of Dallas and Joe B. Cole of Cleburne, Tex., all were beaten with bottles within a half-hour early Tuesday.

"The whole thing was senseless and unprovoked," Autrey said.

"There was no motive that I can determine at all," Autrey said. "They can't give an explanation themselves."

* * *

BACK FROM PARTY

They had returned from an informal fraternity party in Oklahoma which Autrey said "involved drinking."

He said McClellan, Glenn and Torregrossa were Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity brothers and Bovio was a pledge.

The attackers, police said, knocked on the door of the apartments of Portman and Bourn and broke bottles over their heads when they answered the door.

Cole repelled the assailants when they tried to break into his apartment, he said.

BANGING AT DOOR

Portman said he was awakened by banging on his door.

"I don't remember whether I opened the door of if they just burst in," Portman said from his hospital bed.

"They started hitting me with their fists and knocked me down. I got up and they knocked me down on the bed.

* * *

"I said, 'Please don't hit me again,' but they kept on, holding me down on the bed against the wall. Then there was this excruciating pain as a bottle exploded in my face."

THROUGH WINDOW

Bourn was sent crashing through a plate - glass window, suffering severe cuts on his left arm and shoulder.

Cole was smashed on the head with a bottle when the attackers tried to push past him into his apartment. But he escaped with severe bruises.

The English alphabet was derived from Greco-Roman letters which, in turn, were based on ancient Phoenician-Hebrew characters.

Brothers Die Trying to Save Baby, Sister

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Farrell Maw fought back tears as he told how his two young sons died trying to save their sister and baby brother from an exploding fire that roared through their home.

"They died doing their duty," he said.

* * *

Maw said his sons Kevin, 10, and Gregory, 7, bolted back into the burning house after he rescued them from their basement bedroom.

He said the boys had been told to check the baby's crib and their sister's room if the house ever caught fire.

Kevin died next to the baby's crib. Gregory's body was found face down on his sister's bed with the covers pulled over his head.

The boys' sister, Debbie, 11, had led the baby, Bryce, 3, and two other brothers, Jeffrey, 6, and Phillip, 4, out of the burning building moments earlier.

* * *

The fire left only parts of walls and the roof of the Maw home Wednesday. Fire Chief Clyde L. Peterson estimated damage at several thousand dollars.

Maw said the fire started in a sleeping bag on a basement couch. Fire Marshal Robert G. Penton said it might have been ignited by a hot lightbulb near by.

Debbie said she was awakened by a temperature-controlled fire alarm in the Maws' home.

"I did just what they (her parents) told me to do in case of a fire," she said. "First I telephoned grandpa. Then I got Bryce, Phillip and Jeff and led them out of the house."

* * *

Their grandfather, Ted Tyree, met the children at the door. Their father and mother arrived seconds later from a 30-mile trip to Salt Lake City with friends.

Debbie tried to lead her grandfather back into the house for Kevin and Gregory. He pushed her back out.

DOWN STAIRS

Her father crawled down basement stairs to the boys' bedroom.

"They were in bed," he said. "I grabbed them both and went right through the basement's outside door with one of the kids in each arm. I guess I kicked it off its hinges.

* * *

"We thought the baby was still in there. But then we saw he was safe in his mother's arms.

"We turned around and Kevin and Gregory were gone.

This aerial view of downtown Pontiac shows a city in transition, with scattered vacant property awaiting the brick and mortar of redevelopment.

The city's tear-shaped business district is framed by the new Wide Track Drive, and split by Pontiac's main street, Saginaw.

The lower half of the above photo shows the city's urban renewal areas, which still are not entirely vacant. Only a few properties remain to be acquired and demolished. Most of these are in the R20 renewal project.

Two buildings slated to receive the renewal ax are the Lewis Furniture Co. building at Saginaw and the Orchard Lake-Auburn crossover and now-vacant Wrigley Supermarket building on the east side of Saginaw, north of the crossover.

BLOCK TO NORTH

Situated a block north of Wide Track is the present Pontiac Motor Division administration building.

Clustered in the downtown area are well-known landmarks on the Pontiac landscape, these include the two bank buildings, church buildings, the federal buildings, department stores, and Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

The area within Wide Track Drive has experienced the most drastic change in the nearly five years since urban renewal was introduced here.

★ ★ ★

Essentially, the first of a two-part process has been accomplished. The slum buildings, dilapidated homes and businesses are gone and the land cleared.

STANDS EMPTY

The land now stands empty, ready to accommodate the steam shovel and bricklayer for downtown redevelopment. The final reconstruction stage is slated to begin.

Construction of the perimeter road has given the downtown business a new look. Redevelopment is slated to add fresh polish to the look.

Other projects, such as M59 freeway construction and the interior loop road, will further alter the face of downtown Pontiac. Still other traffic modifications, such as work on the Cass extension, are also planned.

'Great Society' for Russians?

By DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia now has its own version of the "Great Society."

For 10 days, the high councils of the Kremlin have been promulgating a new economic program. If carried out, it would appear to make changes in the fabric of Soviet life as sweeping in their own way as the New Deal.

It speaks of "price, profit, bonus and credit." The words emerge like the voices of displaced persons and have led to some western speculation that Russia has "creeping capitalism."

But a closer look shows that there is little of capitalism in this program, put forth just one year after the new leaders took over from Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

★ ★ ★

The changes, as present Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, himself says, are designed to strengthen socialism and "speed up our progress toward communism." He said people who thought otherwise were indulging in "wishful thinking."

PROGRAM OUTLINED

Kosygin outlined the program in a Kremlin speech Sept. 27 — 16,000 words of Soviet bureaucratic prose without one joke.

From his account, the plan attempts to do two seemingly contradictory things at the same time — increase the role of incentive in the Soviet economy and increase centralized planning.

It abolishes Khrushchev's network of regional planning councils and substitutes 28 central planning bodies, each to govern a branch of industry on a national basis.

★ ★ ★

Kosygin declared that "the role of party leadership in management" will increase.

FIELD OF INCENTIVES

The deepest changes may be found in the field of incentives for industry. Soviet industrial enterprises, Kosygin said, will be judged by the central planners on the basis of efficiency and sales, rather than on "over-fulfillment" of production plans, sometimes in items consumers don't want.

As an incentive to efficiency, enterprises will be allowed to keep more of their "profits" to reinvest in better equipment and also to pass on as incentive bonuses to workers.

But profit in the Soviet dictionary is a statistical concept of value produced above cost. There is nothing in Kosygin's plan of the concept of private investment for private gain.

★ ★ ★

Wages and prices will, for the present, remain fixed.

LONG-TERM CREDITS

But industrial enterprises will get their investment funds in the form of long-term credits instead of grants. Repayment will be at a fixed rate so that by being "thrifty," an enterprise could increase its annual "profits."

There will be new rules to make a railroad or a supplier of raw materials or semimanufactured goods financially liable to another enterprise to which it gives slow or substandard service.

Kosygin gave a scathing critique of Russia's present economy. He spoke of high cost of building new plants, slow adoption of new technology and automation, shortages of synthetic rubber, and shortages of people who understand Soviet economic systems.

★ ★ ★

One revealing remark was that Russia suffers from bad "cost accounting." He observed that it is important "to know how much profit has been obtained per rubel or production funds."

TRAILS ECONOMICALLY

The U. S. State Department reported yesterday that Russia is falling farther behind the United States economically.

★ ★ ★

However, it warned that although the Soviet economy is about half the size of this country's, it has concentrated on military and space programs and "worldwide activities of serious consequence to U. S. security interests."

The report said the rate of growth of Russia's gross national product declined from an average of 6.5 per cent during the 1950s to 4.5 per cent in the first half of the 1960s.

Kosygin said the new program would raise the standard of living of workers, strengthen Russia's military defense, mesh its economy more closely with eastern Europe's and "strengthen the economic basis" of Soviet cooperation with "various countries," presumably including the United States.

★ ★ ★

The basic theme appeared to be that a stronger Russia could better deal with the western world in all ways. That left the enigma of where U. S.-Soviet relations are going basically unchanged.

Medicare May Boost Income, but AMA Still Going to Fight

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Incomes of doctors may go up instead of down under Medicare, but the American Medical Association (AMA), in either case, will fight to amend or repeal the program.

AMA President James Z. Appel of Allentown, Pa., told a news conference yesterday he had heard "between $6 and $11 billion will be available the first year for Medicare and I would surmise that the doctors' incomes would go up instead of down."

Appel said most doctors opposed Medicare because they believe "it will lower the standards of medicine and may even affect the drugs."

The AMA, however, will encourage its members to participate in the program if they see fit to do so as individuals, he said.

One section of the law which the group will seek to amend is the provision requiring a patient to spend three days in a hospital before transferring to a nursing home.

ALSO OPPOSED

Appel said the AMA also opposed the $340 million program signed yesterday by President Johnson which is designed to fight heart disease, cancer and stroke.

★ ★ ★

According to Appel, the measure "could lead to control and regimentation of the practice of medicine in this country."

In Dutch Elm Tests

Tree Injection Fails

A chemical injection, billed as a preventive agent for dutch elm disease, has proved ineffective, according to a report received by Kenneth W. Harris, Pontiac forestry supervisor.

The city did not use "Bidrin," a chemical developed by the Shell Chemical Co. to fight dutch elm disease.

Harris, who recently returned from the annual meeting of the Society of Municipal Arborists in Philadelphia, Pa., said a government study showed the chemical to be ineffective.

U. S. Forest Service entomologists said that the evaluations were still incomplete, but that studies were conducted in four Midwestern metropolitan areas, including Wayne County.

★ ★ ★

These areas were picked because of their incidence of high disease.

COMPARISON TESTS

In each area, 250 elm trees were injected with "Bidrin" last May. Another 250 trees were left untreated alongside those receiving the injections.

None of the study trees had been sprayed with any insecticide for at least two years.

The government study found no significant difference in the incidence of dutch elm disease between the treated and untreated trees.

★ ★ ★

No further field tests are planned on the chemical, although laboratory and nursery experiments will be continued.

LBJ's Surgery to Be Detailed

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON—When a team of crack surgeons operates on President Johnson Friday to remove his ailing gallbladder with its offending gallstones, they'll undoubtedly explore elsewhere for hidden, "bobbling" gallstones.

The latter are stones that may have wandered from the gallbladder down into the "handle" of a Y-shaped system of tubes channeling bile from both the gallbladder and the liver to the intestine.

★ ★ ★

Such stones, whose presence could be missed by X-ray examinations, that detect larger aggregations, can "bobble around" inside the tube without actually blocking it, surgeons say. But they can be detected by a surgeon's exploring fingers and should be removed lest they eventually cause a real roadblock in this vital channel.

Surgeons routinely probe for them even in cases like Johnson's where all evidence points against any blockage of this tube, called the "common bile duct."

A PREVIEW

Surgeons not associated with Johnson's case described the odd possibility to a reporter when asked to give a preview of what Johnson's operation would be like — and things the operating team would look for and do, aside from the main job.

Here's a kind of play-by-play of the procedures:

After the President is anesthetized, an 8-inch-long incision will be made in the upper right part of his abdomen, opening the abdominal cavity.

★ ★ ★

Surgeons would then explore other organs in the cavity — for example the pancreas, another organ vital to digestion — to see if any had become inflamed by any leakage of bile from the faulty gallbladder.

Then, they would gently feel the common bile duct — searching for possible wandering gallstones, which would be removed after the gallbladder.

MAIN CHANNEL

Before dissecting the latter, they would tie off the small, pencil-diameter tube connecting the gallbladder with the main bile channel. They would also tie off the artery linking the gallbladder with the body's main blood system.

Next, they would probe for the rare, but possible, presence of an extra duct or channel connecting the liver directly with the gallbladder — a kind of backdoor tube which few people have, but which could cause trouble during the main operation if it were there and not tied off beforehand.

★ ★ ★

In describing the possible existence of this extra tube, one surgeon said: "Probably no other part of the body has so many variations among different people as has the biliary tract system—the one involving the gallbladder and the liver."

Next, they would drain the gallbladder of any bile still in it and finally, they would cut out the bladder and its outlet tube, leaving the main channel from the liver to the intestine intact.

IMPORTANT EXPLORATION

But a very important exploration would still remain — to see if any leaked-out bile remained in the area.

Then the main incision would be closed and the President prepared for return to his third-floor suite at the Bethesda Naval Hospital.

One surgeon said he would expect that throughout the operation — estimated to take one to two hours by Johnson's doctors — the President "would probably he hooked up to an electronic monitoring system" to keep constant check on his heart action, respiration and other vital functions.

But he indicated that any use of such a precautionary device would not be at variance with his own opinion that Johnson — because of the 10-year interval since his heart attack — would have little additional risk from the operation.

AP Photofax

TWO FACES OF LYNDON—An Associated Press photographer caught these studies of President Johnson as he went through a busy schedule at the White House yesterday. The fast pace will continue right up until the time he enters Bethesda Naval Hospital this evening for surgery scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Festive Salute to Congress Becomes Hospital Send-Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The extravagant salute to Congress which President Johnson planned for tonight has turned dramatically into a hospital sendoff, instead.

After a gala evening of poetry, song and music, the President will head for Bethesda Naval Hospital to prepare for a Friday morning gallbladder operation.

★ ★ ★

All the members of Congress — House and Senate — had been invited to be entertained and praised for their accomplishments in this busy session. Wives also were invited. Now they'll have a chance to wish the President well.

Johnson will deliver a speech from the stage of the State Department auditorium to launch the star-studded program.

FESTIVE OCCASION

The festive occasion was planned long before Johnson's illness, and the President ordered it to proceed as scheduled.

The evening's activities involve some complicated logistics to provide entertainment and dinner for a guest list that numbers more than a thousand.

★ ★ ★

Guests were invited to the Chite House, from which 20 military buses will transport them to the State Department for an hour-long show featuring stars of stage, screen, opera and the folk song circuit.

The Johnsons staged the first of these congressional salutes last year, but it was balmy August and all the guests could be accommodated on the sweeping South Lawn of the White House. Chill October weather caused the shift indoors this year.

SEATS 801

The auditorium normally has seats for 801, a White House spokesman said, and extra folding chairs are being placed in the aisles.

Actor Frederic March is the master of ceremonies, with the Marine Corps band supplying most of the music.

★ ★ ★

The opening number features movie-television star Hugh O'Brian reading Thomas Wolfe's poem "Burning in the Night" to a musical score by composer-conductor Ferde Grofe, who composed the Grand Canyon Suite.

The congressional gathering also will be serenaded with a whole collection of regional songs like "Chicago," "Oklahoma," "New Orleans Medley," "Everything's Up to Date in Kansas City," "Manhattan" and "San Francisco."

MAKING COMEBACK

Mahalia Jackson, the contralto making a comeback after suffering a heart attack a year ago, will salute the ailing President with such numbers as "He's Got the Whole World In His Hands."

★ ★ ★

After the hour-long affair at the State Department, the whole audience will be transported back to the White House again by buses for a lavish buffet dinner served in the state dining room and the East Ballroom.

Humphrey Cancels Dates

VP to Be Near Johnson After Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has canceled all his speaking dates next week to be on hand while President Johnson recuperates from surgery.

But if all goes well for the President after his gallbladder operation Friday, Humphrey will plunge the week beginning Oct. 18 into a schedule of appearances akin to that of a presidential campaign.

★ ★ ★

Nobody expects Humphrey to have to make any emergency decisions during the time the President is hospitalized. However, the vice president felt he should be at the President's beck and call for at least 10 days after the operation.

Scheduled Humphrey appearances in New York City, Kansas City, Mo., Kansas City, Kan., a campaign tour in New Jersey in behalf of Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes and a speech before the Business Council in Hot Springs, Va., have been wiped out.

RESUME TRAVELS

But if there are no adverse developments, Humphrey will resume his air travels with a typical day on Oct. 18.

On that day he is scheduled to dedicate a hospital at Ellensville, N.Y., deliver the Edward R. Murrow memorial lecture at Tufts University, Medford, Mass., and speak at a Democratic dinner in Rutland, Vt.

★ ★ ★

Oct. 19 promises another hectic day for the vice president, starting with a speech at the University of Vermont in Burlington. He will fly back to Washington to address Democratic state and county chairmen and then take off to be principal speaker at a party dinner in Providence, R.I.

With a day's rest sandwiched in, he goes to New Haven, Conn., Oct. 21 to address a regional conference of New England mayors and talks to a co-operative organization in Syracuse, N.Y.

ADRIAN VISIT

The next day he will be at the National Corn Picking Contest in Adrian, Mich., stopping off in Detroit for a speech before the Economic Club.

He has an Oct. 23 date in Louisville, Ky., to address the Women's Democratic Conference and a Sunday, Oct. 24 appearance in Minneapolis, Minn., at a fund-raising dinner for Democratic Sen. Walter F. Mondale.

★ ★ ★

This sort of schedule, running well into November, seems likely to provide the vice president with the opportunity for personal contact with local Democratic officials in just about every section of the country.

Friends say he isn't worried about any serious challenge to renomination in 1968. But they agree it would be handy to know a lot of Democrats by their first names when 1972 comes along.

Beavers Too Busy; Road, Camp Flooded

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — Some bustling beavers got so busy in Logan Canyon they lost their homes.

Two of their housing projects caused the Logan River to back up, flooding a road and campground. State fish and game officers were called in this week to dynamite the beaver dams.

Dog Gets a Chance to Be Booze Hound

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—State whisky control agents are trying to turn "Hoss," a one-year-old German Shepherd dog, into a booze hound. If he makes it, he will be used to lead investigators to moonshine whisky stills in the Florida backwoods.

★ ★ ★

"If a dog can be trained to track a man by smell, I don't see why he can't be trained to lead agents to a whisky still by smell," said district supervisor B.K. Finley.

Bethesda Ready for President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Naval Medical Center in suburban Bethesda, Md., cleared the decks today for a famous patient with a gallbladder operation coming up Friday.

This time it was ready for action, with a third-floor suite, rooms for presidential aides and an impressive array of the omnipresent telephone lines.

★ ★ ★

When President Johnson went to the hospital with a bad cold in the middle of a frosty night last January, the center had no forewarning.

Johnson will be staying at what usually is called the Bethesda Naval Hospital. Officially, it's the Naval Hospital part of the National Naval Medical Center, which includes also the Naval Medical School, Naval Dental School, and Naval Medical Research Institute.

DREAM CHILD

The center was the dream child of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, an old Navy man. He laid the cornerstone for it on Armistice Day, 1940, when the tides of World War II were sweeping in on the United States.

The center was commissioned on Feb. 5, 1942.

★ ★ ★

Its major physical feature is the 18-story tower in which Johnson will be staying. If Nebraskans think it looks like their state capitol, that's right. Its general outline is attributed to Roosevelt, who was said to have been impressed by the capitol at Lincoln, Neb., which rises from an unbroken plain.

The hospital is for Navy personnel, both active and retired, and their dependents.

LBJ'S CHOICE

As commander in chief of the armed forces, a President may go to any armed forces hospital. By custom, he chooses the one of his own service.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, an old Army man, went to Walter Reed Army Medical Center. The Army hospital was established in 1909 and has had an executive suite for VIPs since 1947.

★ ★ ★

During his term as president, Harry S. Truman, a former Army captain, spent three days at Walter Reed, entering July 16, 1952, for a checkup after a mild virus infection.

Johnson, a former Navy lieutenant commander, stayed at the Bethesda Naval Hospital that Jacqueline Kennedy directed that the body of her slain husband, John F. Kennedy, be brought for autopsy the night of his assassination in Dallas. She had her choice between Walter Reed and Bethesda for the dead president, and "he being a Navy man, she picked Bethesda," the Warren Commission recorded it.

COURAGE SITS TALL IN A SADDLE WITH RACING'S LITTLE MEN

"All Right . . . Riders Up!"

Nine times each day, Bill Kelly barks the command in the Paddock at the Detroit Race Course. Jockeys in gay-colored silks quickly mount and take their thoroughbreds on to the track for another race.

It is an unending drama. I have watched it for more than 30 years. I never grow tired of it, for it involves fascinating and courageous Little Men.

Little Men . . . they weigh between 100 and 110 pounds . . . and must handle, with ballet-like precision and skill, high spirited thoroughbreds whose weight is 10 times that of their own.

The Jockey Colony at the Detroit Race Course always is an interesting one. We get a mixture of brilliant young apprentices on their way up, talented performers who have managed to establish themselves in a few seasons, and true riding veterans.

Few sports fans . . . even those who attend the races with some regularity . . . realize the amazing role jockeys play in their relation to stars in other sports.

Larry Snyder, a youngster who recently turned in one of the great riding feats in DRC history, when he had five winners in a day, doesn't get the recognition Detroit sports fans bestow on stars like Al Kaline of the Tigers, Joe Schmidt of the Lions, or Gordie Howe of the Red Wings. Yet, Snyder's earnings will match or exceed those of his illustrious counterparts. In the first eight months of 1965, Larry's mounts won $502,506 and jockeys normally get 10 per cent of the purses they win.

Ronnie Campbell, who came off his father's farm at Fremont, Michigan, six years ago to begin a brilliant riding career, recently scored his 1,000th victory.

Campbell made an interesting observation at the time. He said: "Few people realize how rugged and strenuous it is to ride a race horse. You could take the finest conditioned miler off a top college track team or an outstanding college professional football player, put him on a horse and let him ride in a race—and he wouldn't be able to catch his breath for the next hour!"

Among our riders this season are two veterans who rank among the all-time national leaders in total victories. Howard Craig went into this season with 2,595 victories in his 17-year career and Robert L. Baird had 2,543 wins for his 19 seasons. There are only ten riders in U. S. turf history who have ever won more races.

The colorful Little Men are among the many reasons you will find a visit to the Detroit Race Course interesting and filled with pleasure.

We have a new Clubhouse which is one of the Showplaces of the Sports World. There are superb restaurants in our dining terraces, "The Winner's Circle," and "The Mile Terrace"; an interesting old world tavern in "Ye Tired Olde Horse Pub"; a gay French Quarter Lounge, and a superlative collection of thoroughbred racing art in our 'Corridor of The Stars.'

The Little Men join me in inviting YOU to visit the DRC soon. We race daily through November 6.

The American Salesman—2

Prestige of Occupation Rises, Recedes

★ ★ ★

By HARRY FERGUSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The prestige of the American salesman rises and recedes like the tides. In the 1920s, he was a national hero and magazines and books devoted thousands of words to telling why he was the architect of our prosperity.

The 1929 crash blew all that out the window, and the salesman never has been able to climb back to his exalted status. Today there is a severe shortage of good salesmen. It seems to have started back in 1962 when only 20,000 male graduates from college went into selling. The economy could have used 200,000.

The Council on Opportunities in Selling, Inc., a nonprofit educational organization, has been digging into the reasons why college graduates don't want to become salesmen. It cites these remarks by students:

"Selling is a dirty word. Selling is a needless, useless way of making an uncertain living, a waste of a college education. I don't want to make people buy things they don't need."

★ ★ ★

The council believes many college teachers are biased against business and selling and have succeeded in planting this attitude firmly in the minds of the students.

Psychologists offer another reason — being a salesman frustrates one of man's most powerful drives, the desire to create something. It is the nature of a salesman's job that he doesn't create anything. Other men make a product and he merely sells it.

PLAY DID DAMAGE

Arthur Miller's play, "Death of a Salesman," did immense damage to the image of the American salesman. Thousands of persons saw it on the stage and other thousands read it. The book circulated widely among college students and frequently was on the required-reading list.

Miller told the story of Willy Loman, a salesman whose efficiency and earnings decline as he grows older. Willy finally realizes his life has come to a dead end and he commits suicide. In the last act, a neighbor explains to Willy's sons the frustration of a salesman who doesn't create anything:

"Nobody dast blame this man. You don't understand: Willy was a salesman. And for a salesman there is no rock bottom to life. He don't put a bolt to a nut, he don't tell you the law or give you medicine.

"He's a man way out there in the blue, riding on a smile and a shoeshine. And when they start not smiling back — that's an earthquake. And then you get yourself a couple of spots on your hat, and you're finished.

"Nobody dast blame this man. A salesman has got to dream. It comes with the territory."

Miller's philosophy apparently is widely accepted today among boys in college, and many business leaders are alarmed lest the shortage of competent salesmen damages the economy in the coming decade. It is estimated that by 1970 the nation will need 1.8 million new salesmen and the requirements will increase with the rise in population and industrial production.

RECRUITING, TRAINING

Many large companies engage in recruiting and training programs, but it takes time and money. The Council on Opportunities in Selling estimates a company must spend $8,731 on a man before he is capable of productive selling.

Even then you have to wait a while before you know whether you have a winner or a loser. More likely you have a loser because 53 per cent of the sales in this country are made by only 27 per cent of the salesmen.

That 27 per cent are the glamour boys of the business. They make big money by swinging big deals. They entertain in the best restaurants, have tickets to the hit shows and make speeches at conventions telling how they do it.

The other 73 per cent of the nation's salesmen are the "marginal men." It is unlikely that they will ever get rich and many of them, like Willy Loman, keep struggling to make a bare living while the clock ticks away against them.

★ ★ ★

One of the peculiar facets of being a salesman is that no matter how many hours a man works, he has only a short span of time to fail or succeed. Only about 15 per cent of his working time is spent face to face with a potential customer. Bertrand Canfield, in his book "Salesmanship," breaks down the average salesman's time like this:

Salesman's working time in a year	2,336 hours
Waiting for prospects to see him	467 hours
Traveling	935 hours
Record keeping and planning	584 hours
Actual selling, face to face with prospects	350 hours

LIKE BALL PLAYER

So a salesman is somewhat like a ball player who never gets into the game except as a pinch-hitter. He has a limited amount of time to show what he can do.

He can't afford to strike out too often or he will be out of a job. He is under heavy nervous pressure because he spends so much time waiting for the moment when he can grab a bat and walk to the plate.

Congenital Heart Ills Can Vary

By Science Service

BOSTON — For the first time a grandfather and grandson have been proved to have a blocked pulmonary valve, a type of congenital heart defect.

The boy, however, died three days after birth, while the grandfather has lived for more than 62 years.

A team of three physicians at the Maricopa County General Hospital at Phoenix, Ariz., points out that any kind of congenital heart lesion can vary in severity, and the present case illustrates the point very clearly.

Although the grandfather had the classic findings of mild to moderate pulmonary stenosis (constriction of the valve located at the exit of the right ventricle of the heart), it caused him no particular difficulty.

★ ★ ★

He was admitted to the hospital with pain in the left side of his chest, but was dismissed after tests and has remained well.

SEVERE FORM

The grandson, however, had the most severe form of the defect, which is known as pulmonary valvular atresia. This means failure of development of the opening.

Oxygen, digitalis and diuretic treatment proved to be of no help to the baby, and he died suddenly before further therapy could be given.

Autopsy showed marked increase in size of the right ventricle, along with the closed valve at the exit.

★ ★ ★

The researchers point out that most "authors agree that sex-linked inheritance cannot explain familial cases of congenital heart disease."

NO OTHERS

None of the grandfather's children or other grandchildren have been affected with the condition, which makes dominant or sex-linked recessive inheritance unlikely.

A recessive mode of inheritance would be a more reasonable assumption," the researchers state.

Drs. Jerome C. Robinson, Hugh B. Hull and William J. Rappoport, all of Phoenix, report the findings in the Sept. 23 issue of New England Journal of Medicine.

Minnesota Batters Drysdale, 8-2

Talk of Four Straight Absent as Twins Grab Series Opener

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) —Nobody is talking about four straight anymore. Not even the Minnesota Twins who battered Don Drysdale and beat the once-favored Los Angeles Dodgers 8-2 to draw first World Series blood.

The Dodgers had really believed they could knock off the American League champions in four straight. Today, somewhat subdued after having their 23-game winning right-handed ace knocked out in less than three innings, the Dodgers placed all their hopes on Sandy Koufax, their left-handed star, to give them an even break in the two games here.

Sam Mele, the Twins' manager, never had any illusions about a four-game sweep. Even after having won the first one, Sam still contained his optimsim.

* * *

"You always like to win the first one and get the momentum," he said. "It's like when you go into any series during the season. You want the first one very badly.

"It's the same old story. We'll go one at a time. Los Angeles is a good club. You can't relax against those guys. We'll keep playing the way we have all year."

Mele confirmed his nomination of Jim Kaat, his 18-game winner, as the second game starter. After that it will be right-hander Camilo Pascual for the third game in Los Angeles Saturday. Friday has been set aside for travel.

TOP PITCHER

In Koufax, the Twins will face the best pitcher in baseball. Sandy last worked on Saturday when he pitched the pennant clincher against Milwaukee, lifting his season's record to 26 victories and eight defeats.

* * *

His season record included eight shutouts and a record 382 strikeouts. He also turned in a 2.04 earned run average, equalling Lefty Grove's record of having led his league four straight times in earned run averages.

"I think we will beat Koufax, too," said Jim Grant, the Twins' ace right-hander who tamed the Dodgers on 10 hits Wednesday.

"They said we couldn't beat Drysdale, but we did. We've been underrated all year. They picked us sixth and seventh but we came in first. They said we would fold in the clutch but we didn't. We're going to fool 'em again today."

Shortstop Zoilo Versalles, who paced the Twins' 10-hit attack with a three-run homer and a run scoring single, was more cautious.

"We just play one game and we're okay," he said. "There are seven games."

The odds - makers have changed their minds following the Twins' first game victory. They now make it an even series, after having first established the Dodgers a 7-5 favorite. The Dodgers and Koufax are 13-10 choices to win to day's game.

Dodger Manater Walter Alston didn't appear too downcast over the defeat.

"We got 10 hits," he reminded. "I'll always settle for 10 hits.

"They got 10 hits, too, but theirs came in a bunch and scored runs. Ours were spaced and didn't score enough runs."

The Twins' 10 hits included homers by Don Mincher as well as Versalles and doubles by Frank Quilici, Sandy Valdespino and Grant. Except for Ron Fairly's homer, all the Dodger hits were singles.

Alston readily conceded that Versalles' three-run homer off Drysdale in the third was the most damaging blow.

"I thought that hit really killed us," he said. "After that Earl Battey's single into short right field with the bases loaded, put them out of reach."

Attorney Ousts Golf Medalist

Senior Amateur Meet Enters 2nd Round

PITTSBURGH (AP)— James P. Quinn, 58, a Kansas City criminal attorney knocked off medalist Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., one-up Wednesday in the first round of match play in the USGA Senior Men's National Amateur Golf Tourney at the 6,299-yard Fox Chapel golf course.

William D. Higgins of San Francisco, the defending champion, and most other favorites advanced to the second round of 16 golfers.

* * *

Higgins, a 59-year-old printing ink firm president, defeated John R. Jacob of Canton, Ohio, 2-and-1.

Second-seeded Bob Kiersky of Oakmont, Pa., had to rally from a one-hole deficit at the turn to defeat W. E. Douglas Gunther of Richmond, Va., 4-and-3.

World Record High Jumper Fractures Leg

MOSCOW (UPI) — Valeri Brumel, Russia's world record high jumper, suffered a multiple fracture of his right leg in a traffic accident yesterday, the official Tass news agency announced today.

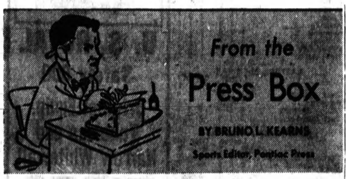
* * *

Tass said the 24-year-old athlete was "knocked down by a car while riding on a motorcycle in Moscow." He was operated on today.

Reliable sources said his leg was broken in three places—two simple breaks between knee and ankle and a complicated fracture near the ankle.

* * *

The injury is sure to keep Brumel out of the Russian championship track and field meet which opens in a few days in Alma ATA. Reliable sources quoted doctors as saying it may have further effects on his career.



Terry Sawchuk, a native of Winnipeg, a naturalized citizen of the United States, a resident of Union Lake and a shopper and participant in Pontiac area activities expressed a few sensible thoughts that could generate good conversation among city residents.

"If I were financially capable, or if there were a half dozen good businessmen interested, this is what I'd do to give Pontiac a shot in the arm," Sawchuk went on to say.

"All that property between Wide Track, Saginaw, Orchard Lake and Water street, could be built into a miniature New York Central Park.

Sawchuk's idea of a Central Park would include an auditorium with a converted floor for year around activities, basketball, hockey, social events, etc.; an indoor-outdoor swimming pool; tennis, horseshoes, badminton, shuffleboard, natural ice rinks, picnic area and the complete winter-summer recreational package.

"Line it with trees, surround it with parking, complement it with a nice shopping area and what else is left but for Pontiac to take bows for doing something for its youth and citizens," he added.

Of course for Sawchuk, a 17-year veteran of the National Hockey League, the hockey and ice rink facilities are the big interests.

"I thought about this during the off-season, during the hot summer days while helping out at Gordie's (Howe) Hockeyland in St. Clair Shores," said Sawchuk, "as I was surprised to learn of the large number of kids from the Pontiac area who learn hockey and skate there all year long.

TO PLAY TILL 40

"Sure hockey is my main interest, and I plan on staying active in the NHL until I'm 40," (he's 36 now), Sawchuk added, "but I feel this is my area now and would like to see it thrive and be part of the sports activities here.

"Seeing what Gordie's place can do for an area, and that's for only ice sports activities, I know an all-sports center, summer and winter, indoor and outdoor would go great here," he said.

"Many towns in Canada, much smaller than Pontiac, bustle with activities because they keep their facilities closer to the center of town. Sure they concentrate on hockey, that's the national sport, but with so many sports interests here today, this is even more a reason why such a central sports center would be the best thing that ever happened to Pontiac.

* * *

"Talk never made any economy boom. Right now the economy is booming, all sports are booming. I can't understand why foresights shouldn't start booming," he concluded.

So speaks one of hockey's all-time great goal tenders, naturalized just a couple years ago in Oakland County and one who feels a good shot in the arm is needed to bring out the sports potential and economic boost for the city and its residents.

2 MSU Losses 'Rosy'

'55, '64 Tilts With U-M 11 Led to Bowls

EAST LANSING (AP) — The last time Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty lost to Michigan was last year, 17-10, and the Wolverines went to the Rose Bowl.

The next to last time was in 1955, 14-7, and the Spartans got the Rose Bowl bid. This was the only MSU defeat of that season 10 years ago.

That's a bit of football history for fans to ponder on prior to the 58th renewal of the football classic Saturday.

Daugherty already has said the Big Ten champ this year could lose as many as two games. He shudders at Rose Bowl talk this early but the ticket-buyers still will speculate on possibilities of MSU, the only unbeaten team in the conference and currently rated fifth in the nation, going all the way.

SELLOUT CLASSIC

Those loyal rooters have made this classic a sellout for 18 straight years starting in 1948. It is estimated more than 1.6 million spectators have jammed the stadia at East Lansing and Ann Arbor since.

Michigan State has become a little blase of late about beating Michigan, in contrast to the years when a victory called for a car-tipping celebration.

The Wolverines have won 36, lost only 16 and tied five in the meetings dating back to 1898.

There was an almost absurd score of 119-0 run up by Michigan against the then agricultural college in 1902.

Between 1934 and 1937, Coach Charlie Bachman took home four in a row for State.

Then came the lean years. Michigan State didn't win again until 1950, when Athletic Director Biggie Munn did it in 1950, 14-7. Munn had a rough time in his first try, as his nose was rubbed in the dust 55-0 in 1947, his first appearance as Spartan coach.

Since 1950, Michigan State has won 10, Michigan three and there have been two ties.

Livonia Clarenceville captured the Oakland University Invitational Class B-C-D Cross Country crown yesterday by the slimmest of margins over Cranbrook.

Twins Larry and Gary Buchheit paced the Trojans' 44-45 victory by taking first and fifth place individually, but it was 11th, 12th and 14th places that meant the difference for Clarenceville.

Cranbrook had three runners among the top 10, led by Mike Koerner who took third, and also took 12th and 17th.

Charles Craig was fourth, two seconds behind Koerner.

The reserve team winner was Cranbrook (22), followed by OLSM (52) and Oxford (76).

Series Starters Stir Talk of 'Wet Ones'

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — The spitball seems to be very much like the weather.

Everyone talks about it, but even when it's wet, no one does anything about it.

There was a hail of words on the subject in both the Los Angeles and Minnesota dressing rooms following the opening game of the World Series Wednesday after television close-ups apparently caught Twins' pitcher Jim (Mudcat) Grant spitting into his glove before he threw.

* * *

But, oddly, the Dodgers made no complaint before or after the game while the Twins, who battered Don Drysdale for seven runs in 2 2-3 innings en route to an 8-2 victory, claimed that the Los Angeles starter was using the illegal pitch.

Grant, on the other hand, admitted he was spitting. But he said he was one of those neat types who wiped it off before he pitched.

* * *

"I spit on the ball," said Grant, "but only to rub them up. I don't think you should throw a slick ball — I think you should rub some of the gloss off. I do it with spit."

Does that mean that Grant was throwing a spitball?

"I'm not saying I don't throw a spitter," said Grant, employing the evasive tactic of all members of the spitball society.

"I don't really think it makes any difference. I don't think any good hitter will let it bother him. Besides every time I spat on the ball, I wiped it off."

Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers, asked about the fact that the television cameras caught Grant in the act, professed ignorance about the entire subject.

"I don't know much about spitters myself," he said. "You'll have to ask the pitchers that throw them."

Alston, however, didn't name any who did.

The two leading hitters on the Dodgers, shortstop Maury Wills and outfielder Ron Fairly, both said Grant couldn't possibly have been throwing a spitball.

"He doesn't throw spitballs," Wills said flatly. "A spitball pitcher has to be a low ball pitcher and Grant isn't. We know a spitball pitcher when we see one."

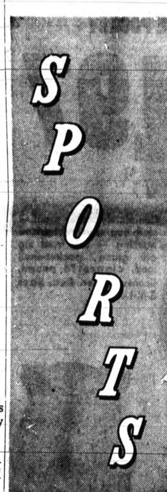
"He wouldn't have time to get set that quick if he were spitting in his glove," said Fairly. "He'd have to take his hand off the ball, put it on the saliva, put it back on the ball and then pitch. I don't think it can be done."

The Twins, however, saw the spitball problem just a bit differently.

"We got the impression that Drysdale was using the spitter," said Minnesota Manager Sam Mele. "But there isn't anything I can do about Drysdale's wet pitch. I'm all for him, if he can get away with it."



Ryder Cuppers Now Tied, 4-4

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) —Pro golfers from the United States and Great Britain played to a 4-4 deadlock today in the opening matches of the biennial Ryder Cup matches.

Today's matches were alternate shot foursomes with each team shooting one ball over the par 73 Royal Birkdale layout.

On Friday, the same teams will play eight four-ball foursomes and the competition closes on Saturday with 18 man-to-man duels.

The matches were started in 1927 as a means of increasing interest in match play among pro golfers and the United States has won 12 times and Great Britain three.

The last British triumph was in 1957.

Each side won two matches in the morning and two after lunch.

REVERSE FORM

Probably never in the history of this competition has there been a greater change in a team's play than in that of Arnold Palmer and Dave Marr.

In the morning round against Dave Thomas and George Will the Americans lost five of the first seven holes and were defeated 6 and 5. In the afternoon, the Americans defeated the same British pair by the same margin.

Asked what made the difference, Marr said "this is my first Ryder Cup match. At the start I was nervous and by the third hole I was downright embarrassed."

Palmer and the newly crowned PGA champ toured the out nine after lunch in 30 strokes, possibly a record for best-ball play in a competitive event.

"I knew I had to improve in the afternoon or get the next train out of town," said the New Rochelle, N.Y., resident.

Julius Boros of Southern Pines, N.C., and Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., contributed a pair of points to the U.S. total.

* * *

In the morning round they squeezed past Lionel Platts and Peter Butler 1 up by getting a birdie four on the 518-yard 18th. After lunch they crushed Jimmy Martin and Jimmy Hitchcock, 5 and 4, by getting four birdies before the turn.

WIN AND LOSE

Billy Casper and Gene Littler, both from San Diego, Calif., won in the morning but lost in the afternoon to Christy O'Connor and Peter Allis, possibly the best British pair of the day, 2 and 1. Before lunch the two Californians mastered Bernie Hunt and Neil Coles, also 2 and 1.

MORNING ROUND

Dave Thomas and George Will defeated Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., and Dave Marr, New Rochelle, N.Y., 6 and 5.

Julius Boros, Southern Pines, N.C., and Tony Lema, San Leandro, Calif., defeated Lionel Platts and Peter Butler, 1 up.

Christy O'Connor and Peter Allis defeated Ken Venturi, San Diego, Calif., and Don January, Plainview, Tex., 5 and 4.

Billy Casper, San Diego, Calif., and Gene Littler, San Diego, Calif., defeated Bernie Hunt and Neil Coles, 2 and 1.

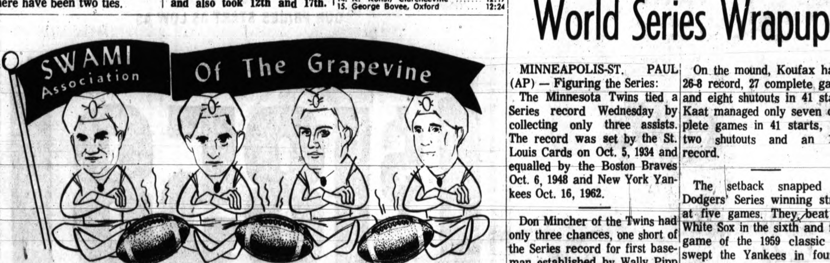
AFTERNOON ROUND

Palmer and Marr defeated Thomas and Will, 6 and 5.

Boros and Lema defeated Jimmy Martin and Jimmy Hitchcock, 5 and 4.

Hunt and Coles defeated Venturi and January, 3 and 2.

O'Connor and Allis defeated Casper and Littler, 2 and 1.



A new contender has taken the lead in the hot Grapevine race of the Swami Association. Swami Spears had the best picking day of the short season thus far missing only six games and shoving Swami Vogel into the run nerup spot.

But the big list of games continues and the weekend schedule promises many upsets.

Assist Mark Tied

World Series Wrapup

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Figuring the Series:

The Minnesota Twins tied a Series record Wednesday by collecting only three assists. The record was set by the St. Louis Cards on Oct. 5, 1934 and equalled by the Boston Braves Oct. 6, 1948 and New York Yankees Oct. 16, 1962.

Don Mincher of the Twins had only three chances, one short of the Series record for first baseman established by Wally Pipp of the Yankees Oct. 11, 1921 against the New York Giants.

Minnesota's eight runs must have surprised most members of other National League teams. In 162 regular season games, NL opposition scored eight or more runs off Dodger pitching only seven times.

Ron Fairly's second inning home run was his first since Aug. 23 when he hit one off Larry Miller of the New York Mets. The Dodger outfielder failed to connect in his final 33 regular season games and finished with nine.

Jim Kaat of the Twins has a better batting advantage than the Dodgers' Sandy Koufax. The two are today's scheduled pitchers. During the regular campaign, Kaat hit .247 with 23 hits in 93 times at bat while Koufax batted .177 with 20 safeties in 113 tries.

On the mound, Koufax had a 26-8 record, 27 complete games and eight shutouts in 41 starts. Kaat managed only seven complete games in 41 starts, with two shutouts and an 18-11 record.

The setback snapped the Dodgers' Series winning streak at five games. They beat the White Sox in the sixth and final game of the 1959 classic and swept the Yankees in four in 1963.

Third baseman Jim Gilliam was the only Dodger in Wednesday's starting line-up who started in the opening game of the 1959 Series against the Chicago White Sox. His performance in both games was virtually the same. He had one hit in four tries plus one assist in the '59 opener and one hit in five trips plus one assist Wednesday.

Don Drysdale, the big Dodgers' right-hander, had allowed only three earned runs in 18 innings in three previous Series appearances. He yielded three earned runs in 2 2-3 innings Wednesday, lifting his ERA from 1.50 to 2.57.

Every Los Angeles starter, except Drysdale, collected at least one hit and all Twins' starters had at least one safety except Tony Oliva, the American League batting champion.

Central Michigan University football line coach Jerry Sierscki lettered four times as a varsity guard at CMU from 1956 through 1959.

Kettering 11 Meets New Foe

Waterford Kettering will be the "off" team in the Tri-County League's grid schedule this week, and the Captains are utilizing the break to introduce a new opponent.

Port Huron Northern, in its first season of football action at the varsity level, will visit Kettering for a 3:30 p.m. tilt Friday.

The two league games will both be Homecoming contests. Oxford hopes to celebrate with its first win of the season in the loop opener for the Wildcats against Lapeer.

The Panthers also will be seeking an initial league victory in the Friday night meeting. Lapeer's only win in three starts was 20-0 over Port Huron Northern.

The other circuit clash will have Romeo observing its Homecoming at 2:30 p.m. Saturday against first place Mount Clemens L'Anse Creuse.

FIRST PLACE

If Lapeer can beat Oxford Friday, then the Saturday tilt would be a first-place duel since Romeo tied WKHS in its opener last week. The Bulldogs also won two non-league starts and haven't tasted defeat yet.

Kettering, meanwhile, will attempt to sharpen its improving defense to prevent the big play by the opposition. Long gaining pass plays, particularly, have bothered the Captains.

Offensively, Dick Miceli's passes have put sting into the offense, but the ground game still is lacking punch.

The line, however, has gained experience and may start springing the none-too-quick running backs loose for bigger chunks of yardage. Halfback Alonzo Wilson, though, was hurt in practice Tuesday and is sidelined.

The game also will mark Homecoming for Kettering. The green-and-white squad will be looking to climb over the .500 mark after winning, losing and tying in its first three games.

Rookie Gets Call

Cowboys Bench Vet QB

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Coach Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys benched his veteran quarterback, Don Meredith Wednesday and turned to his rookies—Jerry Rhome and Craig Morton—for the game with Philadelphia here Sunday.

Landry told his weekly news conference glumly that "Meredith did not have a good night against St. Louis. I felt we must have good passing to win and Meredith did not supply it. He is in a slump. I think it is because of the pressure. He is trying so hard he has gotten off on his timing.

"There is nothing left for me to do but to give him a rest until he regains his form, which I know he can do. Rhome and Morton will be my quarterbacks Sunday, with Rhome starting."

Dallas lost to St. Louis 20-13 Monday night with Meredith completing only nine passes in 25 attempts. He was most inconsistent, once underthrowing Bob Hayes in the end zone, another time overthrowing Frank Clarke when the latter was in the clear.

There has been clamor from the fans all season for Landry to give Rhome, the NCAA record-smashing passer from Tulsa, a chance. But the coach has stubbornly insisted that Meredith would round into shape, that he needed an experienced quarterback in the rough National Football League race.

* * *

Also since passing is the main weapon of offense in the league, Landry said he wanted to go with a passer tested against the defenses.

Gains Defensive Honor

Willie Brown, a Houston cut in 1963 but now a star defender with the Denver Broncs, has been named the Defensive Player-of-The-Week in the American Football League by The Associated Press.

Michigan State's Jeff Richardson who won the 1965 Big Ten heavyweight wrestling crown is also a member of the Spartan football team.

Astronomical Hoople Sees Texas Falling

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Peerless Prognosticator

Egad, dear readers, this week I have some surprising information to share with you.

A visit to our planetarium verifies my astronomical calculations which indicate unusual activity in the magnitude of the celestial bodies.

These movements will exert an unusual influence on the opponents in Saturday's collegiate encounters.

We can expect many unsung elevens to emulate the star cluster Pleiades which is rising in the east in Taurus, the bull!

(Ed. Note: Sounds like a lot of bull to us, too, Major.)

The Pleiades are a group of several hundred young stars which will smile encouragement on the young stalwarts of Army as they topple Notre Dame by a 20-18 count—hak-kaff!

But it's in the Southwest where the biggest eruption will occur.

Winless Oklahoma will bounce back "sooner" than expected as the Sooners—heh-heh—throttle undefeated Texas, 28-14. And Baylor, exhibiting the speed of Halley's comet, will flash past mighty Arkansas—Ump-kumph!

While your peerless prognosticator has correctly forecast Georgia's astonishing early season upsets of two of football's titans, Alabama and Michigan, I have some bad news for Georgia partisans this week.

The Hoople System predicts a hard-won 22-20 triumph for Clemson over the Bulldogs — har-rumph!

Now go on with the forecast:

MOUNTAINEER STARS—West Virginia's 'Four Horsemen' were all smiles at yesterday's workout as they examined the latest NCAA football statistics. The four, all among the statistical leaders, are (l-r) Dick Leftridge, rushing; Chuck Kinder, punting and scoring; Allen McCune, passing and total offense; and Garrett Ford, rushing and scoring.

Mississippi: South's Gridiron Riddle

By The Associated Press

What's with Mississippi, the question mark of the Southeastern Conference.

Well, Florida Coach Ray Graves, whose 10th-ranked team hasn't been college football's most consistent either, isn't sure but he doesn't want to find out Saturday.

John Vaught's Rebels were the top-ranked team in the country in last year's pre-season Associated Press poll but struggled through a dismal 5-4-1 season. They beat Memphis State in their opener this year but have lost two straight to Kentucky and Alabama.

Florida, which boasts a top-notch quarterback in Steve Spurrier, whipped Northwestern in its opener but was upset by Mississippi State before bouncing back last week and dropping Louisiana State out of the Top Ten.

Top-ranked Texas and runner-up Nebraska both had injury problems as they tuned up for their weekend dates.

* * *

The Longhorns' star tailback, Phil Harris, hurt his knee against Indiana last Saturday and could miss Texas' clash with Oklahoma. Nebraska will be without defensive end Langston Coleman against Wisconsin.

* * *

Third-ranked Arkansas, hoping to stretch the nation's longest winning string to 16 at Baylor's expense, went through a sharp workout. "Cool weather came," Coach Frank Broyles said, "and that always peps us up."

Southern California's Mike Garrett, who gained 472 yards in three games for eighth-ranked Trojans, worked out after resting an injured leg Tuesday and will be ready for Saturday's game against Washington.

* * *

Other top games Saturday match fourth-ranked Georgia against Clemson; No. 6 Purdue against Iowa; seventh-ranked Notre Dame vs. Army and No. 9 Mississippi State against Southern Mississippi.

Arrow Offense Need of Boost

The Pontiac Arrows have the highest-scoring team in the Midwestern Football League, but the club continues to have problems moving the ball.

The Arrows (4-0) have won four games in a row and enjoy a two-game lead in the league race, but in their last three games, they were pushed to the limit in pulling out the victories.

The team started with a 61-0 rant of Flint. Then came a 21-19 win over Dayton, a 7-0 conquest of Milan and last week an 18-13 verdict over Lansing.

At Lansing the Arrows did little right in the first half but rallied for two touchdowns in the second half to down the defending champion All-Stars.

* * *

Some of the trouble has been along the offensive line where the pass protection has failed to hold up. And on other occasions, with the linemen holding out the opposition, the quarterback and receivers have failed to click.

SOME PROBLEMS

"Our receivers have had some problems," said coach Lyle Wells, who is drilling the offensive unit this week in preparation for the Milan Vikings who will invade Wisner Stadium Sunday at 7 p.m.

* * *

Quarterback Karl Sweetan has completed 29 of 58 passes in four league games for six touchdowns and 312 yards, but many of his tosses have been dropped by the receivers.

Sweetan, who suffered an ankle injury in the Lansing game, is expected to be ready for the Milan game.

Filling in for Sweetan at Lansing was Bill Harrington, a Pontiac school teacher, who guided the club on the two second half touchdown drives that produced the victory.

Milan put a strong rush on the quarterbacks on its home field two weeks ago, and the squad is expected to send its big linemen crashing through again this week.

BIG LINE

Along the Milan defensive line — biggest in the league — are ends Dennis Spencer (260) of the Toledo Tornadoes and Jim Lamarr (230) of Allen Park; and tackles Mike Cunningham (275) of Kansas State and Walt Benton (280) of Olivet.

* * *

Wells added three new linemen this week in an effort to give the offense a boost.

The newcomers are tackle Dwight Sobczak, a 6-4, 269-pounder who played at University of Detroit; Bernie McCoy, 6-0, 230, who played at Northwood Institute; and Alex Korzeniewski, a 235-pound guard who starred at Hillsdale.

A preview to the Arrows contest will be a midget game starting at 6 p.m. with the Waterford Bobcats meeting the Waterford Hornets.

The Pontiac Central High School band will perform at halftime.

Advance tickets are on sale at Osmun's Mens Stores and Griff's Grill in downtown Pontiac. Ticket office at the stadium will open at 5:30 Sunday.

PNH, Waterford Must Plug Defenses

It will be strength against weakness Friday night as the four Inter-Lakes League teams play the second round of their three-date loop schedule.

Translated that means the passing attacks of Walled Lake and Farmington have vulnerable targets in their games at Waterford and Pontiac Northern, respectively.

* * *

The Vikings of Walled Lake will gun for at least a share of their seventh consecutive league championship. They are solid favorites to make it six outright titles in a row.

Waterford's Skippers are sharing first place with Walled Lake as both posted opening I-L triumphs last Friday.

PNH and Farmington will meet under the Wisner Stadium lights at 8 p.m. The Huskies have lost 11 straight games and have dropped their last three I-L starts. The Falcons were the last league team to fall to PNH.

Walled Lake coach Dave Smith was encouraged by last week's showing against Northern. The Vikings (2-1) are expecting added help from Lon Snook, the tight end-middle linebacker regular who has played very little the past two games.

Also, quarterback Terry Lehmann — perhaps the best passer in the county — looked improved over early showings and could riddle the weak Waterford secondary with his aerials.

The Skippers' offense has lacked consistency; but it has produced in the clutch for both Waterford wins (in three starts) and will face a supreme test this week.

WTHS also showed a rushing defense capable of producing the crucial play at Farmington. The return of Mike Lewis at linebacker and Dave Farris' crashing tactics at end were key factors.

HUSKIES-FALCONS

PNH, while a definite underdog against Farmington's passminded Falcons, may find the overhead game the means to a much-sought victory since that was the way it finally generated some offense in losing to Walled Lake.

The Huskies last scored in the second quarter of their opening game. If coach Dave Schmidt can instill more hard tackling in the Northern forces, it may produce some breaks for the offense.

Farmington showed a propensity for loose ball handling last week.

Homecoming Games Dot Prep Gridiron Schedule

Homecoming games will share the spotlight with the battles for first place in the Wayne-Oakland and the Oakland A Leagues Friday.

The top games will have Northville at Holly in the W-O race and Warren Fitzgerald at Troy in the Oakland A. Both games will mark Homecoming for the hosts.

In addition, the Wayne-Oakland circuit has Clarkston entertaining Milford as its Homecoming foe, Brighton at Bloomfield Hills and Clarenceville at West Bloomfield.

The O-A schedule shows Avondale at Madison, Lake Orion at Warren Cousino and Rochester will be Clawson's Homecoming opposition.

The Brighton-Hills' clash will put a share of first place on the line for the host Barons. They are 3-0 entering the 3:30 p.m. contest, and all three have been convincing victories.

DANGEROUS

Holly also is perfect, but has a rougher prospect in Northville which has been inconsistently dangerous in winning two of three starts.

* * *

Milford was surprised in its W-O opener and Clarkston's Wolves were unsuspecting victims of a Hills' romp last week. Both must win to remain in contention.

West Bloomfield, while not likely to contend, could get its first win against Clarenceville, although its quarterbacking lacks experience.

Defending O-A champion Troy must sidetrack unbeaten Firzgerald if the Colts are to have any chance of retaining their title. They lost to Madison in an upset last Friday.

Rochester showed improvement last week but still is winless. Clawson's Trojans have split two league starts and will risk their title hopes against the Falcons.

Lake Orion also is winless. The Dragons will need added aggressiveness on offense to score against Cousino. Avondale founds its offensive punch last week; but the defense — particularly against foe's passes — must be improved.

Ventriloquists Are No Dummies

CHICAGO (AP) — People who talk to themselves are happy, says Paul Stadelman, "especially if they get paid for it."

Paul, who is 50ish, is a ventriloquist. In the trade, ventriloquists call themselves "vents."

* * *

For 27 years, he has been kidding himself through the small person of Winn D. (Windy) Higgins, his not-so-dumb dummy.

Paul says that a dummy sort of grows on its articulator, and a vent is apt to find himself seriously in colloquy with his alter ego over life's vexations if he is not careful.

CONSCIENCE QUALMS

In fact, Windy is so real to his master as a rambunctious identity that Paul is having conscience qualms over taking in a new dummy. "I know Windy is sore about it—I can't escape the feeling that he's jealous."

Stadelman has a talking bear named Freddie L. Ferguson. He permits the bear to explain that the middle initial stands for "Lassie," and to elucidate further — "my daddy wanted a dog."

Stadelman has the bear conducting his school for ventriloquists at the Central YMCA in Chicago's Loop. Stadelman says it livens up the course a bit. He has graduated 11 classes from his once-a-week courses during the last three years.

His students do pretty well, after learning from Stadelman, or, at least, one of them did—Vonda Kay Van Dyke of Phoenix, Ariz. She became Miss America of 1965.

NO GUARANTEE

"Of course, I don't guarantee that everyone will make it," says Paul.

One of his earlier students ended up married to him. She was Trudy Randall, a singer. Now she has her own dummy, Cindy Twiggins.

* * *

The Stadelmans have a son, Ron Barry, who also is a vent. His partner is Danny Hogan.

Being reared by two ventriloquists had its distressing aspects for Ron. Once when he was a small lad, he wandered into a bedroom where his father was dressing Windy. "When you dress a dummy," says Paul, "you make better progress if you remove its head."

HEAD ON BED

Windy's head was lying on the bed contemplating the ceiling when Ron entered. He scampered to spread the bad news! "Mom! Windy's sick."

* * *

Paul and one of his dummies are apt to turn up almost anywhere — "except in a nightclub," he says. "I don't mind the places, but I don't like to work a steady two-a-day, and the hours are difficult."

He opens supermarkets, gives lectures to club audiences and turns up at private parties. He told a distinguished guest once: "your stomach sticks out."

"Yes, I'm afraid I'll have to diet," the other acknowledged.

Windy shook his head. "No matter what color you use," he said, "it isn't going to do any good."

Servicewomen Get Major Promotions

WASHINGTON (UPI) —, The Navy and Air Force have announced major appointments in their women's ranks.

The Navy said yesterday that, for the first time in its history, a women on active duty is being promoted to the rank of captain, equal to colonel in the other services. She is Cmdr. Mary F. Keener, a native of Atalla, Ala., an authority on aviation medicine.

The Air Force announced that Lt. Col. Jeanne M. Holm, a native of Portland, Ore., will succeed retiring Col. Elizabeth Ray as director of women in the Air Force.

The northeastern part of the country is suffering for the third consecutive year from insufficient rainfall.

Airlines Move Ahead

Heavy Trading Boosts Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was irregularly higher early this afternoon. Selected issues were heavily traded.

Airlines moved ahead as a group. Also generally higher were electronics, chemicals, drugs and tobaccos.

Steels, building materials and aerospace issues were mixed.

Wall Street seemed to have settled down completely from the nervousness shown early yesterday on news that President Johnson is about to undergo surgery.

OPTIMISM HOLDS

Optimism about the outcome of the President's operation was apparent from the start as traders gave a busy whirl to a number of recent favorites. Some of these calmed down considerably as their prices drifted below their best in the afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 345.5 with industrials up .7, rails up .3 and utilities up .2.

Du Pont's recovery of nearly 3 points from its loss of yesterday helped bolster the averages. On the other hand, recently-strong General Electric and Westinghouse Electric were about unchanged, along with such pivotal stocks as Standard Oil (New Jersey), General Motors, U.S. Steel and American Telephone.

Prices were mostly higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Up about 2 were Bohack and Molybdenum. Gains of a point or so were made by Kilembe Copper, Kleer-Vu, Puritan Fashions, American Book and Head Ski. General Stores and Syntex were among fractional gainers. Down fractionally were Dorr-Oliver, Brazilian Traction and Anglo-Lautaro "A".

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds staged a strong advance.

Amish School Order Given

State Education Unit Says Obey or Close

LANSING (AP)—Leaders of a small Amish community near Camden were told Wednesday their one-room school will be closed unless they accept a state-certified teacher.

The State Board of Education voted unanimously to order Alexander Kloster, acting state superintendent of public instruction, "to proceed to apply the law" in the case. Six of the eight board members were present for the vote.

The religious sect does not believe in education beyond the eighth grade. The school is attended by 23 children from the Amish farming community.

Community leaders previously rejected a compromise proposal offered by the board.

PART OF DISTRICT

This plan would have made the school a part of the Camden-Frontier School District and provided a certified teacher free of charge to teach basic subjects.

The present teacher, Ruth Graber, 20, would have been permitted to remain in the school throughout the day and to teach religion and other subjects of interest to the Amish. A member of the Amish community, she does not have a teaching certificate.

Assistant State Attorney Eugene Krasicky said several legal steps would have to be taken before the school can be closed.

A hearing first must be held to establish the Amish are not in compliance with the law by refusing to accept a state-certified teacher. A date for the hearing has not yet been set.

ALLOWED 60 DAYS

If they are found not in compliance, the Amish must be given up to 60 days to comply with the law.

Krasicky said it is likely volunteer attorneys for the religious group will take the case to the courts for a test.

Honeymoon Ending for LBJ and Business

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK—President Johnson's hospital stay comes just as the first rifts are sighted in the aura of good will between White House and business.

DAWSON

The threatened splits are over: first, rising interest rates, and second, increased investment of American business abroad.

★ ★ ★

The President would like interest rates to stay as low as possible to encourage further economic growth. Bankers have been raising some borrowing charges because demands for loans are mounting and the money market has been getting tighter.

The President wants business to keep dollars at home and hold down its overseas spending. Most corporations have been doing this, on a voluntary basis. But the total of new American investments abroad is higher this year than last. Businessmen say that most of the financing of this accelerated expansion has been done through foreign channels — dollars stayed home.

SIGNS OF CONFLICT

In neither case has the conflict between the White House and business and financial circles become open. But there are signs of growing disagreement.

Bankers have been raising interest rates on a selective basis for some time. They have left the prime rate alone because this basic interest rate, or symbol, is dear to President Johnson's heart.

★ ★ ★

The 4½ per cent prime rate for loans to the biggest and most creditworthy borrowers has been in effect since August 1960. But bankers admit that of late fewer customers are being given this status rating.

Most loans are at higher rates, scaled according to the applicant's credit standing, and influenced by whether the money market is easy or tight at the moment.

GETTING TIGHTER

Money has been getting tighter as demand for business loans rise. Yields on outstanding government and corporate bonds have been rising. Bankers have been urging that the prime rate itself be allowed to rise.

And from time to time, bankers discuss the chance of the Federal Reserve Board raising its discount rate — the charge the bankers themselves pay when they borrow. When the discount rate goes up, the prime rate usually does, too — and all the other rates go a little higher.

The Federal Reserve has been holding the discount rate at 4 per cent. White House disapproval of any increase in this rate would be strong. The President wants the economy to go on expanding, and he feels that tight money, or costlier borrowing, would make that difficult to achieve.

The American Bankers Association says overt pressure by the government to hold down interest rates could react and actually curb economic expansion for the long term.

TO OPPOSE HIKE

The status of the conflict as the President goes to the hospital seems to be that the White House will oppose any across-the-board hike in rates, especially the symbolic prime rate, but probably will wink at selective increases. Thus the bankers can continue to charge more interest to most customers while maintaining the 4½ per cent prime rate, which fewer borrowers can get.

The bankers also want the government to raise the 4¼ per cent ceiling on long-term treasury bonds if it hopes to find buyers for new issues. They think only in this way can new projects of the government be financed. The White House has been thinking differently.

★ ★ ★

That's just another of the many problems the President may take with him to Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Credit Expansion Credited

Cadillac Output to Exceed '64

Cadillac will end 1965 with approximately 187,000 units, up 14 per cent over 1964, it was revealed at the 1966 Cadillac preview yesterday.

Harold G. Warner, Cadillac general manager, said production expansion at the plant had raised the number of cars per hour from 42 to 50.

Cadillac added a new model to its Fleetwood series for 1966.

The new model is the Brougham, distinguished by a vinyl padded roof and special moldings. It was offered last year as an option of the Fleetwood Sixty Special sedan.

★ ★ ★

Body changes were unveiled for the Seventy-five and Cadillac limousine series.

THREE SERIES

The firm displayed Calais, De-Ville and Fleetwood series which retain the same dimensions as 1965 models but feature restyled grilles and rear ends and greater attention to comfort and ease of driving.

"A significant improvement in driving ease has been accomplished in our new models with the introduction of Cadillac's variable ratio steering," Warner said.

The variable ratio steering "requires fewer turns of the steering wheel, making it easier to park and maneuver in traffic," he said.

The restyled grilles retain the Cadillac "cross-hatch" design of recent years. Headlamps, mounted vertically, have frames painted in body color instead of finished in chrome. The redesigned rear bumper, which houses the license plate, uses less chrome, with its lower half painted in body color.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "My husband passed away, leaving me with stock in American Telephone, Commonwealth Edison and Northern Illinois Gas. I have been told it would be better to sell and put the money in a savings bank at 4¼ per cent interest. What do you advise?"
T. G.

A) The stocks which he left you are among the best in the entire list for growth and moderate income. I should dislike to see you dispose of these shares because they offer a very definite protection against further inflation, which seems inevitable to me if the Viet Nam war continues to escalate. If you require more income, you must of course sell your stocks, but I would put only half the proceeds into the savings bank. I would divide the balance between Atchison Rwy. stock, yielding five per cent and Maytag, selling on a 4.25 per cent basis exclusive of past, generous extras.

Milliken Says Record Low in Joblessness Due

Speaking at the dedication of a new Price Brothers Co. plant in Independence Township today, Lt. Gov. William Milliken predicted unemployment in this area will soon hit a record low.

Milliken said figures soon to be released would show unemployment in Detroit and the rest of the state had dipped to 2.6 per cent.

★ ★ ★

He said the figures were the lowest since the Michigan Employment Security Commission began keeping records in 1956.

The new plant manufactures concrete pressure pipe and employs 350 persons.

It expects to hire about 70 more people.

Jacoby on Bridge

By JACOBY AND SON

For once the bidding went the same way at both tables in board 36 of the match between Italy and America.

JACOBY

Each South player chose to open with one spade in spite of holding only 10 high card points and each declarer wound up at three spades.

Off-hand it would appear that while three spades is not the safest contract in the world it should make easily, due to the favorable location of the king of clubs and the queen of hearts.

Curiously enough Italy made four odd. The American declarer went down one at his part score contract.

The American West opened the deuce of trumps. South won in his hand and led the deuce of clubs. The defense cashed two diamonds and led a second trump whereupon the Italian declarer was able to set up clubs to discard three hearts.

★

Now let's see what happened to the American declarer. Did he play badly? We don't think so. It seems that Avarelli of Italy opened the lack of clubs against the three-spade contract. It never occurred to South that Avarelli would have led away from the ace of clubs so he played low in the hope that East would have to play his ace either on that first club lead or a second one.

Now West shifted to the two of spades. Declarer won with the jack, entered dummy with the queen, ruffed a club, drew trumps and went after the heart suit.

President Captured in Relaxed Mood by Cartoonist

BY JIM BERRY
NEA Cartoonist

President Johnosn presented a picture of relaxed confidence and calm when I visited him at his Texas ranch to make sketches shortly before his decision to undergo surgery.

There was no hint of the gallbladder distress which caused him to consult surgeons and to my eye as I drew him he was the picture of robust health.

Here's what I saw and heard at the LBJ Ranch shortly before Johnson returned to Washington and made the announcement if his impending operation.

The voice on the loudspeaker boomed: "How soon can they have lunch on the table?"

★ ★ ★

The voice was that of President Johnson — and when it sounded on the intercom, lunch was hustled onto the table pronto.

RANCH ENVIRONMENT

I was there to do sketches of the President and his ranch environment. As I sketched his desk I heard voices coming up the walk to the house.

In a few moments Mrs. Johnosn and a group of people came in, talking and laughing.

Mrs. Johnson asked me: "Are you the Mr. Berry who does Berry's World?" I said I was.

★ ★ ★

The President came in through another door. He shook my hand warmly, then went over and sat down.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

His legislative counsel, Jake Jacobsen, told him I hadn't come to interview him, just to sketch and the President sighed and said, "Good."

Jacobsen showed him the sketches I had been making around the house and the President said, "Do you want me to sign these?" He wrote "To Jim Berry — with high regard."

Mrs. Johnson announced luncheon was served. To my surprise I was asked to stay for lunch and Johnson said it would be all right if I drew during the meal.

★ ★ ★

One of the girl secretaries was asked to say grace. With a twinkle, the President suggested she say a good grace because she was out late the night before.

READY TO ACT

MAIN DISH

The main dish was fried ham. "From right here off the ranch," Johnson told me.

★ ★ ★

The President had soup. He held the bowl close to his mouth and ate the soup with a spoon.

PIPED-IN MUSIC

The President wanted to know what happened to the music. Some fellow had come over and installed piped-in music and now it seemed he wasn't allowed to hear it.

Jacobsen quickly saw to it that the background music was flowing from the speakers.

Johnson wanted salt. He didn't see it, so he called a waiter over and gave him explicit instructions to have salt on the table and — pointing his finger — "right here."

★ ★ ★

After lunch the party began to break up and I asked the President if I should leave.

SAT ON COUCH

"No," he said, "come on into the livin' room."

I sat on a couch and he sat on a reclining chair across the room. He sat back in relaxed fashion silent for a time, then he came over and stood in front of the coffee table, planted his feet, hitched up his pants and addressed me:

"This country is more unified now than I've ever known it to be in all the years I've lived in it."

I didn't know whether protocol called for a cartoonist to sit or rise when the President of the United States made a speech to him but I stood up.

He went on:

"We've got big business tycoons (here he mentioned names) talking to labor leaders like (and he named union leaders). We've got Catholics talkin' to people of the Jewish faith.

'REAL TOUGH'

"I tell 'em we're all together. We can make it real tough on each other or we can pull together and have a better life."

Abruptly the President stopped philosophizing and asked, "Do you work from photographs?" I said they were useful for background and that I had a large file of pictures in my office in Cleveland with the label "Lyndon." He chuckled.

He called Jacobsen and instructed him to get certain pictures for me. One of these was a photograph of Norman Rockwell's fine portrait of Johnson.

★ ★ ★

"What do you think of that?" the President asked.

LIKED PORTRAIT

He said Lady Bird liked it but he thought maybe it didn't make him look tough enough. I could tell though that he really liked the portrait.

He asked Jacobsen if I'd had a chance to see the outside of the house and when told I hadn't he said "C'mon, Jim" and led me toward the pool. I had a feeling I was in a movie and that cameras must be dollying behind us.

A fine rain was falling but we strolled and chatted and I sketched until the sketch paper got too wet to use.

★ ★ ★

"Is there anything more you want of me?" Johnson asked finally.

HIGHLY REWARDING

I told him that my visit had been highly rewarding. We went back to the house where Lady Bird, in red slacks and brown boots, was looking at fabrics and designs in the office.

We shook hands and I got into the car that was waiting for me.

As the car went down the road from the ranch I realized that I had witnessed a rare thing, President Johnson in a few hours of complete relaxation. But even then he gave an awesome impression of power and control.

★ ★ ★

Everything was at his fingertips — lunch, music, salt, everything. And it seemed to me that he had been used to having it that way for a long time.

Trawler Haul Is Live Bomb

Fish Net Brings In Old Antisub Device

CAPE HENRY, Va. (UPI) — A live bomb dredged from the ocean by a fishing trawler was disarmed early today after posing a threat to the boat and its 20-man crew.

The three-foot long device was plucked from the sea with a fishing net, in an area known as "torpedo junction" in which an explosion recently shattered the trawler Snoopy killing eight crewmen. The Snoopy is believed to have snagged a torpedo in its nets.

The bomb was hauled onto the deck of the Lady Anna last night about 63 miles east of here in the Atlantic. It was disarmed by a Navy demolition crew which boarded the Canadian trawler at Chesapeake Light Tower.

The Coast Guard cutter Cherokee radioed shortly before dawn today that the demolition team removed the fuse of the bomb and planned to jettison it in an area where the Atlantic is 6,000 feet deep.

★ ★ ★

The Lady Anna, from Weymouth, N.S. fished the bomb up while working with a fleet of 22 vessels. The area was less than 20 miles from the spot where the Snoopy was blown up July 23 by what was believed to have been a torpedo.

THREE-FOOT BOMB

The trawler's captain, Guy d'Entremont, reported that the bomb was three feet long, 14 inches in diameter, had a blunt nose and fins.

The Navy demolition men identified the bomb as an air-dropped U.S. antisubmarine bomb. The Navy said the area where the Lady Anna netted the bomb had been used as a practice bombing range by U.S. military aircraft.

The Cherokee reported to 5th District Coast Guard headquarters that the demolition team boarded the trawler and "found (it) to be a bomb with fuse in armed condition.

★ ★ ★

"Fuse was removed and the bomb placed aboard Cherokee for return to 1,000-fathom curve to jettison."

DUMMY MINE

About two weeks after the sinking of the Snoopy, a dummy mine was picked up in the same area by nets of the trawler New Bedford. A demolition team found the weapon was harmless.

The area became known as "torpedo junction" during World War II because of the large number of ship sinkings. In a six-month period of 1942, 107 Allied ships were sunk in the area by German submarines.

Among the present population 25 years and over, 44.8 per cent are high school graduates and another 8.8 per cent are college graduates.

Report Ruby Prosecutor to Get U.S. Post

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Herald Tribune said today that President Johnson plans to appoint Dallas attorney Henry M. Wade to a federal judgeship.

The newspaper said in a Washington dispatch by Andrew J. Glass that Wade will succeed U.S. Dist. Judge T. Whitfield Davidson. who plans to retire Nov. 1. "Congressional sources" were cited as the basis of the report.

★ ★ ★

Wade interrogated Lee Harvey Oswald, President John F. Kennedy's assassin, and later prosecuted Jack Ruby as Oswald's killer.

Wade was the subject of criticism in the Warren Commission report on the assassination for his handling of Oswald.

'MADE ERRORS'

The report said that Wade, at a news conference while Oswald was being held. "lacked a thorough grasp of the evidence and made a number of errors."

The Herald Tribune said Wade was closely associated with President Johnson while the President was a Texas senator and while he was vice president.

Congo Troops Kill 115 Rebels

Foreign-Made Arms Captured From Reds

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Congolese troops wiped out more than 100 rebel soldiers concentrated for an attack on the government bridgehead at Baraka on Lake Tanganyika, an army spokesman said today.

The government forces razed a village about two miles from Baraka and killed 115 rebels massed there. The Communist insurgent commander, a major, was among the dead.

The spokesman said white mercenaries under Dublin-born Lt. Col. Michael (Mad Mike) Hoare made a surprise landing at Baraka on Sept. 27, establishing a bridgehead in the back of the last rebel stronghold in eastern Congo.

Several rebel attacks were beaten off before the government troops counterattacked and wiped out the Communists. A number of foreign-made weapons, including Chinese bazookas, were captured.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile on the political battlefield the recently - formed opposition Congolese Democratic Front (FDC) demanded the resignation of Premier Moise Tshombe's transitional government.

INTERIOR MINISTER

Former Interior Minister Celphas Kamitatu, FDC spokesman, urged Tshombe to quit as he had promised last Arpil and to name an "informateur" (kingmaker) who would seek to form a "government of national union" from among various factions.

★ ★ ★

Tshombe's Conaco party has a majority in the lower house of Parliament but opposition forces —many of them elected last week—control the Senate.

After 26-Hour Cave Ordeal

Thought I Was Goner, Says Freed Boy

MEDINA, Ohio (AP) — A 15-year-old boy trapped nearly 26 hours in a viselike crevice inside a cave said today, "I didn't think they were going to get me out."

The boy, Morris Baetzold, said he almost had been caught in the cave on an earlier trip there.

★ ★ ★

"I thought I was done for sure this time," Baetzold told newsmen from the hospital bed where he was taken after his rescue Wednesday. He spent his ordeal pinned face down 60 feet inside the cave, once used as a hiding place for fugitive slaves during the Civil War.

Soon after his rescue, engineers began blasting shut the mouth of the sandstone tunnel to seal it.

FIRST VISIT

The boy said he first visited the cave last summer. Tuesday he went there again with a party from the Methodist Children's Home where he lives. This time he crawled into a narrow dead-end passageway.

"I had edged around two big boulders when I slipped and fell into the crevice," he said. He yelled to other boys nearby that he was trapped and they went for help.

★ ★ ★

At first, efforts to pry or pull him free failed. Finally, a 15-year-old Boy Scout wiggled three times into the tiny tunnel to tie ropes and straps around Baetzold's body so he could be lifted and tugged free.

Doctors said Baetzold had minor cuts and bruises and was suffering from exhaustion, but was in good condition although he was without food or water throughout the ordeal.

'FEELING FINE'

"He says he is feeling fine," said his father, Raymond Baetzold.

Morris went exploring the cave at Whipps Ledges near Hinckley with companions Tuesday. He crawled into a V-shaped crevice and got stuck, about 60 feet from the mouth of the cave and 35 feet underground.

★ ★ ★

Cave experts, including a seven-man team summoned from Washington, D.C., praised the rescue work of Mike Ulrich, a Boy Scout from North Royalton, Ohio.

"He went into that cave at 9:30 a.m. and stayed until noon," said one rescuer.

Mike had help from Curtis Peck, 26, of Akron, but it was Mike who crawled three times to the 5-foot-7, 110-pound youngster and looped straps and ropes around his body so rescuers would lift him out.

At one time, Morris said, "I don't think you'll ever get me out." But rescuers, who could get close enough to speak and barely touch him, kept up a running conversation so he would stay alert.

★ ★ ★

His spirits didn't sag and often he asked how he could help. Sometimes workers deliberately provoked him to keep him awake.

"I've never seen a boy with so much guts in my life," said Jim Lea, one of the rescue party. Lea said the youth never panicked.

CROWD CHEERS

He was carried from the cave on a stretcher and the crowd of about 200 spectators, rescuers and newsmen cheered.

Various rescue methods had failed and the experts needed a small person who could get to Morris and attach the ropes. Mike, a 5-foot-5, 120-pound high school sophomore, filled the bill.

"The boy didn't say much when I was working with him," Mike said. "But he asked for a doctor once." Rescuers had been unable to feed Morris because he was stuck head-first in the crevice.

★ ★ ★

"By pulling the ropes attached to his legs and body at the same time they were able to lift the boy out," Mike said.

★ ★ ★

Baetzold, of Cleveland, hadn't seen his son for a year and said the boy greeted him at the hospital with, "How are you, dad?"

It was an accident that brought Morris to Whipps Ledges.

★ ★ ★

He and 15 other boys who live at the Children's Methodist Home in Berea, near Cleveland, started out to visit a historical site in New Philadelphia, Ohio. Their bus had a flat tire near Whipps Ledges and the three teachers with the boys decided to take them to the rocks, a popular hiking spot 20 miles south of Cleveland.

Boys Hunted After 2 Slain

CHESHIRE, Conn. (AP) — An intensive search was under way today for Roger Beaudry Jr., 15, and a 14-year-old friend, wanted for questioning in the slaying of Roger's mother and sister.

The youngsters were believed to be carrying two shotguns and two rifles.

★ ★ ★

An alarm was out and roadblocks were set up throughout Connecticut. The boys disappeared Wednesday night along with $800 in cash and a 1956 gray and white oldsmobile owned by the Beaudry family.

★ ★ ★

The slayings were discovered by Roger Beaudry Sr., who came home from his job at a trucking company to find his wife Ella, 42, and his daughter, Roberta, 11, dead on the living room floor.

CALLED POLICE

Beaudry called police at 11:50 p.m. and said, "I just found my wife and daughter dead!"

Police sped to the Beaudry home. Soon George McCann of Prospect arrived, looking for his son, James, 14, who hadn't been home since early in the evening.

Police broadcast an alarm for the missing boys.

CARRY OUT YOUTH — Rescue workers carried 15-year-old Morris Baetzold from Wilcat Cave near Medina, Ohio, yesterday after he had spent more than 25 hours wedged head-first in a tight crevice. Young Baetzold was taken to a hospital where his condition was described as fair.

SHE'S ENGAGED—Actress Patty Duke, 18, is engaged to television director Harry G. Falk Jr. of New York City. They met two years ago when he was an assistant director of "The Patty Duke Show." No date has been set for their wedding.

Patty Shuns Illness, Talks About Fiance

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD — "Can I tell you about my engagement?" asked Patty Duke.

THOMAS

"But I came to hear about your appendectomy," I protested.

She insisted on talking about her engagement, which I thought at first was some kind of joke or something. This is the same Patty Duke who told me a year ago that she didn't expect to marry for a long, long time.

"Yes, I know I said that," she admitted. "But women have been known to change their minds."

NO HOAX

Indeed they have. And it was evident from the glow in Patty's eyes that she was not trying to put over a hoax on a gullible reporter. She happily reported the facts:

* * *

Her husband-to-be is Harry G. Falk Jr., 32, a production aide on "The Trials of O'Brien" which stars Peter Falk, no relation. He is a New Yorker whose parents live in Brooklyn; Harry Sr. is a set worker on "Candid Camera." Harry Jr. has been married and divorced, no children.

How did Patty meet her fiance?

* * *

"Harry worked on the (Patty Duke) show during the first season," the TV star explained. "I had this mad crush for him and everybody knew about it. Harry, too. But I was still a kid to him; I was only 16."

Falk moved to the ill-fated "Reporter" last year, and he and Patty sometimes dated or attended parties on either of the shows. Patty turned 18 and was no longer a kid.

Last summer, Patty moved west to make the movie, "Billie," and to begin the filming of her third TV season. Harry remained in New York, but that didn't interrupt their courtship.

"I had to go to New York — to visit my family, of course," said Patty, whose mother and married sister live in the East. "And Harry and I talked on the telephone — oh, how we talked! I mean like five times a day, before 6 p.m.

* * *

"Our conversations would last anywhere from 45 minutes to two and a half hours. I won't tell you what our phone bills have been. It's gotten so that we can't afford not to get married."

* * *

The geographical problem will be solved in January when Harry moves west to become the director of "The Patty Duke Show."

DIDN'T HELP

"I didn't help him get the job," she declared. "It was all between him and our producer, Bob Sweeney."

Patty hopes for another two years of the TV series. She is committed for a pair of movies as well.

* * *

I finally got around to the appendectomy.

"Oh, yes," she said. "Let's see, it was two weeks ago when I got this terrible pain in my side. They rushed me from the studio to the hospital, where they found out my appendix had burst. Want to know the first face I saw when I got back to my room after the operation?"

Gemini Team in Rehearsal

All Systems Ready for Test Countdown

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The men and machines for the ambitious Gemini 6 space rendezvous mission faced a test countdown today to set the stage for an unprecedented dual launching later this month.

Two rockets, one carrying the two-man Gemini ship and the other bearing its Agena target rocket, were primed to go through a countdown set to stop just seconds short of actal blast-off.

Astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Staffod, the pilots who will attempt the two-satellite meeting and hookup, planned to participate in the exercise as if it were the real thing.

The rehearsal took on special significance because it was designed to see if the precise timing and coordination needed for the twin launchings has been perfected.

And it was a test of all the intricate systems in the Gemini spacecraft, its two-stage Titan-2 rocket, and in the Agena target and its silvery Atlas booster.

UNCOVER PROBLEMS

A multitude of communications problems were uncovered in a preliminary simultaneous countdown test July 22, but Gemini officials expected the problems to be eliminated today.

According to present plans, the Agena target rocket will be launched at 10 a.m. EST on Oct. 25. If it reaches the proper orbit, Schirra and Stafford will follow atop their Titan-2 precisely 100 minutes and 45 seconds later, if the countdown goes without a hitch.

An on-time Gemini launch would allow Schirra and Stafford to catch up with the Agena on their fourth swing around the globe. Officials say the launch can be delayed up to five minutes and the fourth orbit rendezvous can still be made.

But any further slips in the Gemini launch would delay the historic space meeting.

If the Gemini blast-off missed its ideal time by more than 25 minutes, the rendezvous would be more complicated. The rocket engine aboard the Agena would have to be used to help close the gap between it and the Gemini.

If countdown "hold" pushed the Gemini launch about two hours and 25 minutes past the normal time, the Agena would be out of reach that day and the Gemini shot would have to be tried again the next day.

Missilemen have three out of the following four days to launch the Gemini and still achieve a rendezvous. If the spacecraft missed the final launch opportunity, the mission would be a failure.

House Sharply Divided

Beautification Bill Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's bill to ban billboards and junk yards on most of the nation's highways comes up today in a sharply divided House.

An intensive lobbying effort by the administration is expected to produce a narrow margin for the bill when the voting begins, probably Friday.

* * *

Despite the strong endorsement of both President Johnson and Mrs. Johnson the bill has had rough treatment on its way to the House floor. It also met strong opposition in the Senate on certain features before being passed 63-14 last month.

The bill would require states to establish effective billboard and junk yard controls by Jan. 1, 1968, or lose 10 per cent of their federal highway construction funds—now running about $3 million a year.

UNTIL 1970

Operators would have until 1970 to remove signs and to screen or move junk yards covered by the bill and would be compensated for the loss of their property, with the federal government paying 75 per cent and the states the rest.

Another feature would provide up to $120 million a year to the states to enhance the scenic beauty along federal-aid highways.

* * *

The bill would authorize $330 million for two years, but the program's total cost wouldn't be known until the 1970 deadline was reached.

Republican opponents of the bill have prepared 16 amendments but are expected to direct their heaviest attacks against the administration's tactics in moving the bill through a reluctant public works committee.

DIRECT APPEALS

Mrs. Johnson is reported to have made direct telephone appeals for action to Chairman George H. Fallon, D-Md., and Rep. John C. Kluczynski, D-Ill., chairman of the subcommittee that handled the bill. White House and Commerce Department aides were in constant attendance as the committee processed the bill.

Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., senior Republican on the committee, has charged the administration with using "brute force" to get a bill, and contended that the integrity of Congress is at stake.

* * *

The bill escaped from the rules committee by a 7-6 vote only because two members hostile to it were absent. Early this week a poll by the leadership indicated it lacked enough support to pass.

* * *

But the White House legislative team headed by Postmaster General-designate Lawrence F. O'Brien has been hard at work all week. At a leadership conference Wednesday, it was reported that a close victory was assured.

Death Is 'Dog-Gone' Elegant at Elaborate Pet Cemetery

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Memorial plantings of evergreen, poplar, dogwood, cherry and crab apple abound on the 11 acres of Bonheur Memorial Gardens.

At one spot, a carefully tuned babbling brook tumbles over tons of precisely stacked rocks.

* * *

At another, a Garden of the East has a moon bridge, decorative stones of imported lava, and a seated Buddha.

Bonheur Memorial Gardens is a pet cemetery — the final resting place for 7,200 dogs, cats, parakeets, monkeys, squirrels and other animals.

ORCHESTRA MUSIC

Next spring, as a permanent improvement, muted orchestral music from hidden speakers will be wafted across the shaded glen alongside U.S. 1 between Baltimore and Washington.

An eight-foot waterfall cascading into three miniature lakes also will be ready by then. Gas fed into the pools will bubble to the surface and be set afire at appropriate moments in a spectacular display of "burning water."

* * *

The cemetery is divided into lots of 4- by 8-feet, with four graves to each lot. Pet owners buy as much space as they need, often in advance.

"They buy here when they don't have graves for themselves," says H. S. Potee, 60, owner of Bonheur. "They're more concerned for their pets than themselves."

GRAVE MARKERS

Bronze plaques set flush with the green turf mark the graves. They bear sentimental inscriptions composed by the family. Many have red and gold holders for seven-day candles.

"Pretty Boy Boyer," a parakeet with a vocabulary of 1,000 words, is buried beneath the words, "Bye, bye, Mommy, see you later," a phrase he chirped whenever his owner left the room.

* * *

Candles at his grave are lighted four times a year — at Christmas and Easter, and at the pet's birth date and date of death.

"We have one light (on another grave) that has never been out for the past 2½ years," says Potee. "The candle burns perpetually. It will always be lit."

BURIAL COSTS

Burial costs at Bonheur range from $85 to $1,800, sometimes including flowers or photographs.

Caskets range from simple oak shells covered with lambskin cloth to elaborate vault and coffin combinations of concrete covered with cut velvet. Some include a foam rubber pad, satin plush blankets and pillows, and velvet lining.

For the $1,800 funeral, the pet's casket is enclosed in a solid lead vault that is sealed with flame.

Dem Urges Tax Scale for Disabled Vets

LANSING (AP) — A Senate Democrat threw a surprise at veterans' officials Wednesday with a call for a veterans property tax exemption scaled to disability.

The proposal by Sen. John Bowman, D-Roseville, came at a Senate Taxation Committee hearing on a House-approved bill increasing the exemption from $2,000 in state-equalized valuation to $3,500.

Bowman proposed instead that veterans with 20 per cent or less disability have their valuation exemptions increased only to $2,500, that those with 21 to 40 per cent disability get a $3,000 exemption, 41-60 per cent $3,500, 61-80 per cent $4,000 and 81-100 per cent $4,500.

He said: "A guy with a 10 per cent disability shouldn't get the same break as a guy with 100 per cent."

Text book sales in the U. S. mushroomed from $173 million in 1953 to $475 million in 1963.

Pari-mutuel taxes, measured by amounts bet at race tracks, are collected by 26 states.

Actress Had Trust Fund, Will Reveals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Clara Bow left an estate exceeding $20,000 but also had established a trust fund of more substantial proportions, says her attorney.

Miss Bow died Sept. 27. She was 59.

* * *

Atty. Howard B. Henshey, who filed her will for probate Wednesday, said her personal belongings and mementos of her silent movie career were bequeathed to her sons, Rex A. Beldam, 30, of Reno, Nev., and George Frances Beldam, 27, of Las Vegas, Nev.

* * *

Henshey said the will specified that the remainder of the estate was to be sold and the money added to a trust fund created for Miss Bow's benefit in 1929. Henshey said although the will did not name the sons as beneficiaries of the trust fund, he assumed they would be.

They were the sons of her marriage to the late Rex Bell, former actor and onetime lieutenant governor of Nevada. His real name was Beldam.

State Changes Insurance Rule

LANSING (AP) — The state has dropped a rule that state employes driving their personal cars on state business must carry at least $25,000 and $50,000 personal liability insurance.

The rule was aimed at bringing state employes using personal autos under the state's fleet liability coverage for judgments in excess of the $25,000 and $50,000, limits on personal auto policies.

A number of state employes, however, was unable or unwilling to carry the mandatory insurance protection and the State Administrative Board changed the rule and made the liability insurance optional.

Under the new rule, those with the specified coverage will be protected under the state's fleet insurance and those without it will drive their personal autos on state business at their own risk, the board said.

Alarms Down in Waterford

The number of fires handled by the Waterford Township Fire Department this year is still running far behind the pace set in 1964.

The first nine months this year, 393 fires were covered by the department, compared with 565 for the same period last year.

However, direct fire loss through September last year totaled $120,247, against $188,875 for the first nine months this year.

Last month, 28 fires were handled by the department, compared with 30 in August and 29 the previous September.

* * *

There were 46 alarms answered last month, compared with 56 in August and 52 last September.

Altogether, 602 alarms have been answered to date this year, against 752 for the same period last year.

New Copter-Plane Planned by Lockheed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Lockheed-California Co. today announced plans to build an aircraft that will take off like a helicopter, stop its rotor blades and fold them, and fly on as a 500-mile-per-hour fixed-wing plane.

★ ★ ★

Engineers of the company, a division of Lockheed Aircraft Corp., said the speed of the fold-back rotor aircraft would be double that of the fastest conventional helicopter now in use.

Judge Allows Pictures From Court Hallway

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Municipal Court Judge Clark Olmsted permitted news pictures to be taken through a door window from a hallway outside his court room during a felony case Wednesday.

The judge rejected a defense motion protesting that Station WKZO-TV was permitted to make pictures through the window. Olmsted said his jurisdiction did not include the hallway.

New Film Star Bares Facts on Insufficiency of Nudity

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Carol Lynley, the pretty blonde with the nudist tendencies, is being congratulated for proving herself an excellent dramatic actress in "Bunny Lake Is Missing," the Otto Preminger film in which she didn't take anything off . . . not even the afternoon.

WILSON

"I always get up from my seat during a picture to call my office and check on what's new in the world," I was able to tell Carol and Preminger honestly. "But this was so full of suspense, I could never leave my seat."

Carol, celebrating the successful premiere later at Arthur, with writer Tom Ryan, said she's done, she hopes, "playing cartoons and caricatures . . . girls who don't exist and never existed . . . they're all right to play when you're 15 but not when you're 23!"

Not that she's foregoing sexy roles: "Sex is here to stay," she feels. "I would never wear a topless bathing suit," she continued, "not so much for moralistic reasons as because you would get such a funny looking sun tan. But as for going nude, I repeat, what's all the excitement about? It's only skin."

In honor of Pope Paul's visit, I went to three Catholic Masses Sunday . . . first to Our Lady of Perpetual Help, 323 E. 61st St., almost under the 59th St. bridge, where the priests speak seven languages (I was a little late there) . . . then to that beautiful little gem, the new Holy Family Church, 315 E. 47th St., near the UN, visited later by the Pope (every seat was taken and there were about 20 standees besides me) . . . then on to famous St. Patrick's.

There the speaker said that the Pope will seek peace at high levels but the rest of us should try to make peace in our homes, our offices and our communities, and not look down on our neighbors.

Senate OKs Osteopath College Bill

Surgery Nears for Busy LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Johnson packed with ceremonies and speeches today a day that will end in a hospital bed, just one month after he first felt the paid of a defective gallbladder.

Tomorrow morning, surgeons will remove the faulty organ at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

But today, Johnson seemed determined to show that his ailment is not slowing his presidential pace.

Three ceremonial signings and two speeches were on the schedule before Johnson leaves the White House for the 17-story hospital in suburban Maryland.

He will be there 10 to 14 days.

★ ★ ★

His schedule includes:

● The signing of a bill to provide federal grants for water and sanitation facilities in rural communities, complete with a speech before congressmen and federal officials, in what has become an almost daily routine.

● Designation of White Cane Safety Day.

● Proclamation of a Day of Prayer. "This is an annual thing, incidentally," said assistant White House press secretary Joseph Laitin, "that there's nothing particularly significant about."

SCHEDULED SPEECHES

Johnson is scheduled to make speeches at the White House before delegates to a symposium on water desalination, and at a salute to Congress in the State Department Auditorium.

He also scheduled an afternoon telephone call to a wounded veteran of the war in Viet Nam. The soldier is Sgt. Thomas Thompson, whose wife lives in Brea, Calif.

Johnson will go to the salute to the 89th Congress with Mrs. Johnson early this evening.

★ ★ ★

It is to be followed by a congressional reception at the White House, but Laitin said Johnson probably will not attend that.

TO STAY IN SUITE

Sometime later tonight President and Mrs. Johnson will head for the hospital, probably by automobile.

★ ★ ★

No time has been announced for Johnson's admission to the hospital, or for the operation itself.

Luna to Make Soft Landing?

Soviet Rocket to Hit Moon Surface Today

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet moon rocket Luna 7 took dead aim at the lunar surface today amid growing speculation a soft landing was planned.

The feat would be a first in unmanned space shots.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, announced that the 3,000-pound package of instruments was "functioning normally" and would reach the moon at 1:08 a.m. Moscow time tomorrow (5:08 p.m. Pontiac time today.)

"Communication with the probe is stable," Tass said. "There have been 12 communication periods since the start of the flight. The trajectory of the station's flight is close to the planned."

Although the Soviets did not spell out the exact mission of the project or flatly say that a soft landing was planned, the general belief here was that such an attempt would be made.

Luna 7 was launched last Monday.

Two previous shots in the Luna series hit the moon, but both made hard landings.

Showers Will Stay a Spell

The weatherman decided to send showers instead of sunshine today and possibly tomorrow.

This morning, he reported light rain or showers for tonight and tomorrow; partly cloudy and mild Saturday.

Temperatures will continue mild, the low falling into the 50s tonight and rising to 62 to 68 tomorrow.

Winds southerly at eight to 16 miles per hour will be about the same tonight.

Fifty-two was the low recording prior to 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. The mercury registered 58 at 1 p.m.

PLAN CONSTRUCTION—Pontiac Motor Division will construct a new administration building (A) on a two-block site south of its engineering building on Joslyn. Two additions (B) to the engineering building were announced earlier this year. The new administration building and the engineering building will be interconnected with an enclosed walkway. Cross-hatched areas show new parking locations, which will provide 800 parking spaces for employes in the new administration building and 550 parking spaces for engineering building employes.

Adjourn Exams for 7 in Raid

Trial for 22 Others Delayed Until Oct. 28

Municipal Court examination of seven persons arrested early last Saturday in Pontiac on charges including bribery, conspiracy to bribe and violating state gaming laws were adjourned yesterday until Tuesday.

The seven, arrested in a raid by Pontiac and State Police on an alleged gambling den, will appear before Municipal Judge Maurice Finnegan at 9:30 a.m.

Trials for the remainder of the total of 29 persons arrested in the raid were adjourned from today until Oct. 28 at 10 a.m.

All are charged with the misdemeanor of loitering in a gambling establishment.

The adjournments were requested by attorneys for several of the defendants.

★ ★ ★

Among those awaiting examination are Angelo (Barrels) Lombardi, 37, of Detroit, who is charged with bribery, conspiracy to bribe and violating state gaming laws; and Charles Rousos, 52, of Detroit, charged with conspiracy to bribe and conspiracy to violate state gambling laws.

New GM Building for Pontiac

Plans to construct a new, multistory Pontiac Motor Division administration building on Joslyn south of the engineering building were announced today by John Z. DeLorean, a General Motors vice president and general manager of the division.

The proposed 300,000 square-foot structure will be four times larger than the 39-year-old present administration building on Oakland which will be used for storage and warehousing when the new unit is completed.

Bids on the new building will be let next spring with completion estimated in early 1968.

The administration building project is separate from a series of local plant improvement and expansion projects already launched, which were part of a $2-billion General Motors Corporation capital improvement program announced last year.

The new building and parking facilities will occupy approximately 15 acres of an area bounded by the engineering building on the north, Joslyn on the east, Kennett to the south and the large employe parking lot on the west.

1,000 EMPLOYES

Nearly 1,000 employes will move into the new building when it is completed, in a consolidation of many staff functions now dispersed in various locations.

Departments to be located there include sales, accounting, data processing, purchasing, production control and public relations.

Attractively landscaped grounds will surround the new building and it will be topped by a 21,000 square-foot building service "penthouse" which will contain all ventilation and air-conditioning equipment.

★ ★ ★

Interior features of the new high-rise structure will include modern dining and cafeteria facilities and a large conference room which can also be used as an auditorium seating nearly 300 persons.

CONFERENCE ROOMS

Conference rooms for office and staff meetings will be located on each level of the building.

Other interior features will include a large lobby and reception center designed for car displays and exhibits and escalator and elevator service to all levels.

Ample and readily accessible parking space will be provided outside the building which will be physically connected on the ground level with the engineering building.

★ ★ ★

Heat resistant tinted window glass will be utilized.

★ ★ ★

Final plans for the building design have not yet been approved.

City, Waterford School Enrollment Up

Total school enrollment in Pontiac and Waterford Township public and parochial schools has nudged past the 42,000 mark, according to official figures released today.

The count shows 42,077 students are enrolled in school this year, an increase of 1,159 over last fall's total of 40,918.

The most noteworthy changes were recorded in the public school systems.

Waterford Township's enrollment went from 15,613 to 16,305 —a 692 increase—while Pontiac recorded a rise of 496, jumping from 22,276 to 22,772.

The township system has shown significant growth annually, but Pontiac increased by only 235 students a year ago.

CITY ENROLLMENT

The official fourth Friday tally lists 13,787 pupils in the city's elementary schools, 4,963 in junior high schools and 4,022 senior high students.

Waterford Township tabulations list 9,754 elementary school pupils, 3,611 junior high pupils and 2,940 high school students.

Total combined enrollment for the two public school systems is 39,075 compared with 37,889 last fall.

★ ★ ★

Total parochial school enrollment showed a slight decrease —from 3,029 to 3,000. However, gains were realized in one of the schools.

PAROCHIALS DIP

Although Pontiac's four parochial schools dipped from 1,682 a year ago to 1,630, Waterford's two nonpublic schools increased from 1,347 to 1,370.

In Pontiac, St. Michael School decreased in enrollment from 684 to 660 and St. Frederick School dropped from 616 to 609.

Emmanuel Christian School and St. Trinity Lutheran also have fewer pupils this year, Emmanuel Christian dropping from 284 to 272 and St. Trinity Lutheran from 98 to 89.

Our Lady of the Lakes School showed the only increase among the six parochial schools surveyed, rising from an enrollment of 651 to 704.

Waterford Township's other Catholic school — St. Benedict —fell from an enrollment of 696 last fall to the present 666.

Dodgers Banking on Ace to Knot Series

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers went into the second game of the World Series today hoping for a split, which they'll be happy to get, in the opening stay against the Minnesota Twins.

"I'll settle for a split, and I'll also settle for 10 hits," said the Dodgers manager, Walter Alston.

Dodgers got 10 hits, seven or eight more than they often got in the regular National League season, in yesterday's game but lost, 8-2.

"We got 10 hits, they got 10 hits, but their's came in a bunch and scored runs," said Alston.

"Our's were spaced out and didn't score enough runs."

Alston said after Sandy Koufax' start today, Claude Osteen will pitch the third game Saturday in Los Angeles. And Don Drysdale, the losing pitcher Wednesday, returns to action Sunday.

Alston readily conceded that Zoile Versalles' three - run home run off Drysdale was a damaging blow but added:

"I thought the hit that really killed us, even after that, was Earl Battey's single into short rightfield.

"We were behind, 4-1, and that made it 6-1," Alston said.

Alston, in his customary unruffled fashion, admitted he left Drysdale in the game longer than he would some others on the staff, but pointed out that the tall right-hander won 23 games this year.

Lawmakers, Kelley Split Over Legality

Measure Still Faces Hurdles, House Vote; Court Test Possible

Pontiac's projected osteopathic college moved a giant step forward yesterday with Senate passage of a bill to create a 10-man osteopathic college authority.

However, the measure still must pass several hurdles, including a House vote and a possible court test of its constitutionality.

Amid debate over the question of control of higher education in Michigan, the Senate voted 22-7 in approving the bill setting up the college authority.

The authority is designed to make it easier for the proposed osteopathic college to acquire federal construction funds. The bill now goes to the House.

★ ★ ★

Questions of constitutionality and lawmaking power dominated a one-hour, 25-minute exchange that pitted the State Board of Education, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and a minority of senators against a majority of the chamber.

COLLEGE AUTHORITY

The bill creates a 10-member osteopathic college authority to construct, operate and maintain such an institution.

Kelley, in a letter made public yesterday, declared the Legislature "is without power to enact a statute establishing such a college or university without the prior determination, advice and recommendation by the state board of education."

The reading of the letter unleashed a storm of reaction typified by Senate Majority Leader Raymond Dzendzel's declaration:

"If you hold to Kelley's letter, you abdicate your duties. If you think the State Board of Education is a body of lawmakers, foreget it because they're not."

ON PROVISION

Kelley based his letter on the background of the constitutional provision establishing the elected eight-member board "as the general planning and coordinating body for all public education, including higher education, and shall advise the Legislature as to the financial requirements in connection therewith."

Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, chairman of the appropriations committee, retorted with a reading of the constitutional provision declaring, "the legislative power of the State of Michigan is vested in a Senate and a House of Representatives."

He argued that "this doesn't say I have to take instructions from a board of education."

★ ★ ★

Board President Thomas Brennan declared later he would stand firm behind Kelley's opinion. "If we don't have authority here, we don't have it any where," he said.

He called the opinion "very

Beating Victim Died of Internal Injuries

Results of an autopsy yesterday indicated the death of a beaten 38-year-old Avon Township carpenter Tuesday night was caused by internal injuries, according to Capt. Leo Hazen of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Hazen also said the report suggested the victim — John Arnett, of 3471 Dunning — might have survived if he had sought medical attention sooner.

Arnett died one day after a scuffle in which he told deputies he was kicked and beaten by 23-year-old Herbert Harris.

Harris of 3044 Eastwood, Avon Township, was ordered held without bond yesterday after arraignment on a charge of first-degree murder in Pontiac Township Justice Court.

* * *

He is in custody at Oakland County Jail pending preliminary examination Oct. 15.

MOTIVE UNCLEAR

Motive for the beating was not immediately clear.

"John and Herbert knew each other and always got along as far as I know," said Paul Arnett, also of 3471 Dunning, a brother of the victim.

"John's been dating Herb's mother (Mrs. Henrietta McDougald) for quite awhile — she and John thought quite a bit of each other," Arnett said.

* * *

Arnett said the victim returned home with blackened eyes and bruises Monday night after the scuffle, which he said took place in front of an Avon Township home about two miles from the Arnett residence.

TOOK HOT BATH

"He took a hot bath and said he was feeling better," his brother said.

"The next day (Tuesday) he was up and about . . . then he had something to eat and drank some orange juice around dinner time and got sick."

The victim was then taken to Avon Center Hospital, where officials notified the Oakland County Sheriff's Department he was in critical condition.

Transported in an ambulance to Pontiac General Hospital, Arnett was listed as dead on arrival.

Sanity Hearing in 2 Slayings

An emergency sanity hearing will be held tomorrow for an Addison Township woman charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of her former husband and his wife.

Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn ordered the 9 a.m. hearing for Mrs. Jane Kendall, 45, of 1480 Noble on the request of her attorney Malcolmn Sutherland, Detroit.

Asst. Prosecutor Bernard Paige agreed to the hearing.

The woman's conduct in the Oakland County Jail prompted Sutherland to petition for the hearing, according to Page.

* * *

Mrs. Kendall is accused of killing Glen Kendall, 45, and his wife, Lucille, 46, of Detroit early Saturday morning.

ADMITS SHOOTING

Sheriff's deputies said that Mrs. Kendall told them that she shot the two when they attempted to break into her home to get her daughter, Laurie, 13.

Thorburn appointed Birmingham psychiatrists, doctors Edward M. Wisniewski and Jay Van Zoeren to examine the woman. They will testify as to her condition.

Lindsay Far Behind in NY Paper's Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Herald Tribune said today preliminary results of its citywide poll show Democratic mayoral candidate Abraham D. Beame leading Republican-Liberal nominee John V. Lindsay.

* * *

The newspaper's poll gave Beame 45.7 per cent of the vote to Lindsay's 35.6 per cent.

Conservative party candidate William F. Buckley had 10.2 per cent and 8.2 per cent of those polled were undecided.

* * *

Beame's running mates, comptroller candidate Mario Procaccino and council president nominee Frank O'Connor, had even larger leads than their standard-bearer.

New School Is OK'd

HOLLAND (AP) — A Holland Christian School Society vote of 350 to 15 has approved the proposed construction here of a new high school estimated at $1,450,000. Officials hope to secure bids before next February for the structure planned to include 33 classrooms, a gymnasium, an auditorium and other facilities.

Act on School Services Law

Hold Up Funds if Not Obeyed---House Unit

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Education should withhold funds from any school district that fails to extend auxiliary services to non-public school students, a House committee ruled Wednesday.

The House Policy Committee acted over the objections of one legislator that the auxiliary services law was unclear, yet "we are now ordering school districts not to be confused."

* * *

The committee-approved resolution does not have the force of law, but does express legislative intent. It still must win the full approval of the House and Senate.

The resolution, by Reps. John J. Fitzpatrick, D-Detroit, and E. D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, is intended to express "the clear intention of the legislature that this act should be carried out with urgency and without discrimination or delay."

The 1965 act in question extends non-classroom service offered by local districts to students in non-public schools on an equal basis.

The services include crossing guards, visiting teachers and counseling for mentally retarded and mentally and emotionally disturbed children, remedial reading and health services.

* * *

The new law has met with some grumbling from public school officials—primarily over the timing. State regulations implementing the new law took effect after the school year's programs already were operating or set to operate, and long after the year's budget had been approved, they said.

Rep. Charles Conrad, D-Jackson, objected to the law, the rules and the resolution.

"I am not opposed to the extending of these services to these children," he told the committee. "But I feel we acted in such haste the law is unclear."

Fitzpatrick said the resolution was prompted by the Detroit Board of Education's publicly expressed doubts about the legality of the new law. The board reportedly said it would not fight, but that it hoped some "public-spirited" citizen would.

The resolution is "not a threat — it just shows that we want it done and done in a hurry," Fitzpatrick said.

Conrad said "these districts were told of this late this summer, while they drew up their budgets last March or April.

Now they have to cut back programs for the public school children to make sure an equal proportion of non-public school students get the services."

Senate Okays Osteopathic College Bill

significant" but said the board would rather work with the legislature than take legal action.

But if the education board, Legislature — and probably university board officials, too —don't reach any agreement the ultimate resolution of the conflict almost certainly will come in the State Supreme Court, which will have to decide just who and to what extent has the higher education planning power.

Gov. George Romney obtained a copy of Kellev's letter but had no statement. His Constitutional Convention arguments quoted by Kellev tended to support the letter's position, however. If Romney vetoed the osteopathic bill, its supporters would have to find four more votes to override the veto.

* * *

SENT TO COURT

Sen. Basil Brown, D-Detroit, who voted for the bill, suggested it be sent to the Supreme Court for a ruling on constitutionality.

That idea was derided by Sen. George Fitzgerald, D-Grosse Pointe Park, who added that "if the Supreme Court tells us the Board of Education has the power to stop us from passing a law, we might as well forget about the House and Senate and get a new Constitutional Convention that will recognize legislative power and its roots in our Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence."

Supporters of the bill argued the Board of Education had ignored the osteopaths' wish to discuss the matter with them.

* * *

But Brennan, in asking for a delay on the bill, said the board had asked the committee April 22 for an opportunity to discuss the matter and hadn't been answered.

MERITS SECONDARY

As the fight progressed, merits of the bill grew secondary. Lane said it had become "a vehicle now to show we're still a legislative body."

Bowman said he'd vote for it regardless of merits to show that "a letter from the attorney general is not binding on us."

Dzendzel, at the start of debate, said the osteopathic college is needed "because our state is far below the national average in the ratio of physicians per 100,000 population."

He said osteopaths are only 22 per cent of the state's doctors but provide the basic health care for one-third of Michigan's population.

GROUND BROKEN

Ground was broken for the school in August on a 164-acre site in Pontiac. When completed its cost might run to $60 million, Dzendzel had said Tuesday.

About $4 million has been pledged by osteopaths and application for a $16 million federal grant is pending.

The bill has no financial implications for this year but will have in the future, said Lane and Dzendzel.

* * *

Dzendzel said later that he has no idea how the bill will come in time for the federal grant deadline of Dec. 31, the bill would have to be passed by next week—the end of the autumn legislative session.

APPEARED LOPSIDED

Although the 22-7 count in the Senate appeared lopsided, the bill had only two more votes than the minimum of 20 needed for passage. Nine senators were absent or did not vote on the issue.

Minnesota Batters Drysdale, 8-2

Talk of Four Straight Absent as Twins Grab Series Opener

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP)—Nobody is talking about four straight anymore. Not even the Minnesota Twins who battered Don Drysdale and beat the once-favored Los Angeles Dodgers 8-2 to draw first World Series blood.

The Dodgers had really believed they could knock off the American League champions in four straight. Today, somewhat subdued after having their 23-game winning right-handed ace knocked out in less than three innings, the Dodgers placed all their hopes on Sandy Koufax, their left-handed star, to give them an even break in the two games here.

Sam Mele, the Twins' manager, never had any illusions about a four-game sweep. Even after having won the first one, Sam still contained his optimsim.

* * *

"You always like to win the first one and get the momentum," he said. "It's like when you go into any series during the season. You want the first one very badly.

"It's the same old story. We'll go one at a time. Los Angeles is a good club. You can't relax against those guys. We'll keep playing the way we have all year."

Mele confirmed his nomination of Jim Kaat, his 18-game winner, as the second game starter. After that it will be right-hander Camilo Pascual for the third game in Los Angeles Saturday. Friday has been set aside for travel.

TOP PITCHER

In Koufax, the Twins will face the best pitcher in baseball. Sandy last worked on Saturday when he pitched the pennant clincher against Milwaukee, lifting his season's record to 26 victories and eight defeats.

* * *

His season record included eight shutouts and a record 382 strikeouts. He also turned in a 2.04 earned run average, equalling Lefty Grove's record of having led his league four straight times in earned run averages.

"I think we will beat Koufax, too," said Jim Grant, the Twins' ace right-hander who tamed the Dodgers on 10 hits Wednesday.

"They said we couldn't beat Drysdale, but we did. We've been underrated all year. They picked us sixth and seventh but we came in first. They said we would fold in the clutch but we didn't. We're going to fool 'em again today."

Shortstop Zoilo Versalles, who paced the Twins' 10-hit attack with a three-run homer and a run scoring single, was more cautious.

"We just play one game and we're okay," he said. "There are seven games."

The odds - makers have changed their minds following the Twins' first game victory. They now make it an even series, after having first established the Dodgers a 7-5 favorite. The Dodgers and Koufax are 13-10 choices to win to day's game.

Dodger Manater Walter Alston didn't appear too downcast over the defeat.

"We got 10 hits," he reminded. "I'll always settle for 10 hits.

"They got 10 hits, too, but theirs came in a bunch and scored runs. Ours were spaced and didn't score enough runs."

The Twins' 10 hits included homers by Don Mincher as well as Versalles and doubles by Frank Quilici, Sandy Valdespino and Grant. Except for Ron Fairly's homer, all the Dodger hits were singles.

Alston readily conceded that Versalles' three-run homer off Drysdale in the third was the most damaging blow.

"I thought that hit really killed us," he said. "After that Earl Battey's single into short right field with the bases loaded, put them out of reach."

Terry Sawchuk, a native of Winnipeg, a naturalized citizen of the United States, a resident of Union Lake and a shopper and participant in Pontiac area activities expressed a few sensible thoughts that could generate good conversation among city residents.

"If I were financially capable, or if there were a half dozen good businessmen interested, this is what I'd do to give Pontiac a shot in the arm," Sawchuk went on to say.

"All that property between Wide Track, Saginaw, Orchard Lake and Water street, could be built into a miniature New York Central Park.

Sawchuk's idea of a Central Park would include an auditorium with a converted floor for year around activities, basketball, hockey, social events, etc.; an indoor-outdoor swimming pool; tennis, horseshoes, badminton, shuffleboard, natural ice rinks, picnic area and the complete winter-summer recreational package.

"Line it with trees, surround it with parking, complement it with a nice shopping area and what else is left but for Pontiac to take bows for doing something for its youth and citizens," he added.

Of course for Sawchuk, a 17-year veteran of the National Hockey League, the hockey and ice rink facilities are the big interests.

"I thought about this during the off-season, during the hot summer days while helping out at Gordie's (Howe) Hockeyland in St. Clair Shores," said Sawchuk, "as I was surprised to learn of the large number of kids from the Pontiac area who learn hockey and skate there all year long.

TO PLAY TILL 40

"Sure hockey is my main interest, and I plan on staying active in the NHL until I'm 40," (he's 36 now), Sawchuk added, "but I feel this is my area now and would like to see it thrive and be part of the sports activities here.

"Seeing what Gordie's place can do for an area, and that's for only ice sports activities, I know an all-sports center, summer and winter, indoor and outdoor would go great here," he said.

"Many towns in Canada, much smaller than Pontiac, bustle with activities because they keep their facilities closer to the center of town. Sure they concentrate on hockey, that's the national sport, but with so many sports interests here today, this is even more a reason why such a central sports center would be the best thing that ever happened to Pontiac.

* * *

"Talk never made any economy boom. Right now the economy is booming, all sports are booming. I can't understand why foresights shouldn't start booming," he concluded.

So speaks one of hockey's all-time great goal tenders, naturalized just a couple years ago in Oakland County and one who feels a good shot in the arm is needed to bring out the sports potential and economic boost for the city and its residents.

2 MSU Losses 'Rosy'

'55, '64 Tilts With U-M 11 Led to Bowls

EAST LANSING (AP) — The last time Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty lost to Michigan was last year, 17-10, and the Wolverines went to the Rose Bowl.

The next to last time was in 1955, 14-7, and the Spartans got the Rose Bowl bid. This was the only MSU defeat of that season 10 years ago.

That's a bit of football history for fans to ponder on prior to the 58th renewal of the football classic Saturday.

Daugherty already has said the Big Ten champ this year could lose as many as two games. He shudders at Rose Bowl talk this early but the ticket-buyers still will speculate on possibilities of MSU, the only unbeaten team in the conference and currently rated fifth in the nation, going all the way.

SELLOUT CLASSIC

Those loyal rooters have made this classic a sellout for 18 straight years starting in 1948. It is estimated more than 1.6 million spectators have jammed the stadia at East Lansing and Ann Arbor since.

Michigan State has become a little blase of late about beating Michigan, in contrast to the years when a victory called for a car-tipping celebration.

The Wolverines have won 36, lost only 16 and tied five in the meetings dating back to 1898.

There was an almost absurd score of 119-0 run up by Michigan against the then agricultural college in 1902.

Between 1934 and 1937, Coach Charlie Bachman took home four in a row for State.

Then came the lean years. Michigan State didn't win again until 1950, when Athletic Director Biggie Munn did it in 1950, 14-7. Munn had a rough time in his first try, as his nose was rubbed in the dust 55-0 in 1947, his first appearance as Spartan coach.

Since 1950, Michigan State has won 10, Michigan three and there have been two ties.

Series Starters Stir Talk of 'Wet Ones'

(AP) — The spitball seems to be very much like the weather. Everyone talks about it, but even when it's wet, no one does anything about it.

There was a hail of words on the subject in both the Los Angeles and Minnesota dressing rooms following the opening game of the World Series Wednesday after television close-ups apparently caught Twins' pitcher Jim (Mudcat) Grant spitting into his glove before he threw.

But, oddly, the Dodgers made no complaint before or after the game while the Twins, who battered Don Drysdale for seven runs in 2 2-3 innings en route to an 8-2 victory, claimed that the Los Angeles starter was using the illegal pitch.

ADMITS SPIT

Grant, on the other hand, admitted he was spitting. But he said he was one of those neat types who wiped it off before he pitched.

* * *

"I spit on the ball," said Grant, "but only to rub them up. I don't think you should throw a slick ball — I think you should rub some of the gloss off. I do it with spit."

Does that mean that Grant was throwing a spitball?

"I'm not saying I don't throw a spitter," said Grant, employing the evasive tactic of all members of the spitball society.

"I don't really think it makes any difference. I don't think any good hitter will let it bother him. Besides every time I spat on the ball, I wiped it off."

Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers, asked about the fact that the television cameras caught Grant in the act, professed ignorance about the entire subject.

"I don't know much about spitters myself," he said. "You'll have to ask the pitchers that throw them."

Alston, however, didn't name any who did.

The two leading hitters on the Dodgers, shortstop Maury Wills and outfielder Ron Fairly, both said Grant couldn't possibly have been throwing a spitball.

"He doesn't throw spitballs," Wills said flatly. "A spitball pitcher has to be a low ball pitcher and Grant isn't. We know a spitball pitcher when we see one."

"He wouldn't have time to get set that quick if he were spitting in his glove," said Fairly. "He'd have to take his hand off the ball, put it on the saliva, put it back on the ball and then pitch. I don't think it can be done."

The Twins, however, saw the spitball problem just a bit differently.

"We got the impression that Drysdale was using the spitter," said Minnesota Manager Sam Mele. "But there isn't anything I can do about Drysdale's wet pitch. I'm all for him, if he can get away with it."

Attorney Ousts Golf Medalist

Senior Amateur Meet Enters 2nd Round

PITTSBURGH (AP)— James P. Quinn, 58, a Kansas City criminal attorney knocked off medalist Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., one-up Wednesday in the first round of match play in the USGA Senior Men's National Amateur Golf Tourney at the 6,299-yard Fox Chapel golf course.

William D. Higgins of San Francisco, the defending champion, and most other favorites advanced to the second round of 16 golfers.

* * *

Higgins, a 59-year-old printing ink firm president, defeated John R. Jacob of Canton, Ohio, 2-and-1.

Second-seeded Bob Kiersky of Oakmont, Pa., had to rally from a one-hole deficit at the turn to defeat W. E. Douglas Gunther of Richmond, Va., 4-and-3.

Palmer, Marr Tumble in Ryder Cup Opener

From Our Wire Services

SOUTHPORT, England—Great Britain won the first match of the three-day 1965 Ryder Cup Championship this morning as Dave Thomas, long-driving Welshman and his Scots' partner George Will defeated Arnold Palmer and Dave Marr, 6 and 5.

In other matches underway, however, American teams of Tony Lema and Julius Boros along with Billy Casper and Gene Littler carried on the tradition of American supremacy in the two-ball tournament.

The weather was overcast and the fairways on the 7,037-yard par - 73 Royal Birdale course were heavy with morning dew.

Playing against Britain's Lionel Platts and Peter Butler, Lema and Boros were 2-up with a brilliant 2-under-par 33 for the front nine.

Casper and Littler were also 2-up at the turn over Neil Coles and Bernard Hunt. The American pair shot an even-par 35 on the front.

Palmer and Marr made a bad start as Thomas and Will won five of the first seven holes with a two-under par 33 at the turn.

With a big gallery cheering every stroke, Thomas and Will captured the first three holes with birdies.

HITS WELL

Palmer hit the ball well off the tees, but Marr, current PGA champ playing in the Ryder Cup aborad for the first time, appeared nervous.

"We were nervous," said Will, "but not half as nervous as Marr. Palmer played well but couldn't carry the load alone."

The course appeared ideal for most long hitters, as indicated by the sixth and eighth holes which were surrendering pars and birdies for their 468 and 459 yards respectively.

Bruins' Official Denies Okaying Six-Man Deal

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — General Manager Hap Emms of the Boston Bruins denied Wednesday night he had agreed to trade four members of his National Hockey League club for two members of a Western Hockey League team.

* * *

Coach Bud Poile of the San Francisco Seals said in Edmonton earlier Wednesday that a member of his club — George Swarbrick, Rookie-of-the-Year in the WHL last season — had been sent to the Bruins' training camp here as the first player involved in a six-man player trade.

Emms said Swarbrick, 24, is expected to join the Bruins here today.

A new contender has taken the lead in the hot Grapevine race of the Swami Association. Swami Spears had the best picking day of the short season thus far missing only six games and shoving Swami Vogel into the run nerup spot.

But the big list of games continues and the weekend schedule promises many upsets.

Assist Mark Tied

World Series Wrapup

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Figuring the Series:

The Minnesota Twins tied a Series record Wednesday by collecting only three assists. The record was set by the St. Louis Cards on Oct. 5, 1934 and equalled by the Boston Braves Oct. 6, 1948 and New York Yankees Oct. 16, 1962.

Don Mincher of the Twins had only three chances, one short of the Series record for first baseman established by Wally Pipp of the Yankees Oct. 11, 1921 against the New York Giants.

Minnesota's eight runs must have surprised most members of other National League teams. In 162 regular season games, NL opposition scored eight or more runs off Dodger pitching only seven times.

Ron Fairly's second inning home run was his first since Aug. 23 when he hit one off Larry Miller of the New York Mets. The Dodger outfielder failed to connect in his final 33 regular season games and finished with nine.

Jim Kaat of the Twins has a better batting advantage than the Dodgers' Sandy Koufax. The two are today's scheduled pitchers. During the regular campaign, Kaat hit .247 with 23 hits in 93 times at bat while Koufax batted .177 with 20 safeties in 113 tries.

On the mound, Koufax had a 26-8 record, 27 complete games and eight shutouts in 41 starts. Kaat managed only seven complete games in 41 starts, with two shutouts and an 18-11 record.

The setback snapped the Dodgers' Series winning streak at five games. They beat the White Sox in the sixth and final game of the 1959 classic and swept the Yankees in four in 1963.

Third baseman Jim Gilliam was the only Dodger in Wednesday's starting line-up who started in the opening game of the 1959 Series against the Chicago White Sox. His performance in both games was virtually the same. He had one hit in four tries plus one assist in the '59 opener and one hit in five trips plus one assist Wednesday.

Don Drysdale, the big Dodgers' right-hander, had allowed only three earned runs in 18 innings in three previous Series appearances. He yielded three earned runs in 2 2-3 innings Wednesday, lifting his ERA from 1.50 to 2.57.

Every Los Angeles starter, except Drysdale, collected at least one hit and all Twins' starters had at least one safety except Tony Oliva, the American League batting champion.

World Record High Jumper Fractures Leg

MOSCOW (UPI) — Valeri Brumel, Russia's world record high jumper, suffered a multiple fracture of his right leg in a traffic accident yesterday, the official Tass news agency announced today.

* * *

Tass said the 24-year-old athlete was "knocked down by a car while riding on a motorcycle in Moscow." He was operated on today.

Reliable sources said his leg was broken in three places—two simple breaks between knee and ankle and a complicated fracture near the ankle.

* * *

The injury is sure to keep Brumel out of the Russian championship track and field meet which opens in a few days in Alma ATA. Reliable sources quoted doctors as saying it may have further effects on his career.

Controls Urged Health Facility

Franchising Broached in Report to Romney

LANSING (AP) — A governor's committee today recommended complete coordination and advance planning for all new hospitals and health facilities in Michigan.

Gov. George Romney announced the release of a report by his action committee on health care which urged statewide planning and "franchising," of hospitals and health facilities.

* * *

Romney said he has "taken no personal position on this report."

The State Health Commissioner would have over-all responsibility for coordination and planning — but the study of needs and recommendations should come from the grass roots level, the committee said.

RECOMMENDATION

It recommended:

"Initial study review and recommendation by a system of voluntary regional planning councils, review and action by an official state council on health facilities and services, and administrative action by the State Commission of Health."

* * *

The recommendations, he said, are aimed at providing maximum service for all Michigan residents while "keeping costs down by eliminating duplication."

The key recommendation, the committee said, was that of franchising. It calls for "building hospitals and other health facilities, regardless of sponsorship or financing, only when and where the planning process shows they are needed."

'ABSOLUTELY ESSENTIAL'

The committee called "this so-called 'franchising'" to be absolutely essential to successful planning in this state."

The committee was headed by Dr. Myron Wegman, dean of the University of Michigan School of Public Health.

* * *

Continued hospital growth is inevitable, the committee said. "Society must face up to the problem of how to get proper hospital care most efficiently."

9-Month Sales Record for GM

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors yesterday reported record nine-month sales of passenger cars and commercial vehicles in 1965.

The automobile industry's biggest producer said its dealers sold 3,925,577 units as compared with the previous record of 3,585,197 for the first nine months of 1964.

* *

GM said its third quarter sales totaled 1,115,479 units as against 1,061,456 for the same period last year.

GM said its nine-month sales of passenger cars totaled 3,408,724 as compared with 3,110,089 last year.

Half of Oil Industry Threatened by Strike

DENVER (UPI) — The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (OCAW) said as much as 50 per cent of the refining capacity of the nation's oil industry would be affected if its 40,000 refinery workers went on strike at midnight tonight.

* * *

A. F. Grospiron, OCAW president, said negotiations currently were being conducted with management representatives on the West Coast, in the Midwest and on the Gulf Coast.

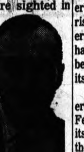
Honeymoon Ending for LBJ and Business

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK—President Johnson's hospital stay comes just as the first rifts are sighted in the aura of good will between White House and business.



DAWSON

The threatened splits are over: first, rising interest rates, and second, increased investment of American business abroad.

* * *

The President would like interest rates to stay as low as possible to encourage further economic growth. Bankers have been raising some borrowing charges because demands for loans are mounting and the money market has been getting tighter.

The President wants business to keep dollars at home and hold down its overseas spending. Most corporations have been doing this, on a voluntary basis. But the total of new American investments abroad is higher this year than last. Businessmen say that most of the financing of this accelerated expansion has been done through foreign channels — dollars stayed home.

SIGNS OF CONFLICT

In neither case has the conflict between the White House and business and financial circles become open. But there are signs of growing disagreement.

Bankers have been raising interest rates on a selective basis for some time. They have left the prime rate alone because this basic interest rate, or symbol, is dear to President Johnson's heart.

* * *

The 4½ per cent prime rate for loans to the biggest and most creditworthy borrowers has been in effect since August 1960. But bankers admit that of late fewer customers are being given this status rating.

Most loans are at higher rates, scaled according to the applicant's credit standing, and influenced by whether the money market is easy or tight at the moment.

GETTING TIGHTER

Money has been getting tighter as demand for business loans rise. Yields on outstanding government and corporate bonds have been rising. Bankers have been urging that the prime rate itself be allowed to rise.

And from time to time, bankers discuss the chance of the Federal Reserve Board raising its discount rate — the charge the bankers themselves pay when they borrow. When the discount rate goes up, the prime rate usually does, too — and all the other rates go a little higher.

The Federal Reserve has been holding the discount rate at 4 per cent. White House disapproval of any increase in this rate would be strong. The President wants the economy to go on expanding, and he feels that tight money, or costlier borrowing, would make that difficult to achieve.

The American Bankers Association says overt pressure by the government to hold down interest rates could react and actually curb economic expansion for the long term.

TO OPPOSE HIKE

The status of the conflict as the President goes to the hospital seems to be that the White House will oppose any across-the-board hike in rates, especially the symbolic prime rate, but probably will wink at selective increases. Thus the bankers can continue to charge more interest to most customers while maintaining the 4½ per cent prime rate, which fewer borrowers can get.

The bankers also want the government to raise the 4¼ per cent ceiling on long-term treasury bonds if it hopes to find buyers for new issues. They think only in this way can new projects of the government be financed. The White House has been thinking differently.

* * *

That's just another of the many problems the President may take with him to Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "My husband passed away, leaving me with stock in American Telephone, Commonwealth Edison and Northern Illinois Gas. I have been told it would be better to sell and put the money in a savings bank at 4¼ per cent interest. What do you advise?"
T. G.

A) The stocks which he left you are among the best in the entire list for growth and moderate income. I should dislike to see you dispose of these shares because they offer a very definite protection against further inflation, which seems inevitable to me if the Viet Nam war continues to escalate. If you require more income, you must of course sell your stocks, but I would put only half the proceeds into the savings bank. I would divide the balance between Atchison Rwy. stock, yielding five per cent and Maytag, selling on a 4.25 per cent basis exclusive of past, generous extras.

* * *

Q) "My problem is what to do about $11,850 Series E bonds which my mother and I own jointly. Many have matured years ago. Is the interest 3¾ per cent? Should I convert to Series H bonds and if so, will I have to pay income tax on the conversion?"
S. H.

A) All your matured E bonds have been extended, and all extended and current bonds yield 3¾ per cent compounded semi-annually if held to maturity. I see no reason why you should not continue to hold these, unless you need current income. Your Federal income tax accruals will be deferred to maturity of H bonds, if you exchange them; but current interest is paid semi-annually by check on the H issue and is subject to Federal income tax for the year received. These bonds pay four per cent annually after 1½ years of holding, but the yield to maturity is 3¾ per cent, the same as on E bonds.

Credit Expansion Credited

Cadillac Output to Exceed '64

Cadillac will end 1965 with approximately 187,000 units, up 14 per cent over 1964, it was revealed at the 1966 Cadillac preview yesterday.

Harold G. Warner, Cadillac general manager, said production expansion at the plant had raised the number of cars per hour from 42 to 50.

Cadillac added a new model to its Fleetwood series for 1966.

The new model is the Brougham, distinguished by a vinyl padded roof and special moldings. It was offered last year as an option of the Fleetwood Sixty Special sedan.

* * *

Body changes were unveiled for the Seventy-five and Cadillac limousine series.

THREE SERIES

The firm displayed Calais, DeVille and Fleetwood series which retain the same dimensions as 1965 models but feature restyled grilles and rear ends and greater attention to comfort and ease of driving.

"A significant improvement in driving ease has been accomplished in our new models with the introduction of Cadillac's variable ratio steering," Warner said.

The variable ratio steering "requires fewer turns of the steering wheel, making it easier to park and maneuver in traffic," he said.

The restyled grilles retain the Cadillac "cross-hatch" design of recent years. Headlamps, mounted vertically, have frames painted in body color instead of finished in chrome. The redesigned rear bumper, which houses the license plate, uses less chrome, with its lower half painted in body color.
