Shatters Mark With a 65 at Oakland Hills

George Archer Fires 6 Birdies in Richest Golf Tourney Ever

Democrat Champions Will Star at Convention's Finale Tonight

George Archer, 24-year-old pro from Gilroy, Calif., did the "impossible" in the opening round of the $200,000 World Carling Open which started this morning at Oakland Hills.

With six birdies, five on the back nine, Archer fired a five-under-par 65 to shatter the existing course record of 67 held by six golfers in the National Open of 1951 and 1961.

A former cowboy before turning pro in January of this year, Archer birdied the first hole, a 440-yard par-four hole, by sinking a 45-foot putt.

He then shot par golf for the next eight holes and went into the back nine with a 34. Using only 11 putts on the backside, Archer hit birdie putts of 4, 12, 13, 6 and 40 feet. He took a bogey five on the 14th hole.

"When I reached the 16th hole, I knew I had the course record within reach and I was thinking in terms of getting two pars and a 66."

"When the 40-foot putt dropped on 17 for a birdie, I could have run to the 18th in excitement, but I talked myself into playing the last hole cool."

Prior to Archer's 65 today, Ben Hogan was the first player to shatter the course with his final round 67 in winning the 1951 Open here.

In the 1961 Open, five other players all had 67's during single rounds.

Among the early starters, Archer's score was the only sub-par round, although three players managed to play the course even.

Jerry Steelmith of Glendale, Calif.; Bob Harrison of Palm Desert, Calif.; and Joe Campbell of Perdido Beach, Calif. all posted par 70's.

Host pro Al Watrous and former Franklin Hills pro Wally Burkemo both had their problems. Watrous fired a 40-42-82 while Burkemo was posting a 40-38-78.

Jack Nicklaus, a favorite, fired a 36-35-73.

Best of the foreign players to score was Belgium's Donald Swaleson who shot 36-35-71.

Chi Chi Rodriguez shot a one-over-par 71. His playing partner, Hogan, needed one more stroke.

Jerry Barber, playing in the same threesome, ran into trouble on the back nine, took a 41, and finished the round with a 77.

UAW Decides: Chrysler Target

Walkout Set Sept. 9 if No Settlement

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union has singled out Chrysler Corp. as its No. 1 strike target in efforts to secure new contracts for the nation's half-million auto plant workers.

UAW President Walter Reuther told newsmen last night that the walkout at Chrysler would begin at 10 a.m. Sept. 9 if no settlement is forthcoming by that time.

Reuther said Chrysler, General Motors and Ford—the auto industry's Big Three—all had adopted a "narrow, selfish attitude" in negotiations and are denying workers their fair share of record-breaking profits.

The union's contracts with all three firms expire Monday, but Reuther said the strike deadline was set beyond Labor Day to allow several extra days at the bargaining table in efforts to avoid a walkout.

President Johnson is expected to open his campaign in Detroit's Cadillac Square on Labor Day.

EMBARRASSING

Observers have pointed out that with an auto strike in progress, the President might have found such an appearance before a labor rally to be embarrassing.

Reuther visited President Johnson in the White House yesterday, but he denied that the President's Labor Day plans had any influence on the decision to set Sept. 9—two days after the holiday—as the strike date.

Pointing out that Chrysler is the nation's seventh largest corporation, Reuther said the firm was selected because it had what he termed "an economic and moral obligation," to repay the UAW for 1961 contract concessions.

Cleo Rips Miami; Goes North

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Howling Hurricane Cleo smashed at Miami with sledgehammer winds today, ripped on up Florida's populous "Gold Coast," and sent small craft scurrying to safety all the way north to Charleston, S.C.

Leaving Miami's streets looking like a battlefield after a four-hour battering, Cleo thrashed across Hollywood, Fort Lauderdale and Palm Beach and drew a bead on Cape Kennedy.

At noon, the Miami Weather Bureau extended gale warnings and a hurricane watch northward from Cape Kennedy to Charleston.

Still packing a 100-mile-an-hour punch, Cleo pushed dangerous tides ahead in her rampage up the coast.

The storm was centered at noon near Stuart, Fla. Its forward speed was about 14 miles an hour.

There was a possibility that the center would move off the coast over the Atlantic near Cape Kennedy.

Suggestions Might Help to Glamorize Convention

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

ATLANTIC CITY—At no political convention have I seen "suggestion boxes" inviting ideas on convention management from the rank and file.

Mine, therefore, will undoubtedly be considered pretty rank and permanently filed.

What your news ferret (N.F.) has in mind, in line with the tendency of the times, is to romanticize a few organizational functions now having little spectacular appeal.

Take, for example, the rules committee. Have you ever heard a chairman wax rhapsodic over a rules committee?

—or read news pieces glowing with colorful description of its vital role in the proceedings?

NEXT VP

True, no one knows just what its role is, but what's that got to do with it?

Let's look at other areas, where delegated authority is accorded top status and allowed to shine forth, like when umpires at a ball game hold their program conference with rival managers.

The script calls for much posturing and much pointing—the local manager is probably pointing

Humphrey a Great Delegate Favorite

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—Democrats today whipped their boardwalk spectacular toward tonight's finale starring their champions—Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey.

Then the President and his hand-picked running mate will accept the nominations they won last night, take some belts at the Republican Goldwater-Miller ticket and hurry off to plot strategy for the autumn battle.

But Barry Goldwater was already punching.

Cruising off the West Coast, the Republican presidential nominee charged that Johnson's choice of Humphrey "destroys the myth" that the President intends a conservative administration.

Humphrey, Goldwater said, "expresses a liberal point of view better than anyone in the Senate."

"I welcome Hubert to the Democratic ticket," the Arizona conservative wryly added, "and thank Lyndon for drawing the differences between us so sharply."

HEADING WEST

This weekend, after the curtain drops tonight on the 1964 Democratic convention, Johnson and Humphrey are heading to the LBJ ranch in Texas to plan for what Johnson called an "overwhelming victory" in the fall.

"There in the shade of the live oaks on the banks of the Pedernales, we will talk over our duty for the next few weeks," said Johnson.

TO JOIN CAMPAIGN

The First Lady started the party round this morning with a post-nomination champagne breakfast for the press, where she table-hopped and talked of hitting the campaign trail herself for the Johnson-Humphrey ticket.

Until last night the convention's course was dully predictable. Then Johnson gave it a dramatic turn by breaking a string of precedents.

The President had held on to his secret that Humphrey was his choice for the vice presidential nomination until he was ready to board a plane to Atlantic City.

Humphrey, who had flown to Washington at the President's command, was at his side.

NEXT VP

Taking the senator by the arm, Johnson walked over to newsmen standing behind a barrier and said: "Meet the next vice president."

The word thus learned of the selection, about three hours before many delegates to this convention knew that it had been made.

No modern president had ever

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—The selection last night of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey as the Democratic vice presidential nominee was a big moment for Michigan Democrats, who have long since made him their favorite.

It was a particular thrill for Mrs. Mildred Jeffrey, Michigan's national committeewoman.

She stood on her chair and jumped up and down, ecstatic as a schoolgirl, when President Johnson quit touting with his audience and revealed what virtually everyone in the hall expected: Humphrey.

"It's splendid, it's wonderful," said former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who had been a Humphrey supporter—along with most other Michigan Democratic leaders—in 1960.

"Back when we had two Republican senators, before Pat McNamara and Phil Hart were elected, we regarded Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota as our senator," said Williams.

PERSONAL THING

It was a personal thing, also, with Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Utica, who gave Humphrey a measure of credit for helping him win the office he now holds.

Many of Michigan's long-term political leaders are close enough to Humphrey that they call him "Hub" as in hubcap.

And his popularity is such that in a recent Associated Press poll, 70 per cent of Michigan's delegates had picked him as their first choice for the second spot.

POLITICAL, PERSONAL

This popularity is both political and personal, according to Mrs. Jeffrey.

"We are the same kind of 11 b's and 1's," she said, "and Michigan and Minnesota are states with a lot in common. But that's only part of it."

"Hubert Humphrey has been a most generous person and an effective campaigner in Michigan's elections."

She recalled that Humphrey made his first visit to Michigan in 1958, and since then "must have been in the state at least 20 times."

MOMENT'S NOTICE

He substituted on a moment's notice for the late President Kennedy at a fund-raising affair in October, 1962. The Cuban missile crisis kept the President in Washington.

E. German Medic Seeking Asylum Lands in Britain

GRIMSBY, England (AP) — An East German doctor who sought political asylum aboard a British trawler off Newfoundland was landed at this Yorkshire port today. Police and security men escorted him ashore.

Dr. Manfred Wachter, 38, is remaining in custody until the home office has considered his case.

Wachter asked Skipper Norman Chester of the Grimsby trawler Ross Fight to help him when he went aboard the trawler Ross Fight to help member of the crew. Chester said two of his men had gone aboard the East German fish factory ship Johannes Becker for medical aid.

Wachter returned with them in order to treat a third man who had stayed aboard the trawler. He then asked to stay.

"It was a difficult decision," said the skipper. "After I had allowed men from the East German ship to talk to the doctor, I decided to allow him to stay. The captain of the Johannes Becker said I was no gentleman."

Negro Boy Killed; Said to Be Robber

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — A 12-year-old Negro youth was shot and killed last night by a white junkyard dealer who said he caught the youth robbing his junkyard, it was reported early today.

An Albany funeral home said it was holding the youth's body but that it did not know his name. Police refused to confirm or deny the report.

The FBI office in Atlanta said it was investigating the shooting but that it had no details.

Despite Ugly Evils

Moment of Poetry Midst War

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—War is evil. War is ugly. War is wrong. Most of all, however, war is boring and wasteful. But now and then the long black hours of boredom in war are broken by a bright moment of pure poetry. Such a moment came 22 years ago this week when French and American troops "liberated" Paris. Actually, Paris itself was not so much liberated as they themselves were freed.

To the soldiers, worn from the green hills of Normandy hedgerows, the wide boulevards of "the City of Light" seemed like paths through paradise.

Time gives most of us more midnights than mornings. But to anyone who was in Paris on Aug. 25, 1944, that date remains indelibly engraved in his mind as one of the milestones of his life.

Paris at any time is a delight to the eye of any boy from Elmville, U.S.A., but on liberation day it was also an utter ecstasy of the spirit.

It was like being born into a world that was exploding all around you in joy and had no room for sadness. It was like being suddenly lifted from a tollsome rut and finding you had been given the gift of wings.

The heavy pack was shrugged from the first back. Everybody was laughing, everybody was young. All the girls were pretty and kissable, and there were no bottoms to the wine bottles.

There was no difference between day and night, and it seemed like the celebrating would go on forever.

Of course, it couldn't—and it didn't. That blinding morning of happiness finally wore out. The people of Paris went back to work, you had to start paying for the wine, and war again became a long, slow, boring, plodding trudge toward victory.

The other evening a group of graying ex-soldiers and paunchy former war correspondents met at the Overseas Press Club in New York and rekindled briefly the lost rapture of liberation day in Paris.

"Remember when—" said one fellow.

"Yes, and remember when— said another fellow, who couldn't quite remember the first fellow's name.

In a way it was sad, as most reunions are. It is hard to warm the heart over the ashes of a 20-year-old bonfire. And missing were such familiar figures as Ernie Pyle, "Red" Knickerbocker, Ernest Hemingway, A. J. Liebling, Clark Lee and Bob Capa, all gone down time's drain.

But for a couple of hours at least those who were there relieved a feeling of carefree glory they once had known and could never quite know again. It is a danger of war that it does sometimes provide such moments of intoxicating glory; it is a peril of peace that it so seldom gives most of us this shared feeling of exhilaration in unity.

Looking back across the last two decades, I can think of no one who knew better the dangers of war and perils of peace than Ernie Pyle. Numb himself by the horrors of combat, he wrote shortly before the liberation of Paris.

"All of us together will have to learn how to reassemble our broken world into a pattern so firm and so fair that another great war cannot soon be possible."

"Submersion in war does not necessarily qualify a man to be the master of the peace. All we can do is fumble and try once more—try out of the memory of our anguish—and be as tolerant with each other as we can."

Dem Nomination Win Birthday Gift for LBJ

A pleasant political coincidence in a life that has been full of political coincidences is the fact that President Johnson will be formally accepting the Democratic nomination at Atlantic City on his own 56th birthday. The nomination will not be an unexpected present.

We hasten to add our own happy birthday, Mr. President.

Always a political realist, JOHNSON had disclaimed any intention ever to seek the Presidency back in 1953. Although he was later to change his mind he said then: "I don't think anybody from the South will be nominated in my lifetime. If so, I don't think he will be elected."

Johnson's roots reach into the political liberalism of the New Deal. In his first try for the House, in 1937, he ran on a New Deal ticket endorsing the Roosevelt plan to pack the Supreme Court. Loyalty to the New Deal and to FDR identified Johnson as one of the leading members of the President's "Young Guard."

An analysis of his voting record in 1945 showed that, since taking his seat in the House in 1938, JOHNSON had maintained a party unity record of 90 per cent.

JOHNSON descended from pioneer politicians. His father and grandfather both served in the Texas Legislature. In 1955 JOHNSON was elected Senate majority leader. At 47, he was the youngest man ever to hold that post. He was a hard worker in the Senate and astute at getting legislation passed.

For years Johnson's close friends have worried about his tight schedule. In 1955 he suffered a coronary thrombosis which he later described as having been "as bad as a man can have and still live."

Aside from the birthday celebration and demonstration, Atlantic City convention is bound to have an elegiac tone. Mrs. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT, for so many years the party's First Lady, is to be memorialized, as is SAM RAYBURN, JOHNSON's old friend, Mr. Democrat, who presided over three conventions.

And the climax will be the tribute to the martyred President KENNEDY.

Director Gave Much to Improve Prisons

Few dissenters will be found to the praise being showered upon JAMES V. BENNETT, whose 28 year career as a Director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons ends with his retirement at age 70 on Friday. It was largely through his efforts, the Federal prison system is internationally recognized as superior to any other in the world.

When Bennett first came into the prison field in the 1920's the federal prisons were without meaningful rehabilitation programs. They were filled with idle inmates who left their confinement no better prepared for life on the outside than when they had entered. Bennett saw to it that prisoners were enrolled in a rehabilitation program on the day of their commitment and that it continued until the day of their departure.

The fruits of BENNETT's concern for correctional and parole programs are now being harvested. Last year the prison population of the 31 Federal penal and correctional institutions declined for the first year since 1949.

At the beginning of 1964, the prison population totaled about 22,800, which was 900 fewer than a year previously. This well fitted into BENNETT's belief that it was better to depend on "brains rather than bars" in dealing with criminals.

Few controversies developed during Bennett's tenure of nearly three decades. He was criticized in some quarters for the prison system's treatment of Robert Stroud, the murderer who became known as the "Birdman of Alcatraz." Stroud died in a prison hospital last November at age 73 after spending 54 years in prison, 42 of them in solitary confinement.

It is notable, however, that many of the men who were confined to Federal prisons under BENNETT are among the retiring director's heartiest supporters.

Dem Confab Dull Yet Fascinating

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
This is the dull political convention since the one the Republicans held in 1960, and for the same reason. Yet, it has its own special fascination in the things unseen and unsaid.

In 1956 the Republicans met to go through the motions of approving the nomination of Dwight D. Eisenhower. Here the Democrats are doing the same for the untested nomination of President Johnson.

Then and now, there was the usual routine of blasting the opposition.

But the Democratic speakers, reciting the wonders of the administrations of Johnson and the late President John F. Kennedy, bracket both men in their eulogies without mentioning the differences between them.

Perhaps the greatest difference was this: Kennedy was an individual kind of president; Johnson is far more the organization man.

Kennedy at the time of his death was still young enough to give a sense of youth to the presidency. Johnson can't. He is deeper in middle age.

WORDS HAD SPARKLE

The words of Kennedy, a far better read man than Johnson and therefore more literary in his thinking, had a sparkle which Johnson's more pedestrian speeches never achieve.

There was a sense of gaiety about Kennedy, a wit and detachment about himself and his job, which is lacking in Johnson who sounds more deadly serious and sometimes even dour.

But Kennedy wasn't in the same league with Johnson in unrelenting presidential drive aimed at persuading people, particularly in Congress, to melt their differences to do what he wanted or some of what he wanted.

He works at organizing his forces in a way Kennedy, just because of his detachment, might never have mastered. It seems a basic part of Johnson's make-up that he must succeed, if not entirely, at least a bit. SHOWED AT CONVENTION

It's this part of Johnson which showed up at this convention while he remained in Washington. There can hardly be any doubt his guiding hand is running the show. Sen. Barry Goldwater, by his positions on issues and the uncompromising tactics of his supporters at this year's Republican convention, has antagonized a number of Republicans.

For those Republicans who may find Goldwater too forceful or too conservative for their taste, the Democratic platform's moderate liberalism is offered as an inducement to go along with Johnson.

All this is implicit, if unstated, in what has happened here. And all of it is implicit in Johnson's philosophy, illustrated many times in the past, of how to organize to get what he wants.

It Would Seem The Judges Are Unanimous

Humphrey Choice Not Difficult

ATLANTIC CITY — The dilemma that confronted President Johnson in selecting a running mate was not as mysterious as it was made out to be.

The reasons for the deferment of any announcement had nothing to do with the idea of allowing sentiment to be worked up throughout the country for a particular candidate or for anything that might be described as a popular mandate.

The President really had a simple question before him: Did he have to put a Roman Catholic on the ticket?

If he did, then Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the majority leader of the Senate, was the natural and inevitable choice.

To have picked Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, also a Catholic, would have been to disregard Mansfield's position as the leader of the Democratic party in the Senate.

The moment the Republican National Convention picked Rep. William E. Miller, a Catholic, to be the Republican vice presidential nominee, a problem was posed for President Johnson.

ELIMINATED KENNEDY

He promptly eliminated Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, a Catholic, by ruling out all members of his Cabinet as vice presidential possibilities. So it became a question of analyzing viewpoints of local political leaders and determining from private surveys whether the omission of a Catholic from the ticket would be injurious to Mr. Johnson's political strength or whether the issue was really no longer of any political consequence.

There was also another question that had to be studied—Would the selection of Sen. Humphrey, a Protestant, gain some anti-Catholic votes that might come from Republicans who didn't approve of the selection of a Catholic on their own ticket?

Sen. Humphrey has been in the forefront of the "civil rights" controversy, so information was sought as to whether this would cause a loss of Democrats in the South as well as in those Northern states where the existence of a white backlash vote has lately been a matter of political concern.

Mr. Johnson has ways of reaching into every state to gather information on political attitudes. His aides were able to get a general idea of how the country would react to the selection of Humphrey.

KNOWN AS LIBERAL

The Minnesota senator, moreover, is widely known as a liberal, and his selection, the President was advised, would please the liberal elements of the party, including the followers of Adlai Stevenson.

Mr. Johnson has lately been trying to give to the business world an image of his administration as sound and on the whole, rather conservative. On the ticket, therefore, he balances things up a bit. So the plus points in favor of picking Sen. Humphrey gradually grew as political professionals were canvassed.

Mr. Johnson's decision was the result of a measurement of the benefits that could accrue to the ticket as against the disadvantages in certain areas of the country where the electoral vote might be close.

JEFFERSON LETTER

Sidney Hyman resurrects a passage from a letter Jefferson, then 83, wrote nine days before his death on July 4, 1826.

It was addressed to the chairman of a Jubilee committee in charge of the 50th anniversary celebration of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It might have been addressed to the chairman of the Mississippi and Alabama delegations to the 1964 Democratic convention: "All eyes are opened, or opening, to the rights of man. The general spread of the light of science has already laid open to every view the palpable truth that the mass of mankind has not been born with saddles on their backs, nor a favored few bootied and spurred, ready to ride them legitimately, by the grace of God."

"These are ground of hope for others."

"For ourselves, let the annual return of this day forever refresh our recollections of these rights, and an undiminished devotion to them."

All this could have been, of course, mostly a buildup for the announcement to a nationwide TV audience.

Voice of the People:

Reply to Student's Letter on Travel Restrictions

"WTHS Senior" who wishes to have his name withheld for obvious reasons, asks why our government restricts travel to Cuba. A very good answer comes from Carl Migdall, "U.S. News and World Report," who was in Cuba at the time of the students' visit. He says: "The most rabid enemies of U.S. Government I saw in Cuba were among the 81 American students invited by Castro for an all-expense junket. The students included curiosity seekers, fellow travelers and several who acted like disciplined Communists. Many seemed eager to be used by Castro for propaganda against the U.S."

"When Fidel Castro, in a speech, threatened to shoot U.S. soldiers if new incidents occurred at Guantanamo, I saw American students applaud enthusiastically. The appearance of most of the students as well as their attitude toward the U.S. made one feel ashamed to acknowledge them as fellow Americans. Most looked dirty, seedy, semi-combed, with many of the boys bearded."

"Even Castro's European guests found many of the American students repugnant. A pro-Castro French newspaperwoman asked me: 'Couldn't your country have found some decent students to send here? They are repulsive and a discredit to the people of the United States.'"

Does this answer your question, "WTHS SENIOR"?

MRS. CHARLES COLLINS
DRAYTON PLAINS

That "WTHS Senior" can't have reached the senior class. Even sophomores know that overthrowing our government by violence is traitorous and a prison offense. Khrushchev openly boasts "we'll bury you."

Hence, these many Cuban tourists who brag they're Communists should be imprisoned. This Waterford striping has a lot to learn about "freedom." Anyway, there are about 10,000 things he hasn't the freedom to do, and they're punishable by long prison terms.

Too many Americans are losing sight of basic truths and talk too freely about things they aren't old enough to understand.

L. C.

The U.S. Government doesn't object to anyone exercising his rights, but to visit a country that is threatening to blow out your brains does show immaturity. They should stay home until they can grow whiskers like that chicken picker and then if they feel the same they should go there and stay and help him pluck his poultry.

More White Lake Residents Comment

He who slanders the place where I live, slanders me. The person who bismarked the good name of White Lake Township in this column recently deserves the just wrath of myself and every good citizen of White Lake.

Having traveled over much of the earth, I moved to White Lake Township two years ago in search of the good life. My search has been most amply rewarded.

I challenge the writer to open debate.

DON VON DRAESE
9280 GALE

I urge every citizen of White Lake Township to read thoroughly the "Junk and Dismantled Car Ordinance." It states, in no uncertain terms, that every car, truck, tractor-trailer, etc., new or used, must be licensed and running at all times. If they aren't they can remain on your property not to exceed 14 days. Any re-designing, repairing or dismantling work has to be completed in 7 days. Minor repair work must be completed in 24 hours.

White Lake taxpayers agree a "junk ordinance" is needed, but when we are told to either have our repair work done by a licensed garage, or a time limit to complete it ourselves, we don't call it a "junk ordinance."

A WHITE LAKE TAXPAYER

Reader Points Up Democrats' Mistakes

Since foreign policy is the most important issue in the coming political campaign, I can't see how anyone can vote for the Democrats on their record of many mistakes. First FDR made the greatest mistake of all when he agreed to the Yalta and Potsdam agreements, thereby allowing Stalin to take over the very same countries that Hitler wanted to take over.

Then there were the mistakes of holding up our armies so Russia could take over half of Berlin; allowing Russia to not only take the machines from Germany but also the know-how to build the atomic bomb; the Korean War and the shameful Berlin Wall; believing Mr. K.'s promises; not supporting the Bay of Pigs invasion; not having a firm policy in South Viet Nam; and the wheat sale to Russia.

We are, and always have been a great nation, but heaven help us if we don't rise up and show that we still have backbone.

AMERICAN

'Americans Forgetting to Honor God'

Did the late President John F. Kennedy know he was talking about the first amendment of our Constitution when he recorded the now famous, "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country?"

Did he not perhaps mean, "Church leaders of America, ask not what Congress should do for you, but do for God what you should do to help those near you?"

Far far too many years, Americans have been rendering extreme tribute to Caesars (state) instead of to God, and have been moderate in paying tribute to God instead of to Caesars.

Mathias dropped to the floor and shouted, "Robbery! Robbery!"

The bandit fled.

'The Music Box'

By PAULINE ROTHRAUFF

Harry found the music box lying outside Mattie's house when he arrived for dinner the night of her birthday. It was lying on the steps, bright and shining, with its lid partly jarred open — as if someone had pitched it there.

Harry picked it up almost reverently. He had sent it to Mattie that morning and had thought it a handsome gift. And Mattie had said specifically that she wanted a music box for her birthday.

With a perplexed frown, Harry rang Mattie's bell, but there was no answer.

Shaking his head in bewilderment, Harry ambled away, still holding the music box.

"I guess I'll never understand Mattie," he sighed, thinking back over all the years that they had known each other.

SITTING ALONE

At that time, sitting alone behind her locked door and closed drapes, Mattie too was thinking back over past events.

Harry and Mattie, both middle-aged now, had grown up and gone to school together in the little town of Meadville.

When Mattie was 20 and he was 22, they had been sweethearts. Mattie was about to set the wedding date when a girl named Genevieve had come to Meadville to visit relatives.

Genevieve had been glamorous personified. All the girls were jealous of her and all the boys were crazy about her, including Harry.

Many unkind rumors were circulated about Harry and Genevieve, but Mattie had steadfastly refused to believe them right up until the night when Harry and Genevieve eloped.

It was reported that Harry did very well in the city and that he and Genevieve were living in luxury.

Then after a few years, they had parted. Genevieve had remarried and Harry was busy with his work.

FANCY FREE

And then about six months ago, Harry had returned — unmarried and fancy free. At first Mattie's injured pride kept her away from any gathering that he might attend, but gradually the old love, that she still had for him overcame her pride and she began to meet him socially.

After a couple of these meetings, Harry was acquiring her about just as he had done in years gone by.

Then a week ago, he had asked her to marry him and Mattie had accepted.

On the morning of Mattie's birthday, a messenger had arrived with two gaily wrapped packages — both from Harry. One was a box of red roses; the other the most beautiful music box that Mattie had ever seen.

"Oh, how lovely," breathed Mattie, as she wound the music box. "Just what I've been wanting."

The little box began to play sweet tinkling notes that slowly transformed Mattie's ecstatic smile into an angry frown. There was no mistaking that tune — no mistaking the words that went with it!

Mattie stood there horrified for a few minutes as the music box tinkled:

O, Genevieve, sweet Genevieve...

Then regaining her composure, Mattie had snatched up the horrible box and opening the door, pitched it out on the front steps where Harry found it when he came calling that night.

State Rocket Roars Aloft

Third Launch Less Than Satisfactory

COPPER HARBOR (AP) — The third rocket SS roared aloft Wednesday in what was reported a successful launching in a series of experiments to put Michigan into a weather rocket network.

But, again, engineers in charge of the project on the Keweenaw Peninsula expressed less than full satisfaction with information obtained from the missile.

Wednesday's firing was expected to give "approximate temperature and wind data" within an altitude range of 80,000 to 200,000 feet, reported Dr. Harold F. Allen, project director from the University of Michigan.

The earlier two launchings in the planned series of five were termed "qualified" successes in which neither flight yielded significant information on the weather.

"With more diverse equipment," Allen said, "we could have got complete data from these flights rather than partial data."

The fourth rocket is expected to be launched next week. The rocket sent up Wednesday was last tracked by radar to a point in Lake Superior 25 miles north of the Upper Peninsula community of Ishpeming. The missile was not designed to be recovered.

The three tests "have demonstrated convincingly it is possible to launch rockets from the Upper Peninsula in safety," Allen said.

Proposals for further launchings are expected to be submitted at the end of the five-test series to the U. S. Weather Bureau and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Say Congolese Nearing Rebels

Predict 2 Cities May Be Regained by Night

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Congolese Army troops supported by white mercenaries were reported advancing on the rebel-held cities of Lusamba and Albertville today.

Predictions that both cities might be recaptured by nightfall were received. This would be a major reversal for the rebels, whose leaders have been trained by Communist China.

Lusamba is in the Central Congo, about 550 miles east of Leopoldville. Albertville, the capital of North Katanga Province, is 375 miles further east on Lake Tanganyika.

Reports here said serious fighting was under way opposite Lusamba near the Sankuru River in the Central Congo.

They said that non-Congolese pilots under contract to Premier Moise Tshombe's government were flying missions over the area, and that the pro-Communist rebels had abandoned the town itself.

NEAR ALBERTVILLE

Reports received in Albertville said that Congolese and mercenary troops had driven to within 45 miles of Albertville, a major city which the rebels have been using as a base of operations for the rebellion in the east.

Government reinforcements were on the way for an expected attack on Albertville, the Elisabethville reports said.

The United States, which supports the Central Congolese government, recently stepped up its military aid to Tshombe. But no Americans are fighting in the Congo.

In Washington, State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said, "The United States position on the Congo today is, as it was in 1960, to help the Congolese government in its attempt to maintain the independence and territorial integrity of that nation."

After the Congo became independent in 1960, the United States supported the United Nations in crushing an accessionist movement in Katanga led by Tshombe.

Search Starts for Yule Tree

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Talk about doing your Christmas shopping early.

The city of Philadelphia announced today it's looking around for its annual Christmas tree, a 50-foot or taller evergreen to decorate City Hall Plaza during the yule season.

Last year's tree was given by the Canadian government. Frederick R. Mann, city representative, said he hoped a Philadelphia resident would give a tree to the city this year. "It's not too early to start looking," said Mann.

The traffic death toll in the U.S. figures out to 7.3 fatalities per one hundred million miles of travel; lowest ratio in the world.

Political Foes Freed by Reds

E. German Regime
Releases Prisoners

BONN (UPI) — Communist East Germany has quietly begun releasing West Germans and West Berliners held as political prisoners, it was learned today.

No figures were disclosed, but it is estimated that about 1,000 of the 12,000 political prisoners believed held in East Germany are West Germans or West Berliners.

Informed sources said the releases may be the result of an unannounced agreement between the East and West German governments.

It was noted that West Germany freed an East German publisher, Guenter Hofe, on Monday. He had been held 10 months on suspicion of espionage.

There was speculation that other East Germans held in the West may have been released.

VISITING PASSES

The sources said the freeing of prisoners might also have been connected with East-West negotiations on visiting passes to East Berlin, which has been sealed off by the Communist wall for three years.

The Communists permitted West Berliners to visit the eastern sector last Christmas, but talks on an Easter visiting agreement broke down.

Talks have continued sporadically since then on permanent visiting arrangements.

Another possible reason for the releases could be the forthcoming 15th anniversary of the founding of the Communist regime in East Germany, the sources said.

NOT KNOWN

It was not known if any East German political prisoners were being released.

The West Germans and West Berliners were being returned to West Germany by bus to the border crossing point of Wartha, the sources said.

'Moon' Tests Are Pleasing to Scientists

BEND, Ore. (AP) — Scientists moved to the last of their three make-believe moon fields today, pleased by the way astronaut Walter Cunningham and two engineers have performed this week.

"The results have been quite gratifying," test director Earl LaFavers said at a news conference Wednesday night. "There have been fewer problems than we expected."

The series of walking, climbing, equipment-testing and sample-gathering activities in central Oregon are designed to determine what man can be expected to do once he reaches the moon.

The crew from the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex., has conducted its so-called time and motion tests since Monday on a rocky lava bed and sand-like pumice field. Today's work was on a volcanic glass surface.

WATCH TESTS

The scientific team allowed newsmen to watch test sessions Tuesday and Wednesday, but requested privacy for today and Friday.

The tests conducted in this area will be repeated at Houston under conditions simulating the moon's gravity, which is one-sixth that of earth.

Goldwater Boating; Says Timing Bad for Viet Talks

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater sought privacy at sea today after thrusting the guerrilla war in South Viet Nam squarely into his campaign against President Johnson.

While the Democratic National Convention nominated Johnson and chose Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota to run with the President, the Republican nominee for the White House cruised the waters off Southern California.

Lolling against the stern rail of a borrowed 83-foot yacht Wednesday, Goldwater:

• Declared he thinks the Johnson administration is trying to negotiate a settlement of the Southeast Asian fighting before Election Day; said that timing would be wrong and added he fears such an agreement would be a giveaway to the Communists.

• Said some form of negotiations with Red China "might be profitable" — when pro-Western forces can deal from a position of strength in Southeast Asia.

• Labeled the U.S.-backed war against Communists in South Viet Nam an issue of major concern to the voters in the presidential race.

EXPECTS AGREEMENT

Goldwater, striking a theme with he raised in Cleveland, Ohio, two days ago, said he expects to hear "most any day" of a negotiated settlement in Viet Nam.

The senator told reporters at the floating news conference in Catalina Island's Avalon harbor his "political bones" tell him word of negotiations can be expected before Election Day.

"I hope it's not a giveaway to the Communists," he said. "I suspect that's what it will be if we have one."

Goldwater said this is not the time for peace talks. "Before any negotiations are begun that involve us directly or indirectly, we must improve our military position," he said. "I don't think the military situation is such that we have much to bargain with."

Goldwater said he read a newspaper report forecasting negotiations for peace in South Viet Nam. He mentioned a Central Intelligence Agency report, saying it also talked of negotiations.

He said that "is the typical pattern" used to prepare the public for an announcement that negotiations have been held.

"I feel from that that we are considering it and we are closer to it than Congress or the public realize," he said.

Goldwater said any future negotiations should involve as little Communist participation as possible.

RED CHINA ROLE

But he indicated Red China would have to play a part in any settlement negotiations.

"I think that's where you have to go," he said.

"Any president should always be interested in negotiations," Goldwater said. "That's the way you end wars."

"I've thought for some time that a talk like that with the Red Chinese might be profitable," he said.

NOT NOW

But, he added: "I don't think we can possibly come out of any negotiations now with an honorable type of peace which would be honorable to Viet Nam and honorable to those men of ours who fought and died over there."

The enemy should be the one, actually, that should institute negotiations, Goldwater said, "unless through the United Nations you can find interest in both sides."

"The solution is not really a military solution in the long run," he said. "If somebody starts negotiations I hope it will be through the United Nations."

Through press secretary Paul Wagner he relayed a clarification of his comments on negotiating with the Communist Chinese.

NOT BARRY'S

Wagner said Goldwater, on a ship-to-shore phone, declared that was not his suggestion, but one advanced by military men and civilian experts.

These advisors, Wagner quoted Goldwater as saying, recommended that when the South Vietnamese military situation is improved, the United States send word to Red China demanding that nation stop sending supplies that end up in the hands of Communist guerrillas.

If the Chinese do not halt shipments, Wagner said Goldwater told him, the United States could stage a show of strength to underline its intentions.

"I'm not recommending this, but it might not be an impossible idea," Wagner said Goldwater added.

TAKES IT EASY

Goldwater, in red pants and a white polo shirt, said he plans to spend his vacation days fishing, working a portable ham radio set, and preparing the speech with which he will formally launch his campaign at Prescott, Ariz., on Sept. 3.

Barry: LBJ Ahead but Margin Smaller

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says his private polls show President Johnson well ahead in their race for the White House — but he adds there are "signs of improvement" for the Republican cause.

Goldwater told a news conference aboard a yacht off Catalina Island "The polls we see are 63-39, something like that."

"I wouldn't call that good, but I don't think the polls are too dependable any more."

"We have done some re-searching in a way that other polls haven't," he added. "We come up with pretty much the same results, but we also see some very good signs of improvement."

Goldwater also denied that Republican growth in the southern states is based on opposition to the civil rights movement.

PRO-INTEGRATION

"You'll find the Republicans down there generally to be quite pro-integration," he said. "These are new young people and they're Republicans because they're oriented economically in a conservative way."

"I don't believe that I'm as strong in the South as some people would like to believe," Goldwater added. "I think I'm strong."

But he said that could change "almost overnight."

"And I think we're going to pick up seats in the House regardless of what happens to me," the GOP nominee added.

NO RIGHTS DEBATE

Goldwater said he would like to see civil rights kept out of the presidential campaign.

"I don't think the Democratic platform made any decent mention of it," he said. "I think the Republican platform is much stronger."

The Arizona senator said as president he would not make appointments with an eye on the South.

He said there are southerners who would make fine Supreme Court justices — but there are equally fine prospects from all parts of the nation.

"VERY CAREFUL"

"I would be very careful in appointment of justices to the Supreme Court," he said. "I don't want them biased in one way or another."

Republicans in Primary Debate

Hart Target of GOP Senate Hopefuls

SAGINAW (UP) — Democratic Sen. Philip A. Hart took it on the chin last night when the three Republicans seeking his job held their first and only joint debate of the primary campaign.

Mrs. Elly Peterson of Charlotte claimed Hart, who is opposed in the Democratic primary "is vulnerable because he has not been an effective senator for Michigan."

Grand Haven businessman Edward Meany charged the incumbent has done nothing during his six-year term to combat "a breakdown in morality in business and government" and that he has contributed to a continuing centralization of government in Washington.

James O'Neil, the only Republican member of the State Board of Education and a Livonia resident, attacked Hart on the grounds "he has been a rubber stamp for the Democratic administration."

The criticism was leveled when Mrs. Peterson, Meany and O'Neil faced newsmen's questions on a panel show.

CONTRIBUTION TO PEACE

When the subject of Hart's "Yes" votes for the nuclear test-ban treaty and the tax cut, civil rights and anti-poverty bills was raised the three Republicans indicated unanimous support for only one of the measures—the treaty.

Mrs. Peterson, Meany and O'Neil all agreed the international accord banning above surface nuclear explosions was a contribution to peace.

Mrs. Peterson and O'Neil also agreed they would have supported the civil rights bill, but Meany said his vote could have gone either way on this issue.

The GOP candidates would have unanimously opposed the tax cut and anti-poverty legislation had they been in Hart's seat, they said.

SHOULDN'T REDUCE

Meany said flatly, "you shouldn't reduce taxes when the budget is out of balance."

Mrs. Peterson and O'Neil said they could not have backed the tax cut unless simultaneous cuts had been made in federal spending.

Mrs. Peterson, who was na-

"A bill that begins with a billion dollars and has no ceiling could be very detrimental," she said.

She said some fiscal observers have estimated $15 billion may eventually be spent through programs established by the "War on Poverty" bill.

"It also places too much power in the hands of one man—the poverty czar, Sargent Shriver," Mrs. Peterson said. "And the job Corps is just a rehash of the old CCC (Civil Conservation Corps).

"This bill was not properly thought out beforehand and they should have called it the struggle for votes," Mrs. Peterson said.

All three Republicans firmly endorsed GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater and at the same time said they saw no inconsistency in the fact Gov. Romney has declined to back the Arizona Senator.

Britannia Cargo Plane

Crashes at State Base

OSCODA (AP) — A four-engine Britannia cargo plane crashed on takeoff Wednesday at Wurtsmith Air Force Base. None of the three crew members was injured, an Air Force spokesman said.

The turbo-prop plane, a privately owned craft under contract to the Air Force, crashed when the landing gear collapsed as the plane was gathering speed just before becoming airborne, the spokesman said.

DENIS M. BERRY

Would you like your girl or boy to be publicly whipped and humiliated. The "Whipping Post" bill proposed by Arthur J. Law had this in mind.

He would permit a child to be beaten publicly for doing wrong. This is a medieval or Seventeenth-Century answer to a Twentieth-Century problem of youth who get into trouble. It would not solve the problem! It would only create new ones! Modern educators and psychologists agree flogging can turn a child into a potential criminal.

Superintendent of Schools, Lynn Bartlett and Attorney General, Frank Kelly violently disagree with this ridiculous legislation. My opponent has made the Democrats the laughing-stock of the nation.

I believe in discipline in the home. Neither parent nor child should be publicly shamed by a whipping. Modern research and common sense have better answers to improve the behavior of our children.

The "Whipping Post" bill is a sample of the inadequate legislation the incumbent has proposed. He has done little else. His salary is paid from your taxes but he has failed to work for Pontiac. He has shown no leadership. He is, to me, incapable of this important position and we outvoted as his legislation. Defeat this man! Vote for Denis M. Berry for State Representative!

19-Year-Olds Killed

FLINT (AP)—A pair of 19-year-old Swartz Creek youths were killed Wednesday when their car crashed into an embankment four miles west of here.

State police identified the victims as Charles Sabo and Daniel Coe.

The Panama Canal is the only one in the world that connects two oceans.

Road Crash Fatal

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Dennis Hart, 17, of Grand Rapids was killed Wednesday in a car-truck collision 12 miles west of here.

'Poland Has No Monopoly on Vices'

CZESTOCHOWA, Poland (U)—Som Poles may drink or shirk work, but that doesn't mean Poland has a monopoly on such vices, says Stefan Cardinal Wysynski.

"Speaking about our vices, we must declare that we are not the worst people," the Roman Catholic primate of Poland told 50,000 worshippers Wednesday at the anniversary of Czestochowa's 600-year-old shrine of the "Black Madonna."

"There are other nations who drink yet more," Cardinal Wysynski said.

The same applies to laziness, he said, but added "We perhaps insufficiently regard the duty to work."

INDIRECT REPLY

The primate spoke in indirect reply to criticism by Poland's Communist regime that drinking and sloth are traditional vices hindering Polish progress.

Cardinal Wysynski extolled Polish spirit and dedication to Christianity as a guarantee that the Church would survive under Communist rule.

The primate charged that government films have belittled certain heroes of Polish history which is closely connected with religion.

"Many magnificent fragments of the history of our people were ridiculed," he said.

Southern Rhodesia

Suppresses Newspaper
SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (U)—The Southern Rhodesian government today suppressed the Salisbury newspaper Daily News, one of Lord Thomson's chain. This action came a few hours after Parliament supported a government motion asking the country's British governor to ban the paper.

Police served the ban notice on the paper's managing editor, Eugene Wason, just as it was ready to go to press with news of Parliament's decision. The printing run was immediately stopped.

Most northerly point in continental U.S. is the Minnesota Angle country.

'Brain' to Aid Flunkers

EAST LANSING (AP) — The mechanical brain of a computer now is helping Michigan State University figure out which new students might flunk out.

The computer is trained to sort through the records of some 14,000 freshmen and sophomores who might be headed for trouble because of academic difficulties.

The students then are called in for conferences with human professors taking over after the mechanical brain has selected the subjects.

MSU spokesmen said the computer can obtain academic profiles on the students in a few hours. Before, secretaries had to scan the records for several weeks.

Nikita in Prague
for Revolution Fete

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev flew into Prague today for ceremonies marking the 20th anniversary of the wartime Slovak uprising.

He is expected to discuss the Moscow-Peking feud with his Czechoslovak hosts, headed by President Antonin Novotny. Economic problems are also slated for discussion, Czechoslovak papers reported earlier. Khrushchev was accompanied by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Marshal Sergei Biryuzov.

Suspect Waives Exam
on Bank Theft Charge

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., (AP) — Chester Lee Simmons, 22, charged with robbing a Kentucky bank last month, waived preliminary hearing before U.S. Commissioner Walter Parker Wednesday and was held in lieu of $15,000 bond.

Simmons, a former carnival worker and laborer from Lake City, Mich., was arrested Tuesday at Logan, W. Va., by FBI agents.

Canadian Firm to Use Balloons
in Hauling Logs

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A British Columbia forest products firm plans to try hauling logs out of the woods with balloons.

Macmillan, Bloedel and Power River Ltd. announced Wednesday it has ordered three huge helium-filled balloons and will begin its test of the new technique as soon as they arrive at its Port Alberni, B.C., operations site.

"If the operational tests are successful, thousands of acres of British Columbia forest lands which are not now economically or physically accessible may be opened up," the company said.

The Marine Corps, founded in 1775, had two battalions in the Revolutionary War.

In Commerce Township, the local ballot has only a proposition, while proposals will appear with candidates in Avon, Highland, Orion and Pontiac townships.

Following is a list of candidates and proposals in other area townships where local decisions will be made Tuesday:

Avon Township to Seek Federal Planning Aid

AVON TOWNSHIP — Supervisor Cyril E. Miller informed the township board last night that he is initiating a township application for federal advance funds for water and sewer project planning.

Miller received a letter yesterday from J. P. Harris, regional director for community facilities, of the Housing and Home Finance Agency's Chicago office.

The letter informed Miller that the new 702 Plan, Senate Bill 3049, had been passed by both houses of Congress and sent to the White House for presidential signature.

The 702 Plan, part of President Johnson's housing package, is a program for advancing loans to municipalities for public works planning of a specific project.

Lengthy Session Planned Tonight by Oxford Board

OXFORD — A lengthy, two-part session is in store for the Oxford Board of Education tonight, as a recessed meeting is continued and a teacher tenure comes under productive discussion.

A regular meeting recessed and postponed from Tuesday night will begin at 9 p.m.

Business matters, approval of teacher contracts and a discussion of the financial report are on the agenda for this part of the session.

Michigan law permits discussion of the policy to be adopted by the board regarding the statewide teacher tenure law before 12:01 a.m. A policy may be adopted after that time.

The board authorized Miller to sign a contract to continue the township's participation in the 701 program, now being used for planning in the Avon-Rochester area.

Both programs can be used at the same time by a single municipality, which would ideally use the 701 program for master planning and the 702 program for planning of specific projects within the master plan.

The board authorized Miller to sign a contract to continue the township's participation in the 701 program, now being used for planning in the Avon-Rochester area.

Pros, Cons Shown in Apartment Study

By PAT McCARTY
FARMINGTON — City planners report Farmington is reaching the saturation point for apartments — Imagewise.

Taxwise, it could be doing worse.

City councilmen, taking note of the number of apartment developers attracted to the area, asked the planners to study the situation early this year.

The planning commission's report was presented this week.

LESS BURDEN

"If you weighed apartments versus single-family dwellings on a dollar-and-cents basis, apartments provide a much higher tax base, cause less burden on the school district, require less municipal services and create higher purchasing power than single-family developments," planners said.

But they emphasize other factors.

"The City of Farmington has grown in stability due to the fact that it is unique in that it has the quaintness of a small town yet the services of an urban area," they said.

ULTIMATE DEVELOPMENT

Present zoning will allow ultimate development of about 617 apartment units in the city and about two-thirds that number now are occupied or near completion.

One apartment site has room for 16 more units and all others are under construction. The remaining requests of two developers are pending.

Such development is desirable if compatible with the surrounding property, according to the planning commission.

SPECIFIC SITE

Apartment buildings now can be constructed in general commercial areas, but planners recommend omment this require rezoning if a specific site is found suitable.

Analyzing the economics of apartment buildings, planning commissioners reported properties now under construction or zoned for multiple residence use could produce $4,944 a year in city, school and county taxes.

They compared this figure to a possible $19,156 from single-family development on the same property.

The school district, they said, could expect about 50 students from 500 apartments while the same property with one-family residences on it would produce about 166.

PUBLIC SAFETY

It was estimated that public safety costs would run 25 per cent less and public works costs 75 per cent less for apartments than if the areas were developed with houses.

This planners attributed to the concentration of population in a small area, the centralization of service needs and the general makeup of the apartment dweller.

The density factor, along with the above-average incomes of apartment dwellers, prove to be valuable assets to the stability of the business climate, planners said.

They estimated the purchasing power ratio at five to one.

"Based on 500 apartment units, it is estimated that there would be a gross income of $4,694,500 compared to $1,061,000 if the same properties were developed for single-family residents," they reported.

They assumed that 26 per cent of the gross income would be spent in local retail stores, thus arriving at a $1 million spending figure for apartment dwellers and $230,000 for those living in houses.

Planners suggested that sections of the building code dealing with sound proofing and fire proofing be upgraded to meet Federal Housing Administration recommendations.

City Manager John Dinan was authorized by the council to draw up the revisions.

He noted that complaints about noise were prevalent among apartment dwellers who answered the planning commission survey.

Johnson Hopes His Appeal Will Touch Every Elector

By FRANK CORMIER

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson, who often refers to himself as "president of all the people," now wants to be candidate of all the people.

Any attempt to assess the campaign tactics of the just-nominated Democratic standard bearer is apt to founder unless weighed against Johnson's aim to claim the broad middle ground on the political battlefield and appeal to just about everyone.

In his contest with Sen. Barry Goldwater, Johnson will try to picture the Republican presidential nominee as being far removed from the mainstream of American political thought.

As Senate Democratic leader and during nine months as president, he has sought to represent a broad consensus of attitudes on key issues. He made it his stated policy nearly three months ago.

DEEP DESIRES

Addressing the graduating class at the University of Texas, Johnson said the American people share the same deep desires — for peace, justice and a better life.

"This is the real voice of America," he asserted. "And it is one of the great tasks of political leadership to make our people aware of this voice, aware that they share a fundamental unity of interest and purpose and belief."

This was a prepared-in-advance speech, which added something to the significance of his next words:

"I am going to try and do this. And on the basis of this unity, I intend to try and achieve a broad national consensus which can end obstruction and paralysis, and can liberate the energies of the nation for the work of the future."

LEGISLATIVE GOALS

Johnson, in another address, to a union audience in Cleveland, Ohio, in mid-June, talked about his legislative goals and hit the consensus theme again by saying:

"This is not just my program but yours. It is not the program of a single group or party; it is the program not of Democrats or Republicans — it is the program for all Americans."

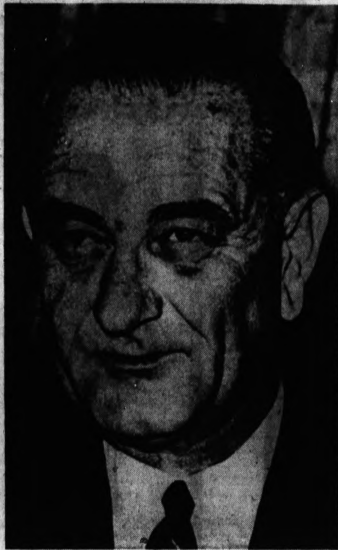

However, lest anyone get the idea from this that Johnson plans a nonpartisan campaign, it is well to recall his off-the-cuff remarks at a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Minneapolis, Minn., on June 27:

Surveying an audience liberally sprinkled with big businessmen long identified with the Republican cause, Johnson promised to build the Great Society — his preferred label for his presidential goals — "by uniting our people, by bringing our capital and our management and our labor and our farmers all under one great Democratic tent."

SEEKS BACKING

From the moment he became president last Nov. 22 upon the assassination of John F. Kennedy, Johnson has energetically sought the backing of all segments of the populace.

More than any Democrat in recent decades, Johnson has achieved a signal success in wooing influential business leaders. Henry Ford II is a notable example. This auto magnate never backed a Democrat for the presidency, but he's backing Johnson.

Yet there is no evidence that Johnson has experienced any defections among leaders of organized labor, who traditionally support Democratic presidents.

Any attempt to build a consensus inevitably involves a delicate balancing act — something at which Johnson is an old hand.

DOUBLE EXPOSURE

If he has a private life-a-lete, for instance, with President Keith Funston of the New York Stock Exchange, next day he's apt to hold a similar session with President George Meany of the AFL-CIO. If he confers with a group of Southern politicians, next day he'll likely meet with representatives of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. But if Johnson now has friends that would have seemed unlikely nine months ago, he also has lost friends.

Although his steadfast support for the civil rights cause has cost him some support, he is counting on his personal assessment that the ideal of racial justice is supported by the great majority of voters. And he rarely fails to appeal directly to those who resist the idea.

CLOSE SPRINGS

"Let us close the springs of racial poison," he says. "Let us pray for wise and understanding hearts. Let us pray for understanding hearts. Let us pray for understanding hearts."

ant differences and make our nation whole." Again, there's the unity theme.

Racial justice is a key goal of Johnson's Great Society which, he says, would bring "abundance and liberty for all."

The Great Society also represents the better life — "a place where every family has a roof over its head, a rug on the floor, a picture on the wall and a little music in the house."

FOLKSY, CORNY

This phrase is typically Johnson: folksy and, some might say, corny.

Yet those who have observed Johnson closely find that he often speaks in this manner when he discusses a subject on which he is deeply committed.

This seems true, certainly, of his anti-poverty program which Goldwater has labeled a vote-getting scheme. Johnson twice last spring stumped the Deep South and Appalachia in support of this program and delivered some of his most effective speeches.

There are other Great Society proposals, too, that surely will be debated during the campaign: health insurance for the aged, aid to education, expanded minimum wage coverage; in fact, a broad gamut of social measures. And the Republicans have made it clear that they will be talking about foreign policy.

Greater stress on economy in government is one of the personal touches that Johnson has added to the program he inherited from Kennedy. The poverty program also was fashioned under his direction.

He undertook at least one other major initiative in the domestic field: his efforts, successful against great odds, to avert the threat of a national rail strike last winter.

Yet Johnson has expended most of his energy in behalf of inherited measures: the biggest tax cut in history, the broadest civil rights law in a century and a variety of lesser items.

For the early enactment of these, Johnson can claim much of the credit.

PEACE OFFENSIVE

In foreign affairs, Johnson swung into 1964 promising an "unrelenting peace offensive." This has yet to bear significant fruit. At midyear, he spent a lot of time trying to avert war over Cyprus between Greece and Turkey.

And, throughout the year, he wrestled with other crises — and more ominous ones — in Laos and Viet Nam, as well as flare-ups in Panama and Cuba.

Have nine months in the White House changed Lyndon Baines Johnson? There are small signs of change.

Johnson's oft-repeated rallying cry during the early months — "I need your help" — has been muted of late. Whether this reflects a more sure-footed

Johnson or simply the passing of a time of national crisis isn't entirely clear.

HAS CHANGED

In one respect, Johnson almost surely has changed. He seems less sensitive to press criticism than was the case earlier in the year.

Johnson's progress has been upward and upward since he first went to Washington in 1961 as secretary to a Texas House member.

And success has followed him in his private life. He and his family have managed to amass a fortune listed at $3,464,000. The figure comes from a report drawn up at his direction by an accounting firm. Published estimates of the Johnson family fortune have ranged as high as $14 million.

Some Republican campaigners are focusing on these figures. And some of them have been harkening to Johnson's tie with Bobby Baker, his old friend and onetime protégé whose financial dealings have been castigated by Senate investigators.

Johnson was not born to wealth. And he likes to remind audiences of his modest beginnings. He talks often about being the son of a tenant farmer, usually failing to mention that his father also was a schoolteacher and five-term member of the Texas Legislature.

Johnson sees himself as a man of the people who understands their needs and wants and who can lead them into the Promised Land of the Great Society. If the Great Society seems a far-away dream to many, Johnson finds it no more improbable than his own success story.

Islam No Longer Important Influence in Uzbekistan

TASHKENT, U.S.S.R. (U)—The crumbling or converted mosque is a symbol in Uzbekistan, which with 10 million people is the most populous of the four Soviet republics of Central Asia.

Before the 1917 revolution this corner of the Russian empire was almost entirely Moslem. Today, Islam has been virtually obliterated as an important influence on the lives of the Uzbek people.

Women are in the background in Moslem times. Now they represent a vital component of Uzbekistan's labor force.

The official Communist party line is that most people have abandoned religion because of social and economic progress, plus expansion of public education.

"But a certain section of the population continues to profess Islam and freely perform all religious rites," says official literature.

LAWS OF REPUBLIC

The laws of the Republic ostensibly provide for freedom of religion and freedom of antireligious propaganda. But it's easy to see which has had the most powerful impact.

You find decaying and locked-up mosques. Others have been converted into apartment houses, libraries, shopping centers, movies and public monuments.

The term "monument" is sometimes a euphemism. One mosque in Bukhara, described as a monument by the local guide, turns out to be a pool hall.

The authorities say 250 mosques operate in Soviet Central Asia. However, some are only makeshift or part-time ones.

NO FIGURES

While there is no authoritative figure on the number of practicing Moslems in Uzbekistan, one is told there are some 20 million in the U.S.S.R.

Ismael Mahdun Sattiyev, deputy mufti for the Central Asian Republics and Kazakhstan, met visiting reporters in a reception room on the grounds of Tashkent's main mosque, Bura-Khas, built in the 15th Century.

"There is propaganda against

Religion Rules Set for Schools

In Effect on Friday for State's Students

LANSING (AP)—Broad rules governing public school children's attendance at private religious classes during school hours will go into effect Friday, Superintendent of Public Instruction Lynn Bartlett said today.

The rules implement a new state law which permits students to spend up to two hours per week away from public school classes at religious instruction.

Under the new rules, local boards of education must release a student for the religious classes upon annual written application of the student's parent or guardian.

State law requires the classes to be held off public school property. The administrative rules require the private group to keep attendance records.

NO IDEA

Bartlett said he has "no way of knowing" how many of the state's estimated 1,915,000 elementary and secondary school students might take advantage of the program.

"I don't think it will be very many this year because the program is so late in starting," he said. One rule requires persons or groups conducting the religious classes to notify public school officials "sufficiently in advance of the beginning of such class" so that release requests can be processed.

Bartlett said representatives of numerous faiths have indicated long-range interest in the plan.

us, but we are convinced our faith is good and we are doing our business," he said.

Antireligious government propaganda attacks "mainly superstitions," he said, but it doesn't touch "the fundamentals of our religion."

NEW EDITIONS

Periodically, new editions of the Koran are published here. In 1956 there was a printing of 4,000 copies and in 1960 one of 5,000.

While most of Uzbekistan's religious training schools have been closed or converted into museums, one still operates in Bukhara. It has 35 to 40 students.

Vice Premier Sarvar Azimov of Uzbekistan says that when a mosque is closed, it is usually at the request of the congregation.

Once women were not permitted to appear in public places without the veil. The new generation Uzbek girl is well dressed and educated and has little time for quaint customs.

LABOR FORCE

Women account for one-third of all the labor employed in industry and 40 per cent of all specialists with higher education. Almost 70 per cent of Uzbekistan's doctors are women.

A government brochure, offering an insight into the sort of values that prevail, says many women operators of cotton-picking machines "have become known far and wide in Uzbekistan."

Some of history's giants have figured in Uzbekistan's past: Alexander of Macedon, Genghis Khan and his Mongol hordes; and Timur, commonly known as Tamerlane.

Most of the conquerors are regarded as mere plunderers by contemporary Uzbek leaders, who emphasize that Central Asia had a highly developed culture before Alexander arrived in the 4th Century B.C.

DIFFERENT LINE

The line on the mighty Tamerlane is different. Official tourist literature says he raised this area anew to "glory and fame" through his vast Asiatic conquests in the 14th Century. Tamerlane was a native son, born 50 miles south of Samar-kand.

Though 80 per cent of Uzbekistan is desert, semidesert or arid mountain, it encloses portions of two great river systems, Syr Darya and Amu Darya, which irrigate the region.

It produces two-thirds of the cotton grown in the U.S.S.R. and likes to call itself "the republic of the white gold." It also produces silk, jade, fruit and vegetables in abundance, along with metals.

Here in Tashkent, hub of the republic and its industrial center, Communist party officials point to scores of new apartment buildings, huge construction cranes, concrete slabs piled next to mud-walled huts marked for extinction.

COSMOPOLITAN CITY

Tashkent is a cosmopolitan city and an Asiatic crossroads. Planes land here en route from Afghanistan and India to Moscow.

It tries to look like a city on the move. Yet it is also a relaxed place.

"I think it is much more humorous than Moscow," said a visiting French reporter. He meant that Tashkent, for all its buoyant energy, doesn't seem to take itself so seriously.

When Mayor Husmudin Asanov boasts that Tashkent has 30,000 motor vehicles, this statistic indicates the city has a long way to go in mechanization. It means there is one vehicle for every 36 people. And most of the motor vehicles are state-owned trucks.

Uncooked Jams Will Hold Flavor

Blueberries and cherries can charm and encourage the most timid of appetites, especially when they appear on the table in a homemade jam. And at this time of year when everyone longs for a change on the breakfast menu, along come fresh blueberries and cherries to fulfill our need for added appetite appeal. Just try these recipes and see!

The Blueberry-Cherry Jam is made without cooking the fruit. This new, quick, and easy method captures all the flavor of the freshly-picked fruit, and is stored in the freezer. If the jam is to be eaten within three weeks, it may be kept in the refrigerator.

The recipe for Cherry Preserves takes longer, but it is well worth the added effort, for the results are much the same as the old "sun" preserves which required several days' worth of weathering. This modern recipe takes several hours, but all preparation takes place inside the house!

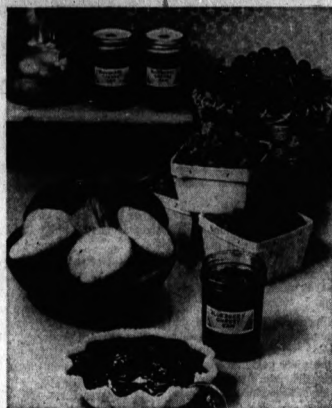

Blueberry-Cherry Jam
3 cups prepared fruit (about 1 pt. ripe sour cherries and 1 pt. ripe blueberries)
4 cups sugar
¼ cup water
1 box (1½ oz.) powdered fruit pectin

First, prepare the fruit. Pit and grind about 1 pint fully ripe sour cherries. Measure 1½ cups into a large bowl or pan. Grind about 1 pint fully ripe blueberries. Measure 1½ cups into bowl with cherries.

Then make the jam. Measure sugar, add to fruit, mix well, and let stand. Mix water and fruit pectin in small saucepan. Bring to a boil and boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Stir into fruit mixture. Continue stirring about 3 minutes. (There will be a few remaining sugar crystals.) Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with tight lids. Let jam stand until set (this may take up to 24 hours); then store in freezer. If jam will be used within 2 or 3 weeks, it may be stored in refrigerator.

Cherry Preserves
5 cups cherries (about 2½ lb. ripe sweet cherries)
5 cups sugar
¼ cup lemon juice (2 lemons)
¼ bottle liquid fruit pectin

Stem and pit about 2½ pounds fully ripe sweet cherries. Measure 5 cups (firmly packed without crushing) into a large saucepan. Add sugar. Let stand ½ hour, stirring occasionally. Then place over high heat and bring to a full rolling boil. Remove from heat and at once stir in fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for about 8 to 10 minutes to cool slightly and to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover preserves at once with ¼ inch hot paraffin.

BLUEBERRY-CHERRY JAM — Homemade Blueberry-Cherry Jam unites two favorite summer fruits in a distinctively flavored sweet spread that can do wonders for appetites at breakfast. The recipe requires no cooking of the fruit, so the flavor is very fresh. Try it with buttered corn muffins and watch them go like hot cakes!

Pickles Never Go Out of Fashion

By JANET ODELL

Feature Press Food Editor

Seems to me that it's about time to be making pickles. I'm sure many of you have already started, but the vegetables will keep coming for some time. Remember that your pickles will be only as good as the ingredients you put into them. Use fruits and vegetables of good quality; be sure they are fresh.

One other thing to remember is that you do not use iodized salt for pickles. Buy a bag of coarse salt.

Bread 'n' Butter Pickles are probably as popular as any kind. Making them is not difficult.

Bread 'n' Butter Pickles
2 quarts medium sized cucumbers
4 large onions
1 green pepper
1/4 cup coarse salt
2 1/2 cups sugar
1/4 teaspoon powdered turmeric
1/4 teaspoon powdered cloves
1 tablespoon white mustard seed
1/4 teaspoon celery seed
3 1/2 cups vinegar

Cut unpeeled cucumbers in to thin slices. Peel onions and slice thinly. Cut pepper in half, remove seed, and cut into narrow strips.

Combine cucumbers, onions, and pepper, and sprinkle with coarse salt; let stand 3 hours. Rinse off salt with cold water and drain thoroughly.

Combine sugar, turmeric, cloves, mustard seed, celery seed, and vinegar in large preserving kettle. Heat to scalding, stirring to dissolve sugar. Add drained vegetables to hot pickling liquid and heat just to boiling.

Seal at once in sterilized jars. Yield: 6 pints.

The next two recipes are for unusual delicacies. You'll like having pickled carrots and zucchini slices for your buffet parties next winter.

Zucchini Pickles
4 pounds zucchini
1 pound small onions
1/2 cup salt
1 quart vinegar
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons celery seed
2 teaspoons turmeric
2 teaspoons mustard seed
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Cut unpeeled zucchini into very thin slices. Peel onions and slice thinly. Cover vegetables with water and add salt. Let stand 1 hour; drain.

Combine vinegar, sugar, celery seed, turmeric, mustard a d seed, and dry mustard; bring to boil and pour over vegetables. Let stand 1 hour. Bring to a boil and cook 5 minutes.

Place in jars and seal at once. Yield: 8 pints.

Pickled Cocktail Carrots
1 quart small young carrots of uniform size, or strips cut in uniform size
1 quart vinegar
3 tablespoons mixed pickling spices tied in a cloth bag
2 cups sugar (for more tang use only one cup)

Wash carrots and remove blemishes and stringy tips. Put in a covered vessel and cook until the skins can be slipped off easily. Do not overcook.

Make a syrup by boiling together for 10 minutes the vinegar, mixed pickling spices, and sugar. Remove spice bag. Put carrots in a large bowl or enamel pan. Pour hot syrup over carrots. Let carrots stand overnight in syrup.

Next day return carrots and syrup to cooking vessel. Bring quickly to boil and continue cooking for about 3 minutes. Pack carrots in sterilized jars. Fill with hot syrup. Seal immediately. Yield: 2 pints.

We're ever on the watch for recipes to serve people on special diets. Here is a pepper relish made without sugar. Left in strips, these peppers will look good on a plate with the other pickled vegetables.

Pepper Relish
6 sweet red peppers
3 cups cider vinegar
2 tablespoons sucaryl solution
1 tablespoon salt
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 tablespoon mixed pickling spice

Dash of allspice
Sterilize 2 pint jars; leave in hot water until ready to use. Wash and drain peppers. Remove seeds and ribs and cut into strips. In a medium saucepan, combine remaining ingredients; bring to a boil. Add peppers; cover and cook 5 to 10 minutes, or until peppers are tender but still crisp.

Pack into hot jars; cover with liquid; seal at once. Let cool to room temperature. Refrigerate until ready to use.

Makes 2 pints or 16 1/4-cup servings. Each serving contains 11 calories; 0.5 gram protein; no fat; 3.5 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each serving would contain 60 calories.

Italian Style Chicken Prepared With Olives

Sauce and seasonings—those are the elements distinguishing "Chicken Italiane" from any other chicken you have ever tasted! The seasonings encompass garlic, basil and oregano. The sauce—well, that's the tomato sauce with the aforementioned seasonings plus large pieces of ripe olives. Put them all together and you have a main dish worthy of the most festive dinner.

Ripe olives eaten out-of-hand bring a festive air to parties.

Chicken Italiane

3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 frying chicken (2½ lbs.), cut up
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 clove garlic, minced

1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
¼ teaspoon basil, crushed
¼ teaspoon oregano, crushed
1 cup ripe olives

Combine flour, salt and pepper in shallow dish or pan. Coat chicken with mixture; save leftover mixture.

Heat oil in skillet; brown chicken pieces. Add garlic; sauté a moment. Stir in tomato sauce, basil and oregano. Cover; simmer 35 to 45 minutes, or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken to serving platter.

Blend remaining flour mixture with a little water; stir into tomato sauce in skillet. Heat, stirring, until mixture bubbles. Cut olives into large pieces, stir in sauce. Pour over chicken. Pour over chicken.

Marinate sliced cucumbers and serve on salad greens with a garish of pimiento, capers and anchovies.

Keep Charcoal Dry

Store charcoal briquets in a dry place. Saves trouble when it's time to light the fire.

When you are stuffing flank steak, roll the meat with the fibers; then in serving, cut in slices across the fibers.

Women Prominent as Spectators at Golf Tourney

At the Carling World Golf Championship practice Wednesday, spectator seats were much in evidence. Mrs. J. P. Staphchinskas of Bloomfield Village (left) finds one comfortable as she chats with Mrs.

N. L. Yarbrough of Grosse Pointe Park and Margaret Russell, director of public relations for the Cranbrook institutions. The tournament opened today.

Took Cake Home; Was He Right?

By The Emily Post Institute.
Q: I am supervisor of the clerical department of our company. I have 25 people under me. Last week I had a birthday and one of the members of my staff presented me with a homemade birthday cake.

I thanked her for it and said it looked delicious. When I left that evening, I took the cake home with me.

There have been some comments about my not sharing it with my staff. Was I wrong not to have done so?

A: If the cake was given to you in the presence of your office staff and was large enough to go around, it would have been generous of you to have cut it and shared it with them.

If it was small and presented to you privately, you were not wrong in considering it as any other birthday gift and taking it home with you.

Q: I have been invited to a wedding and was all set to wear a very pretty white silk dress which I bought especially for this occasion.

I have just heard that it is not proper for a guest to wear white to a wedding.

Will you please tell me if this is so?

A: If your white dress is no way resembles a wedding dress and will not detract from the bride's own bridal clothes, it would be quite all right to wear it, especially if you add colored accessories.

Q: I am about to buy some new stationery. I have always used white with a monogram but am a little tired of this and would like a color for a change.

I was thinking of pink. Would this be in good taste?

A: Pink stationery is not in good taste. As a change from white you can choose either cream, blue or gray which are all in very best taste.

On Housework

Follow Chore Agenda

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE T-455: Lorna G., aged 28, is a former teacher.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I have been married for two years.

"I am now very happy to be a housewife, except for one thing.

"I literally hate myself for always being far behind in my work!

"No sooner do I get the dishes washed and the house cleaned up than my husband gets home and everything is messed up again.

"And I never get all my tasks done! Am I just abnormally slow? Maybe it is because I never was taught housework for my mother always did everything in our home when I was a girl.

"So how can I ever accomplish all the tasks ahead of me each day?"

Use the "Agenda Plan."

Each night before you go to bed, make a written list of the items ahead of you tomorrow.

Include minor chores like washing the breakfast dishes, as well as major tasks, such as the laundry.

But if you are in a house-cleaning mood and plan to wash the windows, don't list "Wash all the windows."

BREAK IT DOWN

That's too big a chore! So break it down into smaller "bites," such as "Wash windows in living room."

Then you can also record "Wash windows in my bedrooms."

Thus, you can cross out more items as you finish them and that will inflate your ego.

In my own case, I cross out every completed task with a thick red pencil, so it will look more striking.

You housewives should pin your daily agenda above the kitchen sink where you can view it easily.

PICK OUT NEXT

Then, as you are finishing one chore, you can be picking out the next.

This will save you many valuable minutes when you might otherwise be wondering which task to do next.

Otherwise, you can waste a lot of valuable time trying to decide. But if you already have your duties written down and hanging above the sink in front of your eyes, you will move from one item right along to the next.

And include minor chores that may not require even five to 10 minutes, for when you have an interval of five empty minutes, you can't tackle a 30-minute chore.

DR. CRANE

Shorter Skirts Call for Leg Grooming

By MIRIAM NEAL

Skirts are going up—again. Legs will be exposed to public acclaim or criticism this fall. Whether or not yours turn out to be stars depends a great deal on grooming.

Some valuable information on this subject was recently released by the Committee on Cutaneous Health and Cosmetics, American Medical Association.

Shaving by women was relatively uncommon until the years following World War I.

19TH AMENDMENT

This was the time when the 19th (women's suffrage) Amendment ushered in a new era of styles and behavior for females.

Skirts were shortened, hair was bobbed and fashions in general became more revealing.

More and more women—primarily in the United States—came to accept the removal of leg and underarm hair as regular part of good grooming.

In recent studies on women's shaving, it was found that most American women consider the absence of visible underarm hair, and to a lesser extent, leg hair, to be essential to personal grooming.

LOOKS UNPLEASANT

It is more than a matter of just cleanliness, most women feel that visible leg and underarm hair looks masculine and unpleasant.

Doubtless the increasing popularity of shaving by women has been due partly to the development of blade razors and electric shavers especially designed for women.

Most women shave about twice a week, and frequency increases as summer and bathing suit time approaches.

Human body hair grows at er will lubricate the skin and keep the all-important water from evaporating.

Use a clean razor and a sharp blade.

BREAK DOWN HAIR

Chemical hair removers are generally alkaline agents that break down the structure of the hair.

Most commercial depilatories take 10 to 14 minutes in some areas of underarms and legs to do their job. For this reason, women usually consider depilatories too inconvenient.

Dermatologists find that stronger agents can break down the hair quicker but tend to irritate the skin, since the nature of hair and skin is very similar.

One difficulty is that the greater the hair problem—that is, the thicker, darker and coarser the hair—the longer women must leave the depilatory on thus increasing the chance of irritation.

WASH THOROUGHLY

It is important for women

using depilatories to wash them off thoroughly. Close attention to the clock is indicated when using such products.

A hair cosmetic firm has recently developed a cream which softens the leg hair and for easier shaving and softens the skin for a smoother leg.

OTHER REMINDERS

Other reminders for good looking legs:

• No "trumpy" hose.

• No pale stockings in winter.

• Shoes in the best possible condition.

• And a touch of grace when entering or leaving cars, cabs, chairs and couches.

With these hints, let the shirts go up; ladies will get an ovation of the eyes.

SHARPE-CAMPBELL

The Theophilus John Sharpes (Patricia Marie Campbell) left for a honeymoon in Maine after recent vows in Our Lady of the Lakes Church. With her gown and train of white pea tissue tulle, the daughter of the Glenn E. Campbells of Airport Road wore an illusion veil. Her attendants were Mrs. Joseph A. Ullom and Sally A. Gustavson, of Trenton. Attending their brother were George and Luke Sharpe, Martin Rose and Joseph Ullom. The bridegroom's parents are the T. J. Sharpes, Richardson Road, West Bloomfield Township. The bride attends Eastern Michigan University.

Allan Dobyniak on Dean's List

Allan E. Dobyniak of Bayberry Road, Farmington, was named to the annual Dean's list at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, for high scholarship.

Myria K. Williams of Bell Mountain Road, Orion Township, has received a bachelor of science degree from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Ill.

Air Sleeping Bags

Before using a sleeping bag, make sure that the bag has been adequately dried and aired so all fumes of cleaning solvent are removed from the filling.

different rates and is thicker on certain parts of the body than others. Hair on the legs, for example, is thicker than facial hair.

Women occasionally ask whether any undesirable effects develop from shaving. Dermatologists point out that there is definitely no harm in shaving.

HELPFUL HINTS

There are several helpful hints to make shaving easier, safer and cleaner.

First, never shave dry. Hair can soak up to a third of its own weight in water making it soft and pliable and 75 per cent easier to cut. The most convenient time to shave is during or directly following a warm shower or bath.

A shaving cream or lath-

Why Grow Old?

JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Readers often write to tell me about tricks they have found helpful when losing weight. I pass these along to the rest of my readers in the hope that they may find them useful also.

One came in the mail today which is quite unusual. The person who has the habit of nibbling all day long often has the most difficult time of all when on a reducing diet. Many women gain their overweight this way.

They may eat very light meals or even skip one, but take a bite of this and a bite or two of that periodically during the day. These overweights do not realize how the calories in these little tidbits count up.

Therefore, they cannot understand why they continue gaining those extra pounds.

The suggestion which came today will be helpful to these reducers. The idea is to prepare a calorie tray. In other words you prepare a tray of food for the whole day, counting the calories carefully so that the food on the tray is no more than your allowable calorie intake.

This way you can nibble all day long if you wish. However, be sure not to eat so often that you have nothing left for the last half of the day or for the evening.

Needless to say, when the tray is empty you do not refill it, but stop eating until the next day.

This idea has other advantages too. You can plan your food intake with good nutrition in mind more easily. Be sure that your tray has all the essentials for good health.

Actually I think that the most helpful part of all is the fact that you will not eat with the rest of the family for a while.

That is the great temptation, to sit at the table and watch others eat items you would like to have.

Forest Lake Slates Dance for Saturday

An "Adventure in Paradise" is the theme for the dinner dance "Saturday evening at Forest Lake Country Club."

The affair begins at 7 p.m. when women in Polynesian costumes will present arriving guests with a tropical drink and the traditional Hawaiian lei.

Guests will be seated around foot high tables on which an oriental dinner will be served.

DANCING
Jacques Hagen's Beachcombers will provide music for dancing. Hula and limbo dancers, backed by a native band, will perform around a specially constructed multi-colored waterfall.

Focal point of the tropical decor will feature primitive art, symbolizing the legendary gods of Hawaii, Tahiti, and Samoa.

Committee for this event includes Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Nurme, the Charles Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reech, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Michie and the Harold Dittiches.

Plumber's Bird Friend

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Did you know that a "plumber's friend," the rubber plunger used to unstop drains, is also a friend of the birds?

This past spring we filled one with straw and tied it to our old apple tree, upside down like a cup.

A pair of robins made it their nest and it has been fun watching the robins sit in the plunger and hatch the eggs.

Now they fly back and forth and rest on the edge of the rubber cup as they feed their little ones.—MRS. J. B.

DEAR POLLY—After I had

The engagement of their daughter Paula Jo

DEAR POLLY—My son likes to use his knife to whittle points on sticks for plant markers in the garden. I was always worried he would cut his fingers until I thought of using a car-board about four inches square with a hole in the center.

He puts the stick through the hole, then whittles away with his hand back of the cardboard.
No more worries about cut fingers. This would be a good idea for Boy Scouts.—MRS. J. V.

DEAR POLLY—Leather but-them.

It helps keep the buttons from

LBJ Undecided on Detroit Labor Day Kickoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he has asked for "a little more time" before he decides whether to open his presidential campaign in Detroit on Labor Day.

Democratic candidates traditionally launch their campaigns with such an appearance.

Johnson conferred Wednesday morning with Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, and told news- men later they had discussed the possibility of a Labor Day speech in Detroit. "I have to ask them to give me a little more time," the President said.

Reuther and his union are currently engaged in contract negotiations with the Big Three automobile manufacturers.

Contracts expire Aug. 31 and the UAW announced Wednesday night that Chrysler, smallest of the auto firms, would be struck at 10 a.m. Sept. 9 — two days after Labor Day — if no contract is agreed upon by then.

measure of the length of a Venusian day — and it's shorter than previously believed. But it still is 583 earth days long, give or take five days.

The new measure of dawn-to-dawn on the earth's nearest planetary neighbor came Wednesday from Cornell University astronomers and the Air Force Office of Scientific Research.

Their figures, they reported, are five times more accurate than the previous estimate of 586 earth days, give or take 27 days either way.

A day, the time it takes a planet to turn once on its axis, is difficult to observe on Venus because the planet is completely enveloped in clouds.

The new measurements come from the world's largest radio-telescope at Arecibo, P.R. It is operated by Cornell Scientists for the Air Force and the Advanced Research Projects Agency of the Department of Defense.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said Wednesday that the central Congolese government headed by Premier Moise Tshombe is interested in such a meeting.

McCloskey refused comment on reports from Africa that Tshombe's government is recruiting white soldiers to fight against Communist-backed rebels.

The press officer reiterated

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — At this shining hour in the life of Lyndon B. Johnson, it is hard to believe there was a time when his future looked dark.

"It was in his youth, a time when most boys dream great dreams."

But the 16-year-old Lyndon in 1924 wasn't looking very far ahead; certainly he wasn't looking very high.

He had a good family, and he had a good record in his high school. He was his champion debater. So his mother, a woman of culture and hopeful for her boy, implored him to go to college.

And what did he do? He goofed off.

He and four pals hit the adventure road from Johnson City, Tex., to California, in a "ramshackle car, and barely making out from one day to the next."

Thus you might say that LBJ became a school dropout, although he went back to the books later. And you might call the present presidential campaign a contest between eminent dropouts.

For Sen. Barry Goldwater never progressed beyond the freshman class in the University of Arizona. After his father died, young Barry quit school and went to work in the family dry goods store. This switch Goldwater has called the big mistake of his life.

ACUTE DISTRESS

picking fruit in the broiling sun, washing dishes in beaneries—anything in order to eat.

The wonder is that it took this young man so long to learn his lesson.

Through the years, the memory of that hard manual labor stayed with him, and as President of the United States he was able to declare, while pushing his "war on poverty":

"I know something about poverty. I've worked with my hands. I've done everything from shining shoes to working on the roads for a dollar a day."

GAVE UP VENTURE

His work on the roads came after he had given up his California venture. He was back home in Texas when, in 1927, he headed the advice of his parents — and the message from his aching muscles — and decided on higher learning.

Borrowing $75, he was off to Southwest Texas State Teachers College at San Marcos. There the whirlwind started to whirl.

"I took 40 courses and got 35 A's," he once said. Johnson interrupted his college work to teach a year at Cotulla, Tex., and the folks there remember him proudly. Above a door of his old classroom pupils have put up a sign reading:

BLUE SERGE

"I used to patch his clothes," said Mrs. S. M. Turner, owner of a cleaning shop. "He wore blue serge trousers sharply creased. They shined like a silver dollar. And he walked so fast, it was like seeing a blur."

Back at Southwest Texas,

Lyndon got his B.S. degree in 1930.

A retired dean, Dr. A. H. Nolle, remembers: "He was quite a handsome fellow but a regular beaniepole. Lyndon made excellent grades in the subjects that interested him most — history and social studies."

Willard Deason, a classmate,

Lunches With President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg lunched with President Johnson Wednesday on the eve of a lecture tour of India and Malaysia where he will discuss liberty and equality under the U.S. Constitution.

members best how energetic Johnson was.

"One of his favorite expressions," Deason said, "was 'Let's get it done now.' I believe it was his creed of life."

Thus did Johnson — who apparently hasn't wasted any time since he buckled down to college — get back on the upward road — the highway laid out for him by his ancestry.

There is a story that when the boy was born, near Stonewall, Tex., on Aug. 27, 1908, his paternal grandfather saddled up and rode around telling the neighbors:

"That boy will be a United States senator some day."

STANDARD STORY

The legend is one of the standard stories that cluster about the names of men who rise to high estate.

His background had been laid long before LBJ was born. He inherited politics; his paternal grandfather and his father, Samuel Ealy Johnson, both served in the Texas Legislature.

On his mother's side — the side of Rebekah Baines Johnson — the future President's relatives were Baptist clergymen and educators. A great-grandfather headed Baylor University for two years.

PGA 'Delegates' Convene Seeking Winning Platform

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

United States politicians are assembled in Atlantic City this week, but today the greatest names in world golf from six different continents convened at one of the world's finest courses, Oakland Hills, on West Maple road in Bloomfield Township.

The winning platform won't be known until Sunday evening; but all the top representatives to the Carling World Open, press and players, differ on what the winning tally will be.

EXPECT LOW TOTAL

Strangely, despite the fact that this is the same course that has never yielded a par or sub-par total for 72 holes, the majority believe that it will happen this weekend.

The extremists say the winning total will be 275.

The liberals look for 276-277 to take the honor.

The moderates say 278-279.

The conservatives predict 280.

The pacifists call for 281.

The wingers, right or left, and there are very few, cannot see anyone doing this at Oakland Hills and they go as high as 286.

One thing is certain, if the sub-par factions, the extremists, liberals or moderates, carry the winning platform, we may find another golf course architect coming to Oakland Hills to redesign the course before it is host to its next Open around 1972.

"Right now this course is in fantastic shape, but it's to the advantage of the golfers; and I doubt if par will be good enough," said one of the entries.

"I look for 276 and any one of six players to do it as the course is today," he added.

"If it dries for another couple days, it will still go around 276 and there are at least 15 players who would then have to be considered contenders," he continued.

"Of course, don't quote me," he said further, "because I'll be lucky to make the cut."

PAST IS TOUGH

At any rate, judging from the scores of the last two Open tournaments at Oakland Hills, the era Robert Trent Jones was making popular his "monster," it might be difficult to understand why suddenly everyone feels par has seen its day on the 4,867 yard layout.

In 1961, only two players, Ben Hogan and Clayton Hearner, were able to crack par for single rounds.

In 1961, 12 players broke par for 18 holes, with Gene Littler, the Open champion doing it twice with 69's. His rounds were 73-66-75-68-281.

This is the kind of course, most agree, on which some unknown could go wild for one round and fade out of the picture after two rounds.

Bobby Bruce was the 1961 shocker. He fired an opening 60 and was the only player under par. At mid-point he was 141 and he finished 282.

Who are the six who could win it as the course plays today? In order, Ken Venturi, Arnold Palmer, Tony Lema, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper and Doug Ford stack the top of the deck, followed by Bob Rosburg, Doug Sanders, Bobby Nichols, Wally Burkemo, Chi Chi Rodriguez and Mike Souchak.

One thing the crystal ball does say is that Nick Westlock will shoot the best amateur score in the tournament. The winner of the Canadian Amateur last weekend lost his only competitor for the honor when Deane Beman, U.S. Amateur champion, withdrew two days ago.

Of the foreign delegates behind Chi Chi (Puerto Rico) and Gary Player (South Africa), give the nod to Bob Charles (New Zealand) and Ramon Sola (Spain).

The International PG convention started convening at 7:00 a.m. this morning. Venturi is the probable nominee on the fourth ballot, unless Palmer leads his Army to a coup d'etat.

Oakland Hills Brought to Knees

Area Pros Troubled as World Golf Open Enters First Round

George Archer, "the Gilroy cowboy" from Gilroy, Calif., who turned from punching cows to playing pro golf eight months ago, punched the living day-lights out of proud Oakland Hills this morning.

One of the early starters in the $200,000 Carling World Open which started today at the West Maple Road course in Bloomfield Township, Archer fired a 34-31-65, five under par, and two strokes under the course record of 67, once held by six players.

No one has ever been able to master the course as did this 34-year-old pro, and now the feeling is that the "monster" of four National Opens will take the heaviest beating in its 50-year history.

While Archer was using only 29 putts to accomplish his fantastic score, local golfers and other top names in the early field were having some first-round problems.

Host pro Al Watrous and veteran Franklin Hills pro Wally Burkemo both turned in the front-side with 40s, while Jack Nicklaus was posting a 38, Ben Hogan 37 and Jay Hebert 38.

Ted Kroll, Burkemo's successor at Franklin Hills, dropped in a 38-foot putt on the ninth hole and he made the turn in one-under-par 34.

OPENING SHOTS

Today's opening shots of the tournament are due to cost the tournament sponsor at least $61,000.

Every one of the 154 professionals in the field was assured of $400 after he swatted his first tee shot, even if he dubbed it.

The professional field, representing the world's best golfers, started teeing off at 7 this morning in the first round of the 72-hole tournament over the 6,907-yard, par 70 layout.

Joining the pros is the lone amateur in the field, Nick Westlock, Canada's amateur champion.

The field will play the second round tomorrow and the low 75, plus ties, after 36-holes will remain on hand for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Every player who survives the 36-hole cut will enjoy a $620 payday. First place carries a $35,000 prize and the runner-up collects $17,000. Everyone in the low 36 will take home at least $1,000.

Two Aussies Win at Golf

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Two Australians and six Americans survived second-round matches in the World Senior Golf Tournament at Broadmor Wednesday.

H. H. Hattersley of Mosman, Australia, had to go 30 holes before stopping Dan Hawkins of Rockford, Ill. His co-captain, Jack Barkel of Sydney, stopped only one stroke over par in a 3 and 4 triumph over Louis Sloss of Palm Beach, Fla.

10 Open 'Dropouts' Quickly Replaced

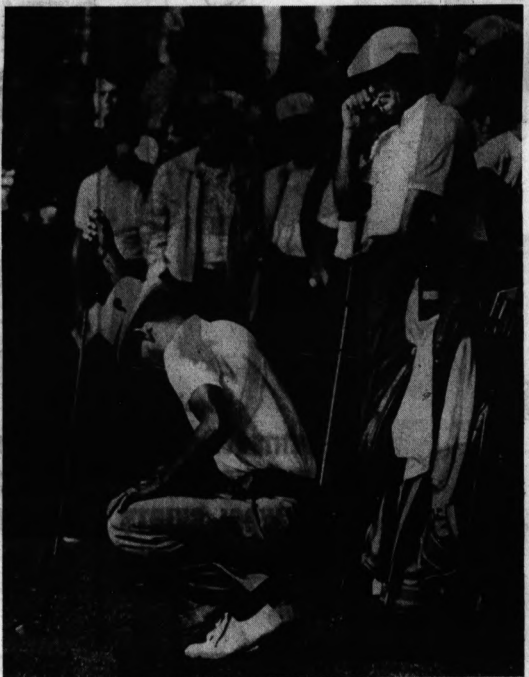

Ten members of the original field of 155 were missing as the first round of the Carling World Open Championship opened today at Oakland Hills Country Club.

Among the latest to withdraw were former PGA champions Chandler Harper (illness) of Portsmouth, Va., Vic Ghezzi (wrist injury) Rumson, N. J., and Dow Finsterwald of Colorado Springs, Colo.

A back injury forced ex-U.S. Open titlist Cary Middlecoff to drop out, military service kept Harold of Florence, S.C. off the course, club duties stayed Alex Sutton of San Jose, Calif., and Texas Gay Brewer Jr.'s wife is expecting.

Earlier withdrawals were Slamm'n Sam Sneed of White Sulphur Spring, W. Va., Art Wall Jr. of Pococo Manor, Pa., both out with injuries, and U. S. National Amateur champion Deane Beman, who is playing in another tournament in the east.

Filling the vacant slots in the $200,000 tourney are Bob Harrison of Palm Desert, Calif., Claude King of Virginia Beach, Va., Jim Ferree of Corona, Calif., Al Kelley Jr. of Orlando, Fla., Fred Haas, of Metairie, La., Bob Goetz of Longview, Tex., Howie Johnson of Cog Hill, Ill., Frank Stranahan of Phoenix, Ariz., Dudley Wysong Jr. of McKinney, Tex., and Frank Wharton of Perdido Bay, Fla.

Wee Ice Mon Paired With Rodriguez

The Wee-Ice Mon and the leader of the Banditos matched strides along the fairways of Oakland Hills this morning in the Carling World Open.

A fiery golf competitor completes what could be the most explosive threesome in the $200,000 tournament.

Many people close to the tournament still are shaking their heads over the pairing of grim-faced Ben Hogan and flamboyant Chi Chi Rodriguez for the first two rounds.

The addition of Jerry Barber adds spice to the trio.

Although reports say that Rodriguez was given a pre-tournament lecture, spectators are expecting some sort of a flare-up before the halfway point is reached Friday and the threesome is broken up.

They knew it was impossible for Rodriguez to play 36 holes without reverting to form-cutting capers and talking to the gallery.

Hogan, four-time U.S. Open champion who received the nickname Wee Ice Mon from the Scots while taking the British Open, and Barber, another bantam like Ben, aren't expected to tolerate such links shenanigans.

Rodriguez wasted no time satisfying the spectators.

He strided around the first tee waving his arms above his head, acknowledging the applause from the Banditos (his following).

His next move was to pull a driver from the bag, place it behind his head as in a Rocky Calavito. Then it was deep knee bends.

Hogan lit a cigarette and looked on with a sober expression. Barber stood calmly surveying the scene.

Chi Chi climaxed his start by pounding a deep drive down the middle.

Boston Leads Detroit, 3-1

From Our News Services

BOSTON — The Boston Red Sox pounded Detroit bonus hurler Joe Sparna for eight hits in four innings this afternoon to take a 3-1 lead midway through the finale of their three-game series.

The visiting Tigers took a 1-0 lead in the top of the third on Don Wert's single and Jerry Lumpe's two-out double to left field.

The Red Sox bounced right back with two runs in the bottom of the inning on run-producing singles by Tony Horton and Carl Yastrzemski before any one was out.

Boston's third run came in the fourth inning when Dalton Jones singled with two out. It drove Sparna from the second, bringing on Terry Fox who escaped further damage.

Meanwhile, Tiger pitcher Dave Wickersham took dead aim on a 20-inning season when he stopped the Sox, 4-1, Wednesday night, again aided by roommate Don Demeter's home run bat.

Demeter belted his 19th home run of the season off Boston starter Bob Hefner in the sixth inning that broke a scoreless tie and ended Hefner's record of 19 scoreless innings of pitching. It was the sixth home run this year that Demeter has hit with Wickersham pitching for the Tigers.

Wickersham scattered five hits in winning his 16th game against nine losses, and he almost had a shutout.

The Tigers scored one more run in the sixth after Demeter's homer, and scored a couple more in the seventh when Jerry Lumpe homered and Al Kaline doubled scoring on Gates Brown's single.

Construct Pool for Records

NEW YORK (AP) — America's top swimmers, fresh from a record-busting spree in the National AAU championships at Los Angeles, Calif., probably will break more in the Olympic Trials starting Saturday in the Astoria Pool says the man in charge.

"We've constructed a pool within a pool since Aug. 17 and it's a fast one," said Jack Abramson of New York, met director of the largest water carnival ever held in New York.

What makes a fast pool? "The main thing is to have clear water — no shading waves — and a level water depth," said Abramson today.

"When you have disturbances in the water it slows up the swimmers. We have built a pool with an even depth and runoffs to keep the water calm."

"We heard that one swimmer — who never saw the new pool — said it would be slow," said Abramson.

"That remark was made before we even built the pool."

Charlie McCaffree of Michigan State supervised the construction and is very happy with it.

"Steve Clark, the Yale Sprinter, and Chet Jastrumski of Indiana both told me the pool is in fine shape and there should be some very fast times."

Abramson said the original 100 meter pool was cut in half with the construction of a concrete bulkhead.

WATER POLO

The men's and women's springboard and platform diving also will be held in the Astoria Pool. The water polo trials, held at the same site, began last Saturday.

Abramson said the field included 40 women divers, 140 women swimmers, 65 male divers and 240 male swimmers, and 176 water polo players. The swimmers had to meet qualifying times to enter.

Saturday's opening program includes the men's and women's 100 meter freestyle and the men's 400 meter individual medley, a new event on the Olympic card.

Don Schollander, the Santa Clara, Calif., schoolboy flash, Steve Clark of Yale and Dick McDonough of South Orange, N.J., are co-favored in the 100. Schollander recently tied the American mark of 54 seconds held by Clark and McDonough.

Sharon Stouder, the 15-year-old white from the City of Commerce, Calif., is the outstanding choice in the women's century off her sensation 1:00.4 clocking in the Nationals. Only Australia's Dawn Fraser, holder of the world record of 58.9, has gone faster.

Dick Roth, the 17-year-old schoolboy sensation from Atherton, Calif., tops the field in the medley. He broke the world record with a time of 4:48.6 in the Nationals.

Olympic Torch Travels

TEHERAN (UPI) — The Olympic torch continues on its journey to Tokyo today after arriving here Wednesday night. It remained overnight at the Farah Sports Stadium. It was borne by a series of athletes.

Arnie Palmer 'Chips' in Ace After Tee Shot

Tuning up for the $200,000 Carling World Open, the 34-year-old Pennsylvanian rapped his tee shot over the green on the par 3, 194-yard 17th hole.

Dissatisfied with the results, Palmer grabbed another ball, exchanged his 3-iron for a 4-iron and knocked the pill into the cup.

Kimball Catcher Signed by Tigers

The Detroit Tigers today signed left-handed hitting catcher Dan Sherban of Royal Oak Kimball for a bonus reported in excess of $20,000.

The stocky 16-year-old prospect signed a 1965 contract and will report to the Jamestown club of the Class A New York-Pennsylvania League next February.

Scout Lou D'Amunzio signed Sherban for the Tigers. He hit .375 this year, the lowest of his varsity career at Kimball.

He was the regular receiver on the Kimball mines that won the Pontiac High School Invitational Baseball Tournament in 1963 and 1964.

YEP, THERE IT IS — This was the "hole in two" on the 17th yesterday at Oakland Hills for Arnold Palmer. Palmer went over the green on his first tee shot with a 3-iron. He teed up again with a 4-iron and dropped the ball into the cup. "Sure was a long chip shot," was the comment.

He's Lions' All-Purpose Player

Football Is 'World' for John Gonzaga

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The word "world" is popular in the Pontiac area this week so let's look into the world of John Gonzaga.

John Gonzaga?
No, he's not the Portuguese entry in the Carling World Open at Oakland Hills.

The world of John Gonzaga is football, and he works at it just two miles from Oakland Hills at Cranbrook Schools, the training camp of the Detroit Lions.

For 9 years in the National Football League, playing with the 49ers, Dallas and the Lions, Gonzaga has been shuffled around at six different jobs never knowing from one game to the next where he would be playing.

This has been the history of his life.

In his youth, when he was one of 14 children in the Gonzaga household in Copcord, Calif., the hefty lineman had one of his biggest decisions to make at the age of 17.

COLLEGE OFFERS

He had numerous offers from colleges with athletic scholarships when he left Mt. Diablo High School; but family finances needed his help and instead he went to work.

His football, which burned inside of him, was played on the sandlots. Never did he expect to go to college or play organized football.

A friend of his, Leo Paccianti, who was with the 49ers and coaching the sandlot team, sent him to coach Frankie Albert for a trial.

He stuck after the training camp of 1956 was over; and against the Detroit Lions in the 4th game of the season, he finally got into his first pro contest as a defensive end.

From 1956 through 1959 he never was a regular with the 49ers although he played quite a bit. He was traded to Dallas in 1960 and in 1961 he came to the Lions.

The Lions were looking for offensive help, although they knew he was most experienced at defensive end and tackle and had little time on the offensive line.

For three years with the Lions he was the "swing" man at offensive guard or tackle, and as he gained experience the Lions found they had themselves the all-purpose player.

For pro football players, the guard position isn't one position in itself. Left guard and right guard are different in many ways. Left tackle and right tackle also have different assignments.

So, as Gonzaga puts it, "I guess I've played six different positions, two at guard, two at tackle, at defensive end and, on occasion, even linebacker."

In his eight seasons, Gonzaga has played at 240 pounds, never less, never more. "I've tried to play at 245 but I can't keep the weight once training starts," he noted.

Gonzaga isn't perturbed about all the criticism often directed at the offensive line when the quarterback starts "eating" the ball.

"The offensive guard usually has to play against the biggest man in pro football, the offensive tackle and everyone forgets that the tackle coming at you has a big job to do and he's coming at you moving forward."

"Sie doesn't bother me; I find the toughest defensive players — like Hank Jordan of the Packers — are fast and agile."

EXCITED

Gonzaga, a modest 21-year-old veteran, is excited about the Lions' chances this year in the NFL.

"Injuries hurt us badly the last two years, but I really think we have a chance to win it this year," he noted.

He gives special attention to the Lions' defenses, by noting "Our defense is going to be tough to beat," pointing to the front defensive unit individually.

"I know how tough Karras is, he made me feel like a rookie in the first scrimmage during the first week of camp," Gonzaga said.

Friday night he will be at the guard slot against the Cleveland Browns in Tiger Stadium starting his 9th season. Kickoff is 8:30 p. m.

Aching Marichal Balks at Pitching

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants says he'll defy his manager, if necessary, to keep from pitching again before his back feels better.

Marichal, ace of the San Francisco staff, said he wasn't really ready to go Tuesday night, when he made his first start in nearly a month and dropped a 3-1 decision to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"If my back feels the same way the next time they want me to pitch," he said, "I won't."

Marichal, a 28-year-old right-hander from the Dominican Republic, became a 15-winner July 29. He suffered muscle spasms in his back a couple of days later and didn't pitch again until he faced the Dodgers. He worked five innings against them, allowing two earned runs.

"I don't want to pitch five innings," he said Wednesday night. "If they want me to pitch five innings, they can put me in the bullpen."

Manager Alvin Dark, advised of Marichal's remarks, said:

"He'll pitch Sunday."

A reporter relayed this word to Marichal, who said:

"That's what he thinks. If I feel good, I pitch. If not, no."

Asked whether he was worried about hurting his back again, Marichal nodded and said, "I don't want to take any chances any more."

Marichal said his back was bothering him Tuesday and "everybody knew it."

Everybody, obviously, would include Dark.

San Francisco's general manager, Chub Feeney, was asked

Wednesday night what he thought of the situation.

"Who knows? Maybe Marichal will feel fine by Sunday," Feeney said. "Anyway, we've got problems to worry about before then. We've got to get to Milwaukee to play a ball game tomorrow."

The Giants were only a half game out of the National League lead after Marichal won July 29, beating the first-place Philadelphia Phillies 6-3.

Then Juan missed six starts and the Giants were 6½ back. After losing 2-1 to the Dodgers Wednesday night, they were 7½ behind.

As Dark said during the Dodgers series: "We have to have Marichal to win."

Spartan Offense Needs Leadership

EAST LANSING (AP) — The Michigan State football team is badly in need of a leader this year.

If you said "take me to your leader," this spring, no one would have known where to look.

The two top quarterbacks had been allowed by veteran coach Duffy Daugherty to play baseball.

The spring squad game showing was miserable. The three top offenses were put against the rinkydinks who led them 3-0 until the final quarter. Then the youngsters collapsed and the final score was an ignominious 21-3 for the 33 best men the Spartans can field this fall.

Steve Juday and Dick Probst will be back Sept. 1, and if they settle into harness, perhaps can give some leadership to the outfit, badly riddled by graduations.

READY TO START

The fall practice actually will open for a press day, Monday, Aug. 31. Serious work does not start, however, until Tuesday.

Daugherty has asked back 79 hopefuls. The predominance of sophomores shows how much MSU needs fresh young talent this year.

There are 8 1/2 problems and a lot of work has to be done," Daugherty admitted.

The squad will include 22 seniors, 19 juniors and 38 sophomores.

Fullback and tackle look like weak spots. The only letterman returning to fullback is Lou Bobich, who has been strictly a defensive player and a kicker, using a side-footed soccer boot. The only letterman tackle is Jerry Rush of Pontiac, who worked mostly in reserve roles last fall.

All the best running backs are gone—the likes of scabback Sherrin Lewis and the bulldozer fullback Roger Lopes. The top letterman runner returning is Harry Ammon who gained 123 yards rushing last year, but no touchdowns.

There is some good strength on the defense.

But the offense is the huge question mark. If Juday, who was spectacular as a sophomore quarterback, can show his throwing arm, the Spartans have a chance for Big Ten glory.

There are some eager sophomores ends big and fast enough to be targets for a pin-point passer.

Daugherty had a 6-2-1 season last year. With so much talent gone he will need the luck of the Irish to do as well this season.

TOE STILL HEALTHY — The oldest active player in pro football, Lou Groza still has one of the healthiest kicking toes in the NFL. This is Groza's 18th season and he has 967 points to his credit with 176 field goals and 453 extra points. His toe has been active for points in the last two Browns' games when 96 points were scored and he will be booting against the Lions Friday night in Tiger Stadium.

Colts Play Redskins Tonight

From Our Wire Services

The Baltimore Colts and Washington Redskins kick off the National Football League's fourth weekend of pre-season games early when they engage in an exhibition version of their famous inter-city rivalry tonight at Washington's D.C. stadium.

The Colts have a win, a loss and a tie to their credit, while the Redskins boast only one victory, but that was over the Eastern Division champion New York Giants, in their three tune-ups.

The Cleveland Browns host the Detroit Lions, and the Chicago Bears play host to the St. Louis Cardinals, once their intra-city rivals, Friday night.

SATURDAY GAMES

Four games will be played Saturday as the winless New York Giants pit their revamped squad against the Philadelphia Eagles at Princeton, N.J., in the NFL's only day contest.

The Dallas Cowboys host the Green Bay Packers, the Pittsburgh Steelers and San Francisco Forty Niners engage each other at Omaha, Neb., and the Minnesota Vikings journey to Los Angeles to battle the Rams in Saturday night tilts.

Cosch Bill McPeak announced Wednesday night a reduction of seven players to bring the Washington Redskins down to the required player limit of 45.

Among the seven were veterans Gordon Kelley, a tackle, and Tommie Neck, a defensive back.

Gino Marchetti has made the starting line-up of the Colts. That's hardly new for the veteran defensive end. But it took a little longer this year because he reported late to the training camp of the National Football League team after deciding not to retire as originally planned.

The Pittsburgh Steelers withdrew waivers on tight end Preston Carpenter Wednesday after the Philadelphia Eagles put in a $100 claimer on him.

Cosch Buddy Parker traded a top future draft choice to the New York Giants for halfback Phil King and King, a six-year

NFL veteran, has decided to retire rather than report to Pittsburgh.

AFTER FOURTH

The Minnesota Vikings, only unbeaten team in the NFL, plan to start Fran Tarkenton at quarterback Saturday night against the Rams in an attempt to win their fourth exhibition game.

The Rams got a top-flight fullback Wednesday when Ben Wilkerson, the fine rookie of last year, decided he could combine pro football and dental studies.

The Cardinals hope to use Friday's meeting with the Bears as an honest test of their playing ability and as an advantage in a possible championship game between the same two teams.

Meanwhile, the Bears have inserted ends Rich Kreitling and Bill Martin and guard Dick Evey in their lineup. End Mike Ditka and fullback Ron Bull will not start because of injuries.

Alley-Oop Try for Y. A. Tittle 'Alley-Oops'

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (U-P) — Y. A. Tittle and R. C. Owens, who made the Alley-Oop pass a pro football favorite, have tried it for the first time since 1963.

Unless the timing is perfect, it may become known as the Alley-Oop. Owens, acquired in a trade with Baltimore, joined Tittle, his former San Francisco teammate, in the New York Giants' camp Wednesday.

On the last play for the practice session, they tried to work the play in which Tittle kicks a high, arching pass to the high-jumping Owens, who is supposed to outstep his defender and grab the ball.

Owens missed his timing Wednesday, and the ball fell to the ground.

Allie Sherman, the Giants coach, had this comment:

"Either Y.A. has lost the Alley pass or R.C. has forgotten the Oop."

Former Pontiac Champ Bids for WMGA Title

A former Pontiac Women's champion took on a Detroit golfer today in the finals of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association match-play tournament at Rochester Country Club.

Mrs. Chris Miller of Farmington, Pontiac's 1961 champion, opened her duel for the crown with Phyllis Chandler at 9 a.m. today.

Miss Chandler moved into the finals with a 3 and 2 decision over Mrs. George Schade of Detroit yesterday. Mrs. Miller advanced with a 6 and 5 triumph over Mrs. H. Walton of Detroit.

Meeting in the finals of the first flight were Mrs. W. Korbut of Detroit and Mrs. Arthur Hensen of Birmingham. Paired in the second flight were Mrs. W. Brown of Detroit and Evelyn Schwarz of Detroit.

Eighth-Inning Jinx Troubles Baltimore

By The Associated Press
The Baltimore Orioles will be lucky if they can get out of the Cleveland Indians' eighth inning with the American League pennant.

The Indians edged the first-place Orioles 3-2 Wednesday night, scoring two runs in the eighth inning for the victory. The loss, coupled with Chicago's 2-1, 12-inning triumph over Minnesota, sliced Baltimore's lead to one percentage point over the second-place White Sox.

The victory, the Indians' sixth straight, increased their season edge over Baltimore to 10-5, making them the only team to hold an edge over the league leaders.

More specifically, though, the Indians have won five of the last six games with Baltimore in the eighth inning.

BIG OUTBURST

A five-run outburst in the eighth Tuesday night brought Cleveland a 5-3 decision. Wednesday night's game was tied 1-1 going into the eighth.

Slow-footed John Romano sent the tie-breaking run across with a two-out, two-strike bunt single, a surprise move he pulled on his own. Vic Davallillo followed with a run-scoring double.

Explaining the rare squeeze bunt, Romano said:

"I can't hit (relief pitcher Stu Miller anyway, so I had to do something."

Baltimore Manager Hank Bauer, however, didn't have any explanation for the Indians' eighth-inning tactics.

Elsewhere in the AL, Washington blanked New York 2-0, Detroit defeated Boston 4-1 and Los Angeles knocked off Kansas City 5-2.

In the National League, Philadelphia ripped Milwaukee 6-1. New York defeated Cincinnati 3-1. Los Angeles nipped San Francisco 2-1. St. Louis trimmed Pittsburgh 4-3 and Chicago beat Houston 3-1.

Norm Siebern slammed a homer for the Orioles in the eighth, but they couldn't do any more scoring. A walk and singles by Earl Robinson and Russ Snyder had given Baltimore a 1-1 tie in the sixth and set the stage for the eighth-inning rally.

Don Buford singled home Gerry McNertney with Chicago's winning run in the 12th. McNertney led off the inning by reaching second base on a wild throw to first by the Twins' Rich Rollins. McNertney went to third on a passed ball and two walks later, trotted home.

Ed Fisher pitched the last three innings, holding the Twins hitless for his sixth victory in eight decisions.

The Yankees remained four games off the pace as Buster Narum stopped them on five hits. He outpitched Mel Stottlemyre, who lost his first game after winning three. The Senators scored both runs in the fifth, Mike Brumley coming home with the first one on an infield grounder.

The Tigers' Dave Wickersham recorded his 16th victory in 25 decisions, hurling a five-hitter against the Red Sox. Don Demeter started a two-run rally in the sixth with a homer while Jerry Lumspe did the same in the seventh. Demeter's homer halted Bob Heffner's scoreless-inning string at 19 1-3.

Dick Green and Rocky Colavito clouted solo homers for the Athletics, but they weren't enough to offset the Angels' attack. Los Angeles scored three times in the fourth, the runs coming home on singles by Lou Clinton and Jim Perry and Bob Rodgers' sacrifice fly.

CATCHER VS. CATCHER — While the ball seems to hang in mid-air, Washington catcher Mike Brumley slides past receiver Elston Howard of the Yankees to score a fifth inning run. The Senators won yesterday's game, 2-0.

Phillies Snap Slump

Pitcher 'Short' - Changes Foe

By United Press International
Chris Short is typical of the Philadelphia Phillies in that at first glance you wonder why he ever wins and on closer inspection you wonder why he ever loses.

A baby-faced, 26-year-old left-hander from Millard, Del., Short started the 1964 season with a four-year record 10 games under 500—32 wins and 42 losses—plus an unimpressive lifetime 4.03 earned run average.

But, like so many of his teammates, Short's past problems have no meaning in terms of his present ability.

Because today Short is one of the best pitchers in baseball and anyone who doesn't believe it can gaze in awe at a 1.65 earned run average that is the lowest compiled by a National League pitcher in 48 years:

That's right, to find anything better than Short's current ERA it's necessary to roll back the clock past Sandy Koufax' past Warren Spahn' past Carl Hubbell' . . . all the way back to 1916 when Hall of Famer Grover Cleveland Alexander led the NL with a 1.55 ERA.

Short, who is getting better with the pressure of the pennant race, turned in his fourth straight victory Wednesday when he beat the Milwaukee Braves 6-1 to end a two-game Philadelphia skid.

Short pitched a six-hitter and carried a shutout into the ninth when a double by Joe Torre and a single by Denis Menke ended a string of 25 consecutive innings in which he had not permitted an earned run.

Catcher Gus Triandos hit two homers and Tony Gonzalez and Ruben Amaro one each to lead a 13-hit Philadelphia attack that enabled Short to raise his season won-lost record to 14-6. It also boosted the Phillies' first-place lead to seven games over the Cincinnati Reds and to 7½ over the San Francisco Giants.

The Reds were tripped for the seventh time in 13 games by the New York Mets 3-1, the Giants bowed to the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 and the Chicago Cubs beat the Houston Colts 3-1 in the other NL games.

Tracy Stallard pitched a five-hitter to win his eighth game for the Mets, who ended Joey Jay's five-game winning streak. Ed Kranepool drove in two runs and Ron Hunt knocked in one to lead the Mets' seventh-hit attack. Don Pavletich homered for the Reds' run.

The Dodgers dealt the Giants' pennant hopes another devastating blow when Doug Camilli's ninth-inning single drove in the run that gave Don Drysdale his 14th win.

Streak Howard singled with one out in the bottom of the ninth and pinch runner Les Parker moved into scoring position on an infield out. Bob Hendley suffered his ninth loss against 18 victories.

Lou Brock tied the score with an eighth-inning homer and the Cardinals went on to score the decisive run when Dick Groat tripled and Ken Boyer singled.

Lefty Mike Queller pitched a six-hitter to win his fifth game while Frank Bork suffered his first loss after two wins.

The Cubs ended the Colts' six game winning streak behind the six-hit pitching of Larry Jackson and homers by Ernie Banks and Ron Santo.

Charley Bittick, former Southern California star who now is a Navy lieutenant, scored four goals for Inland-Nu Pike. Saari who will be competing in three events in the swimming trials which open on Saturday, scored three goals. His brother Bob, a high school junior, had two goals.

STAUBACH SIGNS IN—Navy's All-America quarterback Roy Staubach adds his name to the cast of a 15-year-old boy from Arlington, Va., Paul Wagner, who was on hand to watch the opening of the Middles' football drills today. Watching the signing is halfback Skip Orr.

Navy Seeks 5 Grid Starters

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Navy opened football practice today with untested players holding the answer to whether the Middles will have another outstanding season.

Only six starters are back from the 1963 team that won No. 2 national ranking and lost to Texas 26-6 in the Cotton Bowl. But the group includes these stars of the 1963 team:

Roger Staubach, the incomparable quarterback who won the Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding football player.

"TOTAL" PLAYER

Pat Donnelly, a fullback described by Coach Wayne Hardin as "the total football player" and finest in Navy history.

Ed Orr, flanker back who Hardin says is the best pass receiver Navy has had.

Jim Freeman and Pat Phillips, the starting tackles from last year. Hardin says Freeman, lightning quick on offense and defense, will rank among Navy's best linemen.

Fred Marlin, guard, place-kicker and outstanding linebacker last year who is captain of the 1964 team.

Sore-Armed KoufaxMay Face Cardinals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sandy Koufax, Los Angeles Dodgers' pitching ace, may be sufficiently recovered from his elbow injury to take the mound against the Cardinals in St. Louis Saturday, team physician Dr. Robert Kerlan reports.

"I examined his arm," Dr. Kerlan said Wednesday, "and it was markedly improved. We'll let Sandy throw some Friday, and if he's all right, he may start against St. Louis either Saturday or Monday."

Huron-Airway to Play Livonia NineChallenges WBA Today*Liston Enters New Ring

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — This is the day for Sonny Liston's big fight.

Official friends and foes of the former heavyweight champion are scheduled to battle it out "in the floor," over his status as challenger, at the opening business meeting of the World Boxing Association's convention here.

If his friends win, the meeting will sanction his contracted return title bout with champion Cassius Clay in November at a site to be selected soon. That contract was signed at Louisville, July 27.

But if the powerful opposition triumphs, the WBA doubtless will refuse to permit a return Clay-Liston title bout until after Liston proves himself a "worthy challenger" by defeating one of the top ten contenders.

That would be delaying 30-year-old Sonny's come-back shot at the title for perhaps another year — even if he whipped the contender. Neither Liston, Clay nor the promoters of the estimated $4-million fight will stand for that.

Today's open floor battle became necessary when Wednesday's meeting of the WBA Executive Committee was unable to agree upon any "rescuing recommendation" to be presented to nearly 100 members at the business meeting today.

Jacksonville NineRegains IL Lead

Jacksonville is back atop the International League standings at least temporarily, but the Suns had to work overtime to get there.

The Suns took both ends of a doubleheader from Richmond Wednesday, with Jerry Walker capping the night by firing a 10-inning one-hitter to lead them to a 1-0 victory. They won the opener 3-3.

State Playoff Here Friday

City Champion Has Tough Opening Foe

The victory trail has not been a smooth one for Huron-Airway, the Pontiac recreation baseball city champion, and it promises to get rougher beginning tomorrow night.

State recreation association regional play will open at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow under the lights at Jaycee Park with Livonia providing the opposition.

Despite a 21-3 season record, Huron-Airway was not without its crucial moments before winning the city title, and it will be meeting a statistically superior opponent in the best-of-three regional tournament.

Manager Paul Parks has selected Don Sackett (10-2) to hurl the opening game. He also moved to strengthen a somewhat shaky mound depth with Tom Walters, the Cranbrook southpaw, and Bob Bogert, young right-hander from Pontiac Business Institute.

Charles Gramlich, hard-hitting third baseman-catcher from Mt. G. Collision, was added for tournament play.

Parks probably will go with Walters in the 7:30 p.m. Saturday night game at Livonia, and Steve Wilson, Don Plemann, Jim Wagner, Les Stone and Bogert to choose among if the series goes a third game Sunday at Livonia.

The latter team has a five-man mound corps led by southpaw Bill Booth (3-0). Ron Heller (5-0) is the No. 2 man on manager Jerry Stockwell's staff.

DOUBLE DUTY

The skipper, who also doubles as a 419 hitting left-handed first baseman, did not add any pitchers for tournament play, but picked up three right-handed hitters.

Catcher-outfielder Dick Gray led the Livonia hitting attack which produced 15 wins in 16 starts (including the last 12 in a row) and a total of 217 runs in 16 games.

That averages out to 13 1/2 per game while the pitchers held the opposition to 2 1/2.

Gray hit .508 with 33 runs batted in and 11 extra base hits in 16 games. Third baseman Gerry Allen is swinging at a .473 clip.

The young team has about half its squad back from the one that played last year in state tournament play at Jackson.

The Livonia diamond for the weekend game (5) is located on Farmington Road, between Five Mile and Schoolcraft.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The University of Michigan has named Ronald L. Pulliam as equipment custodian. He replaces the late Henry Hatch who died last spring after 45 years on the job. Pulliam, 20, has been Hatch's assistant since 1954. He is a native of St. Louis, Mo.

Pistons' Deal With Bullets Looks 'Bigger'

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Detroit Pistons may have made a bigger trade than they realized when they obtained Terry Dischinger from the Baltimore Bullets.

At least, Dischinger himself will be bigger when he reports to the Pistons for the National Basketball Association season. Terry was pounded regularly last season while rebounding, and he decided to do something about it before another campaign rolled around. As a result, he has gained 25 pounds and now weighs 215.

"All summer I've been doing isometric exercises," he said, "and I'm really pleased with the results. I'm better prepared for the start of the season than I was for either of the other two years I played pro ball."

Terry played his first game as a 215 pounder last week in the Maurice Stokes benefit game in New York, and he was satisfied with his first test.

Money Marksmen Aim at Trapshooters' Purse

VANDALLA, Ohio (AP) —The big money sign went up today at the 65th Grand American Trapshoot as the week-long clay target carnival moved into the handicap phase after three days of 16-yard events.

On tap today was the preliminary handicap, a 100-clay event in which the shooters, according to their averages or known ability, are stationed 18 to 27 yards behind the trap house from which the flying targets emerge.

This one has an entry fee of $45.50 and the marksmen can lose another $31 into the optional system under which he can wager on his own prowess against the field. The winner can pick up around $7,000.

About 2,300 from all over the country were scheduled to try for it.

event, the Grand American Handicap, scheduled Friday.

The 16-yard competition ended Wednesday with Buford C. Bailey of Big Springs, Neb., capturing the big prize — the North American clay target championship.

The 39-year-old Nebraskan, who has an 18,000-acre ranch, broke 280 straight to his 31-year-old Russ Sathoff, a dairyman from Niles, Mich., and 34-year-old John E. Cain III, a building contractor from Nashville, Tenn. Bailey cracked 75 straight in a shootoff to take the title with Sathoff breaking 72 of 75 for second place and Cain 24 of 25 for third.

Phyllis Notaro of Brant, N.Y., bowled a 300 game at Paterson, N. J., last December to become the sixth woman to roll a perfect game in 1963.

Water Circus at Metro

The circus will take to water when the annual night water ski show takes place at Metropolitan Beach at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Precision acts, diving jumps and aquamaids in colorful costumes are featured throughout the hour-long show.

The show will be presented "under the lights" in the large boat basin immediately east of the parking lot.

Starring in the show are Joe Grimaldi, former national mixed doubles champion, and versatile skiers Patricia Frans

Bill and Nancy Weston all of the Detroit area and Joe Zeleznik of Pontiac.

There is no charge or this special attraction, except the usual 50 cent parking fee in effect at Metropolitan Beach.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — Adrian Smith, veteran guard of the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball League, Wednesday signed his contract for the 1964-65 season, bringing the number of Royals in the fold to three.

Diet Wins Berth

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary Simmons, who normally weighs 137 pounds, won the National AAU 125.5-pound free style wrestling championship last June.

Wednesday night the 25-year-old soldier finished first in the 114.5-pound class of the U.S. Olympic trials at the World's Fair.

Sounds confusing, doesn't it? It really isn't. The Army private has an easy formula for losing weight — stop eating and do some extra exercises.

"It isn't that I don't like to eat," said the Norfolk, Va., native after he scored an easy decision over Okla Johnson of East Lansing, Mich., in the final round.

"I take this wrestling very serious. Especially this year. I am retiring after the Olympics and I would like nothing better than to win a medal in Tokyo." Asked why the sharp drop from his normal weight of 137 to 125 for the Nationals to 114 for the trials, Simmons replied:

"I am not big enough (he's only 5'5") to handle the boys in the 125.5-pound class so that's why I dropped down for the Nationals.

Simmons is stationed at the U.S. Military Academy where he teaches physical education and is assistant wrestling coach.

The other winners and runners-up included (Winner first): 125.5 pounds, Dave Abble, Ithaca, N.Y., Carmen Molino, Ontario, N.Y.

138.5, Bob Douglas, Bridgeport, Ohio, Mike Harmon, U.S. Navy.

154.5, Jim Burke, San Francisco, Gordon Hassman, New Hampton, Iowa.

171.5, Dean Lahr, Boulder, Colo., Charles Tribble, San Bernardino, Calif.

191.5, Dan Brand, Oakland, Calif., Harry Houska, Parma, Ohio.

Heavyweight, Larry Kristoff, Carbondale, Ill., Jim Raschke, U.S. Army, Lincoln, Neb.

All first and second place finishers qualified for the training camp which gets under way at the U.S. Naval Academy Monday. The selection committee also said a few special cases also may be invited.

Of the seven active sluggers who have hit 300 or more home runs during their careers Mickey Mantle, with 419, is the only American Leaguer. However, Phillie Roy Slevers hit 270 of his 310 homers in the American League.

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Sue Kron of Port Washington, N.Y., took the lead in the national Rhodes 19 sailing championships Wednesday.

Miss Kron placed third and second in two races, the first held in a thunder squall and the second in a 15-knot northeasterly on Long Island Sound. She has a low 12% points on a 1-7-3-2 race performance.

Tom MacNiven of Larchmont, N.Y., is second with 16 points on a 2-5-4-4 chart for the races.

In Elk License Draw

Local Hunter Joins Lucky Group

LANSING (AP) — Muskegon's John Benson is Michigan's No. 1 elk hunter, according to an electronic computer set into motion by Gov. George W. Romney Wednesday.

The machine then proceeded to sort out the names of 299 other winners of a much-coveted elk hunting license.

The card filled in by Benson flipped out first, followed by those of JAMES MITCHELL, of PONTIAC, and Lee Trapp, of Grand Rapids.

There were 23,339 names of applicants for the elk hunting license fed into the mechanical monster. The machine sorted them out in 45 minutes, choosing the winners at random.

The 300 winners still will have their applications checked for validity. Licenses are expected to be issued about Oct. 1.

Shooting will be allowed in five areas covering about 600 square miles in parts of Cheboygan, Presque Isle, Osego and Montmorency counties. In four of these areas, elk of either sex will be legal targets. One area will be open to shooting of antlerless animals only.

The limited Dec. 5-13 season will mark the first time since before the turn of the century that elk have been legally hunted in Michigan.

Marina Steals Show From America's Cup

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

STAMFORD, Conn. — Originally we came here to see American Eagle, the Bill Luder-designed $250,000 America's Cup 12-meter yacht, but soon became enamored with incredible Yacht Haven, the $1 million marina that less than 10 years ago was nothing more than mud and marsh.

This seven-acre pier marina, with dock space for 300 boats from 15-foot outboards to 100-foot cruisers, is second in size on the east coast only to Fort Lauderdale's Bahia Mar.

And John Scott-Paine, who helped reorganize the Yale-Corinthian Yacht Club after World War II, says Yacht Haven "is only half built." Scott-Paine is president of the public-owned corporation.

"When we add over 300 ships we'll be close to 650 and we'll be the largest in the east," says the 39-year-old son of the late Hubert Scott-Paine.

John's father was England's famous boat designer, racer and builder. In 1933 his single-engine Miss Britain III went 79 mph on Detroit's St. Clair River, but Gar Wood, piloting four-engine Miss America X, went 82 mph to retain the famed Harmsworth Trophy.

Later that fall Hubert set the world's salt water record

— 102.165 mph at Southampton, England. And in 1938 he gave to America a prototype PT boat, a 70-footer capable of 50 mph.

John Scott-Paine would rather reminisce over his dad, who passed on in 1954, than go into detail about Yacht Haven, a picturesque Long Island Sound port 45 miles from New York's Times Square.

It was suggested that Heber H. Princehouse, the marina's vice president, was the man to see about a story — and the possible rental of a 25-foot O'Day Tempest since we were in no position to hire an 11-man crew for a spin with American Eagle.

We soon met John Scott-Paine inadvertently and he listened intently to what we knew about sailboats, then said with a smile:

"You're like 90 per cent of the people who come here. Most of them have never sailed before. Anyway we have more 35-foot power cruisers to sell. We'll have a man fasten an outboard to the transom and take you out."

So Capt. John Olsen, who had sailed in a number of Bermuda races, dropped his paint brush, pulled the cord on the 3 1/2 hp outboard and within 10 minutes we were at the breakwater. We needed no power now.

Boats to Race at Loon Lake

Expect 100 Drivers to Compete

More than 100 boats and drivers are expected to be on hand for the annual Waterford Jaycee Regatta Sunday at Loon Lake in Drayton Plains.

The races are co-sponsored by the Waterford Jaycees and the Belle Isle Outboard Club.

The races will be run three laps over a 1 1/4-mile course, on U.S. 10 three miles north of Pontiac, with the first event slated to get under way at 12:30 p.m.

Area drivers in the field are Detroiters Skip Forcier, commodore of the Belle Isle Outboard Club, Ray Lenk, in the D utility class, Gordon Anderson, D hydro class, Fred Schartz, B utility, and national champion Jerry VanConant in class 36. Chairman of the Jaycee event is George Howard Jr. of Pontiac.

LARGEST MARINA IN NORTHEAST: Now in its seventh year, Yacht Haven at Stamford, Conn., will eventually be enlarged to hold almost 650 boats of all sizes. Head of the marina is John Scott-Paine, son of England's famous designer, builder and speedboat racer Hubert Scott-Paine.

Scenes Show 'Cleo' Power

PALMS DOWN — A motorist meets a roadblock on U.S. Route 1, south of Miami, this morning as Hurricane Cleo flattened many of the huge ornamental palm trees in the area. These trees were planted recently to beautify the highway.

Cleo Shows Funny Side

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Cleo, the grim killer of at least 122 persons, also showed a humorous side to South Floridians today.

One man frantically called the local Civil Defense center to report that a plate glass window in his home was about to blow in.

"What am I going to do about it? Oh, my God, there it goes," he hung up.

UPI newsmen John Stirn fought an afternoon traffic jam for two hours yesterday trying to get home to prepare his family for the storm.

Before he could return to work, Stirn said a huge oak tree fell on his house and another tree tumbled on top of his car.

PREGNANT WOMEN

A veteran night nurse at the county hospital said 42 pregnant women were brought to the emergency room and three premature babies were delivered within minutes after the storm touched the storm touched the mainland.

"I just don't know why women get nervous over this," she said.

Teens Waive Exam on Robbery Charge

Three Pontiac teen-agers, charged with the Aug. 14 armed robbery of a Pontiac market, waived examination yesterday and were bound over to Circuit Court by Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum.

Arraignment in the higher court is scheduled for Monday at 1:30 p.m. The three are held on $20,000 bond each.

They are Oscar Rowis, Jr., 18, of 197 Crystal Lake; Hugh Lance, 17, of 69 Clove; and Henil Highley, 18, of 365 Going.

The trio is charged with robbing the J-J Food Store, 564 S. Telegraph.

SANDBAG PROTECTION—Miami Beach hotel facing, is being barricaded with sandbags as hurricane Cleo approaches Florida's lower coast. The bags provide protection against high tides. The weather bureau said the storm had winds of 110 to 125 miles an hour, pushing an 8-foot tide.

Cape Kennedy Braces for Fury

Rockets Are Secured to Ride Out Big Blow

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — America's spaceport today braced for a lashing from Hurricane Cleo. Six big rockets were secured to their launch stands to ride out the blow.

The killer storm, expected to spare the center the full fury of its force by passing offshore, has already delayed the maiden flight of the new Air Force Titan-3A space rocket that was set for tomorrow.

The entire rocket complex was battened down for the storm.

All nonessential personnel were told to remain at home today and only special "ride-out" crews were allowed in many areas of the Cape when the high winds hit.

Gas stations were jammed last night as motorists, leaving the cape, made certain their cars had enough fuel to head for safety on the mainland if the hurricane veered toward the narrow stretch of sand that houses thousands of missile workers.

REMOVE ROCKET

Missilemen yesterday removed one Atlas rocket from its launch pad to the shelter of a hangar. But space agency officials decided to let six other boosters remain in their gantries.

The spaceport has never received a direct hit from a hurricane. Hurricane Ginny threatened to strike the cape last September but veered away before its winds could cause any damage.

Biggest of all the rockets riding out Cleo was a 190-foot Saturn-1 super rocket set to orbit an unmanned Apollo moonship Sept. 16.

Its service tower was designed to protect boosters in winds up to 100 miles per hour.

Gauge Blown Away

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The National Hurricane Center reported at 2:18 a.m., today that its air gauge blew away at 110 miles an hour as Hurricane Cleo struck Miami with all its force.

Police Watch for Violence in Farmer Holding Action

CHICAGO (UPI)—Wisconsin State Police were on a 24-hour alert today to curb mounting violence in the National Farmers Organization's (NFO) faltering market rebellion.

The American Meat Institute said the militant farm group's 23-state "holding action" was starting to collapse after major Midwestern markets reported a surge of livestock arrivals yesterday and prices started to skid.

The institute, spokesman for the meat-packing industry, said hoisted stockyard receipts canceled out "most of the price gains initially attributed to the start of the holding action last week."

But NFO President Oren Lee Staley and other leaders of the farm group from Idaho to New York State accused the meat-packing industry of "wishful thinking" and said the increase in marketing yesterday was a "frantic attempt to weaken the holding action."

"They're yelling like a stuck pig," Staley said. "They would not be doing that if they really believed what they are saying."

DOWN PRICES

Arnold Wilhelm, NFO director for Kentucky and Tennessee, said the meat industry was pushing prices down to draw non-participating farmers into a selling spree before prices fall even lower.

"We expected this to happen all along," he said.

Staley said the "real hard core" of the holding action was yet to come now that farmers have disposed of their livestock during two "organized selling days."

The NFO hopes to raise on-the-hoof prices paid to farmers by holding back cattle, hogs and sheep from market.

Livestock receipts were generally lower until Monday. Tuesday they started to edge up, and then yesterday they shot to their highest level at Chicago for a Wednesday in nearly three years.

Retail price increases, however, continued to be reported with some wholesalers saying significant rises in butcher shop prices would not be felt until tomorrow or early next week—providing the NFO can keep meat from the market.

Texas Officials Optimistic

Hope Epidemic Waning

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston health officials were optimistic today that an encephalitis epidemic was waning, but suspected outbreaks in widespread areas of Texas had the state jumpy.

Continued rains provided pools of stagnant water for the Culex mosquito — carrier of the disease — to multiply in.

The rain also washed away the insecticide used to control the mosquitoes.

Outbreaks of the disease, which attacks the nervous system and brain, have been reported in Houston on the Gulf Coast, Plainview on the South Plains, and in Lubbock County on the plains and Bowie County in northeast Texas.

There was one ray of hope in Houston, where city Health Officer Dr. C. A. Pigford revised the suspected death toll from sleeping sickness from 19 to 13 when medical reports showed six deaths from other causes.

TWO CONFIRMED
Only two of those suspected 13 Houston deaths have been confirmed as having been caused by encephalitis. The total of suspected cases of the disease rose to more than 200.

Pigford said he felt the momentum of the disease had been stopped, and it was on the decline.

Harris County officials yesterday ordered school grounds sprayed to protect children when school opens in September.

Actually, mosquito killing is about the only way to control the disease effectively. Once the female Culex mosquito bites a victim and he contracts the virus, nothing can be done except to try to control the fever and relieve the accompanying headache.

TRUCK POOL
A pool of 40 trucks mounted with sprayers was in use.

Exterminators warned residents to be careful in the use of malathion, the insecticide being used to kill the mosquitoes. They reminded it was extremely poisonous and should be kept away from children.

Rules Given for Fishery Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The regulations under which the Great Lakes fishing industry will be aided because of economic losses suffered in 1963 were announced today.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall said fishermen, processors and distributors of smoked chubs in the Great Lakes area are in serious difficulty as the result of loss of markets following an outbreak of botulism.

Under the regulations, payments will be made to the industry to help offset losses caused by removal of the chubs from normal channels of trade. The fish, now in storage, will make the payments under approved applications on this basis: No. 1 chubs, 21 cents a pound; No. 2 chubs, 5 cents a pound; No. 3 chubs, 5 cents a pound. An additional payment of 5 cents a pound may be made if processing costs totaling at least 5 cents have been incurred.

Disposal of the chubs will open up markets for the depressed industry and allow resumption of fishing operations which have been at a virtual standstill since last fall, the bureau said.

Montgomery Due to Desegregate Today

Race Barriers Falling in Dixie Schools

By United Press International.
School systems all over the South made moves today toward desegregation.

The school board at Montgomery, Ala., last night assigned eight Negroes to three previously all-white schools; and Shelby County, Tenn., one of the largest school systems in the South, prepared today to throw down racial barriers in all grades.

The action at Montgomery, considered to be one of the critical areas in school desegregation, was announced early today after a closed session of the Montgomery County Board.

The board said 29 applications by Negro pupils had been processed, but only eight met requirements under an Alabama school placement law. The move must be approved by a federal court.

School desegregation also is scheduled to begin today in four South Carolina counties—Oconee, Pickens, Spartanburg and Sumter—and at Marietta, Ga.

In all, 81 school districts in 11 Southern states are expected to desegregate this fall for the first time, including 25 in so-called critical areas.

City schools in Memphis start classes next Tuesday with desegregation through the sixth grade. Memphis' grade - 8 year desegregation plan is similar to one currently being followed at Dallas, Tex., where a federal judge earlier declined to step up the pace.

Elsewhere:
• New York — Federal Judge Thurgood Marshall yesterday stayed state court proceedings against a group of civil rights demonstrators arrested at the opening of the World's Fair.

The action cleared the way for an initial interpretation of a section of the new Civil Rights Act which allows defendants to appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals if a federal district court refuses to take their trial out of the hands of a state court.

• Augusta, Ga. — Four Negro pupils registered at previously all-white schools here yesterday without incident. Five others were denied admission to Richmond Academy on grounds they failed to meet requirements set up by the Richmond County Board of Education in July.

• Danielsville, Ga. — State Prosecutor Clete Johnson refused to say yesterday if he will seek the death penalty for three former Ku Klux Klansmen indicted for the night-riding slaying of Negro educator James Ray Penn of Washington, D. C. The cases are scheduled to be called for trial Monday.

• Athens, Ga. — A suit filed in a federal court yesterday seeks to force the integration of a Monroe, Ga., restaurant under the civil rights law and also seeks to restrain county and city officials from enforcing Georgia's state anti-trespass law to prevent compliance with the civil rights measure.

• New Orleans — Mrs. Fanny Chaney, mother of slain civil rights worker James Chaney of Meridian, Miss., said yesterday the new civil rights law has made a "great difference" in the way Negroes are treated in Mississippi. But she said the state has a long way to go.

• St. Augustine, Fla. — A newly formed (white) citizens council yesterday claimed more than 500 members, and a spokesman said similar organizations were planned in nine other Florida cities to combat communism and integration.

Junior Editors Quiz on COAT BUTTONS

QUESTION: Why do boys' coats button on the left?

ANSWER: We should be glad we don't live in the old days when dueling was a fashion and men went around carrying long swords and daggers as well.

Apparently the possession of such weapons tended to make their owners' tempers short; for stories from those days tell of hot-headed cavaliers whipping out their swords on trifling provocation.

The clothes of the time were heavy and cumbersome and tended to interfere with a man's sword arm when he wanted to get his weapon out in a hurry. Buttons had become widely used, so clothes and capes were made to button with the left side overlapping the right.

With such an arrangement, as our picture suggests, our ancestors could unbutton their capes with the left hand while reaching for their swords with the right.

Once a fashion is strongly established it may go on for years after the original need for it has disappeared. We men do not carry swords, but we do carry on the tradition of earlier days, by still buttoning our coats with the left side overlapping the right.

FOR YOU TO DO: Notice that while boys' and men's coats button on the left, women's coats button on the right.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — Government officials reported today that Hurricane Cleo claimed over 100 lives in its swipe through Haiti on Monday.

A mosquito has an average life of one to seven months.

Both Brothers in Same Boat; Need to Bail

NEW YORK (AP)—Angelo Zayas, 29, having been arraigned before a federal commissioner on charges of cashing a stolen $120 non-refund check, turned and saw his brother next in line.

"What are you doing here?" Angelo asked his brother, Wilfredo, 20, yesterday.

Wilfredo said he had been arrested by postal inspectors on charges of stealing a $40 unemployment check.

Commissioner Max Schiffman set bail for Angelo at $10,000, and for Wilfredo at $1,500.

Key Indonesia Cabinet Post to Red

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno reshuffled his Cabinet today and gave a top Indonesian Communist, Njoto, an important position.

Njoto — No. 3 man in Indonesia's large Communist party — was appointed minister attached to the powerful president of the Cabinet. He was editor of the Communist party organ Harian Rakjat.

Communists have been in the Cabinet previously, but this is the first time one has been given an active role in Sukarno's government.

Communist chief D. N. Aidit and his assistant, M. H. Lukman, were retained in the Cabinet as ministers without portfolio — in effect figurehead positions without real power.

Sukarno told newsmen the Cabinet reshuffle will not lead to any changes in government policies.

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communist regime has dampened chances of agreement on a plan which would permit West Berliners to pass through the Berlin wall and visit relatives in the East.

The East German government published a declaration Wednesday night which said the visits will be permitted only if the West Berlin government grants it a certain amount of diplomatic recognition. The declaration said East Berlin must be recognized as the legal capital of East Germany, and any agreement on visits must be concluded in the name of East Germany's premier. The West has refused to grant such recognition.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today repeated a veiled threat to walk out of the United Nations if attempts are made to force the Kremlin to pay for certain U.N. peace-keeping operations.

The Communist party organ Pravda said the Soviet Union would not budge from its "position of principle" — that those responsible for aggression in the Middle East and the Congo should pay for U.N. peace forces.

The paper also repeated a Soviet statement of last March that any attempt to require Soviet payment would "force us to review our attitude toward activities in the United Nations organization."

Paper Correspondents to Air Confabs, Race

GLEN ARBOR (AP) — Christian Science Monitor correspondents William Stringer and Saville Davis will discuss the national political conventions and the Mississippi racial situation at the Leelanau School System's World Affairs Symposium which runs from Saturday through Tuesday.

Terms 8 States Crucial

Midwest Called Campaign Battleground

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

ATLANTIC CITY (NEA) — A high-ranking Democrat who pushed over the matter for weeks finally has decided that the eight-state Middle West is the critical combat area in the 1964 presidential race.

Goldwater forces agree with this judgment in part, since they have said the Republican nominee needs Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin as prime building stones toward a Nov. 3 victory.

The top Democrat, one of President Johnson's good friends, puts the other four Midwestern states—Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri—in the same crucial category.

Together, the eight comprise 129 of the 270 electoral votes required for election.

Samplings among Democrats in this convention setting, and earlier among leading Republican and independent sources, produce this first reading of candidate prospects in the critical zone.

OHIO (26 VOTES). Goldwater appears to have the lead. The state supplied Republican Richard Nixon with his greatest big-state margin — 273,000 votes — in 1960.

GOP STRONGER

The GOP is even stronger today, holding the statehouse under Gov. James Rhodes, plus a heavy majority of elective offices at all levels. Rep. Robert Taft, bidding for U.S. Sen. Stephen Young's seat, may have some lift value for Goldwater.

Ohio Democrats still lack effective leadership and quarrel among themselves, though an administration man says: "They're not mad at Lyndon." In Cleveland, always basic to Democratic hopes, organization weakness is most pronounced. White backlash seems a real threat. No big flow of Ohio Republicans to Johnson is yet observed.

ILLINOIS (26 VOTES). A trustworthy upgrader gives Johnson a present edge. Republicans in Chicago's suburbs are reported drifting to Johnson. A poor voter turnout in Republican "downstate" is feared.

Yet Goldwater has a huge, ardent Illinois following whose leaders know the vital necessity of his taking the state. They have money.

Goldwater could gain, too, if Chicago's "ethnic Democrats," aroused over Negro stirrings, move to his side in force. And Democratic Mayor Richard Daley's failed organization was not sharp in its most recent trial a year ago.

MICHIGAN (21 VOTES). Consensus of experts in both parties gives it to Johnson today, by varying margins up to large. Fresh polls are lacking.

Goldwater's managers do not claim Michigan. Moderate-leaning Gov. George Romney, running again, damps down the Goldwater drive with his studied solemnity. Democrats, their 1963 rift healed, are organized to the hilt.

INDIANA (13 VOTES). Best judgment is Goldwater ahead. The state has gone Democratic in only three presidential battles since 1900 — and not since 1936. Nixon won it in 1960 by more than 200,000. Backlash could hurt Johnson in industrial Gary, won by Alabama's Gov. George Wallace in last spring's primary. But a pre-primary Johnson visit to job-hungry South Bend curbed a similar switch there. Democrats now want the President to speak in Gary this fall.

WISCONSIN (13 VOTES).

Goldwater has party history on his side. Last Democrat to win was Harry Truman in his 1948 upset. Nixon's margin over the late John F. Kennedy was around 60,000. Backlash in Milwaukee, however, appears overrated despite potent Wallace showing last April. And some private statewide polls show Johnson out front, 40 to 40.

MISSOURI (12 VOTES). A narrow squeak for Kennedy four years ago, but now placed in Johnson's camp by margins up to 100,000 or more. Goldwater forces never have claimed the state, despite its conservative leanings. Democratic tradition is strong.

100,000 MARGIN MINNESOTA (10 VOTES). Divided Republican forces help Johnson to a present lead. But the state is a mixture, and Kennedy won it by a mere 20,000. Democrats exhibit more confidence than the GOP.

IOWA (9 VOTES). Again, history rides with Goldwater. Truman was the last Democratic winner. Nixon won in 1960 by 175,000. But here, too, Republicans are split. Iowa's many oldsters worry over Goldwater's Social Security views. Some Republicans talk of defecting. The outcome could be extremely close.

GETS HIS ORDERS — Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota talked to the White House yesterday and got orders to report to Washington to discuss the forthcoming election campaign in which he will run for vice president. Sen. Humphrey was nominated by the Democratic convention in Atlantic City yesterday.

TEXAS GOVERNOR UPSET — Gov. John Connally of Texas told newsmen last night in Atlantic City the dispute over seating of delegates on the Democratic convention floor was "a sorry spectacle." He said he demanded the sergeant-at-arms enforce the rules concerning delegate seating regarding the Mississippi and Alabama delegations. Connally and Gov. Pat Brown of California nominated President Johnson as the party's presidential candidate.

WIVES WATCH SHOW — Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, wives of the two men picked last night to be Democratic party presidential and vice presidential candidates, applaud and wave during the demonstration by delegates for Johnson in Atlantic City's Convention Hall.

Convention Outcome Is Result of Careful Johnson Planning

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — To Lyndon B. Johnson even minor political details are to be studied, to be worried about, and, if anything goes wrong, to blow one's stack over.

Never has this been better illustrated than at the Democratic National Convention.

Wednesday night the whooping delegates nominated Johnson by acclamation.

They waited patiently for the word and when it came, they shouted Hubert H. Humphrey in as their choice for vice president.

AVOID FIGHTS — They avoided floor fights and adopted a platform with scarcely a dissenting voice, something that hasn't been done in at least a generation.

In short, they did precisely what the political doctor in the White House ordered.

Johnson himself, while strolling with reporters in Washington Wednesday said approvingly of the delegates: "There have been no roll calls, no fights, no knockdowns and dragouts, and no personal charges."

Much has been written here this week about how Johnson's knowing hand was guiding this convention, how he was on the phone making sure each detail was honed to perfection.

DIRECT ACTION

And this was true. "You know how Mr. Johnson is," an aide said. "He believes in direct action, so he gets on the phone. On some things he may call three or four persons."

But to stress this too much misses the whole point of the Johnson method.

In talking with those who have been deeply involved in this convention, one gets this picture: what happened — or more importantly, what didn't happen — isn't so much the result of Johnson's busy telephone as it is of Johnson's careful planning.

A man close to the President used this as a illustration: When vice presidential boomlets for Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy began, Johnson quickly cut him, and a few others, from the running — and thus removed the one man — and the one family — who might have stolen the show from him here.

PRUDENTLY PUT OFF

Even the tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy was prudently put off until tonight: No use stirring up a lot of emotion until all decisions have been made.

Or take the hottest issue this convention had to face: which delegation from Mississippi should be seated?

A week ago Saturday Humphrey was in California. While there he talked with such Democratic leaders as Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Sen. Pierre Salinger, Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh and State Controller Alvin Cranston about the potentially explosive Mississippi situation.

When he returned to the White House, he reportedly told Johnson: "If this gets to a vote on the floor, we're done. It's too emotional."

SOOTHE OVER

The upshot: Humphrey, who helped to split the party in 1948 by leading a civil rights fight, now was to work to soothe everything over.

Everything was thought of. Atty. Gen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota, one of Humphrey's most loyal followers, just happened to be named head of the subcommittee to handle this problem.

If the compromise that came out of all the bustling and conferring and worrying wasn't spectacular, it hit right on target. No fight. Mutterings maybe. But no fight.

Johnson runs a peculiar show. He apparently doesn't like titles; and he wants men to be eager to work, and to work in complete anonymity. So there is no clear-cut division of duties, and Johnson's agents may find out in all directions, with several of them working on the same problem from different angles.

BUSY SIGNALS

The Atlantic City White House took form here early, and by the first of this week its switchboard was so jammed you repeatedly got busy signals when you tried to dial it.

Walter Jenkins, a long-time friend and administrative assistant, was chief of staff of the operations.

Bill D. Moyers, a political for rival for the nomination. Michigan," Kozak said.

He said he has not discussed his plans with Rep. Neil Staeble, the Democratic candidate for governor who will decide who his running mate is to be. Staeble has said he welcomes any candidates for the second spot but there is talk among Michigan Democrats that it should go to a candidate with "name" appeal for nationality groups.

MAJOR RIVAL

Kozak, who is Polish said he considers Democratic State it but it would be much easier with it," Kozak said.

He said he felt his name on the ticket would help Staeble campaign against Republican Gov. George W. Romney.

"I think he could win without it but it would be much easier with it," Kozak said.

Among those who stayed in

HOW IT WAS — A pretty girl riding a papier-mache cow is the center of attention in this area of the convention floor during last night's demonstration for President Johnson. It came when he arrived at the Democratic convention to reveal his choice for vice presidential nomination.

DELEGATES QUIT — Jess Lanier (right), chairman of insurgent Alabama delegation to the Democratic National Convention, talks to newsmen last night outside a caucus room where the group decided to call off further efforts to gain recognition in the convention. Nearly all the delegates refused to sign a loyalty pledge to support the ticket.

ACCORDING TO CHART — President Johnson uses a chart, based on poll of voters, to cite what he said was Democratic superiority in the presidential race. With him is Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, who was picked by Johnson to be Democratic vice presidential candidate. Johnson used the chart in a White House conference before flying to Atlantic City.

Washington to mind the store were Jack Valenti, at top assistant, and George Reedy his news secretary.

Perhaps the most significant thing in all this is how complete the planning was.

Clifton Carter, who looks after endgame political details for Johnson, and Richard Maquire, Democratic treasurer, had a series of workshops going this week which in effect laid the groundwork for the fall campaign.

GIVE ANSWERS

All 50 states had representatives present who were told how to take advantage of research material worked up by the national committee, how to organize Young Citizens for LBJ, how to provide publicity, how to help up women's activities, how to encourage citizen groups and how to turn out sippy campaign material.

"Best workshop I've ever seen," Carter told a reporter. And all this at a time when most candidates are still fighting for the nomination.

Carter also has the responsibility of making sure everything runs smoothly in Convention Hall. An elaborate phone system keeps him within instant touch of each delegation.

He was explaining this as he was returning from lunch. Suddenly his coat pocket started to buzz. Carter took out a small radio receiver and switched it off.

"This means I have a call," he said, "I've got to get to a phone."

As you can see, not many bets were overlooked in Atlantic City.

Democrats Pause in Sad Memorial

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI) — Democrats pause in their celebrating tonight to remember.

To remember, most especially, the late President John F. Kennedy, slain last Nov. 22 in Dallas by a deranged rifleman.

To remember also the late speaker Sam Rayburn, the man they once crowned "Mr. Democrat."

And to remember the all-time great lady of the Democratic party, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Tonight's memorial program in Convention Hall will center, naturally, on the young Massachusetts senator Democrats nominated — and elected — four years ago as president of the United States.

EMOTION-CHARGED

Delegates, and television viewers, will see an emotion-charged film titled "A Thousand Days" recounting Kennedy's three years in the White House.

The assembled Democrats had hoped Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy could be there with them to share in the tribute to her husband.

But the 35-year-old former first lady was afraid she would cry. So nobody took offense when she sent word she wouldn't be present. Instead she planned to greet the delegates at a reception, in the afternoon before the showing of the memorial film.

ATTORNEY GENERAL

The late president's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, will be there for the screening, and will in fact introduce it.

If any tears are left after the delegates have seen the film's more touching sequences — including shots of the late president at play with his children — they may be shed in subsequent tributes to Rayburn and Mrs. Roosevelt.

"Mr. Sam" died of cancer in 1961 after serving as House speaker twice as long as any predecessor and, according to many Democrats, twice as well too.

LOVINGLY KNOWN

Mrs. Roosevelt's story, like Rayburn's was one well- and lovingly known by the people in this big convention hall.

She died in 1962, and Adlai Stevenson said "the glow of her presence" had been felt all over the world.

QUIET! DADDY'S TALKING — Lynda Johnson tries to help quiet a noisy ovation that greeted her father, President Johnson, as he spoke to the Democratic convention last night. He was nominated for the presidency by acclamation last night.

'Like Skyrockets Going Off'

Mrs. Johnson Thrilled by Nomination

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)

Lady Bird Johnson said she never anticipated what excitement it would be to see her husband nominated for president.

The Democratic convention demonstration seemed like "skyrockets going off," she said Wednesday night as she celebrated with her two daughters.

In the presidential box, the beaming First Lady threw confetti, applauded and waved at the thousands of delegates who acclaimed her husband. Daughters Lynda, 20, and Luci, 17, shared in the tumultuous reception with their parents.

LBJ's political partner and wife of 29 years, Lady Bird found the climactic nomination scene "overwhelming."

RECOGNIZE SO MANY

"It was marvelous to see people marching past — I've known so many of them through the years I can recognize one out every five people going past," she told reporters during the demonstration for Johnson.

Winding up the big day, Mrs. Johnson, Luci and Lynda helped put the spotlight on vice presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey and his wife, Muriel.

Johnson, who popped his long-kept secret Wednesday night, headed back to Washington. The celebration of the 1964 Democratic ticket went on into the early morning hours in this seaside resort.

The Johnsons went to a "President's Club" party for Humphrey, given by wealthy Democrats who contributed $1,000 or more to the party.

DELIGHTED ROARS

At the party, Humphrey got delighted roars of laughter when he stepped up to speak after his wife and said: "I've had a lot of experience being vice president because the president in my house has already talked to you."

Mrs. Humphrey said, "Everything we've been through has been well worth it." She had found the suspense intense.

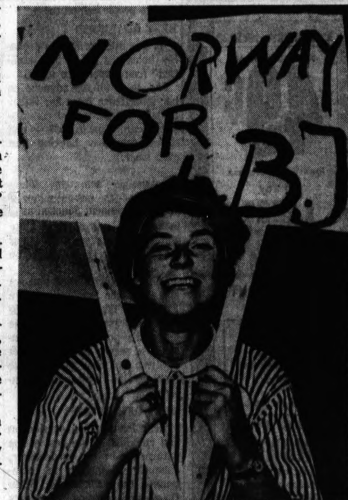

Mrs. Johnson confided that she, too, was "one of the waiters" — those who were kept in the dark by Johnson about his running mate.

The loving, friendly crush that had welcomed Lady Bird to the convention city Wednesday, continued until she finally left the party at 2 a.m. and headed to her borrowed ocean-front home to rest.

"The sun shines on Lady Bird Johnson," said Gov. Hughes, "may it always shine that way."

A crowd of 5,000 had stood what New Jersey Gov. Richard Hughes termed "abuse from the

Jackie to Attend Reception in Her Honor

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy, wife of the assassinated president, comes here today for a reception in her honor to which 5,000 Democratic convention delegates have been invited.

The affair is so big, it had to be divided into three shifts over a five-hour period from 12:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The reception, given by W. Averell Harriman and Mrs.

Harriman, long-time friends of the Kennedys, precedes a convention session at which a memorial service will be held for the late president.

Mrs. Kennedy will not be at the service, however.

EMOTIONAL ORDEAL

Spokesmen for the former first lady said the memorial, at which a film will highlight Kennedy's administration, would be too much of an emotional ordeal for her.

Mrs. Kennedy planned to fly in just for the day and to return later to Newport, R.I., where she has been spending part of the summer at her mother's farm estate.

Many of the Kennedy clan and members of Kennedy's New Frontier family have had a hand in the plans for the afternoon reception in her honor.

GUEST SHIFTS

Guests on each shift will be greeted by Mrs. Kennedy in a receiving line in the ballroom of the Desauville Hotel and she will speak briefly from the stage.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and his wife, Ethel, and Joan Kennedy, wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, will take turns in the receiving line.

They'll be joined at the second session, around 2:30 p.m., by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, who succeeded Mrs. Kennedy as the nation's first lady.

A program of dramatic readings by actor Fredric March and his wife, Florence Eldridge, will feature favorite selections of the late president.

The reception poses problems of logistics and some 75 hostesses, including New Frontier wives, and long-time Kennedy friends from New York, Boston and Washington, will have the task of steering the thousands of guests in and out of the complicated schedule.

EXUBERANT GREETING — Mrs. Lyndon Johnson bubbled with exuberance as she greeted those in the crowd that welcomed her to Atlantic City yesterday. She flew in by helicopter to watch her husband be nominated for the presidency by the Democratic convention last night.

LBJ Pronounced Physically Fit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, 56 years old today, has his party's overwhelming endorsement for another term in office and his doctors' assurance he is physically fit for "an active vigorous life."

For a birthday party, he was assured a rousing reception from the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City, where he goes tonight to accept formally the full-term nomination handed him without contest Wednesday night.

The verdict of four doctors on his physical condition was disclosed by the President Wednesday as he led newsmen on a 4 1/2-mile hike, talking as he circled 15 laps around the back driveway of the White House.

Loping easily along in high-humidity heat, Johnson convinced less-athletic newsmen of the doctors' finding that his "exercise tolerance continues to be superb" despite a serious heart attack in 1955.

RUNS WITH HUBERT

He took a few more fast laps later with his choice for a running mate, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, took time out for an informal birthday party at which his staff presented him with a desk; and capped an active day with a flight to the convention city which lasted into the early morning hours.

In the course of the 90-minute afternoon marathon, Johnson: — Foresaw a Democratic victory in November, saying various polls show "we run, generally speaking, 60-70 per cent" compared with 25 to 30 per cent for Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee.

— Declined direct comment on what a reporter said were contentions that Goldwater had been guilty of improprieties in his public discussion of some foreign policy issues, Johnson's reply: "As a matter of fact, he's conducting himself to suit me right now."

— Said he plans campaign trips for one, two or three days a week where possible but for the most part will "stay right here in this house and do my job."

DEM GAINS

— Predicted the Democrats will pick up from three to six Senate seats from Republicans, but mentioned only New York and Maryland races specifically.

— Announced he plans to send to Congress next January another budget below $100 billion, and said he issued orders that advance estimates be made on that basis.

— Lauded the party's Atlantic City convention, saying there were "no roll calls, no fights, no knock downs and drag outs, and no personal charges."

The physical examination which Johnson announced was the first he had reported since taking office last November. He underwent it on Monday, after a nine-lap tour of the White House driveway which had set his record up to that time.

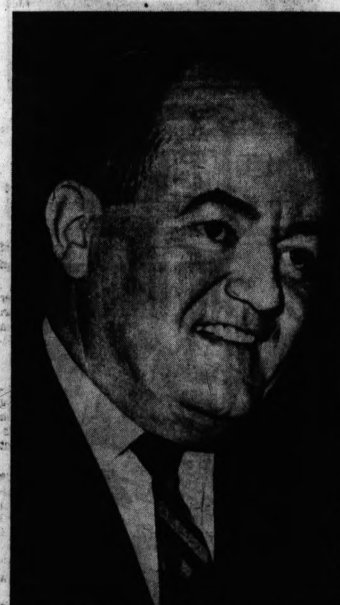

TWO DOCTORS

Two of the participating doctors had treated Johnson after his 1955 heart attack. They are Dr. J. Willis Hurst of Atlanta, Ga., and Dr. J. C. Cain of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn. The others are Dr. George G. Burkley, a Navy rear admiral who is official White House physician, and Dr. James M. Young, an Army doctor on the White House staff.

They said Johnson has "no symptoms," that his blood pressure is normal, and that all other aspects of the examination were normal.

ALL BROKEN UP — Luci Johnson found speaking before a large audience a tough chore yesterday. The 17-year-old daughter of the President was asked to speak to a crowd that welcomed her mother to the Democratic convention city.

Another Election Is Nothing New

Lady Bird Keeps Up Steady Pace to Aid Husband's Campaign

By FRANCES LEWINE
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Another campaign is nothing new for Lady Bird Johnson. She's thrived on them for 27 years.

In the nine months she's served as the nation's 32nd First Lady, Mrs. Johnson traveled about 35,000 miles across America, helping to promote the administration of her husband, President Johnson.

She barely paused from official and political travel to get to the convention. Even before his nomination, Johnson was asked if his wife was going to campaign for him. "She is — and she will," he said emphatically.

IDEA OF PACE

Some idea of the pace she maintains was shown in Mrs. Johnson's recent four-day Western tour in which she kept up an 18-hour-a-day schedule. And last week when she went to dedicate Campobello, summer home of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, as an international park, she also squeezed in a visit to a depressed area in Eastport, Maine, and went to Burlington, Vt., to congratulate Vermont's State Commission on the Status of Women.

Watching her in a receiving line that stretched through the Jackson Lake Lodge at Grand Teton National Park in Wyoming — 1,000 people long — the wife of a Republican mayor, with some experience of her own, commented:

"She'd have to have stamina to shake hands like that."

At 51, black-haired, brown-eyed Mrs. Johnson continues to have unusual energy and enthusiasm for the tasks of greeting constituents and "people-seeing," as she calls her trips. And, she has a dogged devotion to duty.

One reason for her trips, Mrs. Johnson explains, is that "statistics only come alive when you see the people behind them."

BEST QUALIFIED

As a political wife, she probably holds the title "best-qualified" from experience alone. She got a $10,000 advance on her inheritance from her father to back Johnson's first congressional campaign in 1937 — and she's been busy backing him ever since.

Catapulted into the White House upon the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, she took on the role of First Lady with the smoothness and ease of long training in Washington ways.

It is generally agreed that not since Eleanor Roosevelt, has a First Lady taken on so much or involved herself so keenly in the husband's projects. Mrs. Johnson also serves as an extra set of eyes and ears to keep the man in the White House informed.

BEST OF PATTERN

Mrs. Johnson has carried on and embellished the best of the pattern set by her predecessor, Jacqueline Kennedy, in maintaining the refurbished White House and bringing top artists to perform before visiting heads of state.

There also has been a step-up in the entertaining and the number of receptions and luncheons. The Johnsons have brought a cross-section of America — from labor and business leaders to artists, writers, educators and statesmen to meet in the formal parlors and in their own upstairs family quarters.

Once Mrs. Johnson explained that for so many years "I've been on the other side, asking people to do things for Lyndon and the party. Now I feel I have an obligation to them."

Beside the social-cultural aspects, Mrs. Johnson has added an interest in administration projects as well.

WAR ON POVERTY

She has tried to promote her husband's war against poverty and prejudice and has encouraged women to take a widening role. In commencement speeches she has urged that those lucky enough to be educated should turn their talents "to teaching others."

"Remember that education is a loan to be repaid by gift to self," she says.

Of a larger role for women, she has said:

"Women can do much in their civic life. They can alert citizens to be interested in the affairs of their city. They can push and prod legislators. They can raise sights and set standards."

SALUTES CITIES

She has saluted communities working with the federal government to improve housing, health, and living conditions and has warned that "if the city is a jungle, the child may turn out to be a wolf cub."

On the recent Western tour, Mrs. Johnson put the spotlight on conservation and recreation and urged Americans to see America first.

"The easy way, the easy life, is no longer the good life and the good people of the world know they can no longer afford to live it," the President's wife told Radcliffe College.

And, she maintains, "in a country as free and rich as America, no one should be held back because he was born to a poor family or in a poor neighborhood, or because of the color of his skin."

OWN SHYNESS

Mrs. Johnson has overcome her shyness and with some professional help has been perfecting a smooth delivery of speeches, which lately have been taking on a more political tinge.

It still doesn't come easy to her, though.

Shaking hands with members of the American Home Economics Association in Detroit after a speech, she confided, "This is the easy part — the hard part is the speech."

Her greatest asset is the feeling of genuine warmth and interest that she displays on her trips and visits.

BIG ASSET

Many people think she is a big political asset for Johnson. Lately, people have begun to address her as "Mrs. President" and she also has been dubbed "vice president to the president."

Except that she's busier, being in the White House hasn't changed Mrs. Johnson. She still goes out to the hairdresser instead of having him come in. She manages to shop once in a while without being recognized. And she doesn't mind a bit being seen in the same dress more than once. In fact, she makes a point to say she thinks clothes should serve the person, not the other way around.

She's still in the size 10 she's been for years, weighs about 114 pounds, and keeps that way by dieting when needed, often on prunes and hard-boiled eggs.

Mostly Mrs. Johnson prefers not to wear hats, but she conforms at all major functions.

Only last week, she took a "stolen moment" with 20-year-old daughter, Lynda, and the two strolled to the nearby Tidal Basin south of the White House and went out in a paddle boat to relax alone.

First Place Deadlock During Gymnastics

KINGS POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Makoto Sakamoto, 17-year-old National AAU champion from Highland Falls, N.Y., and Grego Weiss of Ridgeland, N.J., tied for the lead Wednesday in the compulsory exercises in the Olympic Gymnastic Trials at the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy Wednesday night.

Each scored 57.70 points for the six events. The optional exercises will be held Friday.

Weiss took top honors in the floor exercises with 9.75 and the parallel bar with 9.80 and tied with Sakamoto and Able Grossfeld of New Haven, Conn., in the rings with 9.55. Sakamoto didn't score lower than 9.55 in any of the six events.

Other top scorers were Armando Vega of Alhambra, Calif., 56.95; Ron Barak, Los Angeles, 56.75; Art Shurlock, Venice, Calif., 56.55; Russell Mitchell, Carbondale, Ill., 56.35; Larry Banner, Lakewood, Calif., 55.95; John Becker, Studio City, Calif., 55.30; Tom Seward, State College, Pa., 55.15; and Mike Jacobson, Los Angeles, 55.10.

Rural electric systems in the United States now serve about 5,700,000 consumers.

Because she was born in Texas as like her husband, Mrs. Johnson is constantly greeted with the strains of "The Yellow Rose of Texas" and bouquets of yellow roses are presented to her at almost every stop. She usually pauses before she leaves to write a note and send the flowers she can't use on to a local hospital or someone needy.

When she signs autographs in crowds, recipients often are surprised to see what she's written. It's "LBJ" — but those are her initials as well as the President's.

Actually, Mrs. Johnson was named Claudia Alta Taylor when she was born Dec. 12, 1912, in the East Texas town of Karnack, where her father, Thomas Jefferson Taylor, operated a general store and owned cotton lands.

But, nobody ever calls her that. It's "Lady Bird," the name a nursemaid settled on her at the age of two, declaring "Why, she's as purty as a lady bird." Mrs. Johnson tried hard to lose the nickname, but it stuck and she has accepted it, too.

ANOTHER NAME

Now, she has another one. "Pretty Walking Bird," bestowed by the Cowan Indians when they adopted her as a tribal daughter during her recent visit to Montana.

She carries into her everyday speech the poetic and colorful phrases that her close associates say comes from a lonely childhood spent reading her mother's library filled with classics.

Her mother, Minnie Pattillo Taylor, from a wealthy Alabama family, died when Lady Bird was 5 years old and she raised by a maiden aunt, Effie Pattillo, who saw her through Marshall High School, where she was graduated at 15, and on to St. Mary's School for Girls in Dallas.

Lady Bird majored in history at the University of Texas in Austin, where she earned a bachelor of arts degree in 1933 and went on for a degree in journalism the following year.

BEFORE CAREERS

Tall Texan Lyndon Johnson came into Lady Bird's life before she could start the careers she contemplated as a qualified grade teacher, also trained in shorthand, typing and business courses that would have come in handy in secretarial work.

They were introduced by a friend, Lyndon proposing she next day and they were married two months later, Nov. 17, 1934, at old St. Mark's Episcopal church in San Antonio, Tex. She was 21, he 26.

Recently, the Rev. Arthur K. McKinstry, the minister who married them in the hasty ceremony at which Lyndon forgot the ring, admitted he said then "I hope this marriage lasts."

A friend had to rush out to buy a Sears, Roebuck ring and he came back with a dozen inexpensive ones from which "Bird" picked the one she still wears today. She never would let Lyndon buy her a better one.

INHERITS MONEY

Mrs. Johnson inherited money and lands from her Alabama relatives and with some of the money she decided in 1942 to invest in a small, debt-ridden radio station, KTBC, in Austin. In the years since, she has built it into a multimillion-dollar enterprise.

When the President released a financial statement for his family just before the Democratic convention, it revealed that through a 10-year period, from 1954 to 1964, she was paid more for her services to Texas Broadcasting Corp., than her husband received in the same period as president, vice president and President. She got $570,856.

CENTRALIA, Wash. (AP)—

Being a two-car family has its disadvantages.

Robert Smith, Kent, Wash.,

of here yesterday after his

a cow.

the rear of his, wrecking it.

The second car was driven by his wife, Ute.

LBJ Outlines 'Victory Plans' Tonight

UAW Points at Chrysler as Strike Target

Must Have Contract by Sept. 9; Walkout Scheduled at 10 A.M.

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union has singled out Chrysler Corp. as its No. 1 strike target in efforts to secure new contracts for the nation's half-million auto plant workers.

UAW President Walter Reuther told newsmen last night that the walkout at Chrysler would begin at 10 a.m. Sept. 9 if no settlement is forthcoming by that time.

Reuther said Chrysler, General Motors and Ford — the auto industry's Big Three — all had adopted a "narrow, selfish attitude" in negotiations and are denying workers their fair share of record-breaking profits.

The union's contracts with all three firms expire Monday, but Reuther said the strike deadline was set beyond Labor Day to allow several extra days at the bargaining table in efforts to avoid a walkout.

President Johnson is expected to open his campaign in Detroit's Cadillac Square on Labor Day.

EMBARRASSING
Observers have pointed out that with an auto strike in progress, the President might have found such an appearance before a labor rally to be embarrassing.

Reuther visited President Johnson in the White House yesterday, but he denied that the President's Labor Day plans had any influence on the decision to set Sept. 9—two days after the holiday—as the strike date.

Pointing out that Chrysler is the nation's seventh largest corporation, Reuther said the firm was selected because it had what he termed "a economic and moral obligation" to repay the UAW for 1961 contract concessions.

At that time, he contended, Chrysler was in deep financial trouble and there was a question of whether the company was going to survive.

2ND TO TOP
Chrysler is now the second most profitable company in the auto industry, Reuther said, earning $114.4 million after taxes during the first six months of this year. This, he said, was a 26 per cent return on its investment.

Cleo Smashes Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Cleo smashed Miami Tuesday, left the streets of the city looking like a battleground, then roared

After crossing Miami, the eye of the hurricane moved on northward across Hallandale, Hollywood, Fort Lauderdale, Boca Raton and West Palm Beach. Hurricane warning flags flew on up the coast to Cape Kennedy and gale warnings were issued as far north as Daytona Beach.

At 10 a.m., winds of 105 miles per hour were hitting West Palm Beach.

At Fort Lauderdale, a 29-by-48 foot sign over a shopping center vanished. Gusts strewn trees across roads and made shore route A-1a impassable with sand-drifts.

An automobile, apparently caught by a gust, turned on its side on a bridge. Several buildings, which were being erected, were knocked down to stages where a fresh start will be necessary.

At Hollywood, Cleo's winds bashed in the glass fronts of the Diplomat Hotel lobby and (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

$200,000 World Open Begins at Oakland Hills

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press
The largest golf tournament ever staged in the world, the $200,000 Carling World Open started this morning at picturesque Oakland Hills with 155 players from 14 nations and six continents in the field.

The colorful ceremonies in the "court of flags" at Oakland Hills yesterday officially opened the event with a representative player from each country raising his own country's flag.

There are 105 American golfers and 48 foreign players in the tournament and Wilfred Homenik of Winnipeg, Canada, and Bill Martindale of Jacksonville, Texas, were the first ones off the tee at 7:00 a.m.

Foreign players in practice rounds the past three days have been awed by the 6,907-yard layout on West Maple road in Bloomfield Township, site for four National Open championships.

George Archer, 24, of Gilroy, Calif., cracked the Oakland Hills record this morning with a five-under-par 34-31-45.

Archer's hot round included five birdies on the back nine and the 65-crashed the old mark of 67 held by Hogan and five other players.

In speeches accepting last night's nominations, the President and his running mate will outline for the party legends their plans for what Johnson called an "overwhelming victory" against Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Then almost as soon as the curtain drops on their bedlam by the boardwalk, the President and Humphrey plan to head for the LBJ ranch in Texas to plot their autumn strategy.

"There in the shade of the live oaks on the banks of the Pedernales, we will talk over our duty for the next few weeks," said Johnson.

TO JOIN CAMPAIGN

The First Lady started the party round this morning with a post-nomination champagne breakfast for the press, where she table-hopped and talked of hitting the campaign trail herself for the Johnson-Humphrey ticket.

Until last night the convention's course was dully predictable. Then Johnson gave it a dramatic turn by breaking a string of precedents.

Humphrey a Great Delegate Favorite

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — The selection last night of Sen. Hubert Humphrey as the Democratic vice presidential nominee was a big moment for Michigan Democrats, who have long since made him their favorite.

It was a particular thrill for Mrs. Mildred Jeffrey, Michigan's national committeewoman.

She stood on her chair and jumped up and down, ecstatic as a schoolgirl, when President Johnson quit toying with his audience and revealed what virtually everyone in the hall expected: Humphrey.

"It's splendid, it's wonderful," said former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who had been a Humphrey supporter along with most other Michigan Democratic leaders—in 1960.

"Back when we had two Republican senators, before Pat McNamara and Phil Hart were elected, we regarded Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota as our senator," said Williams.

PERSONAL THING

It was a personal thing, also, with Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Utica, who gives Humphrey a measure of credit for helping him win the office he now holds.

Many of Michigan's long-term political leaders are close enough to Humphrey that they call him "Hub" as in hubcap.

And his popularity is such that in a recent Associated Press poll, 70 per cent of Michigan's delegates had picked him as their first choice for the second spot.

POLITICAL PERSONAL

This popularity is both political and personal, according to Mrs. Jeffrey.

"We are the same kind of liberals," she said, "and Michigan and Minnesota are states with a lot in common. But that's only part of it."

"Hubert Humphrey has been a most generous person and an effective campaigner in Michigan's elections."

Mastery of the Political Art Boosted Humphrey to Top

By BARRY SCHWEID

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Smiles don't come any broader than the one Hubert H. Humphrey was wearing last night when he stepped from a helicopter at Bader Field, President Johnson at his side and the vice presidential nomination in his pocket.

As ebullient as ever at 53, the onetime small-town pharmacist had scrambled to the top rungs of the political ladder after 16 not always rewarding years in the U.S. Senate.

Just four years ago, Humphrey's shoeing campaign for the presidency ended in disaster in a West Virginia primary which pointed John F. Kennedy toward the White House.

A decade or so ago, the fiery liberal's unwillingness to compromise and his strident, non-stop speech-making on just about every subject under the sun were limiting his influence in a Congress that forever puts a premium on "getting along" with fellow club members.

Political observers are always quick to point out that Humphrey has mellowed since he first gained national prominence as Minneapolis reform mayor and Minnesota's first Democratic senator.

RIGHTS ADVOCATE

Perhaps, but except for the added inches around the mid-section and the relentless march backward of the hairline, Humphrey, in essence, remains what he always has been: an outspoken advocate of civil rights, social welfare legislation and total immersion in world affairs.

What has happened along the way is that he has sharpened his mastery of the political art his running mate is said to have the book on, an ability to get along with those with whom you disagree and even influence them to see things a little more your way.

But while it has been difficult at times to classify Johnson politically, Humphrey's liberalism never has been questioned from the time he decided to put into practice the political science he had been teaching.

Born May 27, 1911, over a family drugstore at Wallace, S.D., Humphrey took 10 years to complete his undergraduate studies at the University of Minnesota, so skimpily were his family's finances.

Suggestions Might Help to Glamorize Convention

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

ATLANTIC CITY — At no political convention have I seen "suggestion boxes" inviting ideas on convention management from the rank and file.

Mine, therefore, will undoubtedly be considered pretty rank and permanently filed.

What your news ferret (N.F.) has in mind, in line with the tendency of the times, is to romanticize a few organizational functions now having little spectacular appeal.

Take, for example, the rules committee. Have you ever heard a chairman wax rhapsodic over a rules committee? — or read news pieces glowing with colorful descriptions of its vital role in the proceedings?

True, no one knows just what its role is, but what's that got to do with it?

The script calls for much posturing and much pointing — the local manager is probably pointing out the location of left field (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

GOLF COURT OF FLAGS — Golf was given an International flavor yesterday at the official ceremonies opening the World Open tournament at Oakland Hills. In this "Court of Flags" are the flags of 14 nations from six continents, each represented by a golfer in the field of the $200,000 tournament which started this morning. A crowd of 3,000 gathered to watch the flag-raising ceremonies.

Hurricane Hits Miami

(Continued From Page One) oceanfront rooms. About 50 guests fled to inner areas of the hotel and bedded down by candle light in corridors with blankets and pillows.

There were numerous reports of fires at Fort Lauderdale. Flames leveled a building being used to protect automobiles from the storm.

At Pompano Beach, two persons were trapped at the height of the storm when the wind crumpled their trailer home. Rescuers got them out unharmed.

At Cape Kennedy, six space rockets were lashed down and other preparations made for a big blow at America's spaceport.

SIGNS IGNORED

Many residents and businessmen in Miami boarded up in advance of the storm. But many others, after a 14-year-period in which the city saw only one hurricane, did not.

Plate glass windows were shattered and store interiors wrecked. Manikias blown from the display window of one store sprawled like bodies in the street.

Looting began soon after windows began to explode. In the fury of the storm, the thieves easily eluded police.

Cable failure knocked the national hurricane center out of operation and the Washington Weather Bureau took over advisory until the Miami operation could be reestablished at International Airport.

ISLAND EVACUATED

Key Biscayne, an island with a large residential colony across Biscayne Bay from Miami, was largely evacuated before the storm struck and high tides blocked the causeway to the mainland.

But the fate of the island remained uncertain as rolling tides continued to lash the beaches.

Collins Avenue, site of Miami Beach's famous "Art Deco" was a mass of fallen neon signs, trees and window glass.

Fifty windows were smashed at the Fontainebleau Hotel and 700 guests fled their rooms into the lobby. Two guests, two porters and a hotel engineer were hospitalized for treatment of cuts.

SLASHED HAND

"We were told it would be a hurricane!" cried one woman tourist with a slashed hand, "but, my God, not this!"

Many other hotels along the avenue suffered similar damage.

The 85-foot yacht Electromatic broke loose from its mooring and crashed into television's famed "houseboat," "Surfside Six," in Indian Creek in front of the Fontainebleau.

More than 500 stranded travelers slept on benches at Miami International Airport. But even the huge terminal didn't escape Cleo's fury. Windows blew out on two concourses and rain and wind whistled into exposed sections of the building.

SMASHED BRIDGE

A boat smashed into the 27th Avenue Bridge over the Miami River, putting the busy crossing out of commission.

But there was little traffic in the streets in the hours after Cleo moved on northward. Police warned against sightseeing because of the danger of fallen power lines.

Thousands spent the night in shelters. Fifty-five pregnant women were admitted to Mt. Sinai Hospital before the hurricane struck.

In the first gales ahead of the hurricane, two trustees working on the roof of the county jail took advantage of the confusion and fled barefooted into the storm.

Hospitals held staffs overtime to treat the injured. Many were reported injured by flying glass and other objects.

World Open Starts at Oakland Hills

(Continued From Page One) helped make the fairways resemble plush green carpets and many of the players, American and foreign, offered similar comments that "it is the finest course" they have ever played.

Among the other early starters in this moving were golfing champions from Spain, France, Ireland, Belgium, Peru, Australia, Argentina and even Hawksworth, England, and Muleshoe, Texas.

CHANCES SLIM

Chances of a foreign golfer winning the $35,000 first prize have been discounted by many observers, and the list of contenders among American pros has been narrowed down to six players who could bring the "monster" to its knees.

Ben Hogan, the 1951 Open champion at Oakland Hills, is in the field, along with the 1961 winner Gene Littler.

The favorites role, however, has been given to the 1964 Open champion, Kean Venturi, with Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Tony Lema figured as chief threats.

Nicklaus was off to a poor start this morning by going out in three-over-par 38.

LOCAL SCORES

Irish champion Christy O'Connor of Dublin also had a 38, while local hero Al Watrous and Walter Burkemo each posted 40s.

with the group the focal point of thousands of eyes.

Yes, and football. The stripe-marked officials practically hold a reception before start of the game. The referee makes a trial rite out of tossing a coin for the kickoff and then, to be sure the referee knows what to do, the ref pantomimes it.

FANFARE LOST

None of this fanfare is for your rules committee. In an environment where demonstrations and parades erupt at the drop of a placard, this group labors in obscurity — unwept, unburied and unused.

Your N. F. would bring 'em out into the open.

After all, good rules men are not easily come by, and are worthy of due acclaim. They must know when to break as well as make rules.

Incidentally, it's one man's opinion that rule breakers are a lot more fun than rule makers.

DEARTH OF NEWS

No news may be good news—but not to newsmen. The fourth estate is unhappy about the dearth of it here.

With no contest for the top spot on the Dem ticket, and Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota appearing from the start to be in line Flynn for the vice presidential nod, the vice presidential nod, the vice presidential nod, the vice presidential nod.

Moreover, there have been no burning issues — no civil rights scuffle as marked the GOP convention — to enliven things.

The nearest approach to an intraparty squabble was the Mississippi delegation question — where two groups vied for recognition. But most of the action related to that was played out in state caucuses and the convention proper saw little of it.

No gathering powadays is complete without demonstrators and this convention has been no exception. A comparatively quiet group of 100 have been doing a nighty sit-out in front of Convention Hall.

Having little semblance of an organized effort, probably the boardwalk sitters are just a splinter group.

Maybe I've missed it, but with a wealth of instrumental and vocal talent, giving out at all sessions, I've yet to hear the "donkey Serenade."

President Johnson stole the show at the hall last night. With the convention dying on the vine after two days, the President jazzed things up but good.

UNCERTAINTY BIT

He stage-managed a bit of uncertainty about Sen. Hubert Humphrey's show-in policy as the vice presidential nominee by calling him to Washington, along with a brother solon, for a conference.

A pulsating, responsive throng whooped things up as

The President had held on to his secret that Humphrey was his choice for the vice presidential nomination until he was ready to board a plane to Atlantic City.

Humphrey, who had flown to Washington at the President's command, was at his side.

NEXT VP

Taking the senator by the arm, Johnson walked over to newsmen standing behind a barrier and said: "Meet the next vice president."

The world thus learned of the selection, about three hours before many delegates to this convention knew that it had been made.

No modern president had ever kept counsel about a running mate so long.

Johnson, Humphrey and Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., who also had been summoned to the White House from Atlantic City, then boarded a plane.

WATCHES TV

Johnson watched on television while Gov. John F. Connally of Texas placed his name in nomination.

The reason for Dodd's quick trip remained a mystery.

The Connecticut senator said he had told the President to "include me out" of consideration for the vice presidential nomination.

Speculation among high party officials was that the Connecticut senator had been offered appointment as attorney general when Robert F. Kennedy steps out of that office to make the race for the Senate in New York.

BAILEY EYED

This might bring National endorser Humphrey for vice president. My researcher has gone to bed but I'd bet one of HAF's sugar cookies that this is the first time a President has himself formally proposed his choice of running mate for nomination.

Johnson hadn't been scheduled to visit the convention until today. But as soon as his nomination was acclaimed with a tumultuous, banner waving, flag-flying demonstration, he strode to the platform.

Flanked by his wife and two daughters, he said he was happy about the honor done him.

He said he would be back to tell the delegates, who bulged the hall to overflowing, about his plans for "an overwhelming victory for our party and our nation" in the November balloting.

Bloomfield Twp. Vote Will Chop 2 off GOP List

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Two names will be dropped from the Republican list of candidates for township offices Tuesday.

There are contests between prospective nominees for two offices — treasurer and library board member for a 2-year term.

Winners at the polls Tuesday virtually are assured success in November in the one-party township. Only the Republican party is registered, but there is a chance of a write-in candidate in the general election.

Incumbent Arno L. Hulet and Chad M. Ritchie, both political veterans, are seeking the treasurer's post.

A township officer since 1933, Hulet is a former supervisor. Ritchie is a member of the township planning board, having served as its chairman in 1963. He is a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Surviving besides her husband are two daughters, Mrs. Howard Caudle of Southfield and Mrs. Jack Loggren of Royal Oak, and a sister.

Dem Patriarch Says

Conventions Bore some

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI) — Democratic patriarch Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado says that the party conventions are becoming "a little bore some" because Democrats aren't fighting among themselves the way they used to.

Johnson, 80, a former senator, governor, lieutenant governor, and state legislator, attended his first convention in Denver in 1908 — the year the Democrats nominated William Jennings Bryan for the last time.

More Death, Injury Noted in Pontiac Safety Report

A sobering picture of Pontiac traffic safety was presented yesterday in the annual traffic inventory for 1963, compiled from 1963 data by the National Safety Council.

The report was presented by Norman A. Olman, district director for the National Safety Council, to the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce Committee on Traffic Safety.

Some 35 committee members, police officers and safety experts heard Olman summarize the report at a luncheon at Fortino's Steak House.

Here are some of the facts it contains:

• Personal injury accidents in Pontiac rose 24 per cent in 1963, compared to 1962.

(The injury rate has declined in 1964 but is still climbing, with an 8 per cent increase in the first six months compared to the same period in 1963.)

• Fatalities jumped from eight in 1962 to 13 in 1963, an increase of 62 per cent.

(There have been nine fatalities in the city so far this year, compared to eight this time last year.)

• The number of accidents in the city in 1963 was up 16 per cent over 1962.

(The accident rate has also declined somewhat in 1964 but was still 10 per cent ahead of the first six months of 1963.)

REASONS

Olman pointed out a number of reasons for the gloomy traffic statistics:

A 12 per cent increase in the number of vehicles registered in the city is one of the primary causes. But this could be largely offset, Olman said, by improvement in several areas of enforcement, supervision and education.

Olman said the biggest problem Pontiac has is a shortage of police officers, which is no news to city officials.

At the time the report was compiled, there were 71 men assigned to detail in the department. A city of this size should have about 150 according to Olman.

VIGOROUS PROSECUTION

The city should strive for more vigorous prosecution of traffic offenders, Olman said, with emphasis on drunk drivers.

The report also recommended increased enforcement activity, but Acting Police Chief William K. Hanger pointed out that the number of citations issued in the first six months of this year was up 364 per cent over the same period of 1963 and is now above National Safety Council standards.

Other measures suggested by Olman included more training opportunities for policemen, revision of the accident report filing system, special training for records-keeping personnel, and adoption by the schools of a standard report and filing system for accidents involving children.

Say Congolese Nearing Rebels

Predict 2 Cities May Be Regained by Night

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Congolese Army troops supported by white mercenaries were reported advancing on the rebel-held cities of Lusambo and Albertville today.

Predictions that both cities might be recaptured by nightfall were received. This would be a major reversal for the rebels, whose leaders have been trained by Communist China.

Lusambo is in the Central Congo, about 550 miles east of Leopoldville. Albertville, the capital of North Katanga Province, is 775 miles further east on Lake Tanganyika.

Reports here said serious fighting was under way opposite Lusambo near the Sankuru River in the Central Congo.

They said that non-Congolese pilots under contract to Premier Moise Tshombe's government were flying missions over the area, and that the pro-Communist rebels had abandoned the town itself.

NEAR ALBERTVILLE
Reports received in Elisabethville said that Congolese and mercenary troops had driven to within 45 miles of Albertville, a major city which the rebels have been using as a base of operations for the rebellion in the east.

Government reinforcements were on the way for an expected attack on Albertville, the Elisabethville reports said.

The United States, which supports the Central Congolese government, recently stepped up its military aid to Tshombe. But no Americans are fighting in the Congo.

In Washington, State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said, "The United States position on the Congo today is, as it was in 1960, to help the Congolese government in its attempt to maintain the independence and territorial integrity of that nation."

After the Congo became independent in 1960, the United States supported the United Nations in crushing a secessionist movement in Katanga led by Tshombe.

Search Starts for Yule Tree

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Talk about doing your Christmas shopping early.

The city of Philadelphia announced today it's looking around for its annual Christmas tree, a 50-foot or taller evergreen to decorate City Hall Plaza during the yule season.

Last year's tree was given by the Canadian government. Frederick R. Mann, city representative, said he hoped a Philadelphia resident would give a tree to the city this year. "It's not too early to start looking," said Mann.

The traffic death toll in the U.S. figures out to 7.3 fatalities per one hundred million miles of travel; lowest ratio in the world.

PGA 'Delegates' Convene Seeking Winning Platform

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

United States politicians are assembled in Atlantic City this week, but today the greatest names in world golf from six different continents convened at one of the world's finest courses, Oakland Hills, on West Maple road in Bloomfield Township.

The winning platform won't be known until Sunday evening, but all the top representatives to the Carling World Open, press and players, differ on what the winning tally will be.

EXPECT LOW TOTAL.
Strangely, despite the fact that this is the same course that has never yielded a par or sub-par total for 72 holes, the majority believe that it will happen this weekend.

The extremists say the winning total will be 275.

The liberals look for 276-277 to take the honor.

The moderates say 278-279.

The conservatives predict 280.

The pacifists call for 281.

The wingers, right or left, and there are very few, cannot see anyone doing this to Oakland Hills and they go as high as 286.

One thing is certain, if the sub-par factions, the extremists, liberals or moderates, carry the winning platform, we may find another golf course architect coming to Oakland Hills to redesign the course before it is host to its next Open around 1972.

"Right now this course is in fantastic shape, but it's to the advantage of the golfer, and I don't if we will be good enough," said one of the entries.

"I look for 276 and any one of six players to do it as the course is today," he added.

"If it dries for another couple days, it will still go around 278 and there are at least 15 players who would then have to be considered contender," he continued.

"Of course, don't quote me," he said further, "because I'll be lucky to make the cut."

PAST IS TOUGH
At any rate, judging from the scores of the last two Open tournaments at Oakland Hills, the era Robert Trent Jones was making popular his "monster," it might be difficult to understand why suddenly everyone feels par has seen its day on the 6,907 yard layout.

In 1961, only two players, Ben Hogan and Clayton Hearner, were able to crack par for single rounds.

In 1961, 12 players broke par for 18 holes, with Gene Littler, the Open champion doing it twice with 68's. His rounds were 73-69-72-211.

This is the kind of course, most agree, on which some unknown could go wild for one round and fade out of the picture after two rounds.

Bobby Brue was the 1961 shocker. He fired an opening 69 and was the only player under par. At mid-point he was 161 and he finished 232.

Who are the six who could win it as the course plays today? In order, Ken Venturi, Arnold Palmer, Tony Lama, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper and Doug Ford stack the top of the deck, followed by Bob Rogers, Doug Sanders, Bobby Nichols, Wally Burkemo, Chi Chi Rodriguez and Mike Souchak.

One thing the crystal ball does say is that Nick Westlock will shoot the best amateur score in the tournament. The winner of the Canadian Amateur championship last weekend lost his only competitor for the honor when Deane Beman, U.S. Amateur champion withdrew two days ago.

Of the foreign delegates behind Chi Chi (Puerto Rico) and Gary Player (South Africa), give the nod to Bob Charles (New Zealand) and Ramon Sola (Spain).

The International PG Convention started convening at 7:30 a.m. this morning. Venturi is the probable nominee on the fourth ballot, unless Palmer leads his Army to a coup d'etat.

First Tee Shots Cost $61,600

Starting Pros Each Receive $400 Pay Day

Assault Begins Today on Oakland Hills' Par in World Open

By FLETCHER SPEARS

The opening shots of the $200,000 Carling World Open Championship today at Oakland Hills Country Club cost the sponsor a tidy sum of $61,600.

Every one of the 154 professionals in the field was assured of $400 after he swatted his first tee shot, even if he dubbed it.

The professional field, representing the world's best golfers, started teeing off at 7 this morning in the first round of the 72-hole tournament over the 6,907-yard, par 70 layout.

Joining the pros is the lone amateur in the field, Nick Westlock, Canada's amateur champion.

The field will play the second round tomorrow and the low 75, plus ties, after 36-holes will remain on hand for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Every player who survives the 36-hole cut will enjoy a $620 payday. First place carries a $35,000 prize and the runner-up collects $17,000. Everyone in the low 36 will take home at least $1,000.

First of the tee today were Wilfred Homenik of Canada and Bill Martindale of Texas.

HOST PRO
Host pro Al Watrous joined Floridians Mason Rudolph and Don Fairfield at 8:36.

Jack Nicklaus, one of the favorites in the field, left the tee at 8:44 along with John Bulla of Arizona and Marty Furgol of Missouri.

Walter Burkemo, Detroit Golf Club pro and one of the seven Michigan players in the field, was paired with Frank Beard of Kentucky and Don Whit of California at 8:58.

The sentimental favorite in the star-studded field is Ben Hogan, who won the 1951 U.S. Open at the Oakland Hills course.

Hogan was slated to tee off at 9:16 with Juan "Chi Chi" Rodriguez of Puerto Rico and little Jerry Barber of California.

Gene Littler, winner of the 1961 Open at Oakland, joined fellow Californian Bob Harrison and Joe Campbell on the tee at 9:30.

Among the foreign golfers with an early tee date were Angel Miguel of Spain, who was paired with Christy O'Connor of Ireland, and Donald Swalesen of England.

U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi, who carded a 67 during practice Tuesday, was scheduled to leave the tee at 12:33 with Gary Player of South Africa and Wesley Ellis of New Jersey.

Arnold Palmer, the Pennsylvania better, has a date with Billy Casper of California and Texas Butch Baird at 1:16 p.m.

African Youth Youngest Pro in Tourney

20-Year-Old Likes Competition; Stars Fail to Awe Him

He should be scared, nervous or both, but young Allan Henning of South Africa refuses to be awed by the big names who are after the lion's share of the $200,000 Carling World Open purse which will be split up after the 72-hole tourney closes Sunday.

Henning, at 20, is the youngest player in the 155-man field that includes 154 professionals and one amateur — plus such names as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Tony Lama.

Does playing with the world's greatest golfers bother him?

"Well, I'm not one of the greatest; I'm just one of the small fry," he offered during a ten-up round Wednesday.

"The course is longer than most I've played. I'm not worried about my age. I enjoy the competition," he added.

The 6-2, 170-pound Henning turned pro in 1962 when he was 18 years old. He won several amateur titles as a South African teen-ager and won the 1964 South African Open.

He played on the U.S. pro circuit in 1963, his best finish a 25th position in the Pensacola Open.

Two Aussies Win at Golf

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Two Australians and six Americans survived second-round matches in the World Senior Golf Tournament at Broadmoor Wednesday.

H. H. Hattersley of Mosman, Australia, had to go 20 holes before stopping Don Hawkins of Rockford, Ill. His countryman, Jack Barkal of Sydney, strayed only one stroke over par in a 5 and 4 triumph over Leon Sikes of Palm Beach, Fla.

Ian Cromb of Christchurch, New Zealand, lost to Ben Cowdery of Omaha 3 and 2.

The tournament is limited to players 55 or older.

Injured Net Star Not Playing Hard

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Dennis Ralston wouldn't mind winning the Meadow Club International tennis tournament but he doesn't intend to go all out with the Nationals at Forest Hills and the Davis Cup Challenge Round coming up next month.

The top-seeded player and Davis Cup star from Bakersfield, Calif., is nursing a tender right ankle, sprained 10 days and now heavily taped.

Despite the handicap the Californian has a good chance to win. He takes on Billy Harrison of Richmond, Va., in a third round match today. The winner gets into the quarter-finals.

Ralston played his first singles match since spraining the ankle when he beat Canada's Keith Carpenter, 6-3, 6-0 Wednesday. He domed spikes in the second set.

YEP, THERE IT IS — This was the "hole in two" on the 17th yesterday at Oakland Hills for Arnold Palmer. Palmer went over the green on his first tee shot with a 3-iron. He teed up again with a 4-iron and dropped the ball into the cup. "Sure was a long chip shot," was the comment.

Tiger Hurler Sights on 20

BOSTON (UPI) — Tiger pitcher Dave Wickersham may become Detroit's first 20-game winner since 1961, provided his roommate Don Demeter keep hitting home runs for him.

Wickersham picked up his 16th win of the season Wednesday day with a 4-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Demeter belted his 19th home run of the season off Boston starter Bob Heffner in the sixth inning that broke a scoreless tie and ended Heffner's record of 19 scoreless innings of pitching. It was the sixth home run this year that Demeter has hit with Wickersham pitching for the Tigers.

Wickersham scattered five hits in winning his 16th game against nine losses, and he almost had a shutout.

The Sox scored their only run in the eighth when Ed Bressoud doubled and scored on Bob Tilton's single. It was Wickersham's fourth straight win over Boston.

The Tigers scored one more run in the sixth after Demeter's homer, and scored a couple more in the seventh when Jerry Lampe homered and Al Kaline doubled scoring on Gates Brown's single.

THINKING ABOUT 20
Said Wickersham after the game: "I've got to be honest about it. I'm thinking of only one thing... winning 20 games."

"He has a good shot at it. He figures to get eight or nine more starts before the season ends."

The last pitcher to win 20 games for the Tigers was Frank Lary. He won 23 against 9 losses in 1961.

The Tigers wind up their 3-game stand at Fenway Park today, hoping to sweep the series with the Sox. Joe Sparrano will be seeking his 5th win for the Tigers against Bill Monbouquette for the Sox. The game started at noon.

Hogan Talks High Finance

BIRMINGHAM (AP) — High finance on the pro tour has dulled the incentive of many golfers and turned them into parasites, Ben Hogan said today.

"It's not a matter of the big purses but the way the money is distributed," the four-time National Open winner said.

"A fellow doesn't have to work on his game any more. All he has to do is show up for a tournament. He can finish far down the list, pick up a pretty good paycheck and make a comfortable living on the efforts of others."

DRAWS MAP
Hogan, now 52 and returning to the Oakland Hills scene where he won the third of his Opens 13 years ago, failed to specify a particular tournament but he virtually drew a map of the $200,000 Carling World Championship, beginning here today.

The sport's richest event has a prize list scaled down from $35,000 for first and $17,000 for second to $1,000 and over for 36 places. Each of the 155 players teeing off, 48 of them from 13 foreign nations, is assured $400. Three-fourths of them can count on at least $750.

"That makes this an exhibition, not a tournament," Hogan said.

The once-feared Texas Hawk recalled the vicissitudes of his early days on the tour when players were fortunate to make hamburger money.

"At first, the total prize money was $3,000, Hogan said. "First" prize was around $700. Only six players got a cut of the purse. The others got nothing. Later purses rose to $5,000 and I'll never forget the first $10,000 tournament in the early 1930s in Alta Caliente. We thought it was a gold strike."

"Understand, I'm not critical of the $50,000 and $100,000 purses of today. I think that it's great. I think the players who work at it deserve all they can get. Those who don't—and there are some—should get nothing."

Turning up for the $200,000 Carling World Open, the 34-year-old Pennsylvanian rapped his tee shot over the green on the par 3, 194-yard 17th hole.

Dissatisfied with the results, Palmer grabbed another ball, exchanged his 3-iron for a 4-iron and knocked the pill into the cup.

Since it came on his second swing, Palmer is credited with a "194-yard chip shot," especially since mulligans aren't allowed in the PGA.

Spectator From Ohio Wins 'Ace' Scramble

A 30-year-old Toledo, Ohio, man came out on top in a scramble for the "hole-in-one" ball Arnold Palmer knocked into the cup on the par 3, 194-yard 17th hole yesterday.

Tom Taylor, who drove up from Toledo to watch the pros, was standing at the left side of the green when Palmer made the hole-in-one on his "second tee shot."

Palmer walked over to the cup, snatched the ball and tossed it into the crowd. Taylor scrambled down the hill and won the battle for the ball.

Khanh, Two Others

Viet Council Picks 3

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The ruling military revolutionary council elected Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh and two other generals today to run South Viet Nam for the next two months, Radio Saigon announced.

This development in the political crisis came amid blood new riots in Saigon.

A crowd of 2,000 marched on the council's compound, calling on the 50 members to resign. Student and Buddhist demands for a governmental shakeup.

Vietnamese troops opened fire. They were ordered to shoot over heads of the demonstrators, but three were reported killed and more than 20 wounded. The rest retreated.

Roman Catholic and Buddhist youths battled in a rain in the capital's streets. The Saigon radio station and a technical high school were focal points. Several persons were wounded, apparently knifed.

OTHER RULERS
Called on to share rule with Khanh were Lt. Gen. Tran Thien Kham, former defense minister; and Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, the former chief of state. Khanh supplied Minh Aug. 16, that was the day the council elected the 37-year-old strong man to the presidency.

Leaflets dropped over the city from a Vietnamese army helicopter announced the present caretaker government will continue for a maximum of two months and then will name a provisional national congress which will pick a chief of state and establish other national organizations.

The leaflets, signed by the full council, also said the council itself has been dissolved and the generals and other members of the council would go back to their military duties.

They said the new government will fight communism, colonialism and dictatorship. The controversial Aug. 15 constitution was abrogated as of today.

UNABLE TO AGREE
Earlier, it appeared that council members would be unable to agree on a leader to form a new government to supplant Khanh's seven-month-old regime.

Khanh stepped down Tuesday in the face of widespread student demonstrations. Minh had been figured chief of state until 11 days ago when Khanh proclaimed himself president under a new constitution.

Minh was ousted in the shake-up touching off student charges that Khanh had made himself head of a military dictatorship. A popular Buddhist leader, Minh had directed the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem's government last November.

An officer ordered the shooting be halted when the crowd fell back.

Before today's turn of events, the nation's political fate hung in the balance. Lt. Gen. Khanh and Maj. Gen. Minh were mentioned ahead of Khanh as contenders for the top post.

Anti-Catholic, anti-American and antigovernment rioting began Monday amid mounting protests against Khanh's assumption of the presidency on Aug. 16.

The government for the most part had refrained from direct action against the demonstrators.

Clerk Admits Motel Holdup

Gives Himself Up to Waterford Police

Yesterday afternoon, Andrew E. Macuga, 42, of 4196 Kemp, Waterford Township, a part-time night clerk at the Motel, Lee, walked into the township police station and admitted he was the bandit who held up the motel Sunday morning.

Detective Donald McLaughlin said Macuga had been employed at the motel at 2551 S. Telegraph, Bloomfield Township, for 15 years.

"He apparently became sorry for what he had done," McLaughlin commented.

A warrant charging him with armed robbery was ordered by senior Assistant Prosecutor Jerome K. Barry after taking a statement.

Macuga stood mute at his arraignment and Bloomfield Township Justice Alice Gilbert scheduled a preliminary hearing for Sept. 2. Macuga was then released on $1,000 bond.

GAVE HIMSELF UP

McLaughlin said Macuga gave himself up after getting the advice of an attorney and talking to Leo Hartley, the owner of the motel.

Macuga is employed full-time at Chrysler Corp.

None of the $183 reported stolen in the robbery has been recovered, according to McLaughlin, nor has the weapon which Macuga claims was a water pistol.

For Chronic Illnesses

County Will Offer Free Health Tests

Free health tests to screen for tuberculosis, diabetes, heart disease and other chronic illness will be offered Oakland County residents starting Tuesday, Sept. 2.

The tests will be offered by the Oakland County Department of Health at selected sites throughout the county. The tests will be conducted through Oct. 9.

Dr. Bernard D. Berman, county health director, said that certain diseases can be detected at early stages even in people who appear in good health.

He emphasized that it was much better to recognize and treat a disease in its early stages. However, he added that the health tests were never meant to be a substitute for a complete physical examination.

Dr. Berman said one of the objectives of the testing program

FEW MINUTES
"The combination chest X-ray and blood test only take a few minutes, but those few minutes can be the most important few minutes in your life," commented the health director.

The screening tests are being offered in cooperation with the Oakland County Medical Society and the Michigan Department of Health.

Sites, dates and times for the tests are as follows.

WALLED LAKE: Tom's Furniture & Appliance, 1142 W. Maple, Sept. 9-10, 9-1 p.m. and 2-6 p.m.; Sept. 11 9-1 p.m. and 2-4 p.m.

BIRMINGHAM: City Hall, 151 Martine, Sept. 28, 3-7 p.m.; Sept. 29, 10-3 p.m. and 3-7 p.m.; Sept. 30, 9-11 a.m. and 2-4 p.m.

FARMINGTON: New Farmington Center, Grand River and Farmington Road: Oct. 5, 4-8 p.m.; Oct. 6-7, 10-2 p.m. and 3-7 p.m.

Bobby Baker for Veep, Asks Airborne Signs

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI) — An airplane pulling a streamer proclaiming "Bobby Baker for Vice President" made several passes along the Boardwalk today.

The flights apparently were intended to coincide with the arrival of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, but the First Lady got here about an hour later.

DESBRIES SYSTEM

Nichols described the modern divided highway as "one of the greatest contributions ever made to automotive safety."

He said the interstate highway system has been "the key factor in holding the nation's highway fatality rate at a fairly constant level while miles driven has increased year after year."

More than 2,500 delegates and guests were on hand for the opening session of the four-day AMVETS convention.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk will be the keynote speaker at the National Commander's Banquet Saturday night. A 2 1/2 hour parade will precede the dinner.

Castellucci said the small yacht, which has a five-man crew, hit a rock about 75 yards off shore from Capricott.

"Because the boat began taking water and, listing, those aboard decided to go ashore in rubber lifeboats. No one jumped or fell in the water, and there was no excitement," Castellucci said.

TOWED TO PORT

Castellucci said the amulet was pulled off the rock and towed to port for repairs.

Castellucci said the Amulet ports about the incident were exaggerated. One report said the princess was knocked off the water by the force of the collision and that the Aga Khan dived in to help her. Another said the yachtsmen all jumped into the water when they feared the yacht was sinking.

The princess and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, have been the Aga Khan's guests at his hotel at Cola di Volpe, during a three-week holiday.

Cavanagh Says He May Run for Reelection

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh said Wednesday he may run for a second term as mayor and added he had no intention to seek a job in Washington.

"In Atlantic City to attend the Democratic national convention he told a reporter, 'I am very happy and very satisfied with the job I'm in presently.'"

"We still have another year to go-finishing this term," Cavanagh continued. "All things being equal I might very possibly stand for reelection next year. I don't have any intentions or plans to move elsewhere, particularly not to a job in Washington."

"The 'Olympics' was planned jointly by the hospital's recreational therapy department and the Children's Psychiatry Program staff.

The coordination necessary for sports activities is an example, Cashman said, of the relationship between the mental and physical aspects of the body.

Competition between patients is not the important thing, he added. The individual competing with himself is the key factor.

This may help to motivate them toward improving themselves," Cashman suggested. The hospital staff will keep tabs on each individual, he said.

Dr. Donald W. Martin, hospital medical superintendent, stated that he felt a good physical fitness program for the patients can and does help many of them attain a better mental attitude.
